new horizons in living from...

WHO SAID IT?

When you know the Truth you will know exactly what to do to serve mankind best, nor will you lack the power to do so. If a flower possesses the honey, the bee will find it out of its own accord. If a man possesses spiritual wisdom and strength, he need not go in search of people; they will come unasked to him. Cultivate your inner self until you know it fully. No other instruction is necessary. This is the only thing to do.

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

WHEN THE STUDENT IS READY – While I take several spiritual magazines, I must say that Chimes is one of my favorites. I feel as if I am in God's presence when I read it.

Maurine Barbanell, the editor of Psychic News of London, England suggested I write to you that you might put me in touch with a good medium to explain the manifestations that I have. Also I would like to know if you carry any of Silver Birch's books as I have to wait so long for them to come from England.

May the Great Spirit shower you with His blessings. Always a friend.

Mrs. Evelyn T. Stutts, McIntosh, Ga.

(Because we carry a number of ads for mediums who perform the service Mrs. Stutts is seeking, and because many of the groups and associations listed also have numerous excellent workers, it is the policy of Chimes not to recommend one over another. It is best the individual seeking such service rely on his or her own inner guidance and be attracted to the one meant to give assistance at that particular time. We do not, however, carry the Silver Birch books. There are books of a similar nature listed on page 26 and in the new No. 8 Chimes Book Catalog.)

THE NEW LOOK – Each month the issues of Chimes bring new demonstrations of faith and hope, and I am very glad to be one of the subscribers. With each issue, Chimes seems to take on a new look, along with the fact that it is compiled with such variety, of a readable print, and always a cover that is a joy to behold. Thank you so much for giving us the very best there is.

Ruth Clare Alsop, Essex, Conn.

OUR OWN NICHE – My mother and I are not strangers to Chimes, having read many of your publications belonging to our friends on psychic and spiritual development.

Since both of us have attended class and are studying to unfold our higher selves, we have come to recognize and appreciate the value of the knowledge and inspiration contained in Chimes in its full array of articles. I have found much beauty, too, in your many fine articles, and quality also, which is much needed in our world today.

We also know of the vast selection of books available through Chimes. You really fill a valuable niche for all peoples in the world. What a wonderful way to serve others! For these reasons we are sending our three-year subscription to Chimes. I assure you we will always watch our mailbox eagerly when our Chimes is due to arrive. God bless and keep you all.

Miss Virginia M. Miller, Elma, NY

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE – If only I could give all my friends Chimes. There is so much good in it every issue. While I do not always agree with everything, that does not mean that I am always right either. Anyway, you – and all the staff – are doing a wonderful work, and I know the Father is blessing, guiding, directing and protecting you.

Rev. Mae E. Malone, D. D. Roscommon, Mich.

(We must ALL have the right to dissent on anything – for this is the way we learn. When we are "exposed" to numerous philosophies, thoughts, and types of information, our thinking is stimulated. Then, from within, we seek until we find OUR OWN ANSWERS to all lessons life presents for our eternal education.)

A SPIRITUAL DIET – Thank you one and all for a wonderful helping of spiritual food. And I thank the Father for all the wonderful Light He is shedding through you. Happy Easter from my heart to your hearts.

Mrs. Josephine Hibbard, Linden, Mich.

(Let us hope this is the kind of diet that will help all keep in good form – mentally, physically and spiritually – that they might be better able to APPLY what they know of the Universal Principles to every day living.)

NATURAL LAW – Quoting from your article, "How Do You Pray?" on page 38, I would like to call your attention to how confused people can get in discussing religious beliefs and how some interpretations can be so wrong . . . even if written in the Bible.

From other sources, and from the knowledge of what would happen by cutting God from one, and in the knowledge Jesus had, what Jesus actually did say on the cross was, "My God, my God, I know Thou hast not forsaken me." Otherwise he would never have been resurrected. This is one of the reasons people have so much trouble, by believing Jesus would have done as they would have done under similar conditions.

Now, as to How Do You Pray? Jesus very plainly taught, give thanks as if you had already received. When one prays for the health of another, thanks is given for making that one whole. In God's sight, all is perfect. We are the ones that see the imperfection, not God.

Jesus never performed a miracle. He was a wayshower and lived as man is supposed to live. Naturally His mighty works were miracles to the ignorant.

Elmo Russell, Oak Run, Calif.

FORMER LIVES OF GLENN FORD

By George Butler
Gadsden, Alabama

GLENN FORD, the movie star, believes he has lived at least two previous lives . . . a discovery made while he was under hypnosis.

One of the incarnations he learned about was his life as a Scotsman, and another as a Frenchman, dating all the way back to 1650.

In both of them, he had one big thing in common with his present life — a consuming love of horses.

"I was going to do a film on a book by a psychic," Glenn told a reporter. "But I didn't know that I believed in all these psychic sciences. Before I got involved, I wanted to prove to myself that such things really exist."

His research into psychic phenomena, including hypnotic "trips" into past lives, led him to Dr. Maurice Benjamin. Dr. Benjamin, a Los Angeles physician, spent a year supervising Ford's reactions under hypnosis. "At first, I couldn't be hypnotized at all," Ford said. "I think actors are probably the worst people in the world to try to hypnotize, because they're always acting anyway."

After several sessions, however, Dr. Benjamin succeeded in breaking down Ford's subconscious resistance and put him in a trance.

From late 1966 through all of 1967, the 53-year-old actor was repeatedly regressed under hypnosis to reveal at least two past lives, according to the National Enquirer, a weekly tabloid. The first personality Ford assumed was that of a music teacher named Charles Stewart. He was born in 1774 in Elgin, Scotland, and died there of tuberculosis in 1812. Talking in a thick Scottish brogue, Charles Stewart spoke of teaching "fliberty gibberty" girls how to play the piano. He would have much preferred to be in the stables with his beloved horses.

When Glenn listened to a tape of the hypnotic session later, he wasn't surprised by his Scottish accent. But he was amazed at his ability to play the piano under the hypnotic spell. "I can't play the piano," he said, "not a single note." Yet under hypnosis, he could play the difficult works of Beethoven and Mozart like an expert.

It was at the fourth hypnotic session at the Ford home — with Glenn's 23-year-old son, Peter, as a witness — that Glenn's second past life emerged. When the doctor asked Ford where he was, he answered: "Versailles." Then he immediately lapsed into the fluent Parisian French of the 1600s and 1700s.

When awake, the actor knows nothing of the language, except for a few halting textbook phrases. He identified himself as a man named "Launvaux" — at least, that is what it sounded like to witnesses. He said he was an officer of the elite Versailles cavalry in the time of Louis 14th of France, who reigned from 1643 to 1715. It developed that Launvaux was something of a dashing rake, and that he met a violent and early death.

"Launvaux didn't like the aristocracy of the day," said Ford. "But he fell in love with a woman who was a member of it. When her husband learned of this, he arranged for an expert swordsman to insult Launvaux and provoke a duel — knowing Launvaux would be killed.

"Where I was pierced by the sword, strangely enough, I have a birthmark that hurts at certain times. My son, Peter, has the same birthmark in exactly the same place, just below the breastbone."

The revelation of his past lives has explained many things in Ford's own mind that were beyond his understanding before. Most of them have to do with horses. Glenn didn't take his first horseback ride until he was ten. But when he did, he was surprised to find that he was no stranger to the saddle. "When I got on that horse," he recalled, "I felt that somehow this was where I belonged." By the age of eleven, Glenn was an accomplished polo player, although he had never had a lesson in his life. By the age of fourteen, Glenn was such a remarkable horseman that the famous Will Rogers hired him to care for his ponies.

Although he has played many types of roles in his thirty three years as film star, Ford has always preferred westerns.

In conclusion, Ford said: "The only thing I want to pass on to others is not to be afraid of death. There is much more beyond this life, and there should be no fear."

EDITORIAL

THERE ARE MANY ways to teach, and, whether we are aware of it or not, in our own way each of us is a teacher to others every day. With all its many facets of interest, Chimes too in its own way is a teacher.

Now inner teachings long awaited have become a part of the Chimes work. An extended course by Initiates of the Great White Brotherhood is available to all who desire it. At present one hundred lessons are in the process of preparation, the first five of which are scheduled to be released by June 15th.

Much as we should like to have offered them before, these teachings of ancient wisdom and spiritual unfoldment in lesson form were not destined to come forth until the decade of the seventies. From now until the end of this century – a time of trial by fire – the deep hunger for “soul food” will increase. These lessons were kept in trust until the time when the DEMAND for them called them into being. They are far more than lessons, really. They are preparatory training for those disciples of Light who, by their knowledge and example, will be useful in the Father’s scheme for the New Day, designed to awaken a desire in the hearts of those who receive them for the finer spiritual things in life. There will be many places in the days and years to come – in hospitals, rest homes, schools, and places of employment – where students of these lessons will be welcome to share them and give what they have gained in their own way to help others. This, then, actually is a Teaching Ministry in which each person may qualify himself as a channel of Light unto the world.

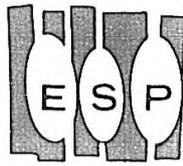

There will be no set charge for those who wish to receive this training. The right consciousness of giving will manifest within each heart, and those who are of an expanding consciousness will make it possible to assist many others.

For a guideline as to a suggested minimum donation, costs of preparation and mailing come close to $1.00 per lesson. For ready reference and storage, the lessons are printed on 5½ x 8½ size looseleaf paper suitable for use in ring binders. Lessons may run up to twenty or more pages each, and may be ordered as individual lessons or several lessons at a time.

So that you may be among the first to receive the initial lessons due for release in June, be sure to direct your request for enrollment, along with your gift, to the Chimes Teaching Ministry. TODAY is the best time to do it!

An additional aid being provided by Chimes for those who wish to make sure funds are available for insuring the continuity of the lessons is the new “Bank of Life” which may be requested on the order form provided on page 24.

If this is knowledge for which YOU long have thirsted, it is the great joy and honor of Chimes to be chosen as a channel for the Brethren of Light to bring them to you at this time as part of our continuous effort to assist in the fulfillment of the Divine Plan for all mankind. J.S.D.

IN THE PARENT-CHILD RELATIONSHIP

Condensed from an article by Robert A. Bradley, M.D.

COMFORTABLE AND CONVENIENT as the well-lighted scientific laboratories are, the main examples of E.S.P. have not occurred in repetitious, meaningless card-recognition experiments. Far better examples have appeared spontaneously and sporadically in people's homes, in their everyday lives, in purposeful, significant ways, in the primarily close relationship of love between parents and their children.

By reporting your personal experiences, you who are parents can help transfer more light from scientific laboratories into the home situation. We may eventually find the "key" to deeper, more meaningful relationships and to facts that support our faith, for the subconscious provides a working window through which we may demonstrate and test our very soul.

A father working as usual at his place of employment became obsessed with a certainty he could not ignore that something was wrong with one of his children. He rushed home in the middle of the afternoon to discover that his intuition was dreadfully right. His little son had just accidentally hanged himself while playing with a rope in a tree.

These tragedies of death manifest spontaneous stressful breakthroughs to conscious awareness of subconscious powers loosely labeled E.S.P. By far the majority of spontaneous cases reported occur in parent-child inter-relationships which represent the deepest and therefore the most perceptive form of communication between two minds. Did our Creator intend these mind powers to function only under the stress of occasional tragedies, or could it possibly be that all of us have, as part of our brain equipment, subconscious functions that were meant to be used in everyday life, in less tragic situations as well?

Even if we cannot at present scientifically explain these mind powers, we can learn to "push the switch" through heightened self-awareness and use E.S.P. in our daily activities to bring more spiritual light into our lives. More knowledge of these subconscious non-physical or spiritual forces will serve to enlighten our children so they do not have to leave home and search fruitlessly for the meaning to life and death via dope, drugs, and filthy hippie pads. As parents, your children are going to want to know why you believe far more than what you believe.

You can help the rest of us by accurately reporting your personal experiences of E.S.P. in your own home, for we cannot reproduce them, like chemistry experiments, at will in our laboratories. They are too intimately tied to human emotions, feelings, and inter-relationships.

In considering these phenomena, a primary understanding is essential that there are at least two levels of human awareness, the conscious and the subconscious, and that the two constantly interact. Every conscious act, thought, or feeling is "colored" by previous conditioning of your subconscious storehouse of long-term memory. The availability of your subconscious (which I'm convinced can serve as a window to your soul), the non-body aspect of the real "you", is also dependent for its source material upon your conscious mind activity. It then behooves you to prepare it properly with more elevating material than comic books, sport pages and bedroom comedies.

Clairvoyance is the ability of the subconscious to "see" things away from the body regardless of distance and time. A young mother who had just moved into a newly-built house with her infant reported having recurrent disturbing visions of the ceiling falling in on her child in its crib. This seemed illogical in a new house but to put her subconscious mind at rest, she finally moved the child and its crib to another room. The ceiling collapsed with a roar just after the child was moved. Another mother reported that while drinking coffee at a neighbor's house she suddenly screamed "Spit it out!" as she dashed upstairs to save her toddler's life. Clairvoyantly she had "seen" her child drinking poisonous cleaning fluid, thinking it was soda pop.

From the parents' standpoint, it is essential they realize that the uncluttered, clear, open, conscious mind of children does not impede subconscious perception like that of the adult. Children perceive the subconscious thoughts of their parents, or putting it very simply, you can't "kid" kids.

We have objective evidence of this in simultaneous and identical sleep patterns via the brain-wave machine (E.E.G.), showing babies dreaming identical patterns to those of their mothers. This is especially true with breast-fed babies, according to a convention speech given by a psychiatrist recently. Mothers have

THE WORLD TODAY is in the throes of war brought upon humanity not by one particular nation, but by the mistakes of all the nations in the past. Greed, lust for power, desire for aggrandizement have brought about this war which is the law of cause and effect now operating. Nothing can prevent the law from taking its course. Terrible as conditions are now, the conditions when the fighting ceases will be infinitely worse because nation will rise against nation internally. There will be great trouble. Brothers will fight brothers . . . and so it will go on because in the reconstruction period to follow territory must be returned, and that will not be welcome.

It is necessary, therefore, to gather together groups, small and large, that we from the Higher Realms may seek channels to give forth the teachings that we ourselves have learned from still Higher Sources.

It is I, Azrael, the teacher of the groups that will be formed, who speaks to you now. It is many thousands of years since I dwelt upon this Earth plane. I have gone on and learned lessons in the Higher Realms where that Great Brotherhood known as the White Brotherhood in the world of Spirit has worked for many thousands of years. These Beings now are contacting the Earth planet in ever greater numbers at their own desire to work with humanity, to help at the start of a New Age. This work cannot be done without cooperation or without love. We therefore ask for your help in drawing together those who may be ready to be Light bearers in the future. These will carry forward the torch so that when the time comes this light may be seen and their words can go forth to help in the time of trouble we see ahead.

We do not prophesy, beloved ones, but we tell you what we know is coming, because mankind over and over again has broken the Law of God. The law of cause and effect will operate and nothing can prevent it, but the dedicated prayers of small groups meeting regularly can and will minimize what is to happen.

Your prayers will lead to the living of lives that will bring more light to mankind. As it is now, thousands upon thousands of souls are being flung out of their bodies knowing nothing about life in the world of Spirit to which all one day will come. Not realizing they are on another plane of existence, they are still filled with the lust to fight, still resentful, unhappy, not knowing where they are. These souls are flung out of life before their life plan is completed . . . in fact, in many cases, scarcely commenced, so they hurry back into incarnation.

When they can be quieted they are taken to what passes for hospitals in the Spirit world so they can be taught to receive a sense of peace in their hearts.

By Azrael

of The White Lodge

Del Mar, California

Prayers of the people on Earth help so much in this work. The prayers of humanity are the stepping stones to the Light Beyond. These prayers are also of vast service to those who work in the Spirit Realms to receive those who are passing over. Prayers are stepping stones also for those who are preparing to rise into another Realm of Light.

If you could see what is happening on the planes beyond your Earth, where all are together — people of every nation — many in confusion ! It is our desire, and it is our work, to bring to each a knowledge of brotherhood. It is necessary on this Earth to bring forth that knowledge of brotherhood between all nations so that peace may be in all hearts. It is only when peace is in the heart that the higher lessons can be learned.

Again we wish to speak of the sorrow that reigns in the hearts of those who come over here unprepared, and the confusion that is in their thoughts. Therefore we ask once more for YOUR prayers to help us in our work.

There are prayers for all mankind which we of the Brotherhood use and which you of Earth also can use. These will help us in our work of reconstruction. All over the world is this confusion. Eventually it will pass with the aid given by our brethren of light on Earth. The time can be shortened greatly by the prayers of the Elect.

As you attain peace within your own heart, as peace comes into the heart of humanity, peace, and the knowledge that is light and love, the confusion that is in the world will cease. It is this love within the hearts of all, love towards one another, love with the service that is in selfless prayers sent to those on other planes who are working for humanity, it is ONLY that that love towards one another and that brotherhood between all nations that can bring assurance of peace on Earth and good will towards all men. Only in spending your lives in loving service to others can peace on Earth ever come.

We ask for your love for those who serve so selflessly at the Altar of Love. They realize that our world interpenetrates your world, that there is no separation. There are vast numbers of souls whom you cannot yet see who gather together when any prayer group meets. They learn WITH YOU the lessons we desire to give. They are not far away, as some of you may think, but are very near and often visit their homes and their loved ones.

In learning to still your human mind in meditation you can raise your thoughts into the higher vibrations in which they now live. There is no reason why you should not link with your loved ones whenever you feel the need, or sense their presence. Only the limitation that you permit in your human mind can prevent this. In the coming Age this contact with the discarnate loved ones or teachers will be very prevalent, as the veil between thins all the time, as more and more of those in the higher world come to serve their Earth brethren right in their own homes, and in the places where they spend their daily lives.

The Great White Brotherhood have you in their care. Though you may not know it, you have been drawn to them for a purpose. You have not planned it; it has been planned FOR YOU so you may be prepared for future service.

You have now come to an Age when another sense must be developed. For many centuries mankind has been concerned largely with developing physical and mental senses. These have been deterrents to the development of the sixth sense, intuition. Now that the Aquarian Age has dawned upon the Earth the time has come for the awakening of the intuition. This will come to ALL. When this has fully developed a wonderful time will be with all who dwell upon the Earth, for the veil will be drawn aside and it will be possible to glimpse the Holy of Holies within the Sanctuary.

There are certain illumined souls in the realms of Spirit who have passed ever higher to what is known as the Christ or Star Circle. They are waiting until the world is ready to receive them so they can begin their work of reconstruction. Then they will draw very near to help those men and women with a change of heart, which will be the opening of the door into a new and radiant world.

In the Age of Aquarius there is to be an outpouring of spiritual power which will bring an opening of the intuition . . . the sixth sense . . . which will bring divine intelligence to you. Then you will be able to throw wide the door of your heart to those visitors from the Christ Circle.

Already there is a change in the heart of man, and more and more he thinks of the welfare of his brother man. As you advance into this new Age of Aquarius — the age of the higher mind — there will be increased development of the mind, and additional help then can be given to mankind from the Shining Ones in the Heavens. You will become united with the Brethren, the Teachers, the Guardians and Initiates on the higher planes of life, and in their company your souls will rise to the mountain top. There your vision will open and enlarge, for expanded vision comes from the mountains of the Spirit. Think of the mountains,

THERE ARE CERTAIN LAWS with which the student must work in complete harmony. To do so, the way is made plain and simple. It takes time, work and study to gain mastery over one's body, environment and oneself, but, when fully accomplished, it is a priceless possession.

We must not allow the mind to dwell for even an instant on any phase of the past that we did not like. It is gone — it is much like a page of a book that has been turned, for it has no existence now except in our mind. Thinking of the past does no good whatsoever, and no one in this world can make us think of it except ourselves.

NEW VIBRATIONS

Life is a game in which none need lose if we would just develop a certain technique in the playing of it. Success in life seldom comes overnight as a result of a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. It is the reward of acquired knowledge, such as you are now learning through these lessons, as well as the development of special skills, and the refinement of personality. Only then can our efforts be successful in realizing prosperity and contentment. Cheerfulness and a confident attitude will prove a definite help in creating the right truth VIBRATION.

WATCH YOUR ATTITUDE

Remind yourself that you can't just sit down and wait for enrichment to come to pass. Creating the right mental attitude is all important. An attitude of confidence and cheerfulness keeps you relaxed and serene, and conditions your mind for the efficient handling of any wish, goal or need you may wish manifested in your life. Even the vibrations of others will help you win your goal if you radiate from the very start the confident strong faith that you will be VICTOR in all you seek to do: Your attitude is reflected in your face, manner, and thinking, and others will catch your confidence and add strength to your positive vibration as it charges and re-charges itself endlessly.

IT'S YOUR MENTAL PICTURE

Assuming that you, as a student have now taken a firm hold on your thought pattern and have gained a confident, determined attitude, it is now time to hold the mental picture of your needs before you and work for a truth demonstration. If you desire a better health condition then firmly hold that need through proper mental focusing, and keep picturing yourself as you wish to be until you notice a slight fatigue or your thoughts begin to wander. Then it is time to change the vibration and do something else until you can concentrate again in perfectly attuned positiveness. If you are mentally picturing yourself as strong and healthy, then your subconscious mind hastens and gets immediately into action, encouraging the circulatory system, prodding the digestive system into alertness — that you may enjoy good health and feel well again.

SPEAK WELL OF YOURSELF

The thoughts we have govern what we are! Therefore refuse to speak negative statements about yourself. To voice the opinion that you don't feel so good means you have voiced the direct OPPOSITE of what these lessons teach. Fear, worry and doubt will never leave you unless you think, see and believe yourself as PERFECT, STRONG, WELL, SOUND AND CONFIDENT. To harbor thoughts of well being, success and happiness is the Universal Science way of acknowledging the priceless truth that you are manifesting Divine Perfection in your Actions, Mind and Body.

In a health need, picture PERFECT MANIFESTATION rather than try to cure or ease some special part of the body. There is only one Power and that Power is pure, perfect and complete. Get yourself mentally straightened out and visualize and picture only one Power. DIVINE POWER, ALL-KNOWING, ALL-PERFECT, ALL-POWERFUL. When you retire at night, get the subconscious mind functioning in the proper way by issuing it the right orders, and don't hold onto thoughts or ideas that would hold you back in your desire to progress. Direct your subconscious to get busy and build your body into perfect health. The subconscious mind mirrors your thoughts of ill-health, failure, lack, unhappiness, then the subconscious mirrors just such results in your life.

FRIENDS OFTEN ask Jeane Dixon, "Don't you ever take a vacation?" then, incredulous, stare at her when she explains to them that every working day is a vacation day to her. Jeane loves what God created her to do, and trying to help her fellow men to find out what God created them to do.

In her new book, My Life and Prophecies, this is how she sees putting one's talents to work:

Starting with the parents, Jeane says that those who seemingly have not found out what they were created to do are out of harmony with themselves and the universe, so they complain constantly and bitterly about their jobs and their daily tasks, thus are conditioning themselves AND THEIR CHILDREN to look upon work as a necessary evil. Boys and girls who spend their formative years listening to complaining parents are all too likely to look upon their future positions and future employers the same way. Girls, subject to mothers who lament the thankless, monotonous drudgery of housework, have high hurdles of prejudice to overcome before, as adults, they recognize homemaking as a blessed privilege and can bring warmth and charm to their homes and take loving pride in caring for their families.

"Not all of us have been given talents that will bring fame and riches. Some of us are called to work in areas of endeavor to which no worldly prestige is attached and where the remuneration is not above average. But we can, working at our own talents in our own CHANNEL, help others to achieve their purposes and so know the fulfillment of the spirit that comes to us when we truly live in our appointed ways. Status is not the measure of a full and fruitful life," Jeane reminds us, "and title and income do not equal purpose in life."

"Let us never forget that while fame and riches do not preclude happiness or contentment, neither do they guarantee it, nor can all the riches in the world buy those blessings.

"A wealthy woman I know is, in my opinion, the poorest soul with whom I have ever come in contact. She has allowed her fortune to become an obsession to her and lives in constant fear of losing it. By placing more value on her money than is justified — afraid of being overcharged — she actually deprives herself of the necessities for her well-being. Sincere interest in her activities and health is regarded as useless flattery; she is convinced that her friends and relatives associate with her only because of her wealth. As a hypochondriac she is unsurpassed. It is the only thing she has to occupy her mind.

"God has given her riches and time to spend on the poor and needy, yet she is unwilling to donate any time to the countless charitable organizations which rely on volunteer help and donations. She has many talents, but flatly refuses to recognize or utilize them. She is indeed a 'lost soul' — and, ironically, poor because she is wealthy.

"Talents, however important, are not the only birth gifts given to us by God. We are also endowed with personality genes, some of which have the power to attract, others to rebuff. It is up to us, using our freedom of choice, to encourage or discourage these built-in tendencies as we develop our personalities. Destructive characteristics which arise from time to time, especially under stress, have to be overcome. So do all impulses to imitate, for then we seek to pattern ourselves after someone else. However greatly we may admire another person, if we drift away from our own talents and our own channels we diminish the importance of our own personalities and the potential of our own individual gifts.

"To diminish that which we alone in the world possess is to reject the will of God," says Jeane, "and that is self-destructive."

"There is only one of each of us," Jeane continues. "We are individual creations. The more faithfully we develop our talents and remain true to our given courses, the more we will be able to enjoy the harvests of the gifts of life.

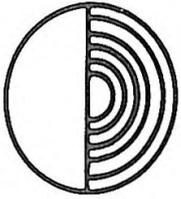

"I have always believed that my true purpose for using my psychic talent," says Jeane, "is trying to help other people — not by 'reading their futures,' but by helping them to help themselves discover their own talents and to use them in their daily living for the glory of God. People who do learn to help themselves are the true ANGELS of this world. For be they ever so meek, disadvantaged, impoverished, or seemingly deserted, if they try to HELP THEMSELVES they can stand straight, tall and proud, radiant — an example for all to see and follow."

Jeane tells a great deal more about her philosophy of life — how she applies it to her daily living and her work of helping people — and predicts many astounding things that will one day happen to all of us in her most recent book, My Life and Prophecies. Be sure that such a noteworthy and worthwhile book by this warm-hearted, compassionate woman of great psychic talent is one book you have read — one of the many books you can always order from Chimes.

If a person, instead of reading too many things, just puts into practice some little thing, that will be more valuable than reading libraries of books. If a person puts one idea into practice, that will be enough to bring out a great change in his life. So it is said that even a little doing of good will finally lead you to the ultimate success.

PSYCHIC DIGEST

SPOOK COURSE EDUCATIONAL

WILL WITCHES, palmists and ghosts wake up students bored with bearded poets? According to an article in the San Diego Evening Tribune an English teacher in Crockett, California, a sugar refining town, thinks so. Even the principal of his school says "spooks" have educational value. Robert Beck, teacher of English and English literature has brought a psychic reader and palmist to talk to the twenty-six students of his school, plays records of ghost stories, and leads discussions on such subjects as free will vs. predestination and astrology. Says one former student, Arlene Quenza, "He made us think for ourselves – whether we believed in the supernatural or not. It was really neat, I thought."

Beck says his year-old course "is debatable – at least among teachers" but proudly points to a reading list including Dante's "Inferno," Chaucer's "The Canon's Yeoman's Tale," Shakespeare's "Macbeth," and Milton's "Paradise Lost." To meet course standards, he says, students must learn the vocabulary of the supernatural. In connection with their studies, Beck says the class never makes judgment on religion, although in "Paradise Lost" it is difficult to avoid discussing the concept of sin.

Principal Pat Contestable says there has been no opposition and only good comments from parents in the city, and he himself is enthusiastic about the course. He doesn't pin down the subject matter "as long as the course teaches English skills."

THE ESP HABIT

IMAGINE A PERSON who can maintain high ESP scores for years! There is one: Pavel Stepanek of Czechoslovakia, first found and trained by Milan Ryzl, now working closely with Dr. J. Gaither Pratt, Assistant Professor, Department of Psychiatry, University of Virginia School of Medicine. Stepanek, formerly a hypnosis subject of Ryzl's, now is the subject of card tests used by Dr. Pratt. It has been his response to certain cards, whether sealed, covered, or hidden that has led to what is described as the "focusing effect." It begins, so it seems, when Stepanek associates a particular card or envelope or jacket with a certain response, whether right or wrong. Then this association turns into a kind of "ESP habit." Habits formed on a sensory basis, according to the ASPR Newsletter, 'become vehicles' for ESP performance. But, like any other theory, questions arise as to whether it will hold up, hold true for most people, or for different methods and materials? Also not explained is how it happens. Researchers still seem to be a long way from finding the answers to such questions.

YES OR NO TO "OUIJA" ?

IN A RECENT FRNM Bulletin, Dr. Louisa E. Rhine takes on the ever-popular ouija board. She sees the use of such devices – automatisms, she calls them – as a method of tapping the unconscious, involving a degree of mental dissociation that muscular movements can be made without direct conscious intention or awareness. According to Dr. Rhine, material produced in this fashion is of interest to parapsychology only if it is not traceable to sense perception, and which can be objectively verifiable. In other words, it is of interest only if it gives evidence of ESP. The key to being able to operate such devices successfully, according to Dr. Rhine, is the ability to dissociate, not due to some divine gift. As Dr. Rhine sees it, in several ways the very nature of automatic writing and the ouija board makes them particularly open to misunderstanding. Because they are unconscious, the person does not get the feeling of his own involvement, and, instead, feels some personality outside of himself is responsible – that the material is originating from another intelligence. If a person is extremely suggestible, uninformed and naive about the implications of this practice, Dr. Rhine thinks the results can be upsetting and very unhealthy. What's your experience?

LESSONS FOR STUDENTS

HOW TO RECEIVE MESSAGES THROUGH PSYCHIC MEANS

PART II.

How To Choose Conditions Best Suited To Automatic Writing

The saying that "There is a time and place for everything" applies also to automatic writing. It is often best to sit in a partly darkened room, particularly at a time when you are feeling drowsy, as such conditions will help you to detach yourself from outward and disassociated thoughts. Some persons drift into a dream state or a trance condition and this state is usually used by those experienced in automatic writing, as it helps toward complete detachment from "conscious" complications. Anything that your hand begins to write can be read and interpreted later. Stay with the receptivity of writing as it is best not to interrupt it.

By testing your ability daily, at a set hour and when possible, in the same place or in similar surroundings, results may prove progressive, as each new sitting picks up from the old. In early trials, however, you may have to shift both time and place to learn the conditions best suited to your efforts. Like your early attempts, your more successful sessions should be kept within reasonable bounds, though here there is no set limit.

Best Time To Break Off Writing

Perhaps the best rule is to break off as soon as there is a noticeable lull in the writing, or when you feel actually exhausted. To rectify either of these states demands a conscious effort, which is what you are chiefly trying to avoid. Sometimes by starting a conversation with someone or by starting to read a book, you can regain the needed detachment. If so, your hand will go on writing, often more vigorously than before. But if it still lags considerably, it is usually time to quit.

Some automatic writers have gone on for hours, sometimes pouring out words at far more than normal speed, but those are exceptional cases. This has been offered as proof that some outside entity, even a "spirit" has taken over, particularly when the writing itself proclaims that fact. But this is usually merely wishful thinking or fictionalizing on the writer's part. There is no telling how long the inner mind has been building up ideas or statements, yet hesitating to express them. Once all that comes to the surface, it is like opening a floodgate — nothing more.

How To Recognize The Automatic Stage And Turn It To Your Advantage

Whether your hand circles idly or becomes almost motionless while you are waiting for the inner mind to express itself, there are certain symptoms indicating that automatic writing may soon be due. Your hand and arm may become numb or insensible to pain, though you may not notice it immediately. Your hand may become less tired as you hold it poised, which is a favorable sign. On the contrary, if your arm becomes very fatigued, it can be a most disturbing factor. One way to counteract this is to rest the arm in a sling, thus keeping the hand well poised but without overstrain.

Shifting the pencil from one hand to another has worked surprisingly well with some persons. The term "surprise" is appropriate, because very few people realize until they try that they can write automatically with both hands. The only difference is that if you normally write with your right hand, your left naturally produces reversed or "mirror" writing. In contrast, a left-handed person who has been forced to write in right-handed fashion may revert to type during automatic writing and write backward with the right hand.

Reverse Writing

Mirror writing, or reverse writing as the term implies, can be read by holding it to a mirror; or if a fairly thin paper is used, you can look at the back side while holding it against a strong light. As with the mirror, the reversed writing will then be legible. Such messages almost always have significance, for they indicate that the inner mind is working outward, as though studying something that was scrawled on the other side of a window.

Departures From The Norm

In short, any departure from the norm is helpful to note for your progress. Going back to physical sensations, there are two which may be accepted as

How long will you tread the circling tracks of mind
Around your little self and petty things?
A seer, a strong creator is within,
This transient earthly being, if he wills,
Can fit his act to a transcendent scheme.

– Aurobindo

I know not by what methods rare,
But this I know – God answers prayer,
I know not when He sends the word
That tells us fervent prayer is heard.
I know it cometh – soon or late;
Therefore we need to pray and wait.
I know not if the blessing sought
Will come in just the way I thought.
I leave my prayers with Him alone,
Whose Will is wiser than my own.

In all this glory, shall I have no part?
Upon life's tapestry spin no design?
Must I, like some stray wind, depart,
And, on the earth, leave no remembered sign?

Surely I have not lived to court decay
And mingle with the cold insensate earth!
Why, even flowers, after their brief stay,
Come back again. Each spring sees their rebirth!

And I am less than flower, less than tree,
Which dying, birth again? The ages hold
Inviolable the secret; but to me
Still clings the thought: I am diviner mold.

If you should miss me on some quiet morn,
Grieve not! We only die to be reborn.

THEY CALLED HIM DEATH

They called him Death who sat beside me here,
His tender smile alight with comfortings—
They cried aloud in agony of fear,
Hearing his wings.

He came with silver fingers, cool and kind,
To ease the pain of tortured, struggling breath.
With him were all the dreams I tried to find;
They called him Death.

He bore me up in great strong arms of light.
Upon his lips a song that did not cease;
As like a shaft of flame, we cleft the night—
I called him Peace.

... with messages for the searching mind in quest of Truth,

DO YOU BELIEVE that "accidents" ever occur, or do you feel that every occurrence is of a karmic nature?

ONE CANNOT rule out simple accidents, but are these not induced by heedlessness and carelessness as to rules of safety so that they come under the heading of compensatory adjustments?

IN THE CASE OF a terminal illness, when opiates are administered by medical supervision, does this add to the karmic indebtedness of the sufferer?

IN TERMINAL cases opiates are often administered as a result of the good working of the law of karma. In such grave need, opiates that would not be approved for lesser needs are now the relievers of agonizing suffering.

At no time is a critically ill person held karmically responsible for the type of medication given him. A physician is the one who is morally responsible for the wise use of medicines, and his would be the karmic burden were he untrue to his trust.

DOES A PERSON ever have to retrace his steps in order to pay a karmic debt?

ONE NEED not regress in order to fulfill the law's exacting demands, but he does not advance one step in consciousness until he has righted whatever promises he failed to keep or wrongs he committed.

DOES HEREDITY play a part of karma? If so, in what way?

HEREDITY HAS always a karmic association with man, either constructively or adversely. If in one lifetime we neglect the laws of health, as did many ascetics during the dark ages, then when it is time for us to reincarnate, we attract parents whose heredity influence is very unfortunate. Oppositely, if we lived wholesomely and sanely in our last embodiment then our parents this lifetime supplied us with favorable heredity genes.

FOUR MEN who were hunting in the woods decided to stop in order to play cards. One man changed his seat with another hunter. The man who changed his seat was accidentally shot. Was this the wounded man's karma?

IN CASES OF this kind one man had adverse karma in relation to guns. It was this person who was shot. Hunters, and especially those who enjoy stalking animals and killing them, frequently attract accidents of this type. Those, too, who are mauled by animals and hurt or killed by them are paying a debt they owe the animal kingdom. The fate of matadors is of this kind because they have enjoyed wounding and killing animals. Vivisectionists attract gruesome karma which comes to them for the suffering they have inflicted upon innocent animals.

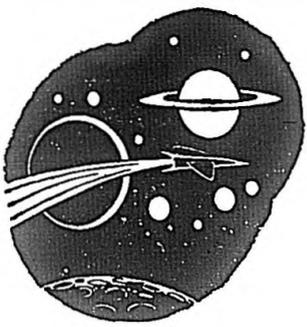

WOULD YOU please explain how our testings might be related to our individual karma?

TESTINGS ARE usually recurrences of lessons, habit patterns, or past failures. The karmic law of cause and effect has within its orbit whatever is merited for us to experience. Unpleasant events try us human beings; that is why they are called "testings." The same law, however, will bring us just as readily, whatever gains or blessings we have earned.

MUST KARMA BE paid back in kind — that is, on the plane on which it is incurred?

ALL KARMA needs to be paid on the plane on which it was precipitated. It is usually paid to the individuals or causes to whom the debt is owed. Only rarely do we cancel indebtedness by paying individuals who are utter strangers to us.

Here Are More Answers from the pen of the mystic teacher, Flower A. Newhouse, provides answers to many questions such as these. Rev. Newhouse has assembled these questions and answers from the inquiries of students in her classes the world over. Indexed for easy reference, her book is a gold-mine of spiritual knowledge. A Chimes book — see page 27.

UNITY – If I truly wish to help my neighbor do his work, and am not just bossing from love of having things go my way and an itch to have my finger in my neighbor's pie, I must keep ever in mind that his work is not to be judged by the inch of it that is visible to him or to me today, but only by the whole stretch as God sees it, as he will come to see it one day.

I must stand ready with a word of love and encouragement or inspiration if he needs it and I am privileged to give it. But most of all, I must remember that it is what I am, and not what I do or say, that counts for most, and that it matters not at all whether he or anyone else – or even I – shall know that I have helped him. To be of real and highest use in the Master's service is to shine as the sun shines everywhere – gladly, freely, lavishly – that he who will may be blessed therewith.

MARK-AGE "COSMIC LESSONS" – A fast is not just a fast to relinquish the animal desire to consume products of a certain nature, but to consume of the Spirit and to be given that understanding of love which God has placed before you. In fasting you create a greater temple within the personality to accept things in a wider scope than you are able to accept them while under the influence and vibrations of various foods. You are doing much in these days to consume greater energy than ever before. To consume this energy without the use of food is to consume an energy in its purer state than you are able to do while precipitating the power and energy needed to digest food of certain natures . . . from Gloria Lee.

UNIVERSAL LIFE – Bishop Kirby J. Heusley writes: Several months ago when I was meditating very deeply, my innermost being seemed to say we need a flag. A flag to unite all people. I saw this flag of white and gold. White representing Peace and Gold representing Prosperity. I knew then that this was the time for the kingdom of men to be set up, a time for men's dreams to come true. I know that the Church has failed to unify people and give them peace. The purpose of the Church was to bring peace. The purpose of the State was to bring Prosperity. Both Church and State have failed. At least 75% of all wars are fought between Church and State . . . The sixties have shown us that Church and State are coming together. The sixties have brought many unions of Churches. Why? They can no longer stand alone. Many of the Governments through out the world cannot stand alone either. . . I believe the 1970's will be the beginning of the Golden Age of Man. The coming together of Church and State. When it becomes one, it will cease to be and the Kingdom of Man will take over. People will say this is heaven. The Kingdom of Heaven is here. It truly will be a heaven.

NEW – Aviation has given us a great deal of knowledge about the weather. At the heart of violent storms such as cyclones, hurricanes, and typhoons is a center of perfect calm. Storms are nourished with power from these central areas of calmness. Man, like a storm, must derive his power from a calm center. According to Shirley M. Dever, if you want to be able to say, "goodbye tension, hello tranquillity," each day manage to have a quiet time with God. Turn your problems over to the Lord, forget the past and concentrate on the present. Run your engine at a moderate rate of speed; and remember the importance of silence, if you are to find peace of mind.

SELF-REALIZATION – Says Paramahansa Yogananda – Man is to be forgiven his frantic search for satisfaction in the material life. It is not wrong to seek it, but the way in which he does so is often wrong. The point is, that which is eternal cannot be found in that which is temporal.

AWAKENED INDIA – Swami Vivekananda says: 'Man is like an infinite spring, coiled up in a small box, and the spring is trying to unfold itself; and all the social phenomena that we see are the results of this trying to unfold. Infinity has been literally kept enfolded in man. That has to be unfolded. That alone is life's supreme and ultimate purpose and job. The brave ones among human beings must enthusiastically accept these.'

YOURS FRATELERNALLY – A spirit friend of David J. Hopkins tells us of the approach he and his fellows have: "The religion which we teach is one of acts and habits, not of words and fitful faith. We teach religion of body and religion of soul; a religion pure, progressive, and true, one that aims at no finality, but leads its votary higher and higher through the ages."

THE POWER OF PSYCHIC PURITY

By Bill R. Quinalty

Bainbridge, Maryland

PART I.

THIS IS the age of pollution! The need for greater purity in environment was never more urgent. But there is another type of pollution that should be even greater cause for concern. It is "psychic pollution" – an influence that is capable of affecting spiritual equilibrium. The volume now circulating may not be critical, but it is sufficient to create confusion for some neophyte seekers of truth.

Last year's shocking story of a cult leader responsible for the ritual murder of innocent followers is an example of how inversion is belief can occur if distorted views on occult matters are amplified.

Interest in the unknown and psychic subjects is expanding. This is encouraging, for it indicates that people are starting to reach beyond superficial things to life's spiritual realities. However it is still possible for a handful of insincere persons to enter the popular psychic field for personal gain. Others might be interested in acquiring power or prestige. In addition, there is the chance of self-deceived philosophers misleading others.

Because of this element, somewhere in our course of study it may seem difficult to separate fact from fiction and important from worthless. Nevertheless, if we would build upon a solid spiritual foundation, the "clutter" must be filtered out.

Don't despair – if you are sincere in your search, there is a way.

Obviously, our own motives must be right when we first start research and we should use our highest understanding of what is right to discern real virtue in something. But there are also seven basic principles available for revealing psychic illumination. These are good paths to greater insight and are key indicators of a teaching's spiritual character. They are:

1. PURITY: "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." (Mat. 5-8)

The deepest illumination is provided when there is purity of character. Cast out impurity and inharmony caused by erroneous human concepts and the light of Spirit will be more visible to you. One of the first commands in creation was, "Let there be light." This should also become our decree as we seek more enlightenment. When found, this light is the "beam" on which we fix our mental gaze for guidance through the maze of conflicting dogma, to peaks of true revelation.

Naturally, in order to detect purity outwardly, the practice of inner purity of thought must be followed. "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think of these things." (Phil. 4-8) A murky pool does not reflect beautiful scenery. Nor can a brain cluttered with useless concepts reflect the Kingdom of God. Truth remains pure in essence, but the way we view it can change. On this plane of existence we often see "through a glass darkly" – not because God is distorted, but because our "lens" (capacity to understand) is foggy. During periods of contemplation, when the mind is emptied of false thought patterns, it should be quickly refilled with those reflecting God-like character.

There are people who build intellectual walls around themselves by demanding more complicated answers than the Masters gave. They "confound the realm of knowledge about things formulated through thy intellect with pure knowledge . . ." missing the metaphysical truth that . . . "intellect and its plane of activity are not pure mind as the realm of matter is not spirit." Impressions attained by the brain cannot be compared to inspiration absorbed through the spiritual consciousness of man. Some of us struggle with bits and pieces gathered here and there, trying to put life's puzzle together. In contrast, others, guided by inner light, simply elevate themselves to a position where the complicated pattern is viewed as a whole. This "overview" is most rewarding.

In Christianity, as well as the doctrines of Moses and other major religions, we find commands for spiritual and physical purity. The "vessel" that has been through a purifying process is ready for the flow of divine power, often called the "Holy Spirit," or "Spirit of Truth." As it turns from the lower (carnal) impulses, the soul takes on a newer outlook and the potential spiritual nature that has been suppressed suddenly awakens. This process, often called "transformation," follows a pattern described by Charles Fillmore, one of the great modern mystics: "Step by step, thought added to thought, spiritual emotion added to spiritual emotion – eventually the

PSYCHIC EXPERIENCES

THE CAT THAT 'SAW' ITS MASTER'S SPIRIT

By the late Dora Sessions Lee
Prescott, Arizona

MY HUSBAND, the late Richard H. Lee, was a great lover of cats — just cats in the everyday walk of life — like he himself was. When we moved to Prescott, Arizona from Humboldt in 1941, we fetched along a big black tom that he was especially fond of. While I was not specially a lover of cats myself, the cat appeared to be equally fond of us both.

One day Dick went to Phoenix to visit our daughter. On a Friday morning I had a card from him saying that he would be home the following Monday morning. But around midnight Saturday night I got a message from Phoenix saying that my husband had been struck by a car on Seventh Street and instantly killed.

In the morning I was attracted to the cat. He appeared to be in a high state of excitement, and he would not come to the house nor allow me to get anywhere near him. When I went out and offered him food, he climbed the stone wall back of the house in a perfect panic.

Although the cat stayed in the neighborhood — friends would see him now and then — he never once returned home to me. I would occasionally catch a glimpse of him perched on the stone wall always watching the house curiously. If I opened the door and made any advances, he literally flew!

What do Chimes readers make of this circumstance? Personally, I want no better explanation than that after my husband was killed by the car in Phoenix, he returned to his Prescott home and his cat saw him. It is my firm belief that on his way to wherever it is that the spirit dwells, Dick came by his home. To me, of course, that means that he did not perish.

When you die you step over a very small barrier so thin it doesn't seem to be there. The spirit leaves immediately but the lines are tenuous in some and take time to dissolve. The body hasn't much more than sentimental worth but that should not be discounted. If you have lived and learned a great deal in this body it is logical that you be sentimental about it. The laws of leaving it (the body) are simple if you have learned the Christian message and do not hold back too hard. The resistance is possible and keeps some near the loved body, more than near the loved people. People, even though loved, drift away but the body was real.

Meditation, if studied, will lead to acceptance and an easy slipping over when you are ready and needed. The resistance will not be needed, the leaving will be natural, just a longer period of meditation and then new frontiers to explore and conquer.

REINCARNATION

REINCARNATION 1.75
Swami Abhedananda

Reincarnation is shown here to be a universal solvent of life's mysteries and, as expounded by the author, to be not only plausible but quite scientific and most comforting. This ancient teaching of rebirth, logic and justice is rapidly permeating the best thought of the western world

REINCARNATION AND THE LAW OF KARMA 3.75
William W. Atkinson

A study of the old new world-doctrine of re-birth, and spiritual cause and effect. Strictly speaking, KARMA is the Law of Cause and Effect as applied to the life of the soul, the law whereby it reaps the results of its own sowing, or suffers the reaction from its own action

REINCARNATION: An East-West Anthology (P) 2.20
Joseph Head & S.L. Cranston

A handsome paper book value with well-set pages and generous margins approximating an encyclopedia, classified and indexed. Quotes from major and minor religions and over 400 western thinkers, from Pythagoras to Jung and Fromm

REINCARNATION: The Cycle of Necessity 4.75
Manly P. Hall

Entirely compatible with the scientific acceptable teachings of evolution and causality, rebirth is sustained by the almost irrefutable testimony of Universal Law and natural procedures. We are in a generation of scientific skepticism, but strangely enough, the belief in reincarnation has gained greater recognition from trained minds than from any other solution for the riddle of human destiny

REINCARNATION, Fact or Fallacy? (P) .75
Geoffrey Hodson

Presented here is the idea of rebirth on Earth as a reasonable concept compatible with Christian teaching, and, in fact, substantiated by writings in the Bible

REINCARNATION For the Millions (P) 2.75
Susy Smith

A popular and reliable American researcher tackles the implications of survival after body death and comes up with some new ideas and new information on the subject. One of the most interesting – probably most important – books written on this subject in the last five years, the author not only is able to present her material as a fascinating story would read, but with an honest, straightforward approach containing conclusions and evidence that make it a valuable introduction to the subject

REINCARNATION, Hidden History of (P) 1.50
Noel Langley

The historical evidence supporting Edgar Cayce's readings, based fairly and squarely on the premise that reincarnation is one of the fundamental laws of human evolution, along with irrefutable Bible references that have been suppressed

REINCARNATION IN WORLD THOUGHT 8.75

Joseph Head & S. L. Cranston

What great thinkers through the ages have said on the subject, and what the world's religions, philosophies and sciences have contributed and are contributing to the discussion. Answered here is whether reincarnation is simply the dream of wishful thinking or actually a universal lawful process beyond all creeds and dogma. 480 pages of thought-provoking material on a most intriguing subject

REINCARNATION, The Meaning of 3.25
Dr. Joseph Murphy

How you can rise above superstition, fear and ignorance, and enter consciously into union with the higher self by a knowledge of this subject. Here is a KEY to understanding the meaning of one's journey through life on Earth

YOUTH: OPEN THE DOOR*
By Eloise

YOUTH certainly does face its share of challenges in this day and age. One reason for this is that it is THEIR AGE . . . the New Age we are now entering which is the hope of the world. Through the youth of this day a new keynote can be struck for the human race. The main business of the years to come, says Eloise, need no longer be a struggle to the death for possessions and property, rather the main business of the coming years can be the gathering of true wealth — INTELLIGENCE.

The dawn of universal intelligence will bring with it the discarding of the old out-moded habits of life which have served to bind the human race to the sufferings of Earth life — disease and painful death. This book, with its message for the youth and young at heart can help them to strike off their fetters and, thus freed, can begin to free the rest of humankind.

One by one, the young people of our time — the pioneers of the real peace on Earth — will take the clear light of understanding to all races and nations, and behind them will stand the intelligent men and women of the world who have themselves awakened to the truths of life. A befogged world struggles in its death throes. Youth, however, is not befogged beyond remedy and therefore, indeed, is the hope of the world.

Young people, when left alone to find and become acquainted with their inner selves, their Higher Selves, will learn they have much guidance to give. They were placed on Earth at this particular time to carve out new paths, to think out new ways of earning their livelihood, to make sincere efforts to state everything clearly and openly. There need be nothing to hide; intrigue will be outmoded and that which has been a mystery gradually will be revealed to the eyes and ears of those ready to understand. More beauty in living will be brought to light by their new leadership.

Here are the guidelines that youth of this New Age will observe . . . in their choice of a life's work, in their hobbies, in the time they devote to their inner lives. Through the leadership such young people will bring to Earth, the time is growing closer when the consciousness among men and women will be that of Cosmic Consciousness. The philosophy of youth will be to change lives, awaken minds, and restore souls.

THE AMAZING SECRETS OF THE MASTERS OF THE FAR EAST

By Robert Collier

*Here is the accumulated wisdom of 4,000 years of experience

— in complete book form —

PART V.

THE LAW OF IMMEDIATE GOALS

Long-range goals, concretely visualized, are important to us if we are to achieve anything impressive over the years. But in order to have long-range goals, we must first have short-range ones. Each big objective has many smaller ones within itself; as we achieve these minor goals, the major ones begin to take form and reality.

This rule — we may call it the Law of Immediate Goals — provides the pattern for all sizable accomplishments. To see how it works, let's turn to an old story — a true story of how a band of Scotch soldiers won a remarkable victory.

The Scots were greatly outnumbered by their enemies, the Saracens. It seemed impossible for the Highlanders, valiant though they were, to break through the deep, spear-bridling lines of the foe. But the Scots had cut out the heart of Robert de Bruce, their dead leader, and it proved to be a magic talisman.

One of the soldiers held the heart up so that all could see. With a loud shout, he threw it forward, right into the enemy lines. Another shout, and the Scots were advancing into the midst of the enemy to recapture the strange missile. Moments of sharp hand-to-hand fighting followed, and then they had the heart in their hands once more. The soldier who had been lucky enough to regain the heart flung it again, this time still deeper into the ranks of the Saracens. Again the Scots surged forward, each man trying to be the first to get the heart. Thus they advanced, yard by yard, until finally they had broken through the Saracens and routed them. The great heart of Robert de Bruce, though it beat no more, had won the day for his countrymen.

What does this story teach? That you should make your goals really concrete by making them immediate — like the few yards the Scots had to push ahead each time to win back Bruce's heart. If, for example, you have set yourself the goal of acquiring wealth and security, don't visualize these as becoming yours at the end of two or three decades. Picture the amount of money you want to have at the end of each year. And don't just set the amount for the year; unless you put away some money week by week, you probably will never achieve the annual sum. Having decided on accumulating one thousand dollars in twelve months, you should determine how much you must put away each week to have that amount at the end of the year. Once you have decided precisely how much to save, you will be surprised at how easy it will be to save it.

GETTING AHEAD IN YOUR JOB

If your aim is to rise in your profession, don't be satisfied to picture yourself as earning five thousand dollars more a year at some date in the indefinite future. To get your subconscious powers to work for you now, you must offer them attractive bait — and in the immediate future. Say to yourself: "At the end of this year I will be getting a thousand dollars more than at present." Say it often. You will be astonished how soon opportunities will be presented to you — or found by your subconscious mind — to increase your value to the organization for which you work, and consequently your earning power, provided you faithfully apply the other simple rules of dharana expounded in this and the following chapters.

EXTRAORDINARY SENSE PERCEPTIONS

In one of his most meaningful sutras, the Hindu sage Patanjali declares: "The kinds of concentration that produce extraordinary sense perceptions cause perseverance of the mind." In order to get a thing, it must first make a strong impression on your senses, which in turn makes a powerful impression on your mind. The more powerful the impression, the more will every current in your subconscious be channeled to the achievement of your wish.

Immediate goals will make a strong impression on your senses — but how can you keep the impression so strong that your mind will really persevere through thick and thin till your wish is fulfilled?

You won't make a mistake if you take a hint from the old schoolroom where you learned the three R's. Probably you still remember some of the proverbs that your teacher had written on placards which she fastened up on the walls; perhaps your first knowledge of what George Washington looked like, or Abraham Lincoln, goes back to pictures you observed in that classroom. Because you saw them every day, they stuck with you.

IMPRESSIONS ON THE SUBCONSCIOUS

Most of us are extremely visual minded. If we see something, we are likely to remember it much better than if we merely hear it. (Musicians and some others are an exception to this rule.) So it's bound to prove helpful, in visualizing our objectives concretely, if we don't see them merely with our mind's eye, but with our body's eyes as well. So to speak, we must reverse the old proverb: "Out of sight, out of mind."

HOW TO STRENGTHEN THE IMAGES

Let's get down to cases. What are the things you have set your heart on? Do you want a new car? Then clip a picture of the car you want, and put it in a place where you will see it often. Does a lovely new house appeal to you more? Hunt through the magazines for a house of the type you want and clip it out. Put these pictures of your concrete objectives in a folder or paste them in a notebook and look at them regularly, perhaps every morning and evening. As you look at them, think how much you want them. Try as hard as you can to make a forceful impression upon your conscious mind. Your conscious mind will telegraph the image to your subconscious, and both will work together to achieve your aim for you.

GETTING THE THINGS YOU WANT

Utilize every means you can think of for strengthening the images of the things you want. Remember, the more sharply and the more often you visualize them, the quicker will you realize them.

Do you want financial security? Take out your bank book often and observe the way each deposit makes your savings grow. Picture how large you would like your bank account to be at the end of the year. Count your government savings bonds. Look at them and feel them. Tell yourself how many more you want to have at the end of twelve months. If you concentrate sufficiently on these goals, you will achieve them.

Have you set your heart on spending your next vacation in France, or Bermuda, or the Canadian Rockies? See if you can't obtain travel posters picturing these places. Put them up in your den, your room, or your kitchen. Not only will they brighten up the room — they'll brighten up your subconscious and keep it working to achieve the wonderful vacation you want. Send away for travel folders too, and look at them often. The chances are that if you concentrate hard enough, and wish strongly enough, before you know it you will find yourself on an airplane or a ship, bound for the place you have been dreaming about — and pinching yourself to make sure it's really you who are going there.

Perhaps you'd like to have a fine library of books or phonograph records or a lovely wardrobe — the kind that costs hundreds and hundreds of dollars — but cannot imagine yourself being affluent enough to afford them. Your first step toward making your wish come true is not only to picture yourself rich enough, but to think concretely about the books, records, or garments you would like to have.

And don't merely think about them. Go right down to where books, phonograph records, or dresses are sold. Look at them. Consider the ones you want. When you read newspapers or magazines, pay special attention to the articles written about these things, and the advertisements.

In very short order, you will find yourself building the kind of library or wardrobe you would like to have. Your subconscious mind, stimulated by the visual impression produced by these things, will help you find ways to acquire them. So will your conscious mind. As you become more familiar with the outlets where these objects are sold, you will discover that occasionally there are sales, or that if you look carefully you can find wonderful bargains at only a fraction of the usual price. By inches or miles, faster or slower, depending upon the degree of your interest and concentration, you will achieve your ambition. Nothing can stop you!

LOSING WEIGHT

This same technique will hold for any goal you have in view. Visualize it concretely, in terms of immediate goals. If you are overweight, as so many people are, you will find this method more effective than pills in removing excess poundage. But use it as recommended. Don't merely say, "I want to lose weight" — that's too vague and abstract. Instead, picture yourself twenty pounds lighter with the attractive figure you would like to have, and the image will serve as a stirring call to forgo extra calories. Better still, get a photograph of yourself in earlier years, when you weighed less, and put it where you will see it often. Tell yourself you are going to lose two pounds a week, or whatever number is safe for your age and state of health. Get on the scales every morning and weigh yourself; the sight of your weight in bold black letters on the scale is much more effective in helping you to restrain your appetite than all the admonitions of all the physicians in the world.

A COMMON-SENSE SECRET

You see, through these simple instances, that there is nothing magical about being able to get the things you want if you visualize them as concretely and perseveringly as possible. Dharana, or applied concentration, is a thoroughly common-sense technique, after all.

It has been said that common sense is the one thing that everybody thinks he has enough of. Ordinary experience, however, shows us that this is not true. Some people will just lean back and dream vaguely of the things they want – the better job, the bigger bank account, the new car, the lovely home, the fine clothes, the trim figure – but they lack the common sense to take the elementary step of concentrating on immediate, concrete objectives with all their hearts and souls.

And that is the only way things are achieved in this world.

THE SECOND SECRET

Whether you think life is worth living or not, you will have to live it. There's no escape, no oblivion around the corner. Time isn't destroying you, but neither can you destroy it. Life must be lived, but of course you can decide on what level you will live it. That is, if you know enough and are prepared to make the right effort. Our chief trouble now is that we don't know enough and only make wrong efforts.

– J. B. Priestley

It was a cold morning, April 6, 1909. The sharp edged wind shrilled in the ears of the six men who moved ever more slowly across the great ice sheet. Their breath came from their nostrils in thick white clouds. Even under their heavy furs they trembled; fatigue made the sub-zero temperature seem even colder.

For over a month the men had been traveling northward, ever northward, by foot and sledge over the ice floes. Now, close to exhaustion, they stopped at a nod from their leader. He opened an instrument case and took measurements. Their location was 89° 57'. His jaw set, he gazed to the north as his men squatted on the ice.

For a few hours the travelers rested and refreshed themselves. Even so, when their leader called to them, it seemed as though they had halted only a few moments ago, so weary were they. Slowly they lifted themselves to their feet and made ready to move on. The leader, although he walked to his sledge with difficulty, appeared to possess more strength than the others. Closeness to his goal, after so many years of hoping, lent him added energy. Across that infinite desolate expanse the tiny group of men headed into the howling wind.

Now the leader's hand went up again. The party came to a stop. The four men with slanted eyes – they were Eskimos – watched as the dark-skinned man and the white-skinned one unpacked instruments again. The white man took his measurements. A slow smile spread across his frosty face. The Eskimos felt cheered. They did not quite understand what it was all about, but the happy look on their leader's worn countenance told them more eloquently than words that an achievement of extraordinary importance had taken place.

But their leader knew. He knew it in every fiber of his being. For the first time in recorded history, human beings were standing at the North Pole.

The white man, in case you have not guessed his identity, was Commander Robert Edwin Peary of the United States Navy; the Negro was his faithful aide Henson.

It was Peary's eighth expedition to the Arctic. For twenty years he had dreamed of raising the United States flag in that barren, windy waste. To this goal he had dedicated every ounce of strength in his body – every thought in his soul – and now he had achieved his aim!

On one expedition, Peary had attempted to reach the Pole by way of northern Greenland. He went far, but then his supplies ran out. He and his men got back to the nearest Eskimo settlement barely half alive; only one of their dogs survived. Another time, his leg was crushed; on another venture he lost seven toes to frostbite. Often he lacked the money to finance his expeditions, to equip the special vessels required for polar exploration. He had to suspend his plans, and travel across the United States lecturing, making an exhausting series of one-night stands in scores of towns and cities, until little by little he accumulated the large sums of money he needed. But he won out in the end because his desire to reach the North Pole was greater than any obstacle that nature or circumstance could place in his path.

The poet Clarence Mackay has summed up the secret of this hero's superb achievement and others like it in these lines:

*"If thou canst plan a noble deed,
And never flag till it succeed,
Though in the strife thy heart should bleed,
Whatever obstacles control,
Thine hour will come – go on, true soul!
Thou'lt win the prize, thou'lt reach the goal."*

Peary's great deed and this poem point the way directly to the Second Secret of the Masters.

A LAW OF THE MASTERS

In the foregoing chapter, we laid great emphasis upon the need to select your goal intelligently, and offered practical suggestions for visualizing it concretely. We said that your subconscious mind is extremely responsive to concrete images, and will work to help you attain the goal you picture. Your problem, however, is to hold that goal steadfastly in mind — as steadfastly as Peary held his goal, as firmly as Edison and Andrew Carnegie held theirs . . . If you can succeed in maintaining the picture of your desire firm and undistorted before your mind's eye, it will be projected into reality. This is a law of the Masters.

Yes, any wish that is within the power of human beings to realize will inevitably be brought forth into tangible reality if it is concentrated upon with sufficient strength. On the other hand, if you allow conflicting thoughts or doubts to enter your mind, they will crowd out your wish and make it impossible to achieve.

This is not only a law of the Masters; it is a law of psychology and physiology. It is proved a thousand times a day. Here is a simple experiment you can make this instant, to see the law in action. You don't need any special equipment — test tubes, bunsen burners, chemicals, or the like. All you need is your own finger — and a thought.

TRY THIS EXPERIMENT

Hold out the index finger of your left hand. It should be fairly straight but not tense or rigid. Now tell yourself that you are going to keep it this way. At the same time, think a bit of wanting to bend your finger. Don't you notice a feeling running through your finger as though it wished to bend? The nerves are all ready to bend it — it may even start to crook slightly — but it will not bend because you decided in advance that you were only going to think of bending it.

Now, completely discard the idea of keeping your finger straight. Your only thought now, should be of bending it. As you hold out your finger, it immediately begins to move. The finger follows your thought obediently.

This little experiment proves, in a physical sense, the important lesson, already alluded to. If you think of an action without a conflicting thought, your body will perform it.

THOUGHT, THEN ACTION

As a matter of fact, your body may go ahead and perform a whole series of actions unconsciously once the thought of doing them has dawned in your mind; often the actions take place quite a while after the initial thought. Much of your ordinary behavior occurs on this subconscious basis.

Let's consider, for example, the everyday matter of dressing yourself. After you get out of bed in the morning, the first thought that crosses your mind concerns the putting on of your clothing. You may still be half asleep or lost in a reverie, but a few moments later you will observe that you are partly or entirely dressed. You may not recall the various steps of dressing — putting on your shoes, socks, and underwear — but you have gone through them. If there is no opposition to the thought, it will fulfill itself. Psychologists describe this as ideo-motor action. First there is an idea — and then the motor mechanism of your body, guided by your subconscious mind, carries it out in intricate detail without any further thought on your part.

Every twenty-four hours you perform thousands of ideo-motor actions. Suppose, as a second example, that you are visiting a friend and talking to him. On the end table, near you, there are dishes of chocolates and nuts. The idea fleets through your mind that from time to time your hand is going to these dishes and carrying some candy or nuts to your mouth. The action in no way interrupts your train of thought as you converse with your friend, and you are hardly, if at all, conscious of it. The thought, once it occurs to you, will be fulfilled if there is no obstacle to its fulfillment.

This interesting phenomenon has been well described by the German scientist Lotze in his epochal work, Medical Psychology:

"We see in writing or playing the piano a large number of exceedingly complicated movements following quickly one upon the other, the original ideas for which remained barely an instant in consciousness, certainly not long enough to awaken any other thought than the general one of resigning oneself without reserve to the passing over of idea into action. All the acts of our daily life happen in this way: Our standing up, walking, talking, all this never demands a distinct impulse of the will, but is adequately brought about by the pure flux of thought."

WHY IDEAS COME TO NOTHING

On the other hand, as you very well know, there are many cases when the ideas in your mind come to nothing. Take, for example, the problem you face sometimes in getting out of your warm bed on a cold morning. You have the thought of getting up but you may not act upon it for minutes or hours, much though you feel you should. Why not, if thought is so compelling?

The answer lies in the fact that your thoughts are contradictory: you wish to get up, but you also want to enjoy the comfort of staying in your bed. As Professor William James has put it:

"Every representation of a movement awakens in some degree the actual movement which is its object, and awakens it in a maximum degree whenever it is not kept from so doing by an antagonistic representation present simultaneously to the mind."

It is this fact which explains why so many of our fine resolutions come to nothing. We have our goals in mind, but we have thoughts that keep us from achieving them. We want to get ahead in the world —

sickness thought weaken or contradict our success thoughts. They prevent our truly positive thoughts from working themselves out.

YOU MUST BE ONE-POINTED

In all the writings and teachings of the Masters, there is a term that recurs again and again, like the refrain of a song. It is the word "one-pointed." One-pointedness is the heart of dharana, or concentration — the core of any practical method for success. The man who is truly one-pointed, according to the Masters, is destiny's darling.

What is one-pointedness? Says the guru Patanjali: "When you have learned to control your mind in the face of disturbances, then your mind has acquired one-pointedness. This quality is a state or condition of the mind."

One-pointedness is the ability to exclude from your mind all thoughts but the one you want it to be possessed by. It is the power to concentrate on your dream until it has become more than a dream. It is a suit of self-forged armor, hard and shining, that deflects all distractions and hardships while you move unerringly toward the fulfillment of your wishes.

THE HIGHEST IS WITHIN YOUR REACH

Perhaps one-pointedness sounds difficult to acquire. Its acquisition is, in a sense, the hardest part of the method of the Masters. Still, they have achieved it, and so, too, have many others. What one man or woman has done, others can do. You are of their blood. The highest is within your reach, if you wish it strongly enough.

With practice, one-pointedness sounds difficult to acquire. Its acquisition is, in a sense, the hardest part of the method of the Masters. Still, they have achieved it, and so, too, have many others. What one man or woman has done, others can do. You are of their blood. The highest is within your reach, if you wish it strongly enough.

With practice, one-pointedness can be achieved by anyone, Patanjali tells us. There are many techniques of building it within yourself; some have already been explained and still more will be revealed to you as we proceed. If you persevere in them, one-pointedness brings extraordinary powers within your grasp. It mobilizes the subconscious mind, giving you incredible strength and effectiveness. Like a bright sun, it shoots rays of might into your deeper being, warming it and bringing to life positive qualities for success that most human beings do not even know they possess.

Because it brings your subconscious powers into play, one-pointedness grows easier with practice. Although it may be attained only spasmodically at first, in time it becomes second nature. After a while you will find your subconscious mind working for you almost without bidding, smoothing your way to achievement. Things that seemed difficult to accomplish will become easy. Your friends will wonder at your fearlessness, your confidence in the face of difficulties, your ability to perform hard work with miraculous ease and speed. Above all, they will marvel at your will power.

FUNCTIONING AS A WHOLE PERSON

The one-pointed person gets what he wants because he functions as a whole person — on a physical, mental, and subconscious level. The subconscious mind gives multiple effectiveness to the conscious mind and the body, causing all three to work in harmony.

The blocks that exist in the minds of most people, keeping them from utilizing their capacities to the fullest are eliminated in the one-pointed person. Fearful thoughts, lack of self-confidence, fatigue, and other factors that paralyze us when success is within our grasp are wiped away; self-mastery is complete.

NEGATIVE AND POSITIVE THINKING

The first thing you must realize, if you want to attain one-pointedness, is the danger of contrary thoughts. Earlier we dwelt upon the baneful power that negative thoughts have to weaken and harm you. The opposite is equally true: Thoughts of success, achievement, and health will help you to health, achievement, and success.

As we observed in the teachings of the Masters, thoughts have reality; they differ from physical objects in form but not in their essential nature as manifestations of electrical energy. Traveling through your body and your mind as electrical energy, they make these function to your benefit or disadvantage in proportion as they are positive or negative.

To be 100 per cent one-pointed, you must make your thoughts 100 per cent positive. The more you allow negative thoughts, either through indifference or lack of self-faith, to dominate your mind, the less will you be able to do or get what you want. As the Masters put it, you run the risk of becoming "many-pointed," and of discharging your energy to no good purpose.

OBSTACLES IN YOUR PATH

What are the obstacles that arise to diffuse your one-pointedness? Patanjali catalogued them centuries ago, and they are still the same today. He lists them in this order: "Ill health, boredom, self-doubt, carelessness, laziness, worldly-mindedness, incapacity to perceive what is needed, a tendency to be misled into side issues after a certain measure of success has been achieved, and incapacity to adhere to your purpose." In the complex world of the West, there are even more harmful forces than those the Hindu Patanjali mentions.

Some of these obstacles we shall deal with in due course, but the main ones we shall examine at this point. Patanjali gives a number of methods for overcoming them but the one that is most important for the man and woman of the Western world is psychological. For Patanjali says: "Those obstacles may be prevented by steady and intense concentration on some subject." Next he offers us specific advice; he says: "If you wish to eliminate harmful thoughts, attitudes, and feelings, you should concentrate upon their opposites. It is wise to eliminate them; such thoughts hamper progress in yoga and will cause you to be unhappy."

CONTRARY CONCENTRATION

Every condition or quality that exists in the world has an opposite. In fact, it is because they have opposites that it is possible for us to know them. If there were no night, there would be no day as such. If no one were lazy, a man would not call himself industrious. If disease did not exist, we would have no idea of health. All conditions are paired with their opposites, but of each pair only one condition will benefit us. The other brings harm and failure, if we permit it to possess our minds.

The meditation on opposites counseled by Patanjali is, in these pages, termed Contrary Concentration, or Concentration on the Positive. It offers a method not only of wiping failure-producing thoughts from the mind and attaining one-pointedness, but of improving your character and making yourself a better, more effective human being.

The method, superficially, seems simple. After all, what could be easier than to think of cheerfulness when you feel depressed, to dwell upon the value of confidence when you begin to doubt yourself? The difficulty, however, is this: your negative thoughts have easily as much vitality as your positive ones, sometimes more. Only after prolonged meditation, on many different occasions, can you perfect yourself in the technique of Contrary Concentration.

In your Contrary Concentration, as in ordinary concentration, you must immerse yourself in your thought, until it fills your entire being. You must meditate upon it from every conceivable angle great or small. Only then will the thoughts or qualities you wish to possess become capable of implanting themselves solidly in your subconscious mind, from which they will thereafter flow forth automatically. Only then will you be able to uproot the harmful thoughts and make your subconscious mind so firm that self-damaging notions will not be able to take root in it, no matter how often they cast their seed upon it.

CONCENTRATION OF THE MASTERS

Concentration, as practiced by the Masters of the Far East, is far different from what the term ordinarily means to us of the West. The saintly seer of India, Ramakrishna, has out of personal experience painted a telling picture of what Oriental meditation is like. He has said:

"In the grove I would sit, in deep meditation, with my body perfectly still, and lose all consciousness of the outside world. Birds would perch on my head. Often snakes would crawl over my motionless body. The ordinary man would not be able to bear a fraction of the tremendous fervour I felt."

When, in accordance with Hindu ritual, Ramakrishna uttered the mystical syllable Rang and imagined himself surrounded by a wall of flame, he actually felt the heat of the mythical fire blistering his skin. His was one-pointedness in the highest sense.

The Amazing Secrets of the Masters of the Far East by Robert Collier, Baird T. Spalding's five volumes entitled Life and Teachings of the Masters of the Far East, the Yoga Aphorisms of Patanjali as translated by Swami Prabhavananda and Christopher Isherwood in their book entitled, How to Know God, all are certainly absorbing, meaningful books any student of the occult should have read and be well acquainted with. These are books that will explain many enigmas of life you or someone you know often have wondered about. While you are reading this series — send for yours from Chimes.

The young people who seem to create such a disturbance today have come with a mission; and this mission is to break down and clear away old ideas, to cleanse the earth of out-worn, out-moded conditions of living. So, you will see a certain amount of disturbance, disruption. Some of these young people are not always discreet, they make a noise and do things of which you may not approve. We also do not necessarily approve of all that is taking place, but we have to remember that individuals act rashly at times; when their emotions are out of control they lack discipline. Nevertheless, these young people are doing a certain work which is to break up that which is unwanted, clear it away in order to bring more justice, more beauty to human life, and open the way for humanity to see into higher worlds.

EDGAR CAYCE – ON LOVE

JESUS TALKED a great deal about love, and so did Edgar Cayce. Yet two thousand years after the Christ showed us the power of love, we still need to be reminded of it again.

In the readings, Cayce spoke of love of country, love of beauty, love of fellow man and, most important, the love that God shows for His children. Today, as for centuries past, we see the exploitation and ruination of love . . . how man misuses and misunderstands his creative love force.

Cayce speaks of marriage in the readings as the world's hope. He tells us that the commitment between a man and a woman is much more than a social contract or a convenient arrangement for legal sex relations. Many times the readings elevate marriage to the lofty position it merits. Answering the question as to the ideal relationship as to home, Cayce replied:

. . . Such is as a pattern of that HOPED for in a heavenly home. And if each entity would so live in this material sojourn as if it were for an eternal home, much more beauty, much more joy, much more peace would be attained.

Most young people were cautioned to take their time in making a decision concerning thier life partnership. Cayce frequently suggested waiting until the twenty-seventh or twenty-eighth year for union. He counseled against choosing from physical appearance only – for this soon fades – but rather that spiritual ideals, mental aspirations and physical agreements should be considered.

Cayce also recognized the turmoil that questions of sex can bring. "This is ever and will ever be a question," Cayce reminds us, "and a problem, until there is the greater spiritual awakening within man's experience . . . this phase biologically, sociologically . . . must be as a stepping stone for the greater awakening."

The Garden of Eden parable in Genesis describes man's original sin as putting self above God, disobedience to the Father's will. According to Cayce, attention to sex and other animal pleasures first turned man from God, This very sin, however, can be transformed and used for good.

Cayce gave a definition of "soul mates" that can apply on many levels of human relationships. A soul mate is found, according to Cayce, "where they are a complement one to another – not that as from physical attraction but for mental and spiritual help."

The only true freedom, said Cayce, was in bondage to God's will. Only this special kind of "free love" can liberate us to greater service.

In A Search for God (a Chimes book), Cayce speaks of these ideals that can and will be attained on this plane of living. The foregoing are excerpts from the A.R.E. Journal.

CAYCE, Edgar – On Prophecy (P) $1.00

An astonishing collection of predictions from the celebrated Cayce Life Readings that not only will change your whole life but that of millions. Countless new details are included not mentioned in other works relating to Cayce's prophecies. Breathtaking, to say the least!

EARTH CHANGES (P) $1.50

A study of geological data in the Cayce Life Readings that deals with past and future changes in the Earth compared with the findings of scientific research. Much material relates to future Earth upheavals and land changes long predicted from many quarters. Prepared by a professional geologist.

SEARCH FOR GOD, A (2 Vols.) each $2.75

A compilation of information dealing with spiritual laws of daily living, affirmations and basic discourses given by Edgar Cayce, the Seer of Virginia Beach.

TIME OF CRISIS (P) $1.50

A collection of 17 psychic discourses of national and world affairs from the Edgar Cayce Readings. Fantastic glimpses of the future, for which Cayce has become world-famous.

EDGAR CAYCE'S STORY OF JESUS $6.20

By Jeffrey Furst. An extraordinary book that embodies the story of the life of Jesus as found scattered throughout the Life Readings by Edgar Cayce. Compiled and arranged to make them accessible to the general public, the details of the Readings make up fascinating subject matter, such as the Virgin Birth, Pentecost, the Last Supper, the Crucifixion and Resurrection, and the Second Coming. Read what Jesus was like as a child, where He was prior to His ministry, where He is now, and what is required to transpire before He returns to Earth.

THINK! WHAT DID YOU FORGET?

MARK-AGE IN CALIFORNIA

MARK AND YOLANDA, directors of Mark-Age MetaCenter, will operate from temporary headquarters in southern California this spring. This is primarily to help in the rending of third phase of the seventh veil by the spiritual Hierarchy of our solar system. It is also an advance preparation for the entry of Mark-Age as trade publishers in the mass media book market.

*Mark and Yolanda, directors of Mark-Age MetaCenter, Inc.
327 N.E. 20th Terrace, Miami, Florida 33137*

As a spiritual, nondenominational information and education center, Mark-Age MetaCenter, Inc. since 1960 has published more than one hundred softcover volumes dealing with the spiritual program for their worldwide membership. The first two hardcover books to be published by Mark-Age will be available for mass distribution in June 1970. "How To Do All Things: Your Use Of Divine Power" is a textbook on self-mastery and the use of spiritual power written by Mark. "Mark Age Period And Program" is the compilation of twelve years (1958 - 1970) of channeling NEW Age information and education by the Hierarchal Board through Nada-Yolanda, primary channel for Mark-Age. This is a reference textbook for many aspects of New Age study and research and is a guidebook for both individual and group development and for work of a spiritual nature.

LECTURES

The schedule calls for Mark and Yolanda to be available in April and May for a limited number of conferences and meetings in southern California. Their function is to help coordinate the hierarchal plan on Earth.

They have addressed psychic research groups, UFO clubs, college groups, Understanding Units, yoga societies, metaphysical churches, A.R.E. study groups, light centers, and generally all types of esoteric

LOBSANG RAMPA

Famous Author and Tibetan Lama

● THIRD EYE, The

1st of the Rampa series of books, and the most famous, it is truly immensely readable and thought provoking, containing highly controversial assertions as to how this mystic came to take on the body of a Tibetan lama in order to do his particular work on Earth.

● DOCTOR FROM LHASA

This is the saga of how Rampa proved that mortal man can discipline his mind and body to survive starvation and torture, yet evolve to ever higher states of consciousness.

● RAMPA STORY, The

A fascinating account of other aspects of this mystic author's strange life, and a look at the unusual spiritual gifts with which he is endowed and how they are put to use for good.

● CAVE OF THE ANCIENTS, The

Rampa's unequaled story revealing his experiences while undergoing spiritual-mystic training at the great lamaseries of Tibet. An eye-opener you will not soon forget!

● LIVING WITH THE LAMA

Here we have more details of Rampa's extraordinary existence . . . this time seen from a different angle — how his "cat" sees such goings-on! Not many cats are as smart as this.

● YOU — FOREVER

This book amounts to a special course in psychic unfoldment, as well as in metaphysics, written in the ABC's of English which you can put to work instantly. Excerpts from this book have appeared often in Chimés articles.

● WISDOM OF THE ANCIENTS

This is a book of special knowledge containing many special sections valuable for psychic unfoldment training, plus many breathing exercises and special diets.

● SAFFRON ROBE, The

In this account is the incredible personal-story of this unusual author's boyhood at the great Lamasery at Potala, Tibet, and how — while there — he acquired the foundation for becoming a renown mystic-seer-teacher.

● CHAPTERS OF LIFE

9th of the series in which Rampa gives the story of the "Coming World Leader" and what it will mean to all of Earth. Included also are instructions on how to meditate and go into trance, answers on whether astral travel is meant for YOU, and prophecies concerning happenings that will dramatically affect the destiny of all nations.

● BEYOND THE TENTH

Newest of the Rampa books in which he explores the spiritual potential in every human being, with advice and teachings on the care of man's physical, astral, and spiritual forms.

A WORD FOR ZEALOUS NEWCOMERS

LEST IT APPEAR churlish to write a somewhat carping and critical article, let me say that appearances are often deceptive; that criticism has its place and value so long as it is constructive; and that what I am going to say is said with love, understanding, and a sense of humor — a commodity which we find is consistently in evidence among the progressed and happily progressing inhabitants of the Spirit world, but singularly lacking in the lower astral planes.

In any case, it is always good to laugh at ourselves a little. If we also smile at other people's quirks it is because we are all sparks of the one Flame, and none of us is in a position to cast the first stone.

BECAUSE IT IS NEW

With that understood, I would like to offer a little free advice to new students of the spiritual realms; for their own sakes as well as everyone else's! There never has been an enchanted couple walking on air because they are in love, who do not fancy that no one since time immemorial (including Helois and Abelard) has experienced such a love as theirs, and because this wondrous miracle is new to them it must be unknown to anyone else.

In the same way, many of those who have just discovered that continuity of life is an established fact, and not a pious hope, are apt to feel they have suddenly grown apart from the ordinary run of humanity who show no signs of having this knowledge, and are filled with an inordinate zeal to tell the world.

But as in all things, discretion is the better part of valor. It simply does no good (and often much harm) to confront the fishmonger when he is busy calculating the scales and with a piercing look, demand of him, "Do YOU believe in an after-life?" If you think this an exaggeration I can only tell you that it has come within my experience.

This kind of approach does not result in an agonizing reappraisal of the fishmonger's existing notions of theology, but merely causes him to tap his head and raise his eyebrows at the girl in the cash desk the moment his zealous customer has departed.

Likewise it is futile to tell a Jehovah's Witness that everyone survives and not only Jehovah's Witnesses. If he were capable of understanding or believing that, he would not be a Jehovah's Witness. Members of exclusive and bigoted sects must wait until they arrive in the Spirit world to see for themselves that many of their companions are "heretics," "heathens" and even atheists. Their first reaction will be that they cannot possibly have "died" if they are with such people. Eventually they will be brought to a rescue circle. After long, laborious work, they will be persuaded to accept their transition, but this releases only fury, resentment and bewilderment over a lifetime of false teaching.

Then it is a further long, arduous task to get it into their minds that the principles of the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man and progress for ALL are literally true, and also that loving one's neighbor is not confined to neighbors of one's own sect.

I have listened to tape-recordings of just such a rescue case — indeed many — which went on for months of weekly sessions, and reveal the pathetic and astonishing lack of understanding of the word "love" in many adherents of many religious sects.

OUTSIDE OUR INFLUENCE

We are quite powerless to influence such dogmatic people in this life, unless they have doubts and seek conversion of their own free will. It is better not to

By Peggy Mason

Based on excerpts from "Two Worlds"

coerce those who say, like a seemingly cultured man I knew, that if members of the "underdeveloped" countries DO go to heaven obviously they will be our servants! Or the ardent Roman Catholic who firmly believed that any unbaptized person, though privileged to enjoy the fruits of a good life in a toned-down kind of heaven, would never experience "the beatific vision."

There are also those enthusiasts who are apt to attribute every mundane happening to Spirit intervention. If the wind blows the washing off the line, or a spoon falls from the table, they take this as a sign of a Spirit presence, and murmur, "Thank you, brother, come again!" with joy and gratitude. Or there are those who start flinging the word "karma" about at the drop of a hat.

When minor irritations and frustrations (probably due to a sluggish liver) escalate into a door-slamming act, a wife tells her skeptical friends that she and her husband must have been together in a previous incarnation. She must therefore bear his bad temper, for it was doubtless she who slammed doors when they were together before!

I have met others, on their new-found pedestal of "superior knowledge," who start picking everyone to pieces, dissecting other people's faults, failings and idiosyncracies ad nauseam, and then complain in a plaintive voice, sublimely unaware of what they have been doing, "Why can't there be more love in the world?"

Then there is this matter of guides. I have never met people with more "guides" than newcomers to the studies of Spirit truths. They hop about from one medium to another, including all the dubious Madame Xs who wait, spider-like, at the top of narrow winding stairs, in fusty little rooms in which the best chair is occupied by a huge, somnolent cat, lay bare their hearts with excruciating candor, and expect the clairvoyant to act as a "private eye" into the affairs, or "affaires," of other people.

VANITY IS TO BLAME

They are told by each one that they have a different guide, and usually that some Spirit entity with a well-known name is "interested in them." (Oh, vanity of vanities!) The result is the utmost confusion, leading to incessant talk about "my guides" to all and sundry.

No one has more than one personal guide who is assigned for the whole of the incarnation from birth to transition, even though other spirit entities may well become attracted to the person through similarity of vibration, interests or work, and endeavor to inspire and assist. One or other of these helpers may often be seen by a clairvoyant.

In any case, I always feel that as the relationship between a guide and his or her charge is of a very intimate nature, it should not be bandied about in light, cocktail-partyish chatter. Then there are also the socially-conscious newcomers. These are the people who have gained a very slight introductory knowledge of the subject. They are filled with the urge to dash off and join developing circles and groups, gyrate in a whirl from the College of This to the Association of That, and the Society of the Other. They fight to get invited to private circles or seances, want to get on committees and councils and be in on everything. In the genuine belief that they want to learn, they try and contact to get to know more experienced students, ostensibly "to ply them with questions." But when they do meet, they never stop talking about THEMSELVES and THEIR ideas, and eventually take their leave having learned absolutely nothing.

MY PRAYER

May I learn to act only in love.
 May I use the love to understand those about me,
 To see that they are as divine as I am,
 That they are as mortal as I am.
 May I learn to see within them all things that are human,
 And only then to see if we are of the same mind.
 May I never forget ideals are elusive
 shadows,
 And only people are real.
 When everything within me cries for action,
 May I learn to stand silent,
 So that I can act with vision and not passion.
 May I love enough to want to understand
 my every desire,
 And may I find the wisdom to perceive beyond.
 May I learn to harness my every thought and feeling
 In the dispassionate tasks of loving wisdom.
 And as I improve in the mastery of myself,
 May I reach out to those who would quietly shape themselves,
 And together may we silently rebuild the world.

— Jonathan J. Albert

A YOUNG MAN with a grave problem was asked by his minister, "Have you prayed about it?" He answered, "Prayed?" This is no time to pray. It's time to do something!"

To pray is to do something – the most important "something" you can first do about any problem. Why?

Because prayer is where the true action is! Prayer is the only action you can take that truly makes things different – from the inside out.

This is true because physical action releases the weakest form of energy, whereas mental and spiritual action releases the highest form of energy.

Prayer deals primarily with the states of mind and laws of mental activity that rule your world. Prayer changes your mentality; prayer first changes your thinking as it calms, uplifts and renews you. This is one of the purposes of prayer – to change your thinking, which in turn changes your world.

But prayer goes further. There is another reason for all the shouting about the "power of prayer."

Prayer releases the highest form of energy in the universe, as it links you with a God energy, which is your source. When this happens, prayer "turns you on!" How?

When you pray, you stir into action an atomic force. You release a potent spiritual vibration that can be released in no other way. Through prayer you unleash and loose a God energy within and around you that gets busy working for you and through you, producing right attitudes, reactions and results. It is your prayers that recognize and release that God power.

You may not feel the force of prayer because it operates at a higher vibration than that ordinarily felt by man. In fact, prayer releases an energy that is usually too fine to be recorded physically. Nevertheless, as you pray you expand mentally and spiritually so as to become big enough in consciousness to receive a larger flow of the divine energy generated through prayer. Prayer is not only asking and communing. Prayer is also receiving.

A skeptic once insisted that he did not believe in the power of prayer. When asked if he had ever prayed, he replied that he had once. His explanation was that on that occasion he was lost in a deep forest and could not find his way out. He had been there several days and was beginning to feel the pangs of starvation. He said that in his "weakness" he prayed.

"Then God did answer your prayer, or you would not be here," exclaimed his acquaintance.

"No," replied the skeptic, "God did not answer my prayer. A couple of hunters came along soon afterward and showed me the way out."

This man did not understand that his prayer had been answered, and that the hunters were the human agency through which God's work had been done. Nevertheless, through the act of prayer, he had for a moment recognized the God power within and around him, and had thereby contacted and released it to produce results for him. He had not only asked; he had also received.

There is an art to tuning in

In recent times we have heard much about "the power of thought" as well as about "the power of prayer." These two terms are linked. They are TWIN POWERS. The mind is the connecting link between God and man. Prayer is a method of thought that links God and man. One prays with the mind.

Some authorities claim that what it usually takes a person six hours to do could easily be accomplished in only one hour by a person who knew how to pray and meditate first!

A man who practices daily meditation recently proved it, as he often has. He had been given three writing assignments which he was expected to complete in a single day. At first, he was tempted to panic just thinking about the task before him – one that would take the average journalist several days at best to complete.

Then he quieted his mind, prayed and meditated for an entire hour. During this meditation time, ideas for all three writing assignments quietly flowed into his conscious mind. He then proceeded with the tasks and completed them in a few hours without the usual "blood, sweat and tears."

Scientists tell us there are no miracles – only the working of higher laws not commonly understood. Actually there seems to be one set of natural laws for the physical world and another set for the invisible world of mind and spirit. The laws of mind and spirit are so much stronger that they can be used to accentuate, neutralize, or even reverse the laws of the physical world. Prayer is the one power in the world that seems to set off the working of those higher laws.

Prayer can get the job done – when nothing else has.

Why is prayer so powerful? Why can prayer accentuate, neutralize or even reverse the laws of the physical world?

Because through prayer, you tap the operation of higher laws of supreme mind and spirit. Through prayer you release a spiritual force which shatters fixed states of mind that have caused so much havoc in your world. Your imprisoned thoughts and pent-up negative emotions go free and dissolve, as a higher energy floods your being and your world.

Indeed, the energy and power released in prayer help you to "crash through" the negative thought strata that had previously bound you to all kinds of problems. Thereafter, the impossible becomes possible. Your ships come in. So-called miracles occur. It is then that you realize that prayer DID overcome the usual "laws of nature" and did what they said could not be done!

Catherine Ponder proposes these thoughts on prayer in her book, Pray and Grow Rich (available from Chimes). She helps you see how prayer in your life can never be dull but supremely exciting, often humorous, and always exuberating and exulting as you are drawn to its practice. Quoting Billy Graham, "The man who has never discovered the power of prayer in a spiritual sense has never really lived." You will come to believe this too, once you get the workings of it, as you turn within more and more to its power and discover you carry within your own being a portable paradise which you can contact anytime, anywhere, regardless of what is happening around you.

Dimly the one who seeks hears the faint whisper of the Life of God . . .

Listening is the seed of obedience,
O Chela on the Path.

It may seem like very little but . . .

THIS IS SOMETHING you Lovers of Light may do: formulate a method of maintaining supreme P E A C E within your own souls. This has a much greater effect upon your surroundings and those around you, and even far distant from you, than you can conceive. For if your own body, mind and soul are at perfect peace with all things around you and all conditions which are past, present and future, then you will have attained the supreme goal for which you have striven many lifetimes over and over again.

The attainment of perfect peace under all circumstances is not an easy one. It is, in fact, one of the most difficult of all attributes of spiritual attainment. For, as you are surrounded by a world of war, chaos, confusion and all of the darkness and debauchery that permeates the very atmosphere of your existence, it is most difficult for you to remain calm and peaceful. Many times symbolically, if not actually, you even double up your fists and say: 'Oh, if I could only get at that situation, what I would do to relieve or alleviate it!'

This is an admirable thought, in a way, for it indicates that your soul is much concerned about your world. Yet withal, and in all, if there is NOTHING that you can do physically to remedy any situation of which you read or hear, then the proper procedure is to dismiss it from your consciousness, not perhaps from your mind or be nonchalant in regard to it, but with all the energy and power of your mental and spiritual make-up, project all your power of Love and Light to that particular situation or person that there be a change from darkness and turmoil to Light and peace. This YOU CAN DO! It is not only within your province, but within your duty to do this, for you have been given greater power than the Angels in Heaven, as your Beloved Master, Jesus, has so indicated to you. You are a human being placed upon a planet for a specific and Divine purpose, not only to assist yourselves to your Divine evolution, but to use all of the power, knowledge and understanding that you have acquired through countless centuries to bring your planet into the Paradise which now is its heritage.

The crescendo of your Love and Light grows and grows as it goes out – even as you read the printed words of these pages, for they are meant to be shared with those of lesser Light. Sprinkle your Love and Light on each page, and see its effect reaching every segment of the Earth. One day you will see the response from souls who lift their eyes to you who have awakened them to a greater understanding of their mission and responsibility to the beautiful planet which is their present domicile. Through YOU, Love and Light and Joy and Peace and Tranquility – the Saving Grace of this planet – will have been multiplied many fold.

So go in peace, dear Lovers of Light, knowing that your mission on Earth is being accomplished, knowing that your world is being brought into perfection, into the perfection of the Love and Light for which you have been faithfully and patiently striving.

The foregoing is a message given by Sanat Kumara through the Rev. Zelrun Karsleigh in The Voice of Universarius.

"If one sets aside time for a business appointment, a trip to the hairdresser, a social engagement, or a shopping expedition, that time is accepted as inviolable. But if one says: I cannot come because that is my hour to be alone, one is considered rude, egotistical or strange. What a commentary on our civilization, when being alone is considered suspect; when one has to apologize for it, make excuses, hide the fact that one practices it – like a secret vice."

IT'S WHAT THEY SAY

Gina Cerminara — Know that in whatever state you find yourself, that, at the moment, is best for you. Do not look back upon what might have been. Rather lift up, look up, now, where you are. — From Many Mansions

Catherine Ponder — Never hesitate to pray definitely for prosperity; to decree definite words for prosperity; to image and expect prosperous results. This prosperity secret is the universal wisdom of the ages for prosperous living. — From The Prospering Power of Love

Mark-Age — Sex is a substitute for union with God. In sex, man is trying to unite with God, because God is in each one of his sisters and brothers No matter how man manifests the sex act he is truly seeking union with God In his animal passions he is seeking a lower expression of a higher desire. — From Conquest of the Flesh

Harry Edwards — There is no other religion or teaching in the whole world which restores more harmony and happiness than that which Spirit teachings do — and more important still, demonstrating that we are all part spirit in this life now, that we possess souls and that in the enjoyment of our spirit heritage we shall be free from disease and be reunited with our friends and dear ones. — From The Spiritual Healer

Dr. H. Spencer Lewis, F.R.C. — It is as we apply knowledge we have attained that we run face to face with problems revealing to us that there is still some knowledge that is in the process of being revealed or unfolded and which we must add to our present knowledge. — From the Rosicrucian Digest

Ray Palmer — . . . Just because marriages may be made in heaven, it is no real guarantee that the result will be "bliss". However, that does not seem to be the important thing. The true purpose, according to the book of Oahspe (a Chimes book) is that loo'is (angelic beings) might produce offspring who will rise higher in wisdom, love and power than their parents. And that's a matter of manipulation of the genes and chromosomes, and not in the emotions and passions and ecstasy of the physical union. . . . If your children are smarter than you, maybe your marriage was made in heaven! — From Search Magazine

Richard A. Sattelberg — While it is true that the Gospels, and the Bible as a whole, have been subjected to close scrutiny by scholars for some time now, especially during the last hundred years, most of them have never even suggested that the Gospels may very well have been based on the Ritual of the Egyptian Book of the Dead (a Chimes book now in paperback and hard cover editions). — From The Voice Universal

Dion Fortune — It is unexhausted emotion which forms the Karmic Tie; and though it waits for hundreds of years, as time is reckoned in revolutions of the earth, it loses none of its force, but reacts to the same objects that previously stimulated it whenever those objects shall again become present. Hence the sudden outrush of "love at first sight" and the sense of understanding and intimacy which "twin souls" experience. — From The Esoteric Philosophy of Love and Marriage

Swami Sivananda — You should not hate the world as it is the manifestation of the Lord. The world is the best teacher for you. You must change your ways of your living and viewing things. You will have to build a new mind and a new vision. Then the world will appear as heaven. — From The Divine Life Magazine

Gloria Lee — Many situations are seen wherein you are part of a great plan that you are not aware of, but have the "feeling" you are a part of something. This is what we call "preconditioned action." We let it be known in your subconscious awareness, so that only the "feeling" is cognizant of the action. You often go about your determined way without the slightest idea you are fulfilling a plan! — From The Changing Conditions of Your World

THE MARVELOUS POWER OF THE SILENCE

By Dr. Joseph Murphy

Beverly Hills, California

TRUE SILENCE is the rest of the mind in God, and, as sleep nourishes and refreshes the body, so does communion with God nourish, sustain, and revitalize man. Emerson said, "Let us be silent that we may hear the whispers of the gods."

The silence consists of withdrawing your attention and the appearances of the senses from the external world, and in focusing your attention on your ideal, goal, or objective, knowing that the infinite intelligence of your subconscious will respond and reveal the answer.

Robert Louis Stevenson practiced the silence regularly and systematically. He had the persistent habit of giving specific instructions to his subconscious mind in the silence of the night prior to sleep. With his attention withdrawn from the sense world round about him and turning inward to the wisdom and the power of his subconscious stories for him while he slept. For example, if Stevenson's funds were at a low ebb his command to his subconscious would be something like this: "Give me a good thrilling novel which will be marketable and profitable." His subconscious mind responded magnificently.

Stevenson said, "These little brownies (the intelligences and powers of his subconscious) can tell me a story piece-by-piece like a serial and keep me, its supposed creator, all the while in total ignorance of where they aim." And he added that "part of my work which is done when I am up and about is by no means necessarily mine since all goes to show that the brownies have a hand in in even then." Kahlil Gibran, who wrote The Prophet, not only deliberated in the silences of the night, communing with the God-Self within him radiating love, peace, joy, and good will to all, but daily contemplated the inner radiance, light, love, truth, and beauty within him, and he bequeathed to humanity the wealth of his meditations in the silences with God.

In the silences of the night in tune with the Infinite he was inspired from On High and wrote majestic gems of wisdom. To practice the silence you do not have to lead the life of the hermit or go to Ashram in India or Tibet. Your destiny is to lead a full life and to enter into the glorious liberty of the sons of God.

You are here to squeeze the last drop of happiness out of life. You are here to glorify God and to enjoy Him forever. You are here to let your light shine, thereby glorifying God in your mind, body, and all phases of your life. You are here to overcome problems and difficulties, as well as to rise above all obstacles through the power and wisdom of God. Your great joy is in the act of overcoming, for it is in this manner that you discover the divinity within you. You are here to sharpen your mental and spiritual tools and to meet all challenges head-on, knowing that not only is the problem there but God is there, too, and "with God all things are possible."

I have visited many places in the world where men and women retreat from life, but I look upon this attitude as a negative way of living. Self denial in the true sense does not mean that you refuse to enjoy life or reject the good things of life which bless you and others. True happiness and wisdom are found in putting your hand to the wheel of life and in moving forward in expansion, progression, and accomplishment.

I spoke in a large temple recently and after my lecture a man chatted with me. He said that he used to be executive vice president of a two hundred million dollar corporation and that at one time he suffered a nervous breakdown plus a cardiac attack from pressure, strain, strife, tension, and internecine strife in the organization. When he had fully recuperated, however, and had returned to his office, he adopted the following procedure. Every morning he would close his office door and spend ten or fifteen minutes communing and conversing with God. He claimed Infinite Intelligence was directing all his activities for the day, that divine love and harmony prevailed where discord was, and that his judgment, decisions, and purchases would be governed by the wisdom of God anointing his intellect while revealing the perfect plan and showing him the way he should go. He would claim boldly that God knew all the answers to all problems and that he was one with God. When he called upon this Supreme Wisdom it always answered him. His final thought in the silence was, "Divine law and order govern me, the board of directors, and the entire organization, and I radiate love, peace, and good will to all." Following this procedure he never missed a day at work and was healthier and happier in every way, and the business prospered beyond his fondest dreams.

A woman said to me that her children were driving her crazy. I suggested to her that every morning she set aside about fifteen minutes and read the 91st and 23rd Psalms out loud, then close her eyes and detach herself from her surroundings. She was to think of God's infinite love, boundless wisdom, supreme power, and absolute harmony, and feel the atmosphere of love, peace, joy, and claiming at the same time that His love and His peace filled her mind and heart and that the children were growing in grace, beauty, wisdom, and understanding. She recharged her batteries with the power and wisdom of God and her whole life was transformed. Her love for her children grew by leaps and bounds. This is the power of the Silence.

The silence is simply the reordering of your mind wherein you withdraw your attention from the diversity of sense opinion and commune with the indwelling God filling your soul with His love.

Cosmic Power Within You by Dr. Murphy – from Chimes – will illustrate to you how, regardless of the extent of your problems, all things can be rectified in the silence. You will never know until you have tried, will you?

More on this subject will be discussed next issue by Dr. Murphy.

transformation is complete. It does not come in a day, but every high impulse, every pure thought, every upward desire adds to the exaltation and gradual personification of the divine in man and to the transformation of the human. The 'old man' is constantly brought into subjection, and his deeds forever put off, as the 'new man' appears arrayed in the vestment of divine consciousness."

In the practice of Yoga, purity of both mind and body are stressed equally. Saucha (purity) is one of the five Niyamas, or observances comparable to our Ten Commandments. Through this observance the body is kept free of that which is impure and unhealthy. Unclean words and thoughts also are avoided.

Nevertheless . . . "the spirit is willing but the flesh is weak." These were the words of Christ when his disciples fell asleep in the midst of crisis. The "spirit" or higher self in us may be unhampered, ideally speaking, but our "vehicle" of flesh bogs down. We have not reached a state of perfect transformation and absolute control of spiritual mind over mortal mind. A true seeker is aware of his inner powers as a child of God but is not vainly self-righteous.

Some of the greatest prophets and leaders in Biblical times committed human failures. They realized the divine law had not always been lived up to, and penitence usually followed. In this way, they became bigger than personal faults. If the most esteemed teachers that ever lived did not think themselves too good to admit the possibility of error in actions, why should we?

Honest humility is admitting shortcomings to the Infinite Father and admitting the self's inability always to find the right way should not be felt beneath one's dignity. The word penitence may not appeal to some, but it is much better than a prideful, unforgiving attitude that refuses to admit blunders toward conscience, God and fellow man. Let's admit it – in our present state of progress we are not sinless angels.

When one is ready to forgive others, ask and accept divine forgiveness, then he should forgive himself; to make sincere attempts to do the right thing, he has taken one of the most important steps to spiritual purity. This step provides blessings that open up the soul to greater capacity – for strength of conscience and spirit. It also gives a feeling of peace with God and fellow man. Some religions call the turning point "repentance." Whatever we call it, it is a meaningful step to soul growth and has worked wonders on many people. It has made shallow lives meaningful. It has given purpose and direction.

By Dr. Joseph Murphy
Beverly Hills, California

All things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them.

— Matthew 7:12

THERE IS no problem in human relations that you cannot solve harmoniously and for the benefit of all concerned.

For example, if you get angry because of what someone said, you had to go through four stages in your mind: You begin to think about what he said; you decided to get angry and to generate a mood of rage; then you decided to act — perhaps you talked back and reacted in kind. You see that the thought, emotion, reaction, and action all took place in your mind.

You are the cause of your own anger. If someone called you a fool, why should you get angry? You know you are not a fool. The other person is undoubtedly very disturbed mentally; maybe his child died during the night, or perhaps he is very ill psychologically.

You should have compassion on him, but not condemn him. Realize that God's peace fills his mind and His love flows through him; then you would be practicing the Golden Rule. You would be identifying not with anger or hatred, but with the law of goodness, truth, and beauty.

Of his numerous writings, Dr. Murphy has one book which enlarges on many of these allegories of the Bible — Pray Your Way Through It — a Chimes wayshower. Some consider it a psychological feast of peace, joy and happiness as they dwell on its spiritual food taken from the Book of Revelations.

the perfect peace and glory of the shining hills, tree clad. Blessed indeed is he who walks upon the mountains and reaches the mountain top of spiritual life. Blessed is he who walks upon the Mountain of Vision to bring glad tidings of peace, good will and love to mankind.

This is the Age of Spirit, the Age when there is an outpouring of Light from the Heaven World. You are preparing for the advent of the World Teacher. At this time a special work also will be done on Earth by John the Beloved. The coming of the World Teacher will bring the Saints, the Initiates, and the Disciples of all time. Your world then will be a beautiful dwelling place because men will walk and talk with Angels, as well as with their loved ones who have passed beyond the veil.

Mankind as a whole still has much to learn, many trials to be overcome, and many obstacles to negotiate. The gifts which God has given to His children one day will be utilized to bring peace and good will amongst all men.

The world now is facing its karma of the past. By the payment of these karmic debts the world is cleansing and purifying itself in readiness to receive the advanced souls who are preparing to come once again upon the Earth. These will bless generations to come.

The Masters who dwell in the secret places of the Earth, and those Masters — visible and invisible — who are working in the world of men at this present time, unceasingly seek to help mankind reach an understanding of God, the Father — Mother of all. They seek to point out the purpose of human life on Earth, and to simplify it. They teach that each one must have compassion and sympathy, tolerance and an infinite patience with his fellow man, with no thought for himself, but realizing always he is a channel for the work of God upon the Earth.

sure signs. One is when the hand, whether poised or moving, experiences a tingling sensation, the sharper the better. This denotes expectancy according to those who have experienced it, so the proper course is to keep the mind a blank and let results prove themselves. The other case is when the hand receives the semblance of an electric shock. Then, you seldom have to wait. Automatic writing may take over on its own before you can stop it.

The foregoing lesson is based on excerpts from The Mystic and Occult Arts by W. & L. Gibson, a book that contains methods and techniques that can help you develop your own inner powers — a new Chimes book selection you will find deeply engrossing.

reported to us how in games with neighboring children, wherein objects are hidden by the mother, their child heads immediately for the object. He knows what the mother knows. Subconscious-conscious conflicts may develop into neuroses or even psychoses if the child hears one set of values coming from the parents' mouths, yet telepathically perceives the opposite or conflicting thoughts from their subconscious minds.

It would behoove both parents to make sure that the conscious words of their mouths match the subconscious thoughts of their minds, for otherwise unknowingly they may bewilder and handicap their children with their own conflicts. A father who is consciously instructing his son to follow the rules, "Don't cheat," .. "Always play fair," etc., while at the same time subconsciously calculating how to cheat on his income tax or how to underhandedly out-fox his business competitor will communicate an uncomfortable feeling of hypocrisy to his son. Is this the source of modern youth's idea that you can never trust anyone over thirty?

Foreknowledge or prophecy is as old as the earth, and is manifested in many ways among lower animals as well as humans. Young children, like the adult precognitive clairvoyant Jeane Dixon, frequently utilize this awareness in their everyday lives. They don't know how they know what will happen, but be on the alert as a parent and you will see many instances that they know, especially in pre-school toddlers. We have hundreds of parents reporting reliance on their child's ability to predict accurately many things, such as weather, unexpected visits from relatives, unexpected phone calls, impending trouble, and accidents.

Innocent little human children, like animals, see surviving spirits. Unlike animals they do not react with fear, but in their blessed purity accept and communicate with spirit playmates as if they were incarnate.

If you are using your logic, you will immediately say, "Oh, come now! The little child carrying on a one-sided conversation while alone is only imagining consciously that there is someone there!" I am sure in some instances this is true, but I am equally sure in other instances that a true materialized spirit (guardian angel?) is present. How do you parents tell the difference between your child's imaginary playmate and a true spirit playmate? By the reaction of your pets. If your dog or cat becomes frightened or nervous every time your little child talks to someone who isn't there - write and tell us the details.

In summary - let's put psychical research out of the reach of crackpots by elevating it to the highest of spiritual and academic planes, for it truly provides a passageway to the soul.

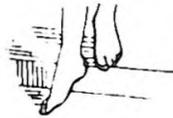

As parents, share with us your personal experiences that manifest these forces in your home and your life by writing down the details as soon as possible and mailing us a copy (in care of Chimes). The key is in the home.

A WORD TO ZEALOUS NEWCOMERS

GROWTH MUST BE SLOW

Having learned the ABCs of the possibilities of Spirit communication, and the fact of life's continuation in other spheres, there must be a slow, silent, gradual unfoldment. There must also be an almost imperceptible but ever-growing (in spite of backslidings) expansion of consciousness even before the reading of books on spiritual philosophy can be inwardly digested sufficiently to have any lasting effect or make any real impact on the daily life, outlook, habits, behavior and ingrained thought-patterns of former years.

The petals of the lotus must unfold slowly, but surely, as the light gradually irradiates the whole being. Like all new growth, this is best achieved in silence, and obscurity, and by tackling the most important and vital task of all, that of becoming genuinely self-aware, painful though this always is. Go quietly on with the business of becoming really consolidated, and personally committed. I am a firm believer in the saying, "Make haste slowly." This cannot be done by much chattering and nattering, or dashing hither and thither.

"What can I do to be of service?" people ask, full of anxiety. "What ought I to do?" Well, to begin with, any service, to be of value, is never a duty, but is undertaken in joy and out of love. This applies still more in the Spirit world. It is not a question of what ought I to do, but what do I long to do? Which need in the world around me touches my soul most? The way to begin is first of all to do what is right under one's nose, in one's own home, and among the people with whom one is in daily contact. Thereafter, take a small first step in the direction where one's heart prompts.

Each individual, has his or her own capacity and tempo. This must be understood and recognized, for nothing is so self-defeating or abortive as overloading oneself with "good works." This causes only chronic anxiety,

WHO SAID IT ?

Paul Brunton said it in his book, A Search in Secret India.

Author of numerous books on the occult, this one represents an extensive search through India in which the ideas and practices of yogis, mystics and holy men are described. A fascinating book that embodies all that India holds most sacred . . . one that reveals all the color, life and movement of Indian inner life, written so that a Westerner may understand it in terms of his own way of life.

groups and have appeared numerous times on radio and television talk programs during the past ten years.

ENDING THE THIRD PHASE OF THE SEVENTH VEIL

By the end of spring 1970, the third phase of the seventh veil — those seven veils which have kept man hidden from his true spiritual heritage and powers for many thousands of years — will be rent. The masses in general will be much more inwardly aware of, thus much more hungry for, subjects of truth. Since there are more truth seekers and New Age light workers in southern California than in any other one area of the world, Mark and Yolanda have been sent by the spiritual Hierarchy to assist those on the West Coast to prepare for this new stage of spiritual awareness and upliftment.

It is their function to offer enlightenment about the spiritual Hierarchy on Earth. They will be speaking on: ESP and Cosmic Consciousness; Visitors From Other Planets: When They Can Land; The Hierarchical Program For Aquarius; Coordination and Cooperation of All Light Workers and Truth Centers On Earth; Prophecies for the next 30 years.

For the Los Angeles County area, you may reach Mark-Age at P.O. Box 8393, La Crescenta, CA 91214. For the San Diego and Orange County areas, write to Mark-Age, % Rivers, 1204 Via Encinos, Fallbrook, CA 92028. Concerning possible visits to the rest of the West Coast, write to the above addresses or to the world headquarters of Mark-Age, 327 N F..20th Terrace, Miami, FL 33137.

damages the health, and makes one impossible to live with.

It is hopeless to attempt to meddle in every pie. One has to be selective, and then do one's best in that field. Nor is it any good to become deflated by those who appear to have an unflagging vitality, if one's own make-up is more limited or one's tempo of living slower.

Dear newcomers! Don't be angry or indignant if I have poked fun! If you only knew how unutterably foolish I have been in my life, and often am still, when I

the hidden wisdom in the Holy Bible

GEOFFREY HODSON

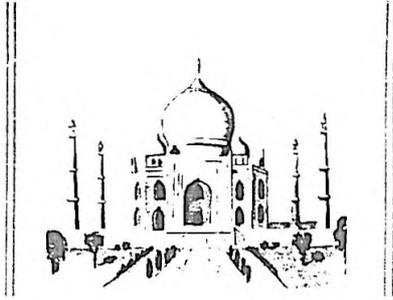

For more than forty years Mr. Hodson has been a lecturer for the worldwide Theosophical Society, speaking in America, England, Europe, South Africa, India, Australia, New Zealand, and the Far East. He is also the author of some thirty-five books dealing with such topics as meditation, Theosophy, the spiritual life, health and disease, the life and powers of the occultist, and Bible symbolism and interpretation.

The challenge of modern science makes it difficult for many Christians and Jews to accept a wholly literal meaning of the Old Testament; and Christians face the same dilemma in their reading of the New Testament. According to the author of this book there is a sacred language of allegory and symbol which provides several keys to unlock the wisdom which is concealed in the myths, parables and allegories of the Bible. The more incredible some of the stories in the Scriptures may seem, the more important it is to seek for a credible inner meaning.

In Volume One of this series on The Hidden Wisdom in the Holy Bible, which has been published as a companion Quest Book in paperback, the author considers among other subjects the story of the Prodigal Son and the life of Christ spiritually interpreted.

Volume Two is a series of works by Geoffrey Hodson on Bible interpretation dealing with the hidden wisdom in the Book of Genesis.

A SEARCH IN SECRET INDIA

By Paul Brunton

In the Foreword to this book, Sir Francis Younghusband (British Political Minister to the State of Kashmir; Brigadier General of the British Army in India; Commander of the British Military Expedition in Tibet; President of the Royal Geographic Society of England.) Says of it:

"SACRED INDIA" would be as apt a title for this book. For it is a quest for that India which is only secret because it is so sacred. The holiest things in life are not bruited abroad in public. The sure instinct of the human soul is to keep them withdrawn in the inmost recesses accessible to few — perhaps to none. Certainly only to those who care for spiritual things.

And with a country as with an individual. The most sacred things a country keeps secret. It would not be easy for a stranger to discover what England holds most sacred. And it is the same with India. The most sacred part of India is the most secret.

Now secret things require much searching for; but those who seek will find. Those who seek with their whole heart and with the real determination to find will at last discover the secret.

Mr. Brunton had that determination, and he did in the end find. The difficulties were very great though. For in India, as everywhere else, there is much spurious spirituality through which a way must be forced before the true can be found. There is an innumerable crowd of mental acrobats and contortionists through which the seeker after pure spirituality must elbow his way. These men have trained their mental as well as bodily muscles till they are extraordinarily efficient. They have exercised powers of concentration till they have nearly complete control over their mental processes. Many of them have developed what we call occult powers.

These are all interesting enough in their way and are well worth study by scientific men interested in psychic phenomena. But they are not the real thing. They are not the springs whence spirituality comes gushing.

They do not form the secret sacred India that Mr. Brunton was seeking. He saw them. He noted them. He describes them. But he pushed through them. Spirituality at its finest and purest is what he wanted. And this he found at last.

Remote from the haunts of men, deep in the jungles to which — or to the Himalayas — the holiest men in India always return, Mr. Brunton found the very embodiment of all that India holds most sacred. The Maharishee — the Great Sage — was the man who made most appeal to Mr. Brunton. He is not the only one of his kind. Up and down India others — not many, but a very, very few — may be found. They represent the true genius of India, and it is through them that the mighty Genius of the Universe manifests Himself in peculiar degree.

They, therefore, are among the objects most worth searching for on this earth. And in this book we have the results of one such quest.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dr. Brunton, whose works are best sellers in a dozen languages, was born in London in 1898. During a successful career in journalism, he developed an interest in comparative religion, mysticism and philosophy. He has travelled extensively in the Orient, living among Yogis, mystics and holy men. He is one of the few students of the East who has the ability to illuminate his understanding for the reader.
