WHO SAID IT?

IN CONTEMPLATING the mystery of illumination. . . try to experience inwardly a sense of gentle awakening. Go out into the dawn and meditate upon the daily awakening of the world. See how the darkness gives way to a dim Light which slowly spreads across the surface of the Earth. Observe how this Light gradually brings into life all the sleeping wonders of Nature. Then the rising of the Sun, its own Rays reaching into the very consciousness of living creatures, until each stirs and again takes up the tasks of the day.

There is no conflict, no struggle. There is Light in the world, and the acceptance of Light as natural, as normal — as the simple awakening of that which has known Light and darkness before.

Illumination is a dawn within the Self. The Light of the Spirit brings into life the innumerable aspects of realization. An empire of effort awakens, and all life continues its search for peace.

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

POSTAGE TO THE MOON?— Even if I should go to the moon I would still request my beautiful magazine, Chimes.

Do not fail me, send it every month for it is so enlightening.

Let it there might be a letter from the Bishop of the Province of the Holy Spirit.

William W. Carter, Calif.

(Perhaps someone has heard from the Bishop who would like to write us about it.)

Thank you for the magazine we subscribe to. I have been the best of health and I am glad to read it first.

Ray, California, Calif.

Although I read widely on spiritual subjects, I find in the Chimes a most helpful message in your magazine.

Mrs. Marie Louise Ling, San Mateo, Calif.

Chimes is a wonderful source of knowledge for me, and I await each copy with great anticipation. Thank you for producing such a marvelous magazine.

Terry Caron, St. Lambert, Que., Canada

AH, THE COUNTRY LIFE! — Thank you and God bless you for my Chimes. It is getting better all the time!

We are going to be moving back to our business — in the desert — and don't want to miss a single copy as I'll have time to read again. This city life is a rat rare!. Our love to all of you from,

Mrs. Louise Kruse, Lakeview, Oregon

(Once we have had time to be alone with our thoughts, to meditate, and to enjoy the moods and nearness of Nature, the soul longs to return to that condition of harmony. It is much more difficult to tune in to the etheric side of life when immersed in the tumultuous mental atmosphere of large cities. Let us indeed be most grateful, then, and accept as a blessing those moments when we can enjoy the silence anywhere.)

LOOK AHEAD! — Thank you for all the wonderful psychic news, experiences and good books that are available through your magazine. I have been a subscriber and a reader for over twenty-five years. I wish I had kept some of the old copies just for comparison. May God bless you and your works.

Mrs. F. Boysen, San Francisco, Calif.

(To look back at all the changes that have been made for nearly thirty years can be a little frightening. One wonders what the next thirty will bring. We know that a refinement of the spiritual nature of all is inevitable — so we bless it and call it Good — God.)

OLD FRIENDS — For many years I had been a subscriber to Chimes and knew its founders, Bert and Ruth Welch, personally. After leaving California in 1962, then to Philadelphia for four years, due to illness I seldom was able to get a copy of Chimes. Now, living in Florida a copy of Chimes came to me as the gift of a friend. It was indeed like renewing old friendships to read articles by familiar names of long ago. I like the new format, the paper, the type used and all the wonderful articles. Carry on! Sincerely,

Gladys B. Ferguson, Margate, Florida

NICE COMPANY! — In enclosing my check for renewal of my Chimes subscription, I want to tell you how thoroughly I enjoy your magazine because of the very high standards you have in what you decide to publish. As far as I'm concerned, the fact that Rev. Flower Newhouse's articles are in your magazine speaks very well for your organization and for Chimes. I'm sure her writings would only appear in top quality publications. Very sincerely yours,

Mrs. Miriam B. White, Canoga Park, Calif.

(We are most appreciative and honored in being able to use Rev. Newhouse's writings for we agree with Mrs. White that the consciousness she expresses in her writings uplifts and enlightens all who are exposed to them.)

THAT FIRST STEP — I want to thank you for the special handling you gave my book order for my friend. This book, Beyond the Tenth, evidently has been the start and/source of many exciting happenings for her and a number of her friends who have since been introduced to it . . . even including friends on an important journey throughout the world who recently have been in this area and have profited by information from the book and contacts made. I hope to be able to order more books in the future.

Mrs. R. J. Lloyd, Seattle, Wash.

(T. Lobsang Rampa's entire series of books are the type that "hook" you. They are so fascinating it is hard to lay them down, and you can't wait to read the next one. Whether you believe them or not, they do open up many new avenues of thought. You may wish to see his book list on page 36.)

THE "CHIEF" APOSTLE

By George Butler
Gadsen, Alabama

THE BIBLE tells little about Andrew, the "chief" of Jesus' twelve apostles. Some details are supplied, however, by The Urantia Book, a book written by Spirit inspiration.

Andrew, chairman of the apostolic corps of the kingdom, was born in Capernaum. He was the oldest child in a family of five — himself, his brother Simon, and three sisters.

His father, dead when Andrew was chosen, had been a partner of Zebedee in the fish-drying business at Bethsaida, the fishing harbor of Capernaum.

When he became an apostle, Andrew was unmarried and made his home with his married brother, Simon Peter. Both were fishermen and partners of James and John, the sons of Zebedee. In A. D. 26, the year he was chosen an apostle, Andrew was 33, a full year older than Jesus (who was born in 7 B. C.). Andrew was the oldest of the apostles.

He sprang from an excellent line of ancestors and was the ablest man of the twelve apostles. Excepting oratory, he was the peer of his associates in almost every imaginable ability.

Jesus never gave Andrew a nickname, a fraternal designation. But even as the apostles began to call Jesus "Master," so did they designate Andrew by a term equivalent to "chief". One of the inner circle of four apostles, Peter, James and John were appointed to attend to the Master's personal needs, but Andrew was a good organizer, and he was an even better administrator.

Jesus' appointment of Andrew as head of the apostolic group made it necessary for him to remain on duty with his brethren while the other three enjoyed very close communion with the Master. (This accounts for the frequent Biblical mention of Peter, James and John.) To the very end, Andrew remained dean of the apostolic corps.

Although Andrew never was an effective preacher, he was an efficient personal worker. He was the pioneer missionary of the kingdom in that, as His first chosen apostle, Andrew immediately brought to Jesus his brother, Simon, later called Peter. Subsequently Peter became one of the greatest preachers of the kingdom. Andrew was the chief supporter of Jesus' policy of utilizing the program of personal work as a means of training the twelve as messengers of the kingdom.

Andrew and Peter were very unlike in character and temperament. But it must be recorded to their credit that they go along splendidly together. Andrew never was jealous of Peter's oratorical ability. Not often will an older man of Andrew's type be observed exerting such a profound influence over a younger and talented brother. Andrew and Peter never seemed to be in the least jealous of each other's abilities and achievements. Late on the evening of the day of Pentecost when — largely through the energetic and inspiring preaching of Peter — two thousand souls were added to the kingdom, Andrew said to his brother: "I could not do that, but I am glad I have a brother who could." To which Peter replied: "And but for your bringing me to the Master, and by your keeping me with Him, I should not have been here to do this."

Andrew and Peter were the exceptions to the rule, but they proved that even brothers can live together peaceably and work together effectively.

After Pentecost, Peter was famous. Yet it never irritated the older Andrew to spend the rest of his life being introduced as "Simon Peter's brother".

Of all the apostles, Andrew was the best judge of men. He knew that trouble was brewing in the heart of Judas Iscariot even when none of the others suspected that anything was wrong with their treasurer. But Andrew told none of them his fears.

Andrew's great service to the kingdom was in advising Peter, James and John concerning the choice of the first missionaries to be sent to proclaim the gospel, as well as counseling on the organization of the administrative affairs of the kingdom. He also had a great gift for uncovering the hidden resources and latent talents of young people.

Very soon after Jesus' ascension on high, Andrew began the writing of a personal record of many of the sayings and doings of his departed Master. After Andrew's death, other copies of this private record were made and circulated freely among the early teachers of the Christian church. The last of these few altered and amended copies was destroyed by fire at Alexandria about one hundred years after the original was written.

Andrew was a man of clear insight, logical thought and firm decision, whose great strength of character consisted in his superb stability.

Every one of the apostles loved Jesus. But each of the twelve was drawn toward Him because of some certain trait of His personality which made a special appeal to the individual apostle.

Andrew admired Jesus because of His consistent sincerity, His unaffected

The Great Invocation

From the point of Light within the Mind of God
Let Light stream forth into the minds of men.
Let Light descend on Earth.

From the point of Love within the Heart of God
Let Love stream forth into the hearts of men.
May Christ return to Earth.

From the center where the Will of God is known
Let Purpose guide the little wills of men—
The Purpose which the Masters know and serve.

From the center which we call the race of men
Let the Plan of Love and Light work out.
And may it seal the door where evil dwells.

Let Light and Love and Power restore the Plan
On Earth.

World Invocation Day

June 19, 1970

An Invitation to All Men and Women of Good Will —

This is a time of preparation not only for a new civilization and culture in a new world order, but also for the coming of a new spiritual dispensation.

Humanity is not following an uncharted course. There is a Divine Plan in the cosmos of which we are a part. At the end of an age human resources and established institutions seem inadequate to meet world needs and problems. At such a time the advent of a Teacher, a spiritual leader or Avatar, is anticipated and invoked by the masses of humanity in all parts of the world.

This massed invocation reaches its highest point each year during the period of three great spiritual Festivals: at the great western Festival of Easter; a month later at the eastern Festival of Wesak, the Festival of the Buddha; and climaxes a month after that at World Invocation Day during the third Festival of the Christ which has the keynotes of good will and humanity.

World Invocation Day has three central features:

First: the use of the Great Invocation, a world prayer which expresses truths central to all the major religions.

Second: the spiritual cooperation of men and women of good will of every faith joining in a united act of invocation to divinity.

Third: the distribution into human consciousness of the spiritual energies evoked during the Festivals of Easter and Wesak.

Today the reappearance of the World Teacher — the Christ — is expected by millions, not only by those of Christian faith — but by those of every faith who expect the Avatar under other names — the Lord Maitreya, Krishna, Messiah, Imam Mahdi and the Bodhisattva.

Glamor and distortion surround this central fact of divine response to human need. This is inevitable but unimportant. The fact of transition into a new age is important. Preparation by men of good will is needed to introduce new values for living, new standards of behavior, new attitudes of non-separateness and cooperation, leading to right human relations and a world at peace. The coming World Teacher will be mainly concerned, not with the result of past error and inadequacy, but with the requirements of a new world and with the reorganization of the social structure.

Will you join in observing World Invocation Day through the united use of the Great Invocation, and will you join in making this day widely known?

Instructions to All Light Workers

Given through the auspices of
Mark-Age of Miami, Florida

THERE ARE SEVEN veils that have kept mankind as a race in the dark for 26,000 years regarding his true spiritual self, his realization of and his role in all of creation, and his powers to act as a co-creator with God. The seventh – and final veil – is divided into seven phases. It is the present third phase that has blocked Earth man's spiritual vision. The spring of 1970 is to see the start of the rentening of this third phase . . . by Divine fiat and through the grace and cooperation of all Light workers coordinated on all dimensions throughout our solar system.

This third phase is the most difficult one to pass through, since it will release the long-suppressed PSYCHIC ENERGY of the masses so they will become spiritually aware of their past, as well as the present and future goals of the planet Earth and all life forms upon it.

With the rentening of the third phase of the seventh veil, man inwardly will begin to know and outwardly will begin to see that he is not alone in this universe, that his past actions as a race have created present Earth conditions which he must cleanse, and that he has innate spiritual powers to become and to act as a Christed Being.

In these latter days before the Golden Era of Earth, all men must become aware of their own individual Self and must prepare as a race for the coming of the Prince of the planet Earth – Sananda – whose last incarnation was as Jesus the Christ. Many of today's Light workers have prepared for this, not only in this present incarnation, but for eons of time and through many embodiments on Earth and elsewhere.

To help prepare teachers, Light workers and students of truth for this turning point in the one and only spiritual Hierarchal program and plan, we share with you a small portion of the general instructions from Mark-Age included in their four volume series entitled "Externalization of the Hierarchal Board".

1. Seek first the kingdom of God. Enact only His will and role. All problems thus will be solved smoothly and simply.
2. Those Light workers who will work and will cooperate and will exchange energies, ideas, information and services will demonstrate a show of force and unity within the next several years.
3. Light workers must coordinate under this four-point plan:
  - (a) Love God;
  - (b) Love each other's Christ Self;
  - (c) Solidify all life forms on all planets and dimensions, through the Federation of Planets in our solar system.
4. Transmute your physical life slowly, deliberately and entirely in the following four aspects:
  - (a) Physical function of the body;
  - (b) Physical relationships;
  - (c) Physical energies;
  - (d) Physical activities in the outer, daily relationships with one another.
5. Teach the masses that Spirit's way is the best and most satisfactory method of living, in every department of life. Start with the youth.
6. Next, teach man to live with one another in respect and love. In the next several years, teach and demonstrate this through group unified action via coordination of Light groups.

7. After that you can coordinate all planes and planets in the solar system.

Teach that this is the goal. Then you will be able to demonstrate it, since there will be physical planetary exchange from 1971 to 1974.

8. Demonstrate the Christ consciousness to all on Earth through Light group coordination and cooperation. NOW is the time of manifestation.
9. No single group or individual can educate the masses in the third phase of the seventh veil rentening. Only the Christ WITHIN EACH can do this.
10. Light workers must remove the obstacles of negativity that exist in mass, group thought forms. This is done by injecting purity and Spirit's desired conditions. Do not dwell on negative conditions.
11. Begin to teach the Hierarchal program to the masses from the spring of 1970 until it is fully implemented by 1975.
12. Remain steadfast, projecting Light and Truth – regardless of any disasters.
13. Bring forth love, truth, and Light. Be concerned only with the PRESENT, not the past or the future. The future depends on present steps.
14. Take each day as it is given. Be receptive to Spirit's instantaneous changes in plans or thought patterns.
15. Evaluate others according to the three grades of their evolution consciousness and acts:
  - (a) Primitive – struggle or fight against an opposite side;
  - (b) Neutral – truce with one's opponent;
  - (c) Compatibility – cooperation and coordination with one's opposer.
16. Advance or telegraph events and changes to the masses before they occur, so the majority of mankind can accept these changes and evolutionary steps when the do occur in the outer.

How Animals Respond to Healing

By Thomas Hoben
Surrey, England

SANDRA FEARED going out of the house and she also had arthritis in her back legs as well as internal trouble. Although this lovely Alsatian belonged to a member of the household of Her Majesty's Equerry, this did not seem to cheer her until I was asked to give Absent Healing. Then within a week or so Sandra "became more lively in appearance". A visit for Contact Healing and Sandra did go for a walk, indeed a run. "Take her into the lane" my Inner Voice had said some days previous, and I was therefore not too surprised to be told by her owner on the day I visited for the first time to "take her into the lane".

Tony the Tony the bird was crippled and infirm but Absent Healing produced the owner's observation, "he has flown with the strength in his wings of a young bird" . . . "he has taken on a new lease on life".

"Jet the "wee dog" lay at "death's door" with distemper and sores, but within a week or so his owner wrote, "I watched him recover since I received your answer in a matter of three days". What then are we to make of this astonishing healing of often "incurable" animals and birds, through prayer, regardless of the distances involved and without any conscious co-operation on the part of the little patient? Does not this work demonstrate the Father's love for His Creation and the fact that "Our Lesser Brethren" share our spiritual nature and destiny?

It is true that with human patients who come to me about 70% of them cured or well on the way, but with animals and birds it runs as high as 90% better. In most cases the man in the street would have advised "put him away". I have never felt that death was a good substitute for healing.

"Squeaky" was a hamster with a difference. He had fallen and broken his leg at the hip. Inevitably the Vet advised destruction, but Absent Healing enabled this tiny creature to get well — even to scratch behind his ear with that same leg.

A bantam named "Susie" lost the use of her legs, but life returned to her legs with prayer.

It was good that a family at Shakespeare's Stratford-Upon-Avon asked my help for a poodle named "Jonnie", because not only was his own need met, but his owner also was healed of more than one trouble.

So great was his fear of people that Tarzan the cat "sweats, trembles, howls, hides in corners" and in general makes life pretty intolerable for all. After Absent Healing his owner wrote, "you have worked a miracle", for Tarzan now relaxes in the presence of even garbage men and visitors and now stands up to the street bully cat from whom Tarzan formerly had cowered and fled in abject terror. A psychiatric miracle. . . without surgery or poisonous drug.

Peace and harmony have come to countless humans as we have linked in prayer, often without their knowledge, as relatives and friends asked for my help.

Slipped discs are still fashionable, and with animals too. Peter the peke was one such, and because of it lost the use of his back legs. The following report a week later stated "he is once again walking well and eating his food" . . . manipulative surgery without leaving his own fireside.

"There is nothing they can do for her," advised The Royal Veterinary College of Mitsi the pony whose "front legs give way when I am on her back". Again Absent Healing restored her; and I should tell you of the twelve Bullocks which were also saved out of the fourteen sick ones at a Farm in England.

101 Dalmatians was a lovely Disney Film, but for my part I was concerned with just one Dalmation named "Toby" who suffered from some kidney trouble with rather distressing symptoms until prayer took over and dealt with his needs as well as the owner's cyst, nerves and hernia.

"Cancerous growth in the neck . . . rapid growth in the size of the lump" states a quote from the owner of "Dolla" the cat, but soon she wrote "there is no sign of the lumps or swellings". It is natural that visiting veterinary surgeons should be astonished or surprised, as they often are, when they see the results of a heal. But it does seem to me a little unfair that owners do not tell the surgeon what happened, for how else may we give God credit and assist surgeons to understand ways of healing?

Panda the cat did not die during the flu epidemic in Britain this winter, but thousands of people did, for Panda did not rely upon the "hit and miss" methods of current treatments which are called "scientific". She came to me for prayer and was straightway healed as were many others. A telegram asking for help for her Sister who had the flu and had to board a plane to Germany next day set the wheels of prayer in motion and "Sister Susan is wonderfully better" I learned, and she did take that plane.

Time and time again "Tiger" the cat staggered home, often prostrate and exhausted, and always the worse for his nocturnal wanderings. Time and time again "Tiger" was healed of his wounds and mutilations as his mistress asked me help. He was never cured of his wanderings though. This, indeed, may require "faith" on his part.

"Friends have commented on my healthy appearance" wrote a Norfolk man whose dog I had failed to heal, but was this owner led to me for his own needs when he asked my help for his pet? Certainly it has happened often.

"The Vet is amazed" wrote a lady about the healing of her Aunt's dog "Halfpenny" following Prayer. The lump "just disappeared". I had not written to the Aunt.

I shall never know what her attitudes were before healing, but the owner of "Buttercup" a Jersey cow assured me "she has changed her attitude".

So they come as to the Ark, in ones and twos, from all over the world, every type of animal and bird in trouble, to be treated by One who knows and whose medicine is indeed powerful and certain, a medicine which is freely given without "faith" to those who have turned away from Man's devices and experimentations towards the Light, upwards and outwards. Truly we shall go on "moving mountains" from this upper room here by the River Thames, for He who is God never fails and His Promises remain.

A MOTHER asks how we can help her teenage daughter and friends who fear what may happen to them toward the end of this century.

"They imagine there is going to be terrific chaos," she said. "They are very afraid of these nuclear weapons. One told me she would commit suicide. She said that if they were going to be left in a world of utter destruction where their physical bodies were destroyed, she did not think, under these circumstances, it would be wrong to take their lives."

WHY WORRY . . . ?

"What is she worrying about?" asked the Spirit guide, Silver Birch. "Is she worried about what will happen at the end of the century?"

"Yes, about a nuclear war which will have repercussions on everybody."

"Her responsibility, like yours, is to do the best you can today," said Silver Birch. "Fear is a bad counselor for guidance in material or spiritual affairs. Fear is negative and produces all the wrong outlooks and attitudes. There is nothing that can happen in the world of matter that can harm the eternal spirit within you. So there is no need for fear.

"In any case, why worry about what might happen in the years that lie ahead? There is no problem at the moment. All you have to do is to face with courage any problems that you do encounter. Do the best you can; that is all that is expected of you. I would say that they should forget what may happen in the years to come and concern themselves with the GOOD they can do NOW. They should work for those causes which will help to make impossible the fears of nuclear destruction and mutilations to the body." — From Two Worlds, English monthly

You know so little, my children, about the vast invisible worlds. You know practically nothing even of the great Solar System of which your Earth is a part, but in the New Age knowledge will come to man concerning other worlds in Outer Space, and through man's own spiritual unfoldment he will get new vision, and he will see for himself invisible worlds beyond the Earth life. We beg you not to be so foolish as to deny the possibilities of the life of the spirit which is so much more important than your physical life.

AN AGELESS SECRET

— UNIVERSAL SCIENCE —

By Marlin W. Travis

PART VI.

Albuquerque, New Mexico

CAN YOU honestly say to yourself that you have the confidence and faith that works miracles . . . in what you are doing, yourself, God, and the changes in your life you desire to see occur?

How does your faith compare with the little girl in a western town who attended a prayer meeting of town folks who had gathered to pray for rain? As she entered the hall with her lunch basket and umbrella, a lady exclaimed: "Why did you bring your umbrella when all can plainly see the sun is brightly shining?" The little girl turned to the lady and replied: "We are here to pray for rain, aren't we?" The little girl had the faith to believe, for as she reasoned it, rain would come if everyone prayed for it.

Such simple faith as this little girl's is the kind that does indeed work miracles . . . and it can do as much for you if you put that much confidence in your own beliefs and hopes.

There is a Divine abundance, health and supply for you if you but fill the subconscious mind with that constant fact, and act and think in precisely that manner.

It is impossible to be unhappy, insecure, and apprehensive if you start now to control the subconscious. Raise your sights, think in terms of Divine abundance in all things . . . of big jobs, high earnings, success, happiness and radiant, good health. Crush out any and all negative visitors that try to set up housekeeping in the subconscious. Think, speak and picture yourself as confident, happy, healthy, and the subconscious mind will mirror such thoughts with definite results. Too few of us take the time to explore the remarkable possibilities of our own mental power . . . to discover that we can do for ourselves incalculably more than anyone else can do for us.

Become conscious of your own THOUGHT WAVES and the Divine force within capable of doing anything for you! You can expect practically anything through the mind, if it is used properly, according to Universal Law. Your immediate and most pressing problems of life may be solved through application of its principles. Extraordinary results may be solved through application of its principles. Extraordinary results may, in fact, be achieved through merely passive thinking and "picturing" or mentally visioning the fulfillment of a specific need when you enter meditation. You CAN control your own destiny by your own thinking.

No matter how much electricity is at your disposal it will NEVER heat an electric iron with a broken cord. Is your link with the subconscious mind whole? Flood the subconscious mind with the truth of Divine perfection in all things . . . that there is no need to be sick, afraid, unhappy or in want . . . and you curb a most deadly enemy — wrong thinking.

Keep in mind the fundamental principle that only the amount of electricity flowing through an iron will heat it for you — just as the amount of Divine Power you allow to flow through you will heal, prosper and advance you on the road of life.

You are aware now of the priceless truth that you are but the channel for God's healing, for prosperity, happiness and contentment to flow through you. God heals, but He must work through people.

The truly successful people are those who have learned HOW to free themselves of conflicting vibrations that only upset them as channels for Divine Wisdom and Intelligence to flow through. To recognize that fact is to increase your trust in it.

When you get to the place where unconsciously you trust Divine Wisdom to work out your problems . . . provide you with a flow of rich, worthy, clear-cut ideas . . . then you need never worry about the form they take, for they appear to enrich and bless your life.

A man thinking keenly upon some high subject pours out from himself vibrations which tend to stir up thought at a similar level in others, but they in no way suggest to those others the special subject of his thought. They naturally act with special vigor upon those minds already habituated to vibrations of similar character; yet they have some effect on every mental body upon which they impinge, so that their tendency is to awaken the power of higher thought in those to whom it has not yet become a custom. It is thus evident that every man who thinks along high lines is doing missionary work, even though he may be entirely unconscious of it.

From Sister Augustine

WHENEVER THERE IS an expression of hatred between any two people there is also an expression of love. This may be difficult to understand. It means that there is no power as strong as love, and that it even penetrates the negative aspects of it. Hatred is an active intelligence, but it is by no means an active force such as love, at least in the sphere of pure emotion. Hatred is absence . . . negativity. It can be dispelled, however, just as darkness is when light is burned.

What this means is that if two people actively hate each other there is a bond between them. It is not as if they are ignorant of each other's existence, for they are not. There is an active attraction between them, although a negative one.

If hatred were dispelled it would leave behind not love, but nothing — a negative state of being. If, on the contrary, love were destroyed there would still exist a bond — a bond that always would be there.

This may seem unimportant, even debatable, but what the idea represents is one of the true occult principles that permeates life that makes it slightly understandable and not a complete mystery. The principle here is the subtle penetration of all matter, either human or inanimate, of the love principle.

This is the answer to strange phenomena such as plants growing in one spot and not another, and animals that avoid certain areas. They cannot exist there, so they do not inhabit the area.

This may seem strange, indeed, and, of course, it is simplified. Does this mean that a Nebraska farmer did not grow a record yield of wheat or corn because the love force was absent from his wheat field? Perhaps you have the answer or can give a better way of accounting for some of the very puzzling differences in yield that have no relationship to soil, chemistry or weather.

There never need be a wholly blighted or cursed area on the face of the globe if the proper influences become aware of it — know it exists. There can then be an exorcism and the blight will be removed. Strangely this cannot be done for man. He must work out his own destiny, and if his life is blighted by hatred or resentment, it must be so lived. Strange, isn't it, that man cannot or will not ask for himself the protection he affords his own domestic animals . . . but such is the case.

If there were men who could go about dispelling the love force freely and powerfully, as indeed there once were, then the world would benefit greatly. No one, though, has this much power in himself. A few of the masters summoned up considerable power, but a powerful band of forces can cooperate to exorcise any individual area of malevolent influences.

When there are many violent and maleficent spirits banded together they too can act as a band of forces. They can unite to spread hatred and violence over a particular spot. Often there is a spirit battle of wills over the destiny of — for example — a particular person. This can be true in the case of a girl who has made a single error. She may be in a current of surging emotions and be torn one way by the desire to ask for forgiveness and another by the desire to taste a life of degrading pleasure to the fullest. Spirits will do battle for control of her, and, in the last analysis, it is the side she truly accepts in her heart which has its way. Even though there may be violent impulses from without, the choice is hers.

Where a battle is fought, violent surges of emotion, hate, fear, resentment and sadism cloud the atmosphere and stay in the vicinity for long periods of time. Some are almost dispelled. Some never will be dispelled. One battlefield that comes to mind is a large American city. Hordes of natives were slaughtered there centuries ago. Now the city has a name for lawlessness and crime that is not equaled anywhere else.

We must realize that traces of the past are engraved on inanimate objects. They have greater or less permanence depending upon

JUST SAY "CHARGE IT"

JUST WHEN you think you have heard everything, along comes something new to keep you on your toes. If you haven't thought about charging religious or spiritual fees, think about it now. The ESP Lab of Los Angeles now makes the Master Charge service available for dues, treatment work, miscellaneous things . . . whatever your spiritual needs. A case of "pray now" and pay later? A unique idea, you'll have to admit.

MEDITATION AND BRAIN WAVES

ALTHOUGH MEDITATION is a traditional practice in many Eastern religions, Western scientists have done little investigation of the phenomenon. Meditation is becoming more popular in the United States, however, and scientists are beginning to take a closer look, according to a report on it carried in Science News.

Dr. Robert Keith Wallace, a physiologist at the Center for the Health Sciences in Los Angeles, recently examined fifteen American College students who were practicing transcendental meditation, as taught by the Indian philosopher and mystic, Maharashi Mahesh Yogi. During meditation, he reports their heart beat rates and rates of oxygen consumption decreased significantly. Electroencephalograph recordings showed a predominance of slow frequency alpha brain waves, with occasional periods of even slower theta waves.

Such patterns, according to Dr. Wallace, are markedly different from those of normal consciousness, as well as from those of the sleep state, dreaming, or hypnosis. Based on these findings, Dr. Wallace speculates that meditation could have practical applications in relieving tensions . . . something occult and metaphysical students have known to be true for many ages.

LIVING IN THE ETERNAL NOW

"I PERSONALLY BELIEVE in spiritual evolution," says Professor Guillermo E. Tolentino, Vice President of the Philippine Spiritist Union, "for when I returned from my studies in Italy, I was called by the Holy Spirit through a spirit medium in trance and was told that before becoming a Filipino I had been an Italian sculptor. I believed the Spirit then and there, for from the time I tread on Italian soil I felt at home. The scenery seemed so familiar to me, and in a very short time I learned the Italian language as fluently as if I had been born an Italian. When I asked who I was as an Italian sculptor, the Spirit said it was enough that I learned that I was a sculptor, that there was no need of telling me who I was. It was as if it were a forgotten dream. It would not help me at all, for example, if I were to be told I had been the worst kind of criminal when I was that Italian sculptor, for if so, I would feel depressed all my life. Even if I had been that Italian sculptor then, I might be very proud and swell-headed now and would not do any more sculptures for fear of producing inferior works. So I felt content to be who I am. Thus I continue to evolve and progress, and never the reverse." So does this great artist, often called the Michaelangelo of the Philippines, bring us a worthwhile lesson about reemodiment enhancing our understanding of it . . . from the Scientific Researches on Spiritual Evolution Group of Istanbul, Turkey.

EINSTEIN'S INTUITION

HOW DID Albert Einstein arrive at his epochal Special Theory of Relativity that rocked the twentieth century? This is a question posed in The Voice of Astarta. It was not, it seems, a matter of theory following or flowing from experiments. Answering this question, physicist-historian Gerald Holton claims he has reason to believe that, based on Einstein's personal letters, the method used was not what one might call a logical one. According to Einstein's own words, "There is no logical way to the discovery of these elementary laws. There is only the way of intuition."

HOW TO RECEIVE MESSAGES THROUGH PSYCHIC MEANS

PART III

(In the previous two issues the subject of "automatic writing" – how to develop and handle it – was explored. Here we continue with other aspects of this interesting phenomenon.)

Some Extraordinary Experience Patterns

Almost all experiments in automatic writing follow such patterns, but they are replete with individualities. The more of these that occur, the better, as individual expression is the real goal. However, in rare instances, automatic writers have experienced violent reactions, in which the arm is thrown about, or the hand sweeps articles from the table as though compelled by an outside force.

Such demonstrations of the power of the inner mind have often been mistakenly regarded as evidence of a supernormal or even supernatural force that could manifest itself in other ways. As a result, newer ways were developed in the production of automatic messages.

Table Tilting As Related To Automatic Writing

More than a century ago, reports of strange rappings from the spirit world caused superstitious people to form family circles, hoping to induce such manifestations on their own. Such a group would sit around a large table on which their hands were interlocked, in the hope that spirits would declare themselves by rapping three times for "yes" and twice for "no," and by spelling out messages by counting to different letters of the alphabet, rap by rap.

If any raps came, they did not come supernaturally, for the "spirit raps" were proven to be fraudulent. There were times when people imagined that they heard them, but otherwise somebody had to fake them. That never occurred in a circle of sincere sitters, which constituted at least 99 per cent of the home groups. But time and again, the table itself took over when the spirits failed and began operating on its own through other forces.

One side would tilt, then come down forcibly. After a few repeats, it would tip in the other direction. Once it took a sideward bounce, there was no telling what might follow. Some tables pirouetted on one leg, others galloped on two, sometimes driving sitters from the chairs, giving the impression that they were imbued with some unseen force.

Such spectacular manifestations convinced many people that spirits were really at work, so as soon as a table started tipping, sitters would ask questions, expecting it to spell out answers by tilts instead of raps. When the tables obliged, the craze spread like wildfire, and apparently all forms of spirit communication were thereby justified. There were skeptics, however, among them Michael Faraday, a leading experimenter in electro magnetism.

To test whether some magnetic force was involved, Faraday devised a table with a double top and inserted rollers between the layers. Instead of both tops lifting together, as they would if magnetized or controlled by some supernatural entity, they began to slide apart as the table reached the tilting stage. This was conclusive proof of unconscious muscular action on the part of the sitters. Hence the responses were obviously inspired by their own inner minds, which proved that table tipping was actually a form of automatic writing, or something closely related to it.

The Strange Form Of "Doodling" Writing

Development of your psychic self is just as important as the physical; and more often than not, it is of involuntary origin, which is why you should be on constant watch for it.

Rex could testify to the above statement in a highly graphic way. Rex was an insurance broker who reached his office late one morning, and was then busy on the telephone for the next hour and a half until his secretary reminded him that he was due at a service club luncheon. He went to that luncheon, and by the time he was listening to the closing words of the speaker, he was worrying over things that he had totally forgotten. So Rex rushed back to his office and told his secretary to send off the forms for an important claim, then to phone an insurance company for their new rate book, next to make out the special rider on an important policy, and so on.

ODE TO SPIRIT

Where there is love
There is hope for tomorrow,
Peace and comfort in sorrow;
Where there is love
There is someone to say –
“May God be with you Forever, I pray.”

– Anonymous

STRAY AWHILE, LOVE

We cannot join hands and walk side by side
Through this strange land,
But like little children running in the woods
Awhile,
Explore our very own rivulet and rabbit hole
Till the day is done
And we, wearied and a little wiser now,
Cross over the bridge
And home again, Embrace.

– Carol Dean

STOP THE PAIN!

It's said that we learn much from pain.
It is the second choice at best.
Life's lessons are a lot more fun
If we're submerged in happiness.

If we could only learn THROUGH LOVE,
Instead of crossing swords with life,
The air would clear and we'd raise up,
Be like the birds and learn IN FLIGHT!

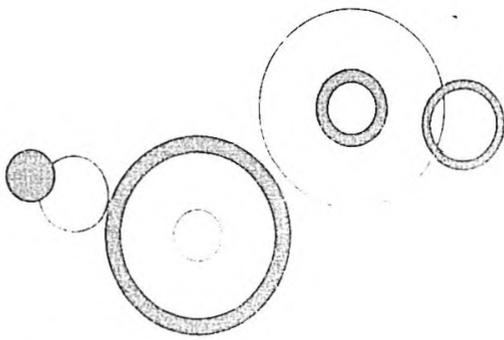

Our world is full of strife and fear.
Though it's the norm, DON'T be a part.
Stick to the happy frame of mind,
And STOP the pain BEFORE IT STARTS!

– Sally Irene Crofts

GOD ANSWERS THE SOUL

That I love thee continuously is My Nature
For I Myself am Love;
That I love thee fervently is My Desire
For I long to be greatly loved.
That I love thee long comes from My Eternity
For I am everlasting and without end.

– Mechthild of Magdeburg

. . . with messages for the searching mind in quest of Truth, satisfaction for the perplexed, comfort for the sorrowing heart.

IF AN INSANE person, adjudged unable to distinguish between right and wrong, commits a serious crime, how does this affect his karma?

SUCH WOULD not need to pay the penalty. Actually he was used as an instrument by the law of karma to bring the type of death someone deserved because of his adverse karma.

WOULD IT BE possible for one who had used his God-given powers for evil, such as a Hitler or a Stalin, to be redeemed in one lifetime? (Saul comes to mind. Would he in a lesser way be such an example of spiritual love?)

THE HITLERS and Stalins of the world could indeed be redeemed in the twinkling of an eye. But where many millions of persons were wrongly influenced and where thousands lost their lives because of such tyrants, the karmic debt is enormous and it would require lives to expiate.

WHAT IS THE importance of carrying through on one's promises? Is there karma involved when promises are made but not kept?

VERY EARLY in life we should be helped to realize how essential it is that we complete what we have undertaken. Our word is a bond and it needs to be fulfilled. Serious consequences follow the breaking of promises. Such promises, like interest, attract accumulative effects. Thus, if a major promise was made in this life to a relative or friend and not kept, by the following lifetime our indebtedness would be even greater than we had reckoned upon.

IS IT EVER right or permissible through deep love motivation to ask and take upon oneself the physical pain or distress of another?

UNSELFISH LOVE IS kind and sacrificing, but we should never pray to take upon ourselves the karmic burden of a friend. His destiny was planned for him to work out his growth in the ways by which growth comes, sometimes by labor, by self-giving or by physical or emotional suffering. We must not interfere with another's karmic lessons, no matter how severe they may be. What we can and should do for those we love who bear severe tests is to pray that they find, and succeed in maintaining, right attitudes and constructive feelings during the times their tests seem hardest. In our prayers for these tried friends we must be steadfast and persistent in knowing that God within them will bring them through to inner progress and victory in all that they encounter.

IS IT POSSIBLE to take on karma for someone else, consciously or unconsciously?

IT IS POSSIBLE though not probable to take on another's karma, but not however until sainthood. In the Angelic Kingdom the Spirit of Grace can and does in very rare cases assume another's moral debts. But on the whole, this would seldom occur.

I WANT SO to be able to meditate, but my mind keeps wandering after a short time. Can I ever achieve successful meditations?

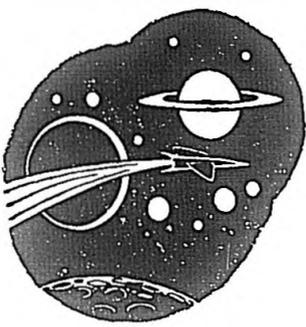

VERY LIKELY you are learning to meditate for the first time in your experience. Mind wandering reveals two things mainly:

1. That we lack a plan for our quiet time.
2. That our interest in this art is not as great as it needs to be in order for us to succeed.

Know before you begin-meditation what you plan to cover step by step in this period. Then be interested, enthusiastic and persevering, moving from one theme to another until your meditation is successfully completed.

Here Are More Answers from the pen of the mystic teacher, Flower A. Newhouse, provides answers to many questions such as these. Rev. Newhouse has assembled these questions and answers from the inquiries of students in her classes the world over. Indexed for easy reference, her book is a gold-mine of spiritual knowledge. A Chimes book — see page 27.

THE VOICE UNIVERSAL — The highest form of telepathy possible for humanity is from soul to soul, and this has been responsible for all the inspirational writings of real power, the world Scriptures, the inspired speakers and the great creations of the master musicians, but it only becomes possible where there is an integrated personality and the power to focus oneself in the consciousness of the soul.

THE DIVINE LIFE — As violence is impossible without the possession of arms, so is nonviolence an impossibility without the possession of unadulterated fearlessness. Nonviolence is the summit of bravery and fearlessness. It cannot be taught to those who fear death. Nonviolence is not meant only for Rishis or saints, but for all men, women and children, too. The weapon of non-violence is not a new invention, Gandhi once said, but only a new name for the law of self-sacrifice and suffering which was prevalent in ancient times, in India. Victory gained by the help of weapons is temporary whereas passive resistance brings permanent and immutable victory.

THE SUMMIT — According to Arthur B. Hartley, "If we should find ourselves among a group of people who are discussing the diseases of this person and that person, the Spirit Teachers suggest that we remain silent. This silence will eventually bring a question or comment from one of the group and it is then in order to reply that we have come to understand that a discussion such as this only creates an atmosphere of disharmony around the man or woman under discussion, tending to increase his or her difficulties, and that we want no part of it. This will no doubt cause considerable astonishment, but there will undoubtedly be one or more in the group who will want to know what is meant. This leaves the door open for a bit of missionary work, with the opportunity to explain to the group that some knowledge of the teachings of Spiritualism and its usefulness in everyday living would be a great boon to them and therefore well worth their while."

ANGELUS — The incident of dying makes no one a saint. You go on to where you left off, though with clearer vision about the worthwhile values, and a desire for, not a resentment against, whatever discipline God ordains for your further development.

TRUTH JOURNAL — A person beginning on the spiritual path should be properly educated as to the facts about Spirit, God, the soul, mind and the how and why of creation. Without basic and factual information we can wander for incarnations, playing the game of "seeking Truth" and yet, never becoming self-realized. Of course, all will eventually awaken but the journey can be shortened if certain guidelines are adhered to. — So says Truth teacher, Roy Eugene Davis.

SUNRISE — Although confined by the island of our individuality, the ocean of thought surrounds all of us and allows unlimited intercommunication — even if we are not aware of it on a strictly personal level, writes Ida Postma. There is a parallel between the vibrations set into motion by a profound thought crossing our mind and those evoked by music. An art critic once wrote after the performance by a great violinist that the vibrations of that superb music, although no longer audible to the human ear, would go on and on through the earth's atmosphere and reach the furthest stars. Music comes to the composer as an inspiration. Having converted it into notes, it can be played or sung, the vibrations of sound then returning into the atmosphere. We are not just neutral transmitters of our thoughts, for when they pass through us we lend them impetus, their character or intensity being colored by the particular state of consciousness we are in. If we could be truly unselfish and attuned to the underlying unity of the cosmos, we would impart so much potency and momentum to a beautiful inspiration that, like the vibrations of music, it would reach into the infinitudes of Space. On its journey it would carry with it that quality of altruism and at-one-ness that is received, and shed its light accordingly on whatever realms it might traverse. The key to this is selflessness.

COSMOS — From Sue Phinney: Out of fear of mediocrity or rejection, we suppress all that might be of value to mankind. Like a giant yoke, we wear our guilts, fears, and prejudices around our necks. Afraid to give our complete and total selves to anything or anyone we become frustrated. Every human being has something to give to the world, even if it's only a small contribution, it is worthwhile.

THE POWER OF PSYCHIC PURITY

By Bill R. Quinalty
Bainbridge, Maryland

PART II.

(This being an age of pollution, the introduction to this article emphasized the need for PURITY in our living – inner and outer. Let us see how else we can improve.)

2. SIMPLICITY: It has been said that some of the greatest men have been the most simple. This is also true of the greatest ideas and truths. We become so involved in the myriad details of modern living, we forget words like – “Except ye become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.” (Mat. 18:4) Because of their initial uncomplicated views of life, children may observe certain things of which an adult would not be aware or think too “silly.” The grown-up mind is caught up in many scheduled little details that take his mind off basic joys. This has been aptly called, “a problem of multiplicity.”

If you find yourself tangled in a web of frustration as you explore deep subjects, forget the whole thing long enough to return to the most beautiful facts of life – the most simple. Don't just confine spiritual realities to mere words – apply what you have learned whether it is great or small.

Religion doesn't need to be a slide-rule intellectual “science,” with stiff formulas beyond the reach of ordinary people. It doesn't have to be crammed with words that belong in technology rather than philosophy.

In some ways, mystic concepts should always remain aloft of calculation. You don't measure a flower to enjoy it – or sit and count seconds to get the most pleasure from your time. How beautiful and unchanging are the words: “The Lord is my shepherd . . . He maketh me to lie down in green pastures.” Picture these words converted into the following “modern” style: “The First Cause influences my brain wave patterns and negative thinking gives way to the feeling of guidance . . . then visualization of contentment in green pastures is induced into my computer intellect.” The message may be similar in a few ways, but why alter the basic simplicity?

I once knew a very intelligent young woman who was, without doubt, a little girl at heart. It worked charming effects on her personality. Her work exposed her to children a lot and she told how they had taught her a great deal – including a more “young attitude” toward living. To see her enjoy playing with the children was not uncommon. On one occasion she helped a little girl build structures in the sand. As she did this, she found it necessary to forget adult worries awhile and kneel down to the level of the child. “It was fun,” she said, “and good therapy!”

A simplicity viewpoint helps us to un-complicate fundamental things that should never have been complicated in the first place. With less useless distractions, the search for God then becomes more enjoyable. The important point is to start with a logical basis – with belief in certain foundation principles, such as, “God Is,” then leave room for flexibility and greater enlightenment. Merely understanding the depth of the simple phrase, “God Is,” can “produce miracles” according to a great authority on workings of the mind.

A good testimony of simplicity in living is the “Amish Faith.” These kind people are frequently criticized for taking the scriptures too literal. Nevertheless, observers who have studied their habits and lived around them long claim they are a happy people with high morale. Beautiful home style, hard work and bonds of unselfishness are evident among these “simple folk.” Work that isn't done with muscle is done only with natural forces of wind and water. Sincerity and peacefulness beam from their faces. They enjoy simple sport and leisure immensely.

3. UNITY: On subjects of spiritual unfoldment scattered forces and compatible ideas should be brought together in unity when possible. Teachers and religious leaders may differ in methods and approach to subjects, but on close examination find unity on points of the greatest importance. Don't be gullible for every new mini-cult that comes along, but be careful not to reject every new idea with suspicion either. Even the “Hippy” movement has a few good points, but this does not justify other extremes in the movement, such as drug abuse, laziness and violence. (Actually, some hippies are very idealistic youth who abhor the hypocrisy around them – and “drop out,” thinking this a better way. However, they soon regretfully find the same negative elements of human nature within their own structure that were present on the outside.)

PSYCHIC EXPERIENCES

A GIFT FROM SPIRIT

*By Gertrude Naugler
San Rafael, California*

IN FEBRUARY of 1940 I received my last letter from Jean Rouiller, a Frenchman who had wanted to marry me when I was a student in Paris, but I had married an American instead. The letter came to Montreal, where my husband and I were living while he finished his medical studies at McGill University.

Jean was then in the French Army and wrote from a hospital, saying that he had been struck in the left arm by a bullet. This didn't sound serious and, when I didn't hear from him again, I figured he had, naturally enough, lost interest in writing to an old flame. After that he was seldom in my thoughts, although in the fall of 1941 I wrote a short story based on our romance, which was published in a small magazine called the TANAGER.

In 1946 my family and I moved to San Francisco. Many years passed. On the night of September 22, 1946 I was attending a development class in the Little Church of St. Andrew's. About fifteen of us sat quietly in the subdued light, trying to get impressions which we would share later with one another. For some time in class meditation I had been getting nothing but European scenes. That night I saw, inwardly, the streets of Amsterdam. I was walking along the Left Bank of the Seine in Paris. Was this really from the Spirit . . . or was my subconscious in a rut and trying to get me to show off to my classmates a familiarity with Europe?

The silence was broken by our teacher, the gifted psychic Pearl Shannon. "Did anyone here know a Frenchman with the unusual name of Raoul?" she asked.

When no one responded I said, hesitantly, "I knew one whose last name was Rouiller."

"I'm burning up with fever," said Mrs. Shannon. "This young man was in World War II and was struck by a bullet in the left arm. He died of infection."

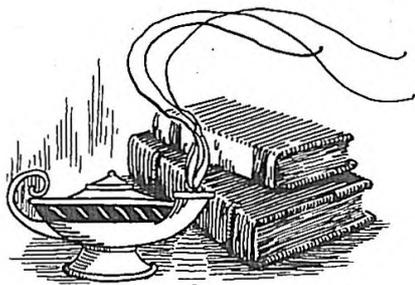

"That's Jean!" I exclaimed. We had first met on a trip to Amsterdam and later often had walked along the banks of the Seine together.

"He's leaving now," she said, relieved. "He just wanted you to identify him."

Driving home that night I thought tenderly of Jean and blessed him. Idly, I wished that he had been able to give his name more correctly. Then I remembered! In the story written twenty-three years before I had called myself Elsa, and Jean I had called Raoul. Now I wondered if Jean hadn't been at my elbow inspiring me as I wrote. In the story we married.

I arrived home to find lying on the dining room table a lovely watercolor of the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart in Paris. My husband had placed it there while I was in class. How often Jean and I had looked across to SACRE COEUR on the far side of the city. The picture was a gift to me from a nun patient just returned from Europe, but I knew that it was also a gift from Spirit . . . from Jean . . . from Raoul.

Dear Friends:

It is sad to think that so much of my life has gone by without knowing about how to put "Seed Money" to use. Over a period of years I have tithed regularly, but it didn't seem to be the answer for me.

There seems to be a greater expression of faith and a deep feeling of gratitude that wells up within me whenever I plant my Seed Money. Then when it returns to me - as it has many times - in ways I could never dream possible, it seems like something my Divine Father is sending DIRECTLY TO ME PERSONALLY. For those who need a demonstration of the Divine Presence in their affairs, I certainly would recommend they start on the Seed Money program right away. It's just wonderful to see how it works!

THE ESOTERIC PHILOSOPHY OF LOVE AND MARRIAGE
By Dion Fortune

THE MODERN CONDITIONS of marriage are changing quite rapidly . . . as we all have become almost painfully aware these days. Pain, as we know, results from ignorance. A great deal of information seems to be available having to do with the physiology of sex-life, but how much counseling-in-depth is available that will tell two well-informed healthy individuals who are physically compatible why they may yet feel they have failed to realize the higher aspects of love, and so missed the best life has to give? Nor do very many seem to have the answer either as to why two highly esteemed people may have a devastating effect on each other without a single unkind word or selfish action, so that their companionship means misery for both. While married life can hold the greatest good in life, it also can hold the greatest misery.

Seldom is the ideal marriage seen, and yet each human being who enters upon that state does so in the hope that it will yield him the highest earthly happiness. At the base of the desire for union is the fulfillment of each one's needs. If a consummation is not achieved on all points, then the craving for union will continue as an unsatisfied and tormenting hunger, and the parties will turn elsewhere for satisfaction, involving misery and social disorder.

The laws of mating, according to the esoteric writer, Dion Fortune, embrace much more than mere physical union, recognizing, as they do, the seven bodies of man and sex upon each of the seven planes of consciousness. Unless one mates each of his bodies at the proper state, the union will be incomplete, and the individual will still be in a state of sex-hunger, seeking his mate. All are not equally evolved, however, and usually are capable of mating only the first three bodies – physical, instinctual, emotional.

The esoteric concept of sex in life, what the ideal marriage comprises, the teachings concerning "twin souls", the prevention of conception and abortion, abstinence and asceticism – all are aspects of marriage we should consider if we are to see it as more than a mating of two physical bodies. This you will find in the book we refer to here – one of several by this author listed with Chimes.

PART VI.

HOW TO BEGIN

For your own Contrary Concentration, the best procedure is this:

Select a quiet place where you will not be disturbed; it might be your den, study, or bedroom. Seat yourself in a comfortable position and remove your shoes, tie, and any garments that constrict your body. When you feel completely relaxed and at ease, but not before, begin your meditation.

If you are a religious person, commune for a few moments with God. Pray to Him for help, in the manner that suits you best. Any prayer will do, so long as it renews your feeling of kinship to the Almighty. As you pray, reach out and feel His friendliness for you. Open your heart to His Love. Recognize that He created you in His Own Image, and that He wants only happiness and joy for you.

The Masters of the Far East, when they commence meditation, do much the same thing. They pray, too, though they call their divinity by such names as Siva or Buddha. They bring themselves, just as you do, into harmony with the Central Power of the Universe and drink in His Power and His Strength.

THE SECOND STAGE

When you feel yourself in tune with the Infinite, you are ready to enter upon the second stage of your meditation. For the subject of your Contrary Concentration, select some quality that you know is essential to the fruition of your plans, but in which you are deficient. It might be Interest, Diligence, Confidence, Calmness, Persistence, Desire for Success; all these and more intertwine in any substantial achievement, and are fit subjects for Contrary Concentration. However, since in this chapter we are fundamentally concerned with one-pointedness, the sample topic selected for contrary meditation will be an item in Patanjali's list of human qualities that weaken concentration. He calls this quality the "tendency to be misled into side issues." Other names will do as well. You can call it "losing sight of one's objective," "many-pointedness," or a "tendency to succumb to distractions," if you prefer.

Your goal — the subject you tend to wander away from — is already known to you. It is the thing closest to your heart — promotion in your job, wealth, artistic achievement, good health, social success, or whatever other objective you have selected. Let us suppose that you pursue this aim when you think of it, but not consistently enough, since you are not yet one-pointed. Success means work, and work is often unpleasant to us. As the days go by, you frequently find yourself doing things that do not help you at all to reach your objective. One night you feel you'd rather watch a ball game on television; another night you spend listening to music; or you agree to give a few evenings to doing publicity for your club — a worthy project, but one that hardly contributes to your success. This behavior is the manifestation of the negative tendency Patanjali mentions.

WHY HE AND NOT YOU?

Your Contrary Concentration, aimed at combatting this tendency, may last only a few moments, or hours may be devoted to it — but it should be repeated often if you want it to be helpful. To start with, you might picture to yourself the achievement of someone you are personally acquainted with.

Almost every one of us knows some person who was once close to us but has gone much further in life. It may be someone you used to play with as a child, who sat in the same classroom with you at school, or who worked in the same office with you. Possibly you have not seen him recently, but every once in a while you may read about him in the newspapers, or some mutual acquaintance may give you a report about what he has been doing. Perhaps you have learned that he has just bought a fifty-thousand-dollar house, that his business is expanding by leaps and bounds, or that he has written a best-selling novel. Being human, you are irked by his success, when you compare it to your own. Indeed, you may recall very concretely that when you knew this individual, you found him singularly unimpressive. Perhaps you received better marks at school than he did and were more intelligent and capable in general than he.

Why does he make the grade while you hardly seem to get ahead at all? Ask yourself that question, as part of your meditation.

Comparisons, it has well been said, are insidious, so make them honestly, in order to find the answer. Of course you may be worthier than your rival, and have greater latent possibilities for success. In one respect, however, you may be sure you are surpassed by him: in one-pointedness. From the start, he has never lost sight of his goal. Because his energy is not dissipated in idleness or side issues, everything he does is aimed at the ultimate achievement. You, however, persistently allow yourself to be distracted.

Of course you may be able to adduce plausible reasons for your lesser degree of achievement, but the fact remains that you have not gotten as far as he has, have you?

DON'T RATIONALIZE

In comparing yourself to this more successful contemporary, do not make the error of seeking consolation in the notion that he is more self-centered.

You may momentarily salve your sense of self-esteem by telling yourself that you are less egotistical and mean — that you do not want to get ahead by walking upon the backs of others. It may make you feel fine to say that he exploited connections and friendships, and that you could never be so self-seeking. But, in the final analysis, aren't you saying that he had a stronger drive, a deeper desire to achieve than you?

Everyone who gets ahead is not necessarily selfish or mean. Earlier we saw that a great doer like Andrew Carnegie gave much of what he earned for philanthropic purposes. So, too, did Rockefeller and Ford. Men like Admiral Peary and Stonewall Jackson never exploited anyone.

It is mere rationalization to attribute our failures to superiority of character. We may indeed be superior in many ways — but not in that absolute devotion to a goal that the Masters call one-pointedness and the unsuccessful call pigheadedness.

The Masters of the East, with their profound insight into the human heart, were able to see clearly that our failures, by and large, are rooted in our weaknesses. From their own experience in the arduous study of yoga, they knew how easily people were distracted from their purpose. Think long and hard upon these words of Patanjali: "Some who would succeed are but dabblers, some are earnest in their efforts, but only a handful are completely one-pointed." Do you want to drift with the multitude, or move purposefully toward success with the few?

NO PRIZE WITHOUT EFFORT

Having analyzed the fundamental reason for the achievement of your acquaintance, it is now time to turn your thoughts to others whose accomplishments are even greater.

Travel back in time. You live in the most wonderful land on earth, where men, for the first time in history, are truly free, and enjoy access to the comforts and conveniences of an advanced civilization. It was not always so. Visualize, for a while, the tremendous risks that were run by America's pioneers.

Mile by mile, those determined men had to fight their way across a dangerous, hostile continent. They had to level forests and make the land fertile; the labors they performed were almost never-ending, but the rewards they reaped were in proportion. Realize clearly that there is no prize without some sacrifice.

LEARN OF NOBLE MEN

You may go further back in time, and meditate upon individual great men whose lives offer models of one-pointedness. Shakespeare once said: "For mine own part, I shall be glad to learn of noble men." You can draw great inspiration from them to strengthen your Contrary Concentration.

THE ONE-POINTEDNESS OF COLUMBUS

No hardship, criticism, or adversity could daunt the one-pointedness of Christopher Columbus; nothing could distract him from his conviction that he could discover a new route to the Indies by sailing westward. Yet hardships and criticisms he encountered aplenty. One after another the crowned heads of Europe turned away from his great project in disdain. First it was John, King of Portugal. Then it was the rulers of Spain, Ferdinand and Isabella, who were too deeply involved in a war with the Moors to lend of their treasure to the visionary Italian sea captain.

Picture how heartbroken an ordinary man might be at these rebuffs, but how persistent Columbus was in the face of them. He was already en route to visit the King of France when he was summoned back to the Spanish Court. At last, after ten years of attempting to persuade the Spanish potentates to extend the necessary financial support, his plans looked as though they might bear fruit.

But not yet. Columbus, like you, dreamed high, and he desired high rewards. He wanted a share of the minerals that would be discovered in the lands beyond the seas, and he wanted the title of "Admiral of the Ocean Sea." The Spaniards turned him down again.

Columbus packed his bags, ready to set out again for France. But one of the royal counselors was convinced that Columbus could succeed in reaching the Indies, and was ready to finance his voyage. He brought Columbus back, and this time it was agreed that he would sail.

Think of the old French saying that the first step is the hardest. For Columbus, the first step was hard and every step thereafter was harder still. Compared to his lot, yours is easy. When he had his ships, he could not find a crew. Spain's sailors were fearful of unknown waters. Men that were rotting in foul dungeons, although offered their freedom and good pay if they would go along with him, preferred their chains to the terrors of the ocean to the west. After much trying, Columbus finally was able to muster enough of a crew to man his three vessels. On August 3, 1492, the little fleet set sail.

Three days out of port a mishap befell the intrepid voyager. A rudder broke loose from one of his ships. But that did not make Columbus despair of success. With his mind's eye he saw new lands over the horizon, he would not let an accident keep him from them. After the rudder had been repaired, there was more trouble. The needle of the ship's compass began to move erratically. The men were disturbed and wanted to turn back. But Columbus was equal to any challenge, and he managed to allay their fears and convince them that all was well.

About six weeks out of Spain, the sailors saw a strange sight. Not far ahead of their vessels a meteor fell from the skies and plunged hissing into the sea. To the superstitious folk of that day a meteor was an omen of approaching disaster. The sailors believed that they must be close to the edge of the earth, and the meteor was a sign that they should turn back. Columbus felt they were wrong, but he could not be sure, no ships in known history had ever sailed so far westward, and the unknown holds peril for almost all of us. But Columbus' desire to see what lay beyond was greater than his fear, and tiny fleet traveled on.

Less than a week later, some birds were sighted. To the mariners of that day, this was sure proof that land was near. They took heart, and peered constantly into the horizon for the first glimpse of shore.

But there were still weeks of sailing ahead of them. It was not until October 12 that Columbus, peering into the night, saw a light far off. Early the next morning the ships actually reached land. The voyage had taken many, many days — but a whole new world had been discovered, bringing about an incredible change in the fortunes of Spain, which became the richest land on earth, and doubling the size of the known world. In honor of the great accomplishment of Columbus, to this very day his lineal descendant in Spain bears the title of Admiral of the Ocean Sea. And all of this only because the one-pointedness of one man was so perfect that it did not permit him to be distracted from his purpose!

ASSOCIATING NEGATIVE AND POSITIVE

In this wise should you meditate upon the lives of great men and their accomplishments. You should search your soul and discover the true reasons why you lose your one-pointedness and are misled into side issues. Counter each distraction or worry with affirmative thoughts about the value of effort and devotion to work, and the substantial rewards these can bring. To every negative thought, tie a positive one, so that they are indissolubly associated in your mind on both levels, conscious and subconscious.

To the negative thought: "I'm too tired to work," tie the positive thought: "Once I start working and become absorbed in my labors, my fatigue will fall away, and I will be able to do much."

To the negative thought: "I have a headache," tie the positive thought: "Headaches are often born of boredom or mental conflict. Work will drive it away."

To the negative thought: "I don't have the time to work," tie the positive thought: "The busiest people accomplish the most. With intelligent planning I can find time for all that is essential."

To the negative thought: "I can't," tie the positive thought: "I can if I want to strongly enough."

To the negative thought: "I feel too ill to work," apply the positive thought: "My mind is as healthy as I want it to be. Much illness is imagined; pain is great if I think it is great, little if I think it is little. Sick men, blind men, crippled men have accomplished more than unhandicapped persons who lacked one-pointedness."

The more closely you link these positive thoughts to the negative ones, the easier it will be to shake off damaging notions and do the things you want to do. After a while, substituting the positive for the negative will become habitual, like braking your car when you see a red light at the street corner. Whenever you find a negative thought in your mind, it should be a signal for you to replace it with a positive one.

Practice Contrary Concentration often. It will make you strong against all opposition, whether it be without or within. It will protect you against all the misfortunes of life. It was John Milton, the man who won world-wide fame in literature although he was completely blind, who said: "The mind is its own place, and in itself can make a heaven of hell, a hell of heaven."

THE THIRD SECRET

Our minds are finite, and yet even in these circumstances of finitude we are surrounded by possibilities that are infinite, and the purpose of human life is to grasp as much as we can of that infinitude.

— Alfred North Whitehead

*“When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you’re trudging seems all up hill,
When the funds are low and the debts are high,
And you want to smile, but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit,
Rest, if you must — but don’t you quit.*

*“Life is queer with its twists and turns,
As every one of us sometimes learns,
And many a failure turns about
When he might have won had he stuck it out,
Don’t give up, though the pace seems slow —
You might succeed with another blow.*

*“Often the goal is nearer than
It seems to a faint and faltering man,
Often the struggler has given up
When he might have captured the victor’s cup.
And he learned too late, when the night slipped down,
How close he was to the golden crown.*

*“Success is failure turned inside out —
The silver tint of the clouds of doubt —
And you never can tell how close you are,
It may be near when it seems afar;
So stick to the fight when you’re hardest hit —
It’s when things seem worst that you mustn’t quit.”*

MISTAKING APPEARANCE FOR REALITY

All of us, on occasion, mistake the appearance for the reality. If a man smiles at us, we suppose he likes us. If an acquaintance walks by us frowning, we imagine that his feelings towards us are unfriendly. But the first man may just be pretending, and the second man’s grim aspect may be caused by some personal misfortune.

As we mistake others, so we mistake ourselves. Some of us have immense but untried capacities for achievement. We are potential Lincolns, Edisons, Shakespeares, or Henry Fords. But we lack the faith required to prove our abilities, and we belittle our every word and deed. Underrating our own powers, because we see ourselves as drab, incompetent mediocrities, we are afraid to embark upon the very enterprises that will reveal to the world and ourselves the potent persons that in our hearts we feel ourselves to be.

Perhaps, years ago, some short-sighted older brother or sister, father or teacher told us we would never amount to much. Swayed by the authority of the speaker, we mistook those heartless words for the truth. It may be, too, that we were frustrated in a few small endeavors, and supposed that henceforth failure had to be our destiny. In one way or another, the things that people said or the misfortunes that we suffered gave us a demeaning, embittering picture of ourselves and our abilities. In a sensitive period we took this image to ourselves and modeled ourselves upon it. We lost all awareness of the forceful, able persons we really were. We were taken in by false appearances.

ARE YOU AWARE OF YOUR POWERS?

“Through concentration,” declares an ancient sage of the Far East, “a man becomes aware of himself. By and large, the individual loses himself in his own distorted picture of life because he identifies himself with it.”

Note the emphasis placed by the sage upon awareness, he is telling us that the man who is aware of himself has found himself, the man who lacks awareness is virtually a lost soul.

Can you honestly say that you have a genuine awareness of yourself and your powers? Do you see yourself as the vital, gifted person you were meant to be? Or, duped by a distorted picture of life, do you regard yourself as a born second-rater, a failure, a man or woman without a future?

If you belong to this second category, an enormous boulder blocks your route to success. Your way will be difficult, if not impassable, until the obstacle has been removed.

Before you can hope to remove it, you must be prepared to face the truth about yourself. You must be willing to look at your picture of life and admit that it is a false one.

This is not nearly so easy as it sounds. Most people keep running away from the truth as though it were something hateful. The words once engraved upon the temple of the oracle at Delphi — “Know thyself” — are among the hardest in the world to take to heart.

YOUR ENEMIES — FALSE IDEAS

Your picture of life, or, basically speaking, the thoughts you have in mind, can be your worst enemies if they are distorted and confused. Until you know them for what they are, you cannot fight them. Once you recognize their true nature, however, you will be well on the way to routing the damaging thoughts and replacing them with others that are constructive and charged with power.

Now is the time to try a little self-diagnosis. Just as the doctor gives you a checkup to determine the state of your health, here is a series of questions that will help you to ascertain whether your mental picture of yourself and the world is accurate and helpful, or confused and damaging. Think carefully as you answer the following ten questions:

ANSWER YES OR NO

1. Do you believe, with regard to people, that you can't teach an old dog new tricks?"
2. Do you often feel bored or listless?
3. In your opinion, will the future be an unvaried repetition of the present – and pretty dreary at that?
4. Do you often hesitate to undertake new projects out of fear that you will not be equal to them?
5. Does it depress you to mingle with people who are better dressed or who have more money than you?
6. Do you have a pervasive feeling that the breaks in life are against you?
7. Are your fundamental convictions – about politics, human behavior, morality, and progress – pretty much what they were ten or twenty years ago?
8. Do you frequently find yourself envying others?
9. Do you have an inferiority complex?
10. Do you generally stammer or feel timid when you are with your boss or people whose station in life is higher than yours?

If, to seven or more of these questions, your answer is yes, then it is safe to say that you have a confused awareness of yourself – and as a result you are prevented from performing many of the great things you are capable of. Fortunately, if you have an open mind, you can remedy this handicap. On the other hand, if you have answered no to all or most of the questions, your case is much better. Still, nobody's situation is so good that it cannot be improved.

AT THE MERCY OF DISTORTIONS

The truth is that all of us, except those who have learned the merits of one-pointedness, are at the mercy of the distortions that imperfect understanding creates in our minds. Unless we are constantly on our guard, we easily fall victim to what the Masters of the Far East call maya, or illusion. We plunge into the false picture we have formed of the world and wander about in it lost and bewildered, like men and women in a hall of mirrors.

Have you ever walked into a great, luxurious place – say the lobby of the Waldorf or some other exclusive hotel – and been overcome by a feeling of insignificance? You see tremendous walls rising to an ornate ceiling scores of feet overhead, you walk on thick carpets and are jostled by hurrying, well-dressed people. Unless you are on your guard, a sense of the vastness of the building, and the superiority of the people who ordinarily frequent it almost overcomes you, and you feel very humble, and insecure.

In this situation, you have formed a distorted picture. It dwarfs you, and your identity is lost in it.

Have you ever gone into your employer's office to ask for a favor or a raise? Your superior may sit at a large mahogany desk, so much handsomer than yours; on it you may see an expensive desk set and a silver cigarette lighter. Before him there is a stack of bills and correspondence, and, as he looks up at you from them, you wonder whether you have the right to disturb him. On the walls, frowning down at you, are the photographs of former presidents of the organization, their nearness gives you a profound sense of smallness.

The picture made by all these things on your mind is a distorted one again. It is not reality, but an appearance, in which you lose yourself.

TRUE PICTURES

The true picture is a far different one. You cannot even see it unless you have the self-awareness the Oriental sage speaks of. That self-awareness, he says, you can attain by concentration. It is Contrary Concentration which combats the illusions forced upon you by unfamiliar persons and circumstances.

And what will be the focal point of your Contrary Concentration? First, the thought that you were created in the image of God. Your life goes back through countless generations to the root of all life. You are a son or a daughter of God, King of the Universe. Royal houses and principalities may come and go, but the house of God, your Father, will stand forever. He gives His Love freely to all His children, if they will but take it. Wrapped in His kingly mantle, why should you feel inferior to anyone?

Second, in a naturalistic sense, realize that you, as a human being, are the peak of creation. Scientists estimate that the earth is over two billion years old. There are some one million different kinds of creatures alive today, ranging from microscopic animals to the great apes; millions more lived in ages past, but of these only vestiges remain. Are you fully aware that you are a member of the most intelligent and capable species that ever walked the face of the earth: Homo sapiens, or "Wise man"? Life has been in a process of development for untold aeons, and the most creative, most perfect creature ever begotten is – you!

By God's word and by the verdict of science, truly you are Lord of the World.

In your concentration, take another look around the lobby of the Waldorf, or any other place that inspires you with awe. What are the walls but plaster, stone, wood, and metal, which men like you put together? What are the luxurious tapestries and rugs but simple vegetable or animal matter, given shape, texture, and color by men like you? You have life, and walls and rugs do not – why should they intimidate you?

The richly attired, affluent persons who walk about in such places — what are they but people like yourself? They may happen to have more money and prestige than you have yet achieved, but they are not made of better flesh, bone, or blood than you; they have the same bodily functions as you, the same desires and weaknesses. If they do not watch their health, they probably won't live as long as you will.

In their mortality, as in the sight of God and the law, they are at best your equals.

These are the thoughts you should have in mind when you enter your employer's office, or call on some person whose patronage means much to you. What is the lavishly furnished office but a structure of inert materials? As a living creature you are far superior to them. And the man himself, whose favor you seek? He's an important personage, no doubt, but how important would he be without you and people like you? He would be spending his entire life wresting his food and clothing from Nature, and enjoying a bare subsistence at best. Is he immortal, or made of finer stuff than you? No, you're both human beings, cut from the same cloth. If your efforts make his lot in life easier, he knows you are very valuable to him, and he will give your request earnest consideration.

THE PRACTICE OF AWARENESS

Practice an awareness of your powers. Do not allow the appearance of things and people to submerge your individuality. A room is only a room though it be an imposing one in a palace, or the main office of a giant corporation; a man is only a man, though for a brief while he bears the title of King, President, or Chairman of the Board. And you? You are his equal. You are the Word Made Flesh. You are bursting with powers, and all you need is confidence to bring them forth.

Realize that you are mighty, and in short order you will actually be mighty. Put fear out of your mind, and you will be filled with self-trust. You can and must learn to stand on your own feet, to march forward, and do the work that your soul tells you to do. If you trust in your ability, you will discover new abilities within yourself. Strong in faith, like Moses, you can ask the sea to divide, the rock to give forth water, and they will obey your command.

TRUST THYSELF

Ralph Waldo Emerson, the sage of Concord, who drank deeply of the wisdom of the Masters of the Far East, once said: "God will not have his work made manifest by cowards . . . Trust thyself: every heart vibrates to that iron string." And in your own Bible you will read: "The kingdom of God is within you." It is the will of God that you should be fearless, and have more of the good things of the world. "I have come," said Jesus, "that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." It does not please God that you, His child, should eke out a pitiful existence in self-doubt and poverty.

*"Trust in thine own untried capacity
As thou wouldst trust in God Himself. Thy soul
Is but an emanation from the whole.*

*"Thou dost not dream what forces lie in thee.
Vast and unfathomed as the grandest sea.
Thy silent mind o'er diamond caves may roll
Go seek them, but let Pilot Will control
Those passions which thy favoring winds can be.*

*"No man shall place a limit to thy strength;
Such triumphs as no mortal ever gained
May yet be thine if thou wilt but believe
In thy Creator and in thyself. At length
Some feet will tread all heights now unattained —
Why not thine own? Press on! achieve! achieve!"*

The Amazing Secrets of the Masters of the Far East by Robert Collier, Baird T. Spalding's five volumes entitled Life and Teachings of the Masters of the Far East, the Yoga Aphorisms of Patanjali as translated by Swami Prabhavananda and Christopher Isherwood in their book entitled, How to Know God, all are certainly absorbing, meaningful books any student of the occult should have read and be well acquainted with. These are books that will explain many enigmas of life you or someone you know often have wondered about. While you are reading this series — send for yours from Chimes.

In this tightly-knit world of today what happens in one place affects every other part of the globe. Anarchy in New York or San Francisco cannot but affect Tokyo and Calcutta and Delhi and Rome. Likewise, spiritual effort in one place will hearten and strengthen all mankind. All peoples today stand or fall together. This truth is at once our tragedy and our strength. For if the weakness of one is contagious to all, so also does the strength of one spread on the winds of spring to all. Let us realize, all of us, high and low, rich and poor, learned and illiterate, that there is but one strength, one knowledge, one love, one joy, one peace, and that one supreme is the one, undivided Lord of all, Heart of Hearts, Light of lights, Ocean of Existence-Consciousness-Bliss. Absolute. Whether we approach it through reason or love or selfless action or concentration, approach it we must, and we must make it the goal of all our living, or else all of our education, all of our activities, all of our lives are spent in vain.

THE CAYCE LIBRARY

MIND IS THE BUILDER

WHEN WE ACCEPT that Mind IS the Builder, as Edgar Cayce tells us, and realize fully that thought is preface to action, and the sum total of our life accomplishment can be computed by the thought forms imaged within the mind, then we can see the importance of being on guard at the gates of our senses — directing thought that stems from these senses so that the resultant reactions will be in line with our highest ideals and goals.

If we program our minds with attitudes of friendly approach, objectivity, unselfishness, humor and attention — if we program our minds with purpose that is worthy, idealistic, practical, unbiased, cosmic — if we make order, patience, and balance dominant postures in the overall program of thought direction — and we train ourselves to be aware of the rhythms of life (biological, global, cosmic) — then what place is there for the destructive the negative, the retrogressive that is seedbed for the various pathogens that confront man as ailments?

There is An Ancient Formula for Repelling Disease from The Edgar Cayce Reader by Hugh Lynn Cayce which reads:

1. Three Drops of Pity, a steady flow of compassion, and the gastric juices shall go about their work uninterrupted, and there shall be no stones nor inflammation.
2. Three Ounces of Unselfishness, generosity of thought and deed, and the body shall not be a prey to fevers, sending its warmth outward.
3. Seven Lungfuls of Laughter and Lovelit Speech, a habitual outpouring of joy, and the throat cannot ache and swell in its longing for laughter, and the tongue cannot parch in the absence of healing, medicinal words.
4. Four Tumblers of Charity, a soothing and inexpensive cordial, and the very bones of us will respond, every joint and sinew laved and oiled by its grace.
5. One Injection of Far Memory, suffused through every vein, and the heart shall beat in harmony with the systole and diastole of life design.
6. Two Swallows of Patience, nature's favorite remedy, and the eyes shall not lose their power of sight and insight.
7. A Long Steady Diet of Silence and Inner Control, the ancient hospital bed, and the brain shall not waver nor short circuit, keeping her metered pace.
8. Five Tablets from the Mills of Conscience, however bitter to the taste, and the ears cannot shut to the cries of heaven in the dust frames about us.
9. Six Transfusions of Prayer on a Scale as Grand as the Cosmos, a remedy the most indigent may grasp, and the rich blood and the complex cell may not be attacked nor disordered. (See opposite column to order this Cayce book.)

contain elements of harmony. For example, one writer may say – "The Holy Spirit is sent by the Heavenly Father to guide us." Another might say, "Infinite Intelligence sends the Light of His Spirit to illuminate our way." Here only the terminology varies.

There are threads of harmony interwoven throughout most all religions if one is open-minded and looks for them. Rather than constant bickering over minor differences of dogma, religious leaders should concentrate on parallel points of reality and lasting value between them. But we must not forget that ministers and spiritual teachers are only human. They have not reached perfect understanding yet, no more than we. There are only different levels of progress with different individuals and ministers. As we mature, and gain clearer comprehension, most old ideas make way for new – but not all old ideas should be discarded. Some ancient wisdom is still ahead of our time.

All major religions teach the golden rule in some section of their holy books. The language expression differs, but the vital message is the same. This fact supports the theory that no matter what approach we take, the inner urge for completeness and harmony drives us onward to the same final destination; oneness with ourselves, with others, and with God. All the multitudinous pieces eventually must fit together in the wholeness of unity. For it has been wisely said, "Truth is whole."

Unity must be both inner and outer. There must be unity of thought and unity of mind, body and soul. To see things in their proper relation to the whole is not always an easy perspective. Nevertheless, it embraces universal laws of Spirit and sees God in integrality and the creation reflecting Him. There are numerous examples of things composed of countless interdependent parts, working in harmony as one.

This same principle of wholeness should be applied to daily progress in our study and meditation. It is all summed up in one short sentence: Unified philosophy harmonizes – compartmentalized philosophy separates.

We live in the eternal Now, and it is Now that we create our destiny. It follows, that to grieve over the past is useless, and to make plans for the future is a waste of time. There is only one ambition that is good, and that is: so to live Now that none may weary of life's emptiness and none may have to do the task we leave undone.

RECONSTRUCTION WORK ON EARTH

By Azrael
of The White Lodge
Del Mar, California

AS YOU KNOW, the Great White Lodge of the Brotherhood is in the Spirit Spheres, in a realm of being apart from the Earth, yet interpenetrating it at certain times, and in certain prepared places.

This highest of Masonic Lodges has as its Grand Master the Christ. Both men and women are Brothers in this Lodge. Its Brethren are coming toward the Earth today to link up with human channels through whom they can give help to people on the Earth plane. In many instances they link with those whom they have known in former lives.

In some cases, at their own wish, Brethren have taken on incarnation on the Earth. They walk calmly and harmoniously through life; nothing seems to perturb them or upset them. They seem withdrawn altogether. They are on the Earth, yet apart from it. They may meet you, make a brief contact, then pass on their way leaving an impression that they are not of this world. Beloved, these are Masters who at their own wish have taken on incarnation on the Earth plane that a certain work may be done or that certain contacts be made. Some dwell in hidden places — in the mountains in India, parts of Europe, some in America, and some dwell in England. Only a few are incarnate at this time seeking to contact and prepare channels for their work with humanity through whom they can give teachings that will help mankind to attain a higher state of Being.

Some work through the media of different religions. All religions, no matter what they may be, can link up with the Brotherhood. The many religions, in reality, tread the SAME PATH and desire the SAME GOAL — the joy of finding the right journey upward.

Each of you has his or her own work to do at this time. So long as it considers the good of others it will be blessed. We ask for your cooperation in our work, for it must be spread. The Groups that will form will do the Father's work. Our work, our words, inspired by the Father must be taken to men in the Congress, Senate, the Parliament, to all those in high places, — to men of letters and men of science. These messages must go wherever there is power . . . power that will carry the work of the Father forward, and wherever there is influence that will help to spread it all over the world.

In this time of turmoil and strife these messages must go forth so that right action will be taken to end all wars eventually. The men in positions of power must know what happens when souls are flung out of their bodies in war action, for we have the souls of the men of all nations coming here to Spirit unprepared. If all men in high places could understand their responsibility towards humanity — the aftermath of plunging the world into war — they would have the power to bring the changes that eventually must come. In time they will learn the lesson of Brotherhood. They will be willing to learn lessons of all men, from all nations, so that understanding will dawn and lack of love and thoughtfulness to one another will cease.

Agas ago when the Christ walked the Earth, His teachings principally were LOVE. "Love one another." Wars come because of a lack of love toward one another. Where is love among the nations that fight? And for what do they fight? . . . selfishness, greed, and self-advancement or power over others? So where is love . . . where is Brotherhood on Earth today?

YOUR LINK WITH THE BROTHERHOOD

It is our desire to form groups of prayer and enlightenment which one day will spread into every nation so that each may grow in the spirit of service to the Father in teaching Brotherhood and love to humanity.

In all these groups which form, spiritual doctrines also may be given to discarnate souls brought into the group by their Angel Guardians so that they too may learn. They may come from realms where the Light yet is very dim — the lower realms and astral worlds. Those from the higher realms come into the groups to help not only those incarnate on the Earth plane, but those also discarnate who come to learn. If only you on Earth could see — as we can see — the multitudes that are attracted to all groups of Light. Some come to learn, some come to receive enlightenment; others come to teach and to share. All who work in the Light, therefore, have a responsibility not only to those incarnate on Earth, but to those discarnate as well.

After you have been linked to a Light group for a while, and have learned what we come to give, you will serve in many ways. Often we can inspire you in what you say to help someone in need. The words come forth, you render a service, and you wonder how you happened to say what you had no intention of saying.

Remember, beloved ones, whenever you make a link with a Light group, you are making a link with us of the Great White Brotherhood. We shall impress you from time to time so that you can be of greater help and wisdom to your fellow men. We bless you for all that we feel you will do for us and for mankind in the future. Many of you who are linking up now have been linked with us in previous lives. You are linking up for a purpose — to give certain lessons to humanity. As all Souls grow in love and understanding, they give mutual help to one another, thus they are able to bring the Light to those around them.

The knowledge of rebirth, reincarnation, reembodiment . . . cannot be taught to anyone. It must be born in the heart as the Soul awakens. We do not force this knowledge upon anyone. We say that when a certain spiritual unfoldment and spiritual enlightenment takes place, that knowledge comes to you. You who are at that point in your spiritual evolution are able to suggest to others you meet how they may learn what neglected opportunities to serve may mean. If this were understood by more Souls, what a different world this would be! There is only ONE life, and life on Earth, alternated with life in the Spirit Spheres, gives you full opportunity to learn the lessons that life in either realm can teach you. This life on Earth in which you are now is a time for learning, for experience; it depends

A NEW WAY TO PRAY

In this swiftly changing world, many of us find that due to negative influences we cannot pray as our forefathers did or as we did when we were children.

How shall we pray then if prayer is to have meaning and then be answered?

The solution is that it must be lived as well as expressed in words. Your belief, your action, your prayer, and above all your work must all harmonize. This kind of prayer will enable you to believe your way into action. Your life will then be a prayer to God. This will be your new way to worship Him.

This kind of prayer will be an outpouring, a cleansing of your heart. There will come a growing self-knowledge, which will be a therapy as well as prayer.

The early Christians composed their own prayers, and so can we if we wish. Let the language of your prayer grow from within, to express your joy and wonder and exploration of God's goodness.

A FEW YEARS AGO large numbers of pelicans were starving to death on the beaches of San Diego, California, cluttering up the beaches and providing a serious problem for the public health authorities.

For years the fishermen of San Diego had cleaned their fish on the way into port, and they had thrown their fish cleanings overboard, as well as all the fish that were too small to keep. Thus they had been providing a tasty and adequate diet for the fat pelicans of San Diego. Then the Board of Health decided that it wasn't a good idea for the fishermen to dump their cleanings into the bay, so they put a stop to the practice. This left the pelicans without their free lunch.

Pelicans are natural-born fishermen, endowed with a large, scooped bill for fishing; but these were spoiled pelicans. Never before did they have to shift for themselves or fish for a living. So, after the Board of Health passed the new regulation, the San Diego pelicans just stood around on the beach, starving. The authorities soon realized that they had a problem on their hands.

Finally, someone came up with a bright idea. A sizable group of unspoiled pelicans were imported from Alaska and set free on the beach. The Alaskan pelicans immediately waded into the water and began fishing for their daily rations. The spoiled pelicans watched and finally got the idea; then they too waded into the water and began scooping up fish with those big bills with which nature had so thoughtfully provided them. The famine was over.

Elinor MacDonald gives this story of the pelicans in her book, Your Greatest Power, to show us what power there is in an example of teaching others how to live. It has been truly said that what the world needs is not more reformers but more splendid examples. By your example you can become the living evidence of God's presence in humanity, and thus do more good in the world than you realize. Your joyous optimism and spiritual strength will surround you with an invisible yet potent atmosphere that will lift, bless and heal all those whose lives touch yours.

From time to time in the course of our life we are called upon to take a big step forward into new circumstances. It may be a change in business, a move to a new part of the country of the world, getting married, or breaking into a new profession. Each time we take one of these big steps, we find that there are new joys, new compensations, unexpected rewards. But there are also new duties, new challenges, new responsibilities.

One of the biggest steps a person can take is the step over the threshold of the world of materialism into the "fifth kingdom," the kingdom of the spiritually awakened man. There he encounters new joys, new excitement in living, infinite horizons to explore and conquer. But most of all, he must show his gratitude to God in the form of service to his fellow man.

Jesus spoke of the great joy of spiritual consciousness, and He wanted everyone to share it with Him: "That my joy may be in you, and that your joy may be made full." He also told us plainly what we must do to attain that joy. He gave us the keys to the kingdom in four simple rules of life, which anyone can follow with reasonable effort.

There is an art to tuning in

The first key to heaven (or happiness) is PRAYER, which calms the troubled spirit, opens the mind to Divine guidance, and attunes the soul to reality. Prayer is the simple act of sustaining one's attention on God, and anyone can become proficient at it with practice.

The second key is RIGHTEOUSNESS or RIGHTMINDEDNESS. It is the re-education of the subconscious mind through the practice of choosing to think in terms of that which is good, true, beautiful, real. It is the fine art of using one's creative power constructively instead of destructively. It is the practice of thinking in harmony with the life principle, which means thinking always in terms of expanding good instead of diminishing good. It is to judge not according to appearances, but to judge righteous judgment.

The third key is NONRESISTANCE, which means meeting evil with good in thought, word, and deed. It also includes spiritual surrender. We must learn to accept willingly the operation of Divine law, and become nonresistant to the instruction of experience. We must yield ourself willingly and gladly to the Divine corrective.

The fourth key to the kingdom is LOVE. Make no mistake about it — love is the most important thing in religion. Until you are measuring up to a high standard of loving kindness in your thinking and your dealings with your fellow man, you are not walking the fourfold path. You are not a true follower of Christ. For love includes all those qualities and noble attributes that go to make up the character of a spiritually unfolded and beautiful soul. Jesus emphasized that love for God and man is the first commandment, the great commandment, and the badge of true discipleship.

The fourfold path lies open to anyone who will walk it. Deep within your heart you must know that something very wonderful is taking place in creation, that you are an integral part of it all, and that a glorious destiny lies ahead of you. But you must feel, too, that your destiny cannot be attained without your sincere and steadfast efforts. No man becomes a saint in his sleep, nor does the wishful thinker earn his passage into heaven. You must make your heaven happen. As Jesus said, "If ye know these things, blessed are ye if ye do them."

God loves you, and He has a wonderful plan for your future evolution. He travels with you through the ascending planes of spiritual consciousness. He does not expect you to exceed your capabilities, but just to keep on expanding them through spiritual growth until you begin to show forth the glory of Him in whose image and likeness you are made. His most stringent requirement is that you be PRAYERFUL and LOVING. Is that too great a price to pay for Christhood and heaven?

These are the thoughts Elinor MacDonald expresses in her book, Your Greatest Power (available from Chimes). This remarkable book is a journey in search of expanded wisdom and understanding, a journey out of the realm of "the way things seem" to be into the realm of "the way things really are".

Basalt and granite can be swept away,
There is not any rock that I know of
That is unfailing refuge and sure stay
Except the heart's assurance of God's love.

WHAT DOES IT PORTEND ?

AS A BEGINNING, let us define Christ. Jesus often has been referred to as the Christ.

Webster defines the word as follows:- The anointed one, or to anoint. In Greek it is called "Christos", meaning light and the anointed. To anoint means to pour or rub oil on. Such symbolism is found in many religious ceremonies and has reference to a person who has, through noble living, accepted the Light from God.

Jesus referred to himself as a Son of God. He also said the same for all humanity.

Baptism by water is symbolic of washing away sin and acceptance of the Christ Light. Jesus went beyond and termed it the baptism of Spirit, meaning that regardless of the symbolic act, man could receive the Christ Ray directly.

The occult refers to the Christ as the body surrounded and enveloped in the Light. When one affirms, "I am surrounded by the pure white light of the Christ," then this Light envelops the personal aura, and the colors become that of purity and goodness.

Bear this in mind. No one person is the Christ. High Masters, like Jesus, accept this Ray from God and become transformed Beings capable of producing miracles that are vastly superior to natural laws. Know that when a Divine Law transcends a natural law, a so-called miracle occurs. In the field of psychic phenomena we see this happen time and again. We know that Biblical miracles are true, for even today we have miracles. They have never ceased since the advent of Jesus.

The Anti-Christ is an opposition to the Christ. We are all endowed with a moral sense of right and wrong. This Christ Ray is kindness, brotherly love, freedom, and a knowledge that we are NOW sons of God subject to that Mighty Being that operates by the above laws.

Therefore what is the Anti-Christ? Is it not fair to assume that it is the free will of human beings? We have definite control of this gift. It can work in direct opposition to the perfect Divine Law. Since the dawn of history we have had many Anti-Christ. Merely read your history books and you will find many Hitlers who violated the codes of the Christ Ray and substituted the opposite — that of ruling by might, subjecting people to their rule.

The German people looked for a leader that could deliver them from the intolerable conditons that World War I had imposed upon them. Hitler, by his immense powers of oratory, seemed to be the man they had been seeking, and thus he was worshipped by his followers. Even Hitler believed he was a God, amplified by his often quoted statement, "Me and God". By cunning persuasion he led the people into believing they were the "chosen race," and by war his intentions were to conquer the world by force and aggression — methods entirely contrary to Cosmic Law and the Christ Ray.

Like all perverted ideas, there is no "Chosen Race." All human beings, regardless of race, color or creed, have that same God-self within. To become anointed with the Christ Ray one must, of necessity, realize this.

Like all adverse philosophies, Divine Law has a way of crumbling dictators, and the Hitler regime fell in the ashes of its own defiance of Cosmic Law.

Today, the Anti-Christ forces are enveloping the world. Free will is a dangerous thing to the uninitiated. Too often adverse ideologies are communicated to others and accepted. When sufficient numbers become involved, such ideas are put into action and general chaos results in wars, mob violence, and man's inhumanity to man. It must be obvious to anyone that such actions are directly opposed to Cosmic Law and are born within the distorted mind of man.

IT'S WHAT THEY SAY

Henry M. Ellis — . . . . Death is not prerequisite to 'the resurrection and the Life' that is immortal . . . . The individual has no need to die in order to be 'born again.' It is through KNOWING that Life is a present Reality — a spiritual quality — that we live our immortality now. It is not through death, but through spiritualization of thought that we gain the Life that is immortal . . . . which is eternally new.

— From Bible Science, the Truth and the Way

Claude and Eugenie Bragdon — By Beauty men live in the world of the spirit. Not without it may the spirit grow. The new art is to touch men's souls to turn toward the Light that shines in the heart.

—From Oracle

Flower A. Newhouse — Whether persons are young or mature in years, a cultivation of spiritual consciousness will usher in life's highest adventure. As inward aridness recedes, and as spirituality or love of God increases, living becomes absorbingly interesting. All the discordant drives that bound us to worldliness are loosed and recreated into drives toward a steadfast centering of ourselves in the consciousness of God.

Maurice Nicoll — All ideas that have a transforming power change our sense of reality. They act like ferments. But they necessarily lead us in the direction of affirmation. To see more wholly, more comprehensively, requires affirmation, an assent to the existence of new truth . . . . It is always much easier to deny than to affirm.

— From Living Time

Ralph Waldo Emerson — Man Carries the world in his head, the whole astronomy and chemistry suspended in a thought. Because the history of nature is characterized in his brain, therefore is he the prophet and discoverer of her secrets. Every known fact in natural science was divined by the presentiment of somebody, before it was actually verified. A man does not tie his shoe without recognizing laws which bind the farthest regions of nature.

— From Essays

Thomas Troward — The awakening to consciousness of our mysterious interior powers will sooner or later take place, and will result in our using them whether we understand the law of their development or not . . . . just as we already use our physical faculties whether we understand their laws or not. The interior powers are natural powers as much as the exterior ones. We can direct their use by a knowledge of their laws; and it is therefore of the highest importance to have some sound principle of guidance in the use of these higher faculties as they begin to manifest.

— From The Hidden Power

Harold G. Hopper — The finest thing a man can own, is a patch of ground to call his home; It may be only fifty feet, But it's four thousand miles deep!

Silver Birch — Earthly powers may fail, kingdoms wax and wane, but the power of the spirit, because it is eternal, must endure. In the long fight, spirit must triumph over matter. Spirit is master and matter is servant. Spirit is king, matter is subject. Spirit is reality, matter is shadow. — From Two Worlds, English monthly Frithjof Schauen — Tradition speaks to each man the language he can comprehend, provided he wishes to listen. Tradition cannot become bankrupt; rather is it of the bankruptcy of man that one should speak, for it is he that has lost all intuition of the discoveries and inventions of a falsely totalitarian science, that is to say a science that does not recognise its own proper limits and for that same reason misses whatever lies beyond those limits.

— From the Journal of Studies in Comparative Religion

Kingdon L. Brown — Self-realization through sleep and dreams is the creation in your consciousness of the active powers of higher mind which you already possess.

— From The Power of Psychic Awareness

THE MARVELOUS POWER OF THE SILENCE

By Dr. Joseph Murphy

PART II.

Beverly Hills, California

IF YOU WANT to succeed in life, reject the despotic, totalitarian, authoritarian, dogmatic beliefs of your grandfather, grandmother, and the race mind, and accept only the sovereignty of the Spirit within as the Supreme Power and give cognizance to the regency and power of your own thought. This will free you from countless fears and false beliefs.

All your organs, tissues, hair, etc., grow in the silence. The ancient Chinese mystics said that they could hear the music and song of the flower as it opened its petals to the morning sun. Today, modern science with the eyes and ears of modern instruments which magnify sounds exceedingly, inform us that we are not dealing with mass and mechanics but with music and resonance. When the vibrations of an atom from your nail are so magnified, scientists hear music transcending your fondest dreams. Actually they are saying that the whole universe is a song of God.

"Closer is He than breathing, nearer is He than hands and feet." In Him we live, move, and have our being, and God lives, moves, and has His being in us.

Feel your oneness with God — this will be the fuel that fires your imagination, lights the torch of inspiration and gives vitality to your imagination in the workshop of God. Form mental images of conditions desired. Back up your images with faith and confidence, and you will experience them on the screen of space.

If you are constantly fed by the avalanche of sights, sounds, news, and propaganda of the world, you will become a prisoner of your five senses. Periodically withdraw, shut the door of your senses, and claim that God guides you, directs you, vitalizes you, and inspires you. Then begin to think, speak, and act from the Divine Center, and you will be replenished and recharged spiritually, mentally, and physically. The best way in the world to recharge your batteries is to get in tune with the Infinite and feel His Power, love, and wisdom flowing through you.

A young doctor told me that as he studied the pathology of diseases he contracted several of the conditions he had studied. He realized that he was involved constantly in morbid images and that his mind created what he feared. On realizing the cause of his predicament, however, he reversed the situation and recognized that all diseases were due to distorted mental patterns on the part of patients. He began to contemplate the perfect pattern of harmony, health, and peace. As he looked at the negative condition, he contemplated wholeness, beauty, and perfection. He began to see the Presence of God in all patients, and he thereby became immunized against all diseases. He received the Divine antibody and became God intoxicated, and he is now leading a charmed life. He goes into contagious wards, visits psychotic patients, and is completely immune to such negative conditions.

Practice the silence daily by removing your attention from your problems, and by focusing all your attention, love, and devotion on what you do want. As you do this all the power of the Godhead will flow to that focal point of attention. This is touching the hem of the garment. (to be continued)

17. Basic knowledge to teach is: you are Spirit in expression. All works to this end.
18. If reminded of a fault or weak spot, correct it. All men are to become Christed through cleansing their mortal expression.
19. Your own personal Self-growth, Self-analysis, and Self-realization are secondary in the Hierarchal plan to the awakening and raising of the entire race into Christ consciousness.
20. Be concerned with the total overall goal for race upliftment and evolution. Stick not to any personal schedule or cycle, or any single prediction or prophecy of your own.
21. Only through mankind can Earth be resurrected, re-formed and raised into the fourth dimension.
22. The Mark-Age period and program is a cleansing of Earth. Work with this fire. The end product of peace, love and brotherhood occurs after this step.
23. Present only spiritual instructions. Cross out mortal ideas and replace them with spiritual law and Divine will and energy.
24. You already are Christs. This is not fully expressed, however, until you burn off all your mortal desires, questions and functions and then live only the spiritual will.
25. Love the person or situation as you desire it to become. Be love in action.
26. Love is the key. Love is the transformer which makes us gods. Through mankind, all lesser forms on Earth shall be transmuted also.
27. There are five parts to the Mass Educational Program which is to be completed by 1985:
  - (a) Release all hidden documents;
  - (b) Release hidden techniques for cleansings;
  - (c) Present simple and accurate methods for spiritual unfoldment and realizations;

(d) Release information as to symbols or records lost and as to man's history on Earth and this solar system;

(e) Release scientific apparatus so man can find the lost keys to spiritual-scientific principles of the universe.

28. Do your part. Be part of the team which links Light and truth on all levels.
29. Mankind is the object of all efforts by all Light workers. No life is left untouched, no mind left unheralded, no love nature without a quickening of Spirit from within.
30. For the remainder of this century radiate through prayer and meditation and decree that all unawakened on Earth be touched by the moving of Spirit.
31. The last four phases of the seventh veil will bring conscious application, willing cooperation and concerted action by Light workers in full Christ consciousness and powers.
32. Do not be concerned with how hundreds and thousands can come into Christhood. Be concerned only with your own personal and conscious applications and with those who work in the same way and with the same understanding. Cooperate and coordinate with those.

Further instructions to Light workers are contained in the Mark-Age publication, *Externalization of the Hierarchal Board**, which read in part:

Upon receiving the initiation which occurs with the rending of the third phase of the seventh veil, your place will not be as passive co-workers in this administration of God's will upon the Earth. You always will be co-workers with the Divine energy that is within you, for you can never supersede that which is part of the Divine energy and the Divine consciousness and the Divine will. You no longer will be passive partners, but very active initiators in the mass consciousness. It is for this that I have come to prepare you at this time.

Your will and your way in this program and plan are God's first. Therefore you are safe in initiating whatever jobs must be done when the time comes and the rightful heritage befalls your immediate responsibility and function.

. . . Within a short period of time you must begin to enact that which you have been born to do, each in his own individual way.

You who are the elect and who are to bring about the final phase of the rending of the third phase of the seventh veil, you are cautioned to be ever more still within, to be ever more pure in every instant of your dedication and livelihood. You are given unto the Earth by the Father within; and unto the Father you owe allegiance, and only unto the Father. If you truly can live this life and demonstrate this technique unto mankind upon the planet in these latter days of the rending of the seventh veil, you will have fulfilled all that you have promised unto God, unto the Hierarchy and unto your own higher Selves before taking on a personality form in this present dimension.

WHAT IS THE ANTI-CHRIST?

If people, as a whole, subscribed to Principles rather than Personalities, we would go far on the road to perfection. Jesus, the man, was a Personality and is worshipped as such. This is against His teachings, expressed vividly in His statement, "I do nothing myself. It is the Father within me that doeth the works." When he mentioned the Christ, he was not vainly saying he was the Christ. He stated emphatically that his form was enveloped by this Christ Ray that emits directly from God.

God is within you, the scriptures state. To the extent it operates depends on your acceptance of the Christ Ray, which is a direct connection to God. This is a Principle, rather than a Personality.

IF YOU ARE one of the millions of arthritis victims, or if a friend or someone in your family suffers from an arthritic disease, this book can bring new hope into your life. Arthritis is officially considered to be an intractable and almost incurable malady. The most widely accepted treatments, at best, are long-term and slow to bring results. At worst, they are pointless or even harmful. Despite the almost universally pessimistic attitude toward the disease, however, the author of this book, Dr. Bernard Aschner, maintains that arthritis really CAN BE CURED, that painful, prolonged suffering CAN BE ELIMINATED, and that incapacitated persons CAN RETURN to active, useful occupations.

In clear, easy-to-understand language Dr. Aschner tells exactly HOW this may be done, why much publicized wonder drugs have failed, why diet alone cannot cure arthritis, why oil treatments often are ineffective, why the majority of operations are unnecessary, and why he uses the methods he prescribes to cure permanently patients that other physicians have given up as hopeless.

By Dr. Joseph Murphy
Beverly Hills, California

The kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls: Who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

— Matthew 13:45-46

THERE IS an old fable about the hen and the pearls. The "pearl of great price" is the awareness of the Presence and Power of God within you. You are told in the Bible to sell all false knowledge, false notions, and false beliefs and buy the conviction of the One Power and Presence within you: the Living Spirit Almighty.

A string of pearls on a woman's neck represents thoughts of wisdom, truth, and beauty. An Irish woman, who had a bracelet of pearls, was feeding some hens when her bracelet broke — and the pearls were mixed with the grains of wheat. The hens disregarded the pearls and ate the grains of wheat. From our standpoint, the hens did not appreciate true values. Obviously, the pearls were of no value to the hens and probably would create indigestion. To the hens, wheat was more precious than pearls.

Do you value the trinkets of life more than you value the awareness of the One Power and One Cause in the midst of all phenomena? Sell all false beliefs and buy this as the greatest of all Truths!

Regardless of the extent of your problems, Dr. Murphy can demonstrate to you how Cosmic Power can be used to produce any thing or condition your desire. Read his book Cosmic Power Within You and see for yourself what can be done.

But there was no need to continue. Rex's secretary was ahead of him. She had attended to all those details while he was at the luncheon. When Rex asked, "What were you doing, reading my mind?" his secretary replied, "Not exactly, I was reading your doodles." With that, she showed Rex a large pad on which he'd been doodling all during that hour and a half on phone calls. It was covered with funny drawings, curlicues, tick-tack-toe diagrams, and so forth, but squeezed in among them were written statements, so tiny that Rex hardly could believe that the writing was his own, saying, "Send off claim forms" — "Phone for rate book" — "Make out rider" — and all the rest.

That was automatic writing, in a true sense. While Rex's outer mind had been concerned with that series of phone calls, his inner mind had been working on other things which did not crop up as conscious thoughts until later.

You can do the same by noting and expanding whatever comes within range of your inner power; not just doodles, but any fleeting impressions or flashes of inspiration. By remembering and recording these, you will soon be past the preliminary stage of receiving automatic messages for possibly great benefits.

How To Gain Proof Of Psychic Factors Through Outward Physical Action

The case just cited shows how a trivial physical action can prove that inner expression is taking outward form. The next step is to encourage it further; so if you doodle, keep it up. That is, provided your doodles mean something. If not, you may find that you can turn them into something better, using them as a springboard toward full-fledged automatic writing.

Many doodlers become annoyed and try to break the habit, just as others try to dismiss their daydreams, but they shouldn't. They may be stifling an inner force as potent as the steam which kept raising lids of tea kettles until it gave somebody the idea that it could be used to drive things like locomotives.

The foregoing lesson is based on excerpts from The Mystic and Occult Arts by W. & L. Gibson, a book that contains methods and techniques that can help you develop your own inner powers — a new Chimes book selection.

Silence is in truth the attribute of God, and those who seek Him from that side invariably learn that meditation is not the dream but the reality of life; not its illusion but its truth; not its weakness but its strength.

— James Martineau

the strength of the emotions originally expresses. Quiet, placid, peaceful lives do not impress surroundings very deeply. There are few who can read such impressed emotions clearly, and fewer yet who can recognize them for what they are and not fall prey to them.

One of the largest cities in the world was at one time a breeding ground for large hordes of monstrous prehistoric animals. The excitement of mating and the battles for survival and for domination of bands of roving animals have left an indelible mark on these surroundings.

If there are maleficent influences in an area, human beings can exorcise them once they are recognized. This was the foundation of what was known as witchcraft during the Middle Ages. For a fee, sensitives would exorcise areas or the surroundings of a person. Those who could do this eventually were considered witches and evil themselves. This was usually not the case. If there is ever a time when large bands of people roam without communications or religious guidance, then witchcraft again will come into being. Sensitives are not needed in areas where normal emotions prevail and communication are good.

When the Reformation began the men who were slaughtered to make way for the newer schools of thought, or to preserve the old, were cast into the spirit world full of violent prejudices and biases. Almost at once they rushed to the side of those still engaged in the work. Then began an era of savage conflict, each party or element backed up by implacable or resolute forces in the astral. It took years to solve the violence of the conflict, and many took part in the turmoil before it was resolved.

You might be surprised how potent and widespread entity influence has become from feeding on violence and negation spawned by man's misdirected emotions.

Only does it become personal when accepted within your own being.

If Christ exists within you, then the Anti-Christ also exists within you. It is expressed in a personal sense through individuals who act in defiance of the Cosmic Law. It is the direct and primary cause of the chaos in the world today. Always look within. There you will find your most dangerous enemy or your Greatest Advisor. The enemy is the Anti-Christ — the Advisor, the Christ. You alone may choose which will rule.

on how you bear your experiences as to how many times it will be necessary for you to return to the Earth plane.

Keep happiness and harmony in your life . . . no matter what comes, no matter how difficult life's lessons may be. Take it all in your stride with joy in your heart. Greater happiness will come after. We of the Great White Brotherhood assure you of our love and our help in whatever way you need it. The Great White Brotherhood from the higher side of life desires to be of service to you and all others. To you who will link up ever more closely to us, we express again . . . Just call! Just ask us!

There are many loved ones who have passed on who are looking over your shoulder right now, reading the words of these pages. There is no reason, with added spiritual enlightenment, why you should not link with them, why you should not have communion with your loved ones occasionally on the other side of life. One day that will come. In ages gone by there was no division between the planes of consciousness as there is now. Then there was a linking up whenever it was needed or sought. The way humanity lives now, the way men think and act, this gift has been shut off — except in rare cases. A veil has been drawn which shuts off this world from the spiritual planes. When you are able to raise your consciousness through prayer and meditation in service to others, there is no reason why you should not be able to see and commune with those whom you love who have left the Earth for other realms of service. It gives great joy to those who have gone on to link up with their loved ones on the Earth plane. You may help one another in many ways as you would as if they were still on Earth. At present this is a special gift, an extra gift, which comes to just a few. However, it is a gift that can be acquired by ALL. It is a spiritual gift, and, regarded as a spiritual gift, it can be of great service and assistance to many. For those in sorrow who feel their dear one has gone on to some remote world far away, where there is no communion possible, it is a great release and joy to have a word from or with someone they love. Your loved ones who have gone on

WHO SAID IT ?

Manly P. Hall said it in his book, Self-Unfoldment.

A prolific writer on metaphysical and occult subjects, here he instructs the reader on how disciplined thinking and feeling can develop REALIZATION. Mr. Hall also teaches how to develop the inward perceptions that release and perfect the higher senses and ideals that give one mastery over all circumstances in life, enrich one's daily living, and bring a realization of the INNER YOU.

RECONSTRUCTION WORK ON EARTH

are NOT far away; they are right here. This Earth, and certain spheres of the other realms, interpenetrate one another all the time. These two worlds are near together, not far apart. They are simply on different vibratory rates, but everyone can learn to raise his consciousness to a higher vibration and commune with his dear ones. Certainly communion can be had with the Master also — when you are ready. It is spiritual enlightenment — spiritual unfoldment — that is needed — that is all. In your daily meditation, when you contact the Voice within, you enter the Temple not made with hands. It is then you learn to commune with those on other spheres of consciousness.

dignity. When men once knew Jesus, they were possessed with the urge to share Him with their friends. They wanted all the world to know Him.

When the later persecutions finally scattered the apostles from Jerusalem, Andrew journeyed from Armenia, Asia Minor and Macedonia. After bringing many thousands into the kingdom, he finally was apprehended and crucified in Patrae in Achaia. It was two full days before this robust man expired on the cross. Throughout those tragic hours, he continued effectively to proclaim the glad tidings of salvation of Heaven.

It is eloquent testimony to the charm and righteousness of Jesus' Earth life that, although He repeatedly dashed to pieces the hopes of His apostles and tore to shreds their ambitions for personal exaltation, only one deserted Him.

The apostles learned from Jesus about the kingdom of Heaven. Jesus learned much from them about the kingdom of men, human nature as it is lived on Urantia (Earth), and on the other evolving worlds of time and space.

100 lessons, available one lesson at a time, or in groups of five, are in the process of preparation for all who desire them, the first five of which are available immediately.

In Lost Books of the Bible we can examine the books of the Scriptures, and then read those scriptures which have been eliminated by various councils in order to make up our standard Bible. It is safe to say that a comparison of the accepted books with those rejected may be relied upon, for those books which were accepted are far superior in value to the others. These others which are included in the Lost Books of the Bible comprise all kinds of stories, tales and myths.

Suppressed by the early Church Fathers who compiled the Bible, these Apocryphal Books have for centuries remained shrouded in silence.

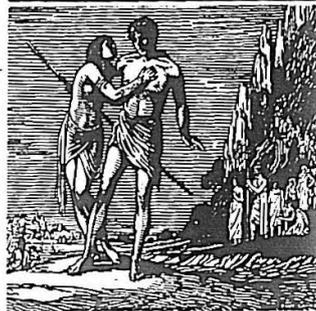

Now all the mystery and prudery have been stripped away, and the hidden beauties of the Lost Books stand revealed. The Story of Joseph and Potiphar's Wife, of Adam and Eve, of the Girlhood and Betrothal of Mary, of the Boyhood of Jesus, in all their warmth and intimacy and humanness glow brightly in the clear white light of truth.

Many people do not understand that The Bible is not a book written by a single person, but it is a library of several books which were composed by various people in various countries. It is interesting to know how this library grew and upon what principle some books were accepted and some rejected.

Of course we may take people's word for the reasons why certain books were chosen, but it is always satisfactory to come to our conclusions by examining our own evidence.

The lost books of Thousands of people today look to the New Testament narrative as their leader and guide. It is important to know upon what authority this rests, and many a man will be delighted to find the evidence thus clearly presented before him. The Lost Books of the Bible present all sorts of matter before the curious eye. There are stories about Mary and instances of her personal life. There are other stories about the boyhood of Jesus and instances about His crucifixion. All of these become important because of the central figure about whom they resolve, Jesus.

This book will be enlightening and do much good because it takes away the veil of secrecy that has hidden for many years the act of the church in accepting certain Scriptures and rejecting others.
