A discussion arose on the reception of proxies, which was opposed by Bro. Rowe, as calculated to influence the election by votes of Governors, who gave from solicitation what they might withhold if present; and further, that there had not been time for a vast body of the subscribers to know even of the vacancy.

The Chairman, in reply, stated that the voting by proxy was the safer mode, as it prevented the meeting being packed.

Mr. Rodbear pointed out the absolute necessity there was, according to the bye-laws, for the votes by proxy being taken, to which Dr. Crucefix hesitated, but assented on being informed by the Secretary that on his (the Secretary's) election proxies were admitted.

Also at a General Court 12th July 1841—

Brother RODBEAR in the Chair.

The word "children" being omitted in the 36th Rule, Governors and Subscribers generally may vote by proxy at all elections.

And further, in the same publication—

Girls' School General Committee, 29th July 1841.

Election of Secretary.

The Provincial Grand Master for Sumatra in the Chair.

The ballot commenced at twelve o'clock and closed at two, when there appeared for—

Brother Crew	122
Brother Patten	86
Majority in favour of Brother Crew ...	36*

* The numbers polled were 208, but of these were probably fifty proxies, chiefly from ladies.

I am not in possession of any later particulars of Election of Secretaries beyond one recorded in the "Freemason's Magazine" for 8th June 1861.

The election of Secretary to each of these Institutions took place at the Freemasons' Tavern, when Bro. E. H. Patten P.G.S.B. was elected as Secretary to the Girls' School, and Bro. Binckes Secretary to the Boys' School.

We all know, however, that Bro. R. Wentworth Little succeeded Bro. Patten as Secretary to the Girls' School, and on the occasion of his lamented decease I, along with many other brethren, was compelled to travel, when not in the best of health, nearly 200 miles, and put to considerable expense thereby, in order to record my vote on behalf of the brother I thought at that time best suited to fulfil the duties of the office.

Brethren who had contributed liberally according to their respective means and station in life then complained strongly at the unfair position in which they were placed, and friends of another of the candidates, who had come from the South, also expressed dissatisfaction on the question.

If it was proper in 1793 and 1841 to confer this privilege, and brethren could be entrusted with it, surely we have not so retrograded as to deserve virtual disfranchisement in this manner. The fact is, London brethren are unnecessarily susceptible as to the influence of their country fraters, as I think if a vacancy was to occur to-morrow they would continue, as metropolitan brethren, to have great influence in the selection of the official, and by giving the old privilege to the country brethren the latter would feel they were properly treated, and the former would come to no harm.

Yours fraternally,

G. P. BROCKBANK.

A MASONIC MEDICAL CHARITY.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—I so entirely concur in your editorial remarks upon the proposal of a P.M. to make "Freemasonry applicable to the wants of the outer world, by affording assistance and relief" in times of sickness and suffering amongst the lower classes of humanity, that I am tempted to ask you to permit me to occupy a small portion of your valuable space with a few general observations on the question of medical relief. I trust it will be understood, that in saying what I have to say on charitable relief in times of sickness, that I have not the least desire to see a bridle put upon charity, but I do most sincerely wish to see a check put upon the vice of eleemosynary indiscriminating charity. I quite agree with "A P.M." that our Royal Masonic Institutions—for educational and other purposes to which they are devoted—are institutions that Masons may well be proud of, but I should greatly regret to see our charity extended in the direction he proposes, or have it supposed that Freemasonry is neither more nor less than a huge "benefit society," or that Freemasons desire to run-a-muck "with the outside world" in ministering to "all the ills that flesh is heir to." When, however, it is known to the brethren that in so doing they would but increase the evils with which gratuitous medical relief is at present surrounded, I feel sure this will not be the case. First, with reference to "A P.M.'s" proposal to add a new wing to the Royal Free Hospital; this our brother will I am sure be glad to hear has been done quite recently by the bountiful liberality of the public, whence all good things of the kind should emanate. The additional number of beds provided have not been occupied, and he may take it from me as a fact that the central part of this great city is already amply provided with hospital accommodation—is, indeed, said to be over-hospitaled—not more than one-half the beds of St. Thomas's Hospital are at present occupied, and the actual proportionate number of the other eight large hospitals supported by voluntary contributions, as I gather from their annual reports, must be set down as not exceeding three-fifths of the whole. The explanation of this probably is, that only fit and proper cases (accidents and emergencies at all times excepted) are admitted, after careful investigation has been made into each case. In the out-patients' departments the reverse holds good; here we find a very plethora of miscellaneous cases, all-comers obtaining without stint any amount of indiscriminate charitable relief.

Here then, our good brother will say, is an outlet for charitable help, and if a new wing is not required at the hospital let us have "a Masonic Dispensary added to the existing Charities of the Order," and we shall be showing to the outer world, "a general desire to diffuse our charity." But here I would ask him to pause, and look a little deeper into the mysteries of the out-patient growth of the hospitals and dispensaries. It is only about half a century ago that out-patients' departments sprang up in connection with hospitals. In 1830 eight of the principal hospitals, St. Bartholomew's, St. Thomas's, Guy's, the London, Middlesex, St. George's, Charing Cross, Westminster, Royal Ophthalmic, and the Hospital for Diseases of the Chest, relieved together 46,435 out-patients. In 1869, the number rose to 277,891. During that period, 39 years, the population of the metropolis had only rather more than doubled, whilst the attendances at these eight hospitals had increased more than five-fold. But it will make the rate of increase still more apparent if I mention that at the same eight hospitals there were in 1870, 43,368 more out-patients than in 1869. These eight hospitals I have chosen simply because they were in operation in 1830. If I had been minded to select examples in which the increase from 1869 to 1870 had been greatest, I might have made my figures more telling, and if I had carried them on to a still later date, I might have shown that St. Bartholomew's alone relieved 137,000 cases last year, a number about equal to one-half of the whole of those relieved by the eight hospitals enumerated in 1869. Suffice it to say that, in round numbers, at the present time it is fairly estimated that one out of every four persons of the whole population of London, receive gratuitous medical relief. The enormous number of one million out of the four million inhabitants, and this, be it remembered, is quite irrespective of an especial provision made at the cost of the ratepayers to provide for the sick poor, and mostly of the pauper class,—with the exception of those suffering from infectious diseases,—at a very considerable outlay. During the last fifteen years, the various parishes have built and provided I know not how many dispensaries and palatial hospitals for the really indigent poor, where they may at all times and seasons obtain the best medical and surgical advice as a matter of right, and simply by asking for it. To what cause, then, must we attribute the rapid and unhealthy growth of the out-patient departments? simply to a desire on the part of hospital managers to outbid each other in touting for public support. Hospital authorities believe that an appeal, couched upon the thousands of patients relieved, will be more successful to extract money from the pockets of the benevolent than it otherwise would if sensationalism were entirely suppressed. The chairman of the Metropolitan Royal Free Hospital, when appealed to by a deputation of gentlemen desirous of putting a stop to the abuse of hospitals, said, "The difficulty of limiting the numbers was, that the institution was free, and its doors are open to all comers, and it based its grounds of support upon the fact that it relieved 78,000 persons a-year. That although the greater part of these patients only had a single minute of the medical officer's time, it should be remembered that the bulk of the cases were probably unimportant, and would occupy little time, for people with little ailments came, and the more important cases were few in number." This may be taken as an average specimen of the kind of argument generally put forth by hospital managers when asked to try some scheme which shall bring about hospital out-patients reform.

It is quite out of the question to believe that the bulk of the patients partaking of relief at our hospitals and dispensaries are fit and proper objects of charity. In truth they are not; at a moderate estimate fully two-thirds of them are in a position to make a payment for the great benefits they receive. If only an effort were made to discover them, and point out the meanness of obtaining charitable relief under false pretences, they would at once do so, I am quite sure. I cannot think so meanly of the artisan class as to believe that if it were explained to them that the charity was solely intended to relieve the really indigent, they would ask for gratuitous advice and take away a bottle of medicine without paying for it. The skilled artisan class is rapidly moving into independence and into political importance; it has become more self-reliant and prepared to meet the incidence of sickness, one of those contingencies of life to which we are all alike exposed, and which it is as necessary to provide against as fire, or any other calamity common to our humanity. The average amount of sickness is uniform, and although it cannot be so exactly estimated as that of the average number of deaths at a given period of life, nevertheless a fairly accurate estimate can be made of the amount of sickness which is likely to occur in a given number of persons of known ages, occupations, and conditions. That calculations of sickness cannot be based on such precise laws as those of death, are due to the simple fact that death is an absolute reality, and can be weighed accordingly, while sickness is, more or less, a matter of degree and opinion. Furthermore, no one can attempt to deceive in the case of death, but, in the case of sickness, there may be many reasons which will induce one person to think more seriously of his own ailment than his neighbour will do. Nevertheless, with proper supervision, it is perfectly true that the average per centage of persons who will be visited with illness may be calculated upon in advance from year to year. Hence, then, we have a means by which the wage earning classes, and those who cannot afford to incur a doctor's bill may exercise thrift and show themselves as above partaking of the doles of charity, for it must be a very small minority of them who are unable to pay eight or ten shillings a year to enrol themselves members of a Provident Dispensary. That the great body of artisans are well able to make provision against sickness may be gathered from what has been repeatedly stated by one who is looked upon as the poor man's friend. Lord Shaftesbury has carefully ascertained that the aggregate receipts of the wage-earning classes of this country amount to no less a sum than £1,000,000 per annum, and that of this sum at least one-quarter is expended upon beer, tobacco, and things that could easily be dispensed with. This fully shows that they can, if they will, perform a duty to themselves and their families in providing medical relief in all ordinary cases of sickness.

It is perfectly clear, however, that something should and must be done to put a stop to the great abuse of medical charity. The evils inseparable from the out patients' department must be met by an appeal to the good sense and justice of those who so thoughtlessly run to them on every trifling illness. It should be clearly understood, also, that while the medical officers are quite prepared and willing to do a certain amount of work out of pure benevolence, and from the same feelings that lead the public to give their money to support hospitals and dispensaries, that it is impolitic and contrary to common sense to call upon them to render arduous services in the cause of charity and give gratuitous surgical and medical advice indiscriminately and to all comers. I refer to this because it is not so generally known as it should be that those who perform all the hard work of hospitals receive no remuneration whatever for their valuable services. I sincerely trust, therefore, that "A P.M." will not waste his energies in an endeavour to set on foot a new Masonic Dispensary, unless it be one on the Provident principle. He may confidently afford encouragement to this system, which is a right one, founded on the principle of mutual assurance. At the present time, however, most of those in operation about London are conducted partly on a commercial footing, and partly on that of mutual assurance. This arises from the fact that scarcely one of them are yet able to pay their way and compete successfully against the free hospitals and dispensaries. Indeed, it is scarcely in human nature to suppose that either the artisan class or "the lower class of humanity" shall voluntarily offer to pay for that which they can so easily attain for nothing.

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

JABEZ HOGG.

THINGS ONE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Since sending my last communication I have received my Girls' School voting paper, and have carefully gone through the list of candidates for the purpose of testing the manner in which the London Masonic Charity Association has carried out its frequently expressed intention of selecting such cases for its organised support as were friendless or deserted. Of the six cases enumerated in their circular one is a second and last application, with 546 votes recorded at the previous election, two are third applications with 557 and 194 votes brought forward, two are second applications with 75 and 15 votes polled in April last, and one is a new case. Of the foregoing two can in no sense be considered either friendless or deserted, why, then, were they chosen for recommendation to the exclusion of a similar number of the three other last applications which are left by the Association unrecognised and unaided? Fortunately two of them have high numbers standing to their credit, namely, 646 and 459, but Ada Hodgson, No. 46 on the list, must succeed at the ensuing election, or her only parent, her mother, must bear the burden of her education and sustenance in addition to that entailed by the maintenance of four other dependent children, until time or circumstances release her from the obligation. I am bound to admit that the three last applications not recommended are from the provinces; I refer to their omission as, in my opinion, evidencing a spirit of antagonism to such cases as are not recommended by London Lodges in forgetfulness of the fact that many of them are provincial only in the Masonic identity of the father, Metropolitan as regards his initiation.

The Association should, in order to maintain its philanthropical character announce to the Craft its reason for this change of front, and that soon; meanwhile subscribers desirous of assisting the cause of either of the recommending cases can fill in their proxies before transmitting them to either the Secretary of the Association, or the Secretary of the particular institution.

Yours fraternally,

QUERIST.

"UNIFORMITY OF WORKING;" AND "WHICH IS CORRECT?"

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As you are personally aware, my time has been so much taken up lately in the preparation and completion of the work "Uniformity of Masonic Ritual and Observance," that I have been unable to continue my letters on the several diversities of formulæ which have attracted my attention, and which will be discussed in continuation of the correspondence under the heading of "Which is Correct?" I shall now soon be enabled to resume the subject, as, to my very great satisfaction, my book is before the Masonic public, and can be obtained by them either through the Tylers of their several Lodges, or, in the ordinary manner, of all booksellers.

I take this opportunity to thank most heartily those brethren who, by their kind support, have secured the private disposal of nearly the whole of the first edition (1,000 copies), before even the date of publication, and even more especially those of our Order who have made the work as profitable to me as I hope it may prove to themselves by advertising therein. Hitherto, as I have been led to understand, Masonic publications generally have been considered most unprofitable undertakings, and the support which would have been frequently given by those who would otherwise gladly advertise their wares or business in such works has been withheld in consequence of the disinclination to have reflections cast on them for,—as the term goes,—"trading on Masonry." I cannot see that any public announcement of a man's business address, and the trade he carries on, in whatever respectable publication it may appear, should subject him to any imputation; nor why, because he happens to be a Mason, he should be precluded from bringing himself under the notice of others connected with the Masonic body.

However, as will be seen, many of my Masonic friends have no such scruples, and consequently they have made my work a successful and profitable venture, for which I heartily thank them, and am quite prepared, in return for their assent to my solicitation, to bear any reflections which may be cast on either themselves or myself as "traders on Masonry." I present the shield of common sense against any such attacks, should they be made, and from the standpoint of success declare that it is better for myself, and I hope for the Craft generally, that the book is published and being thoroughly well circulated, because of their hearty and liberal support, than that I should have failed in producing it on the score of too great a cost.

It is to be hoped that at least all the members of Grand Lodge, Masters, Past Masters, and Wardens, will make themselves conversant with the contents of the work without delay, for it is my intention to raise the question of "Uniformity" at the ensuing Quarterly Communication by notice of motion in the prescribed legal manner.

A second edition will at once be issued, and meanwhile I can, as also can you, receive the names of subscribers. The advertisement of the book will be found elsewhere in your columns.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

JAMES STEVENS.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

—:o:—

Lodge of Loyalty, No. 1607.—It has frequently been remarked—Where you find a good Master, you may look for a prosperous Lodge. We are prepared to endorse this statement, and to it we will add,—Where such a state of things prevails year after year, you may look further, and it will be recognised that the brethren who comprise the Lodge so favourably circumstanced are not unmindful of the claims of those upon whom the hand of misfortune or calamity has fallen more or less heavily. The Lodge of Loyalty was consecrated in May 1876, and its first W.M., Brother John Newton, is a Mason well known for his skill in the science, and equally well known as a firm and consistent supporter of our Institutions. After a singularly prosperous year he was succeeded by Brother Frederick Brown, who ably continued the work his predecessor had happily inaugurated. The third W.M. who graced the chair was Bro. C. H. Webb, and he, on Saturday last, brought the labours of a most successful year to a close by installing as his successor Bro. Chas. J. Perceval. We had the pleasure of attending this Lodge on the day of its consecration, on which occasion Bro. Perceval was appointed Senior Deacon. Moreover, he is well known to our readers, not only in connection with this Lodge, but also in association with Sincerity, No. 174, from the ranks of which the Lodge of Loyalty may trace its origin. Bro. Perceval, we understand, has been twenty-six years a Mason, and brings to bear upon his labours great experience, derived from an activity he has displayed in all questions that have been brought under the notice of the Craft, not only in this country but abroad, where he has spent the greater portion of his time. This fact called forth some expressions of surprise that he had not earlier attained the post of honour. Still, though not able to fix the much coveted letters P.M. to his name, he has for a considerable period been qualified as a Vice-President of each of our Institutions, and we trust will long continue the yeoman service he still so favours on behalf of our great Charities. The brethren assembled at headquarters, the Alexandra Palace, Muswell Hill, at three o'clock, and at 3.15 Lodge was opened by the W.M. Bro. C. H. Webb. There was a large attendance, and among the Visitors were:—Bros. Col. John Creaton Grand Treas., R. H. Blatchford W.M. 1196, E. W. Braine P.M. 1471, J. Miller 174, Jas. Freeman W.M. 1426, John G. Stevens P.M. 554, Thomas Hamer S.D. 1426, A. E. Gladwell J.W. 172, Wm. Musto P.M. 1349, G. H. Stephens 1623, Thomas J. Barnes P.M. 933, F. Brener 205, Charles Searell P.M. 1382, G. T. H. Seddon W.M. 174, Thomas Slaiter 804, E. C. Massey P.M. 1297, Charles Lacey P.G.D. Herts, J. Egan P.M. 453, G. C. Coles, W. D. Hodges 1287, F. R. W. Hedges Sec. R.M.I.G., Henry Corlett 620 I.C., F. Binckes P.G.S. Sec. R.M.I.B., W. D'Oyley 1457, M. L. R. Duquenoy 72, T. J. Maidwell P.M. 27. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed, and then the auditors presented their report, which was unanimously adopted. Bro. Webb now addressed his immediate Past Master, Bro. Frederick Brown, and begged his acceptance of a Past Master's collar with insignia, in recognition of the kind assistance he had given him during his term of office, more particularly at a time when other duties pressed on him. This unexpected gift having been suitably acknowledged, Bro. Webb signified his readiness to proceed with the ceremony of the day; accordingly, Bro. James Terry, acting as Director of Ceremonies, introduced Bro. Perceval as Master elect. The Senior Warden's chair was taken by Bro. Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer, while Bro. Charles Lacey took position in the south. Bro. Perceval was presented, and duly took the obligation; a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and the ceremony proceeded. On the readmission of those below the rank of installed Master, the new W.M. was saluted, and he invested the following as Officers:—E.G. Legge P.M. S.W., E.C. Beedell J.W., F. Brown P.M. Treas., John Newton P.M. Sec., G. Knill S.D., Jones J.D., F. Carr I.G., Newham W.S., Roberts D.C., J. Very Tyler. Some routine business was transacted, and the name of a member of Lodge who had left this country for an indefinite period was transferred to the list of country subscribers. The Visitors tendered their good wishes and Lodge was closed. After a somewhat tedious "wait" banquet was served, and Bros. Bertram and Roberts must be complimented on the way in which they placed the repast upon the table. On the removal of the cloth the Loyal toasts were proposed, and were followed respectively by the National Anthem and God bless the Prince of Wales. On again rising the W.M. said, in consequence of the pressure of time he would incorporate the two next toasts. The Pro Grand Master and the Deputy Grand Master and the rest of Grand Officers. Bro. Perceval referred to the zeal displayed by the Earl of Carnarvon and Lord Skelmersdale; in their duties they were ably supported by the Grand Officers. He regretted Col. Creaton had been compelled, in consequence of illness in his domestic circle, to leave them at an earlier stage of the proceedings, this he was sure all present would regret. Without further remarks, he would offer the toast for their acceptance. After a spirited performance on the pianoforte by Bro. Seddon, Bro. Webb rose to propose the health of the W.M. He remarked that this was the first time in the course of his Masonic career that this pleasing duty had devolved upon him, but this now fell to his lot as the Immediate Past Master. Of Bro. Perceval he could speak in the highest terms of praise. It was generally known that their W.M. gave much of his time and means in aiding the cause of Freemasonry, and he felt he was giving utterance to the sentiments of his heart when he stated that under Bro. Perceval's direction the Lodge could not fail to go on and prosper. He (Bro. Webb) did not possess the gift of speech, but if he had the ability he was assured no speech of his was wanted to commend the toast to their notice. After a spirited rendering of "Hearts of Oak," by Bro. Jones, Bro. Perceval rose to reply. After such an ovation as he had been received with he hardly knew how to express his thanks He felt himself singularly fortunate in having three such Past Masters on his left, brethren who could not be excelled as Craft workers. For his Senior Warden he had secured the services of one who had already passed the Master's chair, and on whose assistance, should he require support, he would not have to look in vain. Bro. Perceval then alluded to the loss the Lodge had sustained by the death of Bro. Wyatt, but in consequence of this sad event his Junior Warden brought with him the experience he had acquired during the six months he had already filled that office. Under the existing regulations of the Lodge he was not in a position to advance Bro. Beedell to the Senior Warden's chair, though the way that brother had performed his duties fully warranted such a step. He would now say a few words about himself. Well, he had been twenty-six years a Mason, twenty-two years of which time had been spent abroad. He had never aspired to office until his return to this country; but since the date of his affiliation he had endeavoured to do his duty to the Craft, to the utmost of his ability. Two of his sons were already initiated, and had he a dozen he should like to see them taking the same course. He sincerely thanked all present for the way they had responded to the toast. The health of the Visitors was the next toast brought to the notice of the brethren. Nothing tended more to the proper conduct of business than the experience gained by visiting from Lodge to Lodge; where good work was to be seen this should be copied, and where their own was faulty, they should strive to amend it. Bro. Perceval then recapitulated the names of the Visitors present, and called on the members to honour the toast, with which he would associate the name of Bro. Binckes. Bro. Past Master Brown sang, in a spirited manner, "Welcome, ever welcome, friends," after which Bro. Binckes rose to reply. In recognising the W.M. as the energetic stage manager who had allotted him the part he was called upon to play that evening, he would venture to thank him for according him a "line" other than his own. However, in his present capacity of walking gentleman, and on behalf of the other Visitors, he would tender his best thanks for the unbounded hospitality displayed. He had been under the impression that this was not the first time the W.M. had held supreme power in a Lodge, but he found that in this assumption he had been in error. Bro. Perceval had spoken in graceful terms of the homage due to our Sovereign, and he could not help being reminded of the Prince of Wales's remarks upon the relation of loyalty and charity, when considering that in Bro. Perceval's position of Worshipful Master of the Loyalty he illustrated and exemplified the Grand Master's sentiments by becoming a Vice-President of all the Charities. However, he must not forget that he had been selected to respond for the Visitors. He sincerely thanked the W.M., the Past Masters and Officers for the goodly service they had done in the past, and trusted the Lodge of Loyalty might enjoy a long career of prosperity, and that it might never be presided over by a less worthy Master than he who now so ably filled the chair. The W.M., in proposing the health of the I.P.M., said that if Bro. Webb had felt any pleasure in proposing his health, he need scarcely say what he felt in being able to return the compliment. He would ask Brother Webb's permission to allow him to place on his breast the P.M.'s jewel; on no more sacred place could it be affixed; and he trusted it would be worn there for many years to come. Bro. Webb expressed his sincere thanks for the way in which his name had been received. He had striven to do his duty. He entertained a high opinion of the expression of goodwill displayed by the brethren, and much as he prized the jewel they had presented him with, he would rather not have received it did he think the other was lacking. If hitherto he had deserved their esteem, he trusted he should always retain it, and he would ever look back upon the happy hours he had spent in the Loyalty Lodge. With the toast of the Masonic Charities, which was the next proposed by the W.M., was associated the name of Bro. James Terry, Secretary of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. Bro. Terry tendered his thanks. It was well known to himself and his brother Secretaries what the Lodge of Loyalty were capable of doing for the Charities. They were first represented by their present Treasurer, who, Bro. Terry believed, collected over £100 on behalf of the Boys' School. Since then other members had undertaken the office of Steward, with varied success; but he considered it only necessary to refer to what Bro. Beedell, the newly-appointed J.W., had done at the last Festival of the Benevolent Institution, when a list amounting to £150 represented the contributions from the Lodge of Loyalty. He (Bro. Terry) had been present at the installation of many Masters, but he had never known a brother, before he was installed, to have qualified himself as Vice-President of all three Charities. Bro. Terry did not deem it necessary to detail what the Masonic Institutions were doing; the work they accomplished was well known to the members present. He feared the Charities would never have more money than they knew what to do with, as there would always be contingencies to absorb surplus funds, even if they should be so successful as to accumulate any. He then referred to the proposed scheme for assisting pupils after they left the Masonic Schools. He objected to the proposal, on the ground that it was demanding from the Craft more than could reasonably be expected, as many men who might subscribe to the fund would do so to the detriment of their own children. He hoped the brethren would never allow the Institutions to be placed at a disadvantage. He likewise referred to the proposal to increase the amount of the annuities, and pointed out that it might be more advantageous to increase the number of recipients rather than the amount each annuitant received. Bro. Binckes desired, after the remarks made regarding the Pupils' Assistance Fund, to state that it was not intended that the establishment of the Fund should in any way compete with the existing Charities. The Fund was intended to assist deserving pupils, and he thought it a great pity that after a boy or girl had exhibited special attainments, he or she should be unable to cultivate them for want of means. Doubtless there were as many cases in the Girls' School as there were in the Boys', where pupils had proved themselves capable of attaining a high position in life, and he considered it sad that no help could be afforded to assist in their advancement. After a song by Bro. Morgan, the health of the Past Masters was proposed from the chair, to this Bro. John Newton, the father of the Lodge and its Secretary, responded. As long as the members desired his services he would be proud to continue his exertions for the benefit of the Lodge. The toast of the Officers was acknowledged by Bro. Legge, and after a song by Bro. Giller, the Tyler closed the proceedings. In addition to those we have specially mentioned, other of the members of the Lodge exerted themselves to entertain the company. Their efforts were ably sustained by Bro. G. T. H. Seddon, whose ability as accompanyist is well known.

Royal Brunswick Lodge, No. 732.—The regular meeting of this flourishing Lodge was held on Thursday, the 11th inst., at the Royal Pavilion, Brighton, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. W. Bennett. Bros. J. Capon S.W., Dr. Hankswell J.W., Ridley P.M. Treas., H. Jenner S.D., S. Soper J.D., Histed I.G., Rose Steward; P.M.'s Alderman Davey (Mayor of Brighton), Alderman Martin, S. Solomon, Freeman P.G. Sec., G. Smith P.P.G.P., J. Reed P.P.G.D., Kidd P.P.G.D., G. Reed P.P.G.D.; Bros. C. Vaughan, Armstrong, Dash, and several others. After preliminaries, ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. T. Fowler and S. Denham, which were unanimous in their favour. A ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. G. Reeves-Smith jun., son of the popular and respected manager of the Aquarium. He was duly initiated into the Order by the W.M. Bro. Solomon effectively delivered the charge, and Bro. Dr. Hauxwell J.W. descanted on the moral teachings of the tracing board. The W.M. announced that the Provincial Grand Lodge of Sussex would be held at the Royal Pavilion on the 6th October, the R.W. W. W. Barrell Provincial Grand Master, M.P., in the chair. Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet and dessert, provided by Bros. Sayers and Marks, that gave great satisfaction. Grace having been said, the W.M. proposed the Loyal and Masonic toasts. In speaking to the toast of the R.W. the Earl of Carnarvon, Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers, he said: Since he had the honour to be W.M. he had had an opportunity of witnessing the proceedings of Grand Lodge, and how efficiently those distinguished brethren filled their various chairs, to the satisfaction of the whole Craft. This evening they had the honour of the company of a talented brother among them, Bro. Kuhe P.G.O. He is not only welcome here as a Brother, but also as a friend; all know him and all respect him. Bro. Kuhe felt a great pleasure in responding to the toast; the W.M. had eloquently spoken of the manner in which the Grand Officers performed their duties. He had great pleasure in meeting the members of the Royal Brunswick Lodge. He regretted he was unable to be present at the initiation of a son of his esteemed friend, Bro. G. Reeves-Smith. He begged to thank them for the reception of the toast. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Sir Walter Barrell, M.P., the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Prov. Grand Officers; he spoke of the able manner in which the Prov. G. Master discharged his duties and the respect he is held in in the Province. He regretted his absence from home, or he would have been with them that evening. However, they were honoured by the presence of several brethren, Provincial Grand Officers, whom they all knew; he would couple with the toast the name of Bro. Freeman P. Grand Sec. Bro. Freeman thanked the brethren for the manner he had been received; he assured them the P.G.M. fully appreciated their kindness. The Deputy G.M. is a member of this Lodge; all hoped he would soon be present, in renewed health. What Bro. Kuhe had said with regard to the Officers of Grand Lodge would equally apply to the Officers of this Province, which was a very united one. In the name of the Provincial Grand Master and Officers he begged to thank them. Bro. Alderman Davey I.P.M. would ask them, he might say, to drink the toast of the evening; that was, the health of the W.M. We generally have a Master of the Lodge whom we are proud of, and whom, like a band of brethren, we support. They had seen how ably Bro. Bennett had performed the ceremony of initiation, and in fact every duty required of him. He is competent to make the Lodge one of the best in the Province; he would ask them to give the toast the reception it merited. The W.M. thanked Bro. P.M. Davey for the kind manner in which he had spoken of him. When he undertook the duties of the chair he hoped he should have work to do; he found he had it. He was pleased to see so many brethren present, and heartily thanked them for the manner in which the toast had been received. Bro. Alderman Martin P.M. said he had permission of the W.M. to propose the next toast, and he felt great pleasure in so doing. It was the health of the Visitors, whom he was pleased to see. From his knowledge of them, he could say they had distinguished themselves in the Order, and rendered good service to the Masonic Charities; he would call on Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. 188, Dr. C. J. Smith 1446, and C. Hudson W.M. 315 to respond. Those brethren in replying, thanked the members for their kind hospitality and the great Masonic treat they had experienced in the working of the W.M. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Past Masters, each one had done his duty to the satisfaction of the Lodge. He spoke of the loss they had sustained by the death of their respected Bro. Bacon, who, twenty years ago, founded the Lodge and was its first Master. Still we have good Past Masters, all working Masons and respected. Bro. Alderman Davey P.M. responded. The W.M. then said, Lodges could scarcely go on without initiates, they are the Masters in embryo. On a former occasion he had initiated a son of Bro. Nell P.M. of the York Lodge; and to-night they were pleased to initiate the son of a Brother whose talents are appreciated by all. Bro. Geo. Reeves-Smith jun. paid great attention to the ceremony and would become a credit to the Craft. Bro. G. Reeves-Smith jun. briefly and appropriately returned thanks. He felt it an honour to have been initiated in this Lodge; he would do all in his power to merit the kind remarks of the W.M. In giving the toast of the Officers the W.M. said they were thoroughly proficient in their duties. He could congratulate himself on having such brethren to assist in carrying out the working of the Lodge. Bros. Capon S.W. and Dr. Hauxwell J.W. responded. The Tyler's toast followed, and thus a very agreeable and harmonious evening ended. Among the Visitors were Bros. C. W. Hudson W.M. 315, S.W. 1540, G. Reeves-Smith 200, Nell P.M. 315, P.P.G.P. Sussex, C. Wren P.M. 315, W. Kuhe P.G.O. P.M. 271, 1636, Newsome 1820, Godfrey 1821, C. Smith W.M. 1466, Cockburn 1466, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Royal Military Lodge, No. 1449.—A meeting was held on the 15th September, at the Masonic Hall, 38 St. Peter-street, Canterbury. Present:—Bros. Lagden W.M., Tyler S.W., Blamiers J.W., Beer P.M. Treas., Naylor Acting Sec., Vautier S.D., Price J.D., Vile 972 I.G., Ewell Tyler, also Bros. Naylor P.M., Shaxby. Visitor—Bro. Vile 972. Lodge was opened and minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Lodge was opened in second degree and the working tools explained by Bro. Lagden. Lodge was opened in third degree, and the tools explained by Bro. Lagden W.M. The lecture on the tracing board was given by Bro. Blamiers. The Lodge was then regularly closed.

Ancient Carthage Lodge, No. 1717, at Tunis.—A regular meeting of this Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Tunis, on Saturday, the 6th September, for the purpose of electing a W.M. for the ensuing year. Present—W. Bro. A. M. Broadley, Barrister-at-law, D.D.G.M. Malta, W.M.; Dr. A. Perini as S.W., G. Pentecost as J.W., M. Lambroso Secretary, A. Blanch Treasurer, Professor Souiller as D. of C., V. Finzi as S.D., V. Memmi as J.D., J. Bavotti, L. Curletto and C. Fogetta Stewards, M. Le Gallais I.G., J. Eymon Tyler, W. Bros. Barker W.M. 1835, Dr. Magnani 32°, and Professor Vais 33°, together with a very large attendance of members and visitors. A letter was read from Bro. J. H. Stevens, acting British Consul General, declining candidature for the chair of K.S., on account of his manifold official duties, and his approaching departure from Tunis. The claims of the J.W., Dr. Perini, to the honour were urged by the D.D.G.M., who explained that he himself was no longer eligible, having served for two years. Bro. Dr. A. Perini was then unanimously elected by ballot W.M. for the year 1879-80. Cavaliere A. Blanch was unanimously elected Treasurer for the ensuing year. Professor Souiller, Officier L'Academie, alluded in eloquent terms to the immense exertions of W. Bro. Broadley during his term of office, and stated the members of the different Masonic bodies under his control had determined to present him with a substantial mark of their affection and esteem before he vacated the chair of No. 1717. He called on the Secretary to read an address signed on behalf of over 100 Masons, and engrossed on vellum. Bro. Lambroso read the address as follows:—"To R.W. Bro. A. M. Broadley, P.G.M.M. Malta and Tunis, D.D.G.M.. Malta, &c. R.W. Sir and Brother:—The subscribing and honorary members of the various Masonic bodies under your rule are desirous of testifying their sense of your Masonic merits before you quit the chair of the 'Ancient Carthage' Lodge, which you have occupied with honour to yourself and advantage to the Craft for the period of two years. Your elevation to the rank of Provincial Grand Mark Master of the United District of Tunis and Malta affords them an appropriate opportunity for so doing, and of expressing at the same time their high appreciation of your untiring zeal and energy in the discharge of your duties in governing the several Lodges and Chapters, to the presidency of which you have been called by the suffrages of your Brethren. Not only have you won thereby the affection and regard of every one of them, but you have succeeded in reawakening in the Regency of Tunis that Masonic enthusiasm which had remained dormant for years, and in founding under the banner of the United Grand Lodge of England Masonic Institutions in this country, of the stability and endurance of which they entertain the strongest hopes. As long as these Lodges last, you may rest assured the remembrance of your exertions for their prosperity, your uniform courtesy to your officers and brethren, and the tact with which you promoted harmony and brotherly love amongst them, will always be one of their most cherished memories. They, therefore, ask you to accept, as a tribute of affection, this casket and the jewels and regalia it contains, and they trust that the G.A.O.T.U. will long preserve you to assist in raising and beautifying that edifice of which you have so well and so ably laid the foundation.—Tunis, 6th September, 1879. (Signed) S. Souiller, Secretary of Testimonial Committee." (Here follows a list of upwards of one hundred subscribers, including the D.G.M., P.D.D.G.M. the W.M.'s of Lodges 349, 515, and 1835 E.C., and several P.M.'s, all the Officers of Lodges 1717 and 1835, and nearly the whole of the members). The Director of Ceremonies, assisted by Bros. Pentecost and Carriglio, then carried round the Lodge a magnificent mahogany casket ornamented with brass (and bearing a lengthy and appropriate inscription, engraved on a massive silver-plate inserted in the lid), which contained a superb set of regalia as P.G. M.M.M. and three valuable gold jewels, viz., those of P.G.M.M.M., D.D.G.M., and P.M.W.S. (the latter being enriched with precious stones). This costly testimonial was then presented to W. Bro. Broadley amidst general and hearty applause. On the W.M. resuming his seat, after thanking the brethren, in feeling terms, a Masonic salute was accorded him, on the proposition of the W.M. (elect) Dr. Perini. A similar honour was paid to the newly elected W.M. and Treasurer, the Honorary P.M., the W.M. and Officers of the new English Lodge, "William Kingston," No. 1835, at Goletta, and the Visitors, all of whom returned thanks for the honour done them. The charity collection having been made, the Lodge was formally adjourned till 4th Oct., when the D.D.G.M. will instal his successor, Dr. Perini.

"IL TEGAME," OR A MASON'S HOLIDAY.

I AM about to commit—yes, commit—an anachronism, and attribute to my holiday of last year episodes of a previous one; yet I trust to be pardoned.

Having already crossed the Alps, we will for a time retrace our steps, like Cæsar, "summa diligentia," visit Lake Leman, the Allobrogi, and their town, the modern Geneva, retrograding also our thoughts to the year 1865.

The journey from Paris to Geneva seems long, dull, and flat, as is nearly all central France, until you arrive at the Valley of the Rhone and Chamberry, when suddenly one gets among the mountains, and all is changed,—the valleys, often divided into fields, give it a home aspect abounding in fine views.

Here many English people have summer residences; the guard of the train pointed out to me one of these, overlooking the Youn, which a hermit or a lover of taste might alike have envied; and a gentleman of the neighbourhood assured me that to any one watching the opportunity, a reasonable château and property might often be obtained on quite moderate terms; the land, although light, is good, and the wine good and strong.

However, my object was not Chamberry, with its images of the Virgin on every hill, but Geneva, in what was once good old Protestant Switzerland, where I set my foot on 20th August; compelling, as it does, recollections of its glorious lake, its William Tell, its Calvin, and all the other things, false and true, they tell of it; and, above all, it should be described as a glorious part of that land which the sun of the South endows with beauty, and the breezes of the North with liberty.

One soon finds that one is no longer in France, although the language is the same; for, going to church next morning, the first illustration of the subject, which was Faith, was drawn from what the preacher called the glorious English army, and its heroic defence against the modern Jugurtha, Nana Saib, when he described the well-known story of the soldier's wife hearing in faith, rather than in reality, the pibroch's music of the "Campbell's are coming."

In France they only know the English army as the fellows who were running away at Waterloo when Blucher with his host luckily compelled them, in spite of themselves, to gain a victory. I am very sorry to say that Crimean glory they claim all for themselves. It was, however, Waterloo which freed Geneva from France, and next week will be the 50th anniversary of the return of the Swiss army and the abolition of French sway. But France is a great country—nearly five hundred miles have I journeyed, and yet in fifteen minutes can get into French territory, in consequence of the recent annexation of Savoy, from whose huge ramparts of rocks the French eagles seem ready to pounce on the much coveted Canton.

I have talked with many of the Swiss officers, soldiers and others, and they really look with a friendly feeling to England, and declare it was not the Prussians, but Wellington with his British soldiers who fought, and died, and conquered at Waterloo; and if you want to hear of the glories, alas departed, of Nelson, Trafalgar, and Aboukir, come and talk with Switz soldiers and old Switzmen. Fortunately there are many glories, and we may celebrate our own without envying those of France.

Sunday, the day after my arrival, came off an Election, strongly contested. The Radicals are now, and have, since the Revolution of 1847, been in a majority, when the last traces of the old Protestant supremacy, established by Calvin, disappeared, and a pure Radical democracy reigned in its stead. A Conservative was however returned.

The elections are by ballot, and the suffrage much as in English boroughs; when, however, the poll is closed, the urn is sealed up and left all night in the midst of the Hall, so that no tampering can take place as has been imputed in France. At six o'clock next morning the first arriving have the right to unlock the box and break the seals thereof. On this occasion they were all Radicals, who had kept their stations the night through. The counting being ended, and finding the majority against them, they declared the Election void, and refused to make the legal declaration of the numbers. The Conservatives, however, had been able to obtain sufficient proof of the numbers, and claimed the victory.

Great altercation followed. The Conservatives almost unconsciously mustered together, and headed by a few banners and music, formed a procession down the Rue Mont Blanc. In the meantime the Radicals stormed a "Caserne" or barrack in the Rue des Cendriers, a small street running at right angles near the lower end of the Rue Mont Blanc, seized some muskets, erected a kind of barricade, and as the Conservative procession approached, fired deliberately into it. It was a disquieting scene. As I had joined in the procession, I heard the firing and screams, the cries to arms, and even the "que se sauve qui peut," and saw the alternate swaying, and the running and rallying of a day of battle.

The drums beat to arms for the battallions of the quarter, but they could get no ammunition. A cannon was, however, soon brought out by the hastily gathered soldiers, and was ready to fire, when wiser counsels seemed to prevail; fifteen or more were killed or wounded; I saw them carried off, and the Rue Mont Blanc was red with blood. It did not last long; in less than an hour a strong patrol of soldiers paraded the place, and tranquillity returned. "Stupid fellows," said an intelligent soldier to me afterwards, "I was in the front all the time, they did not hurt us, but killed the poor innocent lookers on."

Happily it soon ended, for it was soon rumoured that "in the interests of order" the Imperial spider had already telegraphed to the French troops near, and, as if by magic, the hotels seemed instantly crowded with French uniforms, evidently to favour any pretence for intervention.

It should be explained, in order to illustrate the modern history of Geneva, that when the French took possession of it after the great revolution of 1780—that they interfered but little with the municipal arrangements Calvin had instituted, and at the fall of Napoleon I. the Swiss troops were immediately welcomed back, and re-entered Geneva amid general rejoicing, much as the Italian troops recently entered Rome, although no fighting was necessary, and a monument erected near the lake still records the place of their landing. The Calvin constitution then regained its full sway, and for 50 years again, until the new revolution which brought back the Napoleons, asserted its primeval hold upon the people.

This was the signal for the advent of immigrants and refugees of all parties and from all parts, filoux, deserters, rogues, Italian, German, French, so that the ordinary Genevan population of 40,000 soon became more than doubled. A revolution was inaugurated, and Calvin's constitution finally overturned. Liberty of conscience brought with it, if not all the good, at least all the evil it necessarily entails. Thus rendering Geneva, if only on a small scale and for a season, "The land of freedom and resort of crime."

Calvinism it is not my place or intention to discuss, but we will take a passing glimpse of its successor, the Genevan Radical. There are different kinds. I went into a "Café" national on the evening of the strife, so as to learn at headquarters the news and feeling. On sitting down, a respectable looking man offered me his newspaper, and made some remark, to which I replied I did not like universal suffrage. He then said, "Then you would not have allowed Jesus Christ to have a vote." In response I said, "I don't know, but there was no Jesus Christ with you to-day, my friend, or you would not have fought, since he tells us in his writings, to live at peace with our neighbours."

My friend, "Do you believe in that stupid book, the Bible?" "Yes," I said, "and its morals are most excellent." My friend—"How can that be when it begins with a lie? How did Cain get his wife, when just before we are told that Adam and Eve, beside himself, were the only existing beings. It is a bad book; an eye for an eye is its doctrine, a tooth for a tooth, and more desolations and bloodsheds have its doctrines caused than man can tell. I borrowed my neighbour's Bible the other day,—he keeps it to write in the births of his children, and so on; placing my finger on a verse, I said to him, 'Do you allow your children to read such wickedness as that? it is enough to corrupt any one.'" I replied that the new French editions had modified many old and objectionable expressions of the translators, and that what he referred to related only to the Levitical ceremonies, and not to its moral teaching, which was all that concerned us; but, he replied, "It was the origin of superstition, and what was bad in its origin must be bad in its fruit, and so it is."

"What!" he continued, "do you believe in the God as described in the Bible?" (then he proceeded to argue on the doctrine of which Lucretius treats so fully, and which Lamarck and Darwin have modernised and rendered popular). "I believe what I see, and I believe nothing else. I have studied the doctrines of Brahma and Confucius, and Mohammed; they all teach me to do good to my neighbours, and that is my doctrine. I daily see the evils of Christianity, and I would rather have Mohammed than Christ." I told him I liked his philosophy of doing good to his neighbours; he ought to go one step further, however, and the Bible would instruct him, "Why we ought to do good."

The man had really been civil to me, so I asked him to join me in some wine, which he did, changed the conversation, railed against Napoleon, and told me he was a Frenchman from old Armorica (Little Britain), as I was from Great Britain. So much for a Philosophical Radical.

Soon another scene came on. Two men came into the room, fine tall fellows, almost giants, dressed in blouses, and evidently labourers. "I tell you," said one of them, looking at me, "there must be a change, the rich must be put down. How is a man to live on fifty sous a day, and maintain his family? on a hundred, perhaps, he might." Now, if any one could have seen this man's manner as he stalked the floor of that long room, and have seen his countenance, he would have had a true picture of the Red Republican. He had just come in, wild with excitement, from the place where he had helped to kill and wound the fifteen who fell. I became rather uneasy as I looked at him, so I begged him to do me the honour of accepting some wine at my expense, and soon slipped off. My philosophical friend had, however no predeliction for him, and sneered at him in every way so far as he fairly durst. Here, then, is an example of the Red Republican Radical.

The Philosophical Radical is a hollow, stupid fellow at best, but (as I wrote at that time) some day society will come face to face again with the Red Republican, and with his question, "How is a man to live on fifty sous a day?" That is the question which, in some way or other, in some form or other, will be the upper one of social questions.

I may, however, remark that I met my red friend afterwards in a more sober mood; he told me he was a Savoyard, and had fought through all the campaigns which had expelled the Austrians from Italy; he complained that his education, now so important, had been neglected by the government, and that is what we chiefly wanted there, and which, said he, is to be had here at Geneva. Things will, no doubt in time, arrange themselves, but Victor Emanuel will soon find that in leaving Savoy he has changed his white bread for black bread.

I have endeavoured here to reproduce the actual conversations, and except for condensation have not varied a word.

But to begin again; the next day, or rather evening, I recommenced my excursions in the environs, and got as far as Veyrier, a pretty frontier village near the bridge which crosses the river Arve, and lying just beneath the Grand barrier of France formed by the Grand and Petit Salève. There, at an auberge, seeing some gentlemen seated outside the door, I saluted them, and, taking my seat, called for some wine. Introducing myself as a stranger and a doctor, I soon got into conversation with a proprietor of the neighbourhood who was in company, the all-absorbing theme being the recent election. The election excitement was still extant, and at this moment a large party of horse and foot, with a band of music and banners, strode triumphantly along. We all saluted them; it seemed, indeed, an English rural celebration; yet how strange it appeared beneath the frowning barriers of France! We were comparing the English Volunteers with the Swiss army. "We are all soldiers here," said my friend, turning to a gentleman dressed in uniform then entering; "and here is our doctor with us: none are exempt."

I found the doctor a very nice fellow, simple-minded, but well-informed; we talked of Nelaton and Velpeau and Lawrence (alas! now all departed), and drank a health to all those who bled for their country. The conversation again became more general; in England we talk much of the three R's, but in travelling the three W's are more in vogue—the wine, the wars, and the women. Of the latter all I can say is, that where the ladies are truly virtuous, they are always truly beautiful; and that where they are truly beautiful, they are always truly virtuous.

As the evening draws on, it is strange to observe the dark, heavy shadows, which these rocks, the frowning barriers of old Savoy, rising at one bound to the height of Cader Ideris—4,000 feet—produce on all around and on the observer. Fortunately, as their evening shadows lengthened and darkened, the moon arose, and I returned to Geneva with pleasant reminiscences of the evening thus passed.

Having thus made so far an exploration, I resolved two days afterwards to ascend this mountain, the Grand Salève, forming a hill of the grand chain of the Voirons, and in due course again arrived at Veyrier, the scene of my evening's chat, four miles from Geneva; crossed the bridge with some little difficulty, and traversed the broken ground which intervenes between the bridge and the Pas d'Echelles, or ladder path, by which one mounts the rock.

The Pas d'Echelles resembles a plank placed edgeways against a house, and turning at certain angles to mount to the roof. It is very steep and narrow, and soon wearies even a resolute pedestrian. About half way up it enlarges at one place, and there the Lord of the country, as Bunyan would say, has placed some pleasant seats for travellers to sit and muse over the wonderful panorama spread out beneath one's feet. Here I was joined by a countryman, who pointed out to me the different Communes, Catholic or Protestant, which lay around. "Ah," said he, "in 1815, Geneva might have had all three Communes, which wished to be united to it, but it would not have them because they were Catholics, and when they so much wanted us, at the giving up of Savoy to France, it was all too late, and now in Geneva itself half or more of the people are Catholics." He was a labourer from one of the Communes, and by no means destitute of intelligence. It was burning hot, and near the top of the Pas I was rejoiced at finding a little fountain, fed with water springing from the rock, bright as the fountain of Blandusia, when I gladly refreshed. I strongly, however, advise all persons travelling in Switzerland to be cautious of hill fountains, and never to travel without a pocket filter.

At the termination of the Pas d'Echelles one arrives at the Grand Gorge, on the left the Petit Salève, on the right the Grand Salève, which gorge opens into a pretty plain containing the village Monnetiet. Here a woman in a cottage balcony was singing a pretty song, something like "Traveller, rest, thy wanderings o'er;" but finding it was an auberge I passed on, exclaiming excelsior. A little further brought me full in view of the Mont Blanc range, so inquiring the right path I mounted higher, when, at every fresh turn, the prospect became more extended, especially on the Genevan side, and here again has the Lord of the country provided ample seats, in good places, from which you may see below Lake Leman, with its brilliant blue and placid surface; the steamers and boats, with white sails as in miniature; trace the courses of the Arve and of the Rhone, and make out the sites of towns and villages for many miles.

Again I mounted, and coming at length to an undeniable view of Mont Blanc, felt rewarded.

> "My parched tongue, my wanderer's lot,
> My aching feet were all forgot."

There it stood, white and venerable, like the ancient of days; insensibly I took off my hat, and exclaimed—

> "Mont Blanc is the monarch of mountains,
> They crowned him long ago,
> (His vassal hills around him)
> With a diadem of snow."

It was a bright day for my first actual recognition, since although I had dimly imagined its outline, both from Lyons and from Mount Cenis, I had never actually made its acquaintance; but now all was clear and plain, its venerable head and coronet of feathery mist, and its vassal hills all were there, distinct and clear, at a few leagues distance.

It is lonely here in this lofty spot, the silence wonderful; no birds are to be heard, only the cicada chanting its cricketty song, all else was still as a wilderness; and having accomplished my object, prepared to return.

On getting to Monnetier again I obtained some goat's milk, fearing to take wine, and as I went on forgot not to refresh at my old friend the fountain. I got home after eight hours of continuous hard hill walking, under a burning sun.

Society in Geneva is naturally divided much into cliques; mutual friends associate in what are called "Cercles," with admission much as in our clubs. I was invited, for my stay, to one connected with the legal profession and my name entered on the books, thus I had the advantage of their spacious library, reading rooms, &c., supplied with the leading journals and reviews of Europe, whilst it further gave me opportunity of acquaintance and converse with the cultivated native classes.

One thing I soon learnt, viz., that the abstentation of England from the affairs of Europe had greatly lessened its prestige, and even filled them with alarm. England, they said, was formerly looked up to as the defender of the weaker states against the tyranny of the strong, but now to trust to England would be to build Chateaux en Espagne (castles in the air); we must, in Geneva, now trust only to ourselves, and sooner than France should have it, we would make it a wreck without one stone upon another. It was, however, generally acknowledged that the open demands of Napoleon III. were less disquieting than the intrigues of Louis Philippe.

This opinion was not however general with the newly arrived tradesmen, who on being asked, would reply, "Monsieur, ca ne me regarde pas,"—I don't care which.

It was here also I made the acquaintance of a Russian gentlemen who told me he had commanded the advance body of troops in the Russian invasion of Turkey in 1829. "Now tell me," I said to him, "why the Russians retreated so suddenly after the victory of Adrianople? Was the retreat caused, or not caused, by fearful losses in the Russian army, and by the breaking out of the plgaue ?"

He replied to me, "Certainly not; I assure you we could readily have gone on to Constantinople, and the plague did not break out until after we had retreated. It was not the policy or intention of Russia to do more than she did, whatever people may say thinking Russians do not desire Constantinople, it would dislocate the present condition of Russia, and render it a divided empire. Had we really wished for Constantinople we could have had it in 1829."

One day, when seated in the public garden overlooking the Lake, a body of Polish political refugees, just arrived, were ostentatiously promenading. "These men," he remarked "are playing the Patriot, but it was the trust of the Russian government in Polish honesty that led to the first rebellion. They had a Viceroy devoted to them, a separate administration and army, and were treated rather as an allied than as a subject nation, and rarely has such treachery been seen as was there exhibited. The 'Robot' of the Polish nobles was always heavier than the Russian 'Rabot,' and the serfdom more abject. The nobles, when they had a king, could not agree, for the people were nothing, and it was only when Poland became a centre of anarchy that Russia and others assumed the government."

I recollect in a theological discussion to have made a sad admission on the doctrine of the Trinity, and only discovered my heterodoxy by referring on returning home to the Athanasian Creed.

He was, however, a kindly man, simple as an English gentleman, his general information wide, his judgment earnest and correct, his only failing being that he was ever making "Tartarean" jokes on Napoleon III. Politeness apart, Russia and France can never be permanent allies. I think, however, his word may be taken as to the contested point of the condition of the Russian army after the battle of Adrianople.

Whilst detained thus idly at Geneva, with injured feet from mountain climbing, the time was occupied as best it could be by promenading, "summa diligentia," on the top of a diligence, and especially by having produced a series of water-colour drawings of interesting spots—amongst them is a view of the mansion and church:—

> "Of him who to the bane of thousands born, > Built God a church, but laughed His word to scorn."

The house is just as he left it, the little chapel also, the front still bearing the legend, "Deo erexit Voltaire," yet on entering by the vestry door I found its present use to be that of a barn.

Near to Fernez is also the village of Bossy, where J. J. Rousseau spent part of his infancy, and of which he tells so amusing a tale in that strangest of all strange works his "Confessions."

I might continue a narration of actualities without end, but recommend my Masonic friends on visiting Geneva to study expressly the lovely lake, whose beauty cannot too much be extolled. Its perpetual blueness has that effect on the eye that it never seems dazzled with its lustre, nor satiated by its sameness. Look at it by daylight or night-light, at morn or eve, it seems ever joyous, ever now—

> "An endless fountain of immortal drink, > Pouring unto us from high heaven's brink."

About this time I made a journey on foot to Mont Blanc, but must cut short the narrative. The valley of Chamounix is grand, grand by day, grander as the shades of evening fall and night is coming on.

I had arrived (next morning) at the foot of the mountain, near the glaciers, and sat down far from where the river Arve issues from its cavern of solid, nay eternal ice, and musing said, "I will now drink at the source of this, my friend, along whose banks I have travelled so many miles." Placing my hat down, I rose and moved towards the stream—at the same moment, with a noise of thunder, a large stone, of probably half a ton, shooting down the glaciers, and striking the stone on which I had an instant before sat, glanced only a few inches from me. I gave myself up for lost as it rebounded, but it passed harmlessly by. A gentleman in one of the hotels was still insensible, and in a state worse than death from a similar accident two days previously.

In the evening, the "Brigadier," an Alsatian, called upon me at the hotel to sign the police visitors' book; he spent some hours with me, sipping coffee, and told me his thoughts as a Frenchman and Alsatian.

Other Frenchmen, rich and poor, never forget the glories of their own provinces; they are provincials first, and Frenchmen afterwards; but the German origined Alsatian was like a bird who had quitted his nest and had forgotten all in his newly found human sympathies. He was kind and friendly in his manner, yet Waterloo was his theme—a theme, however which Sadova has finally banished from French recollection. He explained, however, the mystery of the stone, for hearing of the accident to the gentleman, he had ascended the glaciers, and pushed down all the boulders he could find. This incident cooled my courage to ascend the extreme heights, so I clomb the monster to its icy sea, and then desisted.

The remainder of my journey in La haute Savoy was interesting but too long for narration. They assented to the then recent change of government with pain, but resignation. One lady said to me, "It was very hard; we who were always so loyal to the House of Savoy; it has cut us to the heart" ("Ca nous a donné sur le cœur"). But human ties are not for ever; even friends may part.

Talk as we will, however, of French occupation, it has not been without its benefits. Its influence on Germany was most salutary; even Northern Italy owes it much, and had French occupation endured in Spain for twenty years, Spain would have become a regenerate nation.

But holidays, like all things else, must come to an end, and with them the finale the retrospect.

What changeable beings we are? Twelve months ago, almost to the day, I was kneeling at the sacred shrine of Genuario and kissing his miraculous blood, and indeed it needs a week of calm retreat in some Calvin's library to recover one's self from the follies of Southern heathenism. Yet, let any one visit Italy, with Virgil, Horace, and Dante for text-books; let him visit old temples, recovered cities, chambers of Venus when she sprang immortal from the waves; tombs of poets; let him visit towns founded before Ulysses, and carry himself back to the wars of Troy; wander about fields where Æneas roamed, where Hercules strangled the giants; burn his feet at descents into hell, and drink of the waters of its river. Let him give his fancy flight into the region of fable over all these things, and in six weeks he is fit for a lunatic asylum. All seems so known, so new, so true, so passing wonderful.

Now, there is to be found in many southern cities a horrible pit, opened each night, into which are thrown naked the dead bodies of the poor of all ages, all sexes, headlong. In one of these cities I was at that time seized with fever, and whilst half delirious a kindly attendant, to amuse me, gave me the narration, with all its horrible details. Then, through nights of delirium, with a taste of blood in my mouth, did I roam in imagination these fearful abysses, these valleys of the shadow of death, with no Beatrice, no heavenly guide to direct my steps. May God in his mercy deliver all I love from such another time.

How different now seemed the calm of Calvin's library. Yielding to the genius loci, I entered the beautiful Gothic church, formerly the cathedral of its ancient bishops, and there received the sacrament at the hands of Calvin's successor.

ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL.

ON Monday morning the sixteenth annual meeting of the friends and supporters of St. John's Hospital, Leicester-square, an institution specially devoted to the treatment of cutaneous diseases, was held at the Westminster Palace Hotel, Victoria-street, the Right Hon. W. N. Massey, M.P., in the chair.

The Report of the Committee of Management stated that energetic efforts were being strenuously persevered in to add to the efficency of the hospital, but inasmuch as the building was an old one constantly needing repair, it was a source of unceasing anxiety and expense to the Committee, and on the pressure for additional accommodation the board-room had been converted into a ward and fitted up with six beds. The sanitary condition of the institution had been greatly improved, and it now possessed the following accommodation, namely, three waiting rooms for out-patients, medical officers' consulting room, in which each patient is seen separately, a dispensary, bath-room, and battery-room, and 17 beds. The bathing system has been rendered as efficient as possible, for in addition to the vapour bath, constructed of slabs of enamelled slate, a new reclining bath has been provided, which is supplied with both hot and cold water. The Board hope soon, if provided with the necessary funds, to largely increase this accommodation. During the last three years the number of beds had increased from 1 to 17, the number of new in-patients from 5 to 60, the number of new out-patients from 1,442, to 2,955, the number of out-patients applying from 14,415 to 22,769, and the receipts from £369 to £1,483. Until last year the institution had not been recognised by the managers of the Hospital Sunday Fund; but a deputation of the governors having waited upon the Distribution Committee, they got awarded to the hospital the sum of £26 0s 10d, an award which had this year been increased to £51 11s 3d, being an increase of £25 10s 5d. The Committee had from the commencement co-operated in the collection of the Saturday fund. The number of in-patients admitted to the wards last year was 60, as against 34 in the previous year. All the cases were of a most serious nature, necessitating unremitting and watchful care, and had been of particular interest to the medical world, from the malignity or rarity of the diseases. Three had terminated fatally. A coachmaker's labourer, affected with a fungoid cancer of the skin; a slaughterman attacked with glanders, contracted in the exercise of his avocation; and the wife of a soldier suffering from leprosy in its most hideous form, making the second patient suffering from veritable leprosy that had died in the present year. Amongst the other serious cases might be mentioned one admitted by the command of Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales, the Patron, and another continued in the wards at the instance of Henry Cecil Raikes, Esq., M.P., an earnest friend of the hospital, and who for several years did such good work as treasurer of the charity. This patient had occupied a bed in the hospital for over six months. In the out-patients' department 22,969 attendances of patients had been registered in the past year. With reference to these statistics the Board noticed that whilst the total number of attendances at five other special hospitals taken together amounted to but 23,026, or about the same number as were treated at St. John's, the aggregate receipts of the five hospitals were £5,755 in excess of the hospital of St. John's, viz., at the five hospitals £7,238, St. John's £1,483. These hospitals had been taken at random from the last return of the Hospital Saturday Fund. The institution of the hospital had proved a boon to all classes of the community, but especially so to the class of domestic servants, who when afflicted with infectious skin diseases were, as a rule, summarily dismissed from their situations, and might, but for this hospital, become veritable outcasts. The efforts of the Board to increase the utility of the hospital had not been confined to providing in the institution relief for the afflicted, but in their desire to help in prosecuting both directly and indirectly the alleviation of the sufferings of humanity attacked with skin diseases which were in many instances of a most frightful character, they had thrown the practice of the hospital open for the inspection and investigation of medical men of all nations who had a desire to study dermatology, and many members of the profession had availed themselves of the opportunity. In furtherance of this object clinical lectures were delivered during the medical sessions by the members of the medical staff of the hospital on diseases of the skin, to which medical men and medical students were admitted gratuitously. The Committee appealed to the subscribers of convalescent homes to place at their disposal for the use of patients cured at the hospital as many letters of recommendation as they could spare, under the assurance that all recommendations entrusted to them would be used with circumspection. The statement of liabilities showed a debt at the present time of £534. This, however, would not occasion surprise when it was remembered how much the Board had had to do in bringing the hospital up to its present state of efficiency. The Board, though disliking debt, saw no necessity for alarm. Painstaking economy had been and would be practised; and, as the institution must continue to grow in public favour, an endowment fund of goodwill and sympathy would be established, and no doubt the money to meet any pressing emergency would be subscribed. One of the sources of gratification during the past few months had been the intimation that the late Rev. Samuel Ashby bequeathed the sum of about £21,000 to be divided in equal proportions, on the death of his widow, amongst the principal charitable institutions of the metropolis and of Norfolk. St. John's Hospital was included in the list, and the amount which it would receive was estimated to be about £900. It was earnestly hoped that other philanthropists would generously remember the claims of St. John's Hospital when making their bequests. In the meantime they had to express their gratitude to the members of the Nelson Dramatic Club for a donation of £50 13s, the proceeds of a performance for the benefit of the hospital.

Mr. F. Gould, in proposing the adoption of the Report, dwelt upon the importance of special hospitals in general, and of this in particular, calling particular attention to the medical classes, whereby the experience gained by the hospital found its way into private practice.

The merits of the institution were also advocated by Mr. A. Gilbert, Mr. Edmond Beales, Dr. J. Mills and several others and the proceedings terminated with the usual vote of thanks to the chairman.

FREEMASONRY IN THE EAST.

THE Times has been favoured with the following extract from a letter written by an Englishman of high position in Egypt:—

"CAIRO, Sept. 8.

"You will remember, of course, the name of Sheikh Jamâl ed Din, whose violent articles against England were translated by Dr. Badger. This man has been lately delivering most revolutionary lectures, and has gotten together a number of disciples, in whom he has instilled principles of atheism and communism. About a fortnight ago the Sheikh was arrested and sent off to Suez, where he was placed on board a steamer bound for Jeddah. All his papers were seized by the police, and a day or two afterwards a paragraph, communicated by the Prefecture of Police, was published in the native journals. This paragraph alluded to the exile of the Sheikh, to the revolutionary principles he had taught, and to the secret society he had founded, and warned the Egyptians of the peril incurred by following such a leader, &c. Jamâl ed Din had been W.M. of our Lodge, and, in consequence of his unmasonic conduct, we had applied to the Grand Lodge for his expulsion. But the native Masons were filled with fear and trembling on reading the "communique," and applied to me to make matters smooth for them. Nobody would take any step. They were all afraid of coming forward, and desirous that their connection with Masonry should be ignored and even denied. I did not know the exact light in which the new Khedive would regard Masonry among the natives, but hoping to be able to convince his Highness, and relying on his own good sense, I entered the arena as the champion of Oriental Masonry.

"I obtained a private audience with the Khedive, congratulated him upon the wise step he had taken in expelling Jamâl ed Din, but hoped he would not attribute to Masonry the principles held by one member of the fraternity. He replied, 'No, on the contrary, mon Boy, I know all about it. Masonry is a society for doing good, and does not enter into religion or politics; and as Jamâl ed Din would lecture on these forbidden topics you expelled him from the Lodge, and for the same reason I have expelled him from Egypt. He was only here on sufferance, having been already sentenced in Constantinople to expulsion from the Ottoman dominions. You need not fear that I shall confound his principles with those of Freemasonry.

"I thanked his Highness, but added that, although we European Masons knew that we could always justify our meetings, the natives had not the same means of making their feelings known, and it was on their behalf I came to speak to him. His Highness replied that I might assure them of his protection so long as they acted as Masons; but that any Egyptian, whether Mason or not, who sought to cause intrigues and conspiracies would be punished. I then asked his Highness for the papers belonging to the Lodge, which he promised should be restored to me.

"I subsequently drove to the Lodge and found the 'Concordia' holding a meeting, in which a painful discussion was going on with regard to this business. But when I was announced I was admitted as a visitor with immense honours, and, communicating to them the substance of my conversation with the Khedive, I received the hearty thanks and applause of the meeting. And I have since received all the papers belonging to the Lodge. I had only attended one meeting, at which the Sheikh presided, after which there was a banquet, at which the health of the Prince of Wales was proposed. But the W.M. (Sheikh Jamâl) refused to drink it, saying that all Princes, Kings, and Khedives were tyrants. Whereupon I rose from the table, quitted the room, and wrote to the Lodge, and afterwards to the Grand Lodge, for his expulsion.

"I have succeeded him by unanimous acclamation."

ROUMANIAN FREEMASONS.

A FREEMASON, writing from Bucharest, complains in the Berlin Montagsblatt that the newly-founded "Gross-Orient of Roumania" is nothing else than a political association. Until a short time ago the working lodges in this land were subject to the jurisdiction of foreign superiors. But as soon as Roumania obtained her political independence the Roumanian Masons decided that they ought no longer to be dependent upon foreigners. Hence they founded their own Grand Orient of Roumania, at whose formation, he observes, many serious faults were committed, while he believes the new incorporation has never yet received external acknowledgment. His real complaint, however, is against the spirit which rules in these Masons—which is one of passionate hatred towards Germans and Jews. He says that many of the most violent articles in "profane journals" against the Jews and the Germans are the work of Roumanian Freemasons, and he particularly specifies the attack on the great jurist, Dr. Bluntschli, and on the "Alliance Israélite" in the Roumania Libera. After citing other instances of anti-Jewish and anti-German diatribes from the pens of Roumanian Freemasons, which have appeared in "profane journals," he concludes that "the Grand Orient of Roumania is nothing else but a secret political club, which, under the cloak of Freemasonry, expends all its zeal in working up the national feeling of the Roumanians to fever heat, in order to maintain the agitation against the emancipation of the Jews, although that is demanded by Article 44 of the Berlin Treaty." The writer, who is evidently a German, declares that the opposition of the Roumanians to "the Jewish article" of the Treaty is not so much of a religious as of an economical nature; and further, that they have a suspicion that wherever the Jew enters the German is certain to follow.—Globe.

Pythagorean Chapter of Instruction, No. 79.—The meetings of this popular Chapter of Instruction were resumed (after the summer recess) on Friday evening last, at Bro. Boncey's, Portland Hotel, London Street, Greenwich. In consequence of the unfavourable weather, the attendance of working Companions was scarcely so numerous as usual, and the paucity of the gathering might also be in some degree accounted for by many of the brethren being still on their holiday tours. The Chapter having been opened in accordance with ancient rites, the ceremony of installation was ably rehearsed by Comp. Dussee, the present Z. of the Pythagorean Chapter, who was assisted by Comp. W. W. Smith as H., and Comp. Catterson as J. Bro. James Griffin, the permanent Scribe E., read the minutes of the last Convocation, which were confirmed. Amongst those present were five P.Z.'s, either of whom could have worked any portion of the beautiful ceremony, had there not been younger members requiring the instruction and practice. To many brethren the knowledge of the existence of a good working Chapter of Instruction will be of great assistance, as there are so few, only eight besides this being shown in the Calendar, and more than one of these in abeyance—for instance, the Hope, No. 206, shown as meeting at the Globe, Royal Hill, Greenwich, but which has not met for instruction for years. There are in Greenwich and Deptford the following Chapters:—Pythagorean 79, meeting at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich; St. George's 140, at the Trafalgar Hotel, Greenwich; the Temperance 169; and Wellington 548, at the White Swan, High Street, Deptford. The members of the Pythagorean Chapter of Instruction are drawn principally from these four Chapters, but it has also members from all parts of London, and musters between seventy and eighty on the roll. The meetings are held every Friday evening, from September to May, at the Portland Hotel, near Greenwich Railway Station, under the able preceptorship of Comp. E. J. B. Bumstead P.Z. P.M. of the Wellington Lodge 548. Being within such easy access by railway the meetings are invariably largely attended, and much valuable instruction is afforded by the Companions who take part in the ceremonies.

Webb proceeded to rehearse the greater portion of the Installation Ceremony, and performed his work most creditably. Lodge was resumed, and Bro. Friedeberg, who had been placed in the chair, worked the ceremony of passing in a manner which reflected credit both on himself and the teaching of this Lodge. At the conclusion of business Bro. Cundick proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. Webb for the excellent working he had shewn them that evening; Bro. Webb is known as an earnest worker, and he was sure when the ceremony of Installation was performed on Saturday at Bro. Webb's Lodge, it could not fail to give satisfaction both to the executant and the brethren. This was seconded by Bro. Musto. Bro. Webb, whilst returning thanks for the kindness shown by the vote, said he appreciated the manner in which the brethren had allowed him to prepare for the discharge of the duty he felt incumbent on every outgoing Master, viz.—that of installing his successor. If he had given satisfaction, he must own his indebtedness to Bro. P.M. Barnes for the assistance he at all times had rendered him in mastering the difficulties of the ceremony. Bro. Slaiter was elected W.M. for next Friday, and Bros. Chitson 1278, Kemball and Partridge 1445, were elected members. Lodge was closed in due form and adjourned. Brethren who desire to assist in establishing this Fund will oblige by forwarding their names to the above List.

THE course of training followed by the Masonic Educational Charities, in common with many similar institutions in various parts of the country, is looked upon as more or less successful in proportion to the results that can be shown as emanating from the pupils themselves. It is not only necessary that a girl or a boy should receive a good education, but it is likewise desirable that they should prove that such education has been of service to them in after life. Indeed, that it has been the means of their securing a position which without such education they could not have attained. With a view to assist in this object the committees of very many of the English Charities make it a part of their duty to interest themselves in the future of the pupils who have been educated under their care. This they do by obtaining for those whom they deem deserving situations in offices presided over or belonging to one of their number, who they are assured will act as parent or guardian to their charge, and by apprenticing or otherwise starting in life those who, being orphans or from other causes, may need more aid than is forthcoming from relatives generally. The practicability and success of such a scheme can be vouched for in numerous instances where it has been in work for years past; and were it necessary the records of some of our largest Charities would give ample evidence of the satisfaction derived from keeping an account of each scholar's proceedings in after life. It has frequently been found that a little advice, counsel or help has proved to be the starting point of success.

With regard to the Masonic Institutions, it has often been regretted that some further surveillance has not been exercised over those who have been so fortunate as to receive therein education and early training; and it is felt that without something be done to watch the future of those who leave the Schools, and, if need be, lend them a helping hand, the work of Masonic Charity is incomplete. This want may perhaps best be expressed in the words of the Right Hon. Bro. the Earl of Rosslyn, K.T., Past Grand Master of Scotland, who, as President at the Eighty-first Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, brought the question particularly before the Craft. The Right Worshipful Brother, in proposing prosperity to the Institution, after detailing the advantages and benefits which were derived from the School, said:—

I will tell you a little fault, and I am sure I need only mention it to find it immediately corrected; and the fault that I am going to find is this—that it is not impossible that at the end of their schooling career some of these boys may leave the School homeless and in need. It may be that the good seed sown may bear fruit during their scholastic career, but it may also be that the fruit will perish for want of cultivation at a later period. It may be that having derived all the advantage that they could from their study, a religious training in your Institution, they may lea evil courses and evil ways, or even to suffer penury would appeal to you once more, as that is the only b your excellent Institution to try and amend it, that derive the full benefit of your bounty and your charit

It is now proposed to raise a fund which shall act the two Masonic Schools, and be the means of supply forth above; and for this purpose your support and solicited

It is proposed that an early date shall be fixed f those who may express approval of the scheme, various rules for the government and conduct of discussed, Committees appointed, and general arrang

It is hoped that the fund when once established year to year, and that the dividends of the subscripti be invested in approved securities—may in the sufficient for the various objects aimed at.

Further particulars of the scheme will be announce arranged; but in the meantime we ask you fraternally aid to the furtherance of the desired object, by makin your friends, offering suggestions, or in any other way desirable.

The main objects of the fund will be—

To provide situations for the pupils on their leavi Schools.

To watch their progress and offer aid and advice

To advance small amounts to aid in the purchase and, later in life, goodwills of businesses, &c.

MANY of whom this question is asked will say, I can read it and write it, but can't speak it. A neat little volume for the Pocket has just been published by an Ex-Inspector of Public Schools; all the most useful verbs as used in ordinary conversation are therein embodied, alphabetically arranged on an entirely new plan, and printed in large type in French and English, a most rapid system, indispensible to teachers and other persons teaching themselves the language. THE APPROACHING SCHOOL ELECTIONS.

THE ballot paper for the next election of the Girls' School, which is to take place on Saturday the 11th October, contains the names of forty-eight approved candidates, from whom a selection is to be made to fill the eighteen declared vacancies. It will thus be seen that no less than thirty of the children who have been brought forward must on this occasion be refused admittance to the benefits of the Institution. In the case of the Boys' School, the election to which takes places the following Monday, the case is worse, there being seventy-seven candidates and only sixteen vacancies. Here, then, we shall have to turn away no less than sixty-one children who are admittedly deserving of the charitable sympathy of the Craft. Regrets at this state of affairs seem useless; we can only hope that the present prevalence of claims on our Institutions will in years to come materially decrease, but we fear that such is not likely to be the case under existing circumstances, nor while such an enormous increase is annually made in the number of members of the Craft. It appears certain that if we are to attempt anything like general relief in cases of need some material addition must be made to the accommodation which at present exists. What form this addition will take, or how it will be maintained, are questions it is impossible to answer at present, but its introduction has now become a matter of necessity unless we are to remain satisfied with dispensing relief to a small proportion only of those who are compelled to ask for our assistance, and who are deemed worthy to receive it. The number of "first application" cases which appear on the periodical lists is usually so far in advance of the vacancies which arise that it becomes a question for consideration whether more searching inquiry is not necessary before a candidate is allowed to be placed on the list, or whether some alteration in the laws is not necessary so as to render it more difficult to secure a place on the ballot paper. We so frequently hear it affirmed that one or other of the candidates' friends occupy a position in life which should have debarred them from applying to the charity of the Craft, that we are inclined to believe a more strict investigation is necessary. We admit that it may be difficult to get at the real facts of every case, but at the same time we think that if more particulars were demanded we should not have so many really deserving cases turned from our doors. Doubtless the recommending brethren usually consider their protégé the most deserving of support, but a committee who have the facts of each case put before them should be able to adopt such steps as effectually to prevent abuse, although we must admit that at present we have no direct evidence but that they have done all that lay in their power to do so. We will now proceed briefly to review the candidates, as described in the ballot papers, and in so doing desire it to be understood that we make use only of such information as is at the disposal of every subscriber. We are personally acquainted with particulars in many of the cases which deserve to be mentioned, but in our remarks we desire to ignore them all, as special reference in any one case would be unfair to the others.

Of the 48 girls on the list, four are "last application" cases, No. 1, who brings 646 votes forward from three previous attempts; No. 3 third application, 459 votes forward; No. 17 second application, 546 votes in hand; and No. 46, who now appears for the first time. To attempt to suggest which of these is the most deserving would be to go beyond our intended purpose; still we think it cannot be denied that they each have claims on the sympathy of the brethren which should preclude the possibility of their being for ever debarred from entering the portals of our School. The remaining candidates will each have other opportunities, but with these four it will be the deciding election. We can but express the hope that they will secure places among the "successful." Of the remaining 44, twenty are first applications; six being accredited to London, thirteen to the Provinces and one to Hong Kong; West Yorkshire and Lincolnshire each bring forward two of this number, but are in other respects clear of the Girls' list. As however they both have "last application" cases for the Boys', it is doubtful whether the greater part of their exertions next month will not be required for the election of that School. No. 19, Edith Hicks, a Devonshire lass, brings forward 858 votes from one previous election; both her parents are living, and there are two other children depending on them for support. No 5, Agnes A. Deeley, whose father died in 1873, has a brother in the Boys' School, she has already taken part in two elections, on which occasions 762 votes were recorded for her. No. 20, Alice Clara Kirke, 753 votes forward from last election, has a sister in the Institution, both her parents are living, and they have four other children to maintain. No. 21, Margaret Ethel Lang, one of two children dependent on their mother, has a sister in the School, and herself comes forward with 672 votes from one previous trial. Emma Eliza Williams, No. 9, has already appeared twice at the elections of this School. On those occasions her friends polled 557 votes to her credit. Both her parents are still living, but her father is insane; there are two other children who have to be provided for by the labours of the mother. No. 4, Ethel Frances W. Allison, follows very close, as regards number of votes in hand, her supporters having already recorded 547 at the two elections she has taken part in; her mother is the only parent living, and she has to provide for three children, notwithstanding the fact that the Masonic Girls' School already takes charge of two members of her family. Three cases, Nos. 15, 26 and 27, deserve especial notice. Each of these children are members of families who have neither parent living, and each has stood one election, the votes recorded then being 475, 389, and 75 respectively. The father of Alice Mary Dawson, No. 15, died in 1878, ten months after his initiation in the Londesborough Lodge. His short acquaintance with the Craft appears to have induced several friends to come forward and aid in the caring for the four children he has left parentless, if we may judge by the number of votes already polled. No. 26, Mabel Harrison Tipper, is one of three of the family of a late member of 546, who rely on the charity of friends; she has a sister in the Institution, and has, as we have already stated, 389 votes at present recorded on her behalf. No. 27, Mary Ann A. Wyatt, the other candidate left with neither parent, is one of a family of four who still remain unprovided for, except by the charity of their friends. Her father, at the time of his death, was J.W. of the Loyalty Lodge, No. 1607, and although only connected with the Order for a very short time, showed great interest in the Charities, whereby it is now sought to benefit his offspring. 480 votes are brought forward on behalf of No. 13, Emily S. H. Hill, whose mother has five children entirely, and two partially dependent on her. There are two candidates who bring forward 436 votes each; the one, No. 7, Eva C. H. Hart, from two previous attempts, and the other, No. 25, Clara Pratt, from one. In the first case the candidate has already a sister in the School, and is the only child now dependent on the mother. Clara Pratt has both parents alive, and is one of four children looking to them for support. Our Brother Pratt, in years gone by, has borne his share of the burden of the day, and we hope that the aid he has rendered to others will now enable him to secure sufficient support to place his child in our School. His long and varied services would thus be amply repaid, and at a time when he is most in need of recognition. There are three other applicants on the list of cases standing over from the last election who have each a sister in the School—No. 8, Juliet S. H. Priestley, third application, 194 votes forward, who is, with two others, dependent on a widowed mother; No. 10, Emily Alford Cecil, 209 votes already recorded, one of three similarly circumstanced; and No. 22, Annie Elizabeth Hill, whose mother has four children to support; she has stood but one election, on which occasion 13 votes were placed to her credit. Coming as she does from Hants, we think her case may safely be left in the hands of the Masons of that district, who will not fail in effecting her election if they in any way can secure it. Laura Sophia Cheek, No. 12, appears for the second time, with 360 votes standing to her credit; she and another child rely on their mother for maintenance. The father, who was initiated in the Domatic Lodge, No. 177, died in 1873. No. 14, Fanny Elizabeth Wain, comes forward with 245 votes, and being the only candidate from Kent should have a good chance of success; her mother is the only parent living, and she has five children to provide for. The mother of Mildred Evens, No. 16, has five children entirely, and one partially dependent on her. The child it is now proposed to place in the Girls' School has already had 139 votes recorded for her by the brethren of Devon (from which Province the case emanates) and other friends. Both parents of Annie Sarah Parker, No. 11, are living, and have seven children to provide for, assistance being given them in the case of two; they have 135 votes recorded in favour of their daughter, and may reasonably expect, if they can secure the support of the father's Province (West Lancashire), to speedily secure her election. No. 24, Emily Beatrice King, to whose credit have been placed 77 votes, is one of five children relying on their parents, both of whom are living, for maintenance. Elizabeth Minnie Parker, No. 2, has taken part in two previous elections, but has not yet secured much support, only 49 votes now standing to her credit; her widowed mother has five children to support, and is unfortunate in the district from which her case emanates. The brethren of Cambridgeshire have not yet discovered the power of votes, nor indeed have they exhibited much desire to obtain them; we trust a change is not far distant. Surely there should be sufficient charity among the Masons of that county to prevent the child of one of its past members from applying to the School in vain. Forty votes are all that have been recorded in aid of Edith Brown's candidature (No. 6 on the list); she has already stood two elections. Both her parents are living, and there is a family of eight children looking to them for support. Devonshire has its hands too full to allow of much aid being rendered to this case by the Province, but we think if a little outside help was offered, they would, perhaps, make a struggle to secure a place for this child at no very distant date. Annie Gover (No. 18) had 15 votes recorded in her favour at the last election; her mother, the only parent living, has this child and two others to support. Minnie Howle, No. 23, has but two votes in her favour, she is one of four children relying on the mother. The brethren of Warwickshire (the father's Province) can, unless they are otherwise pledged, make this total very different after the next election; we hope the widowed mother will have the good fortune to secure their co-operation.

We have now referred in turn to each of the candidates of the Girls' School who have appeared on previous ballot papers, and also to the one "first application" who will be debarred, through age, after this election, from competing further. We must leave our comments on the Boys until next week.

In conclusion, we would point out that to secure success with any candidate it is necessary that united effort should be made by all who lend their names in support of the application. The number of votes that are, so to speak, wasted at each election is considerable; but we question if the various combinations which are in existence to prevent this do not in a measure counteract the benefits which are supposed to accrue from open voting. It is but reasonable to expect London to combine if the Provinces do so; and we admit it is necessary if any equality of benefits are sought, but it leaves a very small chance open to those who are unable to secure the support of one or other of the great centres of voting power. Should any of our readers have votes unpromised, we shall be very pleased to receive them. We need hardly add that any sent us will be thankfully received, and, to the best of our judgment, beneficially applied.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE GRAND ORIENT OF FRANCE.

[COMMUNICATED.]

THE Annual Convent of the Lodges under the jurisdiction of the Grand Orient, which opened early on Monday the 8th instant, was closed on Saturday the 13th by the usual banquet of the Order, after holding seven successive meetings, at which were discussed and transacted the business, both legislative and administrative, of the Rite.

The most important sitting was that held on Tuesday the 9th instant, at which was passed a new law respecting the dues to be paid to the Grand Orient, as Grand Lodge's Fund for General Purposes.

The Lodge was opened in due form at 2 p.m. on that day by Bro. Le Plé, assisted by the members of the Council of the Order, and in presence of upwards of 200 delegates. Bro. Le Plé, Vénerable of the Lodge "Les Arts Réunis," of Rouen, had been elected, the day before, chairman of the Assembly, in consequence of the desire expressed by M.W. Bro. De Saint-Jean that he should not this year be voted to the chair as customary, his present bad health rendering him unfit for so arduous a task. After the opening ceremony a decree of the Council of the Order, appointing the brethren to officiate in the Grand Lodge during its session, was read, and those Officers were immediately installed in their respective functions, as follows:—Bros. Prost, delegate of the Lodge Solidarité et Progrès of Dijon, G.S. Warden; Petitfrère, Venerable of the Lodge Amis Bienfaisants of Paris, G.J.Warden; Francolin, Ven. of the Lodge Ecole Mutuelle of Paris, G. Orator; Furt, Ven. of the Lodge Sincérité of Bordeaux, A.G. Orator; Gambini, Ven. of the Lodge Parfaite Sincérité of Marseilles, G. Sec.; Josset, Ven. of the Lodge Etoile de l'Espérance of Beauvais, A.G. Sec.; Plassan, Ven. of the Lodge Encyclopédique, G. Expert; Péan, Ven. of the Lodge Démocratie Maçonnique of Pantin, S.A.G.Expert; Dupré, delegate of the Lodge Cosmopolite of Vichy, J.A.G.Expert; Cammas, delegate of the Lodge Progrès of Constantinople, G. Hospitaller; G. Directors of Ceremonies and G. Stewards, G. Inner Guard, Tyler, &c., were also nominated and invested.

The Grand Lodge being thus formed, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and after that the Secretary of the Fourth Bureau of the Assembly was called upon to make known the report of the Committee upon the proposed substitution of one single impost to the permanent and temporary contributions paid by the Lodges to the Grand Orient as annual dues. Bro. Décembre-Alonnier then read a report which was so comprehensive as not to permit much discussion about the points raised against the present system of contributions. Yet, however good were the arguments set forth against those contributions and the evil of inequality that is so evident in the mode of levying them, the proposal of putting in lieu thereof some more rational tax was not allowed to pass without much opposition. First among the objectors was Bro. Poulle, a member of the Council of the Order; but despite the ability with which he, as a lawyer, defended the existing system, the latter was condemned beforehand, not only by the common sense of the Assembly, but also by that instinctive peculiarity of the Frenchman's mind that leads him irresistibly to level differences and make equals in everything. But in this case there seems to have been sufficient evidence to entirely justify that eagerness with which the partisans of this reform carried all before them. For the fact was made palpable that the Grand Orient receives from every one of its subordinate Lodges a fixed annual contribution of a hundred francs, and besides this an amount varying with the number of members of each of the Lodges, which are for that purpose divided into four classes. In the first class the charge is seventy-five francs, and in the last only two hundred francs. So that it does naturally happen that a Lodge of only ten members pays in annual dues a sum amounting to 175 francs, making that 17 francs 50 cents per head, whilst the Lodge that is possessed of a list of three hundred members does not pay more than one franc per head—that is: three hundred francs in all—as Grand Orient annual dues! After an interesting discussion, in which many brethren joined, and upon its favourable conclusion by the Bro. Orator, the following resolution was passed by 142 votes:—

"All the Lodges of the Obedience shall pay to the Grand Orient an annual and single contribution, each in proportion with the number of its active members, according to its quarterly return."

The other clauses that provide for the means of facilitating the regular execution of the law were voted afterwards without much objection, and then the Grand Lodge adjourned.

Next day's sitting, and that of Thursday and Friday, were fully occupied with mere routine business; proposals of modifications to be introduced in some regulations; votes of several grants for charitable purposes, and examinations of the Budget of the Grand Orient, whose expenditure for next year is calculated at 168,638fr. 70c.

In the elections, which took place on Thursday, of the eleven members to replace those eleven displaced by lot, according to the article of the law constituting the Council of the Order, eight of those retiring were re-elected, and, after a double ballot, involving a sharp contest, three new members were elected, also for three years. These are, 1st Bro. Le Plé, D.M.V. of the Lodge Arts Réunis of Rouen, Président elect of the Assembly; 2nd Bro. Sarrat, Ven. of the Lodge Chevaliers de Fraternité of Bordeaux; and, finally, Bro. Didiot Ven. of the Lodge Union and Persévérance of Paris, for the centenary of which Lodge there was a great fête held last year. But the closing meeting, on Saturday, being one at which visitors are admitted in the Lodge Hall, and not merely in the galleries, as on the previous days, was, of course, more interesting and more lively than the preceding ones. The spacious Lodge room was hung with flags of all nations, arranged here and there between the panels, which were covered with the symbols of the Order. Amidst those flags the motto, "Liberté, Egalité et Fraternité" was conspicuous enough to remind—if not the French by whom the words are so commonly used that one may be inclined to believe they have become meaningless to most of them, but certainly the casual foreign visitor, of the fundamental basis of our Institution and of the only true principles of Freemasonry, which are, whatever may be thought or said to the contrary, the only faith and the sole dogma upon which every Mason ought to be obligated. Why not inscribe everywhere those words in our Lodges, instead of trying to symbolise their meaning, and then to leave those symbols to be explained, or often misexplained altogether?

At 4.30 p.m. the Grand Lodge was opened in due and solemn form by the President of the Assembly, supported in the East by the President of the Council of the Order, and assisted by the members of that Council. The Grand Secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting, and some minor business having been despatched, the President gave order to the Directors of Ceremonies to see whether there were any brethren waiting for admission, and to introduce with due Masonic honours any distinguished visitors that might be known to them as such. A deputation was immediately formed and left the Lodge. A few minutes after the doors were re-opened, and in came the visitors; then, under "an arch of steel, gavel sounding, and brethren to order, two Deacons, bearing the respective flags of England and France," and the guests were introduced. Among them were Bro. Dr. John Thomas Loth Grand Steward of Scotland 33° S.C.G.O., and Bro. William Cornelius P.M. Lodge Celtic Royal Order of Scotland, Knight of Rome, Constantine, Malta, &c., 35°. S.C.G.O. These visitors being conducted with due honours, and placed between the two columns, the W. President Bro. Le Plé addressing them said:—"Scotland and France, brethren, are two countries which, whatever has happened, are more than any others, and Masonically united; French and Scotch Masons were, and are still one. We greet and welcome you, therefore, with pleasure and joy. We offer you our cordial hand and fraternal grip, and we wish you all good and prosperity."

Bro. Le Plé then asked the brethren to give to the visitors a hearty proof of brotherly feeling by uniting with him in saluting them with a warm and sympathetic double batterie (French and Scottish). The President having given the sign, it was accordingly followed with cheerful unanimity.

After the batterie Bro. Loth, returning thanks, said:—"Most W. President, and you all, Brethren of this Illustrious Convent: I am among you, I think, an old face, being known personally by many of you as a friend of the Grand Orient; it is, therefore, with heartfelt pleasure and infinite pride that I come forward, in the name of the visitors, to thank you most cordially for the splendid manner in which you have just welcomed us. I am particularly moved, indeed, by the expression of your fraternal sentiments towards Scotch Masons. To them, be sure of it, I shall not fail, if not officially, as I had the honour of doing for many years, but none the less truly and sincerely, to be, on all occasions, the faithful interpreter of your brotherly regard and good wishes. I am pleased beyond expression, and consider it a good fortune the coincidence of my visit to Paris with the meeting of the Convent: this important gathering of the Grand Orient, to which I have now the extreme satisfaction and pride of being admitted, especially under existing circumstances. We cannot have light without variety of colour; we cannot have freedom of thought and liberty of conscience without difference of opinion. Deprecating, much as I do, and with true Masonic feeling, what has happened, I cannot however refrain from giving utterance here to my regrets and hopes; nor to say that already I see and can point to the day, which I feel certain is not distant, when it shall be completely obliterated by Masonic charity alone. For, brethren, in matters Masonic, Charity and Brotherly love must be our guiding rule, our first precept. And where Charity reigns, there may be difference without antagonism, variety without discord, shades of opinion without systematic opposition, broken relations or disunion. Yes, let us hope for that day, it will soon come, when French and Scotch Masons again, as of old, hand in hand, will, by a perfect understanding, renew and make stronger the link of their old brotherly affection, now, I may say, only apparently interrupted. And then, pursuing with that energy and fidelity that are among their national characteristics, the path marked out by our primitive brethren for us to live in perpetual union, we will then have between us but one question, viz.:—that of our mutual contest or emulation in the love and progress of the Fraternity. Brethren, once more receive our warmest thanks and most cordial wishes."

After this speech, which was listened to with as much interest as it was delivered with emotion, and was warmly applauded, the President called upon the Bro. Orator to deliver the Oration of the day. Brother Francolin did so, with great ability of thought and capacity of conception. He took up a subject which could not fail to bring him the general applause of the brethren, though the volubility with which he read it marred and destroyed, in many instances, the effect of the happy thoughts and appropriate expressions which abounded in his oration. We regret not being able to review it here, owing to the want of space.

After the general applause of the Brethren, and the personal congratulation of the Brother President to Brother Orator had been made and acknowledged, Brother Cousin, Senior Vice President of the Council of the Order, rose, and with that sagacity and heartiness which are so prominent in him, proposed, in short but well-chosen words, a vote of thanks to the Chairman of the Assembly. That proposal was received with all the more enthusiastic cheering that it was supported by the President of the Council of the Order. Our much esteemed and Ill. Bro. De Saint Jean, having congratulated Bro. Le Plé on the able and dignified manner with which he had discharged the lofty but difficult duties of the chair, called upon the brethren to acknowledge their thankfulness to the chairman by a well-fed and treble batterie, three times three, which was executed with renewed enthusiastic cheering, alternated with the words:—Liberty: Equality and Fraternity; whilst Bro. De Saint Jean, always mindful of the practices of our primitive brethren, and in the name of the brethren of all the Lodges of the Rite, tenderly gave the accolade to Bro. Le Plé, and warmly shook hands with him. The Lodge then adjourned from labour to refreshment; that summum bonum of all those who could not, for the life of them, disconnect Freemasonry with conviviality. A sumptuous banquet, at which upwards of 200 brethren attended, and with the usual toasts and courtesies, closed—between ten and eleven p.m. last Saturday—the Session of the Grand Orient for this year; a session upon which on all points it may be congratulated.

DORIC CHAPTER, No. 933.

THE Installation Meeting of this Chapter was held on the 16th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Among those present were—Comps. B. Cundick M.E.Z., W. Musto H., G. Hollington J., J. G. Stevens S.E., F. Buckland N., Bonny P. Soj.; also Comps. T. J. Barnes, J. Taylor, Griffin, Myers, G. W. Verry, J. J. Berry, Bowron, Shepherd, &c. After the confirmation of minutes of previous Convocation, Bro. Edney J.W. 933 was exalted to the R.A. degree in a finished manner, by the M.E.Z. Comp. Cundick then proceeded to instal Comp. Musto into the chair of Z., and Comp. Barnes to instal Comps. Hollington and Buckland into the chairs of H. and J. respectively. The working throughout was of a most perfect character. The M.E.Z. then appointed as his Officers Comps. T. J. Barnes Treasurer, J. Bowron S.E., Bonny N., G. W. Verry P. Soj., J. J. Berry First Asst. S. The pleasure of presenting a Past Principal's jewel to Comp. Cundick next devolved upon Comp. Musto; in this duty he acquitted himself successfully. The Chapter was then closed, and the Comps. repaired to the banquet room. After the cloth was removed, the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts were suitably honoured. Bro. Cundick, in proposing the health of the M.E.Z., expressed the pleasure it had given him to instal Comp. Musto into the proud position of First Principal of the Doric Chapter. It was well known to all how ably and zealously he worked in Craft Masonry—ever ready to impart Masonic instruction to others—and with what credit to himself he had performed the duties of the several offices he had been appointed to in that Chapter. He was sure that the Doric Chapter would lose none of its prestige whilst under the presidency of their most Excellent Comp. Musto. After Comp. Musto had responded, the toasts of Comps. H. and J., and the past Principal Officers were proposed by the M.E.Z., and heartily received. The Janitor's toast brought a successful evening to a close.

THE BENEVOLENT FUND.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In the last issue of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE I find your able editiorial article on the subject of the large amount of money in the Benevolent Fund, in excess, as you state, of what is required for the purposes for which it has been subscribed, with suggestions as to how this plethora of wealth can be disposed of, the principle of which is that a certain amount shall be abstracted and applied to other uses beyond those named at the foundation of the fund, and you pertinently put the question, "What better object could the brethren set before them to achieve than to place in the hands of our young students, after they quit our Schools, some means whereby they might make a start in life, and which, without extraneous aid, they are frequently unable to do." Now, Dear Sir and Brother, I think without any amount of arrogance, or any better knowledge than is possessed in common by every member of our Craft, and at the risk of setting myself somewhat in opposition to your better judgment, that a ready outlet for this great flood of wealth could be found in other ways. The children of our deceased brethren are frequently thrown back upon the widowed mother, a heavy burden that she is scarcely able to bear, and the only hope of relief thrown open to her is the chance of obtaining admission for one or more of them into our Masonic Schools. They are in due time, accordingly, submitted for the opinion of the Committee, and being considered fit objects for the Charity, are placed upon the list of accepted candidates for the next election, but having no friend standing high in the Craft to advocate their cause and personally take up the case, how often does the hope of gaining admission to our Schools turn out to be but "a mockery, a delusion, and a snare." After running the prescribed number of elections, the time at length comes which fixes the hopes of the mother on "the last application." This, like all the rest, ends only in disappointment, and the poor child is now "left out in the cold," and without the possibility of ever being received into the bosom of the Craft, although, perchance, only a few votes separated him or her from more fortunate competitors. On the other hand, look at the contrast. Once included in the list of "successful candidates" everything is provided for, it may be, for the next nine years of the child's life, who is well fed, clothed and educated, in many instances in a very superior manner to what they would ever have enjoyed had their parents been living, and, for the period named, live in the very sunshine of happiness; every want is carefully attended to, friends visit them, amusements are provided, and anything like ordinary diligence shown by them in their studies meets with ready and willing rewards. Contrast all this with the condition of the "unsuccessful candidates," who go back to their poor homes, in many cases, no doubt, almost wanting the necessaries of life—"without any extraneous aid" to help many, and who are henceforth to be considered dead to the Craft. If all this is calmly reviewed by our brethren I think I may venture to say that there is no lack of objects upon whom this superfluous capital might well be bestowed. However deserving may have been the conduct of a brother during his lifetime, or however he may have tried, perhaps in a humble way, to carry out the great precepts of the Order, his widow can make but one appeal to the bounty of the Craft, and cannot renew it, however great her necessities may be. Therefore it is that I plead on behalf of those left behind who have not been fortunate enough to obtain any of the good things which the Craft dispenses with so liberal a hand.

If these few lines serve to elicit any opinion from our elder brethren of the Craft in the direction I have indicated, and have the effect of admitting a bright and cheering ray into the widow's home, it will be a great satisfaction to,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

18th Sept. 1879. A P.M.

MASONIC TRADE MARKS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I think that great praise is due to you for reproducing from the Masonic Newspaper the excellent article inserted in your last number on "Masonic Trade Marks," and I really believe that few right-thinking Masons will disagree with the opening sentence of that article, which sets out by stating—"The not infrequent use of Masonic emblems in outward display has rarely met with the approval of right-thinking members of the fraternity, and when an exhibition of this nature presents itself we are at once led to suspect the good faith, if we might not add, the good sense of the exhibitor." There can be no doubt that the display of the Masonic emblems is a privilege greatly abused, for no sooner in some instances does the novitiate receive the first light of Freemasonry than he is anxious to make an outward display of having been admitted within the portals of the Order by every means in his power, and to my own knowledge in one instance a publican, who had been proposed for initiation in a Lodge that shall be nameless, actually had the Masonic emblems painted on the front of his house before he was admitted a member. Amongst publicans it is the rule, and not the exception, to make the most ostentatious display of their connection with the Order, and which goes a long way in my mind to prove that one of the first questions put to them at their initiation, has been altogether disregarded. I am not aware whether there is any Masonic law to reach such cases, but I think if the members of the Lodges to which these placarding Masons belong were to express their disapprobation of such practices a remedy would soon be applied, and the objectionable exhibition removed. The display of matters which ought to be confined to the sanctity of our Lodges can have but one object, and that is a mercenary consideration. As I began with an extract from the article referred to, so will I close with another from it, which thoroughly expresses my views upon the subject. "Among Masons, with whom this token has a moral significance its use in that capacity (a trade mark) would undoubtedly be regarded as a base prostitution of it to mercenary purposes, while with others its mystic force would often dissipate its virtues as a trade mark, and perhaps in some instances place the article it appeared upon under a ban."

I am, yours fraternally,

ALPHA.

FREEMASONS PAINTED BY ONE OF THEMSELVES.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In an editorial article in your contemporary of the 20th instant, I find the following description of Freemasons, and, having called your attention to it, I shall leave yourself and readers to draw their own conclusions:—

"In Freemasonry to-day we are, and must be, struck by the fact that the professions in lodge are widely different from the practice out of lodge, and that if we were to judge of Freemasonry by what we hear brethren say, and what we see them do, our opinion of the worth and value, the utility and need of Masonry in the world would be very low and slight indeed."

Now such an opinion as this, found in the organ which professes to be the exponent of Freemasonry, and constantly censuring evil speaking and slandering in others, comes with an exceedingly bad grace indeed, but unless the writer of these "charitable" sentiments may say that his observations have been garbled, I give the rest of the passage:—

"The brother, for instance, who dilates unremittingly and magnificently about Masonic charity and brotherly love in Lodge, to the intense admiration of a most select circle, is out of Lodge, or in print sometimes, the most illnatured, tale-bearing, and slanderous of mortals. He does a frightful amount of mischief, and not only does reveal 'secrets,' but he very often 'separates chief friends.' You and I, kind readers, have often heard Bro. Mugginbotham, who is quite 'touching' in all he says about 'charity,' &c., in our Lodge gatherings; he affects the 'visiting brethren,' and 'moves' the 'reporters,' (proverbially a hard-hearted race), but search the lists of our Charities, we find him not; and neither does Bros. Terry, or Binckes, or Hedges record with an approving pen the classic and euphonious name of 'Mugginbotham' in their veracious lists. And, once more, we all know 'Crusher,' what a 'swell' he is, how he lays down the law, how the Lodge listens intent upon his words; how no one delivers an impressive ritual like 'Crusher,' and yet, alas, as we all know, his daily and hourly existence is a most mournful illustration of the utter hollowness of the principles he avows, the ritual he knows so well, and 'spits out' so glibly."

Such, Dear Sir and Brother, is the elegant diction of this champion of brotherly love, &c., and I ask you, need I offer another word in "illustration of the hollowness of the principles" avowed by the writer, or whether it is worth my while even to expectorate upon such a production?

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours truly and fraternally,

P.M.

The Directors of the Crystal Palace District Gas Company have issued their report for the half-year ending the 30th June 1879, which was presented to the proprietors at the ordinary general meeting on the 25th September 1879. They recommend that an addition of £20 per annum be made to the remuneration of each auditor, in consideration of the increased labour thrown on those officers. The financial position of the Company is declared as follows:—The balance of Profit and Loss Account amounts to £11,745 3s 10d. Out of this sum the Directors recommend the declaration of a Dividend for the half-year ending 30th June last at the following rates per annum, viz.—6 per cent. on the Preference Stock; 7 per cent. on the Ordinary 7 per cent. Stock; 10 per cent. on the ordinary 10 per cent. Stock; and 7 per cent. on the new ordinary 7 per cent. Shares; all less income tax; this will absorb £10,452 12s 1d, and leave £1,292 11s 9d to be carried forward to the profit of the succeeding half-year. The prosperous state of this Company—with which many of our brethren are connected—here exhibited, must be eminently gratifying to the shareholders.

We have received Prospectus of the Street Accident and Dangerous Driving Prevention Society, whose headquarters are at 17 Devonshire Square, Bishopsgate. The intention of this Society is to enforce existing laws; to petition Parliament to amend the present insufficient statutes; to prosecute offenders; grant donations or loans to sufferers; obtain compensation for injuries; compulsory carriage of a lamp on all vehicles, trimmed and lighted after sunset; compulsory use of proper brake power; to station the society's officers in all the leading thoroughfares of the metropolis and other towns. Those who desire to know more of this Society can obtain all particulars from the Secretary, E. C. Keevil, at the Offices as above.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF CHESHIRE.

BY command of Bro. the Right Hon. Lord de Tabley, R.W.P.G.M. the annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cheshire was held on Wednesday the 17th inst, in the Mechanics' Institution, Stockport, where there was an exceedingly large and highly-influential gathering of brethren from every portion of the province, Masonic enthusiasm being thus shown in the support of a chief who is so deservedly popular, as well as in the direction of giving continued vitality to the cause of the fraternity generally. At present his lordship rules over a province which embraces 37 Lodges, with a total membership of upwards of 1700; and on this occasion the whole of the Lodges in the province were represented, without a single exception, there being altogether upwards of 400 brethren present to assist at the annual business meeting of the province. This is probably the largest meeting of brethren which has ever been held in connection with the province, and amongst the Lodges most numerously represented were the Lodge of St. John, No. 104, Stockport; the Lodge of Peace, No. 322, Stockport; the Lodge of Concord, No. 323, Stockport; and the Warren Lodge, No. 1276, Liscard.

The proceedings commenced at one o'clock p.m. when Bro. the Right Hon. Lord de Tabley P.G.M. was received in due form by the assembled brethren, amongst the P.G. Lodge Officers present being Bros. G. W. Latham, Past G.D. of England, acting as D.P.G.M., R. Beales P.P.G.J.W., A. E. Cokayne P.G.S.B., Llewellyn Making P.G.J.D., J. Tomlinson P.P.G.S.B., Rev. R. Hodgson P.G.C., W. Nicholls P.G.P., J. Dutton P.P.G.S.W., H. Bulley P.G.S.B. of England, Rev. J. W. Newell Tanner P.P.G.C., W. Fair P.P.G.S.B. &c.

The P.G. Lodge having been opened in due form letters of apology for non-attendance were announced by the P.G. Secretary (Bro. E. H. Griffiths) from Bro. the Right Hon. W. Egerton D.P.G.M. (who has gone to Italy), Bro. Horatio Lloyd P.P.G.S.W., Bro. Le Gendre Starkie P.G.M. of East Lancashire, Bro. McIntyre G. Reg., and a number of other provincial Grand Lodge Officers. The roll of Lodges was then called over, and it was found that all were represented, the total attendance being about 450. The minutes of the previous annual meeting, held at Nantwich, were read and unanimously confirmed.

Bro. the Right Hon. Lord De Tabley P.G.M., who was received with loud cheers, said that he had again to thank the G.A.O.T.U. for being once more permitted to preside over the P.G. Lodge of Cheshire. He did so with very sincere gratitude, and especially when he again found himself, after a lapse of 13 years, in the good old town of Stockport, where he had always met with a cordial and hospitable reception. The Masonic gathering which he had now the honour to address in no way lost its previous reputation, or fell short of what he had reason to expect. He thought that no Prov. G. Master ever addressed so large and influential a meeting as that which was there assembled. Every Lodge had answered to its name, and several of them were most largely represented. What was still more satisfactory to his feelings, and must be to every Mason, was the fact that during the year every Lodge had nobly done its duty in promoting the noble and sacred cause of charity. It would perhaps be invidious for him to particularise any individual Lodge, but he felt that he must mention the Lodge of St. John, No. 104, Stockport, as being prominent in its support of the Girls' School in London during the last year. Other Lodges, however, had nobly done their duty, and the result was that during the year their success had been unprecedented. They carried their three candidates for the Girls' School and the Royal Benevolent Institution on the first application. Besides this, £10 had been voted by the Fund of Benevolence to a distressed brother at Hyde, and £10 which had been voted to another distressed brother had been increased to £40 through the efforts of one of their brethren. His lordship then referred to a case in which the daughter of a deceased brother was a candidate for the Girls' School on the representation that her father belonged to the province of Cheshire, but he desired to state that this was not the fact, because, although her father had been initiated in Cheshire, he actually had been a subscribing brother in Wiltshire. He would therefore ask the brethren to reserve their votes till the next spring election, when they would have three bona fide Cheshire candidates for the Charities, whose election he trusted they would secure through the same excellent arrangements which had distinguished them in times past. He was happy to say that during the past year the peace of the province had been undisturbed; no dispute of any sort had been brought under his notice, and he was glad to know that the vitality of the province was shown by the fact that there was now a total membership of 1731 in connection with the Lodges. No doubt it was very satisfactory to find that Masonry had so greatly increased in that portion of the kingdom, but there was one circumstance upon which he wished to make a few remarks. From the returns of the various Lodges he found that out of the 1731 members there were no fewer than 114 defaulters in the way of subscription. That was a very serious matter, and he accordingly wished to call the attention of the brethren, especially of the W.M.'s of the various Lodges, to the fact. Those brethren who were behind in the subscriptions ought to be struck off the roll of the Lodge, as each Lodge had to pay a certain amount to the grand Lodge in fees, even for those who did not meet their subscriptions. This was a very serious matter, and he (Lord de Tabley) was sure he had only to mention it to secure immediate attention and a speedy remedy. The Cheshire Educational Institution, under the chairmanship of Bro. J. P. Platt, had also flourished greatly during the year, and there was now a very considerable number of children supported through its instrumentality. The mention of this charity vividly called to his memory the loss which their Order had sustained by the death of Bro. Thomas Platt during the year, whose exertions and energy were so conspicuous in the cause of Masonry and the Educational Institution of Cheshire—an example which they might all very worthily follow. He (the P.G.M.) had only to express, in conclusion, his deep responsibility of the position which he held as the head of that province, and he could assure the brethren that his great anxiety was to do the duty which the Grand Master had placed upon him fairly and impartially. He had hitherto great reason to thank the brethren for their cordial support, and he could only hope that he would continue to merit that in the future.

Bro. F. Jackson P.G. Treas., submitted his annual financial statement, from which it appeared that there was a balance to the credit of the Provincial Grand Lodge amounting to £537 15s 7d and to the Fund of Benevolence of £713 17s 4d. The P.G. Treasurer congratulated the brethren upon the fact that the province was now out of debt, and he trusted that they would be able next year to vote a sum of money in charity. Lord de Tabley said it was most satisfactory to find this state of things, especially after the munificent subcription of 1000 guineas which had been voted a few years ago to secure a perpetual presentation to the Boy's School. The financial statement was passed; and on the motion of the P.G.M., seconded by Bro. Latham, acting D.P.G.M., Bro. F. Jackson was re-elected P.G. Treasurer.

His lordship then appointed the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year:—The Hon. Wilbraham Egerton, M.P., 321 Deputy P.G. Master,* Bro. John Wood 321 P.G. Senior Warden, Francis Arthur Dickson 425 P.G. Junior Warden, Rev. Richard Hodgson* 1045 P.G. Chaplain, Rev. George Frederick Dean 537 P.G. Chaplain, Ferdinando Jackson jun.* 295 P.G. Treasurer, John Hibbert 1166 P.G. Registrar, Edward Hounsum Griffiths* 293 P.G. Secretary, William Harrison 104 P.G. Senior Deacon, William Hickton 322 P.G. Junior Deacon, Stanhope Bull 425 P.G. Supt. of Works, Herbert Finch 104 P.G. Dir. of Cers., Thomas Brookes 323 P.G. Assist. Dir. of Cers., George Henry Holden 295 P.G. Sword Bearer, Edward Cuzner* 425 P.G. Organist, William Nicholls 941 P.G. Pursuivant, J. H. Holtaway* 1289 P.G. Tyler, William Booth 104, Edward Stevens 104, John Leigh 287, William Henry Brown 322, Josiah Hill 323, John K. Green 323, P.G. Stewards.

The P.G.M. reappointed Bro. J. P. Platt as the Chairman of the Fund of Benevolence, and invested him with a clasp in recognition of services again given as Steward to the Girls' School.

The P.G.M. also presented and invested the following brethren with charity jewels, to which they had entitled themselves by twice serving the office of Steward to the London Charities:—Bro. Simcock 1357, Bro. Cunnah 721, Bro. Harrison W.M. 104, Bro. Kirk I.P.M. 104, Bro. T. Burrows J.W. 104, Bro. H. Finch P.M. 104, and Bro. J. Stafford 104.

The P.G.M. announced that he would hold the next meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge at Runcorn; and a vote of thanks having been given to the Rev. Matthew Pugh, M.A., rector of St. Thomas's Church, for the use of that building for divine service, the P.G.L. was closed in solemn form.

The brethren were now marshalled in procession, the County Lodges first, followed by the past and present P.G. Officers. The Sacred Law was borne on a crimson velvet cushion placed upon an altar or pedestal of garter-blue and gold with white staves, by four Master Masons' sons, each of them wearing a garter-blue collar and silver "Lewis" attached, bearing a suitable inscription, with which they had been invested by the P.G.M. The square, level plumb-rule and mallet borne in the procession were the same as used in laying the corner stone of St. Mary's Parish Church in the year 1813, and now in possession of Lodge Unanimity 287. The Wardens' columns and the tracing boards of the three degrees were carried by the W.M.'s of local Lodges. Favoured with beautiful weather, the procession passed off with great success, and was witnessed by a vast concourse of people. Spectators and carriages lined either side of the streets leading to the Church, and almost every window and piece of vantage ground was occupied along the route.

Arrived at St. Thomas's Church, the procession opened out to allow the P.G.M. and Provincial Officers to pass into the building, thus inverting the order in which the brethren walked from the Mechanics' Institution. Proceeding along the north side of the church the members were met by Bros. Hornby and Nield, the churchwardens. The body of the church was reserved for the brethren, and as they entered, the choir sang, "Onward, Christian soldiers." The musical portion of the service was under the direction of Bro. E. Cuzner P.G.O., assisted by Master W. E. Cuzner, Misses Florence, Alice, and Essie Cuzner, Bros. Edmondson, Humphries, and T. Knowles, and Mr. R. H. Williams. Bridgewater's cantata in A, "O, sing unto the Lord a new song," and the anthem, "God is a spirit," from Sterndale Bennett's "Woman of Samaria," were very beautifully rendered, and listened to with rapt attention. The service was intoned by the Rev. Graham Jones, of Newton, and the lesson read by the Rev. Spencer Stanhope, G. Chaplain of England, the preacher being the Rev. R. Hodgson, M.A., P.G. Chaplain, who took for his text the 17th verse of the 2nd chapter of the First Epistle to Peter—"Honour all men, love the brotherhood." A collection was afterwards made on behalf of the Provincial Fund of Benevolence and the Stockport Infirmary.

The brethren subsequently banquetted at the Volunteer Armoury (specially decorated for the occasion), under the presidency of Bro. the Right Hon. Lord de Tabley. During dinner the band of the 4th C.R.V. played a choice selection of music, conducted by Mr. T. M'Ardle. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed by Bro. Lord de Tabley, the health of the Grand Officers being acknowledged by Bro. H. Bulley Past G.S.B.

Bro. G. W. Latham, Acting D.P.G.M., gave the toast of Lord de Tabley, and in doing so referred to the great progress which Masonry had made in that province during his lordship's fourteen years' Mastership.

The toast was received with the utmost enthusiasm and the P.G.M. in response said Bro. Latham had so cordially, so warmly proposed his health, in terms far too flattering to himself and to his personal merits, but not too flattering to the reception the Provincial Grand Master had met with that day as Provincial Grand Master, a reception of which any one might well be proud. As he went through the streets he found a welcome which nothing could exceed. It was not the first time he had been in Stockport, and he felt bound to say that in no town did he find warmer hearts or a more cordial welcome than he did amongst his fellow-countrymen in Stockport. He had a grateful recollection of their kindness, and he always looked forward to the time when the visit should recur again. Bro. Latham had reflected that since they had last the pleasure of meeting here a period had elapsed which would give food, and ample food for reflection. For his own part, he could only refer with unmixed gratitude to his own experience. He entered upon his duties with an anxious desire to do what in him lay for the benefit of Masonry, and now, after the lapse of so many years, his heart still beat as warm towards Masonry as it did in the beginning, and he hoped it would still continue to beat as warm till his dying day. Since that time Masonry had made great progress, and now its members were numbered by hundreds, and there were only two or three provinces before them in the annals of charity. Masonry, of course, was not without its ups and downs, its little differences of opinion, which were to be regretted; but he was happy to say, that everything of that kind had passed away, and harmony—he hoped perpetual harmony—had been restored, which throughout the province there would be a determination to support and maintain. He thanked them most cordially for the reception met with that day, and more particularly were his thanks due to the brethren of Stockport. Every brother would recollect that there was great gratitude due to the Stockport Lodges for the way in which they had been received. He again thanked them for the way in which they had drunk his health, and he was sure they would continue to give the same warm support to Masonry when his own heart had ceased to beat.

The P.G.M. next gave the toast of the "Hon. Wilbraham Egerton, M.P., R.W.D.P.G. Master, and the other P.G. Officers." He was sorry that the Deputy Provincial Grand Master was abroad, and in his absence he called upon their excellent brother John Wood to respond.

Bro. John Wood P.G.S.W. said it was a matter of great satisfaction to him, as a Stockport Mason, to see the magnificent spectacle which had been presented that day in the church, on the road, and at the banquet. It would be a matter of grateful remebrance to him that Stockport had not come short of what was expected of it. He had no doubt that would remain a prominent day in the memory of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, and of every brother who had been present.

Bro. F. A. Dickson P.G.J.W. proposed the toast of the "Visiting P.G. Masters and other visiting brethren," and called upon the Mayor of Stockport, Bro. J. L. Vaughan P.M. 1,030, and Captain Turner P.P.G.S.W. of Derbyshire.

The Mayor of Stockport, in responding, said it gave him great pleasure to be present, both as a Past Master of a neighbouring Lodge and as Mayor of this Borough. It would be one of the most pleasing recollections of his life.

Captain Turner said he did not expect his name to be coupled with the toast, and he felt some difficulty in answering it according to its merits. At the same time he felt that he had not done himself justice in living so long in the neighbourhood of Stockport and yet having to respond to the toast of the visitors.

The P.G.M. then proposed the health of the Masters of Lodges 104, 287, 322, and 323, Stockport. It would be invidious to particularise any of them, and therefore he would only call attention to the noble exertions made by the St. John's Lodge 104 in the cause of charity.

The W.M.'s of the several Lodges responded to the toast.

Bro. the Rev. R. Hodgson P.G.C. proposed the toast, "Prosperity to the Masonic Charities." Every brother present would agree with him that if Masonry was not charity, it was nothing at all. If it was not a reality, Masonry was simply humbug, and nothing more. He was not of those who discouraged the good things of this life, for he thought it was a grand thing for the brethren to come together in pleasant social intercourse, but the principal object of Masonry was its Masonic Charities, and he was happy to say they were amongst the largest in England.

Brother Platt P.P.G.J.W., Treasurer for the Masonic Educational Institution in Cheshire, responded. For the first time, during a period of 16 years, they had been able to meet all their payments by the interest on their investments.

The P.G.M. next proposed the P.G. Stewards, who had so well discharged their duties.

Bro. Wm. Booth S.D. 104, responding for the Stewards, said, although the duties might be arduous, there was an amount of pleasure in assisting in the success of the Provincial Grand Lodge meeting which was its own reward. The decorations of the room were the work of one of the P.G. Stewards, Bro. Hill P.M., to whom they would agree great credit was due.

The P.G. Tyler then gave the last toast, "To all poor and distressed Masons throughout the world."

The P.G.M. then brought the happy meeting to a close, after thanking them once again for the hearty welcome he had received in the good old town of Stockport.

A very choice selection of music was performed during the toasts, under the direction of the P.G. Organist, Bro. Cuzner.

The proceedings at the banquet were ably directed by Bro. Finch the Prov. G.D.C., who with the aid of a "herald" announced the toasts and led the "honours" with telling effect.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF NORTH AND EAST YORKSHIRE.

THE annual meeting of this Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 17th inst., in the Guildhall, York, under the presidency of the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master the Earl of Zetland. He was supported by Bro. Dr. Pearson Bell, M.D., J.P., P.S.G.D. Deputy Prov. Grand Master, the various Officers of the year, and a numerous gathering of Past Prov. Grand Officers, Masters, and members of the Lodges of the Province, the meeting being one of the largest ever known in this district. Prov. Grand Lodge having been opened in due form, the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The Prov. Grand Secretary then announced that several letters of apology had been received from brethren unable to attend, and then proceeded to read the report of the Board of Benevolence which had been held that day. This report contained, among other items, the announcement that the Treasurer's balance sheet had been adopted; and that the proposed bye-laws for the Charity Committee had been received, and, on motion, referred back to the brethren in whose hands the matter had been placed at last meeting. The Board recommended four grants respectively of £20, £10, £15, and £10, to relieve cases of distress brought under their notice, and discussed various matters of interest to the brethren as regards the voting of the Province at the London Charities. The report was received and the grants confirmed. The Prov. G. Treas. then read the balance sheet for the past year, by which it appears that the sum of £43 1s was given to charitable institutions, and a balance of £22 19s 2d remained in hand above the amount of the invested funds. A motion was then brought under the notice of Grand Lodge by Prov. G. Treasurer, to devote the sum of £123 to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons, in order to qualify the Province as Vice President of each Fund of that Institution; and, being seconded by the D. Prov. G. Master, was carried unanimously. The Prov. G. Treasurer was authorised to pay the amount at once. The various Lodges then presented their returns, and a sum of £167 4s for dues was handed in. The Committee appointed to frame laws for a Provincial Charity Committee were re-elected, with the addition to their number of Bro. Marwood. The following brethren were appointed by the Prov. Grand Master as Officers for the year:—J. W. Taylor P.M. 200 Scarborough Prov. G. S.W., W. H. Rose P.M. 660 J.W., R. M. Taylor 643 Chaplain, Henry Green P.M. 630 Registrar, M. C. Peck P.M. 1040 Secretary, Thomas Thompson P.M. 57 S.D., G. Ayre P.M. 1116 J.D., W. F. Falkingbridge 312 S. of W., F. Foster P.M. 1248 D. of C., J. Field P.M. 643 S.W. B., C. W. Cheesman W.M. 1605 Organist, J. Walls 236 Pursuivant, F. J. Lambert 1010 Tyler, R. W. Hollon P.M. 236 and 1611 re-elected Treasurer. The following Lodges were named as entitled to each nominate a Steward for the year, viz.:—Minerva 250, Constitutional 294, Lion 312, Cleveland 543, Zetland 561, and St. Germain 566.

The Provincial G. Master stated that he had received an invitation for next year's meeting from the Old Globe Lodge, Scarborough, and he had great pleasure in accepting it. The next year's meeting would therefore be held at Scarborough. He offered thanks to the Lord Mayor of York, for the cordial manner in which he had received them, and placed the Guildhall and Mansion House at their disposal. He likewise thanked the Worshipful Master (Bro. J. S. Cumberland) and the brethren of the Eboracum Lodge, York, 1611, for their hospitable reception, and for the very excellent arrangements which had been made for the meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge. As to the position of the Craft in the Province, the Provincial Grand Master added that they had cause for congratulation, in the large assemblage on that occasion. He likewise congratulated them on the prosperity and perfect harmony that prevailed throughout the Province. He had just received an application for the formation of a new Lodge in Middlesbrough, which spoke for itself, notwithstanding the great depression which existed throughout the country, and perhaps more so in that particular district than in any other part of the kingdom, of the prosperity of Freemasonry. It was a cause for congratulation also that they had passed the grant to the Royal Benevolent Institution for Aged Masons, for it was one from which they had on several occasions received no small share of benefit. This concluding the business of Provincial Grand Lodge the brethren were formed in procession and proceeded, headed by the band of the 4th Royal Irish Dragoon Guards, to the Cathedral, where divine service was held. The sermon was preached by Bro. the Rev. L. W. Heath, M.A., who founded his discourse on Ephesians 4—16—"From whom the whole body fitly joined together, and compacted by that which every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body into the edifying of itself in love." In the course of an appropriate sermon, he observed that St. Paul, in another place, spoke of having laid the foundation of his work as a wise builder, and now he spoke of how the building should be completed and joined together. The text was a just representation of the Church of Christ, and was at the same time an admirable illustration of the principles of Modern Masonry as they knew it, and the only end and object of their practice. He would not attempt to review any of the various theories concerning the origin or organisation of Masonry, its usages, practices, or celebrations in the earliest ages, but good reason had they to be proud of their fathers in the Craft as they sat in that public temple, the result of their work. Let them think of the grandeur of conception, the skill of execution, the patient elaboration of every detail, above all of the religious fervour which he believed animated all who were honoured by participating in the work, that the purpose of their labour was to glorify God and to do good to their fellow men, and then say if they of the present day had not cause to congratulate themselves that they were the representatives of those who labour had embellished the world with imperishable and unapproachable evidences of genius and perseverance. He used the word unapproachable, for was it not a fact that, notwithstanding the enormous strides which had been made in almost every department of art and science, nothing new in architectual science or operative Masonry had been originated since those days. It would seem as if the genius of their brethren in those times had utilised and exhausted every source of beauty and design suggested by nature, adopted it to their art, and had left subsequent generations the secondary task of imitation and restoration. The glory of God was the mainspring of their labours then, and let them now try to carry out those practices which contributed to the spiritual temple of which Christ was the head and chief cornerstone. There were those, as they knew, who, taking their own view of Masonry from the wild, fantastic, and degrading practices of the heathen nations, had attempted to condemn the system as recognised by themselves, but they believed that primitive Masonry was nothing more than the practice of those simple, moral precepts which were enjoyed by a religion pure as it came from God and unadulterated by the innovations of man, and such they claimed to be the principle of their present system. He firmly believed that if Masonry was not religion, it was an auxiliary to it, and that the society, as now constituted, might greatly assist its progress in the world. One writer had said that inasmuch as Christianity was local, that is, not being spread over the whole world, and their creed was universal, that was, bringing into one fraternity people of all colour, of every clime and creed, it might be made the pioneer of a great Christian fraternity. And were they not justified in such hopes? Proceeding, the rev. brother maintained that Masonry was conducive to good order and good government, loyalty to God and the sovereign, to the practice of every domestic virtue, and to the exercise of benevolence and charity. It had, he went on to say, been objected that there was a non-reality and foolishness in the free use they made of symbols. He admitted that their system was illustrated by signs and symbols, but he maintained that their use was of no light origin. The Bible was full of these illustrations of teaching, and everyone in the Tabernacle pointed to Christ. The square, the level, the plumbline, each possessed a distinct moral lesson, and every sign and symbol they used was a lecture to all thoughtful minds, reminding them of their mortality and of their immortality. In conclusion he observed that the objects for which he was requested to plead were two-fold. The result of their liberality would be equally divided between the sick and poor of their fraternity and the Minster Restoration Fund. Their sick and poor claimed in the first place their attention. He need not remind them of the exceptional distress which existed, and which he feared would be still more felt in the approaching season. Sacrifices were demanded, and many had been made, but he trusted this would not induce them to diminish ought of their gifts. To assist the afflicted and relieve the distress was an obligation they had acknowledged, and he urged them to make that an opportunity of faithfully fulfilling it. The other half would be added to the fund for the restoration of that noble temple in which they had been offering their praise and thanksgiving, and surely it would be no small incentive to their liberality as Masons to contribute to the restoration of an edifice of such beauty, which centuries ago so worthily engaged the skill and intelligent patience of their brethren of the craft. At the close of the sermon a collection, which realised £25 13s 6d, was made on behalf of the objects mentioned, and the service was then brought to a conclusion. As the brethren left the cathedral Dr. Monk played one of Sir F. A. G. Ouseley's finest voluntaries. The procession was subsequently reformed, and, headed by the Dragoons' band, returned to the Guildhall, where votes of thanks were passed to the Lord Mayor of York for his kindness and hospitality, to the Dean and Chapter for the use of the Cathedral, to Dr. Monk for his musical arrangements, to the Officers of the 4th Dragoon Guards for the presence of their magnificent band, and to the Eboracum Lodge for their splendid reception. The ode "Now the evening shadows closing," was sung, and the Grand Lodge was formally closed.

At five p.m. the R.W. Prov. G.M. held a levée in an ante-room at the De Grey Rooms, and Masters of Lodges and Visitors were introduced to him by Bro. T. B. Whytehead, P.P.G.D.C. At 5.30 a banquet was held in the large room, to which nearly 200 brethren sat down, presided over by his Lordship, who was supported by his Deputy, the Chaplain, the Lord Mayor of York, and many distinguished brethren. At the conclusion of the banquet, and after grace had been said, the Chairman proposed the usual loyal and other toasts. In giving the army, navy, and auxiliary forces the Earl announced that a telegram had just reached him, announcing the capture of the Zulu King, this he was pleased to be in a position to announce to the assembly, as it would virtually end the war in South Africa. Major T. B. Shaw-Hellier (4th Dragoon Guards) replied. To the toast of the Grand Officers Bro. Hollon P.G. Sw. B. replied, and was followed by Bro. Dr. Pearson Bell, who proposed the health of the Prov. Grand Master. It was a toast he felt assured would meet the most hearty reception, whenever he had the opportunity of visiting any of the Lodges of the Province, the toast of the Earl of Zetland was always drunk with the greatest enthusiasm. The brethren could but be pleased at the way in which the affairs of the Province were carried out, he considered the Prov. G.M. had fully justified the prediction that was made five-and-a-half years ago when he was installed. As Masons the brethren revered the name of the Earl, as Yorkshiremen they loved it, and one and all trusted he would long reign over them as Master of the Masonic Province which his ancestors had governed for the past four generations. The toast was most heartily received. The Earl in replying, tendered his thanks to Bro. Bell and the brethren for the way in which his health had been toasted. The reception he had met with that day brought back to his memory the time when, just over five years since, he was installed as Master of the Province. Looking back, he saw much to congratulate the Province on, which he felt was not owing to anything he had individually done, but to the kind and hearty support he had always met with. Bro. Tew D. P. Grand Master West Yorkshire was entrusted with the next toast—the Deputy of the Province, Bro. Dr. J. Pearson Bell. Bro. Tew referred to the support rendered by Bro. Bell to the Prov. G. Master in all matters which were brought under the notice of the Craft in the District. For thirteen years Bro. Bell had fulfilled the duties of Deputy faithfully and zealously; the more one saw of him, the more was he appreciated. Bro. Tew concluded by wishing Bro. Bell success in his efforts on behalf of the Charities, and hoped that West Yorkshire would always co-operate with the North and East Ridings, in this important branch of Freemasonry. Bro. Bell, after thanking the brethren, referred seriatim to the remarks of Bro Tew, and gave his ideas on the same. He was not, he said, so fortunately circumstanced as to be able to visit the various Lodges, as often as he could wish, nor as frequently as Bro. Tew had pointed out was necessary. For himself, he always desired to treat West Yorkshire as a big brother, and he had ever entertained feelings of the most cordial nature towards them. Lord Zetland then gave the health of the Mayor of York. The brethren were very much indebted to him for the way in which he had received them. He (the Earl) had never seen a more successful meeting, or witnessed arrangements better carried out, than they had been by the brethren of York, who had provided everything it was possible to think of for the comfort of their guests. The Mayor, in reply, stated that he very pleased to be able to assist in the welcome of the brethren of the Province. The civil rulers of the city were proverbial for their hospitality, and he hoped to maintain the prestige that had accrued in years gone by. The Earls of Zetland had been long connected with the city, and any mayor would be proud to entertain a member of the Zetland family. The toast of the newly appointed Provincial Grand Officers was acknowledged by the Grand Reg. Bro. Bell next proposed the health of the W.M. of the Eboracum Lodge, Bro. J. S. Cumberland. He considered it a great honour to introduce the name of this brother. He would couple with the toast, "Prosperity to the Lodge." The way in which the Lord Mayor had acted had been most praiseworthy, but the work of entertaining had really been undertaken by the W.M. and brethren of the Eboracum Lodge, who were one and all entitled to the heartiest thanks. Bro. Cumberland in reply thanked the officials of Prov. G. Lodge for the compliment they had paid the Lodge of which he was master in having accepted their invitation. If what the brethren had done met the approval of their guests they were amply repaid. He trusted his Lodge would continue to prosper and ever maintain that straight line of Masonic conduct it had hitherto fulfilled. Bro. Bell proposed the Masonic Charities, to which Bro. Terry replied. "The Vistors" was proposed by Bro. Sir James Meek, and replied to by Bro. Tew. Bro. Cumberland gave "The Ladies," and was speedily followed by the Tyler.

An important feature in the day's proceedings was the arrangements that had been made to give the ladies an opportunity of a few hours enjoyment in connection with the Masoning meeting. Accordingly, at 8.30, the tables were cleared, and the ladies were admitted to a concert of vocal music, the executants being Miss Emily Marshall, Bros. C. Blagborough, J. S. Cumberland, O. Marshall, J. E. Wilkinson, Geo. C. Lee, Thos. Cumberland, Thos. Humphries, &c., Bro. Herr C. G. Padel accompanying on the piano. The room was crowded with brethren and ladies, and the applause testified to the delight experienced. At 11 p.m. the Earl of Zetland retired, and dancing was commenced to the music of Toes's Band, and was kept up with great spirit for some hours. The room was decorated with Masonic banners, emblems, and curiosities, contributed by the Eboracum Lodge 1611, and the York Lodge No. 236, amongst the most notable of the latter's being the banner of the extinct Grand Lodge of All England once held at York, and of the former the new banner that has just been provided for the Lodge. Great credit is due to the designers, and praise to the artist who has so faithfully regroduced their ideas.

Broadley Mark Lodge, No. 248 E.C.—A meeting of this Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Valetta, Malta, on the 13th September, when the W.M.M. Brother C. E. Coffey, also the W.P.G.M.M. Bro. Broadley, W.M.M. Bro. W. Read, and a large number of Mark Masters were present. The W.M.M., after opening his Lodge, vacated the chair in favour of the W.P.G.M.M. Brother Broadley, who advanced a brother to the degree of Mark Master in a most impressive manner, and to the admiration of all present. W.M.M. Bro. Coffey having resumed the chair, tendered his warmest acknowledgments, coupled with those of the members of the Broadley Lodge, to the P.G.M.M.M. for acceding to their request that the Lodge might bear his name, as well as for his kindness in working the degree in the splendid manner he had done. The P.G.M.M.M. in replying, said he deeply felt the honour the brethren had conferred on him in naming their Lodge after him; he experienced great satisfaction in being with them on this occasion, and complimented the Officers on their admirable working, after which W.M.M. Bro. Coffey closed the Lodge in due form.

The regular weekly meetings of the William Preston Lodge of Instruction, No. 766, will be resumed on Friday the 3rd October, at the Feathers' Tavern, Upper George Street, Edgware Road, at 8 p.m.

PROVINCIAL GRAND MARK LODGE OF TUNIS AND MALTA.

THE installation of the R.W.P.G.M.M. of this Province, as well as the inaugural meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge, took place at the Masonic Hall, Malta, on the 11th September 1879. The oldest Mark Lodge in the province, "Keystone," No. 107, was opened by Bro. W. Read W.M.M. at 7.30 p.m. precisely. The Lodge Room was completely filled by the Mark Masters of the Province. Amongst those present were W. Bros. Rotherham and Westrop P.M.M.'s 107, Lieut. Coffey, R.A., W.M.M. 248, Rev. J. K. Lethbridge P.P.G. Hacoune, R. Beck, and other members of Lodges 107 and 248. Bros. Lippett, Davison, Fenech, D. Cooper, D. W. Jackson, J. C. Stanley, T. Jones and W. Taylor P.M., Visitors from the Irish Mark Lodge "Leinster," No. 387, and Bro. J. C. Toogood, a Visitor from a Chapter under the Supreme Grand Chapter of Scotland. The Lodge having been opened in due form, the summons convoking the meeting was read. On an alarm being given that the P.G.M. was without and demanded to be installed, the patent of appointment was duly read, as well as a letter from the Grand Mark Secretary conveying Lord Skelmersdale's authority to Bro. Read to perform the ceremony. The P.G.M. elect was conducted to the east by P.M.M.'s Westrup and Rotheram, preceded by the P.G. Sword Bearer, and followed by the P.G. Banner Bearer and P.G. Stewards. The obligation was then administered to W. Bro. Broadley, who was afterwards inducted by W. Bro. Read into the chair of P.G.M. The D. of C. having made the usual proclamation, the P.G.M. was saluted in ancient form. The P.G.M. appointed Bro. Richard Westrup P.M.M. 107 his Deputy, who took the oath appertaining to that office. The P.G.M. then made the following appointments in P.G. Lodge:—Wor. Bros. W. Read 107 G.S.W., G. Pentecost 222 G.J.W., Chev. E. Rosenbusch 222 G.Reg., C. E. Coffey 248 G. Sec., Bros. W. Watson 107 G.M.O., Dr. A. Perini 222 G.S.O., W. J. Jones 248 G.J.O., Rev. G. N. Godwin 248 G. Organist, Talin de la Tunisie 222, L. Curletto 222, A. Tagliaferro 248, and S. G. Yeoman 107, Stewards. Bros. J. Segond and R. Beck were elected Grand Treasurer and Grand Tyler of the province, and invested accordingly. The P.G.M. announced that the first duty which devolved on him was to formally consecrate the "Broadley Lodge," No. 248, and called on the Secretary to read the petition and warrant. This being done, he pronounced the following Oration, as Consecrating Officer of the new Lodge:—

MARK MASTER MASONS OF THE PROVINCE OF TUNIS AND MALTA,—We are assembled here this evening for the purpose of inaugurating the Grand Mark Lodge of this Province, and at the same time consecrating, as an addition to its muster-roll, Lodge No. 348, upon which the kindly feelings of its founders have bestowed my name. The formation of this Provincial Mark Lodge on the classic soil of Ancient Carthage on the one hand, and the last residence of the Knights of St. John on the other, may perhaps have an interest for Mark Master Masons beyond the boundaries of the district itself; indeed, it is difficult to imagine any given combination of localities which could afford more food for the study and contemplation of the thoughtful brother, than the two countries comprised in this United Province. Our imagination may well carry us back through the vista of centuries to the distant epoch when the immediate descendants of the operative masons of Tyre, "going westwards," reared on the shores of North Africa that magnificent metropolis which for a time ruled the ancient world, and then pass from the consideration of their labours to the more recent period when, under Roman rulers, masons of the Roman College of Artificers raised on the same site a second city which vied in architectural splendour with the Phœnician capital, upon the ruins of which it was erected. Turning to the part of the Province in which we now stand, the eye rests on the varied proofs of the cunning and skill of that great Military Order, the customs of which (to say the least) have offered a model for ceremonies, and laid the foundation of one of the most interesting degrees of Christian Masonry. It will be impossible for me, on this occasion, to trace in detail the history of the Mark Degree, still more to show its historical connection with this Province, to which I firmly believe it has of late years been merely restored. The practice of the Mark begins, doubtless, in the earliest days of Operative Masonry, when Guilds of Tyrian workmen, under Tyrian overseers, built the Temple of King Solomon, and when their descendants constructed the walls, and citadels, and harbours of Carthage. The "Marks" of these early Masons abound in the deep, buried remains of the Phœnician City, which now lie under the accumulated rubbish of more than two thousand years; they were perpetuated by the Roman occupants of the ancient site, and have descended to the operations of the Moslem conquerors, whose victorious flag has waved for ten centuries over all that remains of the cities of Hannibal and Hamilcar, of Cato and Scipio. The city gates of Tunis still bear distinctive marks, familiar to every one now present. The history of Masonry, in its most general sense, may, I think, be truly described as operative in its birth, partly operative and partly speculative in its growth, and purely speculative in its maturity. The Degree of the Mark was from the first an essential constituent of operative Masonry. It was, doubtless, worked from time immemorial in the operative Lodges of Scotland, as well as in the old semi-operative Lodges of England and other countries deriving from us the origin of their Masonic systems. The Mark Degree forms an integral part of the pure and recognised Masonry of Ireland, Scotland, and the United States. In Scotland, even as early as 1598, the annals of Masonry abound in allusions to the Mark Degree, and in England it was worked in many Lodges meeting under one or other of the two Constitutions, as well as in others acknowledging the supremacy of the Grand Lodge at York. By the articles of union between the rival Grand Lodges in 1813, the Mark Degree was excluded from, or, perhaps more correctly, not included in, the symbolical teaching of the Craft. In spite, however, of the new regulations the Mark was still extensively worked in many Lodges, and flourished more especially in the north and midland districts of England. About a quarter of a century ago the attention of the Masonic world in general was drawn to this anomalous state of things, and more particularly to some Lodges having obtained charters from the Supreme Chapter of Scotland. A rigorous attempt was made to obtain the recognition of the degree by the Grand Lodge of England, and on this effort failing the Grand Mark Lodge was established, having, according to the precedent afforded by the history of the Royal Arch, exclusive jurisdiction over the degree of the Mark. To discuss to-day, any longer, the origin of this Grand Lodge is entirely useless. A Grand Lodge is nothing more nor less than a union of several Lodges which vest in one the power which each formerly had separately, and any possible flaw in its original constitution is condoned by the adhesion of the lawful Lodges it has received. The "time immemorial" Lodges throughout the country, as well as those originally holding warrants from Scotland, have almost unanimously acknowledged its supremacy, and it now numbers 250 Lodges on its muster-roll, which is, as a matter of fact, numerically stronger than that of the Craft Grand Orient of France and Italy, and many other Grand Lodges on the Continent. We find our Mark Grand Lodge to-day recognised as a legitimate governing body of the degree by the Supreme Royal Arch Chapters of Ireland, Canada, Quebec, and many of the American States, and it is my agreeable task to inform you that, on the 18th June last, the Grand Chapter of Scotland resolved unanimously to acknowledge the Grand Mark Lodge of England and Wales as lawful and supreme throughout those countries, and to refrain from henceforth granting any charters for Mark Lodges within its home jurisdiction. Thus, my brethren, we have the satisfaction of knowing that our Mark Masters will be recognised, and our certificates respected wherever the Mark Degree exists. I would feign say something of the illustrious rulers of the Mark Grand Lodge (one of whom, Lord Carnarvon, became a K.T. in this very hall); of the admirable working of its various departments; of its fast increasing Benevolent Fund, and its excellent scheme for assisting to educate the children of Mark Masters; but time will not permit me. As to the intrinsic worth of the degree itself, suffice it to say that its rapid progress is the best proof of its merits. Not only do we find in it practical illustrations of the truths taught us in other degrees, but it abounds with appropriate lessons for our rule in daily life. This Province has had the privilege of introducing the speculative Mark Degree, and the rule of the Mark Grand Lodge of England, amongst foreign brethren of many nationalities and many languages in the Regency of Tunis, and I see in their keen appreciation of its eloquent teachings, homely illustrations, and striking lessons, yet another attestation to its value, and though necessity has sometimes compelled me to employ the medium of four languages in a single evening, I have never heard any candidate do otherwise than express himself gratified with the ceremony of his advancement. Your recommendation and the approvement of the M.W.G.M.M. has called me to the rule of this honourable degree in this Province, and I can only trust the progress it is destined to make in our midst will be commensurate with its rapidly increasing appreciation at the hands of the Craft at large. The inauguration of this Provincial Grand Lodge has brought with it the consecration of our third subordinate Mark Lodge. I feel sure both the one and the other has the best wishes of every Mark Master present. I trust my assiduity for the best interests of the degree in this Province will justify the recommendation you made in my favour. The time seems to be approaching when each Craft Lodge will have a Mark Lodge attached to it, and we venture to hope the United Grand Lodge of England will feel justified in extending its recognition to the Mark Degree under its own particular government as a portion of "pure and ancient Masonry." May the activity of the Mark Masters of Tunis and Malta contribute to the general spread of Mark Masonry throughout the world. We cannot assist this end better than by carrying out in practice, as well as in theory, the principles of humility, uprightness, self-control, and universal benevolence inculcated in the Mark Degree:—

> The well known sign we mark and fly
> The wound to heal—to still the sigh,
> And wipe the tear from sorrow's eye;
> For our's the aim is, our's the art
> To meliorate the human heart,
> Of wild desires to stem the flood,
> And act as if of kindred blood.

On the conclusion of the Oration an anthem was sung by a choir trained under the direction of the P.G. Organist Major Ewing. The pedestal was then uncovered, and the consecrating elements were carried round the Lodge in procession, an appropriate verse being sung on each occasion by the brethren. The Lodge was then duly incensed by the acting P.G. Chaplain, and finally dedicated and consecrated to the purposes of Mark Masonry. The P.G.M. then delivered their respective collars of office to each of the officers of the new Lodge, and offered his congratulations to Bro. W. Coffey on his appointment. Bro. Coffey having returned thanks, the work of P.G. Lodge was resumed, and Bros. Rotheram (P.M.M. 107) and Major Ewing elected as members of the Board of General Purposes. The report of the Board was read and adopted, the statement of accounts passed, and the proposed by-laws approved of and ordered to be printed. The P.G.M. ordered that a charitable collection be made to form the nucleus of a Charity Fund. The collection amounted to £2 9s. The P.G.L. was closed in ancient form. The P.G.M. then retired, and the "Keystone" Lodge was closed by W. Bro. Read. A banquet took place afterwards, under the presidency of the P.G.M., supported by his officers and the brethren of the various Lodges in the Province. The usual loyal and obligatory toasts having been given, the P.G. Registrar Bro. Rosenbusch (P.D.D.G.M.), in laudatory terms proposed the health of the P.G. Master, who returned thanks. The following toasts were then duly honoured, the D.P.G.M., the Grand Officers, the P.M.M's of the Keystone Lodge, coupled with the health of W. Bro. Kingston (D.G.M. Craft), at present absent from Malta, and the Grand Organist, whose indefatigable exertions had rendered the ceremonies in G.L. so completely successful. The toasts of the Grand Chapters of Ireland and Scotland were enthusiastically received and responded to by Bros. Taylor P.M. and Toogood. The festival was brought to a close by the parting toast, given by the P.G. Tyler. The banner of the P.G.L. (presented to it by the P.G.M.) was much admired, as well as the swords used by the G. Sword Bearer and I.G. They both belonged to former Beys of Tunis, and are incased in massive chased scabbards of beautiful design and bear the principal emblem of the R.A. degree. The incense burner and receptacle for oil used in the Consecration ceremony were also notable specimens of Tunisian silver work of the 17th century. The brethren separated shortly before midnight, with a very keen appreciation of the complete success of the day's proceedings, the recollection of which will always remain as one of the pleasantest memories connected with Masonry in Malta.

CONSECRATION OF THE SHEPHERD'S BUSH LODGE, No. 1828.

THIS ceremony took place on Monday, at the Richmond Hotel, Shepherd's Bush-road. The new Lodge is an offshoot of the Ranelagh No. 834, which has on its roll several brethren who are desirous of obtaining office, but in consequence of the great number of its members, the chance for young aspirants is very remote, that is if regard be paid to the claim of seniority in the selection of its future officers. Accordingly, several brethren of this district determined to apply for a new warrant, which in due course was granted by the Most Worshipful the Grand Master H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, on the petition of the following brethren:—Lewis Bryett, Alfred B. Baker, George Harrison, Alfred C. Alais, Richard Josey, Robert W. Blacklin, Peter Burton, William Game, John M. Pierpoint, Richard Pierpoint, and William Williams. The privilege of representing the G.M. on this occasion devolved on Bro. Terry, Past Provincial Junior Grand Warden Hertfordshire, Secretary Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, &c., whose services in the cause of Freemasonry are so numerous and varied as to render him, perhaps, the most popular Consecrating Officer the Craft has ever known; indeed, the fact of his having similarly officiated at over one hundred such gatherings is an event unparalleled in the history of the Craft, and is a compliment which proves that his efforts are appreciated by the Masonic body at large. On Monday he was assisted by Bro. Clarke Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies Suffolk, who displayed his well-known ability as M.C. to the satisfaction of all present; Bros. Rev. Ambrose W. Hall P.P.G. Chaplain, P.P.S.G.W. Surrey, who acted as Chaplain, G. W. Dixon P.M. 209, 855, P.P.G.D.C. Berks and Bucks, and John O. Carter P.M. 209, P.P.G.D.C. Berks and Bucks, who respectively filled the chairs of Senior and Junior Warden, while Bro. Samuel H. Parkhouse W.M. of the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, No. 1642, who had supported the petition, acted as I.G. There was a goodly array of Visitors, amongst whom we noticed W. J. Murlis P.M. 1489, 1642, J. J. Michael P.M. 1732, John Tuck 834, Thos. Knowles P.M. 834, Thos. Hancock S.W. 1767, J. W. Barker J.W. 1767, G. P. Cook 193, J. Baker 511, Robt. King 1642, C. E. Williams W.M. 1767, T. F. Knight-Smith W.M. 1441, J. T. Woodstock P.M. 749, E. M. Lander S.W. 1642, S. Lichtwitz 1642, S. Millis P.M. 157, C. Cordingley 45, G. P. Festa 834, George Read 1767, G. C. Symons W.M. 45, A. B. Morgan 1287, S. Smout jun. J.D. 1642, W. W. Morgan Sec. 211, J. B. Churchill P.M. 1017, Macrae Moir P.M. 66, J. Ringwood 834, A. Barfield P.M. 511, George J. Eames 511, J. Avery W.M. 511, H. Shaw S.W. 834, H. W. Blake 834, W. Pierpoint I.G. 813, T. W. Cooper S.W. 538, Thomas Handwer 733, H. Sadler G. Treasurer, J. T. Breitbart 511. At the time appointed, Bro. Clarke speedily marshalled the brethren, and the Lodge-room was entered. Lodge was opened in the three degrees, and the Presiding Officer explained the occasion that had brought the brethren together. The Chaplain offered prayer, and then the acting Secretary read the petition and warrant. The members having approved of those selected to conduct the new Lodge, the Chaplain was called upon, and he addressed the brethren as follows:—On such an occasion as this, when the light of Masonry is about to spread its bright beams by the dedication of another Lodge to the glory of the G.A.O.T.U., and, we trust, to the benefit of the brethren in general; and when another repository of those truths and mysteries which we, as Masons, are proud to call ours, is to be added to the many already existing; and when the Consecrating Chaplain is requested to address a few words to the brethren on the nature, principles, and duties of our Order, he cannot, I think, do better than carry you back in thought to those early days before the erection of the Temple at Jerusalem, when King David, rising up in a vast assembly of the Israelites, told them what God had communicated to him as regarded his son. "Solomon, thy son, he shall build My house and my courts." And, turning to his son, he added, "Be strong and of good courage, fear not nor be dismayed, for the Lord God, even my God will be with thee, He will not fail thee nor forsake thee until thou hast finished all thy work." Brethren, you this day are building a temple likewise, it is true not like the gorgeous one your great prototype erected, but you are building a symbolical temple, and although it does not contain treasures so precious to the ancient Israelites, such as the golden candlesticks, the shewbread, the pot of manna, the altar of incense, the ark of the covenant, and the mercy-seat overshadowed by angels' wings, yet it does contain mysteries and teachings which it will be yours to preserve and guard when your new Lodge, dedicated and blessed, is handed over to you, its founders, in the purity of its early Masonic life. Yours will be a sacred trust, for to you will be confided truths that good men and Masons have treasured up in the safe repository of their hearts from ages past, and which it will be yours to guard also, that ages to come may benefit by those teachings which cheered our forefathers, and which to the present day serve to gladden us. You will do this by letting your Masonic light shine through the great principles of the Order, by the exercise of brotherly love; that is, by regarding all men, whether in or out of Masonry, as children of an Almighty Father, created for the mutual help and support of each other. By Relief, a feeling which as Masons should be more particularly ours, of sympathizing with the misfortunes of the unhappy, of compassion for the miserable, and of endeavouring to give peace to the troubled heart. Of Truth, that great principle of all by which we may so regulate our lives as to pass through the world without deceit or guile, doing unto others as we would they should do unto us. These, my brethren, are the great principles of our Society, but in addition to these you have work to do in your Lodge; to-day you are about to bring into life a band of brothers, who are to meet from time to time in tones of social intercourse, and who will have to do Masonic work, to instruct the younger members through our symbolic rites and ceremonies, and as you do this well or ill, so will your Lodge rise or fall, so will it flourish or decay; but when I look around upon the eminent and energetic Masons, who are its founders and upholders, its bulwarks and battlements, I feel sure that there is good time before the "Shepherd's Bush Lodge"—that their sound working and teaching will in due course give it a foremost place in the Masonic world, and this is saying a good deal, when we consider that on the consecration of this Lodge there will be no less than 1828 on the roll of the Grand Lodge of England. But, brethren, I do not forget that to-day there is much to do, and that time presses. I feel, therefore, I should detain you no longer, but draw my address to its close, assuring you that if good wishes avail aught you have mine in their heartiest and stoutest sense for the success of your new undertaking. May the mantle of King Solomon rest (so to speak) upon you, that you too may make known the great truths which he promulgated, and which form the fundamental teachings of Masonry. And at any time when good, kind thoughts spring up in your hearts, do not let them lie there hidden, but think them, or, I should more properly say,—speak them aloud for the benefit of others. And, above all, in the working of your Lodge, never forget the presence of the G.A.O.T.U.; for, believe me, brethren, He is always with you, and His All-seeing Eye is upon you, whether you ask His blessing, or seek His aid; and for this remember what David said to Solomon:—"My son, know thou the God of thy fathers, and serve him with a perfect heart, and a willing mind, for the Lord searcheth all hearts, and understandeth every imagination of the thoughts. If thou seek him, he will be found of thee, but if thou forsake him, he will cast thee off for ever." With these words I will conclude, first, by thanking you heartily for the attention you have been good enough to pay to my brief address; and then by assuring you that if only one word of mine has half the good effect I wish it, my visit here to-day will be another bright spot upon my already long Masonic life. Go then, brothers, to your respective duties, and show to Masons, and to the outer world as well, that you—

Be your benevolence understood
By good deeds.

"Be it your life's toil cares to smother,
And to brighten eyes now dim,
Kindness done to one another
God accepts as done, my brother, unto Him."

The order of the ceremony of Consecration, from the frequency of its repetition of late, is well known to most London brethren; on this occasion it was carefully carried out, the musical portion being under the direction of Bro. Knight-Smith W.M. 1441, and in due course the W.M. elect was presented for the benefit of installation. Bro. Terry having duly obligated Bro. Lewis Bryett, who had been selected for the position, placed him in the chair with accustomed ceremony. The Officers for the coming year were then appointed, as follows:—Bros. A. B. Baker P.M. 834 S.W., George Harrison J.W., W. Game P.M. Treas., Alfred C. Alais P.M. Sec., Richard Pierpoint S.D., Richard Josey J.D., Peter Burton I.G., John M. Pierpoint D.C., Robert W. Blacklin and William Williams Stewards. The charge to the Master was given by Bro. Terry, Bro. Clarke gave that to the Wardens, and Bro. Terry then concluded by addressing the members. The first act of the new Lodge was to thank the Consecrating Officer and those brethren who had assisted him in the labours of the day, and on the proposition of the W.M., Bros. Terry, Clarke, Ambrose Hall, Dixon, Carter, and Parkhouse were elected honorary members. This compliment was acknowledged by Bro. Terry, and after the expression of good wishes from the Visitors, Lodge was closed. A banquet followed, and due honour was done to the toasts customary on these occasions. We regret pressure on our space prevents our recording the speeches.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—A certain remedy for diseases of the skin. Ringworm, scurvy, scrofula or king's evil, sore heads, and the most inveterate skin diseases to which the human race is subject, cannot be treated with a more safe and speedy remedy than Holloway's Ointment and Pills, which act so peculiarly on the constitution, and so purify the blood that those diseases are eradicated from the system, and a lasting cure is obtained. They are efficacious in the cure of tumours, burns, scalds, glandular swellings, ulcerous wounds, rheumatism, contracted and stiff joints. These medicines operate mildly and surely. The cure effected by them is not temporary or apparent only, but complete and permanent.

West Smithfield Lodge, No. 1623.—On Thursday, 18th September, at Bro. T. Butt's, New Market Hotel, West Smithfield, the installation meeting was held. Bro. G. S. Elliott W.M. opened the Lodge, supported by his Officers. The minutes of the last regular and an emergency meeting were read, unanimously confirmed, and signed by the W.M. The Report of the Audit Committee was received, adopted, and entered on the Lodge minute book. The W.M. raised Bros. King and Long. Bro. T. W. Adams I.P.M. presented Bro. Joshua Howes P.M. The work was so well rendered that a vote of thanks was given to the I.P.M., Bro. G. S. Elliott, for performing the installation ceremony, and the same ordered to be entered on the Lodge minute book. Bro. G. S. Elliott had the usual Past Master's jewel given to him. Although entering on his third apprenticeship in Masonry, this was the first Lodge Bro. G. S. Elliott had passed the chair in. When the Lodge was founded Bro. F. Walters P.P.G.D. Middlx. P.M. selected him for first J.W., and stood by him until he had completed his year of office. He resigned the Treasurership, and had the happiness of seeing Bro. Elliott unanimously elected to succeed him. As Bro. Elliott now holds office in other Lodges, we hope in time to have to chronicle he will do his work elsewhere as well as he has here. Bro. J. Howes P.M. 765 W.M., a well-known worker of the Fifteen Sections, commenced his duties. The ballot proved unanimous in favour of the admission of Mr. Alfred Silver, and that gentleman being present was initiated into Freemasonry. The work was well done. Brother Frederick Walters P.P.J.D. Middlx. P.M., late Treasurer and Secretary, resigned his membership. His health being so bad, and he living in Leicestershire, precluded him from coming up to town. His resignation was accepted with regret. Some candidates were proposed for initiation. Business ended, the Lodge was closed and adjourned to meet on Thursday, 20th November. There were also present Bros. G. S. Wiutle P.M., Greenwood, Smith, T. Butt, King, Rose, W. Butt, Cork, and many others. The Visitors were—Bros. W. A. Barrett P.P.G. Organist Oxon. The usual banquet and dessert followed, which reflected the greatest credit on Bro. T. Butt and his two sons, all of whom were unremitting in their exertions to make all present happy and comfortable. The usual toasts were given and responded to. Songs and recitations brought a happy meeting to a pleasant close.

The Sunday Times, quoting from the Bombay Gazette, says:—

Freemasonry seems to prosper in other parts of India as well as in Bombay, where the Order is very strong. In the Punjab, for instance, at the commencement of 1869, ten years ago, there were six Freemasons' Lodges that were under the jurisdiction of the District Grand Master of Bengal. The members in the Punjab, conceiving it would be for their interest and promote the extension of the Order if they had a Grand Lodge of their own, applied to the proper authority for one, and, although they were strongly opposed by the Grand Master in Bengal, they succeeded in obtaining the desired sanction, and on the 10th of March 1869, their first Grand Master was installed at Labore. As is usual with most young Institutions it had difficulties to contend with, and nine months after its organisation the Grand Lodge found itself Rs. 1,000 in debt. This was not reduced in the twelve months that followed, for in January 1872 we find the debt was Rs. 1,391. But by October of that year the debt had been reduced to Rs. 474, while the Punjab Masonic Institution, that had been established twelve months previously, had Rs. 6,920 invested in its name, and the Fund of Benevolence had Rs. 1,420 standing to its credit in the Agra Bank. Since that period the Grand Lodge has been gathering strength every year. On the 8th of last April its financial position was as follows :—Grand Lodge Fund deposit in the Agra Bank, Rs. 1,009; Fund of Benevolence, Rs. 2,722; Punjab Masonic Institution, Rs. 25,845; total Rs. 29,576. Moreover, during the ten years of its existence Rs. 24,575 have been disbursed in charity and in educating the children of deceased Freemasons. During the period under notice the number of Lodges has been exactly trebled, there being now eighteen. In 1869 the number of members was 149; on the 8th of last April the number registered was 557.

Brethren who desire to assist in establishing this Fund will oblige by forwarding their names to be added to the above List.

THE course of training followed by the Masonic Educational Charities, in common with many similar institutions in various parts of the country, is looked upon as more or less successful in proportion to the results that can be shown as emanating from the pupils themselves. It is not only necessary that a girl or a boy should receive a good education, but it is likewise desirable that they should prove that such education has been of service to them in after life. Indeed, that it has been the means of their securing a position which without such education they could not have attained. With a view to assist in this object the committees of very many of the English Charities make it a part of their duty to interest themselves in the future of the pupils who have been educated under their care. This they do by obtaining for those whom they deem deserving situations in offices presided over or belonging to one of their number, who they are assured will act as parent or guardian to their charge, and by apprenticing or otherwise starting in life those who, being orphans or from other causes, may need more aid than is forthcoming from relatives generally. The practicability and success of such a scheme can be vouched for in numerous instances where it has been in work for years past; and were it necessary the records of some of our largest Charities would give ample evidence of the satisfaction derived from keeping an account of each scholar's proceedings in after life. It has frequently been found that a little advice, counsel or help has proved to be the starting point of success.

With regard to the Masonic Institutions, it has often been regretted that some further surveillance has not been exercised over those who have been so fortunate as to receive therein education and early training; and it is felt that without something be done to watch the future of those who leave the Schools, and, if need be, lend them a helping hand, the work of Masonic Charity is incomplete. This want may perhaps best be expressed in the words of the Right Hon. Bro. the Earl of Rosslyn, K.T., Past Grand Master of Scotland, who, as President at the Eighty-first Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, brought the question particularly before the Craft. The Right Worshipful Brother, in proposing prosperity to the Institution, after detailing the advantages and benefits which were derived from the School, said:—

I will tell you a little fault, and I am sure I need only mention it to find it immediately corrected; and the fault that I am going to find is this—that it is not impossible that at the end of their schooling career some of these boys may leave the School homeless and in need. It may be that the good seed sown may bear fruit during their scholastic career, but it may also be that the fruit will perish for want of cultivation at a later period. It may be that having derived all the advantage that they could from their study, and from their religious training in your Institution, they may leave it to fall into evil courses and evil ways, or even to suffer penury and poverty. I would appeal to you once more, as that is the only blot I can find in your excellent Institution to try and amend it, that the pupils may derive the full benefit of your bounty and your charity.

It is now proposed to raise a fund which shall act as an adjunct to the two Masonic Schools, and be the means of supplying the want set forth above; and for this purpose your support and aid are earnestly solicited

It is proposed that an early date shall be fixed for a meeting of those who may express approval of the scheme, and thereat the various rules for the government and conduct of affairs shall be discussed, Committees appointed, and general arrangements made.

It is hoped that the fund when once established will grow from year to year, and that the dividends of the subscriptions—which will be invested in approved securities—may in themselves prove sufficient for the various objects aimed at.

Further particulars of the scheme will be announced as they are arranged; but in the meantime we ask you fraternally to lend your aid to the furtherance of the desired object, by making it known to your friends, offering suggestions, or in any other way you may deem desirable.

The main objects of the fund will be—

To provide situations for the pupils on their leaving the Masonic Schools.

To watch their progress and offer aid and advice where needful

To advance small amounts to aid in the purchase of tools, outfits, and, later in life, goodwills of businesses, &c.

To assist pupils who may have gained scholarships at the Universities, or boys who may desire to enter the Army or Navy, and aid them in obtaining commissions.

And generally to watch over the future of the pupils, and help them in securing success in life.

THE APPROACHING SCHOOL ELECTIONS.

THE ballot paper for the Boys' election contains, as we stated last week, the particulars of seventy-seven candidates, who will compete for the sixteen vacancies which are announced. Of this number fifty-four are accredited to the Provinces, eighteen to London, and five to Foreign stations, viz.:—West Indies, Nova Scotia, Singapore, West Coast of Africa and South Africa. The first four on the list come forward for the seventh time, and unless successful this October will each be debarred, by age, from again competing. No. 1, Alfred Thomas Cole, one of five children dependent on their mother, has hitherto been very unsuccessful in securing votes, 42 being the total standing to his credit, and this after taking a part in six previous elections. No. 2, Percy Charles Wilkinson, has fared better, there being a total of 1289 votes now standing in his name; both his parents are living, and they have two other children to maintain. No. 3, Emanuel Wait, one of six relying on a widowed mother, stands very little chance, with his 541 votes in hand, unless his friends can secure more help than they have got together on previous occasions; while No. 4, Lovell Hope Ridpeth, who has but 234 votes in hand, may be said to fare even worse. He is the only child dependent on his parents, both of whom are alive, but the father is paralyzed. The other "last application" cases are eight in number:—George Shadwell Parker, No. 7 on the list, who brings forward 1255 votes from four previous attempts, is the only child dependent on a widowed mother; we may assume that, in all probability, this case will occupy a place on the list of "successful." No. 9, Edmund Purcell Spalding—fifth application, 765 votes already polled—is one of six children who are dependent on their parents, both of whom are alive; the father is an old member of the Province of Suffolk, and we trust his long connection with the Craft will stand him in stead now that he is compelled to appeal to its charity. William Tracy, No. 15, has already stood two elections, and brings forward 135 votes as the result thereof; his is a London case; the mother, who is the only parent living, having eight children to support. No. 16, William Henry Bazley, who has also taken part in two previous elections, and is a London candidate, has 400 votes to his credit; his mother has five children to provide for. No. 34, Arthur Barker, has already stood at one election, but on that occasion no votes were polled for him; we have no doubt but that this is in reality a good omen for the lad, as we may assume thereby that his father's Province—West Yorkshire—has the case in hand, and they surely will not allow a family of four children, who are left parentless, to appeal to them in vain. No. 44, A. E. Scrope Shrapnell, who has a brother already in the School, is a Wiltshire lad; his mother still has four children to provide for. At the April election she secured 158 votes on behalf of this lad. The other two on the list of "last applications" are Nos. 54 and 56, Frederick Frankland Godfrey and William Henry Healey—the one accredited to Kent, the other to West Yorkshire. Both of these lads are parentless, and in each case there are seven children left to the charity of their friends. Should we ever cease to appeal on behalf of the Charities while such cases as these are brought forward?

Having thus dismissed the twelve candidates who have but this one chance, we will proceed with the less important ones—so far as time is concerned. Hampshire and the Isle of Wight has five cases, in addition to No. 7, to which we have already referred; No. 17, George Frederick Gauntlett, has at two attempts had 377 votes polled for him; he is one of four children now dependent on their mother. No. 27, Herbert Mastern Fellows, brings forward 49 votes as the result of his two previous attempts; his mother has two children, in addition to this lad, to maintain. No 28, George William Steinhauer, is one of eight children left parentless; he has only stood one election, on which occasion five votes were announced as recorded in his favour. No. 46, Walter Herbert Woollons, has 84 votes forward from April last; he and three other children rely on their mother. No. 63, Albert Edward Sparks, is a first application case, and closes the list of Hampshire candidates. The brethren of that Province appear to have numerous claims on their charity, and although they may devote all their energies to secure the return of their several candidates, it seems almost impossible that, unaided, they can succeed with even a minority of them. West Yorkshire has altogether five candidates for the "Boys;" two of whom (Nos. 34 and 56) have been referred to among the "last applications;" the other three are Nos. 47, George Mey, 49, John Roebuck Murgatroyd, and 53, William Thomas Pike—all first applications. In each case the father is dead, and the mothers have five, four, and five children respectively to maintain. Devonshire and Lincolnshire have each four accredited to them. Of the latter, one—Alfred Thomas Cole—figures among the final applications; the others are No. 10, William Black, who brings forward two votes from three previous attempts; No. 13, Philipson Marshall, who has secured 101 votes in a like period; and No. 40, Robert Williamson Pratt, who appears for the second time without a vote having been recorded in his favour. We can hardly understand the position in which the brethren of Lincolnshire leave the candidates which put up from their district, unless it is that their system of organisation is incomplete. Surely, it would be better to make a firm stand on behalf of one candidate than to put three or four to the expense of issuing circulars, cards, and the other accessories of a Charity election! Still, we suppose the brethren of Lincolnshire are capable of shaping a course of their own; it is very certain that they have some very good men among their number, who will not allow cases of distress to go unsupported, if by any means in their power they can aid them. The Devonshire candidates are Nos. 22, 31, 37, and 71. No. 22, Herbert Norrish, who has figured at the two last elections, has 819 votes to his credit; his mother is the only parent living, and she has five children to provide for. No. 31, Edwin Ernest Hawke, has not secured any votes, although he was a candidate at the election of April last. His widowed mother has five children to maintain, and would, we should imagine, greatly appreciate the liberality of the Craft if the election of her son could be secured. No. 37, William R. Deacon Foot, second application, comes forward similarly circumstanced as regards votes; he and one other child are dependent on their mother. No. 71, Sydney Earle Loveridge, one of four children left fatherless, is a first application case, and will, no doubt, receive attention in due course. The fact of no votes being polled, except for the candidate supported by the Provincial Committee, is ample proof of the thoroughness of the system under which the Devonshire Craftsmen manage their votes. North and East Yorkshire and Kent each have two candidates beyond their single first application case; Worcester and Surrey bring each a like number forward, but neither of their nominations are so old as to be debarred from competing, even if they are unsuccessful on the next occasion. The Yorkshire candidates are No. 29, Frank Colbeck, who has 1065 votes already recorded in his favour from one ballot; and No. 64, Sidney William F. Richardson, a first application. The latter lad is one of a family of six children, who are left parentless; while the former has his mother living, and there are six children requiring support from her exertions. Nos. 38 and 59 are the other representatives of Kentish Lodges. Arthur James Kennedy (No. 85) being a candidate for the second time. At the last election 316 votes were recorded in his favour; he is one of five children left to the care of a mother, the father being drowned in November 1877. No. 59, Charles Edward Webb, has his mother living; this is his first trial for a place in the Boys' School. Only one of the Worcestershire lads has stood a previous election, and he, George Bertie Brooks, No. 18, has 619 votes in hand from two attempts; he and another child are dependent on their mother. No. 51, Herbert Wilfred Knott, has both parents alive, but the father is suffering from paralysis of the brain. There are eight children in the family to provide for. No. 66, Ernest Bloomer Granger, has likewise both parents alive, although his father is confined in a lunatic asylum; he and two others rely on the exertions of their mother for the necessaries of life. Surrey brings forward 358 votes in favour of Richard Arthur Grave, after two elections; this lad, both of whose parents are dead, has a brother already provided for by the Masonic School. No. 43, Percy Herbert Stone, brings forward 512 votes from last election, so that it appears evident the brethren of Surrey intend to carry these two cases. Their other candidate, William Renwick Watson, No. 70, now appears for the first time; but we think from the name attached to the particulars of his case that he is in good hands. His mother has three children to maintain. There are seven Provinces each with two cases accredited to them. Bristol, whose candidate, Emanuel Wait, we referred to in the earlier part of our remarks, heads this list. Its other candidate is George John Gray, No. 12, who has 15 votes to his credit after three elections; he is the only child dependent on his mother. Dorset brings forward Nos. 35 and 62. Jno. Tom Goldsbrough, No. 35, has 79 votes to his credit, having taken part at the last election; there are five children dependent on the parents, both of whom are alive, the father, however, has emigrated to Australia. No. 62, Ernest Stambler Moore, one of five fatherless children, now appears for the first time. No. 23, John Henderson, from Durham, has 929 votes in hand as the result of two polls; he and two others are at present provided for by their mother. Herbert Lawson Laing, No. 67, is one of seven children left to the care of a widowed mother, who will ere long, we trust, be relieved of the care, through the liberality of the Craft, of this one of her offspring. Albert Edward Coe, No. 41, from Essex, brings forward 102 votes from last April, while No. 68, Robert Leigh Ibbs, the other candidate from this Province, is a first application case. Each of these lads are left fatherless, and in both cases there are three children dependent on the mother. East Lancashire has, thus far, only polled 22 votes in favour of James Herbert Bell, No. 8, who now appears for the fifth time; there are two children in the family, left fatherless since 1876. For their other candidate, John Read, fourth application, we see two votes recorded; in this case there are four children left to the care of the mother. We presume the brethren of the Province have plans laid down which would answer any remarks we might offer; time alone will reveal the secret of what at first sight appears a peculiarity. The Western Division of South Wales puts forward John Morgan Alexander Thomas, No. 24, and has already recorded 575 votes in his favour. He has a brother in the Institution, but notwithstanding this fact his mother is called upon to provide for six children. No. 65, Edward Thomas Ball, is the other candidate against which appears the name of this Masonic district; the mother in this case having to provide for this and two other children. Charles James F. Allin, a Warwickshire lad, comes forward on the present occasion for the sixth time, with 1219 votes in hand, so that we may assume his election is secured. No. 32, Walter Boston Brown, brings 16 votes from April last, a number that will we may safely predict be considerably increased shortly; he and three other children are dependent on their mother. There are seven Provinces each with one candidate. Berks and Bucks leads the way as regards number of votes in hand, its candidate, James Albert Seddon, No. 42, having 313 forward from the last election; while No. 39, Frederick John Neville, the Cambridgeshire lad, has 106 in his favour from the same election. Nos. 52, 58, 60, 61 and 74 are all first applications, and hail respectively from W. Lancashire, Cumberland and Westmoreland, Middlesex, S. Wales (East), and Guernsey.

The London cases besides those already referred to are Nos. 11, 21, 25, 30, 33, 36, 45, 48, 50, 55, 57, 69, 72, 73 and 77. Of this number the last eight are first applications. Most of the boys are members of large families and in each case are dependent for maintenance, with the other children, on their mothers. No. 21, Ernest George Beckett, has 919 votes standing in his name as the result of two previous elections. No. 45, Paul Belmore Garstin, who has a brother in the School, follows pretty close with 861 votes as the outcome of one previous application; while in the other cases, 375, 112, 119, 103 and 57 are the number of votes credited to the respective candidates.

From abroad we have No. 6, Henry Gavin Hackett-Barclay (West Indies), who has a brother in the School, coming forward for the sixth time, with 676 votes to his credit. The lad is one of four children now dependent on their mother. Closely following in point of number of votes in hand is Herbert Rich Hounslow, No. 20 (Nova Scotia), who has had 614 polled at the two elections in which he has taken part. He is an only child, but is left without either parent to care for him. No. 26, Ernst Colville Collins Wilton, is a member of a family of whom only two now remain unprovided for. His mother having already been fortunate in securing the election of two of her daughters to the Girls' School. The father was a member of No. 508 (Singapore); and this child has 166 votes standing in his name. No. 75, William Pearse Gunnell, is an only child, dependent on his mother; his father, a P.M. of No. 773 (W. Coast of Africa), died in 1870. No. 76, W. Leslie Wilson, is one of four left to the care of the widow by a late brother of a South African Lodge. With this case our task of reviewing the candidates for the Boys' School comes to an end.

The description given as regards the occupation of the late Bro. Wyatt, whose daughter is now a candidate for the Girls' School, is, we are informed, incorrect. Bro. Wyatt was, at the time of his death, foreman to Messrs. Cubitt and Co., and not an hotel keeper, as stated in the ballot paper.

GO TO WORK IN EARNEST.

THE Masonic vacation is over. Lodges that "called off" during the heated term will now resume labour. Sultry August is passed, and the very name of September has an inspiring effect. The evenings have grown longer, and the gentle breezes of Autumn will soon reduce the temperature of the Lodge room to the endurable point. Throw the doors and windows wide open and give all the apartments a good airing. Let them be made comfortable and inviting to the Craft as they again come together. A thorough house cleaning may be necessary to do this. Shake the dust out of the carpets and use the scrubbing brush where it is needed. A little fresh paint often makes a wonderful change for the better at a trifling expense. A few ornaments and pictures for the walls make a Lodge room look much more attractive. Then polish up the jewels and working tools and make them bright and shining. Don't forget the aprons, which, as speculative Masons, you must ever wear unspotted before the world. So much for the surroundings.

Having put everything in order to please the eye and attract the brethren to the meetings of the Lodge, you are now in a condition to take up the work in hand. The officers probably are "a little rusty" from want of practice. Start a school for instruction, and keep it up until all are thoroughly posted. Invite the members generally to attend, and assign them parts in the work. Make them feel that there is something that they can do, and they will come and take great pride in doing it. Break up the practice at once of a few officers doing all the work in conferring degrees. No one should take more than one part while there are others that have nothing to do. The work of the Master and Wardens is at their respective stations. They should take no part in the "floor work," as they very generally do in the smaller Lodges. The floor members can do their work just as well when once instructed in it, and it of right belongs to them.

There is another matter of great importance to be looked after, and that is the finances of the Lodge. This is the weak point in most Lodges. The Secretary neglects to collect the dues; members become delinquent; which is the first step towards staying away from the Lodge. The Lodge gets in debt, and is continually in a "hard up," dilapidated condition. This state of affairs works a great detriment to any Lodge

The prompt business men among the members are disgusted with this sort of shiftlessness and quit attending. The same class of men who would like to become Masons withhold their petitions, and thus affairs go on from bad to worse until the usefulness of the Lodge is almost wholly destroyed from want of a proper management. A reformation in this regard cannot be begun too soon. Require the Secretary to furnish a statement of the account of every member, and take steps to have them all balanced before the close of the year. Make all pay up who are able to do so, and you will find many of them in the Lodge room who have not been there for years. If any are too poor to pay, remit their accumulated dues and place them on an equal footing. They will appreciate the brotherly act and show their gratitude by again coming up to the Lodge. As the evidence of returning prosperity begins to manifest itself, the world will soon discover it, and the men you want will apply for admission. The writer could give an interesting personal experience in which a poor, sickly Lodge of forty members, meeting in a little uncomfortable hall, was transformed into a large and prosperous Lodge of one hundred members, and occupying one of the finest halls in the State. A little good management was all that was necessary, and in resuming labor if all the Lodges will go to work in earnest, as we have indicated, they are bound to prosper as they have never done before.—Masonic Advocate.

FREEMASONRY IN LANCASHIRE.

ON Wednesday the Provincial Grand Lodge of the West Province of Lancashire held its annual meeting at the Winter Gardens, Morecambe, under the auspices of the Morecambe and Lancaster Lodges. The R.W.G.M. of the district, Lord Skelmersdale, presided, and was supported by the Right Hon. Colonel Stanley, D.G.P.M. and the other Grand Officers. There was a very large and influential gathering of brethren from every part of the province, only one Lodge out of a total of eighty being unrepresented. A Craft Lodge having been opened. Lord Skelmersdale was received in due form by the assembled brethren; the minutes of the Grand Lodge held last year, at Liverpool, were read and confirmed, and a number of grants were recommended for indigent Freemasons or their widows. The Officers of the Grand Lodge were invested for the ensuing year.

The annual banquet was held in the evening. The Chairman having proposed the loyal toasts, Colonel Stanley, M.P., in proposing "The health of Lord Skelmersdale, M.W. Prov. Grand Master, and other Officers of the Grand Lodge," was received with cheering. When the applause had subsided, Colonel Stanley said at their desire he had the honour to propose the next toast which stood upon the list, and he was sure it was one which needed no words of his to commend itself to the true sympathies of all Freemasons. He felt that in any assembly of Masons in the province it must be a source of satisfaction to them to muster amongst them one of the Grand Lodge Officers of England, and that they were enabled to claim him as their own Grand Master. Lord Carnarvon had the thorough interest of all Masons at heart, and when other duties intervened—duties of a very onerous character—he never allowed them to interfere with his devotion to the Craft. They had a great deal to thank the Grand Lodge for, and which acted as a kind of controlling power over the Provincial Lodges, having oftentimes a very difficult task.

Lord Skelmersdale, who was heartily received, in replying to the toast of his health, said he was glad the province continued to flourish, though it was quite true that there were not quite so many Masons on the books as there were last year at the corresponding time, but he thought, considering the badness of the times, very few places in the whole of England could show so good a return as they did. They had had upwards of six hundred initiations in the provinces this year, which he was sure showed that, be the times bad or good, Masonry was good, and people would come amongst them and support it. He hoped it would long continue, and that Masonry would continue to increase in the provinces. He was glad to find their Secretary able to show such a clean sheet to-day.

Brother Davis (Liverpool), in eulogistic terms, proposed the health of the Right Hon. Colonel Stanley, the Provincial Deputy Grand Master.

Colonel Stanley thanked them most sincerely, in the names of the Grand Officers and in his own, for the very kind and hearty manner in which they had drank the toast. He was exceedingly gratified at the kind terms in which Brother Davis had proposed it, and he felt some diffidence in standing there after his repeated absence from former Grand Lodges which had been held during the past two years. He accepted it as an additional matter of pleasure to himself that he was enabled to meet with so many Masonic brethren of the Province that day. He thought they were able to congratulate themselves that, notwithstanding the bad times of which the Grand Master, Lord Skelmersdale, had spoken, they were enabled to meet together and put a cheerful face on matters, and that whatever ups and downs there were in the world, Masons were determined to hold together as long as they could. At that hour of the night it would not be becoming in him to occupy their time longer. (Cries of "Go on.") He begged to thank them once more for the kindness with which they had received the toast, and to assure them on the part of the Provincial Officers, both past and present, that it afforded them the most lively satisfaction to have received from the brethren such a hearty welcome, which was the best reward they could have for the services they had endeavoured to render them.—Daily News.

MADAME WORRELL'S ANNUAL CONCERT.

The annual concert given by Madame Worrell took place on Wednesday at the Angell Town Institution, Brixton, and was most successful, the whole of the accommodation afforded at the rooms being brought into requisition. The programme opened by a part song executed by Miss Matilda Roby, Miss Marian Burton, Bro. Arthur J. Thompson, and Mr. James Budd, and then, with but short intervals, the entire programme was carried out. From the list of stewards whose names appear on the programme we may really class this as a Masonic meeting, a considerable majority of those interested in the evening's success being eminent in the ranks of Freemasonry Under all circumstances, it is not to be wondered at that the reception accorded to Madame Worrell was most enthusiastic; her rendering of "The Worker," by Gounod, being the event of the evening. After continued applause an encore was given; Twickenham Ferry being selected by the lady, and but for the fact of putting her good nature too much to the test we believe this would have been redemanded. The applause she received must have been most gratifying, and may be accepted as a true criterion of the way in which this lady's endeavours are appreciated. The other artistes who took part in the evening's entertainment were Miss Annie Matthews, Mdlle. Helene Arnim, Mr. E. Caink, and Brothers Edward Wharton, J. H. Maunder, Thomas Nettleship, and Henry Baker. Miss Ada Hazard, R.A.M. (Silver Medalist), presided at the pianoforte; and Mr. E. Deane at the viola. Conductor, Bro. Turle Lee. The whole of the arrangements were most successfully carried out, and Bro. Turle Lee deserves especial mention for the able way in which he acted as conductor.

THE SAINT ELMO LODGE OF ROYAL ARK MARINERS.

THE second meeting of the above Lodge was held on 19th September 1879, at the Masonic Hall, La Valletta. Present—W.C.N. Bro. Lieut. C. E. Coffey, R.A., Bro. Captain C. J. Blake, R.A., S. (acting), Bro. W. J. Jones J. (acting), and numerous brethren. Lodge having been opened, a ballot was taken for a member of the "Keystone" Mark Lodge, which proved unanimous. W. Bro. A. M. Broadley P.G.M.M. of Tunis and Malta, W. Bro. W. Read W.M. of the "Keystone" Mark Lodge, both honorary Members of the "Keystone" Mark Lodge, another Brother of this Lodge, as well as the brother of the "Keystone" Lodge, in whose favour the ballot was taken, were then admitted, and by the W.C.N. advanced to the degree of Royal Ark Mariners. The authority from the Grand Mark Lodge of England to instal Bro. A. M. Broadley in the chair of N. was then read, and W.C.N. Bro. Coffey performed the ceremony of installation in a most impressive manner. W.C.N. Bro. Broadley, addressing the meeting, expressed the pleasure he felt in having taken this degree in the Saint Elmo Lodge attached to the "Broadley" Mark Lodge, and in particular to W.C.N. Bro. Coffey for installing him in the Chair of N., in order that he might found a Lodge of Royal Ark Mariners at Tunis, whither he would shortly proceed. W.C.N. Bro. Broadley also complimented all the officers on their excellent working on this occasion. Lodge was then closed by W.C.N. Bro. Coffey, with the usual solemnities.

BEAUDESERT LODGE, LEIGHTON BUZZARD.

IT is with the deepest regret we have to report the demise of our Immediate Past Master, and much respected Brother, Dr. Harris, who after a protracted illness of seven weeks, passed calmly, on the 22nd ultimo, from his mansion of clay to a House not built by hands—Eternal in the Heavens—whose Builder and Mason, is God.

Our deceased Brother was an active and true Mason, and was never absent from Lodge, except when duty called him away. He was also a devoted husband and most affectionate father, and his unassuming and kindly manner was only eclipsed by his immaculate unselfishness, which endeared him to all with whom he came in contact.

In his profession he was a clever, sound, practical surgeon, and his loss will be deeply felt in that part of the great building wherein he was placed to toil by his Master.

The cortège, with every mark of respect, was followed by the Members of his own Lodge, as also by brethren from surrounding Lodges, by whom, through subscription, it is proposed to erect a tablet to his memory.

Time takes earth's fabrics, built with care,
And spills their dust on rushing air:
The Age, the Masons, all forgot,
As though oblivion wrote—'Twas not!

PUPILS' ASSISTANCE FUND.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund, to which your columns have lately given due prominence, is one which I am sure has only to be widely known to enlist the usual hearty support of the Craft to so deserving an undertaking. And whilst the subject is being fully discussed, allow me to furnish one grain of fact, which may, I trust, carry the weight which the old proverb ascribes to it.

I know of one of the pupils of the Girls' School, who, having completed her term of instruction in the Institution, now finds herself, for want of a suitable situation where she could do herself and her training full justice, compelled to rely for support upon her widowed mother, until she can (failing anything better) obtain a situation as a domestic servant. Now I think, Sir, that this is one of the instances, occasionally recurring, where a little assistance from the proposed fund, judiciously applied at the outset of an ex-pupil's career, and when the gifts and attainments of the pupil are best understood, that could not fail of being most beneficial, and would be productive of results in consonance with the loyal support previously given to our deceased brethren's children, and gratifying to those who have the welfare of our Masonic pupils at heart.

I enclose card, and shall be happy to furnish full particulars.

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother,

Fraternally yours,

VERAX.

A PROMINENT MEMBER AT INSTRUCTION LODGES.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I think a very good opportunity now presents itself to pay a well merited compliment to a brother who has for some years devoted a great part of his leisure to the advancement of Masonic knowledge; and if you, Brother Editor, will kindly insert this letter, I hope some practical result may follow. It is, doubtless, known to many London Masons that Bro. C. H. Webb, whose services are so often in request at the various Lodges of Instruction, of which he is either Preceptor or member, has taken in hand the case of Mary Ann Amelia Wyatt, who is a candidate for the Girls' School; and I think if those brethren who have votes to spare would send them to him, he would look upon it as a most gratifying testimonial. I am afraid to detail the merits of the case, as I know you are averse, and justly so, to any display of partiality in your columns; but I think the fact of this child being left, together with three others, without either parent, is sufficient to warrant the interest Bro. Webb has shown in the case.

Thanking you in anticipation,

I remain,

Yours, &c.

A PUPIL.

[We are pleased to accede to the wish of our brother, and hope, as he suggests, that his remarks will be followed by a hearty response. We will gladly forward any votes sent to us for the child of our deceased Bro. Wyatt.—ED. F.C.]

FREEMASONS PAINTED BY ONE OF THEMSELVES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am glad to see that the attention of the Craft has been called by your correspondent "P.M." to the uncharitable sentiments contained in an editorial article in your contemporary of the 20th ultimo. "P.M." is not the only brother who has perceived this want of charitable feeling, and whether the article was or was not written by the editor himself, he is, at all events, answerable for having allowed it to pass into type. I hope that under the very heavy pressure of literary matter which falls on that brother's shoulders the evil influence of such an article accidentally escaped his attention, for I can hardly believe that such an experienced Mason would wilfully have desired to advertise any foibles which Masons in common with the outer world possess. And with this remark I dismiss consideration of the article referred to. But I would remind the Craft to whom it is addressed that, whether Masons or not, the great human family seem naturally to lose sight of the fact that they themselves have the weaknesses which they discover in others. To-day is published The Masonic Magazine for October, and in it I find an article entitled, "Notes on Literature, Science, and Art," with the author's name in full, and a list of five works of which he is also the author, and an "&c., &c." appended to that list, winding up with what is virtually a condemnation of the pleasure Masons experience at seeing their names in print. Referring to Bro. Fabien's account in your contemporary of the initiation of a Frenchman in the basket of the great balloon of Paris, he says, "Bro. Fabien's communication is much more interesting than the dull and dreary lists of names of members present at a Lodge, with which so many reports are sadly overloaded. If it be necessary, as I confess I fear it is, to minister a little to the vanity of Masons to entice them to read a Masonic periodical, I, for one, had rather risk my neck in a balloon than herd safely on the solid earth with those un-Masonic Masons." Every month this brother's "Notes" appear in the Masonic Magazine, with his name, literary achievements, and residence fully advertised. Now I do not blame him at all for so placing himself before the public; but I think that he, as much as any one, should not discover vanity in other brethren who like their Masonic friends to see that they have been attending to their Masonic duties. I have no reason to be ashamed of my own name, and I am not ashamed of having passed the chair, but as I might if I signed the former be identified, and consequently come within our brother's condemnation, I shall avoid the possibility of being identified by subscribing myself,

ANOTHER P.M.

1st October 1879.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Although I agree with the principle of the letter by P.M. in your last week's issue, about the bad taste of a Masonic paper publishing to the outside world a rather unfortunate but true fact that brethren often do not act up to the tenets of Freemasonry outside the Lodge, and often occupy exalted positions therein, where, had their proper characters been known, they should never have been admitted into the Craft, still we are taught in such a case to observe silence, and perhaps it would have been better had this been done in this instance. At the same time there is a great deal of truth in the writer's remarks, and if they have the effect of moving some of our brethren to be more particular in the admission of members, it would be of vast benefit to the fair character of Freemasonry in general. In some parts of the Continent a candidate is obliged to send his photograph, which is exhibited in the outer room of the Lodge, for a long period, so as to give every member a chance to fully recognise the person wishing to join; besides, a full inquiry into his character is made by the proposer and seconder. Were a similar plan adopted here, we should not be in the too frequent position of having Members and Officers, even W.M.'s, whose presence in a Lodge is objectionable and anomalous.

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

A PAST MASTER AND P.Z.

BRO. PATRICK AND THE STINGY LODGE.

THERE was once upon a time an exceedingly mean and stingy Lodge, that was scarce ever known to do any thing for charity. All its money was either expended for banquets and for the various paraphernalia of conferring the degrees, or was loaned around to various members of the Lodge, some of whom paid neither principal nor interest.

One evening Bro. Patrick Fitzsimmons brought in an appeal for two widows, both in great distress. One was the widow of a Mason, who had died suspended for non-payment of dues; the other the widow of a very worthy citizen who was not a Mason at all. After Pat had stated his case, and the matter had been argued both pro and con, but principally con, the case of each was put to vote. The first case was voted down, on the plea that the woman's husband was not a Mason in good standing; the other was next voted down, on the ground that the woman's husband was not not a Mason, though a very worthy man. This aroused the Irish of Bro. Pat, who was a warm-hearted son of old Erin, and who knew very well that the reason why the Lodge voted down each appeal was because it was stingy, and had no true Masonic charity. Boiling over with feeling, Pat arose and addressed the Worshipful Master in the following strain:

"Worshipful Master, this Lodge puts me very much in mind of an old Irish anecdote:

"There was a Bishop in Dublin who engaged a painther to make a large picture for the Cathaydral. The subject chosen was the crossing of the Red Say by the Israelites. After a shuteable time the picture was complayted and hung in the Cathadral, covered with a broad and heavy curtain. A great crowd of people had collected to see the picture unveeled. The priests entered in procession, the organ sounded and the singers sung. All faces were turned in anxious expectation to the great curtain. When it was drawn aside nothing could be seen but a vast expanse of wather—reddish-green wather.

The Bishop in great rage turned to the painther and said:

'I thought I asked you to paint a picture of the Israelites crossing the Red Say?'

'Thrue for you! that's just it,' said the painther.

'But where are the Israelites?' asked the indignant Bishop.

'They're gone over,' said the painther.

'Well, but where are the pursuing Egyptians?'

'They're gone under,' said the painther.

'And now Worshipful and brethren, it sames about so wid ye here. If I ax ye to help a Mason's widow ye say: 'he's gone over,' and if I ax ye to help a widow of another man, ye say: 'he's gone under,' and betwixt them ye jist give nothing at all!'"

KNIGHTS' TEMPLARY IN CORNWALL.

THE Province of Cornwall as regards Knights' Templary has been dormant for some years, the last appointed officers dating from 24th Oct. 1871, when the Earl of St. Germans (then Lord Eliot) was the Provincial Grand Commander. The list of officers then appointed numbered some seventeen knights, since which time no less than nine have either resigned or died. Among the resignations was that of the Earl of St. Germans. The late Sir Frederick Martin Williams, Bart., M.P., was to have been the successor to the Provincial Grand Commandership, but declined the honour on account of his numerous engagements, and it was generally felt that the choice should fall upon Colonel John Whitehead Peard, J.P., of Trenython, Par, who is the Provincial Grand Master for the Mark Provincial Grand Lodge. This well-known brother, happily for the degree, has been appointed by patent to the office in question, and Friday was selected for his installation. Since 1871 a variety of alterations have been made in the statutes of the Order, and many of the titles have been changed, the head of the province now being styled the Provincial Prior, and the various provinces are united in this country under Lord Skelmersdale as Great Prior of England. England, Ireland and Canada have united to form the "Convent General," over which presides the Grand Master the Prince of Wales, and Her Majesty is the Patroness. It is hoped ere long that Scotland will join in this organisation—being now independent of all others—and ultimately it is hoped that all the English-speaking tongues throughout the world will accept the Prince of Wales as sole Grand Master, leaving each Great Priory for the various countries or states to make their own separate statutes. When this occurs there will be upwards of 100,000 members, many of whom are of the first rank in society, and enthusiastic and zealous Craft Masons.

Lieut.-Col. Shadwell H. Clerke Prov. Prior of Sussex, &c., had been deputed by Lord Skelmersdale as acting Great Prior, and effectually fulfilled his high and responsible position on Friday 26th ult., at the Masonic Hall Public Rooms, Truro, in the presence of the most distinguished body of Knights Templar that has ever assembled in the Province. Among the numerous Sir Knights who attended in honour of the occasion were the Hon. R. W. Hoskins Giddy Prov. Prior of South Africa, J. M. P. Montagu Prov. Prior of Dorset, Hugh David Sandeman Past Prov. Prior of Bengal, General H. E. Doherty, C.B., Past First Grand Captain of England, Emra Holmes Hon. Prov. Prior of Canada and Representative, &c., William Tweedy Past Prior of the Cornubian, Colonel S. G. Bake Prior of the Restormal, Richard John Prior of the Cornubian, Edward Dixon Anderton Past Prior (C), T. C. Stephens Past Prior (R), Charles Truscott jun. (R), Past Prior W. Polkinghorne Past Prior (R), John Stephens Past Prior (R), Dr. Mason Past Prior (R), A. Luke Past Prior (R), Richard Carter, the Rev. W. H. Bloxsome, Dr. Henry de Legh, the Rev. F. B. Paul, George Brown, Samuel Harvey, W. D. Rogers, William Rooks, and H. Elliott. The various banners of the great Officers and of the Prov. Priors, &c., added much to the effect of the scene, which was very imposing, on the reception of Lieut.-Colonel Shadwell H. Clerke as acting Great Prior, and of Lieut.-Colonel J. W. Peard the Prov. Prior nominate. The minutes of the last Prov. Priory having been read, the patent of Colonel Peard was announced, and he was then in a very efficient manner obligated, invested, and proclaimed as the Prov. Prior for Cornwall. He afterwards appointed the following as his officers for the ensuing term:—William Tweedy (C) Prov. Sub-Prior, Rev. W. H. Bloxsome, M.A.(C) Prelate, Edward Dixon Anderton (C) Chancellor, Charles Truscott jun. (R) Constable, Dr. William Mason (R) Marshall, Thomas Couch Stevens (R) Registrar (reappointed), William Polkinghorne (R) Treasurer (re-elected), Rev. F. B. Pard (R) Almoner, Richard Carter (C) Organist, Col. S. G. Bake (R) Captain of Guard, R. John Sub-Marshall, John Stevens Aide-de-Camp, Alfred Luke 1st Herald, Dr. Hugh de Legh Sword Bearer, Samuel Harvey Standard Bearer, H. Elliott Equerry. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the members of the Great Priory for their kindness in attending, and particularly to the Acting Great Prior. Sir Knight Emra Holmes proposed a grant of five guineas to the "Cathedral Fund," but was ruled out of Order, as no notice had been given, but he gave due notice to that effect for the next Prov. Priory.

The banquet at the Red Lion Hotel, presided over by Colonel Peard, was a brilliant one, and gave satisfaction to the members who participated, the brethren of the Rose Croix Chapter, of which the Prov. Prior is a member, having joined the Sir Knights at the festive board. A very hearty reception was given to Lieut. Colonel S. H. Clerke, especially for his valued and able services as the Installing Great Prior; and the other members of his distinguished staff were most warmly greeted and entertained by the Cornish fraters.

In the afternoon the Cornwall Rose Croix Chapter assembled in considerable strength, nearly all the Officers and resident brethren being present, and received a visit from several members of the Supreme Council of England, viz.:—Bros. J. Montagu Pulteney Montagu Grand Chancellor 33°, Lieutenant-Colonel Shadwell H. Clerke Grand Secretary General 33°, and Hugh David Sandeman Grand Secretary for Foreign Correspondence 33°, the Hon. Richard W. H. Giddy Chief Inspector General 33° for South Africa, and General H. E. Doherty, C.B., the Deputy Inspector-General 33° for the Western District, as well as other distinguished Visitors. The Supreme Council were pleased to find the Chapter in such an efficient state, and appeared highly gratified at the cordiality and heartiness of their reception. One candidate was exalted by the M.W.S. in a pleasing manner, and a young member was also unanimously elected.

A Special Consistory of the P.R.S. 32° was held on this occasion for the purpose of investing Bro. W. J. Hughan, our distinguished and erudite brother, with the collar of that degree, and Col. Clerke, in announcing the fact, stated that it had given the Supreme Council great pleasure to confer this degree, honoris causa, upon Bro. Hughan, of whose services to this Order and to Freemasonry generally he spoke in the highest terms. Bro. Anderton M.W.S., on behalf of the Chapter, thanked the Council for this mark of their favour, and Bro. Emra Holmes said that Bro. Hughan was appreciated and honoured in both hemispheres as a Masonic writer. He was held in the highest estimation in the United States, and the Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite had done honour to itself in honouring him. Bro. Hughan's advancement is very popular in Cornwall.

The Supreme Council, in the course of their western tour, have already visited the St. Peter and St. Paul Chapter at Bath; the Ivor Hael Chapter, at Newport (Wales); the Morganway Chapter, at Swansea; the William de Irwin Chapter, at Weston-super-Mare; the Alfred Chapter, at Taunton; and the Coryton and Rougemont Chapter, at Exeter. To-day they attend the St. Aubyn Chapter, at Morice Town, and on Monday the Huyshe Chapter, at Plymouth, at which a Consistory of the Thirtieth Degree is to be held—an occurrence so rare that doubtless many will be present who have attained that distinction. These visits have given a great impetus to the Rose Croix Chapters, as well as to the Priories of the Knights Templar, which have also been visited, and all concerned have every reason to be pleased with the success of the tour.

ORDER OF THE RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE.

THE annual meeting of the Grand Imperial Council of Scotland of the Knights of the Red Cross of Constantine was held in Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh, on the 24th ult. The Most Illustrious Sovereign Colonel Francis Burdett on the throne. The following members of the Grand Council were also present:—The Hon. Lord Inverurie Most Eminent Grand Viceroy, Captain Charles Hunter Junior - General, the Rev. T. N. Wannop High Prelate, R. S. Brown Recorder, James Crichton Treasurer, Dr. James Carmichael Almoner, John Crombie, C.A., Aberdeen, Orator, William Edwards Chamberlain, C. G. C. Christie Int. Gen. Peebleshire, and the following members of the Grand Senate:—N. Minola, Dr. George Dickson, James Melville, and F. L. Law, and a good attendance of members of the various Conclaves. Colonel Burdett having completed his three years of office, Lord Inverurie was unanimously elected in his place as M.I. Grand Sovereign, and was enthroned accordingly. His Lordship then appointed Captain Hunter as his successor in the office of M.E. Grand Viceroy, and thereafter the other office-bearers were appointed—Lieutenant J. G. Murray Senior General, John Crombie Junior General, Rev. T. N. Wannop High Prelate, J. B. Mercer Chancellor, R. S. Brown Recorder, J. Crichton Treasurer, Dr. James Carmichael Almoner, W. Edwards Marshal, Dr. Dickson Standard-Bearer, J. H. Balfour W.S. Sword-Bearer, and Colonel Robeson Chamberlain. The following Sir Knts. were elected to seats in the Grand Senate,—viz., J. Dalrymple Duncan, William McLean, Cornelius Harmens and Dr. Thesdon Byrne of Elsieshields, Dumfries. A report from the Executive Committee, showing satisfactory progress of the Order during the past year, was approved. The Sovereign then, in appropriate terms, proposed that a vote of thanks should be accorded to Colonel Burdett for his services as M.I. Grand Sovereign, and, in name of the Council, presented to the Colonel a certificate (beautifully emblazoned on vellum by Brother Melville), setting forth the able manner in which he had discharged the duties of the office, and the thanks of the members therefor. Colonel Burdett suitably acknowledged the compliment. After the transaction of some routine business, the Knights adjourned to the Windsor Hotel, where they dined together. The newly-appointed Sovereign and Viceroy acted as chairman and croupier respectively, and the company was joined by a number of other Knights and Freemasons, among whom were—Sir Knights W. Bulkeley Hughes, M.P. for Carnarvon, and Deputy Grand Master of North Wales and Salop, D. Murray Lyon G. Sec. G. L. Scotland, Dr. Byrne of Elsieshields, who had been appointed a member of the Grand Senate, &c. After dinner, served in excellent style by Brother Thiem, the Chairman proposed the usual loyal toasts, calling for an extra cheer for the two young Princes who have just gone out on a voyage. "The Army, Navy, and Reserve Forces" were next given from the chair—Colonel Burdett replying for the army, Dr. Byrne for the navy, and Captain Hunter for the reserve-forces. Colonel Burdett then proposed "The health of the Grand Sovereign," remarking that he looked upon Lord Inverurie as the mainstay of the Order, and the very best man they could have placed in the high position to which he had been elected. He felt sure, he said, that the new Sovereign would exert himself energetically and worthily, so as to do his best for the interests of the Order, and that he would not only preside over the Grand Council but would look after the other Conclaves in the different parts of the country. Lord Inverurie was willing to work, and he, Colonel Burdett, had great gratification in confiding the high office into his care. The toast was cordially drunk, and Lord Inverurie, in acknowledging it, expressed the hope that at the end of his term of office no one would be able to say that the Order had suffered any mischance. The Chairman then proposed the toasts of "The Most Illustrious Past Grand Sovereign," which was acknowledged by Colonel Burdett; "The Most Eminent Grand Viceroy," replied for by Captain Hunter; and "the Present and Past Members of the Grand Council," for which Brother Crombie, Aberdeen, responded. Thereafter the "Prosperity of the Grand Lodge of Scotland" was proposed in a congratulatory speech by Lord Inverurie, and acknowledged by Brother D. Murray Lyon, Grand Secretary. A number of other toasts were duly honoured, Sir Knt. W. Bulkeley Hughes, M.P., Hon. Sov., replying for "The Sovereigns and Viceroys of Conclaves," in doing which he expressed his pleasure on account of having been admitted as a member of the Order; and Colonel Burdett acknowledging the toast of "The Grand Council of England," which was proposed by Lord Inverurie. "The Recorder" and "The Visitors" were also toasted, and the proceedings were closed at eleven o'clock.

WILLIAM PRESTON LODGE, No. 766.

THE regular meeting of this Lodge, of which Bro. S. D. Ewins is I.P.M., was held on 25th Sept., at the Cannon-street Hotel, E.C. Lodge was opened by Dr. C. R. Cutmore, the W.M., who, in due course, put the minutes for confirmation. These being accepted, the other business of the day was proceeded with. On the Lodge being advanced, Bro. Lawrence Stevens Burt was raised to the degree of M.M. Lodge was then resumed, and the following gentlemen, after being balloted for, were initiated into Freemasonry:—Messrs. Charles William Lenox Hall, George Hutchinson, and Alfred Wortham, the ceremony in each case being performed by Bro. Dr. Cutmore, in an impressive manner. The election of W.M., Treasurer, and Tyler for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, Bro. W. Manfield Newton, receiving the majority of votes for the first office, Bro. Capt. Kain was re-elected Treasurer, and the Tyler also was re-elected. The usual quota of brethren were appointed as an Audit Committee, and thus the business of the day was brought to an end. The decease of Bro. William Edward Newton, which took place on the 1st April last, was then formally announced by Bro. Capt. Kain, who also addressed a few words to the Lodge, feelingly pointing out the merits of their departed brother. It was proposed and unanimously carried, that the sympathy of the Lodge with the bereaved family should be recorded on the minutes, and a copy of the same forwarded to the widow. This latter duty was, on the request of the Secretary, kindly undertaken by the Treasurer, to whom the various members of the family are well known. Some other matters of routine business having been disposed of, the Lodge was closed and the brethren repaired to the banquet hall. Here a pleasing novelty was provided by Bro. Dr. Cutmore, who has made his year of Mastership memorable in the annals of the William Preston Lodge. The variation in the usual formalities which our brother had provided on this occasion was that of allowing the wives and non-Masonic friends of the members to join the festivities of the evening, and we think he, as well as the brethren who have assisted him and Brother George Newman—who we believe first suggested the innovation—are very much to be thanked for the excellent way in which the whole of the arrangements were conducted. A first-rate banquet, served in the best style of the Cannon-street Hotel, was thoroughly enjoyed by all present, and at its conclusion the regular toasts were gone through; the speeches on this occasion, out of respect to the ladies, we presume, being kept very short and to the point. Capt. Kain proposed the health of the W.M., briefly referring to his good qualities, displayed both inside and outside the Lodge. In reply, the W.M. stated that the present was among the proudest moments of his life; he had never before experienced such pleasure at a Masonic meeting as he did now that they were graced by the attendance of the ladies. The toast of the initiates followed, and each in their turn replied. To the toast of the visiting brethren Bro. W. W. Morgan jun., and others, tendered a brief reply, after which the health of the Past Masters was most heartily given and received. Bro. Capt. Kain was again "able"—as he facetiously termed it—to address a few words to those assembled. He hoped their present attempt at initiating the ladies would not be the last by very many. Bro. Miller followed, and then Bro. Newman was called for. It was but natural that this brother should express the pleasure he felt that his proposal had resulted in so pleasant a meeting. He hoped that each succeeding September meeting of the Lodge would be graced by the attendance of the ladies who, he trusted, would go away satisfied at the entertainment the members had been enabled to offer. Bro. Worrell followed, and then Capt. Kain "ably" explained the banners of the several Past Masters, which in this Lodge form an important part of the surroundings. To the toast of the Treasurer and Secretary, Bros. Capt. Kain and Worrell respectively replied, and then the non-Masonic Visitors and the Ladies were each honoured, Bro. Capt. Kain proposing the latter toast. To the Masonic Press, Bros. Morgan and Kelly responded, the representative of the City Press following. The Officers of the Lodge was next given, and then the Tyler's toast. A most enjoyable musical programme was provided and carried out in a manner that gave great pleasure to those assembled. The artistes comprised Madame Worrell, Miss Marion Burton, and Bros. Alfred Kenningham, Seymour Smith, and J. Turle Lee. To particularise any piece as being the most deserving, would be invidious, suffice it to say that each carried out their part in a faultless manner, the encores, which were in a few instances accorded, being fully appreciated. Among those present were Bros. Dr. C. R. Cutmore W.M., E. Kidman S.W., W. Drake J.W., Capt. G. J. Kain P.M. Treas., Wm. Worrell P.M. Sec., W. J. Roberts S.D., W. J. Collens I.G., E. B. Broomhall D.C., George Newman P.M. Steward, J. Pringle P.M.; Bros. H. E. Heath, J. W. Hutchings, W. Manfield Newton, Turle Lee, William Johnston, L. S. Bath, J. G. Appell, A. G. Rees, F. G. Barnes, P. Steinmann. Visitors Bro. H. Garrod P.M. 749, Louis Beck W.M. 1559 P.G.O. Mus. H. Harman 1511, F. A. Kelly 1521, W. W. Morgan jun. 188, Seymour Smith 742; Messrs. Alfred Smart, M. A. Trass and Mrs. Trass, J. Tozer and Mrs. Tozer, D. M. Forbes, F. Ullmer and Miss Ullmer, Mrs. Newman, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Rees, A. S. A. Dodson, Madame Worrell, Miss Marion Burton, &c. The little Salvini, a child of five years, entertained those assembled by giving two recitations, in a style which for one so young was perfect.

We are pleased to announce that the weekly meetings of the Upton Lodge of Instruction have been resumed, at the King and Queen, Norton Folgate, E.C. Bro. A. W. Penner is the Preceptor, and Lodge will be opened each Thursday evening at 8 p.m.

ROYAL ALFRED LODGE, No. 780.

THE members of this popular Lodge met for the Installation of W.M. and appointment of Officers for the next twelvemonths on Friday, 26th ultimo, at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew Bridge. In addition to the Installation business, the agenda paper was a very full one, consequently Bro. Charles F. May, the W.M., had called the brethren for one o'clock. Lodge was accordingly opened, and minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. There were three candidates for raising, but consequent upon the inconvenience of the time set down for this ceremony, only one of those entitled to the degree attended. However, Bro. Charles Edward Botley passed his examination, and received the benefits of the sublime degree. The next business undertaken by Bro. May was to pass Bros. Robert Charles Owen Emmerson, Jonas Hole, and John Brill, which task was performed in a careful and impressive manner. Bro. May now signified his willingness to proceed with the ceremony of the day, the Installation of the W.M. elect. Bro. William Gomm was presented, and he took the obligation. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, and the ceremony was proceeded with. On the readmission of those below the rank of Installed Master, the new W.M. was saluted, and he appointed his Officers as follow:—B. Blasby S.W., C. Costelow J.W., W. Goss P.M. Treas., W. Hilton P.M. Sec., L. Franckel S.D., J. J. Gunner J.D., Beckett I.G., J. Tarling W.S., Le Grys D.C., Gilbert Tyler. Bro. May then delivered the addresses, and resumed his seat amidst hearty congratulations of members and visitors. Bro. Gomm, who is an old and highly esteemed member of the Lodge, and a constant attendant at the Lodge of Instruction held under its warrant, was anxious to show his capacity for office. The ballot was brought into requisition for Mr. John Gunthorp, who was proposed by Bro. Squires, and seconded by Bro. Clarke; for Mr. Charles Maton, proposed by Bro. Goss P.M., seconded by Bro. Blasby, J.W.; for Mr. Henry H. Tolhurst, proposed by Bro. Brill, seconded by Bro. Franckel; and for Mr. Alexander George Emmerson, proposed by Bro. Gomm, seconded by Bro. Goss P.M. The result was satisfactory, and Mr. Charles Maton, who was present, embraced the opportunity and took his first step in Freemasonry. The celerity with which the business of the day had been carried out was now manifest, as ample time remained at the disposal of the brethren ere the hour fixed for the banquet. Consequently it was intimated to the W.M. that Mr. William Pollok Meaden, a candidate for our mysteries who had been ballotted for at a previous meeting, was in attendance, and Bro. Gomm kindly undertook to again work the ceremony of initiation, to his advantage. Some proposed alterations in the bye-laws were then considered, and after some little discussion the desired changes were agreed to. The resignation of two members was announced, and the W.M. intimated that he had undertaken to serve as Steward at the Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys next year, when he trusted he might be well supported by the members of his Lodge. After some routine business, Lodge was closed. At 5.30 a capital banquet was served in the New Hall at the Star and Garter, and all present seemed to appreciate the excellence of the arrangements. Bro. James Tarling, as usual, acted most efficiently as Director of the Ceremonies, and spared no effort to minister to the comforts of the guests. On the removal of the cloth the loyal toasts were briefly introduced by the W.M. In speaking of the M.W. the Grand Master Bro. Gomm remarked that wherever he visited he heard a good word said for the Prince of Wales. Individually he (the W.M.) thought well of His Royal Highness, and he had never met with a brother who, in this respect, differed with him in opinion. Bro. Charles May felt few words were required of him to bring the toast of the W.M. to their notice. Bro. Gomm had the welfare of the Craft and its Institutions at heart. The Masonic Charities were known in all parts of the world, and it was gratifying to all to know how well they were supported. Bro. Gomm had not been unmindful of their claims, and under his rule the Royal Alfred Lodge would continue the support it had always rendered to the Institutions. Bro. Gomm, in replying, was sure Bro. May had said more than he had deserved. However, he would strive to sustain the position and reputation of his Lodge, and would do all he could to maintain the good opinion the Lodge was held in; in this he hoped to receive every help from the members. The next toast given by the W.M. was the health of the Past Masters. Bro. Gomm stated he had received great help from the Past Masters. However, on this occasion what he had most directly to do was to propose the health of Immediate Past Master Bro. May, and he would take the opportunity of presenting him with the Past Master's jewel, which he hoped he would long live to wear, and become as well known in connection with Freemasonry as was his father, the late Bro. Samuel May. Bro. May, in reply, remarked:—As a Past Master he felt he brought with him but a limited experience. He, like Bro. Gomm, had received help from the P.M.'s, to whom he tendered his sincere thanks. He had endeavoured during the last twelve months to do his duty, and was satisfied to know his exertions met with their approval. He recognised, in the presentation of the jewel that had been voted to him, the sentiments of the brethren. He would exert himself to promote the welfare both of the Lodge and its members. Bro. Littlewood was the next Past Master who addressed a few words to the Lodge. He was followed by Bro. Brown, who delicately and in the kindest manner referred to the comments that appeared in this journal on certain incidents that attended the proceedings at the last meeting. He (Bro. Brown) was aware that a disagreeable feeling existed in the minds of some of the members in regard to what had appeared in print, and he was of opinion that opportunity should be afforded for any explanation that might be forthcoming. After a few words from Bros. Beasley and Gardiner, the W.M. proposed the health of the initiates, and Bros. Maton and Meaden replied. The remaining toasts comprised the Visitors, which was responded to Bro. W. T. Scott and others; the Treasurer and Secretary, acknowledged by Bros. Goss and Hilton; while that of the Officers of the Lodge drew out the oratorical ability of the several members who had been honoured by being invested with collars. The final toast was given by the Tyler, and the brethren separated after an agreeable day had been spent. Amongst the Visitors present were:—W. T. Scott P.M. 9, Mackenzie Reed 26, Thos. R. A. Hinks 217, J. Bingemann P.M. 55, J. Tickle P.M. 1196, John Wigg S.W. St. Clement Danes, Alfred Kent 1425, Henry Kasner W.M. elect 1612, Henry E. ROTHESAY LODGE, No. 1687.

THE installation meeting of this new and flourishing Lodge—which is named, by special permission, after H.R.H. the Prince of Wales—was held on Wednesday, 1st October, at the Inns of Court Hotel, Lincoln's Inn Fields, where there was a numerous attendance of members and visitors. The banner of his Royal Highness was prominent over the Master's chair. The W.M. Bro. Frank Kirk occupied the chair, supported by Bros. J. Hancock S.W., Docker J.W., L. Beck P.M. Treasurer, W. C. Parsons P.M. Sec., Crossland S.D., Outhwaite J.D., Forscutt I.G., Berrow Organist; also Bros. Green, Lloyd, Valeriani, Berrow, Farr, F. W. Green, Duret, Livermore, Warner Sleigh, &c. Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the former and an emergency meeting were read and confirmed. A Board of Installed Masters was opened, and Bro. John Hancock S.W. and W.M. elect was presented. Bros. B. Swallow P.M. and J. Wright P.M. 1158 occupied the Wardens' chairs. In due course Bro. Hancock was installed into the chair by Bro. Louis Beck P.P.G.O. Middlesex, who was the first Master of this Lodge, and who gave a perfect and impressive rendering of the ceremony, fully entitling him to the warm encomiums passed on him at its conclusion. Bro. Berrow Organist played some appropriate music. On the re-admission of the brethren, the W.M. was saluted according to ancient custom, and he appointed and invested his Officers as follow:—Bros. Frank Kirk I.P.M., Docker S.W., Crossland J.W., L. Beck P.P.G.O. P.M. Treasurer, W. C. Parsons P.M. Sec., Outhwaite S.D., Forscutt J.D., Duret I.G., Berrow Orgt., Livermore D.C., B. Swallow P.P.G.S.D. Middlesex W.S., McGillivray Asst. W.S., Green Second Asst. D.C., Rev. P. M. Holden P.P.G.C. Middlesex Chaplain, Potter Tyler. Ballots were now taken for the admission of Messrs. W. Mole and T. Lloyd, and the newly installed W.M. showed his capacity for office by initiating these gentlemen into the Order. Hearty good wishes were given from the numerous visitors, and Lodge was closed. The brethren, forty-one in number, sat down to a banquet and dessert, provided by Bro. W. Gosden, that gave great satisfaction. Grace having been said, the W.M. proposed the toast of the Queen and the Craft, after which Bro. Lloyd sang the solo verses of the National Anthem. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the M.W.G.M. of the Grand Lodge of England, said, he called upon them to drink to the health of the Duke of Rothesay—one of the titles by which his Royal Highness is known by—and which to them has a special signification, inasmuch as it is the title by which their Lodge is known. He, therefore, felt very proud in calling upon them to do justice to the toast. After this the W.M. called on all present to do honour to the toast of the R.W. the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Officers of Grand Lodge of England. This toast received full recognition, and Bro. Berrow, Organist, delighted the brethren with an artistic selection on the piano. The W.M. then proposed the toast of their newly-initiated members, and said all were pleased to see the two gentlemen who had joined their ranks that evening; they would doubtless prove to be of the true Rothesay blood, and become an honour and a credit to the Lodge. Bro. Warner Sleigh here amused the brethren with a very laughable anecdote, after which Bros. Cole and Lloyd severally returned thanks; the latter said he had always had a great desire to become a Freemason, and hoped to be a credit to the Lodge. Bro. F. Kirk P.M. then rose to propose what he might say was the toast of the evening,—the health of the W.M., whose qualifications were so well known that they required very little embellishment from him; this they had already seen. Since Bro. Hancock had occupied the chair he had initiated two gentlemen, while his able presidency spoke for itself. Their W.M. was one who could, in every respect, do his duty, and in every office he had held he had performed what was required of him satisfactorily; he would call on them to give the toast a hearty reception. Bro. Lloyd sang most artistically "Once Again," and the W.M. rose to reply. He thanked Bro. Kirk for the kind manner in which he had spoken of him; it was also flattering to notice the way the brethren had received the toast. He tendered all his sincere thanks for their kindness. The W.M. next proposed the toast of the Visitors; the members were proud to see among them fourteen; to one and all he tendered a cordial welcome. Bros. J. Wright, Scott, S. Watkins, Dean and H. M. Levy P.M. 188 responded; all complimented the Worshipful Master on the able manner he had performed the ceremony of initiation, and Bro. Beck the ceremony of installation. The Worshipful Master now had a pleasing duty to perform, that was to propose the health of the I.P.M., Bro. Kirk, who had discharged his duties in every respect to the satisfaction of the Lodge. As a Founder he had travelled miles to be present that day. Before asking them to drink the toast, he would place on his breast a jewel which all felt he was worthy of—a jewel won by his excellent working, and the interest he always took in their prosperity. He hoped Bro. Kirk would wear it for many years, not only in this Lodge, but in every Lodge he might visit, and that it might be handed down as a heirloom to his children. Bro. F. Kirk thanked the W.M. for the valuable gift, and also for the kind manner the toast had been proposed. The recollection of this night would never be effaced from his memory. He had only been absent once from Lodge meetings, and he should have indeed regretted it had he been compelled to be away that evening. He could hardly find words to express how grateful he was to Bro. L. Beck, who had in every respect assisted him to carry out the duties they were pleased to say he had performed so well. On leaving the chair he trusted in his capacity of P.M. he would always be associated with the Lodge. In proposing the toast of the Treasurer and Secretary, the W.M. said the Lodge could compliment itself on having two such efficient members. The Secretary was a pattern to any Lodge, not only in his official capacity, but as a P.M. He, as well as Bro. Beck, deserved a hearty response to the toast. Bro. L. Beck thanked the brethren for re-electing him as Treasurer; he felt a pride in filling so distinguished a post. Bro. W. C. Parsons followed; he hoped his endeavours had given them satisfaction; his only aim was for their benefit; he trusted the Rothesay Lodge would be one of the Lodges that would be copied throughout the Craft. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Wardens, who were both capable of filling the office of W.M. After a reply from Bros. Docker and Crossland, the Tyler's toast was given, and the brethren separated. Among the Visitors were Bros. Perryman P.M. No. 3, Gibson 1420, Penet 145, Ditrag 145, W. H. Dean P.M. P.P.G.S.B. Dorset, Festa 834, Inge 1563, J. Wright P.M. 1158, H. Stewart 780, S. Walker P.M. 212, E. Farwig W.M. 180, Lakin 180, Wake, H. M. Levy P.M. 188. Bro. Berrow, as accompanyist during the evening, rendered valuable assistance to the several vocalists.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—Held at the King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Thursday the 2nd inst. Present—Bros. Clark W.M., Giesecke S.W., Klein J.W., Fenner Preceptor, Wallbrecht Sec., Pearcy J.D., Hine I.G.; also Bros. Andrews, Peacock, Legge, and others. Preliminaries were observed. Bro. Fenner worked the two first sections of the lecture, after which Bro. Clark vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Andrews (the W.M. of the mother Lodge), who rehearsed the ceremony of initiation in a very masterly manner, Bro. Peacock being the candidate. Bro. Klein, of the Corinthian Lodge, No. 1382, was elected a member; Bro. Gieseke was appointed to preside at the next meeting, after which Lodge was closed and adjourned. This Lodge of Instruction has been recently reformed under very auspicious circumstances; we predict a successful future for it, as those brethren who have assisted in its resuscitation are energetic in their Masonic duties. We hope Craftsmen who reside in the vicinity of the Lodge, and who are in search of Masonic knowledge, will avail themselves of the opportunity of visiting here and judging for themselves.

West Kent Lodge, No. 1297.—The brethren of this Lodge assembled on Saturday afternoon last, at their new place of meeting, the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, to transact the ordinary business. The brethren have for a long time been dissatisfied with their old quarters at the Forest Hill Hotel, which was not by any means so well adapted for Masonic gatherings as could be desired. Meeting now, by permission of Grand Lodge, in the elegant rooms of the South Corridor of the Crystal Palace, the brethren were charmed with the accommodation afforded them. Punctually to the moment, Bro. R. H. Crowden the W.M. assumed the chair of K.S., Bros. Woodrow and Kent being respectively S. and J. Wardens. The Rev. Arthur Druce, M.A., and Mr. J. Ovarge, civil engineer, were initiated, and the other business being disposed of, the brethren adjourned to the banquet-room adjoining, where an excellent repast, admirably served, awaited them, to which ample justice was done. The usual toasts were given and responded to, and the brethren separated after having spent a most enjoyable afternoon and evening.

If Masonry is in your heart, you will be a moral, temperate, and prudent man, keeping a guard over your lips and actions. You will abhor profanity and intemperance, and reprove those faults in Masons who may be guilty of them. You will be affable and courteous, treating all good Masons as your equals, paying due respect to those in office, regarding the opinions and making allowance for the prejudices of every place you visit.

Meanness takes on various forms of manifestation. One of its most signal illustrations is in the person of the anonymous letter-writer who gives vent to his envious and malevolent feelings by discharging from the covert of a safe retreat a poisoned arrow at some person whom he dislikes. The man who allows his animosities to lead him into this sort of ambush warfare, from which all honourable minds instinctively recoil, is most certainly to be pitied.

Holloway's Pills.—At the change of seasons many persons feel oppressed without knowing why they are so—they are aware something within them is wrong, though they cannot detect the defective organ. A few doses of these powerful, purifying and eminently cooling Pills will restore regularity to every part of the system—will cast out all impurities lurking in the frame, and will thoroughly expel the last traces of disorder, however hidden the disease may be—however obscure its cause. With Holloway's medicine relief is insured without risk; erroneous action is rectified without disturbing natural regularity, health is reinstated, and with it return the cheerful feelings which unmistakably tell the recent invalid that all within is right again.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

THE GRAND ORIENT OF FRANCE BEFORE THE CRAFT UNIVERSAL.

[COMMUNICATED.]

IT is well worthy of note that the regrettable action taken by some Masonic Powers against the Grand Orient, nearly two years ago, was not allowed to interfere, in the least degree, with the fulfilment of its duty of Love and Charity towards the members of the Brotherhood, to whatever country, race, nationality, or Rite they may have belonged. Nor is it possible to say now, as then predicted by a hostile press, that the result of the assumed right of excommunication exercised against that Body, has by any means proved to be detrimental to the union and cohesion of the subordinate Lodges.

That the Grand Orient is far from being disintegrated is, most evidently, an incontestable fact. On the contrary, prosperous and successful, the Grand Orient has since wisely maintained, towards the Masonic world, a dignified and unconcerned attitude, busily engaged in the good deeds and practical duties of true Freemasonry, and almost unmindful, so to speak, of all the frivolous talk, misleading statements, and unedifying criticisms made against its conduct. Thus, it has done well to strengthen the position it has taken, by showing, on all occasions, fraternal kindness to all, even to those who would be its detractors and accusers, and further to deserve commendation by not looking for any appreciative motives in their behaviour towards it, nor any due right in their censure against its opinions. Condemned without being heard, it has not paused to ask of its judges the evidence upon which they have delivered judgment, nor the text of the law which they are supposed to have rightly invoked, and whose penalty they have so authoritatively applied. Acting in this wise manner, the Grand Orient has allowed the question of its guilt or innocence, if not to lapse into oblivion, at least to be, for the present and till the proper time of appeal, dismissed from the mind.

Now, if "forbearing one another in love" is a Biblical injunction, it will perhaps be admitted that French Freemasons, who are charged with not using the Bible in their Lodges to "obligate" their initiates, and who do not take it as the "unerring standard of truth and justice to regulate Masonic actions," have nevertheless given, in this particular instance, a striking proof that real principles of Freemasonry can be carried out without reading the S. V. to Jews and Mahomedans, Christians and Freethinkers, believers and unbelievers.

The Grand Orient is aware—although some of those who entered their judgment upon record against it, namely the United Grand Lodge of England, never took the trouble of notifying the law ground of their sentence—that its sole offence consisted in having abrogated from its own Constitution a superfluous article which it had, in the year 1849, thoughtlessly inserted, and whose text, as far as it was known, never existed before in any Masonic Constitution. Holding that Freemasonry is one entire body throughout the world:—an institution destined to unite all good men in whatever part of the globe they may be, or from whatever region of the earth they may come; an association essentially based upon liberty of conscience and free thought, and whose purely philanthropic design has nothing whatever to do with religious creeds or dogmatic belief; and finding that these have been and always will be the most potent cause of disunion among men, and having more particularly to suffer abuses consequent upon their own self-made clause, French Masons thought it proper, after having given to the subject all the consideration, study, and thought demanded, to cancel, in 1877, what they had themselves incautiously laid down in 1849, as one of the pre-requisite and substantials of Freemasonry, in their own Constitution.

This is the plain fact, and however much it may clash with other people's pre-conceived notions, it is nevertheless one that ought to be generally known. The legal character of the question, in a strictly Masonic point of view, is not admissible. To elucidate therefore any point at issue bearing upon it, opinions certainly should not take the form of binding legal decision, with a penalty:—

> "Shun thy neighbour never,
> Perhaps he has not acted rightly,
> Still he is thy brother."

The Grand Orient now simply believes that no man is responsible to any earthly power or person for his religious or irreligious opinions; and that it had an incontestable right to make any such alteration in its Constitution, in order to stop abuses of intolerance and exclusiveness in its own Jurisdiction, without being excommunicated by any members or powers of the fraternity. That it is, in this moment, by right, and in fact, to all intents and purposes, as much within Masonic orthodoxy as it was, at least, from the time of its organisation up to the year 1849, when no Masonic authority whatever ventured to impugn its legality, or to command or suggest that to be orthodox it should add any clause to its constitution, asserting dogmatically the existence of a Deity, a Supreme Being, or a G.A.O.T.U., and besides the immortality of the soul. And how reasonably, and in justice, not to agree with it, at least, in this respect?

The Grand Orient is of opinion that to lay hold of in all countries, in all governments and in all philosophy the evident principles, eternal and immutable of universal morality, and to make of them the unanimous and infallible dogma of fraternity, it is, above all, absolutely necessary to discard all that which divides the minds, and profess all that which unites the hearts, of men. It has found, after careful examination—and the facts are staring us all in the face—that by local and individual tendencies, at home and abroad, derived more or less, from our manual and ritualistic observances, the great vital principle of the Society, namely, "Liberty of Conscience," was in danger of being overwhelmed and buried out of sight, if not by malice aforethought, but by sheer carelessness in the performance of a most important duty. That, unfortunately for the good repute of our Institution, and the harmony and concord of Masons, there are, on this and the other side of the Atlantic, brethren whose apparent object is the exclusion of a vast number of worthy, esteemed and learned men, by trying to even force upon them declaration of faith, theological admissions and forms of worship which they cannot utter without a violation of their own conscience.

Thus in Germany, Jews must not be initiated, Masonry being made there, by its votaries, essentially Christian; whilst in England, and also in America, gatherings of Provincial Grand Lodges, in many localities, cannot be regular or perfect if—with the Bible open—a processional adjournment from the Lodge to the Parish Church, therein to attend Divine Service, is not made part of the celebration. Now, in these cases, while entering their strong protest against the anti-Masonic rule of the Germans, French Masons would, by mere tolerance, be disposed not to criticise too severely the proceedings of the English, and perhaps would even, out of fraternal courtesy, on the occasion, join in a procession which, in their consciences, they would deem simply a superstitious show. But, surely they would not fail to say: "that, at all events this is not Freemasonry; if it is not, according to our dogmas of complete liberty of conscience and absolute unsectarianism, altogether anti-Masonic." And who would prove them the contrary? And upon what principle could lie or stand the demonstration?

In their opinion, by discarding in the practice of Lodges all that which pertains to religious worship and ceremony, the French have come nearer the fundamental essence of Freemasonry, the better to serve its purposes and carry out its cosmopolitan aim, which embraces all humanity. They have proclaimed a truth which alone can be depended on to maintain the integrity of the Order. And they fulfil besides, by so doing, a condition upon which the majority enter the Association, and thus keep the promise made to every initiate that "in its vows of fidelity there was nothing incompatible with his civil or religious duties and convictions." What a shocking thing to individual sense of propriety if a brother in the discharge of the duty of his office as Chaplain, on being called to offer prayer in the Lodge, should conclude by invoking the mediation of Confucius or Buddha, Allah or Christ, or else attempt to personify the G.A.O.T.U. in a Trinitarian theory; or, again try to assimilate Him simply to a symbol of Nature, or its three generant reigns into our globe? Well may such an idle supposition be sneered at! Yet, it is an incontrovertible truth that, much as men may appear to agree in their respective countries upon the respective name of a Deity, and much as they may be supposed to be in harmony in their own religious forms of worship, yet, it cannot be said that the same form of prayer will suit any man and all men, even in the same Church, and far less in the same Lodge.

A Methodist divine, once a Grand Chaplain of a certain Grand Lodge, uttered his prayer for the Lodge in accordance with his own conviction of duty. Great objections being made, he said:—"Masonry recognises the 'rights of conscience.' I prescribe no form in which other men shall pray. The Grand Lodge elected me Grand Chaplain, knowing my sentiments. I deny the right of any to prescribe a form which my conscience does not approve."

Well, was it not surprising to that Grand Lodge as a Masonic body, that might have been composed of men of all shades of suasions, and belonging to many distinct sects, to find itself that day compelled to be Methodist in prayer, and that, too, in the very name of "the rights of conscience?"

To those who might feel inclined to think that such a case is of rare occurrence, we may say that it is by no means so; it happens unhappily too often, but generally passes unnoticed. We have collected for ourselves, in our travels both in England and America, and on occasions such as Provincial Grand Meetings, Dedications of new Lodges, and the like, some printed programmes of the ceremonies which we attended, and we find therein special prayers composed for the occasion by Chaplains, whose sectarianism was perhaps more in violation of Masonic teaching than was that of the Methodist divine; and who, like the latter, might have defended themselves from intolerance, also on the plea of "liberty of conscience."

Of two things one or the other:—Either Masonry is built upon religion, and is a religious sect itself, with its own doctrine and teaching; or, standing above or outside religion, like most associations of men, and leaving to each man the belief he deems best for himself, according to the degree of his light, science, or attainments, Freemasonry is then totally unbiassed by any religious tendency whatever.

In the first case, whether that religion were mere Buddhism or Islamism, Judaism or Christianity, it could not claim to be Catholic, in the true sense of the word, that is "like the sun, universally spread over the surface of the earth," nor could it pretend to make a "unit" of so many discordant elements, as contained in creeds where men cannot, and never will agree. Freemasonry, then, must be true to its professed principles, and must not be a religion, or anything like it, in order to boast, but without fearing the charge of imposture, of being a cosmopolitan and universal Brotherhood, proclaiming loudly the liberty of conscience as its sine qua non article of association. In the absence of any precise text law, it was similar syllogism, which for years was argued, debated upon, thoroughly examined, and carefully dissected by the Grand Orient, before it came to the natural conclusion upon which it has acted.

Elsewhere, as well as in France, there are, it is true, men who believe that truth and justice equally practised, likewise manifested, are the only rules of life: an incentive to virtue, a principle of civilisation, the assertion of human reason, human dignity, and the best guide for the accomplishment of the progressive mission of man. And to Freemasonry these men say, not without just cause it must be admitted, especially in France, where Clericalism has made recently so many bold strides:—

> "Be truly our safeguard,
> Help us to save free conscience from the paw
> Of hireling wolves, whose Bible is their maw."

On the other hand, Freemasonry itself possesses in its midst those against whom protection is required. For it is likewise true that there are religious Masons who, as adepts of this or that denomination profess to think, and do not neglect to preach, that all must be made subservient to the Bible, its teaching and influence; and, by way of consequence, to the influence of its hierophants and those who profess to promote it by speaking in its name. Divided between themselves, each one claiming to be in the right, the sects to which those men belong are nevertheless Christianish, every Church of which affects to convince its followers that without its own definitions and explanations of the law, in fact outside its own pale, there can be but heresy and damnation. And though diametrically opposed to each other, they agree together however to give currency to the mischievous assertion that there can be no honest or good man except he be a religious man, ipso facto, one of them. No Institution could be called Freemasonry that would deliberately admit into its bosom, and put in contact with each other such dissolving agencies, against Fraternity, peace and harmony, as those afforded by the various religions and creeds of men. No religious belief, of whatever shade, is now, nor ever will be, the groundwork, the grand and peaceful platform of Freemasonry; so think the Masons of the Grand Orient.

They believe they have shut the door through which abuses found their way into our Association, and have opened that by which men of good report of every country, rank, sect, opinion, view, or crotchet can, enter to unite with each other, and contract among themselves a bond of friendship that no dividing influence of sectarianism can weaken, and no moral partiality of consideration or merit, based on religious repute, can destroy. There we may mingle and blend together as one and the same species, free conscience being enjoyed by all without restriction; all engaged in the humanising works of Freemasonry in the grand mysteries of life; all reduced to a common level and occupied by a common design; each one learning with zeal the real principles, and the true object of the Mystic Art, the better to teach them in truth and light by deeds of example. The Freemason, thus trained, thus emulated in the practice of those virtues of our Order, could not prove—we agree most decidedly with Dr. Anderson—to be an "irreligious libertine nor a stupid atheist."

Without going any further into these controversial questions, it is, however, curious to remark that of all the Masonic Powers that have sounded the alarm at the mere amendment made by the Grand Orient of its Constitution, and which have shown their appreciation of its act by excommunicating it, not one belongs to what is termed a "Roman Catholic" country, save Ireland. But Ireland is Masonically rather Protestant, as well as England and Scotland; and, by a singular coincidence, it was from our dear brethren of the emerald island, whom, it was then said, and it is still believed, were directly or indirectly influenced by Roman Clericalism, that the first blow at the Grand Orient was struck,—in due Popish fashion too. Their bull of excommunication went from this to the other Continent in no time, and, apparently, none of the fifty Grand Lodges of the United States disagreed with it. Many of the American Grand Lodges, it is true, were not then in friendly relations with the Grand Orient, owing to its having been the first power to acknowledge the coloured-men Grand Lodges of America; but no other cause of disaffection existed that might be converted into a general one.

With regard to the alleged influence exercised in the case by Irish clericalism, certain articles may be recalled to mind against the Grand Orient from that section of the profane press that is representative of Romanism in Ireland, articles which acted on public opinion as it were like the heralds-at-arms of the Irish Grand Lodge. In the meantime it may be curiously observed that not one of the so-called Catholic countries, on both Continents, whose Grand Lodges are in relations of amity with the Grand Orient, did take alarm at its conduct and show the least objection to its having, more emphatically than before, proclaimed the Masonic dogma of "liberty of conscience." From the smallest Republics of South America to Italy, Portugal, and Spain (land of intolerance and persecution, last seat, not very long ago yet, of a Grand Inquisitor's Hermandad), all fraternal relations and friendly correspondence with the Grand Orient of France have been maintained and remain still unaffected. We would not take, certainly, upon ourselves to say that this accusation is founded on truth. We can only state the facts and the circumstances under which they happened.

It was at the General Assembly of September 1877, that the resolution for the amendment of the First Article was by unanimity voted, and that, in consequence, the Constitution was restored to what it was prior to 1849, a fact which the Grand Orient did not officially communicate to any Masonic Power, as it believed they had nothing to do with the matter. Now, we find, as early as the 2nd of November following, the Irish Grand Lodge notifying its decree of excommunication against the French brethren. Whether it be Orange or Ribbon, we think it worth quoting; it runs thus:—"Whereas, the Grand Lodge of Ireland has received official notification that the Grand Orient of France has altered the first article of its Constitution from its previous form, and omitted therefrom, as one of its fundamental principles, a belief in the existence of God and the immortality of the soul. The Grand Lodge of Ireland hereby resolves:—That the Grand O. of France having by such alteration rendered admissible as members of Lodges within its jurisdiction individuals who do not believe in the existence of a personal Deity, has thereby caused a breach in the foundation of ancient Masonry, and acted in violation of the first principle of the Order, and therefore the Grand Lodge of Ireland hereby declares that it cannot continue to recognise the Grand Orient of France as a Masonic Body, and directs all the Lodges working under Irish Constitution to decline receiving as Masons any persons hailing from the Grand Orient of France or from any subordinate Lodge under its jurisdiction."

Those who are familiar with this question of the Grand Orient may recollect the correspondence that existed between Sir Edwards Borough, Rep. of the G.O. at Dublin, and Bro. De Saint Jean, President of the Council of the Order, that correspondence having been published and commented on by many Masonic papers. Most probably so hasty an informal a decision would not have carried much weight, and Masonic opinion, enlightened by the explanations given, would have unravelled the real motive of precipitate action from its authors, had it been allowed to remain, at least for a time, unnoticed. But the charge thus sounded from Ireland was soon joined in by Scotland and finally, by England. For we find the United Grand Lodge, on the 5th of March following, passing, at its Quarterly Communication, "amid loud cheering and enthusiastic satisfaction," says the report, a series of four resolutions prepared and proposed against the Grand Orient by the Pro Grand Maste of England, which resolutions he described as the minimum of precaution it was the Grand Lodge's duty to immediately adopt. It may be remarked that no correspondence whatever had passed between these two Powers; and that the first of the resolutions positively affirmed that the Grand Orient had eliminated the Great Architect of the Universe from their service, while a complete assertion to the contrary existed in the very letters previously published from Bro. De Saint Jean and the Grand Secretary to the representatives of Grand Orient in Ireland and Scotland, those letters being besides initiated as usual, and as it is still the practice—à la Gloire du G.A.O.T.U.

MARRIAGE.

HICKMAN—CRESSEY.—On the 27th September, at the Abbey Church, Romsey, by the Rev. E. L. Bertson, Vicar, assisted by the Rev. — Barthon, William Jean, eldest son of William Hickman, Esq., J.P., of Aldermoor House, near Southampton, to Isabel, daughter of the late Francis Cressey, Esq., of Deanafield, Romsey.

TESTIMONIAL TO BRO. EDWIN WILLIAMS.

A COMMITTEE of influential and local brethren, who have for some years past had opportunities of knowing Bro. Williams, determined to present him with some tangible mark of their esteem. Accordingly, the necessary arrangements were made, and subscriptions came in freely, many of his neighbours being anxious to join the contributors to the Fund. Bro. Williams having recently taken the ancient hostelry yclept the "Eagle" at Snaresbrook, it was determined to celebrate the presentation in the true old English fashion, by having a dinner at his house. A numerous attendance of brethren, and also of personal friends, was presided over in a truly genial manner by Bro. J. G. Stevens, ably supported by Bro. T. J. Barnes as Vice President. The excellence of the dinner and choiceness of the wines were universally admitted by the company, who seemed to be pleased with the whole of the arrangements. After grace, the usual loyal toasts were given and dutifully responded to. Bro. Stevens next said,—I now approach the toast of the evening, and in doing so approach it with diffidence. Not that I am diffident of the fact, but feel I am not able, seeing so large and influential an attendance, to do honor to the importance of the toast. Now, around this table are some who have known Bro. Williams longer than I have; my knowledge of him extends over about six years, and I can say he is an honorable man, a man of integrity, and one whose word can be taken, and in saying that—you have known him for a longer period—we may say, he has endeared himself to us all. Having left business in Whitechapel, and feeling he had luxuriated long enough in the City, he has come to sojourn in Essex, and we all wish him hearty success. Now, a committee of gentlemen having deputed me to offer Bro. Williams some mark of their esteem, it is my duty, in their name, to present this evening a Silver Service, a Loving Cup, and last, but not least, a letter from Mr. Gurney framed, with this Testimonial on Vellum, containing the names of 70 Subscribers. Whilst the Committee have thus done their duty to Mr. Williams, they are aware there is a Mrs. Williams. We all know how fond ladies are of a cup of tea, and this Tea Service may, when that lady does the honours of her tea table, remind her in what estimation her husband is held. Honour, truth, integrity, uprightness, justice—four of these words we may pass by, but I have something more to say of the integrity of Bro. Williams. In acknowledging his great kindness, urbanity of manner, gentlemanly conduct and manliness; in the name and on behalf of the Committee, I present this Tea Service and Testimonial. After reading the Testimonial, which was a handsome specimen of art, the president resumed. During my speech, I have mentioned integrity, of this the following letter from Mr. Gurney may be taken as a proof:—

"112 Whitechapel, E., Sept. 8, 1879.

"E. Beherends, Esq.

"Dear Sir,—I have much pleasure in handing you herewith a contribution towards the proposed testimonial to Mr. Edwin Williams; I regret that I shall not be able to attend the presentation, but I shall join most heartily in the good wishes that I am sure will then be expressed for his success in his present enterprise. The numerous influential names on the list of subscribers must always be to him valuable testimony that he has won the approbation and friendship of many who are customers here, and the addition of mine must be accepted as evidence that he has succeeded most thoroughly in accomplishing the very rare feat of serving faithfully and satisfactorily a double interest. I have every confidence that his business knowledge and the attention he will be sure to give will ensure for the "Eagle" at Snaresbrook a long era of constantly increasing prosperity.

"I am, Dear Sir, faithfully,
(Signed) "JAMES GURNEY."

The several gifts were then formally presented, the president saying the occasion afforded him double pleasure in being chosen to make the presentation. He then read a letter from Bro. Beherends, apologising for unavoidable absence, and requesting that the loving cup might pass round the table filled with champagne at his expense; while this was being effected, other apologies for non attendance were read. Bro. Williams then said,—I have to-night one of the most difficult tasks (and yet a most pleasant one) I ever had to perform. To thank you for this beautiful present would tax me far beyond my powers to clothe my thoughts in words to thank you for the great kindness of Chairman and Committee to me this evening. Passing to the letter from Mr. Gurney, my late employer, I may say the testimonial has given me pleasure, and the letter great surprise; during my stay with him I have experienced all gentlemanly treatment, and have rendered him all the service I could render. I have to study the health of my wife and family, and have come here; and shall continue to work hard to render this place all I would have it to be. (Cheers). The Committee were next toasted, Bros. Lazarus and Myers Hon. Sec. being named as the two active members who had brought this affair successfully through. Both gentlemen having responded, the toasts of The Absent Subscribers, the Residents of the Neighbourhood, responded to by Bro. Hollington, Whitehead, and Cox; and the Press, responded to by Bro. Stephens, brought the post-prandial operations to a close, the brethren dispersing to seek their homes by rail and road. One party, remembering that the "Eagle" was an ancient posting house, drove down in splendid style, in a well appointed stage coach, with two pairs of match greys, who took us home in such a manner as to remind some of the old days when posting and the stage coach were the recognized means of travelling. The musical arrangements were under the control of Bro. J. Stedman, assisted by Bro. Egbert Roberts and Masters Dunster and Malinu.

Bro. J. Marsh, No. 185, will re-open the Philharmonic Palace of Varieties, Islington, this day (Saturday). Bro. Marsh intends to provide ballets, burlesques, and variety entertainments. Mr. Alfred Young is the manager.

Moss thanked the brethren for the vote and complement of making him an honorary member. He, though but a young Mason, had attended Lodges nearly every evening since he had been initiated, and therefore might be expected to be pretty well up in the work he had undertaken. The Lodge was advanced and the D.D.G.M. kindly consented to honour the Lodge and Candidate by assuming the gavel and conferring the sublime degree. The ceremony was very impressive; rendered so by the exquisite manner in which the degree was worked, also by the efficient manner in which Bro. Ewing presided at the organ, at the special request of the W.M. The Lodge was resumed to the first degree, when the Secretary read a letter from the D.D.G.M. warning the brethren from countenancing certain persons styling themselves "the Grand Orient or Council of the Reformed Egyptian Rite;" a Lodge not recognised by the Grand Lodge of England, or of Rome and Palermo. The D.D.G.M. W. Bro. Broadley, then spoke at some length as to the evil consequences that would arise if the brethren took any notice of these persons. The Lodge was then closed in the usual manner, and the Brethren adjourned to a substantial repast, where the usual loyal and other toasts were given. The D.D.G.M., on rising to respond to that of his health, asked the brethren to toast the W.M. of the Lodge, W. Bro. Segond, who was unable to attend the banquet, on account of family bereavement, coupling with it W. Bro. Westrup the P.M. The D.D.G.M. W. Bro. Broadley, then spoke at some length as to the evil consequences that would arise if the brethren took any notice of these persons. The Lodge was then closed in the usual manner, and the Brethren adjourned to a substantial repast, where the usual loyal and other toasts were given. The D.D.G.M., on rising to respond to that of his health, asked the brethren to toast the W.M. of the Lodge, W. Bro. Segond, who was unable to attend the banquet, on account of family bereavement, coupling with it W. Bro. Westrup the P.M. The D.D.G.M. spoke at great length on the merits of Bro. Segond, and of his known great charity and zeal for Freemasonry, he also spoke in high terms of the energetic endeavours of Bro. Westrup, who when he joined the Lodge found it in any thing but a prosperous state, and gave it over to his successor in its present flourishing condition. Bro. Westrup replied, in a very appropriate speech, on behalf of himself and the absent W.M. thanking the D.D.G.M. for the flattering terms in which he was pleased to speak of Bro. Segond and himself. A vote of thanks to the visiting brethren, who so kindly came forward to aid in making the meeting a success, was unanimously carried. The Tyler's toast brought to a close one of the most pleasant and successful meetings held in the Hall.

High Cross Lodge of Instruction, No. 754.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, 24th September, at the Seven Sisters' Hotel, Tottenham. Present—Bros. Geo. P.M.'s Stephens, Barham, Thompson, and Steedman, and a goodly muster of the brethren. Visitors—Bros. the Rev. Thomas Smithson, M.A., and G. Tegg, of the St. James Lodge. The Lodge was opened in ancient form; the minutes of last Lodge meeting having been read and confirmed, and other preliminaries duly observed, the ballot was taken for Mr. F. Smart, which proved unanimous in his favour, but he, not being in attendance, will be initiated into the mysteries of the Craft at the next meeting. The Lodge was then advanced to the third degree, and Bro. Mitchell was raised to the sublime degree of M.M. After a short discussion relative to altering one of the bye-laws, the Lodge was closed in ancient form, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment. On the removal of the cloth the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. The health of the W.M., proposed by Bro. Stephens P.M., was cordially received; he, in reply, thanked Bro. Stephens for the kind expressions which fell from him in proposing his health, and trusted he might have as successful a year of office as the one just past; with the assistance of his Officers it would be his earnest desire to do all he could for the welfare of the Lodge, and to gain the esteem of the brethren. The health of the P.M.'s was responded to by Bro. Barham; that of the Visitors by Bro. Rev. T. Smithson, who very eloquently spoke of the courteous manner with which the W.M., as a stranger, had welcomed him that evening. Having been a great traveller, he had visited many Lodges, both in this and other countries, and had always been received with that cordiality which distinguishes Freemasons and gentlemen. Other toasts followed, and the Tyler's brought the meeting to a happy termination.

Dallas's services as Secretary, they hoped he would come among them as often as possible, and that he might live many years to wear the gift so unanimously presented. Bro. Brethren who desire to assist in establishing this Fund will oblige by forwarding their names to be added to the above List.

THE course of training followed by the Masonic Educational Charities, in common with many similar institutions in various parts of the country, is looked upon as more or less successful in proportion to the results that can be shown as emanating from the pupils themselves. It is not only necessary that a girl or a boy should receive a good education, but it is likewise desirable that they should prove that such education has been of service to them in after life. Indeed, that it has been the means of their securing a position which without such education they could not have attained. With a view to assist in this object the committees of very many of the English Charities make it a part of their duty to interest themselves in the future of the pupils who have been educated under their care. This they do by obtaining for those whom they deem deserving situations in offices presided over or belonging to one of their number, who they are assured will act as parent or guardian to their charge, and by apprenticing or otherwise starting in life those who, being orphans or from other causes, may need more aid than is forthcoming from relatives generally. The practicability and success of such a scheme can be vouched for in numerous instances where it has been in work for years past; and were it necessary the records of some of our largest Charities would give ample evidence of the satisfaction derived from keeping an account of each scholar's proceedings in after life. It has frequently been found that a little advice, counsel or help has proved to be the starting point of success.

With regard to the Masonic Institutions, it has often been regretted that some further surveillance has not been exercised over those who have been so fortunate as to receive them in education and early training; and it is felt that without something be done to watch the future of those who leave the schools, and, if need be, lend them a helping hand, the work of Masonic Charity is incomplete. This want may perhaps best be expressed in the words of the Right Hon. Bro. the Earl of Rosslyn, K.T., Past Grand Master of Scotland, who, as President at the Eighty-first Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, brought the question particularly before the Craft. The Right Worshipful Brother, in proposing prosperity to the Institution, after detailing the advantages and benefits which were derived from the School, said:—

I will tell you a little fault, and I am sure I need only mention it to find it immediately corrected; and the fault that I am going to find is this—that it is not impossible that at the end of their schooling career some of these boys may leave the School homeless and in need. It may be that the good seed sown may bear fruit during their scholastic career, but it may also be that the fruit will perish for want of cultivation at a later period. It may be that having derived all the advantage that they could from their study, and from their religious training in your Institution, they may leave it to fall into evil courses and evil ways, or even to suffer penury and poverty. I would appeal to you once more, as that is the only blot I can find in your excellent Institution to try and amend it, that the pupils may derive the full benefit of your bounty and your charity.

It is now proposed to raise a fund which shall act as an adjunct to the two Masonic Schools, and be the means of supplying the want set forth above; and for this purpose your support and aid are earnestly solicited

It is proposed that an early date shall be fixed for a meeting of those who may express approval of the scheme, and thereat the various rules for the government and conduct of affairs shall be discussed, Committees appointed, and general arrangements made.

It is hoped that the fund when once established will grow from year to year, and that the dividends of the subscriptions—which will be invested in approved securities—may in themselves prove sufficient for the various objects aimed at.

Further particulars of the scheme will be announced as they are arranged; but in the meantime we ask you fraternally to lend your aid to the furtherance of the desired object, by making it known to your friends, offering suggestions, or in any other way you may deem desirable.

The main objects of the fund will be—

To provide situations for the pupils on their leaving the Masonic Schools.

To watch their progress and offer aid and advice where needful.

To advance small amounts to aid in the purchase of tools, outfits, and, later in life, goodwills of businesses, &c.

To assist pupils who may have gained scholarships at the Universities, or boys who may desire to enter the Army or Navy and aid them in obtaining commissions.

And generally to watch over the future of the pupils, and help them in securing success in life.

VISIT OF THE PRO GRAND MASTER TO READING.

WE beg to draw attention to the ceremony (as per advertisement elsewhere in our issue of to-day), to be performed on Tuesday next, the 14th inst., by the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, viz., that of setting the memorial stone of the new Municipal Buildings at Reading. This undertaking will be of a very extensive character, the contract for the building has been taken at £44,000; it will embrace all the requirements that a town of the importance of Reading demands. The energetic Provincial Grand Secretary, Bro. Bradley, has made every arrangement for the comfort and convenience of the brethren, who can obtain return tickets, at a single fare, from Paddington and all the adjacent stations on the Great Western Railway. We hope the brethren will avail themselves of the opportunity of testifying by their presence the high estimation in which the R.W. Pro Grand Master is held by members of the Craft. For all who attend we think we may fairly predict a very enjoyable and interesting day's outing.

THE ELECTION OF SECRETARIES OF THE MASONIC INSTITUTIONS.

AMONG the items of business set down for the next Quarterly Courts of the Girls' and Boys' Schools are notices of motion, by Bro. James A. Birch, as regards the future election and removal of the Secretaries of the respective Institutions. It is, doubtless, in the memory of our readers that at the time of the election, in July last year, of a Secretary for the Girls' School—to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Bro. R. W. Little—considerable comment was made on what appeared a most unfair condition attached to the exercise of a Governor's privilege as regards voting: it being, according to the rules of the Schools, compulsory on a Governor to attend personally in order to record a vote on this particular election. When we remember that the decision of matters of this nature are of universal importance, we can hardly imagine how such a law was imported into the code; for it is manifestly unfair to the general body of subscribers that any rule should so act as to be prejudicial to any particular candidate, or to the brethren of a certain district. That this is the case in the question at issue is evident. On the one hand, a candidate who may have the support of three-fourths of the Governors may be so unfortunate as to number only a few London brethren among his friends; while, on the other, brethren residing a matter of fifty miles from the place of election can hardly be expected to personally attend in order to record their votes. At the time of the election to which we refer, it was pointed out that country brethren, who felt an interest in the welfare of our Schools, would put themselves to the trouble of a journey on such important business; but the best reply to this was given by a brother, who then suggested that the vote should be taken in a midland town, which would tend to equalise the distance to be travelled over by governors, which would be as easily reached from London as from their numbers. For our own part we can see no good that arises from this compulsory attendance of the voter, nor can it be defended on any ground embracing either justice or equality to all subscribers alike. Country brethren form as strong a body of supporters to our Charities as do those of the Metropolis, and, as we pointed out at the time the question was under consideration, we cannot imagine why the former leave such an important decision as the election of a Secretary virtually in the hands of the latter. However, the first step towards the removal of the obstacle has been taken, and we have but little doubt of the result.

A PLEA ON BEHALF OF THE LADIES.

WERE we to canvass the wives of English Freemasons for their candid opinion of the Brotherhood, we fear the result would prove far from complimentary to the Craft. Nor do we think the ladies could be pronounced entirely wrong in condemning a society which so rigorously excludes them from its mysteries, and but rarely allows them a participation in its pleasures. As a rule the opinion entertained of the Craft by the wives of Masons is embodied in the one word—selfishness. If we consider for one moment, can we wonder at this? As a rule our Lodges meet eight times a year, on each occasion of which the head of the household is, rightly or wrongly, supposed by those at home to revel in banquets and every luxury of the season, while in not a few instances invitations to three or four other meetings during the year are added to the number of Masonic attendances, and all without allowing the wives any share in the pleasures that are usually provided. We frequently ask, when we see brethren taking so much care of the menu or other memento of the meeting, "for those at home," whether they seriously believe their wives are flattered by this mark of apparent thoughtfulness on the part of the husbands. We think not, but rather incline to the belief that the display of these "vanities" acts somewhat in the same manner as does the display of a red cloth to the eyes of an infuriated bull; and again we say, justly so. There are many persons who, from one cause or another, being debarred from attending our meetings, wish us to believe they would not put themselves to the slightest trouble to take part in a Masonic gathering; doubtless there are a few who really would not; but, on the other hand, there are very many who would, and do, whenever an opportunity is afforded them. On these occasions their opinion of Freemasonry is appreciative, and a repetition of the enjoyment is looked forward to with pleasure. But, we ask, why should these mixed assemblies be so few and far between? The summer picnic, or the winter ball are, as a rule, the only departures from our old hard lines, and even these little variations are recognised in only a few Lodges, but wherever they are undertaken we find them thoroughly enjoyed both by the brethren and the ladies who accompany them.

It may be urged that if we were to open the door of the banquet-room to the uninitiated, it would be but the first step towards the general participation by non-masons in our meetings, but of this, if the admission of strangers be restricted to ladies, we are in no way afraid. It is cerpleasures of the day would initiate them into very many of the Masonic virtues without affording them an opportunity of witnessing a division on any item of business of a thoroughly Lodge nature. One of the greatest advantages that might be expected would be their participation in the work of maintaining our Charities. However much may be said to the contrary, we are of opinion that it is around the festive board that the hearts of the majority of the contributors are touched; indeed, nothing is more natural than for a brother to sympathise with the less fortunate of the human race if the question is brought under his notice while he is participating in a few of the pleasures which are provided for our enjoyment. So would it be with the ladies, who, when once enlisted in the work, would show results as favourable as any emanating from the sterner sex. We are aware that many brethren look upon the introduction of this innovation as likely to prove fatal to the Craft, but, we ask, where can they point for any likely confirmation of their fears? Has the Boys' School suffered since the ladies were admitted to equal participation with the brethren in its annual Festivals? No; nor can we find a Lodge that has deteriorated since the ladies and brethren together enjoyed their summer outing or winter party; on the contrary, in all cases an improvement is manifest, which might be increased indefinitely if properly managed. We were lately told that we were fond of the ladies,—admitting this truth, we do not think it necessary to offer any defence for having said a word on their behalf. We err, if to err it be, in a good cause, and we do not think we are alone in our error.

Obituary.

It is with the deepest regret we have to report the death of Brother S. Pipes, P.M. of the Hartington Lodge, Derby, No. 1085. On the evening of the 1st inst., about eight p.m., he was taken suddenly ill in the street, a short distance from where his brethren were holding their regular monthly meeting, and although every attention was paid him, he shortly expired. The sad intelligence did not reach the Masonic Hall until about ten p.m., and the brethren, when the first emotions of their grief had subsided, rose in silence from the banqueting table and retired to their homes. Our deceased brother was deservedly esteemed, as a true Mason, one of the most genial and hard-working Masters that ever passed the chair; never absent from the Lodge except when prevented by failing health, or the pressing emergencies of his public or private vocations. He was known as a liberal contributor to the Charities, and to the benevolent objects of the Craft, in which he took so active an interest. His unassuming and kindly manner endeared him to all with whom he came in contact, and so pleased were the brethren with his rule that on retiring from the chair they subscribed privately, and presented him with a Past Master's jewel as a token of their esteem for the able manner in which he had discharged his duties as Master of the Lodge. His removal from amongst us is the subject of very general regret, and his loss will be deeply felt in that part of the great building where the G.A.O.T.U. had placed him to labour. We offer to his son and successor, Brother G. Pipes I.P.M., our heartfelt sympathy on the occasion of this sad and sudden bereavement.

THE LATE BRO. JOHN LAZAR.

From the West Coast Times we gather the following:—

"Bro. John Lazar was born in Edinburgh, on the 1st December 1803. He was the son of the late Mr. Abraham Lazar, clothier of that city. His father died at the age of fifty-two. His mother, who was a native of Germany, died in the year 1825. His parents left Edinburgh when he was only eighteen months old, and repaired to London, where his father engaged in business on the Stock Exchange, which pursuit he followed up to the time of his death. Bro. John Lazar when quite a young man was engaged as a commercial traveller for the firm of J. F. Pawson and Co., of Cheapside, and in that capacity travelled for several years over England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales. A few years later he commenced business on his own account, as a silversmith and jeweller, at No. 5 Duke-street, Manchester-square, from which he afterwards removed to New-street, Covent Garden. He was married to Mrs. Lazar, his devoted partner in life, on the 2nd November 1825, and the good old couple celebrated their golden wedding in Hokitika over three years ago, when a large number of their friends met at the Empire Hotel, and joyfully celebrated the occasion. In the year 1836 Bro. and Mrs. Lazar left England for Sydney, by the ship Lady McNaughton, which made a passage of ninety-one days, but during that time there were 123 deaths on board, owing to a terrible fever which had broken out whilst the vessel was becalmed in the tropics. The passengers, after arrival were compelled to lay in quarantine for 112 days, Bro. Lazar himself having been stricken down with fever, and all hopes of his recovery abandoned. He lost three of his children by that sorrowful visitation, and has often referred to the appalling incidents of that eventful voyage in connection with his arrival in the colony. In Sydney Bro. Lazar took to the stage, for which he had formed a love in early life; he became very popular, and soon obtained the management of the Theatre Royal. In the year 1840 he left Sydney for Adelaide, where he leased the theatre in that city. In 1843 he again returned to Sydney. In 1848 he settled for the second time in Adelaide, leasing the theatre there in company with Mr. George Coppin. In 1851 he entered into business there as a silversmith, and often he has related many stories connected with his gold purchases in those days. Between the years 1851 and 1853 he held the office of Alderman, and in 1855 he was elected Mayor of Adelaide. To this high position he was three times returned by the citizens. On his retirement from the position of Mayor, he was presented with a testimonial, signed by the Chief Justice, the Attorney General, Judges, Barristers, Members of both Houses of Parliament, Aldermen and Merchants of the city, expressive of the estimation in which he was held, and of the high opinion they had formed of his able judgment in the administration of the business of the Mayor's Court, of which he was the founder, and in discharge of his many public duties. We may say that the name of John Lazar, as a Freemason, is known in every part of the globe. For many years past his name has been recorded amongst the great Masonic celebrities of the time. He was initiated into Freemasonry in Sydney in the year 1838. His remarkable oratorical powers and commanding address soon gained him prominence in the Craft. He was Deputy Provincial Grand Master of South Australia. He also held the same position in the Province of Otago, and in March 1871 was installed the Right Worshipful District Grand Master of Westland, under patent received from the Most Worshipful Grand Master of England, the Earl de Grey and Ripon. Bro. Lazar was one of the most able Masons of his day, and his consecration and installation ceremonies were the admiration of the whole Craft. The good old man has now gone to his rest at the ripe age of seventy-six, beloved by all classes of the community. It may truly be said of him, that he was one of Nature's gentlemen, an honest, conscientious, and noble-minded man, and one who will be missed in society for many years to come.

CITY OF LONDON ORCHESTRAL UNION.

THE first Evening Concert of the season 1879-80 was given in the Albion Hall, London-wall, E.C., on Wednesday, 8th October. The programme of instrumental music, which was carried out most successfully, contained the following items:—First Part—Overture, "Prometheus"—Beethoven—Orchestra; Grand Duo Concertante for Flute and Oboe—Kummer—Messrs. Toussaint and Shuckard; Solo Euphonium, "Sehnsucht"—J. Hartmann—Mr. Jones; Solo Clarinet, "Air varié No. 5"—Mohr—Mr. Hunter; Symphony, "Andante—Minuetto—Trio—Finale"—Romberg. Second Part—Grand Selection, "Melusine"—Hervé—Orchestra, with solos for flute, clarinet, horn, cornet and euphonium, by Messrs. Toussaint, Hunter, Pringuer, Sanderson and Jones; Solo Trombone, "Grand Fantaisie"—Nelve—Mr. F. Kennedy; Saraband and Gavot—"Olivia"—Roeckel—Orchestra; Waltz, "Immortellen"—Gung'l—Orchestra. Where all the performers were successful, it would appear somewhat invidious to make special mention of individuals; however, in justice to Mr. Jones, we cannot refrain from commending his ability in mastering so difficult an instrument as the euphonium, while Mr. F. Kennedy was equally successful with his trombone solo. The vocalists were Madame Kate Norman and Mr. Grimes. The lady's contributions were "In the Gloaming," "The Chorister," "Sing, sweet Bird," and "Forsaken;" the latter piece to our mind was the most successful, the audience were loud in their expressions of approval, when Madame Norman, in response to a call, favoured with "Home, Sweet Home." Mr. Grimes sang "The Macgregor's Gathering," and "The White Squall." We congratulate Bro. G. T. H. Seddon, the conductor, on the successful inauguration of a new season.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Justly Famous.—For more than forty years these medicaments have been esteemed the most efficacious remedies for impurities of the blood ever discovered. Experience has shown that they not only restore but also preserve health, removing all glandular obstructions, old sores and disorders arising from an impure state of the blood, and for pimpled faces, scurf and all scorbutic eruptions and blotches they are unparalleled. Their efficacy is unaffected by lapse of time, and as they keep good in all climates they should never be omitted as part of the stores of Ship Captains, outfit of emigrants, explorers and travellers of all kinds. THE OLD CONCORD LODGE, No. 172.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—This Lodge, which appears in my lists of the past century, published with the "Four Old Lodges," as No. 349 (1770), meeting at Pon's Coffee House, Leicester Fields, constituted 1768, having only been traced back by me to 1770, I desire to supply this omission.

No. 324 (1756-69) first appears in the engraved list for 1765, being described as meeting at "Pon's Coffee House, Leicester Fields," though without date. Its actual seniority, however, may be very accurately determined, as it is placed after a Lodge dating from November 7 1764, and before one dating from November 15. The Lodge was similarly described in the Engraved Lists for 1766 and 1767. The list for 1768 is missing, but in that for 1769, whilst the foregoing description remains intact, the date of constitution is given as 1768.

If the Lodges—Nos. 324 of 1769, and 349 of 1770—are identical, and being alike described in the last list of one numeration, and the first of its successor, this is almost certain:—The present OLD CONCORD Lodge, No. 172, instead of just preceding on the roll its old neighbour, the CALEDONIAN Lodge, No. 134, is precisely 38 places lower down on the list, than its former junior.

Yours fraternally,

R. F. GOULD.

"UNIFORMITY OF MASONIC RITUAL AND OBSERVANCE."

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The success which has attended the publication of the above work, and the prompt disposal of the first edition of 1000 copies, will of necessity compel the speedy issue of a second, and probably many other editions, and I am preparing to meet the requirements of the brethren to that end.

Will you kindly let it be known, through your pages, that it is my intention to ask Grand Lodge, at its next Quarterly Communication, to re-discuss the question of "Uniformity," and to carry into effect, or reject altogether, its unanimous vote of December 1869. With a view, therefore, to strengthen the arguments contained in the above work, and assist my efforts to obtain the object in view, by the establishment of the Grand Lodge of Preceptors, or by any other equally practical means, I should be glad to receive the opinions and suggestions of some amongst my many readers who take interest in the subject.

I thank those who have already sent me favourable notices and promises of support, and have no reason to believe otherwise than that amongst the many thousands who range under our banner there will be found numerous other earnest workers in the cause of Masonry, "pure and undefiled," willing to add the weight of their influence towards the proposed measure.

I refer brethren to your advertising columns for particulars of the work, and the means of obtaining same.

Yours truly and fraternally,

JAMES STEVENS.

PUPILS' ASSISTANCE FUND.

129 High Holborn.

DEAR SIR AND BRO.,—"VERAX'S" letter, approving the R.M.P.A.F., is satisfying, as it forcibly illustrates the want of such a fund. One case is worth any number of surmises. Bro. Binckes and several others on high in the Craft could bring many such illustrations as that given by your correspondent. I am aware at the present time that 9 boys are being assisted in the opening struggle of the battle of life, they are just commencing. I am only sorry the Assistance Fund is not yet in a position to help "VERAX'S" case; still, judging from the rapid strides it has made, it soon will be. I hope "VERAX" will add his name to the list of Stewards, as will also many others of your readers.

Yours fraternally,

DICK RADCLYFFE.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

KINGSLAND LODGE, No. 1693.

The Kingsland Lodge is certainly one which bids fair to hold its own in Masonry. From its consecration, by Bro. Terry, in 1876, down to the present time, it has proved itself worthy to be ranked with the best conducted Lodges. Its Past Masters, and also its present Officers, are amongst the most energetic of working Masons, as also the Meeting which took place on Tuesday last, the 7th inst., at Bro. Fysh's, the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, was one which will be remembered by those members and Visitors who attended at the time appointed was 3 p.m., when the W.M., Bro. Trewinnard, took the chair, after which the minutes of last regular meeting, as well as an emergency meeting, were read and confirmed. The auditors' report was brought forward, and was found to be satisfactory, so much so that a vote of thanks was awarded to the worthy Secretary, Bro. C. K. Killick sen. P.M., for the very correct manner in which he had prepared the same. Lodge was advanced a degree, and Bro. W. J. Williams gave proofs of his proficiency, and was entrusted. Lodge was opened up, and Bro. Williams was duly raised to the sublime degree by the W.M., the ceremony being admirably performed. Lodge was resumed to second degree, and Bro. Mather P.M. P.P.G.D.C. Herts presented Bro. Henry P. Isaac, the W.M. elect, to receive the benefit of installation, and that brother accordingly took the obligation. Lodge being resumed to the third degree, Bros. Edgar Bowyer and E. P. Albert respectively took the Wardens' chairs. All brethren below the degree of installed Masters retired. A Board of Installed Masters was then formed, and the beautiful ceremony of installation was impressively performed by Bro. A. H. Trewinnard. The Board of Installed Masters was closed, the brethren were readmitted, and they saluted the new W.M. He proceeded to invest his Officers as follows:—Bros. J. H. Hawkins S.W., A. W. Fenner J.W., J. Crosbie Treas., C. K. Killick sen. P.M. Sec., H. Hall S.D., W. Burtle J.D., N. L. Western I.G., Thompson D.C., Steedman P.M. Tyler; these brethren duly received the congratulations of the Lodge on their advancement. Bro. Trewinnard proceeded to finish the ceremony by giving the addresses, which he did in effective manner, eliciting the warm approval of the brethren, who testified their appreciation of his efforts by personal congratulations. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet, which was very liberally provided by order of Bro. H. P. Isaac, the new W.M., and which was done ample justice to by the guests. The cloth having been cleared, the W.M. gave the usual loyal and patriotic toasts, which were heartily responded to, more particularly so that of the officers of Grand Lodge, with which was coupled the name of Bro. Albert, who responded in a brief speech, thanking the brethren for the cordial manner they had drunk the toast, and complimented the I.P.M. on the way he had inducted the W.M. into the chair. Bro. Albert also observed that the W.M. had taken great interest in the Craft, and he trusted the Lodge would continue to progress in the steady manner it had done since its formation; he was sure that Grand Lodge might well be proud of having such a Lodge under its banner. Bro. I.P.M., in proposing the health of the W.M., prognosticated a brilliant future under so able an exponent of the mysteries of the Craft as Bro. Isaac had proved himself to be. The toast was very warmly received by the brethren. The W.M. in replying said they done him much honour; if spared, he hoped they would do him as much honour while in the chair as they had Bro. Trewinnard, the respected I.P.M.; he felt sure he should have the same kind co-operation of the officers of the Lodge in assisting him in performing his duties as the outgoing W.M. had received, and concluded an effective speech by thanking the brethren for the very warm manner they had responded to his health. The Visitors' toast was the next on the list, and was cordially received, amongst them being some well-known Masons; we append a list:—Bros. Albert P.G.P. P.M. 188, 439, 1017, &c, Vanderlin P.P.G.S.B. Kent P.M. 199, S. E. Moss P.M. 185, Littaur P.M. 209, McMillan W.M. 1365, J. A. Powell W.M. elect 186, Pratt I.G. 92, Roxby 193. Bro. Albert was the first to return thanks; this he did feelingly, commenting on the kind way in which the toast had been received; he congratulated the brethren on the unity which prevailed in the Lodge, and hoped this desirable feeling would continue. Bro. Vanderlin remarked that he was present at the consecration of the Lodge, and had watched with great interest its successful progress; he concluded by wishing its members every prosperity. Bro. Littaur, in an eloquent address, first paid a high compliment to Bro. Terry, its consecrating officer, and then expressed his approbation of the W.M., P.M., and Officers of the Lodge, thanking them for the intense fraternal feeling they had exhibited towards him as a Visitor. Bro. McMillan reiterated the opinions so eloquently expressed by the Brother who had proceeded him; he knew the W.M. would have a happy year of office from the unanimity which had been displayed amongst the members of the Lodge. Bro. Powell, in wishing prosperity to the Kingsland Lodge, considered it second to none; every one of its members were personal friends; he congratulated them on having so able a Master to preside over them. Bros. Roxby and Pratt followed, expressing their pleasure and thanks for the kind hospitality they had received. The I.P.M.'s toast was next proposed by the W.M. in feeling terms, observing it was to his kind, faithful and energetic assistance the Lodge owed its success. Personally, he had known Bro. Trewinnard a number of years, and always found him an honourable, steadfast friend, whose hand was guided by justice, whose heart was expanded by benevolence; an honour to the Lodge, and a diligent lover of the noble science, making all his pursuits correspond with the exact line of duty. He had now one of the most pleasurable duties that had ever fallen to his lot to perform, that was to place upon his breast a P.M.'s jewel as a slight testimonial from the brethren of the Lodge, and as a mark of their esteem; it had been well earned. Bro. Trewinnard could take it without scruple or diffidence. He hoped he would live for many years to wear it, as a token of their approbation. In responding, Bro. Trewinnard said he believed the brethren must be tired of hearing his voice. The present moment to him was one in which he wished he had the eloquence of Demosthenes to express his feelings in an adequate manner, but as he was not an orator, they would forgive him if he did not make a long speech. In a few well chosen words Bro. Trewinnard thanked the brethren for the present made to him, and promised always assiduously to assist the W.M. during his year of office for the welfare of the Lodge. The P.M.'s, Treasurer's, and Secretary's health were duly proposed and honoured, as were also the other Officers. The Tyler's toast brought a very pleasant evening to a close. The following brethren contributed to the enjoyment of

ELEANOR CROSS LODGE, No. 1764.

THE anniversary was celebrated on Monday, the 29th ult. In the interval that has elapsed since the consecration of this Lodge fourteen brethren have been initiated therein into the rites and mysteries of the Order, and five members have joined, making with the founders of the Lodge (fourteen), a total of thirty-three, so that the progress made since the opening of the new Lodge has been as satisfactory as the most sanguine could have desired. The installation ceremony took place at the Masonic Rooms, Abington-street, Northampton, and there was a good sprinkling of visiting brethren from the senior Lodge and from Lodges in distant parts of the country, the attendance including Bros. Butler Wilkins Deputy Provincial Grand Master, M. A. Boémé W.M. 1764 P.P.G.D.C. P.M. 360, J. T. Green P.P.J.G.W. P.M. 360, R. Howes P.G.T. P.M. 445, F. Grant P.M. 1330 P.P.G.D. Leicester and Rutland, C. A. Philips P.M. 1333, Hamilton W. Parker P.G.D. W.M. 360 and Treasurer 1764, J. S. Cumberland W.M. Eboracum 1611, J. H. Hale P.S.G.W. W.M. 737—and 455, C. F. Cox 10, W. Boxall 570, A. H. Cole-Hamilton 944 (Gortin), W. W. Wartnaby J.D. 1330, and J. J. Hart 360 P.G.S.; of 1764—Rev. S. J. W. Sanders P.G.C. S.W., Henry J. Atkins J.W., Rev. S. Wathen Wigg Chaplain, Henry W. Brown Sec. P.G.S., Henry Hill S.D., Henry Spoor J.D., George Ellard P.A.G.D.C. D.C., Eli Morris I.G., C. H. Frank Assistant Secretary, H. Hill Organist, J. W. Linnett Steward, W. Kirby and C. Dean O.G.'s, J. Manning, F. L. Cogan, George Butcher, T. V. De Denne, Brook, Sampson, T. R. Barnes, Rev. T. C. Beasley, R. Taylor, Stephen Dimbleby, Rev. M. Barton, S. S. Campion, T. Emery, Alfred Jones and R. Crofts. The Lodge was opened by the Worshipful Master, Bro. Boémé, in due form and with solemn prayer, and afterwards the Installing Officer, Bro. Butler Wilkins Deputy Prov. G.M. of Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire, attended by several Provincial Grand Officers, was conducted to the dais by the D.C., he was greeted with the usual honours, and after the minutes of last meeting had been read and confirmed, Bro. Wilkins proceeded to instal, according to ancient custom, Bro. the Rev. S. J. W. Sanders Prov. G.C. as Worshipful Master. The ceremony was performed in a most able and impressive manner, and the Worshipful Master elect then appointed and invested his Officers, Bros. M. A. Boémé P.M. 360 P.P.G.D.C. I.P.M., H. J. Atkins S.W., Henry Brown P.G.S. J.W., Rev. S. W. Wigg A.P.G.C. Chaplain, Rev. T.C. Beasley Assistant Chaplain, H. Parker W.M. 360 P.G.J.D. Treas., B. C. Frank Secretary, G. H. Percival Assistant Secretary, Henry Hill P.G.O. S.D., Henry Spoor J.D., G. Ellard P.G.A.D.C. Dir. Cer., T. V. De Denne Assistant Dir. Cer., E. Morris I.G., Manning and T. R. Barnes Stewards, Brook Samson Mus. Bac. Organist, R. Croft Assistant Organist, C. Dean and W. Kirby Tylers.

The investiture of the Officers was marked by one pleasing incident. When the Lodge was founded, the Officers agreed to present their jewels of Office (all of which are silver and inscribed with the name of the donor), and as joint stewards have been appointed this year, the additional jewel was presented by Bro. Barnes, to commemorate the installation of Bro. Sanders. Another presentation was made, to which more importance necessarily attached, as it was that of a P.M. jewel to Bro. Boémé, to whom the thanks of the Lodge were accorded. Bro. Boémé acknowledged the presentation in suitable terms, and said it had given him the greatest pleasure from the commencement to do what he could for the Lodge. The proceedings were closed in due form, and the brethren separated, to re-assemble afterwards at the Midland Hotel, where the banquet was held. Most of the brethren who had been engaged at the Lodge assisted at the banquet, the cover for each brother being marked by a daintily designed little card, bearing the hieroglyphical adage, "Birds of a feather flock together," the name being written on the feather. The menu, like the list of toasts, presented a study.

In proposing the first toast the Worshipful Master remarked that Masons had always been loyal, and had been petted rather than frowned upon by Royalty. For that, if for no other reason, the name of Her Majesty being coupled with that of the Craft, they ought to drink the toast heartily. The toast having been drunk with due Masonic honours, the Worshipful Master next gave "The Prince of Wales M.W. Grand Master." There was never a time in history, legendary or historical, when the Craft had not the patronage of great men, and they ought to feel truly pleased to have at their head in England the heir to the throne. (Hear. hear.) He (Bro. Sanders) did not know that they had done anything to forfeit such patronage, although they had done nothing that Masons had not done in other countries, where they had not the same liberty and freedom of speech which there was here. The Worshipful Master next gave "The Earl of Carnarvon, M.W. Pro Grand Master; Lord Skelmersdale, R.W. Deputy Grand Master; and the Grand Lodge Officers." One of these, the Earl of Carnarvon, was a man of whom they ought to feel very proud. He was no less distinguished as a literary man than as a politician, and whether they agreed with his political views or not, it was a pleasure to rank such a man amongst the governors of the Craft. The next toast proposed was "His Grace the Duke of Manchester, Prov. Grand Master; Bro. Butler Wilkins, Dep. Prov. Grand Master; and Prov. Grand Lodge Officers, Past and Present." The W.M. remarked that these were their nearer authorities, and for some of them they felt a little more than deference, a little more than the feeling natural to subjects. He asked them to drink to the health of their Worshipful Brother Butler Wilkins, especially as the Installing Master to-day. He (the W.M.) felt that a personal honour had been confirmed upon himself—although he did not mean it would not have been confirmed upon any one else—that Bro. Butler Wilkins should have acted as the Installing Master; but it was his (Bro. Sanders's) most ardent wish that the Deputy Grand Master should be present in that capacity, and he was very pleased when the request of the Lodge was acceded to. Those who had witnessed the manner in which the Deputy Provincial Grand Master had performed the ceremony must have been impressed by his earnestness and evident purpose all through it. He was an old, and they could now say a tried, friend. It was something when one of the "powers that be" condescended to come down from his lofty position to mix with them, and not only help them out of their difficulties, but enter into minute particulars, and place them in the right path. He was like one of themselves, and so they had more than esteem, even affection, for their Bro. Butler Wilkins, more so than for the Provincial Grand Master, if it were not treason against him to say so, especially in the presence of several of the Provincial Grand Officers, the health of all of whom he (the W.M.) asked them to drink. The Deputy Provincial Grand Master, in reply, said as this was the first anniversary of the Eleanor Cross Lodge, no one would have been more pleased than he should himself to have seen the Provincial Grand Master his Grace the Duke of Manchester honouring the Lodge with his presence. At the same time the brethren knew that the engagements of his Grace were so numerous that he rarely attended a private Lodge, though he generally made it a point of attending the Provincial Grand Lodge. But he (the Deputy Provincial Grand Master) held in his possession a patent from his Grace to act as his mouthpiece on every Masonic occasion during his absence, and he now begged to thank them, on behalf of his Grace, for the manner in which the toast had been received. As regarded the observations of the Worshipful Master in reference to himself, Bro. Butler Wilkins said that if in the past year, or previously, he had been of any service in forming or in helping forward the Eleanor Cross Lodge, he could assure them that that service had been freely given on his part, both from a sense of duty and from the love of Masony which he had at heart, and which he trusted he always should have, because he conceived, in his position in which the Province had placed him, it was his duty to render all the assistance he could for the furtherance of Masonry throughout the Province. It was only a short time ago, and could be calculated by days, when at the last meeting of this Lodge he stood before them to respond to this toast, and he then congratulated the Lodge upon its working during the past year. He was not going to bandy compliments again, as it might be thought fulsome, but this he would say, that he knew of no Lodge in the Province which during the past year had been better conducted than the Eleanor Cross Lodge. He would, however, offer one word of advice, one that he had given to older Lodges in the Province, as well as to the Provincial Grand Lodge when all the Lodges were assembled, and it was this: Although you may have been very prosperous in the past year, and look forward to prosperity in the future, take as your motto, "Quality before quantity." It was one of those things which, when Lodges were in a thriving condition, was sometimes overlooked, and sometimes the day came when they had to regret that they had not considered that question of quality. Having returned thanks for himself and the other officers, he said that it was his duty to propose the health of the Retiring Master on the last Lodge night, and he was very pleased on this occasion to propose "The Health of the Worshipful Master," who had been installed to-day. He had already said that it was very gratifying to him that he (the speaker) should have performed the ceremony, and now he might say that it was equally gratifying to him that he had been able to do so. He was the more pleased because he knew that their W.M. was one in whom the Lodge could place implicit confidence, and feel that he would thoroughly fulfil the duties he had undertaken to-day. The short experience they had had of him already, and the remarks he had offered in the Lodge since he had occupied the chair, should be sufficient to convince them that he was quite equal to the duties he had undertaken to perform, and that the Lodge would be as well governed as it had been during the past year.

The toast having received full Masonic honours, the Worshipful Master, in reply, said it was with considerable diffidence and hesitation that he rose to return thanks for the cordial manner in which the toast had been received, as well as for the unrehearsed accompaniment that followed. He felt, as he supposed all would feel who rose to the chair, that the honour that had been conferred upon him was a source of laudable pride. It was an honour in various ways. It was an honour, first of all, in that it was called the chair of King Solomon. He was one of those who, having read as much as he could lay hold of concerning Masonry, and having sought from all sources to trace the antiquity of Masonry, had come to the conclusion that Masonry in its essentials, was older than King Solomon; that, though King Solomon might never have occupied a chair of Masonry, yet he felt perfectly sure that there were guilds of Masonry in the time of that monarch, and that really the secrets of Masonry had come down to them from a time anterior to his. Therefore, it was a source of pride to any man to fill the chair of a Lodge representing truths taught so many years ago. It was a source of pride to him to be put in the chair of the Eleanor Cross Lodge. True its number, 1764, was somewhat low down on the list, but, when he reflected that the brethren of the Eleanor Cross Lodge were determined that the lessons of Masonry should be really and thoroughly carried out, and when he felt sure that the brethren around him were men in whom the principles of Masonry had taken deep root, and were anxious to show forth its fruits, not only in the celebration of its rites with closely-tyled doors, but also to men outside in the exercise of charity, he felt as proud of being the Master of No. 1764 as he could if it were No. 1. He remembered that he succeeded to the chair of the Lodge at a time when all his best powers would be called forth to equal in any degree the tenure of that office which had been held by his predecessor. The warrant had been handed into his charge that day, with strict injunctions to keep it pure and unsullied, and thus it was with some hesitation, and not a little nervousness, that he undertook a task which he could only expect to accomplish successfully with the kind help of all the members. He thanked especially Brother Butler Wilkins for the kind words he had uttered, and felt sure he should take them as most kind words. In all new Lodges there was the danger of making them a success, without thinking of the kind of success that was to be attained. They had during the next year a legacy of work, though they did last year a great amount of work in initiating fourteen brethren, and holding twelve large meetings, which surely represented, to any one who knew anything at all of Masonry, a great amount of work. They had on the books at the present moment two candidates for passing and five for raising, to say nothing of possible initiations during the year. That was something to look forward to, and yet he would fain hope that that would not be all they should do. His intentions for the year to come went beyond that. Their I.P.M. did something to initiate so large a number; he (Bro. Sanders) hoped to do something to educate those who had been initiated. A tendency to stop at the elements was calculated to produce a false impression upon the minds of some men, who got the idea that Masonry consists of going through certain routine duties, and too often there was just cause for that idea. But there were many more things in Masonry. To speak of nothing else, there were most admirable and instructive lectures which might be delivered; and through his teaching in the province of the Master, and with the help of the officers, he hoped to be able to instruct the brethren, not only in the words of the ceremonies, but in the interpretations of them, in some slight degree, in the coming year. Looking at all this—and he did not say it from any mock modesty—he did not think he ever felt such a sense of responsibility as he did at the beginning of this new year. It was a responsibility he felt very keenly, because he thought that the lessons in Masonry ought to be taught, and he should endeavour to instil them into the minds of the brethren, in order that they might carry them out, and show forth to the world the beauties of Masonry. Only the other day, a man, whom he would have very great pleasure in seeing in this Lodge, said to him, "Well, if I could only be shown that there was any good in Masonry, I would join." His reply was, that if there were only this one thing in it, here, whatever a man's creed, his politics, or his social position may be, all men can meet on the level and part on the square, and learn to appreciate each other; and that, apart from anything in the ritual, would confirm him in his attachment to Masonry. May we all, dear brethren, said the Worshipful Master, feel this in the coming year. May we all feel the importance of what our estimable Chaplain said at the opening of the Lodge, when he exhorted us to show forth to the world that we were brethren indeed, and that Masonry is something more than an empty name. I hope all will feel this most thoroughly, and try to put it in practice. My best endeavours shall not be wanting to make the Lodge a success, and if I am seconded by your kind efforts, I shall not fear for the future, but look forward with hope and confidence. To Bro. H. Brown was entrusted the toast of "The Masonic Charities." He remarked that Masons learned something of their duty from a book which had a place in every Lodge in England, and he trusted in every Mason's heart, the volume of the sacred law, which amongst other things said, "Hold fast that which is good." There were many good things set before them and they would not be doing their duty unless they held fast to them. And that same book said that "charity covereth a multitude of sins." That must be comforting to many of them. He did not mean that that applied to Masons generally, but only to the few who did err. A friend of his who certainly displayed some anxiety to become a Mason said very solemnly, "but what are the benefits?" That was rather a poser to him because he saw the light in which his friend viewed it. He however replied that the benefits of Masonry were many, but the principal honour conferred upon the Masons was not benefit to themselves, but the privilege of being able to benefit their fellow men. They already had three noble Institutions in existence, in the shape of the Masonic Charities, the fame of which was world-wide. They had been nobly supported; they had done a great work, but they had lately been taught there were other duties devolving upon those who supported them. The pupils of their schools received a spendid education, which fitted them for any position; and it was desirable that a fund should be started to assist them to gain positions where their education could be of service to them. For giving them the required aid the Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund had been formed. He then appealed to the brethren in favour of this Fund.

Bro. the Rev. S. Wathen Wigg, in acknowledging the toast, said the Masonic Schools were not mere charity schools in the common acceptation of the term. He was sorry the common acceptation of the term—for the word was really grand—should mean a livery and a subservient position. But in the Masonic Schools the boys and girls were really well educated, and were fitted for any position in life. Those who gave to these Charities were performing an act which was twice blessed, blessing the doer and those for whom the act was done; and Masonry would not be so strong if they had not these Charities on which to expend their zeal and energy. They were a bond of union between all Masons. They could not do too much to make them what they ought to be, the grandest charities of our country. They could in this way show their sympathy in a practical way for aged brethren and for the orphan children of brother Masons.

The Worshipful Master next proposed the health of the I.P.M. Bro. M. A. Boémé. He said he was sure he had only to name the toast, and it would be received with the greatest satisfaction. There was an old phrase of Pope's, "Welcome the coming, speed the parting guest," and that was the object of this occasion; to celebrate the fact that Freemasonry was ever new, ever young in the person of the Master elected, and at the same time to wish God speed to the Immediate Past Master. They had enumerated Bro. Boémé's good qualities many times during the past twelve months, each time with the greatest enthusiasm, and he thought the enthusiasm on the last occasion when they drank Bro. Boémé's good health was not less than on the previous eleven occasions. That was because they felt what a good Master they had had, how much indebted they were to him for his kindness in taking the Mastership at the outset, the expectations then formed being amply fulfilled, so that the motto he (Bro. Sanders) had ventured to put upon the toast list was thoroughly deserved—"He hath indeed better bettered expectation." The example he had set them both in the Lodge and out of it, and especially the example set to some of the younger brethren, was one they ought to follow. It was with considerable diffidence, therefore, that he (Bro. Sanders) stepped into the shoes of their I.P.M., whose example would be remembered in the Lodge for many years to come. He had governed the Lodge to the utmost of his ability, and governed the Lodge well. Witness the fact that during the past twelvemonths not once had he been called upon to hold out the olive branch between contending brethren. He (Bro. Sanders) hoped that in his rule he might be equally fortunate. He gave them the health of Bro. Boémé. Might he long be spared to come amongst them, and never have cause to regret having taken the Mastership of the Eleanor Cross Lodge. Bro. Boémé said he had already had the honour of having a presentation made to him, which he prized very much, and now he had received their kind congratulations in connection with the toast of his health. As the Immediate Past Master of the Eleanor Cross Lodge, it was a source of gratification to see Bro. Sanders now occupying the chair, and he was satisfied that the Lodge would be worked much better than it had been during his (the speaker's) term of office. He had been told that P.M.'s were more ornamental than useful. Well, he must say he was more ornamental now, having received two jewels from their Lodge, but he hoped during the next year to be of some little use to the Worshipful Master, as he should feel it a duty incumbent upon him to attend the meetings whenever he could do so. Whatever might be said about ornamental Past Masters, they did give tone to a Lodge, and he should personally feel a pride and pleasure in giving what assistance he could in the working of the Lodge, not only for the next twelve months, but as long as he was spared. Bro. Hamilton Parker proposed "The Visiting Brethren."

On that passage of Scripture, "Be careful to entertain strangers," he said he would like to put another construction—"Be careful to entertain brethren." He loved the word brother. There was something endearing in it more than any other word of the English language, except those other terms associated with home, father and mother. He had to welcome, in the name of the Worshipful Master and the members of the Eleanor Cross, all the visiting brethren, whom they were delighted to see on this occasion, and would be glad to see at any time, for whereever they met with a brother, and found him to be such, it caused their hearts to beat for joy, and they immediately felt at home. They had here to-night not only visiting brethren, but he might say celebrated brethren, representing different provinces. Bro. Grant said in going to the anniversaries of different Lodges he always met with the most unbounded hospitality and good fellowship, and usually met many old acquaintances, and made many friends. He had visited many Lodges, but he did not know that he had ever enjoyed an installation ceremony so much as he had that day. It was the first time he had had the privilege of being at the Eleanor Cross Lodge, and he hoped it would not be the last, for his own sake. The ceremony of installation was by far the most beautiful in Masonry, and it was performed by the Deputy Grand Master in a way that excited the envy and admiration of those who had gone through it before. The Worshipful Master, too, had been most eloquent, and thoroughly effective in his work.

Bro. Cumberland congratulated the Lodge on the manner in which the ceremony of installation had been performed, and, after alluding to the apposite addresses of the W.M. Elect to his Officers, went on to say that if men would but carry out the teachings of Masonry outside the Lodge as well as inside, they would not only be good Masons, and good men, but members of society. It was thought by some people that there must be something bad in Masonry because it had been condemned by some religious bodies, but when they saw, as they did this evening, clergymen of the Church of England amongst them, he felt satisfied that there was nothing in Freemasonry contrary to those teachings which begin with the Bible, and have for their goal the Grand Lodge above. Referring to the question introduced by the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, he went on to say that though some of them might have friends whom they would like to become members of the Lodge, what they had to consider was whether those friends would be acceptable to the whole of the brethren, and whether they would be likely to bring credit upon the Lodge. He advised them to judge with candour, to admonish with friendship, to reprehend with mercy, and to carry out the teachings of Masonry in the noblest form, that of charity. Let them become life-governors or life-subscribers to the Institutions, and, if possible, go up to Grand Lodge as Stewards, so that they might see what was done with the money subscribed. No less than £35,000 had been raised last year, in a year of bad trade, in aid of their Institutions. In conclusion, he gave them a friendly invitation to York, where there were some interesting relics of Freemasonry, the tradition being that at one time a number of Masons used to meet in the Crypt under the Cathedral. Bro. Phillips next spoke in a congratulatory strain as to the working of the ceremony, though if he might be allowed one word of criticism, it would be to protest against the curtailment of it, though he supposed that was necessary, because some of the visiting brethren had to leave early. He approved of what had been said about making the basis of Masonry as broad as possible, but thought they should look upon their Charities as the outcome of the system, rather than point to them, in the first place, before showing that Masonry was an organisation amongst men for the sake of doing as much good as possible in the world. In closing, he said he had visited the Pomfret several times before, but coming to-day to the Eleanor Cross, he hardly knew where the one began and the other ended. Bro. Hale said he hardly considered himself a visitor, as he was with them at the consecration of the Lodge; had watched with interest its progress since, and considered it a great honour to be amongst them again. Bro. Cole-Hamilton thanked the Lodge for the welcome that he, a young and comparatively unknown Mason, had received there, and after a characteristic speech by Bro. R. Howes, who was delighted to see the Lodge with such a Worshipful Master, Bro. Cox briefly replied to the toast, apologising for the absence of his father, Rev. R. H. Cox P.P.G.C.

The Worshipful Master then proposed "The Wardens and Officers of the Eleanor Cross Lodge." He said that the Officers were old and tried friends, who had been repeatedly complimented during the year, and as most of them retained the same position, it might be expected that the working would be as good next year. All he asked of them was punctuality and regularity of attendance, and a thorough devotion to duty, and with those he was quite sure, from his knowledge of the past, that there was great success in store for them in the future. Bro. Atkins, the S.W., responded. He believed that during the Worshipful Master's year of Office every one of the Officers would be ready to assist him in every possible way, and it was to be hoped that at the expiration of another year there would be nothing but praise for the Officers. They would do their best; angels could do no more. Bro. Hamilton Parker having announced that the box for last year yielded £7 8s, a very creditable sum for so young a Lodge, the proceedings were brought to a close with "The Tyler's Toast."

The enjoyment of the evening was greatly enhanced by the performance of a choice programme of vocal and instrumental music, which had been arranged under the superintendence of the two Wardens of the Lodge, Bro. H. J. Atkins and Henry Brown. This went off exceedingly well, and gave additional eclat to the proceedings, which throughout were of an exceptionally interesting character. Grace before and after meat was sung as a quartett by Bros. Atkins, Emery, Croft and Brown. The programme included songs by Bros. Atkins, Brown, Emery, Croft, T. R. Barnes, H. W. Parker, George Ellard, Geo. Butcher, and instrumental trios by Bro. Wilkins (flute), Bro. Rev. T. C. Beasley (violoncello), and Bro. Brook Sampson (pianoforte). Thanks to the excellent taste and judgment of the Officers of the Lodge, everything connected with the celebration passed off in the happiest manner possible, and the occasion will long form one of "the pleasures of memory" to the brethren who were present.

METROPOLITAN LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 1507.

THE brethren of this Lodge of Instruction, having acquired new quarters at the Moorgate Station Restaurant, held their first meeting there on Tuesday, the 7th inst., on which occasion the ceremonies of consecration and installation were rehearsed by Bro. James Terry, who was ably supported by the W.M., Past Masters, and numerous Officers and brethren of the Mother Lodge, as well as a goodly array of Visitors, the number present being about 80. The Lodge was opened at 6 o'clock, and the whole ritual ably gone through, Bros. H. Stiles and A. Kent rendering the musical portion most efficiently, and thereby adding greatly to the beauty of the ceremony. Bro. James Willing was placed in the chair, and the Officers were in due course appointed. The names of thirteen brethren wishing to join the Lodge were given, and on the propositions being put to the Lodge, they were unanimously accepted. Bro. Willing then proposed that the thanks of the Lodge be voted to Bro. J. Terry for the assistance and tuition he had that evening given them. More especially Bro. Willing desired to thank him for having devoted so much of his time in attending; he thought the least the Lodge could do was to confer honorary membership on Bro. Terry. This, although a poor recompense, was the utmost it was in the power of a Lodge of Instruction to give. The proposition was seconded by Bro. J. J. Michael, who added a few words complimentary to Bro. Terry, and on being put to the meeting was carried unanimously. Bro. Terry briefly replied, and specially referred to the support he had received from Bros. H. Stiles and Kent, who had, by their musical ability, greatly assisted him in the ceremony. Bro. Willing proposed that the thanks of the Lodge be recorded on the minutes to those brethren for their share in the work of the evening; which proposal was, in due course, unanimously agreed to by the Lodge. Nothing further offering, the Lodge was closed. A cold collation was laid for such of the brethren as desired to partake thereof, in the adjoining room, accommodation being here provided for eighty guests. The supper was served under the personal supervision of the proprietor, Bro. Kent, who is greatly to be complimented on the arrangements he made to render the meeting a complete success. In due course, Bro. Willing, who occupied the chair, proposed Loyalty to the Throne and devotion to the Powers that be, which toast, after a hearty reception, was followed by Bro. Terry proposing the health of the W.M. of the evening. Bro. Terry referred to the many services of Bro. Willing in the cause of Freemasonry, in which, as in his private life, he had earned the greatest esteem. Bro. Willing briefly replied, thanking those present for the reception they had accorded the mention of his name. Bro. Willing now proposed the toast of the evening. It was a subject of heartfelt gratification to him to find that the Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction had acquired so high a position as to be able to secure the services of one of the most distinguished Masons of the day to come and rehearse ceremonies for the instruction of its members. The attention paid to the remarks of Bro. Terry was, he thought, sufficient to prove that his efforts were appreciated by all present, and he felt convinced that each brother who had attended had had ample opportunity of learning some part of the ceremony of which their previous acquaintance was imperfect. For himself, he admitted that he had received light on many points which before he had but imperfectly understood, and he felt that such must be the case, not only with the younger brethren, but also with the oldest Past Master present. He then referred to the exertions of Bro. Terry on behalf of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and concluded by saying that, whether as a Master, a worker in the Craft, or as the ruler of the Institution of which he is Secretary, Bro. Terry had endeared himself to the Craft. Bro. Terry replied in his usual form, pointing out the difference in the finances of the Benevolent Institution at the time he was elected to the secretaryship seven years ago and at the present time. The toast of the Visitors followed, Bro. Porter and others replying. Prosperity to the Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, coupled with the name of its Secretary, Bro. W. M. Stiles, was, as may be imagined, heartily drunk, and after being acknowledged, was followed by the toast of the Press, replied to by Bro. W. W. Morgan jun. Among those present were Bros. W. M. Stiles Sec., Jas. Willing Treas., F. Fletcher, Leon Jacobs, A. D. Kerrell, John Hardell, G. B. Physich, B. Kauffman, E. F. Purdon, E. E. B. Kidder, J. Yeomans, Henry Stiles, D. Hatch, B. Edmonds, S. Ward, G. Cobb, A. Norman, P. G. Tombs, S. Beattie, W. Side, J. J. Michael, T. Gilbert jun., T. H. Dimsdale, John Douglass, C. B. Putland, S. Ormiston, John G. McEwen, M. Little, A. Hubbard, C. B. Fowler, C. J. Scales, W. Shields, W. Porter, R. T. Cook, W. Soden, E. Lloyd, James C. Smith, George J. Earney, C. C. Gibb, John Greenfield, H. E. Tucker, J. T. Rowe, Thomas P. Gower, James Strugnell, J. Terry, W. H. Gimingham, J. E. Humphrys, G. W. West, G. W. Saul, E. Van Carry, W. H. Paddle, &c.

Our notice of this meeting would not be complete if we omitted to give a brief description of the quarters this Lodge of Instruction has been so fortunate as to secure. The proprietor of the Restaurant has devoted the whole of one floor for the service of Freemasonry, and has certainly provided one of the best suite of Masonic apartments in the city. The Lodge room proper is capable of comfortably providing accommodation for 100, while the banquet-room adjoining would allow of that number sitting down. The ante-room is so arranged as to cut off all communication from the Lodge room with the outside premises, and generally the arrangements exhibit careful forethought thoroughly carried out. We would recommend the brethren of any Lodge who may contemplate removing to pay a visit to Bro. Kent, when, we feel sure, it will not be for want of ability on his part to provide accommodation if they go elsewhere. We believe that three or four more Lodges of Instruction can be accommodated, but from the eligibility of the situation, and adequacy of arrangements, we imagine that such will not long be the case.

FREEMASONRY IN STAFFORDSHIRE.

FREEMASONRY is often said to have been in existence from "time immemorial," signifying that it originated at a very remote period; and although much has been written on the subject, the real origin of the institution still remains an open question. What is beyond doubt is that the first Grand Lodge, the first Grand Master, the first arrangement of Lodges into distinct organizations, with fixed membership and under the sanction of warrants or charters issued by Grand Lodge, as we now have them, can be traced to the revival of the "art" in 1717, when four previously-existing Lodges united in forming the Grand Lodge of England. Notwithstanding the attacks made at intervals upon the Order, both before and since that period, Freemasonry flourishes in a more marked degree than at any previous time. At any rate, such is the case in England; and English Freemasons have something tangible to show as the result of their meetings and their "work." They have schools for the training of orphan boys and girls of indigent Masons, and a home for the support of aged brethren, their wives or widows, while in the province of Staffordshire an association has been in existence some years with the twofold object of aiding what may be termed the national Institutions and giving local educational assistance in deserving cases. At the beginning of the present year there were twenty-one Lodges having about 1,100 subscribing members. The Tudor Lodge at Harborne was added to the number in May last, and on Tuesday the brethren of the Province met at Wolverhampton for the purpose of transacting their ordinary business and consecrating the Tudor Lodge of Rifle Volunteers, which is numbered 1,838 on the Grand Register of England. There were about 150 brethren present, the place of meeting being the Lodge Room at the Star and Garter Hotel. Bro. Æneas J. Macintyre, Q.C., was present on the occasion. The officials of the P.G. Lodge who were in attendance were the following:—G. Tudor D.P.G.M., W. Randall P.G. Chaplain, J. Bodenham P.G. Treasurer, J. Ingamells P.G.J.D., W. Needham P.G. Superintendent of Works, W. Vernon P.G. Sword Bearer, Thomas Bedsmore P.G. Organist, F. Huet P.G.P., J. B. Morgan, F. Bastick, John Clark, G. J. C. Broom, G. W. Walker, C. A. Frantz P.G. Stewards. The Acting Provincial Grand Master opened the Lodge at noon, the Wardens pro tem being Bro. T. Taylor 418 and Bro. Derry 726, Bro. F. Napier Seyde officiating throughout the day as Director of Ceremonies. Bro. Macintyre said they had assembled to consecrate a new Lodge, and he was commanded by the M.W. Pro G.M. (the Earl of Carnarvon) to attend there to perform the ceremony. He then called upon the P.G. Sec. Bro. Cartwright, who gave information as to the formation of the proposed Lodge, and the members of the new Lodge having been arranged in the centre of the room, Bro. Cartright read the petition and the warrant, which set forth the name of the Lodge, and designated Bro. G. S. Tudor the first W.M., Bro. Charles Matthews S.W., and Bro. E. H. Thorne J.W. The warrant, which bore date 16th of July 1879, was signed by Lord Skelsmerdale D.G.M. The brethren having signified their approval of the Officers named in the warrant, Bro. W. Randall Chaplain delivered an oration, in the course of which he said the nature and objects of the institution were, or at least ought to be, known to every brother amongst them. Indeed, they could not take the very first step in Freemasonry without being acquainted with its nature and objects. He would therefore take it for granted that while the general character of the institution must be well known to them, there were some of the details which were worthy of attention, but which were sometimes lost sight of. He then alluded to the relationship of the different Lodges to each other and to the Provincial Grand Lodge, showing that there was a combination and a co-operation of all members of the Craft, from the Grand Master to the newly-initiated brother. This was one of the means of cementing and strengthening and keeping the members together. He then spoke of the constitution of the Lodges, showing that although they were all bound together there was in each Lodge a little kingdom perfect in itself, and each carried out the behests of the highest Lodge. He then referred to the obligatory and lasting character of the promises made by Masons, and yet, he said, they were such promises as all "good men and true" might make. The tenets and principles of Freemasonry yielded to none that had ever been promulgated to mankind, embracing as they did the highest duty towards God, loyalty to the Sovereign, and proper conduct towards their neighbours. The cardinal virtues stood at the very threshold of the temple into which men were initiated, and they were there as landmarks guiding them in all their actions. Their code of duty was very comprehensive, and yet it might be truly said that not one of their obligations militated against their civil, moral, or religious duties. So that if they looked upon it properly, Freemasonry was a religion—not merely something to be exercised within the sacred walls of the Lodge, but also to be carried forth into the outer world—and it gave him peculiar pleasure to be able to say that it was a religion based upon God's Holy Word. No atheist or mocker of religion could be a Freemason. So that their institution being founded on the volume of the sacred law, they could easily imagine that the ladder that rested on that foundation would guide them upon the principles of faith, hope, and charity, towards those immortal mansions which in their Masonic as well as in their religious creed they hoped to aspire to. One of the great beauties and privileges and most hallowed objects of Freemasonry was to cement together all classes in one bond of common brotherhood, from the heir to the Throne to the humblest member of the Craft: a noble army ready to stand up in defence of law and order, true religion, men's rights, and those high and holy principles which tend to the welfare of mankind. There was no particular religion on earth which was so calculated to bind men together as were the principles of that great Institution under which they were assembled that day. Freemasonry was open to men of all religions, if only they acknowledged the great first principle of the cause of God. After music and a portion of the Dedication Prayer, the Acting Grand Master gave the Invocation, and the Chaplain read 16 verses of the 2nd chapter of the 2nd Book of Chronicles. The Lodge board was then uncovered, and the ceremony was proceeded with, embracing the strewing of corn, the emblem of plenty; the pouring of wine, as the emblem of joy and happiness; and of oil, as the emblem of unity. Solemn music was introduced at intervals. The music included an anthem arranged by Bro. Bedsmore the P.G.O., who presided at the harmonium, and conducted the religious portion of the proceedings. The Chaplain offered the second portion of the Dedication Prayer, the Acting Grand Master constituted the Lodge, and the National Anthem was sung by all present.

Shortly afterwards, the chair was vacated by the Acting Grand Master, and Bro. Frank James P.D.P.G.M., proceeded to instal Bro. Tudor as the first W.M. of the new Lodge, which was done in a very able manner. The following Officers, in addition to the Wardens named in the warrant of the Lodge, were appointed and were invested with the collars and jewels of their respective Offices:—F. Walton Sec., Morgan S.D., Walker J.D., Graham I.G., Colenzo Tyler. A considerable number of honorary members, joining members, and candidates for initiation having been proposed, Bro. Tudor received the fraternal greetings of the brethren, after which the Tudor Lodge of Rifle Volunteers was closed.

After a brief adjournment, the brethren re-assembled, when the chair was taken by Bro. Macintyre, and the Provincial Grand Lodge was opened. The financial statement having been read and approved, Bro. Bodenham was re-elected by the members present P.G. Treasurer, and thanked for his past services. Bro. Macintyre congratulated Bro. Tudor on his having again consented to accept the Office of D.P.G.M., and hoped he would long continue to hold that office. The following is a list of the other Officers appointed by the Acting Provincial Grand Master:—C. Fendelow 526 S.W., Joseph Rowlands 482 J.W., W. Randall 482 and E. C. Perry 726 Chaplains, T. Turner 460 Registrar, John Bodenham Treasurer, W. Cartwright 460 Secretary, Briggs 624 S.D., B. C. Cale 539 J.D., T. J. Barnett 526 Superintendent of Works, F. Napier Seyde 419 D.C., R. Gibson 419 A.D.C., Joseph Round 347 Sword Bearer, T. Bedsmore 1039 Organist, T. Unwin 637 Pursuivant, H. Bagguley Tyler. Bro. Cartwright read the report of a committee appointed at a previous meeting to consider the best manner in which to provide a memorial of the late P.G.M. the Earl of Shrewsbury. The committee recommended that a fund be established, to be called the Shrewsbury Fund, for the advancement in after life of exceptionally deserving and necessitous pupils on leaving the Masonic Institutions for Girls and Boys, such fund to be administered by trustees hereafter to be appointed. Bro. Jacobs moved that it be recommended that such fund should be established, and that the trustees to be appointed should have power to co-operate with the brethren in London on the subject. This was seconded by Bro. James Rogers. Bro. Cartwright said the report of the committee had not been by any means unanimously adopted. Bro. Lyons Wright moved as an amendment that the question be deferred, and that the committee make a further effort to ascertain the feelings of the brethren of the different Lodges in the Province. Bro. Thomas Turner seconded the motion. Bro. Frank James thought it would be better to extend the advantages of the Schools to an additional number than to increase the advantages to those who were now attending the Schools. After some remarks from Bro. Binckes, the amendment and the resolution were both submitted to the meeting, and both were negatived. This decision does not indicate a want of inclination to support the object for which the committee was appointed; but it was explained that the Masons of the province had within a short time raised 500 guineas as a "Shrewsbury Fund," to secure the perpetual right to send a pupil to the Boys' School, and many are in favour of a similiar sum being raised to secure the right in perpetuity of sending a pupil to the Girls' School. Five pounds was voted to the Wolverhampton Hospital, £3 3s to the Wolverhampton Orphan Asylum, and £3 3s to the Rector of St. Peter's Collegiate Church for his schools. The Lodge having been closed, a majority of the brethren, still wearing their regalia, marched in procession to St. Peter's Church, and attended Divine service. Bro. W. Randall preached an appropriate sermon on the occasion from James i. 22,—"Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves." Bros. E. C. Perry and T. B. Mundy also took part in the service. The collection realised £8 3s 2d.

In the evening upwards of a hundred of the brethren attended a banquet at the Star and Garter Hotel. The Acting P.G.M. occupied the principal chair, and what may now be termed the vice-chairs (Lodge business having been completed) were occupied by the newly-appointed Wardens.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

The General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys met on Saturday last in the Board Room, Freemasons' Hall, when there were present Bros. J. Joyce Murray (in the chair), the Rev. Dr. Morris (Head Master), F. H. Ebsworth, Dr. Ramsay, W. H. Perryman, D. M. Dewar, S. Rosenthal, A. E. Gladwell, R. B. Webster, W. Roebuck, Richard Tyrrell, J. G. Chancellor, A. J. Duff Filer, W. F. C. Moutrie, H. Massey, George J. Palmer, Thomas Meggy and F. Binckes (Secretary). The committee made an annual addition of £5 to the salary of the foreign master; placed one candidate on the list for election in April, and granted an outfit of £5 to a late pupil of the Institution who had obtained a situation. A petition to apprentice one boy was deferred for further inquiries. This concluded the business of the meeting.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution held their monthly meeting on Wednesday at Freemasons' Hall. There were present—Bros. Lieut.-Col. Creaton (in the chair), W. Hale, S. Rawson, C. P. Dilley, J. Brett, J. G. Stevens, J. Newton, C. Atkins, J. H. Leggatt, J. M. Case, Wm. Stephens, R. H. Giraud, C. J. Perceval, L. Stean, J. Kemp, J. A. Farnfield, Jabez Hogg, H. S. Burney, C. Lacey, J. Willing jun., Raynham Stewart, Edgar Bowyer, and James Terry Sec. After the reading and confirmation of the minutes, the finance committee's report was read and ordered to be recorded. Two deaths among the female annuitants were reported. One thousand pounds, to be added to the Male Annuity Fund, and a like sum, to be added to the Female Fund, were ordered to be invested in three per cent. consols. The Secretary reported that he had arranged for the supply of coals, at 25s per ton throughout the winter months, by a firm at Croydon. A reply to the Secretary's letter to G. Secretary, on the subject of office accommodation, was read, stating that the matter was being considered by the Premises Committee. The petitions of two female candidates were approved, and the names placed on the list. There were petitions from four male candidates, three of which were approved; the other was not passed as the rules of the Institution had not been complied with.

THE GRAND ORIENT OF

It may have been thought that the United G.
Resolutions, being in their words and effects le stringent than the radical Irish anathema, were in their application a lesser grievance for the

which, we may at once set forth the erroneous manner in which they are often interpreted abroad by English Lodges.

The action of England following that of Ireland against the Grand Orient, and under the circumstances already alluded to, is one that should be defended on other grounds than that given in the four Resolutions. Since a Committee, composed of worthy and high Masonic Dignitaries of G.L., sat upon the question of the conduct of the Grand Orient, why not have made known their report on the law upon which they founded their resolutions? There can be no question that they knew well the subject upon which they had to report, since they did not seem to have wanted even any statements or explanations from that Grand Orient, which was brought within their jurisdiction for judgment. Knowing Masonic history as well as actual facts in France, they, no doubt, never expected to realise Masonic union by insisting on perfect uniformity of opinion, and that under penalty of excommunication.

It was consequently known to that Committee that ever since the Initiation (more than a century and a half ago) of the great astronomer Lalande, down to that of the Eminent Bro. Littré and a number of other eminent men, non-professors, not distinguished, of course, for their faith, French Masons have always professed to believe: "That toleration of difference in all opinions, religious and political, scientific and social, was a cardinal doctrine of Freemasonry, one that grows out of its organism and constitution, and one which is constantly alluded to in its own rituals; that a Freemason has a right to honestly hold any decided opinions on religion, politics, and even revolution, provided that he does not less esteem his brother who is equally sincere and decided in opinions directly opposite, and that, such a doctrine, so peculiar to the Order, was its great bulwark against disunion and discord; for it is not the differing opinions that are the cause of disunion and ruptures, but the want of that other cardinal doctrine or rather virtue: charity, brotherly love; that religion being taken as a system of ethics, and not as a particular system of faith or form of worship, is, by no means, superior to those mere teachings of Freemasonry; that, on the contrary, it may be proved that the latter have vastly more powerful influence upon the minds, and are, consequently, more fruitful than the teaching of any creed or Church; for they are imparted by a method and with a spirit which no creeds possess, and which tend to unity of purpose in the union of the whole human family; and that, finally, unity of men, diffusion of knowledge, brotherly love among them, and the practice of benevolence, are worth exceedingly more to Humanity than any creed, dogma, or glittering religious theory ever mooted.

Now, it was because there was every reason to believe that those distinguished Masons of the Grand Lodge Committee knew all this, and were thoroughly acquainted with the traditional principles and peculiarities of French Freemasonry—if peculiarities all these may be called—that much surprise has been felt at not seeing published a Report of that Committee upon the alleged breach of Masonic law committed by the Grand Orient. And it was with regret and pain that the latter saw it stated, in the Resolutions, that it had eliminated the G.A.O.T.U. from its Constitution, instead of its being said that it was only introduced, not very long ago, under peculiar circumstances, as an indispensable fundamental of the Order; and that quite exceptionally, too, if compared with the other Masonic Constitutions, to begin with, their own English ones.

It is to be presumed that the lack of some formal and exact law, having strict and determinate limitations in the matter, compelled the Committee to purely and simply adopt the Irish Grand Lodge's opinion, and act as it did, the non scripta lex argument being considered now-a-days, in most cases, too threadbare an one to be used seriously. In fact, the landmark theory would justify as well the French in their raising, in 1849, to a Masonic dogma the belief in God and the immortality of the soul, and to have it inscribed as the first article in their Constitution, and sworn to, as an essential condition for admission into the Order, as the same theory would equally justify others in not having any such an article in theirs, but, nevertheless, to vindicate the right of excommunicating the French Masons, for violating a landmark by attempting, in 1877, to cancel what they had themselves laid down, uncautiously some years before. But it is not the excommunication alone, it is the stigma of atheism attached to it, that aggravates the grievance. One thing, however, is certain, and should be generally known, and that is, while in an English Lodge an Atheist may be duly elected and initiated, and the fact be unknown to the Lodge, because no confession of his unbelief is to be forced from his own lips; such a thing has always been a material impossibility in a French Lodge, where it is the practice to examine publicly the Candidate as to his views and opinions on matters religious and social.

If some true and good French brethren, passionate lovers of peace and harmony, of mutual regard and equality of rights, on seeing the misconstruction put upon the act of the Grand Orient, the manner in which it was assailed, the disunion and rupture which it has been made the pretext of, did, in true Masonic feeling, express their regret at its having taken that step, however necessary it had become for the Government of the Lodges, those Brethren, at the same time, did not forbear to give vent to their surprise at the passive rôle played in the matter by the Grand Lodge of England, and to pronounce that part one of the most regrettable, on all points, for both parties alike. To build up a party or sect in Masonry, and to divide it hyperbolically into "supposed" believers and unbelievers, so to cause the Grand Orient to be looked upon, among themselves, as a Masonic heresiarch, is certainly not the aim nor the wish of English Freemasons; for the rectitude of intention and the propriety of action from the Grand Lodge of England should not be doubted. And yet, how to explain what has taken place? how to conciliate its manifest embarrassment in its irrational enactment of those perplexed and conflicting Resolutions, with the desire, with which it is credited, of elevating in the world at large, so far as is, in its power, the union and consideration of the Craft Universal?

Happily for the French Lodges, either from a want of forethought, or deliberately, nothing was enjoined by those Resolutions on English brethren, as to their visiting or not the Lodges of the Grand Orient. This was left to their discretion, or perhaps the Committee that drew up the bull were not afraid of any atheistical contamination for the English brethren entering French Lodges. So the latter have been and are daily visited, not only by English but also Irish and Scotch brethren, who are welcomed then with brotherly regard and Masonic cordiality. The French brethren convince their visitors that they have neither deviated from nor abandoned any of the true principles of Freemasonry; and they do so, not by words, but by Masonic deeds: friendlily introducing and assisting the stranger, feelingly relieving the poor and distressed brother.

The question of rupture between those governing Bodies and the Grand Orient appears, to the French Masons, to lie absolutely in a nutshell. They know that to a great majority of English brethren they are not so black as painted by that Excommunication; whose mischievous effects many, in England, see with sincere regret, and would instantly erase, if it depended on them. The same may be said of a great many of Scotch and Irish brethren; in fact, of all those who are acquainted with the real merits of the case. One of the Irish G. Lodge's Officers, writing to the Grand Orient, in November 1877 says:—"Personally I consider the Grand Orient had a perfect right to do as it did; and that the introduction in 1849 was wrong, and should not have been made in the Constitution. Our English speaking Constitutions have not any declaration of faith contained in them, such being confined to the Ancient and other Charges. I cannot but express my strongest opinion against the course taken," &c. &c.

It is manifest to any English Mason of experience, who is also conversant with the practice of examination of candidates in French Lodges, that there is a vast difference between that particular trial, in which all the brethren present join, in order to arrive, so far as is possible, at a real knowledge of the morale of the man for whom they are about to give a last vote for admission among them, and the process of admitting a Candidate who, of course, has been duly proposed and seconded, balloted for and elected, and to whom now they read (not to say spit out), more or less comprehensively, the Old Charges. To say that the mere recital of the old Charges, thus made to the Candidate, must be taken as a formal confession of faith from him, would be as preposterous and absurd as to hold that listening to a sermon is to endorse the opinions of the preacher and be bound by them. Why the Candidate, who is, by all outward signs, what is known as an honest and honourable man may be inwardly a rank infidel or a "stupid Atheist," going, pro forma only, through the ceremony of a Ritual and saying, parrot-like, the few words that are whispered to him, even those of the Obligation, without thinking, for one moment, that he is compelled to make known his own belief or unbelief, but at the same time, ready perhaps to boldly do so if he were called upon.

The Grand Orient, though fully convinced that the step it has taken to affirm once more, before the Craft Universal, the principle of liberty of conscience as a Masonic doctrine that does not admit of any restriction, is one that will work its way and prove of great benefit to the Order in years to come, yet that Body has, certainly not, the least desire to impose its opinion upon any one. Not even within its own Jurisdiction will the Grand Orient enforce its views upon that considerable question. The Council of the Order, through Bro. Caubet, one of its members, defined, on this point, its sentiments as follows:—

"To prevent any mistaken interpretation, it should be well to always remind the brethren that, under the law that now governs us, the suppression of dogmatic formulæ does not imply a defence of making use of them. Liberty of conscience required that the obligation of using those formulæ should be suppressed, as a binding one, because that obligation was in direct violation of the liberty of conscience of those that did not accept them. However, that same liberty of conscience exacts that those forms should remain optional, so that they may be used, according to the individual feeling of each of us; the silence of the law on this point being the right and guarantee of all. Free conscience being held the supreme Rule of our Order, and the fundamental security of individual dignity, it must not be overlooked that, in matters dogmatic, individual rights should be positively absolute, and, therefore a majority has no legitimate authority to impose its opinions upon a minority."

Strange as it may appear, our opinion is that if the Craft, could bear any religious and dogmatic interpretation whatever, the so-called "Haut Grades," would never have been invented as an excrescence of Freemasonry proper, being neither strictly in nor without it. Their creation and history, their Ceremonies and Symbolism, even the name they have still retained of Christian Degrees, all tend to show that it was precisely because there was no room for creed and dogmas in Craft Masonry that those separate Degrees have been invented afterwards so as to supply those who are of a religious turn of mind with something akin to Church, Ceremonies, Dogmas, Creeds, Lights, Vestments, &c., &c. Nothing would bear out the opinion that the founders of Freemasonry, desirous, as we believe they were, that it should be a great Cosmopolitan association, to effect the union and fraternal intercourse of men of all countries, had made the Initiation into it dependent upon any formal confession of faith, and resting upon any dogmatic principle. And in support of such an opinion we have the very "Book of the Constitutions," published in 1723, wherein such a declaration of faith is conspicuous by its absence, though the author was, by profession, a man of the Church.

It may be that, while there remained still inscribed in the laws of most nations in Europe a penalty of death by fire, or one of torture, against magicians, enchanters, sorcerers, Eastern astrologers, alchemists, sacrilegious men, &c., and that all secret societies were supposed to be composed of such men, Masons then thought it, in many countries, good policy to make, whenever they had a chance, a religious show outside the Lodge, such as carrying processionally the Bible from Lodge to church, &c.; thus allowing Freemasonry to inconsistently affect to be here Calvinist or Lutheran, there Anglican, Puritan, and even Roman Catholic. But that was then only with a view to its own security; that was to be allowed to live by toleration, to try and dispel that stamp of being suspect to all, and to win, if possible, now and then the good grace of both Government and Church. Surely, it cannot be said that the present circumstances of our Age of liberty of association, of thought and of action, exact now from us the obligation of doing what did, as it were, compulsorily, the brethren our predecessors.

This point, we think, is one which calls the attention of those of our modern Masonic writers who have undertaken the laudable task of clearing the History of the Society from false legendary speculations, inadmissible theories, and consistencies, fanciful laws of tradition, covered with the cabalistic word of "landmarks," all into which our Order has been dragged for so long by mystical dreamers, and that, too, to the great detriment of the character of real gravity of an Association that is one of the most useful and beneficent to mankind.

Meanwhile, the Grand Orient thinks that the proper time of Appeal has come. For much stress is being laid in some countries upon its having been charged and sentenced by some Powers as a contemner of Masonic law; and, in consequence, admission is being refused to Masons whose only fault is to belong to its Jurisdiction. They are in some places, looked upon as totally deprived, ipso facto, of all Masonic rights, and, as downright atheists, unworthy of being associated with. And, in many cases they have been simply sent back, from the door of English Lodges, by the Tyler, without any further examination or formality. Complaints have been sent to the Grand Orient, from various parts of the world, and many of them have been accompanied by application for Charter to create Lodges in those places where French Masons are not to be recognised at all. In the Bulletin of May last, is published a letter from the D.P.G. Secretary of Victoria, in answer to a French Mason's remarks upon the vexatious refusal of admission which he met with in that Province. That letter speaks for itself. There is no doubt that the grievance demands the prompt consideration of the parties interested.

The Resolutions of G. L. of England fall short, in application, of the intention of their authors; the third one is not acted upon, probably owing to its complex tenor, and the difficulty of producing a certificate stating that the applicant has been initiated in, or belongs to a Lodge "professing belief in the Great Architect of the Universe." No French Lodge will ever issue such a certificate. Besides, as has been already remarked, it is evident that if English Brethren are free to enter all French Lodges, as they do, without any distinction, there can be no reason whatever to exclude a section of French brethren, which is undistinguishable besides, from being admitted into English Lodges. French Masons must all be declined admission or all admitted.

The Grand Orient, faithful to its principles of tolerance, has hitherto done everything not to be compelled to yield to the provocation of widening the breach between itself and the Powers that have passed their sentence against it. Though empowered by the General Assembly to constitute Lodges in all territories, except those wherein exists a G. Lodge in friendly terms with the G. Orient, the Council of the Order have yet refrained from entertaining applications from all territories. Indeed it has depended upon the Council that at least three Lodges in London were not now working under the jurisdiction of the Grand Orient. Its only aim has been to allow time to show how mistaken and mischievous was the action taken against it. Willing to co-operate in every measure calculated to draw into closer union all the Brotherhood, it now asks the other Powers:—

What is to be done, in true Masonic spirit?
Well, to put the question only, is to solve it.

RED CROSS OF ROME AND CONSTANTINE.

Eboracum Conclave, No. 137.—The regular meeting of this Conclave was held at York, on Thursday, when the following brethren were present—Ill. Sir Knt. T. B. Whytehead P.S., Int. Gen. Unat. as M.P.S., E. Grikat J.S., Cumberland V.E., Sir Knts. T. Humphries as S.G., Geo. Simpson J.G., M. Millington Prefect, A. T. B. Turner Recorder, L. Murphy H.P., W. P. Husband Herald, J. Ward, S. F. Bousfield, H. Jackson, &c. Bro. J. J. Wilkes, of the Restoration Lodge, No. 111, Darlington, having been elected, was duly installed a Knight of the Order. A draft code of bye-laws was submitted and agreed upon. Bro. W. B. Dyson, of the Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611, was proposed and seconded as a candidate. Several letters of apology for non-attendance were read, and the Conclave was closed. The Sanctuary of St. Peter and Commandery of St. John were afterwards successively opened, and those degrees conferred upon Sir Knt. Wilkes. The members subsequently met at refreshment.

William Preston Lodge of Instruction, No. 766.—A meeting was held on Friday, 3rd inst., at the Feathers Tavern, Upper George-street, W. Present:—Bros. S. Goodin W.M., W. Hill S.W., E. Adair J.W., J. Kennard Treas., J. C. Hayes Asst. Sec., Cavé S.D., Easton J.D., Tassingham I.G., Rudderforth Preceptor, and a numerous attendance of members. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes were read and confirmed. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Tribbet as candidate. Bro. Goodyear answered the questions for passing, and was entrusted. Lodge was opened in the second and third degrees, and closed down to the first. Bro. Hill was elected W.M. for the ensuing Friday. Bro. Rudderforth has lately engaged in business that claims much of the time that he has hitherto devoted to this Lodge; consequently, a short time since, he intimated to the members he should reluctantly be compelled to resign the post he had held as Preceptor of the Lodge of Instruction. Many of the members, bearing in mind the devotion Bro. Rudderforth had always shown to promote their comfort, deemed this a fitting time to make some slight recognition of the estimation in which they held him. Accordingly, Bro. Godden, addressing Bro. Rudderforth, said: It was with pleasure and regret he rose to perform a duty—regret that he had to undertake it at so early a period, as he had looked forward to being associated with Bro. Rudderforth as their Preceptor for many years, and he should have preferred that to some more competent brother should have been entrusted the presentation he was about to make. From the foundation of the William Preston Lodge of Instruction Bro. Rudderforth had exerted himself most strenuously to make it successful, and had had to contend with many difficulties. After recounting what had been achieved, Bro. Godden proceeded to the task he had undertaken, and that was to formally present Bro. Rudderforth with a substantial gold watch, which had been subscribed for by the members. This handsome gift was accompanied by an address, beautifully framed, which read as follows:—

TO BRO. W. H. G. RUDDERFORTH.

Dear Sir and Brother,—Having received, with regret, your resignation of the Preceptorship of the above Lodge, we, the members undersigned, express our sorrow that circumstances have necessitated your (we trust only temporary) withdrawal from a position which, from the formation of the Lodge to the present time, you have held with so much credit to yourself and benefit to us. Our gratitude for the valuable Masonic instruction we have received at your hands, and for the kindly consideration and untiring energy which you have always shown in imparting it, we cannot here fully express. As a slight token of our recognition of your Masonic worth, and the assistance you have rendered whilst working with and for us, we beg your acceptance of the present which accompanies this expression of our personal regard and esteem. Wishing you the success in your future career that you have achieved as Preceptor of this Lodge,

We are, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

Signed by the subscribers to the testimonial.

Bro. Rudderforth, on rising to respond, said he was at a loss for words to speak the sentiments of his mind, in thanking the brethren for their unexpected gifts. When he joined other brethren in establishing this Lodge of Instruction, he little anticipated it would ever become so great a success. Taking pattern by what he had seen done elsewhere, he, with many of these he now saw around him, went to work. At first they met with many discouragements, but eventually their seed fell upon good ground, and reflected credit upon their husbandry. Bro. Rudderforth then explained how circumstances had necessitated his tendering his resignation, but he trusted he might long continue his association with the members, by attending the Lodge as frequently as circumstances would permit. He urged upon his hearers to make their efforts unitedly; to pull well together; by that means they would ensure success. He spoke of the limited space they possessed for accommodating large gatherings, and drew comparison with many City Lodges of Instruction. He thanked the brethren for consulting his wishes as to what form this gift should take. He hoped he should live sufficiently long to wear out, not only the case in which the watch was handed to him, but to test the time-keeping capacity of the works after they had done service for many, many years. Our brother then related a characteristic anecdote respecting watches that had been presented by two comrades, the one to the other. It appeared some dispute arose, when the accuracy of the time each marked was questioned; high words ensued, and the quarrel resulted in both watches being thrown overboard,—the one to keep the other company. He hoped the watch so kindly presented to him that night would keep above water so long as he could hold up his head, and that his sons—who he should like to see join the Craft at as early a stage in their career as was possible—would ever value it as an heirloom. Bro. Rudderforth concluded by again thanking all most heartily. The Secretary to the Committee, Bro. Hayes, who had exerted himself most energetically in discharging the duties that devolved upon him in arranging for this testimonial, next had his services duly acknowledged, after which Lodge was closed.

Royal Commemoration Lodge of Instruction, No. 1585.—This new Lodge of instruction was opened on Monday evening, the 6th instant, at the Railway Hotel, High-street, Putney, under very favourable auspices. Bro. J. W. Robinson P.M. of Royal Commemoration Lodge was elected as the first W.M., and he chose for his Officers Bros. John Noble J.W. 975 S.W., John Featherstone 1656 J.W., George Bugler 975 S.D., J. C. Radford J.D. 1420 J.D., and Joseph Wright P.M. 1585, 1158, &c., I.G. Bro. Geo. A. Watkins Treas. 1585 was elected Treasurer of the New Lodge, and Bro. C. E. Goldring Macdonald Lodge 1216 Secretary. After verifying the authority of Royal Commemoration Lodge to open and work the Lodge of Instruction under their warrant, and some other formal business was transacted, the ceremony of the first degree was rehearsed by the W.M., assisted by Bro. Harry John Carter 1585, who is the Preceptor to the new Lodge. Subsequently a number of brethren were elected members. Amongst those present were Bros. P.M. Wm. Platt 144 and 23, P.M. J. G. Carter 1014, P.M. William Carter 141, R. W. Forge S.W. 1793, John Frost Sec. 1014, J. J. Holland S.D., 1011, H. Wildey Wright J.D. 1828, A. T. Trehearne 1441, Frederick Reed 1420, Isaac Kerby 975, George Simmons 975, Edward Ayling 975, Alfred Weston 1585, C. D. Blackford 1563, Henry Langley 228, and John Phillips 196. The formation of the Lodge has been most actively promoted by Bro. J. Featherstone J.W. of the evening, to whom a vote of thanks was accorded in acknowledgment of the trouble he had taken. The meetings will be held every Monday evening from eight to ten at the Railway Hotel, opposite the station, Putney.

The minutes of the last regular Lodge Meeting having been read and confirmed, a ballot was successfully taken for a new member. Upon motion by J. H. Cambridge P.M., seconded by Bro. Ball, the Old Lodge Master's chair was presented to Bro. Dukes P.M. Sec., who acknowledged the gift in feeling terms, promising to preserve the same in his family. The rest of the old furniture was presented to Bro. Beckett, the Tyler of the Lodge, whose fee for tyling was by unanimous consent increased. The Lodge was then closed in solemn form, when the brethren proceeded to the banquet, where all that could be desired was provided. In the course of the evening P.M. Barlow very earnestly advocated the gift of a considerable sum to one of the Charities in lieu of increasing that to the Benevolent Fund, and the brethren present not only expressed their intention to support him, but embrace the opportunity of attending a Masonic Festival with their wives and daughters.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—At Bro. Maidwell's, 119 Leadenhall-street, on Thursday, 9th inst. Bros. Vesl W.M., Moss S.W., Da Silva J.W., King S.D., Woodward J.D., Maidwell I.G., Webb Preceptor; Ellis, Grammer, Biddle, Hogg, and other brethren. The second ceremony was rehearsed, Bro. Biddle candidate. The whole of the sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Moss, assisted by the brethren. After the usual business, the Lodge was closed. The Fifteen Sections will be worked in this Lodge of Instruction by Bro. Ellis, of Nos. 27 and 933, on the fourth Thursday of this month.

Strong Man Lodge, No. 45.—A meeting was held on 2nd October, at the Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street. Present—Bros. G. G. Symons W.M., Halle S.W., Driver J.W., Follett P.M. Treas., A. A. Wing P.M. Sec., Horne S.D., Dean J.D., Balls D.C., Smith Steward, Humphries I.G., Steed Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. Dyer, Vass, Defriez; Bros. The Lodge was opened in due form and with solemn prayer, when minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. H. N. Symons, a candidate to be raised to the third degree, was examined, found qualified, entrusted, and he retired. Lodge opened in third degree, when Bro. Symons was duly raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, the W.M. giving the Traditional History in a very impressive manner. Lodge was resumed, and Messrs. Dove, Allen, and Keiswell were duly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. The Secretary read letters from several members expressing their regret, pleading their inability to attend, from various causes. Two candidates were proposed for initiation at next meeting. Lodge was then closed and adjourned until the first Thursday in November.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—Held at the New Market Hotel, on Monday the 6th inst. Present—Bros. Fox W.M., Halle S.W., Patrick J.W., Tolmie Preceptor, Fenner Sec., Pelikan S.D., Parkinson I.G. The usual formalities were duly complied with, and then the W.M. worked the first and second sections of the first lecture, after which the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Fenner as candidate. Lodge was opened and closed in the second and third degrees. Bro. Halle was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week.

Lodge of Lights, No. 148, Warrington.—The regular monthly meeting of this Lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms on the evening of Michaelmas Day. The W.M. Bro. J. Rymer Young was supported by a goodly number of brethren, amongst whom were Bros. D. W. Finney P.M. Prov. G.D. of Cers. designate as S.W., Dr. A. H. Young J.W., John Bowes P.M. P.P.G.J.W. Cumberland and Westmoreland Sec., Thos. Grime J.D., Archibald Crawford, Charles Skinner, John Pierpoint, Thos. Domville, &c., &c. Among the Visitors we noticed Bro. T. W. Ockenden J.W. No. 1512 and I.G. Lodge of Progress, No. 1768. The Lodge was opened in due form, when the minutes of the previous meeting were read and declared to be correctly recorded. The W.M. then announced that the second degree would be worked as an instruction, and he was exceedingly glad that they would hear it under most favourable circumstances. Their esteemed Secretary had brought with him a Visitor who frequently attended the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, and he had kindly undertaken to work the degree. Bro. Ockenden, seated at the right of the W.M.'s chair, then went on with the ceremony, at the close of which he gave the "Six Periods of Creation." Bro. Skinner volunteered as a candidate, and Bro. Bowes discharged the duties of S.D. The W.M. proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. Ockenden for his kindness, and said that the correct and impressive manner in which the work had been done was appreciated by all present. Dr. Young having seconded the proposition the Lodge was closed.

Lodge of Joppa, No. 188.—The first regular meeting of this Lodge for the season was held on Monday, the 6th inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, City, under the presidency of the W.M. Bro. M. Spiegel, who was assisted by H. Hymans S.W., R. Baker as J.W., E. P. Albert P.G.P. Sec., J. Benjamin I.G., N. Baum Steward, Woodstock P.M. Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. Berkowitz, S. Hickman, H. M. Levy, O. Roberts, L. Alexander, M. Alexander, E. H. Hunt, A. Dodson, L. Lazarus, &c. Visitors—Bros. Constantine Burke 33°, Prov. G. Master for Jamaica, S.C., Superintendent for West Indies; T. Poore P.M. 720, Rowland 1612, Klingenstein, Grunebaum P.M. 1027, J. Lazarus W.M. 1017 P.Z. 188, Frankenberg 73, W. H. Pringle 174, G. B. Fletcher late 188, W. W. Morgan Sec. 211, F. B. Potts late 188. The Lodge was opened and the minutes of the last regular and emergency meeting were read and confirmed. The name of a candidate for initiation was on the agenda paper, but he was not present. The W.M., in the course of the evening, gave one of the Lectures on the Tracing Board, much to the edification of his hearers. In consequence of the decease of the Treasurer, that post was vacant, and the brethren proceeded to elect a successor to the late Bro. Auerhaan; the result of the ballot was in favour of Bro. Lyons, who was almost unanimously elected. Appeals from two distressed brethren were considered and a small sum given in each case. Lodge was then closed. A capital banquet was supplied by the Albion Company, under the superintendence of Bro. Jennings. Bro. Spiegel presided, and in due course proposed the Loyal Toasts; Bro. Albert P.G.P. replied for the Grand Officers. One of the toasts to which especial attention is directed in the Lodge of Joppa is its Benevolent Fund. It transpired that though the committee had had, during the past twelve months, to consider some heavy claims, there was still a balance of over £1000 to the credit of the fund. Some donations were also acknowledged by the Treasurer as received that evening. The W.M. in proposing the health of the Visitors gave them a hearty welcome, and called on Bro. Constantine Burke to respond. Bro. Burke had great pleasure in replying to the toast proposed by the W.M., and so kindly responded to by the brethren. In their Lodge that evening they had visitors known throughout the Craft as representative men. He felt infinite pleasure at being present, and being associated with an Order which carries out its distinguishing characteristics in every part of the globe. Freemasonry was thoroughly appreciated abroad; its tenets were ably inculcated and practically demonstrated; and this cosmopolitanism made up for the severance of home ties and dissevered friendships by an universal bond of brotherhood. Through the great kindness of a friend, who on each occasion of his visits to this country, had endeavoured to shew him the fair side of Masonry, he was able to meet the members of the Lodge of Joppa that evening. In the small Colony of Jamaica, to which he had the honour to belong, there were at the present time 10 or 12 Lodges working under the G.L. of England. By all of these the character for universal brotherhood was sustained. He assured any of those present who might visit the West Indies that they would find this fully exemplified; by a fervent desire on all sides to uphold the best principles of Freemasonry. He reiterated his assurance that Visitors to any of the Lodges there would meet with a cordial reception. Bro. Thomas Poore also addressed the brethren. Bro. P.M. Alexander proposed the health of the Worshipful Master, and Bro. Spiegel, in reply, remarked that, in conformity with other shortcomings of the evening that had evidenced themselves, he would favour them with but a short speech. He thanked one and all for the way they had received the toast. In replying for the Past Masters, Bro. Alexander gave some capital advice to the younger brethren, how to sustain the honour and dignity of the Lodge, which he urged them never to overlook, as where that was made a paramount consideration the proceedings would always be conducted in an agreeable and satisfactory manner. The W.M. next kindly offered the toast of the Masonic Press for the consideration of the members, associating with it the name of Bro. W. W. Morgan, and, in the course of his remarks, referred to what he considered somewhat of an innovation which the conductors of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE were he thought inclined to support, namely, the attendance of the fair sex at some of our gatherings. Bro. Morgan, in replying, said he must plead guilty to the W.M.'s impeachment; he was fond of the ladies, and he was not averse to seeing them associated with us in many of our undertakings. He felt assured the members of the Joppa Lodge were with him in this; in fact, they had but to look around the room, and on each hand they would see a list of the names of those ladies who had so generously aided in establishing the Benevolent Fund which was so well known in connection with their Lodge. Bro. Morgan thanked the W.M. for the kind way in which he had referred to the efforts of those associated with the journal he represented, and assured the brethren their kindness would stimulate him to further exertions in the interests of the Craft. The other toasts comprised the healths of the Treasurer, replied to by Bro. Lyons; the Secretary, for which Bro. Albert tendered his thanks; and the Officers, which drew forth replies from Bros. Benjamin and Davis. In due course the Tyler was summoned, and he gave the parting toast. The W.M. had provided a musical entertainment, which was superintended by Bro. J. Benjamin. The artistes who assisted were Madame Nita Guyman, Madame Francis, who acted as accompanyist, Miss Blanche Grosvenor, and Bros. Prenton and Lovett King.

We append the programme:—

Moss worked the fifth, assisted by Bro. C. Lorkin; the sixth by Bro. Slaiter, the seventh by Bro. Powell. Bro. Brasted was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks was awarded the W.M. for the excellent manner he had conducted the business of the chair for the first time in this Lodge of Instruction. In returning thanks, the W.M. felt much gratified by the mark of respect paid to him for his endeavours to perform the duties of W.M., and inaugurated the event by placing the sum of £1 1s at the disposal of Bro. Powell, on behalf of his candidate for the forthcoming Boys' Election. The Lodge Votes were also voted to Bro. Powell. After which Lodge was closed and adjourned.

United Pilgrims Lodge of Instruction, No. 507.—A meeting of this Lodge of Instruction was held on Friday evening, 3rd Oct., at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New Road. Bros. Thorpe W.M., Bryant S.W., Walker J.W., Taylor S.D., Drysdale J.D., Francis I.G., Terry Secretary, and Bros. H. Thompson, Larlham, Hatch, Stokes, Cars, Payne, &c. Beetenson S.W., David Smith J.W., D. H. Dunning Secretary, J. W. Thomas Treas., J. Perkins S.D., T. Stubbs J.D., T. C. Slaney I.G., H. C. Faram D.C., Johnson and S. Stubbs Stewards, Kingston Tyler. After Lodge had been closed, the brethren adjourned to a banquet, provided at the North Staffordshire Hotel. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured, and the evening was spent harmoniously.

Lily Lodge of Instruction, No. 820.—The members held their first meeting for the season at the Greyhound Hotel, Richmond, at eight o'clock p.m. on Monday. Bros. Hubbard W.M., Kyezor S.W., Fisher J.W., Phillips Preceptor; Bros. Rydon, Cockburn P.M., Downs Kennedy P.M., Dight P.M., and other brethren. This being the first meeting for the season, preliminaries were arranged, and a slight alteration proposed in the bye-laws, with a view to an improved condition of matters calculated to secure a larger attendance of members of the Craft generally. This Lodge has for many years enjoyed a reputation for imparting instruction to all desirous of going forward, and can proudly boast of having more P.M.'s as members than any other Lodge of similar numerical strength. Business being concluded, Lodge was closed in the usual solemn form, and the brethren separated until Monday at 7.30 p.m., when Craftsmen are invited to attend.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—At Bro. Smyth's, Sisters' Tavern, Pownall-road, Dalston, on Tuesday, 8th October. Present—Bros. Wardell W.M., Greenwood S.W., Williams J.W., Clarke S.D., Fleck J.D., Butt I.G., J. Lorkin Sec., Smyth Treas., P.M. Wallington Preceptor; Bros. Polak, C. Lorkin, Payne, Moss, Giller, Baker, Hand, Christian, Carr, and others. The business of the evening comprised the rehearsal of the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Hand as candidate. Bro. Moss worked the first, second, third, and fourth sections, assisted by Bros. Giller, Greenwood, Carr, and Christian. Bro. Greenwood was appointed W.M. for next Tuesday evening.

Whittington Lodge of Instruction, No. 862.—Held its weekly meeting on Wednesday, 8th inst., at Bro. Hyde's, Red Lion, Poppin's-court, Fleet-street. Bro. E. Abell W.M., Tate S.W., Brown J.W., Knill Abell S.D., Hallam J.D., Fox I.G., Long Preceptor, and others. The second ceremony was ably rehearsed by the W.M., after which the lecture was worked, the questions being put by Bro. Brown, who has been appointed to work the Fifteen Sections on the 21st inst. On the Lodge being resumed, Bro. Tate was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, on which occasion the third degree will be rehearsed.

Grosvenor Lodge, No. 1257.—The first meeting since the vacation was held on Tuesday the 7th, at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. J. I. Cantle W.M., T. Murley S.W., J. F. Pilditch J.W., Parker P.M. Treas., C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. Sec., R. Baker S.D., J. Smith J.D., C. G. Gumpel I.G., J. White D.C. Woodstock Tyler; P.M.'s Cox, Meredith, and a numerous attendance of the brethren. Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Henry Von Joel, son of the late celebrated Herr Von Joel, answered the usual questions satisfactorily, and was raised to the sublime degree. A ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. J. A. T. Wild, and, being unanimous, he was duly initiated into the Order. Both ceremonies were perfectly and impressively rendered by the W.M. The Officers were equally perfect. The resignation of a member was received with regret. Among the Visitors were Bros. W. Williams 173, S. Copping 169, J. C. Welch 1329, Gibson P.M. 1420, H. M. Levy P.M. 188. At the close of the day's business the brethren adjourned to substantial refreshments, provided by Bro. A. Best and superintended by Bro. E. Dawkins. The W.M. proposed the Loyal and Masonic toasts. With that of the Grand Officers he coupled the name of Bro. C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P., who is a very old and respected member of this Lodge. Bro. Cottebrune, in an appropriate speech, responded. The W.M. had now great pleasure in proposing the toast of the newly-initiated Brother. In the course of events many brethren pass from us, and we are always pleased to have new members, men whom we can greet with pleasure. The Brother who had been initiated showed much attention to the ceremony, consequently he (the W.M.) was sure he would become a credit to the Order and the Lodge. Bro. White sang a very excellent song, accompanying himself on the piano, after which Bro. Wild responded to the toast. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. then rose to propose the next toast; he was sure they would respond to it heartily; it was the first time the W.M. had worked the ceremonies in their Lodge, and all had seen how impressively and perfectly they had been performed; his predecessors had done well, and it was gratifying to see him following in their footsteps; he required no promoting, and his ability as president all had witnessed. In fact, Bro Cantle was a W.M. they should all be proud of. After a song from Bro. Alexander, the W.M., in reply, thanked Bro. Cottebrune for his kind expressions, and the brethren for the manner in which the toast had been received. He was pleased to hear expressions of approval from the brethren for his humble efforts; but he thought no credit was due to himself, as he felt every one who aspired to the chair ought to be able to work the ceremonies perfectly; his earnest endeavours would be for the benefit of the Lodge. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Visitors, whom he said they were all proud to see; if they were lacking in quantity, they made up in quality. He would call on Bro. Gibson P.M. 1420 and Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. 188 to respond. At the request of several of those present, the W.M. here sang, in splendid style, "Jack's Yarn," after which Bros. Gibson and H. M. Levy responded. They thanked the W.M. for the Masonic treat they had experienced by listening to his excellent working, and also for the admirable manner each officer had fulfilled his duties. The next toast was the health of the P.M.'s; the W.M. would try to emulate them; they were a credit to the Lodge, and every member respected them. One holds the responsible post of Treasurer, another that of Secretary, and while the Lodge had two such brethren it must be successful; his thanks were due to all the P.M.'s, individually and collectively; he would call on their old and esteemed friend and Treasurer, Bro. Parker, to respond. The worthy Treasurer felt it a great pleasure in having to reply to the toast; he had been with them from the foundation of the Lodge, and he hoped to continue among them as long as he was able to do so; he thanked them on his own behalf, and also on behalf of the Past Masters. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Officers of the Lodge. The brethren had witnessed a good specimen of their ability, more particularly might this now be said as it was their first appearance in their new line of characters. He was proud to say they were all proficient, and he hoped they would continue to attend the Lodge of Instruction, and thus prepare themselves to fill the chair, which he knew they all aspired to; he thanked them for their valuable assistance. Bro. Pilditch here sang a humorous song, and then Bro. T. Murley S.W. responded to the toast. The Tyler's toast concluded the evening's enjoyment.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—We have frequently heard the remark that there were very few places where Companions might obtain the knowledge necessary to the proper performance of the duties pertaining to the R.A. degree. On Tuesday last, the 7th inst., we visited the above old-established Chapter of Improvement, which met at the Jamaica Coffee House for the first time since the recess. The offices were filled by W. H. Lee as Z., T. Brown H., S. P. Catterson J., G. Walker N., N. Moss P.S. The ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed, Comp. G. P. Gillard as candidate. There were, beside the above, a goodly attendance of Companions, amongst whom Comp. A. J. Thomas Z. No. 7, W. Sayer No. 1185, J. Dixon 1189, who were elected members. A letter was read from Comp. White, Scribe E., stating his inability to attend through illness, and there were unanimous expressions of regret and hearty wishes for his speedy recovery. The Chapter was then closed in due form. From the character of the proceedings, first to last, we were convinced that here can be obtained all the knowledge it could be possible to desire. The place of meeting is centrally situated, and the Companions assemble at a convenient hour; the instruction is sound, and freely given. We were surprised to hear that they do not have an overcrowded attendance on each night of their meetings, which extends from now until the last Tuesday in May next ensuing.

PARLEZ-VOUS FRANÇAIS?

MANY of whom this question is asked will say, I can read it and write it, but can't speak it. A neat little volume for the Pocket has just been published by an Ex-Inspector of Public Schools; all the most useful verbs as used in ordinary conversation are therein embodied, alphabetically arranged on an entirely new plan, and printed in large type in French and English, a most rapid system, indispensible to teachers and other persons teaching themselves the language. A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

PROPOSED VISIT OF THE PRO G. MASTER TO READING.

ALMOST at the eleventh hour the ceremony of setting the memorial stone of the new Municipal Buildings at Reading had to be deferred, in consequence of the illness—which all our readers must regret—of Lord Carnarvon. Bro. Robert Bradley, Provincial Grand Secretary of the Province of Berks and Bucks, lost no time in communicating the intelligence, and used every possible precaution to prevent inconvenience by sending, on Friday evening, the 10th inst., to every Mason in the Province a copy of the following notice:—

PROVINCE OF BERKS AND BUCKS.

In consequence of the sudden illness of Lord Carnarvon, the ceremony of laying the memorial stone of the Public Buildings in Reading, intended for Tuesday next, the 14th inst., is unavoidably postponed.

Lord Carnarvon is suffering from a very severe attack of gout, which makes it absolutely impossible for him to attend.

It is hoped that the ceremony may take place on or about Tuesday, the 4th November.

The Provincial Grand Lodge, summoned for the 14th October, will therefore not be held.

ROBT. BRADLEY,
Prov. Grand Secretary.

Reading, 10th October 1879.

The next day notice was sent to all other members of the Craft who there was reason to believe would have attended. It has not yet been definitely settled when the gathering will take place, but we believe we are correct in saying it will be on an early day in November.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

A QUARTERLY General Court of the Governors and Subscribers of this Institution was held at Freemasons' Tavern, on Saturday last. Bro. Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer, presided. After the reading and confirmation of the minutes Bro. Thos. Meggy, Vice-President, moved—

"That a Committee be appointed to consider the manner in which the scrutiny of the votes shall be made, both for the election of candidates and for other purposes, and to report to the next General Court."

Several times, within the last few years a scrutiny of votes has been demanded, after the poll was declared, and such scrutiny has disclosed the fact that the declaration had been incorrect. There was evidently some laxity somewhere, and possibly the arrangements were slightly at fault. If a Committee was appointed to consider the arrangements, a plan might be framed whereby the declaration of the poll would be correct. The motion, which was seconded by Bro. John G. Stevens, was put and lost. Col. Creaton carried a motion recommended by the Building Committee:—

"That a dwarf wall be built on the south side of the Institution grounds, at a cost not exceeding £300."

Bro. James A. Birch moved, as a proposed alteration of Rule 71, sub-section 2, to read as follows:—

"The Election and Removal of the Secretary shall be vested in the General Committee; the Voting to be by Balloting Papers, duly forwarded to each qualified Member, not less than fourteen days before the date of Election; such Balloting Papers must be signed by the party entitled thereto, and may be presented by a Member of the General Committee on his or her behalf at the time of Election."

His proposition, he said, was intended to assimilate the form of voting for Secretary to that of voting for children to the Institution. At present the voting for Secretary was by personal attendance in London, which involved heavy expense on the provincial brethren. From his own province (Lancashire) it would cost a Life Governor £3, and as there were 3,000 Life Governors of the Boys' School this would represent an outlay of £9,000, which he thought would be better invested if given to one of the Institutions. It was said that there was a jealousy on the part of the London brethren on this question, but if there was, it was unbecoming of such a universal brotherhood. He did not believe there was this jealousy; the only jealousy there should be was an emulation in benevolent work. It was urged that if the provinces had the power of voting by proxy papers they might put forward an inefficient candidate, and thus sacrifice the Institution. He could assure the Court that the provincial brethren had a lively interest in the Institutions, and were not likely to sacrifice them. If they did, it was impossible that all the provinces could be united against London. He hoped the brethren would make the fair and just concession he asked to the brethren of the provinces. After the motion had been seconded by Bro. John Constable, it was carried by a majority of twelve.

Bro. H. Smith, Provincial Grand Secretary of West Yorkshire, gave notice that he would move, at the Quarterly Court in January, that the Court accept the sum of 1000 guineas from West Yorkshire for the purchase of a perpetual presentation for the Province. Bro. Louis Hirsch gave notice of motion for the Quarterly Court in January, in the words of the above-mentioned rejected motion of Bro. Thomas Meggy. The election of eighteen girls out of a list of forty-eight was then taken, and, at the declaration of the poll, the following was announced as the result:—

Votes of thanks to the Scrutineers of votes, and to Col. Creaton for presiding, closed the proceedings.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

THE Quarterly Meeting of the Governors and Subscribers of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys was held in the large Hall at Freemasons' Tavern, on Monday, Bro. Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer, in the chair. The motion by Bro. Thos. Meggy, Vice-Patron :—

"That a committee be appointed to consider the manner in which the scrutiny of the votes shall be made, both for the election of candidates and for other purposes, and to report to the next General Court,"

was first discussed. Bro. Meggy submitted that inaccuracies had been discovered on several occasions in the work of the Scrutineers, and he wished a Committee to inquire whether a mode of scrutiny of votes differing from the present mode could not be adopted. The Rev. A. F. A. Woodford thought there was the great objection to the motion that it had been rejected on Saturday in the Girls' Institution, and it was desirable that there should be uniformity in all the Masonic Charities. Bro. Raynham Stewart bore testimony to the care, honesty and fairness with which the Scrutineers had always performed their work. Bro. A. H. Tattershall thought that parties bringing forward such a motion should act as Scrutineers themselves, and see how the work was generally done. Mistakes occurred sometimes, but they generally arose from new brethren being on the scrutiny who were not used to the work. Bro. Meggy said he wished to be a Scrutineer himself, and it was in consequence of that that he had brought forward this motion. On a division the motion was lost. The Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, in the absence of Bro. F. C. Matier, moved the omission of the word "consecutive" after the word "seven" in Law 55 of the Institution, line 3. The motion being intended to qualify a candidate if his father should have subscribed to one or other of the Masonic Institutions seven years in all, instead of seven consecutive years as at present laid down by the rules of the Institution. Bro. Woodford said that, without going into this question, as the Girls' School allowed the subscription for seven years to be for an aggregate seven, it was not advisable that there should be a different system in the Boys' School. On the ground of the desirability of uniformity he brought forward this motion. Bro. R. B. Webster seconded the motion. Bro. W. Roebuck opposed it on the principle that the Boys' School and the Girls' School were in different positions, there being more candidates and fewer vacancies in the former than there were in the latter. Many Masons attended Lodge for four or five years, and then did not belong to any Lodge at all for many years before their death. The children of such Masons frequently pushed out the children of deserving and energetic Masons at these elections. The Rev. A. F. A. Woodford said it did not follow, because there were more candidates and fewer vacancies now in the Boys' School than in the Girls' that it would always be so. There had been occasions when the contrary was the case, and it might happen again. The motion was then carried by a majority of 19. Bro. James A. Birch moved an alteration of Rule 71, sub-section 2, as follows :—

"The election and removal of the Secretary shall be vested in the General Committee; the voting to be by balloting papers duly forwarded to each qualified member not less than fourteen days before the date of election; such balloting papers must be signed by the party entitled thereto, and may be presented by a member of the General Committee, on his or her behalf, at the time of the election."

After repeating his statements made at the Quarterly Court of the Girls' School on Saturday, he said the Province of East Lancashire trusted it would be many years before they would be called upon to exercise the privilege they sought, for the eloquent advocacy of Bro. Binckes had tended to extend the prosperity of this and other Institutions. He had awakened in the hearts of the brethren the feelings which led to the prosperity of the Masonic Institutions, and he trusted that it would be many years before he was removed from the office of Secretary by any cause. Bro. Binckes sincerely sympathised with the afflictions of the fatherless and widows, and there was no one more eloquent or able to plead their cause. Bro. Raynham Stewart thought it inexpedient to make any alteration in the present law, after it should be framed by a committee with due consideration. Bro. H. Smith Provincial Grand Secretary of West Yorkshire, supported the proposition of Bro. Birch, and said that the privilege, if granted, would be used with caution, and that the London brethren, while taking nothing from themselves, would be giving a great deal to the Provinces. Bro. Binckes, replying to Bro. Stewart, said the expense of printing and posting the balloting papers would perhaps be £25, but as the election of Secretary would not be likely to recur every year he did not think the question of expense should be allowed to weigh in the consideration of the question. Bro. James A. Birch, in summing up, said the benefits of the Institution were not confined to any locality, and the interest felt in the Institution should be co-extensive with its benefits. The provincial brethren wished to exercise a privilege for the benefit of the Institution without the additional tax of the journey to London and the loss of two days' time being imposed on them. The motion was then put, and carried by a majority of 28 votes. The election of sixteen boys then took place, and at the declaration of the poll the following was found to be the result :—

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

NEW CONCORD CHAPTER, No. 813.

THE installation meeting and regular Convocation of this Chapter was held on Thursday, the 9th inst., at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street. Present:—Comps. W. Crawford M.E.Z., J. Wright P.Z., H. T. J. Cusworth J., Stillwell Treas., W. H. Main S.E., H. J. Gabb P.S., Gallant P.Z., James Terry P.Z.; also Comps. Odell, Boulton, G. Mustoe, J. Abbott, Atkins, Allardyce, S. George, Pierpoint, Sinclair. Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Comp. J. Wright P.Z. was installed as M.E.Z., T. J. Cusworth H., and W. H. Main J. These ceremonies were rendered by Bro. James Terry P.Z. in his customary perfect and impressive manner. The newly appointed M.E.Z. invested his Officers as follows:—Comps. W. Crawford I.P.Z., Tiddeman S.E., Gabb S.N., Stillwell Treas., Gabb P.S., Chicken First Asst. Sojourner. A ballot was successfully taken for the admission of Bro. Potter, No. 813, and he was duly exalted by Comp. James Terry P.Z. The M.E.Z. gave the historical portion, and the newly installed H. the symbolic. Comp. Gabb effectively acted as P.S. The report of the Audit Committee was read and adopted. Comp. Gallant proposed, and the M.E.Z. seconded, that a jewel be presented to Comp. W. Crawford P.Z. for the able manner in which he had discharged the duties of the chair during his year of office; this was carried unanimously; also that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to the M.E.Z. for his elegant gift of a handsomely bound volume of the Sacred Law. After this compliment had been acknowledged, the Chapter was closed until the second Thursday in January. A sumptuous banquet and dessert was provided by Bros. Ritter and Clifford, that gave every satisfaction. The M.E.Z. proposed the usual Loyal toasts. Comp. Crawford P.Z. proposed the health of the M.E.Z.; every one knew his good feeling towards the Chapter. He hoped he would experience the pleasure of a successful year of office. Bro. J. Terry gave the recitation, "Daniel v. Dishclout," which drew forth roars of laughter. The M.E.Z. then thanked Comp. Crawford and the members for their kind expressions. So long as he had his health his services would always be at their disposal. The M.E.Z. then proposed the health of the newly exalted Comp. From the attention he paid to the ceremony, the M.E.Z. was convinced he would become a credit to the Order, and would do essential service to the Lodge in the future. This toast having been responded to, the M.E.Z. gave that of the Visitors, and Comps. Eves, McDougal, and H. M. Levy responded. The health of Comp. James Terry, who is welcomed, not only in London but in all parts of the country, was next proposed by the M.E.Z. Comp. Terry eloquently returned thanks. The New Concord Lodge was the first he saw consecrated, nineteen years since; he little thought then that he would ever be in his present position. Last year, when Comps. Gallant and Crawford asked him to assist them, he did so; they then had the help of Companion W. Smeed P.Z., who is perfect in Royal Arch Masonry. The present Z. was one who needed not his (Bro. Terry's) services; however, he should consider with pleasure the fact of his being an honorary member. The toast of the P.Z.'s Comps. J. Gallant and W. Crawford followed. With great pleasure the M.E.Z. would place on the breast of Comp. Crawford a jewel worthy his acceptance. He wished him health, long life, and prosperity. Comp. Crawford returned thanks for the valuable gift. After the kind remarks of Comp. Terry, he might say with pride that he with others were associated in the foundation of the Chapter; he had worked hard for their benefit, and on the present occasion he regretted the absence of their kind friend, Comp. Smeed, who in conjunction with Comp. Terry, that day twelve months had installed him into the chair. He hoped he might realise the wishes of the M.E.Z., and live long to wear their gift in the Chapter. He thanked them cordially for their kind expressions. Comp. Gallant was likewise pleased to respond to the toast. With pride he was about to wear a jewel for the first time—that was the Charity jewel. The other toasts comprised the H., the J., and the Junior Officers, and replies were given by Comps. Cusworth, Morris, Stillwell, and Tiddeman. The Janitor's toast followed, and the company separated, after expressing to the M.E.Z. the pleasure they had derived from this genial gathering.

THE GREAT CITY LODGE, No. 1426.

ONCE more the time has come round for the regular installation meeting of this Lodge, and again we have the pleasure of chronicling the doings of the members of the famous "Great City," and recording the advance in office of the various members who, in the few years that have elapsed since its foundation, have so materially contributed towards the work of conducting its affairs, and have thereby been the means of raising it to its present high position. On Saturday, the 11th inst., on which date the meeting took place, Lodge was held as usual at the Cannon-street Hotel, London, E.C., and was opened in due form by the W.M., Bro. Freeman, about three o'clock. As is customary with this Lodge, an emergency meeting was held on the previous Saturday (reported in our last issue), in order to clear off all business previous to the installation; accordingly, there was nothing to occupy the attention of the brethren previous to the important ceremony of the day, beyond the confirmation of the minutes of the last regular Lodge and of the Lodge of emergency already referred to. These two items being disposed of, and the Lodge raised to the third, and resumed to the second degree, Bro. Jas. Stevens P.M. presented the W.M. elect, Bro. G. W. Blackie, for Installation. The W.M. Bro. James Freeman conducted the ceremony up to the formation of the Board of Installed Masters, when, in the presence of a large assembly of Masters and Past Masters, the newly installed Master of The Great City Lodge was placed in the chair of K.S. and, having been saluted in ancient form, received the congratulations of those amongst whose numbers he had been enrolled. The remaining part of the ceremony was ably completed by Bro. Past Master Headon, assisted by Bro. Past Master Stevens as D.C., and the entire proceedings were distinguished by an amount of orderly procedure and correctness of detail which is characteristic of all Masonic work in this Lodge. The concluding addresses, by Bro. Headon, were faultless, both in respect of diction and delivery, and the favourable comments made thereon were fully deserved. The W.M. Bro. Blackie also gave proof of his great proficiency by his manner of investing his Officers, and there can be no doubt that the working of the Lodge in the future will be at least equal to that in the past, which has gained for The Great City its wide-spread reputation:—The Officers were appointed as follows:—W. H. Catchpole S.W., Thomas Hamer J.W., Rev. R. J. Simpson P.G.C. Chaplain, N. B. Headon P.M. Treasurer, Edward Moody P.M. Secretary, Charles Taylor S.D., W. F. Kibble J.D., F. T. C. Keeble I.G., G. Jenkins Organist, W. Baber D.C., R. Fendick and F. W. Potter Stewards, and W. Steedman P.M. Tyler. Propositions for initiation were taken, and the petitions of two distressed brethren considered, with the result of relief being afforded from the Samaritan Fund. Lodge having been closed, the brethren proceeded to the Great Hall of the Hotel, where the customary banquet awaited them. The festivities of the day were ably presided over by the newly appointed W.M., who throughout the evening successfully directed his efforts to bring the meeting to an early conclusion, at the same time taking care that all assembled should thoroughly enjoy themselves. At the conclusion of the banquet, grace (Non Nobis Domine) was sung by the musical artistes; and then the W.M., in brief terms, introduced the usual Loyal toasts. He considered that the Prince of Wales deserved their especial esteem, by reason of the great interest he took in the Craft, and in all that concerned the welfare of Freemasonry. With the health of the Pro G.M., the Deputy G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers, Bro. Blackie had the pleasure of being able to couple the names of two distinguished members of that body—Bros. Fenn and Simpson. Bro. Fenn, in replying to the toast, after tendering his thanks, said that he had been a Grand Officer for upwards of fifteen years, during which time he had always found the members of Grand Lodge ready to undertake their duties with cheerfulness, although at times they were of a somewhat arduous nature. He missed one Grand Officer from the meeting who might perhaps be said to have done more for the Craft than any other, and who, he thought, had won the esteem of all with whom he had had dealings. He referred to their esteemed Grand Secretary, Bro. John Hervey, who he considered one of the few remaining links between Freemasonry of the past and present generations. Bro. Fenn then proceeded to dilate on his connection with the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, in connection with which Bro. Hervey had for very many years past occupied a prominent position. Bro. Fenn next referred to the work just issued by Bro. James Stevens, Past Master of this Lodge, advocating some steps being taken towards ensuring a greater uniformity in the ritual. Whether he intended his remarks to be taken as the dictum of Grand Officers, or whether as his own personal idea, we do not know, but we think he somewhat exceeded the limits of discretion when he stated that if ever an attempt was made to reform the ritual it would be a difficult task to know where to begin, and an impossibility to know where to leave off. Brother the Rev. R. J. Simpson Past G. Ch. followed, and tendered his thanks. Bro. James Freeman next rose. He had great pleasure in introducing the toast he was about to propose, that of the W.M. of The Great City Lodge. He was sure there was not a member present but was glad to see Bro. Blackie in the position of W.M. He had been connected with the Lodge since its consecration, and no one had worked harder than he. Bro. Freeman felt that, however good others who had filled the chair may have been, Bro. Blackie would go far to improve on them; he was also convinced that the brethren would support him, and co-operate in ensuring the success of the Lodge during the coming year as cordially as they had in the past. The W.M., after thanking the brethren, said he could assure them that, since the time he was first connected with the Lodge, which was at its consecration, and when he was seated with the collar of junior officer of the Lodge, he determined that his duties, in whatever position he might be placed, should be performed as near perfection as possible. The way in which he had advanced year by year led him to believe that he had succeeded in satisfying the respective Masters and the brethren also. The compliment of electing him as W.M. was the greatest the members could offer, and he hoped his deeds in the future would be of such a nature as to warrant the confidence that had been reposed in him. The next toast he had to propose was one that was always cordially received by the members of 1426—it was that of the Visitors. On the present occasion they had a goodly array of guests, to all of whom, in the name of the Lodge, he tendered the heartiest welcome. With the toast was coupled the names of Bros. Perceval, Pearson and Saul. Bro. Perceval, in the name of the Visitors, thanked the Lodge for its hospitality. Each time he had paid a visit to the Lodge he had noticed an improvement in the working. Bro. Pearson was very proud to see the present Master in the position he now occupies. The Great City Lodge had attained a position in the Craft which the W.M. was well able to maintain. Bro. Saul, after thanking the members, urged their attendance at the Lodge of Instruction, which was held under their sanction. If the brethren wished to advance in Masonry, and perform their duties creditably, it was necessary they should have tuition, and nowhere could this be obtained better than at the various meetings which were held from time to time in Lodges of Instruction. Bro. Poore was next called on. Having taken a small share in the instruction of some of the Officers he naturally felt anxious to see what they did. He was more than gratified at what he had witnessed and hoped they would go on improving. Bro. G. Thistle Thorne also responded to the toast. The W.M. next proposed the health of the Immediate Past Master, the Installing Master, and the Past Masters. Their Installing Master, who had that day so ably worked the ceremony of Installation, was entitled to his personal thanks for the very creditable way in which he had inducted him into the chair. He had never heard the ceremony better performed or more impresively than he had that day. Bro. Jas. Stevens—who was termed the Father of the Lodge, not only on account of having been its first Master, but also by reason of the number of candidates he had initiated during his term of office—as well as all the others, were deserving of their best wishes and heartiest support of the members. With regard to the Immediate Past Master, Bro. Freeman, he had worked zealously for the interests of the Lodge from the time of its consecration, having faithfully fulfilled the duties of Treasurer, Warden, and later on the important post of Master. The brethren, recognising his great services, had unanimously voted him a Past Master's jewel, and the W.M. now had pleasure in being the means of investing Bro. Freeman with it. He presented it in the name of The Great City Lodge, as a mark of the appreciation by the members of the way in which the duties of Master had been carried out during the past year. Bro. Freeman thanked the members for the kindness that had been shown him during his year of office. He had been amply repaid for any exertion he had made in having had so successful a term of Mastership. As the brethren were aware, he had, not long since, taken unto himself a wife. On his return from the country, after his wedding, he had found a very handsome tea and coffee service, the gift of the members of The Great City Lodge. He and his wife esteemed it greatly, as the gift of the brethren of the Lodge. In conclusion, he could but again express his thanks for all their kindness during the year of his Mastership. Bros. N. B. Headon and James Stevens followed. The latter considered the position of Master of The Great City Lodge was a position of which any brother might be proud. Bro. Stanway considered that he had but done his duty. The small services he had rendered to the Lodge were nothing more than should be done by every Mason. Bro. Seex concluded the list of Past Masters. The health of the Treasurer and Secretary was next given from the chair. Bro. Headon, the Treasurer, thanked the brethen for the confidence they had reposed in him during the past year, a confidence that, he trusted, in the interest of the Lodge would in one important item be omitted for the future. Bro. Moody followed. If anything could repay him for the time he devoted to performing the duties of Secretary it was the kind reception he always met when his health was proposed. He was greatly indebted to Bro. Treasurer for the assistance he had accorded during his (Bro. Moody's) absence from England. Had it not been that Bro. Headon had looked after the affairs of the Lodge as he had done, the accounts and other matters could not have been presented to the Auditors as they had been. He pointed out that the thanks of the Lodge were due to the Auditors for the work they had undertaken, and, as he could vouch, so faithfully carried out. He was gratified to witness the prosperity of The Great City Lodge, and hoped that its condition would continue to improve year by year. He expressed the pleasure he felt in seeing Bro. Blackie in the chair; it was in consequence of the way in which the duties of Deacon were performed by that brother that The Great City Lodge so early attained a first place in the Craft. Bro. Blackie was universally recognised as one of the best Deacons ever found in the Craft. Bro. Blackie next proposed the health of the Officers of the Lodge, to which Bro. S.W. responded, followed by the J.W. The latter considered it a great honour to be an Officer of The Great City Lodge. He felt sure it was the desire of his brother Officers to do their duty, and as he felt that any Officer who had not satisfactorily discharged his duties should be passed over, he thought his own promotion was proof that he had satisfied the members. The Tyler was now summoned, and he gave the concluding toast of the evening. Among the Visitors were Bros. G. Bisset 405, G. W. Goulden 854, W. A. Frost 1728, T. Gittins 1056, W. Earl 1695, T. Poore P.M. 720, G. Thistle Thorne W.M. 1632, G. W. Saul 1201, C. J. Perceval W.M. 1607, J. Panton P.M. 749, 1365, F. Gleeark 1365, T. Eastgate 1563, H. T. Tiddeman 813, G. Black 859, W. L. Partridge 1445, A. Jamieson 1297, W. W. Morgan jun. 1385, C. Lawrence 1804, J. Chapman 194, R. H. Pearson P.M. 1196, T. W. Hanson 1706, and F. Green 275. The musical arrangements of the evening were under the direction of Bro. H. Bertram, who on this occasion was assisted by Bros. W. Frost, Hanson, Kempton, and H. Frost (piano), with Mr. T. Harper (trumpet). The latter gentleman's performance was enthusiastically applauded, and on his second appearance an encore was demanded.

ROYAL MILITARY LODGE, No. 1449.

THE brethren of this Lodge held their annual meeting on Monday, 13th inst., at the Guildhall Hotel, Canterbury. The Lodge was opened by Bro. Edwin Beer, the W.M., who was supported by his Officers, several visiting brethren, and a good attendance of the members of the Lodge. After the transaction of the usual formal business, the W.M. elect, Bro. H. Miskin, was formally presented for the benefit of installation, and the ceremony was performed on his behalf by the W.M. of the past year, Bro. E. Beer, who by this last act has again proved his aptitude for the office to which he was appointed twelve months since. In due course the newly appointed Worshipful Master invested the following brethren to assist him in governing the Lodge for the next year, viz.:—Bros. T. Blamiers S.W., G. H. Coates J.W., H. T. Naylor P.M. Prov. G.Sw.B. (re-elected) Treas., W. Price Sec., J. Vautier S.D., J. S. Evison J.D., W. Tyler I.G., Carter D.C., Jeffery and Howarth Stewards, Harnett (re-elected) Tyler. In investing each officer the W.M. explained their various duties, and gave a few words of encouragement, his remarks and the several appointments receiving general approval. During the ceremony Bro. P.M. Naylor greatly assisted by acting as Director of the Ceremonies, while Bro. Plant P.M. 31, who presided at the harmonium, materially added to the impressiveness of the ceremony. The report of the Building Committee in connection with the Masonic Hall being provided by the brethren of Canterbury was next presented, and a proposition made therein was brought formally under the notice of the brethren by Bro. Naylor. After some little discussion it was decided to let the matter stand over until the next meeting, in order that the brethren might have an opportunity of making further inquiry into the subject. Bro. Beer, the Immediate Past Master, was appointed to act on behalf of this Lodge as auditor of the building committee's accounts, and briefly thanked the brethren for so appointing him. The thanks of the Lodge were voted to Bro. Dr. C. Holttum, who had acted as Almoner for the Lodge during the past year, and on motion he was duly appointed to that office for the following term. The thanks of the Lodge were also ordered to be recorded to Bro. Anderson, who has fulfilled the duties of Secretary during the past few years. This ending the business of the day, the W.M. proceeded to close his Lodge, the brethren afterwards sitting down to a banquet provided by Bros. Shaxby, in a manner that reflected great credit on them. The various viands provided having been partaken of by those assembled, grace was sung by the musical party, which comprised Bros. Plant, Moulding, and Higgins, and then the W.M. proceeded with the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. The first on the list, as usual, was that of the Queen, coupled with success to the Craft. This was followed by the National Anthem, and then was given the toast of the M.W. the Grand Master of England H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. In quick succession followed the toasts proposed in honour of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and other Officers of the Grand Lodge of England; Viscount Holmesdale the Provincial Grand Master, and Bro. Eastes the Deputy of the Province: with the latter was coupled the rest of the Provincial Officers past and present. Each of these toasts having met a hearty reception from those assembled, the I.P.M. Bro. Beer rose, and proposed the health of the W.M. In doing so Bro. Beer referred to the great services rendered by Bro. Miskin to the Lodge, and concluded by expressing a hope that he might be spared to preside over the brethren, the interests of whom, he felt, Bro. Miskin would ever strive to advance. After a song, the W.M. rose to reply. He first thanked Bro. Beer for proposing the toast in the hearty way he had done, and the brethren for having received it with such kind sentiments; and then expressed the pleasure it always afforded him to attend a Masonic meeting. His earnest wish was to see 1449 prosper, and stand on an equal footing with the other Lodges of Canterbury, with whom he trusted they would continue to work with that love and harmony which should at all times characterise Freemasons. The W.M. now proposed the health of his immediate predecessor in the office of ruler of the Lodge—Bro. Beer. In doing so the W.M. referred to the zeal with which the work of the past year had been performed, and with a result which was gratifying to every member of the Lodge. He and the brethren generally felt that Bro. Beer had performed his duty most efficiently, and to show their esteem they had subscribed among themselves for a testimonial, in the form of a Past Master's jewel, which he now had the pleasure, on their behalf, of presenting to Bro. Beer, with the sincere wish of the brethren that he might live long to wear it, and assist the Royal Military Lodge with his advice and support. Bro. Edwin Beer, on rising to respond, was received with applause, he briefly thanked the W.M. and brethren for their expressions of good feeling. Throughout his year of office he had endeavoured to carry out his duties to the best of his ability, and when he was convinced that he had done so to the satisfaction of the members generally, he was extremely gratified. He hoped that if any of the members of the Lodge should, by reason of their professional duties, be called away from the district, that success would attend them, and wherever they might be, they would enjoy long life and prosperity. In conclusion, he trusted that all who, in years to come, might attain to the position of ruler of the Lodge, would have as successful a year as his had been, and at the conclusion of their term meet as hearty reception as was now accorded him. In proposing the health of the Past Masters of the Lodge, the Chairman recounted the acts each had performed during their respective years of office, and pointed out that the present prosperous condition of the Lodge was in a great measure due to their exertions; brethren who had been initiated by one or other of the Past Masters of the Lodge were dispersed over all parts of the world, and he felt assured that their names, as well as that of their Lodge, would be appreciated for many years to come, and, it might be said, in every part of the civilized world. The toast of the Visitors was next proposed, and then that of the Masonic Charities was given by Bro. P.M. Greenwood, who briefly referred to the duty incumbent on every Mason to support, as far as lay in his power, those who, from unforeseen calamity, were forced to appeal to the bounty of their more fortunate brethren. Bro. W. W. Morgan jun., the joint Secretary of the Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund, replied. He pointed out the praiseworthy manner in which the brethren of Kent supported the Schools belonging to the Order, and also the Institution by which the Craft provided for the aged who might fall into need, and then proceeded to explain the objects for which the Pupils' Assistance Fund had been started. He urged on the brethren of Canterbury to lend their aid in the furtherance of the objects contemplated, pointing out that each and all of the members could materially assist the fund by forwarding contributions, either of money or goods, in aid of a Fancy Bazaar to be held in London in June or July next, on behalf of the Fund. As a result of his appeal Bro. P.M. Naylor promised his services as Steward for the occasion, and other members offered to contribute, or in other ways work for the benefit of the cause. Bro. Beer, by permission of the W.M. now proposed the health of the Treasurer, pointing out the benefit that must always accrue to any Lodge whose funds were taken care of by so painstaking a brother as Past Master Naylor. He was gratified that the brethren had recorded their votes in favour of Bro. Naylor's re-election, and he hoped that for many years to come not only that a similar compliment would be paid, but that Bro. Naylor would be among them and able to perform the duties attached to the office. Bro. Naylor, in the course of his reply, detailed the various items in connection with the accounts of the Lodge, and pointed out to the brethren their financial position in regard to the Masonic Temple that was in course of construction in the city. He heartily thanked them for their kind expressions, and hoped he might be among them and retain their confidence for many years to come. Bro. Naylor then proposed success to the Press, both Local and Masonic, coupling with the toast the names of Bro. Cattelle, as representative of the Local, and of Bro. Morgan, in connection with the Masonic journals. Each of these brethren replied, assuring the brethren that they were at all times happy to do any thing likely to advance Freemasonry or the interests of its members. Bro. Senior Warden proposed the health of the host, Bro. Shaxby, and that brother having briefly replied, the toast of the Officers was given from the chair. The W.M. felt assured that he might rely on all of the brethren who had that day been appointed to office, and hoped that, in due course, they would each be elected to the proud position he then occupied. In reply to the toast, Bro. Blamiers, the S.W., tendered a few words of thanks on behalf of himself and fellow Officers. This concluded the various items usually observed at Masonic gatherings, and accordingly the Tyler was called, and he proposed the usual closing toast. In addition to those already mentioned there were present, Bros. Major Philip H. Knight P.M. 31, E. Plume P.M. 972, H. Minell P.M., W. J. Greenwood P.M. 1449 P.P.G.P., C. Holttum P.M. 31 P.P.G. WEST MIDDLESEX LODGE, No. 1612.

IN our youthful days we were deeply impressed with the lively doings of an old gentleman whose qualities were always summed up by those of his acquaintance with whom we associated in the one expression—"He is a capital fellow for a dinner party." We may perhaps be pardoned if we attempt to trace a resemblance of expression and idea in the remark we hear frequently now-a-days, that So and So is the brother for an installation meeting. Well, Brother So and So has had a good time of it this past week, as our record of Installation Meetings will testify. But the printer's "devil" is at our elbow, and tells us we must "cut it short," as "the paper is already overset." Well, "devil," we'll leave our "damnable faces" and begin. The place of assembly on Saturday last was at the Ealing Institute, where the brethren congregated at 2.30. The chair was taken by Bro. Thomas Kingston, who was supported by Bro. A. Beasley I.P.M., all the Officers of the Lodge, and the following Visitors:—Samuel T. Kingston S.D. 1269, Walter Goss P.M. 780, H. J. Alexander W.M. 1423, A. E. Hannis D.C. 771, D. W. Harrison S.D. 1681, W. W. Trueman J.D. 1566, T. Youens W.M. 1287, T. Brown P.M. 780, E. Hopgood P.M. 946, J. Hamilton Townend P.M. 1426, W. W. Morgan Sec. 211, W. Gardiner P.M. 780, Alexander Emmerson 780, W. H. Underhill P.M. 59, J. C. Wheeler 1310. Lodge was opened, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The Auditors presented their report, which was adopted. The installation ceremony was performed by the outgoing Master, who placed Bro. Henry Kasner into the chair with the customary formalities. The W.M. was in due course saluted by the brethen, and he made the following appointments:—Bros. A. J. Burr S.W., J. Green J.W., H. E. Tucker Treasurer, J. Chambers Roe P.M. Secretary, Dyer and W. Seward jun. Deacons, Fisher I.G., Delevanto Organist, Wright Steward, and Harrison Tyler. The ballot was successfully taken for two candidates for initiation—Messrs. Marmaduke Wolverton Wyville, proposed by Bro. Tucker Treasurer, seconded by Bro. Roe Secretary; and Mr. Frederick Millsom, proposed by Bro. Stephens, seconded by Bro. Tucker Treasurer. These gentlemen were present, as likewise was Mr. C. P. Bellerby, who had been ballotted for at an earlier meeting. It is the custom in this Lodge to initiate all candidates separately; accordingly Mr. Bellerby was the first who was introduced, and Bro. Kasner carefully performed the ceremony in his favour. Bro. W. Seward admirably fulfilled his duties as Deacon. Bro. Kasner next signified his willingness to receive Mr. Wyville, and here Bro. Tucker acted as Deacon. Bro. Kingston I.P.M. performed the ceremony in favour of the third candidate. The W.M. then resumed the chair, and proceeded with routine work. A proposal to raise a fund for presenting a popular member of the Lodge with a tangible mark of appreciation, was entertained, and several energetic members undertook to aid in carrying out this proposition. After the tendering of congratulations and good wishes from the Visitors, Lodge was closed. The numerical strength of the membership in this Lodge has so greatly exceeded what was anticipated, that the brethren have to look about them for quarters wherein to hold their installation banquets; however, on this occasion they were singularly fortunate, as the Christ Church School-room had been placed at the disposal of the W.M., and a more comfortable apartment for the purpose it would have been difficult to find. To Bro. Stephens had been entrusted the providing of the banquet, and he had secured the goodly help of Messrs. Chisnall, of Hammersmith, and the efforts of these worthy caterers were eminently successful. After full consideration had been given to the discussion of the good things provided, the W.M. rose to propose the toasts. The first one—"The Queen and the Craft," met with a hearty reception, and a musical party, whose services Bro. Delevante had secured, sang the National Anthem. In proposing the health of the M.W. the Grand Master, Bro. Kasner referred to the period of anxiety that followed the resignation of the Marquis of Ripon. The Prince of Wales had kindly stepped into the breach thus created, and the many qualities he brought to bear on his government of the Craft were fully recognised by all Englishmen, wherever located. After "God Bless the Prince of Wales" had been sung, the W.M. proposed the third toast—"The Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the Grand Officers Past and Present." The part-song, "The Cloud Capp'd Towers," was here capitally rendered, and Bro. I.P.M. Kingston rose, and, in a few manly remarks, proposed the health of the W.M. Bro. Kasner had been associated with them in the active work of the Lodge since its consecration, and all had greeted with pleasure the announcement of his election to the chair. Here Bro. Beasley sang most artistically "You'll remember me." Bro. Kasner, on rising to reply, said he scarcely knew how to express the pleasure he felt at the hearty way in which Bro. Kingston had offered the toast, and the kind way in which it had been received. He felt extremely proud at being in the position of Master of this Lodge, a position to which he was elected by the unanimous vote of the members. Indeed, he should have felt it somewhat of a barren seat if the brethren had not been unanimous. Bro. Kasner remarked that long speeches were not in his line; there were many distinguished Masons present who would like to have an opportunity of addressing the brethren, and he would, therefore, conclude by again thanking them for having placed him in his present position. In giving the toast of the Past Masters, Bro. Kasner referred to the very appropriate motto which was associated with the toast on the list,—which, by the way, was a most artistic production. The brethren might well be proud of Bro. Kingston; no better Master could have been wished for, while no better Mason breathed. He had infinite pleasure in presenting him with the jewel which the brethren had voted him. After this gift, which was much admired, had been acknowledged by Bro. Kingston, the W.M. gave the toast of the Initiates, and those three newly-made brethren acknowledged the compliment. The other toasts comprised the Visitors, the Treasurer and Secretary, the Officers of the Lodge, &c. In speaking to the toast of the Treasurer and Secretary, Bro. Kasner directed the attention of the members to the responsibility of the respective duties of those Officers, and reminded the members that each had a laudable aspiration for the post of W.M., a post for which they had special claims which he urged the members not to overlook. The several replies were terse, and offered in a desire for brevity which characterised the proceedings. The final toast was then called for, and the brethren separated. The musical party we have already referred to, but we must not forget to tender thanks to Miss Delevante for the ability she displayed throughout the evening.

UNITY LODGE, No. 1637.

THE installation meeting was held on Saturday, the 11th inst., at the Abercorn Arms, Great Stanmore. Carriages were waiting at Harrow and Edgeware Stations to convey the brethren to their destination. The Lodge was opened by Bros. W. Stephens P.M. P.G.D. Middlesex, C. J. Davis P.G.S. S.W., W. Grist J.W., E. C. Woodward P.M. Treas., W. Coombes P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex Sec., S. A. Cooper S.D., T. W. Cooper J.D., Atkins I.G., Varley P.M. The minutes of the former and emergency meetings were read and confirmed. Mr. W. R. Bristow was balloted for, and duly initiated into the Order by the W.M., whose working was perfect. A Board of Installed Masters was opened, and Bro. C. J. Davis P.M. P.G.S. was presented to the Lodge, and inducted into the chair by the retiring W.M., in the presence of sixteen W.M.'s and P.M.'s. Bro. Stephens well merited the encomiums passed on him at the conclusion of the ceremony. On the re-admission of the brethren, the W.M. appointed and invested his Officers—W. Stephens I.P.M., W. Grist S.W., S. A. Cooper J.W., W. Stephens P.G.D. Treas. and Sec., T. W. Cooper S.D., Atkins J.D., Slyman I.G., G. Penn P.M. D.C., Linscott W.S., Oldrey Assist. W.S., Middleton Tyler. The W.M. addressed the newly-appointed Officers, who all received the congratulations of those present. Hearty good wishes were given from the Visitors. Referring to the resignation of the post of Secretary, Bro. Woodward P.M. said he regretted the decision Bro. Coombes had arrived at; his loss in that capacity would be felt, but he would propose that he be made an honorary member. Bro. Hendricks seconded the proposition, which was supported by Bro. W. Stephens P.M., who hoped the memb · would present Bro. Coombes with a Secretary's jewel, as every one who knew him respected him. The W.M. addressed a few pertinent remarks, and then the proposition was carried unanimously. The W.M. said he would defer the appointment of a Secretary until the next meeting. A letter of apology was read from Col. Burdett Prov.G.M., regretting not being present owing to the death of his son-in-law. The report of the audit committee was read and adopted, it showed that the furniture, &c., was paid for, and that the Lodge was in a flourishing state. A deserved compliment was paid to Bro. Coombes for the excellent manner in which the accounts were kept. The Lodge was then closed until the second Saturday in April 1880. The brethren sat down to a very simple and recherché banquet and dessert provided by Bro. Veal. The wines and viands were of first-rate quality. Grace having been sung by Bros. Cantle and Knight-Smith, the W.M. said that many Brethren had to return to town, and necessarily his speeches would be short, but he hoped his remarks would be to the purpose. He then gave the Queen and the Craft. The National Anthem was sung, Bro. Knight-Smith taking the solos. The health of the M.W.G.M. was received with enthusiastic cheers, and Bro. Cantle sang "God Bless the Prince of Wales." The W.M., in speaking to the toast of the Pro G. Master, referred to the arduous duties of that worthy and esteemed Brother; he has always a kind word for every one, and his judgments have been unerring. After Bro. Murlis had favoured the company with "The Lass of Richmond Hill," the toast of the R.W. Lord Skelmersdale and the rest of the Grand Officers followed, and Bros. Knight-Smith and J. I. Cantle gave the duet "Excelsior." The R.W. the Provincial Grand Master Col. Burdett was next toasted. Bro. Davis said he was initiated before the province was constituted; Col. Burdett is one who takes a great interest in Freemasonry, and his was a toast that was always well received throughout the Province. This toast was followed by that of the Deputy Prov. Grand Master and the rest of the Officers, for which Bros. Stephens, Swallow, and Coombes replied. Bro. W. Stephens I.P.M. then rose to propose the health of the W.M. They were all proud of Bro. Davis, and all acknowledged his worth. He but expressed the sentiments of every member of the Lodge when he trusted their W.M. might have a happy and a prosperous year of office. Bro. Davis thanked Bro. Stephens for the kind expressions he had given utterance to, and the brethren for the hearty way they had responded. He was received into Freemasonry in the district that now comprised the Province of Middlesex. When the Unity Lodge was started he was asked to join it. This he did, and received the post of Senior Deacon. He must congratulate the brethren on the removal of the Lodge; he felt a great pleasure in being elected its W.M., and he hoped he might have as successful a year as that he enjoyed when filling the chair of No. 382. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Initiate, who might congratulate himself on being received into this Lodge, as the number of members was limited. It was desirable to have members like Bro. Bristow, who had paid great attention to the ceremony, and he was sure he would be a credit to the Order. After this toast had been suitably acknowledged, the W.M. gave that of the Visitors. After a reply from Bro. Pattison W.M. 1678, the claims of the Masonic Charities were forcibly brought before the brethren. We have with us to-night one of the representatives of those Charities, an honorary member of our Lodge. He is a very hardworking member in the noble cause, and he felt it a great pleasure in proposing "Prosperity to the Masonic Charities," coupling with it the name of Bro. James Terry. Bro. James Terry, in replying, did the cause he pleads so well goodly service; he informed the brethren that the R.W. the Earl of Zetland would take the chair at the next Festival, and Bro. King was so impressed with Bro. Terry's eloquence that he consented to act as Steward on behalf of the Lodge. The toast of the Past Masters was replied to by Bro. W. Stephens Treasurer and I.P.M.; he informed the members that the Lodge was free from debt, and declared his determination to look well after the interests of the members. Bro. Woodward followed. He was pleased to see Bro. James Terry present; he has a good and kind word for every one. As a founder of this Lodge, he (Bro. Woodward) was proud of it; he was sure it would prosper under such a W.M. and Officers. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Wardens and other Officers, for which compliment each brother referred to replied. With the toast of the Masonic Press was associated the name of Bro. H. M. Levy, who, in responding, said that the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE was started on liberal and independent principles, and it was gratifying to know that the way it was conducted was approved of by the majority of its supporters. In due course the Tyler's toast was given, and the brethren returned to town. Amongst the Visitors were Bros. H. Reed P.M. 733, W. Murlis P.M. 1662, T. J. Maidwell P.M. 27, C. Daniel W.M. 65, W. Brown P.M. 65, Parkhouse W.M. 1642, Rea 1096, Williams W.M. 874, Glover 1489, W. B. Brown 1642, J. I. Cantle W.M. 1257, J. Knight-Smith W.M. 1441, B. Swallow P.P.G.D. Middlesex, C. Hickling 538, James Terry P.P.G.J.W. Herts; J. Hurdell 1348, Pattison W.M. 1678, Rea 1069, Willing Holmesdale, H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE, No. 1558.

THE anniversary and installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, 9th inst., at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New Road. Bro. Walter Mitchell W.M. presided; Bro. Runacres S.W. and W.M. elect, Chalk J.W., Boyton S.D., Power J.D., Daun Secretary; Past Masters Cackett and Sleap, and the following Visitors—H. A. Robinson Prosperity Lodge, Smith 1158, H. Thompson 1426 and P.M. 178 and 1158, Yeomans 167, Macan 26, Hilton 1475, J. Dixon P.M. 1728, Malthouse 1623, Sandall 907, Renant 1623, Bott 1839, Bath 788, E. Dodson P.M. 72, Graham 1513. The Lodge having been opened in the first and second degrees, Bro. G. H. Trenshaw was examined as to the progress he had made in the science; his answers being considered satisfactory, he retired, and the Lodge was opened in the third degree, Bro. Sleap P.M. taking the chair, and Bro. Trenshaw was impressively raised to the degree of M.M. The Lodge was lowered to the second degree, when Bro. Daun P.M. and Secretary presented Bro. Runacres the W.M. elect to receive the benefit of installation. Afterwards a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Runacres was duly installed into the chair of K.S.; on the brethren being re-admitted, he received the customary salutes. Bro. Daun acted as Director of Ceremonies. The new W.M. then appointed his Officers as follows:—Bros. Chalk S.W., Boyton J.W., Daun P.M. and Secretary, Corpe Treasurer, Power S.D., Taylor J.D., Sims I.G., Harris D.C., Emens W.S., J. R. Smith A.W.S., Wilkins Organist, and H. Thomas Tyler. The W.M. said his first duty was a very pleasing one, as it was to present his predecessor and immediate Past Master with a jewel, which had been voted to him by the brethren, in acknowledgment of his valuable services during the year he had presided over them as W.M. of the Lodge; and in attaching it to his breast, he hoped he might long live to wear it, and afterwards that it might be preserved as an heir-loom in his family, and be passed down from generation to generation. The jewel is a very splendid one, and bore the following inscription:—

Presented to Bro. WALTER MITCHELL,
By the Duke of Connaught Lodge, No. 1558,
On his retiring from the Master's chair,
October 1879.

Bro. Mitchell P.M. said he thought he should best consult the wishes of the brethren by deferring any observations he had to offer until a later period of the evening. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren retired for refreshment. At its conclusion, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. Bro. W. Mitchell, in proposing the health of the W.M., said he was sure he would prove as good a Master as ever sat in the chair, and perhaps better. He found out his good qualities during the time he had worked under him, and therefore he needed no recommendation on his part. Bro. Runacres was constant in his attendance during every year he had been a member of the Lodge; he had the welfare of it at heart, and he was sure that their W.M. would do all in his power to promote the interests of the members. Words failed him to speak what he should wish to say on behalf of the W.M., but had he not possessed their good opinion they would never have elected him to fill the chair; he could only say that if Bro. Runacres only carried out in Masonry the good qualities which distinguished him in private life, the brethren would have no reason to regret the choice they had made. The Worshipful Master, in reply, said the very flattering speech that Bro. Mitchell had just addressed to them had so much taken him aback that he knew not what to say. He would say, however, that they might take it for granted that he would do all in his power to make the Duke of Connaught Lodge one of the best Lodges in London. They now numbered forty-four members, and that was as many as they required, for their wish was they should only admit those who would prove a credit to them, and such men as they should feel a pleasure in having to sit beside them. The W.M. then gave "The Past Masters of the Duke of Connaught Lodge," and Bro. Mitchell I.P.M., in returning thanks, acknowledged the honour conferred upon him; he was grateful for the confidence reposed in him during his year of office, when he had done everything in his power, to the utmost limit of his capacity. Bros. Sleap and Cackett also returned thanks. "The Visitors," and some other toasts were given, and responded to. Bro. Chalk entertained the brethren with some choice ballads during the evening, for which he was deservedly applauded; and the brethren separated, well pleased with this truly fraternal meeting.

METROPOLITAN LODGE, No. 1507.

THE annual meeting of this Lodge was held at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, on Wednesday. Lodge was opened with the usual formalities by Bro. John Douglass, who was supported by a numerous assembly of members and visitors, among the latter being Bros. E. E. Barratt Kidder J.D. 12, S. Hollidge 1602, B. Kauffmann 1732, Leon Jacobs I.G. 1732, T. W. Kingston P.M. 1107 912 615 P.P.G.D.C. Kent, A. Dawkerrell I.G. 145, H. M. Levy P.M. 188, H. Stevens 1732, H. A. Dubois P.G.J.W. Middx., C. Reingpach 392 G.O. France, J. Cherry 19, F. G. W. Guyer 1288, W. Read 177, C. Harcourt 1319, A. Hubbard 1732, J. L. Simpson 1076, W. Walden 49, W. Medcalf 206, E. F. Pierdon 948, A. Mullord J.W. 1288, T. Wilson D.C. 1328, W. Searle 907, M. S. Boyle 1777, J. J. Wine 862, J. Terry P.P.G.W. Herts Sec. R.M.B.I., C. B. Putland 1732, J. H. Lamer 733, W. W. Morgan jun. 1385, Bradshaw Brown J.W. 1, G. W. Charchley P.M. 615, F. Morgan 169, &c. Bro. C. J. Scales the W.M. elect occupied the position of S.W., Side J.W., J. Willing P.M. Treas., G. Clark acted as S.D., Colls J.D., Edmonds as I.G., and H. Lovegrove Steward. Among the Past Masters were Bros. Kingham and Michael. After the confirmation of the minutes the report of the Audit Committee was presented and adopted. On the proposition of Bro. Stiles, seconded by Bro. Kingham, the sanction of the Lodge was given for the removal of the Lodge of Instruction held under the sanction of this Lodge to the Moorgate Station Restaurant. Bro. Weiss, of No. 145, was passed to the second degree, and then Bro. Scales was formally presented for the benefit of installation, which ceremony was ably performed by the outgoing Master Bro. John Douglass. The following brethren were, in due course, appointed and invested as officers for the coming year—W. Side S.W., W. M. Stiles J.W., J. Willing P.M. Treas., J. J. Michael P.M. Sec., G. Colls S.D., H. Stiles J.D., J. Clark I.G., H. Lovegrove D.C., G. W. Brunell and T. Gilbert jun. Stewards, J. Daily Tyler. The installation ceremony was then completed and the W.M. called upon to show his proficiency, there being two candidates for initiation, viz.—Messrs. H. Connolly and C. Rooks; each of these gentlemen were admitted to a participation in the secrets of Freemasonry, and then the W.M. proceeded to close the Lodge. Previous to doing so, Bro. Michael proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. Douglass for the able way in which he had installed his successor, this was seconded by Bro. Willing, and carried with acclamation. It was then announced that the W.M. had undertaken the office of Steward for the next Festival of the Benevolent Institution, and as it was pointed out that the Lodge was already Vice President of one branch of that Fund, a hope was expressed that on the occasion of the Master's Stewardship sufficient money would be forthcoming to entitle the Lodge to the rank of Vice Patron. Bro. Michael also offered his services to represent the Lodge at other of the Festivals, and trusted that the year on which they had just started would be marked for the amount devoted by the Lodge to the Charities of the Order. Nothing further offering the Lodge was closed, the brethren proceeding to the banquet hall where a first rate repast awaited them.

Bros. Clemow personally superintended the service, and although they had the capabilities of their establishment fairly tested, proved they were equal to the task demanded of them. One thing the W.M. mentioned previous to proposing the toasts was that during his year of office brevity would be observed by the chair, and he hoped followed by members. If the speeches on this occasion are a criterion of what may be expected in the future, we may assume the remarks of the W.M. will be acted on thoroughly. The usual first three toast were quickly disposed of, Bro. Douglass proposed the health of the W.M., merely remarking that the present was the first occasion on which Bro. Scales had been thus honoured, and he (Bro. Douglass) hoped therefore that the response would be a hearty one. Bro. Scales thanked the brethren for the compliment they had paid him, and then proposed the health of the Immediate Past Master. Bro. Douglass had, he said, by installing him that evening, conferred on him the greatest honour it was possible to receive from a Lodge. He had very great pleasure in carrying out the wishes of the brethren and investing Bro. Douglass with the Past Master's jewel which had been voted from the Lodge Funds. Bro. Douglass in acknowledgment tendered his hearty thanks. If the way in which he had performed the ceremony of installation that evening had met the approval of the Lodge he was highly gratified. He hoped the brethren were satisfied with what he had done for the Lodge during the past twelve months; the very handsome jewel they had presented to him led him to believe that such was the case; and for it and their support during the term of his Mastership, he tendered the heartiest thanks. Bro. Scales now proposed the health of the Past Masters; the toast was one that had been so often proposed, and the brethren it included were so well known, it was quite unnecessary to dilate long on their merits; he hoped the brethren who had occupied the chair of the Lodge in years past would for a long time to come be found in their respective places in the Lodge, where they would always command, and, he felt sure, receive the greatest respect. Bro. Willing in replying tendered his congratulations to Bro. Scales on his promotion to the chair of his Mother Lodge and likewise the Lodge on having so early initiated a brother who had proved himself capable in performing the various duties he had undertaken. It was a great satisfaction to the Past Masters to see the brethren they had initiated fill the chairs of the Lodge. Bro. Michael considered that his office of Secretary was one requiring him to write rather than speak. He was pleased to see the Lodge in the position to which it had risen, and pointed out the great credit that attached to the members in having so zealously supported the Charities on each opportunity that had arisen since the Lodge was consecrated. He thought the idea of giving up one of the banquets, and devoting the money that would thus have been spent was a good one, and hoped that, should the present Master see fit to adopt such a course during his year of office, the members would attend in as great a number as usual, and show they were really sincere in their support of the Institutions. He should ask each brother, on some future occasion, to put a few shillings towards making the Lodge a Vice-President of the various Charities. Bro. Kingham followed; in a few words mainly supporting Bro. Michael's plan for placing the Lodge in the proud position of Vice-President of the Institutions. Bro. Scales now proposed the health of the initiates. The two received that evening were worthy brethren, and likely to advance the interests of the Lodge. Bro. Rooks thanked the members; he greatly appreciated the compliment that had been paid him in receiving him into the Lodge. Bro. Connolly likewise thanked the brethren. The W.M. proposed the health of the Visitors, calling upon Bro. Dubois to respond. That brother, on behalf of himself and fellow Visitors, expressed the gratification they felt at hearing that the rule in the Lodge had been for each Master to instal his successor; he considered such a course was of great benefit to a Lodge, and any brother who thus finished his year of office was entitled to greater honour than could otherwise accrue to him. Bro. Brown followed, complimenting the Lodge on its efficient Officers; he should endeavour to emulate their example, and point them out as a pattern for young brethren to copy. Bro. Cherry also replied. The toast of the Charities followed, Bro. Terry responding. He urged the brethren to support their Master in the laudable endeavour he had promised to make to place the Lodge among the ...P.'s of the Benevolent Institution, this was a position attained by only 30 of the 1845 Lodges on the roll of English Grand Lodge, and the fact of so young a Lodge as the Metropolitan qualifying itself would reflect the greatest credit on all connected with it. The next toast was that of the Treasurer, Secretary, and other Officers of the Lodge, which was heartily proposed and responded to by each of the Officers there present, all of whom expressed their intention to work in their new offices as much for the benefit of the Lodge as was possible. The Tyler's toast followed, and thus the proceedings terminated.

ROYAL HANOVER LODGE, No. 1777, HOUNSLOW.

THE installation meeting of this Lodge was held in the Town Hall, Hounslow, on Saturday, the 11th inst. The Lodge was opened half-past four o'clock, by the W.M. Bro. H. A. Dubois Prov. ...W. P.M. P.Z., &c., supported by Bros. H. Lovegrove S.W., Clark jun. J.W., W. Ramsey Hon. I.P.M., H. B. Marshall Treas., Clark S.D., C. C. Cruikshanks J.D., F. J. Perks D.C., G. S. ...ham Organist, J. Daly Tyler; also Bros. M. S. Larlham P.M., ...tis, Gritten, W. S. Dunkley, C. A. White, Wood, Villars, &c., ...mbers of the Lodge; and Bros. J. F. Wenst P.M. 753, W. Browne ...lder P.M. 12, G. W. Dixon P.M. 209 P.P.G.D.C. Berks and Bucks, After the reading of the minutes of the last regular meeting and an emergency meeting, and confirmation of the same, the ballot was taken for Bros. E. W. Dubois and Cannon as joining members; the ballot was then taken for four gentlemen for initiation—Messrs. Elliott, Thorn, Holliday, and Boyle, which being unanimous they were admitted, and duly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. Considerable interest attached to the initiation of Mr. Boyle, who is the Consul representing the Republic of Liberia at Sierra Leone, and is a native of the latter colony. The W.M. then left the chair, which was taken by Bro. Mark S. Larlham P.M. M.E.Z., for the purpose of proceeding with the installation. Bro. Dubois W.M. then presented Bro. H. Lovegrove S.W. W.M. elect, who assented to the usual charges, and having been obligated, the brethren below the rank of Installed Master retired. A Board of Installed Masters was then formed, with Bros. Dixon as S.W., Stiles as J.W., Ramsey as I.G.; and Bro. Henry Lovegrove was installed into the chair of K.S. according to ancient form. The new W.M. having declared the Board of Installed Masters closed, the brethren were admitted, and saluted him in the three degrees, after which the addresses were very ably given by the Installing Officer. The Officers were then invested as follows:—Bros. G. Clark jun. S.W., Harry Clark J.W., C. C. Cruikshanks S.D., F. J. Perks J.D., W. S. Dunkley I.G., W. Heelis D.C., T. G. W. Wood W.S., G. S. Graham Org., and J. Daly Tyler. The retiring W.M. was invested as I.P.M., and Bro. H. B. Marshall, C.C., F.R.G.S. was invested as Treasurer, the W.M. alluding to his re-election to that office, and his liberality to the Masonic Charities during the past year. A letter was read from Bro. H. C. Levander Prov. Grand Secretary, announcing that the M.W. Pro. Grand Master had consented to the removal of the Lodge to the Albany Hotel, at Twickenham, an announcement which was received with much pleasure by the brethren. After receiving some names for initiation, and passing a vote of thanks to the Installing Officer for his services, the Lodge was closed in due form. The retiring W.M. declined to accept any recognition of his services until the Lodge had been longer established. At seven o'clock the members and visitors assembled at the banquet at the Red Lion Hotel. The printed list of toasts was appropriately embellished with texts from Shakspeare, arranged by the W.M. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given by the W.M. Bro. H. Lovegrove. Those of the Prov. G.M. Col. F. Burdett and the Provincial Grand Lodge being especially well received. The latter was responded to by the I.P.M., who, owing to the meetings of other Lodges, was the only Provincial Grand Officer present. The health of the W.M. was proposed by the I.P.M. who alluded to the energy shown by him in the formation and working of the Lodge. The W.M. thanked the brethren for the hearty manner in which they had received the toast, and proposed that of the I.P.M., who had skilfully managed the affairs of the Lodge. Bro. G. Clark S.W. suitably responded for the Officers. In proposing the health of the initiates, the W.M. made some pleasing remarks about their private life, as two of them had been known to him for some years, and their initiate from Africa for over sixteen years. Bro. Stiles W.M. of the Kings Cross Lodge responded on behalf of the Visitors, and congratulated the W.M. on his advancement, also on the Officers who had been appointed by him. As the time for the departure of the last train approached, the Tyler's toast was given, and the brethren departed after spending a very pleasant evening.

Venerable Order of St. Laurence, Ebor Lodge.—A meeting of this Lodge was held at York on Thursday evening, at which were present Bros. G. Simpson R.W.M., J. S. Cumberland S.W., T. B. Whytehead P.M. as J.W., M. Millington S.D., T. Humphries I.G., W. P. Husband K. of G., A. T. B. Turner Sec., L. Murphy, S. F. Bousfield, P. Pearson Tyler. The degree was conferred upon Bro. J. J. Wilkes, Restoration Lodge No. 111, Darlington. Bro. T. B. Whytehead gave a report of the proceedings at a meeting he had attended at the Alexandra Palace on the 9th August, for the purpose of forming a Council of Side Degrees. The Lodge expressed its general approval of the course adopted, and after some conversation and suggestions relating to the government of the Order of St. Laurence, the Lodge was closed.

FREEMASONRY AT FALMOUTH.

A Meeting of unusual importance and interest was held on Monday evening in the Masonic Hall, Falmouth, by the Lodge of Love and Honour, No. 75, in celebration of the Centenary of the "Freemasons' Hall Fund," established in 1779, to which this ancient Lodge subscribed so liberally that the Grand Lodge presented the members with a silver medal, to be worn by the W.M. for the time being so long as the Lodge lasted. This distinction has been conferred on only three other Lodges out of London, the nearest of which is No. 41, Bath, and the other two are 154, Wakefield, and 237, Swansea. The medal has been quite lost sight of for many years, and on inquiry cannot now be found, so a duplicate has been obtained, and the W.M. was invested therewith for the first time on the evening of the celebration of the Centenary. Bro. Hughan was called upon to furnish a sketch of the medal and its historical associations, which he did most readily, and Colonel J. W. Perd, the newly-appointed D. Prov. G.M., congratulated the members on being the possessors of so rare and highly-valued a souvenir from the Grand Lodge of England. The D.P.G.M. was warmly received, and unanimously elected an honorary member of the Lodge. Bro. W. C. Borlase, F.S.A., added his congratulations, and it was discovered during the evening that his great, great grandfather, the celebrated historian and antiquary of the county, was initiated as a member of the Lodge in 1751, and was its first Chaplain. Several votes, expressive of the character of the meeting, to be recorded on the minutes, were duly passed, and all united in considering the event as one not surpassed in importance in the annals of the Lodge, the whole of the proceedings having afforded the utmost satisfaction. The following were present in honour of the occasion, viz.:—Bros. W. J. Hughan P.S.G.D. of England, Colonel J. W. Peard D.P.G.M. of Cornwall, William C. Borlase, F.S.A., P.P.G.S.W., John Vivian P.P.G.S.B., W. F. Newman P.P.G.S.D., F. Dennis P.P.G.P., T. C. Polglase P.P.G.A.D.C., Michael Little P.M. 75, W. H. Dunstan P.P.S. of W., Harry Tilly P.G. Reg., W. L. Fox W.M. 75, John H. Michell P.M. 589, J. Wallace S.W. 75, W. D. Rogers J.W., Richard Carter P.P.G. Organist and Sec. 75, and visitors from Lodges beyond the county, as also a large number of the members of No. 75. At the supper several happy speeches were made, and much regret was expressed at the unavoidable absence of the P.G.M., the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe.

We extract the following from the Norwich Argus:—

The Craft in Norwich have at length fallen upon what they consider comfortable quarters away from the contaminating influence of hotels and taverns. The residence of the late Mr. H. Bolingbroke, situate at 23 St. Giles'-street, coming to the hammer, a couple of speculating Masons went in for the purchase thereof, and with Bro. H. A. Wooster Reeves as Secretary, and "having the cordial support of R.W. Prov. G.M. Lord Suffield, a Masonic Club has been started with all the usual facilities of such places. Subscription, one guinea per annum." It remains to be seen how this will succeed. Anyhow, three Lodges have already located themselves at No. 23 for their usual monthly meetings—Walpole taking the initiative (with a splendid opening last Thursday evening), followed by Cabbell and Perseverance, and it is expected Social and Sincerity will come in shortly, and, may be, the aristocratic Union; this latter, however, we doubt, unless his lordship smiles benignly and says yes. Provincial Grand Lodge this year is also to be held in this house, and as the ruling powers are going in strictly for economy, and do not intend advertising in the local press, we give their announcement free, gratis, for nothing. Major Penrice, D.P.G.M., is unaccountably averse to newspaper reports of Masonic banquets, and expressed himself to that effect at the opening of the new North Walsham (Suffield) Lodge the other day, and yet half a column appeared in our non-Masonic daily contemporary—full of inaccuracies, we admit, nevertheless it must have been supplied by a brother standing well in the Craft. How was this? Here is the circular above alluded to:—

"PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF NORFOLK."—The Right Honourable Lord Suffield, K.C.B., R.W.G.M., Major Penrice D.P.G.M.—Annual Provincial Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons of this Province will be holden at No. 23 St. Giles'-street, Norwich on Friday, 17th October 1879, at half-past twelve o'clock precisely, when and where the provincial Grand Officers, Past Officers, with the Worshipful Masters, Past Masters, and Wardens are summoned to attend, and at which all Master Masons are invited to be present. [Here follows the agenda.] At half-past three o'clock the brethren will assemble in the School-room in the Cathedral Cloisters, and from thence proceed, in their Masonic Clothing, to the Cathedral, for Divine Service, at four o'clock, when the Rev. H. T. Griffith, Felmingham Rectory, P.G.C., will preach a sermon. H. G. Barwell P.G. Sec. A. Banquet at Cooper's Restaurant, Bank-plain, Norwich, at 6 o'clock, at which the R.W. Prov. G.M. will preside. Tickets 11/ each (to include half a bottle of champagne), to be obtained of W. Bro. James Dunsford P.P.G.S.D., St. Giles'-street, Norwich, and of Bro. H. A. Wooster Reeves, No. 23 St. Giles'-street, Norwich, not later than Tuesday, the 14th inst."

Touching this migration to "Cooper's," we have received a letter from "A Mason," protesting against holding a Masonic banquet "under the roof of the greatest Atheist in the Eastern Counties, when we have such respectable hotels in our midst." These hotels are many of them Lodge houses, held by brethren, who naturally feel aggrieved that they should be passed over in favour of one—however good a caterer—who reviles at religion, and holds Freemasonry in contempt. The matter has created some stir among the Craft in the Province.

The nuptials of Bro. T. O. Buss, No. 147, of 33 Hatton Garden, and Miss Ellen Roberts, were celebrated on Monday, 13th inst., at St. Andrews Church, Holborn, in presence of a numerous assemblage of private friends and brethren, by the Rev. Mr. Brunt. Mendelssohn's March was played on the departure of the wedding party, who, forty-two in all, were conveyed in seven carriages to the Crystal Palace, where they sat down to a sumptuous déjeunor and dessert, provided by Bros. Bertram and Roberts. Bro. Buss, bridegroom, in appropriate terms, responded to the toast of the bride and bridegroom. Bro. S. Rawley, P.M. 174, made many complimentary remarks in recounting his early association with, and knowledge of Bro. Buss's good qualities; but to know him was to respect him as a good and charitable man. He hoped the step he had taken would open a source of happiness to him and his bride. Bro. Hall, Levy responded to the toast of the bridesmaids, and Bro. J. R. Stacey for the Visitors. As another old friend of Bro. Buss, Bro. Binckes testified to his excellent qualities. The health of Bro. Ray, who had the control of the day's proceedings, which gave great satisfaction, met with a hearty reception. Several ladies and gentlemen contributed to the amusement of the company, particularly Mrs. Bladen and Bro. THE OLD CONCORD LODGE, No. 172.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have read with interest Bro. Gould's paragraph respecting the Old Concord Lodge. I do not know where to address him direct, so will feel obliged if you will kindly inform him, with my compliments, that he need not remain in doubt about the exact date of its origin as the Lodge possesses the original warrant. At the present moment it is in the care of our W.M. Bro. Gaubert, 85 High-street, Kensington, who would, I have no doubt, be pleased to exhibit it to any one interested.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

ARTHUR E. GLADWELL,

(Old Concord 171).

"UNIFORMITY OF MASONIC RITUAL AND OBSERVANCE."

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The only unfavourable critique of the above work I have yet seen is that of your contemporary, The Freemason, in its number of the 11th inst. I should be sorry to attribute this to any other than a fair expression of opinion were it not for circumstances known to myself and relating to the existence of press rivalry. Nor should I notice it at all but for assertions which are not warranted by fact, and which, if uncontradicted, might materially influence for evil the decision of the question at issue. The first of these assertions is fully answered at pages 93-95 of the work itself, wherein is set out the difference of opinion of The Freemason in 1878 from that expressed by the same publication in 1870. What in the earlier year was designated "a great movement, deserving the serious attention of every thoughtful Mason," is now condemned as "meddlesome interference;" what then had "long been a source of mortification and pain to witness," it is now alike "unnecessary and uncalled-for" to attempt to remedy. "The promulgation of an 'orthodox,' and unchangeable ritual," which was then "one of the most desirable reforms," would now be "utterly injurious to industry and energy in our Officers, and to true and educated and sensible Freemasons." What was then "a strange anomaly," is now "an allowable difference." "The modest request which we are sure will be granted by Grand Lodge," now reads "we feel persuaded ourselves that Grand Lodge will never consent to any such proposition." Is this consistency? Does it warrant the statement, "We have never changed our opinion on this vexata questio?" Whilst I wrote on this subject in the pages of The Freemason, was ever a word printed adverse to the arguments I then advanced? On the contrary, the correspondent who is now credited with "zeal which, in our opinion, outruns his discretion," then "indicated a remedy which we believe would prove effectual." I could quote and quote to prove this glaring evidence of inconsistency, and also of many other departures from the truly Masonic manner in which your contemporary was originally conducted, setting aside altogether its late extraordinary articles wherein inverted commas shield slang epithets which are abusive of the Order it professes to represent, but cui bono? It will not be through the influence of The Freemason, or any other journal, that the "great movement" will have ultimate success, but through the sterling good sense of the intelligent portion of the brotherhood represented by the members of the Grand Lodge itself. My work is but a preparation for still greater efforts in that direction, and I am daily favoured by communications from all parts of the kingdom which will strengthen and increase my zeal without, as I believe and hope, lessening my discretion. I am not the first, nor shall I be the last, whom certain editors have deemed indiscreet because their opinions are outrageously opposed to any project not of their own introduction; but all powerful as the fourth estate may be, there are yet tribunals before which submission must be made if the judgment arrived at is a proper one. To such a tribunal amongst Masons I am about to appeal, well supported, I hope, by able and intelligent men, who see the errors I see and what they are leading to, and I await the result, whatever it may be, with a sound conviction that the required remedy will be, if not as soon as practicable, yet, at no distant date, carried into effect. Were it not so I could not accept, as I do, our late Bro. Oliver's 75th aphorism, "Whoever promulgates any new scheme for the benefit of Masonry must expect loud and reiterated applause if he be successful, and marked derision and degradation if he have the misfortune to fail." Pity it should be so! but no victory was ever yet won without a risk of defeat; and there would be no triumph without an adversary. I am equal to either fortune, and seem to let "I dare not wait upon I would."

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

JAMES STEVENS.

P.S.—I have sent a verbatim copy of this letter to the Freemason to be used by its Editor as he may see fit.—J. S.

Clapham, S.W., 13th Oct. 1879.

A WOMAN'S PLACE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR,—Your remarks on ladies joining Masons attending banquets are meant I know in good part. I, as a Mason's wife of twenty years' standing, must differ with you. I think an outing good for every man, and it would be selfish for any lady to deny her husband such pleasure, as she must know a little recreation is good, and if men are not to move without their wives, I am afraid they will become a henpecked lot. I am sure my wiser sisters will admit Masonry is not for ladies, nor have we any desire to join even in the social portion of the "work." I hope it will be a long while before ladies, spite the rapid strides women are making into men's pursuits, are initiated into Masonry, if only at the festive board, as undoubtedly a man's privilege only.

I am, Dear Sir,

ONE WHO LOVES HER LORD

Chapter of Fidelity, No. 477, Birkenhead.—The first meeting of this Chapter, after the recess, was held on Wednesday, the 1st instant, when the following Officers and members were present—Companions John G. Adams Z., John Dutton H., William Bennett J., Donald Fraser P.Z. Treas., Samuel Jones P.Z. S.E., Frederick Thompson S.N., Arthur K. Gardiner P.S., James T. Thompson and Enoch Evans Assist. Sojs., William Hopkinson D.C., James H. Holloway Janitor; Henry Seaman, James Marsh, George Lloyd, William Penk, Thomas Barrow, John West, Wm. Scholefield, James Thomson, Robert Hamilton, George Dicken, Alexander Russell, John Hooper, Charles Berry, and Thomas Shaw H. 605. The Chapter having been opened in ancient form, Bros. William J. Brenchley and Thomas Inglefield, of No. 477, and Frederick Smith, of No. 1276, were, in an effective and impressive manner, exalted to the supreme degree of Royal Arch Masons by the M.E.Z. Companion J. G. Adams. After the general business of the Chapter had been transacted, Companion Samuel Jones P.Z. and S.E., on behalf of the members of the Chapter, presented to Companion Donald Fraser P.Z. and Treasurer, a valuable Past Principal's Jewel, in recognition of the many valuable and important services rendered by him to the Chapter. Comp. Jones alluded to the many changes that had taken place both in the Mersey Lodge and Chapter of Fidelity since Companion Fraser had joined them, and although it had been his lot to encounter many difficulties and obstacles, he had never allowed himself to be turned aside from the object upon which he had set his heart—the promotion of the welfare and reputation of his Mother Lodge and Chapter; and Comp. Jones trusted Comp. Fraser might long be spared to wear the jewel which he placed upon his breast, and that the genuineness of its character might be the faithful index of the purity of the principles which reigned within. Comp. Fraser, in suitable and feeling terms, expressed his thanks to the Companions for the honour they had conferred upon him, and expressed his determination, while he had the opportunity and power, to promote the interests of the Chapter. The jewel, of pure gold, and enriched with diamonds, &c., elicited general admiration from the exquisite workmanship upon it, and gave every satisfaction both to the donors and recipient. After the closing of the Chapter the Companions sat down to dinner at the Ranelagh Hotel, provided by Comp. Charles Berry in excellent style, after which the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts were duly given and responded to, the evening being passed in the most enjoyable manner.

Windsor Castle Chapter, No. 771.—The installation meeting was held at the Masonic Temple, Windsor, on Thursday, and will be fully reported in our next. Ex. Comps. G. H. Powell P.G.S., W. B. Cantrell P.G.S.B., and J. O. Carter are the three newly-installed principals.

Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction.—The usual meeting of this Chapter of Instruction, which has now resumed its meetings for the season was held on Tuesday evening, 14th October, at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill. This Chapter, like the Lodge of Emulation in Craft Masonry, is looked upon as the authority for instruction in the superior degree, and is attended by some of the most efficient and best working R.A. Masons of the Metropolis. Comp. W. L. Lee presided as Z., F. Brown H., W. H. Kimpton J., H. Higgins P.S., G. L. Walker N. The ceremony of installation was rehearsed, Comp. Poore P.Z. of the Panmure Chapter 720 being the candidate, and he was afterwards elected as a member. The ceremony was excellently performed, and after some formal business the Chapter was adjourned until Tuesday, 21st October.

The installation of Bro. William Vincent as fourth W.M. of the Eccleston Lodge, No. 1624, took place at Grosvenor Hall, S.W., on Wednesday last. A full report of this most successful meeting will appear in our next.

A very successful meeting of the Sincerity Lodge, No. 174, took place on Wednesday. Report will appear next week.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Diarrhœa and Bowel Complaints.—These maladies are ever present, and if left unattended frequently terminate fatally. It should be everywhere known that both cholera and diarrhœa originate in the presence of some undigested substance in the stomach or bowels, or some deleterious matter in the blood, and that Holloway's Pills can expel either with ease and expedition. They concentrate in a surprising degree purifying, alterative, restorative, and strengthening qualities, and thus exert over every internal organ the wholesomely controlling influence so necessary for subduing excessive action in the human frame. Holloway's medicine may be advantageously taken as a means of keeping the blood pure and the body cool—the only practicable plan of maintaining health in youth, manhood, and old age

Hayward W.M. opened the Lodge in due form, assisted by the following Officers and brethren:—Bros. C. Veal S.W., J. Magrath J.W., T. Wooding S.D., Horsley J.D., Carrociero I.G.; also Bros. Past Masters W. Coleman I.P.M., Beck, Poore, Mortlock, Hayward, and Bros. T. Tyers, Tarling, Willetts, &c. Visitors—Bros. J. Bowron P.M. 933 and G. H. Stephens I.G. 1623. The minutes of the previous regular and an emergency meeting were read by the Secretary, Bro. H. T. Hardy, and were confirmed. The business on the agenda paper could not be carried out, owing to the unavoidable absence of the candidates for passing and initiation. This, however, furnished ample time for the brethren, on the opening night of a new season, to re-establish that entente cordiale which is so pleasant a feature in our Lodges. The brethren, after partaking of some light refreshment, paid the customary tribute of respect to the usual loyal and Craft toasts, in proposing which Bro. Hayward displayed great tact. The Visitors, Bros. Bowron and Stephens, were duly honoured, and both brethren briefly replied. The toast of the Past Masters, heartily received, elicited replies from several of that body. Bro. L. Beck thanked the brethren for the hearty reception of the toast. He was glad to see it had been a small quiet meeting, free from too much business. Bro. Poore also returned thanks, and said he had been greatly pleased to see the W.M. do his work so well, and to be quite able to do without his Past Masters, although they were there to render any service the Lodge might require. He was sure it was most gratifying to the brethren, and to the P.M.'s in particular. Bro. Mortlock returned his thanks. He had known the Lodge a long time, although not a P.M. of the Lodge, which he wished he had been, he had, first as a constant visitor, and now for some time past as its caterer, endeavoured to do all in his power for the welfare of the Lodge, and should continue so to do. The Officers' toast followed. This, the W.M. said, was a very important toast. No Lodge, whatever degree of perfection may be possessed by its Past Masters and W.M., can hope to be a good working and successful Lodge unless it has Officers who not only know their duties, but whose hearts are in their work. Good Officers are essential, and keep the Lodge in trim. Unfortunately this evening he had not had the pleasure of witnessing what his Officers could do, but at their future meetings he was sure they would find nothing wanting. Our S.W. Veal is a brother full of zeal, and no doubt will, when he attains the position of W.M., do his work admirably, and be a pattern Master. The J.W. Magrath is a promising Officer, and will do credit to any office he may be called upon to fill. Our S.D. Wooding is a first-rate member, and is coming forward in his working. If I can credit the whispers I hear, we shall find him a fitting brother, and wish we had had an opportunity of witnessing his work. The same remarks apply to our J.D. Horsley, who, we all know, to be qualified to do higher work than he at present has to perform. I hope it will not be long before he attains the highest position. The I.G. Carrociero's duty, although it may appear a small office, yet is a most important one, and I hope the brother who holds that office may work his way up to the highest post. In mentioning the Treasurer, Bro. P.M. Hayward, the W.M. said he felt very bashful, as his son, in proposing his health. Without him he should never have been able to fill his position, and it gave him great joy to see him in their midst. He has won the respect and esteem of all in this Lodge. Our Secretary, Bro. Hardy, has been called away through sickness, but we all know how he discharges his important duties. The toast was heartily received. Bro. S.W., in returning thanks, said he was afraid the W. Master's account of him was highly coloured. He was doing his best, and hoped to do the duties he might be called upon to perform with credit. Bro. Magrath also returned thanks. He was only a young member, but the Lodge might be sure of his best endeavours. Bro. Wooding endorsed the remarks of the previous speakers, and would endeavour to acquit himself with satisfaction to the Lodge. The other Officers also replied. The meeting, which was not large, was a most successful one, and a pleasant augury for the work just commenced. Bro. I.P.M. Coleman again performed excellent service on the piano, and also accompanied some good singers. Among the songs were, "Happy be thy dreams," and "The Wreath of Roses," from Bro. Poore; "Welcome, brothers, welcome friends," from Bro. Mortlock; "The Father's Love" (Lurline), Bro. G. H. Stephens; an old song of Sheridan's, "The Bottle," from P.M. Beck; Henry Russell's stirring "Ship on Fire," from Bro. Willetts; Bro. Tyers also sang, and Bro. Veal contributed two humorous songs, causing great enjoyment. Thus the time sped happily on, and the brethren retired at a reasonable hour to seek their homes.

Worsley worked the five sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was closed in the second degree. Bro. Johnson was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. As already stated, the Fifteen Sections will be worked at this Lodge of Instruction on the 28th instant.

Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, 13th inst., at York, when there was a very large attendance of members and visitors, the Lodge room being quite filled. Amongst those present were Bros. J. S. Cumberland W.M., C. G. Padel S.W., J. T. Seller J.W., T. B. Whytehead I.P.M. P.P.G.D.C., J. Kay Sec., T. Humphries Asst. Sec., M. Millington S.D., T. D. Smith J.D., G. Simpson M.C., A. T. B. Turner Asst. M.C., G. H. Simpson Organist, J. Blenkin I.G., W. Hill and G. H. Hebblethwaite Stewards, J. Ware, W. P. Husband, Girling, Jackson, Dyson, Marshall, Atkinson, Clark, Briggs, and others. Amongst the Visitors were Bros. J. Hanley W.M. St. Patrick's Lodge, J. Todd P.M. 236 P.P.G. Reg., and several brethren of the York and St. Patrick's Lodges. A successful ballot for a candidate having been taken, the Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. J. Davies was passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. The Lodge was then opened in the third degree, and Bro. W. G. Carter was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, the ceremonies being throughout worked in a perfect manner by the W.M. The Lodge was then lowered to the first degree, and on the proposition of Bro. T. B. Whytehead P.M., seconded by the W.M., Bros. W. J. Hughan P.G.D., A. M. Broadley, D.D., G. Master of Malta, and Charles E. Meyer P.G.H.P. Pennsylvania, U.S., were elected honorary members of the Lodge; Bro. Whytehead referring, in high terms, to the services rendered by these brethren to Masonry, and to the honour which would accrue to the Lodge by their names being enrolled on the list of honorary members. This being the first meeting of the Lodge since the meeting of the Prov. Grand Lodge under its banner, votes of thanks were moved by the W.M., and passed, to the Dean of York for the use of the Minster; to Bro. Dr. Monk, Mus. D., for the musical arrangements; to the Lord Mayor of York for the use of the Guildhall and Mansion House, as well as his great hospitality; to Bro. Major Shaw-Hellier and the Officers of the 4th Dragoon Guards for the use of the Band without expense; to Bro. W. S. Smith, Bandmaster, for his services to Lieut. Col. York and the Officers of the West Yorkshire Rifle Volunteers for the use of seats, &c., and to several brethren of the Lodge for special aid on the occasion, as also to the W.M. and brethren of the York Lodge for the loan of several objects of Masonic interest on view at the Conversazione. It was then determined that the sum of ten guineas, being a proportion of the collection at the Minster on the occasion, should be placed on the list of the Brother who should represent the Lodge at the next Benevolent Festival. Ten guineas from the Charity Fund of the Lodge was also voted as the nucleus of a list for the next Festival of the Girls' School. Thus the Lodge will be well represented at the next year's Charity Meetings. During the evening it was mentioned that Bro. Sir James Meek P.M. was announced to act as Steward at the Benevolent for the York Lodge 236, and that that Lodge had voted ten guineas to his list, and also that Bro. the Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett would represent the Zetland Chapter 236, so that the City of York was setting a good example to the whole Province. A satisfactory report from the Treasurer was received, and laid upon the Secretay's table. The next business was the election of W.M. for the ensuing year, and the unanimous choice of the Lodge fell upon the S.W. Bro. Christian G. Padel, who returned thanks to the Lodge for the honour done him. Bro. G. Balmford P.M. was unanimously re-elected Treasurer and Bro. Paul Pearson was also re-elected Tyler, the W.M. taking the opportunity of thanking Bro. Pearson for his uniform and unwearied attention at all times. Bro. J. S. Cumberland was then re-elected as the representative of this Lodge in the Provincial Charities Committee, and sincere wishes were expressed in the Lodge that during the coming year the Charity Organisation might be thoroughly completed and placed in working order. Bro. G. Ayre P.M. 1416, Thirsk, Prov. J.G. Deacon, was then proposed and seconded as a joining member. Bro. Padel presented to the Lodge a Masonically bound copy of Pauer's Organ March Book for the use of the Lodge, Bro. G. H. Simpson presented a copy of the Freemason's Pocket Companion (17—), and several other minor gifts were mentioned, for all of which hearty votes of thanks were returned. The Lodge was then closed. The Installation Ceremony will take place on the 10th November.

West Middlesex Lodge of Instruction, No. 1612.—At the meeting of this Lodge held at the Feathers Hotel, Ealing, on Thursday, 2nd October, there were present—Bros. J. Green W.M., Gasson S.W., W. The Lodge was opened in second degree, and advanced to third degree, and the ceremony of raising was very well rendered by the W.M. Bro. Arnold being the candidate. Bro. T. J. Arnold, of the Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780, was elected a member. The Lodge was then closed in due form, and the meeting adjourned to 16th October, Bro. Gasson to preside.

West Smithfield Lodge, No. 1623.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on the 2nd inst., at Bro. T. Butt's, New Market Hotel, Snow-hill, E.C. The business before the Lodge was to initiate a gentleman into the Order who had been several times unable to attend the regular meetings, owing to being engaged at sea. Bro. J. Howes P.M. The notice convening the meeting was read by the Secretary. The candidate, Mr. Edmond Pettett, now being in attendance, was initiated into the mysteries of the Order in a very impressive manner. After the ceremony the W.M. addressed to Bro. Pettett some appropriate remarks upon his leaving England, and gave him some good advice. Two brethren were then tested, thus proving satisfactory, Bros. C. H. Smith and W. H. Smith were duly passed to the second degree, and Lodge was closed. There was no banquet, but the W.M. invited the brethren to spend a short time with him. The usual loyal toasts were honoured, and the initiate was paid the usual compliment. The W.M., with much humour, gave the toasts of the "Officers," of whom he spoke highly, and the "Lay Members." The whole of the proceedings were of a most enjoyable character which was due partly to the genial influence of Bro. J. Howes, who is an old and experienced P.M., and the excellent musical efforts of Bro. Egbert Roberts, Organist, who is a great acquisition to the Lodge, which possesses several musical members.

Head expressive of their sympathy with him in his affliction. The Secretary then read letters of regret at being unable to attend from Bros. P.M. Noke, Dickman, Woolgar and Pile. The Lodge was then closed in perfect harmony and the brethren afterwards assembled in the spacious Market Room of the Hotel, and did full justice to a substantial repast, served by Bro. MANY of whom this question is asked will say, I can read it and write it, but can't speak it. A neat little volume for the Pocket has just been published by an Ex-Inspector of Public Schools; all the most useful verbs as used in ordinary conversation are therein embodied, alphabetically arranged on an entirely new plan, and printed in large type in French and English, a most rapid system, indispensible to teachers and other persons teaching themselves the language. NEW MASONIC TEMPLE, ST. JOHN'S, NEW BRUNSWICK.

SOME few months since we drew attention to a Masonic Fair which the brethren of St. John's, New Brunswick, contemplated, for the purpose of raising funds to enable them to build a Masonic Temple, to replace that destroyed by the fire of 1877, when the greater part of the City was laid in ruins. We now have pleasure in recording the success which has attended their efforts. Articles for sale were received from numerous friends, while others made it their duty to provide comfort and enjoyment for those who attended the Fair. The latter body must have had no light task, for we read in the official publication issued in connection with the Fair that as many as three thousand persons were present at various time. The ladies and others more intimately associated in the labour of the undertaking having consented, it was decided to continue the Fair for a second week, and at the conclusion of that time an evening Promenade Concert was arranged, as a compliment to the ladies who contributed so much to the success of the undertaking. At the time of closing the Fair the Committee found themselves still in possession of a number of articles, and they decided to remove them to a store, in order that, as far as possible, they should be disposed of in the ordinary way of business. It is proposed to continue the sale in this way until Christmas, when an auction will be held of the articles then remaining, and the whole matter cleared off. We hope when this shall have been effected the brethren will find themselves in possession of a sum worthy of the cause for which they have worked, and that for many years their Masonic Temple may stand, a record of what can be accomplished by hearty co-operation and united effort.

A few details of the building—which, from a drawing in THE VOICE OF MASONRY we imagine, when finished will be an elegant structure—may not be uninteresting to our readers, as they may serve to show the outlay necessary for such an undertaking, and may induce some of our brethren to undertake the providing of homes for the Craft in the mother country. The cost is set down at 80,000 dols., the plot of ground on which the building is situated has a frontage of 100 feet, with a depth of 200 feet. The adjoining plot is occupied by Trinity Church, which, standing about 100 feet back from the street line, allows an uninterrupted view of the side of the Masonic building, and affords in many ways advantages which could not otherwise have arisen. The ground floor is divided into five stores running from front to rear, three of which have warerooms over, the other portion of the second floor being set apart for Masonic business. The third floor comprises a hall 14 by 34 feet, at the further end of which is the entrance to the Blue Lodge or main room of the building; this room, which is 64ft. long, 33 wide, and 30 high, has the usual ante rooms attached, and is to be finished in first-class manner. On the opposite side of the hall is a room (30½ ft. by 42 ft.)—to be used by the Knights Templars—which has two large armouries attached. On the next floor accommodation is provided for Royal Arch Chapters, and a banquet hall, 33½ ft. by 22½ ft., takes the remainder of the space. Every improvement that can add to the comfort of the building is to be introduced, and we think when finished the brethren of St. John's will possess as handsome and spacious a Temple as they can reasonably desire.

As we have before announced, the sale of fancy articles continues until Christmas, so that, should any of our friends wish to assist their Transatlantic brethren in their laudable desire, ample opportunity is still open to them. Any contributions sent to Bro. J. W. Bone, care of Messrs. Faudel, Phillips and Co., Newgate-street, London, or to Bro. E. R. Kimpton, 3 Summer-row, Birmingham, will be faithfully applied for the benefit of the desired object.

GRAND LODGE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

THE last official abstract of proceedings of this grand body comprises particulars of a Special Communication held at Salem, on Thursday the 24th of June, and of the regular Quarterly Communication of September, which was held in the city of Boston on the 10th of that month. At the first named there were present Charles Alfred Welch Grand Master, Abraham H. Howland jun. Deputy Grand Master, and numerous Present and Past Grand Officers. The special objects for which the meeting was held were the celebrating the Feast Day of St. John the Baptist, and more especially for the commemoration of the Centennial Anniversary of the institution of Essex Lodge, and of the introduction of Masonry into Salem. Grand Lodge was opened at 11.45. At twelve o'clock a procession was formed in Washington-square, and proceeded, under escort of the Winslow Lewis and Newburyport Commanderies of Knights Templar, to the Hall of the Essex Lodge, where the Grand Master and other Grand Officers were received and escorted to the Universalist Church. Here appropriate services were performed, the Rev. Bros. E. C. Bolles, Fielder Israel, and Bartlett acting as Chaplains. An oration, having reference to the formation of Essex Lodge, and the establishment of Masonry in Salem, was delivered by Bro. Tracy P. Cheever, Recording Grand Secretary. At the close of the services in the church, the procession reformed, and the brethren marched to the banquet-hall, where a sumptuous entertainment had been provided by the entertaining brethren. Among the guests during this part of the day was the Mayor of the city, Henry K. Oliver. The customary toasts were given; the Grand Master took the opportunity of addressing the large assemblage on the peculiar significance of the day, and expressed the hope that those who would celebrate the next centennial of Freemasonry in Salem might be as happy as those engaged in that of 1879. At the conclusion of the banquet, the Grand Officers were again escorted to the Lodge hall, and in due course Grand Lodge was closed.

At the Quarterly Communication of 10th September, the Grand Master again presided. On this occasion he was supported by the Grand Officers of the year, numerous D.D.G. Masters, Past Grand Masters, Past Officers, and representatives from ninety-one of the Lodges under his jurisdiction. The records of the last regular Communication and of the special one held at Salem were duly confirmed, after which the bye-laws of various Lodges were presented for approval. A communication from the Grand Lodge of New South Wales, requesting further consideration of the subject of their recognition, was referred to a committee, as was also a petition for a new Lodge at South Westport. The reports of committees which had been appointed by Grand Lodge on various subjects were brought forward and accepted. Satisfaction was expressed at the action taken by the Lodges throughout the jurisdiction in regard to the discharge of the debt of the Grand Lodge, and the Grand Master also congratulated the brethren upon the success of the movement which had been commenced for the payment of that debt. Many of those, he said, who at first had expressed an adverse opinion to the method which had been adopted for raising the necessary funds, had, upon reflection, and more careful examination, become satisfied, and were now working with zeal and energy to carry it out. No further business offering, the Grand Lodge was closed in ample form, with prayer by Rev. Joshua Young, Grand Chaplain.

THE BIBLICAL FOUNDATION OF FREEMASONRY.

From the Voice of Masonry.

"WHERE in the Bible can I find the principles or groundwork of Masonry?" said Anthony Trollope to me one day, as the topic of conversation turned upon that thought.

"I am not aware that there is any particular point or part of the Bible that becomes its foundation more than another."

"I supposed that if it had a foundation upon the Bible it should point a particular command or fact."

"Have you ever found any place where it has been said by Christ or the Apostles, 'Thou shalt organise a church?'"

"No."

"Where do we found the organisation of the Christian church of the present day?"

"Upon a number of facts, viz.; the promise of a Messiah, the coming of Christ, His baptism, life, suffering, death, resurrection, and finally His command, 'Go ye into all the world,' &c. After that, the meetings of the Apostles, their organization into societies, and step by step until we have the Church in its present form."

"From this, then, I learn that you have no direct command, but a chain of circumstances and the growth of history."

"True, but I have never been able to find such a chain of circumstances as these to favour the organizationof societies like Masons or Odd Fellows."

"To organize a society upon the Bible, does it follow that there must be a command? Certainly not, for that you have already developed. Does it follow that it must be a single thought or historic fact? No, for that is seen in the many that enter into the organization of the church. Must it be based on a certain principle? No, for one principle cannot embody all."

"That may be true, but in Masonry I do not find any chain of circumstances leading me back to the days of the Saviour, as I do in the church."

"Well you are aware of the claim for the ancient orgin of Masonry."

"Yes, but I do not believe it."

"Well, I do not know that its ancient or modern origin is of any importance or value to the argument of a Bible origin. Suppose, in reading the Bible, I find a beautiful thought, allegory, parable, or historic fact, in which I see a principle which I can illustrate in a number of ways, and by which I can impress men in a way to do them good. I enter into the work of developing it, in doing which I bring out a set of forms, ceremonies and truths that make men better, and I gather a number of men together to assist in administering them to others, and after awhile find that I have quite a society around me, have I not founded that society upon the Bible?"

"Certainly, upon a principle taught therein."

"That being the case it does not matter whether Freemasonry is of ancient or modern origin; whether it was commanded or organized by Moses or Solomon, or some one of later date, impressed with some one or more truths found in the Bible, but as its foundation is upon principle and facts found there and nowhere else it is certainly founded upon that sacred volume. I have, then, no need of any argument of its antiquity to establish the evidence of its foundation."

"I see, but even then there must be something more than mere truth or principle; for I find that certain truths in the Bible were also the truths of ancient Greek and Roman philosophy, and if you have merely truth and precept it may be a relic of ancient heathenism, as is claimed by many of its opposers."

"But you have already agreed that a fact may enter into this organization as well as principle. If, now, I find a precept or principle common to heathen philosophy and Bible teaching, and then find a fact, or history, that is peculiarly biblical, I am justified in the assertion of its biblical origin."

"True, but the forms and ceremonies were things belonging to heathenism."

"But do we not also remember that the forms of worship, their ceremonies, sacrifices, circumcision and purifications, were inductive and sacred means attending the work of the Jewish Church? Was not baptism a means of induction into the Christian Church after circumcision was done away, and was not the sacrament of the Lord's Supper introduced as a means of worship in the later church? Because we find things of similar character in heathen religion we do not charge Christianity as being the relic of barbarism; we can, therefore, with no more reason lay that charge to Masonry. We therefore, do not have to point to any single thing or thought to establish a Bible foundation."

"I understand, then, that Masonry has for its foundation a number of facts peculiar to the Bible alone; that its principles, though found in the Bible and heathen philosophy, were taken because they were in the one without reference to the other; that your ceremonies are inductive and for the purpose of inculcating the divine principle; if that is so I cannot see any justice in the charge of its being a relic of barbarism. Am I correct?"

"You are."

"That being correct, where do you point to the facts? I cannot take virtue, because I find that in ancient philosophy; nor faith, for that is a natural principle evidenced in all men; nor charity, for I find that, in certain conditions, everywhere; nor love, because I find that a constitutional element in man and animals. To substantiate your statement you must produce other matters that I find only in the divine writings, and that must be a divine command or its result."

"I may direct you to the prayers to the Almighty, but you will meet the argument by saying the heathen prayed to their gods; but if I direct you to the words used in the work, 'Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity! it is like the precious ointment upon the head, that ran down upon the beard, even Aaron's beard, that went down to the skirts of his garment; as the dew of Hermon, and as the dew that descended upon the mountains of Zion;' you have thoughts and references that are peculiar to none but GOD's word. If I refer you to the name Boaz, one of the pillars in Solomon's temple, you will not recognize it as belonging to any heathen, nor modern temple: nor if I refer you to its constant references to Jerusalem will you find any heathenism there, because that city was peculiarly GOD's city. I turn your thoughts, then, to the incidents of Ruth and Boaz, as being peculiar to the Bible, and Jewish customs; also to the constant reference to the many things connected with Solomon's temple. I grant that there were temples among other nations, but we are to bear in mind the fact that no temple reference in Masonry will at any time apply to any other than Solomon's, neither in its symbols nor facts. Then as to Freemasonry's acknowledgment of the Supreme Architect of the Universe, that can apply to nothing but the ancient Jewish thought. Although ancient philosophy recognized a great creative, unknown power, yet it was not so specific in its reference as what we find in this. Then, referring farther back in history to the crossing of the Red Sea by Moses and the children of Israel; to the character and work of St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist; to the dream of Jacob where he saw the angels ascending and descending the ladder; to the plumb-line spoken of in the prophecies of Amos; to the valley of Jehosaphat, the wailing place of the Jews; to the altar in Solomon's temple, and to its middle chamber; to the character of its pillars; to the Jewish Sabbatic year; to the crossing of the river where the distinction in pronouncing Shibboleth was the death warrant of the enemy in the Ephraimitic and Ammonitish war; to the character of Hiram of Tyre in his alliance with Solomon King of Israel; to the expressions of Ecclesiastes, 'Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh when thou shalt say I have no pleasure in them. * * ;' and to the circumstances of the death of the masterbuilder of the temple. All of these take a wide range of Bible history, and a history that is found, nowhere else. Now, if these are the principal parts of Masonic organization, can it be denied that so far it has a foundation in Bible history, not to say precepts? for in this I have purposely omitted the precepts, because, as you have said, they may be found elsewhere. Now, if for its foundation Freemasonry has these facts, and the corresponding precepts and principles which are also found in that book, is any one justified in separating these and charging even a combination of biblical and heathen origin?"

"No, because the principles are perfectly consistent with the facts."

"We will, then, carry the thought a little further, and in the SAVIOUR's parables we find the workman who began at the close of the day receiving the wages of him who had borne the heat and burden of the day; then we return again to the thoughts, 'The earth is the LORD's, and the fulness thereof. * * Who shall ascend into the hill of the LORD? and who shall stand in His holy place. * * This is the generation of them that seek Him, that seek thy face, O Jacob! * * The LORD, strong and mighty; the LORD mighty in battle. Lift up your heads, O ye gates,' &c. A perfect acknowledgment of GOD and the coming Messiah; besides numbers of other quotations from the written word. Then the representation of the holy fire that came down and consumed the sacrifices upon the altar of the temple. So we pass on to the admonition 'to be fervent in our devotions to GOD,' to the rebuilding of the temple, and on, in higher degrees, to the crucifixion and finally to the resurrection of CHRIST, embodying also the teachings of a life in immortality, or a faith in GOD, and the redeeming principles of a divine faith. Now, in all these, I have delineated only a part, a mere synopsis of the foundation principles of Masonry, and in none of them do I recognize anything that I find is allied to the principles or practices of heathenism. I therefore, after a thorough examination and study, have been unable to detect anything but that which is taken from the Word, save only such forms or words as are necessary to connect the different words or facts for the purposes of the work."

"You have a larger groundwork than I thought."

"Yes, and you will also see that the same thing you showed to be a foundation of the Church, 'a number of facts,' is the groundwork of Freemasonry. The main principles are the same."

"Will you argue, then, that the organization of Masonry is by divine authority, as we argue for the church."

"No, I will not take that ground."

"Will you argue that it is a church, and necessarily a form of religion?"

"No. Though there have been arguments that it was the ancient church, I will try nothing of the kind. I do not believe it to be a church, nor do I believe it a form of religion, and I think him mistaken who does. Nor do I think it a means of salvation, notwithstanding its beautiful precepts, teachings and examples; but I believe if a man desires spiritual salvation he must receive it through the medium of the church. I believe Masonry to be a voluntary organization of men, founded upon some of the grandest teachings of GOD's word and designed to lift men up into better lives, if they will follow what they are taught. I see men led into better thoughts, and, though they are not always better men in general practice, I find them better in their fraternal action, in taking a wider and deeper thought in charity."

"THE DAWN OF HISTORY," AND
"ANCIENT EGYPTIAN BRETHREN."

By Bro. Jacob Norton.

VOLTAIRE wound up his Philosophical Dictionary as follows:—"Given at Mount Krapac, the 30th of the month of Janus, in the year of the world—

According to Scaliger	5722
According to Les Entrennes Mignonnes	5776
According to Ricioli	5956

According to the Egyptians	370,000
According to the Chaldeans	465,102
According to the Brahmins	780,000
According to Philosophers	——

Had any one published the above in Switzerland, either before or immediately after the Reformation, he would probably have been burnt for doubting the orthodox belief in the age of the world. In a book before me, however, viz., "The Dawn of History" (by C. F. Keary), though the author does not try to guess the age of the world, yet he evidently believes the world to be much older than we were once taught to believe.

Evidences of the existence of man upon the earth exist as far back as the glacial period. At that time, the now British Isles formed part of the Continent. If I understand the author rightly, there was then neither an Irish Sea nor a North Sea. Scotland and Denmark in the north, and France and England in the south, joined each other alike. The Thames and other eastern rivers were then tributaries to a large stream, which bore through this Continent and up to the Northern Seas, wherein mingled the waters of the English rivers with those of the Rhine and other German rivers. Spain was then united to Africa, and Africa itself extended as far as the Azore Islands. The Great Sahara was then part of the Mediterranean, in which was embraced the Red Sea; and a great Mediterranean Sea existed then in Central Asia, of which the Caspian and Arab seas are merely traces.

The melting of the glaciers gave rise to enormous rivers, which flowed from every hill; the now little river Ouse, flowing through Norfolk into the Wash, was then, probably, many miles broad. Vast forests grew upon the river banks, which left their traces in the peat formations, and in those forests roamed animals unknown to us. The most notable of these was the mammoth, a huge elephant, whose skeleton and gigantic tusks are conspicuous in our museums, and who has given its name to this earliest age of man's existence, or what is known to us as such; it is called the "Mammoth Age." With the mammoth, too, lived other species of animals which are either now extinct, or have been driven away from our latitudes. The woolly rhinoceros, the cave lion, and cave bear, the Lithinrian bison, the urus, the reindeer, and the musk ox. It is with the remains of these animals, in the beds of the great rivers, that we find the earliest tools and weapons made by human hands.

We can scarcely conceive how man could live through so many ages in this world of ours before he discovered minerals and metals. "The pen I write with" (says Mr. Keary) "is of metal, or if it were a quill the steel knife would have to shape it; the rags of which this paper is made had to be cut by metal knives," and so it is in almost every department of human wants. But the primitive man, who had no knowledge of the metallic treasures hidden in the earth, sought for his materials to make tools of on the surface of the earth only, and finding stone to be the hardest substance, so he made his implements out of stone. This period is called "The Stone Age," and its duration was very long. This age is divided into two distinct periods, viz., "the old stone epoch," so-called because the implements were never polished, and "the new stone period," called also "the polished stone age," and, during the greater part at least of this stone period, the condition of life was the same as that of the arctic regions of the present time.

These stone implements are found associated with the remains of the mammoth and woolly rhinoceros, animals naturally belonging to the arctic or semi-arctic climates which succeeded the glacial era. But similar implements are also found associated with the bones of the lion, the tiger, and the hippopotamus, all of which, especially the last, are rarely living outside of the torrid zone. This shows that the drift implements sufficed for man's wants through a succession of changes of temperature—from that of the frigid to that of the torrid climate, and probably after the climate became again temperate; and under all these conditions, frigid, torrid, and temperate, man had to defend himself from the attacks of all kinds of animals with mere stone weapons, and not of the most improved make either. Surely, in those old times England could not have been for man "a happy land."

The author next introduces us to a little more advanced state of human civilisation. Thus, in caves generally formed in limestone rocks the most remarkable "finds" have been obtained in Devonshire; also in the department of Dordogne, in France; from caves in Belgium, and from a very remarkable cave in Neanderthal, near Dusseldorf, in Germany. But there is scarcely a country in Europe where some cave containing human bones and weapons has not been discovered. The rudest drift implements seem older than almost any found in caves, and on the whole the cave implements indicate an advance in civilisation from that of the drift period. Thus, in addition to stone, are found also implements made of bone, such as harpoon heads, with many barbs, arrow-heads made both of stone and of bone, they also found awls made of stone, likewise knives and needles made of bone. The author thinks that with the awls they pierced holes in the skins of animals designed for clothing, and the sinews of the animals formed the thread to sew the skins with. Man then began to be a tailor, or, more properly, something betwixt the tailor and the furrier. So he was then a manufacturer of stone implements, and of clothing too; he must also have formed wooden handles for his harpoon heads, which gave rise to the carpenter trade. But there is also evidence that the principle of political economy, viz., "division of labour," as well as that of commerce, was practised at that time. For in one of the caves was found such a large quantity of stone implements, as to leave no doubt that the owner of the cave made the manufacture of that article a speciality; and specimens of amber, which can only be found on the coast of the Baltic, were discovered in caves in Central Europe: thus, some exchange of the natural and manufactured productions of different parts of the country must have then been going on.

Poor as man's implements were in those days, he nevertheless actually found time to cultivate the Fine Arts, for both stone and bone implements were found on which were sculptured faithful imitations of heads of animals, as well as other objects; and in a cave of La Madeline, in Dordogne, was found a tusk of a mammoth, upon which was an engraving of the animal itself: thus proving that the mammoth was a contemporary of that man, for otherwise he could not have made a delineation thereof. All these facts demonstrate clearly that Voltaire's philosopher was right in not pretending to know how old the world was.

For obvious reasons, I cannot follow the author's narrative through the successive steps of man's further advance towards a higher state of civilization. It seems, however, highly probable that even during the stone age man must have hungered for some method to supply the deficiency of his memory. His first effort in that direction was probably to make a mark, and to tell his children what that mark meant to commemorate. Such mark, wherever or whenever made, may truly be called the embryo, or parent of our alphabet and literature, for we may naturally suppose that one kind of mark could not commemorate everything; hence additional marks had to be designed, and the meaning of them had also to be impressed on the mind of the younger generation. We will now suppose that the man who slew a mammoth wished to commemorate that event. In that case, the picture of slaying the mammoth, perhaps followed by a picture of the moon in either of her phases, with pictures of trees or flowers, to denote the season, would convey an idea to posterity of the event, and the time of the month and year. But be that as it may, it is certain that such picture writing existed in Egypt before the invention of the alphabet, which is called "Egyptian hieroglyphics." These are formed of pictures of beasts, birds, and fishes; also that of a hand, of a heart, of an eye, a circle, &c. Now, as our pictorial Masonic Manuals contain also the picture of a heart, an eye, a circle, &c., our Masonic luminaries jumped therefore to the conclusion that the ancient Egyptians had speculative Freemasons, and that the same symbolism they taught in their Lodges about the eye, heart, circle, &c., came down to us through successive generations of Masons, and hence they talk about "our ancient Egyptian brethren," and about an "affinity" between our mysteries and those of the ancient Egyptians. Our Scotch Rite, Memphis Rite, and other moonshine rites luminaries will even swear that there was then in Egypt Supreme Councils and Thrice Illustriouses. In our Boston Masonic Temple there is an "Egyptian Hall," wherein, by order of the late C. W. Moore, was painted on the wall Egyptian hieroglyphics, among which is the picture of a bird. I suppose it was meant for a pelican (which is a very important symbol in the A. and A. Rite), to show a connecting link between the symbology of the Egyptian Thrice Illustriouses and the present ones.

The truth, however, is, no one knows anything about the Egyptian mysteries, but it is known that the pictures, or hieroglyphics, represent either words, sentences, or syllables; they were placed on the Egyptian buildings to commemorate certain events for the information of posterity, and these hieroglyphics were no more mysterious to the ancient educated Egyptians than the inscriptions in our churches and churchyards are mysterious to our grammar-school boys.

To make the idea of picture writing still more clear, I must remind the reader of a rebus, which is really in part picture writing. Now suppose a rebus was placed before an intelligent youngster, upon which was a picture of a pair of scales, followed by the word "of," and next to "of" was a picture of a judge, the child would guess that signified the scales of justice. The Egyptians, however, had no letters then to convey the idea of the word "of," so they had either to vary the picture, or had some other picture to denote the verb. Thus, a heart, drawn in a certain way, always stood for love, and, so far as I know, they may have called their lady loves sweethearts. An eye, with a tear on the lash, meant grief. Two hands, holding a shield, combine the verb and noun, viz.—to fight. A tongue meant to speak; a man, kneeling, denoted a conquered enemy. But here are pictures denoting only syllables—thus the word "Os," in the Egyptian language was used for throne, and iris meant an eye; hence the picture of a throne, followed by that of an eye, read Osiris, the name of an Egyptian deity: and, in like manner, a hand they called "tot," and a circle "tro." When, therefore, the picture of a hand was followed by a circle it stood for "totro," which was the name of one of their kings.

We see, then, that notwithstanding the ecstacies our luminaries manifest when talking about "our ancient Egyptian brethren," and about the affinity between our mysteries and those of the ancient Egyptians, &c., that there is really nothing in the Egyptian hieroglyphics to denote mystery, &c., and there is really not a particle of evidence that either Egyptian priests or Egyptian Masons regarded the pictures of the heart, the eye, the circle, &c., as either mystic, sacred, or what we call Masonic. And such being the case, I think it is high time for our luminaries to cease deluding themselves and others with the notion that our Speculative Masonry either originated in Egypt, or that it was ever known to the ancient Egyptians.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

CRUSADERS LODGE, No. 1677.

THIS Lodge held its Installation Meeting at the New Market Hotel, King Street, Smithfield, E.C., Bro. Butt, proprietor, on the 8th Oct. The reason of this Lodge leaving its old quarters is, that the Knights of St. John require the exclusive use of the Lodge rooms at St. John's Gate, thereby compelling Bro. Gay, reluctanly, to part with the Lodge, of which he is a member and Officer. Bro. Hunter W.M. opened the Lodge in the usual form, Bro. Simmonds S.W., Bro. T. Goode J.W., Bro. Rothschild S.D., Bro. Millward J.D. The minutes of the last regular meeting, and of two emergency meetings were read and confirmed, and the Auditors' report was received and passed. The W.M. opened the Lodge in the second degree, Bros. Mount, Keiller, Gilbert and Scull being candidates for raising. The W.M. having put the usual questions, the brethren were entrusted and retired. The Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and the brethren were raised in the W.M.'s usual impressive style. The Installation of the W.M. elect Bro. T. Goode was the next business; Bro. Dr. Hunter being Installing Master, Bro. P.M. Maples D.C.; the ceremony was performed most creditably by Bro. Hunter. The brethren being admitted, and the W.M. proclaimed, the following received the collars of office:—Bro. Simmonds S.W., Rothschild J.W., Millward S.D., Calderwood J.D., Pigott I.G., Gay D.C., W. Goode J.W.S. The addresses having been given, the W.M. proceeded to take the ballot for the following gentlemen for initiation:—Messrs. James Fletcher, W. Aynsley, J. H. Budden, and Edward Lenard. This proving satisfactory, the W.M. performed the ceremony, for the first time in the Crusaders Lodge, in a style that augurs well for his year of office. Business being finished, the brethren, nearly seventy in number, adjourned to the spacious Hall recently built by Bro. Butt, where a récherché banquet was provided, which did great credit to mine host of the New Market Hotel. The usual toasts followed. The banquet was enlivened by a selection of vocal and instrumental music, under the direction of our experienced Bro. Millward. Among the visiting brethren were Dr. Barringer P.P.S.G.W. Herts, Terry P.P.J.G.W. Herts, E. Bowyer Prov.S.G.D., Dr. Carpenter P.M. 1196, Price P.M. 1288, Pearcy W.M. P.M. 228, and many others.

ST. JOHN'S LODGE, No. 795.

THE brethren of this Lodge celebrated their anniversary on Wednesday, the 15th inst., at the Ray Mead Hotel, Maidenhead. Lodge was opened by the W.M. Bro. J. R. Foulger P.M. Nos. 177 and 613, who was assisted by W. H. C. Sharpe S.W., Cownie J.W., Sharpe Treas., H. H. Hodges P.M. P.P.G.S.W. Sec., Stollard S.D., J. C. Innes D.C., C. N. Harvey P.M. Steward, and Nowell Tyler. Among the Past Masters were Bros. J. Finch P.M. 173 and 180, Deacon, Ludovici, G. M. Williams, and others; while Bros. Drew P.M. 890, Jeffrey 891, Reed, and J. Greenfield Treas. 1602 comprised the Visitors. At the appointed time Bro. Foulger regularly opened the Lodge, and the minutes of the last meeting having been confirmed, the ballot was brought into requisition on behalf of Bro. T. B. Linscott S.D. 55, who was a candidate for joining, and the result proving in his favour, he was formally enrolled a member of the Lodge. The report of the Audit Committee, which showed that the Lodge, notwithstanding its charitable grants, was in possession of a considerable balance, was then presented and adopted, and this concluding the minor business of the day, Bro. W. H. C. Sharpe was presented as W.M. elect, for the benefit of installation. This portion of the day's proceedings was ably conducted by Bro. Finch P.M., who was especially thanked for having come forward to perform the ceremony on very short notice, the brother who was to have installed the Master being absent, in consequence of a domestic affliction. The W.M., in due course, invested the various Officers for the year, and then proceeded to close the Lodge in solemn form. During the interval before the banquet, the brethren had an opportunity of enjoying the lovely scenery of the locality, and the effect of the particularly cold day on the appetites of the brethren was presently visible in the heartiness with which they enjoyed the many good things provided, in plain but enjoyable and orderly form, by Bro. Deacon. Later in the evening the W.M. tendered the thanks of the brethren to the host, and congratulated him on the arrangements he had made for the comfort of his guests. The meeting was especially interesting from the fact that the Lodge this day attained its majority, and also that the W.M. was received into Freemasonry by the members of No. 795. In the course of the evening the W.M. invested the I.P.M. with an elegant jewel, which was suitably acknowledged by Bro. Foulger. In consequence of the much regretted death of Bro. Blake, the toasts were limited, but some able speeches were made, especially those of the W.M., who expressed his gratitude at having reached the summit of the ambition of every initiate in his Mother Lodge, and Bro. P.M. Finch, the Installing Master, to whom the brethren especially tendered their thanks through the W.M. Bros. P.M. Drew, Stollard, and Jeffrey having sung some excellent songs, particularly a sentimental one by the former, the brethren returned to town by an early train, in time to enable every member

In proposing the toast of the Grand Officers, the W.M. expressed his regret that Bro. Hyde Pullen, who had assisted at the Consecration of the Lodge, had found it impossible to be present on this occasion, and this regret was shared in by his hearers. The health of the W.M. Bro. Vincent was ably proposed by the I.P.M. Bro. Flattely, and his very happy and truthful remarks as to the services and ablitities of the W.M. met with a cordial reception. In contradistinction to many speeches we frequently hear, having for their subject the presiding Officer, this of Bro. Flattely's was free from fulsome laudation, which it is equally surprising that some amongst us should offer, and still more surprising that others should receive. The plain unvarnished truth is best for all, and the few reliable facts which Bro. Flattely referred to told a more honorable tale, and were far more complimentary to Bro. Vincent than any high flown language not based upon truth could have been. The W.M.'s response was characteristic of the man, and briefly and modestly expressed thanks for past support and hopes for the future. The toast of "the Past Masters" afforded the opportunity for presenting to Bro. Flattely the "Tertius" jewel of the Lodge, which he received with thanks. Bro. McLeod also responded, in a very able manner, and concluded a forcible address by a most appropriate quotation from John Fletcher—

"Our acts our angels are, or good or ill,
Our fatal shadows that walk by us still."

Bro. Hooper, the initiate, in returning thanks for his health, exhibited a modest confidence and reliance on his own powers of address which augurs well for his progress in Freemasonry. With the toast of the Visitors Bros. James Stevens P.M. 1426, J. Wire P.M. 1314, A. Barfield W.M. 35, and J. I. Cantle W.M. 1257, were named to represent the thirty-six brethren present in that capacity, and each briefly responded, Bro. Stevens taking occasion to express his high personal appreciation of the working of the Lodge, and his hope that at no distant date the Lodges generally throughout the kingdom would be required to work after the same system, or, if not exactly that, one which should be uniformly approved of and adopted. His remarks were listened to with considerable attention, and his brief arguments in favour of the project were accepted with much satisfaction. The Officers of the Lodge and the Tyler's toast brought to a conclusion an evening which, for thorough enjoyment, and the exposition of the sublime principles of Freemasonry, it would be difficult to improve upon.

THE HEMMING LODGE, No. 1512.

COMMENCED its sixth year of existence on Thursday, 16th Oct. By half-past five a goodly number of brethren had assembled at the Lion Hotel, Hampton, and shortly after Bro. Fox W.M. opened the proceedings, assisted by Bro. J. Hammond I.P.M., Jessett S.W. and W.M. elect, T. W. Ockenden J.W., Walls S.D., Kent J.D., Hiscox I.G., and Moody M.C. The minutes of the last meeting, in March, were read and confirmed. The Lodge was then opened in the second, and Bro. Jessett was presented by Bro. W. Hammond, the father of the Lodge, for the benefit of installation. After the Lodge had been advanced, Bro. Fox handed the gavel to Bro. John Hammond P.M. 201, &c. P.G.D. Middx., Bros. Hopwood P.G.S.B. Middx. Treas. and T. C. Walls P.G. Org. Middx. were entrusted with the care of the West and South respectively, and Bro. H. E. Frances P.P.G.D. Surrey P.M. 452 was appointed Master of the Ceremonies. The necessary exodus was made, and in the presence of a Board of Installed Masters, Bro. Jessett was inducted to the chair of King Solomon, and, on the re-admission of the brethren, was saluted according to ancient custom, and proclaimed (sixth) Worshipful Master of the Hemming Lodge. The following Officers were then invested for the year ensuing:—Bros. C. W. Fox I.P.M., T. W. Ockenden S.W., T. C. Walls J.W., E. Hopwood Treas. (re-elected), W. Hammond Sec. (re-appointed), F. W. Kent S.D., J. W. Hiscox J.D., T. Moody I.G., H. Tagg D.C., Day and Knowles Stewards, J. Gilbert P.G.T. (re-elected, sixth time) Tyler. The W.M. accompanied each investiture with a few appropriate remarks. The Installation ceremony was splendidly rendered, and a very hearty vote of thanks was given to Bro. John Hammond for his services. The W.M. presented the retiring Master, in the name of the Lodge, with a Past Master's jewel, for which Bro. Fox expressed his acknowledgments in a few well chosen words. This worthy brother has had a very successful year of office, and was warmly cheered at the conclusion of the presentation. The report of the Audit Committee was received and adopted, and Bro. Fox is to be congratulated that he hands the funds over in so flourishing a condition to his successor. There was a balance of from £60 to £70 in hand, and arrears due to the amount of about £20. In proportion to the total of subscriptions this latter is a small item, and we hope the brethren concerned therein will reduce it considerably before the next meeting. The sum of five guineas was voted from the Lodge funds for a brother in need. A letter was read from the R.W. Bro. Colonel Burdett P.G.M. Middx., regretting his absence, through severe domestic bereavement, and this sad intelligence was received by the brethren with much concern. All further business having been transacted, the meeting was declared adjourned until Thursday, 20th Nov., and the brethren retired to the banquet room. There was a considerable list of Visitors, including Bros. the Rev. C. H. Gem 321 P.P.G. Chaplain Cumberland, C. Hopekirk 179, Albert Marvin Lodge of Progress 1768, J. Robinson 784, A. Theokatz 754, H. McClelland 901, H. W. Linton W.M. of the Brownrigg 1638, T. Pinckney 1638. After the removal of the cloth the W.M. at once addressed himself to the toast list. For the P.G. Officers Bro. W. Hammond responded. The health of the Installing Master was drunk with great enthusiasm, and Bro. John Hammond, in replying, made especial reference to the great obligations he was under to his old and esteemed friend Bro. H. E. Frances, who had taught him all he knew of Freemasonry. Bro. Fox gave "The Worshipful Master," which was greeted with excellent fire. The W.M. assured the brethren he felt he was entering on his year of Office with perhaps brighter prospects than any of his predecessors, for however well things had succeeded in the past, no previous Master could boast of a better officered Lodge. The I.P.M.'s toast met with a hearty reception, and Bro. Fox expressed himself highly satisfied with the success attending his year of office. The Rev. Bro. Gem acknowledged his sense of the hospitality extended by the W.M. as his uninvited guest that evening. Bro. Marvin, the first initiate of the Sister Lodge (Wolsey 1656), responded in felicitous terms, and after some of the other visitors had returned thanks, the W.M. proposed the health of the Officers. Success to the Charities, coupled with the name of Bro. Walls. The Tyler's toast terminated one of the most enjoyable meetings the Hemming brethren have ever celebrated. Bros. Hurst P.M., Walls, Raw, Knowles, &c., very much contributed to the harmony of the evening by vocal efforts. Appended is a list of the brethren present not already mentioned:—Bros. H. Potter P.M., W. C. Davey, D. Papworth, W. Bartlett, J. Chilcott, W. Beauchamp, C. Finch, T. Wheeler, R. M. Axford, A. D. Tozer, E. Andrews, Grosvenor Phillips, W. L. Carpenter. Ere we conclude this report we may add that the Lion Hotel has just changed hands. Mr. Ballard is the new proprietor, and on this occasion he used every effort to make his guests comfortable. We wish him success in his new enterprise.

WINDSOR CASTLE CHAPTER, No. 771.

IT is now more than two years since we have had an opportunity to attend this prosperous Chapter, and our visit on the occasion of the Installation of Principals on Thursday, the 16th inst., was full of interest. The beautiful and almost unique Temple in which the Windsor Castle and Etonian Lodges, and the Windsor Castle Chapter meet, had always a vivid remembrance in our minds as one of the choicest homes for Freemasonry with which we are acquainted. Its special M.M. chamber, stalls, and organ are so many additional attractions, and fitting accompaniments to the serious work done within its walls, and whilst it has never since its erection been ill kept, it was always just such a place as one would delight to adorn and decorate. It therefore caused us much pleasure, and created but little surprise when we found, on our visit last week, that a recent work of artistic decoration had been carried out at a considerable expense and with judicious care. It would occupy more space than we can afford to enter into all the details of the ornamental improvements, and we must be content to refer only to the general effect as being such as merits the inspection of all members of our Order desiring to see for themselves what the arrangement of a suite of Masonic rooms should be. The appearance of the Temple, when set out for the performance of the Royal Arch Rite, is far in advance of anything we have met with elsewhere, and will at any time repay a visit. The Windsor Castle Chapter was founded in 1835, by a number of well known Windsor Companions, amongst when were Comps. Jos. Devereux, Joshua Nunn, the late Joseph Cotterell, the Rev. R. J. Simpson, and Sir C. J. Palmer, and prospered well until the latter end of 1868, when, from some unexplained cause, its regular meetings ceased. In 1872 Comp. James Stevens P.Z. undertook, at the request of the then remaining members, to resuscitate the Chapter, and, with the assistance of several London Companions, succeeded in re-establishing its regular meetings, and retained his position of M.E.Z. for three years, at the end of which period the former zeal and activity of the Royal Arch Masons in the locality were resumed, and their laudable exertions have now resulted in producing one of the most perfect and best working Chapters in the Order. Towards effecting this happy result the influence of artistic surroundings has contributed a large share, and it is well, therefore, that the Chapter should have joined the Lodges in "beautifying and adorning" their place of meeting. The Chapter was opened on the 16th inst. by Ex-Companions G. W. Dixon M.E.Z., G. H. Powell H., W. S. Cantrell J., with Ex-Companions James Stevens P.Z., J. S. Tolley P.Z., E. Grisbrook P.Z., H. H. Hodges P.Z., and Rev. R. J. Simpson P.J. and P.G.P.S., assisting, and the following Companions were present, viz:—J. O. Carter N., R. Roberts P.S., R. G. Barton, J. Ashby, L. Bryett, Cox, Davey, Nicholson, Nowell, J. Watson, J. Stedwell, J. Johnson, R. Silver, J. H. Reid, Legge, &c. The minutes of the preceding convocation having been confirmed, Comp. James Stevens, as Installing Principal, addressed the Principals elect, and subsequently Installed Ex-Comp. G. H. Powell as M.E.Z., who then Installed Ex-Comp. W. S. Cantrell as H., and J. O. Carter as J. Companion Powell's work was thoroughly perfect, and gave assurance for the faultless manner in which the ceremonies of the ensuing year will be conducted. On the re-admission of the Companions the Installing Principal conducted the salutation, and presented the warrant and other appurtenances of the Chapter to the newly Installed Principals. The following Officers were invested, viz.:—Ex-Comps. G. W. Dixon I.P.Z., E. Grisbrook P.Z. Treas., J. S. Tolley P.Z. S.E., R. Roberts S.N., R. G. Barton P.S. (who appointed Comps. J. Ashby First Assist., and L. Bryett Second Assist., Cox D.C., Davey and Nicholson Stewards, and Nowell Janitor). The Auditors' report was read, and a very favourable balance sheet was produced. These, on the proposition of Comp. Stevens, who expressed the gratification felt by himself and all present at the almost unexpected progress of the Chapter, and the brilliant prospects before it, were received and adopted. Propositions for advancement and joining were made, and ordered to be placed on next summons. It was decided to pay off the balance of the decoration account, which did not exceed seven guineas, from the funds of the Chapter. A very handsome P.Z.'s jewel was presented to Comp. Dixon I.P.Z., in most suitable terms, and was as suitably acknowledged as it was well deserved. The Chapter was then closed with solemn prayer, made more than usually impressive by the subdued organ accompaniment skilfully introduced by Comp. J. S. Tolley. The Banquet was provided at the Castle Hotel, where all the Companions shortly after assembled. After grace the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured, the Rev. Comp. R. J. Simpson responding for that of the Grand Officers, and expressing his pleasure at finding the Chapter in so flourishing a condition; tendering a meed of praise to Comp. Stevens for his former exertions, and to the present Officers, especially to his old friend the M.E.Z., for their present efforts in maintaining its position. The responses of the M.E.Z., the I.P.Z. and P.Z.'s of the Chapter, to the toasts severally proposed in their honour, were brief but forcible, as expressive of a strong determination to uphold the character of the Chapter for good working qualities and careful supervision of its internal economy. Comps. H. and J. also endorsed all the promises and determinations of their predecessors, and were followed by Officers who are equally resolute and agreed on all points. The proceedings were enlivened by the excellent instrumental and vocal abilities of Comps. Tolley, Cox, and other members of the Chapel Royal; Comp. Stevens recited "Masons' Vows" in a style far beyond his former attempts, evidently stimulated by the enthusiasm which surrounded him. The Janitor was summoned, and an agreeable evening terminated shortly after ten, in order that trains should not be lost by the many Companions who had to reach distant destinations.

LEWIS LODGE, No. 1185.

THE installation meeting was held on Saturday, 18th inst., at the King's Arms Hotel, Wood Green. Bro. Thomas William Bone opened the Lodge at three o'clock, when he was supported by his Past Masters, Officers, a fair attendance of members, and the following visitors:—Bros. T. J. Lawrence 22, R. Farquharson 99, W. W. Morgan Sec. 211, E. A. Sidbury 656, W. Bradshaw 1411, T. Franklin W.M. 1662, W. H. Gimingham 1707, R. Harris S.D. 1728. This Lodge meets in the district where the Royal Masonic Boys' School is situate, and the members, the majority of whom reside in the immediate vicinity, naturally take a deep interest in "Our Boys." The Lodge is recognised as a stanch supporter of our Charities, and moreover the members, it is well known, never turn a deaf hear to any deserving appeal for their help. The business of Saturday, after the reading and confirmation of the minutes, comprised the balloting for a candidate for initiation, Mr. Edward Bond Nash, who was proposed and seconded by Bros. James Henry Murray and P.M. William Sayer. The result was unanimous, and the candidate was introduced and initiated into our mysteries by the W.M. The W.M. elect, Bro. James William Berrie, was then presented to Bro. Bone by P.M. Bro. Durrant. Bro. Berrie took the obligation, and all brethren who have no claim to wear the levels were requested to retire. A Board of Installed Masters was opened, and Bro. Bone proceeded with the ceremony. After the new W.M. had received the congratulations of those who participated, the Board of Installed Masters was closed. The brethren were re-admitted, and in due course the W.M. appointed the following Officers:—George Downs Hooper S.W., Charles Edwin Lloyd (named as) J.W., Alfred Durrant P.M. Treasurer, Thomas Howes Turner P.M. Secretary, Rev. Richard Morris, LL.D., Chaplain, Thomas Harrison S.D., James Robert Tollis J.D., Frederick Charles Pelton D.C., James Henry Crowther Steward, Alfred Charles Gomm I.G., C. T. Speight Tyler. Bro. Bone then completed his day's work by giving the customary addresses to the Master, Wardens, and brethren, and on taking his seat as I.P.M. was congratulated on the way he had conducted the ceremony. The next business was to receive the report of the Audit Committee. This showed the Lodge to be in a flourishing condition, with a fair balance in hand. On the Worshipful Master rising for the usual inquiries, Bro. Past Master Durrant remarked that it was with great pleasure he had seen in the daily papers an announcement, on the authority of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, that H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught had sent a donation of £20 towards the Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund. Personally he was gratified to see the progress the Fund was making; he cordially concurred in the objects contemplated by the promoters, and deemed the project worthy of the support of the Lodges. Under these circumstances, he would move that their Lodge vote a sum of £5 5s towards the Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund. This proposition was most cordially received, and found a seconder in Bro. Dr. Conolly, who referred to the exertions that had been made to assist one of the late pupils—Robert Bryant. This young man had obtained a scholarship, and had been most successful in the progress he had made; at the same time, consequent on his want of means to meet the charges for board, tuition, commons, &c., he had been compelled to give up residence at Cambridge. This youth had received substantial help from the Supreme Council 33°, and Dr. Morris had exerted himself most strenuously, but beyond some slight aid he had received from the Lewis Lodge his exertions had been fruitless; in fact he (Bro. Conolly) thought their worthy Chaplain had somewhat exceeded discretion in the liability he had incurred. This case was one, he thought, would come within the scope of what was contemplated, and he was surprised that no move in this direction had not sooner been made; he strenuously urged the brethren to sanction the vote. On this being put by the W.M. the proposition was carried without a dissentient voice. Routine business followed, and then the Lodge was closed. A capital banquet was served up by Bro. Greenshade, who displayed throughout every desire that the guests should be made comfortable, and in this he was eminently successful. On the removal of the cloth, Bro. Berrie, who is a capital President, proceeded with the toasts. In proposing The Queen and the Craft, he said in Her Most Gracious Majesty are embodied the best principles of Government. He had great pleasure in offering this toast for their acceptance. The next, the health of the M.W. the Grand Master, was ably introduced by Bro. Berrie, after which, in quick succession, the Pro Grand Master, and the Deputy Grand Master and Grand Officers Present and Past. The abilities of these brethren were universally recognised; in fact, it was scarcely necessary to allude to their qualities, so well were they known. He would not occupy valuable time, so would at once offer the toast for their acceptance. After a song, most artistically given by Bro. Burgess Perry, Bro. Bone rose to propose the health of the W.M. Bro. Berrie was worthy of all the honour they could bestow upon him. The Lodge might consider itself singularly fortunate in having a brother to preside over them who so well understood his duties. Bro. Berrie suitably acknowledged the compliment, and then proposed the health of the Past Masters, to whose labours he referred in most graceful terms. He presented, on behalf of the Lodge, the I.P.M. with the jewel that had been voted by the Lodge, and trusted he might have many years of prosperity before him. This toast was acknowledged by Bro. Bone, and other of the Past Masters, and then the W.M. proposed the health of the Visitors, which was acknowledged by Bros. Lawrence, Farquharson, and Morgan. The Treasurer and Secretary next came in for their meed of praise, and then the Officers were complimented. Replies were in due course given, and when the time came for the W.M. to summon the Tyler all agreed the hours had passed most pleasantly.

Pythagorean Chapter, No. 79.—A meeting of the members of this Chapter was held at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich, on Thursday, the 16th inst., when there were present:—Comps. R. Dussee M.E.Z., W. Kipps H., H. Roberts as J. (owing to the unavoidable absence of Comp. Dr. Chittenden), H. W. Partridge Scribe E., S. P. Catterson N., Batchelor P.S. The Chapter was opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous Convocation were read and confirmed; after which Bro. M. Luck of the Sydney Lodge, No. 829, was introduced and exalted into Royal Arch Masonry, the ceremony being rendered throughout in a very impressive manner, each Officer having a perfect knowledge of his duties. The Chapter was closed in form, and the Companions adjourned to the banquet-room, where a récherché repast awaited them, which was followed by a social evening, enlivened by some choice music and songs. Companion Kipp, assisted by Comp. Dowsett, presided at the harmonium both in the Chapter and the banquet room. Visitors—Comps. Williams M.E.Z. of the St. Martin's-le-Grand Chapter, West of the Wellington, and Pooley of the St. George.

King's Cross Lodge, No. 1732.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Saturday, the 18th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Bro. W. M. Stiles opened the Lodge, supported by Bros. J. Michael I.P.M., J. T. Briggs P.M. 157 S.W., H. Stiles J.W., F. Saintsbury Sec., H. Higgins S.D., Lewis Solomon J.D., B. Kauffmann D.C., Leon Jacobs I.G., C. B. Putland Steward, F. W. Knight P.P.G.D.C. Kent P.M., J. Daly Tyler; A. Hubbard, W. R. Yates, John M. Broughton, J. Patterson, F. Fletcher, W. H. Baker, &c. The Lodge was regularly advanced, and Bro. John Northige Broughton was admitted to the benefits of the F.C. degree. This ceremony completed, Messrs. Alexander Pawson and William Henry Baker were initiated into the Order. This completing the business of the evening, the W.M. proceeded to close the Lodge; before doing so he announced that he had undertaken to represent the King's Cross at the next Festival of the Girls School, and he hoped the brethren would come forward and assist to place the Lodge in the foremost rank of supporters of the Charities. He stated that up to the present time he had received twenty guineas towards his list, which amount he hoped would be materially increased before the day of the Festival. It was also mentioned that Bro. Senior Warden had decided to serve as Steward during the coming year on behalf of the Boys' School, and hopes were expressed that at each of the Festivals the Lodge would occupy a proud position. The brethren then adjourned to the banquet hall, where, after they had enjoyed the good things provided, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. The W.M. said he was proud of having two members of Grand Lodge among his visitors, and would call on Bros. Buss and Adams to respond. Bro. Buss was the first to answer to the toast. The Grand Officers were, he said, ever ready to do their utmost to further the interests of the Craft. He was pleased to find that the King's Cross Lodge had settled down in such a firm Masonic habitation as their present place of meeting. Bro. Adams was surprised, but very pleased, to see so young a Lodge produce such an assembly as that he then witnessed. It appeared to him that the Lodge would speedily occupy one of the first positions in the Craft. He was also gratified to listen to the perfect rendering of the ceremonies which had been performed, more especially as he looked on the several members of the Lodge as his pupils in Freemasonry. He trusted the Lodge would continue to prosper, and that its reputation for good working would ever continue. Bro. Michael now proposed the health of the W.M., which was heartily received. Bro. Stiles thanked the members. He had always endeavoured to carry out his duties in such a way as to reflect credit on the office he held. He considered that any who had instruction from Bro. Adams could not fail to materially advance in their knowledge of Freemasonry. To the health of the Immediate and other P.M. of the Lodge, Bros. Michael and Knight responded. With the toast of the Visitors was coupled the name of Bro. James Willing jun., who in his reply explained his seeming opposition at the time the Warrant for the King's Cross Lodge was applied for. In the course of a long speech he begged to thank the Lodge for their hospitality, but was not allowed time sufficient to express himself fully on that point. He finally stated that he looked upon the King's Cross Lodge as affiliated to the Metropolitan—most of the brethren of the former, including the W.M., having been initiated in the latter. The two Initiates each said a few words in reply to the toast proposed in their honour, and "The Officers" brought the evening's enjoyment

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—If Bro. Stevens' letter of the 13th inst. is a correct version of the change of opinion of your contemporary, the Freemason, since he first originated the movement for "Uniformity," (and I see no reason to doubt it), I, for myself and many other brethren, consider that he has not been fairly treated by that journal. I am not at all surprised that he should express his indignation at being charged with "zeal which outruns his discretion." As far as many of his friends and supporters can judge, such a charge is not warranted by any act or writing of his, and we are pleased to find that he remains firm to his original intention in respect of the movement. He may rest assured he will not want hearty support when the fitting time for rendering it shall arrive.

It is all very well for certain brethren to declare the impossibility of carrying out his suggested Board, or Grand Lodge of Preceptors, but can they really see anything impracticable about it? Let the obstructives stand aside, and trial be made of it before they give judgment. If, as they say, it can be of no use, that fact will soon declare itself, and at least no harm can come of the attempt.

I have read Bro. Stevens' work with much interest and profit, and commend it to the attention of every brother really anxious for the well being of the Craft. It is a capital résumé of the work of many years towards securing what is now almost universally considered as necessary to preserve the purity of Masonic working, and abounds with information on many disputed points in our Ritual.

From a former letter I gather that he has taken the proper steps to secure the further discussion of his original proposition at the ensuing Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge, and am rejoiced to think that the opportunity will then be forthcoming for others than himself to express their opinions on the subject, in full agreement with his own.

Yours truly and fraternally,

PROGRESS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have perused with much pleasure the admirable little book just published by Brother James Stevens, on "Uniformity of Masonic Ritual and Observance." It is a subject on which, in common with all Masons who wish to keep the Craft up to a high standard, I have for some years held rather strong opinions; being satisfied that it is most desirable that our Ritual should be preserved even to literal exactness and conformity in the working of every Lodge under the English Constitution. Bro. Stevens's book is a step in the right direction, and I hope it will be carefully studied by every Freemason, that when the subject shall again be brought before Grand Lodge, that august body may find any action it may be disposed to take in the matter supported by the unanimous opinion of the brotherhood it rules. I heartily wish Bro. Stevens the success his zealous endeavours deserve, and am,

Yours truly and fraternally,

W. H. GULLIFORD,

I.P.M. Montefiore 1017.

BANQUETS, JEWELS, &c.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I see my several remarks on banquets, jewels, &c., have been misunderstood. In suggesting help for the Charities, and in promoting the Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund, I prefaced my remarks as to the urgency of such an appeal with a few illustrations as to how small matters would easily lead to large results.

I mentioned that if every Worshipful Master were to give up his jewel about £6,000 would be raised—that one banquet given up by each Lodge, and the proceeds given to the Fund would raise at least £10,000—a very pretty and handsome sum to start the Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund with. These and similar illustrations have been, I hear, misunderstood. I am not an advocate for the doing away with the convivial board; on the contrary, I think it is right and proper brethren should refresh themselves after labour, as it helps to bring men together as friends, which the strict routine of Lodge duties could not possibly promote. I do think many Lodges are spending more than they are justified in banquets, and I feel sure a more frugal repast would answer all requirements. Certainly many Masons indulge in banquets which may scarcely be considered as fitting to their usual mode of living. I hope you will fully understand I am not an advocate for no conviviality, au contraire, I invariably enjoy my refreshment; I simply wished to illustrate what small principles would assist us to a big Charity fund.

I hear a good deal said of the munificence of Masons—that £10,000 is a large sum. Still, when we consider Masons spend annually on banquets and regalia over £140,000, £10,000 is not a large amount to spend in Charity, representing as it does only about 5s per head. On this topic I hope to address you more fully shortly; in the meantime, please to dispel a misunderstanding, and oblige,

Yours fraternally,

DICK RADCLYFFE.

FOR A BURIAL.—It is announced that an aged Mason of a New England State has just made arrangements for the expenditure of one hundred dollars in the entertainment of the Knights Templars who may attend his funeral whenever it occurs. He became a Knight Templar solely that his funeral might be conducted with all the impressive ceremonies of the Order. It may be commendable in him to desire and thus arrange for the Templar service at his burial, but, if an ALEXANDER WHITE is to be Eminent Commander, he should GUARANTEE AT LEAST TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS FOR EXPENSES, and then take a bond in double that amount, as an assurance that the service contracted for will be performed. In this way he may secure the attendance of a goodly number of hired mourners at his funeral, and afford them a fine entertainment beside. He may also lay the foundation of a Masonic Funeral Insurance Association, which just now, seems to be a necessity. May it never thus be taught us that Freemasonry has departed from its high plain of Charity and become a merely beneficiary institution.—Voice of Masonry.

The moral lesson conveyed by the working tools of the three degrees is of such a nature as to render an intimate acquaintance with them most desirable, Were it possible for a man to act in accordance with the lessons these nine implements teach, he would reach perfection; but, unfortunately, such a standard cannot be attained. As, however, we may all improve ourselves, and avoid vice by acting up to what we are taught, so may we improve our minds by a study of the symbolism embodied in the working tools. With this object miniature sets are being made, which form a handsome appendage to the chain, either of a brother or a lady; in the latter case it must be admitted the moral teaching of the several articles may be lost on the wearer, but their presence would recall to the beholder the lessons of the Lodge-room, and, we trust, serve as an incentive to him to act up to and enforce what he is therein taught. These sets are made in gold by Bro. E. Pelikan, of 102 St. John-street-road, London, E.C., to whom we refer our readers for any further particulars they may desire.

A TEN MINUTES' ORATION,*

Delivered 18th and 19th Sept. 1879, at the Consecration of Portmadoc and Holyhead Lodge Rooms.

By Bro. the Rev. J. SIDNEY BOUCHER, P.G.C., P.M. Segontium Lodge, No. 606, Carnarvon.

THE appearance of a new house, whose site, style, or surroundings, are of special beauty and appropriateness, naturally leads the beholder to speculate upon the character and condition of the owner. And the consecration of a new Lodge-room seems equally to call for remark upon the time-honoured Institution which is here to have its home.

What then, briefly, is Freemasonry? Originally, no doubt a Guild of Artificers, dating from the reign of King Solomon, and organized by his marvellous wisdom; with valuable trade secrets to keep close among themselves, and a careful system of passwords, signs, and tokens, for their preservation; a regular classification of the brethren into convenient groups or Lodges; orderly arrangements for government and discipline; periodical examinations of the junior workmen, to ascertain the progress they were making; solemn forms and ceremonies for admitting new members into the Brotherhood, passing successful candidates to higher degrees of proficiency, and investing them with conspicuous badges of merit; special times and places for the discussion of business matters, with a rigid exclusion of all exciting topics of debate, such as religion and politics, so as not to disturb the harmony so essential to the successful accomplishment of the grand work of Temple-building, which was being carried on by the diverse nationalities of Judea and Phœnicia in conjunction. With the prestige of a lofty origin like this, and its necessary connection with the liberal arts and sciences, such as painting, sculpture, and the rest, the Masonic Association rapidly developed and extended to every quarter of the civilised world.

A powerful organization of this kind, with its ever-accumulating stores of knowledge and experience, could not fail to produce extensive and important results. And, accordingly, we cannot be surprised to learn that to Freemasonry we are indebted for the wonderful structures—beautiful even in their ruin—erected under Greek and Roman auspices before the Christian era: and in especial, for the magnificent mansions, castles, churches, and cathedrals, that sprang up everywhere in Great Britain and the Continent, during the comparatively quiet period of the eleventh and four following centuries. Nor can we wonder that men of other trades and professions, even kings and princes, eagerly sought admission into an Order of such high renown, for the sake of companionship with the illustrious masters of art and science who ennobled it, and whose splendid labours did so much to enhance the national pride and glory.

By degrees, however, these "speculative" Masons, who by special favour were admitted to the freedom of the Craft, so far outnumbered their "operative" brethren, that, cuckoo-like, they ousted the original owners fron the Masonic nest, and stayed in it themselves; retaining the outward shape and form of the ancient Guild, with its working tools and badges: its stringent vows of secrecy, fidelity, and obedience; its elaborate and impressive Ritual; and its oral Triadic instruction;—but turning all into parable and metaphor; so that, as we have it now, it is simply a "beautiful system of morality, veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols;" a system possessing many important secrets and valuable privileges, and a history of unquestionable fact, embroidered with a variety of curious myths or legends, to furnish a plausible explanation of passwords, signs, and tokens, whose real origin and primitive significance have in all probability passed away from us for ever.

Such is Freemasonry in the past. What then are its claims upon us in the present? and why are we here to-day, doing our utmost to perpetuate it in the future?

Now, to answer these inquiries, we must call to mind, that Masonry may be viewed under two aspects, a lower and a higher; viz., (1) as connected with Lodges here on earth, and their members as citizens of the world; and (2) as connected with Grand Lodge above, where the world's G.A. lives and reigns for ever.

In its lower aspect, it has three special claims upon our attention and regard, viz., as—

(a.) A bond of union and brotherhood between all the widely separated families and classes of humanity.

(b.) A neutral ground of meeting, for free and social intercourse, among less widely separated neighbours and acquaintances.

(c.) A universal letter of introduction to entire strangers; and a special medium for assisting the needy and distressed.

In its higher aspect, it is still more worthy of the eulogies and encomiums that have been lavished upon it by the brethren in every age. As one of our Fraternal Charges well expresses it,—"'Tis not mere blind fanatic zeal that prompts the brethren of the mystic tie to speak thus highly of the Mason's Craft. For well they know that it is the best and truest handmaid to religion that ever man devised, and admirably fitted to assist him in his search for light and knowledge, through all the various stages of this mortal life, from the cradled helplessness of infancy, to the final darkness of the grave. It is founded on a triad of deep mysterious truths, connecting earth with heaven,—the eternal existence of a Triune god, the resurrection of the body, and the Immortality of the Soul. It inculcates the purest principles of piety and virtue; and teaches plainly, in the First Degree, to measure all our words and actions by the gauge of rectitude and justice; to shape our conduct in the second, by the square of morality and honesty; and, in the third, to circumscribe our passions, with the compass of propriety, and keep them strictly within the limits of the circle of our duty to God and man. Hence we learn to be upright, just, and true, to our fellow-men; humble, meek, resigned to the will of God; so that the Mason, who has thus discharged his duty as a true and faithful brother of the Craft, may calmly wait that awful moment, when his heart shall cease to throb, and his soul, released from the burden of the flesh, shall wing its upward flight to the boundless unexplored expanse above."

Truly then is Masonry a noble thing, and nobly should it be enshrined among us! It is a precious jewel, which demands a goodly setting. And we congratulate the brethren of this Lodge upon the admirable hall which is consecrated to its use to-day, as our first Grand Master King Solomon congratulated himself and his people when his building at Jerusalem was completed;—"I was glad when they said unto me, we will go into the House of the Lord; for thither the tribes go up, even the tribes of Israel, to behold the fair beauty of the Lord, and to visit His Temple."

Being, then, what it is, we might naturally expect to find Freemasonry everywhere held in the highest and most reverent estimation, and, like a powerful magnet, drawing into it irresistibly all that is great and good now, as it did in days gone by. But is it so? To some extent no doubt it is, and in proof of this we point with pride and pleasure to such an assemblage as is gathered here to-day. Yet is it not the case, that our influence and numbers are not nearly what they ought to be—that, in fact, they might, and ought to be far larger than they are? And, if so, where lies the fault? Have we any one to blame for it but ourselves? Speaking from my own experience, I should say, that Masonry is far from popular with women, as a body; that wives dislike it for their husbands, mothers for their sons, and that many men who take an independent stand in thought and action fight shy of it for themselves and their belongings. And why? Because there is a wide-spread feeling that men become Masons not from high, but low motives—to increase their business connection, perhaps, or enlarge their jolly-good-fellow circle, and that their moral tone is not improved thereby, but the reverse; that Masonry, in fact, is little more than a costly knife and fork society, fond of idle dissipation; and Lodge meetings merely a convenient excuse and cloak for wasting ill-spared money upon extravagant eating and drinking, especially drinking. That this opinion may have sad foundation in the conduct of some few past and even present brethren, cannot be denied. Nor is the reason far to seek. In the great majority of our town and country districts no large and suitable room for meeting can be found, except at the public inn, where temptations to excess present themselves to every comer. And, accordingly, it is their misfortune, not their fault, if Masons, thus unhappily situated, have from time to time made lapses from their high profession. For it is not the orderly Masonic banquet in Masonic clothing, nor the modest Lodge refreshment with Masonic checks and guards on every side, that does the mischief, but the un-Masonic lounging at the bar, and the alcoholic convivialities there indulged in before the Lodge is opened and after it is closed. Hence it is that unseemly scandals have at times arisen, that solemn vows of initiation have been forgotten, that the mysteries of Masonry have more or less been blabbed by drunken lips to the scoffing outer world, and grave discredit cast upon the whole Fraternity.

Freemasonry, however, cannot justly be condemned, any more than Christianity, for not doing its proper work of making all its members worthy; or than the Legislature, for not making every one sober and religious by Act of Parliament. Much, however, may be done in this direction by diminishing the temptations to vice and the facilities for getting drunk, and an immense stride will have been taken towards the exaltation of Freemasonry among ourselves and the world at large, when every Lodge has a place like this set apart for Masonic purposes, where the most fastidious may assemble as in an ordinary well-kept reading-room, without hesitation on their own part, or suspicion on the part of others, where evenings may be often spent, not drearily and wearily in merely getting through a dull routine of "work," but pleasantly and profitably in "lectures" and discussions upon interesting topics of art and science, thus fulfilling the special obligation, to "make continual advancement in Masonic knowledge."

And this is unquestionably the right and proper thing. For what says an Ancient Charge? "A Mason's Lodge is an emblematic representation of the Universe, the magnificent temple of that G.A. whom we all revere and adore. Wisdom, strength, and beauty are the pillars of His throne, and manifest in all His works. His wisdom is infinite, His strength omnipotent, and His beauty shines through all creation in symmetry of form, grandeur of proportion, and glorious harmony of colour." Here is a grand ideal! But how can it possibly be realized in a public-house, with un-Masonic sights and sounds at every turn, with cowans and intruders in every corner.

Very cordially, then, do we reiterate our warm congratulations to the Madoc and St. Cybi Lodges for the Temple building they have done. Very heartily do we say to you, go on and prosper, as you well deserve! This structure has been raised in perfect unanimity and concord; long may it so continue. May the proceedings of to-day serve but to forge another link in the chain of brotherly love and good fellowship by which you are already united. May your children and your children's children rejoice in these auspicious solemnities. May you enjoy within these walls every satisfaction and delight that disinterested affection and Masonic intercourse can afford. And may the good report of this Lodge so tend to exhalt and enhance the reputation of the Craft at large, that Masonry may flourish here, as in every other quarter of the globe, and be assisted to fulfil its noble mission, by diffusing the light of wisdom, aiding the strength of reason, displaying the beauty of virtue, and diminishing the aggregate of human vice and misery. Being thus established firmly by the high character of its friends, it may laugh to scorn the malice of its foes, and rise superior to all the opposition of the outer world, like the lofty summit of the mighty Snowdon, that bares its breast with dignified composure to the tempest, and fearlessly presents its bosom to the midnight storm.

MEETING OF LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

THE Lodge of Benevolence met on Wednesday evening at Freemasons' Hall. Bros. Joshua Nunn Senior Vice-President, Jas. Brett Junior Vice-President, and C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P., presided. Bro. H. G. Buss, Assistant Grand Secretary, and Bro. W. Dodd also attended from Grand Secretary's Office. There was a very full attendance of brethren, among whom were Bros. S. Rawson, Col. Somerville Burney, James Kench A.G.P., W. Stephens, W. Mann, H. Garrod, W. H. Perryman, Griffiths Smith, A. Middlemass, G. P. Britten, W. J. Murlis, C. F. Hogard, Charles Atkins, Charles Dairy, W. H. Dean, Charles Daniel, P. A. Nairne, A. McMillan, W. J. Stride, S. H. Parkhouse, Thomas Edmonston, N. B. Headon, E. W. Dewereux, and J. F. Knight-Smith. After confirming recommendations made at last meeting to the amount of £310, the brethren entered on the new cases. To twenty-one of these they recommended and made grants, to the amount of £775, and deferred six cases, which were not complete.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are the medicine most in repute for curing the multifarious maladies which beset mankind when warm summer weather suddenly gives place to chilly autumnal days. In fact, these Pills offer relief even if they fail of proving an absolute remedy in all the disturbances of digestion, circulation, and nervous tone which occasionally oppress a vast portion of the population. Under the genial, purifying, and strengthening powers exerted by this excellent medicine the coarse becomes clean, the appetite improves, digestion is quickened, and assimilation is rendered perfect. These Pills possess the highly estimable property of cleansing the entire mass of blood; which, in its renovated condition, carries purity, strength and vigour to every tissue of the body.

Some important notices of motion were given, and the Chapter was closed. The usual banquet followed.

St. John's Lodge, No. 104, Stockport.—The regular monthly meeting of this old and prosperous Lodge was held on Monday, the 13th instant, at the Lodge Rooms, Ashton House, Greek-street, Stockport, when about fifty brethren were present. In the unavoidable absence, through indisposition, of the W.M., Bro. W. Harrison P.S.G.D., the Lodge was opened by Bro. Herbert Finch P.M. P.G.D.C., who was supported by Bros. H. Collier S.W., C. Pearson P.M. as J.W., W. W. Skelmerdine Treasurer, T. Bullock Secretary, W. Booth Prov. Grand Steward S.D., G. Balfe Org., E. Stevens Prov. G. Steward I.G., H. W. Mather and J. Fox Stewards; Past Masters Schofield, Kirk, and Lieut.-Colonel Wilkinson P.P.S.G.D. The Visitors included Bros. J. L. Vaughan P.M. 1030 (Mayor of Stockport), Oswald Wilkinson S.D. 1030, C. E. The minutes of the last regular meeting having been ratified, letters of apology for inability to attend were read from the W.M. and Bro. J. Beresford P.M. P.P.S.G.D. The ballot was then taken for Major Francis Preston, C.E., as a candidate for initiation, which proving favourable, he was initiated into the mysteries and privileges of Masonry by Bro. Lieut.-Colonel Wilkinson P.M. P.P.S.G.D., his proposer. The remaining business consisted of a passing and a raising, the chair being occupied during the former ceremony by Bro. Finch P.M. P.G.D.C., and during the latter by Bro. C. Pearson P.M. All the ceremonies were conducted with an impressiveness and finish which betokened careful study and rehearsal on the part of the Officers concerned in them, and which, at a later period of the evening, called forth the highest eulogiums from the visiting brethren. On the motion of Bro. Finch P.G.D.C., seconded by Bro. Collier S.W., two questions were referred to the General Purposes Committee of the Lodge for consideration and report, viz., the desirability of having a paid Secretary of the Lodge, and an increase in the annual subscription, the Committee's report to be included in the next Lodge summons. Hearty good wishes having been expressed by the Visitors, the Lodge was closed, and a couple of hours afterwards spent in a most enjoyable manner at the festive board, the performances of the Lodge choir enhancing the pleasures of the evening to no inconsiderable extent.

Macdonald Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 104.—Held its autumn meeting at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street, E.C., on Friday, the 17th inst., and was well attended. The W. Bro. George Ward Verry W.M. opened the Lodge at five o'clock precisely, V.W. Bro. James Stevens P.G.J.O. P.M. as S.W., W. Bro. F. H. Cozens P.G. Org. J.W., W. Bro. R. P. Spice G.S.B. as M.O., Bro. J. K. Pitt R.M. J.O., V.W. Bro. Thomas Meggy P.G.S.O. P.M. Treasurer, W. Bro. William Worrell P.G.O. P.M. Secretary; Bros. W. Johnston S.D., Theodore de Leliva J.D., T. W. Simons I.G., T. B. Humphrey Steward; W. Bros. R. Berridge G.D.C. P.M., Alfred Williams P.G.S.D. P.M., Bros. W. Grant and J. Rawles Tylers, and several other brethren; Visitors—Bros. A. Haynes S.D. 198, and A. Hubbard 813. After confirmation of minutes, ballots were taken for Bros. Arthur Mead, of Nos. 276 and 1719 Craft, Joseph Manwaring, of No. 1719 Craft, Matthew Mildred, of Nos. 1326 and 1719 Craft, and Louis George Reinhardt, of No. 766 Craft, as candidates for advancement. These proving unanimous, the brethren named were severally introduced, and advanced by the W.M. in a most admirable manner. Letters of apology for non-attendance were received from the W. Bros. C. Hammerton, A. Walton, T. W. White, and North Ritherdon, Past Masters of the Lodge; and Bros. E. Moody, W. P. Collins, George Yaxley, T. Distin, and other brethren. After disposal of several matters of routine business, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to dinner. The evening was passed in the usual genial and enjoyable manner characteristic of the Macdonald Lodge, which was aptly described by one of the Visitors, in his response to the toast in honour of the guests, as not only the "nursery of Mark Masonry," but a chief exponent of the moral and social principles of the degree. That his remarks are just, and that such qualities are recognised in the highest quarter, the great number of Present and Past Grand Officers amongst its members bears ample testimony. In the course of the evening the musical and reciting abilities of Bros. F. H. Cozens, T. W. Simons, A. Hubbard, and James Stevens were called into requisition, and materially increased the enjoyment of a gathering which demonstrated that the Lodge still retains its original prestige. The company separated at an early hour, delighted with their Masonic work and subsequent entertainment.

Sincerity Lodge, No. 174.—The first regular meeting of the season was held on Wednesday, the 15th instant, at the Guildhall Hotel, Gresham-street. Bros. G. T. H. Seddon W.M., C. H. Webb (P.M. 1607) S.W., George Jones J.W., S. Rawley P.M. Treas., John Newton P.M. Sec., F. Brown (P.M. 1607) S.D., J. S. Fraser J.D., Miller Steward, A. H. Brown I.G., J. Very Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. Appleby, Charles Lacey, Barlow, Savage, E. Moore, &c. Visitors—Bros. H. G. Buss A. G. Sec., C. G. Hill 1366, Robert Thomson 1273, Thos. J. Davy 1471, Augustus Perceval 1607, John Tyler 1625, C. Veal S.W. 1306, W. Giller 1607, W. W. Morgan Sec. 211, J. S. Sequerra 141. The Lodge was opened at 5.30, when the minutes of the last regular meeting, and those of an emergency meeting held on the 18th June, were read, confirmed, and signed. The first ceremonial business of the day undertaken by the W.M. was the passing to the second degree of Bro. R. N. Keable. This candidate fully sustained his claim for preferment, and Bro. Seddon gave a careful rendering of the ceremony. The ballot was taken for Mr. William Gayton, M.D., proposed by Bro. W. Stirling, seconded by Bro. Newton P.M.; for Mr. Benjamin Joshua Grimes, proposed by the W.M., seconded by Bro. Miller W.S.; and for Mr. Henry Richard Yates, proposed by Bro. J. Miller W.S., seconded by Bro. J. Newton P.M. The result was favourable, and the three gentlemen were introduced, and initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry in a very satisfactory and deeply impressive manner, reflecting credit on each and every Officer who took part in the proceedings. A notice of motion that would make a formal procedure of what had hitherto been accepted by the members as a matter of custom was then discussed, and it was unanimously agreed that an addition should be made to the bye-laws of the Lodge which would embody the sentiments of those who deemed it necessary to bring this matter forward. The S.W., Bro. Webb, announced that he had undertaken a Stewardship for the next Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and the members unanimously voted a sum of £10 10s for his list, which compliment Bro. Webb suitably acknowledged, and assured the brethren he felt they would individually extend to him the same liberal support which had always characterised their Lodge. Routine work followed, and the appeal of a distressed brother was discussed, with the conclusion that it was a case the members could not entertain. Lodge was then closed. The brethren and their visitors now partook of a well-served banquet, where the proceedings were characterised by a hearty spirit of enjoyment throughout. The W.M., in introducing the toasts, adopted commendable brevity, and the several replies were well considered and direct to the point. Bro. Buss replied for the Grand Officers. He thought we had the right men in the right place. He was pleased to be present in the Sincerity Lodge, where he was always sure to meet many very old friends, and where he always felt he was a welcome guest. Our genial Bro. Buss took a retrospective glance; this was the first Lodge he had ever visited, now some thirty-three or thirty-four years back. One Capt. Oman was then a shining light in the Lodge, and to this worthy Mason he (Bro. Buss) was indebted for some early lessons. The Sincerity Lodge had ever been consistent supporters of the Institutions, and he was sure the appeal the Senior Warden had made that evening would receive the consideration it deserved. The next toast was the health of the initiates, Bro. Seddon expressing the hope that they would make good and reputable members of the Order. After a cornet solo by Bro. Davy, of the Islington Lodge, Bro. Gayton thanked the W.M. for the very kind way in which he had spoken; he would endeavour, to the utmost of his ability, to advance the Order and to merit the good opinion of the members. The other initiates also tendered their thanks, and then Bro. I.P.M. Appleby proposed the health of the W.M. This compliment was briefly but heartily acknowledged, and then came the toast of the Visitors, which elicited replies from Bros. Hill, Veal, Morgan, and others. The other toasts comprised Prosperity to the Masonic Charities, replied to by Bro. Webb; the Past Masters, Bro. Appleby responding; the Officers, for whom Bro. Webb replied. A special toast was made on behalf of Bro. Hill, who is about to leave this country, and this was acknowledged by Bro. Hill, who stated that on his return to his native land he hoped again to have the pleasure of meeting the members of Sincerity. The Tyler then gave his toast, and his "song," after which the brethren separated.

Tranquillity Lodge, No. 185.—A meeting, the first of the winter session, was held on Monday, 20th inst., at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street, London, E.C. Present—Bros. George Pare W.M., Bailey S.W., F. Croaker J.W., John Constable P.M. Treas., Philip Levy Secretary, T. W. C. Bush S.D., George Bilby P.M. Org., S. Barnett Steward, A. Staley I.G., Potter Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. J. H. Ross, J. D. Barnett, R. Z. Bloomfield, N. Moss, Saul Solomon, M. Harris, E. Gottheil, N. Gluckstein; Visitors—Bros. C. D. H. Jacobs P.M. 27, G. B. Chapman S.W. 27, F. H. Tibbitts S.D. 59, Albert Eskell P.M. 73, Sprake 201, W. W. Morgan Sec. 211, E. W. Page (New Zealand) W.M. 348 I.G., George Moss J.W. 1201, G. Adamson P.M. 199, 1208, P.P.G.A.D.C. Kent, E. Terry I.P.M. 1319, G. J. Joseph St. George's G.R.C., Henry Bleck Temple Bar, Henry Cohen Peace and Harmony, Southampton, Woodward Temple Bar. The Lodge was formally opened by the W.M., and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was taken for two candidates for initiation, Mr. Joseph Levy, proposed by Bro. Woolf, and Mr. Mortimer Hill, proposed by Bro. A. Solomon; in each case Bro. Philip Levy acting as seconder to the respective candidates. The result was favourable, and the two gentlemen were separately introduced and initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry; Bro. Pare giving careful readings of the ceremony. The Committee of the Benevolent Fund in connection with the Lodge announced they had made a grant of £25 in aid of a late member of the Lodge, who was in distressed circumstances, and the members formally gave their assent to the proceeding. Some matters of home interest were discussed, after which Lodge was closed. A most liberally supplied banquet was then served, and the brethren assembled did ample justice to the repast. On the removal of the cloth, Bro. Pare briefly introduced the toasts, which were received most loyally. After that of the Queen and the Craft the National Anthem was sung. The toast of the M.W. the G.M. was followed by that of the Pro G.M., the D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers Present and Past. The W.M. had now the pleasure of proposing the health of the initiates. Both their new members had been highly recommended to them, and he hoped that each would tread in the footsteps of the many worthy brethren who had preceded them in the Lodge. Bro. Levy was the first who replied; he trusted the members would excuse him when he expressed a fervent hope that it might not be many years ere he occupied the Worshipful Master's seat. Bro. Mortimer Hill assured the brethren he would endeavour to carry out to the best of his ability the precepts so forcibly commended to his attention during the evening; he thanked the brethren for accepting him as a member of their distinguished Order. The W.M. on rising to propose the next toast, regretted that he did not feel quite up to the mark. However, he had now to give a toast which was always well received in the Lodge of Tranquillity. Bro. Pare then, on behalf of his Lodge, tendered a hearty greeting to each and all of the Visitors present; he referred to the advantages to be derived from an interchange of visits, and coupled with the toast the names of Bros. Adamson, Jacobs and Chapman. These brethren all replied, and their remarks were supplemented by several others—Bro. Page of New Zealand, Bro. Henry Cohen of Griqualand, &c. In the absence of the I.P.M. Bro. D. Posener, Bro. Saul Solomon the senior P.M. proposed the health of the W.M. In such a Lodge as that of Tranquillity a W.M.'s duties were very heavy. Bro. Pare had entered the Lodge almost a stranger, but from the assiduity and industry he evinced he soon won the good opinion of the members, and had worked up to his present position, where he could boast of possessing the affection and esteem of all. Personally he (Bro. Solomon) was convinced the members had not done wrong in so elevating Bro. Pare, and he was sure he echoed the sentiments of one and all when he stated that when the time came for their Worshipful Master to leave his chair he would carry with him the best wishes of all with whom he had been associated in the Lodge. Bro. Pare on rising, again referred to the slight ailment he was afflicted with; he felt what little breath he thought he possessed had been taken away by the many kind things Bro. Solomon had said of him. He thanked the brethren for the hearty way in which they had received the toast. When he undertook the duties of the chair he made up his mind to do the work thoroughly, and the knowledge that he had so far succeeded was most gratifying. He trusted the same happy future was before their brothers initiate of that evening. Bro. Pare concluded by observing that what he had done in the past he would strive to improve on in the future, and again thanked the brethren for the reception they had given him. To the toast of the Past Masters Bro. J. D. Barnett replied. In responding to the toast of "Prosperity to the Benevolent Fund attached to the Lodge," Bro. Saul Solomon P.M. gave a slight sketch of its establishment, and briefly explained its working, giving details of several cases in which substantial help had been rendered by means of the Fund. He was happy to inform the members that their capital amounted to nearly £1000. The assistance given was never offered in a niggardly spirit, and secrecy and silence characterised the proceeding. It was this secrecy that lent a charm to their acts; the recipient might take his seat in Lodge the same evening, and beyond the few members who comprised the Committee no one would be aware of what had been done. This had been the idea of those brethren who had established the fund, and personally he strongly urged that this should be carried out in its entirety. The initiates of the night had liberally contributed in aid of the fund, but he hoped the day was far distant when either they or any other member present would be necessitated to make application for its benefits. After a few words from Bro. John Constable, the W.M. proposed the health of the Treasurer and Secretary, and in the course of his reply, Bro. Levy announced that he had that day seen a brother who some time since had been assisted by the members. This brother had told him (Bro. Levy) that his prospects had since brightened, and he desired that Bro. Levy would inform the members that this was the case; likewise he requested him to become the medium through which he might recoup the amount that had been so generously awarded him in the time of his distress. Bro. Bailey S.W. replied for the Officers, and then the Tyler was summoned for the parting toast. During the evening a capital selection of songs was given. Amongst them Bro. Bailey contributed "Phillis is my only joy,' and' "The lark has left her dewy nest;" Bro. Child, "Sally in our alley;" Bro. Ross, "Blue Alsatian Mountains," and "Mignonetta;" Bro. J. D. Barnett, "The flowing tide rolls in;" Bro. Constable, "Let brotherly love continue;" Bro. Mortimer Hill, "Tom Bowling," and "Come into the garden, Maud." Bro. J. D. Barnett greatly assisted the vocalists by his accompaniment, and at the time of departure received the thanks of all assembled for his kindness.

Horton W.M. presided. The minutes of the last regular meeting were unanimously confirmed. The report of the Audit Comittee was received and adopted. Bro. W. Hammond S.W. was installed W.M. for the ensuing year, and he appointed and invested his Officers. Business ended, the Lodge was closed and adjourned, to meet on Friday, 13th February 1880. There were present Bros. J. Stevens P.M., T. Poore P.M., F. Walters P.M., W. Pennefather Secretary, and others.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—On Saturday, the 18th inst., at Bro. Fysh's, the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road. Present:—Bros. D. Lorkin, Valentine, Byot, Gibbs, Halford Treasurer, Fysh, Mackey. All formalities were duly observed in opening, and the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Valentine being the candidate. The W.M. worked the third section of the lecture. Lodge was resumed to the second degree, and the W.M. worked the first section of that lecture, assisted by the brethren; the third by Bro. McMillan; Bro. Pearcy the second, assisted by the W.M. The W.M. afterwards worked the first section of the first lecture, assisted by Bro. Giller. Bro. Giller was appointed to preside at the next meeting. A vote of thanks was awarded to the W.M. for the able manner in which he had filled the chair. Lodge was then closed. Brrethen will please take notice that the Fifteen Sections will be worked in this Lodge on 25th inst., and all the members and their friends are invited to attend.

A PHOTOGRAPHIC MASONIC NOVELTY.

WE have been favoured by an inspection of a very simple but useful adaptation of the Art of Photography to the convenience of Members of the Craft, and more particularly of those who visit the Provinces. The temporary want of a Certificate has often prevented a brother from visiting a Lodge in some town where he has not been personally known to any resident, and where it would have been difficult to prove his identity. It is not customary for certificates to form part of a Freemason's travelling equipment, and consequently it is often not at hand when most particularly wanted, and hours which might have been profitably spent in the enjoyment of Masonic association are thereby often wasted. To obviate this difficulty Bro. W. Shury Marshall, of 34 Parliament Street, S.W., has devised and registered a Portrait and Certificate Case, whereby the identity of an applicant for admission to a Lodge, and his possession of a satisfactory voucher, are placed beyond doubt. The case is of morocco, a trifle larger than an ordinary Carte de Visite, on the front of which is impressed the name of the owner and number of his Lodge, and which opens to display his likeness in Masonic costume and a Photograph of his certificate with sign manual attached. Should he be a member of several degrees the case can be made to contain Photographs of each certificate, and still fold in a compact form. The simplicity of the arrangement makes it a matter of surprise that it has never hitherto been adopted, and its utility is beyond question. The price also is moderate, and we recommend our fellow craftsmen to call on Bro. Marshall, and judge for themselves.

THE PRO GRAND MASTER AT READING.

THE visit of the Earl of Carnarvon to Reading, for the purpose of setting the memorial stone of the new Public Buildings, which was recently postponed in consequence of the illness of his Lordship, is now fixed to take place on Monday next, the 3rd inst.; on which occasion a special Grand Lodge of the Province of Berks and Bucks will be opened at the Corn Exchange, at 11.30 a.m. After the ceremony a luncheon will be provided at the Foresters' Hall, West-street, whereat a numerous attendance is expected.

CAUTION AND CHARITY.

FEW words should be needed to bring to the mind of members of the Craft their first Masonic experience of these two characteristics of the Brotherhood. One part of the preparation which each had to undergo previous to being admitted within the portals of the Lodge was meant as an exemplification of the necessity for the former, while that part of the ceremony of initiation wherein they were taught to lend a helping hand to a brother in time of need was intended forcibly to impress them with the desirability of the latter. It sometimes strikes us that our Ritual is very deficient, in so far that it does not give a Masonic explanation of these and other terms, although it might reasonably be urged that it should not be necessary to call to the mind of a candidate the signification of words whose use is so frequent, and meaning so clear, as the majority of those employed in our ceremonies; still, it is very certain that the maxims taught in Freemasonry are occasionally used in a very different sense to that intended; and perhaps in no case is this more apparent than in the conjunction of the two words which head this article. A few weeks since we extracted from a contemporary the remarks of an American brother to the members of his Lodge to whom he had appealed on behalf of two widows who were in need of assistance; in the one case, the brethren excused themselves on the ground that the deceased husband was not a Mason; on the other, that although the husband had been admitted to a participation of the secrets, he was not in good standing at the time of his death, apparently forgetting that this last fact may have been owing to his inability to continue his subscription during his illness, and was itself but additional evidence of the need of some help being rendered to his widow. It is not necessary for us to cross the Atlantic to find instances corresponding to that cited by Bro. Patrick, but here the general cry is—be cautious. First, we are urged to be cautious how we receive the statements of the brother or relative who applies for relief; next we are admonished to be cautious that the particular case comes within the limits for which our funds were intended; to be cautious not to spend more than can be reasonably afforded; to be cautious lest we form a precedent which shall be quoted in the future, and thus lead Freemasonry to be looked upon as a mere benefit society; and after other cautions have been urged and acted on, one particularly cautious brother proposes that the question stand over, in order that further inquiry may be made, lest by any mistake an unworthy person should be relieved. And all this is done under the plea that at our initiation we were taught to be cautious, or else urged in the interest of "true charity." Was this the caution or the charity the compilers of our Ritual meant to teach, or is it a perversion of the meaning intended? We will not answer the questions, but leave it to the charitable instincts of individual brethren to supply the necessary replies; our ideas on the point being of a character that might be distasteful to some of our readers.

Now, as regards Masonic Charity. What is it? At the time of initiation we are told that it is the distinguishing characteric of a Freemason's heart; but how many of those who repeat these words fully understand the true meaning of what they utter? To be charitable, so far as we understand it, is not merely to throw a copper to a poor hungry fellow creature, but rather to pour sympathy into the wounds which the rough treatment of the world occasionally make in the hearts of us all. Some are favoured, and have to contend with but few, while others seem to come in for more than their share of troubles, but it is seldom that any can be found who, at one time or another, has not had occasion to appeal for sympathy. The man who then does his best for his suffering fellow creature is the one who really understands the meaning of and knows how to dispense true charity. Even in cases of real distress the charitable tendency of Freemasons is often diverted by one or other of the many pleas which are urged—to some of these we have already referred—and although we are aware it would be folly, if not even worse, to render aid to every case in which an appeal is made, so are we certain that numerous instances of need are passed over without any aid being afforded by those who, at the time of their initiation, promised to do all that their circumstances in life would permit.

Such, we think, is the case in the appeal now being made on behalf of the Rev. Dr. Daniel Ace, who is, unfortunately, called upon, in the closing days of his life, to meet a demand which his position renders comparatively impossible, and for which he has received no personal benefit or any recompense. This is, we feel assured, a case where true charity can be amply illustrated, and as the arguments used against the affording any relief chiefly border on the "caution" principle, we take it as a fair illustration of the extent to which such un-Masonic argument may be carried. We maintain that the only reason that should be assigned for urging the consideration of the Doctor's appeal to Freemasons is, that he is a brother Mason of many years' standing, and if any of those appealed to think that aid should only be rendered to such as have assisted others, we refer them to the books of the three Masonic Institutions for a record of what our brother has done in this regard. We have been told that the object on account of which the appeal is necessary is not a Masonic one, and we agree that it has no claim to be considered as such, but are we as Masons, on this account, to refuse that help to a brother which we promised to render on every occasion to the fullest extent that lay in our power. If so, it is half way towards the adoption of the excuses of the American Lodge so justly reproved by Bro. Patrick, and only requires, in order to relieve us from all responsibility, the argument of another section, who urge that if a man can afford to enter Freemasonry, he ought to be able to meet all claims and leave his family amply provided for. We hope these arguments will not be adduced, either in the case we have thus specially referred to, or in any other that may arise. It were far better to adopt that excellent Masonic virtue—Silence—than to hurt the feelings of a distressed brother by taunting him with matters of which he may be entirely innocent. We think it is but necessary for a brother to remember that he is expected to afford only such relief as he can offer without detriment to himself or connections to prevent a repetition of these unkind remarks.

In conclusion, we may mention that we are personally anxious to see Bro. Ace released from his present unfortunate condition, and we, therefore, refer our readers to the letter of Bro. Saunders, which appears in another column, with a request that they will assist in the object Bro. Saunders has in view,—the restoring to Dr. Ace the furniture and other effects of which he has been—we hope but temporarily—deprived.

UNIFORMITY OF MASONIC RITUAL AND OBSERVANCE.

THE publication of a work bearing the above title, by our esteemed correspondent, Bro. James Stevens, appears to have greatly exercised the minds of some members of the Craft, as well as those who were favourable to the movement commenced some years ago, and those who now object to any sort of interference with the present working of Freemasonry. Doubtless there is much to be said on behalf of each of these parties. It is, nevertheless, none the less necessary, nay, probably, on that very account all essential, that some decision should be arrived at as to what really is meant by the desired "Uniformity." On the one hand we have Craftsmen who declare that the "pure and unsullied system," so forcibly expressed in the Articles of Union of 1813, has been flagrantly violated, not only as regards mere verbiage, but also by the practice of that which is inconsistent with our system of morality. On the other, there are those who insist that there has been neither diversity nor innovation beyond what is pardonable and innocuous, and has been permitted by recognised authority. It is our province, as journalists, to hold our "scale of justice with equal poise," and whether we please or offend we shall bring to the consideration of this question a mind perfectly unbiassed by friend or foe, and even "Our Own Correspondent" must not take amiss whatever, in the course of our argument, may not be in accordance with his way of thinking. Nor, on the other hand, should those who cannot agree with our reasonings take umbrage thereat. As far as we can gather, from a diligent perusal of the book lately published, whilst we admit the value and importance of correct ritual, we do not find, taking that alone, a sufficient argument for the, as it were, revolutionizing of the present arrangements, and if the appeal for the interference of Grand Lodge rests only on the substitution of one method of communicating our traditions for others, which in some particular instances vary only in respect of verbiage, we hardly think that interference will be accorded. But there may be, and probably there are, other matters connected with Lodge working which compel attention and alteration to prevent the growth and continuation of much that is, if not improper, still very inconsistent with the "pure and unsullied" system; and the remarks contained in a letter which we publish in another column seems to assure us that these do really exist. If so, let them be fairly stated in the proper place for such statements, and we can have no doubt that if shown to be of the importance suggested, they will have their weight in Grand Lodge. They should be, however, of no doubtful nature, and we think it only proper to advise the originator of this movement for "Uniformity" that he will be expected to produce sufficient cause for the inquiry he suggests before he can expect the appointment of the Committee he asks for. Should he, however, be enabled to "prove a case," we think that the Craft generally should support his endeavours, and assist in that work of purification which so many think necessary. To that end, we can see no objection to the ultimate formation of the Lodge of Preceptors in the manner proposed, and for the purposes stated.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—For the cure of burns, scalds, wounds, and ulcers, this justly celebrated Ointment stands unrivalled. Its balsamic virtues, immediately on application, lull the pain and smarting, protect the exposed nerves from the air, give to the vessels the vigour necessary to heal the sore, and confer on the blood a purity which permits it only to lay down healthy flesh in place of that destroyed. Holloway's Pills, simultaneously taken, must assist the Ointment's purifying and soothing power. Together these medicines act like a charm; no invalid, after a fair trial, has found them fail to relieve his pain, or completely cure his disease. The combined action of the Ointment and Pills, in all disorders, is too irresistible to be withstood.

THE OLD CONCORD LODGE, No. 172.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The W.M. of this Lodge, Bro. Gaubert has kindly notified to me that the date of their original warrant is 14th April 1768; but not having been sufficiently explicit in my inquiries, I have not yet learned at what tavern the Lodge met in the above year. Subject, however, to the further light which an actual inspection of the warrant may shed upon the transaction, I think the case of this Lodge may be thus summed up:—The original constitution in 1764 must have been a dispensation from the Deputy Grand Master, as was the custom in those days [and which I propose shortly to illustrate by some excerpts from old Lodge minutes]. The actual warrant could not have been issued in the usual course, and being applied for in 1768, during the Grand Secretaryship of Bro. French, who only held the office for a single year, it was probably, through the newly-appointed Grand Secretary's inexperience, or imperfect knowledge of what had transpired during the tenure of office of his predecessor, Bro. Samuel Spencer, dated at the period of actual signature and issue? Colour is lent to this supposition from the fact of the year 1768 being assigned to the Lodge in the engraved list for 1769 only.

It may be added that the description of No. 324 (1765-69), viz.:—Pon's Coffee House, Castle-street, Leicester-fields, second and fourth Monday, is not only continuous from 1765 to 1769, but is also identical (tavern, locality, and day of meeting included) with that of No. 349 on the 1770 list.

If indeed No. 324 (1769) is not No. 349 (1770) then, in racing language—a "double event" has to be explained, viz, the introduction of a Lodge dated at 1768, from a numeration (1756-69) in which it never appeared—and the lapse of another Lodge (324) in the same numeration, which not only appeared on all lists from 1765 to 1769, and was represented in Grand Lodge on 30th Oct. 1767, and if erased prior to the change of numbers, such fact would have been recorded in the minutes of Grand Lodge.

Yours fraternally,

23rd Oct. 1879. R. F. GOULD.

P.S.—Since writing the above, the W.M. of the "OLD CONCORD" has kindly obliged me with the following:—"The No. is 228, and opened at Pon's Coffee House, Leicester Fields." The specification of the place of meeting supplies the last link which was wanting in the chain of connection between the No. 324 of 1769 and the No. 349 of 1770. The number however [228] given by Bro. Gaubert is slightly confusing, as the present OLD CONCORD Lodge [No. 324, 1769; No. 349, 1770; and No. 271, 1781] was only placed at 228 at the change of numbers in 1792, and save for the assurance of Bros. Gaubert and Gladwell, that the warrant was an original I should have thought it to have been either a "renewed warrant" or "a warrant of confirmation."

"UNIFORMITY OF MASONIC RITUAL AND OBSERVANCE."

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In a second notice by the Freemason of the above work, and which appeared in last Saturday's impression, the writer, after recapitulating facts in connection with ritual, from 1717 to 1813, with which there are many more than himself thoroughly conversant, makes the following remarks:—"Thus any idea that before the Union there was any uniformity of working is alike a chimera and a myth, and subsequently to the Union the Grand Lodge, by a wise toleration, has allowed—subject to uniformity of landmarks and aporretta—some pardonable and innocuous variations. Any attempt, therefore, to introduce an iron, or rather a leaden, uniformity, can only be productive of grave mischief, as it must inevitably lead to a reign of 'cribs' and 'crams,' and that greatest of all curses to Masonry—a printed ritual. As Freemasons, proud of our oral traditions, happy to meet in Lodges of Instruction, under skilful Preceptors, when any one is so rash as to endeavour to raise this needless and inopportune question, we fancy that an overwhelming majority of 'bright' Masons will prove that, uninfluenced by nonsensical bombast, or childish ignorance of the subject, they are determined to 'leave well alone.'"

I wish to answer these remarks, and must ask for space in your columns for that purpose. The main purport of my endeavours is either ignorantly or wilfully misunderstood. I maintain that the solemn Article of Union of 1813 ought to have been religiously preserved and carried out without such toleration of variations, whether "pardonable and innocuous," as some may consider them, or the contrary, as many others believe them to be. These latter, with myself, are as proud of our oral traditions as any member of our Order can be, and believe them to be fully comprised in the simple and beautiful working of the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, and, further, have no desire to vary the formula of 1813, whatever that might have been. The same objection is entertained by them to printed rituals as that so forcibly expressed, although not, perhaps, in the most elegant terms, by the writer of the remarks I, in my turn, criticise. The Grand Lodge has declared "there shall be the most perfect unity of working," and I will prove, at the proper season, that that declaration is not observed. In the columns of a public journal I cannot fully explain myself, but elsewhere I shall, if permitted, take the opportunity to lay before the Craft such particulars as may probably startle certain objectors into another change of opinion. So far, and in my work, I have only been able to deal with abuse of words: not altogether an unimportant matter in the transmission of oral tradition; but I have yet to deal with acts and incidents which are far beyond the scope of innocuous innovations. That is, of course, if Grand Lodge will hear me: and I suppose if only for the sake of consistency and fair play, the privilege, may I say the right, of being heard will be accorded to me. One thing I must say, en passant. It is a pity that, no matter how important a subject may be to the best interests of the Order, the limit of time affordod for discussion in the Grand Lodge is so very brief. The whole parliamentary work of the Craft has to be performed in a period of time which never exceeds twelve hours in one year, spread over four quarterly meetings. It speaks well for our organisation that so little time has hitherto been found ample for the purpose, but when questions of imperial importance require a careful and calm deliberation before a just and impartial decision can be secured, so brief a period is to be condemned as leading to hurried and careless results. But I digress! I desire to add to my foregoing remarks that my friends and I are equally happy to meet in Lodges of Instruction under skilful Preceptors (mark the word skilful), and hope that at some future day the certainty of meeting such, whenever and wherever Lodges of Instruction are held, will be assured by Grand Lodge itself to every member of the Craft. It is not the case at present. Further, that, in our opinion, which does not appear to agree with the writer of the article in question, we are acting wisely, and within our province, to endeavour not only to raise, but to prosecute, this absolutely necessary and most opportune question; and we fancy that at least a fair proportion, if not a majority, of "bright" Masons, who are "not necessarily learned Masons" (see Mackey thereon), will decide that, uninfluenced by pedantic conservatism, or o'erweening prejudice, the maxim "Quieta non movere" does not apply to the present controversy.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

JAMES STEVENS.

LAUGHTON CHURCH TOWER RESTORATION FUND.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am compelled to appeal to the public on behalf of the Rev. Daniel Ace, D.D. (Vicar of Laughton-by-Gainsborough, Lincolnshire), who, to the surprise of everybody who heard the evidence, and the summing up of the judge, was made personally liable at the late Lincoln Assizes for the repairs of the Church Tower of Laughton. The sum claimed by the builder (including damages £600) was £889 15s 5d, which was increased by the legal charges of plaintiff (£121) to £1000 15s 5d. These amounts were reduced by the special arbitrator appointed by the Judge who tried the case (Henry Goddard, Esq., Diocesan Architect, Lincoln), from £889 15s 5d to £181, only £2 being allowed for damages instead of £600. The law charges were brought down to £80 from £121. The sum required to meet this liability and to save Dr. Ace from absolute ruin (including law expenses, &c., £138) is about £400, of which £120 has already been raised. The Rev. Dr. Ace has no private means; he is sixty-seven years of age, and conducts three services on Sunday without assistance. The net income of the united parishes of Laughton and Wildsworth, of which he is Vicar, is only £223. The churches are three miles apart, which distance he has to walk, the income not being sufficient to supply him with means of conveyance. The repairs of the church tower, for which the Doctor has been made by this decision entirely responsible, were absolutely necessary to save the fabric from destruction.

As in the present state of the law church rates are not compulsory, and as the parishioners, who are farmers and farm labourers, have already contributed £70, and are not in a position (owing to the present depression in agriculture) to render any further help, I am compelled, on behalf of Dr. Ace, to appeal to the generosity of the public to rescue an old and efficient minister of the gospel from a position of great distress and anxiety.

The sheriff's officers have been put in his house; his library and effects have been sold, and he is threatened with sequestration of his living.

I am confident that a clergyman of the Church of England will not be abandoned in his hour of need, or allowed to suffer utter pecuniary ruin through his having (in his anxiety to preserve the ancient and venerable edifice in which he ministers), incurred a debt not in any way for his own personal benefit, but wholly for the preservation of the House of the Lord.

The foregoing Petitions being in all respects regular, the Committee recommend that the prayers thereof be respectively granted.

The Committee have likewise to report that, in consequence of a statement made by the Provincial Grand Scribe E. for North Wales and Shropshire, that the Star of Gwynedd Chapter No. 384, Bangor, was extinct, and it appearing by the Grand Chapter Records that no return had been received from that Chapter since 1857—one Companion only having been exalted therein since the date of the Charter 27th June 1856—the Chapter, No. 384, was taken out of the Register.

It now appears that the Charter of the said Chapter is in the custody or possession of the St. David's Lodge No. 384, Bangor, and that no present member of that Lodge is now, or ever has been a member of the Chapter. The Lodge has therefore been directed by the Committee to surrender the Charter to be cancelled, but as the Lodge has refused or neglected to comply with this Order, the Grand Chapter Committee refer the matter to the Board of General Purposes, and beg to request that the W. Master of the St. David's Lodge No. 384, may be ordered to forward to the Grand Scribe E., the Charter of the said late Star of Gwynedd Chapter No. 384.

PRINCE OF WALES LODGE, No. 1705.

THE annual meeting of the members of this Lodge, for the installation of Worshipful Master and appointment of Officers, was held on Thursday evening, 23rd ult., at the Star Hotel Assembly Room, Gosport. There was a large attendance of members of the Craft, including the W.M.'s of most of the Lodges in the neighbourhood. Bro. George Grant was duly installed in the chair by the outgoing Worshipful Master (Bro. C. B. Whitcombe), who performed the ceremony in a very impressive manner. The new W.M. appointed his Officers as follow:—Bros. C. B. Whitcombe I.P.M. and Treas., J. W. Stroud S.W., Count des Geneys J.W., T. Batchelor Sec., C. Johnson S.D., C. J. E. Mumby J.D., Cave D. of C., George Darby I.G., Webb and Senior Stewards. At the conclusion of the ceremony Bro. C.B. Whitcombe was presented with a magnificent P.M.'s jewel, of special design, as a token of appreciation by the members of the Lodge of the manner in which he had conducted its business during the first two years of its existence. About forty of the brethren afterwards met at the CELEBRATION OF THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE HERTFORD LODGE.

THE brethren of the Hertford Lodge, No. 403, held a Lodge of Emergency on Tuesday the 21st ult., at the Shire Hall, Hertford, for the purpose of celebrating the Fiftieth Anniversary of the establishment of this Lodge. The present W.M., Bro. Stephen Austin, was one of the first who were initiated in the Lodge after its inauguration so that the celebration was rendered the more interesting as marking the fiftieth year of that brother's membership of the Lodge. There was a large attendance of members, together with several visitors from neighbouring Lodges. After the transaction of the routine business of the Lodge, Bro. T. S. Carter P.M. P.P.J.G.W., in the name of the members of the Lodge, presented Bro. Austin with a handsome dining-room clock, a pair of antique bronze ewers, and an address illuminated and framed, of which the following is a copy:—

To the Worshipful Bro. Stephen Austin P.P.G. Sup. Wks. Herts, W.M. and P.M. of the Hertford Lodge, No. 403.

We, the members of the Hertford Lodge, No. 403, upon the occasion of celebrating its jubilee, most fraternally request your acceptance of the accompanying timepiece as a slight token of our esteem and regard, and as a memento of your having been one of our first-initiated members. We congratulate you upon the completion of your 50th year in Freemasonry, knowing that you have been during those years a continuous subscribing member of one and the same Lodge—a fact unprecedented in the annals of the Craft. We earnestly trust that the Great Architect of the Universe will in his infinite wisdom grant you health and strength for many years, that you may be enabled to witness the growth and continued prosperity of the Order, and afford this Lodge the advantage of your matured experience.

The W.M. feelingly acknowledged the presentation, alluding to the jubilee character of the proceedings. The valuable articles presented to him would, he said, be placed in his house in such a position that his children and those who came after him might at all times look upon them and see a memento of the appreciation in which he was held by the members of his Lodge as a true, tried, and valued friend. In the course of his remarks he said that a brother had recently waited upon him with a manuscript containing a history of the Lodge, compiled from its minutes. He had added to this an article from Turner's History of Hertford, giving a brief history of the Craft, a list of the members of the Lodge from its foundation to the present time, lists of joining members and honorary members, and a list of Worshipful Masters, from the first Master of the Lodge downwards, and thinking that a copy of these documents would be interesting to the members, he had had copies printed in the form of a book, one of which he asked each member of the Lodge and each visitor to accept. The Lodge having been closed, the members and visitors adjourned to the Assembly Room, where the banquet was served.

The W.M. presided at the festive board, having among his guests the R.W. Bro. T. F. Halsey, M.P., Prov. G.M., Bros. F. H. Wilson Iles, M.D., D.P.G.M., A. W. Nash W.M. 409 P.A.G.D.C., T. Erskine Austin P.M. 475, R. J. Abbott P.M. 1473, R. Freer Austin 1591, Stephen Austin jun. 403, W. M. Armstrong P.M. 403, J. R. Dagg 449, David Roberts P.M. 754, H. C. Finch P.P.G.Regr. P.M. 404, Geo. Turner 70, Fredk. Venables W.M. 1385 P.P.G.P., Hayward Edwards P.M. 1385, John Lowthin P.M. 1885 P.P.G.S.W., J. Childs 453, George Corble 453 P.P.G.J.W. Essex, John Purrott W.M. 1479 P.G.S.B., and Malcolm Heywood P.P.G.Orgt. 403. In due course the usual toasts were introduced, the Chairman, in proposing the first stated it was one he was sure would be received with all the enthusiasm it so richly deserved. To do justice to it required more eloquence than he could command, but he considered himself (whatever he may have been in the past) to be one of the most loyal men in the kingdom. The time was when people were not so loyal as they were now, but the effect of the excellent example set by Her Majesty as a ruler, as a wife, as a mother, and in all her other relations to the community, had been most marvellous, and such as to develop the loyal feelings of all her subjects to their fullest extent. The toast was drunk with great applause, the company singing "God save the Queen." The W.M. next proposed the health of "The M.W. the Grand Master (H.R.H. the Prince of Wales)," in doing so he said it was needless for him to eulogise His Royal Highness, or to describe his merits to the present company. He was constantly before the public, and all that he did was open to their gaze. There was a time in the history of the country when a Prince of Wales acted in a contrary spirit, and when, instead of coming among his people in a way that would make him respected, admired, and loved by them, as his Royal Highness now did, he kept himself aloof, and made himself obnoxious. Such a time was even within his own recollection. He was that day thinking over what he should say on this point, when he came upon an Aylesbury newspaper which published weekly some interesting notes from an old diary, and among other items he saw this notice:—"1795,"—very nearly a hundred years ago—"June 24. The Prince of Wales's debts paid by Parliament," and what did they think the amount was? £639,829. Now, just let them fancy that sort of thing, and then let them look at the immense contrast afforded by the present Prince of Wales. They never heard of such a state of things now-a-days, and he did not believe they ever would hear of it. Some people might think it did not show good taste in him to refer to things of the past in this way, but the contrast was so pleasing that he thought he was justified in doing so, and in congratulating them upon it. They were indebted to the Prince of Wales for the great interest he took in every thing affecting their domestic life, and also for the example he set them in respect to his conduct as a husband, and as a father towards his own children. From time to time they saw in papers of a certain class inuendoes affecting the character of His Royal Highness, but he would ask them whenever they saw anything of the kind, or whenever they heard a whisper affecting his good name, to say at once, "It's a lie! its impossible that a man can fill all his relations in life with such tenderness and exactitude, and be the objectionable person that now and again he is represented by these people to be." The toast was heartily received, and followed by "God Bless the Prince of Wales." Bro. Boatwright (I.P.M.) proposed the health of "The Pro G.M., the D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers present and past." Those present who were privileged to attend the meetings of Grand Lodge must agree with him when he said that the Craft was under great obligations to the Earl of Carnarvon for the careful and conscientious manner in which he discharged the duties of his office. It was unnecessary for him to say anything respecting Lord Skelmersdale, for every one who knew anything of his lordship was acquainted with the deep interest he took in Freemasonry. After a song by Bro. Winn, "Come fill up your tankard," the W.M. proposed the health of the Provincial Grand Master; it was unnecessary for him to say anything in the way of eulogy of the brother who filled this distinguished office, inasmuch as he was so well known and appreciated by all present. Bro. Halsey possessed that most admirable quality of doing whatever he had to do in the best possible way it could be done, and he had therefore no hesitation in recommending him as an example for them to imitate. Glee by Bros. Winn, Baxter, and Beckett, "Mynheer Von Dunck." Bro. Halsey tendered his most sincere thanks for the very kind manner in which the brethren had received the toast of his health, and for their flattering expressions of feeling in regard to himself. He esteemed them very highly, because, from their originating with one who filled the position the Chairman did in his Lodge—reckoning a membership of fifty years, and filling the highest office in it—he could not regard them but as of a very high character, and as showing that his labours were appreciated. He could only say that it had given him very great pleasure to be with them on that occasion. It was the third time, independently of the day of his installation as Provincial Grand Master, that he had visited the Hertford Lodge, and he was glad to see that their work prospered as the years went on. He most sincerely hoped that this meeting, marking as it did the close of one half century of their Lodge's successful working, would be the commencement of another, and that during the next fifty years it would go on as prosperously as it had hitherto done, and show even an increased amount of work at its close. It gave him great pleasure to know—although the fact was not due to any merits of his own—that Masonry in the province was not only not deteriorating, but in spite of bad times and depression of trade was increasing. He was glad of this continued prosperity of the Lodges, and it was satisfactory to him to know that he had at least done nothing to counteract it. A song by Bro. Winn followed, and then Bro. Captain Dick P.M. rose; he said they had just enthusiastically drank the health of their Provincial Grand Master, and he certainly well deserved the toast to be so received, for surely no province ever had a better or more genial ruler. He had now to propose the health of the Deputy, Bro. Iles, and the rest of the Prov. Grand Officers present and past. In doing so he had to congratulate Bro. Iles on the way he performed the duties of his office, and carried out the wishes of the Prov. G.M.; all knew that the latter could not conduct the business of the province but for the available assistance he received from those who shared with him the onerous duties which fell upon his shoulders, and he regarded this as a fitting time to express the estimation of the services rendered by the Provincial Grand Officers past and present. The toast was drunk with great applause, and after a song by Bro. Baxter, Bro. Iles, on behalf of himself and other officers of the Prov. G.L., returned his sincere thanks for the very kind and cordial reception of the toast. That his brother officers thoroughly understood their duties was proved by their being there in such force to do honour to the Worshipful Master of the Hertford Lodge, and although some of their duties were rather onerous, others were very delightful, amongst these being to come on an occasion like the present to celebrate the united jubilee of a Lodge and a member of it—an event almost, if not altogether, unprecedented in the annals of Masonry. This event, however, conveyed a lesson which it would be well for them not to forget, namely, that when a person became a Mason, and performed his duty according to the health and strength given to him, his reward was sure to follow. It did the Hertford Lodge credit to have such a brother, and he was glad of the fact, for if there was not something in Masonry, a man of intelligence and of considerable distinction in his native town, like the W.M., would not have stuck to it for fifty years, never once leaving it during all that long period. After a glee the Chairman proposed "The memory of the Founders," and remarked that it was unnecessary for him to say much to commend this toast to the acceptance of those present. The Duke of Sussex was the Grand Master at the time of the foundation of the Hertford Lodge, and granted the warrant for it, upon the petition of Francis Crew, Alfred Septimus Dowling, Robert William James Rodgers, John Cass, Thomas Cobham, John Harwood, Joseph Francis Taylor, and others. He felt that he must say a word about Bro. Crew, who was the "head and front" of the whole matter. There were people alive now who could recollect his powers of vocalisation; anything more exquisite than his singing he (the Chairman) never heard, and he pleased the members so greatly that it was felt they must have the ladies present to listen to him. Accordingly, when singing was going on, the doors of the Lodge were opened, and the ladies, who were in the adjoining room, were permitted to hear, and this was continued for some time. The toast was drunk in solemn silence. Bro. Halsey proposed the next toast, "The W.M.," coupling with it Continued Prosperity to the Hertford Lodge. When they remembered that the Lodge was founded so long ago as the 8th of September 1829 (as he saw by the book the Chairman had kindly placed in their hands), and when he found on the 19th of October in that year in the list of initiates one of the name of Stephen Austin jun., Printer, Hertford—whom he found fifty years and three days afterwards to be exact the same Stephen Austin—but he must say senior now—in the chair, although not for the first time, they would, he thought, agree with him in saying that they had before them a career of which every Mason might be proud. It spoke well, also, for the Lodge, that it had existed so long, and that the members had a brother who had been one of their number during the whole of that period, and whom they were now pleased to have to preside over them. The Chairman had alluded in an earlier part of the proceedings to the influence of the Lodge in softening and subduing the asperities that existed in the community at the time of its foundation; and therefore should they at any time meet with people—and there were such individuals—who said that the principal object of Masonry was eating and drinking, he hoped they would point to their Worshipful Master, for it stood to reason that if a man could live in this dreadful system of eating and drinking for fifty years, and who from his hale appearance gave promise of living in it for many more years to come, there could not be that objectionable character of excess in Freemasonry. The present year marked a great era in the province, this Lodge being not alone in celebrating its jubilee, for on the 28th November the Watford Lodge—of which he had the honour of being a Past Master—would be engaged in the same agreeable proceedings. It would not fall to their lot, however—for it fell to the lot of very few Lodges—to celebrate the fiftieth year of its existence and the fiftieth year of the membership of a brother—and that brother the Worshipful Master—at one and the same time, but on behalf of the Watford brothers he would say, that if any of those present were there on the evening they celebrated their jubilee they would receive a most cordial welcome. The W.M., on rising to respond to the toast, was received with a long-continued burst of applause. On silence being at length restored, he said that he felt he must rise at once to thank them for their most kind and hearty congratulations. He felt very grateful to the Great Architect of the Universe, that notwithstanding his age he was in the full enjoyment of all his senses. He was twenty-five years of age when he was initiated in the Hertford Lodge, and having completed his fiftieth year as a member, he was now seventy-five, and he therefore could not be sufficiently thankful for the health and strength which he enjoyed. He feared that he could not make them adequately understand all he wished to convey, and that he was unable to express himself with sufficient clearness; but he asked them to put themselves in his position, and after listening to all the flattering remarks that had been made—not made, be it remembered, in any spirit of mockery or without meaning, but as the sincere expression of earnest friendship—they would understand his feelings. At the same time, it appeared to him that they must have discovered that he possessed some qualities that were unknown to himself, but this made him appreciate their kindness the more highly. He felt that he must trouble them a little longer, as he had something more to say. He was not only an old member of the Hertford Lodge, but he was also an old inhabitant of the town, being of the third generation of Stephen Austins who had resided in it. His grandfather, who was a schoolmaster and printer, came from Yorkshire and settled here, in 1768; his father was born in Hertford, and bore the name of Stephen, as he also did; and he had a son in the room now who bore the same family name, who he hoped would hand it down to another generation. Something had been said about another jubilee of the Lodge fifty years hence, and although many of them then present could not expect to witness such an interesting event, there were others who might naturally hope to take part in it, and as he felt a little pride, in his own name having been so long and agreeably associated with the Lodge, he hoped that at the termination of another fifty years of its existence some of his descendants would be found connected with it, and would then receive similar expressions of good will from its members as now he did. He had just to add that none of the members of the Lodge who assisted at its foundation were living, but one or two of the initiates of 1829 were still alive, and he desired at this time to mention their names. These were Charles Smith, of Enfield, and his friend from boyhood, Young Crawley; and then of a little later date there were. Valentine Carter, of Buntingford, George Farr, William Robert Baker, of Bayfordbury, the Right Hon. William Cowper-Temple, Dr. Woodhouse—whom he would have liked to have seen present—and Henry Kember. He had only in conclusion to thank them, and that most warmly, for the kind feelings they had expressed towards himself. Bro. Cocks (Treasurer) proposed the health of the "Visitors," remarking that it was particularly pleasing to see so many members of other Lodges present; on behalf of the Hertford Lodge he had to thank them for their attendance. Brother Nash W.M. 409 briefly replied, and in the course of his remarks referred to the geographical position of the county rendering it impossible for the members of the Craft to see each other so frequently, and to know each other so intimately, as they could wish. He was glad, however, to know that there was a solidarity about the Lodges which was the best proof of their prosperity. The Rev. L. Deeds S.W. proposed "The Masonic Institutions," a toast which, he said, was most dear to his own heart. The institutions connected with Masonry were the principal attraction that induced him to join the Hertford Lodge, an act which he had never for a moment regretted, and he most seriously hoped that all earnest men, whatever their position in life or the form of their religion might be, would unite in extending the benefits which they were calculated to confer upon all, no matter what the position in life might be in which it might have pleased the Almighty to place them. The Institutions were of undoubted excellence, of tried capability, and were bringing forth fruit which would redound to the credit of all concerned in founding and conducting them. He included the Girls' School, the Boys' School, and the Benevolent Institution in his remarks. They did not call these institutions "charities," for he trusted that Masons were far above feeling that in dispensing the funds raised for them, and in alleviating distress which might come upon their members from unforeseen circumstances, they were conferring charity in any sense of the word. Because, however, the good done by the Institutions he had named was not so well known as they might wish, an argument was used by many people against Masonry, that the members of the Craft met only for their own gratification. This he totally denied, and could speak in this respect for the Hertford Lodge since he had had the honour to belong to it; so far from wasting their time in social indulgence, and spending their funds in that way, they had given up one yearly festival, but it would be very hard and unnatural if on one evening of the year they were not to meet to do honour to the Craft, and to meet those who reflected such credit upon it. He had spoken for the Hertford Lodge, he did not believe that Masons, as a body, were given to that indulgence which was sometimes said to characterise them; their principal aim, rather, was to do good to their fellow men, and to promote a feeling of cordiality and love amongst all classes of their fellow citizens. Brother Winn now sang "John Brown," which was loudly encored, and he then gave "Come Lasses and Lads." Bro. Terry returned thanks for the manner in which the last toast had been received, and assured the company that he esteemed it a great compliment to be allowed to respond to it. Allusion had been made to the fact that these institutions were not "charities," and he might justly say, on behalf of their committees, that everything was done that could be accomplished to take away from their benefits all idea of charity. The Committees knew full well what had been done by the Hertford Lodge in the way of rendering them assistance by their contributions. He found, by referring to their books, that since its foundation the members had contributed £700 in this way, and although this sum might not appear large when spread over a period of fifty years, yet when it was remembered that it was only during the last nine or ten years that the claims of the various institutions were brought prominently before them, the amount contributed was very considerable, and on their behalf he had to thank the members of the Hertford Lodge for what they had done. Bro. Carter would represent the Lodge as Steward during the coming year; and he ventured to think that as Bro. Crew, to whom allusion had more than once been made, was at one time Secretary of the Girls' School, there was a debt of gratitude due to that institution on his account which might be paid through Bro. Carter in May 1880. Reference was then made to the Girls' School and the Benevolent Institution, and in course of an eloquent appeal for additional subscriptions to the three Institutions Bro. Terry mentioned, that if an average contribution of £60 a year could be got from each Lodge, no candidate for admission need ever be turned away for want of funds. A solo was played on the pianoforte by Brother Heywood, which was loudly applauded. The W.M. proposed the health of the Officers, thanking them very heartily for their attention during the year now closing. In connection with the toast he also wished to couple the name of Bro. Warrener, the newly-elected W.M. The Hon. Baron Dimsdale J.W. in replying said, he was only speaking the sentiments of his brother officers when he returned his most hearty thanks for the way in which the toast had been received. He must say that in all the arguments against Masonry he had heard there was nothing substantial, but they were indebted to the Senior Warden for the able manner in which he had shown how their Institutions had removed the stigma—if it was a stigma—from them as Masons, that their time was spent principally in eating and drinking. He was indebted to the Chairman, however, for another illustration of the usefulness of their Lodge, for, alluding to a period of fifty years ago, he had told them that such a feeling of animosity then existed in the town, politically and religiously, that the people were at "daggers drawn." The great corrective of this objectionable state of things, however, was the foundation of a Masonic Lodge, and therefore those who had seen and rejoiced at the entire decay of that feeling, were indebted to those men who founded it and kept it going, and to none were they more indebted than to the brother who now presided over them. It must also be satisfactory to those present that the first Masonic Lodge in the county was founded on the eastern side of it, and that an example was thus set to their friends on the other side, which, however, they were not long in following. He wished to say on behalf of the officers of the Hertford Lodge that they were anxious to promote the interests of Masonry to its utmost extent, remembering at the same time that it was their duty to do all in their power to promote that charitable and kindly feeling towards all men which was the best and surest foundation for the prosperity of States. Bro. Dr. Warrener also returned thanks, and expressed the great pleasure he experienced at being present at the celebration of the jubilee of the Lodge. He was very much pleased to see Bro. Austin in the chair, and he sincerely hoped that he would long continue to be amongst them. When, as years rolled on, however, and the time came for him to bid farewell to the Lodge below, might he indeed become a joining member of the Grand Lodge above, there to live and reign for ever. The "Tyler's Toast" was then given, and the company shortly afterwards separated.

The members of the committee appointed by the Lodge to carry out the jubilee arrangements are to be congratulated upon the success that attended their labours. To Bro. R. T. Andrews, the Secretary, great praise is due for the excellent manner in which he performed his onerous duties, and conducted the mass of correspondence which the Festival involved.—Hertfordshire Mercury.

Creaton Grand Treasurer in the chair, H. Dicketts, H. Massey, Fredk. Adlard, James Peters, Arthur E. Gladwell, A. H. Tattershall, Henry Venn, James F. Corben, E. Letchworth, H. Potter, H. A. Dubois, W. F. C. Moutrie, E. Spooner and F. R. W. Hedges Secretary. On the recommendation of the House Committee fifteen guineas was voted to apprentice an ex-pupil, and the salary of the Chief Clerk in the Secretary's office was raised from £100 to £120 a-year. Two children were placed on the list of candidates for the April Election. Bro. Dick Ratclyffe's letter, stating the principles of his Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund was ordered to lay on the table, on the motion of Bro. H. A. Dubois. The Committee then adjourned.

PAXTON LODGE, No. 1668.

THE annual meeting was held on Saturday, 25th ult., at the Crystal Palace, Sydenham. In the absence of Bro. F. W. Goddard, the W.M., the Lodge was opened by Bro. J. M. Klenck, who was supported by Bros. F. J. Sawyer S.W. and W.M. elect, W. H. Boswell J.W., H. E. Frances P.M. P.P.G.S.D. Surrey Sec., and other officers of the Lodge. Among the visitors were Bros. H. Massey, Butt, Dunn, Stock, and Morgan. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The acting W.M. then ordered the ballot to be taken for Mr. John James Henry Sayle, who was proposed by Bro. Woodhams S.D., and seconded by Bro. H. E. Frances Secretary. The result was favourable, and at the request of Bro. Klenck Bro. P.M. Frances performed the ceremony of initiation in the candidate's favour. The report of the Audit Committee was then presented and unanimously adopted. Bro. P.M. Klenck, as Director of the Ceremonies, then presented the S.W. for the benefits of installation. Bro. Frances administered the obligation, a Board of Past Masters was formed, and Bro. F. J. Sawyer regularly installed as third Master of the Paxton Lodge. On the re-admission of the brethren, the W.M. was saluted, and he appointed the following Officers:—W. H. Boswell S.W., R. E. Woodhams J.W., J. M. Klenck P.M. Treas., H. E. Frances P.M. P.P.G.S.D. Surrey Sec., N. J. Bassett (P.M.) S.D., J. R. Dodd J.D., S. Walker I.G., F. W. J. Goddard D.C., E. L. Partridge A.D.C. The Installing Officer then completed his duties, which throughout he had performed most competently, by delivering the addresses to Master, Wardens, and Brethren, and resumed his seat amidst the congratulations of those present. The first duty the W.M. undertook was formally to present to the Lodge his banner, which beside those of the previous Masters of the Lodge, with other elegant surroundings, produced a most pleasing effect. We believe the whole are the handiwork of Bro. Frances, and we cordially state that they do that artist much credit. We trust he may continue his labours in this direction for a long line of future Worshipful Masters. Bro. Boswell proposed a vote of thanks to the W.M., which was seconded by the Senior Deacon, and carried unanimously. On the W.M.'s rising, Bro. Frances stated he had now a disagreeable duty to perform. It was to announce that the I.P.M., Bro. Goddard, consequent upon heavy business engagements, and the impaired state of his health, felt constrained to tender his resignation of the Lodge. This announcement was received by the members with sincere expressions of regret, and Bro. Klenck expressed a hope that an improvement might shortly take place, and that Bro. Goddard would renew his association with the brethren. Bro. Sawyer then expressed the thanks the brethren felt were due to Bro. Frances for the valuable help he had rendered the Lodge during the past year, in the absence of the W.M., as likewise for his kindness in officiating that day as Installing Master. It was then voted that a sum of five guineas be appropriated from the Lodge Funds towards a testimonial, in slight recognition of Bro. H. E. Frances's efforts. This compliment having been acknowledged, several letters explaining non-attendance were read, and Lodge was closed. The banquet was then served by Bros. Bertram and Roberts, and on the removal of the cloth, Bro. Sawyer gave the Loyal toasts. Bro. Past Master Klenck proposed the health of the W.M. He stated that the selection the members had made would, he was assured, reflect credit on the Lodge. Bro. Sawyer possessed many good qualities, and since the inauguration of the Lodge he had ever taken deep interest in its progress and welfare. All who had been associated with him in the Lodge would agree they had the right man in the right place. Personally, he (Bro. Klenck) was convinced their Worshipful Master would do all he could to advance the Paxton Lodge. Bro. Sawyer said the time was progressing, and he had to catch more than one train before he reached home; he should, therefore, detain them but a very short time. He was very proud—indeed no one knew how proud—at having attained to the position of Master of the Paxton Lodge. Since he first entered into this wonderful brotherhood—for wonderful it really was—the more he had seen of it, the more delighted he had been. He had been struck with the ceremonies which had raised him from pillar to pillar, until he had attained the eminence on which he now found himself. Primarily, he must thank Past Master Frances, and secondarily, Past Master Klenck, for having helped him forward at such a pace—a pace that enabled him within five years of his initiation to attain the position of Worshipful Master. He would ask their initiate of that evening to try and get on as fast. If that brother would do his best to learn, and strive to emulate those who had preceded him, and eventually work up to the position of W.M., it would give him great pleasure, as much indeed as it had given him (Bro. Sawyer) to reach the chair. He knew the brethren felt as he felt; they were equally glad to see him at their head, and this fact rendered it unnecessary for him to say any more on the toast which had been so kindly proposed and cordially drunk. In proposing the health of the Initiate, the W.M. said it was a toast which they always gave attention to, and it was right they should, as there was no toast to which more honour was due. Without an Initiate there would be no Masonry. He could but repeat what he had previously said—he hoped and trusted the Initiate would do all that he possibly could for Freemasonry, and as he had been told that evening that the badge he had on was the badge of innocence and the bond of friendship, and that if he never disgraced it it would never disgrace him, he should go on and obtain the higher badges as quickly as possible. There was no difference in his connection with the Fraternity; he was as much a brother Mason now as he would be when he took the higher degrees; the only difference there was was in the degree; he would be no more a Mason in the high degree than now. Sooner or later the brethren would doubtless see Bro. Sale rise step by step until he attained the Worshipful Master's chair. It might take some little time, but he might feel assured the more attention he paid to Masonry the more pleasure would he take in his duties, and the better would he be appreciated by the brethren. Bro. Sale had no idea when he entered the Lodge that he was going to be so kindly and heartily received. He had had a desire to join the Craft many years since on account of his having been deeply impressed with its principles while living abroad, especially so while travelling in Mexico. There, if a man was a Mason, if he was not a native of the country, he was looked upon as akin to it; and he received the greatest kindness at the hands of the inhabitants. He should adopt the advice of the W.M. and strive to obtain the higher badges of which he had spoken. At this stage of the proceedings the Charity Box was passed round, and some amusement was caused by the speculative tendencies of those assembled. The health of the Visitors was the next toast, and for this Bro. Butt replied. He thanked the brethren for their hospitable reception, and wished the W.M. a happy and prosperous year of office. He complimented the Lodge on having the ceremonies so ably performed, and in having so competent a member as Bro. Frances. If the brethren would emulate their Past Masters, the Lodge would never lack a brother to fill the post of Worshipful Master. He was sorry the I.P.M. had been unable to attend; it was a great thing for a Lodge to have the Master present. Bro. Dunn followed; the previous speaker had somewhat taken the wind out of his sails. No Lodge could possibly have had the work done better. He had been to a great many Masonic gatherings, but he must say he had never enjoyed himself more. He was a member of the Jubilee Lodge, and he hoped to have the pleasure of meeting some of the members of the Paxton Lodge there. Bros. Marsh and Stock also tendered their acknowledgments. The W.M. gave "The health of the Installing Master, Bro. H. E. Frances." He had always been a prime mover and instigator in Freemasonry. He was one of the hardest working men in that particular sphere. Bro. Frances was proud of Freemasonry, and never tired of hard work in its interest. He believed that the greatest pleasure of Bro. Frances's life was to instal some one. He desired to express his best thanks to Bro. Frances for the admirable way in which he had performed the ceremonies of the evening, and in this he was sure all the brethren would concur. Bro. Frances remarked that all the W.M. had said he could endorse. He confessed he did feel infinite pleasure in putting his friends into the chair. He regretted the absence of Bro. Goddard, whom he had not seen since he was installed. Bro. Goddard was a brilliant star in the firmament of Freemasonry. The brethren would seldom meet a man who had the powers of Bro. Goddard; he was a born orator, with a marvellous flow of speech which belonged to but few. Bro. Sawyer would attend to his work; he was thoroughly sincere, and would perform the duties of the Lodge in a way that would bring credit upon it. He Bro. Frances felt somewhat that his occupation as Installing Master of the Paxton Lodge was at an end, as Bro. Sawyer would undoubtedly qualify himself to perform that duty for his successor. However, in whatever office his services were in request, he could assure them they would always be at the service of the Lodge. He was,—if anything,—an enthusiastic Mason, and his delight was to be made useful. The next toast was the health of the Past Masters, and Brother J. W. Klenck replied; whenever anything was wanted of him, the brethren might command him. He took a deep interest in the Paxton Lodge, and was gratified at its progress. The members had never a wry word or a dissension. He was pleased to find that member after member was added to their ranks. The same unanimity and concord prevailed notwithstanding this increase. He only hoped as years rolled on, and Master succeeded Master in the chair, this unanimity would exist, and that brotherly love would continue. He was greatly indebted to Bro. Frances for his kindly aid in assisting him in Freemasonry. With regard to the Charities of the Order, they had found in him (Bro. Klenck) a staunch supporter, although he had not been many years in Freemasonry; he had raised directly or indirectly £500 for their benefit. That was their end and aim. Freemasons ate and drank, were merry and enjoyed themselves; but amid the whole of that the great secret was, they were kind to those who could not help themselves. While enjoying themselves they did not forget those who required help. He was proud to be a Past Master of the Paxton Lodge, and he hoped the brethren would, with him, long enjoy each other's society. Several other toasts followed, and it was a late hour before the brethren separated. During the evening several capital songs were sung, by Bro. Marsh and others.

Lodge of Prudent Brethren, No. 145.—The first regular meeting since the recess of this ancient and excellent working Lodge was held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's Inn-fields, on Tuesday, the 28th ult., under the presidency of Bro. J. S. Leggott W.M., W. Lister S.W., Dr. Wilkinson J.W., T. Bull P.M. Treasurer, G. S. States P.M. P.G.S. Secretary, A. W. Verrell I.G. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the last regular Lodge and Emergency of 20th May were read and confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. A. P. Maynard and W. V. May, which were unanimous, and they were duly initiated into the Order by the W.M., who was ably assisted by his Officers, perfectly and impressively. The W.M., who is already a Vice President, announced his intention to again represent the Lodge as Steward in 1880 at the Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons. The Secretary reported the death of Bro. Exall, a very old and esteemed member and Past Master of the Lodge. Bro. States read several letters he had received from the widow of Bro. Exall, detailing the last illness and decease of her husband. These letters also communicated the sad intelligence that the widow was in very distressed circumstances, and requesting the brethren to aid her in her affliction. It was decided that, at a later period of the evening, an appeal should be made to the members, and the brethren prepared and signed a petition for presentation to the Board of Benevolence, where the W.M. and other brethren promised to attend and support it. The next business was to receive the report of the Committee who had been appointed to conduct the proceedings in connection with the John Boyd Memorial Fund. It was announced that a similar committee had been appointed by the Prudent Brethren Chapter, and it was intimated that both committees were in accord in regard to what was contemplated being done. It had been considered desirable that a portrait of our deceased Brother Boyd should be procured, and that the same be tendered to the Committee of the Royal Masonic Girls' School, in the welfare of which Institution Bro. Boyd invariably took a deep interest; but, on this intention coming under the consideration of the Committee, that body felt they could not consistently fall in with the views of the members of the Prudent Brethren Lodge, and accept the gift without establishing a precedent it would be undesirable to carry out in all cases. Consequently, Bro. T. Bull now proposed that the money it was intended should be devoted to that purpose be expended in the purchase of a harmonium, to be used jointly by the members of the Prudent Brethren Lodge and the Prudent Brethren Chapter, of which bodies, likewise, it was to be considered the joint property; also that a silver plate be provided and engraven with an appropriate inscription, and that a coloured portrait of the late Bro. John Boyd be attached on the front of the instrument. This latter, Bro. Bull announced, Bro. Verrell had undertaken to get hermetically sealed, with a view to its better preservation, at his own expense. Also that the instrument, with its belongings, should be insured with the other property of the Lodge. This proposition was seconded by the W.M., and, on being put by the S.W., received the unanimous assent of the members. Bro. Bull now proposed that the Lodge vote a sum of fifty guineas out of its funds, which, with a further sum of fifty guineas it was contemplated the Prudent Brethren Chapter would contribute, should be invested to provide a fund that shall perpetuate the memory of the late Bro. John Boyd through the means of an annual prize, the form of which shall be decided upon by the Committee, for the time being, of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, the said prize to be known as the John Boyd Prize. This was seconded by Bro. P.M. Thiellay, and cordially assented to by the members. Then was the case of a distressed brother brought forward, but, after full deliberation, it was concluded the appeal must be passed over. Routine business followed, and Lodge was closed. A capital banquet was now served under the personal superintendence of the "Best brother"—as a wag said—in that line, who as usual was assisted by Bro. E. Dawkins. The W.M., on rising for the toasts, intimated he should not trespass on their time by the remarks he should make. The health of Her Majesty the Queen he characterised as the toast of the evening, inasmuch as embodied with it was the sentiment of Prosperity to the Craft of which all Masons are so proud. That of the Grand Master followed, quickly succeeded by that of the Grand Officers, and then Bro. Bull proposed the health of the W.M., whom he characterised as a brother in every respect worthy of the position he occupied. Whether in the Lodge or at the banquet table Bro. Leggott always displayed ability in the discharge of his duties, while in the cause of Charity he was never tired of striving to raise funds in relief of any cause of distress. After a song by Bro. Levy, the W.M., in reply, tendered his thanks to the members for the hearty way in which they had received the toast. He urged on all Masons who aspired to the chair to make themselves thoroughly conversant with its duties. Bro. Bull had said many kind things of him which he thought he hardly deserved; however, he felt he had done something for Freemasonry. He hoped the brethren would not think he was boring them too much, but he felt it was gratifying to know that his exertions had resulted in a sum of £900 being raised for the Charities, and that in a period of six or seven years. During his membership he had done all he possibly could, not only for Freemasonry in general, but for his Lodge in particular. He hoped that when the time came for his successor to take his place, that the brethren would well support him, and assured one and all that nothing but ill health should ever keep him from his duties. In proposing the health of the Initiates, the W.M. felt they would not disgrace the Order. They were men of thought, men of solidity, men who would practise and uphold the true tenets of Freemasonry, thereby showing there was more in their profession than the mere empty name. After the two brethren complimented had expressed their thanks for the honour done them, the W.M. introduced the case of the late Bro. Exall's widow, which had already been referred to in Lodge. A substantial response was immediately made, and the Secretary was instructed to forward the money collected—£3 9s 11d—to Mrs. Exall, with an intimation of the steps the Lodge were taking with a view to her further relief. The next toast the W.M. offered was the health of the Visitors, and to all of those present he tendered a hearty welcome. He called on Bro. H. M. Levy to respond. After a song from Bro. Hart, Bro. Levy replied, thanking the W.M. and brethren for the great kindness and hospitality they extended at all times. The next toast given was "the Charities." The W.M. announced that he had undertaken the office of Steward for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution at the next Festival. He was proud to know that Bro. Terry, the Secretary of that Institution, was present. He (the W.M.) deemed it practical and prudent in every Mason to aid in supporting the Masonic Charities. He urged all present to give according to their means; he felt in the end they would be none the worse off through their generosity. He felt he had already secured a somewhat fat list, and spoke of the many vicissitudes that attended us in this life, and the consideration of these ought to stimulate us to greater application in relieving distress. He referred gracefully to the energy that Bro. Terry displayed on behalf of his Institution, and closed his remarks by urgently appealing for the support of the members. Bro. Terry, in the course of an exhaustive address urged the claims of the several Institutions. He spoke of the period of depression in trade we were now passing through, but firmly advocated the desirability of making the support of the Charities more general. He concluded by thanking the W.M. and congratulating him upon the magnificent results that had already attended his exertions in behalf of the Institutions. The other toasts comprised the Past Masters, the Treasurer and Secretary, and the Officers. In each case the W.M.'s remarks seemed to be thoroughly endorsed by the members, and were eminently satisfactory to those who were the several recipients of the honours paid. A special toast was made of the Masonic Press, and the W.M. referred to the way in which at the present time it was being conducted. With the toast was associated the name of Bro. Morgan, who acknowledged the kindness of the W.M., and made happy allusion to the efforts that were being made by the Prudent Brethren Lodge to perpetuate the memory of the late Bro. John Boyd, who was decidedly one of the most popular Masons of his day. The Tyler in due course gave his toast, and then the brethren separated.

THE YOUNGEST GRAND MASTER.—In the sketch of Bro. THOMAS S. PETTIT, in the last issue of the VOICE, it is said he is, perhaps, the youngest man ever elected to the position of Grand Master. Most Worshipful GEORGE THORNBURGH, present Grand Master of Arkansas, is a younger man, and was in his thirty-first year when he was elected. He is younger than any were, when elected, who have presided over the Grand Lodge in this State. Most Worshipful E. H. ENGLISH comes next to him. Probably Bro. THORNBURGH is the youngest Grand Master in America. If he is not, the VOICE will be glad to learn who is.—Voice of Masonry.

In Memoriam.

It is with the deepest feelings of regret we have to announce this week the death, which occurred suddenly on Friday, the 24th ult., of Bro. Henry Kyezor, of Caswell Cottage, Hounslow. Our deceased brother, at the time of his death, held the post of Senior Warden of the Lily Lodge of Richmond, and until within a few weeks was likewise a member of the Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780, at Kew. Bro. Henry Kyezor, who had spent many years of his life abroad, was a kind-hearted man, ever ready to assist in any case of distress by whomsoever brought under his notice, and when once induced to take an active part in advocating the claims—whether of an individual or a collective body—might invariably be counted on as a host in himself. On his business relationships he brought to bear the weight of sound judgment, which was always fostered and strengthened by a firm resolve to master all details. He was a man who had devoted much time to the study of books, and many there are who are indebted to him for the happy way in which he strove to make the knowledge he had thus acquired of service to his friends. The funeral took place on Tuesday, the 28th ult., at Kensal Green Cemetery, where the service was conducted in a deeply impressive manner by the Rev. H. C. Davies. Bro. Kyezor leaves a widow, two daughters, and a son. To them we tender our deep sympathy in the time of their affliction.

CONSECRATION OF THE SIR HUGH MIDDELTON CHAPTER, NO. 1602.

THE Consecration of this Chapter took place at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, on Friday, 10th October, when Comp. Edward G. Sim P.M. 1602 was installed as M.E.Z., Comp. John Cogan P.M. 1365 as H., and Comp. David Moses as J. The ceremony was perfectly performed by E. Comp. James Terry Prov. G.D.C. Herts as Z., E. Comp. W. Stephens as H., and E. Comp. Edgar Bowyer P.P.G.D. Herts as J., assisted by Comps. Hobbs, Wagner, &c. Comp. Osborne J.W. 1602 was invested as Scribe E., and Comp. John Weston S.W. 1602 as Scribe N. After the Chapter was closed, the Comps. adjourned to an excellent banquet in their dining hall, where they spent a most enjoyable evening. The musical arrangements were under the direction of Comp. Cozens, assisted by Comps. Hubbard and Ashton.

On Friday, the 24th October, a meeting was held at the Agricultural Hall, Islington. Present—Comps. E. G. Sim M.E.Z., John Cogan H., David Moses J., Osborne S.E. Visitors—Comps. Hobbs, Cusworth, Lee, and others. The minutes of the Consecration meeting were read and confirmed, after which Bro. W. Norris S.D. 1602, R. G. Thomas Organist 1602, John Greenfield Treasurer 1602, J. H. Peach I.G. 1237 were exalted into R.A. Masonry. Bro. Norris was duly elected and invested P.S., and Bro. Greenfield appointed and invested (this being a new Chapter) as A.S. Chapter having been closed, the Companions adjourned to a banquet, supplied by Bro. Grist in his well-known excellent style. The usual toasts were in due course given; the Exaltees returned thanks for the compliment paid them. Comp. Greenfield, who is an initiate of 1602, reminded the M.E.Z. and others present that this was the second time he had had the honour of responding under similar circumstances. He expressed a hope that harmony and good feeling would prevail in the Chapter, as it had in the mother Lodge; the principal Officers had already joined the Chapter, which from its position promises to become a very successful one. The Officers are well known, and are all excellent workers, especially the M.E.Z.

INSTALLATION MEETING OF THE CASTLE LODGE, No. 1621.

THIS young, but rising Lodge, held its fourth annual installation meeting on Friday, the 24th ult., at the Crown Hotel, Bridgnorth, when about thirty brethren met to do honour to the W.M. elect. Lodge was opened at half-past three by the W.M. Bro. H. B. Southwell, when there were present the following Officers and brethren:—Bros. E. J. Chittey I.P.M., J. Stokes P.M. 252, 1261, P.G. Reg. N. Wales and Shropshire, P.P.G.S.W. Worcestershire, J. C. W. Lister P.M. 1120, P.G.P. N. Wales and Shropshire, Dr. Abm. Colles S.W. (W.M. elect), Hubert Smith Treas., Thomas Whitefoot Sec., Thos. Pratt S.D., W. Simms J.D., J. Sewell Organist, E. M. Southwell, T. Whitefoot jun., E. Cooper Stewards, A. S. Trevor I.G., T. Tyler Tyler, C. G. De Lessert, J. S. Vince, W. L. Southwell, J. W. Chadwick 377, T. Dowell, A. Pitt, J. J. Harris and J. H. Cooksey. Visitors—The Mayor of Bridgnorth Bro. J. W. McMichael 938, T. K. Rowbotham P.M. 275, P.P.G.J.W. West Yorks, W. Waring W.M. 252, T. McCandless W.M. 377, A. Comber J.W. 877, P.G.S. Worcester, H. Preen 377. The minutes of the last regular meeting, and of a subsequent Lodge of Emergency, having been read and confirmed, Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Dr. Abm. Colles presented to the Installing Master Bro. Joseph Stokes, to receive at his hands the benefit of installation. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Dr. Colles inducted into the chair in due form. The brethren were re-admitted and saluted their new Master, who proceeded to invest his Officers as follow:—Bro. H. B. Southwell I.P.M., T. Pratt S.W., W. Simms J.W., Hubert Smith Treasurer, T. Whitefoot, jun. Secretary, A. S. Trevor S.D., E. M. Southwell J.D., E. J. Chittey D. of C., J. Sewell Organist, E. Cooper I.G., B. Perry, A. Pitt, J. H. Cooksey Stewards, T. Tyler Tyler. The addresses were next given by Bro. Stokes in that eloquent and impressive manner so familiar to most of those present. The ceremony being completed, the newly-installed W.M. rose to present the retiring Master with a P.M.'s jewel; he expressed the great pleasure he felt in doing so; Bro. Southwell was held in great esteem by the members of the Lodge, and the past year had been most pleasantly spent under his rule, he trusted he might long continue to attend and assist in the direction of the Lodge. Bro. Southwell said he could not express his thanks to the W.M. and brethren as he could wish, he might, however, assure them that he deeply felt their kindness towards him, which he was afraid he scarcely merited. He regretted that the time had arrived when he had to relinquish what had been to him a most agreeable office, this feeling of regret was, however, considerably mitigated by the thought that the Brother who was following him would so ably discharge the duties of his position. Letters of apology were read from the R.W. P.G.M. Sir Watkin W. Wynn Bart., M.P., and other brethren, and hearty good wishes having been tendered by the various Visitors, Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet. After the admirable repast, provided by Bro. J. S. Vince, had been disposed of, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured. Bro. Rowbotham, in responding to the toast of "The Visitors," said that he must congratulate Bro. Stokes on his excellent performance of the duties of Installing Master. He was an old member of the Craft, and had witnessed many installations, but he must say that he had seen few brethren who could equal Bro. Stokes in the office, certainly none who could surpass him. Other visiting brethren also responded, expressing their appreciation of the reception given them by the members of 1621. The evening's enjoyment was much enhanced by the singing of various brethren, notably the characteristic Irish songs of Bro. C. De Lessert, and the musical selections of Bro. Sewell Organist, which were as usual highly appreciated. The time having arrived for the departure of those brethren leaving by train, the Tyler was summoned, and an extremely pleasant meeting thus brought to a close.

[SEAL.] BEAUFORT, G.M.

No. 228. To all and every our Right Worshipful, Worshipful and loving Brethren.

WE, Henry Somerset, Duke of Beaufort, Marquis of Worcester, Earl of Worcester and Glamorgan, Viscount Grosmont, Baron Herbert, Lord of Ragland, Chepstow and Gower, and Baron Beaufort of Caldecot Castle,

GRAND MASTER

OF THE MOST ANCIENT AND HONOURABLE SOCIETY OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS.

GREETING. Know ye that we, at the Humble Petition of our Right Worshipful and well-beloved brethren Philip Cole, Benjamin Dorset, Joseph Sutton, William Eldridge, Edward Stevens, William Peale, Daniel Remy and John Sweatman, do hereby constitute the said brethren into a regular Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, to be opened at Pons Coffee House, in Castle-street, Leicester Fields. And further, at their said petition, and of the great trust and confidence reposed in every of the said above-named brethren do hereby appoint Philip Cole to be Master, Benjamin Dorset Senior Warden, and Joseph Sutton Junior Warden, for opening the said Lodge, and for such further time only as shall be thought proper by the brethren thereof, it being our will that this our appointment of the above Officers shall in no wise affect any proper election of Officers of the Lodge, but that such elections shall be regulated agreeable to such bye-laws of the said Lodge as shall be consistent with the General Laws of the Society contained in the Book of Constitutions. And we hereby will and require you, the said Philip Cole, to take special care that all and every the said brethren are, or have been, regularly made Masons, and [that] they do observe, perform, and keep all the rules and orders contained in the Book of Constitutions.

And further that you do from time to time cause to be entered in a book for that purpose an account of your proceedings in the Lodge, together with all such rules, orders, and regulations as shall be made for the good government of the same, and that in no wise you omit once in every year to send to us or our successors, Grand Masters, or to the Honourable CHARLES DILLON, our Deputy Grand Master, or to the Deputy Grand Master for the time being, and account in writing of your said proceedings, and copies of all such rules, orders, and regulations as shall be made as aforesaid, together with a list of all the members of the Lodge, and [such a] sum of money as may suit the circumstances of the Lodge and reasonably be expected towards the Grand Charity. Moreover, we hereby will and require you, the said Philip Cole, as soon as conveniently may be, to send an account in writing of what shall be done by virtue of these presents.

Given at London, under our Hand and Seal of Masonry, this 14th of April A.L. 5768, A.D. 1768.

By the Grand Master's Command,

CHARLES DILLON, D.G.M.

Witness,
Tho. French, G.S.

NOTE.—I have examined the foregoing transcript, and see no reason to doubt that the original from which it was made was issued at the date named. The number (228) is the only feature calling for remark, and unless we forthwith post date the Warrant to the year 1792 [see Correspondence column], it is abundantly evident that the number shown on the left hand margin must have been interpolated after the publication of the revised numbers in the Freemason's Calendar for 1793. Referring to the concluding paragraph of my letter of the 23rd October [see page 291], it may be added that of the Lodges actually constituted in 1768, which range between Nos. 413-435 on the 1769 list, all but two are carried forward in the revised list published after the change of numbers in 1770, these two Lodges being thus described in 1769:—

421. Sun Lodge of Perpetual Friendship. Bristol, Mar. 28 1768
428. St. Christopher July 1768

If, therefore, the No. 349 of 1770 is not No. 324 of 1769. It can only be either No. 421, or 428 of 1769, which is plainly impossible. On the other hand, the No. 324 of 1769—the only Lodge meeting at Pons Coffee House, Leicester Fields, between 1765-69—is demonstrated to have been in active existence on 30th October 1767 [being entered as represented in the minutes of G. Lodge] not quite six months prior to the date of the Warrant exhibited above. At this period, moreover, no Lodges were erased without a note of the circumstance occurring in the Grand Lodge minutes. No such note is to be found in connection with No. 324 between 1767-70.

Brethren interested in inquiries of the kind will find the foregoing statements amply confirmed by an examination of my lists for 1769 and 1770 in "The Four Old Lodges," pp 60-65. The description of the Lodge at Pons Coffee House, in the 1770 list, clearly evidencing that the engraver has taken it from No. 324 in the list for 1769. The bare date—1768—without day of month is tolerably conclusive on this point, and had the Lodge been constituted—[i.e., formed or established, and not merely warranted]—in 1768, it would certainly have appeared in its proper order of seniority, somewhere lower down in the list, say at about the No. 358 [1770].

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c., as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Robert Burns Chapter, No. 25.—This old Chapter met on Monday, the 27th ult., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Present—Comps. G. R. Shervill Z., C. Martin H., W. Land J., W. Kirby P.Z. Treasurer, J. Allsopp P.Z., T. Robinson P.Z., W. Platt P.Z. S.E., W. W. Baxter S.N., F. Hatton P.S., W. Elsley 1st Asst., J. E. Shand 2nd Asst., H. H. Smith W.S. Visitors—Comps. B. H. Swallow P.Z., E. J. Scott P.Z., and M. Crook, all of Hermes Chapter, No. 77, and Dr. Ramsay. The Chapter having been opened in due form, and the minutes of previous Convocation read and confirmed, ballots were taken for the W.M. of the Robert Burns Lodge, and also for the S.D., in both cases resulting unanimous in favour of those brethren. From unavoidable causes, however, they were not present. The three principal addresses were given, after which the resignation of an old Comp.—John Bennett, Z. in 1857—was received with great regret. The Chapter was then closed until January next, and the Companions dined together in the Preston Room. The usual toasts were given, interspersed with some excellent singing, and a very enjoyable evening was spent. The M.E.Z. referred, both in Chapter and at banquet, in touching and pathetic terms to the decease of late Comp. W. Watson P.Z., the oldest member of the Chapter; he was one of the signatories of the application for the Charter in 1844. The M.E.Z. stated that he had attended his last obsequies, in Suffolk, and proposed a toast to his pious memory, which was drunk in silence.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction. No. 27.—A meeting was held on 30th October, at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street. Present—Bros. Webb W.M., J. Da Silva S.W., Moss J.W., L. Norden Sec., Gimingham S.D., Kahn I.G., C. H. Webb Preceptor, and others. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of passing, Bro. Kahn acting as candidate. The Lodge was closed in the second degree. Bro. Moss worked the third and fourth sections of the first lecture assisted by the brethren. Bro. Da Silva was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—Held at Bro. Butt's, the New Market Hotel, West Smithfield, on Monday, the 27th October. Present—Bros. Tolmie W.M., Hallam sen. S.W., Gush J.W., Wing Acting Preceptor, Fenner Sec., Pelikan I.G.; also Bros. Swales, Parkinson, Willison, Moss, Rushton, Halle, Gladwell, Gibbs, Fox, King, Sadler, Pilson, Symonds, Droscher, Isaac, R. W. Pearcy, Powell, and others. The usual formalities were complied with, and the Fifteen Sections were worked by the W.M., assisted by the following brethren:—First Lecture: Bros. Patrick, Sillis, Willison, Gush, D. Moss, H. R. Hallam sen., Sadler. Second Lecture: Bros. J. B. King, Pelikan, C. S. Fox, H. P. Isaac, A. W. Fenner. Third Lecture: Bros. A. Wing, G. G. Symons, J. A. Powell. Bros. Rushton, of Crusaders Lodge 1677, and Pilson, of Scientific Lodge No. 88, were elected members. A vote of thanks was warmly accorded to Bro. Tolmie for the very excellent manner he had worked the Sections. A vote was also accorded to those brethren who had assisted him. Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

Prosperity Lodge, No. 65.—An "off" night! Commend us to "off" nights, whenever they can be made so practically useful and so thoroughly enjoyable as was the meeting of this Lodge on the evening of the 23rd ult. at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street, E.C. Paradoxical as it may appear, the want of work gave opportunity for better work than would probably have been found had the agenda been carried out as originally intended. The unexpected inability of two accepted candidates to attend for initiation afforded a leisure of which the fullest advantage was taken, and the result was highly gratifying, both as regards the interests of the Lodge itself, and those of Freemasonry in general. The Lodge was opened at the appointed hour by Bro. C. Daniel W.M., with all his Officers at their respective stations, there being present Bros. C. E. Terry S.W., W. Chicken J.W., J. Roberts S.D., Schadler J.D. E. W. Braine I.G., J. G. Goodwin P.M. and Treas., C. Jones Acting Secretary, L. A. Lems P.M. and D.C., H. Caton, J. L. Rudd, C. J. Rich, A. Paull, R. Fox, W. H. Barber, W. J. Wright, W. Henson, T. Sowell, A. Plater, W. D. McCallum, H. Chivers, and Visitors Bros. Stevens P.M., The Great City; A. Martin P.M., Joppa; J. Gardner, City of Westminster; W. A. Hunt, Crichton; and R. F. Gray, St. Barnabas. The minutes of the previous meeting having been confirmed, the ballot was taken for two candidates who were fully expected to be present for initiation, and whilst waiting their attendance the Lodge was passed and raised, and closed to the first degree, when the announcement was made that the expected candidates were at the last moment prevented from attending. An unusual incident then occurred. The Lodge had on a previous occasion very materially assisted a worthy member whose circumstances had changed through unforeseen calamity; and by the intervention of the W.M. and his Officers, his case had been brought before the Board of Benevolence with a highly satisfactory result. To his honour, be it said, he saw fit to attend and to acknowledge, in open Lodge, his deep sense of thankfulness for the assistance afforded, and his manner of doing this left it very doubtful in the minds of the brethren as to which party had most cause to be gratified with this practical exemplification of the true principles of the Order. The worthy brother, by his simple acknowledgments, himself unwittingly did good service to the cause of Charity, and the hearts thus stirred by his grateful thanks were at once expanded by a desire for further benevolence. The W.M., Bro. Daniel, stated his willingness to act as Steward for the Benevolent Institution at its ensuing Festival, with a personal donation; the Lodge itself voted ten guineas, and a well-known brother supplemented that vote by a farther sum of equal amount. Thus was set afoot the nucleus of a Stewards' list which will materially help the funds of the Institution and be worthy of the Lodge which bears the title of "Prosperity." Long, indeed, may prosperity attend it, and enable it to continue such laudable Masonic work. The W.M., addressing the Visitors, apologised (quite needlessly as they remarked), for whatever disappointment they experienced from absence of work and non-provision for subsequent entertainment, but requested them to remain for a "grog and cigar," and social chat on matters Masonic. He then closed the Lodge and assembled the brethren around him for that purpose. In the brief hour allotted for friendly converse and harmony formality was banished, and subjects of general interest to Freemasons were introduced and discussed. The chord of sympathy and benevolence which had been struck in the Lodge vibrated with pleasing effect in the midst of this genial intercourse, and a reference to what might be done by a little self-denial and able management called forth a statement from Bro. A. Martin in respect of the Fund of Benevolence attached to his Lodge, Joppa 188, and the good it had been able to effect; which statement, in our belief, laid the foundation for the constitution of a similar fund in connection with "Prosperity." Bro. Stevens P.M. 1426, having been introduced by the W.M. as the author of the lately published work on "Uniformity of Masonic Working," availed himself of the opportunity for explaining his views. It is evident that Bro. Stevens is in earnest on this subject, and if he can but substantiate in Grand Lodge what he put forward at this meeting, we cannot see how his request for a Committee of Inquiry in the first place, and probably the Lodge of Preceptors he suggests, can be objected to. It is quite certain that the place must be "tyled" wherein such practices as he condemns can be spoken of, and that he has the difficulty to contend against that he cannot make known to the Craft generally those important particulars with which they ought to be acquainted before deciding the question, except in an assembly of Masons. Whether he succeeds or not in his attempt, he is certainly doing good service by calling attention to the evil arising from want of a controlling authority in respect of Masonic working. His remarks were listened to with considerable attention and evident approval, the thanks of the brethren for his explanations being spontaneous and hearty. Some delightful harmony mingled with the remaining proceedings of the evening, and members and visitors separated at an early hour mutually pleased with each other, and with the unrestrained good fellowship of a "Prosperity" "off" night.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.—At Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, 28th Oct. Present: Bros. King W.M., Chicken S.W., Roberts J.W., Salomons S.D., Maidwell J.D., Caton I.G., Hollands, Daniel, Bristow, Wren, Shadler, Hodges, and Pilson. The Lodge was opened in due form. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The three degrees were rehearsed by the W.M. in a very creditable manner. This gave the several Officers plenty of work, and materially advanced them in their duties. Bros. Bristow 1637, Salomons 1017, Hodges 217, were elected members. Bro. Chicken was appointed W.M. for the ensuing Tuesday. Bros. Daniel and King gave notice that their subscriptions were open to form Life Governorships for the Old Men and Women, to be drawn for at this Lodge of Instruction. The Annual Supper will be held on the third Tuesday in November. Tickets to be had of Bros. Maidwell, King, and Daniel.

Thanks were also awarded those brethren who had assisted.

In the absence of the W.M., through illness, the chair was occupied by Bro. Simson J. Byng the I.P.M., who discharged the duties in his usual masterly and impressive manner. The banquet, which followed, was served in Bro. Clemow's well-known style, and was of a most récherché character. Among the numerous visitors were Bros. Warner Sleigh, Keith Frith, John Williams, J. Page, &c. During the evening some admirable recitations were given by the brothers above mentioned.

The Lodge was resumed in the first degree, and closed according to ancient form.

Ward, in a suitable address, returned thanks. The Companions afterwards adjourned to the Northumberland Arms, New Quay, to celebrate their annual festival, when a most pleasant evening was spent, the cuisine reflecting the highest credit on the worthy and attentive host and hostess, Comp. and Mrs. Redford.

Maton answered the questions leading to the second degree and retired. Lodge was advanced, and the W.M. impressively rehearsed the ceremony of raising, Bro. Goss representing the candidate. Lodge was closed to the first degree, and Bro. Maton was re-admitted. Bro. Gomm was unanimously elected W.M. for next meeting. The intelligence of Bro. Kyezor's decease was communicated. Bro. Goss proposed, and Bro. Gomm seconded, a resolution—"That Bro. Secretary be requested, on behalf of the brethren of the Royal Alfred Lodge of Instruction, to convey to Bro. Kyezor's widow their sympathy and condolence with her in her bereavement." (This was done by letter the same evening.) The brethren also expressed their regret at learning that Bro. Gunner (Hon. Sec.) was unable to leave his room through an attack of illness. Lodge was then closed, with due observance of ancient custom, and the meeting adjourned till 31st October at half-past seven p.m.

The brethren partook of a banquet, that gave unqualified satisfaction. Grace having been said, the W.M., in brief and eloquent terms, proposed the Loyal and Masonic toasts, Bro. E. P. Albert P.G.P. returning thanks in his usual effective manner for the Grand Officers. The health of the W.M. was proposed. Great credit was due to him for the admirable manner in which he had conducted the duties of the Lodge. This having been responded to by Bro. Lazarus, the toasts of the P.M.'s was followed by that of the Visitors, for whom Bro. T. Foxall P.M. returned thanks. Among this division were Bros. E. Jacobs 447, J. Ramsay 1423, J. S. Lodge of Progress, No. 1768.—All the founders are pupils of the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, and, in nearly every instance, if not quite, are active working members thereof. Desirous of perpetuating Emulation ritual, as well as cementing friendships formed in acquiring the knowledge of the same, several brethren last year petitioned for the formation of this Lodge. The Progress was consecrated last October by our esteemed Grand Secretary, Bro. John Hervey, Treasurer of the Emulation Lodge, and Bro. W. Alfred Dawson was installed first Master. Two emergency meetings have been held, in addition to the regular ones, during the past twelve months, and the number of brethren now enrolled is considerable. No. 1768 is essentially a non-banqueting Lodge, the fourth degree only being observed at the installation. On Wednesday last the installation meeting was held, on which occasion Bro. F. R. Spaull was inducted into the chair of K.S. by the retiring Master, Bro. Dawson, the ceremony being admirably performed. Bros. C. A. Murton P.G.D. and T. Fenn P.G.D. occupied the Wardens' chairs. Oskenden S.D., Albert Marvin J.D., W. G. Kentish I.G., Muzio M.C., J. E. Hunt W.S., Sadler G.T. Tyler. Amongst the Visitors present were Bros. J. Spaull P.G. Sec. Shropshire, Wilson P.M., &c., and the members not already mentioned, Bros. A. A. Richards P.D.C., W. Smallpeice P.M., H. G. Buss Assist.-G. Sec., Lee, Gaze, Dunlop, Cottam, Whittaker, Fyson, &c. Rev. Bro. J. R. Simpson wrote apologising for his absence. A handsome P.M.'s jewel was presented to Bro. Dawson, and he was heartily congratulated on the success attending his year of office. After the Lodge was closed the brethren sat down to banquet, and the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given, including "The Committee of the Emulation." All the speeches were judiciously short.

Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction.—The weekly meeting took place on Tuesday last at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's Alley, Cornhill. The Chapter was opened in due form, with the following Officers:—Comps. Brown M.E.Z., Gillard H., Catterson J., Goldsmith P.S., and Walker N. The ceremony of exaltation was gone through, Comp. W. P. Catterson, of the Wellington Chapter, No. 548 candidate, and he afterwards became a member. The ceremony was performed by Comp. Brown in a faultless manner. Any Royal Arch Masons who wish to progress cannot do better than attend this Chapter. The Companions meet every Tuesday evening at seven o'clock.

THE OWL CLUB.

THE members of this popular club gave an entertainment on Monday, at their now established quarters, the Cannon-street Hotel. There was a very large attendance, and the Pillar Room was taxed to the full extent of its space capacity. The programme, which was admirably carried out, contained fifteen items; of these the most successful of the concerted pieces was the Glee, "By Celia's Arbour," which may be ranked as the gem of the evening; the artists who took part in it were Messrs. E. Collins, Albert James, A. Hubbard and A. J. Thompson. The latter gentleman was very successful in the song, by Clay—"The shades of Evening Close around"—and which the audience induced him to repeat. A similar compliment was paid Mr. E. Collins when he sang "My sweetheart when a boy." Mr. Kift contributed a couple of pianoforte solos, which he executed faultlessly. Another feature of the entertainment we must not omit to mention was the Part Song—"The Image of the Rose," in which Mr. Albert James undertook the solo. We understand this Club, which is limited to 200 members, has but a very few vacancies, and from the desire always shown to participate in the membership we should recommend any of our readers who contemplate joining to make early application. The next entertainment will be given on Monday, 10th of November.

OUR SCHOLARS IN AFTER LIFE.

ROYAL MASONIC PUPILS' ASSISTANCE FUND.

THE formation of a fund for the purpose of placing in situations the pupils who leave our Schools, or otherwise advancing them in life, has for many years past been a subject that has exercised the attention of the Craft. Proposals have been made from time to time with a view of starting the desired fund; among the most prominent Masons who have advocated the claims of the pupils being the Right Hon. Lord Leigh, who forcibly impressed on the Craft the desirability and real need of something being done; Bro. Jabez Hogg, who suggested that some part of the amount voted by Grand Lodge to commemorate the return of the Grand Master from India should be applied to some such purpose; and Bro. Clabon, who has on more than one occasion mooted the question in Grand Lodge, in connection with the accumulated funds of the Lodge of Benevolence. Up till recently, however, no decided steps had been taken towards its actual foundation, if we may except the discussions which have been made at various times in Grand Lodge. On one of these occasions ---June 1868—on the subject being brought forward by Bro. Clabon, there seemed to be a fair prospect of success, for the matter was then referred to a Special Committee appointed to report on the subject to Grand Lodge. As the report of the Committee, as well as the proposition of Bro. Clabon may be unknown to, or forgotten by, very many of the present generation of Freemasons, and as the arguments then used are therein fully set forth, we reproduce the Report in extenso. The proposition of Bro. Clabon, which called for the appointment of the Special Committee was brought before Grand Lodge in the following form :—

BRO. CLABON'S SCHEME.

Considering The large amount of the Reserve Fund of Benevolence, and the annually increasing surplus of that Fund (as shewn by a table of the actual figures from 1840 to 1867).

Considering That no reason exists for continuing this accumulation, and that, without diminishing the principal of the Reserved Fund, the annual surplus may be applied with advantage for the benefit of this generation.

Considering That there is no existing provision for apprenticing the children of Freemasons on their leaving the Masonic Schools, or in otherwise assisting them to commence life.

MOVE TO RESOLVE—

That one-third of the annual surplus of the Fund of Benevolence be appropriated for the Boys' School, and another third for the Girls' School, in forming funds for such apprenticeship and assistance.

That such one-third parts respectively be invested, and the Dividends paid to the House Committee of either School.

That the House Committee for the time being of each School do apply the Dividends of the fund respectively appropriated to the School in their discretion for the benefit of children who have been at the School—

In apprenticing them to any business or profession;

In making annual payments for a limited period to those proceeding to any of the Public Schools, Colleges, or Universities;

In aiding them to establish themselves in any business or profession;

With power to appropriate the surplus of one year in like manner in future years; and rendering to the Grand Lodge an annual account of their receipts and expenditure on account of the said funds.

The Committee first proceeded to consider the general question of the appropriation of the Fund of Benevolence, and the mode of dealing therewith, making various suggestions, which they considered necessary, and then presented the following report to Grand Lodge on Bro. Clabon's Scheme :—

Your Committee have carefully considered the Scheme, and the reasons prefixed to it.

They learn from the Grand Secretary that the Table given in the Scheme is correct.

The investments of the Fund of Benevolence at the end of 1868 were £9748 Three per Cent. Consols, and £19,000 lent on mortgage of the property of Grand Lodge, at Four per Cent. interest. The interest received in 1867 was £1053 15s 1d, but this was rather more than a year's interest, which, on the present fund, will be about £1025. The accumulated fund in 1860 was £19,000 Three per Cent. Consols. The subsequent increase has arisen from the investment of the annual surplus of the fund.

The fund pays £800 a year to the Royal Benevolent Institution for aged Freemasons and their Widows (£500 to the male fund and £300 to the widows' fund), and your Committee notice that even if the £19,000 secured on mortgage were paid off, and invested in Three per Cent. Consols, the dividends of the whole fund would more than suffice to pay this £800 a year.

The Committee observe that the surplus of the Fund of Benevolence diminished from £888 in 1860 to £179 in 1862, since which time it has steadily increased, having been £587 in 1863, £915 in 1864, £1843 in 1865, £1989 in 1866, and £2372 in 1867.

The Scheme only proposes to deal with two-thirds of the Surplus of each year, thus leaving it in the power of the Lodge of Benevolence, of the Grand Master on its recommendation, and of Grand Lodge, to apply the whole income of the Fund of Benevolence for distressed Masons or their families.

And it leaves one-third of any surplus of each year to be dealt with, as is at present the case with the whole surplus, by accumulation.

Your Committee, after full consideration, are of opinion that the time has arrived when it is not desirable to continue the accumulation of the whole of the surplus, and that a portion of it may be applied with advantage in making provision for apprenticing the children of Freemasons on their leaving the Masonic Schools, or in otherwise assisting them to commence life.

Until the recent change in the Rules of the two Schools, there was no fund existing for such apprenticeship or assistance. The amended Rules of each School now provide that upon a child leaving the School, if found deserving, and the General Committee shall be satisfied that there is a fair prospect of the child's obtaining by such aid the means of permanent provision, such Committee may appropriate for his or her benefit, in such manner as may seem best, a sum not exceeding £15. But the Committees have no special funds for this purpose; any aid to be given must come out of the general revenues of their School, if sufficient.

Your Committee have ascertained that about twelve girls leave school every year, of whom half at least require help, to the extent, on an average, of £25 each; and that, on an average, from fifteen to twenty boys leave school each year, full one-half of whom require assistance to start them in life, to the extent of from £30 to £50.

The boys leave at the age of 15 and the girls at 16. They could not be kept longer in the Schools, without a serious limit to the numbers admitted. It is clear that, at this age, there ought to be some apprenticeship, or period of qualifying themselves to earn their own living. Another two years, with proper help, would finish the education of the girls, and qualify them to be governesses; or it would enable them to learn a trade. Another but longer period, with like help, would enable the more clever boys to continue their studies, in the hope of their rising to eminence, and enable the others to learn a trade, or otherwise aid them to become bread-winners. It is this help which the Scheme proposes to furnish to those children whose parents or friends cannot afford to give it.

The Committee having very carefully considered the Scheme, passed the first paragraph of it, which contains the principle of the Scheme, unanimously, adding words to recognise the power of Grand Lodge to stop the appropriation at any time.

They have made various alterations in the remainder of the Scheme, the most important being that, instead of leaving it to the House Committee of either School to give the aid, they place this duty on the General Committee, on the recommendation of the House Committee, and that no aid is to be given by the General Committee beyond £25, except it be confirmed by a Quarterly Court.

The following is the Scheme, as amended and adopted by your Committee :—

annual surplus of the Fund of Benevolence shall be appropriated for the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and another third for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, in forming funds for apprenticing the children of Freemasons who have been in those Schools, or in otherwise assisting them to commence life.

(b.) "Such one-third parts respectively shall be invested in the names of four Trustees for each School, to be appointed by Grand Lodge, and the dividends paid to the Treasurer of each School.

(c.) "The General Committee, on the recommendation of the House Committee of each School, may apply the dividends of the funds respectively appropriated to the School for the benefit of children who have been at the School during the preceding twelve months, in apprenticing them to any business or profession, or otherwise aiding them to obtain employment, or in applying any sum granted, by annual instalments, for a limited period, for the benefit of those proceeding to any School, College, or University.

(d.) "No sum exceeding £25 shall be appropriated for the benefit of any child, without the consent of the Quarterly Court of the School, and such Court shall render to Grand Lodge an annual account of the receipts and expenditure on account of the said funds."

Your Committee recommend the adoption of this Scheme by Grand Lodge, and suggest the following motion to be made in Grand Lodge for the purpose:—

"That the Scheme, as recommended by the Committee, be, and the same is hereby adopted by Grand Lodge, and added to the Book of Constitutions under the head Fund of Benevolence, after No. 16, as Nos. 17, 18, 19, and 20."

And, in the event of the foregoing motion being carried,

"That No. 3 under the same head be amended by adding, after the word 'shall' in the second line, the words 'except as provided for by Clauses Nos. 17, 18, 19 and 20.'"

It is, of course, in the knowledge of our readers that these suggestions of Bro. Clabon and the Special Committee of Grand Lodge were never acted upon, but we think that if the matter was again brought forward, backed, as it now is, by the experience gained during the past few months, something would be contributed by Grand Lodge, either in the form of a donation or annual grant to the Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund, or by adopting the suggestion of the Committee of 1868-9.

The prominence that has been given to this subject during the last few months has naturally led to discussion on the merits of the proposals set forth by the founders of the Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund, and opinions have been freely expressed on the desirability, as well as the practicability, of carrying out the scheme as laid down by them. It is generally admitted that the proposal in itself is good, and that some sort of assistance would doubtless prove of immense benefit to a person in the start of life, but opinions vary considerably as to the form the assistance shall take, and by whom it shall be rendered. Brethren object to the pupils or their friends being led to think that for all time they will be justified in making claims on the generosity of the Craft, and naturally so, but the proposals as at present put forward do not justify the belief that anything approaching such indiscriminate charity is contemplated, nor do we imagine a suggestion so demoralising would be entertained for an instant. Others point out that the amount annually spent on the education of the children in the Schools at Wood Green and Battersea is sufficient to allow of their being prepared in such a way as to suit them for any position they may be called upon to fill, and if they require that a large sum of money be expended before they are capable of accepting a situation, then their education is not carried out as it ought to be. We would refer such objectors to the report quoted above, and further point out that the first work of the Assistance Fund should be to provide situations, and later on, to offer premiums to be contested for, either by ballot or as may afterwards be determined; but that the money grants should be so limited in amount as to be in reality but prizes, just sufficient to enable a boy or girl to provide the necessaries of life during the first few months of their business career, when, as a rule, the salary given is a mere nominal amount, meant more as an encouragement than as payment for services. These grants might be renewable, under certain conditions, say up to eighteen months, or even two years; but we would make the limits so narrow as to preclude any possibility of the generosity of the Craft being put to an unworthy use. The real object being to start the pupils on their business career, we think that the Committees of the Schools are not among those best suited to undertake such a work, their duties being already of a sufficiently onerous nature. More will be done by personal interest or individual attention than could ever be hoped for if money alone were to be the motive power. It is not so necessary that a boy or girl should have a position purchased for them, as it is that they should have a friend to watch and direct their course, and this, we think, can only be secured by forming an Association distinct from the two Schools, in so far as constitution and funds are concerned, but working together in all matters likely to tend to the pupils' advantage.

In urging on our readers the fact that influence will count for more than money, we do not wish it to be understood that we imagine the project can be carried out without funds being provided, such a course would be impossible, but we are certain that when the matter is clearly explained, and its relation to the existing Charities understood, there will be no lack of support. There are Lodges at the present time who periodically vote amounts for the purposes contemplated by the Pupils' Assistance Fund, notably the Westminster and Keystone Lodge, which, since 1866, has annually given a guinea; this amount, though small, is sufficient to show that the members take some interest in the future of their protégés, and if the example was followed by other Lodges, a sum nearly sufficient for the carrying out of the desired objects would be forthcoming from this source alone.

The support given to the proposals as set forth in the preliminary circular of the Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund—as shown by the list of names published on another page—is of so satisfactory a nature as to encourage the founders in furthering the formation of the Fund, and to warrant their appealing to the Craft at large to join in supporting them. The first step should be to convene a meeting, to which every member of the Craft should have free access, in order to lay down some more definite programme than was possible at the start, and we feel certain success is then assured.

As we had the pleasure of announcing a few weeks since, a donation of twenty guineas has already been received from H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, while a like amount has been promised by H.R.H. Prince Leopold. Nine of the Provincial Grand Masters, among whom may be numbered the Deputy Grand Master of England, and thirteen Deputy Provincial Grand Masters, have expressed their approval of the scheme; so that the Craft in the provinces may fairly be reckoned as likely to be ably represented in anything that may result from the efforts already made. Nor is support from north of the Tweed wanting, two Past Grand Masters of Scotland and one Scotch Provincial Grand Master appearing on the list. We think it but just that special reference should be made to one of the two Past Grand Masters of Scotland—we need hardly say we allude to the Right Hon. the Earl of Rosslyn—whose remarks at the Festival of the Boys' School, in June last, formed the basis on which the Fund has been established.

We hope ere long we shall have occasion to report the holding of a meeting, and that the support then given will amply justify the further advance of the work.

THE ROYAL ARCH AT YORK.

IN turning over the collection of books and papers belonging to the York Lodge, No. 236, a few days since, with Bro. J. Todd P.M., for the purpose of making a catalogue, I opened an old M.S. minute book, which, at the first glance, I suspected was hitherto undescribed. Further inquiry and examination has convinced me that this is the case, and I have great pleasure in announcing that the York Lodge reckons amongst its relics a minute book of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of All England, dating from 1762, which is, I take it, sixteen years earlier than any previous minute of that body known to be in existence. Our learned Bro. Hughan, in his "Sketches and Reprints," tells us that "the earliest allusion to Royal Arch Masonry is the Treasurer's Book of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, commencing April 29th, 1768, which says:—"A most sublime Royal Arch Chapter was opened 8th February, 1778, &c." This is one of the M.S. books which formerly were in the possession of the Grand Lodge of England, and presented by that body to the York Lodge No. 236, a few years ago. It begins with the date 8th Feby. 1778, and ends Sept. 10th, 1781. The minute book, which now lies before me, opens with the date 7th Feby. 1762, and ends 6th Jany. 1776, thus completing the chain of history of this Grand Chapter from 1762.

There are several peculiarities in connection with this Grand Chapter worthy of notice, and to make them more intelligible it will be necessary to refer briefly to the history of Masonry in York about the period the minutes commence.

From the Second Edition of "Mahhabone, or the Grand Lodge Door Open'd," published in 1766, I find in the "List of Lodges" appended thereto, that a warrant was granted dated 12th Jany. 1761, for a Lodge to meet at the Punch Bowl Inn, Stonegate, York, on the first and third Mondays of each month. The number of the Warrant was 259. From the minute book of this Lodge, also in the possession of the York Lodge 236, I find that its first meeting was held on the 2nd Feby. 1761, "at Mrs. Chaddock's, at the Punch Bowl, in Stonegate." It would seem as if this event had stirred up the energies of the surviving members of the dormant Grand Lodge at York, for it was in the following month (March 17th, 1761), that they met and revived that body "at the House of Mr. Henry Howard in Lendall, York," as Masonic students well know, from Bro. Hughan's valuable History of Freemasonry in York. In the following year then it was, on the 7th Feby. 1762 (Sunday) that "A most Sublime or Royal Arch Lodge open'd at the sign of the Punch Bowl in Stonegate, York."

The first Master of the Lodge No. 259 was Bro. Bridge Frodsham, who was in his day a Mason of prominence. The first S.W. was Bro. Oram, who was the manager of the York Theatre, in those days a playhouse of great renown. The Grand Lodge of All England must have been on excellent terms with the Lodge hailing from London at this time, for in the minute of the revival meeting, held on 17th March 1761, I find amongst the names of the visitors present a number who appear on the minutes of Lodge 259 to have been made Masons under its warrant, whilst in the very first minute of Lodge 259, on the other hand, appears the name of Bro. Coates, who was a Grand Warden of the Grand Lodge of All England. These interchanges of visits appear through the minutes, and prove that at this period there was no animosity between the York and London bodies. Bro. Beckwith, who was elected a member of the Grand Lodge at its revival meeting, had only been made a Mason in Lodge 259 on Feby. 16th, 1761, just a month previously, and in May, 1761, Bros. Agar, Palmes, Bewley, and Howard, of the Grand Lodge, were all elected joining members of Lodge 259. In a future notice I hope to say something more about the minute book of this Lodge, but having briefly noticed the condition of Masonry in York, in 1761, I will at once go to the subject immediately in hand, the Royal Arch Minute Book.

It is a small quarto volume, and has, neatly written on its title page—"Minute Book belonging to the Most Sublime Degree or Order of Royal Arch, appertaining to the Grand Lodge of All England, held at the City of York, 1762." The first minute is as follows: "A most Sublime or Royal Arch Lodge open'd at the Sign of the Punch Bowl, in Stonegate, York, on Sunday, the 7th of Feby 1762. Present—

*Frodsham P.H.
Oram . . Z.L. } in the Chairs.
Granger . J.A. }
Owen.

At this Lodge Brothers Burton, Palmes, Tasker, and Dodgson, petition'd to be raised to the 4th Degree of Masonry, commonly call'd the Most Sublime or Royal Arch, were accepted, and acordingly made."

Then comes the cash account of the Chapter for the evening, by which it appears that the fee "for advancement to the 4th Degree" was 11s 6d, and then—

"This Lodge was closed till the 14th inst. by the Master's Directions." I have already mentioned that Bro. Frodsham was the first Master of the Lodge 259, and that Bro. Oram was his S.W. From the Lodge minutes it also appears that Bro. Granger was its first Secretary, and Bro. Owen had joined that Lodge on the 4th Jany. 1762. The "Grand" Chapter would seem therefore to have been really formed, at this date, of brethren of the Lodge at the Punch Bowl.

The next meeting of the Chapter was held on the 21st of the same month, when the chairs were filled by Frodsham, Palmes and Tasker, and Bro. Beckwith was chosen Secretary. The meetings were always held on Sunday at this period, and several members were the same year (1762) "excluded" for neglecting to pay their quarterages, and apparently there was a general laxity of interest, for, on the 16th May 1762, the "Lodge was closed till the most convenient opportunity, by order of the Masters in the chairs." No meeting was held until Jany. 16th, 1763, and on Feby. 6th, at a Lodge of Emergency, Bros. Palmes, Agar and Tasker were elected to the chairs. Again, on the 3rd April of that year, the Lodge was closed "to a convenient opportunity," and no meeting was held until 22nd Jany. 1764, when it was resolved, "that this Lodge should be continued by subscription for four nights." Meetings were held on March 4th, April 1st, May 6th of 1764, and then there is a gap until 16th Feby. 1766, and then an adjournment sine die. These few last named meetings were very thinly attended, and there were no candidates. It was about this time, probably, that the Lodge 259 ceased to exist. I have shown that on that year it appears on a list of Lodges, though in Dec. 1767 the Grand Lodge at York informed the Grand Lodge in London that the Lodge 259 had been "for some years discontinued."

The next meeting of the Royal Arch Masons was held on the 29th April 1768, and it is noteworthy that this is the first minute in which the body is entitled a "Chapter," previously it having been always denominated a Lodge. The same principals occupied the chairs as on the last occasion, and six "brethren petitioned to become Sublime or Royal Arch Masons; they were admitted and accordingly made." Three new principals were also appointed, and a new Secretary. The fee for the raising was at this time 6s. At a Chapter held on May 1st, 1768, a Sword Bearer (Janitor) was appointed, and it was agreed "that the regular meetings should be held on the 1st Sunday in every calendar month." It was also agreed that every member should pay a quarterage of two shillings, and "he shall be allow'd to have every regular Chapter sixpenny-worth of any sort of Liquor he chouses." The fees were also fixed at 5s, and 1s to the Sword Bearer for each member admitted of the Grand Lodge in York, and half-a-guinea and 1s to the Sword Bearer for every other candidate. Every visitor was also to pay a shilling each time he attended, but was to be allow'd to have sixpenny worth of "any sort of Liquor he chouses."

At this time candidates were proposed, balloted for, and made on the same evening, and on the 5th June 1768, a Bro. Burnand was refused, on the ballot, and a Bro. Thorp, "of the Lodge at Hull," was made a Royal Arch Mason. On the 17th August, at an Emergency Meeting, the day of meeting was altered from Sunday to the first Wednesday in each month. On the 2nd Nov. of that year, Bro. Bussey, afterwards Grand Secretary at York, was admitted, and we find Bro. Lakeland's name also prominent at the meetings. Nothing specially remarkable occurs thence until 18th Oct. 1769, when Bros. Meek and Atkinson, of Ripon, were made R.A. Masons, and at an Emergency Meeting, on the 28th Dec., Bros. King and Campey, of Ripon, were also made. "At this Chapter Bros. Atkinson, King, and Campey, of Ripon, petitioned to have a Constitution granted to hold a R.A. Chapter at Ripon, the consideration of which is Refer'd to the next Lodge Night, and Notice thereof is to be given in the summonses."

On the 7th Feby. 1770, "Bro. R. Consitt petitioned for to have a constitution granted to open a Royal Arch Chapter at Ripon for the use of the Bretheren, the which was ballotted for and pas'd N.C.

Bro. Atkinson to be P.H.
King . . . Z.L.
Campey . . J.A.

and at the March meeting. "The constitution for opening and holding a R.A. Chapter at Ripon was granted and sined in ample form; it was agreed to make them a present of it, only they paying the Secretary his fee." At the same Chapter Bro. Kedar, of Knaresborough, was made a R.A. Mason, and at the April meeting Bros. Bateson, Ackroyd and Taylor, from Knaresborough, were made, and "the Brethren from Knaresborough petitioned to have a Constitution granted, to be opened and held at the sign of the Crown in Knaresborough, which was agreed to:—

Bro. Bateson to be P.H.
Cowling Ackroyd Z.L.
Hen. Taylor J.A."

At the next meeting, in June, 1770, this Knaresborough Constitution was "seal'd and sign'd." In October 1770, I find the following visiting brethren were present:—Bros. Prondfoot, O'Brien, Cannon, and Burke. These brethren probably belonged to the regiment then lying in York Barracks, for it was "agreed to grant a Constitution for the opening and holding a most Sublime Royal Arch Chapter in the Inniskilling Regiment of Dragoons at all seasonable times, and when duly congregated to make Royal Arch Masons. On the 1st March 1771, the days of meeting were again altered, to the "first Wednesday after Lady Day, Midsummer, Michaelmas, and Christmas, Old Stile." A candidate from Leeds was made in April 1771, and the same year Bro. Kitson, a very prominent member of the Grand Lodge was received.

On the 3rd June 1772, the titles of the presiding Officers are altered, and instead of P.H., Z.L., and J.A., I find S., H.T., and H.A., and after this minute occur a number of blank pages, as if rough minutes of meetings had been made and not entered up, and then comes an entry made 6th January 1776, of the holding of a Chapter on that day, when three candidates were "raised." This is the last minute in the book, and I find nothing between that and the entry alluded to by Bro. Hughan, of the 8th February 1778, when Sunday was again adopted as the day of meeting, at the Grub Tavern, York. In this last named minute book the titles of the chairs remain S., H.T., and H.A. throughout, until the last entry on 10th Sept. 1871.

Not the least interesting of the contents of this valuable old relic are the "Rules and Orders of the Grand Chapter of All England," which are inserted at the end of the book in the neat handwriting of Bro. Lakeland, who seems to have acted as Secretary about 1776. They chiefly refer to fees, times of meeting, &c., and provide that in all cases the ballot must be unanimous. The last of the rules is as follows:—

"The fees charged on any Constitution granted by this Grand Chapter are usually paid on delivery of the Warrant, and are in future to be always so paid."

And then come "The Principia to be observed by all Regular Constituted Chapters of the Degree of Royal Arch." These provide for Annual Returns to be made to the Grand Chapter at York, for bylaws to be subject to approval of Grand Chapter, for the Jewels and Ornaments, and then the following, which I think worth giving in full:—

"That they make no innovation in the Business of the Chapter, and if any Doubts should arise they must always be referr'd to the Grand Chapter for decision.

"That they shall contribute annually to the Grand Chapter at York so much as they reasonably can towards the fund, to be employed to benevolent and advantageous purposes.

"That no man of bad or immoral character be admitted a Companion* nor any one untill he hath passed the several probationary Degrees of Craft Masonry, and thereby obtained the necessary Passport as a reward for his services. And no man may be admitted for an unworthy consideration.

"That they take every Method to forward the true Purpose of our Order, to promote all the useful arts and Sciences, and create universal Peace and Harmony, and that every Companion do consider it as his Duty to lay before the Chapter whatever may tend to such Salutary Purposes.

"That any new Discovery or other Matter thought worthy of observation be communicated to the Grand Chapter at York, who will always be ready to support and forward whatever may be found useful to the Fraternity in general, or that Chapter in particular, not repugnant to the common Welfare."

On some future occasion I may ask for space to notice some of the later minutes of this august body.

"246. Lodge—Lebeck's Head"
"In the Strand 1768."

From the foregoing extracts we may infer:—

1. That Lodges occasionally worked for some while, under dispensations from the D.G.M., prior to the issue of regular warrants from Grand Lodge. [See ante, pp 290, 297. It was a common practice for new Lodges to be constituted by the Deputy Grand Master in person, a record of the circumstance forming the first entry in the Minute Book, and being duly attested by the signatures of the Grand or acting Grand Officers.]

2. That the first two degrees were usually conferred on the same evening, the addition of the third degree requiring a dispensation.

3. That the election of office bearers was semi-annual. [In some Lodges there was a quarterly election.]

4. That brethren holding under the "Ancients" were re-made by the "Moderns" if they wished it, but allowed to visit freely, e.g. Bro. Dickey, afterwards Grand Secretary "Ancients," visited the Lodge several times, prior to being again passed through the various degrees.

5. The title "Pasmaster" [Aug. 15, 1766] suggests that a recognised "Initiator" may have been known in the Lodge [vide F. M. Mag., Aug. 4, 1866, p 90].

R. F. GOULD.

MASONIC CEREMONY AT READING.

THE thriving town of Reading may be congratulated upon the auspicious circumstances under which two most important undertakings, largely affecting the future of the Borough, have been inaugurated with Masonic rites. A few years ago the Heir Apparent, in his capacity as Grand Master, laid the principal stone of Reading School, on which occasion his Royal Highness was accompanied by the Princess of Wales, and the town of biscuits, seeds, and sauce, presented a gay and festive scene. On Monday, a still more costly work—the erection of a new Town Hall, Public Library, Museum, School of Art, &c., to cost £45,000, was commenced under Masonic auspices by the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon Pro Grand Master, in the presence of a gathering of the brethren, more numerous, we believe, than any known in the annals of the Craft in the Province of Berks and Bucks. The ceremony was to have been performed last month, but it was postponed in consequence of Lord Carnarvon being attacked with gout, from which the noble earl was still suffering on Monday to such an extent as to prevent his lordship attending the Provincial Grand Lodge, and joining in the procession, as had been proposed. It was an unfortunate circumstance, also, that the R.W. Prov. G.M. Bro. Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P., and the V.W. the D.P.G.M. Archdeacon Cust were both prevented being present through illness. In Sir Daniel's absence, the Rev. Sir J. W. Hayes, Bart. (for some years D.P.G.M.), presided over the special Provincial Grand Lodge held in the Corn Exchange, and after the Lodge had been opened a procession was formed by Bro. Biggs P.P.G.Sec., who acted throughout the day as Director of Ceremonies.

His lordship, with the Countess of Carnarvon, arrived at the Town Hall shortly before twelve, when they were escorted by the Mayor (Mr. H. B. Blandy) and Mrs. Blandy to the Council Chamber. Here, in the presence of a select company of guests, Lord and Lady Carnarvon were presented with a joint address from the Corporation of the borough and the members of the Building Committee, in the following terms:—

To the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, D.C.L., P.C., &c.—On the arrival of your lordship in this ancient Borough, for the purpose of laying the memorial stone to commemorate the erection of a new Town Hall, and other public buildings, comprising a Free Library, Reading Rooms and Museum, and Schools for Science and Art, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Borough unite with the Committee who have been entrusted with this important undertaking in offering a hearty welcome to your lordship and to the Countess of Carnarvon. The Committee were induced to invite your lordship to honour them and the town of Reading by laying the memorial stone of the proposed buildings, not only as a near neighbour, but from the recognition also of your lordship's distinguished character and attainments, and of the great interest which your lordship has always shown in undertakings having for their object the social and moral good of the people. We cordially thank your lordship for your ready response to the invitation of the Committee, and for the kindly interest taken by your lordship in their work, which owes its successful progress to its present stage to the great liberality of numerous subscribers, and the active labours of those who have freely devoted their time and energies to it. We believe that the undertaking which your lordship will to-day help forward by your presence and co-operation will supply wants which have long been felt, and we venture to hope that the buildings which will be provided, and the institutions which will be established in them, will be of wide spread public advantage, not only to the population of Reading and its immediate suburbs, but also to the inhabitants generally of the county of Berks and of the adjacent counties. We desire to offer our special thanks to the Countess of Carnarvon for the honour which is conferred upon the borough by her presence on this occasion. We beg your lordship and your Countess to accept the expression of our sincere desire that you may both be blessed with many years of health and happiness, and long continue to adorn the high station to which Divine Providence has called you. Given under the common seal of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Borough of Reading, at a meeting of the Council, and under the hands of the members of the Committee, this 3rd day of November 1879.

The Earl of Carnarvon rose to reply, but was requested by the Mayor to resume his seat, as his lordship was still suffering from his recent attack of gout. His lordship said: Mr. Mayor—I very gratefully take advantage of your kind permission to allow me this indulgence. I am suffering, as every one must see, from an enemy that is so remorseless and so unsparing that he must be humoured—otherwise it would be extremely difficult to resist him. I beg to express, first of all, the sincere thanks of Lady Carnarvon for the kind words in which you have been pleased to couch this address as regards her. She will long remember her visit to Reading, and appreciates the high honour done her. And next I have to express my own most sincere and grateful thanks for the honour which you have done me in asking me, as a friend and neighbour, to undertake the important duty of laying the foundation stone of this group of public buildings. I, too, shall long remember it, and I find it difficult to express my appreciation of the honour which has been conferred upon me. In public life there are undoubtedly many honours which are coveted, and many also which are gained. There are many distinctions, many rewards. There is much public approval, and sometimes much disapproval. All of us, I suppose, in our own way, know what this is. But of one thing I am quite certain, that nothing is more precious than for a man to feel that he has the goodwill, and still more the public mark of goodwill and confidence, expressed by a great town, near which he has so long lived, and in which he hopes he has so many, not only good neighbours but warm friends. I need not tell you how sensible I am of the importance of this great borough which you, sir, as chief magistrate, represent. It is an ancient borough, with great traditions in the past, and with a long roll of distinguished names, amongst those who have either been born here, or who have lived here, or who have done public service here. I feel it particularly gratifying to be allowed, in some small way, to identify myself to-day with one of the greatest modern public works that Reading has undertaken. I know this is not the time for making long speeches. That has been wisely postponed to a later period of the day. But I think I should be wrong if I refrained from saying one word as to a paragraph in the address which has just been read. I appreciate, as every one must do, the great liberality—I might say more than liberality, the munificence—of so many who have rendered it possible that this work should be undertaken. In earlier times and in other countries it was frequently the custom of the State to lay burdens of expense or of labour upon her most eminent citizens. Sometimes those services were compulsory, sometimes voluntary. In this case they are voluntary; free as the very air, and they will not, in consequence, be the less appreciated by the citizens of Reading. Though no doubt the fancy may change, yet the spirit remains—the same spirit of liberality, of munificence, of public service and duty; and so long as these qualities remain, either in Reading or in England, we may be quite sure that the State will be well and worthily served. I have only once more to express, on behalf of Lady Carnarvon and myself, our grateful thanks for the high honour you have done us, and, though we are only just at the beginning of our work to-day, to add our warm and hearty wishes for the completion and final success of the work.

The Earl of Carnarvon then proceeded to the Masonic Lodge, whence, after some time, the brethren emerged in procession, and, joined by a procession of the members of the Corporation, they, in all the pomp of mace and sword and Masonic regalia, escorted his Lordship to the site of the memorial stone, where Lady Carnarvon was waiting, and where a large assemblage of ladies and gentlemen had gathered. When the head of the procession arrived at the Buildings the brethren formed an avenue for the P.G. Officers to pass through. The brethren bearing the vessels containing the corn, wine, and oil, together with the mallet, having deposited the same on a pedestal placed for that purpose, silence was proclaimed by the Provincial G. Director of Ceremonies, and the Mayor presented the trowel to the M.W. the Pro G.M., on behalf of the Building Committee, asking him to set the stone.

Lord Carnarvon said: Ladies and gentlemen—I have to thank the Mayor for this most handsome trowel, which he has been pleased to give me. I shall long retain it—I trust not only I, but my family—as an heirloom in memory of the work with which you have been good enough to entrust me to-day, and which I deeply appreciate. Next, I desire to thank my Masonic brethren for being present here to-day, and to assure you how much they feel it also an honour and a privilege to take part in this work of great public usefulness to the town of Reading. Let me offer you my hearty good wishes for the group of public buildings of which we to-day lay the memorial stone. May the School of Science and of Art spread far and wide in this town and its neighbourhood, and be a useful means of education! May the Museum, already enriched by a precious gift, receive many more bequests and gifts, and have a crowd of students to study the books of nature which these specimens within its walls may reveal! May the Library be a source of instruction and of happiness to young and old, to rich and poor alike! And may the Town Hall carry out the best and highest traditions of English civic and public life, the traditions of self-government—the traditions of free speech—the traditions of law and of liberty! I thank you deeply for having allowed me this important privilege to-day.

In due course the architect presented to the Pro Grand Master the plans. The Prov. G.Chaplain (Bro. R. C. Honey) offered a prayer. The Prov. G.Sec. (Bro. R. Bradley) read the inscription on the stone. The Prov. G.Treas. (Bro. C. Stephens) deposited the vessel containing the coins, and also the records. An entered apprentice (Bro. Cundell) then presented the cement to set the stone. A hymn was sung by the choir, under the direction of Bro. W. H. Strickland P.P.G.O., during which the stone was lowered, with three distinct stops. The Pro Grand Master having proved, by the mallet, square, level, and plumb, that the stone was well laid, then received the cornucopia and strewed corn thereon; the G. Wardens presented the ewers containing the wine and oil, which was poured out conformably to ancient custom. The Rev. Sir J. W. Hayes then offered a prayer and pronounced the benediction. Among the Masons whom we noticed present were—Bros. the Rev. Sir J. W. Hayes, Bart., acting as Prov. Grand Master; E. J. Trendell P.P.S.G.W., acting as D.P.G.M.; J. Blandy Jenkins S.G.W., J. McGubbin J.G.W., Revs. C. R. Honey, N. T. Garry, E. De Ewer Grand Chaplains, C. Stephens Grand Treasurer, R. Bradley Grand Secretary, Jabez Adams S.G.D., R. Roberts J.G.D., Edward Baker G.S.W., R. On returning to the Exchange, the Lodge was closed in due form. Sir John Hayes expressed the deep regret of the brethren that illness had caused the absence of the P.G.M. and D.P.G.M. The Rev. Bro. thanked Bro. Biggs for his admirable management of the procession; and Bro. Bradley, the P.G. Sec., for his excellent arrangements.

The ceremony was followed by a public luncheon in the Town Hall, in which upwards of three hundred ladies and gentlemen participated. The Mayor presided, and amongst the invited guests were—The Earl and Countess of Carnarvon, Mrs. H. B. Blandy, the Ven. Archdeacon Parey-Cust Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Berks and Bucks, and Lady Parey-Cust, the Bishop of Oxford, the Right Hon. Sir R. J. Phillimore and Lady Phillimore, Sir Julian Goldsmid Bart. M.P. and Lady Goldsmid, Mr. Walter M.P. and Mrs. Walter, Mr. G. Shaw Lefevre M.P., Mr. G. Palmer M.P. and Mrs. Palmer, Sir Peter and Lady Spokes, the Right Hon. J. R. Mowbray M.P. and Mrs. Mowbray, Mr. W. W. B. Beach M.P. Prov. G. Master Hants and Isle of Wight, High Sheriff of Berkshire, the Recorder of the Borough, Mr. Henry Day (Town Clerk), Mrs. Day, Mr. W. I. Palmer, and many members of the Corporation. Sir D. Gooch, Bart., M.P., Provincial Grand Master of Berks and Bucks, was absent by medical advice. The loyal toasts having been duly honoured, the Right Hon. J. R. Mowbray M.P. proposed "The Bishop and Clergy of the Diocese and other Ministers of Religion." He said the effect of religion was to bind man to man, and it gave sound principles to legislation. It was the main security for local order, and the sole foundation of good government. The Bishop of Oxford, in reply, said, when he became bishop ten years ago, Reading was the second town in the diocese for population, but now it was the first, having surpassed the cathedral city of Oxford. The increase of the town was not of temporal advantage to the clergy, as they had to pay stipends for assistance; but they took delight in doing their duty. Mr. W. W. B. Beach M.P. then gave "The Army, Navy, and Auxiliary Forces." In the course of his remarks, he said if there was anything that marred the usefulness of the British Army, it was the extreme youth of many of the men; but this was a fault which time would remedy; for, although young, the English soldiers were not destitute of courage. Colonel Jordan, C.B., acknowledged the compliment. The Mayor proposed "The Health of the Earl and Countess of Carnarvon." The toast was warmly honoured. The Earl of Carnarvon, on rising to reply, was received with loud cheers. His lordship said: Mr. Mayor, Ladies, and Gentlemen,—It needed no apology from you, sir, either for the form of words or for the hospitality of which we have been partakers to-day. Your words were most graceful; your hospitality has been overflowing. Allow me to express in Lady Carnarvon's name and mine, our heartfelt thanks for the honour which you have done us this day, and for the great privilege of being allowed to share in this great work of the town of Reading. My noble friend Lord Derby the other day made a very able speech—such as he is accustomed to make—on those public men who, in their own towns, rendered great public service, and discharge great acts of local patriotism and statesmanship. I might say much in the same strain here to-day. I might speak of the liberality, the princely munificence, which has rendered possible this great public work in Reading—but I have already alluded to that to-day. Time I know is pressing, and I will remit my remarks to a somewhat different side of the question. Mr. Mayor, I know nothing more remarkable than the extraordinary growth of our great English towns during the last quarter of a century. To-day Reading is doing that which other great municipalities have been during that time. These public buildings, and the men who created them and occupy them, go, as it were, together. Both are equally important. But, perhaps, some may ask what the meaning of this is. I believe it means a much truer sense of beauty, in the first place, growing up among our people than has existed for many generations past. I believe it is also connected with a nobler and, shall I say, a freer, idea of public life. It is a feeling by which great cities have grown famous. It is a feeling with which I, for one, most heartily and entirely sympathise; and more than that, it is a feeling which is very nearly akin to a form of public education, first of all in art and taste, and then in the highest form of political life, the highest because the greatest. I know there are some who tell us that these things, such as the creation of schools of science and art, free libraries and museums, add nothing to the happiness of the people; that they create tastes which the condition of the circumstances of those people never allow to be realised; that the savage or a semi-civilised savage is probably a happier man than the man of education, of mind, and of formed tastes. Cultivation, the more it is developed, the more also it becomes fastidious of all surroundings, and in the greatest of philosophical romances, written many years ago, the author says perchance such a man of cultivation will be unhappy, but he says, what of that? If inevitable, the penalty of learning and of education must be abided by. Sir, intelligence, apart from mere happiness, I do believe is a good in itself. It satisfies a man. It fulfils the conditions of the age in which we live. We have more to gain, I believe, from light than we have from darkness; and I am satisfied that, term it as you will, the opposite doctrine leads to a sort of obscuritanism, in the end involving much greater unhappiness than in the other case. I spoke of philosophical romances. I remember one some three hundred years old, written by the great Sir Thomas More—his well-known "Utopia." In that you may remember how he describes the wide streets and spacious houses, and the health and comfort in his imaginary city. At that time the Italian cities were rising and building their stately edifices; and by inspiration gained from Italy, Sir Thomas More so contributed to the revival of that learning, which from this day never ceases to grow. The doctrine is applicable in our day. I look round upon the work of to-day, and in the remarkable group of public buildings of which it has been my high privilege to lay the foundation stone, in that remarkable group I see as it were a picture of the best form of English civilisation. I see a school of art and science, a museum and a free library, forming part, so to speak, of a special education, all culminating in and crowned by that Town Hall, which to me symbolises the freedom of the life of English self-government. The growth of modern liberty is a very interesting story for many centuries. But there was a time, before our day, when a free people, as free as ourselves in many ways, existed; and to that free people one of the greatest orators—the greatest orator of his time, perhaps—in a speech which has come down to us through all the chances and changes of fortune, he praised the popular Government of his time. He praised it for its union of public and private politics. He praised it for its noble use and worth. He praised it for the absence of jealousy and suspicion, for its courage in war, and its refinement and arts in time of peace. That noble eulogy, spoken more than 2,000 years ago, which has furnished thoughts and aspirations to hundreds and thousands who have lived since then, was pronounced for ever. At a time under different conditions these words, spoken in the midst of stately buildings, to a people whose like intellectually has never been seen upon the face of the globe, these words have a full sense for us. We cannot rival the matchless architecture that adorned that State; we cannot even achieve some of the mental triumphs which they achieved; but I venture to think that the buildings of to-day, in our own plain, homely fashion, preach pretty much the same sermon—teach us the value of self-government. They speak of the happiness and cultivation of thousands, and they adorn a town of which its citizens have every reason to be proud.

Mr. Walter M.P., in replying to the toast of "The County Members," referred to the progress the town had made. In the construction of this new group of buildings he said the Shaksperian maxim, was just reversed in this instance; for the good example set by other municipalities had been followed at Reading. A toast, "In Memoriam Sir J. H. Goldsmidt, Bart., M.P., was acknowledged by Sir J. Goldsmid, Bart., M.P. Mr. Shaw-Lefevre, in responding for the health of the borough members, dwelt upon the importance of free libraries, and said that in towns where such libraries existed the average daily attendance of readers was 500, while at Walsall, a place only a little larger than Reading, the number was 1,200 daily. He believed that the existence of a free library in that borough would be amply justified by the use that would be made of it. Mr. Palmer M.P. also spoke in reply to the toast. The Earl of Carnarvon proposed "The Mayor and the Building Committee." The Mayor and Mr. W. I. Palmer responded. The last toast set down on the list was that of "The Visitors," proposed by Mr. J. B. Monck, and with which the name of the Right Hon. Sir R. J. Phillimore was associated. Lord and Lady Carnarvon, on quitting the Town Hall, received an ovation of cheers.

> How oft the sight of means to do ill deeds
> Makes ill deeds done,

Most of the Masons subsequently partook of luncheon together, at the Foresters' Hall,—there not being sufficient accommodation at the Town Hall,—under the presidency of Bro. W. W. Moxhay P.P.G.S.W. The usual toasts were proposed, and a good selection of music was rendered under the direction of Bro. Strickland P.G. Organist.

The corn used in the ceremony was presented by Bro. T. Deller of Southsea, and forwarded through Bro. Coeburn, of Newbury, to the Provincial Grand Secretary. It is a sample of the "Royal Masonic Pedigree Wheat," and possesses a history of some interest. Bro. Deller attended the laying of the stone of the Reading Grammar School, performed some years since with Masonic rites, by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the Most Worshipful the Grand Master of the Order, and a grain of wheat which fell during the ceremony, being picked up by Bro. Deller, was planted by him, and in three years the produce amounted to 7¼ gallons. The Prince accepted the wheat, which was grown on the Sandringham Estate, and in two years it produced 500 bushels. In October 1877, his Royal Highness sent eight bushels to Bro. Deller, who grew it two years, and he has now in his possession the yield of 50 acres, grown from the eight bushels. The wheat is of fine quality and yields well, and it is certainly an interesting circumstance that the wheat used at the ceremony by the Pro Grand Master should have decended from a grain of that used by the Royal Head of the Craft on the last occasion when an important work in this town was inaugurated under Masonic auspices.

NEW MASONIC HALL AND CLUB AT KIDDERMINSTER.

A MOVEMENT is on foot in Kidderminster to supply what has long been felt to be a most pressing want; viz., a club-house where gentlemen may enjoy the numerous comforts and conveniences for which such places are celebrated. The scheme is fast approaching maturity, and we believe it will not be long before the inhabitants of the town will possess a club, modelled upon the well-known pattern of the principal metropolitan ones; the only difference being that instead of its being reserved exclusively for any particular "set," it will embrace as wide a range as possible, consistent with the character and position of the institution. The great object will be to make it as cosmopolitan as possible, and although the new club will take its title from the Masonic body, by which it has been promoted, the members of the Craft will claim no privileges or rights over any other members of the club. We hail with pleasure the wise determination of the members to throw open the benefits of club membership and shareholding to others, as well as to the Freemasons. We have been shown the premises acquired by the company, and explanations have been given us as to all it is intended to do and to provide, and we were struck with the thoroughness with which the Masonic body, in their ideas and intentions, sink all that could savour of self-interest or advantages in arranging for the wants and conveniencies of the general body of club members. Indeed, there is nothing which all the members may not enjoy and share on the premises. The happy blending of accommodation is favoured very much by the peculiar formation of the premises, which are situate in Mill-street, and which allow of the Masonic Hall and ante-rooms being entirely detached from the club.

On either side of the front entrance hall, on the ground floor, is situated a commodious well-lighted apartment, each of which it is intended to let for an office. Besides the front entrance, there is also a side entrance, from the carriage drive, so that these offices will be entirely separate from the rest of the building, although the members of the club will have the right of going through the front entrance. In a small closet near the back kitchen it is intended to place a hoist and speaking tubes, communicating with the ante-rooms of the hall at the back. Masonic dinners will be given in the Hall, so as not to interfere with the apartments which are open to those who are not Masons. Between the front and back kitchens is a still room, and the front kitchen is supplied with a very fine cooking range, and all the most modern appliances for the practice of the culinary art. There is an entrance to the cellars from this apartment, and in a small recess near will be placed another hoist and set of speaking tubes, the former to convey dinners into the dining rooms, and the latter for the convenience of giving and receiving orders, &c. The same hoist and speaking tubes will also communicate with the billiard room on the third floor. A very handsome room on the ground floor, 22ft. 6in. by 17ft. 6in., will be appropriated as the morning and evening room, for the reading of newspapers, smoking, &c. At one end of the room is a large bay window opening on to a small lawn, where those who prefer to do so may sit on summer evenings. On the first floor is the dining room for the use of the members, which is a commodious and cheerful apartment; and on the same floor, having a window facing the front street, is the card room, with a small room adjoining, lavatory, &c. Another room on the same floor will be appropriated to the committee, and another to the secretary. On the second floor are rooms for the servants and managers of the club. The greater portion of the third storey is taken up by the billiard room, which is 32 feet long by 17 feet wide, with a lantern roof. Lavatories and other conveniences will also be placed upon this floor. The Masonic Hall is completely separate from the rest of the building, and Masons can gain access to it without going through the front buildings. A broad staircase leads up into the robing room, and other offices. Underneath the hall are large premises, which it is intended to let for store rooms. The Masonic Hall itself will be, when finished, a splendid room, 56ft. long 22ft. wide, and 20ft. high. Adjoining will be a room for the purpose of storing the furniture of the Lodges. The whole of the premises will be well-lighted, ventilated, and warmed. It would have been impossible to find premises more suitable for the peculiar requirements for which they are needed, and the shareholders are to be congratulated on having, for the comparatively low figure of £1,100, obtained so central and eligible a property. The alterations, which will cost about £400—and which comprise the transformation of the warehouse into the hall, with necessary lighting and heating apparatus, suitable ante-rooms and other conveniences, the taking down of intermediate walls and lighting from roof to form billiard room, the construction of hoists, speaking tubes, &c.—are in full operation. The builder bids fair to complete his work well within the limit of the time allowed, which will permit of the building being opened about the middle of December. While contracts for furnishing, &c., are in a forward state, and in accord with the general promise of affairs in connection with the undertaking. We understand that 3-4ths of the share capital has already been taken up by about sixty of the principal residents in the town and neighbourhood, and no doubt as soon as the scheme is properly understood, and all its features realised, the remaining shares will be quickly appropriated. Bro. George Taylor P.M. and Treas. 377, P.S.G.D. Worcestershire, the Secretary, is exerting his utmost energies to make the affair a complete success, and having a considerable knowledge of the amount of energy that very able and indefatigable gentleman throws into any work he undertakes, we cannot but entertain the brightest auguries of the future of this institution.—Sun.

KNIGHTS TEMPLARS AND THE DOCTRINE OF THE TRINITY.

From the Freemasons' Repository for August.

In a late number of the Repository we referred to the action taken by the Grand Priory of Canada, requiring all visiting Knights from the United States to affirm their belief in the doctrine of the Trinity, as a condition of being allowed to visit any of the Templar organizations in Canada, and expressed our opinion that the establishment of such a test was both unwise and inexpedient. In the June number of the Canadian Craftsman our article is responded to by the Grand Prior of Canada; and this reply to our brief comments appears in the present issue of the Repository.

It seems that we were mistaken in assuming that the action noticed was taken on the recommendation of the Grand Prior. The official announcement of the test decided upon stated that it was "recommended by the Grand Council," and we naturally inferred that the Grand Prior concurred in the recommendation. But this was not the fact. On the contrary, the Grand Prior believes that the legislation on this point was too hasty and requires revision. He says, substantially, that if the Templar organization in the United States is to be recognized by the British Order, it follows that those who are in good standing in the Order at home should be recognized and fellowshipped when abroad, without being required to submit to any special test unknown to the organization in which they hold membership. But, although the Grand Prior expresses an opinion that the requisitions imposed by the Grand Priory can hardly be defended as either courteous or just, he puts forward other statements bearing upon the matter which open a much wider field of discussion. Indeed, if we correctly interpret his words, the Grand Prior favors more stringent legislation on this point so that there shall be no recognition of the Templar Order in the United States. He says: "What might have been done by the Grand Priory was to declare that the Order in the United States is not a Templar Order with which we can maintain communication, having discarded its most essential characteristic." Reading these strong words we could but recal those occasions when the Grand Prior and other distinguished Knights from Canada have been attendants upon the sessions of the Grand Encampment of the United States, formally commissioned to be the bearers of fraternal greetings from the Grand Priory of Canada to the governing Templar organization of the United States. At Baltimore in 1871, at Cleveland in 1877, did our Canadian friends realize that they were recognizing a Templar organization which had "discarded its most essential characteristic!"

In the article copied from the Craftsman the Grand Prior leaves us in no doubt as to the importance he attaches to the doctrine of the Trinity. He says: "It is as necessary for a Templar to believe in the Trinity as it is for a Craft Mason to believe in God;" and then, to be consistent in his conclusion, he goes on to affirm that the Templar Order always has been a "Trinitarian Association," and that it ceases to be a Templar Order, although it may continue to bear the name, just as soon as it admits members who do not subscribe to the doctrine in question.

We join issue with both of these statements. Admit the necessity of a belief in the Trinity—admit that the dogma is of necessity a part of the system of modern Templarism—we still deny that it holds an equal rank with faith in God, without which faith we know there can be no true Masonic law or life. It may be desirable, even essential, to believe in three persons in the God-head, but to reject such a doctrine, still holding fast to faith in a personal God, and in a Divine Lord the Saviour of men, surely is not quite as bad as atheism itself. Doctrines and beliefs are of relative value, and however great stress may be laid upon the dogma of the Trinity it is not the one underlying and vital principle of religion that belief in God is. Let it be granted that the doctrine ought to have place in the Templar system, or that it has been improperly eliminated therefrom, we should still hold that there was solid Christian ground for the system to rest upon; and that it was not wounded to death by questioning the validity of this dogma as Masonry must be whenever and wherever it comes to atheistical denials.

But what proof is there that the Templar Order is and always has been a "Trinitarian Association?" It is well known that the Institution of Christian Knighthood as it exists to-day is connected with the times of the Crusades and the Soldiers of the Temple by only legendary ties and associations. There is no historic continuity. The present Order is of comparatively modern origin; and it was not intended by those who fashioned the system and breathed into it the breath of life that it should partake of all the features which belonged to the ancient monastic and chivalric Orders. Some of the aims and characteristics, and more of the spirit, we trust, of those olden organizations have found their way into the Templarism of our time. But many changes and modifications have been made—departures from the original ritual and ceremony—and there is little use of citing the beliefs of the middle ages as the absolute law of faith that now exists. In the article we are reviewing the doctrine of the Trinity is designated as the principal landmark of Templarism, whereas, if we use the term in that technical sense which makes it the synonym of truths and principles that always have been known and accepted among Masons, there are no landmarks in Templar Order.

There are first principles and original foundations, of course, but these do not take on the character of landmarks; and if they did, we should still venture to doubt whether the doctrine of the Trinity is included in the list of clearly expressed fundamentals. The dogma in question may have been indicated by the ritualistic teaching of the Templar societies instituted in Europe during the middle or latter part of the last century, and yet never have attained the dignity of a landmark. It is exceedingly problematical what the Templar system was as formulated by Ramsey or by Baron Von Hund; and altogether too much obscurity gathers about the early history of the present Templar Order to admit the showing that any special dogma originally held a pre-eminent place.

About the beginning of the present century Templarism received fresh impetus both in Europe and America. In this country, at the hands of Webb and others, it took form, shape, character, and entered upon a vigorous life. Then was formulated a ritual which in substance has been adhered to for nearly three quarters of a century. That system of Masonic Templarism rests upon the Christian religion and the practice of the Christian virtues. As every Mason must believe in God, so every Knight Templar must believe in our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Immanuel is the one great watchword of the Order, and the cross is the sign that sets forth all so significantly the nature of that faith and the works of truth and Christian love to which every Knight Templar is most sacredly pledged. But he is not bound to accept the dogma of the Trinity. It is enough that he accepts the Divine authority of Christ—that he seek to walk in the footsteps of the crucified and risen One, showing forth the Christ spirit in word and deed. This would seem to give him standing as a "true Templar" and entitle him to recognition as such, the opinion of the Canadian Brother to the contrary notwithstanding. But he cannot understand why the United States Templar Body is not distinctively and avowedly Trinitarian. He says the whole ritual tends that way, while the crucifixion and ascension scenes, together with the anthem sung, inculcate the doctrine. Well, we accept the ritual—we join with devout thought and quickened spiritual feelings in all the solemn ceremonies of the Order; and, if this is all that is required, we think that the Unitarian and the Trinitarian Christian may kneel side by side in the asylum, and before the empty sepulchre, as we have often seen them thus kneel, and together prosecute the work of Masonic Templarism. Filled and led by the spirit of their common Lord we can but think that each of these Brethren will accord to the other the name of a true Templar, and that thus being faithful they may both hope to merit at last the glad welcome, "well done, good and faithful servants."

CHRIST CHURCH, SOUTHWARK.

A Musical and Elocutionary Entertainment took place at the Parochial Schools, Holland-street, Blackfriars, on Monday evening, 3rd November. The Entertainment was given in aid of the New Vestries' Fund, and was ably conducted by Bro. Usher Back. The most successful pieces of the evening were 'The Pied Piper of Hamelin," and "The Election of a Beadle," by Mr. W. T. Cope; and "Nothing to Wear," and "I remember," by Bro. C. Greenwood jun. Bro. W. W. Morgan gave one of his Popular Selections, and Mr. A. C. Wade gave a careful rendering of "The Execution of Montrose." The Vocalists were represented by Miss Parker, Miss Battie, Miss T. Battie; Messrs. F. Caston, H. E. Vickers, Crow, and Bro. Alfred Green. Miss T. Battie was very happy in Balfe's ever popular "I dreamt I dwelt in Marble Halls;" Miss Parker, who has a rich and powerful voice, sang "The Storm," and "Looking Back," much to the satisfaction of the audience. The duet "Starboard Watch," was effectively given by Messrs. Vickers and Crow, the latter gentleman was also applauded for "Sweethearts." Bro. Alfred Green contributed "Hybrids, the Cretan." Altogether, the Entertainment was most satisfactory.

The installation meeting of the Trinity College Lodge, No. 1765, was held on Thursday at the Trinity College, Weymouth-street, W. The brethren afterwards dined together at the Criterion. Bro. Rev. J. Robbins D.D. P.M. 1635 P.G. Chap. Middx., is the new W.M. A full report will appear in our next.

The installation meeting of the Metropolitan Chapter, No. 1507, was held on Thursday, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Comp. J. R. Stacey was installed M.E.Z., Comp. W. J. Ferguson H., and W. M. Stiles J. A report of the meeting will appear next week.

Bro. Dr. J. J. Pope will, on the 14th inst., give his celebrated and popular Lecture on Sanitary Science, entitled "Number One—His Very Good Health," by special request of Lord Northbrook, at Micheldever, in Hampshire.

Bro. Stanton (Sydney).—Your letter of August was lost in the post, only the outside wrapper reached us.

The current number of Messrs. Groombridge and Sons "Greenhouse favourites" is devoted to particulars of the Erica. As usual the number contains two coloured illustrations, the one representing the geranium, the other the clematis. In each the artistic execution is well up to the standard of the plates which have preceded these.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Old Sores, Wounds, and Ulcers.—The readiness with which Holloway's unguent removes all obstructions in the circulation of the vessels and lymphatics, explains their irresistible influence in healing old sores, bad wounds, and indolent ulcers. To insure the desired effect the skin surrounding the diseased part should be fomented, dried, and immediately well rubbed with the Ointment. This will give purity to the foul blood, and strength to the weakened nerves, the only conditions necessary for the cure of all those ulcerations which render life almost intolerable. No sooner is this Ointment's protective powers exerted, than the destructive process ceases, and the constructive business begins—new healthy growth appears to fill up the lately painful excavated pit.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

SUPREME GRAND CHAPTER.

THE Quarterly Convocation of Grand Chapter was holden on Wednesday evening, at Freemasons' Hall, London. Comp. S. Rawson occupied the chair of M.E.Z., Comp. Captain Platt the chair of H., and Comp. Captain N. G. Philips the chair of J.; Comp. Colonel Creaton Treasurer, Comp. Ernest Emil Wendt as S.N., Comp. H. G. Buss as Scribe E., Comp. J. Lewis Thomas Sword Bearer, Comp. S. Mullens D.C.; besides, a large number of Past Grand Officers and Principals and Past Principals of Chapters were also present. Comp. Buss announced that Comp. Hervey was too ill to be present, and that he had commissioned him (Comp. Buss) to express his regret to the M.E.Z. that he was unable to attend. Comp. Rawson observed that all the Comps. regretted as much as he did that Comp. Hervey continued to be so seriously indisposed. On the motion of Comp. Colonel Creaton, seconded by Comp. R. Gray, the report of the Committee was adopted, and ordered to be received and entered on the minutes. The first four petitions which the Committee had received (particulars of which were given in our last) were then granted, on the motion of Comp. Colonel Creaton. Comp. Colonel Creaton also moved, and Comp. Robert Gray seconded, the granting of the petition for a Chapter to be attached to the Aldershot Camp Lodge, No. 1331. Comp. H. Hacker P.Z. 723 inquired whether since this had been recommended Grand Chapter had received any communication from the Provincial Grand Superintendent of Hants and the Isle of Wight. Comp. Buss said there had been a letter received from Comp. W. Beach, in which he asked for a postponement of this petition until he had time to make inquiries, which he proposed to do by going to Aldershot. Comp. Hacker thereupon thought the petition should be postponed. Comp. Rawson agreed. A petition for a new Chapter could not be granted without a recommendation, and this recommendation was now in abeyance. Comp. John Fenn, one of the petitioners, objected. It had been recommended, and the recommendation had been passed by the Committee, who had recommended Grand Chapter to grant the Warrant. Comp. Rawson did not think it was now in the power of Grand Chapter to grant the petition. Comp. Barron said the motion now before Grand Chapter was that the petition be granted. It might, however, be convenient to postpone it. Comp. Rev. C. W. Arnold said there was a definite question before the Grand Chapter—was this petition to be granted or not? He did not see how the letter from the Grand Superintendent could overrule the agenda paper. Comp. Rawson said he had no legal adviser present to assist him, but his opinion was that this discussion should not be continued, and that the consideration of the prayer of this petition should be postponed in consequence of the withdrawal of the recommendation of the Grand Superintendent. Colonel Creaton felt bound to say that when the Committee received a petition duly signed and recommended by a Grand Superintendent, they had no alternative but to bring it before this Grand Chapter. He thought it a great pity that the Grand Superintendent, and those other Comps. who signed the petition, did not enquire before sending it. It would be thought playing fast and loose with the Committee. Comp. Joshua Nunn said that the Grand Superintendent having recommended the petition, and the Committee having brought it before Grand Chapter, the Comps. were at liberty to discuss it. They ought now to decide upon it. Any letter not before the Committee could have no weight. Comp. Rawson thought that the Grand Superintendent having withdrawn his recommendation, Grand Chapter could not consider that he had granted his recommendation. His own personal feeling was that they should decide at once that this petition should not be entertained that evening, but postponed till next meeting. Where a Superintendent had acted in error, he should be allowed to correct that error. Several other Comps. having spoken, Comp. Rev. C. W. Arnold proposed, and Comp. Robert Gray seconded, the adjournment of the petition till next meeting. This was carried. Comp. Colonel Creaton then drew attention to the concluding paragraphs of the Committee's Report, and Grand Chapter was closed.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF DURHAM.

THE annual meeting of the Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons within the Province of Durham was held on Tuesday, 21st ult., at Gateshead. The following amounts were then voted to the Masonic Charities, R.M.I.B. £21, R.M.I.G. £21, and R.M.B.I. £10 10s; £70 10s was also voted to the various Local Charities. Bro. The R.W.P.G.M. announced that the next meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge would be held at North Shields, under the banner of St. George's Lodge, No. 431. The Lodge was afterwards closed in due form, and the brethren, to the number of nearly 400, adjourned to the large ball room at the Assembly Rooms, Westgate, where they dined together. The chair at the dinner was occupied by the Right Hon. the Earl of Percy, M.P., R.W.P.G.M., and the vice-chairs by Bros. R. Eynon P.S.G.W., W. S. Hughes P.J.G.W., Adam Robertson P.P.S.G.W, and W. J. Ward P.P.J.G.W. Grace having been said, the R.W.P.G.M. gave the usual Loyal toast, which was followed by that of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W. Grand Master of England, followed by that of the Pro Grand Master and other Officers of Grand Lodge. Bro. L. M. Cockcroft D.P.G.M. then, in a few well chosen remarks, submitted the toast of the Provincial Grand Master, Earl Percy, which was received with much enthusiasm. Earl Percy having thanked the brethren for the reception accorded him, and expressed the pleasure it gave him that his Officers for the past year had taken on themselves the duty of visiting the various Lodges in the Province; he hoped the Officers appointed that day would follow their example. He was likewise very gratified to find from the several statements made that day that Freemasonry was flourishing throughout the Province. He concluded by submitting the name of the D.P.G.M., who, having responded to the toast, the past and present Provincial Grand Officers received the compliment due to them. The next toast on the list was that of the W.M., Officers, and Brethren of the St. Peter's Lodge, No. 481, which was replied to by the W.M. Brother Usher, and "the Masonic Charities" lost nothing in the hands of Bro. E. D. Davis, who made a forcible appeal on their behalf. The remaining toasts were those of the Visitors, replied to by Bro. Robinson P.P.G.S.W. Durham, Mayor of Newcastle, and the Tyler's toast. Some capital harmony rendered the evening very enjoyable. During the meeting in the Town Hall, Bro. C. H. Shepherd P.P.G.O. very ably presided at the great organ. Great praise is due to the W.M. of St. Peter's Lodge and his Board of Stewards for their untiring energy to secure the comfort of so large a gathering of brethren, and if unfortunately dissatisfaction was felt at the dinner no blame can be attached to them.

The usual routine business being got through, reports from the Lodges in the provinces were read by the various result of which evidenced an increase of 29 members as compared with last year. The following amounts were then voted to the Masonic Charities, R.M.I.B. £21, R.M.I.G. £21, and R.M.B.I. £10 10s; £70 10s was also voted to the various Local Charities. Bro. Thomas Anderson was subsequently unanimously re-elected Treasurer for the ensuing year. Bros. H. Hotham and Anthony Clapham were also unanimously re-elected auditors. The Officers for the ensuing year were afterwards appointed and invested by the R.W.P.G.M. as follows:—Bros. Richard Eynon P.M. 481 P.S.G.W., W. S. Hughes W.M. 406 P.J.G.W., Rev. Cooper 1342 P.G.A.P., Joshua Curry P.G.Tyler. The R.W.P.G.M. announced that the next meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge would be held at North Shields, under the banner of St. George's Lodge, No. 431. The Lodge was afterwards closed in due form, and the brethren, to the number of nearly 400, adjourned to the large ball room at the Assembly Rooms, Westgate, where they dined together. The chair at the dinner was occupied by the Right Hon. the Earl of Percy, M.P., R.W.P.G.M., and the vice-chairs by Bros. R. Eynon P.S.G.W., W. S. Hughes P.J.G.W., Adam Robertson P.P.S.G.W, and W. J. Ward P.P.J.G.W. Grace having been said, the R.W.P.G.M. gave the usual Loyal toast, which was followed by that of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W. Grand Master of England, followed by that of the Pro Grand Master and other Officers of Grand Lodge. Bro. L. M. Cockcroft D.P.G.M. then, in a few well chosen remarks, submitted the toast of the Provincial Grand Master, Earl Percy, which was received with much enthusiasm. Earl Percy having thanked the brethren for the reception accorded him, and expressed the pleasure it gave him that his Officers for the past year had taken on themselves the duty of visiting the various Lodges in the Province; he hoped the Officers appointed that day would follow their example. He was likewise very gratified to find from the several statements made that day that Freemasonry was flourishing throughout the Province. He concluded by submitting the name of the D.P.G.M., who, having responded to the toast, the past and present Provincial Grand Officers received the compliment due to them. The next toast on the list was that of the W.M., Officers, and Brethren of the St. Peter's Lodge, No. 481, which was replied to by the W.M. Brother Usher, and "the Masonic Charities" lost nothing in the hands of Bro. E. D. Davis, who made a forcible appeal on their behalf. The remaining toasts were those of the Visitors, replied to by Bro. Robinson P.P.G.S.W. Durham, Mayor of Newcastle, and the Tyler's toast. Some capital harmony rendered the evening very enjoyable. During the meeting in the Town Hall, Bro. C. H. Shepherd P.P.G.O. very ably presided at the great organ. Great praise is due to the W.M. of St. Peter's Lodge and his Board of Stewards for their untiring energy to secure the comfort of so large a gathering of brethren, and if unfortunately dissatisfaction was felt at the dinner no blame can be attached to them.

The W.M. and every brother present expressed a hope that he would at future meetings be present among them in renewed health. It was arranged that a Ball in connection with the Lodge should be held in December next. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down, in the Crown Room, to a very sumptuous and récherché banquet and dessert, provided by Bro. A. Best, and superintended by Bro. Dawkins, the tables being beautifully decorated. The W.M., after grace had been said, proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. The National Anthem was then sung. Bro. D. J. Robinson I.P.M., in a very eloquent speech, proposed the health of the W.M. Bro. Hook, which was enthusiastically received. The W.M., in reply, said they had witnessed his working, and he had proved to the brethren, by his regular attention to the duties of his office, and his successful efforts to administer to their comforts and harmony at the festive board, that he had their interests at heart. He was sure he was never so happy as when promoting some new idea to give them pleasure, and promoting that social intercourse which is at all times so agreeable. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the newly-initiated Brother, said he was proud to have one among them who would he was sure prove an ornament to Freemasonry. The toast having been very ably responded to, Bro. Philp sang the E.A. song. Such an excellent staff of Officers is the best assurance that the high reputation so justly and deservedly earned by this Lodge will be fully maintained during the ensuing year. Superior music was introduced during the ceremony by Bro. G. Barlow P.P.G.O., who presided at the harmonium, which, if possible, added to its beauty, and certainly promoted and enhanced its effectiveness. The business of the evening being ended, the Lodge was closed in due and ancient form at five p.m. The brethren then adjourned to the banquetting hall, where the installation banquet was served in becoming style by Mrs. Hopkins. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. A warm eulogy was passed on the Treasurer Bro. Dr. Beales, for the efficient manner in which he had performed his duties. Dr. Beales responded, in a very happy and appropriate speech. The Rev. Chapter of Rectitude, No. 581.—The last regular meeting of this Chapter was held at the Corporation Hotel, Tipping-street, Ardwick, Manchester, on Thursday evening week, when the following Companions were present: Julius Arensberge Z. The minutes of the last regular Chapter having been read and confirmed, E.Z. said he had a very pleasing duty to perform, which was to present to Comp. James Hall P.Z. a very handsome gold jewel and collar, which had been contributed for by the members of the Rectitude Chapter as a token of esteem for Comp. James Hall, and in recognition of the very many services rendered to the Chapter by this highly esteemed Companion. It was confidently hoped that he might be long spared to wear the jewel, and that he would continue to honour the Chapter with his visits. Furthermore, it afforded him very great pleasure to say that the Comps. of the Chapter had unanimously decided to make Comp. Hall an honorary member of the Chapter, and he hoped by the help of the Most High he would long be spared to enjoy that honorary membership, and concluded by adorning his neck and breast with the collar and jewel. Comp. Hall (who was very heartily applauded), in receiving the jewel, said:—Companions, I am very thankful for your kind expressions, and also for the very handsome jewel and collar which, as your E.Z. says, has been so unanimously given to me by the Companions generally. I do assure you that I have always taken a deep interest in Royal Arch Masonry, and anything I may have done for you in the past I will readily and most willingly do in the future, if my health will permit. I esteem most highly the great honour you have conferred on me by honorary membership, and I assure you that, from this fact alone, I shall feel more than ever that I am one of you, and will more than ever try by example and precept to stimulate the Officers and Companions to efficiency, so that when the Chapter is visited, as it will no doubt be, by P.G. Officers, those Officers will go away pleased, and be able to say that the Officers and Companions of the Rectitude Chapter are well up to their work and have plenty of it to do. Companions, from my heart I sincerely thank you. The election of Officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, when the following Companions were duly elected:—The first, second, and third principals were appointed to again serve in their several chairs for another year, owing to the fact that amongst the Companions there did not happen to be a Companion eligible. Comp. John Brown was elected to the office of Scribe E., Comp. Wilkinson as Treasurer; Comp. Emanuel Nelson as P.S. Comp. Thomas Tyers P.Z., seeing that an efficient N. was wanted, very generously offered to take that office, which was most readily given to him, with hearty expressions of gratitude, by the E.Z., and loud acclamations by the Companions. Comp. Nicholls was re-appointed Janitor. On the motion of Comp. Julius Arensburg E.Z., seconded by Comp. Burton, Comps. Thomas Tyers P.Z. and Henry Darbyshire J. were appointed Auditors. The Chapter was then closed in due form and with solemn prayer, at 8.30 p.m. Comp. Julius Arensberg E.Z., having given the visitors his usual hearty invitation, the Companions sat down at the festive board to a grand supper, which was put upon the table by the comely hostess, Mrs. Langford, in her usual neat style and pleasing manner. After the Loyal and patriotic toasts had been disposed of, the W.M. proposed the health of the P.M.'s, dwelling largely on the valuable assistance the W.M. received from them. To his remarks they severally responded in short but effective speeches. The W.M.'s health was proposed, and received with the usual honours; in replying Bro. Isaac assured the brethren that he would strive to perform his duties with the utmost assiduity; he felt proud of his position, more particularly as he was supported by such an efficient staff of Officers, and he trusted that his year might be as great a success as that of his predecessor. The Treasurer, Secretary, and Visitors' toasts were next on the list, and were duly honoured, as was also that of the Officers. The Tyler's toast brought a pleasant evening to a close. The evening's amusement was considerably augmented by the vocal abilities displayed by several brethren; a capital recitation was also given by a member of the Lodge.

Ancient Carthage Royal Arch Chapter, No. 1717 E.C., at Tunis.—The first meeting of the winter season was held on Saturday, 25th October. Present—E. Comps. A. M. Broadley D.D.G.M. Malta Z., Dr. Magnaini H., Baron James Castellnuovo J.; Comps. J. H. Stevens E., G. Pentecost N., Dr. Perini P.S., Cassar 1st A.S., Barsotti 2nd A.S., Professor V. C. Clement Registrar, Professor Souiller Interpreter, and others. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Comp. T. F. Reade, H.B.M.'s Agent and Consul General, P.D.D.G.M. Egypt, &c., was unanimously elected a member of the Chapter. On the proposition of the M.E.Z., a vote of thanks was passed in favour of the 2nd and 3rd Principals for their invaluable services to the Chapter during their term of office. The three Principals having expressed their desire to retire from office, a ballot was taken for their successors, which resulted as follows:—Comps. T. F. Reade P.M. 1068 Z., Dr. Perini W.M. 1717 H., J. E. L. Barker, C.E., W.M. 1835 J. After routine business being transacted, the Chapter was closed in peace and harmony according to ancient form.

Royal Savoy Lodge, No. 1744.—A meeting of this Lodge took place at Ashley's Hotel, Covent Garden, on Tuesday, 28th ult., Bro. J. Willing W.M. in the chair. Also present, Bros. J. Douglass S.W., Jones as J.W., W. M. Styles Secretary, Hyland J.D., Cook I.G., Holt W.S., Deller, Jaques, Dovey, Smith, Sillis, Lloyd, Bennett, Cole, and about 60 other Brethren. Visitors—Bros. Mursell J. W. Medina 35, Kauffmann D.C. Kings Cross 1732, and Meacock Crystal Palace 742. The minutes of the previous regular meeting, and that of the Emergency having been read and confirmed, Bros. Dickey and Ramsden were raised to the degree of M.M.; Bros. Harton, Blundell, Thorn, and Holland were passed to the degree of F.C.; after which Messrs. H. Dickey, H. Hoare, and J. T. Woods were properly introduced and impressively initiated into the mysteries of the Craft. The election of W.M. for the ensuing year was proceeded with, when Bro. John Douglass (Standard Theatre), P.M. of the Metropolitan Lodge 1507, was unanimously elected. The outgoing W.M. was unanimously elected Treasurer, and Bro. Nolan Tyler. Bros. Sillis, Maby, Bennett, Johnson and Lieut. Cole were elected auditors. The Secretary Bro. Stiles (W.M. King's Cross Lodge 1732) proposed that a P.M.'s jewel of the value of £10 10s be voted to Bro. Willing W.M.'s for his successful and able working during his year of office as Founder and first W.M. of the Royal Savoy Lodge. This was seconded and carried unanimously. The names of several candidates were given in to be ballotted for and initiated at ensuing meeting (installation), and after accepting Bro. Treadwell's resignation. The brethren adjourned to banquet, at half-past seven. During the evening the W.M. most earnestly thanked the Officers and brethren for their able working and hearty co-operation from the formation of the Lodge, some fifteen months ago; he felt certain the same goodwill and assistance would be rendered to his successor. The number of the Brethren in the Lodge now amounted to about seventy, and the earnest attention paid by the members to the duties of Freemasonry, and cordial reception accorded to visitors at all times, augured well for the prosperity of the Lodge and the happiness of the brethren. Several songs were excellently rendered and the meeting broke up about 10 in the evening. The installation meeting will take place the fourth Tuesday in November.

Saint Leonard Lodge, No. 1766.—The November meeting was held in the Council Chamber of the Town hall, Shoreditch, on Wednesday last. Bro. Louis Stean W.M. presided, and was supported by Bros. G. T. Barr S.W., C. F. Barham J.W., Rev. H. G. Henderson Chaplain, C. Stevens Treasurer, J. Cox Hon. Sec., E. Benjamin S.D., J. A. Jones J.D., A. A. Clement I.G., C. T. Speight Tyler, J. Fenston, W. Beasley, W. Snelgrove, T. Lawrence, J. Staff, J. Tidball, F. Matthews, E. Walker, Dr. W. Holt, R. Drysdale, H. J. Thrower, G. Plummer, W. H. Brand, W. Prevost, R. S. Mendey. The Lodge was opened according to ancient custom, and Bro. J. Staff was passed, the ceremony being ably worked. Bro. G. T. Barr was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing year; Bro. C. Stevens was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. C. T. Speight Tyler. Routine business was transacted, and the Lodge was closed.

MANY of whom this question is asked will say, I can read it and write it, but can't speak it. A neat little volume for the Pocket has just been published by an Ex-Inspector of Public Schools; all the most useful verbs as used in ordinary conversation are therein embodied, alphabetically arranged on an entirely new plan, and printed in large type in French and English, a most rapid system, indispensible to teachers and other persons teaching themselves the language. LOCAL VOTING POWER IN THE MASONIC INSTITUTIONS.

WE are indebted to Bro. Thomas Bowden, of Bristol, for the following Tabular Statement, taken from the Reports for the Year 1878, which shews the number of Votes held by the various Provinces in England in the Three Royal Masonic Institutions, with the number of Boys and Girls belonging to the several Provinces, and the number of Lodges in each.

When it is remembered that the compilation of this table involves the classification of about ten thousand names which appear in the Report of the Benevolent Institution, undivided as regards Provinces, the amount of work entailed may be imagined. As regards the Boys' and Girls' Schools, the labour is simply one of addition, an item in itself of considerable toil, but the task as regards the Benevolent Institution may better be imagined by any brother who attempts the subdivision of one page, and then takes into account the fact that there are 175 such to work upon. We have before expressed our opinion that this work should not be left to the enterprise of an individual, but should be issued officially by the three institutions. We are not in favour of abolishing the existing books, but think that an additional one should be issued, showing on one page the votes acquired by an individual in the three charities; in such a work it would not be necessary to insert the addresses, as they could be found, when required, on reference to the respective lists, the name here being sufficient for all purposes. Were this list issued, it would be easy to discover the brethren who had qualified for one or other of the institutions, and a favourable opportunity would arise for soliciting his or her subscription on behalf of the others, in order to complete the circle of support to the three institutions. In this respect alone we believe the work would repay the outlay its production would entail, if it be necessary thus to justify a most necessary and useful addition to the information we are able to obtain of our Charities. We hope before long this matter will be brought before the respective Committees, and that the ideas of the subscribers on the point will be solicited. In the meantime all praise is due to Bro. Bowden, who, we are assured, will be proud to see an official list issued as an outcome of his exertions. Bro. Bowden desires us to state, that although he has used every care to render his figures correct, he is unable to guarantee their accuracy. This statement we think is quite unnecessary, we imagine that the totals are as accurate as it is possible for any one unconnected with the offices to supply them; but should any material error in any be discovered, we shall be glad to hear of it, as we feel certain will Bro. Bowden. The more brethren who interest themselves in verifying these figures, the more likely are we to have the desired information published officially.

EDUCATIONAL FUND FOR JAMAICA.

WE have received from Jamaica the preliminary prospectus of a Masonic Charity it is proposed to form there, under the title of the Masonic Educational Fund of Jamaica. We have been requested to make the matter known to the brethren of the mother country, and we have much pleasure in placing the details before our readers, trusting that the brethren of the far East will receive the support they deserve in carrying out their desired object. After referring to the general principles of Freemasonry, the brethren of Jamaica point out that its great aim is Charity, and while they admit that theoretically the Craft presents much which calls for praise, practically, they urge, it appears to effect but little good in some places, among which they class their own colony. Having so far accused themselves of neglecting to properly discharge their Masonic obligations, our brethren deserve the greater sympathy in their present attempt to remove the stigma which, they say, rests on the Craft in their district, for it is well known that in many respects they deserve to be complimented on their exemplification of the principles of true Brotherhood.

Having decided on making an effort to remove the stigma which attaches to them, the brethren of Jamaica naturally first sought an object to which they should devote their charity; and we think they have acted wisely in determining to afford to the children of Masons the benefits of an education which the circumstances of their parents, from unforeseen calamity, may render it impossible to provide. The object of the Fund is described as being to assist in the education of the children of Masons, who, on application to the General Committee, shall be considered eligible. It is further stated in the Prospectus that it is not intended to form an independent single Masonic Educational School, but to provide, wholly or in part, for the education of a certain number of children of the Masons of Lodges in Jamaica in one or other of the established schools in the colony. By this step the brethren will be able at once to start their work of fraternal relief, and by a judicious expenditure of funds will be able to assist many cases; while, if they had decided to found an independent school, some years must have elapsed before the needful funds would be forthcoming, and the other arrangements completed.

The names of the brethren who have already promised to support the foundation of the Fund are given with the prospectus, and comprise most of the influential Masons of the district, so that there is a fair prospect of an immediate start being made. At present, the efforts of the founders are mainly occupied in securing promises of support, and it is proposed that, as soon as the requisite organisation is called into action, a brilliant Masonic Fête will be given in the Asylum grounds, when all the members of the Provisional Working Committee, as well as the fraternity generally, will be urged individually and through the influence of their respective circles of private friends to aid in making the Fête financially a success.

The Committee have drawn up a proposed Code of Bye-laws for the government of the Fund, which we give below. At this early date it may perhaps be somewhat out of place to make any comment on these proposed laws, but as we presume the Committee are seeking for the opinions of their friends, we desire to offer a protest against law No. 9. The adoption of this law, virtually limiting the benefits of the Fund to old residents of Jamaica, would, we think, be a great mistake. Surely our brethren there do not wish Freemasonry to lose any of its cosmopolitan nature. We are taught that the charity of a Freemason should know no bounds—so far as nationality or distance is concerned, and therefore why enforce a limit which, in years to come, might act most detrimentally to some whom the brethren would desire to aid. Other points in the proposed Code we may refer to at a later period.

The following have been put forward by the founders of the Fund as the PROPOSED BYE-LAWS.

1. It consists of a Patron or Patrons, President, Vice-Presidents, Trustees, Treasurer, Secretary, and an unlimited number of Life Governors, and Annual Subscribers.

2. The General Committee shall hold Special Meetings on and at such other times as they may deem necessary, for the purpose of considering applications, and for fixing the days of election.

3. The mode of Election is by means of Voting Papers issued by the General Committee.

4. Every sum of Five Shillings per annum subscribed to the Educational Fund gives the Subscriber one vote at a single election.

5. A donation of Five Guineas, in one or more payments within twelve months, gives five votes for Life at every election, and constitutes the donor a Life Subscriber.

6. A donation of Ten Guineas, in one or more payments of not less than Five Guineas each, gives twelve votes for Life at every election, and constitutes the donor a Life Governor.

7. A donation of Twenty Guineas, in one or more payments of not less than Five Guineas each, gives Twenty-five votes for Life at every election, and constitutes the donor a Vice-President.

8. Similar privileges are acquired by Lodges of the Colony, on payment of double the above amounts.

9. No applicant shall be eligible for election unless the Father has been for at least three years a Subscribing Member of some Regular Lodge in Jamaica, and be a subscriber of at least Five Shillings per annum to this Fund for the same period, unless the Father shall have died before the inauguration of this Fund.

10. No child shall be admitted to the benefits of this Fund who is under or above years of age, nor continue a recipient after the age of

11. No candidate shall be placed on the list until approved of by the General Committee.

12. Every petitioner shall produce a certificate, signed by the Master and Secretary of the Lodge of which the father has been a subscribing member, together with a certificate or satisfactory proof of the date of the birth of the applicant.

13. A list of all approved candidates, together with such particulars as the General Committee may deem necessary, shall be sent by the Secretary to every subscriber at least days before the day of election.

14. As a condition of a grant from the Fund, a quarterly report of the progress, conduct and health of every child assisted by this Fund, shall be required from the head of the educational establishment where the child is placed, and the General Committee shall take such other steps as may be practicable, for ascertaining the progress made by the child.

15. The General Committee shall have the power to increase, decrease, or rescind at any time, any grant in aid, if in their opinion it be deemed desirable to do so.

16. A bye-law will be prepared, showing the mode of election to a seat in the General Committee, and the qualifications which are necessary therefor, say to be confined to the Life Subscribers, Life Governors, and Vice-Presidents. In the case of a Lodge subscribing such a sum as will qualify for a Life Subscriber, Life Governor, or Vice-President, the Lodge to elect annually a representative for a seat on the General Committee.

"HOW TO RULE AND GOVERN A LODGE."

FROM THE "MASONIC REVIEW."

THIS excessive hot wave we are just at this time passing through, brings up the thought, that, perhaps, if a little attention were given it, the cause of a very large proportion of the difficult matters that have to be met and overcome in our Lodge organizations might be discovered.

Nature in her efforts to counteract the deleterious influences with which mankind appear to be surrounded, no doubt does much, but then she cannot do all. A sudden change in the atmosphere occurs, nature becomes weakened, if not wholly exhausted, in her efforts to maintain a proper equilibrium throughout the system, and, in consequence, we become more or less bilious, feel irritable, ill-natured and all out of sorts, and in no proper frame of mind to transact the business in our Lodge rooms, in that cool, calm and deliberative manner which the precepts of Masonry enjoin.

Under circumstances like these—and they frequently occur in our assemblies, especially where our Lodge rooms are not sufficiently ventilated—if the W. Master is not an experienced hand at the business, with a cool head on his shoulders, we are very apt to have a little excitement, and perhaps hot contention, with some unbrotherly feelings before the meeting is over, out of which come contention and trouble that frequently take time to heal up and reconcile. Again, the Master may feel a little out of sorts, and not quite competent to govern himself, much less his Lodge, and then a muss is apt to occur before the business is through.

In one of our Lodges, a few years since, at a time when the hot wave—as it is sometimes called—was passing over the section of country, the Lodge meetings came. The members assembled, but it soon became evident that many of them did not feel as pleasant as was desirable. Among the first business presented for consideration was some half-dozen applications for advancement. Of course the ballot was severally passed, and every last one rejected by from two to six negative votes.

Here was trouble, you may be sure, and it required a cool head and steady hand to guide the Lodge safely through. Excitement ran high, and soon became hot as the atmosphere in which they were sweltering. Each demanded to know why his particular friend had been rejected. Fortunately, however, the Master, who was an experienced hand in his place, and knew how to keep himself in order at such times, promptly ruled all such matters out of order, and would allow no such inquiries to come before the Lodge.

When, by a little vigorous use of the gavel he had got matters quieted, he arose, and in a pleasant manner and tone of voice remarked that he thought they had just finished a most magnificent day's work, although occupying but a few moments of their time; and as it was extremely hot and disagreeable, and perhaps, like himself, many of them had become more or less bilious, and of course not in a condition to overtax themselves with any further business at present, he thought they had better take a holiday for the rest of the evening. He should therefore proceed to close the Lodge.

This, however, appeared unsatisfactory to some who wanted to fight it out right then and there. The Master was unyielding, the Lodge was closed; the combustible element dispersed, and of course the fire died out. The next Lodge night came on; all met in harmony; the several applications were renewed; all passed clear, and a happier lot of good fellows never appeared together in a Lodge room.

Now, all who have had any experience in matters of this kind can readily see what it might have resulted in had it been otherwise managed. There was combustible element in it enough to have destroyed more Lodges than one.

Again, another source of trouble and disquiet in our Lodges arises from the want of ability to discriminate between duty and privilege. Whatever is a duty should be performed, and at the proper time; but a simple privilege may or may not be performed, just as the party may think proper. And here we might remark as we pass along, that the doctrine which is being so energetically promulgated by many of the Masonic writers of the present day, that custom, or what is usually called "ancient usage," has not only become law, but an unalterable landmark, is causing more contention and difficulty in our Lodges than there is any necessity for. How often we hear these expressions in our Lodge meetings "ancient usage," "old regulations," "common custom," &c. Such expressions are always used as knock-down arguments—the raw head and bloody bones that are to silence all opposition, when the truth is, "ancient usage," "old customs," &c., however beautiful and appropriate they may have been, were but privileges, and as such, can never become law, much less unchangeable landmarks. Were it otherwise, Masonry would be changing every hour. The Masonry we of the present day shall hand over to our successors will be altogether a different affair from what we received from our predecessors.

Take an example: A Lodge, young, vigorous, and prospering, had fitted up their Lodge rooms appropriately, and procured a fine set of jewels, with velvet collars for their officers, all in good taste, just as it should ever be. Their Master, by the way a good fellow, but a little exacting, must have every thing just so, and stood much upon custom, usage, &c. One sultry evening, the Master observed the Senior Deacon without his jewel. Calling his attention to the fact, he peremptorily ordered him to put it on. Now it being exceedingly hot, as before stated, this arbitrary order of the Master had naturally a tendency to stir up the superabundance of bile. The Deacon felt that somehow his privileges were being tampered with, and without proper reflection, absolutely refused to obey the order of the Master.

Here, of course, was trouble. The Master for a time lost the control of himself, and of course, the control of his Lodge; the members became more or less excited; "old regulations," "ancient usage," "common custom," with all their raw head and bloody bone arguments, were hurled at the head of the Deacon, with profusion, until finally, he became exceedingly angry, threw off his apron, and left the Lodge, declaring he would never enter it again. This of course made matters worse; a resolution was introduced to at once expel him for his contumacious refusal to obey the order of the Worshipful Master. This for a time was discussed pro and con, but not in a proper spirit. All had become too much excited for that; some insisting that as the facts were all before them, the Lodge could adopt the resolution, and expel the brother without any notice or form of trial whatever. Better counsel, however, prevailed, and the matter was laid over until the next stated meeting.

In the meantime the Worshipful Master, realizing that a great wrong had been perpetrated somewhere, but not knowing just where or how to get hold of it, wrote to the Grand Master, giving a detailed statement of the whole case, and asked for advice, what to do, and how to proceed. This was a fortunate step. In due time the advice asked for came, which was in substance that the Deacon, in contumaciously refusing to obey the order of the Master, had laid himself liable to discipline by the Lodge; his remedy against the order of the Master, if he thought it improper or oppressive, was by an appeal to higher authority; but as the Master himself was the first aggressor, in that he had attempted to compel his Deacon to perform as a duty that which was but a privilege, he should at once go to his Deacon, let him read the communication from the Grand Master, and then take back his improper order, apologize for what had been done, and courteously request him to come back and resume his place in the Lodge, and then let the matter drop. This advice, so appropriately given by the Grand Master, was carried out to the letter. The next Lodge meeting came on; both Officers appeared in their appropriate stations; the Grand Master's letter was read, and then the Worshipful Master arose, acknowledged his error, and handsomely apologized to the Lodge, and asked for forgiveness.

The Deacon, feeling that he could be as generous as his Master, candidly acknowledged his error, pledging himself never to be caught in the like again, and as apologies appeared to be the order of the hour, the members caught the spirit, and thus a general love feast ensued, and all got happy; and that was the last ever heard of that difficulty. The circumstance occurred less than sixteen years ago, the Lodge, as before stated, was at that time quite young, having been organized but a few years, and located in a new place, yet it has gone on and prospered, until in addition to the Lodge, there are now located in the same place, a Chapter, Council, and Commandery, and all are prospering finely.

The customs, usages, and privileges of our predecessors 50, 100 or 200 years ago, are no more binding on us of to-day, than will our customs, usages, and privileges be upon our successors, 100 or 200 years hence. The stability and perpetuity of our time-honoured institution can rest in safety nowhere else.

MARK WELL!

From The Masonic Newspaper.

AFTER many month's labour in the editorial field, and having week by week presented to the fraternity The Masonic Newspaper—for their information, instruction and amusement,—it is proper that we should survey the scene of our toil, examine the past, and carefully review the work that has been done. We have performed this duty as we believe conscientiously, and with the desire of detecting errors, if committed, to the end that they might be corrected, and avoided in the future. We have been prompted to more careful scrutiny and most severe examination by the partial censure of some of our contemporaries. Our exchanges have, in one or two instances, brought to us the intelligence that some supposed, that in the discussions and suggestions that we have from time to time made, in reference to the Grand Lodge and its wasteful extravagance in paying representatives, that we have been wanting in proper respect for that most worshipful body, and for the venerable brethren who illumine the East in the character of Past Grand Officers. Willing to believe that such a charge would not be insinuated or expressed unless there was foundation for it, we have taken the lantern of scrutiny, and with it carefully examined all our productions in that respect, and we do not find anything that will, in our humble judgment, justify such reflections. On the contrary, we have expressed our highest reverence for the M.W. Grand Lodge and all its Officers past and present. We have dealt tenderly with many things that might have been severely criticised, for the reason that we did not see how remedy could be applied. We have made it a rule not to find fault unless we could suggest some beneficial change. In our various articles on "How to do it," we have called the attention of the Craft to the existence of a system which is working as, we believe, greatly to the injury of the Grand Lodge, and dishonouring the fraternity in the State. We see that a burden is now borne for obligations already incurred. We see that the Craft are severely taxed to reduce this debt, and at the same time that an enormous sum is annually expended to pay the expenses of the Grand Lodge, that the greater part of the expenses arises from paying members for their attendance at the Annual Communications. We see that the labours of the sessions are actually small, and certainly insignificant, compared with the sum spent. We see the disbursements for charity confined within such narrow limits and in amount so small that the bare mention of it has startled all, and awakened by astonishment the indignation of our neighbours, who, educated under the same banner and in the same principles, exemplify their faith by works, while we are content with faith alone. Seeing all this, and feeling that we stood in the position of advisers to our readers, we gave them various suggestions for correcting the evil and relieving the Craft from both the burden of taxation and the unpleasant reflections cast upon their work. In these suggestions we have proposed various remedies, all tending to reduce the enormous expense. We have advanced the idea of reducing the number of representatives, and as part of that made mention of the Past Grand Officers and others, as some who could well be spared without injury to the successful working of the Grand Lodge. As to the reduction of the number of representatives, we but echo a proposition already made in Grand Lodge. As to dispensing with Past Grand Officers, we but follow a precedent which was set in 1849, and which has since proved satisfactory. We certainly are not to be blamed for this, or to be charged with lack of respect to our "elders" and those more experienced. In furtherance of relief, we discussed the propriety of triennial sessions, and consolidation of Lodges. And at length settled upon the plan of dispensing with the pay system in toto, as the proper method of removing the evil. And we have urged this upon the brethren with all the ability we possess, and shall continue so to do until the work is accomplished.

We would have been unworthy the favour of all Masons, and recreant to our editorial duty had we done less. Our best efforts we feel have been imperfect, but we know that our intentions and desires were honest, and that the achievement of the plan of repeal would be to the honour of the M.W.G. Lodge and of every Mason who hails from the jurisdiction. Let our readers mark well the words that we have written, and let them carry forward the work until the end is attained. They must not remain idle or be intimidated by the suggestions that they are reflecting discredit upon the Grand Lodge or dishonouring its Officers,—far from it! On the contrary, all who take up this labour are working for the honour, glory and reputation of our time honoured institution; are striving to remove the clouds which obscure its lights, and restoring to the Grand Lodge of New York its ancient and well merited standing as a peer among the Grand Lodges of the world.

Wood, &c. The Lodge was opened in ample form, and the minutes of last regular meeting confirmed, Bro. J. Brook-Smith then duly installed Bro. S. Moss into the chair of King Solomon according to ancient custom. The W.M. invested his Officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. A. V. Hatton I.P.M., G. Haynes S.W., R. Matthews J.W., E. D. Worsley P.M. Sec., T. White Treas., J. A. Matthews S.D., D. Buckle J.D., G. K. Prowse P.M. Director of Ceremonies, J. Kelly I.G., B. Doyle Tyler. After which the W.M. closed the Lodge, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet-room, where a repast, embracing all the delicacies of the season, was provided by Bro. G. H. Grogan, which gave universal satisfaction. The W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts—the first being the Queen and the Craft,—Solo by Bro. R. Matthews—"God save the Queen." Then H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W. G.M.; in doing so he remarked that we had a Grand Master at our head whom we not only admired and loved, but all Masons throughout the universe respected, as the Prince of Masons. Solo by Bro. Lifton—"God bless the Prince of Wales." Prov. Grand Master Lord Sherborne, D.P.G.M. Bro. Newmarch, and Prov. Grand Lodge. After speaking in eulogistic terms of Lord Sherborne and Bro. Newmarch, the W.M. coupled with the toast the names of Bro. A. V. Hatton P.G.J.W., and Bro. Baron de Ferrieres P.G.R., who suitably responded; the latter brother giving some of his experiences in regard to the Charities. It is worthy of record that the brother in question is a Vice-patron of the three Institutions, and so much has he the welfare of the Order at heart that the Province is exceedingly proud of him. In giving the health of the Installing Master, Bro. J. Brook-Smith, the W.M. remarked that no words of his could express his thanks for the kind and efficient manner in which Bro. Brook-Smith had conducted the ceremony. It may here be said that one and all of the brethren were exceedingly delighted with the masterly and able manner the Installing Master did the work; seldom, if ever, had they seen it done so well. The brethren having drank the toast heartily, the Installing Master responded, thanking the brethren of the Royal Lebanon for the hearty reception he had received at their hands, and saying that what he had done he considered was only a duty. In his observations he impressed upon all present the necessity, in these days of gigantic strides in the Masonic world, to admit none into our Lodges who would not bring credit and honour with them, so that when we meet in Lodge we may truly say we are a band of brothers, and all good fellows. The Installing Master then asked the W.M. for his gavel, when he proposed the health of the W.M., remarking that he was convinced the brethren had made a wise selection in choosing their Master in the person of Bro. Moss, to whom he wished a prosperous year of office. The W.M. briefly responded, thanking the brethren for the honour conferred upon him. Then followed the toasts of the Visitors, Charities, Officers, and Tyler. The evening was spent harmoniously, and the proceedings were enlivened with songs from Bros. R. Matthews, Lifton, Kelly, Woodward, Aitken, Worsley, and Clarke. Bro. Horton furnished a great treat, viz., a solo on the oboe, which was fully appreciated. The Royal Lebanon Lodge can look back upon its installation night with a degree of pride. May it ever continue the same.

METROPOLITAN CHAPTER, No. 1507.

THE members of this Chapter inaugurated their second year on Thursday, 6th November, when Comp. J. R. Stacey was installed into the first Principal's Chair. The Chapter was consecrated in July 1878, and for a time the gatherings were held at the Metropolitan Club, Pentonville-road, where likewise the Metropolitan Lodge was wont to hold its meetings. Consequent, however, upon the great accession of members to the Lodge, the brethren had to seek fresh fields and pastures new, and they are now located at Anderton's Hotel. The Metropolitan Club has lately changed hands, and the members of the several Lodges and Chapters who were in the habit of assembling under its roof have had to migrate. The meeting on the occasion it is now our province to record was held at Anderton's Hotel, where the Companions assembled at 4.30. Comp. T. A. Adams P.Z. acted as installing Principal, and he was assisted by Comp. James Terry P.Z., Secretary Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. The Principals elect were Comps. J. R. Stacey M.E.Z., W. J. Ferguson H., and W. M. Stiles J. The two former have already passed the Chair in R.A. Masonry, and in their case the ceremony was necessarily curtailed, but the installation of Comp. Stiles gave the veteran Comp. Adams an opportunity of displaying the marvellous aptitude he has for conducting Masonic ceremonies. The Officers were appointed as under:—J. Willing I.P.Z. Treas., C. W. Hudson Scribe E., J. Douglass Scribe N., H. Stiles P.S., T. J. Hyland 1st Assist., W. Cook 2nd Assist., W. S. Daniel D.C., W. Side W.S., T. C. Edmonds Assistant Steward, R. E. Barnes Janitor. The agenda paper contained the names of no less than six candidates for exaltation, but unfortunately neither of these were in attendance; consequently, after the transaction of routine business, the Chapter was closed. A capital banquet was served, under the personal superintendence of Comp. F. H. Clemow, who evidenced his desire to study the exigencies of the occasion by forestalling the time set down by half-an-hour, thus avoiding the wearisome interval that would have occurred consequent upon the non attendance of the candidates. This forethought enabled the M.E.Z. to go through the toast list without that amount of rushing and scrambling we are getting almost too much accustomed to. On the removal of the cloth, Comp. Stacey, who is a most genial President, said that he should make his remarks concise, and as brief as possible, therefore, without further preface he would call on them to do honour to the first toast—"The Queen and Royal Arch Masonry." This was most heartily received, and then the M.E.Z. gave, in quick succession, "The Prince of Wales, the First Grand Principal," "The Pro Grand Principal and the rest of the Grand Officers Past and Present." Comp. James Willing jun. now rose with very great gratification to propose the health of their esteemed M.E.Z. He referred to the estimable qualities of Companion Stacey, from whose ability as an instructor, both in Craft and R.A. Masonry, personally he had derived much benefit. Companion Stacey spared no amount of labour, and his election must inevitably tend to the advancement of the Metropolitan Chapter, and he was sure the Companions, one and all, would join with him in heartily drinking the toast. Full honour was done by all present, and then the M.E.Z. rose: He would elect to take the royal road, and at once get out of his present difficulty. He was eminently gratified at the kind way in which Comp. Willing had spoken of his exertions. This was not the first chair he had filled, and so long as he was so well received he trusted it would not be the last. He assured the Companions that every exertion should be made by him to further their interests, and concluded by again thanking Comp. Willing and the members for the hearty reception they had given him. The next toast that was offered was the health of the I.P.Z., whose exertions had met with such favourable results. A very handsome P.Z.'s jewel had been presented by the members which bore the following inscription:—

Presented to Comp. James Willing,
By the Members of the Metropolitan Chapter, No. 1507,
As a token of esteem and respect, and in recognition of kind and able services,
As Founder and first M.E.Z.
6th November 1879.

Comp. Stacey, in offering the toast, dilated eloquently upon the zeal and ability Comp. Willing displayed; for the advancement of their Chapter as its Principal he had exerted himself most strenuously, and now, as a member, he (Comp Stacey) was assured he would be none the less zealous. After a song—"Eily Mavoureen"—by Comp. F. Clemow, the I.P.Z. replied. He felt he was surrounded by an assemblage who would sympathise with him, and appreciate all he had to say. Unquestionably throughout his year the time had passed most pleasantly, and the gatherings had been characterised by good fellowship. He had had, both in Lodge and Chapter, some most pleasant meetings in the establishment conducted by Bro. Cox; but events had transpired which necessitated their removal, and individually he did not think they could have secured better quarters than where they were now assembled. Anderton's Hotel seemed to be the recognised place for Masonic gatherings, and he was sure the Bros. Clemow would strive might and main to make them comfortable; he thought both Lodge and Chapter might be congratulated on this point. Comp. Willing then expressed his indebtedness to Comps. Terry and Adams, who, in the formation of the Chapter and in the conduct of the early portion of its affairs, had both rendered excellent service. He also expressed his deep obligations to his Officers; the support they had given had materially tended to ensure the success that had been achieved. The jewel the Companions had presented him with would ever be highly prized, and he trusted their present happy relationship would long continue. The next toast was the health of the Installing Officers of the evening—Comps. Adams and Terry, whose many qualities the M.E.Z. gracefully commended to the Companions. Previous to the reply of these worthy Past Principals, the M.E.Z. called on Comp. Morgan for a reading. The selection made was a little poem entitled "Brought to Light," which was given with much dramatic feeling, intensified by an intimation Comp. Morgan said he had that morning received of the death, at the age of eighty-one, of the old lady with whom he had identified some of the main incidents of the story. Comp. Adams then briefly acknowledged the compliment that had been paid him, and he was followed by Comp. Terry, who assured the M.E.Z. and Companions that anything he could do to forward the interests of Freemasonry, whether in Craft or Royal Arch, it would ever be his desire to do. Comp. Terry strongly urged that to make our ceremonies impressive they should be rendered with dignity and solemnity: this would make those who listened to them for the first time the more deeply impressed with the importance of what they were undertaking. To him it was intensely gratifying to see the Chapter so well conducted. In proposing the health of the Companion Principals, and Officers of the Chapter, the M.E.Z. said that the Haggai and Joshua were both competent Royal Arch Masons, and both were capable of imparting knowledge to the younger members. Moreover, the other offices were filled by Companions who felt a deep interest in all matters they undertook, and the continued advancement of the Chapter might thereby be considered almost a certainty. Comps. Ferguson and Stiles acknowledged the compliment, and then came the toast of the Visitors, all of whom spoke a few words expressive of the gratification and pleasure they had derived from their visit. Several other toasts were honoured, and eventually that of the Janitor was called for. The Companions were much entertained during the evening by the vocal efforts of several of the members, notably we may mention Comps. Storey and Clemow. Comp. Hudson was very effective in his recital of "My Lord Tom Noddy."

EARL OF CHESTER LODGE, No. 1565.

THE annual meeting was held on 6th November, when the picturesque village of Lymm, Cheshire, was en fete. The meetings of the Lodge are held at the Masonic Hall, and on the above occasion, at three o'clock in the afternoon, the W.M., Bro. J. H. Evans, was supported by a large number of members and visitors from neighbouring Lodges. Among those present we noticed Bros. John Bowes P.M. P.P.G.J.W. Cumberland and Westmoreland, Rev. — Hodgson P.P.G.C., E. G. Parker S.W. W.M. elect, Balshaw Sec., John Sudlow S.D., James Kenworthy J.D., J. Lewis I.G., G. G. Wootton P.M., Coxhill W.M. 758, Siddeley 1045, John Young W.M. 148, D. W. Finney P.M. Prov. G. Dir. Cers., Capt. Little 120, Bradbury P.M. 1357, Kenyon P.M. 1045, Smith P.M. 1009, E. G. Simpson P.M. P.P.G.D., Rohmer P.M. 633, Groves, Bradford, Wallington, P. Pearse, Griffin, Thompson, W. L. Stone, Crompton W.M. 1588, Barber W.M. 1730, Ryder W.M. 1357, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, when the minutes were confirmed, and the auditors' report received. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, when, in the absence of Bro. E. Simpson, a distinguished member of the Prov. Grand Lodge of Cheshire, Bro. Bowes was requested to take the chair as Installing Master. Bro. Evans presented Bro. E. G. Parker W.M. elect for the benefit of installation. The preliminary portion of the ceremony being completed, the Lodge was opened in the third degree, and subsequently a Board of Installed Masters was completed in ample form, W. Bros. Finney and Siddeley presiding over the West and South respectively. Bro. E. G. Parker having been placed in the East, according to antient custom, the congratulations usual in well-ordered Lodges followed, the Board being "called off" pro tempore. Labour resumed, the Board was closed "in the name and fear," and the members and visitors of the three degrees admitted in due course. The usual proclamations, salutations, and greetings followed, and then the W.M. appointed and invested his Officers for the ensuing year. The Installing Master addressed each brother on the meaning of his emblem of office, his situation in the Lodge, and the nature and importance of his duties, after which he addressed at length the W.M., the Wardens, and the brethren generally, and thus completed the interesting ceremony of the day. After the reception of some propositions and the discharge of some routine business, a unanimous vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Bowes for the able and efficient manner in which he had performed the installation ceremony. The Lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned for a brief interval, after which they re-assembled at the banquet table. The W.M. presided, and after the cloth was withdrawn, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, and the pleasures of the evening were enhanced by some excellent music.

TRINITY COLLEGE LODGE, No. 1765.

THE annual Installation Meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, the 6th inst., at the Trinity College, Weymouth-street, W. Lodge was opened by Bro. Prof. E. M. Lott P.M. 245 P.P.G.J.W. Jersey, P.G. Org. Surrey W.M., who was supported by Rev. J. Robbins, D.D., P.M. 1635, P.G. Chap. Middx. (W.M. elect) S.W., E. Passawer J.W., Lt.-Col. Shadwell H. Clerke P.G.D., R. W. H. Giddy Dist. G.M. Griqualand, J. E. Turner Treas., John Stedman Sec., J. A. Hammond S.D., H. J. Stark J.D., E. J. Hoare Organist, Bradbury Turner D.C., Rev. H. G. Bonavia-Hunt I.G., F. Droege Steward, George Harrison Tyler. Among the visitors were Bros. Lt.-Col. W. S. Somerville Burney P.P.S.G.D. Essex P.M. 1615, H. C. Levander P.M. 1415 Prov. G. Sec. Middlesex, M. A. Cuffee Sec. 63, G. P. Hazelgrove P.M., John Chynoweth P.M. 4, W. W. Morgan jun., George Hastings J.W. 1718, A. Cumner 1426, George K. Emmett jun. 1635. After the customary formalities had been observed, the ballot was taken on behalf of Mr. Matthew Robson, who was a candidate for initiation. Resulting in his favour, that gentleman was regularly introduced and initiated by the W.M., the working tools being explained by the J.W. The report of the Audit Committee was then presented to the Lodge. From this we learn that all claims against the Lodge have been settled, the only debt now owing being a comparatively small balance to the Treasurer. The brethren of the Lodge are to be congratulated on the financial state of their affairs; very few Lodges can boast a complete set of furniture and other necessaries paid for after so short an existence. One other item deserves special mention, we refer to the fact that here a fixed proportion—five per cent.—of all receipts is set aside for the purposes of charity. We have often urged the adoption of this principle, and hope, ere long, to see it more generally carried out. The report of the Audit Committee having been formally received, the Lodge was advanced, Bro. Shadwell Clerke assumed the gavel, and in due course obligated and installed Bro. Dr. Robbins into the chair of the Lodge. That brother having been regularly proclaimed and saluted, appointed the Officers for the year, the following being regularly invested:—Bros. E. Passawer S.W., J. A. Hammond J.W., Turner (named as) Treas., Stedman Sec., Rev. G. T. Handford Chaplain, Stark S.D., Bonavia-Hunt J.D., Droege I.G., E. M. Lott I.P.M. Director of Music, A. W. S. Hoare Organist, Hammond D.C., Hoare and Bradbury Turner Stewards, Harrison Tyler. A notice of motion, relating to the future days of meeting, was then brought forward and carried unanimously. Previous to closing the Lodge, the W.M. stated that his first duty as Worshipful Master was one that could not be improved upon during the whole time that he might rule the Lodge. It was to present to the I.P.M. the jewel which had been so unanimously voted to him by the members. Were he to attempt to interpret the feelings of the brethren, he felt he should but divert their sentiments. He hoped their I.P.M. would live long to adorn the jewel which he would ever do, far more than the jewel could adorn him. Bro. Lott, in reply said it could not possibly give the W.M. as much pleasure to present the jewel as it did him to receive it. He looked upon it as a present of priceless worth, it being really a gift far beyond the value of any amount of money. After receiving the congratulations of the Visitors, the W.M. proceeded to close the Lodge, when the brethren adjourned to the Criterion to banquet. The company here had an opportunity of inspecting the suite of apartments recently fitted up by Messrs. Spiers and Pond specially for Masonic purposes. The appointments of the Lodge are as near approaching perfection as anything we know. We hope on a future occasion to give a more detailed account of the Masonic home which the enterprise of Messrs. Spiers and Pond has added to the Lodge accommodation of the metropolis. The banquet was served in the new Dining Hall adjoining the Lodge room, and everything reflected great credit on the caterers. At the conclusion of the repast grace was sung by Bro. Stedman's choir of boys, and was quickly followed by the usual preliminary toasts, each of which were heartily given and received. In proposing the Grand Officers, the W.M. coupled with the toast the names of Bros. Arnold, Giddy, and Shadwell Clerke. Bro. Rev. C. J. Arnold, in reply, after thanking the brethren, referred to the heartiness with which mention of the Grand Officers was always received. He regretted he was unable to be with the brethren in the Lodge: notwithstanding his personal absence, his heart was with them. In his capacity of Deputy G.M. of Surrey, he had that day presided at a meeting at Croydon, and had there performed the ceremonies of the three degrees; and thus the brethren could imagine with what appetite he came among them to partake of refreshment after labour. He had long looked forward with pleasure to attending the meeting, and hoped the Lodge would become one of the most prosperous in the metropolis. Bro. Lott now proposed what he considered the premier toast—that of the W.M. Bro. Robbins. He felt certain the brethren could not have selected a more suitable Master than they had. Bro. Dr. Robbins briefly replied, thanking the brethren very much and very sincerely for the compliment they had paid him. In proposing the next toast the W.M. expressed his regret that he had so short a time at his disposal; it was the question of time which alone prevented his giving the toast the full consideration it so justly deserved; still, it was a toast that required no colouring. The Lodge would not have been in existence but for Bro. Lott, while their musical programme without him would have been unorganised. The W.M. considered that Bro. Lott had founded a most promising Lodge. The toast having been heartily received, Bro. Lott rose to reply. He felt greatly the honour of his position. The W.M. had just stated that the Lodge was founded by him (Bro. Lott), but if he had not had the assistance of the Trinity College men the Lodge could never have been started, while without the aid he had received from the Officers it could never have reached its present position after so short an existence. Bro. Lott next proposed the health of the Installing Officer, Bro. Shadwell H. Clerke; it was a task that gave him great pleasure. Part of his duty that evening was to instal his successor; but, as they all knew, music was his forte, and he was not proficient in anything else. He therefore had to find some one to take his place as Installing Officer. He was not long in deciding on the brother he should most prefer to perform the task, and had no hesitation in asking Bro. Clerke to undertake the work. He had so materially helped the Lodge during its formation, and at its consecration, that he felt no more suitable Brother could be found. The brethren had seen how heartily he had undertaken the work, and now he called upon them to drink his health. Bro. Clerke, in his reply, said he considered it quite unnecessary to confer this further honour on him after the very high compliment that was paid him in being selected to usher the Lodge into existence. He had been especially interested in its welfare. When the I.P.M. suggested that he should occupy the chair on the occasion of the first installation meeting, he readily assented, especially as the W.M. was a brother who had been known to him for many years. He felt sure that, under the rule of Bro. Robbins, the Lodge would prosper. In conclusion, he hoped the little plant he was privileged to put into the ground last year, and which had already advanced to a hardy shrub, would, ere long, rise to be a forest tree, and far overshadow even other Lodges in the district. The W.M. now proposed the toast of the initiate. He was aware that, in many Lodges, it was considered the principal one of the evening, and justly so. He had no doubt but that the initiate had been fully impressed with the ceremony he had gone through. He hoped Bro. Robson would learn that Freemasonry was not a society formed for enjoying good eating, drinking and society, but that it was a bond of good-fellowship—aye, and even higher; but to that he must not at present refer. After a suitable reply from the initiate, the W.M. proposed the toast of "The Visitors." Without visiting, the W.M. considered Freemasonry would be but of little worth. The Trinity College Lodge would ever respect that charge which enjoined brethren to entertain guests. Bro. Chynoweth tendered his thanks for the very handsome entertainment provided during the evening. He had no doubt but that his brother Visitors would agree with him that they had enjoyed a most pleasurable evening, both in Lodge and at the banquet table. Bro. Cousins followed, to a similar effect. Bro. Levander was also called upon. He felt that the other visitors could but be as pleased as he was himself at witnessing the progress the Lodge had made since its foundation. The W.M. next gave the Charities. He considered Charity was a very important item in Freemasonry—in fact, they were told that it was the distingnishing characteristic of a Freemason's heart. Even those who had lately professed to disclose the secrets of the Order—with how much truth those who listened to him were aware—had one and all admitted that the first aim of English Freemasonry was Charity. Bro. W. W. Morgan jun. replied to the toast. To the toast of the Officers Bro. Passawer the S.W. replied. It would take him too long to fully express the feelings of the Officers. He would simply tender their thanks, and state that whenever they might be called upon to assist in anything for the welfare of the Lodge, their co-operation might be relied on. The health of the Treasurer and Secretary was proposed by the I.P.M., and acknowledged by Bro. Turner. As Treasurer, he had always striven to receive as much, and pay as little, of their funds as was possible. He regretted the balance was not on the other side of the account, but at the same time considered the Lodge was in a very good position. The Tyler's toast was now given and the proceedings terminated. We have already mentioned that Bro. Stedman's choir of boys was present, but we think a word or two more of praise is due to him for the pains he took in conducting the music of the evening. Bro. Lott's services at the piano were a valuable adjunct; but Bro. Stedman's work of looking after a small family is no light task. Everything passed off well, and the result of the day was a grand success. We may mention that in addition to the P.M.'s jewel already referred to, the I.P.M. was the recipient of a miniature jewel, which it was thought would sometimes be preferred by him.

EARL OF CARNARVON LODGE, No. 1642.

THE annual meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, 13th inst., at the Ladbroke Hall, Ladbroke Grove-road, W. The W.M., Bro. S. H. Parkhouse, opened the Lodge, supported by the Officers, together with numerous members and Visitors. Lodge was advanced, after the usual preliminaries, to the third degree, when a board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Parkhouse proceeded to instal his successor, Bro. Edward M. Lander, the late S.W. That Brother, having been regularly placed in the chair of the Lodge, was saluted and proclaimed, and then proceeded to invest the following brethren as his Officers for the year:—S. Smout senior S.W., Darby Reade (named as) J.W., Dr. Pocock (being invested as his Deputy), P. M. Holden Chaplain, G. Penn P.M. Treas., W. J. Murlis P.M. Sec., S. Smout junior S.D., F. Frye J.D., J. Bartle I.G., F. Delevante Organist, S. H. Parkhouse I.P.M. Director of Ceremonies, J. Woodmason A.D.C., W. W. Buckland and J. H. Wood Stewards, R. Schofield P.M. Tyler. Bro. Parkhouse then completed the installation ceremony, and the W.M. proceeded to close the Lodge. Before doing so he presented to the I.P.M. an elegant P.M.'s jewel, which had been voted unanimously by the members of the Lodge. In doing so Bro. E. M. Lander said: Brethren, we all know the good working of our late W.M. Bro. Parkhouse, and I have great pleasure in now placing on his breast this Past Master's jewel. Every member of the Lodge esteems him, I may even say loves him, for his services during the past year have been such as to call for the highest compliments. Never was there a better Mason at heart. I could go on speaking of his ability, but will now merely add that his conduct is such that we may all copy, both in Lodge and in outer life. I trust that he may live for many years to attend the Lodge and wear the jewel I now have the pleasure of placing on his breast. Bro. Parkhouse in acknowledgment said: I have to thank you, Worshipful Sir and Brethren, for the compliment you have paid me. I do not feel that I deserve all that has been said by the W.M., however, I cannot but express how greatly I appreciate the jewel which you have presented to me. The brethren then partook of banquet, which was served in first-rate style by Bro. Linscott, the proprietor of the hall. At the conclusion of the repast grace was said by the Chaplain of the Lodge, and then the W.M. gave the usual Loyal toasts—the Queen and the Craft, and the M.W. the Grand Master H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. The National Anthem, sung by Bro. Pushman, and "God Bless the Prince of Wales," by Bro. A. Kent, followed. In introducing the next toast, the W.M. said the members were aware it was customary to honour the Pro Grand Master with a special toast. He trusted this special toast would always be heartily proposed and received in the Lodge. He should have been greatly pleased to have seen their noble brother present at their meeting. With the next toast—that of the Deputy Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers—the W.M. coupled the name of Bro. F. Binckes P.G. Steward, who, in acknowledging the toast, after thanking the brethren, said he conceived it a very high honour to have his name coupled with so distinguished a toast as this. He considered the Grand Officers were a body of men who deserved the highest compliments. Bro. Parkhouse, the I.P.M., gave the health of the W.M. He proposed the toast with very great sincerity. His remarks emanated from the bottom of his heart. He felt that what he said would be endorsed by all present. A better hearted man, or a more genial Englishman than the W.M. never existed. Bro. Lander is a thoroughly good-hearted Mason, one who has supported the Lodge in every way that lay in his power, ever since the time of its consecration. After a concertina solo by Mr. Rudderford, the W.M. tendered his thanks for the hearty reception the last toast had met at the hands of the brethren. He believed when the brethren responded so heartily as they had just done that they meant what they expressed. He should endeavour to fulfil the duties of the chair to the best of his ability, although he could not hope to carry them out as well as the I.P.M. had. Bro. Parkhouse's working during the year had been something grand, and it had been a pleasure to listen to him. He hoped to discharge his duties efficiently, and he felt that he might rely on his Past Masters for assistance, if at any time he was obliged to seek it. The next toast proposed by the W.M. was that of the I.P.M. Bro. Parkhouse. The W.M. felt that this was a toast that would be heartily received; he could not possibly recount the good qualities of the brother on his left. In the name of the Officers of the Lodge, he had especial pleasure in presenting an illuminated address which his co-workers intended as a slight token of the regard they entertained for their Past Master. The address, which was handsomely illuminated, was in the following terms:—

EARL OF CARNARVON LODGE, No. 1642.
Presented, together with a P.M.'s Jewel, to
Bro. SAML. H. PARKHOUSE,
By the Brethren of the above Lodge,

As a mark of regard and esteem in which he is held by them, and in recognition of the services rendered during the time in which he fulfilled the various offices, but more especially during the year in which he presided as W.M.

Edward M. Lander, W.M.
Samuel Smout, S.W.
Darby Reade, J.W.
George Penn, Treasurer.
W. J. Murlis, Secretary.

November 1879.

Bro. Parkhouse assured the brethen that it was with heartfelt thanks that he responded to the toast. He felt that the jewel which had been presented to him was as great a compliment as any that could be paid, and—from the fact of its bearing the arms of the Earl of Carnarvon, who as a Mason had earned the regard of every brother in the land—was of priceless worth in his estimation. He had accepted the office of W.M. with a great deal of nervousness, and throughout the year he had felt nervous. As far as his humble abilities allowed, he had carried out the duties consistently. He desired to thank the brethren for the reception they had always given him, and for the attention that had always been paid. He specially urged on the brethren at all times to respect the gavel of the Master, as by so doing they would deserve respect, and show their ability as Masons. He had to tender special thanks to his Officers for the assistance they had given him. He should at all times be pleased to do his best for the Lodge. The W.M. next proposed the health of the Initiate, who, in reply, said he felt very proud at being a member of the Lodge, and having a seat among the brethren. The brethren had all been placed in a similar position, and therefore knew his feelings. No one ever sat there with greater pride than he then felt, or have a greater wish to occupy that chair which was now so near to him, and yet so far away. He felt that a few words of thanks were due to Bro. Parkhouse for the way in which he introduced him to the members on the evening of his initiation. He stated that he never thought that Freemasonry comprised so much good feeling as he had found it did. He should regularly attend the Lodge and the Lodge of Instruction, and hoped he might become a star in the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge. He also hoped that in years to come his proposer would be able to look back and feel that not only had he paid him a great compliment, but that he had done something—however small—for the welfare of the Craft at large. The toast of the Visitors was one, the W.M. said, that was always warmly received in the Lodge. He desired to thank each one for attending, and tendered to them a hearty reception. Come when they might there would always be a welcome. Bros. Levander, Bryett and Isaacs responded. Bro. Levander said, in a very few words he desired to thank the W.M. and members of the Lodge for the hearty reception that had been accorded the visitors. He had had the pleasure of receiving,—and the pain of not being able to accept,—several invites to attend the meetings of this Lodge. He had to congratulate the members on the great progress the Lodge had made. As a guest, and on behalf of the other visitors, he felt it was his duty to refer to the charitable feeling that had been evidenced by the Lodge. He could but congratulate the members on the results they had achieved. Bro. Bryett thanked the members for their hospitality. The members of the Shepherd's Bush Lodge, of which he had the honour of being first W.M., heartily appreciated the co-operation they had received from the members of the Earl of Carnarvon, who had so kindly recommended their petition to the Grand Lodge. Bro. Isaacs could only travel over the old road, and say how pleased he was to again number himself among the guests at the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge. He highly complimented the Installing Master, who he said deserved the greatest praise for the way in which he had performed the task he had so fully carried out that day. The W.M. now proposed the Charities. This was a toast always received and responded to most heartily in the Lodge. He intended to uphold and maintain the Charities, as his predecessors had done. He would just remind the brethren that the I.P.M. was a Steward for the next Festival of the R. M. Benevolent Institution, and leave further comment on the toast in the hands of the two representatives of the Institutions who were present. Bros. J. Terry and F. Binckes replied, thanking the brethren for what they had done in the past, and urging them to do as much as they could to maintain the Charities in the future. The list of Bro. Parkhouse was circulated among the brethren during the evening, with a very satisfactory result, the amount promised up to the present time exceeding two hundred guineas. To the toast of the Past Masters, Bro. Parkhouse briefly responded, followed by Bro. Murlis, who assured the brethren that he looked upon the success of the Lodge with the greatest pride. Every year he witnessed the installation of a W.M. he felt more and more grateful for the support he had received when, as first Master of the Lodge, he laid the foundation from which the Lodge had arisen to its present grand position. He trusted the Lodge would always be to the front in the cause of Charity. It had always been his wish to impress on the members to give liberally, but not to exceed the limits they could reasonably afford: so long as they did that, he thought the Lodge would merit the respect of the Craft. Bro. Penn followed. It gave him great satisfaction to see the way in which the work had been done. It would be the endeavour of the Past Masters to show that the Lodge was able to maintain its position, and continue to advance with the times. In giving the toast of the Officers, the W.M. said the members who had been appointed were brethren who he knew would fulfil their duties properly. He trusted that next year, at the corresponding meeting, he should have the pleasure of seeing Bro. Smout occupying the chair of W.M. Bros. Smout sen., Dr. Pocock, and Smout jun. replied, after which the Tyler's toast was given, and the brethren separated. Some excellent music was provided during the evening, occasionally being "disagreeably" accompanied by some brethren who assisted, so far as nut-cracking and other pleasantries would count. Among the Visitors were Bros. Geo. W. Dixon P.M. 209 865 P.P.G.D. of Cer. Berks and Bucks, T. Brown P.M. 780, E. Arrowsmith J.D. 733, C. J. Biorn 733, C. Veal 889 P.P.G.S.D. Surrey, John O. Brown performed the ceremony with his usual ability. Comp. Brasted was afterwards elected a member. The Officers for the next Convocation were then appointed, and the Chapter adjourned until Tuesday evening, 18th November.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.—As Exeter Hall will not be available for musical purposes after October next, this Society has announced a final series of Concerts in Exeter Hall, and has issued a very interesting prospectus for the coming season, comprising an excellent selection of works from the Society's repertoire. The forty-eighth season will commence on Friday, 5th December, when Handel's "Judas Maccabeus" will be performed. Next in order will be the ante-Christmas performance of the "Messiah." The first Concert in the new year will be on 16th January, when Rossini's Grand work, "Moses in Egypt," will be given; following this comes Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" and Spohr's "Last Judgment," a combination which must give general satisfaction. "Elijah" and "St. Paul" are to be heard during the season, also Haydn's "Creation" and Costa's "Eli." The final performance will consist of Handel's Grand Choral work, "Israel in Egypt." The names of the following eminent artistes appear in the list of principal vocalists:—Mesdames Sherrington, Anna Williams, Osgood, and Emma Thursby (Sopranos), Patey, Julia Elton, and Enriquez (Contraltos), Messrs. Rigby, Cummings, Maas, and Lloyd (Tenors), Santley, Lewis Thomas, Bridson and Chaplin Henry (Basses). The orchestra will, as heretofore, consist of the leading members of the profession, under the distinguished guidance of Sir Michael Costa, the Society's able conductor. Mr. Willing again presides at the organ. Under the exceptional circumstances of these performances every possible effort will be made to render them specially memorable in the history of music, no less than in that of the Society itself by their uniform excellence in every department.

Johann D. Andreas and Daniel J. Roussouw, who were duly elected candidates for initiation. An application was read from Mr. F. J. De Vos to become a Mason. Application also read from Bro. Chas. Arburrow to become a joining member. Messrs. Albert F. Ortlepp, Henry W. Hull, and Emanuel Isaacs were then introduced and duly initiated. Bro. P.M. Richter informed the Brethren present that he had attended several meetings of the District Grand Lodge having for their object the establishment of a Masonic Institute for Children, but that a more important meeting was to take place next week, when he would report further. The W.M. then thanked the visiting members for their kind attendance, and also Bro. Wylie for his services during the evening at the harmonium, to which the brethren suitably responded. The labours being ended, the Lodge closed, and the brethren departed in peace and harmony.

ROYAL ARCH IN WEST YORKSHIRE.

THE regular half-yearly meeting of this Grand Chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds, on Wednesday, 5th inst., under the united banners of the three Leeds Chapters. The attendance was very considerable, representing twenty-five out of the twenty-seven Chapters in the province. The meeting was presided over by Lieut.-Col. Sir H. Edwards, Bart., Prov. G. Superintendent, Comp. C. L. Mason, Leeds, Comps. H. and J. D. Kay. The routine business having been got through, showing somewhat of the advancement of Royal Arch Freemasonry in the province, Sir Henry Edwards said:—Excellent Companions—I cannot but feel proud and satisfied to meet the Companions of West Yorshire Chapters this afternoon under the banners of the three Chapters in Leeds. The receptions these Chapters have accorded to me and the Companions in this province merits our most cordial acknowledgments. The gathering to-day is highly creditable to the Leeds Chapters, and I cannot but feel that the operations of Royal Arch Masonry, under these three Chapters, is most conducive to maintain the exalted opinions entertained by the brethren in the Craft Lodges of the principles upheld by the teachings and symbolisms of this degree, which is the perfection of Masonry, as practised in the different Lodges. It is my earnest desire that every brother on the completion of his third degree should, if possible, enter a Chapter of Royal Arch Masonry, and work out for himself those meanings of our ritual which time and circumstances can only now develop to him. I am most anxious to see an increase of the numbers of Companions in the Lodges in my province forming the different Chapters, and I hope the Companions will do their best to use all proper Masonic influences to enable eligible brethren to join our ranks. I expect very shortly to be called upon to open a new Chapter in Barnsley, having signed a recommendation to Grand Chapter in support of a petition; and I sincerely hope before our next annual Meeting to be able to report that many of our valued and experienced friends in the Craft will have joined our ranks as Royal Arch Masons. Royal Arch Masonry is an order which every Master Mason ought to support in the best way his means and time can permit. Many of the Companions present at this meeting were present at the last Charity meeting, as well as that of the Provincial Grand Lodge; and it was extremely gratifying to notice the success which had attended the labours of our Charity Committee. All our candidates have either been presented or elected on the faith that the money would be subscribed, as it is now guaranteed by myself and Companion Tew. One girl has been presented. We are now pledged to the £1050 to the Bentley Shaw Memorial Fund. The last statement furnished by our Prov. G.S.E. states that about £93 remains to be collected. I hope the fifteen Chapters which have not yet subscribed will now come forward and help before the close of this year, as well as the twenty-three Lodges which have not yet done anything. I hope our Treasurer will be able to tell us that our funds will permit of the resolution that stands in Companion Tew's name receiving a favourable response. We have 939 Companions on the register. We have now uniformity of bye-laws, and we shall be glad to receive suggestions by which a uniformity of ritual in the Chapters could be brought about. In conclusion, I wish all the Chapters continued success, and sincere thanks to the three Chapters in Leeds for their reception of us to-day, the excellence of their arrangements, and hospitable entertainment. The resolution of Companion Tew was afterwards carried. The resolution of Companion Booth was adjourned to next meeting. The companions were afterwards entertained at an excellent meat tea, served by Companion Oates, of the Masonic Hall. —Yorkshire Post.

ST. GWYNEDD CHAPTER, No. 384, BANGOR.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—At the last Convocation of Supreme Grand Chapter it appears that the Chapter attached to the St. David's Lodge, Bangor, No. 384, was removed from the Register. Comp. Thomas Fenn, to my mind very properly, asked by whose authority it had been done, and I am certain that if any one had been present to explain matters, the question would have been adjourned. I will not go into the reason why this Chapter was removed, but will explain how it got reported. About this time last year the Chapters in this Province were (and still are) wishful to start a Prov. Grand Chapter, and the Prov. Grand Secretary wrote to some of them respecting it, and amongst others he writes to some member of the Bangor Lodge about giving up the Charter. This communication is not to the Worshipful Master or the Secretary, and the Prov. Grand Secretary styles himself Prov. Grand Scribe E. This correspondence goes on until Grand Chapter, acting upon the information received from the self-appointed Grand Scribe E., acts as it has done. Now, I think that Grand Committee are wrong in allowing assumption of titles, to start with, as it stands to reason that if there is no Prov. Grand Chapter there can be no Prov. Grand Officers. Some time back, December 1872, we were wishful to consecrate the Welchpool Chapter, and I was referred to Prov. Grand Superintendent; but on my pointing out the facts to the Grand Scribe of England, he acknowledged that there was no such official, and his letter I am referring to at this time of writing. The Province has had no communication as to the appointment of a Grand Superintendent, so that we must therefore even be without a Prov. Grand Scribe E.; and as it does not necessarily follow that the Prov. Grand Master and the Prov. Grand Secretary respectively have to fill the Chapter Offices, at present no one has any right to sign himself as Prov. Grand Scribe E. for North Wales and Shropshire. Even this morning I receive a summons to attend the consecration of a Chapter, at Portmadoc, which is issued "by command of the M.E. Provincial Grand Superintendent." Considering that we have an Official Pocket-Book, I really think that the Calendar Committee ought not year after year to perpetuate the error of publishing a Prov. Grand Supt. and Scribe E. for N. Wales and Shropshire.

As regards the seeming contumacy of the Bangor Lodge in not returning the Charter, it should have been explained that the Lodge was in recess, but immediately on its reassembling the W.M. forwarded the Charter, when requested by the proper authorities; and it has now been in possession of Grand Chapter upwards of a month. It is a great pity that there has been so much interfering, for at the installation meeting, last January, there seemed every desire to set the Chapter working again, but this will be such a damper that it will tend materially to stay the spread of R.A. Masonry in that district.

Some time back there was an attempt made to recognise the "Mark:" could not an effort be made to amalgamate the Craft, Arch, and Mark under one supervision and one set of Constitutions, as they are so intimately blended the one with the other? I am sure that there would be more fervour amongst many now lukewarm Masons, if they had not quite so much trouble in taking the Arch, which is one of the most beautiful parts of the whole of our Masonic structure.

Yours fraternally,

D. P. OWEN P.Z. 998.

PAST MASTERS' PRIVILEGES.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have just received the Freemason's Chronicle for 30th Aug., and notice the reply of "QUIDNUNC" to my query in the previous week's Chronicle. My inquiry was whether the conditions limiting the right of a Past Master to a seat in Grand Lodge equally apply to his right to a seat in Provincial Grand Lodge. From apparently not noticing the words "election and" in the last paragraph of my letter "QUIDNUNC" seems slightly to have misapprehended the object of my inquiry, and so failed to fully answer it. It will be observed that the question hinged not on the date of installation, but on the executing the office of Master, or ruling the Lodge for a full year, and therefore the instance given clearly applied to the previous question. But that there may be no misunderstanding I will attempt to state a case more clearly:—The ordinary date of election in a Lodge is, say, in November, at which regular meeting A is elected. At the regular meeting in December the minutes are not confirmed, and a second election therefore takes place in January, when B is elected. The minutes are confirmed in February, and B is W.M. till the following December, when he retires in due course in favour of his successor. When B retires, though nevertheless he is a Past Master of his Lodge, yet, not having executed the office of Master for one year, he undoubtedly, according to Constitution "Grand Lodges," sec. i. page 18, loses his right to a seat in Grand Lodge. Does he also lose his right to a seat in his Provincial Grand Lodge, no such condition affecting his right to a seat in the latter being specially laid down in the Book of Constitutions? ("Prov. Grand Lodges," sec. ii. page 52).

Again another instance:—C, a Past Master, ceases to subscribe to a Lodge for the space of twelve months. On his rejoining a Lodge he has lost his right (or rather privil-ge) to a seat in Grand Lodge, but does he suffer any further deprivation? How is his seat in Provincial Grand Lodge affected, no such condition as continued membership of a Lodge being specially laid down with respect to Prov. Grand Lodge? I think several reasons might be adduced to show that a limitation which was very desirable to be established as to the seats of Past Masters in Grand Lodge is not only not equally necessary, but perhaps inadvisable, when applied to a Provincial Grand Lodge. What however we want to arrive at is, not what might or should be, but what is the law affecting Past Masters' seats in Provincial Grand Lodge, and as it appears to be a matter of some little importance I would again beg to draw attention to it.

Yours fraternally,

W. S. L.

APPOINTMENTS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Will you kindly allow me, through the columns of your valuable paper, to ask a query or two as to appointment and investment of Chaplain and Organist in our Lodges. I am a member of a Lodge founded some twelve months ago, and at the investment of Officers I was rather surprised that the W.M., then a Provincial Officer, should have appointed to the position of Chaplain and Organist two brethren who were not subscribing members to the Lodge; further, the Chaplain was invested with collar and jewel pertaining to the office. The Brother who was appointed Organist refused to be invested. I am of opinion these appointments were illegal, and shall esteem it a favour if any Brother can inform me "Which is Correct?"

At a future time, with your permission, I may supply your readers with a brief history of this Lodge, the method of conducting its business, and treatment of its members.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

10th Nov. 1879. ALBERT EDWARD.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution met on Wednesday at Freemasons' Hall. There were present:—Bros. Colonel Creaton (in the chair), Dr. Jabez Hogg, Colonel H. S. Somerville Burney, Capt. N. G. Philips, R. H. Giraud, John Newton, F. Adlard, A. H. Tattershall, W. Clarke, Edgar Bowyer, S. Rawson, Griffiths Smith, J. A. Farnfield, J. M. Case, James Brett, William Stephens, C. G. Dilley, J. G. Stevens, J. H. Leggott, T. J. Barnes, C. F. Hogard, Charles Atkins, and James Terry (Secretary). After the reading and confirmation of the minutes, Bro. Terry announced that the day which the Prince of Wales had appointed for the next Festival of the Institution happened to be Ash Wednesday, and that, on communicating with the Earl of Zetland—who was to preside—he found that he would prefer the 9th of February. He (Bro. Terry) thereupon wrote to Lord Carnarvon, requesting him to lay the Earl of Zetland's suggestion before the Grand Master, and he had no doubt that assent would be given to it. Bro. Terry informed the Committee of the death of one male and one female annuitant during the last month, and that an accepted candidate had also died. Bro. Recknell's letter, thanking the Committee for increasing his salary, and assuring the brethren of his constant desire to discharge his duties efficiently, as Chief Clerk in the Secretary's office, was read. The Chairman was authorised to sign cheques for annuities, salaries and accounts. Half her late husband's annuity was granted to the widow of a deceased annuitant, and nine new candidates were placed on the list. The petition of one candidate, which stood over from the last meeting for enquiry, was refused for ineligibility. Bro. Leggott brought before the Committee a proposition for enlarging the asylum of the Institution, by adding wings, in which an infirmary, chapel and committee-room could be built, as he did not consider the present building was adequate to the wants of the Craft. He thought there would be no difficulty in raising funds for this purpose, if an appeal was made to the Craft, and he promised to send in a notice of motion for next meeting, when the subject could be considered. The Chairman informed Bro. Leggott that even the present buildings were very rarely fully occupied, and Bro. Terry added that they had been full only five times since they had been erected. The Committee then adjourned.

MARK MASONRY.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE OF MARK MASTER MASONS, No. 199.

AN emergency meeting of this Lodge was held at the Bell Tavern, High-street, Shoreditch, on Thusday, the 6th inst. Bro. J. B. Shackleton, the W.M., opened his Lodge at the appointed hour, assisted by Bros. H. S. Meyer S.W., W. Fieldwick J.W., W. J. Meek M.O., W. Beasley J.O., B. Meyer P.M. and Treas., James Hill Sec., A. P. Little S.D., J. J. Gould J.D., F. Bonner R.M., J. Marsh Tyler, and the following members, viz., V.W. Bros. D. M. Dewar P.G.M.O. and Assist. Grand Sec., James Stevens P.G.J.O. and John Constable Hon. Members, and Bros. E. M. Adams, W. A. Neede, &c., &c. The Lodge having been duly opened by the W.M., and the minutes of the previous meeting read, Bros. George Andrews, of Craft Lodge No. 1420, W. H. Edwards of the Beadon Lodge, and R. Marshall of Lodge No. 81[illegible], were advanced to the honourable degree of M.M.M. by Bro. James Stevens, at the request of the W.M. Refreshment followed labour, and a very enjoyable evening was spent in social harmony, the toasts being very ably proposed by the W.M., and as happily responded to by Bros. Dewar, Constable, and others. Some capital songs and recitations by Bros. Stevens ("Masons' Vows"), H. S. Meyer, Constable, and other members, enlivened the proceedings, which terminated at a reasonable hour, and the brethren separated highly satisfied therewith. This Lodge promises to become, under the present able management, one of the best of the many excellent Lodges connected with this flourishing degree.

OLD KENT MARK LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.

A MEETING of brethren, convened by Bro. Tanner, was held at the Trocadero, 6 Broad-street-buildings, on Monday, the 27th ultimo, for the purpose of establishing a Lodge of Instruction in this degree. Bro. Tanner was voted to the chair, and the following brethren were also in attendance, viz.:—Bros. Dewar, Turquand, Mather, Silvestre, Gimingham, Nicholson and Venn. After a resolution had been passed, affirming the desirability of forming a Lodge, Bro. Turquand was unanimously elected its first Preceptor. Bro. Tanner was appointed Treasurer, and Bro. Gimingham Secretary. It was further resolved that the evenings of meeting should be the first and third Mondays in every winter month, from September to March inclusive; the time to be 6.30 p.m. Accordingly, on the 3rd inst., the following brethren attended and formed the first regular meeting, viz.:—Bros. Venn, Moon, Ramsay, Silvestre, Mather and Tanner, with Bro. Turquand (Preceptor) and Bro. Gimingham (Secretary). The minutes of the preliminary meeting having been duly read and confirmed, the ceremonies of opening and closing the Lodge were worked three times, Bros. Turquand, Venn and Moon occupying the chair in succession. At a subsequent discussion, the Bye-laws of the Lodge were agreed to, and, all Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in peace and harmony, and adjourned until Monday, the 17th inst., at 6.30, when the attendance of all brethren interested in this degree is requested.

IMPOSTORS IN MASONRY.

FROM "THE LIBERAL FREEMASON."

AN impostor is said to be one who imposes on others, or a person who assumes a character for the purpose of deception. He is said also to be a deceiver under a false character. To the average mind, such a person is abhorrent; and yet, on reflection, we have to admit that imposture is practised, in some form or other, by far too many people who would bitterly resent the charge. The man who travels from place to place, and from Lodge to Lodge, under the guise of Masonry, and solicits aid from Lodge or member, without any definite plan or intent of repaying, is, in point of fact, no more of an impostor than he who smirches the good name of a brother Mason, from no higher motive than envy, suspicion or distrust. Beyond a doubt, many a brother speaks disparagingly of another without any intent to injure him in business or reputation; but such a course gives encouragement to the malicious and ungenerous, and to those who would prey upon the good name of the really worthy—imposture, therefore, is not practised solely by design, but sometimes by neglect. It is an imposition, too, and one which should not be tolerated, for Masons to mislead their families as to any of the duties or obligations of the Craft, proper for the profane to know, and surely no worse delusion or trick can be played upon a wife than for a husband to assert that, in case of death to him, the Masons will look after his widow, and secure her from want. This sort of imposition should never be practised even by innendo; show the wife the nature of the bond, that she may see to what extent, no further, she can claim. Let her see how absurd must be the preliminary declaration, by her husband, that he has sought the privileges of Masonry through "a sincere wish to be serviceable to his fellow-creatures" if he teaches her forthwith to hold out her hands in demand. Such, however, is the nature of the contract that, if poverty and decay comes—especially if they come in spite of the prudent and careful efforts of a brother—his widow and children have a right to expect sympathy and relief, as far as lies in a brother's power, without injury to himself or family. Not to afford this is a form of imposition that "fills the heart with pain,"

> "And maketh even the little child
> In bitterness complain."

Masons know full well how frequent—and how pressing, too—are the calls for charity, from within the limits of their own Lodge circle; and they know, quite as well, how constant and persistent are the many which come from without. These latter demands are pressed so skilfully, that their success frequently confounds the former, pushes the honest claimant aside, and leaves her to the pain of a bitter disappointment. It is not unfrequently that notices, in print or by letter, are sent to Masonic centres, warning the brotherhood against A.B., who has been imposing upon the Craft, in a certain section, by fraudulent representations of his dire necessity and his unimpaired Masonic standing. To delay, under such circumstances, seems unjust—even cruel; the coveted aid is given, the fraud progresses, until checked by the discovery of his true character, and then he is posted as an impostor. Women have occasionally played the rôle of a Mason's widow so skilfully—adding, at times, one or more orphan children to their presentments—that Charity Committees have come to regard such applicants, if personally unknown, with immediate distrust. Thus it comes to pass that successful knavery may sometimes cause the doors of charity to be closed against the really worthy. But even the worthy may become impostors in Masonay, without intending for a moment to fill such a character. If it be granted that Masonry is founded upon the principles of universal philanthropy and benevolence, it must also be granted that every step taken in it is to be sustained by industry. The maimed cannot be admitted, for the general reason that Masons should be self-supporting, and not a charge upon the fraternity. The benevolence of the institution, however, recognises the fact of poverty, in consequence of age or decay, and also because of widowhood and orphanage: but, in justice to all, it also expects that all who come within its circle in any degree should make some effort to be as light a burden as possible upon its generosity. Evidently, therefore, it is an imposition to appeal to the Craft without making an effort for self-support, when will only is wanting. We have in mind a case where a brother was discharged for non-payment of dues; at the time, he owed for several years, persistently neglected to pay his dues, declined to plead poverty, and apparently found time and money for personal indulgence. About six years later, he died; when, behold! his widow straightway beset the organisation for a large amount of money, claiming that her husband was a Mason, though he had paid nothing in aid of the character for eleven years. This is a double form of imposture—first, by exacting money where none is due; and second, by the notoriety which an honest refusal—or even a limited aid—receives by gratuitous circulation on the part of the family acquaintances, to the prejudice of Masons. It ought to be apparent to the profane, as it is to the brotherhood, that the regulations of Masons should be observed by its members, to entitle them or their dependants to the benefit of any charitable consideration preferable to those of a common humanity. And it ought also to be the chief care of every Mason to maintain the character which he professes with strict integrity, and never to deviate from the minutest principle thereof, so that, if imposition shall be put upon Masonry, it shall always come from elements outside of the Society.

The annual meeting of the Whittington Chapter, No. 862, was held on Monday, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, when Comp. W. J. Murlis was installed M.E.Z. for the coming year.

Master) should then and there invest Bro. Woodward, as representing the W.M., with the collar of that office; and that the W.M. (Bro. Grand Master, who was saluted with the honours due to his rank, and the Lodge was closed in due form; but not until the Deputy Grand Master had expressed a wish that it might be recorded on the minutes of the Lodge his high appreciation of the manner in which every Officer, down to and including the I.G., had done their work that evening. TAMAR INDIEN.

SPECIAL CAUTION.

OWING to the marked success of this medicine, the only patent medicine universally prescribed by the faculty, and the acknowledged cure for constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c., BASE IMITATIONS, containing drastic irritants, are being foisted on the public. The genuine preparation bears the title "Tamar Indien," and the signature E. GRILLON, Coleman-st., London, E.C. Price 2s 6d per box. In a recent case, 1876, G. No. 211, a perpetual injunction to restrain the defendant from applying the name "Tamar" to his lozenges was awarded, with costs, by Vice-Chancellor Bacon, on 19th January 1877, and all such piracies will be summarily proceeded against.——N.B.—See that the outer wrapper (directions) are printed in the English language and that each box bears the Government 3d stamp.

PARLEZ-VOUS FRANÇAIS ?

MANY of whom this question is asked will say, I can read it and write it, but can't speak it. A neat little volume for the Pocket has just been published by an Ex-Inspector of Public Schools; all the most useful verbs as used in ordinary conversation are therein embodied, alphabetically arranged on an entirely new plan, and printed in large type in French and English, a most rapid system, indispensible to teachers and other persons teaching themselves the language. Sent post free to any address on receipt of ninepence in stamps to

RESIGNATION OF THE GRAND SECRETARY.

IN another column we announce the fact that our esteemed Bro. John Hervey has tendered his resignation of the position of Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of England to which he was appointed in August 1868. For some time past the state of health of Bro. Hervey has been such as to prevent his taking so active a part in the duties of his office as he desired. During the eleven years in which our Brother has occupied the position of Grand Secretary he has shown kindness of disposition and sound judgment which has won for him the respect and esteem of the Brotherhood, both in this country and abroad, whenever his business duties have brought him in contact with the Craft. When we take into consideration the many and varied labours which Bro. Hervey has been called upon officially to perform, and the number of interests he must have had to consolidate, we can but look upon his achievement as a great undertaking. When we say that we believe he has performed his duties without making a single enemy, we have said all that can be urged in praise of any man. We have no doubt that his services to English Freemasonry will be suitably recognised at the next meeting of Grand Lodge, and that our Brother will retire amid the heartiest wishes of every Craftsman for his future health. We trust he may long enjoy the rest and comfort of the retirement he now seeks, and which his past efforts so worthily entitle him to receive.

RESPONSIBILITY OF THE MASTER IN THE APPOINTMENT OF OFFICERS.

TENNYSON, in his famous poem, "The Charge of the Light Brigade," has immortalised one of the grandest military acts the world has ever known, if, indeed, the mere record of that daring feat would not have sufficed to have handed it down to all time; while the few words in which he describes the true discipline of the noble body of men who made the charge affords us a splendid example of the need for obedience:—

> "Forward, the Light Brigade!"
> Was there a man dismay'd?
> Not tho' the soldier knew
> Some one had blunder'd:
> Their's not to make reply,
> Their's not to reason why,
> Their's but to do, and die.

Although these words were written with reference to a military command, they are equally applicable in every other sphere of life, and no less in Freemasonry than elsewhere; for here immediate and full obedience to the dictum of the ruler is both necessary for the comfort of the Lodge in particular and the welfare of the Craft at large. In a recent article we endeavoured to impress on our readers the need for the governor of a Lodge to assume a bold front in any case of emergency that might arise in his midst; and on several occasions of late we have extracted articles from our contemporaries bearing on the same subject; but it is also necessary that the members should stand by their elected head and do all in their power to support him and prevent the display of opposition from any source. Happily it is not often that anything really serious does occur to disturb the harmony, but as it is impossible to know when or where we may be opposed, it is as well to be ever on guard. One of the most prolific sources of discontent is perhaps the distribution of the collars of office, and however a Master may act in this respect he may rest assured he will offend some individual, even if not a body of members of his Lodge. If we refer to the "Antient Charges," and as Freemasons we cannot possibly have a better source from whence to gain advice, we find it there specially set down that "ALL preferment among Masons is grounded upon real worth and personal merit only; that so the lords may be well served, the brethren not put to shame, nor the royal craft despised; therefore no master or warden is chosen by seniority, but for his merit." These sentiments are reproduced in the Book of Constitutions, and really form one of the most essential parts of the groundwork of the Order, and yet we find brethren who consider they are justified in questioning the action of the Master in carrying out this special part of his duty—whether from ignorance of the law, or want of respect for the chair, we cannot say. As this question, if broached at all, is one which is naturally brought forward on an installation night, and often in the presence of numerous Visitors, the newly installed Master may feel somewhat at a loss to know how to proceed, finding, as he does, his first act questioned by those who placed him in the chair. To such we would say—be firm, and at once stamp out the discontent. As given in the lines we have quoted above, it is the duty of subordinates "to do, and die," if need be, to support their rulers. Once hesitate and the whole Lodge is upset, it may be because an undeserving brother has justly been passed over in the appointment of officers, in favour of some one more suited for the position.

It may be the fear of causing open rupture on the occasion of occupying the chair for the first time that prevents a Master following the course he conscienciously considers best for the Lodge, but were he to take into account the stake at issue such considerations would not be allowed to influence him for a moment. He should remember that he is placed in a position where an error at the outset may cause ruin to the Lodge he is appointed to sustain. If, in his opinion, it be necessary to upset all the appointments of his predecessors, and select an entirely new set of officers, he is justified in so doing if he, at all times, pays due regard to justice and consistency. Should he deem such a course the best for the interests of the Lodge he should come fully prepared to have his action questioned by some of the aggrieved brethren, or their friends, and therefore he should not be at a loss to know how to proceed when such opposition manifests itself. In governing a Lodge it is not only necessary for a Brother to be an adept in remedying abuses, but also needful that he should be able to bring all the members into a fit state of mind to bow to the dictum of the chair. If reference is made at the outset of a discussion to one or other of the rules of the Order which govern the question, and still without securing respect for the chair, immediate silence should be obtained by the use of the gavel. At the same time the Master may remind the brethren that remedy for any abuse of power, if proved, can be obtained without causing a disturbance. In any case it displays bad taste to question the prerogative of the Master, who, for all such purposes, is wisely looked upon as unable to err, and whenever occasions do occur on which a brother for the time refuses to obey the order of his ruler, the brethren should one and all combine to support the chair, though they might feel

MARK MASONRY.

FORMATION OF A PROVINCIAL G. LODGE FOR BERKS AND BUCKS.

IT is at all times a pleasure for us to record the formation of a new Lodge or chronicle the establishment of a new district or province, and this we have an opportunity of doing to-day. As many of our readers are doubtless aware, the Mark Degree has of late made great advances in the counties of Berkshire and Oxfordshire, and, as a consequence the brethren now desire to form themselves into a Provincial Grand Lodge, whose Officers shall be appointed from the various Lodges of the district. The Right Hon. the Earl of Jersey has been selected for the important duties of first Provincial Grand Master, and he will be regularly installed into that position on Thursday next, the 27th inst., at the Foresters' Hall, Reading. The brethren of the Province fraternally invite the attendance of Mark Master Masons to the ceremony, for which Prov. G. Lodge will be opened at two o'clock, the preliminary Lodge being close tiled at 1.45. The customary advantages as to reduced fares for brethren attending this meeting are offered by the Great Western Railway Company, who deserve the thanks of the Craft for their universal desire to add to the popularity of the Masonic gatherings held in the district served by their line. The banquet will be provided in the Town Hall, at four o'clock, tickets for the same, including wine, being fixed at 15s each: these may be obtained from Bro. Thomas J. Pulley (the acting Prov. Grand Secretary), Jesse Terrace, Reading.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of Northumberland and Durham will be held at Alnwick on the 4th of December.

The installation meeting of the Northumberland and Berwick Time Immemorial Lodge of Mark Master Masons is fixed to take place on Wednesday, the 26th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Newcastle-on-Tyne. Bro. Dr. Luke Armstrong is the W.M. elect.

York Mark Lodge (T.I.)—A meeting of this Lodge was held at York, on Tuesday evening, at the Masonic Hall. In the absence of the W.M., Bro. T. B. Whytehead P.M. occupied the chair, supported by the following Officers and brethren:—Bros. G. Balmford P.M., Rev. W. Valentine S.W., J. Hollins J.W., Rev. W. C. Lukis Chaplain, T. J. Wilkinson as Secretary, J. S. Cumberland M.O., W. P. Husband as S.O., G. Garbutt J.O., M. Millington S.D., A. T. B. Turner J.D., T. Humphries as I.G., T. G. Hodson Organist, P. Pearson Tyler; also Bros. W. M. Briggs, G. Ayre, J. Redfare, C. Blackstone, R. Ware, E. J. De Salis, G. Irving, W. Lackenbury, J. R. Jackson, &c. On the proposal of Bro. T. B. Whytehead, seconded by Bro. Balmford, Bro. A. M. Broadley Prov. G. Mark Master Mason of Tunis and Malta was elected an honorary member of the Lodge. Bro. T. D. Smith, of the Eboracum Lodge, was then advanced to the honourable degree of M.M.M. Bro. T. B. Whytehead informed the brethren that there was every probability of a new Mark Lodge being consecrated in Darlington in December, Bro. J. M. Meek, of the York Mark Lodge, being its principal founder, and that it was hoped that as many brethren as possible would be present on the occasion. The scroll for W.M. then took place, and the S.W. Bro. the Rev. W. Valentine was elected, who returned thanks to the Lodge, in a few words. Bro. T. B. Whytehead P.M. was elected Treasurer, and Bro. P. Pearson Tyler. Two Auditors were then appointed. Three candidates for advancement, and a joining member were then proposed, and the Lodge was closed, the brethren afterwards supping together at the Queen's Hotel, where the principal toasts were duly honoured.

Old Kent Mark Lodge of Instruction.—Held at the "Trocadero," 6 Broad-street-buildings, on Monday, the 17th inst., at 6.30 p.m. The following brethren were in attendance, viz., Bros. Wallington, Venn, Moon, J. L. Mather, Date, Pitt, Silvestre, Nicholls, Turquand Preceptor, and Gimingham Secretary. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed; the Bye-laws regulating the Lodge were agreed, to and ordered to be printed. A portion of the ceremony of advancement was then worked by the W.M., Bro. Turquand acting as candidate, and Bro. Gimingham as Deacon. The same portion of the ceremony was repeated, Bro. Venn temporarily occupying the chair, with Bro. Pitt as candidate and Bro. Turquand as Deacon. The Officers then resumed their original positions, when Bros. Wallington, Date, Pitt and Nicholls were duly elected members. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in perfect harmony.

ROYAL ARCH.

FIDELITY CHAPTER, No. 289.

A large muster of Royal Arch Masons took place on Tuesday, 11th inst., in the Masonic Hall, Carlton Hill, Leeds, under the banner of this Chapter: all the Chapters in Leeds being represented, as well as visitors from York, Bradford, &c. Amongst the Officers present were Comps. A. Smith M.E.Z., G. Cooper H., R. W. Moore J., T. Gibson P.Z. S.E., W. J. Beck P.Z., S. Stead P.Z., J. Walker P.Z., W. F. Smithson P.Z., D. R. Glover, R. Wilson, G. B. Scott, J. W. Fowmess, J. W. Ramsden, James Dixon, S. Hurd, R. Kingston, P. Frich, W. Ainslie, and G. H. Heald; whilst amongst the visitors we observed Comps. A. M. Broadley Z. D.D.G.M. Malta, C. L. Mason P.Z. 304 and Prov. G.H. West York, J. L. Oates P.Z. 304, J. Monkman P.Z. S.E. 600, Seanor Z. 306, T. B. Whytehead 236 and Z. Designate 1611, G. Althorpe J. 600, A. Hines 163, C. H. Corbett 304, J. Church 317, J. M. Hollingworth, No. 1, Dublin, J. Richardson 204, C. Eastwood 1212, J. B. Townsend 304. The business consisted of the exaltation of Brothers W. L. Jackson, J.P., J. S. Loe, M.D., and J. Dobson, M.D.; and one of the features of the evening consisted in the fact that the First Principals of all the Leeds Chapters took part in the ceremony, in order to give the Companions present an opportunity of comparing the different workings. The differences were very slight, and the ability with which the exaltations were worked was most remarkable. At the close of the Chapter the Companions met at refreshment, and in the course of the evening E. Companion Broadley gave a most interesting account of the Masons' marks and emblems of the Royal Arch discovered amongst the ruins of Ancient Carthage, which greatly impressed those present. He also exhibited an ancient Gnostic gem found amongst the ruins, bearing the figure of a Gnostic Deity, and the word of the Royal Arch in a multitude of combinations, which excited great interest.

Chapter of Elias Ashmole, No. 148, Warrington.—An emergency Convocation of this Chapter was held at the Chapter Rooms, Sankey-street, on Monday, 17th November. The M.E.Z. Ex-Comp. John Bowes P.Z. P.P.G.S.N. Cumberland and Westmoreland was supported by Ex-Comps. D. W. Finney P.Z. as H., James Jackson J., P. J. Edelsten P.Z. P.S., and Comps. Charlton, Starkie, Galloway, C. Skinner, Hannah, Hindley, Domville, &c. The Chapter having been opened by the Principals, the rest of the Companions were admitted, Bro. Charlton, who was ballotted for and approved at the last Convocation, was now present, and having been introduced was exalted in due form according to antient custom, by the M.E.Z. who also delivered the mystic lecture. Much interest was manifested in the ceremony. There being no further business, the Chapter was closed with the usual solemnities.

Priory Chapter, No. 1000.—A regular convocation of this Chapter was held on Wednesday, at the Middleton Hotel, Southend, when the following Companions were present:—James Willing jun. M.E.Z., Rev. J. Hatch H., Pissey J., Johnson P.Z. Scribe E., Albert Lucking P.Z. Treasurer, Judd S.N., Jones 1st Assistant, Heaton 2nd Assistant; P.Z.'s Rev. S. R. Wigram P.G.C., Phillips, and Wardell; Comps. Briggs, Beechey, &c. Visitor — Comp. W. W. Morgan. The Chapter was formally opened by the Principals, and in due course the minutes of last convocation were read and confirmed. Several letters expressing regret at inability to attend were read, amongst these being one from the candidate for exaltation, who expressed his appreciation of the honour the Companions had conferred upon him in electing him, and anticipating the pleasure he should receive in joining them at their next meeting. Routine business having been transacted, the Chapter was closed, and the Companions partook of supper. On removal of the cloth, the customary toasts were given with full honours. Comp. Willing presided in right genial fashion, and the time passed most pleasantly. Some capital songs were sung, by Comp. Phillips and others, and, aided by pleasant chit chat, the time seemed to pass rapidly.

North London Chapter of Improvement.—The weekly meeting was held at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, on Thursday evening, 13th November. Comps. Brown Z., Isaac H., Griggs J., Hunter P.S., Halford Treas., Osborn S.E., Pearcy S.N.; also Comps. Cusworth, Edmonds, Greenfield and Somers. The minutes of the last Convocation having been read and confirmed, the ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed, Comp. Greenfield 1602 acting as candidate. Comp. Mather, the Preceptor, and Comp. Brown were elected honorary members, and a vote of thanks was ordered to be recorded on the minutes to Comp. Brown for the excellent, able, and efficient manner he had conducted the duties of First Principal that evening, for the first time in this Chapter of Improvement. The Officers for the next meeting were then appointed, and the Chapter adjourned until Thursday evening, 20th November, at 8 o'clock.

The Freemasons of Exeter entertained Major Chard at a banquet on Friday, and presented him with an address, a copy of which was forwarded him when he was in Zululand. Previous to his departure for the Cape Major Chard, whilst stationed at Exeter, was initiated a member of the St. George's Lodge, the members of which, on the receipt of the Rorke's Drift news, sent him a fraternal greeting, and expressed pleasure at seeing the acknowledgment his services has met with by his promotion and his decoration with the Victoria Cross. The terms of the greeting were embodied in an illuminated address now handed to him. Major Chard expressed the pleasure he experienced when he at the Cape received the kind expressions of his brethren of the Craft, and acknowledged his indebtedness to them for their great kindness.—Standard.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Visitors to Lodges sometimes come across "improvements" (sic) in our ritual that I think would occasion considerable surprise to many regular attendants at London Lodges of Instruction. As it is very desirable that "the same usages and customs may be observed throughout the Craft," and as we are further told that "every deviation from the established mode of working is highly improper, and cannot be justified or countenanced," we all of course wish to be as accurate as possible, and therefore it may not be amiss to mention one or two diversities of working that exist in some Lodges under the English Constitution. The first consists in the following alteration in the furniture of the Lodge during the third degree when a brother is to be raised. The pedestal on which the volume of the S.L. ordinarily rests is removed, and a —— is introduced in its stead; on this the Bible is placed, on which the candidate is obligated. Further, "to make an impression on the mind of the candidate," as I am told, his name and age are written with chalk or white paint on the lid of a coffin, so that "wi' ghastly e'e—upon his hunkers bended," he may read the record of his own demi-se. Is this correct or an innovation? and if the latter, is it a matter of any moment?

Another "improvement" is a test that is applied to a candidate on initiation. About the close of the ceremony the W.M. with great formality and gravity offers the new initiate pen and paper, and tells him that he must give the brethren some evidence that he has paid attention to the ceremony by writing down what he can recollect of it. According to the taste or discretion of the Master, the initiate is either directly told to write down what has been with extreme caution communicated to him, or else is entrapped into doing so. He has hardly put pen to paper however, when he is stopped by the Master bringing down the gavel, and with dramatic gesture and indignant voice informing him that he has violated his O.B., and charging him to let this be a warning to him that he may never offend in like manner again. Sometimes this may be done more gently, but in any case the result is pretty much the same, the newly initiated brother is put to confusion, and a very decided impression is made on his mind, though whether always a beneficial impression is sometimes open to doubt. On reflection, the impression most likely to be produced in his mind, I should think, must be that he has been made to appear ridiculous in the eyes of his brethren. This test may be correct under other Constitutions, but is it correct in English Lodges, or an innovation? and again, if an innovation, is it a matter of any moment?

Yours fraternally,

W. S. L.

In Memoriam.

BROS. E. PAGE AND T. S. MORTLOCK.

Amongst the many duties we are called upon to perform as chroniclers of the events occurring in the Masonic world, there are few that we do not enter upon with feelings of pleasure; true, there are occasional items of news which give us a certain amount of pain to record or comment upon, but nothing very serious. There is one task, however, we can never approach except with the greatest regret. We need hardly say we allude to the work of that grand leveller of all—Death. He seems to never tire of performing his mission, often selecting the best and most esteemed of men for his victims. One by one we miss those who for years past have identified themselves with Freemasonry—those who have helped to raise the Order to its present position, and in each case all we can do is to pause for a moment, shed a tear of sympathy, and proceed in the busy whirl of life until another receives a similar summons, which again leads us to contemplate the reality of the lessons of the Third Degree. Towards the end of last week intelligence reached us of the death of Bro. E. J. Page, whose Masonic career was portrayed in our pages a few years since, under the heading "A Pillar of Masonry." The title selected and the remarks of the writer clearly set forth the character of the brother who has so lately been called from our midst, and we think we cannot pay a higher compliment to departed merit than to quote the concluding words of the "Portrait." "Whatever sphere he may fill in the future, or however high he may yet be destined to rise in Masonry, we are fully assured that he will always be a warm and steady friend, a kind hearted dispenser of charity, a worthy member of the community, and a devoted husband." Those who knew Brother Page in the last days of his earthly career will be able to bear testimony to the truth of these words and the general character of our departed friend. But our mournful task to-day is not yet at an end. The funeral of Bro. Page took place on Wednesday, at Norwood Cemetery, and among those who attended for the purpose of paying the last mark of respect one Mason can pay to the memory of another was Bro. T. S. Mortlock. Finding himself unable to keep up with the funeral cortège, our Brother walked alone to the church, where the burial obsequies were being performed. In the midst of the service Bro. Mortlock fell forward, and, to the consternation of all assembled, in a few moments expired; all that friends and medical aid could do being of no avail. The grief of the brethren assembled, as well as of his relatives, was most profound. We can but offer our tribute of sympathy to those members of his family who will more particularly feel his loss.

WHITTINGTON LODGE, No. 862.

THE annual Installation Meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, the 17th inst., at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, W.C. The Lodge was regularly opened, and after the transactions of the business announced on the summons, Bro. Godden, the M.M. elect, was formally introduced, obligated, and regularly installed into the chair by P.M. Bro. Moore. In due course he was saluted and proceeded to invest the following brethren as his Officers for the year:—Bros. Tate S.W., Brown J.W., Kingston P.M. Treasurer, Weaver (named as) Secretary, Bro. Collinson being invested with the collar on his behalf, Bolton S.D., Becker J.D., Richardson I.G., Collinson D.C., Ross Steward, Weaver Organist, Gilbert Tyler. It was proposed and carried that a Committee be appointed to revise the Bye laws, after which a vote of thanks to the Installing Master was proposed by Bro. Kingston, seconded by Bro. Walker, and carried unanimously. After the closing of the Lodge, the brethren proceeded to banquet in the Crown Room of the Freemasons' Tavern, where a sumptuous repast was provided under the personal supervision of the proprietor and his manager. After grace had been said, and the customary Loyal toasts had been honoured, Bro. P.M. Moore rose to propose the health of the Worshipful Master. He thought that the next few minutes could not be better occupied than in drinking the good health of the Worshipful Master Bro. Godden. It had fallen to his (Bro. Moore's) lot do many things in Freemasonry in duplicate, but that he had to perform that night gave him greater pleasure than was usual. However, he assumed the office he was then undertaking with some sorrow, as he could but regret the absence of their immediate Past Master. It was not usual for him, nor did he think it well to eulogise a man until he had proved his ability; so far, Bro. Godden had carried out the work of the respective offices he had filled creditably, but he thought it was impossible to say how he would discharge the duties of W.M., although he had very little doubt but that they would be done in the same admirable manner as had those of the past. In fact, he had every confidence that he would so discharge his duties as to merit, not only the approbation of the brethren, but what he considered of far more importance, the approbation of a good conscience. Bro. Godden said he had to thank the brethren most heartily for the manner in which the toast had been proposed and received. Ever since he had joined Freemasonry he had desired to secure the position he then occupied. It had always been his wish to attain the highest position in any society. He trusted that during his term of office he might perform the duties to the satisfaction of all concerned. He felt he could materially depend on the Officers he had appointed that night, and relied on the assistance of the brethren to look over any slip he might make during the coming twelve months. He now proposed a toast which it was always a pleasure to introduce, as it was a source of gratification to them to see visitors at their various meetings. Bro. Lake was called upon to respond. He thanked the W.M. and brethren for the compliment they had just paid their guests. He considered it a great pleasure to respond to the toast on behalf of the visiting brethren. He had thoroughly enjoyed both the working of the Lodge and the hospitality of the festive board. Whatever Masons might lack, he thought they could never be accused of forgetting hospitality. Whoever might pay a visit to the Whittington Lodge could but go away favourably impressed. He considered a great compliment was due to the Officers of the Lodge; he felt that the Whittington Lodge would be long remembered by him for its excellent working and hospitality. He concluded by wishing the W.M. a prosperous year of office. Bro. Stanton Jones followed, and then Bro. Rudderforth was called upon. He felt certain that the brethren had selected the right man as Master. He was one well qualified to discharge the duties of the high office, as he would bring to bear those abilities which had won for him so prominent a position in private life. Bro. Marston was the next called upon. From what he knew of the abilities of the W.M., and what he had witnessed that night, he felt assured that Bro. Godden would prove himself a good ruler of the Lodge. He trusted there would be ample opportunity afforded the W.M. for displaying his knowledge of the ceremonies. Bro. Alexander also replied, desiring to bear witness to the ability with which the ceremony of installation had been performed. The next toast, the W.M. said, was in honour of brethren whom it would be impossible to do without. It was at all times heartily responded to, and justly so, it being the health of the Past Masters. There was a time, the W.M. said, when he used to think that the P.M.'s were brethren who had only to rest on their laurels, but he had recently found that they had some work to do, and that of an important nature. He felt sure that the Past Masters would one and all render him any assistance he might need. Bro. Jones was the first to respond. He had on many occasions been called upon to speak to various toasts in the Whittington Lodge, having for the past twenty years been frequently called to acknowledge one or another. He looked around, and found good men in the various offices of the Lodge, and felt no doubt but that its prestige would be maintained by the W.M. and those who followed him. Brother Walker felt it a privilege to be allowed to say a few words in reply to the toast. He was thankful that the brethren had so kindly received the remarks of the W.M., and thankful that the Lodge appeared so prosperous—its having so many visiting brethren was one sign of this. He sincerely trusted that the Master would complete his year of office in peace and harmony. The health of the Treasurer of the Lodge, the Treasurer of the Benevolent Fund, and the Secretary was next given, the W.M. referring to each in suitable terms. Bro Kingston thanked the W.M. for the genial manner in which he had proposed the toast. So long as the offices of Treasurer and Secretary were entrusted to such brethren as held them at the present time he felt assured the duties would be properly discharged. Bro. Pike, Treasurer of the Benevolent Fund, followed. He announced that the current year showed a larger balance than any previous year had exhibited. So long as the brethren showed confidence in him he should endeavour to show he was worthy. The Wardens and other Officers were now toasted by the W.M. He had great pleasure in proposing the toast, knowing as he did that the Lodge possessed two good Wardens and other efficient Officers. The S.W. first replied. The evening had been a most pleasing one to him in many respects. Bro. Tate was glad to see the W. Master in the chair, a position he well merited. Bro. Brown the J.W. thanked the brethren. They could well imagine his feelings on the present occasion. As he considered that no brother should be placed in office unless he was capable of performing the duties appertaining thereto, he hoped he might prove himself efficient in what would be required of him. Though he had very great respect for seniority, he should never study it unless it were accompanied by competency. The W.M. next proposed the health of the Auditors, regretting that he had left the toast till so late a period of the proceedings. Bro. Irvine replied. He felt very much obliged to the W.M. As an auditor he felt that he could not do much, but as a lay member he would do his best to support the chair during the coming year. One thing he thought all should bear in mind was, it deserved never to be filled with less lustre than it had been that night. He was not an old Mason, but he felt that if one and all worked together, no happier Lodge could be found. He urged each brother to appoint an inner guard on his mind, and secure a W.M. to rule his actions, and then nothing but happiness could result. The W.M. now said he felt a very grave charge could be laid against him, inasmuch as he had omitted to propose the health of the Installing Master. He felt he could hardly take the whole of the blame, as he had asked one of his P.M.'s to give a list of the toasts, for his guidance. However, he hoped now to do something towards the rectification of his error. He could but compliment Bro. Moore on the ability he had displayed. Bro. Moore, in reply, said that two surprises had come upon him that night. The first, when a vote of thanks was awarded him in the Lodge, and now that a special toast was proposed in his honour. No man could have his health proposed and received in such a way as he had just had without feeling greatly the compliment that was paid him. He thought that if a man only put his heart into his work he could not fail to perform his duty creditably. He considered that really, as regarded the work he had performed that night, he had but little to be proud of, all the credit being due to those who had instructed him. The W.M. proposed the health of the Lay Members in a most hearty manner, several of the brethren replying. This completed the list the W.M. had set out for himself, and the Tyler was accordingly called to propose the tribute to our less fortunate brethren. Among the visitors present to do honour to the new W.M. were:—S. R. Lamble 27, W. Smith 1319, Joseph Carnaby P.M. 1382, T. W. C. Jones 259, John Reid 145, W. Elect was presented to the W.M. Having given the customary responses, he was duly installed as W.M. of the Lodge of Israel for the ensuing year. We must congratulate Bro. Schönstadt for the excellent manner in which he performed the installation ceremony, it showed a perfect study and intelligent ability, and was fully appreciated by the numerous brethren present. On the readmission of the M.M.'s Bro. Schönstadt announced to them the fact of Bro. Tobias's installation, and the usual salutations were given. The Installing Master invested the newly-appointed Officers, as follow :—Bros. Rev. Prof. J. Prag Chap., M. Hart P.M. D.C., S. J. Henochsberg S.W., M. Arensberg J.W., A. J. Henochsberg P.M. Treas., M. P. Tueski Sec., J. Saber S.D., H. F. Wright J.D., D. Gabrielson I.G., W. G. Veale Org., H. M. Silver S.S., M. Baum J.S., W. H. Ball Tyler. After some routine business had been disposed of, the brethren adjourned to the Banquet-hall, where an excellent menu had been provided, and the viands were heartily enjoyed. At the conclusion of the repast, grace was chanted by Bro. J. Frank P.M. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were then proposed and duly honoured. Bro. Ackerley P.G.J.W. and Bro. Broadbridge P.P.G.D.C. responded on behalf of the P.G. Officers. Bro. Schönstadt I.P.M. now proposed what he considered the toast of the evening, viz., the health of the W.M. The doing so afforded him great pleasure, he having had the privilege of proposing Bro. Tobias as a joining member of the Lodge. His now being placed in the proud position of W.M. proved the brethren endorsed the introduction. It was also very gratifying to him to have had the pleasure of installing their W.M., who, he felt sure, would prove himself worthy of the proud position. Bro. H. J. Henochsberg P.M. next favoured the brethren with a humorous sketch from Pickwick, which was heartily enjoyed. The W.M. responded to the toast with much feeling and ability, and at the same time presented the I.P.M. with a beautiful Past Master's jewel, on behalf of the brethren of the Lodge, for the satisfactory and excellent manner in which he had performed his duties as W.M. during the past year. He had much pleasure in proposing his health. Song—Bro. M. Hart P.M., "Carmen." The I.P.M. (Bro. Schönstadt) briefly responded. The W.M. next proposed the Visiting Brethren—coupling with the toast the names of Bros. J. Cobham P.M. 1380, A. Alston W.M. 203, and D. A. Davis W.M. 625 and J.W. 1798. Song—Bro. S. Jacobs. Bros. Cobham, Alston and Davis responded; expressing, on behalf of the visiting brethren, their thanks for the kind hospitality so cordially tendered. The toasts of the Fund of Benevolence, the Past Masters, and Officers, were given and responded to, and a most successful and enjoyable evening was brought to a close with the Tyler's toast.

EBORACUM LODGE, No. 1611.

THE Installation Meeting of this Lodge took place on Monday, the 10th inst., at the Queen's Hotel, York, and the occasion drew together a number of the more prominent of the brethren of the Mystic Tie, the working of the Lodge being widely known as exceedingly perfect, and the outgoing W.M. (Bro. J. S. Cumberland) having attained a considerable reputation as a master of ritual. The hour of assembling was 3 p.m., and at that time there was a good gathering of members and visitors. The chair was assumed by the W.M., and the following Officers were in their places when the first stroke of the gavel was heard :—Bros. T. B. Whytehead I.P.M., C. G. Padel S.W., J. T. Seller J.W., G. Balmford P.M. Treas., J. Kay Sec., M. Millington S.D., T. D. Smith J.D., G. Simpson M.C., A. T. B. Turner Assist. M.C., O. Marshall as Organist, J. Blenkin I.G., P. Pearson Tyler. The following members were also present :—Bros. William Lawton P.M. 236 and 1611, W. P. Husband, W. M. Briggs, W. York, B. Brown, C. Blackstone, J. E. Wilkinson, Rev. J. Metcalf, &c., whilst amongst the Visitors were Bros. A. M. Broadley P.M. 1717 D.D.G.M. Malta, W. J. Beck P.M. 289 P.P.G.D.C. West York, C. L. Mason P.M. 304 Prov. G. Treas. (West York), C. B. Scott W.M. 289, J. Todd P.M. 236 P.P.G.R., A. Buckle W.M. 236, T. S. Camidge 236 P.P.G.O., T. Thompson P.M. 57 Prov. G.S.D., E. Kipps 57, H. Rymer P.M. 1337, J. Redfare 236, Rev. C. E. Storrs 910, E. T. Clark P.M. 910, T. Blair 1239, J. Church 317, whilst from the St. Patrick's Military Lodge (4th Dragoon Guards) came Bros. J. Hanley W.M., Major T. B. Shaw-Hellier I.P.M., W. Harris Sec., J. B. Somerset S.D., J. Taylor, &c. The Lodge having been opened in the first degree, and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed, the W.M. proposed, and the I.P.M. seconded, the election of Bro. J. Hervey, Grand Sec., as an honorary member of the Lodge, which was carried with acclamation. A successful ballot was then taken for Bro. G. Ayre P.M. 1416 Prov. J.G.D., and the Lodge was raised to the second degree. The W.M. Elect (Bro. C. G. Padel S.W.) was then presented by the senior member of the Lodge (Bro. T. B. Whytehead) to the W.M., for installation, and the first portions of the ceremonies were performed. The Lodge was then raised to the third degree, and the Installing Master called upon all below the rank of Installed Master to retire. The W.M. Elect was then entrusted and retired, and a Board of Installed Masters was opened in due form, by Bro. J. S. Cumberland, Bros. T. B. Whytehead as S.W., G. Balmford as J.W., and W. Lawton as I.G. The W.M. Elect was then re-admitted, and was solemnly installed in the chair of K.S., according to ancient custom, and was thereupon greeted by the Board of Installed Masters. The Board having then been closed in full form, the brethren were re-admitted in the usual manner, and the W.M. was duly greeted and saluted in the three degrees. He then appointed his Officers for the year, as follows :—Bros. J. S. Cumberland I.P.M. and Preceptor, J. T. Seller S.W., G. Simpson J.W., Rev. J. Metcalfe Chaplain, G. Balmford P.M. P.P.G.O. Treas., T. B. Whytehead P.M. P.P.G.D.C. Lecture Master, J. Kay Secretary, W. P. Husband Assistant Secretary, M. Millington S.D., T. D. Smith J.D., A. T. B. Turner M.C., G. H. Simpson Assist. M.C., W. Lackenby Standard Bearer, O. Marshall Organist, J. Blenkin I.G., J. E. Wilkinson and W. J. Girling Stewards, P. Pearson Tyler. In each case the W.M. gave the full address to his Officers with explanation of their jewels, columns, &c., and the beautiful ceremonies were brought to a conclusion by the Installing Master giving the final exhortations to the Master, Wardens, and Brethren, in a most finished style of oratory. Before the Lodge was closed Bro. A. M. Broadley, D.D.G.M. of Malta, thanked the Lodge for the compliment paid him at the last regular meeting by his election as an honorary member. At 6.30 the brethren met at an excellent banquet, served in good style by Bro. H. Churchill, at the conclusion of which the waiters retired and the speech-making began. "The Queen and Craft" and "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales Grand Master of England and the rest of the Royal Family" were given from the chair and received as Masons invariably do receive them. "The Army, Navy, and Auxiliary Forces" was responded to by Bro. J. Hanley W.M. of the Military Lodge, who humourously remarked that he did not know why he should be called upon to answer for the Navy, unless it was that he was a Royal Ark Mariner. He observed that the Military Brethren had ever received the utmost kindness and courtesy at the hands of the Masons of the City of York, and they would ever cherish the pleasantest memories of their stay in that old centre of Masonry. "The Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the Grand Lodge" was the next toast, and then came "the Prov. Grand Master, the Deputy, and the Prov. Grand Lodge of North and East Yorkshire," which was responded to by Bro. G. Balmford P.M. P.P.G.O. The health of "the W.M. of the Eboracum Lodge 1611, Bro. C. G. Padel," proposed by the I.P.M. Bro. J. S. Cumberland, was enthusiastically received, and the proposer took the opportunity of speaking of the worth of their W.M., and the high estimation in which he was held in York, not only in Masonic, but in social circles. In replying, the W.M. assured the brethren that he reciprocated all their kind sentiments, and should regard no labour too great to expend upon the welfare of the Lodge they all loved so well, and in conclusion proposed the health of the I.P.M. and Installing Master, Bro. J. S. Cumberland, than whom it would be difficult to find a more enthusiastic brother, or one more thoroughly worthy of the name of a bright Mason. This toast was received with cheers, and in the course of his reply Bro. Cumberland alluded to his endeavours in the cause of Charity in the Province, and the splendid efforts of the Lodge to the same end, and ended by sincerely thanking his late Officers and Brethren for their hearty support during his year, a year that had been to him one of the happiest of his life. "Prosperity to the Eboracum Lodge and the Sister Lodges" was proposed by Bro. T. B. Whytehead P.M., who dwelt upon the work done by the Lodge since its formation three years ago. In his opinion Masonry in York had been universally benefitted by the existence of that Lodge, and the impetus it had given to perfection in working and the higher aims of Masonry. The fact of the flourishing condition of the Eboracum Lodge was sufficient to prove that Masonry in general was in a flourishing condition; for where one member of the great Masonic body was healthy the chances were all in favour of the rest. The W.M. replied in a few graceful remarks, and the toast of the "Visiting Brethren" was given in appropriate terms by the S.W. Bro. J. T. Seller. Bro. A. M. Broadley P.M. Ancient Carthage Lodge 1717 and D.D.G.M. of Malta, in responding, said he scarcely felt himself a visitor, since the brethren had done him the honour to elect him an honorary member—a compliment he very highly esteemed, for to belong to the Eboracum Lodge he regarded as a great privilege, and to be an honorary member was doubly so. He could assure them that wherever the English language was spoken amongst Masons, there the reputation of the Eboracum Lodge had travelled, and when he looked round the walls and saw the grand collection of pictures of Masonic interest which the Lodge had gathered together during its brief career, and noticed the good tone of the members assembled around him—when he regarded the Masonic archæological knowledge of his friend Bro. Whytehead, and the working strength and ritualistic perfection of Bro. Cumberland—he could easily see what a future of usefulness lay before that band of brethren. As for the ceremonies he had seen worked that day, he could only say that he had visited great numbers of Lodges, but had seen nothing at all to compare with them for perfection of detail, either in London, the Provinces, or abroad. Bro. Broadley then gave an interesting account of the traces of the work of the ancient Phœnician builders on the shores of the Mediterranean, and presented to the Lodge a series of beautiful photographs of the ruins of Ancient Carthage, as well as some curious objects disinterred from the ruins, including a statue in a well-known Masonic attitude, and a large plan of the ruins. Bro. A. Buckle W.M. of the York Lodge 236 also responded, expressing the sincere pleasure which he had experienced that day in witnessing the beautiful ceremonies so well worked. The W.M. proposed "The Wardens and Officers," and Bro. James Kay Secretary responded, saying that he felt sure Bro. Padel would command their united and most hearty support. Bro. T. B. Whytehead P.M. proposed "The Masonic Charities," and in doing so mentioned that he should represent the Lodge at the next Benevolent Festival. He would, however, take the opportunity of stating that in view of the many calls the brethren had had on them lately,—to which they had so liberally responded,—he did not intend to make a personal canvass amongst the members, but should merely send out his circulars, and leave it entirely in their hands as to any response. Bro. J. S. Cumberland I.P.M. responded to the toast, and gave some illustrations of the disastrous effects that had already resulted in the Province from the conduct of the Provincial Grand Lodge in shelving the proposed Charity Organisation Scheme. Until some such scheme were in force, it was patent to every brother with ordinary common sense that the Province could have no strength in an election. "The Ladies" was given by Bro. W. P. Husband, who said that the Lodge had already shown its appreciation of the sex by introducing the presence of ladies on the occasion of the Provincial meeting. The beautiful toast list before them was also a testimony of the interest taken in the Lodge by the fair sex, since the appropriate illustration on its front had been designed and etched for the W.M. by a talented lady friend. Bro. J. B. Dyson responded, and, soon afterwards, the Tyler's toast brought a right merry evening to a happy conclusion. During the progress of the feast the colossal Loving Cup of the Lodge was placed upon the table, and its interior was passed round the table to the health of the Lodge, the flagon itself being too ponderous for ordinary use. The proceedings were enlivened by abundance of vocal and instrumental music for which this Lodge is famous. Bro. O. Marshall (Organist) ably presided at the pianoforte, whilst appropriate solos, glees and part songs were delivered, in splendid style, by Bros. J. S. Cumberland, J. E. Wilkinson, Marshall and Davies. The toast lists of the Eboracum Lodge have always been works of art, but on this occasion all previous attempts have been eclipsed by the noble style in which the card was prepared. In view of the special musical character of the Lodge meetings, and the fact that the W.M. is one of the leading pianists in the North of England, and a professor of music, the toast list was bordered with musical staves, containing stanzas of Masonic songs, whilst after each toast came a few of the initial bars of some appropriate piece of music. On the first page was a humorous sketch, suggestive of hearty good wishes to the W.M., whose name was produced in musical notation. We understand that the design, which was carried out by Messrs. Adamson and Sons, lithographers, York, has been registered, and that any profits arising from the same will be devoted to the Masonic Charities. No doubt many Lodges will adopt a toast list which is at once so elegant and appropriate, and thereby benefit, to some extent, the great cause of the Order.

POLISH NATIONAL LODGE, No. 534.

A REGULAR meeting was held on Thursday, 13th instant, at Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's Inn-fields, Present—J. Aspinall W.M., Dr. Jagielsky S.W., Corry Jackson J.W., William Paas P.M. Sec., Lancaster S.D., Smith J.D., Bieling D.C., Rüntz I.G., Beckett P.M. Tyler; Past Masters Bros. Ebner, Diosy, and J. H. Cummings. Visitors—Bros. Saegert P.M. Wellington 548, D. McGill 349, Thane 657, W. W. Morgan Sec. 211. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was taken for Bro. Herbert Tibbitts, M.D. (formerly of this Lodge), proposed by Bro. W. Paas P.M. and Secretary, seconded by Bro. Nowakowski P.M. and Treasurer; and for Bro. Alexander Jamieson, West Kent Lodge No. 1297, proposed by Bro. Dulan, seconded by Bro. Smith J.D. The result was unanimous in each case, and later in the evening Bro. Jamieson took his seat as a member of the Lodge. The next business on the paper was to ballot for Mr. Edward Forbes Day, who was proposed by Bro. Runtz I.G., and seconded by the S.D. Bro. Lancaster. In this case also the result was satisfactory. Lodge was advanced a degree, and Bro. Aspey was examined as to the proficiency he had made in the science; he reflected credit on those brethren who had undertaken to impart the necessary instruction, and was entrusted by the W.M. He then retired temporarily, and the Lodge was prepared for, and opened in the third degree, when the candidate was introduced, and raised to the sublime degree. It has been the custom for the Officers of the Polish National Lodge to meet together at short intervals for the purposes of instruction; as a consequence, the work here is always well done—in fact, no member of the Lodge can hope to get forward in office if he does not show an interest in the duties he has to fulfil. Bro. Aspinall has always paid due regard to this exemplary rule, and his working on this occasion was everything that could be desired. Routine business followed, and an appeal from an old and distressed member was brought under the consideration of the brethren by Bro. Secretary Paas. After a brief discussion, £5 was voted from the Charity Fund of the Lodge. This completed the business of the day, and Lodge was closed. The brethren partook of a well-served banquet, and, on the removal of the cloth Bro. Aspinall proceeded with the toasts. As the time was fast fleeting, the W.M. advocated and followed out a course of brevity in the speeches. The loyal toasts were fully honoured, and then Bro. Ebner proposed the health of the W.M. It was his proud pleasure to do so. He had to congratulate Bro. Aspinall on two events—the one on seeing him in his present exalted position; the other on his having to preside over a body of brethren who had so nobly exemplified the spirit of charity with which they were imbued. At this stage of the proceedings, Bros. Gordon, Gardner, Rüntz, and Forster favoured the company with a glee, which they rendered in admirable fashion, and the W.M. rose to reply. This he did most gracefully, and then gave the health of the I.P.M., who, during his year, had conducted the business of the Lodge manfully and without fear or favour. After a dramatic reading by Bro. W. W. Morgan, Bro. Ebner replied, and then the W.M. gave the toast of the Past Masters. He regretted the absence of the Treasurer; the worthy Secretary, Bro. Paas, who had been somewhat out of health lately, had likewise left them at an early period of the evening. However, on this occasion they were favoured with the company of one of their Past Masters, whose absence—caused by ill-health—the members had ever regretted. He referred to Bro. P.M. Diosy, with whose name he would associate the toast. Bro. P.M. Diosy tendered his sincere thanks for the very distinguished honour they had paid him. As the W.M. had said, he had been in ill health, and had been compelled to absent himself for a time. Freemasonry works wonders, but it is not in the power of Freemasonry to withstand the ravages time makes as age creeps on. However, though absent his sympathies were always with the Lodge, and it afforded him infinite gratification at meeting them, and he trusted his health would permit his being with them more frequently than during the last two years. Bro. Denham favoured the brethren with a song, and then the joining members were complimented. Other toasts followed in quick succession, the Visitors received a cordial greeting, and the candidate of the evening for the third degree was invested with the distinguishing jewel of the Lodge—the Polish White Eagle, a decoration that carries with it special privileges. The proceedings, which throughout were characterised with every spirit of geniality, were brought to a close with the Tyler's toast.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.—The annual banquet was given at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on Tuesday. The formal opening and closing of the Lodge was carried out, with the following brethren present:—Bros. Daniel W.M., Chicken S.W., King J.W., Hollands Sec., Caton I.G., Roberts, Moss, Leins, Morgan, Watkins, Maidwell, Brown, Pilson, Henson, Speight, Quay, Ratcliffe, Butler, Sewell, Barber, Coe, Valentine, Kearney, Jones, Clavers. Bro. Maidwell, who it is acknowledged always caters well, on this occasion surpassed himself, and it must have been intensely gratifying to him to know that his efforts were so well appreciated. On the removal of the cloth, Bro. Daniel proposed the Loyal toasts, which he briefly but pertinently commended to the brethren. Bro. Brown, the Worshipful Master of the Mother Lodge, proposed the health of the President of the evening. Of all the toasts proposed in a Lodge of Freemasons not one was more easy than the health of the W.M. On this occasion he had to offer for their acceptance a toast in honour of one who was always ready to impart the knowledge he had acquired. Bro. Daniels was a competent instructor, and he had much pleasure in proposing the toast. Bro. Daniels thanked the brethren: he had the welfare of the Prosperity Lodge at heart. He was the oldest member present, and he trusted he might be with them on many future occasions. He took a deep interest in the Lodge of Instruction, and would always exert himself for its welfare. Before he sat down he would call upon them to drink "Prosperity to the Lodge of Instruction," and with the toast he would couple the names of the Secretary and Treasurer. Bro. Daniels referred in high terms of praise to the exertions of Bro. Hollands, and in speaking of Bro. Maidwell, complimented him on the success that attended his efforts to minister to their comforts. After a reading by one of the guests, Bro. Hollands rose. He was proud of being Secretary of such a Lodge of Instruction. He scarcely knew how long, but he thought it was between eleven or twelve years. It was their custom only to work ceremonies, and this arrangement was of great advantage to those young Officers who desired to make themselves perfect in their duties. The members might congratulate themselves that the gatherings were attended by so many Past Masters; this in itself was a guarantee that the instruction imparted was sound. He thanked all for the way his name had been received. Bro. Maidwell, after acknowledging the compliment paid him, spoke in high terms of the charitable proclivities of the Lodge, and assured the members any service he could render them they might command him for. The pleasures of the evening were sustained by some capital songs—Bros. Butler, Moss, Speight, Valentine and others rendering good service.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—Held at the King and Queen, Norton Folgate, E.C., on Thursday, 20th inst. Bros. Powell W.M., Hine S.W., Legg J.W., Andrews S.D., Fenner Preceptor, W. Allbrecht Sec., Gieseke I.G.; also Bros. Trewinnard, Bromet, Bronkhurst, and Richard de Friez. Usual formalities were duly observed. Bro. Fenner answered the questions leading from second to third degree, and then the ceremony of raising was rehearsed. The Lodge was resumed to the first degree. Bro. Fenner worked the first and second sections of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bros. Bronkhurst Excelsior Lodge 1155, and R. de Friez Kingsland Lodge 1693, were elected members of this Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Hine was appointed to preside at the next meeting, after which the Lodge was closed and adjourned.

Friars Lodge of Instruction, No. 1349.—Held at Bro. Pavitt's, the Liverpool Arms, Canning Town, E., on Tuesday, 18th inst. Bros. Myers P.M. W.M., Johnson S.W., Barker J.W., Smith S.D., Holloway J.D., Watkins I.G., Worsley Secretary; also Bros. Andrews, Bailey, Pavitt, Keable, Norman, Witherstone, Carter, White, Sadler, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The Lodge opened in the second degree, when Bro. Bailey answered the necessary questions leading to the third, and the ceremony of raising was rehearsed. The W.M. worked the first section of the lecture, Bro. Andrews the second and third, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge closed down to the first, when Bro. Witherstone J.W. 1278 was unanimously elected a member. Bro. Johnson was appointed W.M. for Tuesday, 2nd December. An unanimous vote of thanks was ordered to be recorded on the minutes to the W.M. for the excellent and beautiful manner in which he had worked the ceremony, all the brethren being highly gratified. The W.M., in thanking the brethren, said he was pleased to be received so well amongst them; he should endeavour to attend every Tuesday. The Lodge then closed in due form. On Tuesday next, being the fourth Tuesday, sections only will be worked; Bro. Musto will be the W.M., Myers S.W., Andrews J.W., and Cundick I.P.M.

Royal Arthur Lodge of Instruction, No. 1360.—The re-opening of the Lodge Room at Bro. Wright's, the Prince's Head, Battersea Park, was celebrated on Tuesday last, when between fifty and sixty brethren sat down, under the presidency of Bro. George King, the Preceptor. Bro. Bruncker, the W.M. of the Mother Lodge, and P.M. Pulsford respectively filled the chairs of Senior and Junior Warden. Ample justice was done the good things provided, and energetic measures were successfully taken for the enjoyment of those assembled. One feature of the proceedings we record with pleasure. Bro. Alfred Withers, W.M. of No. 211, referred to the case of Bro. Dr. Daniel Acc, D.D., with whose misfortunes he deeply sympathised. The brethren responded, and a sum of 32s was the outcome of Bro. Withers's appeal.

Twickenham, on the 10th inst. The W.M. Bro. H. Lovegrove was supported by Bros. Dubois I.P.M., G. Clark S.W., J. Clark J.W., W. H. Barber Secretary; Bros. Graham Organist, Cruikshanks S.D., F. J. Perks J.D., Dunkley I.G., Wood W.S., Axford, E. W. Dubois, and others. The Lodge was opened in due form. Bro. Boyle, a native of Africa, Bros. Holliday and Thorn were duly passed to degree of Fellow Craft. The Lodge having resumed to the first degree, Messrs. William and Samuel Lewis (brothers), natives of Sierra Leone, were introduced and initiated. After the Lodge had been closed, the brethren retired for refreshments. The newly initiated brethren expressed, during the evening, in strong terms, the pleasure it had given them in being admitted into Masonry. The musical arrangements were under the direction of Bro. G. S. Graham, who as usual was most efficient; the vocal efforts of Bros. Holliday, S. Lewis (African initiate), Dunkley, White, and G. S. Graham were much appreciated. We hope to have the gratification of visiting the Lodge on a future occasion.

ORDER OF THE TEMPLE.

FIDELITY PRECEPTORY, No. 114.

ON Wednesday, the 12th inst., there was an important gathering of Knights of the Order under the banner of the Fidelity Preceptory at the Masonic Hall, Carlton Hill, Leeds. Circulars of invitation had been sent to all the neighbouring Preceptories, and it was announced that a Priory of Malta would be opened and worked by E. Sir Knt. A. M. Broadley P.E.P. Melita Grand Preceptory, Malta, and Provincial Grand Prelate of the Mediterranean. At five o'clock the Fidelity Preceptory was accordingly opened by E. Sir Knt. C. L. Mason the Preceptor, who was supported by the following Knights:—Walter Rowley Const., W. Paley Marshal, C. Eastwood Chaplain, R. Wilson Registrar, Thos. Gibson P.E.P., S. E. Seanor P.E.P., W. J. Beck P.E.P., J. D. Kay P.E.P., Rev. W. C. Lukis, J. B. Wormald, J. C. Malcolm, Jas. Walker, E. Hefferman, J. Barker, &c., and the following Visiting Knights:—A. M. Broadley P.E.P. Melita, Malta, W. Holmes P.E.P. Faith 29, J. Marshall 29, Henry Smith 29, G. Althorp P.E.P. 29, M. Monckman 29, M. Newsome Fearnley 39, Thos. Blair De Furnival 66, J. S. Cumberland E.P. Ancient Ebor 101, T. B. Whytehead P.E.P. 101, P.G. Capt. of Guards England, A. T. B. Turner 101, J. Ward 101, &c. The members of Ancient Ebor entered in procession, preceded by the Banner and Sword presented to them last year by the American Knights of Mary Commandery, Philadelphia. There were four candidates for the Order—Companions J. McKee Hollingsworth, W. L. Jackson, J. W. Fourness and R. W. Moore, and several of the eminent Preceptors present assisted E. Preceptor Mason in the working of the ceremonies, which were conducted very perfectly. After the closing of the Preceptory the Knights adjourned to the Banquet Hall, where a cordial welcome was given to the visitors by the Leeds Knights, whose hospitality has been long proverbial. One or two of the principal toasts were given after dinner. E. Sir Knts. T. B. Whytehead and A. M. Broadley responding for the Visitors, the latter giving a most interesting account of the remains of the Ancient Order of Malta to be seen in that Island, and exhibiting a collection of photographs of the same. Subsequently the Knights again adjourned to the Lodge Room, and a Priory of Malta was opened by E. Sir Knt. A. M. Broadley, and the following Knights were duly installed:—J. McKee Hollingsworth, W. L. Jackson, J. W. Fourness, R. W. Moore, W. C. Lukis and T. Blair. The working of Sir Knt. Broadley excited much interest, and in the lecture of the degree his explanations threw great light upon the history of the degree. After the closing of the Priory the Knights once more assembled in social converse, and the Equerry's toast brought to a close one of the most successful and pleasant gatherings ever held under Fidelity Banner.

MEETING OF THE LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

THE Lodge of Benevolence met on Wednesday evening at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Joshua Nunn Senior Vice-President, Bro. James Brett Junior Vice-President, and Bro. James Kench Assistant Grand Pursuivant, occupied the chairs of President, Senior and Junior Vice-Presidents. The Lodge was very numerously attended. At the Board of Masters, which was first held, Bro. Buss, Assistant Grand Secretary, read the draft paper of business for the December Quarterly Communication. Among the items on the paper were the nominations of Most Worshipful Grand Master, and of members of the Lodge of Benevolence. The Report of the Board of General Purposes announced with regret that the Board had received the resignation, by Bro. John Hervey, of his office of Grand Secretary, through continued ill-health. The Board in consequence made a recommendation to Grand Lodge. Notices of motion were also given by Bro. James Stevens as to Uniformity of Ritual, and by Bro. J. M. Clabon for setting apart two-thirds of the annual surplus of the Fund of Benevolence for apprenticing or otherwise advancing in life the boys and girls when they leave the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys and the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. The brethren then opened the Lodge of Benevolence, and first confirmed the recommendations to the Grand Master made at the last meeting, amounting to £250. On the new list there were thirty-seven cases, and these were relieved with a total sum of £1035.

THE EBRINGTON MASONIC HALL, DEVONPORT.

THERE was a large gathering of Freemasons, on the 6th inst., to inaugurate the opening of the new hall, which has just been completed for Lodge Fidelity. The warrant of this Lodge was granted in 1799, and it was then numbered 320. At the union of the two Grand Lodges it became 405, and is now, in consequence of many old Lodges having become extinct, numbered 230. In 1828 it was removed from Plymouth to Tiverton in exchange for the older Lodge of St. John, No. 83, now No. 70. In 1860, however, several influential brethren, foremost amongst whom was the late Bro. J. J. Clase P.M. P.P.G.D.C. were instrumental in getting the Lodge removed to Devonport. Their first place of meeting was in a private room adjoining the Mechanics' Institute. This was inconvenient, and they removed to Fore-street. This temporary accommodation was insufficient, and the members at considerable expense altered some premises in Chapel-street, where they remained from 1862 to the present time. Finding it necessary to lengthen their cords and strengthen their stakes, the present W.M. Bro. Richard Cawsey, assisted by Bros. J. Lynn, F. Codd, H. Boyling, J. R. Harris, and R. Ellis, as a committee, found and purchased premises in Granby-street, formerly a chapel, and from plans prepared by Mr. Norman they have altered the building, and made it one of the best adapted halls in the province. The Lodge room is about 40 ft. long by 18 ft. wide, the refreshment-room being about the same size. There are three anterooms, with other necessary offices. The alterations have been executed by Bros. Berry and A. Lethbridge, at a total cost of about £600, and Bro. Cawsey is to be congratulated on the success which his energy merited. During the proceedings he received an ovation from the members and visitors. The hall is named after the Provincial Grand Master of Devon, with his consent, and the Lodge has the honour of numbering among its members the R.W. Bro. Rev. J. Huyshe P.G.C. and P.P.G. Master of Devon. There is still one Brother living who was a member of this Lodge before its removal to Tiverton in 1828. This is the respected clerk of St. Andrew's Church, Plymouth, whose father was also a member of this Lodge, and was well known and highly esteemed by the Freemasons in old time. The ceremonies were ably conducted by Bro. Cawsey, assisted by the Officers of the Lodge, and during the evening a pleasing episode took place. Bro. A. E. Lean, the W.M. of the Lodge "St. John" 70, took the opportunity of presenting an old relic of the "Fidelity" Lodge, which had been for half a century in the possession of his Lodge. It was an old silver trowel, which had been presented to Lodge 405 soon after its consecration. The gift was suitably acknowledged, and the business over, the brethren retired to a collation provided in the building by Bro. Gorey, of the Temperance Hotel. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured, and a very pleasant evening was spent. The Lodge of St. Aubyn 954 will meet in this new hall, and also several Mark Lodges, Chapters, &c., which are connected with the two Lodges. Amongst those present were:—Richard Cawsey W.M., J. R. Harris S.W., R. Ellis J.W., A. Rowe I.P.M., Robert H. Burt P.M., John Lynn P.M. P.P.G.P., John Whitford J.D., John Babb D.C., W. M. Ridland O., James S. Bowden I.G., H. Bridgeman S.S., R. Gorey, W. H. Ellis, T. Williams, J. W. Thompson, R. Jones, W. S. Rattenbury, H. Boyling—all of 230; and Visitors—J. E. Curteis P.M. 189 P.P.G.S.W., J. B. Gover P.M. 70 P.P.G.A.D.C., H. Provincial Grand Lodge having bee after having expressed his regret at th requested the P.G. Sec. Bro. Henry C.

Lodge meeting, from which it appeared that two grants were recommended—one to the widow of a rev. Brother of Lodge 626, and the other to a very old member of Lodge 632, who, by reason of the commercial depression, had failed in his business as a manufacturer, and been reduced to great distress. These grants and the minutes generally were confirmed. The Prov. Grand Registrar, Bro. W. Nott P.P.J.G.W. read his annual report. From this it appeared that the number of members of Lodges in the Province was steadily increasing, standing now at 455, which was an increase of 81, or nearly 22 per cent. in three years. The Report called attention to the pleasing fact that the general working expenses, including rent, Tyler's refreshments, &c., were reduced from 17s 9d to 15s per member. The average amount contributed to Charity was at the rate of 6s per member, ranging from nothing in one Lodge to 13s 8d in another, though it was to be remembered that some of the young Lodges had not cleared off their original expenses, and had not therefore the ability to devote so large a portion of their funds to charitable purposes as the older Lodges. The Registrar's Report also called attention to the large amount of arrears outstanding in one or two of the Lodges—in one case as much as half a year's actual receipts, and to show that there was no necessity for this, he instanced two of the Lodges where there had not been for years past a single penny of arrear when their accounts were closed. The Report also brought before the P.G. Lodge a great laxity on the part of a few of the Lodge Secretaries in sending in the necessary returns. Bro. Tombs P.G. Sec., in proposing the adoption of the report, said he was very sorry to find that his mother Lodge was one of the greatest offenders as regards the Registrar's concluding remarks, and trusted that means would be taken to effect an improvement, as unless the returns were delivered in good time, it was impossible for the P.G. Officers properly to fulfil their duty. The Acting P.G.M., in putting the motion to the meeting, said that the Registrar had very delicately refrained from indicating the Lodges complained of, but that should the same fault exist next year, they must not expect a similar consideration, for Prov. Grand Lodge would have to follow the example of the House of Commons, and name the offenders. The Report was adopted. Bro. Nott, who is also Secretary to the Prov. Grand Charity Organisation Committee, then read the usual annual report of the proceedings of that Committee, showing that the Province had been successful in carrying two candidates for the Girls' School—one at the April, and another at the October election, although at the latter election the Province had also aided and secured the election of a boy candidate, whose last chance it was. This was a case supported by the Provinces of Monmouthshire and Bristol, with both of which Provinces Wiltshire is working in the most friendly union. To attain these results the votes of the Province had been considerably pledged in advance, but the Committee felt that the brethren of the Province would enable it to redeem its pledge by sending in every possible vote, more especially when it was considered that the children in question, through the engagement thus made, were enjoying the benefits of the School some time before they otherwise could have done so. The Report stated that the Committee had received from the Province, during the year, 1176 votes for the various institutions, showing a steady increase year by year, and he mentioned the gratifying fact that the average number of votes per Lodge possessed by the Wiltshire Lodges was only exceeded in eight of the forty-three Provinces of England and Wales. The Report was adopted. Bro. F. H. Goldney, P.G. Treasurer, brought before the Lodge a subject which had appeared on the agenda paper in relation to the establishment of a local Benevolent Fund for the Province. He referred to the large sums taken up for the various Charities from time to time by different brethren from this Province (as evidenced by the fact they had just heard in the Report read by Bro. Nott that the Wiltshire votes for the year numbered 1176), to the large buildings and great revenues of the Schools, and the large number of scholars educated there. He did not propose to take any decided steps at present, and without full consideration; but he thought the time had come when we ought to consider what funds might be likely to be available for local purposes, whether if a distinct fund were established there would be brethren who would like to subscribe to it, whether legacies might not be bequeathed to it, and whether that fund might not be applied in a somewhat different manner to that in which the funds of the existing great Masonic Charities are applied. He instanced—in addition to grants such as those that day made in aid of present distress—the payment of fees at local Schools, the granting of Scholarships, and other ways which would ensure good results at a much less cost than the present large expense of the great Masonic Schools—an expense by many considered to be somewhat excessive. He thought that after meeting such local claims they would still be able to aid the funds of the existing Charities. He proposed the appointment of a Committee, consisting of the P.G. Treasurer, Registrar and Secretary, and of one Brother from each Lodge, to be elected by the members thereof, such Committee to consider the whole subject and report thereon to the next meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge. Bro. Nott P.G. Reg. seconded the proposition, remarking that as it was merely for the appointment of a Committee to consider the question, he did not purpose going fully into the subject. He might mention, however, that he had studied the working of local educational and benevolent institutions in other Provinces, and in every case that had come under his notice had found that these institutions were very successful, and he saw no reason to doubt that some such institution as that alluded to would succeed in Wiltshire. Bro. Tombs P.G.Sec. drew attention to the fact that no less a sum than £1050 was required to purchase a perpetual presentation to one of the Schools, now this ought, in interest alone, to produce between £40 and £50 without touching the capital, and it seemed to him that it was a matter for consideration whether if a province had any large sum to dispose of it might not be employed more advantageously. Bro. Lord Harry Thynne called attention to the danger of doing anything that would break up the strong associations they had with the existing Charities. They had no doubt power to devote their funds as they liked, and to educate children elsewhere if they liked; but he was afraid that if such a fund as that alluded to were established it might have the effect of alienating the sympathies of the Brethren from the existing Schools and Benevolent Institution, and of prejudicially affecting them. Wiltshire had been most successful in its support of and connection with these Charities, and also at the elections, and our position in that respect he did not want to see weakened. Bro. Walter Long supported the appointment of the Committee. It did not affect their position. The Committee was merely to consider and report to the next Prov. Grand Lodge, and it would be for that Prov. Grand Lodge then to act as it might think fit. The Acting P.G.M. Bro. Goldney, in putting the proposition to the meeting, said, that no doubt the administration of the existing Charities was a subject of great interest. Was the present mode of spending their funds the best one? Undoubtedly the expenses of the Masonic Schools were comparatively higher than those of others of which he had some knowledge, and named Christ's Hospital and the Sons of the Clergy Schools; but he thought that if unnecessarily high this fault could be remedied. He was strongly in favour of getting the feeling of the whole province on the subject of its charitable funds, and how they should be applied. The proposition (with a slight amendment proposed by Lord H. F. Thynne and assented to) was then put to the meeting, and carried unanimously. The Acting P.G.M. then stated that he had a most pleasing duty to perform, and that was to invest with the Charity Jewel, voted by the province, two brethren who had each served the office of Steward to two of the Masonic Charities, namely, Bro. William Nott P.P.J.G.W. and P.G.Reg. and Bro. Samuel Gauntlett P.P.G.S. of Works. In investing Bro. Nott he mentioned how much the province generally was indebted to him for his work on behalf of the Charities, both as Secretary to the Charity Organization Committee, and also in his two Stewardships, in discharge of which he had taken up a larger aggregate sum than any other Steward had ever done for the province. In investing Bro. Gauntlett, he congratulated him both on the way in which he had always stuck to Masonry, and the province on his services. Bro. F. H. Goldney was unanimously elected Treasurer for the ensuing year. The Acting P.G.M. then proceeded to appoint and invest the P.G. Officers for the ensuing year, as follows:—Bros. F. H. Goldney 626 S.W., Walter H. Long 632 J.W., Rev. Alex. Headley 626 Chap., F. H. Goldney 626 (on election) Treas. (re-appointed), William Nott 663 Reg. (re-appointed), Henry C. Tombs 355 Sec. (re-appointed), Henry J. Birch 1295 S.D., Samuel Gauntlett 632 J.D., Alfred Browne 632 S. of Wks., John Chandler 355 D.C. (re-appointed, Charles Gauntlett 632 A.D.C., William Adye 1271 S.B., W. H. Brickworth 626 Org., H. E. Bishop 632 G.P., John Savory (on election) Tyler (re-appointed). Before closing the Lodge, the Acting P.G.M. again alluded to the absence of the P.G.M. (Lord Methuen), such absence being enforced by his medical attendant, and said that his lordship very much regretted it, more especially after the demonstration of their feeling towards him at Swindon last year. His lordship wished to say how much—had he been able—he should have liked to have come amongst the brethren to-day, and again thank them for their kind presentation on that occasion. In making the appointment of Officers, his lordship had thoroughly gone into the various qualifications. In appointing Bro. F. H. Goldney to the S.W.'s chair, he had desired, to some extent, to acknowledge the obligation the province was under to that brother for his laborious undertaking in writing that History of Freemasonry in Wiltshire, which he believed was now in the press, and he hoped would soon be in the hands of the brethren. His lordship thought that such services as this ought to be acknowledged, and he (the Acting P.G.M.), as Bro. F. H. Goldney's father, had great pleasure in carrying out his lordship's wishes. After a cordial vote of thanks to the W.M. and brethren of Lodge 632 for their reception that day, the Prov. Grand Lodge was closed.

The brethren afterwards dined together in another part of the same building, under the presidency of the D.P.G.M. Bro. Goldney. After the removal of the cloth, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. To the toast of the Grand Master, &c., Bro. Lord H. Thynne responded, saying that although his engagements were so varied that he might almost say he was Jack of all trades and master of none, yet one of the things he was most proud of was, that of being a brother Mason, and there was one thing that he should never forget he owed to his connection with Wiltshire, and that was his position in Grand Lodge. Lord H. Thynne then went on to propose the health of the V.W.D.P.G.M. Bro. Goldney, whom he had had the pleasure of knowing in Lodge and in private life for very many years, and in either capacity he had always found that all those who knew him were proud of his acquaintance. Feeling that he was one of those to whom every honour that Masonic custom could give was due, he called upon them to drink his health. The toast was most enthusiastically received. Bro. Goldney, in returning thanks, said he felt that he had not performed the duties of his office as regards visiting the various Lodges in such a way as he could have wished, owing to his public engagements, but he hoped to see the private Lodges oftener in future. Masonry had many privileges, one very prominent one being its claim to universal brotherhood, in its setting down steps to enable us to ascend towards the perfection of high sentiment and good feeling, virtues which ought to enter more than they did into our social life. Lord H. F. Thynne in Prov. Grand Lodge that morning had alluded to the Masonic Institutions in a way as to which there might be a slight difference of opinion, but he believed we all met in Lodge in the fullness of that Charity which our great Saviour preached, that feeling in which Masonry existed, and which Masonry enabled them to express. Masonry was a source of much gratification in the interest it promoted between the members of various Provinces, but it had its origin in graver things. King Solomon was the greatest monarch in those days, and his principal greatness lay in the fact that he was able to break away from the bonds of priestly knowledge, and set up a secular knowledge under the name of Wisdom. That Wisdom was believed to have been the foundation of Masonry, and that knowledge ought to be found in our Lodges. But had Masonry done all it ought to have done in carrying out the higher wisdom in which it was founded? was a question worthy of consideration. Now education had been brought home to every one by the State, it became to his mind a subject of serious moment, and one deserving the best attention of Masons, whether from the large funds at their disposal they might not do more to foster a higher education, and advance the cause of science to a greater extent than they had done, and thus endeavour to walk in the ways of the great originator of our Order. Funds were often wasted by distribution in small sums without producing any great result, whereas added together they might perhaps enable us to give a helping hand to enable some one individual—perhaps in a very humble position, but one who only wanted help—to rise to a foremost place in the higher branches of knowledge. Some of our greatest men, some of those who had done most for England's greatness, had begun life in very lowly circumstances; they had struggled, they had persevered through difficulties, and had at last attained to prominence and eminence alike creditable to their nation and to themselves. Might we not have the power of helping such as these in their early struggles. Now, if a boy at school shows great talent, and we could give him an exhibition of £60 or £70 a-year for two or three years, what a chance it would give him not only for his own advantage, but for elevating Masonry in the view of the whole world, by showing that it is a body which by its noble acts fosters science, and thereby does good service to the country; for science he believed was at the bottom of our success as a nation. If the Committee that day appointed could, amongst other things, show them the way to devote some of their funds in the direction indicated, be believed it would be well received and be of great benefit. We should thus be building bridges which would unite one class of the community with the other, and should be doing our best to perpetuate the wisdom of the great founder of our Order. The D.P.G.M. then proposed the health of the R.W. the P.G.M. Lord Methuen. Bro. E. T. Payne P.G.D. England, P.S.G.W. Wilts, proposed the health of the Worshipful Bro. Lord H. F. Thynne P.G.W. Eng. and P.G.R.A. Superintendent Wilts, to which his Lordship briefly responded. Bro. Gen. Doherty P.S.G.W. Wilts gave the health of the other Provincial Grand Officers Past and Present, and this was responded to by Bro. F. H. Goldney P.S.G.W. and Bro. Walter Long P.J.G.W. Bro. W. Long then proposed the Visiting Brethren, many of whom, of distinguished eminence, he was pleased to see amongst them. He coupled with that toast the names of the V.W. Bro. Capt. Homfray D.P.G.M. Monmouth, Rev. J. A. Lloyd P.G.C. Oxon, R. N. Howard P.G. Sec. Dorset, and R. M. Worlock P.G. Sec. Bristol. Capt. Homfray, in replying, said it gave him great pleasure to come here to thank them and their Charity Committee on behalf of the Provinces of Monmouth and Bristol for the valuable aid given to their candidate at the last election, which secured her success. He was glad to testify, from personal experience in London at the elections for the Charities, to the excellent way in which those elections were worked on behalf of his Province by the Secretary to the Committee, his excellent Brother William Nott, who by his exact calculations managed to secure the success of their candidates without any waste of votes. He felt that so long as the Provinces in the neighbourhood united together in the way they were now doing they would be enabled to secure their fair share of the benefits of the Charities. At the last election they had been enabled to aid a London candidate, thereby showing that the Provinces had no ill feeling towards the metropolis, and establishing a claim for reciprocity at some future time. He hoped that nothing would be done to weaken our three noble Institutions, and he felt sure that if there were any well founded complaints against them it was only necessary that representation should be made to Grand Lodge to ensure a reform. Bro. Howard and Bro. Worlock likewise returned thanks, the latter also expressing the gratitude of the Province of Bristol to the Wiltshire Charity Organisation Committee. Bro. the Rev. A. Headley proposed the toast of the Masonic Charities, dilating warmly on the excellencies and advantages thereof, and stating that as Masons they were bound to respond to the constant cry of "Give! Give!" which must proceed from those institutions so long as the claims upon them were so much greater than they could meet, as at present. Bro. William Nott, in responding, did so with very great pleasure, and was glad of the opportunity of expressing his hope that nothing he had done with reference to a local Benevolent Fund would, in any way, interfere with these grand Charities. Did he think so he would never for a moment support such a scheme; but he believed that Charity, begun and developed at home, would expand and widen in such a way as to embrace within its scope aid to these greater institutions from quarters whence none was at present forthcoming. He thanked them on behalf of the Charities, and also for the support afforded him in his capacity as Steward for two of them, by which he was enabled to take up an aggregate sum of £500. Bro. S. Gauntlett also thanked the brethren on behalf of the Charities, and for the support accorded to him as Steward. The D.P.G.M. proposed the health of the P.G. Sec. Bro. Henry C. Tombs, which was most warmly received. Bro. Tombs, in responding, said that it was a satisfaction to him that he had occupied for the last eleven or twelve years the position of P.G. Sec., for it was an honourable one. He cheerfully performed the duties of the office, chiefly because he knew that Masonry was founded on high and religious principles. He knew of no other which recognises, as Masonry recognises, the Volume of the Sacred Law, the Book which should direct all our labours, and ever be borne in mind, and so tend to elevate our Order, and cause the outside world to acknowledge that there is something in our meetings and services which tends to make us better men and citizens. This idea should endear us to Freemasonry, and make us strive to maintain its character. The toast of the "Wiltshire Lodges" and "the Tyler's" brought a most successful meeting to a close.

Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. 188, well known to many of our readers, desires us to announce that he has removed from 24 Southampton-row to 7 Torrington-square, London, W.C.

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

St. John of Wapping Lodge, No. 1306.—The members of this Lodge met at the Gun Hotel, Wapping, E., on the 12th inst. Bro. W. H. Hayward in the chair, assisted by Bros. C. Veal S.W., J. Magrath J.W., R. Hayward Treas., H. T. Hardy Secretary, T. Wooding S.D., J. Horsley J.D., J. Carrociero I.G., W. Bate W.S.; also I.P.M. A. W. Coleman and P.M.'s F. W. Dawson and W. Beck; T. J. Tyer, T. J. Tarling, J. Sommers, J. N. Stevens, T. B. Ryton, C. Kuruber, J. P. T. Couture, A. G. Clements, C. Rayner, &c. Visitors—Bros. Rev. A. C. Browne 93 I.C., T. J. Barnes jun. 536, G. H. Stephens I.G. and J. King 1623. Lodge was formally opened and the minutes of the last general, also an emergency meeting, were read and confirmed. Messrs. C. Rayner and J. P. T. Couture being candidates for admission into the Order, the ballot was taken and proved unanimous in their favour. Bro. Hayward then proceeded to initiate Messrs. A. G. Clements and C. Rayner into the mysteries of the Order, the ceremony being conducted as far as the obligation, when Mr. Couture was admitted, the ceremony performed again, and completed. The W.M. is to be congratulated upon the impressive manner in which the ceremony was rendered, more especially as this was the earliest opportunity the Lodge had afforded him of proving his capacity. Lodge having been closed in due form, the brethren partook of supper, served under Bro. Mortlock's experienced direction. This was amply discussed under circumstances of extreme merriment and pleasure; and after grace had been said by Bro. Rev. A. C. Browne, the Worshipful Master promised that as the evening had worn late he would be brief in his remarks; he proposed the health of Her Majesty the Queen, coupling with it the Craft. Bros. Hardy and Mortlock sang God save the Queen. In giving the health of H.R.H. the Most Worshipful Grand Master, Bro. Hayward claimed a hearty response to the toast. His Royal Highness had done much to promote the welfare of the Craft; Masons were blessed in having so eminent a brother as the Prince of Wales to preside over them, and when, in the fullness of time, we shall have him as our ruler, we shall discharge the duties of citizenship as loyally as we do those the Craft requires of us. The next toast introduced was the Pro Grand Master, Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of Grand Officers Past and Present, to whom the W.M. said he was sure we felt deeply indebted. It was a great thing for eminent brethren to devote their time and attention to furthering the interests of the Craft, and the members of the St. John of Wapping Lodge would give this toast a hearty reception. Bro. S.W. Veal was here requisitioned, and he gave a humorous song; after which Bro. Coleman I.P.M. said the brethren knew for what reason he took the gavel in his hand. It was for the purpose of proposing the health of the W.M. He did so with very great pleasure. He was informed this was the first work Bro. Hayward had had to do since his installation. The brethren might feel sure that in Bro. Hayward they had the right man in the right place. After a hearty "Wapping" fire, the W.M. said, that as a bashful man, especially when returning thanks for himself, the brethren must excuse him. If one thing could overcome him more than another, it was this burst of applause, greeting his humble efforts. He hoped they would afford him more opportunities of working, and, instead of three, have five candidates every meeting. Nothing should be found wanting in him to promote the welfare of the Lodge. If they would forgive any shortcomings on his part, he would thoroughly carry out the wishes of the Lodge. Before sitting down he had the pleasant duty to propose the health of the Initiates. It was all very well for old Masons to sit down year by year, but we require from time to time new blood. To-night he had had the honour, for the first time in his life, of initiating three gentlemen into the Order. He hoped the candidates would make use of those lessons taught them in Masonry; they were good lessons, and should be practised out of the Lodge, so that, by exemplary conduct, they might be recognised by men as well as by Masons. This was heartily received, and responded to by Bro. Clements, who said he felt greatly indebted to the brethren for their kindness in admitting him. He would always endeavour to fulfil the duties he might be called upon to perform. Bro. Couture said he had felt much pleasure at the manner in which his health had been proposed by the W.M. and responded to. He could assure them nothing should be wanting on his part. Bro. C. Rayner said he had been treated so well that he hardly knew how to thank them, for fear he should not say enough. In proposing "The Visitors," the W.M. said nothing could be more gratifying to a Master than to introduce that toast. On this occasion it was very gratifying indeed to extend the hand of welcome to them; to one we have done so often, to the others for the first time. But above all, on the present occasion we have a brother visiting us who represents that which is the first principle of Freemasonry, and whose ministrations remind us of that object most dear to us—the first object presented to a Mason's view. He offered to the Rev. Bro. Browne a hearty welcome, and expressed a hope that the Lodge might be called upon to admit him among them. It would not be the first time the Lodge had had a Chaplain. Then there was Bro. Stephens, whom every member of the Lodge liked to see present, and who gave them his advice or assistance whenever it was needed. He need not say how welcome he was. They all hoped to be favoured constantly by his presence among them. Bro. Barnes was paying the first, but the W.M. hoped not the last, visit to them, and to him and Bro. King he extended a cordial welcome. Bro. Stephens here, by special request, sang "When other lips." Bro. Rev. A. C. Browne assured the W.M., Officers and brethren that he was profoundly grateful for his reception that evening; not for one reason only, but for many. He hoped he did not take precedence of other brethren, but he could not leave the Lodge without expressing his thanks. Having been ten years a Mason, he had been the recipient of many favours and honours, but thought the W.M. had got possession of the great secret—that of making men happy. He had seldom witnessed—whilst visiting Lodges in England and Ireland—that spirit of concord—without which the mystic tie is a failure—so apparent as it was here. The rev. brother concluded by expressing a wish to become a member of the Lodge. Having seen many Lodges, he congratulated the W.M. on the ease and accuracy of his working, and Bro. Host for his kind attention. Bro. Stephens briefly thanked the brethren, and Bro. Barnes jun. said he did not expect to have had to speak; for his own part he should not have done so, except for the sake of an honoured name in Masonry—that of his father. He esteemed the hospitality of the St. John of Wapping Lodge, and perceived the bond of friendship to be so strong among them that he should like to become one of the band of brethren here. Bro. King said he was the youngest M.M. present; yet the meeting, like all he had seen in Freemasonry, had exceeded all impressions he had formed of the Order previous to his admission. Should the brethren visit his Lodge (West Smithfield), they would be sure of as hearty—he could not say a warmer—welcome than he had received. Bro. Mortlock obliged by singing "Welcome brothers, welcome friends," a favourite song here. The P.M.'s were next honoured, the W.M. eulogising each in turn. Bro. I.P.M. Coleman was a strong musical light, whom they were glad to have in their Lodge; P.M. Poore was unfortunately unwell, and of him and P.M.'s Beck and Davison he need say very little, their merits being before the brethren. As to P.M. Mortlock, though not a P.M. of this Lodge, he was always with them, not only to minister to their creature comforts, but to furnish food for their mind. If the initiates felt an ardent desire to acquire a knowledge of our ceremonies, let them attend on Bro. Mortlock, and he would so fill them up with Masonry that they would soon be walking rituals. Bro. Mortlock briefly replied for the Past Masters, the time being short. The toast of the Officers was given with much honour, and severally responded to, and the Tyler's toast brought a most enjoyable evening to a close—one, indeed, fulfilling the anticipations we ventured on some months ago as to the success of this Lodge.

Since the above was in type, we have received intimation of the death of Bro. P.M. Mortlock; truly may we say, "In the midst of life we are in death." Reference to this sad event will be found in another column.

resumed, and Bros. Wyville and Millsom answered the questions leading to second degree and retired. The Lodge was opened to the third degree, and closed to the first. Thursday, 18th December, was set apart for the purpose of having the Fifteen Sections worked, of which due notice will be given. The Secretary read a letter from Mrs. H. Kyezor, thanking the brethren for their expression of sympathy and condolence with her on her bereavement, and the Secretary was requested to enter the letter on the minutes of the Lodge. Bros. Millsom and Bellamy were elected members of this Lodge of Instruction. Bro. H. E. Tucker was elected W.M. for the next meeting.

The Crusaders' Lodge, No. 1677.—The first meeting of this Lodge after the Installation was held on Wednesday evening, the 12th of November, at the New Market Hotel, West Smithfield. Bro. G. Goode W.M. presided, and the other officers present were:—Bros. Hunter I.P.M., J. W. Simmonds S.W., Rothschild J.W., Maples Treas., Defriez Sec., Millward S.D., Calderwood J.D., Gay D.C., Rushton Org., Pigot I.G. The only visitors present were:—Bros. H. Thompson 1426 and P.M. 177 and 1158, A Thiemans P.M. Faith 144, and Lehmeyer W.M. Urban. The minutes of the Installation meeting of the Lodge were read and confirmed, after which the Lodge was opened in the second degree, when Bro. Thomas Mount Keiler Gilbert was examined and entrusted. The Lodge being opened in the third degree, he was, in a most impressive manner, raised to the degree of M.M. The Lodge was then lowered to the second degree, and Bros. Budden and Lennard were passed to the degree of F.C. A ballot then took place for Mr. Augustus Thomas Buckingham, the well-known and social host of Clerkenwell-green, which proving to be unanimous, he was introduced and most impressively initiated by the W. Master into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. Several of his friends, who came to witness the ceremony, congratulated him upon his admission to the noble Order. Some other business having been disposed of, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the large hall for refreshment, and a very excellent and substantial repast was served up, in first-rate style, the viands being good and the attendance excellent, leaving really nothing to be desired. Bro. Butt (the worthy Host) personally superintended all the arrangements. After the withdrawal of the cloth, grace having been said, the W.M. gave the first loyal toast, which was that of "The Queen and the Craft;" this was most heartily responded to, followed by the National Anthem, Bro. Lehmeyer presiding at the pianoforte. The next toast was that of "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, Most Worshipful Grand Master of Masons," a toast which was most enthusiastically responded to. The other formal toasts having been given, Bro. Hunter (Immediate Past Master) proposed the health of the W.M., and descanted on the very able manner in which he had discharged the duties in the chair. The W.M. said he had been suffering from illness, which prevented him from going through the business in the way he could wish, but he trusted to be better able to discharge them in the future; he sincerely thanked the brethren for the honour they had conferred upon him. The next toast was that of their brother initiate (Bro. Buckingham). In giving his health, the W.M. said he believed that he would prove a good and worthy Mason. This toast was likewise enthusiastically responded to. Bro. Buckingham thanked the brethren for the honour conferred upon him by admitting him a member of their ancient Order; he could assure them that he would do all in his power to prove himself a good Mason. The health of the Visitors was then proposed by Bro. Senior Warden, who congratulated the Lodge on having amongst them, as visitors, some of the most well-known members of the Craft. Bro. H. Thompson, in acknowledging the toast, congratulated the Lodge on possessing so efficient a Master; having witnessed two of the ceremonies performed that evening he, as a somewhat old Mason, could say with confidence that the Lodge had good reason to be proud of their Master, and of his having that night added another link to the great fraternal chain of Freemasonry. He thanked them for the kind hospitality they had shown him, and although that was his first, he trusted it would not be his last visit to the Crusaders' Lodge; that evening had been to him one of unalloyed pleasure. Bros. Thiemans and Lehmeyer also returned thanks. In the course of the evening Bro. Lehmeyer delighted the members with some choice solos on the pianoforte, particularly so by Thalberg's "Home, sweet home," with variations. Some other toasts were given, songs sung, and thus a very happy meeting was brought to a close.

West Smithfield Lodge of Instruction, No. 1623.—At the weekly meeting, at Bro. Butt's, New Market Hotel, West Smithfield, on Monday, Bros. Van Raalte W.M., Valentine S.W., Greenwood J.W., Mallett P.M. Secretary, D. Moss S.D., King J.D., Silvester I.G., Pennefather P.M. Preceptor. Lodge was opened and the minutes were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Willis candidate. Bro. D. Moss worked the first and second sections of the lecture, and P.M. Stuart the third, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Willis of 1326 was elected a member. £5 5s was voted from the funds of the Lodge of Instruction, to be placed on the list of Bro. G. H. Stephens, who has undertaken a Stewardship at the next Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. Monday next will be "Preceptor's Night;" on Monday, 1st December, Bro. Valentine will preside.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—The most effectual cure for Gout and Rheumatism.—A frequent cause of these complaints is the inflammatory state of the blood, attended with bad digestion, lassitude, and great debility, shewing the want of proper circulation of the fluid, and that impurity of the blood greatly aggravates these disorders. Holloway's Pills are of so purifying a nature that a few doses taken in time are an effectual preventive against gout and rheumatism, but any one that has an attack of either should use Holloway's Ointment also, the powerful properties of which, combined with the effects of the Pills, ensure a certain cure. The Ointment should be thoroughly rubbed into the parts affected at least twice a day, after they have been sufficiently fomented with warm water to open the pores to facilitate the introduction of the Ointment to the glands.

TAMAR INDIEN.

SPECIAL CAUTION.

OWING to the marked success of this medicine, the only patent medicine universally prescribed by the faculty, and the acknowledged cure for constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c., BASE IMITATIONS, containing drastic irritants, are being foisted on the public. The genuine preparation bears the title "Tamar Indien," and the signature E. GRILLON, Coleman-st., London, E.C. Price 2s 6d per box. In a recent case, 1876, G. No. 211, a perpetual injunction to restrain the defendant from applying the name "Tamar" to his lozenges was awarded, with costs, by Vice-Chancellor Bacon, on 19th January 1877, and all such piracies will be summarily proceeded against.——N.B.—See that the outer wrapper (directions) are printed in the English language and that each box bears the Government 3d stamp.

PARLEZ-VOUS FRANÇAIS?

MANY of whom this question is asked will say, I can read it and write it, but can't speak it. A neat little volume for the Pocket has just been published by an Ex-Inspector of Public Schools; all the most useful verbs as used in ordinary conversation are therein embodied, alphabetically arranged on an entirely new plan, and printed in large type in French and English, a most rapid system, indispensible to teachers and other persons teaching themselves the language. Sent post free to any address on receipt of ninepence in stamps to

THE APPROACHING MEETING OF GRAND LODGE.

THE amount of business set down for the regular December meeting of Grand Lodge, which will take place on Wednesday next, is somewhat in excess of the usual quota, and comprises some matters of great interest to the Craft at large. On this occasion the brethren of Grand Lodge will be called upon—if the motions of which notice have been given are brought forward—to decide questions which are likely materially to affect the future of English Freemasonry. It is to be hoped that free discussion will be allowed, in order that a fair and just decision may be arrived at; and, further, that the brethren will not consider their time wasted if they are called upon to listen to numerous arguments for and against the proposed alterations. We are aware that, in discussing the questions which are brought before Grand Lodge, very much is said that is of little interest to the general hearer, but when it is remembered that the Quarterly Communications are the only occasions on which the whole of the English Craft can be addressed through its representatives, some allowance should be made by the members of one locality for the special requirements of the brethren of another. Laws and rules which meet every requirement with one section may, and do prove, utterly impracticable with another, and, therefore, it is desirable that the Central Court should be ready to listen to all, and adjudicate for the benefit of all. On questions which involve a change in existing customs, there is sure to be strong expressions of feeling on the part of the class who object to any alteration simply because it is an alteration, without any reference to the benefit or otherwise it is probable may result. The argument used by this section of the community is most unsound, and utterly opposed to the spirit of progress which should influence every man's ideas. The proposer of an amendment should have no trouble to upset the objections of this class if he can secure the attention of his audience; but this is not always an easy task, the main object of many persons appearing to be to stop any discussion which is likely to occupy more than a few minutes of their time.

As is customary at the December meeting of Grand Lodge, the first business which will require attention is the nomination of a Grand Master, the appointment of a President of the Lodge of Benevolence, and the election of the other officers of that body, whose appointment rests with Grand Lodge. As regards the former, few words are needed to express the feelings of the brethren. No greater compliment could possibly be paid the Craft than for His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to again undertake the ruling of the English section of the Brotherhood, and so unanimous is this feeling that there is no fear of any other nomination being made, much less entertained, when the time of election arrives; while, with the latter—the appointments for the Lodge of Benevolence—no difficulty need be expected, the number of brethren qualified and deserving of appointment being far in excess of the number of offices to fill. The Charity grants recommended to Grand Lodge by the Lodge of Benevolence will next require consideration. It can but be matter of regret that it is found necessary to vote so many and such large amounts as are submitted this quarter for confirmation, but it is well known that the country has been, and is now, suffering from great depression in trade; and as Freemasonry has so greatly extended itself during the last few years, it is but natural that the claims on its bounty should be more numerous. One thing which must be gratifying to the members is, that Grand Lodge is in a position to give so handsomely, as we suppose they will do, in response to the propositions made by the Lodge of Benevolence. To dispense £1000 in one quarter, among seventeen of the less fortunate members of the Fraternity—in addition to the smaller grants made at each monthly meeting of the Lodge of Benevolence—is an act that must be applauded, and which clearly demonstrates the grandest principle of the Craft—Charity.

The official notification to Grand Lodge of the resignation of Bro. John Hervey, who, as we stated in our last issue, has for the last eleven years faithfully filled the office of Grand Secretary, is the next item of business on the agenda paper. The Board of General Purposes express their regret that they are called upon to lay this resignation before Grand Lodge, and when we consider the cause which has made it necessary for Bro. Hervey to resign, and the way in which the duties of his office have been discharged, we can but again endorse the regrets expressed. Of course services such as those of the late Grand Secretary deserve to be suitably recognised, and as it is a part of the duty of the Board of General Purposes to point out whatever they deem necessary or advantageous to the Craft, they now unanimously recommend that Bro. Hervey be granted the full amount of his salary (£800 a year) as a retiring pension. This we feel is a very delicate point to touch upon; still we think we should be wanting in the proper discharge of our duty were we to pass over the item without comment. No one can more respect Bro. Hervey than ourselves, and therefore we feel the more diffident in pointing out what we deem the course most likely to conduce to the welfare of the Craft. We desire that our remarks should be considered as applying to the paid Offices of Grand Lodge in general, and not to any individual brother in particular. Having thus far explained ourselves, we desire to draw the attention of our readers to the recommendation of the Board of General Purposes, so far as the amount of the pension to the late Grand Secretary is concerned. We think it very improper to annually spend so large an amount of the funds of Grand Lodge, as is now proposed, as an honarium to an officer, after, comparatively speaking, so short a service as little over eleven years. At the appointed time it will be in the power of each brother present at Grand Lodge to express his opinion on the subject, and we have no doubt but that the question will receive the attention it so justly merits. Unfortunately there is the natural feeling that any suggestion made in opposition to the recommendation of the Board of General Purposes is an implied slight on the brother who is more particularly concerned, but we hold that this is not the case; and even if it were, it would be unwise to establish a precedent which in years to come it would be next to impossible to disregard, without first taking into consideration every argument that might be raised against it. From a strictly commercial point of view, the action of the Board will not stand a moment's consideration. No public institution or mercantile firm could offer a full pension after so short a period of employment even if it were anxious to secure the services of the most learned professor, while, in the ordinary course, we think a service of something like forty years is necessary before a full pension can be secured. The Board would have acted far more wisely had they proposed the granting of a smaller sum, and then if they were of opinion that a full pension had been earned, they could, by their President or other prominent member, have suggested to Grand Lodge the propriety of considering the question of increasing their recommendation. As it now stands, any brother who thinks with us that the pension is too large, will have virtually to oppose the Board who, when attacked, will naturally stand in a body on the defensive. It is to be hoped that neither side will permit this matter to degenerate into a personal question, but that if once opened, the discussion will be allowed equal freedom by both sides, and that in the end the best course will be adopted. Whatever this may prove to be, we trust all will cheerfully conform to the opinion of the majority.

The Board of General Purposes next draws the attention of Grand Lodge to the infringement of that part of the Constitutions which relates to the procuring of Charity Jewels, Clasps, &c. We hope it is only necessary to direct attention to this irregularity to ensure its immediate discontinuance, but should Grand Lodge deem it necessary to adopt harsh measures in ordes to compel the observance of its edicts, it would be far better than to make laws and allow them to be broken, even under the very roof of Grand Lodge itself; we here more especially refer to the use of a lantern or other fancy light in the third degree, especially prohibited by Grand Lodge. We have already referred to this subject, and may at an early date point out other items which should be remedied.

The Notices of Motion comprise, one—by Bro. James Stevens—on the question of Uniformity of Working. Here Grand Lodge will be asked to appoint a committee, which was deemed necessary as far back as 1870. The other—by Bro. J. M. Clabon—has reference to the future distribution of the surplus of the Fund of Benevolence. Bro. Clabon proposes, as he has done on previous occasions in Grand Lodge, that a part of the surplus of each year shall be devoted to the advancement of the Pupils of the Masonic Educational Institutions after they leave the respective Schools. We have lately devoted so much of our space to these two questions that we hardly think it necessary to refer to them at any length here. As regards the latter, it is urged in some quarters that to adopt Bro. Clabon's suggestion would be to go in direct opposition to the intention of the founders of the Fund of Benevolence. The object of the Fund, according to the Book of Constitutions, is Charity. In what way Bro. Clabon's proposal is in direct opposition to Charity we should like to know. Perhaps by Wednesday next we may be enlightened.

THE LATE BRO. T. S. MORTLOCK.

IN our last issue we referred to the death of Bro. T. S. Mortlock, which occurred, under exceptionally painful circumstances, when he was attending the funeral of Bro. E. Page. The late Bro. Mortlock was an energetic and well-tried Mason; he was initiated in the Industry, No. 186, of which Lodge he was a Past Master. He was a P.Z. of the Faith Chapter, No. 141, and of the Industry Chapter, No. 186. He likewise was well known in the Mark Degree, and had served the Office of W.M., both of the Thistle, No. 8, and the Temple, No. . As a supporter of the Institutions, he was always to the fore, and many are there who will miss him as a sincere and ardent friend. The funeral of our deceased brother took place at Bow Cemetery, on Tuesday last, where a large assemblage of members of the Craft attended to pay the last sad token of regard to a worthy brother. The funeral was conducted by Bro. Thomas James; the first carriage contained the two sons of the deceased and his three brothers—John, Samuel, and William Mortlock; in the second carriage were Bros. Charles Lacey, George Wood, C. Veal, Carrociero, and Magrath; another carriage contained Bros. Hook, Marsh, Wooding, &c. The Industry Lodge was represented by its W.M. and the following members:—Bros. Chubb, Mole, Stutchbury, J. Thiers, Robinson, Seex. Amongst those assembled around the grave we may mention Bros. W. H. Clarke, A. Walter, J. G. Horsey, R. Hayward, J. Hayward, Hugh Cotter, W. Bate, J. M. Stevens, T. J. Tarling, W. O. Coleman, Scolefield, Longstaff, Deason, A. Yates, W. Wallington, B. Cundick, Watson, J. J. Berry, S. Rawley, Myers, S. Watkins, T. J. Barnes, T. J. Barnes jun., Collis, A. Walter jun., G. Jones, S. Moss, A. W. Coleman, R. Owen, A. Mole, T. Haywood, H. Harbert, Hallingford, Dawson, Goldstein, G. H. Stephens, Jas. Stevens, W. W. Morgan, &c. &c.

SOUTH NORWOOD LODGE, No. 1139.

THE installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday evening, the 20th instant, at the Public Hall, South Norwood. Bro. E. O. Day Worshipful Master, J. Churchward S.W., F. Harris J.W., R. Evans Treas., W. Duffitt Sec., J. Kern S.D., S. Skudder I.G., Stead Tyler. P.M.'s W. Corner, Sanders, Porter, C. R. Corner, &c. Lodge was opened in due form, and minutes of previous meeting were confirmed. The W.M. then vacated the chair for the Installing Master, Bro. W. C. Corner P.M., who formed a board of Installed Masters, and rendered the ancient ritual in a very impressive and able manner, placing Bro. J. Churchward, the new Master, in the chair of K.S. with due honours. The ballot was then successfully taken, and Messrs. F. S. Herbert and W. A. Vincent were initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry. Lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the banquetting hall, where an excellent menu had been provided, to which ample justice was done. After grace had been said, the W.M. proposed the Loyal toasts, which were received with that hearty enthusiasm for which the Lodge is noted. In replying for the Grand Officers, Bro. Hugh Sandeman, P.G.M. of Bengal, said he gladly responded to that toast; he was pleased to congratulate all the Officers of the Lodge upon the excellent working he had witnessed. It was the fourth time he had been present at the installation meeting, and it was a pleasure to hear the ritual rendered in such a correct manner. The W.M., in reply to his health, thanked the brethren for placing him in that proud and distinguished position, and hoped he should merit the esteem of the brethren by the attention he paid to every detail of the Lodge. The handsome Lodge jewel was then presented to the retiring Master, Bro. E. O. Day, who acknowledged the gift in suitable terms. The Tyler's toast concluded a very enjoyable evening. Visitors—Bros. Hugh Sandeman Friends in Council Lodge, J. R. Longrow Knob Lodge 1414, W. Sharp P.M. Concord Lodge 463, A. Churchward Hornsey 890, J. Nicolls Fitzroy Lodge, J. Pilling St. James's Union 180, Dr. Strong Frederick of Unity 452.

ST. AUGUSTINE LODGE, No. 972.

THE brethren held their annual meeting on 19th November, at the Masonic Rooms, 38 St. Peter's-street, Canterbury. The ceremony of Installation of the W.M. Elect (Bro. William H. Vile) was most impressively performed by Bro. J. Welsh P.M. The following brethren were invested by the W.M. as his Officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Edwin Beer S.W., H. Miskin J.W., Rev. T. J. Syree Chaplain, G. Pilcher P.M. G.S. P.G.D.C. Treasurer, S. F. Pringuer S.D., T. B. Rosseter J.D., T. Crump I.G., W. Harnett Tyler, Henry Pringuer Secretary, A. J. Pelling Organist, J. Welsh P.M. Director of Ceremonies, C. Holttum P.M. Almoner, J. Secra Charity Delegate. A vote of thanks—proposed by Bro. H. Naylor P.M. 1449, seconded by Bro. C. Holttum P.M. 31—was subsequently inscribed upon the minutes of the Lodge for the able manner in which the ceremony was performed by Bro. J. Welsh, who was then decorated by the W.M. with a P.M.'s jewel, presented by the brethren below the chair, in recognition of the valuable services rendered, not only to the Craft but also in the Lodge of Instruction. After the ceremony, the brethren adjourned to the Guildhall Hotel, where a banquet was capitally served by the Bros. Shaxby, in the old Lodge-room. On the removal of the cloth the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured. Amongst the visiting brethren were:—Bros. Thomas J. Usher 1096, Dr. W. Longhurst S.W. 31, George Cox P.M. 199, John Brothers W.M. 709, F. W. Prescott 199, G. Tribe 177, H. Naylor P.M. 1449, Edwin Fenn 1208, W. A. Smeeth 1208, J. Howarth 1449, T. Blamiers 1449, H. Hammond 1449, R. Butler 1658.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—At Bro. Butt's, New Market Hotel, West Smithfield, on Monday, 24th Nov. Present—Bros. Halle W.M., Gibbs S.W., Symons J.W., Pearcy Acting Preceptor, Fenner Sec., Sillis S.D., Giller J.D., Balls I.G.; also Bros. Jackson, Wing, Defries, Geyer, &c. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Jackson candidate. Bro. Wing proved himself efficient, and was entrusted. Lodge being advanced, the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Wing as candidate; both ceremonies were performed in a very creditable manner. Lodge being resumed, Bro. Fenner worked the second section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Giller of Loyalty Lodge 1607, and Jackson of Great Northern Lodge 1287, were duly elected members. Bro. Gibbs will preside at the next meeting. Bro. Pearcy was unanimously elected an honorary member. Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

Vitruvian Lodge of Instruction, No. 87.—A meeting was held on 21st November, at the White Hart, College-street, Lambeth. Present—Bros. Timothy W.M., Kohler S.W., Nott J.W., Isaac Treas., Bond Sec., Davis S.D., Sambell J.D., Watson Tyler; Bros. Stuart, Jolly, Ball, Chalkley, Cox, Bale, and others. The first section was worked, and the Lodge was closed to the first. Bro. Kohler will preside next Thursday, when the brethren will meet in the new building.

Royal Union Lodge, No. 246.—At the meeting on Wednesday 19th, Bro. J. Walker, M.A., the W.M., asked the acceptance by the Lodge of a sum of fifty guineas, which he proposed to give in the name of the Lodge to the Masonic Charities. He stated his anxiety that the Lodge, which held the premier position on the roll of Prov. Grand Lodge, should also occupy as honourable a position towards the Masonic Charities. Already the Lodge was Vice-President of two of the three Charities, and he should be glad to see it occupy a similar position towards the third. Bro. Brook-Smith Prov. Grand Tr., as the oldest P.M. of the Lodge, proposed a cordial expression of thanks to the W.M. for his generous and unexpected gift, and Bro. the Baron de Ferrieres, in seconding it, asked to be allowed to contribute the balance of seventeen guineas required for the acquisition of the third Vice-Presidentship. Bro. Brook-Smith then moved, and Bro. Bryant I.P.M. seconded, a similar vote of thanks to this second donor, and both votes were carried by hearty acclamation. The Royal Union Lodge thus becomes Vice-President of all three of the Masonic Charities—a position which will probably provoke friendly emulation among the other Lodges of the province.

Lodge of Union, No. 414.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Tuesday, 18th Nov., at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present — Bros. Chas. Oades W.M., Saml. Bradley S.W., Chas. Stephens J.W., M. J. Withers Sec., J. A. Strachan P.M. Treas., R. C. Mount S.D., F. J. Ferguson J.D., A. W. Parry D.C., D. H. Witherington Steward, Saml. Wheeler I.G., W. Hemmings Tyler; Bros. C. G. Hawkes, C. G. Butler, W. C. Moffatt, Edw. Davis, H. Higgs, J. R. Hayward, F. W. Albury, Doran Webb. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. John Robert Hayward, a candidate to be raised to the third degree, gave proof of his proficiency in the former degrees, was entrusted and retired. The Lodge was opened in the third, and Bro. J. R. Hayward was raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The ceremony was performed in an admirable manner both by the Master and Officers. Lodge was closed from the third to the first degree. Two candidates for initiation were proposed and seconded. The W.M. gave notice of motion, that a gratuity to the R.M.B.I. be given. After the usual closing ceremonies, the Lodge was closed and adjourned to the third Tuesday in December.

West Kent Lodge, No. 1277.—The brethren of this Lodge assembled on Saturday last, for the second time at their new place of meeting, viz., the Crystal Palace. Bro. R. H. Crowden the W.M. was supported by all his Officers, who arrived in due time to be present at the opening of the Lodge. They included the Rev. Dr. Rosenthal, D.D., Chaplain, the Senior and Junior Wardens, &c., and Past Masters C. K. Crouch, G. Clements, John Allen and J. K. Stead. Amongst the Visitors were Bros. E. B. Grabham Royal Athelstane 19 P.S.G.W. Middlesex, H. H. Spede Andrews Egyptian 27, and J. Hammond Hermon 1572. Bro. B. Fullwood P.M. St. John's, Torquay, was unanimously elected a joining member, and Dr. William Lomas and Mr. P. S. Philps, surgeon, duly elected for initiation. The latter named candidate was then duly initiated, and the Rev. Arthur E. Druce, M.A., and James Orange were passed. Bro. Crowden W.M. was appointed Steward on behalf of the Lodge for the ensuing Festival of the Girls' School, and on the proposition of the Treasurer, Bro. Stead P.M., ten guineas was voted from the Lodge funds. Later on the subscription list was passed round, and though there were not more than twenty present, the total subscriptions amounted to £58, which is the more creditable, as—though the Lodge was consecrated in 1869—this will be the first time it has sent a Steward to any of the various Charities. It is to be hoped that the example thus set will be followed by each succeeding Master.

Burdett Coutts Lodge, No. 1278.—The usual meeting of this very prosperous Lodge was held on Thursday, 20th inst., at the Approach Tavern, Victoria-park, Bro. Abraham Lazarus, the W.M., presiding, who was assisted by his Officers most efficiently. There was a fair attendance of P.M.'s. Bro. Berry officiated as Acting Secretary in the absence of Bro. G. W. Verry. Bro. W. J. Bonner received his M.M. degree, the ceremony being most impressively worked, and Mr. Basil Stewart was duly ballotted for and initiated. The brethren then adjourned to the banquetting-room, where the festivities were interrupted by a communication being made to the W.M. to the effect that a fire was raging next to his premises, which information naturally necessitated his leaving, but he desired the brethren not to break up or allow the untoward circumstance to mar the enjoyment of those present, and asked the I.P.M. Bro. Crouch to preside and carry out the usual programme, which was done.

Marquess of Ripon Lodge of Instruction.—The annual banquet took place at the Pembury Tavern, Amhurst-road, Hackney, on Monday, 24th November. Bros. C. Lorkin W.M., Grist S.W., McDowall J.W. The following brethren were present — W. Wallington P.M. 860, R. Dallas, J. Lorkin, Smyth, High, Long, Toombs, Bailey, Marsh, Thos. Jones, Heldrith, Gittels, Slaiter, McMillan, Coubro, Jacob, Pinder, R. Olley, Garrod, Tho. Cox, Grimbley, F. Cox, Harding. After the repast the usual toasts were given. The health of the W.M. was proposed and suitably acknowledged. Speaking of the Lodge of Instruction, the W.M. wished it every prosperity. The next toast was that of Bro. Slaiter, late Secretary, who is leaving for India. Bro. Slaiter, in feeling terms, thanked the brethren for the kind way in which they had drank his health. The banquet was served by Mr. Clifford, the worthy host, in excellent style. Bros. Coubro, McMillan, Pinder, P.M. Wallington, Grist, C. Lorkin, Smyth and R. Olley, added to the pleasures of the evening by some capital songs.

West Middlesex Lodge of Instruction, No. 1612.—At the Feathers' Hotel, Ealing, on Thursday, 20th inst. Present:—Bros. H. E. Tucker W.M., W. Seward S.W., E. C. Porter J.W., H. Youens S.D., C. E. Botley J.D., F. Botley I.G.; also Bros. H. Stephens, W. M. Wyville, G. Wills, E. J. Acworth, A. Jones, Gardner P.M. 780, Gunner. Bro. F. Botley volunteered as a candidate, and the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed. The Lodge was called off for refreshment. On resuming labour, Bro. Seward took the chair. Lodge was opened in the second degree, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Acworth candidate. Bro. Gardner P.M. 780 took the chair, and the Lodge was opened in the third degree. Bro. Tucker re-occupied the chair, and rehearsed the ceremony of raising, Bro. Gunner candidate. Bro. Gunner referred to the case of a distressed brother, whose condition was fully explained some months previously. Bro. Tucker now asked the brethren to again assist, and on the motion of Bro. F. Botley, seconded by Bro. H. Youens, £1 was voted from the funds of the Lodge in aid of our distressed brother. Bro. Seward was unanimously elected W.M. for the next meeting, and the Lodge was closed in due form.

THE FIFTEEN SECTIONS

Will be worked as under:

At the Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, No. 1507, Moorgate Station Restaurant, on Tuesday, 2nd December. Bro. T. A. Adams P.G.P. in the chair. Those of our brethren who have not visited the comfortable quarters the members of the Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction have secured, should avail themselves of this opportunity.

THE TWO-HEADED EAGLE.—The origin of the device of the Eagle on National and Royal Banners may be traced to very early times. It was an ensign of the Ancient Kings of Persia and Babylon. The Romans adopted many other figures on their Camp standards; but Masons (B.C. 102) made the Eagle alone the ensign of the legions and confined the other figures to the cohorts. From the Romans the French, under the empire, adopted the Eagle. The Emperors of the Roman western empire used a black eagle; those of the East a golden one. The sign of the golden eagle met with in taverns is an allusion to the emperors of the East. Since the time of the Romans almost every State that has assumed the designation of an empire has taken the Eagle for its ensign—Austria, Prussia, Russia, Poland and France, all took the Eagle. The two-headed Eagle signifies a double empire. The Emperors of Austria, who claim to be considered the successors of the Cæsars of Rome, use the double-headed Eagle, which is the Eagle of the Eastern Emperors, with that of the Western typifying the "Holy Roman Empire," of which the Emperors of Germany, now merged in the house of Austria, considered themselves as representatives. Charlemagne was the first to use it, for when he became master of the whole of the German empire he added the second head to the eagle, A.D. 802, to denote that the emperors of Rome and Germany were united in him. As it is among birds the king, and being the emblem of a noble nature, from its strength of wing, and eye and courage, and also of conscious strength and innate power, the eagle has been universally preferred as the continental emblem of sovereignty. Of the different eagles of heraldry, the black eagle is considered the most noble, especially when blazoned on a gold shield.

"The Antiquary" is the title of a new Monthly Magazine which is to be published by Mr. Elliot Stock early in December. It is to be devoted to such subjects as Folk Lore, Numismatics, Early Voyages, Bibliography, Genealogy, Heraldry, Parish Registers, Provincial Dialects, Church Restoration, Early Printing, the Transactions of Provincial Archæological Societies, Engravings and Paintings, Curiosa, &c., &c. "The Antiquary" is to be edited by Edward Walford, Editor of the "County Families."

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Health or Wealth.—No sane person would hesitate an instant in the choice between these two conditions. Now is the season to secure the former either by restoring or confirming it. These Pills expel all impurities from the system which fogs, foul vapours, and variable temperatures engender during winter; this medicine also acts most wholesomely upon the skin, by disgorging the liver of its accumulated bile, and by exciting the kidneys to more energetic action; it increases the appetite for food and strengthens the digestive process. The stomach and liver, with which most disorders originate, are fully under the control of these regenerative Pill, which act very kindly yet most efficiently on the tenderest bowels.

We must crave the indulgence of our friends, many of whom we shall disappoint through being obliged to hold over so many items of news. The demands on our space at this season of the year are so great that we have no option; at the same time we tender our regret to those brethren whose indulgence we seek, and promise we will do our best to rectify shortcomings in our next. An article on the recent Special Court of the Girls School, reports of the Installation Meetings of the Royal Savoy, William Preston, and City of Westminster Lodges, and of the complimentary dinner at the Metropolitan Hotel, on the 19th inst., are among the items we are compelled to hold over.

CONSECRATION OF THE ST. LEONARD'S LODGE, No. 1842.

FOR some few years past the necessity for the establishment of a Lodge at St. Leonards has been felt and acknowledged by several prominent members of the Craft in the trim towns of Hastings and St. Leonards. After the usual amount of preliminary routine, a warrant was granted on 23rd August, and the Lodge—which is named the St. Leonards Lodge, and bears the number 1842—was consecrated on Friday, the 21st November, in one of the rooms in the new buildings, called the Warrior-square Concert Rooms, which have been recently completed in that town. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, there was a large attendance of the brethren, amongst whom we noticed Bros. John Henderson Scott D. Prov. G.M. for Sussex, Major-General the Hon. Somerset Gough Calthorp J.G.W. of England, Rev. C. J. Martyn P.G.C. of England and D. Prov. G.M. for Suffolk, Joseph Dixon P.M. 271 P. Prov. S.G.W. acting as Prov. S.G.W., H. A little after the appointed time, the brethren assembled in the Lodge room, and the Provincial Grand Lodge was received in full form. The Lodge having been opened in the three degrees by the D. Prov. Grand Master Bro. John Henderson Scott, that Worshipful Brother delivered an address to the brethren, in which he specially referred to the Old Derwent Lodge at Hastings having, in conjunction with the Union Lodge at Chichester, and the Clarence at Brighton, kept alive the spark of Freemasonry in the Province of Surrey during many dark and troublesome years. Bro. Scott said that it was upwards of one hundred years since the Derwent Lodge was first established at Hastings, and although it was often said in our every-day life that it "would be all the same in a hundred years hence," here was an evidence that the actions of men had their effect upwards of a hundred years later. The founders of the new Lodge were then assembled, and the Warrant, dated 23rd August 1879, signed by Lord Skelmersdale D.G.M. was read, authorising Bros. Thomas Trollope, A. R. Croucher, T. H. Cole, W. T. Hickman, A. L. Ward, John Cooke, Francis H. Parsons, M.D., James A. Beckett, Thomas Hulburd, T. H. Wadd, E. W. J. Hennah, W. L. Vernon, T. Brassey, M.P., and others to hold the Lodge. The R.W. Deputy Prov. G. Master also commented at considerable length on the value of Freemasonry, and expressed his hope that there would not be any petty jealousy, no carping or cavelling amongst the brethren; he was much pleased that the W.M. designate of the new Lodge of St. Leonards was his worthy friend and Brother Dr. Trollope. The Prov. G. Chaplain the Rev. E. R. Adams delivered an eloquent and impressive oration, referring to three kinds of Freemasons whom he might respectively term Masons in name, Masons in ritual, and Masons in reality. The first class simply joined the Craft, and took no interest in its ceremonies, or in its lessons, or in its Charities, and were rarely to be seen except at the banquetting table. A much worthier class were the Masons in ritual, who took the greatest interest in the work of Masonry, and were seldom absent from the meetings. But the most worthy were the real Masons, who, while not letter perfect in the ritual, nor over stringent as to whether a chair was entered from the right side or the wrong, acted up to the real spirit of Masonry in act as well as in word, and who carried out the principles of the Order in their daily life, and were made better fathers, better husbands, and better sons. The Lodge Board was then uncovered, and the elements of Consecration were carried round and poured upon it, and it was declared by the Deputy Prov. G.M. to be regularly opened. Bro. Trollope P. Prov. S.G.W. was then installed W.M., and the following brethren were appointed Officers for the ensuing twelve months, viz.:—Bros. A. R. Croucher, M.D., Prov. G. Asst. D. of C. S.W., T. H. Cole, M.A., P. Prov. G. Asst. D. of C. J.W., F. H. Parsons Treas., F. de Brebant Cooper Secretary, W. L. Vernon S.D., A. L. Ward J.D., T. H. Wadd I.G., William Leslie Tyler. The usual addresses were most ably given to the newly-installed W.M., the Wardens, and the brethren of the Lodge, the two former by Bro. C. J. Smith, Prov. Grand Steward, and the latter by the Deputy Prov. G.M., who officiated as Installing Master. Cordial votes of thanks were proposed and unanimously carried to Bro. Scott for his kind attendance and able services in undertaking the Consecration and installation that afternoon; and to Bro. Rev. E. R. Adams for his most eloquent and impressive address. Several brethren were proposed as joining members and several gentlemen as candidates for initiation, and the Senior Warden (Bro. A. R. Croucher) was elected as the representative of the Lodge on the Provincial Charities Committee. Bro. Trollope, the W.M., and the Officers of the St. Leonards Lodge cannot but feel grateful at the number of visitors who honoured them with their presence at the ceremony, and from the gentlemen proposed as members, the Lodge has every promise of a successful career under the Mastership of so distinguished and so active a Mason as Bro. Trollope; we feel assured that he will be ably assisted by his Officers, and that the St. Leonard's Lodge will soon take a prominent position in the Province of Sussex. The musical arrangements in connection with the ceremony were under the direction of Bro. Alfred King Prov. G.O., who, with the assistance of the musical brethren, added considerably to the effect.

The Consecration Banquet was held in the same building immediately after the close of the Lodge. The W.M. was supported by all the Grand and Provincial Grand Officers who had been present at the consecration of the Lodge, and by Bro. Thomas Brassey, M.P. for the borough, and other distinguished brethren. Justice having been done to the good things provided, the services of the waiters were dispensed with for a time, and the W.M., in proposing the toast of "The Queen and the Craft," remarked that her Majesty was the mother of our three Masonic princes, and the patroness of our great Masonic Charities, and was an example of every domestic and social virtue. The W.M. next proposed "The health of the Masonic Sovereign, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Grand Master of England," who, he could assure the brethren, took the greatest interest in everything pertaining to Freemasonry, and was most particular in not sanctioning the issue of a warrant for any new Lodge unless he was satisfied of the necessity for it. The W.M. next proposed "The health of the Earl of Carnarvon the Pro Grand Master, and alluded to the great tact which that brother at all times exercised when he acted as the representative of the Prince of Wales. He coupled with it the health of the Deputy Grand Master of England Lord Skelmersdale, and the Officers of the Grand Lodge, referring to Lord Skelmersdale's great services to the Craft as Deputy Grand Master of England, and as a ruler of a province numbering over eighty Lodges. He also alluded to the presence that evening of General Calthorpe, who some years ago had resided amongst them, and had been a frequent visitor of the Derwent, and whom he was pleased to welcome again amongst them, and to congratulate him as Junior Grand Warden of England. Bro. Martyn and the other Officers he also welcomed in becoming terms. General Calthorpe, in responding, thanked the brethren for their reception, and in feeling terms referred to the days gone by when he resided in the borough, and visited the "Old Derwent." He had pleasure on his return to this town to meet all around, especially as they now met, on non-political grounds, and was equally pleased to meet both his friends and his old opponents (speaking politically). Bro. Martyn P.G. Chaplain also responded, and congratulated the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, the W.M., the Lodge, and its members, on the very successful proceedings of the day; he felt sure that under the guidance of the W.M., Dr. Trollope, the career of the St. Leonard's Lodge would be a prosperous one. The W.M., in proposing "The health of the Provincial Grand Master Sir Walter Burrell, Bart., M.P., the Deputy Provincial Grand Master Brother John Henderson Scott, and the Provincial Grand Officers," said that Sir Walter Burrell would have been present that evening but for the inclement weather. That worshipful brother was a genuine old English gentleman, and took the deepest interest in everything pertaining to Freemasonry, and hoped to see the charity scheme at present in operation in the Derwent Lodge introduced into every Lodge in the province. With reference to Bro. John Henderson Scott, the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, they all knew he was a good working Mason, and they had all had the opportunity of listening to the excellent way in which he had performed the ceremony of consecration and installation that afternoon; and of the other Provincial Grand Officers he might say, that although the inclemency of the weather had hindered many attending, they had still a large number of brethren wearing the purple amongst them. The D. Prov. G.M. returned thanks, and stated that Sir Walter Burrell would have been there that evening, but was prevented by illness. He would remind the brethren that he intended representing the Province at the annual Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, to be held in February next. He had already subscriptions promised amounting to over £300, and he would be glad to add further donations from Lodges or brethren to his list. Bro. the Rev. Dr. Richards, in a thoroughly Masonic speech, proposed "The health of the W.M. and Success to the St. Leonard's Lodge." Some few years ago he had the pleasure of installing Bro. Trollope as W.M. of the Derwent Lodge, and he was glad to be present that day and witness his installation as first W.M. of this new Lodge. In this beautiful spot in our own beautiful Island, a still further beauty had been introduced by the formation of a Lodge of Freemasons; and long might the new Lodge prosper and spread the genuine tenets of Masonry. The Rev. Brother was warmly applauded during his frequent and heart-stirring Masonic appeals. Brother Trollope W.M. thanked the brethren for the warm reception they had given to the toast proposed by his old friend Brother Richards, who had, to a considerable extent, taken the wind out of his sails. This—as the brethren had just been reminded—was not the first occasion on which he had succeeded Bro. Richards in the chair of K.S., neither was the opening of the St. Leonard's Lodge an idea of to-day only. Some seven or eight years ago a similar idea had been mooted, and their respected Brother Brassey had promised his assistance towards the formation of a Lodge at St. Leonard's. He was especially glad, therefore, to see Bro. Brassey present that evening. The affair, however, hung fire until the completion of the handsome block of buildings in which they had met that evening had been carried out, under the superintendence of Bro. W. L. Vernon. There was ample room for two Lodges in the Borough. It was some seventeen years since he joined the Derwent Lodge, which then numbered less than forty members, and now its numbers were nearer ninety than eighty, and in starting the new Lodge, they had no idea of entering into rivalry with the Old Derwent. He had been twice Master of that Lodge, and hoped to continue a member so long as he remained amongst them. This town was large enough, and he believed that many Masons who were deterred by distance from their residences from attending the Lodge at Hastings, would gladly avail themselves of the privileges of membership of the new St. Leonard's Lodge, and that many who had allowed the rust of years to dim their ardour in Freemasonry would awaken to new life, and to once more become bright Masons. The toast of the Visitors, the Officers of the Lodge, and the Masonic Charities, were severally proposed from the chair and duly honoured. Bro. Price W.M. of No. 56 (The Howard Lodge, Arundel) responded on behalf of the Visitors, and Bros. Croucher and Cole (S.W. and J.W.) on behalf of the Officers of the Lodge. Bro. James Terry, whose name was coupled with the toast of the Masonic Charities, made one of his most able and effective responses, in the course of which he expressed a hope that the brethren would by their subscriptions still further increase the splendid amount which already appeared on Bro. Scott's list as Steward for the forthcoming Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution in February next. The Tyler's toast wound up a day's proceedings which will not be forgotten by the brethren who were privileged to attend, and will be a red-letter day in the Masonic History of Hastings and St. Leonard's. To W. Bro. Trollope and his Officers we can but express our opinion, that in confiding a new warrant to their care, the M.W.G.M. of English Freemasons will never have any reason to regret the confidence he has bestowed upon them. Better Masons we seldom meet.

PROTECT THE ORPHANS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—At the elections last month for the Masonic Schools, ninety-one poor children—sixty-one boys and thirty girls—who had passed the General Committees as fit and proper candidates for education and support by our much-vaunted Charities were placed on the list of unsuccessful applicants, and left to educate and feed themselves as they best may until the elections in April next, when a large majority of them must again be doomed to disappointment. Not one penny is offered out of the liberal funds provided by the subscribers to aid in the maintenance and instruction of these poor children, who may starve, or grow up in destitution and ignorance, while we complacently sip our wine, and boast of the many thousands of pounds annually collected for their benefit. Some one cries, "Shame!"

At each succeeding meeting of the Committees, fresh names are added to the already too long list of applicants soliciting that protection and assistance which Freemasonry professes to extend to those who may be unfortunately reduced to a position requiring the benefits of these Institutions. Some of them—lucky enough to secure the help of influential and energetic brethren—will be successful; but the greater number will bitterly experience the "hope deferred which maketh the heart sick," and learn too late that, consequent upon the extravagant outlay on the favoured few, and by the diversion of funds from their legitimate channel, sums which should have been devoted to their aid have been otherwise disposed of, leaving them to sadly realise the truth of Shakspeare's words, "The orphan pines while the oppressor feeds." Again a cry of "Shame!"

These poor orphans are pleading for a home, food, and the training to enable them to take useful positions in the world—benefits which are denied to them on the plea of insufficient means; yet it is thought proper to call a Special General Court of the Girls' School to consider a proposition by the Treasurer—"That the sum of six thousand five hundred pounds (£6,500) be expended in the purchase of Lyncombe-house and grounds (freehold), the property of William Evill, Esq., adjoining the grounds of the Institution at St. John's-hill, Battersea-rise, S.W." Has no one sufficient charity and moral courage to cry "Shame?"

The FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE having persistently advocated common sense and honesty in the management of our Charity funds, there is good reason for hope that you will use your powerful influence to prevent a further waste of the orphans' money in the purchase of useless houses and unnecessary lands. The two Schools have been more than sufficiently costly, and are now quite large enough for permanent purposes. A well-regulated expenditure in monetary allowances to aid in the support and education of candidates until their election would be far more in accordance with the intentions of the donors than the proposed outlay on the Evill house, and would, moreover, tend to better prepare the children for the superior training which our Institutions offer. It surely cannot yet be too late to advocate the cause of the orphans against that of the freebolder and the builder, nor to invite subscribers to greet the proposed useless expenditure of six thousand five hundred pounds with a loud cry of "Shame!"

Yours truly and fraternally, H.

COLEMAN'S MASONIC CALENDAR.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have received from our friend and Bro. C. P. MacCalla, editor of the Keystone, a copy of a most useful work—"Coleman's Masonic Calendar"—a list of the whole of the regular Lodges at work in the United States and Canada, with their names, numbers and locations. There are 54 Grand Lodges, and some 10,000 Lodges holding under them. In every case where it is possible the addresses of the Grand Officers are given. Besides these the American and Canadian Grand Chapters, Councils, Commanderies, Consistories and governing bodies of all other Rites are to be found arranged in order within the 100 pages which compose the Calendar. A concise list is added of Masonic information relating to foreign jurisdictions, and a great quantity of information always useful and acceptable to Masonic readers, such as lists of Masonic journals, seals, libraries, institutions, &c. The author and editor, the Rev. Henry R. Coleman, tells us that one great object of the compilation and publication of this Calendar was to "measurably put a stop to" the "swindling" of false brethren who go about from Lodge to Lodge with false appeals of poverty and destitution; and our Brother gives some directions by means of which a large proportion of such rogues may easily be detected. Unquestionably the Masons of the United States are more cursed than those of Great Britain with these hordes of beggars; but even in this country we have far more of them than we ought, and perhaps if the suggestions of Bro. Coleman were known they might be acted upon (with modifications) in such a way as to materially suppress the Masonic mendicancy which is so troublesome, and forms so heavy a tax upon the brethren. Young Masons, who are more especially victimised, might be much benefitted by a perusal of Bro. Coleman's suggestions as to the treatment of what he calls "the excrements of Freemasonry." But bad as we may regard the evil in England, it is nothing to the state of things in America, nor is this to be wondered at if what Bro. Coleman states be correct, and there is no reason to doubt his figures. Here, then, is something to startle the Masonic reader:—"During the years 1876, 1877, and 1878, the appalling number of 2933 Masons were expelled from the Lodges of the United States and Canada! 2933 expelled Masons! 2933 men dead as to Masonry, yet alive as to the harm they do us by their evil lives, their exposures, their influence upon the rising generation! Besides this, 2609 more were suspended for periods more or less lengthy for gross un-Masonic conduct, and 44,299 for non-payment of dues! In the same period 63,000 Masons disunited, the larger part of them to avoid paying their share towards the support of the Order. Here is the sum total of 103,000 Masons who have gone back upon their fraternal pledges within the little period of three years." Truly, as Bro. Coleman says, this is appalling, and we have nothing like it, happily, in England, even in proportion to our number of Lodges. Still we have an uncomfortable supply of Masonic tramps, and if we were to exercise more care and discretion in our almsgiving we should perhaps assist in diminishing the evil.

It would be an excellent rule for each Lodge to appoint an old experienced brother as almoner, and to make a rule that no one should receive casual relief save through that Officer, and that those soliciting relief should invariably be referred to him. Young Masons are very apt to be soft-hearted, and tramping brethren usually come with very plausible tales. After some years experience of them, my own feeling is that not one in three who come is worthy of relief. The idea of a "Black List" has been suggested, and perhaps has its merits. By this method, the name, general appearance, and description of credentials of any begging Mason found to be unworthy would be forwarded to headquarters, and an annual list would be published, and sent to every Lodge.

However, I have wandered off from the subject of Bro. Coleman's Calendar, which is to be an annual publication, and which will be of vast use, not only as a reliable work of reference, but a valuable record of Masonry in North America.

I am, yours fraternally,

T. B. WHITEHEAD P.M.

PAST MASTERS' PRIVILEGES.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your correspondent, "QUIDNUNC," in his letter that appeared in the CHRONICLE of 30th Aug. last, replying to my query as to the conditions of Past Masters' membership of Provincial Grand Lodge, raises a certain issue, to which, as my question did not hinge on the date of installation, I did not refer in my last, but to which it may be as well to draw attention. Referring to page 76 section 1 of the Book of Constitutions, he observes, very truly, that "there can be no doubt that although a Master's installation may be deferred for various reasons, as ill health, absence, or other unforeseen causes, and he cannot occupy the chair of K.S., he is nevertheless virtually the ruler, and can appoint his Wardens and Officers for the year in the ordinary manner. His installation at some period of his year of Office is doubtless absolutely necessary to secure him continuing privileges, but is not absolutely requisite to prevent his ruling during his appointed year." He then draws two deductions, the former of which (and this I have italicised) I venture, with all respect to "QUIDNUNC," to dispute. He continues "consequently he will have executed his office for the prescribed period, and his Wardens will also have been executive Officers for the term necessary to qualify them for the Master's chair at the next annual period of election within the Lodge." Now I apprehend that "ruling a Lodge" is not executing the office of Master in its entirety. A Master, the minutes of whose election have been confirmed, but who has not yet been installed, cannot, I believe, suo vire confer any degree. He can only perform a degree ceremony in the presence of an installed Master, and then merely as the mouthpiece of the latter, who is responsible for the proper conducting of the ceremony. That installation is absolutely necessary to enable a brother "to execute the office of Master," though not "to rule the Lodge," is I think decided by the opinion of the Grand Registrar, expressed at the Quarterly Communication of 5th December 1877, in the following words:—A Master, if he is to be a Member of Grand Lodge, as a Past Master, must have executed the office of Master for one year. So that, if a Master were duly elected at the proper time, and for some reason could not be installed on the proper day of installation, so as to serve for one whole year by the time the next regular day of installation came round, that is to say, by that time had only served eleven months, he would not be, as a Past Master, a member of Grand Lodge."

Yours fraternally,

W. S. L.

A REQUEST.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Will you kindly allow me, through your columns, to say that I shall feel greatly obliged to any Secretaries who will take the trouble to send me specimens of the forms of Lodge Summons and Clearance Certificate in use in their respective Lodges.

Yours truly and fraternally,

WILLIAM NOTT,

THE ROYAL ARCH AT YORK.

ONE of the most singular features in connection with the minutes of the Grand Chapter of All England at York is the entry regarding the meeting held in the Cathedral at York. As usual the minute is very brief, and I will give it just as it is written:—

York Cathedral, 27th May 1778.

The Royal Arch Brethren whose Names are undermentioned assembled in the Ancient Lodge, now a Sacred Recess within the Cathedral Church of York, and then and there opened a Chapter of Free and Accepted Masons in the Most Sublime Degree of Royal Arch. Present—

Jacob Bussey S.
George Kitson H.T.
Thos. Richardson H.A.
John Coupland Secy. and Treas.
Francis Consitt
Robert Bewlay
Thomas Williams
Thomas Beckwith
Francis Clubley

The Chapter was held and then closed in usual form, being adjourned to the first Sunday in June, except in case of Emergency.

From the allusion to "the ancient Lodge" we see that the tradition of ancient Lodges having been held in the Cathedral Crypt was then accepted, and as no business appears to have been done, I presume that these nine worthy Companions simply met as recorded for the purpose of keeping up the remembrance of the ancient guild meetings.

The Crypt of the Cathedral is now lighted and warmed with gas, but in 1778, and in the month of May, it must have been a terribly chilly and dismal place wherein to hold a meeting. One also cannot help wondering how these brethren obtained permission to hold a Chapter in the Cathedral itself. The present Dean of York is most amiably disposed towards the Fraternity, as he has shown by several times placing the Cathedral at our disposal for special services, but I should very strongly doubt the possibility of his permission being obtained for any species of secret meeting for Masonic ceremonial. Dean Fountayne, however, who reigned in 1778, was a very different class of churchman, and in those days ideas were not as strict as at present.

I have been at the pains to look up the names of the Cathedral dignitaries and officials of that date, in order to find out if any of them were in any way connected with the Fraternity, or if their names are to be found in the list of R.A. Companions. It seems not unlikely that Comp. Thomas Richardson, who was present at the meeting, was a member of a very prominent family at York at that period, two of whose members, the Rev. Wm. Richardson and the Rev. James Richardson were Vicars Choral in 1778, whilst the organist of York Cathedral at that time was Bro. John Camidge, who was a Mason, and whose portrait in oils was a short time since presented to the York Lodge 236, by his great grandson, Bro. T. S. Camidge, Organist of that Lodge, and a P.P.G.O. of the Province.

I regard this minute as one of the most curious things, in its way, contained in the old York records.

T. B. WHYTEHEAD.

A vote of five guineas to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was confirmed, and the usual business of the Chapter having been satisfactorily concluded, the Companions retired to the refreshment rooms, in the same building, where a collation was provided by Bro. George Thorne, of Bedford-street.

JOPPA CHAPTER, No. 188.

THE regular Convocation and Installation Meeting of this excellent working Chapter was held on Monday, the 24th, at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, the M.E.Z. Comp. Littaur in the chair. Comps. P. Dickinson H., L. Lazarus J., W. H. Gulliford S.E., H. P. Isaac P.S., P.Z.'s E. P. Albert, H. M. Levy, S. Lazarus, M. Emanuel, J. Lazarus; and Comps. I. P. Cohen, M. Baum, J. Davis, W. J. Jennings, Dewsnap, &c. The Chapter was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Ballots were taken for Bro. C. Hutchinson 1695, and J. Pasta, who were duly exalted into R.A. Masonry by the M.E.Z., in his usual faultless manner; the same may be said of the H., J., and Officers, who were all equally perfect. Comp. Dickinson was then installed as M.E.Z., L. Lazarus H., W. H. Gulliford J. The ceremony of installing the Principals was perfectly performed by Comp. W. Littaur, the retiring P.Z. Comp. N. Baum was invested S.E., H. P. Isaac P.S., A. Botibol 1st Asst., J. Davis 2nd Asst., Smith Janitor. The report of the audit meeting was read. It showed that the Chapter was in a flourishing state. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions sat down to a sumptuous banquet, provided by Comp. W. G. Jennings, and superintended by Comp. M. Silver. The newly-installed M.E.Z. ably proposed the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts. In speaking to the Exaltees the M.E.Z. said all the members were pleased to see them. He hoped the ceremony would never be effaced from their memories. He felt sure they were members who would eventually become an ornament to R.A. Masonry. Comps. Hutchinson and Pasta briefly responded to the toast. Comp. W. Littaur I.P.Z. said the newly-installed Z. was one who, in every office he had held, showed his proficiency. His urbanity had won him the regard and esteem of every Companion, and for two years during his (Comp. Littaur's) occupancy of the chair, he had to thank him for his good working. A good Officer would, he was sure, make a good M.E.Z. The M.E.Z. hoped he had done his duty while preparing for the chair; his aim would be for their benefit, and as a P.Z. he should only be too pleased to be identified with them. He hoped at the expiration of his year of office he should leave the chair with credit to himself and satisfaction to them all. The toast of the Visitors was next given; the members were all pleased to see them; some were very distinguished in the Order. He would call on Comps. Jas. Stevens and Rev. S. M. Harris to respond. Comp. Stevens said he had visited many Chapters, but he had never heard better working. Comp. Harris fully endorsed all the former Comp. had said; from what he had seen of the M.E.Z.'s working, it might truly be said the mantle of his predecessors had fallen on his shoulders. He would only be too pleased to become a joining member of the Chapter. The M.E.Z. then proposed the health of the P.Z.'s; they had all done their duty; he could not do justice to their merits. However, he would say that great credit was due to the one who had for two consecutive years served them so well. It was a great pleasure for him to be the means of presenting Comp. Littaur with a gold chain and insignia of the Order, with an appropriate inscription. In attaching it he was proud to say he was placing it on the breast of an honest man. Comp. Jas. Stevens here gave a recitation appropriate to Freemasonry, which elicited loud applause. Comp. Littaur, in an eloquent speech, responded. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the H. and J. To speak of their qualifications would occupy too much time. Comp. Lazarus had worked as P.S., and they had seen what he had done in every office he had filled. Comp. Gulliford was one who could do the duties well, and his well-known business qualities were sufficient to show that they had elected the right man in the right place. This compliment was acknowledged by Comps. Lazarus and Gulliford, and then the M.E.Z. said he had another important toast, that of the S.E. and P.S. He might say they had one of the best Scribes he had ever met. Companion Baum said he would work diligently to enable him to occupy the chair the M.E.Z. now so admirably filled. Companion H. P. Isaac said he was not a man of words, but of action; he would be pleased to follow in the footsteps of such distinguished Companions. The Janitor's toast was given, and the company separated. The Visitors were—Comps. J. Stevens P.Z. 720 and 771, J. Pigot 1260, S. H. Harris 24, S. M. Harris 406, S. Pollitzer P.Z. late 188, Stamwitz 528, Stanislaus 25, and Fisher.

ST. JOHN'S CHAPTER, WIGTON, CUMBERLAND.

THE busy little town of Wigton was the scene of interesting Masonic proceedings on Thursday, the 20th inst. The occasion was the Royal Arch Installation Festival. Masonry has long had a home at Wigton. The late Sir James Graham, before and after he was Grand Master of this Northern Province, always manifested great interest in his Mother Lodge. Since his time brethren have always been found to come to the front and sustain and support the old Craft. The most active member at present is Bro. Henry Bewes, and all readily accord to him the honour. Associated with him are Bros. John Gate, Pearson, Hoodless, Lazonby, and others. But we have digressed. We wish to place on record the doings at the annual Convocation of the Chapter. The Companions met in full force, and punctually at three o'clock in the afternoon the Chapter was opened by the M.E.Z. Comp. James Gardiner, assisted by Ex. Companions Pearson H., Hoodless J., John Bowes P.Z. P.P.G.S.N., Henry Bewes P.Z. P.P.G.P.S., John Gate P.Z., Nicholson M.E.Z. Nicholson Chapter, Maryport, &c. The Chapter having been opened, and the rest of the Companions admitted, the minutes were read and confirmed. The M.E.Z. then, in the name of the Chapter, invited Ex. Comp. John Bowes to take his chair as Installing Principal. The newly elected Principals were then severally introduced, and presented in solemn conclave, and installed in their respective chairs, according to ancient custom. After the salutations, greetings, and proclamations usual on such occasions, the other Officers were invested and duly placed in their respective positions. The long ceremony being now concluded, the Installing Principal pronounced the Benediction. After the discharge of some routine business an unanimous vote of thanks was passed to Comp. Bowes for the able and impressive manner in which he had rendered the ceremony. The proposer said this was the third time Ex. Comp. Bowes had journed from Warrington to assist them in a matter in which they could not help themselves, and every member of the Chapter felt under deep obligations to him for his great kindness. Comp. Bowes, in response, said that it afforded him very great pleasure to come amongst them annually and set them going, as it were, for another year. On the occasion of his next visit he would arrange to stay longer in Wigton, and during his stay direct some Chapters of Instruction. The Chapter was then closed, and the Comps. adjourned to refreshment, which was excellently served, and presided over by the newly installed Principals, Ex. Companions Pearson, Hoodless, and Lazonby, supported by others before named and the various members of the Chapter. After the cloth was withdrawn, the usual Royal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, after which the following toasts were drunk:—"The Principals," "The P.Z.'s," "The Installing Principal," &c. The proceedings were much enlivened by some excellent songs from the newly installed S.E. Comp. Cradwick, who accompanied himself. A very pleasant evening was brought to a close at eight o'clock.

Chapter of Prosperity, No. 290, Huddersfield.—The first regular convocation of this Chapter for the present season was held at Freemasons' Hall, South Parade, on Wednesday, November 19th. The Chapter was opened punctually at seven o'clock, the business being the Installation of Principals and Investment of Officers. There were a great many members of the Chapter present, amongst whom we noticed Comps. J. W. Turner Z., Allen Haigh H. (Z. elect), William Smith P.Z, John Rhodes P.Z., William Harrop P.Z., Joshua Lee P.Z., W. G. Dyson P.Z., Farrer (J. elect), W. Schofield P.Z. The Visitors were—E. Comps. Henry Smith P.Z. P.G.S.E., and Dore P.Z. P.G.D.C., who were very warmly received by the companions. The ceremony of Installing the Principals was performed by Comp. Harrop in a masterly manner; at the same time very impressively Comp. Haigh the new Z. invested his Officers, as follows:—B. Hutchinson P.Z. Treasurer, Wheawill S.E., Brierley P.S., Dyson A.S. (We did not gather the names of the other A.S. or S.N.) Smith P.Z. Janitor. A certain amount, as per proposition, was then voted to the Bentley Shaw Presentation Fund; and this being all the business on the summons, the Chapter was closed, and the companions adjourned to the banquet room, where refreshment awaited them in the shape of a good supper, excellently served. Afterwards the usual toasts were proposed and responded to. Unfortunately, Comp. Henry Smith P.Z. P.G.S.E. could not stay long, having to return to Wakefield. Before leaving, he expressed the great pleasure he had derived from visiting the Chapter, and the impressive and able manner in which the business had been conducted. The wish of the companions was that he would soon visit them again. Comp. Dore P.Z. is almost a constant visitor at this Chapter, and, we may add, always welcome, and we hope to meet him many times on similar occasions.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The usual weekly meeting of this Chapter of Improvement was held on Tuesday evening, 25th Nov., at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, and was, as usual, attended by some eminent Arch Masons. The business transacted was the rehearsal of the ceremony of exaltation, and the offices were filled by the following Companions:—W. H. Lee Z, F. Brown (the able Preceptor) H., J. Wyer J., J. C. Goldsmith P.S., and G. P. Gillard the candidate. The following Companions were also present:—H. Thompson, W. Grist, J. High, F. Brasted, A. H. Lilley, S. W. Webb, H. F. H. Burchell Herne, G. L. Walker, and J. B. King. The ceremony of exaltation was most perfectly rendered by Comp. Lee, who was supported by Comps. Brown and Wyer, and seldom in any regular Chapter are the duties of the important office of P.S. so efficiently performed as they were by Comp. Goldsmith, in this probationary school of the degree. Propositions were afterwards made, and Comps. J. B. King of 1489 and H. F. H. Burchell Herne of 404 were elected members of this Chapter of Improvement, and they severally returned thanks for their election. The Chapter was then closed, and adjourned until Tuesday evening, 2nd Dec., at half-past six o'clock.

BEACONSFIELD LODGE OF MARK MASTER MASONS, No. 205.

THE installation meeting of this Lodge was held at the Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow, on Saturday, 15th instant. Present—Bros. J. Pinder P.M. as W.M., W. C. Claridge S.W., D. Dewar P.G.M.O. as J.W., W. G. Hallows M.O., J. Franklin S.O., Frederick Hallows Secretary, J. H. Cambridge J.D., G. J. Westfield as I.G., T. Upward Organist, and the following brethren, viz.:—Bros. Fred. Binckes G.S., G. Graveley, R. T. Williams, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last Lodge and audit meetings were read and confirmed. Bro. F. Binckes then occupied the chair, and Bro. W. C. Claridge, the Master elect, was presented, and obligated. A Board of Installed Mark Masters was formed, and Bro. Claridge installed as W.M. for the ensuing year. On the brethren returning to the Lodge, the W.M. was presented to them by Bro. Binckes, and saluted according to ancient custom. The W.M. immediately proceeded to invest his Officers as follows, viz.:—Bros. W. Groome S.W., W. G. Hallows J.W., T. Franklin M.O., J. Bodkin J.O., Fred. Hallows Sec., J. H. Cambridge S.D., George Graveley J.D., G. J. Westfield I.G., T. Upward Organist, R. T. Williams D.C., the remaining offices being left vacant until next Lodge meeting. After the Officers had been invested and conducted to their positions in the Lodge, Bro. Binckes delivered a very able and impressive charge to them all, upon the important duties they had undertaken, and the manner in which it was expected they were to be carried out. Lodge was closed and adjourned until the 7th February 1880. The brethren afterwards partook of an excellent banquet, presided over by the W.M. In response to the toast of the Grand Officers Bro. Binckes replied, and to that of the Visitors Bro. Broadley the P.G.M.M.M. of Tunis and Malta responded. Amongst the Visitors present were:—Bros. Broadley P.G.M. Tunis and Malta, D. W. Verry P.M. 104, and S. Wharman No. 173, &c.

Close, D.L., M.P., &c., Dumbanagher Castle, representative in Ireland of the United Grand Lodge of England, assisted by his Officers and a fairly representative assembly from various Lodges of the Province. The Secretary read letters of apology, intimating pressing business as a reason for non-attendance of some members, and also the minutes of last meeting at Dundalk, which were confirmed. The chief business on the agenda paper being the installation of the Officers for 1880, the following brethren were then introduced, and installed by the Grand Master, who suitably addressed each on their respective duties:—Very Worshipful Thomas Falloon, Lurgan, Grand Senior Warden, V.W. 7. REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.

To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

The Board of General Purposes deeply regret to have to lay before Grand Lodge the resignation of Brother John Hervey, who since August 1868 has filled the very important office of Grand Secretary. At their meeting in October, leave of absence on account of severe ill health was given by the Board to the Grand Secretary until 3rd of December following, being the date of the ensuing Quarterly Communication, and the hope was entertained that this relief from active duty might be productive of satisfactory results. This hope has however proved fallacious, and under the advice of his medical attendants, Brother Hervey states that there is no alternative before him but to resign the office he has, in the unanimous opinion of the Board so honourably and usefully held, and in this view the Board in whose charge it is to recommend to Grand Lodge whatever it shall deem necessary or advantageous to the Craft, unanimously recommend that on his retirement from Office Brother John Hervey be granted a retiring pension of £800 a year, being the full amount of his Salary.

The Board further report that their attention has been called to a constantly occurring breach of the following clause in the "Alterations made by command of the MOST WORSHIPFUL GRAND MASTER, in the mode of wearing the Charity Jewel, communicated to Grand Lodge, 7th June 1876," viz.:—

> "No Charity Jewel, Clasp, Ribbon, or Rosette shall be obtained except through the Office of the Grand Secretary, to whom the Secretaries of the respective Institutions shall, after their respective Annual Festivals, hand lists of the names of the brethren entitled to the jewel or decorations herein before authorised," and they recommend that a copy of such clause be sent to the W.M. of every Lodge under the English Constitution; and further, that it be distinctly intimated that Charity Jewels obtained since the 7th June 1876, otherwise than through the office of the Grand Secretary, are improper, and not to be worn.

(Signed) JOHN B. MONCKTON,
President.

Freemasons' Hall, London, W.C.
18th November 1879.

To the Report is subjoined a Statement of the Grand Lodge Accounts, at the last Meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 14th day of November instant, shewing a Balance in the Bank of England of £3802 1s 7d; and in the hands of the Grand Secretary for Petty Cash £75, and for Servants' Wages £96 15s.

The President will then move:—

1st. That the Report be received and entered on the Minutes.

2nd. That the resignation by Brother John Hervey of the Office of Grand Secretary be accepted, with sincere regret.

3rd. That in consideration of the very distinguished services rendered to the Craft by Brother John Hervey, during his tenure of the Office of Grand Secretary, he be granted a retiring pension of £800 per annum, being the full amount of his present salary.

4th. That the other recommendations contained in the Report of the Board be adopted.

8. Appeal of Brother Joseph Pallot P.M. of the La Cesarée Lodge, No. 590, Jersey, against the decision of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Jersey, affirming his (Brother Pallot's) resignation as a member of the La Cesarée Lodge.

N.B.—The papers relating to this appeal will be in the Grand Secretary's office till the meeting of Grand Lodge, and open for the inspection of the Brethren during office hours.

9. Proposed Motions.

1. By Bro. James Stevens, P.M. No. 720.

That, in pursuance of a resolution of the Grand Lodge, passed at the Quarterly Communication held on the 1st day of December 1869, and confirmed at the subsequent meeting held on the 2nd day of March 1870, as follows, viz.:—

> "That, with a view to securing greater uniformity of working, and observance of the same usages and customs, throughout the several Lodges held under the authority of the Grand Lodge of England, a Committee of Past Masters be appointed to enquire into the merits of the respective systems of working now in practice, and to report to Grand Lodge thereon, with such recommendations as they may think necessary to prevent deviation from the established mode, such deviations being, according to the constitutions of Freemasonry, improper, and not to be justified or countenanced," such Committee be now appointed.

2. By Bro. John M. Clabon P.G.D., President of the Lodge of Benevolence.

That the following additions be made to the Book of Constitutions, Fund of Benevolence:—

17. Until Grand Lodge shall otherwise direct, one-third of the annual surplus of the Fund of Benevolence shall be appropriated for the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and another third for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, in forming funds for apprenticing the children of Freemasons who have been in those Schools, or in otherwise assisting them to commence life.

18. Such one-third parts respectively shall be invested in the names of four Trustees for each School, to be appointed by Grand Lodge, and the dividends paid to the Treasurer of each School.

19. The General Committee, on the recommendation of the House Committee of each School, may apply the dividend of the funds respectively appropriated to the School for the benefit of children who have been at the School during the preceding twelve months, in apprenticing them to any business or profession, or otherwise aiding them to obtain employment, or in applying any sum granted by annual instalments for a limited period for the benefit of those proceeding to any School, College or University.

20. No sum exceeding £25 shall be appropriated for the benefit of any child without the consent of the Quarterly Court of the School; and such Court shall render to Grand Lodge an annual account of the receipts and expenditure on account of the said fund.

That the Constitutions, No. 3 Fund of Benevolence, be amended by adding, after the word "shall" on the second line, the words "except as provided for by clause 17, 18, 19, and 20."

SPECIAL GENERAL COURT OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

A SPECIAL General Court of the Governors and Subscribers of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held last Saturday, at the Freemasons' Hall. There were present:—Bros. Lieut.-Col. John Creaton J.P. Treasurer and Trustee (Chairman), A. F. A. Woodford, James Peters, Herbert Dicketts, Henry Venn, Thomas Masser, H. A. Dubois, H. Massey, John A. Rucker, E. Letchworth, J. Sampson Peirce, S. Rawson, Griffiths Smith, Charles John Perceval, F. Binckes, John Wordsworth, George Kenning, Arthur E. Gladwell, and F. R. W. Hedges (Secretary). The Chairman said that the meeting was called for the purpose of considering a recommendation of the Building Committee, that the sum of £6,500 be expended in the purchase of Lyncombe House and grounds (freehold), the property of William Evill, Esq., adjoining the grounds of the Institution at St. John's Hill, Battersea Rise. The Institution had not too much open space at Battersea Rise. The adjoining lands were not yet built upon, but if such a state of things should happen the School would be very much hemmed in. They had now the opportunity of purchasing a very large house and a piece of ground adjoining the School lands, and it would only require the removal of a wall to make the two grounds one. If the property was not bought by this Institution the present owner would build upon it. The ground attached to the house was over three-quarters of an acre. The motion having been seconded by Bro. H. A. Dubois, Bro. Venn enquired whether the price was not very high? He had taken the opportunity to ask an experienced man what the value of the property was, and he learned that the price asked was £1,000 too much. He asked these questions in the interest of country brethren who could not come to town to attend these meetings. The Chairman said the Committee believed that in taking the property they were taking what would be of very great value. The house was a large one, and could be made a probationary school, which would enable the Institution to take in an additional number of girls. It possessed also the advantage of giving the Institution an entrance in the main road near the railway station. He thought the property was worth to the Institution anything they could pay for it. Bro. Herbert Dicketts and Bro. J. S. Peirce having spoken in favour of the purchase, the motion was put and carried unanimously, and a vote of thanks to the chairman brought the proceedings to a close.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

THE monthly meeting of the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Thursday afternoon, at Freemasons' Hall, when there were present Bros. Col. Creaton Grand Treasurer (in the chair), H. A. Dubois, A. J. Duff Filer, Griffiths Smith, H. Massey, R. B. Webster, E. Letchworth, Edward Cox, Joshua Nunn, F. Adlard, Andrew I. Suter, and F. R. W. Hedges (Secretary). After reading and confirmation of the minutes, the brethren conferred the title of Assistant Matron on Miss Shepherd. A notice of motion was given by Bro. Joshua Nunn for increasing the salaries of the Head and Assistant Governesses, in consequence of their largely-increased duties by the greater number of children now in the Institution. Bro. E. Cox requested the attention of the brethren to the fact that the fees of several of the Stewards of the last Festival of the Institution remained unpaid for some months after the Festival. Consequently he, as Treasurer of the Board of Stewards, would not be able to pay the Tavern and other bills off finally till five months from the Festival had elapsed. He suggested that some means should be taken to avoid such a state of things in future, which he looked upon as a scandal to the Craft. Some petitions were then taken, and the candidates placed on the list. The Committee then adjourned.

The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed. Mr. W. A. Wetherhead was ballotted for and elected. Bro. A. Wheatley, a candidate to be passed to the second degree, proved his efficiency in a very satisfactory manner, was entrusted, and retired. Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Wheatley was passed. The Installing Master, Bro. Moxhay P.M. now entered the Lodge, and the W.M. resigned the chair in his favour, at the same time introducing Bro. John Early Danks as his successor. The ceremony of installation was performed in Bro. Moxhay's usual correct and impressive manner. The W.M. having received the salutations of the members and visitors in each degree, the appointment and investment of Officers took place, each Officer receiving an extempore address from the W.M., which heightened the impression, and gave a dignity to the investiture. Afterwards the W.M. placed a handsome P.M.'s jewel on the breast of the I.P.M. Bro. Flanagan, which jewel had been unanimously voted by the Lodge "for services rendered during his year of office, and as a mark of the esteem in which he is held by the brethren," accompanied with a few congratulatory remarks on his successful year of office, and expressing the hope that with his valuable assistance the current year would prove not less satisfactory to the members. The I.P.M. appropriately returned thanks for the handsome present, and for the uniform kindness he had received while presiding over the Lodge; he also stated that he would have pleasure at all times in assisting the new Master if required. The W.M. announced that it was his intention to represent the Lodge at the next Festival of the R.M.I.G. by acting as Steward; he hoped the brethren would render him every assistance in making his list of contributions creditable to the Lodge and the Province of Berks and Bucks. Several names were proposed and seconded as joining members and initiates. The labours of the evening being ended, the Lodge was closed. The brethren retired for refreshment to the Ship Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was provided by Bro. Bailey, to which between 50 and 60 brethren sat down. The W.M. ably presided, supported by a large number of his friends, many of whom travelled from London to do him honour. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to in an enthusiastic manner. The brethren separated at a reasonable hour, after spending a truly enjoyable evening.

ALBERT VICTOR LODGE, No. 1773.

THE first Anniversary and Installation Festival of this young and promising Lodge was held at the Town Hall, Pendleton, on Friday, the 21st inst. Present—Bros. S. Statham W.M. P.P.G.Tr., who very satisfactorily performed the duties of Installing Master, John Lees J.W. and W.M. Elect, A. H. Allen P.M. Acting S.W., J. Harrop P.M., E. Williams P.M., T. H. Bagshaw P.M., John Brooks P.M., D. Asquith Secretary, William Slater Treasurer, E. Winterbottom S.D., J. Almond J.D., W. Hardcastle I.G., Bros. John Statham, J. Moffatt, Thos. Hewitt, George Crossfield, W. Oldham, Thomas Kay, &c., &c. Visitors—Bros. Thomas Entwisle P.M. P.P.G.S. of Works, Gillman P. Prov. G.S.D. West Lancashire, Powers W.M. 325, Bayley, Eldershaw P.M., Rev. J. Harper W.M. Victoria Eccles, Rev. J. Baines, and Bro. Bernhard. The Lodge was opened in due form and with solemn prayer, and after the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and confirmed the W.M. proceeded to instal, according to ancient custom, Bro. John Lees as W.M., in which he was ably assisted by Bros. John Brooks P.M. and D.C., Harrop P.M., and Gillman P.M. P.P.G.S.D. The appointment and selection by the W.M. as his officers gave general satisfaction, and were as follows:—Bros. D. Asquith S.W., E. Winterbottom J.W., W. Hardcastle Secretary, William Slater Treasurer, W. Almond S.D., Oldham J.D., and John Statham I.G. The investiture of the Officers by Bro. Gillman P.M. was marked by the very interesting manner in which he explained the moral and symbolical teachings or meanings of the several jewels attached to each office. The proceedings were closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned for a short time to allow of the Lodge-room being set out for the banquet, which was supplied by Mr. and Mrs. Penwarden, of the Hare and Hounds Hotel. The excellent character of the repast, and the admirable and tasty arrangements for the comfort of the brethren, called forth unqualified praise and satisfaction from all present. The W.M. very neatly proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. In response to that of the Provincial Grand Officers, Bro. Entwisle replied that although that was his first opportunity of visiting the Albert Victor, yet he had frequently heard of the excellent way in which the Lodge was conducted, and from his intimate acquaintanceship of Bro. Statham he felt sure they had had a W.M. who could not fail to afford both interest and profit to any Lodge. Bro. S. Statham I.P.M., in proposing the toast of the W.M., said the next toast was one which, he was sure, they would have as much pleasure in responding to as he had in proposing. It was that of their newly-installed W.M., Bro. John Lees. There could be but one feeling amongst them,—that Bro. Lees had well and deservedly earned that honour, for his many excellent qualities and the great interest he had taken in the Lodge; and it must add greatly to the gratification of their W.M. to know that he had been elected to the distinguished position by the unanimous suffrages of his brethren, accompanied with their hearty congratulations and sincere wishes that he might enjoy a most happy and prosperous year. Although the position of W.M. is one of considerable responsibility, yet as a proof of the esteem and confidence in which he is held by his brethren, and the highest honour which it is in the power of the Lodge to give, it is one of which any loyal Freemason may justly feel proud; and he felt sure the W.M. will fill the chair with credit to himself and honour to the Lodge. He sincerely trusted that at the termination of his year of office he might leave the chair with the consciousness that the Lodge was in a satisfactory and prospering condition. He felt persuaded that the brethren, one and all, would support the W.M. to the utmost of their power; the position is often a difficult and responsible one, and happy is he who, in the administration of its duties, can please every body, but while we claim the privilege of being Masons, we must do our duty in supporting the authority of the chair; depend upon it by so doing we shall best promote the happiness and prosperity of the whole Lodge. The W.M. returned his warmest thanks to the I.P.M. Bro. Statham for the kind terms in which he had placed the toast before them, and the hearty manner in which it had been received by the brethren; the pleasure it afforded him was all the greater when he knew their good wishes were sincere. The position in which they had that day placed him was, as Bro. Statham remarked, one of great trust and honour, and one calculated to inspire the aspiration of all true Masons, but at the same time it was a position not to be by any means lightly undertaken; it had its responsibilities as well as its pleasures, and he had several times questioned himself whether he had arrived at that stage in Masonry which justified him in acceding to the cordial request of his brethren to undertake its duties, but when he reflected that it was their unanimous wish, he thought it was time to put away personal feelings, and with the co-operation he felt he should receive at their hands, faithfully endeavour to do his best. He then called upon the brethren to drink to the health and prosperity of the I.P.M. Bro. Statham, to whom, he said, their hearty thanks were due, not only for the pleasant manner in which he had conducted the business of the Lodge during the past year, but for the very many services done by him in obtaining the charter twelve months ago. They were justified in looking upon him as one of the most active pioneers of the Lodge, and those who understood duties in a smaller degree in connection therewith would readily understand and realise the amount of work which had been so successfully undertaken by him. But as words and acts sometimes faded away from memory and sight, the brethren had desired that their appreciation of those acts should be conveyed to him in a more tangible form, and he had on his own and their behalf the greatest possible pleasure in decorating him with a P.M.'s jewel, accompanied with an illuminated address, so that not only himself but his family and friends might be aware of the esteem in which he is held by his brethren of the Albert Victor Lodge. Bro. Statham, who seemed considerably embarrassed, and spoke at first with evident emotion, rose to respond, and was greeted with the enthusiastic cheers of his brethren. He was greatly taken by surprise with this practical expression of their kind appreciation and esteem, but he was quite at a loss to find words suitable to respond to the toast which had been proposed in such kind terms by their W.M., and so enthusiastically received by them all. If what he should say in return but inadequately expressed the depth of his feelings, he trusted that the brethren would not consider that his imperfect speech represented that he was insensible to their kindness. Although he did expect that, in accordance with the custom on these interesting and festive occasions, his health would be proposed, he had not the slightest conception that the feelings of the brethren would be thus so practically expressed. While, on the one hand, he was greatly taken by surprise, yet, on the other, he felt deeply gratified to be thus honoured and respected. As the W.M. had been pleased to remark, he had, as a true Mason, endeavoured to be true to the principles of the Craft and conserve the best interests of the Lodge, which was his duty; but beyond that, he was not aware that he had done anything more to merit this special mark of their high esteem. However, he gratefully and thankfully accepted it, and assured them that whenever he looked upon it he would not only be reminded of the distinguished honour they placed upon him when he was installed the first W.M. of the Albert Victor Lodge, but also of the very gracious way in which they had acknowledged their appreciation of his services upon completing his year of office, and in making way for one whom he trusted would occupy that proud position far more efficiently than he had done. Whatever services he may have rendered during the past year had been altogether prompted by his love to the Craft and the noble science of Freemasonry; also from a sincere desire to render any assistance in his power to a number of truly worthy brethren whom he greatly respected and esteemed, who were most anxious to establish a Lodge in that neighbourhood. He sincerely trusted he had been of some little service to them; if so, he considered that out of that alone he received an ample reward. He would say to the brethren—

"All the thanks that I require Is that you ask for more."

Twelve months ago, the inauguration or founding of the Albert Victor Lodge seemed to him like the launching of a noble Craft—and a noble Craft it was. The launching day was most auspicious, one long to be remembered, and gave promise of a safe and prosperous voyage. Her first voyage was now safely completed, and their vessel well-tested. As they looked back upon the past the brethren might congratulate themselves upon the success and happiness they had enjoyed. It was no small satisfaction to know that the Lodge was now firmly established. Having laid the foundation well and truly, it remained with them now to build up a stately, imposing, and comely structure. They might, if they would, make this structure a sanctuary, a school, and a home—a sanctuary where, by their constant study of the beautiful principles of the Craft, they should culture their higher and better natures;—a school, where, by their constant interchange of thought, they should educate their minds; and a home, where, by their constant meeting together, they should promote the social virtues. He could not forbear here from expressing his great indebtedness to the Past Masters and all his Officers for the cordial support and assistance he had uniformally received from them; and he might just say that if in presiding over the Lodge he had given any offence, or caused any brother to feel uncomfortable in any way, it had been done inadvertently, and not intentionally, but for the good of Masonry. It was no small gratification for him to know that there are so many able and experienced brethren in the Lodge: that to him presaged a most happy and prosperous future. Before bringing his remarks to a close, he should like to add that if their Lodge was to be successful, the brethren must most earnestly cultivate and do everything to promote a kindly, brotherly feeling, knowing that the happiness of the Lodge was in their hands. It would certainly be what they made it. He felt fully persuaded that the brethren would one and all set their faces against that narrow, unworthy principle that centres in self, remembering "that man was not born for his own enjoyment alone," and that there is no joy on earth so pure and refining as the joy of contributing to the happiness of others. In the language of that beautiful address, so admirably delivered that evening, by Bro. Past Brooks, they must have but one aim in view—to please each other, and unite in the grand design of being happy. They must be living examples of virtue and benevolence; they must be living incarnations of all that is worthy, excellent, noble, and good; they should then, and only then, demonstrate to the world that they are true to the great and noble principles of their sublime Craft. Let the brethren live in these principles, and then shall the words of the poet be applicable:—

Peace to the just man's memory, let it grow
Green with years, and blossom through the flight
Of ages; let the mimic canvass show
His calm, benevolent features; let the light
Stream on his deeds of love, that shunned the sight
Of all but heaven, and in the book of fame
The glorious record of his virtues write,—
And hold it up to man, and bid him claim
A palm like his, and catch from him the hallowed flame.

Bro. Joseph Harrop P.M., in proposing the Visiting Brethren, remarked that it was one of the privileges of the Craft to give the right hand of fellowship to, and to welcome to the hospitable board brethren not only from our own country, but from every other country in the world. And as an instance of the universality of the Craft he might draw attention to the presence of Bro. Bernhardt, from Hamburg, who would doubtless bear to his own country a favourable impression of his Masonic brethren in England. Bro. Bernhardt briefly replied, expressing great pleasure with his visit to the Lodge, and the cordial reception he had received. Bro. W. Slater Treasurer, in a neat speech, proposed the Masonic Charities, and expressed his delight on being re-elected to his office; and as an example to others, he notified his intention to give a second donation of £5 to one of the Institutions. Bro. Hardcastle Secretary proposed the Past Master, and Bro. Crossfield the toast of the Officers, which was responded to by Bro. Bagshaw P.M. and Bro. Asquith S.W.; but having already exceeded our limits, we are compelled to close our notice of this interesting meeting, but not without a well deserved compliment to the glee party, composed of the W.M., Bros. Almond, Moffatt, Harrop and Dale, all members of the Lodge, and who by their excellent singing of some fine glees and songs greatly added to the enjoyment of the evening. The illuminated address is in the form of a copy of a resolution that the thanks of the brethren of the Albert Victor Lodge be given to Bro. Samuel Statham P.M. P.P.G.Tr. for his valuable services in the formation of the above Lodge, and whilst filling the office of First Worshipful Master thereof; for his exemplary efforts to promote the success and diffusion of the principles of the Craft; and for his undeviating kindness to the brethren, not only of the Albert Victor Lodge, but of the Order generally; and that a copy of this resolution be presented to him, together with a Past Master's jewel, suitably inscribed as a testimonial of the respect and esteem in which he is held by his brethren.

FORT LODGE, No. 1528.

AT the celebration of the Festival of St. John, held on the 21st inst., Bro. Robert Martyn W.M. elect was installed in a very able manner by Bro. I.P.M. Boyle, who then appointed and invested the following as his Officers:—Bros. C. R. Bellingham S.W., W. B., Blee J.W., J. H. Hambly Secretary, R. Rowe S.D., A. Lawry J.D. R. Kendall I.G., J. Mitchell D.C., J. Morris and F. Snell Stewards, Wellington Treasurer, Carrivick Tyler. After the business of the Lodge was concluded, the brethren repaired to the Great Western Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was served up by the host, Bro. Roberts, and a very enjoyable evening was spent, in the course of which the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. The Lodge was favoured with the presence of Bros. W. Tomkin G.S. of Works, of Fowey Lodge 977, and J. T. Baker and G. Mellalue, of St. Andrew's 1151.

Constitutional Lodge of Instruction, No. 55.—A meeting was held on Tuesday, 25th November, at the Bedford Hotel, Southampton-buildings, W.C. Present:—Bros. Beeton 778, G. C. Pulsford 1593, T. E. Scott 771, F. H. Edmunds 8 A. Escott. Bros. Pulsford was elected W.M. for the next meeting. Lodge was then closed until Monday next at six o'clock. The brethren partook of the annual banquet, Bro. Joseph Langton P.M. 1673 occupying the chair. The excellent manner in which the banquet was served reflected great credit upon Bro. Harrington the steward of the Club.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.— Held at Bro. Maidwell's, Leadenhall-street, 25th Nov. Present:—Bros. Lay W.M., Moss S.W., Chicken J.W., Biddle S.D., Shadler J.D., King I.G., Roberts, Maidwell, Hollands, Daniel. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremonies of initiation and raising were rehearsed, Bros. Roberts and Daniel, respectively, candidates. Lodge was resumed to the first degree, and Bro. Moss was elected W.M. for the ensuing Tuesday. A vote of thanks to Bro. Lay for his proficiency in the chair, the first time in this Lodge of Instruction, was recorded on the minutes. Bro. Hollands was elected Secretary and Bro. Maidwell Treasurer for the ensuing year. Bro. Moss accepted the Preceptorship for the same term—a fact very gratifying to the members, as Bro. Moss is well known for his proficiency in ritual. This appointment will doubtless tend to make the "Prosperity" yet more prosperous.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at Bro. Fysh's, Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, on Saturday, 22nd inst. Present—Bros. Valentine W.M., W. Williams S.W., Brasted J.W., Pearcy Preceptor, Fenner Sec., Greenfield S.D., Spencer J.D., Mullord I.G., Halford Treas.; also Bros. D. Moss, Carr, Phillips, Giller, Byng, W. Houghton, Gibbs, &c. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Moss candidate. The W.M. vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Byng, who rehearsed the ceremony of installation, Bro. Valentine acting as W.M. elect. The ceremony was performed in a very impressive manner. Bro. Moss worked the first, Bro. Pearcy the second, Bro. Moss the third sections of the lecture. Bro. W. Houghton, of the Highgate Lodge 1366, was elected a member. Bro. W. Williams was appointed to preside at the next meeting. A vote of thanks was voted the W.M. for the efficient manner in which he had discharged the duties of the chair, for the first time. Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

High Cross Lodge of Instruction, No. 754.—The annual banquet in connection with this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 19th inst., at the Coach and Horses, Lower Tottenham, under the presidency of Bro. Geo. Burford, the W.M. of the Mother Lodge. Bro. J. H. Thompson P.M. occupied the vice-chair. About 40 of the brethren sat down to the excellent dinner provided by the host, Bro. Mattock, who, on these occasions, never fails to give a hearty reception to his guests. After the Loyal and Masonic toasts had been given, and the health of the President drank and responded to, the President gave prosperity to the High Cross Lodge of Instruction and health and happiness to its Officers. In the course of his remarks he said he was an old member of the Lodge, but had not attended so often as he could have wished; this he regretted, as he knew from experience that no one could discharge the duties of a regular Lodge with satisfaction to themselves unless they attended Lodges of Instruction. He recommended all young members to do so. With the toast he would couple the name of the Preceptor. Bro. Thompson, in reply, thanked the brethren for the hearty manner in which they had received the toast. He had held the position since the retirement of Bro. Driscoll, who filled it most ably from the time the Lodge was founded. To Bro. Driscoll he (Bro. Thompson) was indebted for the Masonic knowledge he had acquired. He felt honoured by the members so unanimously placing him in his position, and it would always be his earnest desire to promote the prosperity of the Lodge, and to contribute to its good working. Bro. Maller, the Treasurer, on behalf of the Officers, testified to the sound financial position of the Lodge, in which he took great interest. Bro. Garrod, the Secretary, remarked that since the time of Bro. Linzell, who was one of the founders; the Lodge had in no way degenerated; on the contrary, it had gone on increasing in numbers; a great many members attended regularly every Thursday evening, and if they conducted the business of their respective Lodges in the same manner he had witnessed some of them rehearse it, it would not only be a credit to themselves but also to the Lodge with which they happened to be connected. Bro. Oxley, the W.M. elect of the Enfield Lodge, No. 1237, replied to the toast of the brethren from the neighbouring Lodges. In his remarks he said, through attending this Lodge of Instruction he felt quite prepared to undertake the duties in regular Lodge which would shortly devolve upon him. The President, in proposing the toast of the Masonic Charities, read a letter from Bro. Terry, expressing his regret, through prior engagements, to be present that evening, he (the President) should therefore call upon Bro. Roberts to respond to the toast. Bro. Roberts said that charity was the very essence and basis upon which the present system of Freemasonry was worked. It could boast of three noble Institutions, that of the Aged Freemasons, the Boys' and the Girls' Schools; this Lodge, and those in the neighbourhood had not been behind in contributing to the Institutions. Soon after the Lodge was founded it formed a Masonic Charitable Association, which had become a great success, and was the means of sending up nearly £500. On the closing of this, about two years since, a second Association was formed, which was likely to prove even more successful than the first. Bro. Maller they were all pleased to see; he occupied a high position in this Association, and with Bro. Thompson as Treasurer and Bro. Garrod as Secretary, he trusted that the Association might be the means of sending nearly £1000 to the Institutions. After detailing the enormous expense of keeping them up to their present standard of efficiency, Bro. Roberts exhorted every member of the Craft, as far as they were able, to assist in supporting the Institutions. Bro. de Passe, of the Strangeways Lodge No. 1219, replied to the toast of the Visitors. Other toasts followed, and the harmony of the evening was greatly enhanced by some excellent songs and recitations. In fact, the time passed away so pleasantly, that the brethren did not separate until a late hour.

Royal Alfred Lodge of Instruction, No. 780.—The weekly meeting was held at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew-bridge, on Friday evening, 21st instant, at half-past 7 o'clock, Bro. Franckel occupying the chair, the Officers being Bros. Blasby S.W., Gomm J.W., Acworth S.D., Youens J.D., C. E. Botley I.G. There were also present Bros. J. C. Roe P.M. and Preceptor, Gunner Hon. Sec., Maton, J. Wotton, and N. Wotton. Lodge having been opened with due observance of antient custom, the minutes of the last meeting were read, confirmed, and signed. Bro. J. Wotton offered himself as candidate, and the initiation ceremony was rehearsed. Lodge was advanced, and Bro. N. Wotton passed to the second degree. Lodge was advanced to third, and regularly closed to the first degree, when the dues were collected and Bro. Blasby was unanimously elected to take the chair on Friday evening, 28th inst., at 6 o'clock (the occasion being the Lodge of Instruction Annual Banquet), to which day and hour, after Lodge was closed, the meeting was adjourned.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—Held at Bro. Smyth's, Sisters' Tavern, Pownall-road, Dalston, on Tuesday, 25th November. Present—Bros. Wardell W.M., Hand S.W., Christian J.W., Smyth S.D., Clark J.D., Greenwood I.G., J. Lorkin Sec., Smyth Treas., P.M. Wallington Preceptor; also Bros. Allen, C. Lorkin, Collins, Baker, Dallas, Brasted, Webb, Forss, Carr. Bro. Collins, a candidate for the second degree, was entrusted and passed. Lodge was opened in the third degree, and resumed to the second. The W.M. vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Wallington P.M., who rehearsed the ceremony of installation, Bro. Allen acting as W.M. and investing his Officers. Bro. Hand was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Lodge of Montefiore, No. 1017.—The regular meeting was held on Wednesday, the 26th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Air Street, Regent Street. Bro. J. Lazarus W.M., L. Salomons S.W., S. V. Abrahams P.M. as J.W., L. Jacobs Treas., E. P. Albert P.G.P. Hon. Sec., E. Ellis S.D., M. Levy J.D., Syers I.G., Simmonds D.C.; P.M.'s Grunebaum, V. M. Myers, W. H. Gulliford I.P.M., De Solla, &c.; the Visitors were Bros. Guttman, H. M. Levy P.M. 188, L. Lazarus, Benjamin, Wenheim, &c. Lodge was opened and the minutes of the former and an emergency meeting were read and confirmed. A ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. David Davis, who was duly initiated into the Order. Bro. Herrup was raised to the third degree. Both ceremonies were perfectly rendered by the W.M. and Officers. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. Lyon J. Salomons was unanimously chosen, a result that elicited loud applause. Bro. Salomons thanked the brethren for the honour conferred upon him. Bro. L. Jacobs was reelected Treasurer, and Bro. Smith Tyler. The election of a Committee for the Benevolent Fund, and for auditors took place. A candidate was proposed for initiation. Bro. W. H. Gulliford proposed a cordial vote of thanks to the W.M.; it was gratifying to witness the admirable manner in which he had performed the ceremonies. He would likewise propose that the usual sum be voted from the funds to present him with a jewel, for the efficient manner in which he had conducted the duties of the chair. This was seconded by Brother S. V. Abrahams, and carried unanimously. Two distressed brethren were relieved, and then Lodge was closed. The brethren afterwards sat down to light refreshment. This being an off night, the ordinary rule as to toasts was dispensed with, but the brethren present drank to the health of the W.M. elect, wishing him a happy and prosperous year.

Lord Warden Lodge, No. 1096.—A meeting was held on Friday, 21st November, at Lord Warden Hotel, Walmer. Present—Bros. John Laggett W.M., H. R. L. Botting S.W., J. E. Carpenter J.W., H. Abram Organist, W. Carterfield S.D., F. R. England J.D., W. Ryder I.G., S. Holgate Tyler; Past Masters—Bros. T. J. Usher Sec. P.P.G.Reg., Edwd. Kirby Treas.; Bros. S. Willey, J. E. Lawrence, R. N. Spratling, G. Band, T. Park, John Loughlin. The Lodge was opened in usual form to the third degree, and afterwards closed. The W.M. announced that the advancement of a candidate was unavoidably postponed in consequence of the Brother suffering from illness. Several matters in connection with the Lodge were discussed, and the after proceedings were of a pleasant and entertaining character.

Lodge of St. Mary, Bocking, 1312.—The annual festival of this Lodge was held on Tuesday, when the popular Secretary, Bro. Augustus Portway, was installed as W.M. for the ensuing year. The ceremony was impressively performed by W. Bro. Vero W. Taylor P.M. 1312 P.P.S.G.W. Essex, and at its close the respective Officers were appointed as follows:—Bros. W. Bright S.W., F. C. Lake J.W., Rev. H. L. Elliot Chaplain P.P.G. Chaplain Warwickshire, W. N. Tuffnell P.M. 1312 Treas., T. Malyn P.M. Sec., G. E. Elliott S.D., John Hutley J.D., W. F. Hasler I.G., W. Cook Tyler. At the close of the business the brethren sat down to banquet at the White Hart Hotel, the excellency of the viands and wines auguring well for the success of the new management. TAMAR INDIEN.

SPECIAL CAUTION.

OWING to the marked success of this medicine, the only patent medicine universally prescribed by the faculty, and the acknowledged cure for constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c., BASE IMITATIONS, containing drastic irritants, are being foisted on the public. The genuine preparation bears the title "Tamar Indien," and the signature E. GRILLON, Coleman-st., London, E.C. Price 2s 6d per box. In a recent case, 1876, G. No. 211, a perpetual injunction to restrain the defendant from applying the name "Tamar" to his lozenges was awarded, with costs, by Vice-Chancellor Bacon, on 19th January 1877, and all such piracies will be summarily proceeded against.—N.B.—See that the outer wrapper (directions) are printed in the English language and that each box bears the Government 3d stamp.

PARLEZ-VOUS FRANÇAIS?

MANY of whom this question is asked will say, I can read it and write it, but can't speak it. A neat little volume for the Pocket has just been published by an Ex-Inspector of Public Schools; all the most useful verbs as used in ordinary conversation are therein embodied, alphabetically arranged on an entirely new plan, and printed in large type in French and English, a most rapid system, indispensible to teachers and other persons teaching themselves the language. PROJECTED EXTENSION OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

HOW far the brethren of to-day are justified in pledging the liberality of the future generation of Freemasons, or that section of them who will be called upon to maintain the three existing Masonic Charitable Institutions, is a question which is treated far too lightly by the Craft at large, if indeed it ever receives a passing thought. At the present time, the expenditure on account of the Benevolent Institution and the two Schools is something like £40,000 per annum, and the continuous cry is for enlargement and extension of the benefits the Institutions afford. The need is indeed great, and we are gratified to find so strong a spirit prevailing in favour of increasing the number of grants; no one would be more pleased than ourselves to see all the candidates who crave for help relieved through the instrumentality of the existing Charities. However, as it is impossible to do more than a certain quantity of good with a limited amount of money, there is but one remedy—to increase the receipts. It is lack of funds alone that prevents all candidates being admitted to a participation in the benefits of the respective Institutions as time after time the day of election comes round. How to help? is a problem many would like to solve. Still, it must not be forgotten that the annual expenditure the three institutions are actually pledged to is a large sum to raise, and however much we may desire to relieve distress in the present, it behoves us also to look to the future. Except in the case of the Benevolent Institution, whose Asylum at Croydon—ample in every respect for all requirements—costs but very little to maintain, our Charities are burdened with large establishments which in themselves demand a considerable sum annually to keep up, and should at any time the donations from the Craft be reduced any considerable extent very little saving could be effected in this particular item. With the Benevolent Institution it is very different; only a small minority of the annuitants thereof being provided for in the regular establishment, the Committee would, if unfortunately they found the receipts so reduced as to prevent the maintaining of the existing number of annuitants, find it a comparatively easy task to lessen them, and however much such a course might be deplored, it would be far better than to continue a larger number at the risk of creating a deficiency which, if it once appeared on the balance sheet, might speedily increase, and perhaps take years to eradicate. It will doubtless be urged that the case of the annuitants of the Benevolent Institution is far different to that of the children of the Schools, the one being, generally, in a position to look after themselves, the others requiring continued supervision. The best answer we can give to this argument is to refer brethren to the laws of the Schools themselves, which specially provide "rules applicable to children clothed and educated out of the establishment," thereby at once demonstrating the feasibility of such a course, and producing a strong argument in favour of stopping the mania for increasing and enlarging the existing buildings.

As our readers are already aware, it is now proposed to spend six thousand five hundred pounds for the purchase of a house and three-quarters of an acre of ground adjoining the Girls' School at Battersea Rise. This step, be it remembered, will likewise largely increase the amount annually required for the School, that is, if the additional accommodation this outlay should provide is to be fully made use of. Taking the matter in its first objectionable phase—that it pledges the future generation to a still larger amount than they are at present committed to—we think the proposal should be rejected by a large majority. It is unfair to compel the Craft in years to come to subscribe a sum even equal to that raised at the present time, much less to call upon them to contribute more and more as year after year the Festivals come round. The spending of so large an amount as £6,500 in land and buildings should provide accommodation for very many more children than can be at present maintained, and, therefore, if the proposed amount is spent, we may expect the Craft to be continually called upon to exhibit renewed energy in order to enable the Committee to make use of the unoccupied space at their command. Even at the present time there are numerous brethren who think that children could be educated and clothed in their parents' homes cheaper than by taking them to the Schools; while some go so far as to state that the benefits those children would receive through being brought up in their own sphere would be much greater than is the case under existing circumstances. It is not at all unlikely that this view may, before long, become widely supported. Supposing that it does, and that, in the course of two years, those who advocate it find themselves in the majority, what would then become of the house and land now proposed to be purchased, and which must take considerably longer than that period to be fully developed? All these points have to be taken into consideration, and again we pronounce the Craft of to-day as steering a wrong course. In fact, the limits of propriety are exceeded when so much coincidence with the views of the present generation is expected from those who will be called upon to subscribe in the future. For ourselves we look upon the question in yet another form. We think that many Provinces and Lodges expect too much from the Institutions, and by skilful generalship, or outside influence some get considerably more than their share; that is if we take into consideration the value they receive compared with the amount of their donations. When members take sufficient interest in an orphan or an old comrade to secure an election to one or other of the Charities, they often think they have done their duty; so they have, if their donations to the Institutions have been consistent, and in proportion to the extent of their receipts, but they certainly have not if they had to go outside their own circle to secure all the necessary votes. We would ask a Lodge when they recommend a candidate for one or other of the Schools if they are prepared to prove their interest in the case by providing any part of the necessary items for the child's maintenance; whether, in fact, they would clothe the child if the Institution provided for other claims. If the members of such a Lodge consented, they would demonstrate beyond question their desire to exercise towards one of their own circle that greatest of all Masonic virtues—Charity. But if not, why should the Craft at large be called upon to do the whole task, a portion of which they in particular should certainly be expected to perform? We are not in favour of dispensing the benefits of the Institutions only to those who contribute to the funds, or of keeping an exact account against each section, but we like consistency. We think that many brethren who now take active interest in the welfare of the offspring of less fortunate members, would do more for their assistance if an opportunity was afforded, and therefore we are in favour of devoting a portion of the funds of each of the Educational Charities to the support of children outside the Schools. With a comparatively small outlay a vast amount of good could be done if this suggestion was acted upon, and more especially is this the case with Provincial candidates whose friends reside in the smaller towns, where education and the general necessaries of life are usually much cheaper than in the metropolis.

FREEMASONRY AND ITS ETYMOLOGIES.

By Bro. Jacob Norton.

LOOKING over the American Quarterly Review of Freemasonry I came across some very curious speculations about the etymology of Freemasonry. The Rev. Bro. S. G. Morrison, of Dublin, held it that "The word is derived from secrecy and exclusiveness observed in our Lodges. Every Lodge is guarded by a Tiler. It is supposed that he is armed. Formerly his protective weapon was a club, the old Latin for this is maca. It is the word yet in Spain; the meaning of maca is club or mace. The club is borne by corporate bodies, because, therefore, bodies of architects, including all trades necessary for effecting or carrying out their plans, preserve their secrets by deliberating within a closed or guarded Lodge—a Lodge guarded by the maca—mason was the designation of a brother," &c., &c. The above method of reasoning amounts to this: maca meant mace, and mace may be stretched into mason, hence, mason is of Latin origin.

Brother Rockwell quoted Mackey's Lexicon, "that the Hebrew word יסד, which the doctor pronounced 'masang'—'mason' signifies a stone quarry." Hence, as the y is sounded with a nasal twang, masa is sounded as masang, and masang sounds something like mason, and as masa or masang means a stone quarry, therefore Dr. Mackey concluded that mason was of Hebrew origin.

Bro. Rockwell, however, who also knew a little Hebrew, could not consent to Mackey's etymology. His own opinion was, "that the word Freemason antedates the exode of the Israelites." 'M. Champollian," says he, "furnishes a table of active participles which occur in the hieroglyphic inscriptions, as qualifying nouns; among these will be found the participle of the Coptic verb mai, to love, (represented in the hieroglyphic alphabet by a character which has been denominated a plow, and denoting the articulation M) qualifying the substantive ΣΟΝ son, "brother," also represented in the hieroglyphic alphabet by a character supposed to be some unknown tool in trade, which I take to be a chisel, or perhaps a seal or stamp. This combination, Coptic maison, expresses exactly in sound our word MASON, and signifies literally loving brother, that is, philadelphus, brother of an association . . . . to this Egyptian word . . . I am disposed to refer our word mason."

The above specimen of luminous reasoning traced the word mason to the Coptic; but as our word is freemason where does the prefix free come from? Our Bro. Rockwell will not have that freemason was derived from the word freeman, who alone was eligible for the privileges of the order. Oh no! Freemason, he says, is derived from an altogether different source, that is, that its origin is neither derived from freeman, nor from the Egyptian. Now what next?

"Mr. Layard, in a visit to Amadigah, a Chaldean Christian village of Kurdistan, represents the Albanian chief Ismail Agha as exclaiming, "we are all framasonns;" and in a note thereto, Mr. Layard explains that "framasonn" meant "freemason."

The above explanation by Mr. Layard, who ought to know best what the Kurdistan chief meant by the word framasonn, is not satisfactory to Bro. Rockwell. He cannot conceive it possible that an Albanian Christian should know a solitary English word: and especially so the word "freemason." Besides which, says Bro. R., Ismail Agha, said fra, instead of free; as if foreigners invariably give correct pronunciation when attempting to speak English.

It would fatigue the reader were I to quote more of Bro. Rockwell's patchwork combinations from the Coptic, Arabic, Hebrew, and other languages. Of course it is all superlative, transcendental and scholarly. But, upon my word, I can make neither head nor tail out of it. I must however transcribe the pith of his reasoning: he says, "The pronominal suffix to the third person plural in the ancient Egyptian was S.N. Writing with the radical prefix and suffix, we have phremes an in Coptic freemason, literally signifying the sun regenerated them, and symbolically meaning sons of light."

To which Bro. R. adds two Hebrew words, which indeed cannot be tortured to mean freemason, or to sound like freemason, but as the said two Hebrew words signify sons of light, it makes his analogy in his own estimation complete, and so he proves his point.

Bro. Nicolai, a friend of Lessing, shows, that he, as well as Bro. Lessing was puzzled about the etymology of masonry: he says, What is the meaning of freemasonry? Lessing says that masa in Anglo Saxon signifies a table. I do not know whether masa signifies a table, but I know that in Anglo Saxon maca denotes a companion, and I have found masonia only in the writings of the middle ages, as signifying a society of the table. . . . Here again, it is possible that the papers of Lessing might afford the necessary information, although the passage of Agricola, to which he refers, and which I have found, is anything but an ancient source; besides, messeney, as Agricola writes it, is not masonia. I think I have traced out an entirely different origin for this word. Massonya, in the Latin of the middle ages, is the same as clava, a club; but clava is also used for clavis, a key, and hence comes the word clavare, which denotes the right of entrance into a house, and of refusing entrance to another. But it will be seen that what we call in Germany a club, a privat or exclusive society . . . , is expressed in English by the same word club. Does this bring us back to our masonia, which has the same relation to the word club? It follows then, that masonia, or masonnia, signifies not only a society of the table, but an exclusive society—a club—such as the round table, and the etymology I have given here does not in any way contradict Lessing."

According then to these distinguished German masonic investigators, masonry was derived either from the Anglo Saxon or from the Latin, and by a little screwing and twisting they proved, from both sources, that "mason" denotes a society of the table.

The Historian' Bro. Fort claims, that the prefix free is a corruption from the French word frere, brother, and that frere-macon means brother-mason. Bro. Fort does not pretend that he had found "free-macon," in any French Masonic MS., but he merely imagines that whereas England was conquered by the Normans, Norman Masons must have brought that phrase into England, where it was corrupted into freemason.

That Lessing and Nicolai in the last century should have wandered into Anglo Saxon and Latin regions for the etymology of freemason is not so much to be wondered at, but that brethren writing within twenty-five years should have travelled so much out of the way for the origin of a word easily traced to the English language, would really astonish me, if I had not previously had to combat the fanciful notions of the same class of Masonic luminaries.

The Dictionary defines the word mason, "a builder in stone or brick." As to the etymology of the word mason, I care no more about it than I do about the etymology of the word carpenter, tailor, or any name of a trade. Suppose mason was derived from the French macon, then comes the question, Whence did the French get macon? Suppose from the Latin, then, whence have the Latins got it? know now that Speculative Masonry originated in England, and that And so we may go on and on, and not become wiser by questioning. We it was built upon the debris of the society of builders of the middle ages. These were at one time designated as masons, but afterwards they assumed the name of freemasons. I know that acts of Parliament debarred English masons from teaching their trade to bondmen. The two German Masons Constitutions, respectively dated 1452 and 1462, contain no clause about bondman, freeborn, or freeman. But I also know that the same statute debarred likewise all other artizans from taking a bondman as an apprentice. Now if the prefix free originated from freeman, then we ought to have had free-tailors, free-carpenters, &c., but the very fact that Masons alone appropriated the prefix free, and as I shall presently show that it was only part of the masons who were known as freemasons, we must therefore find another reason for the origin of freemason. But instead of hunting for that phrase in the Dictionaries of all the dead languages, and among all the dead gods and goddesses, I can more rationally trace it to Old England itself.

In 1875 I was led to expect that the age of the Halliwell Constitution might be ascertained from the English statutes. A lawyer kindly lent me the statutes, but they were mainly in the French language. And such French! Bro. Brenan, who translated Rebold's "History of Freemasonry" from the French, could not make out the said statutes. The Anglo-Norman French, in the days of Edward III., could scarcely be understood in France itself. Chaucer, in describing an English accomplished Lady Abbess, says—

> "And French she spake ful featously,
> After the School of Straford att Bow,
> For French of Paris was to her unknow."

However, I afterwards got hold of a copy, giving the French version in one column, and the English translation in the other, and here is the English version of a statute passed in 1350:—

"Item. That carpenters, masons, tilers, and other workmen of houses, shall not take by the day for their work, but in the manner as they were wont—that is to say, a master carpenter 3d, and another 2d, a master (freemason) 4d, and another mason 3d."

Finding "freemason" placed between parentheses, I looked to the French column for the reason, but instead of freemason, I found there "mestro mason de franche pere," which would read in English thus—"A master mason of freeston 4d, and another mason 3d." Here, then, we see that there were then two classes of masons,—the freeston mason and the mason. The word freemason was not born then. A statute in 1360 has the following:—"So that every mason and carpenter, of what condition, he shall be compelled by his master . . to do the work that to him appertain to do, or of freestone or of rough stone." On the French column it is—"Ou de franch pere, ou de gross pere." This defines the distinction between the said two classes of masons—viz., freestone and rough stone.

Mr. Halliwell refers to a statute passed in 1548, in the reign of Edward VI., when the parliamentary records were kept in English. "Allowing" (as he says) "freemasons to practise their craft in any town in England, although not free of that town," and, he adds, "This last mentioned statute is important as showing the recent application of the term freemason to those who practised the actual trade." And he further copied from an indenture dated June 5, 21 Henry VII., taken by Ashmole from the original archives of the Dean and Chapter of Windsor, as follows:—

"In the year 1506, John Hylmer and William Vertu, freemasons, were engaged to 'vault or doo to be vawlted with freestone the roof of the quere of the College Roiall of our Lady and Saint George, within the Castell of Wyndsore."

Mr. Halliwell then remarked, "A friend has suggested to me the possible connection between the terms freemason and freestone."

Now I will try to sum up the evidence. In the days of Edward III. there were two classes of masons—masons of freestone and masons of rough stone. The former received 4d a day, while the latter received only 3d. The translator of the statutes designated the former by the term freemason. As early as 1506 two masons undertook to vault a roof with freestone, and were designated in the contract as freemasons. And in 1548 an Act of Parliament allowed freemasons to work at their trade in any English towns, though not free of those towns. The inference therefore is, as suggested by Mr. Halliwell's friend, that there is a connection between freestone and freemasons. Freestone mason was merely abridged into free-mason.

The question here naturally suggests itself,—Why have freemasons received higher wages? and why was the privilege conceded to them of being allowed to work at their trade in towns of which they were not freemen?

P.D.G.M. Bro. Chas. Levi Woodbury, known here as Judge Woodbury, who, without exception, is the best generally well-informed brother among my Masonic acquaintances who travelled in Europe and visited the old churches, suggested a very good reason to my question. He told me that the stone ornamentations, statuary, and bas reliefs in the old churches, were generally wrought out of freestone. This kind of stone, he said, being soft, is therefore best adapted for that kind of work; hence the freestone mason required a higher degree of skill than the ordinary rough stone mason; the former was an artist, the latter an artizan, and that is the reason why the freemason received higher wages. Again, every town, doubtless, had among its freemen a sufficient supply of ordinary masons, but every town may not have had the best class of statuarists, or ornamental stonemasons, and we may readily imagine that when a church had to be built, or a nobleman's mansion, where some ornamental work was desirable, that superior craftsmen had to be brought to the town from other cities. The local freemen then, doubtless, raised a hue and cry about invasion of their "vested rights," hence we may account for the statute "Allowing freemasons to work in towns, although they were not free of those towns."

We have seen that there was no need to hunt through all creation for the etymology of freemasonry. The term freemason grew and matured on English soil, and in spite of the asserters of Masonic antiquity, we may rest assured that we are not only indebted to England for our Speculative Masonry, but that England is also the mother of Freemasonry in every sense of the phrase.

Boston, 11th September 1879.

METROPOLITAN HOTEL, FINSBURY.

ON Wednesday, 19th ultimo, a complimentary dinner was given at the Metropolitan Hotel, in honour of Bro. J. Pilson, who has recently undertaken the management of this establishment. There was a good attendance of brethren and personal friends of the host to do honour to the occasion, and everything passed off in a manner to render the evening a most enjoyable one. The chair was occupied by Colonel Chamberlain, and the vice chairs by Messrs. Hatch and Patterson. Bro. J. B. King supported the chairman, and among the other members of the Craft may be mentioned Bros. T. J. Muidwell, D. Jacobs, E. Aveling, Harper, Wilson, W. W. Morgan jun., &c.; Messrs. W. Dawson, J. Dawson, T. Norton, Marner, Captain Webb, Westley, Norton, Lieutenant Nettleship, &c. The dinner was well served, and reflected great credit on the establishment. At the conclusion of the repast, the Chairman proposed the usual loyal and patriotic toasts, Lieut. Nettleship being called upon to acknowledge that of the Army and Navy. Bro. Jacobs next proposed "Prosperity to the Metropolitan Hotel." He hoped those present would attend the Hotel on many future occasions, and do all in their power to render the management of Bro. Pilson a success. He was aware that many of those around him were personally acquainted with the capabilities of the establishment, but to such as were not, he desired to recommend their attendance on a future occasion, feeling sure they would then enjoy repetition of the first-rate catering they had witnessed that night. Bro. Pilson desired to thank his friends for the kind reception they had accorded the toast just proposed. He said he intended to do all in his power to make the Metropolitan Hotel a success, and briefly enumerated the various improvements he had made or contemplated making, especially referring to his intention to establish a grill room and table d'hote, both of which he hoped would meet as much success as he trusted they would deserve. He hoped to see all who were then present frequent attendants in the future. The Chairman proposed the Press, which was briefly acknowledged, and then Captain Webb called upon the company to drink the health of the Chairman. This done, the Chairman expressed his acknowledgments. The present was the first occasion on which he had ever presided at a festive board in Old England. One thing he had found wherever he had been, and that was that freedom always existed if the Anglo-Saxon tongue was spoken, this was forcibly impressed on him at one of the first dinners he attended after landing on English soil, some time since, when the chairman in proposing a toast, gave the following quotation:—

> "Here's a health to old honest John Bull,
> When he's gone we shan't find such another;
> Then, with hearts and with glasses brimfull,
> Here's a health to Old England his mother."

These were so entirely his sentiments that he could not help repeating the lines on the present occasion. Bro. King proposed the health of the Ladies, to which Mr. Bromley responded. The company then separated. The hotel, which is situate in South Place, Finsbury, has recently been re-decorated, and is now replete with every comfort. We heard a whisper that one of our most successful Lodges contemplate holding their future meetings under its roof, should the members decide on doing so, we may have further opportunity of testifying to the ability of the new manager Bro. Pilson.

THE ROSICRUCIAN SOCIETY.—A new College, under the title of "York" College, under the Rosicrucian Society of England, was, by authority of Fra. W. H. Woodman M.D. IX. Supreme Magus in Anglia, opened in York by Fra. C. F. Matier IV. Sup. Mag. in Scotia. Fra. T. B. Whytehead VIII. was afterwards installed as Chief Adept.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF LINCOLNSHIRE.

AN especial Prov. G. Lodge of Emergency was held at the Old Hall, Glindon, on Monday, 1st December, at 12.30, W. Bro. W. H. Smyth R.W. Provincial Grand Master on the throne. Lodge was opened in due form as soon as possible after the close of the P.G. Chapter. The hymn of Invocation having been sung to a new accompaniment by Bro. A. W. Lambert 588 P.G.O., the R.W. Prov. G.M. called attention to the business of the day, viz., the confirmation of certain alterations in the existing rules of the Prov. G. 2nd Benevolent Fund, and the additions thereto of certain rules respecting the "Oliver Memorial Fund," which had been drawn up by the present committee of the Prov. G. Fund of Benevolence. Proposed by W. Bro. W. Watkins 297 P.P.G.S. of W. and seconded by Bro. T. M. Wilkinson 297 P.G.S., "That the I.P.M. of each Lodge should in future be a member of the committee of the P.G.L. Fund of Benevolence, and share with the W.M. the voting power of the Lodge." For this proposition 32 voted against 15, and it was declared carried. The remainder of the revised rules were passed without opposition, and on the proposition of W. Bro. C. M. Nesbitt, seconded by W. Bro. A. P. Peacock W.M. 1386 P.G.S., were unanimously adopted. The requisite authority was given to W. Bro. W. H. Radley 838, P.G. Charity Secretary, to secure the purchase into the R.M.I.B. of two boys now on the Provincial List, viz., Alfred Thomas Cole (No. 1), and Phillipson Marshall (No. 13 on the October List of candidates for election). W. Bro. W. H. Sissons 1447 P.G.J.W. gave notice of his intention at the next Prov. Grand Lodge to propose, "That a fund similar to the 'Oliver Memorial Fund' be raised in this Province for the purpose of obtaining the admission by purchase of candidates for the R.M.I.G." This concluding the business, Provincial Grand Lodge was then closed in due form, and the Brethren and Companions adjourned to a luncheon in the magnificent banquet chamber of the Old Hall, where the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, the brethren separating at an early hour.

SOUTH AFRICA.

Peace and Harmony Lodge.—A regular meeting was held on 1st October, at Du Toit's Pan, South Africa. Present—Bros. Henry Hartog W.M., P. Van Ulsen S.W., J. Van Sombeek J.W., T. Van Sombeek Treasurer, B. Klisser Sec., J. B. King Preceptor, D. Avis Almoner, B. Kimper Architect, E. Garish Asst. Secretary; P.M.'s Bros. C. Sonnenberg and C. Roberts D.M., T. C. Maritz, P. J. Stoyn, E. B. Hoffmann, A. Yockmonitz, and J. C. Hefer. Visitors—Bros. J. Wolff Era 1423, W. R. Smith, Richard Giddy, E. Harris Sir Hugh Myddelton, W. Henderson 309, Alfred Turner, D. N. Defries Cosmopolitan 1409, J. Sweet British, G. Brown Globe 23, and C. Ashburner Charles Warren. The Lodge opened, and the minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed. Ballot took place for Messrs. D. J. De Vos and D. W. Van Bleck, who were duly elected as candidates for initiation, and Bro. C. Arburrow was elected a joining member. Bros. E. B. Hoffmann, Fred. C. Hefer and Abraham Yockmonitz were duly raised to the degree of M.M. The Lodge having been closed to the third and second degrees, the W.M. thanked the visiting brethren for their attendance, also Bro. D. Defries for his services at the harmonium. Labour being ended, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren departed in "Peace and Harmony." The pretty little Lodge at Du Toit's Pan, under the able control of Bro. H. Hartog, with his exceedingly effective working, bids fair to become "the" Lodge of the Diamond Fields. When the present Officers were elected the Lodge was heavily in debt; it has now paid off all liabilities, and has actually a balance in hand, whilst the thorough Masonic working is drawing numerous applications from brethren to become joining members. These tidings are most gratifying, and we heartily wish our brethren a continuance of prosperity.

DERWENT LODGE, No. 40.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In the report of the consecration of the St. Leonard's Lodge, No. 1842, which appears in your issue of the 29th ult., the V.W. D.P.G.M. for Sussex, Bro. J. Henderson Scott, is reported to have said, "That it was upwards of one hundred years since the Derwent Lodge was first established at Hastings."

I think this is an error, which is caused by taking the position the Lodge holds on the roll of G.L. As it is No. 40, it is generally supposed that it must be one of our oldest Lodges. Such, however, is not the case; the Lodge, under the G.L. Ancients, which was numbered 36, was established about 1755-6, and met in London, and it had ceased to exist for many years when the Derwent Lodge, No. 36 now 40 was established at Hastings, in 1813, the latter being a new Lodge, with a new warrant, placed in the position on the roll of the extinct Lodge; it was not a resuscitation of the old Lodge, or a warrant of confirmation. The first Lodge established at Hastings was informally under the G.L. Ancients; as it is the only authorised list published, it should be perfect.

For further information on Ante-union Lodges, I would direct those who take an interest in the same to a recent publication, entitled "A Numerical and Numismatical Register of Lodges which formed the United Grand Lodge of England," and which can be purchased of the author, Bro. J. W. Hughan, Truro, Cornwall.

Yours fraternally,

T. F. 56, 804.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

FESTIVAL OF ST. ANDREW.

THE Grand Lodge of Scotland met yesterday afternoon in Freemasons' Hall for the purpose of installing their Officers for the next year, and also to celebrate the Festival of St. Andrew. The business meeting was held at four o'clock, and was well attended by the brethren. Bro. R. W. Cochran-Patrick, Provincial Grand Master of Ayrshire, occupied the throne; while Bros. R. F. Shaw Stewart J.W., and James Caldwell J.G.D., acted respectively as Senior and Junior Grand Wardens. Grand Lodge having been duly opened, the Acting G.M. intimated that Sir Michael R. Shaw Stewart, Bart., had been relected as Grand Master. Intimation of this appointment was then made to the Grand Master Elect by a deputation, who conducted him into Grand Lodge, where he was informed of the election. Sir Michael intimated acceptance of office, and was thereafter installed with the usual ceremony, after which he thanked the brethren for re-appointing him to his high office. The Grand Master then took his seat, and installed the other Officers who had been appointed, so that the Grand Office-bearers for next year are the following brethren:—Sir Michael R. Shaw Stewart, Bart., G.M., The Earl of Mar and Kellie D.G.M., Col. A. C. Campbell, of Blythswood, Sub.G.M., The Lord Inverurie S.G.W., R. F. Shaw Stewart J.G.W., D. Murray Lyon G.Sec., David Kinnear G.Cashier, Rev. T. N. Wannop and Rev. W. C. E. Jamieson, B.A., Joint Grand Chaplains, The Earl of Haddington S.G.D., Jas. Caldwell, of Craigielea, J.G.D., William Hay G.Architect, F. L. Law G.Jeweller, Thomas Halket G.Bible-bearer, John Coghill G.D.C., H. Y. D. Copland G.Sword-bearer, C. W. Maxwell Müller G. After dinner, which was purveyed in good style by Bro. Daish, the tables were cleared, and the usual introductory Loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed from the chair, and duly honoured by the meeting. Lieut. Mott, of the Enniskilling Dragoons, replying for the army; Lieut.-Col. Campbell, for the militia; Capt. Hills, for the volunteers; and Bro. W. E. Dixon, Proxy Prov.J.G.D. of North-East York, and P.M. of Lodge Beverley 294 of the English Constitution, for the toast of "The Grand Lodge of England and his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales." Bro. Charles Dalrymple, M.P., then proposed the toast of "The Grand Master." In speaking to this toast he said they had to esteem their Master not merely as a loyal Freemason and in his capacity of Grand Mason, but in every other capacity. They knew the services which the Grand Master had performed for Freemasonry in Scotland, and they had it on the highest authority that never in its past days did Freemasonry stand as high in Scotland, or in as much prosperity, as at the present day. Referring to the presentation to Lady Octavia, at Ardgowan, on Friday, of a marble bust of the Grand Master, from the Freemasons of Scotland, Bro. Dalrymple said that that compliment had taken a form that he thought must have been of a very gratifying kind to the Grand Master himself; and that there never was a presentation which represented more a community and agreement of feelings. He saw that in his speech at the presentation the Grand Master had referred to his enforcement of discipline; but no one could fill the throne of Grand Lodge efficiently if he did not understand what discipline meant when he had to preside over the proceedings of such an important and numerous body. He concluded with an eulogium on the Grand Master, and called on the brethren to drink to his health. The toast was enthusiastically received, and was drunk with all the honours. The Grand Master, in acknowledging the compliment, said that it was no figure of speech to observe that he was very sensible of the kindness and the support he had received all along from Grand Lodge and the Masons of Scotland. He frankly confessed that at one time he felt great anxiety and difficulty in regard to Grand Lodge; but now these difficulties had been got over, and they enjoyed flourishing times. Thanks to the indefatigable efforts and continual exertions of their good friend, D. Murray Lyon, assisted to a high degree by the great attention paid by Grand Committee, and to the devotion to their duties which had been shown by the Finance Committee—he was very glad to say—and these were no mere after dinner words—that now Grand Lodge was successful in a financial point of view. In proof of this he found that the income of this year had exceeded that of last year by £600—and that the total income for this year up to Saturday last had been £5,089. He had every reason to believe that if things were carried on as they had been Grand Lodge would continue to enjoy a series of prosperous years. The Grand Secretary, he must say, was an admirable worker, and he was very glad to find and to know that there was now in Grand Committee no jealousy of one against another, but that they were working together as brethren in Masonry. The Grand Master next alluded to the presentation of his bust to Lady Octavia, and thanked the Freemasons of Scotland for the compliment, which he said had been enchanced, as their kindness was increased by the fact that the gift was not to him, but to her who received it. He concluded by thanking the brethren for re-electing him as Grand Master, and remarked that at the expiry of this his seventh year of office, he thought the time would have arrived when another Mason should be elected to preside over the Grand Lodge of Scotland—and who, he trusted, would be able and ready to lead her to increased usefulness, and to a great and glorious future. The toast of "The Foreign Grand Lodges" was proposed by the Substitute Grand Master and acknowledged by Bro. Mann, representative of the Grand Lodge of Sweden. Bro. R. W. Cochran-Patrick proposed "The Depute Grand Master;" and in replying, the Earl of Mar and Kellie referred to the presentation to Lady Octavia as a mark of esteem and affection, and expressed the hope that it would be a permanent present, and would be handed down to posterity. Bro. the Hon. F. J. Moncreiff proposed the toast of Lady "Octavia Shaw Stewart" in particularly felicitous terms. Bro. Moncreiff claimed for Lady Octavia that she had encouraged the Grand Master in the Masonic work he had done, and had gloried in its continued success. She had received no written token from Grand Lodge, but she had a token of a high character in the blessings of the poor people around Greenock who had partaken of her charity. This toast was acknowledged by the Grand Master, who, in referring to Lady Octavia's gratification with the bust, mentioned that it had been for several days on view to the people of the country surrounding Ardgowan, and that all were loud in its praises as a work of art and as a likeness. The health of the Substitute Grand Master was proposed by the Depute Grand Master, and then the deputations from Daughter Lodges were toasted in sections, and duly replied for by the brethren heading each deputation. Sir C. Farquhar Shand next proposed "The Provincial and District Grand Lodges," and in doing so referred to the prosperity of Scottish Masonry in Mauritius. The chairman then gave "The Grand Chaplains and other Office-Bearers of Grand Lodges," and spoke in high terms of the services of the Grand Secretary. This toast was replied for by Bro. T. N. Wannop, and the brethren then drank in silence to "The Memory of St. Clair of Rosslyn." Grand Lodge was thereafter closed in ample form. The dinner-party was enlivened by music supplied by Bro. Lanbach, and the toast-making was agreeably interspersed also with instrumental music and with several quartettes and part songs by a party of vocalists under Bro. Dick.

HILDA ROSE CROIX CHAPTER.

AT a meeting of this Chapter held at the Queen's Hotel, York, on Friday evening, Bro. C. J. Banister 33° S.G.I.G. presiding as M.W.S., Bro. T. B. Whytehead was unanimously elected Sovereign, and Bro. J. S. Cumberland Treasurer for the ensuing year.

ROYAL FREEMASONS.—Six sons of George III. were Freemasons, viz: the Prince of Wales afterwards George IV.; the Duke of York, the Duke of Clarence, now known as William IV.; the Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria; the Duke of Cumberland, who became King of Hanover; and the Duke of Sussex, George IV.; the Dukes of York, Kent, Cumberland and Sussex were active and zealous Masons. Of the above brothers, two, viz: the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Sussex, were Grand Masters in England, and a third was a Grand Patron of Masonry in Hanover. Of Bro. William's activity in Masonry very little is known, except that he honoured the grand Lodge of Scotland, when he became king, with becoming its Grand Patron.—Exchange.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

CITY OF WESTMINSTER LODGE, No. 1563.

THE regular installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, the 27th ult., at the Regent Masonic Hall, Air street, Regent-street, when the following Officers were present:—Bros. B. Phillips W.M., E. White P.M., B. Turner S.W., J. E. Shand J.W., B. Swallow P.M. Treas., E. J. Scott P.M. Sec., J. Hutchinson S.D., J. Waugh J.D., T. Murray James D.C., E. C. Woodward I.G. There was a full attendance of members, and several visitors, among the latter being Bros. R. Payne W.M. 1328, W. Coombes P.M. P.G.S.B. Middlesex, J. Edell I.G. 108, F. Green 1687, Matthew Crook 1614, T. Lewis W.S. 1472, F. A. Wiggins 160, A. Bassington W.M. 205, Geo. F. Hammond 1765, E. Farwig W.M. 180, J. W. Elvin 538, Louis Beck W.M. 1559, F. G. Baker P.M. 753, W. Carrington I.G. 1791, A. J. Mucklow 1584, J. A. Scarlett 276, J. Austen P.M. 753, R. Coad 1328, T. Simpson W.M. 1178, R. Callingham 1178, G. A. Watkins 1585, James Cronland J.W. 1687, W. T. Martin 1681, R. Emanuel 188, W. Grover J.W. 749, S. Wenkheim 1017, W. W. Morgan jun. 1385, H. Black 1728, H. Massey P.M. 619, T. W. Marler S.W. 1247, A. Boehr S.W. 1515, John Moore 548, Charles Wale 79, Henry Cross J.W. 586, Wallace Wells 1319, H. Harvey 1604, E. Bateman 180. The W.M. duly opened the Lodge, and called on the Secretary to read the minutes of the last meeting, which in due course were confirmed. The ballot was taken and found to be favourable for the reception of six gentlemen who were candidates for initiation. Five of them being in attendance were formally introduced and regularly initiated into Freemasonry—these were Messrs. Chas. Lena May, Alfred Strevens, Herbert Cloots, Edward Line, and Thomas Robert Wenn. Lodge was now advanced; Brother Past Master White took the chair, and Brother Benj. Turner the W.M. elect was formally presented for the benefit of installation. Being duly obligated, a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Turner was placed in the chair of K.S. in ancient form. On the re-admission of the brethren, he was proclaimed and saluted, and then appointed and invested the Officers for the ensuing year, as follows:—Bros. Shand S.W., Hutchinson J.W., Swallow Treasurer, Scott Secretary, Rev. P. M. Holden P.M. (named as) Chaplain, Waugh S.D., Emanuel J.D., Pratt I.G., Jones D.C., Hancock P.M. Steward, Potter Tyler. The report of the Audit Committee, which showed the Lodge to be in possession of a good balance, was next received and adopted; and this completing the business of the evening, the new W.M. proceeded to close his Lodge, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet room, where a first-rate dinner was served. At the conclusion grace was said, and then the W.M. proposed the usual toasts. In giving that of Her Majesty the Queen, he said that although Charity was the distinguishing characteristic of a Freemason's heart, Loyalty was also a prominent feature, and he felt assured the members would join him in drinking heartily the toast of the Queen, with which he coupled success to the Craft. The toast was enthusiastically received, and quickly followed by that of the Grand Master. H.R.H. had, the W.M. considered, greatly honoured the Craft by becoming its Grand Master, and, as Masons, he felt they could but honour the toast proposed in his favour. The Prince of Wales was always ready to do anything for the people of England, but especially was this the case as regarded the Masonic portion. The next toast—that of the Pro G.M., the Deputy G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers—the W.M. considered a most important one. It was a large and influential toast, almost as prominent as that of the Grand Master. This toast was followed by the duet "All's Well," sung by Bros. Wells and Cross, whose vocal abilities are well known, more especially in connection with St. Andrews, Well-street, where they take a prominent part in the choral services. Bro. B. Phillips I.P.M. now proposed the health of the W.M. The brethren who had witnessed the working of the W.M. in the various offices which he had filled, from Inner Guard upwards, were able to form a good idea of his capability for performing the duties which would now be required of him. Personally Bro. Phillips felt no doubt as to the result which would attend the labours of his successor. He did not think the brethren could possibly have done better than they had in electing the present Master to his proud position, nor did he doubt but that the Lodge would be greatly benefitted during Bro. Turner's term of presidency. After a song by Bro. Wallace Wells, the W.M. replied. He was exceedingly grateful to the I.P.M. for his remarks, and thankful to the brethren for the heartiness with which they had responded to the toast. He had been made most happy during the term of his connection with the Lodge, and felt grateful to the brethren for having placed him in the chair. He felt very proud of his position, and considered it a great compliment; he should endeavour to do even better for the Lodge in the future than he had in the past, and hoped his year of office might result as successfully as Bro. Phillips had predicted it would. The health of the Initiates was next given from the chair. The Master was especially pleased to welcome the five brethren who had been admitted to the benefits of Freemasonry during the evening. Each of them had expressed the pleasure he had experienced in being received into the Lodge. Bro. May was the first to respond, he briefly thanked the brethren for the kind way in which they had received him and had just responded to the toast proposed in his honour. Bro. Cloots expressed the great pleasure he felt in being elected a member of the noble society of Freemasons. He should strive to do his duty as a brother Mason. Bro. Strevens felt very delighted that he had been initiated into the ancient brotherhood. He should endeavour to promote its usefulness with all his ability. Bro. Wenn hoped he might never forget that he was a Mason, and ever act up to the lessons he had been taught that evening. Bro. Line thought it a great honour to become a Mason, and hoped he might never disgrace so grand an Order. The W.M. next rose. He felt they had now arrived at the joy of the evening. He saw a great many brethren around him who were members of other Lodges, and had on the present occasion honoured the City of Westminster by visiting and taking part in the work of the day. The guests were thirty-eight in number, to all of them he desired to tender, on behalf of the Lodge, the heartiest welcome. He hoped that throughout his term of office the Lodge would maintain its reputation for hospitality. Bro. Coombes, who was the first called upon to respond, considered it a very great honour to reply on behalf of so distinguished an array of visitors. The work he had witnessed that night had been admirable. Every year the Lodge seemed to progress, and when they took into consideration the class of men who had filled the chair, it seemed impossible for any other result to accrue. He concluded by hoping that every success might attend the Master during his term of office, and that the Lodge would continue to prosper in the future as it had in the past. Bro. Austin followed. There was no doubt in his mind but that visiting was one of the greatest privileges we enjoy. How and where he could find words to thank the W.M. and brethren was his great difficulty. He could only express the great pleasure he had enjoyed in witnessing the work performed in the Lodge. He trusted the Master might have ample work during the coming year. Bro. Farwig expressed his pleasure at witnessing the progress of the Lodge, it could but be a pleasure to every good Mason to see it. Bro. Beck also tendered his thanks. Bro. Payne was next called upon. It was a great pleasure to him to respond to the call. He was intensely gratified to see Bro. Turner in the chair. He knew him to be a good man and true. He congratulated him on the position he had attained in the Lodge. Bro. Baker also responded. The W.M. now proposed the toast of the Past Masters. Each one of them had acted during his respective year of office as they could wish every Master to act. Very few Lodges could boast of such brethren as they numbered among their Past Masters. Bro. White was one who never cared what trouble he put himself to if it was for the benefit of the Lodge. The W.M. had especially to thank him for the way in which he had that evening placed him in the chair. Bro. Holden was a good man and true. To hear him render a ceremony was a treat. As Chaplain of the Lodge he was especially entitled to the thanks of the members. Bro. Swallow was last, but certainly not least; as founder of the Lodge he had done wonders, indeed had it not been for him the Lodge would never have been in existence. A most important part of the duty of the Master at this time was to present to Brother Phillips the Past Master's jewel which had been unanimously voted by the Lodge. The W.M. had great pleasure in placing it on his breast. Brother Phillips desired to thank the brethren for the jewel they had so kindly voted him. During his year of office he had done his best for the City of Westminster Lodge, and so long as he lived he should endeavour to improve the Lodge as far as he could. Bro. Swallow tendered his thanks. He thought the present W.M. was likely to add to the prosperity of the Lodge. Bro. Holden regretted his inability to be present at the first part of the evening. Being in the chair in another Order of Freemasonry, he was unable to attend the Lodge earlier; but he congratulated the brethren on the successful meeting they had had. Bro. White felt it a very great privilege to be allowed to instal the Master. The four brethren who had passed the chair of the Lodge were among the founders of it; now they had a brother in the chair who joined after the foundation, and might thus be considered to start on a new era. He felt very proud of being numbered among the Past Masters of so distinguished a Lodge. The W.M. next proposed a toast in honour of the Treasurer and Secretary. These were two Officers it would be impossible to do without. Bro. Swallow, in reply, thanked the brethren for the great honour they had conferred on him in again electing him to the important office he filled in the Lodge. Bro. Scott also thanked the brethren. He tried to please all, but sometimes found it a difficult task. He thought the brethren should take into consideration the arduous nature of a Secretary's duties. At last, but not least, the W.M. described the next toast. Without Officers, he should be in a position similar to a ship without a rudder. The S.W., Bro. Shand, took a great interest in Freemasonry, but more especially in the welfare of the City of Westminster Lodge; indeed, his zeal in this respect was only equalled by his horror at the trading of Crown Servants. The present J.W. was an excellent Mason. If ever he was placed in the chair, he would go far to outshine all who had preceded him. Each of the Officers present in turn responded to the toast. This brought the proceedings to a termination, excepting that the usual compliment was paid to distressed brethren before the brethren separated.

St. Peter's Lodge, No. 1024.—The monthly meeting of this Lodge, held at the Masonic Hall, Maldon, Essex, on Wednesday, 26th ult., was of exceptional interest, the occasion being the visit of the D.P.G.M. of Essex, the V.W. Bro. the Rev. S. R. Wigram Past Grand Chaplain. At six o'clock the brethren met, and the first and third degrees were admirably worked by the W.M. Bro. H. J. Sansom P.G.J.D., assisted by Bros. J. P. Lewin, acting as S.W. in the absence through illness of Bro. Frank Freeman, T. Elsey Bland J.W., Rev. E. R. Horwood Chaplain, F. G. Green Hon. Sec., E. Gowers Hon. Organist, J. D. Wright S.D., F. Bird J.D., T. J. Cramphorne I.G. The following Past Masters were also present:—Bros. George Pennington Jay, T. Aldham, W. F. Francis, William Humphreys, and E. Humphreys I.P.M. The Visitors included F. Orchard 198, W. J. Upton 276, John Baker 567, R. Smith and S. H. Ellis 697; and the attendance was made up by unofficial brethren to about thirty-five. Music was made an important feature in the ceremonies. Mr. O. D. Belsham had kindly lent to the Lodge, for the occasion, a very excellent harmonium, and the brethren, on the proposition of Bro. W. H. Donaldson, seconded by Bro. W. Humphreys, resolved to give effect to the W.M.'s appointment of an Honorary Organist by purchasing an organ out of the Lodge funds. The D.P.G.M. was escorted to his place with due ceremony, and a vote of thanks was passed for his attendance. At the conclusion of labour, the brethren adjourned for the annual widgeon supper, at the Blue Boar Hotel; and the reputation of the house for the preparation of the bird's was fully maintained.

ROYAL SAVOY LODGE, No. 1744.

THE brethren of this Lodge assembled on Tuesday, 25th ult., at Ashley's Hotel, Covent Garden, for the purpose of celebrating the annual installation meeting of the Lodge, and for the transaction of other regular business. The brethren were summoned for four o'clock, and shortly after that hour Bro. James Willing the W.M. opened the Lodge, being assisted by Bros. T. Adams P.G.P. as S.W., W. Clarke Prov. G.D. of C. Suffolk as J.W., W. M. Stiles Secretary, J. L. Jones S.D., G. H. Deller D.C., W. Cook I.G., Augustus Holt and J. W. Smith Stewards; together with several brethren and visitors. The report of the Audit Committee was first presented to the members, and duly received by them, after which Lodge was advanced to the third degree, and Bros. J. Blundell, G. W. E. Thorn, and C. H. Holland were raised. Lodge was resumed to the first degree, when four candidates—Bros. H. Dickey, H. Hoare, J. T. Woods, and W. Redstone—presented themselves for advancement to the second degree. They were examined, entrusted, and in due course passed by the W.M. Bro. Stiles now presented Bro. John Douglass the W.M. elect, for the benefit of installation, and after being obligated, that brother was placed in the chair, and regularly proclaimed and saluted. He then invested the Officers for the year, the following being the appointments:—Bros. F. H. Clemow S.W., J. L. Jones J.W., J. Willing P.M. Treasurer, W. M. Stiles Secretary, T. J. Hyland (named as) S.D., Bro. Cook being invested with the collar on his behalf, W. Cook J.D., G. H. Deller I.G., A. Holt Director of Ceremonies, J. W. Smith Assistant Director of Ceremonies, W. Jacques and W. Read Stewards, F. W. Sillis Organist. The customary addresses were then given, and the ceremony of installation completed. Bro. Douglass was at once called upon to show his ability as Master, four candidates for the first degree presenting themselves. These gentlemen—Messrs. John N. Hare Thomas Henry Ellis, Joseph Gray, and James Hone—were accordingly initiated, and took their places as members of the Lodge, which was closed in due form. Among the Visitors who signed the attendance book were Bros. C. C. Cruickshanks S.D. 1777, C. Gwyer 1602, W. Crane 907, Henry Lovegrove W.M. 1777, W. W. Morgan jun. 1385, B. Kauffmann D.C. 1732, F. R. W. Hedges 1194, J. Stock I.P.M. 1178, F. A. Kelly 1524, H. Stiles J.W. 1732, F. Garbett P.M. 1178, L. Solomon 1507, M. Spiegel W.M. 188, M. Knight I.G. 87. The brethren then partook of banquet, which was well served by the proprietor of the hotel, Bro. Mitchell. After grace had been said, the W.M. in brief terms called upon the members to honour the usual preliminary toasts. This having been done, Bro. Willing assumed the gavel, and in well-chosen words proposed the health of the W.M. Bro. John Douglass. He considered this toast the happiest that could fall to the lot of any Master to propose. He was especially pleased to see his successor in the chair, with everything in the Lodge in a state of prosperity. He considered the Royal Savoy was a Lodge of Instruction to the whole Craft, and as such they should be especially careful of all they did. But a very short time back the Lodge had commenced with the proverbial seven members, now they had nearly 70, and if the whole number were polled he did not know any one who might be wished out of the Lodge. The present W.M. had already filled the chair of the Metropolitan Lodge, where he did so with credit to all concerned; what he had learned there and elsewhere amply fitted him for his present position, as Master of the Royal Savoy. Bro. Douglass thanked the brethren. He was much obliged to Bro. Willing for his remarks. He hoped his friends would take pattern from him, and make short speeches whenever they might be called upon to respond during his year of office. Bro. Douglass then proposed the health of the I.P.M. Bro. Willing, especially referring to the able manner in which he had that night performed the ceremony of installation. He now had great pleasure in investing Bro. Willing with the P.M.'s jewel, which had been unanimously voted to him by the Lodge. Bro. Willing, in reply, said he left the chair to take up an office which he felt would be a sinecure. There were some who, although they knew the work well, were yet unable to impress the ceremonies on their hearers, while others seemed to be particularly gifted in that respect. Of this latter class was Bro. Douglass, and he felt that so far as coaching the W.M. was concerned, he should have very little to do. He had had the fortune to be surrounded by a good circle of helpers, and as a consequence those he saw around him were virtually his personal friends. He felt very proud of the position that had been accorded him of being appointed the first Master of the Royal Savoy Lodge, and was sincerely gratified that the Lodge had prospered under his rule; he should ever look upon it as one of the proudest moments of his life when he was installed into the chair of the Royal Savoy Lodge. The W.M. next proposed the health of the Visitors, calling on Bros. Lovegrove, Spiegel, and Stock to reply. After a song from the Secretary, Bro. Stiles, Bro. Lovegrove rose. He felt, as Master of a very young Lodge, that he would rather have responded last than first. He considered that the way in which the work had been performed that evening was most satisfactory, and congratulated the brethren on the progress the Lodge had made during the first fifteen months of its existence. The number of initiates who came forward must have been a great gratification to the Master. Bro. Spiegel was very pleased to be present and see the way in which the work had been performed. The credit the Royal Savoy Lodge had attained in the Craft must make brethren wish to attend; and he felt that few, if any, would be disappointed. Bro. Stock having thanked the brethren, congratulated them on the progress made by the Lodge. He had had the pleasure of attending previous meetings, and was pleased now to see the way in which the affairs were conducted. The toast of the initiates was next given. Bro. Ellis in responding said, he hoped he, and those who had been initiated that evening, would prove themselves a credit to their mother Lodge, and all others. Bro. Hare hoped he might prove all that his present wishes could desire. Bro. Hone felt very proud of his position. He had often been at public assemblies, but had never so thoroughly enjoyed himself as on the present occasion. Bro. Gray thanked the brethren. He sincerely hoped he might fulfil his wish to eventually occupy the position then filled by the W.M. The presence of a distinguished member of the fraternity gave the W.M. an opportunity, which he was pleased to avail himself of—of proposing success to the Masonic Charities. Bro. Hedges Sec. R.M.I.G. felt he need hardly express the pleasure he felt in being called upon to respond to the toast in the presence of so many who had worked zealously for the welfare of the Charities. When he said there were upwards of 600 persons looking to the Craft for education and maintenance, he thought it was sufficient to arouse their charitable feelings. He sincerely wished that all who could would pay a visit to each of the Institutions maintained through their liberality, and they would then see how nobly the work of Masonic charity was carried out. He had great pleasure in announcing that the W.M. had undertaken the duty of Steward for the next Festival of the Old People's Institution, he hoped the brethren would ably support him on that occasion. He was very pleased to be in a position to convey the welcome information to Bro. Terry. The Treasurer, Secretary and rest of the Officers was the next toast. They had each done their work so well, and were all so well known to the brethren, that Bro. Douglass felt it hardly necessary to say anything on their behalf. Bro. Willing was the first to respond. He was obliged to the W.M. for the kind sentiments he had expressed. For the little he had done he had been amply thanked; he could not now do more than again acknowledge the kindness of the brethren. Bro. Stiles thanked the W.M. for having again appointed him to the office of Secretary. He felt very proud of the position. The Lodge had sent a Steward to one of the Charities, and had contributed well to its funds. The furniture of the Lodge was paid for, and there was a balance of £40 in the hands of the Treasurer—a most satisfactory position, he thought, for so young a Lodge. They had received 35 members into the Lodge, which now numbered 68, and with every prospect of future success. He thought that any Lodge that had two such masters as the first two of the Royal Savoy could but prosper. Bro. F. H. Clemow S.W. thanked the W.M. for the office to which he had that night been promoted, and also Bro. Willing for the instruction he had given him in his duties. Bros. Jones (the J.W.), Cook (the S.D.), and Deller (the I.G.) also responded to the toast, which brought the list to a conclusion. The Tyler was summoned and he gave the customary tribute to all poor and distressed brethren. The members and visitors who yet remained spent an additional half hour most enjoyably, songs being given and lively conversation prevailing, until it became a nice point to decide whether it was late or early. May our Lodges all work as happily as does the Royal Savoy, and the brethren generally strive to emulate it in true hospitality.

ALBERT EDWARD LODGE, No. 1557, HEXHAM.

THE Installation meeting of this very flourishing Lodge took place on the 1st December, at the Lodge-room in the Assembly Room, which has been recently renovated for the purpose and tastefully decorated. The Lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. W. N. Bell P.G.A.D.C., supported by his Officers and a loyal array of P.M.'s. The minutes of the last meeting being confirmed, and other routine business gone through, Bro. E. D. Davis P.P.G.S.W. P.G.D.C. took possession of the chair. The Lodge being opened in the second degree, Bro. the Rev. George Robinson P.P.G.C. S.W. and W.M. Elect was presented for the benefits of Installation. He having assented to all the ancient customs, all below the rank of P.M. left the Lodge, and he was installed into the chair of K.S., Bro. Davis giving the whole of the beautiful ceremony with that feeling and impressive manner for which he is so justly renowned. Upon the brethren re-entering the Lodge, the new W.M. was duly proclaimed and saluted, after which he appointed his Officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. W. M. Bell I.P.M., J. Turner S.W., J. Nicholson J.W. and Organist, J. Purves Treasurer and S.D., W. Oates J.D., E. Shield Secretary, T. Pearson I.G., R. Wickle S.S., and N. Rewcastle Tyler. The charges to the Master and brethren were then given by Bro. Davis in a manner befitting the occasion. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Royal Hotel, Priestpopple, where a capital dinner was served up in a manner which reflected the greatest credit on the host, Bro. Carruthers. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, as well as many complimentary ones, were duly honoured, and a most pleasant evening was spent by the brethren, many of whom rendered good service by entertaining the brethren with some capital harmony. Amongst the visitors present were:—Bros. E. D. Davis P.G.D.C., T. Anderson P.G. Treasurer, G. I. Dean P.P.G.A.D.C., A. M. Loades P.P.G.S.D., J. C. Milbourne P.D.G.J.W. Egypt, Rev. J. J. May and Maynard were passed to the second degree in the W.M.'s usual perfect and impressive manner. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. W. R. Lister S.W. was unanimously chosen; this announcement was received with loud cheers, and Bro. Lister suitably acknowledged the compliment. Bro. T. Bull P.M. was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Grant P.M. Tyler. A sum of money was unanimously voted from the funds of the Lodge for the purpose of presenting the retiring W.M., J. H. Leggott with a jewel, for the able and efficient manner in which he had conducted the duties of the chair during his year of office, and in token of the high estimation in which he is held by every brother for his zeal in upholding the dignity of the Lodge. Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of an excellent supper. The W.M. genially presided, and briefly introduced the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Purkiss responded for the P.M.'s. The W.M., in proposing the health of the W.M. elect, spoke in glowing terms of the qualifications of that brother, who he was sure would follow in the footsteps of his predecessors. Bro. T. Bull responded to the toast of the Treasurer and Secretary. Bro. W. Birrell No. 1310 responded for the Visitors. Altogether a very agreeable evening was passed. Bro. W. R. Lister and A. Joppa Lodge, No. 188.—The regular meeting of this numerous and excellent working Lodge was held on Monday, the 1st inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, City. Bros. M. Spiegel W.M., H. Hyams S.W., R. Baker as J.W., E. P. Albert P.G.P. Secretary, J. S. Lyon Treasurer, Benjamin I.G.; N. M. Baum Steward; Past Masters L. Alexander, L. Lazarus, M. Alexander, A. Dodson, S. Hickman, H. M. Levy, H. Berkowitz, &c. Lodge was opened, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. A notice of motion by Bro. Weigel was then considered:—That paragraph 13 of the Bye-laws of the Benevolent Institution of the Lodge be revised, as follows: "That no Brother whose name shall have been erased or excluded from the Lodge through neglecting to pay his subscription, or through other causes, shall be entitled to participate in the funds of the said Institution unless he shall have advised the Lodge of his inability to pay the amount due, previous to his being erased, and the Lodge shall have been satisfied with this statement." This was seconded by Bro. M. Alexander P.M., ably discussed, and eventually carried. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. H. Hyams S.W. was unanimously elected. Bro. J. S. Lyon was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Woodstock P.M. Tyler. Five brethren were elected on the Board of Management; eight to serve on the Committee of the Benevolent Fund, and two appointed as Auditors. Bro. L. Lazarus P.M. proposed, and Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. seconded, That a sum of five guineas be given from the funds of the Lodge for the purpose of presenting the retiring W.M., Bro. M. Spiegel, with a Past Master's gold jewel for the able and efficient manner in which he had conducted the duties of the chair. The acting W.M. informed the brethren it was the wish of Bro. Spiegel that there should be no subscription from the brethren; he desired to wear this gift solely as a Lodge jewel. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to light refreshments. The W.M. proposed the usual toasts. Bro. E. P. Albert P.G.P. returned thanks for the Grand Officers. Bro. L. Alexander Past Master and President replied to the toast of "Prosperity to the Benevolent Fund." The W.M. said he had now a very important toast to propose, and that was the health of the W.M. elect. He hoped Bro. Hyams would have health and strength to fulfil the duties of the chair. Bro. Hyams returned thanks for the way in which the toast had been received; he hoped to have many opportunities of performing the ceremonies, in which he felt he should be ably assisted by the Past Masters. Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. proposed the health of the W.M., who, in replying said, in conducting his Lodge, he had studied economy in every shape; he was pleased that they had altered the bye laws; this would, he hoped, tend to promote peace and harmony. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Visitors, who severally responded. The P.M.'s were next honoured; the W.M. thanked them for their assistance during his year of office. Bros. L. Alexander and S. Hickman responded. The toast of the Officers included Bros. E. P. Albert Hon. Sec., and J. S. Lyon the re-elected Treasurer. The former Bro. first responded, he was followed by several of the junior Officers. Among the Visitors were—Bros. G. L. Moore W.M. 169, Arthur Roberts 733, B. Kauffman 1732, F. Royal Standard Lodge of Instruction.—This popular and prosperous Lodge of Instruction held its annual banquet at the Alwyne Castle, St. Paul's-road, Canonbury, N., on Friday evening, under the presidency of Bro. Eldridge, Treasurer and P.M. 187. There was a large number of guests, and with his usual forethought, the host, Bro. T. Meekham, had obtained an extension of hours for the accommodation of those assembled, in order that there should be no interruption to the harmony. It was a peculiarity that the toasts usually proposed were given in the ordinary way, and without the usual Masonic honours, the gathering being understood to be simply a social one, though under the auspices of the Instruction Lodge of the Royal Standard. Their labours concluded, some members of the popular troupe of minstrels who have so long delighted the public at the Agricultural Hall attended, and their vocal effusions considerably enhanced the pleasure of the company. Messrs. Egbert Roberts, George Eustace, and C. Temple were especially applauded, and broke through the strict rule observed elsewhere by acceding to encores. Bro. R. G. Thomas was the accompanyist, and he lent valuable assistance to the vocalists by the exercise of his musical skill.

UNITED GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

THE Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday evening, Bro. Col. Burdett, Prov. G.M. for Middlesex, presiding. There was an immense gathering of Grand Officers and other brethren, most probably drawn together by the expectation of seeing a new Grand Secretary appointed, and hearing some lively discussions on the proposal to grant Bro. Hervey a pension of £800 a year; on Bro. James Stevens's motion for a Committee on the subject of Uniformity of Ritual, and on Bro. Clabon's motion to set aside two-thirds of the annual surplus of the Fund of Benevolence for apprenticing the children of Freemasons when they leave the two Schools. After Grand Lodge had been opened, and the minutes of the last Quarterly Communication read, Bro. Frank Richardson, W.M. elect Grand Stewards' Lodge, nominated the Prince of Wales for Grand Master for the year ensuing. The nomination was received with the usual enthusiastic demonstrations of approval, and Col. Burdett then stated that the Prince of Wales had again appointed Bro. J. M. Clabon as President of the Lodge of Benevolence, and that Bro. Joshua Nunn was again elected Senior Vice President of that Lodge, and Bro. James Brett Junior Vice President. The election of twelve Past Masters to serve on the Lodge of Benevolence was the next business on the paper, but as only twelve had been nominated there was no necessity for an election. There were seventeen recommendations by the Lodge of Benevolence of grants to distressed brethren and widows, and on motions duly made and seconded sixteen of these were granted. In one case, however, Bro. Clabon stated that a letter had been received that morning from the Lodge to which the brother seeking relief belonged, protesting against the grant of £100, and he recommended that the matter should be referred back to the Lodge of Benevolence for enquiry and consideration. Several brethren opposed this measure, and a long discussion ensued; but in the end it was resolved to refer it back to the Lodge. Bro. Monckton then introduced the Report of the Board of General Purposes, a copy of which appeared in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE last week, and after that Report had been agreed to be taken as read and received, and entered on the minutes, Bro. Monckton moved the acceptance of the resignation of Bro. Hervey. In a few short sentences he described the excellent qualities of Bro. Hervey, the services he had rendered to the Craft, and the large increase in Masonry since he was appointed by Lord Zetland in 1868. The motion was seconded by Bro. next Levander, and carried unanimously. Bro. Monckton introduced the subject of the pension to be granted to Bro. Hervey. Instead of proposing £800 a year, he divided the grant into a pension of £550 a year and an annual gratuity of £250. This proposition met with strong opposition. Bro. Montague J. Guest, Prov. G.M. for Dorset, leading it with a proposition that the retiring pension should be £300. To this there was an equally strong opposition, £500 and £600 being suggested. After considerable delay, and many speeches on all the proposals, the brethren divided, and it was resolved to grant Bro. Hervey a pension of £500 a year and a gratuity of £300. The remaining portion of the Report was then adopted, the brethren loudly cheering the resolution that no charity jewel, clasp, ribbon, or rosette shall be obtained except through the office of the Grand Secretary, to whom the Secretaries of the respective Institutions shall, after their several annual Festivals, hand lists of the names of brethren entitled to the same. Bro. McIntyre recommended the dismissal of the appeal of Bro. Pallot, and Grand Lodge adopted the recommendation. Bro. James Stevens brought on his motion for a Committee on Uniformity of Ritual, which was seconded by Bro. W. R. Marsh, but opposed by Bro. A. F. A. Woodford, who moved the previous question. This was seconded by Bro. While, who spoke under some difficulty, as the brethren during the latter part of his remarks refused to hear him. Bro. Stevens's motion was carried by a large majority, but the naming of the Committee was deferred. Bro. Clabon endeavoured to bring on his motion for dealing with the Fund of Benevolence, but after a short discussion upon whether his proposal came within the term "Charity," for which purpose only the Fund of Benevolence was established, Colonel Burdett held that it did, and as the hour of ten p.m. had arrived, Bro. Clabon agreed to postpone his motion till next Quarterly Communication. Grand Lodge was then closed.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Sure Relief. The weak and enervated suffer severely from nervous affections when storms or electric disturbances agitate the atmosphere. Neuralgia, gouty pangs, and flying pains, very distressing to a delicate system, may be readily removed by rubbing this Ointment upon the affected part after it has been fomented with warm water. The Pills, taken occasionally in the doses prescribed by the instructions, keep the digestion in order, excite a free flow of healthy bile, and regenerate the impoverished blood with richer materials resulting from thoroughly assimilated food—wanting which, the strongest must inevitably soon sink into feebleness, and the delicate find it difficult to maintain existence. Holloway's Ointment and Pills are infallible remedies

GRAND MARK LODGE.

The Treasurer's accounts, subjoined, show that the receipts from all sources for six months were £545 2s 4d, and that on the 30th September the balances were—

That the objects proposed by the establishment of the Benevolent and Educational Funds are widely and increasingly appreciated and approved is convincingly manifested by the support extended thereto at the Anniversary Festivals, the Festival held at the Alexandra Palace, on Wednesday, 2nd July last, under the presidency of W. Bro. Lord Arthur Hill, Prov. G.S.W. of Sussex, having proved most successful, the proceeds of the 32 Stewards' lists amounting to £542. The first election of a boy for the benefits of the Educational Fund took place on 20th May last, when Harry Lowndes Edwards was elected, and is now being educated at the Manchester Grammar School. Two new Provinces have been constituted—Tunis and Malta, Berks and Oxon. Bro. Alexander Meyrick Broadley has been appointed as R.W. Prov. Grand Master of the former, and was installed at Malta on the 11th September. No event of greater interest in the history of this Grand Lodge has occurred than the establishment of a Mark Lodge, in the first place, and recently of a Province, in a locality rich in so many antiquarian associations as the site of the world-renowned city of Carthage. Masonry in all its branches is flourishing there, but no degree has attracted so much attention, or has been pursued with so much avidity, as that of the Mark, and with the details and information received from time to time, the Board considers itself justified in thus making prominent mention of so exceptionally gratifying a circumstance, and in testifying to the zeal and ability of the R.W. Bro. Broadley, whose exertions have tended so materially to produce such successful results. The Right Hon. the Earl of Jersey P.G.W. has accepted the appointment of Prov. Grand Master of Berks and Oxon, and there can be no doubt as to the beneficial effect of his Lordship's rule, supported by the ability and energy of the brethren who have been instrumental in fostering the Order in the United Province. The G.M. has also been pleased to appoint Bro. Thos. Trollope, M.D., to be Prov. G.M.M. of Sussex. In the same period the following Provincial changes have occurred:—

CORNWALL.—Bro. Colonel John Whitehead Peard has been appointed R.W. Prov. Grand Master, vice Bro. Sir Frederick Martin Williams, deceased.

KENT.—Bro. Rev. Thomas Robinson, M.A., has been appointed R.W. Prov. Grand Master, vice Bro. Rev. G. W. Sicklemore, resigned.

SOMERSET.—Bro. Gen. H. E. Doherty has been appointed R.W. Prov. Grand Master, vice Bro. the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, resigned.

The Board, in testifying to the admirable manner in which the duties of their responsible offices have been discharged by the distinguished brethren, the loss of whose services they regret, have every confidence that the interests of Mark Masonry will be successfully promoted by the brethren whom the M.W. Grand Master has selected as their successors. It is also with extreme gratification that the Board is enabled to report the re-organisation of the Province of Jamaica under the vigilant care of R.W. Bro. Dr. Hamilton (33°), and the consequent resuscitation of the Sussex Lodge, No. 42, followed by the establishment of three new Lodges—Clifton Mount Keystone, Kingston, No. 230; Royal Keystone, Kingston, No. 240; Phœnix, Port Royal, No. 242,—all of which are now in a flourishing condition, with every prospect of continued prosperity. The Board have very great pleasure in stating that official information of the recognition of this Grand Lodge by the Supreme Grand Chapter of Scotland has been received, a copy of the communication from the Grand Scribe E. being now subjoined. It affords the Board the highest possible satisfaction thus to announce the consummation of efforts extending over a number of years to effect a friendly understanding and fraternal agreement between the two bodies.

Extract from Minutes of Meeting of the Supreme Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland, held upon the 18th day of June, A.D. 1879; A.L. 5883.

Having taken into consideration an application from the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters of England and Wales for recognition, and the interchange of Representatives, with relative documents, and the Report of the Committee thereon, the Supreme Chapter unanimously resolved to recognize the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters of England and Wales as a lawful governing body of that degree in these countries: further, that the Supreme Chapter would grant no new Mark Warrants therein, reserving the rights of the Supreme Chapter as regards Warrants already granted; farther, that Mark Lodges in the Colonies, holding of the Grand Mark Lodge of England and Wales, be recognised as lawful, but that no exclusive jurisdiction be conceded to the Grand Mark Lodge, beyond the countries of England and Wales. Farther, it was resolved to delay consideration of the proposal to exchange representatives till next Quarterly Communication, and Comp. Mann, Grand Scribe N., intimated that he would then move that representatives be appointed Formal communications with recognition have also been received from the Supreme R.A. Chapters of Maine, Texas, and North Carolina, U.S.A. The Board have had under their consideration the arrangement of the work in the Grand Secretary's office. They are of opinion that the eminent and lengthened services of the Grand Secretary deserve that he should be excused from attending to the daily routine of the ever-increasing business of the office, and at the same time that he should retain his full salary. In consideration of the additional labour that will fall on the Assistant Grand Secretary, they recommend that his salary be increased to £200. The Board recommends the following grants from the Benevolent Fund:—£10 to S. C. A., widow of Bro. R. M. A.; £20 to Bro. J. H. B. The mode of electing the five members of the General Board by Grand Lodge being deemed unsatisfactory, the Board recommends the following alteration in Clause 98 of the Book of Constitutions:—After the words "at the meeting in June," on the seventh line, to add, "in manner following; the names of the several brethren intended to be put in nomination are to be delivered in writing at the Grand Secretary's Office, at least fourteen days prior to the meeting of Grand Lodge, in order that the names so proposed may be printed in a list, a copy of which shall be delivered to each member attending Grand Lodge, when the balloting lists shall be collected by scrutineers appointed for that purpose, and the result of the election ascertained and announced." The Board also recommends that in clause 111 of the Constitutions, the words "signed in open Lodge" be added after the word "certificate," in the first line of the clause.

29th October 1879.

All the recommendations in this report were adopted. Col. Shadwell Clerke nominated Lord Skelmersdale as G.M. for the ensuing year, and the acting G.M. afterwards distributed Charity jewels to the Stewards of the last Benevolent Fund Festival. Before Grand Lodge was closed, Bro. Portal drew the attention of Grand Lodge to the fact of its recognition by Supreme Grand Chapter of Scotland, and moved that a letter be written thereto, expressing the gratification of Grand Lodge, and trusting that this extra link in the chain of communication between the two bodies would tend to unite them still more closely. Bro. Binckes seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously, and Grand Lodge was formally closed. A banquet at the Freemasons' Tavern followed.

PROVINCE OF BERKS AND OXON.

ON Thursday, 27th ult., the ceremony of installing a Prov. Grand Master for the newly-constituted Province of Berks and Oxon took place in Reading. The proceedings commenced at the Masonic Hall, where the Provincial Grand Master (Designate), the Earl of Jersey, was installed Master of a Mark Master Masons' Lodge. The ceremony took place in the Leopold Lodge, and Lord Jersey was duly installed by Bro. Margrett W.M. Subsequently the brethren of the Leopold Lodge opened a Lodge in the Foresters' Hall, and this having been done a great number of Grand and Provincial Grand Officers entered the room. The Provincial Grand Lodge was then formed, and Lord Jersey was installed. The ceremony was performed by Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal P.G.M. of M.M.M. and Prov. G.M. of Hants and the Isle of Wight. Bro. Portal suitably addressed the Prov. Grand Master with reference to the duties which he would have to discharge. Lord Jersey then took the chair and invested the Prov. Grand Officers. The following is a list of those who took collars:—Bros. Charles Stephens Deputy Prov. G.M., H. R. Cooper Smith P.G.S.W., Edward Margrett P.G.J.W., Walter Ballard P.G. Master Overseer, Samuel Patey Spiers P.G.S.O., Fredk. Wm. Ansell P.G.J.O., Rev. Charles Robertson Honey P.G.Chaplain, Rev. Henry Deane P.G.Chaplain, E. J. Trendell P.G.Treas., Edward Leader Shepherd P.G.Registrar of Marks, Thomas Jell Pulley P.G.Sec., James Mace Dormor P.G.Assist.-Sec., John Thornbull Morland P.G.S.D., Christopher Park P.G.J.D., John Tomkins P.G. Inspector of Works, John Egginton P.G.D.C., James Jenkin P.G.Assist.D.C., H. Lovell Hawkins P.G.Sword Bearer, William Belcher P.G.Standard Bearer, William Richard Bowden P.G.Organist, Henri Brett P.G.I.G., Emberlin P.G.S., Samuel Sandbach P.G.S., William Hedges P.G.S., William Hemmings P.G.Tyler, George Norwood P.G.Tyler. After the Officers had been invested, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Portal for the impressive manner in which he had discharged the duties of Installing Master. Bro. Portal returned thanks, and the Lodge was closed. Subsequently the brethren, to the number of about a hundred, dined together at the Town Hall. The banquet was excellently provided by Bro. Watts, and a choice selection of wine was supplied by Messrs. Fergnson. The chair was taken by Bro. the Earl of Jersey, and there was a large attendance of Grand and Provincial Grand Officers. After dinner Lord Jersey proposed "The Queen and Mark Masonry," and the M.W. G.M.M.M. (Lord Skelmersdale), and Past G.M.M.M.M. Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal, in responding, referred to the great progress which Mark Masonry was making. Twenty-three years ago, when Lord Leigh (the father-in-law of the newly-appointed Prov. Grand Master of Berks and Oxon) was appointed Grand Master there were only three Lodges of Mark Masons. They had now more than two hundred Lodges, and that very day the twenty-ninth Province had been constituted. Mark Masonry would, he believed, be soon acknowledged by Grand Lodge. It was acknowledged by the Grand Lodges in other countries, and it had been recently acknowledged by the Grand Lodge of Scotland. It was with great pleasure that he (Bro. Portal) had taken part in the inauguration of the new Province. He was glad to see his old Lodge, the Apollo, joined with such a go-a-head district as Berkshire. He congratulated the Province in having such a Prov. Grand Master as Lord Jersey. His services as P.G.M. had been coveted by a large Province in Wales, but he had thrown in his lot with Berks and Oxon. He (Bro. Portal) wished Lord Jersey a most prosperous term of office. Bro. Portal concluded by proposing the health of the Earl of Jersey, and the toast was received with great enthusiasm. The Prov. G.M., in responding, said that in coming amongst his brother Mark Master Masons he was reminded somewhat of Rip Van Winkle. There was, however, this difference, that when Rip arose from his long sleep he found that there were changes everywhere. He (Lord Jersey) found, however, in coming again into a Mark Lodge that the old landmarks had been preserved; the old words were spoken; the old paths were trodden. He himself had been a somnolent brother, but he was glad to wake up and find himself in such a company. In his new office he should do his best, and if there were any feebleness on his part he knew that it would be made up for by the energy of the officers and brethren. He thought that the combination of Berkshire and Oxfordshire was a most happy and appropriate union—as they stood on the two banks of the great national river. Lord Jersey then proceeded to speak of the great assistance which he had received, especially from Bro. Dewar and Bro. Pulley. He had great confidence in the Officers who had that day been appointed, and when he was in difficulty or doubt he was sure that he should receive from them every assistance and support. The health of the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Bro. Charles Stephens, was next proposed and most cordially received. In responding, Bro. Stephens mentioned that it was probable there would soon be an increase in the number of Lodges in the Province. "Success to the New Mark Province of Berks and Oxon" was next given, and was responded to by Bros. Cooper Smith W.M. Apollo Lodge, Oxford, E. L. Shepherd W.M. Abbey Lodge, Abingdon, Margrett W.M. Leopold Lodge, Reading, and Ansell W.M. Alfred Lodge, Oxford. Bro. Binckes proposed "Success to the Mark Benevolent Fund," and said that one of the objects of the Fund was to assist Mark Master Masons in the education of their children. It was not necessary that the persons thus benefitted should be in distressed circumstances. The object was to assist those M.M.M.'s upon whom the expense of education fell very heavily. Bro. Meggy returned thanks. Bro. Stephens proposed "The Visiting Brethren," coupled with the name of Bro. Broadley, the G.M. of Tunis and Malta. Bro. Broadley, who had a most enthusiastic reception, made an interesting speech, in which, after stating that the site of Ancient Carthage was within his Province, he said that in his Province there could be seen on buildings of the greatest antiquity the most obvious evidence of the workmanship of Mark Master Masons. He mentioned also that in one or more of the Mark Lodges in his Province brethren belonging to seven different creeds could be found working together in the utmost harmony. On resuming his seat Bro. Broadley was loudly applauded. One or two other toasts were proposed, and the brethren then separated. During the evening there was some excellent singing by Bros. Cozens P.G.O., Hubbard, and Simons. The gathering was altogether most pleasant and most successful.—Berkshire Chronicle.

Old Kent Mark Lodge of Instruction.—Held at the Trocadero, 6 Broad-street-buildings, on Monday, 1st December. The following brethren were in attendance, viz.:—Bros. Venn W.M., Moon S.W., Nicholls J.W., Tanner M.O., J. Pinder I.G., Turquand Preceptor, Gimingham Secretary. Visitor—Bro. Donald M. Dewar Assist. G.S. The minutes of the previous meeting having been duly read and confirmed, Bro. Turquand worked a portion of the ceremony of advancement, Bro. Venn acting as Candidate and Bro. Gimingham as Deacon. The regular formalities having been complied with, Bros. Dewar and Pinder were elected members of the Lodge of Instruction. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed and adjourned until Tuesday, 15th December, at 6.30 p.m.

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF LINCOLNSHIRE.

A MEETING of this Provincial Grand Chapter was held at Gainsborough, on Monday, the 1st inst., under the presidency of Comp. W. H. Smyth M.E. G. Supt. of Lincolnshire, on the invitation of the All Saints Chapter No. 422. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather there was a good attendance, probably caused by the fact of the All Saints being one of the oldest Chapters in the Province, and the Old Hall—which was the appointed place of meeting—being one of the curiosities of the county, it having been at one time, we believe, the residence of John o' Gaunt. Provincial Grand Chapter was opened by the D.G. Superintendent, Comp. W. H. Smyth M.E.Z., assisted by M.E. Comp. J. Moxon H., and M.E. Comp. W. Watkins J., at 11.30, after which the minutes of the last Prov. Grand Chapter, held at Grimsby, in 1877, were read and confirmed. The accounts of Prov. Grand Chapter were then presented by Comp. C. M. Nesbitt Prov. Grand Treasurer, showing a balance in hand of £18 0s 9d. In the absence of Comp. F. Watson 297 Prov. Grand Registrar, the returns were presented by Comp. T. C. Lazenby 297. They showed a decrease of ten members since the formation of the Prov. Grand Chapter. The following Companions were then appointed and invested as Prov. Grand Officers:—Comps. E. Pocock 712 G.H., A. Kirk 432 G.J., J. Fowler 712 G.S.E., G. Honsham 422 G.S.N., Rev. G. W. Lowe 272 G. Principal Sojourner, G. Barrell 272 G. 1st Assistant Sojourner, J. Robinson 272 G. 2nd Assistant Sojourner, C. M. Nesbitt 712 G. Treasurer, T. C. Lazenby 297 G. Registrar, G. M. Lowe 297 G. Sword Bearer, W. E. Howlett 422 G.D. of C., George Robinson 422 G. Organist, B. Box 422 G. Janitor. Comps. F. D. Marsden P.Z. 712 and G. H. Porter P.Z. 712 were elected Auditors of the Prov. G. Chapter Accounts for the ensuing year. Several collars and jewels, wanted to complete the equipment of the Prov. G. Chapter, were ordered to be obtained by the Prov. G. Treasurer and Prov. G. Scribe E. Prov. Grand Chapter was then closed in due form, according to ancient custom.

CONSECRATION OF THE MARLBOROUGH CHAPTER, No. 1399.

THE new Chapter attached to the Marlborough Lodge, No. 1399, was consecrated on Friday, 28th ult., at the Lodge Room, Woodstock. The Consecrating Officer was Comp. David Pryce Owen P.Z. 998, who was ably assisted by Comps. J. Williams P.Z. 581 as H., E. Bruton P.Z. 340 as J., Reginald Bird, M.A., P.Z. 357, Deputy Prov. G.M. Oxon, acted as P.Z. The other Companions present were—J. Potts 340, H. Williams 581, T. Long 340, T. B. Brown 185, H. Plumridge 340, H. Robbins 340, H. O. Crane 340, A. Rowley 340, J. Calcutt 340, G. Norwood Janitor. After the Chapter had been formally opened, Comp. T. B. Brown M.E.Z. designate, was requested by the Consecrating Officer to deliver the inaugural address. The Companions having signified their approval of the officers named in the Charter, Comp. D. P. Owen proceeded with the ceremony of Consecration. Comp. H. Plumridge ably conducted the musical portion of the ceremonial, assisted by Comps. H. O. Crane and A. Rowley. The ceremony of Consecration being finished, the M.E. Companion D. P. Owen installed the Principals. Comp. T. B. Brown was installed in the chairs of J., H. and Z., Comp. H. Williams in the chairs of J. and H., and Comp. James Long in the chair of J. The ceremony throughout was of a very impressive character, being admirably performed. Comp. D. P. Owen delivered all his addresses with great force and much animation. After the ceremony, several propositions for exaltation and joining were made. The Consecrating Officer, and the three Principals who assisted him, were elected honorary members of the Chapter. The Chapter was then closed in ancient form.

Holmesdale Chapter No. 874, Tunbridge Wells.—The annual convocation of this flourishing Chapter took place on Monday, the 1st inst., at the Public Pump Rooms, Tunbridge Wells. Present—Comps. William Stephens M.E.Z., W. Delves H., and Thos. H. Miller as J., Benj. Sidney Wilmot Treas., Rowland Delves Scribe E., Montague Williams Scribe N., and many other Comps. not holding office. On this occasion the only business was the installation of Principals and investiture of Officers. Comp. William Stephens installed Montague Williams, the popular W.M. of the Holmesdale Lodge, as J., and the patriarch P.M. W. Delves, of the same Lodge, as M.E.Z. for the year ensuing. Bros. S. Wilmot was reinvested Treas., Rowland Delves Scribe E. Langridge, Scribe N., Holt P. Soj., and Bates and Goodhall Assistants. After the closing of the Chapter an excellent banquet was served in the ladies' drawing-room of the Establishment, the M.E.Z. presiding. The usual loyal and customary toasts were duly proposed and honoured. A pleasing and complimentary presentation was then made to the retiring M.E.Z., consisting of an elegant P.Z.'s jewel, and a beautiful oak spirit case and stand, mounted with silver, manufactured by Messrs. Ferrar, of Tunbridge Wells, and bearing the following inscription engraved on the front. Presented to Comp. William Stephens Prov. G.D.C. Middlesex, P.Z. 862, 1365, and 1489, by the Companions of the Holmesdale Chapter 874, with a P.Z.'s jewel, as a mark of esteem and appreciation of his valuable services. His health was proposed in the most felicitous terms, and modestly responded to. Comp. Miller responded for the Visitors, and complimented the Chapter, not only for the reception he had met with, and the duties performed, but also on the splendour of the room in which the ceremonies of R.A.M. had been so suitably conducted. Letters of apology were received from several Officers of the Province, who had been prevented from attending, owing to the consecration of a New Lodge taking place at the same time.

Comp. W. Stephens P.Z. 862, 874, 1365, M.E.Z. 1489, will rehearse the ceremony of Installation of Principals at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's Alley, Cornhill, on Tuesday, 16th inst., at half-past six o'clock punctually. The ceremony of Exaltation will afterwards be rehearsed at seven o'clock. Companions Principal who are desirous of perfecting themselves should avail themselves of this opportunity.

Among those present at Grand Lodge on Wednesday we were pleased to notice Bro. A. M. Broadley, the Deputy Grand Master of Malta, and we may say the shining Masonic light of his particular quarter of the globe. His numerous friends in England seem to emulate each other in striving to render his present visit to this country enjoyable. Bro. Eastes, the P.D.G.M. of Kent, on Wednesday, undertook the duties of chaperon, or so much thereof as was needed by Bro. Broadley.

We had the pleasure of participating in a private inspection of the "The Criterion Annexe," recently erected by Messrs. Spiers and Pond as an addition to their well-known establishment in Piccadilly, and shall give full particulars of the accommodation there afforded, for Masonic and general purposes, in our next issue.

REVIEW.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

The Practical Veterinary; or Farmers' Hand Book and Horse Keepers' Guide. Giving practical information for the treatment and cure of all diseases incidental to animal life. By J. Taylor. London: T. Evans and Co., 309 Goswell-road, Islington.

THIS work, which is produced in a convenient form, suitable for carrying in the pocket, is one which must prove of great value to all who come within the scope of its comprehensive title. Bro. Taylor brings a lengthened course of study to bear upon the subjects of which he treats, and points out, in a short, concise form, the different remedies he proposes for the ills that animal flesh is heir to.

Taking advantage of the concession granted, a few weeks since, by the licensing authorities to Bro. Butt, the spirited proprietor of the New Market Hotel, King-street, West Smithfield, the brethren of the West Smithfield Lodge, No. 1623, announce a Masonic Ball for Thursday evening next, at that establishment; particulars will be found in our advertising columns. We sincerely wish the members and their friends may have a pleasant evening's enjoyment.

MASONIC FLAG OF FRANCE.—The Masonic Newspaper, tells us that—"The Supreme Council of France some yea s since originated a decree by which Masonic sailors should be readily able to ask assistance in time of need from other ships manned or commanded by brethren of the Order. This very useful suggestion consists in hoisting a flag bearing a square and circle on a blue ground. To change this signal of recognition into one of distress, the method is to reverse it similarly to the mode adopted in the French navy with the National flag under like circumstances." We like the idea, and, as so many of our sailors are members of the Fraternity, the Grand Lodges of England, Scotland, Ireland, Canada, and the United States might adopt a similar flag.

TAMAR INDIEN.

SPECIAL CAUTION.

OWING to the marked success of this medicine, the only patent medicine universally prescribed by the faculty, and the acknowledged cure for constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c., BASE IMITATIONS, containing drastic irritants, are being foisted on the public. The genuine preparation bears the title "Tamar Indien," and the signature E. GRILLON, Coleman-st., London, E.C. Price 2s 6d per box. In a recent case, 1876, G. No. 211, a perpetual injunction to restrain the defendant from applying the name "Tamar" to his lozenges was awarded, with costs, by Vice-Chancellor Bacon, on 19th January 1877, and all such piracies will be summarily proceeded against.—N.B.—See that the outer wrapper (directions) are printed in the English language and that each box bears the Government 2d stamp.

PARLEZ-VOUS FRANÇAIS?

MANY of whom this question is asked will say, I can read it and write it, but can't speak it. A neat little volume for the Pocket has just been published by an Ex-Inspector of Public Schools; all the most useful verbs as used in ordinary conversation are therein embodied, alphabetically arranged on an entirely new plan, and printed in large type in French and English, a most rapid system, indispensible to teachers and other persons teaching themselves the language. Sent post free to any address on receipt of ninepence in stamps to

PROJECTED EXTENSION OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

IN our last issue we drew the attention of our readers to what we consider a most extravagant and uncalled for expenditure of the funds of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. We then pointed out that the proposition to lay out the sum of £6,500 in the purchase of three-quarters of an acre of land, together with the house erected thereon, should be rejected, at the time the confirmation of the vote is asked for, by the general body of subscribers, on the ground that, by purchasing additional premises, the brethren of the present day are pledging the generosity of the future generation far beyond the limits of propriety. The expense of maintaining the Schools, even in their present extent, requires that a considerable sum of money be annually subscribed by the Craft; and although we entertain no fear that the future generation will be less liberal than their predecessors, still we think that, on a question of spending their own money, the brethren of the future should be left with an opportunity of deciding a little for themselves, rather than be burdened with large establishments which must either be maintained at a great cost or disposed of at a sacrifice should the receipts at any time fall off so as to need the curtailment of the annual expenditure. As we so often repeat, it is our earnest desire to see the number of children educated and clothed by the Institutions largely increased, but we think that the time has now arrived when the desired object can best be attained by paying a sum of money for the education and clothing of children among their own friends, in addition to and away from those in the Schools erected by the two Institutions. In the hope that we may induce some of the subscribers to the Girls School to take a personal interest in the question, we again refer to it, and shall now more especially devote ourselves to a consideration of the subject from a financial point of view. We assume it will be generally admitted that the Institution should not be called upon to pay more for the ground than any other purchaser. This point being conceded, we ask our readers to put a price on land in the neighbourhood of the School. As we do not profess to have more than a vague idea on the subject, we have consulted several competent authorities, with the result of having almost as many opinions as we have replies; but on one point all agree—that ground in the neighbourhood of Battersea Rise is not worth more than £1,200 an acre; most give a much lower sum as the market value. As, however, we do not wish—nor is there much necessity—to press the matter too hard, we will accept the highest estimate, and value the plot at the rate of £1,200 an acre. The land being some trifle over three-quarters of an acre in extent, the value may therefore be considered, according to this estimate, at about £1,000. The next item for consideration is that of position, and here of course arises the main obstacle. Some will urge that the site is worth a large premium; others, that for the purposes to which it is intended to be put, position is an item that should never be paid for, unless it be for the purpose of conducing to the health and comfort of the residents. Bro. Lieut. Colonel Creaton, the proposer of the motion, pointed out that the acquisition of this plot would confer the advantage of securing for the Institution an entrance in the main road near the railway station. We fail to see that this is an advantage worth paying for to any extent. All who have visited the School must know that the distance between it and the railway station is so small as to be unworthy of serious consideration, especially when we remember that the number of visitors is very small, except on such occasions as the periodical inspection by the Stewards. Even then we doubt if a dozen guests could be found who really complained of the distance from the railway station. Surely our esteemed Brother does not ask the Institution to pay any considerable sum for this—questionable—advantage. We must, therefore, fall back on the plea that the purchase is desirable in order to prevent the School being hemmed in by buildings. At the time the ground on which the present School at Battersea Rise stands was purchased, one of the principal arguments used in its favour was that it was open, and not liable to future obstruction; now we see that this argument was in a measure wrong, and if this be the case to-day, what will it be in the course of another ten years, if building operations are to continue as actively as they have been carried on in the ten that have just passed? In discussing this proposed grant there is something more than the present to consider; the condition ten or twenty years hence must be estimated, and action governed accordingly, at least so far as is possible. Under these circumstances, we cannot see any reason for the value of the land being increased in consequence of its position or proximity to the existing School. Now, as regards the building, the house is a large one; and it is suggested that it could be used as a probationary school. Again we must express an opinion antagonistic to that of Bro. Creaton and the Building Committee, on whose recommendation he acted. It is well known that no building which was originally intended as an ordinary dwelling-house can be adapted to the requirements of a school without considerable outlay. Indeed, to add all the necessaries now deemed imperative for a public school, and otherwise place a dwelling-house on a par as regards fittings with the existing structure, would be next to impossible without rebuilding, and this we frankly admit is the next step we expect will be proposed. What, then, becomes of the house now standing on the ground. It is really worth to the Institution its value as old building material only, and should be considered and treated for accordingly. In another column we insert one of a series of letters we have received from correspondents on this subject. We wish our readers to bear in mind our columns are open to all, and we trust the question will be thoroughly discussed in its several bearings before the grant is brought forward for confirmation, and that at the proper time those who oppose the expenditure will freely express their views. Whoever may undertake the task of leading the opposition must be prepared for abuse; still we urge them to persevere in preventing so prejudicial a step.

Before we conclude, we would briefly refer to another matter which affects other than the question now at issue, and which we think calls for amendment. Bro. Lt.-Colonel Creaton, Treasurer and Trustee of the Institution, not only made the proposition for the grant already referred to, but also presided at the Special General Court called for the purpose of considering it. This is a course we have before objected to, and, however much custom or precedent may sanction it, we are still of opinion that it is not conducive to a fair hearing. The proposer of a motion is naturally prejudiced in its favour, and if he has to preside at the meeting called to consider the same he may, if he chooses, materially influence the voting. We do not wish to say that Bro. Creaton attempted or even thought of such a course, but we are surprised he should lay himself open to the smallest shadow of doubt as to his disinterestedness.

UNIFORMITY OF MASONIC RITUAL AND OBSERVANCE.

THE success attending Bro. Stevens's motion for a Committee of Past Masters to inquire into and report upon the respective systems of working in our Lodges, and which was carried by a large majority in Grand Lodge on the 3rd inst., gives promise that at length some measures will be taken to prevent the continuance and increase of those malpractices which have of late years been introduced into Masonic Ceremonial. In our issue for the 1st of November we thought proper to advise the originator of this movement for "Uniformity" that he would be expected to produce sufficient cause for the inquiry he suggested, or be prepared to fail in his endeavours; and we certainly did not then anticipate that he could so fully "prove a case" as he has succeeded in doing. The flagrant violations of decorum of which he gave instances, in earnest and forcible appeal to the feelings, intelligence, and understanding of his audience, occasioned no little surprise and indignation, and fully justified the condemnation he expressed. It is now no longer a question of differences in verbiage between this and that W.M., or one or the other Preceptor, but of attacking, root and branch, proceedings which seriously affect our "system of morality," cause indescribable annoyance, and tend to bring discredit on our Order. We cannot, after hearing his exposition of such improprieties, do other than wish him further success in his undertaking; but we fear that as yet our worthy brother has but opened the campaign, and that his difficulties have, in spite of all his former labours, only just commenced. The nomination of the Committee rests with him, subject to the approval of Grand Lodge at its ensuing meeting, and the "blunder" of 1870 should not be repeated. Every sympathy and assistance which can be rendered to him in this matter he certainly deserves to receive, and the position he has already attained in championing the purification of Masonic working should not be jeopardised by over zealous interference of well-meaning but injudicious supporters. In the history of former proceedings we learn that the formation of a Committee agreeable to Grand Lodge was the stumbling-block which retarded the movement some ten years ago. We sincerely hope that this may not be the case now. The proposed inquiry and report will necessarily be a work of magnitude reflecting honour and distinction on all who take part in its preparation, and everything will depend on its being broad and comprehensive in its scope. If we might suggest to Bro. Stevens, we would earnestly recommend him to secure the co-operation of distinguished Provincial brethren, and not to seek to form his Committee solely from amongst those connected with Metropolitan Lodges. There should be no difficulty in obtaining the nomination of at least one brother from each Province, and if such should be appointed by their respective Provincial Grand Masters or Grand Lodges, as representatives, we cannot see any possibility of their acceptance by Grand Lodge being withheld. To these might be added a proportionate number of Metropolitan brethren, so that the systems of working which mostly obtain in London might have their representatives also. Together these would form a large Committee, but we cannot see how the work can be effectually and efficiently carried out without a fair representation of the Lodges throughout town and country. We throw out these hints in our earnest desire to promote the interests of the Craft in general, and this movement in particular, and whether or not the worthy brother who is so greatly interested in the success of the movement adopts them, we shall equally wish him God speed in his continued labours.

A very interesting Emergency Meeting of the Trinity College Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 244, was held at the Lodge-rooms, Weymouth-street, Portland-place, W., on Monday, the 8th inst. A full report will appear in our next.

"The Fern Paradise"—Mr. Francis George Heath's illustrated "plea for the culture of ferns"—after passing through five editions, is about to be re-issued, by Messrs. Sampson, Low, Marston and Co., in shilling numbers, as a monthly serial. The first number will be published in a few days.

"IL TEGAME," OR A MASON'S HOLIDAY.

I WAS about forwarding a paper under the above title, but observing the excellent article of Bro. Norton, of 6th December, I do myself the pleasure of offering a few remarks upon that.

It is alleged of English Freemasonry that it is derived from King Solomon of Israel, who we are taught, by the authorised teaching of our authorities, gave to his associated Masons "pass words;" and we are further told, in what is considered its most solemn part, that he "ordered them to wear white aprons and gloves."

This being the teaching of our Grand Lodge, the burthen of truth rests entirely with that fount of orthodoxy and truth, and it is exceedingly amiable in an opponent to use any other argument than the "reductio ad absurdum."

There are those who wait impatiently for something of this history, which would cover a period of some thousand and odd hundred years. Probably the desire that it must be taken as matter of faith is the secret on which, by ghastly oaths, it demands silence. But for myself I would as soon turn my microscope on the gill of a "monstrum" as on the spiraculæ of a fly, when the sole object is the research of truth.

Of course the orthodox historian Oliver finds means to fill this slight gap, and like others, I have opened his mad book, although, after the perusal of a few pages, have closed it with nausea and disgust.

Our excellent Brother Norton some time since wrote a refutation of his statements, and deserves all praise for patience in trampling such literary garbage.

For the truth or falsehood of what is now inculcated on thousands of our young men the "Board" is responsible; but for my own part I believe that a lie in Freemasonry is as degrading to an individual as is one out of it. Had our Board thought so it would not have made of Freemasonry a slough of despond. Let it now repent and do its first work. Clear away its rotten slough of lies, and lay a foundation of truth.

Our Society has adopted the arms (uses Burke says), for it does not appear they were ever granted, of the City Company of Freemasons, thus then by their own teaching, and by heraldic or hereditary claim, they derive from the City Company of Masons or Freemasons.

The word Brother, as used, is merely an adoption of the word in common use; in the French frère, English friar or brother, has long been adopted by societies or brotherhoods of all kinds, and is most certainly not peculiar to Freemasonry as some seem to think.

The following remarks may throw some light on this misused subject, and may be depended on:—If any of my younger brethren will kindly turn to a good Greek Lexicon (I have Alexandre's before me) he will find the word MUEO "to initiate into mysteries," and the word adapted to Christian ecclesiastical uses means to consecrate, to ordain—it has a further meaning, to initiate into any science, to teach, to instruct. Aristophanes uses the word in the sense of being initiated to the mysteries of Ceres, &c.

There is evidence that after the conquest of Greece, when the two languages of Rome and Greece became mingled, the word MEISONIUS became formed. Thence, by contraction, may be derived the word MASON, which would mean an "initiate," if taken in a general sense.

Some idea of playing upon the two words—so similar, yet so different—would seem to have haunted the mind of the originators of modern English Freemasonry, and probably led to the invention of the third degree, which, be it known, was never heard of for very many years after the time of Sir Christopher Wren and the establishment of the original Lodge of Antiquity. The original Lodge of Antiquity swore, honestly, a Christian oath, as their fellows had done afore them; they did not dabble in a new religion; in ghastly oaths and a false God. That iniquity was reserved for Ikey Solomons of a later day.

> "Why didst thou choose that cursed sin—
> Hypocrisy—to set up in?
> Because it is the thriving'st calling;
> The only Church-bell that rings all in!"

I am indebted to my friend and brother, Lewis H. Oates, of Naples, for calling my attention to this word MEISONIUS, scratched with a style on the wall of a tanner's factory in Pompei. He himself has made a plan of it, and, I believe, intends publishing it. The word MEISONIUS is readily deciphered by the careful observer, although I should add that Professor Fiorelli reads it somewhat differently. Much interested, I visited the house repeatedly, and, on one occasion, spent nearly half a day there, and hope next week to send a detailed description of it.

In front of the TRICLINIUM (or dining table) of this house was found a beautifully-executed Mosaic, or painting in tesselated stones, now transplanted to the Naples Museum. It represents a human skull, surmounted by a square—or probaby the Platonic level, on each side of which is a lance reversed as a flagstaff, to which are fixed rolled up flags or banners of different colours.

The skull is supported by a beautifully-coloured butterfly, with wings spread for flight, and supported on a wheel with six spokes. It is a symbolical representation of Life and Death, with the soul—under the semblance of a butterfly—about to take its flight.

It is evidently of Grecian origin, since Greece, in all she did well, idealised the soft, the refined, the beautiful.

Just as I discovered the above in the Museum, a friend—a Roman Catholic clergyman with whom I had become very intimate, and still am—came up to me, and we spent some time in careful examination and discussion. He quite agreed with me in the remarks I have above made, and thought it not impossible that the ancient initiation into some part of the Eleusinian or other mysteries may have been performed in this house.

I enclose a copy of the Mosaique, which the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE will kindly show to any brother desiring to see it.

The Eleusinian mysteries, of Grecian origin, were introduced into Rome after the conquest of Greece, and became latterly of very general adoption in the families of those who desired for their children a higher standard of morality and higher aims in life and death than heathenism pure could attain to. Bishop Warburton tells us they taught the doctrine of eternal life, and thus must have been opposed to the prevailing doctrines of Epicureanism, as taught by Lucretius. Here, under the symbol of a butterfly, this doctrine is clearly inculcated.

Ubi initiabunt."

Now the verb initio is used by Cicero and others to signify initiation into the mysteries, especially those of Eleusis—there were lesser and greater mysteries. Tertullian, Bishop of Carthage, an early Christian writer, uses the word in the sense of "to baptise," from which we might reasonably infer (if other proof were wanting) that baptism, in the minds of the people generally, had come to be understood as the Christian form or substitute for the old initiations and as it is acknowledged that the early Christians adapted Christian explanations to all they considered good in the old religion, we have here probably the origin of infant baptism, acknowledged to depend on tradition.

If, then, any body of men can be said to be the true successors of the administrators of the ancient mysteries, it is the Christian Church and Ministry.

Now, we are taught by the Polyphemi of our Board that our Society of Masons, or Freemasons, derives its origin from King Solomon of Israel. The man of science who should attempt to prove that the bone of a reptile could by any possibility have belonged to a sucking animal would be scouted, and so would the philosophical historian scout the pretence that a Roman Municipal Institution could ever have been promulgated by an Eastern race.

I will not now enter farther into this argument; it however recalls to mind a statement more than once made by another Masonic journal to the effect that a certain French abbé, by which it is presumed is meant Voltaire, boasted he would destroy Freemasonry. Now, Voltaire never said anything of the kind; speaking of them, he says:—The Freemasons have pretended initiations—such associations have always existed; they also pretend to have secrets," and sarcastically adds, "and they know how to keep them, too." As we learn from America, new societies in connection with Freemasonry constantly arise, for each of which new secrets must of course be invented and guarded by newly invented ghastly oaths. The Camorra, in Southern Italy, is a new proof of Voltaire's remarks. Like our English Freemasons, they have ghastly bloody oaths, which, in their case, they swear on a triangle formed of three daggers. Shall I carry the likeness further? Yes; they are bound by oath to make a sign of prayer at sunset each night, yet they fill the prisons with culprits, and the land with terror in Southern Italy.

Much as an organ of our Polyphemi scorns Voltaire, yet where is the difference. Voltaire said, "Je crois en Dieu," but would go no further. So extremes meet—what do ye more than others?

There is no evidence whatever that English Freemasonry arose otherwise than as a civil association, founded on the principle of truth from hand to hand, from man to man, from land to land, about the time of Sir C. Wren.

Sooner or later we shall get rid of these ghastly oaths, this false religion, and its ancient simplicity will then return. I call upon my younger brethren to give this their earnest consideration, to demand truth in all things, undeterred either by idle fears of the "monstrum," or the fear of losing the sham decoration of a Brummagem button.

Hamlet—I pray thee do it;
If thou did'st ever thy dear country love.

New Athenæum Club, Suffolk-street, Pall Mall.

In reference to Bro. Stevens' motion relating to "Uniformity of Working and Observance," and which was carried at the late Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge, we learn that, at the earnest request of a large number of the Craft, he has consented to the publication of his address on that occasion, for private circulation amongst all who take an interest in the subject. This will be a very useful adjunct to his lately published work on "Uniformity."

The installation meeting of the St. Leonard's Lodge, No. 1766, was held on Wednesday, the 3rd inst., at the Town Hall, Shoreditch. Bro. George Thomas Barr being installed as W.M. for the year. We regret that want of space again precludes the insertion of our report of the proceedings.

PRESENTATION AT THE EBORACUM LODGE.

ON Monday the attendance of members at this Lodge was very large, owing to the circumstance of the meeting being the first under the rule of the new W.M. Bro. C. G. Padel. Amongst those present were Bros. J. T. Seller S.W., G. Simpson J.W., J. S. Cumberland I.P.M., T. B. Whytehead P.M., G. Balmford P.M. and Treas., J. Kay Sec., W. P. Husband Assist.-Sec., M. Millington S.D., H. Jackson as J.D., A. T. B. Turner M.C., O. Marshall Organist, J. Blenkin I.G., J. Girling Steward, P. Pearson Tyler, Ware, Humphries, Carter, Dyson, Davies, G. H. Simpson, Lackenby, &c. The business consisted of a passing and a raising, which were exceedingly well performed by the W.M., the I.P.M. giving the Traditional History. The Lodge having been again lowered to the first degree, the W.M. rose and said he had a remarkably pleasant duty to perform that evening, which was to confer a reward on distinguished merit. Those who had the privilege to belong to the Lodge knew well what the I.P.M. had done for them during his year of office. They knew that his heart was bound up with the Lodge's prosperity. They knew that he was unwearied in his exertions to render the working of the Lodge as perfect as possible, and if they had attained a commendable degree of perfection in the ceremonies in the Eboracum Lodge, they knew that it was largely due to Bro. Cumberland. In the cause of the Charities, and especially in that Province, they knew how their Brother had laboured and what he had done, and it was a great pleasure to him as W.M. to stand before them, and, on their behalf, to beg Bro. Cumberland's acceptance of a Charity jewel, accompanied by an illuminated address which he would read: "Worshipful Brother John Spite Cumberland,—We, the Master, Wardens, and Past Masters of the Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611, on behalf of the brethren of that Lodge, beg your acceptance of the accompanying Charity jewel, the first gained by any member of the Lodge, as a slight token of their appreciation of your services in the cause of the Masonic Charities, and of your unwearied exertions for the welfare of the Lodge during your year of office. Signed by C. G. Padel W.M., J. T. Seller S.W., Geo. Simpson J.W., T. B. Whytehead P.M. P.P.G.D.C., G. Balmford P.M. P.P.G.O., William Lawton P.M. P.P.G.R., James Kay Sec. York, 8th December 1879." The W.M. then called upon Bro. T. B. Whytehead, as the senior member of the Lodge, to affix the jewel on the breast of Bro. Cumberland. Bro. Whytehead, having done this, amid the applause of the brethren, said that it gave him more pleasure than he could express to have a share in a presentation so thoroughly deserved. No words from him could add to the merits of their Brother, who they all knew to be true and faithful, and one of the best all round Masons he ever had the pleasure and privilege to meet. He might perhaps be pardoned for reminding them of the last occasion when a presentation was made in that Lodge, when the late Bro. Cooper, the Father of the Lodge, had attended for the last time, and at great pain and peril to himself, for the purpose of attaching to his (Bro. Whytehead's) breast the P.M.'s jewel given by the Lodge. He thought it was well sometimes to recall the memory of those who had gone before and left so bright an example. He hoped that the I.P.M. Brother Cumberland would be spared for many a long year to wear the jewel with which he had just been invested, and to ornament the Lodge of which he was the Preceptor. Bro. Cumberland, in replying was deeply moved, and said that he had been taken completely by surprise. The brethren had kept their counsel well, but he could now understand several little circumstances which he had lately noticed but not understood. He could not find words to thank them for the beautiful gift, which would ever remind him of some of the happiest hours of his life, which had been spent in that Lodge and in their company. If he had done anything of service to the Lodge, he was more than satisfied to know that the brethren were gratified, and it would ever be his most sincere wish and endeavour to forward its best interests and those of its members, and, whatever he did or said, he hoped the brethren would always believe that he did or said it with the purest and best Masonic motives. Bro. Cumberland's remarks were received with repeated rounds of applause. Bro. Turner M.C. then presented to the Lodge a very quaint old Masonic print, and Bro. Whytehead presented a curious obsolete Scotch apron. The names of two candidates and one joining member were proposed, and the Lodge was closed at 9.15. The brethren then adjourned to the supper-room, where Bro. Churchill had provided a substantial repast, after which some of the principal Masonic toasts were duly honoured, "the Visitors" being responded to by Bros. J. Hanly W.M. St. Patrick's Lodge 295 (I.C.), Russell 295, and Shackles Alexandra Lodge 1511 (Hornsea). The illuminated address to the I.P.M. was handed round and much admired. The initial letters, each form an elaborate Masonic emblem or design, including the entrance to the chequered floor, the apron, the square, level and plumb rule, the rough and perfect ashlars, the tracing boards, the O.B. pedestal, the V. of the S.L., &c. It was executed by Mr. J. E. Morton, illuminator, of York, from designs by Bro. T. B. Whytehead, and was enclosed in a handsome and appropriate oak frame.

ST. PATRICK'S MILITARY LODGE, YORK.

THIS Lodge—No. 295 under the Irish Constitution—attached to the 4th Royal Irish Dragoon Regiment, will hold its installation meeting, by dispensation, on Tuesday evening next, at the Masonic Hall, York.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—At the change of seasons many persons feel oppressed without knowing why they are so—they are aware something within them is wrong, though they cannot detect the defective organ. A few doses of these powerfully purifying and eminently cooling Pills will restore regularity to every part of the system—will cast out all impurities lurking in the frame, and will thoroughly expel the last traces of disorder, however hidden the disease may be—however obscure its cause. With Holloway's medicine relief is insured without risk; erroneous action is rectified without disturbing natural regularity, health is reinstated, and with it return the cheerful feelings which unmistakably tell the recent invalid that all within is right again.

MOIRA LODGE, No. 92.

THE Annual Festival of this Lodge, which is held on the anniversary of the birth of Lord Moira, took place on Monday, at the Criterion Restaurant, Piccadilly. On this occasion the Lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. Wickham Noakes, and his Officers, who were supported by a goodly assemblage of the Past Masters and members of the Lodge, with the following Visitors:—Joshua Nunn P.G.S.B., H. G. Buss Assist. G. Sec., J. M. Hare 1820, H. Western P.M. 231 W.M. Adelphi Lodge, J. H. Smith 279, G. A. Wallis P.M. 916, Thos. Kirkness J.D. 176, J. B. Lambe 145, H. Dumbleton Apollo University Lodge, C. Kerr 1067, Thos. Harrison St. Mary's Lodge, W. J. C. Palmer 1503, Dr. Robert Cross P.M. 189, W. H. E. Miller P.M. 1148, T. P. Child 185, G. B. Browne 25, J. A. Wild 96, D. C. Nichols P.M. 198, J. Whitehead 369, W. W. Morgan Sec. 211, R. G. Webster, T. C. Robarts of the Westminster and Keystone, &c. After the preliminary business had been transacted, the W.M. elect, Bro. Harold Carter, was introduced, and Bro. Josiah Houle P.M., who ably officiated as Installing Master, administered the customary obligation. In due course a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Carter was placed in the chair as W.M. for the ensuing twelvemonths. The investiture of Officers was then proceeded with, the following being the brethren selected. Bros. G. C. Andrew S.W., H. F. Auldjo J.W., E. Horne P.M. Treasurer, Josiah Houle P.M. Secretary, T. Wilkinson S.D., William Bohm J.D., A. Dent I.G., T. C. Speight P.M. Tyler. Past Master Bro. Houle then delivered the several addresses in a masterly manner, and after the transaction of routine business, Lodge was closed. After a brief interval, the banquet was served in the Prince's Room—one of the suite of apartments specially designed by Messrs. Spiers and Pond for their Masonic supporters—(and to their adaptability for the purpose we refer in another part of our present issue). The efforts of the caterers on this occasion were eminently successful, and justice was done to the excellent menu provided. On the removal of the cloth, the W.M., Bro. Harold Carter, briefly introduced the Loyal toasts, which received full honour. With the toast of the Grand Officers was associated the names of Bros. Joshua Nunn and H. G. Buss. The W.M. spoke of the excellent qualities exhibited by Bro. Nunn in his capacity as Vice-President of the Lodge of Benevolence. In speaking of Bro. Buss, Bro. Carter regretted the illness of Bro. John Hervey, which had necessitated the resignation by him of the post of Grand Secretary. However, in Bro. Buss they had one able and willing to carry on the work of the Grand Secretary's office, and he had great pleasure in calling on the brethren to honour the toast. This having been suitably acknowledged, the W. Master called on Bro. R. F. Gould to propose the toast of the evening, which that Brother did in the following eloquent terms:—Brethren,—By the command of the W.M., it becomes my duty to introduce to you the toast of the evening, the memory of Earl Moira, the patron of this Lodge, and in so doing I bespeak your indulgence, whilst for the sixth consecutive year I attempt to place before you a brief résumé of the history of this Lodge, and of its connection with the honoured name of "Moira." As a Lodge we date our existence from 1755, just five years prior to the accession of King George III. At this early stage of the Lodge's career there is little to chronicle. We were born, it may be said, "of poor but respectable" parents; and in a humble way commenced our Masonic life at the Swan in Upper Mount-place, Grosvenor-square. Thence we moved from tavern to tavern; and here I may remind you, Brethren, that in those days Lodges did not possess distinctive titles, but were called after the names of the publics at which they met. When our earliest minutes cease, viz. in 1767, we were pleasantly located at the King's Arms, Tower-street, Seven Dials. Passing rapidly over the first stage of our existence, I now come to the year 1776, and if you will again permit me to bring home this date to your minds by the citation of an historical event—this was the year in which occurred the celebrated declaration of American Independence, when, in lieu of the public house sign by which we had been hitherto distinguished, the name was taken of the Lodge of Freedom and Ease. For nearly thirty years this title was retained, and in the Freemason's Calendar for 1803 we are described as the Lodge of Freedom and Ease at the Three Jolly Butchers, Old-street-road. During this year, 1803, we, however, dropped our old designation, and blossomed into the Moira Lodge, at the new London Tavern, Cheapside. How and under what circumstances this alteration occurred I shall briefly describe. Francis Earl Moira, and later on Marquis of Hastings, the eldest son of the first Earl Moira, was born on the 7th December 1754, and at the age of seventeen, then bearing the courtesy title of Lord Rawdon, obtained a commission in the Army, and two years afterwards embarked for America, where he saw a great deal of active service. For his gallantry at Bunker's Hill he was especially complimented by General Burgoyne, and after serving with equal credit at the battles of Brooklyn and White Plains, the attacks on Fort Washington, and other affairs, in 1778 he was appointed Adjutant-General of the Army, and for his services in this capacity was entrusted, at the battle of Camden, with the command of a wing of the Army, and subsequently, at Hobkirk's Hill, commanded the entire force, and defeated General Greene, one of the ablest of the American Generals. Returning to England, in 1783 he was appointed Aide-de-Camp to the King, and created an English Peer, as Baron Rawdon of Rawdon. In 1793 he succeeded his father, as second Earl Moira. The same year he was promoted Major-General, and in 1794 commanded an English force of 10,000 men sent to reinforce the Duke of York in Holland. In 1812 he was entrusted with the duty of forming an administration, but failed. In 1813 he was appointed Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief, in India, and having brought two great wars to a successful termination, returned to England as Marquis of Hastings, in 1823. Next year he was Governor of Malta. In 1826 he died, on board one of Her Majesty's ships, at Baiae Bay, near Naples. Earl Moira's Masonic services were of an equally distinguished character, and I will pass them briefly in review. In 1789, he was appointed by the Duke of Cumberland (the G.M.) acting G.M., which position he filled until his departure for India, in 1813. In 1804 he became the patron of this Lodge, which has since been designated by his name, and has held its Annual Festival on his birthday. About the same time he was elected, whilst Commander-in-Chief in Scotland, acting Grand Master of Scottish Masons. In January 1813, on his leaving for India, a testimonial of the value of £1,000 was presented him by the Craft, together with a jewelled collar of the additional value of £1,500. The Duke of Sussex presided, and no less than six Royal dukes were present. Earl Moira, on this occasion, delivered one of his greatest Masonic orations, all of which—and they were many—amply deserve the eulogium of Sir James Burnes, who justly pronounced Lord Moira's eloquent exposition of Masonic principles as being altogether unparalleled. The same high authority styles Earl Moira—or, as he was later, Marquis of Hastings—as the most chivalrous character of modern times, and recounts "how his lordship, impressed with devotion for the Craft and love for all the brethren, descended from his high estate, as Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief in India, and, within the halls of his own palace, offered the right hand of fellowship, with his parting benediction, to every soldier, individually, that wore an apron; acknowledging also his pride that Masonic principles had influenced him in the exercise of his authority." In 1823, on his return from India, great preparations were made by this Lodge to entertain him at a grand banquet, at which the Duke of Sussex was to have presided, and which was to have been open to the entire Craft, but which, owing to his lordship's ill health, was first postponed, and afterwards reluctantly abandoned. Brethren, to return once more to our Lodge. You will recollect that I brought up my summary to the year 1804, when we became the Moira Lodge, and in a few concluding words I will endeavour to put before you how and in what manner we have sustained the prestige of the illustrious name by which we have been since distinguished. Our Lodge minutes, which cease in 1767, recommence in 1814. The Duke of Sussex appears to have been a very frequent visitor, and from 1814 to the present date we have had many members of the Lodge who have been distinguished in the Craft. Our oldest living initiate is Sir Moses Montefiore, who was received into Masonry in this Lodge on 13th April 1813. Our roll of Past Masters contains some notable names. Beginning with Bro. Samuel Cardoza, who joined the Lodge in 1807 and died in 1839, I may mention that when on his death-bed, and lying bereft of speech, such was his attachment to the Craft that he took farewell of a brother who had called to see him, by distinctly and emphatically making use of a Masonic sign. The next name I shall mention will be that of Bro. Henry Phillips, who, when Masonic scholarship was rarer than it now is, made an excellent copy of one of the Harleian MSS., which he published in the Freemason's Quarterly Review for 1835. Bro. Isaac Walton is the next worthy to whom I shall allude, and his exertions in the cause of Masonic charity will live for all time. The present Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution owes its primary origin to two well-known brethren—the late Bros. Crucefix and Walton. Bro. Crucefix founded the Asylum, and Bro. Walton first suggested the scheme of the Annuity Fund. Bro. John Bigg was one of our shining lights; during the two years of his Mastership he initiated thirty-five candidates; and was presented in 1836 by this Lodge with a jewel of the value of £40; he was favourably known in Grand Lodge as a most eloquent speaker, and both in the Parliament of the Craft, and on the Board of General Purposes, was distinguished by a most sturdy independence. Bro. Potter, late Secondary of the City of London, will have been known to many present. He was Master of this Lodge in 1848-49, and in 1850 J.G.D. Many, like myself, will preserve a vivid recollection of his last appearance among us. It was eight years ago, at the Annual Festival of 1871, when he was suddenly struck down, whilst addressing the brethren in response to the toast of his health. To the Lodge's appreciation of his sterling merits is due the existence of our present Potter Memorial Fund, and though it is doubted by some whether or not the formation of private benevolent funds, by individual Lodges, is favourable to the more general spread of Masonic relief, in its widest sense, I may be permitted to digress for a moment to remind the brethren of the familiar story of the old woman, whose cow always gave more milk than those of her neighbours, which she accounted for by saying that she milked it oftener. Brethren, the name of that cow was Charity, and under reasonable limits it cannot be milked too often. The last name I shall cite of our Lodge worthies will be that of Bro. Cornelius Thorne, twenty-seven years a member of this Lodge, and who now worthily presides over the Craft in North China as District Grand Master. Brethren, there have been many eminent men, of whom it may be truly said, that they are now too much forgotten. The name of the chivalrous Earl Moira may be included in this category, but I venture to predict, that should an accurate history of English Freemasonry be ever written, no name on the glorious beadroll of our Masonic worthies will stand out in bolder relief, as the embodiment of those virtues and excellencies, which are inculcated in the teachings of the Craft, than that of the illustrious nobleman whose connection with this Lodge we are met together to commemorate, and who has been well described by a distinguished companion in arms—as the scholar of the camp, the patriot, the benefactor of the poor, and one of the brightest ornaments of his country. Brother Wickham Noakes proposed the health of the W.M. This duty was always considered one of great honour in the Moira Lodge, and on this occasion he (the speaker) had great pleasure in performing the task. This compliment was gracefully acknowledged by the W.M., who next proposed the Past Masters. For the toast of the Visitors Bro. Dr. Robert Cross responded, and then came that of the Treasurer and Secretary, the Senior and Junior Wardens, and the other Officers of the Lodge. In each case brief responses were offered, and then the Tyler gave the parting toast. During the evening a selection of vocal music was given, under the direction of Bro. Thomas Lawler. We append the programme:—Grace—"For these and all Thy Mercies;" National Anthem—"God Save the Queen;" Scotch Song—"Twas within a mile"—Madame Ada Patterson; Quintet—"Blow, gentle gales;" Ballad—"The meeting of the waters"—Mr. W. Coates; New Song—"The arrow and the song"—Miss Marion Severn; Song—"Thady O'Flynn"—Madame Ada Patterson; Part Song—"In this hour of softened splendour;" Cornish Legend—"The well of St. Keyne"—Miss Marion Severn; Part Song—"Oft in the stilly night"—Mr. W. Coates; Song—"Blow high, blow low"—Bro. F. Farmer; Glee—"The chough and crow." Miss Bernard, of whom we had to speak favourably last year, again officiated as accompanyist.

WILLIAM PRESTON LODGE, No. 766.

THE regular period of election within this Lodge having come and gone, the day for Installation followed in due course, and on Thursday, 27th ult., the Master for 1879-80 was Installed, and the Officers duly appointed. The Lodge was opened by Bro. Dr. Cutmore, whose geniality in the chair has rendered the meetings of the Lodge during his term of office most enjoyable. After the confirmation of the minutes, the ballot was taken for Dr. D. Mackay Forbes and Messrs. D. G. Hewit and Henry Brown, in each case being pronounced as unanimous in their favour. Bros. C. W. L. Hall and G. Hutchison having proved themselves worthy, were then passed to the second degree, and, on the Lodge being resumed, the three gentlemen named above were introduced and admitted to a participation of the benefits of Freemasonry. Bro. Cutmore then advanced his Lodge, and obligated Bro. W. Manfield Newton as W.M. Elect. Lodge was further advanced, when Bro. W. Jerrett Miller P.M. opened a Board of Masters, and then Installed the new W.M. into the chair in ancient form. He gave the customary addresses, and the W.M. appointed and invested the following brethren to assist him during his Mastership:—Bros. Kidman S.W., Drake J.W., G. J. Kain P.M. Treasurer, Smart J.D., Collens I.G., Newman P.M. Steward, Grant Tyler. Bro. Worrell P.M., who was absent in consequence of his services being required in connection with the School Board, and Bro. Roberts (also absent) were named as Secretary and S.D. respectively, their investiture being postponed until next meeting. The report of the Audit Committee, showing the Lodge to be in a good financial position, was then read and adopted. Bro. Kain read a letter from Mrs. W. E. Newton, tendering her thanks to the Lodge for the kind expressions of sympathy with her in her recent bereavement. Bro. George Newman P.M. having announced his intention to act as Steward at the next Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, the sum of ten guineas was voted from the funds of the Lodge to be placed on his list. Another vote—that for presenting a Past Master's jewel to Bro. Cutmore, in recognition of the energy he had displayed in providing for the comfort of the members—was carried amid general approval. Bro. Captain Kain, with his usual forethought, and feeling sure that the proposition would be carried, said he had purchased a jewel, in order that the retiring Master might be presented with it on the night of the Installation of his successor, and not have to wait until a future meeting, in consequence of the oversight which had occurred at the last in not bringing the necessary proposition forward. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet hall, where a sumptuous repast awaited them, and which was served in the style for which the Cannon-street Hotel is so justly famed. After the usual loyal toasts, the W.M. proposed that of the Initiates, each of whom replied. Bro. Brown was the first to answer the call. Everything he had recently passed through, so strange and solemn, had made a strong impression upon him. He was much gratified at the hearty welcome and kindness extended towards him, and was sure he should never forget his initiation. Bro. Hewit would always strive to do his best for Freemasonry, and hoped to become a credit to the Lodge. Bro. Doctor Forbes expressed his thanks for the very friendly manner in which the initiates were received. It could not be wondered at that they were a little nervous after passing through so impressive a ceremony as they had. He hoped the members would not regret having received them. He, with his brother initiates, would endeavour to prove an honour to the Lodge. Bro. Doctor Cutmore then proposed the health of the W.M., which toast he considered the chief of the evening. Bro. Newton lost the office some years back when he resigned in favour of his father, a worthy action on the part of a son. He had great pleasure in congratulating Bro. Newton on at last seeing him in the chair. The W.M. returned thanks for the kind manner Bro. Cutmore had spoken of him. Since his connection with the Lodge he had received nothing but kindness. He felt deeply grateful to the members for unanimously electing him, after three years absence, to the chair. It was rarely such a thing was done, and it caused him a considerable amount of pleasure. He would endeavour to the utmost of his ability to carry out, in its truest sense, his duty, and hoped to meet at the end of his year of office with the approbation of the whole Lodge. In introducing the toast of the Visitors, the W.M. remarked that one of the best features in Freemasonry was that of hospitality. They were always glad to welcome Visitors. He was happy to say he recognised the faces of several brethren who had favoured the Lodge with their presence on previous occasions. This he was glad to think was a proof that they were well treated. He was always glad to see brethren wearing the purple; it was, therefore, with extra pleasure he coupled with the toast the name of Bro. W. H. Baker P.G.D. of C. Berks and Bucks, and hoped it would not be the last occasion upon which he would visit them. Bro. Baker expressed the great pleasure he had experienced in visiting the William Preston Lodge. He had taken a great interest in Freemasonry ever since his initiation, which dated as far back as 1836. During this forty-three years' experience there was no company of gentlemen he enjoyed more than those he met in Masonry. Go where he might, in whatever part of the country, in the Lodge he was always received and treated as a brother. Bro. Rickwood and other brethren also returned thanks. The W.M., in giving the next toast that of the Past Masters, said: At all times, no matter what society it might be, it was customary to honour old servants. The Past Masters had to bear the heat and burden of the day, always making the work they had to do a labour of love. It was with great gratification he presented Bro. Dr. Cutmore with a handsome P.M.'s jewel, which bore at the back the following inscription: "Presented to Bro. W. Cutmore P.M. by the brethren of the William Preston Lodge, No. 766, as a mark of esteem, and in recognition of the able manner in which he discharged the duties of W.M. during his year of office, 1878-9." All the brethren would agree that the terms of the inscription were not overdrawn. Bro. Newton then, in graceful terms, alluded to the services of the various Past Masters, particularly those rendered by Bro. W. Jerrett Miller that evening in performing the installation ceremony. Bro. Cutmore, in acknowledging the presentation jewel, thanked the brethren for the gift, and said he always endeavoured to the utmost of his ability to fulfil his duties properly. Professional duties alone had kept him away, but his soul was always with the Lodge. He felt very thankful for the jewel, which he should always look upon with pride and pleasure. Bros. Kain, Miller, Braun, and Newman also replied. The W.M. then made a forcible appeal on behalf of the Charities, which resulted in the collection of £1 17s 6d, and after others had received their due share of recognition the proceedings terminated.

ENFIELD LODGE, No. 1237.

THE installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, 8th inst., at the George Hotel, Enfield. The proceedings commenced at 3.30 p.m. Present:—Bro. Cecil Thompson W.M., who was supported by his Officers and a fair muster of the Past Masters and members; also the following Visitors:—Bros. J. Driscoll P.M. 30 P.P.G.P. Middlesex, G. Mason 1540, Collins 1611, Wellington 1421, Everdell 1579, G. Tegg 1579, Dimsdale 715, Garrod 754, and Browne 813. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. The W.M. then vacated the chair, in favour of Bro. J. H. Thompson P.M., who acted as Installing Master, and Bro. Oscar Oxley, the W.M. elect, was duly installed according to ancient custom, the whole of the impressive ceremony being performed by Bro. Thompson in his usual correct and careful manner. The newly installed W.M. having been saluted in the usual form, proceeded to invest his Officers as follows:—Bros. Taverner S.W., Peach J.W., Mathison P.M. Treasurer, J. H. Thompson P.M. Secretary, Poore S.D., Bryant J.D., A. G. Fidler I.G. The investiture was performed most ably, Bro. Oxley fully explaining the symbolical meaning of the several jewels, thereby completing the ceremony in a very effective manner, after which Mr. G. Herbert was duly initiated into the mysteries of the Craft. The name of one gentleman was given in as a candidate for admission into Freemasonry; also two brethren to become joining members. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshments, which were abundantly supplied, and tastefully laid out, by Bro. Mathison. The cloth having been removed, the W.M., in neat and appropriate terms, gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts: that of the Provincial Grand Officers was responded to by Bros. Tye and Driscoll. The latter hoped every member of the Lodge might one day obtain the honours of the purple. The I.P.M., Bro. C. Thompson, proposed the health of the W.M., who, in responding, said he could not find words adequate to express his grateful thanks for the warm manner with which the brethren had received the toast. It was most gratifying, after working his way up in the Lodge, to be placed in his present proud position; he felt his full responsibility, inasmuch as he was presiding over men of Provincial renown, and of great Masonic ability. In respect to his Officers, he felt sure they were men competent to discharge their duties with satisfaction to themselves and credit to the Lodge; they would likewise aid him in upholding the dignity and integrity of Freemasonry. The W.M., in proposing the health of the Past Masters, presented, on behalf of the Lodge, a Past Master's jewel to the I.P.M. Bro. Cecil Thompson; in doing so, he spoke in feeling terms in respect to his (Bro. Thompson's) recent severe illness. Bro. Thompson felt he was not deserving of the jewel; through illness he had not been able to attend to the duties of the Lodge as he could have wished. He therefore looked upon it as a gift which testified their sincere and pure friendship, and would thereby render it doubly valuable to him. Bro. Tye also spoke of the sound vitality of the Lodge; what with the new blood, and such a Treasurer and Secretary as they had, the Lodge could not fail to prosper. To the health of the initiate, Bro. Herbert briefly replied, expressing the pleasure he felt in coming for the first time amongst Freemasons. Bro. Driscoll, on behalf of the Visitors, after speaking in eulogistic terms of the manner in which the work of the Lodge was done, said he was personally acquainted with all the Officers, and felt sure, as they went up step by step, they would in due time prove fully competent to fill the chair which the W.M. now occupied. Bro. Garrod having been called upon to respond to the toast of the Masonic Charities, recounted the vast amount of good done, and the great number of individuals receiving benefit therefrom. He spoke of local Masonic Charitable Associations, of which he had some practical experience; as "auxiliaries," these rendered great assistance to the Institutions. Upwards of £300 had been collected by himself, in small amounts, from the members of one of these Charitable Associations in the short space of eighteen months; and if every Lodge would form one on a similar basis, the Masonic Charities would flourish in such a manner as would astonish even the promoters. The health of the Officers was next proposed, and responded to, and other toasts followed. The enjoyment of the evening was greatly increased by several of the brethren contributing to the harmony—especially may we mention the excellent singing of Bro. Browne, of the New Concord Lodge. The Tyler's toast brought the meeting to a close, and the brethren separated at a reasonable hour.

Braithwaite having proved satisfactory, they were with due solemnity raised to the degree of Master Mason. Lodge was resumed, and the ballot taken on proposition for Messrs. W. Pain, A. Gilbey, and S. Beaumont. This resulted favourably, and Messrs. Pain and Gilbey, being in attendance, were admitted into the mysteries of the Order. Bro. Hood P.M. assisted in the Deacon's duties. The important elections of the year were then proceeded with, Bro. J. S. Taylor S.W. being unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing twelve months; Bro. J. G. Stevens P.M. was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Speight P.M. Tyler. Bros. Etheridge, Peacock, and Gulley were also elected to fulfil the important duties of Auditors of Lodge Funds. After discussion of business of interest to the members, Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the banqueting hall, where Bro. A. Walter had prepared a repast worthy of the occasion, to which due attention was paid. Upon the removal of the cloth, Bro. Thorne having promised that he would not indulge in long speeches, gave in appropriate terms the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. P.M. Wynne next proposed the health of the W.M., with whom all were so well acquainted; he would not, as time was on the wing, detain them with a long speech in honour of the toast. Bro. Stevens here gave with effect Tom Hood's humourous poem, "Tim Turpin." Bro. Thorn, in reply to the cordial reception of the toast, said it was probably the last time he should have the honour of replying, in his present capacity, for the hearty manner in which his name had then, and on all occasions been received. He had promised to be brief in his remarks, but he felt he could not sufficiently express his appreciation of the warmth of the reception of his name as W.M. Whilst upon his legs, he would propose the toast of the initiates. Since he had been in office he had never been without them at any regular meeting, and he was glad to have two that evening, who he felt sure would do credit to the Order. Bro. Clark having obliged with a song, the initiates—Bros. W. Pain and A. Gilbey—suitably responded to the hearty reception the toast had received. The toast of the Visitors was next honoured, Bro. Thorn claiming for the Yarborough Lodge a title to a high character for hospitality. Upon no occasion had he been more pleased than on the present to welcome so large a number of brethren, who had honoured them with their presence. Bro. W. Sparks gave a capital rendering of W. V. Wallace's "When other lips and other hearts," which was greatly enjoyed, and the Visitors severally responded—all giving high praise to the Yarborough Lodge for its working and its thorough hospitality. The other toasts honoured were the Past Masters, the W.M. elect, and the Officers of the Lodge, to whom the W.M. paid a high tribute of praise for the manner in which they had supported him during his period of office. To this toast thanks were returned in suitable terms by the Officers present, and the Tyler's toast brought a most enjoyable evening to a close. Among the many items contributing to this happy result must be mentioned the really effective services of Bro. G. T. H. Seddon, Organist, who, both in the Lodge and during the post prandial proceedings, furnished a considerable quota to the fund of enjoyment. The songs of Bro. Sparks, Bro. Thorn ("The Wolf"), and Bro. Stephens ("She wore a wreath of roses") being accompanied in the best taste.

Middleton) was unanimously elected to the chair of W.M., and two brethren were passed to the second degree. The collar consists of, alternately, the monogram "H.C." and a plain panel with oval clasp, on which are engraved the names of the several W.M.'s since the formation. The badge consists of the square, from which hangs an oval pendant with the arms and crest of Humphrey Chetham enamelled in the heraldic colours. The chain will be presented on the day of Installation in February 1880, and, should any of the Manchester brethren desire to see it, will be on view at the establishment of the designer, Bro. Joseph Crowther, 38 King-street, Manchester.

Fenner worked the fourth section of the first lecture, assisted by the brethren. The auditor's report was adopted. Bro. Serjeant was appointed to preside at the next meeting.

The first, second and third sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Christian, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Clarke will preside at the ensuing Wednesday's meeting. In consequence of pressing business engagements, Bro. Chitson resigned the post of Hon. Sec., and Bro. Hadley Prestage was selected to fill the position pro tem. The election will take place in April next. Nothing further being offered, the Lodge was closed in due form.

the Merchant Navy 781, and Bro. Midgley, of the Corinthian 1382, were unanimously elected members. Bro. Myers was elected to fill the chair next meeting. This brother's working, as we have said before, is perfect. The Lodge then closed in due form. We regret absence of the Secretary precluded our inserting any report of last week's meeting.

High W.M., Aspinall S.W., Thomas Jones J.W., Blunt S.D., Crain J.D., Martin I.G., J. Lorkin Secretary, C. Lorkin Preceptor; also Bros. Grist, Gittens, Olley and others. Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, No. 1602.—The usual meeting of the brethren of this prosperous Lodge was held at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, on Friday, the 28th ult., under the presidency of Bro. Alfred Francis Rowley W.M., and despite the notice on the summons, "No Banquet," by some considered ominous, there was a fair attendance. The W.M. was supported by Brothers J. Weston S.W., John Osborn J.W., and other Officers. Among the Past Masters present were Bros. I.P.M. Coombes, E. Lionel, Edward G. Sim; also Bro. R. G. Thomas, the manager of the popular Mohawk Minstrels, the Organist of the Lodge. The principal business consisted in conferring the F.C. degree upon Bro. Isaac Eisenstein, which work was most efficiently performed by the W.M. and his Officers, and the Lodge was duly closed usual manner.

West Middlesex Lodge of Instruction, No. 1612.—At a meeting held at the Feathers Hotel, Ealing, on Thursday, 4th December. Present—Bros. Alex. Jones W.M., J. W. Fisher S.W. Edmeston J.W., S. Dyer S.D., C. E. Porter J.D., G. Coop I.G., H. E. Tucker Treasurer and Preceptor, J. Wells Secretary; also Bros. W. Seward, H. Stephens, Bellerby, J. J. Clarke, W. M. Wyville, J. Green, Gardner P.M. 780, and Millsom. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Millsom candidate. Bros. Millsom, Bellerby, and Wyville answered the questions leading to second degree and retired. The Lodge was opened in second degree; Bro. J. Wells volunteered as a candidate, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed. The Lodge was closed in second degree. Bro. Preceptor brought forward the case of a distressed brother of the Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780, and proposed that £2 should be voted out of the funds of the Lodge for his relief. Bro. Fisher seconded this proposition, and it was carried unanimously. Bro. J. W. Fisher was elected W.M. for Thursday, 18th December, and the Lodge was closed in due form, with solemn prayer.

West Smithfield Lodge of Instruction, No. 1623.—The usual meeting of this Lodge was held on the 1st inst., at Bro. T. Butt's, the New Market Hotel, Snow-hill, E.C. Bro. R. Greenwood W.M., supported by Bros. King S.W., Laurence J.W., W. Pennefather P.M. Preceptor, E. Mallett P.M. Hon. Sec., Johnston S.D., Van Raalte J.D., Cohen I.G.; also Bros. Silver, Pettett, Willis, D. Moss, Valentine, Mac. Butt, Hammond, Keeble and Stephens; Past Masters Wallington and Adams. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes received confirmation. The W.M. then worked the ceremony of initiation very creditably, showing the value of the instruction given to beginners at this Lodge by Bro. P.M. Pennefather. Bro. Moss worked the first, Bro. W. Wallington the second, and Bro. Stephens the third sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. King was elected to the chair for the next meeting. The offices of Preceptor, Secretary and Treasurer were filled by the re-election of the same brethren. Bros. Stephens, Silver, King and Laurence were elected to audit the Lodge accounts, and report thereon on the 8th inst. A vote of thanks was passed to the Secretary and Preceptor for the excellent discharge of their respective duties. Bros. W. H. Wallington P.M., 860 and F. C. K. Keeble 1426 were elected members, and they thanked the brethren. Lodge was then closed.

The members of the Vitruvian Lodge, No. 87, spent a very pleasant evening on Wednesday, on which occasion they held their first regular meeting in the new building erected by Bro. G. Isaacs. This building is situate in the Belvedere Road, Lambeth, and is to bear the name of the South London Masonic Hall. In our opinion it is admirably adapted for the purposes for which it was constructed, and this was shared in by all the brethren who were present. We will give particulars of the proceedings the evening in our next.

NORTHUMBERLAND AND BERWICK LODGE OF MARK MASTERS (TIME IMMEMORIAL.)

THE installation and festival of this time-honoured Lodge took place at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on the 26th. The Lodge was opened by Bro. W. E. Franklin I.P.M., supported by the Officers and C. B. Banester P.M. G.M.O. of England, Capt. J. A. Forbes P.M. P.G.S.W. The minutes of the last meeting were confirmed. Bro. Forbes P.M. then presented Bro. Dr. Luke Armstrong to the W.M. to receive at his hands the benefits of installation. All below the rank of P.M. then left the Lodge, and on their re-admittance saluted the new occupant of the chair according to ancient form. The W.M. then appointed and invested the following Officers for the ensuing year—Bro. W. E. Franklin I.P.M., T. J. Armstrong S.W., R. L. Armstrong J.W., J. E. Robson M.O., R. G. Solomon S.O., J. Wood J.O., R. Lock Treas., G. W. Lax R. of M., J. S. B. Bell Sec., S. M. Harris S.D., J. Usher J.D., W. S. Hughes P.M. D.C., G. Place Org., C. B. Ford I.G., A. R. Taylor S.S., E. Marston J.S., G. S. Sims Tyler. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Turk's Head Hotel, where they sat down to a capital banquet served in the best manner. Grace having been said, the W.M. gave the first toast, "The Queen, and other members of the Royal Family." The next toast on the list was that of the M.W. Grand Mark Master of England, followed by the Deputy Grand Mark Master and Officers of Grand Lodge, with which toast the name of Bro. C. B. Banester P.G.M.O. was coupled. Bro. Banester expressed his thanks at having his name associated with the toast of the Grand Officers. It was now fifteen or sixteen years since he was first made a Grand Officer. The Grand Master, Lord Skelmersdale, was a most affable man, perhaps the most, excepting the three Princes, that he knew. He regretted he could not attend more frequently, but he could heartily compliment them on their working, and wished them prosperity. The W.M. then proposed the health of the Rev. Canon Tristram, the R.W. Provincial Grand Master, in doing which he expressed the high opinion he had gained in the Province by his learning and experience in Mark Masonry. Next followed the health of the D.P.G.M. of the Mark degree and Officers of Prov. Grand Lodge, with which was coupled the name of Bro. Forbes P.G.S.W., who in reply said he felt honoured in having to reply to the toast, but regretted that the Deputy P.G.M. was not present to do so himself, he assured them he would never forget he had the privilege of being S.G.W., nor that he was a member of that time-honoured Lodge. Bro. Banester, in the course of some well-chosen remarks, submitted the name of the W.M. He remarked that they were ruled over by three Armstrongs, which in this town is a tower of strength. He hoped they would emulate the great Armstrong, and make that Lodge second to none, not only in the province, but throughout England. The W.M. thanked Bro. Banester and the brethren for all the kind sentiments expressed towards him. He would do his utmost to uphold the reputation of the Lodge, and secure its prosperity. Before sitting down he would propose a toast which he knew would meet a hearty reception; this was the health of Bro. W. E. Franklin, the Installing Master and I.P.M. He had been called upon to do double duty by the unfortunate ill-health of the last W.M.; but he was always at his post, and deserved the special thanks of the brethren. With this toast he would also couple the name of Bro. Cockburn, the late Master, from whom he then read a telegram, wishing prosperity and every felicity to the Lodge and the brethren. Bro. Franklin returned his thanks for all the kind things said of him, but he specially thanked the Officers for their support, without which he could not have had so pleasant a term of office. The remaining toasts on the list were—"The Officers," "The Visitors," "The Charities," and the Tyler's toast, all of which received due honour. Some capital harmony was rendered by Bros. Place, Ford, Franklin, Banester, &c. Altogether, the proceedings of the day were most successful.

DEATH OF BRO. A. H. REID.

MANY of our readers will hear with regret of the death of Bro. Reid, Registrar of the Wrexham County Court, which took place on Wednesday morning at his residence, Nythfa, Wrexham. Bro. Reid had been in delicate health for the past two years, and during the last twelve months he has been rarely able to perform the duties of the office, which were consequently delegated to the Deputy-Registrar, Mr. Vaughan-Williams. The office of Registrar was formerly held by the late Mr. Edgworth, and on his death, nearly twelve years since, Mr. Vaughan-Williams, the then Judge of this district, in whose gift the office was, presented it to Bro. Reid. It is fair to say that though Bro. Reid was related by marriage to the Judge, his Honor stated as his reason for the selection that the position of Registrar was an important one, inasmuch as it required a knowledge of the practical working of the Bankruptcy Laws, and he had made this the ground of his selection. This judgment of his Honor has been amply justified by after events. In the whole of his official life Bro. Reid exhibited a thorough acquaintance with his profession, especially that branch of it more intimately connected with the office he held. As a rule his decisions were accepted by the profession, and only in one instance do we recollect an appeal being successful in obtaining a reversion. Perhaps no better proof of the manner in which he performed the duties of his office could be given, than by the fact that it secured him the respect and esteem of all his professional brethren, and indeed of all those who had occasion to come into contact with him. Into private life it becomes us not to intrude, further than to say that the virtues of his character, which shone so conspicuously in his public life, were undimmed in his family circle. He leaves a widow and family to mourn his loss, and at the early age of forty-three years he has gone to that "bourn from whence no traveller returns." Bro. Reid was born in 1836, being the son of an eminent physican, Dr. Reid, of Brook-street, London. He was articled to a city firm, and afterwards practised in London for some years, prior to his appointment in Wrexham. In 1872 he married a daughter of the late member of Parliament for Merionethshire, Mr. Williams of Castle Deudraeth. He was a Liberal in politics, and until the present year held the position of Treasurer to the Wrexham Liberal Association. While in the enjoyment of his usual health he was an active member of the Freemason fraternity. He was initiated into the Order in the Denbigh Lodge, and was one of the brethren who assisted in the formation of the Square and Compass (Wrexham) Lodge, and held office under the mastership of Bro. Lewis. He afterwards succeeded to the chair, being the fourth W.M. in the history of the Lodge. The funeral takes place to-day at mid-day, and will be attended by his brother Masons, in full Masonic costume, a dispensation for the purpose having been granted for the occasion by the D.P.G.M., Sir Watkin Williams Wynn. The brethren meet at the Lodge room at eleven o'clock a.m., from whence they will join the procession. This mark of respect for a deceased brother is exceptional in character, and can only take place by permission of the Grand Lodge authorities. It is honorable to the fraternity, and will no doubt be rightly appreciated by the family of the deceased.—From the Wrexham Advertiser, Dec. 6th, 1879.

THE CRITERION ANNEXE.

THE Lodge accommodation of the Metropolis has received so much attention of late that the question almost arises whether we have not enough to satisfy all requirements for some time to come. The great increase in the number of London Lodges during the past few years has given rise to a rivalry amongst those whose business it is to cater for the Craft which has led to the providing of special quarters in various parts of London for the holding of Masonic meetings, due regard being paid, at the same time, to the special requirements of the banquet table. We have frequently had to announce the opening of new Masonic homes, and to describe briefly their special features; this week we have pleasure in adding another to the list. Although for a time this may remain the last candidate for public favour, it is far from being the least deserving of support; and we venture to predict it will not long be kept solely for the use of the Moira Lodge, which now meets under its roof. Six years since, the enterprising firm of caterers, Messrs. Spiers and Pond, opened the Criterion Restaurant, in Piccadilly, not without fears being freely expressed at the time that the undertaking was too extensive for successful working. The prognostications of those who entertained these doubts have, however, been proved utterly uncalled for, as the establishment has been a marked success from the day of its opening. The pressure, indeed, on various departments has lately become so great as to render it imperative that considerable additions should be made to the accommodation of the old building, and accordingly, the site of some adjoining shops having been secured, the services of Mr. Verity, the architect of the Criterion, were called into requisition, and from his plans an elegant addition has been made, which has been appropriately named by Messrs. Spiers and Pond the Criterion Annexe. Now that the space is available, it is proposed to introduce certain new features into the business, as well as improve and develop others which past experience has led the proprietors to consider are appreciated by the public, and among this latter we may class the wants of the Craft. Hitherto, the accommodation at the Criterion for Masonic meetings has been of a similar description to that offered by most establishments of a like nature, but now a suite of rooms has been specially designed and furnished for the practice of Freemasonry. The convenience and luxury of this latest addition to our Masonic homes can but be appreciated by the brotherhood at large, and, as we have already stated, will doubtless soon receive support from the London Lodges.

Among the other novelties which are now introduced may be mentioned the Café on the ground floor, comprising an American Bar and a Vienna Bier Saal, the former replete with all the newest fittings demanded for the concoction of the favourite drinks of our American cousins. The presiding genius of this branch of Messrs. Spiers and Pond's business in the old building is doubtless well known to many of our readers, both in his official position and in the Craft, of which he has for some time past been a member. We doubt not he will be as pleased to greet his friends in his new quarters as he was happy to provide for them in the old. A new grill has been erected, and the taste of lovers of oysters specially considered in the providing of a bar devoted to the vending of that delicacy. On the floor above the Masonic suite is a magnificent hall, which can be used at will as an adjunct of the present Criterion Grand Hall. This is intended for public banquets, regimental dinners, balls, wedding breakfasts, &c., and will form a valuable addition to the accommodation already afforded at the establishment. By this enlargement Messrs. Spiers and Pond will also have a suite of private rooms available for dinner parties, public and private meetings, legal arbitrations, &c., so that they will be in a position to widen the circle of their business connection. The premises throughout have been decorated in a highly artistic style, and the furniture and fittings have been chosen with sole regard to elegance, suitability, and comfort. The building, in its external characteristics, assimilates to the architectural outlines of the parent building, the Criterion, and Mr. W. Webster, the contractor for the construction, deserves unqualified praise for the manner in which he has carried out the admirable plans of Mr. Verity, the architect.

PROJECTED EXTENSION OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I was surprised to learn from your remarks under the above head in the last issue of your paper that so large a sum as £6,500 is proposed to be spent without the subscribers receiving any intimation. On inquiry I find that it is not compulsory for the Secretary to send me a notice of any meetings, and therefore I feel that the whole of my donation to this estimable Charity, small though it may be in comparison to the large total collected each year, may be squandered away without my knowing anything about it. Surely this is not right. I am a young Mason, already a Life Governor of two of the Charities, and fully intend to subscribe more as soon as I feel in a position to do so; and I think that I am fully entitled to receive a notice when so large an amount as £6,500 is going to be spent. The cost would have been very trifling, as a circular with a halfpenny stamp is all that would have been required.

For some time past I have been in the habit of buying plots of ground in the suburbs of London, and either cutting them up for building purposes, or reselling them entire, but I should never dream of giving so much as £1000 an acre, and therefore I cannot imagine why the Girls' Institution should offer so much as they are now doing. I do not know much of the neighbourhood of Clapham Junction, although I have been there several times, but I cannot believe there is a house anywhere near the School that is worth £325 a year rental, even if it has three-quarters of an acre of ground attached, and as a freehold property it should certainly realise five per cent. I shall endeavour to pay a visit and see for myself what we are going to buy, and then, if I am still dissatisfied, I shall attend the next Court, and express my feelings.

I beg to remain, yours fraternally,

A LIFE GOVERNOR.

THE LATE MEETING OF GRAND LODGE.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—You say in your report that "the brethren refused to hear" Bro. While. I know you desire to be fair, and I beg to inform you that you misrepresent the fact. I commented upon the indiscretion of Bro. Stevens in discussing ritual questions in print, and that Brother, who had begged and prayed for a hearing, had the discourtesy to raise a shout himself. The critic refused to be criticised. He who had wide-opened eyes for the faults of others could not submit to friendly reproof. I could bear with the bearishness of the few in the assembly who followed the lead of the Clapham P.M. and P.Z., but it is not right that you should represent Grand Lodge as breaking its own laws. If Bro. James Stevens set an example of intolerance, followed by some, you ought not, by the indiscretion of perhaps an amateur reporter, to exhibit men of sound judgment as altogether lacking in the essentials of gentlemen, as your report in these words does represent Grand Lodge. As a matter of fact I said all I intended to say, and, indeed, conveyed more than I intended, for in saying that perhaps Bro. J. Stevens looked to be Grand Director of Ritual, I made a clumsy jest, at which that vigorous-minded and strong-lunged Brother took offence, and I withdrew the expression in order to soften the rancour of his wrath.

Yours faithfully, obediently, and fraternally,

135 Loughborough-road, J. WHILE.

CORRECTION.—DERWENT LODGE, No. 40.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The sentence commencing "The first Lodge constituted at Hastings" should read, "The first Lodge constituted at Hastings was, in 1799, at the Swan Inn—No. 583, Lodge of Harmony G.L. Moderns." I was in hopes that the list of Lodges in the "Freemason's Calendar and Pocket Book" for 1880 would have been carefully revised, and the dates annexed to those Lodges formerly under the G.L. Ancients; as it is the only authorised list published, it should be a perfect one.

Yours, &c. T. F.

BRO. S. B. WILSON AND THE HOUSE COMMITTEE OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Being unable to attend the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys to-day, I beg to forward you a copy of a letter I have addressed to them with respect to my dispute with the House Committee.

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

S. B. WILSON.

27 Walbrook, London, 6th December 1879.

27 Walbrook, E.C., 27th November 1879.

To the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.

Brethren and Gentlemen,—Consequent on the seeming misunderstanding with respect to my account for business services in connection with the Institution at Wood Green, which were completed more than twelve months ago, I beg to lay before you a brief statement of the facts.

The House Committee having refused to order payment of the balance due to me, I was obliged to apply for payment through my solicitors. Since such application I have received payment of £100 without prejudice, with the understanding that the balance was to be referred to arbitration. To this I agreed, and offered to refer the matter to Sir Henry Arthur Hunt, C.B., who is the arbitrator for the Office of Works in all such matters, than whom I considered there could be no better authority. The House Committee declined to accept Sir Henry Arthur Hunt as referee, having resolved that they would not refer the question at issue to any Freemason. My solicitors were therefore compelled to inform them that proceedings would be taken for the recovery. On this I was officially informed that Mr. F. Stanley, of 22A Austin Friars, had been appointed by the House Committee with full powers to settle with me. I accordingly immediately instructed my solicitors to stop all further legal proceedings, and requested a gentleman of my own profession to give Mr. Stanley any explanations he might require. It is now more than two months since my friend first endeavoured to make an appointment with Mr. Stanley, and he has made repeated endeavours since, but hitherto without avail. I may add that should I be compelled to recommence proceedings, all the professional gentlemen I shall call as witnesses on my behalf, who are of high standing, will give evidence that there are no overcharges in my account; but, on the contrary, that the usual professional rates are considerably higher than several of the charges on which I have based my account.

I do not know where the blame lies, but I do think that I am not being treated at all fairly in the matter, and as I do not wish to take legal proceedings, I appeal to you with confidence to see me righted.

I am, Brethren and Gentlemen,

Your obedient Servant,

S. B. WILSON.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THE General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys met last Saturday at Freemasons' Hall. There were present—Bros. J. Joyce Murray in the chair, C. F. Matier, H. Massey, E. B. Grabham, Richard Morris (Head Master), H. S. Goodall, W. Maple, George J. Palmer, S. Rosenthal, W. F. C. Montrie, Thomas Meggy, F. Adlard, and F. Binckes Secretary. After the reading and confirmation of the minutes, Bro. Binckes informed the Committee that the investment of £1500 ordered at the former meeting had been made. Two boys were to be admitted into the School by purchase. The Committee then examined petitions, and placed six boys on the list of candidates for admission at next election. Bro. Binckes read a letter from one lad to whom an outfit was granted at the meeting of the Committee in November, thanking the Committee for the gift. Four outfits were afterwards granted to boys who since leaving the Institution had obtained situations. A vote of thanks to the Chairman closed the proceedings.

COMMITEEE MEETING OF THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution met on Wednesday at Freemasons' Hall, when there were present—Bros. J. Creaton (in the chair), C. A. Cottebrune, Jas. Brett, Thos. Cubitt, Wm. Stephens, A. H. Tattershall, Fredk. Adlard, Chas. Jno. Perceval, Jno. G. Stephens, Richard Hervé Giraud, C. G. Dudley, Jno. H. Leggott, J. M. Case, S. Rawson, Nath. Geo. Philips, Chas. Atkins, and James Terry Secretary. Bro. Terry read a letter from the Earl of Carnarvon, conveying H.R.H. the Prince of Wales' sanction to the day of the Festival of this Institution being altered to 9th February. The death of one annuitant was reported, and the report of the House Committee was read and received. A letter from Bro. R. Percy Middlemist was read, offering his services as hon. surgeon to the outdoor annuitants, and the same was accepted with thanks. Five male petitions were accepted, and one was deferred for one month. Five widows were accepted. Application was made for the use of the hall at Croydon for the New Year's Entertainment to the residents of the Institution, and the same being granted, £20 was voted towards expenses. The proceedings closed with the customary compliment to the chairman.

CONSECRATION OF THE THISTLE LODGE, S.C.

EXTRACT FROM THE "WAIRARAPA DAILY," OF SEPT. 5, 1879.

AN event of considerable importance as regards the practice of Free and Accepted Masonry in these parts took place in Masterton on the evening of Tuesday last. For some considerable time past it was felt that the cause of Masonry in the Wairarapa stood greatly in need of additional impetus, or otherwise it was felt that the interests of the Craft was in imminent danger of dying out altogether. In this dilemma two or three of the more energetic local members of the Order took the matter in hand, and having overcome some slight opposition, together with a very considerable amount of indifference on the part of those who might have been expected to have known better, the consecration of the Thistle Lodge, the installation of its first Master and investiture of his Officers on Tuesday evening was the outcome of those endeavours. We are requested on behalf of the Lodge to state that the members of the Grand Lodge, Scotch Constitution—the Constitution under which the Thistle Lodge has been established—as also the members of the various Lodges established in Wellington under that particular department of the Order, gave every possible assistance and encouragement to their Masterton brethren in furtherance of their endeavours. That fact was more conspicuous in the number of Grand Lodge Officers and other Wellington brethren who came up to Masterton on Tuesday for the special purpose of being present at the ceremony. Without being in the slightest degree invidious, we are permitted to explain that until sufficient Past Masters were made in the district, Masters elect of the local Lodge were compelled to go to Wellington to obtain the rights conferred on the Master elect of the Thistle Lodge on Tuesday. The sequence of that proceeding was as follows:—Bro. E. T. Gillon Acting D.P.G.M. and his Officers having approved of the apartment selected for Lodge purposes, Grand Lodge was formally opened and constituted in accordance with ancient usage. The consecration service was then proceeded with. Bro. Carver, who was ably assisted by a well-trained choir belonging to the Lodge in Wellington, presided at the harmonium, and the various chants, odes, and anthems appropriate to the proceedings were rendered in a style hitherto unknown to Masonic celebrations in the Wairarapa. The prayers, exhortations, and addresses peculiar to the occasion were rendered ably and impressively by Bro. Gillon and his Grand Lodge Officers. Indeed, nothing could have exceeded the ability and good taste displayed in the matter. The symbolical sprinklings, as also the proclamations in the east, west, and south were all parts of the ceremony performed in a manner which showed how beautiful and impressive the service really became when properly rendered. This was more particularly the opinion of those who had on one or two occasions of late years witnessed similar ceremonies in the Wairarapa. A board of Installing Masters was then formed, and Bro. A. D. Cowan formally installed into the duties and responsibilities of the first Mastership. According to the Masonic practice, Bro. Cowan was saluted with Masonic honors on the proclamation of his installation being made. The officers named in the D.G.L. dispensation were then called up, and formally invested with the insignia of their respective offices. This being done Bro. Gillon addressed the newly-elected Master, his officers and the brethren. Having instructed them respecting their several duties and the observance of their several obligations, he proceeded to trace the history and progress of Craft Masonry as a system. He dwelt at great length upon its antiquity, and furnished interesting data of its preservation and promulgation as a traditionary system. Referring to its more recent history, he mentioned the fact of its rapid spread throughout every part of the civilised world, and defended the tenets of the Craft against imputations made against it by a misdirected ecclesiastical zeal. Alluding to the imputation made against it that it was a secret society, he made an eloquent appeal to the fact that all Nature, in working out the grand design of the universe worked out its operations in secret and surrounded by profound mystery. Before concluding the speaker alluded to the defection of the Grand Orient of France, and expressed a hope that the voice of Masonry throughout the world would continue to support the various Grand Lodges in the course they had taken with respect to that defection. In reply,—the newly elected Worshipful Master delivered the following oration:—Right Worshipful Masters, Past Masters, and worthy brethren—I consider it meet I should address you as a Mason raised by you to the proud position of Master of one of the few Scotch Lodges in this Provincial district. However, as we have a great deal of work still before us, I must limit myself to a few remarks. As a Mason initiated, passed, and raised in an English Lodge, I shall, I trust, always retain special feelings of gratitude and veneration for my mother Lodge; at the same time, as a Scotchman, it has always been my earnest desire to become a member of the constitution holding under the country which gave me birth—a country which produced a Bruce, a Wallace, and a Burns, whose muse was always devoted to praise and ennoble the Craft of which he was a worthy Master. In addressing you on some of the principles of the Order I trust you will bear with me, nor deem it presumptuous in so young a man to enunciate his Masonic opinions to those who are much his senior in the Craft. Let my apology be that since my admission among you I have always earnestly endeavored to profit by the advice and experience of my elders, and to educate myself in the traditions and principles of the Order. In deserting operative for speculative Masonry, I cannot but think we have benefitted considerably by the change. The substitution of a research into the mysteries of Nature and Science for a mere mechanical pursuit, has necessarily ennobled the Order and laid the foundation of the greatest institution in the world—an institution based on the most perfect system of morality, and which has existed and flourished from the time of King Solomon's Temple, and will so continue to do so long as any members of the human race display an interest in the principles of moral truth and virtue and the acquisition of knowledge. Again, taking the question from a theological point of view, to be truly Masonic is to be truly religious, whether a man be Jew or Christian. As regards the Jews, the Temple of Solomon was ever famed in all its ordinances for virtue and holiness; and he who in his religion as a Mason honors not his calling belongs neither to Solomon nor to Hiram. As Christians, the pillars of your temple are Faith, Hope, and Charity, and to which I shall take the liberty of adding, with an inspired Apostle, "the greatest of these is Charity." Masonic charity is charity in the heart: he thinks no evil of his brother, he cherishes no designs against him. It is charity upon the tongue also: he speaks no evil, bears no false witness, defames no character, blasts no reputation. He knows that to take away a good name is to commit an evil, the damage of which no wealth can repay, as it is of more value than great riches—rubies, cannot repurchase it, the gold of Ophir cannot regild it to its pristine beauty. It is charity in the hand also: he anticipates his poorer brother's wants, nor puts him to the humiliation of solicitation. He visits the abode of poverty and the house of affliction, and, like a ministering angel sent from above, finds the naked whom he ought to clothe, the famishing to be fed, the wounded to heal, the sickness to be alleviated, and perhaps also the very mind, struggling in doubt and darkness, which requires his instruction and preparation before it can be fitted to take that last and awful journey to that bourne which rests on the brink of obscurity. Suffer not, then, this, your Grand Masonic principle to be lightly spoken of by ribald tongues, but use your utmost endeavours to make its beauties known and seen by all men. This I contend to be one of the leading features of the Order, and it is our duty as well as our privilege to propagate the exercise of this great and noble virtue in these, its threefold operations, and he who does it not is destitute of the true Masonic heart, which is the heart of benevolence, charity, and love. And now, my Worshipful Masters and brethren, it only remains for me to tender you my sincere thanks for the honour you have done me and the privileges you have conferred upon me. It will be my earnest endeavour to discharge the duties of Master of this Lodge with fervency and zeal; and I can assure you that in accepting the position I shall consider myself in the light of a High Priest of the best and noblest system of morality the world has ever produced, and not the mere President of a social order. Brethren, my best thanks are due to you for the trust and confidence you have reposed in me. We have certain mutual duties and responsibilities towards each other, and from my knowledge of you I am certain they will be well and worthily carried out. In conclusion, permit me to hope that God, the G.A. of the Universe, will continue to cement and adorn our Order with all the moral, social, and intellectual virtues, and endow us with such a competency of wisdom as will enable us to carry out the trust reposed in us in such a manner as will redound to His glory and the credit of our Order. The ordinary business of the Lodge was then proceeded with, when a number of the old members of the Craft residing in the district were formally admitted joining members. A large number of candidates were initiated, after which the Lodge closed in due form. Bro. Carver has been elected Organist, and steps have been taken with the view of organising a Lodge choir.

In the evening forty of the brethren sat down to a banquet in the club-room of the Empire Hotel. Both as regards elegance and supply, the provisions made for the creature comforts was on a scale surpassing anything of the kind which has yet taken place in the Wairarapa. The seat in the East was occupied by the newly-elected R.W.M., in the West by the S.W., and the South by the J.W. The Acting D.P.G.M. and his Officers supported the R.W.M. on the right and left. The usual Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to with Masonic honours and enthusiasm. In responding to the toast of the Thistle Lodge, the R.W.M. said that it was a well-known fact that opposition had been shown to the establishment of a Lodge in Masterton holding under the S.C., that opposition had taken a form he deeply deplored. It placed him in an awkward position. It was the younger members of the Lodge, the newly initiated who were the most liable to be embarrassed by that sort of feeling. He could only counsel those brethren that it was necessary to exercise great forbearance, and to avoid by all means antagonism against those by whom they have been thus used. It was only by the exercise of this forbearance that a proper state of Masonic feeling would be brought about in the district. Allusion was likewise made to the constitution of the Lodge. The R.W.M. said that although not the founder of Scotch Masonry in the Wairarapa, Bro. Robert Carrick was undoubtedly one of its fathers, and although a non-resident in the district, he had done valuable service in getting the Lodge established. The proceedings of the evening were agreeably diversified by song and sentiment, the meeting breaking up at midnight, with that good old Scotch benediction "Auld lang syne," which was joined in by all present with true Masonic enthusiasm.

ANCIENT EBOR PRECEPTORY OF KNIGHTS TEMPLARS.

Sir Knight A. M. Broadley P.E.P. Melita Preceptory, Malta, and Prov. G. Prelate of the Mediterranean, was elected an honorary member of the Preceptory. The alms having been collected, the Preceptory was then closed, and the members adjourned to supper at the Queen's Hotel, where the usual toasts were duly honoured.

St. James's Union Lodge, No. 180.—The regular meeting of this excellent working Lodge was held on Tuesday, 9th instant, at Freemason's Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. S. Farwig W.M., W. Stollard S.W., C. J. Wade J.W., L. B. Pillin Treas., W. C. Parsons P.M. Sec., G. B. Fletcher S.D., J. Wood J.D., Bishop as I.G.; P.M.'s Stonor, Cameron, L. Herf, A. Annett, Robinson; Bros. Reibold, Adams, Boemper, Symons, Much, A. W. Staton, Maxted, Bishop, Shelley, Pinto Leite, Leper, Lakin, Sarte, &c. Visitors—Bros. D. P. Case P.M. 1159, C. Holste 1441, Brailey 1531, Guye 34, H. M. Levy P.M. 188. Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Boemper, of a Lodge in Mayence, was elected a joining member. Bro. Adams was raised to the third degree. Bro. Boemper was passed to the second degree, and Mr. Thomas Denne, who had been balloted for and accepted, was initiated into the Order. All these ceremonies were perfectly and impressively rendered by the W.M., who was ably assisted by the Officers. The W.M. gave the Traditional History, and the explanation of the five points; he was listened to with great attention. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. Stollard S.W. was unanimously chosen. Bro. L. B. Pillin was re-elected Treas., and Bro. Gilbert Tyler. Bro. Stonor was re-elected Treasurer of the Benevolent Fund. Bros. Adams, Russell, and Maxted were appointed auditors. Bro. Pillin P.M. proposed, and Bro. Cameron P.M. seconded, a proposition that a gold Past Master's jewel be presented to Bro. Farwig on his retiring from the chair, for the able and efficient manner in which he had conducted its duties during the past year, and in testimony of the high estimation in which he was held by the brethren. The W.M. thanked the brethren for their kind and cordial vote; he would wear the jewel with pride in remembrance of his connection with the Lodge. The W.M. then intimated that it was his intention to represent the Lodge at the next Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and a sum of ten guineas was voted from the fund to be placed on his list. Bro. Pillin P.M. said, some time since the late Bro. Francatelli promised a snuff box for the Lodge. Since his death his widow wished to carry out this request. He hoped that a suitable plate and inscription would be placed on it, and also that a letter be sent to Mrs. Francatelli, thanking her for her gift. Bro. Staden offered to have a suitable plate and inscription placed on the snuff box, and Bro. Levitt offered to keep it filled. A letter was read from Bro. H. A. Stacey P.M., late Secretary, thanking the Lodge for the valuable testimonial presented to him. Bro. Fletcher S.D. proposed that a ball be held as hitherto, under the patronage of the Lodge, and the W.M. elect consented to act as President. The resignation of a brother was accepted, with regret. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet and dessert, provided by Bro. A. Best, and superintended by Bro. E. Dawkins. Grace having been said, the W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. After the first toast the National Anthem was sung by Bro. Pillin, Bro. Hart accompanying him on the piano. Bro. Parsons I.P.M. then rose and said he had great pleasure in proposing the health of the W.M., who was one who had done his duty. Bro. Farwig had worked the ceremonies to their satisfaction, and he hoped the brethren would heartily drink to the toast. Bro. Russell here sang "She wore a wreath of Roses," and then the W.M. thanked Bro. Parsons for the manner in which his health had been proposed, and also for the assistance he had received, not only from the Past Masters, but also from every Officer and Brother in the Lodge; he thanked them for their hearty response. The W.M. had now great pleasure in proposing the health of the newly initiated Brother, who, he was sure, would become a credit to the Order. He would also associate with this toast the name of Bro. Boemper, the joining member. After a song from Bro. Pillin, Bro. Denne returned thanks; he was followed by Bro. Boemper, who fully justified the remarks made by the W.M. The toast of the Visitors was next introduced, after which Bro. Pinto Leite sang in his usual artistic style. Bros. H. M. Levy and Brailey responded to the toast. The W.M. regretted the W.M. elect was absent on business of great importance; however, he was sure the selection the brethren had made was the right one. He next proposed the toast of the Past Masters; all of whom are well known and appreciated. Every reliance and confidence can be placed on them; their working was always good, and their interest for the welfare of the Lodge could not be exceeded. He would call on Bro. Robinson to respond. After a song from Bro. Cooper, Bro. Robinson responded. He saw with pleasure new blood being introduced into the Lodge. He trusted those who had joined that evening would eventually occupy the chair. He regretted the absence of one of the oldest Past Masters, Bro. H. A. Stacey, but hoped on the next occasion that brother would be present; he was sure no one stood higher in their regard. This year had not been commercially a prosperous one, but he hoped when the accounts were audited they would find a good balance in their favour. Bro. W. C. Parsons followed. He hoped the manner the W.M. had spoken of him would fully justify his great anxiety to do all he could for their comfort. The Tyler's toast was next given, and the brethren separated. All agreed that a very delightful evening had been spent. Bro. L. Herf also contributed to the harmony.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—Held at Bro. Butt's, the New Market Hotel, West Smithfield, on Monday, 8th December. Present—Bros. F. Sillis W.M., Halle S.W., Wing J.W., Tolmie Preceptor, Fenner Secretary, Fox S.D., Pelikan I.G.; also Bros. Dove sen., Dove jun., Symons, Patrick, &c. Usual ceremonial was duly observed. Bro. Dove jun. gave proof of his ability as an E.A., and was entrusted. Lodge was advanced a degree, and the ceremony of passing rehearsed, Bro. Dove jun. being the candidate. The ceremony was performed in an able manner by the W.M. Bro. Fenner worked the second and third, Bro. Tolmie the fourth and fifth sections of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was closed in the second degree. Bro. E. Dove, of the Mother Lodge, was elected a member. Bro. Halle was elected to preside at the next meeting, after which Lodge was closed.

Fortitude Lodge, No. 131.—A meeting was held on Tuesday, 9th December, at the Masonic Rooms, Truro. The brethren unanimously elected the S.W. Bro. T. W. Willcocks W.M. for the ensuing year. A very hearty vote of thanks was awarded the Worshipful Bro. J. H. Sampson W.M. for presenting his portrait and a set of ebony silver mounted gavels.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—At Bro. Fysh's, Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, on Saturday, the 6th inst. Present—Bros. Brasted W.M., Mallord S.W., Giller J.W., Pearcy Preceptor, Fenner Secretary, W. Williams S.D., Ross J.D., Spencer I.G.; also Bros. J. Lorkin, Hogg, Trewinnard, R. Defries, Houghton, Mackey, Halford Treasurer. The ceremony of initiation was very capably rehearsed, Bro. Houghton candidate. Bro. J. Lorkin worked the first, Bro. Fenner the second, Bro. J. Lorkin the third, Bro. Fenner the fourth sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Mallord was elected W.M. for next meeting. After which Lodge was closed and adjourned.

Northern Counties Lodge, No. 406.—The regular meeting of this Lodge took place, on the 3rd December, at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. The Lodge was opened by Bro. John Page Prov. G. Standard Bearer W.M., supported by the following Officers:—Bros. R. L. Armstrong I.P.M., R. G. Salmon S.W., G. W. Lax J.W., S. M. Harris Secretary, E. Dunford S.D., J. S. B. Bell J.D., Boyed as I.G., Kerry Organist, Lisson Steward, and G. S. Sims Tyler. The minutes being confirmed, three brethren were raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason by the W.M., assisted by Bro. Armstrong P.M. The degree in each case was worked in the most perfect and correct manner. Routine business having been disposed of, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshments. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts received a hearty response. Bro. S. M. Harris, the Secretary, called the attention of the brethren to the claims of the Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund, and distributed circulars amongst them. A very interesting and animated discussion ensued on the objects of the Fund, in the course of which Bro. Lax J.W. expressed a fear that the promoters of the Fund aimed at doing too much, and, whilst agreeing with some of its objects, he could not support all. Several of the brethren present intimated to Bro. Harris their intention of becoming subscribers to the Fund. The visitors present were:—Bros. J. Cook P.M. 481 P. Prov. G.S.W., the W.M. of the Walker Lodge 991, Braithwaite S.W. 1427, Dodds 1626, Boyed 48, &c., &c.

The Lodge having been opened in the usual form, the Secretary read the minutes of the last regular meeting, which were confirmed. Bro. D. W. Finney P.M. 148 1250 Prov. G.D. of C. West Lancashire had written a paper on the "Masonic Charities," more especially the Royal Institution for Boys, and Bro. Farrington read it, Bro. Finney suffering from a cold. The W.M., Bros. Sharp, Wallhead, Richardson, Hawkins and others having spoken upon the paper, it was unanimously resolved to send a Steward to represent the Lodge at the next Festival of the Boys' School. Votes of thanks followed, to Bro. Finney for his writing and to Bro. Farrington for his reading.

SPECIAL CAUTION.

OWING to the marked success of this medicine, the only patent medicine universally prescribed by the faculty, and the acknowledged cure for constipation, headache, bile, haemorrhoids, &c., BASE IMITATIONS, containing drastic irritants, are being foisted on the public. The genuine preparation bears the title "Tamar Indien," and the signature E. GRILLON, Coleman-st., London, E.C. Price 2s 6d per box. In a recent case, 1876, G. No. 211, a perpetual injunction to restrain the defendant from applying the name "Tamar" to his lozenges was awarded, with costs, by Vice-Chancellor Bacon, on 18th January 1877, and all such piracies will be summarily proceeded against.——N.B.—See that the outer wrapper (directions) are printed in the English language and that each box bears the Government 3d stamp.

PARLEZ-VOUS FRANÇAIS?

MANY of whom this question is asked will say, I can read it and write it, but can't speak it. A neat little volume for the Pocket has just been published by an Ex-Inspector of Public Schools; all the most useful verbs as used in ordinary conversation are therein embodied, alphabetically arranged on an entirely new plan, and printed in large type in French and English, a most rapid system, indispensible to teachers and other persons teaching themselves the language. THE PROJECTED EXTENSION OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

AS may be gathered from our correspondence column, the question of the purchase of Lyndcombe House and grounds by the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls is not likely to pass unchallenged. So far as we are concerned, we have no feeling in matters of this description beyond that which should actuate us all—to do as much good as possible with the funds annually subscribed by the Craft for the purposes of charity, whether they be dispensed by Grand Lodge, or one or other of the Institutions connected with the Order. We are almost tired of explaining this fact in connection with our remarks, but it seems necessary to again refer to it, for we hear it is asserted that we are acting in opposition to the true spirit of Masonic charity. We do not know whether those who make this statement do so from ignorance or stupidity. If from the former, we hope we have now enlightened them; if from the latter we once for all decline to discuss the matter; we can only hope that the future will clearly prove the disinterestedness of our comments. We have given expression to our ideas on this particular matter in rather stronger terms than is our wont, from the fact that we consider the grant a most unwarrantable diversion of the funds of the Institution from their proper course, and in the hope that we may arouse the general body of subscribers to take action for themselves, rather than leave the matter in the hands of the few who were present when the vote was passed. We are strongly of opinion that a notice should be sent to every subscriber of the Charity when such a proposition as the one under question is to be brought forward, and if nothing else results, we hope the present discussion will be the means of causing an alteration in this respect to be made in the laws of the Institution. Considering that an event of so much importance can hardly occur more than once a year the outlay is not worth mentioning—a matter of £15 being ample for the purpose—and then it would be impossible to say that the whole matter had been rushed through, without all interested having been made acquainted with the proposal. Under present arrangements it cannot be said that notice has been given, for there are very many brethren in the more distant Provinces who do not even see a London daily paper from one year's end to another, much less notice any particular advertisement out of the thousands therein inserted; neither can it be expected that the Provincial Grand Secretaries can make it known throughout their respective districts in time to be of any service. It is not our wish to urge the brethren to upset the matter on mere questions of rendering of laws, although we believe the whole of the proceedings could be nullified on that ground alone; we rather advocate a full and free discussion of the arguments for and against the proposed expenditure, and hope that in the end the result will prove for the benefit of the School. We think that whatever is done there can be no necessity to make a personal question of the matter; those who approve of the proposed outlay are as much entitled to respect as those who object to it, and as far as we are concerned no expression of opinion will be excluded from our pages. Hitherto we have been opposed to the expenditure, and unless we can be convinced we are wrong, we shall use every honourable argument in our power to support our view of the case, and that without offering insult to any who may differ with us on the subject. In our issue last week we predicted that any one who undertook the task of leading an opposition must be prepared for abuse; the words were not published before they were verified, for a contemporary, which was issued the same day as ourselves, opened the attack on the objectors with as much abuse as was in its power to express in the few lines devoted to the subject. We will not question the policy or taste of the course adopted, except by pointing out that it virtually defeats the end in view, for no one who has the slightest self-respect would care to lay himself open to such insult as is offered by the editorial in question. Our contemporary understands that the purchase is being violently attacked by privately circulated statements, circulars, and petitions. We do not profess to know all that is going on in the Craft, but we presume we are cognisant of a great deal of what is being done, and so far as we know the purchase is attacked neither violently nor privately. Those who object to the outlay naturally feel that the question must be made public, or else the whole matter will be settled without what they deem the desirable object being attained. So far as we know they support our idea that a circular announcing the proposal should be sent to every one entitled to a vote at the meeting, and surely if they desire to serve all alike they can hardly be accused of acting privately. As regards petitions, the only paper anything like a petition we have seen is headed as follows:—

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

Proposal to spend SIX THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED POUNDS in the purchase of a House and three-quarters of an acre of Land!!!

The undersigned Governors and Subscribers to the R.M.I. Girls respectfully invite co-operation in opposing this suggested misapplication of the funds of the Institution.

December 1879.

What, we ask, is there in this to warrant the charge of violence? If our contemporary has been told that there is any secresy maintained in circulating this form, we can only say, so far as our knowledge goes, that he is misinformed. We have one at our office, ready for the signatures of any wise care to sign, and could name many brethren who like-who have copies if there were any need for such a course—but we hold there is not. It is legitimate, as well as customary, on such questions as the one at issue, for an opinion to be asked for without any hint being given as to who are actually leading; every one who signs may naturally be supposed to have signified his intention of working, and no obstacle would be placed in the way of a brother who felt any desire to obtain a complete list of the signatures. Our contemporary further states that it "says nothing of the ingratitude involved in such proceedings towards that distinguished brother whose labours for the welfare of the Girls' School are beyond all praise; neither of the unworthy clap-trap displayed and the 'bad form' manifested in such underhand proceedings, but desires to protest openly, as before the Craft, against a system of procedure which is unworthy of us as Freemasons and gentlemen, and which evidences lowness of mind as well as an utter forgetfulness of all Masonic teaching, alike in the motives it seeks to suggest, and the end it is apparently anxious to achieve." It is first necessary to point out to the writer of this paragraph that the question at issue concerns no individual in particular, and that it is no more a Masonic matter than is the purchase of a plot of ground in an obscure part of the world by an individual who has never even heard of the existence of Freemasonry. It is a public question, and one that concerns not only the subscribers of to-day, but also those who are to continue in the future the work that is now being carried on. We imagine that Lieut.-Col. Creaton is too much a man of the world to countenance for a moment the idea that the rejection of his proposition would be meant as a personal offence; he might regret that his views did not meet with the approval of the majority, but he certainly cannot wish the general body of subscribers to look upon him as incapable of forming a wrong opinion. We very much doubt whether he will thank our enthusiastic contemporary for suggesting that this shall be the means of gauging the gratitude the subscribers owe him for what he has done in the past. The writer appears to have formed his own idea of the motives attributed by the opponents to those who support the proposition, and we presume they are not complimentary; as he describes them as evidencing an utter forgetfulness of all Masonic teaching. It is a pity the writer does not openly express his suppositions when he is ignorant of his subject, for then it would be possible to answer him; as it is, we must simply pass over his remarks as we find them. His concluding advice is good—"let us avoid mischief makers and agitators of every degree"—if it was not so woefully out of place in speaking of Freemasons. We trust both those who favour and those who oppose this grant will prove themselves to be gentlemen.

THE EVILL HOUSE SCHEME.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your prediction that those who oppose this ill-advised project must be prepared for abuse, has been speedily verified by the publication in a contemporary of a tirade of falsehoods and vulgar aspersions, which would certainly have been refused insertion by the lowest scandal paper of the period. You will possibly agree with me that this ungrammatical splutter of an ill-natured pen is too far beneath contempt to be noticed in your columns, except (1) to express surprise that the respected proprietor of the journal in which it appeared should have permitted his paper to be the medium of circulating such vile trash; and (2) to accept the evidence thrust upon us, that the scheme needs the support of falsehood and scandal, and must consequently be bad indeed. The brief evidently is, "a bad case; no defence; abuse Plaintiff's attornies."

May I beg space, however, to reply briefly to a few of the subscribers who have favoured me with inquiries. One Brother says, "Why was not attention called to the extravagant idea before the meeting was held?" The answer is, there was not time. The meeting was a special one, quite unexpected, called by advertisement only—without summonses to subscribers—a week before the date of holding the Court; and any reference, to it in your pages could only have appeared on the day of meeting, too late for the majority, even of London subscribers, to attend Freemasons' Hall at midday.

I have several requests for "copies of the report of the discussion before the General Committee." The question does not appear to have been submitted to the General Committee. The Special Court was convened upon the requisition of the Treasurer only, and I am not aware that the General Committee has been invited to discuss the matter or to express any opinion upon it. Governors will decide for themselves whether this was courteous or frank. I am further asked if I can tell "whether there is a building fund available for this proposal." Certainly not. Had there been any funds specially subscribed for bricks and land, no objection could fairly have been raised by those who subscribe to the education and maintenance fund. It is the attempt to appropriate the children's money that is objected to. We desire to feed, clothe, and educate the children; if others prefer land speculations, they should at least provide their own capital for their own special object.

From two quarters I have received a suggestion, that it might appear ungracious now to oppose a vote passed at a meeting which we neglected to attend. In ordinary cases, as for instance the Quarterly General Courts, the dates of which we are supposed to know, I admit that this might have some weight; but the fact of a Special Court, for the unusual purpose of voting away £6,500, being called at seven days' notice, without any other intimation than a newspaper advertisement, is an entirely different matter. The opinions of the Governors have not been invited, a snatch vote has been taken without the intervention of the General Committee, and the subscribers will endorse your recommendation that the wasteful vote may be rescinded, and the funds applied to the legitimate purposes of the Charity.

PROJECTED EXTENSION OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Whilst yielding to no man in my desire to see the advancement of the Girls' School, I must yet enter my protest against the proposed expenditure of £6,500 in additional land and buildings, believing, as I do, that the interest on that sum would be more beneficially employed in making grants, of say £20 per annum each, for the education, &c., of children in the vicinity of their own homes. This £6,500 at £4 per cent would thus provide for thirteen of such cases, and if this system were adopted in the majority of instances, both in the Girls' and Boys' Schools, it would have the effect of clearing the long lists of candidates seeking election—some of them year after year without success; and would in my opinion do far more good than the present system, by extending the benefits to a much larger number of children.

I need only point to the West Lancashire Institution, which adopts this home system of Education, to the relief of a large number of children every year; also to the East Lancashire Institution, which, though of more recent formation is carrying on a great and good work on somewhat similar lines. Without wishing to disparage the good accomplished by the Girls' and Boys' Schools under the present system, I think it cannot be denied that some such supplementary scheme as I have thrown out will ere long of necessity have to be adopted, in order to meet the constantly increasing number of applications, and if adopted, will, I have no doubt, be hailed with satisfaction by the Craft generally.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

J. N.

East Lancashire, 15th December 1879.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—At the last Festival of the Girls' School I paid ten guineas to constitute myself a Life Governor, and I most strongly protest against more than one-half of my money—that is, I believe, the proportion as compared with the year's income—being spent in acquiring the plot of ground and house, as proposed by Bro. Creaton. It makes one almost regret giving when such wholesale waste is contemplated.

Yours fraternally,

DISGUSTED.

THE LATE MEETING OF GRAND LODGE.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—After twice reading the letter of "Bro. WHILE," and referring to your Report of Grand Lodge proceedings to which he alludes, I must confess myself unable to see the point of his protest. If our Brother's remark as to "the indiscretion of perhaps an amateur reporter" is intended as a depreciatory comment upon the résumé of an unusually long meeting, as given in the CHRONICLE of the 6th instant, I think that on a re-perusal he will be bound to admit that, if it is the work of an amateur, many professionals engaged on our daily journals might take a few lessons from that amateur with advantage. If his objection refers to the facts as reported, I cannot discover any inconsistency. "Bro. WHILE" may have said all he wished to say, but, as a matter of fact, he was certainly inaudible to the majority in Grand Lodge, after the perpetration of what he himself terms his "clumsy jest" on Bro. Stevens' motive. What then is the point of his objection to your report?

Yours fraternally,

17th December 1879. P.M.

UNIFORMITY OF MASONIC WORKING AND OBSERVANCE.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am pleased to see from your impression of last Saturday that Bro. Stevens has consented to print for private circulation his speech in Grand Lodge on the 3rd instant. It will be of great interest to many Provincial brethren who, like myself, were precluded by distance from hearing the details of his arguments, which must have been most effective to secure the success which has attended his motion on the subject of "Uniformity."

I have read the report of the discussion in the Freemason. Anything more feeble in the way of opposition than Bro. Woodford's speech I never read. I could have spoken nearly every word of it in seconding or supporting Bro. Stevens's motion. It appears to me to be simply this:—Previous to 1813 there were many and varying Rituals in use among the Craft, but at that date it seemed good to Grand Lodge to order that henceforth there should be only one use Ritual. Therefore, urges Bro. Woodford, it is desirable that any Lodge should be at liberty to adopt any fanciful variation it may choose, and any attempt to reproduce uniformity is undesirable, and must be abortive in its results. Oh, Bro. Woodford, where is your logic? Nay, where is your common sense? Because Grand Lodge in 1813 gathered into one the various uses, each having its own concurrent authority, therefore in 1880 the one authorised use is to be tampered with by all sorts of unauthorised variations.

Put the same line of thought as applicable to the ecclesiastical controversies of the present day. Before the reign of Elizabeth there had been many recognised uses of public worship in the Church of England—Sarum, York, Durham, &c. The evil of this was so apparent that it was determined to reduce the services to one use, and the Act of Uniformity was passed to enforce the decision. Good! Therefore, according to Bro. Woodford, in 1880 the clergy ought to have full liberty to introduce into their churches any variations in the one authorised use they like; they need not confine themselves to York, or Sarum, or Durham, but may pick and choose and intrude on the public worship of the Church any rite or form that takes their fancy. The very idea would drive the wildest Ritualist (I am tainted that way myself) stark staring mad! Yet this is the argument which the obstructives put forward, and are simple enough to suppose will weigh with thoughtful men.

Put it in the form of a syllogism:—

Many Lodges have introduced unauthorised rituals of their own.

 Therefore these Lodges are in the strict line of obedience to Grand Lodge!!!

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours truly and fraternally,

T. R., P.M. &c. Cornwall.

ROYAL JUBILEE CHAPTER, No. 72.

A REGULAR convocation of this old Chapter was held at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, on Thursday, the 11th inst., under somewhat melancholy circumstances, the M.E.Z. having died very suddenly three days after the last convocation, and the Companions in consequence appearing in mourning. Ex-Comp. Foxall I.P.Z. occupied the chair of M.E.Z., supported by Ex-Comp. Nunn H., Ex-Comp. Lovett J., Ex-Comp. Webb P.Z. Treasurer; Comps. Dunn S.N., H. Lovegrove P.S., Salter 1st Assist. S., Potter Janitor; Laskey P.Z., Dodson P.Z., Lean, Cox, Amis, Walker, and others; the only Visitor being Ex-Comp. Thompson P.Z. 507. After ballot, Bro. Reid was introduced, and duly exalted, the lectures being given by Comps. Foxall and Nunn in a very creditable manner. The installation of Principals was proceeded with by Ex. Comp. Foxall, the following being the complete list of Officers:—Comps. Nunn M.E.Z., Lovett H., Dunn J., Webb Treas., Foxall Scribe E., H. Lovegrove Scribe N., Salter P.S., and Potter Janitor. Comp. Salter invested Comps. Amis and Walker as 1st and 2nd Assistant Sojourners. It was proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that a letter of condolence be sent to the widow of Comp. Durkin, the late respected M.E.Z. After the transaction of some routine business, the Chapter was closed, and the Companions adjourned to the banquet, over which the M.E.Z. Comp. Nunn presided.

PRUDENT BRETHREN CHAPTER.

THE regular Convocation for the Installation of Principals and Investment of Officers for the next twelve months was held on Tuesday, the 9th instant, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, W.C. Present—Comps. Thiellay M.E.Z., Cox H., Venn J., States P.Z. Scribe E., Haslett N., Braine 1st Asst. Soj., Bull P.Z. Treas., Warrington P.Z., Moody P.Z.; also Comps. Verrall, Lambe, Leggott, Woods, Moon, Manby, Reid, Chinnery, J. Langton, Pringle, Clarke jun., Waugh, Masters, Banks, Elsley, Biggs, Martin, Leliva, Headon, Woodliffe, Lenty, Jermyn Boyd, and J. D. Langton. Visitors—W. F. Hingston 93, Smallpeice 21, Stanning 538, Hutchinson 188, Broadley (D.G.M. Malta) 1717, J. L. Thomas P.G.S.B. P.Z. 13, Z. 1328, Green 975, Stiles 1507, &c. Chapter was opened in due form, and the Companions were admitted. The minutes were read and confirmed, and the report of Audit Committee was received and adopted. A Board of Installed first Principals was formed, and Comp. Cox installed as Z., by Comp. Bull; Comp. Venn installed as H., by Comp. Cox; Comp. Haslett installed as J., by Comp. Cox. The Investiture of Officers next took place, Comps. Bull P.Z. Treasurer, Moody P.Z. Scribe E., Belfrage (by proxy) Scribe N., and Braine Principal Soj.; the latter appointed Comps. Headon as 1st Assistant, Leggott 2nd Assistant. Comp. Reinhards was elected Janitor. The ballot was then taken for Bro. J. D. Langton; it proved unanimous in his favour, and he was introduced and exalted into R.A. Masonry. Two resignations were received, and accepted, with regret. The report of the Committee appointed by the Chapter to confer with the Committee of the Lodge of Prudent Brethren as to the best means of perpetuating the memory of the late Comp. Boyd was read by Comp. Kerrall, Secretary to joint Committees. The Committee recommended that the sum of fifty guineas be voted by the Chapter, to be added to a similar sum from the Lodge, in order to found a John Boyd Medal, to be presented annually for competition in the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, in which Institution our late Companion took a great interest. Bro. Bull P.Z. Treasurer gave notice that he would propose, at the next meeting, that the recommendation of the Committee be adopted. Chapter was then closed.

North London Chapter of Improvement, No. 1471—A convocation was held at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, N. on Thursday, 11th December. Present—M.E. Comps. Hobbs Z., Braine H., Cusworth J., Mather Preceptor, McMillan P.S., Halford Treasurer, Hunter S.E., Weston N.; Comps. Fysh, Lee, Griggs, Brasted and Cogan. The M.E.Z. declared the Chapter open for the purpose of Improvement, and the minutes of the last convocation were read and confirmed. The ceremony of Exaltation was rehearsed, Comp. Brasted acting as candidate. Comps. Lee, Brasted and Cogan were elected members. The Chapter was then closed and adjourned to Thursday, 18th December, at eight o'clock, after which it will be closed for a fortnight, and resume on Thursday, 8th January 1880.

MASONIC KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

AT the meeting of the Veterans' Encampment, held at the Huyshe Masonic Temple last evening, E. Sir Kt. V. Bird presided. Sir Kt. Thomas Heath, 1st Captain and P.P.G.S.B., was unanimously elected as E. Commander for the year commencing March 1880; E. Sir Kt. J. Anstin as Treasurer; and, on the suggestion of E. Sir Kt. J. B. Gover, it was resolved that there be no banquet on the occasion.

It is with much pleasure we learn that Bro. Sir Francis Wyatt Truscott—at present in office as Lord Mayor of London—has been unanimously re-elected W.M. of the Grand Master's Lodge, No. 1, which holds its meetings at the Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen Street, W.C.

We have received from Messrs. Ward, Lock and Co. the first number of a new weekly magazine, entitled "The Illustrated Household Journal and Englishwoman's Domestic Magazine." It contains what has long been wanted—a cheap weekly fashion book, also useful and entertaining articles on needlework, and notes upon subjects specially interesting to ladies. It is intended that the monthly parts be enclosed in a wrapper, and contain a coloured Fashion Plate, or other suitable Supplement.

THE ROYAL PRINCES AND FREEMASONRY.—On Saturday afternoon their Royal Highnesses the Duke of Connaught and Prince Leopold were admitted as members of the United Orders of the Temple and Malta in England and Wales. The ceremony was performed at the elegant little Masonic Hall of the Supreme Council, 33 Golden-square, which is devoted entirely to Masonic purposes, and where there is a choice library of Masonic books, and a beautiful museum of Masonic curiosities. The ceremony was performed by Colonel Shadwell H. Clarke, Great Sub-Prior, in the presence of a distinguished company, including Lord Skelmersdale Great Prior, Mr. W. Beach, M.P., Captain N. G. Philips, General Brownrigg, General Henry Clerk, Colonel Barney, M. Sandeman, Sir Patrick Colquhoun, Sir Michael Costa, Mr. R. H. Giddy, Mr. S. Rawson, Mr. James Lewis Thomas, Colonel Randolph, Colonel Burdett, General Doherty, Mr. E. Letchworth, Mr. Magnus Ohren, Mr. Hyde Pullen, and Mr. J. M. P. Montagu. The Royal Princes, according to ancient custom, were introduced as Knights of the Temple, and having been properly obligated, were invested as Knights of the Temple and Malta. The ceremony which was very imposing—the whole of the knights being arrayed in gorgeous robes, and the hall bearing all the insignia of the degrees—having been completed, their Royal Highnesses signed the book of names and retired.—Daily Chronicle.

"Unity is strength," is a motto that is universally recognised as correct, and bearing this in mind the employés of several public bodies have of late years combined for various purposes, among other matters selected by them being that of trading. These amateur shopkeepers have, in not a few instances, been so elated by the apparent success which has attended their efforts as to imagine that they were geniuses in the line, and, perhaps from the novelty of the situation, or for want of something to occupy their leisure hours, some of them have started large establishments for the purpose of catering for themselves and families, as well also for as many of their friends as could be imbued with the notion that the acmé of shopkeeping had been discovered. The action of certain Crown servants—a branch of the community that has made itself especially conspicuous in this respect—has somewhat raised the ire of the tradesmen, whose interests appear to be affected by the operations of these amateur traders, and accordingly a wordy warfare has ensued. Of this it is not our intention to give any particulars; we sympathise with the traders, but at the same time we believe that the so-called evils of Civil Service trading will eventually prove a blessing to the community at large, who will speedily discover that ready money purchasers are respected and treated as well by private firms as by corporate bodies. It stands to reason that a man who has devoted time and money for the purpose of perfecting himself in a certain branch of business, can serve us better than he whose education has been so directed as to fit him only for the ledger or correspondence department of a large establishment, and, therefore, we have no hesitation in predicting that if the traders will only show a bold front the trouble will soon be at an end. Among the strongest opponents of this trading by Crown servants we may mention Messrs. J. E. Shand and Co., wine merchants, of Albert Mansions, S.W. Whether our esteemed friend the head of that firm has or has not formed the same opinion as ourselves, it is very certain that he now offers to compete with the Stores on fair business grounds—that is, a small profit based on the system of cash purchases, to which he can add the advantage of a long and tried experience, and a reputation for fair dealing. In business there should be no Freemasonry, but if we can deal with our brethren on the broad principle of helping one another, we think we are fulfilling a law, perhaps unwritten but none the less binding.

ST. JOHN'S LODGE, No. 104, STOCKPORT.

THE Annual Festival of St. John, in connection with the above Lodge, was celebrated on Monday, the 8th December, at its place of meeting, Ashton-house, Greek-street, Stockport, when, in addition to its own members, the Lodge was honoured by the presence of many distinguished visitors. There being a pressure of business on hand, a morning session was held, at which the report of the Charity Committee for the past year was adopted. The following extract from it speaks for itself of the good work done by the Lodge in this direction, viz. :—"Your Committee have during the year devoted £126 to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, £10 10s to the Cheshire Educational Institution, £5 5s to assist an aged member of the Lodge of Concord 323 in obtaining a Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution annuity, and £23 in relief of local cases of distress; altogether a total of £164 15s. Towards this amount the Lodge Fund has been taxed to the extent of twenty-five guineas only, the remainder having been derived from the regular Charity receipts, supplemented by the voluntary donations of the brethren." The acceptance of this report was followed by the initiation of two brethren, and Bro. Major Francis Preston, C.E., was raised to the completion of his degrees. It may also be stated that a very worthy and distinguished Mason—Bro. Captain Henry Turner P.M. 62 and 654 P.P.G.S.W. Derbyshire—was duly elected as a joining member. After a short adjournment, the important event of the day—viz., the Installation of Bro. Henry Collier S.W. and W.M. elect—was then commenced, the ceremony being in the hands of Bro. Herbert Finch, a P.M. of the Lodge, P.G.D. of C. Cheshire, who appointed, for the purpose of the ceremony, Installed Masters to the several positions in the Lodge, viz. :—Bros. Captain H. Turner P.P.S.G.W. Derbyshire S.W., Alderman Hardon P.P.S.G.D. East Lancashire J.W., Dr. T. Smith P.P.J.G.D. Cheshire Chaplain, C. Pearson P.M. 104 and 1077 Secretary, W. Harrison P.S.G.D. Cheshire S.D., W. Hickton P.J.G.D. Cheshire J.D., T. Brooks P.G.A.D.C. Cheshire D. of C., Lieut.-Col. Wilkinson (Mayor of Stockport) P.P.S.G.D. Cheshire Organist, C. Booth W.M. 287 I.G. The presentation of the W.M. elect was now proceeded with, and on its completion the Lodge was opened in the third degree, the M.M.'s retired from the Lodge, and a Board of Installed Masters was opened in ample form. Bro. Collier then received the full benefit of Installation, being, according to ancient custom, placed in the chair of King Solomon. The Board was then closed in as complete form as in opening. The brethren, on their re-admission, saluted their newly-installed W.M., who now named his Officers for the ensuing year, viz. :—Bros. W. Harrison P.S.G.D. Cheshire I.P.M., Councillor T. Burrows S.W., William Booth J.W., W. W. Skelmerdine Treasurer (re-elected), G. Balfe S.D., T. Bullock J.D., H. Finch P.M. P.G.D.C. Cheshire D. of C., E. Stevens Assistant D. of C., H. W. Mather I.G., J. Fox and W. Bradley Stewards, J. Meadows Tyler. The investiture was, in each case, made by the Installing Master (Bro. Finch), and accompanied with full explanation of the various jewels worn by them, Bro. Finch being himself invested as Director of Ceremonies by the W.M. The necessary addresses to the W.M., his Wardens and brethren brought to a close as grand a ceremony as it is possible to have the privilege of witnessing. Bro. Finch was undoubtedly in his best form, and was very ably supported by the Installed Masters before named. The W.M. said he had great pleasure in presenting the I.P.M., on behalf of the brethren, with a P.M.'s jewel. He had well earned the good-will of the brethren, and they hoped he might long be spared to wear it. Bro. Harrison I.P.M. acknowledged it, in appropriate terms. He should always be glad to serve the St. John's Lodge. A vote of thanks, amidst applause, was accorded to the Installing Master for his perfect rendering of this beautiful ceremony. Bro. Finch, in reply, said he was obliged for their generous expressions of feeling. Whatever was worth doing at all in Masonry was worth doing well. In endeavouring to do this he was simply discharging his duty as a Mason. The Lodge was closed in ancient form, and the brethren were served with a banquet, which, after the labours of the day, was not unwelcome. The usual loyal toasts were given and properly honoured. "The R.W.D.P.G.M. (Bro. W. Egerton Esq. M.P.) and the rest of the P.G. Officers, past and present" was proposed by the W.M. and responded to by Bros. Lieut.-Colonel Wilkinson P.P.S.G.D. Cheshire, Dr. T. Smith P.P.J.G.D. Cheshire, and T. Brookes P.G.A.D.C. Cheshire. The toast of the P.G. Officers of the neighbouring Provinces was proposed by Bro. Burrows S.W., and responded to by Bros. Alderman E. Hardon P.P.S.G.D. East Lancashire and Captain H. Turner P.P.S.G.W. Derbyshire. That of the W.M. was proposed by the I.P.M. In reply, Bro. Collier said his best services should be given to the Lodge, and he hoped the Officers and brethren would support him as they had other W.M.'s in the past. Their continued prosperity was then certain. A very enjoyable evening was spent, a marked feature being the choice selection of glees, which were well sung by Bros. Edmondson 287, Gaskell 104, Pearson P.M. 104 and 1077, W. Alcock S.D. 322, W. Booth J.W. 104, G. Balfe S.D. 104. The effect of the Installation was greatly enhanced by the same vocalists rendering the choral service arranged for it by the Installing Master. In addition to the brethren already mentioned, there were present—Bros. Alderman J. L. Vaughan P.M. 1030 (ex-Mayor of Stockport), Major Staples W.M. 1030, J. Worsnup W.M. 322, G. Atkinson W.M. 323, T. Wilkinson P.M. 1126, R. R. Lisenden 317, J. Leigh S.W. 287 P.G. Steward, Dr. Bailey P.M. 322, W. Owen W.M. elect 993, Bowden P.M. 336, and the following members of the Lodge, viz. :—Bros. H. W. Warren, A. Gaskell, G. Atherton, W. Raynor, G. Nayler, J. Eaton, J. Bell, J. Wood, T. Taylor, W. Gleave, T. Turkington, T. Sutton, B. S. Smith, M. B. Sutton, H. Soel, J. Stafford, T. Davies, A. G. Cumming, &c.

ARTHUR JOHN BROGDEN LODGE, No. 1715, GRANGE OVER SANDS.

WE had the honour of an invitation to the Installation meeting of this prosperous Lodge, which was held on Wednesday, the 10th of December, at 2.30 p.m., in the Masonic-hall. At the time appointed we made our way to the Masonic-hall, escorted by our old friend the W.M. elect, and punctual to the minute the W.M., Bro. Thomas Ashley, opened the Lodge with solemn prayer. Minutes were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for a joining member, also for a gentleman for initiation, both being favourable. The initiation ceremony was most efficiently performed by the W.M., and we were surprised by the impressiveness he gave to the ceremony. The next business being the installation of the W.M. elect, after the obligation, and the retirement of the brethren below the rank of Installed Masters, a Lodge of Installed Masters was opened, the W.M. was presented, and the ceremony being completed, the Lodge of Installed Masters closed, the brethren were again admitted, and the several Officers invested. The following is the list of Officers for the ensuing year :—Bros. John Mossop W.M., Thomas Ashley I.P.M., T. Westwood S.W., W. Postlethwaite J.W., James Askew Treasurer, T. Ashley Secretary, W. Brickel S.D., S. Affleck J.D., A. Slater I.G., J. Cleminson Org., J. W. Jopson Steward. The Installing Officer was Bro. T. Dodgson P.P.G. Pursuivant Cumberland and Westmoreland P.M. P.Z. 995, &c., assisted by Bro. Cornfield P.M. P.Z. P.P.G.P. West Lancashire. The Installation ceremony and investment of Officers was done in a most perfect manner, so much so that we were delighted to find such perfect work so far north, and it is highly creditable to the two brethren for the pains they have taken to reduce the ceremony to such perfection; we are sure the respective Provinces have done well to secure such enthusiastic brethren on the roll of Prov. G. Officers; merit and ability having gained them the honour, it would be a step in the right direction if some neighbouring Provinces would take the same course, and grant more Provincial honours to meritorious brethren, and not let subscriptions to our Charities be the only test for preferment. We were remarkably struck with the kind and genial manner which seems to pervade this Lodge, the motto being, "to be happy ourselves and promote the happiness of others," which is ably carried out. The business of the meeting being concluded, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to Rigg's Grange Hotel, where an excellent banquet was provided, and was fully appreciated and full justice done to it. The usual Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to. Many of the visitors having to leave early by train caused the proposal and response to their toast brief, but nevertheless to the point. In conclusion, we can look back on our visit to the Arthur John Brogden Lodge with a vast amount of satisfaction and pleasure, and trust we may have the happiness to meet its members again. This being its third year,—it is comparatively young,—but we are convinced of its success, and that it will be one of the lights in the Province of West Lancashire. We sincerely trust the Province will soon acknowledge its worth. We are unable to give a full list of Visitors, but we noticed, amongst others, Bros. John Case P.M. P.Z. &c. 995, Paxton S.W. 995, T. Dodgson P.P.G.P. P.M. P.Z. 995, Installing Officer; Cornfield P.P.G.P. P.M. P.Z., from Barrow; John W. Turner P.M. 521 P.Z. 290.

THE GREAT CITY LODGE, No. 1426.

December thirteenth, eighteen seventy-nine,
In London, at the Cannon Street Hotel,
The Lodge "Great City" met, in numbers strong,
Under the Mastership of Bro. Blackie;
Whose gavel, at its potent summoning sound,
Met with a prompt response, and in the West
The Senior Warden Catchpole took position;
Bro. T. Hamer occupied the South.
Past Masters,—Moody, he who wields the pen,
And Headon, keeper of the money chest,
Were in the North, for minutes and for dues;
Taylor and Kibble, the two Deacons, stood
To order—in their places; Jenkins D.C.,
Fendick and Potter, able Stewards both,
Keeble I.G., with Steedman Outer Guard,
Made the Lodge perfect as to Officers.
Stevens and Freeman, first and last of those Who'd passed the Chair, were also present;
And 'mongst the many members may be named
Past Master Henry Thompson, Donald Clark,
Bertram and W. Metchim, Styles and Cook,
J. Lindner, Robson, Mozley, Hicks and Shaw,
Hartley and De Leliva, Greening, Frost,
A. Bertram, Mogridge, Durrant, Kent,
T. W. Headon, Postans, Liscombe, Wood,
Ginders and Lockett, Hooper, Boulton, Ward,
J. W. Stephens, Bowen, Lucas, Smythe,
And several others, ("see attendance book").
The Visitors were—Hawkins "Robert Burns,"
Simpson of the "St. Matthews," five two-nine;
Lefeau of number thirty, Cook of "Penge," Robertson the "St. Lawrence," one four-four,
Barnett the "Langton," sixteen seventy-three,
W. H. Barber, "Royal Hanover;" and
Rossignol of twelve sixteen, "Macdonald;"
Greening "Carnarvon," Cutler "Euphrates," Richardson "Skelmersdale," Lawrence "Coborn,"
And W. Iliffe of "Imperial George."

The Lodge, thus formed, was, with a fervent prayer,
Opened in order and solemnity;
Minutes were read, approved, and certified,
And ballot taken for a candidate
Whose fair repute secured him acceptation.
He, Mr. William Wood, was introduced,
Received the Light and fit investiture.
On Brother Postans, after usual proof,
The fellow-Craft's degree was next conferred.
The ceremonial work was well performed,
And proved the skill alike of all concerned
In working pure and simple Masonry.
The Lodge was closed in order regular Down to the first degree, and business then
Was speedily despatched. The claims of Charity
Were not forgotten. The several guests
Forthwith arose "to greet his worship well";
And then, the evening's labour terminated;
The Master closed his Lodge with solemn prayer;
Adjournment from the South was duly made;
Past Master Freeman closed the "greater light;"
And brethren separated:—

Promptly to meet again
Around the social board, whereon was spread
Provision plenty, neither stint nor waste.
The cloth was cleared, and grateful thanks returned,
And then the Master rose; Right well he spoke
Of loyalty, a watchword of our Order,
Calling on each and all to toast "The Queen,"
With whose most gracious name "the Craft" he coupled.
Needless to say with what enthusiasm
That toast so dear to Masons was received!
Nor was less fervour shown when he the name
Of our "Grand Master" introduced, in praise
And thankfulness that Masonry could boast
So worthy and beloved a Prince as chief.
The "Pro Grand Master" next, the noble Earl
Whose name's a "household word" in every Lodge,
Respected for his earnestness and zeal,
Received the honour due to his high rank.
The "Deputy Grand Master and Grand Lodge"
Were also well remembered; after which
The I.P.M. enforced attention whilst
The merits of the "Master" he extolled,
Praising most highly his most perfect work,
And management of all the Lodge affairs.
Then "Pat o' Mullingar" was sung by Shaw,
With brogue and pathos fitting Irish song;
That done, the Master rose to make reply,
And offered grateful thanks for kind support,
Whilst he upheld the credit of the Lodge
And kept its "prestige" bright before the world:
He sought to emulate, if not excel,
The work of former years, and, for his part,
He would not flinch from labour, nor lack zeal
To gain distinction in Masonic work,
And join his predecessors worthily.
Another song—and then the newly made
And worthy Brother Wood was spoken of
In terms of hopeful promise, and received
A hearty welcome to Freemasonry;
To which he made response, with modesty,
Whilst yet with firm assurance he declared
His will should not be wanting, to the end
That he might profit by initiation.
Bertram obliged—and then, in order due,
Past years were well remembered, and to those Who, in their course, had steered the ship "Great City"
Throughout its happy voyage, thanks were given;
Returning which the I.P.M. expressed
The pride and pleasure it afforded them
To find the good ship officered and manned
By able and efficient men, whose zeal
Would still extend that voyage prosperously.
Past Master Stevens, he of "Uniformity,"
Added his thanks, and, in a brief address,
Referred to late events of interest
To all who have at heart pure Masonry.
Him, Headon followed, with "a few remarks"
Pungent and full of sense as usual.
Barnett, of sixteen seventy-three, then sang
"The Vicar o' Bray" in manner excellent.
Due honour to the "Visitors" was paid,
And welcome of the heartiest accorded.
Cutler, Lefeau, and Hawkins first replied,
Each in his turn expressing pleasure felt
At work in Lodge and social gathering.
Barber, of "Royal Hanover," and one
From Walsall, Brother Simpson, also spoke
In terms of high appreciation.
The "Treasurer and Secretary" then Received their fitting meed of gratitude.
Moody replied, with vigorous address
And usual exhortation as to dues.
Recital—"Mason's Vows" by "Father"—then
The "Officer's" and "Tyler's" toasts were given,
And at an early hour, with hearts elate,
Mutual good wishes for the Christmas tide,
And hopes that the New Year prosperity
Might bring to each and all, and re-unite
The bonds of brotherhood so well enjoyed,
The Brethren separated, and—"That's All!"

FALCON LODGE, No. 1416.

THE installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, the 11th inst., at Thirsk, North Yorkshire, and in spite of the severe weather there was an excellent attendance of members and Visitors. At one o'clock p.m. an emergency meeting was held for the purpose of initiating Mr. Lional Payne Gallwey, a son of the member for the borough, the ceremonies being performed by the W.M. Bro. T. J. Wilkinson, assisted by Bro. George Ayre I.P.M. Prov. J.G.D. and Bro. the Rev. W. C. Lukis P.M. The emergency Lodge having been closed, the regular Lodge was opened at 2 p.m., and the minutes confirmed, after which the Lodge was raised to the second degree, and the chair was taken by Bro. T. B. Whytehead P.M. 1611 P.P.G.D.C., and the W.M. elect Bro. W. Coltman was presented for installation. The impressive ceremonies were very ably performed, and the newly installed W.M. appointed his Officers as follows:—Bros. T. J. Wilkinson I.P.M., William Hall S.W., Charles Greensides J.W., Rev. C. SAINT LEONARD LODGE, No. 1766.

THE first anniversary of this Lodge was celebrated at the Town Hall, Shoreditch, on Wednesday, 3rd December. Bro. Louis Stean, the W.M., opened the Lodge, being supported by the regular Officers, viz.:—Bros. G. T. Barr S.W., Barham J.W., G. Stevens Treasurer, Cox Secretary, Henderson Chaplain, Benjamin S.D., Jones J.D., Gales D. of C., Clement I.G., Speight Tyler. The first business of the day, after the confirmation of the minutes, was to take the ballot on behalf of Mr. John James Moore, which proved clear. Lodge was then advanced, and Bro. John Staff was, in due form, raised to the sublime degree. On the resumption of the Lodge, Bro. George Thomas Barr, the W.M. elect, was presented by Bro. W. Clarke Prov. G.D. of C. Suffolk for the benefit of Installation, which ceremony was, in regular order, performed by Bro. Stean, who thus brought to a termination a most successful year of office. The first duty of the new W.M., after he had been saluted by the brethren, was to fill the various offices for the year. This he did by conferring the collars on the following brethren:—Bros. Barham S.W., Benjamin J.W., Henderson Chaplain, Stevens Treasurer, Cox Secretary, Jones Senior Deacon, Clement Junior Deacon, Funston I.G., Walker Director of Ceremonies, Matthews Steward, Young Organist, Speight Tyler. The addresses from West, South, and East were then given, and the newly appointed W.M. was at once called upon to perform the first ceremony, Mr. Moore being presented for admission to the benefits of Masonic light. Brother Barr is to be complimented on the way in which he performed his task, as also the manner in which he conducted the business of the evening, suffering as he did acute pain from gout. The ceremony concluded, the W.M. presented the retiring Master, on behalf of the Lodge, a Past Master's jewel, together with an illuminated address. This latter was offered as a token of the regard of the members for Bro. Stean, and as a memento of his successful year of office. It was signed by every member of the Lodge. Bro. Barr, in making the presentation said, it afforded him great pleasure to have the opportunity to convey to Bro. Stean the jewel, and also the thanks of the members. He was sure Bro. Stean would prize the inscription, conveying as it did, the unanimous sentiment of the members, far more than anything else the Lodge could give him. As first Master he had gained the respect and esteem of the brethren connected with the Lodge, and had set a splendid example for others to follow. If in years to come he should have to look down on bad boys, they certainly would not be able to excuse themselves on the plea that they had a bad example set them by the Father of the Lodge. The jewel was of neat and elegant form, and was inscribed as follows:—"Presented to Bro. Louis Stean, in recognition of his high personal worth, and of the many and great services he has rendered to the Lodge during his year of Mastership." This, the W.M. said, was also of almost priceless worth to Bro. Stean, as it was by the unanimous vote of the Lodge that it was presented. Bro. Stean, in reply, said he always bore in mind, and endeavoured to act up to the motto, "May sincerity and fair dealing ever distinguish Freemasons." He felt gratified that he had given satisfaction to the members of the Lodge during his term of office. He had striven to make the Lodge a prosperous one, and hoped he had in a measure succeeded. He felt he could not express his pleasure at receiving the jewel, which he should always prize, but what he most esteemed was the testimonial, which he should always value far above anything else. During the evening the ballot was taken for Bro. Charles Deacon as a joining member. On the closing of the Lodge, the brethren sat down to a banquet under the presidency of Bro. Barr. As the business of the day had been heavy, it was somewhat late before the cloth was cleared, thus rendering it necessary on the part of the W.M. and others to curtail the remarks they had to make in proposing or acknowledging the respective toasts. The usual trio of Loyal toasts having been honoured, Bro. Stean rose to propose that of the W.M. For the first time in the St. Leonard Lodge he had now the pleasure of proposing the health of Bro. Barr as W.M. He had known Bro. Barr for many years, before he knew much of Freemasonry, and from this experience he was assured the Lodge would prosper under the guidance of its new Master. He had taken a great pride in perfecting himself in the respective ceremonies; his working of that evening was but an example of what he could do in either of the parts he might be called upon to enact. The W.M., in reply, heartily thanked his predecessor for the kind words he had made use of in proposing the toast. If at the close of his year of office he should prove to have deserved these many kind remarks, he should be very pleased. He felt he was so well known to most present that it was hardly necessary to say more than that he heartily thanked the members and visitors for their hearty reception. It now devolved on him to propose the health of the Past Master of the Lodge, to whom he felt deeply grateful for assistance rendered in preparing him for the duties of the chair. All hoped that Bro. Stean might be spared for many years, to be—as he had ever been—both a friend to the Craft and to those brethren who are anxious to attain position in the Craft. Bro. Stean tendered his thanks. As Father of the Lodge, he intended to see the brethren did their duty; and, while he occupied a position in the Lodge, he should keep them up to their work; but in this he felt assured he should have no difficulty. He concluded by expressing a wish that he might meet the members of the Lodge on many future occasions. The remaining toasts comprised the Initiates, the Masonic Charities (responded to by Bro. Clarke), the Visitors, the Officers, &c. Among the visitors who signed the attendance book were:—Bros. H. Howard Hodges P.M. 795, 1566, R. R. Harper W.M. 813, Robt. Nicholson J.W. 1566, C. Robson 960, R. Illsley 1566, G. H. F. Rowe 1096, T. Butt 907, Richard Jennings W.M. 907, G. J. Turner J.D. 183, T. Griffiths P.M. 907, E. M. Adams S.D. 1685, H. Lloyd P.M. 780, 1728, Geo. E. degree of Master Mason. Bro. C. Lorkin gave the traditional history. The Lodge was called from labour to refreshment, and, after resuming its duties, Bro. J. Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1602.—Held at Bro. C. J. G. Wood's, the Crown and Woolpack, St. John-street-road, on Tuesday, the 16th instant. Present—Bros. Fox W.M., J. Simmons S.W., Rothschild J.W., Maples Treasurer, Defries Secretary, Millward S.D., Caldemore J.D., Gay D.C., Rushton Org., and Piggott I.G. The Lodge having been opened in due form, and with solemn prayer, the minutes of the last Lodge were read and confirmed. The Lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bros. Aynsley, Fletcher, Budden and Seward were introduced and questioned as to the progress they had made in Freemasonry. The Lodge was then opened in the third degree, and they were most impressively raised to the degree of M.M., the whole ceremony being most ably rendered. The next business was to pass Bro. Augustus Thomas Buckingham to the second degree, and in this instance our worthy Brother set a pattern to others who may have to pass a similar ordeal. He went through his preliminary examination without the slightest assistance, and answered every question put to him without hesitation, and it is almost needless to say that the interest he has taken from the earliest period of his entrance into the Order augurs well for his future devotion to the interests of Freemasonry. It was agreed and passed unanimously, that the sum of £10 10s be voted from the funds of the Lodge to be placed on Bro. Dr. Hunter's list, who will, as Steward, represent this Lodge at the Festival for the benefit of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and from what was stated this Lodge will not be the lowest on the list on that occasion. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment. In the course of the evening Dr. Hunter, in acknowledging the toast of the Past Masters, heartily thanked the brethren for the subscriptions they had placed on his list for the next Festival, and it was also announced that five of the youngest brethren had each subscribed £5, so as to make themselves Life Subscribers to this Institution. The W.M., in proposing their health, congratulated the Lodge on having such worthy members; the handsome subscriptions they had made showed the deep interest they felt in the prosperity of Freemasonry. Several other toasts were given, and a very harmonious meeting was spent under the presidency of the esteemed WM.

Bro. Dr. J. D. Moore, of Lancaster, P.G.S.B. of England, will, on 29th inst., instal Bro. W. Warbrick S.W. as W.M. of the Lodge of Fortitude, Lancaster, No. 281; on 6th January next, he will instal Bro. E. Barber S.W. as W.M. of the Lodge of Unanimity, No. 113, Preston; and on 7th January, Bro. G. Taylor S.W. as W.M. of the Rowley Lodge, No. 1051, Lancaster.

At the regular meeting of the Corinthian Lodge, No. 1382, which was held on the 17th inst., Bro. J. Delves the W.M. announced his intention of serving as Steward at the next Festival in aid of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and we are pleased to announce that the brethren of his Lodge so far determined to support him that they unanimously voted the sum of fifty guineas from the funds of the Lodge to be placed on his list.

BRAVERY REWARDED.—At a meeting of the Chapter of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem in England, held last week at St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell, Sir Edward Perrott, Bart., presiding (in the unavoidable absence of the Duke of Manchester), it was proposed by Sir E. Lechmere, Bart., M.P., seconded by General Sir John St. George, K.C.B., and unanimously resolved, to confer the medal awarded by the Order for deeds of gallantry in saving life on land, on Mr. Arthur H. Stokes, one of her Majesty's sub-inspectors of mines, Charles Maltby, John Hancock, Thomas Davis, and John Davis, in recognition of the successful exertions made by them, at great personal danger, in July last, to rescue one Dennis Bagshaw, who was imprisoned for five days by a sudden fall of "shale" or old workings from the roof of the Black Engine mine, Eyam via Sheffield. It is understood the medals will be publicly presented.—Daily Chronicle.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SOMERSET.

THE members of St. Kew Lodge, No. 1222, Weston-super-Mare, had the honour, on Thursday, 11th inst., of receiving the members of Provincial Grand Lodge. The occasion was an eventful one in the local annals of Freemasonry, there not having been so large and distinguished a gathering in Weston of the brethren of the mystic tie since the laying of the foundation stone of the West of England Sanatorium by the R.W. the P.G.M. of Somerset the Earl of Carnarvon. The members of St. Kew, justly proud of the honour of entertaining so august a body, determined to give their brethren a truly fraternal welcome, and a reception befitting their Masonic dignity. The ordinary Lodge room being too small, the Town Hall was engaged, the Hall itself being fitted up for the Lodge, and the various offices furnished for the reception of the P.G.M. and the Provincial Grand Officers. The arrangement of the Hall for the business of the Lodge was most effective and comfortable. The Throne was situated on the platform, surmounted by a canopy curtained with crimsoned drapery with golden Masonic emblem in the centre. A flight of steps led from the floor of the Hall to the foot of the Throne, stove and greenhouse plants being effectively grouped on each side. Both steps and dais were covered with crimson carpet of fleur de li pattern. The room was also decorated with plants, and the banners of the various Lodges added much to the general effect. Conspicuous among these latter was a very handsomely worked one belonging to St. Kew Lodge, representing the Saint in the act of imparting instruction. A portion of the lower end of the Hall was screened, and formed a reception and clothing room for the general body of the brethren. It had been confidently hoped that the Provincial Grand Master himself would have been in attendance, but this hope at the last moment was doomed to disappointment, a letter being received from the noble Earl conveying the unwelcome intelligence that he was confined to his room at Pixton Park, his Somersetshire seat, by an attack of gout. In his absence, therefore, the V.W. Bro. R. C. Else D.P.G.M. presided, and the gratification of the brethren was much increased by the presence of Bro. Colonel A. W. Adair, the most popular P.P.G.M. Among those present were:—Bros. Rev. J. J. Knox-Fletcher P.G. Chaplain, B. Cox P.M. 1222 P.G. Treasurer pro tem, J. C. Hunt P.G. Secretary pro tem, S. Toms P.G.S.D., Newington Bridges P.G.J.D., J. Tompsett W.M. 814 P.G.S.; representatives from each of the Lodges of the Province, and the following Visitors:—R. M. Worlock P.G. Secretary Bristol, J. R. Shorland 610 P.G.S.W. Bristol, H. Grath 471 P.G.S.W. Monmouth, W. Blundell 858, Gabriel Williams 686, G. Glossop P.M. 887, H. M. Tainsh 482. The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened shortly after twelve o'clock, when the Grand Officers entered in procession, being received with the customary honours by the assembled brethren. The D.P.G.M. took his seat on the Throne, supported on the right by Bro. General Munbee, and on the left by Bro. Col. Adair. The D.P.G.M. expressed his regret at the absence of the P.G.M., and read a letter of apology from the noble Earl assigning illness as the cause of his absence, and sending his hearty good wishes to the brethren. The Lodge was opened in due form and with prayer by the P.G. Chaplain, Rev. J. J. Knox-Fletcher. The office of P.G. Sec. being vacant by the death of Bro. Prideaux, his place was supplied by Bro. J. C. Hunt. The P.G. Treas., Bro. E. T. Payne, was absent on account of illness, and Bro. B. Cox acted for him, submitting the accounts. These showed a total income of £240 3s 2d, including a balance from last account of £75 8s 8d; the Lodge dues amounted to £106 13s 6d. The amount subscribed for the Masonic Charities was £52 10s. The account closed with a balance in hand of £69 10s 5d. The accounts were unanimously passed, and upon the motion of Bro. Munbee, seconded by the P.G.J.W. Bro. Payne was re-elected P.G. Treasurer by acclamation. The various offices having been declared vacant, the appointment and investment of new Officers was proceeded with, collars being bestowed upon the following brethren:—Capt. Long P.M. 1199 and 1750 P.G.S.W., E. S. Blundell W.M. 1222 P.G.J.W., Revs. W. J. Mooney 285 and J. C. Lyons 291 P.G. Chaps., E. T. Payne P.G. Treas. (Bro. Cox received the collar for him), A. R. Bailey 973 P.G.R., J. C. Hunt 291 P.G. Sec., R. Brodie 291 P.G.S.D., J. E. Jeffries 1199 P.G.J.D., C. E. Daniel 1755 P.G. Supt. Works, H. C. Hopkins 379 P.G.D.C., R. J. Damon 329 P.G.A.D.C., J. Butler 285 P.G.S.B., L. H. Bonn 261 P.G.O., A. Sargent 1197 P.G.P., F. U. Wood 291 P.G.A.P., W. Woodward P.G. Tyler, A. J. Salter Bath P.G. Asst. Tyler, J. S. Boyd 976, J. Tuckey 903, H. S. Brown 41, F. T. Elworthy 261, W. E. Perrett 1222, and W. Reece 1139 P.G. Stewards. In bestowing the Senior Warden's collar upon Captain Long, who received a most cordial greeting, the D.P.G.M. informed him that it was given by the P.G.M. to mark his appreciation of the services he had rendered to the Province as the chief promoter and first Master of the Coleridge Lodge at Clevedon. The collar of J.W. was given to Bro. E. S. Blundell as W.M. of St. Kew, the receiving Lodge. Upon the motion of the D.P.G.M., a sum of £50 was unanimously voted to the widow of Bro. F. R. Prideaux, the late P.G. Secretary. Bro. J. L. Stothert, in the absence of the Treasurer, proposed that a sum of 52 guineas be paid to the Girls' School, in order to constitute the Lodge a Vice-Patron of that Institution. Bro. C. R. Davey seconded the motion, which was carried; the D.P.G.M. said the Treasurer had ascertained that £21 more would be needed, but this must be deferred. The sum of £21 was, upon the motion of Bro. Reeves, seconded by Bro. Montrie, voted to the widow of Bro. E. S. Appleby. The Past Grand Secretary read the report of the Charity Organisation Committee of the Province, which stated that the whole of the twenty-two Lodges had appointed delegates who performed their duties in the most efficient manner. The very gratifying statement was made that from the date of its inception to the present time the Committee had succeeded in carrying every case it had taken in hand. The report was received and adopted, upon the motion of Bro. Newington Bridges, seconded by Bro. Marwood. Bro. J. L. Stothert and Bro. Genl. Munbee spoke very highly of the efforts of the D.P.G.M. to promote the success of the scheme, and a cordial vote of thanks was passed to him for his zealous labours. The alms collected at the Lodge, amounting to £6 0s 8d, were, upon the proposition of Bro. J. J. E. Willmott, seconded by Bro. C. R. Davey, voted to the West of England Sanatorium. At the close of the Lodge the brethren adjourned to the Old Assembly Room, Railway Hotel, where the banquet took place. The menu was that of a high class dinner, served a la Russe. The viands were of the choicest, the service was as efficient and satisfactory as it could well be, and the wines were of the best vintages. Great credit is due to Bro. J. R. Britton, as well as to Mrs. Britton, for the excellence of their entertainment. The D.P.G.M. presided, being supported by some of the more distinguished brethren. Due honour having been paid to the Queen and Craft, and the Prince of Wales as Grand Master, the Pro Grand Master and Officers of Grand Lodge were toasted. Bros. Col. Adair and Rev. C. R. Davy responded, the last-named expressing a hope that the much respected D. Prov. G.M. of the Province (Bro. Else) would before long be appointed a member of Grand Lodge—a hope that evoked a hearty "Hear, hear" from every one present. In proposing the health of the P.G.M., the D.P.G.M. again adverted to the cause of his absence, and stated that his lordship requested him to assure the brethren that nothing but the distinct and positive orders of his physician would have kept him away. In very warm terms the D.P.G.M. proposed the health of the much beloved late P.G.M. (Bro. Col. Adair), who suitably responded, and proposed that of the D.P.G.M. and the rest of the P.G. Officers past and present. He traced the rise of the D.P.G.M. from the time when he accepted the collar of Assistant Secretary, and testified to his unwearied labours in the cause of Masonry; he re-echoed the wish expressed by Bro. Davy. Acknowledging the services he received from the Officers when he occupied the post of P.G.M., he mentioned that it was twenty-six years since he received the collar of P.G.J.D. The D.P.G.M., in returning thanks, assured the brethren that if any honour were conferred upon him he should consider it as bestowed upon the Province. Reviewing the past year, he congratulated the brethren of Taunton upon the dedication of the Masonic Hall, the effect of which would, he said, elevate the tone of Masonry. Nothing tended more to contradict the idea that Masons were merely "knife and fork men" than the establishment of these halls, and the promotion of the cause of charity. The other events were the Consecration of the Keynsham Lodge and the death of the P.G. Secretary, to both of which he alluded. Bros. Captain Long P.G.S.W., W. A. Scott (in the absence of the P.G.J.W.), and General Munbee also responded. Bro. Grath, of the Province of Monmouth, replied for the visiting brethren, as did also Bros. Worlock and Shorland. Bro. J. L. Stothert submitted the toast of "The Masonic Charities," referring to the success which attended their candidates at elections, and acknowledging the co-operation of the Provinces of Bristol and Monmouth. Bro. Bridges responded, and thanked the Somerset Charity Association for the assistance given to him in securing the election of a London candidate. He promised in future not only to place his votes in the hands of the D.P.G.M., but to represent the Province as Steward for the Boys' School the Festival after next. In proposing the health of the W.M., Officers and brethren of St. Kew, the D.P.G.M. said he did not remember an occasion when the arrangements were more complete, more satisfactory, or more comfortably carried out than they were in the Town Hall, and the reception at the hospitable board was most handsome. In the absence of the W.M., who was obliged to leave, the toast was responded to by the I.P.M. (Bro. Sidney Lewis), and likewise by Bros. W. M. Forty (Secretary) and Willmott S.W. of the Lodge. Bro. Villa, the I.P.M. of Taunton, in replying for the Master and brethren of other Lodges, said the hopes of the brethren at Taunton entertained in providing a Masonic Hall had been more than realised, since the tone of Masonry had been raised and the number of members increased. The experiment, he thought, should encourage the brethren in other towns to follow their example. "The Host and Hostess, with thanks for the dinner," was proposed, and the Tyler's toast completed the programme.—Weston-super-Mare Gazette.

MARK MASONRY.

THE TRINITY COLLEGE LODGE OF MARK MASTER MASONS, No. 244.

A SOMEWHAT more than ordinarily interesting meeting in the Mark Degree took place on the occasion of an Emergency Meeting of this Lodge, which was held at the Lodge-rooms, 61 Weymouth-street, Portland-place, London, on the 8th instant. The opportunity for entertaining two highly distinguished brethren—viz. Bros. Croft Morgan Dew, P. Grand Chancellor of the Supreme Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland, and A. M. Broadley, D.D.G.M. Malta, and P.G.M.M.M. Tunis and Malta, was taken by our esteemed Bro. E. Passawer LL.D. P.G. Reg. for Middlesex and Surrey, the present W.M. of the Trinity College Mark Lodge, and the result was not only creditable to the Lodge itself, but was of great importance to the Order, as it afforded the first opportunity for a personal greeting and acknowledgment of the Mark Degree by an Officer of the Supreme Royal Arch Degree of Scotland. It will be remembered by our Mark brethren that the fact of the official acknowledgment referred to was made known to them at last Grand Mark Lodge by Bro. Portal, the then acting Grand Mark Master. Bro. Passawer was enabled to give only short notice of the meeting, and consequently, though well attended, it had not the presence of several important Mark brethren, who were compelled to send apologies for absence. Amongst the many present, however, in addition to the distinguished brethren before mentioned, were—The V.W. Bros. F. Davison Dep. G.M. Middlesex and Surrey, F. Binckes P.G.W. and Grand Secretary, Donald M. Dewar P.G.M.O. and Assistant Grand Secretary, James Stevens P.G.J.O., S. Rosenthal P.G.O., H. Lovegrove Prov. G.S.W. Middlesex and Surrey, &c. Amongst the Lodge members were—Bros. P. Draige J.W., J. de Orellana Treasurer, M. A. Cuffe Secretary, Bradbury Turner S.D., J. Gordon Saunders Org., W. J. Jennings, Plant, Martin, J. Stedman, A. W. S. Hoare, and others. The Lodge was opened by Bro. Passawer, and after due ballot and preparation, Bro. Frank Ward, of the Alexandra Palace Lodge, No. 1541, was duly advanced. The ceremony was rendered with the fullest possible effect, and its grandeur and solemnity was greatly enhanced by the elaborate musical service. The excellent chamber organ, at which Bro. J. Gordon Saunders presided, and the musical abilities of several members of the Lodge materially aided the zealous efforts of the W.M. and his Officers to produce a complete ceremony, and the Grand Officers present unanimously agreed that a better exemplification of Mark Masonic work had not been within their experience. The principal vocalists were—Bros. Martin, Stedman, Turner, Hoare, and Jennings, all of Trinity College. After proposition had been made of further candidates for advancement, the V.W. Bro. Croft Morgan Dew, in his capacity as P. Grand Chancellor of the Supreme Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland, briefly addressed the Worshipful Master, and extended a formal personal acknowledgment of the recent connection which had been formed between the respective degrees. This was warmly acknowledged by the W.M. equally on behalf of the Mark degree and his own Lodge, and he then, after receiving the greetings and good wishes of Grand Officers and others then present, closed the Lodge. At the banquet which followed, the usual toasts were given and responded to, that of the Grand Officers being acknowledged by Bros. F. Binckes and James Stevens. The former expressed his great pleasure in the fact of so early a personal acknowledgment of the result of earnest labours to effect a cordial understanding between the Grand Chapter of Scotland and the English Mark degree, and paid a well-deserved compliment to the W.M., for having brought about the opportunity for such acknowledgment. The latter referred to the manner in which the work of the Lodge had been performed, and the beauty and propriety of the musical service, in respect of which he said that in all his experience he had never heard anything so thorough and effective in connection with Mark Masonry. The V.W. Bro. F. Davison, Deputy G.M. Middlesex and Surrey, responded for the Provincial Grand Masters and Officers, and fully endorsed the sentiments of the previous speakers. A special toast was here introduced in honour of the P.G.M.M.M. Tunis and Malta, the R.W. Bro. A. M. Broadley, of whom the W.M. spoke in eulogistic terms in relation to his efforts to extend the usefulness of Freemasonry generally, and particularly of the Mark degree, in the extensive district over which he presided. The W.M. concluded a very telling speech by wishing his distinguished guest "God speed" on his return journey, and expressing a hope that at no distant date he might be able again to visit Trinity College Lodge. Bro. Broadley said: Worshipful Master and Brethren,—I thank you very sincerely for the welcome you have accorded to me this evening, as well as for the opportunity of seeing the excellent working of the Trinity College Lodge. The pleasing effect of the musical rendering of portions of the ceremonial will never be forgotten by me; and I trust my own Province may at no distant date reap the benefit of what I have witnessed amongst you. I greatly fear the services I am supposed to have rendered to the Mark Degree are much overvalued by my friends; but I think I may claim whatever merit belongs to the fact of my extending the jurisdiction of the Mark Grand Lodge to a country beyond the limits of British territory, and introducing the degree to foreigners of many nations in their own tongue. I honestly believe that the Province which has become the sphere of my labours has an interest for all intelligent Masons, comprising as it does a large portion of the litoral of the Mediterranean, from whence sprang nearly all that is wonderful in art and science, and which gave birth to the civilisation of Modern Europe. Both Tunis and Malta were peopled by Phœnician colonists very shortly after the time when Tyrian art embellished the temple of Jerusalem, and doubtless the same guilds of "hewers of stone and workers of brass" assisted in erecting and adorning the city of Carthage. The marks of these early builders are still visible, and their symbols—handed down from generation to generation up to the present time—are still used and venerated by the Moslem and Israelite inhabitants of the country. It is in this country that the Mark degree is now flourishing under the auspices of our Grand Mark Lodge; it is regarded by the English Masons of Tunis as almost an integral part of a Masonic education, and considered by them as a necessary adjunct and striking illustration of some of the truths of the Craft degrees. In both Tunis and Malta the Craft and the Mark flourish hand in hand, and the high appreciation of the latter by foreigners is an important evidence of the intrinsic value of the degree. I shall carry away with me a lasting recollection both of your excellent working and fraternal hospitality, especially as I have the honour of proposing the health of your W.M., who has done so much for the best interests of this Lodge and the other Mark Lodges, who have had, or will have at no distant date, the advantages of his intelligent, energetic and zealous rule. Bro. Passawer briefly responded, with thanks to the proposer for his fraternal remarks, and to the brethren for the zealous support he had received at their hands. To the toast of the Visitors, which was introduced by the W.M., with a few remarks as to the propriety of Lodges meeting in buildings appropriate to their requirements, Bro. H. Lovegrove, Prov. G.Supt. of Works, said: Worshipful Master and brethren,—It has afforded me very great pleasure to be present at a meeting of the Trinity College Lodge of Mark Masters. You will consider that I am making very prominent my esthætic tastes if I tell you that I would have all the degrees of Freemasonry carried out with perfection of ritual, in elegant and appropriate buildings, and accompanied with first-class vocal and instrumental music. This evening in this Lodge the musical portion has been rendered in such a style that few can equal, and certainly none excel. Freemasonry is not, as some would tell us, a gastronomical society; the festive board approaches nearly to our ordinary life, while the ritual of Freemasonry carries us as it were into an ideal world, and impresses the mind in a beneficial way with the contrast between it and the world around. It seems impossible that all Lodges can meet in suitable buildings, but many of you may have seen in one of the Masonic newspapers that a building devoted to our Order is about to be erected under my directions on the distant shore of Milford Haven, and knowing, as some of you do, my energy in Freemasonry, you can understand how pleased I am to be entrusted with such a work. I am pleased to know that this new Mark Lodge is progressing, under its able and energetic W.M. The Organist and Musical Brethren having been toasted, and earnestly thanked for their valuable assistance during the evening, the Officers' and Tyler's toasts brought the proceedings to a conclusion, and the brethren separated.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—There is nothing in the whole "Materia Medica" like these medicaments for the certainty of their action in lumbago, sciatica, tic doloreux, and all flying or settled pains in the nerves and muscles. Diseases of this nature originate in bad blood and depraved humours, and until these are corrected there can be no permanent cure. The ordinary remedies afford but temporary relief, and in the end always disappoint the sufferer. Holloway's Ointment penetrates the human system as salt penetrates meat, and the Pills greatly assist and accelerate its operation by clearing away all obstructions, and giving tone to the system generally. The prophylactic virtues of Holloway's remedies stand unrivalled.

CONSECRATION OF THE DARLINGTON MARK LODGE, No. 250.

THIS event, which had been looked forward to with much interest, took place last Saturday, at Darlington, and in spite of the inclement weather, a goodly gathering of brethren from York, Durham, Newcastle, Hartlepool, &c., was present at two p.m. at Freemasons' Hall, Archer-street. A Lodge was opened by the Provincial Grand Mark Master Mason, Canon Tristram, of Durham, who was supported by a large number of Provincial Officers, and ballots having been taken, fifteen candidates were advanced to the honourable degree of M.M.M., the ceremonies being worked (at the request of the Prov. After the close of the Lodge, the brethren met at a capital banquet, at which the W.M. (Bro. J. M. Meek) presided, supported by the Deputy P.G.M.M.M. and a number of Provincial Officers and brethren, when a short toast list was duly gone through. Vitruvian Lodge, No. 87.—During the last few months, on more than one occasion, we have referred to the spirit of enterprise exhibited by Bro. George Isaac, who, finding the establishment he presided over unequal to the demands for accommodation made by his patrons, had resolved to erect a new building that should be capable of meeting the requirements of even a much larger body of supporters than he at the present time can boast of. Our brother's first effort was to get the sanction of the proper authorities for the removal of his licence, and we are gratified to be able to announce that in this he was successful. Consequently, the architect went to work and drew out his plans for a building that should provide for all requirements. In due course the building was completed, and on Wednesday, 10th December, we had an opportunity of judging to what extent Bro. Isaac had succeeded. The accommodation for Masonic meetings comprises a spacious and well ventilated Lodge room, 32 feet by 20, with ante-rooms, while due provision has been made for the after requirements of the brethren. The banquetting hall has a light and airy appearance, and ample space is provided for seating 120 guests. The whole of the arrangements met with the highest approval, and we feel assured that many other Lodges and Chapters will take advantage of the accommodation so liberally provided. On Wednesday the Lodge was opened by Bro. A. J. Timothy W.M., who was supported by a goodly number of Past Masters and members, while the following Officers were in their respective places:—Bros. Charles Nott S.W., John Skirving J.W., Thurkle P.M. Treas., W. Stuart P.M. Secretary, Robinson S.D., Janeway J.D., Knight I.G., Lee Tyler; Visitors—Bros. Thomas Birks 217, Rigby G. Buckle 190, H. Wright, J. G. Millbourn 13, Thomas Rowe 1641, E. Davis P.M. 228, C. J. Chambers 834, W. W. Morgan Secretary 211. The minutes were read and confirmed, and the W.M., who is a capital worker, proceeded to raise Bros. Norman and Prior. The ballot was then taken for Mr. Charles Davis, proposed by Bro. H. A. Brown, seconded by Bro. Clowes; and for Mr. William Culverhouse, proposed by Bro. J. Skirving J.W., seconded by Bro. C. Nott S.W. The result was unanimous, and the latter gentleman, with a Mr. Lamborn, who had been ballotted for at a previous meeting, were introduced and regularly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. The ballot was also taken for Mr. Charles Dane, and it is anticipated that that gentleman will be initiated at the next meeting. Several applications for assistance from distressed brethren were then considered, and the desirability of sending up a Steward for the next Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution was urgently put forward, with the result that Bro. Janeway J.D. consented to act, and the Lodge voted him 25 guineas to head his list. Several other matters were discussed, with the object of making the comfortable quarters the brethren were assembled in still more cosy, and then the Lodge was closed. The banquet was immediately served, and the dishes were substantially and bountifully provided. The good old English custom of supplying a glass of ale for those who favoured that beverage was not overlooked, and if we may judge by the way in which it seemed to be relished, the majority appeared to endorse the opinion of an elderly brother who complacently remarked, "it beats all the wine in the world." In due time the cloth was cleared, and then the toasts were ably brought under the notice of the brethren by the W.M. Each of the Visitors acknowledged the compliment that was paid them, and all congratulated the members on the comfortable quarters they were assembled in. Reference was also made to the way in which the Charities were supported by the brethren of the Vitruvian Lodge, which takes rank as Vice-Patron of the Institution for Aged Freemasons (£10), Vice-Patron of the Institution for the Widows of Freemasons (£10), also Life Governor of the latter Institution; Vice-Patron of the Boys' School (52 10s), and Vice-Patron of the Girls' School (52 10s). On the strength of what was brought under the notice of the brethren, Bro. Janeway passed round his list, and the response he met was eminently gratifying. In reply to the other toasts some capital speeches were made, notably we may mention that of Bro. P.M. Stuart, the energetic Secretary of the Lodge. The Tyler was eventually called on for his toast, and then the brethren separated. W. Masters or Secretaries of Lodges seeking new quarters should visit the South London Masonic Hall, which is the title Bro. Isaac's new building bears.

Sincerity Lodge, No. 174.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, 17th inst., at the Guildhall Tavern, E.C. Bros. G. T. H. Sedden W.M., C. H. Webb S.W., G. Jones J.W., S. Rawley P.M. Treasurer, John Newton P.M. Secretary. In the course of the evening three brethren were raised, four passed, and one gentleman initiated. This being the night for the election of Officers, the ballot was first taken for that of a Worshipful Master, the result being unanimous in favour of the S.W. Bro. Webb. The Treasurer and Tyler were each re-elected. The brethren afterwards spent a few hours in social enjoyment.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—There was a good attendance on Wednesday last. Present—Bros. W. Sayer W.M., G. L. Walker S.W., Saint J.W., Ramsay I.G., Tobias D., J. K. Pitt Sec., &c. The minutes were read and confirmed. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed. Notices of motion for usual Christmas gratuities were given in, and Bro. S.W. Walker was appointed W.M. for next meeting. The Lodge was adjourned over the festivities of the season, till Wednesday, 7th January 1880.

Union Lodge No. 414.—This Lodge held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, the 16th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present:—Bros. C. Coles W.M., S. Bradley S.W., C. Stephens J.W., Strachan Treasurer, Withers Secretary, Mount S.D., F. Ferguson J.D., S. Wheeler I.G.; Past Masters Bros. Pocock, Morris, Long, Baker I.P.M.; Bros. Hayward, Webb, E. Davis, Butler, Ayres, Moffat, Sydenham, Albury, Hawkes, Martin, Blackwell. Visitors—Bros. J. Early Danks W.M. 1101, Ferguson S.W. 1101, Ivey P.M. Secretary 1101, Prickett Steward 1101, Welch P.M. 1101. The Lodge was opened in the first degree. The minutes of the last regular Lodge meeting were read and confirmed. Two gentlemen were ballotted for as initiates and elected. The following notice of motion was considered and carried:—"That £10 10s be voted from the Lodge funds to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and that any sum which may be received from Provincial Grand Lodge this year be appropriated to the same Charity, and be added to the list of Bro. C. Stephens." The election of W.M. took place in the usual manner; it resulted in favour of Bro. S. Bradley S.W., who, in a neat and appropriate speech, returned thanks for the honour conferred upon him. The election of Treasurer next took place, Bro. Strachan P.M. having intimated to the W.M. that he could not conveniently continue in the office, Bro. S. A. Pocock P.M. was nominated, and declared to be elected, upon which he returned his thanks. Bro. Hemmings was re-elected Tyler. The W.M. opened the Lodge in the second and third degrees, and when in the latter he read a very interesting paper on "The History of Craft Masonry in Reading." We hope to give the same in extenso in a future number, our space this week not admitting of it. The Lodge was resumed in the second and first degree, and after the usual ceremonies, closed.

Stockwell Lodge, No. 1339.—The usual meeting of the Stockwell Lodge was held on Tuesday evening, 16th December, at the Masonic Hall, Camberwell New-road. Bro. W. G. Brighten W.M. presided. Present—Bros. Boswell S.W., Sawyer J.W., Frances Sec., Masters I.G., Klenck P.M., Pain P.M., Bassett P.M., Coe P.M., Roseflin, Moss, Salmon, M'Kay, J. Roseflin, Bowyer, and the following visitors:—Bros. H. Thompson 1426 and P.M. 177 and 1158, Meek 754, Fletcher 1567, Bartlett 1752, Bousfead P.M. 548, Portwee 1555, E. Dodson P.M. 72, Smith 186, Newman 1385, Doudney 145, Freeman 1288. The Lodge having been duly opened and the minutes read, the first business was to ballot for Mr. Roseflin and Mr. Henry John Pain, who were candidates for admission into Freemasonry, the latter being the son of Bro. Pain, one of the highly respected P.M.'s of the Lodge. In both cases the ballot was unanimous, and they were introduced and ably initiated into the Order by the W.M. The Lodge was then opened in the second degree, when Bro. Dukes was examined as to the progress he had made in the science. The Lodge was then opened in the third degree, when Bro. H. E. Frances P.M. and Secretary presided, and Bro. Dukes was impressively raised to the sublime degree. The Lodge was afterwards closed in the different degrees, and the brethren adjourned to the banqueting room, where ample refreshments were provided. At conclusion, the usual formal toasts having been disposed of, the W.M. said the next he had to propose was the health of their brothers initiate, one of whom was the son of an esteemed Past Master, and he could assure him that he welcomed him with a great amount of cordiality, and asked him to diligently follow in the footsteps of his father, for by so doing he would make himself esteemed, not only in Freemasonry but throughout his life. He was glad that Bro. Pain had come into the Order in that Lodge, and could assure him that, if he gave his heart to it, the benefits would be returned to him a thousandfold. As to Bro. Roseflin, he was a stranger amongst them, but he was brother to one of their members, who had stood by the Lodge through good report and through evil report, and had come hundreds of miles over and over again to be with them. He trusted that as they were now Brothers two-fold they would work together for the benefit of the Lodge in particular, and for Freemasonry in general. The toast was very cordially received, and Bros. Pain and Roseflin severally returned thanks for the honour that had been conferred upon them by their admission into Freemasonry in that Lodge. Bro. Coe I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M., who he said was one of the founders of the Lodge, and asked the brethren to drink it with cordiality. Bro. Dodson sang "Shells of the Ocean" in exquisite style, and afterwards the W.M. said he was very much obliged to them for the very hearty manner in which they had responded to the toast proposed by their immediate P.M. His year of office was drawing to a close, and he would to the utmost of his power endeavour to make the Stockwell Lodge a bona fide working Lodge, and restore it to the happy position it formerly held. Bro. Klenck P.M. then announced that they were about to draw for a Life Governorship of one of the Charities, but a small sum was required to make up the required amount, which was immediately supplied, and the lot fell to Bro. Bowyer, who was fortunate in drawing another on a former occasion. The next toast was that of the Visitors, for which Bro. Thompson responded, referring to the time when he had the privilege and pleasure of being present at the consecration of the Lodge; he had a vivid recollection of the great and hearty welcome he, in common with others, then received from Bro. Hammerton, their past W.M., and he was glad to have the opportunity of revisiting a Lodge in which he had received such kindness. He congratulated the Lodge on that night initiating the son of Bro. Pain, one of their P.M.'s, and an old friend of his; he thought that when a father proposed his son for initiation, it might be a good answer to those who are at all times ready to throw a stone at Freemasonry, and that was because they knew nothing about it. If a father was willing to introduce his son amongst them, Freemasonry could not be a very bad thing, and would fitly answer the sneers of the vulgar that were sometimes levelled against them. Two or three other Visitors also returned thanks. The W.M. then gave "The Past Masters of the Lodge," and extolled their good qualities, being always ready to render suit and service in any way in their power. Bro. Coe I.P.M., thanked the brethren for the very hearty, kind and cordial manner in which they had supported him during his year of office; he had endeavoured to carry out the duties of the Lodge to the best of his ability. Bros. Pain and Klenck also returned thanks. Some other toasts were given. A very pleasant evening was passed.

Creaton Lodge, No. 1791.—This new Lodge, named after the respected Grand Treasurer, was held on Thursday, the 11th inst. at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. Lt.-Col. Creaton W.M., H. J. Johnson S.W., J. Williams J.W., E. Thurkle Treasurer, J. I. Cantle P.M. Secretary, J. Nielson S.D., J. H. Buck J.D., W. Carrington I.G., J. Kift Organist, W. Williams Steward. Visitors—Bros. Æneas McIntyre, Q.C., G.R., S. Rucker P.G.D., S. Pierce P.G.S., Vincent W.M. 1624, S. Carrington 1314, W. E. Davis 606, Jas. Terry P.P.G.J.W. Herts, Finch P.M. 173, 180, H. A. Dubois P.G.W. Middlesex, Phillips P.M. 173, Peter De Lande Long P.G.D., C. Taylor 1629, T. L. Coulton P.M. 382, A. Burden 11, Walmsley 1624, Kelley 1524, T. Cross 1194, Cruse 1411, Ray 1624, R. Palowker 1512, Edgington 1321, McLeod P.M. 1624, Davis 157, H. M. Levy P.M. 188, and several others. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Williams and Johnson were, by the courtesy of the W.M., raised to the third degree by Bro. J. I. Cantle P.M. and Secretary, who performed the ceremony very impressively. Ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. Long, Saull, and Hensman, and being unanimously in their favour, these gentlemen were duly initiated into the Order by the W.M. Bro. Lt.-Col. Creaton, who also passed Bros. Hancock, Pink and O'Dea. Both ceremonies were perfectly and impressively rendered by the Officers, who well sustained the opinion formed as to their ability. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. H. J. Johnson S.W. was unanimously chosen to fill that important office. The W.M. stated the members were assured the duties of the chair would be ably carried out. Personally, he (Bro. Lt.-Col. Creaton) congratulated the Lodge on their excellent selection. Bro. Johnson, in suitable terms, thanked the W.M. for his kind expressions, and the brethren for electing him. Bro. Thurkle P.M. was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Woodstock P.M. Tyler. Bros Ferguson, Colvill, and Shute were elected Auditors. Bro. Cantle asked the W.M. for permission for a Lodge of Instruction to be held, under the sanction of the Lodge, at the Albert Hotel, Notting Hill. The W.M. said he would do all in his power to further that object, knowing it was for the good of the Lodge. Hearty good wishes were given from the various Visitors, and the Lodge was closed until the second Thursday in February. The brethren, sixty-two in number, adjourned to the Crown Room, where a very sumptuous and récherché banquet and dessert was provided by Bro. A. Best. Grace having been sung, the W.M. proposed the toast of the Queen and the Craft. The National Anthem was sung, and then was offered the toast of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M. This was received most enthusiastically. Bro. Cantle P.M. sang the solo verses of "God Bless the Prince of Wales." The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers. He said—We are honoured to-night with the company of distinguished members of Grand Lodge; they are not only distinguished in Freemasonry, but hold also a very high social position. As a Lodge, we are proud to receive them. Bro. Æneas McIntyre, Q.C., G.R., responded, and in speaking of the qualifications of Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton, remarked that he was capable of performing his duties in the chair perfectly; they had witnessed that this evening. The office he held in Grand Lodge was the only one where the candidate was chosen by election; he (the speaker) had been associated with Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton for many years. He had gained their esteem and regard by his connection with the three Charities of the Order. On behalf of the Visitors, he begged to return his sincere thanks. Bro. W. G. Reynolds gave a very excellent recital, entitled "Revenge." Bro. Cantle I.P.M. said he had, for the last time in his present capacity, to propose the toast of the W.M. All knew how they were indebted to him for taking the helm. As a Lodge they were only ten months old, and they had made it almost a rule that every year a Steward should represent the Lodge at the Charities. He (Bro. Cantle) had taken up 238 guineas for the Girls' School, and as Bro. Johnson W.M. elect is a Steward for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, he hoped and was sure he would be well supported; he would ask the brethren to drink the health of their W.M. The W.M., who, on rising, was loudly cheered, said he felt very much flattered by the remarks of Bro. Cantle, and the hearty response of the brethren. The Lodge, since its consecration, had experienced continual sunshine. Although this was the last time he should preside over them at a banquet, his heart would always be with them. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the newly-initiated brethren. He hoped the impression they had received of the ceremony would never be effaced from their memory, and he trusted the members would give the toast the reception it merited. Bro. Saull, in a very pertinent speech, returned thanks. Bro. J. Kift sang a humorous song, and then the W.M. proposed "The Masonic Charities." He would ask them to drink the toast with the heartiness it merited. Bro. Terry was present, and he would respond. Bro. Cantle sang, splendidly, "In days of old." Bro. Terry, in returning thanks to the W.M. for proposing the toast of the Masonic Charities, remarked that no one could give more time to the cause of charity than the W.M. Many distinguished members of the House Committees of the various Institutions were present. Lieut.-Col. Creaton is one who gives the Institutions all the support in his power. He also devotes much time to their management. When this Lodge was consecrated, their W.M. was a P.G.D., and now he is Grand Treasurer. He was Chairman of the Girls' Festival during the year of his office as W.M. of the Creaton Lodge. This redounded not only to his credit, but to the credit of the Lodge. Bro. Terry then spoke eloquently of the other two Charities, but he was most urgent in his advocacy of the claims of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, the Festival for which is fixed for February next. Bro. Johnson, the W.M. elect, would act as a Steward, and represent their Lodge. Bro. Cantle had taken up the large sum of 238 guineas for the Girls' School. Bro. Terry was sure Bro. Johnson would emulate his predecessor. Bro. Terry then recounted what was being done by the three Institutions, and thanked the brethren for the attention they had paid to his remarks. The W.M. then proposed the health of the Visitors, coupling with the toast the name of Bro. Rucker P.G.D., who, in an excellent speech, responded for the compliment. The next toast was that of the W.M. elect. The brethren had made a good selection. Bro. Johnson would carry out every duty the Lodge required of him, and he (the W.M.) would ask them to give the toast a hearty reception. Bro. Johnson returned thanks. He was pleased with every speech that had been made that evening, but he was most deeply impressed with that of Bro. James Terry; it created great confidence in him. With pride he could say he had now 130 guineas on his list. He would go to the Lodge and ask the brethren to assist him, not only to emulate Bro. Cantle's list, but also to enable him to surpass it. As a founder of the Lodge, it had been a pride to serve under the rule of the Grand Treasurer, Bro. Creaton. As a Steward, he would not be satisfied without a goodly sum. He thanked the W.M. for his kind expressions, and the brethren for the enthusiastic manner in which they had responded to the toast. Bro. Collins sweetly sang "My sweetheart when a boy." The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Officers of the Lodge, to all of whom he was specially indebted, but to none more than to Bro. Cantle P.M.; he would ask him to respond. Bro. Cantle was pleased to hear such praise. He was sure it was earnest. It showed he had performed his duties satisfactorily. The Officers of the Lodge had formed themselves into a private Lodge of Instruction, and had qualified themselves to assist at any Lodge, but their principal object had been to give satisfaction to the members of their own Lodge. After a humorous song, the toast of the Masonic Press was given, and Bros. Kelly and H. M. Levy responded. The Tyler was then summoned, and he gave the parting toast. The Visitors were much indebted to Bro. Williams for his exertions to make them comfortable.

The ballot was then taken for Messrs. Edwin Roberts and George Kinloch, and having proved unanimous in their favour, those candidates were introduced and initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry by the W.M. and Bro. Ellis Jones P.M., in their usual excellent and impressive manner. After some other business had been despatched, hearty good wishes were expressed, and the Lodge was closed at 8 p.m. The brethren adjourned to banquet, and on the removal of the cloth, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and duly honoured. It is with much pleasure we visit this Lodge, as we find real brotherly love, and general goodwill existing amongst its members, while a cordial reception is given to visiting brethren.

TAMAR INDIEN.

SPECIAL CAUTION.

OWING to the marked success of this medicine, the only patent medicine universally prescribed by the faculty, and the acknowledged cure for constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c., BASE IMITATIONS, containing drastic irritants, are being foisted on the public. The genuine preparation bears the title "Tamar Indien," and the signature E. GRILLON, Coleman-st., London, E.C. Price 2s 6d per box. In a recent case, 1876, G. No. 211, a perpetual injunction to restrain the defendant from applying the name "Tamar" to his lozenges was awarded, with costs, by Vice-Chancellor Bacon, on 19th January 1877, and all such piracies will be summarily proceeded against.——N.B.—See that the outer wrapper (directions) are printed in the English language and that each box bears the Government 3d stamp.

PARLEZ-VOUS FRANÇAIS?

MANY of whom this question is asked will say, I can read it and write it, but can't speak it. A neat little volume for the Pocket has just been published by an Ex-Inspector of Public Schools; all the most useful verbs as used in ordinary conversation are therein embodied, alphabetically arranged on an entirely new plan, and printed in large type in French and English, a most rapid system, indispensible to teachers and other persons teaching themselves the language.
