Second of the five photographs by Cologne newspaper. The legend reads in Translation: "A great surprise; only 70 cm. high is this man from Mars. The war Department declares; 'It is not proven that he comes from Mars, but it is positive that he came from one of the planets of our solar system or a neighboring star.'"

Once again, BSRA does not guarantee these photographs, or that the War Department made the statement attributed to it - and certainly would not agree with such a statement if it were made. The BSR Director, however, is personally convinced that disc-shaped craft, with their operators, have made a number of landings, some of them accidental and others safely and purposely, and under these circumstances the photographs here reproduced are not to be too hastily discredited. It is probably a mistake, too, to assume that the operators of these 'Discs' and other etheric craft are all alike in size and appearance, or that all the craft are alike or come for the same purposes. The phenomena are constantly increasing in variety, and there is reason to think they will become very frequent and familiar sights to everyone.

United Press in the Newburg News gave us a write-up in May on the Editorial page. ---Philadelphia Daily News, June 3, 1955, one column was devoted towards the Flying Saucers in which our editor, Dr. Gilbert N. Holloway and Dr. Howard Brenton McDonald, received honorable mention.

Coming into our office by way of verbal reports so far The Soviet Union is supposed to be trying to contact the flying saucers as of now and are anxious to communicate with the interplanetary visitors. We wish the comrades good luck in their venture if it is true and trust that they will consider the messages, when received from the saucer men, with respect and use their good judgement in the cause for peace.

The latest thing in flying saucers is now an apparatus used for sled riding. Available from Shwartz Toy Shop, 58th or 59th St. & 5th Ave., N.Y.C. Sphere We Go Again; It's Flying Saucer Season

TV Technician Takes Pictures

The flying saucer season, usually as unpredictable as an oboe player's moods, has arrived in New York at last.

So quietly, Inde e. c. did the season arrive—Sunday, May 15, at 4 p.m., if you're interested in making a note of the time—that it might well have gone unnoticed had it not been for the alertness of a young television technician named Warren Siegmond and an attractive French girl, who as it turned out—well, there's no point in going into that.

What happened was simply this: Mr. Siegmond rented an English reflex-type camera for $1.25 on May 13 and bought two rolls of films to make pictures of the attractive French girl, whose name is Jeannine Bouiller and who works for the French Government Tourist Office.

Taking Pictures on Roof.

On the Sunday afternoon when the flying saucer season opened they were in Mr. Siegmond's apartment at 7 W. 15th St. when he suddenly said the only decent place to take pictures was on the roof. Up they go. Mr. Siegmond began making pictures of Miss Bouiller, he clicking, she smiling, when she gasped and cried out, at the same time pointing.

There in the skies above the familiar water tanks, grimy roofs and angular structures of the Union Square neighborhood was a spherical object without markings. It moved rapidly. Obviously it was in the hands of a skillful pilot, and a daring one, moreover, since the risks of saucer flying in the Union Square area are so well known. (Apparently familiar with police regulations against low flying, the pilot kept well above the legal limits, indicating to Mr. Siegmond that he was a disciplined flier.)

Film Developed.

Mr. Siegmond, himself a well-disciplined young man—he served from 1943 to 1945 as a gunner in an anti-aircraft battalion in England—shifted his camera quickly and began taking pictures. The strange aircraft wheeled, its sharp metallic glitter faded, it became a blur and vanished.

Dazed but gallant, Mr. Siegmond helped Miss Bouiller downstairs and had the film developed at a drugstore. Then he brought the negatives to the World-Telegram and Sun.

The pictures were shown to an Air Force officer familiar with the inquiry into flying saucer reports. "Whatever it was, it was moving," he said cryptically. Moreover, that was all he'd say.

To get a less austere reaction, a W-T & Sun reporter showed the pictures to Mrs. Margaret Rigberg, president of the Flying Saucer News Club, an organization of people who watch the skies for flying saucers.

Mrs. Rigberg runs a little bookshop at 1597 Third Ave. where books on metaphysics, occultism and spiritualism are prominently displayed.

Mrs. Rigberg looked at Mr. Siegmond's pictures and said, "Ah-h-h." Of course, they weren't the first photos of flying ships she has seen. Man over in New Jersey has some; sells them at $1 each.

As the owner of the largest bookstore to deal in flying saucer material, Mrs. Rigberg spoke with authority. Her husband is vice president of the club. Mrs. Rigberg has never seen a flying saucer, probably because she is too busy with her books.

But her husband saw one

last month. About 6 in the evening as he was leaving a small eatery where he works as a daytime counterman. (This would place the arrival of the season earlier than May 15, but Mrs. Rigberg didn't care. Let somebody else claim the credit if he wants to.)

LOS ANGELES-DANA HOWARD REPORTS

"Now comes the most fantastic of all. Last night at 7:00 o'clock P.M., a flying saucer was seen hovering low practically over my home. It was spotted by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Merrick of Desert Hot Springs (where I actually live a rural health resort ten miles from Palm Springs). They watched it for a few minutes absolutely fascinated--for it was completely stationary for a few moments. Mr. Merrick, who is a member of the Desert Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce, (and reliable citizen), said the front part was a brilliant red, like a fire ball--the rest of it, blue-green. When it started to move it went like a streaked lightning--and while he and his wife were watching it, it vanished into thin air."

... it wheeled soundlessly, became a blur and vanished.

LOS ANGELES TIMES*Friday morning, May 30, 1955. There were flying discs reported in the foothill area. A Pasadena police Lt. stated that he could see flying objects changing formation.....

NEW TREND ON SPACE TRAVEL

By Max B. Miller
Cont'd from last issue

The present conception of rocket travel is the utilization of a chemical bi-fuel system (presently considered is Hydrazine and Nitric Acid).

It is believed by the group exploiting this method of interplanetary flight that may prove itself more desirable. To date, however, there is no indication as to just how this can be accomplished.

FLYING SAUCER STUDY INDICATES NEW THEORY.

In the recent book, "SPACE TRAVEL" by Kenneth W. Gatland and Anthony M. Kunesch, the authors state, in the final chapter, that even the stars are considered as possible destinations for future space ships. It would require more than 130,000 years to reach the nearest star with a chemical rocket, it is claimed, but an atomic one might need only 350 years.

Since Flying Saucers (or Unidentified Flying Objects-UFO's-as they are now popularly termed) were widely sighted in 1947, those who were open-minded enough to consider their existence began to wonder what propulsive power they may use.

After many years of research the present consensus of scientific minds at work on the subject indicate that the greatest possibility is that of an electro-gravitational force-or, sometimes shortened to G-field. The reported changing color in sightings, tremendous speed, shape (a circular airfoil would seem to have definite advantages), lack of visible means of propulsion, rapid acceleration and right-angle turns while traveling at thousands of miles per hour, all seem to indicate this.

SAVANTS DECLARE VIEWS

Professor Hermann Oberth, world famous German mathematician and rocket authority, told the International Astronautical Congress at Innsbruck, Germany, August 1954, that he not only believed in the existence of Flying Saucers, but also was convinced that they are extraterrestrial.

He added that the behavior of flying saucers ruled out any means of propulsion known to us, and certainly rocket propulsion. A possible explanation he declared, was the use of an "Anti-gravity device."

This remarkable book has sold over 65,000 copies in America in its first year of publication. Nor is this surprising. For the key part of this book is the first widely accepted story of a meeting of a man from this planet with a man from another planet who had come here by space ship.

Price $1.25

Dana Howard is terrific. She has written a good story. It is so good that we have sold as many as fifty in one day in our little book shop which is really way off the beaten path. Besides writing, Mrs. Howard also paints and in this sense we mean an artist. We have an original by Mrs. Howard on a screen. It is good! Come and see it, a real flying saucer in color. SPACE, GRAVITY AND THE FLYING SAUCERS

FLYING SAUCERS HAVE LANDED by George Adamski and Desmond Leslie, published in October 1953, speedily won a very large audience in America and England, and is now being translated into most of the European languages.

Now Leonard Cramp, a member of the Interplanetary Society of England, examines George Adamski's claims and, in particular, makes a rigorous scientific examination of the Adamski photographs of flying saucers. Cramp demonstrates why he believes the photographs to be authentic.

Cramp shows that the reports of sightings from all over the world have assumed such a definite pattern that they contain a clue to the secret of their means of flight. He develops a well thought out and original theory of space travel, based on overcoming gravity, which makes present day rocket experiments seem clumsy and old-fashioned. He began his studies

FLYING SAUCERS FROM MARS, just published by the British Book Centre includes these two photographs of Flying Saucers actually on the ground. Author Cedric Allingham estimated the total diameter at about 50 feet, and the height at about 20 feet. The portholes and landing gear are clearly shown.

FLYING SAUCER FROM MARS

Cedric Allingham, author of this new book, is no mystic but a trained scientific observer with considerable astronomical knowledge. He claims that in February, 1954, he saw a flying saucer land in North Scotland, and not only photographed it from close range but made direct contact with its occupant, who indicated that he came from the planet Mars. Mr. Allingham's description is fully confirmed by an independent witness, James Duncan.

This book has been written not as a sensational story but as a sober scientific document. It contains a selection of the author's remarkable and hitherto unpublished photographs.

of the problem of gravity when it became clear to him that the behavior of the flying saucer conformed to none of the methods of space propulsion advocated by his fellow members of the Interplanetary Society.

The book also contains numerous photographs and drawings by the author.

Desmond Leslie, co-author of FLYING SAUCERS HAVE LANDED, in the introduction to this book, tells the story of what has come to be known as the Coniston photographs of a flying saucer in England.
