SUSPENSE. BY MRS. D. H. LAVENBURG.

I know not if the time be long or short, The intervalug time between relief and me; Of all the counter force that comes to thwart, Nor of the loving force that with my hopes ag But while I wait, like bees I'll gather by the way, From all that's beautiful and bright I'll take sbare, I'll glean some joy, though small, from every day, Thus weaving comfort sweet from threads of care.

And I each day will aim to give some word or act of cheer, To carry of some everburdened life a part, With willing hands sow broadcast far and hear, That I may light one cell within some darkened heart, Toledo, O.

Management of Local Societies.

BY RIVENOAK.

Mr. Barrett's article in the "Banner" Mr. Harret's article in the "Banner" of January 12th touches upon a subject which should be of vital interest not only to every member of every Spiritual Society in the country, and to every platform worker, but as well to that vast army of Americans who at heart are Spiritualists, knowing the truth of heart are Spiritualists, knowing the truth of its claims, but who have refrained from join-ing any society. It is the life of our Cause that is at stake now, in the question of the progress or decline of our local societies, and now is the time, if ever, that we must rally to its aupport, if we love its trpth and it has been of samclent value to us to cause us to desire that its benefits may be extended to our fellow-men. It is a reasonably safe assertion to make

now is the large it were its tryth and it has been of sumclent value to us to cause us to desire that its benefits may be extended to our rellow-men. It is a reasonably safe assertion to make that it has been proven to the satisfaction of the minds of the most eminent men who have ived during the past fifty years, and who have given the subject careful and unpreju-diced thought, that communion between mor-tal and egiptit is an established fact, and that those who come to speak to us from the an-gel spheres have something to impart to us mortals which it is well worth our while as receive. This is undoubtedly the sentiment of the great majority of the Spiritualists, and to receive and convey the message of the an-gels is the undoubted earnest desire of many faithful souls now working in the Cause of Spiritualism. In an editorial in the "Banner" some time ago, Mr. Barrett estimated the number of Spiritualists in the United States as some-what less than 250,000, and this estimate is probably about correct. There must be some-thing radically wrong, however, if it be true that after fifty years' labor among the most lorense. The English army in South Africa, under General Hoberts, captured town after towshort weeks. Spiritualism, in a nation of al-most unnumbered towns and cities, at the end of fifty years' struggle, with more, than "tweevel egions of angels" giving it their aid, has not achieved success equivalent to the spingent of people, numbers comparatively for Mediae, Chicage, Chicanati and shu-thows the angels. Spiritualism, in a fifth promotion the undertunate republies in a few short weeks. Spiritualism, in a nation of al-most unnumbered towns and cities, at the end of fifty years' struggle, with more, than "tweevel egions of angels." giving it their aid, has not achieved success equivalent to the spingting fifthe, Chicago, Chiccinanti and shu-pointive. New York City has probably less, philadelphia has by no means a large num-bistric to New York City has probably less. Philadelphia has a few who tem of presenting the truth and of managing our local societies is whereia the trouble lies. What such mismanagement is, has been most ably discussed in recent issues of the "Ban-ner" by Mr. Barrett, Dr. Dean Clarke, Mr. E. W. Gould, Dr. Talkwell and others. No donbt a number of Spiritualists disagree with the oplaions of these gentlemen and desire no change from present methods; but the fact remains that under the system of manage-ment new in operation in most of the local so-cleties, Spiritualism is making very little, ff any, headway. Throughout the length and breadth of our land the story is the same. With very few exceptions, local societies are having the hardest kind of a struggle to live. Many have already fallen; many more are on the verge of collapse, and the outlock for the future is by no means bright. The suc-cess or failure of the local societies mana the success or failure of the local societies to the problem of bettering the condition of the so-cieties if we would further the progress of cur Cause.

In the mind of the present writer, the first and most important point to be accomplished a the separation of the work of the lecturer rom that of the demonstrator. We have been and a is the

For fifty years the truth has been being revealed to us-muto us as Spiritualist, the sacred-charge has been given of abdibbing the slaw-ery of mankind to creeds and dogmas and foolian superstition. Shall we fail in the no-ble work assigned to us, or shall we, as be-comes veritable Sons and Daughters of God, by the Sword of Truth given to us smite the shackles from the sons of men, the tol-worn, wearied Adms of the earth, and set them "free indeed," Christs, each one of them, re-flecting all the glory, the love and the pence of that Divine nature, they too, then, Sons and Dauchters of the living God? Oh: let us stop and think'. Now is the critical time in our history. Shall the word be "Onward," or shall we be faithless to the trust imposed in as and permit the God-sj-view lith of Spirit Communion and all its attendant glories to fade forever from the sight of men and leave the word of the dark, saw word" which is was fity years aro, before we knew that death was no more? ## "The Decline of Local Societies." BY WALTER P. WILLIAMS

BY WALTER P. WILLIAMS The editor has given his views on the above subject and I desire to supplement them by offering the following:— In the "golden age" of Spiritualism, which is said to have been twenty-five, thirty of farty years ago, and is a period of which I have no personal recollection, there seems to have been very little if any talk of "the bigher teachings," or "the higher thought" of Spiritualism. Spiritualism was tanght. The views advanced were those entertained by reach individual speaker or his or her impir-ers and were generally such as appealed to the reason and intelligence of the auditors. Many of those utterances are still interesting and instructive after the lapse of all these vers, and in them may be frond, substan-tially, almost if not quite all that is now her-aide to the world as "the higher thought," or "the higher Spiritualism.". Let me confess at the outset that I person-whince, and, based on my observation, venture to offer the following suggestions to offerers and members of local societies, feeling as-sard if they are carefully observed the de-ine offers and the deep-seared prejudices and members of local societies, feeling as-sard of they are ratefully observed the de-site outhodox and materialistic elements is be intensite.

the community against Spirirualism will be intensified. 1. Put into the executive positions of your society those who have personal ends to serve by preason of their training and personal kin-oxynerasies are wholly unfitted for the places-they are selected to occupy. 2. Never mention your society as an or-ganization either in public or private, and caution your speaker against seeking to gain members for it. He may be engaged in the praiseworthy effort, during his engagement with you, of adding members to his own or-ganization, and you should not lay a straw in his way because "whatever is, is best," you know, and it was not to be that your society should grow and gain influence in the com-munity and become a moral and social force. I. Do not encourage senues nor the la-vestigation of psychic phenomena in any way, for by doing so you might make yourself amenable to the accusation of being aggree-sive and seeking to proselyte others to your belief.

nmennois to the proselyte outers a point belief. 12. Discourage sociability among your members. Pay no attention to strangers that visit your meetings, or, if you do, be careful to give them the cold shoulder. 14. If good, mediums come your way, pay no attention to them, do not recognize them socially, and be careful that they are not given an opportunity to work in connection with your society lest jealousy be engendered, in case they should do better work than some-buly else.

In case they about do better work that some body class. Any Spiritualist can extend the list indefi-nitely. Enough has been said, however, to indicate the lines along which local organiza-tions should not be guided. That any of the above hints should be followed by an organ-ization, at the present time, claiming to be guided by same persons, is one of the discour-acing signs of the times. It is to be carn-estly hoped, however, that a new era of pro-gression will soon dawn for us as local so-cleties. cleties. Washington, D. C.

BY E. I. BOWTELLE. An article which appeared under the above caption in the Banner of Light for January 56, together with an editorial in the same la-sue should. I think, give rise to further ex-pression of opinion upon a most momentum subject. Spiritual teaching, spiritually ac-cented, must result in spiritual evolution. As spirit evolves all gross indulgence of the senses must diminish. If any progress has been mide in spiritualizing mankind the proof will be found in lessence sensuality. Disease-are any Exempt: At no time in the history of disease has number of eases of any particular unlady as in that of hidney and bladder troubles now purying upon the people of this constry. Today we see a relative, a friend or an acquaintance apparently well, and in a few days we may be grieved to learn of their serions illness or redden death, caused by that fatal type of kidney trouble-Bright's disease. Midney trouble often becomes advanced into acute stages before the afficient basis of a presence; that is why we read of so many sudden deaths of prouinest basises and professional men, physicians and others they have neglected to stop the leak in time.

They have neglected to stop the sens as time. While scientists are pumling their brains to find out the cause, each individual can, by a little presention, avoid the chances of con-tracting dreaded and dangerous kidney trouble, or eradicate it completely from their system if already afflicted. Many precious lives might have been, and many more can yet be saved, by paying attention to kid-neys.

A Just Judge.

words can be spoken of Judge Dixor These These words can be spoken of Judge Dison, of the Supreme Court of New Jersey who presided so ably and impartially in the famous Bosschleter murder trial in Paterson. His conduct at the trial excited favorable comment throughout the nation and his charge to the jury was out the nation and his charge to the jury was absolutely free from bias of any kind. He gave the prisoners at the Bar every oppor-tunity to prove their innocence and in no way did he'attempt to prejudice the minds of the jury against them. Judge Dixon stands forth in bold relief as one of the few conscientions Jurists in the United States. It is refreshing to find such a wan occurring the available jury against them. Judge Dixon stands forth in bold relief as one of the few conscientions Jurists in the United States. It is refreshing to find such a man occupying the exalted office of Sopreme Court Judge. His conduct throughout the trial is a marked contrast with that of the vast majority of judges in junital cases in other states of the Union. They have frequently leaned in the direction of the acquittal of the prisoners before them, perhaps feeling in their hearts that men have the right to prey upon innocent and un-suspecting young gives without incurring the penalty of the law for so doing. We cannot give too much credit to Judge Dixon, and while giving him his just dues in this instance, what can we say of the Jury before which the three leading culprits were tried? The guilt of these men was abund-antly proved. McAillister indministered, three times in succession. Chloral Hydrate to the Hi-fated Jennie Bosschieter, a happy, free-hearded and thoughtless mill girl. The evidence proved that her fault, if fault there was, consisted of her being utterly 'free from sumpleion of wrong doing on the part of the men who purposed betraying her. She was heedless, perhaps, but vicious, never, the three men who cateded her into the saloo. In the runn in view and by the basis of con-ceivable methods. It is true perhaps, that they ide not intend to murder the unsuspect-ing girl. They did intend, however, to destroy that which is of more value than virtue, brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree, the maximum penalty of which was thirty years in States Prison at hard labor. How does such a verdict appeal to the fathers and mothers of the land'. Are the members of this jury so discretingly wise as to determine that a suppresediated market is semi-arconable signly because it was not deelberstely planned? Is there a true wyname in this lad, who would not regime year of the is done them on the second theory they was not deilberstely planned? Is they be Is mariner is semi-exclusible simply because it was not delikerately planned? (icel's Kingstom of Rightconsness on Earth. The beings in the inrar of men wha triad these criminals may have clear consciences in the matter, and while we do not believe in the death penalty, we do feel that they should have received a life sentence without the hope of pardon in some institution where they would be compelled to toil for the bene-fit of the family they destroyed and to reim-burse the state for the cost of their own maintenance. As it now is their sentences will be shortened by good behavior at least one-third and it is not impossible that some governor with nore sentiment than sense will, in the not distant future, turn these men loose upon society. It is true that three of them have received a sentences of thirty years each and that the fourth criminal gets of with fifteen years. We may now look for visitations of delegates of womea to the prison to condole with these prisoners. Two thou-send and seventy-nine wome either visited, wrote, or sent flowers, to the notorious Leutgert of Chicago who killed his wife and then made her body into samages, which he placed on the market and sold as No. 1 goods. If women could forget that man'e crime, we may expect that they will be doubly willing to forget the horrible rine of Campbell, Death, Kerr and McAllister. It would not be out of the way to have these four villains forever deprived of their ability to commit a similar crime in case of their re-lease from prison by means of a pardon. So-society would hardly be safe from them and their like by any other method. It is to be hoped that the trajic fate of in-nocent Jennie Hooschieter will serve as a warmings to young men and women who

It is to be hoped that the tragic fate of in-nocent Jennie Bosschieter will serve as a warnings to young men and women who thoughtlessly prefer a taste of the Elixir of Vice to the Purcer waters of Honor and Vir-tae. We hope Judge Dixon's words will ring in the ears of the youth of the land for many decades to come. His emotion in scatteneing the prisoners did honor to his noble manhood. He cried, not like a child, but wept as be-comes a strong and noble man. Now that the final act in this horrible tragedy has closed and the curtain has fallen to hide the actors from the gaze of an outraged public, it is but comes a strong and noble mail. Now that the final act in this horrible traged public, it is but just that the American people should begin to consider with great care the question of Jury Trials. We repeat once more that they have become a delusion and a snare. Justice can be better administered by such men as Judge Dixon than it can be by ap-pealing to twelve men ignorant of the law, and liable to allow their preju-dices to govern their actions. The aver-age juryman, as we have frequently remark-ed, is a man who is apt to view with com-placency assaults of any character upon wo-men. Perhaps he knows of organizations similar to the one in Paterson in his own community, composed of young men whose chief object is to destroy the honor of some young girl; he may even be a member of such an organization himself, and hence desirous of shielding those of his companions whose sins have found them out. Question the Juryman who has voted for the acquittal of some notroious rapits as to how he would feel if it were his wife or daughter and he will re-ply. "Oh, that would be different." The only safe and sure way, is to abolish trial by jury and elevate men of the stury independence of character and nobility of soul of Judge Dixon to the Beach to dispense justice, among their fellow men. By this means will men receive their deserts, women be protect-ed, and society blessed.

The Danish West Indies.

The fact that negotiations are now pend-ing between the governments of the United States and Denmark for the sale of the Danish West Indies to "Uncle Sam" has given rise to no little discussion as to the attitude of the inhabitants of the islands with regard to the sale. The St. Thomas Tidente, a local paper of little influence, de-dened that the percent waves of the sale. Tidente, a local paper of little influence, de-clared that the people were opposed to the transfer. One of the leading men of St. Thomas, Dr. Charles E. Taylor, took excep-tions to this statement, and has proved that all of the progressive people among the ac-tual residents are desirons of the change. Dr. Taylor writes the New York Herald as follows:

Dr. Taylor writes the New York Aterator ac-follows: "Most of our merchants, property holders, and others, who see, day by day, the deca-dence of these islands, and have intelligence enough to understand the advantage of be-longing to the United States, are quite ready and willing for the transfer, and this with-out prejudice to their good feeling for Den-mark. Little is said by them because they have been so often disappointed. But should the occasion arise for them to give their opinion, there is no doubt they will do so in the attirnative." As Dr. Taylor has been a resident of St.

opinion, there is no doubt they will do so in the affirmative." As Dr. Taylor has been a resident of St. Thomas for thirty-seven years, a member of the Colonial Council for sixteen years, and Commissioner of the islands to the World's Fair in Chicago in 1853, he certainly is in fouch with the leading citizens of the islands, and therefore qualified to speak with regard to their wishes. Some faw of the less empthemed residents have seen fit to abuse him for his outspoken advocacy of the sale of the little group to this country. He has the rank and file of the best people on his side, and is sustained by the leading mem-bers of the Coloniz Council, including the Chairman and Vice Chairman. They all feel that there is no doubt but what the islands are eminently futed to take their place among the possessions of the United States. We deem these interesting facts of mo-mess, and thank our good riend Dr. Taylor for giving us an opportunity to place them before the readers of the Banner of Light. The doctor has been a subscriber for the 'old reliable Banner' and has kept in touch with the great spiritualistic movement throughout the world, through its columns. He is an opponent of medical monopoly, and was forced to wage a bittor contest in behalf of his rights in this respect, with the authorities of 8t, Theomas, He was victorious in his battle, and has held the flag of freedom con-spicoously aloft in his island house through-out his long residence there. His letter, from which the above quotations are made, contains numerons appreciative references to the Banner of Light and its staff. They are graterfully acknowledged by one and all, and troly responsibil. We wish our good friend many, many years of usefulness yet in the form, and trust that his island home will become the very embodiment of apiriual become the very embodiment of spiritual light, wisdom and liberty for all of the islands of the West India group.

The Royal Funeral.

The Hoyal Funeral. The body of the good Queen Victoria has been laid to rest, and the pomp and splendor of a royal funeral have once more delighted the English people. They have a right to all of the enjoyment they can glean from such ceremonies, and we would be the last to say them nay. We venture to express the hope, however, that the secular papers of America will hereafter have something of real value in the way of reading matter in its columns. They have devoted altogether too much time and attention for such a natural event in life as the transition of a sovereign, who, al-though good, and great like Victoria, was yet though good and great like Victoria, was yet only a mortal being, hence heir to the com-mon fate of all mankind. The action of our mon fate of all mankind. The action of our American press is the most disgusting ex-pression of the disease known as Anglo-phobia that has yet appeared on this conti-nent. It has been made manifest through extensive tondyism and the most abject flun-keyism ever known to man. We honor the nent. A extensive toadyism and the most extensive toadyism and the most keyism ever known to man. We honor the good Queen Victoria, and regret that she been too left a successor more like hergood Queen Victoria, and regret that she could not have left a successor more like her-self in character and ability, but we have too much Americanism in us to court royalty even at a distance, and to make Victoria's transition an opportunity to bow humbly be-fore the British crown as servile lovers of royalty, and abject shaves to foreign customs. It is well and it is noble to offer sympathy and condences but such offerings whom and condolence, but such offerings when made in sincerity, never place those who extend them in the position of lackeys or flux tend them in the position of lackeys or num-keys, to run and to weep at the behest of any man or set of men, or of any State, domes-tic or foreign. We hope our American news-papers will now give their readers a few sen-timents not borrowed from England or any other European monarchy.

Capital Punishment,

Capital Punishment. Bills to abolish capital punishment have been introduced into the Legislatures of ser-eral States during the past month, among the Massachusetts. The friends of aboli-tion lacked only two votes last year of carry-ing their point. There is a better opportun-ity this year to secure the repeal of the odious death penalty law, and we call upon all of our Massachusetts réaders to rise to meet it. What ine you doing, Spiritualists, to aid the Anti Death Penalty League? If you will write Bey. Charles G. Ames of Bos-ton, you can oblian circulars that will enable you to act intelligently in this important matter. Join the League, share its expenses, and ald it is its work for humanity. Capital punishment has disgraced Massachusetts to olong already. It is a relie of mediavel bar-barian, and most forever be abolished. In Maine, a bill has been offered restoring explaid by the doing to prevent the re-stabilishing of the odious law of the ancient bew "A life for a life?" Officers of the Maine State Association of Spiritualists, we and state Association of Spiritualists, we all upon you to act in this matter. seek and affilted who sought his aid. As a was in the employ of one of the railroads of this State, he feit obliged to confine his work entirely to mall practice. His correspondence was large, for he had many patients, from none of whom was one word of complaint received. He benefited all who employed him, and gave value received in every instance. Of course, this state of things was displeted to the dedical Trust, and some of its members made complaint against him for violation of the law of man, by practic-ing medicine without a license. A warrant tor violation of the law of man, by practic-ing medicine without a license. A warrant was issued for his arrest, and when it was served by the officers, Mr. Reed asked per-mission to go to his room for a moment ere they took him to prison. The officers con-sented. Mr. Reed went to his sleeping apart-ment, and shot himself through the heart. Mr. Reed was impulsive, perhaps, but he was proud and sensitive and preferred the freedom of the spirit-world to the prison-house of man.

was proof and sensitive and preferred the freedom of the splrit-world to the prison-house of man. He had violated the law of monopoly by healing the sick without a license to do so. He had given no doess of polson, cut off neither arms nor legs by mistake, nor re-movid perfectly well eyes when trying to operate upon eyes that were imperfect. For doing good he was persecuted, and prose-cuted; for helping others he was to be branded as a criminal. It is no wonder that his noble hatare rebelled against such in-justice and resorted to desperate means to escape from it. As Hudson Tuttle well says, "Edwin C. Reed is a martyr," for he has given up his life at an early age, when his usefulness to the world was most appar-ent. He was forced out of his mortal form by the bigotry and intolerance of the men of medicine who hated him simply because he could cure patients whom they could not reach. They did not want people to get well so they songht to remove their helper from their midst, and succeeded in doing so. These men of medicine aré bound to monopo-lize the art of healing, and they will not hexitate to remove those who oppose them by any means that may come to hand, stad Mr. Reed injured even one patient, the case against him would have had some slight excusse; but there was no one to complain, for he had helped all who sought his aid. Even if he had given the wrong remedy to one or two patients, would his offense have for he had helped all who sought his ald. Even if he had given the wrong remedy to one or two patients, would his offensis have been any greater than that of scores of reg-ular practitioners who make that very mis-take nearly every day they live? The Medi-cal Trust is bound to win, even if it exacts the very life blood of its victims. How long will intelligent people submit to such fearful injustice, such ignoble tyranny? If Beed's death will avaken people to a sense of their death will awaken people to a sense of their death will awaken people to a sense of their danger, and cause them to demand the over-throw of this wicked Trust, he will have perished in a good cause and blessed his fel-lowmen by his sad fate. Spiritualists, shall he be avenged in this way? What do you

Livermore. The Gospel of Spirit Return Society has arranged a rare treat for Boston in procuring the services of Mary A. Livermore for a lec-ture at 200 Huntington Ave., the evening of March 6 (Wednesday). For a woman of Mrs. Livermore's careful brought to speak on any subject is an educational fact; but when from her height she levels her searching gaze toward the unfolding era upon which we are just entering, as is hinted by the title of her address, "The Trend of the Twentieth Cen-tury," it behoves every one who can ar-range to do so, to give a listening ear to her latest word. The Society evidedtly intends to make it possible for any aspiring person to attend, by placing the tickets at the low price of fifty cents each, with seat-guaranteed if purchased in advance. The Banner of Light has undertaken to assist in this matter by placing the tickets for the lecture on sale at the Banner of Light Book Store, 204 Dartmouth Street. The returns from the lecture will be devoted to the Building Fund of the Society, which will be a satisfaction to the friends of this useful work in our city.

Higher Education.

We are pleased to note that a movement has been started looking to the higher educa-tion of the young in the very important sub-ject of Sexual Physiology. It has already gained no inconsiderable favor with the mem-bers of the W. C. T. U. in Massachusetts, is heartily endorsed by the Universalist clergy-men of Boston, and by the Ladies' Physiolog-ical Institute of this city. Dr. L. Gibbons re-cently addressed A Mother's Meeting in the Universalist Church on Rockview St., on this subject, which was largely attended by deeply interested thinkers and reformera. Dr. Gibbons, so far as we know, is the plo-neer worker in this great field of reform. He represents a cause that is most vital to the well-being of society. He rightly holds that the youth of both sexes should receive car-rel instruction as they approach adolescence, and advocates the appointment of instructors, who are perfect masters of their art, to take up this important branch of education, of course selecting lady physicians as teachers tor gibs. Such methods rightly initiated and follow-ed, would do_away with the perverts in the forms of mien who are now disgracing so-clety by their abnormal and indecemt prac-tices. There would also be a perceptible les-sening of the social evil, through the turning of the attention of the young in a kindly man-ner, to the necessity of cultivating higher ideals with regard to the important functions of their physical organisms. By turning the minds of the young into higher channels, evil will cease to be attractive, and chastify will be sought for its own sake by both surces. This subject can be presented in a chaste and wholesome manner, hence there is no valid reason why the matter should not be at once introduced into the public schools of Mansa-chusetts by those who, like Dr. Gibbons, are

Smith of Brandon, Yt., was unnanimously re-elected President of the Ver-mont State Spiritualist Association, and has entered upon his fifteenth term of continuous service in that office. This is a splendid rec-ord, and testifies strongly to the confidence of our brothren in Vermont in Dr. Smith. He is certainly worthy of the same, as he is a conscientions and painstaking officer. We congratulate him upon this additional honor that has come to him unsought.

LED. Charles E. Taylor of St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, an outspoken Spirit-ualist and reformer, has been chosen W. M. of the Masonic body to which he belongs. In some places in New England a man's relig-ion, if he be liberal in his tendencies, is sur-ficient cause for church members to vote against him for any position no matter how well fitted he may be for the place. Evi-dently there is more liberality of thought with regard to religion than there is in por-tions of New England.

Lastine Medical Rights Lengue of Massa-chusetts is hard at work trying to protec-and defend the liberties of the people. It should have a membership of at least ten thousand in order that the Legislature of Massachmetts can be made to feel that the people are in favor of freedom. #### Medical Freedom Against Medical Monopoly.

Dear Friend:—The unjust demands of the medical profession in Massachussetts for re-strictive legislation in heir behalf, against the wishes of the people, and contrary to the spirit of liberty, so dear to every loyal Amer-ican heart, are becoming more numerous and objectionable to people everywhere through-out the state every year. The Medical Board of Registration, since in efforts to defeat the will of the people by endeavoring to create a medical monopoly, hereby depiring it to secure such kind of medi-cal treatment for themselves as they may deal.

An Interesting Calculation.

An interesting Calculation. The Engineering and Mining Journal of January Sta, in a review of the mineral pro-duction of the past year, states that the pro-duction of white lead was 20,555 tons, a de-rease of about 12 per cent. from the pre-vious year's figures, while the production of about 12 per cent. These figures are interesting because of about 20 per cent. These figures are interesting because of what they reveal as to the paint consumption of the country. Made into Haud paint ready for use, the 0,055 tons of white lead, cales-lating that 100 lbs, of dry lead require 48 lbs, of linesed 01, would make -stort-165,167 tons of paint, which the labout 161,277 tons of paint. Adding the two together we should have, not counting other pigments and other block of paint consumed during the year 160 house and the products of American in-toners. May

try. Lauring that a gallon of average ready-apply paint weighs 17 lbs. and that it will rer about 200 square feet two coats (the c paint will cover more, the lead paint s) we find that the total of these two ments as quoted above, represents 40,-.541 gallons of paint, which when applied uid cover with two coats of paint 1.346,-.033 square yards of surface; and since the reage dwelling is generally estimated to re about 380 square yards of surface to

Moreover, the consubption of linesed of represented by these figures, allowing 75, 10a, to the gallom of oil, may be calculated at 25,209,000 galloms. Allowing an average yield of 18 Rs. of oil to the bushel of seed, this oil would represent 12,004,000 bushels of flar-seed; and counting the average yield of seed, as not over 12 bushels to the acres, the crop was grown upon 1,182,183 acres of soll. The paint industry of the United Bitates is a matter of importance, and its magnitude comfort.

She looks deileate as if she al-ways looked more like a liby than a girl, and ahe sways back and forth here, the very emo-tion so orercoming her. She says: "My name is Blanche Hill and I used to live in Cambridge. My people live there now and the name is William. I am so homesick to get a word from them. It seems so long since I was spoken to by those I love that I would give anything to just stand in the room and have them speak to me as they used to and know that I was there. I have very much to make me happy, and yet the one thing that I have them speak to me as they used to and know that I was there. I have every much to make me happy, and yet the one thing that I want most, recognition, is denied me. I don't care for my music any more. I don't care to go away, but am just held by their sorrow and my own, and oh, I hope that some way this will belp to relieve us all, and that I can find strength to speak so plainly that they will understand my need. My mother is so sick, seems as if she could never recover. For my part, I would like to have her come to me, but I know she is needed, and I would rather that she got better for the sake of those who are left in the home. I have seen Josle. His devoted wife cared for him with tireless devotion, and the love of children and grand-children, and the kindess of many friends, cheered him in his anguish. He had been a consistent Spiritualist for many rears. Very recently, when I saw him for the last time, in feeble tones, he dold me, of years ago, when risiting his father, who in great suffering was nearing life's close, and who had been opposed to Spiritualism, as his son entered the room he said, "Alten. I hope you have brought some of your good Spirits." He replied, "I have father, and

Letter from Abby A. Judson. NUMMER OUT HUNDRED AND SIXTY. To the Editor of the Banner of Light: It was abeut 1877 that Nicola Tesla, the great Hungarian electrician, who had estab-liabed a plant for his experiments in New York City through the ald of a wealthy man-awoke one morning to find that all his appa-ratus, and the room itself, had been burned up during the night. All cognizant of these facts mourned at the experimenter's loss, and I for one have read with eagerness anything that the newspapers have since furnished regarding his investiga-tions into the practical uses of electricity. The New York Telegram of Jan. 25 asys that Tesla has at last perfected his new sys-tem of electric lighting, which he calls "the perfect sanitary light," an invention which he has been seeking for the last ten years. One great advantage of his discovery is that his appariatus needs no wires nor carbon finaments to break or burn away. Each lamp contains twenty feet of hollow glass tubing, bent into rectangular form, and charged with electricity from Tesla's oscillator. This oscil-lator causes electrical vibrations of marvelous applicity, that drive the atoms of the gases through the tubes, leaving trains of light be-bind them. Another great advantage is that the light mass disolutely steady, and each lamp cont a alsolutely steady, and each lamp to a cloudy day. The light is continuous, soft, and absolutely steady, and each lamp to a base of the system of the sum on a cloudy day. Investigations into electric power, in order to facilitate 'travel and he transmission of intervel mark height on falsease, are all legitimate and he irannesion of the order to killowing the condi-tion of dis transmission of intelligence, to illuminate dwellings and to cast light on hidden condi-

dweilings and to east light on hidden condi-tions of disease, are all legitimate and desir-able. When they are pursued in order to kill by wholesale at a more rapid rate, or to carry out the processes of judicial murder, the quest becomes illegitimate, and awakens the disapproval of these good spirits who work for the well-being of mankind. In our opinion, killing a human being by passing volts of electricity through his frame is a misuse of science, and may be called a scientific crime.

Is a minutes of science, and may be chied a scientific crime. As is well known, the transmission of rapid shocks of electricity causes intolerable pain. A man was lately electrocuted in New York who was not killed by the first effort, and was subjected to the process a second time. The extremity of his sufferings cannot be im-agined.

The extremity of his sufferings cannot be im-agined. The preliminaries of electrocution are suf-ficient to strike the stoutest heart with hor-ror, and give of themselves a mental torture fit for the Spanish Inquisition. And when we think of what is endured as the volts of electricity pass through the body at a degree to at last extinguish life, one shudders at the notion that a set of human beings can inflict this on a helpless victim. In death by hanging, a cap drawn over the head of the victim prevents him from seeing what is being done; and though the sight of a human being hanging by the neck between earth and sky is most distressing to a spec-iator, yet the testimony of persons who have been resuctated from hanging gives evi-dence that the process is unattended by pain. There is no e shock, followed by total uncon-sciousness.

dence that the process is unattended by pain. There is one shock, followed by total uncon-cloumness. In death by beheading, though there must be one highty throb of pain when the kulle cuts through the neck, yet this pain quickly diminishes and nullifies. For though life may not be extinguished at once, yet the rapid flow of blood causes all pain to imme-diately disappear. We are by no means advocating the excen-tion of criminals by hanging or by beheading. We only claim that both these methods fre more tolerable than the scientific horror of electrocution. No man and no judicial col-lection of men have the right to cut short a human life as a punishment for erims. It violates natural law, and is a relie of the samage condition of the human race when may not sevelving from the brute. Kliing for erims is also uncleas and un-tives. The criminals are not really killed. They are only set free from their fleably bod-tes, and as the act insually fills them with malevolace and revenge, they are swirt to properture the same and worse acts through apirits whin to themselves who still have the ame of a physical body. They infinence ill-conditioned and susceptible mortals; and he who has been executed for one marder committed while he was in the flesh, may committed with relatives and friends ences, before he has progressed late a more through mortals whom he influence, which nore the surgers and doing or the flesh was always good-after the pre-paratory dark seances—and the unmistakable identity of friends, and relatives, profoundly consumer to his execution, saw that he was a manifults, a medium. One can be a medium of a chan was one of this class. Silly and yet obstinate deront and yet malevolent, cumning and yet almost idiotic, he is a type of a fooliab seni-tive, who yields almost unconsciously to every inducence, with no power of resistance bore what is right. His rhyming drivel on the scaffold.—

"I am so glad that I am going to the Lordy, Oh! glory, hallelujah!"

Ohi gory, haleunjah!" shows a mixture of sillness, devotion, and immoral sense that has seldom been equalled. Well, this Guiteau shot the good Garfield, who had never harmed him, in the back. He showed no horror of his crime, no pity for the victim who lay on his bed of torture for eighty days until he was liberated from it by death.

the victim who lay on his bed of torture for eighty days until he was liberated from it by death. A far better and stronger man than Gui-teau, through a mistaken sense of partisan-ship, shot Lincoln. Booth's remainder of life was full of torture. After his own death, spirits in league with the mortals who had planned the destruction of Lincoln, took charge of him. They intensified his preju-dices, fanned his resentment into brighter flame, and for a long period he was a malga-spirit, hovering near the earth-plane, "seek-ing rest, but finding none." "Sixteen years after Lincoln's death, Gar-field, too, was shot. Who the spirits were that influenced the weak Guiteau to commit his causeless crime, we know not. They were, however, likely to share the same prejudices that, swayed the luckless Booth, and it is not impossible that he was the leader of the dark awarm who shadowed Guiteau, whis-pered to him the wicked thought, and nerved his arm to kill a good man, who lived to do right, and never harmed a fellow-being in all his life. One crime is not explated by being made the victim of another. The old Calvinists were fond of saying: "Punishment is punitive, but not reforma-tory." On this principle, and on the old motto that tory." On this principle, and on the old motto that "Dead men tell no tales," they hanged and behaded murderers, and assigned the act to Black Friday. We take it that under the wise laws ef-fected by the constitution of the universe that punishment is designed to be reforma-tory, and in this way. As pain nevitably follows in the long run and the set of the transfer of the set of the principle, and proceed to adapt their per-sonal doings to natural law, and thus enter and the set of reforming themselves. This inevitably follows in the long run inte task of reforming themselves. This inevitable sequence—that good acts produce good effects, and bad acts produce by odd effects, and bad acts produce by odd effects, and bad acts produce by odd effects, and bad acts of free moral agents in the universe narrow its man-fiest is the universe narrow its man-fiest in the universe narrow its man-festation. But as good is the final good offl, we may rest assured that the working lowe of the universe is infinite. All that you and I, Booth and Guiteau, need is to seek to reform ourselves by the natural and logical process of squaring our-elves with the laws that we see to be ef-tective in the longoings of the universe, of which we are a tiny part. As to Sicola Tesla, he is preaching a formal generit." Tesla and every true scientist is not seeking to create natural laws, and then try to make the universe wing in ac-tordance with them. They know that those lawe attended by wise spirits who are inter-tested in such investinations. Tranklin was a mere tryn while on the arthe-flaw. But is dendroton do. Tranklin tried to find out Nature's mode ind his adherence and adaptation to the idvary. When he got out of his field by boyr, the was interested in the adaptation to the inverse to conform to their while and their conception of what a God ought to do. Tranklin tried to find out Nature's mode in his adherence and adaptation to the inves to conform to their while on the arth tricity to even octer actuates here. So Franklin and many another savant of the olden time visit the laboratories of Tesla, and Edison, and the other great practical sci-estists of this day, communicate the knowl-edge they have attained in higher realms by stamping it on spaceptible mortal brains, and thus advance usen in the knowledge which is the true savior of the world. Yours for humanity and for spirituality, Abby A. Judson.

Mary Andrews,

This illustrious and typical medium has been the modest agent for the most reliable materializations, attended with the most ex-alted influences, of any that I have known. Thirty years ago Moravia, N. Y., was called the "Meeca of Modern Spiritualism," where lawyers, jadges, doctors, clergymen, college professors, and students of science, from all the most exaiting experiences in those seances, which bore testimony to the high spiritual character of those conducting the phenomena. Mary Andrews was the first medium that ever pained public attention, through whom the clear recognition of the faces seen was so universally acknowledged, and the volces, and messages, so completely confirmed and estab-lished the identity of the materialized form, and of all that has since been developed. I know of none that so completely satisfies the highest claims of materialization, and face to face communication with visible im-mortals, as were realized for 20 years or more, through the modest, but marvellous mediumship of Mary Andrews of Moravia, N. Y. For a decade or more alle has been but little known to the reading public, and for the past three of four years when has been in spite of the best medical skill, until Sun-day, Jan. 20, 1901, at 9.30 p. m., her spirit was freed from the fish, and received into the world of light, from which so many bless-ings have been bestowed upon the world through her agency. The funcal scrices-appointed for Tuesday, Jan. 22, in order t-carry out her wishes and have a representa-tive Spiritual speaker to conduct the last rites. A large audience assembled to pay the last tribute of respect to the wormany whose life had been a credit to her sex, and to society, and the faith she represented; and whose memory is hallowed with the love of many thousands who have shared the blessings of her mediumship, and the coa-fidence of her friendship. She leaves a husband, three daughters, and five grandchildren, all living in Moravia, in loving accord.

INCIDENTS.

INCIDENTS. INCIDENTS. At one time when some carpenter work was in progress in an upper room, Mary list-lessly approached a table, picked up a pen-cil and wrote "Firel". They hastened to the upper room and found a blaze on the floor, where the children had gathered sharingss and started a bonfire! It had burned deeply into the floor, and in a few moments would have been beyond coatrol. At another time while living in the home on the hill Mr. Keeler had about a thousand pounds of choice wool, worth a dollar per pound. It was in a square inclosure inside the barn. Mary was awakened in the night by a warning voice, and called to Mr. Keeler saying thieves were after his wool. He hastened to the barn, found the door opened and as he went in two men escaped by the back door. They were at work with a plek and hammer at the fastenings to the wool room, but had not succeeded in getting any of the wool when Mr. Keeler appeared, to their great surprise, and spolled their plans. Thus it appears that spirits do, sometimes, interest themselves in the affairs of this world to protect property and serve justice. Lyman C, Howe.

Life Story of the Speckled Hen who Lived Through the Galveston Flood.

Lived Through the chartestor Flood. For the children's story for the children's department of the Banner of Light? Well, I am only an old speckled hen. My mother was a resident of Chambers Contry, Texas, on the coast near Galveston, and there I was born. My mother was nearly white with a collarethe of drab and black. My father, who was raised in Central Texas, came to Galves-ton and then across the bay to Chambers County, was a speckled Plymouthrock, and I "took after" him as pirks so often do-"take after" their father. There were eight other chicks, some black, some white, and two speckled, also five guineas, grew up with me. These guineas were very interesting to me. and one became my boon companion. While yet small I manifested quite a tal-the guinea doubles had much to do with this, and I advise (if advice be accepted) had you become infinate, as association has much to do with forming character. My mother was very proud of me, and, though contrary to usual rule, often sang with me between the clacks which dames of our family constantly repeat to keep their brood together; and by projec had attracted the attention of the eight corn, beans, etc., for us. He would often call then all was livel on the farm and raised corn, beans, etc., for us. He would often call the shidren, who lived with him to bear me and I was a three why head form side to do do be and I was a lively when they camp set of the neighbers when they can due to the didtenet when when the children mored away (to Galveston, L head), may binding for the neighbors when they came, and their attention was called to me and my voice. I was scarcely grown when the children mored away (to Galveston, I heard), and we were undisturbed save by the old gendleman who often insisted on us fowls staying off certain parts of the farm. The winter was mild. I didn't mind the cool nights, sometimes with a little lee, although a companion of mize (younger than I), who was rather delicate, froze her feet. The summer was lovely. Twice crowds of people from Galveston came to see the old gendleman, and they admired my speckled frock and were always glad to hear me sing. Early in September the old gendleman and they admired my speckled frock and were always glad to hear me sing. Early in September the old gendleman aced to move to Galveston. We nearly all decided to go, but a few who preferred the country, went to a neighbors, near by. I was delighted, for I had always wanted to sine in the city. The old gendleman trips to Galveston. We had here in Galveston only a few days, which were count to which were the was rating, and water so high that we were on the top perch. We were not a feight of September, but so the shift. Mean they was rather the print of the system of the data was a start be claveston. We had here in Galveston only a few days, which were nowing the wind commercel blowing and by dawk a burricame was rating, and water so high that we were on the top perch. We were not a first days to danger, but so one we were compelled to get on floating boxes to keep abore water, and I almost wishel haves a duck, such as liter don, the was mained withough the water so long. The roof blew off, torrents of rain "wet us to the skin," and not long after dark, the set of the such was the long for read was the such was the such was the such as the old for the sax the such was the such as the old for the sax the such was the such was the such was a dated.

It was said to hear e cries of those caught under the wreck, do soon they were drowned. We on top ald scarcely hold, the rain beat so hard d the wind was so fierce. Soon the water t so high that with a desperate effort I got to the base of a raised cistera, and there clang all night in the howling wind and thing waves. listening to death shricks of lekens, cats, dogs and people. The morning brought a and sight. All my apanions were drowned save two, that re injured so they lived only a few days, e old gendleman had their bodies buried, concluded that since they enjoyed hearing sing when they were all gone, than to sing or of the songs which they liked best, so I rehed myself on the ruins and sang at the ord my orice while the buried starking ce. perched myselt on the rules and any was taking place. Day after day I sang as best I could until all the people who cume to see the old gen-tileman called me the "Singing Hen." I gree tired of the scene where all my companions had left me in such a said manner, and where their bodies lay, so the old gentleman took me about three blocks avery, where there the three bodies lay, so the old gentleman took me about three blocks avery, where there the other chickens, also a girl and two little loys. My volce is all right again, and I am enjoy-ing myself as best could be expected under the discumatances. I hope my life's story will pleake yon, and that you will get some good from it. I find that the world likes singing far better than crying, and that we get along best by doing each little hing before m and them be larger duties are serer difficult. religious altars are shrinking away from our cluvebes and hovering over the people's fre-sides. Philosophy is becoming the subjective mood of the scientist. Flatform speakers have been prover to draw-the very name of missionary has a frankful sound and has become a synonym of misrale. Vicarlous inathema is a human trick: the gods, jare dethroad is favor of men and women who are turning their own ethical solis and pest-ling where they will. The printing press is here to stay, for mark gody, and Spiritual-ism, in spite of all, is neither dying, declin-ing nor in desuerade, but is only phasing and becoming more virile as an applied science of the mind. And now a last word: It is said, congre-rations distike being taken to task for par-ticular sins, and this is true, but I find from my own observation, it makes a vast differ-ence what minister engages in these moral fascilations. Will you or I, or anyone bear patiently compare from a person (even though he be a minister) who may be mor-ally an inferior? I find example more im-pressive than precept.
