

VOL. 95.

Banner of Light Publishing Co., 904 Dartmouth St., Boston, Mass.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1904.

THE NEED OF CHANGE.

James Russell Lowell.

The time is ripe, and rotten ripe for change; The ine is ripe, and rotten ripe for change; Then let it come. I have no dread of what. Is called for by the instinct of mankind; Nor think I that God's world will fall apart Because we tear a parchment more or less. Truth is eternal, but her effluence, With endless change is fitted to the hour; Her mirror is turned forward to reflect The promise of the future, not the past.

ThePsychology of the New Thought.

Salvarona.

In exact proportion to the spiritual grandeur. moral loftiness and ethical magnificence of the New Thoughter's private character, will be the danger of allowing one's spiritual and divine sentimental explanations of the New Thought to take the place of severe, patient, psychological analysis.

Paradoxical as it sounds, the more profoundly mystical and splendidly religious one's nature is, the less disposed are we to be patient with the contemplation of explanatory classes of empirical or ideal psychological law. Like a beautiful child, rushing with open arms to the bosom of its mother, before its little task is done, the delicate spiritual beauty of the New Thoughter's soul causes the New Thoughter to fly to the divine explanatory aspect of things, long before it has taken the time to patiently learn. even the elementary principles of university psychology as a partial explanation of what the New Thought really means. If we are to believe that the New Thought and its therapeutical success is due to the operation of a hitherto unnoticed psychological law, deriving its necessary relation from the psychological nature of things, how is the university professor of psychology to understand the psychological nature of this law? Does the therapeutical success of the New Thought depend upon the operation of the psychological law of generic mental images? Is this the secret?

If its successes consist in the reduction of a large number of facts to the single formula of telepathic suggestion, but without any rational psychological explanation, then the New Thought is to be considered as an empirical psychological law?

Obviously, its successful montal thera-peutics is to be classed in the category of what the university psychological professor would call psychological law, viz: a relation between the sensation aroused by suggestion, and telepathy; and the images and loftier states reproduced, as a consequence, in the patient's consciousness, through the law of conservation of impressions.

The reason why the university professor of psychology has not explained the general psychological principles of New Thought has been because of the irrationality of its explanation, as urged by so many of its psychologically unenlightened practitioners. The popular atmosphere is thick with all sorts of conflicting explanations; and each explanation must be patted on the back (because, of course, it is infallible) in order to please each individual explanationist. Otherwise one's life is in danger. Seriously, one is sneered at and scorned in pity by them.

It is obvious that the final, correct, psy-strictly the psychological aspect of the New Thought; not its religions. Hence, it seems doubly horrible to us (that after all our as-pirations, and clinging to the Divine) that we should ultimately be compelled to actually crucify our own transcendent Divine Concept (of the New Thought, or of Spiritualism) and have finally delivered unto us the wicked Barabas Concept of the analytical university psychologist. At such moments the earth seems to reel from under our feet. To be forced, after all, to descend from the heights of our own-divine ideal of explanation, and to patiently begin to study the laws of simple mental processes all over again seems as if God had actually and maliciously arranged the universe to fool us.

of psychology is with the laws governing

This stupendous lesson, in spiritual humility, wherein we have to abandon our own Divine Concepts of explanation concerning spirits, and the New Thought, in favor of the evolution of the principal concepts of the comparative and (experimental psychologists of the universities concerning these things. is one of the hardest to learn in life. It seems like the malicious deception, of some foul occult spirit, that has attempted our ruin, as a horrible homage to their ghastly vanity. If the phrase, The Law of the Psychology of the New Thought, is to ever be than a vague term in the mind, it more must be made to correspond to a direct condensation of the psychological facts; and an ideal simplification, or statement, of-its unalterable theoretical laws. When it has reached this analytical stage, the dignity of its analytically fearless philosophy will commend it to the loftier attention of the average university psychologist.

Joan of Arc and Her Spirit Guides.

E. Wake Cook.

An Address delivered before the Members and Asso claise of the London Spiritualist Alliance in the rooms of the Royal Society of British Artists. on the evening of Friday, January 20th; the President, Mr. E. Dawson Rogers, in the chair. Abridge from Light, London, Eng.

In the whole range of history there is no figure quite so remarkable as that of Joan of Arc. Christ had many things in common with the Buddha and other founders of the great geligions; but the character and the history of the Maid of Orleans are alike unique. There is the strange conjunction of soldier and spotless saint; of consummate generalship and statesmanlike insight, and the ability to baffle a horde of hostile ecclesiastics plying all forensic arts to trick and entrap her; and these amazing qualities were combined in a simple village maiden still in her teens, who, after serving France and crowning her King, begged to be allowed to return to her mother and her household duties! Such a character is without a parallel. The written history of this marvelous Maid is equally without a counterpart. It comes to us with every word attested on oath. Unlike all other histories of earth's guiding stars, it stands in its naked purity, unclouded by the legendary mists which gather about the mountain peaks.

The history of the Maid that has been preserved is as remarkable as the Maid herself. She was condemned after a trial of extraorchological theory of the New Thought is still dinary length, in which she was questioned and re-questioned on every point concerning herself, her work, and her Voices. As she was widely regarded as a heaven-sent savior of France, it was absolutely necessary, for the justification of the English and their adherents, that the popular faith in the Maid should be confounded by proving her, before an ecclesiastical court, to be a witch, a heretic, or an agent of the devil. This trial, which procured her condemnation and death, was so infamous in its illegality that the Pope. twenty-five years afterwards, granted the prayer of Joan's mother and brothers that the case should be re-examined. This was done. and all available witnesses who could throw light on the life and work of the Maid were examined, even as to the details of her early years. This trial reversed the finding of the first, and passed the Sentence of Rehabilitation. The records of both trials have been preserved; thus, providentially, we have a very full history of Joan of Arc, much of it from her own lips, and every word is attested on oath. So, as I said at first, the written history of "La Pucelle," the Maid of Orleans, is as remarkable as the Deliverer of France herself. These valuable documents have recently been rendered into English, and edited by Mr. T. Douglas Murray, and they are one of the finest and most reliable spiritualistic records in the whole range of history. Joan was born on the Feast of the Epipliany, in 1412, of peasant parents, at Domremy, in Lorraine, a borderland village, a sort of Nazareth, from which no good thing could come. It had its haunted well, and its fairy tree, on which the children loved to hang gar lands, and where they sang songs to the "little people." At the back of all were great legend-decked woods, so stimulating to the imagination of children. The spirit world seemed nearer then, and little Joan early be-gan her dreams. But she was an exemplary child in every way, cheerfully doing all household work and taking her turn in tending the flocks and herds. She was intensely plous, loving all things connected with religion and assiduously attending all its ordinances, so much so that her companions bantered her about it.

Joan was thirteen when she saw her first vision of one of those "sun-clothed" children of light whose brightness outshone the summer day. It was Saint Michael. She was much frightened at first but soon received great comfort from him, and was told to be good and to go often to church. She said that she saw him before her eyes, and that he was quite surrounded by the Angels of Heaven. Saint Catherine and Saint Margaret were her most constant advisers, and she describes them as adorned with beautiful crowns, very rich and precious. Speaking of Saint Michael she said: "I saw him, and the accompanying Angels, with my bodily eyes, as well as I see you; when they went from me I wept. I should have liked to have been taken with them." The first messages were to urge her to be always good, but she was soon told of her great mission. She plended her youth and inexperience, but it was gradually borne in upon her that it was because of her very lowliness that she was chosen as an instrument of God. She said later, that all was by His command, and that had it not been by His Will she would sooner have had her body torn in sunder than have undertaken such a task. Her Voices continued to instruct her, and on arriving at the age of seventeen she was commanded to go to France and begin her work. She was told to go first to Robert de Baudricourt. Governor of Vaucouleurs, who would give her men-at-arms for an escort, and he would send her to the King. She went, accompanied by her uncle, saw the Governor, stated her divine mission and her need of an escort. But the Governor thought her demented, and told her uncle to take her home and have her whipped. By command of her Voices she went again to the Governor, with a like result. But a prophecy of Merlin's was generally called to mind, that the kingdom lost by a woman (Queen Isabel) would be restored by a maid from Lorraine. Enthusiasm grew, two young noblemen were converted to her cause, and swore they would themselves escort her to the King. Joan rebuked the Governor for the delay, saying that France had need of her, as that day a battle had been lost. Some days later the news arrived of the lost battle and convinced the Governor of her divine powers. So he gave her the letter and a sword and said to her, "Go to the King, come of it what may." The people made her a man's suit, a horse was provided, and with the two knights and a small escort a start was made. Traveling through a hostile country, mostly by night, at the end of eleven days they arrived at Chinon, where the uncrowned King was. She was at last seen by Charles, whom she recognized by aid of her Voices, and gave him signs which much impressed him. She told him she was sent by God to raise the siege of Orleans, and to conduct him to Rheims to be crowned. Charles was loath to take any steps without further and fuller inquiry. He desired Joan to be thoroughly examined at Poitiers before a full board of ecclesiastics and lawyers, under the Archbishop of Rheims. For three weeks this simple maiden answered all the questions of these learned Doctors, like one inspired, telling them there was more in God's book than in theirs. When asked for a sign she said: "I have not come to Poitiers to show signs and do miracles.' Send me to Orleans and you shall have signs enough. Give me men-at-arms-few or many-and let me go!" The Archbishop finally reported in her favor, and advised Charles to take the proffered help, as it offered the only hope. The King, who had been much impressed by her revelations, decided to place her at the head of his army. He had the celebrated suit of silvered armor made for her, and she had the famous symbolical banner painted, which played such a conspicuous part in the events which followed. She was provided with a full military household, and she joined the army which was gathering at Blois. The old generals were quite willing to benefit by the enthusiasm, the new life inspired by the Maid, but had no idea of taking her generalship seriously. She directed them to guide her straight to Orleans, but as they had been demoralized by the ever-victorious English, they adopted the more cautious tactics, and brought her before Orleans on the wrong side of the river! On discovering the trick Joan gave those generals a bit of her mind, and they soon learned that the wisest head among them was foolish compared with the heaven-guided Maid. The army could do thirsting for her destruction, the simple grannothing; the boats were far down the river deur of her character shone out more brightly and the wind was adverse, so that they could not come up to ferry the provisions across to the starving people in the town. Joan sent the army back to Blois, the nearest bridge by which-it could cross to the Orleans side of the river, prophesying that the wind would change, which it did. The boats came up, and Joan and some of the generals went with a convoy of provisions into Orleans in spite of the overwhelming force of the English.

On Joan's army returning from Blois, she went out to meet it, and all passed into Orleans, right under the hostile guns, the English being too much dazed to molest them. Then Joan, with her marvelous dash and go, and in spite of all the cautious counsels of her marshals, attacked those terrible forts one after another, and carried them all in a few days. On one occasion she was wounded, as she had long foretold; but, although she cried like a girl, she continued to fight until the bastille was taken. She received the wound while mounting a scaling-ladder. Whenever her men recoiled from their terrible task, she would put herself at their head with her white banner, and this gave new life and courage to her men, and seemed to paralyze her foes. What all the generals of France had pronounced impossible, that girl had done in four days! After the fall of the great fortress the Tourelles, Talbot and his English evacuated all the other bastilles, and left the French masters of all. Thus was raised the great siege of Orleans!

After reporting these glorious results to Charles, and after a battle with his timorous councillors, Joan was permitted to begin the second great task of her mission. This was the reduction of the strongholds of Loire. This amazing campaign, lasting only a few days, ended with the momentous battle of Patay, which broke the back of the English power; and, as Joan herself said, it was a blow from which they would not recover for a thousand years.

Then followed the third great movement. She induced the vacillating King to place himself in charge of the army, and then began the celebrated "Bloodless March" to Rheims to consummate her achievements by the crowning of her King. Although the march was through hostile country, such was the power of her name that the great towns threw open their gates on her approach, and Rheims was reached without a blow being struck. Everywhere Joan moved between adoring multitudes, eager to kiss her feet, or even the footprints of her horse. At last she attained the dearest wish of her heart, the culminating point of her angel-guided mission; she saw her King crowned in great pomp, under the shadow of her own victorious banner, with all the ancient rights and ceremonies, without which no one could be a real King in the eyes of the priest-governed people. No statesman in the whole of France had discerned the true significance of this step, and the momentous results which must follow. This was reserved for the village maiden and her spirit-guides. But it was seen later by Bedford and the Burgundians, and one of the objects of the great trial was to prove that Charles had been crowned by the aid of a witch, and so rob him of the sanctity with which these ceremonies had surrounded him.

Her Voices ordered her to stay at St. Denis, but being wounded she was taken elsewhere, against her wish. On recovering she took part in some minor movements, and vas finally captured by the Burgundians. Whether or not this was through the treachery which she foresaw, and which was the only thing she feared, it is impossible to say. She was taken as a prisoner to the camp of the Duke of Burgundy, and was placed in prison, while the Duke waited for the expected ransom. But neither France nor her wretched King made any move to save her, and, after two attempts at escape, she was finally ransomed by the infamous Pierre Cauchon, Bishop of Beauvais, a miserable tool of the English, for a prince's ransom. She was taken to Rouen, in the heart of the English power, thrown into a dungeon, heavily ironed, and always kept in the presence of several brutal, common soldiers. Forty or fifty ecclesiastics were got together from various parts, especially selected for their English sympathies. One of these, a smoothtongued villain, was allowed access to Joan's prison disguised as a cobbler. He represented himself as a priest from her own part of the country and a sympathizer with her. By this cruel trick he got her to pour out her full heart in confession. As secrets of the confessional could not be directly used, the Bishop placed himself and other witnesses at hole in the wall so that every word was heard, and the information thus gained was used to guide the rathless cross-examination to which the poor girl was exposed. This is but a specimen of the cruel arts and illegalities by which an unjust verdict was obtained. When the friendless girl was brought face to face with this packed jury of inquisitors, whole Court at once. Every forensic trick, every dialectical art, was used to trip or entrap her without avall. Profound theological questions were sprung on her which would have puzzled many of the churchmen themselves to answer without impaling themselves on the horns of a dilemma. For six long days the battle raged between the one and the many, the unadvised prisoner baffling all her cruel judges. The populace began to laugh over the Bishop's repeated defeats, so, for very shame, the next nine examinations, were held in private. These had like results; and all the examinations were only preliminary fishings to obtain matter to bring against her at the Trial in Ordinary, which lasted almost as long.

NO. 1

She was condemned to perpetual imprisonment in the ecclesiastical prisons. She was given woman's attire, and forbidden to resume her man's dress. Then every promise was shamelessly violated, and she was sent back to her old dungeon to be always in the presence of brutal soldiers.

The English were indignant with the Bishop for having allowed them to be balked of their prey; but he assured them that he had her in a trap from which she could not escape. During the night her woman's garments were taken away and the forbidden man's clothes substituted. She had no option, and so resumed the prohibited dress. This was a fatal relapse; she was taken to the market place, condemned by the gloating Bishop, excommunicated, and handed over-to the secular authorities for the death-sentence. But before this was given she was seized by the soldiers and hurried to the dreadful stake. On the terrible news being conveyed to Joan in her prison she momentarily broke down, and had her own Gethsemane agony, but recovered her self-possession. bravely reaffirmed the truth of her revelations, and died as worthily as she had lived; and one of her last thoughts was for the personal safety of the priest who was holding the cross before her eyes. She died calling on the name of Jesus, and it is said that this hallowed name was written that day in tongues of flame!

We English figure badly in this business, but we had seen the prize, striven for through a hundred years of war, dashed from our hands just as we were about to grasp it, by this heaven-sent Maid whom we thought a daughter of the devil. If our share of this great crime was bad, the part played by the French was even worse. What of that wretched King to whom the Maid had given a crown and a kingdom, during all those months while the Duke of Burgundy was waiting for her to be ransomed? the French people who idolized the Maid as a savior of France? Where were they, and where were their sous and francs which should have been poured forth for her deliverance? And what of Pierre Cauchon, Bishop of Beauvais, and his crew of cringing ecclesiastics, whose villainy was made the more despicable by the slime of hypocrisy which covered all? No wonder that outraged Nature brought most of them to an untimely end!

That her Guides should have appeared to her as Saints whose names were familiar to her was to be expected: to have appeared in any other form would have defeated their That these great object. spirits in the making. People practice thousands of helpful things they cannot explain. The philosopher is the great explainer. My kind friend, Dr. Albion W. Small, of the University of Chicago, observes, that physicians practiced fumigation of infected places, and with a certain degree of success, long before they had an approximate explanation of the propagation of disease.

In a similar fashion, the metaphysician of the New Thought is practicing his mental therapeutics. He is chiefly concerned with its utility; not its philosophy. The university professor of psychology, on the other hand, is concerned (first of all) with the sense or ponsense of its assumed philosophy: not its utility. He ignores the therapeutic facts adduced by the New Thoughter; because .the New Thoughter's explanations will not hold water. The splendor of the New Thoughter's religiously ideal sentiment is made (by the New Thoughter) to take the place of severe, painstaking, psychophysical processes of analysis. And sentiment is not explanation, He shall be a god to me who can accurately define; not who can be superbly spiritual in their imperial divine sentiment. And, as before observed by me, the danger of allowing one's lofty, divine sentimental explanations to take the place of the psychological, analytical explanations of the New Thought is greater in proportion to the rising religious loftiness and spiritual magnificence of the New Thoughter's actual character. The dor of the religious sentiment unavoidably drives one to a synthetic, unanalytical, worshiping view of facts; not to analysis. And it only by analysis that laws are discovered. This may be sad; but it is true. The business of the university professor materializations is evident from the fact that Joan saw Michael accompanied by a great light and by a heavenly host-showing that her spiritual sight was opened, that she was clairvoyant.

The Spiritualist's explanation is the only one which covers the facts and does not land us in insuperable difficulties. Even if the visions were "subjective" they were discerned by the Maid's opened spiritual vision, or were caused telepathically by the spirits who claimed to be her Guides. And we may fairly regard Joan of 'Arc as the greatest medium, the grandest Spiritualist of all. If she brought us no new revelation of Truth, what a glorious revelation she herself was of the possibilities of human nature when in touch with the spirit world! She was the "Personification of Patriotism," and of the extremes of sweet simplicity with the highest grandeur of soul, worthy to be thought of with Him who is regarded as the Great Exemplar; worthy not only of the impending canonization of the Vatican, but of the more glorious canonization in Humanity's innermost heart of hearts.

The Christian says to himself: I am saved; and to the infidel: You are lost. Saved to what? Lost to what? Saved where? where? Of all the foolish pride, the pride of salvation is the foolishest, the means st. the cruelest. The Christian may be narrowminded, close-fisted, intolerant and unjust, and yet because he believes certain religious statements he is saved. We prefer to be lost with a kind heart, generous feelings and noble than at almost any period of her stormy career. She was steadfast as a rock; some-times against the storming of nearly the out in life.—Boston Investigator.

PROGRESSION.

Annis Enoution Anman.

Within our minds is one conclusion fixed, Not born of vain imaginings, And that no warped opinion can restrict, That 'is our right to peer into The unseen world, and view the bright be yond.

If we but guide our straying feet With heartfelt truth, and love, are ever fond Of thoughts and deeds that will unfold

Our spirit's grandest purpose, we shall know The angels who more truly live, We have but to improve this life, and grow In graces that adorn the soul. We know the unseen ones may far outrun Our lagging feet; to reach their plane We must maintain the strife for work un-done.

Would saint or sinner bar our way? Would saint or sinner bar our way? Are we the worse for spirit cognizance? May not our souls in sunlight bask? E'en Christ himself did not forbid the glance, But bent our thoughts to things above, And told us he would surely come again. Proving the truth beyond a doubt That there are many heartcalls, not in vain Sent to us from the world of love. A subtle something is the sure response Within our eager, anxious souls About which augels throw a firmer sconce 'Gainst gloomy doubts, and sterner fear, And in this truth is one incentive grand, Our fainting hearts to ruide and cheer.

Our fainting hearts to guide and cheer, that with the unseen ones we yet may stand And in their presence learn to know That

And in their presence learn to know. That progress there, as here, is proved a - power. Our souls are like all natural growth, A fair, symmetrical, and budding flower, The hand of Death is tender too, It starts the spirit bud to bloom anew, A rare unfoldment is the end. Nay think not that we covet death, nor view It as a monster dread, we feel The force of gradual growth and long to

The force of gradual growth, and long to

The force of gradual growth, and long to pace Still nearer to the unseen ones. The touch of death will leave of fear no trace. Death gives a royal robe, aside The old one fails. Death is a summer shower That wooes the soul bud to new life. And with uplifted face will burst in flower. A friend is Death in homely garb Who leads us toward Elysian fields where we Through progress' mighty law are fit To know the grandeurs of eternity. Our Father does not love us less Because so human that the thought of eyes, Dear spirit eyes, can move us to More earnest work, and fault that in us lies Seems pitful, and fills us with A deep and constant sense of burning shame, Because those loving eyes can see, And grieve for our misdeeds. He does not blame

And grieve for our misdeeds. He does not blame The one who holds a truth, and proves It good to cheer this earthly biding place. There is no call within this life That fills us so with pure, and saintly grace As knowledge that our angels know Are conscious of each life and every deed. And if we will accept the truth The converse sweet will prove a royal meed. Why should we aliens be to truth? Unveil your hearts, and let your lives resound With knowledge that the worlds commune, Nor make your silence prove you aliens

Nor make your silence prove you aliens bound.

Letter from W. J. Colville.

On Monday, February 1, at 10:30 a. m., I bade a reluctant and decidedly hurried fare-well to beautiful California, where I had just completed a delightful three months' sojourn. I crossed the continent via Ogden, Denver, St. Louis, and Jacksonville, to Lake Helen, I crossed the continent via Ogden, Denver, St. Louis, and Jacksonville, to Lake Helen, Florida, in a little less than five and one-half days. The weather was beautiful all the way, and the train service via the Burlington Ronte and Illinois Central, left nothing to be desired. I was really glad to see snow, and when a friend met me at St. Louis, where I had nearly three hours changing space, and took me through the snow-laid streets to dinner in an excellent restaurant, and back to the Union Station, I did not feel altogether like compassionat-ing the dwellers in neighborhoods where good northerly winter weather has prevailed, though I freely admit that the Illinois Central was all that could be desired. Trains departed and arrived exactly on schedule time, so though I allowed no margin, I ar-rired at my destination in ample time to meet my engagement, which-opened on Sunday, February 7th, the day of the opening of the Southern Cassadaga, as the Camp at Lake Helen is called. The weather was quite ideal for that latitude, though much warmer than in the sections of Oalifornia which I have recently visited. Pine trees which are very abundant, give Lake Helen a fine repu-tation as a health resort for all who dislike or far the rigors of a New England winter. No more genial situation could well be found. When I first visited Florida in 1896, I heard be found. When I first visited Florida in 1896 I heard complaints of frost and frozen oranges on every hand, but the tide has now completely changed from adversity to prosperity, a pleas-ing fact which is clearly indicated by the large number of new cottages in course of erection, and the general spirit of well-to-do-ness which has completely ousted the old sentiment of poverty. Spiritualism is treated with great respect on this peninsula. The official guide books allude to Spiritualists with the same respect which is justly shown to all denominations and in this circumstance, we can certainly trace the good effects of organization, steadily maintained for years in the face of many difficulties. The Bond family of Deland are some highly gifted ladies, and has charge of various entertainments. Sunday, February 7th, has been pronounced a red letter day at Lake Helen. There were three largely attended meetings which com-menced at 10.30 a. m., 3 and 7.30 p. m. The fine auditorium was beautiful, and the decora-tors deserve extremely high praise for having converted it into a perfect bower of loveliness. All the workers participated in the exercises, hough the ilon's share of the speaking was assigned to the present correspondent. The audieuces were excellent in all respects, and the work of the opening day. On Monday, February 8, I began my syste-matic course by consecutive lessons in spiritual science and philosophy at 10 a. m. There was a farge audience of interested students, many of whom asked questions of vital moment con-cerning practical methods for aiding in the work of human progress. At 2 p. m. a very interesting Conference was held, at which Dr. Hilligoss very genially presided. Mrs. Dr. Buchanan and many other well known literary lights are in the encampment. Mrs. Stevens is helping a great many inquir-ers by her spiritual connections. Mr. Colby, the pioneer of the camp, looks well in health, and well satisfied with the fulfilment of the isona very problematical. All in all, it is best just to say that this season's work at Lake Helen is progressing most successfully, and he widely representative character of the numerous campers and visitors keeps alive a continuous stream of dowing interest.

the widely representative character of the numerous campers and visitors keeps alive a continuous stream of flowing interest. Many colored people attend the meetings, which they seem to highly appreciate. The presiding officers give them cordial welcome, and make them feel thoroughly at home. Though personally I have no desire to live permanently in a tropical or semi-tropical region, I can thoroughly recommend Lake Helen to all who wish to live pleasantly and economically among cultured, large-hearted people, in a zone where icicles are never pend-ant, and where sunstrokes also are unknown. A little way off the camp ground is the hotel and sanitarium of Dr. Wepoter, which is fitted up with every appliance for health and comfort. The hostelry is abundantly supplied comfort. The hostelry is abundantly supplied with all those modern conveniences, such as good bath tubs and abundant running water, hot and cold, which in these days many peo-ple have come to regard as necessaries, rather than as luxuries of life. In some respects, Florida' resembles that part of Australia known as Queensland, and extended travel shows me wherever I go.

part of Australia known as Queensland, and extended travel shows me wherever I go, that the more nature does for places, the more man is apt to leave undone. The solid comfort to be enjoyed indoors in a good Eng-lish or thrifty North American home is quite unknown in all districts where out-door life can be enjoyed almost without intermission. About twenty miles from Loke Helen is anknown in an districts where out-door me crn be enjoyed almost without intermission. About twenty miles from Lake Helen is New Smyrna, which is a decidedly beautiful resort, as the ocean is only one mile away from the railway station, and there is a good hotel on the beach. Train scrvice is good but not very frequent, so we are a little out of the great world in this sylvan retreat. I ex-pect to lecture in Deland and in Jacksonville before going to New York, which city I shall be very pleased to see again, for despite all the attractions of a country settlement, I scarcely think I shall ever become indifferent to life in a great metropolis. Though I have not been a regular contribu-tor of late to the Question and Answer De-partment, I hope all the readers of the Ban-ner will remember that it is not discontinued. All letters sent to me containing queries for All letters sent to me containing queries for reply are promptly forwarded to me. Every-body is praising the "Banner" this season. Lake Helen, Fla.

Further Personal Experiences.

David P. Cook.

After learning with surprise and great as-tonishment that I could talk freely with some intelligence that appeared to be that of my-wife, who had but so shortly passed away, I was filled with delight that knew no bounds. I talked with that intelligence at any time of the night or day, and found it ever present and at my side at all times. I thought this indeed grand, for I found every thought of mine was at once known and answered by her. My happiness knew no bounds and I was so filled with delight that I wanted everybody to know it as well as myself. I soon found that the people did not believe it, and the harder I tried to convince them the more they disbelieved what I said. They soon began to think I was out of my right mind, and the children stared at me as though I was some monster to shun. It was not the children alone, either, for many that were After learning with surprise and great as-

I was some monster to shun. It was not the children alone, either, for many that were children forty or fifty years ago were in-clined to shun me. Many left me alone through fear of being in the company of one not sane. That was the result of trying to find someone who would rejoice with me in my good fortune. Well, the same intelli-gence was ever apparently at my side, and very sociable indeed at all times, and always very kind and pleasant. very kind and pleasant.

very kind and pleasant. To me it appeared that my wife had nearly gone from my sight, for I could talk freely with her on any subject that I wished to talk on, but when I asked a question I could not with her on any subject that I wished to talk on, but when I asked a question I could not get a very satisfactory answer, for it was eraded in some kind but pleasant reply that appeared to satisfy me, though it left me no wiser, unless it was something that I already knew. I was unable to get any new informa-tion on any subject and if I pressed her for an answer, she would say, "Father, dear, you must try and be patient and wait until you are more developed. Then, when you are suffi-ciently developed, I will answer any question that you may wish to ask, but until then, please try and be as patient as it is possible for you to be under the conditions, for the condi-tions that separate us are so great, and you are wholly undereloped in regard to this life, that you so little understand and so little comprehend, that I cannot tell you these things; so please do not ask me any questions for I cannot answer you for some time, but I will do the best I can to please you as I have ever done and ever shall do while we are separated. Now, father dear, if all is not to your satisfaction do not blame me, for I shall ever and always do the best I can for your present and future happiness, so please do not ask any more questions." My great desire to know more of this, to present and future happiness, so please do not ask any more questions." My great desire to know more of this, to me, most wonderful of wonders, kept me often asking questions, but with no better rosults. Words are inadequate to describe my feelings when I tried so hard to learn more and could not, and I would often coax and plead to be told in a manner which she could not with-stand when in her body. But with no better results, for she would gently chide me and say. "Father, please do not coax me, for were it possible for me to answer your questions I say, "Father, please do not coax me, for were it possible for me to answer your questions I would do so without your asking me, so please don't do so, for it only makes me feel bad because I am not able to answer you and do for you as I always did." Thus it has con-tinued up to the present time, although I have been told some most astonishing facts in regard to the future life that appeared all too much for me, as I could not believe what was told, for it was to me all too incredible. But I find there is really more truth in what I have been told than I could ever hope for, or ever dream of in my wildest imagination, and today, and during the past nine months,

e highly gifted ladies, and has charge of

I have enjoyed the highest condition of happiness that it is possible for us to enjoy on this planet, and it appears to be on the increase all the time. What the result will be a limit to this happiness, for it is one constant round of joy and peace of mind at all times. In my waking hours I am constantly under that heavenly influence all the time, regardless of what there may be otherwise to annoy me; but there is not any annoyance connected with this influence which guides and cares for me at all times. What there may be otherwise to annoy me; but there is not any annoyance connected with this influence which guides and cares for me at all times. The second state of the secon myself writing and speaking upon subjects that to me were heretofore unknown, as many are able to testify that have known me, but that development began with the writing of my wife's name and my own in an involun-tary maaner, and from that small beginning I find myself now writing more powerful lec-tures than I ever heard or read. Now as to the troubles and trials. The talk and pleasant conversations that were at my command at all times made me believe that all would be log for me in the future. But about one week after the shaking and the talk began, after I had been in bed but a few moments, I felt the sensation of the coldest foot on the calf of my leg that I ever experienced from the genuine article. To say that I jumped violently is placing it all too mildly, for it felt just like a piece of ice, but there was no ice there nor a cold foot. What was it; do you think it was imagination or was I crazy? It certainly was the farthest thing from my mind as I lay there just fall-ing into slumber. That took place every night for about one week, and then ceased entirely. The conversations referred to had been some-times highly pleasing, and at other times quite annoying. Sometimes I was obliged to remain awake half the night through various annoyances, such as violent twitching and rolling me about, so that to sleep was imremain awake half the night through various annoyances, such as violent twitching and rolling me about, so that to sleep was im-possible and it began now to be quite inter-esting. I never felt the least fear at any time then, or since, when the troubles began to multiply. I often used to think the invis-ibles were so numerous that I tried to beat them off with a towel or anything that I could swing. After I had been kept awake for hours all would cease and I would go quietly to sleep, all unconscious of any trouble in the past or in the fature. Never, at any time, was I injured in the least men-tally or physically, as far as I am able to judge. The most kind and pleasant talk came from the one who appeared to be my wife, from the one who appeared to be my wife, and I would sit and talk and laugh at the re-marks, as far as I can form an opinion, from what I could hear and not see, was my wife. Now appears the third part, the coming of a second voice, which appeared to be that of a encouraging sign of our day. Men are be-lieving in what they believe because it points to a present heaven or hell, which they are to immediately seek or shun, as the case may be. That we can better our condition, no ionger needs proof. Tp is an assured fact, and we are persuaded that it is stupid, if not criminal, should we fail to do so. The rich must help in order that their chil-dren may enjoy in any security the wealth

The rich must help in order that their chil-dren may enjoy in any security the wealth and leisure and standing they have won. The poor must help in order that poverty may be overcome and that hard times may be no more, and that their children may have health, and a worthy purpose in living, and may not be the slaves of passion and appe-tite, and suffer the age-long drawbacks they themselves have to struggle against. The fight is on to dream nobly and to do

The fight is on to dream nobly and to do

The fight is on to dream nobly and to do grandly. One preparation for this is the spirit of goodwill, and this is what we must cultivate in an all-round way. Hate and envy must be weeded out of society as the weedes are taken from a flower garden. They are a blot on the landscape and must be got rid of some way or another. Individuals, communities and nations must learn to love each other wisely and well. We have been playing at this for ages, now it has got to be done and become the fact of our living. It is the only right and square idea of manhood. Then we must insist on a worthy ideal of public life. It is the service of society to it-self. It is the duty of the citizen to all citi-zens. It is the membership where each suf-

sen. It is the duty of the cluzen to all cli-zens. It is the membership where each suf-fers or rejoices according to the unfaithful-ness or fidelity of all concerned. What is done anywhere records itself everywhere— and we have discovered there is no escaping this

The lust for gold must be subdued and elim. The lust for gold must be subdued and elim-inated. We must reason ourselves out of the idol worship of wealth as such. We may properly ask for fine houses, clothing and food-but this blind wish for money that sounds big, must give place to the sense that manhood is the paramount thing in life, and its interests cannot be sacrificed to show and pretence. We may now devote our time and energies to making this real.

pretence. We may now devote our time and energies to making this real. Then we shall come to the higher thoughts of home. We are said to be in a scandalous state of insecurity in relation to this great bond of brotherhood. We are coming, per-haps, to see its needs and friendships more clearly, and we are to build up the idea of fidelity and reverence for it, so that marriage shall indeed be sacred in the highest way. We are after practical things in the assur-ance that if we can build a vatican with its cleven thousand rooms, we can build eleven millions of such palaces for the people. If we can have a city like Paris, we can have thou-sands on thousands just as fine, yea, and even better—in every country on the face of the earth. We are no longer scared at such dreams as these—for the better brotherhood would bring them to pass. We can eliminate poverty and crime and disease from society. Now we are playing with them so as to keen them within bounds.

We can eliminate poverty and crime and disease from society. Now we are playing with them so as to keep them within bounds. But the causes of our grief must be looked into more carefully, and we have got to put into play our powers of relification. I be-lieve man is so much of a man that when we into play our powers of relification. I be-lieve man is so much of a man that when we have demonstrated that intemperance and in-sanity and other evils can be corrected in a year and a day, that we shall hasten the day of determination, and the year will do the work. This is coming because we have had our eyes opened to the fact that it is with us to do it and to do it now. We are wanting a religion good enough for every day and that will in the Christ name tackle these evils, and make good all the good of brotherhood. It is not for the church as in any building, as it is for humanity with its immediate_of this great salvation. To have the Christ spirit is to be a brother to man right hear to us—and then as afar off as you please, even to the end of the world—for we are all one and suffer or rejoice together.

Vivisection Fiendish and Useless.

The defenders of vivisection, when they condescend to notice the protests of the ten-der-hearted, give us the comforting assur-ance that when the student flays and carves the body of a living creature, or ventures to titilate ever so gently the exposed nerves of sensation, he is very careful to know that all sensation has been overpowered by a liberal use of chloroform. It is admitted that on rare use of chloroform. It is admitted that on rare occasions living animals, commonly mere frogs, are dissected without any attempt to render them unconscious during the operation, but we are solemnly assured by those who assume to know all about it that these are rare occasions indeed and that the protest against vivisection on the ground of sympathy for the victim of it is but the gabble of senti-mental women, who know little of science and less of the jocome sensetions which living aniless of the joyous sensations which living ani-mals experience on the dissecting table under the tender manipulations of the kindhearted pelling such a recalcitrant member, for sen-timentality, if for nothing else, was apparent to the Association, as if must be to the rest of us, and they put him out without any useless ceremony. But for this grievance the world might not be the wiser for what is said to have taken place behind barred doors in the plous city of New Haven on the 18th of last August. We are to reflect that not often do these fellows fall out among them-selves on such occasions to such extent as to lead to disclosures of the secrets of their guild, and one disclosure may give us a glimpse of one ten thousandth part of the vivisection horrors that go on under our noses and are never disclosed. The operation took place, Dr. Atwood says, in a stable, and one of the surgeons undertook to demonstrate to the visiting members of the Association what he pretended was a new operation. The horse chosen for the exhibi-tion was strapped to the bare surface of a plank table, and in addition to the straps six men were employed to hold the animal by the neck. I quote from the doctor's letter in the Curant: "The horse was pulled over on the table

Courant:

Courant: "The horse was pulled over on the table at 11:05 a.m. and given no anaesthetic; the out of town veterinarian made an incision about three inches long in the horse's leg, when the struggles and groans of the poor horse began, I suggested giving the animal chloroform, but they did not and proceeded digging and picking at the leg in search of the nerve.

the nerve. "Knowing that the doctor had made his in-"Knowing that the doctor had made his in-cision in the wrong part of the leg to find the nerve, I returned to my office where I had several photographs of the same operation, taken by M Filley of this city, while horses were under chloroform, which allowed him to take a fine photograph of the operation, which was conducted with no suffering to the borse horse was conducted with no subtring to the horse. "Placing several of the photographs in my carriage I returned to show them for the benefit of all veterinarians present, as the Association meetings were supposed to be for the purpose of gaining knowledge and com-paring notes on various operations. "On my return I drove one of the horses on which I had performed the same operation; it was a success; the horse was traveling finely and about ready to be returned to its owner. To my surprise they were still working at the same operation on the horse which was still suffering the most excruciating pain from the poor judgment of the operator. I took a small camera with me and snapped a photo-graph of the situation.

a small camera with me and snapped a photo-graph of the situation. "The doctor had not found the nerve, the horse had struggled and knocked the skin from its head in places; it was the most cruel surgical proceeding without an anaes-thetic I had ever witnessed. One of the doctors present suggested that the horse be removed from the plank table and placed in the stocks, thinking the doctor would be able to complete his job. I made the remark that the nerve never would be found in the in-cision he had made.

to complete his job. I made the remark that the nerve never would be found in the in-cision he had made. "A few minutes later the operator cut a piece of the tendon from the horse's leg and threw it on the floor and said he had finished his job. I picked up the piece which he threw on the floor and asked him if he considered that a nerve. He said 'Xes.' I advised him, it was a piece of tendon, and not the nerve he was looking for. His helper flashed a roll of bills in my face and asked how much I wanted to bet on the matter and at the same time placed his other hand over-my hand so I could not look at the piece of tendon until I said how much I would bet. "My reply was I did not want to win any-one's money by betting, but as he insisted I offered to cover any amount he would suggest. He put up all the money, he had in his hand.

one's money by betting, but as he insisted I offered to cover any amount he would suggest. He put up all the money he had in his hand. The piece of ligament removed from the horse's leg was placed in a qualified veteri-narian's hand to decide the bet and it was decided in my favor. "I did not feel like keeping the money I had won so I returned it. The poor horse had in its struggles broken the hide and flesh on its left hip and on the side of its neck. The door of the stable and office was locked to keep out strangers but there was a large crowd of boys on the outside trying to look in and asking what was doing that caused the groans of the poor animal. "There was one poor mare tied into the stocks and a large incision made. This mare was given no chloroform or ether, simply chained to the floor and allowed to stand and suffer. To those who wish to prove and sub-stantiate this statement I would be pleased to show the photographs taken at the time. "There were several dogs operated on with-out any anaesthetic. I made the remark that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Humane Society of other states had sent its officers on such occasions to prevent such barbarous and unprofessional treatment of animals." Dr. Atwood claims that he undertook to sever his connection with the Association, either because it failed to condemn the alleged acts of cruelty or for other reason, and to that end he placed his resignation in the less of the joyous sensations which living ani-mals experience on the dissecting table under the tender manipulations of the kindhearted gentlemen who leisurely unjoint and dismem-ber them, or pick at a bare nerve and note with care the curious phenomena of sensation and its corollary, pain. And there are simple-minded laymen who are comfortable in the belief that vivisection without the use of anacsthetics is of rare occurrence in this benevolent and enlightened country. Really there are comparatively few people who care very much about the matter anyway, and curiously, they who make the most fuss i their little finger ache, care least about the aches of dumb brute creatures. Any man of common sense and a fair knowledge of human nature can easily see that the cost of chloroform and the trouble of administering it is an objection to its use sufficient to overcome the very slight counter-objection to witnessing agony that can ex-press itself only by inarticulate creaker. The association for the senter the matter of the prevention of the senter the sins of the Mormons; we have societies for the prevention of profane swaring within five miles of any house, barn or ther out-bailding; also societies for the prohibition of this and that and tother; but we are not greatly disturbed over the dis-section of live horses and dogs, and most of us agree that stories like Dr. Atwood's, us agree that stories like Dr. Atwood's, particularly if they are true, had better not be published. They stir up discord and pro-mote strife among men, and at best they benefit mere cattle.-L. V. Pinney. Winsted, Conn., February 15, 1904.

<text><text><text><text>

Now appears the third part, the coming of a second voice, which appeared to be that of a man, who told me he was my brother George, who was drowned at sea by the loss of the Brig Rianzi about 60 years ago. He greeted me pleasantly and was soon gone, and I again resumed the conversation with my apparent wife, for the voice was all I had to judge from. I was so very much annoyed and cha-grined at the treatment that I had received, as it was told me that it was her, and then it would be thrown upon others that had passed away before she did. She often told me that she would always do for me all she could for my good and happineis, but some experi-ences did not look much like it, so I often in my fits of anger, for do not for a moment think I was good natured all the time, for I would get into a violent rage of passion and say some words that are not pretty to repeat and yet my troubles had only yet just begun. Provincetown, Mass. (To be continued.)

(To be continued.)

The Better Brotherhood of Man.

William Brunton

William Briandon. We sing, "There is a good time coming," and love to sing about it. It seems a long time on the way, and we fear it may have got side-tracked, and yet we keep to our hope and stand at the door looking for it. In the nature of things it is sure to come, for there is no question of the improvement of the race and the conditions under which we find ourselves. They are growing better every day as sure as we live, and this means the arrival of the good and its settlement in our midst in peace and happiness. This we most wisely believe in and confidently expect. It is the gospel of our day that is being preached by the dominant forces of society. Even the selfashness of men is working out the problem by proving that stude conduct does not pay, that it cannot be continued and give the gain its votaries desire to receive. While there is a large spirit of benevolence in all ranks, which assures that men have only to see their, day and to know its obli-gations in order to perform it. This is the sufficient to overcome the very slight counter-objection to witnessing agony that can ex-press itself only by inarticulate cries. It is easier to strap or chain an animal to the piti-less plank so that its struggles under the knife cannot interfere with the operator than to bother with chloroform for an operation that may continue but half an hour or an hour, or such length of time as may weary the man who wields the knife. An acquain-tance with some of the young centilemen who the man who wields the knife. An acquain-tance with some of the young gentlemen who do this sort of thing as cheerfully as they eat their morning meals, will lead to the logical-conclusion that no small part of the pleasure-able excitement which they find in vivisection is in the indescribable agony of the subject on the table, and that painless vivisection comes soon to have as little fascination as the hum-drum carving of a rotten cadwer.

the table, and that painless vivisection comes soon to have as little fascination as the hum-drum carving of a rotten cadaver. My attention has been called anew to this impleasant subject by a letter printed in the Hartford Daily Courant of February 13 inst., In which the writer, Frank G. Atwood, D. V. S., of New Harven, gives us some glimpses of what he alleges to be true inside history of what took place at a meeting of the Con-necticnt Veterinary Association held in New Haven, August 18, 1903. Having a grievance against the Association the doctor is inclined to be communicative. His little finger aches in consequence of fancied ill treatment meted out to him by the Association, which prompt-ly expelled him when it was found that he had denounced certain of his fellow surgeons at o shock the sensibilities of a "hose doctor." Moreover he claimed to have in his possession snap-shot photographs of the gentlemen and their lovely work, with which he offered to verify his statements. The necessity of ex-

.44

A Portrait of Washington.

A new three-color portrait of Washington at forty-six embellishes the cover of the Wash-ington's Birthday Number (February 18th) of The Youth's Companion. This portrait, which is suitable for framing, will be sent to the Eff of for files who are subscriber to which is suitable for framing, will be sent to the 55,000 families who are subscribers to The Companion. Washington's lifelong friendship with the Fairfaxes of Virginia is recalled in Mrs. Burton Harrison's article in this number—"Belvoir on the Potomac."

Keep busy -Benjamin Franklin.

Who wrote "Mary Had a Little Lamb?" Not Mother Goose, as many persons suppose. There are two claimants to the authorship of the immortal jingle; John Roulstone, who is sold to have written the lines to Mrs. Mary E. Tyler, and Mrs. Sarnh Josenha Hale. Richard Walden Hale, a great-nephew of the latter, has explored the evidence and prepared the results of his investigations for readers of the March Century. He explains fully the "Tyler myth" and its improbabilities, and tells in detail the story of Mrs. Hale's writing of the children's classic.—The Century for March.

1 .

The Rebiewer.

Poems of Power.

The many readers of this paper will be in-iterested in learning that a new and revised edition of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's "Poems of Power," has just been issued by W. B. Con-key Co. of Chicago. This new volume of verses is handsomely bound in illuminated cloth, gold lettered, price $1.00, and contains her very latest poems, together with many old favorites that have adorned the pages of this publication.

favorites that have adorned the pages of this publication. Mrs. Wilcox's poems touch the heart and contain vital irruths that appeal to every earnest soul. Nearly all are familiar with the passage, "This, too, will pass away," and apply it to every event in life that seems hard to bear. The entire poem is reproduced in this edition, also the one commencing "Talk happiness; the world is sad enough without your woes." Another familiar one oft quoted contains these lines, "You never can tell what your thoughts will do in bringing you hate or love." The entire poem is in this beautiful volume also those entitled "The World is Growing Better," "You and To-day," "Smilles," "Song of the Spirit," etc. I will give a few quotations from those I have never seen in print before, which may be of profit as well as pleasure to the reader.

WOBDS.

"Words are great forces in the realm of life, Be careful of their use. Who talks of hate,

Of poverty, of sickness, but sets rife These very elements to mar his fate.

"When love, health, happiness and plenty hear Their names repeated over day by day, They wing their way like answering fairies near, Then nestle down within our homes to stay.

"Who talks of evil conjures into shape The formless thing and gives it life and

"This is the law. Then let no word escape That does not breathe of everlasting he

TRUE CHABITY.

I gave a beggar from my little store Of well-earned gold. He spent the shining ore And came again and yet again still cold And hungry as before.

I gave a thought and through that thought of mine He found himself, the man, supreme, divine! Fed, clothed and crowned with blessings manifold. And now he begs no more.

WE TWO.

We two make home of any place we go; We two find joy in any kind of weather; Or if the earth is clothed in bloom or snow, If summer days invite, or bleak winds blow, What matters it if we two are together We two, we two, we make our world, our weather.

This choice volume of poems contains sen-timents to fit every mood, and should be a friend and companion of our daily lives. It is also a comforter and consoler in times of is also a comforter trouble or distress.

Lida Briggs Browne.

How Some of Our Readers Can Make Money.

Having read of the success of some of your readers selling Dish-washers, I have tried the work with wonderful success. I have not made less than $9.00 any day for the last six made less than 49.00 any day for the last six months. The Mound City Dish-washer gives good satisfaction and every family wants one. A lady can wash and dry the dishes without removing her gloves and can do the work in two minutes. I got my sample ma-chine from the Mound City Dish-washer Co., of St. Louis, Mo. I used it to take orders and sold 12 Dish-washers the first day. The Mound City Dish-washer Co. will start you Mound City Dish-washer Co. will start you. Write them for particulars. Ladies can do as well as men. John F. M.

What Is a Christian?

Elinor Starr.

I wish to submit this question: "What is a Christian?" In this age of discoveries, of rarities and radium and thought transfer-ence and spirit communion and wireless telegraphy and electrical wonders, it remains for some one to discover a Christian. Let us see if we can find one. Away back in the centuries there lived a man by the name of Jesus who was called the Christ. He was human-so are we. He was divine-so are He was divine-so are we. He had a natural body-so have we, for the Rible says so. He was a child of God-so are we, for the Bible says so, and while all that the Bible says may not be so, and while it may be full of errors and is not in-fallible, having the marks of many human hands upon it along its pathway down the ages, it still contains the essence of all spir-tion. hands upon it along its pathway down the ages, it still contains the essence of all spir-itual truths and still stands as a landmark to the sons and daughters of men. Emerson has said "everything good is in the high-way," and so with the Bible-you need not look down all its alleys and by-ways, but everything good stands out clear and distinct in the highway of its pages. We are but in-fants and are not rendy to discard this spir-itual text-book which the Father has given us; and as the broader light of science and a higher spiritual understanding is dawning upon our developing minds we read with a broader comprehension the records there given. It is in this book that we find a record of the life of this man Jesus-the Christ above mentioned. He lived a life of power, of pence, of purity and perfection. Being both human and divine, even as we are, he lived this perfect life a portion of time upon the earth to prove to the rest of God's family that it is possible for a mortal to so live while yet upon the earth-plane, and to teach them how to attain to such an accomplishment. accomplishment. But, O friends, how far away we are as a But, O friends, how far away we are as a people from such an attainment! When we view the agony and distress all about us, both physical and mental; when we scan the faces of the crowd and see there pictured the low, sensual passions of the material man, holding high carnival and dominating and al-most annihilating, for the time being, the soul of the spiritual man; when we see distorted, faces, seamed with worry and discontent, who know not how to control themselves-or their affairs, a picture of weakness and at ignorance of the higher laws of life of which. Christ taught; when we see the greed and the scramble for worldly supremacy and the tragedies that are enacted daily throughout the world, all of which are results of evil where there aboud be good—well may wo truly ask. What is a Christian, and where in all this turnult and turnoll and tragedy may we find one?

There are organizations called churches who claim to know something about the mat-ter. They have a lot of substitutes who are called church members, but it would be hard to find among them a true follower of the Christ. Are there many among them who "seek first the kingdom of heaven," truly and absolutely knowing, with an un-swerving trust in the power of the Spirit, that "all things else will be added?" Who realize that to "seek first the kingdom of heaven" means to put first in your everyday life all things which are pure and true and right and good, to resist temptation, to stand for principle and tell the truth, though in the face of apparent loss to self; to seek the guidance of the Holy Spirit and to live, though in the midst of the battle, above its stinging wounds, with that peace and serenity of soul which comes only to one who has grasped the higher spiritual Hie? It is generally admitted that Christ is the example for the Christian world to follow. Why, then, all this bluster and antagonism about certain classes of people who are be-coming dimly conscious of the latent possi-bilities within them of a higher knowledge of natural law—the law, of cause and effect, and the necessary conditions in which they find it possible to heal the sick, to commune with spirit and some other things which seem impossible to the careless observer? Christ did all this and he drew from out the elements to materialize wine at the feast and bread and fishes for the multitude; and he himself said at the time that "greater things than these shall ye do."

himself said at the time that "greater things than these shall ye do." The power to heal has been demonstrated in many instances at the present time, as has also the power of communing with spirit. I am not speaking of those who have at-tempted and failed or of those with dishonest motives, but of the few real cases the truth of which cannot be refuted; and what is possible to

of which cannot be retured; and what is pos-sible to a few is possible to more. Now, this being the truth, I care not whether the name of him who found it out be Christian science, psychic science, Spirit-ualism or Methodism. I affirm that it is Christian; that it is a good thing, and let us put it in our basket and trudge on up the mountain seeking for more treasures along mountain, seeking for more treasures along the way through the broader unfoldment of the natural laws of God.

I care not for isms and asms And numerous spasms, Of various sects and creeds; For the only true difference Before holy Omnipotence & Is the difference of good and bad deeds.

When it is learned that religion is When it is learned that religion is a science and not a scatiment; that the Christ-life can the better be attained by a better knowledge of natural law and an adherence to certain required conditions governed by scientific principles; when it is learned that science and religion emanate from the same source and go hand in hand—then will we have a purer and a truer Christianity. When Laws of the the two honces a myster, and have a purer and a truer Christianity. When Jesus Christ is no longer a mystery and science has proved his miracles to be but natural-the result of cause and effect and possible to others-then will science have opened the gateway for the angel of peace. garbed in simplicity and purity, to enter the hearts of men and produce in the world a humanity with much of its filth and deg-radation and misery eliminated. When it is learned that the Christ-life can be at-tained not only in part, but in its entirety; when the secret of his power is better un-folded to the world-then will we as mortals behold the second coming of the Christ, not embodied in one individual, but reincarnated in the great, throbbing heart of humanity.-in the great, throbbing heart of humanity.-The Light of Truth.

Boston Spiritual Temple.

Rev. F. A. Wiggin, pastor of the Boston Spiritual Temple Society, delivered his last address upon the subject, "The Great Psy-chological Crime," to a large audience last

The following is a brief synopsis of Mr. Wiggin's address. "This writer has com-mitted an error, common to too many mediums and Spiritualists, of making no distinction be-tween the spiritual and the spiritualistic. Because of this lack of a proper and much-needed classification, there are thousands who will affirm that they believe in Spiritualism, but they are not Spiritualist; and I must con-fees to sharing in no small degree this sen-timent.

timent. "Many needs in connection with organic Spiritualism may be in evidence, but nothing more emphatically demands intelligent action, and that at once, than such a movement as shall rescue the "spiritual" from the "spirit-unlistic, or else to change the spiritualistic, not by a covering of paint or any veneering process for the sake of external appearances, but by an internal renovation, as shall not oraly give to it the appearance, but, as well, a real and genuine spiritual quality. real and genuine spiritual quality.

real and genuine spiritual quality. "No one imposes more mercilessly upon the credulous, whether of the earth or spirit-sphere, than he who writes or talks so faulty as to lead any to suppose that there is no dis-tirction between 'spiritual' and 'spiritual-listic,' between 'spirit' control and 'spirit-Isuc, between 'spirit' control and 'spirit-ual' co-operation, between mediumship aud obsession, which is but an expression of in-sanity, due to the interposition of unprinci-pled vicious spirits. pled vicious spirits. "The author of the book under considera-tion classifies mediumship as follows: 1. "Those whose motives and intentions are

ANER OF LI

Frankly, I would much rather submit myself to this Rochas' experiment than to ask any animal I know to save me the anguish of what is presumably an electric shock!" Supposing such a statement was put forth by a Spiritualist, would not the first ques-tion of the secular press be, Where, when and how was this "experiment" conducted? A quite natural demand for exact data and verifiable authorities would arise. But all the data involved in the extract quoted con-sists in the words, "The other day I read in a Paris dispatch," and a name quoted as "Col. Albert Rochas," which may, or may not be, the correct designation of the French experimenter. Such loose and inexact state-ments then to make journalism ridiculous and robs the journalist of the confidence and respect of intelligent people who think that the object of celtors and writers is to tell facts correctly, and nor to play fast and respect of intentient people with initial the object of cellors and writers is to tell facts correctly, and not to play fast and loose with the important questions of scien-tific psychic science. Possibly whatever grains of truth there may be in the alleged experiments may be only what Spiritualists have long since known, that from certain people a suble aura is evolved, which, in the cases of Dr. J. R. Newton, Dr. Jas. Mack, and other American Healers, with James Ashman, a one time noted English Healer, with Willie Eggington, the celebrated London Medium and others in that country, has been photo-graphed as rising from the hands and heads of the persons in question. It is to be hoped that the Herald's grow-ing interest in spiritual and psychical in-

It is to be hoped that the Herald's grow-ing interest in spiritual and psychical in-quiry will not be allowed to suffer from the carelessness of its correspondents who must be alert in guarding themselves from being huposed upon by the smart boys who at so mbeh per desire to turn an honest cent. Further, caution is necessary so that need-less offence be not given to the large and fn-telligent body of people interested in spir-itual science, and who cannot help either amusement or disgust when reputable scribes present such breaks as the cheerful Chatterer appears to have committed in the paragraph appears to have committed in the paragraph quoted above.

A Fine Kidney Remedy.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock, East Hampton, Conn. (the Clothier), says if any sufferer from Kid-ney and Bladder Diseases will write him he will direct them to the perfect home cure he used. He has nothing whatever to sell you.

Life's Springtime.

Ella L. Layson.

Life is like nature in its various forms and Life is like nature in its various torms and manifestations. In nature we have clouds and sunshine, storms followed by periods of calm. Dainty, picturesque landscapes to please the eye, and rough and rugged moun-tains to inspire us with awe. Barren wastes

Tetters from Our Beaders. NATURE'S GREATEST CURE

The editor is not responsible for opinions expressed y correspondents and sometimes publishes what he loss not agree with for the pury so of presenting teres that may elicit discussion.

"Heredity."

To the Editor of the Banner of Light: As my letter to Mr. Colville appearing re-cently in the "Banner," though not written for publication, has received editorial com-ment, permit me, in justice to the ideas which for publication, has received editorial com-ment, permit me, in justice to the ideas which the letter expressed, to draw your attention. to the fact that several serious mistakes in printing have tended to obscure the meaning. The twelfth line from the top of the column, reads, "It was so in my mother's nature," when it should read, "It was not so in my mother's nature," the true reading showing the's state of mind referred to as temporary with the mother, yet appearing as a charac-teristic of the child, and so to me a proof that the temporary condition in the mother was a reflection of a real condition in the incar-nating soul, of which the effect would be to reflect through the mother's mind, upon the forming body, the true characteristics of the soul that was to inhabit it, so making an instrument perfectly adapted to the indwell-ing spirit, which spirit always has the power to modify, by will and effort, its own charac-teristics, but whenever needing embodiment always creating, by the instrumentality of the parents, a body perfectly adapted to its needs at the starge of its development then reached. Had you comprehended my letter, which I was perhaps unfortunate in not making sufficiently clear, you could not have accused me of begging the question. As for the parents being the parents of the soul I have never supposed that anyone, save here and there a materialist, believed that. The spirit is of God; the character, devel-oped by slow evolutionary processes of ex-perience, is the evolving consciousness that oped by slow evolutionary processes of exoped by slow evolutionary processes of ex-perience, is the evolving consciousness that we call the soul, which in its perfect event-ual rounding out is pure spirit; the body is the temporary garment or instrument of the soul, and is created by means of physical laws acting through physical parents. It seems to me that parents become only dearer when their love and care, their pain and de-votion make them appear in the light of sympathetic and loving friends helping one to the means that spell progress for our souls; rather than as creators of us whether we will or no, stamping upon us without our knowlor no, stamping upon us without our knowl-edge or consent their own characteristics. And does any soul ever "belong" to any other soul, save to itself and its Creator,

God?

God? As to your questions: "How did the first two human beings stand as to their appearance in this world, or whence the origin of the organisms into which they entered for earth embodiment?" Believing that spirit, the greater, was first, and matter is a projection, or condensation of spirit, I hold that spirit cutities, in countless experiment and experiencities, in countless experiment and experi-ence with different forms of matter from the simplest to the most complex, gain conscious knowledge and development thereby.

When physical version had brought mat-ters in the physical world to the time for the appearance of complex man, I suppose the incarnating soul, arrived also at the stage of its experience ready for the human embodi-ment, impressed its own nature upon some female organism of some department of the higher animal kingdom, through whom it was to incarnate, and man was born.

Mary Amory. Note.-The original of our correspondent's Note.—The original of our correspondent's letter being destroyed we accept her statement as to the misprint. But the line, as printed, so reads in our typist's transcript of the letter. Our correspondent's letter was included for publication in the article by Mr. Colville, as will be seen from his remarks just prior to the commencement of Miss Amory's letter, which does not appear to alter the points presented by our previous note.—Editor.

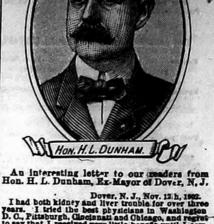

Prefers a Home.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

I use Editor of the Banner of Light: I see in the last "Banner" a call for one thousand dollars to match the same sum, some one wants to give to the Medlums' Relief Fund. Why not make a call for funds to establish a home for these needy medlums and aged Spiritualists? There should be homes for them, and not compel those that are nged and needy to apply for a few dollars this weak and a few some other weak a this week, and a few some other week, a constant reminder to them of their poverty, and the uncertainty of who is to care for them, even with the money they receive from this fund.

If this unnamed who offers one thousand dollars would apply it to the Waverley Home I think there could be a thousand raised to match it.

What is needed is homes, and home care Let the generous put their money into homes for the aged Spiritualists. If they do not wish to help the Waverley Home start a home in some other good place and get all the spirits and mortals to help build homes.

Hon. H. L. Dunham, Er. Mayor of Dover, N. J. Dover, N. J., Nov. 12 h. 1992. I had both kidney and liver troubla for over three years. I tried the best physicians in Washington D. O., Pittsburgh, Giscianati and Ohleago, and regret to any that I received vary little benefit until I com-menced taking the gr as kidney, liver and biasder remedy, Dr. Klimer's Bwamp-Boot. After taking the first bottle I noticed quite a change which satisfied me that at last I had faken four bottles, by this time i noticed such a marked improvement in my bealth, in every way, that I felt satisfied I was cured. But to be positive bevoud a question or doubt, I was in Ohleago during July, 1962, and went to the Columbus Medical Laboratory. No. 163 Biate BC, and had them make a thorough and complete microscopical exami-nation which showed my Kidneys and liver to be per-fectly well and heathy. I have their writtes report in my possession, signed by the doctors of the above Medical Laboratory, which is recognized as one of the best in the country. Very truly yours,

A.L. Dunham

Bx-Mayor of Dover, N. J.

Ex-Mayor of Dover, N. J. The mild and prompt effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney, liver and blad-der remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wooderful cures of the most distressing cases. Recommended and taken by physicians, used in hospitals and endorsed by people of prominence everywhere. To prove what Swamp-Root will do for you a sample bottle will be sent absolutely free, by mail also a book telling all about Swamp Hoot and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and be sure to men-tion reading this generous offer in the Boston Banner of Light. If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bothle at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the ad-dress, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

parties give amusement to many who do not dance. The Dixie Gingerbread social was quite an event, although it was very rainy.

dance. The Dizie Gingerbread gocial was quite an event, although it was very rainy. Over fifty were present. Conference on Mondays and Fridays. On Tuesday Prof. Peek gave the first of a series of five lectures upon "The Religion of Brolu-tion," which he expects to give, the subject being "The Evolution of Worlds." On Thursday afternoon the writer spoke upon the subject, "And He Went to His Own Place," and on Saturday Mr. Colville spoke from three subjects which were handed from the audience, "Divine Metaphysics," "Eternal Punishment," and the "Twin Brothers, Sleep and Death," and closed with a poem. On Sunday morning a goodly number came in from outside the grounds and with the campers made a fine audience. The speaker of the morning was Mr. Colville, who dis-coursed upon the subject, "Man Visible and Invisible," and closed with an improvised peem. The afternoon service was opened by a solo by Mr. Colville, "Angels Ever Bright and Fair." He was accompanied by Miss Whitney on the organ. Our singer Miss Whitney, and Miss Salinas of Brooklyn, aided by Prof. Peck, are doing good work. Longley's songs are very much in evidence here, songs that will cheer the world long after their author has said good bye to pain and age. But "Though they may forget the singer they will not forget the bye to pain and age. But "Though they may forget the singer they will not forget the song." The Budington Hymnals are used for song." The Budhgion Hymnans are used for congregational singing and prove very ac-ceptable, as familiar tunes are sung with words adapted to them that sing into souls the gospel of Spiritualism. The Ladies' Auxiliary has already turned into the treasury over one hundred dollars. Prof. Peck's lectures, of which I will write more, are highly appreciated. His Sunday afternoon lecture, "The Evolution of Man," was listened to by a large audience with deep interest. The Massachusetts people seem very happy

More anon.

2. "Those whose motives and intentions are indifferent. 3. "Those whose motives and intentions are

"It would be just as consistent to classify money as follows: Genuine standard gov-ernment money, counterfeit money, and 'stage' money. No one, who has come to years of ordinary understanding, can be found, who does not know that genuine standfound, who does not know that genuine stand-ard government money is the only real money, and that all else is but an imitation. Yet, while this is true, there are evidently some who do not know good money from bad or worthless money. "From the beginning to the end of the book, with the exception of one paragraph, the author has dealt with "spiritualistic" me-dumphic and her uttent failed to teach upon author has dealt with 'spiritualistic' me-diumship and has utterly failed to touch upon the subject of 'spiritual' mediumship. The time is at hand when the world should be made to understand that true Spiritualism stands as sponsor for no phase of medium-ship except such as is 'spiritual.' "During this series of discourses I have en-deavored to show that the only possible means of advancing organic Spiritualism, is for all true Spiritualists to demand and insist upon having none other as its teachers than an in-having none other as its teachers than an in-tellectually and spiritually educated medium-ship."

A Psychic "Captive Balloon!"

Laymen when dealing with special sub-jects with which they have no personal knowledge or practical acquaintance, invar-iably involve themselves in a cloud of ridi-cule. The axpert smiles broadly at the in-competence disclosed by the unwary daring of the inexpert, as indeed all who possess practical knowledge in any direction, or on and poisonous weeds as well as grand forests and beautiful, fragrant flowers—all have a lace in nature. And in life we have trials and sorrows, tem place pestuous experiences alternating with periods of peace and happiness. Depression gives way to hope even as the clouds give way to sunshine. In character we have people who are true and kind, again we find those whose lives find expression only if evil ways; from such emanate an influence both buneful and dan-gerous—they are like the poisonous weeds. Now and then we find those noble souls whom we likep—to the lofty mountains that in grandeur stand above and apart from their companions, having a distinct existence in themselves. themselves.

In the autumn when nature's work is com

In the autumn when nature's work is com-pleted a change sweeps over the earth; the grass grows dull and brown, the dying leaves are falling, the blossoms fade and disappear. All the life and beauty has vanished. It would seem that never more shall we gaze with rapture upon the soft, green grass, the lovely, inspiring flowers, or see the trees ar-rayed in their brilliant garments. But we know it is only the rest that God has given; the life, hidden from our view, is still there to awken to a new, glad existence when, in the spring, the balmy breezes and warm sunshine shall come again. In the roots beneath the soil in the tiny seed the life germ lies bidden ready to spring into active life when proper conditions shall be given. And thus it is with us. When, after a long season of storms and

When, after a long season of storms and sunshine, heartbreaking experiences and love's own joy our work is finished, we grow tired and our eyes close in sleep to open in the radiance of an eternal day to sleep no more. The soil, our real self springs forth from the old, wornout body to enter into the grander, more beautiful life of immortality. Life's springtime has come. West Berkeley, Cal.

There ought to be a home near every large city in the United States for the unfortunate Somerville, Mass.

Lake Helen. Florida.

Carrie E. S. Turing.

<text><text><text><text><text><text>

A Human Life Line.

If all the people who have been cured by Vernal Palmettona (formerly known as Ver-nal Saw Palmetto Berry Wine) were lined up in single file, two feet apart, the line begin-ning at Buffalo, would extend for miles and ning at Buffalo, would extend for miles and miles, far out toward the west. In this line would be found men, women and children, representing every vocation in life. Most of them were in bad shape physically when they began to take Vernal Palmettona. Some of them owe their very lives to it. If you were to talk to them, they would give full credit to this great tonic laxative remedy. Some of them went way on up into middle life, some of them even to old age, before they began taking our cure. taking our cure.

taking our cure. "If I had only taken Vernal Palmettona sooner," is the regret of many who realize that they might have been saved years of suffering. Do not let this be your experience. Indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia and all other diseases of the stomach, liver, kláneys and bowels are relieved quickly and erent-ually cured permanently by Vernal Palmet-tons. Only one dose a day does the work. It is done gently, yet thoroughly. This is in direct contrast to harsh purgatives and cath-artics which are positively harmful. Many people are skeptical about a medicine with which they are unfamiliar. Maybe you are one of them. We don't blame you. It is common sense. We plainly print the guaran-teed formula on every package of our remedy. Better still, we will send you postpaid a free sample. Try before you buy. Address, Ver-nal Remedy Co., 423 Seneca Building, Buffalo, N. Y. Sold at all druggists. "If I had only taken Vernal Palmettona

The fountain of tranquillity is within our-selves: let us keep it pure .-- Phocian,

Passing Thoughts

Goodness and love mold the form their own image, and cause the beauty joy of love to shine forth from every par the face.-Swedenborg.

I will govern my life and thoughts as if the whole world were seeing the one and reading the other.—Seneca.

proved reliable.

most stealthy) manner he would send slices cut from his financial loaf to many indigent magnetic healers, and to mediums he had

Without the least ostentation I have known of his most generous aid extended to the publishers of radical reform journals, helping struggling editors, and especially sustaining every worthy person in any warfare who by lawyers in the Congress at Washington or notes and the modest checks enclosed for

But why do I write all this in the past tense? Because it is customary, when speaking of the body that has been cast aside (in PUBLICATION OFFICE AND BOOKSTORE Bartmouth Street, nest door to P Ilding, Copley Sq., Boston, Mass.

WHOLESALE AND BETAIL AGENTS. THE NEW ENGLAND NEWS COMPANY, 14 Franklin Strest, Boston, Mass.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY, 41 Chambers Street, New York.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION IN ADVANCE id by publishers.

Less ed by

THE BANNER OF LIGHT PUBLISHING COMPANY.

..... All communications to be addressed to IBVING F. SYMONDS. incus Manager and Managing Editor.

ADVERTISING BATES.

Full particulars furnished upon appl'cation.

Advertisements to be renewed at continued rates must be left at our Office before 9 A, M eb Saturday, a week in advance of the date whereas they are to appear.

The BANTRE OF LIGHT cannot well undertake to rouch for is khomesty of its many advertisers. Advertisements which ap-par fair and howorship upon heir face are accepted, and whenever it is made known that dishonest or improper persons are using our advertising columna, they are al once interficien-Werequest patrons to notify up promptly is case they discover is our columna advertisenski of parties whom they have proved to be dishonorable or unworthy of confidence. pear fair

Our columns are open for the expression of imper mai free thought, but we do not necessarily endorse al to varied wades of opinion to which correspondents may rive supression. Market and address of writer is indispensable as a guaranty of good faith. We cannot undertake to preserve or return consolid auticles.

Cantella articles. The Whesever you desire the address of your paper changed, always give the address of the place to which it is then sett or the change cannot be made.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1904.

ISSUED EVERY WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON AT 4 O'CLOCK FOR THE WEEK ENDING AT DATE.

Entered at the Post-Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class Matter.

The N. S. A. Declaration of Principles. ini

The following represents the principles adopted by the 1899 national convention of the Spiritualists of America, and reaffirmed at the national convention held at Washington, D. C., October, 1903.

We believe in Infinite Intelligence. 1. 2. We believe that the phenomena of nature, physical and spiritual, are the expression of Infinite Intelligence.

3. We affirm that a correct understanding of such expressions, and living in accordance therewith, constitutes the true religion.

4. We affirm that the existence and personal identity of the individual continues after the change called death.

5. We affirm that communication with the so-called dead is a fact, scientifically proven by the phenomena of Spiritualism.

6. We believe that the highest morality is contained in the Golden Rule, "Whatsoever ye would that others should do unto you, do ye even so unto them."

Brevities.

1857-1894.

Volume One-Volume Ninety-Five.

In brief the above words and figures tell departure from earth. While he desired just appreciation, he disliked eulogy and every the story. form of complimentary praise and approba-

The "Banner of Light" starts out on another voyage with this issue, the ropes are taut, the machinery intact, the officers and watch on duty, and a clear course ahead is pricked out on the chart.

Three cheers for the good old craft. No, two will do, if in the form of dollars, for they are the cheer which will show how much you mean it when you wish us well on our voyage, though thousands wish us well in any case, for truly, money is not all."

numerous letters we receive regarding her work. While in Our Home Circle, which she nally conducts, she neets a need in the social life of our people in a thoroughly ad-mirable manner. Our only regret is that her health still remains a matter of concern to her wide and sympathizing circle of friends. May she soon be sufficiently restored to resume her Sunday duties is the hope of all who have sustained her by their presence thereat.

Miss Isadore Duncan of California danced her way to Europe through New York drawing rooms, and, let it be said, then startled her own country people quite as much as she has London, Paris and Berlin by her theories of the classic dance and costume. Now, while conceding her grace of motion, and the effectiveness of her one drapery, it must be admitted that modern ideas do not harmonize with barely covered nudity. Fashion uncovers its shoulders; it also tolerates tights, but there it stops, despite Miss Duncan's assurance that the Greeks were beautiful because they knew how to dress, or undress. Fifty years hence this California reformer believes no one will wear clothes. Heigho! Let's wish the climate will change for good and all

Volume Ninety-Five.

The ceaseless progress of the years has now carried the "Bander of Light" onward

anded down by good and great hearted gent communion between the two worlds, o personal conscious individual life hereafter.

and the ultimate destiny of eternal progress

We feel we do not appeal in vain for the support of our friends, and are satisfied that the increased confidence already manifested in the future of the "Banner," as testified to by its increasing circulation and advertising, will steadily continue. We greet you, dear friends, as we start out on our ninety-fifth trip, and with all desire to serve the angels,

the Cause, and the progress of the world.

rejoice that we have so much to encourage and cheer us at the commencement of a new

Departure of Alfred Ellingwood

Giles to the Summer Land.

A. J. Davis.

It was an understanding between us that should not write an extended notice of his tion. Therefore I must be brief in writing, even as by his written request, I was brief in my remarks, between two chosen bymus

at the final services at his Hyde Park resi-

His was a most remarkable personality. He was (and is), a real psychical genius. He was a study in homocultology. The real har-monial man was seldom visible to his most intimate associates. He was not by organization a philosopher; but he was an imperious, for each and all.

volume.

dence.

its ninety-fifth volume. The legacy

by 1954.-Boston Herald.

to his case by request, cremated), but I should employ the present tense-for in real, truth, our honored and beloved brother in not was enjoying the first stages of an immortand progressive existence. It is not for me to describe the many noble attributes and philanthropic acts of this departed friend. But it is proper that I should

in the State Legislature.

their encouragement.

put on record that the Banner of Light Publishing Company was enabled to purchase all the plates of the entire Harmonial volumes by the most liberal contribution from the treasury of A. E. Giles.

This remarkable man was a reader of every author who said "something." His collection of books, magazines, periodicals, etc., is the finest and most thoroughly radical. He freely and constantly read all high spiritual books. But my "Nature's Divine Revelations" was his first love.

Luther Colby has been accepted by his suc-Therefore he gravitated to me with his wealth of loyal friendship and unbounded cessors with all good intentions, and such is true of those who are responsible for the affection. Thus he and I have journeyed journal and all its interests at this time. along together: He was my patient for years, Promises are not of much real value, perbeing naturally feeble in his physical organs formances are the only things which tell in and structures; and when, at last, he tranquilly sank down into the valley preparatory to ascending the splendid mountain of life, I was frequently by his side, cheering him silently as he slept his last painless, dreamless childlike sleep; and while I stood by his bed side, suddenly I observed a powerful magnetic current dancing over his feet and bosom, and then I knew for certain that he was packing up for his trip into the sphere where reside his many kindred, his earth-born friends, the Rest assured the "Banner of Light" stands great philosophers, the loyal and gifted of firmly today. It will, as of yore, strive to upevery age and clime.

hold a rational and clean Spiritualism. It Thus passed into the Summerland one of will, as always, be liberal to all who differ the most remarkable men, concealed from the with it, hospitable to those who have somepublic eye, and a closed book to his daily asthing good and useful to say. But editorially sociates, yet a golden spirit fitted to enjoy the it stands for Spiritualism without affix or blessings of eternity. suffix, the Spiritualism which means intell'-

A Devoted Believer.

Sincerity justifies many things, while it argues for honesty if even judgment is in error. It commands integrity of character and honesty of living. It shows itself in acts as well as in speech, and is, on broad lines an admirable principle to base one's conduct upon. Its greatest danger lies in it becoming a barrier against the admission of new view points lest by a change of opinion the charge of insincerity should be incurred.

The average man attests his sincerity in a matter by his willingness to vest his money in its support, or risk it upon the success of a venture, and is much inclined to so act in regard to his beliefs and opinions. He is sincere in his attachment to his political party or his religious denomination and shows he is by his contributions to the funds of the party, or his church, and often shows his sincerity by bequeathing considerable wealth to his pet body, religious or secular as the case may be. That his political opinions may be out of date, or his religious convictions behind the age, is not the question; the point is that he is sincere in his attachment to them, and indicates it in the best method he can think of. If it is in connection with religion he desires to do something to perpetuate his form of faith and to show the Lord that he was not unmindful of the blessing He had bestowed upon him. We can respect the motive because of the sincerity behind it.

Just recently a wealthy lady of this vicinity passed away, Miss Mary E. Walker, of Waltham, Mass., and she has left an y valu at from

Is there not some food for reflection in the foregoing statement? If orthodox Christians can find money for building edifices for their faith, if so-called Christian "scientists" can build a million and a half cathedral in New York and smaller edifices elsewhere, why cannot the Spiritualists do likewise? Is it because we think the truth needs no house built for it, or because there is no certainty was opposed by the ministers, by doctors or it would remain in our Cause, or because we prefer to put up with the inconvenience and discomforts of rented halls? The finest edi-O, how many souls will miss the friendly fice we have, the magnificent Temple erected by Mr. Ayer and located in the best portion of this city, still remains under his sole control, and wisely so, for unless some such body as the N. S. A. could take it on trust for the movement, what guaranty is there that it would remain in our movement after Mr. Ayer has passed away? Let us cease to try to organize beliefs and creeds and instead endeavor to organize on practical business lines. Let us see to it that local, state and national societies are so organized that they can act as trustees for buildings devoted to our gospel so that such cannot be alienated from their purposes. Then we may see the time when sincere Spiritualists will bequeathe money to us, which now many will not do until they can do so upon an absolutely safe egal basis. If, however, the sincere believer does not care to leave his money by will why not spend it while in the flesh? It is said "the Lord loveth a cheerful giver." We hope the number of Spiritualists who find the divine affection will soon increase.

Police Power.

In recent contributions to this paper Alexnder Wilder has referred to what Governor Odell describes as "Police Power," whereby the police may be said to, in a measure, arbitrarily supersede the normal course of legal procedure. A case of what looks much like this rough and ready method has recently occurred in Chicago, as we are informed by a etter received from Mrs. Lucinda B. Chandler. of Downers Grove. Ill., in connection with Mrs. C. H. Mullins a member of the Church of the Soul, Chicago.

Mrs. Mullins was arrested on the charge of abducting a young girl, and it was further asserted that she did so with the view of 'making" the child into a medium! The facts appear to be that the child was originally taken from the Foundings' Home in Detroit, Mich., by a second cousin of Mrs. Mullins and removed to that lady's home at Owasso, Mich. The child is named Hazel Wallace and lately expressed a wish to live with Mrs. Mullins and arrangements made to that end were carried out in due course. This was done in accordance with legal advice as the lawyer said as the child "was over fourteen years of age she was free to choose her guardian." The child became homesick and was in consequence sent back to Owasso. Then come in the police, a Chicago officer saying he had received a warrant from Owasso to arrest Mrs. Mullins for abducting the girl, but the officer after hearing Mrs. Mullins' statement refused to arrest her. A policeman then came from Owasso, carried the lady there and put her in jail, refusing her the opportunity to procure bail. Much stress was laid upon her being a Spiritualist and requiring the child for the purpose mentioned above. The hearing was several times postponed and it was a month after her arrest he hearing was held.

The evidence of the prosecution was heard, -Mr. Eugene Snow of Saginaw engaged by Mrs. Mullins, read the statute to the court, and she was discharged. She learned that the governor told them they had no case when they applied for requisition papers. Was the court ignorant of the statute? Or did he think as Mrs. Wallace was reported of saying that Mrs. Mullins would lay down a big sum to prevent proceedings and press notice?

Apart from the merits of the case, and the details before us are neither very full nor clear, the points for consideration are the use of the processes of law without a right knowledge of the statutes under which action was to be taken. Also, it appears that Sherf Gerow from Owasso had no requisitio papers with him when he came into Illinois to arrest Mrs. Mullins. And further, the stupid catering of the press to the ignorant prejudices of some people against Spiritualsm is an unpleasant commentary on the freedom we are presumed to enjoy in regard to matters of opinion. This question of "police power" is becom ing increasingly important. Uncurbed and allowed to spread such power may become a real menace to the personal liberty and civic rights of Americans. Our liberties were purchased at too great a cost for us who have inherited them to be lax in preserving them intact. The immortal words. "Eternal Vigilance is the price of Liberty." are as true now as over. Military despotism is still alien to our laws and customs, but let us beware

Muller and the profoundest classical scholars

Her literary ability is of the rarest type; her philanthropies are far-reaching, her dig-nified womanliness, a matter of pride to the East and the West, both of which eagerly claim her as their own.

In the Reeds' charming home their daughter Myrtle, who is one of the young writers who are making brilliant records, is quite the life and light. Mother and daughter take justifiable pride in each other's work, widely different in style, but possessing individual value.

An Unchristian "Advocate."

According to the press there is a newspaper called The Christian Advocate, the editor of which professedly religious sheet in considering the cases of the two Methodist clergymen who met their fate in the Chicago theatre fire, remarks that these deaths were much more distressing than if these brethren had lost their lives in a railway wreck, or gone down in the depths of the sea with an ill-fated steamer. Obviously, the rule that nothing but good should be said of the dead is not a part of the Methodist creed, even under the most distressing circumstances.

Perhaps in one sense the contention may stand good, for death by drowning is more merciful than by burning, and frequently the victim of a railroad catastrophe is killed outright, almost before knowing it. But such is not the meaning of our contemporary, for the evident intention is to suggest that attending a theatre was contrary to the ministerial office. Did not the good Dr. Watts say that, and surely the relief from preaching a dreary gospel, which attendance at a secular entertainment doubtless meant to the two ministers in question, was no such heinous crime as this religious (?) editor would have us believe?

"Religion never was designed to make our pleasures less,"

This living for "the other world" may be a beautiful ideal, but so far as becoming a practical success it has not been singularly distinguished. When it is meant that we should forsake worldly pleasures, duties and efforts for worldly improvements, "religion," or any other form or method by which we strive for a so called higher life, inevitably fails to ac-complish lasting good. While it is in a measure true that ideals and idealism inspire the progress of the world, yet the practical man is the one who translates idealism into achievement. Even reformers, alike outside and within our own movement, need to watch all tendencies to "other worldism" with care.44 The race may be growing towards idealism, but idealists are rare birds still. Not only is that true, but they are often impracticable and intractable as well. Therefore, it can be said with truth that while in this world we must live for the work, purpose and pleasures which pertain thereto, and doing so does not mean that we drop to lower levels than our own least thought, for surely we can improve, without entirely discarding, upon our methods of enjoying the pleasures belonging to the plane of life upon which we live.

Constructive Spiritualism.

William Emmette Coleman.

There is an icopoclastic Spiritualism, and There is an icoooclastic Spiritualism, and there is a constructive Spiritualism; with both I am in cordial sympathy. There is a cautious, discriminative Spiritualism, and there is an all-benevolent, quasi-charitable Spiritualism, which takes in any and every-thing that calls itself Spiritualism; with both of these I am not in sympathy, the first of the two being the one alone that commends itself to my judgment. To my mind, icono-clasm is as necessary in Spiritualism as is construction; but both require to be judi-ciously exercised. It is necessary that the mass of theological dead-wood cumbering the field of rational thought today should be remass of theological dead-wood cumpering the field of rational thought today should be re-moved, ere the temple of Spiritualistic truth can be upreared; and, to do this, earnest, persistent work is needed, critical, expositive and reformatory. To demonstrate the ration-ality of the tenets of the Spiritual philosophy, the irrationality of many of the elements of the irrationality of many of the elements of the popular faith must be established; and so iconoclasm and criticism, wisely handled, are

White and Day and many others,-will help us in the duty we have undertaken, and you good friends who so nobly support this paper will send your cheering thoughts towards us and thus add strength to our brain and arm.

Banner of Bight. the end. We make no promises then, none that need be voiced aloud, but such as we have made within the silence of our spiritwe will manfully strive to live up to. The unseen friends of the Summerland-Colby,

Will Mrs. T. A. Wardale, of Providence, R. L, kindly send her address to the editor? He replied to her recent favor, but as she sent no street and number the letter has been returned.

Many will be glad to welcome William Emmette Coleman to these pages once more. Our brother writes well, wields a facile as well as a caustic pen, is a hater of shams and a sturdy champion of the truth as it appeals to him. As a critic he is unequaled in our ranks, as a scholar and student he ranks deservedly among the best.

In the tenth line of the third paragraph on the second column of the front page of last week's issue an unfortunate omission of a ful stop after the word "making" and the omission of the capital letter from the word "according" a regrettable confusion of sense oc curred in that paragraph of Miss Susie C. Clark's "Brook Farm" article. In justice to the author and the philosopher we correct the mispunctuation.

If any of our friends do not see their favors in this issue of the "Banner" will they please understand that owing to the anniversary of the birthday of the Father of his country failing on Monday last the printers, like patriotic citizens, made holiday. Conse quently the materials of this issue had to be prepared two days in advance of the usua ne. Such news as reaches as in time will appear, the rest must be held over until next

Attention is directed to the verification of a spirit message which recently appeared in the Message Department. Such corroborations are very satisfactory from many points Mrs. Soule renders invaluable serce to the Cause in thus placing herself at the service of the "Banner" as its message dium, which fact is fully sustained by eformer. A reformer critically investigates, seeks out defects, and condemns without the least qualification, while a philosopher looks serenely into the causes and covers many evils and imperfections with a beautiful robe of charity.

Our ascended friend and bonored brother was, in his mental characteristics many sided, but with no duplicity. His love of truthof the exact truth-was (and is) almost a fierce passion. His estimate and appreciation of justice was high and uncompromising. His intellectual endowments were of the finest. If there was in your armor a weak spot his quick discernment would likely point t out to you, regardless of the wound it might inflict on your love of approbation. In his denunciation of errors, superstitions, cherished affections in religion, he was positive and excoriating.

Our great friend was not a lovable man. He commanded your respect, and at once impressed you with a certain feeling of unapproachableness You perceived that he was a scholar, a sharp critic, a seer of principles, and a gentleman of exquisite refinement and ensibility. This great ever-present sensitiveness caused him to bear pain with vehement impatience He repelled every discomfort and he quickly opposed all interference. He was armed at all points. If you did not know him, his sharp points would be likely to remind you that you came too near.

And yet during forty-two years of acquaintanceship and considerable familiar association with him, I never once felt the penetrating touch of his critical weapons. His financial resources seemed to be con mensurate with the demand of his beautiful home expenses, and perhaps a little over. This overplus, never abundantly as far as I knew, was given to the publication of many reform tracts and pamphlets. In a quiet (al-

$2,000,060. By her will Miss Walker provides for the erection and maintenance of a bishop's church in Boston, or, preferably, on her beautiful estate in Waltham and Watertown. The amount bequeathed comprises the residue of the testatrix's large property after certain other bequests have been paid These being satisfied, the remainder is left to Bishop Lawrence, the Rev. John S. Lindsay, who is designated in the will as archdeacon of Boston, E. Rollins' Morse and Richard Olney, "for the purpose of building, establishing and maintaining a cathedral or bishop's church of the Protestant Episcopal church in the said city of Boston, etc. The executors named are Harriet Sarah Walker, sister of the testatrix, and E. Bollins Morse of Beverly.

The edifice it is anticipated, if erected will be modeled after St. Botolph's Church, in Boston, Lincolnshire, England, for the Herald of this city says:

of this city says: "If a cathedral is erected in Boston, it is possible that it may be fashioned after the celebrated &t. Botolph's Church in Old Bos-ton, Eng. Bishop Lawrence preached in this church when in attendance on the Lambeth conference of bishops, and has expressed the fond hope that this old church might be da-plicated on the banks of the Charles. Its architecture would lend itself readily to cathedral purposes, as the accompanying pleture shows. It was built in 1309, and is the largest church without aisles in Great Britain. It is 291 feet in height. "Miss Walker has also made generous be-quests to other institutions and gave to the Waitham Hospital and other charities in at uff $5000 to each. About five years ago whe gave, approximately, $100,000 for the erection of the handsome Walker Memorial Art Gallery at Bowdoin College, in memory of her uncle, and equipped one room in the structure."

ten requisite preparatives for constructive Spiritual work. Careful discrimination is demanded alike in ar tearing down and in our upbuilding. oarse, crude criticism of that held sacred by those addressed may repel rather than attract the investigator of Spiritual phenomena and the investigator of spiritum phenomena and philosophy; whereas a judicious, discrimina-tive presentation of the errors and fallacies which we are desirous of overthrowing may be crowned with success. Still more careful should we be as to the character of that pre-sented as a substitute for the old-time dogshould we be as to the character of that pre-sented as a substitute for the old-time dog-mas. To free the mind from one load of superstition and error, only again to fill it with another burden as far removed from truth as was the former one, is of scant bene-fit. It behooves us, above all things else in Spiritualistic propagandism, to be particularly careful as to our constructive work. Let our facts be sure, and our conclusions thereupon sound. Let us not jump to conclusions too readily.

now as ever. Military despotism is still alter the two serves in the serves of the police, for all men should be secure in their rights at common we way and no legal action should be taken without due process of law being first observed. Honor for a Maine Woman. It is a good thing to be a "Reed from Maine," and more than one of this family has Armstrong Reed, now a resident of Chicago but born in the towp of Winthrop, Me, to be ar of an honor never before, according to the methal, and intellectual growth and progress, than that of the Spiritualists. Why, then do there work in resard to the "Ethics of Buddhism" was so appreciated by the Victorian Institute and Philosophical Society of the pretonders, who mee the sacced name of Spiritualist (acclusive, of course, of the police, the subject was accepted as a uthority. Here books on Hindu and Parsian literature received the warmest praise from the late Prof. Max

SITES IN THE SAME

$75.000.00

World's Fair Contest Co., 108 N. sth Street

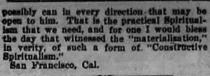

GENTLEMAN

EVERYWHERE"

By JAMES HENRY FOSS

" THE

St. Louis, Mo.

Indiana State Spiritualist Convention.

The arrangements are all completed for the future state Convention. It will be held in the Madison Ave. Spiritualist Temple at Au-erson, Ind., Feb. 28, 27 and 28, 1904. The local societies of the state will be represented by delegates and a state association composed of the local societies of the state, will be set of tale state will be represented by delegates and a state association composed of the local societies of the state, will be set of tale state will be represented by delegates and a state association composed of the local societies of the state, will be best of tale state. We have charge of the meeting. The best of tale state will be represented to the meeting of the state will be represented to the meeting of the state by delegate and the novement, or who wishes to attend a good meeting, should avail themselves of this opposite. Be We Sprague and Wife, N. 8. A. Missionaries. Address, Rochester, Ind.

Massachusetts State Association.

The Massachusetts State Association of Spiritualists will celebrate the 56th anniver-mary of modern Spiritualism on Thursday, March 31st, 1904, in Berkeley Hall, Berkeley

The best of talent will be presented and full details and notices of the same will ap-pear in due course. The following have been invited to serve

The following have been invited to serve upon the reception committee at the anniver-sary exercises to be held under the auspices of the Mass. State Association, each person representing a society. Mrs. L. M. Rowe, Boston Spiritual Temple; Mrs. M. E. A. Allbe, First Spiritualist Ladies' Aid Society; Mr. Irving F. Symonds, Veteran Spiritualists' Union; Mrs. Minnie M. Soule, Gospel Spirit Return Society; Mrs. A. H. Barnes, Ladies' Lyceum Union; Mrs. Ida P. A. Whitlock, Ladies' Industrial Union; Mr. J. E. Hayward, First Spiritual Temple; Miss Susie C. Clark, Mrs. M. C. Barrett and the Board of Directors of the State Associa-tion. tion

This meeting will be of interest to all Spir-itualists, and the meetings will be free all day.—Carrie L. Hatch, sec.

An Important Inquiry..

To the Editor of the Banner of Light: Will some of our friends give advice in the following matter?

The Ladies' Auxiliary of a spiritual society in a eity not a hundred miles south of the Mason and Dixon line elected a treasurer a short time ago, said treasurer to deposit the funds of said auxiliary in Bank in connection with a committee of two, said committee to countersign all checks. The above committee has made two ap-pointments with the treasurer, who has ig-mored the same. Although there have been two regular meetings of the auxiliary since, the treasurer has not attended either of them.

them

The auxiliary having no by-laws, what steps can be taken to compel the treasner to comply with instructions of the auxiliary, as the members are losing interest in the face of above conditions?

Anxious.

The Morris Pratt Institute.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

To the Editor of the Eanner of Light: By some kind of queer misapprehension the report has obtained circulation, especially in the East, that the Morris Pratt school is just about in the last throes of its earthly exist-ence. Its Board of Trustees feel it their duty to correct that misapprehension, and in order to do that it authorizes the following state-ment:

It is true that there are parties who have from doing its doty. The friends needed are those who will stand by us because of anti-cipated troubles. In any case the Morris Fratt Institute will live. When it becomes a great and prosper-ous institution, then the boast will come from those who by their silence or their open en-mity have tried to put it down that, "We have built up a great institution. We deserve much praise for we had great difficulties to overcome in giving the world this great seat of learning." Fer order of committee. Moses Hull, pres. Clara L. Stewart, sec.

Movements of Platform Workers.

To the Spiritualists of Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Missouri: We expect to turn our faces westward March 1st. We desire to hear from societies and individuals who would like our services.

would like our services. Please write us at once if you would like our services, or we may have passed you by before we hear from you. Address until March 10th Rochester, Ind. Home address 618 Newland Ave., Jamestown, N. Y.-E. W. Sprague and wife, N.-S. A. missionaries.

missionaries missionaries. G. W. Kates and wife will serve Lynn, Salem and other places in Massachusetts dur-ing March and April. They have some open week-nights, and the last Sunday of April. Address them at 25 School St., Lynn, Mass.

Announcements.

Announcements. The Children's Progressive Lyceum, No. 1, of Boston, meet in Bed Men's Hall, 514 Tre-mont St., Sundays at 11.30 a. m. A cordial welcome to all. The subject for the lesson of feb. 21st is Patriotism.—Mrs. M. J. Butler, pres.; Mrs. M. E. Stillings, sec. Cambridge Industrial Society of Spirituni-ists will hold its regular meeting Friday, Feb. 26, in Cambridge Lower Hall, 631 Mass. Ave. Circle from 3 to 4 p. m. Business meet-ing from 4 to 5. Supper served 6.30. Evening meeting 7.45. Mr. J. J. Morse, editor of the "Banner of Light," will be our speaker.—Mrs. Mabel Merritt, pres. The Boston Spiritual Lyceum meets in Friendship Hall, Odd Fellows' Building, Berkeley Street, Boston, every Sunday at 1.30 p. m. Lynn Spiritualists' Association, Cadet Hall, Alex.—Gaird, M. D., pres.—Sunday, Feb. 28th, Mrs. S. C. Cunningham, the noted test medium, will be present at 2.30 and 7.30. Circles are held by all mediums from 4 to 5, supper at 5, song service at 6, concert 6.30. The Children's Lyceum meets at 12.30. Ladies' Social Union every Wednesday after-noon and evening. Supper served at 6.15. America Hall, 724 Washington Street, Char E. Strong, president.—Sunshine Club holds meetings every Sunday. Morning circle at 11. Afternoon service at 3 and evening service at 7.30. Graphophone concert after-noon and evening. All mediums invited, Good talent every Sunday. O. D. Chapman, pianist. Home circles, 30 Huntington Ave., Room 420, every Tutsday and Friday. Ban-nianist. Home circles, 20 Huntington Ave., Room 420, every Tutsday and Friday. Ban-nianist. Home Circles, 20 Huntington Ave., Room 420, every Tutsday and Friday. Ban-nianist. Home Circles, 20 Huntington Ave., Room 420, every Tutsday and Friday. Ban-Nate Hall Rown Building 12% Pleasang ners for sale at all these meetings.—A. M. S., sec. Malden Progressive Spiritual Society, Louise Hall, Brown Building, 133 Pleasant Street, Harvey Redding, president. We hold meetings every Sunday at 3 p. m. Circle for developing and healing. Evening service, 7.30 p. m. The best of talent always present. We shall have with us Sunday, Feb. 28, Mrs. Mabel Witham of Boston. Song service pre-cedes each session. The "Banner of Light" on sale at all our meetings. The Progressive Spiritualists' Association, Lynn, Mass., Anna J. Quaide, president, meets at Templars' Hall, Market Street, on Sunday next, Feb. 28th. Mr. W. J. Hardy and Nellie Milcs, atternoon and evening. Supper at 6.15 p. m. Vocal and instrumental music and other interesting and instructive items.

music items.

The Post Check Plan.

A volume of verse, cloth-bound, 8½ by 6 inches, of over 250 pages that will be found interesting and in-structive to people of all ages and classes, at home, in the school, or at public entertainments. An excel-lent holiday or birthday gitt. Fublished under the supplees of Mrs. ELLA ROSS and JOSIFH STANLEY FALMER. Sent postpaid to any address upon receipt of $1.60. Why not also send 25 cents for a copy of the sweet-est of songs, 'TWAS A DEBAM I'LL LONG BE-MEMBER, the song that is fast becoming popular in the West.

HOMER DARLING TRASK.

through the mails. The necessity for a meas-ure of that character is all the greater be-cause of the rapid extension of the rural free delivery system, and it was on that ground mainly that Postmaster General Payne based D PEQUOT STOCKINGS The bill providing for the issue of post check currency would obviate all the annoy-ances and the difficulties attendant on the From Mill to Wearer Plain colors and embroidered designs in heavy, medium and light weights.

Noted for durability and absolutely fast color.

Why not save the dealer's profit and buy direct?

Five volumes in one substantial cover. A grand book of songs with music for the home, or meetings of any kind. This new edition of Longley's beautiful songs contains the con-tents of his four volumes hitherto published tents of his four volumes hitherto published in a series, with the addition of another—Vol. V.—of choice compositions; nearly all the songs of this later part have never been pub-lished; only two or three of the old established favorites of the author's productions are added to them, to satisfy the popular demand for these songs in a form that is convenient for congregation, as well as for home ase. This entire book contains seventy-six beauti-ful songs, with music. Every one is a gem. They are bound in boards, also in cloth, and are neat and substantial. All who know Longle's songs will wish a copy of this

The People's Handbook OF

J. C. F. GRUMBINE, 1285 Commonwealth Ave.,

BOSTON, MASS Fur sale by BANNER OF LIGHT PUB-LISHING COMPANY.

94B-25 26-95B-1 2

For sale by THE BANNER OF LIGHT PUB LISHING COMPANY.

<text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text>

ances and the difficulties attendant on the present system of transmitting money through the mails. The dweller in the rural district, equally with the dweller in the city, would have a cheap and convenient means of sending money through the mails absolutely safe and avoiding all question of torn or muti-lated bills or stamps stuck to the letter in which they were placed for transmission as the equivalent of money. ssess all the circu The post check would possess all the circu-lating and value qualities of the present sys-tem of bank notes, and by its retirement on presentation at any postoffice for payment and the issue of another in its stead would maintain a constant supply of clean money, and would make every man his own money order office, with no outlay of time required on his part. The bill is one of the greatest possible merit.—Cincinnati Commercial Trib-

A $75.000 Prize.

Some public spirited men in St. Louis, to promote interest in the great World's Fair which opens in May, have organized a contest which is open to everyone in the world, as to the number in attendance at the Fair.

which is open to everyone in the world, as to the number in attendance at the Fair. A fac-simile letter from the treasurer of the Missouri Trust Co., of St. Louis, in the possession of the publisher of this paper: "Certifies that the World's Fair Contest Company, incorporated, has this day de-posited with this company $75,000.00 in gold for the payment of the awards in its contest on a total paid attendance at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, 1904, and that such de-posit is held in trust by this company, to be paid by it to such successful contestants as the Committee of Awards may direct." The judges and other officials of the contest are men who are prominently connected with the Fair as officers, and also directors and officials in prominent banking institutions in St. Louis. It is quite an interesting contest, and we suggest that any of our readers interested write to the World's Fair Contest Co., for full information, addressing your letters to St. Louis, U. S. A.

We say that God is good, and so we trust Him. But what do we mean by goodness except the goodness we have seen here? In-finite goodness is, to our conception, human justice, human generosity, human pity, car-ried upward to their perfection. If we have no faith in man, how can we have faith in God? God?

mps with sample pair. Write for Booklet B 78.

PEQUOT MILLS, HARTFORD, CONN.

In ordering please mention Banner of Light. 94 B 21-95 B 2

COULSON TURNBULL.

COULSON TUENBULL, Anthor of Divine Language of Colestial Corres-pendences, Somakanda, Threshold Remories, Etc. will care'ally compute and write ont nativities. Special advice on Chikren's Horoscopes. Bathfac-tion guaran eed is every case. Terms $300 and up. Questions and Brief forcest; $1.00. Fifteen years reading the very bet references. C. TUENBULL: Ex 961, Spekance, Wash. N.B.-Send Bets, for "The Maivirg" a vinable treate with Instruction on the horoscope; its mystic meaning. etc.

Given Through the FaradayiMedium.

Embracing explanations of the beings that ere oride, and the motives of creation. Also a true osition of the ancient Hebrew revelations by sers and prophets of Israel.

Argel of the Covenant, Abraham, Moses. Joshus Bamuel, David, Elijab, Jeremiah. Daniel, Josephus.

Bamuel, David, Elijab, Jeremiab. Daniel, Josephus. This book is ore of the startling and unexpected results of the present spiritual dispensatios. It pur-ports to come from the minds of those who lived con-turies and cycles past. It advances the theory that as all spiritual beings that have ever lived on the return and record their past and present knowledge of spiritual realities. There is no imponetrable mystery about either the spiritual or mortal life according to these revelations. The practical laws of though transmission are util-ized in giving them. No.1 contains revelations from the suthors of the Hebrew system, in which the Angel of the Govenant Aortham, Moses, Joshus. Sumel, David, Elijah, Jeremish and Daniel of the old dispensation make historian.

Price, 20 cents, postage 2 ce

For sale by THE BANNEE OF LIGHT PUB-

Spiritual Science. A Course of Lessons for the Use of Students.

BY W. J. Colville.

CONTENTS

CONTENTS: LESSON 1. Old and New Schools of Healing and their Statems; Physical and Spiritmal Methods. LESSON 2. The Origin of Disease Metaphysically Con-idered; Bublecuive and Objective Okanese. LESSON 3. Positivity and Negativity; Self-Control and Self-Poles; Truth and Holiness or Wholensis.

tell Poles; Truth and Hollness or Wholen; is. LESSON 4. The Power of the Will; Divine Realization in Manutaining Health. LESSON 6. Hymotism, Sleep, Rest an Repose as Heal-ing Agenia. Paper rowers. Fries Science. For sale by BANNER OF LIGHT FUBLISHING CO.

GEORGE A. PORTER. BUSINESS AND TEST MEDIUM AND MAGNETIC HEALER.

BACTETTO HEALER. Bittings daily for test, business, and modical diagnosis, 1.60. Theory of the second sec

Wards, 51.8. GEORGE A. POBTER. Ocanacied with the bealing work. after Sept. Ist, to a limited number Mr. Porter will give mental treatments for 50.05 month. Each patient will be treated person-ally by my guide, connection being established by con-contration and correspondence. For further particulars nead simmed envelope to GBO. A. POBTER, 30 Dart-month St. Sostes, Mas. Mr. Porter refers by permis-sion to the publishers of the Banner of Light. Ald

BIOCHEMISTRY THE NATURAL LAW OF CURE THE TRIUMPH OF CHEMISTRY OVER DISEASE. BIOPLASMA. abination of the Twelve Coll-Saits of the H ism that Supplies Deficiencies and Oures D nan Or of the

o Discognation, Responses and chartfiller (des, Cruitz, greina and nois. Sent by re-re, ter one mouth, BLASS for two mouth months, W7.40 (for siz mouths, BL size, TBL es, Address Dr. (TDB) 47711 Franktin St., St., Lords, St. ALL W

They are bound in boards, also in cloth, and are neat and substantial. All who know I.ongley's songs will wish a copy of this sightly and convenient work. All who have yet to become acquainted with them, will find their money well invested in purchasing a copy, and in singing or listening to these rare melodics with their sweet and uplifting words. Longley's beautiful songs were publicly in-dorsed by the N. S. A. Convention of 1902, and delegates from different sections stated that these compositions were entirely used in the meetings of their respective sociaties. The Convention in Cleveland of 1900 had no other songs than Mr. Longley's compositions on its program for evening meetings. For sale re-tail, and to the trade, at this office. Price, boards, 40 cents per copy. 60 cents in cloth covers. In cloth covers per doz. $5.00, and in board covers $3.50. Special prices made to societies or agents for large orders. For Sale by Banner of Light Fablishing

For Sale by Banner of Light Publishing any.

The Psychic Secret OF

How to Keep Young.

BY J. M. PEEBLES, M. D.

is spiendid work Dr. J M. Peobles, the ver d"Spiritual Pilvrun," deals with this inte . It is rich in historical references, and g reloable information v ith require to all ope ing to the weifare of the race in all ages allo In this spl matheet. It is rich in historical re-and (i valuable information vish-pertaining to the writare of the re-has been man. The vene able 1 how to keep young through the how to keep young through the reading to the read of the providence of the pro

O oth, III Inter Bate. Trice 11.00.

FEBRUARY 27, 1904

Our Dame Circle. EDITED BY MINNIE MESERVE SOULE.

The Vow of Washington.

The sword was sheathed; in April's sun Lay green the fields by Freedom won; And severed sections, weary of debates, Joined hands at last and were United States

How felt the land in every part The strong throb of a nation's heart, As its great leader gave, with reverent av His pledge to Union, Liberty, and Law!

That pledge the heavens above him heard, That yow the sleep of centuries stirred; In world-wide wonder listening peoples bent Their gaze on Freedom's great experiment.

Could it succeed? Of honor sold And hopes deceived all history told. Above the wrecks that strewed the mournful

Was the long dream of ages true at last?

Thank God! the people's choice was first, The one man equal to his trust, Wise beyond lore, and without weakness good, Calm in the strength of flawless rectitude!

His rule of justice, order, peace, Made possible the world's release; Taught prince and serf that power is but a trust. And rule alone, which serves the ruled is just:

That freedom generous is, but strong In hate of fraud and selfish wrong, Pretence that turns her holy truth to lies, And lawless license masking in her guise.

For rule and trust must needs be ours: Chooser and chosen both are powers Equal in service as in rights; the claim Of Duty rests on each and all the same. John G. Whittier.

A Link in Our Golden Chain.

THE CONSCIOUSNESS OF VIRTUE IS VIRTUE'S REWARD.

Spiritualism-the Evangel.

Spiritualism—the Evangel. She is dead. All the wild beatings of her heart are still. Her eye that sought our own and spoke in luminous language is hidden be-neath its snowy cover. The lips, all tremu-lous and sweet, move not. All unresponsive to our sobbings, she lies cold and still. And all our misunderstandings are dead. They died with her body. Death has killed our knowledge of everything about her, save her striving after better things. How her soul and its longings are revealed to our aching hearts, as tearless and dumb we sit in the shadow. A nameless agong takes possession of us. A thousand questions pierce the sishadow. A nameless agony takes possession of us. A thousand questions pierce the si-lence. Forgotten acts of kindness force them-selves on our recollection. Oh, wonderful, wonderful Death! cutting with icy finger the jewel from its setting! Rending the veil that has blinded us! Swiftly we how beneath the lash of regret as memory binds us to the past. Vain our devices to gather comfort through comparisonal obsaurable. No value beings iour conventional channels. No voice brings joy no argument gives peace: For one consecrated hour of communion with her, we would give all we possess. See, through the shadow, a light is stealing! Hark, through the silence the loved voice is speaking! Sweetly and tenderly she speaks and our hearts cease beating, that no word be lost.

"I understand and I say that your loving deeds, which you have long forgotten, are roses in my path today. I remember your patience and my impatience, your strength and my weakness. Death has given me larger vision just as it has you. Let us walk to gether and forgetting our own shortcomings, build for each other a house of trust on the foundation of our knowledge of what each has attained." Oh, blessed moment, and thrice blessed message! Now the day dawns. Now the pathway lightens. The heart grows strong, and though the burden be heavy it is never unbearable. Love whispers in the ear and smiles come for Love says, "Always with you, always near." 'I understand and I say that your loving smiles come for Love says, Liways man you, always near." Has Spiritualism outlived its usefulness? Has any new fad or any new thought been able to do its work? Can any cult or any church save us the agony of the death chamber? chamber?

As long as love is the sweetest and strongest expression given to mortals, so long will love wait and suffer and sob each side the grave till the spirit message is wafted o'er the chasm.

George Washington.

Time often separates us from people aud events until the heroes of history become un-real and shadowy. If we can but take our familiar names in history and put them in the setting of the work-a-day world, they will siris before they have arrived at your age, have been found so trustworthy as to take the whole trouble of a family from their mothers; but it is by a steady and rigid attention to the rules of propriety that such confidence is obtained, and nothing would give me more pleasure than to hear that you had acquired it. The merits and benefits of it would re-dound more to your advantage in your prog-ress through life, and to the person with whom you may in due time form a matri-monial connection, than to any others; but to none would such a circumstance afford more real satisfaction than to your affectionate uncle."—To Harriot Washington, Oct. 20, 1791.

Fear and Love.

Fear and love are deadly enemies and one will kill the other if left together. "I love you so much that I am in constant fear of losing you." is often considered a tribute to a much esteemed friend, but fear is a poison a much esteemed friend, but fear is a poison and will taint the sweetest love, the grandest passion, until distorted and misshapen, it doses itself in a sea of doubt and despair. The mother who loves devotedly and yet lives in constant fear of danger and dis-ease or temptation and sin that may beset her darling is literally breaking down all safe-guards which love would erect and makes that darling a weakling, through lack of open vigorous-action or a tissue of de-ception, woven to blind her eyes. The wife who lives in constant fear of losing her husband because of the attractions and graces of other women is soon bereft of and graces of other women is soon bereft of every lovable and beautiful attainment and becomes to that loved husband an object of devotion through pity, or of neglect, through disgust.

disgust. The husband who fears his wife may neg-lect her home if she has freedom or that she will become a spend-thrift and waste his money, unless he holds the cash-box, in-variably finds a subservient slave, in the place of a loving helpmeet, or a broken-spirited woman, whose dog-like devotion speaks of the master's whip. From of loving place in the heart of a the master's whip. Fear of losing place in the heart of a friend, will soon generate jealousy, that terrible scourge, the destroyer of peace. There is a time in the undeveloped life of most of us, when it seems as if jealousy were most of us, when it seems as if jealousy were a proof of love. "Oh, he is so jealous of me, he can't bear to have any one even look at me," says a young lady, triumphantly, in speaking of her fiance. The pain, the horror, the tragedies that may be the outcome of such an expression are swallowed up in the glamour of domin-ating, so completely, one man's life. Oh, could we all but know the glory of that perfect love which casteth out fear! Then we would not only refuse to entertain any other in our own hearts but would refuse to allow any less expression from any one in to allow any less expression from any one in the wide word, cast its shadow over our

What sublime joy! What realization of hopes for perfect happiness! "So completely do I love you, that fully do I trust you. You can do no wrong. My trust shall be a shield in time of temptation, a staff in time of need."

These shall be our words to those we love, for as sure as jealousy is begotten of fear, so trust is a child of love.

Busy Boy.

"Willle seems to have a great deal on his mind these days. See him, so deeply wrapped in thought. Probably thinking over his lessons for tomorrow." "You don't know Willie. He is just now studying up the question of what comic valentine he can send his teacher that will be the meanest."—The Baltimore News.

A Mother's Influence.

A Mother's Influence. "My father got his appointment from Washington in March, 1853. His wife had but one solicitude in leaving America; her mother was aged and in delicate health, and their parting might be forever in this world. But a month before the appointment was confirmed, her mother quietly and pahlessly died. It was as if she had wished not to be separated from her beloved daughter, and had entered into the spiritual state in the expectation of being nearer to her there than she could be in the world. My mother al-ways affirmed that she was conscious of her mother's presence with her on momentous mother's presence with her on momentous occasions during the remainder of her own life."-Hawthorne and His Circle, by Julian Hawthorne, page 76.

When Willie Hurries.

AS RELATED BY LITTLE BOWLAND.

- My brother Willie he Just always lags And drags— He's slow as he can be.
- And Mama has to say: "Come Willie, hurry, pray!" Whenever she Want's him to help, 'cause he's so slow—
- But, oh, You ought to hear him when He says his prayers at night! I tell you then Message Department.

Report of Seance held February 23, 1994 S. E. 56.

MEDIUM, MRS. MINNIE M. SOULE

IN EXPLANATION.

The following communications are given by Mrs. Sonie while under the control of her own guides for the good of the individual spirits seeking to reach their friends on earth. The messages are reported stano-graphically by a representative of the "Ban-ner of Light" and are given in the presence of other members of the "Banner" staff. These circles are not public.

TO OUR BEADERS.

TO OUB READERS. We earnestly request our patrons to verify such communications as they know to be based upon fact in these columns. This is not so much for the benefit of the "Banner of Light" as it is for the good. The reading public. Truth is truth and will bear its own burdens wherever it is made known to the world. In the cause of truth, kindly assist us to find those whom you believe may verify them. Many of them are not Spiritualists or subscribers to the "Banner of Light" so may we ask each of you to become a missionary for your particular locality?

Invection.

O Spirit of Peace, breathe upon our wait-ing hearts. Listening here for the voice of the spirit may we be so responsive to the elightest vibration that we may understand, and, understanding, may walk in the light of the truth that is revealed to us. May every unkind thought be cast away from us this hour by our carnest desire to live the holier and the purer life of the spirit. And, in this attitude, this desire, may we receive the mes-suge for those who wait in anguish and in pain. May the blessing of the knowledge of the spirit return be to their tear-dimmed the spirit return be to their tear-dimmed eyes as a great light that breaks through and shines upon them. May the word spoken by the spirit be as a sweet token of love that speaketh, that liveth, that understandeth, beyond the grave. Amen. MESSAGES.

Emma Leland.

The first spirit that comes to me this after-noon is a woman about thirty, tall and slender and fair. She seems to be very much dis-turbed over her condition in the spirit, as though she could not rest until she had spoken the word to her people. Her name is Emma Leland and she lived in Lansing, Mich. She says, "I want to get to Frank and tell him I am anxious to have him realize that I am near him. Sometimes it seems as if he must understand, for he pays attention in a way and then he seems to just throw his head down as if he had been mistaken and couldn't realize I was there. I know how his life is broken up by my coming, and I would like him to believe what Warren says, for Warren has had more experience than he and would not lead him astray. I have seen Fred and I am often with Aunt Ella. She is very happy and tries to make me so hy telling me that the time will come when I will know why this separation had to come to us." The first spirit that comes to me this afterus."

Stephen Gates.

Stephen Gates. I see a spirit now of a man perhaps fifty-five or six years old. He is very short and stout and has a very happy, good-natured looking face. He says, "Please do not spend too much time tilking about how I look, but just say that my name is Stephen Gates and I am from Washington. This is such a new thing for me that I hardly know how to con-duct myself. A thousand things come in my mind that I want to say. I am anxious to tell my people about how I am getting on over here, but I am anxious to make them under-stand that every minute they live is import-ant because of its reflex action here. I have heard the theory of living first in this life and that the nortal life was but the shadow of the spirit, but, somehow, I believe that be-cause I find that everything I did when I was in the body has its effect on my life over here. I wish Abbie could know just what I know and that she wouldn't so determinedly set her face against the light. She seems to think she is doing the will of the Lord when she refuses to get any word from the spirit, and she seems to think the Lord only works in she seems to think the Lord only works in one way and that is through religion, but as one way and that is through religion, but as far as I am concerned I can see that He works in the religious way in every other sen-timent in life. I found Paul. He met me and seemed to know I was anxious to under-stand all about spiritual life, for he took me to people who had been over here a long time and it wasn't any time, it seemed to me, before I grasped the understanding of the growth that can come to us here. I go to lectures, I talk with my friends, and I some-times the trans through the woods, and after a while it seemed to take effect and the half feit I was, and from that time on I be-came a part of the household. Now I feel pretty free and pretty happy as though I had accomplished a good deal. It isn't because they have forgotten me that they are hap-pler, but it is because I was able to express something to them even though they were un-conscious of it."

Nellie Sanderson.

Define Constant. A woman comes about thirty-five or slix, medium height, dark curly hair and rever dark eyes. She is really very pretty and nice. She sars. 'This is my first attempt, though, they used to call me mediumistic. I did not upderstand what they meant exactly. I did not they may a laways having impressions', that i couldn't bear some people and some others i liked very much, but I called it oddity and i foot of the very suddenly; just a little illness and a real ways that. I came over to this slde of life very suddenly; just a little illness and a real text of pain, and I was here. I did not some that I called it oddity and have done anything if I had. It seems sometimes when I see spirits trying to trik and hear them telling of what they would have done if they had only known as if the woat of people put off doing the things they would have done had I known. I did not have any boyle in particular did wont where I would have had it go, any words of comfort to, but I donot over here those who had been with I wanted to say words of comfort, who is done way when I was a child and when they is boyle. My mother, who is a child and when they had and yearned for, she was the always missed and yearned for, she was they name is Nellie Sanderson and I usay tay.''

Dotty.

ay."

There is a little girl who calls herself Dotty. She looks about five years old. She is light, very golden hair, and it is curled, but does not seem to be naturally curly. It looks as if it was done up in some way and curled. She is dressed in a pink plaid, looks like a pink gingham, whito stockings and little shoes that lace. She seems to have been gone some time to the spirit because her clothes look as though they were made a long time ago. She shows me spirit because her clothes look as though they were made a long time ago. She shows me herself now grown to a young lady, so she must have been gone years. She says, "They will best remember me by the name of Dotty and so I bring that as my title for rec-ognition. I have been a guide for a long time to those where I came from. They are mediums but do not associate with Spirit-ualists much, not knowing how good the Spir-itualists are, and so I came today honjur I itualists are, and so I came today hoping indicates and so a came today normal a would infine the toget out among that kind of people more and they would learn and understand more about things if they could only be with them. I want to send the word to Mr. Abbott, and I want him to know that I did really come to see him and that I will again as soon as I can."

Mrs. Annie Marston.

Mrs. Annie Marsten. A spirit comes of a woman about sixty. Her hair is white, her eyes are gray and her face is a little long and thin. She is dressed in deep black as if she wore black for a long time before she came over. She looks rather sad, as though she had had a great deal to go through with. She says, "Truly you speak as it is, for it was a relief to me to come over here. I am Mrs. Annie Marston and 'I lived in Atlanta. I only come to tell those I left that I found everything prepared for me. I knew that Joseph would have everything ready and I often said so, but Sadle and Grace were so sure I was mistaken and that it was a fancy of mine, that they could not and would not allow me to talk about it. So I bid it all within my heart, but today I feel like telling them that mother is just as ready to speak to them as father was to speak to her. They must give an opportunity and then I will give them the word they wish sometimes they might hear. Katie will be better. Do not worry about her. She is only ill for a lit-tit and will be better by and by. I found Grandma Geoffry and she is as happy as a queen to have all her children at last with her. She says, Tell them that I am happier tan any queen I ever saw because I have no crown to press heavily upon my poor old head.'"

A Spirit Message Verified. To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

I wish to acknowledge the receipt of the communication in your issue of Feb. 6, given by Eliza Wheeler. The personal description of the spirit as given by the medium was perfect. It was as good a description of my sis-ter while in the physical body, as I could have given myself. I am certain the medium never saw my

I am certain the medium never saw my sister, and an reasonably convinced that she did not know that such a person ever lived. There were several statements in the mes-sage of deep significance, written in a way which would be blind to strangers, but the meaning of which was perfectly clear to me and crime. and crime. The responsibility rests upon every indi-vidual knowing these truths. Let us then see to it that every developing young sensitive as far as possible be protected against disorderly spirits, and taught to maintain psy-chical and mental equilibrium. Then only can we be blameless. She was an older member of a large fam-She was an older member of a large fam-ily, while I was the youngest, and she often said our relationship was more like mother and son, than sister and brother; besides, our tastes were congenial. I have no doubt but what the message emanated from the living mind of my sister, Eliza, who left the physical form several years acc Barton Stewart. Chicago, Ill. NEW EVERY MORNING. physical form several years ago. I thank the medium for giving the message, I thank the medium for struck and you for publishing it. Yours respectfully, Wm. W. Wheeler Every day is a fresh beginning; Every morn is the world made new. You who are weary of sorrow and sinning, Here is a beautiful hope for you— A hope for me and a hope for you. Meriden, Conn., Feb. 14, 1904. All the past things are past and over; The tasks are done and the tears are shed. Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover; Yesterday's wounds which smarted and Spirit Hypnotism Seen Clairvoyantly. In many of the recent articles of our spir-itual writers I note the claim that medium-ship, psychology, or hypnotism, are either wholly beneficent or entirely injurions. The spirit editor, James M. Finck, of the Reformer and Humanitarian Magazine, Gal-veston. Texas, having been in the spirit bled, Are healed with the healing which night Fred Bandy.
There is a print of a young man where the failed by the observation of the second failed by the change from the samahing of the samahing has shed. Yesterday now is a part of forever, Bound up in a sheaf which God holds tight, With glad days and sad days and bad days which never Shall visit us more, with their bloom and their blight, Their fulness of sunshine or sorrowful night. Let them go, since we cannot relieve them, Cannot undo and cannot atona. God in His mercy receive, forgive them! Only the new days are our own; Today is ours, and today alone. Here are the skies, all burnished brightly, Here is the spent earth all reborn, Here are the tired limbs springing lightly To face the sun and to share the morn In the chrism of dew and the cool of dawn. Every day is a fresh beginning, Listen, my soul, to the glad refrain, And, in spite of old sorrow and older sinning, And puzzles forecasted and possible pain; Take heart with the day and begin again. Susan Coolidge. God never works through a discouraged nan.-Moody's favorite saying.

Individual existence, either good or vil, nor did I have to go to the haunts of sid, or the holy of holies to see them, but in church seen both classes. What a blessing are the true and the good, robed in ethereal white, beaming with love and spirituality, radiant with that higher in-teligence, Orientals and Occidentals bearing peace and harmony, soothing the sorrowing, healing the afflicted, teaching through the various phases of mediumship the truths of a figher, spiritual, happler life, griding and gind a truth. Some as companions talking and a suggesting to their sensitives, others working independently, only requiring the more material magnetism of a mortal person as an aid, others psychologiaing to full con-trol, while others control from within the brain, using the vocal organs independently, the sensitive being fully conscious. Yes I have assisted the higher forces in break-ing the hypnotic power of injurious spirits, ing the hypnotic power of injurious spirits, in one instance I seemed impelled to go to the home of a friend on Lake Avenue, this esensitive, suffering from nervous prostration and great depression. I described to the city. On arriving I found the daughter, a fine sensitive, suffering from nervous prostration and great depression. I described to the family the spirit of a relative who in life had attempted their financial ruin. There he was hovering near the daughter, and projecting the most injurious vibrations that he could command. I was told to walk back and forth through the rooms and break his vi-brations by sweeping the atmosphere with my hand. In a short time the daughter was as well and joyous as ever, and there is not brations dy sweeping the atmosphere with my hand. In a short time the daughter was as well and joyous as ever, and there is not as purer, nobler young lady anywhere than she. The cause lay not in her mediumship, or her character, but in the malicious nature of the obsessing spirit, and without assistance her case would have been most serious. The wife of an acquaintance who 'knew nothing of control became clairaudient, and thinking that only the good could communi-cate, she gave heed to their advice and with-in two days it became necessary to call in a physician and a Healer. While in the home of a friend I met a noble, virtuous young man. I saw a monk control him to repeat poetry, and to give the name of Edgar Allen Poe as his name. Having read a description of Poe and some of his writings, there was no comparing the two.

writings, there was no comparing the two. writings, there was no comparing the two. Then another claiming to be Tennyson spoke through him. Finally he passed into a trance condition, becoming cold and white as in death, and an ordinary spirit claiming to be Ohrist spoke to us, not as the Christ would, but as an impostor, not knowing we were clairvoyant. I ence saw an investigator stretch out his arms so that his form represented a cross, then he remarked, "As this is emblematic of the cross, so was I crucified. I am the Christ." In looking back of this person I The cross, so was a cruched. I am the Christ." In looking back of this person I saw two very dark spirits psychologizing him to do and say what he had. Another party was hypnotized to believe himself greater than the president and was impelled by un-seen forces to go to the station to purchase a ticket to Washington, D. C. The public would have called these persons insane, not seeing the spirit psychologizers. I would like to mention one other too trust-ful a sensitive; spirits claiming to be her loved ones through the removing and restoring powers of spirit physicians and healers was she saved from paralysis and insanity, and is now serving the spirit world as a medium for human progress.

she saved from paralysis and insanity, and is now serving the spirit world as a medium for human progress. While traveling on a railway train I glanced down the aisle and coming from the farther end was a most debauched spirit; he was met by higher forces and ejected from the car. / Another time on entering a car I was attracted to a person I felt sure was a sensitive, and at the same time a spirit force seemed hurled across my forehead like an electric shock and my brain felt grasped as it were. Conscious of the source I sent out all the resistive will power I possessed and the loving voice of my guardians assured me that they would take charge of the offending spirit, while a prayer went out from my soul that the sensitive stranger was also pro-tected. It was a spirit earthbound, desper-ate, without a sense of justice or feeling. Again when traveling I have seen beautiful spirit children in the laps of their parents, with clinging arms about their necks, and spiritboved ones sitting beside the living and to me it seems as natural to see both as to see only those the world calls living. These are truths that an eternity of discussion can-not change, but may stimulate to deeper thought and investigation. Mediumship is a glorious blessing and not the source or cause of injury to the medium.

thought and investigation. Mediumship is a glorious blessing and not the source or cause of injury to the medium. Individualized spirit possessed of the evil principles of mankind and the knowledge of hypnotism, asserting those principles and hypnotic power to the injury of mortals is the one great cause of much of human suffering and crime.

ean infinitely more to us as we read of their brave deeds.

brave deeds. To many a boy and girl, George Washing-ton is only the "Father of his country," or "the boy who could not tell a lie;" and the pictures of his strong, majestic face set these impressions deeply in the mind. But he was a man, human and care-burdened. All the energies of his life were being sapped and strained to establish a strong and safe government.

In the midst of his many duties of state he writes a letter to his orphan nice, so full of fatherly wisdom and love, with such an understanding of the needs of a girl, that it must interest us all. He becomes our adand friend through its plain and simple advice.

WASHINGTON'S ADVICE TO A YOUNG ORPHAN NIKCE.

"Occupied as my time now is and must be during the sitting of Congress, I nevertheless will endeavor to inculcate upon your mind the delicacy and danger of that period to which you are now arrived under peculiar circumstances.

"You are just entering into the state of "You are just entering into the state of womanhood, without the watchful eye of a mother to admonish, or the protecting aid of a father to advise and defend you; you may not be sensible that you are at this moment about to be stamped with that character which will adhere to you through life; the "consequences of which you have not perhaps attended to, but be assured it is of the utmost importance that you ahould."

Consequences of which you may hold perhaps attended to, but be assured it is of the utmost importance that you should.
"To be under but little or no control may be pleasing to a mind that does not reflect, but this pleasure cannot be of long duration; and reason, too late perhaps, may convince you of the folly of misspending time. You are not to learn, I am certain, that your fortune is small. Supply the want of it, then, with a well cplifwated mind, with disposition to industry and frugality, with gentleness of manners, an obliging temper, and such qualifortion as will attract notice and recommend you to a happy establishment for life.
"You might, instead of associating with hose from whom you can derive nothing that is deceitful, lying, and bad, become the intimate companion of, and aid to, your consin in the domestic concerns of the family. Many

He hustles up, all right, And nearly 'fore I get 'To where it says to let "Thy will be done,"-both starting even, too,-He's through!

The Secret of Success.

"What is the secret of success?" asked the Sphinx. "Push," said the Button. "Take pains," said the Window. "Never be led," said the Pencil. "Always keep cool," said the Ice. "Be up to date," said the Calendar. "Do business on tick," said the Clock. "Never lose your head," said the Barrel. "Do a driving business," said the Hammer. "Aspire to greater things," said the Nut-

"Make light of everything," said the Fire. much of small things," said the Make "Never do anything off hand," said the Glove. 'Spend much time in reflection," said the Mirror. "Do the work you are suited for," said the Flue. "Get a good pull with the ring," said the Doorbell. "Be sharp in all your dealings," said the Knife. "Find a good thing and stick to it," said

"Strive to make a good impression," said the Seal.

Huxley's Definition of the Church.

Hurley's Definition of the Ohurch. "A place in which, week by week, services should be devoted, not to the iteration of ab-stract propositions in theology, but to the set-ting before men's minds of an ideal of true, just, and pure living; a place in which those who are weary of the burden of daily cares should find a moment's rest in the contempla-tion of the higher life which is possible for all, though attained by so few; a place in which the man of strife and business should have time to think how small, siter all, are the rewards he covets, compared with peace and charity."-Universalist Leader.

- Jack

times take tramps through the woods, and wherever I am, I am able to see what is going on in the home of my friends. It seems to be a sort of telescopic sight that makes it boostille for me to see from any place that I may be, but I cannot see any one from this distance that I am not in harmony with. When I want to see somebody that I do not care much about and have only a desire to see them for some number of then love care much about and have only a desire to see them for some purpose other than love, I have to go into the presence and find them in that way. I find I have a certain amount of power, too, but I do not know how to talk about it, so I guess I will wait until I can tell a little more definitely what I can do. I send this message to prove that I have neither forgotten nor lost interest, and that anything I can do I shall do, and any amount of turn-ing away from the message that I send will not deter me the least whit, but make me the more strong in my effort to express."

Fred Handy.

FEBRUARY 27, 1904.

BANNER LIGHT. OF

from Our Exchanges.

The Paris Bourse.

The Paris Bourse. There are only seventy brokers in the Paris dred of the New York Sitok Exchange, and the three thousand of London. The Paris and operating under direct government con-trol. The New York and London exchanges with laws that are binding upon members only because of their voluntary acceptance. Cleveland Montett's vivid, picturesque style is well known. His story of the life and workings of this "place of maddening bewil-derment" to a stranger, this "stronghold of the Strengt, the great financial machine of France," will be well worth the reading. Mr. Montett is a graduate of Yale, and was on the European staff of the New York Herald for of the New York Recorder, but for ten years has devoted all his time to magazine work...-March Century. March Century.

Andrew Jackson Davis.

We have been reading over again some of Andrew Jackson Davis' works, and it has re-called to mind how much the world is in-debted to him, and how little expression it has given to its appreciation—even by Spirit-ualists. He is the father of all the so-called "New Thought" of the times—Mental Sci-ence, Divine Science, Suggestive Therapeu-tics, Christian Science, etc., etc. The good that he has done the world cannot be meas-ured, and we think that some one ought to ured, and we think that some one ought to start a movement through which all the peo-ple may tender him acknowledgment of their appreciation.—The Universal Republic.

The Grace of Hospitality.

Hospitality is a grace. But, it is to be feared that its observance is on the wane in reared that its observance is on the while in average community life. Hospitality is not the spasmodic, formal en-tertainment of one's friends and acquaint-ances, be that entertainment occasional, an-nual or biennial. To be dignified with the title of hospitality, the observance should be frequent in its exercise and continual in its spirit. spirit.

In many social circles there is a periodic An many social circles there is a periodic extension of more or less formal entertain-ment, mainly for the purpose of repaying similar courtesies, but seldom do we find a household that may be truthfully said to be genuinely hospitable in the fullest sense of the

The reasons for a decline in hospitality are

The reasons for a decline in hospitality are manifold and complex. Among a few which may be named are: high pressure living, the growth of social and business rivalries, and the uncertainties of the help problem. In most communities, clubs of men and clubs of women are maintained. It is a no-ticeable fact that such clubs are successful just in proportion as they draw out the hos-pitable spirit of the members. Clubs that meet in hired halls, in college chapels and in semi-public places, never gain the prestigo nor_produce the enthusiasm/that are the re-sultants of meetings held in the private homes sultants of meetings held in the private homes of the members.

It is this phase of hospitality that we would here emphasize. Many clubs of women, for example, lead a feeble existence, languish and eventually die out, mainly because they lack this element of hospitality. It might be well for some such clubs to take up this suggestion and exploit it.--Madame, Springfield, Ohio.

A Dinner Carrier's School in the South.

There is a school less than a year old, in Columbus, Ga., which typifies to many who have studied it, the truest educational work Columbus, Ga., which typifies to many who have studied it, the truest educational work yet found among an important class of toil-ers. It is a primary industrial school for the children of the factory districts. The name, "Dinner-Carriers' School," has been fastened upon it by the fact that most of its pupils must carry the noon meal to fathers, moth-ers, brothers, sisters, working in the mills. The name is not obnoxious either to pupils of teachers, and it is probable that the school will long be distinguished by it, or by its equivalent in the mill people's parlance, the "Dinner-Toters' School." Yet neither phrase quite covers the ground, since many a pupil, some well suited to the task, some merely tots, must leave the school each morning at ten o'clock and 'go to the place called home, to cook the dinner before carrying it to the bread-winners among the spindles. The factories are new in the South, remem-ber. In general, this is the first generation of operatives in the mills. They are all white, and have come in from the fields of cotton and corn, the small rented farms or the hill-top hus. An entirely agricultural class for generations back, they are suddenly turned into a manufacturing one. Belonging to our own soil, untouched by alien blood, unmodi-fied by urban or communistic tranditions, with their very vices rustic, they have been sud-denly thrust into community life, to master a new occupation and wrest from it a better subsistence than out of the old toils. Long familiar with extreme poverty, they are too new occupation and wrest from it a better subsistence than out of the old toils. Long familiar with extreme poverty, they are too little afraid of it; hence, by any ordinary rat-ing they would not be called an industrious people. In the old life of share-farming, pasturing and kindred occupations, industry appeared to count for too little to be esteemed a wholly desirable virtue. Chastity, truth in the domestic relations, though not always steadfastly maintained, is yet the saving grace. Truth-telling scarcely ranks so high, and notions of personal honor are adjustable. Cleanliness, alast is out of the counting; but some excuse for this exists in the fact that in their former rural life, abundant space be-tween neighbors, with cleansing sumahine, air, and pure country water, rendered lack of and pure country water, rendered lack of neatness in regard to kitchens, backyards, beds, and even persons, a less deadly sin than in the crowded factory quarters, where sani-tation, if won at all, is hardly won.—Leonora. Beck Ellis, in The Pilgrim for February.

by a crucial scientific investigation of the fruth of spiritual intercourse, commissioned his father (a former Speaker in the Senate of Pennsylvania), who had been upwards of half a century in the spirit world, to qualify himself to give him reliable information on After an absence of three or four months he returned and gave his son a condensed report of what he had ascertained from more ad-anced intelligences, the following paragraph from which is apropos to our present subject: "The spiritual body is a perfect human form, originating in, and analogous to, the corporeal organization in its several parts, intertions and relations. The heart beats in furthing pulsations, the lungs fulfil their office of respiration, and the brain generates is vitalized magnetic fluid, whose life-giving gurrants permeate every portion of the spiri-tual organism. Man in the rudimental state of soni and spirit. Having approached the oristic of form as he would put away a work-ot and spirit. Having sproached the oristic of of eveloping his more beautiful and ev-cellent spiritual body, and of bringing him ito more inmediate relationship with tho outer world, can serve his purposes no longer."—The Harbinger of Light, Met-ourse, Austral. Ba Compulsion in Taemenia.

No Compulsion in Tasmania.

We learn from the Tasmanian papers of We learn from the Tasmanian papers of October 28th that on the previous evening in the House of Assembly a compulsory vacci-nation clause in a Public Health Bill was rejected by a majority of two to one, 16 votes to 8. "The Hobart Mercury" says that Mr. Jenson then moved that all the clauses refer-ring to vaccination be struck out. The Chief Secretary offered no further objection, and said that would mean that the law remain as at present.

Secretary offered no further objection, and said that would mean that the law remain as at present. This is a notable victory, for since the Launceston small-fox scare, of which we gave some amusing details in our September issue; the pro-vaccinists have apparently been having their own way in Tasmania. But they have evidently sickened their people of vaccination. The Chief Secretary, Dr. Mc-Call, appears to be a vaccination bigot of the deepest dye. But he was unable to get his colleagues in the Ministry to exclude a con-science clause from the Bill. He called it a wretched clause. It does not appear to have been wretched enough not to be accepted by him in preference to resigning his office. He said we were paying dearly for the conscience clause in England, sunall-pox being practi-cally always with us. Dr. McCall is wrong, and it was long before his speech that Lord Balfour on behalf of the English Government denied in the House of Lords that the small-pox we have had since 1901 had anything to do with the conscience clause. Dr. McCall ought to know that the recent recrudescence of small-pox began in Glasgow, where there is no conscience clause. Dr. McCall ought to know that the recent recrudescence of the latest elected members of the Assembly, Mr. Dennistoun Wood, was the leading op-ponent of the compulsory clauses. He told the Chief Secretary that a proposal to force contacts to be vaccinated would not be tol-erated in England. To force any man to be vaccinated against his will, he said, was a tyranny that could only be perpetrated by a professed democrat. Another member, Mr. Lamerton, said there was no power on earth that would vaccinate him; and a third mem-ber testified to the fallacy, crueity, and usse-lessness of vaccination. It is cheering to find that the medical autocrat of the Tasmanian Government has suffered such a decided check.—The Vaccination Inquirer, London, England.

Religion must always be something emo-tional, and the culture of emotion is not car-ried on advantageously in ordinary school-teaching. The system that is best for securing the intellectual element is not best securing the emotional element.-Bain.

Wisdom^{of} the Ages.

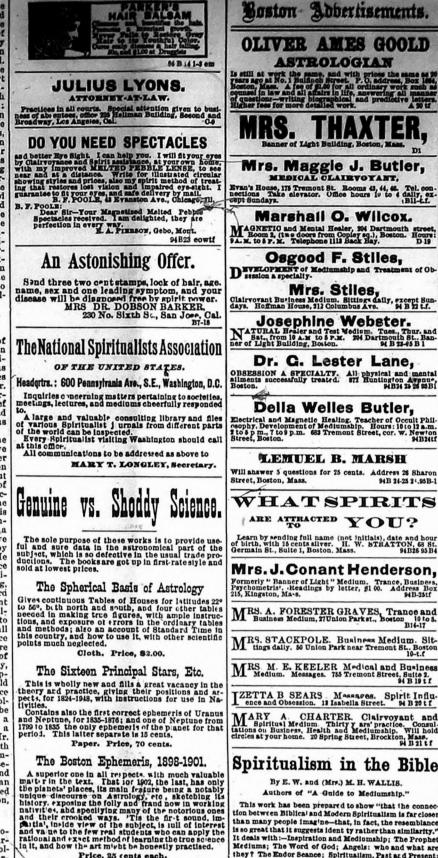

Automatically transcribed by

GEO. A. FULLER, M. D.

PRESS NOTICES.

It is a book to be not only read, but read and re-read, for it is full from cover to cover of all good things, charmingly expressed in excellent form, and conveying many sparking gems of thought to those in search of Spiritual principles. It is a book that should be in the hands of the conductors of our Sunday services, for many of its chapters will form not excellent readings at the opening of our meetings all over the land. The Spiritual Review, London, Eng.

As a purely literary production it is faultless, while the teaching given, and the force with which it is imparted in god-like. Light of Truth.

For sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT PUBLISHING COMPANY. MRS. M. E. KEELER Medical and Business Medium. Messages. 745 Tremont Street, Suite 2. 94 B 19 t f ZETTA B SEARS Massages. Spirit Influ-ence and Obsession. 13 Isabella Street. 94 B 20 tf MARY A. CHARTER. Clairvoyant and Spiritusi Medium. Thirty ard practice. Consul-tations on Business, Health and Mediumship. Will hold circles at your home. 20 Spring Street, Brockton. Mass. 91 B 21 t f Spiritualism in the Bible By E. W. and (Mrs.) M. H. WALLIS. Authors of "A Guide to Mediumship." This work has been prepared to show "that the connect fon between Biblica' and Modern Spiritualism is far close tion between Biblical and Modern Spiritualism is far closer than many people imagine—that, in fact, the resemblance is so great that it suggests ident ty rather than aimilarity." It deals with:—Laspiration and Mediumship: The Prophet Mediums; The Word of God; Angels: who and what are they? The Endor Beance; Spiritualism, Past at d Present; The Payetic Powers of Jesus; Good Conditions Indispen-sable; The Spiritual Teachings of Jesus; The Spiritual Experiences of Prior, Stephen, Philip and Paul; Biblical and Modern Paychic Phenomena; God in Man, or "the Christ of God."

B14-17

Edited by REV. B. F. AUSTIN, B.A., D.D., "The Canadian Heretic," NEW THOUGHT NEW THEOLOGY PSYCHIC BESEABCH

SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY Filty Cents a Year. ... Send for Sample Copy. THE AUSTIN PUBL. CO., TORONTO, CAN.

The A B C of PALMISTRY

BY HATHAWAY AND DUNBAR.

The Authors in their preface say: "Our aim in presenting this little book to the public is to supply the demand for an Elementary text book on Falmis-try which shall be simple, practical, truthini and insrpen-eive. "We have, therefore, arranged the book in a series of les-sons which can be easily understood and which contain book of the series of the back back bean lested by the authors

ANSWERS TO EVER-RECURRING QUESTIONS FROM THE PEOPLE. (A Sequel to "Penetralia.") Cloth, $1.00 postare 10 cts. APPROACHING CRISIS; or, Truth vs. Theology. Cloth 75 cts., Destare 10 cts. 18 cts., postage 10 cts. ARABULAI, or, The Divine Guest. Cloth, $1.00, postage 10 cts. BEYOND THE VALLEY: A Sequel to the Magic Staff, an Autobiography of Andrew Jackson Davis. Cloth, 400 pages. Justice and the statuse of original illustrations, $1.00. Dulating 400

The Great Poughkeepsie Seer Still Lives!

COMPLETE WORKS OF

Andrew Jackson Davis, Comprising Twenty-Nine Volumes, all neatly bound in cloth

Price, 25 cents each.

Published and for Sale by THE BANNER OF LIGHT PUBLISHING COMPANY.

BODY AND SOUL.

Price Thirty-five cents. For sale by THE BANNER OF LIGHT PUB-LISHING CO. SHAKESPEARE ASTROLOGY

From a Student's point of view. By WILLIAM WILSON. Pamphlet. Price 15 cents.

For sale by BANNER OF LIGHT PUBLISHING CO.

PSYCHIC POWER through Practical Psychology, a quarterly magazine devo-ted to Personal Magnetism, Hypnotism, and Psycho-Phy-sical Culture. Send 10c. for sample copy. Wh. A. BARNES, 177 Hower Ave., Cleveland, O. PSYCHIC WORLD. DR. GEORGE W. PAYNE, Editor.

7

New Vork Advertisements.

MRS. STODDARD-GRAY and Son, Dr. WITT O. BOUGH, Massrializing and Thes Maduan hold Seances Sunday, Wolderlay & Friday evening, Sore Saturday, Joclost & their residence, US V. Stran Sor New York. Bittings for communications daily, 18 to 5. D

MRS. C. SCOTT. Trance and Business M dium. Sittings 5 to 4. 216 W. 22d St., New York

FRED P. EVANS, the Noted Paveblo for slate writing and chair to an or an or any lot New Yor and is now located at 111 Eddy St., San Francisco Calif Bend stamp for circular.

Miss Margaret Gaule,

at home daily, Saturdays excepted, from 16 s.m. until 4 p.m. Seances Treedays and Fridays at 8 p.m., Thursdays at 1 p.m., 257 West 118th St., New York City. 'Phone 3586, Mornipspide.

Mrs. H. L. Woodhouse, Psychometrist, Test and Business Medium. Disease diag nosed from lock of hair. Hours $ to $, Tuesday to Friday Letters snawered $1 and two 2c stamps. 314 West 1861 Bi, New York. (5B-12

THE SUNFLOWER

Is an 8-page paper, printed on the Cassadaga (amp Ground, and is devoted to Progressive, Beligious and Scientific Thought, Spiritualism, Hypnotism, Astroi-ogy, Palmistry, Theosophy, Psychic Beleace, Highner Criticism. Has a Spirit Message Department. Pub-liabed on the first and fifteenth of each month at Se cents per year.

SUNFLOWER PUB. CO., LILY DALE, N. Y.

THE OCCULT TRUTH SEEKER.

THE UCUULT TIBUTH NAME Devoted to Occult Phenomena and Spiritual Philosophy. Published Munthly. EDW. E. GORE - - - Five Cents Single Copies - - - Five Cents YEARLY SUBSCRIPTIONS: U. 8, and Cassida, 50. Other Countries, 35. Make al: money orders payable to THE TRUTH-SEEKEER PUB. CO. Lawrence, Kansas.

READ TWO WORLDS

THE PEOPLE'S POPULAR SPIRITUAL PAPER.

WILL PHILLIPS, Editor. Subscription, Post free, 81.60. A 24-eks' trial subscription for 63 cents.

THE TWO WORLDS gives the most complete record of the work of Spiritu lism in Great Britain, and is thoroughly epresentative of the progressive spirit and thought of the Office, 18 Corporation St., Manchester, Eng.

Sperimen co is , trice 5 cents, for sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT PUBLISHING COMPANY. AN APOSTLE OF SPIRITUALISM.

A BIOGRAPHICAL MONOGRAPH

Upon the life of J. J. MORSE.

Post Free, Fifteen Cents.

HOMES IN THE HEBEAFTER.

Including an abstract of a trance address

V V E N D

A monthly magazine devoted to the discussion o New Thought, occult and psychic phenomena, from an independent and progressive standpoint, by lead-ing and famous writers. One dollar per year. Send for sample copy. Free. 1104 Market St., Columbian Institute of Sciences, San Francisco, California.

"REASON" Formerly "THE SERMON"

Is the Spiritual Body the Soul?

By the majority of people the terms South and Spirit are supposed to be synonymoush for the spirit are supposed to be synonymoush for a spirit entity without form, and form implies substance; this form is the south of substance; the spirit is is an a work of the south of substance; this form is the south of substance; this form is the south of substance; this form is the south of substance; the south of the south of substance; this form is the south of substance; the south of the south o By the majority of people the terms Soul

This volume will be read by students of the occult and Spiritualists generally with great interest. Philosophical It is a mine of valuable reflections and suggestion The Progressive Thinker.

A great book on great subjects. Weltmer's Magazine.

Its transparent truth in poo'le setting, beauty of thought and loftiness of enception, rich imagery and pure Bpirit-ality render is a book unique, fast insting and maxvelous there is no loftier work among the impired treasures of he age. The Strmon, Torento, Comade.

The inspired Author of the book is held to be one Zer-toulem, the Proph-t of Tiakas ats, whose words and maxima are gath-red into 40 easays of slovaled and inspir-ing subortation. The book is bound most attractively and the letter press is administic. Journal of Magnetime.

It is well worth perusal for its novel features, if a person does not accept any of the Spiritualistic doctrines in cluded in its production and teachings. The sumforer.

'The siyle is apothegmatic; its teachings are beautiful, its philosophy grand. None can read this volume without sensing the sweetness and richness of its spirit. The Tem-ple of Health.

The style is crips and strong, the spirit vigorous and uplifting. In it is expressed the laws by which the sou grows out of the unical into the real. Folds (Ohio) Blade.

Extracts from Letters of Noted Authors, Lee turers and Editors.

It will easily take its place among modern of while its spiritual impress ranks it as a work of tr dental power. HABBISON D. BARBETT.

DEX DAD THE VALLENT A Bequeito in the Magic Har Autobiography of Andrew Jackson Davis. Gioth, 469 par-ceptial in the Antinective and original illustrations, $ Diff.DIFENT'S PROGRESSIVE INTERVIEW. A Manual.
 Diff.DIFENT'S PROGRESSIVE INTERVIEW.
 Diff.DIFENT'S PROGRESSIVE INTERVIEW.
 Diff.DIFF.'S PROGRESSIVE INTERVIEW.
 Diff.DIFF.'S PROGRESSIVE INTERVIEW.
 DEATH AND THE AFTERLIVE. The 'Stellar Key the philosophical introduction to the revealations contain in this book. Paper, 15 etc., cloth, 50 etc., postage 6 etc.
 DIARKA AND THER EALTHE. VIOTHS. Balage explanation of much that is faise and repulsive in Spl and the Diff. Interview.
 DIARKA AND THEIR EALTHLY VIOTHS. Balage explanation of much that is faise and repulsive in Spl and the Book. Paper, 15 etc.
 DURATH AND THE SAND THE RELIGION. Cloth etc., postage 6 cta.; paper, 18 etc.
 DURATH AND THE SAND THE EALTHLY VIOTHS. Balage etc., postage 6 cta.; paper, 18 etc.
 ENESHE AND ETHICS OF CONJUGAL LOVE. To book is of peculiar interest to all men and women. Pap is ets.; cloth, 80 etc.; roll gift, morocco, 51.28; do. half to reas in the the principles of the Harmon is Path and Distrogramos in the past and Justical Love. To Physician. Vol. 11. The Tascher. Vol. 111. The Beer. To volume is composed of twenty-serve Lockners on Margi-ism and Clairyorance in the past and present. Vol. 14.7.
 Betarting ON the Path and the principles of the Harmon the Path and Clairyorance in the past and present. Vol. 14.7.
 Betarter, Vol. V. The Thinker. Trice S. 100 each, pro-age 19 etc.

age 10 cts. BARBINGER OF HEALTH. Containing Medical Pres-tions for the Human Body and Mind. Cloth, $1.00, ;

Hons for the Human Body and Mind. Gloth, Bl.s., J are 10 cit. BABMONIAL MAN; or, Thoughts for the Age. Pap oiss, i cloth, So ta, postiage 5 cit. HIBTORY AND PHILOSOPHY OF EVIL. With Sug lions for More Emobiling Institutions, and Philosoph Systems of Education. Paper, 55 cts.; cloth, 50 cts.; j tions for More and Antonio Paper, S cts.; cious, even a system of Education. Paper, S cts.; cious, even a set of the set Deris. Clock, fl.35. postage li cis.

 MEMORANTAA OF PÉRESONS, FLACES AND EVENTE. Embracing Althenitic Facts, Visions, Impressions, Discoverses in Edited and the Statement of Statement

Lectures Delivered in the Trance State. BY Bun State By J. CLEGG WRIGHT. By J. CLEGG WRIGHT. By These lectures wers delivered to a class of .Psychologi- cation of the state of the and mind. Bran, intelligence. conscious work of the and mind. Bran, intelligence. conscious for the and mind. Bran of the medium and speaker. Friese B1.00. For sale by THE BANNER OF LIGHT PUB. 00.	sons which can be easily understood and which contain practical suggestions that have been tested by the authors PARTIAL LIST OF CONTENTS. Lesson L-The Types of Hands. "IL-The Thumb; The Nails; The Mounts IL-The Thumb; The Nails; The Mounts IL-The Thumb; The Nails; The Mounts "IV-Lose Marin; Children; Journeys, etc. "V-The Marin; Children; Journeys, etc. "VI-Method of Reading a Hand. Well illustrated and printed on heavy paper, in clear and motentially bound in heavy paper covers Promote Sanda in close and the series of the Sanda in close. For sale by BANNKE OF LIGHT PUBLISHING CO.
ANDREW JACKSON DAVIS, Set of the Harmonial Philosophy.	Inspirational & Trance Speaking A Paper read before the Convention of British Spiritualists, London, England By J. J. MORSE. For sole by the BANNEE OF LIGHT FUBLISHING COMPANY.
Dest scrip- post DELLA E. DAVIS, M. D. A Compend of the remarkable teachings contained in thirty volumes written by the "Foughkeepsis Seer" under per, the impirations of the Sumarkable teachings contained in thirty volumes written by the "Foughkeepsis Seer" under per, the impirations of the Sumarkable teachings contained in the second teaching the second second second second the second second second second second second second Biarnos" is an elegant little volume for spream. It is a is a size and descutiful bound. As a birthday gift, or for s "Starnos." The dand beautifully bound. As a birthday gift, or for s "Starnos." Tries, in fine cloth, 50 cents; extra fine, gilt edge, 75 cents score. The dand second s	MEDIUMSHIP, AND ITS LAWS; Its Conditions and Cultivation. BY HUDSON TUTTLE. A book written in answer to the question : More than a set being a set of the set of
THE PROOFS	Clairyorace. Mind Heading, Hypochum, Andreas Writing, Inspirational Speaking, Heading, etc., and the Physical Manifestations is incidity explained and process inspiration of the information every spiritualist and every investigates desires. Paper. Frice ES cents. Por mic, Wholesale scale. BANNER OFLIGHT FUELDEEING
A Twentieth Century Symposium. A Compliation of Letters and Expressions from Disting rulebed Livins Scientists and Philosophers Toroughest there and Bai Reson, Known to Man (Livie from Reliving Death of the Body) OUNTLED AND EDITED BY BOBERT J. THOMPSON, Officier of the Legion of Honor of Prance, Late Diploma	The Golden Echoes.

For sale by BANNER OF LIGHT PUBLISHING CO.

BANNER OF LIGHT PUBLISHING CO

Societary News.

respondence for this department must reach the object for an all delivery on Monday morning, to a insertion the same veck. We wish to ansied all, or space is limited. Use ink and write plainly.

Boston and Vicinity.

Appleton Hall, 9 Appleton Street, Friday, Feb. 19.—The First Spiritualists' Ladies' Aid society met as usual in the above hall. The weather was very inclement, but we had a good attendance and a very social time. Prof. Gowan spoke briefly of the method of spiritual healing. Mrs. L. M. Shackley was controlled by "Pond Lily" and gave some very fine tests. Mr. Douglas H. C. Thomp-son gave many communications. Mrs. Berry was controlled and told us that same "Old Old Story," but oh, how sweet to Spiritual-ist, "There is no death—that our loved ones-still live and love us." She then voiced mes-seres to the friends which were well re-revised. Mr. J. J. Morse, Editor of the "Ban-ner of Light," closed the meeting with a spir-iual benediction. Next Friday we will have a scruce of plantation songs and we will lare a Blue Jay Supper served at 6.15 p. m. Mrs. J. Horosph his medium, W. T. Strong, president, February 21.—All attends nits at these meetings had a treat as usual sitting Bull, through his medium, W. T. Mason, held forth during the day and gave provide the 'freque was '' Freque the sour trea-parts at the violin playing of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, the violin playing of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, the singing of Messrs. Bowen and George Cutter were all inspirational and or the source of a scruce and in playing of Mr. and Mrs. Bowen, the singing of Messrs. Bowen and George Cutter were all inspirational and or measure of the scruce to the scruce of the scruce very much enjoyed by all present.—A. M. S., sec. Red Men's Hall, Feb. 17.—The Ladies' Ly-ceum Union met as usual in the afternoon, supper at 6.30. In the evening we had a very interesting meeting. Remarks were made by Mrs. Waterhouse, Rev. Mr. Andrews, Dean Clarke and Mr. Berry, interspersed with singing. Messages from our loved ones were volced through the mediumship of Dr. Huot, Mrs. Chapman and our president, Mrs. But-ler, and all were recognized. Do not forget our Olf Folks' Concert, Feb. 24th, with a very nice supper. We called on Mrs. Hattie Webber and found her a very sick woman. Let us all send out our very best thoughts for her speedy recovery. Our sick ones are as well as can be expected. We are all look-ing forward to our anniversary with a great deal of pleasufe and although many have joined the Union on the other side there are still enough left to make our anniversary a grand success.—S. E. Jones, sec. pro tem.

day, Feb. 14.—Our meetings for the day were more than satisfactory. Large -atdiences both afternoon and evening. The class for healing and developing at 3 p.m. was very harmonious and grafifying in its results, many mediums being present. "Floating Feather" is doing a grand work. Evening session opened with song service; Scripture reading by our President. Harvey Redding; invocation by Mrs. R. P. Morton. Cyrus gave a short address on "The Duty of Spir-itualist." Mr. M. C. Borden of Winchester read "Life is Like Plum Cake," written in-spirationally by himself. Mr. Jas. Milton, vocal solo, "Heavenly Land." He also sang the previous Sunday "The Beautiful City," very effectively. Mrs. Mosler did good work in giving messages. Other mediums assisting during the day. Do not forget our "Vege-tra. C. Bedding, cor. sec. "North Phymouth, Mass., occupied the plat-form of the Norwiel's Spiritual Union, Sunday, to appreciative audiences." "Triland, Me., February 72.—Miss Florences Mystinal Sciety at Mystic Hall today. Both meet ing were well attended. Miss Morse will remain with us this week and address us again next Sunday. The announcement of horse of London, England, delivered two first, of London, England, delivered two first eresting addresses for the First Spi-tual Society at Mystic Hall today. Both meet-ing were well attended. Miss Morse will remain with us this week and address us again next Sunday. The announcement of home of one of our esteemed members cast a state of sadness over the services of the day. Artuur Gilkie, a beloved nephew of Mrs. E. H. Chandler, passed to spirit life atter a very shot elin high esteem by all who snew him, My the loved ones draw very near to the bore of a filticion.—Mrs. F. E. Allen, "Arounde, Cannda.—Mrs. Nettie Holt Hard-ing, of Bryantville, Mass, serves the Toronto clerk. Toronto, Canada.—Mrs. Nettie Holt Hard-ing, of Bryantville, Mass., serves the Toronto Spiritualist Association during January and February, and is proving a very conscientious and industrious worker in the interests of our society and Cause. Mrs. Hardingahas a very pleasing personality and is very popular with our members and audiences. Her lec-tures are followed by spirit messages. Her private readings are giving excellent satis-faction, and reports regarding same which come to us give undoubted evidences as to the genuineness of her mediumship. She will serve the First Spiritualist Society of Ham-ilton, Ont., during the month of March.—N. ilton, Ont., during the month of March .- N. A. St. Clair.

Lyccum Rotes.

Local.

the spiritual plane must learn the lesson of the renuncision of the pleasare of the senses; for so long as the physical plane yields satis-faction, the spiritual plane will be forgotten. The plane which is most "cultivated" (so to express it), will be the plane from which im-pressions are most readily received. While it is not possible to be conscious of sensation from two planes at one and the same time, it is possible to attain a condition where the inter-relation is so perfect that im-pressions seem to be received simultaneously from the two planes. When a life of earthly enjoyment alone is desired, man is not sur-soul growth is desired. In order to maintain the equilibrium of our keepile to spiritual are expressed—working with the divine laws to fulfil the purpose of earthy life. Now the body is being studied, is being trained is being daveloned according to the earthly life. Now the body is being studied, is being trained, is being developed according to the laws of its growth, but is the soul being-studied in its true relation to the entire scaling. Is its development as earnestly sough? In order to develop the soul it is necessary to understand something of its true hature. Now God is split—soul is also spirit; God is creative power. God is not entirely un-known to mortals, nor can He be compre-hended in entirety until perfected is each man. man.

hended in entirety until perfected is each man. In order to understand what man can do toward perfecting himself, it is necessary to establish, in a manner, the attributes to be developed. These attributes are the attri-butes of God and he who would become the Son of God must possess them. "Be ye per-fect, even as your Father in Heaven is per-fect," Not until this perfection is desired may it be attained. When a man desires this perfection let him learn to harmoniously de-velop his entire being--not alone the body, but also the soul, the "God within," of which the body is the temple. In order to develop your soul, bring all the wisdom of the wise into its study. Seek to know what it is the soul's great privilege to be. Strive to be that, day by day. The soul may grow into the perfect soui and not be conscious of the work it is accomplishing, but it is the privilege of man to consciously become the Son of God while here on earth. This is the development to which we call attention, this realization of consciousness on the two planes of being which it is man's privilege to have now and alway. Wait not until death has claimed your body to know the realizate of spirit. Claim now your birthright. Be conscious on he spiritual plane; bring unto the physical this consciousness and form the man accord-ingly. Be first a soul, not first a body. Lim-ited may be expression of love, of service, in word or act, not so in thought; high as heaven, wide as ocean, decer than all mys-teries of creation may be your thought. Sun, moon and stars give light unto the universe. Forces physical dispense blessings and bring power with their control; but man is able through his thought to wield an inluence greater than all these combined. How does man triffe with the greatest power in all the In order to understand what man can do through his thought to wield an influence greater than all these combined. How does man triffe with the greatest power in all the universe, the power to create from an exist-ing condition of elements physical and spirit-ual, a new and better world. By thought and thought alone may man be harmoniously developed. This the meeting place of the two planes of being. Sensations from the physical plane are in the brain converted into action, into words, but in tho transformation there enters a subtle influence, the manifestation of the will and the desire, and these are of the spirit plane and are according to the development of the man spiritual.

and are according to the development of the man spiritual. At this centre of transformation where meet the influences from the two planes of being, must the work of, establishing harmony of vibration be accomplished. Receive influences from all creation, but receive no influence save as a help unto full and perfect develop-ment not an a help unto full and perfect develop-ment. Decree unto your consciousness that all in-fluences that come, all influences that go, shall come for good, shall go for good. Develop, both the body and the soul; seek to make-your body strong, beautiful, obedient to your, will. Seek spiritual emlightenment; realize the spiritual power that may be yours; be free in body and in spirit; come into full consciousness on both planes of being. Thus may come to earth a race of beings fitted to use all that earth can give; fitted to return to the universe all received and more; fitted to do the perfect will of God through a per-fect body, a perfect mind. What man needs is not opportunity. Each act, each word, each thought may be the opportunity divine to develop harmonious being. Seek to improve all privileges; to establish upon the earth the will of God. Not until all are thus harmonious may be understood the dignity, the majesty of the body and the mind through which the soul doth function. In conclusion, what man needs in order to develop harmoniously is a right understanding of himself; the recognition of his dual nature; the working of all parts of that dual nature; harmonious whole. This harmony in one way only can be established through the re-lation of all sensation, the blending of the two "consciousnesses." This is the work of

THIS TREATMENT FREE.

THIS TREATMENT FREE Dr. J. M. Peebles, the noted specialist in Catarrh and Bronchial troubles has found a SURE. Speedy, uickly relieves and permanently cures Catarrh butgives atmost instant relief in Ashma, Broushilt, of the second second permanently cures Catarrh butgives atmost instant relief in Ashma, Broushilt, of the second second permanently cures the second for the second second permanent of the second second for the second second permanent of the second second for the second second second second second second second for the second second second second second second second for the second second second second second second second for the second second second second second second second for the second second second second second second second for the second second second second second second second for the second second second second second second for the second second second second second second second for the second second second second second second for the second second second second second second second for the second second second second second second for the second second second second second second second for the second for the second BB-1-cow-tf

SPECIAL BARGAINS IN FIRST-CLASS

OCCULT PUBLICATIONS.

REALIZATION at 25 cents.

By special arrangements with The Rosierucian Pub-lishing Co. we can sell this excellent 50 cent book on the development of mediumship and divinity by Miss Loraine Follett for 25 cents. Send orders at once and while they last.

THE PSYCHIC OR SPIRIT WORLD for 35 cents.

This is the book which sold for $1.00, and we have secured a limited number of copies to sell at only as cents. The book is beautifully bound in silk cloth and shows the relation of spirit to all of its forms and averaging.

DIVINATION.

We have secured manuscript copies of this excellent treatise on how to divine and read the future, to be-come a test medium and read the inmost soul of the universe. This by the author, J. C. F. Grumbine, whose books sell faster than any similar books in the market. His work of "Claiflyoyance" will soon be-come a text-book incolleges. Price $1.00.

HOW TO REMEMBER PAST LIVES.

A manuscript work by J.C.F. Grumbine which will repay a careful reading, because it will not only prove to you that you have lived before but it will startle and amaze you by telling you how. Mr. Grumbine has discovered the simple way, and this series of teach-ings are but $1.60. (Worth $160 to the occultist.)

Send all orders and remittances to THE BANNER OF LIGHT PUBLISHING COMPANY, 204 Dart-mouth Street, Boston, Mass.

BOOKS by Carlyle Petersilea. Giveniby automatic writing through the author's mediumship.

MARK CHESTER; or A Mill and a Million.

This is a Feychical Romance which appeared as a serial some months since in the columns of the Basser of Look. It is now reproduced in book form to meet the urgent demands for it in convenient shape for circulation. In performance is a the cipk covers is of circulation.

THE DISCOVERED COUNTRY.

A narrative of the personal experiences in spirit-life of the author's father, who had been a natural philosopher and a materialist. Cleth $1.90.

PHILIP CARLISLIE. A deep philosophical romance by the band of guides, the subject of the tills b ing a scientific young philosopher, who is a medium; his chief opponents being a clergyman and a materialist. Cloth 81.85.

OCEANIDES.

A scientific novel based on the philosophy of life, as see rom the spirit side. Faver 50 etc. For sale by BANNER OF LIGHT PUBLISHING CO.

REDUCED PRICES.

WHAT IS SPIRITUALISM.

Who are these Spiritualists? And What Has Spiritualism Done for the World? By J. M. Peebles, M.D., M.A. An excellent book to put in the hands of inquirers. Clock, 75 cts., Paper 35 cts.

DID JESUS CHRIST EXIST ?

Is the state of Boirford Barbar 1 be and the source of Boirford and the source of Boirford and the Spirits Say About 11? Was. Emmetie Cole-man et. Hudson Tuttle on Mohammet and Jesna, To which is appended a controversy. Arthur J. Owen sy J. M. Peebles, on the origin of the Lord's Prayer and Sermon on the Mount, and an exhaustive paper by Wm. Emmette Coleman on the Histor's J Origin of Christianity. Paper, 30 ets.

THREE JOURNEYS ABOUND THE WORLD.

A large, handsomely bound octavo volume, 500 pages, finely illustrated, describing the Pacific Is-iands, New Zealand and Australia, India and har marie, Egypt and her pyramids, Peria, Oeyion, Pal-estine, etc., with the religions manners, customa-iaws and habits of foreign countries. Price, $1.50.

IMMORTALITY,

And the employments of spirits good and evil in the spirit world. What a hundred spirits say about their dweiling-places, their locemotion, their social relations, infants, idiots, suicides, etc. Price re-duced from $1.50 to $1. Postage 19 cts. Paper, 50 cts.

SEERS OF THE AGES.

This large volume of 400 pages (9th edition), treats exhaustively of the seers, asges, prophets and in-spired men of the past, with records of their vis-ions, transces and intercourse with the spirit world. This is considered a standard work, treating of God, heaven, hell, faith, repentance, prayer, baptism, udgment, demoniac spirite, etc. Frice reduced rom $3 to $1.35. Postage 15 cts.

SPIRITUAL HARP.

A book of 300 pages, containing songs, hymns and anthems for Bpiritualist societies and circles. The words are afire with progress. It contains the choic-est songs and music by James G. Clark and other reformers. Reduced from $2 to $1.85.

DR. PEEBLES' THREE JUBILEE LECTURES.

A most elegantly bound pamphlet of 122 pares, riving Dr. Peebles lectures delivered in Hydesvilla, March 31, 1866, in Bochester, and later in London at the International Congress of Spiritnalists. These lectures, illustrated, are racy, meaty and scholarly. Frice 35 cts.

THE CHRIST QUESTION SETTLED. A symposium by Hudson Tuttis, W. E. Coleman, Raphi, Wine, Cole inservoll, J. & Loveinnd, E. E. Hilloy, H. Buchanam and Dr. Peebles, Tills is a handisene valume of nearly do pages, and treats of Jessa, Mahomet and the agnostics. What the Ta-innd says about Jesus. Antiquity unvelled. Ohid marriage in India. Col. Ingersol's agnosticism. What the splitis through W. J. Colville, J. J. Morse, Mrs. Longley, Mrs. Everitt, Mrs. Hagan-Jackson and other mediums any about Jesus, etc. Price, $1.85.

DEATH DEFEATED, OR THE PSY-CHIC SECRET OF HOW TO

CHIC SECRET OF HOW TO KEEP YOUNG. This book goes to the foundation of things-health, the laws of health, the foods to eat, the sub-ject of marriage, who should marry and who should not marry, the causes of divore, the proper time for conception, geatation, the determining of sex, ani-mal field-eating, what Herodotus, Hesiod, Homer, Tythagoras, Shelley, Graham and others aid, the levels that produce long life and how to life "immor-fal" on karsh, etc. This book is written in Dr. Peebled, panaly clear, erisp style, and attracts the readed from the, styl mart through its facts, logic and convite argumentate, Very handsemely bound in bloth. Fried St. 10

The above named books and pamphleis are supplied both at wholesale and retail by BANNER OF LIGHT PUBLISHING COMPANY.

In moders philosophy there are three great treatises on the Passions, that of Spinors, that of Hume, and that of Balvarons.-Philosophical Journal.

I lustrated with three handsome portraits of Emer-son, Hover, Byron. 12mo. 250 pares. Red cloth: gold itids. Will be mailed to any address on receipt of price by postal nove.

General.

Brooklyn, N, Y.-During the month of January, 1904, the Church of the Fraternity of Soul Communion held a very successful series of meetings at the Aurora Grata Ca-thedral, corner Bedford Ave. and Madison St., Brooklyn, N, Y. Rev. May S. Pepper officiated as lecturer and seeress during the five Sinday's of January, services being held both afternoons and evenings. Large and in-telligent audiences greeted Mrs. Pepper with great cordiality and enthusiasm, while her wonderful tests and spirit messages, together with her eloquent addresses, aroused a con-tinually increasing interest among the most cultured and progressive citizens of Brooklyn, among whom were many representatives of tinually increasing interest among the most cultured and progressive citizens of Brooklyn, among whom were many representatives of the various religious denominations of this city. Many persons had to be turned away from the church doors at the evening sessions, as the seating capacity of the audience room was only 750. It is a pleasure to announce that steps have been taken towards securing Rev. May 8, Pepper as a permanent lecturer and psychic for Brooklyn, and a unanimous call has been extended to her, which she has accepted, so that she will probably enter upon her work here on the first Sunday of next October. Brooklyn Spiritualists are to be congratulated that they have been able to se-cure so able an excellent demonstrator of the power of spirits to present, in a convincing manner, the facts of their identity and ability to communicate with their earth friends. It seems certain that a marked and rapid ad-yance of the interests of our beloved Cause-will result from the coming of Rev. May 8. Pepper to our city as a permanent reprewill result from the coming of Rev. May S. Pepper to our city as a permanent repre-sentative of our spiritualistic religion.—Dr. John C. Wyman. Clinton, Iowa, Sunday, Feb. 14.—The Philo-sophical Society of Spiritualists. We had with us Mrs. Alice C. Barry, of Philadelphia, who is very popular with our people, this be-ing the fifth Sunday she has lectured for our society. After a selection by the choir, Mrs. Barry took her subjects from the audience, speaking on "Do spirits occupy space? If so, is there not danger of the space allotted to this earth becoming crowded," and other-subjects, all being answered in an able man-

Friendship Hall, Berkeley Hall, Sunday, February 21.—The Boston Spiritual Lyceum met as usual today. Owing to some of our members being out of town we did not have quite as many present, but we held a good session. Our subject was "George Washling-ton." We had a good many answers consid-ering the number present. Mr. A. Danforth, our old Lyceum worker, read an article in re-lation to Washington. Mrs. C. L. Hatch, our Guardian, spoke very ably of George Wash-ington from the spiritual standpoint. The topic of the day was written by one of our young workers, Robert Wringer, but as he was unable to be present it was ably rendered by Miss Mabel Reed. Our literary exercises were: Recitation, by Nellie Bonney; reading, Miss Beatrice Spooner; recitation, E. W. Hatch; remarks, E. B. Packard. Subject for next Sunday is "Our Pioneer Workers in. Spiritualism." We are to have a Leap Year Entertainment in Encampment Hall, Odd Fellows' Building, on Monday evening next, February 29th. Tickets are 10 cents each. A good program is being arranged for the occa-sion.—E. B. Packard, clerk.

The Boston Spiritual Lyceum will hold an entertainment in Encampment Hall, Odd Fel-lows' Building, corner Berkeley and Tremont Streets, Monday evening, February 29th. Tickets 10 cents.—E. B. Packard, clerk.

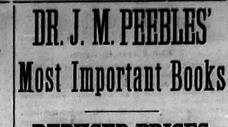

Harmonious Development.

Frances E. Allen.

Man is a complex organization; in his present expression he is both physical and spiritual. This dual nature must be recog-nized, and their inter-relation understood, in order for man to express most perfectly his entire being. The universe is energy manifesting on dif-

The universe is energy manifesting on on-ferent planes of being; vibration is the mode of manifestation. This energy in manifesting on one plane of being, or along a certain line of vibration, is spirit; on another plane, or along a different line of vibration, is matter. along a different line of vibration, is matter.
 In this manifestation is employed what we may term processes; these processes cognized are called phenomena. All phenomena are a passing condition—force alone is eternal; phenomena are not force, but the processes of force in working a lower expression up to a higher. All creation expresses energy to in man alone is energy manifesting most fully on the two planes of being.
 Man, expressing two planes of being, must have consciousness on the two planes, and be related to the two, or inharmony is the result. Harmonious development means he fills of body and mind which men are wont to term bad luck, unkind fate-moral degeneracy.
 Now if man desires to establish harmony of being let him consider himself in his two-fold aspect. It is useless to deny the reality of the existence of the body or of the soul; for daily is science adducing proof of the existence of the Consulter their intermention. subjects, all being answered in an able man- In this manifestation is employed what we for daily is science of the body or of the soil; for daily is science adducing proof of the ex-istence of both. Consider them in their proper relation to each other and aid the conscious man to develop harmoniously. In order to do this he must come into full conscious min to develop introducing. In order to do this he must come into full consciousness on both planes, mere experience on each plane will not relate them—there must be a harmony established by which consciousness on one plane may be carried into the other plane, and the medium through which this consciousness may be related is the nervous system. Man is able to receive sensation from two planes of being—the physical man receives sensation from the physical world through the nervous system, the nerves centered in the brain. The spiritual man receives sen-sation through the soil, which has no material nervous system, but exists in the ethereal sub-stance of the body spiritual. This spiritual body is being formed from the elements of as the physical body is formed of the elements material. The entire man is ever receiving sensation,

FEBRUARY 27 1904.

ner. Mrs. Lusted, the violinist, rendered selections on the violin that were highly appreciated. After the lecture Mrs. Barry appreciated. After the lecture Mrs. Barry gave tests that were quite satisfactory. Our audiences have increased since her engage-ment. The society holds services every Sun-day evening in K. of P. Hall, at 7.30.—Lottie day evening in K. of P. Hall, at 7.30.—Lottie Leavitt, sec. Concord, N. H., Feb. 4.—Miss A. Warren, of Manchester, N. H., a new medium, con-ducted the spiritual meeting at First Ward Hall. A short lecture by "Pence," one con-trol, was beautifully voiced. Could and would those who heard her live up to her teachings they would surely be better men and women. When Peace had finished, Sun-shine, the little Indian maiden, gave many tests, every one being recognized and ac-knowledged as truth. Her predictions are always true, as many have found out. The time is coming, and ere long, when the people will waken to the fact that Miss Warren has no equal.—"Leolia." Fitchburg, Mass., February 21.—Mrs. S. C.

people will waken to the fact that Miss Warren has no equal.—"Leolia." Fitchburg, Mass, February 21.—Mrs. S. C. Cunningham, of Cambridgeport, was speaker for the First Spiritualist Society Sunday. There were very large attendances at both the afternoon and evening services. The time was given to reading folded ballots and sealed letters. All were read correctly.—Dr. C. L. Fox.

time was given to reading folded ballots and sealed letters. All were read correctly.-Dr. C. L. For.. Greenfield, Sunday, Feb. 7.-We had Well-more O. Whitney of Springfield, who was at his best and gave convincing tests. Sunday, Feb. 14, Mirs. Sadie G. Hand, of Boston, gave us one of the grandest lectures we have ever had. Her tests were very fine, and greatly appreciated by a very large audience. Arrangements are being made to have her often with us in the future.-R. F. Churchill. Hartford, Conn., Sunday, Feb. 14.-Christ's First Spiritual Church, G. A. E. Hall, 724 Main St. Congregational singing and speak-ing and tests. Address, subject. "Expansion and Contraction," by Mr. O. E. Brainard, listened to by a large and appreciative audi-ence. Spiendid tests were given by Dr. Mary A. Haven, the founder and conductor, which were all recognized. All are welcome at these services. The "Banner of Light" for sale.-M. A. H.

ing and tests. Address, subject, "Expansion and Contraction," by Mr. C. E. Brainard, listened to by a large and appreciative audi-ence. Splendid tests were given by Dr. Mary A. Haven, the founder and conductor, which were all recognized. All are welcome at these services. The "Banner of Light" for sale.---M. A. H. Maiden, Mass., Progressive Spiritual So-ciety, Louise Hall, 138 Pleasant Street, Sunlation of all sensation, the blending of the two "consciousnesses," This is the work of man in earthly life and by thought it is ac-Not unti complished. Not until all men learn this lesson of earthly life will this be possible; therefore work along this line of science, each man seeking to build a harmonitons whole, each man striving to express in fulness the Divine

Berkeley, California.

Note.—The above esery was written inspi-rationally by a lady whose spiritual gift has unfolded quite spontaneously. Many of her writings are quite remarkable.—W. J. Colville.

Epitaphs in the Cemetery of Failure.

He had no reserve. He lacked stamina. He couldn't decide. He was almost a success. He clung to his projudices. He was strangled by selfahness. He failed to digest his education. He did everything "just for now." He did of an overdose of advice. He did not keep up with the times. He lacked the fire that kindles power. He was a clerk who hated the yardistick. He never learned to let go of the rubbish. He was crushed by an avalanche of details. He became sidetracked by salary and com-fort.

fort. He was not a man before he became a law-

He ruined his own judgment by not trust-He could not put grit in the place of education

He couldn't see the man at the other end of the bargain. He was too much wrapped up in himself to appreciate others.—Success.

Blessed is the man who has the sift of making friends, for it is one of God's best sifts. It involves many things, but above all the power of going out of one's self and see-ing and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another.—Thomas Hughes.

In the World Celestial DR. T. A. BLAND.

DR. T. A. BLAND. Is a wonderful book, being the personal experiences of a man whose dead were theart, after appearing to him many times, etherealised, materialised and through trances med-mas, has him put into a hypnotic trance by spirit science tists and held in that econdition for ten days, which time the spends with her in the celestial spheres, and then re-turns to earth with perfect recollection of what he saw and heard in that realm of the so-called dead. He tells his wonderful story to his frind als Dr. T. A. Bind, the well in beet style. This friend is Dr. T. A. Bind, the well indeer a string of the so-called dead. He tells his wonderful story to his frind a perfect reduction by that distin rulated preacher, Rev. H. W. Thomas, D. D., president of the American Congress of Liberal Belighting, who gives it days: "This boautiful de endemment." Heavy: "This boautiful de endemment." Heavy: "This boautiful de endemment." They do a surge the that one of the sum of the site of the sum of the sum of the standar of death to the sum it clime of the sum of the standar of death to the sum it clime of the sum of the standar of death to the sum it clime to the sum of the standar of death to the sum it clime to the sum of the standar of death to the sum it clime of the standard of death to the sum it clime of the sum of the standard of death to the sum it clime of the sum of the standard of the stat one cannot help withing mealms, and deaves a street tast in his con-scionameas." Hon, O. A. Windle, saysi 'I is intemperative death in his con-scionameas."

mchanding realmas, and deaves a survey must be delighted." Hon, O. A. Windle, says: 'It is incorressibly delighted." President Bowles, of the National Liberal League, mays Ti is one of the choicest piecess of literature of this mar-relous are of books." Rearybody will be charmed with if, for it is not only a reast spiritual book, but a most beautiful love romance of wo worlds. It is printed in elegant style, bound in clock and gold. Fries, glace. For sale by BARMAR OF LIGHT PUBLISHING CO.

The extraordinary merits of "The Wisdom of Parsion" ire the copiousness of human insight and content in the way of fast and reference with which the book is crammed. is main thesis I agree with --Prof. William James, Harvard Jniversity.

I have found "The Wisdom of Passion" to be a book of powerful eradition and fine intuition. I would be happy if in a certain sense I had inspired it.-Prof. Ceasare Lom-

Prefessors of literature in the University of Chicago, counting up the ten great books that recently gave them the most profit, placed "The Wisdom of Passion" among the first on the list.

Balvarona gives more satisfactory reasons for his conclu-sions than most of us new thoughters are able to give. --Esizabeth Towne, the Nautilus.

For personal immortality the argument is conclusive.-

The argument for personal immortality is so clearly stated with such logical force as to be irresistible. - Medical Times, N. Y.

A profound book, suggestive and original. - Horatio

Teaches the formal creative power of the Soul,-Public

Many passages show a marvellous insight. An intuition that is really wonderful. It items with wise sayings, and shrewd observations on the motive of men. I expect to ge over its again in order to mark and margin the optermas, the genemic sentences, the genm of poetic beauty. I shall do everything in my power to bring its profound truths to the stimulen of others.-Trot. Edward A. Ross, University at Mahmata.

Here is a main who sees and mays things for hi a not retailing conventionalilies. The book fai rith wise awayings. I believe the theorie is source that the author has grane a long way isward for ther I took up the loost, I did not quit, arcept and along till I had wed it carefully from cover libiton W. Small, Head of Doyt, of Socialogy and (Allinsted Work of the University of Chicage.

randamental thought of the author is a we raised by feeling. The worth of the with of feeling is. The Outlook, N. Y.

I am somewhat familiar with the tende headht to give primary place to feeling Will to Alferry, with Ward's ocial ba Balley's and Bryrning's philosophy. I Paning in a with their contributions. If the book-that the Soul farm its own for I can assimble to...Fred. Desar Loyell Trip

BANNER OF LIGHT PUB. CO., and Daris outh Street, - BOSTON, MASS.

The Throne of Eden A Psychical Romance W. J. COLVILLE. CONTENTS Glimpse of Sydney, An Australi of Mutani Astrylon, Body, So that Trip to Matheamar, Mathea Urils Order and In Served Hu-Dielse Thynolawa, A. Designer ian Sunday: The From al and Spirit; A De urne in All Ha Giory heat Dr. Lemon, A ful Day in Adelaide and of Orylon, Agein Of A The Roy P Transversions of Australians, The anal, Errysian Promision, A. Visit mins of the English Visit to Prompile minserum, Dr. Lessower, Initial Les Audiences Errors Provide Initial Les Audiences Errors of Polyant Marrying Australians of Polyant Marrying Australians of Polyant Transformer Sciences In Segments, termine English Sciences In Transformer Sciences In Segments Grouts & Bargers, Trains 81-99, 1999 Martiner Sciences In Segments Transformer Sciences In Segments Sciences In S ns Hart long O A IN THE OWNER or H.

ANNE OF LIGHT PUBLISHING CO.

$2.00 NET. POSTAGE 10 CENTS.