

Publishing Office : 904 Daytmenth St., Boston, Mass. VOL. 99.-Whole No. 2555.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1906.

Postage Free. | NO. 5

IN MEMORY OF WILLIAM BRUNTON.

No flags at half-mast flying; No muffled drum-beat roll; No note of plaintive bugle; No solema church bell's toll.

Hearts that miss the sunshine, Yet hope through the gloom and mist; Eyes that are dim with teardrops, Like flowers by soft rains kissed:--

These are the tender tokens That speak our loss and pain, In these hours of hush and silence When we list for his voice again.

Night has settled about us, But the stars are in the sky; The shadows can ne'er affright us While the light shines down from op high.

Death with its silence and anguish. Is blessed with the light of his life Which shines brighter through the darkness

Like a star o'er the rivers of strife

Let the flags be uniurled to the breezes, Hib life is a victory won. Beat the unmuffled drums in triumph. His, life march is only begun.

The clear true note of the bugle blast, Like his voice, bids us "up and away." The swelling tones of chiming bells With joy proclaim his heaven-born day. M. M. S

The Life Radiant.

Lillian Whiting.

(IN MEMORIAM-REV. WILLIAM BRUNTON.)

"Thine be the quiet habitations; Thine the green pastures, blossom-nd smiles of saintly recognition As sweet and tender as thine own.

"All which is real now remaineth And fadeth never! The Hand which upholds it now, sustaineth The soul forever!"

Rev. William Brunton, whose work as a minister of the Unitarian faith widened and flowered into the rich abundance of the positiveness of the divine life, in the conviction of the open and direct communion between those in the Seen and those in the Unseen, has left a singularly rich legacy of faith and friendship and of the possibilities of absolutely realizing, in daily life, the high ideals to which he gave unfaltering alle-giance. Mr. Brunton's name is most familiar to the readers of the "Banner." For a long time nearly every number has been enriched by his contributions of poetry and of poetic and uplifting prose. The one special affirmation that may be made of Mr. Brunton is that he was not disobedient unto the Heavenly Vision. He followed "The Gleam." His life was essentially one that was constantly "moving to melody." The spiritual life is not entered into only by the "gateway of death. Its condition is not merely the negative one of being freed from the physical body, but the positive one of realizing and achieving the life of the spirit. Every time that one controls' the impatient word or thought; that he realizes the close ties of friendship and social relations; that he is as careful in guarding the interests of others as his own; every variety of conquest of the higher and nobler forces is an entrance on the spiritual life. For all progress is a process of perpetual evolution. The "material" and the spu cannot be regarded as two separate and utterly distinctive states with fixed bound aries; they are-no more separated than are light, heat, and electricity; or than ice water, vapor, and ether. Condense a clone floating in the sky, and we have water; condense the water by intense cold, and we have solid ice; melt the ice by moderate heat and there is again water; apply greater heat, and there is steam or vap still, greater, and the vapor becomes invisible, because it is still more refined Spirit and matter are in the relation of cause and effect. Matter is the manifesta-The entire material world, tion of spirit. as we call it, is the manifestation of the spiritual world. All this part of life is experimental. It is the rehearsal before the play, the tuning of the instruments before the concert. We are learning how to begin to live and to realize how inexhaustible are the treasures of the spiritual world. "The kingdom of God for any soul is that

The close of the temporary physical sojourn is the entering into a more positive and real-and radiant life, the continuity unbroken and rich, with all the wealth of intellectual and spiritual treasure that has been gathered here. It is as logical to begin new studies, to enter on new achieve-ments, at seventy as at seventeen. One does not die because of death. The mere change of form has no power over the spiritual being who has been sojourning here, except to liberate the energy and to give it the stimulus of new and finer conditions. No life is so fortunate that it is free from difficulties and perplexity. A truer reading would, indeed, be that no life is so unfor tunate as to be free from these, for the soul gains the strength of the hardship it overcomes, and thus its hardship is good rather than ill fortune. That he who will keep on, true to the highest ideal that is revealed to him, through good report or evil report, through happiness or hardship, through delights or difficulties,-regarding these as purely incidental matters, as we regard a stormy day as a mere incident in nature he it is who enters on the spiritual life, now and here.

loves truth and duty more than comfort luxury," said Bishop Brooks.

There often seems to be a curiously erroneous conception as to the nature of spirituality; and it is not infrequently held to be mere passivity and negation rather than purpose and positive energy. An amiable person who drifts harmlessly in life; wno lives in the constant attitude of accepting God's will; who is resigned, so to speak, and regards resignation as a moral virtue,-of such an one his friends ofter remark that, although he contributes little to the progress of others or himself, he is yet a person "of great spirits slity." Now while these virtues may, and certainly do enter into the spiritualization of life, they cannot alone represent that achievement nor constitute it.

Spirituality is force. It is the most potent, the most resistless, the most allconquering force in the universe. It is executive and creative. It does something It achieves and accomplishes. Its achieve ment may be seen in many various direc-It may take the form of such work tions. for humanity as that of religious ministry of educational reform, of endeavor to embody new ideas in the social order: or building a railroad across the continent, inventing the ocean cable, or working out the problem of wireless telegraphy. In any event, spirituality includes spiritual energy. which is force, and which manifests itself as power.

It is not enough to pray that the king dom of heaven may come. There is some thing to do to contribute to this result. The kingdom of heaven is to be built up out of hope and belief and endeavor and It is not to be bought, but to be love. It may begin in one's own room, made even in one's own mind, It must begin there if it is to work outwardly. It manifests itself in a home, in a comm unity. .It manifests itself in a man's own life.

Nor is this manifestation seen in "a calm and indolent ease." It is seen both in achievement and in creating conditions for achievement. It is seldom that the work one desires to do can be found; it must be made. Vacant places do not wait for some created ou of new combinations of circumstances and conditions by the power of spiritual energy. This creation, however, is by no means that of outward inquiry or visible seeking. Its work lies far deeper, and consists in an understanding of the law. All afe is twofold: it has its ethereal and its physical side Before any purpose or plan is precipitated into the outer and objective world, it mus be controlled, shaped, determined, in the ethereal world. All this ethereal atmos phere is plastic, and out of it spiritua energy can create the very conditions essen tial to fulfilment. Monsieur Sabatler, the author of that great study of the life of St. Francis of Assisi, has recently said that no one thing is more needed in the world than a restate ment of Christianity, and there can be no question but that the great demand of the day is a larger grasp of the truth regarding the relations between God and man. The Incarnation was but to teach the way, the condition anywhere in the universe when truth, and the life, yet so overlaid has it it seeks and obeys the highest, when it been with theological controversy that the sublime lesson itself has been obscured and

· · · · · · · · · · ·

shoume lesson itself has been obscired and not infrequently totally collipsed to the vis-ion of man. The ablest thought of the day is engaged with this provider, and its solu-tion is to lie-does lie-in an increasing mass of testimony and of evidence impossible to doubt, that of the modern revela-tion of spiritual truth which reveals the nature of the relation between man and God and between the physical and the spiritual worlds. This revelation is coming to us in the guise of actual and demonstrable facts; in evidence that would bear its due weight to all intelligent minds in any other con-nection, and should not the less in this trend of inquiry.

To this revelation, Mr. Brunton contributed in the most valuable manner. To it he gave the force of his scholarly culture, of his power as a Christian minister, and of his beautiful and winning personality. Life to him was not a matter of achievement in possessions,-neither of fame nor of gain; it was to him-Opportunity. He found the significance of living in the op-portunity to serve, to minister. Never was there more realized in any human life the essential truth that the object in living is not to be ministered unto-but to minister. than in the daily experience of William Brunton. In nearly all the ethical literature of the day .- magazines and newspapers,-of his own church, and those representing a still wider and more inclusive spiritual ideal, his work constantly appeared.

Within the week immediately following his transition to the higher life, there came under the eye several publications in which more than one contribution of his appeared. A sonnet from his pen that is in the March number of "Practical Ideals" is so absolutely an unconscious autobiography that I must beg to quote it here:

Once in the ages came a soul so sweet That nothing evil in this bosom lay: He walked in peace and love the comme way; And mingled with the tide in home and

To make their lives with usefulness com plete give new beauty to the every day. " show the helpfulness for which we And pray

And give the graciousness to actions flect

And he abides the image of the man. The royal man, all men at heart would be, His light of love would all of darkness bar So that the good of all the world could see Could love in life-his love thus come to view

My friend, it would transfigure me and

The beautiful uplifting with which Mr Brunton's life was characterized manifested itself in countless daily acts and expressions of sympathy and of kindness. He was the ideal finend, the wise and tender counselor And, indeed, it is in these little acts of thoughtful remembrance that life finds its sweetest fruition. Well did Boyle O'Reilly express this truth in the lines:

What is the real good?'

- "What is the real good?" I asked in a musing mood. 'Order,' said the law court: 'Knowledge,' said the sche 'Truth,' said the wise man; 'Pleasure,' said the fool; 'Love,' said the maiden; 'Breedom,' said the dreame; 'Freedom,' said the dreame;

mer

Sunset and evening star And one clear call for me; And may there be no moanin When I put out to sea. naning of the bat

. ... Twilight and evening bell-And after that the dark: And may there be no sadness of farewell When I embark."

The world is the better for the sojourn in it of William Brünton, poet, friend, min-ister, and exquisite interpreter of divine realities. His fine literary gifts, his intellectual force and grace were all consecrated to the simple, quiet aid of humanity. He was curiously devoid of any self-consciousness. He radiated his best to every one,as the sun shines. "The solar system has no anxiety about its reputation," said Emerson, and Mr. Brunton was as entirely without any thought of personal fame, although recognition and sympathy were expressibly dear to him. Sensitive, refined, with the utmost delicacy of feeling in every way, his only demand of life was to serve the higher ideals. There are no words to express the exalted beauty and the loveli ness of his character. An angelic presence has been among us and is now withdrawn from the visible world. But only nearer and more impressive is his spiritual presence now released from its physical en vironment. The lesson of his life may well ome to us in the words of Amiel .- "Be swift to love! Make haste to be kind!" white soul in the garden of God!"

All life shall be purer and nobler and nore generous and tender in sympathy and because of the sojourn love here of the "white soul" of our beloved friend, Revernd William Brunton.

The Brunswick, Boston.

The Webs We Weave.

Mary K. Prur

GENEROSITY

Brother Brown, you know the Widow Jones' house burned last night, with every thing in it. As she's a member of our church, I thought I'd come over and see what you thought about our getting up a subscription for her," said Deacon Smith to another Deacon,-the wealthiest man in his church:

Well, Brother Smith, I suppose sor thing will be expected of the church, but I don't believe in acting too hastily in these matters. Today is Thursday, and I think it's better to wait till after praver meeting omorrow night, then lay it before the members and see what they decide

You know she has no relatives here, continued Deacon Smith, "and I fon't suppose she has much money Perhaps we ought at least to find a place for her to stay till something can be done. Your house is large: I wonder if ou couldn't take her in.

ke her m.". "I!" exclaimed Deacon Brown, "why man alive, you're crazy! Have them three boys of hers trampin' over my carpets and scratchin' up the furniture? Well, 1 guess not. Besides, I don't believe in encouridleness. Of course the insurance agin' ompany 'll build up her house again, but she'll have to go to work.

As far as that goes, she always has worked since she came here to live," said Deacon Smith lunches to the High School boys and girls and did plain sewing besides. She's a worker all right, but something ought to be done now, while they're waiting for the house to be built. Why, all their clothes were burned. They've nothing except what they had on their backs." "Now don't you get excited." replied beacon Brown. "I'll bet she's got a nice Deacon Brown. little sum saved, givin' them lunches right along for the last five years. Don't you worry. You wait till tomorrow night, when we all get together and can talk it over. She ain't sufferin', you can be sure of that. "I wish I were sure. But perhaps you're right, so I won't say anything more till we all meet and see what can be done." saying, Deacon Smith walked on, and the conversation ended. Meantime, where was the Widow Iones On a little hill, two blocks away from where her house had burned, lived an Irish "sec tion hand," with his wife and five children The night of the fire he had been roused by his wife shouting, "Pat, wake up, Begorra the Widdy Jones's house is ablaze an' not a fireman in sight." Soon Pat was out with his boys, running toward the house and shouting, "Fire!' while his wife and the girls "tidied up a bit," to receive the "Widdy Jones" and her family, whom they knew Pat would bring back. And here, occupying the two best rooms in the house, while Pat's children slept on "shakedowns" in the attie, she and her children were found by Deacon Brown when he called the following Saturday to bring the ten dollars which had been donated by the church, together with the message of condolence, and the hope that she might be able to find something to do till her house was rebuilt, sent with the He was much chagrined and rather offended to find that through the efforts of Pat and a few others of the poorer class, her present needs had been upplied, and a place found near the High School where the business of serving lunches was to be resumed the following Monday

So it seems to be nearly always. True harity is found among the poor. Their canty fare will be freely divided to meet he wants of one more needy, their few overings for cold winter nights stretched cover another. Why is this? Is it beause of their generosity that they are Or is it, that never having enough frood of this world's goods to save anything, they never learn to value money save for what at will bring immediately? Or, is it than, overty develops greatness of character? Whatever the cause, it is a fact that frequently while the well-to-do are pondering as to whether they can afford to give toward this or that case of want, the poor man cuts his potato and loai in half and hares it without a thought.

Thrift must be learned, and indiscrimmate giving does as much harm as niggardhness; but poor Pat and his family felt a glow from their generous act which never warmed the frozen heart of Deacon Brown nd those like him

Have we ever felt it ourscines?

Are we "Pats," or "Deacon Browns?" No doubt we are generous-with advice, and our old clothes.

Magnanimous? Certainly we are,-when ome one is looking on with whom we think it will count in our favor.

But what are we in our hearts, down mler the surface, where no eye seeth?

The generous man, however, is some-

He can torgive a foe. He will overlook the misdeeds of the llen and stoop to lift him up.

He has even been known to speak well of an enemy, and to aid a criminal in his effort to reform. The generous man has sometimes been known to acknowledge his own faults, to overlook injuries and to do various other noble and high-minded acts.

Generosity is an attribute of character too often lacking, but when found is ever allied with other noble qualities.

One cannot imagine a generous man guilty of any petty, mean, sneaking act, His outlook upon life is broad.

He does not carry a mental microsco through which he searches for flaws in his fellow men; nor for defects in the universe, but, with a clearness of vision and calm-ness of judgment which can see and weigh more than one side of a question, he goes his way through life smoothing the paths of others, as oil stills troubled waters.

'Home,' said the sage; 'Fame,' said the soldier; 'Equity,' the seer. Spake my heart full sadfy: The answer is not here. The answer is not nere. Then within my bosom Softly this I heard:-'Each heart holds the secret: Kindness is the word.'"

In the late afternoon of Saturday, March 10, 1906, Mr. Brunton passed on, after only brief illness, to the life more abundant. On Tuesday, March 13, his family, and nearer friends gathered in the little Chapel of the Forest Hills Crematory for the simple memorial service conducted by his friend and brother minister, Rev. Edward A. Horton, who spoke with appreciative beauty of the work and the character of Mr. Brunton, as paster, friend, and citizen. A wealth of flowers, and the poetic music of "Lead, Kindly Light," and Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar" offered their solace; and every heart felt the beauty and the consecration of this transition into. higher life of which his own, while here was so divine an interpretation.

THE VOICE OF SILENCE.

Homer Darling Trask.

My Soul began to waken fast, Revealing truth to me at last Of immortality. God's vast universe was mine, The school to learn all things divine, In earth, air, sky and ses.

"I have to work like a slave," said a woman, weary with her inswer came from a mon ade: "Oh, but you can w -Frances Willard.

WILLIAM BRUNTON. John F. Sta

O chivalrous defender of the right Thou sweet-toned poet with a w

2

heart, Who, in life's battle for the weaker part, E'er led the onset e'en with all thy might, Nor held thy hand through all the weary fight, Until thy falchion, flashing with the art iders have, made routed foe de That Le brought the daybreak to dispel the And brow

As sweet and gentle as a woman, thou; As tender as a mother with her child; The quip and jest e'er hovered round thy And love beamed sweetly from thy blue eye mild

Wealth and corruption, boastful in their pride, Lost worthy foe, when William Brunton died, Perfect Praise. A PARABLE.

Stuart Young

(Written for the Banner of Light.) A day in the life of Saint John the Divine as described by Esther, a woman of Beth saida, whose child had been healed by th dead Christ, Time A. D. 36.

A day I mind-a sweet day in harvesting me. John the son of Zebedee had bee with us since noon, and was now with little David in the garden. Reuben and I were at the open casement, hand in hand, and Stephen was romping with youthful glee on the green sward.

the green sward.⁴ It was evening, and the red gold of the sunset flooded the open spaces. Broad shafts of the ruddy light lay among the hoary trunks of the fig-trees: and sifting downwards between the quivering leaves of the acacia, it fell in a sparkling shower around the rustic form on which the two divinies one so extrang and healthfill the disciples—one so strong and healthful, the other so weak, young and wistful—sat. Out in the glorious sunshime the fisher-children played, and the air was filled with children played, and the air was filled with the music of their merry shouts and laugh-ter. And it seemed to me, as I watched them, smiling, that if I chose I might leave my body resting on the window-seat, and leap out into the glowing warmth of the sump fields and play, too-a glad child among the children, laughing and shouting with the merriest. For I was a child still, --in my heart it was noon, because I had learned from Christ the secret of all good--that secret which has never been young and can never be old, which comes neither early nor late, which has the power to stretch a nor late, which has the power to stretch a moment into eternity, and possesses all the ages now,-PEACE.

David was leaning back in John's arms and from time to time, he raised his white and from time to time, he raised an white hand between his eyes and the sunset and looked at the rosy lines traced by the light between his small transparent fingers. Sometimes he would gravely watch his little friends at play, or look steadfastly into the blue eyes of his companion; but for the most part he gazed out steadily towards the glowing west, with eyes that seemed to see something far within the flaming gateway of the durg our of the dying sun. Presently his wistful eyes, turned in my direction and he beckoned with his finger.

I quickly approached "Sit with us, Esther, dear." he said pleadingly. I gently stroked the soft hair of my little

I gently stroked the soit hair of my little charge, pushing it backward from the broad white brow, and passing its pale gold through my fingers. His dark eyes gazed at me with a yearn-ing pathos in their unfathomable depths, and I asked earnestly: "What dost thou think about, David, when thou sittest so still and silent?" His voice trembled as he answered: "I try to remember." "What dost thou try to remember?" David's eyes began to shine with a

David's eyes began to shine with a strange light, and his lips faltered as he

"I do not know, Esther-I never know! I try so hard to remember, but it never comes back, and I do not know what it is. comes back, and I do not know what it is. I asked Stephen to help me yesterday, but he could not-he told me to ask John. I do not achow what it is. Sometimes I ask the flowers to tell me, and I think they try; but I can never quite understand what they want to say. I thought when I beckoned I can never quite understand what they want to say. I thought when I beckoned to the that I saw a great angel with glit-tering wings but there where the sky is so rosy, and I hoped that he was coming to tell me; but afterwards I thought must have been only a cloud, for it melted away into the sunlight."

He paused abruptly, and then his eyes sparkled and his little finger was uplifted-"Hush!" full notes of a bird's se

BANNER OF LIGHT.

the result of pure imagination, or imp memory. I will tell thee what I dreamed."

His

"His voice took on a moving pathos, and his eyes fixed on the dying king of day were moist with the intensity of his earnestness. "I remember ... I imagine ... I dream of a Garden of Delight, full of sun-shine and joy, the songs of innumerable birds and the laughter of children, but no garden of this sad world can compare with it for heauty: no mortal for has ever with it for beauty; no mortal foot has ever pressed its magic soil; and the children playing therein are not the children of earth, for the light of their smiles is un-broken by any rainbow-radiance of tears, and their laughter is free from any note of advance of homelande of pairs adness or knowledge of pain. "And I remember that I, too, have played

"And I remember that 1, too, have played in this garden—a child ignorant of sorrow, and pain, and sin; and as I begin to see more clearly the memory of my earthly troubles fades from my mind, and I live for a short time a life of gladness in the beau-tiful Garden of Delight.

titul Garden of Delight. "I was one among many children, but although I played and laughed and sang with all the joyful company, there was a girl-child who was my friend; and whenever a game was played we would wind our arms about each other's necks, and would wander away together to listen to the singing birds or to find new and wonderful flow-ers. Sometimes we would sit hand in hand beneath the blossom-laden trees, and gaze beneath the blossom-laden trees, and gaze upward through the delicate traceries of pink and white into the infinite blue above. But wherever we went, and whatever we did, we doubled our joys by sharing them, and found our chiefest delight in being torether "Now in the Garden of Delight, with us children, were many tall and beautiful peo-ple, marvelously and transcendently beauti-ful, shining with a glorious light, who were constantly passing to and fro. These Shin-ing Ones always seemed full of business, their movements were swift, and they for their movements were swilt, and they seldom loitered on their way: they were able to will their passages to other spheres, and were constantly passing through the air like flashing meteors. We children knew of the existence of other Gardens, but ours was the Garden of the King, and were we able, we would not have desired to pass hence.

"The Perfected Beings were never too busy to smile upon us, or to exchange words of kindness with us; and they were always ready to answer our questions. "My companion and I had long treasured a secret wonder in our minds, which gradu-ally grew deeper and stronger until it became the chiel object of our thoughts and of our talks when we were alone together. This wonder was the sound of a faint music which was ever in our ears. Yet it was not the music of children's laughter, nor the singing of birds, nor the hum of insect-wings; it was low and sweet, like the tones of a great organ played far away. We had often asked our companions if they, too, of a great organ player an away. often asked our companions if they, too, heard the music, but most of them answered 'No,' though now and then one of them would confess to hearing something: but none of them seemed to be interested, so little Patience and I decided to question Shining Ones.

"One day, hearing the rustle of wings, we ounded out from a bower of white roses and cried

Tell us, O tell us, the meaning of the Music

"When we spoke the radiance which learned from the Face and Form of the bining One grew still brighter, and he gleamed said said: "Dost thou often hear the music?" "And we answered. "Always. Once we only heard it when we were very still: but now it sounds in our ears while we are at play, and we are compelled to stop thaf we may listen. Wilt thou tell us the secret of the music?" may listen. Wilt thou tell us the secret the music?" "Lavill; for it is time," replied the Angel.

But ye must both come with me.

But ye must both come with me." "Then a supernal rapture filled our hearts, for the Shining One gave a hand to each, and led us swiftly away. "How far, we traveled or how long we were upon the way I do not remember, for the Angel talked to iss as we went, and we were glad to listen; moreover, the sound of the music grew stronger and ever fuller as we advanced. "Presently we reached the amit of the

"Presently we reached the mit of the "Presently we reached the same of the King's Garden', but there was no wall on the inner side of the garden nor any coun-try at all beyond, for we stood on the edge of space and looked down. "Efternal and bottomless space yawned

"Eternal and bottomiess space yawneou below, blue as the ether above; and we stood between the unfathomable heights and depths. But we felt no fear, because the Shining One held us by the hand. "Slowly the blue spaces darkened while we gazed, and from the depths below, and from the heights above came the sound of that michty music

That mighty music. - "Then for the first time we knew sorrow, for now that we could hear more plainly brew that the music was not perfect.

Who is The Teacher? ngel tu igure of a Gre n for a of a Great King was seen, a company of people surrounding me, let us go to them,' said the

"Come, let us go to them,' said the Shin-ing One. "'Who are they?' we asked. "They are Those who Know. These are they who accompany the King when He goes to teach the Perfect Praise.'" David had been listening breathlessly, his tyes flashing with excitement. He now asked eagerly: "John, was Iesus the King?"

asked eagerly: "John was Jesus the King?" John bowed his head in silent assent. "And didst thou join the Band, and is that why thou art His Disciple?".-John pressed the child's forehead with his lips, and continued his parable in his musical voice. "And we all three walked hand in hand "And we all three walked hand in hand along the margin of the Garden of Delight. "And then Patience and I knew that we were approaching one of the walls of the King's Garden; but although we had never seen a wall before—for the Garden is wide and we had much space to play in—we. did not look at it now because our eyes were dazzled by the beauty of the shining gate-way which stood before us. The gate it-self, which shone like the sun, was divided down the middle into two leaves, glowing with rainbow-tinted hues,—and the leaves with rainbow-tinted hus, and the leaves opened inwards. Over the gate there was a golden instrument, and whenever the leaves of the gate swung inwards to admit a white-robed beautiful figure, a ripple of melody proclaimed a welcome proclaimed a welcome. "What a good land must be beyond that gate?' I exclaimed. "The gate is not so beautiful on the other side," answered our Angel-Guide. "And as he spoke the leaves of the gate swung in, and we caught sight of the other sides. We saw that they were made of stone, which was green and mouldy, and half-covered with moss, and the mould and moss almost hid from sight some writing which had been cut into the aroue.

which had been cut into the stone. "'What is the writing?' we asked." "'It is the welcome of the instrument put into words: the words of our King: "Come unto. Me, all ye that labor and are heavy-laden and L will give you rest". But laden, and I will give you rest." But the people on the other side forget to keep the stones clean, and very few can read the writing now." "But why do they forget if they have to come thereoff the store of the store."

o come through the gate at last?

The Shining One answered: 'Only Those who Know come through this gate-only those who have learned the lesson of the Perfect Praise.' "\'And the others?' we whispered, fearfully. "They spoil the Music,' replied the Angel, and a thrill of pain vibrated in his

ce. Then the tears gathered in our eyes, and "Then the tears gathered in our eyes, and we knew a deeper sadness. "The Shining One led. us on once more, but now he left the margin and led us along by the wall which bounded the Garden of Delight. And presently we came to an-other gateway, and the gate opened out-whrds, and it was decked with sweet flow-"trs. Around it stood many of the Angels, and with them were a number of children. Now when we saw these children, we knew them to be companions of our games, who, one by one, at different times, had vanished from our midst. And we said with a little from our midst. And we said with a little in our tones ear

"'What is this gate, and why are these children here?"

"What is this gate, and why are these children here?" "This gate has many names,' he said. On the other side it is called the Gate of Birth: we call it the Gate of Forgetfulness, for when the children pass through this gate they must sooner or later forget the joys of this life. These are children who like you have heard the music, and have longed for the Perfect Praise. They are going through the gate to the only place where discord is heard—the Sorrowful Star. If they make their wings of love, they will be amongst Those who Know, and the in-struments will welcome them back as Shin-ing Ones. If not—" "They will help to spoil the harmonies.' said the Angel. "'Is it a dangerous thing to go through the Gate of Birth?' we asked. "Yes,' he replied; 'but it is a glorious thing to add a sweet note to the Perfect Praise."" thing Prais I looked at Patience; Patience looked at me. "We will gd' we cried together, "And he said. I know it. None who have listened to the music can go back to their clear.

"We then asked the Shining One to teach us what we must do when we had passed through the gateway; but he only shook his head, and said, 'I cannot. I can only tell you to remember.' "How shall we remember?' we asked. "'It will be very hard,' he said, 'for on d up into ber the child. I looked clapped his little hands in glee: Il remember now! I shall remem-"he cried, exultingly. time he was silent, then he said uiely: "John, did'st thou know Patience; did'st thou find her here?" John shook his head. "I cannot be sure." he answered, "but I think I knew her, and I think she remem-bered me." A great light shone in his cyes. For some time there was silence while the sun slowly sunk to rest, and the birds twittered their "goodbys" among the leaves. "Tell me about the end, John," at last said David. "Thy friend went first?" "I can only imagine what the meeting will be like," said John. "I think that I spreen and mossy with age and neglect. As will stand before the slab of stone, which is green and mossy with age and neglect. As I stand there I will hear the sound of fall-ing tears like the patter of raindrops when a summer shower falls upon leafy trees. But when I would turn to discover the

But when I would turn to discover the cause of so much weeping, I will be hin-dered by the sight of some half-hidden let-ters carved in the old stone, and it will seem to me that before doing aught else. I must remove the moss and read the writing. "And I will stretch out my hand and lay it upon the stone. It will probably feel as cold as ice, but only for a moment; then suddenly it will split down the middle from top to bottom, and fall away from me like the double leaves of a folding-door. I will pass through the opening, the ripple of music will ring a welcome, and the doors will fall together behind me. "For a moment I will pause with the will 'fall together behind me. "For a moment I will pause with the weight of a question in my heart: and as I stand thus, a woman-form, clothed in-white, will step out from among a company of people surrounding a radiant Figure which I shall at once recognize, and her glad wel-come will answer the question at my heart. "We will meet, and wind our arms around torch otheris, mach as in a left times, and "We will meet, and wind our arms around each other's necks, as in old times; and walking 'thus through the flower be-starred meadows we shall approach the verge of the fathomless gulf. "Infinite space above and infinite space below!---and from the heights above and from the depths below will come the sound of a michty music.

a mighty music. "And my companion-soul and I shall lool

"'It shall yet be Perfect Praise."

"And,-perhaps, while we stand and listen, harsh and jarring note--a hideous discord -will rush upward and shatter the celestial "At the sound, we shall feel the power of motion growing within us, and we shall say "Shall we go and teach them how to sing that note of the Praise God?" "And we shall say again together:

"Love is the song of the Christ, and Faith is the harmony of the Creator." "And together we shall pass, side by side, to the sorrowful world, and invisible yet powerful we shall teach the Eternal Fruths David turned his shining eyes on mine.

and a thrill of happiness was in his voice as said

"I am quite content now. Esther. I shall remember very soon now."

The Dr. Hodgson Compact.

I have read with great interest the nu-merous articles that have appeared recently in Spiritualistic and other papers concerning the promise made by Dr. Hodgson to Mrs. Piper and am of the humble opinion that the genuine work intended by the control of Dr

Piper and am of the humble opinion that the genuine work intended by the control of Dr. Hodgson at the time he made that com-pact, which commenced the moment his spirit passed beyond the veil, is being car-ried on in just the manner that was in-tended and the results will be contiless thousands of times more beneficial than they would have been had his spirit re-turned to Mrs. Piper immediately. First, we must consider that Dr. Hodg-son, a spirit, and Dr. Hodgson, a spirit clothed with a mortal body, are, while really the same individual, greatly different. What looked to the great man an easy con-tract to fulfil looks different to him now. Had the spirit of Dr. Hodgson returned immediately and conversed with Mrs. Piper it might have had a discouraging effect on thousands of honest students and investi-gators of Spiritualism and would have cer-mines with all kinds of slurs on the possi-bility of the return and the authenticity of the communication, and the thousands of others who are eagerly hoping for some little word from a dear departed friend might have been influenced by these same newspaper articles, much to the detriment. of Spiritualism, and have caused many a-heartache in more than one quarter of the globe. The entire world is awaiting development globe.

The entire world is awaiting development

MARCH 24, 1906.

e dear old Advent zy. I myself was believer in the full of the shelt which the (the with the Baptist the fire. This old friend of mine promised to come back immediately if he could and prove Spiritualism true and our belief false, and I went so far as to go to his grave in the cemetery at all times of night looking for his return, or I might more truthfully say, proving to my Spiritualist friend that he was wrong in his belief. Mr. W—-'s spirit never returned. I be-came an unbeliever as far as immortality is concerned and drifted about on the tide of unbelief conscious that there was a some-thing lacking. Years after (in 1897) I happened to be on the Cuban filbustering ship. Commodore wrecked-off the coast of Florida, all hands being lost except myself, Stephen Crane, the being lost except myself, Stephen Crane, the novelist, and Captain Murphy. I was in the last life boat that left the wreck. As we putted away it appeared to me I was

I had become broken down in health and was told that I must give up work and rest a few months. My financial condition would not allow a complete rest so I went from city to city up through Kentucky. Ohio and West Virginia, working a few days at a time as substitute on different papers and moving on to some other town. While thus engaged Editor Roy Naylor, of the Wheeling, West Virginia, Telegraph, assigned me to report a large Spiritualist of the wheeling, west virginia, leiegraph, assigned me to report a large Spiritualist gathering in the city. I made some slurring remark about ghost dances, etc./ and with my intelligent (?) nose in a curve of scorn hied me to the meeting. It happened that the only place I could get a seat was in the extreme rear of the hall and as I went to east murefit the medium. Mr. Way

Is it any wonder that I became an investigator and subsequent believer in Spirit-ualism? No living person in that city/or within a thousand miles of it, knew either -, or little Ida.

me. W----, or little Ida. I have wasted too much valuable space of the "Bannef" in my own personal ex-perience, but is it not possible that Dr. Hodgson's message will be received in just such an unlooked for manner as my mes-

I have since learned the full particulars

I have since tearned the full particulars of the Commodore wreck and my salvation by one of those who was drowned. He came to me at a trumpet scance in Jackson-ville, Florida, and not only explained full particulars of the wreck, but also told me of private conversation we had while afloat in a ten foot dingy after his spirit had taken its flight. True Spiritualists should take courage by True Spiritualists should tast the dogson-the criticisms of sceptics on the Hodgson-Piper affair, for it will all result in good to the Cause see love.' Spiritualism is not a belief like a church creed, but a knowledge. C. B. Montgomery.

Were we to believe nothing but what we could perfectly comprehend, not only our stock of knowledge in all the branches of learning would be shrunk to nothing, but even the affairs of common life could not be carried on.—Ex.

woman-and that means a woman who has consideration for the whole world, and whose life is governed by the golden rule: "Do unto others as you would be done by."-Ex.

You will find that the mere resolve not to be useless, and the honest desire to help other people, will, in the quickest and most delicate ways, also improve yourself.—Ex.

Every act we do is full of the power of

rived

me. W

sages

		Many notes which were clear, and true		in the Hougson-Fiper anali, and Dr. Houg-	by our own deeds; and after we have lost	1 up from the shade of the hg-trees,-rose	reached us ringing through this huge	the secret of the music lives in the breath		them from view and from memory they suddenly up like a fountain of sweet music,	sounding-board of space; but many a harsh	of the anth hirder and at its hest the hir-		reappear and claim as a right the mastery palpitating on the silence in drops of purest	sounding-board of space; but many a narsh	of the earth-birds; and at its best, the nu-	contract, and we may all rest assured that	over our fateSelected.
	melody, and as suddenly fell and ceased.	and jarring sound, and many a piercing,	man heart gives out a faint echo of Crea-	in good time the result will be satisfactory	orer our mile. Deretted.
	"There!" whispered the child; "I thought	wailing shrick came, too, and hurt the ears	tion's "Fraise God" to the Eternal. Au	to all true Spiritualists.
	I was just going to remember! I thought	of those who listened, and there was an	these beautiful things-birds, flowers, fruits,		People grow old by thinking themselves the bird would tell me. I think it meant to,	undertone of sadness to all the music; but	the sun, the clouds-will be trying to re-	found conditions much different than he ex-	old. When they reach the age of forty, but I could not quite understand. Perhaps	we did not know it was sadness, because as		pected to and his return at this time may	fifty or sixty they imagine they look like it will try again presently." .	yet we had never been sad. But now for	them you can never quite forget.'	be an utter impossibility for reasons that he"	others of the same age, and that they soon.
	John gathered him close in his arms, and	the first time tears began to gather in our	"'We will go tagether,'" we said.	without a doubt will in due time explain.
	'I could see the tears thick upon his dark.		"'You may start together, and God will	Again, it may be that Dr. Hodgson has	will be useless, unfit for work, and unable to lashes.	"'What is it?'	place you near each other,." said the An-	taken too much for granted concerning his	perform their duties. As surely as they
	"Shall I ever remember, John?" the child	"The Angel answered: "It is the Begin-			think this it will come true, for thought
. *	asked again.	ning of Praise."	led us towards the gate.	son, and that certain person's power to re-	is creativeEx.	14
	"Soon, David, thou wilt understand all,		"The gate opened; black air surged in;	ceive that communication.	a management of the second of the second and remember. But thou must never for-		all became dark; a great fear filled my		Let us surround our souls with all good .	6
		God!" rising from all creation to the High-	breast.	matters of this kind, and while my personal	things, good companionship, good books, remember."	could rising from an creation to the right		affairs are not of such world-wide import-	good work, for these strengthen and en-	2
1		"'But it hurts our ears,' we said.	hands were torn violently apart, and we		courage the good side of our life Selected.
	"Will it be very long?"		uttered a bitter cry.	they do in my mind prove the one great	course me good not of out me oriected.
	John stroked the child's hair, and an-			fact that promises made by people on the		2
363	swered slowly	yet. In a little time God will send The Ex-	Down, down inrough space I passed,	fact that promises made by people on the	Make a little fence of trust
	"Thou must be patient, David."	ample to teach them how to sing,' he re-		earth plane are not always kept by those	Around today:	12
	He looked up with a new hope shining		through me, then	who have passed beyond.	Fill the space with loving work in his face, and cried:	"'But surely this is not fit for the High-	"I opened my eyes and wondered, I gid	I was brought up to attend a "hard shell"	- And therein stay.
	"Dost thou not remember?"	est!' we said.	not know where I was, and I burst into	Baptist church and Sunday school, and	i i i i i i i i i i i i i i i i i i i	1
	John shook his head.		tears because I could not remember where	from my earliest childhood have greatly en-	Look not through the sheltering bars	20
343	"Thou canst not have my memory," he		I had come from.	joyed reading my Bible. I now find that	Upon tomorrow.	m
-	said. "Everybody must remember for him-	hear the End of Praise.'	"But when I looked up I saw through	no one denomination that I had ever heard	God will help thee bear what comes	2
32	self. And I could not tell thee if I would,	"When will it be perfect?' we asked.	my tears the face of a woman looking	about knew it all, and finally became com-	Of joy or sorrow.
163	David, for I do not perfectly remember-I	"When The Teacher has finished His	down upon me-dark, loving eyes gazed	pletely carried away with the Second Ad-	OI JOY OF BOFFOW,	10 only dream. All our grandest thought is		into mine-she clasped me to her heart, and	ventist doctrine, as so ably proven by a	Mary Frances Butta
		the second of the second states and all sold		And the second sec	in the second se and the second	the second se	and the second	and the second	112

The Upward Bising of a Noted Man.

J. M. Peables, M.D.

(Written for the Banner of Light.)

In 1887 he left Louisiana and settled in San Diego, Cal., where for many years he served on the directorate of the Texas and Pacific Railway. A few years later, Presi-dent Arthur appointed him Surveyor-Gen-eral of Montana. He served with Senator Clark as Representative of Montana at the World's Cotton Exposition, 1885, in New Orleans. Here he attended the Spiritualist meetings and contributed largely to their support. It was here that I first had the pleasure and honor of meeting him. In 1800, 6Gen. Harris was appointed by Judge Knowles of the U. S. Court to the receiver-ship of the Shohomish & Tramway mines, and took up his residence in Butte to per-sonally supervise these valuable mines, where he resided until his departure for the higher life.

where he resided until his departure for the higher life. Gen. Harris was, in the best sense of that word, a manly man, a member of the Ma-sonic Fraternity, and connected with sev-eral benevolent institutions. He was excepsonic Fraternity, and connected with sev-eral benevolent institutions. He was excep-tionally companionable, and though 81 years of age, these years seemed to ripen his keen humor, deepen the kindness of his manner, and widen and clarify his business foresight. His friendship for his friends grew stronger with his increasing years. His strong per-sonality and unabated enthusiasm in the-line of human advancement and uplift seemed to keep him young and vigorous. Upon reaching Butte on my way home from California last year by the way of Portland, Seattle and Kokane, he met us (Dr. Thurber and myself) at the railway station in Butte at 2 o'clock in the morn-ing, and such a h#mdshaking.would do any mortal good. He attended our Spiritualist meetings in Butte, contributed liberally, and jokingly said: "Doctor, I have all of your books in my library, and I think upon the whole you are a better writer than you are a speaker," and laughingly I agreed with him. The truth is, I am tired of platform-talking, because for sixty-five years I have been before the public in publite, halls, at graves, and upon platforms carpeted and uncarpeted, wriggling and squeaky, telling the story of evolution and immortality. The body seeks rest.

OUR CONVERSATION UPON SPIRITUALISM AND DEATH.

During our stay in Butte, the guests of During our stay in Butte, the guess of Gen. Harris, we had frequent conversations upon the signs of the times, the march of progressive thought, the nature of death, and the upward unfoldings beyond this in-evitable event. During one of these social sittings, Dr. Thurber was entranced by a very logical intelligence, greatly adding to the interest of the occasion. Upon our devery logical intelligence, greatly adding to the interest of the occasion. Upon our de-parture, the General, clasping and holding my hand, said: "Well, well, Doctor, we've enjoyed this meeting, and if we should not meet again in the flesh, we shall meet over there." There was silence for a few moments. The eyes of both were brim-ming with tears-emotions-with an un-spoken premonition. Another hand-clasp and we parted. He being several years the younger, strong and vigorous, little did I dream that he would pass the crystal river before me.

before me. His faith in the future, and his view of death were cheery and literally entrancing. I distinctly remember this remark of his: "When I came into this world, things had been prepared for me, and I've enjoyed the sunshine of more than three-score years, and so when I go over into the beyond, there will be friends awaiting my coming." Our last conversation upon death re-minded me of these words of Several distin-ruished writers:

guished writers: "If I had strength enough to hold a pen," said Sir William Hunter, "I would write how easy and delightful it is to die." "Children, as soon as I am released," convertion that an is were with with the A guilty conscience does not follow right ac-tion. It cannot, for it is not the legitimate fruit of righteousness. Discontent is there-fore always due to mistakes of the past. We see it in ourselves; we see it in others; we see it in whole nations—morally, socially and politically. and politically. The question then becomes: What of the Hour? Reversals or corrections are in order. In our own cult we frequently see the need of corrections. But what organ-ization of God's children is free from present heartaches or discontent for some error of the past?

What of the Hour ! Arthur F. Milton

<text><text><text><text>

The present is therefore the time to build. It is the only time we can acknowledge. The past is always dead and gone. There is In past is away dead and gone. There is no future, for when tomorrow comes it is the present again. Tomorrow will be to-day; and today is the joy or regret of yes-terday. Make today good with deeds wor-thy of record, and tomorrow will be sun-shine in spirit, whatever the prognostica-tions of the weather prophet shine in spirit, whatever the prognostica-tions of the weather prophet. Even death or disaster does not affect the absolutely contented soul. It is not accus-tomed to remorse or regret; therefore is not readily bowed down by sorrow or grief. The most selfish are the worst affected by grief—it being darkness added to gloom. The heart that will not be consoled is one without sunshine. Spiritual comfort is not accustomed to circulate in it—either for receiving or giving. The sweet influence of a spiritual love has never vibrated in the breast of its owner. The exalted percep-tion of an unselfish love is not there to up-lift and make strong in time of need. Ill use has been made of the hour and the fu-ture has prophesied a sorrowiul present.

We may be children of destiny, but we can pre-destine ourselves to happiness or misery by the way we conduct ourselves on the road thither. There is no prophecy in this, nor an inspiration of our special re-lignous code. Spicialized desting and a second ligious code. Spiritualism does not proph-esy further than to say that, "As we sow we shall reap," and which simple proposi-tion is manifest to every rational mind with-out exhortation or promise of reward or unsidenteet. Reason is our adjudicator; and with a Reason is our adjudicator; and with a little heart in the conference, the aspirant for tomorrow's good effects will not fail of reaping his' share of contentment. And what of the hour? Why, let simple right-cousness be the father confessor.

In many cases of Asthma' Piso's Cure gives relief that is almost equal to a cure.

Rights of Vaccination.

Father and Mother, you need not have your child vaccinated unless you wish to do so. Here is the Law of Exemption: "Any child who presents a certificate, signed by a registered physician, designated by the par-ent or guardian, that the physician has, at the time of giving the certificate personally examined the child and thethe is of the the time of giving the certificate personality examined the child and that he is of the opinion that the physical condition of the child is such that his health will be endan-gered by vaccination, shall not while such condition continues, be subject to the pro-visions of Section Six of chapter forty-four of the such that the such state of the proof the revised Laws of of the three Preced-ing sections of this chapter." You want to know just what this law means.

means. ist. It says Any Child. That means your child and it means all your children. Who presents a Certificate: that it has a certifi-cate to show. Signed by a Registered Physician. This means any physician who is registered anywhere in Massachusetts or any other place. It does not mean a physi-cian on the Board of Health only, or one annoited by the Board of Health or by so the child has a right to go to school any-way without vaccimation. In fact the Com-pulsory School Law acts upon the child first of all. The Computery Vaccination Law must give way before it, as it conflicts with must give way before it, as it conflicts with it. Some School Boards and Health Boards have said that Certificates of Exemption were not good unless signed or approved by the school doctor or the health doctor. This is not so. They have nothing to say about it. Also the law does not say that your child must be sickly. Also no teacher or master or doctor or anyone (else is allowed to ask what is the matter with the child that it cannot be vaccinated, or how long will it be before it can be vaccinated. These things are private between parents and the doctor they thoose. For further information address the Sec-retary of the Massachusetts Anti-Compul-sory Vaccination Society, 350 Massachusetts Ave., Boston.—Issued by the Mass. Anti-Compulsory Vaccination Society.

BANNER OF LIGHT.

Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

Use Allen's Poot-Ease. A powder to be shaken into the shoes. Your feet feel swollen, nervous and damp, and get tired easily. If you have aching feet, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It rests the feet and makes new or tight shoes easy. Cures aching, swollen, sweating feet, blis-ters and callous spots. Relieves chilblains, corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Try it today. Sold by all Druggists and Shoe Stores, 25 cents. Don't accept any substitute. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Not Difficult for the Little Girl.

Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott tells of a con-versation that once took place in a friend's house in Boston in which there were dis-cussed certain phenomena of the mind. Some one observed that it was a curious fact that no man could do orte thing and think of another think of another.

During the discussion a little girl of ten, he daughter of the host, was listening atthe

the daughter of the host, was listening at-tentively. "I can do one thing and think of an-other," she said. "What is it?" asked her father. "Well," she said, "it is very easy for me to say the Lord's Prayer and think of almost anything else I want to. I do it every night."-Harper's Weekly.

THE WRISTLING BOY

when the curtains of night, 'tween the dark and the light, Drop down at the set of the sun. And the toilers who roam to the loved ones come hon?e. As they pass by my window is one Whose coming I mark, for the song of the lark As it to come

As it joyously soars in the sky s no dearer to me than the notes, glad and free, Of the boy who goes whistling by

If a sense of unrest settles over my breast., And my spirit is clouded with care. It all flies away if it happens to stray Past my window awhistling an air. And I never shall know how much gladness

I owe To this joy of the ear and the eye. But I'm sure I'm in debt for much pleasure

I get To the boy who goes whistling by.

And this music of his, how much better it is Than to burden his life with a frown. For the toiler who sings to his purpose brings A hope his endersyn to crown. And whenever I hear his glad notes, full and clear

And whenever , clear, I say to myself I will try To make all of life with a joy to be rife, Like the boy who goes whistling by. Niran Watern Nixon Waterman.

Wonder Wheel Science Series.

This portfolio contains all that is actually necessary in the practical work of Astrology

1 copy of Astrology in a Nutshell, with character reading in the appendix. character reading in the appendix. 1 copy of Wonder Wheel, on tough pa-per, for easy reference to all of the geometrical or heliocentric laws of calendar, aspects, planetary rulings, zodiacal circles, years of life, plane-tary hours, clock hours, fixed stars, decanales, terms, etc., etc.

copy of Prof. Henry's Key, Guide and Lessons, for Horoscope Work, with law for American or English time, and all the necessary laws for reading the same.

copy of Tabula Magus, of planetary ferers of it; that is all I ung or old. earing down pains as fr in in the back and bow here, Notre Dame, Ind. in the spine, a desire to cry, hot flash d female complaint, then write to M est and full instructions. Like mysel

TO You

ork or one

Ald of a Physic

A plain envelope. Mothers and Daughters will learn of a sim Mothers and Daughters will learn of a sim Vice simple family remedy, which quite (gor. health and happiness result fr di-known ladies in your neigaborho-til-known ladies in your neigaborho-til-known ladies in your neigaborho-til-known ladies in your neigaborhoult from its us orbood, who k you live I can ref MRS. M. SUMMERS, BOX 237, NOTRE DAME, IND., U. S. A.

The Works of

SUSIE C. CLARK JOHN MCCULLOUGH

MAN, ACTOR AND SPIRIT

Ilivetrated. Price $1.50. An authentic portrayal of the mortal career of the emi-bent tragedian and the first biography ever written that southuse is recital beyo. d the portais of the grave.

A LOOK UPWARD. CLOTH. 15 PAGES. SIXTELN CHAPTERS

COURT DEFAULT OF CONTRACT OF C od and The ta Sel Postage 12 cents. Price $1.25.

TO BEAR WITNESS: A Met-

aphysical Sketch. CLOTH. 180 PAGES. FIFTEEN CHAPTERS.

Contents The Valley of the Shadow. The Resurrection. What They Baid. Greek Meets Greek Theory versus Chris Work. New Revelations. Alone With Nature. For the Truth's Baik. Price $1.00. Postage Seven Cents.

THE MELODY OF LIFE.

CLOTH. 139 PAGES. FIVE CANTOS.

4. The Rythm-Action. 5. The Melody-Progre

1. The Staff-Spirit. 2. Tre Key-Love. 3 The Score-Life Price 75 Cents. Postage Five Cents.

PILATE'S QUERY.

CLOTH. 275 PAGES. TWENTY SEVEN CHAPTERS. CLOTH IN PACES. TWENT SEVEN CHAPTERS. The Wooding As Awakened Soul. A New Light. Re-embed ment. The Riff Bers son Furth - Investigation for eas. A Niesing Plank. The Wroog Door. Spiritua-ism. A New Experience. Laspitstion. Separation. Deep Waters. Chris is Science. Anglie Visi ors. Another Problem. The Wroog Press. Precision One Problem. The Vision Press. The Science of Science Problem. The Vision Press. Precision One A Pres for Unity. Chicago In 34. Reunion. Price $1.25. Postage Nine Cents.

A STUDY OF SLIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING. 16mo. Decorated cloth, 125. The most virile picture of Mrs. Browning in all our literature... A distinctly valuable addition to our Browning literature...New York Times. THE WORLD BEAUTIFUL IN BOOKS. ' 16mo. $1.00 net. Decorated cloth, $1.3 net. Miss Whiting leads her readers on and on through many delightful pages wherein the great thoughts of great writers are touched upon with rare discrimination and critical power.—Boston Transcript.

KEYNOTES FOR DAILY HARMONIES.

Includes a "Key Note" for every day in the year. to en-able all "to make connection daily with higher strikts of thought that these of mundar interests." LEATHERETTE Price 50 Cents. Postage Five Cents. Price 50 Cents.

ASPIRATIONS.

Price 15 cents. Postage 2 cents. For sale at the BANNER OF LIGHT BOOK STORE, 24

LONGLEY'S

CHOICE COLLECTION OF For Public Meetings and the Home.

CONTENTS.

I,m thinking dear Mother of Mother, take me to you We mix our Boys at Home The good Times yet to be The good Times yet to be The Land trimes yet to be The Land beyond the Stars They are Walting at the Por-tal When the Dear ones Gather at Home Resting under the Daisles arms Meither's beautiful hands There's a day of triumph coming On en wide the golden Portal One by one the old Friends fail fall I know that they miss me at at Home Resting under the Daisles The Grand Jublice Dear Heart come Home Come in some Beautiful The soul goes marching on A thousand years in Spirit life Mother dear, oh! meet me there Our darling Nannle The poor Man's glad release I'm never growing old Only a glimpse of the face I am seeking. We are journeying home to day Come in some Beautiful Dream Where the Roses never Fade n Heaven we'll know our Own My Mother's tender eyes I sing my sweetest Song All hall the dawning Light The Homethat's walting you If you love me, tell me so Beautiful Home of the An-We are journeying some to day to clear a structure of the day to clear a structure of the Kies me decodenight Kies me decodenight She's waiting there for me Aspiration Rest is coming by and bye Ob when shall we ever get there there there a little Parther on My baby waits for me Was 1 only dreaming, dear est

Beastitu Home of the An-geis Home of my Childhood days If you should die tonight Only a sweet and faded The songel sang for you Those Angel vole's Just as the Sun went down When there's love at home Homething sweet to sing Precedem's grand trimsph Across the Biream Dear wandering Boy cote e home est W-iting near the golden stair Beams of love light The Golden Gates are ben

MEDIUMSHIP, AND ITS LAWS

WORKS BY

nde of Weden to Sufferers from a dy of Noiro Dame, Indian would be Home W ing to try this remedy once, a ntinue its use, it will cost you week. It does not interfere compation. I have nothing to rers of it; that is all I set. It o

LILIAN WHITING.

THE WORLD BEAUTIFUL First, 5 ond, and Third Series. 3 vols. 16 £1.00 per vol. Decorated cloth, 11.5 ; vol. Cannot help being uplifting and inspirit There is a delightful sense about it of bei lifted out of the prossic every-day dutim life into a newer and mere sunny and, abe all, more spiritual conception of these prov duties.-New Church Messenger.

SFTER HER DEATH. 16mo. $1.00. Deen TER HER DEATH. 16mo. $1.00. Decs-rated cloth, $1.25. We find a firm belief in the possibility of communion with the spiritual world, digalized by a teautiful philosophy inspiring high thoughts and noble purposes.-Whig and thous Courier.

FROM DREAMLAND SENT. Verses of the Life to Come. 18mo. $1.00. Dece-rated cloth, $1.25. Graceful, tender, and true, appealing to what is best in the human heart.—The Independ-ent.

ent. THE SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE: er, Death as an Event in Life. 16mo. 11.08. Decorated cloth, 11.35. It suggests and hints at the ultimate signifi-cance of scientific investigation with relation to the totality of thought in a very fresh and suggestive way.... The spirit of her book, like that of its predecessors, is admirable...-The Outlook.

KATE FIELD: A RECORD. With per-traits, including one by Elihu Vedder, 12mo, Decorated cloth, $1.00. A volume rich in side-lights upon distin-guished persoages of this century, both bere and abroad.-Philadelphia Bulletin.

BOSTON DAYS. Elustrated, 12mo. $1.50

net. All the famous names associated with Boston pass in review before the reader of this apotheosis of the intellectual life of Massa-chusetts.-Boston Herald.

THE LIFE RADIANT. 16mo. 31.09 net. Decorated cloth, 31.25 net. No one can read the book without having a clearer perception of the meaning of life and of the infinite possibilities of the human scal in its process of advancement. Chicage Chronicle.

THE OUTLOOK BEAUTIFUL. 18. 1.00 net. White and gold, 11.5 net. Miss Whiting's new book deals with the mys-tery of death and the relations between inte-that now is and that which is to come.

that now is and that which is to come. THE JOY THAT NO MAN TAKETH I. FROM YOU. 18mo. 50 cents net. In this book she has succeeded in giving a spiritual interpretation of the seeming directed disasters that beset us and then with steady. hand holds forth the box of priceless on ment that shall beal our wounds and fill our hearts with that supreme joy of which dis writes.—Banner of Light.

writes.--Hanner of Light. THE FLORENCE OF LANDOR. IBus-trated. Svo. In box. $2.50 net. Miss Whiting describes the beautiful "Howser town" of Florence, with which Walter Bayase Landor's name is undyingly associated, and makes live again to the reader some of the great writers who have been so closely asso-ciated with Florence.

For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT.

makes our braves invisible till we meet them in the happy hunting-grounds of the Great Spirit." Victor Hugo said, in writing of death "Oh, whoever it may be who has seen a be- fored being sinking into the tomb, do no think it has left you. The beauty of death is its presence-inexpressible presence but has not departed." If you don't like tobacco smoke, don't gelect a seat in the "smoker." M you don't like tobacco smoke, don't gelect a seat in the "smoker."	"sing a psalm of praise to God." "Do you not hear that great and wonder- ful, music which is in Heaven?" cyclaimed Survulus. "Do you not perceive the pass- ing fragrance of the odors from Heaven filling all the air?" "I see," said the dying Bertetine, "a. brightness so great that the sun pales be- fore it. I see the heavens opened, and a glory above the noonday sun." Is death the final sleep? "No," said Sir Walter Scott; "it is the last final awaken- ing." And an Indian chief, simple child of nature, said. "Death does not kill it only	appointed by the Board of Health or by the School Board. " Designated by the Parent or Guardian. This means that you choose the doctor your own self. No one else can choose for you. The physician must examine the child at the time he gives the certificate. The physician must write on the certificate that the child's condition is such that his health will be endangered by vaccination. The doctor knows very well that your child's health will be in danger if he is vaccinated and you know it too. The law says further that so long as this condition continues in your child he shall	guidances, for all time. Character Reading on last page. 1 copy of Character Reader, on card, for desk use, or parlor diversion. 1 copy of vest pocket lesson for imme- diately telling the Ascendant, the Meridian point, and place of the Sun on any day or any year, solthout mathematics; also a table of the ap- presented places of superior plan- ets, for nearly 100 years. 1 dozen Horoscope or Nativity Blanks for tabulating. 1 dozen Wonder Wheel Blanks, for guickly tabulating the places of the	Alar The find my hands The find my hands The find my Mother work Received beautiful Flowers Sing to me Dealing, to-high Op, if me rest The Stars and Stripes un- Bright and of the Blest Open these Freary gates of light We shall know our own FRICES. Boards, 40 cents per copy. Special prices made to societies or agains for large erders. For Sale by the BANNBR OF LIGHT. SECOND EDITION.	Its Conditions and Cultivation. BY HUDSON TUTTLE. A book written in anwer to the question: HOW can become a Medium? The the sain of the new Science of Medium and the sain of the new Science of Medium and of the sain. Harp lines are drawn between what he photosis and what is not. Every photosis, Asheen the sain of the new Science of Medium and the sain of the sain and the sain of the photosis and what is not. Every photosis, Asheen the sain the development and culture of said. The sain the
	makes our braves invisible till we meet them in the happy hunting grounds of the Great Spirit." Victor Hugo said, in writing of death: "Oh, whoever it may be who has seen a be- loved being sinking into the tomb, do not think it has left you. The beauty of death is its presence-inexpressible presence of a soul which smiles upon our tearful eyes. The being that we mourn has disappeared; but has not departed." If you don't fike tobacco smoke, don't	life and that one certificate is good just as long as the condition continues. Some School Boards have been known to send word to parents that the certificate of exemption was not good after a certain time. The Law does not give them the right to say this. The Law says nothing at all about the School Board or the Health Board having anything to do about these certificates. It is only the parent and the doctor chosen by the parent. The Compulsory School Law was made	planets. I copy of an Ephemeris, for year of birth, with Tables of Houses, etc. This entire portfolio of Astrologic lore sent to any address for $5.00. It is guaranteed to be reliable; free from pretentious claims; founded on the very highest of Nature's known laws, and worthy of a place in any man's libriry. Any one of the series may be purchased separately if so desired.	THE DEMONISM OF THE AGES, AND Spirit Obsessions in Spiritism and Oriental and Occidental Occultism. By J. M. Poebles, M. D., A. M. CONTENTS. By Highrits, and Their Spinesses, Chifese Spiritism Permutical Proceedings of Japaneses, Chifese Spiritism Demonitors, Witches of and Tamative, Development and His Obsessing Profile Spirit Mallen as its de det. They three chargers, B pages, cloth, gill lettered. Price State	Build Hopes High. An Eastern philosopher when called to comfort a broken hearted mourner wailing over a severed friendship and a ruined life, took the sorrowing one outside the gate and pointed to a lofty cliff that reached almost to the clouds. "Do you see that cliff" he asked. "Yes," was the answer. "Do you see that eagle's nest on the cliff with the cagle hovering near?" "Yes," was again the answer. "Well," said the sage, "imi- tate the bird and build your hopes above the clouds and you will never be broken-

BANNER OF LIGHT

BALS AND METAIL THE NEW ENGLAND NEWS COMPANY.

14 Franklin Street, Be THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY.

41 Chambers Street, No THE OF SUBSCRIPTION IN ADVANCE

ain, Austr

om all Literary Contributions, News Tiems, Reports and Ansouncements must be addressed.

INVING F. STMONDS

all Business Communis

Dr. GESEGE A. FULLER

ADVERTISING BATES.

r face the upon the coumns are open for the expression of imper-cought, but we do not necessarily endorse all ades of opinion to which consarily endorse all on is paid to anonymou Whenever you desire the address of your paper ed, always give the address of the place to which it

Banner of Bight.

BOSTON. SATURDAY, MARCH 94, 1906.

FOR THE WEDNERDAT APTERSOOD AT

Sutered at the Post-Office, Boston, Mass., os Second-Cl.

.... The man who is perplexed by questions about his own fitness to discharge a duty or perform a task cannot solve it by thinking about it; let him set his hand to the work, put his strength in it, and -he will soon discover whether he has blun dered or not. And a multitude of people who are allowing their thoughts to brood continuously over their own misfortunes would find a great lifting of the weight if they would get out of themselves. The quickest and most effective way of helping one's self is to help somebody else. When the invisible house in which every man lives begins to darken, open the windows. set the doors wide, and escape at once into the great world. The remedy for egoism is a greater interest in the affairs. and happiness of some one else. The world is full of opportunities for getting out-ofdoors and escaping from the prison-house of our own experience: to take the sting out of your personal misfortunes, share the misfortunes of others - The Outlook

An amazing and fascinating narrative is the estimate by the literary critic of N. Y. Tribune in noting Dr Morton Prince's impressive work on multiple personality, reviewed by the "Banner" in February So kind to notice it!

The only serious attempt at argument against the Bill for the Abolition of the Death Penalty was made by Charles R. Saunders, lawyer.

When he was asked by the Chairman of the Committee what weight he placed on the possibility of innocent men being executed, he replied in the following words:

"It is better that occasionally an innocent man should be executed by law, than that other innocent people should be murdered because there is no capital punishment to act as a deterrent to the crime. It is merely a matter of mathematics."

Samuel W. Capen, speaking to the Y. M.

Our Anniversary. m Tuttle, Editor-at-Large, N. S. A.

Modern Spiritualism has entered on the second half of its century and as a great organic force is arresting the attention of th world as never before. While scientists are just awakening to the consciousness that it has a meaning and is worthy of their consideration, its supporters have formulat ed a philosophy and a religion of life, and are uniting in an Association to present its claims as the fundamental science of spirit.

All great movements have their landmarks; milestones along the pathway of their achievements; great victories over past wrongs, their monuments; in memory of these triumphs they have special days consecrated by succeeding generations.

Modern Spiritualism cannot correctly be said to have had its advent with the manifestations at Hydeville. As remarkable manifestations occurred years before among the Shaker Communities and from time to time there was a recurrence. Yet the time had not come for the recognition of the fact that a continuous communion with the world of spirits was possible, until that time, when a wide-spread attention was awakened. Ghosts came like shabows, but no one questioned them; their silence was proverbial; belief in the supernatural was pityingly smiled on ignorant imbecility. It was on the 31st a5 of March, 1848, that the happy thought of receiving answers by a code of sounds proved that there was an intelligent force back of the manifestations. At this time it may be of interest to revive the memory of the facts connected with the choice of this day for an anniversary. In justice to the memory of the noble veteran, James Lawrence, of Cleveland, Ohio, the details should be preserved in the history of the movement. I well remember the occasion when he came to me saying that he had received a communication from the spirit world recommending the observance of the day, and requesting my opinion as to the best method of bringing the matter before the Spiritualists.

There could be only one opinion, and it appeared strange that the suggestion had not been made before. Mr. Lawrence had already passed the term of years allotted to His snow-white hair and beard; his man. singularly tall and erect form; his dignified bearing, made him a conspicuous figure in the assemblies of his native city. Widely and honorably known, with wealth that gave him opportunity and leisure, the most lagoted opposer dared not accuse him of knowing imposture. He had constructed a dial after the design of that employed by Professor Hare in his early investigations and by its means received messages through his own mediumistic power.

When in 1871, Doctor Peebles and the writer joined in the labor of bringing out the first "Year-Book of Spiritualism," with the purpose of presenting as far as possible, the status of the Cause for the year, we requested Mr. Lawrence to give the facts that they might be duly recorded. In reply he wrote as follows:

"The suggestion for a public celebration commemorative of the advent of Modern Spiritualism through the rappings at Hyde-ville, emanated from myself. The particulars, in brief, are these: On the 12th day of November I was using the dial, known as Hare's dial. I received a communication of which I had given no previous thought .-- consequently it could not be deemed a. design of my own, and hence must be recognized as an emination from those who are freed from earth's encumbrances

"At the National Convention the following year, by the advice of my spirit friends and my own convictions, I brought it before the delegates as a resolution, which was accepted, not as mine, but under angel guidance .- as coming from the higher realm, to keep alive the gratitude of those who comprehend and accept the glorious -the assurance of immortality-furboonnished by Spiritualism. To that God whose ways are inscrutable, and beyond the ken of mortal minds, would I express my gratitude for being the humble instrument, through angel promptings, to impart the thought that millions now existing, and millions yes and the day was observed by all local socie-

The anniversary should be consecrated to our departed friends. Always near us, they at this time seem to come especially near. We can "clasp hands across the seas" with them, and renew our vows to become worthy the sublime destiny of immortal beings

Spiritualism has a brilliant roll of veterans who fought the good fight and now encourage us from the shining shore. To many of us the day of this life is nearing its close. The low sun is robing in the clouds of this life's horizon. There is a great army fresh, eager and strong. At all our gatherings, the two worlds will meet and blend. The consciousness of the presence of our arisen ones not only consecrates the day, but impresses us with the desire to consecrate our lives to the high purposes of spiritual righteousness.

The significance of this spiritual knowledge inspires us. Not only are we to bring the spirit world to us, but we are to elevate our desires and actions to its high standard of excellence.

We are not to ask our spirit friends to have charity for our failings, we are to command their loving care by conduct we know will meet their approval. It should be a day without a cloud or a shadow, and they who have suffered greatest loss by the departure of loved ones should feel that they have greatest gain, for only a little time have they gone before and become our heavenly treasures.

Fortunate are those who are able to meet in assemblies, and clasp hands with friends in mutual interchange of sympathy. Yet being deprived this pleasure, we should not feel alone, for, in the most secluded retreat, we may be surrounded by angel friends and become conscious of the presence of these unseen visitors.

Susan B. Anthony. Alexander Wilder, M. D.

Susan B. Anthony by her earnestness of purpose, her steady persistence, and her downright unselfish devotion made for herself a distinction among the most worthy and leading, women of America. Those who carped, who sneered, who railed at her with scorn, have passed into oblivion and now we have almost forgotten that she was ever much maligned or very fiercely opposed. She lacked many of the attractions that we like to praise and compliment in women. Her education' in a Quaker family notably aided her to disregard that fact, and to cultivate the qualities which transcend these feminine trivialities, She certainly exhibited sincerity, kindly 'disposition and other virtues which excel them all.

In the autumn of 1852, a National Women's Rights convention was held for three days at Syracuse, N. Y. Lucretia Knott, peerless in womanly dignity, presided with an ability and tact which I have rarely seen There was a constellation equaled. of representative women on the platform more brilliant than had ever illuminated Market Hall. I remember them: the presiding officer, Mrs. Elizabeth Oakes Smith, Paulinà Wright Davis, Ernestine L. Rose, Martha Dickinson, Clarina I. Nichols, Lucy Stone Antoinette L. Brown, Susan B. Anthony. Acting as reporter for the Associated Press, and for a local paper, it behooved me to watch everything carefully.

James Mott was present to support his wife; and both Samuel J. May and Gerrit Smith were in the convention.

Miss Anthony had barely spread her wings and come into, the open. She was diffident, only taking active part as occasion seemed to demand. Lucy Stone with her captivating eloquence, and Ernestine Rose with her outspoken positiveness were the admired ones in that assemblage.

One weak spot was exhibited. A com mittee on resolutions was appointed, and made up entirely of women, with Mrs. Smith at the head. It retired, but soor came back and asked that Gerrit Smith and Mr. May be added to their number. As both Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Davis had written books, it would seem that they nan is one of those preachers that can ever get a church or keep one It was true, and also spiteful, but there

After that, I read of Susan Anthony here and there addressing meetings. The rough work seemed always to fall on her. If anything unpleasant was to be done, she had to do it.

For two years I was connected with the State Department of Public Instruction at Albany. It fell to me to attend teachers meetings, and I repeatedly saw Miss An-thony there. She had been a teacher herself and a sister was a teacher at Roches ter. She appeared in the character of an agitator, always bringing in some subject in regard to fair play for the female teachers.

She encountered ridicule, coarse and even insulting remarks and was always voted down; but her arguments were evaded and never answered. She, however, was successful in helping several women to assert themselves, who otherwise lacked courage

After this she attended meetings of the Labor Organizations and spoke against their regulations to exclude women from departments of cemunerative industry. She had one great merit; no matter how hotly she was opposed, she bore it calmly and did not indulge in resentment afterward.

With her Quaker rearing, and intolerance of oppression she was, of course, an abolitionist. Her brother, the late Daniel Anthony, it will be- remembered was active in Kansas to rescue the territory from slavery.

In 1861 at the beginning of the war, Miss Anthony took the lead with others in organizing the Women's Hospital Associa tion of Relief. It began at Cooper Union, and the purpose was to furnish hospital supplies for soldiers sick and wounded. Dr. Francis was the chief speaker on that occasion. He praised the patriotism and devotedness of the women, but assured them that he was in familiar communication with leading persons at Washington and could assure them that there would be little occasion for their lint and other hospital supplies. History tells a story somewhat different.

I think that during the Civil War her diligence to do service was indefatigable She was truly "Instant in season and out of season." She had become intimate with Mrs Elizabeth Cady Stanton, a woman of deep, not to say masculine understanding, and motherly nature. The two were well calculated to balance one another. What they accomplished is worth an account by itself. I was at this time a legislative correspondent, and saw them often at meet ings of the committees of the Legislature of New York.

After the war, Miss Anthony became editor of a weekly paper in New York. It was styled. "The Revolution." As usual, she exhibited force, character, and the utterances were not declamatory, but argumentative. But political conditions were adverse. The Republicans were too ready to take advantage of the fact that slavery had been abolished to do any further ser vice for freedom, especially in the line of enfranchising women. The Democrats had gone to the wall as a result of the civil strife and had not aroused to perception of the new situation.

In 1867 a Constitutional Convention was elected at New York. . Mrs. Stanton, Miss Anthony and others came to Albany to appeal for an extension of the suffrage George William Curtis, was a member of the Convention and delivered an eloquent address in favor of giving the ballot to women. To me it seemed however that he was a somewhat unpractical man and that one argument was in a great degree fal-He urged that the extension of the suffrage to women would operate to secure purity of the ballot-box and legisla-It is hardly probable that human tion. nature is less faulty in women than in men. They are equally weak in liability to wrong-doing, and much of the superior morality imputed to them is due rather to being shut away from the temptations and Under opportunities which beset men. like conditions men and women will act pretty much alike. ' But back of all this is ounder principle of justice. Com fairness dictates an equal right and favor for both sexes. Women are entitled to as much voice in government and social matters as men. They are not angels, and men are not saints; but they are ht ings alike with similar wants, obligations, and rights. That ought to be enough. After Mr. Curtis had concluded his address to the committee of the whole Convention, a vote was taken, and if I remem ber was largely Republican. Mr. Gideon J. Tučker, Surrogate, of New York County, "Hunker" and "Copperhead." voted aye. The leading members of both fair, but she had the crowning merit of b

One year she voted at the election. was promptly indicted. Ex-Judge Henry R. Seldon was her counsel. She was con-victed, and sentence imposed. Whether she would have paid a fine, I cannot guess; I think she would have suffered imprison ment. But no more was heard of it. The conviction and sentence were enough From this time she was recognized as the leader in the cause of enfranchisement of women. Mrs. Stanton, more judicial in temperament stood with her bravely till the feebleness of age disabled her. It became necessary also for Susan B. Anthony herself to relax in labor and let the work go into younger hands. But she found it hard to let go. She attended meetings as she was able and her influence continu till the last.

A tribute was paid to her at her death which is worthy of note. Mr. Cutler, the Mayor of Rochester, recognizing her as the First Citizen, requested the flags over the city to be lowered to half mast on the day of her funeral.

It was significant that William Lloyd Garrison, mobbed and vilified in Boston and New York, was yet honored by his body lying in state after death; that like respect was paid to the remains of Gerrit Smith; and that Wendell Phillips received also the meed of credit. But more notable still were the tokens of regard and honor which were rendered to the coffin of Susan Brownell Anthony, the heroine of the Cause of Woman in America.

Don't Be a Sponge.

A wise word dropped from a wise man carries a long way, and a wise word from anybody may be a motto of help and in-Young Mr. Rockefeller has a vigoration. Bible class that he gives attention to Sunday after Sunday, and to which he says some excellent things. We commend him for his devotion, and we think he said a good thing when he lately told his class not to be a sponge. It is a live word, bracing, and manly, if we like to make it such.

has received the commendation of Christian papers as most excellent counsel. Let us so take it. The author of it doubtless has an interpretation that allows his dear father, the multi-millionaire, to escape from the charge of absorbing everything in sight-as being the act of a sponge. The difference may not be clear to an outsider -for such dealing seems very like a sponge -and unfortunately the benighted public will have it that he sponges with his privileges as the tramp does with his poverty.

But to the matter, which is advice of the ight sort, the phrase means, don't absorb, but give. Give rather than take. Don't be on the lookout for what you can get; be willing to give and find the blessing on that side.

1

Sponging is what makes graft in civic affairs. A man because he has done his duty at the polls in voting for those who ought to be the best for the places, as soon as the men come into office, acts as a sponge and wants to soak up the dewdrops, of favor all round. He does this in the name of patriotism, and has smirched one of the fairest words our language knows.

Sponging is in society where money is spent lavishly in giving parties, and all the pleasure of the very dear friends of this golden circle." All the same favors are expected in return, and when requests come from my lady or her husband, why of course the water is taken up by the sponge.

Sponging is in religion, perhaps as much here as elsewhere, if not a little more so, The city churches have had to fight it in order to keep on their feet., It was said when Minot J. Savage left Boston to go to New York, that if his congregation had averaged a dime in their giving when the contribution plate came round, the church, with the subscriptions of the members, could have been self supporting. , Men went and listened to this brave, progressive preacher, and never gave a cent for the clear, persuasive word he had spoken. They knew the consequence, that he would have to leave, that Boston would lose him, but the sponge does not mind such a little thing as that. It gets what it wants, and being a ponge does not go any further.

C.	Α.	"WI	ien	the	pray	er	me	eting	and cau	cus	occur	on	the	same	nig	ht.	attend	the cau	cus.

It may interest our New York readers, as they debate the question of opening their public libraries on Sunday, to know that Boston settled this Sabbath problem in the affirmative and has so acted for more than a quarter of a century.

Anna Eva Fay is still a long way from the "legit"-she is only billed as Keith's "headliner."

W. S. Evans, of Culbertson, Montana writes:

"We think if we could have a redium here, we could form a goo mization for Spiritualism."

He adds that if we know of any who rould like to go West to send one to Cul bertson.

югп, п unbounded, the opportunity to celebrate an event more joyous in its character than nortal eyes have ever witnessed."

The following is part of the communi-cation received by Mr. Lawrence through the dial:

"Some acknowledgment should be mad for this most glorious change, the advent of which has never been celebrated as a matter of public rejoicing by the assembled multitude of Spiritualists throughout the land. Shall all the minor circumstances of earth life have days of commemoration, and this glorious, new and holy dispensation be It is time some such tribute neglected? should be paid to those who have presented to the world a means of emancipation from error, such as will meet the requirements of all-a day of universal jubilee, to be observed through all coming time

.The resolution was enthusiastically re-ceived by the delegates of the Convention, then a promising organization composed of Of c delegates from more than twenty states, gered.

rit Smith did that. Mrs. Nichols was an editor from Vermont, but these two ladies exhibited a strong wish to discredit her for her plainness of dress, language and appearance but she made a future afterward in Kansas

A fledgling minister on the second day began a speech from the back row of seats Mrs. Mott required him, despite his -protestations, to come forward and speak from the platform. He began by giving seurri-lous expressions that he had heard. "Will thee speak to the subject," asked the president, "and not repeat the rowdy talk at thy end of the room?"

He replied by remarking that if the wo men contended with horses they must cor sent to be bet upon. He went on in that strain, becoming more vulgar as he con-tinued, when the president brought him up remarking that he had talked short. enough.

course the insulted women were 1. Miss. Anthony remarked, " "This political parties were represented there. The president, Rev. William A. Wheeler mong the noes. That list of votes was would be interesting reading now. Miss Anthony was never deterred by 'the opposition which she encountered. How opposition which she encountered. How, sensitive she was to the treatment which she received is for her friends to fell. She was certainly kind and assiduous when she was needed. I thought her not always tance."

Now it is a crying shame to be mean and penurious with your religion. It is the limit of meanness. And men will be indulgent, extravagant even in other things and make their religion go away hungry and shame-faced because they have treated it with such disrespect and scorn.

We understand it takes money to advocate a cause, to run a paper, to hold meetings, to let mediums and speakers live. Spiritualists have to waken up to this fact, and not expect the riches of the angel world are coming to them unless they do something generous for the spread of gospel. The light has to shine, the word to uttered, and those who have a dollar or a thousand they could properly spare ought to come forward like men and give it, and so revive the work and help to make it the transcendant glory it is. Heed the advice don't be a sponge.

"Love unites spirits at whatever dis-

AN INVISIBLE PRIEND.

a Read Tuttle

(Written for the Banner of Light.) there not an invisible friend here? I hope there may bel eak low to my soul, and speak true, dear; Dost thou yet love me? e shadows have gone from thine eyes, love:

Ine share of light in the skies, love, Thou dwellest at last.

Maybe thou dost miss the old ways, love, Just once in awhile, And dream up in Heaven of the days, love, We gave smile for smile. And maybe rich treasures thou'st gained, love. Thou fain wouldst impart. Enrich me with what thou hast learned, love, Refresh my faint heart!

I wait, and I hope,—and feel sure, love, That thou art ancar, As real, responsive, and pure, love, As though I saw clear. Thy thoughts float like dream-birds above me,

They light on my head! I know thou art here, and dost love me!-O! Thou art not dead!

The First Church of Spiritualists, Pittsburg.

HISTORY - THE YEAR'S WORK - BURNING A MORTGAGE.

It is with great pleasure we write you concerning an important event that will occur on Tuesday evening, March 27, in and for the benefit of the First Church of Spir-itualists of Pittsburg in particular and the good of the Cause in general, for we have certainly made wonderful progress since the purchase of the building and grounds we nad no place to call home. We were subject to the changes generally occurring to tenants of halls. Our society had felt for some time the necessity of securing a place for a permanent home, and finally in September, 1903, the beautiful brick church we now occupy on Boquet Street was pur-chased by the Board of Trustees of our church. After making some alterations to the building we held our first service on Sunday, Nov. 1, 1903, Mr. C. L. Stevens, president, presiding, Harrison D. Barrett, President N. S. A., being with us on that auspicious occasion, also Rev. B. F. Austin of Toronto, Canada, as lecturer for the so-ciety at the time. We will state that Dr. Austin had been a regular ordained minister in the Methodist Episcopal Church, and for many years in charge of a ladies' seminary in Canada, and because of a free expres-sion of his opinion on "Revelation," and other subjects, he was regularly tried and found guilty of heresy, and expelled from It is with great pleasure we write you other subjects, he was regularly tried and found guilty of heresy, and expelled from

He then took an interest in Spiritualism, and today is found with all his talent, vigor and experience an active and influential worker for the Spiritualist Cause, and in his work he embodies the best good for humanity. Spiritualism has been well taken care of Spiritualism has been well taken care of here this season of 1905-6. For many years our services have been opened in Septem-ber by Mrs. Margaret Gaule-Riedinger. Mer psychic work is considered of the high-est character by our people. She has made an impression on our minds, and a place in our hearts that will outlast the records of time. With pleasant memories of the past we look forward to her return next Sep-tember. tember

We note forward to her feturin next sep-tember. In October Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Kates were our speakers. Mrs. Kates is mar-velousas an inspirational speaker, and has a manner and force of character that takes no second place on the spiritual rostrum. Mrs. Kates in her private work gives satis-factory results whenever proper conditions are obtained, and many are consoled and made happy thereby. Mr. Kates as a lec-turer has an experience in the work which gives him the mental qualities of sysa, tematically and tersely setting in order what he has to say to the people. Like his good wife, he admits of no compromise with the foces of Spiritualism.

he has to say to the people. Like his good wife, he admits of no compromise with the focs of Spiritualism. November brought with it the venerable sage, Lyman C. Howe of Fredonia, N. Y. Here we see a man of more than three score and ten years, most of which have been spent in successful efforts to hold the "Truth" up above the prejudice, bigoty and superstition of his time. Though his eyes are not the best, his mental and spir-itual sight show added strength, ena-philosophers of our day. May he enjoy the consideration of the advanced thinkers and philosophers of our day. May he enjoy that time will not efface. In December Mr. and Mrs, E. W. Sprague, the well known missionaries of the N.S.A. were with us. Mrs. Sprague as message bearer and Mr. Sprague as the bood

the N. S. A. were with us. Mrs. Sprague as message bearer and Mr. Sprague as speaker. As they are well and generally known we will leave them with this record. They are able faithful and devout workers for the Cause. Their work here was in-teresting and instructive, as well as fruit-ful by the increase of ten persons to mem-bership in our society. During their pleas-ant and profitable ministration here we feel that there was mutual reciprocity. January introduces Oscar A. Edgerly to our people: a quiet, unassuming, yet forci-January introduces Oscar A. Edgerly to our people: a quict unassuming, yet forci-ble and interesting inspirational speaker. His brain powers are of a character to re-late him to the thinkers in spirit realms, and also place him among the philosophers on this plane of life. Brother Edgerly is an instructive speaker and an educator to at-tentive audiences. We happily wait his re-turn cert ceason on this account Mrs. C., L. Stevens, well known in our midst as an inspirational speaker of more than ordinary intellectual and spiritual attainments will deliver a short congratulatory address. She was one of the first to address our society before it was chartered eighten years are. She has of the first to address our society before it was chartered eighteen years ago. She has always been loyal, and a' generous con-tributor to Spiritualism. We cannot close without referring to Mrs. Sophia Meyran, to whom our organi-zation owes undying gratitude. From her came the first proposition to buy the church we now own. It was this, and her munificent gift of $5,000 that secured for us this monument to the great Cause of Truth in Pittsburg. Our Board of Trus-tees has passed resolutions to be neatly engrossed, expressive of our gratitude to both Mrs. Meyran and Mrs. Mall for their handsome donations, for which words fail to express our heartfelt appreciation. to express our heartfelt appreciation. M. C. Matthews.

March, 1006.

Southern Cassadaga Camp.

The days have passed so rapidly that with the numerous duties of your Scribe it has been impossible for. her to chronicle the arrival and departure of many who have come and gone. The cottages are all full and more rooms could have been rented for hight housekeeping. Hotel Cassadaga has been well patronized the most of the season. The Spencer House has done fairly well, as has the Floyd and Sherman dining room, but owing to the mild winter, northern people have come later and will go home earlier, but there have been upon the grounds more campers than ever before in the history of the Camp. The season is waning a little now, but there are many upon the grounds who will The days have passed so rapidly that with

The season is waning a little now, but there are many upon the grounds who will remain long after the closing of the Camp session so beautiful and healthful is this little city among the pines. J. Clegg Wright has been severely indis-posed, but has now returned to his work with a renewed spiritual vigor. His lec-tures upon the platform have been appreci-upon the platform have been appreci tures ated by many who were debarred from at-tending his classes.

ated by many who were debarred from at-tending his classes. Professor Peck has been at the head of all the entertainments and they have been a success. He is a favorite with young and old, and all readily respond to his call for help. The last entertainment was a min-strel show in which several couples became dark brunettes and took part in a cake walk. The winners of the cake were Mr. Theodore Ryan and Mrs. Faith Spalding Ryan of Norwich. Conn., who have since their sojourn at Lake Helen entered into a life partnership. The next prize was won by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson of this place, and the third set of prizes for the pair who appeared the most ridiculous was won by Professor Peck and Mrs. Bartholo-mew. Mr. Peck's activities in other ways have not detracted from his matform work. His lectures have been of a high order, and each deserves especial notice, but your Scribe is afraid of Editorial scissors. Mr. Peck has been seconded in all ways by his charming niese. Miss Grace Hayten of the cach deserves especial notice, but your Scribe is afraid of Editorial seissors. Mr. Peck has been seconded in all ways by is charming niece, Miss Grace Hawten of St. Louis, Mo., who has won the hearts of the Southern Cassadaga people. Mes. Laura Fixen, who four years ago made her maiden speech here upon Spiritualism from the subject, "Ye Shall Have Power," has since visited other countries, winning laurels. She delivered two lectures here that were listened to with great interest. "The Greatest Message Ever Given to the World, the Tiny Rap" was of especial in-terest as it compared Spiritualism to other religions and showed its supremacy over other teachings in bringing out the self-hood of immortal souls, and their responsi-bility, instead of expecting to be saved by the blood of a Savior. Mrs. Carrie Firth Curren of Toledo, O, is at the Camp and has favored us with two is at the Camp and has layored us with two lectures, both full of helpful thoughts, and showed how evanescent are all thoughts of reform and growth that do not have their source in the soul. Mrs. Curren has been president and is now treasurer of the Ohio State Association and an active worker for State and National Associations. She will with Tampa on her return North and minfor the Cause. Their work here was in-teresting and instructive, as well as fruit-bership in our society. During their pleas-ant and profitable ministration here we fair pleas-ant and profitable ministration here we fair that there was mutual reciprocity. January introduces Oscar A. Edgerly to our people: a quiet, unassuming, yet forci-ble and interesting inspirational speaker. His brain powers are of a character to ra-late him to the thinkers in spirit realms, and also place him among the philosophers no nthis plane of life. Brother Edgerly wait his re-turn next season. Tor February and March the present per-son officiating is Mrs. Katie Ham of Her speech, suit (Conn.) Camp. She has made many friends here by her willingneas to ballot reading. Her phase is most satis-factory and conving. Her speech, and tactory and conving. Her speech, and cause. Deen interest in awakened; and the seating capacity of our church is taxed to on the various themes chosen in the

on the various themes chosen in the con-ferences. The Memorial Service for Mrs. Evs Car-rigue, an officer of the Woman's Auxiliary, was full of touching memories. The plat-form was beautifully decorated and was occupied by the lady officers and the sing-ers and her empty chair, draped in white and decorated with roses and jasmines. We fully believed she was there and listened to the kind words spoken by her many friends. Tudge James Underhill was also spoken ones tenderly of. He had been so much to the Kamp in all ways that it was very hard to think we would not see him in the form again. Mrs. Arthur Underhill, we congrat-ulat, that pain can no more reach her, and the Camp in all ways that it was very hard to think we would not see him in the form again. Mrs. Arthur Underhill, we congrat-ulat, that pain can no more reach her, and the same for the Massachusetts was also fremembered most gratefully and Mrs. Sarah Ranney of Columbus, O, who made such a trave fight for life, was remembered, Others who had passed, on before were songs sung until it seemed that all might to the same of accent for the form form the trave form the sacred silence the trave for the sacred silence the target of the form form the trave form the sacred silence the target of the form form the target of accent for the sacred silence the target of the form form the target of accent for the sacred silence the target of the same form form form the target of accent for the sacred silence the target of the form form form form the target of the sacred silence the target of the form form form the sacred silence the target of the target of the sacred silence the target of the sacred silence the target of target of target of target of target of t

"O! I hear in the sacred silence The tread of angelic feet, I feel white hands on my forehead

In a benediction sweet." We left the place with tear dimmed eyes but happy hearts. "God's worlds are never far apart." President Hilligoss and wife tendered a reception to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Edwards of St. Paul, Minn. It was a delightful evening. Dainty refreshments were served. Professor Peek was "Toast Master" and many brilliant responses were given. The Minnesota friends, although they were not here very long, were so kind and agreeable that all felt they were bidding goodby to friends of long standing. The Misses Hedrick (three) have been helpful in every way to the Camp and Miss May Hedrick has followed the Sunday ai-ternoon speeches with messages which have comforted many hearts. There is a prom-ise of a mediumship that will do much toward opening the closed doors of aching hearts and give light in the darkness. She has given the wirter a message, or descrip-tion, which is valued very much. a bis-tory in a few words, of a friend of long ago, that would apply to no other friend. Only one more week of Camp and one would apply to no other friend. nly one more week of Camp and one Only one letter from your Scribe. Carrie E. S Twing

Berkeley (Cal.) Anti-Compulsory Vaccination League is "Recognized.'

That the Berkeley Anti-Compulsory Vaccination League is the strongest organ-ization of its kind in the United States, was the statement made before a freshman class in hygiene at the University re-cently by Dr. George F. Reinhardt, pro-fessor of hygiene and health officer of Berkeley. Dr. Reinhardt also expressed it as his belief that the local anti-vaccination league was so strong that it would frame league was so strong that it would frame o prevent compulsory vaccination of children, and get it passed by the school shildren, and get it passed by the next Legislature. It was during his regular Friday after It was during his regular brids after-noon lecture to the ireshman class in hy-giene thay Dr. Reinhardt made the above statements. His subject for the lecture was "Causes of Immunity from Diseases." Af-ter discussing the prevention of diseases by the use of anti-toxins, he came to the sub-ject of vaccination. He gave a history of the inoculation of human beings to prevent mailwox and the composition to the prac-

bill to

The inoculation of infinite beings to prevent smallpox and the opposition to the prac-tice. He said, in part: "Right here in Berkeley we have the strongest anti-compulsory vaccination league in the country. It is especially strong in its propaganda organization and strong in its propaganda organization and many have been won over to its cause by the excellent literature in has put forth. Indeed so strong is the league that I am convinced that at the next legislature this league will have passed a bill for the pre-vention of compulsory vaccination in the public schools of California." Since Reinhardt has been in office, he public schools of California Since Reinhardt has been in office, he has advocated vaccination among the school children very strongly and has in-sisted upon the strict compliance with the State law in regard to this matter, even to the extent of forcing nearly a hundred chil-dren to leave school. As a result of his action, an anti-vaccination school board and school has been organized here and regular classes are conducted. IEd.—The anti-vaccination sentiment, that is the sentiment against compulsory vaccination of school children regardless of the condition of their health, is very strong in Berkeley. We are glad to hear from the lips of Dr. Reinhardt that 'it is stronger here than any place in the world, as that is a compliment to the intelligence of our people, although it is probable that the Health Officer meant it for criticism. That the sentiment is so strong here is due in a The sentiment is so strong here is due in a measure to the arbitrary manner in which Dr. Reinhardt as Health Officer has acted.] —Berkeley Daily Gazette

Anniversary Notes.

The First Spiritualist Ladies' Aid Society will hold Anniversary Exercises at 9 Ap-pleton Street, Appleton Hall, morning, af-ternoon and evening, Friday, March 20. The following talent is expected: Mrs. Waterhouse, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Stiles, Mrs. Loring, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Belcher, Mrs. Zwhalan, Mrs. Soule, Mr., Wilgin, Mr. Blinn, Mrs. Abbott, Mrs. Willis, Miss Willis, Mrs. Whall, Mrs. Comingham, Mrs. Whitlock, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. N. H. Hard-ing, Mrs. Haidee Hall, Mrs. Helyett, Dr. Marston, Mrs. Litch, Mr. Sawyer, Mrs. Henderson and others. Dinner and supper served by the ladies. The Lvnn Spiritualists' Association will served by the ladies. The Lynn Spiritualists' Association will celebrate the 58th Anniversary at Cadet Hall on Sunday, March 25th. Services will be almost continuous from 2.30 to 9. All of the Cadet Hall mediums and many from other places have promised to be present and a very fine program, consisting of short addresses, test and readings will be given. President Chase is preparing special exer-cises in the way of dramatic readings and vocal solos for the concert at 6.30. A cor-dial invitation is extended to every one to come and help Lynn celebrate, as we shall help Boston, through the week following. Supper will be served in the hall. Malden Progressive Spiritual Society

Malden Progressive Spiritual Society hold Anniversary Exercises at 138 Pleasant Street. Malden, March 29, at 2.30 and 7.30 p. m. Springfield, Mass.—The First Spiritualist Ladies' Aid Society will hold Anniversary services in Memorial Hall, - Thursday, March 29, at 2.30 and 7.30 p. m. Mrs, S. G. Haskins will give address of welcome; Mrs. Helen P. Russegue of Hartford will lelo-ture: Mrs. S. C. Cunningham will follo-with tests. Supper will be served in the banquet hall from 5.30 to 7 o'clock

Veteran Spiritualists' Union, Anniversary Celebration.

The Veteran Spiritualists' Union will hold The Veteran Spiritualist' Union will hold Anniversary Exercises, to commemorate the advent of Modern Spiritualism, Satur-day, March 31, at 2.30 and 7.30 p. m., in the First Spiritual Temple, corner of Exeter and Newbury Streets, Boston. The direct-ors are planning to have this celebration one of the best. There will be excellent music and some literary features of rare

The speakers will be announced later. Programs will be sent to the various occettes and centres, as the custom has been in past years, that all may know the rich treat that awaits the people in lofty

The treat that awaits the people in lotty thought and loving message, in commemo-ration of our natal day. There will be an informal reception be-tween the sessions at which everybody is expected to remain and become acquainted with everybody else. Representatives from all coexiste are confident with the period. expected to remain and become acquainted with everybody else. Representatives from all societies are cordially invited to be pres-ent and report to the Reception Committee on their arrival so that they may be made at home with frenchs who will gladly wel-come them on this occasion. The speakers will be announced in a later issue of the "Banner" Hannet

Mr Irving F Symonds, Mrs. B. W. Belcher, Mrs. Minnie M Soule, Com. of Arrangements

Benefit Tea Party.

The tea party for the benefit of the Unity Camp Building Fund, held in Freedom Hall, Lynn, on March t6th, was largely at-tended and a good sum realized. Those assisting with readings were Mrs. Dr. Caird, Mrs. Dr. Chase, Mrs. Mamie Hel-yett, Mrs. Dr. Chase, Mrs. Mamie Hel-yett, Mrs. H. M. Bunting, Mrs. Hattie Lewis, Mrs. Carrie Hare, Mrs. Victoria, Mrs. Florence Page, Mrs. L. Ward and W. A. Estes. The next benefit in the series will be given by Mrs. S. C. Cunningham, on Friday evening, April 6th.

Here is a sample of Indian wit from the "Chemawa American." The paper was late in coming out and one of the Indian printers on being asked: "Do you think you can eatch up?" replied: "I am not a tomato, so I can't say."

YOUR PERSONALITY, disposition and a psychic read ing given from a lock of hair for be selver) and 2. stamp. Editor OCCULT TRUTHSEEKYR, Lawrence

The Guiding Star. A NEW PUBLICATION.

"The dualing Star" is a record of reachingt and test-mont so members of the "Star Circle Spirit Band" It contains a with Uthity portrains of members of the Band a photo raphed by supirit at 14 during the seames wh te helr bodily formew ere manifest to be assembly. The dualing Maxway fine white paper, bound in silk ultily printed on heavy fine white paper, bound in silk Price, $2.50, postpaid.

For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT.

PHILOSOPHY OF CREATION, Unfolding and embracing the Philosophy of Man, Spirit, and the Spirit World. By Thomas Pains, through the band of R. G. WOOD medium. Cloth, By cents. For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT.

C. 00

WORKS BY

EMMA ROOD TUTTLE

From Soul to Soul.

indred and twenty of the a admirably adapted for recht songs, with music by the t They are admirably ada tains five songs, with m mes G. Clars. 210 pages,

Asphodel Blooms and Other Offerings This volume is dedicated: "To those whose i ongings reach into the Unseen Land of South in of Asphoeis, mixed with common Sower opping to give sett and p saure while waiting atking on the journey fluther." The parts, it illustrations among which are itknesses of the Just Tuttier besultfully bound in hume, with

Angell Prize-Contest Becitati

To Advance Humane Education. lied to be used in entertainments managed or Societies, Lycerums, Sunday Schools, Band or individuals atming to establish right over wr a over cutly, knowledge over ignorance, and

Special price to Contestants

HUDSON TUTTLE, Publisher, BERLIN HEIGHTS, OHIO. 2556 1

New Edition, Just Out. With a beautiful pertrait of Pearl, the Spirit

In the World Celestial

DR. T. A. BLAND.

DR. T. A. BLAND. Is a wonder thi lock, being the personal Experiences of the time, task index exercises of the personal transmission time, task time per the second transmission of the time task in period to a symmetric transmission of the time task in period to a symmetric transmission of the time task in the transmission of the second transmission to specify with here in the celestial performs if to the word in the second terry to his first and reformer. This book has a brilliant infroduction of the second the weight of his to qualified endormerson. This book has a brilliant infroduction of the second the weight of his to qualified endormerson. This book has a brilliant infroduction of the second the weight of his to qualified endormerson. This book the stard of the second the second terry to the weight of his to qualified endormerson of the second terry the the weight of his to the second the second terry the second terry of the frame of the second terry in the transmitter of the second terry in the the second terry of the second terry of the frame of the second terry in the transmitter of the second terry in the the second terry of the frame of the second terry of the second terry of the transmitter of the second terry of the second terry of the transmitter of the second terry of the second terry of the transmitter of the second terry of the second terry of the transmitter of the second terry of the second terry of the transmitter of the second terry of the second terry of the transmitter of the second terry of the second terry of the transmitter of the second terry of the second terry of the transmitter of the second terry of the second terry of the transmitter of the second terry of the second terry of the terry of the second terry of the second terry of the terry of the second terry of the second terry of the second terry of the terry of the second terry cloumes." The new edition has "I full page photo of the here Pearl, from a spirit portrait obtained through the medi whip of the Bange Sisters in the presence of Dr. Band This book in best cloth binding for $1.05. For sale a' the BANNES OF LIGHT BOOK STORE 24 Dartmouth Street.

97apr]

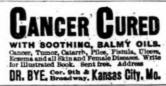

A New and Notable Book

By W. J. COLVILLE. Universal Spiritualism, Spirit Communion

in All Ages, Among All People."

TO BE ISSUED WITHIN A FEW WEEKS. It will be seen how competent the author is to reader this the best boost at its alud. It will be written this control, so that models will be a seen to be this control, so that modern hainness any be writted. It should be in the hands of all Spiritualists to do missionary work for the Cause.

Price before publication seventy five centa per copy ; when published, one doilar a copy. Orders at these rates taken at the BANNER OF LIGHT BOOK STORE.

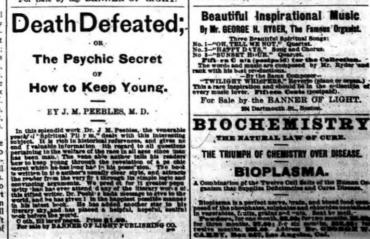

RULES AND ADVICE FOR THOSE DE SIRING TO FORM CIRCLES, where, through Developed Media, they may Commune with South Friends A SIRING TO FORM CIRCLES, where, through Derey oped Media, they may commune with Spirit Priesda. The system with a Declaration of Principles and Belief, and Brunns and Songs for Circle and Social Singing. Complete by JAMES H. YOUNG. Taper, pp. 4th price Beautimeters. For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT.

BANNER OF LIGHT.

In a benediction sweet.

The Massachusetts State Association will half, Tuesday, March 27, morning, after-normal evening. The following talent invited: Dr. George A. Fuller, president Kris, Carrie F. Loring, treasurer; Miss Kris, Cartie F. Loring, treasurer; Miss Kris, Cartie F. Loring, treasurer; Miss Kris, Nettie Holt-Harding, Mrs. Maude Lich, Mrs. Alice M. Whall, Mrs. Alex Gard, Mrs. Alice M. Whall, Mrs. Alex Gard, Mrs. Alice M. Wall, Mrs. Alex Gard, Mrs. Alice M. Mall, Mrs. Alex Gard, Mrs. Alice M. Mall, Mrs. Alex Gard, Mrs. Alice M. S. Ayer, Mrs. March & Wiggin, Mr. Jas. S. Scarlet, Miss Izetta Sears, Mrs. M. S. Ayer, Mrs. Mathematical Scarlet, Mrs. Alex Gard, Mrs. Alice M. S. Ayer, Mrs. Mathematical Scarlet, Mrs. Alex Gard, Mrs. M. Helvett, Mrs. A. S. Ayer, Mrs. Miss Izetta Sears, Mrs. M. S. Ayer, Mrs. Mathematical Scarlet, Mrs. Market, Mrs. Mathematical Scarlet, Mrs. Market, Mrs. Mathematical Scarlet, Mrs. Mathematical Scarlet, Mathematical Scarlet, Mathematical Scarlet, Scarlet, Mathematical Scarlet, Scarlet, Mathematical Scarlet, Scarlet, Mathematical Scarlet, Scarlet, Mrs. Mathematical Scarlet, Mathematical Scarlet, Scarlet, Scarlet, Mathematical Scarlet, Scarlet, Scarlet, Mathematical Scarlet, The Massachusetts State Association will

BANNER OF LIGH

Our Some Circle. MINHIE MESERVE SOULE.

In Memoriam. MARQUERITE ENTLIA BUST. 1891-1905

Rivenoak.

(Written for the Bann of Light.) Dear, patient little soul! The end

The weariness, the pain, at last are o'er, And through the gates 'of Heaven open wide, Thou hast gone on, to suffer now no

Long were the years of anguish that were borne, And long the nights of pain and wild un-

Sad were thy days of youth, so circum scribed-

Of all of childhood's joys thou wert bereft.

Now all is o'er. Thy little form lies still, With eyes fast closed and meekly folded hands; So quiet and so peaceful does it lie, We know thou heardst with its know thou heardst with joy the Lord's commands.

Sweet ever was thy soul, my gentle nicce, Unselfishness and patience, tender love, Marked every day of thy brief earthly life And showed thy fitness for the life above. love, y life

Dear Lord, oh! help us shape our lives as

And faithful and as loving as did she Live out her little span of earth life here Fit preparation for the life to be.

And when at last the gates shall open wide,

And our tired spirits pass unto our rest, We know that in the band that greets us there. We'll clasp again this dear child to our breast.

A LINE IN OUR GOLDEN CHAIN. RADIATE SUNSHINE AND PEACE!

There is an hour of keenest pain when one returns to the familiar scenes of life and labor after a loved companion in ser-vice has slipped out of sight and entered into the fulness of the spiritual hife. Such an hour was ours to bear when we stepped into the office the first time after the passing of our friend, that sunny phil-osopher and embodiment of sunshine, that sweet' singer of spiritual harmonies, Mr. William Brunton.

William Brunton. It was not his absence but his presente that overwhelmed us; not the silence but the speaking reality of him as an unseen but nevertheless tangible influence in the air theat about us.

Everything whispered his name. A noise outside our room was his lootstep on the stair; a bird fluttering down to our window was his shadow at our desk and a voice be-low was surely his cheery greeting as he yet he never faltered. When men hid in I want to talk about my mother. She has So from him I pattern took had a picture made of me. I am going to walk right up and give (it a hit on the glass some day and surprise her. She has heard that dead folks can talk and she wishes she could get a message, but she doesn't know just how to go to work and do it, so I thought I would come and give her a tip. I suppose it is pretty hard for a mother to have her boy die. They generally take it pretty hard anyway, but they wouldn't feel so bad if they knew we were all right and there were lovely things over here. I would like to get hold of some of the boys, I could the them a lot of things which they don't know, and I do. Give my love to Ma. Tell her to cheer up. There is noth-ing to cry about and I will come to her whenever I get a chance and try to help-her headaches and help her to do anything I can. Goodby." I am going to ad a picture made of me. the shadow and bade him seek them there like a rift of sunshine he followed on and Since like Daddy now I look his spirit illumined the path for them, and they walked no more in the darkness. When despair piled mountains of agony between frail women and the blessed light of heaven, fils pure faith removed them and the the streng of hence them and they was When Pink and white is Daddy's skin, Pink and white is Daddy's skin, Mine is pinker, whiter too,-And the dimple in his chin? Well, I've got one right in view; Then, like him, I'm always good, Never cross, and never bad, Sleep and smile as babies should Jûst because I look like Dad. of heaven, his pure faith removed them and bet the stars of hope shine in. When the dark cross of crucifixion hung in inky blackness on the mounts of Truth, the lightning of his undimmed and resplen-dent honor, brought dismay to those who reared its hideous beams. The unquenchable fire of the spiritual purpose he kept burning on his altar, and the radiance and blessedness of it fell across the hearts of men and women and gave them new life and energy their duties to perform. should My dear Daddy says each day— "Prettiest boy on earth is he"— Funny thing for him to say, Not polite if seems to me: Now when mamma says if o'er, I don't mind—it makes me glad, For I think she loves me more Just because I look like Dad. Susan Childs, Lawrence, Mass. Ah, he will play hide-and-seek no more with the phantoms of men and women, and the shadowy forms of the unreal and un-true will no more tantalize his truth loving spirit. Susan Childs, Lawrence, Mass. Here is a spirit of a woman I. should think about the medium height, not very stout and a very fair, bautiful face. Her hair is white and it's combed so carefully and beautifully that you just feel like touching it and almost unconsciously you look at it over and over sgain. Her name is Susan Childs and she says. "I lived in Lawrence, Mass. I want to send a message to my son, Henry. O, the spirit world is so beautiful, I never drgamed that Heaven would be hall so fair, and over and over Of course it is not what one reads or studies which counts, but what he retains. Therefore when one comes upon anything that is valuable he should do as the car-penter does with a nail which he wishes to hold-clinch it. A few things well pon-dered and fixed in the memory are worth hundreds of others rapidly passed and soon forgotten.—Our Paper. Daddy loves her-so do I, And she calls us each "Her Boy." He and I will always try Just to give her sweetest joy; Oh, what chums we three shall be; spirit. Now, "with strength renewed and spirit bright," he will send the sunshine of his spirit right down to the very roots of the souls of men and women and set them growing into beauty and strength. They will stand revealed to his larger vision and his splendid energies will waste Always happy, never sad, And I guess we'll all agree That it's nice to look like Dad. March 1st, 1906, Wash., D. C. ore on the seeming themselves no more on the seeming and the unreal. Tired of the play! Yes, but even as the words are dropped in rhythmic measure for the comfort to our aching hearts the ear-nest and ardent disciple breathes a prayer for strength and brightness as an assurance that his services shall not cease. We miss him so, and yet we know so well that all that made him dear and true and brave and helpful is ours today as yester-day. The love we feel must breathe itself out in a prayer that we may always be attuned to the melodies of his new life and sing so song but his, a song of triumphant faith over doubt, of love over hate, of light over darkness, of right over wrong, of goodness over evil and of life over death. M. M. S. no

A Dream.

Mrs Nicholas Williams. (Written for the Banner of Light.)

The sultry summer day hung like a spell o'er every mortal sense, and in my easy chair reclining near the window, I heard chair recliming near the window, I heard each country sound pulse with the heat through the closed casement, while a sun-beam sharp and bright glinted through a crevice in the shutter, and lay across my bosom. Watching its tremulous shimmer, sleep o'ercame me, and I dreamed a heavenly dream. A little child with winged feat and the dews of heaven in her eves sleep o'ercame mey and 1 oreamed a heavenly dream. A little child with winged feet and the dews of heaven in, her eyes, floated on the sunbeam down from Para-dise, and laid her golden head upon my breast. Her voice, attuned to sweetest melody trembled on my ear. "O, lonely hearted mother, deeply loved, be comforted, thy little one, though lost to earth, has gained eternity. I come from the Am-brosial vales of the Celestial Country, to pour'a balm into thy heart, and sweeten bitter sorrow. I come to be a flower in thy path, a star upon thy sky. A strain of sweetest music in thy life, a joy to thee forever. The ills of life lie with my empty garments, and by pellucid streams and sunny slopes. I sport the hours away. Im-mortal flowers bloom beneath my footsteps, and fragrance, love, and life, are mine for-evermore. I live for thee in every lovely thing, the fleecy cloud above thy head, the trembling stars, to dee down to rest. I will low the down to rest.

trembling stars, the splendor of the morn-ing all speak to thee of me, and when thou, too, shall lay thee down to test. I will whisper thee the way that I have gone, and thou and I shall sing above the stars." I awoke, but my heavenly guest had vanished, taking 'the sunbeam with her. I felt with speechless awe that I had enter-tained an "Angel unawares" and I know for a truth, when I shall enter the heavenly portals, "a little child will lead me in."

An Evidence from the Beyond. J. H. Lewis.

Out of the many incidents that have arrested my attention, while investigating the truths of Spiritualism, I will relate one the truths of Spiritualism, I will relate one that happened during a public service held' on the lawn of the Home in Waverley. It may assist some in determining the vexed question, "Can we manifest ourselves to our friends after the change termed death?" One Sunday last July, 1905, while seated on the lawn at the Home, in company with nearly a hundred others, a medium walked across the lawn to me, and said. "There is a boy in the spirit who comes to me, and wishes to make himself known to you. He is twelve or fourteen years old, his hair is reddish or brick color, eyes are blue. He' is very much freekled; he now shows me his Daddy's' eyes are very blue. Mine are just as blue 'tis said. Daddy's hairs are very few On the iront part of his head— So are mine—as'scarce can be— But for that, of course I'm glad, ~ What's the use of hair on me If I'm going to look like Dad? Then all our murmurings and wonderings ceased and with a great sob we sat down in ceased and with a great sob we sat down in the silence and questioned no more. Like a child he had been playing with the shadow of things and he yearned for the full and sincere expression of the spirifual life, where men and women spoke and worked as immortal_beings. The good, the true, the real had been singing itself into his soul and the melody was so sweet and alluring that the yearn-ings of his heart were awakened to The forever in that heroic and Godlike atmos-phere. I had better come and send a message to my mother. Her name is Emma and she lives in Worcester. I wasn't afraid. I suppose if I had been, I would have lived, for I would never have gone out on the ice, but I don't want to talk about that; to speak to Fred. Very often I find myself so close to him almost without any specific. desire on my part, but as though he drew me by his need and his thought of me, and when I am there I see very plainly what he should do and want to tell him, but the word dies in the air and he never knows what helpful things I might say if he would only make conditions right for my exprés-sion. I have often been with Lizzie through her last, long sickness and icel confident myself that she never would have gotten well except for the influence which I, with the rest of, the friends, have been able to bring to her. If Freddie would only sit for me or go somewhere where I could speak to him, I am sure i would make him very happy and I am sure I could tell him so many things about our friends, who are here with me, that he would iele that he had not been left behind, but was a part of the family on this side. I guess I have taken all the space that belongs to me and I thank you very much." Mother wanted me with curls, But that wasn't in the plan, Curls are only made for girls And I want to be a man Just like Daddy big and strong, thought is could the more readily recognize him if he presented the playthings that I bought him. I am now content to believe, that it was indeed little Sammy Taylor that presented himself before the paychic vision of the medium for recognition. I believe, also, that he knew I was present in the circle and took advantage of the oppor-tunity to make his presence known to me; and I am indeed grateful to him for con-firming me in my own belief that we retain our recollection of things done in earth life after we pass over the "Great Divide." For more than thirty years has Sammy remem-bered the circumstance of my presenting to him the bat and ball, the jackknife and harmonica, for the sole purpose of recall-ing to my own mind the happy 'incident of the long ago. And somehow, this brief visit to me of the little boy from the skies has given me more help and more light to understand the persistence and continuity of conscious life after death than all the la-bored technical phraseology of psychical scientists, for little Sammy Taylor, whose young life went out through the troubled seas in long ago, has come back to my pres-ence through the agency of the medium of his own volition, unsolicited, and almost forgotten by me. And the same law that governs and preserves the self conscious-ness of my little friend is the same law that governs and preserves the self conscious-ness of my little friend is the same law that governs and preserves the self conscious-ness of my little friend is the same law that governs and preserves the self conscious-ness of my little friend is the same law that governs and preserves the self conscious-ness of my little friend is the same law that governs and preserves the self conscious-ness of my little friend is the same law un-der whose influence all mankind shall pass at the change called death. J. H. Lewis. V. S. U., Waverley Home. if he pr

V. S. U., Waverley Home.

Why Women Should Vote.

To the Editor of The American:

Because nature has endowed woman with mental faculties equal, if not superior, to those of man.
 Because man's injustice has deprived woman of her natural right ever since primitive man subjected her to his will by.

primitive man subjected her to his will by-sheer physical force. 3. Because man has taken advantage of woman's defenseless position in framing unjust, iniquitous and debasing laws that uphold man and degrade woman. 4. Because man has demonstrated his

4. Because man has demonstrated his utter failure in running a federal or mu-nicipal government upon high moral prin-teres.

ciples. 5. Because wars will never cease until woman's voice shall usher in the reign of Because divine justice demands equal rights for all without discrimination of sex.

 Because the law of regeneration demands woman's sphere to be enlarged to direct the moral and intellectual forces of coming race Henry Scharffetter. Baltimore, Md.

No Danger for the Girls.

In the spring term of the current year the athletic young women of Smith Col-lege developed a passion for baseball. In conversation with a distinguished visitor at the college. President L. Clarke Seeyle spoke of the fresh enthusiasm which the students were manifesting in the national eame.

SPIRIT Mlessage Department.

AGE GIVEN TH

MRS. MINNIE M. SOULE.

In Explanation

The following communications are given by Mrs. Soule while under the control of her own guides for the good of the individual spirits seeking to reach their friends on carth. The messages are reported steno-graphically by a representative of the "Ban-ner of Light" and are given in the presence of other members of the "Banner" staff. These circles are not public.

To Our Beaders.

To Our Beaders. We carnestly request our patrons to verify such communications as they know to be based upon fact in these columns. This is not so much for the benefit of the "Banner of Light" as it for the good of the reading public. Truth is truth and will bear its own burdens wherever it is made known to the world. In the cause of truth, kindly assist us to find those whom you believe may verify them. Many of them are not Spirit-nalists of subscribers to the "Banner of Light," so may we ask each of you to be-come a missionary for your particular lo-'cality? ality?

INVOCATION.

With perfect trust and childlike confi-dence we come into this circle asking that all we have, all of strength, all of hope or knowledge which we possess may be given-to these dear hearts who are seeking to make themselves' known and understood by those they love. Something of that joy that comes to reunited souls after a tengariton, which has becaute pain and by those they love. Something of that joy that comes to reunited souls after a separation which has brought pain and doubt and distrust and despair, we feel as we come here today, and are conscious of the power of the spirit to bridge any seem-ing gulf of separation, something of that hope which shines on the faces of the angels as they look down into a world struggling with conditions of materiality and yet know that the soul inmortal will find its way; something of that hope we have in our hearts at this moment and would pass on to those who doubt this pre-cious, precious gift of ours. Everything fades away into insignificance and inconse-quence in the light of the glorious knowl-edge of the progress of souls.—and so with that bigness of heart and joyousness of spirit, we join the grand march onward and sing our songs and chant our hymns of praise and bid all that are discouraged or uncertaip or unhappy to join with us and orter between the immerial heights. O praise and bid all that are discouraged by uncertain or unhappy to join with us and catch glimpses of the immortal heights. O Spirit of truth and love and tenderness manifesting power in every living thing, make manifest thyself in us now and for-

MESSAGES.

evermore. Amen

Alice Emery, Watertown, Mass.

Alice Emery, Watertown, Mass. The first spirit that comes to me this morning is a woman about forty-five years old. She has gray hair and brown eyes and a very strong face, she seems to be persistent and positive and whatever she attempted to do when she was alive on the earth she did with an energy and force that was good to see. Her name is Alice Emery and she says, "I lived in Watertown, Mass., just a little way from the place where this circle is held. There must have been more or less of this Spiritualism going on around me, but I paid no attention to it. I was busy with my own affairs and my life and I didn't seem to have time to do anything else or take up any new studies. I think very many people if they realized the im-portance or the significance of Spiritualism would study the thing and find out for themselves about it, but it is just like many other things that are really important for the world to know and yet only a few know or understand about them. Very few peo-ple understand anything about sanita-tion. and yery few people understand anylow was surely his cheery greeting as he came merrily up to bur room. Yes, yes, he was here, there and every-where, just out of sight, somewhere, and presently he would stand before us in the old familiar way and laugh at our discom-fiture and our pain. In a pigeon-hole of our desk were some contributions of his, which from time, to time he had brought to/us with the happy suggestion that they were To be used some-time when we were short of material. In a sort of endcator to somehow catch the elusive spirit which was so real and so near, we picked up one of the folded manuscripts and there on the pure white paper written by the hand now cold and still in death, was this message from his sweet spirit: The visitor, having his own ideals on in-telligent gentlewomen, looked somewhat distressed at this announcement. "Aren't you afraid," he asked, "that base-ball will have a tendency to make the girls is twelve or fourteen years old, his hair is reddish or brick color, eyes are blue. He' is very much freckled; he now shows me his hands. In one of them he holds a baseball, in the other he shows me a jack-knife and what appears to be a harmonica, and now I think I hear him say Sammy. I, think he must have been drowned." said the medium. "for I feel as though I was drowning. I see him now, his hair all dripping with water. Yees, he must have been drowned, his body is so wet and cold. Do you recognize this little boy?" said the medium to me, "ne tells me now that his full name is "Samuel Taylor." Ah, yes, I well remem-bered poor dear little Sammy Taylor, and until this evidence we never knew the man masculine?' masculine?" A humorous expression stole over Presi-dent Secyle's face. "Masculine?" he echoed. "My dear friend, if you could only watch the girls pitching the ball you would never have any further fears on that score." --Ex. her to understand that I shall never get so far away from her or, any of my friends, that I will not know when she is coming and be prepared to meet her and give her a greeting. I cannot quite settle down to living withon ther. I don't want to; I would rather wait until the comes and then we will go on together. I was in business and gen-erally took good car'e that I found out the whole truth about the people I was trading with before I-twok their word on anything and that is why I made such delay in find-ing out about you people who believe m-what to me was a strange thing before I came to give my message. I am greatly Like Daddy. sweet spirit: (Soliloquy of Robert Payson Fugitt, inter-preted by his mother, Agnes Wink Fugitt.) LIKE TIRED CHILD. Like tired child, who all the day. Has nothing done but play and play: Now at the slanting rays of sun. I feel aweary of the fun. And all I ask is boon of rest. To fall asleep in slumber blest: Then wake at morn in golden light, With strength renewed and spirit bright! bered poor dear little Sammy Laylor, and until this evidence we never knew the man-ner of his death, nor have we seen or heard from Sammy since he went away from us many years ago. The description given to me of little Samhy Taylor, by the medium, made a very deep impression upon my, mind for the following reasons, which I will briefly relate. I'm a little haby boy, Only came one month ago To this world of doubtful joy Filled with strange things I don't know. But I think I'll stay awhile, Nothing seems so very bad, Everyone gives me a smile, And they say I look like Dad. came to give my message. I am greatly obliged to you and will now take my deple understand the laws of health; very few people understand anything about sanita-tion, and very few people understand any-thing about idiots or insanity; they go on in their own paths of life blinded to any-thing beyond the vision of the everyday and do not comprehend the power and the beauty and the significance of the life out-side. I don't suppose that my words will bring very many people to a knowledge of the truth, but they may help my friends to understand that there is something beyond this life, and that by effort they can com-municate with me. I have a great desire to speak to Fred. Very often I find myself so close to him almost without any specific. desire on my part, but as though ne drew me by his need and his thought of me, and obliged to partura me of little Samby Taylor, by the medium, made a very deep impression upon my-mind for the following reasons, which I will briefly relate. In the fall of the year 2, we became acquainted with the family of Mr. Taylor hile on a visit to some friends in Glouces-ter, Mass. While there Sammy Taylor and I became great friends. He was sprightly, gord natured, and obliging. He took pleas-ure in showing me all the noted places in and about the city of Gloucester; so in some way to reward him for his kindness to us, I thought that I would buy him what, in the down among the stores. We came to one store that displayed a large variety of sporting goods. Sammy stopped there, his eye caught the glint of fancy jackknives, have balls, bats, etc. I knew then that Sammy? "Could I have a jackknive, to first the glint of fancy jackknive, babl?" "O my yes." "What else, Sammy?" "Could I have a jackknife, tor?" Yes." Just as I was buying these things for Sammy, a boy came into the store and vanted to buy a harmonica. At how in the store and I said. "Yes, Sammy, pick out a harmonica, too." And now, with these boys' treasures in his possession, Sammy's cup of joy was full. That day I had Sammy goodby and started for home in Boston, with a promise from him that he would pay me a visit the following summer, during vacation time of his school, which would be in the summer of 180; and the medium told and described to may on the lawn at the Waverley Home last ummer, 1905. All the facts in the case that any one could tell us were that Captain Taylor took his son, Sammy Taylor, with him on a fishing trip to the Georges Banks of the vessel or crew, have ever been heard. And so after these thirty-two years, Sammy comes from the world of spirit, and pre-Frank Pillsbury. Worcester, Mass. There is a spirit of a boy I should think William Brunton, There is a spirit of a boy I should think about fifteen. Oh, he is just one of those bright, happy, daring boys. He was drowned. I can see him skating on the ice and going down and while they get his body it is dead, when it is recovered. He says, "Well, my name is Frank Pillsbury. I never lived in Boston. I would never have come here except some of my folks thought I had better come and send a message to eel as if I must take all my frie ee the wonderful beauty and to the wonderful beauty and to ce of it all. My boy is as yer a mother could ask for boy as ev joy the peace of it all. My boy is as good a boy as ever a mother could ask for, and everything that he could do for me he did in tenderness and love. We were very close together, and when I left him it was hard for me to grow accustomed to the in-dependent life that was thrust upon me through my death. I had grown to look to him for assistance, for suggestion, for cor-roboration in everything I said or did and when the new light dawned for me, I felt for his hand and his influence to help me understand what it was all about. I am so glad for the family that I went away just as I did without a struggle or an effort or distress. It is better for them to think of it in that way. I have been very near Annie and Walter and have sometimes been some other sound that reminded her of my yoice, when in reality it was I. I send this message to them all to have them know that I am bappy and that I can come to them and am glad that it is just as it is. Mrs. Wingate, who was my friend so many years ago has been so helpful with her cheery brightness and her devotion to me. I wanted to tell Henry about this. Thank you very much."

MARCH 94, 1906.

Charlotte Brooks, Topeka, Kansas.

Charlotte Brooks, Topera, Kansss. Here is a spirit of a woman I should think about fifty years old, she is very stout and very fine and strong looking. She says that her name is Mrs. Charlotte Brooks and she says. "O. I have been trying so long to get a chance to speak here; it seems sometimes as though the places are all taken so quickly by people who know just what they want to say that we mothers who are overcome with the possibility of communicating are taken aback and unable to say our little bit that we have prepared. I have two children, Jennie and Arthur, and they are both in need of my influence: they are very sensitive and responsive to any in-fluence from this life and that makes them all the more in need of me. Jennie sufare very sensitive and responsive to any in-fluence from this life and that makes them all the more in need of me. Jennie suf-fers so from intense headaches that I have been looking into the matter and find that it is the pressure of influence, sometimes from spirits in the body, sometimes out, that comes upon her and that it is brought about by her extreme sensitiveness. I would like to see her make use of the power which I know she possesses. My sister, Lucy, came here before I did and she and my mother and I can form a strong circle or battery for the young people and help them in their development. They know something of this, but in a very un-satisfactory way, so I would like to have you take this message from me as a request that they start in earnestly and faithfully to get into communication direct with me. I thank you very much for taking the me-sage. I lived in Topeka, Kan."

Alfred Callender, Richmond, Va.

Here is a spirit of a man I think about sixty-five or seventy years old. He is very tall and rather slender but strong and tall and rather slender but strong and vigorous looking. He has long brown hair with just a little of the gray mixed in it and he seems to be so well preserved that you would hardly think him as old as he is. He comes in a strong way and he says. "My name is Alfred Callender," and he says, "I lived in Richmond, Va., and it has been after a good deal of deliberation that I have decided to come and make an effort to send a message to my we, whose rame is Abbie. She is ready to receive any word from me which I may send and I want her to understand that I shall never get so lar away from her or, any of my friends. tall

The Rebietver.

Edmund Clarence Stedman has departed from his custom of refraining from com-menting on new books. After reading "The Florence of Landor," by Lilian Whit-ing, he said in part: "A very picturesque book, which should be of service in bring-ing our most classic modern poet before the reading public as a live personage—a human figure—against a background of ab-sorbing beauty and interest."

Is Mental Science any Good? By Samue

George. This little pamphlet of 128 pages gives the writer's experience in curing himself and others by the practice of the New Thought methods. It is written in a homely, uncultivated style by a man who appears to have had but little literary edu-cation but it tells its story plainly and with appears to have had but httle iterary edu-cation, but it tells its story plainly and with a zeal born of a mighty faith and to this extent, at least, it is a "human document" and justifies its existence. America has many books on this subject which are in every way better adapted to an American audience than is this little English pam-whilet phlet. The Twentieth Century Christ. By Faul Karishka. 7. 1/2 by 5 in.; pp. 205. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., Boston. Paul Karishka is the pen-name of a well known jurist. His book is startling in its boldness, yet reverent in tone. It displays a vast amount of philosophical reading, covering as it does Buddhism, Confucian-ism and the system of the great Chinaman, Laotse, the Zoroastrian philosophy, the Greek scholasficism and the modern French, German and English schools. The author compresses into this little volume of two hundred pages the essentials of all religions so far as they bear upon his view of the Christ. This he calls "dabbling in philosophy;" but certainly he is over mod-est. Brevity of exposition presupposes the most intimate knowledge of his topic and the condensation of this volume arises from no imperfect half knowledge. That there is "nothing new under the sun" is shown to be as true in the philosophies and religions of the world as in the material arts and startlingly prominent when the author at-tempts to show,—and succeeds, too,—that Herbert Spencer's Synthetical Philosophy is but a modern, Anglicized version, both in method and result, of the studies and is but a modern, Anglicized version, both in method and result, of the studies and teachings of Gautama, better, although im-properly, known to Occidentals as "the Buddha."

properly, known to Occidentals as "the Buddha." The style of the writer is as attractive as his theories are interesting. Poetic, imag-ery smiles from his pages everywhere and enlivens with pleasure the demonstrations of the most abstruse philosophic doctrines. What is the "Twentieth Century Christ?" It is not the Christ of the Church, veiled in myth, clouded from our clearer latter-day vision by the theological contests of me-diaeval churchmen, obscured by dogma of self-seeking salvationists. It is not the in-comprehensible Man-God or God-man whom the western dark ages created with a perverse ignorance of history, regarding everything outside their narrow vision as "heathenish," and "idolatrous," as if the millions of earth's peoples had for thou-sands, of ages wallowed in ignorance as dense as their own without one particle of truth to temper the falsity of their philoso-phies. Let the author tell us in his own way:

Let the author tell us in his own way: "The Christ that I behold," he days, "has soil and dust on his seamless robe-his pil-low is a stone, and his bed the ground. His eyes have at times a hunted look; his hands have labored and are hand. He rends his garments and weeps over Jerusalem. He is a patriot, a poet, a thinker! Passion tears his heart; thought tortures his brain. His three years of teaching and practice were one nightmare of agony, culminating in the sublime climax, when he said to his disciples who slept. 'Couldst thou not watch with me one hour?'

and the sum of the china when the and to make the state of th has closed his eyes to every path to the mountain top of truth except the one whereon his feet and the fact of his ances-tors have trodden through the centuries. "My way or be damned." The church has always cried. It is a racial characteristic, it seems to be, or to have been, in our blood. We forgot and are still too apt to forget, that the mountain of Truth has but one peak and that Truth lies there, alone, one, universal, to be equally the property of all seekers by whatever path they come and from whatever valley of doubt, and despair their start was made. Mime Inness.

Review of Passing Events.

Hudson Tuttle, Editor at Large, N.S. A.

THE PROGRESSIVE LYCEUM.

THE PROGRESSIVE LYCEUM. The National Association has recognized the Progressive Lyceum as an important factor-whose purpose is to instruct in the highest morality and encourage the noble self-devotion, fraternity, and unselfshness which should be the object of religious training. It appointed and maintains a superintendent of this work, John W. Ring, who is enthusiastic in his efforts to extend the movement. There have been many Ly-ceums organized, and wherever proper efforts have been made, these have been successfully maintained and of great benefit to those interested. In England the Ly-ceum has been, from the first, independent of the soliety and all the local organiza-tions are bound together in a union. Hence it presents a strong front and is the vital force of the spiritual cause. The this coughtry, with few exceptions, the Lyceum has been an annex to the society. It has been like a church Sunday school and its claims made secondary where they have met with any consideration. Spiritualists have not appeared to appreciate the neces-sity of providing their children with a place of meeting where they would not be taught the dogmas from which they have escaped. The Lyceum is not for a set, but takes all nature and the wisdom of writers of the past and present, for its text-book. Its object is to free the soul from bondage to belief, and makes the child nature in the strength of knowledge, self-poised, self-reliant and is man or woman, able to meet the affairs of life. The National Association has recognized life. Its idea is to stir up the mind and make it think for itself. In this it is the reverse of the old plan of cramming with other people's thoughts, thereby stifling the mind and making the most educated the most dwarfed. For this purpose it requires more than ordinary teachers who simply prompt when the memory fails. The success of the Lyceum depends largely on the ability of the teachers: on their earnestness and devo-

than ordinary teachers who simply prompt when the memory fails. The success of the Lyceum depends largely on the ability of the teachers; on their earnestness and devo-tion and, it may be observed that the teach-ers are thereby benefited even more than the members of their classes. All are pupils, all are teachers. The inquiry is repeatedly made: How shall we organize a Lyceum? Where can we obtain a person to instruct us? While the instructions of a person ac-quainted with the work is desirable, it is by no means essential. The Lyceum Guide gives complete in-structions, so that a group of people with ordinary conducting intelligence will have no difficulty in organizing a Lyceum. It gives the plan, with examples and sugges-tions, leaving the leaders to extend the work in any and every direction they find most profitable. The author, Emma Rood Tuitle, impressed with the needs of the or-ganization, by long experience in conduct-ing a Lyceum, condensed in this book that which had been found by practical applica-tion to be most valuable. There were few appropriate songs and these she wrote. A like want of appropriate music was met by securing for the volume the work of the composer, and singer, James G. Clark. Thie designs and scheme of colors were contrib-uted by Professor St. Johns, one of the most talefield of American artists. Orig-inal matter was contributed by Dr. Peebles, J. O. Barrett, Augusta Cooper Bristol, Annie Herbert, author of "When the Mists Have Rolled Away." and many others. Her purpose was to have in one book every instruction essentil for the organiza-tion and maintenance of a Lyceum. The interest awakened in members of a society is in ratio to their personal efforts. A meeting is a good meeting to the weap

The interest awakened in members of a society is in ratio to their personal efforts. A meeting is a good meeting to the who engage in the discussions, if only by way of briefest expression. Every member of a Lyceum is expected to come prepared with at least one thought for its altar, and by this symposium is made a profitable and interesting hour. Such a society, it will be seen, is inde-pendent of outside lecturers although, when thought desirable, these may be engaged. Its existence, however, does not depend on such extraneous aid. It is self-con-tained; a school and a service for all. The most potent deterrent is the fear that there will not be a large membership. At first this should not be expected, nor does the size of the crowd indicate success. Better a half dozen with zeal than crowds drawn by curiosity and bizarre programs.

drawn by curiosity and bizarre programs. There are instances where parents object-ing to their children imbibing the doctrines taught, in the Sunday Schools, which by experience they have found difficult to free themselves froh, have a family Lyceum, to which they invite neighboring children, and the results have exceeded their expecta-tions. It will be found that if the leaders are earnest and faithful in their purpose, there will always be an attendance, often of those least expected. What shall be taught? There is constant inquiry for "Lesson Leaves," similar to

If the glorious works unders and the trail books to the Lyceum landers and the trail should be to make all exembers mutual students and teachers. While the Lesson Leaves issued by the sects have only one source of information and their instructions are alike applicable to every age, from the child to the adult, the Lyceum, expected to sects have only one source of information and their instructions are alike applicable to every age, from the child to the adult, the members of the Lyccum, expected to think and reason as well as to receive, must, each be led in a different manner, and the leaders must study to bring before their groups subjects of interest and make them attractive. At this time when commemorative ser-vices remind us of our obligations to the past and to the pioneers who blazed the way, at least a passing mention should be made of the Seer, A. J. Davis, whose subtle intuitions received from the higher world the institution of the Lyceum. He tells us in his inimitable style, that children in the spheres of light assemble in such beautiful groups and are taught by loving angels with a devotion which to mothers who have assurance that their loved ones are cared for with a tenderness which satisfies even a mother's-love.

assurance that ther lower ones are taken for with a tenderness which satisfies even a mother's love. To give earthly children this blessing, to translate the heavenly to this life, is the aim of his high inspiration. The marching, calisthenics, responses, golden chain reci-tations, choral responses, memory gems, music, with the regalia, badges, banners, standards and flags, not only furnish a dis-play delightful to esthetic taste, but have purpose and meaning, instructive and unit-ing the mind for instruction through re-ceptivity this awakened. Had this Seer given no other fruitage of his spiritual inspiration; had he not given to' the world "Nature's Divine Revela-tions," this one institution would place his name with the foremost benefactors of the race.

For Over Sixty Years

Works by Henry Frank.

The Doom of Dogma and the Dawn of Truth. This work consists of a criticism of all the teachings of religion from the earliest times, showing the origin of Christianity ip primitive nature-religion and the evolu-tion of Mythology. It has been reviewed by most of the principal critics of the world and highly praised.

tion It pri-

tion of Mythology.
 It has been reviewed by most of the principal critics of the world and highly praised.
 The Athenseum (London, Eng.). "This is an interesting work, showing how many questions have to be dealt with by one who has made up his mind to renounce agthority and yet remain true to the impulses of religion. It presents a religion like Walt Whitman's; of a God, who embraces in Himself all differences and all opposites, and whom man discovers as he discovers the discover of the impulse of the control of the state of the state labor." The Arena (Boston). "Mr. Frank has given us a bold and radical treatise. It is reverent, broad, constructive, scholarly and extremely valuable." 400 pages, cloth bound, gilt top (hand-somely produced by the Putnams'). Post-paid, $2.00.

The Shrine of Silence.

This consists of one hundred and six Meditations, expressed in exaited language, touching on every emotion and aspiration of the human heart. Heary Wood (Author "Life More Abund-ant," etc.). "Studh pure and delightfully ex-pressed idealism tends to put one in a lofty state of mind. I am reading the book aloud evenings to my family. It is greatly en-joyed and very helpful." Elle Wheeler Willess (the poeters). "If

Consider ---- Investigate

----Consult.

GOOD OPPORTUNITIES for investment and for active business men or women are, presented at 116 Bedford St., Suite 509, Boston, Mass., at the offices of

The Consolidated Inventors' Corporatio The United States Peat Fuel Company. The Indedencent and Auriliary Ses Cor The Ocean Power Electric Company. npany. ars 9 to 4. Call and see. 2618 cf will rise; deny me, it will torke your ac-knowledgment; for in me shall ye find the reason of reasons—the very way itself! "Lifted up—upon the cross, a target for all eyes, he might well have said, 'Behold your tork that for which I am the heav' the Law.

BANNER OF LIGHT.

-the Law.' "In these modern' times we hunt the world over for a Master; long since having rejected the abnormal Jesus of Western Orthodoxy, we seek in some new David the man whose God is in him. . . . Let us tell you that among them (lor earth has con-cived many Masters) towers the Teacher-of Syria, who traversed for three years the country around Bethlehem and Nazareth, and who makes it less essential that you seek some one, impossible, in the Thibetah Mountains and the heights of Hindoo Koosh." these modern' times we hunt the Koosh

The book might well have been named a The book might well have been named a "Study of Comparative Religions." That all men seek the same thing, the Truth, everywhere and in every age, and that many arrive at the same goal, though by different ways, is one of those propositions which seems to us self-evident. Yet history shows us, especially the history of western civilization, as exemplified in Christianity, that, with a surly blindness, the Occidental

What shall be taught? There is constant inquiry for "Lesson Leaves," similar to those used in Sunday schools. Such "Les-sons," made up of Bible texts and com-ments, take all burden from the teachers. Every Sunday the tin cup is filled with the beverage brewed by the special sect, and all the teacher is expected to do is to press it to the children's lips. The intention of the Sunday school is to prepare them for the church and for this purpose the dogmas of the denominational creed are instilled. Similar "Lesson Leaves" might be pre-pared for Lyceum use from the Bible and the works of the great thinkers of the past and present, but if relied on exclusively, the primary purpose of the institution would be defeated. All this vast realm of thought;

Ella Wheeler Wilcor (the peetens). "It is a beautiful, interesting and most helpful book. I read it daily." "Salvareas (sather "Wisdom of Passion")... "Your work is a blessing to the age: a star-lighting humanity to lottler spiritual free-dom; a benediction: a flower making glad the waste places of earth." Henry Frank is more than a spiendid teacher and great thinker. He is a poet and a music-maker. His book appeals to many." B. O. Flower (TA Arcens). "Here are over one hundred Boul Prayers that are indeed Prose-poems."

one hundred Soil Prayers that are index-Pross-poema." Complete Education (Teledo). "A work of art and rare interest: sublime thoughts couched in graceful phrases." Some have written the suthor calling this book their Bible, their New Testament, a Divine Revelation. One writes "he wishes he had some of Carnegies millions that he might buy them up by the million and dis-tribute them broacast through the world to bless mankind." 115 pages, cloth bound, thick, soft tinted paper, handsome 5 vo. Postpaid, $1.56.

The Vision of the Invisible. allegrorical treatise empldining the plass of Idealism and Spiritual Sub-s. Paper, 25 cents. . Postpaid.

Solesting Demonstration of Immeriality. A wholly new argument based on me Perchology, backed by Physical Sec 106 pages, cloth bound. Peerinal, 75 107 pages, cloth bound. Peerinal, 75 For said by the Banner of Light.

CONSUMPTION AND RHEUMATISM

This book is the missing link that unites Physi and Metaphysics in one harmonicus whole. explains clearly and fully the physical and ment causes of diseases and how to remove thes Large octavo, 640 pages, cloth bound. Sent pr paid for 63.64.

No inclusion in the Annihum: Scientife and Popular. Designed and adapted for college students; libraries, mechanics and home courses of study, and contains over 300 large illustrations and colored piates, showing All Latin and Breek terms in the tort are inter-preted in parenthesis, so that it is in fact Anatomy translated to the English reader. This feature alone is very valuable, saving the student the necessity of recourse to a dictionary Besides this, it has many other distinctive tes mere mare 1815 a 189 balf suproces. Price gates, prepaid.

Expressin for students. This work gives in brief the most valuable facts of medical science, in-sinding theoretical chemistry. Cloth. Frice, B.1.80, prepaid.

DUTTON'S ILLUSTRATED ANATOMY.

ETIOPATHY.

MEDICAL NOTES.

This is the book for those who see regarding these two, prevaient of affords in the hands of the reader, as control of these must common malks a scientific estatement in popular lang Cases, Treatment and Cure. To br io make known the read cause of to make known the read cause of to make known the read cause of to make known the read to any pre-would suscentify treat these con-invaniable. Mealy bound in cloth disease of their o maladies. It git alar language of th To Dr. Dutton f being the first u se of Rheumati would successful invaluable. Nic paid for $1.00.

For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT. MAXHAM'S MELODIES.

od for Solos, Dusts, and Quartets Also Six Posms.

Sweet assowhere Old melodies We shall not page this way There are angels Don't shut the done m, mother Burely the curtain The evelopreen m in is lifting If all who hate in C beron The last much benut Do real life Do that A good time now When the wife has away The stingy man's fate from's look for the fates for caryful what you se actic recopilon white where it has be to be given a wider sphere of usef-public by BANKER of LIGHT FUR This book is bandsomely illustra Mr. Henry A. Hancox, who has made and has put his best ideas and sk bound in white, with gold lettlerin and skill Fer Sale by the BANNER OF LIGH Ninth Edition OUR FUTURE HOMES AND DWELLING PLACES WHAT A HUNDRED SPINITS, GOOD AND EVAL, SAY OF THEIR OWELLING PLACES. BY JAMES M. PERBLES, N. D.

112

For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGHT.

statute, interesting and valu-Meres Chapters.

Postage 14 ci PRICE $1.00 For Sale by the BANNER OF LIGH

BANNER OF LIGHT.

MARCH 24, 1906.

Correspondence for this department should be ad reased to the Editor, and must reach this affec by the no ene senter, and must reach this affer 18 delivery on Monday morning, to ensur 1 some week. We wish to assist all, but ou 6d. Use ink and write plainly.

Topic for the Progressive Lyceum

Sunday, March 25, '66. Self Reliance. Gem of Thought:--Happiness is the one thing for which all are seeking. It comes with peace and peace must come from with-in. Cultivate self.

"Man know thyself, presume not God to scan

The proper study of mankind is man."

For information concerning the Pro gressive Lyceum authorized Lesson Paper for the National Spiritualist Association, address John W. Ring, Spiritualist Temple, Galveston, Texas, Boston and Vicinity.

Harmony Hall, 724 Washington Street, Spiritual Phenomena Society, N. P. Smith, speaker. Sunday, 11 a. m., 2.30 and 7.30 p. m.; Tuesday and Thursday, 3 p. m. Excellent mediums at each session. On the fifty-eighth Anniversary of Modern Spiritualism, Saturday afternoon a evening, March 31, and Sunday, April 1. excellent program of speakers will offered, to be announced later. and

The Cambridge Spiritual Industrial So-ciety held its regular meeting Wednesday, March 14, Mrs. N. J. Willis being the speaker. Seldom has there ever been a meeting so full of inspiration and vigor. Mrs. Willis was in her best form and was ably assisted by her daughter, Miss Etta willis, who read an original poem of much ably assisted by her daughter, Miss Etta Willis, who read an original poem of much power and later gave "That Old Sweetheart of Mine." The next meeting will be March 28 and Mrs. Mamie Helyett will be the speaker speaker. The Brighton Psychic Society, 14 Ken-rick Street, D. H. Hall, president. The meeting of Wednesday evening, March 14, was one of great interest and instruction. Solos by Mrs. H. E. Hall. Scripture read-ing by the president. Poem, Mrs. Ida M. Pye. Descriptive tests, Mrs. C. Dearborn (Pat). Remarks, Mr. J. C. Brown. Com-munications, Mrs. Ida M. Pye. Wednesday evening, March 28, Mrs. Fannie Marriner of Robury will serve this society. First Spiritual Serve this society.

Robury will serve this society.
 First Spiritual Science Church, Mrs. M. A. Wilkinson, pastor, Commercial Hall, 694
 Washington Street. Morning Circle, Dr. Blackden, Mr. Privoe, Mrs. Blanchard, Mrs. Nutter, Dr. Lindsey, James Newhall.
 Alternoon, speakers, Prof. Matook, Mr. Bakestrom, Prof. Carpenter, Mr. Macurda, Mrs. Millan, Jennie Rhind, Mrs. Reed, Mr. McLellan, Mrs. Bellé Robertson, Prof. Clark-Smith, Dr. Combs, Evening, opening exercises conducted by Prof. Clark-Smith. Opening remarks and messages, Mrs. Izetta Sears-Hill, followed by Mrs.
 Fox, Prof. Clark-Smith, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Gaugh, Dr. Blackden, Prof. Fred P. ak, Mrs. Nellie Carleton/Grover.
 The First Spiritualist Ladies' Aid Society

The First Spiritualist Ladies' Aid Society The First Spiritualist Ladies' Aid Society held its weekly meeting Friday, March 10, at 9 Appleton Street. Mrs. Carrie Hatch presided. Speakers and mediums who were present and took part in the exercises were Mrs. Waterhouse, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Mag-gie Butler, Mrs. Stiles, Mrs. Moore, Mr. Shaw. Supper served at 6.15.

Butter, Mrs. Stute, Mrs. Stuter, Mrs. Stuter, Mrs. Stuter, Mrs. Stuter, Mrs. Stuter, Mrs. Stuter, Mrs. Malden Progressive Spiritual Society, Mrs. Alice M. Whall, president. There was no circle Thursday evening, March 15, on account of the storm on that date. Sunday, March 18, 2 p. m., Children's Lyceum, E. J. Patch, conductor. Mrs. Andrews, pianist. The Lyceum opened by singing. The Group subjects were all discussed in an elevating manner and the general subject was omitted for lack of time. 3.30 meeting was presided over by the president, with Mrs. Andrews at the piano. The meeting opened with a praise service, after which Rev. F. A. Wiggin of Unity Church of Boston was introduced. He gave an able address and the piano. Mr. James S. Scarlett gave an address in his usual able and instructive manner, after which he gave messages. L. S. I. S. Mrs. Belcher, president, the subject, State and State and the serve many messages.

sages. Mrs. whall also gave messages. L. S. I. S., Mrs. Belcher, president, Dwight Hall, 514 Tremont Street. Mareka 15, had quite a good attendance at the even-ing exercises notwithstanding the stormy might and certainly had as good a meeting as any this season. Dr. Lindsey gave as-trological readings, which were wonderful.

ceum and some other speakers invited." A successful Anniversary is hoped for.

recum and some other speacers invited. A successful Anniversary is hoped for. First Spiritual Church of Boston, Inc., Rev. Clara E. Strong, pastor. The presi-dent, Walter I. Mason, gave the opening address during the day and his words were rich with spirituality. Mr. Newhall fol-lowed the first speaker. Dr. Willis gave messages, size Mrn Bolton, Mr. Fitz-Allen and Mrs. Morgan. "Giving Thanks" was the subject of the president in the atter-noon. Mrs. Moore spoke and also gave an inspirational poem. Mr. Jackson, Mrs. Bolton, Mr. Baker, Mrs. Morgan all gave messages. Mr. Peak gave an organ solo. The pastor spoke with power. Before the afternoon and evening services, Matilda Trask Boynton sang many beautiful hymns, "Love Manifest" was the subject of the president in the evenine. He was followed by A Russ Gilbert, who gave beautiful thoughts, and some beautiful visions. Mes-sages by Mrs. Morgan.

sages by Mrs. Morgan. American Psychical Research Society, Inc., Harvey Redding, president. Meeting opened with song service, succeeded by an invocation by Mrs. Burnham, Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Coote gave a musical selection which was very pleasing. An orchestral duct by Mrs. Frank Vlakery and Mr. Kelly was followed by a remarkable address by the president on the subject, "We Shall See Strange Things To Do." A song was ren-dered by Mrs. Kelly, actompanied by Mrs. Vickery and Mr. Kelly, after which Mr. Redding gave delineations. Mis. Burnham delivered a fine lecture and was listened to with interest.

delivered a nie lecture and was instead to with interest. The midweek meeting was held at 202 Main Street, Everett. Owing to the in-clemency of the weather, but few were present. Harvey-Redding, president, being absent, Mr. and Mrs. Osgood F. Stiles took charges of the meeting. 'Next social the last Friday in March at the home of the president. president.

The Children's Progressive Lyceum, No 1, of Boston held its regular session in Red Men's Hall, $14 Tremont Street, at 11.30 a. m., with the regular exercises and reada. m., w ings by a. m., with the regular exercises and read-ings by Georgie Fogg, Robin Carnahan, Florence Cooley and Queenie Knowles. Olive Sharp, Charlotte Turner and Baby Vinto sang. Mrs. Butler spoke briefly, then the circle was formed. There is quite an interest taken in the circle and quite a few strangers join every Sunday.

New Bugland States.

Fall River Spiritualist Society, March 11, had ior its speaker. Mrs. Hy. Itherwood of New Bedford The afternoon subject was "Spirit Leaving the Body." which was fol-lowed by delineations, all recognized. The evening subject. "Experiences at Eight Years of Age." followed by reading ballots and spirit messages through flowers. Good attendance at each service.

Good attendance at each service. Springfield, Mass.—The First Spiritualist Ladies' Aid Society, Feb. 4 and 25. Mr. Edgar W. Emerson occupied the platform. His discourses were instructive and his tests convincing. Feb. 17; owing to the ill-ness of Mrs. E. D. Butler, Mrs. Mabel Page of Swampscott filled the vacancy very acceptably. Feb. 18. Mr. Wellman C. Whitney of Springfield was the speaker. His lectures were instructive and his mes-mages brought comfort to many hearts. sages brought comfort to many hearts.

Augusta, Me.-Mr. J. S. Scarlett of Cam-bridge, Mass., has just closed a two weeks Augusta, Me.-Mr. J. S. Scarlett of Cam-bridge, Mass., has just closed a two weeks' engagement with The Progressive Spirit-ualists' Society of this city. He held four very interesting meetings. Every meeting was well attended by a goodly number of the very best people well represented in every walk of life.

every walk of Inte. Providence, R. I.—The Ladies' Progres-sive Aid Society, Mrs. Brown, president, held its regular circle Tuesday evening, March 13, with large attendance. Com-munications were given by the president, Mrs. Wilkinson, Mrs. Reed, Mr. Butter-worth, Mr. Stackpole. All are considered good mediums. The next circle will be held to the Provent to Westminister Street. good mediums. The next circle will be held at Mr. Prouty's, 1492 Westminster Street, Tuesday evening, March 27. These circles are public and all are invited to attend.

are public and all are invited to attend. Portland, Me.—The First Spiritual So-ciety. Dr. William Hale of Boston, Mass., delivered an interesting lecture. It was a carefully considered and eloquent talk on Spiritualism. There was a large attendance both afternoon and evening. March 25 is Anniversary Sunday. Mrs. Elizabeth But-ler of Lynn, Mass., will occupy the plat-iorm. form.

form. Fitchburg, Mass., March 18.—Large and appreciative audiences greeted Mrs. B. W. Belcher of Marlboro, speaker for the First Spiritualist Society, Sunday. The subjects selected were: "Missionary Work," and "Is the World Better for the Coming of Spir-itualism?" The addresses were listened to with close attention and were supplemented with close attention and were supplemented with close attention and were suppremented by evidences of spirit return. The Medi-ums' Circle and song service were largely attended. The piano selections. by Miss. Howe were much appreciated. Emma B. Smith of Lawrence, test medium, will ad-dress the society next Sunday.

of Modern Spi

Gaule. "With us the Cause is gaining in digni-fied recognition," writes Mrs. Milton, Rath-bun. At Lily Dale, Frank Caldwell, the great Alaska explorer, will present this phenom-enal country to Lily Dale visitors by rare stereopticon slides, on the evenings of July ao and 22. The photographs are the most complete set in existence, some of them taken by the light of the midnight sun, and present scenes but little known among us. The entertainments will be most interest-ing as well as instructive.

The entertainments will be most interests ing as well as instructive. Dr. Stanley L. Krebs will deliver a Physiological Lecture at Lily Dale on Wednesday, July 18. on "Marvels and Mys-teries of the Mind." On Friday, July 20, the doctor will speak on "Wonders of the World Within." Dr. Krebs enters the vast realm of mental creatorship as a scholar as well as an orator. Probably no addresses delivered at the Assembly this season will be more entertaining and instructive than the Krebs Lectures. For programs, ad-dress Laura G. Fixen. Chicago, Ill. Billings. Mont. has a good local Society dress Laura G. Fixen, Chicago, Ill.-Billings, Mont., has a good local Society of Spiritualists. Mrs. L. McCormick is president and is also president of the State Spiritualists' Association. She and her hus-band are unitiging workers and the other officers are always at their post. The so-ciety is growing, several new members hav-ing been added this winter and there is quite an interest taken among those outside the ranks. Three circles a week are held and they are growing in numbers. There is also a Ladies' Aid Society and a Thought Circle, each session adding new comets. Circle, each session adding new comers. In the far West there is plenty of work to In the far West there is plenty of work to be done; the people are ready to investi-gate this grand truth. Eva McCoy is serv-ing the society for the winter until June, when she will be ready for camp engage-ments as message medium.

Announcements.

The Gospel of Spirit Return Society, Minnie Meserve Soule, pastor, holds ser-vices every Sunday evening at 7.45 in the Banner of Light Building, 204 Dartmouth Street, Boston.

The Banner of Light Circle for Spirit Healing will be held in Banner of Light lecture room every Monday from 4 to 5 p. m. The doors close at 4. Mr. Nicholas Williams is the medium for this work.

First Spiritual Temple, Exeter Street, Lecture at 10.45 a. m. and 4.30 p. m., through the mediumship of Mrs. N. J. Willis. School at 12 m. Wednesday even-ing, conference at 8. All are welcome.

ring, conterence at 6. An are welcome. First Spiritual Science Church, M. A. Wilkinson, pastor, Commercial Hall. 694 Washington Street, Services, Sundays, 11 a. m., 2,30 and 7,30 p. m. Tuesday, 3 p. m., Indian Healing Circle, Thursday, 3 p. m., Psychometry, Indian Peace Council, April

WONDER WHEEL SCIENCE

Side Lights on Wonder Wheel Science.

Daily Guidance for All, by Birth Sumbers.

By Profes or Be

In various magazines and almanacs, As-trologic Birthday Influences are given, but they are general, the same for all the world. This table is individual, and applicable to

Birth Nos.	- 4	1 2		4	5	. 6	1	8	9	10	11	12
March 21-23-94		F		6			-	E	-	K	4
25-26	8		F		6	-			E		ĸ	-
27-28-29	-	8	-	F		6			-	.8	-	K
30-81	K		8	-	F	-	6	-		-	E
Apr. 1-2-5	-	ĸ		8	+	F	-	G			-	E
4-5	E	-	-K	-	B	-	F	-	6	-		-
6-7	1.	E		ĸ	-	B	-	F	-	6	-
8-9		-	Ε	-	ĸ	-	8	-	F	5	G	-
10-11	-		-	E	-	ĸ	-	8		F	-	G
19-18	G	-	M	-	E	-	K	-	B	÷.	F	-
14-15	-	G	-	M	-	E		ĸ	-	8	-	F
16-17-18	F	-	G	-		-	E	-	ĸ	-	B	-
19-90	-	F	-	G	-		-	E	-	ĸ	-	B

the different people, according to their Birth Number. A day may be very good for a husband and very bad for his wile, or vice versa. The table should be followed continually for greatest good, and not now and then

The ruling people of the world during the term of this table are those born under No. term of this table are those born under No. 1. In this term of ruling, a large amount of Independence will be displayed. It is the Resurrectional Spirit of the world after having been in the grave of winter. Home bodies will be anxious about what the spring condition of the Homes will be. Lordly people will begin to plan for their

Chats on Wonder Wheel Science.

ABUSE OF THE HOROSCOPE.

ABUSE OF THE HOROSCOPE. I am now going to treat a little upon the horoscope. I have been for several years stating that I am not satisfied with the claims that are made for it in what is termed "Modern Astrology," and when I speak of the horoscope I wish it distinctly understood that'I do not in any way detri-ment the claims that are made for true as-trology. The horoscope is only a super-ficial part of astrology, anciently called "horoscopy," When connected with the Nativity, as it may be done advantageously when the minute of birth is known, it was called "Genethliaci," and was judged by the sign rising on the east a birth, to-gether with the planet which ruled that sign, called "Lord of the sign," or, the planet under which the physical nature was for into earth. It had nothing whatever to do with the Soul birth, or the birth of the thinking, rational Man. It did not have and spoken of in Genesis as "earthy and of whence it came." This man was called the formed as an instrument of muscular power with which the Soul man, might "dress and formed as an instrument of muscular power with which the Soul man might "dress and where to earthy things than to things of the so is said to have "fallen from his high of spitual estate" and therefore because using the death before it could get rid of the shallucinations induced by the attractions of earth. Death, in the Astrologic signifi-to any interplay amatter of the horoscope, because death only reflates to the horoscope, and be the planet horoscope, the attractions of earth. Death, in the Astrologic signifi-to any the consists in being Spiritually. because death only relates to the horoscope, because death only relates to the body. Long life consists in being Spiritually-Minded. By that I do not mean subject to any creed or ism, but subject to an active intellectuality, either inherited or cultivated. I he first chapter of Genesis teaches the birth of insect animal and the Soul-man Washington Street. Services, Sunday, It.
a. m., 230 and 7.30 p. m. Tuesday, 3 p. m.
Physichometry. Indian Peace Council. April 4
Public Spiritual Circle every Friday aiternon, 446 Tremont Street. Mediums well-come. Mrs. Nellis Carleton Grover, con-ductor.
Odd Ladies' Hall, 446 Tremont Street, Bible Spiritual Scoiety, Mrs. Gutierres, president, holds meetings every Sunday, Gircle, 11 a. m. Evidences, 2.30 and 7 p. m.
Camerican Psychical Research Society, Malden, Mass. Sunday evening, 7.30; Har-vey Redding, president, Mr. and Mgs. Yo-good F. Stiles, Mrs. Abbie Burmham, speak-ers. Seats free. Circle, Thursday evening, at the home of the president, 202 Main Street, Everett.
First Spiritual Church of Boston, Inc., Rev. Clara E. Strong, pastor, holds services every Sunday at America Hall, 724 Wash-ingtion Street, up two flights. Conference, 11 a. m., Services, 3 and 7, 30, p. m. Presi-ever Sunday at America Hall, 724 Wash-ingtion Street, up two flights. Conference, 11 a. m., Services, Sand 7, 30, p. m. Presi-dent, Walter I. Mason; Carrie D. Chapman, chairman; Matilda Trask Boynton, solosit, Walter Progressive Spiritual Society, solosit, Mailden Progressive Spiritual Society, solosit, Manden Progressive Spiritual Society, solosit, Walter Progressive Spiritual Society, solosit, Malden Progressi summer enjoyments, and Proud and Opin-ionated people will begin to consider their next early winter glories. Business and Professional people will be annoyed over the changes from winter to summer occu-pations and supplies. Mutual Relations will be disturbed by the changes, or will join as one in harmonious efforts for, the changes which the new life of the year brings into play. Such is the Real World. The arti-ficial world will "strain at gnats to swallow a camel."

a camel." 12. In this term of ruling, Secret Enmitties will be active, and Self Detriments will be strong in all walks of life. This is the time of the year mythically typified by the Christ buried in the darkness of the tomb, with the foot of minter as his theorem. strong in all walks of life. This is the time of the year mythically typidied by the Christ buried in the darkness of the tomb, with the frost of winter as his shroud. Thirty days later and the Natural world will resur-rect itself once more from the grave winter. Most people are guided by the Artificial world, and look for success to the fade and fancies of their idolatry. They flourish like weeds and thorns about a Kesspool, but soon the Reaper appears and mows them down. Their end is not in the store house, but on the dump heap. Fifteen days, either side of Apr. 6, is the good should reason philosophically for the good of the year before him, and "Be sure he is right before he goes ahead." Address all matters relative to these Tables to Prof. Henry, Boylston Centre, Mass. Instructions in every kind. of Oc-cultism. Aerologic readings given by cor-respondence. 'All of Prof. Henry's pub-lished works are for sile at Banner office.

the kind which the writer of Genesis at-tempted to portray when he represented Adam as eating of the "tree of the knowl-edge of good and evil," and by which he fell below the Soul-man standard, and be-came of the earth earthy, the effects of which, by the law of cause and effect, would rob him of his Divine bodily powers and return his body to the dust of the earth from which it had taken the soul-man so long to become possessed of a body. Our future life, then, depends upon the trend of our present Thinking. By think-ing we can change nothing in 'the laws of nature, but we cause ourselves to gravitate by our thinking upward towards the estate of the soul or downwards towards the dust of the earth. the kind which the writer of Genesis atby our thinking upward towards the estate of the soul or downwards towards the dust of the earth. The horoscope, then, only denotes how we stand in relation to the things of earthy form about us, materially, but not, mentally or soulfully. The horoscope is only a matter of curiosity, for after we learn its signification, it merely gives us what we already know by our present knowledge of our visible environments. The horoscope was only invented to convince sceptics of the wonders of the heavens without realiz-ing that to convince sceptics one is obliged to "strain at a gnat" and run great 'danger of "swallowing a camel." Sceptics are not worth so much trouble. By nature they are born to be sceptics. Unless there is a planetary time in their lives for conver-sion, they will remain sceptics the throne of God. of God.

even if testimonies came from the throne-of God. No practical benefit in astrology ever came from the Horoscope. The benefits in astrology come from the higher laws which are independent of the horoscope. Except in what is known as purely "Hor-ary Astrology." Even in that, the thumb-rules of horary astrology are so mixed with a lot 'of contradictions, absurdities and foolish trash, that for astrology on day such lines would be nothing but a system of charlatanry, that would soon cause the astrologer to lose his own soul in an at-tempt to save some other soul. This was what Jesus meant when he said, "If the blind lead the blind they will both fall into the ditch."

what Jesus meant when he said, "If me blind lead the blind they will both fall into the ditch." Some practicing astrologers have not been pleased with my truthful expressions concerning Horoscopes. They think it has a tendency to injure their business. If they are good astrologers they ought to know that so far as the conditions of their life are concerned in matters of commercial im-port, they are under the very laws of the heavens which they interpret to others, and that their conditions are raled by time, and the poor medicine to give to others. If a doctor cannot take his own medicine, it must be poor medicine to give to others. From other practicing astrologers, who can readily see that there is a need for the dig-nifying of astrology, so long dragged in the dirt and despised. I receive the highest of praise. The strong tendency to adhere the dift and despised, I receive the ingnest of praise. The strong tendency to adhere to horoscopal forms and thumb rules is the hardest matter to overcome, because the higher laws and the lower laws are so fearfully mixed in the horoscopal-formulas

 Biblical Spiritual Meeting holds devotional strain for any speakers and mediums. These spectred to take part at some time during the data rest many speakers and mediums. These spectred to take part at some time during the data rest. Miss. Minnie M. Soule, Mrs. Kate Ham, Mrs. A. J. Pettengill, Mrs. Nets. D. Butter, Mrs. Annie Jones, Mrs. Carra Fagan, Mrs. Earry, Mrs. Waterhouse, Mrs. Carra Fagan, Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Waterhouse, Mrs. Carra Fagan, Mrs. Mrs. Maker Mathematica and strained and the card and the	after their kind, in the details of his en- cycles. They will not fit, any more than
--	--