NOTICE.

This number completes the First Volume of this Journal, and it is consequently accompanied with an Index. The commendations of the course we have pursued in conducting it, from many of the most distinguished men of the profession, who have become tired and ashamed of the old visionary theories and practice of the schools, and the patronage which has been extended to it, has encouraged us to publish another Volume, quarterly, the first number of which will be out on the First of January next.

The introduction of the Rotary Magnetic Machine, in the duodynamic treatment of diseases, has marked a new era in the practice of physic and surgery. We have sold more than a hundred of these machines to physicians during the last three months, and we shall be pleased to receive from those who are using them, any information that may be new and useful in the use of these instruments, for the next and succeeding numbers.

H. H. SHERWOOD, M. D.
