

BOSTON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1906. VOL. 98 -Whole No. 2550. Publishing Office : }

GEORGE WASHINGTON FEB. 22, 1906.

Mime Inness

The Age's Hero, crowning out a race, No single nation can to him make claim. Earth's widest confines bow before his name, Yielding to him of all men primal place In all the virtues which mankind can grace. Ambitious, as a soldier, for no fame Except to serve his country; with the same Desire as statesman; for no trace Of selfshness, or rancer, or the low Upon that calm, majestic face is seen. The patriot, who in war struck hardest blow.

blow. In peace ne'er let appear his warlike mien. while the first in war, the first he was in peace; And ever shall be till our memory cease

The Life Radiant.

Lillian Whiting

"Day after day we think what she is doing In those bright realms of air; Year after year, her tender steps pursuing Behold her grown more fair.

do we walk with her and keep unbroken The bond which nature gives,

Thinking that our remembrance, though unspoken. May reach her where she lives."

Longiello

There is one question continually asked by experimental observers of the possible communication between the Seen and the Unseen .- "Why do they not tell us something that we want to know?" The desire behind the question is for some strange and startling sensation; some unformulated and more or less incomprehensible revelation of some incomprehensible condition. As a matter of actual fact any one who will read with attention the literature of Spiritualism will discover that the communicating intelligences have told a great deal of the conditions and nature of the life begond. But that which is told is so simple and so natural that its very naturalness and comprehensibility discredits it to those who are seeking for sensation and who do not 'lay hold," as St. Paul bids us to do, on the spiritual life. Now one reason why those on the unseen side do not tell us any thing very startling may well be that there is, nothing very startling to tell! Let us suppose that one going abroad writes from London or even, Cairo, or Calcutta, to friends who have never seen those cities. The letter very possibly-even probablydeals with much that the recipient might not untruthfully call mere trivialities. The kind of weather encountered on the voyage; the degree of health, or illness; the little details of landing, the custom house, the hotels, the train service, a thousand minor things fill the letter. And the receiver of it might exclaim; "This letter cannot be from London, that 'city of intense significance, of great historic terest, great occurrences of life so different from ours; or from Cairo, with all the marvelous monuments of marvelous ages; or from Calcutta,-that strange land of strange conditions of life!" . Thus might, one reason who had never been abroad. But to the traveler there is no break in the continuity of the simple; natural life. He is the same being in mid-ocean, on its medium, as through an atmosphere, are all things translated. There is in my own memory a vivid recollection of an intensely warm day in Manitou, Colorado, a few summers ago. The heat was exceptional for Colorado that day, and perhaps hardly recurred once in five years to such a degree. About noon a little party of us seated ourselves in the car that made the three hours trip up to the summit of Pike's Peak by the cog's-wheel railway. Nothing seemed more superfluous than the fur-lined wraps with which each was provided, but on reaching the summit we found ourselves in a violent storm of snow and wind and sleet. The cold was singularly keen and penetrating. Yet, on one side, looking downward to the Westfrom this peak where, save for the compass. directions could have been realized,far below was a glimpse of blue sky and sunshine that shone out of all the surroun. ing gloom and desolation like a stage picture: like the vision of angels in the last scene of the opera of Faust. There could hardly be imagined a greater contrast than all this untranslatably wild and desolate scene,-cold, dreary, with its sublimely desolate isolation from ordinary life and experiences; this gray and infinite "No-Man's Land" into which we had entered,there could hardly be a greater contrast than this to the blosse ing summer and the liquid - wine that made resplendent the atmosphere we had left below in lovely Maniton, embowered among her forest-draped hills. Still it was all natural. We were ourselves, just the same, and all was just as natural, in the sense of reality as was the summer-land below. Might one not take such an instance as this as a typical one illustrating the truth that the nature of life is so absolutely evolutionary and not revolutionary, that all experiences, all changes,-even that of death itself are, to the individual experiencing them, perfectly natural?

"We drag at each remove a lengthening

As for the simple, natural description and interpretation of the life after that change we call death, there is an abundance. to those who "would not believe, though ne came from the dead and spoke," what does if offer? And if this very large and constantly accumulating data make no impression, then any multiplication of would likewise make no impression. As for one record, take the absolutely natural and rational communications made to Kate Field by the means of "Planchette" writ-ing under her own touch .-- the intelligence alleging itself to be her father and every word and expression substantiating this claim. By the kind permission, of Messrs. Lit , Brown & Co. (holders of the copyright) the following extract from Miss Field's record of those "Planchette" communications (which have been incorporated into a -book issued by Little & Brown nonse) are presented :---

Miss Field writes :--

"I have seen enough of what is called Spiritualism to be convinced of the honesty of many of its 'mediums," It is too late in the day to brand as humbug all the phene the day to brand as humbug all the phenom-ena which have been witnessed by some of the best and clearest intellects of the world. 'A rose by any other name will smell as sweet,' and perhaps Spiritualism, by any other name, will be more grateful to erto either ignored or scoffed at. Be firm and resolute. Don't let the derision of Mrs. Grundy deter you from following the bent of your inclination, no matter what that in-clination may be, provided you feel morally certain that you are serving yourself and your Creator. No one, man or woman, is given aspirations to be stiffed. Nothing but untold misery can come from—" Planchette stood motionless, and I asked if the sentence was finished. "No," she replied.

"No," she replied. "Then why don't you go on?" "Because it is difficult to impress you ith ideas that are but half formed in my with own mind The sentence remained unfinished

Of one "sitting" when Horace Greeley vas present the record runs :-

"The company was about equally divided The company was about equally divided between Spiritualists and sceptics. As Planchette manifested, a lively friendship Tox, Horace Greeley,-quite tiring my arm by rushing towards the side of the table at which he sat,-Mr. Greeley expressed a de-sire to know what friends of his wished to the table at alk to him No friend of yours good honest Horace.

for you are honest in spite of what the Copperheads say,-that is, you do not know me for a friend, having had no earthly acquaintance with me. My name is Joseph eld.

Are the planets inhabited?"

"Yes." "Where does the life of man legin?" "On this planet. When we are gradually removed to others as our ties become more spirit than of matter. We make the le of all the planetary systems." 'Has climate any effect upon spiritual dies "Only as it affects our magnetisms ought into relation with yours. "Who are with you?" George What Washington sends greeting.

131 14 Grant? Well. I'm not much better at a speech than Generad Grant, but I think tolerably well of hum, on the whole. He is not by any means a great man, but I beheve him to be well-meaning. He is not a statesman. but he has enough commonsense to put elever men into the Cabinet. He will not betray the Republican Party, and fore will be an agreeable change. I not please the Radicals particularly and there He will

Mrs Field, who sat by asked her huband if he were happy, and he replied.-

"I'm m a sympathetic atmosphere for the first time in my life. I not traces of old Nathanici Field's (an anestor) physiog-nomy not only in mysel, but in our nomy not only in myset, our network daughter." "What sort of a man was Shakespeare?"

he asked. she asked. "Shakespeare was not a saint in hie ac-cording to orthodox notions, but he was a generous hearted, noble fellow, and a tre-mendous worker. Charles Dickens is about "Would you compare the two?" con

"Would you compare the two?" con-tinued Mrs. 4Field. "Of course not, and yet there is a simi-larity in the order of mind." "Surely you have not attained Shakes, peare's level. How then can you associate with him?" she again quest oned. "But I tell you that spirus are linked to-gether by harmony, and if I am not in sympathy with Shakespeare, with whom am I in sympathy approxe that sympathy with Shakespeare, with whom am I in sympathy? Don't you suppose that Shakespeare is a teacher? Of what benefit are his heart and intellect, if he does not keep gehool?" "Then he is your teacher?".

"Yes-guide, philosopher and friend."

one of Emerson's remark that he believes heaven to be without any melodrama. A great number of persons communicating in various ways and at various times from the ethereal realm all bear striking testimony to the absolutely natural character of the conditions in which they live. Kate Field herself, in reply to a question, wrote one day through the hand of Mrs. Piper that she had been attending a musical convention with Adelaide Phillips and that she and Miss Phillips were composing some n together. What more natural? For Miss Field's leading interest was music and in her early girlbood she was studying Florence, for grand opera, although later circumstances led her into other pursuits But the very persons who most demand literal details of the life beyond are the first to deny any claim to credibility on the who give these simple and part of those natural records of an existence which is apparently, in the line of evolutionary velopment from that of the present. With them may we walk and keep unbroker. The bond that nature gives

The life beyond is undoubtedly far more imple, natural and evolutionary in its prog ress than we have yet learned to realiz In the next paper of this series I shall beg to present more of the testimony and descriptions of the hic beyond from com munications made to me by Kate Field through the wonderful psychic power of both Mrs. Soule and Mrs. Piper.-testi mony that gives some very clear ideas of the conditions of life in the ethereal world The Brunswick, Boston

. . .

The Dark Webs of Doubt.

Mary K. Price

Like a shadow over the sun, or the comng of night, creeps Doubt into the hu man heart, though everything in nature. from the smallest atom, to the largest planet, seems to teach an abiding and teadfast faith Seed time - tollowed by barsest in the on rolling anise by armition

The grass blade pushing of "mongh the and and its rootlet reaching own into the arth can neither of their know what tt +116.WB at the end, but idead in the erowth ground it follows its mission and if held, warnith and mostore await this titly green shoot, which has her to reach at to find them, is it log of to suppose that anything required by man would be demed? But there must be weiging, the reaching toward the source - upply and to do this requires faith. Faith in our own ability, faith in the integrity of humanity, and faith in the goodness of God

The child knows nothing but trust. After many futile attempts it manages the first step, and no matter how many the failures thereafter, it never stops trying till it has learned to walk. So with the many other things which it learns in infancy It has not learned to reason, hence no doubt assails it. It blindly tries and succeeds; but as time advances, how different the child's "What do you think of Benjamin Frank-lin?" Mr. R. inquired. "Franklin's mind was very good as far as it went, but it did not go very far. He is so hard fibre, and spiritual life has rot made choking the garden of the mind with n ous weeds. One need not be so credulous as to be gullible, but credulity is a mild fault comnared to constant susplcion, and among the gels of another world doubtless we shall find many of those whom we designated as chumps" here.

Better be deceived a thousand times than bubt all goodness and virtue.

The business of the world is carried on by faith. The credit system. A check is but a guarantee of faith: in the integrity of him who offers it, and the solvency of the bank by which it is issued.

If the whole business structure is built on faith, let us take it for ourselves, pull air feet from the slimy pool of Doubt, and climb toward that shining star called Soc ess, which Faith sets before us!

Was It Hypnotism?

In the "Banner's" recent issue of Feh. to an justance is given by Dr. John D. Quackenbos of the healing of a young woman as the result of hypnotic suggestion, nder the heading "Hypnotism Conquers Death

The writer begs leave to take exception, of emphasize the fact that hypnotism, pure and simple, formed no part of the cure reated Hypnosis as the word implies-is in artificial sleep, in which state the soul d the subject is only semi-conscious and beys the dictation of another and stronger will. In this instance, however, there was simply an appeal from a strong, healthy oul to the sluggish, torpid soul of the patient to arouse, to assert healt, which donmant consciousness then responded to the call and came to the front to resume the control and inspiration of its own organ-The mond awoke instead of being put to sleep, the opposite condition from hypnosts This is spiritual healing, the power a the regnant soul made maniest, and is xercised constantly@by those who do not practice hypnotism, who can "show you a more excellent way," those who serve gladly as willing instruments through whom divine agencies can bring a baptism of health and strength.

A promunent professor or Harvard, himeli an advocate of hypnotism, once affirmed that "the effects of hypnotism are always The worthy superficial and temporary." Dr Quackenbos (perhaps unconsciously), possessed doubtless a strong healing gift, an imperative soul; for the mind, per se, has no healing power, the efficacy of the human will is limited, but the possibilities of the enfranchised spirit, in its at-one-ment with Ommpotence, are boundless.

Susie C. Clark. Washington D. C.

Bigotry.

The era of bigotry must be near its end in spite of the darkness dinging close to the earth in places. We say men are becoming enlightened, and this is true, they are, and then they cease to consider themselves their brother's superior. They allow the rights of others to think according to their training and circumstance. The Cath-, blic is proud of his church and its dignity, and he thinks with justice. Very well, but let him think kindly of the man who would | board a steamer, that he was in Boston, or in Denyer, or in Seattle. He is the same being and all the conditions are as natural to him when he enters the Taj-Mahal as when he enters the Public Library in C-p- ley Square As for the potent history of all the ages; as for the contrasting con- ditions of contemporary life that he may find, he cannot translate these in his every day letters to friends. He takes them for granted. Surgly, there could be no travel- er more sensitive to conditions or one- who could more intelligently interpret them than Bishop Phillips Brooks. Yet to read the published collection of his letters to home friends while abroad, while visit- ing the marvels of Egypt, of India, of the Holy Land,—is to read little save the sim- ple, natural expressions of affection and in- terest. In the Holy Land his feeling seems to have found its condensed expression in that one perfect lyric,— "O, little town of Bethlehem!" For wherever one journeys, his own life | Of one experiment she records: "If this is really my father, why have you never before manifested yourself?" "Because you have never made the at- tempt. I have been ready time and time again to manifest myself, but you have never shown any disposition to bring your- self en rapport with me. I am not prone to interfere where the spiritual-influence is not fully established. If you care to investigate this matter, you can have such proof as will, satisfy you of the truth of much-abused Spiritualism." "If it is not I writing, how is it that I know what word will be written just before it is traced on the paper? (I have no idea of the sentence in its entirety, but each word enters my mind before it is written.) "My dear child, do you suppose that I can influencie your hand to write without previously influencing your brain? Don't be alarmed. I assure you that you are | many others of inferior reputations." "How do spirits look?" "We show our souls. Whatever out nature, that is seen in our figure and face." "How are spirits occupied?" "They do almost everything here." On another occasion the following was written to Miss Field through Planchette: "Science can do nothing mark my words. They (the scientific men) will acknowledge it, and declare it to be an undeveloped law of mind. There they will take their stand, and you won't be able to make them leave it until the whole world cries aloud, at their obstinacy. Christ went through the same ordeal. The scientific were not his follow- ers." But science has advanced since the time when this was written, and many years laiter Kate Field herself wrote, in a private letter to a friend, "T look to science to prove immortality." | different occupations; the young, the mid- dle aged, and the old; all so frèquently give up saying. "I lack the ability, education, op- portunity." or something or other: any- thing for an excuse to stop trying: simply because of listening to Doubt. Yet it is a fact that no handicap will pre- vent our accomplishing the thing we are really determined to do. Why? Because when we really want a thing we put Doubt under our feet, count no failures, nor, see them when they come, but with a faith that is sublime in its intensity, push for- ward and accomplish our object. True, we have not all an equal amount of ability, and few reach our ideals, but faith and perse- verance will bring a fair measure of success to any man. But once let Doubt gain con- trol of one's character, causing him to dis- trust his own efforts, his hands are practi- cally tied, and progress prevented, while, when exercised toward others the effect is still more dreadful; the nasty, sneaking sus- picion of others' motives, estranging friends, | the second se |

|---|--|---|---|---|
| For wherever one journeys, his own life | be alarmed. I assure you that you are | to Miss Field at this time represents a per- | picion of others' motives, estranging mends, | "That which thou wouldst not suffer thy self, seek not to lay upon others." |
| and the second | | | | |

THE GROWING GOO m Brun

Out of today and tomorrow, Out of its smiles and tears, Out of the passing of sorrow,— The joy of existence appears!

Out of our watchings and waitings, Out of the circling years, Out of our loves and our hatings,-The glory of good appears!

Out of our woe and pleasure Out of our heartache and fe Out of our loss and our treasure,-A beautiful love appears!

Out of distress and sadness Out of the sky that clears, Out of the often found gladness, The star of hope appears!

Out of smiling and weeping Out of the grave that near Out of waking and sleeping,-The life immortal appears!

The Benefits of Life.

Witham Brunton

It is a great gift to look out on the world With the eyes of interest and wonder that we have. It is so from the beginning. As children we see beauty and blessing every-where, and this grows upon us more and more. Now all this is a benefit not to be denied, and the natural return we should make is to follow this out in all its leadings make is to follow this out in all its leadings —make the most of it. It is conceded by some who have grown out of touch with this spirit of joy—that it is all very well for those whose lot is pleasant and who have friends and are still in good health and on the bright side of fifty—that they can do but let age be coming on and and on the oright side of hity-that they can do, but let age be coming on, and friends going, and all the rest, and it mat-ters not how much they have beside-there is little to be thankful for. Oh, I don't suppose any of us wish to change places with anybody else. I confess I don't but much better then much change places with anybody else. I contess I don't: however much better they may be in fortune or gifts. I want to be the one I am. I improve on my own personality, but we often see people to whom their dis-content scems a shame. It seems rank in-gratitude for what they have. There is much to make them happy, but they will not look at the benefits--they are going to see only the things they think they lack. And nothing is more pitiable than this. For, with that state of mind, it is not what they have that is the important mat-ter. A sieve holds no water, and ingratwhat they have that is the important mat-ter. A size holds no water, and ingrat-itude has no chance of enjoyment, for it al-ways wants more. Therefore, I come back to our culture of the bright sentiments. Force them to the front; give them undue prominence if you please, because the evil and grumbling and pessimism needs this corrective.

preminence if you please, because the evil and grumbling and pessimism needs this corrective. Our fear of happiness has struck to our bones. We are suspicious of good, and we have to take as our only true working theory that we must abide by our best hopes and faiths and loves. We are either in a prison, or in a house. I think this is our Father's house with many rooms. I think a broad earth like this—with hills and occans and woods and streams with such grand sky above it—has every indication of being for our joy. And every new power at our disposal shows the same thing. There-fore, to so believe and act is the right at-titude of free souls. To persuade some people of this would be the beginning of a new life, and they would make discoveries of benefits which are now hidden away from them. I often wish that a voice could be given me to preach this as I feel it: and then I know that there would be an im-mediate change for some that would be like the touch of Spring coming to the Winter gradens and fields. We should begin to don our garments of gladhess and praise. One of the famous violinists was Paganini —wonderful for his execution on one string —wonderful for his execution on one string our garments of gladness and praise. One of the famous violinists was Paganini --wonderful for his execution on one string --said to be the result of a suggestion of a friend, who though him capable of it. I think-it was well enough as a trick of skill, but a poor thim for a master provide to friend, who thought him capable of it. I think-it' was well emough as a trick of skill, but a poor thing for a master musician to do. He ought always to have done the best he was capable of doing with the whole in-strument at his command, for we wish to know the higher divineness of music. So with relation to people who try to be satisfied with a low range of living. If they have food and clothing and shelter, they can get along. But that one-stringed instrument forgets that man is body, mind, soul, spirit. We are to satisfy the whole range of being and try to make the melody of a well-tuned life. I do not believe in self-denials that simply rob the body or mind. Let us have all the good-things fall-ing to our lot; but let us use them as bless-ings. It is but a very little while that we have them, and if we have not done good with them then we have the unhappiness of recognizing this when it is too late to amend it. We cannot get too much of money or learning or success of any sort, if we can use it; but if it is a dead weight

BANNER OF LIGHT

Some man says:--I don't see as it makes any difference whether it is Nature or God. Well, let me tell you the difference as it appears to me. If it is Nature-mere play of powers that have such wonderful results in got out of the way of understand-ing it. I get results by reasoning and work-ing according to principle, and if it is true be true of the whole, it whole, it mast be true of the whole, and a thing will not do what mind or person will do. Then by the thought of Love being in in my case as part of the whole, it is great be true of the whole, it is out of this great Love as the raindrop is out of the ocean. The raindrop will abide because it will be caught in the arms of the ocean and have rebirths innumerable. I cannot fear that my love will perish, because it is the ex-pression of His divine mind. I can only care for it in its daily uses. I give it to things and causes and people for whom it is properly intended. I protect it from wong by using my powers, but there must. And it makes our future all right. I have friends who say that the thing they desire and the thought of God is this assurance. And it makes our future all right. I have friends who say that the thing they desire to know most of all is that we still go on. that we continue after the change of death and have opportunities of unfoldment, as good as we have here. The uncertainty of this to them is the one drawback in life. Now, I like to put it in this way. I am invited to the house of a friend. I find everything prepared for my reception, and glad entertainment. I am treated well for everything prepared for my reception, and glad entertainment. I am treated well for a long time; there is everything done for my comfort. Would it be a proper return on my-part for this benefit to begin and doubt the goodwill of my host? Should I impeach the reality of his generosity by wondering if on the morrow when I awaken from every her will be as read to me then as he if on the morrow when I awaken from sleep, he will be as good to me then as he is at present? I should put myself down as hardly worthy of further consideration. Well, I look at the benefits of life—I see them extended over my whole course, from them extended over my whole course, from childhood on, and on, as far as it can go in sight-adter this full and constant giving shall 1 foolishly stand and doubt if God means it as far as He has made me to hope? My hope is in virtue of his present giving. It is the seed of His own sowing—it were a sin and a shame to doubt. The only true thing that I can do is to stand fast by the higher impulses of my nature and be-cause they are large and beautiful in their promises, because they are in keeping with the God thought, I cling to thent. I show myself to be a man in so doing.

the God thought, I eling to thenl. I show myself to be a man in so doing. Live is a matter of faith. I love another because I have faith in him or her. And when I have love for God I have faith in all the possibilities of life. I see that they are in their sced state. They have only just begun to manifest their power of sending out roots of inquiry as to what there is to feed them. And my love persuades me that as for the oak—so for man—so for me—there is soul and season for unfold-ment. ment.

ment. Now, has not a real man some real as-surance in all this? He has to carry the logic of events to their clear conclusion, which is that the Master of Life means well by every one of us, and that He will bring to pass what he has put into our hearts to hope for?

what shall, I do for this? I shall The Then what shall, 1 do for this? I shall trust Him, and not speak ill of life, and as for what we call death, but which is only the fuller form of life—for that I shall be immeasurably thankful. I will wonder with joy at the benefits and beauty it will me as the completion and perfecof my days here.

Spiritualism from a Unitarian Outlook.

The Evening Argus, Montpelier, Vt., by liberally reporting Rev. Charles P. Well-man, Church of the Messiah, in that city, in his recent consideration of the topic, "Uni-tarians and Spiritualism," enables us to pass on to our readers one of the fairest words we have noticed for many a day,-from a church centre. Mr. Wellman said in part:

from a church centre. Mr. Weilman said in part: "The subject is suggested by a question put to me of late by a parishioner: "Why do so many, Unitarians become Spiritualists?" but to the of that by a paramotic start of the original start of a paramotic start of a paramotic start of the several pertinent facts to be remarked before taking up the question. Are we suspicious of Spiritualism? But scientists of repute-a class of 'men whose habit of work makes them, careful about accepting evidences and conclusions-men more suspicious and cautious than are we — are giving careful attention and study to psychical research and the claims of Spiritualism. What is their judgment? That here are things happening in the spiritual realm that we can neither carelessly put aside with a wave of the hand, nor yet that we can explain. The advice of one of the most eminent scientists of England, Sir Oliver Lodge, is that it is just as wrong to be dogmatically negative in this matter as it is to be dogmatically positive. Straight it is to be dogmatically positive. Straight-do Unitariana Spiritualists? Not that they leave their church, but become Spiritualists within their church. The implication is true. Dr. Minot Savage, our widest known minister, is one. Many of our parishioners today hold that faith. It is because of the atti-tude a Unitarian naturally assumes and of his active faith in the biblical injunction, 'Know the truth and the truth shall make you free.' "Two attitudes niay be assumed toward Spiritualism or any other ism. That of blind prejudice and that of self-contented indifference. they leave

"The attitude of ignorance or indiffer-ence is that of the man who criticises that which he will not investigate and know nothing about. Both such attitudes we nothing about. must condemn. Both such attitudes we first in ourselves, then in nothing about. Both such attitudes we must condemn, first in ourselves, then in our fellows. Essential sympathy with Spir-itualism is easily found. Take your pencil and write Spiritualism, drop off the 'ism' that denotes a system. Spiritual. Be Spir-itually minded says Paul and you have se-cured life and peace. Again drop off 'ual' that merely changes the name to an adjec-tive, the thing into a quality. What have you-left? Spirit' That is the basis of every faith that is worthy a man's notice. "Then allow that this is a spiritual world, that spirit is ever Lord over body and mat's ter, and who can tell what is in store for us? You and I cannot truthfully believe in communion between spirit here and spirit there, until we have had some convincing personal experience, but we can conceive ourselves of the power of Spirit over mat-ter and keep our minds open to whatever ter and keep our minds open to whatever ter and keep our mind truth may be reached, we know is, but as Cha out, we can't say what "What people can do minds open to whatever ched. We can say what truth may be reached. We can say what we know is, but as Charles-Kingsley points out, we can't say what is not. "What people can do in every church is to spiritualize their lives, their thoughts, their homes anyl their churches, see that their happiness and peace of mind and real prosperity are dependent on something else than outward possessions: renew their confidence in the eternal power of spirit gver body and not think that the revelation of the Spiritual world and its unseen power is all revealed. That old prophet and saint, John Robinson, leader and pastor of our Puritan fathers, gave us better teaching when he founded part of the early covenant, declaring 'The Lord hath yet more light to shine forth from his holy word.'"

Doubters Have Taught Us All. Thomas C. Rice.

Mr. ----: You send me by mail some expressions of opinion by _____ with re-gard to conditions awaiting us in the (hap-pily remote) future, for few of us long for its speedy commencement, as, however de-lightful may be our environments there, we are in no haste to avail ourselves of the promised experience. And in that, perhaps, we are less influenced by fear or hope than by the common love of terrestrial surroundings. It is more than likely that you wou gratified to learn the amount of stock I take n _____'s position, and to what extent our reasonings run parallel. The subject conreasonings run parallel. The subject con-sidered is rarely taken up in actual serious-ness, as the so-called "without God" are seldom armed for contest with or assault upon a foc a thousand years entrenched in dogma and now barricaded by creed. While dogma and now particulated by creat. While the many have been turned aside from re-ligious contemplations by senseless threats against unbelief, threats contained in Scrip-ture and reiterated and magnified in horrors by the majority of religious teachers, as if it were possible to alter belief at will, as if belief could be in any sense a subject of possible to alter belief at will, as if could be in any sense a subject of belief volition

I have read and reread the articles sent volition. I have read and reread the articles sent me with interest, for all good writers at-tract my attention, and even if not enlisting my sympathies by a correspondence of reasoning, absorb for the time my care and add to my delights very much, as, when ob-serving a complicated piece of mechanism, I get spellbound in following its intricate movements to the final result. But —'s position does far more for me than simply to excite my curiosity. It entices me on to learn whether her reason-ing shall fairly establish what I have long believed, that theory of dual life involving immortality of the soul, which the Bible, Koran or other sacred books fall so far short of, and instead incite to skepticism and lead to absolute and pronounced unbe-lief by their absurdities and improbabilities with regard to the first-named, the old book, its wickedness in acts 'perpertated under the express dictation of the Jewish Jehovah. The Old Testament guestions immor-Jehovah The

The Old Testament questions immor-tality, "If a man die, shall he live again?" and leaves us inclined to answer in the negative; while the new promises but proves nothing, unless we feel disposed to accept the resurrection and ascension of Christ as the resurrection and ascension of Christ as evidence. But even that as given and much accepted belies the very pith and marrow of universal law as now known to exist be-yond the shaddw of questioning. The standard of questioning. The standard of the standard of the shaddwork of the shaddwork of the when science was yet scarcely in the em-byronic state, and today we absolutely know that the leading, features of the nar-rative, as generally accepted, are rank ab-work of the shaddwork of the standard of the shaddwork of the standard of the standard of the standard of the standard work of the standard of the standard of the standard well authenticated instance of suspension of the law of gravitation, or can there be until in the remote to come the universe still under the guidance of law, fixed and mental laws that be colled together as a scroll, and the elements melt with fervent heat, a crisis foretold through inspiration, and sure to come. Even now that prophetic vision is being verified to the keener eye of science and its progress noted. But that law, that one of the two funda-mental laws that hold a swaying, surging myriad of worlds in perfect equipoise and balance is not being violated and is the atom not equally with the world subject to law? Are not the body of Christ and the phetically described, roll the entire universe into chaos, I do not know and so I will not doubt. But that he can or will ever triffe with a fundamental law of his own making, one upon which all stability depends, is too absurd for consideration. Therefore I will ask, and expect a negative reply: Did our Christ--for there have been many-ever ex-perience resurrection ia the sepulchre or rise from earth in the fiesh? Ever raise the really dead? Walk on water? Turn water into wine? or by an act of volition subdue a turbulent sea? Through hypnotism, of which we have reason to believe he was supreme master. to chaos

Through hypnotism, of which we have reason to believe he was supreme master, he may have fed the multitude with a morsel and sent them away satisfied. Science is fact determined and whatever falls short of or lacks demonstration, lies outside the limit, and science says that no matter how much a devotee may cringe to a written word, or how often common sense—though steeped in science—shall bend the knee to an idol embalmed in ancient lore, they can-tor for long make impossibilities seem even ot for long make impossibilities seem even probable Probable. Of Jesus Christ and his teachings I am an ardent admirer. That he ever taught the irrationalities ascribed to him, I disbelieve, and were he not human I would adore him; but being a man, born of woman and con-ceived by the only process nature has de-vised, I can only admire, but cannot wor-ship. Let the church that originated the scheme espouse the fiction. for which I loathe the monkish imposition that be-clouded so fair a name and fame with the fog of romance. I love the man Jesus Christ, our Savior from the ills of soul and sense through preceit and example.

Christ, our Savior from the ins of soul and sense through precept and example. Do you tell me that Christ was God? Then why that despairing cry uttered upon the cross, "Eloi, lama sahachthani?" But for that Jewish romance, that travesty apon common sense, if not taken seriously but as pure romance, is surpassingly grand and beautiful, a most noble literature. Yet as the Word of God it is beneath a serious view.

The writer of the first book, or any boo did not know the world was round, nor did God teach him the fact. He (Moses) if he God teach him the fact. He (Moses) if he was indeed the author, which is a matter of no consequence, placed the sun, moon and the whole planetary and stellar systems within reach of a Remington rifle ball, a fact most unmistakably stated, if, in reading the first chapter of Genesis we give each word its proper meaning and have, withal, some conceptions of the depth of our at-mosphere. He knew no difference between water in vaporous clouds and water in liquid mass. He thought the sun and moon were made expressly for the benefit of that hair-clothed, prehensile-tailed, arborean beast, the primal man, and the stars were cheap timsel work, were spangles pasted beast, the primal man, and the stars were cheap tinsel work, were spangles pasted against the firmament for the jibbering ape pair to dote away a sleepless night upon, or possibly to reach for and eat from this wicker nest of sticks and cane in some towering tree-top. And what is claimed for it is less, if can be, than ridiculous. While a literature poor romance and undefied as literature, poor romance, and undefied by arbitrary pretence, it finds its equal only in the very cream of ancient or modern lit-in the very cream of ancient or modern it-crature. Divested of its mortuary wrappings of superstition and taken for what it really is, it is needful, almost incomparable. As well commit to extinction, Homer, Virgil, Dante, Schiller, Hugo, or Shakesgeare and Milton. It is a precieless treasure heap of letters. But those who hold it in such fanatical regard and bid us bend to it in fetich wor-ship, incline the masses to supurn it as if its ship, incline the masses to spurn it as if its very touch might breed pollution or excite suspicion of soft credulity. Who reads the suspicion of soft credulity. Who reads t Bible now? Women and young childr and such men as have learned to admire for its real, not its fancied worth. But this is wandering from the text: a her dual man her chapted man and the children but this is wandering from the text: and her dual man, her ethereal man, and that temporal cloak of grosser matter, for all is matter to be rated only by degrees of den-sity, keep even step with me in cogitation, except her progress is greater and opens wide the portals of a new heaven and a new, earth, such as has been foretold—some-time obscurele—but yet told by every race times obscurely—but yet told, by every race of men since man began to think in words, and foremost, clearest and profoundest of all those prophets; if read aright, was that lowly man of Nazareth, whose simple name incites to reverence. I said, "since man began to think in words," for only in words can thought proceed. ceed. Mere rumination of ideas without purpose, without definite aim, is not thought. A dog may ruminate, but not logically. He drives no stake and carries no chain. He dashes headlong through brush and bramble to his purpose, while man will start to an ultimate and follow back to its source, or vice versa.

Each successive landmark is a thought mbalmed in words, and by the star Each successive landmark 15 a tumbols, embalmed in words, and by these symbols, "knowing that he knows, and thinking that he thinks," solves his problem. Man arro-gates to himself a higher type than simple effection, a mental jumble. He labors to reflection, a mental jumble tertaining, is mind in travail, and only through travail can be born legitimate con-chsions. At times men say "I-think." clusions. At times men say "I think." They lie. They only dream, are only cog-nizant of fleeting shadows, vapors of contemplation. - thinks, and catching at the Paul's survey, runs back the But —— thinks, and catching at the finis of St. Paul's, survey, runs back the gamut of the lines, verifies each angle, and, halting at the point of beginning says: "There are two bodies, a natural body and a spiritual body," and a profounder doctrine is evolved than the immortality of flesh and blood, or even that of ignis fatuus, that in-finitesimal spark of nothingness, spirit divorced from matter. The relationship be-tween the ethereal and that grosser form of matter whose certain dower at dissolution But tween the ethereal and that grosser form of matter whose certain dower at dissolution is disintegration, is severed for eternity. But to Bryant's question, "How shall I know thee?" I would answer, "As you know me here, by my looks, for this is the only, the real I." Death, and death only, is the doom of that which, beautiful as it was, and wonderful in its complexity of design, that fitting copy of the inner man is but a car-cass now. The man has gone. That dead thing of which the spirit was in every sense, but sense, the prototype, is verging toward decomposition, while the man has winged

and the bar of ju

the extent of one hundred nautical miles. It has been done for ages in India until it is almost commonplace. I do not dispute the accomplishment, but doubt Marconi's theory. Call up six intelligent men and let Marconi make them as conversant with methods as he is himself and if five of them succeed, then the theory is probable.' If six, then confirmed until further rejections. But if only three can do it, it is thought transference-telepathy. The ' remaining three are not gifted, but the genuis-Mar-coni. Even if the master inscribes his thought in characters or symbols three extent of one hundred nautical miles. three are not guited, but the genus-Mar-coni. Even if the master inscribes his thought in characters or symbols three thousand miles away, it is but a step side-wise, or advance upon what has been. In 1835 a woman died in London, and that very day and hour her daughter in St. Johns, N. B. was apprised of the fact. The next ship from London confirmed it. As the mail report and notes taken at the time of impression were in correspondence. A woman in New York, whose daughter was at sca, heard in audible tones, "The ship was lost one hundred miles at sea at that hour. And many like incidents might be cited. They are the whisperings of a mukti-God, merging toward its primal one-ness, of a temporarily disintegrated total of mentality whose name is Alpha and Omega. I was, I am I shall be.

" New Tables of Stone."

"New Tables of Stone." A collection of fifteen essays by Henry M. Simmons is presented under the unique title of "New Tables of Stone." the initial paper bearing the title of the book and among others are "Unity through Diver-sity." "The Cosmic Roots of Love." "An Old Parable Extended: The Divinity of Man." "The Water of Life." "The Breath of Life." "The Enfarging Thought of God." "Christianity Then and Since." "Va-rious Meanings of Easter," and "The New Year of Religion." Mr. Simmons had already made a strong impress on the thoughtful public by his book called "The Unending Genesis," and such is the exalted quality of his work that Dr. Andrew D. White ranks Mr. Simmons with such met as Phillips Brooks and Dr. Munger. The entire quality of these essays is in-

Munger. Munger. The entire quality of these essays is in-tensely vital and offers a panorama of new views of life. In the essay on "The Divin-ity of Man" Mr. Simmions, alluding to the manner in which the physical universe is ity of Man Mr. Simmons, aluding to the manner in which the physical universe is being conquered, says:— "Even that electric demon of the storm, which was once thought his worst foe, man has tamed and sends in the signal service to Which was once thought ins worst toe, man has tamed and sends in the signal service to warn the world when the storm is coming and so disarms it, 'Canst thou send light-nings?' 'Yes,' man replies, 'send them and make them;' and he is making them con-tinually to do the mightiest and the most delicate work, to 'draw railway trains, or ring a doorbell, to run under the ocean and around the world on his errands, or carry his own voice across the land. "He has already invented a steam-engine that runs by mere sunshine; and which Ericsson said would yet draw his railway trains so, that he would literally fulfil Em-erson's saying and hitch his wagon to a star. He virtually makes the heavenly bodies come to him. By his telescope he makes the moon come the most of the way; and by the spectroscope he makes the sun come all the way and have its gases ana-lyzed as if he had them in his laboratory. d by <text> He even weighs the sun and puts furthest stars in his scales."

FEBRUARY 17, 1906.

money or learning or success of any sort, if we can use it; but if if is a dead weight on our hands, or if it is made a disappoint-ment as not giving good, then there is new sorrow for us. It, simply lies here-that with every gift there is a responsibility that we are to meet. It is not to be wondered at that so few of us accomplish what we desire, because the root of failure lies in the feebleness of the root of failure lies in the feebleness of our desire. We make our experiments all sion that life is only for one great purpose, and that is the reality of love and obedi-ence to what we know to be the true and good. All other things come as tributary to this stream, and make it broad and deep; but this is the great thing we are to care for.

Then we come to a part of life that we do not sufficiently consider, and that is the putting aside of care that does not properly belong to us. We are to remember that putting aside of care that does not properly belong to us. We are to remember that the world was here before we came; that it will remain after our departure, and that some one is Master of it—and that we have not to carry the burden of all its happenings. We serve in our place—we do our work—and then we leave the result it is to be dogmatically positive. Straight-forward open mindedness and an attitude of sound and healthy common sense is what we want. "Another fact. Our faith in life after death is so well grounded in us that we can hardly conceive that at the beginning of Christianity that faith burned less brightly. But what was it that allowed woung Chris-Christianity that failth burned less origing, But what was it that allowed young Chris-tianity to conquer when the Christian faith and several others were struggling to win the Roman word? It was more than all else, this Christian faith that life continued else, this Christian latin that the continued after death. What has given rise to Spirit-ualism and kept the cult alive? Curiosity? Entertainment? Joke pretenses? No, but the self same faith of life after death, that gave Christianity the victory centuries ago. It is the burning desire to know positively that they who were dead, are yet living. Spiritualism has then a sacred reason for existence, in the presence of which there is befitting only an attitude of reverence and benting only an attitude of reverence and respect. "One thing more. Aré you aware that progress is being made in Spiritalism? Such is the case. Only dead organisms are to be feared. Spiritualism is not as old as Unitarianism; its advent was in 1848, yet fifty years has seen great progress in its domain. The crude kind of physical phe-nomena, such as was usual in the early stages of Spiritualism, has assumed a more

FEBRUARY 17, 1906.

The Literary Wolorld. CONDUCTED BY LILIAN WHITING.

"The world of books is still the world."

"James Anthony Freude."

"James Astheny Freude." The life of James Anthony Froude, by Herbert Paul, deals with much that is in-teresting in contemporary English history and English life. Opening with the child-hood and youth of the famous historian, the chapters discuss Oxford, The History, Froude and Freeguan, Irish Historian, the chapters discuss Oxford, The History and Irish Politics, South Africa, Froude and Carlyle, Books and Travel, The Oxford Professsorship, and The End. During his Oxford life Froude came un-der the influence of Dr. (later Cardinal) Newman, for whom he conceived a rever-ence and admiration that only increased dring his entire life. Arthur Clough, the poet, was at this time his nearest friend, and Emerson came, on a visit to Clough, who was in residence in Oriel College, and meeting Froude advised him to read the Vata.

Emerson lectured in London on "The Spiritual Unity of All Animated Beings," and at this lecture Froude and Carlyle first met. The chapter on Froude and Carlyle met. The chapter on Froude and Carlyle is most interesting. "From the first, Carlyle's conversation attracted Froude," writes Mr. Paul, "and dazzled him. But he felt, as others did, that sub-mission rather than intimacy was the at-titude it compelled. There was no republic of letters in Carlyle's house. It was a dic-tatorship, pure and simple." Visiting America, Froude wrote to an English friend: "I was received on Saturday as a member of the Lotos Club, the wits and journalists of New York. It was the strangest scene I ever was present at. They were very elever-very witty at each other's were very clever-very witty at each other's expense, very complimentary to me; and, believe me, they worked the publishers who were present for the profit they were mak-

"From what I see of the Eastern states From what I see of the Eastern states I do not anticipate any very great things are likely to come out of the Americans. Their physical frames seem hung together rather than organically grown. They are generous with their money, have much ten-derness and quiet good feeling, but the An-glo-Saxon power is running to seed and I don't think will revive. Puritanism is dead and the collected sternness of temperament which belonged to it is dead also." The chapters dealing with Froude's first acquaintance with the Carlyles and the growing intimacy are deeply interesting. It

The chapters dealing with Froude's first acquaintance with the Carlyles and the growing intimacy are deeply interesting. It was in 1861 that Froude first received a visit from Carlyle and from that time their association grew closer. "Carlyle did not take to many people, but he took to Froude," says Mr. Paul. "Perhaps he was touched by the younger-man's devotion. Perhaps he saw that Froude was no ordinary disciple and would be able to carry on the torch when he relinquished it himself. At all events he expressed a wish to see him oftener in his walks, in his rides, in his home. Froude responded cordially and became an habitual visitor. Like all really good takers, Car-lyle was at his best with a single compan-ion and there could be no more sympathet-ic companion than Froude." Mr. Paul tells the story of Froude's con-mection with the Carlyle MSS. in a way to throw an entirely new light on the contro-versy and his statements have the unmis-takable ring of truth. Mr. Paul relates the story with great clearness and simplicity, and it is the final-word. The book will be found one of most exceptional interest. (New York: Charles Scribner's Sons.)

The Dissociation of Personality.

The Dissociation of Personality. Dr. Morton Prince has given in this vol-ume a very curious biographical study in abnormal psychology. It is a study of a very remarkable case of multiple personal-ity, the subject, Miss Christine L. Beau-champ, being a person who exhibited three different personalities besides her own hor-mal and original one. It is written for the layman as well as the student of abnormal psychology. The object of the work is threefold: first to give a detailed account of the daily life of the subject, in such fashion that the full meaning of alteration-of personality, in all its phases, may be un-derstood, and the phenomena accorded their proper place amongst those of abnormal psychology. The author, for this purpose, has described with much detail the condi-tions under which the different personalities has described with much detail the condi-tions under which the different personalities developed the character traits of each, their behavior to the environment, the way in which the dissociated personalities could adapt themselves to social life and how they failed to do so. In this respect, there-fore, the work is a biography of a 'person with multiple mental lives. It describes the trials, difficulties and social life of each personality, and the way in which each in-terfered or co-operated with the others. A large nimber of letters written by the sevof each each in-large number of letters written by the sev personalities, and which therefore al-their individual characters to be seen, re included. The second object of the work is to pre are sent a complete study of the psychological relations of the dissociated personalities to relations of the dissociated personalities to one another and to the original self; in other words, to discover the data which en-abled the author to answer the question, Which is the Real Miss Beauchamp, and, in general, find data which wilk aid in the solution of the problem of multiple per-sonality? For this purpose a psychological study of each personality is made, with the result that each is fitted into its proper place and the real person resurrected. (New York: Longmans, Green & Co.)

Katherine Cecil Thurston made a repu-tation with her novel called "The Masquer-ader"--an ingenious and even daring story, one of great originality of conception and power. In the present work, "The Gamb-ler," the same force and vitality appear, the same impassioned scenes and play of color. The first sight that Clodagh, the heroine, and Sir Walter Gore had of each other, each in a gondola, passing, by chance, in Venice, recalls Browning's lines:

"He looked at her as a lover can; She looked at him as one who awakes; Her past was a dream and her life began.

The chapters of the story where the scenes are laid in Venice are especially fascinating, and Mrs. Thurston admirably paints that region of subtle enchantment. The novel will be found one of the most enthralling of the day. (New York: Har-per & Brothers.)

"The Sage Brush Parson."

Nevada is the locality chosen by Mr. A. B. Ward for the setting of his story, "The Sage Brush Parson," a vigorous tale of the unconventional life in the sage brush the unconventional life in the sage orush wastes of that state. Clement Vaughn, an Englishman, with an enthusiasm for the betterment of hu-manity, is the hero, and his work among the untrained and undeveloped people of the little mining town is depicted with vividness and interest. The atmosphere of the sage brush wastes permeates the story. The au-ther's sense of humor, apparent throughout the book, contributes greatly to the read-er's enjoyment, and to this is added a strong energy of readium or if one had really lived sense of reality—as if one had really lived in the scenes and the incidents of the story. The reader gains an exceedingly clear idea of life in the less settled region of Nevada. (Boston: Little, Brown & Co.)

"On the Field of Glory."

The great historical romance of this year is "On the Field of Glory," by Henry Sien-kiewicz, a work of great force and absorb-ing interest that will add new lustre to the fame of the author of "Quo Vadis." Mr. fame of the author of "Quo Vadis." Mr. Jeremiah Curtis has received from Mr. Sienkiewicz the exclusive right to translate all his work, and he certainly shares in the reader's appreciation of the admirable Eng-lish in which the novel is presented in trans-lation for the first time. The author has just been awarded the Nobel literary prize-one for nearly $40,000. He tells, in this latest novel, a charming, tender, and pas-sionate love story of remarkable intensity, and gives the reader acquaintance with characters not inferior in vigor and inter-est to those of the great trilogy. The scenes are laid in Poland, and the period is the reign of the famous King John Sobieski, just before the Turkish invasion in 1682 to 1683. Sienkiewicz has woven a wonderful romance of great brilliancy and strong character drawing, and in no book by the author of "Quo Vadis"—a story whose sale has not been equaled by any modern work of fiction—has he displayed his great genius more strikingly. Mr. Curtin's mastery of Polish and re-markable power in interpreting Sienkiewicz have received world-wide recognition. "On the Field of Glory" is attracting na-Jeremiah Curtis has received from Mr.

have received world-wide recognition. "On the Field of Glory" is attracting na-tional attention. (Boston: Little, Brown &

" In Old Bellaire."

"In Old Bellaire." In "The Rose of Old St. Louis" Mrs. Mary Dillon made an unusual success,— one which assures the welcome of her new story, "In Old Bellaire." The scene is laid in a small college and barracks town in Southern Pennsylvania. Here into the fam-ily of the president of the college comes quaint, demure Eunice, with all the strict prejudices of a rigid New England training. Bellaire is a town of gay social life, with the freedom only possible in a small vil-lage. The other girls have been accustomed to much attention and many simple gaieties, but to the New England girl these things seem worldly dissipation, yet, though her conscience protests, she cannot but enjoy them. Her very unlikeness to the gay girls he has known all his life wins first the ad-miration, then the heart, of the most dar-ing and dashing of the young men, and the romance of Rex and Eunice is skelfully pic-ture.

Then comes the Civil War, sweeping away Then comes the Civil War, sweeping away Rex and the other lovers, and bringing hardship and heartache to the happy little town. There are rumbles of battles, glimpses of hospital life, the war is made incidental to the unfolding of the plot, and Rex's development into noble manhood through his love for Eunice is tenderly told. (New York: The Century Company.)

Piso's Cure for Consumption also cures Coughs, Colds, Sore Lungs and Asthma.

Stick to the Compact.

It has been publicly stated, and never denied, that Dr. Hodgson formed a compact with Mrs. Piper to communicate with her after his death. What for? Was it merely to satisfy Mrs. Piper, when both she and the doctor had for years been working to-gether for the enlightenment of the world, on the subject of such return? Most asand saving my money to and do not lose a day. I am selling media ated gloves; they are easy to sell, being so cheap, only 30 cents a pair, and they make the hands so nice and soft and are so durable. It is a nice and soft and are so durable. It is a picnic selling gloves, you do not have to talk at all; people want them as soon as they see them, and many buy half a dozen pairs. Write to the Common Sense Mig. Co., St. Louis, Mo., Dept. 61, and they will on the subject of such return? Most as-suredly not. It was a compact, the es-pecial nature of which must be adhered to, and no subterfuge will ever be admissible to minds of any degree of intelligence. Otherwise it would open wide the door to every sort of assumed communication with Dr. Hodgson, whether honest or dishonest. If no such communication is ever re-ceived by Mrs. Piper, it will make the, claims of Spiritualism no better, nor worse than today; but to admit that the compact made between Mrs. Piper and Dr. Hodg-son has been fulfilled through the mediary of any other mortal than Mrs. Piper, would be a trap of the enemies to Spiritualism, in which no true Spiritualist should permit himself to be caught. The instrument used as Mrs. Piper's proxy may be conscious or unconscious of the fact that such subterfuge will not dem-onstrate to thinking minds the truth which Dr. Hodgson, in well understood compact, purposed to establish. suredly not. It was a compact, pecial nature of which must be adh the Co., St. Louis, Mo., Dept. 61, and they will start you and tell you how to sell, either at home or by canvassing. I have several friends selling gloves and all doing fine. If you want to make $5 to $10 a day, try the glove business; you cannot fail, as the gloves sell themselves. I am so proud of my success that I cannot keep still about it. Miss L. A. C.

Spiritualists, of all people, should not orget the power of suggestion, which often auses unauthorized parties to become pos-essed with the idea that they are authorsessed with the idea that they are author-ized. My mother before she died, promised, as faithfully as Dr. Hodgnon promised Mrs. Piper, that she would "most assuredly re-turn to me." For nearly thirty years I kept that secret to mysell, and among strangers I never lisped the fact that my mother was dead. (I gave every reasonable opportunity for the promise to be fulfilled. I never got the slightest intimation that my mother had passed beyond until one even-ing recently, in public meeting. I stated the above fact, and before I left the hall I had three assurances that my mother was pres-ent and was speaking words of good cheer. Such matters attest the power that sugges-tives and impressionables, but it has noth-ing to do with the truth or the falsity of the Spiritualism is based on laws above the ing to do with the truth of the laisity of the Spiritualistic claims. Spiritualism is based on laws above the laws of suggestion, imitation, or obsession. The principles of Spiritualism are just as solid and just as true, whether or not Dr. Hodgson communicates with Mrs. Piner as per commend.

BANNER OF LIGHT.

solid and just as true, whether or not Dr. Hodgson communicates with Mrs. Piper as per compact. Throw aside all phenomenal proof of the return of ancestral spirits, to our mortal eyes and ears, and yet, there is an inborn proof of the fact that the spirits of our ah-cestors are all about us, hovering over us, dependent upon us, and we dependent upon them, and those who have advanced to the high estate of psychic understandings are able to see beyond the thin veil, which is no barrier to their perceptive understand-ings. The "veil" only hides a view of the great beyond to the eyes of those who are blinded by worldly pelf and pleasures. Mystics of the order of the Seventh Es-tate do not require evidence through Dr. Hodgson or any one else. His testimony, if it ever comes, is only for the "Doubting Thomases" who are not able to perceive the veil until they can put their fingers through a rent, created by material investi-gators.

gators.

Let no Spiritualist accept. any subterfuge through a rent, created by material investi-gators. A Let no Spiritualist accept. any subterfuge for Dr. Hodgson's eyidence. Let it be the "pound of flesh" or nothing, exactly as the contract was made. But! Don't throw any barriers in the way of the subterfuges. Let them work out their own salvation, for it is, by sugges-tion, the power of the spirit, working in them. By "beating the deal about the bush," they may work themselves so far away from the superstiftons of their old faith, as to be able later on to yet a peek through the veil and find that the coin that they have been working for will not pass on the other side. As Jesus said: "They that are not against us are for us" Orthodoxy is not subject to conversion. Its ears are filled with petrified wax. Or-thodoxy would be orthodoxy still, even though Jesus of Nazareth came in the flesh and declared it possible to communicate with the departed. Orthodoxy cares only for the belief that they are the chosen ize. Never cast your Spiritualistic pearls towards them. Make the ranks of Spiritualism brighter and orthodoxy discovers that .Spiritualism is the most popular cult, the orthodox sheep will flock to the brightest side, while the rams with their petrified ideas will merely hold up their hands in a-tonishment A coept subterfuges from Dr. Hodgson and orthodoxy will strengthen its self-right-cousness by cries of "frau". Charles Beverly. A Notre Dame Lady's Appenl.

A Notre Dame Lady's Appeal.

To all knowing suffere:s of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, whether muscular or of the joints, schattea, lumbagos, backache pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure vourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate heing necessary. This simple disat home as thousands will testity—ho change of climate being necessary. This simple dis-covery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the cyes, giving elas-ticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof, address Mrs. M. Summera, Box 237, Notre Dame, Ind.

A little scandal trickled through

A little scandal trickled through Where gossip cracked the wall. And rapidly the volume grew That at first was so small. They sought with truth to fill the rent. To close the ugly breach but spent Their efforts all in vain, for, like The stream that steals out through the dike Foul scandal's volume-swells and spreads; Beginning as a subtle sur It quickly wrecks and rips to shreds The splendid walls of claracter.

Chicago Record-Herald.

How to Make Money.

I have just learned how so make money real fast and easy too. I have not made less than $56 a week since I began, and one week I made $18. Isn's that grand? I too and d not lo

THE WORLD BEAUTIFUL. First, Sec-ond, and Third Series. 3 vols. 16mo. $1.00 per vol. Decorated cloth, $1.55 per

vol. Cannot help being uplifting and inspiring There is a delightful sense about it of being lifted out of the promie every-day duties of life into a newer and more sumy and, above all, more spiritual conception of these promie duties.—New Church Measenger.

AFTER HER DEATH. 16mo. $1.00. Deco

AFTER HER DEATH. 1980. Desc-rated cloth, $1.35. We find a firm belief in the possibility of communion with the spiritual world, dignified by a ceautiful philosophy inspiring high thoughts and noble purposes.—Whig and Courses.

FROM DREAMLAND SENT. Verses of the Life to Come. 18mo. $1.00. Deco-rated cloth, $1.25. Graceful, tender, and true, appealing to what is best in the human heart.—The Independent. THE SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE: or, Death as an Event in Life. 16mo. $1.00. Decorated Sloth, $1.25. It suggests and hints at the ultimate signifi-cance of scientific investigation with relation to the totality of thought in a very fresh and suggestive way... The spirit of her book, like that of its predecessors, is admirable.-The Outlook.

The Outlook.
KATE FIELD: A RECORD. With por-traits, including one by Elihu Vedder. 12mo. Decorated cloth, $2.00.
A volume rich in side-lights upon distin-guished personages of this century, both here and abroad.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A STUDY OF ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING. 16mo. Decorated cloth, $1.25. e most virile picture of Mr Browning in A distinctly valuable The all our literature . . . A distinctly valuable addition to our Browning literature.—New York Times.

THE WORLD BEAUTIFUL IN BOOKS. 16mo. $1.00 net. Decorated cloth, $1.25

Isino. The second secon upon with rare discrimin-power.-Boston Transcript.

BOSTON DAYS. Illustrated. 12mo. $1.50 net. All the famous names associated with Boston pass in review before the render of this apotheosis of the intellectual life of Massa-chusetta.-Boston Herald.

THE LIFE RADIANT. 16mo. $1.00 net. Decorated cloth, $1.25 net. No one can read the book without having a clearer perception of the meaning of life and of the infinite possibilities of the human soul in its process of advancement.—Chicago' Chronicle.

THE OUTLOOK BEAUTIFUL. 16mo. $1.60 net. White and gold, $1.25 net. Miss Whiting's new book deals with the mys-tery of death and the relations between life that now is and that which is to come.

THE JOY THAT NO MAN TAKETH FROM YOU. 18mo. 50 cents net. In this book she has succeeded in giving a spiritual interpretation of the seeming direful disasters that best us and then with steady hand holds forth the box of priceless oint-ment that shall heal our wounds and fill our hearts with that supreme joy of which she writes.-Banner of Light.

THE FLORENCE OF LANDOR. Illus-trated. Svo. In.box, $2.50 net. Miss Whiting describes the beautiful "flower town" of Florence, with which Walter Savage Landor's name is undyingly associated, and makes live again to the reader some of the great writers who have been so closely asso-ciated with Florence.

The Works of SUSIE C. CLARK

A UNIQUE BOOK JOHN MOCULLOUGH

A8 MAN. ACTOR AND SPIRIT

Illustrated. Price $1.50. An authentic portrayal of the mortai career of the emi-nent tragedian and the first biography ever written that continues its recital beyo.d the portais of the grave.

A LOOK UPWARD.

CLOTH. 15 PAGES. SIXTEEN CHAFTERS. Glad Tidings. The Law of Progress. Diverse Receptivity, 100 and the Boul. Bpirit versus Matter, Good and Icaling Power. Suggestions for Transminet. Facts Sel dom Recognised. What Constitutes & Healer. Gifty of Healing. Spiritual Growth.

Postage 12 cents. Price $1.25. TO BEAR WITNESS: A Metaphysical Sketch. CLOTH. IN PAGES. FIFTEEN CHAPTERS.

CLOTH: IN FAGES. FIFTEEN CHAPTERS. Contents: The Valley of the Shadow, The Resurrection. What They Sail Greek Meets Greek. Theotogy versus Carls-tian Realing. Greek Meets Greek. Theotogy versus Carls-tian Realing. A strand Strands With Nature. For the Twith's Shak. Along With Nature. For the Twith's Shale. Postage Seven Cents.

in control of the sections of the An-sets Home of my Childhood days If you should be to add the you should be to add the society is any for you These Angel voices Jost as the Run went down societing sweet to almost Pattoful usits death Precedom's grand triumph Across the Burean borne distring hoy come berrent fold ury handa I fold my has

UNCLE SAM SPECIALTIES.

diam point, hard rather b the good page, this price enfy? Taily warnafood BLB. USCLE SAR STARP BOX Reids 35 perfere starge from any spectra of the thumb address of reserves a starge from any starting the rest. San's start together or to destoyred, 35. UNCLE SAR TER TOKET TABLET. Aluminum back to write on; four 5 bac out any obsers without disturbing the rest. put new poper in years of the

All Three Postpaid, $1.50.

AGENTS WANTED.

UNCLE SAM NOVELTY CO., Dr. K. Lity Dale, N.T.

SECOND EDITION

THE DEMONISM OF THE AGES. AND Spirit Obsessions in Spiritism and Oriental and Occidental Occultism.

By J. M. Peebles, M. D., A. M.

CONTENTS. Evil Spirits and Their Influences, Chinese Spiritism Demoniscal Possessions in Japan and Kores, Demonism of the Ancient Greeks, Demois in Jersie Time, Obces-siong Witchersfi and insanity, Swedenborg and Be Demoissing Evil Spirits, Spiritraliam as it is, etc. Thirty-hree chapters, 20 pages, cloth, glil lettered. Frice 51.45.

For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT. PORJFOLIO OF

ASTROLOGIC KNOWLEDGE

Wonder Wheel Science Series.

This portfolio contains all that is actually ecessary in the practical work of Astrology 1 copy of Astrology in a Nutshell; with character reading in the appendiz.

copy of Wonder Wheel, on tough pa-per, for easy reference to all of the geometrical or heliocentric laws of calendar, aspects, planetary rulings, zodiacal circles, years of life, plane-tary hours, clock hours, fixed stars, decanates, terms, etc., etc.

I copy of Prof. Henry's Key, Guida and Lessons, for Horoscope Work, with law for American or English time, and all the necessary laws for reading the same.

copy of Tabula Magus, of planetary Hours, for vest pocket uses in houry guidances, for all time. Character Reading on last page.

1 copy of Character Reader, on card, for desk use, or parlor diversion.

loop of vest pocket lesson for imme-diately telling the Ascendant, the Meridian point, and place of the sum on any day or any year, vithout mathematics; also atable of the ap-proximated places of superior plan-ets, for nearly 100 years.

1 dozen Horoscope or Nativity Blanks for tabulating. 1 dozen Wonder Wheel Blanks, for quickly tabulating the places of the planets.

copy of an Ephemeris, for year of birth, with Tables of Houses, etc. This entire portfolio of Astrologic lore ent to any address for $5.00.

It is guaranteed to be reliable; free from pretentious claims; founded on the very highest of Nature's known laws, and worthy of a place in any man's library.

Any one of the series may be purchased separately if so desired. *

For sale at the BANNER OF LIGHT BOOK STORE

LONGLEY'S

CHOICE COLLECTION OF

For Public Meetings and the Home.

ENTS. Mother, take me in you arms. Mother's beaufiful hands There's a day of triumph Ones wide the poids Portal One wide the poids Portal One by one the old Friends The soul goes marching on A thome The soul goes marching on A thome they makes the bare Our darling Nannie The poor Man's glad the our darling Nannie The poor Man's glad the our darling the the face I showeve to loss at stillight. Kiss me doo inght Bare waiting there for me Aught the soul the soul the Soul of the source of th

Aspiration Rest is coming bye and bye Ob when shall we ever get est waiting near the golden stair Beams of love light. The Golden Gates are left Alar there Hopes of the long ago Just a little Farther on My baby waits for me Was I only dreaming.

CONTENTS.

thinking dear Mother of you you are hand of the byte and byte The Land of the byte and byte The Land of the byte byte The Land beyond the Bars They are Walting at the Por-tal When the Dear ones Gather at Home Resting under the Dalaisa at Home Resting under the Daisies The Grand Jublice Dear Heart come Home Come in some Beautiful Dream Where the Roses never Fade In Heaven we'll know our Own

Own My Mother's tender eyes I sing my sweetest Song All hall the dawning Light The Home that's walting you If you love me, tell me so Beautiful Home of the An-

. " The Gambler."

Mr. Howells announces in the current number of Harper's Magazine that readers no more desire a novel with a plot; but the fact is that a novel without a plot is devoid of truth to life. No novelist can even be-gin to picture the intensity and the breath-less fasefination of life, itself, day by day, full of color, power, swift change, and startling

The Boston and Maine Messenger The Boston and Maine Messenger is a welcome visitor. It is the wise effort of the management of this great road to keep in touch with business men, so that they can see what opportunities are offered to them in the towns it passes. And it gives the wish of the towns for business. It is very friendly and useful this way. It comes monthly and costs 25 cents a year. To be had at the Passenger Department of the Road.

PUBLICATION OFFICE AND BOOKSTO

THE NEW ENGLAND NEWS COMPAN

14 Franklin Street, Boston, M THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY.

ors Street, Ne

S OF SUBSCRIPTION IN ADVANCE Britain, Australia and New Zealand. Ten Shill

Editor......IEVING P. STHONDS Literary Contributions, News Items, Reports Announcements must be addressed

er and General Man IRVING F. STMONDS all Business Communic ons must

Dr. GEORGE A. FULLER

ADVERTISING BATES. lars furnished up

risements to be renewed at a t be left at our Office befor ay, a week in advance of bey are to appear.

that olumns are open for the expression of imper-ught, but we do not necessarily endorse all des of columns to which correspondents may e as a guaranty er you desire the address of your paper

Banner of Bight.

BOSTON. SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17. 1906.

EVERY WEDNESDAY APTERNOON AT FOR THE WEEK ENDING AT DATE

atored at the Post-Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class Matter.

OUR GEORGE WASHINGTON

first in peace, the first in war, and first In loyal hearts that loved him to the end,

The people's pride, their leader, and their friend, brought good hap from what appeared the worst.

the worst. A country with contending factions curst. Until the States as one did nobly blend. And nations could his victory commend. To see its glory like a sunrise burst! And we are of his race and with him one. In seeking still the further good of man: The ideal still the eyes of faith look on. To carry out his grand enlarging plan: And all achievement that we gaze upon-Is praise to him our first American!

Courage of itself, immediately and for all time, carries great reward and blessedness.

Cowardice has no compensation shame

When men speak evil against truth, don't desert it

If Spiritualism is true to you it is true, and you are to be its kriend and stand up tor it bravely.

Washington and his troop when twenty miles out from Philadelphia on their way to Boston were met by a messenger riding at post-haste bearing to Congress news of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

"Why were the Provincials compelled to retreat?" he was asked. "It was for want of ammunition." he replied. "Did they stand the fire of the regular troop?" Washington anxiously inquired. "That they did, and held their own fire in reserve until the enemy was within eight rods." "Then the liberties of the country are safe!" exclaimed Washington.

Mrs. Kate M. Ham writes from Pittsburg, Pa.: "I am here for February and March serving the First Spiritual Church, Mr. C. L. Stevens, president. They cer tainly have a church to be proud of and the attendance is large."

BANNER

The usual preaviling color of black, which the mourning world, irrespective of creed, seems bound to display as its mark of grief, was notably absent in the mourning emblems for King Christian in Copenhagen. Spirits almost always when expressing themselves on this subject testify to the depressing effect of our sombre displays, when they come into our surroundings Now that a royal mark has been placed on color, we may find it easier to meet the world's eye and carry ourselves in less de pressing forms

Messages.

There is an intense desire on the part of nhabitants of the spirit world to make known their immortality and happiness to theif friends, on earth. We have been impressed deeply with this truth during the communication of the messages published in our columns. Parents wish to speak to children, children to parents, and friend to These short, familiar, characteristic mesages are doing their work in arresting the attention and in convincing thousands of

We look upon this as the great questhe truth that spirits do communicate with tion to be settled in the public mind -Ban

George Washington.

A nation must preserve its history heroism It must tell over and over the story of its own making and growth. It must recount the deeds of its brave not and show how it stands for something in its unfolding. It has to do this in order to keep its own people in love with the line

And this is the justification of the cele bration of the birthdays of our great men-like Washington and Lincoln. These are the two which we most delight to honor each representative of qualities that we can proudly call American though they belong to our human nature. Lincoln is a little nearer to us in time and nearer to us be cause of his poverty and hardship, and has more of the modern democrat about hom grows upon us by study, by his fixed deter mination for the liberty of the Colonies.

the planting of a Republic, and by the pa tience, persistence and sagacity with which he carried out his plans. He had so much against him and so little for him, so many traitors in camp, so many foes in the guise of friends, that we maryel at the work done

This is the benefit of the celebration that not only are the children in the schools directed to study his noble character and to learn particulars of him and of his times but that the grown tolks have a revived interest in the man and are led to catch up with the latest additions to our understand ing of him. New information is arising all the time, and we are revising our opinion of him so as to see the great merit of his masterly presence and leadership.

The change from one form of rule to an other is not an easy step to take People are satisfied with the old, rather than make disturbance and come to something bet

Setter, and not until they are forced of their supineness, do they realize the great difficulties in the way. The Colonies had to be moulded to the purpose of freedom, and kept to the aim of it by the force of the minds of the leaders, and these stalwart souls had burdens to bear which giants

Washington was the man of destiny un doubtedly in those times that tried men's souls. His training, his position, his wealth his courage and steady patience were the forces centered in him and giving him leadership. None of the others had any-

They do not know that it would be as being of the people

the victory achieved

ter.

alone could carry.

hing of the like com

But Washingt of

ner of Light, May 7. 1857

friend

men.

of its traditions

And the character of the man was admin able in retirement as well as when for eight years he was President. He had his foibles, nesses, but to think of them in the his weak presence of his sterling qualities is simply ridiculous. It is that smallness of mind which can make no friends because forsooth they are not in every particular according to our notion. The true George Wash ington is the man who responded to the need of the hour, who was not alraid of place and position which meant danger and loss. It is the patriot that thinks more of country than self, and who wished the Republic of man to surpass at every point what had been the cruel and selfish empires of old .- He is indeed worthy of our admiration and praise as long as the rivers run and the sun shines and man can dream divine dreams.

OF

LIGHT

A Startling Announcement.

PAULINE EPISTLES WRITTEN BY A FRENCH-

We read a little while ago a very start ing fact (?) about the New Testament man uscripts. We have suffered a number of shocks of this kind before and have not been particularly bothered with them, but this being the latest, gave us a surprise that we have not quite recovered from. The fact (so-called) we allude to, was the announcement that "learned critics have found some 600 old French words in the original Greek of the Pauline Epistles."

This gave u- serio ere greatly puzzled. serious pause. zled. We put W were on our thinking cap and tried to work out this dream. At first we laughed at the easy way with which modern iconoclasts go through the temple and smash the idols of the people, and they feel that they deserve credit for it. And they get it. Mr. Dogberry tells how he would write down his name as a suggestion for the name of another

There is no mention of who the learned ritics are: of what they are masters as critics: indeed, there is only a hald statement that keeps us guessing how such a pomentous announcement could be made without the backing of proofs These six hundred words oucht to have been given us, their equivalents in Greek might for our amusement have been shown us, and if we had not understood them, we should seemingly not have been treated to a fairy story. Now it would make no difference to us ow the Epistles of Paul, or the four Gospels were produced, but when you come to name a fact you must show it to be such, or give it its proper appellation. Let us call this a crazy man's dream, who knows, as much about Greek and Latin as Tom Thumb knew about the pyramids. Let us think of these learned critics going to an 'evening school in some Young Men's Christian Asociation, and after hearing about comparaive grammar and the root origin of the European languages, make such a startling bscovery-as this that in Greek and Latin (sister languages) and in French, the offspring of Latin, there are words with the ame roots, the same meanings, and O. nore than we can write about, and they had actually discovered 600 of these coincidences in one supposed ancient writer called Paul, and these same coincidences roved his so-called writings to be modern forgeries. Why it is as clear as a pike-staff ow effectually they have done their work, and the whole world of learned critics would at once shout Amen.

We ask to be forgiven for any seeming ightness on our part, but we do hate to be shocked in this manner, and then see there is nothing to it. It is right down mean to play such a school boy's trick merely for he sake of seeing us jump.

The question seriously opens out the reources of scholarship in relation to our knowledge of the ancients and how their works have come down to us through the changes and dangers of time. This of itself is a life-long study, and requires a proper equipment of language and interest and research to make the statement of a man carry weight.

There are those who will try for fame, but become only notorious. They go off at half-cock, and the weapon being a blunderfically we cannot call a blind guess a fact, and we cannot prop up a man of straw in the corn field of literature, and suppose that any thing but a crow would be afraid of it. still await with eager interest the proof that sch of that is not worth while. Line once told a man to write out the indigna-tion he felt for another, and when it was done, advised him to put it in the fire. He had expressed himself, and it was then time to forget it. Now we have a number of truths waiting elucidation and illustration, and we can afford to let orthodoxy alone for awhile and attend to these things. We are writing new bibles, we need not worry about the contradictions of the old. We are getting acquainted with a new order of angels with the fair faces of those we love, we can forego complaint about the ones, with wings We are learning of the larger God, we need not demolish the old, he dies a natural death. In fact we are up and doing son thing new all the time, and we can let the dead bury their dead and seal up their sepulchres, while we make progress in the sweeter, higher life that truth and our loved ones reveal!

Shall the M. D.'s be Legalized to Kill ?

The reformer is ever proffering his services to aid the creator for the improvement of things. This time it takes the form of legalizing homicide, when the docsuffering. We have learned to look for all writes seriously endorsing the purpose of of this new "reform." and the legislature of subject by "referring" it in a vote of 78 to the M. D.'s that we wish to give this added power to them? Too many worthy people have been unjustly committed to hospitals for the insane on the judgment of these infallibles. either because they did not know or for a price Either cause would dis-refusing to accommodate ha by legalizing such removal?

Think you this is "merely wild talk from a Spiritualist editor?" If you recall, in the xperiment related by Dr. Quackenboss of New York (if a Spiritualist he certainly does not know it), as reported in the "Banner" of Feb. 10, the girl on whom he exercised the power of hypnotism was left the attending physicians, they "having withdrawn from the, case as beyond the pale of hope." No, there is a growing tendency to lawless daring in the profession and we must not be tempted to increase the risk by any such legalized support

In this discussion some doctors have grown bold to declare their practice in certain "iatal" cases without law .- notably the New York surgeon who confesses to having used chloroform on a man who had been terribly mutilated by killing him with this powerful anaesthetic

No, it is enough, so long as medical science is such an uncertain thing, to let the festive M. D. be the only legalized The magnetic hand and the healing soul can FEBRUARY 17, 1906.

nd Spiritualists must lament most of all rences as those he. menti-There is to be a new spirit of reverence for our religion that will not allow the shadow of suspicion to rest upon it.

But we are not going to give up our life and hope and faith because some have im-posed their meanness on the name. Not by any means. We cling to it all the more, and affirm our allegiance to the truth we know to be true.

Take Christianity, has it been free from fakes, and frauds? Not if we look at it closely with the careful historian. But the Christian is not held to his belief in its worth by the deceit. He knows something nd holds on.

Now every Spiritualist has immediate evidence that spirits commune with us. According to his calibre will be his use of this knowledge. And there is no power to pre-vent the foolish from being foolish. We have only condemnation for the cheat, the trickster, and regret that even one in a whole summer can receive the countenance of those who conduct camp-meetings or visit them,

Now we came to the real issue of where tes the blame for any cause of complaint? Is it not in the selling out of the truth by such men as Mr. Frank? He says he was inclined to come to Macedonia and give help, but listened net to the vision and the voice because of the pitiable condition of the country and its inhabitants. It is a poor confession to make, however much it may be condoned by prudence. The fear of blame and shame would have debarred any cause from the chance of a beginning; if all men had listened to the warning of socalled respectability. It is the honest, fearless man who is wanted to make the claims of truth known to the world. Spiritualism needs such upright, daring teachers and exemplars of its virtues, and never did it need them so much as at this moment when Scribe and Pharisee are asking that the truth be carried to Calvary and crucified before the people.

Our Interest in the Congo State.

Africa, in the beautiful, expansive region of the Congo River, was opened out to the world by that daring traveler Henry M. Stanley Where he went the sunshine folowed in the dark continent. The powers of Europe were not slow to occupy this vast and beautiful territory and virtually There is an associalaim it as their own. tion of the Powers of Europe to keep it in order and administer its affairs so as to make the/natives their servants and slaves. The rule has been a disgrace to the name of nan and civilization.

Mark Twain poured boiling lead on the candal and made it run down the back of Leopold the Second, King of Belgium, who to be divided among many. He has been a tiger in human form-and the state dreadful that it makes us shudder and yet rise in mighty protest against it. United States government is about to be asked to do something effective to stop the depopulating of this realm by the rapacious, blood-thirsty cruelty of its supposed guardians. It is a cause of kumanity worthy of our assistance

The Reve Herbert Johnson of this city is o iar interested in the subject that he takes a six week's absence from his pastoral work to lecture on the subject in the principal cities as far west as Chicago and through the south.

We hope our readers- will avail them selves of any opportunity that may come within their reach to hear this earnest man. If the people can be awakened to the enormity of these horrors, their voice will go far toward enforcing the request that will be made for Washington to join with England in demands upon this greedy butcher.

Poetry.

The writing of verses is one of the joys of youth. It is fascinating to put in rhyme our feelings and our thoughts of beauty. It is one of the signs too that we are open to the inspiration of unseen friends. We are pleased to acknowledge all this, and for private enjoyment, or for the pleasure of a warm circle of friends, it is all right to give tors agree that the patient is "hopelessly ill," on the plea of saving from needless sorts from "medical science," but when so large a man as Prof. Norton of Harvard the busy women who seem to be in charge so important a state as Ohio actually puts itself on record as seriously considering the 22, it seems time for us to consider the proposition.

Are we so well satisfied with the finals of qualify.

An unserupulous doctor, and our Medical Association in Massachusetts has just put tself on record as having such, by ren ing one from its lists who, previous to the noted Geary trial, was in good standing with our sapient State Board of Registration. A greedy M. D., with this power in his hands, could be of much service to selfish relatives of the sick, longing to be rid of the incumbrances of inconsiderate invalid. promptly dying. But are we quite ready to loan ourselves to this kind of "clearing" healer (as he is in many states). Let him flaunt his diploma as the only "regular." When the patient is dead pass him on to the undertaker "certified," but, in these days of demonstrated power in Spirit Healing, it would indeed be an outrage to have the spirit of the sufferer burdened with the knowledge that the attending physician had the legal right to pass on his fate. charm away pain and bring relief, and we are learning better ways of living, which Spiritualism is the appeal not to the mere seeing of the eyes and the hearing of the ears, it gives evidence to them, but it has the grand moral appeal which braces a man to the full strength and stature of his man-hood It is saintship and heroism if you will.

We are grieved as we learn of the illness of our valued contributor, Charles A. Daw barn. We beg to join his long list of older friends in praying for his peace.

Our friend, Mrs. Dr. Dobson-Barker, informs us that the "All-Day Meeting" held in honor of the Rev. Moses and Mattie Hull, who are in California in the interests of the Morris Pratt School, made last Sunday a memorable one for Spiritualists in San Jose. The special invitations read, "Come and hear Moses Hull, the ex-ad-xent Minister and Biblical Scholar." Well, those of us who have heard him in this role can easily, comprehend Mrs. Barker when the writes it was a "rousing day here."

nation of qualities t carry the army, such as it was, to victory, It was not by accident he stood in his place, and it was not without the noblest show of courage, prudence, strategy and surprise that he made the Colonies to win out so gloriously.

The war brought the Colonies into the union which gives strength. It is a necessity that forces be combined to make them effective. It was the lack of unity that made Washington so long about his task. Generals were intriguing for their own advancement. The men could come and go pretty much as they pleased, and how Washington could be so brave in adversity and discouragement is the one bright thing to his praise and renown. Indeed the whole story is a parable to reformers to learn to stick together and do something. It is a warning against self seeking and the determination to rule or ruin. Benedict Arnold comes out as the Judas of the cause, but the white name of Washington shines like a star because principle was above everything else to him.

the Epistles of Paul were written by a Frenchman, and if such a copy has been ound, we would like to know why Yale, or Harvard, or the University of Chicago has not heard of such a treasure? We have nothing more to say, we are dumb with onder.

Progress.

It sometimes seems to us that the best way to make progress in the establishment of our faith is by attending strictly to the business of showing its beauty. We are often in the ardor of discovery, apt to be severe with the ism out of which we came. We find it easy to express ourselves in endure today, and, if the state will have its hand in what seems to us a matter for the liberty of personal choice, let legislation compel the medical institutions to learn of these things by experiment and culture.

The Henry Frank Controversy.

Behold what a fire a little matter kindleth Mr. Frank in extemporaneous speech makes statements which when brought to his notice he finds he did not exactly mean. To confess error is to amend it, and we wish to carry the cool, judicious spirit that sees things after the noise of battle is over. But the controversy might go on like Tennyson's brook; and thus would not be profitable. A fair reply to statements on both sides is fair, and then our readers are to judge how the matter stands.

It seems that Mr. Frank was moved to or show our verses. It is delight.

All the same young people (and some older ones) need not be surprised when their poems do not get printed. The world could not contain the books of verse that might be printed if it cost nothing to issue them. It is safe to say that the best advice possible to give a young writer is, do not attempt to get your lines into print. Read what you see in the newspapers generally, and you will see outworn subjects treated in a commonplace way, with poor rhymes and weakness of expression. The chances are your verse is just like that. You need some one to properly criticise, and then you need to try prose. Writing is not dashing off so much. It is having something to say which lies near your heart and that your head has been at the pains to master, and then you must be as careful in the utterance as if you were We find it easy to express ourselves in say his word because of something he had speaking to kings. It is no rebuke to writ-strong language in regard to the outworn read and experienced. His experience in ing to have matter rejected, it is a demand camp-meetings doubtless is not solitary, made for the best you can do at your best.

FEBRUARY 17, 1906.

The Rebietver.

A Sword of the Old Frontier. By Randall Parrish 407 pages. Chicago. A. C. McClurg & Co. This is one of the best novels of Colonial History which has been produced. There is not a dull page in it. It is well written in a clear, clean and easy style. It tirs the soul of a man as the Indian tales of earlier times stirred his boyish blood. Although it is full to the brim of Indian warfare, it is as far as possible from the "blood and thunder" stories which were once dubbed "Yellow covered literature." All through the tale runs a sweet love story which startles by its denouement at the close.

the close. The plot is excellently managed. There are no anæhronisms. The Indians are real red men and Pontiac is a genuine chief. The most thrilling description is that of the contest between a vicious and powerful dog and the hero who had just escaped his Indian captors in the darkness of the forest at night without arms and with his hands bound behind his back. The reader wiehes the authors had omitted

The reader wishes the authos had omitted "onto" and "overly," and that he had better studied Cassidy's dialect. To read the book brings back to manhood those Saturdays in boyhood when, safe from the observation of elders, the Indian war whoop smote his ears in imag-ination as his eyes conned the forbidden pages. This book gives us the boyhood thrill and satisfies at the same time an older literary taste literary taste.

The Most Popular Home Songs. Hinds, Noble & Eldredge, New York. Like old friends returning from a dis-tant land after a long absence, comes these old songs. The collection is a good one. The present generation, go which many of these will be new, should study them. There is nothing better today. The me-chanical part of the work is all that can be desired in an edition such as this was intended to be.

We have received from Fred D. Warren his article in Wayland's Monthly, "Why the Church Opposes Socialism." It is the So-cialist's idea of the position of certain Evangelical branches of the Protestant churches today upon Socialism.

The American Newspaper Annual, pub-lished by N. W. Ayer and Son Newspaper Advertising Agents, Philadelphia, Pa., is well worth the five dollars it costs. If is mvaluable to a newspaper office to know, who are in the business in the different states, and to have an accurate record of them. There are some Lago nages, very them. There are some 1,300 pages, very clearly printed, and with the maps and inthem dex of towns and their population, you have all you could ask for in such a work.

Messiah Pulpit is the title of Dr. Minot J. Savage's sermons delivered in New York city and printed in this form for forty Sunand printed in this form for forty Sul-days or more in the year. The price is $1.50 a year and gives one the ripe thought and invigorating of this brave, outspoken man. They are practical, greatly helpful in daily duty and daily care. He has found man. They are practical, greatly heipful in daily duty and daily care. He has found a large circle of friends by their publica-tion and those who cannot attend church -or don't care to—will have a church of their own and a very excellent minister in reading these sermons

Leontine Stanfield's Book of Verse J. S.

Leontine Stanfield's Book of Verse J. S. Ogilvie Publishing Co., New York. Paper. 3 by 7 1/2 in. 25 cents. This is a book of peems. It is literature and while the diamonds it contains are not highly polished, the marks of the cutter are not all obliterated. It is real poetry, but unconventional. The power is there but the Atthor fears that the uniformity of a finish would cause her verses to lose some-thing of their human interest. The poems are full of human interest and that's why they are rightly styled literature. The tone of pessimism we are sorry for, the fruit of life tasted and found bitter is too often present. One feels that the depth of the author's nature struggles to come out, but it is so evidently repressed that we are sure it is there. The true poet needs only to sing his own song, but this song is only hummed. It should come out. It is worth knowing.

Dr. Bland's "In the World Celestial."

The Editor of the Chicago Courier, in issue of Feb. 4, says:, "Dr. Bland has writ-ten several successful books, but his latest book, 'In the World Celestial,' should alone nake him famous.

Souvenirs.

Have you seen the souvenirs of the "Birthplace of Modern Spiritualism" and the V. S. U. home? They are very attrac-tive indeed. They are all prices, to fit any acting with musical accompaniment that no one who was present will forget in many a day. The whole entertainment was so clear and wholesome that it was a delight to be

Spiritual X-Rays. Lillian Goddard

Utilian Goddard. One by one the stars shine out in the purple duskiness of night and the air is here with the perfume of many flowers. The hoor is at hand when my astral self can roam at will. Sometimes it pleases me to inseen among my fellow mortals, and more often I bid farewell to Mother Earth for a stral plane of our future life, beyond the flesh and this world of care and pain. Every hydrowing this, I have cultivated the spir-itual X-ray nature. As the material X-ray has a spiritual side as well, and, knowing this, I have cultivated the spir-tual X-ray nature. As the material X-ray has a searching quality and can probe the searching quality and can probe the searching the like quality for the spiritual X-ray nature the material body, so also the claim the like quality for the spiritual when I drift away in the starlight to-hydro me. I know not where I shall land, magin, but it is written that I must come pain, but it is written that I must come pain, but it is written that I must come pain, but it is written that I must come pain, but it is written that I must come pain, but it is written that I must come pain but it is written that I must come is of the materis but I must written that I must come pain but it

Heavening summons and my Earthly takes are over. Out of the darkness into the light of another world I float; as I pass along I feel no weight soft weariness of mind or body as in Earth life, but an exhilaration body as in Earth life, but an exhilaration pervades my spiritual system and a happi-ness beyond expression. "Light as air"; I float along, leaving the cast off garments of flesh in the material world. No more sickness and no more pain; no parting with Joved ones any more, for from the astral planes one can reach easily to the planes above; no more poverty or sin; all this belongs to the material world. The great and wonderful Power which controls all planets and people forblids me belongs to the material world. The great and wonderful Power which controls all planets and people forbids me to see in its perfection the glory of the future world: I obtain glimpses now and then, as the heavy curtain of mist lifts and reveals the sumshine beyond. A world be-yond earthly description is before me as I gaze in silent wonder and adoration. I dimly understand that I am looking upon the first step in the Heavenly chain of worlds leading upward to the heights of the Infinite. Intuitively, I understand that in the astral world we pass an examination worlds leading upward to the heights of the Infinite. Intuitively, I understand that in the astral world we pass an examination and receive our grade of standing, as we term it in school parlance here. How many poor souls, groping in the darkness of earth life, would find their burdens a feath-erweight if the knowledge of future happi-ness in the world to come could be theirs while here, but for some wise reason our Father is silent. I think we attain goodness and perfection in the astral through the like qualities within ourselves here, no matter how dimly shadowed forth, and the Great Power wishes the good of our na-tures to bring us to the Heavenly King-dom without hope of reward: otherwise, if we bring worldliness into Paradise, it ceases to be Heaven. We rise or fall ac-cording to the angel within us. It is the divinity which we possess in our natures here which aknowledges the divinity of the Christ. We view dimply the splendor to come. Certain favored mortals of this earth are permitted to converse with inhabitants of the other land. Spirits having been en-cased in flesh at one time can sometimes of the other land. Spirits having occur of cased in flesh at one time can sometimes come to their former condition: while I, a visitor in the beautiful summerland, must stand apart. I am not one of them: I know 'that I am here to bring comfort to heavy hearts on earth, otherwise I should be an incredee but I have a work to do automy hearts on earth, otherwise I should be an intruder, but I have a work to do among the weary ones that toil without hope. The God of Mammon strides through the ma-terial world destroying beauty and goodness everywhere. It creates sin and misery for the people, and our good Angel cries out in anguish at the wreck of humanity. But the Angel whispers to the material world to turn 'our hearts and theights to God, as the flowers turn to the son, and expand in the -higher air.

as the flowers turn to the son, and expand in the higher air. Everything material must die, it is a law that stands throughout the ages, and the more we strive for the spiritual nature the higher we climb toward glory. Every in-habitant of the astral kingdom, gravitates toward his conception of Heavenly bliss, as we have different tastes and qualities here, so do we there also. The music which is so inspiring to some souls would be the reverse to others; it might with some be a punishment. The flowers of as-tral life are abundantly beautiful and seem to be the embodiment of good deeds and thougfing of earth life. The strain of music which I hear has for, its refrain that "all life comes in time to God who gave it." It may be a weary journey, but we are gathered home at last. The hope of future bliss makes the sunshine of this earthly world of ours, and the people without hoge, even if they are highest in earthly glory. even it they are highest in earthing glory, are the most unfortunate. The light of the higher life is falling from me and the great and mysterious force of electricity which surrounds me when I travel toward Astral Land is loosening its hold; soon I Astra Land is loosening its noise, soon is shall mingle with the world of mortals The pleasure and pain of earth will be mine again, but I have the blessed hope and knowledge of immortality, and in the dark est hour this world can ever give me I hold the light and conviction of another life that ng to all the nature of real prayer has been mis-understood and abused by ignorant indi-yiduals, is no criterion that prayer, when used understandingly and, with right mo-tives, cannot bring to the soul the aid tives, cannot bring to the soul the aid it requires. Definite prayers get definite results-gen-eralizations when the soul wants some-thing is not of much account. It need not consist of a fine flow of language, or be full of "vain repetitions." but it should be short and to the point. Remember, kink reader, that when you have begun to voice your petition, that in all probability you have attracted within your vibration a spiritual messenger who waits to hear your request and to the point will not only save your time, but will also be more respectful to those angelic powers who are desirous your time, but will also be more respectful to those angelic powers who are desirous of assisting you. Think, my friends, if you ever get to be an angel messenger to strick-en humanity, will you appreciate long, drawn out prayers, filled with repetitions and presumptious requests? No, you would want them short. That prayer is scientific in its nature and can bring to us specific results presumptions requests? No, you would want them short. That prayer is scientific in its nature and can bring to us specific results we will endeavor to demonstrate. Some people will ask how can God alter the im-mutability of his laws, by answering the prayers of humanity? Is not all that is the resultant of natural and unalterable law, and therefore incapable of being changed? That is true, but we do not request the Infinite to alter the order of His creation when we pray; we simply ask that He respond to our petitions through the operation of a higher law. The greater always includes the les-ser, and therefore we premise that no law of creation is transgressed or altered to respond to our prayers, but that simply an-other and higher force is put into action, which transcends the lower and brings about the desired results. Prayer binds all hu-manity about the feet of God, and is a con-necting link of the soul to set in operation or bring. In our ignorance we limit the action of God, and can find no sphere of conscious activity outside the realm's of physical causation. We imagine shat all there is of God and life is what we can see and cognize through external vision, and intervaler we do not pray, or expect to see the unexpected happen in the school of life's experiences. We have relegated the realm's conscious to physical manifested life we cannot go. That is why ma-terial science says prayer is useless. life we cannot go. That is why ma-terial science says prayer is useless, as we are all obeying the order of minu-table law from which there is no escape. table law from which there is no escipe. Yes, when we hind our souls to earth and the the prison cells of mather we are then heard in a fateful chain to events from which apparently there can be not getting away. We must look higher for the solution of life's problem, and also for the action of transcendant forces which bring us into union with spiritual law and order. Coincidence or accident does not by any means explain the often mysterious and wholly unlooked for answers to pravers. Again, we believe surely in a universe of perfect law and order, so that all hap-penings are not the result of chance, but the workings of the Infinite mind, accord-ing to grimutable principles of wisdom and love. If we agree to this proposition that all things are operating according to un-changing law, then we must also agree that nothing is happening by chance, and that the seemingly mysterious and unexpected conditions of life are also the resultant of drvine law. Specific answers to praver in innumerable instances ould 'be cited pot-only in the writer's own experience, but talso in the experiences of a host of others, which go to prove the action of the higher Yes, when we bind our soulto earth and also in the experiences of a host of others, which go to prove the action of the higher law in transcending and objusting the lower when go to prove an object of the lower conductors of the Those who attempt to lumn and circum-scribe the action of the great Infinite life within the narrow channels of man-discovwithin the narrow channels of man-discov-ered law, are surely for away from the truth, deceiving themselves thereby, and also others who give attention to their false conceptions. When dealing with Infinite quantities it is good for us to be careful in the conclusions we make. Being only finite beings ourselves, we should allow great scope and latitude for the endless possibilities of the action of life in all its magnitude and the stup-fidous workings of infinitude. The final the um regarding the modus operandi of create in has by no means been yet received, and therefore, no sci-entist or other great thanker can say with any degree of assurance that prayer is a useless act and unnecessary for the evolu-tion of the race; he can only speak and reason as a man. When he becomes a God he may then dogmatically affirm what is and what is not. Why do we pray? Is there mobing within the human conscious-ness which makes us asjore and pray; some-thing which gives us that intuitive knowl-edge of Divinity and which yearns for closer acquaintanceship? Prayer is the spontane-ous outburst of the soul seeking for aid ered law, are surely far away from the acquaintanceship? Prayer is the spontane-ous outburst of the soul seeking for aid acquantancesnip: Prayer is the spontance-ous outburst of the sul seeking for aid from the source of its existence, and comes as the resultant of an inherent character-istic in the mental make-up- of the indi-vidual. One of the departments of the brain gives this inform desire to believe in something higher than ourselves, and when in trouble makes us instinctively and spon-taneously seek that higher source for aid. The Infinite would not have given mankind that inborn desire to pray and to seek for aid from sources beyond himself if he kind that inborn desire to pray and to seek for aid from .sources beyond himself if he did not. intend that such desires should serve some beneficent and useful purpose. God does not mock his creation, and there-fore we are forced to believe that since he planted the organ of prayer, faith and aspiration within the human brain, so will He respond to our .cries in the day of our adversity. This does not mean that every petition we send forth to the great uni-versal spirit will be answered—may, friends, for we are not always wise in our prayers, and the answer does not come, because some higher end has to be served, even though it involve the soul in apparent dis-aster. We say apparent disaster because physical conditions are only temporary and changing; therefore, whatever happens to us in such environment cannot perma-nently injure us, and will ultimately work out for us that good and perfect will of God be done, and so we, too, when seeking for help and guidance, should be pre-pared to accept what comes to ut as an answer to our prayers as God's will. The response to our petitions must, and always will be, limited to our consciousness and understanding of life, and as we grow more and more into the divine likeness of truth, so do we come into union with God, and into an understanding of His will. Cur wills become united with the purpose of the Infinite, and we no longer are gov-erned and guided by selfish instincts, but, realizing the oneness of the universal cos-mos, we seek at all times the enter into rap-port with its purpose and action, striving for the perfect accomplishment of the di-vine will in and through-our life's actions.

Bequest or Contract.

In Essex County they are much disturbed just now over an action brought by the heirs of one Miss Anna Peabody to prevent a close friend of Miss Peabody, a Mr. Samuel Smith, from receiving the proceeds of her life insurance policy, although it was clearly Miss Peabody's intent for Smith to have it. The testimony seems to show that Smith paid the premiums as they fell due with the agreement that if he survived the insured the benefit from the policy was to be his. Unfortunately Miss Peabody put the contract in the form of a bequest. Mr. Smith appears to have had mediumistic power through which the spirit mother of Miss Peabody communicated with her.

The secular press, on this account, "display" the claim that "it was by some Spiritualistic hocus pocus" that Smith was to benefit. Our correspondent, who is familiar with the section, writes on the subject as follows

This looks as if the bequeathing This looks as if the bequeating was more in the nature of a civil contract. She was merely paying her debt, as he, not she, had made the investment in the insurance scheme. By law, her debts, by contract, or otherwise, would have to be met, before er relatives could claim anything otherwise, would have to be met, before her relatives could claim anything. The only error that I can see is that in her will she used the word "bequeathed," instead of saying, "the residue of my prop-erry--which was the insurance money--is to be paid to Samuel Smith, as per contract." The "spiritual affinity" seems to have nothing to do with the matter, for, if it is "learned that she made Smith" secure for his outlay by the promise, the intent of the will is plain enough. Only recently in "Solem a wealthy lady made her pastor the beneficiary of her en-tire estate to the exclusion of the heirs. He also, a matried man, and no sign of a written or verbal contract shown. What kind of "hocus pocus" was that? I can see no evidence in the case of Peabods Smith, as here given, that show-in particle of Spiritual influence in rela mon to the money transletion Salem

Unrecognized Mediumship.

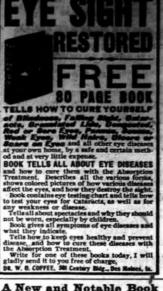

the Messager

I ranslated by Mime Inness Themas Paine expresses himself thus: There is no one studying the human mind who has not made this observation that there are Ideas and Thought, two very distinet thing- those which are produced within survelyes and those which produce themselves in one's mind. I have made it a rule always to receive these unannounced insitors with courtesy and with all the care of which I am capable to learn if they merit my attention. I declare that it is to these strange guests that I owe all the enowledge 1 possess."

Ralph Waldo Emerson automs this law in-piration, which he analyzes thus: Thoughts do not come to me, successively. in a problem of mathematics, but they force themselves into my infellect like a light in a dark night. Truth comes to me not by a process of reasoning but by intuition.

The case and celerity with which the Bard of Avon wrote his plays was to his contemporaries a source of astonishment. Here is an explanation which Walter Scott gives of himself: "Twenty times after composing my plot I have put myself to work and never in my life have I followed it. My fingers work independently of my thoughts. . . . Thus it was that after I had written the second volume of Woodstock, I had not the least idea that the story would end in a catastrophe in the third volume." In speaking of the "Antiquary," .Scott

By W. J. COLVILLE

Universal Spiritualism, Spirit Communion in All Ages, Among All People."

TO BE ISSUED WITHIN A FEW WEEKS.

It will be seen how compress the asthor is to reader thus the best booth of its hind. It will be naines. He re-ceived confidential experiences of friends in England and this country. So that modern instances nay be versified. Its should be in the hands of all Spiritualists to do missionary work for the Cause. Price before publication seventy-five cents orders at these rates taken at the BANNER OF LIGHT BOOK STORE.

GINSENG is a money making crop. Boom in your garden to grow hun dreds of dollars worth annusliy. Thrives through out the U. S. and Canada. We sell roots and seed dnring spring and fall planting seasons and bay the dried product. You can get started in this profitable business for a small outlay. Send to stamp to day for lilustrated literatuse telling all about it. THE ST. LOUIS GINSENG CO., St. Louis, Mo.

CANCER CURED

WITH SOOTHINC, BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcern, Eczema and all Skin and Female Discases. Write for Illustrated Book. Sent free. Address DR. BYE, Cor. 9th & Kansas City. Mo.

New Edition. Just Out. With a beautifu pertrait of Pearl, the Spirst

In the World Celestial

DR. T. A. BLAND.

DK. 1. A. DLAND. In a wonder ful book, being the personal experiences of s man whose deal avecthear, after appearing to him many times, etherealized, materialized and invogit traces modi-ums, has him put into a hypnoide trance by spillt acids. It is point with ber in the evolution of the second of the second experience of the second second second second second heard in that realm of the so called dead. He tells has wonderful story to his fris and wing gives it to the world in his best style. This friend who gives it to the world in his best style. This friend is by T. A. Bland, the well. This book has a brilliant infroduction by that distin-guished presenter, Rev. R. W. Thoman, D. D., president of the American Congress of Libery Heligions, who gives it he weight of his ut qualified endorsement. on the world ceisential. Ber. M. J. Barage asys: "It is intensely interesting and gives a pitture of the time life that one same basis pass through the shadow or desum to the "through the world celestal." Rev. M. J. Savage says: "It is intensity interesting, and gives a picture of the future life that does cannot bely wishing may be true." The Medical Gleaner says: "It iffu the reader into exclassing realms, and larges a sweet match in the con-closures." sciounness." The new edition has a full page photo of the beroins Pearl, from a spirit portrait obtained through the medium ship of the Bangu Sisters in the presence of Dr. Bland an his wife. This book in best cloth binding for $1.00. For sale a' the BANNER OF LIGHT BOOK STORE

STADTIS . tf

PHILOSOPHY OF CREATION, Unfolding the Laws of the Progressive Development of Manager and can bracing the Philosophy of Man. Spirit, and the Mort motion. . 15 cents. Cloth. 60 ce purse. Sola pillow tops of plush with the "Fox Cottage" or the V.S. U. Home, done in pyrography, at $1.00 and at $1.25 each; card casts, either design, in leather, soc.; calendars, 50c.; blotters, 25c.; pen wipers, 15c.; fobs, 25c. Come and look at them or let us send you one neatly packed in a box for ten cents extra

BANNER OF LIGHT

Warren G. Richards' Entertainment

The character sketches and delineations given at the entertainment in the Banner of Light Building, Jan. 30, by Warren G. Richards were exquisite in their pathos and of Light Building, Jan. 30, by Warren C. Richards were exquisite in their pathos and delightful húmor. The unique way in which Mr. Richards becomes at once the character he depicts, so that one forgets everything except the personality portrayed, is charm-

His "Mr. Dooley on Microbes" was so well done that one readily imagined himself sitting before the fire with "Hinnissy" and listening to the philosophic arguments of the witty Irishman. "The Country School-house" scenes were well rendered and the "Old Hoosier and His Fiddle" was a bit of

"Be still, sad heart, and cease repining Behind the clouds is the sun still shining; Into each life some rain must fall, Some days be dark and dreary."

The Scientific Aspect of Prayer.

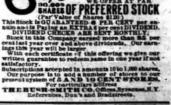

David A. Leisk.

said, "I have a general plan; but as soon as L take up my pen, it runs so rapidly over the paper that I am often tempted to let it go alone in order to see if it would not write as well as with the aid of my thought." The eminent composer, Handel, wrote his oratorios in a month, then rested eight to ten months, during which he would not write a single note. After an examination of his manuscripts one would suppose that each of them had been iniprovised or comnosed without premeditation.

Rev. Robert Collyer, the American Unitarian preacher, in speaking of the best sermon he had ever delivered said: "I had no need to compose it; it came itself, sentence by sentence, paragraph by paragraph. division by division. Never in my life have I been more convinced that a sermon comes from God."

Newton fells us that he let his mind rest when he had a subject to treat and that the thoughts came themselves.

One remembers that the first great discovery made by James Watt was an insp tion which came to him in one of his walks. He was suddenly struck with the main idea of his discovery with such a spontaneity that, according to an English autho he later-attributed it to a supernatural in fuence.

We will close by a very remarkable piece of testimony, that of Sir Charles Napier. In speaking of his campaign in India, the illustrious warrior made this confession "Ought I to be proud of my success? I I am guided by a power which, althou real, is invisible."

4.70

BANNER OF LIGHT.

Our Some Circle. MINNIE MESERVE SOULE.

IS THERE NO OTHER WAY?

Kate R. Stiles

(Written for Banner of Light.) there no other way by which the soul can gain Its true inheritance, save by the path of pann Can crown of joy be only won, when we Some heavy cross have borne to victory? Is there no other way? pain?

I look around me, and everywhere behold, Grief, walking by the side of joy-and I am told That where one goeth there the other must; Aud then I query—is the union just? Is there no other way?

Alas! "no other way," a voice within replies. "No other way." until the soul, grown wise Through pain and trial, it perceives, at length.

The conquering virtue of its innate strength. This is the only way

A LINK IN OUR GOLDEN CHAIN.

Wise beyond lore, and without weakness good, Çalm in the strength of flawless rectitude! Whittier.

Whittier. In our grandiather's farmhouse were many quaint and old-fashioned furnishings and many an hour of the long summer va-cations was spent in childish admiration of the hand-made rugs, the many colored quilts, the glass pendants on the parlor lamp, and various other adornments that were never seen in our city hôme: Beside an old secretary with wonderful pigeon holes that gave it the appearance of a country post-office, hung a marvelous production of art. It was marvelous to us because so new and strange. It had heavy rolls at the top and bot-instead of the states of the Union, the pic-tured faces of the presidents, radiant with varnish and dignity, looked biandly out into that sitting room, through the win-dow and beyond to the mighty hills of New Hampshire. There we first learned to recognize the features of the immortal Washington. Per-hans we knew and loved his face the best features of the immortal Washington. Per-haps we knew and loved his face the best because under it we spelled out the words "George Washington, the Father of His Country." However that may be, the thought of his fatherhood was so much a part of our interest in him that even today there is a strange thrill of relationship whenever we interest in him that even today there is a strange thrill of relationship whenever we sit under the shadow of his statue on the Public Garden, and a sense of pain and the stillness and awe of death when, in the old North Church our eyes fall upon that cast of his noble features taken after his transitioned.

The faces of the other early Presidents right fade from memory and be only dimly recalled at intervals, but Washington, the father, heroic and stately, remained. Our childish interest was awakened in his

Our childish interest was awated in us child life, and we somehow uslieved him the centre of a charmed circle when he found it so simple and easy to speak the truth, even though punishinggit awaited his answer. That made him a hero worth our adoration answer. That made him a hero world out adoration. We were quite sure that he would have fearlessly said, "Yes" when asked by his teacher, "Have you whispered today?" and when one after another of our plavmaies succumbed to temptation and for the sake of position, told what was untrue. we men-tally classified them, in a very loity and su-perior fashion, as unworthy the friendship of the "father of his county." The beautiful fearlessness, which we ad-mired and adored as his child-hite to-thed our childish compreheasion, exalted and glorified the life of the man, the command-er-in-chief and the President of the United States, and compels our adoration and love today. No one is able to estimate or understand the struggle and effort of another until some similar situation is thrust into the experience and enlarges the comprehension. The man or woman who walks through the experience and enlarges the comprehension. The man or woman who walks through life taking no responsibility except for self ad-justment, or comfort, or culture, can ever have the slightest idea of the responsibili-ties which burden and harass those who respond to the call of Truth and enlist in Truth's. Cause and find no day so long, no night so dark that they dare lay their ar-mor down.

States, and compels our adoration and love

mor down. George Washington was a rich Virginia planter, and could not be immediately or intimately connected or affected by the out-rages being perpetrated in the name of the King, on the colonists of Massachusetts. He could have very rationally said. "Let blue waters of Massachusetts Bay, and saw the sleek and satisfied enemy. Up and down the broken ranks of raw recruits, over which he took command, he looked long and earnestly. Here and there an eye flashed back an answer to his ap-neal.

An eye named back an about have ever dawned for him when, undaunted, he still stood firm and watched the spent fires of enthusiasm die out into black embers of discontent! Alas, that empty storehouses and pow-derless flasks should ever have taunted him with his lack of resources and strength! Alas, that he must witness the temptation to be well fed at the King's table outweigh the joy of eating a crust beneath the crown of freedom!

Alas, that these young men of young America should have been persuaded to de-

America should have been persuaded to de-sert their leader and truest friend! In what wonderful and beautiful contrast stands out the story of the patriotic de-votion of George Washington. How suggestive to us, who stand today with the white badge of Spiritualism pinned

How suggestive to us, who stand today with the white badge of Spiritualism pinned upon our breasts. We look out across the sun-kissed har-bors of the world and know the power of the uniformed and trained who fly the col-ors of the oppressor's court; we scan the ranks where the defiant and brave, op-pressed and bleeding, flash back an answer to our appeal for soldiers. They are there. They are ready. They are in need of wise leadership and loving training but--there is no powder, no out-fit, no corn for the cattle, no rations for the campaign. Oh, where are the rich, who will open their purses upgrudgingly? Oh, where are the wealthy who will give of their goods? The soldiers of Truth are waiting. Their steps are heavy and their hearts are sad. The tempter is whispering. "Come over to us. We furnish bright uniforms and full knapsacks, and an easy campaign. You give no thought to anything but self, and ease and comfort attend your footsteps."

ease and comfort attend your footsteps." Surely anyone who has once breathed the blessed air of irredom will never step back into the ranks of unthinking and shackled case! Surely no one who has once tasted the Survey no one who has once tasted the joy of that inspiring, soul-uplifting knowl-edge of Spirit Communion will ever let a day slip into the past without making ef-fort to spread the glad gospel! Give, give, give something for the sup-ply and defence, the promulgation and per-fection, the study and practice of this truth that has made you free!

fection, the study and practice of this truth that has made you free! Don't let the army disband because you are free and can enjoy the freedom from the fear of death, in the quiet and alone! While the heart aches or a soul is in bondage the soldiers of truth must be kept in service, and shame upon us if we shrug our shoulders in self conceit or nestle in pillows of self satisfaction and allow the brave, the strong, the true leaders to suf-fer defeat when we may give of our strength, our service and our money to support them in their hour of need. M. M. S.

Live for that which glows the brightest And soul jewels you will win. I have wove, in simple measure, Words that trembled to be born, And perhaps they'll give to earth life Faintest tint of fadeless morn. Aye, perhaps the heart I cherish In the earthland rest will find, As the nart that's yet untraversed As the part that's yet untraversed Up the mountain heights doth wind.

As the part that's yet untraversed Up the mountain heights doth wind. To my little Banner friends: I am a little girl in the Soul Life, and never ex-isted upon the earth plane; therefore I have no papa nor mamma like you. I belong to a large band of souls who are constantly working among the undeveloped, helping to make their souls bright and pure, like I see so many little children on the earth plane. We are taught through inspiration drawing it to us, like the withered and scorched flower after the midday sun re-ceiving the refreshing draught of the dew kissing its lips and leaving the imprint thereon, sparkling like diamonds. We are taught to look upwards, never backwards; time never rolls backward, only as we re-call it by reminiscing. I know the life of a little child in mortal life must be very hard indeed, so many temptations to with-stand and such a puny little body with a vacillating will, which goes first one way, then the other, hardly knowi which way is the right one; but this will all come right after a little. Each part of this little body will learn to berve its master, the mind, and that in turn to be guided by the soul powers, which will place you in har-mony with the great multitude of souls traveling on the endless journey. I would caution you to beware of the animal nature with which you are all endowed, and I am sorty to say the papas and mammas have not all outgrown them. Sometimes we see the claws extended from the velvet paws of our human friends, not in self protec-tion as kitty uses his when teased for play or ill treated by some child who has the bru-tal nature within him. I would love to tell you more of animal life, of the patience and endarance they exhibit. All, little child dren could receive valuable instruction from the undendendend animal life, of the patience The could have very rationally said, "Let hem fight it out; it is their quarrel, not hose whom the Lord has been pleased to place in my keeping, and I will do my dut; it home and to them first." There are many men who then, as today, gook that same plous attitude, and doubte cas flung into his ears that much abused tatement, "Charity begins at home." But Washington, with a dominating sense of the Eternal Right, an unswerving ré-pect for fair play and justice and a love or his fellowmen that transcended his love of these and wealth, and the personal com-norts of home and luxury, tyrned a deaf ear to those wise (?) counselors, stiffed the momentary pain of separation from loved mes, and marched to the North, to the rery center of warfare, where danger and leath lurked in sabre and musket of a well-ed, well-organized, well-equipped foc. There, under the old elm tree in Cam-mridge, he lifted his bared head to the soft kies, and with a prayer in his heart for er whom he loved so dear, touched lightly is truaty sword and became not only the ather of his country, but the leader of is brochers. Across the barren fields he looked to the and endurance they exhibit. All little chil-body which is your castle, but keep the soul pure and white as the lifty that blooms in God's sumahine. I wish I might have as heart talk, or communion as we call it, with each and everyone of the "Banner" children, and not only them; I would not exclude one of God's children. I am sure, could you listen to my teachings, I could keep you to live the pure, sweet life of the soul coming from the Divine. We are all brothers and sisters, dear children; one great family bound by the golden chain of love. Whenever one of the links are dropped out of this chain into soul life, it desires and influences are still with you and shall continue to the end of time. Let iyo the sports with you. I love to romp and play with the children of earth, uncov-ering the leaves to find the first violets, and skipping through the meadows. Don't all so dearly, and our greatest desires are tary to all spend your days upon the soul course. Whatever you can do for mother, so its hild your heart and soul powers. Whatever you can do for mother, do it with all your heart and soul pear children, I love you all, and hope my mother, selfishness, above all vices, stunts the soul powers. Whatever you can do for mother, do it with all your heart and soul. Dear children, I love you all, and hope my mother, be the Ros B. Helen. Yalentnes. your castle, but keep the white as the lily that bloom ine. I wish I might have Valentines.

Jonquil Laura's.

Eyes dark and brown,

Eyes dark and brown, Hair waxing down, No smile so sweet as mine. My form petite, With twinkling feet. Am I your Valentine?

Mary's.

My hair flows down like molten gold; My eyes are laughing blue, Oh. take me for your Valentine! My heart is ever true.

The Twins'.

We're twins, Louise and I I'm brave, but Lou is chy. Our mamma says we're fine, And when we want some fun, We laughing to her run, "Here's we, your Valentine!"

Grandpa's.

I'm gray and worn and old, I'm four-score years and nine. Nannette, with locks of gold, My grand-child Valentine, (The tale is often told) . I love with love divine.

Mamma's.

My boy, so strong, so bright, My cavalier, my knight, With eyes as dark as night. When stars forget to shine; Thy mamma's skies are blue, Whene'er she looks at you. Pa neble sure and true Be noble, pure and true. My boy, my Valentine!

Seek the companionship of those who will help you to know more and to be bet-ter. The easiest way to learn is through association with those who are learned, and the easiest way to become good is by daily intercourse with those whose lives are beau-tifully unselfish and self-denying.-Our tifully Paper

Four-Legged Fakirs.

Four-Legged Fakirs. Nor are all the fakirs human beings. Holy cows and sacred monkeys have a fine share in the game, and in some instances show rare cunning in taking advantage of the people's beliefs in their attributes. At Haje Ka, on the Indus, there is a notably wily old sacred beast, whose lone years of receiving worship, petting and pampering have developed some strange characteristics. This animal will leave the shore several times a day in the heated season, and, wading far out into the stream, stand there and bawl until some one of the villagers comes out and laves her with water, the coolness caused by the evapora-tion seeming to gratify her greatly. She the villagers comes out and laves her with water, the coolness caused by the evapora-tion seeming to gratify her greatly. She is extravagantly and of choice plantains, and will go hato the bazaar and take only the very best. A friend of the family was close by a shopkeeper's stand one day, when a sacred bull wandered up and began to feed from the provisions displayed, with entire assur-ance of being within his rights. The shop-keeper reproached him gently, saying: "Forget not that I am a poor, man, brother. Seest thou not, those sweet deli-cacies before the place of the rich man across the way?" The bull munched on. "Full well I know thou art a holy man, and I give thee all thou takest, feeling my reward in heaven already bestowed; but, brother, I am a poor man, and this morn-ing I gave a rupee to thy very holy brother of Ratonga (a stiff armed fakir of the re-gion), and thou shouldest come in another moon."

A great hole was growing in the pile on SPIRIT Mlessage Department.

INAGES GIVEN TEROUGH THE MEDIUM SHIP OF MRS. MINNIE M. SOULE.

In Explanation.

The following communications are given by Mrs. Scule while under the control of her own guides for the good of the individual spirits seeking to reach their friends on graphically by a representative of the "Ban-ner of Light" and are given in the presence of other members of the "Banner" staff. These circles are not public.

To Our Readers.

To our Readers. We carnestly request our patrons to verify such communications as they know to be based upon fact in these columns. This is not so much for the benefit of the "Banner of Light" as it for the good of the reading public. Truth is truth and will bear its own burdens wherever it is made known to the world. In the cause of truth, kindly assist us to find those whom you believe may verify them. Many of them are not Spirit-ualists or subscribers to the "Banner of Light" so may we ask each of you to be-" so may we ask each of you to be a missionary for your particular lo Light," come ;

INVOCATION.

Unto thee, O spirit of Infinite Love, we would be lifted so that we may understand the souls about us in their struggles and their aspirations after life. Something more than just to be, we desire, something larger and nobler than mere existence, we Incre than just to be, we desire something larger and nobler than mere existence, we would apprehend something of the won-derful reality of the spiritual life that is manifested all about us every day, we would have. Like wise teachers, who are ever willing to teach the lessons they are learn-ing, sto children, our spirit friends come near to us, and, like children, we would listen for the revelations of truth and would be so filled with the knowledge which they can give us that all life shall become wonder-fully sweet and beautiful. May all these things that are daily taught us be passed along by us in the same patient and sweet spirit which is ever shown us. May no soul ever look so lowly or so unworthy that we shall feel anything but joy in serv-ing it. May the comfort of the knowledge of Spirit Return which is a joy and solace to those who's uffer, be carried like a glad song into the homes where shadow sits to those with suffer, of carried have a give song into the homes where shadow sits a-brooding. May all that we have to give be given gladly and freely, even as we ex-pect the gifts of the spirit to be showered upon us whether we be worthy or not. Amen.

MESSAGES.

Lizzle Collins, Haverhill, Mass.

Lizzle Collins, Haverhill, Mass. The first spirit that comes here this after-noon is a woman I should think about thirty-five or thirty-six years old. She is slender, has dark eyes and hair, and is very much agitated over her appearance here. She says that her name is Lizzie Collins and that she lived in Haverhill, Mass. She says, "O, I am so anxious to send a message to Will; it seems as though I couldn't be contented to stay here and send a message to Will; it seems as thougn I couldn't be contented to stay here and give him no idea of what is going on where I am. My brother, Frank, is with me. He died some time ago, and I used to think about his death so much and be worried about what would happen to my mother on account of it. But Will used to try to comfort me and make me understand that I couldn't do anybody any good by worry-ing. When I died it seemed as if nobody was prepared for it. They all expected that I would get well in a few days, and they no sooner made up their minds to that effect than I died without any particular understanding by anybody that death was 'coming. I wanted to tell my friends how nice it is over here. I was afraid to die; I didn't know what I was afraid to die; I didn't know what I was afraid to die; I didn't suf-I couldn't be contented to stay here and I death seemed such a dreadful thing that I felt afraid to face it. But there isn't any-thing to be afraid of. Why, I didn't suf-fer, and I had no sensation of fear or dis-tress. I wish I could make everybody un-derstand how easy it is to die; the only hard thing about it is to leave your friends, and that isn't as bad as to take a long journey away from them where you can-not see them, because I can see them and hear them, and know what they are thinking about. Robbie has grown to be a man and he and my father are doing so much mak-ing a home for mother when she comes. I send my love to all my friends, and if they can be helped a little bit so that they will not be afraid when their time comes, I shall be happy that I have made this effort to come."

Arthur Hills.

come.

There is a spirit of a man I should think

FEBRUARY 17, 1906.

like to see her give it all away. What is the use of hearding up things that will not ever do anybody any good unless they are used right away? If I could speak to Ma I would tell her that I know she will come over here, and when she does she will be just as sorry as I am that she didn't give away these things. I often go to her, some-times in the morning when she first gets up; I try to speak to her; she thinks she hears me but she grows afraid. I am glad I didn't have to be take any medicine, because I always hated it. When father used to be taking it all the time it made me crazy. That is one advantage of going out suddenly. I want to thank somebody for the chance I have had, to come; it is awful good to be just able to come and send a message, and not even put a postage stamp on it. Thank you."

George Hall, New Bedford, Mass.

George Hall, New Bedford, Mass. The next spirit that comes to me is a man whout forty-five years old. He has brown whiskers and brown hair and brown eyes. He is not very tall and he has got rather square shoulders, and seems in such deep frouble that I feel like speaking for him as fast as I can. He passed out with con-sumption, for he coughs every time he tries to speak. He says that he lived in New Bedford, that his name was George Hall, and that he knew 'some Spiritualists, but was never associated with them in any pub-lic way. He says, 'I tried to think that it was all right to go, but I was anxious to stariad to die, but life was what I was sure of and I made a fight for it, but I couldn't keep it. My mother is here with me and she says that she tried many times to give me some communication that would pre-pare me for the change, but that I din't seem to pay the slightest heed to it. My business was sold out, and has since gone seem to pay the slightest heed to it. My business was sold out, and has since gone to pieces, but it doesn't affect me any, only I hate to see things go to waste. I have seen a lot of the people that I used to know and it is like seeing friends in a strange city; they seem a good deal better to you when you are far from home. Perhaps it is because you have more time to think-about them. I guess maybe that is it. I want to send a message to Addie and tell her that I am just as strong in my belief that things am just as strong in my belief that things were not done as they should be for her now as I was before I came over here. The old man didn't do the right thing and I knew it then and I know it now. I think things can be righted up some, but it will take time and patience and money. Don't mind about Fred, that will come out all right. Goodbyc.

Benjamin Sewall, Hartford, Conn.

Benjamin Sewall, Hartford. Cons. There is a spirit of an old man I should hink between eighty and ninety years old. His hair is snowy white and he has a long white beard. His face is just as rosy and young looking as it can be, and he seems as happy and glad to come as if he had only gone away yesterday, and he seems as happy and glad to come as if he had only gone away yesterday. and he seems as happy and glad to come as if he had only gone away yesterday. The seems to think that when a man gets well up into the eighties it is time he shuf-fled off this mortal coil and got into the provide the second of the country interested me to the second and the destroy of the source of the about my relations and how the cross were and the affairs of the country interested me to wanted to read about the foreign wars and the doings in Washington, and how thy it seems a strange thing to me that people cannot find anything to interest them outside of their own dooryard. My main is Benjaanin Sewall, and I lived in Hartford. Conn., and I am as glad to give in a si I had never known any other re-ligion. To tell the truth, I grew away from swas hought I would like to talk with mis do my religious influences becades I aways thought I would like to talk with what he dwad and see what he had to swas the ad and and see what he had to say at hand and see what he had to say at hand and see what he had to say at hand and see what he had to say at hand and see what he had to say at hand and see what he had to say at hand and see what he had to say at hand and see what he had to say at hand and see what he had to say at hand harriet and William, and the was hough the in missage of good will be to friends we expect to greet over here itore very long. Thank you yer more There is a spirit of an old man I should

Emma Palmer. Leonard, Ark.

Emma Palmer, Leonard, Ark. The next spirit that comes to me is a woman rather stout, blue eyes, very gray hair, which she combs very prettily and stylishly. She is, I should think, about forty-five or six years old, and she is just as much at home coming here as can be. She says that her name is Emma Palmer, and she says, "Why, I knew about spirits: I wasn't connected with any Spiritualist or-ganization, but I have had a good many things that made me happy. I lived in Leonard, Ark." She says, "The first spirit that met me was my mother. She was just as moting in the spirit spirit that met me was my mother. She was just that met me was my mother. She was just as natural in her greeting as if it had been the day before that I said good-bye to her, and father was with her, and they had no and father was with her, and they had no concern about anything seemingly, except to make me happy and feel that I was wel-come. I had so many friends who came to see me. It is such a pleasure to go into a home and feel that you have a right there and somebody expects you. I wanted to send a message to Annie and tell her that I am trying to keep my promise to her. I don't think it will be very long before I shall be able to give her the promised mes-sage. I cannot begin to tell you how much my knowledge of these things helped me to adjust myself to this life. I wish I had studied more about it, but a little knowlto accuse myser to this me. I wish I had studied more about it, but a little knowl-edge is better than none, and the world will bye and bye take up these problems in a better fashion. That is all I have to say foday, and I thank you."

He could have very rationally said. Let them fight it out; it is their quartel, not mine. I have all I can do to take care of those whom the Lord has been pleased to place in my keeping, and I will do my duty at home and so them first."

at home and so them first." There are many men who then, as today, took that same pious attitude, and doubt-less flung into his ears that much abused statement, "Charity begins at home." But Washington, with a dominating sense of the Eternal Right, an unswerving re-spect for fair play and justice and a love for his fellowmen that transcended his love for his fellowmen that transcended his love of ease and wealth, and the personal com-forts of home and luxury, turned, a deal ear to those wise (?) counselors, stiffed the momentary pain of separation from loved ones, and marched to the North, to the very center of warfare; where danger and death lurked in sabre and musket of a well-fed, well-organized, well-equipped foe. There, under the old elm tree in Cam-bridge, he lifted his bared head to the soft shies, and with a prayer in his heart for her whom he loved so dear, touched lightly his trusty sword and became not only the father of his country, but the leader of his brothers.

the stand. The shopkeeper picked up a bamboo stick and blew his breath in the end of it, then again addressed the anihis breath in mal:

"Into this stick I have breathed a prayer "into this stick I have breathed a prayer that thou mayst remember how poor a man I am. O my brother, and I now present my humble petition." Wherewith he whacked the bull sharply over the nose, and the as-tounded animal galloped, bellowing, through the bazaar.—Broughton Branden-burg, in Metropolitan Magazine.

Valentine's Day.

Valentize's Day. Coy Cupid 's on the wing today-Look! lest he fail you in his flight-Nor in faint doubting turn away From what will make your dear delight. Once, swift he fluttered to my side. To drop his offering at my feet; I left it in my foolish pride-Scarce knowing I had found it sweet. But as upon my lonely path Pale Cupid looks with pain-dimmed ey I know my weary feet had walked Forever in Love's Paradise. Had I but kept that Valentine-The faith and trust once wholly mine. Montreal. May Austin Lowe May Austin Lowe. Montreal.

There is a spart of a sheat of sheat of the sheat that y bears old. Sheater, rather tall, dark eyes, dark hair and a very matter of fact, calm way. His name is Arthur Hills, and he says. "O, I had no idea that I should feel so strange when I came back. I was drowned and I feel as if I were going drowned that the shoule thing arain. I wasn't feel so strange when I came back. I was drowned and I feel as if I were going through the whole thing again. I wasn't alone; there were others who went down with me, and no one has ever been able to find out just how it happened, and I wanted to say that it was a sudden squall and we didn't know how to manage the boat. Seems awful funny to me that people live along and live along, and all at once die and everthing they tried to do is just swept away. Life had only begun for me. I thought I was going to do so many things and accomplish so much. I have not be-gun to look about to see what I can do over here. It just seems as though I had left ome city for another, that is all. It is lovely here, but it was lovely where I left. I have friends here, but I had them at my home, and I wish sometimes that I could have known something about my coming. I would have been a little better prepared for*if. My mother cannot bear to give away anything that I ever used. It isn't doing anybody a bit of good, and I would

The healing by the laying on of hands come in direct line from New Testament times, and has the virtue of actually heal-ing. It will come more and more into use as people see that spirit power is the best thing for the spirit.

The Question Bureau. OTED BY W. J. OULVILLE.

intermittent. The de require temporary ce often require temporary cessation of some specific activity. A recreation is sometimes needed which occurs during an interval be-tween two periods of demonstrated activity. When an interval-of repose is being taken you are being prepared for a higher or larger measure of usefulness than you have known or enjoyed previously. There is an ebb as well as a flow in psychic as in ma-terial tides and we should be ready to wel-come equally high tide and low tide in spiritual expression.

from Various Sources.

"The soul is in the human form, filling

"The soul is in the human form, filling every part of the body, even to the extent that every molecule is a little centre of consciousness. The soul creates the body, and not the body the soul, Experiments have shown that the soul can enjoy a very vivid state of consciousness on other planes when the brain is paralyzed by hyp-notic influence. Thought is, therefore, independent of the brain and not a result of brain vibration.

independent of the brain and not a result of brain vibration. "When the physical brain and body per-ish in death the spiritual form which emerges from its physical covering proves to be a perfect and substantial organiza-tion, but of such subtle texture as to elude recognition by the physical senses."

Mme. de Gollier Davenport is now in her

Mme. de Gouler Davenport is now in ace 78th year, and Dr. Bodfish, in introducing her to the Ladies' Physiological Institute of this city, recently, made her "a Russian by birth, French by education, and Ameri-can by adoption, the mother of 24 children, the gradem all context and all for consistent

"I see so many women who are yellow because their liver is out of order. Drink water in long draughts. Eat plenty of vege-tables. Attend to your own gardening; take an interest in your husband, your horse, your cow, your dog and your cat and you will soon be healthy, happy and beloved by everyone. "A good stomach and a kind heart are the secrets of happiness. Be kind and that kindness will come back to you a hundred-fold. Do not wait to give flowers when your friend is dead. Show all the attention you can to your friends while they are living. This, with proper care and diet, will so preserve a woman that when she is 70 years old she will be in her prime. "Instead of building sanitariums and asy-lums for nerve-shattered men and women

Ims for nerve-shaltered men and women and the insane, we should make every effort to teach them to take care of them-selves and live in accordance with the laws of health and hygiene, she said. Mme. Davenport will soon sail for Naples

The London "Daily Mail" in an article

Naples.

direction.

at of the "Bannar of Light" is not a tere, nor out the conductor undertail as to ansaor grassions by mail. If it is are of general interest, and so be the u noting the graitest pool to the grastest

Questions and Answers.

Question by B. M. B., Boston.—How can sin be forgiven when the soul feels that the evil done is done and remains with its consequences?

Answer-When we restore the word for-five to its original meaning, we shall be more ready to spell it with nine letters than with the customary seven. Forthgive is one of the original meanings of the word, and one that harmonizes exactly with the New Testament declaration that virtue went forth from the great teacher and healer to those who were rescued from all kinds of infirmity through his benevolent and beneficent ministrations. Though it is quite true that consequences must be met and penalties cannot be averted, "go, sin no more" is a text which correctly reveals the true nature and blessed effects of real for-giveness. "Thou art released from the sins" is another vital saying pregnant with the deepest meaning. If we did, not seek to shick or evade a penalty, but if we always shood ready to meet the consequences of our acts, we should dismiss all maudlin sen-timent and accept only such views of re-lease from error as are commatible with timent and accept only such views of re-lease from error as are compatible with scientific morality. When Marie Corelli in "The Soul of Liloth" makes one of her most attractive characters (Feraz) pray for his conclusion of the science of the his penalty, not to escape it, she showed keen insight into the object of disciplinary chastisement which has for its object not only purification from actual wrong, but also release from the sense of sin which is called "guilty conscience." We all admit that many people or actar more on ac that many people go astray more on ac-count of evil associations than by reason of deliberate wilful depravity. Weakness of will and moral cowardice are predisposing causes which lead to very much overt in-iquity. Strong spiritual guidance, which can causes which lead to very much overt in-iquity. Strong spiritual guidance, which can always be secured when earnestly sought, serves to counteract the force of down-ward temptation by presenting an appeal and exerting; an influence addressed entirely to the higher self of the erring individual. The virtue given forth by a spiritual eman-cipator is an influence exerted in a diametrically opposite direction from that exerted on the side of a moral downfall. The soul may feel, and indeed must feel, for a time that evil has been, done and that such must be atoned for, but restitu-tion can be made, and when the soul has forsaken the way of error and pursues the path of truth, an entire change comes over it concerning the influence it is exerting. No finite human life is faultless; and when we have fallen into error the best and only effective means for rising above it and its consequences is couched in the salutary precept, "Cease to do evil, learn to do well." by birth, French by education, and Ameri-can by adoption, the mother of 24 children, 11 of whom, all sons, and all fine specimens of manhood, are living." Her subject was "How to Live so as to Retain Health and a Youthful Appearance." Mme. Davenport said the time is not far distant when physical training, not physical straining, will be taught in the public schools. There will then, be no round-shouldered children wearing spectacles. "The trouble with women is they do not shake themselves up enough." she contin-ued. "Many are out of bed all day, but they are not awake. When I get out of bed every morning I jump over the rail-ing. I take deep, long breaths of fresh air. I wash myself inside as well as outside. I groom myself thoroughly. I do not worry, and you see the result. "I women would attend more to their digestive organs they would be a power in themselves." "I see so many women who are yellow because their liver is out of order. Drink water in long draughts. Eat plenty of vege-tables. consequences is couched in the salutary precept, "Cease to do evil, learn to do well." When we devote ourselves to practical philanthropic endeavors we are, to use a Sanscrit term, much in vogue in Theosophic circles, making new Karma, and as the new is useful and beneficial it wipes out the old, which was detrimental. We do not teach that we have a right to expect any remission of necessary restorative and edu-cational penalty. but we do teach forcivecational penalty, but we do teach forgive-ness of sin, which ultimately signifies turn-ing from error to truth, from folly to wis-dom, from darkness to light. We must give up or forego our evil inclinations and con-quer our false beliefs before we can rea-sonable scene to enjoy a new and blies sonably escape to enjoy a new and bliss-ful life of righteousness. Salvation from sin there is, but remission of penalty while sin is indulged in there is not. What we ball need is not to be saved from inevitable sequence, but from every tendency which causes us to continue in purpused of causes us to continue in pursuance of those ignoble courses which, if not aban-doned, must continue to produce more evil fruit

Question by W. B. E., Claremont, N. H. —Can you ascribe any reasons for a me-dium who has had wonderful powers sud-denly losing them, and can you suggest any mode of action to regain them?

mode of action to regain them? Answer.—It is only possible to account rationally for the phenomenon described in two ways. First, There are many people temporarily called upon to do a definite and greatly needed work under spiritual direc-tion, then as soon as that work is done the tendency to do it and the facility for its accomplishment is withdrawn. A purpose has been served and no good end would or could be advanced by continuing a special endowment or qualification longer than its expression could serve a useful end. Sa-ond, it often happens that highly sensitive people are at one time living in conditions peculiarly favorable to their gifts and at another time living where conditions are unfavorable. Whenever there is a strong, persistent desire to either únfold or recover a special gift it may safely be decided that The London "Daily Mail" in an article describing Spiritualism as "a daily growing peril which is silently creeping into our homes and menacing society," publishes at its head the portraits of Sir Oliver Lodge, Dr. Alfred Russel Wallace and Sir Wil-liam Crookes. "Light," our worthy mes-senger in England, cleverly offers "in re-buttal" to the charge, "mental, moral and physical effects of Spiritualism—all bad," the "effects" of candid investigation in these three honorable devotes of truth, un fettered by dogmatism. persistent desite to enter anothe necoter a special gift it may safely be decided that such a gift can be developed or caused to reappear. If you have no longer any de-size to do as you once did and if your general surroundings have so changed that you can plainly see that you have now quite another occupation and your energy is be-ing properly directed into other channels, in a most of the out of the set to return you can plainly see that you have now quite another occupation and your energy is be-ing properly directed into other channels, you need not and should not seek to return to your former condition, but if you are dis-satisfied with your present lack of spiritual expression you will do well to quietly and earnestly seek the restoration of your sub-sided faculty. Very often the close com-panionship of a highly developed healthy sensitive is very useful in bringing about conditions favorable to the return of the temporarily absent gifts. Let your sittings alone or with a genial, sympathetic com-panion be entirely free from anxiety and unrest. Give opportunity and invitation to development on the psychic plane, but never permit yourself to strain after attain-ments. We feel sure that the wisest atti-tude is invariably-one of calm expectancy that whatever you really need will certainly be made manifest. Almost all sensitives find their susceptibility to psychic, influ-

2 ...

BANNER OF LIGHT.

Mechanic and Electrician; Tangles, and the O. A. B. page are filed with good things. There are by Hustrations. Subscription price, $1.00 a year. The Sprague Publish-ing Co., Detroit, Mich. Transcendental Physics

In the February Century chapters of "Fenwick's Career," Madame de Pastour-elles, ahe who "lived more truly in thought than in speech and action," dominates the pages, though this number, too, brings Fen-wick's first artistic and financial success. As the January chapters left Phoebe Fen-wick in her Westmoreland cottage, about to set out for London, unannounced to her husband, the development of the plot is intensifying in interest. Rev. J. S. David teaching in the Meta-physical Club's Hall in a series of Thurs-day lectures makes these points: "Every member and organ of the body corresponds to some mental faculty. The bones in general correspond to a knowl-edge of facts which form the basis and framework of character, while the muscles find their mental analogy in the will or love of action. The 'valley of dry bones' and the 'sepulchre full of dead men's bones' mentioned in the Bible denote men who have knowledge without the will to do." Treating of the nervous system, the lec-turer said that, "in dreams the cerebrum alone is asleep, while the cerebrum full sway, so that in dreamland whatever we desire to do is done without intellectual direction."

For Over Sixty Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diar-rhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Had Not Seen His Vision.

The late Bishop Williams of the Episcopal The late Bishop Williams of the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut was a confirmed bachelor and had a deep rooted antipathy for becoming entangled in Cupid's net. One afternoon he was visited by a rather effusive maiden lady of his acquaintance who was also his ardent admirer. "Well, Bishop." she remarked, after some unimportant pre-liminary skirmishing, "I have had a vision from the Lord that you and I are to be mar-ried." The bishop looked at her, overcome with consternation and amazement at her presumption. But only for a short time was he at a loss; then, his wit coming to the rescue, he replied: "Wait a moment, maid-en; I haven't had my vision yet."-Ex.

An Account of B

Psychic Phenomena.

Ill pages, giving minute account of Prof. Solimers experi-antis, logither with Profs. Weber, bekeiner and Pear Article Solimer's own hours at Lepiste. The dilustrations showing experiments with an endlaw trine, Lawler Band, Experiments with an Exother Had work and Solimer's Band, Experiments with an Exother Had for a solimer's Band, Experiments with an Exother Had source are share Writing Extending and the Had formed are share Writing Extending and the Piele source are share Writing Extending and the Piele source are share Writing Extending and the Piele source are share Writing Extending and the Pieles.

sale by Banner of Light. $1.10 postpald.

Genuine vs. Shoddy Science.

By J. G. DALTON.

n purpose of these works is to provide use ure data in the astronomical part of the hich is so detective in the usal trade pro-The books are got up in first-rate siyle and usat prices.

By PROF. ZOLLNER, University of Leip

No ILLUGINAILY ANAIUMI. Scientife and Popular. Designed and adapted for college students. libraries, mechanics and home courses of study, and contains over 300 large illustrations and colored piates, showing plainly every part and organ of the humas body. Arcted in parenthesis, so thaill is in fact Amalony translated to the Exciling the reder. This feature alone is very valuable, maying the student the necessity of recourse to a dictionary Bedides this, it has many other distinctive fea tures, many fine and important llustrations. (Fi large pages (612 x 16) half morece. Price 63.000, prograd. By MRS. ELIZA E. PETTSINGER.

For Sale by the BANNER OF. LIGHT.

Mediums and Sealers meetings, lectures, and mediums chearfully responded A large and valuable consulting library and files of various Spiritualist journais from different parts of the world can be inspected. Every Spiritualist visiting Washington should call at this office. All commenications to be addressed as above to unications to be addressed as above to NARY T. LONGLEY. Secretary.

The Life of Jehoshua THE PROPHET OF NAZARETH.

An Occult Study and a Key to the Bible Containing History of Initiate.

By Frantz Hartmann, M. D.

Contains eighteen sections, a Dedication and an Infre-fuction, the whole covering two hundred and eight large octavo pages. Price $1.50. Postage 9 cents. For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT.

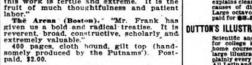

Consider ---- Investigate ----Consult.

GOOD OPPORTUNITIES for investment and for active business men or women are presented at 118 Bedford St., Suite 509, Besten, Mass., at the offices of

The Consolidated Inventors' Corporatio The United States Peat Fuel Company. The Indedendent and Auxiliary Gas Co The Ocean Power Electric Company. Office hours 9 to 4. Call and see. 2518 tf

"THE SONG OF THE SOUL VICTORIOUS."

The sequence and inspiring Form, which up to the pre-ent has only been circulated through private sources, and yet has brought so much light-and hope to the sources, and actic prophic or between the has need with an enfluid-actic prophic or between the has between with the and making on the source of the bottom with the and the prophic of Lister Funcienting Congrass. This book is handsomely illustrated and embedding of Mr, Henry A. Hancox, who has made hit work a labor of low and has pick hit best ideas and still not hit work. The book dress on receipt of price, 765., plus pessage, 189.

The Shrine of Silence.

MEDICAL NOTES.

The New York Magazine of Mysteries has swung into line of public favor. It claims a circulation of 175,000 copies a month, which shows it supplies a want of the human mind for knowledge on the mys-teries that are about us and within. We congratulate our contemporary.

The Magazines.

The February American Boy.

The February American Boy. The American boy is essentially patricitic and the publishers of the greatest boy's magazine in the world have made this the leading feature in the February number. The front cover with the Washington coat of arma, and a sentiment quoted from George Washington himself, is exceedingly attractive. The patricite are: "The Young George Washington," by William F. Carne, and "Abraham Lincoln," being No. 4 in the Boyhood of Great Americans se-ries. There are a multitude of shorter arti-cles and interesting items for the boys who want to know and do things: How to Make a Work Bench; How to Build a Skiff or Fishing Phint; Paper Pyrography; Boys, Take Care of Your Teeth. The va-rious departments of Stamps, Coins and Curios; The Boy Photographer; The Boy

The Shrine of Silence. This consists of one hundred and six Meditations, expressed in exaited language, touching on every emotion and aspiration of the human heart. Heary Wood (Author "Life More Abund-mat," etc.). "Such pure and delightfully ex-pressed idealism tends to put one in a lofty state of mind. I am reading the book aloud evenings to my family. It is greatly en-loyed and very helptul: the potensistic in the state of the state of the human the state of the state of the look I read it daily." Salvareas (author "Wisdom of Passion"), "Your work is a blessing to the age: a star lighting, humanity to loftier spiritual free-dom; a benediction a flower making glad the waste places of earth." Healt Collinge (N. Y.). "Henry Frank is more than a splendid teacher and great thinker. He is a post and, a music-maker. His book appeals to many." Tore work on the prayers that are indeed Prose-poems." Ninth Edition book for those w these two preva the hands of the rea these most common ent diseases. I ber, sure means o maladies. It give a language of their IMMORTALITY ment in populat and Cure. OUR FUTURE HOMES AND DWELLING PLACES ne hundred Soul Prayers that are hundred rose-poems.". Complete Education (Teledo). "A work f art and rare interest; sublime thoughts ouched in graceful phrases." Some have written the author calling this ook their Bible, their New Testament, a Nvine Bevelation. One writes "he wishes e had some of Carnerie's millions and dis-ribute them broadcast through the world o bless mankind." 175 pages, cloth bound, thick, soft tinted saper, handsome 8 yo. Postpaid, $1.50. For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT. WHAT A HUNDRED SPIRITS, GOOD AND EVIL, SAY, OF MAXHAM'S MELODIES. THEIR DWELLING PLACES. JAMES M. PEEBLES, B alas Bir Posts, and Qu A remarkable, interesting and valu-able compliation of spirit communito angels near Sweet somewhere Old melodies You never can tell We shall not pass Large Ostare. 330 Pag three Chapters. in is liftin If all who hate w The land bey Boiltude A good time now When the wife has aver The singy man's fate Den't look for the far Be careful what you are had so goes the world Candise in the sir An so goes the world Candise in the sir Postage 14 cm PRICE $1.00 The Vision of the Invisible. allegorical treatise explaining the ples of Idealism and Spiritual Sub-Paper, 35 cents. Postpaid. For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT. RULES AND ADVICE FOR THO Sentences of Point Chicago, when the own Made, they any Common with Solid For Strengther with a Destington of Points and Solid For Strengther with a Destington of Points and Solid For nonstration of Im attic De A wholly new argument based on mo Psychology, backed by Physical Sole 100 pages oloth bound. Postpaid 75 c For sale by the Banner of Light. 1 14 -For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT. by the BANNER OF LIGHT. For Sale

Expressly for students. This work gives in brief the most valuable facts of medical science, in-cluding theoretical chemistry. Cloth. Frice, 81.900 prepsid.

BANNER OF LIGHT.

FEBRUARY 17, 19.6.

Correspondence for this department should i reased to the Editor, and must reach this office rea mail delivery on Monday morning, to ensure on the same week. We wish to assist all, but our ach this office by the is limited. Use ink and write plainly

Topic for the Progressive Lyceum

For Sunday, Feb. 25, 1906. Let Each De His Part. Gem of Thought:-

No more burdens are e'er imposed Than strength we have to bear only each will gladly take. Unto himself his share.

In patience take the things that come They are thy rightful fruit; To fill thy place, to bear thy load Leads on the UPWARD route. oute. TW. R

For information concerning the Progres-sive Lycenin, authorized Lesson Paper for the National Spiritualist Association, address John W. Ring, Spiritualist Temple, Galveston, Texas

Boston and Vicinity.

The Children's Progressive Lyceum, No. 1, of Boston, heid its regular session in Red Men's Hall, 514 Tremont St. Sunday, at 11,30 a. m., with a large attendance. After the lession and march Ida Johnson, Bernice Tupper and Pauline Wagner sang. Bany Vinto, Queenic Knowls, Olive Sharp, Mr. G. Lang and Florence Cooley gave read-ings. Mr. Willis and Mrs. Butler made re-marks. The circle was formed at 1 o'clock with a number of strangers present. Mrs. Gutierrez gave some messages. Mr. Cland Spaulding gave an invocation. Mr. G. Lang, one of the young mediums, gave messages that were recognized. Visit the Lyceum and see what good work is being done.

The First Spiritualist Ladies Ard The First Spiritualist Ladies' Aid So-ciety held its weekly meeting Friday, Feb. 9, at 9 Appleton St. Mrs. Carrie Hatch pre-siding. It being so stormy Mrs. Cunning-ham postponed her benefit, and instead re-lated some of her earlier experiences. She also gave messages.' Mrs. Waterhouse, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Henderson followed with computer and communications. Next with remarks and communications. Nex Friday is medium's night. All welcome Next Friday is supper 6.15.

Ladies' Spiritualistic Industrial Society, Mrs. Belcher, president, met in Dwight Hall, 514 Tremont St., on the evening of Feb. 8. 1006, and held its business meeting at 5.30. Supper at 6.30. The evening exer-Feb. 8, 1906, and held its business meeting at 5.30. Supper at 6.30. The evening exer-cises were opened at 7.45 with an invoca-tion by the president, followed by Mrs. Hall (one of the old workers), who occu-pied a part of the evening with remarks and spirit messages. Mrs. Henderson gave a short talk, concluding with psychometric readings. Prof. Clarke Smith favored the undimene with some memaly and extralors. short talk, concluding with psychometric readings. Prof. Clarke Smith favored the audience with some remarks and astrolog-ical readings. Mrs. Blanchard gave read-ings. The society is glad to announce that on Feb. 15 Past Ppes. Mrs. Whitlock will give the society a besefit, and it is hoped that a large assembly will greet her. On the 22d there will be a Martha Washington Derect

Dwight Hall, Feb. 7-The Ladies' Ly-ceum Union met for its business meeting in the afternoon, serving supper at 630. There was a good attendance at both sup-per and the evening meeting. After the per and the evening meeting. After the social hour, Mrs. Buller introduced the fol-lowing speakers and mediums, each voicing poem or message as they could even con-tribute to the enjoyment of the friends. Mrs. H. C. Berry, Mrs. Dr. Wildes, Dr. Huot, Mrs. Knowles, Mrs. Morgan and Mis. M. I. Butler. J. Butler.

J. Butler. American Psychical Research Society, Harvey Redding, president.-Sunday meeting opened with the best audience of the season, which listened to an able dis-course by the president on "The Power of Words." Mrs. Abbie Burnham held the attention of the audience through a very in-teresting address on "Spiritualism." Mr, and Mrs. Osgood F. Stiles and Mr. Red-ding gave-many convincing messages. Mrs. Frank Vickery rendered selections at the piano. Mr. and Mrs. Stiles presented a very beautiful floral offering. The Thurs-day Evening Meeting was held at 202 Main St. Everett. It was the largest circle of the season. Mrs. Wells read an Inspirational poem. Mrs. Rollins read a paper on the needs of the church. Mrs. Deane answered many mental questions. Mrs. Pearce Mrs. Hobson and Mr. Redding gave many read-ings. ings.

"Modern Spiritualism." Mr. Willis Mill-ken gave a piano solo. Mrs. Maggie J. Butler spoke on "Spiritualism" and de-voted the rest of the evening to messages, which were very interesting. Dr. George A. Fuller will occupy the platform Sunday, Feb. 18.

Feb. 18. Brighton, Mass.—The Brighton Psychic Society, 14 Kenrick St. (off 147 Foster St.), held a very interesting meeting Wednesday evening. Feb. 7. Attendance small, but those present went to their homes satisfied with the messages received from their spirit friends through the meduumship of Mrs. Fannie Marriner of Roxbury. Mrs. Mar-riner will serve this society Wednesday evenings during February. Mrs. H. E. Hall, soloist; D. H. Hall, president. Eiset Solicitual Science Church Mrs. M

Hall, soloist; D. H. Hall, president. First Spiritual Science Church, Mrs. M. A. Wilkinson, pastor.-Mornine, test circle; afternoon and evening, regular ser-vices, with messages, tests and readings. Mediums of the day; Mr. Privoe, Dr. Blackden, Mr. Baxter, Prof. Mahomet, Prof. Henry, Mr. Hicks, Prof. Clark Smith, Mr. De Boss, Mrs. Nellie Tomas, Mrs. Mary Knowles. Beautiful inspired songs by Mrs. May Lewis and Harry Mac-Donough, assisted at the organ by Prof. F. Peak and Mrs. Nellie Carleton-Grover. Recitation, Mr. Starkey.

New England States.

The Onset Bay Grove Association held an adjourned meeting of its annual meeting at Hotel Essex Wednesday, Feb. 7th. After at Hotel Essex Wednesday; Feb. 7th. After all legal business had been acted upon the following officers were elected (unanimous) for the season of 1006; President, John Q. A. Whittemore. Boston; vice-president; James B. Hatch Boston; clerk, George A. Fuller, M. D., Onset; directors; Maj. Chas, F. Howard, Foxboro; Chas, Whittemore, Newton; Joseph H. Burgess, East Ware-ham; Walter C. Pessels, Brookline; David L. Whittemore, Newton; Loring Q. White, Brockton. Brockton.

Mrs. T. U. Reynolds served the Spirit-ualist Society of Pittsfield, holding two meetings, the 24th and 25th of January. Great satisfaction was expressed and many wishes to have her again, which it is hoped, in the near future, can be arranged. Very great interest is still manifested in these meetings. meetings.

meetings. Fitchburg, Mass --The First Spiritualist Society was favored by a large attendance at both services. Sunday to greet Helen M. Putney. The subcets taken for the ad-dresses were, "Lo a New Commandment I Gree Unto You, Love One Another," and "What is Death?" The lectures were fol-lowed by evolences demonstrating the qon-tinuity of life. The Medium's Circle and Song Service was very helpful. Miss Howe, painst, pleasingly rendered several selections. Buth V. Swift of Haverhill, test medium, will address the society next Sun-day. day.

Manchester, N. H -- The Bluebell Spirit Manchester, N. H.—The Bluebell Spirit-ualist Society is in a very healthy condition. It has filled all dates for this season, and will soon make engagements for next sea-son. The society makes special mention of Mrs. Emma B. Smith of Lawrence. Mass, as one who has done and is still doing, con-siderable work to aid it and says her work, both on and off the platform is very much siderable work to aid it and says her work, both on and off the platform, is very much appreciated in Manchester II is also very much indebted to two local mediums, Mrs. Elsie M. Page and Mrs. Julia A. Barker, who have freely given their services to aid the society. Their work on the platform and in the circle is appreciated as shown by the worksing multimetes. mereasing audiences

Field at Large.

St. Paul, Minnesota-The Minnesota State Spiritualists' Association will hold the State Spiritualists' Association will hold the annual mid winter mass meeting in St. Paul on Feb. 23, 24, 25 at Odd Fellows Hall, corner Wabash and Fifth Sts., with an all day session each day, beginning at 1030 a. m. All the local talent in the twin cities will be present and take part in the exercises. Friday and Saturday afternoons, Feb. 23 and 2, will be devoted to open dis-cussion. On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, Feb. 22, there will be a reception at the above hall to the visitors and friends, fol-lowed by a literary and musical entertain-ment and dance, and a general good time. Programs will be mailed to anyone on re-ceipt of address.=F. E. Irvine, sec. M. S. S. A., goa Hastings Ave. S. A., 904 Hastings Ave.

S. A., 904 Hastings Ave. Mrs. H. Anderson, correspondent of the Church of Divine Life, which holds ser-vices at Arcanum Hall, Bedford Ave. and Fulton St., Brooklyn, writes that the Aid Society connected with that church held a progressive euchre party on Monday even-ing, Jan. 29, and that it was most enjoy-able both socially and as a game party for all present. There was music and the ladies served coffee and cake.

Announcements.

First Spiritual Temple, Exeter Street.--Lecture at 10.45 a.m. and 2.30 p. m. through the mediumship of Mrs. N. J. Willis, School at 12 m. Wednesday evening, Feb. 21, Hygienic (Vegetarian) supper at 6.30, followed by the usual conference.

Lynn Spiritualists' Association, Cadet Hall.-Sunday, Feb. 18, 2.30 and 7.30, Mr. Thomas Cross, one of the most able lec-turers in the work. Each address will be followed by messages by Prof. R. A. Macurda, whose work attracted so much at-tention on Feb. 4 that he was re-engaged for this date. Circles 4, supper 5, song service with first class concert, 6.30.

The American Psychical Research Society of Massachusetts, Harvey Redding, presi-dent, holds spiritual meetings every Sunday evening at 7.30 in Odd Fellows' Hall, Mal-den. Square, Malden. Seats free. Circle every Thursday evening at 202 Main Street, Everett. Social at same place last Friday in every month. every month in every month. A testimonial benefit is to be tendered Mrs. M. A. Wilkinson at Pilgrim Hall, 694 Washington St., Friday evening, Feb. 23. The many, many friends of Mrs. Wilkinson who are interested in her welfare are much in evidence in the plans for this concert and it is hoped that a large sum will be raised. The tickets are at the low price of 25 cents and it will be a good investment to buy a few for your friends and send them along to enjoy an evening of pleasure for themselves and profit to a woman who has earned the right to be called a veteran worker in the cause of Spiritualism.

The Work in Lynn.

Lynn Spiritualists' Association, Cadet Lynn Spiritualists' Association, Cadet Hall. A very encouraging interest has been shown through the month of January. On the 14th we had with us Mrs. Kate Ham, of Haverhill: 21st, Mrs. S. C. Cun-ningham of Cambridge, and Mrs. A. J. Pet-tengill of Malden on the 28th. All of these mediums possess a high order of mea.uum-ship (each in their own line), and the work done by each was most excellent and much good for the Cause was accomplished. To draw comparisons between our workers seems like comparigh the lily and the rose; every flower that grows has a peculiar heauty of its own, and has its own particular every hower that grows has a pecuair beauty of its own, and has its own particular admirers, each perfect in its own way. We wish to speak a world of recommendation for a comparatively new worker, who was with us Feb. 4th. Prof. R. A. Macurda. This brother's work was very satisfactory to the large audiences present. His ad-dresses were practical, and his messages' were quite remarkable for their accuracy, giving a large number of full names and reading the contents of sealed letters with-out a mistake. Societies having open dates will make no mistake in engaging him. The musical exercises have attracted many to our meetings, some of the best soloists and dramatic readers procurable having been with us. The contract for building the new andiforium at Unity Camp has been awarded to Parke. G. Webber of Stone ham, who will commence work on the same as soon as the weather permits. The plans will for an indicate huilding with a section ham, who will commence work on the same as soon as the weather permits. The plans call for an inclosed building with a seating capacity of eight hundred, so constructed that the sides can be raised in pleasant weather in such a manner that the audience weather in such a manner that the audience will be out-of-doofs the same as with the old building, but assuring ample protection in case of showers or cold. We confidently expect that the new building and the talent that is being engaged for the coming sca-son will attract still larger audiences than the very large ones which have been the rule in all past scasons.—A. A. Averill, sec.

PASSED TO SPIRIT LIFE.

[Notices under this head will be inserted free when not exceeding twenty lines in length; beyond that a charge of filten cents per line will be made. About seven words make a line.]

ELDER THOMAS STROND.

Passed to spirit life from his home at the Passed to spirit the from his none at the Shakers of Enfield, Conn., Feb. 1, 1996, Elder Thomas Strond, after an illness of five days with pneumonia. Elder Strond was sixty years old and a convert to the Shaker bellef and practice since the time of Shaker bellef and practice since the time of his arrival in this country from Birming-ham, England, in 1871. He came to En-field for his health from Harfford, where he was ill, aiter his arrival from his own coun-try, and soon found that for which he had long been seeking, a higher religious life. After a few weeks' study, he seehabout con-forming to the rules of the Shaker order; from which conformity he has never way vered.

Elder Strond came of a highly cultured, English family, and had just come out of college when he arrived in this country, so by natural ability, consecrated labor and leadership, he soon became one of the most influential members of the Society. He was made Elder of the South family in 1890, and for many years had been one of the hoard of trustee.

WONDER WHEEL SCIENCE. (July M. Copyrighted, 1994, by C. H. We

Side Lights on Wonder Wheel Science. Daily Guidance for All, by Birth Numbers.

By Professor Henry

| Birth Nos. | 1 | 1 | 8 | 4 | 5 | 6 | -7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 | 12 |
|------------|---|---|---|---|---|---|----|----|----|----|----|----|
| Jan. 22-23 | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| 4-25-26 | F | - | 6 | - | M | | E | 12 | K | - | B | - |
| 7-28 | | | | | | | - | | | | | |
| 9-30-81 | 8 | - | F | - | G | - | M | - | E | - | ĸ | - |
| reb.1-2 | - | B | - | F | | G | - | M | - | E | - | - |
| -4-5 | ĸ | | B | - | F | - | G | - | | - | E | - |
| -7 | | | | | | | - | | | | | |
| -9 - | E | - | K | - | B | - | F | - | G | - | | |
| 0-11 | - | E | - | ĸ | - | в | - | F | - | 6 | - | |
| 1-18 | | - | E | - | ĸ | - | в | 4 | F | - | G | - |
| 4-15 | - | M | - | E | - | ĸ | - | B | | F | - | G |
| 6-17-18 | 6 | - | - | - | Ε | - | K | - | В | - | F | - |
| 19-20 | - | 6 | - | M | - | Ε | - | ĸ | - | в | - | F |
| 1-23 | F | - | 6 | - | | - | Ε | - | K. | - | в | - |

Chats on Wonder Wheel Science.

PLANETARY HOURS.

"Do you consider the law of the Plane-tary Hours, as laid down in Tabula Magus, infallible? I have found them most remarkable in my experience with them. So writes a correspondent.

"The law of the Planetary Hours, I do onsider to be infallible," is the reply, "but do not consider them infallible as laid down in our superficial understanding. In down in our superficial understanding. In Tabula Magus they are there made to be about as infallible as they can be for gen-eral usefulness. Of course the calculations, unless made to exactness, for each and every hour for 365 1/4 days, could not be exact. The length of each hour can only be approximated for general use, just as a clock or watch is but an approximation of Solar time. Planetary hours are the di-visions of daylight and darkness into 12 houses, each house representing 1 hour of on minute more discussion. 60 minutes, more or less, according to the length of the daylight or the darkness from for minutes, more or less, according to the length of the daylight or the darkness from the rising to the setting of the sun. "As Jesus said, 'Are there not 12 hours in the day?' The 12 planetary hours con-scope,' and not the 14 hours of a day, nor the 12 signs of the Zodiac. There are 3 circles. One the Hour Circle divided into 12 different parts according to the length of the planetary hour in which one is born. That is the True Horoscope, and must be calculated accurately or it is of no account whatever Then there is the Life Circle, which is but 6 signs of 2 hours each. meas-ured approximately from the East to the West at the hour of birth. This is the Na-tive's 'Day.' or time of Life in the flesh, "The life is dark or light according to the amount of light or darkness above the earth at the moment of birth. Hence, children born at sunrise, or at 1st point of Aries are children born into a spiritual life of inde-pendence or freedom, while those born at sunset or at 1st point of Libra, are born into a life of darkness, or spiritual depend-ence, which makes them intuitional scarch-ers after such light as their opposites na-turally possess, whether they make proper use of it or otherwise." "Those born 'after dark, being seekers after light, generally increase in enlighten-ment in the latter half of life, while those

1. "Those born after dark, being seekers after light, generally increase in enlighten-ment in the latter half of life, while those born in the daylight' are apt to become in-different to the gift of natural enlighten-ment which they display in the early half of life. As Spring and Summer are corre-spondents to daylight, and Fall and Winter correspond to darkness the onalities of encorrespond to darkness, the qualities of en-lightenment are often mixed in individual cases, as one may be born in the warm sea-sons of the year and after sunset, or, in the cold seasons after subrise.

"A midnight, or Capricorn birth, or a noon or Cancer birth, is at birth the me-dial line between the two conditions, hence, whether they increase or decrease in en-lightenment depends very largely upon other factors in consideration. "The Third Circle is the Sele Circle lightenment depends very largely upon other factors in consideration. "The Third Cirsle is the Solar Circle of both daylight and darkness, and is the circle of the Soul Forces, which markind is too apt to ignore, by reason of bodily and animal necessities, which are the operating forces in the Circle of the Horoscope and the Circle of Life, or Animal motion. This circle is formed by the paths of Sunlight and of the shadow of the earth, which per-petually chase, each other about the earth every 24 hours, and from north to south of the Sun should follow the track of this light side of the equator, and would resemble windings is a uniform ball of twine. The impact of the centre of light and darkness is a number of the centre of the shadow of the earth, it would scratch a path of a spiral character each windings is a uniform ball of twine. The impact of the centre of light and darkness in falls and under ground places."

The Ruling People during the term of this Table, are those born under the No. 11. In general, they will not accumulate money nor 1, 3, 7, 9, and to some of No. 11, who may happen to be exceptions to the general de. People born about the 17th or 18th of anuary, March, May, July or September fill be favored financially, or, its equiva-nt. People born in 1823, 1827, 1835, 1850, A43, 1847, 1850, 1855, 1858, 1860, 1867, 1870, 874, 1870, 1882, 1886, 1897, 1894, 1898, 1909, 180 Nos. 1, 3, 5, 7, 9 and 11 will be favored his year, yet, bear this one important fact a mind, that there are exceptions in all eneral laws.

i mind, that there are exceptions in an eneral laws. Address all matters relative to these ables to Prof. Henry, Boylston Centre, fass. Instructions in every kind of Oc-ultism, or Astrologic readings, given by orrespondence. Open for lectures on var-ous subjects. All of Prof. Henry's pub-shed works are for sale at Banner office.

-at the start, and after that their move-ments, or impulses, are precisely the same, then they will differ throughout the race, exactly in proportion to the advantages of the time and forcefulness of the firm mothe time and forcefulness of the first mo-ment. "This illustration of differentiation is most noticeable in the influences that be-long to the seconds or the minutes of the Planetary Hour, or the Circle of the Horo-score. Next to that would be the differen-tiations in Disposition, which belongs to the seconds and minutes of the Circle of Life and calculated by the 6 hours of Moon movement following the birth. As this circle is 12 times as large as the Circle of the Horoscope, the minutes and seconds form radius vectors, or angles, 12 times farther apart; they therefore permit some liberty in approximated conclusions, which cannot depart much from qualities in dis-position. position.

"The greater, then, the difference be The greater, then, the difference be-tween the time of birth in case of twins, the greater will be their difference in form, appearance, muscular development and dis-position. Then again, if the eastern angle of light happens in that difference of time to change from the horizontal line of one time to each a section a form the form sign to another, as measured from the Side-real Tour Angle, at 1st point of Aries, a more marked difference in body, disposition and even character will be noticed between the united between the twins.

the twins. "Even the dual parts of Millie Christine, the double headed girl, were different in many ways. I, had excellent opportunities, through her manager, Mr. Smith, to inves-tigate her case, on Astrologic lines. I also have niece and nephew twins, born 3 hours apart, and no stranger would for a moment suspect them to be twins, yet they strictly and individually conform to the laws of the 3 circles as I have herein endeavored to explain." xplain explain: "I have, however, to add, relative to the Solar Circle, of 24 hours, that this circle is twice as large as the Life Circle-including life here and life hereafter-and 24 times as large as the Circle of the Horoscope. All of its parts being larger, judgments there-from may be more freely approximated. This Soul Circle is governed by the Sun, and it denotes the inherited "ualities of character which we receive from the Pa-ternal, or most positive side of parental life, as this parent was at time of our birth. "The Life Circle is governed by the Moon, and denotes the life, or Anima in-heritance from the Maternal, or negative side of parental life, as the Mogher was Dispositioned by her environments at the time of our birth. The Horoscope Circle is governed by the Lord of the Planetary Hour as well as by the Lord of the Rising Sign. "The has long here a doubt in my mind as I have, however, to add, relative to the Sign. "It has long been a doubt in my mind as "It has long been a doubt in my mind as to the correctness of the Sign Lordships, but I have not arrived at any sure evidence that would warrant any changes, even to provide domiciles for Uranus and Neptune. I fully consider those planets to be out of the range of the Horoscope Circle, almost as much so as the fixed stars which affect us only in the Solar Circle, to a slight de-gree:

| management of May A. Mack of Medioral. A large gathering enjoyed a 'splendid sup- per and one of the best concerts. It re- flected much credit on the talented man- ager. The program was long and varied, and the costuming was pleasing, particu- larly Mr. Milton's as George Washington and Mrs. Butler as Martha. Sunday, Feb. 11, the Children's Lyceum. E. J. Patch, conductor, met at 2 p. m., Mrs. Andrews at the piano. The lesson was read and dis- cussed. The different subjects, including the general subject, "What Are the Best Methods to Promote True Spiritulaism?" were discussed with much interest. 30 p. m.—The afternoon circle opened with a praise service, Mrs. Morton offering the in- vocation. Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Morton and Mr. George L., Baker, inspired by their guides, gave fine messages. Mr. Spaulding addressed the circle. 7,30 p. m.—The even- ing meeting was opemed with a praise ser- vice and reading from the Scripture and | The Gospel of Spirit Return Society, Minnie Meserve Soule, pastor, holds ser- vices every Sunday evening at 7,45 in the Banger of Light Building, 204 Dartmouth Street, Boston. The Banner of Light Circle for Spirit Healing will be held in Banner of Light lecture room every Monday from 4 to 5 p. m. The doors close at 4. Mr. Nicholas Williams is the medium for this work. Public Spiritual Circle every Friday al- ternooth, 446 Tremont Street, mediums wel- come. Mrs. Nellie Carleton Grover, con- ductor. Odd Ladies' Hall, 446 Tremont Street.— Bible Spiritualist Society, Mrs. Gutierrez, president, holds meetings every Sunday. Circle, 11 a. m. Evidences, 230 and 7 p. m. Circle, 4 to 5. First Spiritual Science Church, Mrs. M. A. Wilkinson, pastor, Mr. C. W. Emery of Lynn: assistant, Commercial Hall, 694 Washington Street.—Services, 11 a. m., 230 | still in charge of the South and doing all he could for the general interest of the So- ciety until the last. Elder Strond was a deep thinker and an advanced Spiritualist, dating his personal knowledge of spirit-communion with his acceptance of the Shaker faith. He was fully conscious of the presence of attending spirits during his illness, speaking of them by name, etc. The funeral was held from the home of the Church family, and was attended by a large number from the outside order who had learned his worth during many years of business intercourse. Telder Strond is sincerely mourned, not conly by his immediate family, but by the community at large, and will be greatly missed by all who had dealings with him Myra E. McLean, Shaker Station, Conn. | impact of the centre of light and darkness upon the earth's surface may thus be seen to never be precisely the same, relative to the centre of the earth and the sun, or to any of the planets, for two consecutive minutes, hence, each breath that we draw is in a different angle of light to the pre- vious breath, and to twins could be born near 'enough to the same time to start their journey of life under the self-same angle (or angel of light or life). The Radius Vector of each of their cir- cles of light would differ precisely in ac- cordance with the difference of time be- tween the drawing of their first breath, and this first breath, according to its strength or weakness, would expand the lings, the diaphragm' and the other muscles and thus create the first formation of omoving parts of the body, minutely different in each case "Upon that first foundation of form' all subsequent formations would have to de- pend and mark differences. In them, for form the ambient. Just as in the case of two race horses. If one makes a more forceful movement—no matter how minute | <section-header><section-header><text><text></text></text></section-header></section-header> | |
|--|---|--|--|--|--|
| | | E ser and the second | The second second second second second second second | | |