News Before It Is News

BY ALMA CRAWFORD GRANING

OMINOUS STARS continue to spangle our skies as June begins. I can see little of improvement in the international situation or national affairs, as I study the charts for this month. But there is the profound consolation that creeps into my heart as I see the clouds growing thicker: it cannot last forever and when the final reckoning comes and the clouds are cleared of the heavy planetary pressure which makes this, our time, one of the epochal periods of history, our earth and life will return to normal—but with a new promise, a new glamor and a new prospect of "peace" that passeth understanding.

This June, 1941, will be a month of astounding intrigue. Watch this trend develop from May through June 23 when the last of the tragic Neptunian aspects ends, not to be repeated for several months! Ah, Neptune—wherever you are strengthened in your secretive, peculiar and mysterious trends, there trouble, confusion, treachery and plotting prevail! Such will be the type of energy we see affecting earth and individual affairs this month.

There is one vitally nice thing about the Neptune aspects, however; they always uncover things that are hidden. Crookedness, treachery and intrigue are revealed. The dry bones in Neptune's valley cannot remain concealed even though they, like Quizlings abroad, undermine what we consider strong foundations, if they are at all weak or susceptible to this influence.

The Lunation ruling June occurs on May 26. Its influence will extend until June 24 when a much better trend begins to develop. It occurs at a time when Mercury squares (adverse aspect) Neptune. This is an aspect of misrepresentation, secretive peace overtures, tricky rumors and news, a glossing over of the facts. Neptune is in the 7th house of the U. S. A. June chart which will involve us still further in war or peace conditions abroad. Don't get excited at what you hear or at propaganda set forth this month because things won't be as they seem to be!

Jupiter is leaving Taurus to enter Gemini. It transits across the place of the Lunation between June 13 and 16. Watch this period for very sensational news and developments! That is, if censorship has not bottled up the sources of news information! This will be one of the things to look for, too, during late May and June. . . .

Mars is in Pisces in the 1st house of the national Lunation chart approaching an opposition to Neptune in the 7th. Mars opposition Neptune (occurs on June 23) will produce a state of crisis in this country that is unparalleled. Riots, mobs, a warlike, aggressive attitude of the people will develop while on the other hand, confusion and fears with reports of treachery, double-crossing and bungling, will put the people in an ugly mood.

One of the dreaded developments of June is that of strikes and labor unrest, particularly affecting communications, publications, transportation, motor cars, aviation. These matters will create sensational happenings and conditions.

The opposition to the Administration seems to be very powerful this month but many mistakes will be made, much will be misrepresented, perhaps innocently but nevertheless mistaken, due to the Mercury-Neptune aspects. The opposition will certainly not be popular . . . but a state of civil strife will be weakening to the nation in a time of dire emergency. The United States will be in danger of making serious mistakes and confusing issues, or becoming involved in treacherous intrigue from abroad.

Neighboring nations will cause trouble or be in serious straits.

Aviation, naval and transportation disasters will be numerous, moreso than usual. The June aspects correspond to those that warn of treachery, sabotage, Fifth Column activities and plots that seriously affect national defense and security.

Although June is usually a month of increasing travel, I would recommend that journeys and trips be wisely deferred until after June 23, when this heavy pressure on traffic and transportation lightens.

Serious postal and Treasury troubles will multiply this month. Strikes and labor troubles will be harmful to prosperity and rising salaries. Although 1941, itself, is a year of increasing economic strain and danger, the earning power of the majority of the people should increase. A great deal of uncertainty and discontent will spread now, however.

The evils of foreign propaganda and insidious attempts to undermine American freedom and security will be our chief dangers this month.

Weather conditions will not be good. Heavy property losses, mining disasters and unusual storms will be increasing. People will be in the mood to settle down in the country or in quiet refuges to get away from the quarrelsome, furious disorders that spread. Health conditions through the country are not good during June.

LONDON

London's chart for June places Mars in the 10th house. This is not favorable for the safety of royalty and prominent leaders. Assassinations and deaths accompany such planetary aspects. Particular care should be carefully observed to safeguard those in high positions in the empire. All the planets with the exception of Pluto, Neptune and Mars are in the 12th house of London's chart. Treachery will speak here. Plotting and deep secretive negotiations will be underway. The country will be subject to secretive plots and attacks. Many changes in England's policies will occur this month. It is an adverse time for the country yet it can be victorious if well-laid schemes of mice and men gang aglay!

RUSSIA

Russia seems to step into the war arena with a vengeance now! Pluto is rising on the ascendant, an indication of aggression and striking power that is directed toward the south and east. Russia will not be passive or quiet now for this nation usually jumps into aggressive actions of intrigue and invasion when Mars is in Pisces (the last time Mars was in Pisces, Russia invaded Finland).

Aviation and shipping losses will be heavy. Some tremendous changes in government leadership are foreshown by June stars. Internal strife and discontent, trouble with neighboring nations, will give Russia a bad month. The country will be subject to treachery and trickery in treaties and negotiations with other nations.

BERLIN

Berlin has a bad month. Leaders will probably have the "jitters" with Mars opposing Neptune from the 10th and 4th houses. Mars in the 10th house is adverse for the safety of Berlin which may now be subject to real bombardment from the skies. Neptune's aspect tells of civil strife and unrest in the country. Secretive opposition will be very strong. Hidden plots and concealed peace negotiations will be carried on! Death of outstanding leaders will occur. Nazi powers will be confused, fighting among themselves. Berlin will attempt some powerful ruse to conceal real conditions. Double-crossing always occurs under such aspects. As to whether they emanate from Berlin, Rome or from London is a question, but some war-involved country will be stabbed in the back this month!

A New Trend in world affairs begins this month as Jupiter enters Gemini. The theatre of war seems to be transferred to the Far East, with India and other parts of the Orient coming in for serious troubles and warlike conditions.

Portugal and Spain will be very prominent in the headlines now while Mars is in Pisces. South America will be the scene of civil uprisings, sabotage and conspiracies, further complicating world conditions. Gemini rules the midheaven of Russia, the Caucasus, Arabia and Africa and we can thus expect these parts of the world to be involved in political and war troubles. As Uranus, the disturbing planet of change, has come to the point ruling government, law and order of each European capital, it has fallen. As Uranus comes to 0 Gemini it will strike the cities of Turkey, Egypt, North Africa and Russia. It will be interesting to note the trend of events enveloping these localities and we can at least expect upheavals, collapse of leadership and new governmental developments. The drive of the planets into Gemini will center, in mid-1941, 1942, over Jerusalem—where stupendous changes and new developments of first magnitude will occur.

The battles of June will probably be concentrated on naval forces. Historical sea battles and continuous struggle for the supremacy of the world's ocean lanes will be waged. Tokyo will be unfortunate in her policies. She will be confronted by enmity and opposition that proves very serious. Secretive movements of troops and naval forces can be expected. The element of conspiracy and treachery surrounding the Orient will burst into the open during June, especially so around the 23rd.

China seems to grow more powerful although Fifth Column and conspiracy elements will be dangerous. Treachery will threaten her leaders. The country could be double-crossed in its relations with other powers. Communistic trends will be stronger. India will be a danger-spot with violent war developments. June will test the strength of Singapore and Gibraltar in no uncertain way. The Mars-Neptune aspects of the month are such that revolutions and civil wars will flare around the world, as discontented, suffering people revolt against oppression.

Events seem to reach a climax in late June that definitely decides the war trends of 1941. If any month of the year holds possibilities for peace or armistice, July is that month, as we will note with the New Moon of June 24 and thereafter, when some startling peace-developments could commence. London has a decided advantage with powerful allies and strength in dictating war conditions. Germany will have very peculiar conditions affecting her economy and war strength as the Lunation of June 24 falls in direct opposition to the ascendant. Russia definitely enters actual war conditions due to the heavy Mars afflictions in the house of war of that chart.

THE SUMMER QUARTER

The Summer Quarter of 1941 begins on June 21 as the Sun enters the cardinal, watery sign of Cancer. Unusual planetary aspects existing then paint the picture of things to come as they will develop on the material plane of actuality.

The Pacific Coast is particularly emphasized for this quarter, with Neptune lying directly on the ascendant, opposed by Mars on the descendant. This cross-current of heavy planetary pressure between Mars and Neptune is ominous for seismic shocks, high tides and general atmospheric and earth disturbances. Serious possibility of riots and communistic outrages exists for this part of the country. Things there will be far from peaceful or serene although other planetary positions are favorable for business.

The chart of the U. S. A. for this quarter is peculiar, to say the least. I have seldom seen such planetary groupings for the nation. The Moon, representing the state of the people and general public, is on the cusp of the 8th house, flanked on one side by Saturn which is in the 7th house and Uranus in the 8th house, with Jupiter also there. The Moon with Saturn and Uranus is a sign of heavy-heartedness, public sorrows and national happenings that lower the spirit of the people. Deaths and taxes will bring terrible pressure to our public spirit. It may be that American morale hits a low point during this time.

Epidemics, high mortality and hardships come our way under such aspects. Conditions will be depressed and sorrowful, mainly due to governmental happenings and loss of American leaders! There is extreme danger of war for this nation. A dictatorship aspect is very strong. Civil unrest will grow with much strife existing between different groups and classes of society. Domestic affairs are not favored but our activities abroad should be benefited.

Europe reaches a turning point in the war. Berlin's chart places the Moon with Saturn and Uranus in the 4th house, indicating the termination and ending of many of Germany's activities. The plight of the peoples of Europe will be terrible and sad. Economic difficulties will be worse than ever before. Desperate efforts to reach an armistice and begin the period of reconstruction are strongly shown.

London continues to have powerful victory aspects or peace developments. Royalty will be unfortunate with many aspects warning of deaths affecting the royal house. Social problems will be a heavy burden for England.

The positive elements of June are those of effort, skilled work, service and organization of our affairs so that they function smoothly and perfectly. The Negative Elements that will be so apparent will be those of promoting strife, refusing to work, creating disorder; of reaction to limitations that arouse rebellion and smouldering fires of resentment.

There is not much of optimism to relate for the world in general this month. For the individual, home, family and private affairs can be established on a better, happier plane. A quiet life in which your work, health and personal interests are improved and protected is advised, to help you avoid the quicksands of trouble, unrest and violence that will be lying in wait for the unwary and impetuous who are too active in the outside world.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK FOR JUNE

While confusion caused by national happenings and labor conditions will influence the general business trend, I feel that the Summer Quarter will be brighter in many ways. The month of June, until the 24th, will be one of many adjustments and changes. The upheavals so prominently displayed for May will make this necessary.

Jupiter, entering Gemini after its year's stay in Taurus, will produce a new economic and business trend that reaches its climax in May-June of 1942. Gemini is the sign that is associated with selling, trading, publishing, transportation and communications. Jupiter in Gemini creates a more expansive public attitude and trend of thought. The mind is elevated and creatively stimulated. People will be "on the go", interested in buying, selling and trading.

Inflationary trends are strongly indicated during this May and June. A new economic program will be developing after startling emergencies and changes. Mars is ruler of the financial part of the June chart for this country. It is situated in Pisces, in the 1st house which rules the people and general public. The masses will be in the mood to make money but a great deal of confusion and strife will be reflected in business and financial methods.

Farmers, miners and landowners will be more successful so far as money and prices are concerned, although some very heavy property and crop losses could occur during June.

Big business and capital will be aflutter this month. The ordinary worker and individual can go along, however, with more prospects of financial gain. I would suggest a great deal of caution in all new spending or financial matters, however. The Neptunian conditions of June will absorb many "suckers," more so than usual, in get-rich-quick schemes and dishonest or unreliable propositions.

Publishers, writers, journalists, newspapers, clerks, teachers and government workers will probably be less fortunate this month. Delays in orders and in the securing of supplies will create temporary strain in business. With the 24th and thereafter, the new financial and business developments hold much promise.

The stock market may experience temporary slump-conditions due to public anxiety and concern about foreign situations that will now be so dangerous, as well as about labor. An upturn should begin late in the month to extend into July.

You and Your Finances From the Astrological Point-of-View

BY THE GRANINGS

"He who believes the world owes him a living does not even get busy enough to collect it."

WHEN YOU read this, you will probably be very much concerned about your financial prospects. The intense pressure of numerous planets in the money sign of Taurus cause 1941 to be a most unusual economic type of year. In Your Analysis of 1941 and in the interpretation of your personal horoscope as given in Your Financial Analysis, we endeavor to help you individually with your financial problems. I feel, however, that it is only fair and right that we give you as extensive a survey of your money and business indications according to your birthday as is possible.

While the prosperity and earning power of the masses of people should increase for a while, the general economic security of the world and the nation is very unsure. Conditions beyond our power to control influence the individual finances. What about you and your financial prospects for the year?

ARIES

Born between March 21 and April 20: You are naturally restless and chance-taking. The theme of 1941 centers about your money and financial affairs. Opportunities in work and business should swell your income and increase earning power. On the other hand, old sources of income may be dropped or wane. Your problems will center around making your finances secure. You can experience heavy losses if you strain credit, become too luxury-loving and extravagant. You will want to spend money. Sudden emergencies are indicated for which you should be financially prepared. Speculative and investment ventures outside your regular work or business are ill-advised during the period between April, 1941 and June, 1942. A marked change will affect your financial situation following May of this current year.

TAURUS

Born between April 20 and May 21: You are naturally attuned to money. You want security, comfort and luxuries, if you can afford them. You are not usually inclined to risk what you have for outer display or ostentation unless you have the wherewithal to back you up. It is very difficult for you to adapt yourself to extreme changes or fluctuations of fortune but that is necessary right now, in this very critical phase of your life. Work, duty and responsibility are your present keynotes of success. Old financial interests are terminating. You feel uncertain and insecure about your future prospects. Conservatism in spending is advisable to be prepared for sudden happenings beyond your power to control. Gains from past investments are more promising than from new ventures. A new financial trend begins for Taurus in June that can be very good for increase of salary and income but observe your changing fortunes with a wary eye.

GEMINI

Born between May 21 and June 21: With June of 1941 you will notice a rising tide beginning to swell your fortunes. You will be able to negotiate matters that have thus far been depressing or worrisome. More freedom, ability and magnetism will begin to influence your fortunes for good. You can attract new, better opportunities to make money or increase your income. On the other hand, perilous conditions lie beneath the surface of Gemini affairs that can cause sudden reversals or loss through investments, visionary schemes, impractical propositions. If you spend as much as you take in you will create precarious, undermining trends in your financial affairs that causes loss in 1942. Use common sense and save. Improve and better your personal prospects. Don't neglect your real source of income.

CANCER

Born between June 21 and July 23: You will probably have heavier financial responsibilities this year. Your earning power and income will be affected by the good or ill fortunes of other people. This will probably be very apparent during May! With late June of 1941 you have some unusually good financial indications but your real success begins in mid-1942 when Jupiter enters your own sign of Cancer. You will thus be working toward new trends and new developments. Any speculative programs will be inadvisable. You will be inclined to spend more on social or personal matters. Be very discreet in dealing with friends, scrutinizing all propositions coming from others with forethought to determine their permanent value and promise of security. Opportunities come at favorable times but emergencies and reversals will also threaten through some connections. Somewhat secretive financial matters are indicated. Quiet, steady application to your work and duties will help preserve your security. Outside fliers in activities with which you are unfamiliar must be avoided.

LEO

Born between July 23 and August 23: Your major problems are now revolving around business, credit, your position in life. You are having ups and downs in these interests. Some old-time activities are terminating. A speculative, risky program is very unwise. Adapt yourself to sudden changes or happenings that cause trouble. Maintain a good credit rating at all costs. June commences a new financial trend that can help improve your earning power or income but you may become much more extravagant, especially in social or personal ambitions. If you can stick to your job, not neglecting it for outside activities that entice you, all should be well, but unless you are disciplined, you will not do so. This is no time for extravagance, speculation or new undertakings in which you risk what you have for something visionary and insecure.

VIRGO

Born between August 23 and September 21: Except for you who are born on September 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 Virgo people have exceptionally good financial prospects. Extravagance or undue optimism about your prospects, however, will have to be curtailed. You can attract promotion, popularity and increasing success in business or profession. Too much spending or carelessness about credit or financial security will threaten, however. You who have the above-mentioned birthdays can maintain success in your affairs but you will be too susceptible to fraud, trickery and visionary propositions through which money and security will be undermined. Your best course of action, so far as finances are concerned, is to conserve what you make rather than spend it. You will now begin to want to improve your life in many ways, which will be expensive. Try to keep your ambitions within the scope of your purse!

LIBRA

Born between September 21 and October 23: A marked change should be apparent in your financial and personal affairs as the summer begins. Jupiter's favorable aspects to you can bring more opportunity, freedom to express your ideas and talents and congenial changes that improve your affairs. Other people and their problems, however, seem to still be a responsibility or matter of concern. Insurance, debts, financial partnerships or dealings with others should be carefully handled and protected. Much of your own good fortune seems to be dependent, during this coming year, upon other people in your personal or business connections. Make the most of each good period in order to have money on hand for emergencies. Don't assume new responsibilities unless you have the money to pay for them. You can gain through work.

SCORPIO

Born between October 23 and November 21: As long as Saturn and Uranus oppose your sign of Scorpio you have heavier responsibilities and slower returns. You can work through obstacles and disappointing conditions, however, if you are persevering. Your financial program should remain very conservative in order to avoid loss through other people or through insecure ventures you are more inclined to enter. A middle-of-the-road policy will be wise. Jupiter, with the summer months of 1941, begins to greatly stimulate your ability to gain through other people in work or business opportunities. Cooperative ventures can prove fortunate if you are able to hold up your end of the job. Mars in Aries the remainder of 1941 is stimulating for work and employment. Have a long range view of your financial affairs now and don't consider temporary difficulties as permanent. Work, expect to gain through merit, be adaptable to conditions and you will thus attract your gains and favors.

SAGITTARIUS

Born between November 21 and December 21: Your problems connected with work and health, business and personal prestige should be lessening now. However, you have to exercise much more care during the next year to avoid undue optimism, rising expenditures and extravagances. Your work may be heavier or be interfered with by outside happenings or sickness of others. If you can keep steady you should enjoy a much more prosperous summer and fall. You will be wise to establish security and credit rather than take chances in new ventures that temporarily appeal to you. Your secret aspirations of professional or business success are nearer realization than you may think, if you are practical, hardworking and cooperative. The wasteful tendency in regard to money, time and outside activities will have to be curbed, however. Note this trend which may be almost unnoticeable until it reaches a climax.

CAPRICORN

Born between December 21 and January 21: You have many excellent opportunities for success and financial gains . . . If you keep your feelings controlled and don't let emotional ties or pleasures prove too expensive or take too much attention. You can take advantage of new business or personal opportunities. The tendency to waste or spend too much money in domestic, property or family matters will grow very strong from now on. You can take profits from past investments but should keep a vigilant eye upon expenditures and new financial ventures. Looking ahead, we see tremendous changes developing in your type of work, business and financial interests. Hence, you should be saving money and establishing new security so that you can enter the new era of conditions without strain or temporary set-backs.

AQUARIUS

Born between January 21 and February 19: Your long, difficult road and necessity to combat so many obstacles to happiness and security is almost ended. Persevere and carry on! Don't get on short-cuts to money or recognition for you are now more apt to embrace radical, visionary or speculative matters that undermine your genuine security. Think before you spend. Pleasures, loved ones and personal matters will now begin to grow very expensive. Unreliable speculative or investment propositions are warned of as sources of loss during the coming year. Property and land interests will need to be carefully safeguarded if you want to avoid loss in connection with them. You can gain in work and business, due to the increasing mental activity and inspiration you have in producing new ideas and carrying through with them.

PISCES

Born between February 19 and March 21: Your financial prospects are improving but you are now apt to begin a very expensive or wasteful program that causes loss or trouble. Don't try to settle permanently in any one location or home environment for your life is now subject to sudden changes that keep you unsettled. Home, property and possessions will be more attractive but could be very expensive. Don't permit yourself to live beyond your means for this possibility grows more menacing to your real security. Take advantage of every good tide that increases income and earning power. Make your affairs more secure and stable. Be ready for delays that occur from time to time in matters upon which you depend for gain or success. The coming year is one in which your judgment will be the testing point of your success or failure.

Bill Was Her Man . . .

SUN IN CAPRICORN . . . MOON IN PISCES

BY MITZI NOEE

"IT BEATS ALL," Sandy Garner muttered to nobody in particular, "a fellow like Bill married to a wife that ain't." He stood in the doorway of the transfer shed, watching Bill Brooks shift the big semi into high. From Stanwood to Sterling was Bill's run.

Stanwood gossip left Bill's ears flat. He attended to his own business and expected others to do the same. He liked his job with the transfer company. He liked to watch the big truck eat up a strip of pavement like a huge, hungry wolf devouring a slate gray noodle. Bill was serious like a wolf . . . maybe because of the lonely hours spent in the seat of the cab . . . maybe because of a sense of forever marking time for something.

Milly Nevins stood along the highway that morning. When she saw the truck coming over the hill, she crooked her thumb. Bill smiled at her thumb. He didn't pick up many hitch-hikers. They were mostly a bother. The truck slowed down. Bill could see that this morning's beggar was a young girl. She wore a trim, brown jacket. Her full skirt billowed in the strong morning wind. Red hair, curly and ruffled was unhampered in its tussle with the wind. She wore no hat. The high heels of her slippers looked out of place on the pavement.

"Goin' far?" he hollered over the roar of the idling motor.

"To Spencer. Can you give me a lift?"

Bill opened the cab door and the girl hurried in. They rode awhile in silence. Then Milly ventured, "I'll bet you're a native of the sign Capricorn, born between December twenty-third and January nineteenth. Right?"

"Say, what is this? Born January fifteenth, but how did you know?" Bill studied the girl closely. She set his blood tingling in a new way. Such long eyelashes! The tips were lighter than the rest of the lashes. They looked as if some painter had brushed them with bronze paint. They curled up, too. Bill was fascinated by them.

"I'll tell you some more about yourself, Mr. . . ." she waited.

"Brooks . . . Bill Brooks," he told her.

"You were born around seven in the morning."

"That's right. I got all the folks out of bed early. Mother said so. Are you a fortune teller, Miss . . . ?" he waited.

"Milly Nevins—and I'm not a fortune teller. I've studied astrology and there is no fortune telling about that subject. Your curly hair told me you were born when the planet Mercury was rising. I took a guess as to Mercury being in Capricorn, your sun sign. That makes you born around sunrise. See how simple it is?"

"Simple to you, maybe but not to me." Bill looked at her for a second as he answered. He caught her eye. Her eyelashes looked even longer from a front view. They made half moons above her eyes. The color of the iris in each eye was pale purple of the pansy.

"Here's Spencer. I'll get out by the post office," Milly told him. "What's your year of birth?" Bill told her.

Bill felt lonely as he drove on to Sterling. The trip from Stanwood required an overnight stop in Sterling. He thought of Milly all that evening and on the way back the next day to Stanwood. On his next trip out of the town he looked for Milly along the highway. She wasn't there. But the next trip out he spied her, standing along the highway about where he'd seen her the first time. He picked her up again but as they drew near to Spencer, Milly said, "I want to go on with you, Bill, if you'll let me."

"Sure," Bill agreed.

It was growing dusk when the big truck nosed its way through traffic in Sterling. Neon lights flashed welcomes and blinked to the world that beer was sold here and there. Suddenly it seemed to Bill that beer was sold everywhere.

"Want some beer, Milly?" Milly did. They found a place. It was crowded with men in dirty overalls. Their empty lunch pails decorated the sticky table tops. Bar flies with thirsty tongues sat cross-legged on stools and watched for leads.

Bill found a table in the rear. Milly seemed more real to him in the setting. He watched her closely.

"They're . . . they're beautiful," he stammered.

"O, yes, my eyes." Milly understood. The compliment drooped her lids. Bill laid his hand over hers. She left it there. They looked into each other's eyes and they both knew. It was Milly who spoke first, "Cupid and Fate must work together in this love business, Bill."

"Do you mean what I think you do?" asked Bill.

"You're married, Bill! I'm a Pisces woman. Your Moon is in Pisces. Do you know what that means?"

"It must mean I love you, Milly, for it can't mean anything else. Other men have had divorces, you know."

Pulling into Stanwood the next evening, Bill was anxious to talk with Bette. Bill and Bette had married three years ago. In looking into the past Bill often wondered just what had precipitated the marriage. Each cared for the other in a friendly sort of a way but in the fundamental aspects of marriage, compatibility, real love, understanding and sympathy, they were now miles apart from each other. There seemed to be an ever present tension between them. Bill recalled that Milly had said it was a difference of fire and water, his Moon in Pisces and Bette's Sun in Aries. Bill, in his true Capricorn way, had tried to shoulder his responsibility, to accept his marriage as final; whereas Bette, in her Arian manner, had pioneered her way to other outlets to forget her unhappy home life.

Bill found Bette at home. She was reading as he entered the room. She threw the magazine to the floor as he entered. There was an unfamiliar look in her green eyes as she greeted him.

"Back again! Hungry as usual I suppose?"

"Not a bit. I want to talk with you about us." Bill waited but she said nothing. Instead her lips began to quiver and her eyes filled with tears.

"Bette, what is it?"

"Oh, Bill, it's happened. I can't bear to go through with this." Her voice failed her and she burst into loud, hysterical sobs.

"You don't want a divorce! But I thought we had talked it over many times and each had agreed that it was the only way!"

"Yes, Bill, I want a divorce but it's too late now. I've got to stick. I'll need you till after the baby is born. Do you understand?" She looked at him wild eyed. Bill felt sorry for her. He found himself thinking, "it never rains but it pours."

There was only one thing to do. He must tell Milly and ask her to wait for him. Then he remembered his promise to Milly. They were not to see each other again until the stage was theirs. So he wrote her a letter and waited for her answer. He had advised her to send it to the office of the transfer company. No answer came the first week, the second week. Bill went to her home and found the family had moved out of town. They had gone to Spencer, all but the young girl and she had gone to St. Louis. The present tenants were friends of the Nevins family.

Weeks lengthened into months. In May Bette went to the hospital. Bill was torn between two desires; to see and talk with Milly once again and to see his wife through her ordeal. He hadn't forgotten Milly. But he had tried to erase her memory from his mind. He believed she was lost to him. His duty lay near at hand.

The baby, a tiny little girl, lived only a few hours after birth. Bill tried to comfort Bette.

"Maybe it's better this way, Bette. You'll be freer now."

Bette managed a wan smile. Bill saw only courage in it.

Then one day Bette was granted her divorce. Her name wasn't Brooks any more. She liked Norton better.

Bill packed his clothes. He had made up his mind to find Milly and his first job was to go to Spencer and talk with her mother. He found Mrs. Nevins in a talkative mood.

"Mr. Brooks, are you a relative of Bette Brooks? Milly was well acquainted with a Stanwood girl by that name. I just wondered."

"No relative." Bill told her. Her question set him to thinking. So Milly knew his ex-wife!

THE MYSTERY AND MAGIC OF PRECIOUS GEMS

BY MANLY P. HALL

EVERYTHING in the Universe is in a state of vibration. It is obvious that stones, metals and gems are all rates of vibration. Man is responsive to some small measure to every rate of vibration that exists in space. Therefore he responds to any vibration that is brought close to him. Experiments with various bars of metal, weighing a small part of an ounce, have proven that the laying of one of these bars on the human body will change the heart beat after a few seconds. Certain types of metal will increase the rapidity of the pulse while other types will slow it.

According to the ancients, not only were metals themselves radiating centers of energy but they were also receptive media for the distribution of energy from space, from the planets, stars and Cosmos. These Cosmic rays coming to us must have certain media through which they work and some of these rays apparently contact the physical world principally through stones and metals and are therefore most easily absorbed by the system if the body is brought into continual association with stones and metals. It is quite possible that this fact was known to antiquity and is the reason for their magical and talismanic gems and metallic rings that are found in all ancient mythological systems.

What stone or metal or gem would therefore be of service to us in some particular or important problem?

Possibly the simplest method of considering this matter is not to think in terms of birthstones with which everyone is familiar, but in terms of specific effects which stones are believed capable of producing. After all, many people have fundamental problems that lie outside the simple theory of the birth month and its stone rulership. We find that many people have problems involving such things as vitality, harmony, optimism, pessimism. We have such problems as self-control or self-discipline. We have people who have problems such as bad memories, others who have bad stomachs. In fact, almost everyone has something which they have to work out or something in which they fall short. We don't want to advance the idea that you can rub on a birthstone as a panacea for all the ills to which the flesh is heir but we do realize that we use medications to supply necessary elements to the body so that Nature may accomplish its work. If we can in any way increase the energy supply necessary for the particular things we desire to accomplish we may achieve a greater, specific result in that particular department of life.

As long as we must eat to live it is obvious that we must derive a certain amount of nutriment from forces external to ourselves. Anything that is nutritive to man is justifiable that he may survive to accomplish the greater works which Nature expects from him. All Nature is conspiring to push man forward. The great heresy is not that man shall accept these sacrifices but in accepting them, he afterwards perverts the energy he receives, using for destructive purpose the life which the Universe is sacrificing that he may live. Thus the right use of energy is the justification of possessing it.

For instance, if a person is suffering from depletion of vitality, Paracelsus would advise a small disc of gold be worn or carried upon the person. Of course, a great many people would be greatly revitalized if they had an adequate supply of these discs but in the absence of the supply of them a small amount of gold worn upon the person is regarded as necessary to increase vitality. With gold is also associated the diamond and yellow sapphire, the wearing of which is regarded as a means of increasing the vitality.

For the person who is constantly nervous, tense and strained, who develops nervous indigestion as the result, copper is usually indicated. Likewise emeralds, green tourmaline and a number of green quartzes which can easily be distinguished by the expert lapidary.

For the person who has difficulty in sleeping, an irregular appetite or who is suffering from what might be termed any general glandular unbalance, silver is very important because of its control over the pituitary body. Silver is recommended as are also smoking stones such as agates, moonstones and star sapphires, all stones that have luster such as those with a peculiar blackness which carries light with it just as jet or obsidian. People making sacrifices in Central America used obsidian knives to kill the sacrifice in the full of the Moon, recognizing the relationship between obsidian and the Moon. Throughout the Americas, there was the worship of the obsidian knife.

If the individual is suffering from lack of memory, difficulty in coordinating thoughts, then the opaque stones such as turquoise, the agate, bloodstone are good. This also includes jade and almost any stone that does not derive its significance from its transparency but rather from a luminosity or reflective power. We also find that any alloy containing a considerable amount of zinc, tin, lead and mercury compounded is important for those who have poor memories.

If one finds himself subject to depression, subject to melancholy, it is important he keep himself in contact with tin. Tin is good while aluminum is bad. In connection with tin, we may have combinations such as tin and silver, tin and zinc, tin and copper or the various alloys including nickel and pewter that include lead but tin should predominate. Strangely enough, wherever you have tin as the required element, you have a non-precious stone as its associate.

Most people under strong influences of Jupiter are better off if they do not use precious stones but have non-precious stones possessing some intrinsic value as, for instance, the use of cameos, scarabs, inscribed gems of antiquity not in themselves precious and stones the value of which is in their carving or antiquity and beauty of workmanship.

He who is naturally overly optimistic, who is always over-stepping himself and getting into difficulties because of poor restraint needs the conservative influence of such metals as dominate in weight, such as lead. A small piece of lead in the pocket not only holds down the pocket but weighs down the spirit. It helps keep the person in proper relationship to his environment, just as the sinker on the fish line keeps it from floating away. In association with lead, jewelry should be simple. Stones are seldom used in connection with any problem involving required substantialness, all over-optimism being balanced by conservative influences and force. These people flourish best in simple adornment, of jewelry consisting of metals without stones, as plain or engraved silver or platinum.

If your problem lies in inability to get along with other people or in mingling pleasantly with others, you should find stones of the shape and appearance of pearls, the real or cultured, a very valuable aid. The same is true in clothing that is luminous for people who suffer from extreme shyness or stage fright. These are encouraging in the problems of contact.

If you are finding difficulty in making contacts for employment and things of that nature, it has been found that a small amount of adornment is suitable. Nothing is more likely to cost a person a job or prevent him getting one than the fact he may be wearing adornment superior to that of the person he is approaching for employment. No man will employ a superior in an inferior position. No employer will consciously employ a man who knows more than he does. As adornment becomes the symbol of prestige, the presence of it destroys the probabilities of employment. This is merely a psychological fact.

If you go into a man's office wearing a two carat diamond while he has a one carat diamond, you will not sell yourself to him. Even if your diamond is paste, he will believe it is real. No man wishes to hire a master but all men wish to hire slaves. Anything that becomes a symbol of superiority must be modified until it permits the individual from whom you seek the favor to feel that his superiority is assured. This has often been proven from a psychological standpoint.

The civilized human, advancing toward a high social state, advances on a crooked, twisted path of advancement and decline. In all periods of advancement, adornment strongly declines. In periods of decline, adornment increases. Decadance and adornment go together. The person who is constantly decking himself out to resemble a Christmas tree is the individual suffering from a serious inferiority complex. The king requires the golden crown because he recognizes his own humanity and his inability to live up to the power that is vested in his symbol. He has to have some visible thing to make himself bigger than another or he could neither rule successfully or accept the ovation of others.

Where we feel that we are sufficient to our environment, adornment declines.

This is particularly obvious in the gradual change of the social status between the sexes. At the time when woman felt herself to be held back by a masculine world psychology, her adornment increased tremendously. As she now emerges as a free social agent, with the power of the ballot, of determining values, her interest in adornment is gradually decreasing. As matriarchy emerges and grows more dominant, man is beginning to doubt his supremacy in the social system. He is commencing to come out in purple shirts, green and red striped socks and in other raiment, proving the fact that he feels his superiority is slipping. Therefore, strength is almost always unadorned.

Fear is always decked out. We find that people who have very little in themselves usually wear everything they own while people who are sufficient in themselves do not.

The therapeutic value in stones and metals lies not in the obvious possession of them but in their vibratory rates which does not require that they even be visible. Kept in a pocket or worn somewhere on the person unseen, they continue to produce their own therapeutic therapy. All adornment ends in therapeutics even as practically all the social structure we know today will ultimately end in the part they contribute to the essential progress of human character.

Our economic system will eventually end by merely being sufficient to supply man with the instrument of survival. Possessions will ultimately decrease until man possesses only that which is necessary for his perfect survival. Adornment will never cease until man is adorned only in those things that are necessary. As man emerges spiritually, he will no longer feel inferiority and will not feel the need of building up his personality by artificial means. For this reason, we find monastic orders simplify life, recognizing only internal wealth, character and principle.

Jewels, stones, metals, amulets and talismans are symbolical. They are symbolical of centers of trans-substantial luminosity which exist in the inner nature of man. Jewels are the Chakras or solar centers and magnetic fields that exist in the body. Viewed clairvoyantly, man's superphysical nature is spangled with jewels radiating light like stars upon the dark field of the night. These jewel-like things, radiating from all the vital centers of the body, appear, when seen by spiritual perception, like a magnificent crown of jewels.

The wearing of jewels by the priesthood and those who performed the sacred services, was a symbol in each case that these jewels were the visible shadows of the invisible soul powers that shine like precious stones in the subjective nature of the individual.

These are the jewels of the crown, the treasures that are stored up in Heaven where neither thieves or time can destroy. The jewels in ancient religious ceremonials, like the vestments, were the emblem of invisible virtues and the jewels selected to represent each of the various offices of worship and ritualism were selected because of their physical, earthy equivalent of the peculiar spiritual thing it represented. Gradually the symbolism of the stones was lost and they came to be regarded as sacred in their own right. But their sanctity lies in the fact that they are the crystallized symbols, the crystallized extension, of soul powers that as surely as the diamond is put into the earth so the world is in man and every moral virtue that exists in the soul has a certain vibratory rate that corresponds to one of the precious elements that exist within the earth.

The Man In the Moon

By C. A. DE LIMA

IT WAS a sultry day so I decided to close up the Studio and go to the seashore for the weekend. There, seated on the porch of the delightful little inn I had chosen for its seclusion and restfulness, I started a conversation with another guest, a portly, well dressed gentleman sitting next to me. We viewed the nearly full Moon rising over the horizon.

"Beautiful Moon," I remarked.

"What's beautiful about it?" he asked.

"Apparently you don't like the Moon," I lazily countered.

"No—wish the heck when it goes away it will disappear for all times," said my friend angrily.

"Sorry," I replied. "Just a chance remark you know. Had no idea the old Moon ever disturbed anyone that much. What's the trouble, if you don't think me inquisitive?"

"Well," he said, "its like this. Ever heard of a person becoming moonstruck?"

"Sure—and so what?" I replied.

"Well, my wife became moonstruck the other day. She is pretty, younger than I am, but gosh knows, I try to keep her happy. I've got money. I'm a politician. Perhaps you've heard of me. My name's Charles Lansing. Built the wife a swell home when we married. That was what she wanted. We have a nice little girl, just six. Perhaps you have seen her playing around. There she is romping over there. But my wife ain't happy."

"Go on," I said, rocking back and forth in my chair, listening but watching the Moon rise higher and higher in the heavens.

"Well, as I was saying," continued my friend, "the wife got mad at me, said she was fed up because I didn't pay enough attention to her or the baby, so she comes up here with the kid."

"Then what happened?" I inquired dreamily.

"That's what I am trying to tell you. She comes on up here and starts flirting with some traveling salesman, so I'm told, and the two were reported seen kissing and embracing each other in the moonlight down there on the beach."

"Moonstruck, eh?" I asked.

"More than that. I don't mind a bit of flirting, even do it a bit myself sometimes, but there's a limit. So I hustled up here, told the wife what I had heard and up she goes in the air and leaves in a huff. Said I was a beast. Said all I had heard was a wretched lie and that she was going home to her mother. Said that Annie, that's the name of our youngster, could stay with me until the courts decided who would have custody of her."

"A divorce in the making and all because of the Moon," I lazily remarked.

"Yes, I guess that's it," replied my friend gloomily. "But you know I love my wife. I'm certain she loves me too. I'm willing to forget the whole matter and call it quits. I'll do anything to make her happy again. Wish I knew some way to get out of this mess."

"When did all this ruckus start?" I asked.

"A couple of weeks ago," he answered. "In fact I got the story about her behavior down on the beach, Tuesday the 9th, to be exact."

"Oh, hmm," I droned sleepily and reached over to a table where my ephemeris lay. Checking through it, I found what I was looking for and said:

"Wife was born during July perhaps, maybe having a birthday soon. Is that right?"

"Sure," came the ready rejoinder, "but how do you know and what has all that to do with the case?"

"Nothing much, I guess," I replied. "Just asking idle questions to pass the time. But tell me something else. Suppose your pretty and maybe plump little wife did flirt, did try to get a bit of that affection and attention which you as a busy politician denied her, what of it? Then again, why should she say that you accused her wrongly? Hasn't it occurred to you that some one might have been trying to do you wrong—or to do you dirt, to use an expression? It wouldn't be the first time that a politician gets a taste of his own medicine. Some political enemies are not often very choosy about their methods if they are out to victimize a chap. Who knows but that the whole story was cooked up merely to create a scandal to prevent you running for the legislature again. In fact, my dear fellow, I judge you were born during November of some year and, as a consequence, you are too suspicious and too proud to admit a mistake. You have fallen for a cheap bit of trickery."

By this time my friend was sitting upright and gazing at me in wonderment.

"Who are you? How do you know these things? What makes you think it was a trick? How did you know that my birthday falls in November and my wife's in July? What have birthdays to do with it all? What are you driving at?" His questions fell in a torrent from his lips.

"Just a bit of speculation on my part," I lazily remarked. "You see, I am an astrologer. From all what you have told me, I judged your wife to be a native of Cancer or one of those born during the latter days of June or the better part of July of any year. They are extremely sensitive folk. They require much attention, also much affection. The Moon plays an important part in their lives. It makes them changeful. You, I judged from your general appearance, speech and mannerisms as a native of Scorpio. Of course you are jealous but reserved and hardworking. You take too much for granted, insofar as bestowing affection and all the little things a woman likes and wants, especially a woman like your wife."

"You're right," he exclaimed, "but what makes you think I accused my wife wrongly?"

"You see that Moon up there?" I asked drowsily.

"Sure," came the reply. "What about it?"

"Well, it was shining brightly now but it was not the night your wife was supposed to be philandering down on the beach. No one could have possibly seen her or anyone else by moonlight down there. There was no Moon."

"What?" said my friend excitedly. "Gosh, you're right," he added as I showed him my ephemeris and explained how there had been no Moon at that time. "I understand it now. It was all a trick. I've a hunch who did it. I'm going to phone the wife long distance and apologize. Gosh you don't know what you've done for us all."

He was off. He came back all smiles. The wife was coming back. Everything had been satisfactorily explained.

The next evening I saw them all happily together. The little girl jumped on my knee and begged me to tell her a story about the Man in the Moon. I did and as I did the old Moon appeared from behind a cloud. I don't believe in fairy stories but I'll swear that the Man in the Moon smiled down upon us all.

Is There a Lost Continent?

BY DENIS WHEATLEY

(From Prediction Magazine)

HAD IT NOT been for the burning of that vast reservoir of ancient knowledge, the library at Alexandria, in which millions of irreplicable papyri were destroyed, it is possible that numerous accounts of a lost continent would have come down to us.

As it is, the principal written evidence for the one-time existence of the lost continent of Atlantis is based on an account by Plato. He lived in Greece during the 4th Century B. C. and received his particulars via his compatriot Solon who had travelled to Egypt half a century earlier.

Solon is reported to have questioned an Egyptian priest of Sais in his search for wisdom and the priest replied, "Oh, Solon, Solon, you Greeks are but children . . . in mind you are all young; there is no old opinion handed down among you by ancient tradition or science which is hoary with age." (Meaning that at that time, the Greeks were a young race).

The priest then went on to say that the reason for this was that there had been many partial destructions of mankind, both by fire and flood, which had wiped out whole races and their histories with them, leaving nothing to prove that they ever existed except vague legends among the distant people who had escaped these calamities.

He instanced the story of Phaeton who, unable to manage the steeds of his father's chariot, the Sun, was said to have burnt up all that was upon the earth. He explained that this Greek myth was really a memory of a distant time when a declination of the bodies moving around the earth and in the heavens had caused a great conflagration.

He then proceeded to give Solon an account of the last great natural upheaval which had decimated a large portion of the human race, the Atlantians, 9,000 years before, together with particulars of their country and great civilization; and it is these which Plato recorded for us in a most detailed manner.

A COMMON ORIGIN

Support is given to Plato's story by the striking similarity of religions, social customs and architecture of the peoples living on opposite sides of the Atlantic. Central America and the Mediterranean bases are separated by 3,500 miles of ocean, yet the cultures of Egypt and Peru, Phoenicia and Mexico are so extremely similar that it seems impossible to doubt that they had a common origin. Yet all traces of the great people from whom they derived their civilizations have vanished from the earth.

To cite one hundredth part of the geological, botanical and ethnological evidence for the one-time existence of this first great civilization in a now vanished Island Continent is quite impossible. But as an instance, I will mention one definite link.

All writing originated in picture drawings left by primitive people who were on the march from one territory to another, so that the other portion of their tribe, which was following, might learn from their markings on stones and trees the direction they had taken and the good or ill fortune they had encountered.

The time came when some long-forgotten genius conceived the possibility of utilizing symbols to convey sound instead of ideas. The alphabets of all European languages are derived from the Phoenician which up to about 400 years ago was the only known archaic writing in the world, based on sound and not picture drawing, but the letters of a phonetic alphabet. More, it has now been proven beyond question that the sixteen letters of these two alphabets are derived from the same original source.

A SYNONYM FOR DEATH

Race memory dies hard. The American Indians believe the gods inhabited an island in the open sea to the East: they welcomed Cortes and his Spaniards as gods come to them from this ocean Paradise; whereas the Mediterranean peoples believed the Island of the Blessed to be in the great ocean to the West. Even today "to go west" is still a European synonym for death!

Both peoples, too, were pyramid builders. It is a little known fact that the base of the great pyramid of Choula in Central America covers 45 acres of land compared to the 12 acres covered by the great pyramid of Cheops in Egypt.

If such huge structures, so far unsurpassed in bulk and durability by modern engineering, could be built by two peoples having the remnants of the knowledge of the great race from which they originally sprang, how vast must have been the pyramids of Atlantis.

A few years ago the American scientist, Dr. William Beebe, constructed a bathysphere in which he accomplished the remarkable feat of descending half a mile below the surface of the ocean. Now that this means of resistance to enormous water pressure has become a practical possibility, it is certainly only a matter of time before man will explore the whole of the ocean bed down to its deepest pocket.

Anyone who has seen the great pyramids in Egypt will agree that they might be cracked and broken by an earthquake but it is impossible to believe they could be totally destroyed by any cataclysm. They are, moreover, so vast and solid that even the erosion caused by 11,000 years of water currents could not have worn them away to nothing.

It is, therefore, well within the bounds of possibility that great man-made mountains of stone lying on the bed of the Atlantic Ocean may yet be identified by scientists before the close of the present century, as pyramids, and prove once and for all the existence of lost Atlantis.

DO YOU GET OUT of bed on the wrong side some mornings? Or, on others, spring out to meet your day with vigor, optimism and enterprise? Do you find that some things you start lag and are slow to develop, while others materialize very quickly? Do you have some days where brilliant or skillful work can be done but on other days you just can't get things accomplished?

It all depends on the Moon! This fickle, fast moving lunar lady of our skies has more to do with you and your affairs than you may realize. From the human point of view you can plan your life so that you work with its energy rather than against it.

Everyone knows about planting in the phases of the Moon. Things that grow above the ground are supposed to be planted immediately after the New Moon so that they get a quicker start for that is what the two weeks following the New Moon of each month indicate. The writer recently had cause to plan a new lawn. Despite the jeers of the gardener, the lawn was planted three days following the New Moon. While many other lawns in the vicinity were also planted during the spring, there is none that has caused more pleased comment and congratulations than hers. Not a question of luck and hardly a question of gardening ability—just give nature a break and she will work for you.

The New Moon of each month occurs when the Sun and Moon meet in the same degree and sign. For instance, the New Moon of June, 1941 falls in 2 degrees of Cancer, on June 24. The following two weeks until the Full Moon in July will stimulate activity. The Full Moon of June occurs on June 9 after which things may lag until the New Moon again generates energy to the earth.

You should never start a new venture when the Moon is old, or when it is approaching the time of the New Moon. It takes too long for them to materialize, if they ever do. That is a time to harvest or finish what you have been doing, to be ready for a new start a few days after the New Moon. If things have to be undertaken between the time of the Full Moon and succeeding New Moon, plan to observe more care, patience and perseverance to pull them through.

You will probably find yourself tense, nervous, irritable and jittery right around the time of the New Moon, say for approximately 48 hours or so. You are leaving old energy behind and have not yet gotten the full, growing force of the new. This is a good period for quiet work, health building, outside exercise, routine tasks. You feel low, blue, devitalized.

Energy, pep, ambition, ability and the pace of events gradually accelerate about two days after the time of each New Moon, going ahead more speedily until the Full Moon. You always experience a great deal more of excitement and tension during the Full Moon. It is usually a more hectic time when things build up and perhaps become too much for you to quietly handle.

Few of us can accomplish genuinely good results at the Full Moon. The personality and personal self gets in the way of clear-headedness. It is far less easy to concentrate or stick to one thing. So many things come up that distract your attention. Things that have been breeding and cultivating prior to this period suddenly come to the surface.

It is interesting to note that attendants in mental institutions claim their patients are harder to handle, that insanity rises to a peak, at the Full Moon. The emotions rise to the surface at this time of the month, taking control of reason and intuition. The nervous system is intensified by powerful tides of energy.

You will find yourself more easily distracted and excited at the Full Moon. It is here that you can make your mistakes or get into trouble. Any questionable habits or characteristics jump to the fore and are more likely to burst through your self-control or restraint. We are not at our best and must therefore be more discreet.

It is said, after years of scientific research on the question, that department store and other merchandising sales always reach the high of the month or are far better at the time of the Full Moon. This is when people go out, responding to the urge to buy, accumulate, possess and do things.

Things slow down as the Moon wanes and the last quarter is in operation. They are less active. Physical vitality and energy are lessened, reaching a low ebb that precedes the rising tides occurring with the New and Full Moon. More perseverance has to be provided to carry through with your tasks. It is a time to finish up things and get everything in order for a new start for the following month. More persistence has to be furnished to terminate your work and get things done.

It is extremely interesting to note and study the lunar aspects during the month. Everything seems to go wrong and one's personality, feelings and nerves are always affected for good or ill when the Moon is forming aspects to Venus, Mercury, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune or Pluto. To Mercury, it activates mental energy that can either be conducive to good results in your work, correspondence, trips and buying, or if the aspect is adverse, inclines to nervousness, talkativeness and indiscretions.

To Venus, the aspects are stirring to the feelings, love nature, desires. One is restless and dissatisfied unless everything in life is beautiful and compatible. Indiscretions in appetite and pleasures usually coincide with this aspect.

Moon forming aspects to Jupiter are good for attraction of favors, goodwill and recognition if favorable; if adverse, discretion and good judgment are impaired. One is more impulsive and reckless, letting the desires and ambitions take control with poor results.

In aspect to Saturn, the Moon is stabilizing and conservative when favorable, bitter, jealous, suspicious and depressing if the aspect is adverse. Delays and disappointments are encountered. Such a day is always one for quiet perseverance and patience for the outlook is downcast and sad.

To Uranus, the aspects of the Moon are exciting. The favorable aspects stir the imagination and create sudden happenings that offer opportunity. The adverse aspects cause everything to go wrong and become confused. Nothing turns out like you have expected. Things are fluctuative and explosive.

The element of secrecy, trickery and deceit is produced by the lunar aspects to Neptune.

Crimes and underhanded conditions multiply. The utmost care must then be observed in eating and drinking, in work, in dealing with others to avoid confusion or mistakes.

In aspect to Mars, the Moon gives energy and increasing vigor when favorable. The adverse aspects are irritating and quarrelsome. Too much impulse and daring come to the surface so that inharmonious conditions are easily stirred into action.

In aspect to Pluto, the feelings are explosive, intense and strong. A good deal of trouble with emotional ties and personal enjoyment develops.

The Bible

This series of articles began in the April, 1941 issue and will continue to appear in each ensuing issue of ASTRO-DIGEST for some time. They are brought to you with the earnest hope that more understanding and comprehensive appreciation of the majestic qualities, truths and mission of THE BIBLE may be reached by all who read.

WHY WE HAVE the Four Gospels and not simply one or two is evident from the design of each Gospel. They were written for different classes, hence their characteristics are entirely different. Matthew's Gospel would not answer the purposes of the other Gospels just as they would not meet the needs of that of Matthew. It is important that they be studied and understood from the view-point of their characteristics.

Matthew was the son of Alphaeus. He was a collector of customs under the Roman government. He became one of the apostles. His work brought him into close dealings with men and he was not easily duped or deceived. None of the other apostles quote so much from the Old Testament. The Gospel of Matthew was written for the Jews. He sets forth the promise of the Messiah and the Sermon on The Mount shows the relation in which he stood to the Covenant. In writing for the Jew to establish the Messianic claims of Jesus we can understand why Matthew should give the royal and covenant descent of the Lord by tracing his geneology to David and Abraham while Luke, whose work was entirely different, traced it to Seth and Adam, to make Jesus a man of all nations.

Mark is the Second Gospel. It was written by the apostle Mark who was called both John and Mark (his Roman surname was Marcus). The disciples customarily met in the home of Mary, Mark's mother in Jerusalem. Mark was a convert from Judaism. Mark, years later in his life, was a companion of the apostle Paul. Mark and Peter were closely connected, whose secretary Mark was.

In Mark's Gospel he writes to the Gentiles, not the Jews, for when he refers to Jewish customs he explains them. Mark sets forth the works of Jesus rather than His discourses.

He tells of Christ's power over nature, his miracles and healings more graphically than do the other gospels. Mark shows Jesus as a man, a leader, a conqueror, while Matthew reveals him as the Messiah, fulfilling the law and the prophets.

Luke, writer of the 3rd Gospel, was a physician. He was not of Jewish descent, according to Paul. He accompanied Paul on his missionary trips and was with him in imprisonment in Rome. Luke might be termed the "historian" of Christ and his life, for he gives a more complete record of the birth, infancy and childhood of Jesus, telling us that these accounts had been investigated and proven by his search of eye-witnesses. Luke set forth the life and work of Jesus for the Greek, just as Matthew told it for the Jew, and Mark reviewed it for the Roman.

John was a Galilean fisherman. He wrote the 4th Gospel, the three epistles of John and the book of Revelation. He is one of the mysterious figures of the Bible. Jesus was greatly attached to this disciple who was with the Lord at the Mount of Transfiguration and Gethsemane. Jesus committed his mother to John at the Crucifixion. John was banished by the Romans to a barren island in the Aegean Sea where he wrote his remarkable vision of Revelation.

John does not write for the Jew, Roman or Greek in the 4th Gospel. He writes of Christ, as the light of the world, the way, the truth and the life, the bread of life, the good shepherd, the vine, the resurrection. He alone tells of the conversation between Jesus and Nicodemus or the woman of Samaria, or Jesus' great intercessory prayer. He writes of Jesus as the Divine Word, emphasizing his divine deity, while the others write of Jesus as the man in his life's work. He writes to the church.

Acts of the Apostles is the last of the historical books of the New Testament. Luke was its author. Accompanying Paul to Rome, he concludes the book with the account of Paul a prisoner. The document falls into two sections; from Pentecost to the work of Paul. In the first section of the book Peter and Jerusalem are the central figures. In the second section, Paul and Antioch take the limelight.

Epistle to the Romans was written by Paul to the Romans, sent to Rome by a woman of Corinth where it was written. In it Paul teaches that the world is under sin and condemnation, that all have sinned and that salvation lies in Christ, in justification by faith, the world under grace.

Epistle to the Corinthians was written by Paul at Ephesus. He was moved to write this epistle by the bigotry of the Jews and worldliness of the Gentiles in the Corinthian Church where disorders and dissension reigned. The church was split and Paul sought to bring order and harmony to them.

He had to teach them the answers to their arguments and beliefs about marriage, eating of meat, the Lord's Supper, the resurrection. To those aspiring after certain gifts of the spirit he points out what is far greater, the pre-eminence of love in which they seemed to be lacking. He writes of the need for Unity in the Church which was threatened by dissenting beliefs and interpretations of the gospel. He wrote that Unity was the cross of Christ. There might be many workers but only one foundation.

II Epistle to the Corinthians was written by Paul. Paul had been in Ephesus and had created a great disturbance by his preaching against the business of making shrines to the goddess Diana. In the Church at Corinth, leaders disputed Paul's apostolic authority and in this epistle, he sets forth his claims as an apostle of Jesus Christ. He writes of the duty of Christian giving and relates the credentials of a true apostle.

Epistle to the Galatians was a circular letter addressed to the churches of Galacia. They were Gauls or Celts who had settled in Asia Minor where Paul had established churches. Judaizing teachers contended that the Gentile believers should submit to certain forms of Jewish legalism. The Gentile believers were being alienated from the church. He establishes the doctrine of justification by faith.

Epistle to the Ephesians was written to the Church in Ephesus which was the city that was celebrated for its temple dedicated to Diana. This was one of the seven wonders of the world. Paul wrote this epistle when imprisoned in Rome. It is not written to correct doctrinal errors as are some of the other epistles, but written to confirm the church in its spiritual unity as the body of Christ, having the whole armor of God. It outlines the doctrines of Christianity, speaks of many spiritual gifts all blended into one service, emphasizes a great vision of the love of Christ.

Epistle to the Philippians was written to the Church of Philippi had been taken and named for himself by Philip of Macedon. Philippi was the scene of the great battle in B. C. 42 in which the Roman republic was overthrown. The Gospel was first preached in Europe in this city. Paul and Silas had the unusual experience of converting their jailer here. Paul founded the Church at Philippi. Epistle to the Philippians was one of the four letters written by Paul during his imprisonment in Rome. In this epistle there is no censure for he commends the Christians in Philippi. In it he illustrates and explains the humility of Christ as our example, inspires them to lose all for Christ and press toward the mark for the prize. He extolls the things that are of the spirit, things that are true, honest, pure and lovely.

Epistle to the Colossians was another of the letters of Paul's imprisonment. The spiritual life of the Church at Colosse in Asia Minor was being endangered by the Gnostic philosophy of that time. The Gnostics held that matter was evil while God was good. The creation of matter was accounted for by some other power than that of God whom they could not conceive as creating evil. Interested in Christianity, they brought their philosophies into the Church. It was difficult for them to believe that Christ could be human and live an earthly life and yet be Deity. Paul's Epistle to the Colossians sets forth the supreme Headship of Christ in creation and the work of grace. There is no intervening creative power between Jesus and God but Jesus is the express image of God, that it was He who was creator of all things, sustaining them by his essential presence. Exhibiting the Godhead in bodily form, he is above all principalities and powers. He is both human and divine, the Lord and Saviour of mankind. The Epistle falls in two parts: The characteristics of the true believer, the believer's action in dealing with vain traditions and worldliness for if rooted in Christ they will not be led astray.

I Epistle to the Thessalonians was written at Corinth. Thessalonica was named by Cassander in honor of his wife, sister of Alexander the Great. It is now called Saloniki. Here Paul preached to the Jews in their synagogue on the death and resurrection of Jesus, incessing them. Paul's preaching bore fruit, however, and a great many believers consisting of Jews and Greeks flocked into the Church. Timothy remained here to preach while Paul went on to Athens. Paul had instructed these people on the Second Coming of Christ. They had the fixed impression that this was to be very soon. Many thus ceased to work but awaited the Coming of Christ. When Paul learned of the confusion on the doctrine of the Time of the Second Coming he corrected their mistaken idea in this Epistle. He teaches that the time is not known but that when the event does occur those who are asleep in Christ will first be raised from the dead and those living will be changed, with both the living and the resurrected meeting Christ in the air. This Epistle thus gives the most explicit instruction of this great subject. At the ending of each chapter, reference is made to the Lord's return.

II Epistle to the Thessalonians deals with the same matters about which this Church was confused. Further confusion had arisen by a forged letter bearing Paul's name which declared that Christ would soon appear. Paul warns them about spurious epistles and deals more pointedly with the time of Christ's coming. He declares that prior to this event there will be great apostasy and the advent of the man of sin or the Antichrist. Paul also explains the duty of the Church in preparing for the Second Coming.

I Epistle to Timothy was written shortly before Paul's death. Timothy was the beloved disciple of Paul, his companion on many of his missionary journeys. Timothy's father was a Greek, his mother a Jewess. Timothy had been carefully instructed on the subjects of the Old Testament by his mother and was in charge of the Church at Ephesus. Paul's labors in Ephesus had made so many converts that the business of making shrines of the goddess Diana was greatly damaged. Ephesus was the seat of the pagan superstitions and this Epistle to Timothy is Paul's instruction and admonition to the young leader left in this Church.

II Epistle to Timothy was written from Rome. False teachers had been trying to undermine the principles of Christianity. In A.D. 64 half of Rome was destroyed by fire and the Christians had been accused of this act. Martyrdom of the Christian Sect was started by Nero who had this pretense of persecuting them. Under Nero, who had murdered his own mother, Paul was imprisoned and sentenced to death. Realizing that his end was near, Paul again writes to Timothy. He is sustained by unswerving faith and is looking forward to the crown awaiting him. He writes that "death is swallowed up in victory" and calmly awaits his demise. At his death "his friends" carried the headless corpse to the catacombs beneath Rome and there, in some unknown vault, rests the body of the greatest of the apostles.

Epistle to Titus was sent to this disciple of Paul. Little is known about Titus but that he was with Paul and Barnabas at the Council at Jerusalem when they were sent there as commissioners from the Church at Antioch. When the Judaizing sect tried to carry their point and insisted that Titus receive the Jewish seal of the covenant, Paul insisted that this would be compromising a principle. Paul placed Titus in charge of the church on the island of Crete which was noted for its corruption. Paul's instructions to Titus are similar to those written to Timothy for both had to contend with similar conditions in their Churches and communities. Titus must sustain the principles of Christianity in opposition to false teachers.

Epistle to Philemon was written to an individual and not to a Church. It was one of the four letters of Paul's imprisonment in Rome. Philemon was a member of the Church at Colosse. His slave, Onesimus, carried this epistle from Paul to Philemon. Onesimus had committed some crime and fled from his master. He came to Rome and was converted by Paul's teachings. Paul advises him to return to Philemon and this letter is his appeal to the master to receive him kindly. He commends the slave to Philemon as a Christian brother and gives his security for any loss Philemon might sustain. This letter is a masterpiece of Christian courtesy and intercession. It falls into three parts . . . the personal element of Paul's tact in addressing Philemon on a delicate matter; the new Onesimus, his changed life, the basis for Paul's appeal; intercession for Onesimus and his honesty guaranteed. Paul here expresses his belief that Philemon will exceed his petition in behalf of Onesimus.

YOUR RELATIONSHIP TO OTHERS

HUMAN relationships are very important factors in the search for happiness. There are some contacts and associations that are antagonistic and repellant. You can't get along harmoniously with those people. Others attract and hold you. Some ties are formed that bring you responsibility and hardships. Others are made in which you find gaiety and lightheartedness.

What is this strange, unseen, unfelt but nevertheless potent thing that emanates between different personalities and characters? It is energy! Astrology can help you understand your relationship to other people for the positions of your planets to those of another person have a remarkable story to reveal.

For instance, why do you feel and react as you do to people born in your own birth-sign, close to your own birthdate? Their Sun is closely related to your own Sun position. And this is what happens:

You either champion and help these people or feel no sympathy whatever for them! You can see their mistakes but may not realize that those are also your mistakes or failings. You are both apt to fail in the same emergencies or circumstances. There is little novelty or surprise in this relationship. You often feel that you are carrying their troubles and problems. You are both inclined to want to correct and advise each other. You will often be induced to take them under your wing, as it were, to help them. If this other person is very constructive you will want to follow his example. You can be mutually helpful to one another. It is best for other planets in the horoscope to be differently placed to your own in order to arouse enthusiasm and create a difference in your interests.

What is the significance when you are associated with a person whose Sun is in the sign opposite to your own? For instance, a person born on July 29 would have the Sun in Leo while a person born on January 29 would have the Sun in Aquarius in opposition.

This opposition of the Sun operates in two ways: You will both have a mutual interest. One will be experiencing this interest in a positive, strong manner while the other will be detached from it. You will learn from each other, mainly through bumps you provide. You will feel that the other person is lacking in feeling or has too much of it. You will feel resentful at each other, each having much pride that makes you antagonistic. You are meant to be allies or partners, each providing what the other lacks.

When the Sun in one horoscope is in trine aspect to another's, entirely different conditions are experienced. A great deal of sympathy exists between you which attract you but friction and struggle is not felt. You get comfort and understanding and feel mutually agreeable. This person will not arouse your combativeness, however, so that it is possible you will become too comfortable and let things slide. Pleasure seeking and enjoyment exists in your relationship. You are equals and cannot be happy if equality of position is disturbed. You are both aroused to mutual ambitions such as both of you wish to travel, study or such interests in common.

When the Sun in one chart is in square aspect to another, there is friction. You recognize their weaknesses or frailties. There is a problem of adjustment between you and them. You must expect to learn many things from these people. You will not be pleasing to each other. If you can reach a place of understanding with this person there will be a strong attraction but you will have to fight yourself and their own antagonisms, to get along peacefully.

When the Sun in one chart is semi-sextile your Sun a strong bond exists between you although others may not understand why! This is when the Sun is in adjoining signs, for instance in Cancer and Leo. You can stick together each supplying talents and abilities lacked by the other. You will be inclined to help or rescue one another when each of you are in difficulties. This is a good aspect in marriage or partnerships. One works behind the scenes, as it were, while the other is more to the fore. Mutual tastes and interests are enjoyed.

Another's Sun sextile to your Sun position gives a liking for the same ideas, books and pleasures. There is a cultural bond here. You learn from each other. Each of you tend to teach the other something new and helpful, each unconsciously. There is intellectual rather than sex or emotional attraction. A companionable relationship is developed. It is a good aspect for business partnerships, each being able to contribute important decisions and talents.

There are very strong reactions and conditions that are indicated by the relation of the Sun and Moon in one another's horoscopes. Other's Sun conjunction your Moon has a powerful effect upon both of you. This person will do the leading or dominating while you follow. This is a good aspect when the other is your teacher or boss. Your influence will not be executive or positive for that comes from them. This is a difficult aspect to handle because it makes them more dominant over your personality. If you can make the necessary adjustments to each other, you can both benefit. You can help this person but emotional ties will be strained. You contribute helpfulness to them but both of you must aim at providing loyalty and not overpowering the other with your own aims or plans. If misunderstanding comes up it is because you are hurt and offended or their pride is aroused. This is a good aspect for your employer to have for you can carry out his plans and ideas. It is not good for an employee to have the Sun conjunction the boss's Moon because the employee is too dominant and aggressive. It is good, however, if you need an executive and give him his head. You will mutually resent one another, however.

One's Sun opposition your Moon produces very interesting conditions. You either view this person with cooperative or resentful glance. You will resent his executive powers or leadership. You either feel protected by this association or crushed by it. Such people make you feel that they are superior to you.

Remember that you see this person according to the way you feel for this contact stirs up prejudices although it also attracts you to him. You will often feel offended and resentful of him. Your sensitiveness is aroused by him and his actions.

Another's Sun trine your Moon creates companionable, congenial conditions. Love can develop in this association. It helps form comradely relationships, gives mutual tastes and interests. You cannot suppress each other. Loyalty can be established. You will care for each other yet leave one another free so far as individuality is concerned. In a business relation, this aspect is good. The one having the Sun position will have the managerial or executive work. It is good for an employee. This person can represent you with success.

One's Sun in square aspect to your Moon creates undercurrents of friction and incompatibility. Many adjustments have to be made. You feel suppressed and more emotional in this connection. Conflict between your personality (the Moon) and their individuality (Sun) is felt. It is harder to get along with this person for little minor happenings or details are provoking. One or the other of you tries to be the "boss." Bickering and misunderstandings arise through criticism. This aspect is often found in cases of the suppressed wife or the henpecked husband. The one having the Moon position aspected will not be able to express the personality as freely as is possible.

Explanation of planetary aspects may be advisable in view of readers who are not familiar with astrological terms. The conjunction aspect is when planets are within 10 degrees of one another. The opposition aspect is when they are in opposite signs. The square aspect is when planets are 90 degrees apart. The trine is when they are 120 degrees apart or in signs of the same nature . . . fire, earth, air or water. The sextile aspect is when planets are 60 degrees apart. The semi-sextile aspect occurs when planets are 30 degrees apart.

Bill Was Her Man

He found Milly in St. Louis. She was living in a little apartment with another girl. They were both attending classes in a beauty school.

"So, you knew Bette all the time," began Bill as he and Milly walked along the busy street under a canopy of June stars.

"Bill, you don't think that I . . . ?"

"What do you expect me to think? You cleared out in a hurry. It was a put-up job wasn't it?"

"It was at first. This Pisces nature of mine . . . always willing to help a friend! It was for Bette, Bill. I was to meet you, sort of carry on a little, do you see, so you'd have no comeback. But, Bill, it didn't turn out like I expected."

"What did you expect, may I ask?"

"It was this way. I met you all right that first morning. But that second morning when I was with you I forgot all about Bette. I really fell for you . . . that wasn't in the plan. I knew the whole set-up after I had your birth-date, and well, darn it, Bill, you're my man. Forgive me?"

"Milly you're a vixen . . . hiding behind this Astrology business and using it as a shield against criticism!"

"Listen, Bill, when people love each other, everything has to be on the up and up. I didn't answer your letter (it was forwarded to me here) because you belonged to somebody else. Even if that person wasn't treating you right, I couldn't interfere. I couldn't tell you the truth even to win you for myself. Bill, what's the matter?" Milly asked as Bill stopped on the street to stare at her.

"This," said Bill as he pulled her down the nearest alley and gave her the kiss that had been burning on his lips ever since he had knocked at the door of Milly's apartment. He pulled her close in his embrace and Milly felt herself growing weak with just the nearness and dearness of him.

"Let's forget everything but our love, Bill. The stars know about it. See that stern looking one up there. That's Saturn. He has caused us enough trouble in your seventh house. You had to learn things through marriage, to know hindrance and delay in love affairs. But Saturn in transit through your fifth house now should have told you by this time what you really want."

"I want a pair of eyes, devastating eyes with long, curly eyelashes. They must be panzy color and I want those eyes fastened to a little Astrologer." Bill caught her to himself once again before they walked out of the dingy alley into the brightly lighted street.

Aries Horoscope for June

★ ★ ★ For Those Born Between March 21 and April 20

JUPITER'S passage into Gemini now begins a new trend in Aries affairs that affects you for the next year. It can be helpful in establishing good contacts and relationships with others. Your state of mind should grow more optimistic and happy. It is good for correspondence, trips, environmental changes and moves. Everything connected with literary work and mental pursuits is more favored. Jupiter's trend here is also excellent for increase in salary and financial gains. You may find that you are acting for others or representing their affairs in a more active manner. This month especially emphasizes all these matters, but you must be extremely careful to avoid unwise changes, unrest about work or indiscretion in dealing with others until the 24th.

MONEY MATTERS: Your financial affairs should be carefully handled during June. New undertakings have an element of unreliability or secrecy about them that leads to loss. Your own judgment may be less good, thus creating mistakes and difficulties about money. All matters connected with correspondence, papers and documents should be most cautiously handled to avoid loss. Your work may be less pleasant or cause confusion between the 1st and 24th. Changes in work or business are not wise during this time. Expenses will probably be heavier or increase because of extravagant tendencies. If you are conservative and keep things in order to avoid strain or sudden trouble about money, all should be well.

With June and thereafter, Aries people begin to have a far different financial and money trend develop that can lead to increasing income and business. Your financial program for this next year should be conservative so that you have money on hand when you need it, as you will.

HEALTH: Health indications are not altogether good. Neptune's influence this month warns of sickness that is now more threatening. Be particularly careful in your choice of food and drink. Poisoning could occur through negligence. The bowels and intestines should be given more attention and care. Your feelings will affect your state of health with more pronounced effect. Try to keep calm and do not let yourself grow rebellious or easily angered. June will be an accident month, hence the need for more care in this respect. Pets and domestic animals could be sources of illness or accident.

TRAVEL: Trips and changes are now more possible but should be deferred, if possible, until after the 23rd. The 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 16th and 23rd are especially adverse for accidents and quarrels. You will want to be more active and restlessly plan changes or trips. The month is more favorable for you if you stay at home or attend to your routine affairs. Too much outside activity or excitement is ill-advised this June.

LEGAL MATTERS: Any threat of litigation or court troubles in which you could lose will be stronger now. Some secretive enmity or misrepresentation will threaten Aries people this month. You should be very watchful to avoid any such complications over which you have any control. Try to adjust and harmonize differences. Some legal aspects are more probable in connection with money matters.

FRIENDSHIPS, SOCIAL LIFE, LOVE AND ROMANCE: Your social prospects this month are good. More enjoyment should be realized with friends and relatives, although any quarrelsome or misunderstanding conditions that exist with others will also be more apparent. Some secretive enmity is warned of, hence you will be wise to remain discreet in all dealings with other people. Business contacts are apt to be less enjoyable.

Anxiety about the welfare of loved ones may develop due to sickness or their personal troubles. Contacts with people not seen for sometime may be made. A great deal more correspondence and communications to and from others will be noticed. Improvements can be made in home, family and domestic interests.

June is largely a month in which work and health will be emphasized. You will be wise to center your attention and energies in this direction. Pleasures and personal plans for enjoyment or changes can be promoted with more harmony and success after the 23rd, but should not be permitted to be too dominant prior to that time.

Favorable days: 4, 5, 9, 10, 12, 14, 15, 18, 19, 20, 21, 28, 29

Unfavorable: 2, 3, 7, 8, 13, 16, 17, 22, 23, 25, 26, 30

Taurus Horoscope

... for June

For Those Born Between

April 20 and May 21

AFTER the hectic happenings and emergencies of May, June is apt to seem an anti-climax to Taurus people! Your interests will be more strongly centered about financial and business matters while the pressure on your personal self and life may be lessened. Problems are apt to cause concern in business and financial affairs between the 1st and 23rd. More trouble and possibility of loss in these matters then exists. With the 24th and thereafter, much better conditions should be enjoyed. June is a month that increases emotional strain and quarrelsome conditions you may have been experiencing; hence the wisdom in planning a quiet, conservative program to avoid complications or upsets. Do not force issues this month but try to be diplomatic and amendable.

MONEY AND BUSINESS: A new financial trend now starts in your affairs that continues for one year. It can be very good or the reverse, according to your own judgment, interests and activities. Anything visionary, speculative or extravagant will be unwise. You will begin to be money-minded, moreso than usual. Expenditures will be heavier so that extravagance or waste should be curbed. You will be more disturbed and uncertain about changes or general business conditions, but try to mark time so far as drastic changes are concerned, until the 24th and thereafter. During the next two years, a very profound, extensive change will affect your business and financial affairs, so be sure you are right before you force issues or start things that could prove the unwise thing to have done. Salary prospects for Taurus people who are employed are not unfavorable this month but new spending activities are not wise. You who have birthdays on May 11, 12, 13, 14 should carefully handle all your affairs, to offset the trend of loss that Saturn now produces.

HEALTH: Health indications for Taurus this year are not altogether good. Hence the need to live more quietly to protect your welfare. The transit of Saturn and Uranus, still in your sign of Taurus, is nerve-wracking and depleting to vitality and the general physique. A safe and sane health program is thus advisable as long as these planets are so placed. Sickness can thus be avoided whereas a too careless attitude toward your welfare will help lessen strength and resistance. The best time for health matters will be after the 23rd.

TRAVEL: Business trips and correspondence about money matters will be more prevalent. Collection of money is favored. Extensive journeys and pleasure trips should be postponed, however, until after the 23rd. You will feel much more restless and discontented with routine conditions this month. The feeling that you want to be doing things or going places should be directed toward quiet improvement of your immediate surroundings. Delays in trips you plan or in things you expect to come up should be anticipated.

LEGAL MATTERS: There is always more possibility of legal difficulties and annoyances when numerous planets are in your birthsign. You should therefore try to avoid litigation or legal matters through which you would lose. It is less easy to attract favors or goodwill at such a time. You have to be right in order to accomplish your aims.

FRIENDSHIPS, SOCIAL LIFE, LOVE AND ROMANCE: You will certainly have an exciting friendship trend this month. It will probably be quarrelsome and rash. Problems can be expected in connection with friends and loved ones. You should be extremely careful in all social relationships and heart-ties, to avoid enmity and misunderstandings. Secretive intrigue or gossip could be harmful. I would advise avoidance of too much social or pleasure activity. This trend will be terminating after the 23rd, after which time you should enjoy more happiness and congenial relations with others. The welfare of children and other loved ones should be safeguarded with more care. Harmony in love and romantic ties is not indicated between June 1 and 23, during which time you should be very careful to avoid secretive matters or disputes with them.

June is a month that emphasizes health and work. In your case it will also probably bring emotional strain and problems connected with others. Try to harmonize and adjust all these various matters so that you can forge ahead on the improving financial road that is indicated.

Favorable days: 4, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12, 15, 20, 21, 22, 25 through 29

Unfavorable: 1, 2, 3, 8, 13, 14, 16, 17, 23, 24, 30

Gemini Horoscope for June

★ ★ ★ For Those Born Between May 21 and June 21

THIS month is always an increasingly active and exciting time for Gemini people as numerous planets transit through your sign. This June is less favorable for your affairs. Too much danger exists of mistakes, disputes and trouble with others. If you live quietly and control your own impulses and feelings, you should be able to advance with more promise. But this will certainly not be a wise time for rash, new ventures or drastic changes. You have some special opportunities beginning to develop with this summer that are very promising, so drive toward them, taking care that what you plan or do now is correct and not too venturesome.

MONEY AND BUSINESS: Jupiter's entry into your sign of Gemini now begins a more expansive, optimistic tide in your affairs. It can mean more money. Changes for the better that help improve your personal fortunes can be expected. With June 24 and thereafter, you have much better financial and business indications. Some good luck and special opportunities can be enjoyed.

During the first three weeks of June, however, there are several indications of loss or mistakes that could be expensive. Property investments, loans or business expansion will be unwise. Credit strain could cause trouble now or arise later from unwise ventures you now go into. Mars, adverse to you this month, creates quarrelsome conditions in business. Your own enthusiasms and new ambitions should be carefully studied to be sure that they are sound and reliable. You will not be satisfied with routine work or ordinary interests this month but will be so much more restless and ambitious to accomplish something new and enterprising.

HEALTH: Except for Mars and Neptune, their aspects being adverse to you, your general health picture is not unfavorable. There is more danger of accidents or feverish ailments, however. You should exercise much care in safeguarding your welfare to counteract this trend. Try to control impatience and nervous tension which you will feel more strongly. The vitality will be lower so that you may feel tired and unwell. Diet, moderate exercise and congenial interests can prove very helpful in building and protecting your welfare. Be careful about fires this month.

TRAVEL: Increasing indications of travel and changes in location will be developing this month. Such matters should be postponed until after the 23rd, if possible. The 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 16th, 23rd are the more adverse days of June when care will be needed to safeguard yourself and your affairs from accidents or trouble. The best period for changes or travel will be between the 24th and 30th.

LEGAL MATTERS: More danger of legal difficulties or problems will affect Gemini people this month. You should be very discreet in business activities, personal matters and handling of money to avoid mistakes or offending others. Any litigation or court troubles that may now be necessary should be deferred until July and thereafter, if possible. Mars, in its June-aspects to you, always bring more strife and incompatibility into your affairs.

FRIENDSHIPS, SOCIAL LIFE, LOVE AND ROMANCE: A new kind of friendship and social trend starts for you in July. Things will be too restless and troublesome in earlier June for much social or pleasure activity. Some difficulties with business and family connections will now threaten. You should concentrate on these matters to improve and harmonize them. Too much outside activity will not be wise. Jupiters' transit in Gemini is very promising for love, happiness and marital relations in late June and thereafter.

June is largely a month that emphasizes health and work. It is a time in which we should all concentrate upon material affairs to make them more sound and secure. Keep busy this month, putting everything in your life in order, preparing for the very progressive and happier new trends that begin to appear as June ends.

Favorable days: 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 13, 18, 20, 21, 22, 25, 27, 28, 29, 30

Unfavorable: 1, 2, 3, 4, 16, 17, 19, 23

For Those Born Between

July 23 and August 23

NEW conditions will now be developing to take many Leo people out of the doldrums you have been experiencing. You should now notice an upsurge of optimism and hopefulness about your future prospects. You can bring more genuine happiness and enjoyment into your life if you are diplomatic and progressive in spirit. You still need to live quietly and conservatively to avoid business or personal upsets if you are born between August 14 and 23, for Saturn and Uranus continue to adversely aspect your affairs. The trend of loss, delays and annoying conditions you have experienced is lessening, however.

MONEY AND BUSINESS: Your major problems still center around these matters and continue to do so through earlier 1942. As long as Saturn and Uranus remain in Taurus they are in adverse aspect to Leo. This slows down rapid success. More responsibility and hard work have to be applied to your interests. The possibility of emergencies and sudden setbacks in business and financial security is stronger. You should now be extremely conservative about expanding in business or making changes that could interfere with normal security. Work, disciplined living and attention to the duties and responsibilities you have now affects your affairs.

Libra Horoscope

... for June

For Those Born Between

September 21 and October 23

AFTER the tension and tremendous excitement of May, you should begin to enjoy calmer conditions this month. Some important problems will still need to be quietly handled and worked out, however, so don't plan a too active month. The dangers of the month lie in any secretive matters, legal matters, health and work. A certain amount of intrigue or secrecy will affect your affairs. Don't be surprised if you encounter secretive enmity or trouble in relation to work and personal life. Skies will be clearing, however, bringing more good fortune and happiness, so mark time during temporary upsets or troublesome developments.

MONEY AND BUSINESS: Venus is very favorable to your business and financial affairs although some things may seem to be delayed or held back. Some important changes are now indicated in your work or business, that can improve them. Be sure you are right before making important decisions or promoting expensive changes, however, for some things that interest you or that you plan will be deceptive or result in trouble, later on.

Any important papers, secretive associations or plans that have to be kept hidden or undisclosed should be most carefully avoided. Neptune's influence could trick you and cause complications. You can realize more popularity and gain with business contacts and will probably be more before the public. Don't act hastily in signing important papers that affect your security or business, for that tendency will be very strong.

Your financial indications are good but you will be inclined to spend too much or overstrain credit. The 23rd is the most adverse day of the month for troubles in work or financial matters,

HEALTH: Mars in the house of health of the Libra chart is a warning to carefully safeguard your welfare. There is always more possibility of illness, overwork and accidents during such a time. Observe precautions especially on the 2nd, 3rd, 16th, 23rd when overwork and health troubles are more threatening. Discretion in diet is advisable. Health will require more attention and medical or health treatments are indicated.

TRAVEL: Travel is more strongly shown for you this month but is not altogether safe due to the increasing accident conditions. Bad news may necessitate trips. Secretive trips or contacts should be avoided for a trend of danger or trouble is connected with them now.

LEGAL MATTERS: Any legal difficulties or problems that you have may now be emphasized. You should avoid law and courts as much as is possible, now, although some important matters may make it imperative for you to consult attorneys or be involved in something of a legal nature. The adverse dates of June are tricky and unsound for any favors.

FRIENDSHIPS, SOCIAL LIFE, LOVE AND ROMANCE: Your business and public popularity should increase this month if you concentrate upon improving your position and contacts. Material matters seem to demand your time, attention and interest moreso than social or pleasure activities. Good friendships can be maintained but remember the secretive trends of June and avoid involving yourself in anything that could react with trouble or gossip.

Marriage should be more harmonious although anxiety about the welfare of the companion may be felt from time to time. More cooperation and work with others will be required of you so that you may feel that you are being imposed upon or that you are not fully appreciated. Try to avoid misunderstandings or friction, especially in regard to your work where trouble with associates will threaten.

June is really a month for work and health matters. Concentrate upon these interests so that you are busy in improving them. Get your affairs in order to enable yourself to have personal pleasure and enjoyment during July when happy social and amusement trends can be more favorable.

Favorable days: 5, 6, 9, 10, 14, 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29

Unfavorable: 1, 2, 3, 4, 8, 16, 23

Scorpio Horoscope

... for June

*For Those Born Between
October 23 and November 21*

JUNE begins a new trend of events and conditions for everyone. It is particularly unusual in its aspects and indications for you Scorpio people. The slow progress and necessity to forge ahead, despite obstacles, delays or disappointments is still written in your stars, yet you can bring more happiness and genuine achievement into your life this month. There are some hazards and pitfalls you must avoid, in emotional, friendship and business associations but on the whole, you can reshape your affairs with more profit and success.

MONEY AND BUSINESS: Your business outlook for June is not unfavorable, but new ventures or spending programs are not advised. You will be in more of a mood to gamble or take chances to make money, which will be unwise. Jupiter, entering the 8th house of the Scorpio chart now, begins to activate new financial conditions. Legacies, insurance and monies of other people will be more prominent during this next year. Cooperative ventures in which the money or favors of others are needed will be developing. Some waste or extravagance of others this month could create quarrelsome conditions.

New investments or speculation should be avoided during June. Deceptive, tricky schemes and propositions are indicated but they will be unwise. You should be extremely cautious in all business or financial dealings with friends for some disillusionment or trouble is indicated between the 1st and 23rd. New ambitious projects should be carefully studied and worked out before you take risks in trying to promote them.

A new employment and working trend begins for Scorpio people in July, which can be very fortunate in bringing advancement and a good position.

HEALTH: Your health outlook is not adverse this month if you safeguard your wellbeing. Too much emotionalism and pleasure, however, could be extremely harmful. Try to live quietly, for June is a month when the general public health condition will not be good. You who have birthdays between November 14 and 21 should be unusually careful in protecting your welfare for Saturn and Uranus are in opposition to your sign, which has a depleting, devitalizing effect upon health.

TRAVEL: Pleasure trips are not favored this month. Visits and social trips should be postponed because of the accident and quarrelsome trends. Plan important changes or trips that you find necessary between the 24th and 30th. Trips will be planned but may be delayed until July.

LEGAL MATTERS: June is not a benefic month for gain in lawsuits or litigation. Any important agreements, papers or contracts that need to be signed or handled should be carefully studied. Opposition and lack of favor from others will be felt so that justice or realization of success in legal activities may be disappointing.

FRIENDSHIPS, SOCIAL LIFE, LOVE AND ROMANCE: Neptune in the house of friendships opposed by Mars in the house of love affairs and pleasures create friction and emotional strain for you this month. Friends and acquaintances may be disillusioning or troublesome. You seem to be opposed by someone or meet with strife in your personal relations. Strain on the heart-ties threatens at such a time. Try to live quietly so that quarrels and misunderstandings can be avoided. Too much social activity is not favored until after the 23rd.

You will want much more love and excitement in your life this month. Love affairs and romantic ties are indicated for many of you, yet the path of true love will not run smoothly. More tact and adaptability will be needed to control smouldering anger or resentment and jealousy that you may feel.

Marriage, a problem for many of you during the past few months, should be happier and more congenial. The welfare of children and other loved ones will need to be more carefully protected. Since June's general trend is concentrated on health and work for everyone, you should try to keep harmony in all associations and bring more order and system into work, health matters and personal affairs. This is favored.

Favorable days: 4, 5, 9, 10, 11, 12, 20, 21, 25,
26, 27, 28, 29

Unfavorable: 1, 2, 3, 7, 8, 13, 14, 15, 16, 19, 23, 24

Sagittarius Horoscope for June

★ ★ ★ For Those Born Between November 21 and December 21

YOUR various interests and activities should be accelerated this month, yet a great deal of strain will also threaten that causes quarrels and restlessness. You should plan a very quiet program and exercise more than ordinary diplomacy and tact in dealing with others. Important new conditions will be developing yet may be delayed or held back from actual realization until after the 23rd. A too excited, impulsive course of action on your part will harm your new prospects.

MONEY AND BUSINESS: Mars will be in adverse aspect to you this month, bringing strain and difficulties into business interests. Property and land matters may be very expensive or be subject to danger through fires or similar types of hazards. You are apt to make some mistakes in business planning and should see that credit is carefully protected. Schemes and deceptive conditions could cause loss if you go into them.

Your financial prospects are not adverse if you cut down expenditures and are ready for emergencies where money is needed. It will be far less easy for you to adapt yourself to conditions you dislike or avoid risky ventures, for you will want excitement and action. You are apt to terminate things in anger or make unwise changes that creates more problems. Waste of money or extravagance will need to be controlled.

Employment is favored if you can concentrate on your work. The upsets of May should now be declining so that it is easier for you to accomplish your different tasks and do the work that is required. Some good employment opportunities should come to you from others, if you seek them. Partnerships in work or business may cause strain or friction.

HEALTH: Health prospects are less good during June. Tension and nervousness will be stronger. You should plan a quiet, consistent health program to counteract this trend. Do not neglect health warnings this month. Indulgences or excesses will be very unwise for the body will be subject to heavy planetary pressure that is not conducive to good health without proper care.

TRAVEL: Travel should be deferred, if possible, until after the 23rd. More danger will exist of accidents or trouble in trips or environmental changes that you make. You will certainly want to be more active but will be more venturesome and risky. New pleasure trips and social invitations are indicated for Sagittarius as July begins, so defer such interests until the favorable time for them.

LEGAL MATTERS: Some important legal document or agreements may now play a more prominent part in your affairs. You should avoid business or personal complications that could lead to lawsuits or legal difficulties. There is more danger, now, of adverse conditions due to such matters.

FRIENDSHIPS, SOCIAL LIFE, LOVE AND ROMANCE: Friendships should be congenial and helpful in pleasant contacts. Some dispute or strife will threaten with business and domestic ties, however. Marriage will be much more attractive to many of you, yet June brings upsets and misunderstandings in marriage. Your own feelings will be more irritable or on edge, thus leading to quarrels or disagreements. Problems connected with other people will need to be quietly handled and solved, rather than fought or argued about. Family ties may now be strained, due to tension in the home and domestic life. A new emotional trend begins for you in July that can be so much happier and more enjoyable, so try to pour oil on troubled waters this month.

June is generally a month in which health and work are emphasized. You should concentrate upon improving these interests and not place too much emphasis upon less happy or enjoyable conditions with which you may have to deal.

Favorable days: 5, 6, 9, 10, 11, 12, 18, 19, 20, 21, 26, 27, 28, 29

Unfavorable: 1, 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, 13, 14, 16, 22, 23, 30

Capricorn Horoscope

. . . for June

For Those Born Between

December 21 and January 21

YOUR health and working interests now seem to come more strongly into the limelight. Some difficulties will be encountered in your work and in health, thus requiring a more conservative, careful program through the 23rd. Many new conditions that lead to drastic changes and new, good developments are lying before you. Don't let yourself consider temporary problems that come up in June as being permanent. Much of your success and progress this month will depend upon your mental attitude. Keep calm and don't let yourself be influenced by restlessness, nervousness and outside distractions.

MONEY AND BUSINESS: A new trend is beginning in these Capricorn interests. June, however, could cause loss or trouble about your work if you permit yourself to be dissatisfied. Some new conditions that arise may be less satisfactory. Capricorn business people will now begin to want to expand and change the locality or environment of their business. Various problems will unexpectedly come up this month that require a calm head and firm mind. You should be especially careful in signing of papers or in making changes that are dictated by your restlessness. It may be less easy to concentrate on your tasks and activities. Watch this trend particularly around the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 16th and 23rd when mistakes, enmity or trouble could affect your position or business security.

Your general financial outlook is good but I would suggest a conservative, budget plan for spending. In this way you will control the more extravagant trends and have money on hand for emergencies as well as opportunities. Gain from past investments is now more possible. If you have earned it, you should realize increase in salary or earning power.

HEALTH: Your health prospects are less good during June. Diet and rest should be part of your health plans. Digestive or intestinal upsets could more easily arise through indiscretion in diet or overstrain. Plan health treatments for the favorable times. Feverish ailments and accidents are always more threatening during this type of month. Take time to think ahead of consequences before you rush into things or risk your wellbeing.

TRAVEL: This month is adverse for trips or moves. You will be more impulsive and want to make changes or take trips. It will be much more difficult for you to remain in routine work or settle down, but try to do so. Important changes affecting relatives or your own work may necessitate trips. You should also be extremely tactful and careful in speech and correspondence to help control this martial trend.

LEGAL MATTERS: Vague worries or concern about some legal matter or settlement have affected many Capricorn people during the past months. You should try to settle any disagreements or difficulties that could lead to litigation or lawsuits. They are not favored this month. All agreements, papers to be signed or such matters should be deferred until after the 23rd, if possible, to be sure that they are not unreliable or prove to be mistaken.

FRIENDSHIPS, SOCIAL LIFE, LOVE AND ROMANCE: The intense emotional strain you have been experiencing will now be ending. But work and other material responsibilities will be far less favorable now for pleasures or social activities. You will begin to feel more pleasure in your work and general duties. Too much excitement during June will be harmful to your happiness as well as your general security. Good friendships are indicated that can help you stand steady. Relatives may cause anxiety about their welfare, or quarrelsome conditions arise with them.

Love and romantic ties are favored if they are at all compatible to you. Otherwise, you will have noticed a drifting apart from former associations that will continue. Marriage is more favored this month with Venus in the house of marriage of the Capricorn chart, especially so between the 24th and 30th.

June's problems will emphasize any insecurity, laziness, neglect or failures in your affairs. You will feel the need to work hard to correct conditions that cause concern. Try to do so in a peaceful state of mind to counteract the more irritating mental reactions that you will feel. This could cause bad temper and quarrels that make your life unhappy.

Favorable days: 4, 5, 10, 11, 12, 20, 21, 27, 28, 29

Unfavorable: 1, 2, 3, 6, 7, 15, 16, 17, 23, 25, 26, 30

Pisces Horoscope

... for June

For Those Born Between

February 19 and March 21

MARS will be in your sign of Pisces all during June, a warning for you to live quietly and plan to sidestep all troublesome, adverse issues or quarrelsome conditions. Mars always brings feverish unrest, bad temper and irritation for one feels more explosive and restless. Self-control must be maintained to avoid undiplomatic actions or antagonism of others. You want to do so many things and feel so impatient to change yourself and your affairs for the better, that rashness and feeling take control of reason. Particular caution should be observed, especially between the 1st and 23rd, to use this new energy for gain and achievement without permitting it to make you reckless, too venturesome or rash. Mars brings problems that you must solve. Adaptability and marking of time until opposition and unrest are stilled, are its best weapons if you will think to call upon them.

MONEY AND BUSINESS: Your business prospects are not altogether favored this month. July starts the new and very promising financial and business trend. June creates problems and troubles that keep you disturbed and restless. It will be less easy to get along without trouble. New ventures will be very unwise. Changes should be avoided wherever possible. Your judgment will be impaired or influenced by feelings and desires, hence a too extravagant course of action could develop.

Employment is very much favored if you can adjust your ideas and views to those of others, which will now be more difficult. Some enmity or misunderstanding could be harmful to your prestige and position. You have some excellent working and employment trends developing as the month ends, so do not force issues during the more disturbing weeks between the 1st and 23rd.

Trickery or dishonesty could be experienced in risky business or financial ventures with other people. Try to so manage your affairs that your security and peace are maintained quietly. After the 23rd, things should be less fiery and risky.

HEALTH: Your health indications are not good when Mars is in your own sign. Feverish ailments and accidents are more threatening. You should be extremely careful in health treatments, in exercise and use of your physical strength for you are apt to overdo and thus suffer a relapse or over-tired condition. Care should be observed to avoid cuts or burns. Be particularly cautious in protecting your welfare if you are born in February, or have a birthday on March 15, 16, 17.

TRAVEL: Although trips and sudden changes may seem imperative, you should undertake them with much care to control the accident trends. Travel should not be planned for the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 16th, 23rd. Some very important changes in your location or environment will be developing but seem to be more promising in July.

LEGAL MATTERS: Lawsuits and litigation should be carefully avoided this month when you could lose out heavily or become involved with others in complications. You should not take risks of any kind that could cause disfavor and censure. Far better legal trends are shown for you later on. Observe discretion and forethought to papers, bills of sale and all contracts with other people.

FRIENDSHIPS, SOCIAL LIFE, LOVE AND ROMANCE: Friendships are favored this month if they are reliable and honest, but be cautious about tricky, dishonest types of people for they may be more prominent in your life. Anger, impulsiveness and irritation is always felt more keenly during this type of month so try to maintain firm self-control. Social activities will be much more attractive to you but are best planned after the 23rd. Marriage may present problems, due either to incompatibility and differences, or the affairs of the companion. Love affairs and romantic ties are very strongly influenced during June so that more happiness can be enjoyed in this important phase of your life. Children seem to be especially prominent in Pisces affairs, with happy results.

Favorable days: 5, 6, 9, 11, 18, 20, 21, 24, 25, 27, 28, 29

Unfavorable: 1, 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, 12, 13, 14, 16, 22, 23, 30
