

VOL. XI.

WILLIAM WHITE & COMPANY, } Publishers and Proprietors.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, APRIL 12, 1862.

TWO DOLLARS PER YEAR, Payable in Advance.

NO. 3.

Literary Department. ITHEL HARLENGIAN

Translated from the German of Heinrich Zschokke, by Cora Wilburn, expressly for the Banner of Light.

CHAPTER IX.

The Lost Path.

Early the next morning, when the long train of old men and children, women with their husbands and babes, had left the village, to seek a congenial hours in writing. It was a necessity with him to fidingly, not only as the trustworthy guardian of his property, but as the friend of his parents for many long years, and as his tutor in early youth.

"Be tranquil, my dear and honored Josiah," he wrote. "I am at this moment on the return way to you, and shall surprise you some of these days when least expected-when you lie stretched 'neath the shade of your favorite sycamore before the house, sacrifice to the skies. I have now seen, I believe, the most remarkable pieces of this varied antiquity-coffer of Europe; at least, my sight-seeing propensity is fully satiated. Man is alike everywhere. Europe America; but I have as seldom met with genuine, of themselves happy persons, as, I have at home, where, south of the Potomac, slavery yet exists, as with Asiatics and, Africans; where for greed of gain, life and soul is given, as with the Polish Jews; where eager still for titled pride, we strut about like Spaniards and Prince-ridden Germans.

Do you wish to behold London, Paris, Petersmass of rags, their mobs in uniform, silk and jewels, you have only to wend your way to our great cities on the coast; go to New York, New Orleans, circumstances. But if fate were to banish me from our beautiful solitudes on the banks of the Tombigbee to Europe, I think I should feel most at home in the fatherland of my grandmother, Germany. There is much heart here, much truth and honesty, and a striving for it in the mass of the Nation; in the middle ranks of the people. Of course in the public regulations, in State and Church, law and land domination, there is a repulsive mixture of the Orienale, an-Fhe

Ban-

TE

RBY

all all have rhose

illfal,

who mmon

$1,00

ddress

d from lesired.

S9, the Na-og, dc., t, given d "Furs in ad-

spirits, y Joshsent by iod, the

ediums, rd oth-

. y jedy.

LIGHT

网络剧

ي 18.

dering and enchanted in one of the endless primeval [have lost my way in the forest, and I do not yet] forests of America, where as yet the human foot had never trespassed.

The evening approached, the thicket became still narrower, and led up hill and down; wearisome to the feet that longed for rest. Yet he tranquilly abode the favor of chance, and was not disinclined, in case of need, to seek a night's quarters in the wood.

He had not trusted to the favors of chance in vain. Unexpectedly, he found a cart-path beneath his feet, that served the purpose of the thread of Arladne in the labyrinth. In the course of half an hour the column-like forest trees became less dense, and the sky appeared between them, deep and bright. The path wound through rocks of sandstone, and near the vicinity of a fine waterfall that stirred the air home beyond the wide waters, Lyonel employed some with its monotonous rush. He stood suddenly, and not without surprise, before the ruins of an ancient give an account of his travels and adventures to his abbey or castle, that, arising between encircling faithful friend, Josiah Waynes. He loved him con-hills, filled up the space between in wondrous figures of a time-worn architecture.

It was of a masonry of the olden time, riven and rent by the touch of many centuries, and pityingly enfolded by the loving ivy, forest vine, wild hops, and other creeping plants, that veiled and beautified this site of decay; their light green, younger tendrils wove fresh garlands in the summer air above. To the left, more than half destroyed, a round; to and the blue smoke of your oigar ascends as evening the right, a large square tower, formed of rough, enormous blocks of stone, that seemed the uncouth labors of the Cyclops; and between both, a great high arching gateway, through which at that moment, beamed dazzlingly the rays of the setting sun, while the is more populous, richer in art and learning than brook leading from the waterfall, rippling over the mass of rocks, became a stream of golden fiame.

Lyonel wandered slowly amid the shady hills, past solitary pillars overgrown with resebushes and bloom. ing wild flowers, and by overthrown columns, covered with the green velvet lustre of the moss, and between fallen walls. The aspect of these memorials of evanescent human greatness, and the contrasting eternal youth of Nature, aroused deep thought withburgh, close by, in all their splendor, filth, their in his soul. "The remains of castle or of convent," he said, " it matters not, be it one or the other; the golden age of the nobility and the priesthood, was always the age of iron to humanity. Silly presump-Philadelphia, or Boston-the name does not alter the tion of these ephemera to heap up lifeless dust for eternity, and who rest themselves forgotten, before their work falls to decay. Who names, who knows them yet-the creators of Tadmor, Thebes, Memphis, the proud Pharaohs of the Pyramids? After the lapse of thousands of years, where will be the great burial cities of London and Petersburg, Paris and Italy?"

Thus musing, he passed through that solitude of imself on the upper border of tal-old with the European-new. One party lives ac- hilly ridge, at whose feet lay a smiling valley environed by rising woods, over which now brooded the peaceful glory of the evening time. It was as if some blessed Eden of repose had gleamed upon his theological and political free thought. Each one sight; between emerald green meadows on which thinks be understands it best, and believes no one picturesquely dispersed groves and groups of trees waved in the breeze, there greeted him a crystal With a new King upon the throne, or Prince in the lake, with the glorious skies reflected in its serene depths. In it were mirrored the graceful willows, take a new direction and row back what it steered the alder, and the slender poplar, placed there as by forward yesterday. Amid this silent war of all the gardener's designing hand, on the retreating and advancing banks; and toward them wound the rivulet, flowing musically and luxuriantly, mid blooming hedges, from the flowery domain of the ruins. Silence, like a spell, enfolded that rural sanctuary, broken occasionally by the solemn whisperings of the leaves, and the distant rush of the ostaract, that seemed to enhance the wondrous charm know where I am."

He would have said or inquired more, as he came near enough to behold her features, but he was involuntarily silent, and, walking slowly, he regarded her with the most profound surprise. For never had he beheld so striking a contrast between the bounteous gifts of Nature and the stinted boons of fortune than was prevented to his view in the person fashion-stores, for great ladies." of the shepherd mainen."

In a beggar's garb, there stood before him a youthful figure, so symmetrically moulded, so replete with the usual way like other poor people's children. lelicacy, grace and dignity, joined to a face of such How and where did you learn these arts ?" pure coloring, he deemed himself in the presence of sport the coarse, unworthy vesiments she wore. artist with the needle." Thick plaits of silken hair, that seemed woven of loveliness. The snowy throat and arms wore cov- very limited extent.

ered with the coarse, unbleached cloth that was arranged in deep plaits, and reached to the small, row doorway and the smoke-blackened entry, into a white hands. A red bodice of the coarsest woollen that now was patched in many places, and an old, was most scrupulously neat and clean.

Lyonel recovered his speech, and inquired with a nocence inspire in the beholder :

name of this neighborhood ?"

"Saint Catharine's Vale," replicit the young girl, still somewhat shyly, but in a vice melodious as song itself.

"You live here? And to whom do you belong?" "To my uncle; we live close by."

"And allow me to be a little inquisitive : what is 70nr name?" "Cecilia Angel, sir."

"Angel ?" repeated he, smiling, and surprised a being who might have rivalled the sainted Cecilia represented by the inspired pencil of the olden master. "And who," he continued, as she stood meekly with folded hands and deprecating look before him, " who are your parents ?"

"Oh, that they yet lived below !" she answered in

"When my household affairs are in order, I spend a few hours in the open air for exercise." "And the rest of the day?" "I must weave lace, and embroider." "Embroider? For your Sunday attire?"

Cecilia cast an inquiring look upon the stranger, and replied:

"You take a pleasure in jesting, sir. I work for "Indeed, I do not mean to joke, but I am sincercly astonished. You cannot have been brought up in "All that I know I am indebted for through life a high born lady of seventeen who had assumed in to the love of my sainted mother. She was a true

The young man would gladly have continued his gold, wound round the well-formed head; that, as questions, though it were only to hear in return the well as the white neck and shoulders, was shaded by silvery replies of the maiden; but already they a worn, discolored straw hat of umbrella-like shape, stood before the fence, beneath the silver birches with torn edges. The deep blue eyes glanced timid- that surrounded, in a half circle, a very small, dely from under the unbecoming head-gear, and in caying house, whose roof was partly covered with their lucid depths there dwelt a silent, sorrowful tiles, in part with musty boards. The only adornappeal. The face, with its rost tinged cheeks, the ments of the miserable hut consisted of a few hyafinely chiseled, almost Grecian nose, the child-like cinths and pinks, that, probably tended by the genmonth, and softly rounded chin, was imbued with the hand of Cecilia, bloomed in earthern vases by the the glory of innocence, as well as the radiance of windows, beneath which was a vegetable garden of Cecilia invited the guest to enter through the narsmall room, whose ceiling he almost touched with material, a petticoat that had once been blue, but his head. She offered him a straw stool for a seat, and excusing herself for a moment, hastened away outgrown apron of common, striped linen, completed to call her uncle. The American took, meanwhile, an her costume; but as wretched as was that garb, it inventory of the furniture and arrangements of this home of the needy. The room with all it contained, the low bed, little table of the wood of a nut tree, sort of reverential deference, such as youth and in- the iron stove, the pair of straw stools, the small, half-blinded looking glass, all was kept in the best "Tell me, dear child, where am I? What is the of order. A picture of the Madonna, fastened to the boarded wall, was flanked by a pair of shining, wellkept pistols, and a gleaming unsheathed sabre, whose glistening brazen soabbard hung directly opposite. On the wooden mantel-piece, lay beside three earthern plates and a dish, a well-read Bible, a Catholio prayer-book, Gellert's hymns, and Schiller's poems. But more than by all this was the gazer's eyes attracted by the embroidery frame, that, carefully covered with a handkerchief, stood upon a bench. He lifted the covering, and looked admiringly at the the designation that was so appropriate to the lovely graceful portraitures of the needle formed by Cocilia's nimble fingers. The sound of approaching footsteps aroused him from the contemplation.

> CHAPTER XI. The Secret.

| But I will take you myself to his steward, to the dunderhead, the fiery, full-moon faced Banabas Trolle." Ccoilia entered just then, shyly, with downcast looks, and brought in the frugal repast and the halfbottle of wine. Raising her dark blue eyes with somewhat less timidity than before to the face of the guest, she asked him :

"Perhaps, sir, you would prefer milk ?"

"Pooh, nonsense, milk !" cried her uncle, cheerfully. "Wine rejoices the heart of man ; and before you return from your errand, this bottle will be empty. Stay a moment, Cilly, and look here. This is the gentleman from America, who so enriched us yesterday by the bestowal of his golden penny. Tell Barnabas he shall prepare for him one of the chambers set aside for the great. The Minister has given his permission that strangers of his sort shall occupy the best rooms. He shall be well paid for it. Do you hear ? well paid / That is what Trolle delights to hear. And the gentleman's name is-I beg you, tell mo again. I shall not remember to all eternity."* "Lyonel Harlington," responded the young man, smiling. Cecilia bowed her head, and silently glided from the room.

"A very amiable child," observed the American, as the old man filled the glasses. "And more than that, a most beautiful one; but perhaps I ought not to tell you so."

"You can tell me; I have nothing against it. She is a handsome girl, unfortunately. But, my young friend, beware of telling her as much ! Maidens are only beautiful as long as they do not know it; it is the original sin of women that they all love to have that knowledge. And when they find that the beautiful is wanting, they seek to remedy the defect by the aid of the dressmaker and milliner, and the demon of vanity holds the looking-glass before their faces. Therefore, not a word of it. I wish the girl WA8-" to lovely a niece that others envy you for ?"

"You have guessed it, my man! Ugly faces have not caused near as much mischief in the world as have pretty ones. I could sing you a song on that topic. But enough ; I cannot explain myself upon that text any further."

"I can explain it. Out with the truth, sergeant ! You have much to do, to look after the swarm of young and older suitors ?"

"No, no, no! not that at all ; though the child is fully eighteen years, and is-I must say it-the best child that can be found beneath the sun. She is my joy-my consolation ! Through the industry of her hands, my only support. But she knows nothing of suitors, honorable or otherwise, and the poor creature will probably never know of them. She will,'s he added, in a lower voice, "she can not, she dare not marry." Harlington listened with astonishment and a doubtful shake of the head, as he saw how the cheerfulness died out of the eyes and features of the disabled soldier, as if some swift pang of recollection had driven it thence. He smothered a rising sigh. "I understand you," said Lyonel. "You think beauty, without fortune, is like a flower bereft of fragrauce." "That may be, sir. Yes, there are fools enough who prefer the artificial flowers in their gilded vases to the fresh ones in the natural garden; who seek to marry with a heavy money bag, to which the wife is only an appendage. But this is not the question here. If my poor Cilly had fortune enough, she would buy herself a place in a convent, and become a nun."

cording to the calendar of the tenth, the other in accordance with that of the twentieth century. Theological and political bigotry quarrel in secret with else; even not the warning bistory of the past. same place, the Nation, and almost all besides, must against all, this surging of moral elements, this wrestling of despair with hope, I have often felt sad and anxious. But the statesmen of this country call that historical development of the Nation. Historical indeed; and I think of the struggles of Spain and Portugal; of the brazen Colossus of England and Russia upon their earthern feet. In the moral world, also, exist the laws of weight!

But you, my beloved friend, are not interested in this, in your Elysium at Maryhall, iu the midst of our good-natured planters. I begin to feel homesick, like our Arnold Jackson, for the peaceful world tiful picture of that serene landscape, framed in by in which you breathe; where we are not troubled by the love of power, nor tormented by the thirst for the ruler's fame ; where the soil yields nourishment and clothing; the heavens award health, and strength; where the wisdom and folly of other Nations serves as our entertaining spectacle; where God and Nature are engaged - a glory that cannot be attained by all the juggling tricks of luxury.

I am on the road to France. In Havre, I shall embark for our home. But until, my honest Arnold recovers from his bruises. I roam through field and forest, villages and cities, in a joyous mood, and like Diogenes, I seek, though without a lantern, for honest human beings."

When Lyonel interrupted himself in his epistolary chat, to resume his wanderer's staff, he found that the morning was almost spent. He hastened on. It was a dazzling, hot day; for that reason he forspok the dust and giare of the high road, and folflowed a footpath that afforded a pleasant shade beneath the foliage of a towering beech-wood. The insoription on a post of the forest boundary, informed ward her, and bending their necks affectionately, rehim that there was a grand ducal forest and hunt- ceived and returned her gentle carcsses. ing ground. Leisurely he sauntered through the wood for several hours, careless whither it led. He sang a favorite ditty in a low voice; then he gave himself up to dreamy recollections of past days, or to anticipations of the bright ones yet to come. But as it often happens, lost in thought, he had likewise charming solitude, the young American remained lost the way, and the forest seemed to have no out for a while the silent speciator of the young girl's let ; he accelerated his pace, looked to the right and innocent enjoyment with the docle oreatures. But left, and again the hours sped on, and the forest sol- as he arose to descend, the sound of the rustling itude surrounded him as in the morning. Not a leaves aroused her attention, and she looked up. sign of a habitation, not a sound of human life, no She seemed alarmed, and desirious of hastening distant barking of a dog, served as a guide to lead away, but remained standing after she had taken a him out of the leafy wilderness. He started at the few paces, and shyly awaited the approach of the hammered strokes of the woodpecker, only to find stranger, who called to her : himself deceived; he almost deemed himself wan . " "Do not be afraid of me. I am a traveler, and of the holy stillness.

The young wayfarer felt like one in a delightful dream. He sat down upon a fragment of rock, that he might fully at his leisure, contemplate the beauthe towering woods.

"How immeasurably drear and poor are the finest creations of the pencil, beside the living glory of Nature, with her inexhaustible forms, colors and thoughts. This is a Paradise ! but as it seems, a yet uninhabited one," he said, with renewed delight and vivid pleasure.

But he was mistaken, for the Eve was also to be found in this aparted Eden.

An Idyllian scene of another kind met his eye. Not far removed, beneath him, some goats were grazing between the bushes, and near them in the brook, a young and slender girl was bathing her lit. tle feet that glistened white as ivory; and as she returned to the shore, the waves, eager and loving, seemed to pursue her with their tender murmurs. The shepherdess modestly dried the little feet and placed them within the coarse shoes awaiting them. We call her shepherdess, though her flock consisted only of three goats, who leaving the dainty boughs at the first call of their mistress, came fondly to-

CHAPTER X. The Shepherdess.

Glad to have discovered one human being in that a low tone, and sighed : "I am an orphan; they Linkum, or whatever it is, you are welcome! If I have long been dead."

Lyonel was more and more bewildered by the vide yourself with a fitting Christian name," fairy presence in that romantic place. So much This was said by a man's voice at the door. It grace in every movement, such natural dignity by was Tobias Thork who stood there and stretched out the side of so much artless simplicity, added to so his only remaining hand.

choice an expression of language, he deemed could not possibly belong to the child of peasant parents, honestly kept your word; and I will not grumble And how came it that so rare a beauty was arrayed any more over your present, but will thank you in rags? that such ideal loveliness was employed in as I should. I wanted to do so yesterday, already. the care of goats? And this was not all that aston- Why did you run off so hastily, in spite of my callished him: there was soul in her every glance; her being was imbued with soul.

"Well, then," he said, and put forth his hand to take hers; she drew back a step, and he, observing meeting than was the old Hussar himself. this, stood still and continued, "I hope you are not "Let it remain so," he replied, as he cordially afraid of me?" in a voice that was slightly tinged shook his hand; "fortune favors me to-day." with wounded feeling.

"I do not know you, sir; but you do not inspire she replied with modest candor and earnestness. "Whore does your uncle live?"

There is our house, but somewhat concealed." "Then of course there is a village in the vicin-itv ?" "Two hours distance from here."

"That is far. I am pretty well tired of my jaunt accidentally met with the young girl. He was anxin the forest. I have traversed it broad and long, lous to put some questions to the old man, but in his for I lost my way. Is there, perhaps, some kind of hospitable impatience, he heard him not, but, hastenan inn near this where I could obtain some refresh- ing to the open door, he called out loudly : ment?"

near the castle. If you can content yourself with est cheese, and the half bottle of wine. And then black bread and fresh milk, sir, we can offer you that with pleasure."

"Excellent! So I may accompany you to your good." home? I ask not your kindness to give you trouble; I will gladly prove my gratitude."

"It is not necessary, sir; we give nothing for pay. I will lead you there ; please follow me."

ing by her side. His curlosity was intensely awak- to be seen in steel blue and gray." ened by her manner, and he was desirious of know ing more of her. "So you refuse to take payment ?" he said. "I did not think you were so proud."

is a sin-stain even of wealth, and we are poor, com. folks as we. He puts on great and saucy airs, as if bor and through prayer. And to be content is to be only his humble servant."

rich." "Your white fingers, my child, do not evince very hard work."

"The hardest part is done by my uncle, who performs it as well as he is able." "You take charge of your little flock all day ?"." "Only two hours distance from here i that is all. forms it as well as he is able."

"Why, I deolare, Mr. Lyndworm, or Lyndman, or am to call you properly in the future, you must pro-

"That is right," he went on, "that you have so ing you back? I saw very well that you meant it for the best."

Lyonel was no less delighted at the unexpected

"But, my little man," continued the cheerful old soldier, as he tightly held the stranger's hand, " unme with fear. But my unole awaits my return," der your straw hat sits more than a mere senator; for it is a well known fact that beneath many a senator's head gear there is an addle-pate. How did "Near by. Do you see yonder the declivity of you find out my old home-nest in this corner of the birch, and close to it the hedge of blooming sloes? forest? I see you are a smart one; such an one as rarely escapes from the schools, in Europe or America."

> Lyonel responded briefly to the question by telling the story of his wanderings, and relating how he had

"Ho, there, Cilly ! Get the table ready ! the best "The inn is in the village; but a better one is we have beneath the roof! bring bread and the oldrun like a greyhound to the farmer-tenant Trolle. and buy another bottle full of the same sort; it is

> "So there are others living in your neighborhood? Who is the farmer-tenant Trolle?"

"A man, sir, who follows Swedish trade, as the saying is; who has the wine coming in, the copper When she had said this, she turned away from going out. In former times, the drunkard displayed him and called her goats, which followed her obedi- his copper on chin and nose, in handsome red ; now, ently. Lyonel, less docile than they, preferred walk- it is almost rusty and weather-beaten, and is only "Could the man accommodate me for the night ?" "I believe he can; and will do it with many bows and sorapes ; for he loves the musicians that I heard yesterday singing and rattling in your purse. For "I proud? You are pleased to jest, sir. Pride the rest, he is no friendly neighbor to such poor mon people. But we have still what we need, by la- he were the Lord Prime Minister himself, and not

"Whose tenant is he ?" to a

"Of his excellency, the Herr Von Urming at Lichtenhiem." ti atti i ti i i

How? Does he live in this neighborhood ? So

"In a convent!" repeated Lyonel, in a tone of alight alarm. "Wherefore? Has perhaps an unhappy attachment ?"

"Pooh, pooh ! What does the poor little thing know of unbappy love? Your city maidens know more in their tonth year than a beggar girl, that can only ogle her bread crust, comprehends at twenty. No, no," continued the old man, in a tone of vexation and sadness, " The innocent creature is alone in the world. Except myself, she has no company ; she is shunned as if she were cursed with leprosy. Do you understand me? We live four years already in this hole since our misfortunes overwhelmed us like a passing pestilence. Grief placed my good wife and CHly's mother in the grave, and the shame of others rests upon us. I am an honest fellow, as good as any other whose heart is in the right place, and I am the girl's uncle. And that is enough to prevent all who know it from holding intercourse with me. But God, the Lord, knows us both, and we know him, and are content. And now, enough of this; I have said too much, already."

"You are a man of honor, sorgeant, and I like you, but you speak so enigmatically that I am desirous of hearing more. Perhaps, if you placed confidence in me, I could aid you. Speak openly."

The invalid drew his brows together, and responded with indignant feeling:

"You mean the aid of gold ? Thank you, I do not need it. I know too well that honor and conscience are for sale in our day. But Cilly cannot be helped with tons of gold ! Wee to him who would take her for a wife ! He would take in his arms the misery of a life time ! Let us drop the subject. Do not ask another question, and, in particular, do not speak of. it to the girl. Give me your hand upon it-give me your hand I"

Lyonel could not imagine what the strange, almost fearful expressions of the old man signified ; but he refrained from manifesting any further ouriosity, although the dark suspicion crossed his brain i " Can this holy Ceollia be a repentant Magdalon ?" He. placed his hand almost involuntarily in the outstretched hand of Tobias, who shook it heartily, wiped his brow, as if he would rub off the wrinkles there. He seized a wine-glass, and oried with a forced galety:

BANNER OF LIGHT.

" Touch glasses, young friend ; you are a treasure to me, believe it. But Beelzebub himself led us to converse about things that give me the head and the heart ache! Away with it! Let us drink !"

Tobias turned the conversation to the emigrants, of whom Lyonel had told him, and he inquired concerning their chances in the New World. But, in the midst of his narration, he was interrupted by the entrance of Cecilia with the lighted lamp, and the wine-bottle from farmer Trolle's cellar.

"Well, my girl, what did the folks over there say ?" inquired her uncle. "It will not do to send the gentleman late in the dark night, and to offer him the bed of straw yonder, I dare not."

" They seemed but half inclined." replied Cecilia: "to accommodate Mr. Harlington for the night. Atfirst, they were somewhat rude, and ordered me out of the house; as I went on speaking, they became even suspicious, and murmured something about strange vagabonds and foreign strollers ; they would hardly listen to me. And when I told them the gentleman stopping with us was a distinguished person from America, they all laughed at me. Mr. Trolle, who was not quite sober, swore and raved. and would not believe a word I said. Frau Isabella and Miss Sibylla at length desired to see the gentleman with their own eyes, before they would decide. Herr von Harlington will therefore have the goodncss-

"I thought so !" indignantly interrupted the sergeant. " They are as coarse as straw, and as low as counterfeit money! I will go with you, sir; do not be troubled. Such as I know how to digest a few insults. That is the rule, but I understand how to entrap foxes !"

While Tobias Thork further questioned his nieco, Lyonel regarded her with ever increasing admiration and curiosity. The childlike innocence impressed on every feature of the delicate face; the touching accents of her voice, her choice modes of expression, that evinced a higher culture that is usually found • in the huts of the poor-all these were so many guarantees to him that this unfortunate was so from no fault of her own ; that it was impossible she could be suffering for sin. Her face betrayed not even the existence of passionate feeling or vehement emotion. It bore the signet of an unchangable repose. Though gentleness and friendliness were in her words, not the slightest token of a smile overspread her features. and in her eye dwelt something akin to a deep-hidden grief.

As soon as the old man resumed the conversation with his guest. Cecilia sat down opposite to them, a silent listener, filling her uncle's and Lyonel's glass from time to time, and giving her sympathizing attention to the young narrator as he told of his native land. She kept her looks fixed on him, and met his with the utmost unconsciousness or indifference. So passed the evening. Tobias accompanied the young man to the farmer's dwelling, where the stranger was suspiciously mustered by all their eyes. But the women found his dress so elegant, his linen so fine and 'dazzlingly white, and Mr. Trolle having read his passport with approving nods, it was at last decided to open for him the best chamber in the house.

CHAPTER XII.

· A Day in St. Catharine's Vale.

The farm-house appeared on the next morning to be a large, commodious country building, with comfortable rooms, well furnished, although simple in arrangement, and surrounded with fine stables and other out-houses. It was situated on an eminence in the deep forest, from which St. Catharine's Vale -the greater portion, at least-could be overlooked. At the foot of the hill a well-conditioned garden, filled

"Bir, soit dit entre nous ; do not make too familiar with the intrusive fellow. He is an impudent dom, and asked : wretch, and will deceive you. The kindness of his Excellency accords him par misericards the uninhabited barracks of a hat; but I will soon drive him out of it, He has kept house there the longest has many other needs. Can you live in the world time."

"I am on my travels; the man has been kind to what do you most desire ?" me; he possesses much knowledge, and interests me deeply."

"Throw him an alms. He and the creature with him are content with boiled potatoes. Therefore, uncle?" pardon, Monsieur, for yourself the table shall be served with the best; but, permettes moi, those two vale; and those in the house of Mr. Trolle do not shall never boast afterward that they have ever love us." dined at my house."

." Well, then, if you are not on good terms with the old moustache, please prepare a dinner and have it sent there. I will eat with them, but will pay mile and a half from here." you in advance."

Mr. Trolle turned bimself around, and from side to side in strange embarrassment, and knew not how to deport himself or to find the fitting answer. At length he replied, with a shrug of the shoulders : Mr. Harlington !"

" Excusez, but I cannot serve you. I will not send a wooden spoon of mine to that low set. I am asked you whether you are a Lutheran, Reformed, heartily sorry to have to refuse you. You are a stranger in the land, sir, and do not know that crew; do not contaminate yourself with them. The young Catholic observance." female is quite pretty, il faet le dire; yes, sir, one might have pity with the little witch. But I warn you to beware of close approach to them. It has who was no Preshvierian, neither was he a Lutheran. its reasons. You might thoroughly repeat of it in or a Catholic, as mother and uncle have often told the future. I will say no more."

"But why not? The young girl seems perfectly artless and innocent," said Lyonel, who gladly would deep emotion; in conflict with himself, in visible have penetrated the mystery.

warned. I will not call the wench by her proper ing voice: name; I might get in return from the Manchot, the the bull-dog, her uncle, a pair of holes in the head, and trouble with his Excellency. He is a veritable and therefore anxious for you, also. Take the best Satan; qui c'est le diable. Two years ago he most terribly chastised one of my servant men, who called the little ragged witch by her right name; and when I complained to his Excellency, the minister, he became angry, and I was compelled immediately to discharge the man from my service. I will not say anything against it, but c'etait une petite injustice."

Harlington essayed in vain to overcome the prejudices of the steward with regard to old Tobias, so he changed the conversation, and demanded his account, paid for his entertainment, and taking his valise, retraced his way to the cottage of the disabled Hussar. He was received by him with cordiality. and immediately invited to dinner, such as Cecilia's art could best provide. She, too, soon made her appearance, more lovely to the eye of the guest than on the previous day; not because in honor of his of farewell, she had not yet recovered from her survisit she had attired herself in her best, which was poor and faded also, but that for a moment her usual seriousness gave way to a cheerful expression, and for the first time she smiled. This smile, added to the traveler. She stood there gazing, till both had dismildly sorrowfal appeal in her eyes, with which appeared from view amid the thick, encircling she regarded him as if she would have read his soul, thrilled him with a feeling for which he could not find a name. There was something magical in this: it was not in vain that farmer Trolle had called her a witch, and, as it seemed, suspected her of mysterious arts. Lyonel would have given much to know what the secret was that enveloped her; but he sought no farther, to avoid wounding the sensitive heart of the old soldier, nor would he tell him how he had been warned by the steward against hím.

He spent a quietly happy day with these worldaparted ones, acknowledging to himself that it was one of, the most beautiful days of his travel-life. The morning was passed in wandering through the romantic valley, in the companiouship of Tobias, whose sensible remarks and manifold experiences were surprising funds of knowledge to his young friend. The vale itself bore a resemblance to a fairy garden, in which at every step the scene was changed, and a new landscape picture revealed to the delighted sight. The simple repast, whose chief dish consisted of fresh trout from the stream, was seasoned with cheerful jest and conversation. Cecilia, who was an attentive listener, seldom spoke hersolf, and but very rarely did the illuminating smile overspread her lovely face. Music, too, was not wanting at the close of the frugal feast, for, at the request of her uncle, the young girl sang to the accompaniment of her guitar. She sang willingly, but scated herself at the open window, the better to conceal her maiden shyness. Lyonel was enwrapt in heartfelt admiration of the melodious strains, the skillful touch of the light fingers, and the depth of pure and holy feeling awakened from the strings, whose melody was responded to by his soul. The Hussar felt highly flattered by the praises of his

Lyonel smiled in approval of this unexpected wis-"Who taught you these sayings of truth ?" "Mother and uncle, and also my own experience."

" But, dear child, you have a heart, and that heart without harboring a single wish ? . Tell me sandidly,

"That all, all human beings might be good; or at least, not quite so wicked as they often are." "Have you no friends-no associates, but your

" No, sir, not one: we live alone in St. Catharine's

"But you sometimes see other persons? For instance, when you go to church ?"

"But I do not go to church; it is more than a

"What religion do you belong to ?"

"To the Christian faith, like yourself, sir."

"I am a Presbyterian."

"And therefore no Christian? You are jesting

"Of course, I am a Christian. I ought to have or a Catholic, in belief?"

"I have been baptised and brought up in the

"And who was your worthy teacher of religion?" "None other but your own, sir-Christ himselfme, as it must be of itself."

Lyonel gazed upon the strange young girl with embarrassment, he took a few steps here and thither; " May be, or not. Ce m'est e'gal. You are then he approached her again, and said, in a falter-

> "Will you grant me a favor I have to ask of you? I am anxious for the weak health of your kind uncle, care of him !"

She folded her hands, with ferver, raised her violeteyes in sadness to the twilight heavens, and sighed: "Oh, that I could give my life for his !" she cried. "Oh, that with care and attention I could strengthen his health, and prolong his days on earth !"

"I will give you the means. I entreat you, do not refuse me l'

"Why should I? I will willingly accept-" The voice of Tobias Thork was heard from the house. In haste Lyonel placed a small roll of gold pieces In Cecilla's hand, who, at the touch, stood rooted to the spot, blushing and confused, with downcast eyes. The old man appeared, and called out : "I will soon come back !"

When Lyonel gave his hand to the maiden in token prise and confusion. The roll of money fell from her nerveless grasp; she looked up with tear-filled eyes, and silently gazed at the retreating form of the

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Witten for Banner of Light. THE ROSE BUDS ON THE STRAND; OR, PLORA'S OFFERING.

BY MRS. B. A. ATWELL.

All brightly rose the god of Day, Ontspreading wide his beams---Till mountain top and ocean spray. And glen, and woodland far away, Were decked with silver sheen_ And then, on turret, dome, and spire. On palace, wall, and cot, He drew, in graceful lines of fire, The pictures, which, so oft inspire And cheer a lonely lot.

Original Essays. IMMORTALITY OF THE ANIMAL BACE.

BY ABTEMESIA COFFINBERRY.

The subject of the immortality of animals, is one which is enlisting inquiry, and some degree of interest, in the minds of many who have commenced their course of investigation in relation to the laws N. J., in No. 102, page 4, of the Herald of Progress, and the abswer of the editor of that paper to the inme to present my views at this time.

It is a fact well known to every observer, or at least to every candid investigator, that every individual of the whole animal kingdom, from the highest down through every grade of animated individualized existence, to the lowest, is possessed of a deor perfection of the physical organism. Where the physical organism is simple, or imperfect, the intel. are most attracted to our presence. ligence of that individuality must be correspondingly limited; inasmuch as the physical organism in all forms of animal life, is exactly adapted to the fullest expression of the spirit which animates the external form of every distinct individuality.

When man has so far progressed in the study of form is the result of his spiritual individuality, induration as is his own.

truths, and that the physical organization of the all its bearings and functions.

What evidence can be adduced that the most minute organization, whether it is man, animal, bird, same immortality? . Each organization is an indi- ornaments. viduality of the great whole. Each is to itself the changed ?--ever become a vacancy ? And if it canline to be drawn between the eternal and the evanescent? Who is to determine its boundary?

pray what was it? 'In the highest realms of spirit-life that have been penetrated by the inhabitants of this sphere, we see beasts and birds, insects and reptiles of every form to its individual existence not materially differing and hue; trees and fruits and flowers, all of which are possessed of a beauty, a purity, a perfection, cor- In the change called death, why should they not be responding to their ascension in the scale of purified matter. The birds that float and warble amid groves which grow on mountains of pure diamond, must, of necessity, be much more sublimated than the feathered songsters of earth. On earth, in their and our first and most crude state of existence, the line of animal life runs in a different direction from that of the human family, prevented from speaking by a mob in the city of and through future ages of the earth, or cycles of Cincinnati, Ohio. Twenty years hence, when slavery eternity, they will not converge, or become any more is extinct in this country, and all have come to see alike than they now are, although each will be ris- what a damning curse it is to-day, when they fally ing, and progressing toward the perfection of their realize what it has cost this Government, in blood and eternally dissimilar natures. The horse may be- treasure, how the above record will shame every income as intelligent in future ages as man now is, telligent inhabitant of that city, when his attention yet he would still be a horse, and no nearer a human is called to it, and he feels how deep a stain it is to being than he is at present. wipe out! We are only brought into proximity with the different animal races here, because man has seen fit every American will feel proud in recalling to memto make many of the more intelligent of them subservient to his purposes ; otherwise they would have been inhabiting only such regions of the earth as how human bondage could have been borne so long by man had not yet reached. Man being the superior, those who call the negro chattel-for they who foster intellectually, is positive, and, as a consequence, the the cursed system are the most thoroughly damned. negative must recede. The two natures being so unlike, could not occupy the same atmosphere upon an equality, or in a natural condition; the inferior must give place to the superior, else become subservient to the higher power : hence man by his superior and positive force induces, or compels, the obedlence or subserviency of the inferior. Two unequal principles unlike, or without natural affinity, cannot honored. occupy together upon an equality, and each sustain their natural inherent rights ; there must be a compromise. If men and animals occupy their natural heritage together, the most powerful must dictate the terms and prescribe the conditions of such compromise. On earth it has resolved itself into the the largest count in numbers, but the eternal right form of master and servant; and without such con- will come uppermost in time, and the host of foes ditions, they could not dwell together. It does not follow, that, because all spirits do not table decree, from which there is no appeal. It matrecognize the existence of animals in the higher life | ters not about the accuracy of detail, whether all a of man, that they do not exist. It is in spirit life man thinks or says is true, so that he takes in the as it is here, viz: that spirits 'must desire and great broad principle in his motive-does as he will to have their presence, else they could not would have others do by him-the end will justify, meet. In many of the spirit homes, a great variety and the future will reward. The maxime of the of the more pure, harmless and beautiful of both olden time are set aside just now as stale and tame, animals and birds, hold the same, or a relation cor- but the world will come back to them in time and responding to that which they do here. Birds are in sorrow, and count up the cost of their departure. the especial favorites of children; and many little maidens, owing to their peculiarly gentie natures, the present war, and thinks that he has the sum of it, are fond of snowy lambs, for pets and companions. is greatly mistaken. It is not all of life, nor all of These pure and innocent beings, though mentally man, nor all of war that we see. The fature is inferior, are very useful both on earth and there, as ahead of us, and all that is to day, reaches forth into aids in unfolding some of the higher attributes in that future, and will declare its conditions and the minds of children. It is, therefore, wise while events. Such men as Wendell Phillips are the adrearing children, especially in the mundane exist- vance guard, doing picket duty for the great army ence, to make judicious selections from among the of humanity, and while he bravely steps forward different races of animals to be their friends, com- upon the unknown ground, explores where few men panions and dependents; by this means attributes can see with him, let him be bonored, though he in their character are early unfolded that may oth- may beckon forward faster than the timid conservaerwise lie dormant many years. Give to the lad a tive world may wish to go. The world needs such well-bred horse, or dog, as his own; for whose wel- men, for without them it / would make no progress fare make him entirely responsible, and it will be forward ; therefore let us thank God for them, and found that its influence in unfolding his character is not show our blindness and lack of brains by mutincalculable. Give to the little girl birds, or lambs, tering curses. Those who throw stones and defile or both ; to the maiden a cow, or palfrey, and you themselves by basting eggs at Wendell Phillips will, by that means, throw around them a golden network, which, while it alds in moulding the character, strengthens and gives tone to the tender affeotions

The philosophy of what has been said will readily be perceived by those who have tried or will try the experiment.

The little chirruping insects of summer sometimes perch themselves within the habitations of man; there they revel in, what is to them, a higher atmosphere than that which is alone exhaled from the earth. It which govern universal life. To such, a few thoughts is there they will pour forth their fullest powers of are addressed, as evidences of the affirmative of the joyous existence, if they find an atmosphere made proposition. The inquiry of L. A. H., of Orange, pure and holy by emanations from minds in blissful harmony; but if the atmospheric elements are discordant, they will not remain. It has been said that quiry, which, to my mind, is not satisfactory, induce orickets and croakers are indications of good when they visit the the precincts of man's abode; to that saying comes this response. " in that abode virtuous harmony is the prevailing element."

If these premises are correct, it will be admitted that it is of some importance, not only to encourage the society of animals, birds and insects, but to be gree of intelligence, corresponding to the complexity judicious in their selections, to note well what kind we, as individuals, are most fond of, and what kind

Some eight or ten years since, we lost a beautiful milch cow. It was winter, and, by some accident. perhaps slipping on ice, her back was injured. Men examined her ; raised her to her feet, and finally decided that her injury must prove fatal. She was made as comfortable as possible, and left to her fate. himself, as to fully comprehend that his outward At the usual milking hour, I was in the barn-yard. and visited the apparently dying animal. She recogstead of the spiritual being a result of his physical nized me, and made the noise she was wont to make man-then will he have arrived at a position from when I came with the milk-pail and a pail of food. whence he will readily comprehend the natural laws | How I pitied her ! and even shed tears of sympathy and economy which govern the whole animal king- over the helpless animal, who could only give voice. dom; these lie like steps, or grades below himself, to her sufferings by pitcous moans. Night shut out down which he may, at will, descend and survey the view of the dying favorite, and my domestic duthe myriads of intelligent existences as eternal in ties partially withdrew my mind from her situation.

Near nine o'clock. my husband, with lantern in hand, Granting that the physical organism in man is went into the yard to see what her situation was. but an external expression or manifestation of an On his return, he said she was still breathing, but interior essential or spiritual being, and that the certainly would not survive but a few minutes. We manifestation is the evidence of the essential exist- soon retired for the night. In the course of half an ence, it therefore follows that through the whole an- hour, or, perhaps more, I was in that condition beimal kingdom, the like evidences prove the like tween sleep and outer consciousness, when my spiritual vision was opened and I saw the spot where brute, no matter how imperfect, or how dissimilar the cow lay. What was my surprise, while I saw the to the human form, proves the existence of an inte- dead and stiffening form lying on its bed of straw. rior or spiritual being, corresponding with the ex. to see a beautiful and perfect cow, of the same size ternal expression, and commensurate therewith, in and color as the dead one, standing by its side, look. ing as placid and happy as one could well imagine.

There were these points of difference between the former well cow and the new one, which, in its new fish, reptile, insect, tree, plant, or flower, does not position, seemed fully at home, and not a stranger. continue to exist eternally? If man, the highest in It was more perfect in its outline, and more refined the scale, has an eternal existence even, though he in its general appearance. The earth cow had handnever draws a breath in the earth-life, what reason some brass knobs on the tip end of her horns : the exists that all organized matter may not have the new cow's horns were just like the other's, minus the

I have seen the spirite of the human family, at centre of that vast whole. Can that centre be intervals, for the last eighteen years. Had the same phenomena occurred relative to a member of the hunot, when each individuality takes upon itself a man family, I would, and I think correctly, have inhigher form, as it must, according to the laws of ferred that I saw the spirit of the departed one. progression, what is that form, but an existence cor- What shall we call the new-born cow? If it was the responding to the higher life of man? Where is the spirit of the former cow, or the real cow having assumed a new condition, how long will it continue in that new state? If it was not the spirit of the cow,

> Each individual of the kine family has a beginning from that of each individual of the human family. governed by similar laws?

> > INTOLERENCE. BT C. D. GRISWOLD.

[APRIL 12_1862.]

with flowers and vegetables, extended, over-shadowed by the blossom-freighted fruit trees.

Here in an arbor, overgrown with trailing plants, our traveler took his breakfast on the following day. The host soon made his appearance, clad in almost city style, and walking with the authoritative air that was peculiar to him. He came to give his company to the guest, or, perhaps, with the less laudable intention of satisfying his own curiosity. He did not, therefore, hesitate, after the first salutations, to put a number of questions, to which 'the American replied as fully as he deemed proper.

بو از می در در از می می از می می می از می می می از م

But Trolle was not at all pleased with the mere title of farmer-tenant, with which the gentleman addressed him. He erected his clumsy figure to the utmost, and drawing up his head and thrusting forth his fiery face, he remarked that, although he rented some portion of land from his Excellency, the Minister Von Urming, he was, in fact, the steward of his Excellency ; in proof of which he stated that he was entrusted with the gathering of the tenths and ground taxes of several villages, and was in charge of two large farms in the immediate vicinity. Honor to him to whom honor is due i Lyonel took care thenceforth to give him the desired title; and he was informed in return that Mr. Barnabas Trolle stood high in favor with his Excellency ; yes indeed, without boasting, that he passed for the favorite of the Minister; that, during the Summer, the noble family graciously honored him with a visit for several days or weeks, when, in the friendly intercourse of daily life, the affairs of the estates were talked over and business concluded to better satisfaction than by mere written orders.

"And with your permission," went on the loquacions Trolle, " where does your honor go next ?"

"As I said, through Lichtenheim back to Baarmingen," was Lyonel's reply. "But if it is not inconvenient, I should like to ask you for a dinner, Mr. Steward."

"Votre tres humble servitcur, sir ! 'I will serve you with much pleasure."

"Then please prepare for three persons : and if I may give you the trouble, let us have the best of what you have in kitchen and cellar, Mr. Steward. I will pay you well for all, as I wish to entertain two good friends."

"The gentleman expects friends? Perhaps fellow travelers ?" inquired Mr. Trolle, with extreme friendliness.

"No; you know your neighbors, the old sergeant Tobias Thork and his nelos ?"

"What! Those---- " The astonished farmer could say no more. An overwhelming surprise that bordered on alarm was depicted in his countenance, and it robbed him, for the moment, of the power of rejolader. "You would not bring that beggarly pack into my house ?" he cried at last, when he had

"Why not? The scores to me an houset man, though, of course, I have only known him a abort time." and ent is contain that there is the first the

"Do you see, my man," he said, " that is wine of the soul for me, with which the heart gladly intoxicates itself sometimes. Instruction, voice and guitar, all are the girl's legacy from her mother, my good departed sister."

guest-much more so than the modest songstress.

When Lyonel thought of preparing for the con. tinuation of his journey in the coolness of the evening, and while Tobias, who was to accompany him part of the way to Lichtenheim, went into the hut for his hat and cane, Cecilia found herself alone with the young stranger for a few moments. Without the slightest degree of embarrassment, she spoke to him, as he stood silent and thoughtful before her : "Will you not return here before you leave our country ?" she inquired.

"Oh, certainly; of course, by all means ! I have been too happy in this paradise. But confess to me. Cecilia, are you happy here?"

"Why should I not be? I am content where my dear uncle is-and he is ill so often."

"But, dear child, if he were once to leave you ?--he is but mortal."

"Then-yes, then-I have often been visited by that fearful thought !- then, as now, I will trust in Him who gave us the past and will send us the future. Wherefore should the All-Loving One desire my sorrow, when I would do no evil unto Him ?"

"You are in the right, you plous soul! Hold ever fast to this beautiful conviction : it awards the compensation for all that is desirable which you have hitherto been deprived of."

"I am in reality deprived of nothing."

"But you are poor, and, therefore, scorned; or at least, less honored in the world than you merit. You are without the means and power to take your appropriate place."

"And wherefore should I, Mr. Harlington ? You know, as well as I, that contentment is true wealth; that the pride of a pure conscience is untarnished honor; that, our will-power is our highest might?" I rose and slowly wandered where Sweet song birds fill the morning air, As from their quiet, vernal bowers. They come, to charm the golden hours. And then, I stood beside a stream, (Than fairer never was; I ween.) Whose sylvan waves came sparkling on, Like crystal jewels, in the sun-Till all the snowy-pebbled shore, With rippling waves, was covered o'er; And softly sweet their music seemed, As angel air-harps in a dream. Thus as I stood, they closely pressed, In varied form, with foaming crest, Till, glowing with the coming tide, They closely nestled by my side.

Along the river's verdant banks Fair Flora bloomed in courtly ranks ; Enthroned in state securely there, She poured her incense on the air. Then gathered with her own fair hand Two buds and cast them on the strand. The next small wave that kissed the shore The precious hurden gently bore-And then, as if on mystic tide, From wave to wave, they proudly glide I On-still on-the twin buds go-Unheeding all, above, below-Till the rude breakers seize the prize And bear them midway to the skies ! Alas I the bond which nature gave Is severed by the rolling wave 1 -They part to never meet again, In storm or sunshine on the main !

In twilight's soft and dowy hour. Fair Flora wandered from her bower. And waited each returning wave To bring her back the buds she gave. But the darksome wave, as it reached the shore, Mournfully said : " Nevermore ! nevermore !" .. Tell me, ye rays from the burning sun, Where have my buds of beauty gone? Did ye leave them upon the stormy sea, To strive with . mighty powers' that be ?" The sunbeam said-... As I sank to rest. I laid my last ray on their breast !!! Tell me, ye Spirits of the Deep. Where my twin buds of beauty sleep?

Have ye cast them upon some rocky shore-Lost to my gaze forevermore?" The spirit voice, as it passed her by, Moaningly said : ... Parted they lie !! Tell me, ye stars, from night's dark zone, Where my twin buds have found a home ! Did we take them in their beauty bright To make twin stars for the crown of night ?" The star-host sang, from their home on high : " HEBE thy beautiful buds of promise lie-We gathered them from the earth's cold breast, And bound on their brow a starry crest ! Here they will shine on earth's dark shore, Till sunbeams glow to fade no more !"

Then Flora bowed her head in prayer, Saying, "Beautiful buds, I will meet you there !" New York City, 1802. at grant is the state of state

On the 24th of March, 1862, Wendell Phillips was

Wendell Phillips is a representative man-a man ory in future ages, when the strifes of this present time shall have passed away, and the world wonders The time is coming when they who make sacrifices of their popularity among men, of the fame they could otherwise win, and of their fortunes, for a principle, will be honored even in the age in which they live; and the time is coming, too, when they who claim the right to hold another man's existence and being subservient to their own uses will cease to be Honored above all men should be the man who wages a war for natural rights against the usurpation of power-the man who stands with the minority of men with God, contending against human wrong. Party prejudice and ignorance may give will be vanquished in the end-this is an immu-

Wheever makes an inventory of the material of

APRIL 12, 1862.]

BANNER OF LIGHT.

would place Jeff Davis in the Presidential chair at one peculiarity of the platform on which I then Washington. This declaration is susceptible of a stood was its entire independence, every speaker giv. logical demonstration. How slowly the world has ing utterance to his own thought in his own way ; advanced since the days when men were put to so that, while I was classed nominally with an assodeath for opinion's sake. The spirit of the present clation of persons from whose fellowship I have now time indicates the world upon the verge of a new retired, it is not to be taken for granted that I acage of martyrdom to bring it back to the recogni- cepted all their absurdities of belief and practice." tion of principles it has not suffered to rule. Truth must be bapticed in blood, to give it vitality. When retired from an association of persons who gather man says to God " stand back," and assumes power, he comes to war.

Translated for the Banner of Light. . ENCOURAGEMENT TO LABOR.

BY LOLA DE FORCE.

I rejoice when told of the mighty power That is felt from the Press and the Pen, And with pride do I welcome each golden hour That the glorious achievements of thinking men Have tended to loosen the bands, like steel. Forged at Mystery's furnace by Error's hand. And bound round the spirit till one almost feels That a being accurat is dissolute man.

From my soul wells a fountain of ambitious thought, When the wildering blackness of Ignorance's night To the whitening shades of twilight is brought, By the soft, brilliant glimmer of truth's pure light,

And an impulse most daring possesses my heart, When the diamond-gemmed brow of fool Fashion appears,

To scatter, by science-tipped magical darts, All her sorrow-stained rubies and sin-laden tears ;

And place in their stead, from the mind's richest store, Real diamonds of Wisdom, pure rubies of Love ; A pearl for each tear-drop, 'till her heart evermore Will be laved by the Fountains of Light from above: And by Knowledge, not Faith, is my soul made strong To contend for the good that's enshrined in each soul, And refute the vile charge that " no good can be found, Since a curse down from Adam must ceaselessly roll."

A divine revolation, by translucent light, Emitted from torches swung by angel hands, Is made ; and, oh, cease in thy wearying flight To discover the beauties of Elysian Lands, For darkness is vanquished-e'en twilight's o'ercome And all evil on earth is at last proved to be

But the shadow of goodness, that Truth wisely flung O'er our path, that the absolute right we might see.

DEFECTION OF BRO. AMBLER.

The Christian Freeman, a Universalist paper, published in Boston, under date of Feb. 21, contains an article from Rev. R. P. Ambler, purporting to be "a statement of facts," which suggests some criticism. and in which some very remarkable assertions are made in reference to the influence of "what is of the natural and spiritual worlds, and has narnow usually recognized by the name of Spiritnal. | rated the occurrence of facts which demonstrate the ism." The whole article is in response to one "J. | possibility of spirit communion, and been an instru-S.," who, it would seem, not being possessed of that charity which "thinketh no evil," rather distrusts it be now? In his new relations, and in his sectathe sincerity of Bro. Ambler, in asking again the fellowship of the Universalist denomination.

In order to satisfy the suspicious doubter, and prove that he is worthy of the fellowship and denominational favor of this doubty sect, Bro. Ambler proceeds to "define his position" in a manner which editor Cobb says, "will afford satisfaction to the friends of our cause." The two prominent points of ment and obsession, and by many other modes? his indictment, to which Bro. A. refers, are 1st., that | Can he present the logical deductions from these ashe has "for many years been a follower of Andrew Jackson Davis;" and, 2d, " that he has tried, with enough for him? We sincerely hope so, but greatly might and main, for a series of years, to tear down and injure our (Universalist) societies and churches."

Both these charges are denied, and in language which nearly all the public advocates of Spiritual- independent platform from which he has at present ism might employ with truth, and as properly as retired. He must, therefore, saorifice upon this par-Bro. Ambler. To the first charge, he responds : tial platform, his privilege of teaching what he "While I believe the person here named to be hon- knows to be true, for the sake of denominational est and philanthropic in his aims, and while I regard him as in some respects, a remarkable mana phenomenon, indeed, in the psychological science, I am free to say to him or to others, that I have never attached to his teachings any authoritative virtue." This is precisely the opinion of the great body of Spiritualists, and the position which Mr. Davis which no clergyman of our [Universalist] faith himself assumes. He does not claim to be an au. | could have reached, awakening in their souls those thoritative teacher in any other sense than that aspirations for truth which can be satisfied only in which any man may be said to speak or teach by within the temple of universal grace," and thereauthority, who utters the language of truth. And I upon rather congratulates himself, the editor, and have never heard of a public advocate of Spiritual. the denomination, that with his small rod he has ism, or a private member of that great household of been " beating the bush," and that " by-and by there faith, who ever considered Mr. Davis or his teach ings infallible, or professed to follow him any further than his teachings were responded to by their own reason and intuitive convictions. To this extent therefore, all Spiritualists, as well as Bro. Ambler, may be considered entitled to the fellowship of Universalists. To the second charge against his "might" and adhered-such as the Fatherhood of God, the Broth. its door, or within its walls. erhood of, Man, the Immortality of the Soul, the Record, and to which all the affections of the heart tions, delivered acceptably to almost any Universation. If they do but grow in their little sectarian pot, they are beautiful and fragrant to the soul, but if found growing in other's gardens, or spontaneously springing up in Nature's broad fields, they and external authority? are considered as of no value, but only fit to be trampled upon with noxicus and poisonous weeds.)

il: an

46

ht

68 u='

it-

8 be`

he .

y, boʻ o,

re. of it, of

۲Ø<sup>1</sup>

bod - yd nie hied

6-10 10

The announcement of Bro. Ambler, that he has around an independent platform, where every honest conviction of truth-seeking minds has a chance to be heard, and an opportunity for comparison with others, may perhaps "satisfy the friends of our cause," but it must be a source of regret to the friends of universal freedom and spiritual progress. Does Bro. Ambler wish it to be "taken for granted" by his new associates, that he does propose to accept all their individual "absurdities of faith and practice," and giving up his own independence, merge himself with a denomination, the written creed of which shall express what he believes, only what he believes, and all that he does believe on any subject? Are we henceforth to estimate the moral character of our brother by the average or special conduct of the members of his denomination? If not, if he proposes and desires to be judged by his individual standard of belief and practice, then he gains nothing by leaving his former associates for the Universalist denomination.

Bro. Ambler must know that it is a cardinal principle with Spiritualists, that every man is responsible for his own opinions and conduct, and that none of them profess a willingness to be responsible for the vagaries of others. " Prove all things, hold fast that which is good," is a divine mandate, addressed to the individual soul, standing on an independent platform-and no man, by associating himself with any sect or denomination, can avoid that responsibility. or be absolved from that duty.

It is the world of outsiders, including members of the Universalist and all other ecclesiastical sects who have endeavored by false witness to make every professed Spiritualist a pack-borse to carry about all the sins, imperfections and vagaries of the whole fraternity. Spiritualists have never professed to do anything of the sort, but only to " bear one another's burdens, and thus fulfill the law of Christ," whenever they could thus serve each other's spiritual growth. As individuals we hold our opinions, as individuals are prepared to give a reason for the faith that is In us, and as individuals are responsible to society and to God for the character of our lives. As an individual, "not drawing consciously from any other man's cistern," Bro. Ambler has taught the fundamental doctrines which he has nameddoes he expect to do more now? He has taught, beside, while on the independent platform, the relations ment and living witness of such power. How will rian pulpit, can he speak the whole truth? It is not in the creed. Will he dare to be independent? Will he dare to attest and assert what his experience corroborates, but what so many of his brother clergymen disbelieve and depy-that spirits do communicate by the humble raps, by the undignified tipping of tables, by mechanically writing, by entrance-serted truths to his people, and the pulpit be large mistake if there be not denominational protest, and the manifestation of a spirit powerful enough to split the denomination, or to cast out our friend on to the

TO THE SOUL.

What line shall measure the orbit. Wherein thy free thoughts run i Thy nights are not the nights o' th' world, Thy days flow not from the sun.

Thy dreams grow softly down into The gloomlest hours that pass, Until they lie in thee, like pits In a meadow, lined with grass.

Across the tops of the centuries Thou takest thy way sublime, And knowest the colors of all the spots That freekle the body of time.

With changeless and sumless treasures Thy wondrous realm is strown— The white processions of the days Of love, are all thy own.

For thou canst wake and call them From where they sweetly bide, All with th' love-born years that hang Their golden heads aside.

Thou seest th' way of th' morn, ere while The lark her coming trills; She lets her broad, red wings drop down About her nursling hills.

And the way of the wild volcano. Ere she comes in her flery dress, And takes up the stones and folds them Together, like sheets in a press.

No tempest of tears can drown thee So low, but reviving again, Thou liftest thyself, as a flower from th' rsin Up into the faces of men.

A seer to the blind art thou, and when The journey of life is made, Lappest the tired senses away In abysses of friendly shade.

ARCHITECTURE;

THE UNWRITTEN, BUT BEAL HISTORY OF NATIONS.

A Lecture by Mrs. Cora L. V. Hatch, at Dodworth's Hall, New York, Sunday Evening, March 23, 1862.

Reported for the Banner of Light. INVOCATION.

Our Father and our God, thou who art our foundation and our support, who has builded the rocks upon which we tread, and the temple of our immortality; who art our strength when we fail and falter; our Light in the darkness of ignorance and prejudice; our giory in the hour of trial; our comfort when affliction lays its heavy hand upon us; our hope when the day-star of gladness seems set; the object of our Faith when all else seems departed; and our refuge when external death lays its joy finger on our brows. Oh God, thou who art omniscient, we come to thee with praise We know not upon what shrine, nor in what temple thou dost most abide. We know not what star or sun most embodies the radiance of thy smile. We know not whether the pulsations of human life, or the deep longings of the immortal one, most truly represent the grandeur of thy power; but we do know that all Creation, visible and invisible, portrays the greatness and the triumph of thy love. Father God, thou who art divinely merciful and good, who art the Love, the Truth and the Wisdom of all things, witness thon our praises and offerings unto theo. Father, receive them. They come from many hearts unused to pray, from many months, with words unfitted to their wants, but all sincere. Receive our thanks for the material bless ings which surround thy children; for the vernal showers; for the spring-time in its beauty, the gor-geousness of summer, and the rich glories of the barvest season. Receive our praise for all those endow-ments which render humanity superior to material things; for that intelligence which crowns and beauti-fies its life; and may we gather from the footprints of the past, the traces of thy children's journey through the ages, sure and sublime evidence that thou hast ever been, and wilt ever be, God our Creator, Father. King; and oh, infinite Spirit, when we remember the -when, in our mind's eve, we review the career of those who formerly possessed our earthly inheri-tance, the evidences of life many thousands of years

This evening, our theme, as announced, is, Archi-The chief difficulty which students encounter, in en-deavoring property to understand the laws of dovel. meaning that the sun, or Osiris, is the god of light and opment among nations, is that historians contradict of their imaginations. Where this is not the case, our knowledge of the ancients reaches us, for the most part, through the medium of interpolations and translations, and their contradictions and ambiguities make us at a loss to understand which contains the real rec ord of the past. Thus, much is perforce left to mere conjecture, and while scholars talk freely of the Persians and Egyptians, and even the Greeks and Romans. pose to show that there is but one infallible method of Egyptians. historical interpolation; but one sure key to unlock the serve to sti above problems, as well as those connected with relig-In the early stages of his history, man is sup-posed to have been nomadic in his mode of lifethat is, to have dwelt in tents of the rudest construction, and merely adapted to afford him shelter its seasons, and the attacks of beasts of prey. But edifice it was very soon discovered that the natural tendency detail. their efforts at a given point, and thus crect such structures as would insure an ample supply of provible, to effect a combination of means and exertions. to a greater or less extent. At last, having perceived the existence of other laws of nature which it was no cessary for the most foolish to study, and which pre sented a great variety of manifestations, men conceived the idea of theology. The reason was, that having concentrated its efforts, society had leisure to bestow upon the objects about it. Then they turned their attention to the sun; then the earth, surrounded by the light of heaven, and teeming with fertility and life, claimed observation. What was the result? and they formed a theological system. Architectural art was first displayed in the forms of consider it too much condescension to visit earth. Therefore, in the early ages, these temples were crecttations of the Gods. Thus we see by the relics of the while a Spiritualist, gives "satisfaction to the friends of our cause," the great proportion of Spirit-ualism. They may, perhaps, receive notice in anoth-ile article. H. B. Sronn, lowship, for these cardinal doorings are precisely what Spiritualists believe and teach. But Bro. Ambler desires to wash his eccleatiatical an article to be worn in full dress only, to be pris-ton. So he says—"It should be borne in mind that Intion of scientific problems, and whose import was carefully concealed from the knowledge of the multi tude. The first idea of worship, in connection with these temples, was that of dedicating to the gods per-manent residences, which might induce them to leave their dwelling-place on high and take up their abodes with the oblidem of men. When however it was with the children of men. When, however, it was found that the sun approached no nearer the earth when thus solicited, and that the stars did not change their course, other figures were adopted, to represent those powers of Nature which were thus supposed to inhabit the temples and enjoy the adoration of the worshipers.

worsaipers. The primitive object of all architecture is, first, that of enclosing a space, and next, of erecting a covering as a shelter from the weather. Then the object was connected with religious observances; and the concep-tions of architectural grandenr and beauty differ in each people according to the degree of tasts, cultiva-tion, education and refinants which it has attained tion, education and refinement which it has attained. The principal types of architecture are those of As-syria and the Eastern Empire, of the Egyptians, Gre-cians. Romans, and, lastly, the various styles of mod-ern Europe and America. We shall prove that these furnish infailible indications of the development and culture attained by the respective nations, and afford empire of the East, the architecture is formed chiefly of baked clay, cemented by bitumen, which becomes, after the lapse of ages, hardened into a substance as solid as granite. Their buildings were erected first to the gods, and the style marks a period of antiquity far anterior even to the Egyptians, though their attainmenta in science may not have been so extensive. Recent investigations, however, have tended to show the ancient Indian Empire is but very poorly repre-sented, at the present day, by the Chinese and Japanese, though such a monument as the Great Wall of China, together with the remains of Indian structures, proves that even these have attained to a great degree of refinement, and a thorough comprehension of the problems of the heavens.

In Assyria we find the remains of powerful cities not now dreamed of, and of others barely mentioned in history, constructed mainly of the same materialbaked clay-though stones are sometimes employed. We read of the spiendors of Babylon and Ninevah, which derived their grandeur from the conceptions of worship in the minds of the people. No sacrifices were deemed too great to be made in order to complete and decorate them in a becoming manner, and, no matter how many ages were required, the work pro-ceeded with unrelaxed perseverance.

Passing to Egypt, we find architecture at the culmination of its glory. Everything that shows human ingenuity, grandeur of thought, lofty attainments. and a mastery of all the minutize of science, with a correct delineation of the heavenly bodies, is revealed in the sacred edifices of this country. Their form is mostly pyramidal, but so diversified and highly ornamented as to present a spectacle of unprecedented splendor. To the preservation and display of these. the climate of Egypt was best adapted. Its crystal-line atmosphere and clear heavens offered every inducement to the creation of such grand and noble edifices, while we find that the type of their architecture represented the stability and integrity of the national character. The obelisks, tombs and temples give evi-dence of such vast conceptions, and such immense material resources, in the country of the seven rivers, that we could almost believe that the ancient Egyp. tians must have concentrated the uperior intelligence of all the earth. We find, also, fileroglyphs, and we have every reason to believe that the temples were decorated, outside and in, with all kinds of paintings in harmonious colors, representing the mysteries and The beauty of the ancient systems of architecture was that they were essentially derived from the forms of Nature. The pyramidal form, which predominated of Nature. in the Egyptian, was conceived of in the shape of a triangle, which represented the past, present and fu-ture of all creation, and the pyramids themselves show that this, better than any other style, is able to withstand the lapse of ages. We find, also, that their col-umns, which were of vast size, were at first plain-fluted, crowned with boautiful capitals, representing the pomegranite or the lotus, the sacred flower; or like a succession of flowers inverted and with their bottoms joined, until they attained a height of grandeur and magnificence before unheard of. The gateways forming the entrances to their great cities also presented an elaborate grandeur, whose like is nowhere else found. But the antiquity of other nations must have been far greater, since the Egyptian architecture is ev-idently copied from older models. Egypt being but the of those who former, provide the showing that the evidences of life many thousands of years ago, may we draw from their contemplation loftier ideas and grander conceptions of goodness, knowing that thine arms art ever outspread in love toward in the character of the people. Its style of ornamentation alone canst reward those who suffer most for the end attainments of the people. Of course only the intiated understood the full meaning of the hier or glyphs, and, even now, these symbols which the romewermore. Amen. for the figure is designed to represent the sun, shadetherial nature; while the asp, the sacred serpent of Egypt, stands for the scrpent of the heavens, from whose power the luminary of day is delivered at the approach of Bpring. Egypt is called, sometimes, the land shadowed with wings, with a reference to the same allegory. The choicest stones and marbles were used in their sculptures and decorations, whose splendor was such that, notwithstanding the present dreariness of these once brilliant scenes, were you transported among gence and degrees of perfection and refinement, as of think you had advanced through a period of eternity, the inhabitants of another planet. Therefore we pro-pose to show that there is but one infallible method. serve to strengthen our general argument, for they bear the plain impress of the firmuess of character, and grade of mental culture, peculiar to the ancient Egyplians. The Jews transferred some of the more obvious general features of this species of architecture into the Holy Land, after they had been rescued by Moses from struction, and merely adapted to allord him shelter inter they had, shere they had been rescued by Moses from from the sun and storms. Simple tribes then lived the Egyptian dominion; but as they did not share in on the banks of rivers, and strove to protect them. many of the ennobling qualities of the latter people, selves, as best they might sgainst the vicissitudes of the seasons, and the attacks of beaats of prey. But the seasons, and the attacks of beaats of prey. But Their oities, with the exception of Jerusalem of the human being is toward gregarious association, and the patriarchal system of society was formed. But this, in turn, soon gave way before the attainments of the race, and it was found far better to concentrate What see the characteristics of the Jaws 7. Through were hadly built, and enclosed by an immense wall to What are the characteristics of the Jews? Throughout all history, they are noted as a quarrelsome, troublesome people, robbers and murderers, outraging stractures as would insure an ample supply of plotting sions, and better means of defence against large ani-mals. This has been the progress of mankind alike in the torrid zone and among the snows of the Arctic in the torrid zone and among the snows of the torrid zone and the torrid zone and the their contentions among themselves. And they are represented, also, in their mode of constructing and defending their chief towns, in order to repel the attacks they were constantly liable to, at the prompt-ings of revengo or justice. We would love to dwell longer on this tempting theme, but we must now come We here perceive a variety of forms of architecture. the most prominent of which are the Corinthian and Ionian. The materials used were the finest marble and other valuable stones, and they were erected, as That various speculative theories arose in the minds of men in connection with their notions of worship- and afterwards with the intellectual pursuits which and afterwards with the intellectual pursuits which formed the basis of a sublimer and more substantial belief. We find as the characteristics of Grecian temples-imperfect, but representing the feelings with which the Gods were regarded. It was deemed essen-tial to have places of worship, that the Gods might not for the Gods might not finer perception and a more fertile fancy in the modifiner perception and a more fertile fancy in the modi-fication of forms. These qualities were fully exemplified in the national character-as enduring as marble, ed with all barbario splendor, for it was considered and equally susceptible of the highest polish-at once that nothing should be spared to render them fit habi- versatile, original and profound. In Rome, we find that all distinctive features of Persian, Grecian and Expetian edifices, that nearly all architecture are lost. We are notitive ratues by the of them bore a theological character. In Grecio, the sombre and massive magnificence of Egypt. nor erection of the places of worship constituted so much charmed by the strict proportion and exquisite refine-of the occupation of the early inhabitants, that they ment of Grecian tasts, though we are forcibly reminded charmed by the strict proportion and exquisite refine-ment of Grecian taste, though we are forcibly reminded of each of these stries. All sufficient former and bad bat little time to devote to the embellishment of their own abodes. Many centuries were some-times spent in the completion and improvement of a single temple, the task being handed down to successive generations, as sacred, and on no account admitting of suspension and abandonment. Thus, all early embodiments of architecture had their founda-tions in religious preludices. In every nation there there remark that, since the infroduction of their architecture in the supersed all early embodiments of architecture had their founda-tions in religious preludices. In every nation there there remark that, since the infroduction of the another the supersed in the supersed in the supersed all early embodiments of architecture had their founda-tions in religious preludices. In every nation there the supersed in the supersed in consistency in the poorest Catholic servant will toll night and day the poorest Catholic servant will toll night and tay that she may give nine-tenths of her hard earnings toward the perpetuation of the grand style of archi-tecture which the Church has stolen piecemeal from all the countries of Europe-thus giving more in pro-portion than would the ancient Egyptian to maintain worship of the golden calf, the sacred ox, or the Temule of the Sun.

.8

Temple of the Sun. To return to our main subject. We find modern Italian architecture lacking in individuality of charac-ter and in permanency. What are the characteristics of the Italian people? They are correspondingly vol-atile, versatile and frivolous, fond of show; eminently devotional, yet without any grand or original religions conceptions, and ready to sacrifice the substance to the form of their corrupted Christianity; highly sus-ceptible to the influences of sound and color, in their ceremonials, yet in ignorance of the very language of their prayers. Buch is religious inconsistency.

their prayers. Buch is religious inconsistency. We now take our leave of distinctively religious architecture, for here the chain of connection between has little to do with architecture in modern Europe or America. When the art was transported to Spain, France, and to the harsher and more practical atmophere of England, the influence of pure devotion over its development was made to yield to considerations of policy and utility. In Spain the architecture partakes of the types of that of Greece and Rome. In the southern portion of the country we perceive no ambitious attempts at dis-play or magnificence—the roofs are low and the windows small, in accordance with the climate. In like, manner the character of the people is eminently un-progressive, fanciful, but without ambition; and, pollically, Spain has long ago sunk into insigniticance. Her architecture denotes, also, that she has not the intense fervor of religious feeling which distinguished Rome, nor the sense of utility which pre-dominates in France and England; and the Spanish people prefer to pursue pleasure in their own manner. rather than dedicate their lives and fortunes to the erection of temples which many generations would not sco completed.

In France we find architecture somewhat dedicated to the church; for France has been always devoted to the church, to her ruling powers, and the sentiment of loyalty is entwined with all her architectural laurels. We find that, in this country, the sovereign anthority. whether legitimate or imperial, has, in its own taste and manner, at different epochs, erected various tem-ples and villas for its especial purpose. The various palaces, &c., have been built in accordance with the ancies of the ruler and of persons in power, and they differ in style, as might be expected; and they fully exemplify the peculiarities of the national characterversatile, frivolous, lacking in stability of purpose, proficient in all the arts of pleasure, and highly appre-ciating external beauty, but, when analyzed devoid of substance and integrity. The German style is chiefly ecclesiastical, and the Gothic originated in this country. Yet the Germans are an eminently practical people, though often stigmatized as visionary, and their architecture is mainly The English first adopted as their object, utility i second, utility i and now, utility i They erect nothing but what is useful, and will last as long as the king-dom, and we believe that there is no subject of the British crown who would not contend that it will outlive all others, for he would not even admit that any other nation is worth considering, in comparison. Therefore, if a house is built in England, it is a fortified castle, with walls calculated to "laugh a siege to scorn." Without the lofty religious aspirations of anclent Egypt, or the galety and reinement of France and Italy, the architecture of the English is as stubborn and substantial as their national character. In their churches, they show no sense of beauty or fitness, save in so far as they have been affected by former union with Rome (from whose communion they probably separated from motives of utility) and could it be aby separate from motives of utility) and could it be done without greatly shocked decornm, the sacred edi-fices might very well be converted into storehouses. The English eminently deserve a corresponding char-acter; staid, practical, without a particle of romance. or fondness for the beautiful, attached to their native land, loyal subjects of their sovereign, and devout believers in their own unreasonable superiority. Passing across the Atlantic, we come next among yourselves. It may be well to begin by a glance at the primitive inbabitants of this continent, in order to ilinstrate our former remarks respecting the original no-madic condition of mankind. The aborigines had but wigwams, and their temples were the forest glades. In Central America, and even in the Northern and Western portions of the Continent, there exist, however, remains of massive and claborately ornamented buildings, mounds, &c., which prove that the present tribes are but the remnants of a once powerful and wealthy population, who were allied to the Chinese and Indians of Asia. It is certain that the modern Indians repeat certain sayings which show a marvelous de-gree of intelligence, and in some cases there are preserved among them traces of arts and sciences which could not be the result of their present savage mode of life. But modern America in the hands of its present possessors has sadly charged i The first idea of architecture which was entertained when the Pilgrims landed (no doubt glad to get away from the old country) was the product of their immodiste necessities, and was little above the rude but of the savage. The same was the case with the Southern colonists, allowing for their milder climate and more favorable circumstances. As resources increased, the former substantial and useful structures were supplant. ed by filmsy and fanta-tic structures, which were sup-posed to be ornamental. We are generous enough to believe that your architectural tasies and style are not yet developed; that in this respect, as in many others, you are still in the period of infancy; but your mode of building is eminently suggestive of your national character. First, you raised wooden houses, painted a glowing white, in pleasing contrast with the grass and trees; or red, as being the color furthest possible from nature and propriety. Then brick was intro-duced, followed by various kinds of stone; but, in some way or other, the American people have always contrived to make their residences so ugly in external aspect as to be recommended only by their comfort and utility, or elso they have sacrificed these requisites altogether, in their rage for costly and unmeaning orna-ment. We are glad to see that iron is coming into vegue for building purposes. It is a material which can neither burn up nor be torn down very easily, so that, as its use extends, we may hope, now and then. to see an elegant habitation which is more than a few years old, and yet is not about to be sacrificed to the emon of .. Improvement."

If this statement of what Bro. Ambler has taught, peace and unity with his ministerial friends. on make the Universalist pulpit what it has never yet been, an independent platform.

One other reason why he should be esteemed worthy of Universalist fellowship, Bro. Ambler presents in the assertion, that while occupying the independent platform, he " was enabled to address multitudes will be flocks of hungry birds coming to feed at their denominational doors."

Now, Spiritual lecturers generally cannot "lay this flattering unction to their souls," nor claim the fellowship of Universalists because of their industry or probable success in scaring hungry birds into their net. It is our sincere belief and comforting assurance, that the efforts of those who have gone out his "main" (is that last word intended for our Bro. to preach the glad tidings of angel ministration, and Ampler's abundant beard ?) having been employed to act as their instruments, have resulted in attract-" to tear down and injure the Universalist societies ing many hungry souls to the granaries of truth, and churches," our friend pleads not guilty. He where they are being fed according to their needs. claims to have " never lost sight of, but continued to | But it is extremely improbable, in our opinion, that advocate, on all proper occasions, most, if not all, of the coop of sectarian theology will ever be crowded. the distinctive points of faith to which he formerly because some grains of truth may have fallen before

According to our brother's own admission, he has Value of Christianity, and especially that sublime | been enabled, while on the independent platform. to doctrine which is so distinctly taught in the Holy address larger audiences of those who needed to have "aspirations for truth "awakened in their souls. utter their earnest amen, namely, the ultimate holi. than any clergyman of the Universalist sect could ness and happiness of the entire human family." have reached. We hope it is pertinent and respect-And he further says that it has been frequently re. ful to inquire if the conditions have changed at all. marked to him that had his discourses "been re. and whether the great object of awakening such aslieved of the odious name attached to them in the pirations, cannot now and ever be better accompublic mind, they might have been, with few excep- plished, in the way adopted by Jesus himself, by addressing the promisouous multitude, wherever they list society." (Unfortunately, however, it seems may spontaneously assemble-than by adopting the that these doctrinal "roses," by any other name, do Levitical and sectarian policy of attempting to reach not "smell as sweet" to the Universalist denomina- only " the whole, who need no physician," that assemble from Sabbath to Sabbath under a denominational name, which, as popularly understood, signifies the believers in partial truth, dogmatic theology

The limits of this article, already too long, will not admit of any oriticism upon Mr. Ambler's statements regarding the injurious tendencies of Spirit-

Ø

We might traverse your land and show in your buildings the characteristics of your people. What are

First, an insatiable love of change, whether it inolves improvement or not.

Secondly, an almost entire ignoring of heautiful and raceful forms in architecture.

If a structure has cost a great deal of money, it is a grand edilice, even if it has not two sides in proporion. It may be all paint and stucco; no matter, it corresponds the better with the mushroom fortunes of the parvenue who owns it. Yet there is some-thing visible amid all this which promises better for the future, and seems to show an inventive genius. which, when properly disciplined, will atone for past errors. We trust that the present frail architectural abortions among you will yet give place to what will better represent the iron integrity which forms the basis of your character as a people. A similar revolution is even now reforming the naval architecture of every cirilized nation, and substituting for clumsy and ill-constructed "wooden walls," floating casiles, cased in mail. impermeable to the most formidable foc.

If these brief remarks should be of any advantage. you will be enabled to look around you and study your own characteristics and those of foreign countries in the light of the principles we have laid down. Study not only the ruins of the past, but the hieroglyphs and ornaments cugraved upon them, and, rest assured. that they will better guide you to a correct knowledge fancient nations than any other species of annals. For, on these permanent tablets, the records are origi nal and unsophisticated; and, if only carefully analyzed and rightly interpreted, they will be found to afford abundant evidence that, as respects many of the aris and sciences, the ancients excelled the moderns, in special directions. While knowledge is now more wideby diffused, and the general aggregate of intelligence is much greater, still, in depth and thoroughness of at-tainment in their favorite persuits and in concentra-tion of purpose, many works of material grandeur re-main to day to testify that long vanished nations have not been surpassed by any of the races which have auc-

Father of all nations, and Creator of the Universe, whose temple is everywhere, and whose throne and em-pire are over all things ; whose altars and shrines are pire are over all things: whose altars and abrines are all the worlds of space, oh, may we witness thins inof-fable presence, and perceive that thou art the source-and light of all that thou hast made. Father, guide us, protect us; assist thy children in their search for traits, and may they turn to thee. Even when empires shall have faded away, and all vestiges of human grandeur departed, may they seek thy temple, which is everiast-ting, heautiful and harmonious, and praise they there.

Scientific Department.

Origin of Coal Oil.

BY HUDBON TUTTLE.

The mineral oils which have lately attracted so much attention, and completely revolutionized the process of illaminating our dwellings, are not of recent discovery. Under the names of ... Seneca Oil." .. Rock Oil," " Naptha," etc., the different varieties of Petroleum have long been known to science, and extensively used, especially in medicine.

It occurs in vast quantities in India, one region of a few miles square yielding more than four hundred thousand hogshcads annually. It is there used for light and fuel.

Circassia. Persia and California have also vast deposits. The Pitch Lake of the Island of Trinidad. one of the West Indies, is the most remarkable locality. It is three miles in circumference and of unknown depth. The surface is sufficiently hatd to bear the weight of men and quadrupeds.

Petroleum is associated with the salt-springs of the Kanhawa, and a few years ago flowed from one of them in sufficient quantity to cover the surface of a small stream, and, taking fire, the river presented the strange phenomenon of burning.

The walls of Babylon were cemented with bitumen, a hardened variety of petroleum; and it was considered by the ancients the most solid and durable coment for walls and temples.

It is a strange fact that this abundant mineral should have so long escaped being impressed into the service of man. Its loathsome, penetrating odor deterred from its use in the arts, and rendered it a very offensive material for burning. The discovery of a method of distilling the crude oil, and, in a great measure, obviating its odor, and that of the invention of a lamp by which the odor and smoke are both avoid. gd, turned attention to this source of industry and profit.

The production of oil by the distillation of coal, promised an ample return for the capital invested, but It was almost immediately superceded by the discovery of the exhaustless treasures of oll Nature had already distilled and secreted in the carth.

The discovery resulted from the refiners of coal oil turning their attention to that which flowed spontaneously from the earth. They unexpectedly found this to yield a larger per centage of burning oil, which was better, and less liable to smoke, than the coal oil. But the quantity of petroleum yielded by the natural springs, or salt borings, held no proportion to the demand for burning fluid. It required a genius to apply itself to the task. Borings were made expressly for this object, pumps worked by engines used to draw up the oil, and at once the business expanded to colossal proportions. The daily yield of all the oil wells in Ohio and Pennsylvania can sately be estimated at one thousand barrels, exclusive of the famous one said to vield two thousand and four hundred barrels per day.

Whenco are such vast supplies derived ? Petroleum is undoubtedly of vegetable origin, with perhaps a slight mixture of animal products. Vegetation, however, has much the largest share in its production. This is proved by the fact that there is scarcely any difference between the oil distilled from coal, and that derived from the earth. The question of its origin is closely related to that of the origin of coal, and there can be no doubt but the latter is the product of the decomposition of vast accumulations of vegetable mattor. The process by which wood was converted into mineral coal, will be understood by considering the various steps it underwent. The chemist, by following the same, can produce a substance almost identi-

When organic matter is exposed to air, it rapidly decays; but if covered with moist earth, this process takes place very slowly, and when the air is excluded, by covering with a great depth of earth, this process is still slower. The chemistry of this change is quite simple. The oxygen of the air unites with the carbon of the organic matter, and forms carbonic acid; with the hydrogen, and forms water, and many other products; and with sulphur and nitrogen, if present, and form ammoers the surface of the ocean to a great distance. It beautiful white-robed angel who comes with inverted cannot be presumed that this oil originates in the torch to release man from the clogs of materiality and gneise, but in some other rock, and finds an outlet the fetters of sense, that he may be grandly free. through this channel. The surface clay over fissures It was an eloquent lecture, replete with gems of poetic extending down to the oil-bearing rocks, is always im- diction, and startling with its pungent thought.

pregnated with oil, but it would be idlo to suppose it originated in the clay. It is thus seen that oil is produced from bitumenized animal and vegetable matter, and probably from both, though chiefly from the latter. The products are such as are formed from decaying vegetation, with a slight mixture of those resulting from decaying animal matter. (as the nitrogenous compounds.) Although chiefly OFFICE, 158 WASHINGTON STREET, confined to the coal series, it is present in all the sedi. cutary rocks.

It may be asked, and it is a question of very great practical moment, whether these springs may not become exhausted ? Its solution can only be determined by time; yet there are data from which we should infer that they would be as exhaustless as the coal-beds. with which they are associated.

"The wells of India, and the banks of the Cospian have afforded a very large and constant supply of oil for several hundred years. The petroleum springs of Hit, from which the Babylonians took the cement for their Cyclopean walls, still continue to flow; and the same may be said of Zante, mentioned by Herodotus. They yield as much to-day as two thousand five hun dred years ago."

Moneys sout at our risk; but where drafts on Boston can be brocured, we prefer to have them sont, to avoid loss. No Western Bank Notes, excepting these of the State Bank of Ohio, State Bank of Iowa, and State Bank of Indiana, are current here, hence our Western subscribers and others who have occasion to remit us funds, are request-od to send bills on the above named Banks in case Eastern money cannot be conveniently procured. Canadian bank The springs of France yield a diminished supply, and those above mentioned have not been subjected to the exhaustion of the steam pump.

It is highly probable that local reservoirs will be money cannot be conveniently procured. Canadian bank notes are current here. Postors stamps-ones and threes only-of the new issue, will be received for subscriptions; subscribers will pleases and none of the other denominations, for they are of no use to us. Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for. drained, and failures thus occur; but the main springs, ven when close together, effect each other so little. and are apparently so exhaustless in their flow, that hey warrant the greatest confidence.

Bubscribers in Canada, or other foreign countries, will add to the terms of subscription 52 cents peryear, for pre-pay-Admitting that the petroleum is the result of disment of American postage. Bubscribers wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to a mother, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent. tillation of coal, etc., certainly it must exist in a magificent scale in the bowels of the earth. The Noa Scotia coal field contains 10,000 square miles; the Appalachian, extending from New York to the Gulf of Mexico, 80,000; the Indiana, 55,000; the Michigan, any way connected with the editorial department, should 12,000; and in the far West, still broader areas are unddressed to the EDITOR. Letters to the Editor not intended or publication should be marked " private." All Business Letters must be addressed derlaid with this mineral. Now when we take in conor publication should be marked ideration that the oil is not produced from coal alone. but from any rock containing organic matter; and that all sedimentary rocks are more or less impregnated-even the cliff-limestone, when burned, gives off a distinct animal odor-we certainly have a source, inexhaustible to finite conception. The long shadows of the far Past extend their dark ourselves on having escaped the tyrannies which have darkened other days, we do not see that we may have A Lecture by Mrs. Fannie Davis Smith, at Lyceum but got rid of their forms, while the spirit of them Hall, Boston, Sunday Afternoon, March 30, 1862.

THE EMPIRE OF MUSIC.

[Reported for the Banner of Light.]

of immortality brought them into existence, and its signet is never broken. He who becomes a model n art or learning, the world follows, and delfies, and bows down to, century after century, and cannot place too high a value upon. His record, is writ on the pages of eternity with the finger of Time, and can nev lives as actively as ever. In running over the daily stories of the progress of this war, as they are faithfully reported in the columns

The lecturess said :- There is no stronger evidence of the news press, the mind is profoundly stirred with of a nation's civilization, than its music. It has been thoughts of the undisguised, unqualified barbarism that said that he who writes a peoples' ballads, does more betrays itself on the side of the blind abettors of the than he who makes their laws.' This may seem super. slave-system in this country. It is a fact, and a melficial, and yet there is a real truth in it. Music be, ancholy one, that slavery, by its associations and exongs to the class of things that can only be apprecial amples and atmosphere, does ingrain men with an inted by the soul attuned to perfect harmony and re. fluence peculiar to no other institution of the time. ined feeling. The organ in the Cathedrals of the Old We are saying nothing about it now politically, but as Country, are never weary repeating the grand melo. an element in our modern social system; and as such, dious notes of the old master composers; and Mozart like all other elements with tendencies corresponding, and Bethoven live anew on earth. Indeed, he who it must be something, above divine reach itself if it becomes master of his sort, can never die. The breath hopes to escape criticism and popular judgment.

When, until now, have we in our day heard such horrible tales told of the treatment of dead soldiersofficers and men alike-as have recently roused all the instincts of indignation in our hearts at the ghoul-like treatment of the corpses of Major Ballou and Colonel Cameron, after the last Summer's battle of Bull Ron? The rebels slew these men, with others whom we have

r be blotted out. You have talked of lost arts; there is no lost art. not named, in open battle; after the fight was over, What one century hides from you, the next reveals in and they had undisputed possession of the ground, added brightness. Music is one of them; it cannot be every consideration of humanity should have suggested measured or analyzed. It belongs to immortality, and to them the propriety and necessity of a speedy burial, its with majesty and glory on the record of all Time. after as decent mothods as circumstances then and It is above, around, beneath, ever swelling from the there would warrant. But instead of that, after hav. heart of the Infinite. Who has stood upon the verge ing deceived the friends of the deceased officers for of Nature's grand organ, mighty Niagara, knows the many weeks relative to the final disposal of their bodforce of what we say-that music such as Nature ies, they are at length discovered to have suffered their breathes forth, defies analysis and calculation, even men-fiends in human disguise-to mutilate them in as each swell is a pulsation of the heart of Jehovah. the most repulsive manner, to skin the flesh from their It is the organ of the Infinite, musical with the very bones, to cut off the heads of some, and bury the corpses of the rest with faces down, and even to boil the thigh There are no minds but have some appreciation bones and heads of some others of the killed, that they

The Studies of Science.

( And the second s

BANNER OF LIGHT.

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, APRIL 12, 1862.

ROOM NO S. UP STAIRS.

PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

Terms of Subscription:

ADVERTISEMENTS inserted on the most favorable terms.

All Communications designed for publication, or in

"BANNER OF LIGHT, BOSTON, MASS."

Barbaric Tendencies.

We are not out of the reach of the dark days yet.

fingers even across this promising Present and into the yet undiscerned Future. While we congratulate per year. Der There will be no deviation from the above terms.

William White & Co.

WILLIAM WHITE, LUTHER COLBY,

ISAAC B. RICH. CHARLES H. OROWELL,

If a more familiar acquaintance with the wonders of the world-the stars in the heavens, the bowels of the earth, the mysteries of the great deep, the flowers that enamel the fields, and the wayward currents of the air-does not serve to elevate and ennoble the nature of the man who devotes himself to the study of these things, but makes him dogmatic and bigoted rather-then are all scientific pursuits but vain, and their tendency, but to a low mechanical perfection. " I fear," said Dr. Channing, " the spirit of science, at the present day, is too often a degradation rather than the true culture of the soul. It is the bowing down of the heaven-born spirit before unthinking mechanism. It seeks knowledge rather for animal, transitory purposes, than for the nutriment of the imperishable inward life; and yet the worshipers of science pity or contemn the poor, because denied this means of cultivation. Unhappy poor! Shut out from. libraries, laboratories, and learned, institutes ! In view of this world's wisdom, it avails you nothing that your own nature, manifested in your own and others' souls, that God's word and works, that the ocean, earth, and sky, are laid open to you; that you may acquaint yourselves with the divine perfections, with the character of Christ, with the duties of life, with the virtues, the generous sacrifices, and the beautiful and holy emotions, which are a revelation and pledge of heaven. All these are nothing, do not lift you to the rank of cultivated men, because the mysteries of the telescope and microscope, of the air-pump and crucible, are not revealed to you ! I would they were revealed to you. I believe the time is coming when Christian benevolence will delight in spreading all truth and all refinement through all ranks of socieety. But meanwhile be not discouraged. One ray of moral and religions truth is worth all the wisdom of the schools. One lesson from Christ will carry you higher than years of study under those who are too enlightened to follow this celestial guide." The writer possessed a mind of large grasp, and a heart of comprehensive sympathies, or he could never have written thus. He saw very nearly what all this learn. ing and science is worth, and how little it is worth when it begins and ends only with its own acquisition. Its greatest merit can consist but with its elevating and expanding the human race.

An Old Memory.

We encountered a scrap-brown and crease-wornin our researches among hidden memorials, the other day, that carried us so far back as to start the " saut" water. Won't our quondam, and, thank Heaven, present friend, J. E. Hood, the able and industrious literary collaborateur of the Springfield Republican, indulge along with us, as we run over the following verses once more, or as much of them, at least, as shall revive the rest?

How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood! They 're gone—yet I love to remember them still— The cottage, the valley, the river, the wildwood, And e'en the old meeting-house up on the hill—

Humble old meeting house, Spacious old meeting house

Ancient old meeting-house, up on the hill !".

Does he recall how very mad the old Deacon wasbless his much too literal heart !- because he (the poet) styled the "meeting-house" a " simple old meet. ing-house," and how the worthy man would never hear, or understand the oft extended elucidation? Can he write such poetry now-with so much of his own genuine life in it? Is such poetry ever, in fact, written the second time ? We could ask no greater pleasure, sometime during the white moonlights of the coming summer, than to walk with our ancient friend in the shadow of this same old meeting house---" pleasant old meeting-house up on the hill ;" but, alas! that is an impossibility, for the precious old landmark has gone the way of all the earth.

Kind of Them.

Earl Russell has been telling the English Parlia. ment-so goes the story-that our American troubles would all be over in three months, and then we should agree to a separation, and have peace ! The London correspondent of the Paris Patrie likewise reports that a member of the British Cabinet recently declared to a deputation from the manufacturing districts, that, according to information from Washington, an amicable separation between the North and the South will take place about the month of June; and that, in the basis of a treaty, Tennessee and Missouri and Ken. tucky, will return to the Union-the two Republics to have no land customs line, and the search for slaves to be prohibited in all the States. Unquestionably, something like this is what the English Government would like very well, for they already say that we are great enough, geographically, for two Republics. This outline is all of their own scheming-what is called a "feeler," thrown out to see if it cannot catch a few "gudgeons" somewhere among the public men, either on this side the Atlantic or the other. England is playing the hurt friend just now; a little while since she could n't seem to pour her troops fast enough into Canada, to crowd and bully us according to her heart's desire.

APRIL APRIL 12, 1862.

New Publications.

THE KORAN: Translated into English immediately from the original Arabic. By George Sale, Gent. To which is prefixed the Life of Mahomet, &c, Boston : T. O. H. P. Burnham, 1862. 12mo. pp. 472: An edition of the Koran, in small octavo, was published by Isaiah Thomas, we believe, in 1809, without Notes or Life, and sold at two dollars a copy. That edition is now very scarce. In 1824, selections from the Koran were published, with a London imprint, and sold at one dollar a copy. This was a poor affair. About 1835, another larger volume was published by Wardwell, and afterward by Lippincott & Co. This is good edition, but somewhat high priced. Burnham's edition is the only complete and cheap edition ever published ; and, taken in connection with Irving's Life of Mahomet, which was received with so much interest, it can scarcely fail to attain to a wide circulation. Every Spiritualist, at least, should have a copy of the Koran ; and every other person interested in the history of religious opinions should buy and read it. We understand that Mr. Burnham intends soon to publish the sacred books of other nations, and that the Vedas are now in press. We shall look for these rare works with great interest. For sale at 143 Washington street.

OFFICERS OF OUR UNION ARRY AND NAVY: THEIR LIVES AND THEIR PORTRAITS. EDITED BY DEAN DUDLEY. Vol I. Boston: L. Prang & Co.

This is a very neat little compilation, containing the lives of all the present men of prominence in the Army and Navy, taken from the most reliable sources. The sketches are brief and racy, and portray in vivid colors the patriotic exploits and sacrifices of the magnanimous defenders of the Union and the Constitution of our dear old Republic. Each sketch is accompanied with a striking portrait, which gives the same more than a double value.

The Report of the Committee of the Overseers of Harvard College, appointed to visit the Library, for the year 1861, together with the accompanying documents, has been sent to us, and possesses interest for all who take interest themselves in this noble institution of learning. Among the gifts of books, pamphlets, &c., to the Library during the year, we observe that the late President Felton gave nine volumes, one hundred and thirty seven pamphlets, and a large collection of newspapers and newspaper slips relating to Spiritualism !

THE AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST, FOR APRIL, published in New York by Orange Judd, is a fine specimen of this beautiful and sterling publication. The matter is excellent, and the illustrations are of the most striking character. No worthier or handsomer agricultural sheet is issued, weekly or monthly, in America.

Real Good Doctrine.

All men-who know him at all-know Rev. Dr. Bellows to be one of the noblest preachers of the day. His heart is as large: and liberal as the sun itself, and no unworthy suspicions need ever be suspected of lurking there. Our readers will remember, too, that, not many years ago, he came out before the public with an eloquent plea-eloquent, because based on reason-for the Theatre ; in which he held, as every man with a wholesome gizzard must, that amusement, diversion, pleasure, were as necessary for the health and happiness of man, as work and sleep. He has recently been addressing the Western Unitarian Conference, and he remarks, in the course of his address, to the following purpose :

"For my own part-I say it with all solem-nity-I have lived to become sincerely suspicious of the piety of those who do not love pleasure in any form. I cannot trust a man who never laughs : who is always sedate ; who has no apparent outlet for those actual springs of sportiveness and gaiety that are perennial in the human soul. I know that nature has re-renge on such violence. I expect to find secret vices, malignant sins, or horrid crimes, springing up in this hot bed of confined air and imprisoned space; and, therefore, it gives me a sincere, moral gratification anywhere, and in any community, to see innocent pleasure and popular amusements resist the religious bigotry that frowns so unwisely upon them. Any-thing is better than that dark, dead, unsocial life, which results from unmitigated puritanism, whose sec-ond crop is usually unbridled license and infamous folly."

Could the whole matter be more fairly, yet p stated ?

nia and sulphuretted hydrogen. These changes take place rapidly in the air, but in the moist earth so slowly that bitumenization occurs before it is completed. The chemistry of this change is equally simple. The hydrogen contained in the organic matter unites with its carbon, forming carburetted-hydrogen, and bitumen a hydro-carbon. This bitumen invests the matter left unchanged, excluding it from the air, and thus preventing further change. As this process is more or less complete, peat lignite and coal are formed, and when occurring on the magnificent scale of the coal beds, doubtless many other liquid and gaseous products are given off.

Common coal was produced by this bitumenizing process from vegetation, but cannel coal is impregnated with animal matter, and the black bltumenous shales of the Hamilton Group are strongly impregnated.

If the bitumen thus obtained be subjected to a high temperature in contact with the air, it is entirely consumed. If excluded from the air, it becomes gas: if lower still, oil. All these processes can be gone through rapidly by art, but in Nature, thousands of thousands of years are consumed in accomplishing the same. Petroleum can be generally traced to beds of bitumenous matter. Coal mines are usually filled with gas, distilled from the coal by this natural process, and liquid products are undoubtedly generated, though more difficult to detect.

The petroleum thus distilled, necessarily differs according to the degree of heat employed, and the slowness and rapidity of the process, from a transparent volatile fluid to a dark tarry or pitchy substance. On the one hand we meet asphaltum, a black solid, and passing through all gradations to naptha, an exceedingly light, volatile fluid, on the other. The innumerable members of the group are almost identical in composition, being formed of carbon and hydrogen.

That petroleum is found in the sedimentary rocks of all ages, is no objection to the present theory of its origin. The great springs of Trinidad and California spring from the Tertiary, containing exhaustless beds of lignite, and are evidently the vents of volcanic distillation.

In Ohio and Pennsylvania, they come from the Devonian, and coal, as do those of Virginia and Kentucky. The cliff-limestone underlying the shales from which the greatest Pennsylvania springs arise, has not yet yielded any considerable amount of oil. The little which has been detected exists in cavities, is black and of an insupportable smell, being probably impregnated with animal matter.

The Waverley group, the upper member of the Devonian, is the great oil bearing rock of Ohio and Pennsylvanis. The oil, however, probably, does not originate in this group. Its component rocks are porous, and contain crevices through which strong currents. of water flow. It rests on the bitumenous shales be. fore spoken of, which contain more bitumeneous matter than the entire coal deposit. From this, it is probably distilled, and being lighter than water, rises through every crevice into the superincumbent rocks. forced upward by the enormous pressure. It must follow the crevices it finds, and fill the reservoirs into which they lead. These may be remote in distance, and in quite a different group of rocks from those in which it originates. Thus Humboldt speaks; of a pe-; troleum spring flowing out of the guelas rock in South breath of the Creator.

of music. The spirit of harmony dwells not alone in might fasten them up before the doors of their Winter the delicate instrument or magnificent organ, but the huts, in all the ghastly hideousness of their naked breath of the wind over the hills and through the trees anatomy !

sings songs to the cultured ear; and how often the sweet sound of the mother's voice lingers in the selves to the practice of such shocking barbarities? memory, and ever leads the soul back on the wings of There must be a reason for it, and a sufficient one. It retrospection to the happy days of childhood. Even cannot lie altogether in passion, for all men do not inthe poor Italian organ grinders do their part in elevat. ing the race. They are the poor children's musicians. There can be but one remaining explanation for so disand on the city's sultry sidewalk, take the place of gusting and barbarous a phenomenon; and it is to be the meandering brook and singing bird, with the found in the silent influence of the social system in which little ragged street children who gather around to the instincts of these beings have been developed, and listen to the organ tones. , Who shall compute the their passions been stimulated to indulgence. That, education their souls receive from those plaintive surely, must be nothing short of a devilish system of notes of the hand-organ? Who shall know how those society, no matter by what particular name it may for homely strains may have saved them from the paths of the moment go, which so unerringly makes men into nture recklessness and folly ?

to love music. The orator is a musician playing upon | body and soul of man, as Jefferson himself said, long the minds of his listeners. He knows when and how to finger the mystical stops of human feeling, and wake of a man, and fetches him into a state where threats up earnest purpose with his words of logic and of fire. | come handlest to his lips, and tyranny swells most easi-The old masters wrote their music as much under | ly in his heart. It is beyond denial that contact with the inspiration of their themes, as any men that ever this system makes men callous to those finer and more lived. They knew not what they did, so great was truly chivalrous feelings which are the tests of real nothe power of the influence under which they wrote, bleness and exaltation. It is in this atmosphere where And how many have lived, over whom the full tide of bowie knives are drawn upon you without warning, inspiration swept, yet were unable to grasp it? How and pistols go off when no real danger is near, and of. many souls have groaned in the agony of such a ten when no real affront even has been offered. Here trayail and yet have passed on, leaving no record of is where blows fall soonest, oaths are spoken londest. their great impotence of expression ! Oh, pity the and red hot passions blast and burn in an instant whatvoiceless

"Who die, with all their music in them."

They are the martyrs who are filled with the wine of the spirit, yet there are not the artist's fingers to call it out. Often they who do the most in life, get the smallest praise for it. The world is filled with reapers. who gather from another's sowing. The real character of music is little understood. How the heart swells, in all lands the same, at the notes of "Home, sweet Home !" Who can say why it is that Robert Burns holds so firm a seat in the hearts of all human kind, save that from the heathery hills of Scotland he was endowed with the power of touching all hearts with the spells of harmony, and sending his broad humanity all over the world clad in the rough dialect which he has made classical?

Music of the heart-that which connects heart to heart as with a magnetic cord, will be the prelude to the reign of the Golden Age upon earth; will lead hu. manity into a higher state of consciousness than he growing out of a base and calculating fear. The men has possessed. God gives us all a day of reward, when we shall be known and know ourselves, as we are: and those things which tend to our advancement upon earth will receive the meed of praise which is their merit. Then let us so live here, in this rudimen. tal sphere, as to live in the beauty and harmony of God forever and forever.

In the evening, Mrs. Smith spoke upon Death as the great Fact of our Existence, and Immortality as its unsolved Problem. She pictured it not as a gloomy terror, but wrapped it around with light garments of Those having occasion to remit us small amounts hope and beauty; she attipped the fabled white horse from time to time, will, when convenient, send one America, yielding such quantities of oil, that it cov. | of its skeleton rider, and in its place ushered in the cent stamps instead of threes.

Why do men, professing to be civilized, lend themvoluntarily and instinctively act thus when enraged. devils and turns the human heart into stone. The very Nature is a great teacher, and she has taught us all idea of complete mastery over and ownership in the ago, insensibly blunts the perceptions and sentiments ever and whoever happens to come in their way. Here the tone of character tends not to gentleness, to charity. or to forgiveness ; but rather to rude exactions, and hasty judgments, and violence, and this very barbarism whose latest manifestations have so shocked and fired every humane heart. 1.0

Violence itself is a useful assistant for man, when it beats down and tramples under foot the very power that challenges itself. There are epochs in the history of nations, when nothing less than the strong arm, in the form of bayonets and cannon, can work any practical and present good ; to submit in silence, would be to throw away all that has been gained, without an effort to keep the sacred trust. Brutality must learn to obey a master, before it can be reached by the gentler and more intimate influence of a teacher. Soft words and kind phrases will accomplish nothing, unless it be in exactly the wrong direction ; they are oftener premiums paid for crime to put on more boldness ; flattery who take part in, by countenancing, deeds of atrocious heathenism like those which are, by late events, brought up with such terrible vividness before the mind, deserve to be met with the concentrated wrath of all Christendom, hurled against them in the shape of cannon-shot and bomb-shells, till their barbarity is blown out and burned out of them by the only power they will at the present time respect or pay heed to.

Notice.

When it is Over.

When this war is over-what then? Ah, will not each soul hail the close of internecine strife with a joy altogether unutterable? When the strife is all over, and the struggle all closed up, there will be an impulsive movement in every direction, for the arts that thrive and prosper in times of peace. This country of ours is a wonderful realm, into which are crowded and compacted advantages such as are held in the hands of no other nation upon earth. We produce the fruits of all soils and climates, and exhibit varieties of character known nowhere else among any people that speak the same tongue. The Almighty Father has heaped his favors upon us almost without measure or stint, and with these abundant materials around us, when once more we are permitted to bask in the genial sunshine of peace and a restored fraternity, the commercial, intellectual and spiritual growth of our people will exceed all imaginable bounds; in the twilight hours of the long quiet that are to follow, there must be an expansion of the higher and nobler traits of human character, commensurate with the successes we are bound to achieve in merely material things. Who who can presume to forctell the greatness and glory of this our once " happy land ?" .

The Right Spirit.

A Frenchman, or a-German, will take a seat in a secand class car, or economise in some similar way, that he may be better able to enjoy his music, or buy his book, or study pictures at the gallery. We Americans will have people think us all millionaires, and so ride in carriages rather than go afoot, let culture and refinement fare as they may. Now and then, however, the true spirit shows itself. A correspondent of the Transcript writes of a couple of youths whom he met in at Williams & Everett's, one day, who well illustrated the view we hold about these matters. They were but eighteen years of age, and, he said, were to walk home, place for farming, the advantages of farming coparta distance of thirteen miles, having come to the city and spent their last dime in visiting Church's picture a corporation beginning, etc. This book is written by of the icebergs, entitled .. The North," the Jarvis Col. Dr. Child. It is filled with valuable suggestions that lection, and the Artist's Exhibition. They laughed pertain to the physical well-being of all, and it should about their adventure together, and averred that if on be in the hands of every one; We shall notice it more their return home they were forbidden to spend their fully next week. We will send it, post paid, on remoney again in this way, they still could drop in at celpt of 25 cents. Liberal discount to the trade: Williams & Everett's, where the exhibition was free ! Can young men like these be any other than pure and elevated men when they grow to maturity?

Complimentary to Prof. Alonzo Bond. We are heartily pleased to inform our readers that his many friends propose giving Professor Bond a Complimentary Levee at Lyceum Hall, on Tuesday evening, April 8th. Mr. Bond has long stood at the head of the art in Boston, as a teacher of music and leader of bands and orchestras. The proficiency of Bond's Cornet Band, some few years ago, will always be remembered by the lovers of sweet sounds. He has also taught in hundreds of towns and cities in various parts of the country, and we may further add-we hope without offending the Professor's modesty-that the best regimental bands recruited here for the United States service, and connected with the Massachusetts Volunteer Regiments, were organized and drilled by him. To the Spiritualists of Boston in particular, we would urge attendance upon this Levee, for, in addition to his other duties, since the free meetings have been organized in Boston he has given his services gratuitously, and every Sabbath, in addition to the voices of the choir, his clarionet, (with Flagg's Cornet) has added, to the harmony and attraction of the services. On the occasion of the Levee, a large' band will be in attendance-somewhere near a dozen pieces -and no pains will be spared to promote the enjoyment of the guests. Tickets, $1 00 each, may be obtained at the Music stores, and of the Committee of Arrangements.

Lecturers.

Mr. H. B. Storer, of Connectiout, a tranco speaker, will lecture in Lyceum Hall, in this city, on Sunday next, April 13th-afternoon and evening. These meetings are free to the public.

Miss Emma Houston addresses the Spiritualists of Charlestown next Sunday. Miss Emma Hardinge will speak in Lowell next Sunday, April 18th ; and the two following Sundays in Portland.

Mrs. M. S. Townsend speaks in New Bedford next Sunday, 18th inst.

Mrs. Fannie Davis Smith is announced to speak in Providence, B. I., next Sabbath.

Mrs. Augusta A. Currier will speak in Portland. Me .. next Sunday. Our friends in Philadelphia will be pleased to learn that she intends to lecture in their city during them month of May.

Mr. W. K. Ripley will lecture in Kenduskeng, Me., next Sunday, and in Bangor on the 20th. Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Miller's post-office address is changed to Afton, N. Y., instead of Norwich, as printnt history at ed on the seventh page. Tra to to man 171

A New Book. showing the profits of farming over trade, the best nership, or corporations over single handed farming ;

Why is an infant like & diamond ? Because it is a dear little thing.

APRIL 12, 1862.]

ACROSTIC.

Trusting the Spirits, go forth in thy might. Heavenly teachings bring forth to the light; Earth-creeds disdaining, for spiritual truth, Banishing error and doctrines uncouth, Angelio messages breathe to the mind, Nurturing God-love for all mankind. Nations must hear of thy marvelous light, " Ending their doubts and dispelling their night. Rear, then, thy standard of purified love. Onward, with truth flowers called from above, Fondly inspiring each soul to progress. Lo I the Great Spirit thy labors will bless, In His rich loveliness cheering you on, Granting to mortals a God-given. morn ; His arm will strengthen, and gird you with might, Then onward forever, blest BANNEE OF LIGHT ! · C. F. S.

Mortar Firing.

This mortar business is intensely interesting. We are doing such a grand stroke of work with the terrible monsters, anywhere along the Mississippi valley, that the style of loading and firing them really attracts one to the description. One who was close at hand, during the late bombardment of the famous Island No. 10, declares the firing of a mortar to be the very "poetry of a battle." He describes the operation connected with the loading and discharging thus: A bag of powder, of from eighteen to twenty pounds, is dropped into the bore of the huge monster; the derrick drops the shell in; the angle is calculated; a long cord chap of the ticket seller at the National Theatre, the is attached to the primer; the gunner steps out upon other evening. the platform, and the balance of the crew upon the shore. The captain gives the word; the gunner gives | cial. "What is your profession, sir ?" his cord a sudden jerk: a crash like a thousand thunders follows; a tongue of flame leaps from the mouth of the mortar; and a column of smoke rolls up in beautiful, fleecy spirals, developing into rings of exquisite proportions. The explosion follows, of course, at the time expected; and torn limbs, mangled bodies. rent corses, battered works, are the result. Evacuation even of the strongest points must ensue, if only enough of these things are crowded into a given space in a given time.

The Prince of Walcs.

We hear bad stories about the boy, and are very sorry for it. He certainly has had opportunities enough to learn how to behave himself as he ought, but they say he has n't made the best use of them. What a notion it is, about a young man's "sowing his wild oats !" Wild outs, with a vengeance. If a youth cuts himself uable practical information. It is ably conducted and off entirely from the affection and sympathies of his should be in the hands of every farmer. It costs only friends, and is guilty of conduct that would make his one dollar a year, and a package of seeds thrown in. sister socially infamous for the rest of her life, they mildly denominate it "sowing his wild oats !" If a promising lad, coming forward to plushing manhood, with a heart full of freshness and purity and hope, is imprisonment from one to five years. Such a law suddenly led astray, and converts his period of incipient manhood into a season of dissoluteness and debauchery, befouling his pure sentiments so that they do not recover from the stain as long as he lives-they call it sowing wild oats ! Well-well; it is a fearful crop that follows in good time. But what a responsibility rests upon those who assist in making so false a creed a fashionable one i er

ín

el-

Iis

no

ng ny

10-

the

)10-

85-

10 e68-

re-ing

em. s of any who lose per-s re-ces, this and, tion cent

loug

iny-life,

800-nous

ntly

nđ.

that iom-

378-iead

ader

nd's

0 10-also arts

rith.

best

ates

Jun

him,

WO

iddi-

bave

vices

) the

Cor-

the band

ieces

ijoy-

3 ob-

je ef

____

3-22

ker,

1day

1001-ts of next

78 in aext

k in Me., l ba heir Me.,

169

11 15 dnt. 9,15

1751 125,

Brt-

ag ; i by hat

blut

1010 10-14 ls è

Y.Z.,

To the New Covenant.

For the benefit of the New Covenant, which paper inquires of us about Mr. Foster's goodness, we would say, we understand that what Judge Edmands had reference to in relation to Mr. F.'s character, had nothing whatever to do with his medium manifestations. His mediumship, in our opinion, is what it seems to be-"pure and undefiled." If Mr. Foster has faults in his daily walks, he is not, in consequence the habit of going to South Boston Point for some of these faults, unlike other men. It is not our place time, in the early part of last winter, and, catto go far out of our way to expose the faults of others; ting a hole through the ice, take his usual mornneither do we desire to cover up any faults with airs ing bath. On one of these occasions, the Doctor of pretence. As to what Judge Edmands wrote to the came near going into the "lock-up" instead of the London Spiritual Magazine, we know nothing, save by report. We hold that Mr. Foster is a most remarkable medium

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS,

"GENEVEA," a fine poem by Belle Bush, will appear in our forthcoming issue. The subject was suggested to the author on seeing an exquisite marble bust of "Genevra," executed by Hiram Powers.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Dr. Farnsworth. He is now devoting his whole attention to the answering of Sealed Letters and Questions addressed to Spirits. The Doctor possesses remarkable medlum powers.

Bro. L. K. Coonley, writes us, says the Rising Tide, that he intends to work along toward Wisconsin and Iowa, so as to visit Independence in the early Summer. Any person on the route, wishing his services, can address him at Dayton, Ohio, in April. Bro. Coonley is a clairvoyant physician, and will give prescriptions when desired. After May, he will respond to calls in that section of the country.

We see by the Syracuse Daily Standard, that our old friend, Prof. J. H. Toohey, is giving a course of lectures in that city, before the Syracuse Commercial College.

" GALLUS" FELLOWS .- Davis, Floyd & Co.

" My dog has lost one of its hind legs," said Frank. · Never mind," said a sympathizing friend, ... it will still be able to use its four legs."

" Do you pass professional gentlemen?" inquired a

"That depends upon circumstances," said the offi-

"Rat-catcher," was the reply. "Can't ratify that," said the indignant Oliver.

The industrious man returns to his home, after having accomplished his day's work, thanking heaven that it is sundown ; the sluggard wakes from his couch or casy-chair, and exclaims, .. Another day is gone, and I have done nothing."

There are some friendships which have all the lealousy of love.-Ex.

True; but when such friendships have been abused, how natural it is that such love should turn to hate. Oh, how we long for the time to come when the soul of man will shine out in all its purity, uncontaminated by the petty cares of our material existence.

The American Agriculturist, published at No. 41 Park Row, New York, comes to us laden with val-

The Kentucky Legislature has passed a law against the Knights of the Golden Circle, making it a criminal offence to belong to that body, punishable with ought to be made in this State.

SUMMER-LIKE .- On Saturday we saw three Irish boys bare footed, wading in the gutter. They would do for disciples of Dr. M. G. Smith-who, by the way, has continued his cold water bathing through the enhas continued his cold water bathing through the cu-tire winter, rising at four o'clock in the morning and running to Plum Island to take a dive in the ioam. Frequently he has gone round the entire Island, and in some of the coldest days has bathed in 1pswich iver before sunrise .- Newburyport Herald.

Dr. Smith is a very remarkable man physically, in-tellectually and spiritually. Possessed of wonderful tenectually and spiritually. Possessed of wonderful healing power, said to be even greater than that at-tributed to the famous Dr. Newton, yet, believing it to be a gift from on high, he exercises it without money and without price, as hundreds who have been healed by him can testify.-Traveller.

The Herald is mistaken in stating that Dr. Smith bathed at Plum Island the entire winter. He was in water. While he was climbing over the coal on a wharf there, early one morning, in order to select a "good place" in which to baptise himself-having his for spiritual manifestations. He has convinced thou- large coarse towel under his arm-a watchman seized sands that men do live after death, and that they can him, supposing the good Doctor's object to be the bagging a quantity of coal. Explanations ensued im. and do talk with and influence mortals now on earth. To this end the manifestations given through him are mediately, however, and Dr. S. was permitted to take convincing beyond a question or a doubt to those who bis morning's bath unmolested. PABTIN' OF THE PABTONS .- Mrs. James Parton, have witnessed them. better known as Fanny Fern, has separated from her No Scandal. We refuse to publish letters or communications of any kind, that are calculated to raise an unnecessary controversy, or in any manner reflect upon the good standing or reputation of another. Any discussion properly carried on has admittance in our columns; but in no case will we allow our paper to become a ve-hicle for gross personalities and contemptible insinua. Flore the second edition of "Fern Leaves." Flore is a "bit" of a horse man. He showed his

Fruit Hills in Illinois.

BANNER OF LIGHT.

The south part of Illinois is often referred to as Egypt, and comprises that part of the State lying south of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad. It is about one hundred miles north and south, lying between latitude thirty-seven and thirty-nine, or west of Richmond, Va., and Washington, D. C. It is over one hundred miles across the north end, from the Mississippi at Bt. Louis, to the Wabash at Vincennes and terminates south, at Cairo, at the delta junction of the Ohio and Mississippi. where the Illinois Central Railroad, which parts the region from north to sonth, runs onto a steamboat, and is lost in the river road. Near the north line of this region, at Centralia, the Chicago branch of the Central road leaves the main stem and runs direct to Chicago, while the main line extends to the north-west corner of the State.

The south part of this section is very broken, hilly and rocky, and falling often abruptly to near the level of the rivers ; the north part breaks more gradually into the broad prairies, that extend so far north, and give the State the name of "the prairie State." Nearly the whole region is covered with a scattering growth of timber. and in some parts a dense forest, mostly oak, walnut, whitewood, ash and maple, with sassafras and persimmon underbrush. There are several fine towns on the railroad, steadily gaining in population and improvements from northern settlers, who generally crowd out the old settlers, and tear away their old chimneys, which are usually built on the outside of the house, as are also several rooms, so as to be open on one or two sides. Duquoin, Carbondale, Jonesboro', Famaroa and Cobden I notice among the most active. The low lands and river bottoms are sickly-as any person acquainted with such country in this latitude must know ; but the hills and uplands have a different climate, and are as healthy as the same latitude in the Eastern States. These hills have a soil peculiarly adapted to fruit, especially the peach, which is a never failing crop, or nearly so, and the climate and soil seem to give the finest flavor and color that this deli. cious fruit can gain from any soil and climate in our country.

The region has long been settled by an idle and care ess class of citizens, who came from Kentucky and Tennessee, mostly, and had not the enterprise to develop the resources of the soil. Yet they found its CLAIRVOYANT INSTITUTE value in fruit growing, but confined their orchards almost entirely to seedlings, both of apples and peaches, and even some of these are remarkably fine fruit. During the last four or five years, the fruit-growers of the West have had their attention drawn to this region, and several large and many small farms are siready started, and thus far have been crowned with complete success. One of these settlers, a citizen of Union county, an old friend whom I knew for several years. struggling to raise fruit and trees in Wisconsin, has been on these hills for four years, and seems to have found his paradise. He could show me peach trees that brought him one and a half bushels of the best peaches, at three years from the stone, and two from the budding. From one of these he sold last year the crop for five dollars. He sets one hundred and sixty on an acre, and has not seen a failure since he came here.

Other fruit, except currants, does nearly as well ; strawberries excel almost any section I have heard of. Wheat is a sure crop, and excellent quality, but small quantity, compared to the prairies above ; corn, ditto. Cotton can be raised on the low lands to profit when the laborers can be found to endure the miasmata arising from decaying vegetation and evaporation.

The streams are crooked and muddy, and seem t partake of the same lazy habits of the old settlers, and to go a long and crooked journey to gain a short distance to the border rivers. The roads are very much the same as the streams, and even the railroad, which has the longest levels and straight lines of any I ever rode on, is, among these hills, one of the most crooked not known, or where birds of a feather can flock to gether. No section of new country opens better prospects for No section of new country opens better prospects for No section of new country opens better prospects for No section of new country opens better prospects for No section of new country opens better prospects for No section of new country opens better prospects for No section of new country opens better prospects for No section of new country opens better prospects for No section of new country opens better prospects for gether.

VOICES OF THE PAST. In mournful murmurs, o'er mine ear Remembered echoes seem to roll, And rounds I never more can hear, Make music in my lonely soul I [ T. K. Hervey.

HOGAN'S AUSTRALIAN, EUROPEAN, And American General Agency Office and Universal News-Room.

Ma IBAAC B. RICH, one of the Publishers of the "Banner of Light," is hereby appointed my authorized agent. Inquiries for missing friends and other information sought through the advertising columns of this Journal, will have immediate attention. Newspapers and Periodicals received from all towns and cities, (and regularly filed at my News-Rooms) in Australia, Europe, America, &c.

JOHN HOGAN, Sole Proprietor. ADDRESS-Tusmanian Hotel, Portland, Colony of Victoria, Australia. 11 March 15,

ADVERTISEMENTS.

As this paper circulates largely in all parts of the country, it is a capital medium through which advertisers can reach customers. Our terms are moderate.

PERUVIAN SYRUP: OR. PROTECTED SOLUTION OF THE PROTOXIDE OF IRON.

THE BOVEREIGN REMEDY FOR O DYSPEPSIA.

GENERAL DEBILITY. 1854 FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

And all diseases originating in a BAD STATE OF THE BLOOD. An invaluable TONIC and ALTER-ATIVE. Sold by all Druggists.

JEWETT & COMPANY, April 12. 8w 233 Washington Street,

THE NEW ENGLAND

TS established for the purpose of affording individuals the best and most reliable means of availing the thematical bet and most reliable means of availing thermans the the benefits of Clairvoyance in all its phases. Its transac-tions will be conflucted with strict regard to truth and in-tegrity, and in a manner that will, it is hoped, secure tor it tha full confidence of the public. In order to remunerate those whole services are employ-ed the filtering state of pharma is alward.

uests on each of the above must be made in the hand-

Acquises on each of the applicant. American and Foreign Publications relating to Clairvoy-ance and Kindred subjects, Supplied at publisher's prices. A complete list of these, comprising many rare works, will be louved.

be issued. All communications accompanied with the price as above specified, will be promptly attended to if addressed to the NEW ENGLAND CLAIRVOYANT INSTITUTE, Or, to the undersigned.

, JOHN S. ADAMS.

This Institute has the pleasure of referring to Hon. WAR-BEN CHASE, and DE. A. B. CHILD. Rooms No. 24 1-2 Winter Street, Boston. April 12.

LITERARY AGENCY. No. 24 1-2 WINTER STREET, BOSTON,

MERICAN AND FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS furnished

Autographs, Miner

New Books.

-)

5

SCRIPTURE ILLUSTRATED BY

Moral and Religious Stories, FOR LITTLE CHILDREN.

BY MRS. M. L. WILLIB.

CONTENTS:-The Little Peacemaker. Child's Prayer. The Desire to be Good. Little Mary. Harry Marshall. Wishes. The Golden Rule. Let no Hear the Gentle Volces. Fillal Duty. Unfailing Flowers. The Dream. Evening

Jum. Jor sale at the Banner of Light office, 158 Washington st. Jor sale at the Banner of Light office, 158 Washington st. Jum. Narch 8. Price luc. Pustage 4c.

A GUIDE OF WINDOM AND KNOW L-BOGE TO THE SPIRIT-WORLD, Just published by Almond J. Packard. For sale, wholesale and retail, at this office. Single copies, 25 cents. tf Feb. 15.

WIRO IN GOD ? A Yew Thoughts on Nature and Nature's God, and Man's Relations thereto By A. P. McCombs. For sale at the office of the Banner of Light, 138 Washington street, Boston. Price per hundred, $7; single copies sent by mail, 10 cents. If Feb. 18.

A B C OF LIFE

BY A. B. CHILD, M. D.

AUTHOR OF "WHATEVER 18, IS RIGHT," ETC.

TS NOW READY, and will be sent, post-paid, to any part of the country for 25 cents. This book, of three bundred Aphoriams, on thirty-six print-

This book, of three hundred Aphorisms, on unity-six prine-ed pages, contains more valuable matter than is ordinarily found in hundreds of printed pages of popular reading mat-ter. The work is a rich treat to all thinking minds. For sale at the office of the Banner of Light, 158 Wathing-ton street, Boston. If Dec. 21.

NOW, READY;

THE GREAT CONFLICT! OR,

Cause and Cure of Secession.

BY LEO MILLER, ESQ. delivered at Prat's Hall, Provi-donce, R. L., on the eventing of Kunday, Dec. 8, 1861, and repeated by ubiversal request, at the same place, on Tuesday evening of the following week. Single copies 12 cents; ten copies $1, mailed free; one hundred copies $8. All orders addressed to BANNER OF LIGHT OFFICE, Bos-ton Maan, will be remember and for the field of th ton, Mass., will be promptly supplied. If Feb. 22.

English Works on Spiritualism.

JURNIGHT-NIDE OF NATURE; Or, Onosta AND GHOST-MEERS. By Catherine Crows. For sale at the Banner of Light Office. Price 80 cents.

LIGHT IN THE VALLEY.

MY EXPERIENCES IN SPIRITUALISM. By MIP, Newton Brosland. Illustrated with about twenty plain and colored agravings. For sale at the Banner of Light Office. Price Dec. 21. ١ſ

Essays on Various Subjects.

LOSALYS OIL VIELUURS DELIVITY TYTENDED to clucidate the Caures of the Changes com-ing upon all the Earth at the present time; and the Na-ture of the Calamities that are so rapidly approaching, &c., by Joshua, Cuvier, Franklin, Washington, Faine, &c., glyon through a lady, who wrote "Communicatione," and "Fur-ther Communications from the World of Spirits." Price 50 cents, paper. When sent by mail 10 cents in ad-dition for nostage. dition for postag

Further Communications from the World of Spirits. on subjects highly important to the human family, by Josh-us, Solomon and others, given through a lady. Price 50 cents-10 cents addition for postago, when sent by Communications from the Spirit World, on God, the Departed, Subbath Day, Death, Crime, Harmony, Medlums, Love, Marringe, etc., etc., given by Lorenzo Dow and oth-ers, through a lady. Price 25 cents, paper.

The Rights of Man, by George Fox, given through a lady.

Price 6 cents, The above works are for sale at the BANNER OF LIGHT Office, No. 158 Washington street, Boston, Mass. Oct. 5, If

FIFTH EDITION.

EVERY ONE'S BOOK.

JUST WHAT IS NEEDED IN THESE TIMES!

A New Book by Andrew Jackson Davis

J. S. ADAMS'S

In order to remunerate those whose services are employ-ed, the following rate of charges is adopted: A Medical Examination, comprising a written synopels of the disease and description of its symptoms, together with a prescription of Remetices to be employed, and specific direc-tions respecting a course of treatment, $1. Prophetic Letters comprising a general summary of the leading events and characteristics of the future earth-life of the applicant; $1. Boaled Letters to Spirit-friends answered, including such messages as they may give, questions answer, wr incidents Felax to proof of their identity, $1. Psychometrical Delineations of Character, written out in full, $1. Requests on each of the above must be made in the head-tions toward a person or his character. Goscip and scandal and abuse will not be allowed a publication in the Zonave.—Richland (Wis.) Zonave.

The above paragraph expresses our own sentiments exactly. A newspaper should not be used as a vehicle for the circulation of social scandal, but rather for the careful protection of social interests. When a person feels aggrieved, the last means of redress-or rather of revenge-he should think of resorting to, is the newspaper. Its aim is higher than to serve such a purpose, if it have any aim at all; but if not, it should be scouted by every pure family circle in the land. Brethren, pray settle your differences among one another; the public never can help you in a work you must finally do for yourselves.

To Correspondents.

[We cannot engage to return rejected manuscripts.]

B. J. B., HOPEDALE, MASS .- We have no occasion for articles of a character you designate.

Z. W. B., DIXON, ILL .- Mr. M.'s rule is to devote his time to answering letters, or rather permitting spirits to do so through him, addressed by parties to their spirit friends. He charges for that time, whether a long message, or a short one, or none at all, is communicated. He sometimes devotes a whole day to allow a spirit to answer a single letter. He cannot tell whether anything will come or not. He should not, therefore, be considered an impostor when a spirit fails to respond satisfactorily.

Mediums Wanted in Canada.

A correspondent at Matilda, C. W., writes as follows:

"I think the wild forests of Canada might be turned into fruitfal fields, if suitable mediums were sent to oultivate them. Can you not, as others, send forth missionaries into places promising in the appearance of good soil?"

right to speak for himself, and himself only, he does not confess to any special, conscious immodesty or egotism in claiming and exercising this right. The writer of this has, in his day, chopped cord wood and hoed potatoes, and it never occurred to him to say "We have chopped the wood," or "We have hoed the potatoes," where he had done the work alone. Chop ing wood or hoeing potatoes, is, perhaps, as manly an avocation as writing editorials, and the work is quite as apt to be creditably done. When, therefore, the pronoun "we'." cocurs in the editorials of this paper, it may be inferred that the writer means him-self, and such others as may be more or less interested, and agreed with him.— The New Republic.

1

Floyd is a " bit " of a horse man. He showed his trotters at Fort Donelson admirably. He never made such speed before.

BAD SPELL.-A minister, appointed chaplain in an Ohio Regiment, lately wrote the following note to a brother preacher:

"Deer brothir-if you kan git a comishun as a chap-The caus of kirist kneads you in his armsy."

WHAT SLAVERY DOES .- Out of sixty-eight Confederate prisoners, taken by Capt. Oliver at the Blue Springs settlement, in Jackson county, Missouri, says the St. Louis Democrat, only fourteen could write their names. The written youchers for the fact are in that city, and can be exhibited. The large proportion of the prisoners from Fort Donelson who cannot read. is notorious. This is one of the saddest fruits of slavery, and of the character of material composing the staple of rebellion, which this war has yet revealed. A free and popular government cannot prosper with an uneducated people, and the tendency of slavery is to enshroud them in ignorance.

. An amateur writer thus concludes a story:

"This is my lst attempt at writing a Tail and it is. far from being perfeck, but if I have indoced folks to see that in 9 cases out of 10 they can either make life as barran as the desert of Sarah, or as joyous as a flour garding, my objeck will have been accompliabed. Adoo

What is only gossip against man is scandal against

Every housewife who uses kerosene oil, knows that it affords the best and cheapest light of all illuminating oils. But she also knows that the constant expense and annoyance from the breaking of lamp chimneys, almost if not quite counterbalance the advantages of

No section of new country opens better prospects fo laws of health, than this—for we are emphatically a fruit-growing and flower-raising people, and here is the place for both. I have selected a hill as romantic as North 12. Spiritualists who know how to live and will obey the every variety of Ancient and Modern Curlosities, and Works any in Vermont, for a home for one of my children. and perhaps for myself, and intend soon to have 'ruit! trees in the place of forest trees that now hang over the cliffs.

Even this winter has been mild and pleasant, but remarkably cold one, compared to others ; very little snow. Trees are late in putting out blossoms, but full WARREN CHASE, of fruit buds, &c.

Centralia, Ill., March 27, 1802.

Belief.

The creed of one is just as true as the creed of another. The belief of each is the best belief for each one's self. Milk is best for infants, bread and milk for children, and meat and potatoes for older growthso one belief is best for one period of life, and another belief is best for another period. Every belief is exactly adapted to the growth and condition of the believer. Intrinsically, men believe only for themselves, not for others-the same as men eat for themselves, not for others.

It is one of the effects of the teachings of Spiritualism, to find that every belief is true for its believer; so it will carry a man over the bigotry of claiming that only his own creed is right, to the broad liberality of right.

If there be anything that deserves to go to the gahenna of eternal oblivion, it is the silly, futile fiction that I and my oreed, my acle and my future, are better. in a spirit sense, than you and your creed, your acts and your future. The light of spiritual trath cuts right and your future. The light of spiritual truth cuts right and left through the pretence of self-excollence and self-righteousness, and they fall to dust and sakes as autumn leaves in the flery furnace. "Spiritism, with the ism taken off, is the sect, if sect it may be called, that shall embrace the whole earth, that shall spread out a religious platform as limitiess as is human conception. A, B, C.

SPIRITUAL COMMUNICATIONS.

DB. L. L. FARNSWORTH, Writing Medium D for answering scaled let ers, may be addressed 75 Beach

Deach Street, Boston. Persons inclosing scaled letter, $1, and $ three-cent stamps, will receive a prompt reply. Office hours from 2 to 6 r. m. Anril 12.

Carriages, Horses and Harnesses, FOR SALE.

FOR SALE. FOR SALE. H. BROOKLYN, N. Y., have now on land a large as-sortment, comprising about Two Hundred xxw COACHES, PHÆTONS, OALASHES, Family ROCKAWAYS of all styles, Depot and Btago WAGONS, Top and Open BUGGES, SUL-KIES, Grocers, Express and Business Wagons. And, also, a large number of Necond-Hanned Carriages and Wagons, of all kinds; Hannasses and Sadulary, of all kinds. Also-in connection with their factory is a LIVERY STABLE, where a large number of Hores for kept for raic. Horess and Carriages to let for family and road use, by the day or season. H. B. & O. WITTY, No. 10 Novins st. 164 With Avgnue, and No. 9 Hatbush Av., Brooklyn, N. X.

Horsos and Cartery II. B. & C. WITTY, No. 10 Novins st., day or season. II. B. & C. WITTY, No. 10 Novins st., 164 Fulton Avenue, and No. 9 Flatbush Av., Brooklyn, N. Y. 8m

HISTORY OF THE COUNCIL OF NICE: A WORLD'S CHRISTIAN CONVENTION, A. D. 325. By Dean Dudley, Attorney at Law and Member of vari-ous Historical Societies.

A WORLD'S CHRISTIAN CONVENTION, A. D. 325. A place Dudley, Attorney at Law and Member of vari-ciaiming that all creeds are right. A belief is only for the one who gives bith to the boad liberality of another outside. To believe that most men are bad is another outside. To believe that most men are bad is only for the believer; and to believe that ill men are good is only for the believer, too. Belief is some thing within, not without, a man's own convictions; and is only the reflection of himself, from the external world, upon himself. Thus the conclusion is, to the broad churchman, to the thoroughly imbued Spiritual. ist, that the belief of all the various religions are true, true to themselves, and each being only for itself, what fault is there to find? Not any. The ultimato of spiritual development will ignore nothing, but will accept everything that is and has nothing, but will accept everything that is and has nothing, but will accept everything that is and has nothing, but will accept everything that is and has nothing, but will accept everything that was necessary. is some antecdentism:tincurre that was necessary. is no me antecdentism:tincurre that was necessary. in the other religious sects that have had place and being." The guardian spiritus of Spiritualista. If the other religious sects that have had place and being." The guardian spiritus of Spiritualista. If the other religious sects that have had place and being." The guardian spiritus of Spiritualista. If the other religious sects that have had place and being." The guardian spiritus of Spiritualista. If there we no see it by and by: it is no more for Spiritualists. If there be a gateway for all who have iffor-nalls in the section the guardian spirits of those wor of thonorabine concerting the same things; elocition the discorted is hatory of the Council of Alexandria, Blacten to which from Atlassing of Alexandria, Blacten the Spiritualists and than Burstake in Corison form Spiritualists. If there be a gat logue. Price seventy five cents; when ordered by mail, fifeen conts must be added to prepay postage. For sale at the Ban-ner of Light Office, 158 Washington street, Boston. March 29. if

THE UNVEILING: OR, WHAT I THINK OF SPIRITUALISM. By Dr. P. B. Randolph. Price, $50.

$° _ _

a share the

CONTAINING MEDICAL PRESCRIPTIONS FOR THE

Ruman Body and Mind. BY ANDREW JACKSON DAVIS.

How to repel disease, regain health, live as one ought reat disease of every conceivable kind, recuperate the energies, recruit the worn and exhausted system, go through the world with the least wear and tear and in the truest conditions of harmony-this is what is distinctly taught in this volume, both by prescriptions and principles.

There are to be found more than 300 Prescriptions for more than 100 forms of Disease.

Buch a mass of information, coming through such a sourc makes this book one of Indescribable Value for Family Reference, and it ought to be found in every ousohold in the land.

There are no cases of disease which its directions and rules do not reach. All climates, and all states of the climate come equally within its range.

Those who have known the former volumes of the author. will be rejoiced to know that in the latest one MR. DAVIS BEACHES THE WHOLE RACE, and is freely lending himself to a vork of the largest value to the human family.

It should be in the hands of every Man and Woman. for all are as much interested in its success as they are in their own Bealth and Happiness. Here is the PLAIN ROAD TO BOTH!

A handsome 12mo., of 432 pages. Price only $1. Single copies mailed free on receipt of price. For sale at the BARNER OF LIGHT OFFICE, Boston, Mass. Nov. 23.

A NEW BOOK.

A N extraordinary book has made it appearance, published at Indianapolis, Ind. The following is the title :

AN EYE-OPENER; OR, CATHOLICISM UNMASKED,

BY A CATHOLIC PRIEST.

BY A CATHOLIG PRIEST. Containing—" Doubts of Infidels". embodying thirty im-portant Questions to the Clergy; also, forty Close Questions to the Doctors of Divinity, by Zzra; a curlous and interest-ing work, entitled, La BRUN, and much other matter, both anusing and instructive. This book will cause a greater excitement than anything of the kind ever printed in the English language. When the "Eye Opener" first appeared, its effects were so unprecodentedly electrical and astounding, that the Clergy, in consultation, proposed buying the copyright and first edi-tion for the purpose of suppressing this extraordinary pre-duction. The work was flually submitted to the Rev. Mr. Weat, for his opinion, who returnied for answer, that the Book submitted for his examination, thireatened, it was true, the demolition of all creeds, nevertheles, in his opinion, nothing would be gained by its suppression. Baid he, let truth and error grappio.

Woold be generate by its suppression. Said no, its right and dirror grappio. "The "Fre-Opener" should be in the hands of all who de-sire to think for themselves. Price, 40 cents, postpaid. For sale at the BANKSS of LIGHT Office, No. 158 Washington st., Boston. If Beyl 14.

STANDARD WORKS.

THE following Blandard Works have been added to our already extensive assoriment of Books, and will be sent by mail to any part of the United Bintes, at the prices annex-d. All orders must be addressed "Banner of Light, Boston, Wear " Kana."

Mass."
Letters on the Law of Man's Nature and Development. By Henry George Atlinson, F. G. S., and Harrist Marineau. Price, cloth, $1. Postage 15c.
A Few Days in Athens; Or. An Abstract of the Epicencean and Soic Philosophy being the Transintion of a Greek Manuacipt discovered in Heroulanoum. By Frances Wright, author of "Views of Boclety and Manners in America." Price cloth, 60c. Postage 8c.

Amorica." Price, cloth, 60c. Postage 6c. The "Electrical Theory" of the Universe: Or, The Elements of Physical and Moral Philosophy. By T. S. Mackintosh. Price, cloth, §l. Postage 16c. Hume's Resays and Treatises on Various Subjects. By David Hume, Eq., With a brief steich of the Authors Life and Writings. To which are added, Dialogues con-certing Natural Religion. Price, cloth, §l. Postage Ite. The System of Nature; Or, Laws of the Moral and Phy-mical World. By Baroh D'Holbach, author of Good Sease. etc. A new and improved edition, with notes by Diderol, Two volumes in one. Price, cloth, §l, 23. Postage Sec. Feb. 18.

LIGHT. BANNER OF

[APRIL 12, 1862.

Message Department.

Each message in this department of the BANNER we claim was spoken by the spirit whose name it bears, through Mas. J. H. COWANT, while in a condition called the Trance. They are not published on account of literary merit, but as tests of spirit communion to those friends who may recognize them. These messages go to show that spirits carry the character-issies of their earth life to that beyond-whether good or will. We ask the reader to receive no doctrine put forth by spirits in these columns that does not comport with his reason. Each expresses so much of truth as he perceivesno more.

Our Circles.—The circles at which these communica-tions are given, are hold at the BANNER or LIGHT OFFICE, NO. 158 WASHINGTON STREET, ROOM NO. 3. (up stairs.) every MONDAT, TUESDAT and THURSDAT afternoon, and are free to the public. The doors are closed precisely at three o'clock, and none are admitted after that time.

MESSAGES TO BE PUBLISHED.

The communications given by the following named spirits will be published in regular course :

Will be published in regular course:
Monday, March 17.—Invocation; "The story of Samson;"
Lavi flawkina, of Montgeller, Vi; Michael Collina, a private in Owen's Regiment, Philaielphia, to his wife; Buele Daw-ino, to her mother, in Saratoga, N. Y.; Edith Dennett, of Belmont, Masa., to hor mother.
Tuesday, March 18.—Invocation; Question from a Clergy-man in Western New York; Marietta F. Johnson; Calvin Burke to his brother, Hiram Burke, in Ohio.
Monday, March 24.—Invocation; And a caplanation of the communication bearing the name of John Lee; "Is the sol-dier who dies on the battle field happy immediately after death 7" Nathaniel Call, an old revolutionary soldier, former-ly a resident of Boston; Adelaido Dovercux, of Marsthfield desth T" Nathaniel Call, an old revolutionary soldier, former-ly a resident of Boston; Adelaide Dovereux, of Marshfield, Mass. Twerday, March 25-Invocation: "The Philosophy of life's memories and experionces-where and how are they retain-ed T' Ann Bhields, of Newcastle, Eng., to Dr. Benj, Rohdes, of London; Jane McDermot to her mother in Glasgow, Scotland; Daniel Thomas, hatter, of New York.

Invocation.

Oh Life, Life Eternal, while the Death-angel flings its shadow over myriads of human hearts, we would ask that thou in thy great wisdom and boundless mercy, draw nigh unto each of thy children who may be called upon at this hour to part with those whose happiness was by far more precious than their own, and whose very lives seemed so necessary to their own existence. Oh Father, comfort them in this their time of affliction. Make strong their falth in things spiritual, that they waste not the priceless moments of earthly life, in vain lamentation, for those who, though dead, are yet alive, and who, having exchanged the garments of mortality for those of immortality, yet hover near to guide and protect the loved one's of earth. Oh Life, teach these weak and sorrowing hearts that there is no such thing as death in all God's creation; that thou art the only reign-ing King; teach them that death is a myth, and a thing of terror only, to those who know thee not. Oh Life, shall we ask thee to pour thy healing waters upon the woun is of poor and suffering humanity? Nay, we will not, for well we know, that thou art a fountain of consolation, to such of thy children as do thirst after spiritual truths, and the soul quiet that knowledge of things celestial, brings to hearts bereaved. Grant, oh Lord, that the flowers of truth and righteousness-too often mildewed and blighted by the poisonous breath of sin-may grow forever in this Eden of America, which millions of thy children call home. So, oh Life, unto thee now and forever, we will send up a song of thanksgiving, honor, March 4. and praise.

Miscellaneous Questions.

QUES .-- Spiritual illumination of the soul immortal, is there such a condition, and what is it?

Ass.—While the spirit dwells in the midnight of error, or in what may be called the religious night, it may be said to dwell in death, according to material or mortal understanding. When the spirit steps forth from its darkness, and sees by the light of reason, it becomes a luminous body, magnetically charged with truth. In this sense, and in this only, the spirit may be called a luminous body.

Q .- Are there any evil spirits?

A .- Most certainly there are. Experience has taught you all that you have such with you upon earth, and we in the celestial spheres have them with us disembodied. There is no change of spirit after death; it is precisely the same then, as it was prior to its disembodiment. When spiritually and divinely considered, there is no evil; but when we approach the earth, and look at it from your stand. point of view, we see it all around us. By the good, you know there is evil; by the evil, you know the good. Both qualities are necessary to the growth of each other. Therefore, when the undeveloped and unboly return to earth, instead of meeting them with unrighteousness and contempt, you should meet them with a lowly heart, and strive to teach them the ways of the Eternal One. None need fear the existence of evil spirits, or the dark shadows which their approach to earth casts over the mate-rial world, for they will not harm you, if you live in accordance with God, and the laws of your nature. Evil is the left hand of joy, and it is as necessary to your happiness, as night is necessary to the coming of day. Q.-Is there such strife and contention in the spirit-world as is found here below ? A .- There is most certainly ; and sometimes it exists with us in a greater degree than with you upon the earth. Strife, contention, or agitation, is but the working of the grand law of Nature, to perfect Creation. You have been taught somewhere, that there is a place of peace, or, in other words, a state of total inactivity. Now we know of no such place in the celestial kingdom. There is as much strife, contention there, as here below, only it is more spiritual, and more refined. No two persons think alike. neither are any two fashioned alike; each spirit is endowed with liberty, and if they feel it so, the power will well up and go forth upon the broad ocean of eternity. A spirit of antagonism meets them, and thus they are cast into a flery furnace, and become, as it were, refined. It is by this Eternal wisdom that you here below learn wisdom, grow strong, and become, in one sense, Gods of yourselves. March 4.

Where'll I find a priest if I want one? [On the other side.] Faith, I do n't see any there at all. I'm a calling all the time. [Have you any friends in the spirit-land?] A mother, and father, and cousins, and aunts and uncles, many of them. [You will meet them there.] Faith, sir, you 're not a spirit like meself at all. How do you know these things? You say, I'll see me mother? [Yes. If you do not, then come back and tell me that I was mistaken.] Faith, I do n't want to be disappointed any more. Must I go? [When you please.] March 4.

Clarence Harper Wilson.

What 'll 1 say, mister? [Say whatever you wish.] I want to go and see my father and sisters. [Where do they reside?] My father lives in St. Louis. One sister is in California, and the other is in New York State. [How old were you when you died?] Nine years old; mother says I've been born most a year. [When did your mother die?] She died three years ago in Troy, New York. I died no further; while reason in man is capable of im-there, too. I want to send a letter to my father and provement, of progressien. sisters, or else go and speak to them myself. [You can't do the latter.] Well, ask them to meet me. 1 want them to find a place, so I can talk, and that the horse is endowed with reason. me and mother will come and meet them. [What disease did you die of?] I died of the measlesturned inside, sir. [What is your name?] Clar-ence Harper Wilson. My father's is Andrew, and I have one sister called Mary, and another Lois, not Louisa. [Do you remember your father's business ?] Yes, sir. If is a billiard table maker. When can I speak with my father and sisters? [[ can't say when-after this is published; they 'll call you; perhaps they won't believe it is you.] Well, 't is me. My father would n't say it was n't me, because I'd tell him things to make him know it's me. My mother wants to come, too. Can she, some time?

[Certainly. What are you doing?] Everything, most; learning, everything you want to learn about. [Do you have teachers ?] Yes; and I'm a teacher, myself, and teach those that are smaller than myself. Tell my father and sisters that mother and me are happy, and mother says she wants them to be so. If mother could come here, she could talk better than me, but she can't yet. Shall I go? [If you want to.] March 4. want to.]

-Invocation.

Oh thou spirit, who alone art infinite in wisdom and goodness, and who standeth above human weakness ; who canst read at a glance the secrets of men's know thee not as thou wouldst fain have the children of thy grace and mercy know thee, here and hereful ter. Oh Divine One, may the words of Jesus, the Holy One-thy best beloved Son-ever find a place in each heart present. May these words of Jesus-" Neither do I condemn thee; go and sin no more "-be registered in every human heart throughout the whole land; and may the spirit of forgiveness, of which thou art the heavenly type, dwell in like that of the celestial spheres, thy will on earth the same as in heaven. So shall the bright flowers the song of thanksgiving to thee, forever and ever. March 6.

Miscellaneous Questions. QUES .-- What is the difference between soul and mind? Ans .- The soul, the spirit, and the mind, we be lieve to be three distinct attributes of Deity. The spirit we conceive to be internal, the most subtle : the mind, a means by which the spirit manifests itself to the next order of life. The soul is an eleotric body, surrounding both the spirit and the mind. The mind may be called "the mirror" in which the acts of the spirit are reflected or personified. The soul is that magnetic body which is in continual rapport with the whole universe. All these several forms of life are united; each playing in perfect harmony with God's laws. There are as many opinions upon this subject of soul-life, as there are individual spirits, each gathering to themselves as much of Deity as their peculiar natures will allow. But we conceive the soul to be an electric body, a sort of battery, by means of which the snirit holds communion with the external or outward world. Q .- What is the difference between Deity in the material world, and Deity in the celestial? A.-There is no difference, except that Deity within the human being is a child; Deity in the celestial spheres is Delty grown to manhood. God is God everywhere, and we know of no place where he is not to be found. Q.-What is the difference between life as manifested in the brute creation and in the human being? A .- Life is not subject to death, according to the correct definition of the term. Death signifies change, and not utter annihilation, as many believe. In the brute creation we perceive life rising to a step below the intellectual; therefore life in the brute creation remains, as it were, stationary, after reaching a certain point. Man, on the contrary, constantly ascends. He has not only the crowning wreath of immortality, but a something that goes on from day to day, from year to year, a power for which the word progression seems the most appro priate term. The crowning element of intelleo tuality is never attained by the brute oreation. You can teach the brute just so far as his instincts will allow, but no further. It is true that some animals manifest a degree of instinct that is near akin to intellectuality, wisdom or reason, but nevertheless, there is a broad line of demarcation be reason of the intellectual creation. By centering upon the brute, or rather his instincts, your animal magnetism combined with your desires, you render him submissive to your slightest will. Through the superior force of your magnetic power you make the brute your slave, your servant. If man understood the extent of this wonderful magnetic power, he would soon teach the brute creation to fear him instead of the reverse, as is the case at the present day among the more ferocious class of animals. Man is the only being who has the power to say in thought, and in thought only, to the lion, "thus far shalt thou come, and no further." Of this power we have had living examples, as in the case of Herr Driesbach and Van Amburgh, whose wonderful power over the king of the brute creation -the lion-will be admitted by thousands in existence at the present day. But when you undertake to bring even the higher order of animals up to the intellectual standard, you find that you are casting and complete. Now as we spirits are obliged to apyour gems upon the ground, to be trodden under

A .-- He has not. In man it becomes reason, intellectuality, or wisdom. It assumes a higher form. Q.-Is it not instinct that prompts the new-born infant to seek food ?

A .- No. It is reason in infancy. The same element exists in the infant as in the old man, only in the latter it is crowned with years. If there were nothing more embodied in the infant's spirit than instinct, it would always remain an infant.

Q .- Please explain more fully the qualities known as instinct and reason.

A .-- Instinct and reason, when resolved into their primary conditions, are one and the same thing, because all the manifestations of life come from God, or in other words, God dwells in all things. Instinct differs from reason inasmuch as the former is found among the brute creation, and is peculiar to them alone, while reason belongs to God's highest work-man. Instinct is a something by which the animal satisfies his absolute necessities, but it goes

A gentleman in the audience remarked that he was ready to prove before the company present,

A .- Then you are prepared to demonstrate that which nothing in nature can substantiate. Teach your horse to read or to pray, if you can. You can carry him as far as the outer limits of the brute kingdom, but no further. My friend, you had better refer to the simple volume of nature, rather than to any modern author. Do this, and you will make few mistakes, for nowhere in the lower orders of the animal kingdom do we find the quality called reason. Q.-What is the meaning of the expression "Be ye wise as serpents?"

A .- "Be ye wise as serpents, and harmless as doves." It was merely a symbolical expression, upon the part of Jesus. Do you suppose the serpent is endowed with wisdom? We think not. When sending forth his disciples, Jesus desired them to exercise toward their fellow-creatures the two extremes of their manly nature, humility and wisdom, and the expression used by him to his apostles was a typical one, in the same way that the parables uttered by him were figures of speech enveloping, though not concealing, a moral.

Q .- Do spirits in the dark sphere see those in the higher or brighter spheres?

A .--- They do not. They are able only to see those who are in rapport with themselves, or those who lives, we pray thee to be near us in spirit at this dwell in the same element. As all comprehend light time, the while we raise our humble petitions to according to their own power of spiritality, they thes. We come, most Holy One, to-day, in behalf of can only see those who dwell upon the same plane the weakness of frail humanity. Oh our God, thy with them. Anything higher they cannot perceive, children, scattered up and down the broad earth, because it is out of the limits of nature, and nature's laws are simple, straightforward and perfect. March 6.

Laura Kimball,

I lived twenty years upon earth, and died in 1860. was born in Belfast, Maine, and died in the city of New York. My name was Laura Kimball; my father's, Hezekiah ; my mother's, Sarah. There are so many anxious ones here, that it's hard for each the breasts of thy weak and erring children. So one to obtain the privilege of speaking with their shall the weak grow strong, and the strong grow friends. I thought I should be able to come back stronger; and thus shall thy kingdom on earth be soon after I died, but could not. I was not a stranger to Spiritualism myself, but most of my friends are. I said if it was true, I would come back and of truth bloom in the world's wilderness, and so give some truthe to my friends, that should overcome shall a thousand times ten thousand bearts send up their doubts. I've tried hard to, but have never been able to return to earth until to-day.

I lived, or stopped, with my uncle, Horace Presby, who resided, at the time of my death, in Walker street, a short distance from East Broadway, city of New York. He was by trade a blacksmith, but I have learned since my death that he has gone into the hardware business. My uncle is a Methodist, and is violently opposed to anything that is opposed to his religion. I wish, if you have no objection, to give him a slight proof of my presence here, and to overcome, if possible, his doubts concerning the power of spirits to return to earth after death.

I suppose the disease I died of might be called consumption. I had the rheumatic fever, and afterwards had a relapse, and I suppose my slokness end-ed in consumption. The test I wish to give to my uncle is this: He gave me a little locket in child hood. There was an inscription upon the inside of it, which I was not to read until I reached eighteen years of age. Upon opening it at that time, I found these words written there, "God, is Love." I know not why he wished me to remain in ignorance of this motto, except as a means adopted by my uncle, to overcome that spirit of intense curiosity which was known to govern my childhood. By my request, the looket was buried with me. I think no one present can know of this, as I am a stranger to all. Should my uncle first receive my letter from the spirit-world, I would ask him to inform all my dear friends that I desire to speak with them. 1 will furthermore say, that my dear aunt-his wifefinds a pleasant home in the spirit-land. She left him a little short of a year after I did. At that time I presume the family was much broken up ; at any rate, I know confusion reigned there, and it was impossible for the spirits of those who loved them to approach very near to them, on account of the inQ .- Please demonstrate this assertion ?

clearly comprehended by mortality ; when, therefore, you cease to exist in the fiesh, and become, as it 500 85 W0 500.

Q .- Is spirit material?

A .--- To a certain extent it is.

Q .- How far ?

det and the second second

A .- While the spirit dwells in the mundane sphere but as it passes on toward the spirit-world, it becomes etherealized, and entirely apart from its earthly existence.

Q .- Did not Christ say the spirit hath not form ? A .-- We do not know that he did. We believe Jesus spake in this way: " A spirit hath not fiesh and bones like ye see me have." He intended to convey to the minds of his followers that he had left the old, that he had passed on to a higher and more spiritual existence.

Q.-Is electricity a penderable substance?

nected with the spirit-world.

Q .- What gives it its weight?

A .- Its relation one with the other.

Q.-Is there such a thing as sin in the world?

A.-According to the strict spiritual definition, there is no sin. Friend, it is impossible for the charge sweeps that away, and places you on the don't know. When I find out, I'll come back and other side, then shall you behold that which was in-visible to you as a mortal. You are confined to the her; would if I could. [We don't wish to pry into law mortal, and you must obey its distates. I, as family affairs.] an individual spirit, must not trespass upon God's laws; I must obey his law, for it is such as cannot be infringed upon.

Some one said, "Then there has never been a law plied :

Certainly not. If God's laws could be violated. where, then, would be omnipotence? Man and God differ in this respect: the one is finite, the other infinite. If God were not a supreme being whose laws are inviolate, then you might easily crush and break him under your feet as the merest atom.

Q .- Did not the Apostle Paul speak of the Galatians as sinners?

A .- The Apostle Paul gave that which seemed to him to be true.

Q .-- What is sin?

A .- Again we affirm there is no transgressing the law of God. You might as well declare to us that by your will you could drag yonder sun from its po-sition in the heavens, and place it at your feet. God is God everywhere, and his laws are incapable of transgression by man.

Q .-- Am I not subject to the law of God?

A .- The laws of God, which are recognized by you in mortality, are simply the laws of your material being. In this case, any transgression upon your part would be a violation of the external-the law of nature-and not of the internal.

Q.-Who is the author of this law of nature?

A.-God.

Q.-Is it not, then, the law of God?

A .- The law of God is a something that is incapable of being transgressed. You can do violence to the external, but not to the internal. You live now in the objective world, but when you shall have put on the garments of immortality, you will agree with us that there is no sin.

Q .-- If there is no sin upon earth, why did you pray for humanity, this afternoon ?

A .- We pray because it is our nature so to do. We worship, because we come into rapport by prayer with those intelligences who can aid, elevate and bring us into a higher sphere.

Q.--Is electricity communicated like thought? To a certain extent, this is so. may be said to be the medium of conveyance of thought. By the electric force of your magnetism, you throw off your impression upon the brain of an other. March 18.

end, but I can't make out that I 've been dead over A.—We cannot satisfactorily. In order to clearly ten days. It do n't meem so long. I do n't know what understand this truth, you must stand upon carside. I've done all that time. [You've been taken care You must bease to exist in mortal, stand outside the of; laid away to rest.] No, I aint one of the kind to mortal, or, in other words, become immortal, in or- rest; you do n't catch me napping! I never required der to folly comprehend our meaning. Those things so much sleep as a good many did, while I was here which belong exclusively to the spirit, cannot be on earth. I'm certain I died the second of the month, and if you 're sure that I 'm here on the thirteenth why, by thunder, there 's a cloud somewhere ! were, spiritualized, then, and not till then, shall you My age was twenty-one. One of my brothers' name was Joseph ; he's on the religious way a little-that is, he aint like me.

But see here, they say after death, that we can exercise all our powers, the same as we did while here below. [You can influence some medium.] Influence! I do n't understand it. I want to talk to of life, it partakes of the materiality of that life; them. Confound your back-handed way of doing things here! Can't we borrow what we want, and have it as long as we want to? [We can't always do what we want to.] I know it, I never could, Well, I want a medium to travel off with, and find my friends. [You can't find mediums always at your hand.] Your institution is a humbug I You lead us to believe that we can do thus and so, when we get here, and then we find upon reaching earth, that we can't. [You can send a letter to your friends.] I've got to go all around the barn to get at it. I've got to send a letter to my friends, eh? or, in other words, put myself on the begging list, to ask them to A-Electricity is both a ponderable and impon-derable substance. Ponderable, when connected with the objective world; imponderable when con-quite as happy and a little better off than I expected to be. [Do you remember at what camp you died ?] to be. [Do you remember at what camp you died?] Yes sir, I expect I do, and I'm going to tell you be-fore I get through. [When he gets ready.] That's so, miss. I always did things when I got ready to, except one thing—I was n't ready to die! I had to go along, though, ready or not. [Have you a father or mother living?] I have a mother, but I do n't beam don't beam don't have beam her to the 's that to spirit encased in mortality to fully comprehend the know her. [You do n't know her-how's that ?] position of the spirit that stands outside. That which is knowledge to us, is only a belief with you. The great law of Nature hath given us our bounds. very unmotherly. After rearing four children sha There is a gulf between us; when the messenger of stepped out; it was said she went to Europe, but I I died at Camp Lees, and belonged to the sixth New York Regiment. I'm not religious, eir, and that may be the reason I 've mixed up things so. I do n't know where I'm to be put-that is to say, of the Almighty violated." To which the spirit re- whether I'm to be promoted, or drummed out of the ranks. I may take it into my head to hunt up that truant mother of mine, who knows? [You can do it now.] Good-bye to you, stranger; is it hard going out here, or easy? [Easy, only wish yourself away.] March 13.

THE LAST BOUQUET.

BY MES. ALONZO BOND.

O, sweet, pale, withered flowers, How beautiful ye are ! Than all that went before, All the rich summer store, You 're richer, sweeter far.

And why? You are the last I. That sad, dread word, the last ! O, by that simple word How many thoughts are stirred-Thoughts of the blissful past 1 Pale flowers, pale withered flowers!

You 're types of precious things-Relics of happier days, Which, lit by pleasure's rays, Fled on Time's rapid wings.

Last hours with cherished friends, When time the swiftest flies? Last tears in silence shed, When came the parting dread ; Last looks from loving eyes.

Who but would fain compress A life-time in a day ! The last day spent with one, Who, ere the morrow's sun. Must leave me, and for aye?

O, precious, priceless days, Pale flowers, you 're type of those-Most sad, most sweet, most dear, Because, like those, most near To an eternal close. Sweet flowers, sweet, fading flowers, I woo your gentle breath .... Unlike those brilliant flowers. Which speak of life's bright hours-Ye tell of change and death.

Ellen McGuire.

I'm not much, ary way. [You are certainly, somebody.] I am, place God, just what I am. I've got three children, and that's what brings me back. [Where are they at present?] In East Cambridge, suppose, where I lived and died, near two years Me name was Ellen McGuire. [Can you give the street, and number of your residence 7] Faith, I can't remember the name of the street, or the number either, but it was within a stone's throw of the Lechmere House. I was told if I come to you, you'd show me the way to me husband and children. [We'll print whatever you say.] I do n't want that at all. Faith, I do n't want to tell all these folks, what I tell them. [Is your husband still upon earth?] He is, and bad enough off too, most of the time; like meself. He drink too much. I find no place to stay in. I want to come back all the time. [How old are your children?] The oldest is nine going on ten years, the youngest, a small little one. Oh, God help it! [What is your religion 7] I'm not a Catholio at all. I'm not a Protestant. I'm nothing at all. I want to talk with me husband. [Ask your husband to meet you at some medium's.] Paith, do n't I know the priest won't let him go there ? / [That's all we can do for you, except print. ing your letter.] I've been like one who 's almost senseless, all the time I've been here. [Did you drink liquor too, when upon earth?] I did, eir. [Would you lead such a life again, if placed upon earth?] Faith, I would n't do as I did then. Faith, there's nothing to drink here, if you wanted it. [Do you find any worse off than yourself in the spir-it-world?] Faith, I don't, for I'm had enough off meself. All I want is to go somewhere where I'll. meet me children, and old man, if I can. [He'll probably get your letter.] Then you want his name, to know who to send the letter to. Well, it 's Michael McGuire. I'm disappointed. I thought I'd go meself. I thought I'd borrow a body and go meself

::1+

Q .-- Is the magnetism, of which you speak, a material emanation from the body?

A.-Most certainly.

Q .- Do spirits perceive this emanation?

A .- They do. It is as material, in one sense, as this table before me; but yet you see it not with your eyes. The eye of the clairvoyant, however, cannot fail to perceive it.

Q .- Will you explain the difference between in stinct and reason?

A .- Instinct may be called the highest element in the animal or brute creation. Reason, in the intellectual kingdom, meets the instinct, and is but one step in advance of the other. Reason is the first step upon the great spiral staircase of intellectual life. Reason penetrates by force of will into the brute creation, and is in continual rapport with instinot.

Q.-Has man no quality of instinct?

Invocation.

March 6.

harmony and unhappiness existing among them.

Oh. thou Eternal Life of all things, thou spirit of the universe, whose voice we have heard through all the eternal past, which we still hear in the present, and which we hope to hear even in the unsolved fature, draw near, we beseech thee, unto thy children here assembled for spiritual aid and instruction. Thou who art our Father, Mother, Sister, Brother, King of our life, we come unto thee with our simple offerings of love and praise, well assured that thou wilt cheerfully accept even the poorest gifts of thy children upon earth. We bless thee, oh Lord, for all the shadows, as well as the sunbeams thou hast cast in our way; and oh, Father, we ask only in return tween the instinct of the brute creation and the for these tributes of childish affection, a blessing for thy children here, as elsewhere, gathered together for soul-communion throughout the world. We ask thee, oh Jehovah, to sustain them in their sorrow and despair at this hour, that wherever they go, that whatever darkness they may be called upon to pass through, they may ever feel that thou art with them; and unto thee, oh Divine Spirit of all things mortal and unto thee, on Divine option of all eternity, will and immortal, we now, and unto all eternity, will march 18. March 18.

Soliloquy.

From the dewning of spirit-truth and spirit-communication, from the land of the Invisible, it has ever been our purpose to do what we can by way of assisting the human race; and in carrying out our mission, we are obliged to resort to various means, and instead of playing upon a single harp-string of humanity, we are obliged to touch them all, in order that the melody of God's truth may be harmonious proach you human through these earthly avenues, the truths so freely uttered by us must present to the mortal listener a variety of forms, color, and personality, as well as seeming contradictions of terms and statements. But if you will look beyond the exter-nal, you will at once perceive that there is a certain harmony, a degree of unity, underlying all, that speaks of God, and stamps the impress of his holy hand upon all things spiritually pronounced or written. We desire to give you mortals that which alone cometh from the fountain of truth; to appeal to that clear river of truth which flows around each human soul, and if we succeed in doing that, the waters will mingle, and God will be glorified. March 18.

Miscellaneous Questions.

QUES .- What are the relations existing between spirit and life and life and electricity? Ana.-Spirit, life and electricity, as an essence, are one. When so considered, there is really no difference between them. 1.1.

Trach to

Olivia Rhodes.

I promised to return, if I could and make myself known to my friends. My name was Olivia Rhodes, of Dayton, Ohio. I was nineteen years of age, at the time of my death. I died of consumption. I have been a spirit since last October. I have a mother and one brother upon earth. My brother is now away, and I scarce hope to reach him, but I do hope to reach my mother. I cannot say that I had any belief in these things before death, although I had some acquaintances who had, and my mother said she wished she could believe in Spiritualism. I was slok in all, I suppose I should say, a year and a half, but was not confined to my bed but a short time. I wish to have the privilege of speaking to my mother. I know I shall meet with difficulties all along the way, but we are taught here in the spirit-land, that if we would attain our dearest wishes, we must not heed obstacles, but press on with untiring energy until the goal is reached.

My last words to my mother were, "Mother, I know I'm dying, but I'm not afraid; I know I've made no profession of religion, but I'm not afraid; know that God made me, and that he will take care of me after death, as well as before." have been well cared for in the spirit-world; I've found many kind friends here, and some acquaintances. My sister Lydis, who died years ago, and my father, are both here.

Oh, dear, dear mother, God is just, God is good, and the spirit land is more beautiful than I can portray to you. Come and talk with me, for I can feel your influence, and it will be a power to give me strength to commune with you. March 13.

S. B. Brittan, Jr.

Ask my father-who is your correspondent-to will there explain what I cannot here. March 18. S. B. BRITTAN, JR.

Albert Kennedy,

Aha, stranger, you're just the man I dreamed of! Indeed!] Yes, I dreamed I saw you the night before died. [Where were you?] In my body, in camp. it? [Yes.] In the first place, I want to get used to this uniform ; it's mighty inconvenient!

glory of it. I got eick and died. I had that most infernal of all diseases, small pox.

You profess to give us all the assistance you can, quantly not of much account ; but, however, I 've got

Correspondence.

The Western Fields. $\sim$

DEAR BANNER-I have for some time contemplated greeting, through your columns, the friends of human progress and universal brotherhood with a few words of cheer to brighten their hopes, strengthen their hands, and gladden their hearts, by telling them that, in this portion of the prairie State, the glorious work of redemption and disenthralment from creeds and "old wives' fables," is still making headway, in spite of all the turmoils of war, and the anathemas of the church.

At Erie, in this County, resides Mrs. Wanser, who is a very good trance medical medium, and is doing quite a good business in the healing art, the opposition of the regular faculty to the contrary notwithstanding. In the town and vicinity are many excellent and influential friends. There is also residing here, the ex-Rev. Mr. Cope, a young man of brilliant talents, who formerly preached for the Episcopal Methodists ; but they have recently thrown him overboard from their leaky craft of sectarianism, for fear so large a sonl would sink their shattered bark. Mr. Cope has outgrown the swaddling bands of ancient theology, and refuses to have his soul fettered with the dogmas of the Methodist book meet me at Mrs. French's in Fourth Avenue, and I of discipline. He is doing a good work, though he does not identify himself as a Spiritualist.

In Prophetstown are several mediums, and a good per centage of Spiritualists. Throughout this county are many inquiring minds, who are anxious for more light. This town, (Fulton City.) is the hot bed of sectarianism, but still there are some who dare to I'll tell you all, if you 'll only hold your tongue, and think for themselves. At present, we are " chasnot be so infernal inquisitive! This is Boston, aint | tened for our profit" by the ranting of a noisy Methodist preacher by the name of Smith-a man of unbounded zeal, but with little or no knowledge to direct. Now, to begin with, you want my name, which I bounded zeal, but with invited in bis slanders of Spiritualists, but suppose is what it used to be-Albert Kennedy; and the is liberal in bis slanders of Spiritualists, but I suppose I was born in Massachusetts, but fetobed | does not meet them in argument. There are in this up in New York. Now, stranger, I was not killed in town some two or three partially developed medibattle, and I'm mighty sorry, too, for I lost the ums, and one as good a medium as the country affords.

Rev. John McKercher is being developed as a toward helping us over the road; now I suggest that spirit-artist. He has drawn some very life-like you give us a loose uniform. I was a private, conse- portraits ; his wife is also an impressive medium. Living in my family is the blind medium, Mrs. two brothers in the army that will be glad to hear laving in my family is the blind spiritual gifts from me, and that's what brings me hers, to-day. Briggs, who possesses more varied spiritual gifts Confound your ways here, I do n't like 'em ! But than any person I know of. Under the influence of see here ; you 'll be kind enough to report me to Han- human, or animal magnetism, she is the best medicoor, dead and not dead, right and not right. I'm here early, I know. I don't know much about this sort of drill., I've only been here a few days. Let's see, what day of the month is it now? [To-day is the thirteenth of March.] I died the see.

Mary and Stranger

APRIL 12, 1862.

BANNER OF LIGHT

immediately over each diseased locality is presented to her vision, by spirit-power, a card, on which is to her vision, by spirit-power, a card, on which is printed, or written, the medicine required to heal that disease. At other times, she is entranced by use every exertion possible in our behalf. Lecturers are her attending spirit physician, and then he, through informed that we make no charge for their notices. These her, describes the disease, and makes the prescrip- named below are requested to give notice of any change of tion. As evidence of her powers, and also of the faith and fear which professed skeptics have in, and

May and June. Address, West Killingly, Conn. F. L. WADEWORTH will lecture in Providence, R. I., four Sundays of May; at Faulton, Mass, first two Sundays of June; it Marblehead last three Sundays of June; in New Bedford, four Sundays in July; in Quincy, four Sundays in Sundays of Sundays in Sundays in Sundays in Sundays in physiology. A Spiritualist, who happened to be standing by told him he would take that bet physiology. A Spiritualist, who happened to be standing by, told him he would take that bet, and the value of his horse in money was ready. So un-expected an occurrence suddenly awakened in the stand 28. Address, East Stoughton, Mass. honorable Mr. D., such a moral horror of gambling, in all its forms, that he, like many other plous souls, refused to abide his own offer. After this, by the refused to abide his own offer. After this, by the

"We will call a public meeting in Dixon, and you and Mrs. Briggs shall have equal time. You may ask her questions in Anatomy and Chemistry, and she will answer; then she shall ask you quoosions N. FRANK WHITE use to the state of the same sciences, and you shall answer, and let ing field, and will answer calls from friends eastor west. Ap-ting field, and will answer calls from friends eastor west. Ap-plications should be made immediately. Address, Beymour, that he could not think of condescending to meet a woman in public discussion.

Mrs. Briggs also has the gift of "discerning spirits" and psychometric reading of character, and through this gift has given many most excellent tests, by de-Boribing spirits and scenes in their earth-life.

Mrs. Briggs is now ready to devote her whole time to the practice of medicine, attended by a well read and experienced physician. She is not yet permanently located, and will take into consideration any inducements that may be offered.

All letters of inquiry, or professional calls may be addressed to the subscriber at Fulton, Whitesede Cp., Illinois. A. W. BENTON, M. D.

Fulton, March 21, 1862.

ut

to

th

nd

۰I

at

) it

ng

ated

hu.

few then lling

the nent

king

and

-who loing

posi-

with-

7 OX-

0 TE-

an of r the

rown

Han-

bat-

dling

re his book

gh he

1 good coun.

us for ot bed

ara to

chas-

Meth-

of unlirect.

s, but n; this medi-

antry

85 8

e-like

dium.

Mrs.

gifts 108 01

medicribes ationt

diag-

ar, 10,

From New Jersey.

DEAR BANNER-Thinking you would like to know how Spiritualism is progressing in this vicinity and adjacent parts of the country, it is my endeavor to inform you. We have once more been greeted by our beloved sister, Laura De Force, who has been with us for a short time, in the meanwhile visiting Mount Holly, Lumberton and Trenton, there breaking the bread of life to all those who are famishing and thirsting for spiritual food, given them by angels, through her instrumentality. She had good audiences at each place, and gave perfect satisfaction to all who listened to her eloquent voice, in expounding the traths of the Spiritual Philosophy; Trenton never having but one spiritual lecturer there before, he the noble champion of truth and progress, Warren Chase. Miss De Force's lectures being so much liked, the Committee decided to have a meeting called the following Monday, to make arrangements to have regular meetings held in that city in the fature.

Mr. Editor, you see that Spiritualism is not dying out in these parts. It will ever be our endeavor to keep the wheel in motion. Yours for the right, ____ Vincentown, March 20, 1862. E. N.

Dr. J. M. Campbell.

MR. EDITOR-It is not widely enough known that at Fort Recovery, Mercer county, Ohio, Dr. J. M. Campbell, one of the best healing mediums, and most reliable clairvoyants, resides; and one, too, who has done as much for the cause of Spiritualism as any other within the range of my travels as a speaker, taking means into consideration. He has sustained

Parties noticed under this head are at liberty to receive

LECTURERS AND MEDIUMS.

faith and fear which professed skeptics have in, and of, spirit-power, I will relate the following fact: Living in Dixon, Illinois, is a Dr. Wynn, who claims to be a well read and scientific physician of the old school. This Dr. Wynn, in the absence of the old school. This Dr. Wynn, in the absence of best posted." This challenge only had the effect to produce such an enormous hypertrophy of the doctor's dignity, the will ray special attention to the healing of diseases, wherever he may be called. Address, Port Huron, Mich.

WARREN CHASE speaks in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, April 13 and 20; Waukesha, April 16 and 17; Grand Rapide, Mich., April 27; in Battle Crock, Mich., four Sundays in May. He will receive subscriptions for the Banner of Light.

MRS. A. P. THOMPSON'S engagements at North Haverhill, and Bath, N. H., and Danville, Yt., having closed for the pre-sent, she is at liberty to make engagements to lecture che-where. Address, North Haverhill, N. H.

Miss Lizzis Dorsa will lecture in Boston, April 20 and 21; in May Springfield; in New Bedford, June 1 and 8. Ad-dress, care of Banner of Light.

MRS. AUGUSTA A. CURRIER will lecture in Portland, Me., the two first Bundays in April; Lowell, Mass. April 20, 27 and May 4 and 11. Address box 815, Lowell, Mass.

Mas. M. S. Townsand will speak in Willimantic, Conn., April 20 and 27; West Randolph, Mass., May 4 and 10; Provi-dence R. I., during June.

H. P. FAIRFIELD Will lecture in Quincy, Mass., April 20 and N. Will answer calls to lecture during May and June. Ad-

87. Will answer calls to lecture during may and sume. Au-dress, Quincy, Mass. Ms. and Mss. H. M. Millan may be addressed at Nor-wich, Chenango Co., N. Y., for the present, or Conneaut, Ohio, care of Asa Hickor, permanently.

H. L. BOWKER will answer calls to lecture on the new developments of the Spiritual Movement. Address, No. 9 Hudson street, Boston.

MRS. FANNIE BURBANK FELTON will lecture in Low-ell, May 18 Address 25 Kneeland street Boston.

MRS. M. B. KENNEY Will speak in Taunton, April 20 and 27; Charlestown, May 4 and 11. Address, Lawrence, Mass. MISS BELLE SCOUGALL, loctures in Philadelphia, April 13. Address as above or Bockford, Ill.

MISS L. E. A. DEFORCE'S address is Xenia, Ohio, until fur-

WM. P. WHITMAN, trance speaker, and healing medium. Athol Depot, Mass.

Athol Depot, Mass. Dr. H. F. GARDMER, Pavilion; 55 Tromont street, Boston. Dr. O. H. WHLIMGTON, No. 194 W. Springfield st., Boston. MRS. FRANCES T. YOUNG, trance speaker, 56 Myrile street. MRS. A. H. SWAN, care P. Clark, 14 Bromfield st., Boston. Dr. L. U. BRUCH. Address care of Banner of Light, Boston. Dr. L. U. BRUCH. Address care of Banner of Light, Boston. L. JUDD PARDER, Boston, care Or. A. B. Child, Boston. L. JUDD PARDER, Boston, care of Bela Marsh. REV. BILAS THREELL, 40 Bouth street, Boston. LEWIS B. MONRON, 14 Bromfield St., Boston. OHARLES H. CROWELL, Boston, Mass. BENJ. DANJORTH, Boston, Mass. DR. O. C. YORK, Boston, Mass. MES. MARY A. RICKER, Chelses, Mass. J. H. OURRIER, Cambridgeport, Mass. MRS. MARY A. RICKER, Chelses, Mass. J. H. OURRIER, OMBILING, BOXINIC S., E. Cambridge, Mass. W. ELLERY COPELAND, ROXDURY, Mass.

J. H. UURRIER, CAMORAGEPOIT, MASS. MRS. SARAH A. BYRRES, SS Winter SL., E. Cambridge, Mass. W. ELLERY COFELAND, Roxbury, Mass. WM. E. BIOS, Roybury, Mass. OHAS. T. INISH TAULION, MASS., CATO OF Staples & Phillips. MISS B. ANNA RYDER, Plymouth, Mass. E. B. YOUNG, box 85, Quincy, Mass. MRS. JENNIE S. RUDD, TAUNTON, MASS. REV. STRFHEN FRILOWS, WAIL River, Mass. A. O. ROBINSON, Fall River, Mass. ISAAC P. GREENEAN, LOWOIL, Mass. MRS. ABRY H. LOWS, ESSC. MASS. MRS. ABRY H. LOWS, BASS. MASS. MRS. ABRY H. LOWS, ESSC. MASS. MRS. ABRY H. LOWS, ESSC. MASS. MRS. J. PUFFER, HANSON, Plymouth Co., Mass. MRS. J. PUFFER, HANSON, Plymouth Co., Mass. MRS. J. B. FARMENDER, West HARWICH, Mass. MRS. J. B. FARMENDER, WORTH, WICHDURG, MASS. FREDERICE ROBINSON, MATCHENG, MASS. CHARLES P. RICER, WORCESTOR MASS. OHARLES P. RICER, WORCESTOR MASS. H. A. TUCKEN, FOXOTO', MASS. J. LOWER, DATORY, MASS. J. LOWER, DURDUT, MASS. J. LOWER, DURDUT, MASS.

H. A. TOCKE, FOLOIO, Mass. J. G. GUREX, DUXDUT, Mass. J. LOCKE, Greenwood, Mass. MER. E. O. CLAEX, Lawrence, Mass. F. T. LARK, Lawrence, Mass. MER, L. J. AMSDEN, BATTC, Mass. A. T. DUVE, Notich Macs.

Mass

Adbertisements.

TWELVE MESSAGES FROM THE SPIRIT OF JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. THROUGH JOSEPH D. STILES, MEDIUM.

JOSIAH BRIGHAM, OF QUINCY.

CONTENTS:-Massaon I.- The Fact and Mode of Spirit Telegrophing. Socion First. Adams hears of a Colos ital Telegrophing. Socion First. Adams hears of a Colos in Telegrophing. Socion First. Adams hears of a Colos in the speriment-Is addressed by Hancock-Socia girl impressed -Porceives that her thoughts first pass through his own mind. Section Socond. Adams wishes to make tangible do-mentration to metricis-Hancock promises him the gratifit mind. Section Bocond. Adams wishes to make tangible domonstration to mortais—Hancock promises him the gratification—Predicts the advent of Bpirltualism—Exhorts to commence—Conducts the now-born spirit, Adams, to his relaxitives and friends. Section Third. The spiritual phenomena commence—Adams again vitite actrib—Enters a circlo—Communicates—The medium's spirit vacates, and his own enters—Becomes himself haloed in light—Prays through the mo-diusm—Addresses men through her—Three causes of failure to control—Peculiar magnetic fluids essential—Christ chose disciples on the basis of magnetisms—Immediate proximity to all to the mediums and always essential—Hancock speaks again stop eight spirits. Bection Fourth. Adams visits his relatives on Mark and the spirit's prayer—Angels can communicate—A chant by eight spirits. Bection Fourth. Adams visits his relatives on Mark in Control—Peculiar magnetic The old mansion—A walk in Control—Peculiar for the positive—The old mansion—A walk in Control—Peculiar for the fourth and the spirit's prayer. eight spirite. Section Fourth. Adams visits his relatives on earth-They are too positive-The old mansion-A walk in the garden-Reflections there. Bection fifth, Adams seeks imperishable-Bpirits love to revisit their old homes-Hoim prossos a poolio dream-Wakes the siteper-Looks through is eyes upon nauro-Brings chills upon him-Attempts to control him-Fails-Produces reverie-impreses thoughts -Is ropulsed by an uncongenial visitor-The kind of modi-im-Thanks God through him-Accepts use and guardian-ship of him-Belects Mr. Brigham as legatec-Gets help from Mr. Brigham. Ir. Brigham.

Mr. Brigham. Mr. Brigham. Mr. Brigham. Section First. Adams's death and spirit-birth-Welcomed by his mother-By his father-Encomiasted by a host of seraphs-Approached by two in "Old Continentals"-Wel-comed by La'ayetto-Roplisz-Offers prayer-Sees Columbus and Vespucius-Angels guided Columbus-Salem Witcheraft. Section Scoond. Adams welcom'd by Andro-A lesson of lovo and forgiveness-Castle of Brotherly Love-Garden of Beatified Life-Visit to the Garden-Spiritualism of Nature -Visit to the Castle of Brotherly Love-Indians and negroos there-The Hall of Brotherlood-Joseph Warten-Patrick Henry-Lafayetto introduces Arnold-Ainold as he was and as he is-Modern traitors worse than he-The slave-mother -Invocation of Freedom. Bection Third, The opting prayer of a special gathering-Reading of beautiful passages -Borolls with motioes-Poem-presented by a ch.d.

-Berolls with motices-Poem presented by a ch.id. MESSACE III.-The Reconcidation. Section First. Two hostile politicians-Hostilo atili in Spirit-Land-Their antag-onism excludes them from the garden-Beraphs accost them -Converse with them-A child prays for them-They con-fees to rancer and hato-Are kept down near to earth by their hato-Had heard that Adams was to receive a srecisf welcome to the spheres above-Wish to be present-Strive to ascend-Succeed-But cannot enter the Templo of Broth-erly Love-Become reconciled, and are admitted. Section Second. Conscience quickened in the other life-Yet per-ceptions of truth often come tardily-Higher spirits aid the lower-Conditions and processes of elevation.

MESSAGE IV .- Addresses and Scenes in the Spheres. 800 MEBLOB IV.—Addresses and Scenes in the Spheres. Beo-tion First. Arnold's address to Adams—to the celestial as-sembly—to Andre-His invocation—reception of a robe of rightcousness—of a diadem from his sister—Adams's feelings on the occasi.m—Heaven's joy over the repentant—Review by Lafayette—His address to Andre—to Adams – An angel's prayer—The castle dissolves. Bection Second. The Valloy of Beauty—Its mountains—The home of little children—The Temple of Instruction—Stella, a slave-child—Her address to Adams—Bpirits grow in staturo—They can assume their earth-form—Andre speaks of Arnold—Repeats Arnolds pray-er. Section Third. Lambs and flowers—The spirit-bark —Btorm disables her—Crew take to the boats—Filot sticks to the helm—He saved, they perish—The pilot is a pligrim of Truth—The crow are servants of popular opinion. MESSAGE V.—Spiritualiam. Heaven not as Adams ex.

MESSAGE V .--- Spiritualism. Heaven not as Adams expocted --- Man below yearns for and needs clearer light--- The pocted-Man below yearns for and needs clearer light-The Church is defective and misleading-Peace and good-will the True Gospel.

Church is defective and misleading-Feace and good-will the True Coppl. Massaos VI.-Traple of Feace and Good-Will. Ecclion First. Lafayotte proposes to ascend-They reach the Tompie of Feace and Good-Will-Find William Fonz, Biakspeare, Mary Washington, Augusting Washington, Martha Washington, MESSAGE VIII.—Home of the Just made Perfect. Bection MESSAGE VIII.—Home of the Just made Perfect. Bection Birst. Description and motices; Address of Mary, the moth er of Jesus; Joseph, the father of Jesus. Bection Bection. Correction of his carth-opinions by Adams; Christ's nature and true position; He was controlled by spirits; Man still needs their help; Respect for the Biblo; Exhortations to all classes to rejoice; Thanksgiving to God. classes to reloice; Thanksgiving to God. MESSAGE IX.-Washington. Bection First. Washington's attendants; His address to Adams; His introduction to Mar-tin Luther; Luther the guardian of Adams while in earth-life; Luther's welcome of Adams; The response; Washing-ton resumes his address; Reflections by Adams upon Wash-ington, Kansas and our country. Section Becond. Washington ton's birthday; his belief in angel guardianship; his chief fault; Modern reformers; Washington's present views of slavery; A message which he has sent forth. MESSION Y. Inter White and the sent forth. MESSACE X.— Iter Whitney. Section First. Whitney's spirit-birth; Monologue over his body; First impressions in spirit-birth; Monologue over his body; First impressions in spirit-life; Welcomed by John Adams; his reply; his invo-cation; Welcomed by Abigail Adams; her views of woman's proper sphere. Section Second. Evidences of angel-guar-dianablp; Conversation between Adams and Whitney when on earth; Adams a speciator at his own funeral; A descrip-tive and prophetic poem. Section Third. Reflections upon tive and prophetic poem. Section Third. Reflections upon earth and spirit life; Lafayette upon Whitney; Adams to Whitney. Whitney. MERSAOR XI -- Closing Scenes of the Reception Meeting. Rection First. Freed and jubliant slaves; Rapport with Christ and the twelve; Judas progressing; Christ's efforts in his behalf; A slave's poetlo offoring; Vision of Christ's words. Rection Becond. James Monroe; Lafayetta's exhor-tation; the assemblage dispersing move off in four divisions severally under Josephine, Joan of Arc, Napoleon, and Thomas Paine; The mother's exultant address; A song of welcome. Bection Third. Tribute to my mother; Reply of my mother. weicome. Section Third. Tribute to my mother; Reply of my mother. Massaca XII.--Sphere of Prejudice and Error. Section First. The descent; Huge circular fortress; The bigoted in-fidel; The barsh sectarian; Truth-seeker; Peacemaker; Circle of Bigotry; Circle of Ignorance; Circle of Idolatry; Circle of Supersition. Section Second. Defecatod electrici-ty; Franklin, Newton, Samosek, Brave Heart; Process of telegraphing; Pocahontas possesses Brave Heart; Process of of the prayer, as men do; Hapoy those who dare bellove; Barnoset speaks through Brave Heart; Pocahontas through Golden Bell; A daughter to her father; Circle of Sectarian-lam. Section Third. Still lower regions; Dismal cavern and tts occupants; The murderer; Gaorge Jeffreys; Author-ess of St. Bartholomew Massacre; Qualities that bring spirit-elevation; Fallistions of murder; Blave-mother as murder-er; The fugitive slave as such; The elave-master as such; The oruel queen and her sensual father; Jane Groy to her injurers; A miserly old acquaintance; Return from the low-er spheres; Ascent to the brighter ones; Ciosing exhorta-tion; Washington to Adams upon this work; Sivo hundrod and forty-four spirit-vouchers to its correctness. my mother.

Mediums in Boston.

MRS. A. C. LATHAM. Physician to Body, Mind and Spirst.

ALAIRVOYANT EXAMINATIONS, Advice, Communica-Utons, Delineations of Character, Descriptions of Bpiritu-al Burroundings, Development, Latent Powers, &c. Also, Messages from friends and guardians in the Spirit Life. Visitors will receive more or less in each of the above departments. Terms $1.00.

"THE HEALING POWER."

Mrs. Latham is naturally endowed with great wind, or mag-netto force, and is also bighly receptive of the "HEALING POWER," the value of which, as a remedial agent, can hard-ly be estimated. It is deserving a more general attention, as under its influence an improvement or recovery of health is sure. These who have never feit this delightful and po-tent force heavens bight possions of its affects under her OFFICE, No. 292 WASHINGTON ST., Corner of Bedford Street, Boston, (over Joseph T. Brown's if Apothecary store.) Dec. 7.

DR. M. A. BRADFORD

HAB established his office and residence at No. 14 Knee-HAB established his office and residence at No. 14 Knee-had; also, light and information given from higher spheres, to all inquiring friends. Friends from the country, while stopping in the city, will not find it to their disadvantage to call. DR. NI. A. BRADFORD, March L. Sm. No. 14 Kneeland street

March I. Sm No. 14 Kneeland street.

PRACTICAL MAGNETIC AND CLARVOYANT PHYBI-CIAN, 91 Harrison Avenue, first door from Bennet st., Boston, Mass., where she is propared to treat all diseases of a chronic nature, by the laying on of hands. Patients furniah-ed with board while under treatment, if desired. Sm<sup>o</sup> Mar.1.

DR. H. L. BOWKER.

Office No. 9 Hudson Street, Boston.

and treatment. -, tf Keb. 8. M 1885 M. O. GAY, Business, Medical, Psychometrical, Clairvoyant and Trance Medium, No. 624 Washington street, opposite Common street, liours from 9 to 12 A. M., from 2 to 7 1.2 p. m. Terms 50 cents. Circles on Tuesday and Thureday ovenings, commoning at 7 1.2 o'clock; ad-mission 10 cents. Im<sup>9</sup> March 22. MRS. E. M.T. HARLOW, (formerly Mrs. Tipple.) Clair-voyant Physician, 48 Wall street, Boston. Patients at a distance can be examined by enclosing a lock of hair. Ex-aminations and prescriptions, $1 each. tf Nov. 23.

MRS. MARY A. RIOKER, Trance Medium, 145 Hanover Mestreet Boston. Office hours from 0 a more that IVI street, Boston. Office hours from 9 A. M. to 6 F. M. She will also, offer her services as a trance lecturer. Sm Feb 22.

Mill, also, older ner services as a trade recture. Sin Poeza. M. R. M. W. HERRICK, Olsirroyant and Trance Medlum at No. 17 Bennett street. Hours from 9to 12 and 2 to 6; Wednesdays excepted. Terms, $1. Sm<sup>9</sup> Jan 11. MRB, IDA JONES, Writing and Trance Medlum, answers realed lotters. Hours from 9 until 1 o'clock, and from 2 until 6 p. m. No. 80 Washington street Sm Ap. 5. MRS. A. G. POOLE, TRANCE MEDIUM, No. 13 Common Street, Boston. Hours from 2 to 9 p. M. Sm Mar.29.

A GENERAL PROSPECTUS OF THE BOSTON INVESTIGATOR. VOLUME XXXII.

VOLUME XXXII. THE cause of Universal Mental Liberty, which seeks to establish the claims and teachings of Nature and Reason, and to overthrow these of superstillen, bigotry, and priest-craft, still needs the support of a free and independent press. Therefore we propose to continue the Bosrow INVESTIGATOR, and shall commence its Twenty-Becond Volume on the 7th of Max.

of May. We have no new principles to proclaim, and hence we shall we have no new principles to pictain, and nonce we share guided, endeavoring so far as we are able to render the paper acceptable to all and subservient to national utility. Bellev-ing superstition to be the bane of human improvement—the moral leprosy of mankind—our most especial object shall be, as it hitherto has been, to counteract its pernicious influence, and to express he ways means in our power the mischler.

A LABOR SAVING BOOK. THE FARMERS' MANUAL READY RECKONER.

Rew York Adbertisements.

7

BY W. S. COURTNEY.

i yol. 12mo. Cloth binding, $1. Rosn, or half calf binding, 1$1.25. Pajer covers, 75 cents.

($1.25. Pajer covera, 75 cents. THIS Book, as it name indicates, is a Manual and Reckoner. In it will be found calculations, tables, facts and figures upon almost every subject with which the farmer has to do in working his farm. There are few persons who do not oc-casionally find themselves at a lows for information upon sub-jects pertaining to the practical arts of its-knowledge which was familiar to them in their school days, but which has been forgution. For example, how few persons can tell, without consulting books, the cubic inches contained in a bushet, the square yards in a acre, or how to measure the contents of a corn crit, or guage a claterr it is impossible to carry all these things in the memory, hence the necessity for the Man-ual. Beside the labor involved in calculating arithmetical, mensural and other results, and the liability to error to which oven the scholar is subject, the fime required is no in-conside loss. Hence the necessity for the Ready Reck-oner, Not how measure a size for the file scholar is given by the results of the results of the Ready Reck-oner.

Not having space to give here, the full contents of the book, we subjoin a few of the important subjects upon which It treats;

LIFE AND INCREASE OF ANIMALS.

FOOD OF ANIMALS. KEEPING OF ACCOUNTS.

BUTTER AND MILK.

MINT VALUE OF, FOREIGN COIN.

ROTATION OF CROPS.

CASK GAUGING. CAPACITY OF BOXES-WAGON-BEDS-CORN

CRIBS-GRANARIES-CISTERNS.

NUTRITIVE VALUE OF CROPS. CORN AND PORK.

CEMENT, GLUES, SOLDERS, &c.

INTEREST AND ANNUITIES.

DIET.

ANALYSES OF SOILS.

EXHAUSTION OF SOILS. MANURES.

FUEL-RELATIVE VALUE OF WOOD.

U. S. WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

STRENGTH OF MATERIALS.

THE MECHANICAL POWERS.

OILS IN SEEDS AND GRAINS.

20 Sold by all enterprising book-sellers.

N. B.-To Postmasters and others :

PROPORTIONS OF BULK TO WEIGHT.

Upon these subjects, and many others, information of a practical nature only is given, with tables of the most useful

A Circular containing the contents in full sent on application. The book is sent, postage paid. Sn receipt of price by 12 books, (cloth binding,) sent to one address for $9 00

BENJ. URNER, Publisher,

248 Canal Street, New York.

The Early Physical Degeneracy of AMERICAN PEOPLE.

and the Early Melancholy Decline of Childhood & Youth.

And if on an Express line, freight will be pro-paid.

FENCING.

MEASURE MENT OF LAND-HAY-TIMBER, dc. WEIGHTS OF GRAIN.

HYDRAULICS-THE HYDRAULIC RAM.

HEAT. HORSE-POWER.

LIGHTNING RODS.

SPECIFIC GRAVITY.

IRON.

MASONRY

WAGES.

ind.

6 books

meetings for the last three years, almost entirely out of his own purse, while he was assisting the cause by giving admirable tests in examining for disease, as well as effecting many wonderful cures, some of which have come under my own observation. I can recommend him to the afflicted, whose applications. either by lock of hair, or statement of symptoms, will be promptly attended to. Spiritualists and reformers would do well to give more encouragement to reliable and self-sacrificing men like Dr. Campbell.

JAMES COOPER, M. D.

Bellefontaine, Ohio, March, 1862.

Dealings with the Dead.

.To any eye that can read and every heart that can understand, I would say that if they have any desire to know the real truths of spirit instruction and spirit knowledge, let them read with close attention and unbiased mind, the book called " Dealings with the Dead," by P. B. Randolph. If they cannot take time to read the whole book, let them begin at the sixty-eighth page. The soul-stiring truths therein explained are too true to be thrown idly aside. Many are now reading and appreciating, and the time is not far distant when thousands more will do the same, and a cry will go forth for more of the same kind. ONE WHO KNOWS.

The Macedonian Cry.

To the readers of the BANNER and all traveling lecturers and mediums, the Macedonian ory-" come over and help us "--- is sounding very distinctly in this part of the West.

We have an intelligent little town, situated at the junction of the St. Louis and Chicago Railroad and the Peoria and Logansport Railroad, called Chenoa, where I distribute my old copies of the BANNER ; and from the eagerness to learn of this new philosophy, I believe it would be a good opening for traveling lecturers; and to all such I would say that I live three miles north-west of Chenoa, and the "latch string is out," and a cordial welcome extended as long as they wish to remain, and myself and team offered to conduct them on their journey. S. W. RICHMOND. Chenoa, Ill.

The Kingdom of Reaven.

The Kingdom of Heaven, or the Golden Age, by E W. Loveland, is, in many respects, a remarkable book. The author illustrates several chapters of the teachings and miracles of Jesus Christ, in an original manner, giving them a spiritual or philosophical bearing. Subjoined to these are several essays: the Ages of Iron, Silver and Gold, one Family in Heaven and Earth, Spirit Impression, Guardian Spirits, Conand Earth, Spirit impression, Guardian Spirits, Con-sulting God, Progression, Selfish Loves and Appetites, Prophesy, etc. The whole work is neatly printed in large type, on stout, durable paper, and for sale at the BANNEE OF LIGHT office. Price thirty-seven cents When sent by mail, 10 cents additional for postage.

Those who fish for compliments, generally get a

and the second secon

MRS. E. A. BLISS. (late Mrs. Ostrander.) Boringfield. Mass. MES. Z. A. Bibs, face mis. Ostiauder, Springueta, an MES. SUBAN SLEIGHT, trancespeaker, Portland, Maine. CHARLES A. HATDEN, Livermore Falls, Me. ALONZO R. HALL, East New Sharon, Me. REV. M. TAYLOB, Slockton, Me.

MRS. OLIFTON HUTCHINSON, Milford, N. H. MRS. J. B. SMITH, Manchester, N. H. FRANK CHASE, South Sutton, N. H.

R. F. RICHARDSON, CATE Of Dr. C. E. Grice, Franklin, Vt. EZRA WILLS, Chelsen, Vt.

DANIEL W. SEELL, No. 6 Prince st., Providence, R. I. Mars. J. CLARK, CATO WID. E. Andruss, West Killingly, OL. Mas. ANNA M. MIDDLEBROOK, Box 423, Bridgeport, Conn. H. B. STORER, inspirational speaker, New Haven, Conn. MISS FLAVIA HOWE, Windsor, Pequenock P. O., Conn. MISS. HELEN E. MOZELL, Hartford, Conn. MES. HELEN E. MORELL MARION, JOHN. MES. M. J. WILCOSSON, Stratford, Conn. MES. ELIZA D. BINONS, Bristol, Conn. J. S. LOYELAND, Willimantic, Conn. MRS. J. A. BANKS, Newtown, Conn. J. H. RANDALL, Stanford, Conu. LEO MILLEE, Hartford, Ct.,

LEO MILLEE, HARIOT, OL, MES. AMAMDA M. SPENCE. Address, New York City. MES. A. W. DELAPOLIS, NO. 176 Varick street, New York. MES. A. W. DELAPOLIS, NO. 176 Varick street, New York. MES. S. W. DELAPOLIS, NO. 176 Varick street, New York. MES. J. E. PEICE, Watertown, Jefferson County, N. Y. ALEX'E G. DONNELL, Benneiteburg, Schuyley Co., N. Y. MISS ELIZABETH LOW, Leon, Cattaraugue Co., New York. W. BAILER POTTER, M. D. Medina, N. Y., Care C. E. Hosg. H. CLAY BURCE, Smith's Mille, Chautaque Co., N. Y. W. A. D. HUNE, Fredonia, N. Y., Care Of E. W. Meacham. MES. S. L. CHAPPELL, Hestings, Oswego Co., N. Y. MES. LOVINA HEATH, Lockport, N. Y. J. W. H. TOOHER, Ponn Yan, N. Y. JOHN H. JEMES, Jonksville, N. T. JARED D. GAGE, Oneida, N. Y. MES. E. A. KINGSBURF, No. 1905 Pine street, Philadelphiss

MRS. E. A. KINOSBURY, NO. 1905 Pine street, Philadelphiss MRS. O. A. FITOH, NO. 231 South 9th street, Philadelphis. MISS FLAVILLA E. WASHBURN, Windham, Bradford Co., Pa. REV. JOHN PIERFORT, Washington, D. C. MRS. GLARA B. F. DARELS, Westfold, Medina Co., Ohio. E. WHIFFLE, West Williamsfield, Ashtabula Co., Ohio. DR. E. L. LYOR, care of Wm. Growell, Geneva, Ohio. ALBERT E. CARPENTER, Columbia. Licking Co., Ohio. CHALES JOHNSON, RURAL, Clermont Co., Ohio. MES. H. SARAH M. THOMFRON, Toledo, Ohio. MES. H. F. M. BROWN, Oleveland, Ohio. MES. H. F. M. BROWN, Oleveland, Ohio. B. FHELES LELARD, Oleveland, Ohio. MULLIAM DENTON, Painesville, Ohio. WILLIAM DENTON, Painesville, Ohio. B. WHIFPLE, Cleveland, Ohio. B. WHIPPLE, Cleveland, Ohio. ADA L. HOTT, Chicago, Illibola. REV. JOHN PIERPORT, Washington, D. C. A. WARFLE, Chickson, Olio, ADA L. HOYT, Chickgo, Illinois, Mas. A. F. PATTERSON, Springfield, Ill. Rev. HERMAN SNOW, Bockford, Ill. MATTIN F. HULMT, Rockford, Ill. MATTIM F. HULMIT, Rockford, III. Rw. E. CASE. JE., Biorida. Hillschie Co., Mich. W. F. JANIESOR, Irabce Speaker, Paw Paw, Mich. MEE D. CHADWICK, Linden, Genesee Co., Mich. MEE M. J. KUTE, CANDON, Kent COUNTY, Mich. ABEAM and NELLE BATTY, Three Rivers, Mich. B. B. CASWELL, Orangeville, Barry Co., Mich. RW, J. G. Fish, Ganges, Allegan Co., Mich. HENEY A. WALLACK, Blushing, Mich. MEE, C. M. STOWE, Sturgis, Mich. A. B. WHITING, Albion, Mich. E. Y. WILSON, Detroit, Mich. E. Y. WILSON, Detroit, Mich.

This volume is embellished with fac-simile engravings of the handwriting of John Quincy Adams, Abigail Adams, George Washington, Alexander Hamilton, Richard Henry Lee, Stephen Hopkins, Thomas Jefferson, Samuel Adams, Lavater, Malanethon, Columbus, Oromwell, Jackson, and others, written through the hand of the medium,

It is a large octavo volume, of 459 pages, printed in large, clear type, on stout paper, and substantially bound. It is perhaps, the most elaborate work Modern Spiritualism has called out.

Price, cloth, $1,50; full gilt, $9. Bent by mail, postage 85c. Address, BANNER OF LIGHT, Boston, Feb. 29.

K. V. WILSON, DEUROIL, MICH.
M.S. J. R. STREKTER, Grown Point, Ind.
JOHN HOBART, Indianapolis, Ind.
MAR. F. L. BORD, Madison Olty, Wis., care of T. N. Bovree
M.S. V. WILSON, Medical Olisirvoyani, Wankeeha, Wis.
E. B. WHERLOOK, Waukeeha, Wisoonsin.
D. P. WYMAN WEIGHT, Brochasd, Green Co., Wis.
G. W. HOLLISTON, M. D., New Berlin, Wis.
BAHYORD MILLE, Salem, Olmsted Coon, Wis.
M. P. BOWMAN, Richmond, Washington, Coi, JOWN.
R.Y. J. M. B. MARDER, Iowa City, Iowa,
A. P. BOWMAN, Riomond, Washington, Co., JOWN.
R.Y. J. M. PRENER, Bacramento City, Col.
R.Y. J. M. PRENER, Bacramento City, Col.
RAY, J. M. PRENER, Ba

DR. MAIN'S HYGIENIC INSTITUTE, NO. 7 DAVIS STREET, BOSTON, MASS.

ESTABLISHED FOR THE TREATMENT OF EVERY KNOWN DISEASE.

DR. MAIN'S HYGIENIC INSTITUTE is open at all times for the reception of patients. Partics who have suffered at the hands of unskillful practitioners, or whose cases have been pronounced incurable by the most skillful, will find it to their advantage to consult a physician who combines Science and Philosophy with Reason and common Sense.

Those who desire examinations will please enclose $1,00 lock of hair, a return postage stamp, and the address plainly written, and state sex and age.

mer Medicines carefully packed and sent by Express. Dr. Main's Office hours are from 9 A. M. to 12 M., and from 100 P. M.

Patients will be attended at their homes when it is desired. DR. CHARLES MAIN, No. 7 Davis street, Boston, Mass. March 15, Im

ADELPHIAN INSTITUTE.

ADELPHIAN INSTITUTE: BACARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, LOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, LOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR YOUR AND MULTION TO A STATE OF A STATE OF A STATE OF A STATE oducation, receive particular attention. Athletic exercises constitute a part of each day's duly, and all are taught, that a healthy unfolding of the mind depends upon a vigorous condition of the body. Terms, including Board, Tuition in the English Depart-ment, with fuci and lights, por term, $60. For Circulars, address, Adelphian Institute, Norritown, Fa.

acnt, with for and frame, BELLE BUBB, For Circulars, address, Adelphian Institute, Norristown, Pa.

TO THE PUBLIC,

TO THE PUBLIC. EVERY one knows the importance of procuring fresh, genuine and rendulierated Medicines for the sick. Af-ter studying medicine for nearly twenty years, and dispens-ing and proscribing it for ten years, the subscriber may asy, without egotism, that his Medicines, of which he has every variety used in the Botanic and Eclectic systems of practice, may be relied on as the very best to be procured in the country. His extensive experience and practice have enabled him to compound remedies for Scröula, Humor. Lung, Liv-er, Kidney, Urinary, and other diseases incident to the cli-mate, which are unsurpassed. OUTAVIUB KING, ECLECTIC AND BOTANIO BRUGIST, Feb. 1. tf No. 656 Washington Street, Boston.

TO BOOK PEDDLERS,

AND PERSONS OUT OF EMPLOYMENT WANTED. -Active and industrious men and women to sell The Farmers' Manual and Ready Reckoner, (see Y sell The Farmers' Manual and stress advertisement.) This work will sell wherever there are Farmers or Lumber-man. It will be sold to traveling agents at a low figure. This is an excellent opportunity to porsons thrown out of em-ployment by the rebellion. Bend for a circular, which gives prices and terms, to 248 Ganal Street, New York. N. B.-Circulars furpished to agents to assist them in sel-ling. tf Dec. Sl.

LINE AND THE REAL PROPERTY OF

niy Head

And the Early Melancholy Decline of Childhood & Youth. JUST PUBLISHED BY DE. STONE, Physician to the Trov Using and Hygienic Institute, a Treatise on the above sub-ject, the Gausso of Nervous Debility, Marasmus and Consump-tion, Wasting of the Vital Fluids, the mysterious and hid-den Causes of Palpitation, Impaired Nutrition and Digestion. This is a most thrilling book, and is the result of thirty years' experience of the autior in more than ten thourand cases of this class of direful maladies. It has been written from conscientious and philanthropic motives, and appeals most pathetically to Parents, Guardians and to Youth, for it details timely aid to restore the already shattered bark, and a rudger to clear the shoals and rocks for childhood. Send two red stamps and obtain this masterly effort. Fail not to send and get this Book? Waster to the shoal and from printed interrogatories, furnished each applicant. The Institution makes use of a powerfol Microscope, and Philosophical Apparatus Batients applying for interrogatorics or advice, must inclose return stamps, to meet attention. The attending Physician wit ho found at the Institution for consultation, from 9 A. M. to 9 z. M., of each day. But day in the forenoon. Address, Das ADREW STONE, Physician to the Truy Lung and Fygenic Institute, and Phy-sician for the Heart. Threat and Lunga Da. ANDIKW STONK, Physician to the Truy Lung and Fygenic Instituto, and Phy-sician for Discases of the Heart, Throat and Lunga, 96 Fifth-st., Troy, N. Y.

TO FEMALES.... MRS. DOCTRESS STONE,

TO FEMALES....MR8. DOCTRESS STONE, The Matron of the Institution, who is thoroughly read and posted in the intricate nature of the may affilterive and prostrating maladies of more modern origin, will devote exclusive attention to the treatment of this class of discasses peculiar to her sex. Among the many diseases disly met with, and which she treats with unheard of success, are chronic inflammation, ulceration and prolapsus of the womb. The Medicated Ascending Douche: a most important cur-stive, for arousing the nervous forces. Price, $0. Females can consult Mrs. Doctress Stone, confidentially, by leiter or personally. Address MRS. N. O. STONK, M. D. Fob. 8. 1y Matron to the Institution, Troy, N. Y.

THE HERALD OF PROGRESS. ANDREW JACKSON DAVIS, EDITOR.

Assisted by an Association of Able Writers & Correspondents. A Cosmopolitan Journal of Health, Progress and Reform. devoted to no Sect, belonging to no Party, not given to ONE IDEA., The attention of all Reformatory, Progressive, and Spiritual minds is invited to the following distinctive features

THE HERALD OF PROGRESS:

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS,

MEDICAL WHISPERS

AND PRESCRIPTIONS BY THE EDITOR.

VOICES FROM THE PEOPLE,

TEACHINGS OF NATURE.

DOINGS OF THE "MORAL POLICE," SPIRITS MYSTERIES.

TIDINGS FROM THE INNER LIFE, PULPIT AND ROSTRUM, BROTHERHOOD,

CIIILDHOOD,

LAWS AND SYSTEMS. Also, choice Poetry and attractive Miscellany, embracing translations from the French and German ; faithful historical portraitures, life sketches of notable persons, late improvements in science and art, news, &c. &c.

The Herald of Progress is is published every SAT-URDAY, on a folio of eight pages, for Two Dollars per annum, or One Dollar for six months, payable in advance. To Clubs, Three copies to the same post office, $5 ; Ten Copies, $16: Twenty copies, $30.

We shall be glad to receive the names of all persons who would be likely to subscribe.

Bpecimen Copies sent free. Address

A. J. DAVIS & CO , 274 Canal street, N. Y. A full assortment of PROGRESSIVE BOOKS kept constantly on hand.

AGENT FOR BOSTON,

BELA MARSH, 14 Bromfield street.

MADAME CLIFFORD, SPIRITUAL MEDIUM. MEDICAL AND BUSINESS CLAIRVOYANT,

12

No. 107 Denn Street, corner of Moyt street. BROOKLYN, N. Y.

Medical Examinations, $1; Business, 50 cents; by letter, enclosing hair, $2. 5m.

March 29.

THE MISTARE OF CHBISTENDOM: OR, JESUS AND HIS GOSPEL'BLFORE PAUL AND CHEISTIANITY-SIS pages 13 ma. is est by mail for one

A STATE OF A

LIGHT. BANNER OF

Pearls.

"-----elegies And quoted odes, and jawels five words long, That on the stretched fore-finger of all time Bparkleforever," SPRINO.

Once more the monarch of the skies The latent pulse of Nature moves, And woos the wayside floret out, And robos in green our ancient groves.

And age and infancy go forth, Among the tender grass to sport; Or gather posies fresh and fair, Where stately kingcup holds his court.

The chestnut droops its languid leaves, Ere creamy cones bestud each spray. And hawthorns cluster down the lane To breathe a sweetness through the day.

The quaint old mansion on the hill Through bowering toliage steals a look, To where the maiden-willows 'range Their graceful tresses by the brook.

The pear-tree shakes its snowy-bloom Upon the springy sward beneath ; While round the apple's sinuous limbs Entwines a clust'ring blood-stained wreath.

The new-born butterfly sails out Upon his fairy painted wing ; And woodside choirs, with grateful hearts, Pour forth their welcome to the Spring. [John G. Watte.

All the months of the year come with errands and gifts to the farmer ; there is not a Judas among the twelve.

> DO NOT CENSURE WITHOUT KNOWING. Do not censure without knowing; Oft is hid a noble mind, Worthy of our love bestowing, Where we least expect to find : Many a heart in kindness beating. Making solitude its own, With no kindred spirit meeting. Lives unloved, because unknown.

Should you feel inclined to censure Faults you may in others view, Ask your own heart, ere you venture, If that has not failings too. Let not friendly vows be broken. Rather strive a friend to gain ; For each word that 's kindly spoken, Finds its passage home again.

Do not, then, in idle pleasure, Trifle with a brother's fame : Guard it as a gilded treasure-Sacred as your own good name, Do not form opinions blindly. Hastiness to trouble tends; Those of whom we 've thought unkindly, Oft become our warmest friends.

A sudden elevation in life, like mounting into a rarer atmosphere, swells us out, and often perniciously.

> OLD WOOD. Old wood to burn ! Av. bring the hill-side beech From where the owlets meet and screech. And ravens croak ; The crackling pine, and cedar sweet ; Bring too a clump of fragrant peat, Dug 'neath the fern : The knotted oak. A faggot too, perhap, Whose bright flame dawning, winking, Shall light us at our drinking ! While the oozing sap Shall make sweet music to our thinking. [ Meaninger.

One may live as a conqueror, a king, or a magistrate, but he must die like a man .- Webster.

too numerous to be mentioned. Spiritualism stands embodied spirits can and do communicate and influcharged with all kinds of crime. Most every one ta- ence mortals. The definition of Dr. Child, that Spircitly believes that there is a Providence over rulingall itualism is entirely free and separate from matter, is things and all acts. If this belief is true, the doctrine bosh to me. I do not comprehend it. I cannot easily that everything that is, is right, must be a consequence. conceive of anything but what is more or less connected I mean, in the divine economy, adapting means to ends with matter in some form. Dr. Child's opening refor the unfoldment of man's interior goodness. God mark, that those who attributed any evils to Spirituuses ovils to the end of man's perfect development. In alism, were themselves guilty of those very evils, I this sense they may be called right. It may be neces- thought was a wholesale and gratuitous slander upon sary that we should be made conscious of what the those who honestly differed from him. It seemed as world calls right and wrong, in order to gain a victory though his whole speech consisted of finding fault with over the wrong. Pain that comes of evil wears off the fault finders. Spiritualism, with many, is synony. mous with evil. The world certainly attributes manigrosser affections of the soul, whereby its mission is fold evils to what is to us a beautiful system of phimade clear to see God around and within itself. Spirlosophy; many of those evils have been mentioned here itualism leads us to the discovery of causes, wherein to-night. Are these the legitimate results of Spirituwe find the springs of human action. Men act from alism? I do not believe they are. their conditions. Some are, to our outward perception,

MISS HARWOOD .-- I have been a Spiritualist eight better conditioned, and some worse ; but evidences are outward, and by them we are not to judge of the soul. years, and I have never yet discovered anything unout of which the brotherhood of all men shall be deholy or wicked in its revelations; but I have witnessed veloped. Wicked men are instrumentalities in the a great deal that is unholy and wicked which has been whole picture of life. Their acts call charity from oth- attributed to it, and which I know does not belong to ers, and give themselves painful experiences that raise it.

both themselves and others Godward. Some are so MBS. EDMUNDS .- I was a Spiritualist, but I am not animal in their natures that nothing short of the worst now. I believed in it, but I do not, and I cannot now, consequences of crime can wean them from the sphere for I have seen so much deception and evil in it. I of lust. was a medium. At first I did not make the raps and yond the sphere of crime, of all evils.

Du. BOWKER.--I believo there are many evils which

The evils attributed to Spiritualism are not confined other manifestations, but afterwards, I did, and I dethere, so before these evils shall cease, there must be a ceived. It is all of the devil; and I believe that every thorough regeneration of the whole race. Spiritualism one who believes in it, is possessed of the devil. is not the cause of the evils attributed to it, but the Ques .--- Were you possessed of the devil when you unenlightened affections of humanity are the causes of was a medium, and a believer in Spiritualism ? these evils. I believe that Spiritualism will yet fur-nish the means by which men may live above and be-to do with it.

Q .-- Then why may not other mediums be as sincered as yourself?

grow out of Spiritualism. The three most prominent A .- Because I think they are not sincere. I think they are possessed of the devil. [A voice.-Christ are : Atheism; a giving up of one's self to the control of spirits ; and the advocacy of false and dangerous docsays, to judge others is to do the same thing you judge trines. One of the most fatal evils of Spiritualists is others for. Now you are not possessed of the devil, Atheism. This grows out of Spiritualism. But so far are you?] No, I am not; but Spiritualists are, all of as Spiritualism goes into Atheism it must decline ; for them. a religion that has no God in it must die.

MR. BROWN .--- I notice that Cora Wilburn, in an ar-Giving up to the entire control of spirits makes a ticle which she has published in the Spiritual Remere tool of a man, and leads him on a voyage through former, condemning the evils which she attributes to hell. If a man gives up his manhood, he is like a ship Spiritualists, has used the word "I" one hundred and with its rudder cut away. Spiritualism tends in this three times, while a prominent Spiritualist, to whose direction. doctrines she attributes the greatest evils, has written Spiritualism is used to propagate schemes of almighty a whole book without using the word '"I" once in nonsense. Involuntary affection is claimed to be that book. Now I will ask the question, which, in above control, whereby the institution of marriage has this case indicates the more selfishness, the condemner, been trodden upon and abused. Prominent Spiritualor the condemned ?

ists, who are either ignorant or are desirous of reputa-MR. LEONARD .- I have noticed that Spiritualists, tion, have advocated new and strange doctrines. I have to whom is attributed much evil, are a great deal more found men endorsing the "all right" doctrine to their willing to die, than those are who attribute evil to injury. I am not to say whether, or not, this doctrine them. Now to me this significs much in favor of Spiris true, but the result of its promulgation is to throw itualists over their condemners. Christ was called a aside all moral distinctions. I found a man down in devil and a blasphemer, but were those who called him Taunton who chewed tobacco, and he said it is right, so any better than he was? I should like to see the I suppose, for Dr. Child says whatever is, is right. disembodied spirit of a Spiritualist stand side by side The result of this doctrine is to excuse every act that with the disembodied spirit of his condemner. In is done. It brings bad influences from this world and which, think you would be seen the more Christlike from the other world. But Spiritualism, when under charity, humility and harmony? I suppose both would the influence of consistency and morality, may be a be beautiful-but I do n't think that the condemner means of making men stronger and better. would look better than the condemned. REV. MR. THAYER .--- We lose our time when we talk

MR. SYKES .- It is my impression, and I believe the of the evils of Spiritualism, for Spiritualism has no impression is very general, too, that those who "cry" evils. The subject is, the evils attributed to Spiritualthe "evils" of Spiritualism are no better themselves ism. Dr. Bowker has said that some Spiritualists are than they should be. It should be incumbent on a Atheists, but I have never seen a true Spiritualist who man who points out the evils of other men and other did not believe in a God. There is no Atheism to be sects, to be spotless in his own life and sect. Are these found in Spiritualism, but when an Atheist comes into evil finders, spotless? Can they afford to neglect Spiritualism, his Atheism goes out. Spiritualism is themselves and attend to others? Where is the diametrically opposite to Atheism. There are no "beam" and where is the mote?" Spiritualism leads teachings in Spiritualism that tell a man to give up men to see to their own sins, and not to find fault his self-control or his manhood. The devil of free love with the sins of others. does not come of Spiritualism, but if it is found within

MR. THOMPSON.-Evils, so called, existed centuries its ranks it is imported there. Dr. Bowker makes a before modern Spiritualism was known. They are mistake in crediting to Spiritualism the doctrine part and parcel of human nature, and whatever cause whatever is, is right. For ages the churches have that nature adheres to, it will carry these to that cause with it. If my brother is intemperate, and in some of MR. WETHERBEB .- Dr. Child is always beyond my his soberer hours sees that in Spiritualism which concomprehension-his definition of spirit makes it envinces him of the truth of Spiritualism, so far as to intirely separate from matter. He says everything is duce him to proclaim his belief in it, and the next day, pure and holy. But I have been taught by mediums yielding to the overpowering temptations around him. that there are bad spirits, and that they cut up shines he is seen staggering up one of our streets, the cry is there and here. According to my experience, spirits immediately heard-...See the effects of Spiritualism !" are just about the same as we are. I think that Spir. And thus it is with ninety-nine cases out of every hundred, and I do not know but in every case, in evils are attributed to Spiritualism. Two-thirds of those who talk of these things, do not know what real Spiritualism is. A mere knowledge of or belief in tipning tables, or of the ability of spirits to communicate with a man, does not make a man a Spiritualist, according to my idea. A Spiritualist's God is not embodied in a piece of wood, like that of the Brahmins, or personified in a stone like that of the Chinese. True Spiritualism is pure and holy, knoweth no evil, thinketh no evil, and comes to remedy what mankind consider to be "wrong." Was Christ a publican and sinner according to the old notions of what those classes were, because he went among them to do them good? I think not. Neither should evil be attributed to Spiritualism, because occasionally we see one who claims to be one its disciples, walk in an old path. Judge not, lest ye be judged. MR. STETSON.-Men who wish so to do, can see what they call "evil" in anything and in everything, and it is no hard task for such persons to point out these bugbears in Spiritualism. Some folks are ant to suppose that because something occurs that does not jibe in nicely with their own cherished ideas of what God intends should be, that it is exceedingly evil, and so they trouble their poor hearts amazingly in efforts to restore things to a condition of right-that is, to an affinity with their views. In doing this they really self-elect themselves into God's place. They think God is weak, and cannot have things to suit him; hence, some things are wrong. Now I am one of those dreadful men who believe that whatever is, is right. I cannot, therefore, see any evil in Spiritualism. I believe begets action. Evile of Spiritualism ! My friends. man or the woman who attributes any form of evil to itualists are further removed from Atheism than any DR. GARDNER. -One of the evils attributed to Spir- it to be God's voice talking to man in a manner more itualism is insanity. There are less cases of insanity direct than that voice has before spoken. It is arousin the same number of Spiritualists, than there are in ing the human mind to thought, and such thought as attributed to Spiritualism, is immorality. Statistics the assertion is contradictory in terms, and paradoxishow that fewer crimes are committed by Spiritualists cal in position, and I pledge myself to prove that the tributed to Spiritualism, is free love. According to this cause, is very far from having a true conception taining fame and its accompanying gain, he has refrained from giving to the world. I deem it an act of justice to make known such convincing and truthful phases of the spirit-power; for it will serve as encouragement to the tried and sorely disappointed, who have been duped by dark circles, and wonderful sleights of hand. There is truth in Spiritualism, but it must be carefully searched for.

Miss Belle Scougall dispenses the spiritual food unto the multitude from our rostrum at Sansom street. There is an atmosphere of goodness, strength and purity, around this new speaker, that cannot fail to command attention and respect. She will, doubtless, sow good seed for future harvesting.

Miss Jennie Waterman, now Mrs. Danforth, a well known Boston medium, is now giving sittings and Nature, and Whatever Is is Right, the postage of which is in. circles for the accommodation of Philadelphia inqui-stronges stronges visiting the city will find this lady at the price set against them. Address "BANNER OF LIGHT." rers. Strangers visiting the city will find this lady at 321 Race street. Yours for truth, COBA WILBURN. Philadelphia, April 2, 1862.

Circular to the Philanthropic.

A great calamity has fallen upon the town of Glou cester, Mass., in consequence of severe gales at sea, which have resulted in the loss of many vessels with their entire crews, thereby leaving in this community a large number of families who need assistance from the benevolent, in this season of their distress. The losses at sea attendant upon the fishing business were quite heavy during the month of January last, consisting of four vessels, two of them with their entire crews. In addition to this, by the severe gales of February 24th and 25th, our fleet received great damage, and we have lost fifteen vessels more, (thirteen of them with their entire crews.) and still another is missing, with but faint hopes of her safety. Thus, the disasters of the present season involve the loss to Gloucester of twenty vessels, one hundred and forty men, and an amount in property from ninety to one hundred thousand dollars.

one hundred thousand dollars. This terrible bereavement has cast a gloom over our community, and carried sorrow and mourning to many hearts. There are seventy-five widows, and one hun-dred and sixty fatherless children, who, by this dispen-sation, need charity for their temporary support. Our people are doing all in their power to alleviate the dis-teres and contribute to the comfort of the needy and tress, and contribute to the comfort of the needy and unfortunate.

We need some help from abroad.

The undersigned, a Committee chosen at a public meeting of the citizens of Gloucester, holden on the 20th inst., bave deemed it proper to issue this circular, asking aid, in this hour of adversity, from such com munities and individuals as may feel disposed to regard our appeal. The contributions asked for are entirely designed for the relief of suffering families, who, by this misfortune, are left without protectors, or the present means of subsistence, and their case certainly commends itself to the sympathy and consideration of all who learn this sad story. Will you please take such action in reference to this circular as yon may deem expedient, and any contri-butions for the object above named will be gratefully received and duly acknowledged by any member of the Committee.

JOSHUA P. TRASK, GHOUCESter, EPES W. MERCHANT, "
JOSEPH O. PROCTOR, " GORHAM P. LOW, " WILLIAM PARSONS, 2d, " GEORGE GARLAND, "
JAMES W. PATTILLO, " EDWARD BABSON, "
JOHN PEW,
GEORGE H. ROGERS, Boston,
REUBEN ROPES, New York,
RIPLEY ROPES, Salem,
CYBUS STORY, JB., Gloucester,
S. CUNNINGHAM,
WILLIAM A. PEW. " ADDISON GILBERT, " BENJ. H. CORLISS, "
17 1 00 1000

Gloucester, Mass., March 22, 1862.

The above circular makes the strongest possible appeal to the active sympathies of all charitable persons. We hope a generous public will fully respond with willing hearts to this appeal, and contribute each his or her mite to aid these destitute families.

Those who may feel a desire to render such aid, can remit to us, and we will forward the amount received without delay to Mr. Joshua P. Trask, of Gloucester. The names of the donors will be published in this paper, when desired.

Obituary Notices.

MISS OCTAVIA STARKEY, of New Bedford, Mass. Miss Convict Statist, of New Benford, mass., passed to a higher life, from the house of her sister, (Mrs. Wm. H. Allen,) March 19, 1862, aged 17 years. Miss Starkey's disease was consumption. She leaves parents in Maine, a brother in the army, fighting for the Union and Liberty, and another dear sister in the Yest, to mourn her loss. But her sister, Mrs. Allen.

PUBLICATIONS -FOB SALE AT THE-BANNER OF LIGHT OFFICE

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE BANNER OF LIGHT offer for sale the following list of Wonks at the prices see against them. We take this opportunity to put these works before our patrons, most of them at reduced prices, in consequence of the scarcity of money, and it is our intention to place, as far as in our power, reading matter in the hands of our friends as cheap as we possibly can, in justice to ourselves, Our friends desiring any of these publications sent by mail, will forward us the amount set against the work, with the postage annexed, except the Wildfire Club; Arcana of 158 WASHINGTON STREET, BOSTON.

NEW PUBLICATIONS:

The Wildfire Olub. By Emms Hardinge. Price, $1. CONTENTS :-- The Princess.-- The Monomaniac, or the Spirit Bride.-- The Haunted Grange, or The Last Tenant.-- Life.--Margaret Infelix, or a Narrative concerning a Haunted Margaret Infelix, or a Narrative concerning a Haunted Man.—The Improvisatore, or Torn Leaves from Life Ha-tory.—The Wich o' Lowenthal.—The Phantom Mother, or The Story of a Recluse.—Haunted Houses. No. 1: The Picture Spectres. No. 3: The Sanford Ghost.—Christmas Stories. No. 1: The Stranger Guest. No. 2: Faith; or, Mary Macdonald.—The Wildfire Club: • A Tale founded on Fact.—Note.

Mary Macdonald.—The Wildfre Club: • A Tale founded on Fact.—Note. Arcana of Nature.—By Hudson Tuttle. Price $1. CONTENTS:—Part I. Chapter I. A General Burrey of Mattor.—Chapter II. The Origin of the Worlds.—Chap-tor III. The Theory of the Origin of the Worlds.—Chap-tor III. The Theory of the Origin of the Worlds.—Chap-ter IV. History of the Earth, from the Gaseous Ocean to the Cambrian.—Part II. Chapter Y. Life and Organiza-tion.—Chapter VI. Plan of Organic Beings.—Chapter VII. Influence of Conditions.—Chapter VIII. Dawn of Life.— Chapter IX. The History of Life through the Silurian For-mation.—Chapter X. The Old Red Sandstone Berles.— Chapter IX. The Old Red Sandstone Berles.— Chapter XI. Carboniferous or Coal Formation.—Chapter XII. Permian and Trias Periods.—Chapter XIII. Oolite; Lins; Wealden.—Chapter XIV. The Cretaccous or Obalk Period.—Chapter XV, The Cretiary.—Chapter XVI. A Chapter of Inferences. Chapter XVII. Origin of Man.— Part III. Chapter XVIII. The Human Brain.—Chapter XIX. Structure and Fonctions of the Brain and Nervons Bystem, Studied with reference to the Origin of Thought.— Chapter XX. The Source of Thought Studied from s Phi-losophical Biandpoint. Chapter XXI. Retrospect of the Theory of Development, as herein advanced; Conclusions; Facts followed from their Source to the tori Ly Conclusions; Theory of Development, as herein advanced; Conclusions; Facts followed from their Source to their Legitimate Re-suits.-Appendix. An Explanation of some of the Leys of Nature, their Effects, Ac.

sults.—Appendix. An Explanation of some of the Lays of Nature, their Effects, &c.
 Whatever Is, is Right.—By A. B. Child, M. D. Price $1. CONTENTS:—Good and Evil. Questions and Answers. Truth. The Fursuits of Happiness. Nature. Nature Rules. What Appears to be Evil is not Evil. A Spiritual Communication. Causes of what we call Evil. Evil does not exist. Unhappiness is Necessary. Harmony and In-harmony. The Soul's Progress. Intuition. Religion : What is it ? Spiritualism. The Soul is Real. Self Right-counces. Self-Excellence. Vision of Mrs. Adams. Hu-man Distinctions. Extremes are Balanced by Extremes. The Ties of Sympathy. All Men arc Immortal. There are no Evil Spirits. Harmony of Soul that the All Right Doc-trine Produces. Obsession. The Views of this book are in perfect Harmony with the Precepts and Sayings of Christ. What Effect will the Doctrines of this book have upon men ? A Long Chapter of the Opinions of the following named Persons, with Remarks: Justin Lillie; E. S. W.; Y. O. Blakley, M. D.; E. Annie Kingsbury; Maggie; Correspon-dent of Spirit Guardian; A. P. McCombs; Warren Chase; Mrs. J. S. Adams; Charlott H. Bown ; Miss Emma Hardinge; Lits H. Barney; Mr. Cushman; Mr. Wethorbee; Mr W. H. Chaney; M. J. W.; L. C. Howe; P. B. Randolph Mr. Wilson, and many others.
 Twenty Discourses, on Religion, Morals, Philosophy and Metabusics.

Twenty Discourses, on Religion, Morals, Philosophy and Motabysics. By Cora L. V. Hatch. With a Splendid Steel Engraving of Mrs. Hatch. Price 50 cents. When sent by mall, 15 cents additional for postage.

sont by mail, 15 cents additional for postage. Convents:—Discourse 1. Why is man ashamed to so-knowledge his Alliance to the Angel-World? 2. Is God the God of Bectarianism, or is he the God of Humanity? 3. The Sources of Human Knowledge. 4. The Beauty of Life, and the Life of Beauty. 5. "Come, now, let usrea-son together," saith the Lord." 6. Modern Epiritualism. 7. Are the Principles of Phrenology true? 8. Light, 9. Jeaus of Nazareth. 10. God alone is Good. 11. The Bao-rificial Rite. 12. The Love of the Beautiful. 13. The Gy-roscope. 14. The Moral and Religious Nature of Man. 16. Spiritual Communications. 16. On Christmas. 17. Cre-ation. 18. Total Depravity. 19. The Religion of Life. 30. The Life of Religion. Answers to Metaphysical ques-tions. The Spheres.

The Spiritual Reasoner. By E. W. Lewis. Price 87 cts.

The Spiritual Reasoner. By E. W. Lewis. Price 37 cta. Postage lucents.
This work is a Record or Journal of Spirit Teachings, Communications, and Conversations, in the years 1861, 1862, and 1853, through N. S. Gardner, medium. These conversations are held between a band of intellectual investigators, and the spirit of John Locke, Lorenzo Dow, Osceola, etc. The author says, concerning the circle: "On the 14th of January, 1851, about twonty individuals met at a private house in the neighborhood, and, by direction of the spirits, organized a circle, to meet regularly once or twice a week. These meetings were public, and no person was to be prohibited from attending who chose. Besides this, we were to meet in private circles, as often as convenient, whether few or many attended, for the further investigation of the matter. This circle was composed of members of various churches—Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterian. Quakers, and others who made no open profession of religion—sil agreeing, and bound together in the bonds of Obristan union and friendship—and thus worshiping God in true harmony. The principle medium, and a Mrs. H., an excellent clarvysant medium, and a lady of irreproachable charactor, and in all respects a Christian."
The Kingdom of Heaven; os. THE GOLDEN ACS.—By E. The Kingdom of Heaven; OR, THE GOLDEN AGE.-By E. W. Loveland. Price, 37 cents. Postage 10 cents. W. Loveland. Price, 37 conts. Postage 10 cents. CONTENTS: -- Teachings and Miracles of Jesue Christ. Faith: Giving and Receiving. Restoration of Malformations. Healing Diseases. Miracles of the Nazarone. Creation. Continuation of the same subject. Creation of Man. The Jon Age. The Bilver Age. The Golden Age. Review of what is written. Good and Evil. A Prophecy. Lan-guage. Death of the Nazarene. Spirit Impression. The Messengers of God. Guardian Spirits. Accepting the Mather's Will. Consulting God. Progression. Litted Up. Taking the Cross. The Controlling God. Dealing Justly. Beifish Loves and Appetites. Thy Father and Mother. Prophecy. The Heavens. Prophecy. The Heavens. The Healing of the Nations.—Given through Charles Linton. With an introduction and Appendix by Gov. Tal-madge. 550 pp. Price $1.00. Postage, 25 cents.

Reported for the Banner of Light. BOSTON SPIRITUAL CONFERENCE, WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 2, 1862.

QUBSTION .- The evile attributed to Spiritualism. DR. CHILD .- What are the evils attributed to Spiritualism? They are comprehended in the "thirty-nine" elegant adjectives of bitterness, blame, and faultfinding that are used in firing the uncharitable guns of wrath at others. The evils that are attributed to Spiritualism are the lawful attributes of materialism; they are no more the attributes of Spiritualism, than darkness is an attribute of the shining sun; than the fetor of decaying flesh is the attribute of an expanding rose-bud. Among the attributes of Spiritualism the thirty-nine subterraneous adjectives, sofsweet to faultfinders, are not to be found, do not hold a lawful place, and there have no existence. But to the world of physics and its affections-where brimstone, iron, gold, and all things earthly are, there these thirty nine elegant adjectives of calumny have a place and use-and only to the love of the earthly things do they belong as attributes. To the world of spirit, where desire runs on the wings of space, in limitless area, condemnation and faultfinding and all the attributes called evil, cease to have existence. To the soul of man there are no evil attri. butes; and to the science that tells him about the soul there can be none, for these evils belong to another science previously studied, viz.: the science of matter. Spiritualism is a book that tells us about the soul. Who imputes evils to the book that tells us about the soul? Those who are yet studying in the other book, the book of Materialism, and who believe that the book of Spiritualism has the same thirty-nine adjectives that only belong to the inharmonies of earth, recorded therein. Who deal blame and wrath upon the heads of Spiritualists? It may be those who are called Spiritualists, but they have never studied the book of Spiritualism; they have never opened its sacred lids and read therein its pure and holy pages of charity-charity that vaunteth not itself, is not puffed pp; that forgiveth seventy times seven; that endurch all things and believeth all things. Real Spiritualism does this. It is not the man or the woman who reads in this beautiful volume of Spiritualism. In this book of eternal life, and reads understandingly, that attributes evils to Spiritualism. But the man or woman who does this, has not yet opened the book of-Spiritualism to read, mark, learn and understand what is therein written. Condemnation and blame must cease before any considerable progress is made in the study in this new volume of our existence. Spiritualism. Who would expose the faults of another, thinking he has none of his own? Ho who has faults like those he tries to expose; he who is reading yet the volume of his material, not his spiritual life. Who attributes faults to Spiritualism? He or she who is yet studying the book wherein the adjectives of condemnation are used-not the book of life where no stains of condemnation blot its pure pages, and where kind and generous feelings reach beyond the boundaries of selfish love, and forbid that we should say aught that is ungenerous of another.

ME. EDBON,-I agree very well with what Dr. Child has said, though I have a different manner of expressing myself. The evils attributed to Spiritualism are Asht, Barry M. F. ر تر 1.1.

sect. I believe that God is a person, as much as a man is a person. Infidelity that has always been in advance of the old religions, is dropped for something better in Spiritualism. I believe that the world is corrupt-is rotten through and through. And Spirit ualism has come to purify it. It is to make men and women better. I do not believe that church members are any worse than common sinners-the reason they appear worse to some is because they pretend to be so much better.

taught this as the foundation of their creeds.

MR. ----. [Said he would not speak if his name should be revealed.] I think that what has been said on this floor should not have been published, for it has been mostly nonsense. [A voice.-We shall expect to hear sense, now.] The definition of a Spirituallst is, one who believes that spirits do communicate. [A voice.-Mr. Newton said that ten years ago.] Spiritualists are apt to say very foolish things. 1 think that Spiritualism will convince man of his immortality. The all right doctrine is a very foolish doctrine, and it has nothing to do with Spiritualism. It contradicts everybody's experience. Pope said whatever is, is right," and he was right, for he ad ocated God in his providences.

Ques .-- If it was not wrong for Pope to say what ever is, is right, in the last century, why is it wrong for a man to repeat the same in this century?

Ans .- Because Pope vindicated the ways of God to man, and in that sense he was right in saying whatever is, is right ; but Dr Child is wrong in saying whatever is, is right-that everything is right. [A voice. -- What a clear distinction 1]

the same number of church members. Another evil than by any other class of people. Another evil atthe definition that Christ gave of free-love, or of un. of what Spiritualism is. lawful lust, every man is a free lover. So these evils attributed to Spiritualism, do not belong any more, if they do so much, to Spiritualists, as they do to other people.

LIZZIE DOTEN thought that the evils that were attributed to Spiritualism did not belong to it more spiritartist, I submit to you the following: A lady than they belonged to any other sect; that to take called on me who gave her name as Mrs. Brong, and heed of them, would be of as little consequence, as to stated to me with tears of emotion in her eyes, that stop by the wayside to heed the barking of every dog. She thought still, that Spiritualism had many evils, and when she viewed these evils, her mind run nearly in the same channel that Dr. Bowker's did. Thought that the evils of Spiritualism were rapidly passing away, and that every step in the progress of Spiritualism, would be marked by greater order and greater harmony.

ME. BACON --- I came here with not even a fragment of a thought upon which to form a remark. But

11

· ·

이 없다는 것 가지

Letter from Philadelphia.

FRIENDS AND READERS OF THE BANNER-IN Still further evidence of the powers of Mr. Anderson as a she called on Mr. Anderson, and inquired of him whether he could get her a portrait of her son who was dead. He replied that he thought he could, and absenting himself for a short time, returned with a sketch which she immediately recognized. He then again retired to his room for some twenty-five or thirty minutes, and the picture was finished; the hair of the lad was parted as he wore it here, and the broad neck-tie then worn was arranged as he himself always tied it, even to the creases, said the mother. He wanted a gathering a plank here and a beam there-picking few days of completing his sixteenth year, when he from one and another of those who have already spok. passed away, and he has been six years in spirit-life. en, I could frame a very respectable building in the All who knew him recognize the picture, and ask way of a speech. Spiritualism, I regard, as a social, the mother when she had it taken. I was much affectmoral, and religious problem, for each to solve as best | ed by Mrs. Brong's recital, given in a simple, heartfelt he or she can. The simplest definition is always the manner. The lady's residence is at the corner of Third best, and the best definition of Spiritualism I have and Coates street. Bir. Anderson has more such testa met with, in the past or present, is this: That dis. of other places, which, unlike those so desirous of ob-possessing one of the best gifts of heaven (clairvoyant powers), will no doubt be able often to see, and, per-haps, converse with dear Octavia. She was a believer in the beautiful doctrine of Spirit communion, and did not fear to die, but spoke of her departure calmly, and wished to have a medium attend her funeral. Her last struggle was hard, but when the last moments came, she folded her sister in her arms, gave one affectionate look and farewell kiss, and the spirit took its flight from its mortal coil. While the writer was ndeavoring to give the mourning friends consolation, (as the angels saw they needed.) she saw the calm, pure spirit of Octavia hovering near the dear friends, trving to impress them with a realization of her pre Such are the beauties of Spiritualism in the hour of Death. MRS. M. B. KINNRY. Departed to the Spirit spheres, March 16, 1862, LEONA V., daugher of OLIVER and SYLVINA WOOD ARD, of Flora, 111., aged 2 years 9 months.

An angel from the further shore, Passed ont the pearly gates one day ; He came to earth and from your arms Bore your sweet bud away.

He took it to a home of love

Where all the angels dwell ; Then, know you, in dark trial's hour, "He doeth all things well."

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

LYCBUM HALL, TERMONT STREET, (opposite head of School street.) — The regular course of icctures will continue through the winter, and services will commence at 2:45 and 7:16 o'clock, p. M. Admission Free. Locturers engaged:--H. B. Storer, April 18; Miss Lizzle Doten, April 20 and 37; Miss Emma Hardinge in May; Rev. J. S. Lovcland, June 1 and 8; Mrs. Fannie Davis Emith, June 22 and 29.

CONFERENCE HALL, No. 14 BROMFIELD STREET, BOSTON,-CONTREASON HALL, NO. 14 DECEMBERTING THERET, DOLLAR. The Bulitual Conference meets every Wednesday eve-ning, at 71-2 o'clock. The subject for next evening is: " The Evils Attributed to Spiritualism." Spiritual meetings are held every Sunday; trance speak-ing at 10 1-2. A M.; Conference meeting at 2 1-2 F. M.

CHARLESTOWN.-Bunday meetings are held at Central Hall Also a volk, afternoon and evening. Bycakers engaged: Miss Emma Houston, April 13 and 20; N. S. Greenleaf, April 27; Mrs. M. B. Kinney, May 4 and 11.

MABBLEHEAD.-Mootings are held in Bassett's new Hall. Speakers engaged :-- F. L. Wadsworth, last three Sundays in June.

June. Fornono'.--Meetings in the Town Hall. Speakers engaged: Mrs. M. M., Macumber Wood, April 20 and 27. LowELL.-The Spiritualists of this city hold regular meet-ings on Bundays, forencon and afternoon, in Wells's Hall, Speakers engaged:--Miss Emma Hardinge, April 18; Mrs. Augusta A. Currier, April 20, 27; Mrs. Fannie B. Felton, May 18; Mrs. Fannie Davis Smith, during June. Naw Babroan, --Music Hall has been hired by the Spirit-ualists. Conference Meetings hold Sunday mornings, and speaking by mediums, afternoon and ovening. Speakers engaged : Mrs. M. B. Townsend, April 18; Miss Lizzie Doten, Junei and 8; V. L. Wadsworth, during July; Miss Emma

Housson, Sept. 21 and 28. PORTLAND, ME. - The Spiritualists of this city hold regular neetings every Bunday in Sons of Temperance Hall, on Con-rress, between Oak and Green streets. Conference in the encon. Lectures afternoon and evening, at $ 1.4 and 7 o'clock. Speakers engaged :---Mrs. A. A. Currier, April 18; Miss Emma Hardinge, two last Sundays of April; Mrs. Kannio Davis Smith for May; Mrs. M. M. Macumber Wood or June.

PROVIDENCE.-Bpeakers engaged:--Mrs. Fannie Davis mith, during April; Frank L. Wadsworth in May; Mrs. M. S. Townsend in June.

NEW YORK .- At Lamartine Hall, corner Sth Avenue and 29th street, meetings are held every Sunday at 101-3 A. M. 8 p. M. 7 1-2 p. M. Dr. H. Dresser is Chairman of the Asso-

At Dodworth's Hall, 806 Broadway, Mrs. Cora L. V. Hatch will lecture every Bunday, morning and evening.

MILWAUKER, WIS.-Lectures every Sunday at Bowman's Hall, Milwaukce street, commencing at 2 1-3 and 7 1-4 p. m. Lecturers desiring engagements please address Albert Morton. Br. Louis, Mo. - Mootings are held in Mercantile Library Hallevery Bunday at 10 1-9 o'clock A.M. and 7 1-8 P. M.

Psalms of Life : a compilation of Psalms, Hymns, Chants, Anthems, &c., embodying the Spiritual, Reformatory and Progressive sentiments of the present age. By John S: Adams. Price, 75 cents. Postage 10 cents.

My Experience: Footprints of a Presbyterian to Spiritualism By Francis H. Smith of Baltimore. 25 cts. Postage 10 cents.

Religion of Manhood; Or, The Age of Thought. By Dr. inson. Price 60 cents. Postage 10c.

The Conflict of Ages Ended-a Succedanoum to Beech-er's "Conflict of Ages." By Henry Woller. Price 25 cents. Postage 10 cents.

Bohemia under Austrian Despotism. An Autobiogra-phy by A. M. Dignowity, M. D., of San Antonio, Texas, 25c. Postago 10 cents.

PAMPHLETS.

"Whatever Is, Is Right" Vindicated. By A. P. M'Combs A Pampblet of twenty-four pages, containing class and lucid arguments in support of the ALL Right coeffice, and a pericet overthrow of the claims in opposition to this doctrine as set forth by Cynthis Temple, in a pamphlet en-titled, "IT Is N'T ALL Right," Price, 10 cents.

The Unveiling; Or, WHAT I THINK OF BFIRITUALISM. By Dr. P. B Randolph. Price 25 cents.

It Is n't All Right; Being a Rejoinder to Dr. Child's colobrated work; "Whatever Is, is Right" By Cynthia Temple. Price 10 cents.

Great Discussion of Modern Spiritualism between Prof. J. Stanley Grimes and Leo Miller, Esq., at the Melo-deon, Boston, in March. 1860. Pamphlet, 170 pp. Price $10 per hundred; single copies 15 cents. Postage 3 cts.

Discussion of Spiritualism and Immortality, in May, 1860, at the Meionson, Boston, between Elder Miles Grant and Rev. J. S Loveland. Price, wholesalo, $6 per hundred, single copies, 10 cents.

A Record of Modern Miracles. By S. B. Brittan. Price, wholesale, $$ per hundred, slugie copies 6 cents.

A Lecture on Becession, by Gen. Andrew Jackson, deliv-ered at. Dodworth's Hall, on the evening of Sunday, Jan. 19, 1661. Mrs. Cora L. V. Hatch, medium. Price, 10 cts.

Two Lectures on the Present Grisis, by Theodore Par-ker and Honry Clay, delivered at Dodworth's Hall, Sunday, Dec. 18, 1860, Mrs. Cora L. V. Hatch, medium, Price, 10c. A Review of Dr. Dod's Involuntary Theory of Spiritual Manifestations. By W. S. Courtney. Price, 10c. A. E. Newton's Spiritual Tract, "What does Spirite ualism Teach ?" Frice 1 cont.

A Discourse on Faith, Hope and Love, by Cors L. V. Hatch, medium. Frice, loc.

A Discourse on the Immutable Decrees of God, by Cors L. V. Hatch, medium, Price, 10c.

JUST PUBLIBHED.

"AMERICA AND HER DESTINY;" AMERICA AND HERE DESTINATIONAL DISCOURSE, given extemporaneously, a st Dodworth's Hail, New York, on Senday Zrening, Aug-525, 1861, through EMMA HARDINGE, by THE SPIRITS Price, $3 por hundred, or 5 orbit single copy; when sent by mail, one cont additional. 2014 (1997) Just published and for sale wholesale and retail as the Banner of Light office, 158 Washington street, if Nov. S.