The migratory life, imposed upon a military man did not allow of much repose, nor of local permanence in Masonic effort. On joining his regiment, at Malta, he affiliated there with Lodge Zetland, No. 756. This body was then in a state of decadence, and our hero found in it a field worthy of his energies. He was soon in office as S.W., and being already a P.M., was enabled to perform the duties of the Chair in the absence of the W.M. His ability and efficiency were soon recognised, and his services were in general request with the other Lodges in the island. His spare time was almost wholly absorbed by Masonic work, and it was not unusual for him to officiate daily, and occasionally three times within four-and-twenty hours. He established a Mark Lodge at Malta, and advanced a very large number of the brethren, all of whom were acknowledged and certificated by the Grand Lodge of Ireland. In the Chapter attached to Zetland Lodge he worked the R.A. degree, which had almost fallen into disuse. He revived the Orders of the Temple and St. John, which had fallen into abeyance, and became E. Commander of the Melita Encampment. These services were gratefully acknowledged by a testimonial. Lodge 756, on his joining it, was £60 in debt, but the result of his activity became shortly manifested by a remittance of £60 in fees to Grand Lodge in the short space of one year. He had the pleasure, upon leaving it, of knowing that the Treasurer had a like sum in hand, and of receiving a testimonial, signed by some seventy members, expressing the warm gratitude of the fraternity for his valuable services. On the return of his regiment from foreign service he fixed his residence in London, and at the request of the Supreme Council of Ireland, he entered the ranks of English Masonry, and received the 30th degree in 1857, the 31st in 1859, the 32nd in 1862, and the 33rd in 1864. In the year 1862 we find him again at Limerick, holding office as M.W.S. of the Furnell Chapter (No. 4) of Prince Masons, of which, at the present moment, he remains nearly the oldest member.

He is, however, best known in England by his indefatigable exertions in sustaining the honour and prosperity of the Craft in London. In 1868, the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite moved to No. 33 Golden-square, an address which is in remarkable accordance with its symbolism, and erected their commodious and elegant "Masonic Hall." Our hero here served the respective offices of Grand Treasurer, Secretary, and Lieutenant Grand Commander; and, ultimately, upon the retirement of Bro. Charles John Vigne, became Sovereign Grand Commander. This office he immediately resigned, for the good of the Order, in favour of Lord Carnarvon, and reverted to that of Lieut., in which capacity he assisted in conferring the 33° upon H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, who accepted the rank of Patron. For his services as Secretary and Treasurer our hero was presented with a very handsome silver salver by his attached colleagues and friends. He was one of the founders of the Friends in Council Lodge (No. 1383), which numbers amongst its members our Deputy Grand Master, Pro Grand Master, and a large number of Grand Officers. Lord Carnarvon was its first W.M., and our Bayard succeeded him in the chair. The main object of the Lodge is to stimulate a generous support of our charitable institutions, to which in one year it sent Stewards with nearly £700. Its Steward to the first Charitable Festival held this year, took up £222, and for the Festivals yet to come similar large sums will doubtless be forthcoming. It is a non-dining Lodge, and its funds are devoted exclusively to charity, an example which our London Lodges generally would do well to imitate. The Supreme Council (33°) has itself contributed to our charities nearly £800 during the last five years. In the Order of the Temple our Bayard is P.G.S.P. of England, Prior of Suffolk and Cambridge, and member of the G.M.'s Council, also Grand Junior Warden of Grand Mark Lodge of England, and P.S.W. of the Provincial Grand Lodge of the Royal Order of Scotland in London. He is Grand Representative of the Supreme Council (33°) of both jurisdictions of North America, of Ireland, France, Chili, Peru, Mexico, Buenos Ayres, Central America, Switzerland and Greece. Under our Bayard's auspices the Supreme Council has collected what is perhaps the finest Masonic Library in the world. It is rich in pamphlets and MSS., relating to every branch of the Order. Lastly, to turn from Masonry to secular affairs, he was appointed, in 1858, to the honourable Corps of Gentlemen at Arms, of which he became Sub-Officer in 1863, but resigned that position in 1874, and was appointed Gentleman Usher to Her Majesty.

Our Bayard in is person an ideal of the gentle knight of chivalry. He is tall and powerfully built, and his carriage is firm and decided. His features afford ample evidence of the energy of his mind. The face is that of a soldier who has learned to command by first learning to obey. The forehead is ample, and has that slight inclination which is common amongst men of the sword. The perceptive faculties are largely developed, and the clear blue eyes are windows of a mind which is as frank as it is manly. Enterprise, courage, and decision appear to be most justly apportioned in his nature. He is one of those men who would lead a forlorn hope as coolly as they would take their places on parade. In a warlike state of society he would have been a highly distinguished leader. His Masonic career affords evidence that he possesses great mental resources, as well as vast energy, and these qualities are indispensable to a military commander. No man was ever yet a great captain who was not fertile in expedients. Even in the days when much depended upon personal prowess, the most successful masters of the military art were the men who had the most active brains. Happily we live in a state of society which does not call for the exercise of the slumbering military talent which lies around us, and our heroes who have faced the storm of battle, are content to expend their mental forces upon the arts of peace. We trust our Bayard may long continue his active exertions in the cause of Masonry, and that he may yet, if that be possible, win farther honours, and still higher renown.

THE ELECTION FOR THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THE election to ten vacancies in the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys is fixed for the 10th instant, and as in the case of the Girls' School, last week, we purpose giving a short analysis of the list of candidates. These are fifty-nine in number, of whom eight make application for the fifth time; five for the fourth; twelve for the third; eighteen for the second, and sixteen for the first time. Ten of the boys' fathers were Stewards for, or Subscribers to, one or more of our Charitable Institutions. Four have both parents living, and four have lost both, one is motherless, and of the remaining fifty, forty-nine are fatherless, and the other's father is in a Lunatic Asylum. The father of one candidate was a subscribing member twenty-six years, of another twenty-two years-and-a-half, of a third two, and of a fourth for only a year-and-a-half; this last being confined in a Lunatic Asylum. The highest number of votes brought forward from previous candidatures is 1,661, and there are three others who have already scored over 1,600. One has 1,470 votes to the good, three over 1,300, and one over 1,200. One candidate, who is standing now for a third ballot, is credited with seven votes only, and four who have stood once have scores of ten, nine, nine, and six respectively, while a fifth is actually voteless. Two of the candidates have each a brother already in the School, and in three cases, a sister is in the

Digitized by Google

Girls' School. Three have already been removed from the list through being over the age of eleven years, and twelve, if unsuccessful this election, will be removed for the same reason. London furnishes twenty-five candidates, North Wales and Salop, South Wales, Monmouthshire, Derbyshire, Devon, Durham, East Lancashire, West Yorkshire, Gloucestershire, two each; and East Indies, Constantinople, Middlesex, Cambridge, Kent, Westmoreland, Hants and Isle of Wight, Essex, Sussex, Norfolk, Cheshire, Cornwall, Stafford, North and East Yorkshire, Warwickshire and Lincolnshire, one each.

ANNUAL MEETING AND DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES.

MASONIC FEMALE ORPHAN SCHOOL, DUBLIN.

THE activity of the Craft in Ireland is in the highest degree satisfactory. The antagonism of the Romish priesthood is of the most virulent character; yet, if anything, it serves to animate the brethren to employ all their means in order to strengthen the edifice of Freemasonry in that country. These efforts are not as widely known as they deserve to be, for Irish Masons appear to be far more reticient about their doings than we are in England. Be this as it may, we gladly avail ourselves of every opportunity of publishing such Masonic news as reach us from the Emerald Isle. That works of charity are not overlooked by our neighbours—ce va sans dire. Irishmen are by nature too generous to be careless about so important a duty. But though the Craft is more limited there than here in respect of numbers, and their Masonic Charitable Institutions are, as a consequence, small by comparison with ours, the benefits they confer on the families of indigent or deceased members are in every way creditable. This, indeed, is evidenced by the announcement we feel so much pleasure in making, that the Annual Festival and Distribution of Prizes to the pupils of the two Masonic Orphan Schools will take place on the 28th instant, in the Exhibition Palace, Earlsfort Terrace, Dublin, under the auspices of His Grace the Duke of Abercorn, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and M.W.G.M., who will preside on this interesting occasion. The prizes will be distributed by His Grace's daughter, Lady Georgina Hamilton, and a strong muster of brethren is expected. The doors of the building will be thrown open at 7.30 p.m. and from then till 8.15 the music of several military bands will serve to pass away the time agreeably. A procession of Officers of Country and Dublin Lodges, of Provincial Grand, and past and present Grand Officers, will then be formed for the purpose of conducting the Grand Master from the Leinster Hall to the Grand Concert Hall. His Grace, on taking his seat on the throne, will then be saluted according to ancient usage, after which the Pupils of the Girls' School, accompanied by those of the sister Institution for Boys, will file into the hall, occupying the seats provided for them on the platform. A portion of the Hundredth Psalm having been sung, the Honorary Secretary will then read the annual report, after which sundry of the girls will play a selection of pianoforte music. The National Anthem will then be given, and the procession having re-formed, will conduct the Grand Master to the dais in the Glass Building, where Lady Georgina Hamilton will present the prizes and certificates awarded to the successful pupils at the annual examination. Admission will be by tickets, obtainable only from Governors, who will each have a free pass and seven visitors' tickets, at two shillings each, provided application is made for them at Freemasons' Hall, Molesworth-street, on the 11th, 12th, or 13th instant, between two and five p.m. Brethren not previously Governors, but who are subscribers for 1876, may obtain tickets, and will have the privilege of voting at elections of the pupils in June and December. We have no doubt whatever that the Festival will prove a great success, and help materially to advance the prosperity of the Asylum.

We have good authority for stating that one hundred Commanderies have agreed to accept the invitation of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania, and take part in the Grand Knight Templar Centennial Meeting in Philadelphia. Ten thousand Knights Templar will be present.

NATURE AND SCIENCE.

By Walter Spencer, F.R.G.S., &c.

THE "theory of descent," as formulated by Professor Haeckel, of Jena,* not only traces the process of organic development by hereditary transmission, adaptation and natural selection, but proclaims the unity of organic and inorganic nature. It asserts that there exist no complete differences, no insurmountable barriers between living organisms and inorganic bodies, either in form, structure, matter or force; that their chemical and physical differences do not lie in their component elements, but in the varying methods of their chemical combination, to which distinctive peculiarities (notably comparative densities of substance) are due. From this it argues, for instance, that the constructive force or formative tendency of crystals is equivalent to the heredity of organisms; and that all vital phenomena are purely physico-chemical processes dependent on the material nature of the organism, just as the physical and chemical qualities of any crystal are determined solely by its material composition.

The Professor needs no tribute to his ability in handling these propositions, nor to the admirable logical sequence observed in their demonstration. We all are willing to believe that nature works (or appears to work) by definite laws. It is only when the picture of progressively developed results would lead us to the assumption of primal spontaneous generation that the startled student halts to review the field.

The moral drawn by the Professor seems to be that matter is eternal; that all law is inherent in the elements of matter, inducing through it all the phenomena of existence; and that nothing but matter exists. Or thus—that in the cosmical beginning, condensed gases which afterwards combined in various ways, contained in themselves all the possibilities of vital force; that transmission by heredity and adaptation did the rest, until the earth's surface developed, as it were spontaneously, into its present state with living parasites upon it, and that eternal matter is eternal God

Upon careful consideration of Professor Haeckel's book, we note, 1. that he deals only with matter, assuming that nothing but matter exists; 2. that his whole theory is expounded by observation and comparison of effects, and of the effects of effects, by which he discovers ultimate laws, which he assumes to be inherent in matter, the causes of which are not even guessed at. He cannot account for the primal motor which must have impregnated matter, and is utterly at a loss for a great just cause. All induction, however, leads us to put the questions thus suggested, and to fail to be satisfied with a theory which cannot answer us.

1. Does nothing outside of matter exist? The Professor deals with nothing else; but can we conceive of a vacuum or of a useless gauze of attenuated gases in the vast interstellar spaces of the universe, through which our worlds revolve like specks of dust? Are light, heat, and electricity comprised in matter, and simply properties inherent in it; or, rather, is the force which determines their objective vibrations so intelligible to us as to be thus classed? If the stars be material bodies, and if matter be deity, then we shall conceive of deity as being contained in a something greater than itself—the universe; but as the materialist will hardly deny that (Deity) the greater must contain the less, we shall find him on the horns of a dilemma—admitting, either that the universe is pervaded by a something inexplicable, not the matter with which he is familiar, which is greater than the latter and contains it, or that the interstellar æther partakes of properties which are familiar to him in matter, and that the germ of effects consequently is contained therein. In the former case the force of law (said to be inherent in matter) is more probably an emanation from the unknown universal element. In the latter case we have a refined matter, with greater inherent possibilities, which may be the impregnator of gross matter, and the founder of its laws.

From either of these propositions we regain the ol divisions of matter and force, or matter and spirit.

Deity must be conceived of as omnipresent and eternal. Omnipresent—He must contain the entire universe; Eternal—He must contain the planetary revolutions which mark time for us. This is a necessary conception, altogether beyond the properties of matter, under whatever name it may

* History of Creation. 2 vols. 1876.

Digitized by Google

be defined. The materialist may call it matter, the rationalist force, the moralist God, it includes them all. The grandest conception we can form of Infinite Deity is "Infinite Spirit," and we prefer that definition.

Materialism is the negation of God and religion, and of the means whereby God and religion have been forced upon the conviction of mankind—miracle, revelation, and hope of immortality. If belief in them be utterly illogical, as Professor Haeckel, arguing from his theory, assures us, we must abandon it, or cling to it only as an ideal.

But the propositions of materialism are not thus conclusive, whereas spiritualism affords a logical sequence, pointing to opposite conclusions; a series of higher laws which sway matter in the order of the universe. By spiritualism I mean, not the rage for séances and table-turning, but the affirmation of God and religion by miracle, revelation, and a future state.

Defining spirit as superior to and distinct from matter, and deity as infinite spirit, I submit the spiritual hypothesis as the alternative for "spontaneous generation," conceiving it to be more consonant with the recognised order of nature, and a more rational explanation of her laws. It has claims at least equal to conditional acceptance by the scientific world, until "spontaneous generation" shall be proved.

The spiritual hypothesis recognises a power above matter, to which matter is obedient and plastic, and that the laws found in matter are the effects of that power; that the force of heredity is a law of spirit, adaptation the effects of other particles of matter similarily inspired, that spirit is infinite, including the great Orreries of the Universe and pervading each minutest cell. It claims also that the vast spaces of the Universe are not empty but full, filled with active spiritual intelligences, with worlds and spheres which our senses, being adapted only to the perception of matter, cannot grasp. It recognises the intercourse of other stages of being with our own, a possibility which religion, through history, affirms; it believes matter to be subject to higher laws besides those formulated by Professor Haeckel, whereby miracle and revelation are effected, without being direct interventions of an anthropomorphous Deity; it teaches that death does not annihilate conscious individuality and that the spirit disembodied goes into the state of being to which its acquired attributes may have most fitted it.

These ideas, it will be seen, are the religious, neither more nor less; similar to those inculcated by all religions which have been found entitled to respect; there is a something definite about them, and I venture to say that they rest upon a firmer foundation than those which require the hypothesis of "spontaneous generation."

I have before me a pamphlet which serves to show how much these speculations are troubling earnest brethren far and wide. Views like those of Professors Huxley and Haeckel cannot be scattered around without stirring reflective minds to their very depths and exciting the most dormant current of Masonic thought. I quote from an address delivered last September by the Rev. Robert Kidd, LL.D., to our brethren in Auckland, N.Z. upon an interesting occasion:—

"One chief use of Freemasonry, in this generation, is to maintain cautious stability in the minds of the brethren, that none of us be lightly led away by bewildering novelties. The exercise of Reason and investigation has, in our age, attained to an immense aggregate of beneficial results; but let us not yield to the mental intoxication that would confound things which are distinct. The principles of Freemasonry itself teach us to appreciate the faculties of the human intellect, its wondrous, its god-like capabilities of discernment and discovery; but they also inculcate its limitation. Science deals only, and can deal only, with phenomena and secondary causes: but the mainspring of the energies that actuate the Universe, the primal source of the adaptations that combine to constitute the eternal Order and Harmony, the ultimate cussation of the agencies, these are behind the ken of scientific experiment."

"The most fashionable theory, at the present moment, among the wanderers from a pure Theism, is little else than a revival of fancies indulged in, thousands of years ago, by one of the sects of ancient philosophy. It is to the effect that what we call Matter is in itself innately endowed with all possible potency of both action and combination, that the spontaneous motions of the molecules are competent to perform the whole. Of such imaginings a sufficient correction is afforded in the following few emphatic lines of the poet Young:—

Has matter innate motion? Then each atom,
Asserting its indisputable right
To dance, would form a universe of dust.
Has matter more than motion? Has it thought,
Judgment and genius? Is it deeply learned
In mathematics? Has it framed such laws
Which but to guess a Newton made immortal?
If so, how each sage atom laughs at me,
Who think a clod inferior to a man!
If art to form, and counsel to conduct,
And that with greater far than human skill,
Reside not in each block, a GODHEAD reigns;
And if a God there is, a God how great!

"But it is said that we cannot demonstrate the Divine Existence, that it is a mere hypothesis or theory. We could not, brethren, demonstrate the building of King Solomon's Temple, nor the construction of the pyramids of Egypt. Of the Great Architect of the Universe we have the species of proof that affords a full moral certainty. And if that proof were less cogent than it is, we should still be under a supreme obligation of conscience to seek after Him, if haply we may find Him. Well and wisely has one of the greatest and best of Scotland's many illustrious sons, Dr. Chalmers, in his own peculiar style of magnificent diction, setting forth profound thought, thus said:—

"'To this condition there attaches a most clear and incumbent morality. It is to go in quest of that unseen Benefactor, who, for aught I know, has ushered me into existence, and spread so glorious a panorama around me. It is to probe the secret of my being and my birth; and, if possible, to make discovery whether it was indeed the hand of a benefactor that brought me forth from the chambers of nonentity, and gave me place and entertainment in that glowing territory, which is lighted up with the hopes and the happiness of living men. It is thus that the very conception of a God throws a responsibility after it. And is there any so hardy as to deny that the curious workmanship of his frame may have had a Designer and an Architect, who hath so marvellously suited all that is around us to our senses and our powers of gratification? The graces innumerable that lie widely spread over the face of our world, the glorious concave of heaven that is placed over us, the grateful variety of seasons that, like Nature's shifting panorama, ever brings new entertainment and delight to the eye of spectators—these show that, anterior to our assured belief in His existence, there lies upon us a most imperious obligation to stir ourselves up that we may lay hold of Him. . . . And the same moral force which begins this inquiry also continues and sustains it. If there be power in the very conception of a God to create and constitute the duty of seeking after Him, this power grows and gathers with every footstep of advancement in the high investigation.'

"I repeat, therefore, brethren,—and I would with all befitting respect present it specially to the attention of the worthy brother who is now exalted among the chief guides and rulers of our Fraternity,—that Freemasonry, in the existing juncture, has a special vocation and function. We are called upon to champion the all-comprehensive truth, that the one main distinction between man and man is this, the belief or the absence of belief, the perception or the failure to perceive, that SUPREME MIND controls the Universe, that we are under the moral government of the Most High."

At a meeting of the Psychological Society, on 16th March, Mr. Serjeant Cox, President, in the chair, referring to a statement in the Scotsman newspaper, that Mr. Bruce (the owner of the emigrant ship, the Strathmore, which was wrecked in November last, with great loss of life) had been informed, by an alleged clairvoyant, of the wreck, and the saving of some of the crew on an island, at or near the time of its occurrence, and some weeks before the loss was known in England, the President said that, in pursuance of their plan of investigating all alleged psychological phenomena, he had written to Mr. Bruce, the owner, to inquire if this statement of the Scotsman was correct. He had received an answer from that gentleman (which he read), stating that the fact was as published, The fact was communicated in writing, by post, so that there was no question as to its being made before the loss was known. A paper, by Mr. C. Bray, "On Consciousness," was read by Mr. F. K. Munton, the Hon. Sec. A discussion followed, by Mr. Coffin, Mr. Pike, Mr. Gordon, the President, and others. It was stated that the Committee of Investigation had been formed.

THE DRAMA.

Pom at the Royalty.

A NEW comic opera, from the pen of M. Bacalossi, was produced at the ROYALTY, on Saturday last, with complete success. The plot is of the usual unintelligible character, and comprises the adventures of a party of French opera singers cast upon a desert island in the Pacific Ocean. Some of these adventures are amusing, and the dialogue is also not devoid of humour. But it is chiefly to the light and pleasant music of M. Bucalossi that the success of the piece is to be ascribed. The characters are well sustained by Miss Patty Laverne, Miss Annie Goodall, Mr. Rouse, and Mr. Knight Aston.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—SORES, WOUNDS AND ULCERS.—Every variety of sore, ulcer, erysipelas, boil, and carbuncle, is safely stopped in its destructive course by the timely application of this healing Ointment. It arrests unhealthy and substitutes healthy action, thus curing the inflamed, irritable, and spreading diseases affecting the skin. Holloway's Ointment has proved an unfailing friend to the facility in healing old inflammatory sores [illegible] and be left sore and not wounds it cannot be [illegible] Attention is solicited to its powers. When the complaint has been of long continuance, Holloway's Pills will expedite recovery if taken in those doses which act as alteratives on the stomach and tonics on the constitution.

Digitized by Google

CONSECRATION OF TWO ROYAL ARCH CHAPTERS.

ON Thursday, the 23rd ult., there was a considerable assemblage of Companions for the purpose of witnessing and taking part in the constituting and consecration of two Royal Arch Chapters, one being that of Dundas, 1255, the other the Devon Chapter, No. 1135, of Newton Abbot. The Rev. John Huyshe, the Grand Superintendent of the Province, was able, we were glad to see, to be present and take his part most ably in the business of the day, which he at all times conducts with great solemnity. Amongst the other Companions present were the following:—L. P. Metham P.G.H., J. Elliott P.Z. P.P.G.H., J. B. Gover P.Z. P.P.G.P.S., P. B. Clemens P.Z. P.P.G.A.S., John De Pre P.Z. 70, P.P.G.T., John Pearse, Walter G. Rogers P.G.S.E., H. W. Thomas A.S. 70, Samuel Jew P.Z. P.P.G. Treas., T. W. Lemon Scribe N. 189, H. Miller P.Z. P.P.G. 1st S.B., W. Hambly P.S., J. W. Keyworth B.J., W. Ephinstone Stone 106 Z. P.P.G.R., W. Haymes P.Z. 100, Edwin J. Knight Z. 202, P.P.G.S.B., R. Hambly 230, J. E. Curteis P.Z. 189 P.P.G. St. B., W. Joll P.G.T. 230, R. H. Rae P.P.G.T. 189, Jas. Page Phillips Z. P.G.S. 223, Joseph Matthews P.Z. P.P.G.T., Lieutenant-Col. Fitzgerald 189, Captain Shanks P.Z. 1205 P.P.G.J., S. C. Gant, L. Webber, A. Bodley H. 112, P.G. St. B., R. Bright, W. H. Tripplett, C. Godtschalk 139 P.P.G.S.B., H. J. Ham, T. C. Lewarn, H. G. Beachy 710 P.Z., Robert Bowden P.Z., C. J. Harland Z., W. T. Pilditch Z. 156, John H. Tonkin J., W. D Thomas H. 159, R. B. Twose P.G.D.C. H. 105, W. H. Michell P.Z. 156 P.P.G.D.C., Isaac Latimer J. 189, G. H. Amery, J. M. Hiffley P.Z. P.P.G.S.B., E. T. Tarratt, E. Atkin Davies P.Z. P.P.G. Reg., R. P. Culley Z. 70, A. J. Bishop 106, T. S. Bayly P.P.G.R., J. Baxter 254, W. R. Gillman H., John Rogers P.Z., John Lyon P.Z., G. Thorne 70, and P. L. Blanchard.

The Chapter was duly formed by the following Companions taking their places:—The M.E. Rev. John Huyshe P.G., Superintendent Comp. L. P. Metham H., Comp. Captain Keyworth J., Comp. W. G. Rogers S.E., Comp. Isaac Latimer as S.N., Comp. J. P. Phillips P.S., Comp. E. J. Knight as 1st A.S., Comp. J. Brown as 2nd A.S., Comp. Wm. Joll Grand Treasurer, Comp. J. H. Hiffley Sword Bearer, Comp. C. A. Godtschalk 1st Grand Std. Bearer, Comp. G. B. Colston 2nd do., Comp. R. B. Twose G.D.C., Comp. G. H. Amery Gr. Organist, Alfred Bodley G. Banner Bearer, John Rogers and Peter Blanchard acting as Janitors.

The Chapter having been duly opened, the P.G. Scribe E. addressed the acting Z., and then read the two Warrants from the Grand Chapter, authorising the Constitution and Consecration of the Chapters Dundas and Devon. The officers of Dundas were present. The Charter for the Dundas Chapter was addressed to Comp. C. Godtschalk, J. J. Avery, H. W. Thomas, ex-Comps. T. B. Harvey P.Z. 156, W. Bell P.Z. 156, W. H. Triplett H. 156, Comps. J. F. Rogers, W. G. Ball, ex-Comp. J. B. Gover P.Z. 70, Comp. L. D. Westcott, W. B. Hambly P.Z. P.P.G.T.

The following members of the Chapter were then presented as the proposed officers:—Dundas Chapter—Ex-Comps C. Godtschalk Z., J. J. Avery H., H. W. Thomas J., T. B. Harvey S.E., Comp. H. J. Ham S.N., Ex-Comps. W. H. Triplett P.S., W. Bell Treas. That for the Devon Chapter was addressed to ex-Comp. the Rev. R. Bowden P.Z., Alexander Watkins P.Z. 28, H. G. Beachey P.Z. 710, P. D. Michelmore Z. elect 710, Comps. Bickford Prowse 710, J. S. Saunders 710, F. Pratt 303, N. H. Beasley Unity 314, Preston.

In reply to the inquiries of the acting Z., the P.G. Supt., the members of both Chapters expressed their unanimous approval of their proposed officers.

Ex-Comp. L. P. Metham, the principal H., then delivered an eloquent oration on the importance of the duties the members and officers of the new Chapter were about to assume, and the sacred reverence that should feel for the ne plus ultra degree of Freemasonry in which they were engaged. From their dependence on others, even for the preservation of life itself in the first period of their existence, they could but have deduced the moral that it was their duty to learn and practise an abiding lesson of mutual dependence and equality. Passing onward they reached that period when opportunity was offered them to practise those principles. The dignity and usefulness of labour were as clearly shown as its necessity. To rightly employ the hours given to them as precious talents, not only for their own benefit, but for the good of their fellow-creatures and the honour of their Creator, was, while they gloried in their manhood, and in the meridian brightness of life, the best and most grateful sacrifice and return they could offer for all the benefits conferred upon them. To the man who had cultivated his intellectual powers to the glory of God and the welfare of his fellows and who had moulded his life by the teachings of morality and religion, the evening of his life was a scene of calmness and resignation, while Masonry in that degree pointed with no faltering finger to the future beyond the grave, where they would come face to face with the Great Eternal Ruler of the Universe. If its solemn teachings were not adopted, the circle of the Masonic duties was still incomplete.

The officers of the new Chapter were then duly presented to the acting Z., and all the necessary forms for Constituting the Chapters having been concluded, the Consecrations commenced with an ode, beginning with which was followed by prayers, by pouring of corn, wine, and oil, on the Chapter, and Companions then chanted Psalm cxxii. The ceremonies were impressive, and the musical arrangements, under Comp. Gant, were admirable.

"Let there be light!" th' Almighty spoke:

The Principals of the Dundas Chapter not having previously been installed in either of the chairs, the P.G. Supt. retired, and the duties of the acting Z. were assumed by ex-Comp. Captain Keyworth, ex-Comps. W. G. Rogers and Captain Shanks officiating as H. and J. Comp. C. Godtschalk and J. J. Avery were then passed through installation to each of the chairs of Z. and H., and Comp. H. W. Thomas to that of J. The installations were conducted by ex-Comp. Keyworth with great ability, and his general working throughout met with the warm approval of all present.

Comp. Charles Godtschalk, to whom the Charter is addressed from Grand Chapter, with the assistance and untiring zeal, ability and fraternal love of Comp. J. B. Gover P.Z. in founding this Chapter, to whose united efforts and love of Masonry was due the business of the day.

Comp. Charles Godtschalk having expressed a fervent wish to receive the honour of being installed as the first Z. of the Dundas Chapter from the hands of the Venerable J. Huyshe, the Grand Sup. of the Province, adding if the health of the Grand Sup. would permit this labour, in addition to that of the consecration he had already so ably conducted, the honour would be gratefully received and never be effaced from his memory.

The P.G. Supt., Rev. J. Huyshe, then returned to the Chapter, and most impressively installed Comp. Charles Godtschalk as the Z. of Dundas Chapter. The following are the officers of Dundas:—C. Godtschalk Z., J. B. Gover P.Z., J. J. Avery H., H. W. Thomas J., T. B. Harvey Sc. E., W. Bell Treas., W. H. Triplett P.S., C. Godtschalk Z. P.G.S.B., J. B. Gover P.Z. P.P.G.P.S., J. J. Avery H., H. W. Thomas J., W. Bell Treas., H. J. Ham S.N., T. B. Harvey S.E. P.Z. P.P.G.P.S., T. Smith Janitor, Dundas Chapter 1255.

The members of the Dundas Chapter, together with a large number of the Provincial Grand Officers and members of other Chapters, dined at Comp. Watt's, Globe Hotel, under the presidency of the Rev. J. Huyshe P.G.S., by whom the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed. Speaking of the new Chapters, he was sure from his knowledge of the members and Principals, they would be properly conducted in full accordance with the principles and teaching of the exalted degree. In Companion C. Godtschalk, Z. of Dundas, they had one whose zeal, knowledge and self-sacrificing attention to his duties had been known and appreciated for a long time. Companion Rev. E. R. Bowden's long experience in various offices, and Masonic experience was a guarantee for the good working of the Devon Chapter.

Comp. Godtschalk, in reply, said he was quite unable to find words to express all he felt. It rarely fell to the lot of a brother to have so much Masonic work and pleasure crowded into so short a space as he had recently experienced. On Monday he had presided as W.M. in the Dundas Lodge, and initiated a gentleman into the Order. On Tuesday he had been installed as E. Preceptor and Prior of the Royal Veterans' Preceptory. On Wednesday he had the pleasure of installing W. Bro. J. Latimer (his successor) as Master of the Fortitude Lodge of Mark Master Masons, whilst to-day he had the distinguished honour of being installed as first Principal by the venerable and much beloved Provincial Chief of the Order, to whom he tendered his heartful thanks, as also to the distinguished companions who had been present and assisted in the ceremonies.

Ex-Comp. Bowden returned thanks for himself and the Devon Chapter, stating the pleasure he had felt in the day's proceedings, and pointed out the beauty and useful lessons to be learned from the R. A. degree.

ROYAL VETERANS' PRECEPTORY AND PRIORY OF MALTA.

THE annual meeting of this ancient Preceptory and Priory was held at the Huyshe Masonic Temple, Plymouth, on Tuesday, the 21st March. The Preceptor elect, Sir Knight Charles Godtschalk, Constable of the Preceptory, and who, having held high rank in the Provincial Priory of Devon, is deservedly very popular in the Province, was most impressively installed by the eminent Sir Knight Richard Rodda P.E.C. and Past Grand Almoner of England; this beautiful ceremony being wholly conducted by him and given with great force and feeling.

The Priory of Malta was then opened, when the very High and Eminent Sir Knight Col. John Elliott, Great Prior of Devon, with unusual fulness, and with distinguished ability, installed the E.P. Sir Knight Godtschalk as Prior of the Chapter.

The above ceremonies were witnessed by an unusually large gathering, and master roll of Knights of the Orders, and among the number the following eminent Knights as P.E. Commanders and Past and acting eminent Preceptors, all of whom have and do hold high Provincial rank, formed the Board of P.E. Preceptors and P.E. Priors, namely:—Sir Knights W. B. Hambly, J. E. Curteis, V. Bird, J. Watts, T. B. Harvey, E. A. Davies, J. Austin and J. M. Hiffley. The Rev. T. W. Lemon acted as high Prelate, and Sir Knight Arnold very efficiently performed the duties of Organist. The E.P. Sir Knight Godtschalk appointed as his officers: Friars—J. B. Gover P.P.G.T. Constable, S. Jew P.G.T. Marshal, J. Austin Treasurer, W. B. Hambly Registrar, L. D. Westcott Prelate, W. Browning Sub-Marshal, J. H. Knats Captain of the Guard, S. Templer Almoner, G. P. N. Burden 1st P.R.P., Culler S.B., T. Smith S.

The Preceptory recorded votes of thanks to the Eminent Sir Knight R. Rodda, not only for the important, instructive and delightful services of the day, but also for the services rendered by him during the past year in installing all the Companions who had been accepted into this illustrious and Knightly Order through the Royal Veterans' Preceptory. A vote of thanks was also recorded to Sir Knight Arnold for his able and gratuitous services as Organist.

The Sir Knights afterwards dined together at the Globe Hotel, presided over, most ably, by the newly installed E. Preceptor. The cuisine and cellar of Sir Knight Watts provided the good things of this life, which were of a most recherché description and were supplied with an ungrudging hand. The banquet was the most pleasant and interesting of the year, and passed off most satisfactorily; all the Sir Knights congratulating Sir Knight Godtschalk on the termination of a happy day, and wishing him a happy and prosperous year of office.

Digitized by Google

CONSECRATION OF THE CRANBOURNE LODGE, No. 1580, HATFIELD.

THE consecration meeting of this Lodge was held at the Red Lion Hotel, Hatfield, on Wednesday, the 29th inst. The ceremony was ably performed by Bro. F. H. Wilson Iles, P.G.S., who was appointed by the Provincial Grand Master to perform the ceremony. The brethren assembled in the ante-room, and marched in procession to the Lodge room, where the Consecrating Officer appointed Bro. Lowthin P.G.S.W. to be Senior Warden, and Bro. John Hervey G.S. to be J.W. The Lodge was then duly consecrated and constituted, the musical portion of the ceremony being ably rendered by Bro. Paterson P.G.O. After the consecration of the Lodge, Bro. Edgar Bowyer was regularly installed into the chair of K. S., the installation ceremony being ably performed by the Consecrating Officer, assisted by Bro. Terry P.G.D.C. for Herts. Bro. Bowyer then invested his officers as follow:—Bros. Mather S.W., Banner J.W., Cook Treasurer, Terry Secretary, Cox S.D., Halford J.D., Hellier I.G., Killick D.C., Verry A.D.C., Massey and Beadell Stewards, Steedman Tyler. Upon the brethren being invited, several propositions for initiation and joining were made. A letter of regret was read from R.W. Bro. Halsey Prov. G.M., at not being able to be present, a regret that was universally felt by the brethren. A vote of thanks was unanimously given to the Consecrating Officer, Bro. Iles, Bros. Lowthin P.G.S.W., Hervey G.S., and Paterson P.G.O., for their respective services. The Lodge was then closed in due form. The brethren then adjourned to the banquet, which was most ably served. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and a very agreeable evening was spent. Bro. Hervey, in responding to the toast of the Grand Officers, made some very pertinent remarks on the present prosperous condition of the Craft, and warned the brethren to be most careful in the selection of candidates; not to study numbers, but to admit none but those who would become a credit to the Craft. Bro. Binckes, in responding to the toast of the Masonic Charities, made a very able speech, as also did Bro. Terry, in response to the toast of the Officers. From the success attending the consecration meeting, we entertain no doubt that the future of the Lodge will be a prosperous one.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

All Letters must bear the name and address of the Writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

THE MARQUESS OF RIPON AND "Q"

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR,—I do not know what answer the Secretaries of the R.M. Institution for Girls and Boys will make to Bro. Q.'s opportune query; but I do know that "once a Grand Officer always a Grand Officer" is the law of the Grand Lodge of England. It seems to me most unfair that the Officers or Past Officers of the Grand Lodge should have one law for them, and another law to be in force for the Officers (Past and Present) of the Provincial Grand Lodges, and individual Lodges, and yet so it is. I believe the Most Noble the Marquess of Ripon, K.G., has ceased to subscribe to any Lodge under the English jurisdiction, and yet his Lordship is still legally (it seems) styled Past Grand Master. Now if a Provincial Officer (Past or Present) ceases to subscribe to any Lodge in his Province he forfeits de facto his Provincial honours; if a Past Master ceases to subscribe to a Lodge under the English jurisdiction he thereby forfeits his membership of the Grand Lodge, and if a Brother ceases to subscribe to a Lodge he loses his membership, and his Masonic rights. It is evident, therefore, that Grand Officers have the peculiar privilege of retaining their honours, even when they cease to subscribe to a Lodge under the Grand Lodge of England, and have, therefore, no need to pay aught to secure them admission into the Grand Lodge, and vote at all the Quarterly Communications. I hope this anomaly will be attended to in due course, and the present rule pointed out by "Q." through his energy, will soon be abrogated. Under my Grand Lodge (Ireland) we have an annual payment in such instances as the foregoing.

MASONIC INVESTIGATOR.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All Letters and communications must be addressed to the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

T. B. W.—Many thanks for your kind enclosure. You have, however, been forestalled, as you will see by our issue of to-day.

We have to direct the attention of our correspondent A. K.T. to the paragraphs bedding this column, and upon his compliance with the conditions, we shall have pleasure in answering his question.

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Old Truths in a New Light.—By the Countess of Caithness. London: Chapman and Hall.

THE discrepancies, or apparent discrepancies, between some of the more recent discoveries of science and the truths of religion have been discussed by numerous writers, and from various standpoints. From the author of "Kraft and Stoff," who in the entire range of Nature could find no place for a Deity or a Creator, to the zealous Ultramontane, who has hardly yet become reconciled to a belief in the rotundity of the earth, a list of writers could be cited representing almost every conceivable shade of opinion and predilection with regard to this important question. The present work, aptly characterised by the authoress as "an earnest endeavour to reconcile material science with spiritual science and with Scripture," offers many features of originality. Considerable stress is placed, at the outset, upon some remarks of Professor Tyndall at the recent meeting of the British Association at Belfast. "The whole process of evolution," the Professor affirmed, "is the manifestation of a power absolutely inscrutable to the intellect of man. As little in our day as in the days of Job can man by searching find this power out. Considered fundamentally it is by the operation of an inscrutable mystery that life is evolved, species differentiated and minds unfolded from their prepotent elements in the immeasurable past." In the course of the same address the Professor referred to the unmoveable basis of the religious sentiment in the emotional nature of man, and added, "To yield this sentiment reasonable satisfaction is the problem of problems at the present day." Now it is precisely this problem of problems of which the present work is intended to offer the solution. The authoress, in common with a large number of eminent and distinguished persons, both in this country and on the Continent, is a believer in Spiritualism, or, to adopt her ladyship's own expression, in Spiritism. The speciality of this belief may be said to be that it offers something approaching to scientific demonstration in support of the primary truths of religion. The doctrine of the immortality of the soul for example needs no longer to depend upon abstruse metaphysical arguments or the testimony of past ages if, as the Spiritualists assert, communication with the souls of the dead has already been effectively established. If Spiritualism can be shown to be no delusion, if it is able to set at rest questions of such vital importance to the well being of humanity as this, we think it cannot fail to be admitted that the purpose of this work has been accomplished, and that Professor Tyndall's "problem of problems" has been shown to be capable of solution. Apart from the main thread of the argument, moreover, the book is full of matters of interest, and will well repay perusal. A mass of curious information with respect to the ancient faiths and traditions of the world is introduced in support or illustration of the views of the writer, which, perhaps has never been collected in a readable form before. In particular, we may mention the subject of Freemasonry is more than once touched upon, and in a manner which proves that the authoress is deeply impressed with a belief in its great antiquity and in the profound wisdom of its teachings. The origin of the earlier rites and symbols of the Craft must be looked for, in the opinion of the Countess of Caithness, as far back as the reign of Osiris. Some remarks on the origin of the Rose Croix order of Freemasonry, erroneously confounded by some writers with the cabalistic sect of Rosicrucians, our readers will thank us for quoting. "I was not aware," she writes, "any doubt existed as to the date or origin of this most ancient and important order, but upon referring to Mackey's 'Lexicon of Freemasonry,' I find it stated that although it is agreed by all writers on Masonry to be one of the earliest, if not the very earliest, of the higher degrees, yet the most inextricable confusion reigns as to its origin. . . . . The rose, in ancient mythology, was consecrated to Hippocrates, the God of Silence. Hence this flower was considered the emblem of knowledge, silence and secrecy. When anything was intended to be kept secret it was said to be delivered sub rosa, or 'under the rose.' Ragon, in explaining the jewel of the Rose Croix (of which he gives a long and minute description), says that the cross was, in Egypt, an emblem of immortality, and the rose of secrecy; the rose, followed by the cross, was therefore the simplest mode of writing the secret of immortality.'" The work is in a high degree thoughtful and suggestive, and will probably be extensively read and discussed.

THE DATE OF EASTER 1876.—In the ecclesiastical year, according to the rule in the Prayer-book, "Easter-day (on which the other movable feasts and holy days depend) is always the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after the 21st day of March; and if the full moon happens upon a Sunday, Easter-day is the Sunday after." Now, look at the almanack on the wrapper of the "Leisure Hour" (which is specially prepared for it each month by Mr. Dunkin, of the Royal Observatory, and contains some valuable astronomical notes). The full moon next after the 21st March is set down for 8th April. The first Sunday after this is 9th April, whereas the true date for Easter is 16th April. This discrepancy has surely exercised many minds, as on previous occasions when the Church Calendar and the astronomer seemed to be at variance. The truth is that the rule in the Prayer-book is wrong in two points, and needs correction. It is wrong in referring to the visible moon in the heavens, and wrong in referring to full moon instead of the fourteenth day after the Calendar moon of March. The Calendar moon falls on 27th March, the fourteenth day after which is 9th April, the first Sunday after which is 16th April, Easter Sunday. The error of referring to the moon in the heavens is obvious, for it is full moon at different times in different places. Even within so short a distance as London and Westminster, with difference of longitude between six and seven seconds. Easter might fall on one Sunday in St. Paul's, and not till the following Sunday in Westminster Abbey!—Leisure Hour for April.

Digitized by Google

INSTALLATION OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,
Most Worshipful Grand Master, &c., &c., having been graciously pleased to accept the special Dedication,

A SPLENDID

HISTORICAL STEEL ENGRAVING

WILL SHORTLY BE PUBLISHED,

OF THE

ROYAL INSTALLATION ON THE 28TH OF APRIL LAST,
IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,

By BRO. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. No. 1201.

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be made to the

ROYAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS,

ST. JOHN'S HILL, S.W.

OFFICE: 5 Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, W.C.

PATRONS.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G., &c., M.W.G.M. President.

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

A QUARTERLY General Court of the Governors and Subscribers of this Institution will be held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London, on Saturday, the 8th day of April 1876, at Twelve o'clock precisely, on the General Business of the Institution, to consider notices of motion as follows: and to elect 11 Girls into the School by ballot from a list of 43 approved candidates. The election will commence at One o'clock (or after the usual business is over) and close at Three o'clock precisely.

By H. A. Dubois, Esq.—

That the recommendation of the Special Committee appointed by the last Special Court of the 11th Dec. 1875, be brought up and submitted for adoption.

By Raynham W. Stewart, Esq.—

That in the event of the Special Committee appointed by the Quarterly Court of the 11th December 1875, presenting their report, recommending that a further sum shall be expended in enlarging the present school or building on the present site at Battersea,

He will move as an amendment to the report, that it is inexpedient that any further sum of money should be laid out in enlarging the present Schools or otherwise, and that in view of its being necessary to remove the School, an eligible site should be sought for, and purchased so as to meet the wants of the Craft.

By Robert Kenyon, Esq.—

That a Committee of five Governors, viz: Lieutenant Colonel Burdett, Dudley Rolle, Esq., Dr. Ramsay, Robert Kenyon, Esq., &c, and they are hereby appointed to inspect certain Freehold Lands at Sunninghill, Claremont, Banstead and elsewhere, with a view to the selected site being purchased, and ultimately applied for the purpose of erecting fit and commodious schools, &c., thereon, so as to provide the necessary accommodation for a large additional number of children.

By H. W. Hemsworth, Esq.—

That not more than two children of same parents be admitted to this Institution at the same time.

By F. W. H. Ramsay, Esq., M.D.—

That every three years the four senior members of the House Committee retire, but shall be eligible for re-election, and the four who have been least frequent in attendance shall retire annually, and be ineligible for re-election for a space of twelve months.

By John Boyd, Esq.—

That ten additional children be elected at the forthcoming election in April next, thus increasing the number in the School to 142.

R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, Prov. S.G.W. Middx.,
SECRETARY.

The EIGHTY-EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL will take place at the Freemasons' Tavern on Wednesday, 10th May 1876, on which occasion Lieut.-Col. Sir HENRY EDWARDS, Bart., D.L., R. W. Provincial Grand Master for West Yorkshire, will preside.

Tickets, One Guinea each, may be had of the Stewards, and of the Hon. Secretary (Bro. R. Wentworth Little), at the Office, 5 Freemasons' Hall, W.C.

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE can be ordered of any Bookseller in Town or Country, but should any difficulty be experienced, it will be forwarded direct from the Office, on receipt of Post Office Order for the amount. Intending Subscribers should forward their full Addresses to prevent mistakes.

Post Office Orders to be made payable to W. W. MORGAN, at Barbican Office. Cheques crossed "London and County."

The Terms of Subscription (payable in advance) to THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE are—

Twelve Months, Post Free	...	...	£0 13 6
Six Months	ditto	...	... 0 7 0
Three Months	ditto	...	... 0 3 6

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisers will find THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE an exceptionally good medium for Advertisements of every class.

Per Page...	£8 0 0
Back Page	£10 0 0

General Advertisements, Trade Announcements, &c. single Column, 3s per inch. Double Column Advertisements 1s per line. Special Terms for a Series of insertions on application.

Births, Marriages and Deaths, 6d per line.

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

THE CLUB PREMISES, SITUATE
101 QUEEN VICTORIA STREET,
ARE NOW BEING FITTED UP, AND WILL
SHORTLY BE OPENED TO THE MEMBERS.

THE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, now payable, is available to 1st May 1877, and is fixed at—£3 3s for Town Members, i.e., Members residing within twenty miles of the Club, and £1 11s 6d for Country Members, without entrance fee. Members incur no liability beyond their subscription. None but Freemasons are eligible for Membership.

THE NEXT ELECTION OF MEMBERS will be held on 17th April, after which date it is anticipated that it will be necessary to impose an Entrance Fee, and raise the Annual Subscriptions—upwards of 500 Brethren having already joined.

FORMS FOR APPLICATION for Membership may be obtained from the Secretary, at the Office of the LONDON MASONIC CLUB COMPANY LIMITED, 37 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

JOHN A. LATHBURY, Secretary.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

---

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

A brace of questions were asked in the House of Lords on Friday. The first related to an alleged outrage at Whydah, and was answered by the Earl of Carnarvon. The second was put by Lord Hampton, and had reference to the Sugar Convention. To this the Earl of Derby gave the necessary reply. On Monday, the Earl of Shaftesbury gave notice of his intention, if the Royal Titles Bill received a second reading, to move an address to Her Majesty, praying her to assume some other title than that of Empress of India. The Marquis of Salisbury then described certain amendments he proposed to submit to their lordships in the Oxford University Bill, and subsequently announced the names of the commissioners to be appointed under it. A discussion then ensued on the presentation, by the Duke of Northumberland, of a petition asking for a Royal Commission of Inquiry into the working and management of Mineral and Alkali Works. His Grace concluded by moving for the appointment of a commission, and the Government, subject to a slight modification of its terms, acceded to the motion. On Tuesday, the Duke of Buccleugh emphatically contradicted a rumour to which the Times had given currency, that it was his intention to second the motion of the Earl of Shaftesbury, in reference to the Royal Titles Bill. The Duke of Richmond and Gordon introduced a Bill on Agricultural Holdings in Scotland, which was read a first time. On Thursday, the Royal Titles Bill was read a second time, after a long debate, in which the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, the Duke of Somerset, Lord Napier and Ettrick, Earl Grey, Lords Lawrence, Waveney, and Stanley, of Alderley, Earl Granville, the Marquis of Salisbury, Lord Kimberley, and the Lord Chancellor took part.

Digitized by Google

In the House of Commons, on Friday, Mr. Fawcett gave notice of a motion, in the event of the Royal Titles Bill passing into law, to the effect that an humble address be presented to Her Majesty praying her not to assume any other title in respect of India than that of Queen. The Marquis of Hartington announced his intention of asking, on Monday, a question relative to the report of Mr. Cave's mission to the Khedive. A motion of Mr. Gregory's, that effect should be given to the recommendations of the committee upon Acts of Parliament was, after a brief discussion, negatived without a division. Mr. Sherlock proposed to remove the grating in front of the Ladies' Gallery; after a brief conversation the subject dropped. The House then went into Committee of Supply on the Civil Service Estimates and passed several votes. On Monday, Mr. Disraeli announced the course he proposed to pursue in reference to the vote for the expenses of Mr. Cave's mission. The Chancellor of the Exchequer stated that he should bring in his budget on Monday next. The House then went into committee on clause 3 of the Merchant Shipping Bill. An amendment, proposed by Mr. Plimsoll, that every British ship, with certain named exceptions, should be furnished with a certificate of seaworthiness, was strenuously opposed by the Government and defeated, after a long and interesting debate, by 247 to 110. On Tuesday, Mr. Anderson asked the First Minister a silly, if not an impertinent question, as to whether there was any precedent for the Queen's leaving the country when Parliament was sitting. Mr. Disraeli gravely cited a case in point, but this did not satisfy Mr. Sullivan, who was anxious to learn if members of the House would enjoy their privilege of free access to Her Majesty during her visit to Germany. Mr. Disraeli replied in the affirmative. Mr. Meldon then proposed a motion, the object of which was the extension of the borough franchise in Ireland. A considerable number of Irish members, prominent among them being Mr. Butt, and Mr. John Bright supported the motion. The Solicitor-General for Ireland and the Chief Secretary opposed, on behalf of the Government, and Mr. Meldon was defeated by the narrow majority of 13—179 against 166 for the motion. On Wednesday, Mr. Butt moved the second reading of the Land Tenure (Ireland) Bill. Mr. Clive moved an amendment that the Bill be read that day six months. Captain Nolan, Mr. McCarthy and the O'Donoghue supported, while Lord Elcho and Sir M. H. Beach on the part of the Government, opposed the second reading. Mr. Law moved the adjournment of the debate, to which Mr. Disraeli assented. On Thursday, Mr. Anderson having renewed his impertinent inquiries as to the Queen's absence in Germany during the session of Parliament, and Mr. Disraeli having answered them, the House went into Committee on the Mercantile Shipping Bill. Clause 3 was agreed to, after several amendments had been proposed and rejected, and subsequently clause 4. The House then resumed, and having passed the Mutiny Bill through Committee, adjourned at a late hour.

On Monday the Queen, with the Princess Beatrice and suite, left Windsor Castle for Portsmouth, en route for Germany. The visit being strictly private, no one was allowed in the Dockyard, and her Majesty at once went on board the "Victoria and Albert." The Royal yacht left Portsmouth Harbour at nine a.m. the following morning, and reached Cherbourg at three in the afternoon. The Earl of Derby accompanies the Queen as Secretary of State in attendance on her Majesty, who is now at Baden-Baden.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales reached Suez on the morning of Saturday last, and at once left for Cairo, which he reached same day, where he was received by the Khedive and the Princes, the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia being also present. On Monday a grand banquet was given in the Prince's honour at the Abdin Palace, when covers were laid for ninety guests. A grand concert followed the banquet. His Royal Highness is expected to reach Malta on Wednesday next, the 5th inst., and, accordingly, great preparations are being made with a view to giving him a hearty welcome. A thousand pounds have already been collected for the illuminations, and there will be a grand pyrotechnic display on the Corradino heights. The route from the landing-place to the Governor's palace will be decorated the whole way with Egyptian masts, and banners of every description. The Prince will remain two or three days, the principal entertainment being a grand ball at the Union Club, to be given by the army and navy. New colours, it is said, will be presented to the 98th Regiment, now on its way to Malta, and it is expected there will be some kind of a military spectacle on a very grand scale. The Prince will also lay the foundation-stone of a Conservatorio, or asylum for girls, founded by a Chevalier Bugeja, who is to spend some fifty thousand pounds on its completion.

The Princess of Wales and her children left Windsor Castle for Marlborough House on Saturday. In the afternoon she was present at the Saturday Popular Concert, at St. James's Hall, and later in the day visited her Royal Highness the Duchess of Cambridge, at St. James's Palace. His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh having terminated his visit to St. Petersburg, started on his return to England on Sunday afternoon, reaching Berlin on Tuesday. He was received by the Crown Prince and Princess. After déjeûner at the palace of the latter the Duke left for Darmstadt.

In the sporting world the doings of the Oxford and Cambridge crews claim our first attention. The supporters of the latter are gaining courage from the reports which appear daily of the improvement evidenced by the performances of their favourites, while Oxford has had to make a change in its personnel. But though such a change, when the day for the race is so close at hand, is far from encouraging, the backers of Oxford have faith in the success of the dark blue. The number of spectators has not been on some days so great as usual, as there has been more than one tide high enough to cover the towing-path; indeed, some of the more enthusiastic admirers of rowing had to make their way back to terra firma as best they could. On Friday the Liverpool Grand National, the great steeple-chase event of the year, was run, and resulted, towards the end, in a very fine race, Captain Machell's Fegal passing the winning-post a neck in front of Mr. Gomm's Congress. Nineteen ran, of whom Zero came to grief, his rider, Mr. Rolly, being somewhat severely shaken. On Monday was held, at Lillie Bridge, the First Spring Meeting of the London Athletic Club. The weather was not particularly favourable, as a strong north-easter was blowing the whole of the afternoon, yet the attendance of spectators was, under the circumstances, considerable. F. T. Elborough walked over for the 220 yards challenge cup, and was beaten by a yard only by Montague in the 600 yards handicap. The final of the 100 yards fell to H. Macdougall, while that of the 250 yards for members only was won by R. H. Dudgeon. The open half-mile handicap was won by T. H. Todd (19 yards). H. Venn secured the three miles walking challenge cup, and A. P. Smith, L.A.C., the open four miles handicap (time, 21 mins. 27 secs.). At Glasgow, on Saturday, Wales and Scotland played a match at football, under Association rules. The North Britons were eventually winners, by four goals to none. In a return match at Sheffield, between London and Sheffield, the latter proved victorious, by six goals to none. As London won the first match, at the Oval, these two rival teams have each scored a victory. We close this list with the first of the inter-university contests as yet settled. These were the double and single billiard matches played at Cambridge, Oxford being represented in the first by Messrs. Adey (Balliol) and Horne (Worcester), while the honour of the sister university was entrusted to Messrs. Pontifex (Trinity) and Sarkeis (Cains). The latter won by 224 points. In the single match Cambridge, represented by Mr. Pontifex, won by 287 points.

The annual dinner of the Institute of Civil Engineers took place on Saturday evening, at Willis's Rooms, Mr. Robert George Stephenson being in the chair. Amongst the notabilities present were the Duke of Teck, the Earl of Carnarvon, Viscount Halifax, Captain Lord Gifford, R.N. Lord Colville of Culross, Lord Hatherley, General Lord Sandhurst, the Lord Mayor, Messrs. Lowe, Goschen, and Stansfield. The usual loyal and other toasts were received with enthusiasm, especial honour being paid to the toast of the evening, "Prosperity to the Institution of Civil Engineers."

A large and influential meeting was held in the Egyptian Hall at the Mansion House under the presidency of Lord Mayor Cotton, in aid of the funds of Mrs. Gladstone's

Digitized by Google

Free Convalescent Home for the poor. Mr. Gladstone, the Bishop of Ely, Lords Lawrence, Napier and Ettrick, and Eliot, Earl Cowper, Baron F. de Rothschild, Sir R. Wallace, and a number of civic dignitaries, together with the Lady Mayoress, Mrs. Gladstone and other patrons and patronesses were present. Mr Gladstone advocated the cause of the charity with great earnestness, and the result was the subscription in the room of a considerable sum.

On Tuesday, the Royal Italian Opera, Covent Garden, opened with the performance of Rossini's Guglielmo Tell. M. Maurel took the part of William Tell and Signor Marini and Mdlle. Bianchi, as Arnoldo and Matilda, produced the same favourable impression as last season, in spite of the cold and hoarseness from which they were suffering, and for which the indulgence of the audience was claimed. The Princess of Wales and the Duke and Duchess of Teck were present.

Between Saturday and Sunday afternoon, a robbery, on a very large scale, was perpetrated on the premises of Messrs. J. R. Williams and Son, of Hatton Garden; jewellery to the amount of over £15,000 having been cleared out of two safes. There is reason to believe the thief, or thieves, must have been intimately acquainted with the arrangements of the premises. The street door had, first of all, to be opened, and this had to be done by using two different keys, and turning them at the same time. Then the door leading from the hall to the offices had to be opened, and lastly the safes, which were Chatwood's patent, and constructed on the most intricate principles, had to be unlocked. No violence was used, and singular to relate, the principal safe stood facing a window which looked full into the street, and was always unblinded both day and night. No clue, as yet, has been found to the perpetrators of this daring robbery; but, as usual, the police are said to be in possession of certain information. A reward of £600 is offered for the recovery of the property.

The usual Easter Monday Review of Volunteers, will be revived this year, and will be held at Tring. A circular has been issued from the War Office, in which it is stated that all applications on the part of corps to be present, must be made on, or before, Monday next, after which no application will be entertained. Though the scene of the review is in the eastern district, the Commander-in-Chief has entrusted the arrangements to the Staff of the Home district, as the bulk of those present will belong to the latter.

The Show of Cats, Rabbits, and Guinea Pigs, at the Alexandra Palace, on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, was on a very large scale—in point of numbers, perhaps, the largest ever held. There were over 450 entries in all; the Guinea Pigs, however, hardly mustering more than seven or eight. There were some magnificent specimens, both of Cats and Rabbits, the former including animals of every shade of colour, and we were almost going to say of every nationality. There were among them a tortoiseshell he-cat—some doubts, we believe, were expressed as to the parity of its breed—and a red tabby she-cat, said to be the only one of its kind in existence. Among the Rabbits were a large number of lop-eared and Dutch specimens, and very fine indeed some of them were. As regards other attractions, the Palace still offers a great variety, as great, indeed, as the season will permit; the theatrical performances, the Hague Minstrels, and the Saturday Concerts being the chief. As the season advances, we shall, no doubt, have much to say of the weekly programme. With anything like decent weather the second season should be as successful as the first.

To-day, at the Crystal Palace, there will be the usual Saturday Concert, and in the evening will be held a Spelling Bee, open to the public, when prizes of £10, £5, £3, £2, £1, and 10s are offered. To-day, also, is the first day of the grand exhibition of Carriages, Harness, and Bicycles, which will remain open till the 11th instant inclusive.

The most important question before the French public is that of a general amnesty. The ministers, MM. Dufaure and Ricard, attended before the Amnesty Committee of the Senate on Wednesday, and expressed themselves as strongly opposed to a general amnesty, but they announced that many individual pardons would be granted. In Germany, the Imperial project in relation to railways is exercising the public and the diets of the subordinate kingdoms and principalities. As regards the Eastern Question, conferences have been held with a view to bring about the pacification of the Herzegovina, but the negociations have fallen through owing to the inability of the Austrian and Turkish Commissioners to agree about one of the stipulations. Ali Pacha will only offer more promises without guarantee for their realisation, and Mouktar Pacha makes it a condition precedent of any armistice that he should be allowed to provision the fortified places in the province. These propositions do not meet the views of Baron Rodich, the Austrian commissioner, and, consequently, the conferences are at an end. Servia is reported to have consulted the Czar on the question of peace or war, and to have been advised to avoid doing anything that might disturb the peace of Europe. If further complications should arise, nothing would be lost by having waited. The inquiries in connection with sundry scandals in the United States are progressing. General Schenck has been examined before the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives relative to his connection with the Emma Silver Mine; and articles of impeachment against the late Secretary of War are said to be in course of preparation. The Ministerial crisis in Italy is at an end. The new Ministry have entered on their duties, and, as they require time for the consideration of the measures presented by the previous Ministry, an adjournment of the Chamber of Deputies till the 25th ult. has been called for and obtained. On the retirement of the late Ministry, Signor Biancheri, President of the Chamber, tendered his resignation, but the resignation was not accepted, and the President therefore remains in his office.

It is the intention of the Craft in Cape Town to welcome the return, from Griqualand West, of the R.W. the Hon. R. Southey, District G.M. for South Africa and adjacent Colonies, at a grand dinner. The arrangements are in the hands of Bros. W. T. Hawthorn D.G. Secretary, P. J. Stigant and L. Alexander, and we trust the banquet will add to the lustre of Freemasonry in those distant regions.

Brother Horsley will work the fifteen sections at the Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., on Monday evening next. Lodge will be opened at seven o'clock.

Lord Ramsay was installed, on Wednesday, as Provincial Grand Master of Forfarshire, in the Reid Hall, Forfar.

The 15 sections will be worked by Bro. C. W. Kent P.M. 879, W.M. 1571, at the Leopold Lodge of Instruction, No. 1571, Woolpack Tavern, Bermondsey-street, on Monday evening next, the 3rd April, at 7 o'clock. The following brethren will assist :—

FIRST LECTURE.

1st Section	-	Bro. Ross	5th Section	-	Bro. Bartlett
2nd "	-	" Emblee	6th "	-	" Baker
3rd "	-	" Ashton	7th "	-	" Stephens
4th "	-	" Hudson

SECOND LECTURE.

1st Section	-	Bro. Smith	4th Section	-	Bro. Magee
2nd "	-	" Nochmer	5th "	-	" Magee
3rd "	-	" Nochmer

THIRD LECTURE.

1st Section	-	Bro. Soez	3rd Section	-	Bro. Stephens
2nd "	-	" Etheridge

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR AND EMPRESS.—An account of the life of Francis Joseph I. must necessarily be co-extensive and almost identical with a history of the Austria of our own day. Thoroughly has this illustrious Monarch succeeded in assimilating and identifying himself with his people, or rather his peoples, as we ought to say, considering the multiplicity of nationalities over which he rules. Having ascended the throne a mere youth, and under gigantic difficulties, he has always proved equal to the high position he holds. By the union of the Princess Elizabeth of Bavaria he has two daughters and one son. The eldest daughter, the Archduchess Gisela, is married to the heir presumptive to the throne of Bavaria, Prince Leopold; and it may be remarked that Francis Joseph was a grandfather at the early age of forty-four, and the Empress styled herself a grandmother before she was thirty-seven. The Archduke Rudolph was born in August 1858, and all that is known of him leads us to infer that he will some day be a worthy successor of his illustrious father.—Leisure Hour for April.

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

SATURDAY, 1st APRIL.

186—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

MONDAY, 3rd APRIL.

45—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem, St. John's Square, E.C., at 8. (Instruction.)
69—Unity, London Tavern, E.C.
174—Sincerity, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
37—Anchor and Hope, Freemasons' Hall, Church Institute, Bolton-le-Moors.
53—Royal Sussex, Masonic Hall, Old Orchard-street, Bath.
119—Sun, Square and Compasses, Freemasons' Hall, Whitehaven.
133—Harmony, Ship Hotel, Faversham.
156—Harmony, Ruyshe Masonic Temple, Plymouth.
190—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover.
258—Vitruvian, Royal Hotel, Ross, Herefordshire.
441—Three Grand Principles, Red Lion Hotel, Petty Curry, Cambridge.
804—Oakley, Masonic Hall, Church-street, Basingstoke.
1045—Stamford, Town Hall, Altrincham.
1061—Rowley, Athenæum, Lancaster.
1124—St. Oswald, Wynnstay Hotel, Oswestry.
1304—Neptune, Masonic Temple, 25 Hope-street, Liverpool.

TUESDAY, 4th APRIL.

55—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
101—Temple, Ship and Turtle, Leadenhall-street.
860—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
1361—Golden Rule, Regent Masonic Hall, Air-street, Piccadilly.
R. A.—Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, at 6.30.
51—Angel, Three Cups Hotel, Colchester.
130—Paladin, Green Dragon Hotel, Hereford.
158—Adams, Masonic Rooms, Victoria Hall, Trinity-road, Sheerness-on-Sea.
209—Etonian, Masonic Hall, Windsor.
483—Royal Lebanon, Spread Eagle, Gloucester.
553—Temple, Town Hall, Folkestone.
702—Sherborne, Subscription Rooms, Stroud, Gloucester.
734—Londesborough, Victoria Hotel, Bridlington Quay.
847—Fortescue, Masonic Hall, High-street, Honiton, Devon.
949—St. Barnabas, Masonic Room, Limedale, Leighton Buzzard.
1003—Skiddaw, Lodge Room, Market-place, Cockermouth.
1054—Nowell, Freemasons' Hall, Islington-square, Salford.
1139—Devon, Masonic Hall, Devon-square, Newton Abbot.
1328—Beacontree, Red Lion, Leytonstone, at 8.0. (Instruction.)
1338—Waverley, Caledonia Inn, Ashton-under-Lyne.
1530—Square and Compass, Wynnstay Arms, High-street, Wrexham.

WEDNESDAY, 5th APRIL.

193—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7.0. (Instruction.)
1834—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Albion-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)
137—Amity, Masonic Hall, Thames-street, Poole.
256—Harmony, Masonic Room, Ann-street, Rochdale.
259—Moira, Freemasons' Hall, Park-street, Bristol.
458—Sincerity, Angel House, Northwich, Cheshire.
471—Silurian, Freemasons' Hall, Dock-street, Newport.
645—Humphrey Chetham, Masonic Room, Cross-street, Manchester.
1008—Royal St. Edmund's, Angel Hotel, Bury St. Edmunds.
1063—Malling Abbey, Bear Inn, West Malling, Kent.
1144—Milton, Commercial Hotel, Ashton-under-Lyne.
1187—Alnwick, Masonic Hall, Market-place, Alnwick.
1306—Cinque Ports, Bell Hotel, Sandwich.
1325—Talbot, Masonic Rooms, Wind-street, Swansea.
1363—Tyndall, Town Hall, Chipping Sodbury, Gloucester.
1479—Halsey, Town Hall, St. Albans.

THURSDAY, 6th APRIL.

27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
435—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 8. (Instruction.)
554—Yarborough, Green Dragon, Stepney.
1300—Harvey, 152 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1469—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
21—United Industrious, Guildhall Concert Room, High-street, Canterbury.
41—Royal Cumberland, Masonic Hall, Old Orchard-street, Bath.
155—Leunox, Freemasons' Hall, Richmond, Yorkshire.
249—Mariners, Masonic Temple, 21 Hope-street, Liverpool.
254—Trinity, Craven Arms Hotel, Coventry.
289—Fidelity, White Bull Hotel, Blackburn.
295—Combermere Union, Macclesfield Arms, Macclesfield.
330—Harmony, Red Lion, Fareham.
360—Pomfret, George Hotel, Northampton.
442—St. Peter's, Masonic Hall, Boroughbury, Peterborough.
463—East Surrey Concord, Greyhound, Croydon.
550—Star in the East, Pier Hotel, Harwich. (Instruction.)
751—Pelham Pillar, Masonic Hall, Bolling-lane, Grimsby.
1012—Prince of Wales, Derby Hotel, Bury, Lancashire.
1074—Underley, Masonic Room, Market-place, Kirkby Lonsdale.
1260—Anchoime, Forester's Hall, Brigg, Lincolnshire.
1284—Brent, Masonic Hall, Globe Hotel, Tyngham.
1331—Aldershot Camp, Assembly Rooms, High-street, Aldershot.
1343—St. John's, King's Arms Hotel, Grays, Essex.

FRIDAY, 7th APRIL.

933—Doric, Earl Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1278—Burdett Coutts, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1345—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, 7.30. (Instruction.)
1469—Marquess of Ripon, Metropolitan Sojourners' Asylum, Bells-pond-road, N.
1509—Metropolitan, 249 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)
574—Loyal Berkshire of Hope, Council Chamber, Newbury.
901—St. John's, Raskin Hotel, Wellington, Salop.
709—Invicta, Corn Exchange, Queen-street, Ashford.
1333—Athelstan, Town Hall, Atherstone, Warwick.
1387—Charlton, Masonic Rooms, Charlton Cum Hardy.
1961—Morecambe, Athenæum, Lancaster.

SATURDAY, 8th APRIL.

Quarterly General Court, Girls' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 12.0.
186—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.
1361—Commercial, Freemasons' Hall, Leicester.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

MONDAY.

61—Probity, Freemason's Hall, St. John's-place, Halifax.
154—Unanimity, Masonic Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield.
364—Nelson of the Nile, Freemasons' Hall, New-road, Batley.
426—Three Graces, Private Room, Haworth.
1109—Wharfedale, Private Room, Boroughgate, Otley, York.
1211—Goderich, Masonic Hall, St. George-street, Leeds.
1239—Wentworth, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
1305—De Warren, White Swan Hotel, Halifax.
1314—Thornhill, Masonic Room, Deara House, Lindley.
1345—Leghilliam, Masonic Hall, Carlton-street, Castleford.
R.A. 389—Integrity, Masonic Temple, Commercial-street, Morley.
R.A. 827—St. John's, Masonic Temple, Halifax-road, Dewsbury.

TUESDAY.

265—Royal Yorkshire, Masonic Hall, Hanover-street, Keighley.
1214—Scarborough, Wilton Arms Hotel, Batley.
R.A. 296—Loyalty, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
R.A. 600—Sincerity, Freemasons' Hall, Salem-street, Bradford.

WEDNESDAY.

258—Amphibious, Freemason's Hall, Heckmondwike.
389—Integrity, Masonic Temple, Commercial-street, Morley.
397—Airedale, Masonic Hall, Westgate, Shipley.
930—St. Oswald, Masonic Hall, Ropergate, Pontefract.
R.A. 304—Philanthropic, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.

THURSDAY.

206—Three Grand Principles, Masonic Hall, Dewsbury.
274—Harmony, Masonic Hall, South Parade, Huddersfield.
289—Fidelity, Masonic Hall, Carlton-hill, Leeds.
337—Candour, Private Rooms, Commercial Inn, Uppermill.
974—Pythagoras, New Masonic Hall, Darley-street, Bradford.
1331—Sévile, Royal Hotel, Elland.
1413—Friendly, King's Head Hotel, Barnsley.

FRIDAY.

243—St. George's, Victoria Room, Doncaster.
306—Alfred, Masonic Hall, Kelsall-street, Leeds.
401—Royal Forest, Hark-to-Bounty Inn, Skelbro.
821—Truth, Freemasons' Hall, Prince William-street, Huddersfield.
837—De Grey and Ripon, Town Hall, Ripon.
923—Holme Valley, Victoria Hotel, Holmfirth.
1034—Rochdale Hall, Freemasons' Hall, Rochdale.

SATURDAY.

149—Peace, Masonic Rooms, Meltham.
308—Prince George, Station House, Bottoms, Eastwood.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

421—St. George's, Masonic Hall, Norfolk-street, North Shields.

TUESDAY.

126—Marquis of Granby, Freemasons' Hall, Old Elvet, Durham.
349—St. David's, Freemasons' Hall, The Parade, Berwick-on-Tweed.

WEDNESDAY.

94—Phœnix, Freemasons' Hall, Queen-street, Sunderland.
406—Northern Counties, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
1274—Earl of Durham, Freemasons' Hall, Chester-le-street.

THURSDAY.

24—Newcastle-on-Tyne, Freemasons' Hall, Grainger-street-west, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
309—Tees, Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-street, Stockton-on-Tees.
321—St. Helen's, Masonic Hall, Regent's-square, Hartlepool.
676—De Ogle, Masonic Hall, Morpeth.
959—Blagdon, Ridley Arms Hotel, Blyth.
1379—Marquess of Ripon, Freemasons' Hall, Archer-street, Darlington.

FRIDAY.

1330—Barnard, Witham Institute, Barnard Castle.
1447—Albert Edward, White Hart Hotel, Hexham.

SCOTLAND.

TUESDAY—42—St. Cuthbert Kilwinning, Masonic Lodge, Kirkcudbright.
WEDNESDAY—0—Mother of Kilwinning, Masonic Hall, Kilwinning.
" 31—Old St. John, Masonic Hall, Lanark.
THURSDAY—11—St. John, King's Arms, Maybole.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

MONDAY—122—St. Kentigern, Royal Hotel, Penicuik.
TUESDAY—5—Canongate and Leith (L. & C.), 95 Constitution-street.
THURSDAY—27—St. James's, St. James's Hall, Writer's-court.
FRIDAY—291—Celtic of Edinburgh and Leith, Ship Hotel, 8, Register-street.

GLASGOW DISTRICT.

MONDAY—123—St. Mirren's, St. Mirren's Hall, Paisley.
" 335—Union, 170 Buchanan-street.
" R. A.—119—Rosslyn, 25 Robertson-street.
TUESDAY—9 bis.—St. John's, 213 Buchanan-street.
" 72—Thistle and Rose, 170 Buchanan-street.
" 87—Thistle, 30 Hope-street.
" 407—Govandale, Portland Hall, Govan.
WEDNESDAY—4—Kilwinning, 170 Buchanan-street.
" 117—St. Mary, Freemasons' Hall, Partick.
" 138—St. John, Freemasons' Hall, Shettleston.
" 344—Caledonian Railway, 30 Hope-street.
" R. A.—97—Shamrock and Thistle, 12 Trongate.
THURSDAY—37—St. Mungo, 213 Buchanan-street.
" 401—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall, Garngad-road.
" 551—St. Vincent, 162 Kent-road.
FRIDAY—275—Shamrock and Thistle, 24 Struthers-street.
" 393—Commercial, 30 Hope-street.
" 406—Clyde, 170 Buchanan-street.
" 513—Thornlee, School-room, Thornliebank.
" 116—Royal Arch, Council Hall, Rutherglen.
SATURDAY—36—St. John's, Black Bull Inn, Kirkintilloch.

Cave House Playing Cards.—Mogul Quality, picked 1s 3d per pack, 14s per dozen packs. Do. seconds 1s per pack, 11s per dozen packs. If by post 1½d per pack extra. Cards for Piquet, Bésique, Euchre, &c., Mogul Quality 10d per pack, 9s per dozen packs.—London: W. W. Morgan, 57 Bartlett's, E.C.

Digitized by Google

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Monday, the 27th March, at Bro. Gay's, Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell. Present—Bros. Pilbeam W.M., Pearcy S.W., Defries J.W., Trewinnard S.D., Knight J.D., Killick I.G. Business—The Lodge was opened in the usual manner, and the minutes read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Powell being the candidate; as also was the ceremony of passing, Bro. Trewinnard being the candidate. Bro. Saul worked the 2nd section of the 2nd degree. The fifteen sections will be worked on Monday, the 3rd proximo.

Prosperity Lodge, No. 65.—The installation meeting of this capital working-Lodge was held on Thursday, the 23rd inst., at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street. Present—Bros. L. A. Leins W.M., Bowyer S.W., Daniels J.W., J. Goodwin P.M. Treasurer, G. T. Brown Secretary, and P.M.'s Bros. Davey, J. Bellerby, English, Cornwall, Arnold, and a very numerous attendance of brethren. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Cownie, Tissington and Hawkins were raised to the 3rd degree. Bros. W. J. Wright, J. J. Green, G. Beale, R. Giebermann and S. J. Harriss were initiated into the Order in the W.M.'s careful and perfect manner. A Board of Installed Masters was then formed, and Bro. Carruthers, W.M. elect, was presented to the Lodge; and in the presence of 22 W.M.'s and P.M.'s was installed into the chair by the retiring W.M., Bro. Leins, in a manner that reflected great credit to him. The customary salutations having been given, the officers were invested: Bros. A. L. Leins I.P.M., Bowyer S.W., Daniels J.W., Goodwin P.M. Treasurer, G. J. Brown Secretary, Burge S.D., Gent J.D., Bruins I.G., Forbes P.M. D.C., Mathews and Sims Wine Stewards, and Speight Tyler. The concluding addresses were capitally delivered. A letter of condolence was proposed to be sent to the widow of the late Bro. Stevens P.M. It was also proposed that a collar and P.M.'s jewel should be presented to Bro. J. L. Mather P.M., for his valuable services, also as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the brethren. The report of the Audit Committee was read, and a vote of thanks accorded to Bros. Brown, the Hon. Secretary. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 98 in number, partook of a very sumptuous and recherché banquet, provided by Bros. Ritter and Clifford. The W.M. gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. The I.P.M., in proposing the toast of the W.M., said he was one who had the interest of the Craft in general at heart, and during his connection with the Lodge had always looked after its welfare. He hoped he might continue in health to follow out the duties required of him, and which he was so capable of fulfilling. The W.M., in reply, said it was the great ambition of his life to be W.M. of this influential Lodge. To be united with the brethren was his aim, and he hoped, at the expiration of his year of office, that it would be said he had given satisfaction. The toast of the newly initiated followed. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the I.P.M., which was received with loud cheers. They had seen what Bro. Leins had done during his year of office, and they also had seen the able manner in which he had performed the ceremony of installation. As a token of the respect he was held in, the brethren had determined to present him with a testimonial worthy of his acceptance. It would be a pleasing remembrance to his children, and it would remind them of what their father had done for the Lodge, and of the esteem in which he was held by the members. He then presented a very elegantly emblazoned testimonial, which had been executed by Bro. Wall, with appropriate inscription, a very elegant P.M.'s jewel, of novel design, set with precious stones, with the words, Amori Fratrum, and a very valuable set of brilliant studs. Bro. Leins returned thanks for the toast in a very able speech. He thanked the brethren for the valuable gifts; he would always prize them; this was his mother Lodge; they would be heir-looms to his family, and he hoped to be spared till his son was of age, to have the pleasure of initiating him in the Lodge. He hoped, while he was associated with it, every brother would enjoy prosperity. The toast of the Visitors was responded to by Bros. J. A. Smith W.M. 1178, Watkins 212, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188. Each paid a just compliment to the W.M. for his able presiding, and to the I.P.M. for his excellent working. Bro. Davey P.M. returned thanks for the Past Masters. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Wardens and Officers. Everything they had done in their various capacities was satisfactory, and he hoped, at a future time, their services would be fully recognised. Bros. Bowyer S.W., Daniels and Bruins severally returned thanks. The Tyler's toast was then given. Bros. Hawkins, Smith and Brown contributed to the harmony. Bro. Speight acted very efficiently as Toast Master. The Visitors were Bros. A. Drew 840, J. Smith W.M. 1178, Willats, C. Gross, W. Bishop 180, Watkins P.M. 212, H. Hall late 65, Cox 1200, E. March 1471, H. Harnsworth P.M. 1178, A. McIntyre, J. Thompson 185, T. Parry 890, Wallington 860, S. Browne 1426, H. Marlow P.M. 217, M. Ayres 95, G. S. Bratton P.M. 1227, A. Verdon 188, C. S. Davis 188, Edwards 788, D. H. Jacobs P.M. 27, G. Very P.M. 554, Webster 569, Brown 1257, Baylis 813, Dalton 1301, Baugh 511, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The regular Convocation of this Chapter was held on Tuesday last, at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, presided over by the following Comps. G. Newman Z., J. Constable H., J. Wyer J., J. K. Lemann acting Scribe E., J. W. Hobbs Scribe N., W. Gammon P.S., J. S. Cox 1st Assistant. After the confirmation of the minutes of the previous Convocation the M.E.Z. rehearsed the ceremony of exaltation (Comp. J. Smith acting candidate) in a manner which elicited the warmest applause. The election of officers for the ensuing Masonic year followed, resulting as follows:—N. Constable Z., J. Constable H., J. Wyer J., J. Gammon S.N., R. Wyatt P.S. At the request of the members, Comp. J. K. Lemann was elected to work the ceremonies of installation next Tuesday, at 6.30 p.m., previous to the ordinary business of the evening, and we earnestly invite the attendance of Companions seeking knowledge in this branch of the ritual; all who know Comp. Lemann are sufficiently acquainted with his proficiency not to need a word from our pen in his praise. Chapters of Instruction are few and far between, and we cannot refrain expressing our surprise that this Chapter, which has earned a world-wide reputation, should have such a poor attendance, more especially knowing how difficult it is to obtain the Royal Arch ritual. There were present also Comps. P. Wagner, J. Rumsey and S. H. Green.

Fortitude Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 66.—The annual meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, 22nd March, at the Huyshe Masonic Temple, Plymouth, the following brethren being present:—C. Goldschalk W.M., J. Latimer S.W., J. J. Avery J.W., S. Jew Treas., J. B. Gover Sec., W. B. Hambly, V. Bird, H. F. Hearle, R. Rodda P.P.G.S., C. Stribling P.M. P.P.G.D.C., P. B. Clemens P.M. P.P.G.M.O., J. M. Hitley P.P.G.S.O., W. Browning P.M. P.P.G.O., R. M. Andrews P.M. P.P.G.S.B., C. Cooper S.W. 50, P.G.S. Wks., E. T. Tarratt, W. W. Crimp, and Roach. The meeting was held for the purpose of installing the W. Master elect, Bro. Isaac Latimer S.W. P.P.G.J.W. The ceremony was admirably performed by the retiring Master, Bro. Goldschalk, who was congratulated upon the unusual ability, zeal and assiduity evinced by him in thus finishing his year of office with credit to himself and honour to a Lodge, where no mediocre work would be received. All the members of this very select Lodge are Grand and Prov. Grand Officers. The W. Bro. Latimer appointed the following officers:—W. Bros. C. Goldschalk P.P.G.D.C. I.P.M., J. J. Avery P.P.G.R. S.W., W. Hearder P.P.G.O. J.W., S. Jew P.M. P.P.G.T. T., J. B. Gover P.M. P.G.T. Sec., V. Bird P.M.O. Eng. P.P.G.T. Chap., G. Emery P.G.O. M.O., H. Ferry P.G.S. S.O., W. H. Crimp P.G.S. J.O., W. B. Hambly P.P.G.T. R.M., H. F. Hearle P.P.G.M.O. J.H., T. Smith P.G.A.T. T. The Lodge was closed in solemn form, and the brethren retired to refreshment. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were ably responded to by Bros. J. B. Gover, R. Rodda, and the I.P.M., Charles Goldschalk. The Grand Master of the Province, Major Turner Davy, and Colonel John Elliott, Deputy Grand Master, both being members of this Lodge, sent letters expressing regret at their absence, caused by other important business in the province. Their names were received with enthusiasm, and spoken to by the brethren named. Bro. R. Rodda delighted all present with his incomparable rendering of "Tales and Scenes from every-day Cornish Social Life," which concluded a very enjoyable evening.

Caledonian of Unity Chapter, No. 73.—This Chapter held its regular meeting on Tuesday, 28th March, at 170 Buchanan-street, Glasgow. Comp. G. W. Wheeler presiding, assisted by G. McDonald P.Z. as H., John Kinnaird J., J. Balfour S.E., E. Arthur S.N., J. Bannerman Treas., D. Gilchrist P.Z. as 1st S., J. Kay 2nd S., J. Hanbidge 3rd S., Wm. Jamison Janitor. Visitors Comps. D. Campbell from Nova Scotia, Rev. J. Rice of Chapter 122, Dublin, and J. B. Hardie P.G. Janitor. A Mark Lodge was opened, and Bros. A. M. Stewart, of Lodge 333, and Walter Gunn were proposed, accepted and advanced to that degree, and also to that of Excellent Master. The Chapter was then opened, and they were exalted as Royal Arch Masons. The M.E.Z. then said as Comp. the Rev. Joseph Rice, of Dublin, was now located as a minister in Glasgow, he had much pleasure in proposing him as an honorary member, which was seconded by Comp. McDonald P.Z. Comp. Balfour S.E. proceeded to confer the same honour on Comp. Hardie, which was unanimously agreed to, and the two Companions took the mode solitaire.

St. Mark's Lodge, No. 102.—This Lodge met at their own Hall, Buchanan-street, on Monday, 27th March, Bro. Halket P.M. in the chair. There were two candidates for initiation, which degree was conferred on them in the excellent way in which Bro. Halket performs all his work.

Glasgow Conclave, No. 114, of Red Cross of Rome and Constantine.—The annual meeting was held on the 20th March, G. W. Wheeler M.P.S. presiding. Visitors present—H. J. Shields M.P.S. of 127, D. Baker S.G., and H. Dyer J.G. of 127. An application for admission was presented from Comp. J. Brown, which being unanimously sustained, he was received and duly installed as a Knight of Constantine. The M.P.S., after paying a feeling tribute to the memory of Sir Knight J. Johnston, his late viceroy, said he would now be glad to be relieved of office, having filled the chair from the formation of the Conclave. He wished to see their Hon. S.W., Sir Knight R. Bell, in that chair, but Sir Knight Bell having sent in a positive refusal, he trusted they would exalt some one else; but the Conclave thought different, and the following were unanimously elected:—Bros. G. W. Wheeler M.P.S., James Lonttit V.E., Wm. Dubbie S.G., J. P. Park J.G., J. Tweed Hon. Viceroy T., John Brown Recorder, D. B. Fleming H.P., A. A. Smith P., J. Fraser S.R., J. Buchanan R., and J. B. Hardie Sentinel. These Officers were then installed, after which a college of viceroys was opened by Sir Knights Wheeler, Shields and Baker, and that grade was conferred upon Sir Knight Louttit. The Conclave was then closed.

Lodge of Prudent Brethren, No. 145.—The regular meeting of this Lodge, which lately celebrated its centenary, and whose excellent working is proverbial, met on Tuesday, the 28th March, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bro. E. H. Thiellay P.G.P. Middlesex W.M., Moult S.W., D. Hazlett J.W., J. Boyd P.G.P. Treasurer, G. S. Stutes P.G.S. Secretary, J. Manby Ass. Secretary, J. R. Lavgeat J.D., W. H. Lister D.C., W. H. Wickinson Ass. D.C., [illegible] Bros. G. Purvess, T. Bow, J. Lee, and Bros. Bridge, Weeks, Mears, Wright, H. Lewis, Williams, Beetch, Akhurst, Taylor, Rees, J. Kennard, Cuffall, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Mears was passed to the 2nd degree. Ballots having previously been taken for Messrs. Aimé Hugon, G. Mathieu, and C. Codlin, those gentlemen were initiated into the Order. The W.M. performed these ceremonies in his usual careful and perfect manner. The resignation of a brother was accepted with regret. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Albemarle Hotel, Albemarle-street, where a very recherché banquet and dessert was provided by Bro. Boetch. The Visitors were Bros. E. H. Beeckes (late Bishop of Sierra Leone), H. Rawes 950, R. Ponsford 25, R. Brand 25, Beeckes 1159, F. Gendre 405, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Digitized by Google

Joppa Chapter, No. 188.—A Convocation of this Chapter was held on Monday, the 27th inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. Comps. M. Emanuel M.E.Z., E. P. Albert P.Z. as H., W. Littauer P.Z. J., S. V. Abrahams P.Z. Treasurer, P. Dickinson S.E., L. Lazarus S.N. P.Z.'s H. M. Levy I.P.Z., S. Pollitzer, J. Lazarus, and Comps. G. Ellis, Van Volen, Bucleras, Silver, Phillips, W. G. Jennings, Boeckbinder, Mellish and Myers. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bro. N. Bonm was proposed as a candidate, and unanimously elected. He was then duly exalted, the working of the M.E.Z. and Principals deserving great commendation. The Chapter was then closed until the 22nd of May, and the Companions adjourned to a very sumptuous banquet, provided by Comp. Jennings. The M.E.Z. being obliged to leave, Comp. H. M. Levy I.P.Z. presided, and in giving the toast of Her Majesty the Queen, referred to her patronage of the Masonic Charities. Not only as loyal subjects, but as Royal Arch Masons, they felt proud to associate her name with R.A. Masonry. Her recent visit to the East end, to do good to the afflicted, would never be forgotten; it was a connecting link from West to East, and he hoped she might live long in health to reign. The acting Z. then proposed the toast of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.E.G.Z. It was a pleasure to hear of the enthusiastic reception he had met with in India from all classes. Freemasons there had shown their fealty in giving him a hearty and cordial welcome, and he hoped, on his return to his native country, every loyal subject would be ready to give him a hearty welcome; and he hoped the great Masonic body would, with the sanction of Grand Lodge, give him even a greater reception, and as true a Masonic greeting as he had received at his installation in the Albert Hall. The toast of the Grand H. and J., and the rest of the officers, was then given. The acting Z. then proposed the toast of the newly exalted Comp. Bonm, who, from his personal knowledge, and from the attention paid to the ceremony, would, he was sure, be a credit to the Order. Comp. N. Bonm appropriately returned thanks. The acting Z. then proposed the health of Comp. J. Wright P.Z. 174, and alluded to the honour he had received in being selected as Grand Pursuivant. From his working qualifications he was sure to be efficient, and he was pleased to know that he had been elected to that office. Comp. Wright having responded, the toast of the M.E.Z. was proposed. The Companions regretted his absence, but they had seen how admirably he had performed the ceremony, in a dual capacity. He was so thoroughly conversant with the duties that it was a pleasure to listen to his delivery of that beautiful ritual. Comp. S. V. Abrahams P.Z. proposed the toast of the acting Z., Comp. H. M. Levy, which was responded to, and Comp. Levy then proposed the toast of the P.Z.'s. He said it was indeed a pleasure to see these Companions, in the absence of the officers who were unable to attend, acting as they had done in assisting in so excellent a manner. He might indeed say they had succeeded, and he was pleased to see among them one who had been the 1st M.E.Z. The Chapter had now been in existence 33 years. He would couple with it the health of their worthy Comp. S. Lazarus. The health of the H. and J. followed, and was responded to by Companions W. Littauer and S. Pollitzer. The toast of the junior officers was given, and Comp. Dickinson S.E. returned thanks. The Janitor's toast concluded a very enjoyable evening.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—Bro. Ockenden presided on Wednesday last, and was supported by Bros. Geo. Corner S.W., Triggs J.W., J. K. Pitt Sec., J. Constable Treas., Croaker S.D., Turner J.D., Soyer I.G., Christopher Tyler. P.M. Bro. E. Gotthoil Preceptor, Bros. D. Posener, Walker, Abell, Blinkhorn, Gomm, Felton, Horsley, Barr, Hunt, Morgan, &c. Lodge was opened to the third degree. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Hunt being the candidate. After this Bro. Posener offered himself as a candidate for the third degree, and after answering the necessary questions, the sublime ceremony was rehearsed. Bro. G. Corner was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week.

Star Lodge, No. 219.—This Lodge met on Monday, the 27th March, when Bro. J. Morgan initiated two gentlemen into the Order with all the care and amplitude that so distinguishes his working.

Commercial Lodge, No. 360, Glasgow.—This Lodge held high festival on Thursday, 23rd March, in their own hall, on the occasion of their affiliating, as an honorary member, Henry Inglis, Esq., of Torsonce, 33°, Past G.S.M. of Scotland, and P.G.M. of Selkirk and Peebles. Bros. J. Munro R.W.M. filled the chair, J. M. Oliver S.W., Thos. Graham J.W., Jules Brodie and A. McKenzie P.M.'s were present, also D. Lamb D.M., J. Findlay S.M., G. Scott Treasurer, J. Smith Secretary, Benj. Read and Kellier Deacons. In fact, all the office-bearers of the Lodge. On the dais were the following members of P.G.L.—J. Gilles Treasurer, G. Sinclair Treasurer Benevolent Fund, J. Bun B.B., J. Balfour D. of C., J. Miller D. of C., and J. Read P.I.G. There were eight Masters of Lodges in the Province—Bros. J. Peller R.W.M. of 153, P.G.J.W., Renfrewshire East, J. Anderson, 378, Paisley, Easton R.W.M. 579, Uddiston, while the rest of the hall was filled with Wardens and other officers from most of the other Lodges in Glasgow. In the course of Bro. G. Sinclair's reply, he stated that the funds in hand last year were £370; during the year, 765 members had been initiated in the Province. From each of these the sum of 5s had been received. This £191 5s, with the donations of the P.G.M. and others, had enabled him to relieve all the claims that had been made upon him, and left him with a balance in hand of £080. He wished to see this made up to £1,000, as then he should be satisfied, and to accomplish this he hoped some of the wealthy members of the Province would follow the example of Walter M. Neilson, and give either £10 or £5 annually, or even £1, so as to really allow the committee to exercise benevolence were it was deserved. Bro. Munro, in giving the health of their guest as P.G.M. of Peebles and Selkirk, spoke of the esteem and veneration in which Bro. Inglis was held in his own province. His business led him there, and he could speak from personal knowledge, and he trusted the day was not distant when they should see him on the throne as G.M. for Scotland. Bro. Inglis said he was afraid their R.W.M. had spoken too highly both of himself and his province. It was true there were good Masons among them, but like most of the Border men of old times, they were a little rough. The roughest, perhaps, were at Hawick. At a meeting there the other day, he said to them as Catherine told her courtiers, that if she scratched a Russian she found a Tartar; so if he scratched a Hawick man he found a Moss trooper, but he feared that if they scratched him, he might also be found to be one. So they agreed not to scratch each other, and so got on very well. Bro. Munro had alluded to his services. Though the youngest member of the Commercial Lodge, he was the oldest Mason present, and one of the oldest in Scotland, as he joined the Order very young. He had served seven years as Substitute Grand Master, doing most of the work. He thought that was long to fill one office, and if his friends in the west wished to put him higher up he could only assure them that his best energies would be devoted to their service, and one thing he would much like to see, and that was that Grand Lodge should occasionally meet in Glasgow. The west had for some years been the mainstay of Masonry in Scotland, and it was hardly fair that they should always be put to the expense of going to the east, or that all the honours of the Craft should be reserved for the east (cheers). Bro. Neilson R.W.M. 3] gave prosperity to 360, expressing the pleasure each Lodge in the province had in witnessing the prosperity of their neighbour. Bro Munro gracefully acknowledged the compliment, proved to the Lodge by the attendance that night of so many Masters of other Lodges. Bro. Inglis, in a humourous speech, gave "the other Glasgow Lodges," and as he was the youngest member of the province, he would call on the youngest Lodge to reply. Bro. Gow, Substitute of 581, in the absence of the R.W.M., replied, but he said as they were only a fortnight old, he could not be expected to say much, but asked the oldest member—3]—to respond. Bro. Neilson was happy to say that, owing to the liberality of the P.G.M., he thought they would soon have a Masonic hall, a home for Masonry, where they need not be ashamed to invite even the Grand Lodge. The toast of the Past Masters, given in an excellent speech by Bro. Oliver S.W., was responded to by Bros. Brodie and McKenzie. Bro. Easton of St. Bryde's, Uddiston, replied for the visitors from other provinces. The meeting was enlivened by the rendering of some excellent glees and instrumental music by Bros. Brody, Miller, Pentland, Peterkin, and others.

Athol Lodge, No. 413, Glasgow.—This Lodge met on Tuesday, 28th March, Bro. Jas. Lonttit R.W.M. in the chair. There was a good attendance of members and several Visitors. The work consisted of an initiation and passing, both of which ceremonies were well rendered by the Master.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Thursday, the 30th of March, at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. Present—Bros. J. Mander W.M., T. Cull S.W., F. Honeyman J.W., G. Davis S.D., J. Bently J.D., S. Elborn I.G., and Bros. Middlemass, Enever, F. Brown, Kochner, Morphew, Belfrage, Harrison, J. A. Brown, Farwig, Wheeler, Selter, Watts, Saul, Blundell, Haslett, Coulton, Neighbour, Glass, Bubb, Dickinson, Lloyd, Parsons, Martin, Stonor, Tolmie and Mitchell. Business—Lodge opened, and minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed; Lodge opened in 2nd and 3rd degrees, and resumed to 1st, when the fifteen sections were worked. Bros. A. Middlemass 957, A. J. Enever 765, S. Elborn 511, J. A. Brown 17, W. Glass 26, J. Dickinson 27, C. Mitchell 1360, were unanimously elected members of this Lodge of Instruction. Votes of thanks were unanimously voted to Bro. Mander for presiding, and to the brethren who had kindly worked the sections. At the next meeting, Thursday, 6th April, members will be enrolled for the New Masonic Benevolent Association.

Vane Chapter, No. 538.—The Installation meeting of this Chapter was held on the 23rd ult., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Comp. Keech P.Z. occupied the chair in the unavoidable absence of the M.E.Z., Comp. S. Pollitzer, W. H. Lindus H., C. Barmeister J., Rev. P.M. Hobden S.E., Blum W.S., and several Companions. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed, Bros. W. C. Strickland, St. James's Union Lodge, No. 180, and R. Dudgeon, La Tolerance, No. 538, were duly exalted. Comp. Keech P.Z. then installed Comps. H. W. Lindus M.E.Z., C. Barmeister H., and Wood J. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions adjourned to Kettner's Hotel, Church-street, and sat down to a very capital banquet. The usual toasts were given. Comps. E. P. Albert, P.Z. 188, and Morrell were present as Visitors.

Dramatic Lodge No. 571,—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow, on Wednesday, 15th March, at 3 o'clock p.m., the R.W.M. Bro. William J. B. Dobson in the chair, supported by Bros. J. Winton P.M. 333, J. Balfour P.M. 333, Campbell P.M., G. W. Wheeler Chaplain 73, and Wilson Past Chaplain 27. In the unavoidable absence of Bro. H. W. Jackman S.W., his place was ably supplied by Bro. J. Melanes S.M.

Digitized by Google

of 406, Bros. Barbour Treasurer, and Weir acting Secretary, W. Sivewright J.W., R. S. Smyth S.D., L. R. Mitchell J.D., and the other office-bearers in their respective places. There was a very large number of visiting brethren, amongst whom we noticed Bros. J. M. Oliver S.W. 360, Brownlie J.W. 3 bis, and R. Fraser of 27. The brethren being assembled, the R.W.M. proceeded to open the Lodge in the E.A. degree. Minutes of previous meetings were then read and duly confirmed. Applications were then read from Mr. William Muir, and Mr. Charles Henry Gill, by the Secretary, and there being no objections, they were admitted, and received the E.A. degree at the hands of R.W.M., in a deeply impressive manner. The candidates were then tested and duly admonished. There being no further business in this degree, the Lodge was closed in due and ancient form.

An emergency meeting of the above Lodge, Dramatic, No. 571, was held in St. Mark's Hall, on Wednesday, 22nd March, for the purpose of giving Bro. C. H. Gill his 2nd and 3rd degree. The R.W.M., William J. E. Dobson, presiding, supported on the dais by Bros. Prout R.W.M. 4, Findlay, S.M. 33, and G. W. Wheeler Chaplain 73, and all the office-bearers in their proper places. The Lodge was duly opened in the E.A. degree, and the R.W.M. thereafter addressed the brethren present as to the nature of said meeting, saying that, though emergency meetings were not to his taste as a Mason, still there were, at times, special reasons for constituting and holding the same, and as Bro. Gill was compelled to leave for Huddersfield on Sunday evening next; that he, as Master of Dramatic Lodge, was not overstepping his authority in allowing the favour to Bro. Gill; in fact, he learnt, from Grand Lodge laws, that a clause has a special reference to these emergencies, and left the discretionary power in the hands of the R.W.M., and requested the brethren to assist him in making Bro. Gill as impressed with the degrees to come as he had been at his initiation, the Wednesday previous. The Lodge was then passed to the 2nd degree, and Bro. Gill received the same in a very careful manner at the hands of Bro. G. W. Wheeler. The Lodge being raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason, Bro. Gill was accordingly advanced to the same in a most effective manner, by Bro. Findlay, S.M. 333. There being no further business, the Lodge was then closed in due and ancient form.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The regular weekly meeting of the above was held at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 28th March, Present—Bros. Perrin W.M., Worsley S.W., Cambridge J.W., Smith S.D., Williams J.D., Barker I.G., Wallington Preceptor. There were also present Bros. Pinder, Horsley, Crane, Follett, Johnson, Saunders, Glover, &c. Lodge opened to 2nd degree. Bro. Johnson having answered the necessary questions was raised to the 3rd degree, the ceremony being ably rendered by the W.M., who is, we hear, W.M. of his Mother Lodge. From his frequent attendance at this Lodge of Instruction, and also from the impressive manner in which he performs the ceremonies generally, we are sure he will be a credit to the brethren who have elected him as their chief. Bro. Wallington then gave the traditional history. Bro. Horsley worked the 1st, and Bro. Pinder the 3rd sections of the lecture. It was then proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that Bro. Pinder preside, and work the fifteen sections, on Tuesday, the 22nd of April next. The Lodge then closed in due form.

Dundas Lodge, 1255, Plymouth.—The monthly meeting of this Lodge occurred on Monday, 20th March. The ordinary business was transacted, and one gentleman initiated, the ceremony being most impressively and correctly performed by the W.M. Bro. Charles Godschalk. The vote of a Past Master's jewel to the immediate P.M., Bro. S. B. Harvey, was confirmed, and an instructive meeting was closed in perfect harmony with the custom of this very select Lodge. Amongst those present were—Bros. Hearle S.W., W. Bell P.M. T., T. B. Harvey P.M. P.P.G.D.C. Sec., S. R. Harvey I.P.M., W. H. Triplett P.M., J. B. Gover P.M. P.P.G.A.D.C., J. Ferris P.M., H. F. Hearle P.M. P.P.G.A.D.C., H. J. Ham S.D., Hammond, Crimp I.G., Willis sen., Willis jun., Barratt, Cann, Daw and Smith.

New Cross Lodge, No. 1,559.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge, one of the latest consecrated, was held on Wednesday, the 29th ult., at the New Cross Hall, Lewisham High-road, New Cross. Bros. W. B. Woodman W.M., E. H. Thiellay A.G.P. Middlesex S.W., J. Beck as J.W., F. Walters P.P.G.P. Middlesex Treas., H. Keeble P.M. Sec., Green J.D., Hardman I.G., and Bros. S. Jewell, E. Smith, J. Moss, W. Smurthwaite. The Lodge was opened, and ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. R. J. Steers, R. Buck and H. Metham. These gentlemen, with Mr. D. Malpass (previously accepted), were duly initiated in the Order, and credit is due to the W.M., who is so young a Mason, for performing that ceremony so perfectly and impressively. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to slight refreshments. The Visitors were Bros. J. Lightfoot P.M. 147, Pakes S.W. 871, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Chislehurst Lodge, No. 1531.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Saturday, the 25th instant, at the Bull's Head, Chislehurst, Bro. John Coutts P.G.P. W.M. in the chair. Bros. S. F. Guest S.W., W. Kipps J.W., F. Walters P.G.P. Middlesex Treasurer, J. Griffin P.M. Sec., H. Gloster S.D., W. Hutchings D.C., J. Fox W.S. The minutes were read and confirmed. Three gentlemen were initiated. One brother was passed to the second degree, and two brothers were raised to the third degree. The work was admirably done by the W.M. The election of Master then took place, and Bro. G. F. Guest S.W. was unanimously elected. The election of Treasurer followed. Bro. F. Walters was requested to stand, but he having declined, Bro. John Coutts P.M. was appointed. It was then proposed that a sum of ten guineas be voted "To present Bro. John Coutts W.M. with a testimonial, the amount to be supplemented by the members, as a recognition of his valuable services to the Lodge, as founder and first W.M." It was then resolved that if any vacant office should arise in the Lodge, it should be given to Bro. James Griffin P.M., in consideration of his services as Secretary. Several candidates were proposed for initiation, and the Lodge was then closed. A capital banquet was given, where the usual loyal, Masonic and other toasts were given, and these were interspersed with some capital songs, consequently a most agreeable evening was passed. Before the brethren left the hotel a display of fireworks took place.

CONSECRATION OF THE ST. BLANE ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER, No. 163.

THIS Chapter—which was opened on 7th January, by Deputation from No. 73, Glasgow, when 15 fresh Companions were exalted—was consecrated on Friday, 24th March, by a deputation from the Supreme Grand Chapter of Scotland, consisting of Comps. L. Mackersy G.S.E., A. Haig G.E., G. McLean Z. No. 1, and W. M. Bryce G.T. P.Z. 83, from Edinburgh, and a deputation from Glasgow, consisting of Comps. A. A. Smith P.T. 50, J. Duthie Z. 67 P.G.S. of W., G. W. Wheeler Z. 73 P.G. 2nd S., J. Tweed H. 73, J. Kinnaird J. 73, and J. Bannerman Treasurer 73. There being 14 candidates for exaltation, Comp. L. Mackersy opened a Mark Lodge, and afterwards a Lodge of Excellent Masters, conferring those degrees on ex-Provost J. Duncan, Councillor J. McAlpine, Dr. Maddiver M.D., and Bros. J. Hamilton, A. Duncan R.W.M. 292, J. Kelly, R. Taylor, C. Stuart, D. McPherson, Jas. McAlpine, R. Wilson, M. Rubens, J. Ewing and H. McGeachy. The Chapter was then opened, with Comps. G. McLean as Z., J. Duthie as H. and G. W. Wheeler as J., L. Mackersy, G.S.E. acting as Principal Sojourner. Thereafter the Supreme Chapter was opened in another room, and officered as follows: Comps. Haig as G.Z., J. McLean as G.H., J. Duthie G.J., L. Mackersy, G.S.E., J. Kinnaird G.S.N., G.W. Wheeler 1st G.S., J. Holder 2nd G.S., J. Buchanan 3rd G.S., W. M. Bryce G.B.B. The Chapter was constituted in due form. The oration was delivered by the G.S.E., in the course of which he traced the history of the Order. The following were then installed as the officers of the Chapter: Provost J. Orkney as Z., D. Duncan H., L. Milloy J., Dr. Maddiver Depute Z., J. Duncan Substitute Z., Comp. Morrison Past Z., G. Innis Treasurer, G. Haig S.E., J. Heaton S.N., E. Burke 1st S., B. B. Bell 2nd S., J. Millar 3rd S. and D. Fergerson Janitor. The members appointed were all affiliated as honorary members. A most excellent banquet was served up by Comp. J. Kelly, host of the Victoria Hotel, Provost Orkney Z. presiding, and D. Duncan H. acting as Croupier. After the usual loyal toasts, the chairman gave the Supreme Chapters of England, Ireland and Scotland, which was ably responded to by Comp. Haig. Comp. Mackersy replied for the deputation from Edinburgh, and G. W. Wheeler for the deputation from Glasgow, which had been proposed by the Croupier. Comp. J. Duthie proposed the Magistrates and Town Council of Rothesay. The Provost, in his reply, pointed out the great improvements that had been effected in the town and neighbourhood by his predecessor, and the efforts he was making to complete them; they were determined to make Rothesay the model of fashionable watering-places. He attributed a good deal of the public spirit of the place to the recent spread of Masonry amongst them, the foremost in all good work, after the Marquis of Bute, were Masons, and by the aid of its fraternal spirit they had this week been enabled to avoid a contest for the School Board election. Comp. Holden, of Greenock, proposed prosperity to Lodge Rothesay, St. John's, 202, which was ably responded to by Comp. A. Duncan, its R.W.M. Comp. Haig gave prosperity to St Blane's Chapter, 163, dwelling upon the unusually favourable circumstances of its institution in having at its head the Provost, Councillor, and other principal inhabitants of the town, replied to by the Z. Comp. Mackersy, in another eloquent speech, proposed the Press, Comp. Wheeler replied on behalf of the "FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE," and proposed the Scribes and Sojourners of the Chapter, responded to by Comps. Haig and Baker. Comps. McLean and Bryce, of Edinburgh, acknowledged a similar compliment paid to them. Thanks to the chairs brought the lengthened proceedings to a pleasant close. We must not omit to notice that A. A. Smith, of Glasgow, on the piano and harmonium, and Comps. Barker, McAlpine and others, contributed to the evening's amusement.

"A suitable gift from a Master to his Lodge."

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 8s 6d EACH,

THE FREEEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUMES I. and II.

Sent, Carriage Paid, to any address in the United Kingdom, on receipt of Cheque or P.O.O.

London:—W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Cloth Cases for Binding can be had from the Office, price 1s 6d each.

Digitized by Google

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,
Bro. J. L. MATHER, P.M. 65, 1227, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Wisch-ster-street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY
Limited, 7 Bank Buildings, Lothbury, E.C.
General accidents. | Personal injuries.
Railway accidents. | Death by accident.
C. HARDING, Manager.

DYER'S WATCHES.
Best and Cheapest in the World.

LOWEST Wholesale cash prices: Aluminium, 3s 6d; Silver, 20s; Silver Levers, 55s; Gold, 55s; Levers, 65s. All kinds of Watches, Clocks, and Gold Jewellery. Every watch timed, tested and warranted for two years. Orders safe per post. Price lists and illustrations free.—DYER & SON, Watch Manufacturers, 35 Regent Street, London, W., and Chain-de-Fonds.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES.
Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE
(a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.
This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

NEW WORKS ON FREEMASONRY,
BY
Bro. CHALMERS I. PATON,
(Past Master No. 363, England).

FREEMASONRY: ITS SYMBOLISM, RELIGIOUS NATURE, AND LAW OF PERFECTION. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

FREEMASONRY AND ITS JURISPRUDENCE. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

THE ORIGIN OF FREEMASONRY: THE 1717 THEORY EXPLODED. Price 1s.

LONDON: REEVES & TURNER, 196 STRAND,
AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

The Marvellous Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, and all Chest Affections.

PECTORINE.

Sold by all Chemists, in bottles, at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d and 11s each. Sent by the Proprietors upon receipt of Stamps.

From Rev. J. STONEHOUSE, St. Saviour's Vicarage, Nottingham.
AUGUST 1874.

DEAR SIR,—I can strongly recommend your Pectorine as an invaluable Cough Remedy. I have given it a fair trial in my own family, and have also supplied it to persons suffering from Cough in my parish, and in every instance it has given immediate relief. In some cases, after passing sleepless nights, one or two doses of the Pectorine have had such a good effect that persons have got a good night's rest, and the Cough has speedily disappeared.

Mr. A. BOLFE, St. Ann's Square, Manchester,
Says: "Your Pectorine is superior to any Medicine I have ever tried for Coughs or Colds."

PECTORINE cures the worst forms of Coughs and Colds.
PECTORINE cures Hoarseness.
PECTORINE gives immediate relief in Bronchitis.
PECTORINE is the best Medicine for Asthma.
PECTORINE cures Whooping Cough.
PECTORINE will cure a troublesome tickling Cough.
PECTORINE is invaluable in the early stages of Consumption.
PECTORINE relieves all Affections of the Chest, Lungs, and Throat.

Prepared only by SMITH & CLARKE,
Manufacturing Chemists, Park Street, Lincoln.

 Vice Chancellor Sir C. Hall granted a perpetual injunction, with costs, against F. Mason, Chemist, Rotherham, for using the word "Pectorine."

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE,
Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."
THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.
For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.
It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face,
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 6d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by
F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c. Tamar (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—2s 6d per box, post free 34 stamps.—E. GRILLON, 34 Coleman-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

YOUNG'S Arnicated Corn and Bunion Plasters are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d and 1s per box. Any Chemist not having them in stock can procure them.
Observe the Trade Mark—H. Y.—without which none are genuine. Be sure and ask for Young's.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY.—A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a simple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.
Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Musgrave Crescent, Fulham, London.

W. W. MORGAN,

LETTER-PRESS, COPPER-PLATE, LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTER, &c.

GENERAL BOOKBINDER AND STATIONER,

67 BARBICAN, LONDON, E.C.

(ONE DOOR FROM ALDERSGATE STREET.)

MASONIC LODGE SUMMONSES, MENU CARDS, &C. ARTISTICALLY EXECUTED.

SKETCHES OR DESIGNS FOR SPECIAL PURPOSES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION.

BOOKS, PERIODICALS, PAMPHLETS, PROSPECTUSES, CATALOGUES, POSTERS, BILLHEADS, SHOWCARDS, &C.

Every description of Printing (Plain or Ornamental) executed in First Class Style.

CHANCERY BILLS AND ANSWERS AT A FEW HOURS' NOTICE.

Chancery Petitions Written and Lithographed from Draft Copies.

PLANS AND PARTICULARS OF ESTATES FOR SALE BY AUCTION;

COUNTRY SOLICITORS AND AUCTIONEERS MAY HAVE COPIES OR PROOFS RETURNED THE SAME DAY.

Account Books of the Best Quality kept in Stock, or Made to Pattern at a Short Notice.

BOOKBINDING IN ALL BRANCHES.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION TO

W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN, LONDON E.C.

OFFICE OF "THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE."

Digitized by Google

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief PARISIAN ESTABLISHMENTS, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF

MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND REGALIA,

5 ST. JOHN SQUARE, LONDON.

PRICE LIST ON APPLICATION.

SPENCER'S MASONIC MANUFACTORY,

OPPOSITE FREEMASONS' HALL.

COSTUME, JEWELS AND FURNITURE FOR ALL DECREES.

A QUANTITY IN STOCK.

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.

SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

A. D. LOEWENSTARK & SONS,

MASONIC JEWELLERS AND MILITARY MEDALLISTS,

26 GREAT QUEEN STREET, W.C. AND 210 STRAND, W.C.

The Largest Assortment of Past Masters' & Royal Arch Jewels in London.

ALSO JEWELS FOR EVERY DEGREE.

MINIATURE WAR MEDALS & FOREIGN DECORATIONS, WHOLESALE, RETAIL & FOR EXPORTATION.

ESTABLISHED 1844.

ESTABLISHED 1833.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,

MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,

AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING

Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.

MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;

AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.

ESTIMATES GIVEN.

ABRAHAM TOLL,

BUILDER & CONTRACTOR,

MANOR HOUSE, WALWORTH, LONDON,

BEGS to inform his numerous Customers in town and country that he has (in addition to his original business) made extensive arrangements, and engaged a staff of Workmen experienced in HORTICULTURAL and FLORICULTURAL BUILDINGS, and that he is now prepared to furnish Estimates, and erect HOTHOUSES, VINERIES, &c., on any scale.

Designs, Ground Plans, Elevations of Gentlemen's Mansions, Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, &c., promptly forwarded on application.

ADVANCES MADE PENDING COMPLETION OF BUILDINGS OR WORKS.

MR. TOLL HAS SOME VERY ELIGIBLE FREEHOLD AND LEASEHOLD SITES FOR DISPOSAL.

All communications will receive immediate attention.

Demy 8vo, Price 7s 6d.

POSITIONS IN THE CHESS OPENINGS MOST FREQUENTLY PLAYED.
Illustrated with copious Diagrams.
By T. LOWE, B.A., T.C.D.,
Being a supplement to the "Key to the Chess Openings," by the same author.
LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 57 BARBICAN E.C.

NOW READY.

New Edition, Enlarged, Crown 8vo., Cloth 5s.

WAIFS AND STRAYS, CHIEFLY FROM THE CHESS BOARD, by Captain Hugh A. Kennedy, Vice-President of the British Chess Association.
LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 57 BARBICAN.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8. No. 90 for APRIL, now ready. Sixpence, CHESS, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE DRAMA.
W. W. MORGAN, 57 Barbican, London, E.C.

"There should be a better reason for the rate of Deposit than a fluctuating rate of two or three per cent."—INVESTORS' GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited.) Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 57 and 58 Burnett-street, W., Established 1865, receives Deposits, On Demand, 5 per cent. Subject to Notice, 6 per cent. Opens Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Interviews are invited to establish this new and improved system, that ensures a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-invested a single sixpence during the twelve years. To BORROWERS.—It offers pre-eminent advantages for prompt advances on leases, reversions, policies, trade stocks, farm produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, sureties, or fees. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 57 and 58 Burnett-street, W. Established 1869. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. To INVESTORS.—Deposits received at liberal interest. The Directors believe their economy have hitherto paid every Investor Bonus of 10 per cent. per annum, Borrowers are offered unusual facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. New and Special Features: The Society will build Houses, etc., to any approved part of Great Britain, finding the whole cost of the Building, at 5 per cent., repayable by instalments, the applicant merely finding the plan and paying or giving security for the Build's power in arrear. Prospectuses, balance-sheets, and press opinions free. Active Agents wanted. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

THE "SPECIALITE SHERRY."

FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT.—The British Medical Journal.

VALUABLE FOR GOUTY OR URIC ACID TENDENCIES."—DR. HASSWICKE, Metropolitan Analyst, Coroner for Middlesex.

ADOPTED AND RECOMMENDED BY nearly 3,000 Physicians and Surgeons for its Valuable Dietetic Qualities. 30s per dozen.

FELTOE & SONS, Sole Proprietors and Importers. Chief Establishment, Albemarle-street, London, W.

MORING,

ENGRAVER, DIE SINKER,

HERALDIC ARTIST,

ILLUMINATED ADDRESSES,

44, HIGH HOLBORN, W.C.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE.

AGENT FOR MASONIC CLOTHING & JEWELLERY.

SUPPLIED AND COLLEGES SCHOOLS

BOYS' SCHOOL CAP MAKER,

AND HATTER,

BRO. CUTHBERTSON,

ONE DOOR FROM OLD STREET, E.C.

109 CITY ROAD,

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,

INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (REGISTD.)

"BRO. ADLARD'S far-famed JEWEL ATTACHER, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price 7s. 6d., (2 with pockets for Jewels 6d. each pocket extra) places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and perfectness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Lodge Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,

Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

MR. THOMAS C. MACROW

252 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD, LONDON, S.E.

(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)

BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let quickly and quickly (Town or Country). All parties wishing to sell, call or send full particulars. Registration fee. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 3. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

Printed and Published for the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE PUBLISHING COMPANY LIMITED, by BRO. WILLIAM WRAY MORGAN, at 57 Barbican, London, E.C. Saturday, 1st April 1876.

Digitized by Google

Mr Barlow
Bilsey Island
Chiswick

THE

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

VOL. III.—No. 67. SATURDAY, 8th APRIL 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THE Quarterly General Court of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys will be held on Monday, the 10th instant, for the transaction of important business. First of all, a Treasurer for the ensuing year will be elected, and then twelve brethren to represent the Life and Annual Subscribers on the General Committee. Next two additional vacancies in the school will be declared, and their will be considered a recommendation from the General Committee that five additional boys be elected, and if such recommendation be adopted, to elect sixteen boys from the list of fifty-nine approved candidates, instead of nine as originally announced. After this, a proposition will be submitted, in accordance with a resolution of the General Committee held on 1st January last, with a view to authorising the payment of £2,000, being the amount of the purchase money of the freehold of "Kent House," with land required for a sanatorium. Two motions will then be brought forward, the first by Bro. Dr. Ramsay, "that every three years the four Senior members of the House Committee retire, but shall be eligible for re-election, and the four who have been least frequent in attendance shall retire annually, and be ineligible for re-election for a space of twelve months." The second motion will be proposed by V.W. Bro. Rev. A. F. A. Woodford P.G.C. and P. Prov. G.W. West Yorkshire, to the effect "that, having in view the recent imputations cast on the administration of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, this Court deems it to be its duty to express its unabated confidence in the House Committee and executive." As regards this latter motion, we propose offering a few remarks.

It may be in the recollection of our readers that, in our issue of 25th December last, we announced the presentation by the Committee appointed to inquire into the alleged mismanagement of the Boys' School of a long and exhaustive report, in which the governing body were completely exonerated from the charges made against them. So perfectly innocent were they of all errors, either of omission or of commission, so simple and straightforward was the task of the Investigating Committee that it was not even found necessary to call in a professional accountant, though authority for that purpose had been granted. Under the circumstances we expressed a hope that the difference arising out of these charges, the bona fides of which we did not question, but which had thus been authoritatively disproved, should be allowed to die out, and that, in the future as in the past, West Yorkshire would cordially co-operate with the rest of the Craft in promoting the welfare of this important charity. West Yorkshire, however, it seems is sore upon one point. Its Committee of Investigation applied in due course to the Secretary for information on certain points. The members of this Committee, by the merest accident in the world, were Life Governors of the School, and they directed their Secretary, who was not even a subscriber, to apply for the information in question, but on their behalf as a Committee, and not in their capacity of Life Governors. Bro. Binckes, acting strictly in accordance with a resolution passed on the 1st January last, of the General Committee of the School, declined in any way to recognise officially the West Yorkshire Committee of Investigation. At the same time he expressed his readiness to furnish answers to the several queries, as indeed he would most courteously have done to any member of the Committee itself, if he applied in his capacity of Life Governor. How far the General Committee were right in ignoring the existence of the West Yorkshire Committee, it comes not within our province to determine, but manifestly Bro. Binckes, with the resolution before him, had no option but to reply as he did. Since then, the West Yorkshire Committee have delivered their report. In it they draw attention to certain imperfections, as they deem them, in the mode of rendering the School accounts, and they lay great stress on the great cost per head of maintaining, clothing, and educating the pupils of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys as compared with the expenditure per head in sundry other Schools of somewhat similar stamp. We have before us a copy of their report, but it is not our intention to bring any of its details under the notice of our readers. To do so would, in the first place, occupy too much space. In the next, so far as we have been able to gather from a pretty careful examination of its most material points, the report differs but slightly from the pamphlets already published by Bro. Tew and Bros. Tew and Rev. O. G. D. Perrott. Lastly, the Committee specially appointed by the Governing Body of the School, to inquire into and determine the merits or demerits of the charges raised by West Yorkshire, have long since delivered their report, to the effect that no irregularities whatever had occurred in the financial management of the School. A most critical examination had satisfied them, not only that the apparent discrepancies to which their attention had been drawn were capable of explanation, but also that the whole financial arrangements of the School were in the highest degree creditable to the executive. Under the circumstances, it naturally occurs to us to ask what will it profit any one if we reopen questions that have been already settled. West Yorkshire has complained, its complaint has been investigated, and a decision has been given, to the effect that its complaints have no foundation. As for the comparison instituted, we confess we attach but little importance to this. The expenditure per head has been steadily diminished, while as regards the office expenditure, we may note that a smaller staff could not do the work, or at all events not do it as satisfactorily as it is done now. Moreover, the cost under this head of service will not be sensibly increased when the school is enlarged to two hundred, or even to two hundred and fifty pupils. Again, while the general body of the Craft is most exemplary in the fulfilment of its charitable duties, while its contributions to the funds of this Institution are year by year more considerable, there is no wish on the part of any members that the Boys' School should be conducted after the manner of an ordinary charity school. In years gone by, the pupils, then far fewer than now, were clad in very homely garb. With brown corduroy trousers, close fitting, buttoned-up brown jackets with metal buttons, and underneath it neither vest nor under vest, but only a shirt of the make of an ordinary night shirt, the pupils of the Masonic Boys' School were but little better dressed than pauper children, while in manners and bearing they were the terror of the neighbourhood. Now, thanks to the marvellous energy of "our Hercules," and the governing body generally, and thanks also to the hearty response which Masons have made annually these fourteen or fifteen years past, the Masonic Boys' School is a pattern of excellence, both in discipline and management. The boys are well-behaved, well-fed and clad, and moreover the course of study laid down is of the most liberal character. Under these circumstances, it is impossible they can feel or experience aught but the most affectionate regard for the school in which they are brought up. There is no sense in them, as is the case with children ordinarily dependent on charity for their maintenance and training, of being a burden to the Craft, and the Craft would feel ashamed of itself were it possible such a feeling could be experienced. It is worth while, in order to produce such splendid results as these, to spend a pound or two more per head per annum; it is certainly far better than to have a school cheaply conducted and full of ill-conditioned, unmannerly whelps of boys. We think lightly, therefore, of the expense in our School being somewhat above the expense incurred in other schools. On these grounds, we trust the Quarterly General Court will accept, if not unanimously, at all events by a very substantial majority, the motion so happily drawn and submitted by Bro. Rev. A. F. A. Woodford. The charges raised last year turn out to be no charges at all, and the Quarterly Court will virtually stultify itself if it does not agree to Bro. Woodford's resolution. And the resolution accepted, we hope and trust the dissensions of the past few months will cease, and, as we said at the commencement of these remarks, that the whole body of the Craft will work steadily and harmoniously together, to the end that this and our other Institutions may become more and more prosperous every year. At the approaching Festival there will be 211 Stewards, and we hope the result of their exertions on behalf of the Boys' School will be even more profitable than were those of last year's Stewards.

Digitized by Google

MASONIC PORTRAITS (No. 23).

A RIGHT HAND MAN.

"A soul as dauntless 'mid the storm
Of daily life, a heart as warm
And pure as breast o'er wore."

THOSE only who are admitted "behind the scenes" can form any adequate idea of the enormous mass of dry business which is daily transacted by our paid officers. The position which these gentlemen fill, no doubt, seems a very enviable one, and perhaps there are young Masons who would give their ears in exchange for the honour of holding an office of trust and confidence in the Order. At the first blush it may, indeed, seem that those who devote their whole time to Masonic affairs must have a very pleasant time of it. That the primary motive force which animates them is love for the Order no one can deny; and much may be done cheerfully for love or for honour. But the daily toil and anxiety, and the constant life of excitement which these gentlemen are fated to live, must wear upon the constitution, and the very enthusiasm which supports them has the effect of consuming the vital flame rather too rapidly. No paid officer ever yet fulfilled his commission, whose labours began and ended with his set list of duties. If the official has no zeal and energy, if he is not prepared to spend laborious nights as well as days in the cause, he is not suited to his post, and might just as well throw off his official traces, and retire to private life and obscurity. The visiting of Lodges is an important portion of the unwritten duty of these gentlemen, and we all know how ably it is performed, and how welcome they are wherever they show themselves. The brethren are always pleased to see the working men as well as the leading spirits of the Order, and are only too glad to have an opportunity to learn from the lips of those who have made Masonry the business of their lives. Perhaps if they knew how many sacrifices are often made by the permanent officials for the sake of Masonic progress, how often the visit to a distant Lodge or Chapter is made at the sacrifice of precious time and cash, they would possibly still more highly appreciate services which mere money can never requite. Some few of us who know the details of official life can, at all events, bear testimony to the fact that Masonry owes to these steady champions a heavy debt of gratitude. The constant watchfulness, the ready alacrity to oblige, the steady industry of these gentlemen; their zeal in hunting up information from the records of the Order, are only known to students of Masonry. The great mass of the Craft have a vague idea that the brother who gracefully wears many honourably won decorations, often carries a weary heart under his gay trappings, and, in attending a grand Masonic gathering, has merely passed from the dry every day duties of his appointment to duties equally responsible, though more fascinating and less matter of fact. We expect, as we have hinted, guidance, help, advice and assistance from brothers whose time is wholly devoted to the Craft, and with a due sense of responsibility upon him, the so-called pleasures of Masonry can hardly ever be enjoyed by the devoted official with perfect ease and abandon. He is always in harness. Every one expects him to say a few words at table. His influence is eagerly sought on behalf of some benevolent object or other; in short, he is, if he could but feel so, bored everywhere, and yoked like a willing steed to the Masonic Chariot.

We have in our mind's eye at this moment the features of a brother who entirely fulfils our ideal of a perfect official. We do not intend to hide his light under a bushel, and we shall, therefore, at once say that he is the respected chief clerk in the Grand Secretary's Office, a position which he has adorned by his high Masonic virtues, his obliging disposition, and his blameless life. No more genial or kindly face ever shone upon us from the classic precincts of the Grand Lodge. He carries the heavy load of his official duties with the ease and grace of a warrior, whose heavy armour, from constant use, has become a portion of the wearer. He never complains of over work, although the fulfilment of his unwritten duties involves serious labour and much sacrifice. He has his business on his fingers' ends, and is always ready to get up information of a practical kind for those who seek it. He is essentially a practical Mason. For the speculations of literary brethren he does not care much, and does not readily wander from the solid stores of knowledge which are to be found in an almost endless series of minute books and records. Within this maze of Masonic lore, this vast mass of material for a history of the Order, which, we hope, will one day be written by a competent hand, he is quite at home, and possesses the enviable art of at once pouncing upon the information which he desires to unearth. He is always at his post at the right moment, and walks doggedly to business every morning, with the air of a man who has little or nothing of consequence on his mind. His cares, if he has any, are for himself, his jovial good humour is for the world; his innocent jollity for those who are privileged to sit at the same table with him.

Our hero was born at Pentonville, just outside the sound of Bow Bells, and cannot, therefore, claim the enviable distinction which these famous chimes confer upon all who are born under their spells. His father, a medical man, who had a somewhat extensive practice, was determined to give his son a sound commercial education, and the lad was sent at the proper age to an excellent school at Tunbridge. On leaving this establishment he entered his father's surgery, and commenced the study of medicine. Whether this proved an uncongenial occupation or not we do not know, but it is certain that he soon quitted the profession and devoted his attention to law. He was for some years in the office of a barrister of eminence; but his ability had been seen and recognised by the late Grand Secretary White, who, in 1855, gave him an appointment in his office as second clerk. He filled this position with great credit to himself and advantage to the Order, and upon the retirement of the late Bro. Farnfield he was appointed to his present responsible and laborious post. In this position he has found his true sphere of usefulness, and being a real lover of hard work, he has always carried out the spirit as well as the letter of his duties. His connection with the Order dates from the year 1846.

He is the founder of several Lodges; and in 1850 he was W.M. of Lodge No. 27, Secretary from 1851 to 1874, and is now its Treasurer. He is an honorary member of many Lodges and Chapters, a P.Z., also a Past Grand Almoner of Rome and Constantine, Red Cross, and a 30° Mason; a firm friend, a zealous brother, and a good man. Thoroughly unassuming in manner, and utterly forgetful of self in his steady devotion to duty, our brother has little or no ambition to be regarded as anything more than a hard working and intelligent Mason. His official position has brought him into contact with men of the highest rank and culture, and we are speaking "by the card" when we say that he is respected alike by the Chiefs of the Order, and by those who compose the rank and file of the Craft.

The Consecration of the Skelmersdale Lodge was fixed to take place yesterday evening, at Masons' Hall, Masons' Avenue. Bro. Terry was to enact the part of Consecrating Officer. We shall give full particulars next week.

Digitized by Google

Obituary.

THE LATE HON. F. WALPOLE, M.P. PROV. G.M. NORFOLK.

IT is barely five months since we congratulated our Norfolk brethren on the installation of Bro. the Hon. F. Walpole as their P.G.M., in succession to our late respected Bro. B. B. Cabbell, and now, unhappily, it is our sad duty to record his death, at the comparatively early age of 54. We said at the time that the day of his installation would be a memorable one in the annals of Norfolk Freemasonry. The strong muster of the brethren, not only from all parts of the Province, but from neighbouring Provinces likewise, showed the immense influence of the Craft in the Eastern counties. The ceremony was performed by one of the highest dignitaries of our Order, no less a one, in fact, than the Deputy Grand Master of England, Bro. Lord Skelmersdale. And the few remarks Bro. Walpole made in acknowledgment of the high honour conferred upon him were conceived in the manliest and most truly Masonic spirit. Hence it was we anticipated for the Craft an uninterrupted course of prosperity in Norfolk under the able and kindly rule of its new Grand Master. But l'homme propose, et Dieu dispose. Yesterday Bro. Walpole's mortal remains were committed to their last resting place at Kingsbury, and what so recently was a Masonic Province filled with joy and hearty gratulation has now become a Province filled with deepest sorrow and lamentation. We deeply sympathise with our Norfolk brethren, and offer them, in all sincerity, our condolence at the loss they have sustained.

Bro. Walpole was a son of the third Earl of Orford. He was born in 1822, and entered the Royal Navy in 1837. In 1845 he rose to be Lieutenant, and retired from the service as Commander in 1855. In 1859 he became a Major in the West Norfolk Militia, and in 1868 was returned to Parliament as Member for the Western Division of his native county. When yet a midshipman in the Navy, and almost as soon as it was possible for him to become a member, he was initiated into Freemasonry. In the year 1839 he joined the "Union" Lodge, No. 52, Norwich, and remained a member till the day of his death. In 1874 he joined Lodge "Walpole," No. 1500, Norwich, as one of its founders. In 1867 he was appointed Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Norfolk, under the late Bro. B. Bond Cabbell, and in 1875 he received his patent as Provincial Grand Master in succession to that distinguished officer, his installation, by Lord Skelmersdale, taking place on the 20th November of the same year. During the whole of his Masonic career, Bro. Walpole worked steadily yet unostentatiously in furtherance of the interests of the Order, and during the eight years of his Deputy Grand Mastership had exercised a beneficial influence in the Province. Hence, on the death of Bro. Cabbell, the brethren in Norfolk were unanimous in their wish for his appointment as Grand Master, a wish which H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., most graciously and at once acceded to.

Such, in brief, was the very honourable career of our late brother, who, in the short space of fifty-four years, rendered good service to his sovereign, firstly, as an officer in the Navy, and then as Member of Parliament. As regards Freemasonry, Bro. Walpole had been a member for two and thirty years, and enjoyed the satisfaction of attaining the highest position in his native Province which it was in the power of the M.W.G.M. to bestow. There is, then, this consolation to the sorrowing members of his family, his personal friends, and his brethren in Masonry, that whatever the task Bro. Walpole was called upon to perform, whatever the office he was elected to fill, he did his duty faithfully and well.

The funeral of our late brother, Sir Cordy Burrows, took place at the extramural Cemetery, Brighton, on Saturday. All classes and denominations were represented in the procession, which extended for over a mile in length. Sir Cordy Burrows was highly respected, and there was a universal desire to pay the last sad tribute to his worth. The brethren mustered strongly, to the number of several hundreds, the duty of marshalling them being undertaken by Bro. H. Scott, Prov. G.S. Sussex, assisted by Bros. W. Kuhe G.O. and W. C. Stuckey. Mark Masonry was also in great force, as the deceased held the distinguished rank of Provincial Grand Master of that degree. Many other brethren, wearing the distinctive emblem of a sprig of acacia, were mingled among the general body, which included also the Mayor and Corporation, and notabilities of the town. When the ceremony was over, the brethren, in passing the grave, threw in their sprigs of acacia, as an expression of their hope and belief that their departed brother had gone to that immortal mansion, where the Great Architect lives and reigns for ever. There were present among the Craftsmen: Bros. W. T. Nell, J. M. Kidd, Eberell, J. Wood, W. Bennett, H. Saunders, J. W. Stride Marchant, W. Smith, Rev. E. Walker, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Charles Horsley, &c., &c.

It is with extreme regret we announce the somewhat unexpected death, on Wednesday morning, of Bro. Isaac Frankfort, a member for very many years of Joppa Lodge, No. 188. Bro. Frankfort was loved and respected by all the members of his Lodge, and by a numerous circle of Masonic friends. In private life he was equally respected and beloved. Though he never aspired to Lodge honours he was in every sense a true Mason. He was charitable without the slightest ostentation, and was a staunch friend, who never failed most lovingly to fulfil his duty towards his neighbour.

The R.W. Provincial Grand Master of Hants and the Isle of Wight, Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., assisted by his Provincial Grand Officers, will lay the foundation stone of the new Lodge rooms at Havant, on Monday, 10th April. The brethren will assemble at Bro. Locke's rooms, adjoining the railway station, at half-past 1 p.m. The Lodge will be close tyled at 2 o'clock. The ceremony of laying the stone at half-past 2. Return to Lodge at 3.30; and the Lodge will close at 4. A banquet will take place at the Town Hall at 4.30.

The 7th Annual Concert in aid of the funds of the Metropolitan and City Police Orphanage, took place on Friday, the 31st ult., at St. James's Hall, which was crowded in every part. The Baroness Burdett Coutts and Colonel Henderson were present. Mr. Sims Reeves, who was never in better voice, sang the "Last Rose of Summer," "Tom Bowling," "Farewell, my Trim Built Wherry," and the "Jolly Young Waterman." Bro. Wilford Morgan was well received, and Miss Emily Mott sang with great feeling, and was deservedly encored. Miss Clara Suter and Madame Gips also gave some good songs. Mr. Lewis Thomas introduced a song composed by Mr. W. H. Thomas. Mr. Henry Coe played a selection of Welsh airs on the concertina. The band of the A Division of Police, under the direction of Mr. A. Dickinson, attended, and Sergeant Longman displayed his ability as a cornet player. The conductors were Messrs. Sidney Naylor and W. H. Thomas. This Charity now provides for 160 children, who receive a good education, under the teaching of Mr. Allcock, at the Orphanage at Twickenham.

The Library Committee of the Corporation of London, with their chairman, Mr. Reginald Hanson, dined at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, on Monday, the 3rd inst. After dinner, Bro. John Symonds, Vice-Patron of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and late chairman of the Library Committee, was presented with a very handsome clock and vases, in recognition of services rendered to the Library Committee, and as a mark of their esteem. Among the guests invited to meet the Committee was the Rev. Dr. Richard Morris, Head Master of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, who, as President of the Philological Society, and Member of Council of the Early English Text Society, was called upon to respond to the toast "The Learned Societies."

At a Court of the Needlemakers' Company, on Thursday, at Guildhall, under the presidency of the Master, Bro. J. C. Parkinson, it was determined to give certain prizes, with a view to assist in the development of the art of needle-making.

At a dinner of the Officers and Clerks Committee, at the London Tavern, on Monday, 27th ult., Bro. Thomas Beard, P.M. 101, was presented with a very valuable demi-hunting watch.

Digitized by Google

WEST YORKSHIRE.

ANNUAL MEETING OF PROV. GRAND LODGE.

ON Tuesday the Provincial Grand Lodge of West Yorkshire held its annual meeting at Wakefield, under the banner of the Unanimity Lodge, 154, the preliminary Lodge being opened by the W.M. and officers of the Lodge. The meeting was held in the Exchange, and was attended by about 350 brethren, representing 58 out of 61 Lodges in the province, Sir H. Edwards, Bart. Prov. G. Master, presided, and was supported by T. W. Tew, Esq., J.P., Deputy Prov. G.M. and other P. Grand Officers. The brethren gave their customary salutation in a hearty manner. In acknowledging the salute, the R.W. Prov. Grand Master said:—I regard the salutation with which this magnificent assembly of Freemasons has just greeted me as a convincing proof of friendship on your part towards your R.W.G.M., and your reception of me this day expressive of fraternal sympathies fast ripening into a bond of durability. My earnest desire in the position which our Royal Grand Master has called me to occupy amongst you is to inspire the Lodges with that legitimate confidence of unity and sincerity amongst them which alone can contribute strength and Masonic independence of action to this important province of the other provinces of Grand Lodge, and the faithful preservation of our landmarks, ceremonies, privileges and symbolisms as Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons of England. On account of social circumstances, it is, I hope, acceptable to every one of the Lodges in the province, that our annual meeting is held this day in the good old and hospitable town of "Merrie Wakefield," for the invitation that we should assemble here is, I trust, a happy medium between us, and not the less gratifying than the invitations from two such important towns as Huddersfield and Leeds. We meet under the banner of the Unanimity Lodge, No. 154, and on the special invitation of a distinguished brother Mason, the W.M., and in association with the other two Lodges, Wakefield and Sincerity. The interval which has elapsed since our meeting in Leeds has been pregnant of hopeful results for the interests of Freemasonry. This year, like the last, now records the accession of Royalty to an important position in the Craft. The installation of H.R.H. Prince Leopold as Grand Master of the Freemasons of Oxfordshire is an event which has been celebrated with considerable splendor and éclat. The visit of our Royal Grand Master to Her Majesty's Indian Empire, and to the Lodges there is another incident of national importance and Masonic significance. These circumstances are warmly appreciated by the Craft, and cannot but be attended with the happiest results in the conquest of the hearts and affections of the princes and people of Hindostan, and the popularity and prosperity of our Order throughout the world. Bro. Thomas Hill has resigned the chairmanship of the Charity Committee, which since 1872 he has filled with such benefit to the Craft. He was always successful in securing the election of our West Yorkshire candidates. Bro. Tomlinson, of Wakefield, has been elected in his place. My deputy informs me that with but one exception to the ruling of the late Deputy, and to which he has not been able to find a harmonious solution, the Masonic affairs of the province are in a prosperous and satisfactory condition. The Masters of Lodges may be congratulated on the punctual manner in which they have completed and presented their returns to the Provincial Grand Secretary. Two new Lodges have been consecrated, making the roll of Lodges in this province 61. We have 3,027 active members of Lodges, paid for in the annual returns, as against 2,885 in the previous year, being an accession of 142 brethren in West Yorkshire. During the past year the initiations into Freemasonry have been considerable. I hope, therefore, the Worshipful Masters have been careful to make diligent inquiries touching the character and moral fitness of such applicants. 300 new novitiates is a large addition in one year to the Craft, and indicates in a marked manner the high esteem felt for the Order in this province. Brethren, I hope to see upon the increase that source of munificence which pre-eminently stamps the Freemasons as a charitable body, the annual voluntary contributions to our excellent institutions. We have been stigmatized by a Roman Prelate as "merely an eating and drinking society." Let us show to the uninstructed and popular world the utter fallacy of such a statement by ever putting into practice the noble principles of our Order—Brotherly Love, Relief and Truth. Whatever ecclesiastical opinions may be felt at home, the author of this statement may find in the records of West Yorkshire Freemasonry, so diversified, so interesting, so associated and intertwined with the history of every charitable institution in this province and of benevolent actions, instructive lessons and powerful incentives to the cultivation of patriotism, piety and unselfishness. In the language of my distinguished predecessor, the Marquis of Ripon, let me observe, "In the support we have given to our charitable institutions may be found the proof of what are the principles and the results of the Craft. I earnestly beg of you to reflect that these institutions are the visible proofs which are held up to our fellow-countrymen of the advantage of the spirit by which the Craft in this country is animated, that the spirit of the Craft is to be judged by the fruits which it bears in institutions like these, because these institutions do not rest upon the generosity of the few, but because they are founded upon the broad and staple basis of the general support of the Craft." Permit me to observe, that when I came to examine the annual returns of the Lodge for the selection of eligible brethren to fill the offices in Provincial Grand Lodge, I scarcely ever before approached a duty fraught with so much delicacy, anxiety and difficulty as this one—viz., to choose names for the coming year out of a long list of most zealous, able, and energetic Past Masters. I wish to thank the outgoing Prov. Grand Officers for the work they have accomplished, and the support they have accorded my deputy during their term of office, and to assure the incoming officers that there is an abundant promise of work in store for them also. (Applause.)

The Deputy Prov. Grand Master having also acknowledged the hearty reception of the brethren,

Bro. Major Le Gendre Starkie, Prov. Grand Master of East Lancashire, having been saluted by the brethren, replied to the compliment in a few well chosen remarks. The province he presided over, he said, was fast striving to rival in its good deeds that of West Yorkshire. In conclusion, he expressed a hope that the Prov. Grand Master of West Yorkshire and his Deputy might long live to carry on their work, and that their stars, which now shone bright in the heavens of Masonry, might go on increasing in lustre till they became fixed planets in the Order. (Applause.)

After the routine work of the Lodge had been gone through, the following brethren were appointed and invested as officers for the ensuing year:—

Prov. S.G.W.	Bro. W. H. Gill	Mayor of Wakefield.
,, J.G.W.	Bro. I. Booth	Halifax.
,, G. Chap.	Bro. Rev. J. W. Cassells ...	Batley.
,, ,,	Bro. Rev. E. W. Makinson ...	Leeds.
,, G. Treas.	Bro. R. I. Critchley, J.P....	Dewsbury.
,, Reg.	Bro. J. Ibbetson	Mirfield.
,, Sec.	Bro. H. Smith	Wakefield.
,, S.G.D.	Bro. F. Horsley	Leeds.
,, G.J.D.	Bro. Allan Jackson	Huddersfield.
,, G. Supt. of W.	Bro. J. Beanland ...	Bradford.
,, Dir. of Cer.	Bro. J. J. Rhodes ...	Huddersfield.
,, A.D.C.	Bro. T. Collinson	(139).
,, S. Bearer,	Bro. J. R. Armitage ...	Bradford.
,, Organist,	Bro. J. C. Perrott	(904).
,, Purs.	Bro. J. Marshall	(1283).
,, A. Purs.	Bro. Henry Ward	(1018).
,, Stewards—	Bro. E. Walshaw	(448).
,, ,,	Bro. J. G. Hutchinson ...	(1034).
,, ,,	Bro. Summerscales ...	(265).
,, ,,	Bro. J. Hirst	(837).
,, ,,	Bro. J. Simpson	(904).
,, ,,	Bro. J. F. Moss	(296).
,, Tyler	Bro. J. Lee	Huddersfield.
,, Asst. Tyler,	Bro. J. Shears	Batley.

The remaining business of the Lodge having been gone through, the Lodge was closed. A number of the brethren afterwards sat down to an excellent banquet, served at the Bull Hotel, at which Lieut.-Col. Sir H. Edwards presided.

POLLUTING THE BALLOT BOX.

WE have read, that "in the lowest deep there is a deeper still." This may appear paradoxical, but whether it is or is not so, if there be any word more mean than meanest, then we wish to apply that epithet to the man claiming to be a Mason and a member of a Lodge who deliberately, wilfully, and with malice prepense, determines to destroy the best interest of his Lodge, by, on every occasion that offers, depositing a black-ball, and for no other or better reason than that a majority of his Lodge would not elect him to office. Every Mason should have a laudable ambition, but that ambition, so far as the gratification of the same, should be governed, not by his own desires but by those of his fellow-members, who, appreciating his worthiness and qualifications, seek to elevate him. To seek office is unmasonic; to vent your spleen because your inordinate vanity is not gratified, by stabbing the character of worthy and unoffending gentlemen who form a favourable opinion of the Masonic institution, and who desire to aid in the extending of its benevolence, is not only more than unmasonic, it is cowardly, damnably, fiendish, and hellish.

The man calling himself a Freemason, who deposits a black-ball from other than purely Masonic motives, is a Thug, and though by the Masonic law his base and iniquitous motives cannot be inquired into, yet, if he is possessed of the least fractional part of what is known as conscience, then must he feel that he has a hell within his own breast. He must know and feel that he is a murderer of an innocent and unoffending man's character, a character which for manliness, uprightness, and common honesty, is as far superior to his own as light is to darkness.

Indeed, we do not hesitate to say that the man who would be guilty of violating his covenants as a Mason in the manner we have indicated (and we fear there are more than one in this metropolitan city) would not hesitate to commit a murder were it not for the fear of the gallows. In committing the latter, the greatest of all crimes, though he confessed it not, suspicions, or suspicious circumstances, would place him under at least confinement until it was cleared away, and he would therefore hesitate before rendering himself amenable to the hands of justice; but in committing the former, he, in his coward's heart, knows that neither suspicion or suspicious circumstances can reach him, and though suspected, and he knows that he is suspected, he continues in his infamous career, and shelters himself, coward-like, behind the sanctity of the Masonic ballot-box, to the injury of his Lodge and the stigmatising of the character of men as far above himself as heaven is above earth.

If the days of miracles had not passed away, we should pray that the devil which dwells in the clayey tabernacle of such wretches should by a miracle be cast out, and those features which bear the impress of manhood and manliness should not belie themselves.—N. Y. Square.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Rheumatism and Neuralgia.—Those cases which have withstood all other means of treatment will best test the curative powers of these medicaments; they are sure, whatever the condition or draining of the complains. It is sometimes difficult to determine which of these diseases is afflicting the sufferer, but this ignorance will not matter if Holloway's remedies be used. They alleviate and cure all muscular and nervous pains. In hereditary Rheumatism, after bathing the affected parts with warm salt water, Holloway's Ointment should be well rubbed upon the skin, that it may penetrate and exert its soothing and regulating properties on the deeper vessels and nerves, which are unduly excited, and cause both the pain and swelling.

Digitized by Google

CORRESPONDENCE.

—:o:—

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

All Letters must bear the name and address of the Writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

—:o:—

GRAND LODGE HONOURS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—"Ecce homo," or, in plain English, "Behold the man." He is in our midst. There is not a particle of a mistake about it. All history proves that "with the hour cometh the man." Then why should the trite saying be falsified in Masonic history. The fires of discontent and disaffection which are supposed to be smouldering beneath the placid, but treacherous surface, will soon be fanned into lurid flame. The first note of the coming tempest was sounded in my former letter. I again feel bound to raise a voice of warning, for the letter of "Enquirer," which appeared in your pages of 25th March, contains confirmation, strong as "Holy Writ," that my apprehensions were only too well founded. In it we find openly proclaimed what was until then only vaguely and insidiously indicated. It behoves us, therefore, be on the alert. Protestations of loyalty notwithstanding, our vigilance must not be relaxed. Great captains permit themselves all manner of stratagems to gain an advantage. We have no reason to assume that the great leader of the coming revolution will be less expert in their use. Already a step in advance has been taken. The programme is published. It is the manifesto of the chief. It has probably been read and commented upon by thousands. Why should we hesitate to analyze it? The first portion has reference to my personal self. As a rule I hate egotism, and upon principle like to remain in the back-ground. But I feel so positively grateful to the writer for expressing a fear that by his agency my mental and physical equilibrium has been rudely shaken, that I hasten to re-assure him. He may banish all anxiety about me, and undisturbedly enjoy his night's rest. It may also be gratifying to him to learn that it takes a wonderful deal to "disturb my equanimity." My peculiar temperament enables me to take part in a discussion, however intensely interesting, with calm and dispassionate deliberation, and to bear with exemplary meekness any amount of abuse an opponent might see fit to heap upon me, always provided it is undeserved. In the present controversy, as well as in all others, personal feelings should be held in abeyance; I endeavour to follow this rule, and confine my observations to combat such arguments as may seem worthy of consideration. "Enquirer" describes me as a "dogmatic critic." I have never heard that dogmatism is useful, or even a breach of propriety. I can, however, conscientiously say, which some that I could name cannot, that if my opinions are favoured with dogmatism, they have at least the merit of being unbiassed by any hope of gratifying personal vanity or latent ambition. And if such views as I happen to entertain upon this or any other subject are not acceptable to "Enquirer," and those who think with him, I shall be perfectly contented if I secure the approbation of those whose fairness, impartiality and good sense are universally known and beyond question. Personal matters are of course uninteresting; we will, therefore, drop them, and proceed to the next point, which must certainly be regarded as of the highest importance to mankind in general. In somewhat bombastic language the world is given to understand that "Enquirer" is stoutly resolved to "hold fast the Englishman's privilege of freedom of speech." Let us sing Hallelujah, and rejoice in the fact. But as I am unaware of any one ever having attempted to deprive him of his undoubted right, the pompous outburst seems gratuitous. Yet, while loudly claiming the privilege for himself, he furnishes proof that had he the power, he would deny it to others. As, for instance, the views expressed in my last letter, he designates "a string of invectives," and declares that he "refuses to have my opinions thrust down his throat," as he elegantly and classically phrases it. It is, however, vastly amusing to note the extreme caution with which he exercises the much vaunted privilege securely under cover of the safe and convenient shelter of a nom de plume. Unfortunately, I labour under the disadvantage of being a foreigner, yet do I most highly value and appreciate the great boon of freedom of utterance, written or verbal. But, in common with all peace-loving men, I would rejoice in its restriction, or even total suppression, were it generally used at the expense of honesty and truth. Liberty of speech, degenerating into licence becomes a curse, especially when employed in unjust and unfair criticism, or taken advantage of for the purpose of garbling or misconstruing the statements of an opponent. These truisms are in no way intended for personal application. Until the contrary is proved, we are bound to suppose every one actuated by the worthiest of motives. I should be very sorry even to hint that, with "malice aforethought," my opponent has treated my remarks with wilful and intentional dishonesty, yet how am I to account for the fact that not one of my statements is fairly represented, and plain and obvious meanings so misconstrued, twisted and perverted, as to obliterate all resemblance to the original. I will charitably ascribe it to misconception on his part. I am prompted to do so, not only from benevolent motives, but from the consideration of his notions of refinement. A gentleman "who is able to dance, and loves the grace to lay sweet nothings to brainless young ladies," he conceives to be endowed with the tastes, habits and usages of refined society! Is it credible, a man possessing more than average intelligence, unless his mind has suddenly become unhinged, or in moments of mental abstraction, can seriously entertain an idea so preposterous, or honestly maintain that that was the meaning it was intended to convey. Perhaps the writer meant to be jocular when penning that part of his letter. He next volunteers the unnecessary information that he did not seek to oppose the re-election of H.R.H. Whoever said he did? Consistently with the principles he advocates he ought to have done so. It is to that end they naturally and inevitably tend. If, as he asserts, as Masons we are all equal, in the sense he wishes us to understand the term, then I maintain Bro. Growler has as good a right to the Grand Mastership as the Prince, for where is the line to be drawn? The last part of this extraordinary document contains the programme. In the view of the coming liberator the Grand Lodge, as at present constituted, is an oligarchy, which he thinks it his mission to destroy. To do this effectually he must secure the dethronement of the present Ruler, he being the Chief Oligarch. We are further informed of his determination to form a healthy (?) public opinion amongst the members of Grand Lodge, and make them shake off their indifference or apathy (which you prefer, my Masters) to enable him to achieve his purpose. He promises to try to emulate the zeal and earnestness of Peter the Hermit (he, being only half fledged, modestly refuses to be called by that name as yet) in preaching a crusade against the, to him, so obnoxious oligarchy, by and bye. Then let the Grand Lodge shake in its shoes, for its days will be numbered. The restorers of our newly regained liberties will sing "Tommy make room for your Uncle," and the despotic oligarchs who so long and tenaciously have kept their grinding heels upon our slavish necks will have to evaporate. A few words more and I have done. In many respects the principles of Freemasonry are democratic, but not in the sense Red Republicans or Communists understand it. Our traditions show the chiefs to have always been selected from the highest in the land. The first Grand Lodge was presided over by three of the greatest men in Israel, the second, from which, be it observed, we are taught to believe is derived our present system of government, by two kings, and one who was "of living men best dowered of Heaven," the third by a prince, a prophet, and a high priest. Would it be wise, prudent or politic, to discard an inheritance whose value has stood the test of ages, for an innovation, the merits of which, to put it mildly, are at least problematical. In the outer world, republicanism has of late cut but a sorry figure. Jobbery, peculation, dishonesty in every shape, and all manner of odious and disgusting vices have been dominant amongst men who attained high positions in the state upon the principle of perfect equality, which "Enquirer" so strongly advocates, and promises to do his best to establish. Honest men are not likely to be charmed with a system which can produce no better results, and Masons will scarcely be induced to accept it in exchange for their ancient landmarks and time-honoured traditions.

Yours fraternally,

E. GOTTHEIL.

CENTENARY LODGES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR BRO.—I notice that Bro. Spencer intends publishing a history of the Lodges under the Grand Lodge of England. Such a work is much wanted, and would, in my opinion, be no acceptable to our foreign brethren as to the Craft at home.

I write (of course, with all due deference to Bro. Spencer's views) to suggest the publication, in the columns of your readable paper, of a list of all the Lodges entitled to a centenary jewel, according to the designs submitted for the approval of the M.W.G.M. prior to the new regulations requiring all the members of centenary Lodges (since 1860) to wear a jewel of a uniform pattern, issued by the Grand Lodge of England, and not to be obtained elsewhere. Such a list would prove most valuable and interesting, as also one affording information as to all special jewels allowed to be worn by the members of certain Lodges.

Yours fraternally, S. C.

Those who may have cast a glance at our advertisement columns last week must have noticed, in the announcement of the business that will be submitted to the Quarterly General Court of the Girls' School to-day, a notice of motion by Bro. Kenyon, to the effect that a Committee of five Governors be appointed to inspect certain freehold lands at divers places near London, with a view to the erection of enlarged school premises thereon. However, only four names appear in the advertisement, namely:—those of Lieut.-Colonel Burdett, Dudley Ryle Esq., Dr. Ramsay, and R. Kenyon, Esq. Lieut.-Colonel Creaton's name was originally included, but without his sanction, and, as soon as he heard this, he gave peremptory instructions for its withdrawal. Hence the apparent anomaly of a Committee of five, consisting, if fine members only. Since then Lieut.-Colonel Burdett has written, to the effect that his name likewise has been used without his sanction, and that he, too, declines to act upon the Committee. Of course, Bro. Kenyon may be in a position to explain his monstrous presumption in using, without their sanction, the names of two gentlemen, of whom one at least, we know, is committed to a particular proposition re the enlargement of the Girls' School. But the foregoing information is perfectly trustworthy, and, knowing this, we consider comment on Bro. Kenyon's conduct superfluous.

Digitized by Google

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

—o—

My Circular Notes. Extracts from Journals, Letters sent Home, Geological, and other Notes, written while travelling westwards round the World, from 6th July 1874, to 6th July 1875. By J. F. CAMPBELL, Author of "Frost and Fire." In two volumes. London: Macmillan and Co. 1876.

THERE is no class of literature so universally popular, so fascinating, as that which treats of foreign peoples and the countries they inhabit. Individually, we may be regular stay-at-homes, too lazy, or too incurious to learn, by personal experience, the habits and customs of other nations, and the scenic beauties or wonders for which the lands they dwell in are notorious. Yet, none the less do we care to gain our information second hand. The records of travel are a never failing source of delight. They tell us what other people are like, what they do, what are their peculiar customs, what the country they live in is like and what it produces, and what is their previous history. Hence it is that, nowadays, we are almost overwhelmed with narratives of journeys to this or that country. Many even of those who mostly spend their holiday abroad, consider their task incomplete if they do not take the whole world into their confidence. They suffer from cacoëthes scribendi, and recount their doings with a minuteness that is simply painful. And as the facilities for travel increase, as countries less easily accessible are brought, so to speak, nearer to us, it is probable the number of these bookmakers, who can tell us little we do not know already, will increase likewise. Mr. Campbell's "Circular Notes," however, are a book of quite another character. True, he set out to spend a year's holiday in journeying round the world. True, he visited countries which are not entirely new to Britons, and, of necessity, saw much which other Britons had seen before; but he saw and noted much that is new and interesting, much that the ordinary traveller for pleasure would never have troubled himself about. The result is that My Circular Notes are most entertaining. There is hardly a page in which does not occur some useful piece of information, and the style of the narrative is, from beginning to end, the most charming it is possible to conceive. The notes are composed partly of letters to relations and friends, partly of a log or journal, and to supplement the whole is a very valuable Geological paper on the "Period of Polar Glaciation," in the writing and revision of which Mr. Campbell spared no pains.

At the very outset, at pp. 10 and 11, on board the Batavia, en route for the United States, we get a wrinkle. Says Mr. Campbell, "he (the Captain of the Batavia) holds that weather prognostics might be made by telegraphs from Boston and Newfoundland; together with the logs of steamers running westwards, telegraphed from Queenstown to head quarters. In America, they telegraph western weather to the east coast, and find that tracts of weather move northwards and eastwards. That is reasonable and probable. It is true experimentally. Our system is to tell people what the weather was; which does not help to prepare them for the morrow." The journey across the Atlantic passes without adventure of any kind, but Mr. Campbell enjoys it, and carefully notes, in his quaint way, whatever is amusing and demands observation. The story of an artichoke, as told him by a "jolly old man," is worth repeating.

"Me and Joe, and my wife and his, was dining in Paris; and Joe, he ordered an artichoke. 'What's that?' I said. 'It's an artichoke,' said he, 'will you take some?' 'No,' says I, 'Mother told me to be sure to eat artichokes; I'll have one for myself.' So when it came, we looked at each other, for we was green. We didn't know which end of the animal to attack. So first we began at the hard end, and that pricked our mouths; and we didn't think much of artichokes. 'That can't be right,' says Joe. So we began at the other end, and scraped out the middle and ate that. 'My,' said the wife, 'I was that ill, that I had to leave the table. It's all prickles and hairs, and they stuck in my throat.' Well, we did not think anything at all of artichokes that time, but next time, we got a man that knew how to fix it, and then we liked them well enough, I guess. Yes, Sir, that's so!"

Our traveller lands at Boston, finds the heat excessive, goes to a spiritual séance, and is puzzled whether the lady medium is crazy or a rogue, and soon after sets out by rail for Niagara. The drawing room car in which he travels is described as "a long lofty room, set on four pairs of wheels, of which two pair are on a bogy at each end, consequently the long beams take off all jarring rattle. All down the sides are velvet-covered chairs, with spring seats, each on a bronze pillar turning any way. The sash windows are large plate glass affairs, into which, when open, an attendant nigger fits wire blinds to keep out the dust. Green sun blinds draw down, so there we sit at ease, each in his own arm chair, and look at the country as we whirl along at great speed." Then "those who want to smoke find a cabin in the fore part of the car, those who want to drink find iced water, and those who want to wash their dusty faces and slick their hair down,' can do that to their heart's content." Well may Mr. Campbell remark, "Truly the Yankees know how to travel by rail." Landed at his hotel, the writer indulges in a variety of reflections on matters. He mentions an Irishman who, when left to himself, always brought potatoes; even when asked once for a soup, "he brought me goose and potatoes." As to the niggers, "the olive-green ones sell books and papers, the refined men wait at table, the blackest black boots and brush coats, and bear burdens. But no amount of dilution seems to make a black white enough to keep an hotel, or own a ship, or do anything that an Aryan does. I am quite sure that no Africaryan will ever run an Emma mine, or an Erie ring. But the potato man may in time, for he has brains to be educated, while darky's head is like that of the Neander-thal man who was like a monkey." The Niagara Falls have been often enough described, but the following is so excellent that we make no apology for transcribing it.

"Nothing can give the faintest idea of the beauty of these falls. The water is a sort of Prussian-blue emerald green colour where it is clear of air bubbles, and deep. Where it comes over the Horseshoe it is like nothing else in the world. It is a great green waving water curtain, edged with dark purple, where the red rock edge is seen through falling water four or five feet deep at least. Nearer and thinner and more broken, a promontory of falling water tells warm purple against the green Horseshoe gulf. Great stones below glimmer through the spray, and change from black to purple, and pale blue, and vanish as the clouds of spray go and come. Dark green and warm purple waves below fade into the cloud like the stones. The white Canadian fall shines white through the cloud-like silver gauze, while the cloud itself changes like a dim rainbow of purple and green, and blue and yellow. Last night the setting sun lit up a great orange cloud behind the dark bank of trees in Canada, and the contrast made the falls like liquid jewels. I sketched, but Turner could not have imitated this. I defy all painters to copy Niagara."

Then he sets out for Chicago, travelling the greater part of the way in a Pullman's car, the comforts of which are fully described. The seats and roof are so constructed, as to form comfortable beds for the passengers to sleep in. A capital dinner is to be had aboard, and as the cars are long and springy, and because they are exceedingly well made, the motion is utterly unlike railway motion in England. There is no side-long rattle and roll, no jar and little noise. With an easy swinging, see-saw movement on I went, feet foremost, sleeping as if I were at home in my own bed." At Chicago Mr. Campbell becomes reflective again, and passes sundry comments on emigrants, and the several varieties of the genus Republican, among the latter of which the Red variety is not spoken of in the warmest terms. Thence he sets out for Cheyenne, on his road to San Francisco. At the Missouri he sees his first Indians; at Fremont, again Indians, and again at Grand Island, where he sees their camp and manages to make a sketch of one of them. He is advised by a fellow traveller not to stop at Cheyenne, "all the men are murderers and thieves; you will have your throat cut and lose your money." He stops all the same, and has neither his throat nor purse cut. At Colorado Springs, a difficulty occurs between two rival drivers, of whom one is "slender and vicious," the other "a big, bluff, bull-headed, prize fighting sort of man in boots and shirt sleeves, who had been a captain." The former is full of pluck, but gets his knob in chancery and his claret tapped, and has his face reduced "to the condition of a beef-steak well beaten." The fight was a fair stand-up one, though the smaller man yelled for a knife. At Salt Lake City he meets with people of every nationality. "Boots is from Yorkshire, another is from Nottingham. Half the wives are from Wales. The master has three, and Brigham Young has fifty." He is introduced to a Professor Barfoot, who came to Salt Lake City and turned geologist and "bug collector," or naturalist and chemist. Mr. Campbell thus describes him and his geological views, and his collection of curios:—

"According to him the geology of the country has not been ascertained, but these rocks are lower carboniferous. Their dip has nothing to do with the lake basin. He has failed to discover bromine or iodine in Salt Lake. He finds 1·5 by weight of chloride of sodium (common salt). He does not believe the lake to be part of an old sea, and attributes the saltness to beds of rock-salt to the south. He has specimens very pure and compact. But where did these beds come from unless they came from an old sea? He has bones and teeth of Falconer's Elephas Americanus from drift. He has samples of ore from Emma, Comstock, and other famous lodes. From much talk with him and with others, I gathered that many people here knew that the Emma mine could not possibly stand the price paid for it in England. He has malachite with gold in the green. The green mines of England have been more successfully worked by the 'caste tribes of this mining region. He has large garnets, and a few coal formation fossils. He has a live prairie dog, a little owl, and a couple of rattlesnakes, tribes who dwell together in social communities, eat and are eaten. He has a scorpion in a scidlitz powder box, Tarantulas and their nest. Even the Tarantulas fear the enmity of a certain dragon-fly which preys on them so, they make a house with a hinged door and holds for their claws. When the enemy comes to the castle, they shut the door and hold on by the lock. He has Indian gear, a scalp or two, which indicate the habits of modern warfare, some crania, some parrots, photographs, and petrifactions from springs. These he calls 'Tuffa.' He has deposits on wood, wood half turned to silica, the rest still combustible, and wood-opal entirely petrified. He is a learned man, and I was glad to give him a letter to the British Museum."

Further west, travelling can hardly be very agreeable, certainly not in the estimation of those who must have help everywhere. "Every one for himself," we are told, "is the rule of life; men will not answer questions or lend a hand to anybody." They work hard and well, and earn dollars, "but any sign of decent civility I have not seen off the cars for a long time, unless I happen on a poor Paddy." The traveller, however, will meet with not a few novelties. Thus, "as we steamed into Virginia City, the passengers amused themselves by firing revolvers at the telegraph poles. It was a hot fire for a mile." Mr. Campbell did not care about staying here, so he moved on by rail to Carson City. The line of rail he describes as a wonderful work; "it curls and winds about the hill sides, in and out of V-shaped hollows, which show the geological structure. As I sat, the engine and train curled before me like a snake, and wriggled to balance itself. Sometimes the engine disappeared round a corner, and all the way it was dangerous to look at. As emblem of pluck and people, I drew a boy, who sat in the brake of the goal train, like a mast-headed midshipman, while another bold reckless being sat on the buffer of the engine, swinging his legs over the edge of the truck in front of the wheels. That is young America going ahead in the far west. Energetic, heedless, reckless." At Sumuit, our traveller is nearly sold. He "sat on a sheet of sacking, hung over a cane, "A MAMMOTH RED BAT! CAPTURED AFTER A THREE DAYS' SIEGE, IN HELL CANON." On raising the sheet, he is greeted with a roar of laughter. "In the corner lay a red brick-bat."

Digitized by Google

Driving in California must be anything but pleasant to judge from the following:—"My wigs and old bones, that's (the driving) something new. A man drives fine from the box on a road as wide as his three leaders, and full of stones; up you go through the forest, and when the top of a hill is reached, down you go full tilt, round corners, in and out, bump, with an angle of 32°, and rocks and trees on one side or the other, or on both above and below the road. At last you get to the edge of a cliff, and over you go, down a road of the steepest practicable gradient, with cliffs on each side, above and below, and no fences, and very sharp angular stones at the bottom. The Gemmi pass, in Switzerland, is a road of this kind, and there men prefer walking. The worst road that I ever drove a carriole on in Norway is less dangerous, and here a nigger drove five-in-hand rapidly, and frightened me horribly for two days."

Not long after, Mr. Campbell finds his way to the Mariposa grove, and among the big trees he mentions one that was 94 feet round, and 234 to the broken top; another was 75 round, and 105 to the first limb. Others were 300 feet high. Another he rode through. As to the fertility of the soil, we read—"Fruit, grapes, peaches, pears, plums, and all manner of things that you grow painfully, grow here in marvellous abundance. I saw an old Irishman at the street corner in canbeen and frieze, with unbuttoned knees and a dudeen, selling his own grapes, grown in his own garden. His stall, at Covent Garden, would have been worth about ten pounds, I reckon. He was asking our price for street apples." But cheap as fruit is, and large as are the labourers' earnings, they have to pay heavily for clothes and shoes, &c.

Quitting California, the writer turns his steps towards, or rather takes ship for, Columbia, the climate of which, in the neighbourhood of Victoria, is described as perfection. "Victoria," he tells us, is the chicken of a great town. But meanwhile it is in a shell made of wood. The future of it depends on the making of railways, and the interests of Canada and Victoria seem to clash. Both sides want the commerce of the interior to pass their ports, and meantime Quebec has the gate of Northern America. This side is not settled up, and it will be a long time before it is. They are trying the gold bait, but it won't do." From Columbia, he returns overland to California, meeting with every variety of people on the road, amusing himself, philosophising, &c., &c. A further experience of the stage is not more agreeable than that we have already quoted. The stage is "a square tray with little stuffing, a back seat and a fore seat, and a seat in the middle with a strap for back. There are no springs. The body is hung on leathern straps, and these are made fast to a frame on four strong cart wheels. Luggage goes on a hind boot and a front boot. One passenger sits on the box by the driver. He drives six horses from the box, and manages the brake with his foot. They carry mails, and make about six miles an hour. The road is not much wider than the coach; it is formed, not made." That it must be very hard work to sit in this stage may be well imagined. Says Mr. Campbell, "I got my head down on a bag, and my feet curled up, and I managed to sleep now and then, but my hat was crushed, and my old body was tossed up and let down with a bang at short intervals all night long. At odd times we crossed the trail of a skunk, and smelt the brute. At dawn I sat up, and all day held on by my hands, and exerted my strength in saving my spine." Returning to San Francisco, the writer has more to tell us, in his genial fashion, of the people and the city, the sea-lions and seals that disport themselves on "a rock outside the Golden Gate, opposite a bar-room and hotel called Cliff House." He visits, too, an opium den, and other choice resorts of the inhabitants, and having thus visited to his heart's content, he takes a berth aboard the "Great Republic," bound for Yokohama. Here, for the present, we must leave him, reserving for the next issue, our notice of his Japanese and other experiences.

(To be continued.)

Poems of the Month: By M. A. Baines. The etchings by Wilhelmina Baines. London: Sampson Low, Marston, Searle and Rivington, Crown-buildings, Fleet-street.

THESE poems first appeared in different periodicals, and as we have already stated our opinion upon their merits, we may content ourselves with expressing the pleasure we experience at finding them collected together and published in one volume. The etchings, which are done by what is known as the heliotype process, are manifestly the work of a true artist. In fact, poems and etchings are alike worthy of each other, and together make a very ornamental volume, which well deserves a place of honour on the drawing room or boudoir table.

'Tis our Duty to Help one Another. A new Masonic song. Words and music by Bro. James Batchelder (Manchester).

THIS song, which is dedicated to Bro. Lieut.-Col. Le G. N. Starkie, Provincial Grand Master East Lancashire, is not without merit. Here and there the lines halt somewhat, but, on the whole, it is superior to the average run of Masonic songs. The music is simple, and being such, will, doubtless, find favour among brethren who happen to have time enough in them to acquire a simple melody. It is not, however, a lively measure, its merit lying chiefly in the whole-some Masonic sentiments to which the poet has striven to give expression.

CLUB HORSE PLAYING CARDS.—Mogul Quality, picked to 24 per pack, 1s per dozen packs. Do. seconds 1s per pack, 10s per dozen packs. 57 by next 1½d per pack extra. Cards for Piquet, Bézique, Écarté, &c., Mogul Quality 10d per pack, 9s per dozen packs.—London: W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, E.C.

READING.—UNITED MEETING OF THE TWO LODGES.

ON Wednesday, 29th March, the members of the two Reading Lodges—Union 414, and Grey Friars 1101—assembled, at a joint Lodge of Emergency, for Masonic business, and the presentation of a Jewel by the R.W. P.G.M. of Berks and Bucks, Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P., to Bro. W. W. Moxhay P.M. 414, Hon. Mem. 1101, Prov. G.S.W. Berks and Bucks, Installing Master of the two Lodges.

The W.M. of 1101 took the chair, and opened the Lodge; the W.M. of 414 occupying the chair of I.P.M. The ceremony of initiating Mr. Henry Creed was proceeded with, after which the gavel was handed to the W.M. of 414, who opened the Lodge in the 2nd degree, and announced that Bro. F. W. Albury was a candidate to be raised to the sublime degree of M.M. That brother having very satisfactorily answered the usual questions, retired to be prepared; when the Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and Bro. Albury was raised to the sublime degree of M.M. in a correct and efficient manner. The Lodge was resumed in the 2nd and 1st degrees, when it was announced that the R.W. P.G.M. was in the adjoining room waiting admission, upon which a procession of Prov. Grand Officers past and present, preceded by the Stewards, and under the guidance of the Prov. G. Director of Ceremonies, the R.W. P.G.M. entered the Lodge amid the acclamations of the brethren, and took his seat at the right of the W.M., who tendered his gavel and was requested to retain it. The Prov. G.D.C. called upon the brethren to salute the P.G.M., which was correctly done and appropriately responded to. The gavel was then handed to the P.G.M., who took the chair amidst hearty cheers, and called upon Bro. Moxhay to receive the testimonial which had been voted by the two Lodges. In offering the jewel to Bro. Moxhay, Sir Daniel said the brethren desired to show their regard for him as a Mason, as a friend, and as a citizen; one of the greatest and purest kinds of happiness which any man could enjoy was in recollecting that he had won the esteem and the affection of those who knew him. Compared with this, the enjoyments derived from rank and wealth were but little. It was Bro. Moxhay's good fortune to be able to reflect that he enjoyed the friendship, and had won the esteem, of the numerous and important body on whose behalf he had been requested to make the presentation. Sir Daniel then invested Bro. Moxhay with the jewel, amidst loud and continued cheering.

Bro. Moxhay, who appeared deeply affected, in returning thanks, spoke of the love and reverence which he felt for the principles of Freemasonry; whilst those principles were of the highest kind, there was an utter absence of anything approaching narrowness or sectarianism. He believed that Freemasonry tended to bind people together in a bond of love and charity. He alluded to the great kindness which had been shown to him by the members of both Lodges, and he thanked them for the handsome present which they had given him. The Prov. G.D.C. called upon the brethren to salute Bro. Moxhay, which was correctly and heartily done. The Lodge was closed by the Prov. G.M., and the brethren adjourned to the George Hotel, where an excellent banquet was provided by Mrs. Pontin. The chair was taken by Sir Daniel Gooch, and upwards of fifty brethren sat down; the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to; the evening was enlivened by some admirable singing, making altogether one of the most pleasant reunions recollected in Reading. Among the brethren who attended Lodge and banquet, were the following: Sir Daniel Gooch Bart., M.P., P.G.M. Berks and Bucks, Hon. Member of the two Lodges. W. T. Mercer P.G.M. China 414, A. M. Yetts W.M. 414, G. Betty P.M. 414, W. W. Moxhay P.M. 414, Prov. G.S.W. Berks and Bucks, J. T. Blowers P.M. 414, Chas. Smith P.M. 414, W. Biggs P.G. Secretary Berks and Bucks, Hon. Member of the two Lodges. J. T. Freeman W.M. 1101, P.G.S. Berks and Bucks, E. Margrett S.W. 1101, S. A. Pocock S.W. 414, G. Slingsby Stallwood 414 and W.M. 558, C. Stephens I.G. 414, S. Bradley J.D. 414, M. J. Withers 414, Harry Ayres 414, C. G. Butler 414, A. Welch J.W. 1101, J. T. Stranson Treasurer 1101, W. P. Ivey P.M. Secretary 1101, W. G. Flanagan S.D. 1101, R. Dowsett Organist 1101, J. E. Danks I.G. 1101, W. Ferguson and T. Newman Stewards 1101, J. Egginton P.M. 1101, R. C. Harley P.M. 1101, J. T. Brown P.M. 1101, J. Weightman P.M. 414 and 1101, W. A. Hakins 1101, J. W. St. John Hunt 1101, T. J. Cottrell 1101, W. J. Browne 1101, E. J. Blackwell 1101, J. H. Hawkes 1101, J. Robinson 1101, T. Simonds 1101, F. W. White 1101, H. Creed 1101, R. C. Mount 414 and J.W. 1328, &c.

Lilly of the Valley Conclave, No. 127, of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine.—This body met in the Masonic Hall, Hounslow, on Saturday, 1st April. The M.P.S. Sir Knight H. J. Shields, 33°, presiding, assisted by Sir Knight G. W. Wheeler M.P.S. 114, (Oregon), and Wm. McMurdo V.E., D. Baker S.G., H. Dyer J.G., John McMurdo Recorder, J. Alexander and A. Reid. There were two applicants for admission, Comps. Simons and Menzies, who were duly admitted and created Knights of the Order. A Sanctuary of K.H.S. was then opened by the same officer, when the two gentlemen, along with Sir Knight Alexander, were admitted and instructed in its mysteries. A Commandery of St. John the Evangelist was then formed, and the same three gentlemen were duly dubbed Knights of that Order, in a very impressive manner by Sir Knight Shields, the M.E. Commander. The Commandery and Conclave were then closed after their protracted labour.

Robert Burns Royal Arch Chapter, Holytown.—This Chapter held its regular monthly meeting on the 1st April, H. J. Shields presiding as Z., Wm. McMurdo P.Z., D. Baker H., G. W. Wheeler Z. (acting as) J., John McMurdo S.E., Simons S.N., Menzies 1st S., C. Monk 2nd S., McCarthy 3rd S., R. Reid Janitor. The Supreme committee brought up their report, which, after discussion, was passed, and two candidates were proposed for the next regular meeting.

Digitized by Google

INSTALLATION OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,
Most Worshipful Grand Master, &c., &c., having been graciously pleased to accept the special Dedication,

A SPLENDID

HISTORICAL STEEL ENGRAVING

WILL SHORTLY BE PUBLISHED,

OF THE

ROYAL INSTALLATION ON THE 28TH OF APRIL LAST,

IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,

By BRO. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. No. 1201.

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be made to the

ROYAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS,
WOOD GREEN, LONDON, N.

OFFICE: 6 Freemason's Hall, W.C.

PATRON.
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

PRESIDENT.
HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G., &c., M.W.G.M.

A QUARTERLY General Court of the Governors and Subscribers will be held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London, on Monday, the 10th day of April 1876, for the transaction of the ordinary business of the Institution:—

To elect a Treasurer for the ensuing year.

To elect twelve brethren as members of the General Committee, to represent the life and annual subscribers.

To declare two additional vacancies, caused by the withdrawal of two boys since 1st July last.

To consider a recommendation from the General Committee that five additional boys be elected at this Court, and in the event of such recommendation being adopted, to elect sixteen instead of nine boys, as stated on the voting papers, from fifty-nine approved candidates, in the list of whom note the following alterations:—

No. 19. Keddell, Robert Walter, both parents deceased.
" 34. Price, Alfred Higham, deceased.
" 36. Shury, Solomon Hiram, Father is a Life Subscriber of the Institution.
" 41. Cade, Richard Henry, withdrawn.
" 55. Beck, first name should be William and not "David Davidson."

To authorise the payment of £2,000, purchase money of the Freehold of "Kent House," with land required as a sanatorium.

To consider the following notices of motion; by F. W. H. Ramsay, Esq., M.D., "That every three years the four senior members of the House Committee retire, but shall be eligible for re-election, and the four who have been least frequent in attendance shall retire annually, and be ineligible for re-election for a space of twelve months."

By V. W. Bro. Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, P.G. Chaplain and P. Pro. G.W. West Yorkshire, "That having in view recent imputations cast on the administration of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, this Court deems it to be its duty to express its unabated confidence in the House Committee and executive."

The chair will be taken at twelve o'clock at noon precisely. The ballot for the election of Boys will commence at one o'clock, or as soon as the general business of the Court shall have been finished, and terminate at three o'clock.

By order,
1st April 1876. FREDERICK BINCKES, Secretary.

 The SEVENTY-EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL will be held on Wednesday, 28th June 1876, the Right Hon. Lord Leigh, R.W. Prov. G. Master of Warwickshire, in the chair. The names of brethren willing to represent Lodges or Provinces as Stewards are earnestly solicited. All information may be obtained as above.

APRIL AND MAY ELECTIONS.

BRETHREN wishing to Exchange Votes, Boys for Girls, or Men for Widows, can send offers to

J. B. GOVER, 59 Union Street, Plymouth, OR
Bro. CHARLES GODTSCHALK, 107 Devonshire Road, Seven Sisters' Road, London, N.

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.
THE CLUB PREMISES, SITUATE
101 QUEEN VICTORIA STREET,

ARE NOW BEING FITTED UP, AND WILL

SHORTLY BE OPENED TO THE MEMBERS.

THE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, now payable, is available to 1st May 1877, and is fixed at—£5 5s for Town Members, i.e., Members residing within twenty miles of the Club, and £3 13s 6d for Country Members, without entrance fee. Members incur no liability beyond their subscription. None but Freemasons are eligible for Membership.

THE NEXT ELECTION OF MEMBERS will be held on 17th April, after which date it is anticipated that it will be necessary to impose an Entrance Fee, and raise the Annual Subscriptions—upwards of 300 Brethren having already joined.

FORMS FOR APPLICATION for Membership may be obtained from the Secretary, at the Offices of the LONDON MASONIC CLUB COMPANY LIMITED, 27 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

JOHN A. LATHBURY, Secretary.

THE THEATRES, &c.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—This evening, MARTHA. On Monday, L'AFRICAINE. On Tuesday, MARTHA. On Thursday, FRA DIAVOLO. On Saturday, LA TRAVIATA. Each evening at 8.30.

HAYMARKET.—At 7.30, A CO-OPERATIVE MOVEMENT. At 8.15, MEASURE FOR MEASURE.

LYCEUM.—At 7.0, THE RENDEZVOUS. At 7.45, OTHELLO. On Tuesday, QUEEN MARY.

ADELPHI.—At 7.0, VANDYKE BROWN. At 7.45, PEEP O' DAY, and MY OWN GHOST. (Last night.)

PRINCESS'S.—At 7.0, THE WHITE HAT. At 8.0, RIP VAN WINKLE, and HEAD OF A CLAN.

STRAND.—At 7.0, TWO TO ONE. At 7.40, A LESSON IN LOVE. At 9.30, CRACKED HEADS, and THE RIVAL OTHELLOS. (Last night.)

GAIETY.—At 7.15, OPERETTA. At 8.15, WIG AND CROWN. At 10.15, A SPELLING BEE.

OLYMPIC.—At 7.0, FASCINATING FELLOWS. At 7.45, THE GASCON. At 10.30, 'TWAS I.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—At 7.30, QUITE BY ACCIDENT. At 8.15, MASKS AND FACES. (Last night.) On Thursday, WRINKLES.

GLOBE.—At 7.30, THE TAILOR MAKES THE MAN. At 8.15, JO. (Thursday next last night.)

VAUDEVILLE.—At 7.30, A WHIRLIGIG. At 8.0, OUR BOYS AND A FEARFUL FOG.

COURT. — At 8.0, A SCRAP OF PAPER, and A QUIET RUBBER.

ST. JAMES'S.—At 7.30, REAL AND IDEAL. At 8.30, ALL FOR HER (Last night.)

ROYALTY.—At 7.30, MARRIED BACHELORS. At 8.15, POM.

DUKE'S.—At 7.30, THE POOR GENTLEMAN. At 10.0, ON THE RINK. On Monday, SAM HAGUE'S MINSTRELS.

OPERA COMIQUE.—At 7.15, A HORNET'S NEST. At 8.0, TRIAL BY JURY. At 8.45, MADAME ANGOT.

CRITERION.—At 7.30, PAUL PRY, and at 9.0, PIFF-PAFF.

ALHAMBRA.—At 7.15, A QUIET FAMILY. At 8.0, DON JUAN, &c.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.—This day, CONCERT, &c. On Monday, SPRING TROTTING MEETING. On Tuesday, THE COLLEEN BAWN. On Friday, GRAND SACRED MUSICAL FESTIVAL. Open Daily, SKATING RINK, &c.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—This day, CONCERT, &c. On Friday, GRAND SACRED CONCERT. Open daily. AQUARIUM. SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL AQUARIUM SUMMER AND WINTER GARDEN. Open daily. CONCERT, &c. On Wednesday and Thursday, FLOWER AND FRUIT SHOW.

POLYTECHNIC.—GABRIEL GRUB, AND THE GRIM GOBLIN. HOLIDAY BUDGET OF CURIOUS EXPERIMENTS. PROGRESS OF ROYALTY IN INDIA. THE AERIAL MERCURY. Many other entertainments. Open twice daily, at 12.0 and 7.0. Admission 1s.

EGYPTIAN (LARGE) HALL.—MASKELYNE AND COOKE, daily at 3.0 and 8.0.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL, LANGHAM PLACE. — Mr. and Mrs. GERMAN REED. Thursday and Saturday at 3.0; other days at 8.0.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.
NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisers will find THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE an exceptionally good medium for Advertisements of every class.

Per Page...	...	...	...	...	...	£8	0	0
Back Page	...	...	...	...	...	£10	0	0

General Advertisements, Trade Announcements, &c. single column, 5s per inch. Double Column Advertisements 1s per line. Special Terms for a Series of insertions on application.

Births, Marriages and Deaths, 6d per line.

Digitized by Google

FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

IN the House of Lords on Friday, after a brief discussion relative to the production of certain documents received some time since by the Secretary of State for India, their Lordships went into Committee on the University of Oxford Bill, but not till the Duke of Devonshire and other Noble Lords had expressed opinions on matters more or less directly associated with the aim and purpose of the measure. An amendment to clause 14, proposed by Earl Granville, to the effect, that when proper provision had been made for religious instruction and worship, all emoluments or offices should be conferred according to present merit and fitness, without any religious tests, was defeated by 55 to 44. On the motion of the Duke of Somerset, progress was then resumed. On Monday, every part of the House was crowded, as Lord Shaftesbury was to move a resolution on the motion to go into Committee on the Royal Titles Bill, to the effect that an humble address be presented to Her Majesty praying her to assume a title more in accordance with the feelings of the nation than that of Empress of India. The debate which followed was long and interesting, the Lord Chancellor, Lords Selborne, Midleton and Sandhurst, and the Earls of Feversham and Harrowby taking part in it. On a division, the Earl of Shaftesbury's motion was lost by 137 to 91. On Tuesday, the second reading of the Irish Peerage Bill was moved by Lord Inchiquin, and agreed to. On Thursday, the second reading of the Supreme Court of Judicature (Ireland) Bill was agreed to. Their Lordships then went into Committee on the University of Oxford Bill, and on clauses 16 to 45 being passed, the Chairman was ordered to report the Bill.

When the usual array of questions had been disposed of on Friday, the House of Commons settled down to listen to the debate on Sir T. Chambers's motion respecting Monastic and Conventual Institutions, the purpose of the honourable and learned gentleman being to obtain a parliamentary inquiry into the number, character, relation to law, &c., &c. Mr. Shaw moved the rejection of the motion, which received support from Sir. J. Kennaway, Mr. Newdegate, and others, while Mr. O'Reilly, Dr. O'Leary, Mr. Sullivan, &c., &c. opposed. Lord J. Manners suggested the withdrawal of the motion, but this was not acceded to, and, a division following, Sir T. Chambers lost the day by 127 by 87. Certain amendments to the Mutiny and Marine Mutiny Bills were agreed to; the Cattle Diseases (Ireland) Bill passed through Committee. The Committee of inquiry on the Metropolitan Fire Brigade was nominated, and the Chancellor of Exchequer announced that the Khedive had sent a telegram requesting that Mr. Cave's Report on the Financial condition of Egypt be at once and without reservation presented to Parliament. The House cheered this announcement and then adjourned. On Monday, after some preliminary business, the House went into Committee of Ways and Means, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer delivered his Budget speech, the main points in which were these: The Estimated Revenue for the past year was greatly exceeded. The estimated expenditure for the current year would show a considerable increase, owing to the necessity for increased expenditure in connection with the Army, Navy, and Civil Service, and this increase would not be met by a corresponding increase of Revenue. Therefore, the Chancellor proposed to charge an increased penny for the Income Tax, at the same time relieving all those persons the smallness of whose incomes entitled them to consideration. Thus all incomes under £150, instead of £100, were to be exempt, while instead of granting relief to the extent of £80 on incomes ranging from £100 to £300, there would be no charge on £120 in the case of incomes ranging from £150 to 140. Mr. Dodson, Mr. Hubbard, and other members having addressed the Committee, progress was reported, and the House resumed, but only to go into Committee on the Merchant Shipping Bill. Sundry amendments to clause 5 were proposed, some being rejected, while others were acceded to. When the 6th clause was reached, progress was reported. On Monday Mr. Sullivan moved a resolution on the subject of Irish Whisky, but was defeated. A motion by Sir J. Kennaway, about the East African Slave Trade, was agreed to, after a pretty long discussion. A resolution by Sir J. McKenna, that the general state of Ireland did not justify the retention of the powers conferred on Government under the Peace Preservation (Ireland) Act was ultimately withdrawn. On Wednesday the debate on the second reading of Mr. Dixon's Elementary Education Act (1870) Amendment Bill occupied well nigh the whole of the sitting. Mr. Sandford moved that it be rejected. Mr. Bright supported his colleague for Birmingham, and Viscount Sandon opposed on behalf of the Government. On a division, the Bill was rejected by 281 to 160. On Thursday, after a preliminary skirmish or two, the House went into Committee on Ways and Means. Mr. Hubbard's motion on the Income Tax was defeated by 156 to 84. Mr. C. Lewis then moved a resolution, that the Income Tax be retained at twopence, but it was rejected. The Budget resolutions were then agreed to and reported. The House then went into Committee on the Merchant Shipping Bill, and having reached clause 14 resumed.

The Queen, during her brief stay in Germany, has been staying at the Villa Hohenlohe, Baden Baden, the residence of her deceased half sister. On Wednesday she paid a visit to the Prince and Princess (H.R.H. Princess Alice) Louis of Hesse, at Darmstadt. The Emperor William's journey to see Her Majesty has been postponed in consequence of a severe cold, and if this continues, there is a chance it may not take place at all. The Queen's return to England is fixed for an early day.

Our last intelligence respecting the movements of the Prince of Wales left him at Cairo, where he was being most cordially entertained by the Khedive. Since then he has taken farewell of the Egyptian capital. Having left Alexandria he has at length reached Malta, where preparations were being carried out on the grandest scale possible. The Maltese have evidently determined to do him honour, and will succeed in making the day of his visit a dies festus in the annals of their island. From Malta the Prince will sail for Gibraltar, and it is expected his visit to this key to the Mediterranean will last some days. Here, too, he will meet with the first member of our Royal Family since he quitted these shores in October last, his brother, the Duke of Connaught, holding an appointment on the staff of the officer commanding the garrison. From Gibraltar the Prince will go to Lisbon, and it is even rumoured that he may pay a visit to King Alphonso at Madrid. And Lisbon reached, it will not be many days ere Portsmouth will be en fête, and His Royal Highness once more at home amongst us.

Another of the annual Inter-University contests has been determined, and Oxford has secured the victory. The Chess Match between seven picked players of each University was played at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, and after a keen struggle, Oxford was declared winner by twelve games to five. The boards were supplied by Bro. Morgan, of 67 Barbican. Yesterday, too, was a brilliant day at Lillie Bridge, for the Oxford and Cambridge Athletic contest was held there. The result will appear in our next. To-day the vexed question, which is the better of the two crews—Oxford or Cambridge—will be determined. No doubt our readers are as well posted as we are in the doings of the rival Blues since Friday last. Both are powerful crews, the average per man in each case being close upon twelve stone, nor, according to the experts, is there any considerable difference between them as regards merit. This being so, a splendid struggle may be anticipated this afternoon. In one particular there will be a departure from the arrangements of former years. The Hammersmith Suspension Bridge will be closed to all traffic at twelve o'clock to-day, and not re-opened till the race is over. This step has been thought necessary, in consequence of the report of Captain Tyler of the Board of Trade, to the effect that danger to life and limb might be anticipated, if the bridge were crowded as at previous contests.

On Sunday, Lieutenant Cameron arrived at Liverpool, and though, owing to the uncertainty that prevailed as to the time of his arrival and the general quietness of the day, there were few present to greet him, no sooner was it known that he had landed there, than the Mayor and town authorities did their best to offer him a hearty welcome. It will be in the recollection of our readers that this gallant young officer was in the first instance placed in command of the Livingstone Relief Expedition. When, however, the news of that noble African explorer's death reached Zanzibar, Cameron resolved to penetrate into the interior, and at the outset was able to recover some of Livingstone's notes which had been accidentally left behind at Ujiji. Cameron then continued his journey, and at length discovered that the Lualaba of Livingstone was an outlet of Lake Tanganiyaka, and was none other than the great river Congo, which empties itself into the Atlantic Ocean. Cameron then followed the course of the Congo as closely as he could, and ultimately reached the Portuguese settlements on the West Coast, having traversed the whole distance between there and the coast over against Zanzibar on foot. Lieutenant Cameron left at an early date for his home at Shoreham, where he met with an enthusiastic welcome. We shall very soon learn more of this achievement, for the Royal Geographical Society is making the needful preparations for giving a fitting reception to this gallant officer.

Digitized by Google

Saturday, at the Alexandra Palace, was marked by the revival of Handel's oratorio of Susanna. The revival was a great success, though not as great, perhaps, as was that of Esther. Mr. H. Weist Hill was the conductor, and very ably he fulfilled his task. The principal singers were Miss Anna Williams, Miss Julia Elton, Mr. Shakespeare, and Signor Foli. The chorus were evidently well-trained, and performed their part admirably. The band, also, played well, while Mr. Archer presided at the organ with his accustomed ability. The other attractions during the week have been of the usual character, and have been well attended. The Easter festivities will be on a grand scale, if we may judge from the very formidable list of arrangements announced in the printed bills. On Monday, there will be a trotting match, and on Good Friday there will be a grand sacred musical festival, when Mr. Sims Reeves is engaged to sing. Six military bands, including those of the Coldstreams, Grenadiers, and 2nd Life Guards, will take part in the festival. On Easter Monday will be produced a grand spectacular extravaganza, entitled Turco the Terrible.

Barnet, a small town on the confines of Middlesex and Hertford, is not unknown to the student of English History. Four hundred and five years ago come next Friday, was fought, on Gladsmuir Heath, the Battle of Barnet, when the forces of the last of the Barons, Richard Earl of Warwick, the celebrated king maker, fighting for Lancastrian Henry VI., were defeated by the Yorkist, Edward IV., and Warwick himself, with his brother Montagu, slain. Barnet, too, is notorious for its horse fair, held in the early days of September. It is not, perhaps, a very imposing place; it has a church and a grammar school, a very comfortable hotel, yclept the Red Lion, where our worthy Bro. Fisher does all he can to please the visitors who frequent his hostelry, and a Police Station. It has also a famous mineral spring. In one sense it may be compared to eternity, for what with Chipping Barnet, High Barnet, Fryern Barnet, New Barnet, East Barnet, West Barnet, and, for aught we know, a variety of other Barnets, it seems to have neither beginning nor end. Still it is a pretty and a comfortable place, and sorry are we to learn that on Wednesday, the peace of its inhabitants was sorely disturbed by the invasion of one Ahmed Kenealy, son of the notorious Dr. Kenealy. He, it seems, came with the avowed object of establishing a local Magna Charta Association, and a resolution to form one was actually agreed to. But the meeting was not distinguished by temperance, in speech or conduct, though it was held in a Temperance Hall. We are not by any means surprised that a part of the audience howled down Mr. Ahmed Kenealy when he attacked the Royal Titles Bill, and talked abusively of the Prince of Wales's visit to India. We hold that every man should be able to speak freely; but it was hard on respectable Barnet that a Kenealy should enter its precincts for the sole purpose, as far as we can make out, of exciting the passions of its lowest and least reputable inhabitants. We do not think we should have been seriously grieved had it been Mr. Kenealy himself instead of an unfortunate boy who made his exit from the hall through the window. Mr. Kenealy and his riotous followers would have sung very small indeed had any of the grim old Barons of the true Magna Charta days been present. They would soon have taught him and them the difference between the true and the counterfeit Magna Charta.

The annual general meeting of the members of the Royal General Theatrical Fund was held on Wednesday, at the Lyceum Theatre, Mr. Swinbourne, in the absence of Mr Buckstone, occupying the chair. The Balance Sheet showed a total capital of £12,946 2s 6d; namely, invested in New Three Per Cents £12,039 7s 3d, Freehold Ground Rents £240, Cash at Bankers £304 8s 11d, Lacy Bequest Fund £301 19s, in Treasurer's hands £60 7s 4d. The Treasurer and retiring directors (with the exception of Mr. Rayner, who withdrew) were re-elected, and Mr. Edgar was elected Secretary. Mr. Gaston Murray announced that Mr. Alfred de Rothschild would preside at the next annual festival, which would be held at Freemasons' Tavern, on the 7th June next. A vote of thanks to the Chairman terminated the proceedings.

Many times lately have we expressed ourselves dissatisfied with the perverse and highly capricious conduct of the Clerk of the Weather, who neither vouchsafed to us a gleam of sunshine for months together, nor allowed us to know if we were to experience heat or cold for two consecutive days. Therefore it is we feel bound to offer him our hearty thanks for having accorded us pretty nearly a whole week of bright spring weather, and if it remain as fine as it is now much longer, we may have to thank him for bright flowers, fresh vegetables, and luscious fruit.

A dreadful accident occurred at Aberdeen on Wednesday afternoon, by which it is believed over thirty persons perished by drowning. There is, it seems, a ferry service over the Dee, plying between the principal thoroughfares of the city. Though there is a suspension bridge a short way out of Aberdeen, the people prefer coming by this ferry. Wednesday being a general holiday, the boats were largely patronised, and it became more and more difficult as the day advanced to prevent them being overcrowded. At length so many had entered for one of the journeys that the boatmen in charge refused to proceed till some of the passengers had alighted, but before any could disembark some persons in the middle seized the machinery and set the boat in motion. When in mid stream the boat met the full force of the current and was swamped, and all the passengers, to the number of about sixty, were thrown into the water. Only about twenty-nine were rescued, and of these one has since died from exhaustion. The accident has caused terrible excitement, and active dredging and trawling operations are being carried on with a view to the recovery of the bodies.

Another trial of the 81-ton gun took place the same afternoon at Woolwich, in the presence of the Prince Imperial of France, Lord Cardwell, the Earl of Cadogan, under Secretary for War, and a number of officials and visitors, among the former being General Sir Lintorn Simmons, Inspector-General of Fortifications, and General Adye, the present Governor of the Woolwich Academy. The cartridges were of 250 lbs., and 200 lbs of powder, and the projectiles weighed nearly 1,500 lbs. The details of the trial were registered in the usual manner, and then the company repaired to the gun factories for the purpose of witnessing a number of interesting operations. The Prince afterwards rode back to Chiselhurst, attended by Count Clary.

There is a split in the Orton camp. On Monday evening an excited meeting was held at the Jerusalem Tavern, Clerkenwell-green, Mr. Whalley, M.P., being the hero of the hour. The object of the meeting was to consider whether Dr. Kenealy was sincere in his advocacy of the cause of the Claimant, and Mr. Whalley strongly denounced the Doctor's conduct of the Claimant's case. Among the speakers who followed, one was loud in his denunciations of the Magna Charta business. The conduct of the Kenealyites who were present was naturally uproarious, and the interruptions were both frequent and abusive. We must congratulate ourselves on this good fortune. There is, at last, it seems, a prospect that the Orton case may pass away into oblivion, and the sooner the better, say we.

There is little in the way of foreign news to record. It has been officially announced that the state of siege in Paris has been raised. A demonstration was made at the funeral of General Cremer, a Republican. The new opera, "Jeanne d'Arc," has been given at the new opera house, and we are informed that everything is considered admirable but the music. There is also to be another Paris Universal International Exhibition, to be opened on the 1st

Digitized by Google

May and closed on 31st October. There has been another outbreak in Bosnia, and on the other hand Baron Rodich, Austrian Commissioner, has entered on negociations with the insurgent chiefs. From Washington we learn that Mr. Dana's nomination, as United States Minister to Great Britain, has been rejected by the Senate by 36 to 17 votes, and further, that the Senate has been sworn as a Court of Impeachment in the Belknap case, and that the 17th inst. is fixed for the trial.

Bro. Charles Morton has taken the Duke's Theatre, Holborn, and the Hague Minstrels will appear there on the 10th inst. Bro. W. Holland will produce, on the 15th inst., at the Surrey Theatre, a new nautical drama, by Mr. F. Hay, entitled, "From Stem to Stern."

The "Maria Wood" (late the Corporation Barge) will be moored off the Duke's Bathing Place, Chiswick, on the day of the University Boat Race. A military band will be in attendance, and a cabin will be set apart for ladies. Refreshments will be supplied by Bros. Ritter and Clifford, of Hammersmith, and the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street.

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

SATURDAY, 8th APRIL.

Quarterly General Court, Girls' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 12.0.
198—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.
1201—Commercial, Freemasons' Hall, Leicester.

MONDAY, 10th APRIL.

Quarterly Meeting, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
45—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's Square, Clerkenwell, at 8. (Instruction.)
90—St. John's, Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, E.C.
174—Sincerity, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
957—Leigh, Freemasons' Hall, W.C.
63—Royal Clarence, Freemasons' Hall, Bristol.
104—St. John's, Ashton House, Grosk-street, Stockport.
431—Commercial, Flying Horse Hotel, Nottingham.
580—Druids' Love and Liberality, Clinton Arms Hotel, Redruth.
670—Star in the East, Pier Hotel, Harwich.
695—Montague, Royal Lion, Lyme Regis.
1021—Hartington, Masonic Hall, Custom House Buildings, Hindport-road, Barrow-in-Furness.
1069—United Brothers, Castle Hotel, Southsea.
1073—Greta, Court-buildings, Keswick.
1253—Traveller's, Queen's Hotel, Manchester.
1350—Fermor Hesketh, Masonic Temple, Hope-street, Liverpool.
1388—Baldwin, The Castle, Dalton-in-Furness.
M.M. 173—Temple, Green Dragon, Stepney, E.
R. C. 13—Athenæum, Lancaster.

TUESDAY, 11th APRIL.

55—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
860—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
1538—St. Martin's-le-Grand, Masons' Hall Tavern, Basinghall-street, E.C.
Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, at 6.30.
23—Social, Freemasons' Hall, Norwich.
264—Shakespeare, Masonic Room, High-street, Warwick.
434—Union, Masonic Hall, Grey Friars'-road, Reading.
892—Royal Edward, Royal Oak, Leominster.
903—Gosport, India Arms Hotel, High-street, Gosport.
1259—Benevolent, Red Lion, Leytonstone, at 8. (Instruction.)
1350—Gilbert Greenhall, Masonic Rooms, Sankey-street, Warrington.
1384—Equity, Walker's Commercial Hotel, Wilton.
1468—Cuckfield, Talbot Hotel, Cuckfield, Sussex.
1503—Royal Naval College, Ship Hotel, Greenwich.
M. M.—Shakespeare, Masonic Room, High-street, Warwick.

WEDNESDAY, 12th APRIL.

Committee, Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, Freemasons' Hall, at 3.
15—Kent, Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street.
47—Virtuous, White Hart, College-street, Lambeth.
147—Justice, White Swan, High-street, Deptford.
201—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
205—St. Marylebone, Eyre Arms Tavern, St. John's Wood.
1324—Duke of Connaught, Havelock Tavern, Alton-road, Bolton, at 8.0. (Instruction.)
196—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover. (Instruction.)
201—Charity and Sincerity, Clarke's Hotel, Taunton.
241—Fortitude, Athenæum, Lancaster.
814—St. John and St. Paul's, Pier Hotel, Erith, Kent.
866—Benevolence, Private Room, Prince Town, Dartmoor, Devon.
881—Westland of Felpersham, Sterne Hotel, Worthing.
1108—Grey Friars, Masonic Hall, Reading.
1151—Duke of Lancaster, Athenæum, Lancaster.
1421—Brownfield, Assembly Rooms, Old Brompton, Chatham.
M. M. 145—Constantine, Turtle Dove Hotel, Colchester.

THURSDAY, 13th APRIL.

3—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, London-street, Fitzroy-square, at 7.0. (Instruction.)
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
201—Friendship, Ship and Turtle, Leadenhall-street.
261—Bank of England, Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, E.C.
435—Silentary, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 8. (Instruction.)
534—British National, Freemasons' Hall, W.C.
657—Canonbury, Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street.
860—Dalhousie, Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, E.C.
934—Doric, Earl Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1260—Hervey, 153 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instructing.)
1469—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

THURSDAY—continued.

55—Molina, 86 High-street, Crewe.
179—Unanimity, Crown Hotel, Penrith, Cumberland.
903—Benevolence, Masonic Hall, Bridgeland-street, Bideford, Devon.
946—Yarranton, Masonic Hall, Caroline-street, Longton, Stafford.
732—Royal Brunswick, Royal Pavilion, Brighton.
739—Temperance, Masonic Room, New-street, Birmingham.
946—Abbey, Abbey Council Chamber, Abingdon, Berks.
1065—Derby, Knowsley's Hotel, Cheetham, Lancashire.
1090—St. George's, Private Room, Temperance Hall, Tredegar, Mon.
1314—Royal's, Bells Yew Hotel, Malvern, Worcestershire.
1429—Albert Edward Prince of Wales, Masonic Hall, Newport, Mon.

SATURDAY, 15th APRIL.

198—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

SATURDAY.

142—Peace, Masonic Rooms, Malham.
930—Prince George, Station House, Bottoms, Eastwood.

MONDAY.

296—Royal Brunswick, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
902—Hope, New Masonic Hall, Darley-street, Bradford.
907—Prince Frederick, White Horse Hotel, Hebden Bridge.
927—St. John's, Masonic Temple, Halifax-road, Dewsbury.
1221—Defence, Masonic Hall, Carlton-hill, Leeds.
R. A. 154—Unanimity, Freemasons' Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield.
R. A. 496—Wakefield, Freemasons' Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield.

TUESDAY.

448—St. James's, Freemasons' Hall, St. John's-place, Halifax.
496—Wakefield, Masonic Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield.
605—Zetland, Royal Hotel, Clarkhouse.
1362—Olicana, Crescent Hotel, Ilkley.
1445—Bolton, Angel Inn, Bolton.
R. A. 366—Judea, Masonic Club, Hanover-street, Keighley.
R. A. 389—Fidelity, Masonic Hall, Carlton-hill, Leeds.

WEDNESDAY.

290—Huddersfield, Masonic Hall, South Parade, Huddersfield.
709—Friendship, Freemasons' Hall, Railway-street, Cleckheaton.
1038—Shakespeare, Freemasons' Hall, Salem-street, Bradford.
R. A. 367—Moravian, Masonic Hall, Westgate, Shipley.

THURSDAY.

170—Britannia, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
433—Scientific, Private Room, Bingley.
971—Trafalgar, Private Room, Commercial-street, Batley.
R. A. 298—Three Grand Principles, Masonic Hall, Dewsbury.
R. A. 347—Good Intent, White Horse Hotel, Hebden Bridge.
R. A. 357—Confidence, Private Rooms, Commercial Inn, Upperm'll.

FRIDAY.

458—Aire and Calder, Private Rooms, Ouse-street, Goole.
1061—Harrogate and Claro, Masonic Rooms, Parliament-street, Harrogate.
1108—Mirfield, Assembly Rooms, Easthorpe, Mirfield.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

240—St. Hilda, Freemasons' Hall, Fowler-street, South Shields.
481—St. Peter, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
940—Williamson, Royal Hotel, Monkwearmouth.

TUESDAY.

80—St. John, Masonic Hall, Park-terrace, Sunderland.
764—Harbour of Refuge, Freemasons' Hall, Upper Church-street, West Hartlepool.

WEDNESDAY.

661—Fawcett, Masonic Hall, North-road, Seaham Harbour.

THURSDAY.

97—Palatine, Masonic Hall, Park Terrace, Sunderland.
901—Tyne, Masonic Hall, Willington-quay.
K. T. 118—Mount Grace, Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-road, Stockton-on-Tees.

IRELAND.

FRIDAY—179—St. John's, Castle-street, Lisburn, County Antrim.

SCOTLAND.

TUESDAY—43—St. John, Fort William.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

MONDAY—145—St. Stephen, St. James's Hall, Writer's-court.
TUESDAY—1—Mary's Chapel, Waterloo Hotel, Waterloo-place.
WEDNESDAY—2—Canongate, Kilwinning, St. John's Chapel, St. John's-street.
" R. A. 1—Edinburgh, Freemasons' Hall.
THURSDAY—8—Journeymen, Blackfriars-street, High-street.
FRIDAY—60—Canongate, Kilwinning, St. John's-street.

GLASGOW DISTRICT.

MONDAY.—102—St. Mark's, 213 Buchanan-street.
" 382—St. Clair, 25 Robertson-street.
" 514—Athole, Washington Hotel, Kirkintilloch.
" 561—St. George, Odd Fellows' Hall, Helensburgh.
" 580—Marie Stewart, Freemasons' Hall, Crosshill.
TUESDAY—414—Anchor, 234 Buchanan-street.
" 419—Neptune, 25 St. James-street.
" 426—Prince of Wales, High-street, Renfrew.
" 448—Hiram, 24 Struthers-street.
" 543—St. Ada, Masonic Hall, Dalmuir.
" R. A. 49—St. Andrew, 170 Buchanan-street.
WEDNESDAY—177—Scotia, 170 Buchanan-street.
" 333—St. George, 213 Buchanan-street.
" 536—Maryhill, 367 Main-street, Maryhill.
THURSDAY—98—New Monkland, Town Hall, Airdrie.
" 550—Kenneth, Freemasons' Hall, Springburn.
" R. A. 50—Glasgow, 213 Buchanan-street.
FRIDAY—44—Kilwinning, Masons Hall, Stewarton.
" 116—Royal Arch, Council Hall, Rutherglen.
" R. A. 144—St. Rollox, Freemasons' Hall, Garscadden-road.
SATURDAY—523—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall, East Kilbride.
" 546—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall, Coatbridge.

Digitized by Google

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Glasgow Kilwinning Lodge, No. 4.—This Lodge held its regular meeting in their own hall, Buchanan-street, on the 5th April, R. Prout R.W.M. presiding, assisted by Bros. Sage D.M., Jamison S.W., G. Holmes J.W., J. McKean Treas., J. A. Riddel S.D., and G. Ramsay Tyler. The Lodge was opened in the 1st degree, and a petition presented from Mr. Daniel Carlisle. At the request of the Master, Bro. J. Morgan, R.W.M. of the Star, 219, performed the ceremony in his well known style, for which he received the thanks of the Lodge. The case of a distressed brother, at present in the Western Infirmary, was then considered, and steps taken to relieve him on his coming out. Visitors present—Bros. Wheeler 73, J. Morgan R.W.M. 219, R. Mitchel P.M. 332, Fergerson P.M. 543, Law P.M. 570.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge was held at Bro. Gay's, Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell, E.C., on Monday, the 3rd instant, Bro. Beckett presided. Present—Bros. Tolmie S.W., Saul J.W., Pearcy I.G., Killick Hon. Sec. The fifteen sections were worked by Bros. Killick, Lake, Pearcy, Saul, Bentley, Tolmie, Sadler, G. H. Cook, and Mitchell. A vote of thanks to Bro. Beckett was unanimously carried. Bro. Pearcy will preside next Monday. The ceremonies and sections are worked in this Lodge at every meeting.

Lodge of Industry, No. 48, Gateshead.—Monday, 27th March, being the day of installation, the Lodge was opened by Bro. B. Gregory W.M., and there was a goodly attendance of the Craft to witness the ceremony, Bro. J. D. Stephen having been accepted by the brethren. Bros. J. E. Robson and J. J. Clay acted as Installing Masters, and Bro. Dr. R. F. Cook as D.C. Bro. Stephen having been inducted into the chair of K.S., subscribed to the ancient formulas of the Order. Amongst those present were Bros. W. H. Crookes Prov. G. Sec. Durham, R. B. Lotert P.P.G.S.D. Durham, W. Liddell P.P.G.D. Durham, J. J. Clay P.M. 97, Jos. Cook Prov. G.J.D. Northumberland, J. E. Robson P.M. 48, W. Lean P.M. 1087, W. Laing S.W. 659, T. Bleckinsop P.P.G.D. Northumberland, A. Barker W.M. 1342, R. Candlish P.M. 661, G. A. Allan P.M. 991, P.P.G.D. Northumberland, T. Dawson 424, T. Patton 48, J. T. Smith 48, T. White 48, J. H. Thompson P.M. 48, P.P.G.S.B. Durham, R. Smaile Prov. G.S.W. Northumberland, T. S. Miller J.W. 424, J. G. Smith 48, A. Riley P.M. 138, R. F. Cook P.M. 48, P.P.G.S.D. Durham, R. Humphrey P.P.G.S.D. Durham, Jas. Humphrey S.W. 97, W. Richardson 48, A. Lawrie S.W. 991, E. Waketield 48, G. Hewitt 48, J. Grieves 48, J. Atkinson P.M. 481, Prov. G. Supt. Works, Northumberland, M. Taylor 659, P. Harrison 48, J. G. Robertson 48, J. Montgomery J.W. 991. The W.M. invested the following as his officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. D. Sinclair S.W., J. G. Waddington J.W., R. Gregory P.M. and Treas., R. F. Cook D.C., M. Corbitt Sec., J. H. Rowell S.D., R. Whitfield J.D., J. Wood I.G., R. Tate S.S., T. Simm J.S., E. Liddell A.S., R. Ferry Org., J. Curry Tyler. The brethren afterwards adjourned to Bro. Jas. Tait's, Grey Horse Tavern, where they partook of an excellent repast. An orchestral band discoursed sweet music during the banquet, and the evening was agreeably enlivened by the following musical brethren, viz. Bros. D. Whitehead, J. Walker, and J. Nutton, from the Cathedral Choir, Durham, also Bros. R. Dewar jun., A. S. Dounison, J. Liddell, R. Ferry and R. Dewar sen.

Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73.—This Lodge held its meeting on Tuesday, 4th inst., at Glasgow, Bro. G. McDonald R.W.M., J. Bannerman D.M., A. McLeod S.W., J. Handbridge J.W., R. Richard Sec. Two candidates, Messrs. John Miller and Mitchell Read, were carefully initiated, after which Bro. G. W. Wheeler passed Bro. David Fraser to the degree of Fellow Craft. The Rev. Joseph Rice, M.A., of Acacia Lodge, 225, Dublin, and George Innis, S.W. of St. John, 292, Rothesay, were then proposed as honorary members, and seconded by Bro. Wheeler on behalf of the Lodge, which was then closed in harmony.

Hawton Mark Lodge, No. 100.—The annual meeting of the brethren of this Lodge was held on Thursday, 30th March, in the lodge-room at Ivybridge, Devon, when Bro. Boxall P.G.P. was installed as W.M. for the ensuing year. The ceremony of installation was ably and impressively performed by V.W. Bro. C. Goldschalk P.M. 66, P.P.G.D.C., supported by a numerous body of Installed Masters. The brethren present included Bros. V. Bird P.G.M.O. of England, and Prov. G.S., S. Chapple P.G.D.C. of England, J. B. Gover P.G.T., J. Baxter P.P.S.D., E. A. Davies P.P.G.J.D., H. Cole P.G.S., J. Brown P.P.G.P., J. H. Toms P.S.B., Gidley P.M. &c. The installation being over, the W.M. appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. Cole I.P.M., Toms S.W., Sanderer J.W., Searle M.O., Sawyer S.O., Seobell J.O., Toms Treasurer, Searle Secretary and Registrar, Metherell S.D., Mallett J.D., Pearse O., Patterson and Ley Stewards, Short I.G., Ford Tyler. Before the proceedings terminated, the W.M. asked Bro. Samuel Jew's acceptance, in the name of the Lodge, of a P.M.'s jewel, in recognition of the valuable and constant service he has rendered to the Lodge since it has been in existence. Bro. Boxall spoke in the highest terms of Bro. Jew's services, and expressed a fear that the jewel was but a very slight reward for all that he had done on their behalf. Bro. Jew, in acknowledging the gift, assured the brethren that if he had done anything to assist them it had been done willingly and heartily, because he took a deep interest in the work, and felt that he was called upon to do all in his power to uphold the true principles of Freemasonry in all its branches. The Lodge was then closed in due form.

Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, No. 174.—This Lodge met at Bro. Seaton's, Railway Tavern, Fenchurch-street, on Monday evening. The fifteen sections were worked by Bros. Horsley, Dorio 933, Crawley P.M. 174 as S.W., Webb I.G. 174 as J.W., Austin P.M. 933 as P.M. The following brethren assisted:—

First Lecture.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. Salmonese, 27.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. A. H. Brown, 174.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. Crane, 933.
4th "	... ...	Bro. Austin, P.M. 933.
5th "	... ...	Bro. Gross, I.G. 1278.
6th "	... ...	Bro. Williams, 933.

Second Lecture.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. Cambridge, J.W. 15.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. Webb, I.G. 174.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. Ellis, 933.
4th "	... ...	Bro. Brient, 933.
5th "	... ...	Bro. Lowe, 1,364.

Third Lecture.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. F. Brown, 174.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. Wallington, W.M. 860.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. Crawley, P.M. 174.

Among the brethren present, in addition to those already named, we noticed Bros. J. S. Fraser, W. Fraser, Wintle, Bradstock, Ball, Levy, Oxley, Wells, Musto, Watkins, Hogarth, Poole, Hocking, Ashburner, Chapman, Johnson, Nailor, and Pitt.

Lodge of Joppa, No. 188.—The usual meeting of this prosperous Lodge was held on Monday, 3rd April, at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. Present—Bros. A. G. Dodson W.M., L. Lazarus S.W., J. Miller J.W., L. Auerhaan Treasurer, E. P. Albert A.G.P. Secretary, M. Spiegel J.D., H. Hymans I.G., A. J. Campion D.C., H. P. Isaac and Baker Stewards; P.M.'s L. Alexander and H. M. Levy; Bros. Fitchett, R. Emanuel, E. Davey, I. Botibol, Louisson, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed, Bros. Clark and Davey were passed to the 2nd degree, Bro. Smith was raised to the 3rd degree, and Mr. J. Riebold was duly initiated. Three propositions were given for initiation, after which the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to slight refreshment. The W.M. proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. E. P. Albert A.G.P. returned thanks for the Grand Officers. Bro. L. Alexander P.M., as President, replied to the toast of the Benevolent Fund, and the new initiate, Bro. Riebold, returned thanks for his health, and gave a guinea to the Benevolent Fund. The toast of the W.M. was proposed by Bro. L. Alexander, and duly responded to. The toasts of the P.M.'s, Visitors, Wardens and Officers was given. Bro. Pulman W.M. 720 responding for the Visitors, who were Bros. H. J. Young 209, B. Newton 1201, Brown 174 and Ryan 209. Some very excellent singing emanated from the W.M., Bros. Jennings, Mayers, Fitchett and H. P. Isaac. The brethren separated early.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Wednesday, the 5th instant, at the Masons' Hall, Masons' Avenue, Basinghall-street, City, E.C. Present—Bros. W. C. Corner W.M., Triggs S.W., Croaker J.W., J. K. Pitt Sec., J. Constable Treasurer, Turner S.D., Gomm J.D., Felton I.G., Christopher Tyler. Past Master Bro. E. Gottheil, Preceptor. Business—Lodge opened, and minutes read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Steers being the candidate. Bro. Corner, who took the chair on this occasion for the first time, performed his duties in a very able and impressive manner, and received the congratulations of all present. Bro. Gottheil worked the 1st and 2nd sections of the lecture. Bros. A. H. Brown, Steers, and Turner were elected joining members. Bro. Turner was appointed W.M. for next meeting. A vote of thanks was unanimously given to Bro. Corner for his efficient conduct in the chair. Bros. Defries, Turquand, and Bush were appointed auditors.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—The usual meeting of this Lodge was held at Bro. Fysh, Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, corner of Church-road, Islington, on Saturday, the 1st instant. Present—Bros. Read W.M., Stock S.W., Powell J.W., Goddard S.D., Massey J.D., Walesby I.G., Pearcy Preceptor, Halford Treasurer, Killick Hon. Sec. The Lodge having been opened, and the minutes confirmed, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Higgins being the candidate; after this several of the sections were worked. Bro. Stock was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The fifteen sections will be worked by Bro. G. Watt Verry P.M. 554, on Saturday, 29th instant.

Union Lodge, No. 332.—This Lodge held its regular meeting at 170 Buchanan-street, Glasgow, on 3rd April, the R.W.M. Bro. D. McKirdy presiding, assisted by J. B. McNair I.P.M., R. Mitchel D.M. and J. Balfour P.M., J. McInnis S.W., — Appercrson J.W., and most of the office bearers. There was one gentleman proposed for initiation, and an application was made on behalf of the Clyde Lodge, 408, to have a candidate initiated. This was readily granted, and the Master carefully initiated the two gentlemen. He then opened the Lodge in the Fellow Craft degree, and passed one brother. Thereafter Bro. McNair, on the Lodge being raised, conferred the sublime degree on two brethren.

East Surrey Lodge of Concord, No. 463.—This Lodge held its installation meeting on Thursday, the 6th inst., at the Greyhound Hotel, Croydon. Present—Bros. A. C. W. Ebbutt W.M., T. P. Dickin S.W., W. Sharp J.W., C. H. Woodward P.M. Secretary, Price P.M. Treasurer, J. Close S.D., George Yaxley J.D., C. H. Pocock I.G., Lynn Tyler. P.M.'s—Bros. Dosell, Podmore, Hunt, &c. Amongst the Visitors present were Bros. Turquand W.M. 1556, W. S. Masterman W.M. 452, Chatterton, Lloyd, Morgan, &c., &c. Business—At the time appointed, 4 o'clock, there was a large attendance of members. The Lodge was opened, and the preliminary business gone through. Bro. Alfred James Webley was then duly proposed and balloted for as a joining member of the Lodge, and Mr. William Thomas Gardner was proposed as a candidate for initiation. In each of these cases the result was favourable. Bro. Ebbutt now vacated the chair in favour of P.M. Bro. C. H. Woodward, to whom Bro. Dickin was introduced as the W.M. elect. A board of installed Masters was then formed, and Bro. Woodward performed the ceremony in a highly satisfactory way. After the new W.M. had been saluted in regular form, he appointed the following as his officers:—Bros. Sharp S.W., J. Close J.D., G. Price P.M. Treasurer, Woodward P.M. Secretary, Yaxley S.D., Pocock J.D., J. Streeter I.G., J. Rhodes Org., Lynn Tyler. The several charges were most impressively delivered. Mr. Gardner was then introduced, and the ceremony of initiation was successfully rendered by Bro. T. P. Dickin. Several propositions for joining and initiation were then handed in, and the Lodge was closed. A banquet followed, at which the W.M. presided. On the removal of the cloth the usual toasts were briefly proposed, and ample honour done to each. The W.M. referred to Her Most Gracious Majesty's visit to the Continent, and said he was sure the brethren present would join him in wishing her a speedy and safe return to this country. He also spoke of the M.W. Grand Master's visit to India. It was gratifying to note the reception that had everywhere been accorded him in that vast empire, and how he had endeared himself to all classes. The W.M., whose remarks were listened to with great satisfaction, concluded with the following lines:—

Digitized by Google

He holds no parley with unmanly fears,
Where duty bids he confidently steers;
Faces a thousand dangers at her call,
And, trusting in the Great Architect, surmounts them all!

In speaking to the toast of the Provincial Grand Master, the W.M. said that Major-General Brownrigg had been very kind to their Lodge in granting Provincial Grand Honours, but this was owing to the Past Masters, who were the right men in the right place. He hoped General Brownrigg might live long to preside over the province. The Provincial Grand Officers of the Province was next given, to which Bro. Price P.M. responded. The Secretary's toast followed, and received the usual honours accorded to that pointless feature at Masonic gatherings. Bro. Ebbutt I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M., who, in reply, said he felt a little doubtful as to his ability to occupy the chair, which had been filled by so many able men before him. However, he would do all in his power to uphold the interests of the Lodge, and he trusted his exertions would be recognised and appreciated by the members. The toast of the Past Masters was replied to by the I.P.M., Bro. Ebbutt. Bros. Morgan, Masterman, and Chatterton acknowledged that of the Visitors. The health of the Treasurer and Secretary brought forth able replies from each, and the Tyler's toast concluded a pleasant evening.

East Surrey Lodge of Concord (Instruction), No. 463, held its weekly meeting on Tuesday, the 4th of April, at the Fox and Hounds, West Croydon. Present—Bros. Dickin W.M., George Yaxley S.W., John Close J.W., Henry J. Pocock Sec., Ebbutt S.D., Ridge J.D., Streeter I.G., Wm. Sharp Preceptor, with a good muster of the brethren. Business—The first and second ceremonies were worked in an able manner. The brethren subscribed 19 guineas to the list of Bro. Sharp, who will act as Steward for the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.

St. James's Lodge, No. 482, Warwickshire.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on the 3rd of April, at New Inn, Handsworth, on which occasion Bro. Rowlands W.M. occupied the chair, and was supported by Bros. W. H. Ward S.W., W. E. Parkes M.D. J.W., J. J. Turner as S.D., J. H. Parkes as J.D., L. David I.G., W. J. Whittall P.P.G.R. Treasurer, W. Wykes Secretary, W. H. Poole Tyler. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. J. Barber, Freestone and Sharp were passed to the 2nd degree. The able manner in which the W.M. performed the ceremony deserves great commendation. The Masonic Charities were not forgotten, votes were signed to enable those who were entitled to them to give the candidates a chance for election. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet, where the W.M. presided in his happy and genial manner. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and the toast of the P.G.M. found a very able exponent in Bro. J. J. Turner P.M. P.P.G.W. of Warwickshire, the Senior P.M. of the Province, who replied with an eloquent speech. The toasts of the W.M., P.M.'s, and Visitors were given, and cordially responded to, also that of the Wardens and Officers. The W.M., and Bros. Priestly and Price, contributed to the harmony. The Visitors were Bros. Hutton P.M. 473, Rogers, Robinson, &c.

Dramatic Lodge, No. 871.—This Lodge met at 3 p.m. on the 5th April, at Glasgow, W. J. E. Dobson R.W.M., H. W. Jackson S.W., Wm. Severight J.W., D. Campbell Sec., R. S. Smyth S.D., J. B. Hardie T. A petition was presented on behalf of Mr. Galen Connel, who was very carefully initiated by the R.W.M. The Lodge was opened in the Fellow Craft degree, and Bro. Forgerson, P.M. of 543, passed Bro. Muir to that degree. Amongst the Visitors we noticed Bros. Prout R.W.M. No. 4, G. W. Wheeler and J. Allen 73, J. Kelso 127, McKirdy R.W.M. 332, J. Oliver S.W. 360, Forgerson 543, and Wm. Phillips R.W.M. 556.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—At the meeting on Tuesday last, at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, there was a fair attendance of Companions, who were presided over by Comps. Glackstein M.E.Z., J. Constable H., Wyer J., T. W. White Scribe E., Cox Scribe N. The ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed, Comp. Finney being the candidate. The ceremony of exalting the Principals was very ably performed by Comp. Leeman, who received the thanks of those present for his services. The fact that the time for the business of this Chapter of Improvement being limited should be borne in mind, and those who desire to attend should note that punctuality is very desirable—the time for commencing business is fixed for 6.30.

Erme Lodge, No. 1091.—The brethren of this Lodge met on Wednesday, 29th March, in their lodge-room at Ivybridge, Devon, when Bro. James Hill Toms was installed as W.M. for the coming year. The interesting ceremony was performed in an excellent manner by Bro. J. B. Gover P.P.G.A.D.C., assisted by Bro. S. Jew P.P.G.T., in the presence of a numerous company of brethren, amongst whom were Bros V. Bird P.P.G.T., S. Chapple P.P.A.D.C., J. Brown P.P.G.P., E. A. Davies P.P.G.S. Wks., C. Gottschalk P.M. 1255, J. Baxter P.M. 954, W. Boxall P.M. 1091, H. Cole P.M. 1091, B. Gidley P.M. 156, C. Mutten Secretary 1205, S. Hyne P.S.D. 1205, &c. The W.M. installed his officers as follow:—W. Boxall I.P.M., S. Sandover S.W., T. Searle J.W., H. Cole Treasurer, W. Boxall Secretary, G. Coleman S.D., W. H. Mackay J.D., Baker Organist, T. Barons D.C., R. Lavers A.D.C., T. E. Scobell S.S., and W. Arthur J.S., Sawyer I.G., and Ford Tyler. Bro. Cole then presented to Bro. S. Jew a handsome P.M.'s jewel, as a mark of his own personal respect and esteem, and also to mark the sense of the brethren at large of the great assistance which he had at all times rendered to the Lodge. The presentation was made amidst general applause, and was accompanied by some appropriate remarks from Bro. Gover, who bore testimony to Bro. Jew's zeal and earnestness on behalf of Freemasonry. Bro. Jew returned thanks in a few well-chosen words, similar to those which he used at the Mark meeting in the morning. The annual banquet of the Lodge was held in the afternoon, at the King's Arms Hotel, Bro. Toms, the W.M., presiding. A large company sat down, including Bros. V. Bird, S. Jew, J. B. Gover, S. Chapple, J. Brown, J. Baxter, E. A. Davies, J. Head P.M. 70, Cooper I.P.M. 105, R. A. Northy 105, and P.S.W. 1205, C. Mutten Secretary 1205, S. Hyne P.S.D. 1205, C. Rodda 105, J. Collins 70, Knight P.M. 202, C. Parsons J.W. 789, S. Sandover S.W. 1091, T. Searle J.W. 1091, G. Coleman S.D. 1091, J. P. Sawyer I.G. 1091, T. C. Barons D.C. 1091, R. Lavers A.D.C., Scobell S.S., W. Arthur J.S., B. Gidley P.M. 156, R. T. Quance 230, J. Justham 230, A. S. Distin P.S.W. 710, D. Sutherland 710, J. Cobbledick, W. H. Boon, M. Baker, W. Conway, T. D. Ford, W. Ware W. Treneman, &c. After dinner the usual Masonic toasts were given. The health of the Prince of Wales, as Grand Master of England, was proposed by Bro. Jew, and received with true Masonic enthusiasm, and with the usual honours. Bro. Gover proposed "The P.G.M., the D.P.G.M., and the P.G. Officers of Devon," and Bro. Chapple responded. The next toast was that of "the W.M. of 1091," proposed, in eulogistic terms, by Bro. Jew, who remarked that Bro. Toms was well known and highly respected throughout every part of the province, and under his guidance the Lodge was sure to progress and flourish (applause). Bro. Toms briefly acknowledged the compliment, and Bro. Bird responded for the "Visiting Brethren. The other toasts were "Masons' Wives and Sweethearts," humorously acknowledged by Bro. C. Rodda; "the Officers of the Lodge," "Sister Lodges," and "Our Poor and Distressed Brethren."

Southern Star Lodge, No. 1158.—The regular meeting of this Lodge took place on Tuesday, the 28th ult., at the Montpelier Tavern, Walworth. Bro. C. W. Wise W.M., G. Macdonald S.W., J. Walter J.W., Wright P.M. Treasurer, W. J. Newsham Assistant Secretary, Allen S.D., R. Harris J.D., S. Mith I.G., and Burr Organist. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Edis, Horsley, Glass, Beckwith and Woods were raised to the 3rd degree. Messrs. J. P. Williams and P. Skar were initiated. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. G. Macdonald was unanimously elected. Bro. Wright P.M. was re-elected Treasurer. Ten guineas was voted for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and a ten guinea jewel was voted to the retiring W.M. for the admirable manner he had conducted the duties of the chair during his year of office. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a banquet, supplied in Bro. Allatt's best style. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and some good speeches made. Among the visitors were Bros. Birt 141, Thomas Withers J.D., Thomas 134, Kellaway 192, Withers 211, Winkle P.M. 548, Shelford 705, Parker 753, Hoche 901, Boher 1416, &c.

Gladsmuir Lodge, No. 1385.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Friday, the 31st of March, at the Red Lion Hotel, Barnet. Present—Bros. James Cutbush W.M., Dr. Livingston S.W., Young J.W., G. Askew Sec., W. Cutbush P.M. Treas., J. Emerby I.G., Goddard Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. J. Lowthin, H. Edwards. Visitor—Bro. Cull. The usual preliminary business was gone through. A discussion in reference to the establishment of a Benevolent Fund in connection with the Lodge ensued, and the question was referred to a Committee, who are to report at the next meeting. Two propositions were handed in, and the Lodge was closed. A slight repast followed, and a pleasant evening was passed.

Halsey Lodge, No. 1479.—This Lodge held its installation meeting on Wednesday, the 5th inst., at the Town Hall, St. Albans. Present—Bros. G. Askew W.M., Webster P.M. as S.W., Palin W.M. 404 as W.M., P. Venables Secretary, John Parrott S.D., T. Kent J.D.,

Digitized by Google

W. Marks I.G., E. Kirby Tyler; P.M. Bro. John Lowthin Prov. G.S.W. Herts. Visitors—Bros. H. Campkin W.M. 403, Carter P.M. 403, J. Cathush W.M. 1385, &c. The minutes of last Lodge were read and confirmed, and Bro. F. R. Webster W.M. designate was presented by Bro. P.M. Lowthin, and duly installed into the chair of K.S. He invested his officers as follows:—Bros. Isaac Newton Edwards S.W., T. Kent J.W., Hall Secretary, W. Palin P.M. Treasurer, W. Marks S.D., A. H. Debenham J.D., C. Miskin D.C., Bridges Steward, C. W. Reynolds I.G., Kirby Tyler. The installation ceremony was performed by the retiring Master, Bro. Askew. A letter of regret was read from the R.W. Prov. G. Master, Bro. Halsey, at not being able to be present. Three gentlemen were proposed for ballot and initiation, and one as adjoining member. We have no doubt that this Lodge will soon become one of the strongest in the province; at the same time, we regret to see so many new faces amongst the officers for the current year. The Lodge being closed in due form, the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was served by Bro. Marks. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and a very enjoyable evening spent. Bro. Ilss P.G.S. made a very able speech in proposing the toast of the Masonic Charities.

TENTH ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF ST. ANDREW'S LODGE, No. 465.

THE tenth annual festival of this Lodge was held in the Hall of the Lodge, Garnegad-road, Glasgow, on 31st March, Bro. David Gilchrist R.W.M. presiding, and Bro. G. B. Davidson S.W. Croupier. The hall was completely filled with the brethren and their wives and sweethearts. Amongst the visitors we noticed a deputation from No. 28, St. John, Kirkintilloch, headed by Bro. Allen D.M., also brethren from No. 0, 73, 199, 382 and 570. On the dais the R.W.M., who was supported by R. Bell E.C. of St. Mungo Encampment K.T., G. W. Wheeler M.P.S. Conclave 114, Robert Atkinson R.W.M. 570, Wm. Campbell Secretary, and R. Donaldson Treasurer. The Croupier was supported by J. Anand Z. of Chapter 114, and J. Allan Deputy Master of 28. Full justice was done to a plentiful supply of substantial provisions. The following address was delivered by the Master:—"As we have met here this evening under the auspices of a Lodge of Freemasons, I wish to make a few remarks anent that grand and mysterious Order. I have no doubt but that Freemasonry took its origin from the operatives that were employed at the numerous buildings that have been erected, more especially those dedicated to the services of the Lord. I will endeavour to give you a brief illustration of one of those buildings. As we look on grey Jerusalem, within its fence of walls, and scan the time-worn features and faded beauty of the city, once great among nations, and prince among the provinces, standing there, over against the levelled summit, where the Crescent glitters on the dome of Islam's wisest Caliph, one cannot but feel time's shadow go backward on the dial; we behold the vision of Judah's golden days, the glory and the loveliness that have departed throned once more on the ancient height; the holy and beautiful house which God desired for his habitation; the shrine once luminous with the misty splendour of His presence, whence mingling voice and instrument sent up the melody of earth's holiest praise; the smoke of sacrifice, floating heavenward in unceasing token of the expiation, wavers through the cloud of years, and grows into bright form and exquisite proportion; again, we see it exalted on its munition of rocks, with its marble terraces and pillared cloisters, its ample courts thronged with the white-robed Paschal multitude, and its trellis of golden spikes flashing over its roof of cedar. A glorious building it seems, and we wonder not at those of old who thought it too fair and stately ever to pass away. Of what a wondrous series of events, linked with the highest destinies of man, has this external mount of Jerusalem been the scene. Looking down on the one side on the valley of Jehoshaphat, and on the sister hills of Zion and Asia, on the other over the narrow ravine that severed them of old, up its rocky sides, through the thicket that clothed it to the summit; it would seem that the Father of the chosen people led His son to the altar of his typical sacrifice. Long after, when David had wrested from the Canaanites their last stronghold on Zion, a Jebusite farmer had built his threshing floor on the neighbouring height, and there the King saw the Angel of the pestilence stand with sword outstretched over Jerusalem; there David built an altar, and often as he looked forth from his house of cedar on the sacred site the thought rose into his heart to build thereon a lasting Temple to the God of Israel. This work was not to be for him, but early in the reign of his peaceful son its foundation was laid in Mount Moriah. In the place that David had prepared, there the glorious fabric grew up, without sound of axe or hammer, into its majestic and harmonious completeness; the first Temple stood exceedingly magnificent. The Temple proper was never very large, but with its spacious courts and cloisters, its rich materials, its sumptuous decorations, its magnificent approaches from the royal dwelling on Zion, by a bridge or causeway, and flights of marble terraces winding up the steep ascent by which Solomon went up into the house of the Lord, it well deserved its renown. Near the south-western angle, not far from the Jewish wailing place, may be seen the spring of an ancient arch; perhaps the remains of a bridge, which joined the Temple Mount to the hill of Zion; if so, one may conceive the effect of this splendid arch, swinging in mid air over the valley of the Tyropeas, for it chained, by its marble links, the palace of cedar wood to the corridors of the Temple, oftentimes stormed and plundered. The first temple was at last burned to the ground by the armies of Babylon. And the daughters of Zion mourned, because none came to the solemn feasts. After many years the second Temple rose under the hand of Zerubbabel and his band of exiles. To those who remember the former house, with its Ark of the Covenant, and its outward and inward glories, the second must have seemed a rude and empty shell, a defaced casket, from which the jewel had been stolen, and so it was that the old Priests and Levites wept aloud, yet the glory of the latter house was to be greater than the former, for the desire of all nations was to appear within it. Through many troubled years and strange vicissitudes, it stands polluted by Antiochus, purified by the Maccabees, besieged by Pompey and his Jewish partisans in the furious faction fights of a later time. This Temple endured till Herod the Great, in his passion for costly buildings, resolved to restore it to all its earlier grandeur, a work not completed till our Lord had grown to manhood; forty-six years was this Temple in building. This was the Temple at whose altar the holy child was offered to God, whose chamber heard the first words of his boyish wisdom, in whose porches and arcades many of his parables were spoken; whose wide enclosure and pillared courts he often looked upon from Olivet. Earth had not any to show more fair, as it lay open in all its extent, covered by deep ravines from the garden of Zion, and the compact buildings of the city, and planting its sheer walls and colonnades on the edge of the steep, with its great eastern gates of Corinthian brass flashing in the sun, its tesselated pavement and lofty terraces ascending to the sacred porch, over which wreathed the colossal golden vine, a scene of strange fascination, as it rose on its embattled mount with all its courts steeped in golden sunlight, and its steps of delicate marble glowing in that sapphire air with a pure and dazzling whiteness as of snow. Such was the Temple of Solomon, from the building of which we date our present organisation. There are a great many things said against Freemasonry, that it is a secret institution; and as secrecy may be conjoined with wicked intentions and for wicked purposes, as well as the contrary, or used as a veil to conceal childish and demoralising ceremonies, which will not bear the scrutinising gaze of the world, it is argued that it would not be unreasonable to regard Masonry as a suspicious association, an anti-christian and anti-moral society, and as opposed to freedom and social order. From our societies being formed in secret, and our principles and proceedings enveloped in mystery, they appeal to it as an argument for this view. I most emphatically deny that any unworthy object of the kind alluded to in these insinuations can be imputed to Freemasonry. We meet periodically, and in secret, as do the bodies referred to above, but there all analogy between us ceases, they completely cloak their motives and actions with mystery, and studiously conceal even their names. It is not so with us; the text books of our Order disclose our constitutions and our qualifications, and make known to all who choose to investigate the subject, the symbols which we use and the beautiful moral lessons they are intended to inculcate, and the names of our officers and members are published to the world. But, you may ask, why observe secrecy at all? That is a curiosity I am not at liberty to satisfy, suffice it that we are associated together for no selfish or unhallowed purposes, we withdraw ourselves occasionally apart from the world, that we may be the better able, within the privacy of our sanctuaries, to divest our minds from the taint of worldly prejudices, and accomplish the objects of Love and Charity which have banded us together. These are assertions, but if any should doubt their truth I would ask, were our institution anti-christian in its character, or immoral in its tendency, is it at all probable that primates and bishops and religious men of every grade and denomination would be found enlisted under its banners? Were our ceremonies puerile or unmeaning, is it at all likely that Locke, Newton, La Place, Franklin, La Fayette, and Washington, and thousands of other men of name and fame, pre-eminent for their intellectual acquirements, moral worth, and sterling virtues, would be found bearing testimony in our favour; were our institution political in its character, think you that Princes and Patriots, Royalists and Republicans, Aristocrats and Democrats, would be found co-mingling in our ranks, proud of the badge with which they are invested. These are facts which none can controvert, and they tell more directly in favour of our association than the objections founded, as they are, on one of two opposite probabilities; they ought, until more direct and truthful evidence can be adduced against it, to satisfy every candid and reflecting person that Freemasonry is a laudable institution. The degrees of Masonry are numerous, but all are moral and are intended to impress upon the mind of its votaries important and serious truths; and if the seed thus sown arrives not at maturity, the fault is not with the sower, but with the soil in which it is sown. In no branch of Freemasonry does the political opinion of the applicant form, upon principle, any objection to his admission; there are, I allow, frequent occasions in which personal motives and political differences influence the rejection of applicants and deprive those who have been received into our Fraternity of promotion in the Order, I have, unfortunately, witnessed myself several instances of the kind, but this should not be adduced as a charge against the institution, for it is diametrically opposed to the landmarks and genius of the Order, and those who are guilty of thus permitting their petty worldly prejudices to govern their conduct within the precints of the Lodge, though they may be entitled to wear our badge and to use our distinctive appellation are in reality exotic men who, by their gross departure from the principles they hypocritically profess, forfeit every claim to be considered as either Masons or Christians, for they know not how to control their evil passions or to forgive their enemies; they have no charity. That Freemasonry will ever have its enemies is to be expected, therefore it behoves every individual member of the institution to exercise constant vigilance over all his words and actions; let us walk worthily in the path of our duty, making ourselves intimately acquainted with all the details of our Order, practising its requirements; let us not for an instant relax our exertions in the cause of truth until the benign principles of charity, morality and brotherly love shall be spread abroad throughout all the land; let us encourage each other in the good work of clearing the Temple from the rubbish that may have accumulated, then may the children of Masonry rise from the grave of lethargy, clothed in the glorious drapery of the Sons of Light, and, though last not least, in the admission and rejection of applicants let us act Masonically; let no man, be his station in society the most exalted or his wealth untold, be admitted on account of either of those considerations; his habits and his character are the chief, if not the sole standards, by which he should be weighed or we influenced, nor should any person be rejected on personal motives, for to allow private pique or self-consideration to bias our votes would assuredly be a gross violation of those principles which we profess, and which should ever govern our institutions. Let the demons of evil passion and self-interest be for ever banished from our breasts, and let charity prevail, and thus, by the superior rectitude of our conduct, we shall silence the factious, obtain the praise of the worthy, and best recommend our ancient and honourable Order to the world, and ourselves enjoy a good conscience without offence towards God and man." The toast list was then proceeded with, the Chairman giving the Queen and the Craft, the Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family, the Grand Lodge of England, Ireland and Scotland, with their respective Grand Masters. By the Croupier, the P.G.L. of Glasgow. Bro. Aikman, R.W.M. of the Kenmuir Lodge, 570, as a very young member of that body, briefly acknowledged the compliment. Bro. Wheeler proposed Prosperity to St. Andrew's Lodge, No. 465. In the course of his reply the R.W.M. spoke of the rapid progress the Lodge had made, they first met in a room in a tavern, but soon moved to a Hall; since then their course had been onward and upward, they had grown too large for that place and had now procured the spacious hall and premises in which they were assembled, and if they continued to progress as they had for the past two years, adding each year about forty to their number, they would require to again enlarge their borders. Bro. Bell, in giving the toast of the Press, traced its history from the first rude types cut out of the bark of trees, and the printing of the first Bible, by Guttenburg, in 1458, down to the present time, when we have 1754 newspapers. Bro. Wheeler replied, on behalf of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. "The Ladies" was briefly proposed by Bro. Donaldson, and replied to in a humorous speech by Bro. Anand. Bro. W. Campbell Sec. proposed Absent Friends. The Croupier gave the Visiting Brethren, which was responded to by Bro. Graham of 199, St. Andrew's, Cumberland. The last toast was then given, "Happy to meet, sorry to part, and happy to meet again." Bros. Gold, Davidson, Anand, Hamilton, Taylor, McCall and Wheeler contributed, by song and recitation, to enhance the pleasures of the meeting. The ball then commenced, and was kept up with great spirit till about four o'clock, all being well pleased with a night well spent.

Digitized by Google

"A suitable gift from a Master to his Lodge."

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 8s 6d EACH,

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUMES I. and II.

Sent, Carriage Paid, to any address in the United Kingdom, on receipt of Cheque or P.O.O.

London:—W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Cloth Cases for Binding can be had from the Offices, price 1s 6d each.

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief PARISIAN ESTABLISHMENTS, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY
Limited, 7 Bank Buildings, Lothbury, E.C.
General accidents. | Personal injuries.
Railway accidents. | Death by accident.
C. HARDING, Manager.

DYER'S WATCHES.
Best and Cheapest in the World.

LOWEST Wholesale cash prices: Aluminium, 10s 6d; Silver, 20s; Silver Levers, 35s; Gold, 50s; Levers, 60s. All kinds of Watches, Clocks, and Gold Jewellery. Every watch timed, tested and warranted for two years. Orders sale per post. Price lists and illustrations free.—DYER & SON, Watch Manufacturers, 90 Regent Street, London, W., and Chant-de-Fonds.

NEW WORKS ON FREEMASONRY,

BY

Bro. CHALMERS I. PATON,

(Past Master No. 393, England).

FREEMASONRY: ITS SYMBOLISM, RELIGIOUS NATURE, AND LAW OF PERFECTION. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

FREEMASONRY AND ITS JURISPRUDENCE. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

THE ORIGIN OF FREEMASONRY: THE 1717 THEORY EXPLODED. Price 1s.

LONDON: REEVES & TURNER, 196 STRAND, AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,

Bro. J. L. MATHER, P.M. 54, 1327, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Wood-street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

The Marvellous Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, and all Chest Affections.

PECTORINE.

Sold by all Chemists, in bottles, at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d and 11s each. Sent by the Proprietors upon receipt of Stamps.

From Rev. J. STONEHOUSE, St. Saviour's Vicarage, Nottingham.

AUGUST 1874.

DEAR SIR,—I can strongly recommend your Pectorine as an invaluable Cough Remedy. I have given it a fair trial in my own family, and have also supplied it to persons suffering from Cough in my parish, and in every instance it has given immediate relief. In some cases, after passing sleepless nights, one or two doses of the Pectorine have had such a good effect that persons have got a good night's rest, and the Cough has speedily disappeared.

Mr. A. ROLFE, St. Ann's Square, Manchester,

Says: "Your Pectorine is superior to any Medicine I have ever tried for Coughs or Colds."

PECTORINE cures the worst forms of Coughs and Colds.
PECTORINE cures Hoarseness.
PECTORINE gives immediate relief in Bronchitis.
PECTORINE is the best Medicine for Asthma.
PECTORINE cures Whooping Cough.
PECTORINE will cure a troublesome tickling Cough.
PECTORINE is invaluable in the early stages of Consumption.
PECTORINE relieves all Affections of the Chest, Lungs, and Throat.

Prepared only by SMITH & CLARKE, Manufacturing Chemists, Park Street, Lincoln.

 Vice Chancellor Sir C. Hall granted a perpetual injunction, with costs, against F. Mason, Chemist, Rotherham, for using the word "Pectorine."

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c. Tamar (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—1s 6d per box, post free 1d extra.—E. GRILLON, 34 Coleman-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY.—A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a simple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.
Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Musgrave Crescent, Fulham, London.

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE.

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.
For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.
It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face,
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter, From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 6d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

YOUNG'S Arnicated Corn and Bunion Plasters are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d and 1s per box. Any Chemist not having them in stock can procure them.

Observe the Trade Mark—H. Y.—without which none are genuine. Be sure and ask for Young's.

MR. THOMAS C. MACROW,

232 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD, LONDON, S.E.

(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)

BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let quickly and quickly (Town or Country). All parties wishing to sell, call or send full particulars. Registration fee. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 3. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

Digitized by Google

H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF

MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND REGALIA,

5 ST. JOHN SQUARE, LONDON.

PRICE LIST ON APPLICATION.

SPENCER'S MASONIC MANUFACTORY.

OPPOSITE FREEMASONS' HALL.

COSTUME, JEWELS AND FURNITURE FOR ALL DEGREES.

A QUANTITY IN STOCK.

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.

SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

A. D. LOEWENSTARK & SONS,

MASONIC JEWELLERS AND MILITARY MEDALLISTS,

26 GREAT QUEEN STREET, W.C. AND 210 STRAND, W.C.

The Largest Assortment of Past Masters' & Royal Arch Jewels in London.

ALSO JEWELS FOR EVERY DEGREE.

MINIATURE WAR MEDALS & FOREIGN DECORATIONS, WHOLESALE, RETAIL & FOR EXPORTATION.

ESTABLISHED 1844.

ESTABLISHED 1833.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,

MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,

AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING

Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.

MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;

AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.

ESTIMATES GIVEN.

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,

INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (REGD.)

"Bro. ADLARD'S [illegible] JEWEL ATTACHER, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price 7s 6d, (if with pockets for Jewels 6d each pocket extra) places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and usefulness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Lodge Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,

Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE "SPECIALITE SHERRY."

FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT.—The British Medical Journal.

VALUABLE FOR GOUTY OR URIC ACID TENDENCIES."—Dr. HASSWORTH, Metropolitan Asylust, Coomre for Middlesex.

ADOPTED AND RECOMMENDED BY nearly 3,000 Physicians and Surgeons for its Valuable Dietetic Qualities. 36s per dozen.

FELTOR & SONS, Sole Proprietors and Importers, Chief Establishment, Altemarle-street, London, W.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES. Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE (a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.

This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction.

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8. No. 96 for APRIL, now ready. SIXPENCE, CHESS, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE DRAMA.

W. W. MORGAN, 57 Barbican, London, E.C.

"There should be a better reason for the race of Depositors than a fluctuating rate of two or three per cent."—DEVONPORT GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited.) Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City; and 277 and 278 Regent-street, W. Established 1865, upon no Deposits. On Deposits 4 per cent. Subject to Notice, 1½ per cent. Opens Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to examine this new and improved system, that ensures a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-discounted or re-hypothecated any of the securities. To BORROWERS.—It offers pre-eminent advantages for prompt advances on leases, reversions, policies, trade stocks, farm produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, sureties, or fees. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 277 and 278 Regent-street, W. Established 1865. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. TO INVESTORS.—Deposits received at liberal interest. The Directors by strict economy have hitherto paid every investor 10 and 12 per cent. per annum. Borrowers are offered unusual facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. New and Special Feature.—The Society will build Shops, etc., in any approved part of Greater London, finding the whole cost of the building, at 5 per cent., re-payable by instalments, the agreement merely binding the purchaser to pay rent or giving security for the first 5 years' interest. Prospectuses, balance-sheets, and every particular free. ACCOUNTS AGENTS WANTED. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

Demy 8vo, Price 7s 6d.

POSITIONS IN THE CHESS OPENINGS MOST FREQUENTLY PLAYED.

Illustrated with copious Diagrams.

By T. LOGE, B.A., T.C.D.,

Being a supplement to the "Key to the Chess Openings," by the same author.

LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 57 BARBICAN E.C.

NOW READY.

New Edition, Enlarged, Crown 8vo., Cloth 5s.

WAIFS AND STRAYS, CHIEFLY FROM THE CHESS BOARD, by Captain Hugh A. Kennedy, Vice-President of the British Chess Association.

LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 57 BARBICAN.

LONDON & NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY.

EASTER EXCURSIONS.

ON 13th April, CHEAP EXCURSIONS will leave Euston at 9.40 a.m., Chalk Farm 9.45, Kilburn 9.50, Clapham Junction 9.10, Victoria (London, Brighton and South Coast side) 8.25, also Battersea, Chelsea, West Brompton, Kensington, and Uxbridge Road; Broad Street (City) 8.10, Dalston 9.15, Highbury and Islington 9.19, Mansion House 9.13, Blackfriars 9.15, Charing Cross 9.19, Westminster Bridge 9.21, and Willesden Junction 9.15, for Lancaster, Blackpool, Preston, Blackburn, Wigan, Bolton, Birkenhead, Runcorn, Chester, Rhyl, Denbigh, Northwich, Crewe, Nantwich, Hereford, Leominster, Ludlow, Craven Arms, Llandilfoss, Montgomery, Newtown, Oswestry, Welshpool, Minsterley, Shrewsbury, Wellington, Newport and Stafford.

From Euston Station at 12.15 noon, Chalk Farm 12.20, Kilburn 12.25, Clapham Junction 11.53 a.m., Victoria 11.23 a.m., Battersea 11.38 a.m., Chelsea, West Brompton, Kensington, and Uxbridge Road, Broad Street 11.40 a.m., Dalston 11.46, Highbury and Islington 11.49, Mansion House 11.43, Blackfriars 11.45, Charing Cross 11.40, Westminster Bridge 11.51, and Willesden Junction 12.30 p.m., for Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham, Wolverhampton, Leicester, Warrington, Stoke, Burslem, Macclesfield, Leamington, Kenilworth, Coventry, Derby, Burton, Lichfield, Tamworth, Leicester, Nuneaton, Stour Valley and South Staffordshire Stations, Buxton, Chapel-en-le-Frith, Stockport, and the Yorkshire District. Returning on 18th April.

For fares and full particulars see Bills, to be obtained at any of the Stations, the various Parcels Receiving Offices, and at Gaze's Tourist Office, 142 Strand.

G. FINDLAY.

CHIEF TRAFFIC MANAGER'S OFFICE, EUSTON STATION, April 1876.

SOUTH EASTERN RAILWAY.

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR RETURN TICKETS.

ALL EXPRESS & ORDINARY RETURN TICKETS for distances over Ten Miles, including those between London and Rockenham Junction, and the Cheap Return Tickets between London and Westenhanger, Hythe, Sandgate, Shorncliffe, Folkestone and Dover, issued on Thursday, 13th April, and five following days, will be available for the Return Journey by any Train of the same description and class, on any day up to and including Wednesday, 19th April 1876.

The Cheap Saturday to Monday Tickets to the Seaside, issued on Saturday, 15th April, will also be available to return up to and including Wednesday, 19th April.

This extension of time does not apply to the London and Gravesend Cheap Tickets, nor to those between London and Shalford, and stations to Wellington College inclusive.

EASTER HOLIDAYS.

SOUTH EASTERN RAILWAY.

CHEAP EXCURSIONS on Good Friday and Easter Monday, April 14th and 17th, 1876, to the Seaside, leaving Charing Cross at 7.40 a.m. on Good Friday, and 7.55 a.m. on Easter Monday for Deal, Folkestone, Shorncliffe, Sandgate, Hythe and Ashford; at 9.5 a.m. on Good Friday, and 8.35 a.m. on Easter Monday for Hastings, St. Leonards, and Tunbridge Wells, and at 8.50 a.m. on Good Friday, and 8.10 a.m. on Easter Monday for Ramsgate, Margate, Canterbury, Minster, Sandwich and Deal. All these Excursion trains will call at Waterloo Junction, Cannon Street, London Bridge, and New Cross. Returning same day as per Bills. Fare there and back, 3rd class 3s.

Also cheap tickets to Gravesend for Rosherville Gardens. Children under 12 half-fares. Tickets available for the day only, by trains named. No luggage allowed.

JOHN SHAW, Manager and Secretary.

MORING,

ENGRAVER, DIE SINKER,

HERALDIC ARTIST,

ILLUMINATED ADDRESSES,

44, HIGH HOLBORN, W.C.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE.

Printed and Published for the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE PUBLISHING COMPANY LIMITED, by BRO. WILLIAM WRAY MORGAN, 66 67 Barbican, London, E.C, Saturday, 8th April 1876.

Digitized by Google

THE

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

VOL. III.—No. 68. SATURDAY, 15th APRIL 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

BRO. THE REV. A. F. A. WOODFORD'S RESOLUTION.

WE cannot say the result of the meeting, on Monday, of the Quarterly General Court of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys is as satisfactory as we could have wished. True, the resolution of which Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford had given notice, was duly moved and seconded, and, after a long discussion, carried, by an overwhelming majority. This resolution, be it remembered, was one of unabated confidence in the House Committee and Executive; and the fact of its acceptance by the Court may be regarded as, primâ facie, closing the recent series of disputes which owed their origin to the publication, about a year since, of Bro. Tew's pamphlet. So far, so good; and had the discussion which ensued on Bro. Woodford's motion been concluded in the ordinary fashion, we should not have felt ourselves called upon to offer a single remark other than of thankfulness at the termination of a somewhat bitter controversy. As the matter stands, however, at this moment, we do not see how the result can legitimately satisfy any of the parties concerned. Bro. Woodford, whose motion was brought forward in the interests of peace, must feel that its success was due to a mere numerical superiority. The West Yorkshire brethren must feel aggrieved that the debate was not continued to a legitimate end; and the House Committee and Executive will hardly congratulate themselves upon a vote of confidence carried by sheer weight of numbers.

We are extremely sorry that the success of Bro. Woodford's motion was wanting in completeness instead of being decisive. The majority were a great deal too demonstrative with their shouts of "Vote! Vote!" "Divide!" It was not Masonic to refuse a hearing to any brother, and Bro. Moss, of West Yorkshire, though he stood his ground obstinately, was unable to make himself heard. The brethren who spoke in favour of the motion were listened to, if not uninterruptedly, at least in comparative quiet. One brother only had risen to oppose the motion, and though it is very possible that such arguments as he adduced might have been repeated by other speakers, it was equally possible that other reasons might have been urged against the motion. Yet, when the next opponent rose to say his say, he was resolutely shouted down, and not a syllable that he uttered reached the ears even of those who were close beside him. The majority would have acted more generously had they heard him out, and then proceeded to vote. Instead of this, the time that would have sufficed for a short speech was wasted in discord, and Bro. Moss, and those who think with him, have it in their power to say, "You out-voted, but you did not out-reason us, for you would not hear what we had to say." It was inevitable that some who proposed to submit their views to the meeting should be disappointed, for every discussion must terminate sooner or later, and on this occasion there was other most important business—the election of sixteen boys—which could, under no circumstances, be delayed even for a single hour. This was known when the Court met, but, though it was arranged the debate should be prolonged till two o'clock, much valuable time was spent in howling, when it would have been more profitable to listen to argument. Hence it is we regret, not the vote which was accepted, but the manner of its reception. It had too much the appearance of being carried overbearingly, as though the majority were determined to win in spite of all argument, instead of by its help and agency.

And yet the motion was well and temperately urged by Bro. Woodford and those who spoke on its behalf. Our Rev. brother proclaimed it to be his object to re-establish peace after so much dissension, and above all things to assure to the Institution complete immunity from harm both now and in the future. He argued the case on its merits, and questioned the justice of the conclusions at which the Investigation Committee of West Yorkshire had arrived. He maintained the appointment of any such Committee was in violation of all precedent, and as regarded the comparative expenditure of the Masonic Boys' and other similar Schools, and especially their office expenditure, he insisted that no portion of the money spent on the former was spent extravagantly, while in the case of sundry heads of service the Boys' School compared favourably with the other institutions. He referred to similar complaints by West Yorkshire in 1869, and quoted, at some length, from the report, signed by himself, as chairman of the committee appointed to investigate the charges made, and then concluded an effective speech by commending his resolution to the acceptance of the Court. Bro. Strachan (Northumberland) seconded, and in the course of a few well-chosen and pertinent remarks, condemned the publication of the pamphlets, the charges contained in which, in his opinion, should have been submitted to the School Committees instead of being made public. Bro. Gill (P.G.S.W. West Yorkshire) having mentioned the extreme reluctance with which he had at length consented to serve on the Investigation Committee, denied the justice of many of Bro. Woodford's statements, and especially that the evidence was furnished, or the Committee packed, by the principal pamphleteer. The evidence, he said, was based on, in fact would be found in, the published annual reports of the School, and he justified every figure, and the conclusion arrived at in the Report of the West Yorkshire Committee. He demurred emphatically to the passing of the resolution, especially as Bro. Woodford had intimated that it would be tantamount to a censure on West Yorkshire. [Bro. Woodford explained that he never intended or desired that his motion should convey censure on a province with which he himself was so intimately connected.] He pointed out that his province had nobly done its duty towards the Boys' School, having contributed one-seventh of the funds of the Institution. He earnestly pleaded that the provinces should be admitted to a share in the government of the School. They took as deep an interest in its welfare as the metropolis, and if a due proportion of provincial brethren were placed on the Committee, the province would be as well assured as he was himself that there was nothing to conceal as regards the management, financial or otherwise, of this Institution. A suggestion from the chair, that perhaps West Yorkshire would accept the resolution, provided the words, "having in view recent imputations cast on the administration of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys," was firmly, yet respectfully declined by Bro. Gill, who earnestly appealed to Bro. Woodford to withdraw his motion, otherwise he and the members of West Yorkshire who thought with him must meet it by a direct negative. Bro. Ridgway (Devon) thought the General Committee had done right in taking no action whatever, and that as no attack had been made on the Committee a vote of confidence was unnecessary. But the motion having been made, he felt bound to support it. He condemned the publication of the pamphlets, as a most un-Masonic proceeding, and spoke in the highest terms of the zeal and energy displayed by Bro. Binckes during his tenure of office as Secretary, the principal evidence he adduced being the amount of the annual contributions now as compared with what they were when Bro. Binckes first took office. Bro. Hime, Chairman of the East Lancashire Charity Committee, also denounced the pamphlets referred to as un-Masonic and expressed his full confidence in the Committee. Bro. Moss (W. Yorkshire) then essayed to address the Court, but his attempt was a signal failure. At length the Chairman submitted to the meeting whether or not the question should be put to the vote, and this having been carried, the resolution was submitted, and carried by an overwhelming majority.

Digitized by Google

We expressed a hope last week that Bro. Woodford's motion would be agreed to, and our hope has been realised. We cannot, however, but repeat our regret that the debate was not finished more satisfactorily. There was nothing to lose, and much to gain by a patient audience of those who might oppose it. Had a calm hearing been accorded to every speaker, even the defeated must and would have acquiesced in their defeat. Yet one good may result from Monday's proceedings. We shall, in all probability, have no more pamphlets published. Any complaints which a duly qualified brother or brethren may feel it his of their duty to make respecting the management or expenditure of this or other our of Institutions will, no doubt, be submitted directly to the respective committee or committees thereof. Possibly, too, Bro. Tew, now that it must be as clear to him as the sun at noon-day that further distribution of his pamphlet will only result in damaging the School, may once again betake himself to the duties of his Masonic office and the station of life in which he moves. We have had war, we want peace. Let Bro. Tew derive whatever satisfaction he may from the knowledge that he it was who provoked the contest, but, being vanquished, let him acquiesce in peace, even though he desire it not. In these columns he has had a fair field and no favour. Now that he has been over-borne—whether by superior numbers or superior logic matters not—let him bow to the inevitable. The evidents of the School must be paramount.

MASONIC PORTRAITS (No. 24).

OUR CITIZEN BROTHER.

"Deep on his front engraven Deliberation sat, and public care."

THE Corporation of London stands higher at this moment in the estimation of the public than it has done at any period during the last hundred years. Its public spirit is unabated; its vigour is unimpaired, and its bitterest enemies are unable to pick any holes in its time-honoured garments. It is held up as a model by the busy people who are seeking to obtain municipal institutions for the outlying districts of the metropolis, and if it were unwise enough to open its arms, or if it expressed a desire to extend its boundaries, it might become the governing body for the whole of the vast assemblage of villages and towns which compose the London of our day. While local institutions have been suffering from the adverse criticisms of unsparing adversaries, it has proudly held its head aloft, conscious of its high integrity, and fully alive to the wants and wishes of the public, whose interests it guards. It still possesses the precious charter which William the Conqueror granted to the citizens, and its history stretches back beyond the Conquest, to those remote times when the Monkish Chronicler filled the place that the historian has since monopolised. Its muniment rooms contain the unbroken records of six hundred eventful years, and its Liber Albus has preserved the usages and the traditions of remote antiquity. This august body has ere now comprised in its ranks the most illustrious of the merchant princes, and, even in these days, when the great council of the nation attracts men of wealth and position, it is able to secure the services of men who are in every way an honour to the constituencies they represent. If the public knew how much precious time the members of the Corporation give to civic affairs, in return for no other reward than the honour of representing their fellow citizens in the Common Council, they would be somewhat astonished. Municipal business, with its endless detail, is often dry and uninteresting, but it is always conscientiously performed, and as the result of all this care and zeal the city is confessedly the best governed town in England. Its lighting, its paving, its police arrangements, are of the best, and its staff of highly trained officers are a credit to the fathers who have elected them.

So large a body as the Corporation of course comprises many members of the Masonic fraternity, some of them distinguished in the Craft; all of them worthy brothers in the truest sense. Men who do not trade on Masonry, and who do not make a parade of their honours. Our subject is both a Mason and a civic father, and he has distinguished himself in both characters. As a representative of his fellow citizens, he is highly and widely respected; as a Mason, his name is deservedly held in honour. He entered the Corporation as a member for the Ward of Langbourne in the year 1857, has served on nearly every Committee of any importance, and has filled several chairs with great distinction. As chairman of the Library Committee our brother won golden opinions. Possessed of a cultivated mind and considerable knowledge of literature, he found here his true element. Actively engaged as he is in business, he has not permitted its cares and fascinations to absorb all his leisure moments, and in the chair of the Library Committee his wise counsels were greatly appreciated. He is always at his place in the meetings of the Common Council, and when he speaks, his observations are received with attention and respect. Wisdom in debate, clear and broad ideas of policy or business, are his characteristics. The officials, who are quick and unerring judges of character, respect him highly for his uniform kindness and courtesy. He has always a smile and a kind word for the humblest subordinate, and he is regarded as a friend and a wise adviser by all the servants of the Corporation. No man who has a grievance ever fears to tell his story to this good Mason and public spirited citizen. If he cannot conscientiously support the cause of the applicant with his vote, he has good counsel to offer, but no one with a good cause ever sought his aid in vain. In these times, when public spirit would almost seem to be on the decline, it is satisfactory to know that we have around us and near us men who steadily keep alive the best traditions of the past. In recent years a cynical school of critics has grown up, who seek to weigh everything in the balance of a rigid utilitarianism. The cui bono cry is, however, subsiding, and an evident anxiety has been displayed to preserve institutions which link the present with remote antiquity. The Corporate authorities have steadily pursued their policy, regardless alike of the sneers of adversaries, or the plaudits of friends; and, thanks to the reviving good sense of the time, its state ceremonial and its generous hospitality are universally held to be beneficial in their influence upon the community. Knowing, as we do, so little of the internal working of the Corporation, and judging it only by the best of standards, that of results, we cannot venture to predict that our citizen brother will ever wear the scarlet of an Alderman, or preside over the deliberations of the Common Council. He may not seek these high honours, and it is just possible that he is quite satisfied to remain a representative citizen, trusted and honoured by his constituents, highly respected by his colleagues, and valued in that Masonic inner circle where the great leaders of the Craft in solemn council deliberate over our affairs. Of his Masonic career it is not our intention to say much. We do not intend to dwell upon all the steps he has taken in the Craft, in his steady onward march to the dais. His connection with the Order dates from the year 1849, when he was initiated in the Ionic Lodge (227) then 275. In 1851 he joined the Emulation Lodge (21), was Grand Steward in 1856-7, and G.D.C. in the year 1861. He is an indefatigable worker in the cause of the Charities, a zealous brother, a constant attendant at the Quarterly Communications of Grand Lodge, and a wise and firm adviser. He always speaks from conscientious conviction, as a good Mason should, and his speeches are received with due respect and attention. In the commercial world his name is held in esteem, and on the continent the firm of which he is the head is well and widely known. Respected in business, trusted and honoured by his fellow citizens, a chief of Masonry who has won his way by his talent and zeal, he has little occasion to seek for further honours, or for a new field for the exercise of a laudable ambition. To live for others as well as for ourselves is undoubtedly the truest happiness, and he who has neglected the first duty of the Christian ma find his fitting punishment in a lonely or dishonoured old age. The unselfish man can never experience the remorse of the cynic, who, as time tinges his hair with grey, awakes too late to the consciousness that the philosophy of the tub is a mistake. Masonry and religion alike proclaim that self sacrifice is the duty of humanity.

Digitized by Google

THE RECENT ELECTION, GIRLS' SCHOOL.

THE following are the eleven successful candidates at the election on Saturday, the 8th instant:—

No. on Poll	Names	No. on List	Application	Province	Total Votes
1	Bryant, Ida Mary	10	3	Cambridgeshire	1,638
2	Herlan, Josephine Amelia...	18	2	London ...	1,352
3	Wright, Clara Isabel ...	15	2	Warwickshire...	1,330
4	Sanford, Mabel Elizabeth...	36	1	London ...	1,304
5	Bridgeman, Emma Lizzie...	19	2	Hong Kong ...	1,214
6	Potts, Emma Mary ...	23	2	London ...	1,181
7	Norrish, Susan Jane ...	2	5	Devonshire ...	1,122
8	Walker, Mary	27	1	Yorkshire W. ...	1,107
9	Bellamy, Sarah Lizzie ...	4	3	Lincolnshire ...	1,069
10	Boyd, Alice...	13	2	London ...	1,060
11	Fudge, Beatrice Helena ...	29	1	London ...	1,030

The following are the unsuccessful candidates, all of whom, with the exception of Florence M. G. Moore and Lily Maria Searle, will be eligible at the next ballot, the votes they have severally polled thus far being carried forward to their credit:—

Aq.	Milligan, Rosa	7	3	London ...	1,018
	Moore, Florence M.G. ...	20	2	Lincolnshire ...	1,018
14	Douglas, Isabella	14	2	Hants & I. of W.	1,009
15	Searle, Lily Maria... ...	28	1	London ...	941
16	Daly, Eliza Edith	3	5	London ...	904
17	Potts, Edith Maude ...	22	2	Hants & I. of W.	899
18	Wilson, Lucretia Cath. A....	16	2	Singapore ...	868
19	Morgan, Marion Aline ...	17	2	Monmouthshire	694
20	Strong, Ann Maria... ...	9	3	Antigua ...	637
21	Escott, Edith Harry ...	6	3	Middlesex ...	605
22	Johnson, Mary Anne ...	26	1	Lincolnshire ...	454
23	Kingcome, Clara	24	1	London ...	440
24	Ansell, Minnie Sarah ...	41	1	Kent	410
25	Feltham, Mary Jane ...	39	1	Wilts	361
26	Morris, Diana Gordon ...	5	3	Devonshire ...	330
27	Lindeman, Alice Eveline ...	18	2	Lincolnshire ...	179
28	Horn, Lucy...	24	1	Lancashire W.	159
29	Tanare, Ada Blyth... ...	37	1	London ...	118
30	Jay, Gertrude Alice ...	32	1	London ...	106
31	Clase, Ada Hayabe ...	8	3	Devonshire ...	98
32	Langley, Jessie	30	1	London ...	86
33	Hughes, Rosa Marian ...	42	1	London ...	84
34	Fordham, Amelia Anne ...	33	1	London ...	65
35	Nichols, Annie	43	1	Staffordshire ...	55
36	Smith, Mary Mildred C. ...	35	1	London ...	48
37	Cates, Annie Susannah ...	38	1	London ...	35
38	Perks, Blanche Jenny ...	1	5	South Wales E.	30
39	Lapington, Fanny Elizabeth	21	2	Warwickshire...	27
40	Freeman, Laura	40	1	Suffolk... ...	25
41	Hellier, Catharine Louisa...	11	3	Middlesex ...	18
42	Ludlow, Eleanor Amy J. ...	31	1	Hants & I. of W.	10
43	Parker, Kate Louisa ...	25	1	Lincolnshire ...	2

Hence it will be seen that London carried five out of sixteen candidates, Lincolnshire one out of five, Devonshire one out of three, Warwickshire one out of two, and Cambridgeshire, Hong Kong, and West Yorkshire each the single candidate hailing from those provinces respectively. Of the elect, one had been a candidate four times previously, two twice, five once, and three succeeded at this their first trial. Of three who would be ineligible if they had failed this time, one only succeeded. The girl who heads the list has a brother in the Boys' School, and, as well as another successful candidate, has lost both parents. One has both parents alive, one is motherless, and the remaining seven are fatherless. For one candidate no further votes were recorded, for three others, one, six and eight additional votes were polled, while of those who were applicants for the first time one scored two and another ten votes. The first candidate on the voting paper (Blanche Perks) has been five times a candidate, and is entitled to carry forward thirty votes to the next election; the eleventh (C. Hellier) has received eighteen votes at three elections; in each case an average of six votes per election is the result. The question naturally arises—if the brethren who recommend such cases are not prepared to support their recommendations more earnestly, is it worth while to place the names on the list? On the one hand, a number of votes are wasted; on the other, the vain hope of liberal support and possible success is aroused in the minds of the children's relatives. What have poor little Blanche Perks and Catherine Hellier done that they should be exposed to public ridicule? The brethren who brought these cases under the notice of the Committee should be ashamed of themselves. They have either not been at the pains to gauge the measure of support they were likely to secure, or else they have concluded that duty towards their neighbour began and ended with the proposal of the name and their own votes. Cases that are worth recommending are worth supporting, and votes are not obtained by merely wishing for them.

THE RECENT ELECTION, BOYS' SCHOOL.

AS in our issue of the 1st instant we analysed the list of candidates, so now we offer the following analysis of the results of the Ballot on Monday. The candidates were originally fifty-nine in number, but one (London) died before the election, and one (Cornwall) was withdrawn, thus practically reducing the list to fifty-seven. Of twenty-five London candidates, eight were elected, and one, as we have said, died. W. Yorkshire carried both its candidates, and Gloucester, Derby, N. Wales and Salop, and E. Lancashire each one out of two, while Kent and Sussex had each one candidate only, and were successful. Devon, Durham, S. Wales, and Monmouthshire had each two candidates, but failed to carry either. The three highest on the poll were London candidates, and the fourth hailed from Gloucester. The first of these had tried before three times, the second twice, the fourth five times, while No. three succeeded at his first attempt, as also did Nos. 12 and 14. Of twelve whose names would disappear from the list if unsuccessful on this occasion, six were elected, five failed, and one was withdrawn. Two candidates secured no votes at all—namely, Nos. 21 and 42 on the list, the latter having only this one remaining chance. No. 23 polled five votes; No. 25 four, in addition to seven as the result of two previous polls. No. 33 scored two, in addition to fifteen polled at the last election; No. 35 eight; No. 43 thirteen, in addition to a previous fifteen, and it being his last chance, and Nos. 56, 57, and 58 one each, No. 57 being no longer eligible. We express elsewhere in our analysis of the ballot for the Girls' School our opinion of the unwisdom, to say nothing of the unkindness, of brethren submitting children's names as candidates when they are not prepared to canvass or otherwise support their candidature. We need not repeat those opinions here, but we submit, for the consideration of the School Committees, whether it would not, in future, be advisable to adopt some rule to the effect that the names of candidates who do not obtain a certain minimum of votes should be struck off the list.

The regular meeting of the Royal Masonic Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons was held on Wednesday, the 12th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. Lieut.-Colonel Creaton P.G.D. V.P. in the chair. The Secretary, Bro. James Terry, read the minutes of the former meeting, which were confirmed. Several deaths of annuitants, and also of two candidates, were announced, the two latter from West Yorkshire. The candidates to be elected are 21 widows out of 32, and 17 males out of 21 applicants. The report of the Finance Committee was read and confirmed, and a sum of £3,000 was ordered to be invested in the Joint Fund; Bros. Lieut.-Col. Creaton, Griffiths Smith, and Fairfield were appointed to draw up the annual report. Bro. Griffiths Smith proposed, and Bro. W. Stephens seconded, that a vote of thanks and Honorary Life Governorship be accorded to Bro. W. Cutbush, for his kindness on many occasions in presenting the Institution with shrubs and flowers. Bro. Lieut.-Colonel Creaton gave notice of a motion to increase the annuity of males from £36 to £40, and the amount to widows from £28 to £32. It was determined that a special meeting be held on Tuesday, the 25th inst., at 3 p.m., to consider the above motion. Amongst those present were Bros. T. Cubitt, F. Adlard, J. E. Saunders, J. Brett, J. Newton, W. Hall, J. Constable, J. Smith, W. Stephens, Griffiths Smith, J. Gibson, H. Massey, A. H. Tattershall, J. Stean, Capt. Wordsworth, C. E. Lacey, C. F. Hogard, H. M. Levy, &c.

Digitized by Google

THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THE Quarterly General Court of this Institution was held in Freemasons' Hall, on Monday, the chair being taken at noon precisely by Bro. Clabon. There was an unusually strong muster of brethren, amongst those present being Lieut.-Colonel Creaton, Raynham Stewart, Browse, Rawson, Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, Gill, P.G.S.W. West Yorkshire, Strachan (Northumberland), Ridgway (Devon), Hime (E. Lancashire), Moss (W. Yorks.), Rev. C. G. D. Perrott, Kenning, Massey, Constable, Levy, F. Binckes, Secretary, &c., &c. The minutes of the previous Court, and of the General and Special Committees having been read and confirmed, the business of the day commenced. Bro. Plucknett was re-elected Treasurer. Twelve brethren were then chosen to represent the Life and Annual Subscribers on the General Committee, nine of them being re-elected, and three, namely, Bros. Percival Sandford, Tyrrell, and E. C. Massey, being elected to fill the three vacancies that had occurred in the old list. The Secretary having announced there were two additional vacancies in the School, it was unanimously agreed they should be filled up at the election then on the point of being held, and on the motion of Bro. Raynham Stewart, seconded by Bro. Browse, it was further resolved, amid general acclamation, that five more boys be added to the number already on the roll. Thus the ballot would and did end in the election of sixteen boys instead of nine, as originally announced. It was next unanimously resolved that a cheque be drawn for £2,000, being the amount of the purchase money of the freehold of Kent House and land adjoining, Wood Green, for the purposes of a sanatorium. Ten Scrutineers having been appointed, with power to add to their number, the Chair called upon Bro. Dr. Ramsay to move the resolution of which he had given notice, but in the absence of that gentleman, the motion, of course, fell to the ground.

Bro. Rev. Woodford then rose and proposed his motion, "That, having in view recent imputations cast on the administration of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, this Court deems it to be its duty to express its unabated confidence in the House Committee and Executive." His speech was clear, temperate, and to the point. He commenced by expressing the diffidence he felt in addressing so large a meeting of brethren, his associations having been Provincial rather than Metropolitan. There was, however, a certain fitness in his coming forward with this motion, as he was connected with the province of West Yorkshire, and had taken a leading part in its Masonic government. He strongly condemned the publication of Bro. Tew's pamphlet, and declared it was high time a stop was put to such proceedings. If there were any brethren who felt it necessary to find fault with the management, the proper tribunal to which such complaint should be preferred was the Quarterly General Court; but to issue pamphlets containing such grave charges as had been made within the last twelve months was un-Masonic. He was about to refer more specially to the contents of Bro. Tew's pamphlet, when the Chairman interposed, and expressed a hope that nothing might be said which would in any way prevent the restoration of peace. Bro. Woodford acquiesced; indeed, he had already announced that one of his principal objects in proposing his resolution was to put an end, once and for all, to the unseemly bickerings which had latterly prevailed. Having read the resolution with which the Investigation Committee of West Yorkshire concluded their report, Bro. Woodford then argued that the election of such a Committee was unconstitutional. As far back as 1854 the then Grand Master, the late Earl of Zetland, had laid it down that no Province, not even Grand Lodge itself, could question the management of the Masonic Charities. He pointed out that the evidence on which the West Yorkshire Committee had based their Report was furnished by the accuser, who, he affirmed, had notoriously "packed" the Committee, and thus one and the same brother was accuser, witness, and judge. In 1869 a similar complaint had been made by West Yorkshire, and a committee, of which he himself was chairman, had reported thereon. If the present expenditure of the Boys' School were compared with what it was then, and with the expenditure of other similar institutions, he firmly believed that it would be impossible to sustain the charge of extravagance. Indeed, in several items the Boys' School showed to great advantage. Bro. Woodford, after some further remarks, read the terms of his motion and resumed his seat amid loud applause.

Bro. Strachan, Northumberland, had great pleasure in seconding the motion. He was anxious it should be known that in his province at least, and he doubted not in other provinces as well, the government of the Boys' School was viewed with satisfaction. He expressed regret that any charges should have been published. There were the different Committees to appeal to if dissatisfaction were felt with the conduct of the School, and this was the course that ought to have been followed in the present instance.

Bro. Gill, P.G.S.W. W. Yorkshire, having mentioned how desirous he had been to remain neutral in this matter, and how it was only at the last moment, and then most unwillingly, that he had yielded to the persuasion of his Masonic friends and agreed to serve on the Investigation Committee, denied most emphatically that the accuser had furnished the evidence on which the Committee had framed their report, or that he had packed the said Committee. The evidence was derived from the reports of the Governing Body published every year, and he justified every figure in the report of West Yorkshire, while as regarded the charge of packing, the Committee included the leading Masons in all the principal Yorkshire Towns within the Province. He denied that West Yorkshire insisted on the four points laid down by the mover of the resolution, namely: the dismissal of the Secretary, the reinstatement of the Head Master, the dismissal of the Matron, and the reconstruction of the School Committees. He demurred to the passing of the resolution, because, as Bro. Woodford had pointed out, it would cast a censure on the province of West Yorkshire. [Bro. Woodford here explained that it was not his wish to cast a censure on the province.] West Yorkshire could have no object in injuring a school it had always supported so liberally and to which it had contributed no less than one-seventh of the whole expenditure of the School. He pointed out there must be something radically wrong in the administration of the School, or five Head Masters and twenty Assistant Masters would not, in the last eleven years, have resigned their appointments. Bro. Gill declined to accede to a proposal which emanated from the chairman, to the effect that he and his friends should accept Bro. Woodford's motion provided the words "having in view recent imputations cast on the administration of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys" were omitted, but he besought Bro. Woodford to withdraw his motion. He also urged on the court the propriety of the provinces being admitted to a share in the government of the School. In such case, though he did not for a moment assert there was anything to conceal, he believed the provinces would feel better satisfied with the government of these Institutions.

Bro. Ridgway (Devon), having been a member of the Committee appointed to enquire into the complaints made about certain statements in the published report of the School, was anxious to explain the vote he was about to give. No specified charge had been made against the School management. There was, therefore, no need for any vote of confidence in the governing body to be passed. There was risk then that a false issue might be raised, and he was anxious this Court should understand the merits of the case. With the experience he had recently gained as a member of the Special Committee of Inquiry he was firmly convinced the question was in truth a personal one, and he called upon the Court to rise superior to such petty considerations. It was the duty of this Court to watch over the interests of the School. Those interests were seriously injured by the publication of a number of charges which should have been submitted to the proper tribunals. He was anxious that a stop should be put to such proceedings, and believing this motion, if passed, might have a deterrent effect and prevent discontented brethren from pursuing a line of conduct that was utterly un-Masonic, he should cordially support, and he hoped the brethren present would as cordially support, the resolution of Bro. Woodford. Bro. Ridgway having passed a glowing eulogy on the conduct of Bro. Binckes, as Secretary, was loudly applauded on resuming his seat.

Bro. Hime, as Chairman of the East Lancashire Charity Committee, had read the pamphlets which had been referred to. He considered the charges they contained un-Masonic, and expressed his confidence in the wisdom of the Executive.

Bro. Moss, West Yorkshire, attempted to address the meeting, but failed to obtain a hearing. The Chairman then submitted to the Court the question whether the motion should be then put or not. This having been carried, Bro. Woodford's motion was put to the vote and carried by an immense majority. A vote of thanks to the Chairman brought the proceedings to a close.

Obituary.

MANY brethren, not only in the Province, but in the adjoining provinces, will learn with deep regret of the death of Bro. W. Brooks Gates, P.M., P.Z., P. Prov. G. Treasurer, &c. He was initiated in the Pomfret Lodge, No. 360, and exalted in the Northampton Chapter, and his connection with both Lodge and Chapter will be long remembered. He held the post of Provincial Treasurer, in conjunction with Bro. E. E. Welchman, for many years. He also occupied the position of Treasurer to the Chapter for a long period, and which post he held up to the time of his death. In speaking of Bro. Gates the local papers pay a high tribute to his business habits and sound judgment. They also add "Mr. Gates's memory will be long cherished by the poor, who, by his death, have lost a kind benefactor." He was a staunch supporter of the Masonic Charities, and had frequently acted as Steward. He was one that the world can ill afford to lose. The funeral was attended by many brethren, who did not wear any insignia of the Craft. Amongst those present were—

Bros. M. A. Boémé P.M. W.M., Flewitt, Kingston, G. Cottee, J. T. Green, G. Robinson, J. U. Stanton, E. W. Tuffley, P.M.'s; T. Whitehouse, H. W. Parker, J. S. Norman, M. E. Jones, Jas. Watkin, G. R. Swallow, T. E. Molsheim, A. Durrell, T. Warren, L. Knight, A. Richardson, H. Brown, J. H. Atkins, G. Ellard, C. E. Ashford, Aldridge, C. Barnes, J. H. Williams, J. J. Hart, all of the Pomfret Lodge, 360; Bro. J. Marson P.M. P.P.D.C., &c. Socrates, 373; Bros. E. Vergette and G. F. Buckle, P.M.'s and P. Prov. Officers, St. Peter's, 422; Bros. G. Osborn, R. Howes, S. Jacob, T. Davies, J. Tunnard, W. Tomalin, P.M.'s, &c., Fidelity, 445; Bro. J. H. Hall, Perseverance, 455; Bros. T. Cook and T. Miller P.M.'s, Wentworth; and also Bros. the Rev. R. T. Drake P. Prov. Chaplain, T. Stimpson Chaplain, Rev. Jas. Phillips, and F. Cant 1164.

Bro. J. T. Green P.M. fulfilled the duties of D.C. in an able manner, Bros. Maroon P.P.D.C., and J. U. Stanton P.M. assisting him.

We have to announce the death of Bro. E. Lewis, P.M. Enoch Lodge, No. 11. He had been in failing health for some time, and died suddenly on Wednesday, the 5th instant.

Digitized by Google

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

—»«—

My Circular Notes. Extracts from Journals, Letters sent Home, Geological, and other Notes, written while travelling westwards round the World, from 6th July 1874, to 6th July 1875. By J. F. CAMPBELL, Author of "Frost and Fire." In two volumes. London: Macmillan and Co. 1876.

[SECOND NOTICE.]

WITHOUT doubt the most interesting portion of these Notes relates to Japan, whither Mr. Campbell was steering as fast as wind and weather would permit when we took momentary leave of him last week. Towards the end of October the traveller lands at Yokohama. Having got his goods, and settled at the Grand Hotel, Mr. Campbell proceeds at once to take stock of the place, in spite of the heavy rain which greets him on his arrival. "Every man, woman, and child, and tree, and fish, and dog, and house, and fowl, was new and strange. They carried paper umbrellas, like those you have from G.W.R., but grander and bigger, and gorgeous with colours. They walked on wooden pattens, their beards were shaved into patterns, their hair was twisted into horns and devices, and stuck full of pins and ornaments. They grinned and I grinned, and we got friends. Two-wheeled carriages with hoods of yellow paper drawn by coolies were everywhere. Sometimes a fine lady, sometimes a Jack-tar, sat inside; sometimes a bearded Briton, sometimes a Japanese, but everywhere these marvellous coolies went trotting at a fast run through the rain, showing legs that would have made a chairman stare, seventeen of them charged our party at one place, all grinning. Then we got into the curiosity shops, and I began to use my slender stock of words with success. Then I got out my pencil, and presently I had an audience of shop-people grinning, chattering, and charmed. Then we got to a bridge and watched the fisherboats going out to sea. Two men in a boat were casting a net after the Thames fashion, but better and bigger. Then we heard the railway whistle, and then the bugles of the marines. There never was such a strange mixture of East and West as is to be found in this strange port. . . . . No theatre ever was half so amusing as the street. The sun has come out, and it is bright as summer, and warm. Camellias are out blooming in the gardens. Men are selling breakfasts. Men as naked as Adam are rowing off to fish, pumping water in the back yard, and going about their work unconcernedly. The housemaid is a man in black tights, all over curious worked designs, for all the world like a demon in a pantomime. The waiters are all imps like him, 'Petits diablotin,' the Frenchman calls them; and here I sit writing amongst them as pleased as a child at his first play. Now I must go stare and make pictures mentally."

We are not surprised that the writer should go off into raptures over the quaint sights that meet him everywhere. Now it is a "garden with dwarf trees and Japanese plants, and pots and rocks and dragons," that strikes him, now "a shrine hung with strips of inscribed paper," now a street where the people are buying and selling and eating fish fried, and strange fruits served in Japanese dishes, chattering like baboons under the eaves of curious brown wooden houses;" then the shore "where were strange boats: there wild boatmen were drying barges of sea-weed for market." The day following he goes off to Yedo, and having mounted a jinrikisha or gig, drawn by running coolies, at the station, traverses the streets of that city, visiting its lions, subsequently driving out to the Temple of the Goddess of Purity, then to Shiba to see the tombs of the Tycoons, and afterwards to the tombs of the forty-seven Ronins, and when dark back again to Yokohama. It it impossible to repeat all that Mr. Campbell saw, but some of the stranger sights are worth noticing. "I see again what I saw," says he, "on forty miles of very good road, with houses in sight on both sides of the way, as thickly peopled as a London street, with all the people working in the open air, in any dress that happened to suit them, or in no dress at all." Again, "I see a lady in full dress—gown, veil, gloves, bracelets, and parasol—gravely seated in a perambulator at Yokohama, going out to visit another lady as calmly as if her yahoo were a horse. She does not see the grotesque incongruity which makes me stare. The man is clad according to police regulations, but the old man of Japan is strong within him, and his garments flutter loose. He is a coolie adorned with pictures;—an illustrious illustrated edition of a civilised man, whose civilisation is barely covered by European forms. Such a man takes me out for a drive, and stripe to his work, and becomes a Japanese Greek athlete by folding up his garments and stuffing them under my seat. His hide is a gallery of Japanese art; serpents coil about his legs, a tortoise is on one arm, an eagle flies on the other, or a Japanese lady smiles at me from between his shoulders in some theatrical pose. There is no indecency in nudity; there is none in the style of art; but this particular Japanese phase of Eastern civilisation is new to a traveller who comes westward from England over America, through another phase of European life. The East and the West in a jinrikisha are utterly astounding and grotesque to an amateur artist . . . . I can run away to the Vatican . . . . . and realise the magnificence of the human form, and the ugliness of all manner of clothes; but clothes and no clothes, in one carriage, tend to laughter." Then he passes some "stones set up like stones, which I can look at here or in Argyllshire, stone pillars at two ends of a long regiment of megalithic monuments, whose wings are at the extremities of the old world. We call them 'Druidical'; here they are 'Buddhist?' Nobody living knows anything about them. Chinese civilisation is old; Pyramids of Egypt are old; but who is to say where this custom of setting up memorial stones first began?" A little later, we read—"There they are, familiar Scotch cairns. A man was drowned, in my youth, in a ditch. Many a stone have I thrown on his cairn. Here is a stone Buddha with a cairn of stones in his lap. The children of the place throw stones, and one who had been half round the world explained that each stone meant a prayer to Buddha to help their dead parents and friends quickly out of the Buddhist limbo into some future better state. Each stone cast is one act of merit which will help the young cairn-builder to rise in his next life, according to the heathen. . . . . It is a human custom to make cairns, Americans, Easterns, and Scotch are great cairn-builders. It is a human custom to account for such customs. Here, within my experience, are 'memorial cairns,' of which one was built to record the gathering of feres in Mull, cairns unexplained, sepulchral cairns of my own time, matrimonial cairns, frivolous bottle cairns, serious Buddhist cairns in Japan, and pyramids in Egypt. I read that the pyramid is but the improved Sepulchral cairn of megalithic Turanians civilised."

Many are the points of resemblance between Western and Eastern habits which Mr. Campbell meets with. The Japanese and Turkish baths are not dissimilar. At Daibutsu, he compares the Buddhist service with that celebrated at Astrakhan the year before. "Great bronze Buddha, 600 years old, and forty-four feet high as he sits, looking out over the ocean as far east as his religion could go. An altar, very like a Roman Catholic altar, adorned with vases and flowers and candlesticks; a priest in vestments chanting in front of an altar; drums and noisy instruments keeping time; an old woman on her knees with a string of beads rubbing her palms, and praying earnestly with her whole heart. That, and a frame of bamboos waving near a yellow beach, a blue sea, and a distant volcano, is part of my Japanese picture book. Beside it is the chapel of Astrakhan, and near these extremes of Buddhist worship is an old Irish dame, on her knees with her beads, praying earnestly, and rising to pace sunwise round a grey pillar of stone in Donegal."

Then we have a sketch of going to the races. "The way is crowded for a mile or two with all that is quaint, grotesque, eastern and strange, western and out of keeping. A very handsome Italian lady in a carriage, with smart horses driven by a Southern French silk merchant, is led at a sharp run by a 'botto.' He is the running footman of Japan. With his crested pigtail and shaven crown, and horns of hair, his black tights and loose sleeves, he flits noiselessly along at the rate of eight or nine miles an hour, making way for the quality. He is a remnant of the Daimio's procession; his followers are his leaders now, and they are all racing to the races." By the wayside a disciple of Buddha, "with nothing earthly on but a hat, a waistcloth, and a pair of straw sandals," contemplates the crowd. Then comes the favourite, "a wiry pony, led by a following of bottos, who might be the troops of the Spectre Monarch Astley's Amphitheatre." Then "Hurra, here comes Jack Tar in a perambulator, drawn at a fast rate by a little Jap half his size. A French Marine follows in his gig. A Russian, a Brazilian, a canny Scotchman, two Chinese bankers' clerks in blue, drawn by a little Bantam cock of a Jap, warranted to thrash them both into fits in no time. Here are all the races and Japan going ahead of them and hauling them all to the races. Here is a herald in a Tabard, here a Venus in transits, scrambling up a hill on pattens with Cupid on her back. There is the grand stand, there the ring, and the opera glasses, and the costumes of Paris, Glasgow, Vienna, New York, and Frisco. There in a carriage sit the ladies of Japan, all embroidery, tortoise-shell hair-pins, paint, silks, and bravery. But their beauty cannot withstand that brilliant Eurasian grand stand. They are but civilised Samoyedes." A day or two after the races, a second visit is paid to Yedo. He goes by the railway, "opened in form by the heaven-born Emperor, the Mikado, not very long ago," when a great number of Japanese swells and belles were invited. "They came, and they got into the train; and were as pleased as children with a new toy. Now it is the custom in this land of lean mat floors to kick off sandals, shoes, pattens, clogs, or any other walking foot-gear that may have been worn outside. They enter a dwelling bare foot or in split white socks with a thumb end, as neat as gloves. All the well-bred, polite Japanese people who got into the first and second class carriages for the first time stepped out of their clogs and left them on the platform in rows. The engine snorted and the train moved. Then a mingled cry of woe and laughter burst from the passengers as they realised the fact that they had left their old clogs in the lurch, and that regrets were bootless as they were. Being a very practical people they have taken to wearing boots, and they suffer horribly, for their feet as not as Aryan feet, and their boots being imported pinch." In half an hour he is in Yedo or Tokio, a journey which, a few years since was a feat, for the foreigner went armed to the teeth and with a strong escort of sworded men to protect him. Here he wanders about enjoying himself, and notes what he sees, in particular a great building—the public bath—"being full of hot water and citizens of all sorts and sizes, sexes and ages, bathing and conversing as people do elsewhere in clubs or reading rooms. . . . . You mustn't look in there. They don't like strangers to stare at them. Some few years ago these baths were open to the streets, and they all bathed in the same bath. Now, since foreigners have come, the baths are closed, and there is a bamboo rail between the men and women. They have learned that, we think all this strange, and they don't like us to laugh at them. Come along, So we went." One evening he dined with a Japanese Prince and Princess. The day following he meets with a ludicrous accident while sketching, which enables him to contrast Aryan and Japanese manners, greatly to the advantage of the latter. He also sees a crysanthemum show, and pays a visit to the theatre, and later, spends a day among the tombs of the Shoguns (Tycoons) at Shiba. "The gates are red and gold with dark tile roofs, and much carving. The temples and shrine are carved and finished as a Japanese cabinet is of the very best kind. Black and red and gold lacquer houses of considerable size, all over alto-relievo cocks and crysanthemums, gold pheasants and monsters, and fastened with gilt bronze and enamel, are things to look at more than once. They really are marvels of art of this kind. Lastly, on the hill stands a simple solid bronze or stone urn, in which is the body or bones of the Shogun. Formerly a priest or a retainer in armour knelt all day on the steps. Now nobody seems to kneel or to care much for Shin or Buddhism. Formerly pilgrims were only admitted to the outer gate, and that rarely. Now I wandered in and out, and did just as I pleased, on paying the few priests left a small fee of sixpence or a shilling. But the place is ruined. The Government ordered all Buddhist temples to be turned into Shinto, which is the old Japanese religion, and consists chiefly in adoring ancestors. The enraged Buddhist priests burned the best temple on the day of the change.

Digitized by Google

From Yedo an expedition is made to Nikko, distant about a hundred miles. A halt is made at Kashkabe for refreshments, and a night's rest, and here Mr Campbell has to eat with chop-sticks, which puzzled him also. "At first I suffered the torments of Tantalus; but practice has made me as dexterous as a crane, and I ended by feeding like a Japanese gentleman, without soiling the mats." After a good hot bath, the journey is continued, and Nikko is reached late on the third day. Here he sees the tomb and shrine of the first Shogun. These are described as being "the finest buildings of their kind in Japan, and the most wonderful work I ever saw anywhere. One railing has sixty panels carved in alto-relievo, representing pheasants, peacocks, coots, cranes, trees, leaves, flowers, rocks, &c.: each is about four feet by two, all are coloured, and each is extraordinary. Single feathers in the pheasant's tails stand out six or eight inches in front of flowers two or three inches deep. By measure, the carvings are from eleven to fifteen inches deep of hiako wood. The whole gate and screen is a mass of black lacquer and gilt copper, with green and vermilion, all glittering in a bright sun in a frame of dark green pines of vast size, which rise on the hills to the tomb which is on the top. Lions, elephants, apes, flowers, diaper-work on gold ground, copper tiles, gold-ridge poles, making a confusion of harmonious colour which beats description or copying. On each side of the 'month-gate,' so called because it takes a month to admire it, are gilded lions, one with a mane and tail of emerald green, the other smalt blue. Outside sit two figures with bows and arrows guarding the gate. Within is the shrine, all lacquer and colours and carved wood, hung with gold brocade and bamboo screens, with golden bronze lilies and vases, six to eight feet high, with bronze cranes as big as the lilies, and screens of precious wood, carved and painted and finished like a fine box."

After a short stay, the party returned to Yedo, and Mr. Campbell sets off to Yokohama, in time for a grand dinner in celebration of St. Andrew's Day (30th November). A series of visits follow, including a day or two's sport with a Prince Karuda, but this is the reverse of lively. Mr. Campbell picks up all kinds of curios wherever he can lay his hands upon any which he deems worth buying, and a little later he "assists" at taking the necessary observations of the "Transit of Venus," of which we have a long and highly interesting narrative. Subsequently he obtains, by the aid of the British Minister, passports for himself and servant to visit Kioto by either of two roads. A halt for the night is made at a place called Konosu, and we have a tribute to Japanese cleanliness generally. "Once for all," writes the author, "nobody suffered from any of the numerous pests that make foreign travel detestable elsewhere. House, people, garments, and food were clean and neat, and natty as a band-box full of dolls newly painted, with a toy dinner cooked for fairies to eat." Of the value of rice as an article of food we have the following testimony, a propos of meeting some rice-farmers by the way. "Rice seems to make strong hardy men. Oil or fat is supposed to be needed to keep the fire burning in human engines exposed to cold. These men eat rice and beans, a very little dried fish, and sea-weed. Yet here they are scarcely clad, in a biting mountain wind, doing very hard work, and in grand condition. An English traveller came down from Yedo in great cold, and lived on rice and brown sugar for some weeks. He came in looking brown, hardy, and strong, and in excellent health. I tried the prescription, and it suited me. We met trains of coolies coming from the hills to the town, each man carrying his merchandise on the springy pole of the country. The muscles on the shoulders were marvellous, and the men models of strength done up in small parcels. The weights carried were as wonderful as the pace, which was good five miles an hour, and a kind of trot." On the way, a countryman is seen working with a foot-plough, "the very same implement which is used in the Western Isles of Scotland by the 'Gaidheal' there; and so far as I know, it is used nowhere else. Here is a note of the Japanese farmer, using the very same action as a Skyeman, and the very same agricultural contrivance, only better made. This is the 'cascrom,' or bent shank of the West in the far East, a strange bond of union between the extremities of the old world." However, we must not dwell longer by the way. The shrines he visits, the scenery, the people, the notes about the Dragon Myth, these we must leave the reader to study. Nor have we space to devote to the account of the various articles he sees in use, or Japanese art, Japanese inventive powers, Japanese furniture, &c., &c. These, and well-nigh all the most curious reader could wish to know is described more or less fully. At length Kioto was reached, and shortly after Mr. Campbell leaves Japan, and in a short time finds himself at Shanghai. But Chinese cities are not to his taste, and he soon is on the way to Singapore, and then later we meet him at Java. Subsequently he visits the island of Ceylon, and thence returns home, reaching London in June 1875, just a year from the time of his departure. As we have devoted so much space to the earlier portions of his journey, it must suffice if we remark of the later that the sketches we have set before us of the people and their ways, of the country and the scenery are equally vivid, though as we have said already, the part of the work which contains the author's Japanese experiences is by far the most interesting. To the geologist the very elaborate paper on "The Period of Polar Glaciation" will prove a great attraction. The notes and observations have been touched and re-touched again and again, and cannot do otherwise than throw a considerable amount of light on a highly interesting subject. The illustrations are very numerous, taken roughly by Mr. Campbell himself, and on that account, perhaps, even more worthy of note than the most highly finished sketches or even photographs. In fine, My Circular Notes will prove a never-ending source of pleasure to the reader, and had the style in which they are written been more free from slang terms and expressions, there would not have been the shadow of a shade of any shortcoming to lay to the author's charge.

MAGAZINES OF THE MONTH.

THAT interesting serial, "The Dilemma," which has so long adorned the pages of Blackwood is at length concluded. The closing scenes are painful in the extreme. The lady, who, in the early days of the story, was the admiration of Mustaphabad, and her two children are rescued from an appalling fate, by one who had the strongest right to protect and aid her, but who had been mourned as dead for several years. She discovers by whom she is rescued; her senses leave her, and she attempts self-destruction. Yorke barely succeeds in recovering her from the river into which she had thrown herself, only to learn, a few moments later, that she is dead. Falkland expires, after saving his wife and her children. Yorke alone achieves happiness, for he is engaged, though not formally, to marry one of the Peevor family. In no part of the story is the reader's interest so strongly assured as in the closing scenes, where events follow thick and fast one upon the other. "The Dilemma" is well written throughout, but especially towards the end. We hope to make acquaintance with it again in connected form, when, we imagine, the merits of the work will be still more conspicuous. Criticism is the most prominent feature in the present number, three out of six articles being devoted to reviews of recent literature. A passing word, also, is due to the story of "1895."

Belgravia opens, as usual, with a further instalment of the Editor's serial story, "Joshua Haggard's Daughter," and, as usual, thus forms one of the principal attractions of the number. Of the other fifteen items there is hardly one which does not display some merit. Mr. Compton Reade writes to the purpose on the subject of "Art Education." Dr. Davies contributes a short yet pretty poem on "Our Secret." Mr. George Kirby's illustration, which is in admirable keeping with the words, "The Dublin Season of 1876," is noticed at considerable length by Mr. Nugent Robinson. To Henry Kingsley we are indebted for a well-devised story, "Our Suspicious Neighbours," and to Mr. Frederick Talbot for the sketch of "Our Ill-conducted Conductor. We feel grateful to Mr. Fitzgerald for concluding thus early, his extremely unpleasant tale "'Twixt Green and Red," this being the single contribution to which we feel compelled to take exception. The rest of the contents call for no particular remark.

Mr. Farjeon's "The Duchess of Rosemary Lane" stands first on the programme of Tinsleys'. The interest in this tale grows with its growth, and we feel assured it will very nearly approach, if it does not surpass, the former works of the justly popular author. Mr. Grant's "Did she love him?" progresses likewise most satisfactorily. Young Seymour mends rapidly after his terrible accident, all the more so that he has gained something more than the sympathy of Mabel Brooke. Milly Allingham, however, her bosom friend, carries her assumed indifference to Stanley just a little too far, and the latter hastily quits the mansion of the hospitable Mr. Brook. "Maggie" is by no means badly written thus far, and we doubt not will develope into something interesting as the tale proceeds. "The Social Status Quo" is infinitely more light and lively than it generally is. We have also been introduced to a new story "A Deep Laid Plot." The "Thespian Cartes" continue. When complete they will form a compact sketch of the theatrical world. There are other contributions besides those we have enumerated above, and of these we fancy most the short poems scattered throughout the number. We quote one of them—No. X. of "Dreams of a German Jew."

My carriage rolls so slowly
Through the merry forest green,
Through magical bloomy valleys,
That flower in the sun's bright sheen.

I sit there, musing and dreaming,
And think of my love so fair,
There shadowy forms salute me,
Nodding towards me there.

They skip and they make grimaces,
So mocking and yet so shy:
And whirl like mists together,
And titter, and all whisk by.

In London Society the further chapters of "This Son of Vulcan" are intensely interesting. The scene in which the tables are turned on Cardiff Jack is admirably described. "Michael Strogof, or the Russian Courier," is another story that would grace the pages of any magazine, but we do not anticipate great things, for "He would be a Soldier!" Verisopht—a name that readers of "Nicholas Nickleby" are familiar with—has, so far at least, not a single feature to recommend him. The scene in the railway carriage with the raspberry puffs is too grotesque for the most infatuated lover of the ridiculous. The "Notes on Popular Dramatists" continue, and are as interesting as ever.

We have called attention again and again to the serials in Cassell's Family Magazine, and can hardly speak too highly of their merits. But the features on which we lay the greatest stress are the sound practical papers which occur in every number. Such, in the part before us, are "How to qualify for the Musical Profession," "How to get rid of a Winter Cough," "Some practical hints on the acquirement of Languages." In each of these the reader will find much valuable information. Then the papers in which are described "The Doings of Dustmen," and "Small Manufactures," are interesting, while Mr. W. A. Gibbs offers a tuneful yet earnest "Plea for the Birds," which we trust Fashion will see its way to listen to. Sir W. King Hall contributes a short "Story of Sea Service," "Man Overboard," while a Navy surgeon tells in good homely fashion, "How Harry Winsome Won his Epaulettes." Add to these a practical gardener's advice about trellis work, &c.," "Notes on Home Dressmaking—trimmings," "Chit-chat on Dress," and "The Gatherer's" collection of useful and entertaining scraps, and it will be evident to our readers that this month's number of Cassell's is on a level in point of merit with its predecessors.

Digitized by Google

In addition to the two series of papers on "Westminster Abbey" and "A Jew's first impressions of England," we find in the Sunday at Home a short tale, "the Pastor of the Vosges," which is well worth reading. "The working classes from a Parson's point of view" is a thoughtful paper; and the "Quiet Thoughts from a Country Vicarage" are hardly less worthy the attention of the reader. In the Leisure Hour, the "tale of the American War of Independence" is continued. So, too, are Mr. Whymper's "Arctic Expeditions of the Nineteenth Century," the Rev. W. Wright's "Trip to Palmyra and the Desert," and the Rev. Canon Rawlinson's "Early Civilisation," in which he sketches rapidly, but very ably, one of the most interesting countries of the ancient world—"Phœnicia." "Some Peculiarities of Edinburgh Life," "A tale of a Lottery Ticket," The Science of Bill Sticking," and "Boy and Man," a story, "Young and Old," are all excellent papers, and there is a fund of useful information to be found in the "Natural History Anecdotes," "Antiquarian Gossip on the Months," and "Weather Proverbs."

A new feature in connection with the Westminster Papers is its portrait gallery. Last month appeared a characteristic sketch of Herr Steinitz, and now we have an equally successful sketch of his opponent, Mr. Blackburne. Those who know this gentleman personally will see a striking resemblance between the portrait and the original.

The New Quarterly maintains the high position it has achieved for itself. The newest feature is the editor's article on "Current-Literature and Current Criticism," in which the merits of recent works are discussed, and the various opinions that have been passed upon them are carefully analysed, so that the reader runs less risk of neglecting a meritorious book and wasting time over a comparatively worthless one. The introduction of this feature will bring the New Quarterly more nearly on a level with the old established Quarterlies. Of the other articles we have noted two that are specially readable. The first of these is by the Hon. W. H. Drummond, and in it he describes sundry "Incidents of African Travel," some of which will probably be new to our readers, while all are interesting. Mr. M. F. Turner discusses the peculiar merits of "Artemus Ward and the Humourists of America," in a paper of admirable judgment. Leaving individual preferences out of the question, the reader, we think, will accept Mr. Turner's estimate of Ward, Mark Twain, and Bret Harte—these are the three exponents of American humour to whom the writer's attention is confined—certainly as regards the second, if not in every particular as regards the three. Mr. R. Buchanan contributes an article on the early Roman poet, "Lucretius and Modern Materialism." A sketch of "Provençal Poetry During the Middle Ages," from the pen of F. Hueffer, will find a number of appreciative readers, and so likewise will Mr. Oswald Crawfurd's paper on "Ancient and Mediæval Music." Fiction is represented, as usual, by two complete tales, one by Mr. John Dangerfield, entitled, "Alix Fairford," of which we can speak very favourably, and a shorter story, "His Word of Honour," by Mr. Philip B. Marston. Such is the programme of the last, and perhaps one of the best, numbers of this Magazine.

The Quarterly General Court of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held in Freemasons' Hall on Saturday last, Bro. Lieut.-Colonel Creaton occupied the chair, supported by a numerous attendance of brethren including Bros. H. Browse, J. Symonds, J. Stohwasser, J. Boyd, H. A. Dubois, Col. Peters, R. Wentworth Little, Secretary, &c., &c. The minutes of the last Court and the several committees having been read and confirmed, the report of the Special Committee of Inquiry to the effect "that Bro. Lieut.-Colonel Creaton's modified scheme comprising the erection of a large assembly hall or schoolroom, with dormitories, &c. over, for the accommodation of 56 girls, at a cost of £9,400 be approved and recommended to the Quarterly General Court for adoption," was approved and adopted accordingly. The resolution proposed by Bro. F. W. H. Ramsay, M.D., to the effect that every three years the four senior members of the House Committee retire, but shall be eligible for re-election, and the four who have been least frequent in attendance shall retire annually, and be ineligible for re-election for a space of twelve months," was withdrawn. Then, on the motion of Bro. R. B. Webster, a sum of fifty guineas was granted to Miss Moss on her retirement from the post of governess. As this completed the general business of the Court and the requisite number of scrutineers having been appointed, the election of eleven out of an approved list of forty-three candidates was proceeded with. The result of the election is recorded elsewhere. A vote of thanks to the chairman terminated the proceedings.

CLUB HOUSE PLAYING CARDS.—Mogul Quality, packed in 36 per pack, 14s per dozen packs. Do. accomits 1s per pack, 11s per dozen packs. If by post 1½d per pack extra. Cards for Piquet, Bézique, Euchre, &c., Mogul Quality 10d per pack, 9s per dozen packs.—London: W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, E.C.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

All Letters must bear the name and address of the Writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

—:o:—

POLLUTING THE BALLOT BOX.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In your last issue appears an extract from the New York Square on "Polluting the Ballot-box," to which every true man and Mason must give his unqualified approval and assent; indeed, it would seem sheer lunacy to assume that the black-balling of innocent gentlemen could be aught else than wanton devilry. But, Sir, I should like to suggest a case for consideration, and should be glad to know your opinion thereon, or those of any of your valued correspondents whose various letters exhibit the most profound knowledge of Masonic matters. Suppose that a brother of some years standing, well-known, respectable, well-to-do, and well recommended from his Mother Lodge, were to seek admission as a joining member to a Lodge where he would be right welcome to all the brethren save two or three, or even say one-eighth of the members, would it be fair, would it be right or reasonable, that the other seven-eighths should be ruled and governed by such a minority, and compelled to endorse their petty dislikes, which if analysed would in all probability prove to be mere childishness? In reading the able quotation above referred to, it has occurred to me to ask how should the Mason be esteemed that black-balls a man who is already a brother, and who is fairly entitled to the utmost consideration and respect from his fellow Master Masons. Would it be so great a wrong to black-ball an innocent gentleman, not yet admitted into the Order, and of course as yet untried, as to stigmatise a brother who has carried himself worthily, and against whom nothing can be advanced.

I am, Sir, fraternally yours,

"FOUR YEARS OLD."

A CAUTION FROM "FRIENDLY LODGE," No 1513.

BARNSLEY, April 1876.

WORSHIPFUL SIR AND BROTHER,—A man, having a foreign accent, grey whiskers, tall, and aged about 65 years, who gives the name of FRANCIS JOSEPH RISSE, has by his artfulness imposed upon several members of this Lodge, and obtained various sums of money from them on misrepresentation.

He says that he is, or was, a member of St. Peter's Lodge, Peterborough; that he is a Hungarian, and only wants sufficient money to enable him to get to Peterborough, when he will be able to obtain money to take him to his native place.

Enquiry having been made at the Lodge named, we find that he is an impostor, and never was a member of St. Peter's Lodge.

As this man is in possession of a great deal of information we take the liberty of putting you on your guard, lest the members of your Lodge be imposed upon as we have been.

We are, Worshipful Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

THOMAS BRAITHWAITE, W.M.,
T. F. SHEPHERD, Secretary.

To the Worshipful Master of Lodge No. —

[We gladly give publicity to the above.—Ed. F. C.]

THE LIBRARY IN STRASBURG.—Immediately after the French and German war the new Government of Alsace began to re-establish such of the Public institutions as had suffered in the war. One of the greatest sacrifices of the siege of Strasburg was the destruction by fire of its ancient library. The German Imperial Government laid the foundation of a thoroughly German University; and connected with it the new library, which was to take the place of its predecessor. An appeal was made to all German reading people to aid, and the result is published in an address, recently received here, made by one of the librarians. Contributions were freely made in the United States, and the thanks of the Library and University, as well as of the Government, have been formally tendered to Colonel M. Richards Muckle, who worked diligently and successfully in securing not only private gifts, but the aid of the General Government, and of the various State authorities too. The library now counts 350,000 volumes, part of them brought from the other old libraries of the city, not injured during the siege. Contributions have gone from Philadelphia on the part of the United States, from Hong Kong and Bombay, from St. Petersburg and Lisbon, from Rome and Athens; in all 2,750 persons and Governments made gifts varying from the splendid presents of the German Government and German cities and citizens, especially the booksellers and publishers, down to the single gifts from Java and Asia Minor and Egypt. In the list of 23 countries represented by donors the United States stands seventh.—Public Ledger.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Intermittent and continued fevers, dyspepsia, heartburn, flatulency, and general debility, are best treated by these remedies, as they possess within themselves a gently stimulating and tonic principle, which invariably produces the desired result. They impart tone to the mucous membrane of the stomach, expel flatulence, increase the appetite, and produce a grateful sense of internal warmth and elasticity of mind and body. As a detergent in scrofulous and foul ulcerations, and as a healing and soothing application in burns, scalds, and excoriations, the Ointment will be found most valuable, as it promotes the healing action and cleanses off all foul discharges, and neutralises any noxious matter that may be accidentally present. Very plain directions accompany them.

Digitized by Google

INSTALLATION OF H. R. H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,
Most Worshipful Grand Master, &c., &c., having been graciously pleased to accept the special Dedication,

A SPLENDID

HISTORICAL STEEL ENGRAVING

WILL SHORTLY BE PUBLISHED,

OF THE

ROYAL INSTALLATION ON THE 28TH OF APRIL LAST,

IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,

By Bro. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. No. 1201.

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be made to the

ROYAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS,

St. John's Hill, Battersea Rise, S.W.

AT a Quarterly General Court of this Institution, held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, W.C., on Saturday, 8th April 1876, Lieut.-Col. Creaton, Trustee and Vice-Patron, in the chair. After the general business was disposed of, the Governors and Subscribers proceeded to the Election by ballot of eleven children into the Institution from a list of forty-three approved candidates, when the following were declared duly elected:—

No. on List	Votes polled	No. on List	Votes polled
10. Bryant, Ida Mary ...	1,638	2. Norrish, Susan Jane ...	1,122
13. Herbar, Josephine Amelia	1,342	27. Walker, Mary	1,107
15. Wright, Clara Isabel ...	1,330	4. Bellamy, Sarah Lizzie ...	1,069
26. Sanford, Mabel Elizabeth	1,304	12. Boyd, Alice	1,060
19. Bridgeman, Emma Lizzie	1,214	29. Fudge, Beatrice Helena	1,030
22. Potts, Emma Mary ...	1,161

The number of votes recorded for unsuccessful candidates can be obtained on application at the Secretary's Office, and will be duly carried forward at the next election if eligible.

R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, Secretary.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS,

WOOD GREEN, LONDON, N. OFFICE: 6 Freemasons' Hall, W.C.

PATRON—HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

PRESIDENT.

Field-Marshal H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G., &c., M.W.G.M.

AT a Quarterly General Court of the Governors and Subscribers, held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London, on Monday, the 10th day of April 1876, for the transaction of the ordinary business of the Institution, JOHN MORON CLABON Esq., P.G.D., Vice-Patron and Trustee, in the chair, succeeded by JOHN STRONGE Esq., Vice-Patron and Trustee. A ballot took place for the Election of Sixteen Boys, from an approved list of 39 candidates, and the following were Elected:—

SUCCESSFUL.

1. Perrin, Gilbert Palmer Sheridan	2,258	9. Wain, Leonard...	1,781
2. Dawson, George Arthur ...	2,130	10. Lee, Vincent John	1,777
3. Trout, Richard James ...	1,962	11. Vivian, Alfred Greville ...	1,758
4. Cromwell, Charles Henry ...	1,932	12. Robinson, George Sampson	1,699
5. Keddel, Robert Walter ...	1,826	13. Gardner, Richard Thomas ...	1,601
6. Stansfeld, Wm. Ashton ...	1,822	14. Adams, Donald Robert ...	1,386
7. Jackson, Joseph	1,818	15. England, Herbert	1,318
8. Cooke, Wm. Astle	1,818	16. Rose, James Herbert... ...	1,272

Lists of candidates, successful and unsuccessful, with full particulars of polling, &c. may be had on application at the Office.

10th April 1876. FREDERICK BINCKES, Secretary.

 The SEVENTY-EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL will be held on Wednesday, 28th June 1876, on which occasion the Right Hon. Lord Leigh, R.W. Prov. G. Master of Warwickshire, has kindly consented to preside. The names of brethren willing to represent Provinces or Lodges as Stewards will be gratefully received.

GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTER MASONS OF ENGLAND AND WALES

AND

THE COLONIES AND DEPENDENCIES OF THE BRITISH CROWN.

THE RT. HON. THE EARL OF LIMERICK, M.W. GRAND MARK MASTER MASON.

THE RT. HON. LORD SKELMERSDALE, R.W. DEPUTY GRAND MARK MASTER MASON.

A MOVEABLE GRAND LODGE will be held at Freemasons' Hall, Park-street, Bristol, on Friday, the 28th inst.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Bristol will be constituted in due form.

Bro. W. A. F. POWELL will be installed as R.W. Provincial Grand Mark Master Mason of Bristol, by the M.W.G.M.M.M.

The articles in the Book of Constitution having reference to the attendance of Grand Officers do not apply to this meeting.

A Banquet will be provided at the Montagu Tavern, at Half-past Five o'clock. Tickets, 10s 6d each, including Dessert and Waiters.

It is particularly requested that Tickets for the Banquet be applied for from Bro. WILLIAM HODGES, Rose Villa, Stapleton-road, Bristol, not later than Monday, the 24th instant.

By command,

OFFICE: 2 Red Lion Square, Holborn, London, W.C.

FREDERICK BINCKES, P.G.J.W. Grand Secretary.

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

THE CLUB PREMISES, SITUATE

101, QUEEN VICTORIA STREET,

ARE NOW BEING FITTED UP, AND WILL

SHORTLY BE OPENED TO THE MEMBERS.

THE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, now payable, is available to 1st May 1877, and is fixed at—£3 3s for Town Members, i.e., Members residing within twenty miles of the Club, and £1 11s 6d for Country Members, without entrance fee. Members incur no liability beyond their subscription. None but Freemasons are eligible for Membership.

THE NEXT ELECTION OF MEMBERS will be held on 27th April, after which date it is anticipated that it will be necessary to impose an Entrance Fee, and raise the Annual Subscriptions—upwards of 500 Brethren having already joined.

FORMS FOR APPLICATION for Membership may be obtained from the Secretary, at the Offices of the LONDON MASONIC CLUB COMPANY LIMITED, 27 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

JOHN A. LATHBURY, Secretary.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

IN the House of Lords, on Friday, a number of Bills received the Royal Assent, the Commissioners being the Lord Chancellor, Earl Beauchamp, and Lord Skelmersdale. The Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Bill received a second reading. The Royal Titles Bill, both for and against which petitions were presented, was read a third time and passed, and then, on the motion of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, their Lordships adjourned to the 27th instant.

In the House of Commons, the same day, the order for three petitions relating to Monastic and Conventual Institutions was, on the motion of Mr. Callan, and after a somewhat lengthy discussion, discharged. A discussion susequently arose whether a petition from Boulogne should be received or not. Ultimately, it was suggested that, on Monday, a motion be made for the appointment of a Committee to which the petition in question should be referred. Mr. Knatchbull-Hugessen drew attention to the position of Assistant Masters in Public Schools, and their relations towards the Head Masters, but his motion was negatived without a division. A discussion, originated by Major Beaumont, followed on the subject of a Central Arsenal, and occupied the rest of the time till the House went into Committee of Supply. Various sums for the public service were voted, and the House, having resumed and agreed to the Report on the Budget resolutions, adjourned, at one o'clock. On Monday, on the motion for going into Committee of Supply, Mr. Anderson called the attention of the House to the circumstances under which the Mistletoe was run down by the Royal Yacht Alberta, and the subsequent proceedings of the Admiralty, and concluded his speech by moving a resolution. Mr. Ward

Digitized by Google

Hunt defended the action of the Admiralty, and hoped the House would approve of the course it had pursued. Mr. Goschen could not vote for the motion. Mr. Seely and Admiral Egerton having briefly addressed the House, a division was taken, and Mr. Anderson was defeated by 157 to 65. Mr. S. Lloyd then drew attention to the position of the Royal Marines, and urged that justice should be done to the officers of that corps, who were a meritorious body, and had done nothing to deserve injustice. Messrs. Childers, Gorst, Goschen, and others having addressed the House, Mr. Hunt said that it would be as well to wait for the Report of the Royal Commission on promotion in the army, and then the case of the Marines could easily be dealt with in connection with the recommendations that might be made for the army. The House then went into Committee of Supply on the Navy Estimates, and on the vote for wages of Seamen and Marines, a long discussion ensued, and at length it was agreed to, as were a number of votes. Progress was then reported, and the House resumed. The Chancellor of the Exchequer having explained the course of business after Easter, and the report of the Committee of Supply having been brought up and agreed to, the House, shortly afterwards, adjourned till one o'clock on Tuesday, when, after one or two short discussions, sundry notices of motions, and an inquiry by Sir H. D. Wolff, respecting the Suez Canal, to which the Chancellor of the Exchequer made reply, an adjournment till the 24th inst. for the Easter recess took place.

The Queen has left Baden-Baden for Coburg, where she will remain for the rest of her visit to Germany. Here the meeting with the Emperor William will take place; here, too, the Imperial Crown Princess of Germany, who quitted Berlin on Wednesday, will remain for about a week, and here the Grand Duke and Duchess of Baden have paid their visit. Her Majesty, as usual, is favoured with brilliant weather, and avails herself of it to drive about the town and its environs, being everywhere received with the respect due to her rank. The Earl and Countess of Derby have left for England. En route, the Earl had an interview with Lord Lyons and the Duke Decazes, the French Foreign Minister, an interview which has considerably excited the ingenuity of the political quidnuncs, who have contrived to manufacture a number of remarkable shaves for the delectation of the Parisians.

The Prince of Wales's reception in Malta was very magnificent, and the Maltese may congratulate themselves on having achieved a success well nigh as brilliant as any that had previously marked the progress of their Royal visitor. The day of his arrival was observed as a close holiday. Bread was distributed to the poor, out-door relief to the extent of a florin being given by the Government, while the inmates of charitable institutions received double rations, and some of the well-behaved malefactors received a free pardon. On Thursday, the Prince dined at the Palace, which was splendidly illuminated, as were likewise the Mainguard, the Exchange, the Admiral's residence, and sundry Consulates. Before dinner the Prince expressed to Mr. V. Bugeja the regret he felt at not being able to lay the first stone of the latter's projected Conservatorio or Asylum for poor female children, in consequence of its being a purely Roman Catholic establishment. Nevertheless, by the Queen's command, His Royal Highness conferred upon Mr. Bugeja the Order of St. Michael and St. George. After dinner the Prince saw the illuminations, both in the city and the dockyard and harbour. The ships and yachts in port were also illuminated, and the spectacle was one never before witnessed in the island. On Friday, at noon, a Royal salute was fired in honour of Prince Leopold's birthday, and there was a review of the garrison on Floriana parade ground. Subsequently the Prince presented new colours to the 98th regiment, which had recently arrived from England, and then lunched with the officers of the regiment. On Friday evening, the United Services' gave a grand ball in honour of the visit, but it being a Friday in Lent, only a very few Maltese were present. The Prince arrived about ten o'clock, and opened the ball with Lady Van Straubenzee, dancing later with Miss Drummond and the Countess of Delawarr. On Saturday, the ships fired a salute in honour of the King of Denmark's birthday. In the afternoon there was a sham fight between the sea batteries and a number of gun-boats, the latter being repulsed. After dinner the Prince visited the Opera, which was brilliantly illuminated. The National Anthem and God Bless the Prince of Wales were sung, the audience all standing the meanwhile. On Sunday, the Prince attended Divine service, the Bishop of Gibraltar preaching the sermon. On Monday, the Prince having taken leave of the principal authorities, and having witnessed some torpedo experiments, went on board the Serapis. In the evening a state dinner was given, at which were entertained the Governor and Lady Van Straubenzee, the Governor's Staff, the Admiral and his lady, the principal officers of the island, Sir Vincenzo Bugeja, and others. There was afterwards a display of fireworks on the deck of the Serapis. At 8 a.m. on Tuesday morning, the Serapis left the harbour, under a royal salute, and is expected to reach Gibraltar on Saturday. Here, too, preparations on a grand scale are being made for his reception. The Prince, it is believed, will arrive at London on the 22nd, meanwhile preparations at Portsmouth continue, against the return of his Royal Highness. And last but not least in the way of news, the Lord Mayor has received a telegram from the Prince's Secretary, announcing His Royal Highness's acceptance of the civic invitation to a banquet in commemoration of his safe return from the East.

On Monday there was a grand meeting at St. James's Hall of the Royal Geographical Society and its friends, for the purpose of welcoming home that gallant young African explorer, Lieutenant V. Lovett Cameron, the latter's family as well as a considerable number of ladies being also present. H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh had gracefully consented to preside on the occasion, and, in opening the proceedings, introduced his brother officer to the audience in a short complimentary speech. Lieutenant Cameron, who wore the Society's gold medal, on rising was received with cheering, again and again renewed, and then gave a brief resumé of his journey, time not permitting that he should enter into any lengthened detail. Having described the results of his journey, the President of the Geographical Society, Sir Henry Rawlinson, passed a eulogium on the services rendered to scientific Geography by the gallant officer, noting, in particular, the immense number of observations which he had taken en route, and the value they would be to future travellers. He also announced that, the evening previous, the Society had presented to Lieutenant Cameron its principal gold medal for the year, in recognition of his important services. After Dr. Badger, and other authorities on African discovery, had briefly addressed the assembly, a cordial vote of thanks to the Duke, as Honorary President, brought the meeting to a close.

The chief attractions of the week, however, have been the grand doings in athletic circles. On Friday, the Oxford and Cambridge athletic contest came off at Lillie Bridge, the former proving victorious by winning six out of the nine events. There were present some 12,000 persons, the bright eyes and gay dresses of the fair sex mustering in considerable force. The first three events on the programme —namely, the Hundred Yards, the High Jump, and the Mile—fell to Oxford, Shearman, of St. John's, winning the first, Brooks, who cleared the astounding height of 6 feet 2½ inches, winning the second, and Nichols, of Christ Church, after a hard struggle with Cunliffe, of Trinity, Cambs., winning the last in 4m. 27⅕secs. Hales, of Trinity, won the first event for Cambridge, throwing the hammer 138 feet, the longest throw on record. Lodor, of Jesus, Cambridge, won the hurdles, 10 flights 16⅗ secs. Hodges, of Queen's, Oxon, put the weight 36 feet. Lewis, of Corpus, Cambridge, was first in the Quarter Mile, 52⅗ secs. Brooks, who had previously won the High Jump, cleared 21 feet 8½ inches in the Long Jump, Bayley, of Trinity, Cambridge, being second with 20 feet 10½ inches. The last race, three miles, was won for Oxford by Goodwin, of Jesus, in 15 minutes 12 secs., another Oxford champion being second, while Cambridge came in about 150 yards behind. Thus the athletic honours fell to Oxford, and the meeting of the year 1876 will always be a memorable one, Brooks's leap of 6 feet 2½ inches being an unrivalled performance. On Saturday, however, Oxford had to succumb to its rival in the contest for aquatic honours. When the crews first came to London, three weeks before the race, the Oxford were the favourites, but Cambridge worked with a will, and so successfully, that they had not been a week on the London waters, when the betting veered round in their favour and rightly, too, as the event proved. The race has been fully described in every London daily; we content ourselves, therefore, with saying that Cambridge took the lead almost from the commencement, and gradually but surely increasing it, won easily, in good time, by several lengths. This is a great feather in the cap of Cambridge, for the Oxford boat included six of the winning crew of last year, while

Digitized by Google

Cambridge had only two. This makes the thirty-third Inter-University race, Oxford having scored seventeen, and Cambridge sixteen victories. On Monday, Lillie Bridge was again the scene of a keen athletic contest, the Amateur Athletic Club having fixed that day for holding their Championship meeting. Unfortunately, the weather had changed from bright sunshine to heavy rain and a keen wind. Consequently, the attendance of spectators was sparse indeed, only those interested in sport for the sake of sport caring to be present. A very few ladies put in an appearance, and considering the steadiness with which the rain descended and the wind blew, it is surprising there were so many people on the ground. The only lively feature of the meeting was the performance of the Grenadiers' Band, under the direction of Bro. Dan Godfrey. The first event was the Seven Miles Walking, for which two were entered—Messrs. Morgan, champion, of the Atalanta C. C., and Venn, L. A. C., each of whom had done the distance in 54 minutes. After a close and interesting struggle, Venn secured the Championship, Morgan giving in about a hundred yards from home—time 55 min. 11¼ secs. Hales, of Cambridge, threw the hammer 96 feet 3 in., beating T. Stone, Newton-le-Willows C. C., who achieved only 85 feet 8 inches The shorter distance allowed for running will partly account for the difference between this performance of Hales's and his Friday's throw of 138 feet. The Hundred Yards was run in two heats, Shearman, of Oxford, winning the first, and Salmon, of Cambridge, the second. In the final, Shearman came in first, and Salmon, well-up, second. Brooks walked or jumped over in the High Jump, clearing, however, owing to the state of the ground, only 6 feet. Elborough, L. A. C., defeated Lewis, of Cambridge, for the Quarter Mile Cup. Loder, of Cambridge, won the Hurdles, defeating Wood, late of Harrow, and Reay, L. A. C. Strachan, L. A. C., cleared 10 ft. 1 in. in the Pole Jump. T. Stone, Newton-le-Willows put the weight 38 ft. 7¼ in., Winthrop, L. A. C. only 34 ft. 11 in. Six appeared at the post in the half-mile, which was very cleverly won by Elborough, the quarter mile champion, in 2 min. 3 sec. Alkin, Nuneaton, C. C. cleared 21 ft. 3 in. in the Broad Jump, Tomkin, late of Eton being second with 21 ft. W. Slade, Champion, won the Mile, leading all the way, and easily defeating his one opponent, Lewis Evans, late of Cambridge, who ran, however, very pluckily. The last event was the Four Mile Race, which Goodwin of Oxford won by only three yards from Mason, L. A. C. Mr. Chambers acted as starter and Messrs. Lawes, Chinnery, and Colonel Hammersley as umpires.

The trial of Captain Keyn, of the Franconia, which vessel, it will be remembered, ran down the Strathclyde, off Dover, was concluded on Friday last, the jury returning a verdict of manslaughter. A point of law, however, has been raised, and will be submitted to the Court of Criminal Appeal. Meantime the prisoner is permitted to go at large on the same bail as before.

Arrangements have been made for having the Easter Monday Review, which will be held at Tring. Prince Edward of Saxe Weimar has been appointed by the Commander-in-Chief to take charge of the operations. Most of the Regiments that will be present will belong to the Metropolis, and the necessary railway arrangements are being made for conveying them to and from the review ground. If the weather is favourable, the day will, no doubt, be very successful, and may encourage the Volunteers to hold the review regularly, as in former years. The force, it is believed, will be told off in two divisions, of attack and defence respectively, Colonel Lord Abinger being in command of the one, and Colonel Percy Feilding of the other. Among the brigadiers will, probably, be the Duke of Westminster, Lord Ranelagh, the Marquis of Donegal, and Lord Elcho.

The Easter attractions are likely to draw crowds of holiday makers. Among the foremost to provide for the amusement of the public are the Directors of the Alexandra Palace, who have arranged a series of performances and sports both for indoors and outdoors, far too numerous to give in detail. There will be a Grand Extravaganza, entitled Turco the Terrible, the performance of the celebrated Jackley Troupe, Broekmann's Circus and Trained Animal Show from Berlin, the Hague Minstrels, Miss Lizzie Anderson's American Mysteries, the Clown Cricketers, &c., &c. The Palace will open at nine a.m., and not close till ten p.m. The Crystal Palace announce a Grand Spectacular Burlesque, St. George and the Dragon, and a series of special entertainments, acrobatic, gymnastic, comic, velocipedic, and the like. A special train service will run during the day. At the Royal Albert Hall will be given a grand miscellaneous concert at three p.m. Mr. Geo. Sanger will hold a Grand Carnival, and at all the other places of public resort in and around the Metropolis some special entertainment will be provided. Of the performance yesterday at the Alexandra Palace and the Cumberland and Westmoreland wrestling at Lillie Bridge we may have a few words to say next week.

Certainly this is a most marvellous climate of ours, last week we were all rejoicing in the most genial spring weather, Saturday, the boat race day, being, in fact, a perfect day of days, but the glass had been going down steadily. It generally does when we are just settling down to a little sunshine. Sunday was boisterous and dusty. Monday was wet and boisterous. On Tuesday we had sunshine and snow. On Wednesday sunshine and snow again, and in the afternoon, during a heavy storm of the latter, we had thunder and lightning, just by way of variety. Such are the pleasures of a life passed in a variable climate, spring, summer and winter in the course of a few days.

The news from abroad, especially in relation to the Eastern Question, is far from re-assuring. All over Europe there is a disturbed feeling, as though the spring were likely to see the commencement of a terrible struggle. Stocks of all kinds, and in particular both Turks and Egyptians, have fallen considerably. The failure of the Austrians to pacify the insurgents in the principalities, and the fear that Servia may not be restrained much longer from actually assisting the Herzegovinians, will fully explain this. Then the Turks are said to be depressed by the prolongation of the revolt, and their soldiers are both ill-fed and unpaid. If, however, the Great Powers were to declare unmistakably that the peace of Europe should, under no circumstances, be disturbed; if Servia were told that her territory would be occupied, if directly or indirectly she lent further countenance to the disaffected subjects of the Sultan, and if the latter were bidden to lay down their arms under penalty of being disarmed by Austria or Russia, the present sense of disquiet would soon pass away. But the Great, at least the Great Eastern Powers, cannot make up their minds to pursue a common policy; they are jealous of each other's influence, and thus there is a prospect of Europe drifting into war for want of a little energy. In France, matters are going more smoothly; the Bourse, in common with those of Vienna, Berlin, London, &c., has been agitated; but, apart from this, the public interest is limited to the verification of recent elections, the new Opera, and the approaching Paris International Exhibition. Rumours as to the retirement of the Czar still prevail, and a German paper announces it is incontestable that the Emperor has declared that as soon as the interests of Russia should make it impossible to avoid a war between any Emperor or Power, he would abdicate. The news from America is divided between the approaching Centennial celebration and the Belknap, and similar cases. General Schenk has undergone a long and severe examination respecting his connection with the Emma Mine, while the near approach of Mr. Belknap's impeachment causes no little excitement.

At the Quarterly Court of the Boys' School, on Monday, a printed appeal to Bro. Winn, for justice, was circulated by, or on behalf of, Mr. Theodore Wiesendanger, Second and Foreign Master at the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. We need not trouble our readers with the subject-matter of the complaint. Suffice it to say that Mr. Wiesendanger selected for the publication of his tale of woe the very day on which our Rev. Bro. Woodford was about bringing forward a certain motion, the object of which was to re-establish harmonious relations between West Yorkshire and the government of the Boys' School. We must point out to Mr. Wiesendanger that if he has, or thinks he has, a grievance against the Executive, he should submit it, in the first instance, to the House Committee, or to the General Committee. If he is still dissatisfied, there is a court of final appeal in the shape of the Quarterly General Court.

The next meeting of Grand Lodge is appointed to take place on Wednesday, the 26th inst., at 4 p.m. After the Installation of H.R.H. the M.W.G.M., the Grand Festival will be held.

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK;

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

SATURDAY, 15th APRIL.

198—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

MONDAY, 17th APRIL.

45—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem, St. John's-square, E.C., at 8. (Instruction.)
174—Sincerity, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., at 7. (Instruction.)
185—Tranquillity, City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, E.C., at 8.
1159—Marquess of Dalhousie, Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street.

226—York, Masonic Hall, York.
231—Phœnix of Honour and Prudence, Public Rooms, Truro.
340—Peace and Harmony, Freemasons' Hall, Southampton.
466—Merit, George Hotel, Stamford Baron, Northampton.
720—Panmure, Balham Hotel, Balham.
735—Stoneleigh, King's Arms Hotel, Kenilworth.
908—Alexandra, Masonic Hall, Holbeach.
1037—Portland, Royal Breakwater Hotel, Portland.
1141—Mid Sussex, Assembly Rooms, Horsham.
1338—Gooch, Prince Alfred Hotel, Southall.
1923—Israel, 23 Hope-street, Liverpool.

TUESDAY, 18th APRIL.

Board of General Purposes, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
30 United Mariners, Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street.
55—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
95 Eastern Star, Ship and Turtle, Leadenhall-street.
194 St. Paul's, City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, E.C.
860—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, at 8.30.

213—Perseverance, Masonic Hall, Theatre-street, Norwich.
409—Royal Sussex, George the Fourth, Nottingham.
1008—Tregallow, Masonic Rooms, St. Day, Scorrier, Cornwall.
1239—Beaconsfield, Red Lion, Leytonstone, at 8. (Instruction.)
1256—Stanley, Masonic Hall, Kirkdale, Liverpool.
1470—Chiltern, Town Hall, Dunstable.
R. A. 41—Royal Cumberland, Old Orchard-street, Bath.
R. A. 709—Oliver, Ball-ring-lane, Grimsby.

WEDNESDAY, 19th APRIL.

General Committee, Grand Chapter, at 3.
Lodge of Benevolence, Freemasons' Hall, at 6.
Grand Stewards' Lodge, Freemasons' Hall.
174—Sincerity, Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street.
190—Oak, Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street.
198—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
215—Euphrates, Masons' Hall, Basinghall-street, E.C.
1234—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Albion-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)

131—Mount Sinai, Public-buildings, Penzance.
137—Amity, Masonic Hall, Thames-street, Poole.
175—East Medina, Masonic Hall, John-street, Ryde, I.W.
199—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover. (Instruction.)
200—Old Globe, Private Rooms, Globe-street, Scarborough.
231—St. John's, Commercial Hotel, Town Hall Square, Bolton.
822—Cotteswold, King's Head Hotel, Cirencester.
885—Isca, Freemasons' Hall, Dock-street, Newport, Monmouthshire.
969—Sun and Sector, Assembly Rooms, Workington.
1040—Sykes, Masonic Hall, Great Driffield.
1096—Walton, St. Lawrence Boys' School, Kirkdale.
1114—Joppa, Corn Hall, Fakenham.
1130—St. Chad's, Roebuck Hotel, Rochdale.
1164—Eliot, Private Rooms, St. Germains, Cornwall.
1206—Cinque Ports, Bell Hotel, Sandwich.
1237—Anchor, Masonic Rooms, Durham House, Northallerton.
1443—Salem, Town Hall, Dawlish, Devon.
1501—Wycombe, Town Hall, High Wycombe.
R. A. 217—Faith and Unanimity, Masons' Hall, Dorchester.
R. A. 339—Vernon, Dragon Hotel, High-street, Walsall.
R. A. 1164—Eliot, Private Rooms, St. Germains, Cornwall.

THURSDAY, 20th APRIL.

House Committee, Girls' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
5—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, London-st., Fitzroy-sq., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
54—Constitutional, London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street.
169—Temperance, White Swan, High-street, Deptford.
181—Universal, Freemasons' Hall, W.C.
435—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 8. (Instruction.)
813—New Concord, Rosemary Branch Tavern, Hoxton.
1260—Hervey, 138 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1329—Stockwell, Half Moon, Herne-hill.
1469—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

56—Howard, High-street, Arundel.
260—Worcester, Bell Hotel, Worcester.
543—Concord, Militia Officers' Mess Rooms, Starkie-street, Preston.
623—John of Gaunt, Freemasons' Hall, Halford-street, Leicester.
663—Wiltshire of Fidelity, Town Hall, Devizes.
1144—Abbey, Masonic Hall, Battle, Sussex.
1252—Unity, Masonic Hall, Crediton, Devon.
R. A. 382—Regularity, Crown Hotel, King-street, Penrith.
R. A. 913—Paunson, Lord Raglan Tavern, Raglan-road, Plumstead.

FRIDAY, 21st APRIL.

House Committee, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
933—Doric, Earl Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1278—Burdett Coutts, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, 7.30. (Instruction.)
1867—Metropolitan, 289 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)

247—Noah's Ark, Wagon and Horses Hotel, Tiptree.
415—Phœnix, Fox Hotel, Stowmarket.

SATURDAY, 22nd APRIL.

Audit Committee, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall.
198—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Burdett, Mitre Hotel, Hampton Court.
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

MONDAY.

R. A. 139—Paradise, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
R. A. 309—Charity, New Masonic Hall, Darley-street, Bradford.

WEDNESDAY.

1018—Sincerity, Freemasons' Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield.
1301—Brighouse, Masonic Room, Bradford-road, Brighouse.
R. A. 259—Amphibalus, Freemasons's Hall, Heckmondwike.

THURSDAY.

603—Harmony, Freemasons' Hall, Salem-street, Bradford.
1043—Excelsior, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.
R. A. 276—Perseverance, Masonic Hall, South-parade, Huddersfield.
R. A. 1314—Scarborough, Wilton Arms Hotel, Batley.

FRIDAY.

1311—Zetland, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.
R. A. 631—Truth, Freemasons' Hall, Fitzwilliam-street, Huddersfield.
R. A. 827—Marquess of Ripon, Town Hall, Ripon.

SATURDAY.

R. A. 339—Affability, Station House, Bottoms, Eastwood.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

434—Borough, Freemasons' Hall, West-street, Gateshead.
M. M. 134—Union, Freemasons' Hall, Queen-street, Sunderland.

TUESDAY.

1427—Percy, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

WEDNESDAY.

1324—Norman, Freemasons' Hall, Old Elvet, Durham.
1360—Berwick, Masonic Hall, Park-terrace, Sunderland.
R. A. 240—St. Hilda, Freemasons' Hall, Fowler-street, South Shields.
M. M. 135—Hotspur, Freemasons' Hall, Market-place, Alnwick.

THURSDAY.

531—St. Helen's, Masonic Hall, Regent's-square, Hartlepool.
945—Philanthropy, Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-road, Stockton-on-Tees.

FRIDAY.

641—De Lorraine, Freemasons' Hall, Grainger-street-west, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

IRELAND.

WEDNESDAY—161—Excelsior, Bishop-street, Tuam.
THURSDAY—130—Industry, Dundonan, Donegal.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

MONDAY.—44—St. Luke, Freemasons' Hall.
TUESDAY—36—St. David, Ship Hotel, East Register-street.
" 406—Rifle, Freemasons' Hall.
WEDNESDAY—180—Roman Eagle, Imd Hotel, 62 Nicolson-street.
THURSDAY—45—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall.
" 126—Portobello, Royal Hotel, Bath-street.
" R. A. 145—Perseverance, Lodge Room, 66 Constitution-street.
FRIDAY—R. A. 83—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall.

GLASGOW DISTRICT.

MONDAY—339—Union, 170 Buchanan-street.
" K. T.—St. Mungo Encampment, 213 Buchanan-street.
TUESDAY—3 bis.—St. John's, 213 Buchanan-street.
" 73—Thistle and Rose, 170 Buchanan-street.
" 87—Thistle, 30 Hope-street.
" 407—Govandale, Portland Hall, Govan.
" 446—Clydesdale, 109 Rose-street.
WEDNESDAY—117—St. Mary, Douglas-street, Partick.
" 354—Caledonian Railway, 30 Hope-street.
" 371—Dramatic, 213 Buchanan-street, at 3 p.m.
" R. A. 135—St. John, Freemasons' Hall, Shettleston.
THURSDAY—27—St. Mungo, 213 Buchanan-street.
" 406—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall, Garngad-road.
FRIDAY—360—Commercial, 30 Hope-street.
" 426—Clyde, 170 Buchanan-street.
SATURDAY—366—St. John's, Muirdale, Masonic Hall, Holytown.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Cyrus Chapter, No. 21.—A Convocation of this Chapter was held on the 29th ult., at the Ship and Turtle, Leadenhall-street. Comps. T. W. White M.E.Z., J. E. Steed H., W. Smallpiece J., Dr. Barringer P.Z. Treasurer, E. Berridge S.N., J. Norton P.S. 1st Asst., J. W. G. Brugemann 2nd Asst., G. B. Smallpiece; P.Z.'s G. Lambert, E. Barrell, and W. S. Webster. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. A ballot was taken for the admission of Bro. Major Campbell, which being unanimously in his favour, he was duly exalted in a perfect and impressive manner. Comp. E. E. Cutler proposed, and Comp. E. Barrell P.Z. seconded, that a sum of twenty guineas be voted from the funds of the Chapter for the purpose of presenting Mrs. Barringer with a testimonial, as a mark of respect, and to Comp. Dr. Barringer, for his valuable services rendered to the Chapter for many years as Treasurer. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions adjourned to a very sumptuous banquet provided in Comps. C. and A. Painter's best style. The usual toasts were given, and a very agreeable evening was passed. Dr. Paull and several other Companions were present as visitors.

Egyptian Lodge, No. 27.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, Bro. J. Green W.M., Hales S.W., Walker J.W., H. G. Buss Treas., Poole P.M. Sec., Patteeden S.D., Richards J.D., T. Maidwell I.G., Salmonsen D.C., and P.M.'s Lamble, Atkins, Harrison, T. Sheppard, D. H. Jacobs, C. B. Payne, Libbis, and several others. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Kilner was raised to the 3rd degree. Bro. Chick was passed to the degree of a Fellow Craft, and Messrs. G. L. B. Walker and F. Lake were initiated. A notice of motion for a re-application for a Chapter in connection with the Lodge was given, after which the Lodge was closed and the brethren sat down to a very capital banquet, provided by Bro. Clemow and superintended by Bro. Smith. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and brought forth some excellent speeches. The Visitors were Bros. G. H. Harper P.G.S. and P.M. 46, J. B. Dyer 46, S. Chinnery P.M. 658, W. C. Holland S.W. 1321, and A. Ellis 993.

Digitized by Google

Kilwinning Lodge, No. 4.—This Lodge held an Emergency meeting on the 11th of April, in their own Hall, Glasgow. The chair was ably filled by the R.W.M. Bro. R. Prout, Bros. J. McInnes S.M. 408 acting as S.W., G. Holmes J.W., J. McKeand Treasurer, G. W. Wheeler acting as S.D., D. Ramsay Tyler. The R.W.M. having opened the Lodge, said this was a case of real emergency, and though he did not like giving the three degrees at once, still, as the gentleman was really leaving Glasgow shortly, they were only acting up to Grand Lodge Laws by allowing him to get his three degrees. The Lodge having voted it to a case of emergency, Mr. James Muirhead was introduced, and initiated by the R.W.M.; the Lodge was then opened in the 2nd degree, when Bro. Prout sen. P.M. the father of the present Master, who stated that he had not worked the degree for 15 years, passed him as a Fellow Craft; after which the Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and Bro. G. W. Wheeler 73 raised Bro. Muirhead to the sublime degree of a Master Mason. Thanks were given to Bro. Wheeler, J. McInnes, and other Visitors, for their attendance and services on this occasion, and the Lodge was duly closed.

St. Andrew's Royal Arch Chapter, No. 69. — This Chapter held its regular meeting at 170 Buchanan-street, on Tuesday, 11th April, Comp. T. M. Campbell presiding, who stated this meeting had to confirm, if it should so determine, the election of officers in place of the 1st and 3rd Principals, who had left the city. This having been done, a Mark Lodge was opened, when, at the request of Comp. Campbell, G. W. Wheeler Z. of 73, conferred that degree upon Bros. G. Allen M.M. of 73, and John McInnes Substitute Master of 408. The Chapter being again opened, Comp. J. Duthie Z. of 67, assisted by Comps. Wheeler Z. 73, and J. O. Park P.Z. 122, proceeded to Instal Comps. Thos. McKell Campbell P.Z. as Z. of the Chapter, Wm. Haynes R.W.M. 408 as J., and afterwards J. Fash S.E., and R. Prout R.W.M. 4 as S.N. Comp. Wheeler congratulated the Chapter on the possession of its new office bearers. Comp. Campbell had done as much for Royal Arch Masonry as any one in Glasgow. His name was on their charter as one of the 1st Principals 25 years ago. He had lost but little of his energy, and with two Masters of Lodges as officers under him as the S.N., whom he, Comp. Wheeler, had that night introduced to the Order, he thought their success was certain. Comp. Campbell replied, and proposed thanks to the Z.'s of 67, 73, and 122 for their services. Comps. Duthie, Wheeler and Park suitably acknowledged the compliment.

St. Mark's Lodge, No. 102.—This Lodge held its regular meeting in their own Hall, Buchanan-street, Glasgow, on Monday, 10th April, Bro. James Oswald Smith in the chair, Charles Halket P.M., John Reuter S.W., James Thompson J.W., A. C. Paterson Treas., H. McMillan S.D., J. B. Hardie Tyler. The work consisted of the passing of six Fellow Crafts, which was ably performed by Bro. P.M. Halket. Among the visitors we noticed Bros. Clark No. 0, G. M. Donald R.W.M., J. Bannerman D.M., J. Hanbridge J.W., and G. W. Wheeler of 73, J. Balfour P.M. 332, and J. McInnes D.M. of 408.

Prudent Brethren Chapter, No. 145.—A convocation of this Chapter, numerously attended, was held on Tuesday, the 11th instant, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Comps. C. A. Long M.E.Z., T. Bull H., Moody J., J. Last P.Z. Treas., G. S. States P.Z. S.E., S. E. Parker S.N., J. Cox as P.Z., Venn and Williams as 1st and 2nd Assistants. Comps. Headon, Braine, Chinnery, Belfrage, Davies, Banks, &c. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bros. A. W. Harrison W.M. 25, J. Moon 29, and J. Dowding 145, were exalted into Royal Arch Masonry. The working was done in a way that was a pleasure to listen to. The M.E.Z. said the Chapter had voted a jewel to the I.P.Z., Comp. Walford, for his services, and in placing it on his breast he hoped he might live long to wear it; he was sure it would remind him of the many pleasant hours passed in the Chapter. Comp. Walford briefly and suitably responded. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions adjourned to the Café Royal, Regent-street, where they partook of an excellent and well served banquet. Upon the removal of the cloth the M.E.Z. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, and we do not remember having heard any similar introduction of them, for there was a discourse in defence of the Queen, upon Monarchy, a dissertation upon politics, as well as a reference to horology and naval discipline. All these we may justly say are too prosy for a Masonic gathering, and we much regret the entire absence of both music and singing. Comp. Hyde Pullen returned thanks for the Grand Officers; Comps. Bishop Beeeles, F. Adlard, and J. L. Thomas for the Visitors, and John Boyd for the Past Principals, each of whom testified his appreciation of the excellent working they had heard at the Hall. This we gladly confirm, with all heartiness and sincerity, and congratulate the members of this Chapter upon having so painstaking a brother at their head as Comp. Boyd. Whilst he has the guiding of the work, comfort and happiness is ensured, and so high is he held in the estimation of his colleagues, that they all try to imitate the example he so nobly sets them. Our space precludes us giving fuller details. Suffice it to say, we thank the members of the Prudent Brethren Chapter for their hearty welcome and profuse hospitality, which are in fraternal and pleasing remembrance. The visitors were Comps. Hyde Pullen P.G.S.B., Major Clerke P.Z. 349, F. Adlard P.Z. 214, W. Kirby P.Z. 25, J. Constable J. 141, W. Baker 80, Powell 25, J. B. Middleton 2, W. B. Date, Bishop Beeeles (late of Sierre Leone), J. L. Thomas P.Z. 13, G. Henley 186, Hughes 19, Purnell P.Z. 804, and H. M. Levy P.Z. 188.

Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, No. 174.—This Lodge held its annual banquet on Monday, 10th April, at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street. Present—Bros. Wells W.M. 174 W.M., Ellis 993 S.W. and Sec., Webb I.G. 174 J.W., Lacey P.M. 174 Treas., A. H. Brown and F. Brown Stewards. P.M.'s Bros. Crawley Preceptor, Rawley, Newton, Lacy, also Bros. Richards 27, J. S. Fraser 174, W. Fraser 174, Salmonese 27, Birchall 174, Blain 174, Johnson 174, Bradbrook 1349, Clements 1349, Maidwell I.G. 27, Morris 174. After an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Maidwell, which gave unqualified satisfaction, the W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, then that of prosperity to the Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, coupled with the name of Bro. Ellis, Secretary of the Instruction Lodge, who responded, stating that he was convinced that working in Masonry not only communicated knowledge but was a source of intelligence and happiness, and sincerely thanked Bro. Crawley, as Preceptor of the Lodge, for his kindness and willingness to impart the knowledge the brethren were anxious to gain. The health of the Preceptor was then given. Bro. Crawley in response, said he thanked the brethren for the toast, and stated that Masonry and the improvement of society went together and led to unity and sound friendships, &c. He was pleased to teach, and he hoped it was a pleasure for the brethren to learn. Bro. Lacey then responded to the toast of the Treasurer. Among other remarks, he referred to the working of Masonic Associations for obtaining Life Governorships, and stated that, as Treasurer of one of the Associations, he had just paid 50 guineas to the Boys' and Girls' Institutions. On behalf of the toast of the Officers of the Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, Bro. Webb, I.G. 174, responded, and said that he hoped, by study and perseverance, to attain that high position in Freemasonry which is the ambition of all good Masons. Bro. F. Brown responded to the toast of the Committee. They were pleased that their arrangements had given satisfaction; he considered it a greater pleasure to communicate happiness to others than to receive it. Bro. Rawley P.M. 174 responded to the toast of the P.M.'s of the Lodge of Sincerity. The toast of the Host and Hostess was responded to by Bro. Maidwell. Bros. Bradbrook, Maidwell, Richards, F. Brown, Crawley, Newton, Wells, Blain, Johnson, and Birchall contributed to the pleasure of the evening by some excellent songs and recitations.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193. — This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Wednesday, the 12th April, at Bro. Bell's, Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue. Present—Bros. C. J. Turner W.M., Samuel J. Turquand S.W., J. Blackhall J.W., J. K. Pitt Secretary, J. Constable Treasurer, E. Abell S.D., F. Croaker J.D., Pelton I.G., Christopher Tyler; Walker, Morgan, Battye, &c. Business—The Lodge having been opened, and the minutes confirmed, Bro. Battye was presented for passing; having been entrusted, the Lodge was opened in 2nd degree, and Bro. Battye passed thereto. Bro. Constable worked the 1st and 2nd sections of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. The W.M. then opened to third degree, and closed down. Bro. Turquand was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks was accorded to the W.M. for his efficiency in the Chair, for the first time in this Lodge. The Auditor's Report was presented and received, and ordered to be entered upon the minutes. The Lodge was closed and adjourned.

Star Lodge, No. 219.—This Lodge having announced that they intended to hold a harmony meeting on Monday, 10th April, in their Hall, No. 12 Trongate, it was completely filled, there being about 140 brethren present, including most of the members of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow, and a large deputation from St. John's, Busby, No. 458, but previous to the harmony commencing, Bro. Morgan initiated four candidates, in his usual perfect style. The sight of good work was a fitting prelude to the good singing and reciting that followed, and the brethren separated, highly pleased with a night well spent.

Lodge of Harmony, No. 309.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Thursday, the 6th of April, at the Red Lion Hotel, Fairham. Present—Bros. John Whale W.M., Edward Downing S.W., Thos. Robinson J.W., E. G. Holbrook P.M. Secretary, A. G. A. Morrison P.M. Treasurer, A. Nance jun. J.D., G. A. Green P.M. D.C., Edgar Goble I.G., and J. Reddle Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. H. Ford I.P.M., and S.G. Warden of the Province, James Tayler, Rev. Dr. White (Chaplain), and several other members and visitors. The minutes of the previous Lodge and a subsequent Lodge of Emergency having been confirmed, three candidates were balloted for and unanimously elected. Mr. John James Wright, C.E., of Portsmouth Dockyard Extension Works, the only one present, being initiated by the W.M. Two brethren (Bros. J. Gaman and H. W. Jeans) were subsequently passed to the degree of F.C., the ceremony being performed in each case by the W.M. The Lodge having resumed to the first degree, several communications were read by the Secretary, who also called attention to the case of Mrs. Dork, one of the candidates at the next election for the Benevolent Institution, the widow of an old member of the Lodge, a subscriber for over 34 years, and who served the office of W.M. so long back as 1831. A resolution was passed, strongly urging Mrs. Dork's claims upon the consideration of the Charities Committee of the Province. Four candidates were proposed for initiation, two by the Secretary (P.M. Holbrook), and two by the Treasurer (P.M. Morrison), and the Lodge was closed.

Digitized by Google

Pomfret Lodge, No. 360.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Thursday, the 6th of April, at the George Hotel, Northampton. Present—Bros. M. A. Bohmé P.M. W.M., R. Winter S.W., T. Whitehouse J.W., G. Robinson P.M. Secretary, B. Wilkins D.P.G.M. Treasurer, F. Gadsby S.D., H. W. Parker J.D., J. T. Green D.C., J. U. Stanton P.M. and T. B. Wood Stewards, J. S. Norman I.G., Dean and Kirby Tylers. P.M.'s—Bros. Kingston, Barford, Dorrell, T. Manning, T. Sargeant, T. Green, Aldridge, Ashford, Atkins, Bouverie, Brown, Ellard, Hill, Winsor, Allen, Cox, Sanders, Hart, &c. Business—Bros. J. A. S. Bouverie, Capt. J. L. J. Gordon, and S. L. Seckham were duly elected subscribing members. Messrs. E. H. Cox, P. Allen, S. J. W. Sanders and John J. Hart were duly elected and initiated, the W.M. being assisted in the ceremonies by Bros. Barford and Kingston.

Union Lodge, No. 414.—The usual monthly meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday last, at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present—A. Muskett Yeats W.M., S. Pocock S.W., E. Baker J.W., G. Botly Treas., C. Cadee S.D., S. Bradley J.D., C. Stephens I.G., R. C. Mount D.C.; also W. H. Strickland I.P.M., W. T. Mercer P.P.G.M. of China, J. A. Strachan P.M., R. Bradley P.M., J. Weightman P.M., J. Morris P.M., S. Wheeler, F. J. Ferguson, C. Cave, P. Blackwell, F. Albury, &c. Visitors—J. Greenfield P.M. 1101, T. C. Eberly P.P.G.S.W. Durham. Business—Lodge was duly opened, and the minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Four candidates were elected; Bro. Carleton V. Blyth, "Pitt Macdonald" Lodge, 1198, was elected a joining member. Mr. H. M. Vincent and Mr. F. W. Hunton were severally initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry. Bros. Archibald, Brakspear, and Dryland Haslam having answered the necessary questions were passed to the second degree. There being no further business the Lodge was then closed in due and ancient form.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction.—The regular weekly meeting of this Lodge was held on the 11th April, at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. Cambridge W.M., Smith S.W., Allen J.W., Perrin S.D., Lovelock J.D., Barker I.G., Wallington Preceptor, Worsley Hon. Secretary; also Bros. Follett, Cull, Glover and Johnson. Bro. Johnson having answered the questions, was passed to the 2nd degree, the W.M. very carefully working the ceremony. The Preceptor then rehearsed the ceremony of installation, after which the 2nd and 3rd Sections of the first Lecture were worked. The Lodge was then closed in due form. N.B.—Bro. Pinder will work the fifteen sections, at the above Lodge, on Tuesday, 25th April next.

Welshpool Lodge, No. 998.—This Lodge held its St. John's meeting on Friday, the 31st day of March, at the Lodge room, Railway Station, Welshpool. Present—Bros. Frederick Britton W.M., T. McGrath S.W., T. R. Morris J.W., T. R. Morris Secretary, W. Withey P.M. Treasurer, G. Brown S.D., J. Danily D.C., H. N. Gilbank Steward, Richards I.G., J. Barnard Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. W. Callender I.P.M., D. P. Owen P.M., and the following brethren—A. Ikin, Anderson, W. E. Rider, J. Owen, E. Owen, &c. Visitor—Bro. Robinson. The Lodge was opened by the Worshipful Master at 3 30 p.m., when the customary business was disposed of. The Treasurer's balance sheet was presented and read, which was received with great favour by the brethren, there being a larger balance than the Lodge had ever had in its favour. The W.M. afterwards announced that the installation of the W.M. elect would be proceeded with, when Bro. Callender I.P.M. presented Bro. T. R. Morris J.W. as the W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. P. Britton W.M. performed the ceremony in an impressive manner, assisted by Bro. D. P. Owen P.M. This being completed, the W.M. invested his officers for the ensuing year as follow—Bros. F. Britton I.P.M., G. Brown S.W., J. Sides Davies J.W., D. P. Owen P.M. Secretary, W. Withey Treasurer (during the investing of this officer the Installing Master presented No. 998 with the badge for this office), T. McGrath D.C., J. Danily S.D., H. N. Gilbank J.D., J. W. Anderson I.G., J. Barnard Tyler. Before closing the Lodge the W.M. (Bro T. R. Morris) said that he had the pleasure to present the I.P.M. (Bro. Britton) with a P.M.'s jewel, given by the Lodge, which was duly acknowledged. The jewel presented was a work of art, both chaste and beautiful, had the words "Welshpool Lodge, No. 998," on the front side, whilst the reverse was engraved as follows—"Presented by the Welshpool Lodge No. 998 to Bro. Frederick Britton P.M. to mark the efficient manner in which he discharged the duties of W.M., A.D. 1875-76. The business being completed, the Lodge was closed according to ancient custom, and the brethren adjourned to a splendid banquet. After supper the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, interspersed with songs after which the evening was brought to a close by the time-honoured toast, "to all poor and distressed Masons."

Asaph Lodge, No. 1319.—This Lodge, which is composed of members of the musical and theatrical profession, met on Monday, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. C. J. Jekyll W.M., W. A. Finney S.W., Edward Terry J.W., G. Buckland S.D., E. Swanborough J.D., Harry Cox D.C., C. Wellard I.G., E. Stanton Jones P.M. Secretary, C. H. Stephenson Steward, J. Gilbert Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. Frewin, C. Coote and Chamberlain. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. W. B. Fair and R. F. Rochester were passed to the 2nd degree. Bro. C. G. Alias was raised to the 3rd degree, and Messrs. H. P. Hammond and Harry Crouch were initiated into the Order. There were 42 brethren present, and the working was perfectly rendered in the various ceremonies. Bro. Loftus P.M. P.G.S.W. Norfolk was present as a visitor.

Addiscombe Lodge, No. 1556.—An Emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on Saturday last, the 8th inst., the following brethren being present—S. J. Turquand W.M., J. Parsons Smith J.W., W. S. Masterman A.I.P.M. Treasurer, H. Frances P.G.D. for Surrey Secretary, Gray S.D., L. Turquand I.G., Bro. Dickson visitor, and other brethren. Messrs. Foss, Cooper and Crumly were duly initiated into the Order, and Bro. Abbot passed to the second degree. All Masonic business being ended, the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, provided by the hostess of the Alma, where the Lodge is held.

Leopold Lodge of Instruction, No. 1571.—The fifteen sections were most ably worked in the above-named Lodge of Instruction by the W.M. of the Mother Lodge, Bro. C. W. Kent P.M. The number of brethren who attended to support him was quite evidence enough of the popularity of our esteemed Brother. The sections were worked by the following brethren:—

First Lecture.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. Macrow, J.W. 879.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. Dalby I.P.M.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. Ashton, 879.
4th "	... ...	Bro. Hudson, W.M. 879.
5th "	... ...	Bro. Bartlett, P.M. 169.
6th "	... ...	Bro. Baker, 1571.
7th "	... ...	Bro. Stephens, P.M. 879.

Second Lecture.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. Smith, 1257.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. Noehmer, P.M. 186.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. Church, 169.
4th "	... ...	Bro. Magee, J.D. 548.
5th "	... ...	Bro. Magee, J.D. 548.

Third Lecture.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. Senr, P.M. 186.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. Church, 169.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. Stephens, P.M. 879.

Some of the brethren being members of the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, the working was a pleasure to hear; that by Bros. Noehmer, Magee and Stephens meeting with deserved and well earned applause.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF DUMBARTONSHIRE.

LAYING A FOUNDATION STONE.

THE Glasgow Working Men's Investment and Building Society Limited have purchased a piece of ground at Dalmuir, on which they are about to erect sixty-eight houses for working men, of three rooms each, at a cost of about £160 each, to be paid for within 21 years. They are situated near the large ship-building works, which the increase of the Glasgow docks have driven thus far down the Clyde, eight miles from Glasgow. The Directors of the Company, to signalise the event applied to A. Smellet, Esq., M.P., P.G.M. for Dumbartonshire, who at once gave his consent, and requested Wm. Cunningham Steel, Sheriff of the County, his Substitute Master, to officiate on the occasion. The P.G.L. was opened in the new Masonic Hall, Dalmuir, the laying of the foundation stone of which was recorded some eighteen months since. The Lodge was opened by Bro. Sheriff Steel acting P.G.M., and Bro. J. McLeish R.W.M. No. 321 D.G.M.

A procession was then formed of the following Lodges, Dumbartonshire, St. John, Dalmuir 543, St. Andrews 341, of Alexandria, St. John's, Kirkintilloch 28, Dumbarton, Kilwinning 18. The Glasgow Lodges were represented by good deputations from the Plantation 551, Dramatic 571, Kenmuir 570, and the Glasgow Thistle and Rose 73, preceded by the Volunteer band of the village, and marshalled by Brother the P.G.M., master gunner of the Royal Artillery, stationed at Dumbarton Castle; they marched about a mile to the site of the new building, where the stone was laid with the accustomed ceremonies, and the P.G. Chaplain, the Rev. Bro. Wilson, of Renfrew, offered up a most impressive prayer.

The P.G.M. also delivered an address, in the course of which he thanked the Directors for the honour they had conferred on the Freemasons, by asking them to lay this stone; and the pleasure he experienced in being deputed to perform the ceremony. As a Sheriff of Dumbartonshire, he was glad to bear official recognition of the kindness of their friends in Glasgow, though they were stationed in Lanarkshire; and among the other benefits they had conferred on their native country he concluded this of executing these workmen's dwellings, replete, as they would be, with all sanitary arrangements. Water had had to be brought from a long distance, as well as gas, yet these and a perfect system of drainage had been provided, and as Masons, they were proud to see all these benefits prepared for the working men, the wealth-producers of the nation; and better still these houses were to be the toilers' own. That looked like a substantial reward for toil, and they all knew it was the hope of reward that sweetened labour. Savings banks were very good in their place, but the idea of having a house of your own to live in, and then leave to your descendants, he considered a far greater inducement to habits of thrift and industry than even the savings bank. He was glad, therefore, to hear of the progress of the Society, which, though only three years old, has received, principally by savings from the whisky shops, £49,760. They had already built 120 houses, and let 96 of them, and when these, of which he had now laid the corner stone, were completed, there would be 168. This was a work that every Freemason could cordially support, as it was tending to raise the moral and social status of our fellow working men.

Digitized by Google

The Secretary, Bro. Riddle, read letters of apology from Mr. Thompson and Dr. Begg, of Edinburgh. Mr. Edmiston, Chairman of the Directors, then requested the P.G.M. to accept the handsome silver trowel which he had used in the ceremony. Bro. Steel, in reply, said it would not be the least valuable of the heir-looms he should leave to his family. The procession then returned in inverted order to the Lodge room, where the Provincial Grand Lodge was closed, the brethren remaining together in harmony till the last trains took them east and west to their respective destinations.

In consequence of domestic affliction the place of the P.G.S., Bro. McBride, was supplied by Bro. Ferguson, P.M. St. John's, Dalmuir, 548.

MASONS ON THE MOUNTAINS.

From the "NEW ENGLAND FREEMASON."

THE eastern press published at the time of its occurrence, last September, an account of a remarkable meeting of the Masons of Nevada, in the vicinity of Virginia City, on the top of Mount Davidson, eight thousand feet above the level of the sea; but the account was merely a crowded newspaper paragraph, and did not give an adequate idea of the event, which was a most remarkable one, and worthy of commemoration. The brethren of the Virginia Lodge, No. 3, of Nevada, have caused an elegant memorial of the affair to be prepared for preservation by the participants, viz.: a full account of the proceedings, contained in a broadside of the "Virginia Territorial Enterprise," of 9 Sept. 1875, printed upon white silk, bordered with blue,—a beautiful object when framed, as well as being valuable for its Masonic associations. A copy of this as been sent to Brother B. P. Shillaber, of Chelsea, by friends in Nevada, and we have been permitted to prepare from it an account in detail of that most exalted Convocation, of which we gave only a brief notice in our October number.

In May last the Virginia Lodge was "burnt out," and, through the kindness of their neighbours, the Odd Fellows, was sheltered in the apartments of that Order, until, by the great fire early in September, they, with their generous entertainers, were made homeless. Under these circumstances, with no place of meeting, it occurred to the brethren that they might revive the custom of the ancients, who held their meetings on the tops of hills or in low valleys; and they saw in Mount Davidson, their neighbour, an excellent place for the purpose. The summit, which is but about three-quarters of a mile from the city, is accessible to pedestrians and horses, but the way is tedious. About three hundred brethren joined the procession, on foot and horseback, seventy from Virginia Lodge, and visitors from Gold Hill, Silver City, Dayton and Carson, including M.W. Robert W. Bollen, Grand Master, J. McGinnis, Grand Marshal, and a suite of Past Grand Officers.

This place of meeting was certainly one that would not have been selected for its facilities as a Lodge, nor its comfort, it being but a jumble of broken and ragged rocks; yet the "Enterprise" launches forth into the most eloquent description of it, which we copy:—

"Never, since the morning stars sang their lullaby over the cradled earth, was there a more perfect representation of a Masonic Lodge room than the one in which the members of Virginia, No. 3, and their visiting brethren, held their communication yesterday. This existed not only in the Charter, the Greater and Lesser Lights, and the number requisite to compose a Lodge, but it was literally bounded by the extreme points of the compass. Its dimensions from east to west, and from north to south, embraced every clime. Its covering was no less than the clouded canopy; and it is only where this is wanting that the literal supports—the three great pillars of Wisdom, Strength and Beauty—are needed. But, metaphorically, they were all there; for where in a Lodge room was ever seen such wisdom to contrive, strength to support, and beauty to adorn. Verily, it was a meeting in the temple of Deity, and the wisdom, strength and beauty which are about His throne were present in the symmetry, order and grandeur of this primitive Lodge room. It was a Lodge, the dimensions of which, like the universal chain of friendship of the Order, included the entire human family. Upon the brow of the mountain, and a little south of the flag-staff, an alter of rough ashlar had been improvised, whereon rested the three Great Lights of Masonry. Beside them stood the representatives of the three lesser lights. Rude chairs had also been built of rough granite for the W.M., S.W. and J.W., while the Deacons found ample accommodation among the boulders around. A large G had been cut from sheet metal, and nailed to the flag-staff. The Tyler was indeed in trouble; for in such a place how could the Lodge be securely tyled in accordance with Masonic usage? But under the direction of the W.M., a row of pickets, designated by white badges on their left arms, was stationed all around the summit. They were near each other, so that none could pass or repass without permission."

The Lodge came to order at the sound of the gavel, when, as among so many as were in attendance, it was impossible to find vouchers for all, the M.W.G.M. present granted a dispensation to open without form. An opening ode was sung by the Lodge quartette, a prayer offered by Rev. G. D. Hammond; then the white Masonic flag, emblazoned with the square and compasses and the letter G, was flung to the breezes, greeted by cheers, and the work began. The jewels worn, made from Ophir gold, and valued at 500 dols., had passed through both fires; and though warped, and some portions melted, but one was missing.

W. Albert Hiree then called M.W.G.M. Bollen to the East, who presided in a very happy manner. In taking the position, he said he had been a Mason for twenty-eight years, and this was the happiest moment of his life. He alluded pleasantly to the old custom of holding meetings on the hills, and recalled several instances where meetings had thus been held in California—one at Ragtown, where the brethren had thus met to raise money and provisions for suffering emigrants, over which he had the honour to preside; another at Eureka, in 1851, another in Auburn, California, and another where the three degrees had been conferred; but gave Virginia Lodge the credit of opening a Lodge higher than any ever opened in the United States.

The Lodge then proceeded to business, under the call of "good of the Order," and closed for social observance of the occasion.

Hon. Brother C. E. De Long, of Virginia Lodge, was called up and made a brilliant speech, a brief abstract of which we quote from the "Enterprise." He alluded to the fact that "events, however unimportant in themselves, and considered trifling at the time, not infrequently marked great epochs in the world's history. The events of the day, although considered but the events of a holiday, would be a marked epoch in Masonry. He pictured forcibly the rise and fall of nations. It was the pride and glory of the Craft that it had survived the fall of governments and all the changes of the moving world. They were assembled beneath the All-Seeing Eye of Him who is the Grand Architect of the Universe, and it behoved each Brother, with that light shining into his heart, to ask himself if he was living true to the tenets of the Order and to the lessons taught in the Lodge room. He sketched the surroundings within which they had erected their altar. Beneath them was the wealth of Ophir, and around them the tumult of trade. The earth seemed accurst and rendered an unfit dwelling-place for man, but it is to be redeemed through the intelligence of man, and each one had his part to perform in the work. He then told how, in Japan, he had assisted in welding the link in Masonry which made the chain complete around the world. Up to that time there had been one land where the Order was not known. Now there was none. Masonry belted the globe. The lights of the altar had been lighted, and now there were six Lodges in the empire of Japan."

Col. R. H. Taylor, a visiting brother, then read the following beautiful and appropriate poem:—

The Lord unto the Prophet said:
"Upon the mountain's topmost round,
Far as its breezy limits spread,
Shall be most holy ground."

'Neath God's blest dome, on lofty hills,
Whose crests first catch the morning heat,
—Whose light the evening glory fills,—
The Craft was wont to meet.

There, far above the busy mart,
And from its care and turmoil free,
They learned the lesson of the heart,
To "work" and to "agree."

Oh, sacred hills of olden time,
Whose hoary crags resist the gale,
Ye have a history sublime
The ages cannot pale!

Again, to-day, the sons of light,
As did their sires of olden days,
Upon the mountain's dizzy height,
Their mystic banner raise.

Again, above the dizzy marts,
Where human feet have seldom trod,
We raise our voices and our hearts
In reverence to God.

Almighty Father! by whose will
The mountains rise, and worlds do move,
Thy blessing grant; descend and fill
Each Mason's heart with love.

Brother E. A. Sherman made a brief speech, in which he alluded to the significance of the meeting upon Mount Davidson—our Grand Master Solomon being David's son. Brother Gen. Williams indulged in reminiscences of past Brethren of the Order. Brother R. M. Daggett made a short speech, ending with: "I have nothing against any brother here, so help me God;" and Brothers Currie and Hopkins closed the speaking, which was all excellent. A "touching prayer" was offered by Rev. Brother S. P. Kelly, "Auld Lang Syne" was sung by the gathering, and the Lodge closed in "ample form," the brethren, before they left the mountain, chipping the altar to pieces for relics.

Previous to closing, a vote of thanks was moved by Brother De Long, to Brother Gen. J. H. Winters, for starting the movement which had given them all such gratification, which vote was carried.

The following States and countries were represented by those present: New York, California, West Virginia, Kansas, Michigan, Utah, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, Maine, Colorado, New Jersey, Washington, D. C., England, Scotland, Minnesota, Massachusetts, Oregon, Washington Ter., Virginia, Nova Scotia, North Carolina, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Canada West, Idaho, New Zealand, Kentucky. Several ladies were present, and a number of children.

A gratuitous paragraph in the "Enterprise" describes an "isolated" but important feature of the day: "The multitude yesterday upon the mountain were greatly indebted to Mr. Mackay for the thoughtful and timely donation of one hundred and fifty pounds of ice, which he hired toted to the top on the backs of two Chinamen's mules. These mules were afterwards stationed between the flag-staff and the city, and may have been mistaken by near-sighted individuals for true Masonic goats."

The Lodge has since been rebuilt, and was to have been ready for dedication 1st January 1876.

Digitized by Google

THE THEATRES, &c.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—On Saturday, LA TRAVIATA. On Monday, IL FLAUTO MAGICO. On Tuesday, LA TRAVIATA. On Thursday, I PURITANI. On Friday, DON GIOVANNI. On Saturday, LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR. Each evening at 8.30.

DRURY LANE.—On Wednesday and Friday, at 8.30, HAMLET.

LYCEUM.—At 7.0, THE RENDEZVOUS. At 7.45, OTHELLO. On Tuesday, QUEEN MARY.

ADELPHI.—On Monday, POOR PILLICOODDY, STRUCK OIL, AND MY OWN GHOST.

PRINCESS'S.—At 7.0, THE WHITE HAT. At 8.0, RIP VAN WINKLE, and HEAD OF A CLAN.

STRAND.—L'AFRICAINE, &c.

GAIETY.—At 7.15, OPERETTA. At 8.15, WIG AND CROWN. At 10.15, A SPELLING BEE. On Monday, MY AWFUL DAD, and COOL AS A CUCUMBER.

CHARING CROSS.—On Monday, at 8.0, ALL FOR THEM. At 8.45, TWENTY POUNDS A YEAR, ALL FOUND. At 9.45, YOUNG RIP VAN WINKLE.

OLYMPIC.—At 7.30, FASCINATING FELLOWS. At 8.0, THE GASCON. At 10.45, VESTA'S TEMPLE.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—At 8.0, WRINKLES.

ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE.—At 7.30, THE TAILOR MAKES THE MAN. At 8.15, JO.

GLOBE.—MISS GWILT.

VAUDEVILLE.—At 7.30, A WHIRLIGIG. At 8.0, OUR BOYS, and A FEARFUL FOG.

COURT.—At 8.0, A SCRAP OF PAPER, and A QUIET RUBBER.

ST. JAMES'S.—On Monday, MODEL OF A WIFE, and THE SULTAN OF MOCHA.

ROYALTY.—At 7.30, MARRIED BACHELORS. At 8.15, POM.

DUKE'S.—SAM HAGUE'S MINSTRELS.

OPERA COMIQUE.—On Monday, at 7.45, TRIAL BY JURY. At 8.30, MADAME ANGOT.

CRITERION.—THE GREAT DIVORCE CASE, and ROBIN HOOD.

ALHAMBRA.—LE VOYAGE DANS LA LUNE, &c.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.—This day, THE MESSIAH, &c. On Monday and during the week, EASTER ATTRACTIONS. Open Daily, SKATING RINK, &c.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—This day, CONCERT, &c. On Monday and during the week, EASTER ATTRACTIONS. Open daily. AQUARIUM, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL AQUARIUM SUMMER AND WINTER GARDEN. Open daily. CONCERT, &c.

POLYTECHNIC.—GABRIEL GRUB, AND THE GRIM GOBLIN. HOLIDAY BUDGET OF CURIOUS EXPERIMENTS. PROGRESS OF ROYALTY IN INDIA. THE AERIAL MERCURY. Many other entertainments. Open twice daily, at 12.0 and 7.0. Admission 1s.

EGYPTIAN (LARGE) HALL.—MASKELYNE AND COOKE, daily at 3.0 and 8.0.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

"A suitable gift from a Master to his Lodge."

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 8s 6d EACH,

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUMES I. and II.

Sent, Carriage Paid, to any address in the United Kingdom, on receipt of Cheque or P.O.O.

London:—W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Cloth Cases for Binding can be had from the Offices, price 1s 6d each.

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE can be ordered of any Bookseller in Town or Country, but should any difficulty be experienced, it will be forwarded direct from the Office, on receipt of Post Office Order for the amount. Intending Subscribers should forward their full Addresses to prevent mistakes.

Post Office Orders to be made payable to W. W. MORGAN, at Barbican Office. Cheques crossed "London and County."

The Terms of Subscription (payable in advance) to THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE are—

Twelve Months, Post Free	...	...	£0 13 6
Six Months	ditto	...	... 0 7 0
Three Months	ditto	...	... 0 3 6

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisers will find THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE an exceptionally good medium for Advertisements of every class.

Per Page...	£8 0 0
Back Page	£10 0 0

General Advertisements, Trade Announcements, &c. single column, 5s per inch. Double Column Advertisements 1s per line. Special Terms for a Series of insertions on application.

Births, Marriages and Deaths, 6d per line.

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief PARISIAN ESTABLISHMENTS, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE,

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.

It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face,
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 6d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

ELECTION 19th May.—BRO. CONSTABLE would be pleased to exchange Men's Votes for Widows.

Address, 58 Richmond Road, Barnsbury, N.

MR. THOMAS C. MACROW,

252 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD,

LONDON, S.E.

(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)

BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let quickly and quickly (Town or Country). All parties wishing to sell, call or send full particulars. Registration fee. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 3. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c. Tamar (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—2s 6d per box, post free 2d extra.—H. GRILLON, 34 Coleman-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,

BRO. J. L. MATHEW, P.M. 65, 1237, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Winchester-street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

YOUNG'S Arnicated Corn and Bunion Plasters are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d and 1s per box. Any Chemist not having them in stock can procure them.

Observe the Trade Mark—H. Y.—without which none are genuine. Be sure and ask for Young's.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY.—A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a simple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.

Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Musgrave Crescent, Fulham, London.

Digitized by Google

H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF

MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND REGALIA,

5 ST. JOHN SQUARE, LONDON.

PRICE LIST ON APPLICATION.

SPENCER'S MASONIC MANUFACTORY,

OPPOSITE FREEMASONS' HALL.

COSTUME, JEWELS AND FURNITURE FOR ALL DEGREES.

A QUANTITY IN STOCK.

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.

SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

A. D. LOEWENSTARK & SONS,

MASONIC JEWELLERS AND MILITARY MEDALLISTS,

26 GREAT QUEEN STREET, W.C. AND 210 STRAND, W.C.

The Largest Assortment of Past Masters' & Royal Arch Jewels in London.

ALSO JEWELS FOR EVERY DEGREE.

MINIATURE WAR MEDALS & FOREIGN DECORATIONS, WHOLESALE, RETAIL & FOR EXPORTATION.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

ESTABLISHED 1833.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,

MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,

AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING

Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.

MANUFACTORY—83 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;

AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.

ESTIMATES GIVEN.

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR.

INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (Regd.)

"BRO. ADLARD'S fine Jewel ATTACHER, from the simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price 7s 6d, (if with cockets for Jewels of each pocket extra) places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and usefulness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Kelyn Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,

Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8. No. 96 for APRIL, now ready. Sixpence. CHESS, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE DRAMA.

W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

"There should be a better reason for the rate of Depositors than a fluctuating rule of two or three per cent."—INVESTOR'S GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited.) Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City; and 217 and 270 Regent-street, W. Established 1862, receives Deposits, On Demand, 5 per cent. Subject to Notice, 10 per cent. Opens Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to examine this new and improved system, that ensures a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never realised one of its hypothecated any of the securities. To BORROWERS.—It offers pre-eminent advantages for prompt advances on leases, reversions, policies, trade stocks, farm produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, sureties, or fees. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 217 and 270 Regent-street, W. Enrolled last 1862. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. To INVESTORS.—Deposits received at liberal interest. The Directors by strict economy have 10 shares paid every investor 10 and 12 per cent. per annum. Borrowers are offered several facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. New and Special Feature.—The Society will build Houses, etc., in any approved part of Great Britain, finding the whole cost of the building, at 5 per cent., repayable by instalments, the equivalent merely finding the plan and paying or giving security for the first 5 years' interest. Prospectuses, balance-sheets, and every guidance free. Active Agents wanted. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

THE "SPECIALITE SHERRY."

FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT.—The British Medical Journal.

VALUABLE FOR GOUTY OR URIC ACID TENDENCIES."—Dr. HARDWICKE, Metropolitan Analyst, Coroner for Middlesex.

ADOPTED AND RECOMMENDED BY nearly 3,000 Physicians and Surgeons for its Valuable Dietetic Qualities. 30s per dozen.

FELTOE & SONS, Sole Proprietors and Importers. Chief Establishment, Albemarle-street, London, W.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES. Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE (a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.

This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction.

BEST HATS 21s; those are unequalled.

NOW READY.

New Edition, Enlarged, Crown 8vo., Cloth 6s.

WAIFS AND STRAYS, CHIEFLY FROM THE CHESS BOARD, by Captain Hugh A. Kennedy, Vice-President of the British Chess Association.

LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN.

Demy 8vo, Price 7s 6d.

POSITIONS IN THE CHESS OPENINGS MOST FREQUENTLY PLAYED.

Illustrated with copious Diagrams.

By T. LONG, B.A., T.C.D.,

Being a supplement to the "Key to the Chess Openings," by the same author.

LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN E.C.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY Limited, 7 Bank Buildings, Lothbury, E.C.

General accidents. | Personal injuries.
Railway accidents. | Death by accident.

C. HARDING, Manager.

DYER'S WATCHES. Best and Cheapest in the World.

LOWEST Wholesale cash prices: Aluminium, 30s 6d; Silver, 36s; Silver Levers, 55s; Gold, 50s; Levers, 65s. All kinds of Watches, Clocks, and Gold Jewellery. Every watch timed, tested and warranted for two years. Orders sale per post. Price lists and illustrations free.—DYER & SONS, Watch Manufacturers, 90 Regent Street, London, W., and Chaux-de-Fonds.

NEW WORKS ON FREEMASONRY,

BY

Bro. CHALMERS I. PATON,

(Past Master No. 393, England).

FREEMASONRY: ITS SYMBOLISM, RELIGIOUS NATURE, AND LAW OF PERFECTION. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

FREEMASONRY AND ITS JURISPRUDENCE. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

THE ORIGIN OF FREEMASONRY: THE 1717 THEORY EXPLODED. Price 1s.

LONDON: REEVES & TURNER, 196 STRAND.

AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

The Marvellous Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, and all Chest Affections.

PECTORINE.

Sold by all Chemists, in bottles, at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d and 11s each, sent by the Proprietors upon receipt of Stamps.

From Rev. J. STONEHOUSE, St. Saviour's Vicarage, Nottingham.

AUGUST 1874.

DEAR SIR,—I can strongly recommend your Pectorine as an invaluable Cough Remedy. I have given it a fair trial in my own family, and have also supplied it to persons suffering from Cough in my parish, and in every instance it has given immediate relief. In some cases, after passing sleepless nights, one or two doses of the Pectorine have had such a good effect that persons have got a good night's rest, and the Cough has speedily disappeared.

Mr. A. ROLFE, St. Ann's Square, Manchester,

Says: "Your Pectorine is superior to any Medicine I have ever tried for Coughs or Colds."

PECTORINE cures the worst forms of Coughs and Colds.
PECTORINE cures Hoarseness.
PECTORINE gives immediate relief in Bronchitis.
PECTORINE is the best Medicine for Asthma.
PECTORINE cures Whooping Cough.
PECTORINE will cure a troublesome tickling Cough.
PECTORINE is invaluable in the early stages of Consumption.
PECTORINE relieves all Affections of the Chest, Lungs, and Throat.

Prepared only by SMITH & CLARKE, Manufacturing Chemists, Park Street, Lincoln.

 Vice Chancellor Sir C. Hall granted a perpetual injunction, with costs, against F. Mason, Chemist, Rotherham, for using the word "Pectorine."

MORING,

ENGRAVER, DIE SINKER,

HERALDIC ARTIST,

ILLUMINATED ADDRESSES,

44, HIGH HOLBORN, W.C.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE.

Printed and Published for the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE PUBLISHING COMPANY LIMITED, by Bro. WILLIAM WRAY MORGAN, at 67 Barbican, London, E.C. Saturday, 15th April 1876.

Digitized by Google

W. Garrison
Pitcairn Island
Encaustic Ink

THE

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

VOL. III.—No. 69. SATURDAY, 22nd APRIL 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

GRAND LODGE, MASSACHUSETTS.

THIS Grand Lodge held its Quarterly Communication on the 8th ult., M.W.G.M. Percival Lowell Everett, numerously supported by the brethren, presiding. Having been opened in ample form at 2 p.m., a very finely executed square and compasses of solid silver were presented, through the Recording Grand Secretary, by R.W. Bro. George William Sutton P.G.W., and on the motion of R.W. John T. Heard P.G.M., the thanks of Grand Lodge were voted to Bro. Sutton for his elegant and acceptable gift. The present having been duly received and adjusted in its place on the Great Light, the Records of the Annual and Stated Communications of December 1875, as well as of the Special Communication of 9th February, were approved, those of the former being taken as read. Bye-laws and amendments to Bye-laws, from a number of Lodges, were submitted for approval, and referred to the Committee on Bye-laws. Subsequently the Committee reported favourably both of the full codes of laws and of the amended codes, and recommended them to Grand Lodge for approval. The proceedings of Star Lodge, Athol, re the trial of a brother, were submitted for examination and approval, and were referred to the Committee on Trials. The Committee having duly examined the proceedings drew up their report, recommending that the action of Star Lodge, in expelling the brother in question be approved and confirmed, and it was approved and confirmed accordingly. The charter of Aconcagua Lodge, Valparaiso, Chili, having been destroyed by fire, it was voted unanimously, on the motion of the Grand Secretary, that a new charter, signed by the present Grand Officers with the date of this Order, but in all other respects an exact copy of the original charter, be issued. The thanks of Grand Lodge to Bro. D. Z. Smith, Salem, for having, at the last Grand Festival, presented an ancient pitcher covered with Masonic emblems, were voted unanimously. The roll of Lodges having been called, a vote of thanks to Grand Lodge from Washington National Monument Society for its subscription voted at the last Annual Communication was read and recorded. The Committee to whom the Grand Master's Annual Address had been referred then presented their report, in which they fully endorsed the Grand Master's statements. The Committee to which had been recommitted certain proposed amendments to Article IV., Part III. of the Grand Constitutions on the subject of Trials, Suspensions, and Expulsions, submitted an additional amendment, which was unanimously adopted by Grand Lodge. On the proposed article, as amended, being then submitted to Grand Lodge for its final approval, a full discussion ensued, and ultimately a division was taken, when the new article was declared to be adopted by an overwhelming majority, the total yeas being 268, and total nays 59. The Committee on Healing having submitted two reports referred to them for the adoption of Grand Lodge, the reports were adopted accordingly. A Committee having, at the request of the Grand Master, been appointed to investigate certain matters of complaint made relative to the proposed trial of a sojourning brother, and the Commissioners of Trials under the new article of the Constitutions having been appointed, further time was granted to the Committees not yet able to report, and as there was no further business to be considered, Grand Lodge was closed in ample form at 6 p.m.

THE STUDY OF MASONRY.

WE have many times congratulated our readers on the recent extension of the Craft in this and other countries. We have spoken more than once of the greater influence it now wields. Even the paltry abuse of a particular sect of Christians has answered no other purpose than that of raising us in the good opinion of our fellows. Indeed, they who contemn us sink lower and lower, while we who are contemned rise higher and higher in public estimation. But let not brethren imagine that, because the horizon is now clear, and there is nowhere visible a single threatening cloud, even so big as a man's hand, a time of trial—when the stuff we are made of will be severely, nay even rudely, tested—will never come. It is in human nature that a prosperous man should raise up to himself enemies. Not all at once, it is true. The less prosperous are, first of all, a trifle jealous, then spiteful, then malicious, then open and declared enemies. Thus the more brilliant our position and prospects, the more needful is it we should be mindful of the old adage about being forewarned, and consequently forearmed. For the day may come when Freemasonry, now so prosperous everywhere, may have to combat not one, but a host of enemies, and to put forth its whole strength in order to overcome them. We have no manner of doubt that it will prevail in the future, as it has again and again prevailed in the past, but it rests entirely with Craftsmen, individually and collectively, whether the victory shall be gained easily, or only after a serious and prolonged conflict.

So grave an opening may induce some of our readers to believe that we are about inflicting on them a series of very lacrymosé vaticinations as to the future of our Order. We have no such intention; indeed, there is no reason why we should do so. As far as can be judged at present, there are hardly any grounds for anticipating that Masonry, if true to itself, will have other than a prosperous career. But there are dangers threatening us, and these from within rather than from without the pale of Masonry. We are numerically stronger, and our influence proportionately greater, but are the efforts we make to consolidate our strength in a just proportion? We invite none to join us, but do the new members who flock daily, and of their own free will, to our standard, appreciate fully what it is to become a Mason, and what are a Mason's duties? They cannot, of course, help knowing, when they enter the precincts of the Lodge, and submit themselves to the grave ordeal of initiation into our mysteries, that they take upon themselves, voluntarily, certain solemn obligations. But it is almost needless to point out that the nature and extent of these obligations are differently interpreted by different brethren. A regular and periodical attendance at the meetings of their Lodge, a strict observance of certain forms and ceremonies, a never-failing presence at the banquet, and a just homage to the Masonic sentiments that customarily succeed the banquet—these, in the minds of some, are the alpha and omega of the obligations they have bound themselves to fulfil; and they fulfil them accordingly, eo gusto. Others, less rigidly observant of these rites—if we may call them such—consider Masonry a mere Charity organisation, and that when they have contributed according to their means to the various institutions it fosters, they have discharged themselves of their duty. Some there are who take a higher, more glorious, and we may pertinently add, a juster view of the real scope of our Order. Of course, it is creditable to a member that he should regularly attend his Lodge, and learn as quickly and as perfectly as he can the routine of Lodge business. We have faith in the enjoyment of the pleasures of the social board, while he who contributes of his means to the cause of Charity is worthy of all praise. But the duties of a Mason end not here, and, unfortunately, it is a small minority of Craftsmen who are alive to this truth. Let us illustrate our meaning more fully. The professing Christian, Jew, or Mohammedan, who attends his place of worship the prescribed number of times per day or per week, fulfils his duty so far, literally, but not necessarily in the spirit. It may be he is virtuous as regards this particular virtue of obedience to prescription; or it may be he is obedient because obedience is enjoined upon him. Again, familiarity with a certain ritual, the observance of certain ceremonies, and the bestowal of alms, may be the outward and visible signs of an inward and spiritual excellence, but they are by no means necessarily so. And just as there are many who are Christians, Jews, Mohammedans, in name only, so are there Freemasons. They are initiated, and take the vows. They attend Lodge, become more or less acquainted with a few forms and formulæ, and subscribe to every charity, yet are they little more than nominal Masons. They confounded the outward form with the inward grace. They observe, but they understand not. They follow in the prescribed path of duty, but they know not why they follow.

Digitized by Google

It cannot, of course, be denied that much good results when people do what is right, but it is far better they should do so because they know why it should be done. And the "why" is not to be learned without study, by merely attending Lodge, repeating, parrot-like, certain words, eating sundry dinners, and giving occasional gifts. But what time is devoted to study? Now and again, in some exemplary Lodges, a lecture is given, or a tracing-board explained, over and above the ordinary business of the meeting. Lodges of instruction are also held, where brethren, by diligence and punctual attendance, may soon learn our ceremonials, and become proficient in working the sections. But how many trouble themselves to attend these latter, and for how long or how often does even the most exemplary Lodge devote itself to study? We do not expect all brethren to become learned exponents of the mysteries of the Craft, but we should like them in the first place to realise that a few grips and passwords do not constitute Masonry, and in the next to exhibit some desire to know more of its abstruser doctrines. Were the philosophers of old content with proclaiming their doctrines? Were their disciples content with bare statements of doctrine? Did not the former teach, and the latter study? Do ministers of religion confine themselves to enunciating the tenets they severally profess? Are they not, on the contrary, diligent always in expounding the true nature of those tenets, and why it is fit they should be so scrupulously observed? Yet Masons leave Masonry to explain itself. It has a beautiful symbolism, but a verbal explanation of the symbols is, perhaps, all the bulk of the Craft ever exhibits any curiosity about.

The truth is, Masonry is fashionable. Men join our ranks with as much insouciance as they make the grand tour of Europe. The "set" they mix with has travelled, has seen. Paris, Vienna, Florence, Rome, Naples; has "done" the Rhine, Switzerland, the Alps, the Apennines, and even perhaps Egypt and the Pyramids, and they must follow in its footsteps. They would "do" the moon if it were accessible and a resort of fashion. But the beautiful scenery they pass through has no charm for them. The vestiges of former civilizations arouse in them no enthusiasm. Their duty is to travel, for Fashion has so willed it, and they are devotees of the fickle jade. And so as regards Masonry. Princes and nobles, men of letters and men of wealth, are on the muster-roll of our Order, and everybody who thinks he is anybody must join us likewise. It is only necessary that he should be free, of good repute, have attained his majority, and come voluntarily to seek admission to our ranks. He is proposed and balloted for, and, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, he finds himself with no further ado a Mason, a "brother of the mystic tie." And having taken his degrees, he subsides into a regular Lodge attendant, makes his signs with due solemnity, eats heartily at the banquet, and renders due honour to each Masonic toast. This, in his idea, is being a Mason, this the only sacrifice he feels bound to offer to the idol he so reverently worships. What is Masonry, whence it came, who invented it, or whether, like Topsy, it grew of nothing? these and like matters concern him not. These are points no fashionable Masonic "fellah" can be expected to understand.

Here, then, is the real danger to Masonry; that access of members should bring with it no real access of strength. Mere numbers are of little avail without training. Let it be once established as a custom, as a fashion which shall never change, that Masonry is a science to be studied, and that all who enrol themselves under our banners must at least master its grammar, if they attain not proficiency to translate its mysteries; let it be once recognised that ignorance of Masonic precept is not a fashionable, and therefore, perhaps, a pardonable weakness, but the reverse of creditable in those who display it; and we need have no fear whatever as to the future stability of our Order. It is a fair question for argument, whether, with all our wonderful growth of late years, the light of Masonry is diffused over a proportionately wider surface. We do not think it is, and it is because we hold this opinion that we urge now, as we have urged before, that brethren should study more our beautiful science. It will not repent them, when they have made some progress, of the time withdrawn from other occupations. On the contrary, they will become more and more enamoured of its doctrine; and if, unhappily, fresh conflicts await us, they will be a source of strength to the Order instead of a source of weakness.

MASONIC PORTRAITS (No. 25).

AN ABLE PRECEPTOR.

"Teach me, good Sir, thy solemn lore,
And with thy precepts sage enlighten me:
I would the light of truth, in one grand stream,
Should flood my ardent soul."

THE Teutonic mind is just now in the ascendant in Europe. German ideas are fashionable, and the vast literature of the Fatherland is exciting great and deserved interest in the minds of people who hitherto have looked to France for their intellectual pabulum. To thinkers and men of letters this change is by no means surprising. The influence of Germany upon the leading minds of this country has been paramount for more than a generation. They have turned to her men of letters, for philosophy, for criticism, and for philology. Carlyle has devoted himself to the task of interpreting the thoughts and even the words of her chief writers. His translation of "Wilhelm Meister" is confessedly the best which has yet appeared, and his essays on German literature are a mine of intellectual wealth. But perhaps the highest compliment ever paid to a nation of thinkers by a great master of English, was paid by our cynical Chelsea philosopher when, under the title of "Sartor Resartus," he sketched the struggles of a great soul in its efforts to solve the mighty problems of existence. The hero of the book is a German, and the action of the fiction—or shall we say prose poem?—turns upon the sufferings and the heroic resolves of a thinker, and that thinker just such a one as Germany daily turns out from her universities. If we are to amend our methods of Biblical criticism the Germans will certainly show us the way to do it; and if philology is to be elevated into a science we shall owe the fact to the untiring industry of a German, Professor Max Muller. But although the influence of the German mind upon literature is potent for good, it is likely, we trust, to be not less potent in the arena of morals and sociology. The German is a much more homely man than the Frenchman. He likes simplicity; he loves home. He cares little or nothing for tawdry and vulgar finery. His hours and habits are much more natural than those of our brilliant but superficial neighbours, and if German ideas should at any time leaven our social life, the result cannot but be beneficial to the community at large. Military glory has never had the same charm for the Teuton that it has for the Gaul. The military masters of the Continent are much more likely to keep the peace, now that their bayonets are omnipotent, than were the French under the Empire. The passion for conquest does not indeed come with success in the field, but our Teutonic friends have too much natural good sense to lose their heads; and if the peace is broken, we are sure the provocation will not come from the newly consolidated Empire. We have been led to these reflections because the subject of our Masonic Portrait is a son of the Fatherland. He was born in Prussian Poland, in the year 1821, and was educated in the district school of Fraustadt, on the borders of Silesia. On leaving school, he entered a merchant's counting-house, but disliking his position or his employment, he came to England with the view of pushing his fortune, and landed at Blackwall, in 1847, friendless, and with little of this world's goods to spare. Happily, he fell in with friends, and was soon engaged in the warehouse of a wholesale dealer. By steady industry and attention to business, he managed to rise in the estimation of his superiors, and was speedily transferred to a position of trust and confidence in the counting-house. When he arrived in this country, he did not understand a word of English, and during his studies he never had a master; yet his knowledge of our language would shame many a native. His letters and papers on Masonry are admirably and lucidly written, and bear all the marks of a powerful and comprehensive mind. During his career in the mercantile house to which we have referred, he married, and has now three daughters. But he was not fated to remain long in a condition of servitude. It was his ambition to be his own master, and at a time when the new art of "sun painting" was beginning to attract popular notice he ventured to turn his attention to it, and started like a brave, courageous man as he is, as a professor of the art of photography. At this time he knew little of the technical portion of the business, but his steady determination helped him to conquer all the difficulties of the art, and at the present time he is the master of a good business, and is second to none of his contemporaries in artistic skill or conscientious attention to his clients.

Digitized by Google

Our brother's Masonic career commenced in the year 1861, when he was initiated in the Lodge of Faith. He became Master in 1866 but resigned his connection with the Lodge in 1873, and is now a member of No. 185. In 1868 he was exalted, in Victoria Chapter; and was advanced, in Mark Lodge, Newport, Isle of Wight, in 1871. He was one of the founders of Faith Chapter, and became Z. designate in 1873. He was also one of the original Projectors of the Temple Mark Lodge, No. 173, and is at the present time its S.W. He has served as Secretary of the Confidence Lodge of Instruction, and, upon the retirement of Pro. T. Foulger from the office of Preceptor, he succeeded him in that office, which he has held with high distinction for several years. He has been Preceptor of other Lodges of Instruction, and has, we need scarcely say, rendered eminent services to the Craft. He was one of the promoters of the fund for the establishment of a Freemasons' Life Boat, and acted as secretary during the period of incubation, but, although a testimonial was proposed, with a view of marking the universal appreciation of his valuable services in connection with the fund, it was refused by our hero, who accounted himself sufficiently rewarded for his laborious services by the brilliant results achieved. The boat was stationed at North Berwick, and has, we believe, rendered signal service on more than one occasion to distressed mariners.

Our brother is regarded by those who are capable of forming an opinion on the subject as a profoundly learned Mason. He is perfect in ritual to the very letter, and, indeed, there is no portion of Craft or Arch Masonry, whether it be ceremony, sections or installation, of which he is not a perfect master. His fame, indeed, as an able Preceptor has been sounded far and wide in the Masonic World, and it has been his fortune to instruct many brothers who have since risen to high distinction in the Craft. If our hero's life has been uneventful, it is not wanting in lessons, which are valuable, indeed, to those who can read them. Industry, integrity and earnestness are his characteristics, and with these weapons, and no others, he has conquered. He is a member of that grand old race which, from the days of Abraham to the present time, has been remarkable for its God-fearing, virtue-loving propensities. Our opinion of the Jews has already been expressed in these columns, and we need merely say of our brother that his charities in connection with his people are princely. While we are writing, we have before us a scrap of paper which eloquently speaks of his munificence in this respect. It is a subscription sheet, and has reference to the building fund of the East London Synagogue. It came into our hands by the merest chance, yet on glancing our eye over it we find that our generous brother has placed his name against two figures which represent a considerable sum in hard cash. He has always a coin and a pleasant word for a distressed Mason, be he Christian or Deist; but he does not forget his own people, and possibly if we could search his heart we should find that where the religion of his fathers is concerned, the joy of giving is immeasurably superior to the pleasure of receiving. Loved at home, respected abroad, a pillar of Masonry, and a pious man, who really believes that God punishes the unjust man in this world (would to Heaven that this belief were universal!) He has little occasion to sigh over unrealised dreams of ambition. His genius might have helped him to great things, but he has preferred the path of quiet virtue, the straight and narrow road which leads to social, domestic, and religious peace.

ODDS AND ENDS.

By Walter Spencer, F.R.G.S.

IN last week's news we read, that General Kirkham (said to be the bearer of a letter from King John of Abyssinia to Earl Derby) remains a prisoner in Massowah. It may not be generally known that this officer served in the "Ever Victorious Army," under Gordon, was twice dangerously wounded, and distinguished himself throughout that campaign. In the attack on Soochow, a bullet fractured his skull, and the portion of bone which had been depressed upon the brain was removed by trepanning; this he afterwards had mounted into a small model of a skull, which he wore as a breastpin. The last night I spent at Shanghai was in Kirkham's quarters, and little could either of us imagine that twelve years afterwards he and his old commander would be engaged on opposite sides, Gordon again pressing forward to conquest, and himself a prisoner of the Khedive.

Well I remember a pleasant sojourn during that troublous time of Taipingdom, in company with another officer and a guard of green turbans, at the old Buddhist monastery of Tien-tang. I, a wretched invalid with dysentery, had to nurse and watch my comrade most carefully to prevent his turning his head or straining his neck, for he was wounded in dangerous proximity to the jugular. The vast Temple, with its echoing pavements, the cool forest glades in which it is embowered, in strong contrast to past scenes of turmoil, made it to us indeed an abode of peace. Yet even to this sacred spot, and in those early times, the foreign snob was not unknown. Young England and America would occasionally break in upon its solitudes in the shape of a shooting or exploring party from one of the foreign settlements: and only they who have witnessed the reckless and contemptuous behaviour of some of the younger, and (let me hope) the less refined of Europeans in the East, can understand the shock which the inoffensive natives must frequently experience. The banging of fire-arms would then resound in the Temple precincts, the fish be stirred up in the sacred tank, over painted wall and sculptured plinth doggrel obscenity and cockney's autographs record the inroad. In condemnation of this latter, I affixed a document like the usual Chinese porch-texts, by the door of the apartments allotted to visitors, with the following inscription:—

"The modern fool derides the Gods of old
Triumphant in the worship of his idol—GOLD—
With nose in air, and scorn in addled brain,
Struts through the cloisters with supreme disdain.
Here—mids't the mem'ries of a by-gone time,
The last frail remnants of the once sublime—
Barbarian bullies crack their silly jest,
Spurn the meek priest, intrude upon his rest,
And, with loud laughter at his looks averse,
Puff their cheroots and leave him with a curse;
Whilst placid idols on their massive thrones
Hollowly echo the unwonted tones.

But you and I, my reader, who in peace
Have come in quest of health and grateful ease,
Good taste and feeling, in their strong control,
Would keep from outraging the meanest soul.
And so I leave these lines; the record poor
May yet reprove the base, and check the boor.
Reluctant though I be to write at all,
Where wretched rhymesters leave their ribald scrawl,
And idiots scratch their names upon the wall."

Digitized by Google

MAGIC SYMBOLS IN MASONRY.

(Continued from page 163.)

IT is our grateful duty to acknowledge indebtedness to another explorer of our theme—Bro. T. B. Rosseter—for his communication of March 18. He cites Ceres, the goddess of Corn, &c.: relative to this Deity or Genius we agree with Fellowes * in the surmise that she is especially symbolised in our Ritual in the pass-word to the 2nd degree, under the name of Cybele, the pronunciation of which has been corrupted.

We have found a Rosicrucian MS., which states that the Cross pointed with the letters D E U S is the distinguishing mark of that Society. It is a symbol of Light, containing within its angles the letters L V X, and refers to the co-existence of God and Light, indicating also the omniscience of God and the immortality of the soul. The same MS. gives a rule for the Rosicrucian aspirant, as follows:—

1. The first teaching of R.C. is to abandon entirely all vague and unprofitable speculation, and to concentrate the mind upon that which leads to truth. Truth must be the end of all study, and thus when the aspirant finds any favourite pre-conception in danger of being overturned, he must not pause in his investigations, but must steadily pursue them; truth demands the sacrifice, and will yield a fitting reward.

2. The mind must at once cast off all idiotic dreamings of the impossible, or rather the unnatural. The earth is a school of study, of trial, and of probation; the fruits of which will be gathered in the hereafter. Many doctrines of the utmost value have been perverted and misrepresented by the ignorant and unthinking. Many valuable teachings have been misunderstood from the mode of conveying them, such as the Philosopher's Stone and the Water of Life. The one, as vulgarly known, turns everything to gold, the other prolongs life. It is needless to say that such meanings cannot apply to them, for with the one gold would become of less account than the dust underneath the feet; with the other the world would become overcrowded and men would die of famine. Two great truths were concealed under these names. These will be revealed to the aspirant at a fitting moment.

3. Reason must guide the aspirant in his search after the truth. Whatever seems improbable or allegorical must be carefully considered, and the true weight given to it. Much that is allegorical contains rare gold, even as the dark earth contains the precious stones. But allegories or improbable things must not be lightly dismissed. The man groping in the mud found a pearl.

4. Men are not born with the same virtue, vice and intellect. In one virtue and intellect predominate, in another vice and intellect, whereas the generality of men are born virtuous, or vicious or intellectual, in various degrees, however. But it is only virtue or vice, allied to intellect, that raises a man above his fellows. The junction of mind and passion, whether of good or evil. If all were good, there could be no criterion. Without a shadow we could not understand the light.

5. But reason must be of a grave and elevated character, men often call that reason which is desire, and crimes have been committed in the name of reason, as well as of liberty. Let the aspirant then study "What is reason in me?"

6. Men must therefore not be judged by their deeds alone, the passions from which they spring must be taken into account. We know not how much has been resisted, although we do know how much has not. Not to condemn men, but the springs of action, is a principle of true philosophy. It might be as just to condemn the ball that kills as a man for his actions, when we remember his frailties.

7. But man has to answer for his deeds: and herein it must be remembered that while endowed with mind and passion, man is still in a manner a free will agent. But this free will is not positive, but comparative. The man of fortune is not likely to steal a loaf of bread, which a famishing and penniless man will. In the one it would be a crime, in the other it is self-preservation.

8. Death is the inheritance of the human race. All must die. But as the elements wear away the earth from the granite, and leave huge blocks exposed; as the fire clears the dross from the gold, so does death remove the baser part of man. He passes then into a new existence, into new spheres, and becomes exposed to other influences, his position will be changed in relation to his neighbours, and he who is highest on earth may be the lowest in the hereafter; the lowest here may be the highest hereafter.

9. The aspirant must carefully study the theologies; some of them called mythologies, but improperly so, of all times. The Bible in particular demands his earnest and close attention. But in this most important duty the pure lamp of reason must be kept shining brightly, and neither prejudice nor early teaching must obscure its ray.

10. Reason, however, as has been already written, must be carefully considered. It is a dangerous weapon in unskilled hands, and those who have boasted of following only reason, have often only followed an ignis fatuus, a myth, which has led them into paths far remote from the truth.

11. The aspirant must carefully make himself master, so far as he can, of himself. "Man, know thyself," is the saying of an ancient sage, which by extension yields a knowledge of all mankind, for the only thing that cannot change on earth is human nature.

12. Finally, let the aspirant banish from his mind all hope of greatness in this life, for he knows not but the next hour may be his last; let him seek true knowledge, for that he takes with him beyond the grave, where it is all useful, and where it will prove of everlasting service.

We have attained thus far to a glimpse of the Astral Light defined by Eliphaz Levi, which may be thus summarised. It is universally diffused through heaven and earth; being either subtle or fixed, according to the degree of its polarisation, and called by Hermes the grand Telesma. When producing visible splendor, it is called Light; it was created before all else, by the fiat, "Let there be Light!" It has both substance and motion, is a fluid and a perpetual vibration. The inherent force of its motion is called magnetism. In space, it is the æther or the etheral light; in organic beings it is the magnetic fluid; in man, the astral or spiritual body. The will-power of intelligent beings act directly upon it, and through it brings all nature under the dominion of intelligence. It is the mirror of thoughts and of all forms; it retains the images of what has been, contains the reflection of past worlds, and also the prescience of worlds to come. It is the instrument of thaumaturgy and divination.

We will now glance at the powers of the Hebrew alphabet, as expounded by Levi from the Cabbala, premising that the mystic meaning and divine virtue of Numbers formed an important part of the philosophy of Pythagoras, who appears to have learned them in the East, where he long resided, and whence he emerged an adept in ancient mysteries. In numbers he saw the principle of all things, believing that creation was effected by their harmonious combination, and that they existed before the world. According to his doctrine, numbers are of two kinds—intellectual and scientific. Intellectual number has always existed in the Divine Mind, it is the basis of universal order and the chain which binds all things. Scientific number is the generative cause of Multiplicity, which proceeds from Unity. Scientific numbers are equal or odd. Equal numbers are said to be female, and odd numbers male, because even numbers admit of generation and division. Odd numbers are the most perfect, and to each he ascribed a peculiar character.

"Progress, says Levi, is movement, and movement is Life, the only answer which Reason can give to objections concerning the existence of evil. In the Hebrew alphabet there is one initial letter, the generator of all others, Iod; there are two mother letters opposed yet analogous, Aleph and Mem; seven double letters, Beth, Ghimel, Daleth, Caph, Phé, Resch, and Tau; finally, twelve simple letters, making in all twenty-two. Unity is represented in a relative manner by Aleph, Trinity by Iod, Mem, Schin, or Aleph, Mem, Schin; seven by Beth, Ghimel, Daleth, Caph, Phé, Resch, Tau. Twelve is represented by the other letters. Twelve being the 3 multiplied by 4, re-enters into the symbolism of the 7. Each letter, moreover, represents a number, each group of letters a series of numbers. The numbers represent absolute philosophic ideas, they are abbreviated hieroglyphics.

The prime letters stand,

Iod—for the Absolute principle, the producing Being.
Mem—for the Spirit—or Jachin.
Schin—for Matter—or Boaz.

The double letters stand,

Beth—for thought, the Moon, or the Angel Gabriel.
Ghimel—Love, Will, Venus, or the Angel Anael.
Daleth—Force, Jupiter, or Sachiel Melech.
Caph—Violence, work, Mars, or Samaël Zebaoth.
Phé—Intelligence, Mercury, or Raphael.
Resch—Destruction and regeneration, Time, Saturn.
Tau—Truth, Light, or Cassiel, the Sun, Michael, Chief of the Elohim.

The simple letters are divided into four threes, which bear the 4 letters of the tetragrammaton as titles. In the Divine Tetragram, the Iod figures as the active principle, the Hé represents the passive productive principle, the eteïs; the Van symbolises the union of both, or the lingam, and the final Hé the secondary productive principle, i.e., passive reproduction in the world of effects and forms.

The twelve simple letters divided into groups of three symbolise again the primitive triangle interpreted and influenced by each letter of the tetragram. Therein the philosophy and religious dogma of the Cabbala are indicated completely, though under a veil. Thus Levi paraphrases the allegory of Genesis. "In the (Iod) beginning Æloim (the balanced power, Jachin and Boaz) created the heaven (spirit) and the earth (matter)."

(To be continued.)

* Mysteries of Freemasonry. London. 1860.

Digitized by Google

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

All Letters must bear the name and address of the Writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

—:o:—

THE RECENT ELECTIONS, BOYS' AND GIRLS' SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—My object in addressing you on the remarks made in your columns last week, about the paucity of votes recorded for sundry of the candidates at the recent elections, is not so much to express my concurrence with the views to which you give utterance as to mention that a precedent for withdrawing the names of those candidates who do not, after a certain number of trials, obtain a certain minimum of votes will be found among the regulations of the Masonic Female Orphan, and the Orphan Boys' Schools, Dublin. The rule I allude to is published in the voting papers issued at the elections to these Charities, and reads as follows:—

"Any child whose name shall have been three times upon the voting papers, and shall not, upon any occasion, have received twenty votes, shall not again be put forward as a candidate."

I think it would be wise to adopt a similar rule at the elections to our Boys' and Girls' Schools, with this difference, however. Our schools are larger, and the votes and candidates more numerous; in their case, then, a much higher minimum would be desirable.

Fraternally yours,

TOT QUOT.

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am desirous of obtaining your opinion on the meaning of the words "properly clothed" as applied to the admission of brethren into Lodge. In the article "Of Regalia," in the Book of Constitutions, the clothing and insignia to be worn by the Craft are set forth, and we are told that no "brother shall, on any pretence, be admitted into Grand Lodge or any subordinate Lodge without his proper clothing." In the enumeration I find Jewels, Collars and Aprons specified, and as I believe in adhering to every jot and tittle of our written law, I want to discover if I am right in assuming that the general practice is wrong, viz.: that Officers of Lodges in visiting other Lodges do not wear their collars and jewels of office. I have heard of a brother wearing his collar in another Lodge and being rebuked for so doing by the W.M., but though following the rule, it seems to me that W.M.'s are unconstitutional in not insisting on such being worn, and should refuse admission to brethren presenting themselves "without their proper clothing." At the same time I should much like to know what are the "jewels, medals or devices" recognized by Grand Lodge as part of pure, ancient Masonry. As I have often to give my dictum on such matters, and as my ruling, founded as I believe upon a proper study of the Constitutions is so often at variance with common usage, I want to find out what is right.

Yours truly,

P.M.

BRO. REV. A. F. A. WOODFORD'S RESOLUTION—ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have been much interested in reading your article respecting the above, and the proceedings of the last General Court of the R. M. I. B.; and I trust that its most fraternal and judicious council will be followed by all concerned. Allow me to thank you for the article on behalf of many of your readers. "Peace, not War," is what we desire, and especially so in all Masonic assemblies; but it is lamentable to read of the opposite to this motto being evidently the feeling uppermost in the minds of many of the combatants on Monday last! Your regret that Bro. Moss was not heard is shared in by many, and surely he has not much inducement to attend the Quarterly Courts on behalf of West Yorkshire if he is to be refused a hearing. I most warmly support Bro. Woodford's motion, but at the same time regret exceedingly the commotion which it caused, and especially the unbrotherly treatment which Brother Moss received, who though evidently supporting a weak and un-Masonic cause, so far as Bro. Tow was concerned, had a right to expect a patient hearing, which right the Chairman should have secured for him or dissolved the meeting.

Yours fraternally,

IMPARTIALITY.

TOWER of OBSERVATION, 15th April 1876.

GRAND LODGE HONOURS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have read with interest the correspondence in your columns on the subject of the distribution of Grand Lodge Honours. To while away an idle hour I occasionally refer to the Masonic publications of past years, and notice that with us—as with Empires and States—History repeats itself. Without urging the absolute analogy between 1844 and 1876, the following remarks from the "Freemason's Quarterly Review, New Series, June 1844," seem to me not inappropriate to the present time, and, at all events, worth reproducing.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

"THE OTHER ONE."

London, 17th April 1876.

"We now approach a subject of considerable importance, and one which, we are certain, disturbs the mind of many a contemplative Mason, and it is this. The Secret power that has for a long time existed, and even now exists: Why this was ever permitted, is among the anomalies that are difficult to account for, but to break it up by all means, and even expose it, if necessary, is essential to justice, and by speaking out, to prevent the Grand Master from being placed in a false position, is equally our duty and our determination. The M.W. Grand Master cannot of himself become perfectly acquainted with the best mode of supplying the vacancies as they occur; it becomes, therefore, a matter of necessity, as well as of principle, while these subjects pass in review before him, to seek for information wherever it is to be found, and especially to confer with such brethren as may supply such information as character and experience enable to do. We do not doubt but that the Grand Secretary has, and will continue to place before his superior the just claims of many deserving brethren; but we do not hesitate to express our regret that the Grand Secretary has suffered his generally excellent judgment to be influenced, and that even in the recent appointments, the Secret power has, to a certain extent, succeeded. Let there be no more of this; the secret Council is confined to three or four whose claims, by service, or station, if they have any claims whatever, have already been rewarded to excess."

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All Letters and communications must be addressed to the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

E. M. M. (Montreal).—Your note to hand. Trust your hopes will be realised.

THIRTY YEARS OLD.—Your letter has been received, but you must comply with our rule, which requires a correspondent to supply his name and address.

CONSECRATION OF THE LEY SPRING LODGE, 1598.

ON the 15th instant Bro. Terry P.M. 1278 and P.G.D.C. Herts assisted by Bro. C. G. Hill S.W. 1306, consecrated, at the Red Lion Hotel, Leytonstone, the Ley Spring Lodge, No. 1598, after which Bro. Barford P.M. 55 and 1228 proceeded, in the most able manner, to instal Bro. P. A. Bianchi as first W.M. The officers appointed were:—Bros. G. E. Walters S.W., J. Buscall J.W., J. W. Roberts Secretary, R. Hogg S.D., W. Allen J.D., L. Lewis I.G., T. Varley D.C., S. Potts Tyler. The usual charges were then given and the customary congratulations made. It was proposed, seconded, and unanimously carried, that Bro. Terry should become an honorary member of the Lodge. Bro. Terry, in reply, assured the W.M. of the pleasure it had given him to consecrate the Ley Spring Lodge, and expressed his wishes for its future prosperity. After a short interval the brethren sat down to an excellent repast, provided in Bro. Barford's usual récherché style; the W.M. presided, and upon the removal of the cloth, gave the toast of Her Majesty the Queen, and referred to the pleasure which the whole of the Craft must feel at the early return of the M.W.G.M. Bro. Terry then proposed the health of the W.M., and passed some very high eulogiums upon the working capabilities of the officers; the toast was honoured in a most hearty manner. The W.M. said he had to thank Bro. Terry for proposing his health, and the brethren for the hearty way in which they had responded to it, and assured them of his conviction that the brethren whom he had appointed to office would give him that assistance that would enable him to carry out the duties of the chair in such a manner as would do great credit to the Lodge. We would remark that great praise is due to the founders of this Lodge, more especially to the indefatigable exertions of the S.W., who, ever since the idea was formed of starting a new Lodge, has not left a stone unturned to make it a success. The healths of the Officers and Visitors were given, and duly responded to, and the Tyler's toast concluded a most enjoyable evening. Bros. Lewis and Varley rendered some excellent singing, Bro. Young accompanying upon the piano. Visitors:—Bros. T. Barford P.M. 1228 and 55, W. H. Myers P.M. 820, W.M. 1415, P. Y. Latreille P.M. 1056, W. Mundy P.M. 1228, W. A. Thorp P.M. 1228, P. Edinger W.M. 95, W. T. Christian J.D. 1278, G. C. Young Organist 820, G. Buckle 1426, J. Taylor 228, W. C. Claridge 1421, C. Vile 49, F. H. Varley 33, T. Corbett 143, and W. Bailey 49. The musical arrangements were under the direction of Bro. G. C. Young Organist 820 and 1445.

CROW HOUSE PLAYING CARDS.—Mogul Quality, picked 1s 3d per pack, 14s per dozen packs. Do. seconds 1s per pack, 11s per dozen packs. If by post 1½d per pack extra. Cards for Piquet, Bézique, Ecarté, &c., Mogul Quality 1od per pack, 9s per dozen packs.—London: W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Digitized by Google

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

—:o:—

Official Directory for the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall. Sixth year of publication. Edited by William James Hughan, P.M. Lodge of Fortitude, Truro, Past Senior Grand Deacon of England, P. Prov. G. Secretary of Cornwall, &c., &c. Truro: Printed at the Royal Cornwall Gazette Office, 1876.

THOUGH this Directory is printed "for private circulation," we take leave to indicate as precisely as possible the nature of its contents, in the hope that brethren in other provinces may follow the admirable example set them by Bro. Hughan, and compile or at least edit the compilation of similar directories for other provinces. The more material of this kind we have the more likely is it we shall be able to welcome the comprehensive history of English Freemasonry, which, bearing the merits of Findel and other Masonic historians in mind, we nevertheless unhesitatingly affirm has yet to be written. True, lists of Grand and Provincial Grand Officers, of the Lodges in each province, with the dates of their constitution and their respective rolls of P.M.'s, of the Grand and Provincial Grand Chapters, &c., &c., of the Grand Mark and Provincial Grand Mark Lodges, &c., &c., with regulations as to regalia and stewardships at the Charity Festivals, and one or more statistical tables of local interest are, as it were, but a drop in the ocean of information that must be collected towards the compilation of a history. But, in the course of time, a number of such drops will go some way towards forming a respectable sheet of water. At all events, it is a satisfaction to historically studious brethren to know that such a directory has been compiled for one of our numerous provinces, and that the compiler is no other than Bro. Hughan. The directory is in three parts, or, to speak more accurately perhaps, there are three directories bound in one. The first gives all the needful information as to Craft Masonry, the names and numbers of the various Lodges in the Province, with the dates of their constitution, the Grand Officers of England and of the Province, and the roll of centenary Lodges of Cornwall. The second furnishes similar information as regards Royal Arch Masonry, while the third relates to Mark Masonry, these two being in their first year of publication only. Then follow particulars respecting the Masonic Charities, stewardships, regalia, centenary jewels, &c., and lastly, we have two statistical tables, of which the first shows the voting power of Cornwall in connection with our Charities, while the latter shows the strength and distribution of the Craft in the Province, there being in all twenty-seven Lodges, with a total membership of 1433.

Constitution, General Statutes and Ordinances of the Sovereign Sanctuary of the Ancient and Primitive Rite of Masonry, in and for the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and its Dependencies; with the Public Ceremonials, and a Sketch of the History of the Rite. Printed by authority of the Sovereign Sanctuary in and for Great Britain and Ireland, &c., 1875. John Hogg and Co., 15A Paternoster-row, London, E.C.

THE work is in three books. The first of these contains the Constitution, Statutes and Ordinances of the Rite. Book II. is occupied with a full account of the Public Ceremonials. The third book contains a complete history of the Rite, in four parts. Part I. is by way of preface; part II. sketches the history of the Rite in France; part III. in America; and part IV. in the United Kingdom. Taking the work as a whole, we do not think it possible to have written a fuller or more exhaustive account of this Rite, of which Bro. Yarker is the M.I.S. Grand Master General in this country. The Constitution, Statutes, &c., are given at length. The minutest detail, as far as is permissible, of the Public Ceremonials is fully described, while the historical section is clear, precise, methodically arranged, and correct, so far, at least, as we have been enabled to follow the very sinuous course which this and other aspiring Rites have observed in their career. We cannot take upon ourselves to predict, or even surmise the degree of favour with which this history will be received by our readers. We feel assured, however, that if as students or intending candidates for admission into this Order, they are in any wise anxious to become acquainted with its history, they cannot do better than consult this work, published, as it is, by the Sovereign Sanctuary or Governing Body of the Rite.

Compte-Rendu des Travaux du Convent des Suprêmes Conseils du Rite Ecossais ancien et accepté, Réuni à Lausanne (Suisse) en Septembre, 1875. Publié par les soins du Suprême Conseil de Suisse, Lausanne. Imprimerie Jules Jaquenod, Cité-Devant, 1876.

THIS pamphlet contains a full account of the labours of the Masonic Congress held at Lausanne in the month of September last, from its assembly when the T.P.S.G.C. Very Ill. Bro. Jules Besançon, assisted by the Very Ill. Bro. A. Amberny, L.G.C., opened the proceedings on the 6th of that month to its close on the 22nd, when a Manifesto of Principles was drawn up and agreed to be published, and the President delivered his farewell address to the Congress. At the commencement, representatives from the Supreme Councils of England, Scotland, Belgium, France, &c., presented themselves, and their powers having been verified, were admitted. The President having delivered his inauguratory address, the Grand Orator then at length enunciated the principles which animated the brethren generally, and which would be their guide in the course of deliberation they were about entering upon. The Grand Chancellor also addressed the meeting and after some preliminary business, the first sitting of the Congress came to a close. After further sessions, a Treaty of Union, Alliance and Confederation of the Supreme Grand Councils of the Accepted Scottish Rite, accompanied by a full declaration of principles, was signed, sealed and delivered by their assembled representatives on the 22nd September. A list of Supreme Councils was also prepared, the rights of each being recognised, and the limits of their several jurisdictions defined. The recognition of the Supreme Council of Brazil was, however, deferred till the claims of two rival bodies to be such Council had been authoritively determined by the Tribunal constituted under Article 7 of the Treaty of Alliance. The Congress closed with the following address from the President, Jules Besançon:—

"Very Illustrious Brethren:—

The Masonic Congress at Lausanne has accomplished its task, but before formally closing its session, your President would convey to you his thanks. Never, owing to your kind and fraternal spirit, was a formidable duty rendered so easy of accomplishment. The questions that were submitted to your deliberations and which you have happily solved were of grave importance. These were to (a) complete the work of 1786 by reconciling the Grand Constitutions to the spirit of the present age, without at the same time depriving them of that lofty character for wisdom which distinguished our predecessors in Masonry. We venture to say these efforts of ours have been crowned with complete success. We have had no resistance to overcome, and each of us has been able to add his stone to the common edifice (b.) To determine the basis of a Treaty of Alliance among the different Scottish Supreme Councils, and to bring closer still the bonds which unite them. Here again, a wonderful progress has been made. Henceforth Scottish Masonry will be an indissoluble body, as it were one united family, in spite of the distribution of its members, and the differences that exist among them in manners, nationality, and religion. This indeed, is the true ideal of Freemasonry. Our Congress has been unwilling to separate without first issuing a warm manifesto to all the friends of light and of progress. Scottish Masonry regards them all as companions in its labours and invites them to combat with it against intolerance and prejudices.

All these important decisions have been arrived at unanimously, as becomes true Masonry. Thus the Royal Art will derive from this general consensus additional force wherewith to battle against the darkness of superstition and ignorance. Our trust in Masonry will be rekindled, and every Lodge will become a centre of Light, whose beneficial influence will extend over and transform the whole profane world. May the G.A.O.T.U. crown our aspirations and fertilize the field of our labours.

In the name of God, of St. John, and of the Confederate Supreme Councils, I close the labours of this Congress of Lausanne."

Picturesque Europe. Part II. Cassell, Petter, and Galpin: London, Paris, and New York.

WE have only just received the second part of this admirable periodical. It quite realises the favourable opinion we expressed of the opening number, the high standard of merit already exhibited both in the illustrations and the letter-press being fully maintained. The former include a steel engraving of "Llyn Idwal," by C. G. Lewis, from a sketch by E. M. Wimperis, and a series of wood engravings by different artists. The earlier of these relate to Eton College, among them being "the Interior of the Quadrangle," "Staircase to the Upper Schools," "the Lower School," "the Old Fives Court," and "the Entrance to the Playing Fields." The later are of various scenes in North Wales, to which we are taken, now that Windsor and Eton have received that priority of notice, to which they are entitled. These are (1) "Conway Castle," by Whymper, from a sketch by P. Skelton; (2) and (3) "Beddlan Castle," and "the Banqueting Hall, Conway Castle," by the same artists; (4) "Cliffs on the Conway Mountain, North Wales," by W. H. Boot; (5) "Pandy Mill and Fall near Betwys-y-Coed, North Wales," by T. L. Rowbotham; and (6) "Shepherd's Crag on the Llugwy," by E. M. W.; these three last being also engraved by Mr. Whymper. The accompanying narrative is clearly and ably written, being sufficiently explanatory, without at the same time, and as too frequently happens, being overlaid with too great an abundance of detail. Messrs. Cassell and Co. have, for some years, exhibited a most praiseworthy desire to meet the public taste for illustrated serial literature of a high-class character; but we do not think they ever made a happier choice than when they resolved on bringing out this periodical. We imagine, at least, the public are of this mind, for the reception accorded to Picturesque Europe has been generally, and we may add deservedly, cordial.

Hail to the Lord Mayor! Civic song and chorus. Dedicated (by special permission) to the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor. Written and composed by Michael Watson. London: J. Williamson, 19 Great Portland-street, Oxford Circus, W.—This is a very effective song, and supplies a want that has long been felt by many. As commemorative of the glories of the greatest, the wealthiest, and one of the most ancient cities of the civilised world, this song will, no doubt, enjoy a lasting popularity. As a composition, too, it deserves to be well received. The words are simple, and so is the melody. Yet both are tuneful, and more likely to impress people favourably than had they been more ambitious and more elaborate. No doubt we shall find Mr. Watson's song, where it deserves to be, in the programme of songs to be sung at all future civic entertainments, and where it may be appropriately arranged to follow the toast of the Lord Mayor.

CHESSMEN CARVED.—For Sale, an elaborately carved Set of Ivory Chessmen, the Kings stand 8½ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Knights and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with concentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican.—Adet.

Digitized by Google

THE DRAMA.

The Easter Novelties — Armadale at the Globe—Wrinkles at the Prince of Wales's—Queen Mary at the Lyceum—The Royal Aquarium Theatre — The Criterion—Charles Mathews.

THE present Easter-tide has been signalised by a larger number of theatrical novelties than has been usual in this season for some years past. One entirely new theatre has been opened, and the programme at nearly all the old places of attraction has been either modified or entirely changed. To begin with, we have at the GLOBE THEATRE a dramatised version of Mr. Wilkie Collins's Armadale, under the less euphonious title of Miss Gwilt. The plot is of an extremely intricate description, but it will probably be familiar to most readers of popular fiction. The play abounds in incidents, some powerful, others rather ultra-melodramatic, and in striking and effective situations. The obvious purpose of the play, viz.: to provide a new impersonation for Miss Ada Cavendish, is fully answered, for the character of Miss Gwilt admits of much powerful and picturesque acting. As performed on the opening night, a sense of tediousness was produced in the audience by the long waits between the acts; but it may fairly be expected that after the first few performances this objection will be removed. Miss Cavendish sustained the title rôle with fine effect, and was ably seconded by Mr. Arthur Cecil in the part of Dr. Downward, by Mr. R. C. Lyons as Allen Armadale, Mr. L. Boyne as Midwinter, and Mr. F. D. Lyons as Captain Manuel.

Mr. Byron's new comedy, entitled Wrinkles, produced on Saturday last at the PRINCE OF WALES'S, cannot be termed a success. The author appears to have got altogether out of his latitude in regard to the construction of the play, and notwithstanding its witty dialogue and admirable acting of Mrs. Bancroft and her excellent company, the audience were anything but satisfied.

Queen Mary, at the LYCEUM, produced on Tuesday, achieved a greater success than had been generally anticipated. The play, as originally written, is scarcely to be recognised in the version actually performed. Fully one-half the characters have disappeared. Cardinal Pole and Cranmer, Sir Thomas Wyatt and Bishop Bonner, the finely drawn character, Sir Ralph Bagenhall, and a crowd of less important personages have all been excised from the dramatis personæ. Whole pages of dialogue have, of course, gone with them, and the result is a moderately good acting play, with some fine scenes and speeches, and scope for excellent acting. The part of Queen Mary is, of course, sustained by Miss Bateman, who brings to the interpretation a large amount of intelligence and dramatic power. Her younger sister, Miss Isabel Bateman, is equally successful in the part of Elizabeth. Mr. Irving is admirable as Philip, a cold, cynical, heartless monster, and Messrs. Swinburne and Brooke, in the characters respectively of Gardiner and Simon Renard, are also deserving of commendation. The play is a striking one, and will probably attract a large number of people to the house, but as there is scarcely a single character, or scene, from first to last of it, that is capable of evoking one spark of human sympathy, it can never be an enduring success.

The ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE is a handsome and elegant addition to the list of our metropolitan places of amusement. The play of Jo has been removed here from the GLOBE, and the admirable acting of Miss Jennie Lee will probably continue to secure for it a large amount of public favour.

A three-act farce, entitled The Great Divorce Case, is the pièce de résistance at the CRITERION. It is preceded by The Wall of China, and the performance concludes with a new Easter burlesque, entitled Robin Hood. We will probably have something further to say about this next week.

Charles Mathews has returned to the GAIETY, as fresh and young as ever, and in the characters of Adonis Evergreen, in My Awful Dad, and of Plumper, in Cool as a Cucumber, will probably continue, for the next few weeks, to delight the habitués of this theatre.

The productions at the ST. JAMES'S, CHARING CROSS, and other theatres, as also the performance at DRURY LANE, of Signor Rossi, we will probably refer to next week.

The ceremony of consecration and installation will be worked in the Faith Lodge of Instruction, No. 141, held at the Restaurant, 2 Westminster Chambers, Victoria Street, S.W., on Tuesday, the 9th of May, at seven o'clock precisely, by Bro. James Terry P.P.G.D.C. Herts and P.M. 228, 1278, 1366, Secretary of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution of Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons. The musical arrangements will be under the direction of Bro. J. Rhodes, I.G. No. 1328.

PROTEST.—It is rather a dangerous thing to have a protest entered on the minutes of a Lodge without very strong reasons. The Book of Constitutions is stringent on the matter, see page 80, article 4. "The majority of the members present at any Lodge duly summoned have an undoubted right to regulate their own proceedings, provided that they are consistent with the general laws and regulations of the Craft; no member, therefore, shall be permitted to enter in the minute-book of his Lodge a protest against any resolution or proceeding which may have taken place, unless it shall appear to him to be contrary to the laws and usages of the Craft, and for the purpose of complaining or appealing to a higher Masonic authority." Protestors, be cautious, particularly when a vote has been passed for a charitable object!

RESTORATION OF CHESTER CATHEDRAL.

THE Annual Provincial Grand Chapter of the Western Division of Lancashire, was held on the 18th April, in the Chapter room at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool. Comp. the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, P.G. Superintendent presided, and he was supported by a very large gathering of P.G. Officers and Companions under his Masonic rule. After the transaction of some formal business, the following were appointed Provincial Grand Officers for the ensuing year:—Comps. J. Prescott P.G.H., G. D. Pochin P.G.S., Dr. J. Kellett Smith P.G. Reg., T. Armstrong P.G.T. (re-elected), H. S. Alpass P.G.S.E. (re-appointed), Dr. S. J. M'George P.G.S.N., W. Sharp P.G. Soj., R. Dodgson, P.G.A. Soj., J. Holland P.G. 2nd A. Soj., T. Nevett P.G.S.B., J. T. Callow P.G.St.B., H. Nelson P.G.D.C. (re-appointed), J. Skeaf P.G.O., J. Wainwright P.G.S., and P. Ball P.G. Janitor (re-elected). On the motion of Comp. T. Wylie, it was resolved to vote £25 from the funds of the Provincial Grand Chapter towards the Masonic contribution from West Lancashire in aid of the restoration of Chester Cathedral, and it was further agreed that a recommendation should be sent by the Prov. G. Superintendent, in the name of the P.G. Chapter, to all the Chapters in the Province to supplement that amount by subscriptions.—This was all the business of importance.

An especial Provincial Grand Lodge of Freemasons was immediately afterwards held in the Lodge room of the Hall, at which Bro. the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, Dep. G.M. of England, R.W.P.G.M. West Lancashire, presided, for the purpose of considering a letter which had been received from the Rev. E. Deacle, precentor of Chester Cathedral, with reference to the proposed contribution by the Freemasons of West Lancashire towards the restoration of Chester Cathedral. There was an attendance of upwards of 200 brethren, comprising a strong representation of past and present P.G. Officers, W.M.'s, P.M.'s and Officers from the Lodges in the Division. The P.G.M. explained that at the last meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge a letter was read from Mr. Deacle in reference to this matter, but it was then thought desirable to postpone the consideration of the matter, in consequence of the brethren being then engaged in raising money for the Benevolent Institution. Since that time he had received a letter from Mr. Deacle, and he (Lord Skelmersdale) had taken it upon himself to promise that the Masons in that province would present a sedilia to the Cathedral, which would cost about £460. He thought this a much more appropriate presentation from the Masons than the pavement or coranna, the other two things which had been suggested. Bro. R. Wylie P.P.G.J.D. then moved that the sum of £100 be voted from the funds of the Provincial Grand Lodge towards the presentation of a sedilia to the Cathedral. The motion was seconded by Bro. Dooley, P.G.J.W. Several brethren opposed the vote on the ground that there were members of different creeds connected with the Lodges who might not sympathise in the movement, and also because the Province of West Lancashire embraced more than one diocese, which might as well claim aid of this kind in cathedral restoration. Bro. H. S. Alpass P.G. Sec., in supporting the motion for the vote, pointed out that amongst the 4,400 Freemasons in the Province of West Lancashire no fewer than 3,200 were resident in the diocese of Chester. With regard to the objection raised as to the different creeds to be found in the Masonic body, he stated as the result of a long experience that the clergymen of the Church of England were almost the only ministers who joined the Order, a fact which he considered a complete answer to the repeated charges of irreligion which had been made against Freemasonry. After some further discussion, the motion was carried by an overwhelming majority; and it was also resolved that the P.G.M. should recommend the members of private Lodges within his province to supplement the vote of the Provincial Grand Lodge. Lord Skelmersdale intimated his intention of subscribing £25 towards the object. After £55 had been voted for relief and assistance in the education of deceased Freemasons' children, the proceedings of the special meeting terminated.—Liverpool Mercury.

THE ROYAL ORIENTAL ORDER OF SIKHA AND THE SAL B'HAI.

AN Ashayana of the Royal Oriental Order was held at Kensington on Wednesday, the 12th April. One of the Sponsors presided, and was supported by one of the Censors and other members of the Order. The keys were passed to regulate the present year, and much important business connected with the interior organisation of the Order was arranged. It was ordered: That facilities should be given for meetings of the Order on foreign stations, and that greater powers should be created for the development of certain portions of the Order. A committee of seven was appointed for the adjustment of various important points, and the measures to be adopted in reference to the return of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M. from the ancient seat of the Order were fully discussed. The offices of Historical Interpreter and Geometrician were confirmed; after which the Ashayana was closed.

"A suitable gift from a Master to his Lodge."

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 8s 6d EACH,

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUMES I. and II.

Sent, Carriage Paid, to any address in the United Kingdom, on receipt of Cheque or P.O.O.

London:—W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Cloth Cases for Binding can be had from the Offices, price 1s 6d each.

Digitized by Google

INSTALLATION OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,
Most Worshipful Grand Master, &c., &c., having been graciously pleased to accept the special Dedication,

A SPLENDID

HISTORICAL STEEL ENGRAVING

WILL SHORTLY BE PUBLISHED,

OF THE

ROYAL INSTALLATION ON THE 28TH OF APRIL LAST,
IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
By BRO. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. No. 1201.

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be made to the

ROYAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REGENT STREET LONDON, W.

GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTER MASONS OF ENGLAND AND WALES

AND

THE COLONIES AND DEPENDENCIES OF THE BRITISH CROWN.

THE RT. HON. THE EARL OF LIMERICK, M.W. GRAND MARK MASTER MASON.

THE RT. HON. LORD SKELMERSDALE, R.W. DEPUTY GRAND MARK MASTER MASON.

A MOVEABLE GRAND LODGE will be held at Freemasons' Hall, Park-street, Bristol, on Friday, the 28th inst., at Half-past Three o'clock precisely.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Bristol will be constituted in due form.

Bro. W. A. F. POWELL will be installed as R.W. Provincial Grand Mark Master Mason of Bristol, by the M.W.G.M.M.M.

The article in the Book of Constitution having reference to the attendance of Grand Officers do not apply to this meeting.

A Banquet will be provided at the Montagu Tavern, at Half-past Five o'clock. Tickets, 10s 6d each, including Dessert and Waiters.

It is particularly requested that Tickets for the Banquet be applied for from Bro. WILLIAM HOPKINS, Rose Villa, Stapleton-road, Bristol, not later than Monday, the 24th instant.

By command,

OFFICES: 2 Red Lion Square, Holborn, London, W.C.

FREDERICK BINCKES, P.G.J.W.
Grand Secretary.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION

FOR

AGED FREEMASONS AND WIDOWS OF FREEMASONS.

IN compliance with a requisition received in accordance with rule 6, a Special General Meeting of the Governors and Subscribers of this Institution will be held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, London, on Tuesday, the 25th day of April 1876, at Three o'clock in the afternoon precisely, to consider the propriety of altering Law IV., page 12 of the Rules and Regulations by substituting the figures £40 for £36; and Law IV., page 13, by substituting the figures £30 for £25, and further to consider any proposition or motion which may then be brought forward to carry into effect the proposed alterations.

OFFICE: 6 FREEMASONS' HALL, London, W.C., 18th April 1876.

By order,
JAMES TERRY,
Secretary.

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

THE CLUB PREMISES, SITUATE
101 QUEEN VICTORIA STREET,
ARE NOW BEING FITTED UP, AND WILL
SHORTLY BE OPENED TO THE MEMBERS.

THE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, now payable, is available to 1st May 1877, and is fixed at—£3 3s for Town Members, i.e., Members residing within twenty miles of the Club, and £1 11s 6d for Country Members, without entrance fee. Members incur no liability beyond their subscription. None but Freemasons are eligible for Membership.

THE NEXT ELECTION OF MEMBERS will be held on 27th April, after which date it is anticipated that it will be necessary to impose an Entrance Fee, and raise the Annual Subscriptions—upwards of 200 Brethren having already joined.

FORMS FOR APPLICATION for Membership may be obtained from the Secretary, at the Offices of the LONDON MASONIC CLUB COMPANY LIMITED, 57 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

JOHN A. LATHBURY, Secretary.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

UNITED GRAND LODGE OF ANCIENT, FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G., M.W.G.M.

THE GRAND FESTIVAL will be held on Wednesday, 26th April 1876, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, London.

Tickets may be obtained of the Grand Stewards, but no tickets will be issued after 4 o'clock on the day preceding the Festival.

Dinner at half-past six o'clock precisely.

The musical arrangements will be under the direction of Bro. Kuhe, G. Org.

Brethren must appear in full Masonic Craft Clothing.

CHARLES J. MORGAN,
Hon. Sec. Board of Grand Stewards.

FREEMASONS CHRONICLE

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Queen is still enjoying her holiday at Coburg, and has received the visit of the Emperor William, who arrived on Tuesday afternoon. Nor, in spite of the dismal anticipations of the loyal Mr. Anderson, have we as yet heard of the British Constitution having fallen out of gear by reason of her Majesty's absence. Perhaps it may be a consolation to the honourable member for Glasgow, however, to know that the Queen started on her return journey on Wednesday, and will reach Windsor this afternoon; while his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales is slowly making his way home from his Indian tour; that he has already reached and been heartily received at Gibraltar, and that grand preparations are being made at Portsmouth and in London to give him a splendid and cordial welcome on his reaching England. At Gibraltar, his reception was magnificent, and differed so far from all previous receptions that among those who greeted him was one of his brothers, his Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught. In other respects his visit to Gibraltar resembled his visits to other cities and towns. There were, of course, royal salutes, dinners, balls, banquets, illuminations, and the like. One only feature deserves particular notice. The Prince laid the foundation-stone of the New Market with the usual Masonic ceremonial, in the presence of a large and enthusiastic crowd of spectators, and expressed himself highly gratified at meeting so many of the brethren on so interesting an occasion. It is arranged that the Prince shall visit Seville and Madrid, to which latter city he has been invited by the young king Alfonso. He was to start on Thursday, accompanied by his brother, the Duke of Connaught, who is to return to England with him, and thence will reach Lisbon on the 1st proximo. As regards the collection of animals which his Royal Highness made in India, preparations are already being made for their reception at the Zoological Gardens. They number, it is reported, somewhere about 150, and include elephants, tigers, leopards, bears, two wild dogs and a wild cat, an ichneumon, zebus, deer, antelopes, monkeys, ostriches, and different kinds of fowl, pheasants, partridges, and pigeons, and a Cashmerian blackbird.

Digitized by Google

Considering all things, Easter has passed away more agreeably than could have been expected. We ought, perhaps, to apologise to our readers for referring again this week to the weather, but unhappily, references of this kind are almost unavoidable, especially when there are holidays in the case. Thursday of last week was one of the dreariest and most miserable days conceivable, even in this miserable climate of ours. The morning of Good Friday broke most inauspiciously, but as the day advanced, the weather condescended to brighten somewhat, and the holiday folk were consequently not wholly deprived of their holiday. The Alexandra Palace offered as its principal attraction a Grand Sacred Music Festival, with Mr. Sims Reeves as leading artiste, and over twenty thousand people flocked thither in the hope of hearing the great English tenor. Nor were they disappointed, Mr. Reeves was in excellent voice, and delighted the vast audience, who redemanded his third and last song—an air from the Messiah. Previous to this concert the visitors were entertained with music, the bands of the Coldstream, Grenadier, and 2nd Life Guards being present. In the evening a Second Concert of Sacred Music was given in the concert room by the Welsh Choral Union and Band of Harps, under the direction of Mr. John Thomas, harpist to the Queen. After sunset the Palace was illuminated and presented a very animated appearance. The Crystal Palace offered similar attractions, and drew an equally large attendance of visitors, the number of those who paid, over and above the season ticket holders, being close on twenty thousand. Here, too, a part of the musical entertainment was furnished by military bands, those of the Horse Guards, Artillery, and Scotch Fusilier Guards being present, in addition to the full band of the company. Here, too, a Sacred Concert was provided, Mesdames Lemmens-Sherrington and Patey being the principal Soloists. At the Royal Albert Hall, Handel's Oratorio of the Messiah was given by the Royal Albert Choral Society, the principal singers being Mesdames Lemmens-Sherrington and Patey and Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Barnby conducting, and Mr. Willing presiding at the Organ. At Lillie Bridge, came off the Cumberland and Westmoreland Wrestling Society's Sports, formerly held at the Agricultural Hall. There was quite an average attendance of spectators, though the sport is said not to have been up to the average of former years. A Wrestler named Atkinson, of Naworth, won the first prize both in the Light and Middle Weight Contests, and was very nearly securing the same honour in the All Weights Contest, but his opponent Ivinson, of Baldeak, was far too heavy a man for him to cope with successfully. In addition there were some pole jumping, and a 440 yards handicap, run in heats, the winner of the final being Cash (38 yards), time 51½ seconds.

Easter Monday may also be written down a success. The weather was inviting enough to attract the holiday-makers out in their thousands and tens of thousands. The Crystal Palace, with its Grand Spectacular Burlesque, drew over sixty thousand visitors, who fed and rejoiced themselves to their hearts' content the whole day long. The rival institution at Muswell Hill drew a still larger number to witness the Grand Easter Spectacle of Turco the Terrible, the performances of the Jackley Troupe, Broeckmann's Circus from Berlin, and the other entertainments provided. Cremorne, North Woolwich, the Music Halls, and the other places of public amusement, each and every of them offered as varied and tempting a programme as the resources of their several establishments would permit. In fact, all the world and his wife took advantage of the Bank Holiday and went pleasuring; and all the world and his wife already show symptoms of recovery from the very severe ordeal in the way of eating, drinking, and travelling, to which they were obliged to submit. The Volunteers, too, who went down to Tring and had a field-day and the usual march past, appear to have spent their holiday very satisfactorily. It may be questioned if they are any wiser for the evolutions they performed, which, according to all accounts, appear to have been distinguished by a considerable amount of blundering; battalions firing into each other at short range without rhyme or reason, and the new formation being dispensed with in favour of the old system. Still the revival of this review marks an epoch in the history of volunteering, and we trust it may be repeated regularly, as of old, on future Easter Mondays. The credit of the revival is assigned by common consent to the zeal and energy of Lord Ranelagh, who commanded one of the brigades. Nor were these the only occurrences that marked Easter Monday. The Lord Mayor and Sheriffs went in State to Christ's Church, Newgate-street, for the purpose of hearing the annual Spital Sermon, which this year was preached by the Bishop of Exeter. In the evening the usual Easter banquet was held at the Mansion House, the Lord Mayor being specially honoured by the presence of H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh, who returned thanks for the toast of the Prince and Princess of Wales and the other members of the Royal Family. The banquet was served in the Egyptian Hall, and among the two hundred and sixty guests present were a number of the Aldermen and leading citizens of London, We may mention here that the following day, the Christ Hospital Boys, according to ancient custom, went in procession to the Mansion House, where they were regaled by the Lord Mayor with buns and wine, each boy being presented with a coin of the realm, differing in value according to his rank in the school.

Outside London, Easter appears to have passed pleasantly enough, except in Limerick, where the Nationalists and the Home-rulers seem to have devoted Monday to the national pastime of breaking heads. Messrs. Isaac Butt and O'Shaughnessey were to have addressed their constituents on that day. Accordingly a procession, headed by a band, was formed, and proceeded to the O'Connell statue, where Mr. Butt and his colleague proposed to give an account of their Parliamentary stewardship. But the extreme Nationalists, the remnant of the Fenian conspiracy, had determined otherwise. These are a small but resolute body, and having armed themselves with bludgeons and other objectionable weapons, met the procession on its way, and at once made a tremendous attack on the band, who were well belaboured, while their instruments, especially the big drum, were damaged or destroyed, and the banners were torn and otherwise damaged. A considerable number of persons were very seriously injured, but the Nationalists being outnumbered were at length driven from the ground, and the two members essayed to address the multitude, but their speeches were quite inaudible. A number of arrests have been made, among them a man named Daly, who has, on more than one occasion recently, proved himself an able organiser. Many of the wounded are in hospital, the injuries in several cases being reported dangerous. Anticipating a renewal of the disturbance on Tuesday, the authorities, both military and civil, made the necessary preparations. The soldiery were under arms all night, twenty rounds of ball cartridge being served out to each man. The constabulary also were fully armed, those from the outlying districts being called in. No further disturbances arose, though the excitement throughout the city was very great. This, and the march of Kenealy's "ragged rascals" to hold a demonstration in Hyde Park, are the only unseasonable events that have occurred this Eastertide.

Mr. Dion Boucicault, playwright and actor, is again bestirring himself about the Fenian prisoners. On Tuesday, in various parts of the metropolis, a number of printed bills, with a black or mourning border, appeared, with the signature at foot of "Dion Boucicault." We have no desire to say harsh things of the Fenians or any other misguided political individuals. But the country has all through endorsed the sentences passed on these disturbers of the public peace—two of them, it seems, were accessories to the murder of Sergeant Brett, at Manchester. We commend to Mr. Boucicault's notice the old adage, "The cobbler to his last." Let him stick to his acting, and leave politics to politicians. His present action is likely to bring upon him the contempt of decent people, rather than fame. If he is anxious to recruit a waning popularity let him direct his sympathy to worthier objects. Heaven knows there are many in all parts of the country who sorely need it, and something more substantial besides. Let him leave treason-felons to the punishment that is their due.

The police have succeeded in tracing the murderer of the Blackburn girl, Emily Hollands. A barber of that town, named Fish, has been arrested, and a portion of the unhappy girl's remains found in the chimney of his shop. Fish has since confessed that he committed the foul crime. The tramp Taylor, arrested on suspicion, has been released from custody. Another mysterious death has occurred at Brompton. A lady by the name of Portis was found dead in her bed, and a quantity of jewellery she was known to have in the room has disappeared. It is believed she died of suffocation from chloroform. A man named Wallace and his wife are said to be concerned in the matter, and the inquest has been adjourned till Wednesday next, in order that a post mortem examination might be made of the stomach, and that the police may have time to make inquiries, and trace the persons alleged to be implicated.

Digitized by Google

The contest for the Public Schools Racquet Cup has resulted in the victory of Harrow, who thus scores a fifth success over all its rivals. The contestants were Harrow, Eton (winner, last year), Winchester, Cheltenham, Marlborough, and Haileybury. In the first match Harrow defeated Haileybury. Eton was then pitted against Winchester, and won somewhat easily. In the struggle between Cheltenham and Marlborough the latter proved the victor by four games to two. On Tuesday Eton defeated Marlborough, Harrow having drawn a bye, and then the final struggle was fought out between the great rival blues, Eton and Harrow, the result being, as we have stated, a victory for Harrow.

A new Hamlet has appeared at Drury Lane, Signor Rossi having undertaken to enact the character. We have not seen the performance, but to judge from the accounts we have read, we should imagine his impersonation was a complete failure. The other interesting news in the theatrical world is the production of a version of Tennyson's Queen Mary at the Lyceum, and the addition to our metropolitan theatres of the Royal Aquarium Theatre, Westminster, which has been licensed by the Lord Chamberlain to Mr. Stephen Coleman, and was opened on Saturday with "Jo," the theatrical rendering of Dickens's Bleak House. The National Anthem and a congratulatory address from the pen of Mr. Clement W. Scott preceded the regular performance. As regards the Italian Opera, the performances at the Royal Italian, Covent Garden, have been attractive as usual, but no special comment seems necessary. Next Saturday, Her Majesty's, Drury Lane, inaugurates its season, the opera for the opening night being Gounod's Faust, in which Madame Christine Nilsson will sustain the part of Margherita. Bro. Sir Michael Costa will resume the direction of the orchestra, while that highly popular favourite Mdlle. Titiens will re-appear as one of the prime donne. The programme includes only two revivals, of Medea and of Rossini's Othello, but the announcements are of a character to satisfy the most exacting habitué. We wish Bro. Mapleson a successful career during the coming season.

Owners of valuable dogs in and around the metropolis are becoming seriously alarmed by the numerous cases of poisoning which have lately occurred. It is evident that a gang of wanton ruffians are working systematically, and the death of many valuable animals is already recorded. Rewards are offered amounting, in the aggregate, to somewhere about £350, but as yet no clue to the perpetrators of these outrages has been found. We can easily understand that dog-stealing may be a profitable occupation, as is evidenced by the well known story of the dog fancier, who refused to sell a lady one of his pets on the ground that she intended taking it with her into some remote part of the country; but that any good can come of dog-poisoning seems incomprehensible.

Several members of Parliament have been availing themselves of the Easter holidays to address their constituents, or one or more sections of the public. Of the failure of Mr. Butt and his colleague to make themselves heard, we have already spoken. In England, however, our M.P.'s have been less noisily received. Mr. Lowe, for instance, made a long speech at Retford, on Monday, the occasion being a banquet to Mr. Bristowe, the defeated Liberal candidate at the recent election, and the subject the present state of the Liberal Party. The same day, Mr. Wheelhouse, one of the Conservative members for Leeds, addressed the Wibsey Conservative Association, and congratulated his audience on the progress made, thus far, in public business, during this Session; while the Speaker was very warmly received at the Wisbeach Mechanics' Institute Conversazione, and spoke at considerable length on "Great Powers," these being not what are ordinarily understood by the Great Powers, but powers which are even greater still, such as public opinion, religion, the press, steam and electricity, wealth, &c., &c.

At a meeting, on Tuesday, of the Statistical Society, Mr. Chubb read a highly interesting and important paper, on "The Supply of Gas to the Metropolis," pointing out the quantity of gas consumed, the coal used in manufacture, the amount of share and loan capital raised by the united Companies, the maximum rate of dividend paid, and a mass of other details connected with the introduction and progressive use of gas as a lighting power. He also traced the history of the leading Gas Companies, and contrasted the cost to the English consumer with the amount paid in other countries. A discussion followed, in which Professor Leone Levi and others took part, and a vote of thanks to Mr. Chubb brought the meeting to a close.

An accident that might have been attended with far more serious consequences, occurred, on Monday, to Mr. Simmons, an aëronaut, who, in company with Lieut. Bailey, of the 27th Regiment, made a balloon ascent, on Monday, from the Botanic Gardens, Belfast. The weather was very hazy, and when some ten miles had been traversed, an attempt was made to descend, the clouds being very near the ground; the balloon, however, came in contact with a house, and the occupants were very much shaken. Immediately afterwards, Lieut. Bailey dropped from the car some ten feet, and escaped injury. The balloon then reascended, but on the valve being a second time opened, the car, in its descent, struck against a wall, and Mr. Simmons was flung violently to the ground. The balloon then sailed off, and has not been heard of since. A reward, however, is offered for its recovery. Mr. Simmons is much bruised and shaken, but not otherwise seriously injured.

Whether Polo will be ever firmly established as an English sport, is a question we have no intention of discussing. That it has attained a high degree of popularity is certain, and as the Emperor of Germany has invited a number of the best English players over to Berlin, with a view to introducing it as a military pastime, its present popularity will, doubtless, go on increasing. On Monday and Tuesday, a grand meeting was held near Brighton. On the former day two teams of the Scots Greys, respectively captained by Colonel Nugent and Mr. M'Clintock Bunbury, contended, the result being in favour of the latter, by two goals to none. Two Polo pony races were also held, the victory in each being secured by Captain Farquhar. On Tuesday a match was played between the Scots Greys and the 12th Lancers, and as the former had three of their best men absent, the Lancers obtained a somewhat easy victory. A pony race, won by Mr. Hippesley's No Name, was also run, and there were sundry pigeon matches in the shooting inclosure.

The news from the East of Europe is even less satisfactory than it was last week. No end of "shaves" are flying about, and it is even said that Montenegro has joined the insurgents, but this seems at least doubtful. The state of public feeling is very unsettled in Servia, and there is no doubt this principality is eager to extend the present sphere of the contest. Very hard fighting is reported to have taken place between the insurgents and the Turks in the neighbourhood of Nicksich. The insurgents claim to have repulsed their enemy with heavy loss; but, on the other hand, Moukhtar Pacha has telegraphed to Constantinople that he has had six days hard fighting, and inflicted heavy losses on the insurgents, though the latter were twice his strength, and openly assisted by the Prince of Montenegro. The object of Moukhtar's expedition was to victual Nicksich, and according to his statement, he succeeded in conveying provisions to the small port of Presjeka, within a three hours march from that place. But whatever the real state of the case, it is evident the continuance of the insurrection is viewed, generally throughout Europe, with great alarm, or the European Bourses would not exhibit so much depression. There has been a congress in Paris of Roman Catholic Committees from all the departments of France, at which the Archbishop of Paris delivered an address which appears to have given great satisfaction to his hearers. The dismissal of a number of prefects who differ in political opinions with the majority in the new Legislative Assembly, does not seem to have given satisfaction, either to the Conservative minority or the Gambettists. The former are angry that any changes should have been made by the Government, while the latter are dissatisfied because more of these municipal officers have not received their congé. The proposal, that the Austrian National Bank should join in establishing a national bank for Hungary, has been rejected by the Committee of the former, to which it was referred. No final decision has been arrived at in connection with the revision of the Austro-Hungarian Union

Digitized by Google

Treaty, but the questions at issue are expected to be settled shortly. The Emperor and Empress of Brazil have arrived in the United States, and on Monday paid a visit to the Academy of Music at New York. The inquiry into the Emma Mine and the whisky frauds is still in progress. The news from other countries has no special interest.

The sixth annual ball in aid of the City and Metropolitan Police Orphanage will take place on Thursday, the 4th of May, at the Cannon-street Hotel, under the patronage of the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, Bro. Alderman and Sheriff Knight, Bro. Sheriff Breffit, Col. Fraser K.C.B., Major Bowman, Bro. Lieut. F. Kent C.C., and an efficient committee and stewards. The ball-room arrangements will be under the direction of Bro. T. Butler.

The Domatic Chapter of Instruction, which was established many years since, under the superintendence of the late Comp. Dr. Ladd, who, in his day, was recognised as one of the best Preceptors of R.A. Masonry, has lately been in abeyance, but was resuscitated on Wednesday last, at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, We Comp. John Boyd P.Z. occupied the chair, and he was supported by a goodly attendance. Companions of the Royal Arch at the West End, should avail themselves of the advantages for Instruction which the re-establishment of this Chapter of Instruction now affords.

A Moveable Grand Lodge of M.M.M. will be held by the M.W.G.M.M.M. the Earl of Limerick at Freemasons' Hall, Bristol, on Friday next, the 28th instant, at 3.30 p.m., for the purpose of Constituting the Provincial Grand Lodge of M.M.M. of Bristol, and installing Bro. William A. F. Powell as Provincial G.M.M. A banquet will be afterwards held at the Montague Tavern, at 5.30 p.m. Tickets, wine, &c., inclusive, half-a-guinea. Those who wish to be present at the latter are requested to apply for tickets, not later than Monday, to Bro. William Hodges, acting Provincial G.S., Rose-villa, Stapleton-road, Bristol.

Bro. W. J. Murlis, W.M. 1489, has been elected a Guardian of the Parish of Kensington; 4799 votes were polled for him.

On Wednesday, the 26th inst., the Provincial Grand Lodge of Warwickshire will meet at Nuneaton, presided over by the Right Hon. and Right Worshipful Bro. Lord Leigh, its zealous and popular chief, for the purpose of assisting to lay the foundation stone of a new church on the site of the old Abbey Church of that town. The W.M. of the Lodge of Antiquity, London, has very kindly consented to lend the mallet, of which our former Grand Master, Sir Christopher Wren, made use when performing a similar ceremony for St. Paul's Cathedral, to Lord Leigh for the occasion. The Abbey Lodge, No. 432, will do the honours; and we know that in course of the proceedings the claims of charity will certainly not be neglected by our brethren of Warwickshire.

The Phœnix Lodge, No. 914, at Port Royal, Jamaica, which was established specially for Naval and Military brethren on the station, has, we are glad to learn, completed a new convenient Temple or Masonic Hall. A warrant for the formation of a Royal Arch Chapter has also lately been granted to it. Masonry is still flourishing on the island, as in the days when our esteemed Bro. Dr. Robert Hamilton led the van.

To-morrow is St. George's Day, and accordingly our Annual Grand Festival will be held on Wednesday next, the 26th inst. In the absence of the M.W.G.M., H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Bro. the Earl of Carnarvon Pro G.M., or Bro. Lord Skelmersdale D.G.M., will preside, and invest the Grand Officers for the ensuing year. Grand Lodge will be opened at 5 p.m., and the customary banquet will be held in Freemasons' Hall at the hour of six. Our London Brethren are aware, of course, that, by the Constitutions, no private Lodge in the metropolitan district is permitted to hold a Masonic feast on the day of the Grand Festival.

The opening of the grand hall of the Surrey Masonic Hall was celebrated by a ball, on Wednesday evening. A number of distinguished brethren, including Colonel Burdett, J. Boyd P.G.P., E. Clark, and others, were present, and about two hundred ladies and gentlemen. An ode, composed by Bro. Poynter, was recited in the course of the evening by Bro. G. J. Dawson. Dancing, to the music of Bro. Dan Godfrey's band, was continued to an early hour on Thursday morning. The ball was held on behalf of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls.

The usual Monthly Meeting of the Grand Lodge of Benevolence was held on Wednesday, 19th instant, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street, Bro. J. M. Clabon, P.G.D. President in the Chair, J. Nunn, P.G.S.B., S.V.P., J. Brett, P.G.P., J.V.P. Grants from the former meeting, amounting to £320, were confirmed; 33 new cases were relieved, to the amount of £452. Among those present were Bros. H. Bartlett, Hyde Pullen, J. Boyd, H. Massey, J. Smith, Griffiths Smith, W. Stephens, C. Hogard, H. Dicketts, S. May, B. Head, W. H. Myers, T. Kingston, H. W. Hemsworth, G. B. Gates, J. Younghusband, J. R. Foulger, J. Turner, J. J. Berry, A. R. Wade, G. Brooke, L. Jacobs, J. Pringle, J. J. Nelson, W. J. Murlis, J. H. Watts, W. Stuart, W. R. Marsh, H. Williams, W. B. Baxter, H. S. Goodhall, J. Hervey, H. G. Buss, W. Stuart, B. Swallow, Pendlebury, &c.

PRESENTATION TO DR. W. P. MILLS P.M., BY LODGE 376.

ON Wednesday evening, 19th April, a very gratifying presentation was made, at the Masonic Hall, Ipswich, to Dr. W. P. Mills, who for many years has acted as Treasurer of the Perfect Friendship Lodge. The Lodge was well attended, amongst those present being the officers of the Lodge: Bros. J. H. Staddon W.M., H. Sidney S.W., A. Read J.W., H. Luff Secretary, J. G. Churchyard S.D., W. B. Jefferies J.D., W. T. Westgate D.C., W. Green I.G. Past Masters Bros. W. J. Jack, N. Tracy, J. A. Pettit, J. B. Fraser, A. Gamuian, W. Spalding, W. A. Elliston. The British Union Lodge was represented by Bros. C. F. Long P.M., W. Boby P.M., A. D. George P.M. St. Luke's Lodge by Bros. W. Daking S.W., A. C. Barber P.M., &c., &c. The Prince of Wales Lodge by Bros. F. Bennett, W. Clark J.W., D. D. Steele, &c., &c. Amongst the members of the Perfect Friendship Lodge were Bros. F. Fisher, L. Callaway, T. Hooper, T. R. Elkington, A. Cannon, W. H. Spicer, S. R. Annese, R. Annese, W. R. Davis, H. G. Bishop, H. D. Harrison, &c., &c. The presentation consisted of an illuminated address, beautifully executed by Miss Tracy, together with a drawing-room clock and pair of ornaments, all enclosed under glass shades; the clock, an eight-day one, and the ornaments, are made of ormolu and enamel, and have medallions very richly painted, representing hunting scenes. The articles, which are valued at 40 guineas, were supplied by Bro. J. B. Fraser (Messrs. R. D. and J. B. Fraser), and were much admired by the brethren. The address was as follows:—

"To W. P. Mills, M.D., P.M., P.P.S.G.W. Suffolk.

"Dear Sir and Brother,—We, the Worshipful Master, Wardens, Past Masters, and Brethren of the Perfect Friendship Lodge of Freemasons, No. 376, beg your acceptance of the accompanying timepiece and ornaments as a slight token of the high estimation of the many valuable services rendered our Lodge, especially as Treasurer, during a period of 26 years.

"Wishing you long life and happiness,

"We subscribe ourselves,

"Yours fraternally."

(Here follow the signatures of the W.M. and present officers and Past Masters and Brethren of the Lodge.)

Upon a gilt plate within the shade of the clock was the following inscription:—"Presented by the Brethren of Lodge Perfect Friendship, No. 376, to W. P. Mills, M.D., P.M., P.P.G.S.W. Suffolk, as a mark of esteem, and in recognition of his services as Treasurer for 26 years." After the passing of two brethren and the initiation of Mr. W. Roe, the presentation was made by the W.M., Bro. J. H. Staddon, who in a most felicitous speech expressed the obligations the brethren were under to their worthy Treasurer for acting in that capacity for the long period of 26 years, and asked his acceptance of the scroll, ornaments, and time-piece. Bro. Mills suitably responded, and stated his inability to sufficiently express his thanks to the brethren for their handsome and unexpected presentation. The Lodge having been closed in due and ancient form, the brethren retired to the banqueting room, and about 50 sat down to supper.—East Anglian Daily Times.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Unfailing Restoratives.—When the climate, age, or hardships, have undermined the health, skin diseases are prone to arise and augment the existing weakness. Holloway's medicaments daily prove most serviceable even under the most untoward circumstances. This well known and highly esteemed ointment possesses the finest balsamic virtues, which soothe and heal without inflaming or irritating the most tender skin or most sensitive sore. Holloway's Ointment and Pills are infallible for curing bad legs, varicose veins, swelled ankles, and erysipelas. They have long been famed for their power of subduing glandular inflammations, local irritations, prickly heat, and that annoying eruption which frequently springs from neglecting out-door exercise.

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

SATURDAY, 22nd APRIL.

Audit Committee, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall.
[illegible]—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
1293—Burdett, Mitre Hotel, Hampton Court.
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

MONDAY, 24th APRIL.

45—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem, St. John's-square, E.C., at 8. (Instruction.)
183—Unity, London Tavern, Bishopsgate, E.C.

65—Royal Clarence, Freemasons' Hall, Bristol.
1177—Tenby, Royal Assembly Rooms, Tenby, Pembroke.
R. A. 241—Friendship, Masonic Temple, 23 Hope-street, Liverpool.
M. M. 148—Stamford, Town Hall, Altrincham, Cheshire.

TUESDAY, 25th APRIL.

Audit Committee, Girls' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
14—Tuscan, Freemasons' Hall, W.C.
65—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
186—Industry, The Restaurant, 2 Westminster-chambers, Victoria-street, S.W.
205—Israel, Cannon-street Hotel.
860—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
1196—Urban, Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's-gate, Clerkenwell, E.C.
Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, at 6.30.

253—Tyrian, Masonic Hall, Gower-street, Derby.
310—Union, Freemasons' Hall, Castle-street, Carlisle.
367—Apollo University, Masonic Hall, Oxford.
478—Perseverance, Shenstone Hotel, Hales Owen.
1040—Elkington, Masonic Rooms, New-street, Birmingham.
1228—Benevolence, Red Lion, Leytonstone, at 8. (Instruction.)
1325—Torbay, Town Hall, Paignton.
R. A. 169—Beaufort, Freemasons' Hall, Bristol.
R. A. 823—Everton, Masonic Temple, 23 Hope-street, Liverpool.

WEDNESDAY, 26th APRIL.

Grand Festival, Freemasons' Hall, W.C.
169—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
1524—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Alkham-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)

188—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover. (Instruction.)
906—Scientific, Eagle Hotel, East Dereham, Norfolk.
1038—St. John's, George Hotel, Lichfield.
R. A. 236—Zetland, Masonic Hall, York.

THURSDAY, 27th APRIL.

General Committee, Girls' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
18—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, London-street, Fitzroy-square, at 7. (Instruction.
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Lombard-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
435—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 8. (Instruction.)
1201—Harvey, 152 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Marquess of Ripon, Alkham, Alkham-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
R. A. 237—Stability, Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street.

78—Imperial George, Assheton Arms Hotel, Middleton, Lancashire.
316—Friendship, Crown and Anchor Hotel, Quay, Great Yarmouth.
214—Hope and Unity, White Hart Hotel, Romford.
867—Caldwell, Masonic Hall, Theatre-street, Norwich.
966—St. Edward's Literary Institute, Leek, Stafford.
R. A. 87—Humber, Freemasons' Hall, Osborne-street, Hull.
R. A. 256—Sacred Delta, Masonic Temple, 15 prestreet, Liverpool.
R. A. 279—Fortitude, Freemasons' Hall, Halford-street, Leicester.

FRIDAY, 28th APRIL.

569—Verney, Head Quarters, Bucks Artillery Corps, City-road.
804—Pembury, Rosemary Branch Tavern, Islington, N.
933—Doric, Earl Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1278—Burdett Coutts, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, 7.30. (Instruction.)
1507—Metropolitan, 249 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)

1385—Gladsmuir, Red Lion Hotel, Barnet, Herts.
R. A. 471—Silurian, Freemasons' Hall, Dock-street, Newport, Mon.

SATURDAY, 29th APRIL.

108—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

WEDNESDAY.

304—Philanthropic, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.
1283—Rylburn, Private Rooms, Town Hall-street, Sowerby-bridge.

THURSDAY.

810—Craven, Devonshire Hotel, Skipton.
904—Phœnix, Ship Hotel, Rotherham.

FRIDAY.

R. A. 61—Sincerity, Freemasons' Hall, St. John's-place, Halifax.
R. A. 248—Magdalen, Guildhall, Doncaster.

SATURDAY.

1462—Wharncliffe, Rose and Crown Hotel, Penistone.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

48—Industry, Freemasons' Hall, West-street, Gateshead.

TUESDAY.

1187—Alnwick, Masonic Hall, Market-place, Alnwick.
R. A. 91—De Lambton, Freemasons' Hall, Queen-street, Sunderland.

WEDNESDAY.

1119—St. Bede, Mechanics' Institute, Jarrow.
M. M.—Northumberland and Berwick, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

THURSDAY.

1518—Fraternity, Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-road, Stockton-on-Tees.
R. A. 474—De Burgh, Freemasons' Hall, West-street, Gateshead.
R. A. 491—Ogle, Masonic Hall, Norfolk-street, North Shields.

IRELAND.

MONDAY—795—Ashfield, Private Room, Cootehill, Co. Cavan.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

MONDAY—349—St. Clair, Freemasons' Hall.
TUESDAY—151—Defensive Band, Alexander Hall, Cockburn-street.
R. A. 40—Naval and Military, Freemasons' Hall.
WEDNESDAY—112—St. John Fisherrow, Royal Hotel, Musselburgh.
THURSDAY—302—Caledonian, Freemasons' Hall.
FRIDAY—223—Trafalgar, 54 Bernard-street, Leith.

GLASGOW DISTRICT.

MONDAY—302—Sir Mark, 233 Buchanan-street.
" 348—Union and Crown, 170 Buchanan-street.
" 219—Star, 12 Trongate.
" 362—St. Clair, 25 Robertson-street.
" 541—Marie Stewart, Freemasons' Hall, Crosshill.
" R. A.—122—Thistle, 35 St. James's-street.
TUESDAY—499—Neptune, 25 St. James's-street.
" 549—St. John, Freemasons' Hall, Pollokshaws.
" R. A.—67—Caledonian, 24 Strathern-street.
" R. A.—73—Caledonian of Unity, 170 Buchanan-street.
WEDNESDAY—510—Marshall, 167 Main-street, Maryhill.
THURSDAY—Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow Quarterly Communication, 213 Buchanan-street.
" 570—Kenmuir, Freemasons' Hall, Springburn.
" R. A.—117—Govan, Portland-Hall, Govan.
FRIDAY—R. A. 79—Commercial, 30 Hope-street.
" 158—Royal Arch, School-room, Pollokshaws.
" 547—St. John, Freemasons' Hall, Rutherglen.
SATURDAY—R. A. 143—Robert Burns, Freemasons' Hall, Holytown.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

St. Mungo Encampment Knights Templar, Glasgow.—The monthly meeting of this body was held on Monday, the 17th instant, in St. Mark's Hall, Sir Knight R. Bell E.C. presiding, assisted by Sir Knights Wheeler Prelate, H. J. Shields 33° Acting Recorder, C. McKenzie M., J. McLeish W., W. F. Shaw C.C., J. C. Park S.C., J. McDade J.C., J. B. Hardie Sentinel. A petition was presented from Comp. John De Neel, 2nd Principal of Chapter 122, who was decreed as a pilgrim, and afterwards created a squire of the Order, after which Sir Knights R. Bell E. Commander, and W. F. Shaw Deputy Commander or Generalissimo, were appointed as representatives of the Encampment, to proceed to the United States and take part in the expected Templar demonstration at Philadelphia and elsewhere at the Centennial Celebrations.

St. John's Lodge, No. 3 bis.—This Lodge met on Tuesday, the 18th instant, under the presidency of Bro. Nelson R.W.M. There was a large attendance of the members and visitors, amongst whom were Bros. J. Adams, from Canada, of Lodge 58, Doric, Rev. Joseph Bain, of Acacia Lodge, No. 225. The work consisted of the raising of six brethren, which was done in the way that has raised the fame of St. John's.

Mount Lebanon Chapter, No. 73.—The installation meeting and regular Convocation of this Chapter was held on the 13th instant, at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Comps. J. H. Butten M.E.Z., B. A. Dubois H. and M.E.Z. elect, J. W. Baldwin J. and H. elect, F. Walters P.G. 1st Assistant Middlesex, P.Z. S.E., and J. Mason J. elect. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes of the former Convocation were confirmed. Comp. W. Sneed then installed Comps. H. A. Dubois Z., J. W. Baldwin H., and J. Mason J. He then invested Comps. F. Walters P.Z. S.E., T. J. Sabine Treasurer, Loewenstark S.N., Cousins P.S., Adams 1st Asst., Parsons 2nd Asst., and Laing Janitor. Comp. W. Sneed, by the courtesy of the M.E.Z., then exalted Bros. H. Hand 1017, C. Parsons 77, H. Ireland 87, and C. J. Strome 428, in so able and perfect a manner that a vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to him, and recorded on the minutes. A very elegant gold P.Z. jewel was presented to Comp. J. H. Butten, the retiring Z., for services rendered by him in that capacity during his year of office. The Chapter was then closed, and the usual banquet took place. The loyal and R.A. toasts followed, and some capital speeches were made. The Janitor's toast was given, and the Companions separated.

Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, 18th instant, at 170 Buchanan-street, when Bro. Wheeler passed Bros. Reid and Mitchell to the Fellow Craft degree, after which the R.W.M. raised three brethren to the sublime degree, in a very careful manner.

Thistle Lodge, No. 87.—This Lodge held a harmony meeting on Tuesday, the 18th instant, which was largely attended both by members and visitors. The singing and reciting were calculated to enhance the pleasure of any meeting, and would have done no injustice to professionals.

Vitruvian Lodge, No. 87.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 19th inst., at the White Hart, College-street, Lambeth. Bros. B. Clegg W.M., C. Walker S.W., T. Ross J.W., J. G. Bond P.M. Treasurer, W. Stuart P.M. Secretary, A. Timothy S.D., C. Nott J.D., J. Skinner I.G., W. Robinson D.C., J. Janseway W.S. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Holland, Marshall, Grigg, Goodhall, Ashford and Duffield were passed to the 2nd degree; Bros. Sumbell, Webb, Hirst, Quin, Wright, Birch and Bonner were raised to the degree of Master Masons, and Messrs. Hancock, Reed, Alder, Evans and Cuthbert were initiated into the Order. The working was very perfectly rendered. The proposal for the removal of the Lodge will be discussed at a future meeting. The members so rapidly increase that the rooms are not sufficiently commodious, and the committee appointed will report thereon. The Lodge was then closed.

Digitized by Google

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Wednesday last, at Bro. Bell's Masons' Hall Tavern, E.C. Present—Bros. Tapyard W.M., Reed S.W., Abell J.W., J. Constable Treasurer, F. Crinkor S.D., Tollis Steward, Walker I.G., Christopher Tyler; P.M. Bro. E. Gotthel Preceptor. Visitors—Bros. Thompson and Ellis. Business—The 3rd degree was worked by the W.M. in his usual eloquent style, to the intense satisfaction of all present, he also worked the whole of the sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Reed was elected W.M. for the following week, the meeting consisted of upwards of twenty-three brethren.

Bank of England Lodge, No. 263.—Met at the Albion Tavern, on Thursday, the 13th inst. Owing to the inclemency of the weather and other causes, there was not a very full muster. The Provincial Grand Organist of Middlesex was the only visitor. No business, other than the disposal of the votes to the Charities, came before the meeting.

Union Lodge, No. 332.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, the 17th instant, at 170 Buchanan-street, when Bro. McKirdy R.W.M. initiated one gentleman and raised a brother to the sublime degree.

Clyde Lodge, No. 408.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Friday, the 14th instant, for the purpose of initiating gentlemen into the Order. The work was well performed by the R.W.M., Bro. Harper. The third degree was afterwards conferred on a brother of this Lodge, and on one for the Lodge Kilwinning, No. 4, for which Bro. R. Frost, of No. 4, returned thanks.

Frederick Chapter of Unity, No. 453.—Having removed its quarters from Sutton, met at Croydon, on Tuesday, the 18th April. Bro. E. J. Harty was exalted. Most excellent Comp. James Glaisher performed the ceremony with that solemnity and efficiency which is so well known. Comp. Baber was installed into the chair of Z., and the proceedings terminated with a banquet and social enjoyment.

Polish National Lodge, No. 534.—On Thursday, the 13th instant, the Installation meeting of this Lodge was largely attended by members and visitors, amongst others Bros. Hyde Pullen P.S.G.B., J. B. Sorrell W.M. 176, F. Sumner Knyvett W.M. 1494, Sergeet P.M., and several others. The Lodge having being opened, the W.M., Bro. W. G. Moore, proceeded to raise Bro. W. Croucher, after which the Lodge was resumed to the 2nd degree, when Bro. F. Rath S.W. was presented to the W.M. for installation, the ceremony being performed by Bro. Moore in a masterly manner, calling forth unanimous expressions of approval from the brethren. Messrs. Brown, Hasledon and Jones were afterwards initiated by the W.M., and no other business offering the Lodge was duly closed, and the brethren adjourned to a banquet, presided over by the W.M., Bro. Rath. The usual loyal and customary toasts having being responded to, the health of the W.M. was proposed by the I.P.M., and very cordially responded to by the brethren, the W.M. acknowledging the compliment in very graceful terms. The health of the Initiates was acknowledged by Bro. Brown. The W.M. then proposed the health of Bro. Moore, the I.P.M., and commented upon the able and impressive manner in which he had performed the ceremony of Installation. Bro. Moore, in responding, referred to the prosperous condition of the Lodge, and wished for the W.M. the same measure of success which had attended him during his year of office. Bro. Hyde Pullen P.G.S.B. and other visitors responded to the toast of the Visitors, expressing their favourable opinion of the working of the Lodge generally. The health of the Officers was then proposed, and the Tyler's toast having been duly honoured, the brethren separated, after the enjoyment of an exceedingly pleasant evening.

Dramatic Lodge, No. 571.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, on Wednesday, the 19th instant. The R.W.M. Bro. W. J. E. Dobson, H. W. Jackman S.W., William Sievewright J.W., W. Barbour Tr., D. Campbell Sec., J. Smyth S.D., J. B. Hardie Tyler. The R.W.M., in excellent style, initiated Mr. Walter Buchanan into the Order, and afterwards passed Bro. Counel to the Fellow Craft degree. There were a great many visitors present, including Bros. C. S. De Reslarren of Le Union de la Orient Bosphorus Lodge, John H. Sutcliff of King Solomon Lodge, Australia, Allan C. Wylie P.P.G.S.B. Herts, James Adams 58, Doric, Canada, G. W. Wheeler 73, J. Lauchlan 87, J. Sherlock 260, J. M. Oliver S.W. 360, J. Beard 413, Wm. Phillips R.W.M. 506, J. Ferguson P.M. 543, J. Law P.M. 570, and Allan C. Bodge 869.

Dalhousie Lodge, No. 860.—This Lodge held its regular monthly meeting, also the last of the season, on Thursday, the 13th instant, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Present—Bros. W. H. Wallington W.M., Smith S.W. and Worsley J.W. pro tem, White S.D., Mason J.D., Dodson I.G., Gilchrist Tyler. Lodge opened in due form with prayer; the minutes of the last Lodge meeting were read and confirmed. Bros. Cole, Turner and Lipson having answered the usual questions, were raised to the sublime degree of M.M. Bro. Silcock was passed to the second degree, after which the installation of Bro. H. Dallwood, W.M. elect (this being the second time of his occupying the chair) was proceeded with, the beautiful ceremony being rendered by Bro. Wallington in such a manner as, if possible, to exceed any of his previous efforts; the ceremony being given in a clear and unhesitating style, proving the careful study bestowed by Bro. Wallington in committing it to memory. The newly installed W.M. then appointed and invested his officers as follow:—Bros. Wallington I.P.M. and Treasurer, White S.W., Dodson J.W., Littell P.M. Sec., Seymour Smith Org., Wiege, S.D., Worsley J.D., Dickins I.G., Sencelo P.M. and Cheshire Stewards, Cull D.C., Gilchrist Tyler. The report of the Audit Committee was then read; it showed the Lodge to be in a prosperous condition, there being a good balance of cash in hand. Lodge was then closed in due form, when the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was served up and attended to in Bro. Smith's well-known style. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to most heartily. The I.P.M. in proposing the health of the W.M. observed that he was in an enviable position on that particular occasion. Bro. Dallwood having previously occupied the chair, it needed no speech of his to inform the brethren of the many excellent qualities, both socially and Masonically, possessed by our present W.M. The health of the P.M.'s was then proposed, and the name of Bro. Wallington I.P.M. coupled therewith. The W.M. embraced the opportunity—when presenting him with the P.M. jewel, as also a testimonial on vellum—to congratulate him on his very successful year of office, also on the able manner in which he had conducted the duties of the Lodge. He hoped he might be spared many years to be with them, to render his valuable assistance. Bro. Wallington briefly returned thanks for the honours the brethren conferred upon him, and trusted the Lodge would continue to prosper, this he was sure would be the case with the aid of such promising officers as the W.M. had that evening selected. The health of the Visitors was then proposed, there being several present. Bro. Driscoe P.M., a very old Mason, who has on several occasions officiated as Installing Master, responded briefly, thanking the brethren of the Dalhousie Lodge for the hospitality and kindness he and other visitors always received at their hands. He expressed his great pleasure at seeing a member of the Lodge able for the future to dispense with his services as Installing Master; he should, however, always feel the same deep interest in their proceedings he hitherto had done. Several excellent songs were sung by Bros. Seymour Smith, Farmer, Wiege, Dallwood, Wallington, Worsley, Dodson, &c., and a most enjoyable evening was brought to a close. The Tyler's toast being given, the brethren separated until the meeting in October next.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, 18th inst., at the Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Bros. Smith W.M., Perrin S.W., Cambridge J.W., Wiege S.D., Johnson I.G., Wallington Preceptor. Lodge opened in first and second degrees; Bro. Horsley, having answered the usual questions, was raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason, the ceremony being rendered very impressive by the W.M. The Preceptor gave the traditional history, and the 3rd Section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Horsley. Bro. Perrin was unanimously elected W.M. for Tuesday, 2nd May, next Tuesday being the date for working the 15 sections, when Bro. Pinder will preside. Lodge closed in due form.

Strawberry Hill Lodge, No. 946.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 19th inst., at the Grotto Hotel, Cross Deep, Twickenham. Bros. J. Hayward W.M., Johnson S.W., Wolgemuth J.W., T. Price S.D., Nicoll J.D., W. Platt P.M. Secretary, W. B. Woodman D.C., Cook I.G., Rohrs S., and P.M.'s W. Sneed, Waghorn and McIlwham. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. A Board of Installed Masters was then formed. Bro. Johnson, S.W. and W.M. elect, was presented to the Lodge, and installed into the chair by Bro. W. Sneed P.M. P.G.W. Middlesex. The W.M. having been saluted, then invested his officers:—Bros. Wolgemuth S.W., T. Price J.W., W. Platt P.M. Secretary, Cook re-appointed S.D., W. B. Woodman J.D., Argyle I.G., Aston D.C., Rohrs S., Riley Tyler. A vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. W. Sneed P.M. for the able manner he had performed the ceremony of installation. The audit report was read and adopted. A telegram was received from the R.W. Col. Burdett P.G.M., regretting his inability to attend, on account of his military duties. The W.M. then, in appropriate terms, presented; in the name of the Lodge, to the retiring W.M. a very elegant gold and artistically designed P.M. jewel, with the following inscription: "Presented to Bro. J. Hayward P.M. in testimony of the great zeal and ability displayed by him during the year he presided as W.M. 12th April 1876." The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Powell. The W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. J. Hayward I.P.M. proposed the toast of the W.M., whom he characterised as one able to carry out the requirements of the chair. This was duly responded to. Bros. W. Sneed and McIlwham returned thanks for the toast of the P.M.'s. Bros. Lowe J.W. 1158 and S. Jewell 1559 returned thanks for the Visitors, who were Bros. J. Wright W.M. New Preston Lodge, Cousins Etonian Lodge 209, and Stevens. The toast of the Wardens and Officers was given, and responded to, and the Tyler's toast concluded a very delightful evening, in spite of the unpropitious state of the weather. Bros. W. Sneed, W. Platt, McIlwham contributed to the harmony.

Harrogate and Claro Lodge, No. 1001.—This Lodge held its meeting, on 11th April, at Harrogate. This being the annual installation, the following brethren were placed in the chairs: Bros. T. T. Powell W.M., Geo. Benton jun. S.W., M. Perkin J.W., J. Stephenson S.D., M. Blume J.D., J. England P.M. D.C., S. Sugden Steward, A. Hiscoe I.G., W. Hodgson Tyler, J. B. Matthews Secretary, R. Ackrill P.M. Treasurer, Rev. R. Dyson P.M. Chaplain. Visitors Bros. H. Crooke, Prov. Grand Secretary Durham, Phillips P.M., Castle-ford (installing master). A portrait of the M.W.G.M. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales was presented to the Lodge by Bro. Paul Fruh J.D. on his retirement from office.

Digitized by Google

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 12th of April, at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present—Bros. E. Margrett S.W. acting W.M., W. P. Ivey P.M. Sec. acting S.W., A. Welch J.W., J. Newman Steward acting Sec., J. T. Stransom Treas. and acting J.D., W. G. Flanagan S.D., J. Early Danks I.G., W. Hemmings Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. G. Chancellor, J. T. Brown. Members Bros. Robinson, Simonds, Hukins, White, Bailey, Blackwell, Phillips, and Rolfe. Visitors Bros. J. F. Brown Temperance 739, Heathcote Pythagoras 447, formerly 654. Business—The Secretary read a letter from the W.M., stating that he was unavoidably absent on urgent business. The S.W. opened the Lodge in the first degree. The minutes of the last regular Lodge and joint Lodge of Emergency with that of 414, were read and confirmed. The ballot was taken for Bro. Lieut.-Col. Heathcote as a joining member, who was declared to be unanimously elected, and was admitted as a member. Bro. F. W. White being a candidate to be passed to the second degree, answered, in a very satisfactory manner, the usual questions, and retired to be prepared. The S.W. vacated the chair in favour of the Secretary, who opened the Lodge in the second degree, and passed Bro. White to the degree of Fellow Craft. Bro. T. Simonds being a candidate to be raised to the third degree, replied satisfactorily to the usual questions, and retired to be prepared. The Lodge was opened in the third degree, when the Secretary vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Brown P.M., who raised Bro. Simonds to the sublime degree of M.M. in his usual correct and impressive manner. The Lodge was resumed to the second degree. The Lodge was resumed to the first degree. The S.W., Bro. Margrett, proposed and the acting W.M. seconded, "That this Lodge do join with the Lodge of Union, 414, in providing accommodation for the forthcoming Provincial Grand Lodge in May, and that a sum not exceeding a moiety of five pounds be applied from the funds of the Lodge for that purpose," which was carried. The Secretary was requested to read a letter from the Chaplain, asking for vote of money by the Lodge to be applied to the fund of his Stewardship at the approaching Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. The acting W.M. stated that a vote had already been passed for a second forty guineas to the Institution, but the payment of it was deferred in consequence of the insufficiency of funds; but, now, from the balance sheet to December 1875 (of which each brother has had a copy), which showed a surplus of £53 odd, with about £25 subscriptions due at Christmas last unpaid, he thought it an excellent opportunity to vote the required amount to make the W.M. for the time being a Vice-President, which would be thirty instead of forty guineas. The Provincial Grand Lodge having apportioned ten guineas of their Charity fund to the Grey Friars Lodge, Bro. Chancellor P.M., Provincial Grand Treasurer, seconded the proposition. A long discussion ensued; amendments were proposed, but not seconded, when it was put to the vote, and declared to be carried. The S.W., Bro. Margrett, protested against the vote, and desired that his protest may be recorded on the minutes. The labours of the evening being ended, the Lodge was closed according to ancient form.

Macdonald Lodge, No. 1216.—This Lodge met at the Head Quarters of the 1st Surrey Rifles, at Camberwell, on the evening of Thursday, the 13th inst., when there were present:—Bros. J. Hepburn Hastie W.M., M. S. Larham S.W., James Stevens P.M. as J.W., J. W. Carnell S.D., C. Fountain J.D., F. Cozens Org., W. C. Hale I.G., also P.M.'s Bros. W. J. Messenger, G. Waterall, S. H. Wagstaff; and Bros. Captain A. Styan Treas., J. J. Curtis Sec., Holland, Golding, Bradley, Jarman, Clay, Edmonstone, Yonge, Grant, &c., &c. The Lodge was opened in the three degrees, and Bro. Yonge was raised as M.M. The Lodge having been closed down to the 1st degree, Mr. Christopher T. Dunford was introduced and initiated. The ceremonies were performed in a most admirable and careful manner, and with full musical service, to the expressed delight of the visitors and members. The election of W.M. for the ensuing year then took place, and the unanimous vote of the Lodge was recorded in favour of Bro. M. S. Larham; Bro. Captain Styan was also unanimously re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Grant, who, it was observed with regret, looked scarcely recovered from his late indisposition, was in like manner re-elected Tyler. The W.M. having referred to the flourishing condition of the Lodge funds, proposed that a sum of 40 guineas be voted in equal moieties to the Masonic Institutions for Boys and Girls, the respective amounts being placed on the lists of Bro. Waterall P.M., who will represent the Lodge at the ensuing Festival of the Girls' School, and Bro. Wagstaff P.M., who will fulfil a similar office at the Boys' School Festival. The W.M.'s proposition was carried nem. con. On the proposition of Bro. Stevens P.M., who spoke on behalf of the P.M.'s present in terms of high appreciation of the eminent services of Bro. Hastie during his year of office, and the perfection with which he had carried out the ritual of the Order, the P.M. jewel of the Lodge, of the value of ten guineas, was unanimously voted for presentation to that worthy brother on his retiring from the chair of K.S. Bro. Wagstaff P.M. stated that a further life governorship would be constituted during the ensuing week, and that the society formed in connection with the Lodge for promoting the interests of the Masonic Charities was progressing most satisfactorily. The committee for Audit was next appointed, and the business terminated. The Lodge was closed with musical service. Refreshment followed labour, and at an early hour the brethren, amongst whom were the following visitors, viz., Bros. C. G. Cobham W.M. 957, E. W. Fisher 700, Fullagar 14, Greenway 874, Fennemar 1329, and Middlemass of the Sphynx Lodge, separated.

Hervey Lodge, No. 1260.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, 19th instant, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. Jabez Hogg P.G.D. W.M., G. Harrison S.W. and W.M. elect, Southwood J.W., Hollingsworth S.D., J. S. Ward J.D., G. King jun. P.M. Secretary, Goodacre I.G., G. King sen. P.M. D.C., C. J. Speight Tyler, and Bros. Foot, Beetom, H. Condy, Mason, Robins, Spender, Salmon, Portway, Hodgkinson, &c. The Lodge was opened at half-past three, and the minutes of the former meeting and emergency were read and confirmed. Letters of apology were read from several brethren, distinguished in the Order, regretting their inability to be present. Bros. Mason, Fitch and Condy were passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. Bro. Dr. Abbott Smith, late No. 12, was elected a joining member, and Messrs. Sherward and James were duly initiated into the Order, the ceremonies being rendered by the W.M. in his accustomed perfect and impressive manner. A Board of Installed Masters was then formed, and Bro. Harrison S.W. and W.M. elect was presented to the Lodge and installed into the chair by Bro. G. King jun. P.M. The customary salutes having been given, the W.M. invested his officers:—Bros. Jabez Hogg I.P.M. Treasurer, G. King jun. P.M. Sec., Southwood S.W., Hollingsworth J.W., J. S. Ward S.D., Goodacre J.D., Spalding I.G., King P.M. D.C., and Speight Tyler. The Installing Master gave the concluding addresses, and was deservedly complimented at the conclusion of the ceremony. Bro. Seymour Smith conducted the musical arrangements, and added solemnity to the proceedings. The report of the Audit Committee was read and adopted, a sum of £10 10s was placed on the list of the S.W., who is a Steward for the next Anniversary Festival of the Girls' School. A letter of condolence was sent to the relatives of a deceased P.M. A notice of motion was given that a committee be formed to carry out the necessary arrangements for a summer banquet. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Inns of Court Hotel, where they partook of a banquet, superintended by Bro. D. Sherwell, that gave great satisfaction. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and the usual speeches of the Wardens, Officers, &c. During the evening the W.M. presented, in the name of the Lodge, a very elegant P.M. jewel, with suitable inscription, to the retiring W.M., Bro. Jabez Hogg P.G.D., in recognition of the valuable services rendered to the Lodge by him during his year of office, and as a slight token of the great regard and esteem he is held in by every brother in the Lodge. Bro. Hogg, in a feeling manner, returned thanks for the gift. The newly initiated brethren, Bros. Sherward and James, each gave the sum of £10 10s to the Girls' School, showing that they were fully impressed with the ceremony, and did not forget that noble attribute, "Charity." The musical arrangements gave great satisfaction. Bro. S. Smith was assisted by Bro. G. T. Carter. The visitors were Bros. J. Green W.M. 27, Atkins P.M. 27, G. F. Carter P.M. 142, Hollis P.M. 167, H. Massey P.M. 619, Stewart P.M. 898, Clenner 12, Sears 299, Richards 733, Harrison 771, Braven 1288, and A. Portbury 1426.

Hyde Park Lodge, No. 1425.—The installation meeting of this young but flourishing Lodge was held on Thursday evening, 13th April, at Bro. Browning's Restaurant, Paddington. Bro. W. F. Savage, who was retiring from the chair, worked the first part of the installation ceremony, being assisted, in the latter part, by Bro. Read, and the whole of the beautiful ceremony was worked in the most impressive manner. One little episode cannot be overlooked; on the appointment of the incoming Master, Bro. John Cruttenden, the S.W.'s chair was held by his brother, H. Cruttenden P.P.G. Sword Bearer of Kent, and the J.W.'s chair was held by his aged father, Bro. John Cruttenden, also a Past Grand Officer of Kent, Bro. John Cruttenden (the elder) is well known in Masonry, and it must have been to him a most pleasing sight to see his two sons occupying such exalted positions. Later in the ceremony, the son of the newly-installed W.M. entered the Lodge, so that there were present in the Lodge room three generations of the name of John Cruttenden, a fact, we believe, almost unprecedented. The officers were invested by the W.M., viz.:—Bros. Sones S.W., Gellion J.W., Alexander S.D., John Headon J.D., Clark I.G., Craig Principal Steward, Monger re-elected as Tyler. Bro. the Rev. J. Heaton was re-elected and invested as Chaplain, amidst great acclamation, as were also Bros. Langridge and Read, who have acted respectively as Treasurer and Secretary of the Lodge since its formation. A very elegant P.M.'s jewel was presented to the retiring Master. It had the following inscription:—"Presented to Bro. W. F. Savage P.M., for the very able manner in which he has performed the Masonic ceremonies during the time he has been W.M." The Lodge being closed, a recherche banquet was put on the table, which reflected the greatest credit on Bro. Alsopp and those under his direction. The usual Masonic toasts having been given and replied to, the brethren separated, after an extremely enjoyable evening. Many visitors were present, and all were thoroughly pleased with the evening's entertainment, all expressed cordial wishes of success to this, which we have no doubt will prove to be one of the most flourishing Lodges in the Craft. We congratulate Bro. Cruttenden on the very favourable auspices under which he takes the management of the Hyde Park Lodge.

RELIGIOUS AND MILITARY ORDERS OF THE TEMPLE AND OF ST. JOHN.

A National Great Priory, presided over by the Earl of Limerick, will be held in ample form at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on Friday, the 12th inst., at 3 o'clock.

On the conclusion of business, a Priory of the Order of Malta will be opened, under the banner of the Holy Palestine Preceptory, into which such Knights may be admitted who shall have signified their desire before the 9th inst.

Digitized by Google

THE THEATRES, &c.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—On Saturday, LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR. On Monday, FRA DIAVOLO. On Tuesday, FAUST E MARGHERITA. On Thursday, GUGLIELMO TELL. On Friday, DON PASQUALE. On Saturday, LOHENGRIN. Each evening at 8.30.

DRURY LANE.—On Monday afternoon next, HAMLET.

LYCEUM.—At 7.0, NATURE AND PHILOSOPHY. At 8.0, QUEEN MARY.

ADELPHI.—POOR PILLICODDY, STRUCK OIL, and MY OWN GHOST.

PRINCESS'S.—At 7.0, THE WHITE HAT. At 8.0, RIP VAN WINKLE, and HEAD OF A CLAN.

STRAND.—L'AFRICAINE, &c.

GAIETY.—At 7.45, SILENT WOMAN. At 8.30, MY AWFUL DAD. At 10.30, COOL AS A CUCUMBER.

CHARING CROSS.—At 8, ALL FOR THEM. At 8.45, STARVATION REFUSING PLENTY, Subject. At 9.45, YOUNG RIP VAN WINKLE.

OLYMPIC.—At 7.30, FASCINATING FELLOWS. At 8.0, THE GASCON. At 10.45, VESTA'S TEMPLE.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—At 7.45, QUITE BY ACCIDENT. At 8.0, WRINKLES.

ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE.—At 7.30, THE TAILOR MAKES THE MAN. At 9.15, JO.

GLOBE.—MISS GWILT.

VAUDEVILLE.—At 7.30, A WHIRLIGIG. At 8.0, OUR BOYS, and A FEARFUL FOG.

COURT. — At 8.0, A SCRAP OF PAPER, and A QUIET RUBBER.

ST. JAMES'S.—MODEL OF A WIFE, and THE SULTAN OF MOCHA.

ROYALTY.—At 7.30, MARRIED BACHELORS. At 8.15, POM.

OPERA COMIQUE.—At 7.45, TRIAL BY JURY. At 8.30, MADAME ANGOT.

CRITERION.—THE GREAT DIVORCE CASE, and ROBIN HOOD.

ALHAMBRA.—LE VOYAGE DANS LA LUNE, &c.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.—This day, BROCKMANN'S CIRCUS AND FIRST GRAND BICYCLE MEETING FOR AMATEURS. On Tuesday, GRAND EXHIBITION OF LADIES' COSTUMES. Open Daily, SKATING RINK, &c.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—This day, Mr. MANN'S ANNUAL BENEFIT. Open daily. AQUARIUM, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL AQUARIUM SUMMER AND WINTER GARDEN. Open daily. CONCERT, &c.

ROYAL POLYTECHNIC.—MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT, entitled ALICE'S ADVENTURES. Solos on the Violin and Zither. NEW LECTURE: A SUNBEAM, and HOW TO WEIGH IT. HEINKE'S DIVING DRESS and SUBMARINE LAMP. The New Type Writer in operation. FROM ENGLAND TO PHILADELPHIA. A TRIP TO THE SUEZ CANAL. Dissolving Views and Mechanical Effects. MARVELLOUS ILLUSIONS BY M. HORACE DE GREY. Open from 12 till 5, and 7 till 10. Admission to the whole, 1s.

EGYPTIAN (LARGE) HALL.—MASKELYNE AND COOKE, daily at 3.0 and 8.0.

The Freemason's Chronicle.

WEEKLY, PRICE THREEPENCE.

OFFICE:—67 BARBICAN, LONDON, E.C.

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE can be ordered of any Bookseller in Town or Country, but should any difficulty be experienced, it will be forwarded direct from the Office, on receipt of Post Office Order for the amount. Intending Subscribers should forward their full Addresses to prevent mistakes.

Post Office Orders to be made payable to W. W. MORGAN, at Barbican Office. Cheques crossed "London and County."

The Terms of Subscription (payable in advance) to THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE are—

Twelve Months, Post Free	...	...	£0 13 6
Six Months	ditto	...	... 0 7 0
Three Months	ditto	...	... 0 3 6

Agents, from whom Copies can always be had:—

Messrs. CURTICE and Co., 12 Catherine Street, Strand.
Mr. T. DRISCOLL, 87 Farringdon Street.
Mr. G. W. JORDAN, 169 Strand.
Messrs. MARSHALL and SONS, 125 Fleet Street, E.C.
Mr. M. J. PARKINSON, 114 Goswell Road, E.C.
Mr. H. SIMPSON, 7 Red Lion Court, E.C.
Messrs. SMITH and SONS, 183 Strand.
Messrs. SPENCER and Co., 23A Great Queen Street, W.C.
Messrs. STEEL and JONES, 4 Spring Gardens, Charing Cross.
Mr. G. VICKERS, Angel Court, 172 Strand.
Mr. H. VICKERS, 317 Strand.

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisers will find THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE an exceptionally good medium for Advertisements of every class.

Per Page...	...	...	...	...	...	£8 0 0
Back Page	...	...	...	...	...	£10 0 0

General Advertisements, Trade Announcements, &c. single column, 5s per inch. Double Column Advertisements 1s per line. Special Terms for a Series of insertions on application.

Births, Marriages and Deaths, 6d per line.

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief PARISIAN ESTABLISHMENTS, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE.

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.

It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blotches, or Pimples on the Face,
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from mercury or anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 9d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the worst case of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

ELECTION 19th May.—BRO. CONSTABLE would be pleased to exchange Men's Votes for Widows.

Address, 58 Richmond Road, Barnsbury, N.

MR. THOMAS C. MACROW,

252 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD, LONDON, S.E.

(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)

BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let quickly and quickly (Town or Country). All parties wishing to sell, call or send full particulars. Registration fee. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 3. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c. Tamar (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—1s 6d per box, post free 1s extra.—E. GRILLON, 24 Coleman-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,

BRO. J. L. MATHEW, P.M. 55, 1227, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Winchester-street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

YOUNG'S Arnicated Corn and Bunion Plasters are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d and 1s per box. Any Chemist not having them in stock can procure them.

Observe the Trade Mark—M. Y.—without which none are genuine. Be sure and ask for Young's.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY.—A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a simple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.

Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Musgrave Crescent, Fulham, London.

Digitized by Google

H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF

MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND REGALIA,

5 ST. JOHN SQUARE, LONDON.

PRICE LIST ON APPLICATION.

SPENCER'S MASONIC MANUFACTORY,

OPPOSITE FREEMASONS' HALL.

COSTUME, JEWELS AND FURNITURE FOR ALL DEGREES.

A QUANTITY IN STOCK.

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.

SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

A. D. LOEWENSTARK & SONS,

MASONIC JEWELLERS AND MILITARY MEDALLISTS,

26 GREAT QUEEN STREET, W.C. AND 210 STRAND, W.C.

The Largest Assortment of Past Masters' & Royal Arch Jewels in London.

ALSO JEWELS FOR EVERY DEGREE.

MINIATURE WAR MEDALS & FOREIGN DECORATIONS, WHOLESALE, RETAIL & FOR EXPORTATION.

ESTABLISHED 1844.

ESTABLISHED 1833.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,

MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,

AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING

Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.

MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;

AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.

ESTIMATES GIVEN.

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,

INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (REGISTD.)

"BRO. ADLARD'S far-famed JEWEL ATTACHER, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price is 6d., if with pockets for Jewels in each pocket cover; places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and usefulness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Lodge Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,

Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE "SPECIALITE SHERRY."

FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT.—The British Medical Journal.

VALUABLE FOR GOUTY OR URIC ACID TENDENCIES."—Dr. HASSWICKER, Metropolitan Analyst, Coroner for Middlesex.

ADOPTED AND RECOMMENDED BY nearly 3,000 Physicians and Surgeons for its Valuable Dietetic Qualities. 30s per dozen.

FELTOE & SONS, Sole Proprietors and Importers, Chief Establishment, Albemarle-street, London, W.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES. Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE (a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.

This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction.

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8. No. 90 for APRIL, now ready. Sixpence, CHESS, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE DRAMA.

W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

"There should be a better reason for the rate of Depositors than a fascinating rate of two or three per cent."—INVESTOR'S GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited.) Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City; and 377 and 378 Regent-street, W. Established 1863, receives Deposits. On Deposit, 5 per cent. Subject to Notice, 10 per cent. Opens Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to examine this new and improved system, that guarantees a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-invested or re-hypothecated any of the securities. To Borrowers.—Holders can obtain advances for prompt advances on leases, reversions, policies, trade stocks, farm produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, sureties, or fees. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 377 and 378 Regent-street, W. Established 1863. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. To Investors.—Deposits received on liberal interest. The Directors by strict economy have always paid every investor beyond 12 per cent. per annum, and now are offering unusual facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. New and special Feature.—The Society will build Houses, etc., in any approved part of Great Britain, finding the whole cost of the building, at 5 per cent., repayable by instalments, the applicant merely finding the plot and paying or giving security for the first 5 years' interest. Prospectuses, balance-sheets, and press opinions free. Active Agents wanted. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

NOW READY.

New Edition, Enlarged, Crown 8vo., Cloth 5s.

WAIFS AND STRAYS, CHIEFLY FROM THE CHESS BOARD, by Captain Hugh A. Kennedy, Vice-President of the British Chess Association.

LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN.

Demy 8vo, Price 7s 6d.

POSITIONS IN THE CHESS OPENINGS MOST FREQUENTLY PLAYED.

Illustrated with copious Diagrams.

By T. LOYD, B.A., T.C.D.,

Being a supplement to the "Key to the Chess Openings," by the same author.

LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN E.C.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY Limited, 7 Bank Buildings, Lothbury, E.C.

General accidents. | Personal injuries.
Railway accidents. | Death by accident.

C. HARDING, Manager.

THE Advertiser (M.M.) is open to an engagement as MANAGER OF A GAS WORKS. Where the make is from 30 to 50 millions per annum. Draughtsman, and accustomed to erection. Testimonials and references. Address—Manager, care of W. BEESLEY, 2 Brill Street, Leeds.

DYER'S WATCHES.

Best and Cheapest in the World.

LOWEST Wholesale cash prices: Aluminium, 10s 6d; Silver, 20s; Silver Lovers, 35s; Gold, 65s; Levers, 95s. All kinds of Watches, Clocks, and Gold Jewellery. Every watch tested, tested and warranted for two years. Orders sent per post. Price lists and illustrations free.—DYER & SON, Watch Manufacturers, 90 Regent Street, London, W., and Cheapside, Leeds.

NEW WORKS ON FREEMASONRY,

BY

Bro. CHALMERS I. PATON,

(Past Master No. 393, England).

FREEMASONRY: ITS SYMBOLISM, RELIGIOUS NATURE, AND LAW OF PERFECTION. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

FREEMASONRY AND ITS JURISPRUDENCE. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

THE ORIGIN OF FREEMASONRY: THE 1717 THEORY EXPLODED. Price 1s.

LONDON: REEVES & TURNER, 196 STRAND AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

ESTIMATES GIVEN FOR EVERY DESCRIPTION OF

PRINTING.

CONTRACTS ENTERED INTO FOR SUPPLYING ALL KINDS OF

STATIONERY.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR

PUBLISHING.

PARTICULARS ON APPLICATION TO

W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN,

LONDON, E.C.

One Door from Aldersgate Street.

MORING,

ENGRAVER, DIE SINKER,

HERALDIC ARTIST,

ILLUMINATED ADDRESSES,

44, HIGH HOLBORN, W.C.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE.

Printed and Published for the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE PUBLISHING COMPANY LIMITED, by Bro. WILLIAM WEST MORGAN, at 67 Barbican, London, E.C. Saturday, 22nd April 1876.

Digitized by Google

W. Harrison
Bible Land
Exmouth

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

VOL. III.—No. 70. SATURDAY, 29th APRIL 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

BETWEEN 1776 AND 1876.

As centennial celebrations appear to be the order of the day among our Transatlantic friends, there is a certain propriety in calling attention to the fact that only a few weeks are wanting to complete a century since our Freemasons' Hall, in Great Queen-street, was opened and dedicated, in solemn form, to the service of the Craft. Preston, in his Illustrations, says, that "In commemoration of an event so pleasing to the Society, it was agreed that the anniversary of the ceremony should be ever after regularly kept." Whether Grand Lodge will think it worth while to note the centennial anniversary by any special ceremony, is a question which Grand Lodge alone is competent to decide. As the leading organ of the Craft, however, in this country, we may be pardoned for thinking this an opportune moment for contrasting the present condition of our Order with what it was a hundred years ago, when, for the first time in its history, the Grand Lodge of England found a settled habitation not unworthy of its high position. Lord Petre, whose full-length portrait must be familiar to members of Grand Lodge as one of the series of portraits which adorn its walls, was Grand Master both when the first stone was laid in May 1775, and when the hall was solemnly opened and dedicated on the 23rd May of the following year. The Craft of the day were much indebted to his lordship for the active zeal he showed in promoting its interests and extending its influence. During a reign of five years, extending from 1772 to 1777, Lord Petre never missed an opportunity of doing what lay in his power to advance the well-being of the Society. He granted several provincial deputations, and many new Lodges were added to the roll, so that, to use Preston's words, "under his banner the Society became truly respectable." But in his day the world of Masonry by no means enjoyed a perfect tranquillity. The schism which had existed some years had become more pronounced than ever by the election of the Duke of Athol to be Grand Master of the so-called Ancients, and hardly had Lord Petre vacated the chair of the Moderns in favour of the Duke of Manchester, when troubles arose within the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of England—as contra-distinguished from the Grand Lodge of all England under the old Institutions—itself. A dispute arose between it and the Lodge of Antiquity, owing to some members of the latter having attended St. Dunstan's Church and marched to the Mitre Tavern in full Masonic costume. The dispute became further embittered, and at length the Lodge of Antiquity withdrew its allegiance from Grand Lodge, published a manifesto in vindication of its conduct, and avowed alliance with the Lodge of York. Happier influences, however, in time prevailed. In 1790, the difference was healed, and the Lodge of Antiquity resumed its position on the roll of Grand Lodge. But in spite of such partial drawbacks, the cause of Masonry made considerable progress, especially in the East, where the eldest son of the Nabob of the Carnatic was initiated, and honoured by Grand Lodge with the present of an apron elegantly decorated, and a handsomely bound copy of the Book of Constitutions, of which a new edition had been published in 1775. This present the young Indian Prince suitably and gratefully acknowledged in a letter to the Grand Master. In 1782 His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, who, with his brother of Gloucester, had been initiated into Masonry in the year 1766, was elected Grand Master—the Duke of York having been initiated the year previous—and appointed the Earl of Effingham to be Acting or Pro Grand Master. In 1786, Prince William (afterwards William IV.) was initiated in a Plymouth Lodge, and the year following Geo. Prince of Wales and the Duke of York became Masons, His Royal Highness the Grand Master presiding in person at the initiation of the two last. The beginning of this year was further marked by the opening, in London, of the Grand Chapter of Harodim, while in 1788 a still more important event occurred, namely, the institution of the Girls' School, under the patronage of Her Grace of Cumberland, and mainly by the exertions of the Chevalier Ruspini. The beginning was small, only fifteen children being taken into a house, rented for the purpose at Somers Town, on 1st January 1789; but since then it has grown so considerably that close on one hundred and fifty girls are now maintained and educated at the expense of the Craft, and no long time hence the number will be increased to over two hundred. At the Grand Feast, held on the 2nd May 1790, the Grand Master presided, attended by his nephews, the Prince of Wales and the Dukes of York and Clarence, and some five hundred brethren, and the occasion was made memorable by the reinstatement of the Lodge of Antiquity in all its privileges. This, however, was the Duke of Cumberland's last public appearance as Grand Master. He died soon afterwards, and the Prince of Wales was unanimously chosen his successor. On the 2nd May 1792, the Prince was formally installed, to the satisfaction of the whole Craft, among those present at the ceremony being the Duke of York and Lord Rawdon, Acting Grand Master.

In June 1793 was published the first Masonic magazine, bearing the title of The Freemasons' Magazine or General and Complete Library, the Freemasons' Calendar having made its appearance in 1776. In 1797 were published the attacks of the Abbé Barnel and Professor Robison on Freemasonry. Both these writers abused it most heartily, but the latter, in a second edition, was pleased to except the English Freemasons from the charges he brought against them. Four years later were taken the first steps towards effecting that union between the rival English Grand Lodges, so happily accomplished in 1813, under the auspices of the Dukes of Kent and Sussex. The attempt was unsuccessful, but the idea was not lost sight of. Earl Moira, visiting Scotland a little later, presented to the Grand Lodge of that country a faithful picture of the condition of Masonry in England, and this led to a closer intimacy between the Scottish and English (Moderns) Grand Lodges, the Prince of Wales being even elected Patron of the Order in Scotland (1806). The Irish Grand Lodge also made closer acquaintance with the English Grand Lodge, and as Scotch and Irish Masonry had previously inclined towards the ancients rather than the Moderns, these closer ties with the latter were not without their influence on the Grand Lodge of the former. We need not, however, go further into detail respecting an event in our history with which our readers must be so familiar. Suffice it say that the Duke of Sussex, having succeeded his brother the Prince of Wales, on the latter becoming Regent, as Grand Master of Masons (Moderns), and the Duke of Athol having in 1813 resigned the chair in favour of the Duke of Kent as Grand Master of the Ancients, the two became one Grand Lodge, and a schism, extending over a considerable part of a century, was happily determined in the month of December 1813. But we have digressed somewhat from the strict order of events. In 1791 the Masonic Boys' School, under the auspices of the Ancients, came into being. An Act was also passed for the more effectual suppression of secret societies established for seditious and treasonable purposes. From this Act all Lodges of Freemasons were, on certain conditions of registration, specially and by name exempted. The same year the Grand Lodge of Sweden, by its National Grand Master, Charles, Duke of Sudermania, made advances to the Grand Lodge of England for an alliance, the result being that Baron de Silverhjelm was received by the latter as the representative of the Grand Lodge of Sweden, and allowed a seat in the English Grand Lodge. On the last day of the year 1809 the Prince of Wales, as Grand Master, laid the foundation-stone of Covent Garden Theatre, with the customary formalities. On the 27th January 1813 the Earl of Moira, who was about to proceed to India to take up his appointment of Governor-General, was entertained at a grand banquet at Freemasons' Hall, and presented with a magnificent jewel as a token of the respect and affection in which he was held by the Craft. In 1812 Lodge 31 of Liverpool was erased from the list of Lodges, for disobedience to the orders of Grand Lodge, and a similar sentence was passed upon Sea Captain's Lodge, No. 140, of the same town, for a somewhat similar offence. In 1823 the Duke of York was formally installed as Master of the Prince of Wales's Lodge, H.R.H. the Duke of Sussex himself performing the ceremony; and in 1827 the Duke of Clarence succeeded to the chair of that Lodge, his brother the Grand Master again officiating in person. At the Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge held in March 1828, no less than fifty-nine Lodges were struck off the books, and their warrants declared to be forfeited for having failed to make any communication or return of dues to Grand Lodge. But such interruptions to the even progress of Freemasonry were happily few and far between. During the Grand Masterships of the Duke of Sussex, the Earl of Zetland, and the Marquis of Ripon, the Order rapidly increased, both in strength and influence. The number of its charitable institutions was further increased by the establishment in 1838 of a Royal Benevolent Asylum for aged and indigent brethren, and this has since been enlarged so as to include provision for a number of Masons' widows. The first annual meeting of the subscribers was held in 1843. In 1838, a magnificent testimonial was presented to the Grand Master for his invaluable services to Masonry during his long tenure of office, and especially for the distinguished part he played in uniting the rival Grand Lodges. In 1845, this testimonial was presented to Grand Lodge by his widow, the Duchess of Inverness. To enumerate more of the important events which have occurred during the last thirty years were out of place in a brief sketch like this. But from what we have noticed it will be apparent to all, that Freemasonry has prospered in the century that has so nearly lapsed since Freemasons' Hall was formally dedicated by Lord Petre. Then there were rival bodies of Masons, now there is but one body. Then the Lodges were numerous, now they are still more numerous. There were more Provinces in those days perhaps, for then the American Provinces were subordinate to one or other of our Grand Lodges, but now they are more consolidated, and exist, not only now as then in the East and West Indies, but in China and Japan, in Australia, New Zealand, and for aught we know to the contrary, there may soon be one in our newest acquisition, the Fiji Islands. There were learned brethren in those days, whose efforts to throw light on our history were highly appreciated. Now we have a Masonic literature and a Masonic Press. In fine, what we were then in numbers and in importance, we are now to the extent of ten or even twenty fold; and we have the satisfaction of knowing also that outside the limits of this earliest home of modern Freemasonry, the Craft is in a flourishing condition in well nigh all countries. That it may remain so both here and abroad is, we are well assured, the earnest hope of every true brother.

Digitized by Google

MASONIC PORTRAITS (No. 26).

AN ANCIENT BRITON.

"Time was, when clothing sumptuous, or for use,
Save their own painted skins, our sires had none;
The hardy chief, upon the rugged rock,
Washed by the sea; or on the gravelly bank,
Fearless of wrong, reposed his wearied strength."

THOSE obscure writers who are engaged in the congenial, because obscure, task of pedigree hunting, might, if they were so minded, write a series of terrible satires on the vanity of mankind. They might tell us, if they cared to adhere to the exact truth, that two-thirds, perhaps we might say three-fourths, of the genealogical trees which adorn the halls of some families are ingenious fictions. They might show us all the details of the process through which the eager parvenu passes who endeavours to affiliate himself to some grand trunk line of remarkable men. Or they might write a series of agreeable papers upon the charming fictions which abound in standard works that profess to give the history of the landed gentry, or the titled persons who constitute the aristocracy of this country. The public would be amazed if they were made familiar with the composition of the present House of Peers. In common parlance the Peers are said to trace their descent from the Conquest; but in point of fact the titles are of far more recent date. The two oldest peerages date from the thirteenth century, and the ancestors of three-fourths of the existing House have been raised to the rank of hereditary legislators within the last two centuries. The tracing of a pedigree, in clear and solid links, to the time of the Plantagenets for example, is an exceedingly difficult task, and the majority of persons who find it necessary to be descended from "Somebody," are compelled to perform a back somersault into the dim obscurity of the past, by way of bridging over the huge gaps which time may have made in the family records. A man who can satisfactorily trace his family back to the age of the Stuarts does not, however, find it difficult to perform this feat of genealogical gymnastics. He quietly and coolly turns head over heels through two or three centuries, and informs the world, through the very accurate pages of Burke, that the founder of the family was "Warden of the Marshes in the reign of Edward the First." The statement may be difficult to prove, but it is also equally difficult to refute, and as far as we can judge, we see no reason why an ambitious hero, fresh from the accolade of the sovereign, should not at once date from the founding of Rome or the grounding of the Ark on Mount Ararat. But although there are often difficulties in the path of the parvenu, difficulties which do not indeed present any serious obstacle to the pedigree hunters, or the officials at Herald's College, there are many quiet unobtrusive families in our midst who can readily and satisfactorily trace their descent without the factitious aid of the hired triflers with old MSS. The hero of this sketch is one of those fortunate persons. He comes of an old Welsh family, who occupied the soil before the Norman invader set foot upon our shores. His family has flourished for centuries in South Wales, and possibly his remote ancestors traded with those adventurous sailors of Tyre who came to Britain for the purpose of exchanging the products of civilisation for the mineral wealth of the island. He was born at the close of the first quarter of the present century, and his earliest associations are connected with the soft and charming scenery of the Principality. He was educated at Christ's Collegiate School, Brecon, and completed his studies at King's College, London. On leaving College, he entered the architectural profession, and had the honour of studying under Sir Charles Barry, who was then engaged in the erection of the Houses of Parliament. Having mastered his profession, he was appointed to a post in the Ordnance Department of the Civil Service, and still has the honour of serving his country. During his official career he has designed and superintended the construction of many large and important works, and, among others, the Victoria Hospital at Netley. Several years of his public life have been spent in the West Indies, chiefly at Antigua, one of the leeward Carribbees.

He was initiated in Masonry in the year 1848, in the Albany Lodge, Newport, Isle of Wight (151), and in the same year was passed and raised in the Caledonian Lodge, Grenada, one of the most beautiful islands of the Carribbee group. In the years 1851-2 he was W.M. of St. John's Lodge, Antigua (492). On his return to England, he joined the St. Thomas's Lodge, and passed the chair in 1871. He was an active promoter of the Granite Lodge (1328), and acted as first P.M. He still holds the office of Secretary; and the Lodge, mainly through his exertions, has become, in the short space of five years, one of the most prosperous in the metropolis. He is a P.M. of the Campbell Lodge (1415), and now holds the office of Provincial Grand Superintendent of Works for the Province of Middlesex. He was exalted in 1866, in Chapter 13, Union Waterloo, Woolwich, of which he was M.E.Z. in 1872. He is P.S. of the Imperial Council of the Red Cross of Constantine, an 18° Mason, is K.T. and VIII. of the Mystic Order of Rosicrucians, and is a Mark Master of distinguished ability. He is a Life Governor of all the Masonic Charities, has served the Stewardships of the Girls' School and the Benevolent Institution, and has brought to the treasuries of those foundations subscriptions which have rarely been exceeded in amount by an individual. He yields to none in his zeal for Masonry, and in social life he is a great favourite. His conversational powers are considerable, and he bears the stamp of a man who has travelled and has seen the great world.

Digitized by Google

MASONRY AND MASONIC HISTORY.

ONE of the greatest misfortunes under which Freemasonry has laboured, one of the principal reasons why it has brought upon itself so much ridicule, has been the audacity with which many of its teachers have manufactured for it a history extending over the whole period of the world's duration. When the earlier writers of the present speculative period of the Craft ventured upon the task of demonstrating that Freemasonry had existed through all times, that, if not Adam, at all events the Patriarchs, and subsequently King Solomon, sundry of the prophets, the two St. Johns, with other and less important saints of a later creation, were Grand Masters of the Order; when they laid it down that among the earliest works on which the Masonic body was engaged was the building of the Tower of Babel, that the secrets of the art were engraven on a monument of stone, and have been preserved—the secrets, not the stone—from before the flood till comparatively modern times; when they sought to prove, or, be it said rather, when they assumed off-hand that every worthy school of philosophers, ancient and modern, had somehow contributed to the establishment of an Order of speculative Freemasons; when, we say, our early historians endeavoured to prove thus much, they committed a grave and serious error, the consequences of which are felt even now, and will be felt for generations to come. Not, as we take it, that they ever seriously intended these statements of theirs to be accepted as statements of fact. They were so anxious to make it manifest that the system of Masonry had always existed that they must needs clothe it with all the paraphernalia of dates, personages, and occurrences, the result being, as we have indicated, that the outer, or what we call the profane, world has laughed at us ever since, while even the most enlightened Craftsmen are fain to admit there are not unreasonable grounds for this ridicule. With all due respect to those able brethren who did so much towards the revival of our Order, and those almost equally illustrious members who immediately followed them, we of this generation flatter ourselves we are somewhat wiser. We are not less firmly persuaded than they were that our system has existed through all ages, but we do not, as they did, go the length of connecting it with well known historical personages. We do not, at least till modern times, quote chapter and verse from the world's annals for its various institutions. We do not trace a regularly connected history of it as we trace a history of Great Britain, of France, or of Germany. We believe that when men, by nature gregarious, became practically so, when they formed themselves into communities and built themselves habitations, then that system of morality which we call Masonry became essential. It could no longer be each man for himself, but each for the whole body. Man, to a certain extent, and very properly, lost a part of his individuality. He was henceforward a member of a society, the welfare of which depended on the concurrence in feeling and action of the component members. In order to secure this concurrence it became necessary to lay down certain rules of conduct which all should equally observe. These rules were so framed as to secure the greatest amount of general, with at the same time the least detriment to individual, happiness. Thus it was that men no longer followed indifferently the bent of their own inclinations, but so shaped them as to avoid conflict with the inclinations of their fellows. Hence laws and a government became necessary, the former to regulate the conduct of members towards their fellows, and the latter to enforce such laws in the general interest. No doubt a variety of motives, prominent among them being the innate love of their own species, induced men, in the first instance, to herd together. But once societies of men were established, the necessity for sinking the individual in the general interests became apparent. Then there gradually arose the sense that men dwelling together should not only not act indifferently to each other's welfare, but should strive by every means in their power to be of service to their neighbours, such service not being detrimental to their own interests or those of their families. In time differences arose as to what was that common interest before which all separate interests should shrink into comparative insignificance. Then came other difficulties and other changes, so that at last the simple rules which sufficed for the government of societies in their earliest infancy were found of little or no use at all. A system of laws, therefore, which should strictly define the inter-relations to each other of the several members of a society became necessary, and this system was still further enlarged, as societies multiplied and began to struggle among themselves for supremacy. This, as regulating the usages of individuals and communities towards each other, and the ethics or morality which must govern such usages, may be described appropriately as a system of morality, and this system it is which for more than a century and a-half has been denominated Freemasonry. The two main principles enunciated in this morality are a reverence for the Supreme Being, who created all things, and a love of our neighbour; and though, in the course of ages, these principles have been again and again ignored or forgotten, though they have been again and again perverted to other than their legitimate purposes, and have been made to assume different aspects under different conditions, so that even the most strenuous believers in their virtue could hardly have recognised them, they still remain the chief influence for good over all mankind. In the sense that Freemasonry is neither more nor less than this very system or code of morals which has thus prevailed everywhere, to a greater or less extent, we are right in ascribing to it an origin which is almost co-existent with time itself.

And this Freemasonry, how has it been handed down to us, and by whom? By the wise and prudent of all ages and countries. These recognised the grand yet simple truth that a love of God is the prime element in all religions, and that a love of man is at the root of all systems of government. They went even further than this. They proclaimed it as an absolute truth, that this love of God, without which there could be no true religion, was yet independent of the forms and ceremonies of religious worship, and that the love of man, to the promotion of which all laws are directed, was in no wise dependent on any form of government. This is the grand truth which has been handed down to us from the remotest antiquity, by the sages of India and of Egypt, the philosophers of Greece and Rome, the inspired writers of the Jews, the fathers of the Christian Church, in the book of Mahomet. This is the one universal article of faith which has been held of all men—that is to say, of all who have had any faith to hold—since the world began. This, indeed, is the catholic or universal faith—there is one God whom it is the duty of man to worship, and who wills that men should love one another. This is the one common ground on which all men, having in them a true sense of religion, are agreed. This is the faith of Masonry, or rather this is Masonry; and hence it is that Masonry is a body to which men of every variety of religious persuasion may fitly belong. We believe in God, but we bind no man as to his particular mode of worshipping Him. And so, too, with the different forms of Government which prevail in different countries. Obedience to the laws of our country or of the country in which we are momentarily residing is enjoined on all of us Masons, and most willingly do we render such obedience. The end of all government, be it monarchical, oligarchical, or democratical, is to secure the greatest possible amount of good for the governed. It matters not if we are the subjects of a king or the citizens of a republic, it is equally our duty to observe those laws which have been enacted for the common good, and at the bottom of this duty towards the state or community in which we live or are sojourning is the duty we owe to our neighbour. This is Masonry in its civil aspect.

But we have digressed somewhat from the original purpose of our article. We began by pointing out that Masonry had endured much ridicule by reason of the over zeal of many of its teachers, who, not content with tracing the great truths it inculcates to the earliest times, must needs clothe it with all the external pomp and circumstance of an actual and authentic history. The legends we have adopted as conveniently prefiguring certain truths, the symbols we employ, the mysteries we gradually unveil to the initiate, as he makes further progress in our science, and the secresy we observe in all Masonic labours, all these have been quoted against us for the purpose of showing either that we are a parcel of silly fools or a dangerous body, with sinister aims and objects in view. As regards the former of these two characters which are ascribed to us, we fear we are indebted for it to the efforts of sundry well-meaning, but ill-advised and probably feeble-minded brethren, who, in their desire to laud Masonry, bestowed on it a circumstantiality it never could have had. It is to them we owe that marvellous jumble of statements which, till of late years, has passed current as the history of Freemasonry. It is they who have so confounded truth with fiction that even the clearest sighted student of our honoured Order can hardly define the limits which separate the one from the other. They have mixed up the history of Masonry as a science with that of Masonry as a corporate body, and the result has been far from edifying. As regards the other character attributed to us—that we are a dangerous body—it is absolutely untrue, and we fear those who bring this accusation against us are aware of its untruth. But here again we fancy the perverseness of many members has had, and has now a little to do with the origin of this charge. They cannot, or will not, see the difference between divulging the mysteries of the Craft which it comes within the obligation of all Craftsmen to keep secret, and allowing a proper amount of publicity to the meetings and doings of the Order. We have all read of the brother who objected to Masonic books of any and every kind. He had never read one, and never meant to read one, but he was persuaded the publication of any Masonic matters was at variance with Masonic law, and had he had his will would have ruthlessly destroyed every scrap of paper that contained a single reference to the Craft. Masonry, however, has nothing to fear from its deeds being publicly canvassed. Our Craft is open to scrupulous investigation by all who are so minded, provided they are reputable persons, and so eligible for admission into our Order. Any free man may offer himself as a candidate; if elected, he in time becomes acquainted with all our mysteries, and it rests entirely with himself whether that acquaintance shall be limited or extensive. There are certain things he must keep secret for sufficient reasons, but apart from these there is absolutely no limit to what he may say privately or publicly of Freemasonry. Indeed, the more widely it becomes known what Masonry is, the more generally is it esteemed. Of this we have daily evidence in the greater freedom we enjoy everywhere, the ever increasing number of those who enrol themselves under our banners, and we may safely venture to add, in the more and more determined attempts to bring us into ill repute, merely because we recognise the right of others to think and act according to the dictates of their own conscience.

Digitized by Google

Here, for the moment, we pause in our remarks, having regard to the space at our disposal and the patience of our readers.

The General Meeting of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Thursday, the 27th instant, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. T. W. White P.G.S. presiding. Bro. Robert W. Little, the Secretary, read the minutes of the former meeting, also the House and Audit Committee's Report of the 27th instant, which were confirmed. Two candidates were placed on the list. The nominations of the House and Audit Committees were handed in, and a vote of thanks was accorded to the Chairman for his able presidency. There were present Bros. H. Browse, J. Symonds, Dr. Woodman, J. Nunn, J. Boyd, Col. Peters, J. Massa, B. Head, H. Dicketts, Griffiths Smith, Venn, R. B. Webster, F. Binckes, Peacock, C. Mountrie, S. Rosenthal, Major Finney, J. G. Marsh, Snow, H. Massey, A. H. Tattershall, H. A. Dubois, J. Rucker, Steed, and H. M. Levy.

The Manchester Lodge of Instruction, No. 179, is held every Saturday evening throughout the year, at eight o'clock, at the Yorkshire Grey, Charlotte-street, Fitzroy-square. Bro. Ash, P.M. 179, is the Preceptor, and Bro. J. Kew, P.M. 179, is the Treasurer.

UNITED GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

WEDNESDAY was the anniversary of the Installation of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as Most Worshipful Grand Master, and although it was known that the Prince would not be present at the Quarterly Communication there was a goodly attendance of the Brethren. New seats had been erected, and the magnificent carpet which was used at the Albert Hall had been laid down, and presented a most charming effect. At five o'clock a procession of Grand Officers was formed, and escorted the Most Worshipful Pro Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon into the Temple. Grand Lodge was duly constituted. Colonel Burdett, Provincial Grand Master for Middlesex, acted as Deputy Grand Master, and the Wardens' chairs were severally filled by Brothers F. Pattison and John Havers.

Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, read the minutes of the former Communication, which were confirmed. The M.W. the Earl of Carnarvon then announced that the Prince of Wales, whose absence they all regretted, had been pleased to appoint him Pro Grand Master, an announcement that was received with loud cheers. He further announced that his Royal Highness had appointed the R.W. the Earl of Skelmersdale Deputy Grand Master. The other Grand Officers were then appointed as under :—

The Earl of Donoughmore	R. W. S. Grand Warden.
The Hon. Lieut.-Col. Vernon ...	R. W. J. Grand Warden.
The Rev. Spencer Robert Wigram, The Rev. C. W. Arnold	V. W. Grand Chaplains.
Samuel Tomkins	V. W. Grand Treasurer.
Æneas J. McIntye.....	V. W. Grand Registrar.
John Hervey	V. W. Grand Secretary.
Ernest Wendt	V. W. Grand Secretary for German Correspondence.
Lieut.-Col. Birchall	W. Senior G. Deacons.
T. W. Boord, M.P.
E. Barron	W. Junior G. Deacons.
J. M. Case
F. Cockerill	W. G. Superintendent of Works.
Sir A. Woods	W. G. Director of Ceremonies.
W. Rhys Williams	W. Assist. G. Dir. of Ceremonies.
W. F. Nettleship	W. Grand Sword Bearer.
Wilhelm Kuhe	W. Grand Organist.
E. P. Albert	W. Grand Pursuivant.
S. Foxall	W. Assistant G. Pursuivant.
J. Payne	Grand Tyler.

The following Brethren were selected as the Grand Stewards for the year :—

Brothers George N. Johnson (President), George R. Thervill (Treasurer), Charles J. Morgan (Hon. Secretary), S. Pearce, A. Meadows, W. H. Clarke, W. B. Coltman, A. C. Sadler, T. Wilson, W. N. C. D'Arcy, F. Farnan jun., G. F. Humphrey, A. J. Hollingtoe, W. L. Wheeler, J. T. Wimperis, W. R. Winch, T. G. Bullen, J. Scott.

It was then proposed and carried that Bro. Wright should have the rank of Past Grand Pursuivant, and take his place on the dais. Grand Lodge was then closed.

The usual banquet which followed, was presided over by the M.W. the Pro Grand Master, who was supported by Bros. Col. Burdett, John Havers, Platt, Sir J. Hayes, S. Tomkins, Major Creaton, Leith Townsend, Æ. McIntyre. J. Hervey, J. B. Monckton, Rev. R. S. Wigram, E. Wendt, Case, Wyke, B. Head, Glaisher, Dr. Tenterden, F. Pattison, Rev. C. J. Martyn, Rucker, Burchell, Boord, Fenn, Vernon, Arnold, Rev. R. J. Simpson, Dumas, Murton, Baker, Clabon, Head, Plucknell, Sir A. Woods, Philbrick, Sir W. C. Hutton, &c.

So soon as grace had been sung the Chairman rose and spoke as follows :—

I sincerely regret that through unexpected circumstances I am obliged to retire from the chair this evening. I had hoped that His Royal Highness, our Grand Master, might have returned to England in time to have filled this place on this the great anniversary of the Masonic year. Unfortunately he has not been able to reach this country in time. I had also hoped that my noble brother, Lord Skelmersdale, as Deputy Grand Master, might have been present, but he has unhappily been obliged to absent himself in consequence of a great family affliction. The task, therefore, has fallen upon me suddenly and without notice, and I regret to say that business over which I have really and literally no control obliges me to leave you immediately. It is personally a matter of extreme regret, but all my brethren in this room know me so well that they are aware it is with the greatest reluctance that I tear myself from this assembly, and that I would not do so if the necessity was not absolutely imperative. In taking my leave of you, I venture to express the hope which I know exist in the minds of every Mason in this room, that before long His Royal Highness our Grand Master may once more be with us. I am satisfied that whenever he returns he will receive one of those enthusiastic welcomes such as he can receive nowhere out of the Craft. His Royal Highness has, for the last few months, been pursuing a journey not only of great personal interest, but also performing a great and high political duty. He has passed through the length and breadth of our Indian Empire, and by his conciliation and gracious manners, and by his political tact, has successfully discharged a great public duty (cheers). On the other hand, we may also feel with great satisfaction that while he has discharged those great political duties, he has never been forgetful of those Masonic obligations which he undertook here. Throughout the length and breadth of India he has received deputations and uttered speeches with reference to Masonry which have given us all the greatest delight. He has discharged Masonic duties at Gibraltar; he is, I perceive, about to discharge similar duties at Lisbon; and if he deliberately omitted to perform Masonic duties at Malta it was due to his appreciation of the political circumstances of the island. In short, wherever His Royal Highness has been during the last few months he has maintained and raised to a still higher point the credit and character of English Masonry (cheers).

Digitized by Google

The noble Earl then vacated the chair in favour of Colonel Burdett. The following toasts were afterwards done ample justice to:—

1. "Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen."
2. "H.R.H. the Princess of Wales."
3. "H.R.H. the Grand Master."
4. "The M.W. the Pro Grand Master."
5. "The R.W. the Deputy Grand Master."
6. "The Grand Lodges of Scotland and Ireland."
7. "The R.W. the Provincial Grand Masters."
8. "The R.W. the Grand Wardens and other Grand Officers, Present and Past."
9. "The Masonic Charities."
10. "The Grand Stewards of the Year."

Col. Burdett prefacing each of them with a few appropriate remarks. The musical arrangements were under the direction of Bro. W. Kuhe G.O., who further divided the labours of Conductor with Bro. W. Ganz P.G.O. The lady singers were Madame Liebhart, Miss Annie Sinclair, and Madame Osborne Williams, who sang the songs and parts assigned to them with excellent taste and skill. The male vocalists were the following Craftsmen, namely, Bros. George Perren, Large, Carter, and Theodore Distin, and they, too, fulfilled their several parts with an ability that was very generally and very highly appreciated.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

On Wednesday evening, the 26th of April, at the Masons' Hall Tavern, a room of which was kindly lent for the occasion by Messrs. Bell and Co., a meeting was held for the purpose of establishing an "Old Scholars' Re-union." Dr. Morris, the Head Master of the School, presided. A very pleasant evening was spent, to which Messrs. Bell and Co.'s kindness greatly contributed.

The old scholars who were present subscribed towards a prize, to be awarded (with the sanction of the House Committee) to the best boy in "Science." The Secretaries of the Re-union are Messrs. George W. Martin and F. H. Read, 17 Offord-road, Barnsbury, N., who will be glad to receive the names and addresses of former pupils. They will also have much pleasure in receiving the names of such subscribers to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys as may choose to become Patrons of the "Re-union."

GRAND CHAPTER.

The Quarterly Convocation of Grand Chapter will be holden on Wednesday next, at 7.0 p.m. Business:—The Installation of Principals and appointment of officers.

Report of Committee showing balance in favour of Chapter for the past quarter of £779 9s 11d.

Petitions for Warrants received for—

The Hamer Chapter	...	...	...	...	...	1393
" Gosport	"	...	...	...	...	...	903
" Zetland	"	...	...	...	...	...	1071
" Era	"	...	...	...	...	...	1421
" Lewis	"	...	...	...	...	...	1185

MARRIAGE.

FORD—GOTT.—On the 27th inst., at Barking Side Church, by the Rev. T. A. Walker, Bro. George Ford (185) to Caroline Amy, eldest daughter of James Gott, Esq., of Forest House, Barking Side, Essex.

MYSTERIES OF MASONRY.

From "Pomeroy's Democrat."

A CORRESPONDENT writes as follows:—"I saw a communication, signed J. O. W., portraying the beauties of Masonry. He writes of three Union soldiers who were taken prisoners by the Confederates, and one of them, being a Mason, was liberated and sent home. Now, I understand that Masonry teaches its member to obey the laws of the country in which they live. It is true, this man violated no law in becoming a prisoner, yet his captors or guards had no more right to liberate him because he was a Mason than a sheriff would have to liberate a criminal for the same reasons.

"When a man joins the Masons, I understand he takes some kind of an obligation. When a man enlists in the army to fight for his country, he also takes an obligation. Now the question I ask you, as a consistent Mason and honest editor, which is the superior?"

Replying to the above, we can only tell what we should do, as a man, a Mason, and a human being accountable to himself, his obligations and his God.

If there should come an edict from our Government for us to renounce Masonry or be considered a traitor to the Government, we should pay no attention to anything that interfered with our obligations as a Mason, because they in no wise interfere with our duty to our country or to our family.

Were we a sheriff, whose duty it was to hang a man for murder, we should hang him, no matter if he were the Worshipful Master of our Lodge, or our senior in Masonic rank. Were we a detective, and sent to arrest a criminal, we should arrest him if he were the highest Mason in the world.

As our correspondent says, the war prisoner violated no law. We should have let him gone had he asked it as a Mason. But to come out of the tall grass so that the man who wishes information can see our blue plume, here is just what we would do.

We should honour all trust confided to us. We would never enlist to fight in an army without permission to spare the life of a Mason when we know the applicant for mercy to be a Mason. If drafted in a war service, we never should take the life of a Mason knowing him to be such. If we were in command of a regiment of troops, and every one of our men had a dead sure thing of killing every man of a regiment of the enemy, and if that regiment of the enemy should as one man give the hailing sign of distress, we should command our regiment to fire about four hundred feet above their heads, then walk up and ask the officer in charge of the men whose lives we had spared to shake hands and surrender.

The good Mason would not ask us to do anything that would lower us in the estimation of good people, or to peril our reputation unless there was such need for him to ask help, that, in justice to others and to all, we could not refuse.

Were we on the ground to kill our mortal enemy in a duel, and he should give the hailing sign of distress in time, we should walk up and shake hands with him. Had we felled him to the earth and he then should appeal to the Masonic element in our heart, we should take him up tenderly, restore him to life, or follow him to the grave as a brother. Masonry commands us to the law and its defence, but in street fight, or in battle, we should spare the life of every Mason who on such account asked for mercy. We should be true to our first obligation, and never take upon ourselves another to conflict with the first till the first was thrown off.

Were we in command of an army, and the General in command of our enemy likewise a Mason, we should entertain him at our tent, escort him to his lines, return to our place, then go forth to fight, and whip him and his army if we could. Then we should gather from the wounded those who were Masons, taking care of them before caring for our own men who were not. We should ask no odds or favours because we were a Mason, except a clearly defined duty to some helpless, hapless loved one demanded that he live, but not at the expense of our honour.

Masonry asks us to do nothing that is dishonourable. But it teaches us to cultivate mercy and humanity. To build mankind into better conditions. To keep our tongues silent when silence is the wiser and better thing.

Should we see a brother Mason doing a wrong, and all men err at times, we should go and tell him kindly, privately of it, and not trumpet it to the world. We should hold his secret, take it to our heart, as we would our own. If we saw him stealing, we should prevent the outrage upon the law. Should we see him in a room alone with a man or woman, we should walk away and consider the meeting was for an honourable purpose, and not go out in hot haste to start a scandal. Should he come to us in secret soreness, sickness, or sorrow of body or soul, we should apply remedies, and draw between him and the public eye a screen till he was made well. Should he be bad, we would try to make him good. Should he be weak, we should try to make him strong. Should he be penitent, we should forgive him.

And this we should do as a man—as a Mason, Brother, Companion, Sir Knight, Prince of Jerusalem, Knight of Mercy, &c., to the end of our degrees in a Brotherhood that builds the noble soul into a condition of manhood of which those who are not Masons have not the pleasure of contemplating.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Few persons are so favoured by circumstances, or so fortified by nature, as to enable them to pass unscathed the sore trials of an inclement season. With catarrh, coughs and influenza everywhere abounding, it should be universally known that Holloway's Ointment, diligently rubbed upon the chest, checks the worst results of these maladies, and securely wards off more grave and dangerous diseases of the throat and lungs. The truth of this assertion must remain unquestioned in the face of thousands of unimpeachable living attestors, who have personally derived the utmost possible benefits from this simple treatment, when their present sufferings were appalling and their future prospects most disheartening; both remedies act admirably together.

Digitized by Google

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

All Letters must bear the name and address of the Writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

—o—

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Nothing is more worrying than an enigma unsolved, and the correspondence in your valuable paper raises many points which ought to be elucidated. It seems to me somewhat of an anomaly for the editor of a newspaper to publish to the public the letters he receives, and not attempt to answer his correspondents, but it is a practice which obtains in journalism, and therefore, I suppose, I must not grumble, but it seems to me desirable that you should establish some "Masonic Notes and Queries," so that difficult questions may receive elucidation. I hope that simultaneously with this letter may appear replies to some queries I have put, for to my mind Masonic Jurisprudence is but little understood amongst the brethren, and I fancy that the diverse opinions and rulings of W.M.'s of Lodges would if reported to Grand Lodge be severely censured, though such brethren may err through ignorance and through following established custom, which too much in the Craft seems to override our written law. I should almost suggest that instead of publishing correspondence you should publish "Answers to Correspondence" in which some of the difficulties under which brethren labour might be removed.

Yours truly and fraternally, P.M.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I was glad to see the letter of P.M. in last week's CHRONICLE, and I hope some well qualified brother will be able to send such a reply as will set the matter at rest. The idea is prevalent that no brother is entitled to wear his collar of office out of his own Lodge; my opinion is, that a Master or Warden who appears without his collar of office in any Masonic assembly is guilty of a breach of the article on Regalia referred to by P.M. This collar marks his position as a member of Grand Lodge, where he would not be admitted without it, and the same rule ought to apply to other Lodges, provincial or private. As no officer of a private Lodge other than I have mentioned is by right of office a member of Grand Lodge, I am not quite certain whether it is correct for him to wear his collar in strange Lodges, but I should like to hear the opinion of some more experienced brother on this point.

Yours fraternally,

P.M. 425.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As regards the inquiry made by "P.M." in your last week's issue, as to whether or not the general practice is wrong, that officers of Lodges visiting in other Lodges do not wear their collars and jewels, it seems to me there can be no question as to its impropriety, if the Constitutions are to be observed to the very letter. Whatever is the proper costume for an officer in his own Lodge must be the proper costume for him to wear when visiting another Lodge. I can see no reason whatever for a W.M. objecting to a brother obeying the written law literally, but, for aught I know to the contrary, there may be a lex non scripta as well as a lex scripta, bearing upon this particular point. It may, for instance, have grown into a confirmed custom for Lodge officers visiting other Lodges to wear whatever jewels they may be entitled to wear, but not their collars. Why this should have grown into a custom is not material; but if it is a custom, and has been so long and is so generally followed as to be regarded almost with the force of law, there appears to be no serious reason why a literal fulfilment of this particular constitution should be insisted upon. It may be that a visitor does not appear in full Masonic clothing out of courtesy to the officers of the Lodge he is visiting, so that it shall be manifest to all that in its W.M. and Wardens, and them only, is vested the government of the Lodge. Or it may be a case of a visitor, who is (say) a W.M. of another Lodge, has, by virtue of his office, no authority outside the limits of his own government. Whatever the reason, it hardly seems to me a matter of great moment whether the law or the custom is followed. Only a W.M. should not rebuke a visiting brother who prefers the literal interpretation.

In certain cases I think it would be better not to observe too literally what is written. For instance, Bro. S. C. is a private member of Lodge 5000, but he is W.M. of Lodge 5001. When he attends the former it seems to me only in accordance with good taste, and the position he occupies in that Lodge, that he should wear only the clothing of a private member.

It is a question I should like to see argued, but not one on which I feel competent to offer any opinion that could carry weight.

Yours fraternally,

L.Q.

SYMBOLISM.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—The symbolism of Masonry should be studied by every Mason. Can you tell me the application of the 47th Problem 1st book of Euclid to Freemasonry, and why it forms a part of a Past Master's jewel of office?

Yours truly,

ENQUIRER.

CONSECRATION OF ST. CUTHBERT'S LODGE MARK MASTER MASONS, No. 192.

IT has been the wish for some time of the brethren in Berwick-on-Tweed to have a Lodge of Mark Masters. Several brethren of the St. David's Lodge, No. 394, were advanced in the "time immemorial" Northumberland and Berwick Lodge. A warrant was applied for and granted, and a meeting was fixed for the 17th instant, at the Masonic Hall, Berwick-on-Tweed. The brethren assembled at 2 o'clock, and received the Provincial Grand Lodge. Under the guidance of Bro. W. Foulsham P.G.O. (England), P.G.D.C., a voluntary was played. The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened by the Prov. G.M., Bro. Rev. Canon H. B. Tristram, LL.D. F.R.S., R.W. Prov. Grand Mark Master, assisted by Bros. T. Y. Strachan D.P.G.M.M., W.E. Franklin P.G.J.W., Bowron P.G.J.W., Rev. E. L. Marrett P.G.C., W. S. Hughes G.I.G., &c. The brethren of the new Lodge were arranged in order, and the Provincial Grand Master then addressed them, and the acting Secretary stated the wishes of the brethren, to which the W.M. Designate, Bro. George Moor, replied. The Rev. Canon Tristram then gave a very learned and historical oration on the origin of Mark Masonry as well as that of Craft Masonry, referring to several valuable discoveries he had made during his several visits to Jerusalem and the Holy Land. This was listened to with rapt attention, and delighted every brother present from the eloquent and impressive manner of its delivery. This was followed by the annexed anthem:—

Mark Masters, all appear Before the Chief Overseer;
In concert move;
Let Him your work inspect,
For the Chief Architect,
If there be no defect,
He will approve.

Hiram, the widow's son,
Sent unto Solomon
Our great key-stone;
On it appears the name
Which raises high the fame
Of all to whom the same
Is truly known.

Now, to the praise of those
Who triumphed o'er the foes
Of Mason's arts;
To the praiseworthy three,
Who founded this degree;
May all their virtues be
Deep in our hearts.

This was sung by a very efficient choir outside the Lodge room, and had a charming effect. A prayer was then offered by the P.G. Chaplain. The corn, wine, and oil was carried round the Lodge, amid solemn music, and the Anthem, "Glory be to God on High," was then chanted. The second portion of the consecration prayer was then offered up, the R.W. the P.G.M.M. then dedicated and consecrated the Lodge, the Hallelujah chorus being sung. The D.P.G.M.M., Bro. the Rev. T. Y. Strachan, in a very impressive manner, installed Bro. G. Moor W.M. designate, and delivered into his hands the warrant of the newly consecrated Lodge. Bro. Moor then invested his officers:—Bros. A. Winlaw S.W., J. R. Forbes J.W., C. Hopper M.O., R. Weatherhead S.O., J. Oswald J.O., R. Thompson S.D., J. C. Bell J.D., and G. T. Stevens I.G. The Grand Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the King's Arms, where a sumptuous banquet was provided, which was presided over by the R.W. the Prov. Grand Mark Master, who was supported by the Deputy P.G.M. and the P.G. Officers, the vice-chair being occupied by Bro. G. Moor, the W.M. The usual Loyal toasts were given. The P.G.M., in felicitous terms, proposed the health of the R.W. Bro. the Earl of Limerick, G.M.M. of England, and coupled with it the name of Bro. W. Foulsham G.M.O., to whom he paid a deserved compliment for his zeal and devotion to the cause of Freemasonry. Bro. Foulsham returned thanks, and, in the course of his remarks, expressed the pleasure he experienced at being present, more especially to hear the admirable oration given by the R.W. the P.G.M. He, as well as every one present, was deeply impressed by the excellent manner every arrangement had been carried out, and he said if he had rendered any service to the Craft he was amply repaid by the kind manner his name had been mentioned. The Deputy P.G.M.M., in proposing the health of the P.G.M.M., said he knew that every brother in the Province felt it an honour to have at their head so distinguished and learned a brother as their Provincial Grand Master, who was acknowledged to be a profound scholar and a deep thinker, and whose researches had gained him a reputation which had made his name a household word in every learned society throughout the world. It was mainly due to him that Mark Masonry had spread and flourished in the Province. The P.G.M. who, on rising, was received with enthusiastic cheers, said he thanked the brethren for the way in which they had received his name, and assured them it gave him the greatest pleasure to have the opportunity of consecrating a new Lodge in the Province. He thanked them for their kind expressions. He then rose and said, he had the pleasure to give them the toast of the evening, and that was the health of the W.M. and Officers, and prosperity to the St. Cuthbert's Lodge; he hoped they would go on increasing, and that peace and harmony would prevail. He spoke of the beautiful new Lodge room, which does the Berwick Lodge so much credit for their untiring zeal and energy, and which other Lodges in the Province would do well to imitate. The W.M., Bro. G. Moor, said he thanked the P.G.M. for the kind assistance they had received from him, and hoped their future conduct would always meet the approval of the Provincial Grand Lodge; that would be their constant aim. Bro. Foulsham proposed the toast of the D.P.G.M., Bro. Rev. T. Y. Strachan, in a very eloquent speech, who, in reply, thanked the brethren for the kind manner his health had been proposed; he hoped each succeeding meeting of the P.G.L. might be even happier than the last. Bro. Strachan (of London) returned thanks for the visitors, many of whom were from Durham, Stockton-on-Tees, &c. The whole proceedings were of a very edifying nature. Bros. Hopper and Bell contributed to the harmony, Bro. J. E. Robson P.G.O. rendering valuable assistance.

Digitized by Google

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

—101—

The Three Heavens.—By the Rev. JOSIAH CRAMPTON, M.A., rector of Killisher, author of "The Lunar World." London: William Hunt and Company, Holles-street, Cavendish-square, and Ave Maria-lane, Paternoster-row. 1876.

THERE is no science so intimately associated with Freemasonry as the science of astronomy, which, to quote the ancient manuscript, edited a few years since by Bro. Matthew Cooke, "teacheth man the course of the sun, and of the moon, and of the stars and planets of heaven." We may add, too, that the study of no other science is so interesting, nor do we find as strong evidence in any other of that wondrous power of the Great Architect of all things. It is hardly possible for any one who has given his mind to the contemplation of the heavens not to believe in the existence of one Supreme Being to whom the whole universe in indebted for its existence. Masons may or may not have time or inclination for scientific research, but their leading principle is a recognition of and reverence for God, and sundry of their most significant emblems are deduced from this particular science of astronomy. Whatever then confirms their belief in, and enhances their respect for the G.A.O.T.U., whatever throws additional light on the marvels of the aerial world must necessarily exercise a great influence over the mind of the earnest Mason. Astronomy, however, is an abstruse subject, and its study is, or till lately was, almost wholly confined to men of great scientific attainments. Thanks, however, to the efforts of these latter, we possess nowadays many a simple key to the inner mysteries of science. Hardly a year passes but some popular treatise on one or other of its branches makes its appearance, and all the world may know in part what till now has been hidden from all but savants. Such a work is the one now before us, the Three Heavens, in which the writer explains to us, in clear and simple language, the most remarkable phenomena of the worlds of air and stars, and demonstrates, both from astronomical and scriptural evidence, the existence of a third, or heaven of heavens. In reading it, we shall not find ourselves troubled with expositions more difficult of comprehension than the subjects they are meant to expound. We experience little or no difficulty in gathering the author's meaning, nor is there the slightest mystery as to the object with which the book is written. This, indeed, is plainly set forth in the introductory chapter. There we are told the purpose of the work is threefold. "First, from among the first and second heavens, the region of sky and stars, to trace the design and purpose of their Maker, to see the hand that is Divine through all, and further, believing, as he does, that one God is the author alike of Nature and Revelation, to exhibit the wonderful analogy which exists between them, and to show that if the heavens be described in the Bible, the great truths of the Bible are written equally in the heavens as well as on the earth; that the mighty agencies unfolded in nature present symbols and illustrations innumerable of the great spiritual truths taught in the scriptures and illustrated with a force and felicity of expression that no mere statement of doctrine could give, and an aptness and intentional fitness for each other that would be well represented by the fitness of a key for a clock and a clock for a key." Thus the reader will not only gain an insight into a number of important scientific truths, but will learn how those truths are so many illustrations of the Creator's power. The author shows that science and religion go hand in hand, that each bears undeniable witness to the truth of the other, and that the teachings of the materialist, who sees no trace whatever of a Divine agency in the wonderful operations of nature, are utterly false.

The work, as may be judged from its title, is in three parts. The first treats of the World of Air, the second of the World of Stars, the third of the Heaven of Heavens, the abode of God himself. In the first of these parts we have described the Air, Clouds, Miraculous Clouds, Thunder-storms, Thunder-storms in their moral aspect, and the inhabitants of the air. The second deals with Infinite Space, Infinity of Space, the Stars, the Planets, Mercury, Venus, Mars, &c., &c., the Asteroids or Minor Planets and Meteors, the Moon, the association of Comets and Star-showers, Nebulæ, and the system of the Universe. Under the third head, two classes of evidence—astronomical and scriptural—are offered, with a view to prove the reality of the existence of the third Heaven, or Heaven of Heavens. Where the ground travelled over is so extensive, it is somewhat difficult to select a passage or passages for the purpose of illustrating the author's treatment. We are persuaded there is no portion of the work which is likely to induce in the reader a sense of weariness. He is far more likely, indeed, to devour the book hastily than cast it aside from a feeling that it bores him. However, as space forbids us following Mr. Crampton through the whole of his admirable treatise, we cannot do better, perhaps, than select his chapter on "Clouds," as exhibiting the author's style of handling his subject. After some preliminary observations on the nature and wonders of the Cloud-world, Mr. Crampton considers them, in the first place, from a scientific view, and then, in reference to the miraculous part they have "performed in the history of the Old and New Testament, where we find them connected so frequently and so directly with the power and presence of Jehovah, and as instruments in his hand for the preservation of His people." Meteorologists, we are told, have classified them with a considerable degree of success. But though they are ever changing in appearance, though their composition is found to vary, "the substance of which every cloud is composed is mainly or essentially the same, water being the chief ingredient, though existing in them in a great variety of modification and quality; from the light and apparently dry and filmy gauze vapour to the blackest and densest thunder-cloud or watery shower bath; from the apparently solid white mountains of stainless snow or wool, that seem motionless as the terrestrial giants beneath them, to the light drifting mist that hangs midway between the craggy hill top and its base, or the flying scud that hurries by on the wings of the wind at 50 or 100 miles an hour. All these have their own different densities and ingredients, electricity forming a most frequent and essential one; but all are of water in some form or other as their basis, in a condition called aqueous vapour,—not altogether yet understood, and quite distinct from its usual and simple condition of water." How clouds are formed, what mysterious power "first forms and then keeps a cloud suspended in a distinct and definite shape in the clear sky," this ever has been, and, in spite of the wonderful strides we have made, still remains the great problem of the day. The cause of their formation is in part known, but "the actual transition from clear vapour to the cloud condition cannot be followed or traced by any human being nor thoroughly understood; while the assuming and maintaining a definite form for the same reason is, in a great measure, an equal mystery." And so, too, with their change of shape, which even now cannot be satisfactorily accounted for. Another mystery only partially solved by modern science is the formation of a rain-cloud. "In attempting to follow the process from water to vapour, and vapour to cloud, and cloud to rain, electricity and temperature are stated to be the causes, which doubtless they are in some way; but how it is effected cannot be so easily explained." The general principle is affirmed with confidence, but "the secret power that effects those wondrous transformations cannot be understood nor fully followed; notwithstanding the fact that, by a beautiful experiment, artificial clouds have been formed recently, in the lecture room, upon the principles we have remarked; but, having done it, the fact is elicited, but the mystery remains." Then the writer proceeds to show, as far as he can, what are clouds and how they are formed, and to explain "their motion, by which they distribute and disperse their benefits over the globe." As regards the motive power, the wind is their chief agent; but other causes are at work, among them "electricity, which had a hand in their formation," and the "alteration of temperature which is continually occurring in the atmosphere, and by which, in their transformation from vapour to cloud and cloud to vapour again, they are alternately made to ascend or descend like balloons, or to move forward to a more rarified portion of the atmosphere." Then we advance a stage further and consider "the general and obvious purpose fulfilled in clouds as prognostics of the weather." In relation to this we are told the various kinds of clouds and what they severally indicate. Thus, there is the cirrus or curl-cloud, seemingly "a beautiful snowy, fibrous-looking, delicate cloud, generally at a great elevation," though "it descends near the earth when it is about to predict a storm; and is then clearer than when it is at its usual height." This is called the Proteus of the sky, and is generally indicative of variable weather, with wind or rain. Next we have the Cumulus or mountain-cloud, which is "considered to prognosticate the approach of fine weather." The next "division of clouds is stratus," a "terrestrial rather than a celestial cloud, and includes those creeping mists that are seen to rise, especially in summer, from low fields and valleys and marshes." Then we have the Cirro Cumulus, usually, but not always so, the forerunner of fine weather; the Cumulo stratus, commonly known as the mackerel sky, the sure fore-runner of wind and unsettled weather; and the nimbus or storm-cloud.

Such, in outline, is Mr. Crampton's chapter on Clouds, and our readers may judge for themselves of the kind of method he employs in his long and elaborate account of the Three Heavens. It is a fair specimen of his writing and of his simple fluent style of treatment. Had we time or space we might dip further into his interesting volume. In such case, however, we should be, to some extent, robbing the reader of the pleasure of satisfying his own curiosity. We therefore take leave of Mr. Crampton's work in the belief that it will find that degree of favour with the public to which it is certainly entitled. We may note, moreover, that scattered here and there throughout the work are a number of illustrations, which add considerably to its value, while Parts I. and II. each have an appendix. The Contents Tables, too, are somewhat more than a bare enumeration of the different sections and sub-sections of the work, and may be regarded rather in the light of synopses, describing the arguments followed in the several chapters.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All Letters and communications must be addressed to the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

W. J. S.—The Portrait shall appear in two or three weeks. Many thanks for the facts you have so kindly supplied.

W. M.—We will treat on the subject next week.

F. J.—The number you refer to has since been reprinted.

"A suitable gift from a Master to his Lodge."

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 8s 6d EACH,

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUMES I. and II.

Sent, Carriage Paid, to any address in the United Kingdom, on receipt of Cheque or P.O.O.

London:—W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Cloth Cases for Binding can be had from the Offices, price 1s 6d each.

Digitized by Google

IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
By Bro. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. No. 1201.

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be made to the

YAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REGENT ST

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

IE EIGHTY-EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL of this Institution will be held at the Freemasons' Tavern, London, on Wed-y, the 16th May 1876.
it.-Col. Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., D.L., R.W. Provincial Grand Master for Yorkshire, in the hair. President of the Board of Stewards, V. W. ter. Charles J. Martyn P.G.C. Treasurer, W. Bro. Joseph Smith P.G.P. ner on table at Six o'clock. Brethren to appear in full Masonic Craft ss.
cets, One Guinea each, may be had of the Stewards, or of the Secretary, ter,

R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, Secretary of the Institution,
Hon. Secretary of the Board of Stewards.

IE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

THE CLUB PREMISES, SITUATE
101 QUEEN VICTORIA STREET,
ARE NOW BEING FITTED UP, AND WILL
ORTLY BE OPENED TO THE MEMBERS.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, now payable, is available to 1st May 1877, and is fixed at—£3 3s for Town Members, i.e., Members residing within twenty miles of the Club, and £1 11s 6d for Country Members, without entrance fee. Members incur no liability beyond their subscription. None but Freemasons are eligible for Membership.

NEXT ELECTION OF MEMBERS will be held on the 7th May. Upwards of 800 Brethren having already joined, an Entrance Fee will be imposed as soon as the Club is open.d.

MS OF APPLICATION for Membership may be obtained from he Secretary, at the Office of the London Masonic Club Company IMITED, 37 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

JOHN A. LATHBURY, Secretary.

MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

TORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in ion of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully lodged.

CER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

FREEMASONS THE POCKET BIBLE CHRONICLE

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

E House of Lords re-assembled, after the Easter recess, on Thursday, but the business of the evening sed no great interest. The Commons met on y, and devoted the greater part of the sitting to sing, in Committee, further clauses of the Merchant ng Bill, Clauses 14 and 15 being agreed to, after amendments and divisions. Previously, Mr. Fawcett the Prime Minister if he would afford him any es for bringing on his motion of censure on the

Mr. Disraeli declined to disturb House for public business. On the Government was called, Mr. Thornhill, to certain somet from Barbadoes, in which the described as very deplorable. Th was reassuring, and news from (satisfactory character, has since then called attention to the navi ships, but the subject was too dry speakers, of whom there were s House was counted out at a litt o'clock. On Wednesday, Mr. For for Marylebone, moved the second Disabilities Removal Bill, the obj the Parliamentary franchise to si spinsters, who, either as owners necessary property qualification, or fiscal burdens of the country, bu Mr. Forsyth's way of thinking, ev supports that gentleman, for they 239 to 152. On Thursday, after Mr. Fawcett's notice of motion o the House went into Committee on Bill, and some further progress made.

Her Majesty returned to Englan ing Windsor Castle a little befor evening. On Thursday last the Pri Cadiz, whence he set out immediately officers of King Alphonso met an formally invited His Royal Highne invitation being cordially accepted. reached the Spanish capital, Mr. Minister, having gone as far as A while the King, with a numerous staff and Governor of Madrid, and th at the railway station. On the plat residents, who cheered him repeatedly then drove to the Palace, where a su been prepared for the latter. Among t for His Royal Highness was origin fight, but the idea was subsequent Prince expressed his inability to be p day was held a review of the Madrid g which were drawn up in the courtyar sisted of four regiments of cavalry, ten and two divisions of infantry. The the Duke of Connaught were atten staff, including several generals, and h position, the march past began, and la half. Thursday, the King and Prin Toledo, the visit being so arranged return to Madrid in time for the open ing the Escurial will be visited, and Connaught will leave for France on his will be a banquet the same evening, reception at the English Embassy. On leaves for Lisbon, and will be met at t d vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Colonel Burdett, G.M. Middlesex. The remainder of the evening passed ry enjoyably. Bro. Lord Skelmersdale, D.G.M., was evented attending by reason of the demise of his near ative, the Dowager Countess of Derby.

On Tuesday, the new Chapel of Keble College, Oxon, ilt by the munificence of the late Mr. William Gibbs, as opened with much ceremony in the presence of the eat dignitaries of the University, including the Archshop of Canterbury, the Visitor of Keble, the Marquis of alisbury, Chancellor, Mr. Gathorne Hardy, one of its presentatives in Parliament, Lord Selborne, and others. ater in the day, the foundation stone of the new Hall, e funds for the erection of which have been presented the College by some unknown benefactors, was laid by e Marquis of Salisbury.

The funeral of the late Lord Lyttelton, Lord Lieutenant f Worcestershire, and Chairman of the Endowed Schools ommission, took place at Hagley, on Saturday. All the embers of his Lordship's family were present, with the xception of his eldest son, who is travelling abroad, and ho, in all probability, is still in ignorance of his father's eath. There attended also a large number of friends, inluding Mr. Gladstone, the ex-Premier, and his eldest son, Ir. W. H. Gladstone, Earl Spencer, Lord Wenlock, Col. live, &c., &c. The Bishop of Oxford, assisted by the Varden of Keble, and Mr. Sneyd, the curate of Hagley, fficiated. The late Lord was one of the most brilliant and ccomplished scholars of the day, and was beloved and respected, not only by his numerous circle of friends, but generally throughout the county. Many of his Lordship's translations from the Greek and Latin classics have appeared t different times, and in all were displayed both elegance and ripe scholarship.

On Friday last a terrible accident occurred in a railway tunnel in South Wales. A quantity of dynamite, amounting to about 150 lbs., was stored in a hole for the purpose of being used, as required, in firing successive drifts; when owing, it is believed, to the overturning of a lighted candle on the box of primers, an explosion took place. Some thirty men were at work at the time, of whom fifteen were killed, while the rest were much exhausted by the poisonous fumes of the after-gases of the explosion, two of them being, in addition, badly wounded. Considerable damage has also been caused to the tunnel, portions of the masonry arching having fallen in, and the timber framing having entirely disappeared.

The Guardians of the Croydon Workhouse do not appear to exhibit any strong feeling of consideration for the unfortunate casuals who are obliged to seek refuge in their wards from Saturday till Monday, nor can they have a very high sense of decency. It seems it is the custom of the officials to take away the clothing of those casuals who enter on Saturday evening, and not return it till the Monday morning, the consequence being that the unfortunate creatures spend Sunday in bed, and almost in a state of nudity, nor were they afforded any opportunity for washing. No less than forty-four men and a number of women were thus treated a Sunday or two ago. The reason assigned by the Guardians for this extraordinary practice was, that there were no wards for them to sit in. It was said the difficulty could be met by providing two additional rooms, one for the men and the other for the women; and the matter was thereupon referred to the Building Committee for consideration and report. An admittedly disgraceful fact, it seems to us, requires neither consideration nor report, but prompt remedy. Were it a question of providing kennels for a number of dogs, no complete success, sundry of the men in the display. With such these, life at Aldershot must be hard drill and long field days.

Passing to the more regular the commencement, this week, Epsom Spring Meeting began and Suburban was run for, a carrying 9 st. 4 lb., bore off t lengths ahead of Little Harry, The day following Prince Solty Great Metropolitan Stakes, W second and third respectively. to chronicle the winner of the few weeks more and the Derby events that have happened.

On Saturday, the Alexand Bicycle meeting took place. A attendance of visitors was very only two events on the progr champion race for a cup, v which will become the propert times in the season, a gold me winner of each race, and a si Five started, of whom Mr. Keit ner, doing his five miles easily The five mile handicap was run which, with one exception, fac In this, too, Mr. Keith-Falconer Mr. Mackinnon (300 yards sta however, in the excellent time of

The same day the London second Spring Meeting in the Old attendance of friends and visit The first event was a boys' ha The race was run in heats, the nine year old youngster, by nam events Shearman walked over fo Moore won the 600 yards Chall yards handicap, Gilbert the Hur Mile, A. Hardie (120 sec.) the Parish (150 yards) the Open Bridge the same afternoon, wa meeting of St Paul's School, in t fashionable attendance, the ban Engineers being present, and pl music. The most distinguishe M'Murtrie, who won the Cricke yards, the Hundred Yards, Chas L., besides being second in the winner of the Fives Championsh instant, and, with Lemon, of the teen.

On Monday the annual pres successful members of the Inns of place in the Hall of Lincoln's In Under Secretary of State for Wa present Major General McMurd Greve, Major Charley, M.P., &c. drawn up so as to form three absence of Lieutenant Colonel command of Major Russell. Th presenting the prizes, offered volunteers, and testified the great the War Office. He also expres the condition of the regiment bel the absence of its commanding the Three Star Badge, as best sh

Digitized by Google

A QUANTITY IN STOCK.
ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.
NGER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

A. D. LOEWENSTARK & SONS,

ONIC JEWELLERS AND MILITARY MEDALLISTS,
GREAT QUEEN STREET, W.C. AND 210 STRAND, W.C.
Largest Assortment of Past Masters' & Royal Arch Jewels in London.
ALSO JEWELS FOR EVERY DEGREE.
URE WAR MEDALS & FOREIGN DECORATIONS, WHOLESALE, RETAIL & FOR EXPORTATION.
ESTABLISHED 1844.

ESTABLISHED 1838.

ADAM S. MATHER,

ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,
MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING
Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.
MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;
AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.
ESTIMATES GIVEN.

F. ADLARD,

ONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,
R OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (Regd.)

"Bro. Adlard's far-famed Jewel Attacher, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price is 10s. 6d. with pockets for Jewels 6d each pocket extra) places it within the reach of all."—Masonic Magazine.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and usefulness."—The Freemason.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Ladies Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

o. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,
Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE "SPECIALITE SHERRY."

FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT.—The British Medical Journal.

VALUABLE FOR GOUTY OR URIC ACID TENDENCIES."—Dr. Hardwicke, Metropolitan Analyst, Coroner for Middlesex.

ADOPTED AND RECOMMENDED BY nearly 3,000 Physicians and Surgeons for its Valuable Dietetic Qualities. 30s per dozen.

FELTOE & SONS, Sole Proprietors and Importers. Chief Establishment, Albemarle-street, London, W.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the Leading Shapes for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES.
Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE
(a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.
This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction.

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

E WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8.
o. 92 for April, now ready. Sixpence.
, Games of Skill and the Drama.
W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

hould be a better reason for the rate of Depositors increasing rate of two or three per cent."—Dr.
N'S GUARDIAN.

MBARD BANK (Limited.) Nos.
and 41 Lombard-street, City; and 377 and 379 Regent-
Established 1840, receives Deposits, On Demand
Subject to Notice, 3½ per cent. Opens Current Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to the new and improved system, that ensures a high with perfect security. The Directors have invested or re-hypothecated any of the securities, Bills, &c.—Drafts granted and advances made for prompt on Shares, Reversions, policies, trade stocks, farm Warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, of Sale.
JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

MBARD BUILDING SOCIETY,
43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 377 and 379
W. Established 1848. Incorporated under Act, 1856. To INVESTORS.—Deposits received at The Directors by strict economy have bl-every investor 6 and 5½ per cent. per annum, unrestricted withdrawal facilities for the purchase of Farms, &c. Shares and Special Loans.—The Houses, etc., in any approved part of Great the whole cost of the building, at 5 per cent.

NOW READY.
New Edition, Enlarged, Crown 8vo., Cloth 3s.

WAIFS AND STRAYS, chiefly from the Chess Board, by Captain Hugh A. Kennedy, Vice-President of the British Chess Association.
London: W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican.

Demy 8vo, Price 7s 6d.

POSITIONS IN THE CHESS OPENINGS MOST FREQUENTLY PLAYED.
Illustrated with copious Diagrams.
By T. Lowe, B.A., T.C.D.,
Being a supplement to the "Key to the Chess

NEW WORKS

Bro. CHAL
(Past Mast

FREEMASONR
RELIGIOUS
PERFECTION. 8vo

FREEMASONR
DENCE. 8vo,

THE ORIGIN O
1717 THEORY

LONDON: REEVES
AND A

ESTIMATE
EVERY

PRI

CONTRACTS E

STATI

ARRANGEM

PUBLI

PARTICULARS
W. W. MORGA
LONDO
One Door from

MO
ENGRAVER,
HERALD ILLUMINATE
44, HIGH H

ILLUSTRATED PRI

Printed and Publish

BETWEEN 1776 AND 1876.

S centennial celebrations appear to be the order of the day among our Transatlantic friends, there is a cer- propriety in calling attention to the fact that only a weeks are wanting to complete a century since our nasons' Hall, in Great Queen-street, was opened and ated, in solemn form, to the service of the Craft. on, in his Illustrations, says, that "In commemoration n event so pleasing to the Society, it was agreed that nniversary of the ceremony should be ever after regu- kept." Whether Grand Lodge will think it worth to note the centennial anniversary by any special cere- y, is a question which Grand Lodge alone is competent cide. As the leading organ of the Craft, however, in country, we may be pardoned for thinking this an rtune moment for contrasting the present condition of Order with what it was a hundred years ago, when, for irst time in its history, the Grand Lodge of England d a settled habitation not unworthy of its high position. l Petre, whose full-length portrait must be familiar to bers of Grand Lodge as one of the series of portraits ch adorn its walls, was Grand Master both when the first e was laid in May 1775, and when the hall was solemnly ed and dedicated on the 23rd May of the following . The Craft of the day were much indebted to his ship for the active zeal he showed in promoting its in- sts and extending its influence. During a reign of years, extending from 1772 to 1777, Lord Petre never ed an opportunity of doing what lay in his power to ance the well-being of the Society. He granted several vincial deputations, and many new Lodges were added to roll, so that, to use Preston's words, "under his banner Society became truly respectable." But in his day the ld of Masonry by no means enjoyed a perfect tranquillity. e schism which had existed some years had become more nounced than ever by the election of the Duke of Athol e Grand Master of the so-called Ancients, and hardly Lord Petre vacated the chair of the Moderns in favour he Duke of Manchester, when troubles arose within the isdiction of the Grand Lodge of England—as contra-dis- guished from the Grand Lodge of all England under the Institutions—itself. A dispute arose between it and the lge of Antiquity, owing to some members of the latter ing attended St. Dunstan's Church and marched to the re Tavern in full Masonic costume. The dispute be- ne further embittered, and at length the Lodge of tiquity withdrew its allegiance from Grand Lodge, pub- ed a manifesto in vindication of its conduct, and avowed iance with the Lodge of York. Happier influences, wever, in time prevailed. In 1790, the difference was aled, and the Lodge of Antiquity resumed its position on e roll of Grand Lodge. But in spite of such partial draw- rks, the cause of Masonry made considerable progress, ecially in the East, where the eldest son of the Nabob the Carnatic was initiated, and honoured by Grand dge with the present of an apron elegantly decorated, d a handsomely bound copy of the Book of Constitutions, which a new edition had been published in 1775. This esent the young Indian Prince suitably and gratefully knowledged in a letter to the Grand Master. In 1782 is Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, who, with s brother of Gloucester, had been initiated into Masonry the year 1766, was elected Grand Master—the Duke of ork having been initiated the year previous—and ap- inted the Earl of Effingham to be Acting or Pro Grand Master. In 1786, Prince William (a was initiated in a Plymouth Lodge, Geo. Prince of Wales and the Duke His Royal Highness the Grand Ma at the initintion of the two last. year was farther marked by the op Grand Chapter of Harodim, while portant event occurred, namely, the School, under the patronage of He and mainly by the exertions of the beginning was small, only fifteen c a house, rented for the purpose January 1789; but since then it ha that close on one hundred and fif tained and educated at the expen long time hence the number will hundred. At the Grand Feast, hel the Grand Master presided, attend Prince of Wales and the Dukes of some five hundred brethren, and memorable by the reinstatement of in all its privileges. This, howeve berland's last public appearance died soon afterwards, and the Prin mously chosen his successor. On Prince was formally installed, to whole Craft, among those pre being the Duke of York and Lord Master.

In June 1793 was published the bearing the title of The Freemasons' Complete Library, the Freemasons' appearance in 1776. In 1797 were of the Abbé Barnel and Professor H Both these writers abused it most h a second edition, was pleased to masons from the charges he brou years later were taken the first ste union between the rival English G accomplished in 1813, under the a Kent and Sussex. The attempt w idea was not lost sight of. Earl a little later, presented to the Gran a faithful picture of the condition and this led to a closer intimacy be English (Moderns) Grand Lodge being even elected Patron of the O The Irish Grand Lodge also made the English Grand Lodge, and as S had previously inclined towards t the Moderns, these closer ties with out their influence on the Grand Lo need not, however, go further in event in our history with which familiar. Suffice it say that the succeeded his brother the Prince becoming Regent, as Grand Maste and the Duke of Athol having in in favour of the Duke of Kent a Ancients, the two became one Gra extending over a considerable part o determined in the month of Decem digressed somewhat from the stri 1791 the Masonic Boys' School, n Ancients, came into being. An the more effectual suppression of se for seditious and treasonable purp rection in which he was held by the Craft. In 1812 dge 31 of Liverpool was erased from the list of Lodges, r disobedience to the orders of Grand Lodge, and a nilar sentence was passed upon Sea Captain's Lodge, o. 140, of the same town, for a somewhat similar offence. 1823 the Duke of York was formally installed as Master the Prince of Wales's Lodge, H.R.H. the Duke of ssex himself performing the ceremony; and in 1827 the ke of Clarence succeeded to the chair of that dge, his brother the Grand Master again officiating in rson. At the Quarterly Communication of Grand dge held in March 1828, no less than fifty-ne Lodges were struck off the books, and their arrants declared to be forfeited for having failed to make y communication or return of dues to Grand Lodge. at such interruptions to the even progress of Freemasonry ere happily few and far between. During the Grand asterships of the Duke of Sussex, the Earl of Zetland, d the Marquis of Ripon, the Order rapidly increased, both strength and influence. The number of its charitable stitutions was further increased by the establishment in 38 of a Royal Benevolent Asylum for aged and indigent ethren, and this has since been enlarged so as to include ovision for a number of Masons' widows. The first nual meeting of the subscribers was held in 1843. 1838, a magnificent testimonial was presented to the rand Master for his invaluable services to Masonry dur-g his long tenure of office, and especially for the distin-uished part he played in uniting the rival Grand Lodges. 1845, this testimonial was presented to Grand Lodge by is widow, the Duchess of Inverness. To enumerate more the important events which have occurred during the st thirty years were out of place in a brief sketch like is. But from what we have noticed it will be apparent all, that Freemasonry has prospered in the century that as so nearly lapsed since Freemasons' Hall was formally dicated by Lord Petre. Then there were rival bodies of asons, now there is but one body. Then the Lodges ere numerous, now they are still more numerous. There ere more Provinces in those days perhaps, for then the merican Provinces were subordinate to one or other of our rand Lodges, but now they are more consolidated, and ist, not only now as then in the East and West Indies, but China and Japan, in Australia, New Zealand, and for ught we know to the contrary, there may soon be one in ur newest acquisition, the Fiji Islands. There were arned brethren in those days, whose efforts to throw ght on our history were highly appreciated. Now we ave a Masonic literature and a Masonic Press. In fine, hat we were then in numbers and in importance, we are ow to the extent of ten or even twenty fold; and we ave the satisfaction of knowing also that outside the limits f this earliest home of modern Freemasonry, the Craft is in flourishing condition in well nigh all countries. That it ay remain so both here and abroad is, we are well ssured, the earnest hope of every true brother.

Digitized by Google

MASONIC PORTRAITS (No. 26).

AN ANCIENT BRITON.

"Time was, when clothing sumptuous, or for use,
Save their own painted skins, our sires had none;
The hardy chief, upon the rugged rock,
Washed by the sea; or on the gravelly bank,
Fearless of wrong, reposed his wearied strength."

THOSE obscure writers who are engaged in the con genia-, because obscure, task of pedigree hunting, fact the titles are of far more r peerages date from the th ancestors of three-fourths of th raised to the rank of heredi last two centuries. The trac and solid links, to the time of th is an exceedingly difficult ta persons who find it necessary to body," are compelled to perfor the dim obscurity of the past, b huge gaps which time may have A man who can satisfactorily t age of the Stuarts does not, how form this feat of genealogical g coolly turns head over heels thro and informs the world, through Burke, that the founder of the f Marshes in the reign of Edward may be difficult to prove, but it refute, and as far as we can jud an ambitious hero, fresh from th should not at once date from the grounding of the Ark on Mou there are often difficulties in the culties which do not indeed pr to the pedigree hunters, or the of there are many quiet unobtrusive can readily and satisfactorily tr the factitious aid of the hired tri hero of this sketch is one of tho comes of an old Welsh family, wh the Norman invader set foot upo has flourished for centuries in S his remote ancestors traded with of Tyre who came to Britain for t the products of civilisation for t island. He was born at the clo the present century, and his connected with the soft and charm cipality. He was educated at C Brecon, and completed his stu London. On leaving College, he profession, and had the honour Charles Barry, who was then en the Houses of Parliament. Having he was appointed to a post in the the Civil Service, and still has th country. During his official car superintended the construction of tant works, and, among others, t Netley. Several years of his pub in the West Indies, chiefly at Ant Carribbees.

He was initiated in Masonry i Albany Lodge, Newport, Isle of W same year was passed and raised i Grenada, one of the most beautiful group. In the years 1851-2 he Lodge, Antigua (492). On his joined the St. Thomas's Lodge, 1871. He was an active promote (1328), and acted as first P.M. H Secretary; and the Lodge, mainly has become, in the short space of most prosperous in the metropoli Campbell Lodge (1415), and now rincipal Grand Superintendent of W Middlesex. He was exalted in 186 Waterloo, Woolwich, of which he w masonry has laboured, one of the principal reasons it has brought upon itself so much ridicule, has been audacity with which many of its teachers have manoured for it a history extending over the whole period he world's duration. When the earlier writers of the ent speculative period of the Craft ventured upon the of demonstrating that Freemasonry had existed ugh all times, that, if not Adam, at all events the rriarchs, and subsequently King Solomon, sundry of prophets, the two St Johns, with other and less imant saints of a later creation, were Grand Masters of Order; when they laid it down that among the earliest ks on which the Masonic body was engaged was the ding of the Tower of Babel, that the secrets of the art e engraven on a monument of stone, and have been served—the secrets, not the stone—from before the d till comparatively modern times; when they sought rove, or, be it said rather, when they assumed off-hand t every worthy school of philosophers, ancient and dern, had somehow contributed to the establishment of Order of speculative Freemasons; when, we say, our y historians endeavoured to prove thus much, they com-ted a grave and serious error, the consequences of which felt even now, and will be felt for generations to come.

Digitized by Google

, as we take it, that they ever seriously intended these tements of theirs to be accepted as statements of fact.
y were so anxious to make it manifest that the system of sonry had always existed that they must needs clothe with all the paraphernalia of dates, personages, and urrences, the result being, as we have indicated, that the er, or what we call the profane, world has laughed at ever since, while even the most enlightened Craftsmen fain to admit there are not unreasonable grounds for ridicule. With all due respect to those able brethren o did so much towards the revival of our Order, and se almost equally illustrious members who immediately lowed them, we of this generation flatter ourselves we somewhat wiser. We are not less firmly persuaded n they were that our system has existed through all ages, t we do not, as they did, go the length of connecting it h well known historical personages. We do not, at least modern times, quote chapter and verse from the world's nals for its various institutions. We do not trace a gularly connected history of it as we trace a history of eat Britain, of France, or of Germany. We believe at when men, by nature gregarious, became practically when they formed themselves into communities and ilt themselves habitations, then that system of morality ich we call Masonry became essential. It could no nger be each man for himself, but each for the whole dy. Man, to a certain extent, and very properly, lost a rt of his individuality. He was henceforward a member a society, the welfare of which depended on the conrrence in feeling and action of the component members.
order to secure this concurrence it became necessary to down certain rules of conduct which all should equally serve. These rules were so framed as to secure the reatest amount of general, with at the same time the ast detriment to individual, happiness. Thus it was that en no longer followed indifferently the bent of their own clinations, but so shaped them as to avoid conflict with e inclinations of their fellows. Hence laws and a govern-ent became necessary, the former to regulate the conduct f members towards their fellows, and the latter to enforce ch laws in the general interest. No doubt a variety of otives, prominent among them being the innate love of eir own species, induced men, in the first instance, to rd together. But once societies of men were established, and began to struggle among

This, as regulating the usages munities towards each other, and which must govern such usages, rimately as a system of morality, which for more than a century and minated Freemasonry. The two m in this morality are a reverence f who created all things, and a love though, in the course of ages, the again and again ignored or forg been again and again perverted to mate purposes, and have been m aspects under different conditions, strenuous believers in their virt recognised them, they still remain good over all mankind. In the se neither more nor less than this v morals which has thus prevailed ev or less extent, we are right in as which is almost co-existent with ti

And this Freemasonry, how has us, and by whom? By the wise a and countries. These recognised truth that a love of God is the pr ligions, and that a love of man is of government. They went even f proclaimed it as an absolute truth, without which there could be no independent of the forms and c worship, and that the love of ma which all laws are directed, was in any form of government. This is has been handed down to us from by the sages of India and of Egy
Greece and Rome, the inspired wr fathers of the Christian Church, in This is the one universal article of held of all men—that is to say, of all w hold—since the world began. This or universal faith—there is one Go of man to worship, and who wills t another. This is the one commo men, having in them a true sense o
This is the faith of Masonry, or and hence it is that Masonry is a every variety of religious persuasio believe in God, but we bind no m mode of worshipping Him. And forms of Government which prevai
Obedience to the laws of our count which we are momentarily residing Masons, and most willingly do we
The end of all government, be it m or democratical, is to secure the gr of good for the governed. It mat subjects of a king or the citizens of our duty to observe those laws wh for the common good, and at th towards the state or community in sojourning is the duty we owe to ou
Masonry in its civil aspect.

But we have digressed somewhat pose of our article. We began Masonry had endured much ridicul zeal of many of its teachers, who,
the great truths it inculcates to t needs clothe it with all the exte stance of an actual and authentic

Digitized by Google

ry of Freemasonry. It is they who have so confounded with fiction that even the clearest sighted student of honoured Order can hardly define the limits which rate the one from the other. They have mixed up history of Masonry as a science with that of nry as a corporate body, and the result has been far edifying. As regards the other character attributed —that we are a dangerous body—it is absolutely ıe, and we fear those who bring this accusation against e aware of its untruth. But here again we fancy erverseness of many members has had, and has now a to do with the origin of this charge. They cannot, ill not, see the difference between divulging the mys- of the Craft which it comes within the obligation l Craftsmen to keep secret, and allowing a proper ınt of publicity to the meetings and doings of the r. We have all read of the brother who objected to nic books of any and every kind. He had never read and never meant to read one, but he was persuaded ublication of any Masonic matters was at variance Masonic law, and had he had his will would have easily destroyed every scrap of paper that contained a reference to the Craft. Masonry, however, has ng to fear from its deeds being publicly canvassed. Craft is open to scrupulous investigation by all who are inded, provided they are reputable persons, and so le for admission into our Order. Any free man may himself as a candidate; if elected, he in time becomes ainted with all our mysteries, and it rests entirely with elf whether that acquaintance shall be limited or sive. There are certain things he must keep secret fficient reasons, but apart from these there is abso- no limit to what he may say privately or publicly of nasonry. Indeed, the more widely it becomes known Masonry is, the more generally is it esteemed. Of we have daily evidence in the greater freedom we everywhere, the ever increasing number of those enrol themselves under our banners, and we may venture to add, in the more and more determined pts to bring us into ill repute, merely because we nise the right of others to think and act according to ictates of their own conscience.

re, for the moment, we pause in our remarks, having d to the space at our disposal and the patience of our rs.

---

e General Meeting of the Royal Masonic Institution irls was held on Thursday, the 27th instant, at Free- s' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. T. W. White P.G.S. ding. Bro. Robert W. Little, the Secretary, read inutes of the former meeting, also the House and Committee's Report of the 27th instant, which were med. Two candidates were placed on the list. The ıations of the House and Audit Committees were d in, and a vote of thanks was accorded to the man for his able presidency. There were present Bros. rowse, J. Symonds, Dr. Woodman, J. Nunn, J. Boyd, Peters, J. Massa, B. Head, H. Dicketts, Griffiths Smith, , R. B. Webster, F. Binckes, Peacock, C. Mountrie, S. ithal, Major Finney, J. G. Marsh, Snow, H. Massey, . Tattershall, H. A. Dubois, J. Rucker, Steed, and H. ovy.

---

e Manchester Lodge of Instruction, No. 179, is held Saturday evening throughout the year, at eight k, at the Yorkshire Grey, Charlotte-street, Fitzroy- e. Bro. Ash, P.M. 179, is the Preceptor, and Bro. J.

for Middlesex, acted as Deput Wardens' chairs were severall Pattison and John Havers.

Bro. John Hervey, Grand Sec of the former Communication, The M.W. the Earl of Carnarv the Prince of Wales, whose absen been pleased to appoint him announcement that was received further announced that his Royal the R.W. the Earl of Skelmersdal The other Grand Officers were the

The Earl of Donoughmore	R. W
The Hon. Lieut.-Col. Vernon ...	R. W
The Rev. Spencer Robert Wigram The Rev. C. W. Arnold	V. W
Samuel Tomkins	V. W
Æneas J. McIntyre.....	V. W
John Hervey	V. W
Ernest Wendt	V. W
Lieut.-Col. Birchall ..... T. W. Beord, M.P.	W. Se
E. Barron ..... J. M. Case	W. Ju
F. Cockerill	W. G.
Sir A. Woods	W. G.
W. Rhys Williams	W. As
W. F. Nettleship	W. Gr
Wilhelm Kube	W. Gr
E. P. Albert	W. Gr
S. Foxall	W. As
J. Payne	Grand

The following Brethren were Stewards for the year :—

Brothers George N. Johnson (Presi (Treasurer), Charles J. Morgan (Hon. Meadows, W. H. Clarke, W. B. Coltman, N. C. D'Arcy, F. Farnan jun., G. F. H W. L. Wheeler, J. T. Wimperis, W. R Scott.

It was then proposed and carried th have the rank of Past Grand Pu place on the dais. Grand Lodge wa

The usual banquet which follow by the M.W. the Pro Grand Maste by Bros. Col. Burdett, John Haver S. Tomkins, Major Creaton, Leith T J. Hervey, J. B. Monckton, Rev. R. Case, Wyke, B. Head, Glaisher, Dr. Rev. C. J. Martyn, Rucker, Burchell Arnold, Rev. R. J. Simpson, Dumas, Head, Pinckneil, Sir A. Woods, Hutton, &c.

So soon as grace had been sung t spoke as follows :—

I sincerely regret that through unexpe obliged to retire from the chair this evenin Royal Highness, our Grand Master, might in time to have filled this place on this the Masonic year. Unfortunately he has not country in time. I had also hoped that Skelmersdale, as Deputy Grand Master, r but he has unhappily been obliged to abse of a great family affliction. The task, ther suddenly and without notice, and I regret which I have really and literally no contr immediately. It is personally a matter of c brethren in this room know me so well t with the greatest reluctance that I tear my and that I would not do so if the neces imperative. In taking my leave of you, I w which I know exist in the minds of ev that before long His Royal Highness can he noble Earl then vacated the chair in favour of nel Burdett. The following toasts were afterwards done le justice to :—

"Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen."
"H.R.H. the Princess of Wales."
"H.R.H. the Grand Master."
"The M.W. the Pro Grand Master."
"The R.W. the Deputy Grand Master."
"The Grand Lodges of Scotland and Ireland."
"The R.W. the Provincial Grand Masters."
"The R.W. the Grand Wardens and other Grand Officers, Present and Past."
"The Masonic Charities."
"The Grand Stewards of the Year."

l. Burdett prefacing each of them with a few appro-ate remarks. The musical arrangements were under direction of Bro. W. Kuhe G.O., who further divided labours of Conductor with Bro. W. Ganz P.G.O. The ly singers were Madame Liebhart, Miss Annie Sinclair, d Madame Osborne Williams, who sang the songs and rts assigned to them with excellent taste and skill. The ale vocalists were the following Craftsmen, namely, Bros.
eorge Perren, Large, Carter, and Theodore Distin, and ey, too, fulfilled their several parts with an ability that as very generally and very highly appreciated.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

On Wednesday evening, the 26th of April, at the Masons' Hall Tavern, a room of which was kindly lent for the occasion by Messrs. Bell and Co., a meeting was held for the purpose of establishing an "Old Scholars' Re-union." Dr. Morris, the Head Master of the School, presided. A very pleasant evening was spent, to which Messrs. Bell and Co.'s kindness greatly contributed.

The old scholars who were present subscribed towards a prize, to be awarded (with the sanction of the House Committee) to the best boy in "Science." The Secretaries of the Re-union are Messrs. George W. Martin and F. H. Read, 17 Offord-road, Barnsbury, N., who will be glad to receive the names and addresses of former pupils. They will also have much pleasure in receiving the names of such subscribers to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys as may choose to become Patrons of the "Re-union."

GRAND CHAPTER.

The Quarterly Convocation of Grand Chapter will be holden on Wednesday next, at 7.0 p.m. Business:—The Installation of Principals and appointment of officers.

Report of Committee showing balance in favour of Chapter for the past quarter of £779 9s 11d.

Petitions for Warrants received for—

The Hamer Chapter	... ...	1393
" Gosport	"	903
" Zetland	"	1071
" Era	"	1421
" Lewis	"	1185

MARRIAGE.

FORD—GOTT.—On the 25th inst., at Barking Side Church, by the Rev. T. A. Walker, Bro. George Ford (186) to Caroline Amy, eldest daughter of James Gott, Esq., of Forest House, Barking Side, Essex.

ligatious and his God.

If there should come an edict from our Masonry or be considered a traitor t pay no attention to anything that inter Mason, because they in no wise interfer or to our family.

Were we a sheriff, whose duty it w we should hang him, no matter if he our Lodge, or our senior in Masonic ra sent to arrest a criminal, we should ar Mason in the world.

As our correspondent says, the war should have let him gone had he aske out of the tall grass so that the man our blue plume, here is just what we w

We should honour all trust confided to fight in an army without permissi when we know the applicant for mercy a war service, we never should take th to be such. If we were in command of one of our men had a dead sure thi regiment of the enemy, and if that reg one man give the hailing sign of dist regiment to fire about four hundred fe up and ask the officer in charge of the to shake hands and surrender.

The good Mason would not ask us t us in the estimation of good people, or there was such need for him to ask hel to all, we could not refuse.

Were we on the ground to kill our u should give the hailing sign of distres and shake hands with him. Had we then should appeal to the Masonic e take him up tenderly, restore him to as a brother. Masonry commands us in street fight, or in battle, we should who on such account asked for mer first obligation, and never take upo with the first till the first was thrown

Were we in command of an army, a our enemy likewise a Mason, we shou escort him to his lines, return to our p whip him and his army if we could. the wounded those who were Maso caring for our own men who were n favours because we were a Mason, o some helpless, hapless loved one dea the expense of our honour.

Masonry asks us to do nothing teaches us to cultivate mercy and hu better conditions. To keep our tong wiser and better thing.

Should we see a brother Mason do times, we should go and tell him k trumpet it to the world. We should heart, as we would our own. If we s vent the outrage upon the law. Sho with a man or woman, we should wai ting was for an honourable purpose, start a scandal. Should he come to or sorrow of body or soul, we should tween him and the public eye a screen he be bad, we would try to make him should try to make him strong. Sh forgive him.

And this we should do as a man—a Sir Knight, Prince of Jerusalem, Kni our degrees in a Brotherhood that be dition of manhood of which those wh pleasure of contemplating.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Few stances, or so fortified by nature, as to ca trials of an inclement season. With ch where abounding, it should be universall diligently rubbed upon the chest, checks and securely wards off more grave and lungs. The truth of this assertion rests thousands of unimpeachable living attest utmost possible benefits from this sin sufferings were appalling and their future remedies act admirably together.

Digitized by Google

ondents, but it is a practice which obtains in journalism, and re, I suppose, I must not grumble, but it seems to me le that you should establish some "Masonic Notes and ," so that difficult questions may receive elucidation. I hope ultaneously with this letter may appear replies to some I have put, for to my mind Masonic Jurisprudence is but derstood amongst the brethren, and I fancy that the diverse and rulings of W.M.'s of Lodges would if reported to Grand e severely censured, though such brethren may err through e and through following established custom, which too much raft seems to override our written law. I should almost that instead of publishing correspondence you should publish rs to Correspondence" in which some of the difficulties under rethren labour might be removed.

Yours truly and fraternally, P.M.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR AND BROTHER,—I was glad to see the letter of P.M. in ck's CHRONICLE, and I hope some well qualified brother able to send such a reply as will set the matter at The idea is prevalent that no brother is entitled to is collar of office out of his own Lodge; my opinion is, laster or Warden who appears without his collar of office in onic assembly is guilty of a breach of the article on Regalia to by P.M. This collar marks his position as a member of Lodge, where he would not be admitted without it, and the e ought to apply to other Lodges, provincial or private. As r of a private Lodge other than I have mentioned is by right of member of Grand Lodge, I am not quite certain whether rect for him to wear his collar in strange Lodges, but I should ur the opinion of some more experienced brother on this

Yours fraternally,

P.M. 425.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR AND BROTHER, — As regards the inquiry made by in your last week's issue, as to whether or not the general is wrong, that officers of Lodges visiting in other Lodges do their collars and jewels, it seems to me there can be no as to its impropriety, if the Constitutions are to be observed ry letter. Whatever is the proper costume for an officer in Lodge must be the proper costume for him to wear when another Lodge. I can see no reason whatever for a W.M. to a brother obeying the written law literally, but, for know to the contrary, there may be a lex non scripta as well scripta, bearing upon this particular point. It may, for , have grown into a confirmed custom for Lodge officers ther Lodges to wear whatever jewels they may be entitled but not their collars. Why this should have grown into a is not material; but if it is a custom, and has been so long o generally followed as to be regarded almost with the law, there appears to be no serious reason why a ulfilment of this particular constitution should be insisted t may be that a visitor does not appear in full Masonic out of courtesy to the officers of the Lodge he is visiting, t shall be manifest to all that in its W.M. and Wardens, and y, is vested the government of the Lodge. Or it may be a visitor, who is (say) a W.M. of another Lodge, has, by his office, no authority outside the limits of his own ent. Whatever the reason, it hardly seems to me a matter moment whether the law or the custom is followed. Only a uld not rebuke a visiting brother who prefers the literal ation.

ain cases I think it would be better not to observe too that is written. For instance, Bro. S. C. is a private member 5000, but he is W.M. of Lodge 5001. When he attends r it seems to me only in accordance with good taste, and on he occupies in that Lodge, that he should wear only the of a private member.

question I should like to see argued, but not one on which pretent to offer any opinion that could carry weight.

Yours fraternally,

L.Q.

SYMBOLISM.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

he symbolism of Masonry should be studied by every Mason. tell me the application of the 47th Problem 1st book of Freemasonry, and why it forms a part of a Past Master's fice?

Yours truly,

ENQUIRER.

them, and the acting Secretary stated t which the W.M. Designate, Bro. Georg Canon Tristram then gave a very learn the origin of Mark Masonry as well as tha to several valuable discoveries he had m to Jerusalem and the Holy Land. This attention, and delighted every brother pr impressive manner of its delivery. annexed anthem:—

Mark Masters, all appear	W
Before the Chief Overseer;	Of
In concert move;
Let Him your work inspect,
For the Chief Architect,	Nc
If there be no defect,	Wl
He will approve.
	To
Hiram, the widow's son,	Wl
Sent unto Solomon	Ma
Our great key-stone;	I
On it appears the name

This was sung by a very efficient choir outs a charming effect. A prayer was then offe The corn, wine, and oil was carried roun music, and the Anthem, "Glory be to chanted. The second portion of the con offered up, the R.W. the P.G.M.M. then de Lodge, the Hallelujah chorus being sung. Rev. T. Y. Strachan, in a very impressive Moor W.M. designate, and delivered into the newly consecrated Lodge. Bro. Moor t Bros. A. Winlaw S.W., J. R. Forbes J. Weatherhead S.O., J. Oswald J.O., R. Thom and G. T. Stevens I.G. The Grand Lodge brethren adjourned to the King's Arms, wh was provided, which was presided over by t Mark Master, who was supported by the P.G. Officers, the vice-chair being occupi W.M. The usual Loyal toasts were given. terms, proposed the health of the R.W. Br G.M.M. of England, and coupled with it Foulsham G.M.O., to whom he paid a deser zeal and devotion to the cause of Freemason turned thanks, and, in the course of his remar he experienced at being present, more especi oration given by the R.W. the P.G.M. He, as was deeply impressed by the excellent ma had been carried out, and he said if he had the Craft he was amply repaid by the kind been mentioned. The Deputy P.G.M.M., in the P.G.M.M., said he knew that every bro it an honour to have at their head so distin brother as their Provincial Grand Master, w be a profound scholar and a deep thinker, an gained him a reputation which had made his n every learned society throughout the world. him that Mark Masonry had spread and flou The P.G.M. who, on rising, was received w said he thanked the brethren for the way in his name, and assured them it gave him th have the opportunity of consecrating a new He thanked them for their kind expressio said, he had the pleasure to give them the to that was the health of the W.M. and Officer St. Cuthbert's Lodge; he hoped they would that peace and harmony would prevail. He new Lodge room, which does the Berwick Lo their untiring zeal and energy, and which Province would do well to imitate. The W.M. thanked the P.G.M. for the kind assistance him, and hoped their future conduct would alw of the Provincial Grand Lodge; that would Bro. Foulsham proposed the toast of the D.P Strachan, in a very eloquent speech, who, brethren for the kind manner his health ha noped each succeeding meeting of the P.G.L. than the last. Bro. Strachan (of London) w visitors, many of whom were from Durham, The whole proceedings were of a very edifying and Bell contributed to the harmony, Bro. rendering valuable assistance.

Digitized by Google

le for any one who has given [illegible]

avens not to believe in the existence of one Supreme Being to the who's universe in indebted for its existence. Masons r may not have time or inclination for scientific research, eir leading principle is a recognition of and reverence for God, and y of their most significant emblems are deduced from this parti- science of astronomy. Whatever then confirms their belief in, nhances their respect for the G.A.O.T.U., whatever throws ad- al light on the marvels of the aerial world must necessarily ise a great influence over the mind of the earnest . Astronomy, however, is an abstruse subject, and its study till lately was, almost wholly confined to men of great scientific uments. Thanks, however, to the efforts of these latter, we se nowadays many a simple key to the inner mysteries of e. Hardly a year passes but some popular treatise on one or of its branches makes its appearance, and all the world may in part what till now has been hidden from all but savants. s work is the one now before us, the Three Heavens, in which riter explains to us, in clear and simple language, the most re- able phenomena of the worlds of air and stars, and demonstrates, from astronomical and scriptural evidence, the existence of a , or heaven of heavens. In reading it, we shall not find ourselves bled with expositions more difficult of comprehension than the ets they are meant to expound. We experience little or no ulty in gathering the author's meaning, nor is there the slightest ery as to the object with which the book is written. This, indeed, ainly set forth in the introductory chapter. There we are told the ose of the work in threefold. "First, from among the first and nd heavens, the region of sky and stars, to trace the design and ose of their Maker, to see the hand that is Divine through all, further, believing, as he does, that one God is the author alike of ure and Revelation, to exhibit the wonderful analogy which exists ween them, and to show that if the heavens be described in the le, the great truths of the Bible are written equally in the vens as well as on the earth; that the mighty agencies unfolded nature present symbols and illustrations innumerable of the great itual truths taught in the scriptures and illustrated with a force felicity of expression that no mere statement of doctrine could e, and an aptness and intentional fitness for each other that would well represented by the fitness of a key for a clock and a clock for ey." Thus the reader will not only gain an insight into a number important scientific truths, but will learn how those truths are so ny illustrations of the Creator's power. The author shows that ence and religion go hand in hand, that each bears undeniable witness the truth of the other, and that the teachings of the materialist, o sees no trace whatever of a Divine agency in the wonderful erations of nature, are utterly false.

The work, as may be judged from its title, is in three parts. The st treats of the World of Air, the second of the World of Stars, e third of the Heaven of Heavens, the abode of God himself. In e first of these parts we have described the Air, Clouds, Miraculous ouds, Thunder-storms, Thunder-storms in their moral aspect, and e inhabitants of the air. The second deals with Infinite Space, finity of Space, the Stars, the Planets, Mercury, Venus, Mars, &c., , the Asteroids or Minor Planets and Meteors, the Moon, the sociation of Comets and Star-showers, Nebulæ, and the system of e Universe. Under the third head, two classes of evidence—tronomical and scriptural—are offered, with a view to prove the ality of the existence of the third Heaven, or Heaven of Heavens. here the ground travelled over is so extensive, it is somewhat ficult to select a passage or passages for the purpose of illustrating e author's treatment. We are persuaded there is no portion of the ork which is likely to induce in the reader a sense of weariness. e is far more likely, indeed, to devour the book hastily than cast it side from a feeling that it bores him. However, as space forbids us llowing Mr. Crampton through the whole of his admirable treatise, e cannot do better, perhaps, than select his chapter on "Clouds," exhibiting the author's style of handling his subject. After some reliminary observations on the nature and wonders of the Cloud- orld, Mr. Crampton considers them, in the first place, from a cientific view, and then, in reference to the miraculous part they ave "performed in the history of the Old and New Testament, here we find them connected so frequently and so directly with the ower and presence of Jehovah, and as instruments in his hand for he preservation of His people." Meteorologists, we are told, have lassified them with a considerable degree of success. But though hey are ever changing in appearance, though their composition is found to vary, "the substance of which every cloud is composed is mainly or essentially the same, water being the chief ingredient, though existing in them in a great variety of modification and quality; from the light and apparently dry and filmy gauze vapour to the blackest and densest thunder-cloud or watery shower bath; from the apparently solid white mountains of stainless snow or wool, that seem the causes, which doubtless [illegible] effected cannot be so easily explained." The affirmed with confidence, but "the secret p wondrous transformations cannot be underst notwithstanding the fact that, by a beautiful clouds have been formed recently, in the l principles we have remarked; but, having don but the mystery remains." Then the writer as he can, what are clouds and how they are "their motion, by which they distribute and over the globe." As regards the motiv their chief agent; but other causes are "electricity, which had a hand in their "alteration of temperature which is continu mosphere, and by which, in their transformat and cloud to vapour again, they are alterna descend like balloons, or to move forward to of the atmosphere." Then we advance a st "the general and obvious purpose fulfilled b the weather." In relation to this we are clouds and what they severally indicate. T or curl-cloud, seemingly "a beautiful snowy cloud, generally at a great elevation," thou earth when it is about to predict a storm; when it is at its usual height." This is call and is generally indicative of variable wea Next we have the Cumulus or monste sidered to prognosticate the approach of "division of clouds is stratus," a "terrestr cloud, and includes those creeping mists th cially in summer, from low fields and vall we have the Cirro Cumulus, usually, but runner of fine weather; the Cumulo etc the mackerel sky, the sure forerunner of w and the nimbus or storm-cloud.

Such, in outline, is Mr. Crampton's c readers may judge for themselves of employs in his long and elaborate accoun is a fair specimen of his writing and of treatment. Had we time or space we migh resting volume. In such case, however, w robbing the reader of the pleasure of sati therefore take leave of Mr. Crampton's v find that degree of favour with the p entitled. We may note, moreover, th throughout the work are a number considerably to its value, while Part: appendix. The Contents Tables, too, bare enumeration of the different sect work, and may be regarded rather in th the arguments followed in the several c

ANSWERS TO COR

All Letters and communications sent THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, 67

We cannot undertake to return rejected

W. J. S.—The Portrait shall appear thanks for the facts you have so kin

W. M.—We will treat on the subject

P. J.—The number you refer to has s

"A suitable gift from a

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOT

THE FREEMASON

VOLUMES

Sent, Carriage Paid, to any ad on receipt of Ch

London :—W. W. Mor

Cloth Cases for Binding can be had

Digitized by Google

INSTALLATION OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,
Most Worshipful Grand Master, &c., &c., having been graciously pleased to accept the special Dedication,

A SPLENDID

HISTORICAL STEEL ENGRAVING

WILL SHORTLY BE PUBLISHED,
OF THE
ROYAL INSTALLATION ON THE 28TH OF APRIL LAST,
IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
By Bro. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. No. 1201.

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be made to the
ROYAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REGENT STREET LONDON, W.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL of this Institution will be held at the Freemasons' Tavern, London, on Wednesday, the 10th May 1876.

Lieut.-Col. Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., D.L., R.W. Provincial Grand Master for West Yorkshire, in the Chair. President of the Board of Stewards, V. W. Bro. Rev. Charles J. Martyn P.G.C. Treasurer, W. Bro. Joseph Smith P.G.P.

Dinner on table at Six o'clock. Brethren to appear in full Masonic Craft costume.

Tickets, One Guinea each, may be had of the Stewards, or of the Secretary, as under,

R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, Secretary of the Institution,
Hon. Secretary of the Board of Stewards.

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

THE CLUB PREMISES, SITUATE
101 QUEEN VICTORIA STREET,
ARE NOW BEING FITTED UP, AND WILL
SHORTLY BE OPENED TO THE MEMBERS.

THE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, now payable, is available to 1st May 1877, and is fixed at—£3 3s for Town Members, i.e., Members residing within twenty miles of the Club, and £2 12s 6d for Country Members, without entrance fee. Members incur no liability beyond their subscription. None but Freemasons are eligible for Membership.

THE NEXT ELECTION OF MEMBERS will be held on the 17th May. Upwards of 600 Brethren having already joined, an Entrance Fee will be imposed as soon as the Club is open.

FORMS OF APPLICATION for Membership may be obtained from the Secretary, at the Offices of the LONDON MASONIC CLUB COMPANY LIMITED, 37 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

JOHN A. LATHBURY, Secretary.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND,

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE House of Lords re-assembled, after the Easter recess, on Thursday, but the business of the evening possessed no great interest. The Commons met on Monday, and devoted the greater part of the sitting to discussing, in Committee, further clauses of the Merchant Shipping Bill, Clauses 14 and 15 being agreed to, after sundry amendments and divisions. Previously, Mr. Fawcett asked the Prime Minister if he would afford him any facilities for bringing on his motion of censure on the Government, or, as Mr. Disraeli suggested, on the House of Commons, in reference to the Royal Titles Bill, but Mr. Disraeli declined to disturb the arrangements of the House for public business. On Monday, the attention of the Government was called, by Sir C. Dilke and Mr. Thornhill, to certain somewhat alarming telegrams from Barbadoes, in which the state of that island was described as very deplorable. The answer of Mr. Lowther was reassuring, and news from Governor Hennessey, of a satisfactory character, has since arrived. Mr. H. Tracy then called attention to the navigation of Her Majesty's ships, but the subject was too dry and uninteresting, or the speakers, of whom there were several, too prosy, for the House was counted out at a little after half-past seven o'clock. On Wednesday, Mr. Forsyth, one of the members for Marylebone, moved the second reading of the Womens' Disabilities Removal Bill, the object of which is to extend the Parliamentary franchise to single women, widows or spinsters, who, either as owners or occupiers, possess the necessary property qualification, or bear their share of the fiscal burdens of the country, but the House were not of Mr. Forsyth's way of thinking, even though Mr. Disraeli supports that gentleman, for they rejected the measure by 239 to 152. On Thursday, after a long wrangle about Mr. Fawcett's notice of motion on the Royal Titles Bill, the House went into Committee on the Merchant Shipping Bill, and some further progress with that measure was made.

Her Majesty returned to England on Saturday, reaching Windsor Castle a little before seven o'clock in the evening. On Thursday last the Prince of Wales reached Cadiz, whence he set out immediately for Seville. Here three officers of King Alphonso met and welcomed him, and formally invited His Royal Highness to visit Madrid, the invitation being cordially accepted. On Tuesday, the Prince reached the Spanish capital, Mr. Layard, the English Minister, having gone as far as Aranjuez to meet him, while the King, with a numerous staff, the Captain-General and Governor of Madrid, and the Ministers, met him at the railway station. On the platform were the English residents, who cheered him repeatedly. The King and Princes then drove to the Palace, where a suite of apartments had been prepared for the latter. Among the festivities prepared for His Royal Highness was originally included a bull-fight, but the idea was subsequently abandoned, as the Prince expressed his inability to be present. On Wednesday was held a review of the Madrid garrison. The troops, which were drawn up in the courtyard of the Palace, consisted of four regiments of cavalry, ten batteries of artillery, and two divisions of infantry. The King and Prince and the Duke of Connaught were attended by a numerous staff, including several generals, and having taken up their position, the march past began, and lasted an hour and a half. Thursday, the King and Princes were to start for Toledo, the visit being so arranged as to allow of their return to Madrid in time for the opera. The day following the Escurial will be visited, and then the Duke of Connaught will leave for France on his return home. There will be a banquet the same evening, and to-day a grand reception at the English Embassy. On Sunday the Prince leaves for Lisbon, and will be met at the frontier town of Elvas by the Ministers and Aides-de-camp of the King of Portugal. Lisbon will be reached in the afternoon of

Digitized by Google

Monday, and after a stay of some days, His Royal Highness will sail for England on the 7th prox., so that he may be expected to reach Portsmouth on the 11th or 12th of the month. The reception at Guildhall of the Prince and Princess by the Corporation of London is fixed for the 19th, when there will be a grand banquet, followed by a ball. The invitations to the former will be limited to 500, while those to the ball will number somewhere about 3,000. Some time after his return the Prince is expected to visit Chester, where he will re-open the Cathedral, which has lately been restored, at the expense of several thousand pounds.

Our Grand Festival, of which we give an account elsewhere, was held on Wednesday, at Freemasons' Hall. The Earl of Carnarvon presided in Grand Lodge, and during the banquet that followed, but later in the evening, his Lordship was compelled, by business engagements, to leave, and vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Colonel Burdett, P.G.M. Middlesex. The remainder of the evening passed very enjoyably. Bro. Lord Skelmersdale, D.G.M., was prevented attending by reason of the demise of his near relative, the Dowager Countess of Derby.

On Tuesday, the new Chapel of Keble College, Oxon, built by the munificence of the late Mr. William Gibbs, was opened with much ceremony in the presence of the great dignitaries of the University, including the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Visitor of Keble, the Marquis of Salisbury, Chancellor, Mr. Gathorne Hardy, one of its representatives in Parliament, Lord Selborne, and others. Later in the day, the foundation stone of the new Hall, the funds for the erection of which have been presented to the College by some unknown benefactors, was laid by the Marquis of Salisbury.

The funeral of the late Lord Lyttelton, Lord Lieutenant of Worcestershire, and Chairman of the Endowed Schools Commission, took place at Hagley, on Saturday. All the members of his Lordship's family were present, with the exception of his eldest son, who is travelling abroad, and who, in all probability, is still in ignorance of his father's death. There attended also a large number of friends, including Mr. Gladstone, the ex-Premier, and his eldest son, Mr. W. H. Gladstone, Earl Spencer, Lord Wenlock, Col. Clive, &c., &c. The Bishop of Oxford, assisted by the Warden of Keble, and Mr. Sneyd, the curate of Hagley, officiated. The late Lord was one of the most brilliant and accomplished scholars of the day, and was beloved and respected, not only by his numerous circle of friends, but generally throughout the county. Many of his Lordship's translations from the Greek and Latin classics have appeared at different times, and in all were displayed both elegance and ripe scholarship.

On Friday last a terrible accident occurred in a railway tunnel in South Wales. A quantity of dynamite, amounting to about 150 lbs., was stored in a hole for the purpose of being used, as required, in firing successive drifts; when owing, it is believed, to the overturning of a lighted candle on the box of primers, an explosion took place. Some thirty men were at work at the time, of whom fifteen were killed, while the rest were much exhausted by the poisonous fumes of the after-gases of the explosion, two of them being, in addition, badly wounded. Considerable damage has also been caused to the tunnel, portions of the masonry arching having fallen in, and the timber framing having entirely disappeared.

The Guardians of the Croydon Workhouse do not appear to exhibit any strong feeling of consideration for the unfortunate casuals who are obliged to seek refuge in their wards from Saturday till Monday, nor can they have a very high sense of decency. It seems it is the custom of the officials to take away the clothing of those casuals who enter on Saturday evening, and not return it till the Monday morning, the consequence being that the unfortunate creatures spend Sunday in bed, and almost in a state of nudity, nor were they afforded any opportunity for washing. No less than forty-four men and a number of women were thus treated a Sunday or two ago. The reason assigned by the Guardians for this extraordinary practice was, that there were no wards for them to sit in. It was said the difficulty could be met by providing two additional rooms, one for the men and the other for the women; and the matter was thereupon referred to the Building Committee for consideration and report. An admittedly disgraceful fact, it seems to us, requires neither consideration nor report, but prompt remedy. Were it a question of providing kennels for a number of dogs, no doubt the needful provision would be made at once. If the Croydon Workhouse officials were compelled to pass a few Sundays in bed without clothing, they would find it, perhaps, somewhat uncomfortable, and be a little more considerate towards their poorer fellows.

Our cavalry are among the best in the world, and what with polo and tent-pegging they seem well on the way towards excelling even themselves. Recently the 5th Royal Irish Lancers have held an amateur circus at Aldershot, the general in command, Sir Thomas Steele, having readily accorded his permission. On Thursday of last week, the gallant regiment held an equestrian performance, and the feats they performed were marvellously well done, almost equalling those of the most renowned circus performers. They went through the Lancers, cleared bars, threw somersaults over several horses, exhibited performing ponies and dancing poodles, and enacted the "scenes of the circle" with complete success, sundry of the officers taking part with the men in the display. With such incitements to pleasure as these, life at Aldershot must be pretty enjoyable, in spite of hard drill and long field days.

Passing to the more regular sporting news, we record the commencement, this week, of the racing season. The Epsom Spring Meeting began on Tuesday, when the City and Suburban was run for, and Mr. Vyner's Thunder, carrying 9 st. 4 lb., bore off the handicap, a good three lengths ahead of Little Harry, Merry Duchess being third. The day following Prince Soltykoff's New Holland won the Great Metropolitan Stakes, Whitebait and Freeman being second and third respectively. Shortly it will be our duty to chronicle the winner of the Two Thousand, and yet a few weeks more and the Derby of 1876 will be among the events that have happened.

On Saturday, the Alexandra Palace First Amateur Bicycle meeting took place. As the weather was fine, the attendance of visitors was very considerable. There were only two events on the programme, the first a five-mile champion race for a cup, value twenty-five guineas, which will become the property of whoever wins it three times in the season, a gold medal being awarded to the winner of each race, and a silver medal to the second. Five started, of whom Mr. Keith-Falconer proved the winner, doing his five miles easily in 17 minutes 52 seconds. The five mile handicap was run in six heats, the winners of which, with one exception, faced the starter in the final. In this, too, Mr. Keith-Falconer proved victorious, beating Mr. Mackinnon (300 yards start), by only twelve yards, however, in the excellent time of 16 minutes 28 seconds.

The same day the London Athletic Club held their second Spring Meeting in the Old Deer Park, Richmond, the attendance of friends and visitors being unusually large. The first event was a boys' handicap for lads under 17. The race was run in heats, the winner of the final being a nine year old youngster, by name Harrison. Of the other events Shearman walked over for the Hundred Yards, H. O. Moore won the 600 yards Challenge Cup, Gilbert the 180 yards handicap, Gilbert the Hurdles, Harrison the Quarter Mile, A. Hardie (120 sec.) the Two Miles walking and T. Parish (150 yards) the Open Mile Handicap. At Lillie Bridge the same afternoon, was held the annual athletic meeting of St Paul's School, in the presence of a large and fashionable attendance, the band of the First Middlesex Engineers being present, and playing a choice selection of music. The most distinguished performer was W. T. M'Murtrie, who won the Cricket Ball with a throw of 95 yards, the Hundred Yards, Class I., the Long Jump, Class I., besides being second in the Hurdles. He was also winner of the Fives Championship, played for on the 5th instant, and, with Lemon, of the Double handed over sixteen.

On Monday the annual presentation of prizes to the successful members of the Inns of Court Rifle Volunteers took place in the Hall of Lincoln's Inn. The Earl of Cadogan, Under Secretary of State for War, presided, and there were present Major General McMurdo, Baron Pollock, Justice Grove, Major Charley, M.P., &c. The Volunteers, who were drawn up so as to form three sides of a square, in the absence of Lieutenant Colonel Bulwer, were under the command of Major Russell. The Earl of Cadogan, before presenting the prizes, offered a few remarks on the volunteers, and testified the great interest taken in them by the War Office. He also expressed his satisfaction with the condition of the regiment before him and his regret at the absence of its commanding officer. The winner of the Three Star Badge, as best shot, was Corporal Cotton,

Digitized by Google

Q.C., the other winners of first prizes being Private Baird, Serjeant Langford, Private A. P. Humphrey, Private Stute, Serjeant St. John Clarke and Serjeant Glin. Major Russell having thanked his Lordship for presiding, the proceedings, which were of short duration, terminated. As we are now entering upon the volunteer season, we shall doubtless have many such meetings to record.

On Wednesday died, in her 71st year, the Dowager Countess of Derby, widow of the late Earl, thrice Premier of Great Britain, and mother of the present Earl, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs for the second time. The late Countess was second daughter of the first Lord Skelmersdale, and was born in 1805. In 1825 she married the late Earl of Derby, by whom she had three children; the present Earl and his brother, the Hon. F. Stanley, M.P., North Lancashire, and the Hon. Emma Charlotte Stanley, married in 1860 to Colonel Talbot, brother of the Earl of Shrewsbury. All her children were with her when she expired.

Notice has been given by the Admiralty that the Yacht Pandora, Captain Allen Young, will visit the Arctic Regions in the course of this summer, for the purpose of communicating with the depôts of the Polar Ships, Alert and Discovery. She will leave Portsmouth on the 25th prox., and Captain Young will be the bearer of all letters that may be sent and entrusted to him for delivery. These letters will be deposited at the depôts at the entrance of Smith's Sound, on the chance that Captain Nares may be able to communicate with them by means of a small sledge party in the autumn of this year. Under these circumstance there is, of course, some uncertainty as to the letters actually reaching their destination. As weight is a matter of consideration, the friends of the officers and crews are requested to make their communications as light as possible.

A series of eminently satisfactory experiments are being made at Woolwich with the 81-ton gun. Different kinds of powder are used, and the charges vary from 210lbs. to 280lbs., the weight of the shot, however, being in certain rounds 1,465lbs., and in others 1,259lbs. The authorities appear to be well satisfied with the tests to which the gun has been subjected. What charges and what weight of shot will be required when we have arrived at the 160-ton gun we know not, but if matters go on at this rate we shall have guns powerful enough to project a house for a distance of a score or two miles. We pity the unfortunate people who may chance to get in the way of one of these monster projectiles. We fancy not much of them will be left.

The unhappy Eastern Question is still on the carpet. The Turks are reported to be on the point of making a second and more vigorous attempt to victual Nicksich, and for this purpose Moukhtar Pacha has received, or shortly will receive, considerable reinforcements. It is also stated that Russia and Austria will prevent any chance of the present conflict extending, and have already indicated to the Sultan that no attack on Montenegro will be permitted. If Russia will also forbid the Prince of Montenegro from countenancing the attacks of Montenegrins on Turkey, she will be meting out justice with an even hand. What is sauce for the Turkey goose should be sauce for the Montenegro gander. But whatever truth there may be in this report, both Russia and Austria will be doing good service if they confine the struggle within its present limits. The danger to the peace of Europe lies in Servia or Montenegro being permitted to side against Turkey. There is little chance of the Sultan attacking them if they will only remain peaceable. A dreadful calamity is reported from Rouen. The Théâtre des Arts was burnt down on Wednesday evening, fortunately before the time fixed for the admission of the public, or the loss of life, deplorable as it is even now, would have been still more deplorable. The company were preparing for the performance of M. Thomas's Hamlet when the fire broke out; and so rapid was the spread of the flames that most of the chorus singers and figurantes found it impossible to escape. The number of fatal casualties is not yet known, but the remains of eight bodies have already been dug out of the ruins, and there are quite fifty bad cases in the hospital. It seems the 74th Regiment highly distinguished itself in its attempts to save life and property. Unhappily four of the men were killed and some fifteen wounded. The fire has caused the utmost consternation among the inhabitants. It is due entirely to the absence of wind, and the energy of the firemen, that a considerable portion of this ancient Norman city was not burnt down. As it was, several of the neighbouring houses were set on fire and partially destroyed. From Berlin we hear that the proceedings of the Imperial Court of Discipline at Potsdam, against Count Arnim, were to have commenced yesterday. The news from the United States refer chiefly to the approaching impeachment of General Belknap, and his recent examination of General Schenck.

A special meeting of the Governors and Subscribers of the Royal Masonic Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, in accordance with a requisition received according to Rule 8, was held on the 25th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. Col. Creaton P.G.D. V.P. in the chair. Bro. James Terry, Secretary, read the notice of motion for which the meeting was convened—"To consider the propriety of altering Law 4, page 12, of the Rules and Regulations, by substituting the figures £40 instead of £36 for the male annuitants, and Rule 4, page 13, by substituting the figures £32 instead of £26 for the female annuitants." This was proposed by Bro. Col. Creaton P.G.D., and seconded by Bro. H. M. Levy, and was carried unanimously. Bro. Griffiths Smith P.G.S. proposed that the best thanks of the meeting be accorded to Bro. Col. Creaton for the able manner he had presided, and this was also carried. The brethren present were Bros. C. Hill, S. Rawson, Griffiths Smith, H. G. Buss, T. Cubitt, C. Webber and H. M. Levy.

We understand that the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master of Essex, Bro. Robt. J. Bagshaw, has decided to hold his Grand Lodge for 1876 at Dovercourt, near Harwich, on the 30th prox., and that he has signified his intention of appointing to the respective Wardens' chairs the W.M.'s of the two Colchester Lodges—Bros. A. R. Clench and Alfred Welch.

We regret to have to announce the death, which was caused by an accident, of Mrs. Maidwell, wife of Bro. T. Maidwell (27).

We most strongly protest against the action of the National Union of Conservative and Constitutional Associations, St. Stephen's-chambers, Bridge-street, Westminster, S.W.—Honorary Secretaries, J. E. Gorst and Edward Neville—in issuing blank forms of petition to the Masters of our Lodges for them to get signed in favour of the Queen assuming the title of Empress! It is monstrous that any such attempt should be made to mix up politics with Freemasonry. We tell the Secretaries of these Associations—if they know it not already—that Freemasonry distinctly forbids all political action on the part of its members, that is, in their Masonic capacity. Brethren, scout such proceedings!

As we announced last week, Bro. the Right Honourable Lord Leigh, P.G.M. of Warwickshire, presided, on Wednesday, at a meeting of the Grand Lodge of that Province, specially convened at Nuneaton, for the purpose of assisting to lay the foundation stone of a new Church, on the site of the Old Abbey Church of that town, and for this purpose the W.M. of the Lodge of Antiquity lent the mallet which Sir Christopher Wren used when performing a similar ceremony for St. Paul's Cathedral. The Lodge met, and was opened by his Lordship, at 1 p.m., at the Town Hall. A procession was then formed, consisting of the brethren of several Lodges and the officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and having reached the spot marched round to the East-end, where Bro. Lord Leigh took up a position near the stone. Prayer having been offered by Bro. the Rev. W. Randall P.G. Chaplain, the Chairman of the Building Committee presented the inscription and copies of the proceedings to the P.G.M. Lord Leigh then, first of all, gave a brief history of the mallet he was about to use, and the gratification he felt in using it on the present occasion. He then laid the stone with the usual ceremonies, and afterwards addressed all present at considerable length. The trowel, of solid silver, and having an appropriate inscription, was presented to Lord Leigh.

Digitized by Google

AN ARGUMENT THAT LAUGHS IN YOUR FACE.

From "The Keystone."

TO say nothing of the sin of Masonry, its childishness is excruciating. So said the Pittsburg United Presbyterian of last week. Let us see what reasons there are to support this opinion.

A brother is in distress. Misfortune has clouded his path; the dull times have touched him in basket and store; disease has laid its heavy hand upon him; even death has entered his circle, and snatched a loved one from his family. In this time of sore trial and trouble he is not left comfortless. His brethren not only sympathize with him, but they aid him. There is a Mystic Tie that encircles all who have knelt at the altars of Masonry, whereby they are knit together into one family of brethren, who not only rejoice with each other in times of rejoicing, but also mourn with each other when in adversity. No cloud without a silver lining can overshadow a Mason. No blow can fall so heavily upon him that its force will not be broken by the interposition of a friendly arm. He is comforted, relieved, uplifted. He is never friendless, because he is a Mason. This is one of the "sins of Masonry." It is the friend of those who might otherwise be friendless.

By a dispensation of Providence a brother is suddenly taken from his family—death strikes down the head of the house. The death of a child brings sorrow into a household; the death of a wife is a greater affliction; but the death of a husband and father is a staggering, almost deadly blow, to all that are left behind. His place and office are peculiar. He is the adviser, the care-taker, the bosom friend of all. No one who is left can fill his place. But there is another relation in which he stands to them, the breach of which is apt to leave them most helpless of all. He was the support of the family. By strenuous industry he supplied them with all of the necessaries, and many of the luxuries of life; but now those gifts, which came so regularly, and apparently so naturally, come no longer. The mill has ceased to grind, and the feed is not forthcoming. Oh the terrible pangs of want, both mental and physical! Oh, the anguish of making your wants known to the careless world. But there is a brotherhood that cares for the widow and the orphan of every departed brother. And it does not dole out its gifts by measure, doing so much and no more—its gifts, like its sympathies, are measureless. The widow is relieved, the orphans are rescued from want—both because the husband and father was bound to the Craft by fraternal ties. This is another of the "sins of Masonry."

The last sad rite of earth—burial, is to be performed, and the remains of a brother are to be committed to earth, dust to dust, ashes to ashes. We have all attended Masonic funerals. Generally the Church performs its rites first, and Masonry afterwards; but it is not always so. Sometimes a clergyman goes to the house of death, but demurs to going farther; but Masons always, when requested, bury their dead. We have stood by an open grave, yes, and uttered the last fond fraternal words which a brother so lovingly pronounces over the remains of a member of the Craft, when not a word had been previously, or was to be subsequently spoken by another. The Church was not fulfilling its office, and if Masonry had not been true to the call of humanity and brotherhood, the body of him who was once a living man would have been buried like a dog—no word spoken or prayer uttered, but only the dead inhumanly thrust out of sight. When the fraternity stops in and modestly performs its funeral office, the brethren appearing without any insignia or distinction, excepting a small blue ribbon on the lappel of their coats, and a sprig of evergreen in their hands, this is still another of the "sins of Masonry."

We might enumerate other sins, but it is unnecessary, for they will readily suggest themselves to the reader's mind. Let us turn now to those aspects of the brotherhood that are "excruciatingly childish."

A brother, weary with the toil of business, and perhaps the misfortunes of adversity, which he has to endure alone, or perhaps has a wife and children to share with him—one or two, or it may be three nights in a month, goes to Lodge, Chapter and Commandery. During this small fraction of his time, thus devoted to the Craft, he finds himself in the fellowship of Brothers and Companions—those who have assumed the same vows of fraternal regard to him that he has to them. He is at once in a charmed circle. No one who has not been in that circle can understand its magic. There is full and free expression of opinion there—not the jarring opinions of the world, but the fraternal opinions of brethren. There is sympathy, harmony, love. As the ancients said, "the gods draw like to like, by some mysterious affinity of souls." What a picture is this. Its "childishness is excruciating."

A Masonic Temple is to be dedicated to Truth, Virtue and Benevolence, and the brethren assemble to perform the solemn ceremonies, with happiness expressed in their countenances and indelibly stamped on their hearts. Within its walls the one true and living God, of Jew and Gentile, is to be invoked, and the Holy Bible is always to be open upon its altars, as the rule of our faith and the guide of our lives. For men to meet and indulge in any ceremonies for such a cause is "excruciatingly childish." Yes, faith is childish, for the Great Light says, "whosoever shall not receive the Kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein." But why further multiply examples? Is it not equally childish to participate in a Masonic funeral, or to listen with the teachable spirit of children to a Masonic lecture upon the foundation principles of brotherly love, relief and truth, that underlie the Craft? But the argument, so to speak, "turns around and laughs in our faces," and we laugh too at the puerility of those who would have us believe that, "to say nothing of the Sin of Masonry, its childishness is excruciating."

THE MASONIC APRON.

WE take the following from the very sensible report of Bro. Shaeffer, G. Lecturer to the Grand Lodge of California, at its last session:—

To show how much good has been accomplished by the practice of presenting the lambskin to initiates, I will relate the following incidents, which have come under my own observation. A certain man, before leaving his old home in the east, had been made a Mason, but since coming to the Pacific coast had not visited a Lodge, and had fallen into evil paths and been led into dissipation. One day, when looking over some articles in his trunk, he came upon a forgotten package which, when opened, was found to contain his lambskin apron—for the Lodge wherein he was made a Mason had made it a custom to present each member with this emblem of Masonry. The sight of the spotless vestment, more ancient than the golden fleece or Roman eagle, aroused a flood of recollections in his bosom. In imagination he was carried back to his old home, where he had been honoured and respected—to the time when he stood in the north-east corner, a just and upright man, where it had been given him strictly in charge ever to act and walk as such. He asked himself whether he had fulfilled the charge? whether he had walked as an upright man? He felt that he had not. The spark of manhood which still lingered in his bosom was strong enough to kindle a glowing fire. He put the apron away and went forth, determined to conquer the terrible demon that had been leading him on to the abyss of destruction. He made himself known to some of the Masons of this city, frankly admitted his wrongdoing, and asked them to assist him in reforming. A helping hand was extended, the strong grip was given him, and by its aid he was lifted out of the depths into which he had fallen, and once more stood a just and upright man. He is now honoured and respected by the workmen of the Temple, instead of being an outcast and disgraced. The other case occurred in the interior of Mexico. A brother was travelling through that country, where he contracted a fever and soon became delirious. Those with whom he was domiciled examined his baggage for the purpose of getting him some clean linen, and found a lambskin apron. It was immediately recognized, for those into whose hands he had fallen were Masons. It is needless to say how tenderly he was cared for; how carefully his nurses attended upon him until the last moment came; and then, how reverently they closed his eyes and laid him beneath the earth. The written record on the lambskin furnished the brethren with the necessary information to communicate with the Lodge of the deceased, and send to his friends such property as he left behind.—Masonic Jewel.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC RETURNS.

The following statement shows the receipts for traffic on the undermentioned railways for the past week, as compared with the corresponding week in 1875:—

Railway.	Miles open. 1876.	Receipts. 1876 £	1875 £
Caledonian	739	54,851	54,193
Glasgow and South Western	315½	16,279	17,192
Great Eastern	764½	47,658	48,548
Great Northern	640	53,296	58,211
Great Western	2,008	131,529	125,092
Lancashire and Yorkshire	437¼	70,073	64,445
London and Brighton	378	34,177	31,310
London, Chatham and Dover	153½	19,434	16,910
London and North Western	1,588	170,704	168,297
London and South Western	—	39,035	37,513
London, Tilbury and Southend	45	1,473	—
Manchester and Sheffield	259½	25,534	32,042
Midland	982¼	107,722	114,805
Metropolitan	—	—	—
" " District	8¼	5,642	5,324
" " St. John's Wood	—	—	—
North British	841½	42,945	44,951
North Eastern	1,400½	118,796	127,651
North London	12	7,704	7,184
North Staffordshire Railway	191	9,266	10,564
" " Canal	118	1,440	1,722
South Eastern	350	36,904	32,190

THE INFLUENCE OF FREEMASONS.—Grace Greenwood, who is now sauntering through Europe, and writing most charming letters to the New York Times, has a good-natured fling at the Freemasons for interfering with her plans. She left Vevay for Chillon for the purpose of visiting the far-famed dungeon in which Byron's mythical prisoner was confined. Unfortunately she arrived at Chillon the day before that of the banquet to be given to the visiting brethren by the Masonic Congress of Lausanne, which was then in session. Of course she was refused, and she vents, in a pleasant way, her spleen at the disappointment. "We passed over the moat, we attained the very gate of the castle, when we were stopped by a gendarme, who informed us that the historical old edifice was closed for that day and the next, by order of the governor, who was about to give in its halls a grand Masonic entertainment. It seemed a sort of anachronism, but really this insolent Order is ordering everything and pushing its way everywhere. If the New Jerusalem should come down, the Masons would hold a lodge in Solomon's Temple the first thing."—Voice of Masonry.

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

SATURDAY, 29th APRIL.

108—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

MONDAY, 1st MAY.

45—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem, St. John's-square, E.C., at 8. (Instruction.)
174—Sincerity, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., at 7. (Instruction.)

37—Anchor and Hope, Freemasons' Hall, Church Institute, Bolton-le-Moors.
63—Royal Sussex, Masonic Hall, Old Orchard-street, Bath.
119—Sun, Square and Compasses, Freemasons' Hall, Whitehaven.
133—Harmony, Ship Hotel, Faversham.
156—Harmony, Huyshe Masonic Temple, Plymouth.
199—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover.
338—Vitruvian, Royal Hotel, Ross, Herefordshire.
441—Three Grand Principles, Red Lion Hotel, Petty Curvy, Cambridge.
478—Churchill, Masonic Hall, Alfred-street, Oxford.
1045—Stamford, Town Hall, Altrincham.
1051—Rowley, Athenæum, Lancaster.
1204—Neptune, Masonic Temple, 23 Hope-street, Liverpool.

TUESDAY, 2nd MAY.

Colonial Board, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
65—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
960—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
1262—Golden Rule, Regent Masonic Hall, Air-street, Piccadilly.

61—Angel, Three Cups Hotel, Colchester.
120—Paladin, Green Dragon Hotel, Hereford.
158—Adams, Masonic Rooms, Victoria Hall, Trinity-road, Sheerness-on-Sea.
495—Royal Lebanon, Spread Eagle, Gloucester.
668—Temple, Town Hall, Folkestone.
734—Londesborough, Victoria Hotel, Bridlington Quay.
867—Fortescue, Masonic Hall, High-street, Honiton, Devon.
948—St. Barnabas, Masonic Room, Lindale, Leighton Buzzard.
1002—Skiddaw, Lodge Room, Market-place, Cockermouth.
1031—Newall, Freemasons' Hall, Islington-square, Salford.
1136—Devon, Masonic Hall, Devon-square, Newton Abbot.
1228—Beacontree, Red Lion, Leytonstone, at 8.0. (Instruction.)
1322—Waverley, Caledonia Inn, Ashton-under-Lyne.
1536—Square and Compass, Wynnstay Arms, High-street, Wrexham.

WEDNESDAY, 3rd MAY.

Grand Chapter, Freemasons' Hall, at 7.
193—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7. (Instruction.)
1624—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Albion-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)

197—Amity, Masonic Hall, Thames-street, Poole.
204—Harmony, Masonic Room, Ann-street, Rochdale.
326—Moira, Freemasons' Hall, Park-street, Bristol.
429—Sincerity, Angel House, Northwich, Cheshire.
471—Silurian, Freemasons' Hall, Dock-street, Newport.
645—Humphrey Chetham, Masonic Room, Cross-street, Manchester.
1144—Milton, Commercial Hotel, Ashton-under-Lyne.
1187—Alnwick, Masonic Hall, Market-place, Alnwick.
1206—Cinque Ports, Bell Hotel, Sandwich.
1323—Talbot, Masonic Rooms, Wind-street, Swansea.
1363—Tyndall, Town Hall, Chipping Sudbury, Gloucester.
1479—Halsey, Town Hall, St. Albans.

THURSDAY, 4th MAY.

3—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, London-st., Fitzroy-sq., at 7.0.
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
435—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 8. (Instruction.)
454—Yarborough, Green Dragon, Stepney.
1260—Hervey, 152 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1440—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

31—United Industrious, Guildhall Concert Room, High-street, Canterbury.
41—Royal Cumberland, Masonic Hall, Old Orchard-street, Bath.
125—Lennox, Freemasons' Hall, Richmond, Yorkshire.
249—Mariners, Masonic Temple, 23 Hope-street, Liverpool.
254—Trinity, Craven Arms Hotel, Coventry.
269—Fidelity, White Bull Hotel, Blackburn.
291—Combermere Union, Macclesfield Arms, Macclesfield.
309—Harmony, Red Lion, Fareham.
393—Pomfret, George Hotel, Northampton.
443—St. Peter's, Masonic Hall, Boroughbury, Peterborough.
650—Star in the East, Pier Hotel, Harwich. (Instruction.)
792—Pelham Pillar, Masonic Hall, Bullring-lane, Grimsby.
1012—Prince of Wales, Derby Hotel, Bury, Lancashire.
1074—Upperley, Masonic Room, Market-place, Kirkby Lonsdale.
1282—Auckolme, Forester's Hall, Brigg, Lincolnshire.
1349—Brent, Masonic Hall, Globe Hotel, Topsham.
1391—Aldershot Camp, Assembly Rooms, High-street, Aldershot.

FRIDAY, 5th MAY.

193—Doric, Earl Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1278—Bartlett Grotto, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, 7.30. (Instruction.)
1507—Metropolitan, 269 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)

574—Loyal Berkshire of Hope, Council Chamber, Newbury.
719—Invicta, Corn Exchange, Queen-street, Ashford.
1303—Athelstan, Town Hall, Atherstone, Warwick.
1387—Cheriton, Masonic Rooms, Cheriton Cum Hardy.
1561—Morecambe, Athenæum, Lancaster.

SATURDAY, 6th MAY.

General Committee, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
108—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

MONDAY.

154—Unanimity, Masonic Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield.
1106—Wharfedale, Private Room, Boroughgate, Otley, York.
1211—Goderich, Masonic Hall, Gt. George-street, Leeds.
1339—Wentworth, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
1302—De Warren, White Swan Hotel, Halifax.
1542—Legiolium, Masonic Hall, Carlton-street, Castleford.
R. A. 380—Integrity, Masonic Temple, Commercial-street, Morley.

TUESDAY.

266—Royal Yorkshire, Masonic Hall, Hanover-street, Keighley.
1314—Scarborough, Wilton Arms Hotel, Batley.
R. A. 296—Loyalty, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
R. A. 600—Sincerity, Freemasons' Hall, Salem-street, Bradford.

WEDNESDAY.

258—Amphibious, Freemason's Hall, Heckmondwike.
380—Integrity, Masonic Temple, Commercial-street, Morley.
910—St. Oswald, Masonic Hall, Ropergate, Pontefract.
R.A. 304—Philanthropic, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.

THURSDAY.

208—Three Grand Principles, Masonic Hall, Dewsbury.
275—Harmony, Masonic Hall, South Parade, Huddersfield.
280—Fidelity, Masonic Hall, Carlton-hill, Leeds.
337—Candour, Private Rooms, Commercial Inn, Uppermill.
974—Pentalpha, New Masonic Hall, Darley-street, Bradford.
1231—Sayle, Royal Hotel, Elland.
1513—Friendly, King's Head Hotel, Barnsley.

FRIDAY.

242—St. George's, Victoria Room, Doncaster.
306—Alfred, Masonic Hall, Kelsall-street, Leeds.
401—Royal Forest, Hack-in-Bounty Inn, Stockbury.
531—Truth, Freemasons' Hall, Fitzwilliam-street, Huddersfield.
662—Holme Valley, Victoria Hotel, Holmfirth.
887—De Grey and Ripon, Town Hall, Ripon.
1094—Ecclesbill, Freemasons' Hall, Ecclesbill.

SATURDAY.

149—Peace, Masonic Rooms, Meltham.
306—Prince George, Station House, Bottoms, Eastwood.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

451—St. George's, Masonic Hall, Norfolk-street, North Shields.

TUESDAY.

124—Marquis of Granby, Freemasons' Hall, Old Elvet, Durham.
393—St. David's, Freemasons' Hall, The Parade, Berwick-on-Tweed.
R. A. 111—Vigilance, Freemasons' Hall, Archer-street, Darlington.

WEDNESDAY.

94—Phœnix, Freemasons' Hall, Queen-street, Sunderland.
406—Northern Counties, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
1274—Earl of Durham, Freemasons' Hall, Chester-le-street.

THURSDAY.

24—Newcastle-on-Tyne, Freemasons' Hall, Grainger-street-west, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
509—Tees, Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-street, Stockton-on-Tees.
531—St. Helen's, Masonic Hall, Regent's-square, Hartlepool.
630—De Ogle, Masonic Hall, Morpeth.
639—Blagdon, Ridley Arms Hotel, Blyth.
1379—Marquess of Ripon, Freemasons' Hall, Archer-street, Darlington.

FRIDAY.

1230—Barnard, Witham Institute, Barnard Castle.
1867—Albert Edward, White Hart Hotel, Hexham.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Northumberland and Berwick Lodge of Mark Master Masons.—The regular monthly meeting of this ancient Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on Wednesday, 26th April, Bro. Ridsdale acting as W.M. in the absence of Bro. Holmes P.G.J.W. Present—Bros. Hughes S.W., Franklin J.W., Cockburn M.O., Dr. Armstrong S.O., Bell acting as J.O., R. Armstrong S.D., Bell J.D., Salmon I.G. Bro. Sims, of the Walker Lodge, 1342, was duly advanced as a serving Brother to this degree, and the Lodge adjourned in harmony till September.

Metropolitan Chapter.—The regular weekly convocation hereof was held on Tuesday, 25th inst., at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill, E.C., present the following:—Comps. G. Newman M.E.Z., J. Constable H., J. L. Mather J., Thos. W. White Scribe E., J. Wyer Scribe N., R. Wright P.S., R. Berridge, A. A. Drew, W. H. Green, P. Wagner. Upon the confirmation of the minutes of the previous Convocation, the M.E. rehearsed the ceremony of exaltation, Comp. Berridge acting candidate. Comp. A. A. Drew was elected a joining member. We again urge upon the Companions generally to attend this, one of the few Chapters of Instruction; it is ably and well conducted by those whose praises we have so often sung.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, The Hercules, Leadenhall-street, on Thursday evening last, 27th April, at 7.30. Present—Bros. Hollands W.M., Rudderforth S.W., Salmoneus J.W.,

Digitized by Google

Horsley S.D., Crane J.D., Blackhall I.G., Grammer Hon. Sec., Austin Preceptor, Atkins Treasurer, and several other brethren. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. It was then unanimously resolved "That the brethren having heard with profound grief of the sad bereavement which Bro. Maidwell has sustained in the death of his wife (by accident) desire to tender him their fraternal and heartfelt sympathy in his great affliction." It was then proposed by Bro. Horsley, seconded by Bro. Rudderforth, and carried unanimously, that, on account of the death of Mrs. Maidwell, the Lodge be closed and adjourned to the following Thursday evening at the usual hour. Bro. Lake having been elected a joining member, the Lodge was closed in ancient form.

Lodge of Faith, No. 141.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday, 25th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Bros. J. Waygood W.M., M. Davis S.W., Mallett J.W., Carter P.M. Treasurer, W. Stewart P.M. Secretary, C. Dairey as S.D., Rumble as I.G. P.M.'s Kennett, Themans, C. C. Taylor, Hopwood, and Bros. Clark, Walls, Bartlett, Browning, Iles, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Gins, Manley and Kendall were raised to the 3rd degree. Bros. Smith and Lefley were passed to the 2nd degree, and Mr. M. R. Barrett was duly initiated into the Order. Bro. Hopwood announced his intention to act as Steward for the Boys' School at the next anniversary festival, and a sum of five guineas was voted from the funds to be placed on his list. The Lodge was then closed. Bros. J. Wright W.M. Southern Star, Brown 611, Cook 382, and Professor Simmons, Dalhousie Lodge, were present as visitors.

Manchester Lodge, No. 179.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on the 20th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. In the unavoidable absence of the W.M., Bro. J. Kew P.M. occupied the chair. Benet S.W., D. Albuquerque J.W., W. Hughes P.M. Sec., Ayres S.D., D. M. Belfrage J.D., H. C. Green Assistant Sec., H. A. Lovett I.G., Pugsley D.C., Parsons W.S. P.M.'s Tyrell and W. Stuart; and Bros. Jackson, Bridgman, Dettmar, Dickeson, J. G. Webb, H. J. Banks, B. Neale, E. Steers, R. Webb, Reynolds, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed, Bro. Brown was raised to the 3rd degree, and Bros. Osmond, Hughes and Dickeson were passed to the 2nd degree, by Bro. Kew. The W.M., Bro. J. Burt, having arrived, a ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. A. Milward, who was afterwards initiated into the Order by the W.M., in a very perfect and careful manner. Bro. J. Kew P.M. proposed, and Bro. Benet S.W. seconded, that a summer banquet take place on the 4th Thursday in June, at the Crown, at Bruxbourne, this was carried. The Lodge was then closed until October, and the brethren partook of a capital banquet, provided by Bro. Clemow, and superintended by Bro. Smith. The W.M., who very genially presided, gave the Queen and the Craft. In proposing the toast of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M., the W.M. said he hoped on his return he would meet with a hearty reception from every loyal subject, but none more hearty than from his brother Masons. The toasts of the Prov. Grand Master and the Deputy G.M. followed. In proposing the toast of the newly initiated, Bro. Burt said he was one only to know to respect, and from the attention he had paid to the ceremony he was sure he would be a credit to the Order. Bro. Milward, in a very appropriate speech, acknowledged the complimentary remarks of the W.M. The toast of the visitors found an able exponent in Bro. Davis W.M. 382, who said one of the greatest pleasures in visiting Lodges was to listen to the ceremonies being perfectly delivered, and they had been done so this evening. The admirable working of Bro. Kew spoke for itself, while the able way in which the ceremony of initiation had been worked by the W.M. was a credit to so young a member of the Order. He then, in the name of the visitors, thanked the W.M. for the kind hospitality afforded them. Bro. J. Kew P.M. then proposed the toast of the W.M., and congratulated the brethren on the selection they had made; they had seen his capabilities for presiding over them, and he was sure that while he occupied his exalted position perfect harmony would prevail. The W.M., in reply, thanked Bro. Kew for his kind expressions, and the hearty response the brethren had given. He hoped, on leaving the chair, that those expressions might be reiterated. (Cheers.) The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Past Masters, regretted these were no more present, but Bros. Kew and Stuart were a host in themselves. They had seen how the former had performed the ceremony that evening; he, as well as Bro. Stuart, whom they all respected, were not only capable but willing to render their valuable services on every occasion. Bro. Kew responded, he was proud to say every Master who had occupied the chair knew his duty, and on leaving the chair their services were always to command. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Officers; no Lodge could have better working Masons to assist in carrying out the duties; many among them were as capable as he, and as perfect in their knowledge of Freemasonry. Bros. Albuquerque and Belfrage returned thanks. The Junior Officers severally responded to the toast, and the Tyler's toast followed. Some very excellent harmony was given by Bros. Milward, Husk, Parsons, and Dickeson. The Visitors were Bros. W. Davis W.M. 382, C. Manns 1107, Bye 141, Carrington 1314, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Lodge of Tranquillity, No. 185.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, 24th April, at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, E.C., Bro. Joseph D. Barnett W.M. in the chair. There were also present Bros. John Peartree S.W. and Treasurer, David Possener J.W., P. Levy Secretary, Geo. Pare S.D., Bailey J.D., Croaker I.G., A. Possener D.C., Sadlier W.S., Beckett Tyler; also Bro. John H. Ross I.P.M., and Past Masters S. Solomon, Holbrook, H. Myers, John Constable, N. Gluckstein, E. Gottheil, and an average number of brethren. The business of the evening included the raising to the third degree Bros. Lowenthal, Upson, and Harris; passing to the second Bro. Staley, and initiating into the ancient mysteries Mr. William Marsden Smith. Two applications for temporary relief having been submitted for consideration, the sums of £3 3s and £1 1s respectively were voted to the distressed applicants. Upon the conclusion of the business the members and visitors adjourned to partake of refreshment, after which the usual toasts were briefly given, and as briefly responded to. Bro. S. Solomon P.M., as President of the Benevolent Fund, in his reply, pointed out the great services the existence of this Fund has enabled the Lodge to render. He would not appeal for contributions on this occasion, the brethren having liberally subscribed at a former meeting, and the newly initiated brother had also given his donation. The fund has now reached a considerable amount, and he was quite sure, should circumstances require it, additional contributions will be readily forthcoming to keep it at its present figure. The W.M. proposed the health of the Past Masters, coupling with it the name of Bro. Ross the I.P.M., who replying, complimented Bro. Barnett on his abilities, and the efficiency with which he conducted the affairs of the Lodge. Bro. Masterman W.M. 452, responding as a visitor, mentioned that his father had been initiated in this Lodge in 1807, of this fact he had not been aware until he perused the History of the Tranquillity Lodge, which has been so ably compiled by Bro. John Constable, and by whose kindness he has the gratification and pleasure to be present to-night. Bro. W. E. Gomperts complimented the W.M. on his working, and Bro. McNiven expressed his satisfaction with the hospitality and enjoyments he had been permitted to partake of and to participate in. The S.W. promised to do his best in any position he may be placed in, and the J.W. assured the brethren that he is trying to qualify himself for the chair, should they in due time be pleased to elect him to that dignified post. The S.D. replied in suitable terms, and the J.D. complained that as a minor officer he ought not to be called upon, and expressed a hope it would not occur again. Very excellent singing by Bros. Child, Bailey, McNivan, Thompson, Constable and Hart contributed to the pleasures of the proceedings. The visitors were Bros. B. S. Masterman P.M. W.M. 452, H. Wellard I.G. 1319, J. Harris late 185, N. Reed I.G. 765 and J.D. 1572, W. Stobrtoker S.W. 1572, W. Thompson 72, D. McNiven 1426, H. A. Hart 1339, W. E. Gomperts P.M. 869, P.P.G.O. Essex.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Wednesday, 26th inst., at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons' Avenue, Basinghall-street, E.C. Present—Bros. Nelson Reed W.M., Abell S.W., Croaker J.W., J. K. Pitt Sec., Hollands S.D., Walker J.D., Triggs Steward, Sayer I.G., Christopher Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. E. Gottheil Preceptor, N. Gluckstein, Bloomfield and Hogard. Visitors—Bros. W. H. Myers P.M. 820, G. Walters S.W. 1598, W. Gibbs 1260, and Abrahams 185. Business—The Lodge was opened and minutes read. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Turner acting as candidate. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, the ceremony of passing was worked, Bro. Staley being candidate. The Lodge was then opened in the third degree; the ceremony of raising rehearsed, with Bro. Fenner as candidate. Bros. Myers, Gibbs and L. Abrahams were admitted joining members. A vote of thanks was proposed by Bro. Turner, seconded by Bro. Hollands, to Bros. Turquand and W. W. Morgan, for assisting to furnish the Lodge with a set of new collars. The Secretary was instructed to forward a letter of condolence to Bro. Maidwell, who lost his wife by an accident which occurred while visiting some friends in Wales. Bro. Abell will preside on Wednesday next. The first drawing of No. 2 Tranquillity and Confidence Life Governorship Association took place after the proceedings of the Lodge were over. Bro. Hogard P.M. 503 drew the successful number.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge meets at Bro. Fysh's, Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, corner of Church-road, Islington, every Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. On Saturday the 29th inst., the Fifteen Sections will be worked by Bro. G. Ward Verry P.M. 554, commencing at 7 o'clock.

Northern Counties Lodge, No. 406.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Monday, the 24th April, being St. George's Day, at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. Present—Bros. Knox W.M., Monday W.M. elect S.W., Halliday J.W., Thos. Armstrong Sec., R. Armstrong S.D., Page J.D., Salmon I.G., Sims Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. Hughes I.P.M., Ridsdell, Cook, Rev. S. H. Harris, &c. Visitors Bros. Cockburn W.M. 24, Spearman W.M. 481, Dean J.W. 541, Rev. E. Cohen 481, &c. Business—An unusually large number of candidates were balloted for, and, with two exceptions, all were declared duly elected. After initiating a candidate into the mysteries of our Order, the W.M. proceeded to instal his successor, Bro. Munday, into the Chair of K.S. in a most able and effective manner. It has become a noteworthy circumstance in the Lodges of this Province that most of the Masters perform the ceremony of installation for their successors, an example that might be advantageously copied. After installation the W.M., Bro. Munday, appointed his officers as follow:—Bros. Halliday S.W., Thos. J. Armstrong J.W., R. L. Armstrong Secretary, J. Page S.D., R. G. Salmon J.D., G. M. Lee S.S., Solomon M. Harris J.S. The brethren then adjourned to a banquet, held at the Tark's Head Hotel, and afterwards the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were ably given by the newly-installed W.M.

United Lodge, No. 697.—The annual festival of this Lodge was celebrated on Friday, 21st April, with great eclat. A large number of brethren assembled in the Lodge room, soon after two o'clock, for the purpose of witnessing the installation of the W.M. elect, Bro. A. R. Clench, who had been re-elected to fill the chair he has so worthily occupied during the past twelve months. The important and impressive ceremony was ably performed by the V.W. Bro. the Rev. Chas. J. Martyn, Past Grand Chaplain of England, and at the conclusion the W.M. appointed and invested the following as his officers:—Bros. T. W. Naylor S.W., W. H. Bateman J.W., Rev T. C. Brettingham Chaplain, T. Eustace P.M. Treas., T. Rix P.M. Sec., Geo. Harvey S.D., C. E. Denton J.D., R. Emsco I.G., H. Everitt and A. Adams Stewards, C. Gunner Tyler. At six o'clock the brethren sat down to a banquet, under the presidency of the W.M., who was supported on his right and left by the R.W. Bro. R. Bolton-Barton, LL.D., P.G.M. Western India, Bros. the Rev. C. J. Martyn P.G.C., John Wright Carr Prov. Grand Secretary, Col. Burney, A. Welch W.M. 51, T. J. Ralling Sec. 51, the Rev. Eustace H. Crate P.M. 697, William Bowler P.M. 51, G. Gard Pye S.W. 51, J. Hills P.M. 1224, H. Welham 1224, G. Grimwood W.M. 1224, Basham Sec. 653, and between 30 and 40 visitors and brethren.

Digitized by Google

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge met at the Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 25th April. Bro. Pinder, W.M. of the Faith Lodge, No. 15, presided. Bro. P.M. Austin S.W., Cambridge J.W., Lovelock I.G., Wallington P.M. Preceptor. Lodge opened in due form, and the fifteen sections were then worked by the following brethren:—1st Lecture—Bro. Smith 1, Wallington 2, Austin 3, P.M. Musto 4, Turquand 5, Austin 6, Horsley 7. 2nd Lecture—Cambridge 1, Horsley 2, Ellis 3, P.M. Howe 4, Lowe 5. 3rd Lecture—Wallington 1, Job 2 Perrin 3. The whole of the working, both of the W.M. and the brethren, was exceedingly good, and the W.M. expressed himself highly gratified at having had the opportunity of presiding on the occasion; that was the first Lodge of Instruction he had joined, now some eight years ago. It was also where he had gained the most of his Masonic knowledge. There was a good muster of the brethren.

Pelham Lodge, No. 939.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Thursday, the 20th of April, at Worksop. Present—Bros. F. Vernon Russell W.M., Wm. Mallender S.W., Edward Baxter Sec., Thos Henderson J.D., John Appleton I.G., Thos. Mallender Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. Hy. Hodgkinson, Hy. Shaw, George Baxter; and Bros. Rev. E. Hawley, King and Hott. Business—The neglect of the Prov. Grand Master in not summoning Prov. Grand Lodge was freely commented on, and the Secretary was ordered to write to Prov. Grand Secretary on the subject, and to request that his letter be forwarded to the proper quarter.

Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017.—This Lodge met on Wednesday, 19th inst., at the Regent Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street, Bros. J. Blum W.M., J. Lazarus P.M. as S.W., Gulliford J.W., E. P. Albert P.M. A.G.P. Sec., L. Salomon J.D., Hochfield I.G., Brull D.C. and P.M.'s J. De Solla, Eskell, Grunebaum, S. Pollitzer, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Gattman was passed to the second degree. The Lodge was then closed, and a capital banquet followed, where the usual toasts were done justice to. Bro. P. Albert A.G.P. returned thanks for the Grand Officers. The toasts of the W.M., P.M. and Officers were given, and the brethren separated. Bro. Dr. Hersiger de Berne 1298, Dr. Louis Eisler (Arbach, Hungary) and Webb 382 were present as visitors.

Urban Lodge, No. 1196.—"Saint John's Gate," Clerkenwell, has long been noted as one of the relics of the London that is past. Garrick there made his début in the Hall which is over the gateway! 'twas in the Coffee Room Dr. Johnson presided over the Urban Club, and 'twas there also that Oliver Goldsmith spent most of his ready cash. With such reminiscences as these it would be impossible for any to enter the "Hostelrie of St. John" without some feeling of awe and respect, and this feeling would be deepened and intensified were they to attend a meeting of the Urban Lodge of Freemasons, which sprung out of that literary club. This Lodge held its last meeting for the present session on Tuesday last, 25th April. Present—Bro. Japheth Tickle W.M. in the chair, supported by Bros. J. Pearson I.P.M., J. Simpson S.W., E. G. Legge J.W., Dr. Carpenter Secretary, Blatchford S.D., Lehmeyer J.D., Heath I.G., Marsh P.M. D.C., Rev. Darly Reade Chaplain, Loverdo W.S., and a good muster of members. There were likewise present as visitors, Bros. Caravoglia, Donald King, Righton, Homer 1426, Watts, Hepburn 902, Hill 140, Strawson 36, Roberts 1426, Pegmore 1333, Wall 65, Kidder 12, Buss, &c., Steedman Tyler. The ballot having been taken for Mr. Thomas Milbourn and Mr. W. T. Buck as candidates, and also for Bro. Butler as a joining member, which proved unanimous, Bro. Marsh P.M., by the courtesy of the W.M., in his usual solemn and impressive manner, raised Bro. Fairchild to the sublime degree of a M.M.; after which the W.M. initiated Messrs. Milbourn and Buck. After the business of the Lodge terminated the brethren adjourned to the banquet hall, where an elegant but substantial repast had been prepared by the host, Bro. Gay.

> "Course followed course, and round the bottle flew, > Laughter and mirth prevailed amongst the crew."

The toast of the Queen and Craft was proposed by the W.M., and drunk with a great degree of loyalty; whilst that of the Grand Master was received with fervour such as is seldom witnessed, and many whispered, as they raised their glasses to their lips, "God give him safe return," and as Brother Lehmeyer, seated at the piano, played "God Bless the Prince of Wales" such a hearty chorus of voices joined in the refrain that showed too plainly to be mistaken how sincere and heartfelt were the wishes for the Prince's welfare. The toast of the "Initiates" over, the W.M., in eloquent terms, proposed the toast of the "Visitors," who, in response, bore testimony to the efficient working of the Lodge, and its hospitality, and heartily wished the W.M. a happy and prosperous year of office. Dr. Carpenter, the secretary, having in his response to the toast of the Past Master's referred to the flourishing state of the finances, Bro. Terry, in a very eloquent speech, pleaded for the Masonic Charities, and urged that the Urban Lodge should give, in its abundance, a sum sufficient to endow their W.M. as a Vice-President of one of the Masonic Institutions. During the evening the brethren were favoured with some very fine songs from Bros. Caravoglia, Donald King and Righton, and Bro. Lehmeyer delighted all his hearers with the exquisite amount of pathos and expression he displayed in his rendering of Thalberg's "Home, Sweet Home." Bro. Fairchild also gave a recitation, "My Pipe," with great dramatic force, which showed he possessed histrionic powers of no mean order. The brethren separated at half-past eleven, having passed a most happy and enjoyable evening.

Chiltern Lodge, No. 1470.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 18th of April, at the Lodge Room, Town Hall, Dunstable. Present—Bros. F. Howell W.M., A. W. Haselgrove S.W., Randall J.W., Saunders Sec., Sinkwell S.D., Warren J.D., Teale I.G., Day Tyler; and Bros. Bullans, Beart, Crew, Monk, &c. Business—After the Lodge had been duly opened and the minutes confirmed, the S.W. gave the charge to Bro. Crew (time not permitting for the night of his initiation); the W.M. then asked the necessary questions, and when the Lodge had been opened in the proper degree, Bro. Crew was duly passed and retired. The Lodge was then opened in the 3rd degree, and Bro. Beart was raised, the ceremony being one of the most perfectly rendered by all those engaged since the formation of the Lodge, and as a consequence the candidate was made fully conscious of its impressive character. The Lodge was duly closed to the first degree, when a joining member was proposed, and arrangements made for a regular subscription to the Masonic Charities, shortly after which the brethren adjourned.

Duncombe Lodge, No. 1486, Kingsbridge.—The installation of the W.M. elect will take place at the King's Arms Hotel, on Monday, 8th May, at one o'clock. It is hoped that the venerable P.G.M. Rev. J. Hayshe will attend, and the Deputy P.G.M. Bro. Metham is likewise expected to be present. A banquet will take place after, tickets for which may be had, and all other particulars of the Secretary, Kingsbridge.

THE DRAMA.

Signor Rossi—The Criterion—The Alhambra.

SIGNOR ROSSI has made his début on the English stage, in the character of Hamlet, and with but indifferent success. It is only fair to him to say that he was suffering at the time from a severe hoarseness, and therefore acted under manifest disadvantage. Nor can this character in the hands of a foreign artist be held as a sufficient test of his capabilities. An English audience is of necessity unconsciously prejudiced in favour of the one particular conception of the character to which it has been accustomed. And when a foreign artiste presents an entirely different conception, assumes, for example, as in the case of Signor Rossi, that Hamlet was in reality mad, and that his pretence of assuming madness was in reality but an eccentric form of madness itself, it is scarcely possible but that an unfavourable impression should be produced. We would hesitate therefore to express any decided opinion of this actor's powers until we have seen him in another character.

The Great Divorce Case, at the Criterion, is a play that should be seen by all who enjoy a hearty laugh. Like the popular Wedding Bells, it is an adaptation from the French, and the merriment which it evokes is of a similar side-splitting character. The piece is very fairly cast, Mr. Wyndham, Mr. J. Clarke, and Mr. Righton taking the principal male rôles, and Miss Harriet Coveney, Miss Bruce, and Miss Vining the principal female.

The Voyage dans la Lune is a new opera-bouffe, from the fertile pen of M. Offenbach, and is now being performed with great success at the ALHAMBRA. The idea was probably suggested by the well-known story of M. Jules Verne, but the plot is altogether different. Mr. J. D. Stoyle and Mr. Paulton sustain the most important characters, infusing into them a large amount of humour and merriment, and they are supported by Miss Rose Bell, Miss Munroe, and Miss Chambers. Of the piece itself we may say, that it contains not a few taking airs, some cheerful choruses, an abundance of humorous dialogue, and that it is mounted with elegance and taste.

CHINESE CARVING.—For Sale, an elaborately carved Set of Ivory Chessmen. The Kings stand 8½ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Knights and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with eccentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 57 Barbican.—Advt.

CLUB HOUSE PLAYING CARDS.—Mogul Quality, picked 1s 8d per pack, 18s per dozen packs. Do. seconds 1s per pack, 11s per dozen packs. If by post 1½d per pack extra. Cards for Piquet, Bézique, Écarté, &c., Mogul Quality 10d per pack, 9s per dozen packs.—London: W. W. Morgan, 57 Barbican, E.C.

Digitized by Google

WRINKLES.

ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE.—At 7.30, THE TAILOR MAKES THE MAN. At 8.15, JO.

GLOBE.—At 7.30, COUSIN CHERRY. At 8.0, MISS GWILT, &c.

VAUDEVILLE.—At 7.30, A WHIRLIGIG. At 8.0, OUR BOYS, and A FEARFUL FOG.

COURT. — At 8.0, A SCRAP OF PAPER, and A QUIET RUBBER.

ST. JAMES'S.—MODEL OF A WIFE, and THE SULTAN OF MOCHA.

ROYALTY.—At 7.30, MARRIED BACHELORS. At 8.15, PDM, &c.

OPERA COMIQUE.—At 7.45, TRIAL BY JURY. At 8.30, MADAME ANGOT.

CRITERION. — At 7.30, THE WALL OF CHINA, and THE GREAT DIVORCE CASE.

ALHAMBRA.—LE VOYAGE DANS LA LUNE, &c.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.—This day, BROCKMANN'S CIRCUS, GRAND EXHIBITION OF LADIES COSTUMES, &c. Open Daily, SKATING RINK, &c.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—This day, PYGMALION AND GALATEA, &c. Open daily, AQUARIUM, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL AQUARIUM SUMMER AND WINTER GARDEN. Open daily. CONCERT, &c.

ROYAL POLYTECHNIC.—MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT, entitled ALICE'S ADVENTURES. Solos on the Violin and Zither. NEW LECTURE: A SUNBEAM, and HOW TO WEIGH IT. HEINKE'S DIVING DRESS and SUBMARINE LAMP. The New Type Writer in operation. FROM ENGLAND TO PHILADELPHIA. A TRIP TO THE SUEZ CANAL. Dissolving Views and Mechanical Effects. MARVELLOUL ILLUSIONS BY M. HORACE DE GREY. Open from 12 till 6, and 7 till 10. Admission to the whole, 1s.

EGYPTIAN (LARGE) HALL.—MASKELYNE AND COOKE, daily at 3.0 and 8.0.

Agents, from whom Copies can al

Messrs. Curtice and Co.,
Mr. T. Driscoll, 87 Farr
Mr. G. W. Jordan, 169 S
Messrs. Marshall and S
Mr. M. J. Parkinson, 11
Mr. H. Simpson, 7 Red L
Messrs. Smith and Sons,
Messrs. Spencer and Co.
Messrs. Steel and Jones,
Mr. G. Vickers, Angel C
Mr. H. Vickers, 317 Str

SCALE OF CHARGES

Advertisers will find The Freem good medium for Advertisements o

Per Page... ... ...

Back Page ... ...

General Advertisements, Trad column, 6s per inch. Doub per line. Special Terms application.

Births, Marriages and Deaths,

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIG

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORT

Attractions of the chief Parisian Establishments, with the quiet and order esse

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class I

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROO

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE.

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.

It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face,
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 6d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

ELECTION 19th May.—Bro. Constable would be pleased to exchange Man's Votes for Widows.

Address, 58 Richmond Road, Barnsbury, N.

MR. THOMAS O. MACROW,

253 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD,
LONDON, S.E.

(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)

BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let quickly and quietly (Town or Country). All parties wishing to sell, call or send full particulars. Registration fee. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 3. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, haemorrhoids, &c. Tamar (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—In 6d per box, post free 8d extra.—E. GRILLON, 34 Coleman-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

ISLINGT

Bro. J. L.

THIS t roast
Crown and Winchester
the perfect working of

The most

YOUN Plate giving imm excrescenc
Chemist them.

Observe none are g

NERV
—A discovered happy to f receipt of

Address —

Digitized by Google

H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF

MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND REGALIA,

5 ST. JOHN SQUARE, LONDON.

PRICE LIST ON APPLICATION.

SPENCER'S MASONIC MANUFACTORY,

OPPOSITE FREEMASONS' HALL.

COSTUME, JEWELS AND FURNITURE FOR ALL DEGREES.

A QUANTITY IN STOCK.

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.

SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

A. D. LOEWENSTARK & SONS,

MASONIC JEWELLERS AND MILITARY MEDALLISTS,

26 GREAT QUEEN STREET, W.C. AND 210 STRAND, W.C.

The Largest Assortment of Past Masters' & Royal Arch Jewels in London.

ALSO JEWELS FOR EVERY DEGREE.

MINIATURE WAR MEDALS & FOREIGN DECORATIONS, WHOLESALE, RETAIL & FOR EXPORTATION.

ESTABLISHED 1844.

ESTABLISHED 1833.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,

MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,

AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING

Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.

MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;

AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.

ESTIMATES GIVEN.

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,

INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (Regstd.)

"Bro. ADLARD'S Jewel Attacher, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price 7s 6d. (if with pockets for Jewels 6d each pocket extra) places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and usefulness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Ladies' Cotton are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,

Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8. No. 97 for MAY, now ready. Sixpence. CHESS, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE DRAMA.

W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

"There should be a better reason for the rate of Depositors than a fluctuating rate of two or three per cent."—EVENING'S GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited), Nos. 41 and 42 Lombard-street, City; and 57 and 58 Regent-street, W. Established 1856. Receives Deposits, the Deposit, 2 per cent. Subject to Notice, 3½ per cent. Opens Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Invites the fullest to examine this safe and improved system, that ensures a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-discounted or re-hypothecated any of the securities. To Borrowers. Bankers are authorised to grant advances on houses, warehouses, packets, trade-stocks, ships, policies, warrants, and furniture, without personal publicity, sureties, or fees. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 41 and 42 Lombard-street, City, and 57 and 58 Regent-street, W. Established 1856. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. The Directors are prepared to receive Shares paying 6 per cent. per annum, and Deposits bearing 4 per cent. per annum. Borrowers are offered unusual facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. Rent and Special Features.—Sums lent by way of Bridging Loans, etc., to any approved parties. Full particulars, including the whole cost of the building, at 5 per cent., repayable by instalments, the applicant merely finding the plot and paying or giving security for the first 3 years' interest. Prospectuses, balance-sheets, and press opinions free. Active Agents wanted. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

THE "SPECIALITE SHERRY."

FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT.—The British Medical Journal.

VALUABLE FOR GOUTY OR URIC ACID TENDENCIES."—Dr. HASSWICKE, Metropolitan Analyst, Coroner for Middlesex.

ADOPTED AND RECOMMENDED BY nearly 3,000 Physicians and Surgeons for its Valuable Dietetic Qualities. 30s per dozen.

FELTOE & SONS, Sole Proprietors and Importers. Chief Establishment, Albemarle-street, London, W.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES. Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE (a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.

This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction.

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

NOW READY.

New Edition, Enlarged, Crown 8vo., Cloth 5s.

WAIFS AND STRAYS, CHIEFLY FROM THE CHESS BOARD, by Captain Hugh A. Kennedy. Vice-President of the British Chess Association.

LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN.

Demy 8vo, Price 7s 6d.

POSITIONS IN THE CHESS OPENINGS MOST FREQUENTLY PLAYED.

Illustrated with copious Diagrams.

By T. LOYD, B.A., T.C.D.,

Being a supplement to the "Key to the Chess Openings," by the same author.

LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN, E.C.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY Limited, 7 Bank Buildings, Lothbury, E.C.

General accidents. | Personal injuries.
Railway accidents. | Death by accident.

C. HARDING, Manager.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

ELECTION 19th MAY.

BRETHREN wishing to Exchange Men's Votes for Widows, please communicate with Bro. CHARLES GODTSCHALK, 107 Devonshire Road, Seven Sisters' Road, London, N., or Mr. J. B. GOVER, 59 Union Street, Plymouth.

DYER'S WATCHES.

Best and Cheapest in the World.

LOWEST Wholesale cash prices. Admirable, 4s 6d; silver, 10s; Silver Levers, 25s; Gold, 35s; Levers, 60s. All kinds of Watches, Clocks, and Gold Jewellery. Every watch timed, tested and warranted for two years. Orders sent per post. Price lists and illustrated circulars free.—DYER & SONS, Watch Manufacturers, 56 Regent Street, London, W., and Chain-de-Fonds.

NEW WORKS ON FREEMASONRY,

BY

Bro. CHALMERS I. PATON,

(Past Master No. 393, England).

FREEMASONRY: ITS SYMBOLISM, RELIGIOUS NATURE, AND LAW OF PERFECTION. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

FREEMASONRY AND ITS JURISPRUDENCE. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

THE ORIGIN OF FREEMASONRY: THE 1717 THEORY EXPLODED. Price 1s.

LONDON: REEVES & TURNER, 196 STRAND AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

ESTIMATES GIVEN FOR EVERY DESCRIPTION OF

PRINTING.

CONTRACTS ENTERED INTO FOR SUPPLYING ALL KINDS OF

STATIONERY.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR

PUBLISHING.

PARTICULARS ON APPLICATION TO

W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN,

LONDON, E.C.

One Door from Aldersgate Street.

MORING,

ENGRAVER, DIE SINKER,

HERALDIC ARTIST,

ILLUMINATED ADDRESSES,

44, HIGH HOLBORN, W.C.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE.

Printed and Published for the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE PUBLISHING COMPANY LIMITED, by Bro. WILLIAM WRAY MORGAN, at 67 Barbican, London, E.C. Saturday, 29th April 1876.

Digitized by Google

W. Harrison
Pilsea Island
Emsworth

THE

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

VOL. III.—No. 71. SATURDAY, 6th MAY 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper

ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF THE FEMALE ORPHAN SCHOOL, DUBLIN.

IN our issue of the 1st ult., we announced that the Annual Festival of this excellent Masonic Charity would be held on the 28th April, in the Exhibition Palace, under the immediate auspices of His Grace the Duke of Abercorn, M.W.G.M. Ireland, who would preside on the occasion, while his daughter, the Lady Georgina Hamilton, had graciously undertaken to present the prizes to the successful pupils. The 28th ultimo was, accordingly, a dies festus in the annals, not only of the Girls' School, and that for Boys' attached to it, but of the whole Craft in Ireland, who evinced their interest in Masonry and this particular form of Masonic Benevolence by supporting their Grand Master in considerable numbers, and with an enthusiasm that was even more considerable still. The Daily Express of Dublin contains a full and most elaborate account of the ceremony, the following summary of which will be as interesting almost to brethren on this as on the other side of the Irish Channel.

On no previous occasion has there been so much interest exhibited on behalf of this School. The doors of the Great Concert Hall were thrown open at half-past seven p.m. In half an hour afterwards every available space was occupied, and even then there remained to be accommodated as many more visitors, who were enabled, however, to promenade in the great Glass Building and Leinster Hall, listening to the strains of the splendid band of the 17th Lancers, under their able conductor, Bro. A. Hartmann, while those in the Concert room had the great pleasure of listening to a series of recitals on the organ, by Bro. C. O. Grandison, G.O. All present were in evening dress, and the scene was one of unexampled brilliancy, by reason of the gay dresses of the ladies and the insignia of the Craftsmen. A platform, covered with crimson cloth, and decorated for the occasion, had been erected in the centre of the hall extending to the orchestra. At half-past eight the Duke of Abercorn arrived, accompanied by the Lady Georgina Hamilton, Lords Ernest and Frederick Hamilton, Mr. Gustavus, Lady Fanny and the Misses Lambart, and Colonel and Mrs. Bernard. At nine o'clock, a procession was formed, for the purpose of conducting the Duke from the Leinster Hall to the Concert Hall, and advanced towards the platform in the following order:—

Stewards.
Grand Steward.
Officers of Country Lodges being Governors.
Officers of Dublin Lodges, according to seniority, the junior first.
Officers of the Grand Master's Lodge.
The Vice-Patrons. Honorary Officers and Committee of the Orphan School.
Provincial Grand Officers.
Past Grand Officers.
Provincial Deputy Grand Masters.
Representatives from Foreign Grand Lodges.
Grand Inner Guard. Grand Organist. Grand Superintendent of Works.
Grand Deacons, with their Wands.
The Grand Chaplains.
The Grand Secretary. The Grand Treasurer.
The Grand Wardens.
Provincial Grand Masters.
The Grand Sword Bearer, carrying the Sword.
The Deputy Grand Secretary, carrying the Book of Constitutions.
The Grand Master.
Deputy Grand Master. Past Deputy Grand Masters.
The Right Hon. the Lord Mayor.
The Grand Director of Ceremonies, with his Wand.
Stewards.

On ascending the platform, the brethren filed off according to Lodges to their appointed places, and the Grand Master having taken his seat on the throne, the pupils of the School, followed by those of the Boys' School, entered and occupied the seats provided for them in front of the platform. The Grand Master having been saluted, two verses of the Hundredth Psalm were sung. Bro. Dr. Elrington, Q.C., the Honorary Secretary, then read the report, from which it appeared that the state of the Institution was prosperous. Its income for the year just concluded was in excess of that of the previous year. Four pupils had left, and nine been admitted, bringing the roll up to forty-five, the greatest number which, consistently with health and comfort, could possibly be accommodated. It further appeared that Bro. Samuel B. Oldham, who had held the office of Assistant Secretary of the School for eighteen years, had, on his acceptance of the Deputy Grand Secretaryship of Grand Lodge, vacated his post, to which Bro. Richard L. Whitty had been appointed. An address would, accordingly, be presented to Bro. Oldham, by the Governors of the Institution, expressing their very high sense of the valuable services he had rendered to the School. The Governors also expressed their satisfaction with the manner in which those entrusted with the conduct of the establishment had fulfilled their duties, and concluded by hoping that the difficulties arising from a proper want of accommodation in the School houses, would be remedied at an early date. The Duke of Abercorn then rose, and after the applause with which he was greeted had subsided, said a few words of congratulation at the state of the School, and the ability and good conduct of the pupils. His Grace added:—

"Of all the enormous and important benefits which the brotherhood of Freemasonry has conferred upon mankind there is none more useful or more interesting than that by which it is enabled to support the orphans of its members, and to give them an education and a teaching which shall show them those high social and moral duties of which Freemasonry is the earnest and incessant exponent. Ladies and brethren, on behalf of those children who have already benefited by this Institution, and on behalf of those who, we hope, in future will have the advantage of benefiting by it, I thank you for your presence here to-night, and for the interest you have shown in the objects of the institution." (Applause.)

Bro. the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor then rose, and with a few appropriate remarks proposed the following resolution:—

"That the report now read be adopted, printed, and circulated, and that the thanks of this meeting are due to the members of the several committees of the institution, and also to the medical officers of the school, for the zealous and efficient manner in which they have discharged the duties devolving upon them, and for the lively interest they take in everything conducive to the prosperity and progress of the pupils of the Masonic Female Orphan School."

This was seconded by Bro. the Right Hon. the Vice-Chancellor, and adopted with acclamation. The following selection of pianoforte music was then played by sundry of the girls:—Duet, A. M. Copeland, P. Stagg, "Grand Caprice Hongrois," Kotterer; solo, G. Harte, "Les Couriers," Ritter; solo, G. Gill, "Pasquinade," Gottschalg; duet, K. Baker and M. Burdge, "Chanson Napolitane," Forbes; solo, Miss Williams (pupil teacher), "Fantasia, Irish Airs," Thalberg.

Then the National Anthem having been sung, the solo parts being admirably rendered, the procession was reformed and the Grand Master conducted to the dais in the Glass Building, where the prizes were distributed by the Lady Georgina Hamilton, as under:—

Digitized by Google

Girls.

Pfennell Prize, value £7	Not yet awarded.
Special Certificate (superior answering)...	Anna Copeland.
Astley Prizes { 1st £2 / 2nd £1	{ Anna Copeland. / Emily Christian.
Good Conduct Medals, awarded by the Pupils themselves	{ Silver, Emily Christian. / Bronze, Char. A. M. Burdge.

Third Class.—Henrietta Little, good conduct. Mary Orr, third geography. Edith Ankstell, first grammar, writing and work; and second history. Agnes Owen, first arithmetic. Kate Savers, first history and spelling. Henrietta M'Nally, first geography; second arithmetic; third grammar, spelling and reading. Emily Fraser first reading and work; second spelling. Emily Wigmore, second grammar and writing; third history. Sophie Fenton, first history and arithmetic; second reading and writing; third geography. Annie Christian, first music (practice); second geography and reading; third needlework. Susan Groom, first arithmetic and reading. Laura Bradburne, second work.

Second Class—Gertrude Malone, first music (3rd class). Annie Orr, first mental arithmetic, second music. Louisa M'Mullen, second mental arithmetic; third spelling. Jane Crymble, second needlework; third drawing. Helen Perry, first music (theory); second practice (4th class). Kate Lowry, second music (3rd class). Frances Smith, first arithmetic, reading, recitation, French and drawing; second grammar and spelling; third history and writing. Lily Bradshaw, first mental arithmetic; second drawing and reading; third writing and grammar. Emma Hendley, first history, grammar, spelling, recitation, music (practice), and drawing; second geography and reading. Sophie O'Reilly, first geography and music (theory); second history, arithmetic, and writing; third mental arithmetic Christabella Knight, first writing and music (theory); second, drawing; third spelling. Charlotte Burdge, first history, drawing and good conduct; second recitation and music (practice); third geography and arithmetic.

First Class—Mary Armstrong, first writing and work; third mental arithmetic. Frances Baker, first reading and good conduct. Fanny Shields, first music (theory) (2nd class); second Roman history, recitation and French; third grammar, geography, arithmetic, writing and drawing. Phœbe Shegog, first Roman history, reading, recitation and drawing; second Grecian history; third French. Gertrude Gill, second history, grammar, geography, music (theory), and needlework; third spelling. Emily Christian, second spelling, recitation, French and needlework; third reading and writing. Grace Harte, first music (practice) and needlework; second history, arithmetic, mental arithmetical and drawing. Anna Copeland, first Grecian and English history, grammar, geography, arithmetic, mental arithmetic, spelling, recitation, French and music (theory); second reading, writing and Roman history. Special, first drawing.

Boys.

Second Class—Edward B. Atkins, first Latin. Edward L. Coleman, first arithmetic, Robert G. Warren, first geography and grammar. Robert C. Burton, first history, geography, and Scripture. Julian H. Verden, first arithmetic. Latin, and dictation.

First Class.—Alexander Semple, first history, arithmetic, Euclid, algebra, and Scripture. Frederick S. Clayton, first Greek, dictation, and geography. Edward Sheilds, first geography and Latin. George A DuNoyer, first Scripture. Despard S. Humphreys, first Scripture. James A. Fraser, first dictation, Latin, and Greek (2nd class).

The medals follow :—

Second Class.—James A. Fraser, bronze for classics. Robert C. Burton, bronze for English.

First Class.—Alexander Semple, silver for both English and mathematics.

The Oldham Good Conduct Medals, awarded by the pupils themselves, were won by Edward Sheilds, in 1st class, and Crosbie Harvey in 2nd class.

An address to Bro. Samuel B. Oldham, from the Committee of the Boys' School, was then read by Bro. George Hill Major, and a similar address from the Committee of the Girls' School, by Dr. J. F. Elrington. An address from the pupils of the latter was also presented.

Bro. Shekleton having tendered the thanks of the meeting to the Duke of Abercorn for his presence, and the latter having acknowledged the compliment, the proceedings came to an end, but a large number of the visitors tarried to enjoy the promenade and the performances of the band of the Lancers.

The arrangements were ably carried out, the following brethren acting as Stewards, namely :—

Bros. George Bell, Dr. G. Beatty, Isaac Cole, John D. Elliott, Thomas Fitzgerald, Henry E. Flavelle, Charles Foot, Robert Furlong, John F. Goodman, George Grice, Walter Gyles, George Harvey, George Henderson, John V. Lemon, Isaac Molloy, Fletcher Moore, Wm. Peebles, John P. Ryan, J. H. Woodworth, J. J. L. Robinson, William Roper, Robert W. Symmes, W. T. Welland, George Westby, James H. North, and Dr. Bennett.

To give a list of all present would occupy too much space, but the following Grand Officers and representatives from Foreign Grand Lodges assisted on this interesting occasion :—

R.W. Robert William Shakleton, D.G.M.; R.W. Lord Dunboyne, I.G.W.; R.W. Arthur Bushe, G.T.; R.W. the Rev. John James Macauley, and R.W. Lord Plunket, G.C.'s; W. Alderman Joseph Manning, J.G.D.; W. George A. Stephens, G.S.W.; W. Theophilus E. St. George, G.D.C.; W. George Mowers, LL.D., G.S.; W. Harry Hodges, G.S.B.; W. Charles Ogilvie Grandison, G.O.; W. Humphrey Minchin, M.B., G.I.G.; W. Samuel B. Oldham, D.G.S. and T.; Bro. Archibald St. George, A.S.; Bro. Samuel G. Downes, G.T.; Bro. Edward Batchelor, A.G.T.

Representatives.—From the G.L. of Hamburgh, R.W. J. Faviere Elrington, LL.D., Q.C.; from the G.L. of Prussia (Three Globes), G.L. of Prussia (the Countries), and the G.L. of Prussia (R.Y.F.), R.W. Philip C. Smyly, M.D.; from the G.L. of Spain, R.W. Major A. Vesey Davoren; from the G.L. of Louisiana, R.W. Lucius H. Deering; from the G. L. of Virginia, R.W. Edward H. Kinahan, J.P.; from the G.L. of Tennessee, R.W. Thomas Brunker; from the G.L. of Alabama, R.W. Captain George Huband, J.P.; from the G.L. of Nova Scotia, R.W Charles C. Macnamara; from the G.L. Lusitano Unido, Portugal, R.W. John H. Goddard; from the G.L. of Quebec, R.W. George Hill Major.

PAPAL INTOLERANCE OF MASONIC CHARITY.

WE are indebted to the columns of Le Monde Maçonnique for the following evidence of the strict obedience which Roman Catholic priests render to the precepts of that holy religion of which they are professedly the ministers.

An aged Freemason, whose house had been swept away, and whose wife was drowned by the inundation of the Garonne, succeeded in saving himself, but in a condition, both mental and physical, worthy of the deepest commiseration. The Lodge of which he had been a member, having contributed its mite to the general subscription, charged two of its members to inquire specially into the condition of their brother, and render him assistance. Having accomplished their purpose, the Committee of Inquiry addressed the following letter to their unfortunate fellow-Mason :—

"Very dear Brother,—The terrible disaster which has plunged you and your family into mourning and desolation has been deeply felt by our Lodge, which has not forgotten that you were made a Mason within the precincts of its Temple. Bro. B. and I are charged with the sad mission of interpreting to you the deep feeling of sympathy which animates the brethren of our Orient, under the irreparable misfortune which has just befallen you.

"Is there any need to remind you that, among the virtues whose cultivation is enjoined on all our members, there shine in the very front rank of all: Hope, that soft illusion of the heart, which softens our bitterest regrets by carrying us beyond that tomb where rest those beings who are dear to us; Resignation, to preserve us from despair, and to enable us to bear with fortitude the rudest shocks of adversity; Self-denial, that superhuman virtue, which makes us love the sacrifice, even of life itself, in order that we may fly to the aid of a brother in peril: Fraternity, which far from being a meaningless word in our mouths, is as it were the life-giving torch of our heart, the indissoluble bond which unites all Masons spread over the surface of the earth.

"You are not ignorant that what the world calls liberalities, are not considered among us either as a matter for ostentation by him who gives, or as a subject of humiliation by him who receives. All of us have a duty to perform towards our fellows, and each has a right to some slight aid from others.

"At our last meeting we made a collection on behalf of a brother, who was a sufferer by the inundation, and we hasten to address to you the proceeds in bank-notes. Our regret is that, having regard to the greatness of your calamity, the amount is so small."

Five days afterwards, one of those who signed the foregoing letter, received a packet, containing the letter, the bank-notes, and a letter unsigned, to the following effect :—

"The state of M. X. has been very serious these few days, and has not permitted him to take earlier notice of your letter. He thanks you for your sympathies and your kind intentions towards him; but as he is not a member of your society, he cannot, under any circumstances, accept the aid you have so kindly proffered."

"This would seem improbable in the highest degree," says M. Caubet, the writer, "if we could not trace in it the intervention of certain admirers of the Syllabus, bigoted preachers of a war of extermination against Freemasonry, who had surrounded the unfortunate our brethren would have succoured, and who succeeded in enacting so pitiable a deceit in his name."

In the face of such facts comment is superfluous. May it never be the fate of England, or any other enlightened country, where Masonry doth flourish, to pass under the yoke of this contemptible Ultramontane priesthood! A righteous Roman Catholic Priest would never thus have disgraced his holy calling, but an Ultramontane bigot will stand at nothing, if only he can help forward the base ends of his sect.

Digitized by Google

BRISCOE'S MS.—PRINTED A.D. 1724-5.

EARLY last century there were several transcripts of old MSS. published, notably those of Cole, 1720, and Mrs. Dobb, 1738. The version of Cole's has since been reprinted 1731, 1754, &c., and of late years a facsimile edition was issued by Bro. Hughan in 1869, copies of which are now rarely met with, and command quite fabulous prices. Bro. Spencer in 1871 published a splendid series of the "Old Constitutions," including Cole's MS. of 1726 (circa). Copies of these excellent and useful reprints may still be had.

Mrs. Dodd's MS. of 1738 is now being reprinted for the first time in the Masonic Review of Cincinnati, and in order that we may keep pace with the times, and prove a fit Chronicle of Freemasonry, its History, Bibliography, &c., we have decided to reprint Briscoe's MS. of A.D. 1724, verbatim et literatim.

The oldest printed transcript of a Masonic MS. was Roberts's of 1722, reprinted in Bro. Spencer's "Old Constitutions," and the next in point of priority of publication is Briscoe's.

The Masonic student should consult Bro. Hughan's "Old Charges of British Freemasons," which is the only work that fully treats of this important subject, and brethren wishing just a glance at the question will do well to re-peruse the communication from Bro. Hughan, which appeared in our issue of the 25th March last.*

The following bibliographical notes will doubtless prove interesting to our readers. The pamphlet, now reproduced, is in octavo, and of 47 pages. The short title is The Secret History of the Freemasons Discovered, &c. (on the wrapper). The inner title is a long one, and purports to be an Accidental Discovery of the Ceremonies made use of in the several Lodges, upon the admittance of a Brother as a Free and Accepted Mason, &c., London, printed for Sam. Briscoe at the Bell Savage, on Ludgate Hill, &c., &c. No date, but of the year 1724. The preface consists of IV. pages, and is of an amusing and partly absurd character. Then follows the MS. proper, said to be "of near 300 years Translation into the English," the original of which has not for certainty been traced. After the MS. are "Observations and Critical Remarks on the new Constitutions of the Freemasons, written by James Anderson, A.M., &c.," and the Finale is "A Short Dictionary explaining the Private Signs or Signals used among the Freemasons." The MS. has never been printed this century.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONS NOW MIRACULOUSLY DISCOVERED.

The Might of the Father of Heaven, with the Wisdom of His Glorious Son, through the Goodness of the Holy Ghost, which be Three Persons in one Godhead, be with us at our Beginning, and give us Grace so to govern us in our Living, that we may come to the Bliss that never shall have ending.

Good Brethren and Fellows, our purpose is to let you know how, and in what manner this Craft of Masonry was begun; and afterwards how it was Founded by Worthy Kings and Princes, and many other Worthy Men: And also to them that be here we will declare the Charge that doth belong to every True Mason to keep; for in good Faith, if you take heed thereunto, it is well kept for a worthy Craft and curious Science; for there be Seven Liberal Sciences, of which Grammar, Rhetorick, Logick, Arithmetick, Geometry, Musick, and Astronomy.

Grammar teacheth a Man to Speak and Write truly.

Rhetorick, teacheth a Man to Speak Fair and in Subtile Terms.

Logick, teacheth to discern Truth from Falshood.

Arithmetick, teacheth to Reckon and Count all manner of Numbers.

Geometry, teacheth to Mete and Measure the Earth, and the Things of the same, which Science is Masonry.

Musick, that teacheth the Voice, as Harp and Organ.

Astronomy, teacheth to know the Course of the Sun and Moon, and other Ornaments of the Heavens.

The Seven Liberal Sciences are all but One Science, that is to say, Geometry.

Thus a Man may prove that all the Sciences in the World be found in Geometry; for it teacheth Mete Measure, Ponderation, and Weight of all Kinds of Earth, and there is no Man worketh by any Craft, but he worketh by some Measure; and no Man Buyeth and Selleth but by Measure and Weight; and all Geometricians, Craftsmen, and Merchants, find out the Seven Sciences, especially Plough Men, and Tillers of all manner of Grain, both Corn, Seeds, Vines, Plants, Tillers of all other Fruits; for neither Grammar nor Astronomy, or any of all These can find a Man to Measure, or Mete, without Geometry, wherefore I think that Science most worthy.

That findeth how this Worthy Science was first found out: I shall tell you, before Noah's flood there was a man called Lamech, as it is Written in the fourth chapter of Genesis; and Lamech had two Wives, the one Wife was called Adah, and the other Zillah; and by the first Wife Adah he begat Two Sons, the one was called Jabal, and the other Jubal; and by the other Wife he had One Son and One Daughter, and these Four Children found out the Beginning of all Crafts in the World.

This Jabal was the Oldest Son, and he found out the Craft of Geometry, and he parted Flocks, Sheep, and Lambs in the Fields; and he First Wrought House of Stone, &c., there as it is noted in the Chapter aforesaid, &c., his Brother Jubal found Musick of Harp and Organ; and the 3rd Brother, Tubal, found the Smith's Craft, as of Iron and Steel; and their Sister found out Weaving, Spinning, and Knitting; And these Children did know that God would take Vengeance for Sin, either by Fire or Water, therefore they wrote the Sciences, what they found, in Two Pillars of Stone, that they might be found after the Flood: That one Stone was called Marble, and that cannot burn with Fire; The other called Lateres, that cannot drown with Water: Our Intent is to let you know truly and in what manner these Stones were found that these Crafts were written on.

This Greek Hermen is he that was Son unto Cus, and was Son unto Sem, the which was Son unto Noah; the same Hermen was after called Hermes, the Father of the Wise Men, and he found out the Two Pillars of Stone, the Sciences written therein, and taught them hereinforth as the making of the Tower of Babylon: There was the Craft of Masonry first found, and made much of. And the King of Babylon that was called Nembroth, or Nembroth, was a Mason, and loved well the Craft, as it is said by the Masters of the Stories: And when the Cities of East Asia should be made, Nembroth the King of Babylon, sent thither sixty Masons at the Desire of the King of Nineveth, his Cousin: And they went forth, and he gave them Charges after this Manner, That they should be True, and Love Truly together; and that they should serve their Lord Truly for their Payment, so that he might have Worship for sending of them to him: And other Charges he gave them, and this was the first Time that any Mason had any Charge of his Craft. Moreover, when Abraham and Sarah his wife went into Egypt they were taught the Seven Sciences unto the Egyptians, and had a worthy scholar call'd Euclid, and he learned right well, and was Master of all the Seven Sciences: And in his Days it befel, that the Lords and States of the Realm had so many Sons, which they had begot, some by their Wives and some by their Ladies of the Realm, for that Land is a Holy Land, and a plentious Generation, and they had no Living competent for their Children: Wherefore they made much Sorrow, and the King made a great Counsel, and a great Parliament, to know how they might find their Children, and they could find no good Ways; and he caused a Cry to be made throughout the Realm, if there were any Man that would Inform him, that he should be well Rewarded and hold him well paid.

After this cry was made came this Worthy Clerk Euclid, and said unto the King, and all his Great Lords, If you will take us, your Children to Govern, and Teach them Honestly, let it be under Condition you will Grant them and me a Commission that I may have Power to Rule them Honestly, as the Science ought to be Ruled. And the King and his Council granted them a Vow, and sealed that Commission, and then that Doctor took to him the Lords Sons, and taught the Worthy Science of Geometry, Practice to work Mysteries of all Manner of Works that belong to Building of Castles, all Manner of Courts and Temples, and Churches, with all other Building: And he gave them Charge on this Manner; first they should be True to the King and to the Lord that they served, and that they shou'd Love well together, and be True to one another; and that they should call one another Fellows, and not Servants, nor his Knave, nor any foul Names; and that they shou'd truly deserve their Payment to the Lord that they serve; and that they should Ordain the Wisest to be the Masters of the Work, whereby he should not be evil served, and they ashamed; and that they should call him the Governour of the Work whilst they worked with him; and many other Charges which are too long to tell; and to all these Charges he made them swear the Great Oath that Men used to swear at that Time, and ordained for them reasonable Payment, that they might live by it Honestly; and also that they should come and Assemble there together, that they might have Counsel in their Craft how they might work best to serve their Lord for their Profit and Worship, and to correct themselves if they have trespassed; thus the Craft of Geometry was governed there, and the worthy Master called it Geometry, and it is called Masonry in this Land.

Since I me after the Children of Israel were come into the Land of Behel, now called amongst us the country of Hierusalem, the holy City, that is with them, Templum Dei; and the same King David loved Masons well, and cherished them, and gave them good Payment; and he gave them Charges that afterwards, and after the Decease of King David, Solomon his Son performed out the Temple that his father had begun; and he sent after for Masons out of divers Lan is and gathered them together.

So that he had Eighty Thousand of them, and they were named Masons, and he had Three Thousand that were ordained to be Masters and Governours of that work.

And there was a King of another Nation that was called Hyrom, and he loved well King Solomon, and gave him Timber for his Work; he had a son was called Aynon, and he was Master of Geometry, and he was chief Master of all the Masons, and Masters of all his graveing Work, and all other of Masonry that belongeth to the Temple, and this witnesseth the Bible, in the 5th Book of Kings, and elsewhere.

And this same Solomon confirmed both Charges and Manners that his Father h d given to Masonry confirmed in the country of Hierusalem, and in many other Kingdoms, glorious Craftsmen walking abroad into divers Countries, some because of learning more Craft, and others to teach them more Craft.

And so it befel that ja curious Mason that was named Naimus

* The asterisks in the first portion of Bro. Hughan's Article on "Old Charges of British Freemasons" were inserted in error.

Digitized by Google

Graccus, that had been at the making of Solomon's Temple, and came into France, and he taught the Craft of Masonry to a man of France, that was named Charles Martill, and he loved well his Craft, and drew to him this Nainus Graccus aforesaid, and learned of him Charges and Manners.

And afterwards, by the Grace of God, he was elected to be King of France; and when he was in his Estate, he took to him many Masons and made Masons there that were none, and set them on Work, and gave them both Charges and Manners, and good Payment as he had learned of other Masons, and confirmed their Charter from year to year to hold their Assembly; and thus came the Craft into France.

And England all this season stood void, as for any Charge of Masonry, until the Time of St. Albon, and in his Time the King of England, that was a Pagan, he walled the Town Wall, which is now called St. Albons.

And so in St. Albon's Time, a worthy Knight was Steward to the King, and had Government of the Realm, and also of the making of the Town Walls, and he loved well Masons and cherished them.

And he made their Payment right good standing Wages as the Realm did require, for he gave them every Week three Shillings Sixpence to their double Wages: Before that time throughout all the Land a Mason took but a Penny a Day, and next to that time St. Albon mended it, and got them a Charter of the King, and his Council gave it the Name of Assembly, and thereat he was himself, and Masons, and gave them Charges as you shall hear afterwards right.

After the Death of St. Albon there came Wars into England, throught divers Commotions, so that the good Rule of Masons was quite destroy'd until the Time of King Athelston, that was a worthy King in England.

And he built many other Buildings, and loved Masons very well, and he had a son that was called Hedvick, and he loved Masons much more than his Father, and he was full of Practice in Geometry; wherefore he drew himself to commune with Masons, and he learned of their Craft, and he was made a Mason himself, and got of his Father the King, a Charter and Commission to hold every Assembly; where they themselves were punished for Trespasses, if committed or done within the Craft, and he held himself an Assembly at York, and there he made Masons and gave them charges and taught them the Manners of Masons.

And commanded that Rule to be holden ever after, and to them took the Charter and Commission, to keep and ordain that it should be ruled from Time to Time,

When this Assembly was gathered together, he made a cry that all Masons both old and young, that had any Writing or Understanding of the Craft, and Charges that were made before, either in the Land or any other Land, that they should show them forth, and there were found some in French, some in Greek, some in English, and some in other languages.

And the intent thereof was found, and he commanded a Book to be made how the Craft was first made and found, and commanded that it should be read and tould when any Mason should be made, and to give him Charges.

And from that, until this time, Masons have been kept in that Sort and Order, as well as the men might govern it, and furthermore at divers Assemblies have been put to, and added certain Charges more, by the best advice of Masters and Fellows.

Here followeth the Worthy and Godly Oath of Masons.

Every One that is a Mason, take heed to his Charge; if you find yourselves guilty of any of these that you may amend you again; and especially you that are to be charged, take heed that you keep this Charge, for it is a great Peril to forswear himself on a Book.

1. You shall be a True Man to God, and to the Holy Church; and that you use no Error, nor Heresy by your Understanding, or by the teaching of Men.

2. You shall bear true Agument to the King, without Treason or Falshood.

3. And that you know no Treason, but may amend it, if you may; or else warn the King, or his lawful Successors, or their Council thereof.

4. You shall be True one to another; that is to say, every Master and Fellow of the Charge of Masonry, that to be Masons alowed, that you do to them that you would they should do to you.

5. And also Masons keep True Council of Lodge, and Chamber, and all other that ought to be kept by the way of Masonry.

6. And also that no Mason shall be Chief, neither in Company, as far forth as he shall, or may know.

7. You shall be true to the Lord, and Master, you serve; and truly to be for his Profit and Advantage.

8. And also that you do no Villany in that House whereby the Craft be slandered.

These be Charges in General, that every Mason, both Master and Fellow, should keep.

Now I will rehearse other Charges in particular for Masters and Fellows.

1. That no Master shall take upon him any Lord's Work, nor any other work but that he know himself able of coming to perform the same, so that the Craft have no Diswarship, but that the Lord may be well served and truly.

2. And also that no Master take no work but that he take it reasonably; so that the Lord may be well served, which is one good and the Master to live Honestly by it, and so pay his Fellows truly their Pay, as the Craft doth require.

3. And also that no Master, nor Fellow, shall supplant others of their Work, that is to say, if they have taken a Work, and standeth Master of the Lord's Work, you shall not put him out if he be able of coming to End the Work.

4. And also that no Master, nor Fellow, or Apprentice, be allowed as an Apprentice of Seven Years; but the Apprentice to be able of Birth and Life, as he ought to be.

5. And also that no Master, nor Fellow, take Allowance to make Masons without the Assent of his Fellows, at the least Five or Six; and he that shall be made Mason be able over all Syers, that is to say, that he be Freeborn, and of a good Kindred, and no Bond-Man; and that have his right Limbs as a Man ought to have.

6. And also that every Mason shall give no Pay to his Fellows, but as he may deserve; so that he may not be deceived by false Workmen.

7. And also that no Master shall put Lords Work to Task, that used to go to Journey-Work.

8. And also that no Fellow slander falsly another beyond his back, to make him loose his good Name, or world-Goods.

9. And also that no Fellow within the Lodge, nor without, answer another Ungodly without reasonable cause.

10. And also that every Mason shall prefer his Fellow, and put him to Worship.

11. And that no Mason shall play at Hazzard, nor any other Game whereby they may be slandered.

12. And also that no Mason shall be a common Ribbald in Letchery, to make the Craft to be slandered.

13. And also that no Fellow go to a Town where there is a Lodge of Fellows, without a Fellow to bear him Company, and witness that he was in honest Company.

14. And also that every Master and Fellow come to the Assembly, if it be within Fifty Miles about him, if he have any Warning, or to stand to the award of Masters and Fellows.

15. And also that every Master and Fellow, if they have Trespassed, shall stand to the award of Masters to make them accord if they may; and if they may not accord, to go to the Common Law.

16. And also that no Mason Mould, Square, and Rule, to any rough Hewer.

17. And also that no Mason within the Lodge, or without the Lodge, to have any Mould of his own making.

18. And also that every Mason shall Receive and Cherish strange Fellows, when they come over the Country, and set them at Work as the Manner is; that is to say, if they have any Work and Stone in Place be shall set them at Work a Fourth Night at least, and give him his Wages; and if there be no Stone in Place, he shall give him Money to carry him to the next Lodge.

19. And also he shall, and every Mason shall truly serve his Work, and make an End of his Work, be it Task or Journey-Work, if they may have pay as they ought to have.

So these are that we have Rehearsed, and all other you shall keep. So help you God and Holy-Dome, and by this Book, to the utmost of your Power.

FINIS.

SUPREME GRAND CHAPTER OF ROYAL ARCH MASONS OF ENGLAND.

The Quarterly Convocation of this grand body was held on Wednesday last, 3rd instant, at Freemason's Hall. The business on the agenda paper having been disposed of, the report was adopted, and the prayers of petitions for Chapters to be attached to the Hamer Lodge 1393, Gosport 903, Zetland 1071, Era 1423, and Lewis 1185 were granted. The following is a list of the Grand Officers for the present year:—

Grand Z.	...	H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.
Pro Grand Z.	...	Rt. Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon.
Grand H.	...	Lord Skelmersdale
Grand J.	...	Lord De Tabley
Grand E.	...	John Hervey.
Grand N.	...	Earl of Donoughmore.
Prin. Sojr.	...	The Hon. William Warren Vernon.
1st Assist. Sojr.		The Revd. Spencer Robert Wigram.
2nd Assist. Sojr.		Lieutenant Col. Thomas Birchall.
Treasurer	...	Samuel Tomkins.
Registrar	...	Æneas J. McIntyre Q.C.
Sword Bearer	...	T. W. Boord M.P.
Standard Bearer		E. J. Harrow.
D.C.	...	John M. Case.
Janitor	...	C. B. Payne.

The New Committee of Grand Chapter was nominated as follows:—

E. Comp.	...	Lt. Col. J. Creaton, President.
"	...	Benjamin Head.
"	...	Robert Grey.
"	...	J. Lewis Thomas, P.Z. ...	No. 13
"	...	Joseph Smith, P.Z. ...	19
"	...	John Boyd	145
"	...	Frederick Adlard	214
"	...	Henry C. Levander ...	720
"	...	William Stephens	1365

Among those present were the Earl of Donoughmore, Major Marmaduke Ramsay, A. A. Bagshaw, John Constable, C. Coupland, Dr. Woodman, F. Driver, H. Clarke, F. Adlard, &c. &c.

Digitized by Google

CONSECRATION OF THE SIR HUGH MYDDELTON LODGE, No. 1602.

A WARRANT having been granted by the M.W. the Grand Master for the formation of a new Lodge, for which a numerously signed application, supported by four Lodges in the vicinity, had been sent in, a more appropriate title could not have been chosen than the above. Sir Hugh Myddelton was not a Mason, yet not only the residents of Islington, but all classes, are familiar with his history as projector of the New River Company. Bro. J. Hervey, our respected Grand Secretary, was the Consecrating Officer, and a numerous and influential body of Masons—including many Grand Officers—assembled at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, on Saturday, the 29th ultimo. Greetings from brethren from various parts were also given, and there was nothing in the gathering from first to last but hearty expressions for success to the Lodge, which bids fair, not only to have a large number of members, but also to have on its roll the names of brethren who have shed lustre on the Order.

The brethren having assembled, a procession was formed, under the direction of Bro. C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P., which escorted the Consecrating Officer, the Grand Officers and the brethren. Bro. J. Hervey G.S. occupied the chair, Bro. A. J. D. Filer P.G.S.B. as S.W., Dr. Woodman P.G.S.B. as J.W., Bro. Rev. J. R. Simpson P.G.C. as Chaplain, assisted by Bros. T. Cubitt P.G.P., and T. Bass P.M. 27, P.G. Treasurer Middlesex, C. B. Payne G. Tyler, &c.; Bro. E. Somers being the W.M. designate, E. G. Sim 65 S.W. designate, T. J. Coombs 463 J.W. designate. The brethren having taken their places, the Lodge was opened. Bro. John Hervey then addressed the brethren, and his remarks applied to the general tenets of our Order, and the subjects he dwelt on, if carried out, would tend indeed to realise what Freemasonry should be. The Rev. J. R. Simpson then gave the Consecrating prayer, Bro. Osborn read the petition and warrant, empowering the brethren to meet on the 4th Friday in the month, at the Agricultural Hall. The approval of the brethren, as to the officers named in the petition and warrant, was given. Bro. J. R. Simpson P.G.C. then gave a very eloquent and impromptu address, which was listened to with great attention, and admiration at the soundness of the arguments used in connection with the name of the founder, and his general remarks as to the nature of their duties as men and Masons. The following Hymn was then sung:—

"Oh! praise our God to-day,
His constant mercy bless;
Whose love hath helped us on our way,
And granted us success.

Lord, may it be our choice
This blessed rule to keep;
Rejoice with them that do rejoice,
And weep with them that weep.

God of the widow, hear;
Our work of mercy bless;
God of the fatherless, be near,
And grant us great success."

The Lodge board was then uncovered, and the consecrating officer proceeded with the ceremony. The following psalms being sung, namely:—

"Oh! Lord, how joyful 'tis to see
The brethren join in love to Thee, &c."

"Guide me, O Thou great Jehovah,
Pilgrim through this barren land;
I am weak, but Thou art mighty,
Hold me with Thy powerful hand:
Bread of Heaven,
Feed me till I want no more.

Open Thou the crystal fountain,
Whence the healing streams do flow;
Let the fiery cloudy pillar
Guide me all my journey through:
Strong Deliverer,
Be Thou still my strength and shield."

The Lodge having been dedicated and constituted, Brother C. A. Cottebrune, P.G.P. D.C. presented Bro. Elias Somers to the Lodge. A board of Installed Masters, numbering thirty-four, was formed, and he was duly installed into the chair by Bro. John Hervey, in his usual perfect and impressive manner. The W.M. having been saluted, then invested his officers:—Bro. E. G. Sim S.W., J. J. Coombs J.W., J. Weston Treas., J. Osborn Sec., A. Rowley S.D., F. Ellar J.D., J. G. Glover I.G., W. Norris D.C., J. D. Taylor P.M. 1365, and W. P. Poulton Stewards, H. De Solla Organist, W. Steedman Tyler. Bro. Sim proposed, and Bro. J. J. Coombs seconded, that Bros. J. Hervey, Rev. J. R. Simpson P.G.C., Dr. Woodman P.G.S.B., and C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. be elected honorary members, which was carried unanimously. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 54 in number, sat down to a sumptuous and recherché banquet and dessert, provided by Bro. F. Sawyer (of the Crystal Palace), and superintended by Bro. Sawyer jun. The tables were beautifully decorated with choice flowers, in artistically designed vases, button holes were provided, and the tickets and menu were really works of art, with appropriate quotations from Shakespeare. The viands, wines and dessert, and the general catering gave great satisfaction. Banners, with the Coat of Arms of Sir Hugh Myddelton, were suspended over the Master's chair. After grace had been sung, the toast of Her Majesty the Queen, and the Craft, was given, and the National Anthem followed. The toast of the M.W.G.M. was then given, "God Bless the Prince of Wales" being sung. The next toast was that of the Pro Grand Master, after which Brother H. De Solla sang "Sally in our Alley." In proposing the toast of the Deputy Grand Master, the W.M. said he was proud to be supported by so many Grand Officers. The conduct of the members to-day must be considered as an earnest of their desire to do as they had commenced, and he hoped to have Freemasonry carried out to their satisfaction. He would couple with the toast the name of Bro. Rev. J. R. Simpson, P.G. Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of England. The Glee, "The Winds Whistled Cold," was then sung, after which Rev. J. R. Simpson suitably replied. Bro. J. Hervey then rose and said, To-day we have had the pleasure of inaugurating a new Lodge, and a new link has been added to our chain, which is long, and is getting stronger. I am personally sure this link has done me no discredit, and is a good connecting one for the future. I now propose your Worshipful Master; I am sure the brethren who presented the petition would not have done so unless they had been satisfied that he was one who was qualified to fill the chair. (Cheers.) Having congratulated the master of the Lodge, and having expressed a hope for its future prosperity, Bro. Hervey concluded by proposing the health of the W.M. The toast was drunk with great enthusiasm, Bro. McDavitt then sang "Widow Machree." The W.M., in reply, said he thanked the Grand Secretary for his kind expressions and his allusion to the links of the chain; he hoped no link would break on the part of the W.M., and added that in his Lodge the Masonic Charities would not be forgotten. He then proposed the toast of the Consecrating Officer. The G.S. on rising, was received with loud cheers and said, he could only thank them for their reception. If what he had done in the capacity of Consecrating Officer had pleased them, he was satisfied. The W.M. then in appropriate terms proposed the toast of the Visitors. Bro. Hubbard sang the song of the "Vagabond." Bro. Howe, P.G.P. Middlesex, returned thanks for the toast. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Lodges who had supported the petition, viz: the Islington Lodge (he regretted the absence of its W.M., Bro. Bowyer), the Finsbury Park Lodge, and the Royal Standard Lodge. Bro. Gallant W.M. 813 returned thanks for the toast. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Masonic Charities, and regretted the absence of those indefatigable brethren the worthy Secretaries. He hoped the Charities would never be forgotten; they had one able representative in the person of Bro. T. Cubitt P.G.P., who was one of the trustees for the Aged. Bro. Cubitt returned thanks, and alluded to the increase lately made in the Annuity Fund. Bro. Dr. Woodman P.G.S.D. said he regretted the absence of Bro. Little, but assured them his services and energies would always be at their command. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Wardens and Officers, said, the manner in which they had discharged their duties on this the first occasion was sufficient to show what they would do in the future. Glee, "Mynheer von Dunk." Bro. Sim S.W. said he hoped to be a Steward for the Charities, and he was sure the Lodge would not be backward in supporting him. He was pleased to be placed in the position of Senior Warden, and hoped that perfect harmony would prevail during his occupation of that office. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Treasurer and Secretary, said, that Bros. Weston and Osborn were two well calculated to look after the interests of the Lodge, and he was sure it would be to their satisfaction. Bro. Norris returned thanks for the junior officers. Bro. H. Massey P.M. 619 and H. M. Levy P.M. 188 returned thanks for the Press. The Tyler's toast was then given. Altogether, one of the most enjoyable and harmonious evenings was passed. Amongst those present were Bros. J. Emmens P.G.P. J. Boyd P.G.P. Grand Steward, J. Wright P.G.P., H. Gabb jun. P.M. 813, W. F. Green 861, S. Gibbs 1036, L. Lewis W.M. 65, Benham 1339, Dawson 822, J. Green W.M. 27, Dr. Perry 35, Klenck P.M. 1339, Purdy P.M. 861, J. Kew P.M. 179, Davis W.M. 1228, J. F. Wilson 1298, J. Wicketts 299, Durham 1339, Bruine J.W. 1471, Davey P.M. 65, Shead 749, Pasquer P.M. 70, Lee P.M. 1254, H. Massey P.M. 619, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

CORNWALL CHAPTER OF S.P. ROSE-CROIX OF H.R.D.M.

A meeting of this Chapter was held on Thursday, at two p.m. precisely, at the Masonic Hall, Truro. The minutes of the previous Chapter, held on 3rd February, having been read and confirmed, the following candidates were elected and perfected, namely:—W. Bro. Thomas Henry Lukes, W.M. No. 496 St. Austell; and W. Bro. Wm. Guy, P.M. No. 496 and P.P.G.D.C., proposed by E. and P. Bro. Charles Truscott, jun., 30°, Recorder, and seconded by the W.M.S., E. and P. Bro. Col. John Whitehead Peard; Bro. Frank Parkyn, S.W. No. 856, Lostwithiel, proposed by the Recorder and seconded by Ill. Bro. Hughan, 30°, P.M.W.S.; and Bro. Alfred Luke, I.G. No. 977, Fowey, proposed by Ill. Bro. Hughan, and seconded by E. and P. Bro. Lake, 18°. A P.M.W.S. jewel was then presented to Ill. Bro. Sir F. M. Williams, Bart., M.P., 32°, I.P.M.W.S., in appreciation of his valuable services to the Chapter as its first M.W.S. The presentation was made by Col. Peard, M.W.S., and very feelingly acknowledged by the recipient. After the transaction of some formal business the Chapter was closed.

It is rumoured that the firm of Messrs Feltoe and Sons, the wine merchants, of 27 Albemarle-street, Piccadilly, proprietors of the well-known "Spécialité" sherry, will shortly be turned into a limited liability company, with a capital of £250,000.—Bullionist.

Digitized by Google

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

All Letters must bear the name and address of the Writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

—:o:—

VISITING BRETHERN.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I think I may safely assume that one of the manifold duties of your office must be an occasional enactment of the rôle of a Visiting Brother. I therefore preface the few observations I desire to make with a solemn declaration of my high regard for the individual impersonators of that familiar character, in what I will venture to call Masonic comedy.

As a "Visiting Brother," Sir, it has without doubt fallen to your lot—for you are human and not altogether sinless—to return thanks for the "hearty way" or "cordial manner" in which the toast of "the Visitors" has been received, and you have probably set about praising every thing and every body, descending in due degrees from the "dignity" of the W.M., and the "zeal" of his officers to the "remarkable urbanity" of the Tyler, with that easy geniality and happy selection of adjectives which I imagine to be an essential quality of the editorial nature. That, Sir, has been the well marked course of the Visiting Brother time out of mind, and, until last week, I never met with one of our Fraternity possessing the courage to depart from it.

To tell the truth, the case was one that provoked plain speaking, and the Visiting Brother I refer to was equal to the occasion. He admonished the Master, lectured the Senior Officers, and reproved the Juniors, in terms which lost nothing in effect from lack of earnestness of delivery, and resumed his seat, the only happy looking individual in the room, for the consternation was universal. Truth was too strong a diet for the delicate appetites of some of our worthy brothers, and they were ready enough to reject it; but wiser counsels prevailed. Most of the brethren were convinced that however unpalatable Truth might be, regarded as food, it might, with advantage, be occasionally swallowed as physic.

I direct your attention to this little incident because I cannot help thinking that a little more candour on the part of the Visiting Brother would often be productive of good. I do not, of course, mean to assert that there is any conscious insincerity in the commonplaces he usually utters, for whenever I have been disposed to find fault with the strain of gratitude which flavours his praise, I correct myself with the reflection that there is as much sense as satire in the observation that a grateful heart attendeth a great full stomach.

Yours fraternally,

A MASTER MASON.

London, 2nd May 1876.

SYMBOLISM.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In reply to your correspondent, "Enquirer," I beg to advise him to attend a rehearsal of the consecration ceremony by our able exponent Bro. Jas. Terry, Soc. Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, but, in the event of his inability, the following may suffice in answer to his question:—

"To this, however, may be added that a semi-circle or any plane rectalineal figure described upon the hypothenuse can be shown to be equal to the sum of the semi-circles or the like and similarly described figures upon the two other sides of the triangle. It can also be shown that the triangle which is formed by the line drawn from and connecting the greater with the intermediate squares is equal to the triangle which is joined by the lines drawn from and connecting the greater with the lesser squares.

"This proposition being of the highest importance to Geometry has therefore been selected and well applied to distinguish a Past Master of the Order, who, by his skill, assiduity and zeal has gained the highest distinction it is possible to obtain in the Lodge, and who, from his important and distinguished position, ought to be a pattern for imitation to the younger and inexperienced members of the Craft."

I am, yours fraternally,

JOHN CONSTABLE, P.M. 185.

ANTIENT AND PRIMITIVE MASONRY.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

In consequence of enquiries and suggestions, emanating from Canada and various parts of this Kingdom, I am instructed by the G.M. to promulgate the following Order and Decree.

S. P. LEATHER, 33-96° Sec.-Gen. pro tem.

Burnley, Lancashire.

In the name of the Sovereign Sanctuary of Antient and Primitive Masonry in and for Great Britain and Ireland. Salutation on all points of the Triangle. Respect to the Order.

Peace, Tolerance, Truth.

Whereas the Antient and Primitive Rite of Masonry of 33° represents the Antient and Primitive Rite of Memphis, embracing 96 degrees, and whereas the Grand Master and officers of the Sovereign Sanctuary in and for Great Britain and Ireland, duly constituted, are also certified members of the Antient and Primitive Rite of Misraim, embracing 90 degrees, of which there is no governing body within the limits of the jurisdiction of the said Sovereign Sanctuary, and whereas a large number of holders of the degrees of the said Rite of Misraim have elected to work under the said Sovereign Sanctuary. Be it known therefore that, at the request of the said members, the G.M. has decreed: That it is lawful for the Sovereign Sanctuary in and for Great Britain and Ireland, and its Dependencies, or any subordinate body thereof, to grant by communication any or all corresponding degrees of the Oriental Rites of Misraim and Memphis of 90 and 96 degrees respectively; or by request to work any of the discarded degrees of the Antient Rite of Memphis; and that upon payment of the fees the same may be endorsed upon the certificate of the Sovereign Sanctuary of the Antient and Primitive Rite of Masonry in and for Great Britain and Ireland.

(Signed) JOHN YARKER G.M.

28th April 1876.

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—On casually turning over the pages of Oliver's Masonic Jurisprudence, I find that one of the reasons I suggested in my letter of last week, why officers visiting strange Lodges do not wear their collars is in a manner confirmed by that authority. At p. 111, after describing the place to which visitors are entitled, he adds: "It is scarcely en règle for any visitor, being an officer of another Lodge, to wear his collar and jewels, as it might create some degree of confusion." My view is further confirmed and the law on this point more strictly defined at pp. 279, 280, where, in reference to clothing of Provincial Grand Officers, Dr. Oliver remarks: "The rest of the officers," P.G. officers other than Stewards, that is to say, "are at liberty to appear in their official costume when attending their own Lodge or visiting any other, a privilege which the Masters and Wardens of private Lodges do not legally possess, because it is absolutely necessary to the well being of the Lodge that its ruling officers should be broadly distinguished by their collars and jewels, which would be materially obstructed if other Masters and Wardens were, in attendance as visitors, decorated in the same manner." N.B —The italics are my own.

If this ruling be correct, then, in spite of the absolute dictum of the Constitutions, the clothing proper in our own Lodge would not be proper in a strange Lodge, and the W.M. of a latter might justly object to a visiting Master or Warden appearing in the full majesty of his official clothing.

As regards the "jewels, medals, or devices," which may be legally worn, and about which "P.M." inquired in his first letter, Dr. Oliver offers no opinion of his own. He says, at page 76: "There is some difficulty in understanding the question of honorary jewels. The Constitutions provide no jewel shall be worn in a Lodge other than those specified for the officers, except such honorary or other jewels or emblems as shall appertain to, or be consistent with, those degrees which are recognised, acknowledged by, and under the control of the Grand Lodge, but this regulation is vaguely expressed. Some are of opinion that any honorary Masonic jewel presented by the Lodge is here intended; others prescribe certain degrees of limitation, and think that a Past Master is entitled to wear a jewel, whether presented by the Lodge or not, provided it contain no special device, nor any words engraven on the reverse except the name of the owner."

Fraternally yours, "L. Q."

The service of swift steamers between Glasgow and the Highlands, viâ the Crinan and Caledonian Canals, will commence running on the 15th instant, and tourists who contemplate a visit during the early summer months, will thus have ample facilities for reaching their destination by a speedy and convenient route. The following are the places between which the steamers ply:—Glasgow and Oban, daily; Glasgow and Islay, Tuesdays; Glasgow and Fort-William, Bavanie, and Inverness, Monday, Wednesday and Friday; Fort-William and Glasgow, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday; Inverness and Glasgow, Monday, Wednesday and Friday; from Portree for Oban, Glasgow, and intermediate places, Monday 6 p.m., and Thursday not earlier than 4 a.m.; from Oban to Glencoe, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 7.45 a.m., and return same evening; from Oban to Staffa and Iona, Saturdays, 27th May, 3rd and 17th June, returning same evening. There are other journeys, but full particulars can be obtained on application to Messrs. David Hutcheson and Co., 119 Hope-street, Glasgow.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Dangerous diseases would not present themselves very often if timely act on at a very beginning on the first feelings which betray a departure from health. How many lurking maladies spring from neglecting trifling symptoms? The pimple, readily curable in the nursery, becomes, through carelessness, the irremediable torment of after-life. With a knowledge of the curative powers of Holloway's Ointment and Pills, and the facility and safety of their application, those who fail to use them for extirpating the first seeds of hereditary ailments will have to bear the punishment resulting from their folly. Holloway's remedy will remove eruptions of the skin, scorbutic disease, and scrofula, and heal every description of sore, wound or abrasion.

Digitized by Google

SHEFFIELD MASONIC LIBRARY.

We have received copy of prospectus of a scheme for the establishment of a Masonic Library in connection with the three Craft Lodges at Sheffield. Already the promoters are in a position to announce that the support thus far accorded has been most liberal. All under whose notice it has yet been brought have most heartily responded to the call, and have further promised to aid it by every means in their power. It is under these circumstances that the Executive appeal to the brethren in Sheffield and its neighbourhood for contributions, and they are of opinion that once a comprehensive Masonic library, such as is in contemplation, has been established, Craftsmen will only be too happy to avail themselves of the advantages for study it will offer. The scheme has the patronage of R.W. Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., P.G.M.; W. Bro. Tew, D.P.G.M.; and M.E. Comp. Bentley Shaw, P.G. Supt. R.A. Masons, all of the Province of West Yorks. The President is Bro. Seebohm, P.M.; the Vice-Patrons, Bros. Henry Ecroyd, W.M. No. 296; W. J. Hughan, P.M., P.P.G.S. Cornwall and P.G.S.D. England; the Vice-Presidents—Britannia Lodge, No. 139; Royal Brunswick Lodge, No. 296; Wentworth Lodge, No. 1,239; Bro. W. H. Brittain, P.M., P.P.J.G.W.; Bro. S. B. Ellis, S.W. 1,239; Bro. Dr. Francis Griffiths; Bro. G. W. Hawksley, P.M.; Bro. H. Pawson, P.M.; and Bro. Dr. W. R. Thomas, J.W. 1,239. The Treasurer is Dr. W. R. Thomas, and the Hon. Secretaries and Librarians Bros. S. B. Ellis, S.W. 1,239, and A. Scargill, P.M. The Executive Committee consists of the President, Treasurer, and Hon. Secs. and Librarians as ex officio members, and Bros. Rev. E. B. Chalmer, H. J. Garnett, Dr. F. Griffiths, S. Hayes, and H. W. Lofthouse. The subscription list includes Sir Henry Edwards, for five guineas; Bros. Tew, two guineas; Bentley Shaw, three guineas; Henry Ecroyd, thirteen guineas; and W. J. Hughan, ten guineas. The prospectus concludes with a résumé of the scheme, which is admirably contrived, and a long list of the books which the committee already possess as the nucleus of the library. The scheme has our heartiest good wishes for its success. The more Masonry is studied, the greater will be its influence both within and without the Craft.

NELSON, NEW ZEALAND.

FREEMASONRY AND THE AUSTRALASIAN CABLE.

WE are indebted to an esteemed correspondent for the following particulars:—

The successful accomplishment of the laying of the telegraph cable which now connects New Zealand with Australia and the rest of the world, but more intimately Nelson with Sydney as the termini, has been the subject of mutual congratulation during the past week among the citizens of Nelson, the staff of engineers and electricians and the officers of the magnificent cable steam ships "Hibernia" and "Edinburgh," whose mission has been so admirably and expeditiously fulfilled.

Although no demonstration of a strictly public character has taken place, we are gratified at being able to say the officers referred to have left Nelson highly delighted with their entertainment here, and are carrying with them pleasant reminiscences of their brief sojourn in a place they all characterize as a beautiful and a lovely spot.

Whilst the good citizens were engaged in debating as to the "correct thing" to be done in the way of entertaining their scientific guests, some brethren of the Craft, having introduced themselves as such, the Southern Star Lodge, 735 E.C., lost no time in convening a meeting of emergency, which was accordingly held on Wednesday, 1st March, for the purpose of welcoming their Masonic brethren, who were pretty numerously represented among the companies of the big ships. The Lodge duly opened up to the 2nd degree, and a brother passed as a Fellow Craftsman. The Lodge was so well attended that notwithstanding a rainfall, almost tropical in its severity, every seat in the Masonic Hall was occupied.

After closing in due form, the guests were invited to a banquet with the brethren of the Lodge, which was well served by the Steward, Bro. Treges, of the Commercial Hotel, the W.M., Bro. Montray, occupying the chair, supported by Bro. Dr. Sealy and Bro. Lightfoot P.M.'s, the guests of the evening immediately around, and Bro. Dr. Boor S.W. filling the vice chair.

The cloth having been removed, the W.M. in proposing "Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen," observed that whilst this was no more formal toast to the true Englishman, it was a toast eminently interesting to the true Mason, who could not but entertain the most fervent love for our Queen, not only as a good sovereign, an affectionate wife, an exemplary mother, but as the gracious patroness of our ancient Order. (Chorus, "God Save the Queen.")

The Chairman then gave "H.R.H. our M.W. Grand Master, and the Grand Masters of Scotland and Ireland. (Honours.)

After the discoursing of some music, Bro. Dr. Squires P.M. rose to propose the toast of the evening, viz., "Our Visiting Brethren," coupled with the health of Bro. Capt. Cato (Hibernia), to which Bro. Cato promptly responded in suitable terms, for himself and his brother officers, expressing his appreciation of the fraternal greeting so freely exemplified; he concluded by drinking "The W.M., Office Bearers, and brethren of the Southern Star Lodge," for which Bro. Montray returned thanks.

Bro. Cato then sang the Death of Nelson, to Bro. Stanton's accompaniment.

After more music the toast of "Prosperity to the New Zealand and Australian Cable, coupled with the health of Bro. Sherwin" (C. E. on the staff), was proposed by Bro. Secretary Hustwick P.M., who in a somewhat lengthened but carefully considered speech reviewed the history of the Electric Telegraph through its successive stages to the consummation of the important event now being celebrated, of connecting in an unbroken chain of communication the two hemispheres.

Bro. Sherwin returned thanks for the Telegraph Construction Company as well as for himself and fellow officers, and trusted should the laying of another cable be found necessary that he should be one of those employed to bring it to Nelson.

Songs, other occasional toasts, and a recitation, ably given by Bro. Cato, brought the festivities, at length, to a close, "the brethren parting in harmony," after a most social and enjoyable evening, long to be remembered as associated with a work of such magnitude as never to have been dreamed of until very recently, and rejoicing that the rapid progress of the Colonies had made such a consummation not only necessary but practicable. It was felt by Freemasons especially meet that they whose mystic spiritual cable has, from time immemorial, been potent in uniting and binding together its own of every nation and language, should be first to hail the advent of this great social, international and time-conquering band of civilized man, beneficial to unite this once remote end of the earth with the mighty centres of old and new world populations. Thus much for Masonry. The example of the good old Craft at once was emulated, and on the Saturday succeeding, a special pleasure train was laid on by the managers of the Nelson and Fox Hill Railway, for a large picnic at Wakefield to which the engineers, electricians and ships' officers were invited, and a subscription ball was given in their honour in the Provincial Hall on Friday 3rd March. On the previous Wednesday Captain Cato generously invited a numerous party of ladies and gentlemen to a dejeuner on board the Hibernia, lying outside the Nelson Haven, the coasting steamer Murray having been placed at his disposal by the owners, Messrs. N. Edwards and Co., for conveying his guests to the vessel. A sumptous repast was provided, and the polite officers seemed to vie with each other in exhibiting and explaining the interesting features connected with the expedition in its every department. On returning, in the evening, the party was received on board the Edinburgh, and welcomed by her Commander, Capt. Manning.

The steamers left the bay on Saturday morning. The cable is landed at Wakapuaka (henceforth "Cable Bay"), twelve miles from the Telegraph Office, Nelson, with which it is connected by a land line. The following "Contribution" of the humorous weekly correspondent of the Nelson Daily Times (Bro. Antolyeus) appeared in that journal of Saturday morning:—

"The Hibernia and Edinburgh sail this morning, their great task accomplished, their work well done. If the people of Nelson have not testified their appreciation of the undertaking performed by the cable staff in a public manner, there has been no lack of private hospitality displayed towards our visitors, who will depart carrying with them many pleasant recollections of their short sojourn in quiet little Nelson. The Brethren of the Mystic Tie were not unmindful of the duty inculcated by the Order, and enjoined upon every member of the brotherhood. They were first to extend the hand of friendship, and their example was quickly followed by others. Then there was pleasant reunions of all kinds, concluding with the ball on Tuesday night. This was a right cheerful affair, marred only by one accident, caused by the breaking of the floor. Of this a guest sends me the following description; the sentences in parentheses are my own. My correspondent writes:—

> There was a sound of revelry by night
> (I think I've seen that line somewhere before),
> Within that spacious hall, where, beaming bright,
> Collingwood coal illumed the roomy floor,
> O'er which, in time to music's gentle swell,
> A score of couples moved with ease and grace,
> While stranger beau and eke the Nelson belle,
> By custom licensed, joined in fond embrace.
> But, hark! a shriek—a hurrying to and fro,
> The floor has broken; 'neath the lightsome tread;
> Matrons on one fair form their care bestow;
> A fen ale friend sustains the dear one's head—
> Miss M. has fainted; people say, poor thing;
> One German guest alone says, Got in Himmel;
> Then comes the hurried orders, "Quickly bring"
> Water, or vinegar prepared by Rimmel.
> These duly brought and skilfully applied
> By dames quite equal to the situation,
> The object of their care first deeply sighed—
> (A sure sign of returning animation);
> Her partner's hand convulsively she clasped,
> Opened one eye (a bright translucent blue one),
> Then in low tremulous tones that maiden gasped,
> "That cussed floor wants mending with a new one."

I fancy there must be some slight mistake about the adjective used by the lady, but beyond that, the remark evidenced a complete return to consciousness, and I have much pleasure in endorsing the sentiments expressed: that floor really wants replacing altogether; and if this is not done shortly, the District Court will be going right through one of these days. But I digress—I commenced with the sailing of the Hibernia and Edinburgh; let me conclude by wishing every one on board, from the captains to the cabin boys, a safe voyage and a pleasant one.

Digitized by Google

INSTALLATION OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,
Most Worshipful Grand Master, &c., &c., having been graciously pleased to accept the special Dedication,

A SPLENDID

HISTORICAL STEEL ENGRAVING

WILL SHORTLY BE PUBLISHED,

OF THE

ROYAL INSTALLATION ON THE 28TH OF APRIL 1875,
IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
By BRO. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. No. 1201.

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be made to the

ROYAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REGENT STREET LONDON, W.

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

THE CLUB PREMISES, SITUATE
101 QUEEN VICTORIA STREET,
ARE NOW BEING FITTED UP, AND WILL
SHORTLY BE OPENED TO THE MEMBERS.

THE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION is fixed at—£3 3s for Town Members, i.e., Members residing within twenty miles of the Club, and £2 11s 6d for Country Members, no liability is incurred by members beyond their subscription.

THE NEXT ELECTION will take place on the 17th May. Upwards of 800 Brethren having already joined, an Entrance Fee will be imposed as soon as the Club is opened.

Full particulars may be obtained from the Secretary, at the Offices of the LONDON MASONIC CLUB COMPANY LIMITED, 37 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

JOHN A. LATHBURY, Secretary.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

SEASON TICKETS, available for one year from the 1st of each month, to be had of W. W. MONDAY, 67 Barbican, E.C.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

IN the House of Lords on Friday last, the disturbed state of the island of Barbadoes formed the subject of inquiry by Lord Blachford, to which the Earl of Carnarvon gave a detailed answer. On Monday, the second reading of the Inns of Court and General School of Laws Bill was moved by Lord Selborne and agreed to, after which, the House went into Committee on the Irish Peerage Bill. On Tuesday, after the University of Oxford Bill had passed through Committee, Lord Selborne put a question as to the recent Proclamation of the new style and Titles of the Sovereign, which gave rise to a sharp passage at arms between him and Lord Cairns, in which the latter strenuously defended the course pursued by the Government. On Thursday, the business only occupied a few minutes.

On Friday, the sitting of the House of Commons was almost wholly occupied in discussing a motion made by Mr. E. Smith, and calling for inquiry into the circumstances attending the late Bengal Famine. The motion in the end was negatived by 149 to 46. The House then went into Committee, first of Supply, and then on the Merchant Shipping Bill, when further clauses to 23 inclusive, were passed. On Monday, the Committee on this Bill was resumed, when still further progress was made. An Amendment by Mr. Plimsoll to prevent deck loading was only defeated by the small majority of 8; but another amendment by the same gentleman, but altered in accordance with a suggestion of Mr. Russell Gurney, throwing the onus of proof on the owner that he was not privy to the offence of deck loading was rejected by 199 to 104. On Tuesday, after a variety of subjects, including the Royal Titles Bill, the Gambia, and a flogging case had been discussed, Mr. C. E. Lewis, one of the members for Londonderry, asked Mr. Lowe if the report of a recent speech made by him at a political banquet at East Retford were correct or not. Mr. Lowe's answer evaded the question, or rather he gave no direct answer at all. On this Mr. Disraeli rose, and speaking in terms far stronger than the House of Commons is accustomed to hear now-a-days, enumerated the Prime Ministers to whom Mr. Lowe's statement could apply, and pointed out that Mr. Gladstone had already denied that he was one of the two Premiers to whom, on Mr. Lowe's authority, Her Majesty had applied to have a Royal Titles Bill introduced; that the late Lord Derby was not one of them; and further announcing, on behalf of Her Majesty, and by her authority, that she had never made any such proposition as Mr. Lowe affirmed she had made. All this, of course, caused an immense amount of excitement in the House, the cheers and counter cheers from the Ministerial and Opposition benches being both loud and prolonged. Not long afterwards the House was counted out. At Wednesday afternoon's sitting, Mr. Meldon moved the second reading of the Registration of Voters (Ireland) Bill, but was defeated by 234, or as it turned out, by 235 to 168. On Thursday, after a long series of questions had been answered, Sir H. James gave notice of a motion on the recent Royal Proclamation. Mr. Disraeli interpreted this as an intended motion of censure, and at once placed Thursday next at the disposal of the honourable and learned gentleman. Mr. Lowe then rose and fully withdrew the statement he made some time back at East Retford, and as far as a subject could do so, apologised to Her Majesty for the error he had committed. The House then went into Committee and made considerable progress with the Merchant Shipping Bill.

On Tuesday, the Queen, accompanied by the Princess Beatrice, paid a visit to Aldershot, for the purpose of inspecting the troops in camp there, the Duke of Cambridge, as Commander-in-Chief, being likewise present. The morning was cold but fine. Her Majesty reached the Pavilion shortly before one o'clock, and having partaken of luncheon, to which the Duke of Cambridge and a select circle of officers had been invited, drove to the enclosure in the Long Valley marked off for her accommodation. Thither in the meantime had marched the troops of all arms, and when the Queen had come on the ground, the review began. But hardly had the Royal Cortège crossed the valley for the purpose of driving along the line, when a fierce squall of wind swept across the open waste. Still the Queen persevered, in spite of this discomfort, and having returned to the saluting base, the march past began and was continued during a heavy rain. The subsequent manœuvres were dispensed with under the circumstances The troops consisted of two batteries Royal Horse Artillery, three regiments Cavalry, six batteries Royal Artillery, and ten battalions Infantry, with Engineers, Army Service Corps, &c., &c. The review over, the Royal Party returned to Farnborough Station, and thence by train to Windsor, which was reached shortly before 7 p.m.

Digitized by Google

The Prince of Wales's visit to Madrid forms a bright episode in his journey. His reception by King Alfonso and his people was very cordial, and the Prince and his brother were taken to inspect all the principal attractions within easy reach of the Spanish Capital. A day was spent at Toledo, where they visited the manufactory of arms, the Cathedral, and the Infantry Schools, returning to Madrid in time to witness the performance of Verdi's Aida, the scene in the house being a very brilliant one. After the opera, the Royal party attended the ball given by the Duke Fernan Nunez. On Friday, the Escurial was visited, after which H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught left by mail train for Bayonne. On Saturday, the Prince visited the Duke of Serrano, and subsequently the Cortes, where he spent some time in listening to the debate on one of the articles of the new Constitution. Afterwards H.R. Highness attended the theatre Alfonso, and then a ball given in his honour by the Duke of Baylen. On Sunday, the Prince left Madrid for Lisbon, being accompanied to the railway station by the King and a numerous suite. On Monday he reached Lisbon, and was received by King Louis, King Ferdinand, sundry of the Ministers, the British Consul and Admirals, and others. His reception as he drove through the streets to the Palace of Belem was cordial in the extreme. Here, too, banquets, receptions, and a visit to the opera have formed the principal items in the programme. Yesterday the Prince, in company with the King was to visit Cintra and subsequently witness a review of troops in the Pedro Square. The Serapis will leave Lisbon on Sunday, and is timed to reach Portsmouth on Thursday next in the forenoon. Preparations for His Royal Highness's visit to the City are rapidly progressing, and no doubt the banquet and ball will be equal to any given by the Corporation on previous occasions.

On Friday last, at St. James's Palace, a levée was held by H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh, on behalf of her Majesty, presentations at this court being considered as equivalent to presentations to the Queen. The Duke of Cambridge and Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein were present, and the diplomatic and general circles were strongly attended. A considerable number of presentations were made, the names having been previously left at the Lord Chamberlain's office, and submitted for Her Majesty's approval.

The banquet of the Royal Academy, on Saturday last, was brilliant as usual. The President, Sir Francis Grant presided, and among the more distinguished guests were the Duke of Cambridge, Prince Christian, Prince Edward of Saxe Weimar, the Duke of Teck. Count Gleichen, the Lord Chancellor, Mr. Disraeli, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, the Maharajah Duleep Sing, Mr. Cross, the Marquis of Salisbury, Lord Selborne, Earl Granville, the Marquis of Hartington, the Earl of Carnarvon, the Lord Mayor, and the gallant young African Explorer, Lieutenant Cameron R.N. The Archbishop of York, as Chaplain to the R.A., said grace. The toasts were of the usual character, the Duke of Cambridge replying for the Army and Reserve Forces; Mr. Ward Hunt for the Navy, and Mr. Disraeli for the toast of Her Majesty's Ministers. As to the Exhibition itself, which has been open all this week to the public, the general opinion appears to be, that it is a good average display. Many of the pictures being very fine specimens of our English artistic talent.

The season at Her Maje-ty's, Drury Lane, commenced on Saturday, with Gounod's Faust, the part of Margherita being rendered by Madame Christine Nilsson, Signor Rota, in the absence of M. Faure, taking that of Mefistofele, Signor Del Puente that of Valentino, and Madame Trebelli-Bettini that of Siebel. Bro. Sir Michael Costa resumed his wonted place in the orchestra, whose playing was beyond all praise. On Monday, the opera was La Sonnambula. On Tuesday, Mdlle. Titiens made her first appearance since her return from America, in Semiramide, and to-night she is to appear as Lucrezia Borgia, while Madame Nilsson, at her second appearance, played Violetta in La Traviata. Bro. Mapleson has our hearty good wishes for a prosperous season. The performances during the week at the Royal Italian, Covent Garden, have been Rigoletto on Monday, La Figlia del Reggimento on Tuesday, La Traviata on Wednesday, Elisir d'Amore on Thursday, and yester evening Don Giovanni, the leading artistes being Mdlles Albani, Rosavella, Zaré Thalberg and D'Angeri. The opera for this evening is to be Wagner's Tannhauser. The series of Floral Hall Concerts also commenced on Saturday, when a numerous audience attended, most of the principal artistes of the Royal Italian taking part in it. The second concert is announced for this day fortnight.

On Monday, at the Alexandra Palace, the drawing for the Palace Art Union Prizes took place, and as there were some fourteen thousand season ticket holders, the number of prizes to be won was proportionately large, so that the process occupied some hours. The Grand Easter Spectacle, which has proved a great success, has completed its career. Yesterday and to-day were fixed for the first grand flower show of the season, when the Coldstream Guards, under the direction of Mr. Fred. Godfrey "will assist." To-day is the grand opening day of the season, and at a quarter-past three p.m. will be given a Grand Ballad Concert, the principal vocalists being Mesdames Lemmens-Sherrington and Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Signor Foli. The Grenadier Guards Band under Bro. Dan. Godfrey will also be present, and perform a fine selection of music. At eight o'clock, the first Grand Firework display is fixed to come off. On Monday next, as we announce elsewhere, Bro. H. Distin's benefit will be held. There will be present and take part in it no less than ten military bands, including that of the Coldstreams. At the Crystal Palace, the Easter Burlesque has been performed for the last time. Yesterday, the Second Annual Goat Show commenced, and will remain open till Monday. To-day, will be held the First Summer Concert, with Madame Edith Wynne, Mrs. Osgood, Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Signor Garcia, among the chief vocalists. To-night, at the Royal Albert Hall, the Fifth Concert of the season will be held, under Royal and distinguished patronage, in aid of the funds of the German Hospital.

The chief news from France relates to the Amnesty question, which is somewhat agitating the public mind, the ministry appearing to exhibit, in the opinion of competent judges, too great indifference to a question of much importance, not unlikely to create some hubbub. The Eastern question is still to the fore. As regards the rival powers in the disaffected Turkish provinces, the Turks are reported to have inflicted a series of heavy defeats on the insurgents. Moukhtar Pacha, it seems, left Gatzko on the 27th ult., dispersed 8,000 insurgents, after five hours' hard fighting, victualled Nicksich, and then started on his return. At Presjeka, 14,000 of the enemy attacked him, but were repulsed, after a combat lasting eight hours. But the rebels having received reinforcements, bringing their numbers up to 16,000, and having entrenched themselves on some heights and in the forests, the Pacha took the offensive, and after a long and severe engagement, dislodged the enemy from their positions, and then continued his march without further interruption to Gatzko. There is a talk of an occupation, by Russia and Austria, of the disturbed districts, but this, at least, is only a rumour. From Rome we hear of a grand ball, given by the English Ambassador, Sir Augustus Paget, at which the Crown Prince Humbert and his wife, with the élite of the Roman world of fashion, were present; and from Washington we hear that the Grand Jury of the District of Columbia have found a true bill against Mr. Belknap for accepting bribes. For the rest, there is little, pleasant or unpleasant, to record.

It will interest not a few among our readers to know that our esteemed Bro. Terry, the zealous Secretary of the R.M.B.I., is the fortunate possessor of a specimen piece of the Algum or Almug tree, of which part of the Temple at Jerusalem was made. To those botanically given it will be familiar under the more formidable name of Pterocarpus Santolinus, a genus of the natural order of Leguminosæ; and this on the authority of the German Naturalist, Wildenow. In 1 Kings x. 11-12, the trees are called "Almug," the word, according to Cassell's Illustrated Bible Dictionary, being rendered by the Septuagint translator "ankina wood." In 2 Chronicles ii. 8, and ix. 10-11 they are called Algum, and translated pinewood. The old Latin version of the last passage renders the word "thyine wood," citron wood. However, it seems authorities are divided as to the real meaning of the word. Some—amongst whom we must number Wildenow—suppose it is red sandal wood, and Gesenius is not disinclined to this view, though favouring rather the idea of R. Kimchi that it is the tree known as "Brazil Wood." An old Cyclopædia we have says the Pterocarpus Santalinus or Red Sandal Wood "may be distinguished from Brazil Wood by the latter yielding its colour to water alone, while the Red Sandal Wood barely tinges it." According to the Biblical account the Almug or Algum trees which Hiram furnished to Solomon, out of the forests of Lebanon, were used for building terraces or pillars for the Temple and for the King's own palace, as well as "harps and psalteries for singers." We may add that Bro. Terry is indebted for his specimen to the kindness of Bro. W. Hirst, J.P., of Saddleworth, Yorks.

Digitized by Google

In giving the list of new appointments under Grand Lodge, last week, we published, in error, the names of the outgoing Grand Stewards; we hasten to rectify the mistake, by giving the List of Grand Stewards nominated on 26th April:—

Bro. Thomas T. Smith	... ...	No. 1
„ William Hope M.D.	... ...	2
„ Arthur C. Veley	... ...	4
„ John C. Havers	... ...	5
„ Winthrop M. Praed	... ...	6
„ John L. Geizer	... ...	8
„ Edmund Nash M.D.	... ...	14
„ Robert Berridge	... ...	21
„ John Boyd	... ...	23
„ Thomas C. Tatham	... ...	26
„ Arthur J. L. Trendell	... ...	29
„ Leonard A. Kew	... ...	46
„ Felix S. Knyvett	... ...	58
„ John G. Chancellor	... ...	60
„ Harry John Reynolds	... ...	91
„ George Marshall	... ...	99
„ William G. Cusins	... ...	197
„ Gabriel P. Goldney	... ...	259

Bro. H. Distin—whose celebrity as one of the original Saxe Horn players and for many years a celebrated manufacturer of cornets and other musical instruments is universally acknowledged—announces a benefit (previous to his departure for America) at the Alexandra Palace, on Monday next. Ten military bands, including that of the Coldstream Guards, by permission of their respective Colonels, will play selections, and amongst the vocalists whose valuable services have been secured are Madame Liebhart, Madame Edith Wynne, Miss Dones, Bro. Chaplin Henry, Vernon Rigby, Selwyn Graham, Bro. Theodore Distin, Mr. Henry Guy, and the Orpheus Glee Union.

Bro. Ambrose Austin announces his annual benefit for the 17th instant, at St. James's Hall, on which occasion Mr. Sims Reeves and a host of talented artistes will appear.

London to Edinburgh, or vice versâ, a distance of close on four hundred miles, in a little over nine hours! Breakfast in London, and dinner in Edinburgh the same day! How the bare idea of such a fact being possible would astound our easy-going forefathers. The Virgilian hero's exclamation, "Obstupui, steterunteque comæ," would not be half strong enough to express their wonderment on being told this was an every-day fact. Yet, thanks to the energy and enterprise of the directors of the Great Northern Railway, this journey is daily accomplished, and when, during the season that has just commenced, any of our London friends are anxious for a change from the din and smoke of London to the pure air of Scotland, they have but to charter a hansom to reach King's Cross at the appointed time, and in less than ten hours they will be stretching their legs under the comfortable mahogany of some worthy host in "Auld Reekie."

We have to thank Dr. Morris, the head master of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, for Parts I. II. and III. of "Cursor Mundi" (the Cursur of the World), a Northumbrian poem of the 14th century, in four versions, two of them Midland, published for the Early English Text Society, by Messrs. Trübner and Co., 57 and 59 Ludgate-hill. The versions are from Cotton MS. Vesp. A iii in the Library of the British Museum; Fairfax MS. 14 in the Bodleian Library; MS. Theol. 107 in the Göttingen University Library; MS. R. 3.8 in the Library of Trinity College, Cambridge. Dr. Morris's ability as a scholar is too widely known to need any commendation from us, but the task of editing these versions having been entrusted to him, it is only becoming to say that he has fulfilled this duty most successfully. It were well-nigh impossible to form an estimate of the amount of time and labour he must have bestowed upon this work, but Dr. Morris has, at least, this reward, that his labours are most fully appreciated.

THE FREEMASONS AND "THE BLOT ON THE QUEEN'S HEAD."

A propos of a short paragraph in last week's issue, in which we condemned the action of certain Conservative Associations in sending to the Masters of Lodges blank forms of petition to fill up in favour of the Queen assuming the title of Empress, we have received from our esteemed Bro. Wheeler the following leading article, which appeared in the columns of the North British Daily Mail of the 2nd inst., and which, at his request, we most willingly insert. Our contemporary speaks in the kindest terms of the Order whose interests we have so dearly at heart, and as this particular attempt to confound politics and Freemasonry together, we thank him most sincerely for his very able defence of the latter from the insidious designs of political associations:—

"It is whispered that with a view to popularise the Queen's new title of Empress of India, strong efforts are being made to persuade the various Masonic bodies of the country, "and their friends," to make a stand in its favour. The persons who have been working the oracle with this object in view have hitherto judiciously kept altogether out of sight, and the various attempts to obtain a direct movement having failed, a circular is now being forwarded by "The National Union of Conservative and Constitutional Associations," to the Masters of Masonic Lodges calling upon them to use their influence to obtain the adoption of an address to the Queen congratulating her Majesty on the reception which her Royal son has received "from the Princes, Chiefs, and people of India in his late progress through that vast empire." No objection can, we think, be taken to that portion of the address, but we do object, and that strongly, to the next clause, which reads as follows:—"And we beg humbly to express the satisfaction with which we have learnt that your Majesty will be advised at this most auspicious moment to assume the title of Empress of India, a title which will fitly indicate the tie which unites that great Empire with the Throne of these Realms." We have not yet been made acquainted with the reception which the various Masonic Lodges have given either to the request or the proposed "address," but we deprecate the Freemasons being made use of for political purposes. Hitherto the Masonic bodies have been known chiefly as social and benevolent societies, where men of all shades of politics could meet, as on common ground, and where political subjects, or controversial polemics, are never introduced. It is, however, notorious enough, ever since the Prince of Wales succeeded the Marquis of Ripon as Grand Master of the Craft, that attempts have been made in more than one quarter, with the intention, it has been said, of "currying favour" with the Prince, to introduce various extraneous matters not calculated to add to the dignity of the Order. Some who have recently been elevated to high positions in the Order seem to forget, if they ever knew, that Freemasonry was not made either for the present Grand Master or any of his predecessors or successors. Freemasonry is an ancient and honourable institution, and care must be taken that the proceedings of the general body, or of individual Lodges, shall not suffer from that spirit of sycophancy which has evidently prompted the present idea of "The National Union of Conservative and Constitutional Associations" to obtain the aid of the Masters of Lodges to render palatable a title which, from the first, has soured on the national stomach. The personal popularity of the Prince of Wales in the Masonic body is undoubtedly very great; and that being so, we trust the Prince and his best friends will at once frown down all attempts to turn that popularity into the means of political usefulness either to the Conservative or any other party. The "blot on the Queen's head" is now an accomplished fact, and when the secret history of the Act of Parliament which authorised the Queen's new title of Empress is written it will doubtless reveal matters even more curious than the attempt to obtain the assistance of the Masonic body to make it popular."

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

We have the pleasure to announce that the distribution of prizes to the pupils of this School will take place on Monday next. It is natural to expect a vast assemblage upon such an occasion, and those who have the privilege of attending will, no doubt, be delighted with the proceedings.

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

—:o:—

SATURDAY, 6th MAY.

General Committee, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
126—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

MONDAY, 8th MAY.

45—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem, St. John's-square, E.C., at 8. (Instruction.)
174—Sincerity, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., at 7. (Instruction.)
857—Leigh, Freemasons' Hall, W.C.

66—Royal Clarence, Freemasons' Hall, Bristol.
75—Love and Honour, Freemasons' Hall, Royal Hotel, Falmouth.
194—St. John's, Ashton House, Greek-street, Stockport.
580—Druids' Love and Liberality, Masonic Hall, Redruth.
650—Star in the East, Pier Hotel, Harwich.
860—Montagus, Royal Lion, Lyme Regis.
1021—Hartington, Masonic Hall, Custom House Buildings, Hindpool-road, Barrow-in-Furness.
1069—United Brothers, Castle Hotel, Southsea.
1225—Travellers, Queen's Hotel, Manchester.
1281—Former Hesketh, Masonic Temple, Hope-street, Liverpool.
1296—Baldwin, The Castle, Dalton-in-Furness.

TUESDAY, 9th MAY.

55—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
167—St. John's, Holly Bush Tavern, Hampstead.
860—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, at 6.30.

98—Social, Freemasons' Hall, Norwich.
194—Shakespeare, Masonic Room, High-street, Warwick.
892—Royal Edward, Royal Oak, Leominster.
903—Gosport, India Arms Hotel, High-street, Gosport.
1128—Beaucastre, Red Lion, Leyburn-cum, at 8.0. (Instruction.)
1250—Gilbert Greenall, Masonic Rooms, Sankey-street, Warrington.
1284—Equity, Walker's Commercial Hotel, Wilton.
1465—Ockenden, Talbot Hotel, Cuckfield, Sussex.
1503—Royal Naval College, Ship Hotel, Greenwich.

WEDNESDAY, 10th MAY.

Anniversary Festival, Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, Freemasons' Tavern, W.C.
Committee, Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, Freemasons' Hall, at 3.
15—Kent, Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street.
193—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7. (Instruction.)
1334—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Albion-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)

190—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover. (Instruction.)
241—Unanimity and Sincerity, Clarke's Hotel, Taunton.
361—Fortitude, Athenæum, Lancaster.
660—Benevolence, Private Room, Prince Town, Dartmoor, Devon.
861—Worthing of Friendship, Bugle Hotel, Worthing.
1008—Royal St. Edmund's, Angel Hotel, Bury St. Edmunds.
1101—Grey Friars, Masonic Hall, Reading.
1434—Brockley, Assembly Rooms, Old Brompton, Chatham.
R.A.—260—Marshall, Grapes Inn, Shrewsbury.
R.A.—823—St. Woolos, Freemasons' Hall, Dock-street, Newport, Mon.

THURSDAY, 11th MAY.

3—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, London-st., Fitzroy-sq., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
206—Friendship, Ship and Turtle, Leadenhall-street.
263—Bank of England, Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, E.C.
415—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 8. (Instruction.)
1260—Harvey, 152 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1488—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

36—Medina, 85 High-street, Cowes.
216—Harmonic, Adelphi Hotel, Liverpool.
294—Unanimity, Crown Hotel, Penrith, Cumberland.
460—Benevolence, Masonic Hall, Bridgeland-street, Bideford, Devon.
646—Anson, Masonic Hall, Caroline-street, Longton, Stafford.
762—Royal Brunswick, Royal Pavilion, Brighton.
790—Temperance, Masonic Rooms, New-street, Birmingham.
965—Abbey, Abbey Council Chamber, Abingdon, Berks.
1065—Derby, Knowsley's Hotel, Cheetham, Lancashire.
1095—St. George's, Private Room, Temperance Hall, Treforgan, Mon.
1204—Royal's, Belle Vue Hotel, Malvern, Worcestershire.
1439—Albert Edward Prince of Wales, Masonic Hall, Newport, Mon.
R.A.—51—Patriotic, Three Cups Hotel, Colchester.

FRIDAY, 12th MAY.

933—Doric, Earl Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1278—Burdett Coutts, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, 7.30. (Instruction.)
1507—Metropolitan, 200 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)

58—Glamorgan, Freemasons' Hall, Arcade, St. Mary-street, Cardiff.
497—United, George Hotel, Colchester.
1067—Beaudesert, Assembly Rooms, Corn Exchange, Leighton Buzzard.
1249—Rock, Bedford Hotel, Bedford-road, Rock Ferry, Cheshire.
1536—United Military, Masonic Hall, Plumstead.

SATURDAY, 13th MAY.

126—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
1291—Commercial, Freemasons' Hall, Leicester.
1508—Addiscombe, Alma Tavern, Addiscombe.
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

SATURDAY.

120—Peace, Masonic Rooms, Meltham.
306—Prince George, Station Hotel, Bottoms, Eastwood.

MONDAY.

61—Probity, Freemasons' Hall, St. John's-square, Halifax.
264—Nelson of the Nile, Freemasons' Hall, Normanton, Batley.
296—Royal Brunswick, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
302—Ripon, New Masonic Hall, Derby-street, Bradford.
307—Prince Frederick, White Horse Hotel, Hebden Bridge.
468—Three Graces, Private Room, Haworth.
1321—Prudence, Masonic Hall, Carlton-hill, Leeds.
1514—Thornhill, Masonic Hall, Carlton-street, Castleford.
R.A.—205—Alfred, Masonic Hall, Kelsall-street, Leeds.

TUESDAY.

449—St. James's, Freemasons' Hall, St. John's-place, Halifax.
495—Wakefield, Masonic Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield.
603—Zetland, Royal Hotel, Cleckheaton.
1323—Olicana, Crescent Hotel, Ilkley.
1548—Builders, Angel Inn, Bulldon.
R. A. 239—Fidelity, Masonic Hall, Carlton-hill, Leeds.

WEDNESDAY.

290—Huddersfield, Masonic Hall, South Parade, Huddersfield.
857—Airedale, Masonic Hall, Westgate, Shipley.
750—Friendship, Freemasons' Hall, Railway-street, Cleckheaton.
1016—Shakespeare, Freemasons' Hall, Salem-street, Bradford.

THURSDAY.

179—Britannia, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
424—Scientific, Private Room, Bingley.
971—Trafalgar, Private Room, Commercial-street, Batley.
R. A. 307—Good Intent, White House Hotel, Hebden Bridge.
R. A. 337—Confidence, Private Rooms, Commercial Inn, Uppermill.

FRIDAY.

*455—Aire and Calder, Private Rooms, Ono-street, Goole.
1001—Harrogate and Clare, Masonic Rooms, Parliament-street, Harrogate.
1102—Mirfield, Assembly Rooms, Battlethorpe, Mirfield.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

240—St. Hilda, Freemasons' Hall, Fowler-street, South Shields.
481—St. Peter, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
940—Williamson, Royal Hotel, Monkwearmouth.

TUESDAY.

80—St. John, Masonic Hall, Park-terrace, Sunderland.
704—Harbour of Refuge, Freemasons' Hall, Upper Church-street, West Hartlepool.

WEDNESDAY.

661—Fawcett, Masonic Hall, North-road, Seaham Harbour.

THURSDAY.

97—Palatine, Masonic Hall, Park Terrace, Sunderland.
981—Tyne, Masonic Hall, Willington-quay.
M.M.—122—Percy, Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-road, Stockton-on-Tees.

FRIDAY.

1121—Wear Valley, Kings' Arms Hotel, Bishop Auckland.

IRELAND.

FRIDAY—170—St. John's, Castle-street, Lisburn, County Antrim.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

MONDAY—145—St. Stephen, St. James's Hall, Writer's-court.
TUESDAY—1—Mary's Chapel, Waterloo Hotel, Waterloo-place.
WEDNESDAY—2—Canongate, Kilwinning, St. John's Chapel, St. John's-street.
R. A. 1—Edinburgh, Freemasons' Hall.
THURSDAY—8—Journeymen, Blackfriars-street, Nicholson-street.
FRIDAY—36—Canongate, Kilwinning, St. John's-street.

GLASGOW DISTRICT.

MONDAY—102—St. Mark's, 213 Buchanan-street.
" 362—St. Clair, 25 Robertson-street.
" 389—Athole, Washington Hotel, Kirkintilloch.
" 401—St. George, Odd Fellows' Hall, Helensburgh.
" 531—Marie Stewart, Freemasons' Hall, Crosshill.
" 564—Thistle, Govan-road.
TUESDAY—410—Serpent, 45 St. James's-street.
" 447—Govandale, Portland Hall, Govan.
" 491—Glasgow, 24 Heathfield-road.
" 553—St. John, Freemasons' Hall, Dalmuir.
" R. A. 69—St. Andrew, 170 Buchanan-street.
WEDNESDAY—274—Scotia, 170 Buchanan-street.
" 333—St. George, 213 Buchanan-street.
" 510—Maryhill, 176 Main-street, Maryhill.
" R.A. 114—Govan, Portland Hall, Govan.
THURSDAY—370—Kummit, Freemasons' Hall, Bothwellburn.
R. A. 50—Glasgow, 213 Buchanan-street.
FRIDAY—R. A. 144—66, Ballot, Freemasons' Hall, Garngad-road.
" 18—Kilwinning, Masons Hall, Dumbarton.
" 170—Leven St. John's, Black Bull Inn, Renton.
" 153—Royal Arch, Masonic Hall, Cogan-street, Pollockshaws.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting on Monday, the 1st of May, at Bro. Gay's, Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's Square, E.C. Present—Bros. Garbett W.M., Killick S.W., Halford J.W., Stock S.D., Gardner J.D., Knight I.G., Christopher Tyler. Past Master—Bro. Beckett Preceptor. Business—The Lodge was opened in the usual manner, and the minutes confirmed. The ceremony of Initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Tresjoiard being the Candidate. The W.M. worked the 1st Section of the first Lecture, Bro. Beckett the 2nd, Bro. Stock the 3rd, and Bro. Killick the 4th. Bro. Gardiner was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Angel Lodge, No. 51.—The principal business at the monthly meeting of this Lodge, on Monday evening, was the election of W.M., Treasurer and Tyler for the coming year. For W.M. the choice of the Brethren was unanimous in favour of Bro. G. Gard Pye, the S.W.; and Bro. Gasner, the Tyler, was re-elected without a dissentient. The appointment of Treasurer was not quite so unanimous. The W.M. proposed the re-election of Bro. Alfred Cubb P.M., which was seconded by Bro. F. A. Cole P.M. Bro. Dr. Becker said he considered that the Senior P.M., if willing to serve, was entitled to the office, and he proposed Bro. John Coppin P.M. This was seconded by Bro. W. P. Lewis; but, on the ballot being taken, there appeared for Bro. Cubb 18, for Bro. Coppin 9. The first named Bro. was declared elected. Bro. Dr. Becker P.M. proposed a cordial vote of thanks to Bro. Alfred Welch, for his able conduct of the business of the Lodge during the past year, which having been seconded by Bro. C. Cobb I.P.M., was carried by acclamation. The W.M. suitably responded. During the evening the ceremonies of passing and initiating were worked by the W.M., in his usual able manner. At the close of the business, the brethren adjourned to the festive board, where a most harmonious evening was spent. The visitors present included Bro. Colonel Bray (commanding 36th Regt.), of Royal Kent of Antiquity; and Bro. G. F. Guyon (Royal Fusiliers), of Derwent Lodge, No. 40.

Digitized by Google

Commercial Chapter, No. 79.—The regular meeting of this Chapter was held on Friday, 28th April, at 30 Hopestreet, Glasgow, D. Lamb M.E.Z. presiding, assisted by G. W. Wheeler Z of 78 as H. Robert Brodie J., J. M. Oliver acting Scribe E., A. Mercer, of Chapter 87 acting as 1st S., Comps. Fraser and McAlister 2nd and 3rd. Bros. George Scott and Andrew Reid, who had been duly advanced to the degree of Mark Masters at the last meeting, Comp. Lamb Z. then introduced, and admitted as Most Excellent Masters, Comp. J. Duthie Z of 67 officiating. The Chapter was then opened, and the same two gentlemen were duly exalted. Comp. Lambe then returned the thanks of the Chapter to Companions Duthie, Wheeler and Mercer, for their assistance in working these degrees. They suitably acknowledged the compliment.

Friendship Lodge, No. 100.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Thursday, the 27th of April, at the Crown and Anchor Hotel, Great Yarmouth. Present—Bros. E. J. Bonfellow W.M., R. Martins S.W., R. W. Hubbard J.W., D. R. Fowler Secretary, J. W. French S.D., E. Bostock J.D., C. M. Kirkham and J. A. Wade Stewards, L. Spence I.G., J. Holt Tyler. Past Masters Bros. Jas. Bond, A. Hanlon, E. Howes. Visitors—Bros. Jos. Tomlinson J.W. 1503, R. G. Owen W.M. 1421, J. G. Churchyard S.D. 376. Business—To initiate Mr. Herbert F. Brooks; Bro. Rev. H. J. Bode was passed to the F. C. degree, and Bros. Bennett and Meyer were raised to the sublime degree of M.M's. The Lodge having been closed to the first degree, the W.M. presented, in the name of the Lodge, a handsome P.M's Jewel, with the following inscription, "Presented by Lodge Friendship, 100, to Bro. James Bond P.M., as a token of fraternal regard, and to mark the high appreciation of his services as W.M. during the past year, April 1876." (The jewel was manufactured by Bro. H. T. Lamb). Other business having been transacted, the Lodge was closed in due form.

Kendal Castle Chapter, No. 129.—A quarterly convocation of this Chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, Kendal, on Thursday, 27th April. The M.E.Z., Comp. Henry Rauthmell, was supported by Comps. Captain Gawith P.Z. H., John Bowes P.Z. P.P.G.S.B. as J., Titus Wilson I.P.Z., John Talbot E., R. J. Nelson N., Geo. McKay P.S., W. Cranston Asst. Sojs., R. Godfrey Asst Soj., T. Baron, &c., &c. The Chapter was opened by the Principals, when the rest of the Companions were admitted, and the minutes confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Bro. Edmund Fearnside, which proving in his favour, he, being present, was exalted, together with Bro. Robert Winder, who had been elected at a previous meeting. On the invitation of the M.E.Z., the ceremony was performed by E. Comp. Bowes, to whom a warm vote of thanks was afterwards accorded on the motion of Capt. Gawith, seconded by the M.E.Z. It was decided to hold the annual festival at Bigg's Hotel, Windermere, on Thursday, 22nd June, when a very pleasant reunion is anticipated. After some routine business and a proposition, the Chapter was closed, with the usual solemnities, and the Companions separated, mentally reciting the lines so well known to Craftsmen:—

"As happy we have met,
And happy we have been,
So happy may we part,
And happy meet again."

St. John's Lodge, No. 178, Lisburn, Co. Antrim, Ireland.—This Lodge held its regular monthly meeting on Friday, 14th April, Bro. R. M. Tilly W.M. presiding. The attendance included the following members:—Bros. Wm. Graham S.W., John Higginson J.W., W. J. Gilsland Treas. and Sec., Robert M. Comb S.D., John Flynn as J.D., A. M'Clelland I.G., John McBride, Arthur Mussen, Wm. Johnston, Mercer Rice, William Wilson, Samuel J. Nelson, Thomas Beatty, James Pryde, James Simpson, Adam M'Clelland, Wm. J. Knox sen., Wm. J. Knox jun., Alex. Boyd, Wm. D. Duncan. Visitors—Bros. Jas Darling 384, Thomas Fallogn 24, Abraham Macartney 124. Minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed; ballot was taken for Bro. Wm. D. Duncan of Lodge 351, Monaghan, and declared clear. Bro. Higginson then brought forward his motion, which had stood adjourned from last night of meeting, relative to application for a Royal Arch Chapter war ant in connexion with the Lodge. It was passed unanimously that same be applied for on the terms proposed by the Grand Lodge. The Secretary was ordered to advance the amount, from the funds, to the Royal Arch Committee, on condition of its being refunded to the Lodge. Bro. Higginson moved, Bro. John McBride seconded, and it was passed unanimously, that the best thanks of this Lodge are due and are hereby tendered to Bro. R. Gilland for the great trouble he has taken in preparing a new set of Lodge account books, and particularly for the accurate register he has given of all members connected with the Lodge since its establishment one hundred and nineteen years ago. A letter was received and read from the Secretary of the Masonic Male and Female Orphan Schools, Dublin, acknowledging the Lodge's contribution sent from this Lodge. Mr. Gustavus Geo. Tew received the benefit of the first degree, at the hands of Bro. Tallentire. Lodge then closed and adjourned for refreshments.

An emergency meeting was held on Friday evening, the 27th ult., Bro. R. M. Tilly W.M. presiding, there was also a good attendance of officers and brethren. A circular which had been received from the P.G.S., relative to presentation of address from the Freemasons of the Province to our Most Worshipful Grand Master His Grace the Duke of Abercorn, on the occasion of his forthcoming visit to Belfast, on the 24th May, was taken into consideration, and it was moved by Bro. Higginson and seconded by Bro. Mussen, that this Lodge be represented at presentation of address. All the members present expressed their desire to witness the ceremony, and the Secretary was instructed to procure tickets accordingly, and to intimate result of special meeting called to consider circular to Provincial Grand Secretary. Bro. Tew being in attendance, was passed to Fellow Craft degree, in excellent style, by Bro. Higginson. Lodge was then closed in ancient form, in peace, love and harmony.

Lodge of Joppa, No. 188.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, the 1st inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, City. Bros. A. G. Dodson W.M., L. Lazarus S.W., J. Miller J.W., L. M. Auerhaan Treasurer, E. P. Albert P.M., Grand Pursuivant, Secretary, M. Spiegel J.D., H. Hyman I.G., A. G. Campion D.C., P. E. Van Noorden Org., H. Isaac Steward. P.M.'s L. Alexander, Israel Abrahams, O. Roberts, H. Berkowitz, H. M. Levy, M. Alexander, M. Van Diepenheim, H. Berkowitz; and Bros. Watkins, Bean, Samuel, Clark, Martin, Fitchett, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Reibold was passed to the 2nd degree, and Bros. J. Clark, E. Davey and West were raised to the 3rd degree. Messrs. Bornefield and R. Collier were ballotted for and accepted. By the courtesy of the W.M., Bro. L. Alexander P.M. initiated the former gentleman, and Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. the latter. A letter was received from Bro. E. J. Harty, requesting the portraits of those brethren who were at the Albert Hall on the Installation of H.R.H. the M.W.G.M. for the Historical Engraving of that great event. A distressed brother was relieved from the funds of the Lodge with the sum of £3 3s. Bro. O. Roberts P.M. said he had a pleasing duty to perform, and that was to propose that the Lodge present their respected Bro. E. P. Albert G.P. with his Grand Lodge clothing and jewel. It was a pleasing fact that the Grand Lodge had chosen one so highly respected for its honours, and the selection had shed lustre on their Lodge. He had for ten years been their Hon. Secretary, and in that capacity had saved the Lodge a considerable sum of money, besides carrying out the arduous duties satisfactorily. He was sure they would, in approval of Bro. Albert's conduct, carry this proposition. Bro. Israel Abrahams P.M. seconded. During a very eloquent speech he said, No one in the Lodge could measure Bro. Albert's services. He gives valuable time gratuitously to this numerous Lodge, and all its members were under obligations to him. The motion was carried unanimously, amid the plaudits of the brethren. The W.M. in informing Bro. Albert, said, he hoped he might live long to wear it as an honour and credit to the Lodge. Bro. Albert having appropriately returned thanks, the Lodge was closed until the second Thursday in June. The brethren then adjourned to slight refreshments. The W.M. proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. E. P. Albert G.P. returned thanks for the Grand Officers. Bro. L. Alexander P.M. returned thanks for the Benevolent Fund. Bros. Collier and Bornefield had given the sum of £1 1s each to that fund, which now reaches the sum of nearly £1,300. Bro. R. Collier returned thanks for the newly initiated. He said it had always been an ardent wish with him to become a Mason, but time and circumstances had previously prevented him; but now, having gone through the ordeal, he would never forget the ties of brotherhood, and hoped to be among them for many years, and to be recognised as a good Mason. Bro. Bornefield also responded. Bro. Jardine P.M. 140, in an excellent speech, returned thanks for the Visitors. Bro. J. Norton, late 188, also responded, and said he had been initiated in the Lodge in 1839; he had been in office, but had been away from the Lodge for many years. He was pleased to see, on his return to this country, the Lodge in so flourishing a state. Bro. L. Alexander proposed the toast of the W.M. Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. returned thanks for the Past Masters. The Wardens, Officers and Tyler's toasts were then given, and the brethren separated. The Visitors were Bros. Jardine P.M. 140, Wallace S.W. 140, J. Norton late 188, A. Tilley 1589, Thurston 72, Down P.M. 862, Newnham 1083, Humble 1364, and Young 209.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Wednesday, the 3rd May, at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street. Present—Bros. Abell W.M., Crosker S.W., Hollands J.W., J. K. Pitt Secretary, Walker S.D., Sayer J.D., Bush Steward, Sadler I.G., Christopher Tyler. P.M. Bro. E. Gottheil Preceptor. The business of the evening was commenced with the customary formalities. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Crane acting as candidate. The 1st section of the Lecture was worked by Bro. Turquand, the replies being given by W. W. Morgan jun., whose initiation took place on the previous Friday, the unanimous consent of the Lodge having been accorded for this arrangement. Bro. Gottheil then worked the second section, assisted by the members; Bro. Constable, assisted by the brethren, worked the third, and Bro. Gottheil, assisted by Bro. Turquand, the sixth. Bros. Lowenstark jun. and Morgan jun. were then unanimously elected members of the Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Walker was elected to preside on Wednesday next. The Lodge was closed, and adjourned.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Saturday, the 29th of April, at Bro. Pyke's, Jolly Farmers, Seven-sisters Road, Islington, N. Present—Bros. C. Ward Veevy P.M. 554, W.M., Tebbs S.W., Saul J.W., Kellick Secretary, Halford Treasurer, Percy Preceptor, Stock J.D., Powell I.G. Past Masters Bros. Barnes 933, Nochmer 186, Geex 186, Ashburner 1278, Main 813, Wright 1304. Visitors—Bros. Brooks W.M. 862, Berry W.M. 554, Clark 188, Woolf 808, Wooton 43, Gross 1278, Lowe 1360, Richardson 55, Greene 861, Webb 174. Business.—The Lodge having been opened in the usual manner and the minutes confirmed, the W.M. proceeded to work the fifteen Sections, assisted by the following brethren: Bros. Frith 1426,

Digitized by Google

Allcot 535, Webb 174, Neehmer 186, Barnes 233, Saul 1201, Telmis 861, Cambridge 15, Pearce 228, Gross 1278, Lowe 1364, Berry 554, Sadler 147, Stock 1178. Bro. G. Ward Verry was elected an Honorary Member, and Bros. Barnes, Neehmer, Clark, Woolf, Weeden, Gross, Lowe, Brooks, Ashburner, Richardson, Green, Seex, and Berry elected joining members. The whole of the Sections were worked in an admirable manner, that of Bro. Barnes giving particular satisfaction while that of Bro. Allcot, of the Zetland Lodge, Hong Kong, proves that Masonry will lose none of its lustre in the far east with such a proficient exponent. A vote of thanks to the W.M. brought a very successful evening to a close. The ceremony of installation will be worked by Bro. J. Terry, P.G.D.C. Herts, this Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock.

Caledonian Railway Lodge, No. 354.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Saturday, the 29th April, at 30 Hope-street, Glasgow. Bro. Harley S.W. said, as the Master was absent on his wedding tour, he had got Bro. W. J. E. Dobson, Master of Lodge Dramatic, to act as R.W.M. John Harley S.W., Colin McKenzie J.W., R. McLean Secretary, R. McKie acting S.D., Jas. Harley J.D., J. Pool I.G., J. Minwich Tyler. Business—The Lodge having been duly opened by Bro. Dobson, a petition was presented from Mr. Stewart Harmer, engineer, and as he was about to sail on Monday, it was voted a case of emergency. Bro. Dobson then initiated the candidate, in his usual able manner. Having opened the Lodge in the 2nd degree, he then resigned the gavel to Bro. G. W. Wheeler of 73, who passed, and afterwards raised the candidate to the sublime degree. Thereafter the Wardens proposed the thanks of the Lodge to Bros. Dobson and Wheeler for their services on this occasion.

Commercial Lodge, No. 360.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Friday, the 28th April, at their own Hall, 30 Hope-street, Glasgow. Present—Bros. J. Lamb D.M., who, in the absence from town of the W.M., took the chair, J. M. Oliver S.W., J. Mitchel acting J.W. Business—An application for admission was read from Mr. Walter Buchanan, and the ballot proving unanimous, he was admitted and initiated in a very careful manner by Bro. Lamb.

Dramatic Lodge, No. 571.—This Lodge held its regular meeting at 3 o'clock on Wednesday the 3rd of May, at St. Marks Hall, Buchanan-street, Glasgow. Present—Bros. W. J. E. Dobson R.W.M., Jas. Huston D.M., H. W. Jackman S.W., R. S. Smith acting J.W., E. Weir acting Sec., Wm. Barbour Treas., L. Mitchell J.D., Robinson I.G., J. B. Hardie Tyler. Visitors Bros. Wheeler 73, Lambe D.M., J. M. Oliver S.W. 360, J. McGlennis D.M. 408, J. Ferguson I.P.M. 543, William Phillips R.W.M. 556, and several other brethren. Business—Initiation of Mr. Adam H. Gill, worked by the R.W.M., who then opened a Fellow Craft Lodge, and asked Bro. Oliver of 360 to confer that degree on Bro. Walter Buchanan, after which the Lodge was opened in the third degree, when Bro. Lambe D.M. of Lodge Commercial raised two brethren to the sublime degree. All three ceremonies were admirably worked.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting, on Tuesday, the 2nd May, at the Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. Perrin W.M., Cambridge S.W., Wiegs J.W., Worsley Secretary, Wallington Preceptor, Allen S.D., Smith J.D., Johnson I.G.; also Bros. Turquand, Gray, Follett, &c. The Lodge opened in due form, and the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Huggins acting as candidate. The 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the Lecture were worked by Bro. Allen, assisted by the the brethren. The Lodge was then opened and closed in the three degrees. Bro. Cambridge was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Lodge of Asaph, No. 1319.—The regular meeting of this Lodge met on Monday, 1st inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. C. Jekyll W.M., W. A. Tinney S.W., E. Terry J.W., G. Buckland S.D., E. Swanborough J.D., Harry Cox D.C., C. H. Stephenson Steward, C. Wellard I.G., C. Coote jun. Treasurer, E. S. Jones Secretary; G. R. Egerton Org. and P.M.'s C. Coote sen., Chamberlin and J. Read. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. W. P. Hammond and J. H. Pearson were passed to the 2nd degree. J. D. Wallace was raised to the 3rd degree, and Messrs. L. Hermann, C. Beckett, C. Fogarty, and Charles Harcourt were duly initiated into the Order. Credit is due to the W.M. and Officers for the correct and impressive manner in which the business was conducted. Bros. Purkess P.M. 145 and C. H. Thompson S.W. 209 were present as visitors.

Clapton Chapter of Improvement, No. 1365.—The above Chapter of Improvement was inaugurated on Wednesday evening last (3rd May), under the presidency of Comp. John Ramsay P.Z. Preceptor, supported by Comps. C. R. Miles and J. Hobbs, as H and J. respectively, at the White Hart Tavern, Clapton, and was well attended by the R. A. Masons residing in the neighbourhood. The meetings will now continue to be held regularly every Wednesday evening, at 7.30 p.m., and, no doubt, will be numerously supported, and prove a great success, there being no other Chapter of Instruction within some considerable distance. All R. A. Masons who can make it convenient to attend are cordially invited.

Gladsmuir Lodge, No. 1385.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Friday, the 28th ultimo, at Bro. Fisher's, the Red Lion Hotel, Barnet. Present—Bros. James Catbush W.M., Dr. Livingston S.W., R. F. Young J.W., G. Askew Secretary, Frederick Venables S.D., C. Gray J.D., J. Ruerby I.G., Goddard Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. Hayward Edwards I.P.M., John Lowthin Prov. S.G.W. Herts. Visitors—Bros. John Constable P.M. 185, J. K. Pitt, P. T. Duffy, Harris, Neill, &c. After the preliminary business of the evening had been disposed of, the chair was taken by Bro. P.M. Lowthin, and Mr. W. W. Morgan jun., who had been previously balloted for, was introduced, and duly initiated into the Order. Bro. Cull was elected a joining member. The report of the Committee in reference to the establishment of a Benevolent Fund in connection with the Lodge was then discussed, and we are pleased to be able to announce that it may be considered settled, as the details are to be referred back to the Committee, and will no doubt be accepted at the next meeting of the Lodge. Several propositions were then handed in, and the Lodge was closed in order. A slight repast followed, at which the W.M. presided in genial manner, the customary toasts were duly honored. The announcement that the last train for London would start in ten minutes brought forth a call for the Tyler, whose toast concluded a most pleasant evening.

Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, No. 1507.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Friday, the 28th ult., at the Metropolitan Club, King's Cross. Present—Bros. Willing W.M., Barrie S.W., Kingham J.W., Fowler S.D., Side J.W., H. Stiles I.G., Adams P.G.P. Preceptor, W. M. Stiles Secretary; and Bros. Scales, Child, Little, Cox, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes were read and confirmed. Lodge opened in 2nd and 3rd degrees, and Bro. Little raised to degree of M.M., in a most impressive manner. The 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the 3rd lecture were worked by Bros. Adams P.G.P. Preceptor and Willing P.M. Treasurer, in a very able manner. Lodge was then closed down, and Bro. Barrie appointed W.M. for ensuing meeting. A sincere vote of condolence was accorded Bro. Cheek on the loss of his much beloved wife. As a mark of the esteem in which Bro. Adams, the veteran Preceptor of this Lodge of Instruction, is regarded, one of the members expressed his pleasure and intention of presenting each member with a photograph of Brother Adams, this was received with great delight by the brethren, who naturally will be proud to possess the likeness of so great and good an ornament to the Craft. Lodge closed in due form.

Chaucer Lodge, No. 1540.—This new Lodge, which is rapidly increasing in numbers, and can boast of having among its members many brethren who are thoroughly proficient in their duties, met on the 26th ult., at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Bro. J. H. Wilkins P.M. 73, in the absence of the W.M., Bro. T. Sabine, opened the Lodge. He was supported by Bro. J. C. Mason S.W., B. J. Stidolph J.W., W. J. Kemp S.D., H. Faija C.E. I.G., A. J. Hawkes D.C., H. Wright P.M. acting as Deacon. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. H. C. Harrison, H. Black, H. Diack, and E. Sloper, were, after showing their proficiency, passed to the 2nd degree, in a very perfect manner. The W.M. having arrived from Brighton, then occupied the chair, and initiated Mr. H. Levy into the Order. Bro. H. Faija stated his intention to act as Steward at the Anniversary Festival of the Girls' School, and enlisted the sympathies of the brethren on behalf of that noble Institution. Bro. E. S. Stidolph J.W. nobly responded, by placing his name down for £10 10s. Bro. Wilkins used his eloquence in the cause of the Charity, and urged the brethren to make the Lodge a Life Governor, in the name of the W.M. for the time being, and we are pleased to announce that he succeeded, so that this young Lodge is now in possession of its first Life Governorship for the Girls' School. The Lodge was then closed, there was no banquet, the day falling on that fixed for Grand Festival. The Visitors were Bros. T. C. Watts S.D. 1381, J. Davis 1309, W. Lane P.M. 28, T. W. Adams 765, Rev. T. W. Cave, and J. S. Sweasey 1423.

City of Westminster Lodge, No. 1563.—The regular meeting of this new Lodge was held on the 27th ult., at the Masonic Hall, Café Royal, Air-street, Regent-street. Bros. B. W. Swallow W.M., Rev. P.M. Holden P. G. Chaplain Middlesex S.W., E. White J.W., C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. Treasurer, E. J. Scott P.M. Secretary, E. Turner J.D., Willis as I.G., J. G. Shand D.C., and Bros. Emanuel, Morley, J. Wass, Waugh, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Pike, Day, Wass, Riley and Bonham were passed to the 2nd degree. Bros. James, Irving and Townley 1351 were raised to the 3rd degree, and Messrs. J. P. Dicker, A. Symonds and E. Hardwick (son of the coroner for Marylebone) were duly initiated into the Order. The working was excellently rendered by the W.M. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. then stated that the W.M., one of the founders of the Lodge, had consented to act as Steward for the Girls' School at the next Anniversary Festival, and proposed that the sum of £10 10s should be given from the funds to be placed on his list. This was seconded by the Rev. P. M. Holden S.W. and carried. The latter brother called the attention of the brethren to the bye-laws with regard to the Benevolent Fund, whereby 5 per cent. of all initiation, joining fees and subscriptions are to be set apart by the Treasurer for the purpose of forming a Benevolent Fund. These bye-laws are a pattern worthy of imitation, as they contain full particulars of the three Masonic Charities, whereby every brother on his initiation can at once make himself acquainted with the groundwork on which our Institutions are framed. The Lodge was then closed, and an excellent banquet was supplied by Bro. Nickels. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the M.W.G.M., alluded to his enthusiastic reception in the East. All would be pleased to see him again amongst them, and no class would be ready to give him a more hearty reception than the Masonic body. The W.M. next proposed the health of the Pro Grand Master, and in giving the toast of the Deputy Grand Master said, he was proud to see three Grand Officers present. Bro. Hyde Pullen P.G.S.B. returned thanks. He was one who signed the warrant for the formation of the Lodge, he was pleased to see the Lodge flourishing, and he was gratified at seeing the able working of the W.M. and officers. All would, he was sure, do all in their power to forward the progress of the Lodge. Bro. J. Smith P.G.P. followed. It was a satisfaction to see, when petitions were sent to Grand Lodge, that the W.M. and officers were as thoroughly conversant with their duties as that that had been witnessed during the evening. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune then proposed the toast of the W.M., who had said, the first time he presided over them, that he would do all he could to their satisfaction. This had been done, and he hoped they would drink his health in a hearty manner. The W.M. remarked that he had worked hard in the cause of Freemasonry, and he was pleased to say that this was the 7th meeting. They were free from debt, and had given £10 10s to one of the Charities, he trusted they would yet do more—(cheers)—and he hoped the seven brethren who were in office would eventually occupy the proud position of Master of their Lodge. Bro. Dicker returned thanks for the newly initiated. In proposing the Visitors, the W.M. said they were honoured by the presence of Grand Officers and many brethren distinguished in the Order. Bros. Pimpard, Draper and S. Webb returned thanks for the toast. The toast of the Treasurer and Secretary was given, their qualifications were well known, and required no comment. The W.M. proposed the toast of the Wardens, paying them deserved compliments for their able working. Bro. Rev P. M. Holden returned thanks; he felt proud if he could have the pleasure of assisting the W.M. in the working; every ceremony ought to be perfectly and solemnly worked, and when that is done, the remembrance can never be effaced. The W.M. had carried that out to their satisfaction; he had been the means, after labour, of passing an enjoyable and social evening, and he hoped, when he arrived to the position of W.M. he might follow in the footsteps of so worthy a predecessor. He had met many friends in Freemasonry, and he hoped it would continue so to his latest hour. Bro. White followed. The toast of the Junior Officers and the Tyler were given. The brethren experienced a great musical treat by the exquisite singing of Bro. S. Webb, and the Rev. P. M. Holden S.W. gave an excellent recitation. The visitors were Bros. Hyde Pullen P.G.S.B., J. Smith P.G.P., Lamb 1567, W. S. Daniel 1541, G. Draper W.M. 1305, J. Hurdell 1348, J. Edell 108, T. Bourne 411 (Dronfield), F. Pompard 1446, W. P. Drew 749, S. Webb P.M. 93 and 1297, Ross 382, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Digitized by Google

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF GLASGOW.

THE Quarterly communication was held in St. Mark's Hall, on Thursday, 27th April. There was a full attendance of Masters and Wardens. A telegram was read from the P.G.M., Bro. Wm. M. Neilson, stating that he was worse to-day, and unable to attend the meeting; Bro. Baird D.P.G.M. accordingly opened the Lodge, with Bros G. McDonald R.W.M. of 73 as P.G.S.W., J. Booth 87 as P.G.J.W., A. McTaggart P.G.S., J. Gillies 103 P.G.T., G. Thallon 302 P.G.S.D., J. Miller 127 P.G.J.D. A. Bain 103 P.G.S.B., J. Balfour 332 P.G.D.C., D. Reid 465 P.G.I.G., J. B. Hardie P.G. Tyler, and G. Sinclair P.G. Treasurer of the Benevolent Fund, who after reading of minutes reported that the Benevolent Committee had, during the quarter, relieved four widows and one infirm brother. The new bye-laws of Lodge were approved of, and those of 553, with the petition of 45 brethren against the same, which had been sent to P.G.L. from the Committee of Grand Lodge, was remitted to P.G. Committee, with full powers.

Two brethren of Lodge 87 having been suspended for six months for un-Masonic conduct, and not having appeared, the P.G.L. confirmed the decision. The financial statement of the Auditors was presented and approved of as highly satisfactory. The Lodge was then closed in due form.

ANNUAL VISITATIONS.

ON Monday, 1st May, the Lodge Union, No. 332, was visited. Bro. McKirdy R.W.M. was ably supported by the whole of his office bearers, and Bros. McNair I.P.M., R. Mitchell, and J. Balfour P.M., and a large attendance of members and visitors. The P.G.S. reported that they had found the books all right, and the Lodge working generally satisfactory. The acting P.G.M. endorsed the sentiments of the Secretary, and was glad to be able to congratulate them on their continued prosperity.

On Tuesday 2nd May, at 8 p.m., the Lodge of St. John, No. 3 bis, was visited at their own Hall, 213 Buchanan-street. The books were found to be satisfactorily kept, but the P.G.S. took exception to the Lodge, having on several occasions conferred more than one degree on the same night without recording the circumstance that had made such a course necessary. The acting P.G.M., himself a P.M. of St. John, said the P.G.M. was very particular on this point, and not without reason, as one degree was quite enough for any one to work and retain in their memory at one time. Bro. D. M. Nelson R.W.M. did not admit that they had done wrong. Each Lodge must judge of the circumstances that justify them in giving more than one degree, and of these facts he considered they were as well able to judge as a deputation from the Provincial, coming many months after the date, and deciding upon superficial knowledge. The D.P.G.M. reminded him that it was not the deputation that were finding fault; they were only referring them to Grand Lodge Laws.

The Deputation then went to 170 Buchanan-street, where the members of the Thistle and Rose Lodge, under the Presidency of Bro. G. McDonald and his officers were awaiting their arrival. After they had very carefully gone through the books, they were received with all the honours. The P.G.S. said he was glad to be able to say they had never yet examined a better set of books, and they had written in them as favourable a report as of any Lodge they had yet visited. He found that last year they had received 27 fresh initiations, and that their contributions to charities had amounted to £17 15s; but while they had so much to praise he must call attention to the fact, that in several cases the 2nd and 3rd degrees had been conferred in one night. He thought this to be a very undesirable state of things and although Grand Lodge laws allowed it in cases of emergency, it hoped it would only be done when the emergency was real.

Bro. Baird D.P.G.M., was glad to endorse the very excellent certificate the P.G.S. had given them. He knew that some times great pressure was brought to bear on the R.W.M. of a Lodge to get him to give two or even three degrees in one night. He hoped they would try to resist that pressure, and only give the one degree. Bro. G. McDonald thanked the P.G.M. and the deputation for their visit, and also for their very favourable report. He could assure them that he never willingly gave two degrees to a candidate in one night, but there were cases where owing to Brothers leaving the City it was unavoidable.

The Lodge was then placed under the care of the J.W., and a couple of hours were spent in harmony, an unusual circumstance in this Lodge.

On Wednesday, the 3rd, the same deputation waited on Lodge Kilwinning, No. 4, in their own hall, 170 Buchanan-street. The Lodge having assembled an hour earlier than usual in order to work the second degree before the arrival of the P.G.L., Bro. Prout R.W.M. in the chair, G. Holmes S.W., J. McGinnis acting J.W., J. McKean Treas., J. Castle Sec., and other office bearers, when Bro. G. W. Wheeler of 73 passed a brother to the Fellow Craft degree. Amongst the Visitors were the R.W.MM. of 360, 38, 73, 214, 332, 408, and 534.

The P.G.S. after the deputation had been received presented his report, which spoke very favourably of the working of the Lodge, though they had not had so many initiates as in some former years. The D.P.G.M. said he hoped they were looking more to the quality than the quantity of their material, and that was the way to keep a firm structure. Bro. Prout said he hoped during his year of office to get as good material and yet increase the quantity; at any rate no effort on his part should be wanted to secure that object.

The deputation afterwards visited the Lodge Caledonian Railway, No. 354, where they were received by a large assembly of the members and visitors, and able to highly compliment the Lodge on the general state of its affairs. The excellences were many and the defects but few, but it was a duty to point them out be they ever so slight.

Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, Lily of the Valley Conclave, No. 127.—This Conclave met on 30th ult., at the Masonic Hall, Hollytown, H. J. Shields 33° presiding as M.P.S., Wm. M'Murdo E.V., D. Baker S.G., J. Nimmo, J.G., when a petition was presented from Comp. J. Wood, who was then duly received and created a Knight of the Order.

Knight Templars, St. Mungo's Encampment, Glasgow.—This Encampment met on Wednesday, 3rd May. Sir Knights R. Bell K.C., G. W. Wheeler prelate, H. J. Shields 33° as Marshal. This being the last meeting of the Body prior to the Commander and Deputy Commander sailing for America to take part in the Centennial Festival and Templar Demonstration, the arrangements for its temporary command were finally made, and it was placed in the charge of Sir Knights Shield P.E.C. and Wheeler. Sir Knight Baker Military Instructor, then gave the Sir Knights present their drill, as they intended not to be behind their brotherhood either in manual or moral discipline.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

FESTIVAL, 28TH JUNE 1876.

At the last meeting of the Committee it was unanimously decided to hold the Festival in connection with this Institution at the Alexandra Palace, under precisely the same conditions as last year.

The following brethren were elected officers of the Board of Stewards.

COL. SIR HENRY EDWARDS, BART., R.W. PROV. G.M. West Yorkshire, President.

Vice-President, V.W. Bro. the Rev. W. K. RILAND BEDFORD, P.G.Ch.

Acting V.P. W. Bro. S. ROSENTHAL, P.M. 435, &c.

Honorary Treasurer, W. Bro. F. ADLARD, P.M. 7, &c.

Honorary Secretary, Bro. F. BINCKES, Secretary R.M.I. for Boys.

Lodge of Prudent Brethren, No. 145.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday, the 25th ult., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. E. H. Thiellay W.M., Moult S.W., G. S. Stutes P.M. P.G.S. Secretary, John Boyd P.G.P. Treasurer, Manby Assistant Secretary, J. Hughes S.D., Leggott J.D., Lister A.D.C., Wood as I.G. P.M.'s J. Bull and G. Parkes, and Bros. A. Boetsh, Brock, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Aime, Hugon, G. Mattison, and C. Codlin were passed to the 2nd degree by the W.M. Bros. A. Moars and Scott (hailing from another Lodge), were by the courtesy of the W.M., raised to the 3rd degree by G. Parkes P.M., both these ceremonies being capitally worked. The handsomely emblazoned testimonial, presented by the Lodge to Bro. H. Dicketts P.G.S., was handed round for inspection, and gave great satisfaction from its artistic design. The Lodge was then closed. There was no banquet.

"WOMEN IN THE REIGN OF QUEEN VICTORIA," is the title of a new book, the joint production of Madame Caplin and Dr. Mill, which is about to be issued by Messrs. DEAN and SON. The work, we understand, is devoted to the whole Woman's question, especially in relation to healthy employment and recreation.

The Lord Chancellor, in his speech in the House of Lords, 3rd April, 1876, mentions DESACRE'S PHRASES as "A depository of information which I never open without amusement and admiration . . . the best established in this country." Used officially in House of Lords.

Digitized by Google

THE THEATRES, &c.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—This day and Monday, TANNHAUSER. On Tuesday, L'ELISIR D'AMORE. On Wednesday, LOHENGRIN. On Thursday, CONGRATULATORY E TERTAINMENT TO THE PRINCE OF WALES, UN BALLO IN MASCHERA. On Friday, IL BARBIERE DI SIVIGLIA. On Saturday, LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR. Each evening at 8.30.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA, DRURY LANE.—This evening, LUCREZIA BORGIA. On Monday, FAUST. On Tuesday, SEMIRAMIDE. On Thursday, NORMA. At 8.30 each evening. On Monday morning, and Wednesday and Friday evenings, SIGNOR ROSSI as LEAH, MACBETH, &c.

LYCEUM.—At 7.30, NATURE AND PHILOSOPHY. At 8.30, QUEEN MARY.

ADELPHI.—STRUCK OIL, and FOOL OF THE FAMILY.

PRINCESS'S.—At 7.0, No. 1 ROUND THE CORNER. At 7.30, ALL FOR HER, &c.

HAYMARKET.—At 7.30, THE HUNCHBACK, &c.

STRAND.—At 7.30, A LESSON IN LOVE. At 9.15, L'AFRICAINE, &c.

GAIETY.—At 7.45, BLUE DEVILS. At 8.30, MY AWFUL DAD. At 10.30, COOL AS A CUCUMBER.

CHARING CROSS.—At 8, ALL FOR THEM. At 9.45, STARVATION REFUSING PLENTY SUBJECT. At 9.45, YOUNG RIP VAN WINKLE.

OLYMPIC.—At 7.30, FASCINATING FELLOWS. At 8.0, THE GASCON. At 10.45, VESTA'S TEMPLE.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—OURS.

ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE.—At 7.30, THE TAILOR MAKES THE MAN. At 9.15, JO.

GLOBE.—At 7.30, COUSIN CHERRY. At 8.0, MISS GWILT, &c.

VAUDEVILLE.—At 7.30, A WHIRLIGIG. At 8.0, OUR BOYS, and A FEARFUL FOG.

COURT.—At 8.0, A SCRAP OF PAPER, and A QUIET RUBBER.

ST. JAMES'S.—MODEL OF A WIFE, and THE SULTAN OF MOCHA.

OPERA COMIQUE.—LE PETITE MARIE.

CRITERION.—At 7.30, THE WALL OF CHINA, and THE GREAT DIVORCE CASE, &c.

ALHAMBRA.—LE VOYAGE DANS LA LUNE, &c.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.—This day, Grand Opening Day of the Season, FLOWER SHOW, BROEKMANN'S CIRCUS, FIREWORKS, &c. On Monday, MUSICAL FESTIVAL. On Tuesday, RIP VAN WINKLE. On Thursday, LADY AUDLEY'S SECRET, VENETIAN FETE, WATER FIREWORKS, &c. On Friday and Saturday, RACES. Open Daily, SKATING RINK, &c.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—This day, SUMMER CONCERT. Open daily, AQUARIUM, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL AQUARIUM SUMMER AND WINTER GARDEN. Open daily. CONCERT, &c.

ROYAL POLYTECHNIC.—MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT, entitled ALICE'S ADVENTURES. Solos on the Violin and Zither. NEW LECTURE: A SUNBEAM, and HOW TO WEIGH IT. HEINKE'S DIVING DRESS and SUBMARINE LAMP. The New Type Writer in operation. FROM ENGLAND TO PHILADELPHIA. A TRIP TO THE SUEZ CANAL. Dissolving Views and Mechanical Effects. MARVELLOUL ILLUSIONS BY M. HORACE DE GREY. Open from 12 till 5, and 7 till 10. Admission to the whole, 1s.

EGYPTIAN (LARGE) HALL.—MASKELYNE AND COOKE, daily at 3.0 and 8.0.

The Freemason's Chronicle.

WEEKLY, PRICE THREEPENCE.

OFFICE:—67 BARBICAN, LONDON, E.C.

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE can be ordered of any Bookseller in Town or Country, but should any difficulty be experienced, it will be forwarded direct from the Office, on receipt of Post Office Order for the amount. Intending Subscribers should forward their full Addresses to prevent mistakes.

Post Office Orders to be made payable to W. W. MORGAN, at Barbican Office. Cheques crossed "London and County."

The Terms of Subscription (payable in advance) to THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE are—

Twelve Months, Post Free	...	...	£0 13 6
Six Months	ditto	...	... 0 7 0
Three Months	ditto	...	... 0 3 6

Agents, from whom Copies can always be had:—

Messrs. CURTICE and Co., 12 Catherine Street, Strand.
Mr. T. DEACON, 87 Farringdon Street.
Mr. G. W. JORDAN, 169 Strand.
Messrs. MARSHALL and SONS, 125 Fleet Street, E.C.
Mr. M. J. PARKINSON, 114 Goswell Road, E.C.
Mr. H. SIMPSON, 7 Red Lion Court, E.C.
Messrs. SMITH and SONS, 183 Strand.
Messrs. SPENCER and Co., 23A Great Queen Street, W.C.
Messrs. STEEL and JONES, 4 Spring Gardens, Charing Cross.
Mr. G. VICKERS, Angel Court, 172 Strand.
Mr. H. VICKERS, 317 Strand.

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisers will find THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE an exceptionally good medium for Advertisements of every class.

Per Page...	...	...	...	...	...	£8	0	0
Back Page	...	...	...	...	...	£10	0	0

General Advertisements, Trade Announcements, &c. single column, 5s per inch. Double Column Advertisements 1s per line. Special Terms for a Series of insertions on application.

Births, Marriages and Deaths, 6d per line.

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief PARISIAN ESTABLISHMENTS, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE,

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.
For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sore of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.
It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 6d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

ELECTION 19th May.—BRO. CONSTABLE would be pleased to exchange Men's Votes for Widows.

Address, 58 Richmond Road, Barnsbury, N.

MR. THOMAS C. MACROW,

252 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD, LONDON, S.E.

(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)

BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let or sold with quickly (Town or Country). All particulars with long to sell, call or send full particulars. Register when for. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 3. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c. Tamar (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—2s 6d per box, post free 34 stamps.—E. GRILLON, 34 Coleman-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,

BRO. J. L. MATHER, P.M. 65, 1237, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Winchester-street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

YOUNG'S Ariolated Corn and Bunion Plasters are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d and 1s per box. Any Chemist not having them in stock can procure them.

Observe the Trade Mark—S. Y.—without which none are genuine. Be sure and ask for Young's.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY.—A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a simple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.

Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Grove Terrace, Fulham, London.

Digitized by Google

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.

SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

A. D. LOEWENSTARK & SONS,

MASONIC JEWELLERS AND MILITARY MEDALLISTS,

26 GREAT QUEEN STREET, W.C. AND 210 STRAND, W.C.

The Largest Assortment of Past Masters' & Royal Arch Jewels in London.

ALSO JEWELS FOR EVERY DEGREE.

MINIATURE WAR MEDALS & FOREIGN DECORATIONS, WHOLESALE, RETAIL & FOR EXPORTATION.

ESTABLISHED 1844.

ESTABLISHED 1833.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,

MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,

AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING

Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.

MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;

AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.

ESTIMATES GIVEN.

JOSEPH J. CANEY,

DIAMOND MERCHANT, AND MANUFACTURING JEWELLER AND WATCH MAKER,

44 CHEAPSIDE, LONDON.

MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND FURNITURE.

Specialité—First Class Jewels—Artistic—Massive—Best Quality—Moderate in Price.

CATALOGUES POST FREE.

A LARGE STOCK OF LOOSE BRILLIANTS FOR EXPENSIVE JEWELS.

Diamond Rings, Brooches, Studs, Earrings and Bracelets in Great Variety.

THE "SPECIALITE SHERRY."

FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT.—The British Medical Journal.

VALUABLE FOR GOUTY OR URIC ACID TENDENCIES."—Dr. HASSWICKER, Metropolitan Analyst, Coroner for Middlesex.

ADOPTED AND RECOMMENDED BY nearly 3,000 Physicians and Surgeons for its Valuable Dietetic Qualities. 30s per dozen.

FELTOE & SONS, Sole Proprietors and Importers Chief Establishment, Albemarle-street, London, W

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,

INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (REGISTD.)

"BRO. ADLARD'S far famed JEWEL ATTACHER, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price 1s. 6d., (if with pockets for Jewels 6d. each pocket extra) places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and neatness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Lodge Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,

Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8 No. 97 for MAY, now ready. Sixpence. CHESS, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE DRAMA.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES. Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE (a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.

This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction.

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

"There should be a better reason for the rate of Deposition than a fluctuating rate of two or three per cent."—SUSSEX'S GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited), Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City; and 27 and 29 Regent-street, W. Established 1840. Receives Deposits On Demand, 2 per cent. Subject to Notice, 3½ per cent. Opens Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to examine this new and improved system, that ensures a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-discounted or re-hypothecated any of the securities. To BORROWERS.—It offers pre-eminent advantages for prompt advances on houses, reversions, policies, trade stocks, farm produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, sureties, or fees. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 27 and 29 Regent-street, W. Established 1840. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. To INVESTORS.—Deposits received at liberal interest. The Directors by strict economy have been enabled every year to add 2½ per cent. per annum. Borrowers are offered unusual facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. New and Special Feature.—The Society will build Houses, etc., in any approved part of Great Britain, finding the whole cost of the building, at 5 per cent., repayable by instalments, the applicant merely finding the plan and paying or giving security for the first 3 years in

THE RETURN OF THE PRINCE OF WALES.

THE Prince is home again with his wife and children, after an absence of close on seven months. To say he was affectionately greeted by them, by the Queen, and the other members of the Royal Family, were almost an insult—as though they were strangers to those feelings which Dame Nature has implanted in all of us. The Princess of Wales put out to meet him, and together they entered Portsmouth Harbour on board the Serapis, amid thundering salutes from all the ships of war and forts, and the deep hearty cheering of English sailors, and of the crowds assembled on every coigne of vantage to witness the imposing sight. It is not our intention to inflict upon our readers a long description of what they have already had told them in all the daily papers. Let it be sufficient if we say that on his first approach to Portsmouth, on landing, on his progress to the railway station, and again from Victoria Station to Buckingham Palace, and thence to his own residence, the thousands who were present—whether officially or of their own choice—cheered him to the echo. Indeed, as regards the heartiness exhibited, it almost equalled the display of thirteen years since, when, on a somewhat cheerless day, His Royal Highness led his betrothed, then Princess Alexandra of Denmark, from the east to the western limits of our huge metropolis. On the present occasion, as the route was shorter, there were only some thousands congregated by the way, but the heartiness of their greeting gave one the idea what the scene would have been had the Prince traversed London from end to end. But to specify the chief features of the journey. At Portsmouth the day was observed as a holiday. Of the two routes from the dockyard to the railway the longer and wider was selected, and this afforded the inhabitants a magnificent opportunity for displaying their loyalty. The military and naval authorities were also enabled to give greater éclat, by placing military and marines along the whole line. At the landing stage were congregated the Dukes of Connaught and Cambridge, the Lords of the Admiralty and the chief naval and military officers, and certain of these went on board the Serapis the moment it came alongside the landing stage. After a brief delay, for the purpose of taking some part of the luggage ashore, the Prince and Princess landed, and the Corporation of Portsmouth were presented, and tendered the inevitable address. A song of welcome having then been sung, the procession was formed, and moved along the prescribed direction amid the heartiest cheers imaginable, towards the Landport Railway Station. Here, on the platform, among others, was a deputation of brethren from the Province of Hants and the Isle of Wight, headed by R.W. Bro. W. W. Beach, M.P., P.G.M., their object being the presentation of an address, which was graciously received. The Royal party, which also included the Prince's children and the Duke of Edinburgh, then entered the train, and the journey to London commenced. At Victoria Station most extensive preparations were made, and the station, ordinarily so unattractive, had quite a gala appearance. The Royal train was timed to arrive at five o'clock, but it was nearly seven when it glided noiselessly in. Among those assembled to greet him on his arrival, were the Princess Louise and the Duchess of Teck. On descending to the platform, a deputation of the Burgesses of Westminster, headed by his Grace the Duke of Buccleugh, High Steward of the ancient City, presented an address. As to his reception, little need be said of that. The cheering was loud and u time His Royal Highness, wit their children drove out of t escort of Life Guards, the foot the cortege appearing in sight the sound of cheering was ag rather it began and continued
Buckingham Palace, where Her
After a stay of about half-an-ho and Princess re-entered their c borough House, amid the same
In the evening they paid a visit and there, it is needless to s intent on greeting them than Opera.

And thus ends a journey not those undertaken by royal p eldest son and heir, and repres the chief cities of one of the g ever saw. First at Bombay,
Calcutta, at Delhi, at Lucknow, names are only a little less fam heartily and respectfully. No much to increase the loyalty of
No doubt the British empire wi united, for the visit of the Princ occasions by so much state, and most important princes of Indi ably impressed the native mind our irresistible power, but likew loyalty and attachment to our r sible to doubt that the Prince's j of an immense amount of good of his Indian journey never en those who were gathered to Affectionate loyalty to the Quee himself, were at the bottom Right gloriously indeed was h equal heartiness and fraternal congratulations.

MASONIC PORTR

THE AR

"The painter plays the spi
A golden mesh to entrap
Faster than gnats in cobw

WE know not how far from dered in our laborious t
but we have no doubt commit unwritten laws of art. Here has been too coarse, or too feeb sacrificed at the shrine of that.
ground of this sketch too prom to give the proper breadth and
We have used just such colou fancy, and we have declined t gaudy tints which catch the u
a word-picture, if it be truly a rially from the work of the p works with a different vehicle, t the true instinct for art, his p
when the hand that traced th

Digitized by Google

are passages in Tristram Shandy, for example, which are as truly pictures, and masterpieces too of their kind, as any of the great works which adorn our national collection. Corporal Trim, Captain Shandy, Yorick and Widow Wadman are as real and as vivid as any of the portraits from the pencil of Titian or Vandyke. They are from the pen of a genius, and the painter who attempts to transfer these wonderful word-pictures to the canvas finds that he can add no touch to complete their vivid reality. The veteran who whistled Lillabulleroo, and dug his mimic ramparts in the garden, is an old familiar friend. We might part with many of the heroes of modern fiction without a pang, but no one would consent to a life-long separation from "Uncle Toby" or the "Corporal." Genius has touched these creations with its magic finger, and they exist for all time.

If our own poor sketches live their little hour, we shall be quite satisfied; if they interest or instruct our readers, they will have fulfilled the purpose for which they were written. We claim for them no other merit than that of truthfulness, and hence we do not tremble while our brother of the pencil, who is now walking through our studio, passes his critical eye over our work. He indeed is engaged in a great work of a similar nature, and can make due allowance for the difficulties which have harassed us in our long and difficult task. He may possibly criticise adversely our colouring or our drawing; he may object to the obtrusion of this group of facts, or that stroke of satire. We shall listen to him respectfully, but he must, like others, pay the penalty of his rashness. He shall not leave our literary domain until we have transferred some imperfect outline of him to our canvas. Our features will not mar or adorn his great composition, but he shall grace our galaxy of Masonic celebrities.

Our visitor then hails from Ireland, a country which has given birth to many illustrious sons of genius. Our memory is stored with the names of a long list of poets, orators, actors, painters, and musicians, who claim the emerald isle as the land of their birth. An Irishman is an artist by nature; he tells a story excellently. He writes fluently and well, and the English press is sustained by many brilliant pens which have been imported from the other side of St. George's Channel. The leader in your favourite journal, reader, which you emphatically declare to be thoroughly English in sentiment, is perhaps from the pen of an Irish scribe. Your great speech was probably given to the world by an Irish reporter, and the very prints which hang in your library are possibly copied from the works of Mulready or Maclise! But we might go on writing in this strain until paper or space failed us, and to what purpose? No one needs to be told that Irishmen are clever. The fact is patent to all. The fact is likewise patent that the Irishman who has been so greatly gifted by providence with the higher faculties of the mind, has little of that faculty for getting money which is so characteristic of our English nature. But we are forgetting our visitor, of whose career we have to say something. He was born at Queenstown, in the year 1830, where his father was settled as a professional man, and boasts of being the descendant of a very old family. His attention was early directed to art, indeed he had a natural bent for it, and after some little coquetting with the fair goddess, he settled down steadily to the worship of the beautiful as his vocation in life. Circumstances however conspired to clip his wings for a time, and after all his high aspirations we find him an active partner in one of the largest artistic establishments in Ireland. Here his pencil was in constant and daily exercise, and he threw off many of those beautiful but perishable works which are a characteristic feature of the art workmanship of our time. He was the first to introduce chromo-lithography into his native country, and he is, we need scarcely add, skilled in all the art processes of this beautiful branch of printing. In addition to his numberless contributions to the artistic repertory of the establishment with which he was connected, he has worked as a book illustrator, and, like many men of genius who have gone before him, he has drawn some of his best designs on the wood. The public little know how much talent and even genius is concentrated upon this branch of art. Some of the greatest men of the day have not disdained to draw for the wood engraver, and our distinguished brother need not be ashamed of having worked with his sepia and pencil on material which has been ere now enriched by the talent of Leighton, Maclise, Rossetti, and Cruickshank. In the fraternity he is known as the artist who produced the admirable installation portrait of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and it is universally known that he is now engaged upon a great historical picture of the Installation, that promises to be the most successful as well as the most gigantic effort of artistic portraiture which this generation has seen. This work, now rapidly approaching completion, will contain faithful portraits of more than a thousand of the brethren who were present at the ceremony. It is engraved on steel, and will be a permanent and magnificently vivid record of an event which will be for ever memorable in annals of the Craft. All the resources of our brother's art knowledge are lavished upon this great effort of genius, and while it will conform to the canons of artistic criticism, it will be as accurate as a state paper, and as faithful in its details as a photograph. We venture to predict that it will be highly and widely popular, and that it will carry the name and the fame of its author to every civilised country in the world.

Our brother was initiated in the Eclectic Lodge (1201) in the year 1863, and is now Senior Warden. He is Registrar of Marks of Bon Accord Lodge, Assistant Sojourner of Frederick of Unity Chapter, Honorary Organist of the United Strength (228). He is a member of St. George's Rose Croix Chapter, 18°. For the last sixteen years he has been an active member of our Volunteer forces. He was amongst the first to trail a rifle when the celebrated letter of the French Colonels set the patriotism and valour of Britain on fire, and he has since worked in the cause with steady zeal. He took the highest prize in the school of instruction, and was publicly complimented for his military acquirements. He now bears the rank of Captain, and can handle a battalion as cleverly as any of the professional soldiers of the regular army. Lastly, as some illustration of the versatility of his mind, we may add that he is a member of the London and Middlesex Archæological Society.

Farewell, honest soldier, go forth from our studio with thy fame as bright as the blade of thy sword. Farewell, brilliant artist and good brother! may thy pencil ever teach us to honour rectitude, to love the beautiful, to worship the true. Thou hast made a name in the world of art, which will not readily die. Thy graver shall testify to thy industry and talent when thou hast answered the last bugle call. Thy kind face shall live in our memory. We shall remember thy warm Irish heart, thy bright and cheerful talk, thy jollity at the festive board. There is yet a world of work before thee; go forth, conquering and to conquer!

SOVEREIGN GRAND COUNCIL OF THE UNITED STATES.

RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE AND APPENDANT ORDERS.

A COPY has reached us of the proceedings of the Convention of Delegates of the several Grand Councils in the United States, of the Red Cross of Constantine, summoned in June of last year, for the purpose of erecting a Sovereign Grand Council. This Convention was held in response to an invitation issued by Sir A. G. Goodall, M. Ill. G. S. of the Grand Council of New York, to the other Grand Councils in the United States, to send three representatives. On assembling in the Masonic Temple on 1st June, Sir A. G. Goodall called the Convention, and Sir Francis A. Blades, Michigan, on the motion of Sir James H. Willard, Indiana, was elected Chairman, Sir Robert Macoy, N.Y., being appointed Secretary. A committee of three to report on Credentials, and a similar committee to nominate Grand Officers having been chosen, Sir C. L. Stowell, of the former, reported that representatives were present from the Grand Councils of the following ten States: Pennsylvania, Illinois, New York, Massachusetts, Michigan, Kentucky, Indiana, Vermont, Maine, and New Jersey. Representatives, claiming to represent a Grand Council in Indiana, were likewise present, but after a full investigation, it was decided that the body they claimed to represent could not be recognised. A report was then submitted and adopted, that the following permanent officers be appointed, namely, Sir Albert G. Goodall, President; Sir Marquis F. King, Vice-President; Sir Robert Macoy, Secretary. A committee of ten was then nominated to draft a plan of organisation. A Constitution was subsequently presented by this Committee, and adopted. The work of electing the officers of the Sovereign Grand Council was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows: Sir A. G. Goodall, New York, M. Ill. S.G.M.: Sir Calvin L. Stowell, Penn., M.P.D.G.M., Sir D. Burnham Tracy, Michigan, M.E.S. Gr. Viceroy, &c., &c. These having been duly installed, the Sovereign Grand Council was opened in ample form, and was at once proclaimed to be duly organised. A discussion having arisen as to the propriety of conferring the order of Grand Cross on the Knights present who had not received it, the Grand Master was appointed a committee of one to correspond with the Grand Imperial Council of England in reference to conferring this order. The Grand Master was further requested to officially notify the organisation of the Grand Council to all other Imperial and Grand Councils. A committee on rituals having been chosen, and the next council having been fixed to be held in New York, on the first Wednesday in June of this year, the Grand Council was closed in solemn and Knightly form.

Digitized by Google

So much for the Report. The Appendix contains the Constitution as adopted at this Council, a Chronological Table of Memorabilia of the Order, a list of the several Grand Councils in England and United States, now organised, with illustrations of the Regalia, and the various official forms in use by the Order, the whole closing with "A Concise History of the Order of the Red Cross of Constantine." As regards this last, we have only one remark to make. The History virtually begins with the birth, and ends with the death, of Constantine. As to the links that connect the present Order with the Order of Red Cross Knights, said to have been founded, after the battle of Saxa Rubra, by the Emperor Constantine, we are left in utter darkness. Not a word is said to show the continuity of the Order from his day till now. We do not, of course, presume to assert that these links have no existence. We are simply pointing out that "the Concise History of the Order," furnished at end of the Report of Proceedings, is a concise history of Constantine's life and reign, not of the order which bears his name. That, it seems to us, has yet to be written.

SUPREME COUNCIL, A. AND A. RITE.

NORTHERN MASONIC JURISDICTION, U.S.

WE have received copy of the proceedings of the above Council, held in August of last year, at Portland, State of Maine. The Council was opened in due form at 10 a.m., 17th August, by Ill. Bro. Josiah H. Drummond 33°, M.P.S. Grand Commander, and after prayer by the Rev. and Ill. Bro. Charles H. Titus 33°, Grand Prior, the roll of officers, active and emeriti members was called, and a goodly array were found to be present. In attendance also, were a considerable number of honorary members, as well as representatives from the Supreme Councils of Belgium, Scotland, Ireland, Mexico, Italy, New Grenada. Following these particulars, is the address of Ill. Bro. Drummond, a long and exhaustive sketch of the leading events of the previous year, which it would occupy too much space to transcribe, and of which a summary would convey only a very meagre account. Then follow the articles of "Confederation between the Supreme Councils of the Thirty-third Degree of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, to be considered by the Congress of the same at Lausanne," as proposed by the Supreme Council for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States. We learn, subsequently, that the whole number of bodies chartered and under dispensation was 191, while those making returns amounted to 173, thus distributed among the States comprising this Jurisdiction—Maine, 1 Consistory, 1 Chap. R.C., 1 Council P. of J., 1 L. of Perfection; New Hampshire—1 Consistory, Two each Chap. R.C., Councils P. of J. and L. of Perfection; Vermont—1 Consistory, 1 Chap. R.C., 1 Council P. of J., Three LL. of Perfection; Massachusetts—1 Consistory, three Chap. R.C., four Councils P. of J., and six LL. of Perfection; Rhode Island—Two Each, Consistories, Chap. R.C., Councils P. of J., and LL. of Perfection; Connecticut—Two Consistories, Three Chap. R.C., Three Councils P. of J., and Four LL. of Perfection; New York—Seven Consistories, Eight Chap. Rose Croix, Eight Councils P. of J., Twelve LL. of Perfection; New Jersey—One Consistory, Six each, Chapters R.C., Councils P. of J., LL. of Perfection; Pennsylvania—Four Consistories, four Chap. R.C., four Councils P. of J., and five LL. Perfection; Michigan—Consistory, Chap. R.C., Councils P. of J., L. of Perfection, one each; Ohio—1 Consistory, Two Chap. R.C., Three Councils P. of J., three LL. Perfection; Indiana—Consistories, Chap. R.C., Councils P. of J., LL. Perfection, three each; Illinois—Consistories, Chap. R.C., P. of J., LL. Perfection, five each, and Wisconsin with one Consistory, and two each of Chap. Rose Croix, Councils P. of J., and LL. of Perfection. The Supreme Councils of the Dominion of Canada and of Colon in Cuba, were recognised, and an interchange of representatives arranged in the former one, while as regards the latter, the S.G.C. was requested to take the necessary steps to that end. The Grand Orients of Hungary and Belgium were also recognised, and it was determined to interchange publications with them. The financial statements of the Grand Secretary and Grand Treasurer General were reported to have been examined and were approved. Both these statements show a very satisfactory condition of the money market; but an unpleasant report follows of Bodies who had failed to remit their dues. A number of other Reports were submitted by the several Committees, and the standing Committee having been duly appointed, the Council was closed, after prayer, in due form, the next Annual Session of the Council being arranged to be held in New York, on the third Tuesday in August of this year, at 10 a.m. precisely.

The Report of Proceedings is succeeded by an Appendix, containing Reports of Deputies, Foreign Correspondence, Obituary Record, Amendments to Constitutions adopted this Session, together with Tableaux of the officers of the Council and of honorary members; and also a complete list of the officers and members of the several Consistories, S.P.R.S. 32°, and officers of other subordinate Bodies in this jurisdiction, with a roll of honorary members, residents of other jurisdictions, and of Grand Bodies of the A.A. Scottish Rite, recognised by and in relations of amity with this Supreme Council. Thus it will be seen that the Report contains an immense mass of information, much of which will be highly interesting to members of this Rite in the United Kingdom.

ODDS AND ENDS.

By Walter Spencer, F.R.G.S., &c.

THE incident which is reported to have resulted so tragically at Salonica, had a parallel recorded in "Eothen," Chapter xxv., as occurring at Nablous, in Syria. "A beautiful Christian girl, between 15 and 16, had lately been married. At the time, she was accidentally seen by a Mussulman Sheik of wealth and influence, who became instantly enamoured of her. He saw no chance of gratifying his love unless by inducing the girl to embrace his own creed. Being a practical man, he quickly began the attack; he did not assail her with the eloquence of any Imaums or Mussulman saints . . . he sent her no tracts—not even a copy of the holy Koran. An old woman acted as missionary. She brought a whole basketful of arguments—jewels, shawls, scarfs, and all kinds of persuasive finery. Poor Mariam! she put on the jewels, and took a calm view of the Mahometan religion in a little hand-mirror—she could not be deaf to such eloquent ear-rings, and the great truths of Islam came home to her young bosom in the delicate folds of the Cashmere." It would seem that nothing less could operate the perversion of a female to a religion which denies in her the existence of a soul, and the hope of her individual immortality; the sentiment of religion, as we understand it, can obviously have little to do in such a case. For this, have two valuable lives been sacrificed and Europe brought into imminent danger of a sanguinary war?

The Spanish fleet, under Admiral Malcampo, is reported to have returned to Manila, after subjugating the pirates of Sulu. It is not generally known that over the country of these much abused pirates, Great Britain has a claim to sovereignty, which has not been disavowed. The islands lie to the north-east of Borneo, very near to our settlement of Labuan. Lord Palmerston declared his intention of preventing Spain from any attempt to annex them; the various wars have consequently had for pretext, the castigation of native piracy, and are, so far, justifiable. Spain, however, has made no attempt to foster a trade with the Sulpans, or to encourage among them those arts of peace which are the best safeguard against predatory instincts; in fact, her jealous Colonial monopolies and vexatious administration have indirectly tended to keep the hornets' nest in a perpetual buzz. The Sulpans have the reputation of being the most daring and patriotic people of the East, like the Hydriots in the Levant of old. Their capital may have been bombarded and destroyed, and their fleets of prahus dispersed, but without a considerable force in permanent occupation of their coasts, their continued subjugation is impossible. They are moreover, fully alive to the advantages of British commerce, and were at one time, anxious for the civilising protectorate of our flag. Professions made to them formerly have not been redeemed by us, hence a desultory warfare single-handed against their ancient enemy, and for the present, an apparent collapse.

Digitized by Google

All have read of the peculiar shuffling gait of the Camel (said to have been the method of progression preferred by quadrupeds before the flood), caused by the simultaneous, instead of alternate, forward movement of the fore and hind limb. The resultant motion is awkward and dislocating to the rider. The Andalusian "paso" to which riding horses of Spanish descent are trained, is the antithesis of this and the motion as comfortable as in a gentle rocking chair, pleasanter than even the gentle canter, and a heavenly contrast to the English trot. The last is good exercise, well suited to our climate and promotive of perspiration, but on long journeys, fatiguing. It has been my lot to ride many hundred miles in the Colonies and the Americas, and I must give the palm to the Spanish "paso" over every pace a horse can be made to go at. I commend also, for ease and comfort, the Spanish American "pillon," an imitation or real sheepskin, of long wool, generally dyed blue, which is placed over the saddle and strapped tight round the animal with a surcingale, the stirrup-leathers just emerging below its fringe. This eases the seat immensely, and, filling out the sides, gives a firmer and safer grip to the knee; it is the reason assigned for the extra lengthiness of the spurs worn in Spanish America, the rider's heels being kept farther apart by it. The "poncho" is a useful riding cloak in a country of dust. Glad should I have been of one when journeying in Wellington, N.Z., in the teeth of a "southerly buster," where the sand clouds penetrate every crevice of the clothing, filling every pore of the skin, and where the fine pebbles dashed up from the ground, positively seam and pit the unprotected visage. The traveller anxious for a new sensation, who will make his way from the Wairarapa plains through the gorge of the Rimataka, will allow that I do not exaggerate.

ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED RITE.

On Tuesday, the 9th inst., at 33 Golden-square, were held Councils of the 31st and 32nd Degrees, followed by a Chapter of the 30°, which was numerously attended, some ninety members being present. A glance at the list of candidates for advancement, and round the faces of those present, would have been sufficient to disabuse the minds of any who yet entertain a lingering impression that this body can be in any sense antagonistic to the principles of Craft Masonry. It is rather the legitimate complement of the latter, ruled by the same chiefs, by our Grand Master and Pro Grand Master, supported by brethren distinguished for their great ability and Masonic zeal. We will not parade a long roll of names as courting publicity, but prefer to point to the notable results to our charitable institutions which have accrued whenever the generous initiative of the Rite has been felt and honourably responded to. Without this, all the prestige imparted by statesmen and Princes of the House of England would weigh with us but lightly; with the spirit of independence inherited from our forefathers we would contentedly carry on the warfare of our Craft against the insidious attacks of Roman Catholic intolerance unpatronised and alone; but the spectacle of those noblest and most eminent amongst us taking the lead in our common aims, upon our common principles, cannot but tend to cement and endear to us those ties which bind the greatest and the least as Masons, Englishmen, and men.

The 6th Annual Ball of the Metropolitan and City Police Orphanage was held on Thursday, the 4th instant, at the Cannon Street Hotel, and was numerously attended. The Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, the Lady Mayoress, Bro. Alderman and Sheriff Knight and Mrs. Knight, Bro. Sheriff Breffit and Mrs. Breffit, Major Bowman, Bro. Lieut. F. Kent C.C., Bro. Walford C.C., &c., honoured the company by their presence. A capital supper was provided, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor, who very genially gave several toasts. That of the evening, the Orphanage, met with a hearty reception, and we believe a goodly sum was realised. There were two ball rooms; in the large one the band of the A division, under the direction of Mr. W. Dickenson, performed, while Mr. A. Cohen's band was stationed in the other. Bros. T. Meekham and J. R. Foulger efficiently acted as M.C.'s. Bro. Butler was not able to be present, from indisposition. The entire arrangements were under the able supervision of Mr. Superintendent Foster, and gave great satisfaction. This excellent institution now provides for 160 girls and boys.

In Memoriam.

IT is with feelings of very deep regret we have to announce the somewhat sudden death of Bro. William Cutbush, of Barnet, the well-known nurseryman. A short time since, being somewhat out of health, Bro. Cutbush, accompanied by his wife, went to Brighton, and so much benefited did he find himself by the change, that it was his intention to have returned home on Thursday of last week. On rising that morning, he fancied he was somewhat bilious. As the symptoms did not abate, a medical man was summoned, who prescribed a draught. No improvement, however, followed; and, at last, shortly after one o'clock, groans having been heard proceeding from the closet, the door was opened, and Bro. Cutbush was found dead. The painful event has cast a gloom over the town of Barnet, where our excellent brother had been long a resident, and where he had won the respect and esteem of all his neighbours. He was one of the most genial and kind hearted of men, and ready at all times to assist others, especially if they were less fortunately circumstanced than himself. For close upon a quarter of a century he had held the post of Churchwarden at Christ Church, Barnet, and during the whole of that time had fulfilled his appointed duties with the greatest earnestness and zeal. As to his Masonic career, Bro. Cutbush was initiated in Faith Lodge, No. 141, on 25th October 1864. He was one of and the founders of the Gladsmuir Lodge, No. 1385, Barnet, occupied the chair of K.S. in 1874, and also of the Gladsmuir Chapter, in which he held the office of H. He was also a promoter of the Halsey Lodge, No. 1479, St. Albans, in which, as well as in the Gladsmuir, he held the office of Treasurer. He was, further, P.P.G.Supt.W. for Province of Herts, and a contributor to our Charities, having, moreover, served the office of Steward both to the Benevolent Institution and the Girls' School. Only very recently he had been elected to an honorary Life Governorship of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, an honour conferred upon him in recognition of his frequent presents of plants to that Institution. It was but two days before his death that Bro. Cutbush had written to Bro. Terry, notifying his acceptance of it. The funeral took place at Highgate Cemetery, on Thursday, at half-past one, and was very numerously attended by the brethren, not only of the Gladsmuir and other Lodges of the Province of Herts, but by representatives from several prominent Lodges of the metropolis. We, especially, shall feel his loss, for he was a Director of our Company, had done us good service, and was always ready with kindly word and act to promote the welfare of this journal. In fine, Bro. Cutbush, in his home, in his business, and in Masonry, was a good exemplar for others to follow. He was a most worthy man, whom all respected, whom his more immediate circle of friends esteemed and loved, who had faithfully done his allotted work in Masonry, and who neither thought nor felt unkindness for any. Peace be with him, and may the Great Architect of the Universe, before whom all bow with reverence, uphold his widow in this time of her sad bereavement.

Digitized by Google

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to th Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

—oo—

MAGAZINES OF THE MONTH.

THERE is a certain heaviness in Blackwood this month, which even the two or three admirable papers we have found in it are hardly capable of redeeming. The paper on "Swift," for example, is written with very great judgment. We feel the writer has managed to grasp his subject firmly, and that he enacts the part of historian with skill and fairness. But then follow two articles, of which the first is dreary albeit we recognise the truths which it enumerates; while the second—a continuation of "1895"—is a flimsy attempt to describe female candidature at a Parliamentary election. "A Wanderer's Letter," in which Leipsig, its fairs, its battles, its old historical buildings, and the manners and customs of its people are described, offers some very agreeable reading. "Whittlebridge," with the doings of the gallant "Chasers," Lieut.-Colonel Bottletop, C.B., so accomplished in blasphemy as to be honoured with the soubriquet of "the Cursing Cockatoo," Captain Brookes and his love-making, Lady Scorpy, and the rest of the company, is highly amusing, but the revels in Whittlebury are just a leetle too violent. The notice of "Macaulay," or, rather, of his nephew's biography of him, is well written; and the "Spring Songs" are pretty. "Politics before Easter" will please the Conservative reader no doubt, but politics in a Masonic journal have no proper place.

There is little to note in the serials which form the bulk of Tinsleys'. Mr. Farjeon's "Duchess," on whose christening the scene falls for the present, progresses admirably. Mr. Barrett's "Maggie" is somewhat confused, as though the author had hardly yet made up his mind about the details of his plot. In Mr. Grant's "Did she love him?" Stanley is in the dolefuls, and Tom Seymour gets into hot water with Mrs. Brooke, but Mabel and he have a plan in view, which, if successfully carried out, will sorely trouble the hospitable, if somewhat cantankerous, old lady. The supercargo of the ship in which Stanley sails to join his regiment in the Bermudas tells an effective, or, rather, as it is not complete, part of a very effective story, for no other object, apparently, than to fill up a chapter. However, we shall see in time. "La Festa delle Palme" is an agreeable bit of descriptive writing, and Mr. Vandam reappears with another of his "Famous Bohemians." The "Thespian Cartes" are continued, and the Gaiety Theatre, with its brave list of stars, the enterprise of its manager, and the successes it has achieved in its yet brief career, are there all faithfully and justly chronicled. Dr. Davies offers a more varied, and therefore a more acceptable programme in his "Social Status Quo;" while No. V. of his "Love Songs of all Nations" is equal in point of merit to its four predecessors. We should like to quote it in full, but we have space for the latter half only. The title, we may state, is "Love and Absence," and after an invocation to the former, and a pretty sentiment or two, we read thus:—

But, from his mistress banished far,
Silent is he,
E'en in whose soul the voices are
Of melody.

When from the withered garden-beds
The roses fail,
No longer there her sweet song sheds
The nightingale.

Thus while she lingers far away,
Silent I pine,
Because upon my lonely way
No love-lights shine.

He who sees not the one loved maid,
Nor hears her word,
Must in that silence droop and fade,
Like prisoned bird.

Belgravia includes the opening chapters of two new stories. One, entitled "Juliet," is by Mrs. H. Lovett-Cameron, with a not very striking illustration by Valentine Bromley; the other, by Mr. Mackenna, is called "Scotching a Snake." The theme, in each case, seems a familiar one, but no doubt as the plots proceed we shall find much to interest us. The career of "Joshua Haggard's Daughter"—we are speaking of the novel, not of its heroine—is still a pleasant one, nor see we indeed how it could well be otherwise under the conduct of so skilful a writer. "What has become of Lord Camelford's Body?" is the title of a contribution by Mr. Charles Reade. His narrative of that nobleman's strange eventful history is capitally put together. Lovers of the drama will read with pleasure Cuthbert Bede's Reminiscences of the late "Miss Cushman," an actress whose talents were generally appreciated, and deserve to be recorded, for the benefit of present and future playgoers. Mrs. Lynn Linton's article on "Woman's Place in Nature and Society" is excellent in tone and character, but would read better were it contenced more. Of the other contents, Mr. Escott's sketch of the late "Lord Macaulay" must be noticed; and a word of praise is due to Mr. J. Mahoney's illustration accompanying Mr. Mackenna's story.

The chief attractions in Temple Bar include an able sketch of the great French actor "Talma," some sensible advice, under the head of "Tother Side of the Water," to intending visitors to the United States during the forthcoming Centennial Exhibition, a paper on "the Gipsies and their Friends," and a biography containing some rare and interesting information of William Upcott, "The Father of a Fashion." A new tale is commenced, bearing the title of "The American Senator," but the progress made is too slight for us to form any judgment yet. "Red Indians," with an account of "The Chippeway and his Copper Mine," will serve capitally to while away an odd half-hour, and "Manneken" will amuse the youngsters. The following on "Glamour" merits to be quoted in full.

The breath of flowers was on the breeze,
And all the odours of the spring;—
Amid the gently-budding trees
We heard the throstle sing.
We watched the tender leaflets curl'd,
No green seemed half so gay before;—
A hundred springs may deck the world,
But those green leaves no more;
No, never, never more!

The sun drank up the tears of night,
The happy tears of early dew,
Each drop became a globe of light
With golden-green shot through.
We shook them off the primrose flowers,
No dew seemed half so bright before;
Now winter rain may fall in showers,
But those bright drops no more;
No, never, never more!

Within the blue, unblemish'd skies
The infant cloudlets cradled lay,
Like new-born souls in Paradise,
All clad in white array;
And in our happy eyes that met
There shone a light unknown before;
Now suns may rise, and suns may set,
But that love-light no more;
No, never, never more!

What may justly be called the practical part of Cassell's Family Magazine has by far the greatest attraction for us. The fiction is invariably good, and the two tales, one of which is concluded this month, which have graced its pages since Christmas, are no exceptions. The short stories, too, are excellently well-told. But we incline rather to such papers as Mr. Payne's, on "Wedding Breakfasts." Mr. Payne's advice is always worth having, even though some may think it too common-sensible to be followed. His suggestions, the nature of which our readers must discover for themselves, are in excellent taste, especially as regards wines in general, and champagne in particular. "What is the best education for Girls?" is, perhaps, a difficult question to answer. It ought not to be, but people's ideas about education are of the vaguest now-a-days, and a few showy accomplishments have usurped the place of systematic training. Hence the helpless things the present generation of young women are growing into. If the reader would know "How to preserve the Teeth," let him consult a Family Doctor in these pages. If, and the season has begun, he is at a loss what to do in respect of "Potting and Planting," let him gather a few wrinkles from "A Practical Man." If he is a family man, and his children are always ailing, let him, or his wife rather, inquire of Mistress Phil is Browne, who will forthwith satisfy her curiosity. Or perchance, if Paterfamilias has a limited purse, and his better half is somewhat vague in her ideas of millinery, let him search after the secrets how "Inexpensive Home Millinery" may be prepared. We might run, in like manner, through well nigh the whole list of contents, but our readers need no further exhortation from us. They will, doubtless, go and inquire for themselves.

In the Leisure Hour, "The Tale of the American War of Independence" includes some exciting episodes, not the least exciting among them being an account of the Battle of Bunker's Hill. Then follow two admirable articles, the first being No. V. of Canon Rawlinson's Series on "Early Civilization," the subject being "Asia Minor," and the second from the pen of Professor Owen, on the "Antiquity of Egyptian Civilization," in which the writer comments on certain differences of opinion between him and the Egyptologists as to the Chronology of Egypt: differences which Canon Rawlinson had made a subject of remark in one of his former papers. "Fiddles" is a most interesting article, and so is the Rev. W. W. Gills's, on "The Mammalia of the Pacific." The "Border Lands" of Islam, the lands under notice being the disturbed provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina, offers special attraction at this moment, and there is a short account of the Royal Academy, appropriately coinciding with the exhibition now open at Burlington House. The illustration of the Academy in 1787 is well engraved. "Antiquarian Gossip on the Months," and "Weather Proverbs," are both noteworthy. We hope the two following may be realised. The ruin we are having; may the hay and the bread follow!

"A wet May
Will fill a byre full of hay."

"Water in May is bread all the year."

And yet a third proverb, we hope, will be realised:—

"A leaking May and a warm June
Bring on the Harvest very soon."

The following contributions to the Sunday at Home cannot be too highly spoken of—"Vanitas Vanitatum! Omnia Vanitas!" and "Nurses for the Needy." As to their character we need say nothing, the titles are a key to them. Nor must we omit to bestow just words of praise on the description of "The Albert Chapel at Windsor," or No. VI. of Dr. Stoughton's series of articles on "Westminster Abbey." The rest of the number contains the usual quantum of appropriate matter, and the illustrations, especially the illuminated frontispiece, are good.

CHINESE CARVING.—For Sale, an elaborately carved Set of Ivory Chessmen. The Kings stand 9½ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Kings and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with ornamental balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican.—Advt.

Digitized by Google

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

THE Annual Festival of the Girls' School was held on Wednesday, the 10th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, and was presided over by Lieut.-Col. Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., D.L., R.W. Provincial Grand Master for West Yorkshire.

This, the eighty-eighth festival of the institution, was very numerously attended, and as regards financial as well as general matters, was a great success. As will be seen from the list given below, the amount received up to the present time is £8,214 11s, with 11 lists to come in. The banquet being finished, and grace sung, the chairman proposed the health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, referring to the relationship of Her Majesty to several members of the Craft, and the interest she took in our charitable institutions. This was followed by the National Anthem, after which the chairman proposed—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family, drawing attention to the positions of their Royal Highnesses with respect to this institution. This toast was most heartily received, and the following song, written by Frederick Enoch, and set to music by Sir Julius Benedict, was sung, the solos being given by Bro. G. T. Carter, the performance calling forth great applause, and a not-to-be-denied call for its repetition:—

WELCOME TO OUR PRINCE.

Glad welcome comes the wide world o'er,
As free as sunlights beam,
From Canada's far Western shore
To Ganges sacred stream;
It comes from ev'ry distant land,
It comes across the sea,
Where'er the flag in England's hand
Proclaims a people free.

The words with earnest fervour spring,
From love that never fails,
And heart and voice a welcome bring,
To hail our Prince of Wales.

While myriad voic'd, with joyful cheer,
The loyal greetings come,
How sweet from wife and children dear
Must be his welcome home.
Oh! ever may the nation ring
With love that never fails,
And heart and voice a welcome bring
To hail our Prince of Wales.

The words with earnest fervour spring,
From love that never fails,
And heart and voice a welcome bring
To hail our Prince of Wales.

* Published by Stanley Lucas, Weber, and Co., Bond-street.

The toast of the Provincial Grand Master was next given, and then that of the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, R.W. Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers present and past. To this Col. Burdett, Prov. G.M. Middlesex, responded. Our worthy Brother remarked that it gave him great pleasure to reply to the toast, as all knew the able brethren we had at Grand Lodge, and at the same time he considered he would be very remiss if he did not refer to the way in which the chair had been filled this evening. He was delighted with what he had seen on the previous Monday at the Girls' School, where he had an opportunity of supporting their present chairman, and hoped the brethren would do honour to the toast he was about to propose, as he was sure no Mason was more ready to support the Charities than Bro. Sir H. Edwards. He then gave—"The Chairman of the day."

The toast having been duly honoured, the next one on the list, "Success to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls" was proposed. The Chairman gave a short review of the progress of the Institution, remarking that its scope was entirely dependent on the amounts subscribed, and hoped that the Craft would respond heartily to the call. He said he was very pleased at what he had seen on the previous Monday, and concluded by calling upon Bro. S. Tomkins, the Treas., to respond. The toast having been acknowledged, the various amounts (as below) contributed by the Craft were announced. Col. Adair proposed the other Masonic Charities, which was acknowledged by Bro. Terry. The Rev. C. J. Martyn proposed "the Stewards of the Day," and Bro. J. Smith P.G.P. responded. The musical part of the evening's programme was under the direction of Bro. Chaplin Henry

We subjoin the several Stewards' Lists, together with the numbers of the Lodges and Chapters contributing, and the amount forwarded by each, to the above Institution:—

LONDON.

			£	s	d
Grand Stewards—		Bro. Edwin March	30	9	0
Lod.	2	Bro. W. Hope, M.D.	45	13	6
	4	„ A. C. Veley	16	16	0
	5	„ Jno. Hampton Hale	50	8	0
	7	„ R. C. Mansfield	17	6	6
	8	„ W. H. Rice Cooke	13	13	0
	10	„ O. H. Pearson	80	15	0
	11	„ Henry Potter	50	0	0
	12	„ Alfred H. Lilley	97	13	0
Chp.	12	„ Joseph Clever	54	12	0
	12	„ D. Nichols	27	6	0
Lod.	18	„ Herbert G. Heggins	39	18	0
	19	„ E. B. Grabham	70	7	0
	21	„ Griffiths Smith	81	18	0
	22	„ P. Fairweather	49	7	0
	23	„ E. C. Mather	15	15	0
	28	„ J. G. Shearman	42	0	0
	29	„ J. E. Middleton	14	14	0
	33	„ W. Clouston	43	1	0
	34	„ Jno. Butler	45	3	0
	46	„ A. Richards	66	3	0
	49	„ W. Bailey	36	15	0
	49	„ Jno. S. Mercer	85	2	0
	55	„ G. M. E. Snow	175	0	0
	58	„ Thos. Reynolds, jun.	64	1	0
	60	„ Capt J. Wordsworth	10	10	0
	73	„ Wm. Klingenstein	38	17	0
	79	„ Richard Boncey	21	0	0
	91	„ Watson Sure	39	18	0
	92	„ Josiah Hoole	23	2	0
	99	„ Wm. Lenck	73	10	0
	134	„ H. A. Milford	16	5	6
	140	„ Chas. Jardine	70	7	0
	143	„ J. H. Mather	68	15	6
	162	„ Nath. J. Fenner	30	9	0
	165	„ W. G. Lemon	55	12	0
	172	„ G. Hockley	48	16	6
	174	„ Jno. Appleby	89	14	0
Chp.	176	„ J. B. Sorrell	54	19	0
Lod.	179	„ F. D. Berry	18	18	0
	180	„ W. C. Parsons	10	10	0
1-1 & 193		Henry D. Wood	31	10	0
	205	„ Charles F. Hogard	36	15	0
	206	„ B. Gamman	57	15	0
	227	„ A. J. Thomas	30	0	0
	228	„ Robt. Grigg	70	7	0
	235	„ E. H. Hewett	50	0	0
238 & 706		„ R. E. Simpson Baikie	40	19	6
	266	„ E. R. Davis	39	7	6

LONDON—(continued).

			£	s	d
Lod.	259	Bro. Herbert A. Rigg	39	7	0
	435	„ W. C. Phillips	25	4	0
	511	„ A. Barfield	42	0	0
	534	„ W. G. Moore	24	3	0
Lod. & Chp.	538	Jas. Keuch	63	0	0
Lod.	554	„ John J. Berry	100	16	0
	657	„ John Johnasson	254	2	0
	733	„ Robert Heledon	126	0	0
	742	„ Wm. W. Baxter	25	14	6
	749	„ J. Painter	35	7	0
	820	„ Wm. H. Myers	73	10	0
	823	„ H. Northcott	32	0	6
	863	„ Thos. Kingston	29	8	0
	902	„ R. N. Field	47	5	0
	905	„ Alexander Peebles	12	12	0
	907	„ J. Smith	21	0	0
Ch.	1095	„ Charles Atkins	63	15	6
Ld.	1118	„ Geo. B. Brodie	26	15	0
1150 & 197		„ T. G. Ballen	69	6	0
	1155	„ Henry Moore	79	16	0
	1178	„ Geo. P. Grace	45	3	0
	1216	„ George Waterall	51	9	0
	1257	„ John C. Cox	31	10	0
	1290	„ J. H. Southwood	87	3	0
	1291	„ Walter Emden	21	10	6
	1298	„ Robt. V. Davies	26	5	0
	1305	„ Henry Ashwell	26	5	0
	1329	„ J. H. Vockins	10	10	0
	1348	„ A. J. Ireton	100	0	0
	1351	„ W. Hilton	61	19	0
	1376	„ Chas. G. Hill	26	5	0
	1383	„ Col. Alex. W. Adair	100	0	0
	1420	„ Jos. W. Hiscox	74	11	0
	1421	„ C. W. Ashdown	33	11	0
	1446	„ Chas. F. Poupard	64	1	0
	1459	„ T. Hastings Miller	31	10	0
	1537	„ R. G. Clutton	102	7	6
	1538	„ Alfred Tisley	18	18	0
	1539	„ Mark S. Latham	115	10	0
	1540	„ Henry Faija	33	12	0
	1558	„ Walter Mitchell	14	1	6
	1563	„ B. H. Swallow	65	0	0

THE PROVINCES.

Berks and Bucks.

			£	s	d
	1501	Bro. John Palmer	141	15	0

PROVINCES—(continued).

			£	s	d
		Cheshire.
Lod.	425	Bro. Horatio Lloyd	26	5	0
		„ Capt. H. A. Bennett	10	10	0
	287	„ John Hanson	10	10	0
	237	„ Wm. S. Sutton	10	10	0
		„ W. Marwood	15	15	0
		Devonshire.
	164	„ W. H. Haycock	5	15	6
		Hants and Isle of Wight.
	319	„ T. J. D. Rawlins	21	0	0
		Kent.
	829	„ W. Hamilton	29	8	0
	1206	„ H. J. Emmerson	10	10	0
	1208	„ H. M. Baker	26	5	0
	1464	„ J. A. Farnfield	44	2	0
	1531	„ G. F. Guest	24	17	6
		East Lancashire.
	221	„ Egerton C. Gilbert	6	6	0
	221	„ J. H. Greenhalgh	5	5	0
		West Lancashire.
	1066	„ J. C. Lunt	6	11	0
		Lincolnshire.
	1224	„ John Sutcliffe
	1264	„ Jack Sutcliffe
Province		„ R. J. Boyall, Charity Steward
	1232	„ Rev. Dr. Ace, D.D.	543	14	0
	792	„ Jas. Robinson
	792	„ Wm. Marshall
	838	„ Jos. Fergusson
	1294	„ Joseph Chapman
	1224	„ F. Long
		Middlesex.
		„ R. Westworth Little	171	10	0
	1460	„ Rev. P. H. E. Brette	97	13	0
Ch.	1293	„ T. Masse	31	10	0
	1194	„ C. Horsley	26	5	0
Ld.	778	„ Major C. Harding	13	13	0
	1194	„ Robert A. Steel	36	15	0
	1237	„ Chas. S. Browne	70	7	0
	1238	„ Alfred G. Weeks	36	3	0
	1293	„ David W. Pearse	73	10	0
	1309	„ C. G. Rushworth	11	11	0
	1423	„ John Faulkner	21	10	6
	1507	„ John Mason	42	0	0
	1579	„ Ed. Letchworth	16	4	6
	1597	„ J. Musgrave Levick	10	10	0
		„ T. J. Sabine	52	10	0

Digitized by Google

Nottinghamshire.

Ld. 1434 Bro. John Hack - - 42 0 0

North Wales and Shropshire.

1124 „ E. Woods - - 11 11 0

Oxfordshire.

478 „ H. R. Cooper Smith
357 „ Rev. R.W.M. Pope
357 „ Fanthian Hedges } 50 0 0

Somersetshire.

1199 „ C. L. F. Edwards - 31 10 0

South Wales (East Division).

The Province, J. Beavan Phillips - 115 10 0

Staffordshire.

548 „ J. Webberley - 115 10 0

Suffolk.

1234 „ Rev. C. J. Martyn 26 5 0

Surrey.

Ld. 1046 Bro. J. A. Lorimer - 10 10 0
452 „ H. J. Strong - - 10 10 0
1395 „ H. W. Charrington 10 10 0

Warwickshire.

838 „ Thomas Hawkins - 262 10 0

Wiltshire.

The Province—C. Tombs - - 115 12 0

Channel Islands.

Jersey.

The Province—A. Schmitt - - 105 0 0

Foreign Stations.

Punjab.

The Province—G. Davies - - 10 10 0

Red Cross Order.

Grand Council—H. C. Levander - 119 13 0
128 A. J. Brogden - - 52 10 0

Monmouthshire and South Wales

W. Williams from Conclaves 42 0 0

Royal Order of Scotland—G. P. Brockbank - - - 21 0 0

Knight's Templar.

Holy Palestine Preceptory—Rev. P.M. Holden - - - 10 10 0

Girls' School General Committee Club—H. W. Hemsworth 15 15 0

Total amount announced, £8,214, with twelve Lists to come in.

DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES AT THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

The annual visit of the Stewards to the school of this Charity, at Battersea Rise, took place on Monday last. The opportunity thus afforded of inspecting the school and its occupants was taken advantage of by numerous brethren and their ladies, who universally expressed their pleasure at the entertainment provided. Previous to the distribution of prizes the pupils gave the following selections, which were performed in a way which gives the greatest credit to the teachers :—

Anthem—"Thine, O Lord, is the Greatness"—Kent.
"Hallelujah Chorus"—Handel—20 hands on 5 pianos.
"Theme Favori"—Haydn—10 hands on 5 pianos.
Recitation—"The Traveller"—Mrs. Alexander—Celina Sharp.
"My Mother bids me bind my hair"—Haydn—10 hands on 5 pianos.
"Air de Chasse"—Czerny—20 hands on 5 pianos.
Recitation—"The Inchcape Bell"—Southey—Edith A. Wilson.
"I. Lombardi"—Verdi-Czerny—20 hands on 5 pianos.
Part Song—"Laura"—Barrington.
Recitation—"The Children's Hour"—Longfellow—Alice M. Thornbury.
"Adante in F"—Beethoven—10 hands on 5 pianos.
"Selections from Oberon"—Weber—20 hands on 5 pianos.
Recitation—"Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," Acte II., Scène VI.—Molière—Louisa Hole and Mary E. Barnes.
Chorus—"With a laugh as we go round"—Sterndale Bennett.
Recitation—"Lucy"—Wordsworth—Agnes Barron.
Solo—"La Conerentola—Rossini—Louisa Hole.
Recitation—"Der Ring des Polycrates"—Schiller—Lilian M. Nelson.
"Overture to Midsummer Night's Dream"—Mendelssohn 20 hands on 5 pianos.

This was followed by the event of the evening—viz., the distribution of prizes, which were presented by the chairman, Lieut.-Col. Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., R.W. Provincial Grand Master West Yorkshire, assisted by Lady Edwards. In presenting the prizes a few words were addressed to each recipient, and the chairman afterwards expressed his great satisfaction at the progress of the children, praising their behaviour, excellent playing, and general improvement, and concluded by complimenting Miss Davis, the head governess, on the result of her labours. Bro. J. W. White afterwards proposed a vote of thanks to the R.W. chairman, who suitably responded.

The following is a list of pupils who received prizes :—

Lilian Mary Nelson, the Gold Medal for Proficiency, given annually by Bro. William Pass, with £5 given annually by Bro. William Winn (Leila Lucy Caparn having gained them last year).

Lucy Kate Clemence, the Silver Medal for Good Conduct, given annually by the Institution, with £5 given annually by Bro. William Winn.

Jane P. Pattison, £5 for General Proficiency, given annually by Bro. William Winn.

Prizes given annually by the Institution :—

Leila Lucy Caparn (since left) for	Taking Honors Cambridge Examination, with distinction in Religious knowledge.
Lilian Mary Nelson	„	Passing Cambridge Examination.
Jane P. Pattison	„	Passing Cambridge Examination.
Lily O. Hiron	„	General Improvement, 1st Class.
Mary Emma Barnes	„	French.
Louisa Hole	„	Music.
Malora F. Goodridge	„	Music.
Dora C. Bowles	„	Music.
Jane R. Upton	„	Music.
Josephine B. Mackay	„	Vocal Music.
Fanny J. Lawrence	„	Vocal Music.
Elisa Beveridge	„	Music among the Little Girls.
Kate Hulme	„	Drawing.
Henrietta J. Featherstone	„	Drawing.
Blanche E. Morris	„	Drawing.
Ada Gertrude Chapman	„	General Usefulness.
Amy Emma Mills	„	General Usefulness.
Janet S. Davidson	„	Needlework.
Caroline E. Holland	„	Needlework.
Annie Gertrude Earle	„	Machine Work.
Mary H. Davies	„	Machine Work.
Henrietta J. Featherstone	„	Good Conduct.
Blanche E. Morris	„	General Proficiency, 2nd Class.
Edith A. Wilson	„	General Proficiency, 3rd Class.
Catherine J. Scarr	„	General Proficiency, 4th Class.
Frances E. Gardner	„	Perseverance, 2nd Class.
Grace A. Colvill	„	Perseverance, 3rd Class.
Maud A. Jay	„	Perseverance, 4th Class.

By Brother Joshua Nunn, for Fancy Work :—
Lucy Kate Clemence and Leila Pulman.

By Brother Raynham Stewart, for Dictation :—

Frances Harryman	1st Class.
Ellen A. Cates	2nd Class.
Fanny Ashby	3rd Class.
Mary Emma Barsby	4th Class.
Mary Louisa Bowler	5th Class.

By Brother Rev. P. H. E. Brette, D.D., for French :—Louisa Hole.
By Mrs. Crick, for Elocution :—Agnes Barron, Alice Maud Thornbury, and Celina Sharp.
By Brother John M. Clabon, for Good Conduct :—Annie S. Dawson and Matilda M. Sherry.
By Brother Joseph Starkey, for Drawing :—Florence S. Groves and Leila Pulman.
By Brother Collard Montrie, for Music :—Florence S. Groves.
By Brother Louis Hirsch, for German :—Lilian Mary Nelson.
By Brother H. W. Hemsworth, for Amiability, as voted by their Schoolfellows :—Caroline Hart and Matilda M. Sherry.

ADDITIONAL PRIZE.

"The St. James's Yates Memorial Prize," given annually by the St. James's Lodge, No. 462, Handsworth, £2 10s, for Proficiency in Domestic Duties :—Ada Gertrude Chapman.

After refreshments, a short pause gave those present an opportunity of inspecting the building and grounds, and we were pleased to notice Bros. E. Cox and J. Constable among those who had not forgotten that it was a holiday for our young friends as well as for those of more mature growth. The Calisthenic exercise and marching was then gone through with great precision, after which those of the visitors who so wished danced with the scholars, and here again Bro. Cox displayed the great interest he takes in the comfort and amusement of the children. Orders for bed brought this pleasant visit to a close, at no very early hour. The thanks of the Craft are certainly due to those who have the management of the house and school departments for the way in which everything is conducted, and we hope on many future occasions to have an opportunity of visiting our little friends.

THE THEATRES, &c.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—This day, LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR. On Monday, IL FLAUTO MAGICO. On Tuesday, DINORAH. On Wednesday, TANNHAUSER. On Thursday, IL BARBIERE DI SIVIGLIA. On Friday, MARTHA. On Saturday, RIGOLETTO. Each evening at 8.30. FLORAL HALL CONCERT on Saturday 20th.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA, DRURY LANE.—This evening, LA TRAVIATA. On Monday, LUCREZIA BORGIA. On Tuesday, LA SONNAMBULA. On Monday morning, and Wednesday and Friday evenings, SIGNOR ROSSI in ITALIAN PLAYS.

LYCEUM.—At 7.30, NATURE AND PHILOSOPHY. At 8.30, QUEEN MARY. On Monday, RICHELIEU.

ADELPHI.—POOR PILLICODDY, STRUCK OIL, and FOOL OF THE FAMILY.

PRINCESS'S.—At 7.30, REAL AND IDEAL. At 8.30, ALL FOR HER.

HAYMARKET.—At 7.30, THE HUNCHBACK, &c.

STRAND.—HIS LAST LEGS, &c.

GAIETY.—At 7.45, BLUE DEVILS. At 8.30, MY AWFUL DAD. At 10.30 COOL AS A CUCUMBER.

CHARING CROSS.—At 8.0, PAMPERED MENIALS. At 9.45, THE GUILTY GOVERNESS. At 9.45, YOUNG RIP VAN WINKLE.

OLYMPIC.—At 7.30, FASCINATING FELLOWS. At 8.0, THE GASCON, At 10.45, VESTA'S TEMPLE. On Monday, UNDER A VEIL.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—At 8.0, OURS.

ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE.—At 7.30, THE TAILOR MAKES THE MAN. At 8.15, JO.

GLOBE.—At 7.30, SQUARING THE CIRCLE. At 8.0, MISS GWILT, &c.

VAUDEVILLE.—At 7.30, A WHIRLIGIG. At 8.0, OUR BOYS, and a FEARFUL FOG.

Digitized by Google

INSTALLATION OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,
Most Worshipful Grand Master, &c., &c., having been graciously pleased to accept the special Dedication,

A SPLENDID

HISTORICAL STEEL ENGRAVING

WILL SHORTLY BE PUBLISHED,
OF THE
ROYAL INSTALLATION ON THE 28TH OF APRIL 1875,
IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
By BRO. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. No. 1201.

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be made to the
ROYAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REGENT STREET LONDON, W.

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

THE CLUB PREMISES, SITUATE
101 QUEEN VICTORIA STREET,
ARE NOW BEING FITTED UP, AND WILL
SHORTLY BE OPENED TO THE MEMBERS.

THE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION is fixed at—£3 3s for Town Members, i.e., Members residing within twenty miles of the Club, and £1 11s 6d for Country Members, no liability is incurred by members beyond their subscription.

THE NEXT ELECTION will take place on the 17th May. Upwards of 600 Brethren having already joined, an Entrance Fee will be imposed as soon as the Club is opened.

Full particulars may be obtained from the Secretary, at the Offices of the LONDON MASONIC CLUB COMPANY LIMITED, 27 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

JOHN A. LATHBURY, Secretary.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

SEASON TICKETS, available for one year from the 1st of each month, to be had of W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

IN the House of Lords, on Friday, a return of the School Boards in existence on the 1st January of this year was moved for by the Earl of Delawarr, and acceded to, with an addition specifying those in which no provision is made for religious instruction, by the Duke of Richmond and Gordon. Earl Granville then gave notice of motion for Monday, the 15th inst., for amending the law relating to the burial of the dead. The Oxford University Bill having been read a third time, and passed, the House adjourned. On Monday the Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Bill passed through the committee. On the report of amendments to the Irish Peerage Bill being brought up, Lord Inchiquin moved a new clause to increase the number of Irish representative peers from 28 to 30, and introducing the principle of cumulative voting, but he was opposed by the Government, and defeated by 66 to 54. The report was then agreed to. The House sat five-and-twenty minutes on Tuesday. On Thursday the position of Irish National School Teachers was under discussion for the greater part of the sitting.

On Friday, in the Commons, the sitting was passed in discussing a motion by Mr. B. Cochrane on the Khanate of Khokand, the state of Barbadoes, and the Suez Canal. On Monday the Committee on the Merchant Shipping Bill was resumed, and the bill having passed this stage was ordered, amid cheers, to be reported. Mr. T. Brassey then made a motion on the subject of ship building for the navy. In the discussion that followed both Mr. Goschen and Mr. Ward Hunt took part. After a few words from Mr. Childers the motion was, by leave, withdrawn, and the House went into Committee of Supply on the Navy Estimates. On Tuesday, Sir C. Dilke raised a discussion on the question of Art education in England, and the constitution of the Royal Academy. After some other business the House rose, at a comparatively early hour, a little after eight o'clock. On Wednesday, the second reading of the Barristers' and Advocates' Fees Bill was defeated by 237 to 130. On Thursday the evening was passed in debate on Sir Henry James's motion of censure on the Government in connection with the Proclamation rendered necessary by the Royal Titles Bill. The Opposition were defeated by 334 to 226—majority 108.

On Wednesday the Queen held a drawing-room at Buckingham Palace, having, with the Princess Beatrice, left Windsor Castle early the same morning. There were present the Princesses Louise and Beatrice, and the Dukes of Connaught and Cambridge. The Gentlemen-at-Arms, under their captain, the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, and the Yeomen of the Guard, under the command of Lord Skelmersdale, were in attendance on duty. The general and diplomatic circles were well attended, and a number of ladies were presented, the names having been previously submitted for the approval of her Majesty. Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales was not present, as her Royal Highness had left for Portsmouth, there with her children to await the return home of her husband. The Prince's reception at Portsmouth and in London we describe elsewhere.

Two events of annual recurrence and of paramount importance in the Masonic world have, to use a sporting "phrase," come off this week, or perhaps we should more accurately describe them as the two acts of a very successful drama. On Monday, Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., and a considerable number of members and their friends were present at the regular examination of the Girls' School, and on Wednesday the same R.W. brother presided, at Freemasons' Hall, at the banquet of the same institution. As we give full details of these interesting events in another part of our columns we confine ourselves to a general expression of satisfaction that everything passed off so successfully, and that Bro. Little has such excellent reasons for congratulating himself and his co-labourers on behalf of the school at the continued support it has received this year from the Craft generally, and from West Yorkshire in particular.

Extensive preparations are being made in Philadelphia for the Grand Templar Parade in that city on the 1st June, in connection with the Centennial Exhibition and Anniversary. We have already announced that some ten thousand Sir Knights will be gathered together in the City of Brotherly love on that occasion, among those present being, according to the Masonic Review for March, the following Templar Bodies from the other side of the Irish Channel, Preceptories, Nos. 13 and 333, Limerick. Canada will be represented by the Odo de St. Armand Preceptory, Toronto, and New Brunswick by the encampment of St. John. As yet we have heard of five grand and six subordinate Commanderies having accepted the invitation to be present. The five Grand are those of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Nebraska, New York, and Arkansas. The sixty subordinate, with the exception of the four already mentioned, are all from different parts of the United States, of which eighteen, besides Pennsylvania, will be thus represented. The 1st June is selected as being the closing day of the Annual Conclave of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania, which will be held from the 30th May to 1st June, both inclusive. A copy of the provisions and regulations made by the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania has been sent to those Commanderies which have responded favourably to the invitation. Our readers will find them at length in the columns of the Masonic Review already quoted.

Digitized by Google

The opera season, with both houses now open, goes on prosperously. At Her Majesty's, Drury Lane, the performances during the week have been—Monday, Faust, with Madame Christine Nilsson; Semiramide, and on Thursday Norma, with Mdlle. Titiens, while to-night will be played La Traviata, with Madame Nilsson as the heroine. At the Royal Italian, two evenings, namely those of Monday and Wednesday, have been devoted to Wagner, his Tannhauser having been played on the former, and Lohengrin on the latter, with Mdlles. Albani and D'Angéri in the leading rôles. On Tuesday, Mdlle. Zaré Thalberg took the part of Adina in Donizetti's opera of L'Elisir d'Amore. On Thursday their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales were present at a congratulatory entertainment in honour of the Prince's return from India. When the Royal party entered, the audience greeted the Prince and his wife with the greatest enthusiasm, the progress of the opera, which was Un Ballo in Maschera being further interrupted, while the popular "God Bless the Prince of Wales," followed by the National Anthem, were sung—as sung they were, most effectively. Yesterday evening, Madame Adelina Patti made her first appearance this season as Rosina in Il Barbiere de Siviglia, and to-night will be played Lucia di Lammermoor, with Mdlle. Albani as "Lucia."

On Tuesday, Chatham witnessed the addition to our Navy of another of those huge monsters, which modern naval science demands should be built for the protection of our interests. The Témérsire, for so the vessel was christened by Mrs. Ward Hunt, is the name of the new iron-clad, which was floated out of dock, not launched in the ordinary fashion. She is designed to carry only eight guns, but they will be of very heavy calibre. Her tonnage will be 8,412 tons, and her engines of 7,000 horse-power. When complete she will have cost the country £340,000, of which over £250,000 has already been expended. The Lords of the Admiralty, all the Dock-yard officials, and a number of distinguished visitors honoured the "float out" with their presence. The Lords of the Admiralty were subsequently entertained at luncheon by Captain Fellowes, Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard.

Two or three events have signalised the sporting world. The Chester Cup was run on Wednesday, and resulted in the victory of Mr. Johnstone's Tam o' Shanter, after a close and exciting struggle with Mr. Henenge's Freeman, who was beaten by a neck only, Grey Palmer being third, and Pageant fourth. On Monday and two following days one of the great matches of the season—Cambridge University v. all England—was played at Cambridge, and resulted in a draw in favour of the latter, who wanted only seventy runs and had eight wickets yet to fall. There was some tall scoring on both sides, Mr. A. P. Lucas making 105 in his first and 53 in his second innings, and the Hon. A. Lyttleton 78 and 9, while Mr. W. R. Gilbert went in first for England and carried his bat out for 205, Mr. C. I. Thornton contributing 54 and 30. The totals were Cambridge Univ. 293 and 239, All England 383 and 80 with two wickets down. The Agricultural Hall has again been the scene of a feat of pedestrianism which quite throws Weston's performance into the shade. At nine o'clock on Monday evening fourteen competitors started to walk against time, the object being to out-do Weston's walk of between 109 and 110 miles in the twenty-four hours. Of these fourteen, three were successful, a young, tall, slim fellow of the name of Vaughan, 29 years of age and hailing from Chester, walking the extraordinary distance of 120 miles in the prescribed time. Halse, who came in second, covered close on 117 miles, and Crossland, who was third, 113 and nearly six-sevenths of a mile. Newman was fourth, having walked over 101½ miles. Thus Vaughan takes the first prize of £100, Halse the second of £10, and Crossland the third of £7 10s. Weston was invited to compete, and in that case the value of the prizes would have been doubled, but he did not appear. Vaughan had done all but two-sevenths of his 120th mile by eight minutes past eight, that is in a few minutes over twenty-three hours, when he fainted, and was carried to his room. He returned, however, and completed the mile, having it is said, backed himself heavily to accomplish the distance. This is the greatest pedestrian feat, taking time and distance into consideration, on record. On Saturday, at Lillie Bridge, there was another walking match, under the auspices of the Thames Hare and Hounds Club. The Club offered a silver medal to all who walked twenty-five miles in five hours, and the London Athletic Club also offered a valuable claret jug to him who did the distance in the shortest time. Forty out of forty-three entries appeared at the post, all of whom completed the walk within the stipulated time, but the first to pass the winning post was J. Berry, who was a mile ahead of the next man, W. M. Green. Thus Berry proved the winner of the claret jug.

The opening fête at the Alexandra Palace was held on Saturday last, and, as the weather was fine, there was a very large attendance. One of the attractions offered was the flower show, opened the previous day, in which Mr. Williams, of Upper Holloway, Mr. Charles Turner, of Slough, and Messrs. William Cutbush and Son, of Highgate, among nurserymen, and Mr. George Wheeler, of St. John's Lodge, Regent's-park, were among the principal prize-winners. There was also a ballad concert, at which Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Mdlle. Enriquez, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Signor Foli were the vocalists, while Mdlle. Krebs gained immense applause for her fine playing on the piano. The band of the Grenadier Guards was also present. In the evening there was the first grand display of fireworks this season, and far superior were they to any of those we witnessed last year. To-day and yesterday were appointed for the race-meeting, and on Thursday there was a Grand Venetian Fête and Illumination of the Lake, &c. Next Thursday will be given the first morning performance of the artistes of the Royal Italian Opera, the opera selected being La Traviata, Mdlle. Rosavella playing Violetta.

At the Crystal Palace the second annual Goat Show was held on Friday, Saturday, and Monday. The entries were far more numerous and far superior as to quality to last year's display. Among the exhibits were one with two kids, shown by the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, a long-haired he-goat, belonging to a Mr. J. G. Hay, and "Ida," said to be of Persian breed, and having a magnificent fleece. To-day will take place the grand distribution of prizes to the pupils and pupil-teachers of the London School Boards. Addresses will be delivered by the Right Hon. W. E. Forster, M.P., ex Vice-President of the Council for Education, and Mr. Francis Peck, the donor of the prizes. To give greater éclat to the occasion there will be a grand Choral Concert, in which certificated scholars, pupil teachers, masters, and mistresses will take part.

Our foreign budget of news is, in one respect, a sad one. The French and German Consuls at Salonica have been murdered during an outbreak of Mussulman fanaticism, the origin of which is said in some way to be due to the action of the American Consul who attempted to carry off forcibly a Greek girl who had recently turned Mussulman. This exasperated the Turks to that degree that they forced their way into the mosque where the Consuls were known to be, and then and there did them to death violently, in spite of some gallant efforts to prevent them. The Turkish Government has offered to make any reparation in its power, and is said already to have seized a number of the offenders, but the outrage will have a damaging influence on Turkish interests in the present aspect of the Eastern question. From France we learn that the two Chambers re-assembled on Wednesday, and the discussion of the Amnesty question is fixed for Monday. The question of religious toleration in Spain is still being discussed in the Cortes, and Senor Castelar is reported to have delivered a very powerful speech in favour of it. From the United States the great news, of course, relates to the opening, on Wednesday, of the Centennial Exhibition. Everything passed off admirably. The central figure among those present was President Grant, who, after an appropriate ceremonial, which included the performance of a Grand March in honour of the occasion, a prayer by Bishop Simpson, and a hymn by J. G. Whittier, formally declared the building open. Dom Pedro II., Emperor of Brazil, and the Empress, Sir E. Thornton, the British Minister, the members of the Cabinet, the Judges of the Supreme Court, the officers of the army and navy, with the governors of the States and the leading officials of the Exhibition were present, while the number of visitors is said, by the special correspondent of the Standard, to have been estimated at 230,000, Reuter's telegram stating that 100,000 were present at the ceremonial.

Digitized by Google

The regular meeting of the Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution was held on Wednesday, the 10th May, at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. Col. Creaton V.P. P.G.D. in the chair. The Secretary, Bro. Jas. Terry, read the minutes of the former meeting, which were confirmed. The death of one annuitant was announced. The report of the committee was adopted. It showed the success that had attended the late Festival, where the amount collected was £9,380. Bro. R. W. Stewart P.G.D. gave a notice of motion that Miss Norris should be appointed to attend to the wants of the widows, and that she receive the sum of £30 per annum. The Secretary read the number of attendances. A letter was read from Bro. Cutbush, thanking the brethren for the kind resolution that had been passed at the last meeting. Bro. Terry announced that it was with deep regret he had to inform them that, two days afterwards, Bro. Cutbush had ceased to exist. Bro. J. Constable proposed that a vote of condolence be forwarded to the widow. There were present Bros. S. Rawson D.P.G.M. China, B. Head P.G.D., J. Hogg P.G.D., Hyde Pullen P.G.S.B., R. W. Stewart P.G.S.D., C. A. Cottebrune P.G.S., J. Brett P.G.P., J. Bellerby, C. Hogard, L. Stean, J. Newton, J. Constable, H. Massey, G. Bolton, W. Hale, Warren, T. W. White P.G.S., Griffiths Smith P.G.S., Capt. Wordsworth, Dr. Erasmus Wilson P.G.S., Dr. Strong, H. M. Levy, &c.

The consecration of the Lodge of Loyalty, No. 1607, will take place on Thursday, the 18th, at the Alexandra Palace, Muswell Hill, at 3 o'clock. Bro. J. Newton P.M. 174 is the W.M. designate, F. Brown 174 is the S.W. designate, C. W. Webb I.G. 174 is the J.W. designate, J. G. Glover Secretary pro tem. Bro. James Terry P.G.D.C. Herts, P.M. 228, 1278, 1366, P.Z. 174, 795, Secretary to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, is the Consecrating Officer appointed by the M.W. Grand Master H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Berks and Bucks will assemble on Tuesday next, under the presidency of the Right Worshipful Provincial G.M. Bro. Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P., at the Albert Hall, Reading, for the general business of the Province. Prov. Grand Lodge will be opened at 1 p.m., and the banquet will take place at the Queen's Hotel at 3. Special advantages are offered by the Great Western Railway Co. from several of their principal stations.

We are moved to congratulate the Craft in general, and the province of Lincolnshire in particular, upon the deliverance out of a most serious illness of our Reverend Brother Daniel Ace, D.D., W.M. of No. 1232. The Great Architect has been pleased to spare to us for a longer term His faithful Craftsman, but the state of his health did not allow him to be present at the Festival of the Girls' School, for which he was a steward, nor to deliver a learned lecture promised on Tuesday last to the brethren assembled in Chapter of the 30°, at Golden-square. We hope shortly to hear of his convalescence, and cannot now err in conveying to him the sympathy of a large number of brethren.

Over House Playing Cards.—Mogul Quality, picked 1s 3d per pack, 14s per dozen packs. Do. seconds 1s per pack, 11s per dozen packs. If by post 1½d per pack extra. Cards for Piquet, Bésique, Euchre, &c., Mogul Quality 10d per pack, 8s per dozen packs.—London: W. W. Morgan, 57 Barbican, E.C.

THE DRAMA.

Signor Rossi.—The Charing Cross.

THE letter from Signor Rossi, which appeared in several of our morning contemporaries, on Monday last, may be described as at once the letter of a gentleman, a scholar, and an artiste. The two impersonations which Signor Rossi had so far presented, those of Hamlet and Lear, had been somewhat harshly, and, as he considered, unfairly criticised by the London Press. With regard to his Hamlet, indeed, the verdict of many of the critics was that he had failed altogether even to comprehend the character. They assert that his impersonation was that of a man mad from the commencement of the play, and they not unreasonably objected to such an interpretation. Signor Rossi, however, denies that such was his conception of the character at all, and in other respects challenges the verdict of the critics as inaccurate. We cannot help thinking that there is some reason in Signor Rossi's complaint. When his countryman, Salvini, appeared for the first time before an English audience, the critics were lost in admiration of his great and singular genius, and sang his praises industriously in every possible key. But when Rossi comes, although, in the opinion of most qualified judges, an equally intelligent, if not an equally robust, actor as Salvini, the critics seem to have determined to greet him after a different fashion. Ristori they knew, Salvini they know, but they would not know nor appreciate Rossi. Like the celebrated "hanging jury," they thought it was time to introduce a little variety into their verdicts; and Signor Rossi suffered accordingly. Whether our surmise is or is not correct, we think that most intelligent playgoers who are "fortunate enough not to be critics," will, on witnessing for themselves one of Signor Rossi's impersonations, come to the conclusion that he has been hardly treated. In our opinion, his Hamlet is, throughout, an intelligent and striking performance, whilst his Lear is grandly effective and artistic throughout. That both impersonations are open to objection in some points, we freely admit, but so were the impersonations of Signor Salvini, and notably his Othello. Our advice to our readers, therefore, is, that they should go and judge for themselves.

A series of humorous and satirical pieces are being produced and performed at the Charing Cross. Twenty Pounds a year and Young Rip Van Winkle having been withdrawn, the performance now comprises an apropos sketch entitled, The Misnober Back Garden Skating Rink, and a kind of burlesque upon Miss Gwilt, which bears the title of The Gwilty Governess and the Downy Doctor. Both these pieces are likely to be tolerably successful, and are excessively mirth-provoking. Miss Farren, Mr. Soutar, and Mr. Boyce are the principal contributors to the amusement.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

All Letters must bear the name and address of the Writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

—:o:—

THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

Royal Masonic Institution for Boys,
6 Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, W.C.
8th May 1876.

Dear Sir and Brother,—So many exaggerated statements with reference to "extravagance" and "recklessness" in connection with the expenditure of this Institution have been circulated during the past year that I think it only due to the committees and executive to publish, for the information of all who continue to take a kindly interest in our welfare, the details of cost for the year 1875:—

Establishment charges	5,817	5	4	...	...	...	per boy	34	8	5
Office expenditure	... 1,024	16	5	...	...	...	„	6	1	3½
	£6,843	1	9					£40	9	8½

The average number of boys in the establishment in 1875 was 169, as compared with 156 in 1874, in which year the establishment charges were ... ... 5,880 18 10 ... ... per boy 37 13 11½

Office expenditure	...	959	10	10	...	...	„	6	3	0
		£6,840	9	8				£43	16	11½

This result proves the maintenance, &c. of thirteen additional boys, at an additional cost of £1 12s 1d only, and a reduction in the cost per boy per annum of £3 7s 3d.

The same basis of calculation has been adopted as in former years, it being open to any one to make such additions as in his opinion ought to be included.

Trusting that the governors and subscribers may consider this statement as reassuring and satisfactory,

I am, dear Sir and brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

FREDERICK BINCKES, Secretary.

Holloway's Pills and Ointment.—Ever useful.—The afflicted by illness should look their diseases fully in the face, and at once seek a remedy for them. A short search will convince the most sceptical that these noble medicaments have afforded ease, comfort, and oftentimes complete recovery, to the most tortured sufferers. The Ointment will cure all descriptions of sores, wounds, bad legs, sprains, eruptions, erysipelas, rheumatism, gout and skin affections. The Pills never fail in correcting and strengthening the stomach, in restoring a deranged liver to a wholesome condition, in rousing torpid kidneys, to increase the secretion and in re-establishing the natural healthful activity of the bowels. Holloway's are the remedies for complaints of all classes of society.

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

SATURDAY, 13th MAY.

108—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
1381—Commercial, Freemasons' Hall, Leicester.
1656—Addiscombe, Alma Tavern, Addiscombe.
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

MONDAY, 15th MAY.

45—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem, St. John's-square, E.C., at 8. (Instruction.)
174—Sincerity, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., at 7. (Instruction.)
1159—Marquess of Dalhousie, Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street.

256—York, Masonic Hall, York.
331—Phœnix of Honour and Prudence, Public Rooms, Truro.
359—Peace and Harmony, Freemasons' Hall, Southampton.
803—Royal Union, Chequer's Hotel, Uxbridge.
466—Merit, George Hotel, Stamford Baron, Northampton.
720—Panmure, Balham Hotel, Balham.
735—Stoneleigh, King's Arms Hotel, Kenilworth.
1037—Portland, Royal Breakwater Hotel, Portland.
1075—Greta, Court-buildings, Keswick, Cumberland.
1141—Mid Sussex, Assembly Rooms, Horsham.
1503—Israel, 23 Hope-street, Liverpool.
R. A.—1061—Bowley, Masonic Room, Athenæum, Lancaster.

TUESDAY, 16th MAY.

55—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
194—St. Paul's, City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, E.C.
860—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michaels'-alley, Cornhill, at 6.30.

213—Perseverance, Masonic Hall, Theatre-street, Norwich.
463—Frederick of Unity, Greyhound Hotel, Croydon.
1006—Tregullow, Masonic Rooms, St. Day, Scorrier, Cornwall.
1228—Beaconsfield, Red Lion, Leytonstone, at 8.0. (Instruction.)
1325—Stanley, Masonic Hall, Kirkdale, Liverpool.
1470—Chiltern, Town Hall, Dunstable.
R. A. 41—Royal Cumberland, Old Orchard-street, Bath.
R. A.—349—Alfred, Masonic Hall, Alfred-street, Oxford.

WEDNESDAY, 17th MAY.

174—Sincerity, Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street.
190—Oak, Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street.
193—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7. (Instruction.)
212—Euphrates, Masons' Hall, Basinghall-street, E.C.
1324—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Albion-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)

121—Mount Sinai, Public-buildings, Penzance.
127—Amity, Masonic Hall, Thames-street, Poole.
175—East Medina, Masonic Hall, John-street, Ryde, I.W.
199—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover (Instruction.)
200—Old Globe, Private Rooms, Globe-street, Scarborough.
221—St. John's, Commercial Hotel, Town Hall Square, Bolton.
801—Buckingham, George Hotel, Aylesbury.
802—Cotteswold, King's Head Hotel, Cirencester.
883—Isca, Freemasons' Hall, Dock-street, Newport, Monmouthshire.
889—Dobie, Griffin Hotel, Kingston-on-Thames.
989—Sun and Sector, Assembly Rooms, Workington.
1040—Sykes, Masonic Hall, Great Driffield.
1099—Walton, St. Lawrence Boys' School, Kirkdale.
1114—Jordan, Corn Hall, Faversham.
1129—St. Chad's, Roebuck Hotel, Rochdale.
1264—Eliot, Private Rooms, St. Germains, Cornwall.
1306—Cinque Ports, Bell Hotel, Sandwich.
1317—Anchor, Masonic Rooms, Durham House, Northallerton.
1353—Duke of Lancaster, Athenæum, Lancaster.
1463—Salem, Town Hall, Dawlish, Devon.
1501—Wycombe, Town Hall, High Wycombe.
1511—Alexandra, Masonic Hall, Hornsea.
R. A.—141—Faith, Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, E.C.
R. A.—244—Shakespeare, Masonic Room, High-street, Warwick.
R. A.—433—Harmony, Masonic Hall, Trowbridge.
R. A.—1044—Stamford, Town Hall, Altrincham.

THURSDAY, 18th MAY.

House Committee, Girls' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
3—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, London-st., Fitzroy-sq., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
55—Constitutional, London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street.
435—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 8. (Instruction.)
813—New Concord, Rosemary Branch Tavern, Hoxton.
1240—Harvey, 103 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1275—Burdett Coutts, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1448—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
1601—Loyalty, Alexandra Palace, Wood Green. (Consecration.)

66—Howard, High-street, Arundel.
343—Concord, Militia Officers' Mess Rooms, Starkie-street, Preston.
523—John of Gaunt, Freemasons' Hall, Hufford-street, Leicester.
1184—Abbey, Masonic Hall, Battle, Sussex.
1332—Unity, Masonic Hall, Crediton, Devon.
R. A. 339—Regularity, Crown Hotel, King-street, Penrith.
R. A. 602—Marwood, Masonic Hall, Mid-Lisburgh.

FRIDAY, 19th MAY.

Election Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution.
House Committee, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
933—Doric, Earl Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1275—Burdett Coutts, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, 7.30. (Instruction.)
1507—Metropolitan, 360 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)

347—Noah's Ark, Wagon and Horses Hotel, Tipton.
618—Phœnix, Fox Hotel, Stowmarket.

SATURDAY, 20th MAY.

108—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

MONDAY.

227—St. John's, Masonic Temple, Halifax-road, Dewsbury.
R. A. 139—Paradise, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
R. A. 333—Charity, New Masonic Hall, Darley-street, Bradford.

WEDNESDAY.

1019—Sincerity, Freemasons' Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield.
1341—Brighouse, Masonic Room, Bradford-road, Brighouse.
R. A. 156—Amphibious, Freemasons's Hall, Heckmondwike.
R. A. 367—Moravian, Masonic Hall, Westgate, Shipley.

THURSDAY.

600—Harmony, Freemasons' Hall, Salem-street, Bradford.
1045—Excelsior, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.
R. A. 275—Perseverance, Masonic Hall, South-parade, Huddersfield.
R. A. 1314—Scarborough, Wilson Arms Hotel, Batley.

FRIDAY.

1311—Zetland, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.
R. A. 321—Truth, Freemasons' Hall, Pitt-William-street, Huddersfield.
R. A. 327—Marquess of Ripon, Town Hall, Ripon.

SATURDAY.

R. A. 308—Affability, Station House, Bottoms, Eastwood.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

434—Borough, Freemasons' Hall, West-street, Gateshead.

TUESDAY.

1427—Percy, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
R. A. 704—Fawcett, Freemasons' Hall, Upper Church-street, West Hartlepool.

WEDNESDAY.

1234—Norman, Freemasons' Hall, Old Elvet, Durham.
1389—Fenwick, Masonic Hall, Park-terrace, Sunderland.
R. A. 481—St. Peter, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

THURSDAY.

531—St. Helen's, Masonic Hall, Regent's-square, Hartlepool.
943—Philanthropy, Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-road, Stockton-on-Tees.
R. A. 97—Strict Benevolence, Masonic Hall, Park-terrace, Sunderland.

FRIDAY.

941—De Loraine, Freemasons' Hall, Grainger-street-west, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

IRELAND.

MONDAY—Ashfield Private Rooms, Church-street, Cootehill, Co. Cavan.
WEDNESDAY—161—Excelsior, Bishop-street, Tuam.
THURSDAY—139—Industry, Dundoran, Donegal.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

MONDAY—44—St. Luke, Freemasons' Hall.
TUESDAY—36—St. David, Ship Hotel, East Register-street.
" 405—Rifle, Freemasons' Hall.
WEDNESDAY—160—Roman Eagle, Iona Hotel, 62 Nicolson-street.
THURSDAY—48—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall.
" 224—Portobello, Royal Hotel, Bath-street.
" R. A. 145—Perseverance, Lodge Room, 46 Constitution-street.
FRIDAY—R. A. 53—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall.

GLASGOW DISTRICT.

MONDAY—170—Union, Buchanan-street.
" 481—Plantation, McLean-street.
TUESDAY—179—Thistle and Rose, 170 Buchanan-street.
" 87—Thistle, 30 Hope-street.
" 336—Clydesdale, 108 Rose-street.
WEDNESDAY—4—Kilwinning, 170 Buchanan-street.
" 117—St. Mary, Dumbarton-street, Partick.
" 471—Dramatic, 241 Buchanan-street, at 3 p.m.
THURSDAY—27—St. Mungo, 213 Buchanan-street.
" 463—St. Andrew, 62 Garnet-road.
FRIDAY—15—Kilwinning, Town Hall, Greenock.
" 399—Commercial, 30 Hope-street.
" 408—Clyde, 170 Buchanan-street.
" 381—St. Andrew's, Public Hall, Alexandria.
SATURDAY—24—St. John's, Black Bull, Kirkintilloch.
" 412—Thornlee, School-room, Thornliebank.
" 534—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall, East Kilbride.

Bro. the Rev. Dr. Salte, P.G. Chaplain of Lancashire, will preach to the brethren in St. Luke's Church, Grafton-street on the 21st, at 7 p.m., and in Hyde Park Hall, Springburne, on Monday, 22nd, at 7.30.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Egyptian Lodge, No. 27.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, the 4th instant, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Present—Bros. J. Green W.M., Hales S.W., J. Walker J.W., H. G. Buss P.M. Treasurer, J. B. Poole Secretary, S. M. Atkins as S.D., Salmoneus as J.D., Grammer as I.G., Lamble I.P.M., and P.M.'s C. B. Payne, Harrison, D. H. Jacobs, and Bros. May, Kemp, Hassell, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. G. L. B. Walker and F. Lake were passed to the 2nd degree. Bro. Chick was raised to the 3rd degree. Bro. A. Ellis, No. 933, was elected a joining member, and Mr. S. Rogers was initiated into the Order, the ceremony being ably worked by the W.M. Bro. Buss P.M. and Treasurer then announced to the brethren the sad calamity that had befallen the wife of Bro. T. Maidwell I.G., she having met her death from concussion of the brain, caused by a carriage accident in Wales. Every brother felt the greatest commiseration for Bro. Maidwell and his family in their sad bereavement. The amiable and worthy lady was well known to them all. She was the daughter of their late Bro. Todd, who was Treasurer to the Lodge for over twenty-five years. He proposed a vote of condolence be entered on the minutes, and a copy be engrossed on vellum, and forwarded to Bro.

Digitized by Google

Maidwell. Bro. D. H. Jacobs, in feeling and eloquent terms, seconded the proposition, and it was carried unanimously. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment, where the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. That of the W.M. was duly honoured. Bro. Lamble returned thanks for the P.M.'s. The Officers' toast was responded to by Bros. Walker, Atkins, Salmoneee and Grammer; and the Tyler's toast was given in due course. Bros. G. T. Townshend J.W. 1086, J. B. Sorrell W.M. 176, T. P. Purdy P.M. 861, E. B. Grabham W.M. 19, M. G. Rudderforth W.M. 12 and G. E. Turner 902 were present as visitors.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Thursday evening last, at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules, Leadenhall-street, E.C. Present—Bros. Horsley W.M., Blackhall S.W., Biddle J.W., Ellis S.D., Salmoneee J.D., Batie I.G., Grammer Hon. Sec., Austin P.M. Preceptor, and many other brethren. Bro. Barney having answered the usual questions was entrusted. The Lodge was opened in the Second Degree, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed. The whole of the sections of the second lecture were worked by the W.M. Bro. Horsley, assisted by the brethren. Bros. Barney, Lamb and Pitt were elected joining members. All Masonic business being ended the Lodge was closed in ancient form.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting on Monday, the 8th instant, at Bro. Gay's, Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's-square, Clerkenwell. Present—Bros. Gardiner W.M., Pearey S.W., Crawley J.W., Killick Secretary, Dickinson S.D., Wright J.D., Saul I.G., Christopher Tyler; P.M. Bro. Beckett Preceptor; Visitors—Bros. Dickson 1298, Wright 1298, Nunn 77, and Samuels 188. Business—The Lodge having been opened, and the minutes confirmed, the W.M. worked the ceremony of passing, Bro. A. W. Cook being the candidate. Several sections were worked by the Preceptor, assisted by the brethren and visitors. Bros. Dickson 1298, Wright 1298, Nunn 77 and Samuels 188 were elected joining members. Bro. Pearey was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week.

St. Andrew Royal Arch Chapter, No. 69.—This Chapter held its regular meeting on Tuesday, 9th May. In the absence of Comp. T. M. Campbell Z., it was presided over by Comp. T. O. Park, who conferred the degrees of Excellent Master and Royal Arch on two brethren, in his well known style.

Sincerity Chapter, No. 174.—The regular Convocation of this Chapter was held on Thursday, the 4th inst., at the Cheshire Cheese Tavern, Crutched Friars. Comp. C. E. Lacey Z., S. H. Rawley H., J. L. Mather J.; and P.Z.'s James Terry, Barlow, J. Wright, Newton, Bulmer, J. Bellerby and Cook; and Comps. Halford, Bowyer, Linzell, G. Huggett, Dunster, Cox, La Room, A. L. Leins, E. C. Mather, Davy, Wells, J. Thomas, and Steedman. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Knight 1327, G. T. Brown 65, T. Hallett 781, J. T. Hillier 1580, and W. Bonsor 1580, were duly exalted into R.A. Masonry. The Audit Committee were appointed. The elections for the three Principals and officers resulted as follow: Comps. S. H. Rawley Z., J. L. Mather H., E. W. Goddard J., G. Huggett S.E., E. C. Mather S.N., L. A. Leins P.S., W. C. Barlow P.Z. Treasurer, and Very Janitor. A P.Z.'s Jewel was voted to the retiring P.Z., Comp. C. E. Lacey, for the able manner he had discharged the duties during his year of office. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions partook of a very excellent banquet. The M.E.Z. proposed the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts, which were duly responded to. Comp. E. P. Albert P.Z. 188 returned thanks for the Visitors. The toast of the newly elected Z., H. and J., followed. Comp. Rawley responded. Comps. J. Terry P.Z. and Cook returned thanks for the toast of the P.Z.'s, and Comp. C. E. Mather for the Junior Officers. The Janitor's toast concluded a very agreeable evening.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The weekly convocation of this Chapter was held on Tuesday, the 9th inst., at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill, E.C. Present—Comps. Newman Z., Miles H., Norris J., Constable N., White E., Stephens P.S., also Comps. Major Finney, Drew, Green, Glackstein, Rumsey, &c. The business consisted of the confirmation of the minutes of the previous convocation, and the rehearsal of the ceremony of exaltation, which was ably rendered by the M.E., Comp. Drew being candidate. We congratulate Comp. Newman upon the progress he has made in the ritual, for we have not heard him so perfect upon any previous occasion. The usual fortnightly election of officers will take place on Tuesday next. Time of Meeting, 6.30.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—The weekly meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 10th inst., at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street, E.C. Present—Bros. Walker W.M., Holland S.W., Croaker J.W., J. K. Pitt Secretary, J. Constable P.M. Treasurer, E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, Saver S.D., Sadlier J.D., Bush I.G., Christopher Tyler; Bloomfield P.M., and a number of other brethren. The Lodge opened in due form; the usual preliminaries disposed of, the Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and the ceremony rehearsed, Bro. Bone acting as candidate. The first three sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Gottheil, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge having been lowered to the 1st degree in due course, Bro. Rutherford was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at Bro. Fysh's, Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Corner of Church-road, Islington, on 6th May. The chair was taken by Bro. James Terry, for the purpose of rehearsing the ceremony of installation, and Bros. Mather and J. Constable occupied the Wardens' chairs. Bro. Massey having been presented by Bro. Halford, the Treasurer, was duly installed and invested. The officers were as follow—Bros. Powell S.W., Stock J.W., Reed S.D., Cambridge J.D., Isaac I.G., Halford Treasurer, and Killick Hon. Sec. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Hall being the candidate. Some sections were worked by Bro. J. Constable. Bros. Mather P.M. 65 and Goldman 188 were elected young members, and Bro. Powell W.M. for the ensuing week. A cordial vote of thanks to Bro. James Terry, which was duly acknowledged, brought a very pleasant evening to a close. This Lodge meets every Saturday at 8 o'clock.

Hope and Unity Chapter, No. 214.—A convocation of this excellent working Chapter was held on Friday, the 5th May, at the White Hart, Romford. Comps. Major Finney Z., Dr. Self P.Z., H. Tuck J., E. J. Barron P.Z. P.G.S.B. Treasurer, G. Cooper P.Z. S.E., Rev. T. Cochrane S.N., F. Kelly P.S., and P.Z.'s Comps. F. Adlard, Col. Goddard, J. Banning, Jeffries, &c. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. The election of Principals then took place, and the installation followed. Comp. T. W. White was installed Z., E. Tuck H., and F. Kelly J. Comps. Barron P.G.S.B. was invested Treasurer, Cooper S.E., Rev. T. Cochrane S.N., and Speight Janitor. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions sat down to an excellent banquet. The usual loyal and R.A. toasts were given. Comp. Major Finney I.P.Z. proposed the toast of the M.E.Z., whose connection with the Craft and R.A. Masonry was well known—he was one they were proud of. The Z. appropriately returned thanks. A special toast was given to Comps. Dr. Self P.Z. and Jeffries P.Z., for the admirable manner they had performed the ceremonies of installation. The P.Z., Officers' and Janitor's toasts was given, and the brethren separated. Comps. Rev. Spencer Wigram G. 1st Asst. Soj., and Pythian were present as visitors.

Pomfret Lodge, No. 360.—This Lodge held its usual monthly meeting on Thursday, the 4th May, at the George Hotel, Northampton. Present—Bros. M. A. Boémé P.M. W.M., B. Wilkins D.P.G.M. Norths. and Hants, Treasurer, R. Winter S.W., T. Whitehouse J.W., Geo. Robinson P.M. Secretary, F. Gadsby S.D., H. W. Parker J.D., J. T. Green P.M. D.C., J. U. Stanton P.M. Steward, J. S. Norman I.G., Dean and Kirby Tylers; and Bros. G. Cotton, A. Durrell, T. Green, S. L. Seckham, Gordon, Atkins, Aldridge, Ellard, Ashford, Barnes, Bingley, Brown, Richardson, Hill, &c. Visitors—Bros. Wykes and Ewins 279, &c. Business—Bro. W. Kirby was raised to the sublime degree of M.M., the D.P.G.M. performing the ceremony. Bros. Rev. R. H. Cox, P. Allen, Rev. S. J. W. Sanders and J. J. Hart, were examined as to their proficiency, and duly passed to the second degree, the W.M. performing the ceremony. Mr. Henry Shoor (the son of an old member of this Lodge) was then duly initiated, the W.M. performing the ceremony. The brethren then adjourned from labour to refreshment, when the W.M. took the opportunity of thanking all present, not only for their punctual attendance, but also for the great attention paid to the various ceremonies, and complimented the Officers on the admirable manner in which their duties had been performed. This Lodge is now in a very flourishing state.

St. Martin's Lodge, No. 510.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Tuesday, the 9th of May, at the Masonic Hall, Liskeard. Present—Bros. William Thorne W.M., John F. Childs S.W., John Beaglehole J.W., R. S. Courtney Secretary, Thomas White Treasurer, William Nettle S.D., John Harris J.D., Harry Hooper D.C., J. Browning Steward, Colmer I.G., Richard Penwarden Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. J. W. Chegwidden, James Gerry, Thomas White, R. Courtney. Business—The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Mr. William Goldsworthy was duly initiated into the order, and several other gentlemen were proposed and seconded as candidates.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting on Tuesday, the 9th instant, at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. Cambridge W.M., Allen S.W., Smith J.W., Wiege S.D., Johnson I.G., Wallington Preceptor, Worsley Secretary; and Bros. Barker, Horsley, Huggins, Brown, Fellatt, Turquand, &c. The Lodge was opened in the 1st degree, and Bro. Barker having answered the usual questions was passed to the 2nd degree. Bro. Horsley worked the 1st section of the lecture. The Lodge was then resumed to the 1st degree, and Bro. Horsley worked the 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the lecture. The Secretary, Bro. Worsley, was unanimously elected an honorary member, and Bro. Allen, the S.W., was elected W.M. for the ensuing Tuesday evening.

St. Barnabas Lodge, No. 948.—The annual meeting of this flourishing Lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Elephant and Castle Hotel, Linslade, Leighton Buzzard, on Tuesday, 2nd May, at 3.30 in the afternoon. Owing to the well-deserved popularity of the W.M. elect, Bro. Henry Poynter P.M., P.P.G.P. Berks and Bucks, there was an unusually large attendance of members; and neighbouring Lodges, for miles around, manifested their respect and good wishes by sending some of their more distinguished members to represent them at the meeting. The Chair was taken punctually by the W.M., Bro. W. King, who was supported by Bros. Thos. Cook S.W., J. McCubbin P.M., E. Proctor, Joseph Rafferty, Mark Rest J.W., Bernard T. Fountaine P.M., P. Prov. G. Treasurer, Treasurer, H. Poynter Hon. Secretary, Robt. S. Collot, C. W. Scriven P.M., P. Prov. G.J.W., Henry Green, N. T. Welam, J. Nelson, G. M.

Digitized by Google

Maskell, Joseph Holland, Fred. D. Latham, Ed. Lawson, Geo Holdom, W. Randall, Geo. Whitman, James Bishop, Chas. J. Morgan, J. Sloane Tyler. Among the visitors were Bros. J. Reeve W.M. 840, Rev. E. H. Crate P.P.G. Chaplain Essex, W.M. 697, Thos. W. Hazelgrove W.M. 475, Joseph Payne W.M. 591, Fred. Gotto W.M. 1287, Walter Pitch W.M. 1410, John Bowes P.M., &c., 148, John Dennis P.M. 907, Henry Lewis P.M. 907, H. W. Darvel 697, Fred. Edginton 1321, Measuring W. Bolton 127, Margate, and E. Bate 95. The Lodge was opened in due form, when the minutes were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Mr. John Stewart, which proved unanimous in his favour, and he being present was initiated by Bro. McCubbin P.M. On the invitation of the W.M., P.M.'s, and the Lodge generally, Bro. John Bowes P.M. P.Z., P. Prov. G. Reg. Cumberland and Westmoreland, assumed the chair of K.S., as Installing Master. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, when Bro. Henry Poynter P.M. P.P.G.P. was duly presented for the benefit of installation. The presentation receiving attention, the ceremony proceeded. The Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and a Board of Installed Masters was duly opened in ample form, Bro. J. McCubbin acting as J.W. The W.M. elect was then placed in the chair of K.S. with the usual ceremonies, and after the Board had been closed, the M.M.'s, F.C.'s, and E.A.P.'s were severally admitted, and the W.M. was greeted, saluted and proclaimed in the several degrees. The W.M. then nominated and invested his officers for the ensuing year, and the installing Master completed the day's labour by delivering the charges to the W.M., wardens and brethren. After some routine business and a proposition, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a splendid banquet provided by Bro. C. J. Morgan, in his very best style, and which gave unqualified satisfaction to all present. The W.M. presided, and was supported on the right and left respectively by the Installing Master and the I.P.M.; other brethren according to rank. After the cloth was withdrawn, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured in the well-known St. Barnabas style. The W.M.'s health was received in a most enthusiastic manner, and his many and great services to the Lodge were gratefully referred to. In proposing the health of the Installing Master, the thanks of the Lodge were conveyed to him for the complete and impressive manner in which he had worked the degree. The visitors generally joined in this compliment. Bro. Bowes, in reply, gave expression to the great pleasure it afforded him to instal his brother-in-law, and said that if his rendering of their beautiful ritual met with the approbation of the brethren, he was amply repaid for any trouble he had taken to be present on the occasion. An interesting feature of the meeting was the presentation of a P.M. jewel to the I.P.M., Bro. King. Several songs were excellently sung during the evening, by Bros. Poynter, Bolton, McCubbin, and E. Proctor.

Grosvenor Lodge, No. 1257.—The Installation banquet of this perfect working Lodge was held on Tuesday, the 2nd inst., at the Westminster Palace Hotel. Bro. J. C. Cox W.M., E. Thurkle S.W., Meredith P.M. Treasurer, C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. Secretary, and a numerous assemblage of the brethren and visitors. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. E. Thurkle W.M. elect was presented to the Lodge, and was duly installed into the chair by the retiring W.M., in a perfect manner. The W.M. having been saluted, invested his officers—Bros. Hughes S.W., Elliott J.W., Meredith P.M. Treasurer, C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. Secretary, Cantle S.D., Marley J.D., T. Ball P.M. 145 D.C., Baker Steward, Pilditch I.G., Woodstock P.M. Tyler. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a very sumptuous banquet. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bros. John Boyd P.G.P. Grand Steward, and C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. responding for the Grand Officers. Bro. Cox I.P.M. in a very eloquent speech proposed the toast of the W.M., he was one fully capable of fulfilling the duties of the chair. This was cordially received, and suitably replied to. Bro. Wyon returned thanks for the toast of the newly initiated, that ceremony having taken place at a Lodge of emergency. In proposing the toast of the Past Masters, the W.M., in the name of the Lodge, presented Bro. J. C. Cox I.P.M. with a very elegant P.M.'s jewel, with suitable inscription, in recognition of the valuable services rendered by him during his year of office, and the regard and esteem he is held in by every brother. Bro. Cox in reply thanked the brethren for their kind expressions and the valuable jewel presented to him, he felt the greatest interest in the welfare of the Lodge; and he thanked the officers and brethren for their kind support and the cordial co-operation extended to him during his year of office. Bros. H. Dickets P.G.S., Roe W.M. 1604, B. Swallow W.M. 1563, and Kempster W.M. 1445, returned thanks for the visitors, who, in addition, were Bros. John Boyd P.G.P. Grand Steward, G. S. States P.G.S., J. L. Thomas P.M. 142, C. Moody P.M. 1426, Scott P.M. Sec. 1563, Venn P.M. 49, Bourne P.M. 1348, Jolly P.M. 87, Bond P.M., Leggott 145, Ireton 1348, Allman 101, Jekyll 1319, Southam, Knight, Smith, Willoughby, Knight, Cummings, Francis, Townshend and Gibson. The toasts of the Wardens, Officers, and Tyler were given, and a very agreeable evening was passed.

Truth Lodge, No. 1458.—This Lodge held its regular monthly meeting on Saturday, the 6th of May, at Private Rooms, Conservative Club, Newton Heath, near Manchester. Present—Bros. R. Caldwell sen. P.M. acting as W.M., James Batcheldor S.W., John W. Turner P.M. acting as J.W., William J. Kinder Secretary, Thomas Tyers P.M. Treasurer, Cox J.D., Robert Caldwell P.M. D.C., Taylor I.G., Berwick Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. John W. Turner, Caldwell, Kinder, and Tyers. Visitor—Bro. Moniatofsky Kleinman. Business—The Lodge was opened at 4 o'clock, the minutes of last regular meeting were read and confirmed. Several brethren were excluded, in accordance with bye-law 15. Bro. Samuel Cooper having answered the necessary questions retired, and the Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree; on re-admittance, he was passed, in a very able manner, by Bro. Tyers P.M. The W.M. having been suddenly called away, the business was under charge of Bro. R. Caldwell sen. P.M. Two propositions, one as joining member, the other for initiation, stood over, in consequence of the proposers being absent. Business was concluded at an early hour, and after paying due honour to the Masonic toasts the brethren separated.

New Cross Lodge, No. 1559.—The regular meeting of this young Lodge was held on Saturday, the 6th inst., at the New Cross Hall, Lewisham High-road, New Cross. Bro. F. Walters P.M. P.G.P. Middlesex, occupied the chair in the absence of the W.M., Bro. W. B. Woodman. Bros. E. H. Thiellay A.G.P. Middlesex S.W., W. A. Simmons J.W., F. Walters P.M. Treasurer, H. Keble P.M. Secretary, L. Bock S.D., H. J. Green J.D., W. Hardman I.G. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. H. Heaton, W. Smurthwaite and S. H. Beccles were raised to the 3rd degree by Bro. F. Walters P.M. Bros. E. Smith, R. J. Steers, D. Malpas, E. Buck and H. Metham were passed to the 2nd degree by Bro. H. Keble P.M. The W.M. having by this time arrived, he initiated Messrs. T. Grummant, W. Cowley and Captain T. Card, the working being excellently rendered. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to slight refreshments. Bros. E. W. Devereux 1243, M'Donald 1158, and several others were present as visitors.

HUMBER LODGE, No. 57.

From the HULL PACKET AND EAST RIDING TIMES.

THE 49th anniversary of laying the foundation stone of the Freemasons' Hall, in Osborne-street, was celebrated on Monday evening last, when there was a large and influential assemblage of the brethren, including many officers of rank from other Lodges in the Province. The Lodge was opened in due form at 7 o'clock, the W.M., Bro. Alfred W. Ansell, presiding, and being supported on the dais by the W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master of North and East Yorkshire, and a brilliant array of Past Masters and Prov. Grand Officers. After the transaction of the ordinary business, the W.M. called upon P.M. Bro. Tessyman (who officiated as Secretary, in the absence of Bro. W. H. Wellstead) to read the minutes taken at the meeting when the foundation stone was laid, in May 1827. From these it appeared that the Humber Lodge had hitherto assembled at the Neptune Inn, Osborne-street, and that, on the "auspicious occasion" recorded, the brethren went in procession to the site of the proposed new structure, where the ceremony was gone through, in accordance with ancient rites, and in the presence of a very large and distinguished assemblage of the Craft. The curiously worded record was listened to with every attention by the brethren present, and afterwards the W.M. said the officers and brethren of the Humber Lodge had taken advantage of this anniversary to present to their Past Master Bro. Alderman John Love Seaton some slight testimonial in recognition of his services as Treasurer of the Benevolent and Pension Fund, which office he had so well and ably filled during the last ten years (applause). During the whole of that period they had not heard a single word of complaint of the manner in which he had discharged the responsible functions of that office; on the contrary, they had heard on all sides that he had been a faithful guardian of the fund over which he had control (applause). He (the W.M.) had heard Brother Seaton's conduct in that office spoken of in such terms as must have given confidence to all the brethren who were connected with the Lodge: and he simply alluded to this to testify their appreciation of the services Brother Seaton had rendered. But, seeing he had resigned the trust he had so long and faithfully discharged, the officers and brethren felt they could not allow an occasion like the present to pass over without expressing their appreciation of his worth in some tangible form. When they looked back over the last half a century, when Masonry was in its infancy, so to speak—at all events in connection with this lodge—they called to mind the honoured names of those who assisted in laying the foundation of that structure upon which they had continued to build, until the Humber Lodge had now attained a position second to none in the United Kingdom. Wherever the name of the Humber Lodge was mentioned it was received with respect; and this was to be attributed to those who had laboured so zealously and well in the past to establish the prestige and reputation of the Lodge. The speaker went on to allude to the services rendered by Bro. Seaton during the last 30 years, referring, in complimentary terms, to the manner in which he had discharged the various offices he had held, and the respect and esteem he had earned from the brethren by his exemplary conduct and efficiency. In 1874, during which year Bro. Seaton filled the exalted position of Chief Magistrate of this borough, the brethren, under the Mastership of Bro. Vivian, had the honour of entertaining him at a complimentary banquet. He (the speaker) was privileged to sit under that gentleman during and since his mayoralty; and it afforded him sincere gratification to testify to the ability and zeal with which Bro. Seaton discharged his duties in the Corporation as well as within the walls of the Masonic Lodge. He referred at some length to the excellencies of Ald. Seaton's public career, and concluded by asking that gentleman's acceptance of the following address, which had been beautifully engrossed on vellum by Bro M. C. Pock jun., and enclosed in a massive gilt frame:—

"The Master, Past Masters, Wardens, Officers, and Brethren of the Humber Lodge of Freemasons, No. 57, Hull, beg to tender their hearty and fraternal thanks to Bro. John Love Seaton, P.M., P.P.G.W., on the occasion of his resignation (after ten years' tenure) of the office of Treasurer of the Humber Lodge Benevolent and Pension Fund, and for his valuable and efficient services.

"They desire at the same time to express their high appreciation of the admirable manner in which he has discharged the duties of various offices in the Lodge, and testify to his earnest and able efforts to advance the best and highest interests of the Craft: also to the zeal displayed by him during the long period of thirty years in promoting the prosperity of the Lodge. As some acknowledgment of these, his great services, further than the complimentary banquet to which, when occupying the exalted position of Mayor and Chief Magistrate of this borough, he was entertained by the Lodge on Thursday, the 23rd of April 1874, the Master, Past Masters, Wardens, Officers, and Brethren hereby resolve to place this record on the minute books of the Lodge, and to have this resolution suitably inscribed on vellum and presented to him."

Digitized by Google

Bro. Alderman J. L. Seaton, who was received with loud and prolonged applause, referred to the minutes which had been read by the Secretary, and observed that of all the names therein recorded, he recognised but one who could possibly be amongst them this evening. Of that long roll of names all had passed away, and it struck him as a somewhat remarkable coincidence that nearly all of them had passed away at the age which the Lodge numbered before the foundation stone of the new structure was laid—65. This seemed to identify some of the oldest and most ardent workers in the cause with the number of the old Lodge (hear, hear). The ceremony of this evening awakened feelings of the deepest gratitude, as it associated the past with the present; and, though to many of the present members of the Lodge his face might not be very familiar, yet when he turned back to the records of the years 1850 to 1852, he found that he had then been not only a constant attendant, but when working through all the various offices he had the honour of performing his duties with assiduity, and he hoped with satisfaction (applause). The subject more particularly alluded to this evening had been his poor, though certainly earnest, services on behalf of the Benevolent and Pension Fund; and, turning to the period when he became Treasurer of that fund, he found it then amounted to £3,676 19s 6d. When he resigned the office it was exactly £4,676, which showed that in the ten years the fund had increased, within a few shillings, by £1,000 (applause). As to what steps should be taken in connection with the fund, this was not perhaps the time to open out all the pros and cons. But he might say there was a widespread feeling that it might be made more generally useful than it seemed to be at the present moment (hear, hear). In the year 1864 Mr. Tidd Pratt, the then Registrar of Friendly Societies, took into consideration some resolutions which had been passed as to the law in connection with this fund; and in 1867 Bro. Hay P.M. (who had acted as his colleague in the Treasurership) brought up a complete analysis of that fund and of the funds of the Lodge. In 1869 some further steps were taken, and a full report was sent up to Mr. Tidd Pratt, which reports had been forwarded regularly ever since up to the present time (hear, hear). They had this evening done him the great honour of notifying the little services he had been enabled to render, and it called to his mind that in 1852, during the year of his Mastership, they did him all the honour which it was possible for them to bestow. The W.M. had also adverted to the year when he filled the civic chair, and when he was also hospitably received by the brethren of the Humber Lodge. Looking round upon all these marks of their regard, he felt that this evening he stood before them with all his "blushing honours" thick upon him (laughter). Referring to Masonry in eloquent terms, the speaker reminded the brethren that it took its origin at a period when there was a very slight, if any, difference with regard to religious beliefs; and it might, therefore, be regarded as typical in a very great measure of the "one fold having one shepherd"—the universal religion of those who acknowledged the Supreme Being. Further than that, it had the opportunity of taking all within its extended fold, as the centre of unity, men of all creeds and of all nations (applause). Standing there amidst such an array of Past Masters, he saw all who had passed the chair were recognised by jewels denoting the services they had rendered. Without wearing a jewel, he should ever gaze upon the beautiful testimonial they had just presented to him as a jewel indeed—one which would gladden his heart as he turned to it and felt that it reminded him of some of the most pleasurable associations in connection with this Lodge. It would be invidious were he to allude to any of his former friends particularly; but he saw present his old associates, Past Masters Hewson, John Hudson, John Wilson, and Dr. Hay—many of whom were much older Masons than himself. These brethren were all distinguished, by the symbols they wore, for the services they had rendered; and in conclusion he thanked the officers and members of the Lodge for the handsome gift with which they had presented him, and also for the kindly and affectionate manner in which the W.M. alluded to his past services. He assured them that the 8th of May 1876 would never be effaced from his mind as long as memory retained its seat (applause).

The remainder of the business having been conducted in accordance with the established usages of the Craft, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren assembled in the lower room, where a sumptuous banquet had been provided by Bro. William Shepherdson, of the George Hotel. The tables were elaborately adorned with flowers and ornamental foliage plants, and the arrangements were such as to elicit universal commendation. The chair was occupied by Bro. A. W. Ansell W.M., who was supported by the W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master of North and East Yorkshire, Bros. T. Sissons P.M. Prov. Grand Registrar; Jno. Thompson P.M., P. Grand Steward of Charities, Jonathan West I.P.M., John Wilson, P.M., Dr. W. Banks Hay P.M., Thomas Hewson, P.M., Alderman J. L. Seaton, P.M., W. D. Keyworth, P.M., Martin Kemp, P.M., W. Needler, P.M., John Hudson, P.M., R. T. Vivian, P. M., W. Tesseyman, P.M., Henry Preston, P.M., Tom Turner, W.M. of the Constitutional Lodge (Beverley), J. Brooke, W.M. of the Minerva, and E. W. Garforth, I.P.M. of the Kingston Lodge (Hull), Benjamin L. Wells, W.M. of Alexandra Lodge (Hornsea), &c. The vice-chairs were filled by the Wardens, Bros. Henry Tosser and Edward Kidd, and the company numbered altogether between 60 and 70. At the conclusion of a very excellent repast, the customary Craft and other toasts were proposed from the chair and duly honoured.

The W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master, in acknowledging the toast of the Provincial Officers, expressed the pleasure it afforded him to meet with so hearty a reception as was invariably accorded to him in this Lodge. He felt much honoured in having his name associated with so noble and distinguished a member of the Craft as was the Earl of Zetland; and he might say that during the ten years he had held the position of Deputy Prov. Grand Master, he had been received by the various Lodges in the Province with the utmost respect, kindness and courtesy. He had made many friendships during that period, which he should cherish to his latest moment (applause). He was happy to say that everything in the Province was going on in a satisfactory and harmonious manner, and he knew of two new warrants that had been granted—one for York and another for Saltburn-on-the-Sea (applause). As a Past Master of the Humber Lodge, he was aware it had been customary on these occasions to make some reference to what had taken place in former times. And with regard to himself, he might say that during the 38 years he had been a member of this Lodge he had filled many offices and had made many valuable acquaintanceships (applause). Masonry, now-a-days, was very different to what it was when this Lodge was founded: then it was an exception in the town, whereas it was now almost the exception not to be a Mason. Moreover, the Craft had taken a much higher position in the estimation of the public than that which it formerly held. No doubt, at the commencement of this century it was much more patronised by Royalty—i.e., there were more members of the Royal Family in the Craft than at present; and it was exceedingly popular. But he was sorry to say the social element at that time vastly preponderated over the intellectual; and for a time Freemasonry sank in the esteem of the outside world. Now, however, it was again in the ascendant, the Grand Officers of England having determined that the intellectual element, and not the social, should be especially cultivated (applause). As an instance of this, he noted that the Masons at Sheffield had resolved to found a library in connection with the Craft there, and he trusted that the same principle might animate all other Lodges throughout the country (applause).

Bro. Alderman Seaton, in giving "The Founders of the Humber Lodge," observed that, on an occasion like the present, when they had met together to commemorate the laying of the foundation stone of the Lodge, this might justly be considered the "toast of the evening." Had it not been for those founders, and the principles they had adhered to—principles which had been successfully maintained and adhered to by Masters down to the present time—they never would have had the honour of assembling in a Lodge, so remarkable in all respects for its numerical strength, its opulence, and the fraternal good feeling amongst its members, which the Humber Lodge enjoyed (hear, hear). When he gazed around that room and saw adorning the walls the portraits of such men as Feetham, Stark, Eglin, John Ward, and others, he might make use of the expression which, he belived, was on the monument of Sir Christopher Wren, in St. Paul's Cathedral, "Circumspice." The founders of this Lodge who originated the system, and adhered to those principles they all so much admired, rendered the Lodge what it was. Since then they had the names of Gordon Smith, Bethel Jacobs, and others, whom he would not take up their time to enumerate. But he would say that the mantle of each Master had descended upon his successor, like the ermine of the Venetian doges; and now they found the Humber Lodge more prosperous and popular than ever (applause). Adherence to sound practical principles had been the secret why the Lodge had continued to flourish. It had been by the Masters, assisted by their officers, in their practical efforts, that had contributed, no doubt, to the well-being and success of this Lodge. And if they continued to adhere to the noble Masonic principles of brotherly love, relief, and truth, he could conceive of nothing which would be a greater mark of respect to the founders, or tend more to the preservation of that brightest of all their gems—charity—in a rim of honour, untarnished (applause). The toast was, as usual, received in solemn silence, and Bro. Dr. Hay P.M. in briefly responding, said he rose with mingled feelings of pain and pleasure to discharge that duty—of pain because they had none of the original founders amongst them to respond to the toast, and of pleasure that they were enabled to see the fruit of the good works begun in former days, which had been continued by others, and which they trusted would be perpetuated as long as Time would run (applause).

The W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master then rose to propose a toast which he felt sure would be received with pleasure and enthusiasm—"The Worshipful Master and Officers of the Humber Lodge" (applause). On no shoulders had the mantle of the founders fallen with greater popularity than on those of their present Worshipful Master. He had always been received by Bro. Ansell with the utmost courtesy, and he had never heard anything fall from his lips but what was graced with the greatest propriety. The manner in which he presented the testimonial to Past Master Seaton was exceedingly interesting and pleasing, and he had witnessed that ceremonial with the utmost satisfaction. All who knew Bro. Seaton knew also that what the Worshipful Master had spoken of him was perfectly true, for the thanks of the Lodge were eminently due to that gentleman for the exemplary way in which he had discharged his responsible and arduous duties as treasurer of the Benevolent and Pension Fund (applause). Bro. Ansell had to-night invited them to a most pleasing entertainment, and they would all agree that the way he had acquitted himself on the occasion was highly satisfactory and commendable (renewed applause). Under his excellent rule the Lodge must prosper, and it was with peculiar pleasure he proposed the toast for acceptance by the brethren (applause).

Bro. A. W. Ansell W.M., who was received with enthusiasm, said he rose with diffidence to respond to the toast, which had been so kindly proposed, inasmuch as a duty of that kind always involved a certain amount of personal reference. But taking it as a compliment due to the Humber Lodge, he returned his heartiest thanks for the honour conferred upon himself and those officers who were associated with him in conducting the affairs of this Lodge. He felt himself but a poor representative in comparison with many who had preceded him, still he would yield to no man in his hearty good will and sincere desire to further the cause of Masonry. When he saw the portrait of Bro. Feetham, surrounded by the great emblems of the Craft, it gave to him the assurance that those great principles he espoused would be carried out in the future for the welfare of this Lodge (applause). In assisting to carry out that aim he felt he should be supported by the brethren collectively. He had been most fortunate in the selection of his officers, and it afforded him the utmost encouragement to think he was placed firmly in that chair, and that he enjoyed the confidence and respect of the brethren. He was reminded that six months ago he made a promise which was yet unfulfilled, namely, the restoration of this Lodge, but he felt it to be his duty to redeem that pledge before he retired from the position it was his honour to fill (applause). He had a scheme before him by which he hoped to be able to raise sufficient funds to place the Lodge in a thorough state of repairs, worthy of Masonry; and he trusted that when he retired from the chair he should do so in the consciousness of having done his duty (applause). At all events he should know he delivered up the insignia of his office in the state he received it, pure and unsullied. Having "Faith, Hope and Charity" to build upon, he was certain they must progress, in spite of any little difficulties which they might expect to encounter. The speaker then went on to trace the origin of the Benevolent and Pension Fund, observing that it was proposed in 1830, by Bro. Feetham, that as soon as 20 members signed the requisition such a fund should be formed. He asked were there 20 members now in a Lodge who did not subscribe to that fund? (hear, hear). He believed there were not ten (applause). The money now amounted to nearly £5,000, and he trusted as in the past, so in the future, it would be devoted to the purpose which the founders intended, namely, the relief of the aged and distressed. If they decided thoughtfully to enlarge the basis of their operations, they might, he thought, do a much greater amount of good with the capital which had accumulated to so large a sum (applause). In conclusion, he paid a high tribute of praise to the officers who had worked with him during the past year, and thanked the company for the compliment which they had paid them.

Digitized by Google

Bros. H. Tooses and E. Kidd also returned thanks in suitable terms.

Bro. Martin Kemp, P.M., next proposed "the Worshipful Masters, Officers, and brethren of the Sister Lodges—the Minerva and the Kingston," the toast being cordially received and responded to by Bro. J. Brooks, Prov. Grand Senior Deacon, and W.M. of the Minerva Lodge, and by Bro. E. W. Garforth, I.P.M. of the Kingston Lodge, in the absence of the W.M., Bro. Hunt.

Bro. T. Sissons, P.M., then gave the "Trustees, Treasurers, and Past Masters of the Humber Lodge," Bro. Alderman Seaton, P.M., responding.

Bro. R. T. Vivian, P.M., proposed the "Masonic Charities," in whose behalf an earnest appeal was made by Bro. John Thompson, P.M., the Provincial Grand Steward.

The Senior Warden in felicitous terms proposed "The Visiting Brethren," for whom Bro. A. Jones replied in a few happily chosen sentences.

Bro. H. Preston, P.M., then gave "The Absent Members of the Humber Lodge, especially the seafaring brethren." The Senior Warden briefly replied.

Bro. Dr. Hay, P.M., proposed "Prosperity, Unanimity, and Perpetuity to the Humber Lodge," in response to which the W.M. spoke in suitable terms.

This concluded the official list, and the remainder of the evening was spent in harmony, some excellent songs being rendered, and accompanied on the pianoforte by Bros. J. W. Stephenson and C. H. Hunt. The whole of the proceedings were characterised by the utmost harmony and good feeling.

PRESENTATIONS TO SIR W. W. WYNN, M.P., BY THE MASONS OF SHREWSBURY.

A Masonic banquet took place at Shrewsbury on Friday, the 5th instant, and addresses of congratulation were presented to Sir W. W. Wynn, M.P., by the two Masonic Lodges of the town. The chair was filled by the Worshipful Master of the Salopian Lodge, J. H. Redman, and on his right and left sat Sir W. W. Wynn, R.W.P.G.M., and Lord Harlech, D.R.W.P.G.M. There was also a large attendance of the Provincial Grand Officers and Members of other Lodges. The presentations were made in the names of the other Members by the Worshipful Masters of the two Lodges. The first address was that of the Salopian Lodge of Charity, 117, and expressed the Members' congratulations on Sir W. W. Wynn's restoration to health. They rejoiced that he was able to resume the duties of his eminent position in Freemasonry, which he had held so many years to the advantage of the Craft generally, and hoped that he, Lady Wynn, and family might long be spared. The other address was from the Members of the Salopian Lodge, No. 262, who also congratulated Sir W. W. Wynn upon his recovery, and offered him a cordial welcome to their first Masonic gathering since his return. The Members hoped he might long be spared to fulfil the high duties of the Craft, which under his guidance had prospered and extended in that neighbourhood.

"A suitable gift from a Master to his Lodge."

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 8s 6d EACH,

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUMES I. and II.

London:—W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, E.C.

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief Parisian Establishments, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE.

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.

It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face,
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 6d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

MR. THOMAS C. MACROW,

252 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD,
LONDON, S.E.

(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)

BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let quietly and quickly (Town or Country). All parties wishing to sell, call or send full particulars. Registration fee. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 2. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c. Tamar (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—3s 6d per box, post free 4d extra.—E. GRILLON, 34 Coleman-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

New Edition, Enlarged, Crown 8vo., Cloth 6s.

WAIFS AND STRAYS, CHIEFLY FROM THE CHESS BOARD, by Captain Hugh A. Kennedy, Vice-President of the British Chess Association.

London: W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican.

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,

Bro. J. L. Mather, P.M. 65, 1327, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Winchester-street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

YOUNG'S Arnicated Corn and Bunion Plasters are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d and 1s per box. Any Chemist not having them in stock can procure them.

Observe the Trade Mark—H. Y.—without which none are genuine. Be sure and ask for Young's.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY.—A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a simple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.

Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Grove Terrace, Fulham, London.

Digitized by Google

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.
SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

A. D. LOEWENSTARK & SONS,
MASONIC JEWELLERS AND MILITARY MEDALLISTS,
26 GREAT QUEEN STREET, W.C. AND 210 STRAND, W.C.
The Largest Assortment of Past Masters' & Royal Arch Jewels in London.
ALSO JEWELS FOR EVERY DEGREE.
MINIATURE WAR MEDALS & FOREIGN DECORATIONS, WHOLESALE, RETAIL & FOR EXPORTATION.
ESTABLISHED 1844.

ESTABLISHED 1838.
ADAM S. MATHER,
GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,
MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,
AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING
Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.
MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;
AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.
ESTIMATES GIVEN.

JOSEPH J. CANEY,
DIAMOND MERCHANT, AND MANUFACTURING JEWELLER AND WATCH MAKER,
44 CHEAPSIDE, LONDON.
MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND FURNITURE.
Specialité—First Class Jewels—Artistic—Massive—Best Quality—Moderate in Price.
CATALOGUES POST FREE.
A LARGE STOCK OF LOOSE BRILLIANTS FOR EXPENSIVE JEWELS.
Diamond Rings, Brooches, Studs, Earrings and Bracelets in Great Variety.

THE "SPECIALITE SHERRY."
FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT.—The British Medical Journal.
VALUABLE FOR GOUTY OR URIC ACID TENDENCIES."—Dr. HASSWICKS, Metropolitan Analyst, Coroner for Middlesex.
ADOPTED AND RECOMMENDED BY nearly 3,000 Physicians and Surgeons for its Valuable Dietetic Qualities. 30s per dozen.
FELTOE & SONS, Sole Proprietors and Importers. Chief Establishment, Albemarle-street, London, W.

F. ADLARD,
MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,
INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (Regd.)

"BRO. ADLARD'S far-famed JEWEL ATTACHER, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price is 4d. (if with pockets for Jewels 6d. each pocket extra) places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and usefulness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Lodge Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,
Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8 No. 47 for MAY, now ready. Sixpence; CHESS, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE DRAMA.
W. W. MORGAN, 67 Berkbeck, London, E.C.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES.
Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE
(a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.
This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

"There should be a better reason for the rate of Depositors than a fluctuating rate of two or three per cent."—INVESTOR'S GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited), Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City; and 27 and 28 Regent-street, W., Established 1865, receives Deposits, On Deposit, 3 per cent. Subject to Notice, 2½ per cent. Open Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to examine this new and improved system, that ensures a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-discounted or re-hypothecated any of the securities. To BORROWERS.—It offers pre-eminent advantages to prompt advances on leases, reversions, policies, trade stocks, bona fide produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, sureties, or fees. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 27 and 28 Regent-street, W. Established 1868. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. To INVESTORS.—Deposits received at liberal interest. The Directors by strict economy have invested not every Investment 20 and 15 per cent. per annum. Borrowers are offered unusual facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. New and Special Feature.—The Society will build Houses, etc., in any approved part of Great Britain, finding the whole cost of the building, at 5 per cent., repayable by instalments, the applicants merely finding the plan and paying or giving security for the first 1 year's interest. Prospectuses, balance sheets, and every desirable information gratis and post free. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

Digitized by Google

THE

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

VOL. III.—No. 73. SATURDAY, 20th MAY 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

THE SUBSCRIPTION LIST AT THE RECENT FESTIVAL.

AS the object of our analysis of the Subscription List at the last of our annual Festivals, namely, the one held in February for the R.M.B.I. has been misunderstood; as one brother, at all events, took us to task for the tone in which we commented on the partial character of the list; as he seemed to think our desire was to goad members into contributing by holding up sundry, "in all the conspicuousness of italics," to the reproach of their fellows, we may as well, at the risk of repeating ourselves, state here that all we wish to do is to point out to the energetic secretaries of our three Institutions and their almost equally active supporters, where they may break fresh ground with a very good chance of bringing substantial grist to the mill from virgin sources, or, at all events, from sources that, for some time past, have been overlooked or neglected. The idea of goading people into charitable acts is a silly one on the face of it. Gifts compulsorily or unwillingly bestowed come not under the category of charitable gifts. But while, for this reason, it would never occur to us to force members into contributing, we see no harm in pointing out what provinces have not contributed to this or that institution. It is one thing to say that certain Lodges or districts are unrepresented in a certain subscription list, another, that such Lodges or districts have deliberately stood aloof, and so neglected that most important of all Masonic duties, the duty of being charitable. The more we analyse these lists, the more convinced are we that all is not done that might be done on behalf of our Institutions. While the support that is accorded them is an increasing one, and beyond question liberal as regards amount, it is very far from being general. We demonstrated this in the case of the last list at the Benevolent Festival in February, and we confirm it in the case of the present list.

The amount of subscriptions in 1875 was stated at the time to be £7,268 3s, with thirteen lists to come in. This year the figure is £8,214, and there are still twelve lists to be received. so that, in round figures, the increase over 1875 is £1,000. This is certainly satisfactory, though we had fully expected the thousands would have reached ten. Of this sum of £8,214, more than one-half, or, to be as precise as possible, £4,674 16s 6d are contributed by the metropolitan districts, and the remainder by the provinces, Stations abroad, the Red Cross Order, Knights Templar, &c. There were, it seems, according to Grand Lodge Calendar for this year, 224 Lodges in the London district, that is, excluding those warranted since the Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge in December last. Of these, eighty-seven figure in the list, and there are likewise four Chapters, of which one is put down conjointly with the Lodge. Of these eighty-seven Lodges, forty-two were among the seventy-three London Lodges which contributed last year. To put the matter in another way. Seventy-three Lodges contributed in 1875, of which forty-two contribute again in 1876, and eighty-seven this year, of which forty-five did not figure on the last list. Thus, in the two years, one hundred and eighteen Lodges have subscribed to the Girls' School, and of these six did not appear in Grand Lodge Calendar for 1875. It follows, of course, that nearly one-half the London Lodges are not contributories to this charity in either year, while close upon a fifth of the number in the roll in 1875 are contributories in both years. To show, further, not only how partial is the subscription, but how frequently the same ground is travelled over, while other ground lies fallow or is untried, of the eighty-seven Lodges in the present list, not only have forty-two, as we have said, subscribed in both years, but nineteen of them have given three times, that is, twice to the Girls and once to the Benevolent, or, this year to the Girls and this and last year to the Benevolent, while nineteen have subscribed four times, that is, to both festivals of the Benevolent and the Girls. Of these seventeen were in the Boys' List in July last, and have thus subscribed at the last five anniversaries, namely, the two Benevolent, two Girls, and one Boys.

As regards the provinces, Berks and Bucks, with fifteen Lodges, represented by the Wycombe Lodge, No. 1,501, High Wycombe, contributed £141 15s, and also gave last year. Cheshire, with thirty-eight Lodges, is represented by Lodges No. 425 of Chester, No. 287 of Stockport, and 237 (? 537) of Birkenhead. Devonshire, with forty-six Lodges, is down for five guineas and a-half, Lodge Perseverance, No. 164, Sidmouth. Hants and the Isle of Wight has twenty-nine Lodges, of which Lodge 319, New Forest, subscribes twenty guineas. Kent numbers forty Lodges, and is represented by Nos. 820, for £29 8s, 1206 for ten guineas, 1208 for twenty-five guineas, 1464 for forty-two guineas, and 1531 for £24 17s 6d. The honour of East Lancashire, with its eighty-two Lodges (Manchester 17, Salford 5, Bury 5, Bolton 4, Ashton-under-Lyne 3, Rochdale 2), is left to a Bolton Lodge, No. 221, and figures for eleven guineas. Last year the province, with its then eighty Lodges, was down for forty guineas. Thus Manchester, with its seventeen Lodges, unless it contributed the whole or a part of the forty guineas just mentioned, has not given one farthing to either the Benevolent or the Girls' these two years, and was not as worthily represented at the Boys' Festival, as considering its enormous wealth and the number of its members it might have been. A small contribution of £6 11s from a Liverpool Lodge, No. 1086, is all we note from West Lancashire, with its seventy-one Lodges, while its contribution last year was only £63 11s, but at the Benevolent, in February, it figured for over £1,500, and to the Boys' in 1875 it subscribed considerably over £200. Lincolnshire last Festival gave only sixty guineas; this year, with Bros. John Sutcliffe (1226), Jack Sutcliffe (1264), R. J. Boyall, Charity Steward for the Province. Rev. Dr. Ace (1232), Jas. Robinson, and Wm. Marshall (792), Joseph Chapman (1224), and F. Long (1223), it appears for £543 14s. It gave an even larger sum to the Benevolent in 1875, and was also represented on the Boys' list. Middlesex is a handsome subscriber both years; in 1874, for £581 19s, and in 1176, £711 12s. One of the eight Nottingham Lodges, No. 1434, is down for forty guineas. North Wales and Shropshire, with nineteen, is also represented by one, No. 1124, Oswestry, for eleven guineas. Oxfordshire numbers only seven Lodges, but two of them, Nos. 357 and 478, are jointly down for £50. Somersetshire, with nineteen Lodges is represented by one, No. 1199. South Wales (East Division) has ten Lodges, and contributes £115 10s. A Sudbury Lodge, No. 1224, with twenty-five guineas, does duty for Suffolk. Three of the fourteen Surrey Lodges contributed among them thirty guineas. Warwickshire, per a Birmingham Lodge, No. 938, "Grosvenor," contributes two hundred and fifty guineas, and we may anticipate great things from it at the Boys' Festival, when its Grand Master, Lord Leigh, will take the chair. Wiltshire and Jersey also figure, the former for £115 12s, and the latter for one hundred guineas, while West Yorkshire, with a long array of stewards, headed by its G.M., Sir Henry Edwards, contributes the sum of £707 16s, and in 1875 gave £580 17s. The Punjaub appears for ten guineas, and the Grand Council of the Red Cross Order for £119 13s. Thus of forty-one provinces, or with Beds, Channel Isles—exclusive of Jersey—and Isle of Man, forty-four, twenty-one are among the subscribers, and of these fifteen, Berks and Bucks, Cheshire, Kent, Lancashire East, Lancashire West, Lincolnshire, Middlesex, North Wales and Salop, Oxfordshire, Somersetshire, South Wales East, Suffolk, Surrey, Warwickshire, and West Yorkshire appear both last year and this; eight others were represented in 1875, but not on the occasion just past. It remains that of the forty-four Provinces or Districts, fifteen are not comprised in either of the subscription lists, or, in other words, have not contributed these two years towards the support of the Girls' School. These are Beds, Cambs, Cornwall, Dorset, Cumberland and Westmoreland, Durham, Gloucestershire, Herefordshire, Leicestershire, Norfolk, Northampton and Hunts, Northumberland, Worcestershire, Channel Islands, and Isle of Man. Some of them, however, will be found contributing to our other charities, and others have local charitable institutions of their own.

Digitized by Google

It will be evident from the foregoing particulars that a very considerable number of Lodges are not to be found in this or indeed in any of the annual subscription lists. We do not say they are neglectful of their duty. We draw attention to the fact, in order that some of them may be led to contribute of their own free will, by sending up, and so swelling the number of the stewards on these important occasions; or that they may be induced to contribute by a zealous canvass on the part of some of the more active brethren. More than once have we pointed out that we are by no means the first to call attention to the subscriptions being only partial. By improved organisation, by a greater display of energy, this partiality may be remedied. We trust it may be, for the more general the support, the better for our charities.

MASONIC PORTRAITS (No. 28.)

THE FATHER OF THE LODGE.

"So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan that moves
To that mysterious realm, ...
Thou go . . . . sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, ...
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

IF these sketches of ours were not accurate transcripts from the life, we might often indulge in ideal dreams of Masonic perfection, or of Masonic wisdom, which perhaps would prove amusing enough, however baseless they might be in fact. We might draw, for example, a portrait of the modern Masonic sage, and for the due development of so august a figure we might turn to the sentimental school of fiction for our model of style or imagery. He, of course, should be a sort of Zanoni, mysterious, solemn, awe-inspiring. Full of strange dreamy lore, and of still stranger fancies concerning human destiny and the tendency of human effort. We should surround our sage with all the theatrical accessories which, time out of mind, have formed a portion of the stock in trade of the pretender. Crabbed manuscripts, with here and there a mystic mathematical problem, strange instruments, Masons' tools, of antique type; while the feeble glimmer of the lamp in his cell should reveal weird pictures of the Pyramids, or the temple of Belus, or, more suggestive still, diagrams, amongst which the pentacle would, of course, be conspicuous. Our ideal sage would be deeply learned, an ardent collector of books and manuscripts, and a bold speculator in those obscure realms of metaphysics in which so many a dreamer has lost his way. His rank, of course, we could readily settle in a moment. He would be a Mason of the highest attainments, in whose presence even the Grand Master himself would seem of second rank. He should be an apostle of mystery in its most obscure form, but he should likewise be well practised in the daily business of the Order, and should carry its laws written clearly on the tablets of his brain. A judicial mind, and consequent calm judgment, a dignified bearing, and a silent tongue! Such would be the sort of Masonic high priest which we might present to a fiction-loving public, and perhaps, like all fictions, it might contain a germ of truth, battered indeed out of all shape, or spread out like gold leaf to cover the coarser parts of the picture. Happily, few of us live in the realms of sentiment and romance; the first has ceased to be popular since Byron's poetry went out of fashion, and the latter has quite departed, to make way for realism, which is often in its way as repulsive as the mock emotions and the mock courage of the heroes of that school of fiction which was finally conjured away by the spells of Sir Walter Scott. In truth, there is enough matter for telling biographical writing within our reach to render any resort to the realms of pure imagination quite unnecessary. It may never be our province nor our good fortune to write the lives of the seven wise men of the Order, whoever they may be, but if we are not yet called upon to exhibit a sage to the admiring gaze of the brethren, we may venture to introduce to the notice of our readers one of the Fathers of the Craft, whose cheerful English face, with its venerable garnish of beard, smiles upon us from a life-like photograph as we write. It is the face, indeed, of a brother who appears to have taken the adverse strokes of fortune as placidly as he received its favours. A jovial, cheerful man, who has always a pleasant word for a brother, and wise counsel for those who seek it. He is a Masonic veteran, with experience which extends over half a century, and knowledge of the Craft as far-reaching and as deep as that of any of the galaxy of distinguished brethren. He was born in 1800, and is consequently in his seventy-sixth year, and was initiated, in 1827, in the Bank of England Lodge, of which he is now the father. Generations have entered and passed the chair since our neophyte nervously took upon himself the solemn obligations which Masonry imposes upon its members. The young have become old, have dropped out of the ranks of the Craft, and out of the interminable ranks of men. New faces and forms have come up in succession, like the never-ending processions in the dreams of an opium-eater, and the old comrades, some of whom were famous, seem to belong to an age long buried. O'Brien, author of "The Round Towers of Ireland," Douglas Jerrold, Dr. Crucefix, originator of the Institution for aged Masons, have passed for ever from the Lodge, and their places are occupied by living worthies, who regard the "Father" as a true patriarch. Sir Michael, and his kind brother Raphael Costa, Zachariah Watkins, and others, now grown grey in honours, are amongst the men who have made the "Bank of England" famous in the Masonic world. In spite of the ceaseless change to which every body corporate is subject, the Father of the Lodge, in response to the ever-welcome toast of "The Past Masters," smiles pleasantly upon his brethren, and his voice, unshaken by age, still trolls out the accustomed song—

"Time! Time! Time!
Why ponder o'er thy glass
To count the dull sand pass?"

He is the survivor of a zealous few who, forty years since, saved the old Lodge from premature extinction. In the year 1831 its members had so dwindled away that the propriety of surrendering the warrant and affiliating with the Lodge of Fidelity, No. 3, was seriously mooted. Wiser counsels, however, prevailed, and Dr. Davies, the W.M., with his help, carried the Lodge safely through its period of difficulty, and entered it upon that career of great prosperity which it has since so steadily pursued. The Lodge, now 263 on the roll of England, has proved grateful for the fostering care bestowed upon it, and bids fair to survive as many successive fathers as the father of it has seen generations of members come and go. May it see them, as the ideal of the poet has seen:—

"The thin tiny pineshrub peep up from the moss,
The wren's foot would cover it, tripping across;
The beechnut, down dropping, would crush it beneath,
But 'tis warm'd by Heaven's sunshine and fanned by its breath.
The eagle has seen it, upstruggling to sight,
He has seen it defying the storm in its might,
Then prostrate, soil-blended, with plants sprouting o'er,
But the grey forest eagle is still as of yore.
His flaming eye dims not, his wing is unbowed,
Still drinks he the sunshine, still scales he the cloud."

And may it be the type of many a good old Lodge of which the members may be as justly proud!

In the magnificent folio album commenced by the Lodge nearly forty years since there is a smiling face pourtrayed in the heyday of youth. It is from the pencil of Edwin Dalton Smith, the eminent miniature painter, then also a member. Younger brethren, turning the honoured pages for admiring visitors, point affectionately to the lineaments of "the Father of the Lodge." Time has added wrinkles to the face, and tinged the hair, but his hand has been powerless to efface the smile which still adorns, in undiminished freshness, the features of our honoured veteran. Age changes the superficial but leaves the deeper marks of character untouched, or developes them in stronger and deeper lines. The genial goodness of the young Mason, mellowed like ripened fruit, is still conspicuous in the photograph before us. The Father of the Lodge must have been blessed through life with a good digestion and a clear conscience. The face is that of a man who can front Eternity with the unblotted records of a life well spent.

Digitized by Google

The Bank of England and the Burlington Lodges were the most active promoters of the scheme which has ripened into the present Institution for Aged Freemasons. The idea originated with the former Lodge, and our hero was active in the good cause; at the present time he is Vice-Patron of the Charity. He has been a member of other Lodges, and No. 26 sent him up as Grand Steward. He afterwards joined the Grand Stewards' Lodge, and passed the chair. He is one of the oldest members of the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, and has vivid recollections of Peter Gilkes, who presided over it in Charlotte-street, Rathbone-place. He is, of course, a P.Z. of the Royal Arch, and a P.M. of the Mark degree, has been for years a 30°, and remembers the first introduction, as his guest, of the gallant Bayard to the Metropolitan Chapter of Rose Croix. The St. George's Preceptory of the Temple owns him for a Past Commander, and he has been for many years its Registrar. In the outer world the Father of the Lodge has led a painstaking and laborious life. The year 1826 found him, in partnership with a former secretary of the Girls' School, proprietor of a circulating library, which was frequented by the wits who made merry with George IV. While in this position, he was brought into communication with the late Rev. George Oliver, D.D., and published successively those works which take rank as the standard erudition of our Order. Until the author's death, they remained on terms of trustful and affectionate intimacy. Perhaps the proudest moment of both their lives was when present at Lincoln, in 1844, at the presentation of a testimonial of plate (purchased by world-wide Masonic Subscription) to Dr. Oliver, who was hailed with acclamation "THE SAGE OF MASONRY."

Our veteran was from the beginning interested in the Freemasons' Quarterly Review and Magazine, and from the year 1826 to 1875 Masonic literature is inseparably connected with his name. Many of our Lodges know him as purveyor of their paraphernalia, and upon adding to his own the business of Bro. W. Evans the jeweller, in 1856, he first styled his establishment opposite the Freemasons' Hall, "The Masonic Depôt." Having delegated the minutiæ of business to younger hands, he yet does not cultivate his well-earned leisure to the neglect of Masonic duties. He is a regular attendant at Lodge, a steady worker upon Committees, and on matters within his experience ever a courteous adviser and referee. He has served frequent Stewardships, is a Vice-President of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, Vice-Patron of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution and of that for Boys, whilst of the larger Charity, which is not published —which wells up from a heart in active sympathy with all misfortune—He that seeth in secret will finally testify.

THE MASONIC PRESS.

WE never expected, when we made our bow in public, and announced our programme to be the furtherance of Masonic interests, that the Craft would take us at our own valuation, and at once accord us its support. We confess, however, we are highly gratified with the kind reception we have met with in all parts of the United Kingdom. Our progress, like that of every well organised undertaking, has been, and, indeed, still is slow, but it is a sure progress, not materially affected by the excitement of passing events. We have never experienced those extraordinary fluctuations which are the usual sign of a brief, uncertain career. We have not been all hope one week, all despair the week following. We have advanced, and are advancing by regular stages. The circle of our readers is an extending one. Those who cheered us onward at the beginning are pleased their anticipations have been thus far realised. Those who have since given us encouragement have done so with the evidence before them that we go on keeping steadily in view the original plan we carved out. We are an advertising medium, as all journals are; but we are not a medium for the advertisement of any special wares of our own. Our stock in trade is the "CHRONICLE." To keep that worthy of the increasing support we receive is a legitimate object of ambition; but there is no trading on Masonry lying hid behind that object. We encourage a class literature, as does every class organ, but that encouragement forms no part of any scheme for the promotion of our own success in trade. We should never insult our readers by telling them their support was a matter of indifference. Even the withdrawal of a single subscriber pains us, not so much for the shillings we lose, though they of course are needed, but because we fear it may be due to some error, either of omission or of commission, of which, unwittingly, we have been guilty. We naturally strive to give general satisfaction, but we know it is hopeless to aim at giving universal satisfaction. In short, we do our best, and thankful are we to say, that best has been most kindly appreciated by our clients. But do all we may, we find one obstacle to greater progress is well nigh insuperable. There are so many Craftsmen who fight shy of the publicity of the press. Such cannot see how a Masonic press, or even a Masonic literature of any kind, is consistent with the secrecy to which they are bound. Yet a journal may publish much without violating the secrets we have sworn to keep. Our Order has a history which is known of all men; what harm is there in discussing it? Again, and again, have we been denounced as the enemies of all religion and order. What harm in defending ourselves from so foul an aspersion? Masonry is spread over the whole surface of the world. Why may not the members in one country learn the doings of their brethren in other countries? We have a regular form of government. What harm is there in considering openly its merits? Different customs obtain in different places, yet a comparison of such differences is no sin. Here is ample material to fill a dozen Chronicles, and yet not a jot or tittle of our mysteries is ever divulged. On the contrary, the more we discuss publicly the history, the constitution, the proceedings of our Order, the more likely are we to satisfy the unbelievers that, in Masonry at all events, secrecy involves no wrong. Nor are we singular in holding this view. American Masons have long since settled that a Masonic press is not inconsistent with or an injury to the Craft, but perfectly allowable and a supreme benefit. This at least is the opinion we have arrived at after a pretty lengthened experience of several American journals, which are devoted, either wholly or in part, to the advocacy of Masonic interests. We often quote from them in our columns, for never a week passes but we find something worth reproducing. Very easily, indeed, might we fill our pages with articles borrowed from American and other sources, only our readers very justly require of us that we should have and express some opinions of our own.

It is not surprising there should be more organs of the Craft in the United States than in the United Kingdom. To begin with, there are more Masons. New York alone has almost as many subscribing members as all England put together. Then the public take a deeper interest in its welfare. They see and hear more of it than people do in this country, though certainly we have no cause to complain, the last year or two, for the British public has spoken kindly of us whenever the chance has offered. And then again another reason exists why there are so many Masonic papers which find support in America. They are invariably well conducted. As a rule their contents are both interesting and instructive. The Keystone, for instance, a weekly organ of the Craft, published in Philadelphia, has not only the local Masonic intelligence, but a series of well written leaders and notes, with valuable contributions from learned Craftsmen, and articles and news of interest to the general public. It is impossible to take up a number of this journal without deriving either pleasure or information. The Hebrew Leader, of New York, is, as its name betokens, an organ of the Jews, but it devotes no inconsiderable portion of its space to Freemasonry. It is a well-informed paper; its facts are well marshalled, its opinions well digested, its tone excellent. The New York Courier and Pomeroy's Democrat—now published in Chicago —have, each of them, a Masonic department, containing for the most part reports of local news, but now and again there appear leaders which invariably possess a high degree of merit. The Square, of New York, appears once a month, and is now publishing, among other valuable matter, a History of Freemasonry, which, when complete, will make a useful addition to the Craftsman's library. The Masonic Journal, of Greensboro', North Carolina, is only in the first year of its existence, but, having regard to the variety and excellence of its matter, it deserves, if it does not command, the hearty support of our North Carolinian brethren. Then there is the Masonic Review, a Cincinnati monthly, wholly devoted to the advocacy of Craft interests, and the exposition of Craft doctrine. Last week we had occasion to refer to it as having reproduced in its latest numbers an old and valuable MS., a fact which stamps it at once as a periodical of the very highest. As the last number we have received, namely, that for the month of March, is a fair average specimen of its quality, we enumerate the contents, so that our readers may form for themselves some notion of its merits. We have, first of all, a brief portrait of Bro. Enoch T. Carson, the eminent American Masonic Bibliographer. This is followed by a sketch of "Early Masonry in New York," a summary of Foreign Masonic news, a list of the Templar Bodies which are announced to take part in the approaching Templar Re-union at Philadelphia, with the provisions and regulations issued by the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania. Then come excerpts from Bro. Parvin's address at Keokuk in October last, accompanied by a running commentary, notes on the "Scottish Rite Re-union," held in the month of February, a few pertinent observations on "Profanity," and brief sketches of two worthy brethren, Bro. John M. Barron of Hillsboro, Ohio, and Bro. Joseph H. Hough, Grand Secretary, New Jersey, apropos of well "Deserved Honours" recently paid them. These are followed by the concluding half of Mrs. Dodd's MS. already mentioned, "The Widow's Story," neatly recounted by Bro. S. C. Coffinberry P.G.M., Michigan, both here and in the Masonic Advocate for April, and a paper on the all absorbing question of the recognition of "Coloured Masons," by "J. L. Y." A series of notes and comments conclude the number. The value to the Ohio Craft of such a publication must be apparent to every one; and when we add that its guiding spirit is Bro. Cornelius Moore, that his associate editors are Bros. Henry D. Moore and Thomas J. Mellish, and that the Review is now in its forty-eighth volume, we adduce a triad of evidence that Masonic literature finds favour in the sight of our Ohian brethren. The Masonic Jewel, published at Memphis, and the official Masonic organ of the States of Mississippi and Tennessee, is devoted to Masonry, its Literature, History, Science and Teachings, and also to the Family Fireside. In these terms it is described on the title page, and the contents fully accord with the description. Its Editor and Proprietor is Bro. A. J. Wheeler, P.G.M., P.G.H.P., &c., to whose skill and judgment as a literary brother, the admirable programme which appears monthly under his auspices is the one and only voucher we need to specify. Prominent among the contents of the April number are an article on "Drones and Impostors," and the editor's valuable answers to queries of the most varied and abstruse character. Neatly written notes, choice extracts from American contemporaries, comments on the Masonic topics of the day, with an impartial and sufficient record of recent proceedings, go a long way towards completing the number. Though only in its sixth volume the Masonic Jewel deserves a place of honour among current Masonic literature. Of about the same standing, in respect of years, is the Freemasons' Repository, published at Providence, R.I., by Thomas S. Hammond, who is also the proprietor. This journal is published monthly, is "devoted to the cause of 'Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth,'" and takes for its motto a dictum of the illustrious General Washington — "The principles on which the Masonic Fraternity is founded must be promotive of Private Virtue and Public Prosperity." The articles in the Repository have always most favourably impressed us. There is in them an amount of life and energy which is highly creditable to its staff of writers. The matter is well arranged, and the tone throughout in keeping with its motto and the cause to which it is devoted. Stray numbers of the Voice of Masonry, published at Chicago and New York, reach us at intervals. When they come, they are always welcome. Considering the reputation of Bro. Dr. Mackey, one of its editors, and among the foremost Masonic authors of our time, the valuable nature of its contents, and the fact that our learned countryman, Bro. Hughan, is no infrequent contributor to its columns, we should gladly see it oftener in our sanctum. However, we occasionally meet with it elsewhere, so that our knowledge of its character is by no means based only on the odd numbers which find their way to our office. Among the contributors we have noticed Bros. Rounseville and George Frank Gourley. Those Craftsmen who have need of enlightenment on Masonic history and doctrine (and we fear their number is legion) will find a careful study of this excellent periodical of the greatest service to them. The motto of the Masonic Advocate, published at Indianopolis, and the organ of the Craft in the State of Indiana, is "Masonry: the Light reflected from her Altars reaches the Homes of the Widow and the Fatherless." The Editor and Publisher is Bro. Rice, and the corresponding Editor, Bro. H. W. Hibben. It contains an admirable summary of news and articles of considerable merit. Moot questions are discussed with much ability and patience, while the general tone and character of the journal, leave little, if anything, to be desired. The New England Freemason, of which Bro. Sereno D. Nickerson was editor, no longer exists, its last number having appeared in December 1875. That this periodical, which we never opened without obtaining some rays of light should have ceased, is greatly to be deplored. The Craft in Massachusetts must have exhibited a singular degree of apathy in its support of Masonry, or we should not now be lamenting the cessation of so useful and well edited a magazine. The Canadian Masonic News is of comparatively recent origin, having only completed its first volume in March of this year. It is published at Montreal, and the Editor is Bro. the Rev. E. M. Myers, P.M., &c. &c. Among the contents of No. 12 are articles on "Parliamentary Law as applied to Masonic Lodges." "The Coloured Lodge Question," the first part of an able Review of that excellent posthumous work of Dr. Oliver's, The Discrepancies of Freemasonry, a history and sketch of the contents of "the Halliwell Poem and the Statutes," by Bro. Jacob Norton, an important contribution by Bro. Hughan, on "Masonic Parliamentary Law," a reprint of the "Address of M.W. Rev. Bro. Griswold, P.M. of Minnesota," on "Coloured Masons and Coloured Masonry," with correspondence, notes, and sundry items of news. Clearly the Canadian Masonic News is a magazine of which Canadian brethren have just reason to be proud. The editor's care and judgment are conspicuous in every number, and his staff of contributors support him loyally and with ability. Of our French contemporary, le Monde Maçonnique and its able editor, Bro. Caubet, we are so often indebted to its columns for news of interest and importance, that no words we can add here will express more than we have again and again expressed on previous occasions. We have always looked upon this organ of French Masonry as one of the best conducted and one of the most enlightened of Craft periodicals. Such has been, such is, and such, we are well assured, will ever be our opinion of Le Monde Maçonnique. To say more were unnecessary: to say less were unjust. We also obtain occasional glimpses at other Masonic publications. A Cape paper, the Graaf Reinet Herald, now and again visits us: and in such case, we invariably find some news to reproduce for the benefit of our readers. A number or two of the Australian Freemason, and a batch of the Maconnick Weekblad, the organ of the Craft in Holland, have likewise reached us at odd times, and of these we can only say that their earlier visits having proved so agreeable, we shall extend to them a still heartier welcome whenever they see fit to repeat them. Nothing, indeed, affords us greater pleasure than to interchange courtesies with our foreign contemporaries. Many among them have the advantage over us in the matter of experience, but it may be our good fortune occasionally to cast hither and thither some rays of light, and in such case this interchange of courtesies may prove of mutual advantage, as well as a source of pleasure.

Digitized by Google

We add, by way of postscriptum, that since writing the above, the Freemasons' Repository for April has reached us. It, too, by a strange coincidence, has a leader somewhat similar in character to this. The treatment is entirely different in character, but the purpose is evidently the same, namely, to impress on Craftsmen that a Masonic Press, if well conducted, is a boon to the Craft. We take this opportunity of thanking the Repository for its complimentary expressions respecting ourselves. We fear we are not worthy so favourable an estimate, but we shall always strive most earnestly to deserve the good opinion, not only of the Repository, but of all our Masonic contemporaries.

Digitized by Google

RELIGIOUS AND MILITARY ORDER OF THE TEMPLE.

A meeting of the National Great Priory of England was held at the Cannon-street Hotel, on Friday, the 12th inst., presided over by the Earl of Limerick.

The following members of Council were appointed :—

Lieut. Colonel G. A. Vernon.
A. Staveley Hill.
C. Chandos Pole.
Samuel Rawson (vice Tinkler, resigned).

And the following were elected by the Knights present :—

J. M. P. Montagu.
Ch. E. Curtis.
Beswick Royds.
Dr. Woodford.
Raphael Costa.

Lieut.-Colonel Birchall, Beswick Royds and General Doherty were also elected members of the Grand Masters' Council.

A Priory of the Order of Malta was subsequently opened under the Sub-Prior of England, Major Shadwell Clerk, and several Knights of the Temple received therein.

CONSECRATION OF NEW LODGES.

WHEN illustrating, last April (at page 210), the career of one who has attained to eminence in our Order, and adopting a heading for our sketch which seemed happily to typify the qualities of its subject, we could not suppose that its propriety would have been so soon recognised and enthusiastically adopted, as the short space of six weeks has proved. On the afternoon of Wednesday, the 17th inst., we had the gratification of attending the solemn consecration of at the Masonic Hall, 33 Golden-square. The M.W. Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, who is specially interested, declared his intention of performing the ceremony, but at the last moment his Lordship sent a communication to the Earl of Limerick, Provincial Grand Master of Bristol, stating that urgent State affairs prevented his attendance, and conferring full powers upon the latter to officiate in his stead. Lord Limerick was supported by the Earl of Donoughmore, Senior Grand Warden, by the Hon. W. Warren Vernon, Junior Grand Warden, Lieut.-General J. Studholme Brownrigg, C.B., Prov. G.M. of Surrey, Colonel Fr. Burdett, Prov. G.M. of Middlesex, Revs. S. C. Arnold and R. J. Simpson, Grand Chaplains, John Hervey, Grand Secretary, and other brethren of distinction. The ceremony of consecration was impressively and solemnly performed, the W.M. designate—Lieut.-Col. H. Somerville Burney—being then installed, and the officers of the new Lodge invested by him. Many joining members and initiates were then proposed for next meeting's ballot, and votes of thanks passed to Lord Limerick, to the W.M., P.M. and Wardens of the Friends in Council Lodge, for their recommendation of the petition for a warrant, and all those brethren elected honorary members by acclamation.

THE BAYARD LODGE, No. 1615,

The brethren, in number forty-two, adjourned to a sumptuous banquet at the Café Restaurant Royal. The usual toasts followed. Colonel Burdett, in responding for the Grand Officers, remarked that this was no ordinary Lodge, but one launched under auspices for which all had the highest respect. The W.M. alluded, in a complimentary manner, to what in London was unusual, the presence at our gatherings of a Past Deputy Grand Master of Ireland, Sir Edw. Borough, and of Captain Lumsden, a Grand Officer of Scotland. Sir E. Borough expressed his thanks and gratification, saying that though an Irish Mason, he first received the light, fifty-six years ago, in the Apollo Lodge at Oxford. The military element in the Bayard Lodge ensured its being sans peur, and he felt equally confident that it would be maintained also sans reproche. In response to the plaudits of those present, Lord Limerick said that three other Lodges, which it had been his pleasure to consecrate, were flourishing exceedingly; that it was evident this one would do no less, in fact, it bade fair to shine second to none. His Lordship then, in terms of high eulogium, proposed the health of the W.M., whom he had met elsewhere in Masonry, and whose zeal was known to him; he was therefore confident that he would so shape the course of his Lodge as to reflect continued honour upon the favourable auspices which heralded the commencement of its career.

Lieut.-Colonel Hugh Somerville Burney accepted the compliment, "as applied more to the Lodge than to himself. Alone they could not have merited such generous augury. The kind and influential co-operation of the Pro Grand Master marked a great starting point, further honoured by the attendance of so many illustrious brethren. Whilst this made him very proud of the Lodge, he fully felt the great responsibility which thereby devolved upon him and upon his officers, to prove themselves worthy of the name it bore." He then proposed The W.M. and Wardens of the Friends in Council Lodge, who recommended the petition of this, which might, perhaps, be held the Junior Friends in Council, but, he continued, whilst pondering my purpose of starting a new Lodge, to supply a want which had been felt, and whilst in doubt for an appropriate name, my eye fell upon an article in the Masonic periodical,* headed 'BAYARD,' and when I perceived that under that cognomen, so zealous, good and distinguished a Mason was personified, as he to whose influential assistance the illustrious support which has ensured a happy issue is chiefly due, who is at all times so ready and so courteous, upon perusing that most appropriate article, I jumped at it, and proposed the name of Bayard to my brethren. I may remark that this year is the fourth centenary of Bayard's birth, he was born just 400 years ago, in 1476."

Major General Clerk responded as W.M. of the Friends in Council, and Captain Philips, who experienced a natural diffidence in being called upon to respond for BAYARD, returned his thanks and expressed his hope that the Lodge would do credit to the great Chevalier.

The W.M. then expressed the pleasure he felt, for the first time in the Bayard Lodge, of proposing "The Visitors," to which the Hon. Richard W. H. Giddy, District Grand Master designate of South Africa, replied in an effective speech.

Amongst others present were Major Shadwell Clerk S.W., and Major Barlow J.W. of the Friends in Council Lodge, the Chevalier Habicht, the Comte de la Chapelle, Colonel Sargent C.B., Sir Thomas Dyer, William Bulkeley Hughes M.P., Dr. Goldsbeer, Hyde Pullen, Walter Richardson, James Johnstone, Colonel Attye, Captain Charles Hunter, J. M. Pulteney Montagu, Walter Spencer, &c., &c., &c.

The first Officers of the new Lodge are :—

Captain Leeson	S.W.
Alfred E. T. Watson	J.W.
Rev. R. J. Simpson	Chaplain.
Captain Compton	S.D.
Rev. Dr. Robbins	J.D.
Captain W. Portlock Dadson	Secretary.

We cordially wish brilliant success to the Bayard Lodge, and that it may prove an elevating example during a prosperous career. We cherish the hope, moreover, that it will not be unmindful of our own efforts to reflect upon the Craft the chivalrous qualities of its prototype, nor altogether forget that to our humble pen the happy conception of its title may be traced.

LODGE OF LOYALTY, No. 1607.

A WARRANT for this Lodge having been granted by the M.W. the Grand Master the following brethren proceeded, in accordance therewith, to consecrate it on Thursday last, at the Alexandra Palace, viz.: J. Terry Prov. G.D.C. Herts, acting as W.M., J. Hervey, G. Secretary, as S.W., H. G. Buss as J.W.; these brethren were assisted by the members of the Lodge and several visitors. The Lodge having been duly constituted, Bro. J. Newton, P.M. 174, was installed into the chair, and proceeded to invest his officers as follows:—Bros. F. Brown S.W., C. W. Webb J.W., T. G. Glover Secretary, Leyge Treasurer, Samuels J.D., G. J. Harris D.C., C. W. Smith I.G., and J. Verry Tyler. The W.M., having been saluted in due form, proposed that, in consideration of the kindness of Bro. Terry in consecrating the Lodge, he be elected an honorary member, this was seconded by the S.W., and carried unanimously. The W.M. next proposed that Bros. J. Hervey, H. G. Buss and C. G. Hill be also elected honorary members, in recognition of the service they had rendered to the Lodge that evening as S.W., J.W. and D.C. respectively, this being seconded by the S.W., was carried unanimously. Bros. Terry and Hervey responded in a few words, wishing the Lodge every success.

The following brethren were also present :—F. Binckes 12, W. H. Bateman 12, W. H. G. Rudderforth 12, C. B. Payne 27, J. Green 27, S. M. Haigh 29, J. G. Middleton 29, J. N. Hoare 143, W. Corby 144, C. J. Moore 174, G. J. Hilliard 174, J. Wells 174, J. Appleby 174, S. H. Rawley 174, T. E. Morris 174, J. S. Johnson 174, J. Miller 174, J. Constable 185, J. E. Wyllie 186, A. Colston 223 Capt. Paul Boyton 236, J. Large 771, F. H. Cozens 907, T. J. Barnes 933, T. Austin 933, C. E. Hockin 1185, J. Tickle 1196, H. D. Stead 1297, J. K. Stead 1297, T. Lawler jun. 1297, L. T. Carter 1328, J. Cutbush 1385, W. W. Morgan 1385, W. W. Morgan jun. 1385, S. Carrington 1514, J. J. Chapman 1541, J. Somers 1602, C. Lacey, T. Lawler, J. S. Fraser, &c.

Upon the removal of the cloth, the W.M. said: "Brethren, the first toast I have to offer is one that is always received by Englishmen with the greatest enthusiasm, and I am convinced that it will be none the less welcome to an exclusive body of English Masons. I give you the "Queen and the Craft," which was followed with the quotation from Henry V.:—

"God and His angels guard your sacred throne,
And make you long become it."

The National Anthem was then sung.

The W.M. said: "The next toast I have to offer is one that in this particular instance has special interest for us. It is the health of our M.W.G. Master H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. I feel my incompetency to do it justice. When we speak of him, it is of one who is most popular and dearly loved by every right-thinking brother; it is

* THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

Digitized by Google

only a few short months since he left us to perform a most arduous duty in the East, and the welcome accorded to him in that vast empire could only be exceeded by the loyalty exhibited towards him upon his safe return to the West. Brethren, we are cognisant of his worth, and you, I am sure, will always accord him the devotion so true a prince deserves.

"Do him homage as obedient subjects."—HENRY VI.
"Most welcome home."—HAMLET.

This was followed by "God Bless the Prince of Wales."

The W.M., upon again rising, proposed the toast of the M.W. the Pro Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon, the R.W. Deputy G.M. Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers. He felt personally grateful to those august personages for the privilege they had accorded him in being appointed the first Master of the Lodge of Loyalty, and also to the Grand Secretary, Bro. John Hervey, for his kindness in assisting at and promoting the day's proceedings. We have also another worthy Grand Lodge representative in the person of our Bro. John Wright, P.G.P., he (the W.M.) had great pleasure in giving this toast, coupling with it the name of the Grand Secretary.

"All members of our cause."—HENRY IV.
"Done thee worthy service."—TEMPEST.

Song—"Norah"—by Bro. Large.

In reply, the Grand Secretary said: Worshipful Master, Bro. Wardens and brethren, under ordinary circumstances I should feel this a heavy task, I mean as to its import. There can be no doubt that the brethren mentioned in the toast are so well known, respected, and highly appreciated, that it removes from my mind any responsibility I might feel in the words I have expressed. The Pro and Deputy Grand Masters require no eulogiums on my part for the functions they perform. I thank you, Sir, and the brethren present for the honour they have done to the toast of the Grand Officers, and also for the kind manner in which you have been pleased to refer to me. There is little doubt that the noblemen mentioned have done good service, and merit the appreciation so kindly accorded them throughout the Craft. As to myself, and the rest of the Grand Officers, I can only say we are ever ready to assist in promoting the interests of the Craft; and although I have acted to-day only in a minor capacity, I cannot help alluding to the able work performed by my good friend Bro. Terry. We have often worked together; sometimes he first, and at others your humble servant, but whenever we have been brought in contact, it is a great pleasure to be able to say that we have always acted harmoniously, and I confidently assert that justice has been done whenever our services have been called into requisition; and you may depend that, while harmony of feeling exists, no broadside can upset our barque, but it will glide smoothly over the waters. I have no doubt your Lodge, Sir, will soon attain a position of proud pre-eminence, and I do not hesitate to add, that while the cause of charity enters into your hearts, you will add lustre to the cause we all espouse.

Bro. Terry, the consecrating officer, in assuming the gavel said: In the absence of a Past Master, it devolves upon me to offer for your acceptance a toast accorded by the programme—it is that of your W.M., and, in the words of the great bard,—

"In faith, he is a worthy gentleman;
He bears an honourable mind."

And in submitting this to you, I feel convinced that he will do honour to the M.W.G.M., who has entrusted to him the warrant of your Lodge, as well as to the fraternity at large. I have long had the pleasure of an intimate acquaintance with him, and we have worked side by side in the cause of charity. I need hardly assure you, brethren, that he is entitled to your respect, being a brother of the most exemplary conduct and rare discrimination, and in whatever circle he moves, the good feeling of friends is always exhibited towards him, and you, brethren, have cause to rejoice in the selection you have made. Without further preface, I give you the toast of the First Master of the Loyalty Lodge. (Cheers.)

Part Song—"Maying."

The W.M., in reply, said: Bro. Terry, Bro. Wardens and Brethren, I rise with great diffidence to return thanks for the kind manner in which my health has been proposed and received. As W.M. of this Lodge I shall endeavour, during my tenure, to discharge the duties appertaining to the proud position of the appointment in such a manner as I hope may meet your approval, and enable me to give a good account of my stewardship. A short time since a friend twitted me that I had forgotten something in naming the Lodge, and said, loyalty without charity was no use. I simply replied by saying, that time would prove that the association of the two words was not of that importance he attached to it. Brethren, it shall be my duty at all times to induce a liberal and just charity, and as time rolls on, I hope to prove to the M.W. Grand Master, that the confidence he has reposed in me has not been misplaced, and that, so far as our Lodge is concerned, I will, consistently with the principles of the Order, combine charity with the name of the Lodge. In thanking you sincerely I beg to offer for your acceptance the toast of the Consecrating Officer, Bro. James Terry,

"Whom zeal and charity hath brought to the field."

As he is next upon our list in the order of toasts, I beg the brethren will not interpret that his words in my praise should induce me to pass anything like a compliment upon him. But this I will say, one good turn deserves another. (Cheers.) You have all heard how ably he performed his duties to-day, and I will add further that anything he undertakes is sure to be done well, and whatever I might add in praise of his ability and exemplary kindness would not adequately convey my appreciation of his friendship and kindly disposition; we all owe him a deep debt of gratitude, and I ask you to drink long life to enable him to perform throughout the land the ceremony we have heard. We wish him continued health and prosperity.

Song—"Vagabond"—Bro. Cummings.

Bro. Terry replied: I scarcely know how to interpret the words of the song just rendered, but I simply ask, who so contented as I? I am not ragged and torn, although I have been absent from home two days. It has afforded me intense pleasure to be here to-day, and to assist in promoting the wishes of my much valued friend; and in going over the ground of personal friendship, I cannot coin words to express my delight in being permitted to instal him in the chair of K.S., having a lively recollection of the hour when I saw our late lamented Bro. Stephen Barton Wilson instal him for the first time, now many years since. I had hoped there would have been a greater number of Grand Lodge Officers to witness his advent in this Lodge, but when I look around, and see so many friends, particularly from the East (and remember that in honour of two at the end of the table a grand event took place last week), it is highly gratifying, and must be to the W.M. Brethren, he has performed duties far beyond those appertaining to the table, and he will in the good cause of charity exhibit a continuance of those high aspirations, which it is the duty of every one to emulate. In conclusion, I wish a long career of usefulness to the Lodge, and hope the W.M. may be long spared to see his successors installed, and that the Lodge may remain a monument of loyalty, and that every future Master will strive to surpass his predecessor. Brethren, I thank you.

In response to the toast of the W.M. and Wardens of recommending Lodges, Bro. Haigh said: I regret extremely the absence of our W.M., Bro. J. C. Parkinson, who would have been able in his usual eloquent terms to do justice in thanking you for the honour conferred upon us. I however beg to say, that for a young Lodge, the Alexandra Palace Lodge, over which he presides, has at least acted up to the tenets of the Craft, and when I first heard that your Lodge was to meet on Saturdays, I feared we should clash, but, as explained, there is little fear of such calamity. As it is evident that the Lodge of Loyalty is determined upon adopting a course in support of our Charitable Institutions, I hope we may laudably vie with each other in this noble effort.

The toast of the Visitors was given by the W.M., who said it afforded him pleasure in according to the visitors a right hearty welcome, and it would be the aim of the Loyalty Lodge to continue constant hospitality. Upon such an occasion as the present there were more visitors than members, but this would not be likely to continue. He hoped the brethren would go away with pleasurable recollections of the day's proceedings. (Cheers.)

"You are welcome all."—TAMING THE SHREW.

At this juncture, just as a glee was being proceeded with, the sound of a rocket from the grounds intimated that the fireworks had commenced, and the brethren adjourned to witness the display. Upon their return Bro. Wright, in response for the visitors, asked to be allowed to be brief in his remarks. For the very ample repast, kind hospitality, and hearty greeting, he thanked the Master and brethren.

The toast of the charities followed.

"'Twere good you do so much for Charity."—MERCHANT OF VENICE.
"Who can sever Love from Charity?"—LOVE'S LABOUR LOST.

In reply, Bro. Binckes, after referring to the mottoes, said the ground had been cut from under him by the speakers during the evening; they had literally left him nothing to say.—(Oh!)—Bethought, coming down in the train, that he had "Struck Oil," and would be able to make reference to the title of the Lodge in connection with the other watchword—Charity; but, like all human wishes, they were vain. What he desired to see was a funded property for the Boys' School, such as was held before the recent large necessary expenditure took place; upon such being accomplished, he would be content with six feet of quiet earth, and rest in peace; but till then, he would strive to go forward and onward; if he had to die, he would die hard in his self-set task.

We are glad to announce that the eloquence of Bro. Binckes brought forth a Steward for the Boys' Festival, in the person of Bro. Fred Brown S.W. who, in reply for the officers, in a very able speech, hoped the Lodge would render him the necessary support to commemorate the inauguration of the Loyalty Lodge by adding to it the bright ornament Charity.

The Tyler's toast closed the proceedings, and the brethren returned to town.

We may here add that the banquet, from first to last, was of a very recherché character, and, combined with the attendance, does great credit to our able brethren, Bertram and Roberts.

THE DRAMA.

A MORNING performance of the School for Scandal is in preparation for the benefit of the veteran comedian and dramatist, Mr. J. B. Buckstone. It is to take place on the 8th of next month, at DRURY LANE THEATRE. Nearly every artiste of celebrity is announced to take part in the performance. Miss Helen Faucit returns from her retirement to play Lady Teazle, and Mr. Phelps is to sustain the part of her testy lord. Mr. Charles Mathews is to play Charles Surface, Mr. Irving Joseph, and Mr. Santley Sir Harry Bumper. All the other parts, even to the waiting maids, are to be filled by actors and actresses of high position.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—A frequent cause of gout and rheumatism is the inflammatory state of the blood, attended with bad digestion and general debility. A few doses of these Pills, taken in time, are an effectual preventive against gout and rheumatism, but any one who has an attack of either should use Holloway's Ointment also, the powerful properties of which, combined with the effects of the Pills, must infallibly effect a cure. These Pills act directly on the blood, which they purify and improve; they also regulate the secretions, and give tone to the stomach, and thus the whole system is invigorated, and put into a condition which enables it to throw off disease or check its approach.

Digitized by Google

SUCCESSFUL.

No. on Voting Paper	NAMES		Forward	To-day	Total	No. on poll
16	Hoare, Henrietta	...	480	589	1069	1
17	Blackburn, Eliza W.		F.A.	...	1044	2
26	Burton, Jane ...	...	F.A.	...	903	3
4	Gidney, Lydia	...	100	663	763	4
25	Johnson, Harriet	...	F.A.	...	703	5
13	Keen, Mary	...	11	673	684	6
12	Cowen, Harriet	...	131	545	676	7
20	Harvey, Honor	...	F.A.	...	654	8
32	Keddell, Martha F.	...	F.A.	...	634	9
8	Redick, Maria	...	460	160	620	10
30	Brown, Sarah	...	F.A.	...	619	11
11	Charlton, Sarah	...	72	544	616	12
24	Govier, Elizabeth	...	F.A.	...	615	13
21	Freed, Mary ...	...	F.A.	...	592	14
31	Wingfield, Frances	...	F.A.	...	590	15
22	Rogers, Frances	...	F.A.	...	552	16
1	Tidswell, Susannah	...	342	199	541	17
9	Edwards, Eleanor	...	88	451	539	18
29	Lundy, Charlotte	...	F.A.	...	538	19
6	Wilkes, Elizabeth	...	159	354	513	20
14	Russell, Sarah	...	43	403	446	21

UNSUCCESSFUL.

7	Dark, Ann	...	4	439	443	—
28	Trotter, Ann ...	...	F.A.	...	351	—
27	Packwood, Emily	...	F.A.	...	273	—
3	Churchill, Elizabeth	...	62	141	203	—
2	Wreyford, Elizabeth	...	162	33	195	—
23	Thompson, Julia	...	F.A.	...	177	—
15	Shearer, Anne	...	84	2	86	—
10	Chipchase, Emily	...	35	9	44	—
5	Elliott, Isabella	...	19	5	24	—
18	Dowse, Sarah, withdrawn by Order of Committee				—	—
19	Stanafield, Alice	...	F.A.	...	—	—

Votes brought forward	...	...	2252
Votes issued	...	...	17930
Votes polled	...	...	13457

F.A. denotes First Application.

PRESENTATIONS TO BROS. BARNES AND AUSTIN.

ON Wednesday, the 10th May, an interesting meeting was held at the Rising Sun, Globe-road, Mile-end, which was presided over by Bro. J. G. Stevens, P.M. 554 and P.Z. 933, who was assisted by Bro. Jonathan Taylor, W.M. 933, as vice-chairman, and about forty brethren. The occasion was the presentation of an album and an address to Bro. T. J. Barnes, and a gold watch and chain and a vellum testimonial to Bro. Thos. Austin, P.M. 933 and M.E.Z. 933.

Bro. Stevens, in presenting the testimonials, observed that it was with much pleasure he was permitted to preside. He had known Bros. Barnes and Austin for many years; indeed, he made the acquaintance of Bro. Barnes on the night of his initiation, and of Bro. Austin about a week after that event, and he could say sincerely that they had worked hard for the Order. A large number of Brethren were anxious to acknowledge the very eminent services Bro. Barnes had rendered to Freemasonry, and especially in his capacity of Preceptor. To be spokesman on behalf of these brethren was a great honour, while it enabled him to express, more emphatically than otherwise he could have done, the personal gratification he felt at presenting this testimonial. They had been associated together for some time, and he had always looked, and should always look upon Bro. Barnes as one of his sincerest friends. As to his Masonic career, it was unnecessary to say more than that Bro. Barnes had distinguished himself in every position he had filled, while in respect of that important part of a Mason's duty—the duty of charity, he had shown himself to be true and earnest; without, however, any ostentatious display of this virtue. In short, Bro. Barnes, in every word and act of his life was a true Mason, and the testimonial it was now his pleasant duty to hand him, must be taken as a slight recognition of his Masonic worth; while the address accompanying it expressed truly and sincerely the feelings which animated the subscribers. Bro. Stevens concluded by handing Bro. Barnes the Album and List, after reading the following address:— and it is with much gratification possess your continued friendshi

They appreciate the motive receive a more costly offering at believe that this address, though acceptable and congenial to you affection of a large number of p brotherhood, of which you form
They wish, moreover, to add t zeal and ability in the cause of the Ritual), that they are largely of the ceremonies and lectures integrity of character, coupled known and deservedly appreciat
In conclusion, they desire to kindness endeared yourself to th that for many years they may your friendship and advice.
We annex hereto a list of the
their behalf,
Remain, Worthy S
Yours

Bro. Stevens next handed the Bros. Barnes and Austin then se tion in very feeling terms, each of their Masonic career would that day conferred upon them.
unusually interesting character,
Representatives from the f sent:—Doric, Yarborough, La Egyptian, Prince Leopold, Unit of Richmond, Sincerity, Burdett-Burns, Joppa, Crystal Palace,
perity, Earl Zetland, Kent, Patt
London, Southern Star, Rose of

CORRESP

We do not hold ourselves respo respondents.
We cannot undertake to return
All Letters must bear the na necessarily for publication, bu

JURISP

To the Editor of THE

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—W kindly express an opinion with
In the event of the W.M. not Lodge, i.e., the ceremonies of the power to invite any other In Lodge, to perform those duties other P.M.'s (all able and willing Is it not the privilege and himself all work appertaining shall not do so, or, in the absenc present, in the same manner as Awaiting a reply through the m
I remain, Dea
Yo

REDRUTH MASO
LI

At a meeting of the directors instant, it was resolved—"That made, payable at the offices of inst." The building is rapidly pr its proportions speak in the high
The obliging secretary is Bro.
are all members of the Druids L

Digitized by Google

INSTALLATION OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,
Most Worshipful Grand Master, &c., &c., having been graciously pleased to accept the special Dedication,

A SPLENDID

HISTORICAL STEEL ENGRAVING

WILL SHORTLY BE PUBLISHED,

OF THE

ROYAL INSTALLATION ON THE 28TH OF APRIL 1875,
IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,

By BRO. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. No. 1201.

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be made to the

ROYAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION

FOR

AGED FREEMASONS AND WIDOWS OF FREEMASONS.

CROYDON.

Patron and President:

His Royal Highness THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G., &c., M.W.G.M.

AT the Annual General Meeting of this Institution, held at Freemasons' Hall, London, on Friday, the 19th May 1876, W. Bro. Colonel J. Creaton, Vice-Patron P.G.D. in the chair. After the general business was disposed of, the Governors and Subscribers proceeded to the election of Twenty-one Female Annuitants from an approved list of thirty-two candidates (the whole of the Male candidates being placed on the list without election), when the following were declared duly elected:—

	Votes.		Votes.
Mrs. Hoare, Henrietta	1009	Mrs. Charlton, Sarah	616
,, Blackburn, Eliza W.	1044	,, Grylar, Elizabeth	615
,, Burton, Jane	903	,, Froud, Mary	602
,, Gidney, Lydia	763	,, Whitfield, Frances	580
,, Johnson, Harriet	703	,, Rogers, Frances	562
,, Keen, Mary	684	,, Tidswell, Susannah	541
,, Cowan, Harriet	676	,, Edwards, Eleanor	516
,, Harvey, Honor	654	,, Lundy, Charlotte	515
,, Kendall, Martha F.	631	,, Wilkes, Elizabeth	513
,, Redick, Maria	622	,, * Russell, Sarah	496
,, Brown, Sarah	619

Marked thus * elected to fill a vacancy occasioned by death since the voting papers were issued.

The votes of the unsuccessful candidates will be carried forward to the next election.

Copies of the result sheet, with number of votes polled for all candidates, may be had on application to the Secretary.

By order,

JAMES TERRY, SECRETARY.

6 FREEMASONS' HALL, LONDON, W.C.
19th May 1876.

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

THE CLUB PREMISES, SITUATE

101 QUEEN VICTORIA STREET,

ARE NOW BEING FITTED UP, AND WILL

SHORTLY BE OPENED TO THE MEMBERS.

THE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION now payable will date from the day on which the Club opens, and is fixed at £3 3s for Town Members, i.e., Members residing within twenty miles of the Club, and £1 11s 6d for Country Members. Members incur no liability beyond their subscription. None but Freemasons are eligible for membership.

THE NEXT ELECTION will be held on 1st June. An Entrance Fee will be imposed as soon as the Club is open.

Forms of Application for Membership may be obtained from the Secretary, at the Offices of the LONDON MASONIC CLUB COMPANY LIMITED, 37 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

JOHN A. LATEBURY, Secretary.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

SEASON TICKETS, available for one year from the 1st of each month, to be had of W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE serene atmosphere of the House of Lords has been disturbed this week by a conflict, in which the Liberals, led by Earl Granville, sustained defeat at the hands of the Government, by 148 votes to 92. The question was one of amending the laws relating to the Burial of the Dead, but Ministers, supported by the whole bench of bishops, save Bishop Temple of Exeter, while admitting that some modification of the existing laws might be made, resisted the abstract resolution of the Opposition leader, and their resistance prevailed. The treatment of Coolies in the Mauritius, brought under notice by the Earl of Kimberley, and the second reading of a Union of Benefices Bill, proposed by the Bishop of Exeter, have been the other chief points of interest.

On Friday, the Ministry experienced a somewhat heavy defeat in the House of Commons. Mr. R. Smyth moved a resolution, having for object the closing the public houses in Ireland on Sunday, and in spite of the opposition of the Government, gained the day by 224 to 167. On Monday, on the motion for the second reading of the Customs and Inland Revenue Bill, a Mr. Rylands proposed a resolution questioning the financial policy of the Government on the ground of its extravagance, and a long debate followed. On the division taking place, Mr. Rylands, though supported by the whole strength of the Opposition, was defeated by the very considerable majority of 88, there being for his motion 175, and against it 263. On Tuesday, Mr. Butt obtained leave to bring in a Bill to make provision for University Education in Ireland, and Mr. Walpole also obtained leave to bring in a Bill for making further provision respecting the University of Cambridge and its Colleges. On Wednesday, Mr. Cowen moved the second reading of a Bill for altering the present system of licensing the sale of intoxicating liquors, by taking away the power now vested in justices of the peace and transferring it to licensing Boards, but he found only 109 supporters, while his opponents mustered 274. On Thursday, Lord Sandon obtained leave to introduce an Amending Bill on Elementary Education, and Mr. Hubbard moved a resolution on the Income Tax, but was beaten by 241 to 121.

The Prince of Wales, since his return home, has not been permitted the enjoyment of much rest. On Friday, he and the Princess attended the Drawing-room held at Buckingham Palace by her Majesty, and himself presented several of the gentlemen, including Major-General Probyn and Captain Carr-Glynn, who returned with him in the Serapis. On Monday, by command of Her Majesty, his Royal Highness held a levee at St. James's Palace, the Gentlemen-at-Arms being on duty, under their captain, the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, and the Yeomen of the Guard, under Lord Skelmersdale. The Dukes of Edinburgh, Connaught, and Cambridge, the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, his Royal Highness Prince Christian, and the Duke of Teck were present. On Wednesday, accompanied by the Princess of Wales, Princess Louise, the Dukes of Connaught and Cambridge, and the Duke and Duchess of Teck, he attended a congratulatory concert at the Royal Albert Hall, given in honour of his return from India. He was received by the Duke of Edinburgh, and on reaching the Royal box the whole audience rose and cheered him again and again with the greatest enthusiasm. The concert had the merit of being a short one—a matter for congratulation, as it was merely a means to bring his Royal Highness once again face to face with the fashionable British public. Yesterday was fixed for the grand banquet and ball at the Guildhall, a report of which we necessarily reserve for next week. This, our readers will admit, is a tolerably full programme for the eight or nine days the Prince has been back among us, and as the Queen was to leave yesterday evening for a brief sojourn in Scotland, the labours of the fashionable world will no doubt engross a large share of his attention; indeed, as the ex-King and Queen of Hanover are over here on a visit, and Sir Salar Jung and a number of Indian Princes will arrive shortly, the season, no doubt, will be a very active one.

Digitized by Google

The fish in the Westminster Aquarium are in a bad way. Some have died, while the rest have a very emaciated appearance. This is said to be owing to the hardness of the water, caused by an unavoidable excess of lime in solution, and is an evil with which, according to the sub-manager at Westminster, all Aquariums have to contend at first. We hope the evil will soon be overcome. Aquariums are most deservedly very popular places of resort.

The dinner of the Royal Dramatic College was held at Willis's Rooms, St. James's, on Thursday the 11th instant, the Lord Mayor presiding, assisted by a large number of friends and supporters of the drama. It seems that owing to a falling off in the funds of this institution, it is unable to do as much good as it is capable of doing. There are now only thirteen inmates of the College, while twenty can be accommodated, and in proposing "Prosperity to the Royal Dramatic College," Lord Mayor Cotton drew attention to the favourable auspices under which the College began its career, the late Prince Consort laying the first stone, the Prince of Wales having laid the first stone of the Central Hall, and the Queen being an annual donor to the funds. Subscriptions to the extent of £650 were subsequently announced.

On Saturday, the Lord Mayor, entertained the representatives of Science, both English and Foreign, at a grand banquet at the Mansion House, the guests numbering close upon three hundred, and including such celebrities as Dr. Hooker of Kew, President of the Royal Society, Sir John Hawkshaw, President of the British Association, Sir George Airy, Astronomer Royal, Sir Henry Rawlinson, President of the Royal Geographical Society, Professor Adams, President of the Royal Astronomical Society, Lieutenant Cameron, Sir Albert Woods, Garter, Sir Henry Thompson, Sir John Lubbock, and Professors Owen, Duncan, Leone Levi, Geikie, &c., &c. The toast of the evening, "The Representatives of Science" was proposed in felicitous terms by his Lordship, and received very cordially. Dr. Hooker, Sir G. Airy, Sir J. Hawkshaw, and Dr. Risdale Bennett, severally acknowledging the compliment.

The same evening, at Willis's Rooms, the Archbishop of York, presided at the annual dinner of the Artists' General Benevolent Institution. This society has been in existence for over sixty years, and has dispensed close on £45,000 in relieving distressed artists, their widows, and orphans. The guests numbered about 250, and by way of response to the toast of "Prosperity to the Institution," a subscription list, a little in excess of £2000, was read out by the Secretary.

In theatrical circles we must mention the first appearance this season, at the Queen's Theatre of Signor Salvini, in the character of Othello. The theatre, is under the management, temporarily, of Messrs. Mapleson and Coleman, and from the accounts we have heard the great Italian actor appears to have repeated his triumph of last year, the applause of the audience being both frequent and genuine. The next character which Signor Salvini is announced to appear in will be that of Macbeth. The same evening (Monday), Sir Randal Roberts made his first appearance on the London stage, in a piece written by himself, and entitled "Under a Cloud." The Court Theatre has been honoured by the presence of the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke of Edinburgh, and the Duke of Connaught. At the two Opera houses there have been the usual run of performances, but nothing to call for any special comment.

In the Volunteer world there has been a grand competition at Wormwood Scrubs this week, held under the auspices of the Middlesex Rifle Association. The principal competition was for the Middlesex Battalions Challenge Cup, value £100, for which there were sixteen entries, and which was ultimately secured by the St. George's, with a score of 744 points, the Queen's Westminster, who won it last year, coming second, with a score of 726, and the London Scottish third, with 708. Several other prizes have been contended for, among them being bronze medals, and a large sum of money divided into small amounts. On Tuesday, the Spring meeting of the National Rifle Association, was held in the theatre of the Royal United Service Institution, the chair being occupied by H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, President. After discussing at some length the programme of the forthcoming Wimbledon meeting, and noting sundry new features which would be introduced at it, a cordial vote of thanks to His Royal Highness for presiding was agreed to unanimously.

The Zoological Gardens, Regent's-park, is one of the most popular places to visit, especially at this season of the year, and on Saturday, when a band of one of the regiments of the Household Brigade is always in attendance, or on Sunday, when none but Fellows and their friends have the right of entry. This year will be especially attractive, as the Prince of Wales has brought over with him from India a very large collection of different kinds of animals, including bears, elephants, tigers, &c., &c. Preparations for their reception have been made by the indefatigable secretary, Mr. Bartlett, to whose son, Mr. Charles Bartlett, was entrusted the care of the collection during the voyage.

A number of deputations have waited upon ministers, but no more important one than that which called on Mr. Disraeli at his official residence in Downing Street, with a view to direct his attention to the very serious difficulties Merchant Captains will have to encounter if the decision of one of the metropolitan magistrates, by which a Captain Barnes of the Locksley Hall was sentenced to a term of imprisonment without the option of a fine, is to operate as a precedent. Captain Barnes had put a man in irons for disobedience, and the deputation urged that, where so much depended on the captain, his authority should be supported, and he should be allowed full power to inflict reasonable, that is necessary, punishment. Mr. Disraeli read an opinion from the highest legal authority in the kingdom, condemning the magistrate's decision, and concluded by promising that the matter, which was of the gravest importance, should receive the serious attention of the Government.

The news from France chiefly concerns the Amnesty question now under discussion, but one of those whom we looked forward to taking a conspicuous part in it, M. Ricard, Minister of the Interior, died very suddenly some days since of angina pectoris, and has been publicly interred with a considerable degree of pomp. The sad outrage at Salonica has caused great excitement, but the action of the Turkish authorities has been very prompt. A large number of arrests has been made, and already six of the prisoners have been found guilty and executed. No doubt, the prompt action of the Great Powers in sending ships of war to the scene of the murder has had something to do with this display of energy. Meanwhile, the three Great Eastern Powers have been conferring together respecting the Eastern Question. From the United States, we hear of serious conflicts between the Whites and Negroes in Louisiana, several of the latter having been killed, while the latter are arming. Our Minister, Sir Edward Thornton, has given a grand banquet at Philadelphia, to President Grant and the Emperor of Brazil, the guests numbering some 200. Everything passed off magnificently.

We must apologise to our West Yorkshire brethren for having omitted their very handsome contribution from the list we published last week, of the sums subscribed at the recent Festival of the Girls' School. It was mentioned in our Weekly Budget, that West Yorkshire had becomingly supported its Grand Master, Sir Henry Edwards, who so kindly presided on the occasion; but by an inadvertence, which we sincerely regret, the list of the Stewards and the amount of the contribution were not stated. We hasten at once to rectify the omission:—

Digitized by Google

WEST YORKSHIRE.

No. of Lodge.		£	s.	d.
	Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., Chairman ...	52	10	0
	Prov. G. Lodge, Bro. H. Smith	105	0	0
	Bentley Shaw, P.G.D.	10	10	0
	T. W. Tew, J.P., D.P.G.M.
	J. Batley
	Henry Day, J.P. ...
	Thomas Hill ...
	Rev. E. B. Chalmer
	W. H. B. Tomlinson
	Henry Smith ...
	T. Collinson ...
	J. Wordsworth ...
	Rev. E. Sewell ...
139	J. A. A. Andrews ...
139	Charles Dixon jun. ...
139	Dr. F. Griffiths ...
139	Wm. Jervis ...
139	J. C. Shaw
154	J. C. Cadman ...
275	G. F. C. Hoerle ...
275	J. Lowenthal ...
275	Wright Mellor ...
275	Thos. Reddock ...
290	Wm. Harrop ...
296	John Bidal ...
302	Hansen Farrar ...
304	Robert Craig ...
337	John Hirst jun. ...
837	Charles Pegler ...
974	Wm. Firth ...
1102	John Barker ...
1221	Wm. Glover ...
1221	T. H. Good ...
1542	Thos. J. Kassell ...
1542	W. W. Macray ...
1542	John Simpson ...
	Total	£707	16	0

Mdlle. Van der Mëersch, better known in Paris as the "Bird-fairy," has just returned to London. This lady has made a life's study of the education of birds, and the wonderful intelligence which her little feathered troupe are made to exhibit is a marvel to all who have witnessed the entertainment. By means of an immense number of cards, from which the little artistes make their selection, they are able to answer questions which would puzzle many bipeds of a larger growth. They can tell the day of the week, the state of the weather, and answer profound psychological queries. Mdlle. Van der Mëersch only accepts engagements for private parties, which we are inclined to regret, for every one ought to have the opportunity of seeing this wonderful performance.

The following has been forwarded to us for insertion, and we have great pleasure in complying with the request:—

Helston, 15th May 1876

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—We, the W.M., Wardens and Members of the "True and Faithful Lodge," No. 318, Helston, fraternally solicit the votes of your Lodge and the members thereof, for an Educational Grant of £10 per annum, for five years, on behalf of Richard Henry Cade, aged 11 years, the son of the late Bro. R. H. Cade, our lamented W.M. (of 1875.) The W. Bro. William James Hughan, of Truro (P.S.G.D. of England, &c., &c., &c.), owing to the lad being too old, was unable to procure his admission into the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and joins with us in supporting this application for aid from the "Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund."

We shall be pleased to answer any enquiries respecting the applicant, and on behalf of Mrs. Cade (his mother), we beg to strongly recommend your Lodge to grant the favour we seek for the child of our deceased Brother, and to kindly fill in the voting papers (which will be sent) accordingly.

Yours fraternally,

HUMPHREY TREMBATH P.M. W.M. 318.
T. N. CURRY P.M. 318, P. Prov. S.G.D.
P. GRENFELL HILL P.M. 318, P. Prov. G. Reg.
THOMAS TAYLOR P.M. 318, P. Prov. S.G.D.
THOMAS DAVEY P.M. 318.
JOHNSON Q. JAMES P.M. 318.
W. H. BLORSOME P.M. 318, P. Prov. G. Chap.
A. T. GRANT P.M. 318, Prov. G. Steward.

MASONIC CEREMONY AT EDINBURGH.

ON Monday, the Foundation Stone of the New Royal Blind Asylum, at Edinburgh, will be laid, with the usual Masonic ceremonies, by M.W. Bro. Sir Michael R. Shaw Stewart, Bart., Grand Master of Scotland. Grand Lodge will meet and be opened in ample form by the G.M., at Freemasons' Hall, 98 George-street, at 1.30 p.m.; the other brethren will assemble in Charlotte-square, half-an-hour earlier. Grand Lodge having been adjourned, the members will place themselves under the direction of the Grand Master of the Ceremonies, while the other brethren will be arranged by the Grand Marshals according to seniority of Lodges, and under the superintendence of their several W.M.'s and Office-bearers. At a given signal the procession will move off in the following order:—Detachment of Cavalry, Band of Music, Guard of Honour, the Members of Subordinate Lodges, three abreast, Junior Lodge in front; Band of Music, Members of the Grand Lodge, viz.: Masters or Proxies and their Wardens, in the like order; the Office-bearers of the Grand Lodge, accompanied by their proper Officers; the carriage of the M.W. the Grand Master; Rear Guard of Cavalry.

When the Junior Lodge reaches the entrance to the site, it will halt, take open order and the whole Lodges in the rear shall follow the like example, so that the Grand Lodge may pass through the ranks to the platform.

The route will be from Charlotte-square, along George-street, Frederick-street, Princes-street, Mound, Bank-street, Parliament-square, where it will join the Civil Procession, and proceed thence to the site of the stone.

The ceremony over, Grand Lodge will be closed in the Hall of the Blind Asylum, and the brethren will then dismiss. Full Masonic costume to be worn. Bands of music must consist of not less than eight performers, and will be under the absolute control of the Director of Music.

We subjoin copy of circular letter issued by Bro. Laurie, Grand Secretary:—

FREEMASONS' HALL,
EDINBURGH, 11th May 1876.

R.W. SIR AND BROTHER,—I am directed to inform you that the Foundation or Memorial Stone of the New Royal Blind Asylum at Edinburgh, will be laid, with full Masonic honours, by the Most Worshipful the Grand Master Mason of Scotland, Sir Michael Robert Shaw Stewart, Bart., &c., &c., and the Grand Lodge of Scotland, on Monday, the 22nd current, at Two o'clock p.m., when it is expected that a very numerous assemblage of the Craft will attend to support the Grand Master and I have to request that you will make an effort to be present on the occasion.

Every possible attention will be given to the arrangements being made convenient for those attending, and it is specially hoped the gathering will be a great one.

A Programme, containing full particulars of the entire proceedings, is enclosed herewith.

I remain, yours fraternally,
JOHN LAURIE, Grand Sec.

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

The Country House Library of Standard Authors. London: Ward, Lock and Tyler. Vol. I., "The Mad Willoughbys," by Mrs. Lynn Lynton. Vol. II., "False Beasts and True," by Frances Power Cobbe. Vol. III., "The Blossoming of an Aloe," by Mrs. Cashel Hoey. Vol. IV., "Country House Essays," by John Latouche.

THE first four volumes issued by Messrs. Ward, Lock, and Tyler in the above series may be said to do equal credit to their business enterprise and to their good taste. Not only are they all excellent works, by standard living authors, but they are original works, or practically so, none of them certainly having appeared in a popular form before. In a circular issued with the first volume, the editor states that it is the intention to publish about twenty volumes every year, the price to be one shilling per volume. The volumes will consist partly of entirely new works, partly of works that have appeared in recent periodical literature. We trust the enterprise will prove as successful as it deserves to be. Of the four volumes issued up to the present time, the titles of which appear at the head of this notice, "The Mad Willoughbys," by the brilliant and popular Mrs. Lynn Lynton, is a most delightful story. "False Beasts and True," a series of admirable papers upon the fauna of fancy, the consciousness of dogs, and other kindred subjects; whilst Mrs. Cashel Hoey's novel, and Mr. Latouche's volume of essays are both of a high order of excellence. We cordially commend the series to our readers.

The Prince and the Craft.—Words by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, Music by Michael Watson. Also, by the same Authors, The Apron Blue. London: W. W. MORGAN, FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE Office, 67 Barbican.

In the desert of baths presented by our so-called Masonic songs, from the "Master's" which, according to Dermott, was of too great a length to be sung at one time, to the "Entered Apprentice's," which is something like a Te Deum on a tin whistle, these two little ballads come upon us with a refreshing surprise.

The Apron Blue embodies a pleasing sentiment, expressed in simple terms, and Mr. Watson's melody is so aptly fitted to Bro. Abbott's unimpeachable verse that it should become a prime favourite in Masonic households.

The want of an appropriate song for Masonic festivals has been so long felt by the brotherhood that we congratulate Bro. Abbott upon the relief he has offered us in The Prince and the Craft, the genuine manner and flowing melody of which will, we predict, secure for it a wide-spread popularity at the social board.

In both songs the symphonies are simple in character, but they possess in a marked degree the merit of originality, a rare quality in these days of mechanical adaptation.

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

SATURDAY, 20th MAY.

196—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

MONDAY, 22nd MAY.

45—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem, St. John's-square, E.C., at 8. (Instruction.)
174—Sincerity, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., at 7. (Instruction.)
183—Unity, London Tavern, Bishopsgate, E.C.

66—Royal Clarence, Freemasons' Hall, Bristol.
R. A. 241—Friendship, Masonic Temple, 32 Hope-street, Liverpool.

TUESDAY, 23rd MAY.

14—Tuscan, Freemasons' Hall, W.C.
55—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
860—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
R. A. 180—St. James's Union, Freemasons' Hall, W.C.
Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michaels'-alley, Cornhill, at 6.30.

253—Tyrian, Masonic Hall, Gower-street, Derby.
1016—Elkington, Masonic Rooms, New-street, Birmingham.
1156—Southern Star, Montpelier Tavern, Walworth.
1228—Beaconstree, Red Lion, Leytonstone, at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A. 103—Beaufort, Freemasons' Hall, Bristol.

WEDNESDAY, 24th MAY.

193—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7. (Instruction.)
1634—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Albion-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)
R. A. 1365—Clapton, White Hart Tavern, Clapton, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

199—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover. (Instruction.)
1039—St. John's, George Hotel, Lichfield.
1611—Alexandra, Masonic Hall, Hornsea, at 7. (Instruction.)
R. A. 603—Belvidere, Star Hotel, Maidstone.

THURSDAY, 25th MAY.

General Committee, Girls' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
3—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, London-st., Fitzroy-sq., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
435—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 8. (Instruction.)
1260—Hervey, 152 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1469—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
R. A. 657—Canonbury, Masons Arms Tav. Hasons-avenue, Basinghall-st., E.C.

78—Imperial George, Assheton Arms Hotel, Middleton, Lancashire.
100—Friendship, Crown and Anchor Hotel, Quay, Great Yarmouth.
807—Cabbell, Masonic Hall, Theatre-street, Norwich.
968—St. Edward's, Literary Institute, Leek, Stafford.
R. A. 57—Humber, Freemasons' Hall, Osborn-street, Hull.
R. A. 202—Liverpool, Masonic Temple, Hope-street, Liverpool.
R. A. 732—Royal Sussex, Royal Pavilion, Brighton.

FRIDAY, 26th MAY.

861—Finsbury, Rosemary Branch Tavern, Islington, N.
933—Doric, Earl Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1278—Burdett Coutts, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, 7.30. (Instruction.)
1977—Metropolitan, 269 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)

1385—Gladesmuir, Red Lion Hotel, Barnet, Herts.
R. A. 152—Virtue, Freemasons' Hall, Cooper-street, Manchester.

SATURDAY, 27th MAY.

196—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

THURSDAY.

810—Craven, Devonshire Hotel, Skipton.
904—Phœnix, Ship Hotel, Rotherham.

FRIDAY.

R. A. 61—Sincerity, Freemasons' Hall, St. John's-place, Halifax.
R. A. 242—Magdalen, Guildhall, Doncaster.

SATURDAY.

1462—Wharncliffe, Rose and Crown Hotel, Pniistone.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

46—Industry, Freemasons' Hall, West-street, Gateshead.

THURSDAY.

1418—Fraternity, Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-road, Stockton-on-Tees.

FRIDAY.

K. T. 20—Royal Kent, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

MONDAY—349—St. Clair, Freemasons' Hall.
TUESDAY—151—Defensive Band, Alexander Hall, Cockburn-street.
" R. A. 40—Naval and Military, Freemasons' Hall.
WEDNESDAY—112—St John Fisherrow, Royal Hotel, Musselburgh.
THURSDAY—362—Caledonian, Freemasons' Hall.
FRIDAY—223—Trafalgar, 54 Bernard-street, Leith.

GLASGOW DISTRICT.

MONDAY—219—Star, 12 Tronsate.
" 302—St. Clair, 25 Robertson-street.
" 541—Marie Stewart, Freemasons' Hall, Crosshill.
TUESDAY—413—Athol, 213 Buchanan-street.
" R.A.—67—Cathedral, 24 Struthers-street.
WEDNESDAY—510—Maryhill, 167 Main-street, Maryhill.
" 114—Clarence, Red Cross of Constantine, Buchanan-street.
THURSDAY—476—Kenmuir, Freemasons' Hall, Springburn.
" R. A.—117—Govan, Portland-Hall, Govan.
" 143—Royal Arch, School-room, Pollokshaws.
" 347—St. John, Freemasons' Hall, Rutherglen.
SATURDAY—28—St. John's, Rock Bill Inn, Kirkintilloch.

Bro. the Rev. Dr. Salte, P.G. Chaplain of Lancashire, will preach to the brethren in St. Luke's Church, Grafton-street on the 21st, at 7 p.m., and in Hyde Park Hall, Springburne, on Monday, 22nd, at 7.30.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73.—This Lodge met on Tuesday, the 16th inst., at Glasgow, Bro. McDonald in the chair, who was well supported by his office bearers. There were two candidates initiated, one being for the Kilwinning Lodge, No. 4. An emergency meeting was also held, by the courtesy of the Dramatic Lodge, No. 571, when Bro. G. W. Wheeler raised Bro. John Brownlow to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, Bros. Jackson S.W., C. McKenzie J.W. 354 acting J.W. Bro. Bannerman D.M. 73 thanked the Dramatic Lodge for their kindness.

Thistle Lodge, No. 87.—This Lodge met in the Hall, 30 Hope-street, Glasgow, on 16th May, Bro. J. Booth R.W.M. presiding. Bros. F. Ritchie S.M., W. Stewart S.W., R. Barr J.W., T. Payton Treasurer, A. McPhie Secretary, J. W. Burns I.P.M., James Fraser P.M., and a goodly muster of the brethren. Amongst the visitors were Bros. J. M. Olive 360 and Ernest B. Herling 251 (E.C.) The Lodge having been opened, the deputation from the Provincial Grand Lodge was received. It consisted of Bros. Sinclair acting as P.G.M., A. McTaggart, M.A., P.G. Secretary, James Gillies P.G. Treas., J. Miller P.G.J.D., A. Bain P.G.B.B., J. Allison P.G. Jeweller, J. Balfour D. of C., D. Reid P.G.I.G., and J. B. Hardie P.G. Tyler. The P.G.S. expressed the pleasure he felt at being able to make such a favourable report of the affairs of the Lodge, which was generally working in accordance with Grand Lodge Laws. Bro. Sinclair acting P.G.M. expressed his regret at the continued illness of their P.G.M., which necessitated his filling that office, yet from the way in which they were received, it became a labour of love. Bro. Booth thanked the deputation for their courtesy, and said the Lodge was deeply indebted to them for their visit.

Vitruvian Lodge of Instruction.—This old and excellent school of Freemasonry held its usual weekly meeting on Thursday last, at the White Hart Tavern, College-street, Belvedere-road, Lambeth, when the fifteen sections were admirably worked under the presidency of that universally beloved veteran, Bro. John Noke P.M. No. 87, now, we believe, in his seventy-eighth year; upon which occasion the Craft met in considerable numbers. He was supported by Bros. Hy. Landfield P.M. 1343 as S.W., C. Nott J.D. 87 as J.W., J. G. Bond P.M. 87 Secretary, and C. S. Jolly P.M. 87, acting as P.M. The sections were executed by the following brethren:—

FIRST LECTURE.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. J. G. Bond.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. C. S. Jolly.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. C. Nott.
4th "	... ...	Bro. Rambold.
5th "	... ...	Bro. Landfield.
6th "	... ...	Bro. C. S. Jolly.
7th "	... ...	Bro. J. Noke.

SECOND LECTURE.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. C. Nott.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. G. Mattock P.M. 1441.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. Phillips.
4th "	... ...	Bro. Landfield.
5th "	... ...	Bro. Noke.

THIRD LECTURE.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. H. Ball.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. J. De Solla.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. G. Mattock.

A vote of thanks having been passed for Bro. Noke's kindness and ability in the chair, he, in a few well chosen words, presented Bro. Landfield, the Preceptor, with £10 10s, voted by the Lodge as a mark of recognition of the valuable services received at his hands, to which Bro. Landfield briefly responded, and a very enjoyable evening terminated.

Faith Chapter, No. 141.—A regular meeting of this flourishing Chapter was held at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, E.C., on Wednesday, the 17th inst. There were present—Comps. Nardus Gluckstein M.E.Z., Frederick Hegard H., John Constable J., W. E. Gompertz S.E., J. D. Barnett as S.N., M. Bamberger Treasurer, Pinder P.S., Hollands 1st Asst., C. C. Taylor I.P.Z., E. Gottheil P.Z., T. Mortlock P.Z., and a considerable number of lay Companions, amongst whom were the following visitors—J. Copestick 227, W. C. Thos 1269, F. C. Chapman "Lion and Lamb," Prosser "Harmony," Jersey, and Elliadon, 51, Colchester. The only important part of the proceedings in the Chapter consisted in exalting to this degree Bro. S. Alba, S.D. of the Montefiore Lodge. After an excellently well served and ample repast, the usual toasts were given and responded to. Bro. Alba, the newly exalted Companion, in his response, heartily thanked the Companions for their kind reception, and remarked that a German wit once advised that people should marry first and love after, as it frequently happens that those who love first and marry after experience unlooked for disappointment. Having been initiated into Freemasonry, I show my love for it by becoming a member of the Royal Arch. But when I entered Craft Masonry I found numbers of Brethren and no Companions, and to-night I find a number of Companions and no Brethren. I hope to prove myself a true and useful Companion among you. Comp. C. C. Taylor I.P.Z., in proposing the health of the M.E.Z., expressed his admiration at the patience and assiduity of Comp. Gluckstein, who, being a foreigner, yet managed to master the difficult ceremony, and to conduct it to every one's satisfaction. There was, he thought, great credit due to the M.E.Z. for his perseverance, for which the Companions, he was sure, felt exceedingly grateful. Comp. Gluckstein was greatly obliged to Comp. Taylor and the members generally for their kindness and indulgence, but he assured them he knew his shortcomings, and although trying to do his best, felt that the work was not done to his own satisfaction. The visitors, who replied individually, concurred that, from the highest to the lowest, the officers had performed their respective duties admirably, and some were of opinion that the manner in which the work was done could not be excelled. Comp. Ellisden P.Z. 51 proposed "Prosperity to the Faith Chapter," which was duly responded to. There was some excellent singing. Comp. Constable introduced a new song, the words by Bro. G. W. Abbott of 1385, published at the office of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, entitled, "The Prince and the Craft," which was well received. Comp. Mortlock sang "Welcome, ever Welcome, Friends," after the Visitors' health had been proposed. Comp. Henley gave "England shall Weather the Storm," in his usual spirited manner, and a whistling duet by Comps. Mortlock and Henley produced considerable applause. Except an emergency, this Chapter will not meet again until October.

Digitized by Google

Faith Lodge of Instruction, No. 141.—There is nothing so essential to render brethren perfect in Masonic Ritual as a punctual attendance at Lodges of Instruction; there they will find that every detail is properly explained. Many brethren, duly qualified, and holding high positions in the Order, feel it a pleasure to give instruction as Preceptors, and the members of the above Lodge determined to give the brethren a Masonic treat by having the ceremonies of Consecration and Installation worked. The brethren, numbering between eighty and ninety, met on Tuesday, when Bro. Jas. Terry P.G.D.C. Herts, occupied the chair. Bros. Reed S.W., Cameron J.W., C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. as P.M., C. Hill D.C., Scott P.M. Secretary. The musical arrangements were under the direction of Bro. Rhodes I.G. 1328, and Knight Smith. The programmes, which were of artistic design, were presented by Bro. Reed, of Oxford-street. The ceremony was most impressively and perfectly delivered, and was followed by the ceremony of installation. Bro. Terry, at the conclusion, was warmly congratulated by every one present. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune proposed that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to Bro. Terry for the admirable manner he had performed the ceremonies of Consecration and Installation. Votes of thanks were accorded to Bro. C. Hill, and those brethren who had so efficiently assisted, also to Bro. Reed for presenting the programmes, and to Bro. Lamb for his kindness in lending the elegant consecrating vessels. Several brethren were elected joining members, and the Lodge of Instruction was closed. The brethren then sat down to a collation, provided by Bro. Cole, that gave great satisfaction. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. presided, and proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. He then gave the health of Bro. Jas. Terry, who had come that evening to perform the ceremonies. The brethren had listened to his working with great pleasure. He had been associated in Masonry with Bro. Terry for many years, he was now the Secretary of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and through his exertions at the last festival they had received over £9,000; the aged ought to be cared for in their declining years as well as the young. Bro. Jas. Terry responded, and thanked Bro. Cottebrune for his kind expressions. He hoped, as Secretary to their noble institution, he had done his duty. He gave an account of the expenditure, and the requirements annually for the annuitants. The President then proposed the toast of those brethren who had so ably assisted at the ceremony. Bros. C. Hill, Cameron, and others returned thanks, and each Brother paid a compliment to Bro. Terry for his working. Bro. Terry then said he had a pleasing duty to perform, and that was to propose the toast of their worthy Preceptor, the occupant of the chair. Many brethren who have received the benefit of his excellent teaching have attained high position in the Order. Brother Cottebrune would not have been chosen to fill that office had not his talents been appreciated, he had been selected to be a Grand Officer, and he hoped he would be spared for many years to give them the benefit of his valuable assistance. (Cheers.) Bro. Cottebrune responded: When the Lodge of Instruction was first started they were but few in number; they did not succeed, but were not disheartened. They took a small room; the attendance was continually fluctuating, but it gradually increased, and they now meet with never less than 20 or 30 present. They were proud of this Lodge of Instruction, and he hoped they would follow out the precepts advocated therein, so that when they go to their Lodges they would be able to carry out the duties required of them. He hoped at all times to meet their approbation. (Cheers.) Several other toasts followed, and the brethren passed a very harmonious evening. Bros. Cantle, Knight Smith, S. Webb and G. Henley gave some excellent songs. Amongst those present were Bros. H. Stiles, W. Sole, C. J. Scales, Young, J. L. Thomas, T. Bolt, H. Massey, J. Jacobs, B. Solomon, Harper, Caffell, Weston, Hunt, Scott, B. Swallow, W. Muns, H. Lewis, Lamb, Rhodes, Campbell, Baker, Shand, H. M. Levy, &c.

Phœnix Lodge, No. 173.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Saturday, the 13th May, at Freemasons' Hall Great Queen-street. Bros. W. Wills W.M., J. D. Massey S.W., Burford J.W., E. W. Matthews Secretary; and P.M.'s Bros. F. R. Vine I.P.M., W. Watson, G. Wilson, Sherman, C. R. Green, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Guterbock and H. W. Davis, were raised to the 3rd degree. Ballots were taken for several gentlemen, but they were not present. The report of the Audit Committee was read and adopted, and a balance carried forward of £97 12s 5d. A Board of Installed Masters was then formed, and Bro. J. D. Massey, W.M. elect, was presented to the Lodge, and Bro. F. R. Vine I.P.M. occupied the chair, and duly installed him into the chair, in a careful, perfect, and impressive manner, Bro. Jekyll, W.M. Asaph, ably officiating as Organist. On the admission of the brethren, the W.M. was saluted according to ancient form, and then invested his officers: Bros. W. Wills I.P.M., Phillips S.W., Finch J.W., J. Burford Treasurer, E. W. Matthews Secretary, F. W. Allen S.D., J. Blyth J.D. and W.S., J. Andrews I.G., W. C. Davidson D.C., F. D. Vine A.W.S., and Speight Tyler. The W.M., in investing his officers, exhibited his proficiency for the office by his pertinent remarks, which showed the brethren the selection they had made was one that would in every respect reflect credit. Bro. Vine then gave the customary addresses, and the encomiums paid to him on his concluding, showed how admirably he had performed the ceremony. Bro. Jekyll W.M. 1319 was elected an honorary member, and was afterwards invested with the Collar of Organist of the Lodge. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 58 in number, adjourned to the Crown Room, where a banquet and dessert was provided by Bro. Francatelli, superintended by Bro. Knill. Bro. Rev. I. W. Goucher 1017 then said grace. The W.M. gave the toast of the Queen and the Craft, and Bros. Wills, Sharman and Jekyll sang the National Anthem. The W.M. in proposing the toast of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M., alluded to the great enthusiasm shown for him by all classes, from the moment of his landing at Portsmouth, and the grand reception he had experienced. Bro. G. Wilson P.M. then sang "God Bless the Prince of Wales," amid great cheers. Bro. Wongh P.G.P. returned thanks for the toast of the Grand Officers. Bro. Watts sang, very sweetly, "Stay with me, darling, stay." Bro. Wills I.P.M. then rose and said he would ask the brethren to drink a toast that he was sure they would heartily respond to; that was the health of one whom they all respected, the W.M. (cheers). He might congratulate himself on having the hearty support, not only of the officers but of every brother in the Lodge. The toast was received with great cheering. Bro. Henson then sang "Once Again." The W.M. thanked the brethren for drinking his health in so cordial a manner. He had been elected to fill the chair, and nothing should be wanting on his part to give them every satisfaction. He then proposed the toast of the Visitors; it was always a pleasure on the part of the Lodge to receive them. To-night they had many distinguished Masons present, and all felt honoured by their presence. He then mentioned their names seriatim. Bro. J. L. Mather P.M. 65 responded, and was followed by Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. 188. Several other brethren also complimented the W.M. on his able presidency, and Brother Vine for his excellent rendering of the Ceremony of Installation. The W.M. said he was about to propose a toast out of the ordinary course, but one, he was sure, that would be welcome—it was the Masonic Charities. There was an institution that should never be forgotten—that for the aged. There was a brother among them who had devoted his energies successfully to the service of the old folks. He referred to Bro. Terry—(cheers)—and so long as he was among them as W.M. those Charities should never be forgotten. Bro. Jas. Terry responded to the toast. He thanked the W.M. for bringing his name before the brethren. At the election on Friday next there were 57 candidates, all over 60 years of age, and all descending the ladder. As the W.M. said, it was only Freemasons who support those Charities. £8,695 will be required next year, and £30,000 is annually wanted to support the three Masonic Charities. There are now 130 male annuitants receiving £30 per annum, and 110 widows receiving £32 per annum, and he hoped to receive the cordial support of the brethren present. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the I.P.M., and in the course of an eloquent speech presented him, in the name of the Lodge, with a very elegant P.M. jewel, with suitable inscription. He hoped he might live for many years to wear it, and that it might be transmitted from generation to generation. The toast was drunk with musical honours. Bro. Wills, in suitable terms, responded for the valuable gift. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Past Masters. He was pleased to see so many present. They had had an opportunity of witnessing this evening what they could do, and he was sure they were always ready to render valuable services to the Lodge. Bro. Cusworth gave a very humorous recitation, and after this Bro. G. Wilson P.M. responded. The toasts of the Wardens, Officers, Treasurer and Secretary were given, and the Tyler's toast concluded a very agreeable evening. The visitors were Bros. J. L. Mather P.M. 65; J. Holmes 87; C. Jekyll W.M. 1319; W. Ough P.G.P.; J. Terry, P.P.G.D.C., Herts; W. A. Smith, 1298; J. Cusworth, 873; C. Fry, 913; R. Perkins, 34; E. Bowyer, P.M., 1471; R. J. Smith, 34; S. Godfrey-Morton, P.M., 1056; Bracebridge, P.M., 871; Watts, S.D., 1381; and H. M. Levy P.M., 188.

Royal Union Lodge, Uxbridge, No. 882.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday, 15th inst., at the Chequers Hotel, Uxbridge. Bro. C. J. W. Davis occupied the chair. Bros. W. Smith P.G.S. S.W., Halliday J.W., Coulton P.M. Treasurer, W. Coombes P.P.G.S.B. Secretary, W. Webb S.D., G. E. Cook J.D., Lonsdale I.G., Ross D.C., Dayton W.S.; and P.M.'s Bros. B. Swallow, Febrenbach, T. A. Adams P.G.D., and Lonsdale. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Burgess was raised to the 3rd degree. Bros. Cecil and Cooper were passed to the 2nd degree, and Messrs. E. F. Denenhoney, E. T. Brown and A. J. Hanson were initiated into the Order by the W.M., in a very perfect and impressive manner. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a capital banquet. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. That of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M. meeting an enthusiastic reception. The W.M. said the wishes for his safe return in renewed health were now verified, and the reception he had met with from all classes must have shown him how dear he is to the nation, and to none more so than to the brethren of the Order. Bro. T. Adams P.G.P. returned thanks for the toast of the Grand Officers. Bro. Febrenbach P.M. proposed the toast of the W.M. He said the Lodge might be congratulated on their selection; their brother was able, in every respect, to carry out the duties of the chair to their satisfaction. The W.M. suitably replied, and in proposing the toast of the initiates, said he was pleased with the attention they had paid to the ceremony; they were the sort of brethren the Craft required, and if all brethren would be sure of the respectability of a candidate before proposing him, the Order would indeed be benefitted. Bro. Brown returned thanks for the toast. The impressive manner the beautiful ceremony had been delivered by the W.M. fully impressed him, and would never be forgotten by him and by his brother initiates. The toasts of the P.M. and Officers were given, the latter being eloquently responded to by Bro. W. Smith P.G.S. The Tyler's toast was given and the brethren returned to town.

Digitized by Google

Frederick of Unity Lodge, No. 452.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, 15th inst., at the Greyhound Hotel, Croydon. Present—Bros. William Stanley Masterman P.P.G.D. for Surrey W.M., J. W. Sugg S.W., George Wright J.W., Magnus Obren P.M. P.P.G.J.W. for Surrey Sec., James Robins P.M. Treas., A. T. Jeffery S.D., C. Edmands J.D., Pawley I.G., Speight Tyler. Bro. Dickinson I.P.M. and a goodly attendance of brethren and visitors, amongst whom we may mention Bros. Charles Horsley, T. Boulton, J. Constable, J. H. Wright, H. Massey and W. W. Morgan. The Lodge was opened punctually at the time stated on the summons, when the minutes of the meeting held on the 17th August last, at Sutton, and of a Lodge of Emergency, were read and confirmed. The brethren, it was announced, were now assembled at old quarters, where, in days gone by, many happy gatherings had taken place, which brought forward some pleasant recollections. Reasons were given why the members had considered it necessary to remove from Sutton to Croydon, and it was announced that proper notice had been given of this resolution to Grand Lodge. The ballot was then taken for Mr. George Robins, son of the respected P.M. and Treasurer of the Lodge, which was declared unanimous in favour of that gentleman. Bro. Masterman then rose, and stated that, in consequence of domestic affliction, he did not feel quite himself, and if the Past Masters of the Lodge would kindly grant permission, he would ask his esteemed friend Bro. John Constable, P.M. 185, to work the ceremony of raising in favour of Bro. Frederick Cassell, who was that evening a candidate for the sublime degree. This request was graciously acceded to by the several P.M.'s present, and Bro. Constable took the chair. Bro. Cassell, who had previously answered the customary questions, was then introduced, and the ceremony was conducted by Bro. Constable in his well known able style. Bro. Masterman then resumed the chair, and the election of W.M. and Treasurer for the ensuing year took place. The choice of the brethren was unanimously in favour of Bro. J. W. Sugg, the Senior Warden, while Bro. James Robins was re-elected Treasurer. After these brethren had severally thanked the members present for the honour that had been accorded them, Mr. George Robins was introduced and duly initiated into the Order, the ceremony being conducted by the W.M., Bro. W. S. Masterman. Routine business was then gone through, and the Lodge was closed in due form. A banquet followed, which was done ample justice to by all present. On the removal of the cloth Bro. Masterman, who presided in a most happy and genial way, gave the customary toasts. Those of the Queen and the most Worshipful the G.M., H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, were most loyally received. In giving that of the Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, Bro. Masterman paid a just eulogium to the high Masonic qualities possessed by our noble brother. Lord Skelmersdale, the Deputy Grand Master, was also a thoroughly good Mason, and he was sure that full honour would be paid to the toast. The health of the Grand Master of the Province, Major-General Brownrigg, was next given, and with this toast was coupled the names of P.M.'s Magnus Obren and James Robins. To this Bro. Obren replied. He referred to the number of members of their Lodge who had been favoured with Provincial rank, and said that all must be gratified at the proud position the Lodge held. The health of the W.M. was proposed by Bro. Dickinson, I.P.M. Bro. Masterman replied, and then proposed the health of his young friend, the initiate of that evening. He was glad that his old friend, the Treasurer of their Lodge, had given the name of George to his son, he was reminded of the young gentleman's ancestor, of whose fame and renown so much had been said or sung, he was not sure which. He was also gratified to know that their younger brother had selected the same occupation in which his ancestor was so famous. He was sure all present would cordially drink his health. Bro. George Robins thanked those present for the way in which they had received the toast. It would be his great ambition to become a good Mason, and he was very much gratified at having been made a member of the Order. The toast of the P.M.'s was replied to by the I.P.M., Bro. Dickinson, and was followed by that of the Treasurer and Secretary. Bro. Robins replied, and paid a just tribute to Bro. Magnus Obren, whom he described as always ready to do all in his power to further the interests of the Lodge. As for himself what he had done was only his duty; he knew that if the prosperity of the Lodge was to be maintained, the demands of the brethren must be kept within reasonable bounds, and if in doing so he had met with their approval he was amply repaid. The toast of "The Visitors" was replied to by Bro. John Constable, and Bro. Charles Horsley made some remarks expressive of the pleasure it had given him to be present. The next toast was "The Masonic Press," and with it was coupled the names of Bro. Massey on behalf of The Freemason, and of Bro. Morgan in connection with this journal. Both these brethren briefly replied, and the toast of the W.M. elect was proposed, and wittily responded to by Bro. Sugg. The Tyler's toast was given, and the brethren separated.

Clydesdale Lodge, No. 556.—This Lodge met, in their own Hall, 166 Rose-street, Glasgow, on Tuesday, 11th inst. Bro. Wm. Phillips R.W.M., who was well supported by his office bearers. Amongst the visitors were Bros. P. Brownlie J.W. 3 bis, G. W. Wheeler 73, P. Young 347, J. Stewart 360, J. Ferguson I.P.M. 543. There were three candidates for initiation, Messrs. Johnson, Downie, and McWilliam, and there being no objection, they were initiated in a very careful manner by the R.W.M. The P.G. Lodge deputation was then received. Bro. McTaggart said, with very slight exceptions, he found the books in excellent order; their fund in hand was no very large at the date of audit, but he found that last year they paid off £134, and the hall was now free, which, for so young a Lodge, was highly creditable. Their working of the degrees he found to be equally satisfactory, for although they had initiated the large number of 61 candidates, he found that only 17 had received the three degrees at once, and these were all well-ascertained cases of emergency. He regretted that Bro. Neilson was still too ill to be with them and rejoice in their prosperity. Bro. G. Sinclair acting P.G.M. congratulated them, as a very young Lodge, on sitting under their own vine and fig-tree in that nice hall; it said much for their Master and the rest of the officers that they had accomplished this. Bro. Phillips thanked the deputation for their visit, and the good report they had made. It had been his constant endeavour to merit it. He had not scored himself in working, neither did he intend to do so in the future, but it was gratifying to the young members of the Lodge to know that the work had been inspected by three who were fully competent for the task, and that they had given them so very flattering a report by declaring they were second to none in the province. He thanked them for coming with so large a deputation to this out-of-the-way corner of the city, but he was determined to leave the Lodge equal to the best in the heart of it. As some of the deputation were not members of the Lodge, he requested Bro. McTaggart to now affiliate them as honorary members. Bros. J. Gillies, Sinclair, and Allison were then affiliated. Bros. Young 347 and Ferguson 543 were also affiliated for services rendered. The Lodge was then called to refreshment, and a couple of hours were spent in harmony.

Dramatic Lodge, No. 571.—Bro. Dobson R.W.M. opened this Lodge on Wednesday, the 17th inst., at 2 p.m., and proceeded to initiate two candidates, Messrs. John Cameron and Henri Ludwig, in a very careful manner. At 4 o'clock the P.G.L. deputation, consisting of Bros. Gillies P.G.T. acting as P.G.M., A. McTaggart, M.A., P.G.S., J. Miller P.G.J.D., J. Allsans, J. Ritchie, Jas. Balfour D. of C. and J. B. Hardie entered. The P.G.S. said the present was rather a complimentary than a critical visit, as they were only extended over six months, but if it had been a critical one they would have passed it remarkably well for he had found nothing to find fault with. The Lodge had experienced some trouble in getting their charter, but the working of it proved that those who had supported them were perfectly justified, for in no Lodge had there been a truer Masonic spirit exhibited than in the Dramatic Lodge. Bro. Gillies as acting P.G.M. was glad to bear his testimony to the thoroughly efficient state of the Lodge, and he was sure while Bro. Dobson was its Master, and he was supported by such able officers as those by whom he was surrounded, all would be well. He was surprised, but at the same time very glad, to see so large a meeting at such an early hour; it augured well for Masonry. Bro. Dobson thanked the deputation for having come at this unusual hour to see them, and also those brethren of other Lodges who had honoured them with their presence. The only thing he was afraid of was that they had been flattering him too highly. He had simply tried to do his duty; he knew that the professional brethren required a Lodge, as their business engagements often quite prevented them attending to their Masonic duties. Having got the charter with difficulty, he felt it incumbent on him, and so had all his officers, to do their best to prove that it had not been unworthily granted. He then proposed that the deputation, who had left their ordinary engagements to come to do honour to them, be made honorary members, and the whole of the brethren named above, except the P.G.S., who was already a member, were affiliated, as were also Bro. Wheeler 73, Morgan R.W.M. 219, Ferguson I.P.M. 543, and Aikman 570, for services rendered. Bro. Gillies returned thanks, on behalf of the whole of the brethren, for the honour that had been done them, and the deputation retired.

The same deputation, at 8 p.m., paid a visit to St. Mary, No. 177, Patrick, and were able to congratulate Bro. William Wylie and his office bearers on the successful working of the Lodge, and also to express their pleasure at meeting them in the fine new hall they have lately erected, the consecration of which we noticed some few months ago.

Panmure Lodge, No. 730.—The installation banquet of this perfect working Lodge was held on Monday, the 15th inst., at the Balham Hotel, Balham. Present—Bros. Pulman W.M., Trussler S.W., and a numerous assemblage of the brethren and visitors. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. The Treasurer presented the report of the audit meeting, which showed the flourishing position of the Lodge. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Trussler W.M. elect was presented to the Lodge, and duly installed into the chair by Bro. Poore P.M., in such a manner as only could be expected from this worthy brother, whose efficient working is so well known and admired in the Craft. The W.M. having been saluted, invested his officers:—Bros. Burgess S.W., Payne P.M. as J.W. pro tem, McKay S.D., Wolfe J.D., Smith I.G., McMurray D.C. and a W.S. The W.M. then initiated Messrs. Wiltshire and Mills, to the satisfaction of the brethren. We hope, however, that the W.M., whenever time will permit, will take each candidate separately, as the impressiveness of the ceremony is thereby greatly increased. The Lodge was then closed, and 34 brethren partook of a sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. Lilley. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Pulman I.P.M. in an eloquent speech proposed the toast of the W.M., who briefly replied. Bros. Wiltshire and Mills replied for the newly initiated. To the toast of the P.M.'s Bro. Poore P.M. replied. The W.M. then presented, in the name of the Lodge, to Bro. Pulman I.P.M. an elegant jewel. Bro. Pulman, in reply, thanked the brethren for their kind expressions and valuable present. Bros. Thompson P.M. 177, 1158 and 1426, and Wright P.M. 946, replied for the visitors, amongst whom were Bros. Baker S.W., Stockwell S.D. 1379, Eye 141, Hardcastle 374, Bent 723, &c. The toast of the Wardens, Officers and Tyler were given, and a very agreeable evening was passed, to the enjoyment of which Bro. Poore greatly added, by giving a recitation of the "Canonizing of Jim Crow."

Royal Brunswick Lodge, No. 732.—The Spring banquet of this Lodge was held at the Royal Pavilion, Brighton, on Thursday, the 11th inst., under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. J. M Kidd. A very sumptuous banquet was provided by Bro. Reynard and the W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic Toasts. He mentioned as a pleasing fact that the meeting was held on the day H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W. the Grand Master, had returned to his native shores, in health, to gladden the hearts of all, more particularly his brother Masons. A telegram had been received announcing his arrival, and it might be considered a red-letter day that they were there to celebrate their festival on that auspicious occasion. The toast of the W.M. was given, who was congratulated on the manner in which he had discharged his duties. There was a goodly number of the brethren present, and among the visitors was Bro. E. J. Turner, D.P.G.M., whom every one was pleased to welcome after his recent serious accident; there were also Bro. Kuhe, Grand Organist of the Grand Lodge of England: Bro. F. Binckes, P.G.S., Secretary Royal Masonic Institution for Boys; W. H. Hallett P.G.S.W.; J. H. Scott P.G. Secretary, and several others. The gathering was one that gave pleasure to all, and a delightful evening was passed.

Digitized by Google

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on the 16th May. Bros. P.M. Wallington W.M., Smith S.W., Brown J.W., Wiege S.D., Barker J.D., Johnson I.G.; also P.M.'s Bros. Ashburner and Musto, and several other brethren. Bro. Musto having answered the usual questions, was raised to the 3rd degree, the W.M. giving the traditional history. The 1st and 3rd sections were then worked by Bro. Musto. Lodge was then closed down to the 1st degree, when the 1st section was worked by Bro. Musto. Bro. Smith, the S.W., was unanimously elected W.M. for the following Tuesday and appointed the officers in rotation.

Priory Chapter, No. 1000.—The installation meeting of this flourishing Chapter, and first anniversary of its consecration, was held at the Middleton Hotel, Southend, on Wednesday, the 10th inst. There were present Comps. Rev. S. R. Wigram P.Z. 214, Grand 1st Asst. Soj. M.E.Z., E. E. Phillips H., A. Lucking J., J. C. Johnstone Scribe E., S. R. Weston Treas., J. A. Wardell Prin. Soj., Jas. Willing jun. and T. W. Gower Asst. Sojs., J. R. Hemmann, F. V. Jillings, E. Judd, W. Pissey, P. Cantor, T. Williams, H. H. Child, J. Wiseman; Visitor, Comp. Rev. — Skelton P.Z. 214. The Chapter having been opened and the Companions admitted, the minutes of the last Convocation were read and confirmed. Four candidates for exaltation were balloted for and unanimously elected. Bros. F. Wood P.M. 1000 and F. Calcroft 197, being present, were duly exalted to this supreme degree, the ceremony being impressively performed by the M.E.Z., Comps. H. and J. giving the symbolical and historical lectures. The Principals were then installed for the ensuing year, viz.—Comps. E. E. Phillips M.E.Z., A. Lucking H., J. A. Wardell J. The following officers were invested—Comps. J. C. Johnstone Scribe E., W. Pissey Scribe N., S. R. Weston Treas., Jas. Willing jun. Prin. Soj., T. W. Gower 1st A.S., Rev. H. J. Hatch 2nd A.S., J. R. Hemmann D.C., E. Judd and F. V. Jillings Stewards, Mountain Janitor. The report of the audit committee, which was favourable, was received and adopted. The M.E.Z., in the name of the Chapter, then presented the I.P.Z., Comp. Rev. S. R. Wigram, with a handsome P.Z.'s jewel, in recognition of his invaluable services as the first M.E.Z. of the Priory Chapter, and also congratulated him on the high office to which he had been appointed in the Supreme Grand Chapter. The Chapter was duly closed and the Companions adjourned to banquet. The usual Loyal and R.A. toasts were given, and duly honoured. Comp. Rev. S. R. Wigram returned thanks for the Officers of Grand Chapter, and Comp. Rev. — Skelton for the Visitors. The Janitor's toast brought the proceedings to a close, after a very pleasant and instructive meeting.

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 10th May, at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present—Bros. J. T. Freeman W.M., Margrett S.W., Welch J.W., Ivey P.M. Secretary, Strangeon Treasurer, Flanagan S.D., Bailey acting J.D., Dowsett Organist, Furgeson and Newman Stewards, Danks I.G., Hemmings Tyler, P.M.'s Bros. Brown, Chancellor, Eggeton, Hurley, and ten members. Business—The minutes of the last regular Lodge were read and confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and Bro. Henry Creed passed to the degree of F.C. The Lodge was resumed in the first degree. A very interesting and animated discussion arose upon a notice of motion by the S.W. "That a vote of £31 10s for the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, passed at the last regular Lodge meeting, be rescinded; as due notice was not given to the brethren on the agenda." On a division this was carried by a majority of one, upon which Bro. Brown P.M. gave notice of motion, "That the sum of thirty guineas, from the Lodge Funds, be applied to the list of the Chaplain, who will represent the Lodge as Steward at the forthcoming Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys." It is understood that there will be a unanimous vote for this at the Lodge meeting in June, which will be in time for the Festival. The Lodge was then closed.

Perfect Ashlar Lodge, No. 1178.—An emergency meeting of the Lodge was held at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Bros. J. A. Smith W.M., W. Batchelor S.W., T. W. Lover J.W., F. H. Cusworth P.M. Treasurer, F. Walters P.P.G.P. Middlesex, Secretary, P. Gerbert S.D., J. Stock J.D., J. Porter D.C., G. J. Grace P.M., J. H. Harmsworth P.M. The Lodge was opened, and Bros. F. Shaw, J. E. Fenwick, D. Murdoch, E. Harmans, and W. Hancock, were raised to the 3rd degree; Bros. J. Quincey, G. Williamson, E. Bridges, F. W. Stump, and T. Clark were passed to the 2nd degree, and Messrs. F. Briggs, A. Barnes, C. M. Whipp, J. Wakelin, and E. T. Attlage were initiated into the Order. It was unanimously resolved that a summer festival take place. The Lodge was then closed, and slight refreshments followed. The Visitors were Bros. J. F. P. Woosey, late 1826, J. Hooper 1314, E. Mallet J.W. 141, J. W. Adams 765, E. W. Devereux S.D. 1423, G. S. Wincle P.M. 148, P. Magee J.D. 548, J. Shipley 30, and C. J. Jones 829.

Eclectic Lodge, No. 1201.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on the 15th inst. at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. J. M. Watts W.M., E. J. Harty, S.W., Taylor J.W., H. Mander P.M. Treas., Watts P.M. Sec., Saul S.D., Richardson as J.D., Lloyd as I.G., and Lee as Organist; Bros. Dobbing, Walker, Grey, Semenoetzky, Storm, and Dr. Lloyd. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. J. G. Rush, Newton, and Driver were raised to the 3rd degree. Bros. Egan and Brooks were raised to the 2nd degree, and Messrs. Green, C. H. Brandon, and A. Benaor (an Arabian) were initiated into the Order. Bros. I. and J. Botibol, No. 188, were elected joining members. The initiation fee was raised to £10 10s, and the joining fee to £5 5s. Bro. E. J. Harty S.W. gave a notice of motion that the Worshipful Master, Senior and Junior Wardens for the time being be endowed annually with the sum of £10 10s, to enable them, in the name of the Lodge, to become Life Governors of the three Masonic Charities. Bro. E. J. Harty S.W. proposed, and Bro. Dobbing seconded—That an address be forwarded to H. R. H. The Prince of Wales M.W.G.M. on his safe return to his native country, and the happy and successful results of his journey, and that the Secretary, be desired to communicate the same to the Grand Secretary to be forwarded to H.R.H. This was carried unanimously. Two propositions were handed in for initiation. The working throughout was unexceptionable, and the Lodge was closed. There was no banquet, as this Lodge only has one on the Installation meeting, the surplus funds being devoted to the Masonic Charities.

Burdett Coutts Lodge of Instruction.—On Friday, the 12th inst., the members held their usual weekly meeting, at 8 o'clock. Bros. Ashburner W.M., Allen S.W., Hugh Cotter J.W., Livermore S.D., Wallington J.D., Peal I.G., Chitson Secretary. Lodge opened with the usual preliminaries; first degree was worked, Bro. J. K. Pitt acting as candidate. Lodge opened in second degree, and Bro. Fairbank was passed. Lodge resumed to the first degree, and the 3rd and 4th sections of first lecture were worked by the W.M., assisted by the brethren. Bro. G. W. Verry, who formerly acted as Preceptor to this good working Lodge, was asked to resume that position, and to this request he kindly consented. The brethren are satisfied all labour will prosper in his hands, and in this we heartily concur.

Era Lodge, No. 1423.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on the 13th inst., at the King's Arms Hotel, Hampton. Bros. J. Baxter Langley W.M., E. H. Thiellay P.G.A.G.P. Middlesex S.W., T. J. Sabine P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex, Treasurer J.W., F. Walters P.P.G.P. Middlesex, Secretary, E. W. Devereux S.D., S. Wolff J.D., H. Faija, C.E., as I.G., E. W. Mackney P.M. The Lodge was opened, and Mr. T. E. Heeman was initiated by the W.M., by whose courtesy Brother J. W. Baldwin passed Bros. Beckwith and Wingate, and raised Bro. A. Rolington. The Lodge was then closed, and refreshments followed. The visitors were Bros. J. W. Smith 447, R. Griggs W.M. 228, H. A. Hart 1339, and F. Fisher 624.

Addiscombe Lodge, No. 1556.—A regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Saturday last, the 13th inst., at the Alma Tavern, Addiscombe. Present—Bros. S. J. Turquand W.M., Mullett S.W., J. Parsons Smith J.W., Masterman P.M. Treasurer, Frances P.M. P.G.S.D. Secretary, Gray S.D., Pitt J.D., L. Turquand I.G., Carpenter D.C., Lambert W.S., and several other brethren. Visitors—Bros. J. Beare 493, Dr. Dixon and Green 890. Bros. Beare, Cooper, Chumley and Fees were duly passed to the second degree. All Masonic business ended, twenty-three brethren sat down to an excellent repast, which was provided by the worthy hostess.

Sir Hugh Middelton Lodge, No. 1602.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge, which was lately consecrated, met at the Agricultural Hall, Islington. Bros. E. Somers W.M., E. G. Sim S.W., G. J. Jounbs J.W., J. Osborn Secretary, J. Weston Treasurer, A. F. Rowley S.D., F. Allen J.D., W. Norris D.C., W. F. Poulton Steward, J. G. Glover I.G., H. De Solla Organist, Steedman Tyler, and Bros. Lee and Dyer 45. The Lodge was opened, and Messrs. S. Rowley, H. Oppenheim, W. Payne, R. G. Thomas, and H. Bevis, who had been previously balloted for, were duly initiated into the Order. Bros. J. Crooker 1489, H. Field 1489, T. Upward 487, and W. A. Dawson 820, were elected joining members. The Lodge was then closed. The next meeting will take place on 29th May. The brethren then sat down to very excellent cold collation, provided by Bro. Sawyer. The W.M. gave the usual toasts. Bro. Lee proposed the toast of the W.M. The newly initiated brethren severally responded. The Wardens and Officers toasts were given, and the harmony of the evening was enlivened by the excellent singing of Bros. A. De Solla, Upward and Sim, and by a very capital recitation from Bro. Dyer.

East Sussex Lodge of Mark Masons.—The annual meeting and Installation was held on Tuesday last, at the Castle Hotel, Hastings. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. C. W. Dake P.G.A.D.C. Sussex, was installed W.M. and invested as his officers Bros G. Maces of Heathfield S.W., C. M. Norris of St. Leonards J.W., Dr. Cruncher of Hastings P.G.O. M.O., C. Ashenden S.O., T. H. Cole J.O., S. F. Cave P.G.C. Chaplain, G. Wellard Treasurer, J. Dorman Registrar of Marks, Dr. Trollope G.D.C. P.M. Secretary, T. H. Wadd S.D., R. J. Reed J.D., Rositer I.G. The Lodge was closed, and the brethren partook of a very excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Gore, the worthy host. The usual toasts were given and duly responded to. Bro. Kirkham was unable to be present from indisposition, and among those present were Bros. F. Binckes G.S. of England, Dr. Cunningham V.W.D.P. G.M., Wood of Brighton, and G. Smith W.M. of Lodge 76 Brighton, and several brethren from London, Brighton, Eastbourne and the surrounding neighbourhood.

Digitized by Google

THE THEATRES, &c.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—This evening, RIGOLETTO. On Monday, LES HUGUENOTS. On Tuesday, IAN HAUSER. On Wednesday, ROMEO E GIULIETTA. On Thursday, GUGLIELMO TELL. On Friday, LE NOZZE DI FIGARO. On Saturday, LA TRAVIATA. Each evening at 8.30. FLORAL HALL CONCERT this day.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA, DRURY LANE.—This evening, and Thursday, ROBERT LE DIABLE. On Monday, NORMA. On Tuesday, FAUST. On Saturday, SEMIRAMIDE. At 8.30 each evening, O Mirolar morning, and Wednesday and Friday evenings, SIGNOR ROSSI in ITALIAN PLAYS.

QUEEN'S.—At 8.30, SALVINI as OTHELLO. Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

LYCEUM.—At 7.30, NATURE AND PHILOSOPHY. At 8.30, RICHELIEU. On Monday, THE BELLS.

ADELPHI.—At 7.0, COLLEEN BAWN and STRUCK OIL.

PRINCESS'S.—ABEL DRAKE, &c.

HAYMARKET.—At 7.30, THE HUNCHBACK, &c.

STRAND.—At 7.30, HIS LAST LEGS. At 9.0, L'AFRICAINE. At 10.30, THE RIVAL OTHELLOS.

GAIETY.—At 7.45, BLUE DEVILS. At 8.30, MY AWFUL DAD. At 10.20 COOL AS A CUCUMBER.

CHARING CROSS.—At 8.0, PAMPERED MENIALS. At 8.45, THE GUILTY GOVERNESS. At 9.45, YOUNG RIP VAN WINKLE.

OLYMPIC.—At 7.30, FASCINATING FELLOWS. At 7.45, THE GASCON. At 10.30, UNDER A VEIL.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—At 8.0, OURS.

ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE.—At 7.30, THE TAILOR MAKES THE MAN. At 9.15, 20.

GLOBE.—At 7.30, SQUARING THE CIRCLE. At 8.0, MISS GWILT, &c.

VAUDEVILLE.—At 7.30, A WHIRLIGIG. At 8.0, OUR BOYS, and a FEARFUL FOG.

COURT.—At 8.0, A SCRAP OF PAPER, and A QUIET RUBBER.

ST. JAMES'S.—NOTHING TO NURSE, and THE SULTAN OF MOCHA.

OPERA COMIQUE.—LE PETITE MARIE.

CRITERION.—At 8.0, MARY'S SECRET, and THE GREAT DIVORCE CASE, &c.

ALHAMBRA.—LE VOYAGE DANS LA LUNE, &c.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.—This day GUY MANNERING, VENETIAN FETE, &c. On Tuesday, PONY RACES. On Wednesday, L'ARCHIDUC. Open Daily, BROKKMANN'S CIRCUS, SKATING RINK, &c.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—This day, THE GREAT DIVORCE CASE. Open daily, AQUARIUM, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL AQUARIUM SUMMER AND WINTER GARDEN. Open daily. CONCERT, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL POLYTECHNIC.—MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT, entitled ALICE'S ADVENTURES. Solos on the Violin and Zobo. NEW LECTURE: A SUNBEAM, and HOW TO WEIGH IT. HEINKE'S DIVING DRESS and SUBMARINE LAMP. The New Type Writer in operation. FROM ENGLAND TO PHILADELPHIA. A TRIP TO THE SUEZ CANAL. Dissolving Views and Mechanical Effects. MARVELLOUS ILLUSIONS BY M. HORACE DE GREY. Open from 12 till 5, and 7 till 10. Admission to the whole, 1s.

EGYPTIAN (LARGE) HALL.—MASKELYNE AND COOKE, daily at 3.0 and 8.0.

The Freemason's Chronicle.

WEEKLY, PRICE THREEPENCE.

OFFICE:—67 BARBICAN, LONDON, E.C.

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE can be ordered of any Bookseller in Town or Country, but should any difficulty be experienced, it will be forwarded direct from the Office, on receipt of Post Office Order for the amount. Intending Subscribers should forward their full Addresses to prevent mistakes.

Post Office Orders to be made payable to W. W. MORGAN, at Barbican Office. Cheques crossed "London and County."

The Terms of Subscription (payable in advance) to THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE are—

Twelve Months, Post Free	...	...	£0 13 6
Six Months	ditto	...	... 0 7 0
Three Months	ditto	...	... 0 3 6

Agents, from whom Copies can always be had:—

Messrs. CURTICE and Co., 12 Catherine Street, Strand.
Mr. T. DRISCOLL, 67 Farringdon Street.
Mr. G. W. JORDAN, 189 Strand.
Messrs. MARSHALL and SONS, 125 Fleet Street, E.C.
Mr. M. J. PARKINSON, 114 Goswell Road, E.C.
Mr. H. SIMPSON, 7 Red Lion Court, E.C.
Messrs. SMITH and SONS, 183 Strand.
Messrs. SPENCER and Co., 33A Great Queen Street, W.C.
Messrs. STEEL and JONES, 4 Spring Gardens, Charing Cross.
Mr. G. VICKERS, Angel Court, 172 Strand.
Mr. H. VICKERS, 317 Strand.

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisers will find THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE an exceptionally good medium for Advertisements of every class.

Per Page...	£8	0	0
Back Page	£10	0	0

General Advertisements, Trade Announcements, &c. single column, 6s per inch. Double Column Advertisements 1s per line. Special Terms for a Series of insertions on application.

Births, Marriages and Deaths, 6d per line.

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief PARISIAN ESTABLISHMENTS, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE,

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.

It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face,
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 6d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the worst instance of long-standing cases.—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

MR. THOMAS C. MACROW,

252 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD,
LONDON, S.E.

(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)

BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let quickly and quickly (Town or Country). All parties wishing to sell, call or send full particulars. Rental given for. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 2. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c. TAMAR (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—2s 6d per box, post free 34 stamps.—E. GRILLON, 34 Coleman-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

New Edition, Enlarged, Crown 8vo., Cloth 5s.

WAIFS AND STRAYS, CHIEFLY FROM THE CHESS BOARD, by Captain Hugh A. Kennedy, Vice-President of the British Chess Association.

[LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN.

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,

Bro. J. L. MATHER, P.M. 65, 1337, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Winchester street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

YOUNG'S Arnicated Corn and Bunion Plasters are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d and 1s per box. Any Chemist not having them in stock can procure them.

Observe the Trade Mark—H. Y.—without which none are genuine. Be sure and ask for Young's.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY.—A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a simple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.

Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Grove Terrace, Fulham London.

Digitized by Google

SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

ESTABLISHED 1833.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,
MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,
AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING
Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.
MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;
AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.
ESTIMATES GIVEN.

JOSEPH J. CANEY,

DIAMOND MERCHANT, AND MANUFACTURING JEWELLER AND WATCH MAKER,
44 CHEAPSIDE, LONDON.
MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND FURNITURE.
Specialité—First Class Jewels—Artistic—Massive—Best Quality—Moderate in Price.
CATALOGUES POST FREE.
A LARGE STOCK OF LOOSE BRILLIANTS FOR EXPENSIVE JEWELS.
Diamond Rings, Brooches, Studs, Earrings and Bracelets in Great Variety.

NEW MASONIC SONGS.

"THE PRINCE AND THE CRAFT," Written by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, 1385. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON.

"THE APRON BLUE." Written by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, 1385. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH (NETT), FREE BY POST.

London: W. W. MORGAN, Office of the "Freemason's Chronicle," 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

THE "SPECIALITE SHERRY."

FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT.—The British Medical Journal.

VALUABLE FOR GOUTY OR URIC ACID TENDENCIES."—Dr. HASSWICKER, Metropolitan Analyst, Coroner for Middlesex.

ADOPTED AND RECOMMENDED BY nearly 3,000 Physicians and Surgeons for its Valuable Dietetic Qualities. 36s per dozen.

FELTOE & SONS, Sole Proprietors and Importers, Chief Establishment, Albemarle-street, London, W.

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,
INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (Regd.)

"Bro. ADLARD'S far famed JEWEL ATTACHER, from its simplicity and accessibility, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price is 6d, 1/- with pockets for Jewels 6d each pocket extra; places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and usefulness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Lodge Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,
Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8. No. 47 for MAY, now ready. Sixpence. CHESS, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE DRAMA.
W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES.
Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE
(a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.
This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

"There should be a better reason for the race of Depositors than a fluctuating rate of two or three per cent."—DERBYSHIRE GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited), Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City; and 217 and 218 Regent-street, W., Established 1840, receives Deposits. On Demand, 1 per cent. Subject to Notice, 2½ per cent. Opens Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to examine this new and improved system, that ensures a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-discounted or re-hypothecated any of the securities. To BORROWERS.—It offers pre-eminent advantages for private advances on leases, reversions, policies, trade stocks, bills, produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, fuss, or fees. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 217 and 218 Regent-street, W. Established 1840. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. To INVESTORS.—Deposits received at liberal interest. The Directors by market economy have hitherto paid every investor 10 and 15 per cent. per annum. Borrowers are offered optional facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. New and Special Feature.—The Society will build Houses, etc., in any approved part of Great Britain, finding the whole cost of the building, at 5 per cent., repayable by instalments, the applicant merely finding the plan and paying or giving security for the first 6 years' interest. Prospectuses, balance-sheets, and press opinions free. Active Agents wanted. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

Digitized by Google

A SEARCH FOR LIGHT.

SOME people have a weakness for giving reasons in spite of the dictum once uttered, we believe, to a jury by an eminent judge. Others are equally ready to make admissions. We strive, as far as in us lies, to avoid either of these weaknesses, but we feel it incumbent on us, at this moment, to admit three things: (a.) the early history of Masonry is a marvellous concatenation of myths; (b.) a faithful history of our Order has yet to be written; (c.) whoever undertakes that task will meet with obstacles well nigh insuperable, for the materials for such a chronicle are difficult to get at. Much has been done of late years. We are gradually arriving at a correct appreciation of the terrible disorder in which all that relates to the career of Freemasonry is involved. We are beginning to see the necessity for drawing a line somewhere between the beauties of fiction and the realities of fact. The latest researches show that prior to the last two or three centuries, there is not even the smallest shred of a skin of parchment which can possibly throw light upon our history. There may have existed such, but there is no satisfactory evidence of its existence. There may have been antediluvian pillars, with all the secrets of Masonry inscribed thereon, but there is no authentic evidence of there having been any, nor do they now exist. Geologists, perhaps, might tell us if Masonic memorials are ever found in the earth's strata, in the shape of pre-historic asses-skins, or whatever was in use in those extremely remote ages, but no such evidence is forthcoming. Occasionally we read of wonderful stones, with Masons' marks on them, being found on desert islands; and straightway, some painstaking sciolist writes an elaborate paper for the purpose of proving that Masonry has existed always from the period of the Creation, and everywhere, even in parts which no human being ever visited till lately. It is said that given a single bone, and the learned Professor Owen will compose a skeleton that shall be complete in all its parts and correctly representative of some early member of the animal kingdom. Our Masonic historians have achieved even greater wonders. They have traced a circumstantial history of Freemasonry from the Creation till now, with not a single particle of evidence to guide them for the first five thousand six hundred years or thereabouts. Latterly, we repeat, we have begun to see the folly of all this assumption. We are rather more inclined than we were to be curious about the nature and authenticity of the evidence that is brought under our notice. We have something in us of the critic, and are careful not too readily to jump at conclusions. We no longer assume as indisputable facts what exists or has existed only in the exuberant imagination of our fellows, past or present. We analyse a little. We are still as circumstantial as ever, but the circumstances we appeal to, or rely upon, are, or have been, existent. We know the moral system which Freemasonry propounds has always endured since Communities were first formed, but we no longer clothe it in all the paraphernalia of a specious history. We are content with a comparatively brief existence as an organised society. We have no reason to doubt that similarly organised societies of men existed before ours, their object being the same as ours, namely: the teaching and tradition of pure morals. We may even venture to assert a connection, traceable through succeeding ages, and in different countries, between the ethical system of the earliest sages of Egypt and India, and that of the speculative Masons of the last two or three centuries. But while we we are becoming daily mo
the wonderful history whi have so elaborately buil ashamed, in these practica
our Grand Master Ada
Master Solomon, and the Hence some few among examined such records a one brother—such as Bro
a history which may com societies. Others again, their efforts within narr collect whatever they c materials, on which to fo any that has yet been Union is one of the most of the day. It is impossi labour by the result that is his book. To mention onl it contains; presented in to the eye the idea that necessary in its compila recorded in that list had considering the meagrene of the material he must this list of Lodges shou bered and dated. But wh records much, it leaves m
the dates of constitutio Lodges that held under it was commonly known ment we publish elsewhe that we invite the co-ope
as far as possible, this Roll may become a com and spread of Masonry th and possessions, from the desire to have furnished
Warrants granted by th copies would be not onl valuable information whi on to the discovery of o with our history during or so. And once the inq limit to the information members of such Lodges further researches; and m and of a perfectly authe which some such industri
Hughan may find it poss existing records, to the al of Masonry. We trust, these copies, and whatev interest, will meet with a ren who have it in their how small the contributi may be able to offer, it w to us who prefer the req
time and a desire to mas
the crooked and somewh
Nor in England only with gladness. The ent great among American brother has already pub
most accurate histories
Craftsman we are indeb

Digitized by Google

though its scope is certainly more limited than Bro. Findel's. These and such as these will be interested in the progress of this work, and will assuredly benefit by the knowledge it may evoke. To show, indeed, how desirable it is our request should find favour with the Masonic public, we need only draw attention to the marvellous discovery made some short time since by a Masonic Journal in the United States, to wit, the Square of New York, if our memory serves us aright. That estimable journal appears to have found out that Albion Lodge of Quebec was the first Lodge constituted in America, having been chartered in 1721. Bro. Jacob Norton, however, in the Keystone for the 29th ultimo, points out that the earliest Quebec Lodge on the roll of Grand Lodge England in 1814, just after the Union had taken place, was Lodge 17, "Royal Artillery," formerly Lodge No. 9 "Ancients," that no ancient Lodge could have been chartered before 1752 or 1753, that this Lodge appears between two Lodges warranted in 1722, and he makes, what appears to us a very feasible suggestion, namely, that the compiler of the London Calendar concluded that Lodge 17 was also warranted the same year, which, if reckoned according to the old style, might be 1721. It is difficult to understand how the Square could have committed itself to such a statement, unless it is prepared to prove that a Lodge, whose existence no single Masonic writer of any standing makes mention of, was chartered in 1721, in a French Colony, and before ever there was a Grand Lodge in Paris, and that this Lodge and the present Lodge Albion of Quebec are one and the same. In either case a copy of the charter would be invaluable. It is not a little singular that Lodge No. 19, "R. Athelstan," formerly No. 10, of the "Ancients," is set down in Grand Lodge Calendar for this year as having been constituted in "1769," between "Old Dundee," dated 1722, and "R. Kent Lodge of Antiquity," Chatham, dated 1723. Thus, if Albion Lodge Quebec, "formerly No. 17, E.R." were constituted in 1721, it cannot have been an Ancient Lodge, and Bro. Hughan's Roll of Lodges is incorrect. On the other hand, if Bro. Hughan is right, and the Lodge "formerly No. 17 E.R." were No. 9 of the Ancients, then it cannot have been chartered in 1721 by a Grand Lodge which did not come into being till some thirty years later. The production of the Charter would at once set this difficulty at rest.

Having published copies of all the Ancient Lodge Warrants, we shall pursue the work still further, and to that end crave the assistance of other Lodges who hold under Grand Lodge "Moderns." How far we shall be able to pursue this matter, clearly rests, not with us, but with Masters of Lodges, on whose kind co-operation we must rely for any good service we may be able to render to the cause of historical research. But how little soever we may be able to achieve, we shall at least have the satisfaction of knowing that it will supply an omission in Bro. Hughan's Roll, and be of eminent use in the compilation of the History of our English Lodges which Bro. Spencer has it in contemplation to publish.

MASONIC PORTRAITS (No. 29.)

A SHINING LIGHT.

"From the arched roof,
Pendant by subtle magic, many a row
Of starry lamps and blazing cressets
Yielded light as from a sky."

THE cry of the wise and thoughtful has ever been for more light; for light to lighten our mental darkness, for a wider diffusion of the rays of the lamp of truth. It was the cry of Socrates, who sought to illumine some portion of that dark and dreary road which leads from this world to the unknowable regions beyond the grave. How little nearer we are to a complete solution of the problems which he propounded the present condition of the world of thought amply testifies. "Infinite Providence," exclaims Jean Paul Richter, "Thou wilt cause the day to dawn, but as yet struggles the twelfth hour of the night; the nocturnal birds of prey are on the wing, spectres appear, the dead walk, the living dream." We are but little nearer to a complete solution of the problems of existence and of evil, than were the Greeks who discussed them with the great sage under the porticoes of Athens. The realm of positive science has been widened, but the domain of metaphysics remains as narrow as ever. We have conquered Nature, and the great works of man are altering the physical features of the globe. Railways, steam navigation, gas-lighting, and the telegraph are rapidly changing the very aspect of civilisation, and the engineer is in these days the mighty magician whose fiat moves or levels the hills, and provides us with safe and swift vehicles of communication over the stormy ocean. His level and his measuring chain are mightier far in their influence than the wand of the greatest of the enchanters of Arabian story. He knows no difficulty which may not be conquered by Money, that omnipotent deity before whose throne the proudest bend and worship. Accustomed to deal with the rude forces of nature, and with such tools as algebra affords him, it would not be at all wonderful if the engineers of modern times should possess little of the imaginative faculty. Yet it does not always follow that the mental giants who score so deep a mark in the world are deficient in the higher powers of the intellect; one of the greatest ship builders modern society has ever seen wrote, some years since, a volume of poems, which contains some really charming lines. Each of us in his own sphere has met with men of science who were not merely conversant superficially with elegant literature, but deeply versed in all that appertains to the great domain of letters. A man of great powers of mind can rarely permit his faculties to run in one groove. The man of genius has many sides to his mental nature, and is equally at home in his own special domain, or in those where pedants might regard him as an interloper.

We have before our mental vision the face and form of a brother who has made some mark in the world of engineering. The features are characteristic of the calling of their owner. The perceptive faculties are very largely developed, determination is prominent about the mouth and chin, in spite of the disguise of a beard and moustache, and the eye, which is clear and full, denotes a mind that readily dives to the pith and marrow of any question within his province which may be submitted to his judgment. He comes of an old Swedish family, but his great grandfather settled long since in this country, and our brother is an Englishman by birth, sentiment and disposition. He was born in the county of Surrey, in the year 1820 or 21, and at the age of eighteen was articled to Geddie Pearse, Esq., Engineer in Chief to the British Gas Light Company, which, at that time, had gas works in London as well as in the provinces. Under the able tuition of his distinguished teacher, our brother mastered the difficulties of his arduous calling, and in due time was admitted to the ranks of the profession. Since the termination of the period of his noviciate he has been closely and continuously connected with gas lighting enterprise. From the year 1846 to 1850 he was engaged in the task of lighting the city of Hamburgh; in 1855 he was appointed secretary and manager of the Crystal Palace District Gas Company, and now holds the former office alone. In the year 1856 he was admitted an Associate of the Institution of Civil Engineers, he is Past President of the British Association of Gas Managers, and is, like many of the members of his profession, connected with several learned societies.

His Masonic career commenced in 1861, when he was initiated in the Britannic Lodge, No. 33, most of the present members of which have been introduced to the Order through his instrumentality. He resuscitated the Frederick Lodge of Unity, No. 452, in the Province of Surrey, and restored the Chapter to its proper functions. He is a P.M. and P.Z., and now holds office as Secretary to the former, and Scribe E. to the latter. He is a P.P.G.J.W. of Surrey, a P.M.M. and Treasurer of the Bon Accord Lodge of M.M.M. and P.G.M. Overseer of the Grand Lodge of M.M.M., a member of the Permanent Council of Grand Mark Lodge, a K.T., and member of the 31°. The Frederick Lodge of Unity, now numbering forty-six subscribing members, which has for some years sent a Steward to all the Festivals of our Charities, presented him some years since with a P.M. jewel, as a slight token of the high esteem of his brethren. It was the first jewel ever given by the Lodge, and it now shines on his breast amid many brilliant decorations which he has won by steady application to Masonic duties. He has recently identified himself, as Founder, with the Ravensbourne Lodge, No. 1691, held at Catford. The Lodge was consecrated in April last, and with his aid and guidance it promises to be as flourishing as any of those upon which he has expended his energies.

Digitized by Google

He is a Life Governor of all the Charities, to whose welfare he is devoted, and considers no portion of his valuable time better employed than that which he gives to aid in their growing prosperity. In addition to his labours in the cause of Masonic benevolence, he is an active friend of the local charities of the district in which he resides, and is a prominent supporter of the Society that has been established for the benefit of the employés of the Gas Companies. In the outer world he is greatly respected, as a sincere and straightforward man; and in the Craft his word is his bond, from which he never swerves. In social life he is a cheerful companion, and dispenses a princely hospitality both at home and to the brethren. He is fond of music, possesses a fine voice, and can sing a good song in the style of an accomplished amateur. His Masonic reputation is not merely local, and his claims to consideration are of so high a character that we should not be surprised to see him, ere long, arrayed in the purple of Grand Lodge. A life of high integrity and a Masonic career of singular brilliancy would thus receive its fitting reward. Many lesser men have been admitted within the charmed circle. Few more intelligent or more energetic have adorned it.

EAST, WEST AND SOUTH.

BY A WANDERING FREEMASON.

IX.

"BY Jove! what an extraordinary beast! Why, his stern's higher than his head," said the Duke of Edinburgh, standing in the court-yard to inspect the choice of horses, which I had collected by borrowing from the principal residents, for the use of himself and suite at Wednesday's review. They were not, however, all thus peculiarly constructed, and he proceeded to mount and gallop each in turn round the inclosure, flourishing a sabre round their heads for the purpose of testing their respective tempers and aptitude.

The review was to commence at 4 p.m. On mounting the staircase at 2.30, I perceived a figure in scarlet uniform sitting with crossed legs at a table in the ante-room. On approaching, it appeared to be stuffed, and was arranged in a most natural attitude, with a cigar between the fingers of its distended glove. Champagne and cigars were on the table beside it. Glancing along the corridor, I saw that the Duke and a number of his officers were still seated in the breakfast-room, so took a glass, lighted a cigar, and sat down at a window behind the lay-figure, whence I could see into the street. Footsteps were soon heard, as more officers from the "Galatea" ascended the staircase. The foremost, who seemed somewhat short-sighted, on planting his foot in the corridor (which was in full view of the breakfast-room) raised his hat and advanced towards the lay-figure with a low bow. Suddenly there pealed out screams of laughter, as the breakfast-party headed by the Duke, came rushing tumultuously to the spot, surrounding the new comer and rallying him merrily on his having so readily fallen into the trap. There were the Hon. Elliot Yorke, Lieutenant Haig, Lord Charles Beresford, with, if I remember aright, the Hon. A. G. Curzon and Lieutenant Ramsay. The victim of the joke was, I think, Commander Adams, and all seemed, in their sailors' high spirits, to enjoy it as much as schoolboys let out to play.

The time was come for the review. Yorke and Haig both donned the scarlet (other military men were also of the suite) and the Duke appeared in the uniform of Colonel of a Volunteer Artillery Corps, his bearskin being regarded by the natives as the state head-dress of English royalty.

The procession passed through dense crowds, attracted to the scene. The troops reviewed consisted of some 3,500 infantry, cavalry and artillery, who were made to appear doubly numerous by the simple expedient of causing them, after passing the stand, to double round by a back road, joining in again behind the line, in time to be reviewed a second time. Too close a scrutiny was not made into this manœuvre, nor into the flint-locks and other old-fashioned accoutrements of some of the native troops. On our way back we were distressed to find Haig prancing amidst a crowd of admirers, he having had the misfortune to mount the "extraordinary beast," which had stuck fast half-way, and refused to see the review at all. He joined in the return, however, and was persuaded to accompany the cortège of courtesy which escorted the Governor from the Duke's house to the palace.

In the evening, a ball was given by our countrymen, in the theatre, which had been re-decorated and converted into a fine suite of saloons, with a delightfully cool supper-room open to the river, to which the opposite shore, with its winding row of brilliantly illuminated houses, made a fairy-like background. Few prettier spectacles can be imagined. The rippling reflections cast on the broad surface of the water by long lines of architectural illumination contrasted with the sky above, upon which the stars and rising moon seemed natural continuations of the display that man's artifice had begun. The ball was graced by a most gratifying array of female beauty, and the officers of the Galatea had no lack of partners. The arrangements had been made regardless of expense, and the handful of British residents (under fifty) certainly distinguished themselves. I saw M. Chevalier busy with his pencil, depicting the special features of the scene. The guests numbered about 1,500, and the ladies were all dressed in the costume peculiar to the country, abounding in contrast and gorgeous variety of colour, called the Mestiza, or saya dress. When made of Piña (a native fabric nearly resembling "woven wind") this costume is very costly, and rivals that of the most outrageous Parisian modiste. Though not to be compared with the masses of diamonds which may be seen adorning fair wearers in some ball rooms of the West, there was, nevertheless, a good display of rich jewellery. It is still the custom in that remote dependency for the accumulators of wealth to endeavour to invest it in the most concentrated and portable form, exclusive of the facilities of shares and banks, which they hold in the utmost suspicion. But the method at once of hoarding and ostentation which finds most favour is, not the display of riches upon the person, but the establishment in their private oratories of images of the Virgin, which they load with diamonds from head to foot, and which confer a certain prestige upon the possessors.

The native goldsmiths have a narrow but fine taste in gold work, chiefly displayed in the execution of Rosaries of ornamental gold beads and coral; ear-rings, brooch and finger rings to match are "the correct thing" for Manila belles. On this occasion their attire was somewhat modified to suit European prejudices, but their usual clothing consists of: 1st—Skirts fastened tightly round the waist. 2nd—A loose chemise or boddice of "woven wind" extending from neck to waist, loose at the base, and having no attachment to the skirt: through this the body is plainly visible as through a gauze veil, and the partner's arm in the dance can hardly fail to shift under this frail loose covering on to the skin itself. 3rd—A kerchief of light material round the neck and covering the shoulders. 4th—A pair of heelless slippers, which the little toes grasp outside, to keep them on. The sleeves of the chemise descend to the elbow, opening gradually into a wide frill; the slippers, which in the mazes of dancing are continually getting lost and hunted for (leaving the wearer's foot bare on the floor) are generally embroidered in gold. It may be imagined that this attire, even with civilised modifications, does not set well on a European lady, whilst in the close boddice and stays of the latter the Philippine belle would look equally awkward and ungainly.

At 11 p.m. a fine display of fireworks was given on the river, visible from the balconies. Conspicuous was an enormous device, "Alfredo," with a brilliant crown, over the flags of England and Spain in saltire. One mishap occurred through some unintentional disregard of etiquette, which resulted in the Lieutenant Governor and Commander-in-Chief marching out indignantly from the supper-room. When the banquet was over, H.R.H. thanked his countrymen, and stated that his reception had not anywhere been surpassed in cordiality.

On the morning of Thursday, the Duke gave an official "tiffin;" procession was formed to the landing place and the visitors took farewell of a city the gaiety and enthusiasm of which they certainly could not have imagined beforehand.

I spent a couple of hours on board the Galatea where the Duke detained me for the purpose of shewing th precision of his crew and the instantaneous hoisting on board of the steam-tenders, Acis and Polypheme; after repeated courteous handshaking and farewells, I retired, as said before, with a decided impression that the Captain of H.M.S. Galatea was "every inch a sailor," of whom our Navy could be justly proud.

Digitized by Google

He took away, besides some 50,000 of the best cigars which the Government factories could produce, a number of presents and purchases, in remembrance of his stay. Some deer, which are now in the Zoological Gardens, and a selection of specimens of the beautiful Rogadera or "Euplectella Aspergellum," or Venus' flower-basket, which are now so admired as bracket-ornaments in this country. These sponges are found principally off the island of Cebu, a large bank of them was discovered by divers about the year 1867, which has since been depleted. I believe he also took some specimens of native skill in the item of toothpicks, articles on the elaboration of which, out of soft woods, the untaught skill of the natives exhausts its fanciful fertility. They are considered by them a necessity, not a luxury of life, and at parties it is customary to hand round a tree, whose branches, sprays, buds and leaves are all found, upon being plucked, to be toothpicks with stems or handles of variedly artistic and remarkably fanciful designs. The toothpick, which is modestly kept dark in this country is, throughout Spanish and some other countries, an established institution—a patent fact; even in the United States, if I remember rightly, a stack of them forms a central feature at the hotel dinner table; and in that country, I know, they are made in untold millions out of hickory wood, for exportation.

The foregoing narrative may serve to show the reception and the kind of experience undergone by our Princes on their visits to foreign parts, in a humble way reflecting the routine of the Heir-Apparent's late ovations in British India. As to the veracity of the incidents narrated,—was not a report thereof duly forwarded by me and inserted in the Times Newspaper of January 1870?

WALTER SPENCER.

SCRAPS FROM ABROAD.

We are indebted to Le Monde Maçonnique for the following interesting items of news:—On the 16th ult., the managing body of the Masonic General Orphan Asylum in Paris delivered the report of its financial condition, and of the results which have attended its zealous labours in the cause of beneficence. The institution was founded in 1862, under the Empire, and at the outset of its career was exposed to many perils, which threatened even its existence. But in spite of these it has been enabled, by perseverance, and by the application of that principle of solidarity in which lies the real strength of Masonry, to educate eighty-six children, some of which, having completed the respective terms of their apprenticeships, are already brave workmen. This result has been achieved by means of the funds received into its coffers, and amounting, from its establishment till now, to the sum of 147,000 francs. In the year just ended the receipts, including donations, individual contributions from brethren, proceeds of fêtes, and collections from various sources, reached close upon 20,000 francs, while the disbursements were 17,000 francs. After the delivery of this report the President delivered several savings'-bank books to those of the pupils who had most distinguished themselves, and then followed a splendid concert, at which M. Lucien Collin and Mdlle. Girard, of the Opéra-Comique, Mdlle. Théol, of the Theatre Taitbout, and M. Emile Bourgeois, pianiste, gave their valuable services gratuitously, as did likewise the choral society, Le Louvre, and M. Guillot, a comic actor of high reputation, whose performance evoked immense laughter.

There are thirty-three Lodges in Hungary. Twenty-one—of which six are in Buda-Pesth and fifteen in the provinces—are under the jurisdiction of the Grand Orient, while twelve—three in Buda-Pesth and nine in the provinces—acknowledge the St. John's Grand Lodge. The latter, in addition, has four Lodges in foreign parts.

In announcing with lively satisfaction that the Grand Orient of Egypt has renounced the rite of Memphis, Le Monde Maçonnique considers the resolution does honour to the chiefs of that Masonic body. "True," it adds, "it still retains the thirty-three degrees of the Scotch rite. It is a halt, therefore, half way, but we have every confidence this halt will be only momentary, and that in time the Grand Orient will retain only the three symbolic or Craft degrees, which are the only true Masonic degrees, and outside which there is nought but fantasy, aristocracy, and blameworthy inducements to vanity."

The chiefs of the Egyptian Grand Orient are Bros. Zola 33° Grand Master; de Beauregard 33°, First Assistant Grand Master; and Sciarrone 33°, Second Assistant ditto. These brethren are assisted by a Grand Master's Council, consisting of thirty working members. The Supreme Council of the Scotch Rite has for its Grand Commander Bro. Zola, with Bro. Sciarrone as Lieutenant, and Bro. Oddi as Grand Secretary. Among the higher Lodges are a Consistory, an Areopagus, a Council, a Grand Chapter, and a Chapter. The National Symbolic Grand Lodge has for Grand Masters Bros. Zola, de Beauregard, and Sciarrone, with Bro. Oddi as Secretary. The symbolic Lodges are fourteen in number, and most of them are composed in great measure of Italians.

The quarrel which, ever since 1864, has intervened between the Grand Orients of Colombia and New Grenada is determined.

The first Masonic Lodge, bearing the title of Trabajo y Honradez, was constituted a short time since in Bolivia. It is in the jurisdiction of the Grand Orient of Peru, and already, on 1st January last, numbered thirty-four members.

The death is announced of Bro. Roberts, President of the Republic of Liberia, and formerly Grand Master of Masons in that little State.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

ELECTION OF HOUSE AND AUDIT COMMITTEES, SATURDAY, 3rd JUNE 1876.

We understand that the two brethren nominated as candidates for the House Committee, Bros. Disper and Sanders have withdrawn their candidature, consequently there will be no contested election. For the Audit Committee, there being nominated one in excess of the number required, there will be an election.

The General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Thursday, the 25th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. Col. Creaton P.G.D. in the chair. Bro. Hedges (in the absence of Bro. R. W. Little, the Secretary, through indisposition) read the minutes of the Special House Committee of the 4th April, and the Special Committee of the 25th of May, which were confirmed. After some other business the election for the House and Audit Committees took place, and the Scrutineers gave the following result: For the House Committee—Bros. John Boyd, H. Browse, H. A. Dubois, B. Head, P. De Lande, J. Nunn, Lieut.-Col. J. Peters, J. A. Rucker, Griffiths Smith, A. H. Tattershall, Rev. J. M. Vaughan, and T. W. White. For the Audit Committee—J. G. Chancellor, H. Dicketts, T. Kingston, H. C. Levander, H. M. Levy, J. G. Marsh, J. Nunn, W. Roebuck, and R. B. Webster. Votes of thanks were accorded to the Chairman and the three Scrutineers, Bros. Major Finney, Venn and C. Moutrie. Amongst those present were Bros. H. Browse, T. Cubitt, H. Dicketts, J. Nunn, Col. Peters, Dr. Erasmus Wilson, T. Fenn, J. A. Rucker, Jardine, Young, J. Boyd, Chancellor, H. G. Buss, C. Moutrie, C. Hill, J. M. P. Montagu, J. B. Shackleton, H. Massey, R. W. Stewart, T. Fenn, J. A. Rucker, Hyde Pullen, J. Terry, B. Swallow, W. Paas, J. Baldwin, J. Last, T. Massa, W. Roebuck, J. Smith, R. Berridge, A. D. Loewenstark, J. Filer, T. White, A. H. Tattershall, Major Finney, Captain Wordsworth, T. Bacon, J. T. Moss, F. Binckes, H. M. Levy, &c.

The monthly meeting of the Grand Lodge of Benevolence was held on Wednesday, the 24th instant, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. J. M. Chabon P.G.D. in the chair, the vice chairs being occupied by Bros. J. Rawson D.G.M. China, and J. Brett P.G.P. Grants to the amount of £653 were awarded. There was a numerous attendance of the brethren, including Bros. the R.W. the Earl of Donoughmore S.G.W., W. H. Murlis, W. Stephens, B. Swallow, W. J. Howe, J. Smith, Dr. J. Hogg, Myers, Griffiths Smith, C. J. Hogard, H. A. Dubois, J. B. Webster, Fredk. Binckes, Coulton, Gibson, Somers, J. Pinder, Kench, Rev. J. M. Vaughan, C. A. Cottebrune, J. Wright, S. Foxall, J. Hervey, H. G. Buss, Pendlebury, &c.

Digitized by Google

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

All Letters must bear the name and address of the Writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

—:o:—

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—If you have no other correspondent replying to "A Country P.M." I shall be glad to do so, as I think his letter important, and one that should be fully answered. First, then, let me inform him that the W.M. of a Lodge has the power to carry out the duties of his Office in any way he deems proper, provided it be not contrary to the usages and established customs of the Order, or against the Book of Constitutions. If, however, he commits any breach of the Masonic Law he renders himself liable to impeachment before the Grand Master if a London Lodge, and before the Prov. Grand Master if a Provincial Lodge.

Secondly, it is not the privilege, and certainly not the duty of the I.P.M. (or any other P.M.) to take upon himself any duty when the W.M. is present, unless appointed to that duty by the W.M.

It is the privilege of the I.P.M. to take the chair in the absence of the W.M., and in the absence of both, then the senior P.M., and so through the P.M.'s in seniority; but if the W.M. invites a visiting Brother to perform any of the ceremonies, he has a perfect right to do so, although, out of etiquette, he would no doubt ask the sanction of the P.M.'s, and possibly state his reasons for that course. I have seen this done in Lodges, and have myself, as a visitor, assisted in the ceremonies, and only last week a visiting Brother to a Lodge with which I am connected, at the request of the W.M., performed the ceremony of raising, in a manner not often seen even in the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, to the great gratification of all the members.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

MAGNUS OBREN,

P.P. Grand Jr. Warden for Surrey.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In reply to "A Country P.M.," I beg to say that the Master of a Lodge has the unquestionable right of inviting any qualified Brother to perform the duties of the chair. But it is an act of courtesy to the members of the Lodge for the W.M. to inquire if any Brother has an objection to his wish.

I see, by the report of the Frederick Lodge of Unity, in your last issue, that the W.M. adopted the course referred to above, and he is certainly to be commended for his conduct. Brief as this reply is, I feel it is fully all that need be said.

Yours fraternally,

A LONDON P.M.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Permit me to offer a few remarks in reply to "A Country P.M." in THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE of the 20th inst.

In the Book of Constitutions, p. 78, Clause 6, Edition 1867, are contained the whole law upon the matter in question. We there find "If the Master * * * be incapable of discharging the duties of his office," the S.W., J.W., the I.P.M. or S.P.M. "shall act as Master in summoning the Lodge," and "in the Master's absence the I.P.M., or if he be absent, the S.P.M of the Lodge present shall take the chair." Here note two points, the reference to incapability is limited, in the first instance, to summoning the Lodge, and by whom that duty is to be performed. In the second instance, incapacity caused by absence limits the duties of the chair to the I.P.M. first, and if he is absent, to the S.P.M. of the Lodge present.

The Book of Constitutions does not limit the power and discretion of the W.M. when present. Should he feel himself unable to perform the duties of initiation, passing and raising. He is simply restricted by the paramount duty to provide a legally qualified person to fill the chair for him, and is himself responsible for the proper performance of every ceremony so performed. Courtesy, kindness, brotherly feeling, and due regard to the wishes of the P.M.'s of his Lodge, and the brethren generally, would dictate his offering the honour first to his I.P.M., and in his absence to the S.P.M. present, in preference to inviting an Installed Master not a member of his Lodge.

I can readily conceive such a case arising, as that a special pleasure may be given to a candidate, or to his proposer, or to the Lodge, by asking an Installed Master from another Lodge to perform the ceremony, without being intended to slight or offend the P.M.'s of his own Lodge, and would suggest the possibility of such being so in the Lodge referred to by "A Country P.M."

It is, I fear, often thought by brethren that the W.M. when in the chair can be questioned and influenced by the authority of one or more brethren as to his discharge of the duties of the chair. Bro. Dr. Oliver says, p. 174 "Masonic Jurisprudence," "The Master's authority in the Lodge is despotic as the sun in the firmament." Also, p. 167, "As to placing another qualified brother in the chair, that is beyond the power of the Lodge," so also in the Charge to the Initiate in 1st degree! "So must your obedience be proved * * * by a perfect submission to the Master."

In conclusion, I will quote the words of advice given by Bro. Dr. Oliver bearing on this point, p. 150, "Masonic Jurisprudence," "Such being the power of the W.M., and the entire subordination of the brethren, it will be evident that the greatest care and circumspection ought to be used in the choice of a brother to fill that important office * * * he ought to be trusty, of good repute, skilled in Masonic knowledge, a lover of the Craft, courteous in his manners, and firm in principle."

I fear I may have trespassed too far on your space, but having a sincere desire to help a brother in trouble, I hope you will accept my intention as ample apology; and I remain,

Yours fraternally,

P.P.J.G.W. Staffordshire.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In reply to the question raised in your last issue by "A Country P.M." as to whether a W.M. has "the power to invite any other Installed Master, not a Member of the Lodge, to perform" the ceremonies of initiation, passing, and raising "for him, when his I.P.M. and several other P.M.'s (all able and willing to do the work) are present," permit me to offer him the following by way of solution. It is stated at p. 165 of Oliver's "Masonic Jurisprudence" that "should he "(the W.M.)" feel any embarrassment in working the ceremonies, he may call on any qualified Brother, whether a member of his own Lodge or not, to assist him. In all such cases it is advisable for the ceremonies to be performed by a Past Master of the same Lodge." It follows, if this ruling be correct, that while it is advisable, it is not obligatory that the W.M. should seek the assistance of a P.M. of his own Lodge in performing the duties of the chair. The P.M.'s of a Lodge whose W.M. should habitually invite a visiting P.M. to assist him, would have grounds for complaint, on the score of courtesy, but not on the score of law. A W.M.'s abstention from the performance of his official duties, that is, his virtual absence from the Lodge, and his actual absence are hardly, it seems, to be looked upon as parallel cases. The Constitutions provide that, in the W.M.'s absence, the I.P.M. shall take the chair, or in his absence the Senior P.M. present, and so on, see p. 78, section 6. The case of abstention from duty, whether partial or complete, as stated by "A Country P.M.," I do not find anywhere provided for. For my own part, I think a W.M. should, as a matter of simple courtesy, invite one of the P.M.'s of his own Lodge to perform for him any part of his duties. Or should he desire the assistance of a visiting P.M., I would suggest his following the example of Bro. Masterman W.M. of Frederick of Unity Lodge, No. 452, as described in your last week's report of a recent meeting of that Lodge. I give your own words:

"Bro. Masterman then rose, and stated that, in consequence of domestic affliction, he did not feel quite himself, and if the Past Masters of the Lodge would kindly grant permission, he would ask his esteemed friend, Bro. John Constable P.M. 185, to work the ceremony of raising in favour of Bro. Frederick Cassell, who was that evening a candidate for the sublime degree. This request was graciously acceded to by the several P.M.'s present, and Bro. Constable took the chair."

I do not like to picture to myself in a Lodge of Masons any member showing wilful discourtesy towards another, and least of all the W.M. towards his predecessors in the chair. Yet I think a W.M. would be guilty of such if he did not first of all invite their assistance, or else do as W.M. Bro. Masterman did, request them to waive their privilege by courtesy in favour of a visiting P.M.

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother,

Faithfully and fraternally yours,

"Q."

SYMBOLISM.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The following will, perhaps, suffice in some measure to make apparent to "ENQUIRER'S" mind what is the application of the 47th proposition of the 1st book of Euclid to Freemasonry. It is from Vol. I (Masonic Institutes) of the Remains of the Early Masonic Writers, edited by Dr. Oliver. The essay from which it is extracted is the very first in the book, on "the Rise and Progress of Freemasonry," the writer being anonymous, and there being no date attached. Having stated the nature of the proposition, its delineation on the Master's tracing board, and the name of its reputed author, Pythagoras, who regarded it as the foundation of geometry, the nameless writer proceeds to apply it as a symbol of Freemasonry.

"As," writes he, "the figure above mentioned depends on the connexion of the several lines, angles, and triangles which form the whole, so FREEMASONRY depends on the unanimity and integrity of its members, the immutability of the principles upon which the society is established. The position is clear, and therefore, in a synthetical sense, we demonstrate that some of our brethren, from their exalted situation in life, rolling in their chariots of ease, and enjoying every luxury, pleasure, and comfort, may with strict propriety be considered as standing on the basis of earthly bliss, emblematic of the greater square, which subtends the right angle. Others, whom providence hath blessed with means to tread on the flowery meads of affluence, are descriptive of the squares which stand on the sides which form the right angle. The several triangles inscribed within the squares are applicable to those happy beings, who enjoy every social comfort, and never exceed the bounds of mediocrity. Those who, by application to peculiar arts, manufactures, and commerce, from their several productions, not only add to the wealth of the nation, and to the happiness of the exalted, but have the heartfelt satisfaction of administering to the wants of the indigent and industrious, may, with strict justice, be compared to the angles which surround and support the figure, whilst the lines which form it remind us of those unfortunate brethren, who, by a series of inevitable events, are incapable of providing the common necessaries of life, until aided by our cheerful and ever-ready assistance.

Digitized by Google

"Hence, from the corollary we draw an axiom in Masonry; for by connecting the several lines together, and bringing the unfortunate and industrious into compact with the affluent and exalted, we form a figure descriptive of the true basis on which our ancient brethren raised the superstructure of FREEMASONRY. A basis which no mortal power can shake; THE BOSOM OF ALL GENTLE CHARITY; that heaven-born virtue, is the attribute divine of GOD OMNIPOTENT; a sublime emotion, that fully demonstrates the existence of our spiritual being, and animates us to this glorious certainty of immortality.

Bro. Dr. Mackey, in his Lexicon of Freemasonry, under the head of the "Forty-seventh Problem," and in reference to the sacrifice to the Gods which Pythagoras is said to have offered for joy at the grand discovery he had made, says: "The devotion to learning which this religious act indicated in the mind of the ancient philosopher has induced Masons to adopt the problem as a memento, instructing them to be lovers of the arts and sciences." He then proceeds as follows:—"The triangle whose base is 4 parts, whose perpendicular is 3, and whose hypothenuse is 5, and which would exactly serve as a demonstration of this problem," [$4^2 + 3^2 = 5^2$, or $16 + 9 = 25$], "was, according to Plutarch, a symbol frequently employed by the Egyptian priests, and hence it is called by M. Jomard the Egyptian triangle. It was, with the Egyptians, the symbol of universal nature, the base representing Osiris, or the male principle, the perpendicular, Isis, or the female principle, and the hypothenuse, Horus, their son, or the product of the two principles. They added, that 3 was the first perfect odd number, that 4 was the square of 2, the first even number; and that five was the result of 3 and 2." Much is added respecting the uses to which the Egyptians are said to have put this forty-seventh proposition; but though very interesting, it is not material to the object of "ESQUIRE'S" question.

For the reason why it forms a part of a Past Master's jewel of office, I offer the following suggestion, for which my fancy is my only justification. As the proof of the problem depends on the just connexion of the lines, angles, and triangles which form the whole figure, so the value of the Past Master's degree, of which it is the emblem, depends on the just connexion of the several degrees of Craft Masonry. The P.M.'s degree is the completion or perfection of those degrees.

I may add that Oliver, in a footnote to the first passage I have quoted above, says, that this expressive symbol was used immediately after 1717 as a Mason's signature or mark. It was not adopted as the cognizance of a Past Master till after the Union in 1813. Bro. Mackey, under "Past Masters," says that the P.M.'s jewel was formerly in England the square on a quadrant, and that in the United States it is "a pair of compasses, extended to sixty degrees on the fourth part of a circle." Under the Scotch Constitutions—see p. 61 of edition 1874—a P.M.'s jewel is "the Compasses, Square, and Segment."

Fraternally yours,

"Q."

A THANKOFFERING.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—The Daily News of to-day (26th May), quotes a paragraph intimating the intention of a Past Grand Officer to move, at the next Quarterly Communication, "That as a Thankoffering on this occasion, this Grand Lodge vote from its funds the sum of £1,000, which, together with the offerings made at the service in St. Paul's, shall be devoted to the benefit of such charitable object in India as may be recommended by the Most Worshipful Grand Master.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME.

If Grand Lodge determines to make a thankoffering at this particular time, let it take the form of a contribution to one of our own charities—say the Boys' or Girls' School; the former has scarcely any invested funds, and a large outlay. Close upon £10,000 is being incurred in enlarging the latter. Any Grand Lodge contribution towards either of these institutions might appropriately be described as the "Prince of Wales's Indian Commemoration Gift." If our Rev. P.G. Officer took a more active part in the management of OUR own charities, he would be better able to gauge the extent of their necessities.

J. CONSTABLE P.M. 185.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF BERKS AND BUCKS.

From the "BERKSHIRE CHRONICLE."

ONE of the largest Masonic gatherings that has ever taken place in this province was held at Reading on Tuesday, 16th inst., the Berks and Bucks Provincial Grand Lodge being convened at the Albert Hall, Friar-street, which had been suitably prepared for the purpose. Members of the two Lodges in Reading, augmented by numerous arrivals from the Lodges at Abingdon, Maidenhead, Newbury, Windsor, Aylesbury, High Wycombe, Buckingham, Newport, Pagnell, and visitors from other provinces, assembled at the Hall, at one o'clock, and the Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge, entering the Hall in procession, were received by the general body of Masons with the accustomed honours. The Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master, Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P., presided, supported by his Deputy, the Rev. J. S. Brownrigg, and the Grand Officers, among whom were Bros. Moxhay, Biggs, Weightman, Hodges, R. Bradley, Williams, Woodhouse, Bulley, Brown, Winkfield, Powell, Ivy, Burns, Carter, Hurley, Botly; Revs. Fraser, Campbell and A. Robins, and others well known in the province as "expert" Craftsmen. The visitors included Bros. Mercer Past Grand Master of China, Goldney, M.P., Deputy Grand Master for Wilts, Toomer, Wilts, Dewe, Hants, Birch, Middlesex, &c. We also noticed present Bros. Baker, Ballard, Powell, Clare, Morland, Shepherd, Tomkins, Barrett, D'Almaine, Gooch, Palmer, Reeve, Tolley, Glover, King, Nowell, Westfield, Frazer, Huckdale, Dent, Danks, Mount, A. Welch, Parry, Albury, Blackwell, Stransom, S. Bradley, G. Cosburn, Cave, Flanagan, Major Stevens, Ferguson, Ravenor, Knight, Wheeler, Jarman, Christian, Beale, Margrett, Oades, Cotterell, Newman, Pollard, Balding, &c., in all rather more than one hundred.

The roll having been called, and the minutes of the Prov. Grand Lodge held at Aylesbury last year read and confirmed, the Provincial Grand Secretary read the finance report, Bro. Chancellor, the Treasurer, being absent, in consequence of indisposition. The Provincial Grand Secretary also read the reports of the Charity Committee and the Lodges in the province. The members now numbered six hundred and thirty. There had been eighty-nine initiations during the year, and the joining members numbered thirty-nine. The balances in the Lodges amounted to upwards of £800.

The Prov. Grand Master said it was highly gratifying to know that there had been a steady increase during the past twelve months. He hoped that those Lodges which had not yet given their support to the Provincial Charity Fund would see the propriety of doing so. Hitherto the amount voted from the Grand Lodge Funds to the Charity Fund had been twenty guineas, but as the number of Lodges had been latterly increased the demand upon the Charity was likely to become greater, and he therefore thought they might safely increase the grant to twenty-five guineas. He accordingly proposed a motion to that effect.

The Deputy Grand Master said that as the primary object of their institution was charity there was no reason why they should hoard up their funds, and he felt they would be perfectly justified in augmenting the grant to the Charity Fund year by year as necessity may arise. He therefore seconded the motion, which was put by the Provincial Grand Master, and adopted.

The Deputy Grand Master then moved that £73 10s be transferred from the Charity Fund in grants of five and seven guineas each to those Lodges who had made substantial contributions to the Fund.

This proposal was seconded by Bro. Williams, and carried.

Bro. Chancellor was unanimously re-elected Treasurer, being proposed by the Provincial Grand Master and seconded by the Deputy Grand Master.

The Deputy Grand Master then proposed, and the Prov. Grand Master seconded, a resolution which had for its object the more effectual dispersal of the votes for the various Masonic institutions held by the Lodges and individual members, and this was carried unanimously.

Bro. J. T. C. Winkfield P.M. 691, P.P.G.W., H. H. Hodges P.M. 795, P.P.G.R., and W. J. Powell P.M. 945, were respectively invested by the Provincial Grand Master with the Provincial Charity Jewel.

The Provincial Grand Master then appointed and invested the Provincial Grand Officers for the ensuing year as follows:—

H. H. Hodges P.M. 795 S.G.W.
R. C. Hurley P.M. 1101 J.G.W.
Rev. F. Campbell 574 G. Chaplain.
Rev. A. Robins 771 G. Chaplain.
Geo. Chancellor P.M. 1101 G. Treasurer.
H. Poynter P.M. 948 G. Registrar.
W. Biggs P.M. 574 G. Secretary.
Josh. Blowers P.M. 414 G.S. Deacon.
W. J. Powell P.M. 945 G. Jun. Deacon.
H. D. Gooch P.M. 631 G. Supt. of Works.
J. O. Carter P.M. 209 G. Director of Ceremonies.
John Palmer P.M. 1501 G. Assistant ditto.
Jno. Reeve W.M. 840 G. Sword Bearer.
P. Glover 574 G. Organist.
W. King P.M. 948 G. Pursuivant.
C. Nowell 771 G. Assistant Pursuivant.
F. Westfield Secretary 1501 G. Steward.
D. W. Frazer S.W. 1410 G. Steward.
W. Huckdale S.D. 1501 G. Steward.
M. W. Dent J.D. 1501 G. Steward.
J. E. Danks I.G. 1101 G. Steward.
R. C. Mount 414 G. Steward.
W. Hemmings G. Tyler.

The P.G.M. having expressed his thanks to Bro. Mercer and Bro. Goldney for having honoured the gathering with their presence, those gentlemen briefly addressed the brethren.

The P.G.M. then announced that the next Provincial Grand Lodge will be held at High Wycombe, and the business of the Lodge was soon afterwards brought to a close.

At three o'clock the officers and brethren, numbering 80, sat down to a banquet at the Queen's Hotel, the chair being occupied by the Provincial Grand Master, who, on the introduction of dessert, introduced the toast of the Queen and the Craft, followed by that of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, Most Worshipful Grand Master of England, and the rest of the Royal Family, the P.G.M. expressing the joy that all must feel through the safe and happy return of his Royal Highness from his Indian tour.

The next toast was that of the Most Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the Grand Officers of the Grand Lodge of England, Past and Present.

The D.G.M. proposed the health of the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master, Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart. M.P., which was received with the greatest possible enthusiasm. The D.G.M. believed he was correct in saying that it was an established rule that the busiest men were always most attentive to business, and this was certainly true in the case of Sir Daniel Gooch, who was always engaged with business of importance, and there were few men who transacted business matters more efficiently than Sir Daniel, and yet he found time to attend to his duties as Grand Master of this Province, besides which he attended the meetings of the Grand Lodge of England with great regularity (cheers). As a Province, they might certainly congratulate themselves on having at their head one who had distinguished himself, whether in the undertakings of everyday business or in his duties as a Mason (cheers).

Digitized by Google

The P.G.M., in returning thanks, observed that it had given him great pleasure to see the Provincial Grand Lodge so largely attended. It was true he had a great many engagements to occupy his time and attention, but supported and encouraged as he was by the brethren of this province he could not but discharge his Masonic duties to the best of his power and ability (cheers). They had heard from their able Secretary (Bro. Bigrs) how the Lodges were progressing and also the support given to the Charities, and he could only ask them to continue in the same course, and he hoped that when they assembled at Wycombe next year they would have as much reason to be pleased with the results as on this occasion (cheers). The P.G.M. then proposed the health of his deputy, Bro. the Rev. J. S. Brownrigg, speaking of him as a zealous, active, and good Mason, who had rendered him great assistance in fulfilling his duties as P.G.M. (cheers). The P.G.M. also spoke in warm terms of the valuable services of the Rev. Sir John Warren Hayes, who for many years efficiently performed the duties of D.G.M., and whose name he associated with the toast.

The D.G.M. assured the brethren it gave him sincere pleasure to be of service to them, and said he had the fullest authority for stating that every Lodge in the Province was in a satisfactory state (cheers).

Bro. the Rev. Sir J. W. Hayes, Bart., thanked the brethren for this renewed expression of their kind and fraternal feeling, and alluded to the great and beneficial change that had occurred with regard to Freemasonry in this Province during the past ten years, owing to the energy of Sir D. Gooch, and also to the circumstance that the Deputy Grand Master resided in the Bucks division of the Province. He hoped the prosperity which now characterised Masonry would not only continue but increase year after year (cheers).

The Provincial Grand Master proposed the health of the visitors, remarking that it gave him particular pleasure to couple with this toast the health of Bro. Goldney, who ably filled the position of Deputy Grand Master for the Province of Wiltshire—an office which he himself held for many years, during which he formed associations and friendships upon which he looked back with a great amount of pleasure (cheers).

Bro. Goldney, M.P., in thanking the brethren, said it not only delighted him to have been the guest of their esteemed Grand Master, but he was charmed with all he had seen and heard that day, and he hoped that Freemasonry would long continue to flourish in this Province. He was striving in his own Province to follow in the footsteps of his predecessor, now their worthy Provincial Grand Master, whose excellent example was still producing good fruit in the Wiltshire Province. From time to time philosophers had attempted to establish a system of universal fraternity and love, and there had been religious movements for the purpose of attaining that end, but he knew of no institution so well calculated to accomplish the purpose as Freemasonry (cheers). If they would but endeavour to maintain the grand principles of their Order, and illustrate them in their actions, they would all become better men, and they would thus do much towards civilising and harmonising the whole of mankind. Speaking of the Masonic symbols, Bro. Goldney reminded the brethren that not many centuries ago men who advanced scientific truths became the objects of attack and persecution, as in the case of the great Bacon, and it was only by signs and symbols that men could in those days safely communicate great scientific principles to those who would appreciate and foster and encourage them, and therefore in Masonry they had, as it were, the foundation of those great pursuits to which, in these days, the world owed so much. (Cheers.)

The health of the Provincial Grand Wardens, past and present, having been proposed, was responded to by Bro. Hodges S.G.W., and Bro. Hurley J.G.W.

The Prov. Grand Master gave the health of the Worshipful Masters, Officers and brethren of the Reading Lodges, and other Lodges in the province, for whom Bro. Yetts, W.M. Union Lodge, and Bro. Brown, P.M. Grey Friars Lodge, responded. The P.G.M. thanked the Reading Lodges for the arrangements they had made for the P.G. Lodge. Bro. Brown explained that the W.M. of the Grey Friars Lodge (Bro. Freeman) had unexpectedly been called away on important business, which accounted for his absence.

The Provincial Grand Master then proposed the health of the Provincial Grand Secretary, Bro. Bigrs, of whose indefatigable exertions in the cause of Masonry Sir Daniel spoke in the most eulogistic terms. (Cheers.) Bro. Bigrs suitably responded, observing that for nearly twenty-five years past it had been his good fortune to be associated in Masonry with Sir Daniel. In Wiltshire he attained to the position of Senior Grand Warden, Sir Daniel being Deputy Grand Master. They left Wiltshire about the same period, and, on coming into Berkshire, he found himself again in office under Sir Daniel. He accounted it an honour of which any Mason might well feel proud to have served under Sir Daniel as he had done, and to have enjoyed for so long a period the confidence of such a goodhearted, honest, and straightforward Masonic character as Sir Daniel was known to be (hear, and cheers).

Then followed the toasts of "The Masonic Charities," "The Musical Brethren," "The Stewards," "The Master Masons" (for whom Bro. C. Stephens responded), "The Press," &c.

The speeches were interspersed by vocal music, and the proceedings were prolonged until past eight o'clock.

CAPE HORSE PRAYING CARDS.—Mogul Quality, picked to 51 per pack, 14s per dozen packs. Do. seconds 9s per pack, 10s per dozen packs. If by post 14d per pack extra. Cards for Piquet, Bézique, Euchre, &c., Mogul Quality 10d per pack, 9s per dozen packs.—London: W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, E.C.

LODGE OF LOYALTY, No. 1533.

THE consecration and dedication of this Lodge attracted to Marlborough, on Tuesday, upwards of 80 members of the Masonic craft, from Swindon, Salisbury, Devizes, Trowbridge, Bath, Newbury, Reading, and elsewhere. The company included the Right Hon. Lord H. F. Thynne, M.P., Past Grand Warden of England, the Right Hon. Lord Ernest Bruce, M.P. (Keystone Lodge, Westminster), Rev. Sir J. Hayes, Bart. P.P.D. Grand Master (Berks and Bucks), Revs. C. Raikes Davy, T. F. Ravenshaw, and W. Martin (Past Grand Chaplains of England), Rev. — Gore, P.P. Grand Chaplain (Worcestershire), Captain Bradford P.G. Treasurer, Bros. H. C. Tombs, P.G. Secretary, Chandler P.G.J.W., Ward P.G.D.C., T. Chandler P.M., Fox, Captains Robert Bruce, Henry Bruce, and Merriman, Bros. Toomer P.M. 355, P.Z. 355, P.P.G.J.W., and W.M. Designate of the Marlborough Lodge, Fielder P.P.G.S.D. (Berks and Bucks), Burns P.M., Herbert' P.M., Glover P.G.O. (Berks and Bucks), Rev. H. G. Gardener P.G. Chaplain, Bros. Lawson P.M., Joshua Brooke, James Carter, H. C. Church, C. F. Goodey, J. Hammond, and J. Blake Maurice (Marlborough), Savory, &c. The Grand Secretary of England (W. Bro. John Hervey), the Provincial Grand Master for Wilts., (the Right Hon. Lord Methuen), the Deputy Provincial Grand Master (Bro. Goldney, M.P.), and the Provincial Grand Master for Berks and Bucks (Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P.), had severally written to the Provincial Grand Secretary, expressing their regret that engagements in the House of Commons, and elsewhere, which could not be set aside, prevented them attending the consecration of the Marlborough Lodge, for which, however, they desired all possible success. Lord Harry Thynne opened the Lodge soon after 2 o'clock, and, in the absence of the Grand Secretary, who had been announced to perform the ceremony of consecration, his lordship appointed as officiating Master Bro. J. Terry, Past Master of several Lodges, P.G.D.C. for Hertfordshire, who is known as one of the most experienced and efficient Working Masons in this country. Under Bro. Terry's leadership all the ancient rites and ceremonies appertaining to the consecration and dedication of a Lodge were scrupulously adhered to, supplemented by solemn music, anthems, and chants. One of the most impressive points in the afternoon's proceedings was an admirable address on "Freemasonry," by the Provincial Grand Chaplain. Towards the close of the programme, Lord Harry Thynne congratulated the brethren upon the fact that Marlborough had at last succeeded in forming a Masonic Lodge, and said he entertained no doubt but that, under the able and genial sway of Bro. Toomer, assisted by efficient officers, Masonry would flourish in that town. His Lordship said he had been told by a brother Mason, who had just returned with the Prince of Wales from India, that the Masonic feeling shown throughout the tour had been of the warmest kind, and that the Masons in different parts of our Indian Empire had availed themselves of every opportunity of showing their loyalty and fraternal feeling towards their royal brother, the most Worshipful Grand Master. The ceremony of consecrating and dedicating the Lodge having ended, a cordial vote of thanks was presented to Bro. Terry, who acknowledged the compliment. Bro. John Toomer was then installed first Worshipful Master of the Lodge, and the following brethren were appointed to the several offices, and invested by the Worshipful Master with their collars, and other insignia:—Senior Warden, Bro. Hammond; Junior Warden, Bro. Carter; Treasurer, Bro. J. Blake Maurice; Secretary, Bro. Joshua Brooke; Senior Deacon, Captain Robert Brudenell Bruce; Junior Deacon, Bro. Goodey; I.G., Bro. J. Chandler; Tyler, Bro. Savory. At half-past 4 o'clock the company partook of a banquet at the Guildhall, the caterer being Bro. Carter, of the Aylesbury Arms Hotel. In proposing and responding to the toasts invariably given at Masonic gatherings, a great number of speeches were delivered. The Provincial Grand Secretary (Bro. Tombs) was heartily thanked for his arduous labours in connection with the event of the day, and in responding he assured the brethren it had been eminently a labour of love. The names of Bro. Terry, Secretary to the Masonic Benevolent Institution, and Bro. Tombs (who has recently raised the munificent sum of £320 for the charities of the Order), were coupled with the toast of The Masonic Charities, and in reply those brethren made eloquent appeals to the Masons of this Province to give a cheerful and ready support to the three great Masonic Institutions, namely: the Boys' School, the Girls' School, and the Benevolent Institution. Towards eight o'clock the brethren began to disperse, the majority of the visitors leaving the town by train the same evening.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All Letters and communications must be addressed to the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

W. M. STANTON.—Copies sent off as you requested. Song came duly to hand. Thanks for report.

M. SPIEGEL.—Much obliged. Shall always be pleased to hear from you.

W. J. S.—The Portrait shall appear in two or three weeks. Many thanks for the facts you have so kindly supplied.

W. M.—We will treat on the subject next week.

F. J.—The number you refer to has since been reprinted.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—It would be startling to many were it possible to state accurately the number of persons who have been restored to health and relieved by these remedies, and if all the details connected with such illustrious cures could be allotted the enormous amount of pain and suffering which it has been annulled and got rid of would be beyond belief. These items are so well known in the present day, east, west, south and north, that it is strange any individual should remain in ignorance of their valuable qualities in correcting all blood impurities, who her hereditary or acquired, the ill effects of which they effectually modify and counteract, rendering the sickly and feeble physically strong.

Digitized by Google

INSTALLATION OF H. R. H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,
Most Worshipful Grand Master, &c., &c., having been graciously pleased to accept the special Dedication,

A SPLENDID

HISTORICAL STEEL ENGRAVING

WILL SHORTLY BE PUBLISHED,

OF THE

ROYAL INSTALLATION ON THE 28TH OF APRIL 1875,

IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,

By Bro. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. No. 1201.

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be made to the

ROYAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

THE CLUB PREMISES, SITUATE
101 QUEEN VICTORIA STREET,
ARE NOW BEING FITTED UP, AND WILL
SHORTLY BE OPENED TO THE MEMBERS.

THE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION now payable will date from the day on which the Club opens, and is fixed at £3 3s for Town Members, i.e., Members residing within twenty miles of the Club, and £1 11s 6d for Country Members. Members incur no liability beyond their subscription. None but Freemasons are eligible for membership.

THE NEXT ELECTION will be held on 1st June. An Entrance Fee will be imposed as soon as the Club is open d.

Forms of Application for Membership may be obtained from the Secretary, at the Offices of the London Masonic Club Company Limited, 37 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

JOHN A. LATHBURY, Secretary.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

SEASON TICKETS, available for one year from the 1st of each month, to be had of W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, E.C.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE House of Lords did not sit on Saturday. On Monday the Earl of Derby made an important statement, in reply to Earl Granville, on the Andrassy Note. The second reading of a Government Bill for the purpose of restricting the practice of Vivisection, was moved by the Earl of Carnarvon, and agreed to after a debate, in which most of the speakers recognised the necessity for such a measure. On Tuesday, a Burials in Churchyards Bill was rejected, on the motion, by Earl Grey, for its second reading. Brief conversations on Railway Breaks and Dover Harbour followed.

There being no quorum at the usual hour of meeting, no business was transacted in the House of Commons on Friday. A most unseemly exhibition occurred on Monday, when the Ex-Lord Mayor of Dublin put a question to Mr. Disraeli respecting the Fenian prisoners. Mr. Biggar, member for County Cavan, spoke in such terms of the Duke of Cambridge and the Prime Minister, that his constituents must be ashamed of their representative. Mr. Biggar's proper sphere is evidently a bear garden. He is out of place among the gentlemen who compose Her Majesty's Commons. Shortly afterwards the House took into its consideration the Merchant Shipping Bill as amended. An Amendment by Mr. Plimsoll, to prevent vessels carrying deck cargoes, was carried over the Government by 162 to 143, and the third reading fixed for Thursday. On Tuesday, a motion was made by Mr. James to inquire into the funds of the City Guilds, but after a long debate, in which Lord Mayor Cotton spoke out manfully for these corporations, the motion was withdrawn. The House, almost immediately afterwards, was counted out. On Wednesday, the Employers' Liability for Injury Bill was withdrawn after a lengthened discussion. On Thursday, the Customs and Inland Revenue Bill passed through Committee, and a motion by Mr. Fawcett on the Commons Bill was rejected.

The Queen reached Balmoral on Saturday afternoon, having left Windsor Castle the evening previous. For a time there seemed a prospect of Her Majesty's journey being postponed, as her grandson, the infant son of the Prince and Princess Christian was taken suddenly and alarmingly ill. She was present at the child's christening, and, as the symptoms had abated, set out on her journey. Unhappily a fresh seizure occurred soon afterwards, and the little Prince died on Saturday morning, after a brief existence of eight days. The funeral took place on Tuesday, and was attended by Prince Christian, and the Hon. Mrs. Wellesley as the Queen's representative. H.R.H. the Princess Christian's recovery has been somewhat retarded by this event. The State Ball, which was to have been held at Buckingham Palace on Tuesday, is postponed, in consequence, till Thursday, the 1st of June. On hearing of the loss sustained by the Princess Christian, the Princess of Wales and the Princess Louise both visited Her Royal Highness, and passed some time with her.

The grand banquet and ball given by the City of London, on Friday last, in honour of the Prince of Wales's return from India, was a great success. For some time previously Guildhall had been undergoing a state of preparation for the important event, and those who had the opportunity of witnessing the marvellous transformation the fine old civic palace underwent must have had some doubts as to the place in which they were. On arrival, their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales were conducted to the Library, which had been fitted up as a reception room, and were received by the Lord Mayor, the Sheriffs, and the committee of the Corporation, amid loud applause. The Town Clerk having first read the resolution of the Common Council, proposing an address, the Recorder then read the address itself, which was presented in a gold casket to his Royal Highness, and by him acknowledged in appropriate terms. The banquet was then served in the Guildhall, where covers were laid for 550 guests. The toast of the Prince and Princess of Wales was received with acclamation. The banquet over, the distinguished guests returned to the drawing-room, and the ball was transformed into a magnificent ball-room, space being marked off for the royal visitors, who were then conducted in state to the place set apart for them, and dancing commenced. The Prince and Princess subsequently danced in the other ball-rooms prepared for the occasion—one of which was fitted up in Indian fashion—and charmed all present by their gracious condescension. They left about three in the morning, and even at that early hour the streets were thronged with people, who cheered them as lustily as did the greater crowds assembled to witness their arrival.

Digitized by Google

H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, by command of the Queen, held a levee at St. James's Palace, on Monday. The Dukes of Edinburgh and Cambridge were present, and the Gentlemen-at-arms and the Yeomen of the Guard under their respective Captains, the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot and Lord Skelmersdale, were on duty. A very large number of presentations were made. After the Levee, the Prince and his brother the Duke of Edinburgh went down to Portsmouth, where they were received by Admiral Elliott, Commander-in-Chief. They at once went on board the Sultan, the Duke's Ship, which sails for the Mediterranean to-day or to-morrow. About thirty guests were invited to meet His Royal Highness at dinner. The Prince slept on board, and on Tuesday, in company with his brother paid a visit to the Arctic Yacht Pandora, Captain Allen Young. They then lunched with Captain Carr-Glyn and the officers of the Serapis. Before quitting the ship the Prince addressed the men, in a short, genial speech, praising their behaviour during the voyage to India and back, and wishing them prosperity in the future, the response to which was a succession of hearty cheers from the men, who had swarmed up the rigging and side of the ship. After this pleasant little episode the Royal party returned to London.

The anniversary meeting of the Royal Geographical Society was held on Monday afternoon in the Hall of the University of London, Burlington Gardens, under the presidency of Sir Henry Rawlinson. The Report was read, and this showed that the total number of ordinary fellows on the list at the end of last month was 3125, of whom 692 were Life Members. The accounts for the year ended 31st December 1875 showed Receipts to the amount of £7934 and some odd shillings and pence, while the Expenditure, exclusive of Investments and Balances, was a little over £6992. The expenses of the Livingstone search and Cameron Expedition would fall on the year now current, and it was expected they would reach about £3000. The Report having been unanimously adopted, the President presented the founder's Gold Medal for 1876 to Lieutenant Cameron, and in doing so congratulated him on the work he had accomplished, and especially on the number and accuracy of the observations he had taken during his journey. The honour having been suitably acknowledged, the Victoria or Patron's Medal was handed to Mr. Lowther M.P. under-Secretary for the Colonies, for transmission to Mr. John Forrest, on whom it had been resolved to confer it, in recognition of the services to Geographical science he had rendered by his many successful explorations in Western Australia. The medals offered to the chief public schools were then awarded, namely: in Physical Geography, gold medal, John Wilkie, Liverpool College; bronze medal, Walter New, Dulwich; Political Geography, gold, Thomas Knox, Haileybury; bronze, W. M. Milner, Marlborough. The address was then delivered, in the course of which it was announced that the Government had resolved to share the expenses of the Cameron Expedition, and that a sum of £3000 would shortly be handed over to the Society. The banquet was held at Willis's Rooms, the chair being occupied by the President, Sir H. Rawlinson, about a hundred and fifty gentlemen sitting down to dinner. The toast of the evening was the health of Lieutenant Cameron, which was enthusiastically received.

The annual dinner of the Newspaper Press Fund was held on Saturday, at Willis's Rooms, the chair being taken by Lord O'Hagan, who, at the last moment, kindly consented to preside in place of the Lord Chief Justice, whom indisposition prevented from attending. About 250 guests sat down to a recherché banquet, among them being Lord Houghton, President of the Fund, the Lord Mayor, Lieut. Cameron, Signor Salvini, Mr. Anthony Trollope, Sir J. Benedict, and Sir Joseph Whitworth. In the course of the evening, subscriptions were announced to the extent of over £1,100.

On Saturday, Lillie Bridge was the scene of the most successful athletic gathering of the year, the occasion being the Civil Service Sports, which were witnessed by somewhere about 20,000 people, the ladies being in strong force, especially as the day was a brilliant one. J. H. A. Reay won the mile and the 220 yards Challenge Cup, as well as the broad jump. A new feature was introduced, and caused a considerable amount of amusement. This was the Tug of War, or what, in our schoolboy days, was known as French and English. In the final tug the India Office gained the day over the Post Office. On Tuesday, the London Athletic Club held their first summer meeting at the same grounds. The entries were very numerous, and the programme was very satisfactorily and punctually got through. W. Slade, the amateur mile champion, won the mile in 4 mins. 32 secs.

Now that the season is well advanced, we find not only that cricket is in full operation, but also that the different yachting Clubs are taking their opening cruises and preparing for their various matches. Polo, too, is looking up, so that there is no lack of amusement. On Saturday, the Coaching Club, younger brother to the Four-in-hand, inaugurated the season by a meet at the Powder Magazine, Hyde Park, and a subsequent drive to the Alexandra Palace. No less than thirty-four traps put in an appearance at the appointed hour, but several of them belonged to members of the Four-in-hand. After the customary parade, the line of coaches moved out by the Marble Arch, and thirteen of the number made the journey to Muswell Hill, and created no small amount of excitement among the visitors to the Palace, when the Club and its guests, including several ladies, sat down, to the number of seventy-five, to the very sumptuous luncheon which Messrs. Bertram and Roberts had provided. The pleasurable part of the day's proceedings being accomplished, the drags returned to town. The Four-in-hand had a meet on Wednesday, but the weather was unpropitious.

A serious accident occurred on Sunday on the Thames, just opposite the Houses of Parliament, no less than six lives being lost. A pleasure party had engaged a boat at Battersea to make an excursion down the river, and had made the return journey as far as Westminster Bridge, when they fouled some barges and swung against one of the mooring chains, tilting slightly to one side. One of the party, Mrs. Rayne, rose, in her fright, and two of her sons following her example, the boat capsised, and its occupants were thrown into the water. Two only were saved, by clinging to the chains, but the rest perished before assistance, which was rendered as promptly as possible, could reach them. Such accidents as this would never occur if people would only bear in mind that to stand up in a boat is wrong at all times, but especially at a critical moment, when the slightest movement is enough to settle whether the boat shall turn over or not. Had Mrs. Rayne sat still, the boat would have righted itself. People have no business to make excursions on the river if they are not prepared to act common-sensibly.

To-day being set apart for the public celebration of Her Majesty's birthday, the leading Ministers have issued invitations for the usual banquets. The Household troops will parade, as usual, at the back of the Horse Guards, and Royal salutes will be fired from the Park guns, the Tower, Woolwich, and at our different forts, &c. In the evening the illuminations, especially those at the West End, will doubtless attract the usual crowd of sightseers.

The attitude of England in reference to the proposals made respecting the status quo in Turkey at the Berlin Conference has caused no small amount of commotion in political circles, particularly in Berlin and Paris. Under these circumstances, What will happen next? becomes not only an interesting, but a somewhat serious question. Meantime, there is talk of Russia despatching ironclads to the Ægean Sea; a German squadron has sailed for the Mediterranean, and our naval forces in those waters are about to be considerably reinforced. As for the insurrection in Bosnia, &c., the demands of the insurgents rise higher and higher, and now we hear of their claiming to be made into an independent State. As for Turkey, she seems to be powerless. Money, the sinews of war, is not forthcoming, and even men for the army are said to be scarce. Let us hope that peaceful proposals may prevail, and for this reason it is satisfactory to know that the British government is observing a firm attitude in the present crisis. Politics are, to us, forbidden ground, but we all know that English interests in the East are far too important for any ministry to view the present troubles in Turkey with indifference. In the French Senate, M. Victor Hugo moved a resolution to the effect that a complete amnesty should be granted to the Communists now undergoing punishment for their crimes, but the motion was negatived by a large majority. At Rome, Sir A. Paget, our Ambassador, has held a grand reception, when everybody of consequence was present, for the purpose of congratulating him on having been raised to ambassadorial rank. Two masters of the ceremonies were present from the King's palace, and an officer of rank attended from the War office to present the chiefs of the army. The assemblage was a brilliant one, all the guests being in full dress as at a reception by the King.

Digitized by Google

At the Levee, on Monday last, Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton P.G.D. was presented by Bro. Lord Carrington.

The Victoria Park Swimming Club will commence operations for the coming season on Whit Monday. Entries for the events, which consist of a 200 Yards Handicap, 80 Yards Race for Boys, and a 100 Yards Race for Members, should be sent to Bro. T. Hadley Prestage, the Hon. Sec., 531 Hackney Road, by 1st June next.

We are requested to state that there is no truth in the rumour we recently copied from another journal, that the proprietors of the popular "Specialité Sherry," are forming their business into a Joint Stock Company Limited. Messrs. Feltoe and Sons have no idea of doing so.

Loyalty Lodge, No. 1607.—We are sorry the appointment of Bro. C. J. Perceval, as S.D. of this Lodge, was omitted in our report last week.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Essex will assemble on Tuesday, the 30th inst., at Dovercourt. Grand Lodge will be opened at 1.30, under the presidency of R.W. Bro. R. J. Bagshaw, Prov. G.M.

On Wednesday the Provincial Grand Lodge of Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire will assemble, under the banner of St. Peter's 442, at St. Peter's College, Peterborough. Lodge will be opened at twelve o'clock, by his Grace the Duke of Manchester, Prov. G.M. After which the brethren will proceed to the Cathedral, service commencing at two p.m., when a sermon will be preached, and a collection made in aid of the Masonic charities and the building fund of St. Mary's Church, Peterborough. At the conclusion of the service the brethren will proceed to the church of St. Mary's, where the first stone of a new aisle will be laid by the Prov. G.M.

The thirty-two female candidates at the election last week to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution form two groups of sixteen each, the first consisting of eleven who were applicants for the third, and five who were applicants a second time; while the other sixteen had not previously been candidates. Ten of the former and eleven of the latter were elected; and of these ten, six were successful at their third, and four at their second attempt. The highest on the poll was No. 16, an applicant for the second time; Nos. 2 and 3 were first applications, and No. 4 a third application. Of the eleven unsuccessful, five were third, one second, and four first applications, while one first, No. 18, was withdrawn. Three of the older candidates scored less than ten additional votes, namely: No 5, five; No. 10, nine; and No. 15, two. No. 2 increased her total by only 33, while No. 7, who had brought forward only four votes, was within four of being elected. One candidate obtained no support whatever.

A meeting of the members of the Most Puissant Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters of England, &c., will be held on Tuesday, the 30th inst., at four o'clock in the afternoon. Business:—To receive such candidates as may be in attendance.

Captain Smith, in his "Use and Abuse of Freemasonry," published in 1783, states the number and distribution of Lodges throughout the world to be as follows:—

Europe	1247	Lodges.
America	187	"
Asia	76	"
Africa	13	"
Total	1523

Estimating "these, one with another, at thirty members in each," he obtains as the total number of Masons at that time on the muster-rolls of the Order, 45,690. Now there are just over 1,500 Lodges under Grand Lodge of England alone, while in New York State there are over 80,000 Masons.

WARRANTS OF OLD LODGES.

We hope to succeed in publishing all the important Warrants of Lodges holding originally under the "Ancients," and thus complete the information lacking in Bro. Hughan's "Memorials of the Masonic Union of 1813." All who have been privileged to secure copies of this work will be aware that the dates of constitution of the "Ancient" Lodges are left blank, just as in the Calendar of the Grand Lodge of England, excepting No. 19.

It is our intention to fill in all these blanks as far as possible, so that in a future edition of the "Memorials" Bro. Hughan will be able to add (with those he already has) the dates of warrants of the Ancients, and we hope the information we shall thus publish will prove useful in the compilation of Bro. Spencer's contemplated history of the Lodges under the Grand Lodge of England.

Transcripts of the Warrants of old Lodges are valuable for many reasons, chiefly, however, because the particulars of the origin of each Lodge so described, names of the first Worshipful Master, Wardens, and so on are noted.

We shall not confine ourselves to the "Ancient" Warrants, for the "Moderns," especially from 1722, shall receive due attention; but as for a time the "Seceders" will receive special notice it may be well to explain, for the benefit of all concerned, that frequently the places of meeting have been changed, and consequently the town named on a warrant may not indicate where the Lodge is now held.

We make use of Brother Hughan's "Memorials" as far as possible to supply the alterations in the numbers, but we cannot supply the changes in the places of meeting at all times, because of lack of information at present.

We shall be glad to be favoured with exact copies of any old warrants and particulars for publication, and fraternally invite the assistance and co-operation of the Craft to this end.

All communications in reference to this Department to be addressed

John Constable,
13 Sise-lane, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.

20th May 1876.

Old Warrants, No. 1.

No. 98 (Ancients); No. 123, A.D. 1814 (at the Union); 99, A.D. 1832; and 84 from A.D. 1863. Held at Guernsey from the commencement to the present time.

ATHOL, Grand Master.

John B. Roache, S.G.W. Thos. Harper, D.G.M.
Richard Humphreys, J.G.W.

To all whom it may concern, We, the GRAND LODGE of the Most Ancient and Honorable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, according to the old Constitutions, granted by his Royal Highness Prince Edwin, at York, A.D. 926, and in the year of Masonry 4926; in ample form assembled, viz., the R.W. the Most Noble Prince John (the 4th) Duke, Marquis, and Earl of Athol, Marquis and Earl of Tullibardine, Earl of Strathtay and Strathardle, Viscount Balquidder, Glenalvon and Glenalmond, Lord Murray, Belveny, and Gask, heritable Constable of the Castle of Kincleaven, Lord of Man and The Isles, and Earl Strange and Baron Murray of Stanley, in the county of Gloucester, Grand Master of Masons; the R.W. John Harper, Esq., D.G.M.; the R.W. John Bryant Roache, Esq., S.G.W.; and the R.W. Richard Humphreys, Esq., J.G.W.; with the approbation and consent of the Warranted Lodges held within the city and suburbs of London and Westminster, do hereby authorise and empower our trusty and well-beloved brethren, viz., the W. Sir John Doyle, Bart., one of our Master Masons, the W. David Watson, Esq., his S.W., and the W. Thos. Le Lievre, Esq., his J.W., to form and hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons aforesaid, at the Crown and Anchor Tavern, Guernsey, under the name and title of Doyle's Lodge of Fellowship, upon the second Monday of every month, and all seasonable times and lawful occasions, and in the said Lodge (when duly congregated) to admit and make Freemasons, according to the most ancient and honourable custom of the Royal Craft in all ages and nations throughout the known world. And We hereby further authorise and empower our said trusty and well-beloved brethren, Sir John Doyle, Bart., David Watson, and Thos. Le Lièvre (with the consent of the members of their Lodge) to nominate, chose, and instal their successors, to whom they shall deliver this Warrant, and invest them with the dignities and powers of Free Masons, and such successors shall, in like manner, nominate, chose, and instal their successors, such installations being held as near St. John's Day as possible, during the continuance of this Lodge for ever. Provided the above-named brethren, and all their successors, always pay due respect to the R.W. GRAND LODGE, otherwise this Warrant to be of no force or value.

Given under our hand and the seal of our GRAND LODGE in London this 14th day of September, in the year of our Lord 1807, and in the year of Masonry 5807.

ROBERT LESLIE, Grand Secretary.

Note.—This Warrant is registered in the Grand Lodge, Vol. 3, Letters C and E, 17th March 1762.

The present title and number, &c., are "Doyle's Lodge of Fellowship, No. 84, Guernsey."—J. Constable.

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

SATURDAY, 27th MAY.

198—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

MONDAY, 29th MAY.

45—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem, St. John's-square, E.C., at 8. (Instruction.)
174—Sincerity, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., at 7. (Instruction.)

1177—Tenby, Royal Assembly Rooms, Tenby, Pembroke.
M. M. 109—Keystone, Freemasons' Hall, Dock-street, Newport, Mon.

TUESDAY, 30th MAY.

55—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
902—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
R.A.—Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michaels'-alley, Cornhill, at 6.30.

316—Union, Freemasons' Hall, Castle-street, Carlisle.
357—Apollo University, Masonic Hall, Oxford.
878—Perseverance, Shenstone Hotel Hales Owen.
1228—Beaconstree, Red Lion, Leytonstone, at 8. (Instruction.)
1366—Torbay, Town Hall, Paignton.

WEDNESDAY, 31st MAY.

193—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7. (Instruction.)
1524—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Albion-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)
R. A. 1565—Clapton, White Hart Tavern, Clapton, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
Finsbury Park, Finsbury Park Tavern, Seven Sisters'-road, at 8.0. (Instruction.)

499—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover. (Instruction.)
806—Bowden, Eagle Hotel, East Dereham, Norfolk.
1611—Alexandra, Masonic Hall, Horncsea, at 7. (Instruction.)
R. A. 257—Apollo University, Masonic Hall, Oxford.

THURSDAY, 1st JUNE.

3—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, London-st., Fitzroy-sq., at 7.0.
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
435—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 8. (Instruction.)
1200—Harvey, 152 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1469—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

31—United Industrious, Guildhall Concert Room, High-street, Canterbury.
123—Lennox, Freemasons' Hall, Richmond, Yorkshire.
249—Mariners, Masonic Temple, 22 Hope-street, Liverpool.
254—Trinity, Craven Arms Hotel, Coventry.
269—Fidelity, White Bull Hotel, Blackburn.
295—Combermere Union, Macclesfield Arms, Macclesfield.
308—Harmony, Red Lion, Fareham.
442—St. Peter's, Masonic Hall, Scrongbury, Peterborough.
792—Pelham Pillar, Masonic Hall, Bullring-lane, Grimsby.
1042—Prince of Wales, Derby Hotel, Bury, Lancashire.
1282—Asclepius, Forester's Hall, Brigg, Lincolnshire.
1284—Brent, Masonic Hall, Globe Hotel, Topsham.
1331—Aldershot Camp, Assembly Rooms, High-street, Aldershot.
1345—St. John's, King's Arms Hotel, Grays, Essex.
R. A. 1339—Stockwell, Half Moon, Herne Hill.

FRIDAY, 2nd JUNE.

933—Doric, Earl Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1274—Burdett Coutts, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, 7.30. (Instruction.)
1469—Marquess of Ripon, Metropolitan Societies' Asylum, Balls-pond-road, N.
1507—Metropolitan, 269 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)

1333—Athelstan, Town Hall, Atherstone, Warwick.
1387—Chorlton, Masonic Rooms, Chorlton Cum Hardy.
1561—Morecambe, Athenæum, Lancaster.

SATURDAY, 3rd JUNE.

General Committee, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
198—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.
R. A. 975—Rose of Denmark, Star and Garter, Kew Bridge.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

MONDAY.

R. A. 448—St. James's, Masonic Hall, St. John's-place, Halifax.

WEDNESDAY.

304—Philanthropic, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.
1383—Ryburn, Private Rooms, Town Hall-street, Sowerby-bridge.

THURSDAY.

306—Three Grand Principles, Masonic Hall, Dewsbury.
375—Harmony, Masonic Hall, 8 6th Parade, Huddersfield.
388—Fidelity, Masonic Hall, Carlton-hill, Leeds.
537—Candour, Private Rooms, Commercial Inn, Uppermill.
974—Perseverance, New Masonic Hall, Burley-street, Bradford.
1301—Savile, Royal Hotel, Elland.
1513—Friendly, King's Head Hotel, Barnsley.

FRIDAY.

242—St. George's, Victoria Room, Doncaster.
306—Alfred, Masonic Hall, Kelhall-street, Leeds.
321—Truth, Freemasons' Hall, Fitzwilliam-street, Huddersfield.
837—De Grey and Ripon, Town Hall, Ripon.

SATURDAY.

808—Prince George, Station House, Bottoms, Eastwood.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

TUESDAY.

1167—Alnwick, Masonic Hall, Market-place, Alnwick.

WEDNESDAY.

1119—St. Bede, Mechanics' Institute, Jarrow.

THURSDAY.

26—Newcastle-on-Tyne, Freemasons' Hall, Grainger-street-west, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
509—Tees, Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-street, Stockton-on-Tees.
571—St. Helen's, Masonic Hall, Regent's-square, Hartlepool.
676—St. Ogle, Masonic Hall, Morpeth.
859—Blagdon, Ridley Arms Hotel, Blyth.
1379—Marquess of Ripon, Freemasons' Hall, Archer-street, Darlington.

FRIDAY.

1250—Barnard, Witham Institute, Barnard Castle.
1667—Albert Edward, White Hart Hotel, Hexham.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

THURSDAY—47—St. James's, St. James's Hall, Writer's-court.
FRIDAY—291—Celtic of Edinburgh and Leith, Ship Hotel, 2, Register-street.

GLASGOW DISTRICT.

During the Tourist season we purpose giving the places of Meeting of all the Lodges in the West of Scotland, thinking it may prove useful to our visiting Brethren. All the Meetings take place at 8.0 p.m., unless otherwise specified.

MONDAY—103—Union and Crown, 30 Hope-street, Glasgow.
" R.A.—133—Thetis, 35 St. James's-street.
TUESDAY—550—Clydesdale, 108 Rose-street.
WEDNESDAY—R.A.—73—Caledonian or Unity, 363 Buchanan-street.
THURSDAY—11—St. John, King's Arms, Maybole.
" 140—St. Andrew, Masonic Hall, Irvine.
" 157—St. John's, Freemasons' Hall, Beith.
" 165—Royal Arch, King's Arms, Ayr.
" 302—St. Clements, Trades Tavern, Kilmarnock.
" 320—St. John, Freemasons' Hall, Ardrossan.
" 350—Renfrew, Co. Kilwinning, Freemasons' Hall, High-st., Paisley.
" 465—St. Andrew's, Freemasons' Hall, Garngad-road, Glasgow.
" 543—St. Vincent, Freemasons' Hall, 163 Kent-road, Glasgow.
FRIDAY—137—St. James', Crown Inn, Tarbolton, (Burns's Lodge.)
" 175—St. John, St. John's Hal , Cathcart-street, Greenock.
" 216—St. John, Avondale Inn, Strathaven.
" 217—Cumberland, Old Town Hall, Port, Glasgow.
" 276—Shamrock and Thistle, 24 Struther-street, Glasgow.
" 280—Commercial, 30 Hope-street, Glasgow.
" 408—Clyde, 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow.
" 573—Thoristree, School-room, Thorliebank, 7.0 p.m.
SATURDAY—306—St. John Wordhall, Freemasons' Hall, Holytown, 7.0 p.m.
" 408—St. John, Freemasons' Hall, Busby, 6.0 p.m.
" 544—St. Andrew's, Masonic Hall, Bank-st., Coatbridge, 7.0 p.m.

Tuscan Lodge, No. 14.—The brethren of this celebrated and excellent working Lodge met on Tuesday, the 23rd inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bro. A. C. Sadler W.M., E. Nash G.S. S.W., A. J. Bristow J.W., Glover P.G.S. Treasurer, Stanley Robinson P.G.S. Secretary, Turner S.D., N. Smith J.D., and P.M.'s Bothamley P.G.S., W. Richardson P.G.S., Lupworth P.G.S., W. F. Nettleship, Grand Sword Bearer, and J. Richardson. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Jarvis was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason by the W.M., in a very perfect and impressive manner. The audit meeting was fixed for the 15th July, at the Star and Garter, Richmond. The Lodge was then closed until October, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet room, where a very excellent dinner and dessert was provided by Bro. Francatelli, superintended by Bro. Knill. The W.M. very genially presided, and gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. In proposing the toast of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W. Grand Master, he said how gratifying it was to all in this great realm to see him return to his native country in health, and although he had been received everywhere with enthusiasm, none were more ready than each brother in the Order to do the same here. The toasts of the Pro Grand Master and the Deputy Grand Master were given. Fifteen years since a member of the Lodge was chosen to fill the post of a Grand Officer, and since our last meeting one has been again selected to fill office; that one had been worthily selected; he referred to Bro. Nettleship, Grand Sword Bearer. (Loud Cheers). He would not only add lustre to this Lodge, but also to Grand Lodge. Bro. Nettleship, on rising, received a perfect ovation. In the course of a very eloquent speech he said he felt honoured by being selected to fill office in Grand Lodge; he felt it was an honour to their Lodge. He hoped that many other brethren would, on future occasions, have Grand honours. Bro. Bothamley I.P.M. rose and said, he had a pleasing duty to perform, that was to propose a toast he was sure would meet with a hearty reception,—the health of the W.M. (Cheers). He was pleased to see that merit had received its reward in their selection. It was very rare to see a brother on the first night of his installation perform the ceremonies of the three degrees in so perfect a manner. He regretted he did not possess sufficient eloquence to do justice to the W.M.'s merits and ability, and to recall to their mind the courtesy with which he had presided over them. Without further preface he would ask them to drink his health. The W.M. thanked Bro. Bothamley for the kind manner he had spoken of him; he hoped to discharge his duties to the best of his ability; while he had their support it would be sufficient for him. He could assure them he had their interests at heart. He had now to propose a toast which always gives a Worshipful Master a degree of pleasure, and no toast is received with greater enthusiasm. The toast was that of the Visitors. We are pleased to show them what is done in the Lodge, and at the banquet table we are also pleased to see them, and, in the name of the Lodge, we give them a hearty welcome. Bro. Leadan P.G.D.C. Oxford, in a very eloquent speech, responded to the toast. He gave a description of the beauties of Masonry, and the principles laid down for our guidance. The W.M. then proposed the Past Masters and the rest of the Officers, including Bros. Glover, Treasurer, Stanley Robinson, Secretary, Nettleship G.S.B. W.S. The Lodge was indebted to them for the valuable assistance rendered on every occasion. Bro. Glover P.G.S., Treasurer, returned thanks; he was proud to say the funds were in a prosperous condition. He was the oldest Past Master in the Lodge, and it was, this night, twenty-four years since he was initiated, and twenty years since he occupied the chair; he had seen many W.M.'s perform their duties, but never one better than the present W.M. He, in the name of the Past Masters, begged to assure the brethren that their services were always at the command of the Lodge. Bro. Nash S.W. responded for the Wardens, and the Tyler's toast concluded a very agreeable and harmonious evening. Bros. Mountenay and Jarvis sang some very excellent songs. The visitors were Bros. Leadan P.G.D.C. Oxford, Fry, Grove 974, Styan 1216, W. Emden 1201, Pink 1593, Armstrong 1593, Rev. F. D. Barker 1253, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules, Leadenhall Street, on Thursday evening last, 25th May. Present—Bros. Salmoneso W.M., Holland S.W., Hocking J.W., Ellis S.D., Briant J.D., Walker I.G., Grammer Hon. Sec., Austin P.M. Preceptor, and numerous other brethren. The ceremony of the 1st degree was rehearsed, Bro. Maidwell being the candidate. The 1st section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Ellis, the 3rd and 4th by Bro. Briant, and the 2nd and 5th by Bro. Horsley, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Lipscombe, of the Kent Lodge, was elected a joining member. It was proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to the W.M., Bro. Salmoneso, for the excellent manner in which he had discharged the duties of the chair on this occasion, it being the first time at this Lodge of Instruction. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in perfect harmony.

Digitized by Google

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting on Monday, 22nd inst., at Bro. Gay's, Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell. Present—Bros. Crawley W.M., Tolmie S.W., Halford J.W., Morrison S.D., Pearcy J.D., Killick I.G., Christopher Tyler; P.M. Bro. Beckett Preceptor; Visitor, Bro. S. M. Harris 406. Business—The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Powell candidate. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Hill candidate. The 4th and 5th sections were worked by Bro. Beckett. Bro. S. M. Harris 406 was elected a joining member, and Bro. Dickinson was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week.

St. Barnabas Mark Lodge, No. 97.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Thursday, the 11th of May, at the Masonic Hall, Linslade, Bucks. Present—Bros. F. Howell W.M., McCubbin S.W., Williams as J.W., Morgan S.D., Poynter I.G., Deverell Tyler; P.M. Bro. Fountain. Visitor—Bro. Scriven 167. Business—After the minutes had been confirmed, the ballot was taken for Bro. M. Rest, S.W. 948, which proving unanimous, he was admitted and regularly advanced to the degree of M.M.M., Bro. Fountain P.M. assuming the chair whilst the W.M. and his Wardens took the respective chairs of the absent O.'s. The election of W.M., Treasurer and Tyler for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, and proved unanimous in favour of the S.W., Bro. McCubbin, as W.M. elect, Fountain P.M. Treasurer, and Deverell Tyler. It was carried unanimously that the retiring W.M. should be presented with a P.M.'s jewel, in recognition of his ability in working the ceremonies of the degree, and of his interest in Mark Masonry, in which sense that brother gratefully accepted the compliment. The new W.M. will, all being well, be installed by Bro. Howell on the second Thursday in August next. All business being transacted, the Lodge was closed and adjourned.

St. James's Union, No. 180.—A convocation of this Chapter and installation meeting was held on Tuesday, the 23rd, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street. Comps. L. Herf Z., Cameron as H., Smethett J., Reed P.Z. S.E., Knivett S.N., W. C. Parsons P.S., Gillard 1st Assistant, Pillin 2nd Assistant. The Chapter was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Comp. T. Reynolds jun. of St. Paul's Chapter, Montreal, 874, was elected a joining member. Bros. W. J. Bishop, No. 180, and W. C. Crump were duly exalted into R.A. Masonry. Comp. Reed P.Z. then installed: Comps. J. R. Stacey M.E.Z., Smithett H., and W. C. Parsons J., in a very perfect and impressive manner. The ceremonies were worked most creditably, and the approbation expressed by the companions present showed their appreciation. The newly installed Z. then invested Comps. Cameron as Treasurer, Reed P.Z. S.E., Knivett S.N., Gillard P.S., Pillin 1st Assistant, Annett 2nd Assistant. He then presented Comp. L. Herf, the retiring Z., in the name of the Chapter, with a very elegant P.Z. jewel, for the able manner he had conducted the duties of the chair. The valuable gift having been suitably responded to, the Chapter was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a very excellent banquet. The usual Loyal and Royal Arch toasts were given, and some very capital speeches were made. The toasts of the M.E.Z., P.Z.'s and officers were given, and also that of the Visitors, who were Comps. C. A. Cottebrune P.Z. 77, 177, and 733, E. P. Albert P.Z. 188, Barfield P.Z. 19, Belfrage 145, B Swallow 877, and H. M. Levy P.Z. 188.

Joppa Chapter, No. 188.—The regular Convocation of this Chapter was held on Monday, the 22nd inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. Comps. M. Emanuel Z., W. Littaur H., S. Pollitzer as J., S. V. Abrahams P.Z. Treasurer, P. Dickinson S.E., L. Lazarus S.N., L. Jacobs P.S., and P.Z.'s H. M. Levy I.P.Z., S. Lazarus, E. P. Albert, J. Lazarus, and Comps. Baum, W. H. Gilmar, L. Asselman, Beckbander, P. Moore, J. Lyon, Guilford, G. Ellis, &c. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. S. Brown, of Great City Lodge, was balloted for, and duly exalted into R.A. Masonry, especial praise being due to the M.E.Z., Principals and Officers for their correct working. The election for Principals and Officers then took place, and the following Companions were unanimously elected:—M. J. Emanuel (who was absent through indisposition) Z., W. Littaur H., L. Jacobs J., S. V. Abrahams P.Z. Treasurer, P. Dickinson S.E., Phillips S.N., L. Lazarus P.S., Smith Janitor. Comp. H. M. Levy then proposed, and Comp. J. Lazarus seconded, that a sum of two guineas be given from the funds of the Chapter, and that that sum be augmented by the Companions, for the purpose of presenting Comp. M. Emanuel M.E.Z. with a testimonial on his retiring from the chair, in consideration of the efficient manner he had discharged his duties during his year of office. This was carried unanimously, and was subscribed to liberally. The resignation of two Companions was accepted, with regret. The Chapter was then closed until November, and the Companions sat down to a very excellent banquet, provided by Comp. W. G. Jennings, and superintended by Comp. Keeping. The Z. then proposed the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts. Comp. S. Brown returned thanks for the toast of the newly exalted. Comp. S. Pollitzer P.Z. in the course of his speech, in giving the toast of the M.E.Z., said it was the last time he would have an opportunity of proposing it. He must say that Comp. Emanuel had discharged his duty in the chair in every respect; in every office he had held he had also given evidence of his ability; he has his business avocations, but time and distance is nothing to him. He had done his duty, and in the name of the Chapter he wished him health and long life. (Cheers.) The M.E.Z. in reply, enumerated the various offices he had held in the Craft. He said it seemed like a dream, to rise from the other end to the highest office the Chapter could bestow, but he was pleased to hear their expressions of satisfaction that he had done his duty, not only in the Chapter, but also in presiding over them. The position of a P.Z. of a London Chapter carries great weight in every county, and he was pleased to inform them that shortly he hoped to be the possessor of Provincial Grand Lodge honours. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the Visitors, they were but few in number, but they held distinguished positions in the Order, and he, as well as every Companion, was pleased to see them. Comp. F. Walters P.Z., 1st Asst. Prov. G. Chapter Middlesex, returned thanks for the toast, and spoke of the excellent working of the Chapter, and the high qualifications of the P.Z., who had done good suit and service. He was pleased to see one among them who had received Grand Lodge honours. Comp. W. W. Morgan, 141, followed, he thanked the brethren for the hearty reception he had received. He was pleased to see the great unanimity of feeling that existed amongst the Companions; while that feeling lasted the Chapter must flourish. Comp. Skinner, 177, also returned thanks. Comp. H. M. Levy I.P.Z. responded for the toast of the P.Z. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the M.E.Z. elect, and the newly elected Principals and Officers. He regretted the absence of the former Companion, through indisposition; he spoke of the qualifications of the H., the J. and the P.Z.; the S.E., Comp. Dickinson, had ably discharged his duty for two successive years; the books were never better kept, and every detail was satisfactorily carried out; his services were fully appreciated by every member of the Chapter, and he hoped to see him in due course occupy the chair of M.E.Z. Comps. W. Littaur, Jacobs, Dickinson, and Phillips severally returned thanks. During the evening Comp. Morgan artistically delivered a recitation. Comp. Dickinson also contributed to the harmony. The Companions separated early.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, 193.—The Lodge met as usual, at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons' Avenue, Basinghall Street, E.C., on Wednesday, the 24th inst. Present—Bros. Hollands W.M., Sadlier S.W., Sayer J.W., J. Constable P.M. Treasurer, J. K. Pitt Secretary, Blackall S.D., Rudderforth J.D., Felton I.G., Christopher Tyler. E. Tattbill P.M. Preceptor, and upwards of twenty brethren. The Lodge having been opened, minutes read and confirmed, it was raised to the higher degrees, and the third ceremony rehearsed, Bro. Bagg acting as candidate. The W.M. acquitted himself so well of his rather difficult task as to elicit the hearty approbation of the assembly. The three sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Gottheil, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge having been lowered to the 1st degree, Bros. Macarthy, Benson and Bagg were unanimously elected joining members of this Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Blackall will preside on the next occasion.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting on Saturday, 20th inst., at Bro. Fysh's, Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington. Present—Bros. McCarthy W.M., Powell S.W., Read J.W., Killick Sec., Halford Treas., H. P. Isaac S.D., Huggins J.D., Lemann I.G.; P.M.'s, Bros. Mackey 861, and Parsley 861; Visitors, Bros. S. Holmes 1171, Lemann 1572 and Wassenberg 188. Business—The Lodge was duly opened and the minutes confirmed. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Richardson being the candidate. Bro. Stuck worked the 1st section of the 3rd lecture. Bros. Mackey, Parsley, S. Holmes, Lemann and Wassenberg were elected members, and Bro. Powell was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week.

Athol Lodge, No. 413.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Tuesday, 23rd inst., to receive a deputation from the P.G.L., consisting of Bros. J. Baird Acting P.G.M., A. McTurnait D.M. P.G.S., J. Gillies P.G. Treas., J. Miller 87 P.G.J.D., J. Balfour P.G.D. of C., John Miller 413 P.G.D. of Music, J. Allison P.G.J.D., J. Ritchie P.G.A., D. Reed P.G.I.G., and J. B. Hardie P.G.T. The report was of a highly satisfactory nature, the minute book was most admirably kept, and though there had been 22 initiates during the year there had not been one emergency meeting called, and the requirements of the Constitution had been fully carried out. The Acting P.G.M. said his only regret to-night was that Bro. Neilson was still too unwell to be amongst them, but, as the next best thing, he would read the sun letter he had addressed to all the Lodges in the Province. Bro. Lauttit expressed the pride he felt at listening to such a favourable report, and it should be no fault of his if they were not able to give as good a one next year for the term of office. The deputation then retired, and for the first time for twelve months the Lodge proceeded to work an emergency meeting, by initiating Mr. John Mackey and passing thirteen other brethren to the Fellow Craft degree. Bro. Lauttit was assisted in this work by Bros. D. Leeds S.W., A. Holmes J.W., P. Agnew Treasurer, Wm. Grisely J.D., and R. Gardener Tyler. Both the degrees were ably and fully worked, and all were pleased with the visit of the deputation.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—Held its weekly meeting on Thursday, 25th May, when the following brethren were present: Bros. G. Dace W.M., Fowler S.W., T. O. Davis J.W., Allcott (Hong Kong) S.D., Blundell J.D., Holden I.G., T. Cull Sec., Mander Preceptor, Weeks, S. Lloyd, Lorrier, Hull, Fife, Hooker, Watts, Willis, Harvey, T. Lloyd, Belfrage, Bentley, Gardiner, Dutton, &c. Lodge opened, and 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th sections of the first lecture were worked. Lodge opened in the 2nd degree, and the 2nd, 3rd and 4th sections were worked. Lodge opened in the 3rd degree, and the 3rd section worked. Lodge resumed, and Bros. Fife 879, Docker 1563, and Woods 145 were admitted joining members. The Secretary announced that the Benevolent Association now numbered 35 members; also that the 15 sections would be worked by the brethren of the Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, at the Wheatsheaf Hotel, Hand Court, Holborn, on the 30th inst., at the invite of the brethren of the Constitutional Lodge of Instruction.

Digitized by Google

Thorntree Lodge, No. 512.—This Lodge held its bi-monthly meeting on Saturday, the 20th inst., at Thornlie Bank, on which occasion they were favoured with a visit from the P.G.L. of Renfrewshire East. The deputation consisted of Bros. Caldwell D.P.G.M., Gilmour P.G.S.W., McPherson P.G. Treas., and McLeand. They were accompanied by deputations from both the Paisley Lodges, amongst whom we recognised Bros. Andrews R.W.M., McLeod I.P.M., Fisher J.W., and Somers of 129, Bro. Anderson I.P.M. 370, and J. Campbell I.P.M. 128. The deputation expressed themselves as highly pleased, not only with the excellent way in which the books were kept, but also with the general efficiency of the Lodge. Bro. R. Scobie then proceeded to initiate two gentlemen in a most careful manner. He was ably assisted by his office-bearers, Bros. R. Fletcher S.W., R. McEwan J.W., Jardine T., E. Schindler Sec., R. Hastie S.D., Water J.D., and Beatly I.G., Bro. J. Clugston carefully Tyling. The Lodge was then called to refreshment, when, after "The Queen, the Prince of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," and "The Three Grand Lodges" had been given, the Master said it gave him a great deal of pleasure to couple the toast of the P.G.L. with so good a Mason as Bro. Caldwell. He (the Master) made a point of attending the Quarterly Communications, and he always found Bro. Caldwell at his post. Bro. Caldwell expressed the gratification he felt at being present. He had congratulated the Lodge earlier in the evening, but now, after seeing the excellent way in which the initiation had been conducted, his only regret was that Col. Campbell had not been present to see that in what was called a country Lodge they could work equal to any in the towns. He gave them the R.W.M. Bro. Scobie, in reply, gave a history of the formation of the Lodge, and regretted that Bro. Horner, their P.M., was not present, because he was really the Father of the Lodge: he not only acted as Master, but actually made all their working tools and jewels, and presented them to the Lodge. He thus left him an easy task, but during the three years he had occupied the chair is had been his constant endeavour to follow in the footsteps of so worthy a predecessor. In response to toasts from the chair, the R.W.M. of St. Mirrens 129, and Bro. Anderson of 370, replied for their respective Lodges. Bro. Wheeler's health having been proposed, in flattering terms, he replied, saying he was glad if at any time, from having had a little more experience, he had been enabled to fulfil a Masonic duty, by imparting a little light. It was always a pleasure to attend such a well-conducted Lodge, and gratifying to find that, last year, 22 fresh candidates had found shelter under the Thorntree. While it was officered as at present it would remain green and flourish.

St. John's Lodge, No. 795.—The first meeting of the season of this country Lodge was held on Tuesday, the 23rd inst., at the Ray Mead Hotel, Maidenhead. Bro. J. H. Foulger P.M. as W.M., H. Turner S.W., C. Gammon P.M. Treasurer as J.W., H. H. Hodges P.M. Secretary, Denoon S.D., Nowell J.D.; and P.M. Bro. C. N. Harvey, and several brethren. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Several candidates, whose names had been placed on the agenda paper, were not presented. After the Lodge was closed, a very excellent banquet was prepared. The usual toasts were given and responded to, and the brethren returned to town early.

New Concord Lodge, No. 813.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on the 18th inst., at the Rosemary Branch Tavern, Hoxton. Bros. J. E. Gallnas W.M., Cosworth S.W., Harper J.W., G. Sinclair Treasurer, W. H. Main Secretary, Stead S.D., S. George J.D., J. Taylor Steward, Speight Tyler, and P.M.'s J. Emmens P.G.P., Atkins, Salisbury, and T. Bartlett. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Chance and Pierpoint were raised to the 3rd degree, in a very able and perfect manner. Bro. Sinclair announced his intention to act as Steward at the forthcoming Festival for the Boys' School. It was proposed to have a summer banquet at the Alexandra Palace. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured. Those of the W.M. and P.M.'s were given. Bro. Chinnery 145 returned thanks for the visitors. Bro. Sinclair, Treasurer, returned thanks for the Masonic Charities, and Bro. Cosworth for the Officers. Some very capital harmony emanated from Bros. Hubbard, Wicks and Brown. Bro. Pile 860 was also present as a visitor.

The New Concord Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at 8, at the Rosemary Branch Tavern, Hoxton.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge met at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 23rd May. Present—Bros. Smith W.M., P.M. Ashbarner S.W., Cumbridge J.W., Welge S.D., Barker I.G., P.M. Wallington Preceptor, Worsley Secretary, and other brethren. It being the fourth Tuesday in the month, the W.M. worked the three degrees, Bro. Worsley acting as candidate. The working was admirably done, considering that Bro. Smith, the W.M., has not taken office in any regular Lodge, and also considering that he is a very young Brother in the Craft.

Upton Lodge, 1227.—This Lodge met on Thursday, the 18th inst., at the "Spotted Dog," Upton, Essex. In the absence of Bro. Alfred Holtham W.M., Bro. R. Bolton P.M. occupied the chair. There were also present Bros. David Posener S.W., G. B. Brown J.W., J. Wayland Treasurer, B. Peeking P.M. Secretary, W. J. Page S.D., W. Webster J.D., A. W. Fenner I.G., G. Gullock Tyler, and an average number of members. As a considerable amount of work had to be disposed of, the Lodge was called at 2·30 p.m. Upon the confirmation of the minutes, Bros. Key, Sullivan, Percy and Clark were raised to the degree of Master Masons, Bros. Vinacombe and Canfield were crafted, and Mr. David Legg was admitted to the Order in due form, according to ancient custom. A notice of motion to rescind Bye-law No. 7, which limits the number of members to fifty, given by Bro. David Posener at a previous meeting, was then fully discussed, and eventually carried. Refreshment was then served, after which the usual toasts were briefly given, and responded to. Bro. Rogers, a visitor, expressed his thanks for having been permitted to enjoy a very pleasant and happy evening, and trusted to have future opportunities of being present at their gatherings. Various songs enlivened the proceedings, at which Bros. Engel, Brown, Rogers, and Fenner especially distinguished themselves.

Chiltern Lodge, No. 1470.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, 16th inst., at the Lodge room, Town Hall, Dunstable. Present—Bros. F. Howell W.M., Haselgrove S.W., Randall J.W., Saunders Sec., Rev. C. B. Harris Chaplain, Otway S.D., Sinkwell J.D., Cutler as I.G., Day Tyler; Bros. Benning, Gard, Crew, Beart, &c.; Visitors—Bros. Holmes, Doherty 238, Higgins 475, Rest 948. Business—The Lodge having been duly opened, and the minutes confirmed, a ballot was taken for Bro. C. S. Benning as a joining member, which proved unanimous in his favour. The Lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bro. Crew was entrusted; it was then opened in the the 3rd degree, and Bro. Crew was raised, with that impressiveness of ritual and perfection of working for which the officers of this Lodge are notable. All other business having been disposed of, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to Bro. Saunder's, Sugar Loaf Hotel, where they did ample justice to the host's well prepared supper.

Felix Lodge, No. 1494.—A meeting of this Lodge was held at the Clarence Hotel, Teddington, on Saturday, the 20th inst. Present—Bros. F. Sumner Knyvett W.M., F. B. Archer S.W., Robert Berridge J.W., Edward B. Grabham I.P.M., Prov. G.S. Middlesex, Secretary, W. G. Moore S.D., E. A. Woolley I.G. Visitors—Bros. Lieut. Col. Francis Burdett Prov. G.M. Middlesex, S. E. Turner, Lodge of Antiquity 2, T. E. Woollard, Burdett Lodge 1293. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and confirmed. Mr. John Westson was then initiated into the Order by the W.M., after which Bros. Getty, Hunter, Twinberrow and Younghusband were passed to the 2nd degree, and Bros. Belward and Sadler were raised to the 3rd degree, the whole of the ceremonies being performed by the W.M. in a manner which reflected the highest credit on the Lodge. The election of W.M. for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, the unanimous choice of the brethren falling upon Bro. F. B. Archer S.W., a brother who is exceedingly popular in the Lodge, for his amiable qualities and high Masonic attainments, and whose year of office will be looked forward to with the most pleasurable anticipations. Bro. Archer having acknowledged the honour conferred upon him, Bro. D. Nicholson P.M. 19 was unanimously re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. W. Y. Laing P.M. 45 Tyler, for the ensuing year. Bro. Grabham I.P.M. then rose, and proposed that the best thanks of the Lodge be accorded Bro. Knyvett W.M. for the able, courteous, and efficient manner in which he had presided over the Lodge during his year of office, and, as a slight mark of respect, the brethren present him, at the next meeting, with a P.M. jewel of the usual value. This proposition was seconded by Bro. Archer S.W., and carried unanimously. Bro. Colonel Francis Burdett expressed his satisfaction with the manner in which the work of the Lodge was carried out, and congratulated the W.M. upon the success which had attended the Lodge since its formation. He then gave the members a few valuable suggestions with regard to the admission of initiates and joining members, his remarks being received with great acclamation by the brethren; he then took his leave of the Lodge, expressing regret that other more pressing engagements prevented his remaining to the banquet. This was presided over by the W.M., and after the removal of the cloth the usual loyal toasts were given and responded to. The health of the Deputy Grand Master, Grand Officers, past and present, were proposed by Bro. Grabham I.P.M., and acknowledged by the W.M., Bros. Knyvett and Berridge J.W. (Grand Stewards for the year). The health of the W.M. was proposed, and received in the most cordial manner. Bro. Knyvett briefly acknowledged the compliment. Bros. Weston and Sealey responded for the Initiates, and Bro. Woollard for the Visitors. The W.M. next proposed the I.P.M., Bro. Grabham, who cordially thanked the brethren for all the kindness received at their hands, and congratulated the Lodge upon having elected their much esteemed brother the S.W. as their W.M., and predicted a year of great prosperity for the Lodge. Bro. F. B. Archer, W.M. elect, was the next toast proposed, and it is needless to say how very heartily this was received by the brethren. Bro. Archer assured the Lodge that he would do all in his power to maintain the high position which the Lodge had attained in the two years of its existence, and that he would endeavour to emulate the example of the two Past Masters, Bro. Grabham and Bro. Knyvett, who had preceded him. Bro. Berridge J.W. having acknowledged the toast of the Officers, the Tyler's toast was then proposed, and duly responded to, the brethren separating after spending a most enjoyable evening.

There is a Lodge of Prudent Brethren in London. There are some American Masons who might be benefitted by association with that sort of Lodge—for example, those who "have no time to read." And those who can afford almost anything but a subscription to a Masonic periodical.—American Paper.

Digitized by Google

FAREWELL MEETING OF SIX LODGES AND TWO CHAPTERS.

GLASGOW Kilwinning Lodge, No. 4, met, for the last time, in their hall, 170 Buchanan-street, on Friday, 19th May, at 6 p.m. The Lodge was opened by Bro. R. Prout R.W.M., with Bros. McLeod I.P.M. of 129 Paisley, G. W. Wheeler 73 acting J.W. There being two candidates, Bros. N. C. Bostick and McNair, for the 3rd degree, Bro. Prout requested Bro. T. M. Campbell, P.M. of the Clyde, 408, to perform that ceremony, which he did in an elaborate manner. The Lodge was then called from labour, and placed under the charge of the J.W. After the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts had been done full justice to, Bro. Prout said: Having toasted our own Provincial Grand Lodge, I have now much pleasure in giving that of the Province of Renfrewshire East. Bro. J. Andrews, R.W.M. of St. Mirrens, Paisley, briefly replied, as did also Bro. J. Peters R.W.M. 156 and P.G.J.W. of Renfrewshire, who thanked the Glasgow brethren for their kindness; they were progressing so well under Col. Campbell, the P.G.M., that they hoped soon to see him on the throne as G.M.

Bro. McDonald, R.W.M. Thistle and Rose, proposed prosperity to Kilwinning, No. 4, in their new location; it was an old and much respected Lodge, and an old Lodge, with a young and energetic Master like Bro. Prout, would be sure to succeed, let their location be where it might.

Bro. Prout acknowledged the compliment; they would have much preferred to have remained in that hall, where they had passed many happy hours during the last 13 years, and on the decoration of which they had spent large sums of money, but as it was only a lease they had, and it was up before he was aware they were to leave, he found the place had been taken over their heads, and, in common with the other Lodges and Chapters meeting there, they had suddenly to look for a new home. He hoped the day might yet come when they should again have a hall of their own, when he had no doubt some of their old tenants would be glad to again take part with them, like chickens coming back to the old hen. He would now ask them for bumpers for the six Lodges and Chapters who had met in that hall, and he would ask the representatives of each of those bodies to reply.

Bro. George McDonald, R.W.M. 73, replied for his Lodge, stating that in that hall he first saw Masonic light, and there, five years since, he had presided as a Master. His Lodge was sorry that their connexion with No. 4 was terminating, but though no longer tenants they hoped to see them sometimes as visitors.

Bro. N. Cameron, Treasurer of 103, was sorry that the R.W.M. of his Lodge had been unable to take part in the closing celebration, the more so as his forte was not speaking, but only taking care of the money after others had talked to get it.

Bro. J. B. McNair I.P.M. replied for the Union, 332. They had always sat there on most amicable terms, not only with the Kilwinning, but also with the other Lodges meeting there, and the friendships there formed he trusted would be lasting.

Bro. Wm. Harper, R.W.M. of the Clyde Lodge, could only reiterate the sentiments of the preceding speakers, and hope that the members of the Kilwinning would come to see him in his new home, in order that the Clyde might requite them for their hospitality of to-night. And, as the 2nd Principal of Chapter 69, he need not repeat himself, but only regret that their new 1st Principal had had to leave early, as he could have done justice to the subject.

Comp. G. W. Wheeler, Z. of 73, said he deeply regretted that the bodies who had been working together so harmoniously there had been compelled to separate. He could not forget that in this hall, under that splendid painted canopy, he had been told what the true Masonic word was. Under that same canopy he had been exalted. He little thought he should ever preside over such a body as he now had in Chapter 73. Whatever he knew about Masonry, here he learned its first lessons, and anything he had been enabled to do must always be associated in his mind with this hall. True, he had worked in England and in Ireland, and during the last year in the provinces, and next, he had been privileged to personally exalt 50 into Royal degree, and had assisted in the exaltation of 35 others, and he could not take a farewell of the foundation of his labours without feeling regret. He must also bear his testimony to the good qualities of their host of to-night, Bro. R. Prout, and also of his predecessors in that chair, and could most cordially wish prosperity to Kilwinning, No. 4, in their new habitation. (Cheers.)

It was then announced that the deputation from the St. Vincent Lodge, No. 553, had arrived. Bro. M. R. McDougal R.W.M., D. Stark D.M., and eighteen of the brethren, were then admitted, and received with all the honours. The R.W.M., in accordance with the old, but now seldom used, custom, resigning the chair and gavel to the head of the deputation, and Bro. Holms leaving the S.W. chair for Bro. Stark, while Bro. G. W. Wheeler handed over the control of the Lodge to Bro. Best, to act as J.W. Bro. Prout then proposed prosperity to St. Vincent's Lodge, and begged to assure them that in coming out West to meet them they were not coming in a spirit of rivalry, but only of pure friendship. The toast was drunk with acthusiasm, Bro. McDougal said: He fully reciprocated the kind expression of feeling evinced by Bro. Prout, and it was to show that the St. Vincent's were actuated by the same friendly feeling that, although it was late now, their Lodge decided, as soon as their own special business was over to-night to come over to say how glad they would be to welcome them out West. The only thing was, that their Hall in the West was only a temporary one, and would contrast very unfavourably with the splendid one in which they were now assembled. However, as he had said, it was only a temporary one, and St. Vincent's hoped, in a very few weeks, to be able to announce that they had secured more eligible premises. The Lodge was now united in itself, and success was certain. (Cheers.) Bro. Stark proposed "The Office-bearers of No. 4." Without good officers no Lodge could succeed; with them and a good Master success was certain, and no one would rejoice more at the prosperity of the old Kilwinning than the young St. Vincent. (Cheers.) Bro. McDougal having called on Bro. Prout to delight them with a sketch of his powers as a ventriloquist, Bro. Prout said he had been so unwell this last week that he had determined not to try his hand in that direction to-night, but to oblige the visitors he would give a slight sketch of "The Interview between Paddy and Scotty," which he did, to the great gratification of all present, and then resumed the chair. "Absent Brethren," and the last toast were then given, and the happy meeting terminated. Some excellent songs were given by our professional brethren W. H. Porter of 73, and J. Hunter D.M. of the Dramatic. Bro. Bostock, the "Comic King," also sung three songs, while the admirable readings and songs of amateurs were especially good. We may mention Bros. Clark, Riddle, Prout, McInnis, two Brothers McNair, and Smith.

MASONIC FOLLIES.—1. To think that the more a man eats the fatter and stronger he will grow—that is to say, the more members a Lodge takes in, the stronger and compact it will become. This is a folly ripe and rotten. 2. To believe that the more studies pupils take at school, the faster they will learn—that is to say, the more degrees a Mason takes the more Masonry he will know. This is a folly of the loudest sort. 3. To conclude that if exercise is good for the health, the more violent exhaustive it is the better—that is to say, the more Lodge ceremony it can go through, the more kindly the placid impulses of Masonry affect the soul. This is a folly broad and deep.

CHINESE CARVING.—For Sale, an elaborately carved Set of Ivory Chessmen. The Kings stand 6¼ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Knights and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with concentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican.—Advt.

The Freemason's Chronicle.

WEEKLY, PRICE THREEPENCE.

OFFICE:—67 BARBICAN, LONDON, E.C.

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE can be ordered of any Bookseller in Town or Country, but should any difficulty be experienced, it will be forwarded direct from the Office, on receipt of Post Office Order for the amount. Intending Subscribers should forward their full Addresses to prevent mistakes.

Post Office Orders to be made payable to W. W. MORGAN, at Barbican Office. Cheques crossed "London and County."

The Terms of Subscription (payable in advance) to THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE are—

Twelve Months, Post Free	...	...	£0 13 6
Six Months	ditto	...	... 0 7 0
Three Months	ditto	...	... 0 3 6

Agents, from whom Copies can always be had:—

Messrs. CURTICE and Co., 12 Catherine Street, Strand.
Mr. T. DRISCOLL, 87 Farringdon Street.
Mr. G. W. JORDAN, 169 Strand.
Messrs. MARSHALL and SONS, 125 Fleet Street, E.C.
Mr. M. J. PARKINSON, 114 Goswell Road, E.C.
Mr. H. SIMPSON, 7 Red Lion Court, E.C.
Messrs. SMITH and SONS, 183 Strand.
Messrs. SPENCER and Co., 23a Great Queen Street, W.C.
Messrs. STEEL and JONES, 4 Spring Gardens, Charing Cross.
Mr. G. VICKERS, Angel Court, 172 Strand.
Mr. H. VICKERS, 317 Strand.

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisers will find THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE an exceptionally good medium for Advertisements of every class.

Per Page...	...	...	...	...	...	£8 0 0
Back Page	...	...	...	...	...	£10 0 0

General Advertisements, Trade Announcements, &c. single column, 6s per inch. Double Column Advertisements 1s per line. Special Terms for a Series of insertions on application.

Births, Marriages and Deaths, 6d per line.

"A suitable gift from a Master to his Lodge."

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 8s 6d EACH,

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUMES I. and II.

London:—W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Sent, Carriage Paid, to any address in the United Kingdom, on receipt of Cheque or P.O.O.

Cloth Cases for Binding can be had from the Offices, price 1s 6d each

Digitized by Google

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,

Bro. J. L. Mather, P.M. 55, 1227, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Winchester-street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE,

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure

It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 6d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the World, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

YOUNG'S Arnicated Corn and Bunion Plasters are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d and 1s per box. Any Chemist not having them in stock can procure them.

Observe the Trade Mark—H. Y.—without which none are genuine. Be sure and ask for Young's.

NEW WORKS ON FREEMASONRY,

BY

Bro. CHALMERS I. PATON,

(Past Master No. 205, England).

FREEMASONRY: ITS SYMBOLISM, RELIGIOUS NATURE, AND LAW OF PERFECTION. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

FREEMASONRY AND ITS JURISPRUDENCE. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

THE ORIGIN OF FREEMASONRY: THE 1717 THEORY EXPLODED. Price 1s.

LONDON: REEVES & TURNER, 196 STRAND.
AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

MR. THOMAS C. MACROW,

252 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD,
LONDON, S.E.

(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)

BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let on sale and quickly (Town or Country). All parties wishing to sell, call or send full particulars. Registration fee. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 3. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c. Tamar (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—In 6d per box, post free 7d extra.—S. GRILLON, 34 Coleman-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. —A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a simple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.

Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Grove Terrace, Fulham London.

SOUTH EASTERN RAILWAY.

WHITSUNTIDE HOLIDAYS.

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR RETURN TICKETS.

ALL Express and Ordinary Return Tickets for distances over Ten Miles, including those between London and Bekenham Junction, issued on Friday, 2nd June, and six following days, will be available for the Return Journey by any Train of the same description and Class, on any day up to and including Thursday, 8th June 1876.

The Cheap Saturday to Monday Sea-side Tickets, issued on Saturday, 3rd June, will also be available for the Return Journey up to the same date.

This extension of time does not apply to the London and Gravesend Cheap Tickets, nor to those between London and Shalford and Stations to Wellington College inclusive.

SOUTH EASTERN RAILWAY.

WHITSUNTIDE HOLIDAYS.

CHEAP EXCURSIONS on Whit Sunday and Monday to the Sea-side, &c., leaving Charing Cross on Whit Sunday at 8.25 a.m., and Whit Monday at 7.45 a.m. for Dover, Folkestone, Shorncliffe, Westcnbanger, Hythe, Sandgate, and Ashford; at 8.55 a.m. on Whit Sunday, and 8.30 a.m. on Whit Monday for Hastings, St. Leonards and Tunbridge Wells; at 9.40 a.m. on Whit Sunday, and 8.5 a.m. on Whit Monday for Ramsgate, Margate, Canterbury, Minster, Sandwich and Deal. Returning the same day, as per Bills.

All these Excursion trains will call at Waterloo Junction, Cannon Street, London Bridge, and New Cross.

Fare there and back, 6s, Third Class. Children under 12, half fares. Tickets available for the day only, and by the trains named. No luggage allowed. Also cheap Excursions to Gravesend for Rosherville Gardens. For further particulars see bills.

JOHN SHAW,
Manager and Secretary.

THE Advertiser (M.M.) is open to an engagement as

MANAGER OF A GAS WORKS,

Where the make is from 20 to 30 millions per annum.

Draughtsman, and accustomed to erection. Testimonials and references.

Address—Manager, care of W. Bellerby, 2 Brill Street, Leeds.

New Edition, Enlarged, Crown 8vo., Cloth 6s.

WAIFS AND STRAYS, CHIEFLY FROM THE CHESS BOARD, by Captain Hugh A. Kennedy, Vice-President of the British Chess Association.

LONDON: W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican.

THE THEATRES, &c.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—This evening, LA TRAVIATA. On Monday, TANNHAUSER. On Tuesday, IL TROVATORE. On Thursday, DON GIOVANNI. On Friday, I PURITANI. On Saturday, UN BALLO IN MASCHERA. Each evening at 8.30. FLORAL HALL CONCERT 3rd June.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA, DRURY LANE.—This evening, SEMIRAMIDE. On Monday, FAUST. On Tuesday, LES HUGUENOTS. On Thursday, ROBERT LE DIABLE. On Saturday, FAUST. At 8.30 each evening, excepting Thursday, at 8.0 and Saturday morning at 2.0. On Monday morning, and Wednesday and Friday evenings, SIGNOR ROSSI in ITALIAN PLAYS.

QUEEN'S.—At 8.30, SALVINI. Monday, Tuesday and Friday.

LYCEUM.—At 7.30, A HUSBAND IN CLOVER. At 8.30, THE BELLS.

ADELPHI.—At 7.0, COLLEEN BAWN and STRUCK OIL.

PRINCESS'S.—ADEL DRAKE, &c.

HAYMARKET.—At 7.30, THE HUNCHBACK, &c. On Monday, THE LADY OF LYONS, &c.

STRAND.—At 7.30, HIS LAST LEGS. At 9.0, L'AFRICAINE. At 10.30, THE RIVAL OTHELLOS.

GAIETY.—At 7.45, BLUE DEVILS. At 9.30, MY AWFUL DAD. At 10.20 COOL AS A CUCUMBER.

CHARING CROSS.—At 8.0, PAMPERED MENIALS. At 8.45, THE GUILTY GOVERNESS. At 9.45, YOUNG RIP VAN WINKLE.

OLYMPIC.—At 7.30, FASCINATING FELLOWS. At 7.45, THE GASCON. At 10.30, UNDER A VEIL.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—At 8.0, OURS.

ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE.—At 7.30, THE TAILOR MAKES THE MAN. At 8.15, JO.

GLOBE.—At 7.30, SQUARING THE CIRCLE. At 8.0, MISS GWILT, &c.

VAUDEVILLE.—At 7.30, A WHIRLIGIG. At 8.0, OUR BOYS, and a FEARFUL FOG.

COURT.—At 8.0, A SCRAP OF PAPER, and A QUIET RUBBER.

ST. JAMES'S.—NOTHING TO NURSE, and THE SULTAN OF MOCHA.

OPERA COMIQUE.—LE PETITS MARIE. On Monday, GIROFLE-GIROFLA.

CRITERION.—At 8.0, MARY'S SECRET, and THE GREAT DIVORCE CASE, &c.

ALHAMBRA.—LE VOYAGE DANS LA LUNE, &c.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.—This day, BALLAD OPERA, FIREWORKS, &c. On Monday, BICYCLE RACE, Mrs. HOWARD PAUL, &c. On Tuesday, TICKET OF LEAVE MAN. On Thursday, STILL WATERS RUN DEEP, FIREWORKS, &c. Open Daily, BROEKMANN'S CIRCUS, SKATING RINK, &c.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—This day, CHORAL FESTIVAL. On Thursday FIREWORKS. Open daily, AQUARIUM, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL AQUARIUM SUMMER AND WINTER GARDEN. Open daily. CONCERT, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL POLYTECHNIC.—MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT, entitled ALICE'S ADVENTURES. Solos on the Violin and Zither. NEW LECTURE: A SUNBEAM, and HOW TO WEIGH IT. HEINKE'S DIVING DRESS and SUBMARINE LAMP. The New Type Writer in operation. FROM ENGLAND TO PHILADELPHIA. A TRIP TO THE SUEZ CANAL. Dissolving Views and Mechanical Effects. MARVELLOUL ILLUSIONS BY M. HORACE DE GREY. Open from 12 till 5, and 7 till 10. Admission to the whole, 1s.

EGYPTIAN (LARGE) HALL.—MASKELYNE AND COOKE, daily at 3.0 and 8.0.

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief PARISIAN ESTABLISHMENTS, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

Digitized by Google

H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF

MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND REGALIA,

5 ST. JOHN SQUARE, LONDON.

PRICE LIST ON APPLICATION.

SPENCER'S MASONIC MANUFACTORY,

OPPOSITE FREEMASONS' HALL.

COSTUME, JEWELS AND FURNITURE FOR ALL DEGREES.

A QUANTITY IN STOCK.

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.

SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

ESTABLISHED 1833.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,

MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,

AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING

Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.

MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;

AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.

ESTIMATES GIVEN.

JOSEPH J. CANEY,

DIAMOND MERCHANT, AND MANUFACTURING JEWELLER AND WATCH MAKER,

44 CHEAPSIDE, LONDON.

MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND FURNITURE.

Specialité—First Class Jewels—Artistic—Massive—Best Quality—Moderate in Price.

CATALOGUES POST FREE.

A LARGE STOCK OF LOOSE BRILLIANTS FOR EXPENSIVE JEWELS.

Diamond Rings, Brooches, Studs, Earrings and Bracelets in Great Variety.

NEW MASONIC SONGS.

"THE PRINCE AND THE CRAFT," Written by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, 1385. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON.

"THE APRON BLUE." Written by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, 1385. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH (NETT), FREE BY POST.

London: W. W. MORGAN, Office of the "Freemason's Chronicle," 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

THE "SPECIALITE SHERRY.'

FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT.—The British Medical Journal.

VALUABLE FOR GOUTY OR URIC ACID TENDENCIES." — DR. HASSWICKER, Metropolitan Analyst, Coroner for Middlesex.

ADOPTED AND RECOMMENDED BY nearly 3,000 Physicians and Surgeons for its Valuable Dietetic Qualities. 30s per dozen.

FELTOE & SONS, Sole Proprietors and Importers. Chief Establishment, Albemarle-street, London, W.

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,

INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (REGISTD.)

"BRO. ADLARD'S far-famed JEWEL ATTACHER, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price is 6d. (if with pockets for Jewels 6d each pocket extra) places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and usefulness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Lodge Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,

Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8. No. 97 for MAY, now ready. Sixpence. CHESS, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE DRAMA. W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES. Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE (a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.

This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

"There should be a better reason for the race of Depositors than a fluctuating rate of two or three per cent."—INVESTOR'S GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited), Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City; and 377 and 379 Regent-street, W., Established 1862, receives Deposits. On Demand, 1 per cent. Subject to Notice, 2½ per cent. Opens Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to examine this new and improved system, that ensures a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-discounted or re-hypothecated any of the securities. TO BORROWERS.—It offers pre-eminent advantages for prompt advances on leases, reversions, policies, trade stocks, farm produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, sureties, or fees. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 377 and 379 Regent-street, W. Established 1862. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. TO INVESTORS.—Deposits received at liberal interest. The Directors by strict economy have hitherto paid every Investor 10 and 12 per cent. per annum. Borrowers are offered unusual facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. New and Special Feature.—The Society will build Houses, etc., in any approved part of Great Britain, finding the whole cost of the building, at 5 per cent., repayable by Instalments, the applicant merely finding the plan and paying or giving security for the first 5 years' interest. Prospectuses, balance-sheets, and press opinions free, and Agents wanted. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LONDON & NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY.

TOURIST ARRANGEMENTS, 1876.

1st, 2nd and 3rd Class Tourist Tickets available for Two Months, will be issued from 1st June to the 31st October 1876.

For particulars, see Time Tables and Programmes issued by the Company.

G. FINDLAY.

CHIEF TRAFFIC MANAGER'S OFFICE, EUSTON STATION, 1876.

LONDON and NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY.—EXCURSION to EDINBURGH and GLASGOW.—By the WEST COAST ROUTE for EIGHT DAYS.—On Friday 2nd June, a Cheap Excursion will leave Euston Station at 7.30 a.m.; Broad Street, 7.0 a.m.; Kensington, 7.20 a.m., for Edinburgh and Glasgow, returning from the Princes-street, Edinburgh, at 8.10 p.m. and Buchanan-street Station, Glasgow, at 8.0 p.m., on Friday, 9th June 1876.

Fares to Edinburgh or Glasgow and back, from Euston Station, 30s, 3rd class.

From Broad-street and Kensington, 30s 6d.

Bills containing full particulars can be obtained at any of the Company's Stations in London, and at Messrs. Gaze and Son's Tourist Office, 142 Strand.

G. FINDLAY.

Euston Station, 22nd May 1876.

GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTER MASONS OF ENGLAND AND WALES,

AND THE

COLONIES AND DEPENDENCIES OF THE BRITISH CROWN.

Right Hon. the EARL of LATHOM, M.W.G.M.M.M.

Right Hon. LORD SKELMERSDALE, Prov. G.M.M.M. of Lancashire, R.W.D.G.M.M.M.

Installation of M.W.G. Master, Appointment and Investiture of Grand Officers.

THE Summer Half-yearly Communication of this Grand Lodge will be held at the Hall, 33 Golden-square, London, on Tuesday, the 6th of June 1876, when and where all Grand Officers (past and present), W. Masters, Past Masters, Wardens and Overseers of Private Lodges, are hereby summoned to attend, and at which, by permission, all regularly registered Mark Master Masons may be present.

Grand Lodge will be opened at 5 o'clock p.m. The Banquet will be provided at Seven o'clock, at the Café Royal, Air-street, Regent-street, W. Tickets, Fifteen shillings (inclusive of Wine and Dessert).

Brethren intending to be present, are requested to send their names to the Grand Stewards, care of the Grand Secretary, as under.

By command,

FREDERICK BINCKES, Grand Secretary.

Office: 2 Red Lion-Square, Holborn, London, W.C.

24th May 1876.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY Limited, 7 Bank Buildings, Lothbury, E.C.

General accidents, Railway accidents. | Personal injuries. Death by accident.

C. HARDING, Manager.

DYER'S WATCHES.

Best and Cheapest in the World.

LOWEST Wholesale cash prices: Aluminium, 40s 6d; Silver, 20s; Silver Levers, 55s; Gold, 35s; Levers, 60s. All kinds of Watches, Clocks, and Gold Jewellery. Every watch timed, tested and warranted for two years. Orders safe per post. Price lists and illustrations free.—DYER & SON, Watch Manufacturers, 30 Regent Street, London, W., and Cheap-side. Funds.

MORING,

ENGRAVER, DIE SINKER,

HERALDIC ARTIST,

ILLUMINATED ADDRESSES,

44, HIGH HOLBORN, W.C.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE.

Printed and Published for the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE PUBLISHING COMPANY LIMITED, by BRO. WILLIAM WRAY MORGAN, at 67 Barbican, London, E.C., Saturday 27th May 1876.

Digitized by Google

THE

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

VOL. III.—No. 75. SATURDAY, 3rd JUNE 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

THANKOFFERINGS.

BRO. HAVERS'S AND THE REV. BRO. SIMPSON'S PROPOSALS.

OUR readers, doubtless, have seen the letter published last week, from Bro. Constable, and likewise the report quoted from our Masonic contemporary by the Daily News, which formed the subject of our esteemed brother's denunciation. Those of them who have the entrée to Grand Lodge know also, by this time, that two propositions are included in the agenda paper for the Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge, which will be held on Wednesday, the 7th inst. These propositions emanate from Bros. John Havers and the Rev. R. J. Simpson respectively, the motive in each case being the same, namely, to give substantial evidence of the real and unaffected joy which Masonry feels at the safe return home from India of the Prince of Wales. The manner, however, in which it is proposed to convey that evidence differs materially in the two resolutions. Bro. Havers invites Grand Lodge to devote a sum of £2,000, "in aid of the restoration of the two churches which are most intimately connected with the history of Freemasonry in England," that is to say, £1,000 towards the restoration of St. Paul's Cathedral, and £1,000 towards that of St. Alban's Abbey. Bro. the Rev. R. J. Simpson will move that a service of thanksgiving be held by the Craft, in St. Paul's Cathedral, on some convenient day, and that £1,000 be voted from the moneys of Grand Lodge towards the funds of such charitable object in India as may be recommended by the Grand Master. It was the latter part of this second motion which evoked, from Bro. Constable, an objection so instant; and having given admission to his strong expostulation against our Rev. Brother's idea, we purpose, on the present occasion, offering a few remarks on the subject of Grand Lodge Charity, and these proposed exceptional applications of its funds.

In the first place, we recognise the propriety of Grand Lodge, as the Diet of English Freemasons, expressing officially its hearty congratulations at the safe return, from foreign travel, of the Prince who presides over that Diet. In the next place, we see no well founded objection to the rejoicing at so auspicious an event taking a substantial turn; or, in other words, to a sum of money, more or less considerable, being voted from Grand Lodge funds towards some charitable object, as a meet token of the joy we experience, that His Royal Highness has been restored to us in full and vigorous health, after accomplishing so successful a progress through the Indian dominions of the Queen, his mother. There, however, we fear our accord with either Bro. Havers or his Reverend Grand colleague is, in some measure, at an end. In dealing with the proposed motions, we shall give priority to that of Bro. Havers. It is first in order of the business to be transacted next Wednesday, and our comments on it will be briefer than on its rival, Bro. Simpson's motion.

Assuming that our Charitable Institutions are sufficiently well provided with money to meet all requirements, actual and prospective, and that there is a large surplus at the disposal of Grand Lodge, with no imminent chance of any demand being made upon it; assuming, further, that, as far as human foresight can suggest, there is little likelihood of Grand Lodge available funds being reduced in the future, but rather a hope that they may go on increasing, then we say, we know of no worthier object to which English Freemasonry can contribute than towards the restoration of our metropolitan Cathedral of St. Paul's, or rather—and we presume this is the real aim of Bro. Havers's motion—the completion of its original designs, as contemplated by the great architect, Sir Christopher Wren. Without committing ourselves to an opinion as to whether Wren was a Mason in the sense in which we use the word now, we think there is little doubt that, but for his very advanced age, he would have played a prominent, perhaps the most prominent, part in the revival of Masonry as a speculative science. He was a great architect, a man of great scientific attainments; moreover, he was a good man. He was certainly a prince among architects and geometricians, if not a master of our Craft in a speculative sense; and as such he is worthy of all the honours which modern Freemasonry can bestow upon his memory. The completion of St. Paul's Cathedral according to his design may be regarded almost as a national work, and Freemasonry must not lag behind the rest of the world in contributing to works of national importance. Assuming then that there are, momentarily, no worthier objects on which Grand Lodge can expend its surplus funds, we see no reason why so much of Bro. Havers's motion as relates to the Cathedral of St. Pauls should not find favour, nor do we think £1,000 too large a sum to vote for such a purpose. As regards the restoration of St. Alban's Abbey, we are not of the same mind as Bro. Havers. That St Albans is a very ancient town, that its Abbey dates back to very early times, and that the Abbot thereof was granted precedence of all other Abbots in England, we have seen stated in historical works more or less trustworthy. Whether, however, there really ever was a St. Alban, who was a worthy Knight and Steward to the King, and had the making of the Town Walls of Verulam, since named after him, St. Albans; whether he loved Masons well and cherished them, paying them "every week three shillings sixpence to their double wages," and obtaining for them "a Charter of the King," and gave them "Charges;" whether, we say, a St. Alban ever lived, and if so, whether he did or did not do all these things which are ascribed to him—these are points we decline, on the evidence of a few MSS. of indeterminate value, to accept. We have a deep reverence for the past, but we do not "swallow" unproven all that is said or written about it. From a Masonic point of view, perhaps, there is no great harm done if we set down St. Alban as our first Grand Master of England. It is a pretty name, and the story reads prettily enough; but we must be careful to make mention, be it sportive or serious, of this interesting myth only among ourselves. If we announce publicly that we have voted £1,000 towards the restoration of St. Albans Abbey, because of a connection with our Order which never existed, the world, perhaps, may cynically quote a well known proverb, about fools and their money being soon parted; and, worse still, we shall deserve the rebuke. If, however, Bro. Havers can prove that St. Albans Abbey is one of "the two churches which are most intimately connected with the history of Freemasonry in England," we should be inclined to add a rider to his resolution, to the effect that a sum of £1,000 be presented to him for having made so wonderful a discovery. So much for Bro. Havers's motion. Let Grand Lodge satisfy itself there is no place within the domains proper of Masonry which stands in need of charity, and no likelihood of a call upon its funds for such purpose being made in the immediate or more distant future, and then, if it seem fit, let it vote £1,000 towards the completion of Wren's great masterpiece; but with the St. Albans part of his proposition, we have little, if any, sympathy.

Digitized by Google

We come now to Rev. Bro. Simpson's motion, that £1,000 be voted towards "such charitable objects in India as may be recommended by the Most Worshipful Grand Master." We say at once, we are more directly opposed to this motion than to the former. In the first place it is utterly uncalled for, and for this reason alone we trust Grand Lodge will reject it offhand. India is wealthy enough to promote its own charitable objects. There might have been some reason in making some such proposition when, a short time since, there was a famine in that country. Famine is one of the direst calamities that can befal the human race, and India and England are parts of one and the same empire. Yet if no aid were thought necessary in such a crisis, no contribution towards a local Indian charity can be needed now. But over and above this important primary objection, there are eminent reasons why the funds of Grand Lodge should not be thus carelessly disbursed. It may tickle the vanity of Bro. Simpson to have his name associated with a proposed thankoffering of this character. Some there are, perhaps, who may even go further, and suggest that a desire for personal fame is at the root of his proposal; while a few may exceed this limit, and contrive to evolve out of his motion something of that spirit of flunkeyism for which the true Mason has so utter a detestation. We, of course, being perfectly impartial critics in this and all other cases, and not unmindful of our obligation, not even to hint at, much less to think any evil of our fellows—we say, we very properly scout the existence of such ideas in our reverend brother's mind. We take his proposition as it stands. We deal with it on its merits as they present themselves to men of common sense who are perfectly unprejudiced. Emphatically we urge on Grand Lodge not even to entertain the idea of such a disbursement. There is absolutely not the shadow of a reason why it should. India, we have said, is wealthy enough to look after its own charities. True, there is enormous wealth in England, but, unhappily, there is a terrible amount of poverty likewise. There was reason in Grand Lodge contributing £1000 towards the Patriotic Fund. That fund was started to help ameliorate the condition of British men, women, and children whom the misfortune of war had disabled, or who were so deprived of their natural guardians and protectors. The Prince of Wales's visit to India was a royal progress, undertaken for the purpose of cementing more closely the bonds which unite India and England under the same sovereign Lady. Indians and Anglo-Indians have done much in the way of charity in that country in honour of that visit, and we here have rejoiced and are rejoicing that the Prince is home again. For this reason was it the City of London recently held high festival, and formally congratulated him on his return. If a grand Masonic celebration of the event is thought desirable, by all means let there be one. Or if an enduring Masonic memorial of the visit is considered more appropriate, let one be established. But, in the latter case, let the memorial be a home one, and if it take the form of a charitable contribution, let us bear in mind the very old yet very true saying, which Bro. Constable so pertinently quoted in his letter, that "Charity begins at home." True charity knows no distinction, either of race or creed; it is bounded by no geographical limits; it characterises all peoples. But true charity likewise takes heed of that which is nearer, before it deals with that which is more remote. While then there remains any English Masonic poverty to relieve, Indian or Anglo-Indian Masonic poverty has no claim whatever upon us in this country. Let it be borne in mind that this home Masonic poverty grows with the growth of our home Masonry. The more numerous we become, the more likely are we to have demands made upon our resources for charity. Bro. Constable indicated, with sufficient clearness, in his short letter, the purposes to which Grand Lodge might appropriately devote a portion of any available surplus it may have it in its power to bestow. Said he: "If Grand Lodge determines to make a thankoffering at this particular time, let it take the form of a contribution to one of our own charities—say the Boys' or Girls' School; the former has hardly any invested funds, and a large outlay; close upon £10,000 is being incurred in enlarging the latter." This was an essentially practical suggestion, founded on reasons which are obviously sound. Let us go a little further. If we take only the last three elections to these charities, we shall find the number of candidates on each occasion was very largely in excess of the number of vacancies. At the spring elections, in 1875, there were thirty-one girl and forty-eight boy candidates for thirteen and eight vacancies respectively; at last autumn elections there were thirty candidates for six vacancies in the girls', and fifty-eight for ten vacancies in the boys'; at the elections held last month the numbers were forty-three for eleven vacancies in the former, and fifty-nine for sixteen vacancies in the latter. In other words, for every candidate chosen at one of these six elections there were, on an average, at the very lowest computation, about three for whom it was impossible to make any provision. Would it be just, we ask, with such pressing necessities at home, to give so considerable a sum as £1,000 to some local charity in India? If we have spare money to bestow in charity, let us give at home first, and abroad afterwards. While there is a single Mason's son or daughter in this country who stands in need of help, let his or her claims be first satisfied, and let us disburse what then remains in assisting the indigent of other parts of the empire. If we were able to congratulate our Rev. Bro. Simpson—which we are not—on the very active part he takes in the working of our home charitable institutions, we should imagine he was induced to bring forward this motion of his in the belief that further pecuniary assistance was not needed on their behalf. We do not find his name among the Vice-Patrons and Vice-Presidents, or on the Governing Committees of either of our own institutions. We conclude, therefore, that, in his enthusiasm for India, he has quite forgotten there are such pressing wants at home. If he merely wishes his proposed memorial should possess some distinctive Indian feature, let him move a gift to the Boys' and Girls' School to be called, as Bro. Constable suggests, "The Prince of Wales's Indian Commemoration Gift," or by some such title. Or, if he thinks these are already in sufficient funds, there are many other deserving charities in England which sorely need assistance. Under any circumstances, we say again, there is absolutely no shadow of a reason why the moneys of Grand Lodge should be dispensed on any charitable institution in India.

Bro. Simpson's motion, though in a certain sense concrete in form, is, in fact, an abstract resolution. He really invites Grand Lodge to bestow £1,000 on some Indian charity, of which in all probability the Prince will know little beyond the name, and Masonry not even that much. We condemn all such vague unsatisfactory propositions in the strongest possible terms, and we trust Grand Lodge will reject it by an overwhelming majority. The honour of having obtained from Grand Lodge a vote of £100 towards exploring the site of King Solomon's Temple is enough for one brother to have achieved, even in this country of untold wealth and unrelieved indigence crying aloud for help.

MASONIC PORTRAITS (No. 30.)

FORTUNE'S CONQUEROR.

"I care not, Fortune, what you me deny;
You cannot rob me of free Nature's grace,
You cannot shut the windows of the sky,
Through which Aurora shows her brightening face;
* * * * * * *
Let health my nerves and finer fibres brace,
And I their toys to the great children leave;
Of fancy, reason, virtue, nought can me bereave."

NATURE in spite of her acknowledged graces, is but a blind nursing mother; she is constantly attempting to do coarse work with the finest tools, and she often uses the coarsest and most clumsy weapons in her armoury for the most delicate and difficult operations. We should think ill indeed of a watchmaker who should attempt to separate the beautiful mechanism of a watch with the turnscrew of a carpenter, or who should venture to lubricate its wheels and pinions with cart grease; but Dame Nature is ever doing something of this sort. She places the men, who should rule, in lowly stations, and governs us with intellects which would find more fitting employment at the bench or the plough. The square men are constantly and persistently placed in the round holes; the commanding brains are usually subject to the will of fools, and the world jogs on without ever reflecting upon the enormous waste of talent and power which the existing condition of things entails. Occasionally a man of genius pushes his way from the work-shop to the forum, or from the furrowed field to the university, but few men of native talent possess force sufficient to overcome the obstacles that are placed in the way of their march upwards. Many a man spends his days behind a counter who is fitted for a nobler sphere of action; many a so-called statesman could confer a lasting benefit upon his country if he would consent to give up politics and turn his attention to trade. But life is a lottery, and he is the truest philosopher who can consent to accept the inevitable, and make the best of it. Few men, however, are gifted with patience sufficient to bear the evil chances of the world easily. A man who finds himself in a false position, either sinks under his difficulties, or runs riot in a career which eventually leads to ruin. Some sturdy hearted people, however, appear to defy the adverse strokes of fortune, and achieve success in spite of the difficulties which may surround them. Though fate be never so cruel, they are sure to triumph, and let the starting point of their career be never so humble, they are sure to come, sooner or later, to the surface. But the mass of men who feel that they have that within them which in happier circumstances might have won them renown, are too sensitive to fight their way out of the ranks. They may accept their lot with apparent indifference, but the harness of servitude galls to the quick, and they either sink under their sufferings, or recklessly fling aside the realities of life for the pleasure of following an ignis fatuus, which sooner or later leads them into the mire. Such men sometimes awake to a just sense of their true sphere in life at the very first stumble, and many a man has reason to date his good fortune from the day when he lost his all in attempting to follow the supposed bent of his genius. The sudden plunge head over ears into adversity often acts like a charm. The man comes out of his cold bath a philosopher, ready to accept his fate with cheerfulness, and with his heart and mind steeled against the trials of the world.

Digitized by Google

The brother whose portrait we shall attempt to sketch has known some of the difficulties and the trials of life, and has borne a few of the adverse strokes of fortune. Nature fashioned him of finer clay than common, and then, in accordance with her usual practice, she placed him in a sphere in which he was ill fitted to shine. His tastes and the whole bent of his mind were strongly opposed to the mere drudgery of buying and selling. He would have made an admirable country gentleman, or an excellent soldier. If his father had started him in life with a commission, he might have accepted his lot thankfully, and at this moment he might have been performing the dry duties of an adjutant with the zeal of a man who had found his true vocation in life. Born to be a soldier, and fashioned of the stuff out of which men of the sword should be made, he might have passed his life happily and contentedly in the daily round of regimental duties. He has an eye for the details of military affairs, and perhaps even now if he had his way he would rather cast his critical glance over a battalion of tall fellows than give his opinion of a master piece of the studio. As a Lieutenant of Volunteers he has proved that he possesses military knowledge and tact. He was born in Halifax, Yorkshire and his father was in business at Bradford, as a manufacturer of woollen stuffs. The Yorkshire "makers," as they are called in the trade, have long been characterised by a spirit of restless enterprise, and they have taken the manufacture of fancy woollens entirely out of the hands of their rivals of the West of England. Yorkshire "goods" are known all over the world, and the superfine cloths of this great county are but little inferior to those of Gloucestershire. Our brother was apprenticed to his father's business, and, upon the expiration of his "time," he started for himself. But he was not fitted for the humdrum calling of a manufacturer. He possessed mental qualities which attracted attention, and he was courted by men who were in a position of life superior to his own. The pleasures of society attracted him from his counting-house to the hunting-field, where he distinguished himself as a bold and fearless rider. But one cannot follow the hounds and attend closely to the details of a woollen mill. While his workmen were toiling, or skulking, amid the clatter of machinery, he was putting in the woof of a web which the grim sisters in due time severed with their merciless scissors. The blow fell, and he retired from his business, after having suffered a loss of £15,000. The shock of this catastrophe helped to bring out all the resolution which had hitherto lain dormant in his nature, and he faced fortune with the calm courage of a true man. Finding that the curtain had fallen for ever upon his life in the manufacturing hive of industry in which his lot had been cast, he turned manfully away from old scenes and associations, and sought scope for a career at the Antipodes. While the civil war was raging in the United States, our brother sailed for Australia. Here he devoted himself to photography, an art which he had practised as an amateur, without any idea that it would one day help him to fight the battle of life. He appears to have distinguished himself at Melbourne as a photographic artist, but he found colonial life distasteful, and returned to England and set up his studio in the metropolis. His skill was soon recognised, and he received much patronage from Royal and distinguished persons who soon made his studio fashionable. Lord Palmerston, with the majority of his Cabinet, submitted to the keen glance of his Camera, and quite recently H.R.H. Prince Leopold honoured him with a sitting. His photographs are all works of great artistic merit, and his carbon portraits are acknowledged to be unequalled in this country. He has assisted Bro. Harty in the preparation of materials for the installation picture, upon which that artist is now expending all the resources of his art, and has photographed nearly all the brethren whose faces and forms are to figure in the work. He has, we need scarcely say, achieved high pecuniary, as well as artistic success, and can look back upon his early losses with few regrets. Surrounded by warm friends, the idol of a select circle of society, he has little cause to reproach the fates for their severity. The scourge which was once raised to strike, has turned into a wand of good fortune; and the gold which was lost, pours back into his coffers.

His Masonic career need not detain us long. He was initiated in the Airedale Lodge, 387, in 1859, at Baldon, near Leeds, and was exalted in Chapter in 1860. In the same year he joined the St. Albans, No. 29, a red apron Lodge, and served all the offices, from Deacon to Master. He here distinguished himself, amid somewhat languid brothers, by his hearty zeal for good work. The St. Albans Lodge is blessed with too many of the good things of this life, and has not made itself conspicuous in the philanthropic sphere of Masonry. Prosperity is good in its way, but a touch of adversity might rouse its slumbering giants to a just appreciation of their responsibilities. Our brother is a life governor of all the charities, and has served all the stewardships. His mental characteristics are strongly marked. He possesses great force of mind and vast determination. He is warm-hearted and frank. A brother indeed who cares not to conceal the thoughts that spring for utterance to his lips. Genial and good, a conqueror in its best sense, for he has conquered the difficulties of life, we leave him, with sincere wishes for his future happiness and prosperity.

The annual Provincial Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire will be held, under the presidency of His Grace the Duke of St. Alban's, in the Corn Exchange, Brigg (under the banner of Ancholme Lodge, No. 1282), on Tuesday, the 6th June, at 12.30.

List of Lodges for which warrants have been granted by the M.W. Grand Master since the last Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge:—

1598.—Loy Spring Lodge, Leytonstone, Essex.
1599.—Skelmersdale Lodge, Basinghall Street.
1600.—Hamilton Lodge, Alford, Lincolnshire.
1601.—Ravensbourne Lodge, Lewisham.
1602.—Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, Islington.
1603.—Worcester Lodge, Worcester, Cape of Good Hope.
1604.—Wanderers' Lodge, Freemasons' Hall, London.
1605.—De La Pole Lodge, Hull.
1606.—Lodge of Industry, Deesa, Bombay.
1607.—Lodge of Loyalty, Muswell Hill.
1608.—Kilburn Lodge, Kilburn Gate.
1609.—Liverpool Dramatic Lodge, Liverpool.
1610.—Northern Bar Lodge, Golden Square.
1611.—Eboracum Lodge, York.
1612.—West Middlesex Lodge, Ealing.
1613.—Cripplegate Lodge, Aldersgate Street.
1614.—Covent Garden Lodge, Covent Garden.
1615.—Bayard Lodge, Golden Square.
1616.—Lodge of Friendship and Harmony, Walton-on-Thames, Surrey.
1617.—Aparima Lodge, Riverton, Otago, New Zealand.
1618.—Handyside Lodge, Saltburn-by-the-Sea, Yorks.
1619.—Sackville Lodge, East Grinstead, Sussex.

Digitized by Google

GRAND LODGE.

THE following is the business to be transacted in Grand Lodge on Wednesday, 7th June 1876.

1. The Minutes of the Quarterly Communication of the 1st March for Confirmation.

2. The Minutes of the Grand Festival of the 26th April for Confirmation.

3. The M.W. Grand Master will make an announcement with reference to certain alterations and additions which it is the pleasure of His Royal Highness to make in relation to the Charity Jewel.

4. Election of Members of the Board of General Purposes.

5. Election of Members of the Colonial Board.

6. Election of Members for the Committee of Management of the "Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons."

7. Report of the Lodge of Benevolence for the last quarter, in which are recommendations for the following grants, viz.:—

The Widow of a Brother of St. Bartholomew's Lodge, No. 695, Wednesbury ...	£50	0	0
The Widow of a Brother of the Lodge of Nine Muses, No. 235, London	£50	0	0
A Brother of the De Grey and Ripon Lodge, No. 905, London	£100	0	0
The Daughter of a late Brother of the St. Andrew's Lodge, No. 223, London ...	£50	0	0
The Daughters of a late Brother of the Royal Forest Lodge, No. 401, Sladburn	£50	0	0
A Brother of the Star of Hope Lodge, No. 530, Agra, Bengal	£50	0	0

8. REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.

To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

The Board of General Purposes have to report as follows:—

Several questions bearing on the interpretation of the Book of Constitutions have been, during the past quarter, brought under the notice of the Board, which, having been duly considered, have been satisfactorily dealt with, no specific report to Grand Lodge upon or in connection with them becoming necessary. Some important matters connected with the buildings of the Society have been dealt with by the Premises Committee, and approved by the Board.

The question of a re-arrangement of the seating accommodation for the Brethren in Grand Lodge has received considerable attention, resulting in the addition of upwards of one hundred seats, which, in the opinion of the Board, is the utmost that can be done in the existing area.

The Board have been for a long period engaged in correspondence with the Lessees of Freemasons' Tavern with reference to the question of rent, and in result recommend to Grand Lodge that if a thoroughly responsible Tenant or Tenants can be found by the Tavern Company (the present lessees), who would be willing to take over the lease, Grand Lodge should assent to a reduction of the Rent of the Tavern from £1,500, at which it at present stands, to £1,200 per annum, and to such re-adjustment of the Term as may appear fair and reasonable, and that the Board of General Purposes be empowered to negotiate and act accordingly.

The President will therefore move to that effect.

(Signed) JOHN B. MONCKTON,
President.

FREEMASONS' HALL, LONDON, W.C.
16th May 1876.

At the Meeting on the 16th May, after the ordinary business was concluded, it was proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that the best thanks of the Members of the Board are eminently merited by the President for the great attention he has paid to the duties of his office, for the admirable manner in which he has discharged them, and the great courtesy and kindness he has on all occasions evinced to his colleagues, and they are therefore fraternally tendered to him.

(Signed) PETER DE LANDE LONG,
Vice-President.

To the Report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge Accounts at the last Meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 12th May instant, showing a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer of £6172 12s 8d; and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for Petty Cash, £75; and for Servants' Wages, £96 15s.

9. APPEAL.

Appeal of Brother W. C. Rowe, W. Master of the Lodge of Truth, No. 944, Bombay, against the decision of the R.W. District Grand Master of Bombay, censuring the Lodge for having passed and raised a Brother at one and the same meeting.

N.B.—The papers relating to this Appeal will be in the Grand Secretary's Office till the meeting of Grand Lodge, and open for the inspection of the Brethren during Office hours.

10. The Report of a Special General Meeting of the Governors and Subscribers of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, held at Freemasons' Hall, on Tuesday, the 25th day of April 1876, will be laid before Grand Lodge, and the following proposed alterations in the Rules which were then agreed to will, in accordance with the Laws of the Institution, be submitted for the approval of Grand Lodge.

That Law 4, page 12, be altered by substituting the figures "£40" for £36, and that Law 4, page 18, be also altered by substituting the figures "£32" for £28.

The Laws as altered now read thus:—

"The amount of the Annuity shall be £40 per annum," and
"The amount of the Annuity shall be £32 per annum."

11. The Annual Report of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, dated the 19th of May 1876, will be laid before Grand Lodge.

12. PROPOSED MOTIONS.

1.—By R.W. Brother JOHN HAVERS, P.G.W.:—

That this Grand Lodge desires to return its humble and hearty thanks to the Almighty Architect of the Universe for the safe return to his native land of their beloved Grand Master, His Royal Highness the PRINCE OF WALES, and in memory of that happy event, determine to devote the sum of £2,000 in aid of the restoration of the two Churches which are most intimately connected with the history of Freemasonry in England.

Resolved therefore—

(1st.) "That a sum of £1,000 be granted from the Fund for "General Purposes towards the restoration of St. Paul's Cathe-"dral, and the like sum of £1,000 from the same Fund towards "the restoration of St. Alban's Abbey."

(2nd.) "That a Committee, to consist of the Pro Grand "Master, the Deputy Grand Master, the Grand Treasurer, Grand "Registrar, President of the Board of General Purposes, and the "Grand Superintendent of Works, be and is hereby appointed, "and such Committee (after conference with the Restoration "Committee of the respective Churches) shall decide in what "manner the gifts can best be made so as to carry out the wishes "of Grand Lodge."

2.—By W. Brother BENJAMIN HEAD, P.G.D.:—

That the sum of £70 be given from the Fund of General Purposes; that the money be placed in the hands of the Secretary of the "Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons," to supply the Inmates of the Asylum at Croydon with Coals during the winter months.

3.—By Brother HENRY GREENE, P.M. No. 256:—

That the death of the late Brother William Farnfield, Past Assistant Grand Secretary, having left his widow and two daughters in very restricted circumstances, he having been unable—in consequence of the expenses incidental to the bringing up of his numerous family (ten)—to make suitable provision for them, that an annuity of £100 per annum be granted to Mrs. Farnfield during the pleasure of Grand Lodge.

4.—By V.W. Brother the Rev. ROBERT JAMES SIMPSON, P.G.Chaplain.

Resolved—

(1) "That this Grand Lodge desires to record its humble and "hearty thanks to Almighty God for the preservation and safe "return of H.R.H. The Prince of Wales, Most Worshipful Grand "Master of English Freemasons, and that with a view to testi-"fying to this loyal and devout feeling in a more united, public, "and solemn manner, this Grand Lodge Resolves (with the "approval of The Most Worshipful The Grand Master, and with "the kind permission of the proper authorities) to hold on some "convenient day a service of praise and thanksgiving in St. "Paul's Cathedral."

(2) "That as a Thankoffering on this occasion this Grand "Lodge votes from its fund the sum of £1,000, which, together "with the offerings made at the service at St. Paul's, shall be "devoted to the benefit of such charitable object in India as "may be recommended by the Most Worshipful Grand Master."

In the event of the above resolutions being passed,

Resolved—

(3) That the following brethren constitute a special Committee to carry out the Resolutions, viz.:—

R.W. Bro. Lord Skelmersdale	D.G.M.
R.W. Bro. Earl of Donoughmore	G.S.W.
R.W. Bro. Hon. William W. Vernon	G.J.W.
V.W. Bro. Æneas J. McIntyre, Q.C.	G.R.
R.W. Bro. John Havers	P.G.W.
V.W. Bro. John B. Monckton	Pres. B.G.P.
W. Bro. John M. Clabon	P.G.D.
R.W. Bro. Sir Albert W. Woods, Garter,	P.G.W. and G.D.C.
V.W. Bro. John Harvey	G. Sec.
V.W. Bro. Rev. Spencer B. Wigram	G. Chap.
W. Bro. Erasmus Wilson	Dept. W.M. No. 2.
W. Bro. Standish Grove Grady	P.M. No. 14.
W. Bro. General Clerke	P.M. No. 706.
V.W. Bro. Rev. R. J. Simpson	P.G. Chap.

Two Amateur Dramatic Performances will be given by members of the Craft at the Theatre Royal, Plymouth, (the use of which has been kindly granted by Bro. Newcombe), on Wednesday the 14th, and Friday the 16th of June next. One moiety of the proceeds will be devoted to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and the other to secure the election of orphans of Freemasons in the Royal British Female Orphan Asylum, of whom there are no less than five on the present list of candidates.

Digitized by Google

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

All Letters must bear the name and address of the Writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

A THANKOFFERING.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

TOWER OF OBSERVATION,

27th May 1876.

DEAR SIR AND BRO.,—I am surprised to note the contents of Bro. John Constable's letter in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE of to-day. Really, I had no idea that a Grand Officer would make such a serious mistake as to suppose the members of our ancient and benevolent society would be desirous of voting £1,000 for such an object as the Rev. Bro. Simpson contemplates. I know many are anxious to spend money they have never earned, and to devote it to purposes foreign to the objects for which the sums have been contributed, but I have yet to learn that the strange fancy of an individual is to be the law for the Grand Lodge; and I trust Bro. Constable's timely warning will direct the attention of the English Craft to Bro. Simpson's most unmasonic motion. Surely, when eleven widows were denied annuities this month, and last month many dear boys and girls were refused admission into our Institutions, from want of funds, there are many ways to devote £1,000 as a thanksgiving offering for the safety of our M.W. Grand Master without adopting anything like Bro. the Rev. R. J. Simpson's suggestion. Already Lodges are objecting to such a shameful waste of our money as the proposition contemplates. We hardly fancy it will have a seconder, and at all events we feel almost sure it will be negatived, as it deserves, without a division. Let us remember the proposition does not come from one of the many generous supporters of our Charities, for they know well how we want the money for our own distressed and destitute orphans, who plead for our aid.

I am, Dear Sir, yours, &c.

PAST MASTER.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Masters, Past Masters, and Wardens would do well to take note of Bro. Constable's letter in the last number of the "FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE." In it he directs attention to a highly important proposition to be submitted for consideration at the next meeting of Grand Lodge. One thousand pounds is to be voted as a thankoffering to be applied to some charitable object in India. Nothing so easy as to be liberal and charitable with other people's money, or at any rate when it does not affect our own pockets. His Reverence whose name appears in connection with this motion could not have given the matter serious consideration. He should have reflected that "Charity begins at home," and that any superfluous funds the Grand Lodge is able or willing to dispose of might be much more judiciously, and with greater advantage, bestowed upon either of the Masonic Institutions. It is scarcely necessary to point out that Masonic funds are (with rare exceptions) intended for strictly Masonic purposes. This rule was laid down by Bro. Havers, and endorsed by a majority in Grand Lodge assembled at the time when this same Bro. John Constable asked for a vote of £100 towards raising a fund for the purpose of endowing the "Freemasons' Life Boat." The whole of the Grand Officers then present voted with the majority. It would be irrelevant to this matter to question the justice of the opinion that to stretch forth a helping hand to ameliorate the deadly casualties at sea was not a "strictly Masonic object." Logically, however, £1,000 cannot justly be voted to an Indian Charity when £100 was refused towards one of the most deserving benevolent objects in England. I therefore trust the brethren will perceive the desirability of attending the meeting, and see that the funds are not mis-applied and diverted from their legitimate channel by any pressure which might be brought to bear by sycophantic or even over sincere and gushing loyalty. The plea urged by Bro. Havers and others against Bro. Constable's motion must surely hold good in this instance. Our own Charities stand in sore need of all the help they can possibly get. And even if it were not so, and if Grand Lodge had the power to apply the fund upon other than "strictly Masonic purposes," would it be necessary to go all the way to India to make this "Thankoffering?" Is there no real poverty, sickness, distress and starvation in its most literal and horrifying sense at home? I only hope the reverend proposer will be induced to withdraw his motion, as I fear he will meet with but little support.

Yours fraternally,

MISTER YARDLEY.

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—I read the question of "a country P.M." in your last number but one, and would have replied to it last week if I had not expected that some brother with more experience and authority than myself would have answered it.

Your Chronicle of last Saturday fulfils my expectation, but it is with some surprise that I find all your correspondents maintain that it is allowable for a W.M. to vacate his chair in favour of a brother who is not the I.P.M., or failing him the senior P.M. present. I admit that the Master can ask for, and use the assistance of any qualified brother during the working of the ceremonies; but he cannot give up his chair to him. The moment the W.M. leaves his chair he is to all intents and purposes absent, and his authority ceases until his resumption of his proper position. If the W.M. wishes to avail himself of the talents of any brother out of the regular succession he may allow him to work the degrees from a chair at his side, but he cannot place him in the chair itself—to do this would be as irregular and illogical as for the speaker of the House of Commons or the Chairman of any other meeting to depute his authority to any one else not regularly appointed to take his place in case of need.

The P.M.'s are in effect vice-chairmen, and the W.M. cannot supersede their authority by an appointment of his own.

I should not have ventured to oppose the opinion of such eminent brethren as your correspondents of last week if I was not anxious to elicit further remarks upon this very important point of Masonic Jurisprudence.

Yours fraternally,

P.M. 425.

PROPOSED ANNUITY TO BRO. FARNFIELD'S WIDOW.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I see that Bro. Henry Greene P.M., No. 256, will move a resolution in Grand Lodge on Wednesday next to the effect that an annuity of £100 be granted to Mrs. Farnfield during pleasure, in token of the eminent services rendered by her late husband as Assistant Grand Secretary and Secretary to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. It may seem churlish in any one to question the propriety of such a motion, but it occurs to me that Bro. Greene, from a motive which is very honourable, is oblivious of the recognition those services have already evoked, both from Grand Lodge and the governing body of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, as well as of one or two other not unimportant circumstances bearing upon the case. That our late Bro. Farnfield, with a family of ten children to maintain and educate, may have experienced some financial pressure at times is not improbable. When incapable, however, of further active duty, Bro. Farnfield received handsome superannuations in respect of both the offices he had filled, and during the latter part of his life he must have been relieved of the necessity of supporting so numerous a family of children. All of them happily survive him, to cherish their remaining parent in the time of her bereavement. Of the seven sons, all are either well provided with means—so I am told, at least—or following some honourable occupation. Of the three daughters, one is married, while the remaining two are over twenty-one years of age. That Mrs. Farnfield and her unmarried daughters are not as favourably circumstanced as they were in Bro. Farnfield's lifetime is most likely. It is only the very few who do not suffer pecuniarily, in a greater or less degree, when the father dies. In Masonry, theoretically if not practically, the sons are supposed to support their parents when no longer able, through age, infirmity, or misfortune, to support themselves. If the seven sons of the late Bro. Farnfield are not in a position to assist their mother and unmarried sisters, then great credit is due to Bro. Greene for bringing the case of the widow under the notice of Grand Lodge, and I dare say Grand Lodge will not prove itself unmindful of the zeal and energy displayed by their late Assistant Secretary during a service extending over forty years. But the well-to-do sons of so excellent a man and Mason should never allow their mother and sisters to be dependent on the bounty of Grand Lodge, when it is in their own power to support them honourably.

Considering the very large number of deserving cases which are being constantly brought under the notice of Grand Lodge, I think it most important that all the circumstances connected with each should be made public. Otherwise, I repeat, it must seem churlish to question a motion of so delicate a nature as Bro. Greene's.

Fraternally yours, "Q."

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

I observe, from the agenda paper of Grand Lodge, that it is the intention of Bro. Greene to move, That an annuity of £100 per annum be granted to the widow of our late Bro. Farnfield, during the pleasure of Grand Lodge. Permit me to enquire if the children of our late brother are aware of this step? I scarcely think they are.

Yours fraternally

A PAST MASTER.

EARLY HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY IN IRELAND.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Can nothing be done to discover the whereabouts and character of the minutes of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Munster, which are alluded to by Bro. M. Farrell in an article entitled "The Traditions and Recorded History of the Irish Constitution," inserted in the Freemason's Calendar, Dublin, 1848?

Bro. Farrell states that these records preserve the important facts that the Hon. Colonel James O'Brien was G.M., Springett Penn D.G.M., A.D. 1726. Also that in 1728, Robert Longfield was D.G.M., and in 1730, Colonel William Maynard was G.M., and Thomas Riggs D.G.M.

The archives of the Grand Lodge state that, 3rd February 1728, the Order assisted Lord Carteret in laying the foundation stone of the Parliament House, Dublin. Our Pennell's Constitutions of 1730 are silent on this point, but Spratt's Constitutions of 1751 confirm the fact.

Digitized by Google

Will our distinguished Bro. J. H. Neilson, of Dublin (of whom we as Irish Masons are justly proud), give this important matter his attention, and seek to clear up the early history of our Grand or Provincial Grand Lodge of Munster, which apparently existed prior to the Grand Lodge of Dublin.

In a catalogue of Masonic works for sale by the veteran Craftsman (The "Father of the Lodge"), Bro. Spencer, published about 1860, I find the following:—

"Transactions of the Grand Lodge of Munster 1726 to 1733, 18 pages 4to. Extracts from the Transactions of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Munster, 60 pages 4to. Sundry MS. and printed papers relating to the Grand Lodge of Munster;" I should think these are the actual records noticed by Bro. Furnell, and probably came into Bro. Spencer's possession subsequently to 1848.

Would Bro. R. Spencer, or his son and Bro. Walter Spencer (whose able sketches in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE delight so many) kindly say what was done with these MSS. They were not for sale lately, I know, from enquiries I made, and I cannot find out that any of my friends have them under our Grand Lodge.

I anxiously await a reply.

Yours fraternally,

MASONIC INVESTIGATOR.

OLD WARRANTS.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—On referring to the Book of Constitutions, 1807 (Ancients), I find Doyle's Lodge of Fellowship numbered 336, yet in Hughan's Memorials it is given as No. 98, under both Ancients and Moderns, with a foot note stating that it was warranted by the "Moderns" in 1758, but I suppose the Lodge did not accede till 1807, when it received a warrant from the "Ancients," and I conclude its number was altered, previous to the Union, to No. 98 Ancients, owing to senior Lodges having ceased to exist. Am I right in my supposition?

Would not a list of all the Lodges, and the towns and places of meeting which have been warranted by either Grand Lodge from the Revival 1717, say to 1832, if published be interesting. For instance, at Havant there was a Lodge about 1760, there was also one which ceased working some 40 years since; there was also one at Hambledon, in this County (Hants.), some years back. I have no doubt scores of extinct Lodges might be traced.

Apologising for thus troubling you,

I remain, yours fraternally,

P.M. 804.

[We have much pleasure in answering our correspondent's letter, as it raises a curious study, and the reply herewith will serve to furnish a key to elucidate several others of a similar character. Bro. Hughan, in our contemporary sometime since, had a friendly discussion with Bro. W. T. Kinnersley W.M. 84, and pointed out the facts which are now asked for.

Doyle's Lodge of Fellowship, No. 336, of 22nd September 1806, was changed to No. 98, 14th September 1807, by the Lodge assuming the position on the Roll of a Lodge formerly meeting at Elizabeth Castle, Jersey, and the new warrant, with Sir John Doyle as the first Master, bears the new number (98) A.D. 1807, as Bro. Constable kindly gave in THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE last week. A new Lodge, bearing No. 336 in 1805, would not be distinguished with the No. 98 in 1807, unless it had purchased, or obtained by some other means (as with the "Ancients" prior to the Union), the position of an older Lodge. This the "Doyle's Lodge of Fellowship" did, and that fact explains the date mentioned in the note, "17th March 1762," which was the period of constitution originally of No. 98. No. 336 was transferred to another Lodge, and hence arise all the difficulties of tracing these "ancient" Lodges, difficulties unravelled only by brethren like Bros. Hughan and Buss, who are often solicited to give the key to inexplicable Masonic problems. Long may they be spared so to do.—ED. F. C.]

BIRTH.

WILLING.—On the 18th ultimo, at Springfield Lodge, Junction-road, Kentish Town, the wife of Bro. James Willing jun. of a daughter.

The next meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall will be held at Falmouth, under the presidency of the Right Hon. the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, P.G.M., and it is expected there will be a very strong muster on the occasion. The town is already "in arms" to receive the brethren, the worthy and esteemed Mayor, Bro. Thomas Webster, W.M. No. 75, taking a conspicuously active part in the preparations.

At the meeting of the Hayle Chapter to be held on Tuesday next, E. Comps. John Coombe, John S. Smith, and E. H. Pool, will be severally installed 1st, 2nd and 3rd Principals, Comp. N. J. West M.E.Z. fulfilling the duties of installing Z.

HOLLOWAY'S REMEDIES surpass all others in the treatment of those cases which have their origin in loss of nerve power. Hysteria, melancholy forebodings, and feebleness of the vital powers, with a general feeling of languor, lassitude and depression, are frequent and common evidences of this condition of loss of nerve force. If the impairment of nervous power is not counteracted, a multitude of evils ensue, and it is on this account that it is so imperatively necessary for steps to be taken to restore the power before the loss has become almost irreparable. Holloway's twin remedies are remarkably adapted for cases of the foregoing character, and no one who suffers in such a way should refrain from fairly trying them.

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Clouds in the East.—Travels and Adventures on the Perso-Turkoman Frontier. By VALENTINE BAKER. London: Chatto and Windus.

At the present time, when what is termed the Eastern question is once more upon the tapis, and while the attention of far-seeing politicians in this country is being directed towards our Indian possessions, with apprehension and misgiving, this work deserves, and will probably obtain, peculiar notice and consideration. It was in the early part of 1873, during the excitement occasioned in England by the Russian expedition against Khiva, that the journey here narrated was projected by the author; and but little time was lost in carrying his plans into execution. Without aid or encouragement from Government, influenced solely by the patriotic desire of serving their country, Colonel Baker, of the 10th Hussars, Lieutenant Gill, R.E., and Captain Clayton, of the 9th Lancers, set off to traverse and survey strategically the entire mountainous district lying between the Southern shore of the Caspian on the one hand, and the north-western boundary of India on the other. When it is considered that a great portion of their route lay through a country where European had never trod before, over wide expanses of desert, infested by hordes of warlike barbarians, and in a climate excessively trying to the most robust constitutions, it will be seen that the expedition must have been attended with considerable difficulty and discomfort, and by no small degree of danger. The party proceeded by direct route to Astrabad on the south-eastern coast of the Caspian, from thence on horseback to Teheran, and from Teheran in an easterly direction as far as the town of Sangbust, which lies near to the north-eastern boundary of Persia. Here they were met by an insurmountable difficulty, which prevented them from continuing their journey into Afghanistan, and they were accordingly obliged to turn back. Their return route however was fruitful in important discoveries, traversing as it did a district almost at that time entirely unknown to geographers. Having discovered the source of the Attrek, a river about which the most vague and inaccurate accounts had hitherto been given, they followed its course almost to its outlet in the Caspian Sea. During the expedition both Colonel Baker and Lieutenant Gill (Captain Clayton was early disabled by sickness) laboured hard to obtain the most accurate information as to the physical features of the country, and the manners, customs and opinions of the inhabitants. Much of the information may not be over palatable to the peace-at-any-price party in England, but all of it is valuable. It appears that the rivalry of Russia and England in the East is regarded with the greatest possible interest by the semi-independent governors of Northern Persia, and that England has been somewhat discredited by recent events. "We hear," observed one, "that England is no longer the power she used to be; that you have got great riches and think of nothing else, but that you never fight now." "If we do not fight," replies our author, "it is not from any loss of power, but because we have no desire to increase our territory." "But if you are strong," rejoins the other, "and if you can still fight, why did you the other day pay tribute to America?" To give a reply to this question, through an oriental interpreter, that would satisfy a fighting Khoord chief was not an easy matter. Colonel Baker is of opinion that an army of valuable auxiliaries might be raised in Central Asia with very little trouble. He found large numbers of men who, under European leadership, and with the advantages of drill and discipline, would make splendid soldiers. Horses, too, might be obtained in large numbers, and at a moderate cost, from the Turkomans. At an average price of £20 he could have obtained something like 15,000 fine cavalry horses in three months. The author himself tested the powers of one of them, and found them of a very high order. During the latter part of the expedition the Colonel suffered severely from fever, and was many times tempted to retrace his steps. A voice, he tells us, seemed to say to him, "Return, while yet there is time, and reach the Caspian Sea; air alone can save you. Why rush to certain death? You are not on duty, you are merely trying to carry out a useful work for your country. Will your country ever thank you for it?" Nevertheless, he persevered, getting weaker and weaker every day, until, at last, within sight almost of the sea shore, he was unable to sit on his horse, and had to be carried into Resht on a tractersran or Persian palanquin. It is impossible to read this interesting narrative without feeling that Colonel Baker and his companions have placed England under great obligations for the skill, energy and perseverance they displayed in their expedition. It is certain that the work will be closely studied by all interested in geographical research, or, in the important question of the strategical defensibility of our great Indian possessions. We may add that the work is illustrated with three excellent maps, and some very fair chromo sketches.

Cook's Tourists' Handbook for Switzerland.—London: THOMAS COOK & SON, Ludgate-circus, E.C.; SIMPKIN, MARSHALL & Co. New York: COOK, SON & JENKINS, 261 Broadway; Geneva, THOMAS COOK & SON, 90 Rue du Rhône. 1876.

WE can strongly recommend this as a most useful book to any of our readers who may be contemplating a trip to Switzerland this summer, and who are not already furnished with anything in the way of a guide. The directions in the introductory matter, as to luggage, Custom House examinations, passports, and money, are very simple and very clear, and speaking from our own limited experience, the traveller will do well to follow them. The coupon system, for which we are indebted to the enterprise of Messrs. Cook and Son, is well calculated to smooth away many of those difficulties which an Englishman so often encounters on his first visit to a European country. Our full-grown British tourist is not generally a man of many languages. He speaks his own in a manner more or less civilised, but as to French, German, and other foreign tongues, he is seldom either an apt or a willing scholar. Such of our countrymen will find the coupon for rail, boat, and hotel of infinite service. By the exercise of a little patience they will be able, with the proper number of such documents, to traverse any Continental country in any direction with ease and comfort. However, the system is well enough known, and has been well enough tried, not to need any encomiums from us. This particular guide-book is the theme of the moment, and if the reader who has already marked out Switzerland for his holiday trip will provide himself with a copy of it, he will save himself a world of trouble. Not only will he, as we have already pointed out, obtain information which is absolutely necessary if he is to travel with any degree of comfort, but he will find also all else recounted which is likely to attract his interest. The cities and towns, the lakes, mountains, valleys, and passes, sites having connected with them a historical association, and the like—all are described herein, or at least mentioned, so that visitors may stop and inspect them, or pass on their way to scenes of greater attraction. There are also a very good map and an appendix, containing full particulars about festivals, fêtes, &c., the time and cost of a tour, with a series of tours already planned, and last, but not least, a list of hotels, both in Europe and the East, where coupons will be accepted as payment for accommodation. In addition, there is a good index, and the reader, by consulting it, will be able to find immediately what he is in search of. In fact, this handbook contains the kind of information to be found in the ordinary guide, and corrected to present date, with a number of simple yet necessary directions, and full particulars of the working of the coupon system. To the tourist, therefore, who means travelling in accordance with its provisions, the guide will be not only serviceable but necessary.

Digitized by Google

The Englishman's Illustrated Guide Book to the United States and Canada. Especially adapted to the use of British Tourists and Settlers visiting those countries. With full information as to the best routes to travel, most attractive scenery, hunting and fishing grounds, recommendable hotels, fares, prices, &c. Third Edition. With Appendix, containing a description of the buildings and grounds of the International Exhibition of 1876, at Philadelphia. London: Longman, Green, Reader and Dyer. 1876.

THE paramount object of this Guide Book is to give, within modest compass, such precise information as will enable the tourist to move about from place to place, and see what is worth seeing, without inconvenience, or with as little inconvenience as possible. But this is not the only merit it possesses. The author has compiled from numerous sources a large amount of information, which any one contemplating a residence in either country, or designing to purchase landed or other property, will find very useful. We shall best illustrate its value, however, by briefly describing the contents of Route I.—"New York and vicinity." First are mentioned the leading hotels on the American and European Plans; then the particulars about post offices, hackney cabs or carriages, omnibuses or "Stages," as they are called, and horse-cars, theatres, and railways. These are followed by a short history, topography and description of the city, showing its leading thoroughfares, its most important public buildings, its eleemosynary institutions, its libraries, churches, principal places of resort, the Central Park with its terraces, promenades, reservoirs, lakes, &c., &c., together with the environs and all places and buildings of interest they contain. Philadelphia, Baltimore, Boston, Portland, Washington, and Chicago are described with the same amount of detail, full particulars being given of the great fire which consumed so considerable a portion of the last mentioned. As we go further westward, the resources and scenic wonders of the country are detailed at some length, and as it is to these districts that a great part of the immigrants wend their way with a view to settling down, this portion of the guide will prove invaluable. At the end we have, in the form of an appendix, a full account of the Great International Exhibition, just inaugurated by President Grant with so much ceremony. The several buildings and their uses are first of all described, then the grounds in which they are erected. But the most useful part of this is the ground plan, showing the position of the several buildings and the roads that intersect the park in which they stand, as well as the chief thoroughfares leading from the city. Any of our brethren who may be going over to witness or take part in the Grand Templar Re-union on the 1st prox., will do well to furnish themselves with a copy of this guide-book, containing, as it does, so much trustworthy information as to travelling, and in addition, this most interesting, and, we may add, important appendix. The illustrations are numerous and convey a fair idea of what they are intended to represent; and there is also a carefully prepared index, so that nothing has been omitted to make the guide as complete as possible.

"A suitable gift from a Master to his Lodge."

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 8s 6d EACH,

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUMES I. and II.

London:—W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Sent, Carriage Paid, to any address in the United Kingdom, on receipt of Cheque or P.O.O.

Cloth Cases for Binding can be had from the Offices, price 1s 6d each.

Old Warrants.—No. 2.

No. 206 (Ancients); 260, A.D. 1814 (at the Union); 185, A.D. 1832, and 159 from 1863. Now held at Plymouth.

ATHOLL, GRAND MASTER.

WM. DICKEY, D.G.M. R. DAVY, S.G.W. J. STEWART, J.G.W.

To all whom it may concern. We, the GRAND LODGE of the Most Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, according to the Old Constitutions granted by his Royal Highness Prince Edwin, at York, Anno Domini Nine Hundred Twenty and Six, and in the year of Masonry Four Thousand Nine Hundred Twenty and Six, in ample form assembled, viz.—The Right Worshipful and Most Noble Prince John (the 3rd) Duke, Marquis, and Earl of Atholl, Marquis and Earl of Tullibaudine, Earl of Strathtay and Strathardle, Viscount of Balquider, Glenalmond and Glenlyon, Lord Murray, Belveny, and Gask, Heritable Captain and Constable of the Castle and Constabulary of Hinclesven, Hereditary Keeper of the Palace of Falkland, and in that part of Great Britain called England, and Masonical Jurisdiction thereto belonging, Grand Master of Masons; the Right Worshipful William Dickey, Esquire, Deputy Grand Master; the Right Worshipful Robert Davey, Esquire, Senior Grand Warden; and the Right Worshipful George Stewart, Esquire, Junior Grand Warden (with the approbation and consent of the Warranted Lodges held within the Cities and Suburbs of London and Westminster) do hereby authorise and empower our trusty and well-beloved Brethren, viz: The Worshipful Henry Fearon, one of our Master Masons; The Worshipful William Grayson, his Senior Warden; and the Worshipful Daniel Ritson, his Junior Warden, to form and hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, aforesaid, at the Square and Compass (or any other convenient place), in Workington, in the County of Cumberland, on the first and fourth Monday in each Calendar Month, on all seasonable times and lawful occasions; and in the said Lodge (when duly congregated) to admit and make Free Masons, according to the most Ancient and Honourable Custom of the Royal Craft, in all ages and nations throughout the known world. And we do hereby further authorise and empower our said trusty and well-beloved Brethren, Henry Fearon, William Grayson, and Daniel Ritson (with the consent of the Members of their Lodge), to nominate, chuse, and install their successors, to whom they shall deliver this Warrant, and invest them with their Powers and Dignities, as Free Masons, &c. And such successors shall in like manner nominate, chuse, and install their successors, &c. &c. &c.; such installations to be upon (or near) every St. John's Day, during the continuance of this Lodge, for ever. Providing the above named Brethren, and all their successors, always pay due respect to this Right Worshipful Grand Lodge, otherwise this Warrant to be of no Force or Virtue.

Given under our Hand, and the Seal of our GRAND LODGE in London, this Sixteenth Day of February, in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred Seventy and Nine, and in the Year of Masonry Five Thousand Seven Hundred Seventy and Nine.

JAMES JONES, Grand Secretary.

NOTE.—This Warrant is Registered in the Grand Lodge, Vol. 3, Letter C.

The present title and number, &c., are, "The Brunswick Lodge, No. 159, Plymouth." The titles of the M.W.G.M. are copied verbatim et literatim from the transcript of the Warrant sent us, and as we have not seen transcripts of any two charters exactly alike in their description of His Grace the Duke of Atholl, we prefer to let them appear as they are forwarded, leaving our readers to make the necessary corrections.—J. CONSTABLE.

In reply to a Correspondent, C. H. L., the New York Despatch gives the following:—

We have your favour in reply to our note of last week, and reiterate that our reply to an "English Freemason," in a previous issue, is strictly and literally correct. The Lodges and Grand Lodges of colored men in this country are all irregular and clandestine, from the simple fact that not one of them holds a warrant from any just and lawfully constituted Grand Lodge. It is quite true that the Prince Hall Lodge of colored men at Boston was originally chartered by the Grand Lodge of England, but the warrant was merely that of a subordinate Lodge, and gave them no power but to make Masons, and regulate their own private affairs; nevertheless, they assumed the powers of a Grand Lodge, and issued charters to Lodges in other places than Boston or Massachusetts, which it requires no argument to show, was totally unlawful and irregular. More than this, the Grand Lodge of England recalled the original warrant, which was surrendered, and the document now in possession of the Lodge is only a copy. 2. E. D. We repeat, there is no law, open or secret, in Masonry, which makes a distinction in candidates on account of race, religion, color, or politics, but it is the right of every member of a Lodge to object to the initiation of a candidate for any reason sufficient to himself, and to object to the presence of any visitor he may not choose to sit with, and these reasons cannot be inquired into by any one man or any body of men. That a majority of men in our Lodges are governed by the prejudices of birth, education, and social habits, is not to be denied, but that is not a matter to be overcome by legislation, but only by the effects of time, patience, and perseverance. It is not probable that either our correspondent or ourself will live to see the time when these prejudices will be got rid of, but that time will come in due order, and it will not be hastened by discussions tending to awake passion instead of appealing to reason and surrounding equities.

Digitized by Google

ROYAL INSTALLATION ON THE 28TH OF APRI
IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
By BRO. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. N

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be mad

ROYAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REC

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.
THE CLUB PREMISES, SITUATE
101 QUEEN VICTORIA STREET,
ARE NOW BEING FITTED UP, AND WILL
SHORTLY BE OPENED TO THE MEMBERS.

THE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION now payable will date from the day on which the Club opens, and is fixed at £3 3s for Town Members, i.e., Members residing within twenty miles of the Club, and £1 11s 6d for Country Members. Members incur no liability beyond their subscription. None but Freemasons are eligible for membership.

THE NEXT ELECTION will be held on 1st June. An Entrance Fee will be imposed as soon as the Club is opened.

Forms of Application for Membership may be obtained from the Secretary, at the Offices of the LONDON MASONIC CLUB COMPANY LIMITED, 37 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

JOHN A. LATHBURY, Secretary.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.
NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

SEASON TICKETS, available for one year from the 1st of each month, to be had of W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THERE has been little stirring this week in Parliament. Sundry questions respecting Yeomanry trumpeters, promotion in the Navy, and Foreign decorations, were asked in the House of Lords on Friday. On Monday, the Merchant Shipping Bill, the Consolidated Fund Bill, and the Customs and Inland Revenue Bill, were read a first time, and on Tuesday, the last two of these were passed through their remaining stages. Earl Derby having announced that the Sultan of Turkey had been dethroned, the House shortly after adjourned. On Thursday, the situation in Turkey called forth a few remarks.

On Friday, in the House of Commons, a resolution, by Dr. Cameron, on the tenants of the Duchy of Lancaster, was rejected, the murder of Mr. Birch was discussed, a vote on account of the High Courts of Justice was agreed to in Committee of Supply, and the Merchant Shipping Bill was read a third time. On Monday, after reading the Customs and Inland Revenue Bill a third time, the House the usual adjournment by 207 to 118. Mr. B a motion on the Royal then sought to convi county franchise shou votes to 165, determin afterwards rose. On in Committee with th expressed a hope that be presented.

The Queen's Birthd day, but the weather The streets were dirty, pretty nearly the day loyalty of the London c ventured forth to see pretty ceremony of "t Guards, was witnessed Ground in Finsbury Sq when evening approache that all London had tur see the illuminations, wh West End. The politi event, after the manner o royalty itself, as represe her children, the comma of the Hanoverian fami Had the weather been joicing would have been to boast of, however, t are both hearty and Our Sovereign rules th the people.

Wednesday was the their annual outing. Sa was even more brilliant features connected with Princess of Wales were Connaught and Cambridg Teck were among the apart for royal visitors. numerous than usual, an winner turned up in the Colt as he is more general as regards the prize he name, was placed second, himself with only third pl fourth, a few lengths behi on Epsom Downs, we are greater, equal to, or less years, but we may surel much horseplay and as ever. The glory of horse longer the breed of horses care about, but winning little else than a game of unscrupulous speculator h fortune. Why it is the ho brute creation should, also promotes the growth of ruffianism. The Oaks was run yesterday, and the ladies' day was as well favoured in respect of weather as its more important companion of Wednesday. It had the advantage of being, however, quieter and more enjoyable.

A very unusual robbery was committed towards the end of last week. A well-known picture, by Gainsborough, of Georgians, Duchess of Devonshire, was recently bought at Messrs. Christie and Manson's auction-rooms, for 10,000 guineas, Messrs. Agnew of Manchester and London being the purchasers. It was removed to the Art Gallery, 39 Bond-street, and there exhibited, the public being charged a shilling each for admission. On Friday morning the picture non est. The attendant, on entering the Exhibition-room, found the frame, but the Duchess of Devonshire had eloped, and left no trace behind. The mystery was soon solved. A clever thief had stolen the valuable canvas, and made off with it, in spite of our guardians of public property, the care of special watchmen, and the precautions of attendants. A reward of £1,000 is offered for the recovery of the painting. One matter there is for congratulation. Whoever has it will find some difficulty in disposing of it either here or abroad. There is greater likelihood, therefore, of its being recovered.

The fireworks at the Alexandra Palace, on Saturday last, were spoiled by the unfortunate weather, but on Thursday there was a special display in honour of the Derby, and nothing could have been more enjoyable. Yesterday there was a ballad and instrumental concert, at which the celebrated violinist, Wieniawski, quite enchanted the audience by his marvellous execution and artistic feeling. To-day, Mr. Sims Reeves, having recovered from his recent illness, is announced to appear as Edgardo in the last act of Lucia di Lammermoor, and as Tom Tug in the Waterman, with Signor Foli and Mdlle. Ida Corani among the other artistes. Next week, provision is being made on a grand scale for the Whitsun Holiday folk. Whit Monday being one of the Bank Holidays, a very large attendance may be anticipated. Last year, we believe, there were over 94,000 visitors to the Palace, and if the weather be as delightful as it is now, the numbers may show equally as well, perhaps. There will be no lack of entertainment for those who visit it, be they seventy or ninety thousand. A grand ballad and instrumental concert, with Mdme. Lemmens-Sherrington, Mr. Vernon Rigby and Signor Foli among the vocalists; a grand entertainment in the theatre with the Payne Family, Mr. G. Conquest and Company, the Great Mackney, and M. and Mdme. Espinosa in a ballet Divertissement, Brockmann's Circus, eight military bands, and the Colleen Bawn, with balloon ascent, trotting races, and other out-door amusements—these are on the programme for Monday, so that those who go to Muswell Hill ought to have enough pleasure, at least for one day. Let us hope the railway people may be equal to the demands which will be made on their resources. At the Sydenham Palace, will be held to-day, and till Wednesday of next week, the annual dog show, for which there are over 1300 entries; while Monday will have a special series of entertainments, including a grand vocal and instrumental concert, and a balloon ascent. At the Agricultural Hall there will be the annual horse show, which opens to-day, and will form one of the principal attractions for the greater part of next week. The Royal Westminster Aquarium offers a tempting programme to those who are not already pledged to go elsewhere; the Railway Companies have made all needful preparations to take any number of excursionists to convenient sea-side and inland country resorts, so that every inducement is being held out to the weary Londoner to make the most of his Whitsun Holidays. May he enjoy them! may his shadow never grow less!

The revelations in the action against Mr. Albert Grant, commonly known as Baron Grant, are not pleasant. It is extremely unsatisfactory to learn that sundry gentlemen have taken money of Mr. Grant as a solatium for the non-allotment to them of shares in sundry of his more promising speculations. The old saying about Cæsar's wife applies with equal force to members of the press. They should not only be unsuspected, but above suspicion. The acceptance of money and favourable notices in this or that money article of Mr. Albert Grant's companies, "look dickey," as the saying is, though it is quite possible the conjunction may be quite harmless.

Lord Mayor Cotton is determined not to be behind his predecessors in hospitality. Not long since the lights of science, English and Foreign, were entertained at the Mansion House. The ball and banquet by the corporation to the Prince and Princess of Wales is still fresh in our memory. Next Saturday there will be given a banquet in honour of members of the Royal Academy. On the Wednesday following, the bench and the bar will be similarly honoured. Early in July the customary banquet to the archbishops and bishops will follow, and about the same time will be given a banquet to the leading representatives in England of trade and commerce, at which will be present the committees of the Stock Exchange, Lloyd's, the Baltic, and other similar institutions. We congratulate the Lord Mayor on his princely hospitality. He is clearly the right man in the right place.

The annual ball in aid of the funds of the Yorkshire Society was held on Monday, at Willis's Rooms, St. James's. The patronesses included the Duchess of Roxburgh, the Marchioness of Abergavenny, the Countess of Scarborough, the Countess of Dartmouth, &c., &c., and among the principal attractions were the two quadrilles of the Hon. Mrs. Dundas and the Marchioness of Abergavenny, the latter being of the period of our Edward III. during his Queen Philippa's regency. The ball was a great success, and the company did not separate till a late hour. Coote and Tinney's band attended, and right well discharged the duty required of them. We trust the Yorkshire Society's funds reaped substantial benefit from the ball.

The news from abroad is confined almost wholly to the situation in Turkey. The Sultan Abdul Aziz, he who visited this country in 1867, has been dethroned and Sultan Mourad V. reigns in his stead. How this revolution has been effected is not clearly known as yet, but one thing seems certain, the dethronement of the Sultan was effected quietly, and there has been happily no bloodshed. There is a new Ministry, headed by Midhat Pacha, who is said to be a man of vigorous intellect, but what the effect will be as regards the particular crisis, which has caused such general excitement throughout Europe, is not yet apparent. It may smooth the way to a settlement, or it may tend to complicate matters. The change of sovereigns will put no more money into the national purse of Turkey; the insurgents will probably be as ready to burn villages now that Mourad is Sultan as they were a few days since, and the demands of the Berlin conference are still a menace to the independence of the Moslem. Meantime, the British fleet in the Mediterranean is being rapidly re-inforced; the defences of Malta and Gibraltar are being rapidly strengthened, and in all our dockyards the greatest energy is being shown, so that we may be in a position to meet any emergency that may arise. This is as it should be when a European crisis threatens, but is none the less creditable to the Ministry in power. We trust, however, there may be no disturbance of the peace of Europe. One other matter has attracted some attention in this country, and that is, the Winslow Extradition Case, about which a difference has arisen between us and the United States. No doubt the points which have caused this difference will be amicably arranged. Thursday was fixed for the Grand Templar Parade at Philadelphia, and we hope shortly to be in a position to lay before our readers a full account of the meeting. We trust everything passed off as well as such Templar displays usually have done among our American brethren. We doubt not we shall have another grand success to chronicle.

It has been decided to continue the Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement during the summer months. We earnestly solicit the support of the Companions to this end, as we are convinced that the only opportunity for becoming conversant with this portion of our ritual occurs to many during the warmer and genial portion of the year.

We have to express our very hearty thanks to Bro. Henry Stiles, for a very excellent photograph of the "Octogenarian." The portrait does great credit to Bro. Stiles's artistic ability. The pose is easy and graceful, and the likeness, which is full face, is a very pleasant one, and taken, we should imagine, in one of the Octogenarian's happiest moments. In short, it is a worthy picture of a most worthy member of our Order.

Bro. Theodore Distin announces a Ballad Concert at the Horns Tavern, Kennington Road, on Wednesday, the 7th

Digitized by Google

June, on which occasion he will have the valuable assistance of Mademoiselle Bartkowska, Miss Emily Dones, Miss Kate Wild, the Misses Laura Davies, Florence Levander, Gertrude Willoughby; Messrs. H. Guy, A. Hart, A. J. Thompson, T. W. Delamere, J. Wood, Duncan James, J. T. Hutchinson; solo concertina, Mr. R. Blagrove, and pianoforte, Miss Louisa R. Distin; accompanyists, Miss J. T. Lee and F. Cozens.

On Saturday evening, 10th June, at St. James's Hall, Bro. Captain Webb (No. 22), the Channel hero, will deliver a Lecture on his Life and Exploits. He will be assisted by Bro. Dr. J. J. Pope, late Staff Surgeon of the Royal Artillery. We understand it is in contemplation to deliver similar lectures in all the principal towns throughout the kingdom, the object being to encourage the art of swimming.

The St. Luke's Lodge of Instruction, No. 144, has been removed to the White Hart Tavern, 49 King's Road, Chelsea. The meetings are held every Friday at 7.30.

By an advertisement in another column it will be seen that, on holidays, and on occasions when special excursion traffic is provided, overcrowding and rushing to obtain tickets may be avoided, as they can be obtained for Brighton, and all the principal stations on the Great Western and Midland Railways, and for the Crystal Palace, at Bro. T. Kingston's Universal Railway Booking Office, Fitzroy-square.

PROVINCIAL MEETING IN EAST LANCASHIRE.

ON Thursday, 25th May, the annual meeting of the officers and brethren of the East Lancashire Province was held at Bacup. It is now a period of 28 years since a similar Masonic gathering was held in this town, and though there are many people who have a lively recollection of that event, it is a sad commentary upon the uncertainty and shortness of human life to reflect that there are only some half dozen brethren who were members of our local Lodge at that time still living, and of these Bro. John Earnshaw is senior, he having joined the Lodge about ten years previously. The arrangements for the meeting naturally devolved upon the officers and brethren of the Samaritan Lodge, 286, held at the Green Man Hotel, Bacup, who immediately they were honoured with the notification of Col. Le Gendre Starkie, the R.W.P.G.M., that the meeting was to be held in their midst, formed themselves into a committee, with Bro. James Pilling, W.M., at their head, and Bros. James Barker and Daniel Lord as Hon. Secretaries. The meeting of the Grand Lodge was held at St. Saviour's School, the use of which was readily granted by the Rev. W. Johnson, M.A., Vicar.

The brethren began to assemble at half-past twelve o'clock, and the Craft Lodge was opened in the three degrees by Bro. James Pilling W.M., assisted by Bros. Henry Taylor S.W., and John Wilson J.W. Col. Le Gendre N. Starkie, the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, and the rest of the Provincial Grand Officers arrived shortly after one o'clock, and Grand Lodge was at once opened. On the Lodge roll being called over it was found that every Lodge in the province—numbering altogether about 80—was represented. The Grand Master then announced that he had received letters of apology from several Provincial Officers.

The R.W.P.G.M. then proceeded to instal Bro. George Mellor, of Ashton-under-Lyne, as D.P.G.M., and alluded to the loss the province had sustained by the death of Bro. W. Romaine Callender. Bro. George Mellor briefly returned thanks for the honour the Provincial Grand Master had done him.

Bro. Statham, G. Treasurer, presented his statement of the accounts of the Provincial Grand Lodge, which were found to be in a highly satisfactory condition. Bro. John Thomas Hooper, of Blakeley, near Manchester, was elected G. Treasurer for the ensuing year.

The Provincial Grand Master then proceeded to invest the Prov. Grand Officers with their insignia and jewels of office, as follows:—Prov. S.W., Bro. W. Harrison, Blackburn; Prov. J.W., Bro. Thomas Rhodes, Manchester; Prov. G. Chaplains, the Rev. A. Salts, LL.D., Littleborough, and the Rev. S. Y. Bradshaw, Manchester; Prov. G. Treasurer, Bro J. T. Hooper, Manchester; Prov. G. Registrar, Bro. Thos. Chorlton, Manchester; Prov. G. Secretary, Bro. J. Tunnah, Bolton; Prov. G.S.D., Bro. W. O. Walker, Bury; Prov. G.J.D., Bro. A. Wolstenholme, Heywood; Prov. G. Supt. of Works, Bro. John Pilling, Bacup; Prov. G. Dir. of Cers., Bro. C. M. Jones, Rochdale; Prov. Asst. G. Dir. of Cers., Bro. James Skillito, Manchester; Prov. G. Sword Bearer, Bro. James Mills, Heywood; Prov. G. Organist, Bro. Thos. Hargreaves, Haslingden; Prov. G. Pursuivant, Bro. W. Cunliffe, Blackburn; Prov. Asst. G. Pursuivant, Bro. Westray Bonn, Bacup; Prov. G. Stewards, Bros. Robert Crossley jun., John Crossley, James Barker, William Blackledge, John Wilson, and Rawdon Ashworth, all of Bacup; Prov. G. Tyler, Bro. Charles Walker; Prov. G. Standard Bearer, Bro. Hobson Wadsworth, Burnley.

The business of the Grand Lodge was then transacted, and it was agreed that Bro. Tunnah, the Prov. G. Secretary, should be paid the sum of £100 per annum for the services of an Assistant.

The Grand Secretary then announced that Bro. N. Chadwick, of the Samaritan Lodge, No. 286, had to perform what he had no doubt would prove a very pleasing duty. Bro. Chadwick then said he had been requested by the officers and brethren of the Samaritan Lodge, No. 286, to undertake what was to him a most pleasant duty. It was to present to the R.W.G.M. some acknowledgment of his great kindness in causing this memorable meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of East Lancashire to be held at Bacup.

He then read an address, which was beautifully illuminated, and was enclosed in a massive gilt frame. The R.W. Provincial Grand Master, in acknowledging the compliment, said it gave him great pleasure to find that his Masonic conduct had so far commended itself to the approval of the brethren of the Samaritan Lodge as to elicit from them such a tangible mark of their confidence. It was the first testimonial he had received since he entered upon the duties of his present high and distinguished position, and he should treasure it as a memento of one of the most pleasant provincial meetings he had ever attended.

The Provincial Grand Lodge was then closed, after which the officers and brethren were marshalled into processional order to the Mechanics' Institution, where the usual banquet was to be held, but which, we regret to say, was very badly served.

The Grand Master gave the toasts of the Queen, and the Prince of Wales, M.W. Grand Master. In proposing the toast of the Prince of Wales, the Grand Master referred to the fact that our future sovereign had become a member of the Order, and had become Worshipful Grand Master of this country and the colonies. The toast was received with "three times nine."

The Grand Master next proposed the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family. Her fame, her goodness, and her beauty went before her before she arrived in this country. No princess ever came to this country who had more identified herself with the people. The rest of the Royal Family fulfilled their duty in a manner creditable to themselves and satisfactory to all.

The Deputy Grand Master, Bro. George Mellor, proposed the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, Provincial Grand Master, the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy Grand Master, and the Grand Officers, present and past. When they saw noblemen like these becoming members of the Craft, and doing their best for the good of the Order, they ought to be very proud. (Applause, and "three times nine.")

Bro. James A. Birch proposed "Col. Le Gendre Starkie, R.W. Provincial Grand Master," which was received with loud cheers. In another portion of the county the name of Starkie was revered. He ventured to assert that the prestige of that house had never been more highly sustained than in the person of the Provincial Grand Master. (Applause.) The manner in which he performed suit and service in the Grand Lodge showed how fit he was for the position. The progress of Freemasonry in the province during his rule had been most rapid. He referred to the successful exertions which the Grand Master had made to establish a Masonic charity in East Lancashire, and said he ventured to think that in future days the rule of the Provincial Grand Master would be blessed by the families of indigent Masons. (Applause.) The toast was drunk with much enthusiasm.

The Grand Master returned his heartfelt thanks for the manner in which Bro. Birch had proposed his health, and said he only wished he was half as good a Mason as their brother had represented him to be. Though he was a stranger in this part of Lancashire, the manner in which he had been received would ever remain impressed on his mind. (Applause.) He simply wished, as a man and a Mason, to do his duty, and he hoped they would excuse his deficiencies. He had been brought up in the cradle of Freemasonry, and had the example of his father, as a Mason, before him. (Applause.) He sought neither honour nor glory. The true Mason did not seek honour or glory, but endeavoured to do his duty. (Applause.) They were a body of people who wished to do good. Friendship, love, and truth were the elements they held by. He loved his Province as a father loved his family—(applause)—and if he enforced the laws he would endeavour to do so justly, but as leniently as possible. (Applause.) He thanked the brethren of Bacup for the hearty manner in which they had received him, and the testimonial which they had presented to him.

The Grand Master, after passing a warm tribute to the memory of Bro. W. R. Callender, M.P., proposed "George Mellor, Esq., Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master, and the Provincial Grand Officers, present and past." He trusted Bro. Mellor would long have the pleasure of working in harmony and unity with him for the good of the Order. (Applause.) He trusted Bro. Mellor would have happiness in his new office.

Bro. Mellor briefly returned thanks. He said he had been 35 years connected with the Craft, and he had always tried to do his best for the interest of the Order. He thanked them for the great honour they had conferred upon him, stating that he would do all in his power for the good of the Craft.

The Grand Master gave the next toast, "the Samaritan Lodge, No. 286, Bacup." He expressed the delight of himself and the other members on the manner in which they had received the Grand Lodge. He was glad there was a Lodge of Freemasons in Bacup. He did not know how they managed their meetings, or whether they got blown up when they went home. (Laughter.) He could assure them he never got blown up when he went home. (Renewed laughter.) He wished prosperity to the Bacup Lodge, and he hoped to meet many of them in future Grand Lodges. (Applause.)

Bro. the Rev. A. J. Harrison returned thanks for the W.M. He spoke only the sentiments of the Brethren of the Lodge when he said it was a proud day for the Freemasons of Bacup. The coming among them that day of so many men of high intelligence was a proof that Freemasonry was worthy of respect. Not only would the 70 or 80 members in Bacup be stimulated by the events of the day, but all the brethren of the Craft in Rossendale. (Applause.)

The other toasts were the "Masonic Charities," proposed by Bro. W. Harrison, the "Visiting Brethren," proposed by Bro. W. Blackledge, and acknowledged by Bro. Helliwell of Bury, "the Ladies," proposed by Bro. J. T. Barcroft, "the Army, Navy, and Volunteers," proposed by Bro. R. H. Hardman, and "All Poor and Distressed Masons." The appropriate glee, "Good Night to the Day," exhausted the programme, after which the meeting broke up.—Bacup Times.

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

SATURDAY, 3rd JUNE.

General Committee, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
206—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Stud Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.
R. A. 975—Rose of Denmark, Star and Garter, Kew Bridge.

MONDAY, 5th JUNE.

27—Anchor and Hope, Freemasons' Hall, Church Institute, Bolton-le-Moors.
119—Sun, Square and Compasses, Freemasons' Hall, Whitehaven.
153—Harmony, Ship Hotel, Faversham.
156—Harmony, Huyshe Masonic Temple, Plymouth.
190—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover.
441—Three Grand Principles, Red Lion Hotel, Petty Curry, Cambridge.
478—Churchill, Masonic Hall, Alfred-street, Oxford.
1045—Stamford, Town Hall, Altrincham.
1051—Rowley, Athenæum, Lancaster.
1204—Neptune, Masonic Temple, 23 Hope-street, Liverpool.

TUESDAY, 6th JUNE.

55—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
860—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
R.A.—Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michaels'-alley, Cornhill, at 6.30.

51—Angel, Three Cups Hotel, Colchester.
120—Paladin, Green Dragon Hotel, Hereford.
169—Adams, Masonic Rooms, Victoria Hall, Trinity-road, Shoeburness-on-Sea.
556—Temple, Town Hall, Folkestone.
734—Londesborough, Victoria Hotel, Bridlington Quay.
847—Protesene, Masonic Hall, High-street, Honiton, Devon.
948—St. Barnabas, Masonic Room, Lindale, Leighton Buzzard.
1002—Skiddaw, Lodge Room, Market-place, Cockermouth.
1034—Newall, Freemasons' Hall, Islington-square, Salford.
1158—Devon, Masonic Hall, Devon-square, Newton Abbot.
1259—Beaconstree, Red Lion, Leytonstone, at 8. (Instruction.)
1328—Waverley, Caledonia Inn, Ashton-under-Lyne.
1907—Metropolitan, 209 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)

WEDNESDAY, 7th JUNE.

Grand Lodge, Freemasons' Hall, at 6.0 for 7.0.
183—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7. (Instruction.)
1288—Finsbury Park, Finsbury Park Tav., Seven Sisters'-rd., at 8.0. (Instruction.)
1624—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Albion-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)
R. A. 1365—Clapton, White Hart Tavern, Clapton, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

197—Amity, Masonic Hall, Thames-street, Poole.
218—Harmony, Masonic Room, Ann-street, Rochdale.
320—Moira, Freemasons' Hall, Park-street, Bristol.
471—Silurian, Freemasons' Hall, Dock-street, Newport.
645—Humphrey Chetham, Masonic Room, Cross-street, Manchester.
1005—Royal St. Edmund's, Angel Hotel, Bury St. Edmunds.
1083—Malling Abbey, Bear Inn, West Malling, Kent.
1144—Milton, Commercial Hotel, Ashton-under-Lyne.
1167—Alnwick, Masonic Hall, Market-place, Alnwick.
1206—Cinque Ports, Bell Hotel, Sandwich.
1323—Talbot, Masonic Rooms, Wind-street, Swansea.
1363—Tyndall, Town Hall, Chipping Sudbury, Gloucester.
1511—Alexandra, Masonic Hall, Hornsea, at 7.0. (Instruction.)

THURSDAY, 8th JUNE.

3—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, London-st., Fitzroy-sq., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
10—Westminster and Keystone, Freemasons' Hall, W.C.
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
435—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 8. (Instruction.)
1260—Hervey, 152 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1353—Lebanon, Red Lion Hotel, Hampton. (Emergency.)
1969—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

35—Moline, 86 High-street, Cowes.
320—Unanimity, Crown Hotel, Penrith, Cumberland.
469—Benevolence, Masonic Hall, Bridgeland-street, Bideford, Devon.
646—Etruscan, Masonic Hall, Caroline-street, Longton, Stafford.
850—Star in the East, Pier Hotel, Harwich. (Instruction.)
752—Royal Brunswick, Royal Pavilion, Brighton.
739—Temperance, Masonic Room, New-street, Birmingham.
945—Abbey, Abbey Council Chamber, Abingdon, Berks.
1035—Derby, Knowsley's Hotel, Cheetham, Lancashire.
1094—St. George's, Private Room, Temperance Hall, Treforgar, Mon.
1214—Boyd's, Belle Vue Hotel, Malvern, Worcester-shire.
1429—Albert Edward Prince of Wales, Masonic Hall, Newport, Mon.
Grand Lodge M.M.M., 33 Golden-square, at 5.0.

FRIDAY, 9th JUNE.

933—Duke, Earl Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1279—Burdett Coutts, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, 7.30. (Instruction.)
R.A. 10—Westminster and Keystone, Freemasons' Hall, W.C.

36—Glamorgan, Freemasons' Hall, Arcade, St. Mary-street, Cardiff.
697—United, George Hotel, Colchester.
1097—Beaconsfield, Assembly Rooms, Corn Exchange, Leighton Buzzard.
1530—United Military, Masonic Hall, Plumstead.
Cheshire and North Wales Provincial Grand Lodge M.M.M., Town Hall, Altrincham, Cheshire.
M. M.—Era, Bridge House Hotel, London Bridge. (Installation.)

SATURDAY, 10th JUNE.

206—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
1391—Commercial, Freemasons' Hall, Leicester.
R. A.—Stud Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

R. A. 1185—Lewis, King's Arms Hotel, Wood-green. (Consecration.)

WEST YORKSHIRE.

SATURDAY.

809—Prince George, Station House, Bottoms, Eastwood.

MONDAY.

6—Probity, Freemasons' Hall, St. John's-place, Halifax.
154—Unanimity, Masonic Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield.
264—Nelson of the Nile, Freemasons' Hall, New-road, Batley.
303—Hope, New Masonic Hall, Darley-street, Bradford.
307—Prince Frederick, White Horse Hotel, Hebden Bridge.
405—Three Graces, Private Room, Haworth.
1108—Wharfedale, Private Room, Boroughgate, Otley, York.
1311—Gotherich, Masonic Hall, St. George-street, Leeds.
1320—Wentworth, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
1503—De Warren, White Swan Hotel, Halifax.
1542—Lepyltone, Masonic Hall, Carlton-street, Castleford.
R.A. 380—Integrity, Masonic Temple, Commercial-street, Morley.
1414—Thornhill, Masonic Hall, Carlton-street, Castleford.

TUESDAY.

246—Royal Yorkshire, Masonic Hall, Hanover-street, Keighley.
1124—Scarborough, Wilton Arms Hotel, Batley.
R.A. 291—Loyalty, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
R.A. 600—Sincerity, Freemasons' Hall, Salem-street, Bradford.

WEDNESDAY.

258—Amphibious, Freemasons' Hall, Heckmondwike.
280—Huddersfield, Masonic Hall, South Parade, Huddersfield.
309—Integrity, Masonic Temple, Commercial-street, Morley.
387—Airedale, Masonic Hall, Westgate, Shipley.
910—St. Oswald, Masonic Hall, Ropergate, Pontefract.
R.A. 304—Philanthropic, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.

THURSDAY.

139—Britannia, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
630—Scientific, Private Room, Bingley.
971—Trafalgar, Private Room, Commercial-street, Batley.
R. A. 108—Three Grand Principles, Masonic Hall, Dewsbury.
R. A. 237—Good Intent, White Horse Hotel, Hebden Bridge.
R. A. 337—Confidence, Private Rooms, Commercial Inn, Uppermill.

FRIDAY.

401—Royal Forest, Hark-to-Bounty Inn, Knaresborough.
466—Aire and Calder, Private Rooms, Ouse-street, Goole.
663—Holme Valley, Victoria Hotel, Holmfirth.
1021—Harrogate and Clare, Masonic Rooms, Parliament-street, Harrogate.
1054—Eccleshill, Freemasons' Hall, Ecclesshill.
1102—Mirfield, Assembly Rooms, Easthorpe, Mirfield.

SATURDAY.

149—Peace, Masonic Rooms, Meltham.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

431—St. George's, Masonic Hall, Norfolk-street, North Shields.

TUESDAY.

124—Marquis of Granby, Freemasons' Hall, Old Elvet, Durham.
263—St. David's, Freemasons' Hall, The Parade, Berwick-on-Tweed.

WEDNESDAY.

94—Phœnix, Freemasons' Hall, Queen-street, Sunderland.
406—Northern Counties, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
1274—Earl of Durham, Freemasons' Hall, Chester-le-street.

THURSDAY.

97—Palatine, Masonic Hall, Park Terrace, Sunderland.
901—Tyne, Masonic Hall, Willington-quay.
R. A. 569—Tees, Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-road, Stockton-on-Tees.

FRIDAY.

1131—Wear Valley, King's Arms Hotel, Bishop Auckland.
R. A. 406—De Sinsen, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

IRELAND.

FRIDAY—178—St. John's, Castle-street, Lisburn, County Antrim.

SCOTLAND.

TUESDAY—41—St. Cuthbert Kilwinning, Masonic Lodge Kirkcudbright.
WEDNESDAY—0—Mother of Kilwinning, Masonic Hall, Kilwinning.
" 31—Old St. John, Masonic Hall, Lanark.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

MONDAY—229—St. Kentigern, Royal Hotel, Penicuik.
TUESDAY—3—Canongate and Leith (L. & C.), 86 Constitution-street.
THURSDAY—48—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall.
" 228—Portobello, Royal Hotel, Bath-street.
" R. A. 122—Perseverance, Lodge Room, 98 Constitution-street.
FRIDAY—R. A. 82—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall.

GLASGOW DISTRICT.

All the Meetings are at 8.0 p.m., unless otherwise stated.

MONDAY—124—Kilwinning, Union Tavern, Ayr.
" 129—St. Mirren, St. Mirren's Hall, Paisley.
" 134—Operative, Blue Bell Hotel, Ayr.
" 363—Union, 213 Buchanan-street.
" R. A. 119—Rosslyn, 25 Robertson-street.
TUESDAY—3 bis.—St. John's, St. John's Hall 213 Buchanan-street.
" 84—Barnhill, 44 Church-street, Port Glasgow.
" 98—Thistle and Rose, St. Mark's Hall, 213 Buchanan-street.
" 82—Thistle, 30 Hope-street.
" 417—St. John, Brereton's Hall, Catrine.
" 547—Govanhill, Portland Hall, Govan.
WEDNESDAY—4—Kilwinning, 141 Kent-road.
" 12—St. John's, Freemasons' Hall, Shettleston.
" 17—Strathclyde, 12 Trongate.
" 153—Caledonian Railway, 89 Hope-street.
" 521—Dramsalie, 213 Buchanan-street, at 4 p.m.
" K. Y.—St. Mungo Kilwinning, 213 Buchanan-street.
" R. A. 57—Shamrock and Thistle, 12 Trongate.
THURSDAY—[illegible]—St. Thenew's, Crown Hotel, Kilmarnock.
" 165—Royal Arch, King's Arms, Ayr.
" 198—St. John, Masonic Hall, Anderston.
FRIDAY—18—Kilwinning, Masonic Hall, Dumbarton.
" 120—Leven St. John's, Black Bull Inn, Leslie.
SATURDAY—36—St. John's, Black Bull, Kirkintilloch.

Digitized by Google

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Royal Lodge, Jamaica.—The installation of officers took place at Sussex Hall, Kingston, on the 2nd May, at 7 p.m. The following officers were invested by the W.M., Bro. A. E. Burke, viz., Bros. Duff S.W., J. Melville J.W., G. Campbell Treasurer, J. Thompson S.D., — Thorssell J.D., W. Duff I.G., E. Leon and — Garcia Stewards, G. Magnus Tyler. Several Past Masters assisted, the installing officer being W. Bro. Wm. Garcia. After the ceremony the brethren adjourned to a well-spread banquet, where the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were heartily responded to. The Lodge's Charter is now a century old. The W.M., Bro. A. E. Burke, is also P.M. of a Scottish Lodge established in the island.

Phœnix Chapter, Port Royal, Jamaica.—Having obtained a charter from the Grand Royal Arch Chapter, the consecration and installation took place on 6th April, at Phœnix Hall, Port Royal. M.E. Comp. J. W. Whitbourne D.P.G.M. attended, amongst others. The following were installed:—M.E. Comp. G. J. De Cordova Z., O. Delgado sen. H., D. Baund J., O. Delgado jun. Principal Sojourner. The other officers will have been invested on 11th May. The Chapter is intended for the especial benefit of H.M.'s Army and Navy, of which it already numbers several members.

Hamilton Lodge, Spanish Town, Jamaica.—On 4th May, W. Bro. Reid was installed as W.M. for the year.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules, Leadenhall-street, on Thursday evening last, at half-past seven. Present—Bros. Blackhall W.M., Ellis S.W., Hocking J.W., Austin P.M. Preceptor, Grammer Hon. Secretary, Hill S.D., Lamb J.D., Hogarth I.G., and several other brethren. The Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Lipscombe being the candidate. The first section of the Lecture was worked by Bro. Ellis, the second by Bro. Webb, and the third and fourth by Bro. Ellis, assisted by the brethren. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in ancient form.

Constitutional Lodge of Instruction, No. 55.—At the meeting of this Lodge, held at Bro. Worth's, Wheatsheaf Hotel, Hand-court, Holborn, on Tuesday, the 30th ult., the Fifteen Sections were worked by the following brethren, from the Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435, under the direction of their Preceptor, Bro. J. Mander, P.M. 1201:—

First Lecture.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. G. Abbott, 525, Hong Kong.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. G. Davis, 167.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. G. W. Saul, S.D. 1201.
4th "	... ...	Bro. D. M. Belfrage, J.D. 179.
5th "	... ...	Bro. A. Cameron, P.M. 180.
6th "	... ...	Bro. J. W. Bentley, P.M. 193.
7th "	... ...	Bro. J. Wheeler, 1446.

Second Lecture.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. E. S. Harrison, J.D. 180.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. J. H. Watts, W.M. 1201.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. T. Cull, I.G. 1446.
4th "	... ...	Bro. A. Stewart, 1158.
5th "	... ...	Bro. A. Bohr.

Third Lecture.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. F. Honeyman, W.M. 1238.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. W. Neighbour, 771.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. E. Farwig, 180.

Cordial votes of thanks were given to Bro. Mander and Bro. Wheeler, and to those brethren who had so ably worked the sections. Several new members were elected.

Friendship Lodge, No. 100.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on 25th May, at the Crown and Anchor Hotel, Yarmouth. Present—Bros. E. J. Bonfellow W.M., R. Martins S.W., R. W. Hubbard J.W., H. B. Mason acting S.D., John Hammond acting J.D., C. M. Kirkham Steward, L. Spence I.G., James Holt Tyler, D. R. Fowler Secretary; P.M.'s Bros. Bond and Franklin. Visitor—Bro. A. D. Stone, 1452. Business—The minutes of previous Lodge were read and adopted, Bros. Harvey and Brooks were duly passed to 2nd degree, and Bros. Blyth and Bede were raised to the sublime degree.

St. John's Lodge, No. 178.—This Lodge held its regular monthly meeting on Friday, 12th May, in the Masonic Hall, Castle-street, Lisburn, County Antrim, Ireland. There was a numerous and enthusiastic attendance of members, which included the following—Bros. R. M. Tilly W.M., Wm. Graham S.W., J. Higginson J.W., W. J. Gilliland Sec., J. Vernon J.D., A. M'Clelland I.G., W. Wilson, A. Mussen, J. M'Bride, W. Johnston, A. Boyd, J. Pryde, J. Jefferson, F. Duffin, G. G. Tew, M. D. Duncan, S. J. Belson, R. Macartney, J. Flynn, W. Hawthorne, John Ruddy. Visitors—Bros. T. Tallentire 24, and J. Darling 384. The Lodge was opened to the 3rd degree, Bro. R. M. Tilly W.M. presiding. Bro. G. G. Tew, who was in attendance, was raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason, by Bro. Tallentire. Bro. Higginson's motion respecting Lodge clothing was postponed till next night of meeting. A committee of the three principal officers, Secretary, and three members of the Lodge, were appointed to revise the bye-laws, and report the result on next night of meeting. A large proportion of the members having procured tickets of admission to the presentation of address to the Most Worshipful Grand Master, His Grace the Duke of Abercorn, in the Music Hall, Belfast, the making of final arrangements for attending same was left to the discretion of the W.M. and Secretary. The Lodge closed, and adjourned for refreshment, Bro. R. M. Tilly presided. After the usual Loyal and Charter toasts were given, several excellent songs were sung by the members, and after spending an hour socially the brethren separated.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—The meeting on Wednesday last, taking into consideration the counter attractions of the Derby day, was fairly attended. Bro. Blackhall was W.M., Pare S.W., Seyer J.W., Pelton S.D., Abell J.D., Hollands I.G., Christopher Tyler. P.M.'s Gottheil Preceptor, J. Constable Treasurer, Bro. J. K. Pitt Secretary. The Lodge having been opened, the ceremony of initiation was re-hearsed, Bro. Batyie acting as candidate. The 1st and 2nd sections of the lecture were worked by the brethren. Bro. Lipscombe, No. 15, was elected a member of the Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Pare was appointed W.M. for next meeting.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Thursday, 1st June, at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. Present—Bros. Farwig W.M., Allcott S.W., Willis J.W., T. Cull Secretary, Lee S.D., Dutton J.D., Docker I.G., also Bros. Mander Preceptor, S. Lloyd, G. Davis, Bentley, &c. Business—Lodge opened and minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Lloyd acting as candidate. The 1st, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th sections were worked by Bros. Mander, Cull, Farwig and Lee. Bro. Allcott was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Lodge La Tolerance, No. 538.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on Friday, the 26th ult., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Present—Bros. C. Barmeister W.M., H. Wood S.W., H. L. Welters J.W., J. Kench P.M. Treasurer, G. Y. Simon Hon. Secretary, J. Quitman S.D., J. W. Cooper J.D., J. Marshall I.G., H. W. Lindus P.M., G. F. Creamer, Child, J. Skinner, E. Kennedy, R. Palumbo, G. B. Mickle, H. Millward, &c. A ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. E. Humphrey, and it being unanimous he was, by the courtesy of the W.M., initiated by Bro. J. Kench P.M. and Treasurer. Mr. H. F. Swears was then initiated by the W.M., who afterwards passed Bro. Gustav Baumann to the 2nd degree. All the ceremonies were very perfectly worked. A report was read from Bro. J. Kench, who had been appointed Steward to represent the Lodge on the last Festival for Girls on 8th May. It showed the amounts received from the brethren. The Lodge is endowed in perpetuity in the name of the S.W. The chair of the J.W. and the chair of the 1st Principal of the Chapter is also severally endowed with the sum of £10 10s each. The chair of the W.M., Bro. C. Barmeister, is already endowed, also Bros. J. Kench and D. Cormack, who have qualified themselves as Life Governors of the Institution, and the total amount on his list was £63. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Inns of Court Hotel, Holborn, where a very excellent banquet was provided. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. Harmony prevailed, which was materially assisted by the excellent singing of Bros. Wood, Davis, Kerne, Mickle, Kench and Earley. The visitors were Bros. H. Green, St. Andrews Lodge, C. J. W. Davis W.M. 382, J. Jackson 1287, H. Liddall 157, E. H. Stanniwitz W.M. 435, T. Sampson late 260 New York, H. Kerne 40, J. Hughes 145, G. J. Wimperis 91, and S. Yearsley 417.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge was held at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, on Tuesday, 30th May. Present—Bros. Worsley W.M., Wiege S.W. Johnson J.W., Barker S.D., Dallas I.G., P.M. Wallington Preceptor, also P.M.'s Ashburner, Wright, and other brethren. Lodge opened in due form, and Bro. Harding having answered the necessary questions was passed to the 2nd degree, and thereafter to the 3rd, both ceremonies being rendered by the W.M. in a very impressive manner; it is satisfactory to see so young a Mason, who has just attained the position of J.D. in his mother Lodge, work the ceremonies so creditably; it augurs well for the prosperity of the Lodge, where, in due course, he hopes to attain the proud position of W.M. The Lodge was closed down in the three degrees, and adjourned until Tuesday, 13th June. Bro. Wiege was unanimously elected W.M. for that occasion.

Whittington Chapter, No. 862.—A Convocation of this Chapter met on Friday, the 26th ultimo, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Comps. H. Jones M.E.Z., W. Stephens H., T. Kingston J., J. Weaver P.Z. S.E., Coote P.Z., Tinney P.S., Murlis Steward; and Comps. High, Gluckstein, Moore, Paul, Parkhouse, Jessett, &c. The Chapter was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Comps. Parker, Marquis of Ripon Lodge, and Benn, Zetland Lodge, were duly exalted into R.A. Masonry. The 1st Principal's chair being occupied by Comp. W. Stephens, Coote H., and Jas. Weaver P.Z. as J. The ceremony and addresses were very perfectly and impressively delivered by those Companions. The election for Principals and Officers then took place, and Comp. W. Stephens was elected M.E.Z., T. Kingston H., Tinney J., Robert Wentworth Little Treasurer, Jas. Weaver P.Z. S.E., Moore S.N., Murlis P.S. The Chapter was then closed until November next, and the Companions partook of a very excellent banquet. The usual Loyal and R.A. toasts were given, and the Companions departed.

Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017.—The usual monthly meeting was held on Wednesday, 24th ult., at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street. Present—Bros. J. Blum W.M., V. Myers S.W., Gulliford J.W., L. Jacobs Treasurer, E. P. Albert, Grand Pursuivant, Secretary, L. Salomons S.D., W. Brall J.D., Hand I.G., and P.M.'s Grunebaum I.P.M., S. Pollitzer, J. De Solla, J. Lazarus and S. V. Abrahams. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Guttman was raised to the 3rd degree, and Mr. M. Barnett, who had been previously accepted, was duly initiated. The Lodge was then closed and the brethren separated. There was no banquet. Bro. S. M. Harris, No. 406, was present as a visitor.

Digitized by Google

Acacia Lodge, No. 1309.—The election meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday, the 23rd ult., at the Prince Alfred Hotel, Southall. Bro. F. Walters P.M. P.G.P. Middlesex and Treasurer, opened the Lodge, in the absence of the W.M. Bro. C. Horsley P.P.G.R. Middlesex. Bros. C. A. Forrier S.W., C. G. Rushworth J.W., the Rev. Thos. Wells Cave, LL.D., Secretary, J. M. George S.D., C. G. Stahr J.D., R. P. Tebb D.C., W. Laing P.M. 45 Tyler. Ballots having been taken for the admission of the Rev. J. Fothergill, M.A., and Mr. A. Horsley, nephew of the W.M., these gentlemen were initiated by Bro. C. Horsley, and Mr. Haller by Bro. Stahr. By the courtesy of the W.M., Bro. F. Walters P.M. and Treasurer passed Bro. R. Brown to the 2nd degree. The bye-laws were then read, and the election for W.M. took place, which resulted in Bro. C. G. Rushworth being chosen, Bros. F. Walters P.M. Treasurer, and Laing Tyler. On the notice of motion by Bro. F. Walters, it was unanimously resolved that the sum of £10 10s be voted from the funds of the Lodge, for the purpose of presenting the retiring W.M. with a Past Master's jewel, as a slight recognition of the valuable services rendered to the Lodge during his year of office. The following brethren were elected to represent the Masonic Charities:—Bro. R. P. Tebb, the Boys' School in 1876, Dr. S. Wills Cave the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution 1877, C. G. Rushworth, W.M. Elect, Boys' School 1877, Dr. J. Sutcliffe the Girls' School in 1877. These brethren, upon motions duly proposed, were recommended for Provincial Grand Honors at the next meeting of Provincial Grand Lodge. Several propositions for initiation were handed in, and the Lodge was adjourned until Tuesday, 22nd August, that being the installation night. The Lodge was then closed, and the usual banquet followed, where the regular toasts were given and responded to. After enjoying a very agreeable evening, the brethren returned to town.

Gladsmuir Lodge, No. 1365.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Friday the 26th of May, at the Red Lion Hotel, Barnet, Herts. Present—Bros. J. Cutbush W.M., Livingston S.W., R. F. Young J.W., G. Askew Secretary, C. Grey as S.D., W. Newman D.C., Brown and Allen Stewards, J. Emerby I.G., Goddard Tyler; P.M.'s J. Lowthin and H. Edwards. In consequence of the recent death of Bro. W. Cutbush (brother of the W.M.), Bro. Lowthin P.S.G.W. acted as W.M. The minutes having been confirmed, Bro. W. W. Morgan jun. was passed to the 2nd degree, after which the ballot was taken for Bro. John Parrott, of 1479, as a joining member, and he was duly elected. The Report of the Benevolent Fund Committee was then presented, and after some discussion the suggestions therein were agreed to. The same committee was then appointed to frame Bye-laws for the regulation of the fund, these to be presented at the next meeting. A ballot to fill the post of Treasurer (vacant by the death of P.M. W. Cutbush) was then taken, and Bro. Lowthin P.M., Prov. S.G.W., was unanimously elected. A vote of condolence with the widow was passed, and ordered to be recorded on the minutes. Bro. Terry (Sec. R.M.B.I.) delivered a short eulogy in memory of our departed brother. A candidate having been proposed for initiation the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment. Bro. Lowthin gave the various toasts, and in proposing that of the Charities remarked that charity could not be attended to too soon. Bro. Cutbush the W.M. (Steward for the approaching Festival of the Boys' School) had left his list, with the hope that the amount would reach 50 guineas before it was returned to him. Bro. Terry said he hoped the wish of the W.M. would be realised, and he thought from the way the card was being received that there was every chance of it. Let the brethren subscribe on this occasion in memory of their late brother, who had done so much for the Charities, and who was ever ready to help. At the Asylum at Croydon the old people expressed great regret at the loss they had suffered, they all had occasion to remember him. On a visit some short time since Bro. Cutbush had selected a spot, for which he sent a truck load of trees in order to form, a few years hence, a shady spot for the inmates. He concluded by expressing a hope that the good deeds he had done would long live after him, and tendered his thanks to the Lodge for their support, not only of his own institution, but of the Charities generally, and hoped they would continue in the future as in the past. The W.M. then announced that the subscriptions reached the sum of £53 9s, in addition to the 10 guineas subscribed by the W.M. Bro. Terry then gave the health of the presiding W.M., who had worked his way up to the position of third Mason in the Province. He was a P.M. of three Lodges, and a credit to all. Bro. Lowthin responded. The toasts of the P.M.'s and Officers were duly honoured, and the Tyler's toast closed the meeting.

Metropolitan Lodge No. 1507.—This Lodge held an Emergency meeting on Tuesday, the 30th of May, at the Metropolitan Club, 269 Pentonville-road. Present—Bros. J. J. Michael W.M., Thos. Williams S.W., Kingham J.W., Geo. Time P.M. Sec., Scales as S.D., Stiles D.C., Side I.G., Daly Tyler. Past Master Bro. James Willing jun. Visitors—Bros. Ball P.M. 145, McDougle I.P.M. 912, A. W. Fenner 1227, and W. W. Morgan 1385. The hour fixed in the summons for commencement of the business was half-past four, and by that time there was a good attendance of the members. The Lodge was opened in regular form, and Bros. Edwards, Hewlson, E. Van Camp, Robins, and Irlath were introduced, and examined as to their proficiency, they being candidates for the third degree. The several questions were answered by these brethren in a satisfactory manner, and in due course the ceremony of raising was proceeded with. The next part of the proceedings was the passing of Bro. Boshart, which was also conducted in a highly gratifying way. Ballots were then taken for Messrs. Debouf and Lefevre, which were pronounced clear, and these gentlemen, with two others, Messrs. Knight and Tuck, who had been balloted for at a previous meeting, were initiated into the mysteries of our ancient Craft. Motions, of which notice had been regularly given, were then thoroughly discussed, and will receive further attention on a future occasion. After routine business the Lodge was formally closed. The whole of the business proceedings were conducted by the W.M., and considering the fact that this might emphatically be called the first day of summer, and having regard to the small space the members of this flourishing Lodge have at their command, the thanks of the brethren are due to Bro. Michael for the able manner in which he performed his heavy and responsible duties. After a slight adjournment, the brethren and their guests sat down to a most substantial repast, which was served in elegant style. Bro. Michael presided, and on the removal of the cloth proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. He stated that on the last occasion he had the pleasure of meeting the brethren he thought it would be the last time he should have the pleasure of presiding over them in the capacity of W.M. It had, however, been considered necessary to hold this Lodge of Emergency, and he was therefore once more at their head. On the last occasion he had a lively recollection of having trespassed on their time by the length to which he considered it necessary to extend his remarks, but on this occasion he would be as brief as he consistently could. Without more preface he would give the health of Her Majesty the Queen, who he was convinced had the respect and esteem of every brother present. The W.M. next gave the toast of the M.W.G.M. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. All Masons were glad to know that he had returned safely from his Indian journey, and all would be pleased to see him at Grand Lodge at the meeting to be held next week. The next toast was that of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers, past and present. These toasts were duly honoured. Bro. James Willing jun. then rose. He said there is an old saying that the garret is the topmost room in the house, and after that comes the roof. Their last meeting was supposed to have been the last of their season, so he supposed this ought to be called the one over the top, or should he say their sky meeting? However that might be, their W.M., Bro. Michael, had reached the summit of his ambition, and had given satisfaction to the brethren of his Lodge. He had been ever willing and ever ready to further the interests of the Lodge, and he was sure all present would heartily welcome the toast he had to propose, and that was the health of their Worshipful Master. Bro. Evison then sang a highly humorous song. The W.M. on rising to reply was received with cheers. He said when he last had the opportunity of addressing them he had spoken so fully that to-night he would merely thank them. He would carry with him a lively recollection of the kindness he had always received during his occupancy of the chair. If his speech on the last occasion had been too long, it was because he had been anxious to clear his mind; and he thought all would agree with him that on that occasion he effectually did so. On the present occasion he would merely say that he thanked all present for the hearty way in which the toast had been received. Bro. Michael then proposed the health of the I.P.M., Bro. Jas. Willing jun., after which Bro. Stiles favoured the company with an excellent song. Bro. Jas. Willing jun., whose rising was a signal for hearty cheers, said at present he was the only Past Master of the Lodge, but in a very short space of time he should have their worthy Brother Michael alongside of him. They would then be two very nice fellows, for what one lacked the other would doubtless be able to supply. The brethren must, however, allow him a little latitude, and he would just take a peep at matters that were passing around. Wherever they met, the spirit of Charity should be amongst them, and he hoped that spirit would be with them to-night. Their Lodge had something in connection with its history which would cause it to be remembered, inasmuch as it was the first Lodge consecrated under the present Most Worshipful Grand Master. Bro. Willing next referred to the recent election of candidates for our several Institutions, and directed the attention of the brethren to the approaching Festival of the Boys' School, at the Alexandra Palace, and hoped he might be gratified by meeting a large contingent of the members of the Metropolitan Lodge. The Institution for Boys was worthy the support of every member of the Craft, while in Bro. Binckes "Our Boys" had a sincere and hard working friend. He concluded by trusting that the Herculean efforts of our worthy Secretary would receive ample recognition by the way his Charity would be supported at the Festival, on the 28th June next. The W.M. here called attention to the Charity Box, which had been so kindly presented to the Lodge by Bro. Kingham. This box was not obtrusively thrust before the brethren, but was placed on a convenient shelf in the room, and if any brother had a spare Five Pound Note or a spare Five Shillings to place in it, he might be sure it would be gratefully received and faithfully applied. Bro. Read here sang "Kitty Clyde's Sister." The W.M. next proposed the health of the Visitors, and called on each to respond. Bro. Ball thanked the brethren for their hospitality; he had been greatly gratified at the way in which the working had been done, and he was pleased to find the Lodge in so flourishing a condition. Bro. McDougle followed; he had come there at the request of two of the initiates of the evening, in whom he was personally interested, and he was exceedingly gratified to find that his young friends had joined a Lodge where the members were so proficient in their duties. Bro. Morgan said he did not know whether he ought to feel aggrieved or not; the two brethren who preceded him had been favoured with a musical accompaniment from a street band; the music had now ceased, and he supposed he must do without it. Brevity had been the order of the evening for all remarks, and he would not detain them. Bro. Ball had spoken of their working, and Bro. McDougle had referred to the capabilities of the members of the Lodge; he was pleased to see they did not overlook the claims of Charity. Our noble institutions were worthy of support, and it was gratifying to note the success that had attended the two Festivals that had been already held. That of the Boys' was fixed for the 28th of June, and he agreed with Bro. Willing in his remarks respecting "Our Hercules." Bro. Binckes was most enthusiastic in the arduous work he was engaged in, and all present, he was sure, heartily wished him success. Bro. Fenner thanked the brethren for the kind way in which they had received his name in connection with the toast. He was but a young Mason; he had however received immense benefit by attending the Lodge of Instruction associated with them. The toast of the Initiates was replied to by each, in turn, after which the health of Bro. P.M. Tims, the respected Secretary, the W.M. Elect, and the rest of the Officers were given and duly responded to. Several songs were sung in addition to those already mentioned; the efforts of Bros. Side, Stiles, and others giving great satisfaction. The Tyler's toast concluded a most successful meeting.

Digitized by Google

Duke of Connaught Lodge of Instruction, No. 1624.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Wednesday, the 31st of May, at the Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston. Present—Bros. Henry Meyer W.M., F. Brasted S.W., E. Dietrich J.W., W. H. Lee S.D., Fieldwick J.D., O. Dietrich I.G., and Bros. Terrar, Sims, Spencer, Hill, J. B. Shackleton, &c. Business—Lodge was opened in due form, minutes of last Lodge meeting read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Spencer acting as candidate. The 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Lee, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Brasted was elected W.M for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed and adjourned to Wednesday, 7th June, at 8 p.m.

THE PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF LEICESTERSHIRE AND RUTLAND.

THE half-yearly communication of this Provincial Grand Lodge was held at the Corn Exchange, Melton Mowbray, on Monday, when there was a large attendance of the Fraternity. The Right Hon. the Earl Ferrers, Provincial Grand Master, presided, supported by the Rev. W. Langley P.P.S.G.W., acting as D.P.G.M., the Rev. Canon Burfield, Prov. Grand Chaplain, the Prov. Grand Wardens (the Rev. John Halford and J. C. Duncombe, Esq.), and the Prov. Grand Secretary (S. S. Partridge, Esq.) A Provincial Charity Committee was established, and the necessary bye-laws and regulations for working it agreed upon, other business of the Province transacted, and the following address to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, proposed by Bro. Canon Burfield, in an effective speech, and seconded by the Prov. S. Grand Warden (the Rev. J. Halford), passed by acclamation:

To His Royal Highness Albert Edward Prince of Wales, the Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Ancient and Honourable Order of Free and Accepted Masons of England and Wales.

May it please your Royal Highness,—We, the Provincial Grand Master, the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Officers, Past Officers, and brethren of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Leicestershire and Rutland, in Provincial Grand Lodge assembled, desire to embrace the opportunity which our half-yearly communication, this day, held at Melton Mowbray, affords us, of offering to your Royal Highness our warmest congratulations upon your safe and happy return to your native land. We have heard with feelings of unbounded satisfaction that on all sides you have been received with that respect and devotion which your exalted position justly entitled you to, and at the same time with a thorough heartiness which the generous nature of your character so naturally inspires.

We are confident that the journey so wisely undertaken by your Royal Highness, and now prosperously terminated, has been fraught with immense advantage to the Princes and people of India, and that the judicious and conciliatory manner in which you have treated those with whom you have come in contact has left an impression which will not easily be effaced.

We feel that our heartfelt gratitude is due to the Great Architect of the Universe for safely carrying you through the dangers and difficulties of your journey, for the preservation of your health in the changes of temperature and climate to which you have been subjected, and for giving you strength to carry out the arduous duties you have everywhere so ably and willingly performed. Our fervent prayer will ever be that He will have you in His keeping, and give you health and much happiness that you may be a blessing to your country, your family, and the Ancient Craft over which you so worthily preside.

(Signed) PERRERS, P.G.M. Leicestershire and Rutland.

(Countersigned) S. S. PARTRIDGE, P.G. Secretary.

The usual dinner was served at the George Hotel, under the presidency of the Prov. Grand Master, and upon his leaving for an early train, by Bro. Langley. A most successful meeting was brought to a close at nine o'clock, when the brethren separated.—Leicester Daily Post.

CUT HORSE PLAYING CARDS.—Mogul Quality, picked 1s 3d per pack, 14s per dozen packs. Do. accurate 1s per pack, 11s per dozen packs. If by post 1½d per pack extra. Cards for Piquet, Bézique, Ecarté, &c., Mogul Quality 1s6 per pack, 9s per dozen packs.—London: W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, E.C.

CHINESE CARVING.—For Sale, an elaborately carved Set of Ivory Chessmen. The Kings stand 5¼ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Knights and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with concentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican.—Advt.

ESSEX PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE.

THE Provincial Grand Lodge of Essex for 1876 was held last Tuesday at Dovercourt, under the banner of Star in the East Lodge, No. 650, and passed off with great éclat. The only matter of regret on the occasion was that, owing to continued physical weakness, the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master (Bro. Robert J. Bagshaw) was unable to be present. His duties were, however, most ably filled by the R.W. Bro. Matthew E. Clark, D.P.G.M.

The proceedings commenced shortly after 2 p.m., in the Mission Hall, Dovercourt (which had been kindly lent for the occasion), where Grand Lodge was opened in form by the W. Bro. Joseph Burton, P.G. Treasurer. The R.W. the D.P.G.M. was then conducted to the dais by the past and present P.G. Officers, and after prayer by Bro. the Rev. A. Portwee, the business of Grand Lodge proceeded. A letter from the R.W.P.G.M., regretting his inability to be present, was read; and letters were also received from Bro. John Harvey, Grand Secretary (one of the founders and first W.M. of Star in the East Lodge), Bro. Lord Waveney P.G.M. Suffolk, Bro. the Rev. C. J. Martyn, Past Grand Chaplain, England, &c., &c. The Grand Secretary called over the list of Lodges, and it was found that all were represented but the Rosslyn (a new Lodge at Dunmow), but on a communication being read from the W.M. that he was prevented from attending by domestic affliction, Bye-law No. VI. was suspended. The Grand Officers for the year were appointed and invested as follows:—

Senior Grand Warden	...	W. Bro. A. R. Clench W.M. 697.
Junior Grand Warden	...	„ Alfred Welch W.M. 51.
Chaplain	...	Bro. Arthur Portwee 433.
Grand Treasurer ...	...	W. Bro. Joseph Burton P.M. 276.
„ Secretary ...	...	„ John Wright Carr P.M. 160.
„ Registrar ...	...	„ Joseph Clarkson W.M. 1457.
Senior Grand Deacon	...	„ Frank Whitmore P.M. 276.
Junior Grand Deacon	...	„ E. E. Phillips W.M. 1000.
Grand Supt. of Works	...	„ W. J. Burgess W.M. 214.
„ Director of Ceremonies		„ Peter Matthews P.M. 276.
„ Assist. Dir. of Cere....		„ A. Lucking P.M. 1000.
„ Sword Bearer	...	Bro. Basham Secy. 650.
„ Organist ...	...	„ Alfred Rogers J.D. 433.
„ Pursuivant ...	...	„ Bishop 276.
„ Stewards ...	...	Bros. R. Dickson, Watts, Shedd, T. W. Naylor, W. Richey, and F. B. Capon.

The usual votes of thanks were unanimously passed, and the special thanks of the Grand Lodge were accorded to the W.M. and brethren of Star in the East Lodge for their very excellent arrangements. It was also proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that a sum of £10 10s be given out of the Funds of the Grand Lodge to the Endowment Fund of the Lifeboat recently presented to the port of Harwich by Miss Burmeester. After the transaction of some other business Grand Lodge was closed.

The attendance book showed that the following were present on the occasion:—

Officers of Grand Lodge.—W. Bros. Matthew, E. Clark D.P.G.M., J. Self S.G.W., Alfred Jones J.G.W., J. Burton G. Treas., John Wright Carr G. Sec., A. Lucking A.D.C., A. Portway G.P., T. S. Sarel, G. Tyler.

The following members of Lodges were also in attendance:—Angel (Colchester), No. 51, A. Welch W.M., Fred. A. Cole P.M., P.P.G. Registrar, Samuel Chaplin P.M. P.P.G.S.W. W. P. Lewis P.M. and P.Z., Henry Samuel P.M., John Coppin P.M., P.P.G.J.W., T. R. Quilter P.M. and P.Z., T. J. Ralling Sec., J. Hanly I.G., P. G. Steward, Francis B. Capon, W. Brightwell, T. Mothersole, G. Mercer, W. H. Abbitt, W. Richey, C. Gunner, and W. S. Spreat P.G.S.B. Hope and Unity (Romford) No. 214: W. J. Burgess W.M. Good Fellowship (Chelmsford) No. 276: E. Shedd W.M., A. C. Veley P.M. P.G.J.W., F. Adlard P.M. P.A.D.C., Thos. Smee P.M. P.G.D., T. F. Bishop, A. Hunt, Frank Whitmore P.M., and D. M. Wheeler J.W. Hope (Brightlingsea) No. 433: W. Clarry P.M., C. Blyth P.M., G. Riches P.M., J. E. Wiseman P.M. and Secretary P.P.S.G.D., B. York P.M. John Ward P.M., Wm. Balls, A. G. Rogers S.D., Wm. Nichols, and H. Foulger; Star-in-the-East (Harwich) No. 650: G. Gard Pye W.M. P.P.G.S. of W., James Durrant P.M. P.P.S.G.D., A. Dickson P.M., J. Dunlop S.W., W. Basham Secretary, W. Oxenham J.D., W. H. Walker, Walter Balls, J. Howard, Thos. Jennings, W. H. Butcher, G. Jackson, Chas. Pratt, Alfred A. Watts, D. Howard, T. Water, R. Thackeray, A. T. Chambers, J. Brice, and C. Lucas. Chigwell (Woodford) No. 453: D. Reed W.M. United (Colchester) No. 697: R. A. Clench W.M., T. Rix P.M. and Secretary, P.P.G.S.B, T. Eustace P.M., T. W. Naylor S.W., W. H. Bateman J.W., J. H. Boulton D.C., F. Wright, E. Hannemeyer, A. Richardson, T. Downing, and W. G. Sigger. Priory (Southend) No. 1,000: E. E. Phillips W.M. (P.M. 379). St. Peter (Maldon) No. 1,024: F. Staudingford. Walden (Saffron Walden) No. 1,280: The Senior Warden. St. Mary (Rochin) No. 1,312: A. Portway Secretary, W. F. Hasler S.W., and W. Bright. St. John's (Grays) No. 1,343: Alfred Sturgeon S.W. Liberty of Havering (Romford) No. 1,437: E. West W.M. Bagshaw (Buckhurst Hill), No. 1,457: T. Malcolm. Visitors—Bros. Joseph Clarkson P.M. 145, Fred. Edwards 1,091, Wm. Barratt 213, W. Murray 225, J. H. Staddon W.M. 376, J. E. Foulger P.M. 177 and 795 and P.Z. 177, and Robt. Berwick.

About five o'clock between seventy and eighty brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet at the Great Eastern Hotel, under the presidency of the D.P.G.M. In the course of the evening the Masonic toasts usual on such occasions were given and heartily responded to, and some brethren present contributed to the enjoyment of the gathering by some excellent singing. It only remains to state that every possible arrangement for the comfort of the brethren was made by the W.M. and members of the Star-in-the-East Lodge, and the Lodge-room and dinner-tables were adorned with some choice plants from the nursery of Bro. W. O. Ward, of Ramsey.—Essex Standard.

Digitized by Google

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief PARISIAN ESTABLISHMENTS, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

MASTER MASON'S JEWEL.

A JEWEL, which can be worn by any M.M. in England, Scotland, or Ireland, and in all parts of the World, has been designed and executed by Bros. BROOKE & MARCUS.

Silver, Hall Marked	Price	17s
Silver Gilt	"	18s 6d
18 carat Gold	"	70s

Sent, post free, in Morocco case, on receipt of Post Office Order.

Address:—18 FAUNCE STREET, KENNINGTON PARK, S.E.

ROYAL ARCH FREEMASONRY.

WANTED—Second Hand and in Good Condition—the whole or a portion of the furniture and jewels, &c., &c. of a R. A. Chapter. Address, stating particulars and lowest price of each article, to J. W., Post Office, Forton, Gosport.

ESTIMATES GIVEN FOR EVERY DESCRIPTION OF

PRINTING.

CONTRACTS ENTERED INTO FOR SUPPLYING ALL KINDS OF

STATIONERY.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR

PUBLISHING.

PARTICULARS ON APPLICATION TO

W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN,

LONDON, E.C.

One Door from Aldersgate Street.

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,

Bro. J. L. MATHER, P.M. 55, 1227, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Winchester-street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE,

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.

It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 6d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

NEW WORKS ON FREEMASONRY,

BY

Bro. CHALMERS I. PATON,

(Past Master No. 360, England).

FREEMASONRY: ITS SYMBOLISM, RELIGIOUS NATURE, AND LAW OF PERFECTION. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

FREEMASONRY AND ITS JURISPRUDENCE. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

THE ORIGIN OF FREEMASONRY: THE 1717 THEORY EXPLODED. Price 1s.

LONDON: REEVES & TURNER, 196 STRAND.
AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

MR. THOMAS C. MACROW,

252 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD,

LONDON, S.E.

(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)

BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let quietly and quickly (Town or Country). All parties wishing to sell, call or send full particulars. Registration fee. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 3. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally proscribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c. Tamar (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—2s 6d per box, post free 2d extra.—H. GRILLON, 34 Coleman-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

YOUNG'S Arnicated Corn and Bunion Plasters are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d and 1s per box. Any Chemist not having them in stock can procure them.

Observe the Trade Mark—H. Y.—without which none are genuine. Be sure and ask for Young's.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY.—A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a simple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.

Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Grove Terrace, Fulham London.

THE THEATRES, &c.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—This evening, DON PASQUALE. On Monday, LOHENGRIN. On Tuesday, L'ETOILE DU NORD. On Wednesday, L'AFRICAINE. On Thursday, DINORAH. On Friday, TANNHAUSER. On Saturday, L'ELISIR D'AMORE. Each evening at 8.30. FLORAL HALL CONCERT 3rd June.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA, DRURY LANE.—This afternoon, at 2.0., FAUST. This evening, IL BARBIERE DI SIVIGLIA. On Monday, LES HUGUENOTS. On Tuesday, FAUST. On Thursday, IL DON GIOVANNI. At 8.30. each evening. On Monday morning, and Wednesday and Friday evenings, SIGNOR ROSSI in ITALIAN PLAYS.

LYCEUM.—At 7.30, A HUSBAND IN CLOVER. At 8.30, THE BELLS.

ADELPHI.—At 7.30, COLLEEN BAWN and STRUCK OIL.

HAYMARKET.—At 7.30, BOX AND COX, and L'ETRANGERE.

STRAND.—At 7.30, HIS LAST LEGS. At 9.0, L'AFRICAINE. At 10.30, THE RIVAL OTHELLOS.

GAIETY.—At 7.45, BLUE DEVILS. At 8.30, MY AWFUL DAD. At 10.30, COOL AS A CUCUMBER.

CHARING CROSS.—At 8.0, PAMPERED MENIALS. At 9.45, THE GUILTY GOVERNESS. At 9.45, YOUNG RIP VAN WINKLE.

OLYMPIC.—At 7.30, NAVAL ENGAGEMENTS. At 8.30., DON CESAR DE BAZAN, and FASCINATING FELLOWS.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—At 8.0, OURS.

ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE.—ANDY BLAKE, and BOX and COX.

GLOBE.—At 7.30, SQUARING THE CIRCLE. At 8.0, MISS GWILT, &c.

VAUDEVILLE.—At 7.30, A WHIRLIGIG. At 8.0, OUR BOYS, 2nd & FEARFUL FOG.

COURT.—At 8.0, A SCRAP OF PAPER, and A QUIET RUBBER.

ST. JAMES'S.—THE CREOLE and NILSSON OR NOTHING.

OPERA COMIQUE.—GIROFLE-GIROFLA.

CRITERION.—At 8.0, MARY'S SECRET, and THE GREAT DIVORCE CASE, &c.

ALHAMBRA.—LE VOYAGE DANS LA LUNE, &c.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.—This day, BALLAD OPERA, VENETIAN FETE, &c. On Monday, WHITSUN ATTRACTIONS. On Thursday, FAUST, FIREWORKS, &c. Open Daily, BROEKMANN'S CIRCUS, SKATING RINK, &c.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—This day, DOG SHOW, "BRIGHTON," &c. On Monday, HOLIDAY ARRANGEMENTS. Open daily, AQUARIUM, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL AQUARIUM SUMMER AND WINTER GARDEN. Open daily. CONCERT, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL POLYTECHNIC.—MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT, entitled ALICE'S ADVENTURES. Solos on the Violin and Zither. NEW LECTURE: A SUNBEAM, and HOW TO WEIGH IT. HEINKE'S DIVING DRESS and SUBMARINE LAMP. The New Type Writer in operation. FROM ENGLAND TO PHILADELPHIA. A TRIP TO THE SUEZ CANAL. Dissolving Views and Mechanical Effects. MARVELLOUL ILLUSIONS BY M. HORACE DE GREY. Open from 12 till 5, and 7 till 10. Admission to the whole, 1s.

EGYPTIAN (LARGE) HALL.—MASKELYNE AND COOKE, daily at 3.0 and 8.0.

Digitized by Google

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.
SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

ESTABLISHED 1838.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,
MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,
AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING.
Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.
MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;
AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.
ESTIMATES GIVEN.

JOSEPH J. CANEY,

DIAMOND MERCHANT, AND MANUFACTURING JEWELLER AND WATCH MAKER,
44 CHEAPSIDE, LONDON.
MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND FURNITURE.
Specialité—First Class Jewels—Artistic—Massive—Best Quality—Moderate in Price.
CATALOGUES POST FREE.
A LARGE STOCK OF LOOSE BRILLIANTS FOR EXPENSIVE JEWELS.
Diamond Rings, Brooches, Studs, Earrings and Bracelets in Great Variety.

NEW MASONIC SONGS.

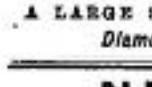
"THE PRINCE AND THE CRAFT," Written by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, 1885. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON.

"THE APRON BLUE." Written by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, 1885. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH (NETT), FREE BY POST.

London: W. W. MORGAN, Office of the "Freemason's Chronicle," 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

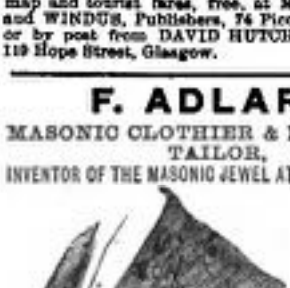
GLASGOW AND THE HIGHLANDS.



ROYAL ROUTE, viâ Crinan and Caledonian Canals by Royal Mail Steamer "IONA," from Glasgow Daily at 7 a.m., and from Greenock at 9 a.m., conveying passengers for the NORTH and WEST HIGHLANDS.—See bill, with map and tourist fares, free, at Messrs. CHATTO and WINDUS, Publishers, 74 Piccadilly, London, or by post from DAVID HUTCHESON and Co., 119 Hope Street, Glasgow.

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,
INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (REGD.)



"Bro. ADLARD'S far-famed JEWEL ATTACHER, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price 2s. 3d. with pockets for Jewels 6d each pocket extra) places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and neatness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Lodge Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,
Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8, No. 18 for JUNE, now ready. Sixpence. CHESS, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE DRAMA.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES.
Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE
(a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.
This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

"There should be a better reason for the race of Depositors than a fluctuating rate of two or three per cent."—INVESTOR'S GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited), Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City; and 377 and 378 Regent-street, W., Established 1856, receives Deposits, On Demand, 2 per cent. Subject to Notice, 3½ per cent. Opens Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to examine this new and improved system, that reserves a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-discounted or re-hypothecated any of the securities. To BORROWERS.—It offers pre-eminent advantages for prompt advances on leases, reversions, policies, trade stocks, farm produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, sureties, or fees. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 377 and 378 Regent-street, W. Established 1856. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. TO INVESTORS.—Deposits received at liberal interest. The Directors by strict economy have to-day paid every investor 10 and 12 per cent. per annum. Borrowers are offered unusual facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. New and Special Feature.—The Society will build Houses, etc., in any approved part of Great Britain, finding the whole cost of the building, 5 per cent., repayable by instalments, the agreement merely fixing the plan and paying or giving security for the first 5 years' interest. Prospectuses, balance-sheets, and every opinion

Mr. Harrison
Pilsey Island
Isleworth

THE

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

VOL. III.—No. 76. SATURDAY, 10th JUNE 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

THE RESOLUTIONS OF BROS. HAVERS AND THE REV. R. J. SIMPSON.

WE are greatly pleased with the result of Wednesday's discussion in Grand Lodge on the rival propositions of our Past Grand Officers, Bros. Havers and the Rev. R. J. Simpson. The programme of business, as originally determined, was altered for the better. Bro. Havers's motion was duly submitted, but was not received with that enthusiasm which its author, no doubt, anticipated. We cannot say we are altogether surprised at this. The latter part of this proposal would have committed Grand Lodge to the expenditure of so considerable a sum as £2,000, without due inquiry first made whether the purpose for which the money was to be spent was the worthiest to which it should be devoted. We said last week that, having satisfied itself there was no likelihood, in the near or remote future, of any serious demand for charitable purposes being made upon its funds, Grand Lodge might very properly vote £1,000 towards the perfection of St. Paul's Cathedral. It was Wren's masterpiece, and Freemasonry would be honouring itself by conferring honour on the memory of so illustrious an architect. As regards the St. Alban's part of his motion, we had no sympathy with it whatever. To Bro. Simpson's proposition as it stood originally, we expressed a still stronger objection. We pointed out that before expending money on some charitable object in India, we must first satisfy ourselves there were no pressing needs of our own Charitable Institutions at home. Next we urged that assuming the wants of those Institutions were already sufficiently provided for, there was still an infinite variety of charitable objects at home, and unconnected with Freemasonry, whose claims were more urgent than those of any Indian charity. We pointed out that while England was a country of almost untold wealth, there also prevailed in it a pitiable amount of distress, and our first duty was to help alleviate that distress. That done, we might justly give attention to the claims of India on our notice. We need not, however, repeat our arguments, which occurred to us quite naturally. A wise discretion prevailed with our reverend brother, and became him better than any amount of stubborn valour he might have shown in combating for his own proposal. He was anxious the vote of Grand Lodge on so important an occasion should be unanimous. The latter part of his amendment was accordingly altered and read as follows: "that a Special Committee be appointed to consider the best mode in which this feeling" (of thankfulness at the safe return from India of our Grand Master) "can be perpetuated in some charitable and practicable form, and to report thereon to the next quarterly meeting." This amendment was carried over Bro. Havers's motion by a very large majority, and there for the moment the matter rests. So far so good. Grand Lodge has resolved worthily to commemorate the Prince of Wales's visit to India, and his safe return home. A Committee has been appointed to inquire as to the most appropriate manner in which such visit shall be commemorated, the only limit to its inquiries being, that the memorial shall assume some charitable and practicable form. And the Committee having made its report, Grand Lodge will then determine at some future Quarterly Communication, whether such report is acceptable or not. There will thus be ample time for deliberation, both by the Committee and Grand Lodge itself. Already two alternative propositions have been made, and by none other than Bro. Simpson himself, who, in the face of our home necessities, has imposed a salutary check on his enthusiasm for India. In moving his amendment he suggested the endowment of scholarships for our schools, or the erection of a Prince of Wales's wing to the Asylum for aged Freemasons. We have ourselves hinted that the schools required further assistance, and that a Prince of Wales's Commemoration gift to one or other of them would go towards the requirements of the case; and no doubt there are many other propositions that may occur to Craftsmen in the course of the next three months. Indeed, the course of the debate on Wednesday proved this, for a variety of propositions were offered. We are quite content, however, with what has happened. We have every confidence that the Committee will carry out its task of inquiry with strict impartiality, nor doubt we its proposals, whatever they may be, will be such as Grand Lodge in its wisdom may cordially and unanimously sanction.

Two matters only remain to be noticed and these refer to Bro. Havers's motion. In stating his case, which he did at some length and very heartily, Bro. Havers—so, at least, runs the report in Thursday's Standard—said that "St. Alban, the proto-martyr, was a Grand Master of the Order, and a visit to the grand abbey which he built would well repay any of the brethren who had not seen it by an inspection of its beautiful tracery, its noble proportions, and its elegant designs." We do not doubt for one moment that the visitor to St. Alban's Abbey will find much to admire in so venerable a memorial of ancient times. We confess, however, we are surprised that any brother, having attained so eminent a position in the Craft as Bro. Havers, should have committed himself to a statement which, if correctly reported, is simply absurd. Assuming that St. Alban lived and was of the number of those who, in the reign of the Emperor Diocletian, suffered death rather than abjure the Christian faith, it is undeniable that only the most meagre details of his life have been handed down to us. We allow, for the sake of argument, that a St. Alban lived, and died a martyr to Christianity, but there is not the shadow of a shade of proof that he was ever in any way connected with Freemasonry. There were operative Masons, no doubt, in Britain, when it was a province of the Roman Empire. We know, at least, there were stone walls in those days, for the evidence of their existence still remains to us. Further, it is a reasonable inference that Masons built those walls, and it is as possible that Alban was a Mason as that he was a soldier or anything else. We have no proof, however, of anything of the kind, and we think we are not exceeding the limits of truth when we affirm that Alban was never a Grand Master of Freemasonry. Freemasonry, as we understand it, did not exist in his day. Moreover, the Abbey which bears his name, and around which the town of St. Albans was gradually built, was not erected till four or five centuries after his death, by a Mercian king. So at least it is recorded in the histories that have been handed down. With all due deference, therefore, to Bro. Havers, St. Alban, so far as we have any means of knowing, was not a Freemason or a Grand Master of Freemasons. As we said last week, the story reads prettily, but it is emphatically, vox et præterea nihil. But we are sorry to differ with our worthy brother about a personage who lived nearly sixteen hundred years ago. We are by no means anxious that English Freemasonry should be the laughing stock of the whole world, and we do not see how this can be avoided if such astounding myths are listened to with patience.

We must add that we think it was a great mistake in Bro. Havers to have said a single word about the Prince of

Digitized by Google

Wales's approval or disapproval of his motion. We dare say he never intended to make a partisan of His Royal Highness, yet this in effect is what he has done, and, as matters stand, Grand Lodge has rejected a proposal which on the authority of Brother Havers, had already been approved by the Grand Master, It was, of course, competent for Bro. Havers to offer any number of reasons sound or unsound, in favour of his resolution, but he was manifestly exceeding his right when he referred to the Prince as one of his supporters. Grand Lodge is desirous of honouring its Grand Master. We leave it to others to say, if a man can think himself honoured when the motion he approves of is rejected.

MASONIC PORTRAITS (No. 31).

THE MARINER.

"Though trained in boisterous elements, his mind
Was yet by soft humanity refined;
* * * * * * * * * * * *
Him science taught by mystic lore to trace
The planets wheeling in eternal race;
To mark the ship in floating balance held,
By earth attracted, and by seas repelled;
Or point her devious track through climes unknown,
That leads to every shore, and every zone;
* * * * * * * * * * * *
O'er the wild surge when dismal shades preside,
His equal skill the lonly bark could guide;
His genius ever for the event prepared,
Rose with the storm, and all its dangers shared."

THERE is a charm about the sea which has a peculiar influence upon the inhabitants of these islands. No other people seem to have that inherent attachment to the domain of old Neptune which is our boast and pride. We take to the water naturally, and the boy bred in an inland village who has never seen any craft but a canal boat, will dream of the sea and fancy he hears its roaring in the wind that touches his cheek with the first breath of the far off Atlantic. Just as shells are said to ring with the hollow moan of the surf, the heart of the Englishman thrills at the very mention of the sea. The town bred landsman spends his holidays on its shores, and his children from infancy are accustomed to play within reach of its waves. We know that old ocean is our best and surest bulwark against invasion, and the grandest highway and outlet for our commerce. Without the protection of the streak of silver sea which girdles our shores, we should long ere now have yielded to the galling yoke of the conqueror. In fighting for supremacy on the main our ancestors were instinctively fighting for dear life. One cannot read the early naval history of this country without feeling a glow of pride. We were formidable before the invention of gunpowder, and held our own against our neighbours in those tub-like craft, which must have been miracles of naval science if they were really able to sail on a taut bowline, or could even stand on their legs in a heavy gale of wind.

Few epochs in our history are more vividly remembered than the last great naval war, which ended in the defeat of the combined fleets of France and Spain, and ushered in a long and profound peace. The popularity of the navy at this period can scarcely be realised by the men of this generation. Dibdin's songs resounded through the land. Jack was the hero of the drama and the novel, and his admirers credited him with all the virtues of an archangel. He was frank, brave, generous, constant, true; in short, every thing that a man or angel should be. The nautical poets taught us to believe that the blue jacket of a sailor covered a lion's heart, which could yet, at the cry for mercy, be as gentle as the lamb.

"But though his strong and ready arm spreads havoc in its blow, Cry 'Quarter!' and that arm will be the first to spare its foe."

The popularity of the navy and mercantile marine were at the height in the year 1819, when the subject of this sketch was born. He first saw the light at Yarmouth, in the midst of a nautical population, which had seen fleets assembled for serious work in the spacious roadstead that stretches along that part of the coast of Norfolk. He had heard the glorious episodes of our naval history from his earliest youth. His father, a sturdy specimen of the British sailor, was a captain in the merchant service, who had seen something of the din and excitement of naval war. He was in the Mediterranean, in command of a transport, and was actually bringing the British Consul and residents from Smyrna at the moment when the combined fleets of England, France and Russia, were preparing to strike that terrible blow at the naval power of Turkey which has since made the name of Navarino famous in our annals. At this time our brother was at school, steadily storing his mind with solid information, and preparing himself to follow his father's honourable calling. In due time he was released from the rule of the pedagogue, and apprenticed to the sea. Our brother had the Englishman's love for the ocean, and he took a delight in learning all the details of his noble profession. He was soon able to box the compass, or take his trick at the helm with any man in the ship, and when the topsails were reefed he was at his place on the yard, and held his own like a true British sailor. It was a day to be remembered in his history when "the mate" for the first time entrusted him with that pretty bit of seamanship which, in nautical phraseology, is called "sending down a royal yard." It was a still prouder moment for him when he was permitted to take the "weather earing" in a gale of wind, the post of honour and danger to which every man who is a sailor aspires. He had long before learned to "knot his reef point" with the best hand in the ship, and now, with the great sail slatting against the foot rope, and almost mastering his young strength, it was true joy to "pass the earing" in triumph, and shout "haul out to leeward." Steadily, and step by step, our hero rose in his profession, until he attained, at the age of nineteen years, the rank of Chief Officer. He was still knocking about in the Mediterranean, and had seen that glorious sea in its angry and its smiling moods. He had seen all its beauties, the enchanted shores of Greece, the coast of Italy, with its lofty Apennines, the towering heights of Corsica, Elba, Sicily, and Malta, and that speck in the sea, Monte Christo, which will for ever be associated with the genius of Alexander Dumas. In the year 1840 the ship in which he served was employed in carrying stores from London to Malta and Alexandria, and was within a few days sail of St. Jean d'Acre when the allied fleet, under the command of Sir Robert Stopford, was bombarding the place. Many a gale of wind has he encountered in that classic sea, which was the scene of the naval contests of Rome and Carthage. Many a sail has he seen blown from the belt ropes, or torn in coach whips from the yards. Several times has he seen the ships in which he served dismasted, and boats, galley, bulwarks and spare spars swept into the raging waters.

"When o'er the ship, in undulation vast,
A giant surge down rushes from on high,
And fore and aft disevered ruins lie:
* * * * * * *
Thus the torn vessel felt the enormous stroke,
The boats beneath the thundering deluge broke;
Torn from their planks the cracking ring-bolts drew,
And gripes and lashings all asunder flew;
Companion, binnacle, in floating wreck,
With compasses and glasses, strewed the deck;
The balanced mizen, rending to the head,
In flattering fragments from its bolt-rope fled."

Our brother has seen much general service afloat, and in lower latitudes than the Mediterranean; he was chief officer of the Race Horse, which was considered the fastest vessel in the Brazilian trade, and his Captain, who was anxious to get as much out of such a racer as possible, contrived to lose his sails in a squall on his passage home. The old sea dog was either not active enough, or he did not care to shorten sail for a trifle, and rude Boreas, angry at the sight of flying kites when he was riding the storm in person, shaved down the good ship's wings to the quick, and left her with bare sticks in mid Atlantic. This was the last of our hero's mishaps on the ocean. He afterwards made a voyage to the Black Sea, but on his return to England, in 1841, the death of his father determined him to give up his profession, and try the life of a landsman. His revered parent, long prior to his decease, had entered actively into business pursuits on shore, and was a ship owner of good repute. He died in good circumstances, and our hero, with an excellent business, and no lack of capital, was speedily transformed from a son of Neptune to a steady going citizen. The change was a considerable one, but a sailor can accommodate himself to any condition in life, and in his new sphere our brother soon found wealth pouring in upon him in no scanty stream. From 1841 to

Digitized by Google

1857 his life was uneventful, but in the latter year he turned his attention to Masonry, and was initiated in the Bedford Lodge (157), and served each office in rotation until 1864, when he was appointed W.M. He is now the father of his Lodge, and a very jolly father he is, with ripe experience to guide him, and enthusiasm such as we do not often see equalled. It does one good to hear him talk of the Craft, and one wonders when he speaks of his engagements how so busy a man can find time for his labours of love. But he is ably seconded in his business, and his chief assistant is a member of the Fraternity, in whom he can place implicit confidence. Our brother was exalted in the Domatic Chapter (177) in the year 1864, and was First Principal in 1874. He was advanced in St. Mark's Lodge (186), and served the office of Master in 1872-3. He is a member of the Grand Council of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, P.G.D.C. Grand Mark Lodge of England, Provincial S.G.D. and Grand Scribe E. of Middlesex, P.G.S. and Treasurer of the Premier Conclave of England, and Past Grand Pursuivant. He held office as special Steward on the Installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and our readers will probably remember his clear enunciation, and the mastery which he displayed of his duties on that memorable occasion. He is a member of Rose Croix, and of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, a Knight Templar, Royal and Select Master, and, most appropriately, a Royal Ark Mariner, in which latter capacity he has done something to pilot the lumbering old craft into pleasant waters. He has thrice served the stewardship of the R.M.B.I., and twice that of the Girls' and the Boys' Schools, and is now Vice President of each of these Charities. We have hinted that he is a jolly good fellow, and we need now only add that he has the frank and cheerful manner of a seaman of the old school. He is kind and charitable, and gives largely of his ample means. He rarely refuses when "Old Mug" asks a guinea for the cause, and his name has often appeared in the printed lists opposite figures which represented large sums. He is hospitable in the best sense of the word, and loves to see his guest at ease. He can always crack a bottle of the best, and happy is the smoker who is privileged to burn his cigars. We need not add that he is always ready to attend any Masonic ceremony when his services are required, nor need we say that he has testimonials of services of which he is proud.

ANTIENT AND PRIMITIVE MASONRY.

TABLES OF THE LAW OF THE FREEMASONS.

(Literally translated from the French of Brother JACQUES ETIENNE MARCONIS, Paris, 1862.)

"FREEMASONRY is the study of universal morality, science, art, and the practice of all the virtues; it is the school of religious tolerance, the union of all beliefs, the bond between mankind, the symbol of the sweet illusions of hope, teaching faith in God who saves, and charity which blesseth."

TABLES OF THE LAW.

DUTY TOWARDS GOD.

Fragile man, slave of necessity, play of events, adore the Sublime Architect of the Universe, who created all things by an act of His supreme will, who conserves them by an effect of His continuous action, who fills thy heart, although thy feeble spirit can neither conceive nor define Him.

Full of sad delirium, closing his eyes to the light, and marching amid thick darkness, the sceptic cannot annihilate the Supreme Being; the proofs of His existence are written in letters of fire upon the cupola of the firmament in which his spirit wanders; reject then with disdain those vain sophisms which prove the degradation of the human spirit when it has wandered from its source: but be then tolerant, guard thyself from hatred or from persecution, the Divinity has not constituted thee the avenger of His injuries. Masons! all children of the same God, let this bond of love unite all uprightly, and cause all prejudice contrary to our fraternal concord to disappear.

Raise thy thoughts often above the material things which surround thee, and cast a look of ardent desire into those superior regions which are thy heritage and thy true country, for this terrestrial life, know it well, is not the end of man; render thyself worthy of thy high destiny, and fulfill as man the duties imposed thee upon earth.

Contemplate the world which we inhabit, what affinities! Each thing therein is evidently made for some other; the earth, the heavens, the sea, the elements, and the seasons, all bind, all enchain, and all concur to the harmony of all beings.

Behold the assemblage of the heavenly bodies, of which the prodigious distances and the astonishing grandeur defy the calculations of the greatest genius, those stars which roll over our heads, those globes of light which brighten the firmament, those worlds strewn in all parts, they but complete systems which balance and weigh upon each other, and impress upon each other a reciprocal movement, all attract and hold each other, and by general laws render mutual assistance.

IMMORTALITY OF THE SOUL.

Man, King of the world! masterpiece of Creation, meditate upon thy sublime destiny. All which vegetates around thee has but an animal life, and perishes with time; thy soul emanates from the bosom of divinity, survives all material things, and perishes not. Behold thy true title of nobility, acutely feel thy happiness but without pride; cultivate thy immortal soul, render thyself susceptible of being re-united to the source of pure good, and thou wilt be happy in the bosom of misfortune, unshaken by the strongest of tempests, and thou wilt die without terror.

Mason! if ever thou shouldst doubt the immortal nature of thy soul, or thy high destiny, initiation will be fruitless for thee; thou wilt cease to be the adopted child of wisdom, and confounded in the crowd of material and profane beings.

Form thyself then for thy God; for thy country, for humanity of which thou art part; form thyself for good, give to thy body all the grandeur, and all the perfection of which it is susceptible by its nature; search in the folds of thy heart and intellect, thou wilt there find the book of the Spirit of Divinity, thou wilt hear that celestial voice which speaks to thy heart, and cries to thee incessantly—immortality.

DUTIES TOWARDS COUNTRY.

If thy first homage belongs to the Sublime Architect of the Universe, the second belongs to thy country; thou ought to cherish and honour it, as a virtuous child cherishes and honours its parents, submit willingly to its laws, nothing can dispense thee from this duty, whatever may be the hazard or condition in which it has placed thee, not even if it should be a bad and ungrateful mother to thee.

DUTIES TOWARDS FAMILY.

After having satisfied thy duties towards God and thy country, consider thy family—son, husband, father; each one of these states imports numerous and sacred obligations, apply thyself to fulfill them, and they will become easy to thee.

How canst thou ever forget that which thou owest to the author of thy days; honour and respect thy father in ripe age, but render above all to thy mother, in respect and tenderness, the price of the cares with which she surrounded thy young age; if there should be need of it, after the example of the pious son of Noah, cover their defects with the filial mantle, thou wilt be blessed for it.

If love speaks to thy heart—pupil of wisdom—let corrupt desire and easy pleasures be far from thee. Choose not thy companion amongst the richest and most beautiful, but seek to obtain the most virtuous, and make thyself worthy of it, for vice cannot sympathise with virtue.

If heaven has blessed thy nuptials, remember that the child in the cradle is a citizen which the country has confided to thee; cause to germinate in his young soul the principle of all virtues, it is a noble task. Chief of a family, thou owest protection and instruction thereto. Mason! a noble pride is permitted thee: be the first of thy race, be not the last; never forget the respect due to old age, if, when old, thou wouldst desire in thy turn to receive the homage of young men.

DUTIES TOWARDS MANKIND.

The universe is the country of the true Mason; nothing which concerns humanity is foreign to him; all men ought, therefore, to be brothers. All like thyself have an immortal soul, the same organs, the same need of love, the same desire to be useful, come then into our temples where sacred humanity has its altars. Behold with respect this majestic edifice, which is destined to draw together the too relaxed bonds of the morality of the fraternity. United by a mysterious language, the Masonic fraternity, wherever spread, wherever the light has penetrated, form but a single family: a sublime bond unites innumerable people—it is charity. Charity is as the rays of the sun, it should spread itself over all the surface of the globe; charity is the daughter of heaven, and tutelary angel of the earth; it encloses in the attributes of its divine dogmas all the conditions of moral life; spiritualistic by essence, charity developes and nourishes the noblest instincts of the soul, and it gives to the body that which is necessary to its material wants; attached to humanity, like a mother to its child, it is ever at its side to enlighten by its light, and support by its councils; charity is a first providence, its noble and generous sympathies have a sweet influence upon all social categories; small and great, rich and poor, the ignorant as the spiritual, each feels himself happy under its guidance, it is even the guardian of manners, to be happy all must be charitable.

O humanity! Thy celestial voice cries from one end of the universe to the other,—"Man, you have all one father, you are all brethren, you have all a heart formed for love—love then and be happy, it is the cry of nature. Nature is your nurse, but humanity is your true mother: it is the mother of all mortals, the visible providence of all the children of men."

To be continued.

CHINESE CARVING.—For Sale, an elaborately carved Set of Ivory Chessmen. The Kings stand 8¼ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Knights and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with concentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican.—Adv.

Digitized by Google

REPORT ON FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.

THE following, by Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Ohio, will doubtless interest our readers :—

"OHIO APPEALS TO HISTORIAN HUGHAN."

"The Mason Craft of these latter days owe a debt of gratitude to Bro. Wm. J. Hughan, of Truro, England, and still further desire to encourage him in works of research. The relation Masonry bears to the early Guilds of London is worthy of his enlightened and enlightening pen."

* * * * * * * * * *

"Masonry should have a friendly Revisal."

"Bro. W. J. Hughan, in the May number of the Voice of Masonry, in the closing sentences of a 'Word to the Wise,' says :—

> All degrees in Masonry are, comparatively speaking, modern. Common sense should lead us to preserve the useful, discard the useless, and combine what is good of the residue in as small a compass as possible so as to secure their efficient working, their general acceptance, and their universal admiration by the Craft.
>
> There is not a minute to prove the separate and independent character of Masonic degrees anterior to the second decade of last century."

In view of the enlightenment secured to the Craft by such antiquaries as Hughan, Woodford, Lyon, and of a jubilee of Masonry proposed in America at the "Centennial" period of its civil history, we hope that others will be willing to give consideration to topics growing out of a full realization of the true inner life of Masonry, as we all find ourselves attached to it. Is it practicable for a few of the more mature men of thought in Masonry, of both sides of the water, on some concerted occasion to confer, and agree how to adapt the system as it ought to be in the complicated system as it now exists? The age within, it would seem, is too wise to continue unto a new century the mere surface perceptions of truth, and retain many deep-rooted errors in the body of our formularies. We speak of the day of free thought; for it is kindred in Europe and America, and knowing that the true value of Masonry in its enlightened fellowship is dependent very much on forms, which take shape much from the reigning spirit within, we would ask of Bros. Hughan, Woodford and Lyon, if you esteem the epoch at hand for a reform in Masonic degrees? What is your opinion as to organizing anew all the orders deemed suitable in a college of rites?

The hint given in last year's report, as to topics of proper consideration, referred to our nomenclature. We agree as to the fitness of each epoch making degrees to suit them, Chapter, Templar, Scottish Rite or Constantine.

With the new day comes a new duty. Let enlightened Masons now represent themselves, not their forefathers merely. Changes should not be made without reflection, but with due consideration.

In the various grades of Masonry there is a plentitude of titles—a marked disorder in appropriate designation of offices. There is an opening also for an organization of the orders on merit, or proficiency, so that attainment of a rank in Masonry would be a true badge in a roll of honour, where now pertinacious ambitions, perhaps worthless worldly wealth, wears honours undeserved.

If the departure is now to be taken to conform the Masonry of the future to the elevated importance of man, as he now takes rank in the full light of this century, if well done, it will be of honour to its earnest co-operators. The fetters that have bound even the best to prescribed beliefs and practices have left them "cabined, cribbed, confined," and have made the Craft the prey of the designing and the crafty. "Quosque tandem abutere patientia nostra?" we say to these usurpers.

It was Lord Bacon who said: "It is the life of an ox or a beast always to eat and never to exercise; but men are born, especially Christian men, not to cram in their fortunes, but to exercise their virtues."

The time is that you think goodness the best part of greatness, and that you remember whence your rising comes, and make return accordingly, to countenance, encourage, and advance able and virtuous men in all degrees, kinds and professions; to make able and honest men yours, rather than advance those that are otherwise because they are yours.

It has been well said: "No reformer can operate successfully unless congenial ideas or consenting sympathies are existing in those by whom he is surrounded. He rather concentrates and personifies what they also feel and think than invents his proposed improvements. It is in the great civil concerns of life, as in the fine arts, criticism abounds and circulates; men become conscious of the imperfections in the state and figure of their ordinary experience."

Socrates said to the celebrated painter, Parrhasius: "You give youth and old age to bodies; and when you represent a perfect being as you cannot find any person but who has some defect, your plan is to look at several; and by taking what is beautiful from each you make one figure of the whole, which is accomplished in all its parts."

May we not ask of dear Bro. Hughan, who is expected to be at our Centennial Exposition next June, from his stand-point to note some hints toward a Masonic eclecticism?

Who is it that says "Most great undertakings are against the calculations of prudence? that the mind of the bold adventurer is actuated by feelings distinct from judgment, and of unknown origin?" The Cyrus, the Alexander, the Mohammed, the Tamerlane of his "day," dares all the probabilities of failure, and plunges into enterprises that are to determine the fate of dynasties and empires, and change the minds and manners of mankind. Who is to project reform into the body of Masonry, and rid the barbaric penalties from its obligations?

Hughan, in Voice, July 1875, thus discourses as to Grand Masters:

"They are the production of 'The Revival;' and though Bro. Preston and others have quoted from 'Old Charges' of 1686; etc., in which it is said the title of Grand Master occurs, those interested in the subject will find, by consulting our 'Old Charges of British Freemasons,' that no such reference is in the originals, and consequently it is a modern interpolation which cannot be too severely condemned. We have published verbatim et literatim transcripts of a dozen of these ancient and curious documents. So the brethren now can judge for themselves, and will do well to consult exact copies of the originals before being led away by garbled transcripts."

Hughan, in Voice, July 1875, thus speaks as to Landmarks:

"The difficulty as to 'Ancient Landmarks' we think light indeed; for unless we allow the right of Grand Lodges to rescind any old laws when it becomes generally admitted they are unnecessary in the present state of the Craft, we shall have to return to the condition of things prior to the last century. Who, now, would agree with the 'Ancient Landmarks,' considered inviolable in the fifteenth, or even early in the last century?"

"Are the laws now submitted for approval to even the youngest apprentice? and are the 'Ancient Landmarks' of our forefathers observed in the institution of Grand Lodges and the working of the three degrees?"

"Is it true that a portion of the Third Degree was removed therefrom, and worked separately as Royal Arch Masonry, during the last century, and that nearly all the Grand Lodges have adopted the innovation? Is such infringement justified on any other grounds than expediency? and is it of less consequence so to do than to abrogate the law as to 'perfect limbs?'"

"For our part, we are content to let these points stand or fall together."

"When Freemasonry was operative, or partly so, there might have been, and indeed there were many important reasons to induce stringent regulations being passed as to physical qualifications; but now that the society is speculative, we fail to see why such a matter might not be left to the balloting-box. Under the Grand Lodge of England it has been so left for more than a century, and it was only through the legislation of the seceders, or 'Ancient Masons,' that England became in any way mixed up in such an unobtainable action. We advocate that 'all just, upright, and free men, of full age, sound judgment, and strict morals,' should be permitted by the laws of all Grand Lodges to seek initiation, without respect to their creed, colour, or physical condition. All other matters may be safely left to the decision of the members of the Lodge to which the application for membership is made. We live in hope of seeing such liberty become the experience of the Fraternity throughout the United States. The subject simply wants a leader in a Grand Lodge, and in due time the remainder will gradually, but surely, 'fall into line.'"

Hughan also says:

"We are glad to know that the Committee on Work and Lectures of the Grand Lodge of New York reported in favour of the words 'Holy Saints John' being stricken from the ritual, and we hope their proposition will be carried. The less we have of needless sectarianism the better, and, for our part, excepting the essential portions of our ritual which are interwoven with the Christian and Hebrew Scriptures, we would vote to-morrow for every sectarian allusion to be expunged from all Masonic rituals. That Freemasonry, early last century, was Christian, was also before then and since until late years, is evident to all Masonic students; but that is no argument why it should so continue to be, because it has universally been decided to widen the basis of the society, and to practically carry out what was only theoretically attempted by our forefathers."

"Since the union of 1813, England may be said to have taken the lead in giving to Freemasonry a cosmopolitan and unsectarian character, which we trust will, ere long, secure the general support of the Grand Lodges in the United States, with whom we desire particularly to work, not only in harmony and brotherly love, but entirely on the same foundation."

The Freeborn.—Rev. Dr. Oliver, then an officer of the Grand Lodge of England, thus discoursed as to this paragraph, inserted by Anderson in his "Book of Constitutions," in 1723: "The men made Masons must be freeborn or no bondsmen, of mature age and of good report, hale and sound, not deformed or dismembered at the time of making, without maim or defect in his body."

"This test appears to cast an indirect reflection on the works of our Almighty Creator! and therefore the Masons of the present day expunged it from the statute book; because a man's morals are not determined by physical defect of his body. In fact, it appears to be opposed to the direct commands of the Gospel: for Christ himself pronounced the loss of a member of the body of less consequence than that of a single virtue or affection of the mind. The truth is, this regulation was never intended to be introduced into speculative Masonry."

(To be continued.)

Bro. W. A. Barrett, Mus. Bac. Oxon, P.P.G.O. Oxfordshire, has been appointed one of the Vicars Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral, in the place of Mr. T. Francis, who has resigned.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—All diseases springing from bad blood, malarious districts, or overheated atmospheres can be cured by these noble remedies. Fever, ague, influenza, bronchitis, diphtheria, et each complaints and bilious disorders are easily met and readily conquered by these unrivalled medicaments. Both act harmoniously in preserving the pure and best materials of the body, and in expelling all that is redundant, effete, or corrupt. Thus the cure is not slight and ephemeral, but complete and permanent, as thousands who have personally tested their power have gratefully testified. Invalids in all quarters of the globe, whose listlessness of mind and sallowness of complexion warned them and their friends of some undermining disease, have been thoroughly renovated by Holloway's remedies.

Digitized by Google

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

MAGAZINES OF THE MONTH.

"THE WOMAN-HATER," in Blackwood, bids fair to prove a worthy successor to "The Dilemma." The introductory chapters are well written, and we fancy we shall like the acquaintance of the characters we have thus far been introduced to, especially of Ina Kloaking and Zoe Vizard. This is followed by a paper on "Calderon's Moorish Plays," and the conclusion of "1895," in which the female candidate does not succeed in carrying the election. She is chosen, however, to a position which becomes her far better. "Devious Rambles with a definite object," and "Winter in a Northumbrian Watering-place," will be read with a great deal of pleasure. Last of all, we have an art-paper on the "Royal Academy," and a political article, in which the writer comments at some length on the recent action and future prospects of "Her Majesty's Opposition." The picture he sets before us is by no means a flattering one, though as to its truth the reader must judge for himself. But whatever his opinion may be about this particular contribution, we do not doubt his verdict as to the general excellence of the number will be a favourable one.

Messrs. Chatto and Windus seem determined that Belgravia under their auspices shall exhibit no falling off. The contents of the present number we may almost say are uniformly excellent. Mr. Charles Reade opens the ball with the first of a series of stories of Man and Other Animals. His "Knight's Secret" is capitally told, and we may look upon it as a good omen that the series begins so well. "Juliet" prospers under the guidance of Mrs. Lovett Cameron, and as her story is more developed, our interest in it will have become more intense. Mrs. Lynn Linton is very successful in her article on "Old Maids;" and there is something essentially dramatic in the concluding part of Mr. MacKenna's short story of "Scotching a snake." Mr. John Ingram's paper on "The Unknown Poetry of Edgar Poe" will be very welcome to admirers of that poet, while as to "Current Coins Somewhat Defaced," we should gladly see a few more such "correctives"—if we may use the word—administered. "Joshua Haggard's Daughter" is still in progress, and there is a new tale commenced, bearing the title of "The New Republic." A Mr. Otho Lawrence invites a select circle of friends to his villa by the sea. Each has strong views of his or her own, and we are hardly out of the chapter,—have hardly, in fact, taken our seat at the dinner-table—when what we suppose is the first of a series of discussions commences, in which each of the guests gives utterance to his or her peculiar notions. It seems as if we have in store for us something after the manner of Friends in Council. Whether it will approach that charming book remains to be seen. There are four illustrations, but the only one that strikes our fancy is Mr. Mahoney's "Thank God, I thought I must lose," accompanying Mr. MacKenna's tale.

Few of the magazines are more entertaining than the Gentleman's. It does not, like too many of its rivals, give too great prominence to fiction, yet what there is—and we may take "The Shadow and the Sword," and Mr. Francillon's now completed story of "A Dog and his Shadow," as admirable cases in point—is excellent of its kind. Then the gossip we meet with in Mr. and Mrs. Cowden Clarke's Reminiscences of writers they have known in their youthful days is quite a pleasure to read, and "the Table-talk," by Sylvanus Urban himself, is a real model of what such short, chatty notes should be. Nor are these the only features to be commended. One of the most agreeable contributions is by "Red-Spinner," whose "Ocean Log from Newcastle to Brisbane" is perfect in its way. And in the present number we may mention two other papers which should find a host of readers. One is by "Fin Bec," and is entitled "Under Foreign Mahogany." There are few more competent to write about hotel comforts and discomforts than Fin Bec, and his account, now before us, of a Swiss Pension is in excellent vein. The other is on "Yachting, Past and Present." The writer is Mr. Andrew Thomson, whose "Yachting Annual" has met with so many and such well-merited encomiums, and from the pleasure this sketch of his has afforded us, we trust we may soon again have the opportunity of meeting him. Those who have read any of Dr. Taylor's "Half-Hours" in country lanes, by the sea-side, or elsewhere, will be in a position to appreciate that gentleman's guidance "Over an Old-Land Surface," and there are not a few will set down Mr. Hepworth Dixon's speech on "Literature and the Drama" with a feeling akin to little Oliver Twist's when he asked for more.

We have more than once remarked that the strength of Tinsleys' lies in its fiction, nor will this surprise our readers if they remember that Mr. Farjeon, who is a host in himself, is among its writers. Mr. James Grant, too, is a writer of well-established fame, whose circle of admirers is ever-extending. But Tinsleys' has other merits likewise. Its poetry is invariably worth reading, not the least worthy specimen of this class of contribution being Dr. Davies's "Love Songs of all Songs." We wish we could speak in the same terms of his "Social Status Quo," the first half of which is always dull and uninteresting, when he will insist on writing about Church matters. In addition we have noted this month some excellent occasional papers, such being Mr. Hecty's paper on "Sir Sala Jung and the Berars," "Fashionable Follies," and "Force of Character," and a short tale by Lynn Wood, entitled "Abel Rees."

We have introduced to us in Cassell's Family Magazine a new serial story, entitled "A Hard Case," with illustrations by Mr. W. Small. We do not like committing ourselves to any decided opinion as yet, but we fancy we discern all the elements of a well-built story even in the few chapters thus far vouchsafed to us. In the way of short tales, there are a love story by Mr. G. Manville Fenn, entitled "Waiting for an Answer," and "Proud Mrs. Brandleth," by the author of "Bibba." Both these we like much, but particularly the former. As regards practical papers, we especially invite attention to the article on "Gardening in June," which is far above the average; and there is a pleasant "Peep at Billingsgate," the peep being through a very agreeable medium at a highly interesting picture. The ladies will find plenty to attract their notice in "A practical Woman's" directions as to "Washing at Home," in "Chit-chat on Dress," and "Inexpensive Home Millinery." "Pure Water" is far too important a consideration to be overlooked, especially when a Family Doctor's advice about it is within our reach; and just now the knowledge "How to Prepare Spring and Early Summer Dishes" will be useful to the young or unskilful housewife. Those who know nothing of the inner life of Christ's Hospital, will find some interesting details respecting it in Mr. E. Walford's paper, and Dr. Taylor's "Social Flowers" are worth studying. The lines on "The Chained Eagle" are not remarkable, but Ernest Griset's conception of the idea forms an admirable frontispiece.

There is little to be said of the Leisure Hour. Most of its contents are continued from the previous number, and we have no reason to alter the very favourable opinion we have already expressed of their merits. There is a well-written account of "Scindiah and the Mahrattas," and if the discomforts of "The Spring Cleaning-up" are not particularly endurable, they are amusing enough to read about. As the question of weather is always an interesting one, it is well to know that

> "Calm weather in June > Sets corn in tune;"

and that

> "Mists in May, and heat in June,
> Make a harvest come right soon."

Let us hope, however, it will not rain on the 20th or 27th of the month. As regards the former, it seems—

> "If on the eighth (20th) of June it rain,
> It foretells a wet harvest, men sain."

While as to the latter, which is St. Vitus's Day,—

> "If St. Vitus's Day be rainy weather,
> It will rain for thirty days together."

Our neighbours over the "Silver streak" will fare worse, it seems, if it rain on either day. The 8th or 20th is St. Medard's day, and

> "S'il pleut le jour de Saint Medard, > Il pleut quarante jours plus tard."

As to the 27th, which with them is patronised both by St. Gervais and St. Protais,

> "S'il pleut le jour de Saint Gervais et Saint Protais, > Il pleut quarante jours après."

Mrs. Finn's account of "Agriculture in Palestine," and Dr. Stoughton's paper on "Westminster Abbey," with his "Reminiscences of the Last Coronation," are the most noteworthy contributions to the Sunday at Home. Both this and the Leisure Hour are well illustrated.

St. James's offers an excellent programme. The series of papers describing "Napoleon at St. Helena," and written by one of his attendants, must now be complete. In the present are particulars of the great man's death and burial. The Editor, Mr. Mayer, commences in this number a series of sketches of "Our Noble Houses." He opens with "The Lindsays" nor do we think he could have selected a nobler to head the list. The sketch has been carefully compiled, and if those which are to follow are but equal to this, the St. James's for some months to come will offer one powerful attraction the more. "Vivisection" is the subject of an essay by Roger Quiddam, whose object is to confine the practice within the narrowest limits. This is not the first time we have read in these pages an article on a military subject. Mr. T. Carlisle, if we remember rightly, some months since wrote very ably on the organization—or we ought perhaps to say rather the disorganization, of our Indian army. Mr. Pagot, in his remarks on "Army Mobilization," grapples with the subject nearer home. He points out that, considering the wonderful changes that have occurred during the last ten years, it is imperative we should be better prepared for all eventualities. He urges that whatever the strength of our military forces, the question really lies between costliness and efficiency and costliness and inefficiency. Whether we have a hundred or a hundred and fifty thousand troops we are sure to have the piper to pay, and the least we can do is to have money's worth. Mr. Adolphus Rosenberg contributes a well-written and just paper respecting the "Jews of the Present Day," and Mr. G. Lawrence Gomme a description of the island of "Tristan d'Acunha." All these, with the "Grange Garden" and "Sir Hubert's Marriage," bear out our statement that the programme this month is an excellent one.

Of the contents of Chambers's there are several which are eminently readable. Mr. W. Chambers very properly objects to the now too common practice of "Name-lending." There are, too, a good description of "Club Life," a paper on "Blind Fishes," a sketch of "A Highland Parish in the Last Century," as drawn by the late Dr. Norman MacLeod, some very acute remarks on the "Physiognomy of Houses," and a brief notice of sundry of "Our Feathered Neighbours," namely, the cuckoo, the night-jar, and the cornerake. Mr. Payne's serial story of "Fallen Fortunes," and two short tales, "An Adventure on the Clyde," and "An Election Story," with papers on "Great Guns and Armour-Plating," and "Happy Accidents," are among the most attractive of the other contributions.

CLUB HOUSE PLAYING CARDS.—Mogul Quality, picked 1s 3d per pack, 14s per dozen packs. Do. seconds 1s per pack, 11s per dozen packs. If by post 1½d per pack extra. Cards for Piquet, Bézique, Écarté, &c., Mogul Quality 10d per pack, 9s per dozen packs.—London: W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Digitized by Google

GRAND LODGE.

THE Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday, at the usual hour. In the absence of the Grand Master, R.W. Bro. Lord Leigh P.G.M. Warwickshire presided, as Pro Grand Master, and there were present, R.W. Bro. Major Ramsay, D.G.M. Punjaub as Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Donoughmore G.S.W., the Hon. W. W. Vernon G.J.W., John Hervey G. Secretary, Æneas J. McIntyre Q.C. G. Registrar, the Rev. J. S. Brownrigg G. Chaplain, Sir Albert Woods (Garter) Grand D. of Ceremonies, T. W. Board M.P. and E. J. Barrow Grand Deacons, J. B. Monckton President of the Board of General Purposes, together with the following brethren: the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot P.G.M. Staffordshire, Lord Tenterden P.G.W., Rev. Sir J. Warren Hayes, Rev. C. J. Martyn and the Rev. R. J. Simpson P.G. Chaplains, Sir M. Costa and Wm. Kuhe P.G. Organists, S. Rawson D.G.M. China, H. G. Sandeman P.D.G.M. Bombay, Alderman Hadley P.G.D., Lieut. Col. Creaton P.G.D., J. Havers P.G.W., Hyde Pullen P.G.S.W., J. Clabon P.G.D., J. Rucker P.G.D., W. Ough, Thos. Cubitt, J. Smith and C. A. Cottebrune P.G. Pursuivants, J. E. Saunders P.G.D., E. P. Albert G.P., S. Foxall A.G.P., Dr. Erasmus Wilson F.R.S., Raynham Stewart P.G.D., C. Hutton Gregory P.G.D., Brett P.G.P., E. Gottheil, Haigh, Harty, F. Adlard, Littell, Bingemann, P. Binckes P.G. Steward, J. Terry, Capt. Phillips, E. Mather, H. Massey, J. Constable, H. M. Levy, S. Rosenthal, &c., &c. Grand Lodge was opened with the customary formalities. The minutes of the Quarterly Communication of 1st March and of Grand Festival were read and confirmed. The Pro G.M. announced, in relation to the Charity Jewel, certain alterations and additions which had been sanctioned by the Grand Master, to the following effect. A brother who has served the office of Steward to any two of the Charitable Institutions, and has personally subscribed at each stewardship at least the sum of ten guineas (£10 in the case of the R.M.B.I.), shall be privileged to wear the jewel suspended from a ribbon one and a half inches in width, and coloured white and blue, white and red, blue and red, or red, white, and blue, according as he shall have served, for the girls (white), boys (blue), or R.M.B.I. (red). He shall further be entitled to wear a clasp for every additional Stewardship he may serve for either of the Institutions, provided, however, he on each occasion repeats his personal subscription of ten guineas or pounds as the case may be. A Vice-President of any one or more of the Institutions who is privileged to wear the said jewel is further entitled to wear a rosette above the jewel of the colour or colours mentioned, and a Vice-Patron, similarly privileged, may wear his jewel suspended from a ribbon round his neck, of the same width and colour. Lastly, every brother serving a Stewardship to any one of the Charities on behalf of a Provincial or Country Lodge, who personally attends the Festival, and brings up contributions amounting to not less than one hundred guineas shall have the same rights and privileges in respect of the jewel as though he had personally subscribed ten guineas.

The following were elected on the Board of General Purposes, namely, Bros. H. Bishop, H. A. Dubois, John Gibson, E. F. Gould, Rev. W. Taylor, Jones, E. March, A. Richards, J. B. Sorrell, as Masters; as Past Masters, D. Betts, C. F. Hogard, J. F. Huggins, H. C. Lavander, P. de L. Long, and S. Poynter; for the Colonial Board, Bros. Brackstone Baker, F. Bennoch, J. Brett, E. F. Gould, S. Poynter, Griffiths Smith, and Dr. Erasmus Wilson. The following were nominated and elected to serve on the Committee of Management of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution: Bros. J. Brett, C. A. Cottebrune, T. Cubitt, J. A. Farnfield, C. F. Hogard, J. G. Stevens, A. H. Tattershall, H. M. Levy, H. G. Warren, and Thomas W. White.

The Report of the Board of Benevolence, recommending grants to the amount of £350, was adopted and confirmed. The Report of the Board of General Purposes having been adopted, Bro. McIntyre G.R. proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. J. B. Monckton, President, which was carried unanimously.

The appeal of Bro. W. C. Rowe W.M. Lodge of Truth, No. 944 Bombay, against the decision of the R.W.D.G.M. Bombay, censuring the Lodge for having passed and raised a brother at the same meeting, was dismissed, and the decision confirmed.

The proposed alterations in the Laws of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, as recommended at the Special General Meeting, on the 25th April, of the Governors and Subscribers of that Institution, were agreed to. The Laws as altered now provide that—

"The amount of the Annuity shall be £40 per annum" to the men, and "The amount of the Annuity shall be £32 per annum" to the women.

The Annual Report of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, dated 19th May 1876, was then laid before Grand Lodge.

Bro. John Havers then rose and proposed the resolution of which he had given notice:—

That this Grand Lodge desires to return its humble and hearty thanks to the Almighty Architect of the Universe for the safe return to his native land of their beloved Grand Master, His Royal Highness the PRINCE OF WALES, and in memory of that happy event, determine to devote the sum of £2,000 in aid of the restoration of the two Churches which are most intimately connected with the history of Freemasonry in England.

(1st) "That a sum of £1,000 be granted from the Fund for "General Purposes towards the restoration of St. Paul's Cathedral, and the like sum of £1,000 from the same Fund towards "the restoration of St. Alban's Abbey."

(2nd) "That a Committee, to consist of the Pro Grand "Master, the Deputy Grand Master, the Grand Treasurer, Grand "Registrar, President of the Board of General Purposes, and the "Grand Superintendent of Works, be and is hereby appointed, "and such Committee (after conference with the Restoration "Committee of the respective Churches) shall decide in what "manner the gifts can best be made so as to carry out the wishes "of Grand Lodge."

In the course of his remarks, Bro. Havers remarked on the flourishing condition of Freemasonry as compared now with what it was twenty years ago, and urged that with an increasing annual income, Grand Lodge could very well afford to vote the sum of £2,000 to great national objects. The purposes might not be strictly Masonic, but nothing would be lost by occasionally departing from the beaten track. There was no fear as to the charities, which were flourishing beyond the most sanguine expectations, and the success of which was assured. He combated the idea that the votes he proposed would be for denominational purposes. St. Alban was the founder of the first Grand Lodge in this country, and St. Paul's was the work of Sir Christopher Wren, whose maul and working tools were now preserved and used by the Lodge of Antiquity. Moreover, he had reason to know that H.R.H. the Grand Master entirely approved of his proposal.

Bro. Gould W.M. 92, said:

"I beg to second the resolutions which have just been proposed by R.W. Bro. Havers, resolutions so good in themselves, and urged in so able a manner, as to induce me to bespeak the indulgence of Grand Lodge in trespassing even for a few moments upon its attention. It may, I think, be taken as a fact that we are all agreed as to the fitness of voting a sum of money, though a divergence of views may exist as to the purposes to which it should be applied. Without again going into subjects which have been so ably and exhaustively discussed by Bro. Havers, I may be allowed to say that, in my judgment, there could be no more appropriate way of celebrating our Grand Master's safe return than by adopting the resolutions now before Grand Lodge. The purposes proposed are simple and unostentatious. No elaborate machinery is required to carry them into effect, but they would demonstrate most forcibly the expression of our gratitude to the Giver of all good, our fealty and attachment to our Grand Master, and our desire to illustrate those sentiments by aiding in the restoration of two national edifices, whose histories, as Bro. Havers has so eloquently shown, are inseparably connected with that of our Order, and who in a great measure owe their very existence to the labours and exertions of our ancient brethren."

Bro. the Rev. R. J. Simpson then rose, and having announced that it was his intention to withdraw the resolution of which he had given notice, as he was anxious the vote of Grand Lodge should be unanimous on the occasion, proposed as an amendment—"That this Grand Lodge desires to return its humble and hearty thanks to the Almighty Architect of the Universe for the safe return to his native land of their beloved Grand Master, the Prince of Wales, and that a special committee be appointed to consider the best mode in which this feeling can be perpetuated in some practicable and charitable form, and to report thereon to this Grand Lodge." Bro. Simpson objected to Bro. Havers's resolution, on the ground that a very large number of Masons in England were not members of the Established Church. He suggested scholarships for the Boys' School, or a Prince of Wales's Wing for the Institution of Aged Freemasons.

Bro. Baxter Langley seconded the amendment.

Bro. Hutton Gregory supported the resolution, and cited the statue of the Duke of Sussex as an instance in which the funds of Grand Lodge had been expended on other than charitable objects. Bros. Raynham Stewart, and Binckes spoke in favour of the amendment, the latter suggesting that Bro. Havers's motion should stop at "£2,000," and so leave its appropriation open to further consideration.

Bro. Havers having briefly replied, and Lord Leigh having expressed his personal gratification at the safe return of the Grand Master, and a hope that the visit would lead to a closer union between India and this country, Bro. Simpson's amendment was put, and carried by an overwhelming majority.

Bro. Benj. Head's motion, that the sum of £70 be set apart from the Fund of General Purposes for the purpose of supplying coals to the inmates of the R.M.B.I. during the winter months, having been considered, Grand Lodge was closed.

According to Rebold, in his "Histoire des Trois Grandes Loges de Franco-Maçons en France," the first places on the Continent where Masonry was introduced from England were Dunkirk and Mons, in both of which Lodges were constituted as early as 1721. The Dunkirk Lodge bore the title of L'Amitié et Fraternité, and was re-constituted 1st March 1756, by the Grand Lodge of France. The Mons Lodge was constituted the 4th June 1721, and bore the title of La Parfaite Union. Later it became Provincial Grand Lodge, under the English jurisdiction, for the Austrian Netherlands, and itself constituted Lodges from 1730. It would be interesting to learn the evidence on which Rebold bases these statements. According to the same writer the first Paris Lodge was founded by Lord Derwentwater, in 1725. It was known as Lodge "St. Thomas," and was constituted in the name of the London Grand Lodge, 12th June 1726. Its place of meeting was an eating-house or restaurant in the Rue des Boucheries-Saint-Germain, kept by one Hurre. A second Lodge was constituted in Paris the 7th May 1729. It was named Louis d'Argent, and met at Lebreton's, mine host of "Le Louis d'Argent. The third Paris Lodge was named Aris Sainte-Marguerite, and was founded 11th December 1729; while a fourth, known as the Lodge De Hussy, met at Landelles' Hotel of the same name, and after the initiation of the Duke d'Anmont, was called the Lodge D'Anmont. Of these four Lodges Thory, in "Acta Latomorum," makes mention of the first, and he also states, under date of 24th December 1736, there were at that date four Lodges in Paris. Some of our readers, perhaps, may be able to throw light on these matters.

Digitized by Google

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

All Letters must bear the name and address of the Writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

THE MEETING OF GRAND LODGE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Allow me to make a few observations upon the proceedings at the last Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge. A more interesting and instructive meeting has rarely occurred. The spacious hall was crowded almost to suffocation with representatives of London Lodges. The importance attached to several of the propositions on the agenda no doubt was the cause of this immense gathering. Ordinarily, the legislators at Grand Lodge have an easy task. As a rule it is the most pliable of assemblies. A tolerably able speaker has but to propose, and the matter is disposed of by the genial benevolence which surrounds him, sometimes with faint opposition, generally with unanimity and acclamation. Widely different was the aspect on the last occasion. Nowhere was apathy or negligence visible. All were eagerly attentive. The speakers found they had to deal with men whose indulgence might be counted on upon minor questions, but who have the capacity to think, and the resolution to act, when matters of importance are submitted to them. Bro. John Havers betrayed unmistakable astonishment when he found a storm of "no, no's" greet the second part of his motion. The first part, which referred to the happy return of H.R.H., was received with the utmost loyalty and enthusiasm. But all his persuasive eloquence, earnest pleading, and reference to ancient traditions, were ineffectual, and a vast majority refused to supply the sum of £2,000 in aid of the restoration of two churches: at which Bro. Havers got angry, and permitted himself to indulge in expressions which, I am quite sure, he will, upon reflection, be glad to recall. He taunted the brethren with having gone there with foregone conclusions, and never intended to pay attention to any arguments, however potent or conclusive; an insult the brethren, to their credit be it said, ignored, no doubt in consideration of Bro. Haver's many years active and important services, for which the Craft cannot be too grateful. Then he attempted a kind of incipient coercion, by stating that the motion had been approved by the M.W. Grand Master. It may be safely asserted that the lightest wish of H.R.H. would be law to every member of the Craft, provided it is constitutional and consistent. In this instance, it was rightly judged that the name of the Grand Master should not have been brought into a discussion of this kind, especially when the feeling of the assembly was clearly manifested at the time the motion was read. Eventually a division took place, and the proposition negatived by an immense majority. Upon which, Bro. Haver's thought it consistent with the manners of a Mason and a gentleman to tell the majority that by this act they had disgraced themselves. I think that our distinguished brother there entirely forgot himself. He should have remembered the patient cheerfulness with which his truly eloquent remarks were listened to, and credited the brethren with the same honesty of purpose of acting entirely in accordance with their well-considered convictions which, I am sure, every one accorded to him. No one doubted for one moment that he was actuated by the highest and noblest of motives. Why this accusation of baseness against others, unless it arose through impatience of unwonted defeat? The Rev. Bro. R. J. Simpson very judiciously withdrew the motion to vote the sum of £1,000 in aid of the restoration of St. Pauls' Cathedral, and by moving an acceptable amendment turned defeat into conquest. He seemed to have truly gauged the feelings of Grand Lodge, and instead of being conquered, was crowned with the laurels of a conqueror. He became the man of the hour, and carried all before him. I wish Bro. Havers had been advised to act upon a similar impulse. It should never be forgotten that it was himself who made the rod employed against him. It was he who ruled with similar eloquence that Grand Lodge funds must not be used for other than strictly Masonic purposes. It was he who, by his powerful appeal, prevented Grand Lodge from voting £100 towards endowing the "Freemasons' Life Boat." Decisions like those are bound to be acquiesced in, but they are not forgotten. It was unjust and un-Masonic to refuse so trifling an amount only a year ago, when Grand Lodge possessed a superabundance of funds similar to the one so proudly referred to by Bro. Havers, to an object as truly Masonic at any rate as the restoration of church or cathedral. But the rule was made and accepted, and to negative Bro. Havers's proposition was but to act in conformity with the regulation introduced by himself. His disappointment is undoubtedly severe, and may call for sympathy, but it scarcely excuses injustice, uncharitable feeling, and want of generosity.

Yours fraternally,

B. GOTTHEIL.

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I think, after all, there is no real difference between the views of "P.M. 425" and those of your correspondents of the previous week. All depends on the meaning he and they severally attach to the word "qualified." The key to this meaning will be found towards the end of the second paragraph of "P.P.J.G.W. Staffordshire's" letter, whose interpretation of the Constitutions, p. 78, clause 6, agrees with Oliver's. Both carefully note the wording of the clause, but Oliver more fully than your Staffordshire correspondent. If the W.M. is incapable of discharging his office, the duty of summoning the Lodge rests first with the S.W., then with the J.W., then with the I.P.M., and then with the S.P.M. If the chair is vacant, it shall be taken in the first place by the I.P.M. or, in his absence, by the S.P.M. present. If neither the W.M. nor a P.M. is present, the S.W., or, in his absence, the J.W. shall rule the Lodge. Thus a Warden may summon a Lodge and rule a Lodge, but he may not take its chair, "in which," says Oliver, "he has not been installed," but "occupy a seat in front or to the right of it, in accordance with the practice of Grand Lodge, as a token of his incompetency to perform the highest rites of the Craft; because the chair is for Installed Masters only," &c. This being so, Oliver goes on to say that a Warden may not "initiate, pass, or raise—for the terms 'rule a Lodge' do not embrace the privilege of admitting candidates." Moreover, "no initiations can be legally performed from any other place in the Lodge" than from the chair. He thinks, however, that "in a case of extreme emergency, the conferring of degrees by a Warden, in the absence of any Past Master or actual Master, would not be held absolutely illegal, though highly undesirable." But, he says, "if a Past Master of any other Lodge be present, it is for him to confer degrees, and not for the ruling Warden of the Lodge." From all which it is manifest that only Installed Masters are qualified to occupy the Master's chair, nor is it material if the Installed Master be of the Lodge in question or of any other Lodge. Thence it follows that if only an Installed Master can take the chair in the actual absence of the Master, none other is qualified to take it in his virtual absence, that is, when, through indisposition, embarrassment, or other cause, he feels it incumbent on him to momentarily vacate this seat. A W.M., then, who was desirous of inviting assistance in the fulfilment of his duties, could only invite that of an Installed Master, for only such is qualified to take his place.

Fraternally yours, "Q."

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—If the letter of "P.M. 425" remains unanswered, some young Mason who reads it may consider that there is some truth in the erroneous statement that when a P.M. assists the W.M. of a Lodge in conferring either of the degrees on a candidate that the P.M. occupies a chair at the side of the W.M. I beg to state that the degrees should be conferred by the W.M., or the acting W.M., from the chair, and with the candidate in his proper position.

It is true that when the W.M. leaves the chair and hands over his gavel to another his authority is vested in that brother, who is the acknowledged Master for the time being, and should be addressed as such.

Yours fraternally,

MAGNUS OHREN,

P.P.G.J.W. for Surrey.

EARLY HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY IN IRELAND.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The list of Masonic works referred to by "Masonic Investigator," comprised the valuable collection of the late counsellor, Thomas Hewitt, of Cork, an old friend and connection of mine. I purchased from him the whole, "en bloc;" but he withdrew the MSS. Transactions of the Grand Lodge of Munster, 1726 to 1833, &c. &c., which, I believe, he presented to No. 1 Lodge, Cork, the first Lodge of Ireland, his mother Lodge; deeming it their most fitting custodian.

Concerning the Traditions, &c., compiled by the late Bro. Michael Furnell; though I was in constant communication with that eminent Mason, I do not remember his mentioning that they were founded on the MSS. of Bro. Hewitt. He presented his own valuable library to the Grand Lodge, Dublin.

With hearty good wishes,

I am, Dear Sir and Bro.,

Yours faithfully,

RICHARD SPENCER, P.G.S.

26 Footman's-road, S.W.
6th June 1876.

OLD WARRANTS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I note the remarks of Bro. Constable respecting the titles of the Duke of Athole, and have referred to the Almanack of Oliver and Boyd's (of Edinburgh), for the correct description, which I append. To put the account in Warrant No. 129 as it should be, I have given the titles in their order.

Duke, Marquess and Earl of Athole,* Marquess and Earl of Tullibardine, Earl of Strathtay and Strathardle, Viscount of Balquhidder, Glenalmond and Glenlyon, Lord Murray, Balvenie and Gask, &c., &c., &c.

From the Peerage and Baronetage of Debrett's we glean the following: "Created Lord Murray 1604, Earl of Tullibardine 1606, Earl of Athole 1629, Marquess of Athole, Viscount Balquhidder, Baron Balvenie and Gask 1676, Duke of Athole, Marquess of Tullibardine, Earl of Strathtay and Strathardle, and Viscount Glenalmond and Glenlyon 1703, Scottish Peerage, Baron Strange, Earl Strange and Baron Murray, Great Britain 1786, Baron Glenlyon, United Kingdom, 1821." These particulars of a great Masonic family will, I hope, be of value to Bro. Constable.

SCOTIA.

* Atholl formerly.

Digitized by Google

A MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

SEASON TICKETS, available for one year from the 1st of each month, to be had of W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, E.C.

THE THEATRES, &c.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—This evening, L'ELISIR D'AMORE. On Monday, LA TRAVIATA. On Tuesday, LE NOZZE DI FIGARO. On Thursday, FRA DIAVOLO. On Friday, UN BALLO IN MASCHERA. On Saturday, L'ETOILE DU NORD. Each evening at 8.30. FLORAL HALL CONCERT 10th June.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA, DRURY LANE.—This evening, IL BARBIERE DI SIVIGLIA. On Monday, FAUST. On Tuesday, LUCREZIA BORGIA. On Thursday, IL DON GIOVANNI. On Saturday, LOHENGRIN. At 8.30, each evening. On Monday morning, and Wednesday and Friday evenings, SIGNOR ROSSI in ITALIAN PLAYS.

LYCEUM.—At 7.30, A HUSBAND IN CLOVER. At 8.30, THE BELLS.

ADELPHI.—At 7.30, COLLEEN BAWN and STRUCK OIL.

HAYMARKET.—At 7.30, BOX AND COX. At 8.15, L'ETRANGERE.

STRAND.—At 7.30, HIS LAST LEGS. At 9.0, L'AFRICAINE. At 10.30, THE RIVAL OTHELLOS.

GAIETY.—At 7.45, BLUE DEVILS. At 8.30, MY AWFUL DAD. At 10.30, COOL AS A CUCUMBER.

CHARING CROSS.—At 8.0, THE LOAN OF A LOVER. At 9.0, MY NIECE AND MY MONKEY.

OLYMPIC.—At 7.30, FASCINATING FELLOWS. At 8.0, THE TICKET OF LEAVE MAN.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—At 8.0, OURS.

ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE.—At 7.15, BORROWED PLUMES. At 8.0, JO.

GLOBE.—At 7.30, SQUARING THE CIRCLE. At 8.0, MISS GWILT, &c.

VAUDEVILLE.—At 7.30, A WHIRLIGIG. At 8.0, OUR BOYS, and a FEARFUL FOG.

COURT.—At 8.0, A SCRAP OF PAPER, and A QUIET RUBBER.

ST. JAMES'S.—THE CREOLE and NILSSON OR NOTHING.

OPERA COMIQUE.—LA FILLE DE MADAME ANGOT.

CRITERION.—At 8.0, MARY'S SECRET, and THE GREAT DIVORCE CASE, &c.

ALHAMBRA.—LE VOYAGE DANS LA LUNE, &c.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.—This day, RACES, PYGMALION AND GALATEA, &c. On Tuesday, FLOWERS OF THE FOREST, VENETIAN FETE, &c. On Wednesday, FIRE BRIGADE CONTEST. On Wednesday and Thursday, BULL DOG SHOW, &c. On Thursday, GHIOTTI'S HIPPOLA, &c. Open daily, BROEKMANN'S CIRCUS, SKATING RINK, &c.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—This day, (Benefit of Mr. Mapleson) FIREWORKS, &c. On Tuesday, "OEDIPUS AT COLONUS." On Wednesday, LONDON SUNDAY SCHOOL CONCERT, &c. Open daily, AQUARIUM, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL AQUARIUM SUMMER AND WINTER GARDEN. Open daily. CONCERT, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL POLYTECHNIC.—MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT, entitled ALICE'S ADVENTURES. Solos on the Violin and Zither. NEW LECTURE: A SUNBEAM, and HOW TO WEIGH IT. HEINKE'S DIVING DRESS and SUBMARINE LAMP. The New Type Writer in operation. FROM ENGLAND TO PHILADELPHIA. A TRIP TO THE SUEZ CANAL. Dissolving Views and Mechanical Effects. MARVELLOUS ILLUSIONS BY M. HORACE DE GREY. Open from 12 till 5, and 7 till 10. Admission to the whole, 1s.

EGYPTIAN (LARGE) HALL.—MASKELYNE AND COOKE, daily at 3.0 and 8.0.

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE can be ordered of any Bookseller in Town or Country, but should any difficulty be experienced, it will be forwarded direct from the Office, on receipt of Post Office Order for the amount. Intending Subscribers should forward their full Addresses to prevent mistakes.

Post Office Orders to be made payable to W. W. MORGAN, at Barbican Office. Cheques crossed "London and County."

The Terms of Subscription (payable in advance) to THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE are—

Twelve Months, Post Free	...	...	£0 13 6
Six Months	ditto	...	... 0 7 0
Three Months	ditto	...	... 0 3 6

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisers will find THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE an exceptionally good medium for Advertisements of every class.

Per Page...	...	...	...	...	...	£8 0 0
Back Page	...	...	...	...	...	£10 0 0

General Advertisements, Trade Announcements, &c. single column, 5s per inch. Double Column Advertisements 1s per line. Special Terms for a Series of insertions on application.

Births, Marriages and Deaths, 6d per line.

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday, Lord Leigh, Prov. G.M. Warwickshire, presiding, in the absence of His Royal Highness the Grand Master. There was a numerous attendance of members. The finances of Grand Lodge were shown to be in a highly satisfactory condition. A long debate then followed as to the most suitable plan for commemorating the Grand Master's visit to India and his safe return home, it being ultimately resolved that a committee be appointed to consider the manner in which this feeling of thankfulness at so auspicious an event should be perpetuated, and to report their views at the next Communication of Grand Lodge. Full particulars of the debate are given elsewhere.

The Queen is enjoying a brief period of comparative retirement at Balmoral. On Tuesday she gave a ball to the servants, tenants, and gillies on the Balmoral and Abergeldie estates, being herself present, with the Princess Beatrice, and attended by the ladies and gentlemen of her household. On Tuesday evening the King of the Belgians, who is over in England on a visit, left London for the North for the purpose of paying a visit to Her Majesty, Balmoral being reached on the following afternoon. Everywhere, along the route, the King met with a most respectful reception.

The King and Queen of Hanover with their family have been now some time in London, and seem thoroughly to be enjoying their visit to this country. The King is staying at Claridge's Hotel, and visits are daily interchanged between the illustrious visitors and the members of our own Royal Family as well as the leading aristocracy. The Duke de Nemours and the Comte de Paris have also been staying at the same hotel, but returned this week to Paris. The object of their visit has been to arrange for the conveyance to France of the remains of those members of the Orleans family, including the ex-King Louis Philippe and his Consort, who died in exile in England, the French President's authorisation having been previously obtained.

The Prince and Princess of Wales left London on Monday for Sandringham, reaching their Norfolk residence in the afternoon of that day. They had previously received the visits of the Kings of Hanover and of the Belgians. The Prince had been somewhat of an invalid for a brief time, being confined to the house by the swelling of the veins in his legs, but the fact of his being able to undertake the journey is a good omen. His Royal Highness and his brothers of Edinburgh and Connaught have been appointed personal aides-de-camp to Her Majesty. The Duke of Connaught is about to pay a visit of a few weeks to Liverpool, where he is expected to arrive on Friday next, and where he will stay till the 22nd July. The Town Council have accordingly resolved to place Newsham House, which is usually occupied by the judges when on circuit, at His Royal Highness's disposal.

The Whitsuntide holidays are at an end. Monday was a most unfortunate day as regards the weather, but though this may have damped the ardour of many intending holiday-makers, every place of public amusement was thronged with visitors. The Alexandra Palace, with a marvellously extensive programme, was patronised by, it is said, some fifty thousand people, while even a larger number were present at the Crystal Palace. As regards the indoor part of the programme, which is always worthy of such occasions, these of course are the places for holiday folk to frequent, but the splendour of the outdoor shows was utterly spoiled by the rain. Tuesday was not much better, though the unkind attentions of Jupiter Pluvius were neither so urgent nor so continuous. On Wednesday, when the finances were lower, and people's enthusiasm was in a great measure washed out of them, the sun shone bravely, and has been more or less considerate ever since. One place of resort more than usual was available for pleasure-hunters. The Agricultural Hall is within easy access from all parts of the Metropolis, consequently the horse show, annually held there, was visited by large numbers of people, who would probably have gone further a-field in search of enjoyment had the weather permitted. It is an ill-wind that blows nobody any good. Had the early days of Whitsun week been less disagreeable, the Horse Show management would probably have been minus a good many shillings. As to the number and quality of the exhibits, we need say little here. All seem to have been pleased with what they saw, and the decisions of the judges appear to have given satisfaction, except in some few cases. The Duke of Connaught was present on Monday, while sundry of the prizes were being adjudged. Having mentioned the Alexandra and Crystal Palaces and the Agricultural Hall, we must not overlook the Royal Westminster Aquarium, which sets itself bravely to cater for the public amusement. Its efforts in this direction were thoroughly appreciated, if we may judge from the numbers who patronised it.

Digitized by Google

Lord's was highly favoured, in spite of the wet, by amateurs of cricket, the occasion being the match between North and South for the benefit of the well-known professional, Tom Hearne, who has been before the public one-and-twenty years, and during that time has earned the respect of all classes of cricketers. The match lasted the usual three days, and ended in the victory of the South, by 85 runs. Several excellent scores were made, among them being the Grace 45 and 48, Mr. Buller 67 not out, Lord Harris 23 and 69, Mr. Hornby 29 and 58, and Lockwood 29 and 49. On Wednesday, Woolwich was gay with numerous visitors, on which occasion the Royal Military Academy held its Annual Athletic Sports, under the personal supervision of General Sir John Adye, the governor. The usual programme was varied somewhat by the introduction of a polo match a pick-a-back, the combatants being armed with besoms, and the tug of war. In the former, victory inclined to neither side, as not a single goal was obtained. The third term Cadets won the latter. Other athletic meetings have been held in various parts of the Country, the Irish Civil Service being the most notable, but none will have proved so great an attraction as the Grand Military Meeting arranged for yesterday, and to-day at Lillie Bridge. The entries are likely to prove very numerous, and great interest has been taken in its success, the Prince of Wales and the Secretary of State for War giving cups for the mounted competitions and tent-pegging. The first heats came off yesterday, there being no less than 58 events run off in the course of the afternoon. It was hoped the Prince would be able to attend, but a numerous Royal party, for whom a special enclosure had been set apart, was expected, and considering the numerous and able Committee to which the management was entrusted, we have no doubt the meeting was a very successful one.

The annual dinner of the Royal General Theatrical Fund was held on Wednesday evening, at the Freemasons' Tavern, under the presidency of Mr. Alfred de Rothschild, who was numerously supported on the occasion. Mr. Buckstone, in responding to the toast of Prosperity and Perpetuity to the Fund stated that its invested funds amounted to £12,400, its annual fixed income being £360, but its disbursements to annuitants during the past year had reached £2,000. Later in the evening, the Secretary, Mr. Edgar, announced a list of subscriptions amounting to close upon £1,000.

Lord Mayor Cotton has been paying a short round of visits in the Provinces. The reception at Bath must have been highly gratifying to his Lordship. He so expressed himself, indeed, when leaving for Bristol on Monday afternoon. At the latter City his Lordship was the guest of the Mayor, by whom he was entertained in a manner worthy of the high rank of our great Western port. On Tuesday, he left for Reading, where he experienced an equally cordial reception. Here his Lordship visited the celebrated Biscuit Works of Messrs. Huntley and Palmer, and Messrs. Sutton and Sons' Royal Seed Stores.

On Wednesday and Thursday, the Royal Horticultural Gardens at South Kensington were the scene of the great summer show of Stove and Greenhouse plants, azaleas, orchids, and likewise of fruit and vegetables. The display was pronounced to be a very fine one, and had the weather been more brilliant, there would doubtless, have been a far more numerous array of visitors. The most successful exhibitors of roses were Mr. Charles Turner of Slough, and Messrs. Paul and Son of Cheshunt. Mr. B. S. Williams of Upper Holloway, was also very successful in several classes. To Messrs. Veitch and Sons was awarded the Gold medal for miscellaneous plants. The band of the Royal Engineers was present on Wednesday afternoon.

There was a large and fashionable gathering on Saturday at Hurlingham to witness the game of La Crosse, which is so popular in Canada. The ladies were there in considerable numbers, and the sport was greatly enlivened by the attendance of the band of the 1st Life Guards. The game takes its name from the implement which the players use, and which resembles a shepherd's crook, the curved end being furnished with a network of catgut or rhinoceros thongs, like a battledore or tennis-bat. The sides consisted of twelve players, each with his stick, and a captain, who looks on and directs. The goals are about six feet apart, and placed at a distance ranging from 150 to 250 yards apart. On this occasion the rival teams consisted of twelve Canadians under the captaincy of Dr. Beers, and a like number of Iroquois under that of an Indian, whose name, being interpreted in the vulgar tongue, signifies "Blue Spotted." Though the game is originally an Indian one, the white men have acquired such perfection that they usually get the better of their opponents, and this contest was no exception, as the Canadians were victorious by three goals to one. When the match, which will be repeated to day, was over, a polo match between England and Ireland was played, in which the latter was beaten by four goals to two. To-day there will be more polo at the same ground, the rival teams being from the Blues and 12th Lancers.

At both the Opera houses, the performances have been drawing large audiences, Madame Patti being the central attraction at the Royal Italian, while Madame Christine Nilsson and Mdlle. Titiens have been received with enthusiasm at Her Majesty's. The latter house enjoys the advantage of having Bro. Sir M. Costa as director of music and conductor. The third Floral Hall Concert is fixed for this afternoon. On the afternoon of Monday the 19th, will be held, in the Floral Hall, Bro. Kuhe's grand annual Concert, while on that of the Monday following will be held Sir Julius Benedict's Concert.

The news from Constantinople is to the effect that the ex-Sultan, Abdul Aziz, has committed suicide by opening the veins in his arms by means of a pair of scissors, and allowing himself to bleed to death. The statement is not improbable if we bear in mind previous rumours that his late majesty had already evinced signs of incipient madness, but there are thousands who think he has been done to death by foul means, in accordance with the plan formerly in vogue in Eastern countries, by which, sooner or later, deposed sovereigns no longer were. It is no good moralising over an ill-spent reign, which may have done so much to improve the condition of his subjects, but few sovereigns have quitted this life without leaving behind them a few to mourn their loss. Whether the death of the ex-Sultan will strengthen the position of his successor, it is impossible to forecast. The situation in the East must be even more critical now than it was last week, if it be true that the Servian army is marching towards the Bosnian frontier. So long as the contest is confined within its present limits there is a hope that the peace of Europe may not be disturbed, but if these semi-independent Principalities, like Servia and Montenegro, side with the insurgents against the rule of the Sultan, it is impossible to foresee the results that may follow. That the British Government rightly appreciates the character of the situation is evident. The British Fleet under Admiral Drummond is in Besika Bay. The Admiral himself is at Constantinople. Reinforcements are being sent out with all despatch, and medical stores for 5000 men in excess of our present Mediterranean strength are on the eve of being sent to Malta. There are rumours of a disagreement between Russia and Germany, the latter power not being prepared, it is said, to go the lengths to which its ally is anxious to commit it. Prince Bismarck has had an audience of the Emperor William, and the latter's proposed visit to Ems, to meet his imperial brother of all the Russias, is postponed. Meantime, the relations between Turkey and Egypt are said to be on an unsatisfactory footing. In Paris, great anxiety is felt, and indeed everywhere there seems to be prevalent the fear that a European war is very far from being the least likely event to happen. We hope it may be averted, and if the great Powers are all of them sincere in their wish for the preservation of peace, we see no reason why it should be disturbed.

Digitized by Google

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE AND HUNTINGDONSHIRE.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE.

THE holding of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of the Province of Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire at Peterborough, on Thursday, afforded an opportunity for laying the foundation stone of the new aisle which is to be added to the church of St. Mary in that city. The brethren began to assemble at half-past eleven at St. Peter's College, and after attiring themselves proceeded to the Lodge-room, and took up the positions assigned to them. The Lodge was opened in due form by the W.M. of St. Peter's (Bro. Waller), and shortly afterwards his Grace the Duke of Manchester (Provincial Grand Master) and Bro. Butler Wilkins (Deputy Provincial Grand Master), with the other Provincial Grand Officers, arrived, and the business was proceeded with. Bro. R. Howes, 445, Fidelity, was re-elected Treasurer; Bro. R. H. Griffin, 442, St. Peter's, P.S.W.; Bro. J. T. Green, 360, Pomfret, P.J.W.; Bro. the Hon. and Rev. J. Courtenay Vernon, 607, Chicheley, Chaplain; Bro. the Rev. S. Westbrook, 373, Socrates, Assistant Chaplain; Bro. Hawley, Registrar; Bro. F. G. Buckle, Secretary; Bro. G. Gaches, 442, St. Peter's, S.G.D.; Bro. Percival, 445, Fidelity, J.G.D.; Bro. Jackson, 373, Socrates, Superintendent of Works; Bro. Marson, Pr. D. of C.; Bro. McIlyneux, 607, Chicheley, A.P.D.C.; Bro. Ward, 406, Merit, Sword Bearer; Bro. Margetts, 455, Perseverance, Grand Pursuivant; Bro. Eales, 737, Wentworth, Standard Bearer. The Officers were invested by the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master. Bro. Buckle, assisted by the D.P.G.M. the P.G.S., then read the report of the Board of Benevolence, who voted the sum of £25 and £20 to two widows in the province, £10 to the male fund of the Aged and Decayed, and £21 to the Boys' School. In Grand Lodge, jewels commemorative of the installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, K.G., M.W. Grand Master of England, were voted to the stewards of Norths and Hunts, Bro. E. Cox, 360, Pomfret, and Bro. J. Marson, 373, Socrates. His Grace, the P.G.M., then moved that an address of congratulation be presented to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., on his safe return from India. The W.M. of St. Peter's seconded, and it was approved. A vote of thanks to the brethren of that Lodge for the handsome manner in which they had received the Provincial Grand Lodge was proposed by Bro. Butler Wilkins, D.P.G.M., seconded and approved, and this concluded the business.

The brethren were then marshalled by Bro. Marson, Director of Ceremonies, in the quadrangle of the College, and proceeded by the playground through the Deanery, to the Cathedral, opening out right and left along the nave, so that the Provincial Grand Officers and Chaplain might pass up the centre, and then closing in and taking the seats allotted to them in the north and south transepts. Prayers were read by the Rev. W. Katterns, curate of St. Mary's, and the lessons by the Assistant Chaplain (Brother F. S. Westbrook) and Canon Argles respectively. The anthem was "O give thanks," that most appropriate passage being introduced, "The stone which the builders refused has become the headstone of the corner," and Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" was finely rendered by the lay clerks and choristers after the anthem proper. The sermon was preached by the Provincial Grand Chaplain (Brother the Hon. and Rev. J. Courtenay Vernon), who took for his text, 1 Peter iii., 8—"Be ye all of one mind." He said he had selected the words because he considered them appropriate to that day's business, and more particularly to the Craft to which so many present belonged. One of the great beauties, and the chief essence of the brotherhood, was that in all its principles and precepts it inculcated and sought to instill into the mind unity amongst themselves, and goodwill and peace to all mankind. The preacher then showed the wider significance of the words to Christians, and contrasted those who held the unity of the faith with that false unity which was to be found amongst the ungodly, but which rested on no solid foundation because there was no true love amongst them. He concluded with an appeal on behalf of the building fund of St. Mary's and the Masonic Charities, and after the sermon the stewards collected amongst the brethren. The singing of the hymn, "All people that on earth do dwell," was followed by the Benediction, and the service being over, the brethren re-formed, leaving the west part of the Cathedral in the following order: Bros. Mills and Willson Sword Bearers; Lodge No. 737, Wentworth (Wellingborough), T. Cook, James, &c.; Lodge No. 607, Chicheley (Thrapston), Revs. Westbrook, Vernon, Hawthorn, &c.; Lodge No. 406, Merit (Stamford), Orford, Peck, Wright, &c.; Lodge No. 455, Perseverance (Kettering), amongst whom we noticed Bros. Miller P.P.J.G.D. and P.M., Margetts W.M., Coles P.M., Salmons P.M., Standley I.G., Dainty and Beeby; Lodge No. 445, Fidelity (Towcester), G. Osborn, R. Howes, W. A. Howes, T. M. Percival, W. H. Linnell, Crowley, G. Wilcox-Smith, J. Tunnard, &c.; Lodge No. 373, Socrates (Huntingdon); Lodge No. 360, Pomfret (Northampton), represented by J. T. Green P.G.J.W., J. Stanton P.M., M. E. Jones, H. J. Atkins, T. Whitehouse P.G.S. and J.W., H. W. Parker, H. Spoor, E. Ashford, A. Richardson, J. Bingley, Guidby, Wood, H. Brown, Rev. S. J. W. Sanders, J. H. Williams, Waiter S.W. and Deas; Lodge No. 442, St. Peter's, Junior Members, Past Masters, the Cornucopia containing wheat and the trowel, Bro. Margetts S.W., with ewer of wine, and Bro. Gaches J.W., with ewer of oil, Br. Waller W.M. of 442, with mallet of the Lodge. Past Provincial Grand Lodge Officers of Norths and Hunts; Visitors of the other Provincial Grand Lodges, Juniors in front and Wardens and Deputy Grand Masters in the rear, the Grand Lodge Officers; Superintendent of Works and Registrar, the latter with bottle containing newspapers, also copies of FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, and Freemason, to put under the stone; the Secretary and Treasurer, the latter with coins to put under the stone; Senior Warden with level, and Junior Warden with plumb rule; Assistant Chaplain and Chaplain of Provincial Grand Lodge; the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Butler Wilkins, with a square; the Director and Assistant Director of the Ceremonies; Standard Bearer, Sword Bearer; his Grace the Duke of Manchester P.G.M.; Bros. Dizey and Pilcher, Stewards. It may be easily conceived that the procession was one of which the like has not been seen of late in Peterborough. The inhabitants, no doubt, were gratified by the sight, and the profuse use of flags, streamers, and banners, many of which were inscribed with "Hearty Good Wishes," showed that something out of the ordinary way had been anticipated. As the procession moved through the Minster and out of the west gateway, to the Market-place, and then turned along the Causeway, in the direction of the New-road, the route, admirably kept by the Stewards, assisted by the police, was lined by hundreds of people, many of whom were, no doubt, discussing with much curiosity the clothing, so richly adorned with gold and silver, and the jewels, which in the case of the Provincial Grand Officers, literally covered their breasts. On arriving at the Church of St. Mary's, the hymn, "We love Thy place, O God," was sung, and the brethren having opened out and faced inwards, the Duke, and those who were to take part in the ceremony, walked through to the site of the stone-laying. Canon Argles heartily welcomed his Grace, who had come with so many of his brethren to assist the work of enlarging a church which was so much required for an increasing population. There was still a deficiency of £900, and they had looked forward to something being done that day by the powerful Masonic body, of which his Grace was the head. The bottle containing coins of the realm and newspapers, among the latter being a copy of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, was then placed in a cavity of the stone, and covered; after which his Grace (the P.G.M.) spread the mortar with the trowel belonging to the St. Peter's Lodge, and the stone was lowered with three drops. The plumb rule, level and square were next applied, and the Duke then tapped it with the gavel or mallet, and pronounced it well and truly laid, in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. The mallet used on this occasion has a history, as the inscription on the plate shows. It is as follows: "By order of the Worshipful Grand Master, his Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex and Worshipful Master of the Lodge of Antiquity, and with the concurrence of the brethren of the Lodge, this plate has been engraved and affixed to this mallet, A.L. 5831, A.D. 1827, to commemorate that this being the same mallet with which his Majesty King Charles the Second levelled the foundation stone of St. Paul's Cathedral, A.L. 5679, A.D. 1675, was presented to the old Lodge of St. Paul, now the Lodge of Antiquity, acting by immemorial constitution, by Bro. Sir Christopher Wren, W.D.G.M., Worshipful Master of this Lodge, and architect of that edifice." Bro. F. G. Hodson, P.P.G. Chaplain, said he had been requested to address a few words to them in connection with the ceremony they had just witnessed. When engaged in a work like that they were but performing the natural duties of their Order. They were Masons. In Masonry and all akin to it some of their deepest sympathies were enlisted, especially in such Masonry as that which, when completed, they had reason to believe would add to the glory of God and the good of their fellowmen in that city. It was the pride of true Masonry to lend both its sanction and its help to all works which were consecrated to the honour of the great Architect of the Universe, and the eternal welfare of their brethren in the world. He reminded them of what was done at the last general meeting of the Grand Lodge of England to commemorate the safe return of the Grand Master, the Prince of Wales, and said that, being influenced by a similar spirit, their Provincial Grand Lodge felt itself at home in the good work in which it was engaged. Doubtless that addition to St. Mary's Church was a good work, for the church was at present inadequate to the wants of the increasing population, and there could not be so many worshippers as would otherwise avail themselves of the privileges offered. The remembrance of the glories and fair proportions of Solomon's magnificent temple came to the mind of the Mason on such occasions as that and stirred within him a desire to make God's house more beautiful and majestic than was His own house then. Many of the noble sentiments of their Craft were intimately connected with that grand old temple at Jerusalem. God grant that they might so influence their minds as to cause them to freely open their purses and freely lend their aid to all kindred institutions. In reply, his Grace, the P.G.M., said he had been very much favoured in being requested to lay the stone, and he hoped that success might attend their efforts in getting funds to complete the building. The brethren had already done something towards reducing the deficit, and in any case he hoped the services would still be continued for the benefit of their fellowmen and to the Glory of God. His Grace then scattered wheat upon the stone as an emblem of the blessing they desired to be poured upon them by Him whom they honoured, and the Masonic part of the ceremony being concluded, the public were invited by Canon Argles to contribute to the building fund. The stone laid was inscribed as follows:—"Dei gloria. This corner stone of the north aisle as an addition to the Church of Saint Mary, Peterborough, was laid on the 1st of June, 1876, by his Grace the Duke of Manchester, P.G.M., and the officers and brethren of Norths and Hunts." The new aisle, we may add, will be 14 ft. 9 in. wide, and 62 ft. long, and will be seated with chairs so as to accommodate 208 persons. The north wall will be removed and in the place of that will be an arcade like that on the south side, while the windows will be utilized for lighting the new aisle, and it will thus accord more closely with the other part of the church, which has but little claim to notice architecturally. It is also intended at the same time to construct a tower, which will be carried up to the new roof and covered, so that a spire can be added hereafter. The total cost of the work is upwards of £1,000, of which £900 has yet to be obtained. Mr. H. M. Townshend is the architect, and Mr. J. Thompson the builder.

After the ceremony of laying the stone the brethren re-formed in procession and walked to the Great Northern Hotel, where the banquet had been prepared in a tastefully decorated marquee. The canvas was lined with red, white and blue, and green bunting, and shields bearing Masonic emblems were affixed to the poles. There were three or four gasaliers in case artificial light was needed, and the general effect was heightened by large mirrors at each end of the marquee. The chair was taken by the P.G.M., and on the right of his Grace sat the D.P.G.M., Bro. Butler Wilkins; on his left Bro. Kelly P.P.G.M. of Leicestershire, with the Provincial Officers on either side. About 200 sat down to partake of the repast, which was served in Bro. Moore's usual very excellent manner and gave the greatest satisfaction. After grace, which was said by the Provincial Grand Chaplain, the good things were discussed for some time, Bro. Marson taking the office of toast master, which he discharged most efficiently. In giving "The Queen and the Craft" his Grace said he was sure he could not say anything in an assembly of loyal Englishmen much less in an assembly of loyal Masons to induce them to receive cordially the health of the Queen. (Applause.) Under her reign the country had flourished, the empire had increased both in extent and in wealth, in power and in prosperity. They all hoped as Masons and as loyal subjects that her reign might long continue, and that they might long drink the toast of "The Queen and Craft." The toast was duly honoured, a private band playing the National Anthem. The Duke next gave the health of "H.R.H., the Prince of Wales, K.G., the M.W. Grand Master of England," and said he had been told by those who had accompanied his Royal Highness on his Indian tour that nothing could have been happier than the way in which he received persons of all races and ranks. (Hear, hear.) He made a most favourable impression upon all, and his friends especially were delighted with the tact, the discretion, and the good taste which he showed at all times. As a Mason they knew his merits, and as his (the Duke's) time was short he would say no more, but ask them to drink cordially the health of their Grand Master, the Prince of Wales. (Cheers.) As the P.G.M. had to leave, in order to attend the State Ball at Buckingham Palace that evening, the chair was afterwards taken by the D.P.G.M., Bro Butler Wilkins, who gave the M.W.G.M., Earl Carnarvon, and M.W.D.G.M., Lord Skelmersdale, and Officers of the Grand Lodge, and then called on Bro. Waller W.M. 442 to propose the health of the P.G.M., his Grace the Duke of Manchester. That was done in suitable terms, Bro. Waller saying that the popularity of their P.G.M. was proved by the many public demands made upon him. Bro. Kelly, P.P.G.M. (Leicestershire), next gave the health of the P.D.G.M., Bro. Butler Wilkins. Bro. Kelly remarked that however generous the Grand Master might be, upon his deputy must fall the burden and heat of the day in carrying out the duties. He was glad to know that Bro. Innes had such a successor. But as "good wine needed no bush" a good toast required no eulogium. (Applause.) D.P.G.M., Butler Wilkins, replied very ably. He took the opportunity of thanking the different Lodges and Chapters in the Province for the kind reception they had given him whenever he had had the honour of paying them a visit, and he thought that had not the P.G.M. been compelled to leave he would have been gratified to know that throughout the Province over which he presided all the Lodges were in working order. Differences of opinion would arise in all communities, but he was happy to say that in that Province they were so slight as not in any way to interfere with the carrying out of those Masonic principles which all should observe, and which tended to unite them more closely in the cause of brotherly love, relief, and truth. In meeting his brethren at the close of the first year of office, he felt himself in a position somewhat similar to that of a member of Parliament before his constituents, sensible of many shortcomings; but when he saw so many present, to welcome the R.W.P.G.M., and remembered that many had entered the higher degree of Royal Arch with satisfaction to themselves,—when he called to mind the energy and zeal displayed in working the different Lodges which so many had joined, while others were seeking admission into their Craft,—he could not help feeling that Masonry was steadily and surely progressing. (Applause.) It was progressing, he was happy to say, in the right direction. He made the remark last year on a similar occasion, that there should be no standing still, but that they should all do their best to support those institutions from which they derived benefit. That had borne fruit, for they had seen that day, in the person of the present Senior Warden (Bro. R. H. Griffin), a well known truth amply illustrated, that in every age men would always rise to fill the offices as occasion required. The D.P.G.M. then spoke of what the Province had done (through Bro. Griffin) for the Masonic institutions, remarking that though it numbered only eight Lodges, it stood in the front rank, and was, he might say, A 1 in the amount of its subscriptions. He was sure that the honour conferred on Bro. Griffin would be endorsed, and that it would stimulate other brethren in after years to follow so good an example. The D.P.G.M. spoke amusingly of the Provincial Grand coach and its double team of eight having gone so smoothly that all he should have to do would be to try and remove the difficulties if the road became rough and rugged, and keep the necessary parts well oiled; and he closed with expressing thanks to the P.G.S. and the brethren of St. Peter's. The toast of "The Royal Masonic Benevolent Institutions" gave opportunities for Bros. Binckes and Terry to advocate the claims represented, and several other toasts—"The Visiting Brethren," "Past Provincial Grand Officers," "Provincial Grand Treasurer and Secretary," "Provincial Grand Wardens and Masters and W.M.'s of Lodges," &c.,—were afterwards given, with "The Tyler's Toast" as the finish. The Provincial Grand Lodge will be held next year at Thrapston.

Digitized by Google

THE DRAMA.

L'Etrangere at the Haymarket—Mrs. John Wood at the St. James's—Mr. Buckstone's Benefit at Drury Lane.

THE Whitsuntide novelties at the Theatres have been this year neither numerous nor very important. L'Etrangere at the HAYMARKET has disappointed some expectations by achieving only a moderate success. It is to be regretted that M. Dumas fils shows in his dramatic productions so constant a partiality for the infraction of the seventh commandment, more particularly as in the English adaptations of them the real motif of the plot has thus frequently to be obscured or removed in order to make them palatable to our insular tastes. Setting aside, however, the question of morality, the play is a bad one. The characters are extravagantly drawn, the incidents inartistically conceived. The heroine herself is an impossibility, and there is not a character in the play calculated to awaken genuine sympathy. The piece, however, is well acted, and mounted with excellent taste. No one but a woman of genius could have made much of so unsatisfactory a part as L'Etrangere, and Miss Helen Barry may therefore be pardoned for her ill success in it. The best acted part is unquestionably that of the Duke, by Mr. Hermann Vezin. The character is that of a man who, though married to a beautiful and accomplished woman, bestows all his attention on another, and thinks only of his wife when he sees reason to suspect her fidelity. The Duchess is charmingly portrayed by Miss Henrietta Hodson, the part of her lover, Gérard, being enacted by Mr. Conway. The Yankee husband of L'Etrangere, played by Mr. Harcourt, completes the rôle of the principal characters. We regret we cannot predict for the piece a popular career.

At the ST. JAMES'S THEATRE we are glad to welcome the reappearance of Mrs. John Wood, an actress who is far too frequently absent from the English boards. Her rentrée was made in an old fashioned piece by the late Mr. Shirley Brooks, entitled The Creole, a melodrama in which Mr. Emery and Mrs. Keeley were very successful some thirty years ago at the Lyceum. Its revival should, and probably will be popular. The other piece performed is the musical farce of Nilsson or Nothing, formerly played under the title of Jenny Lind or Last, in which Mrs. John Wood gives some clever musical imitations.

The benefit performance to Mr. Buckstone on Thursday morning was a great success. The amount realised was about £1,200. The performance of the School for Scandal, with an exceptionally strong caste, combined with the well-earned popularity of the veteran comedian to draw an immense audience to the theatre, and amongst them might be recognised a large number of the members of the dramatic profession. At the conclusion of the play Mrs. Keeley recited an address, written for the occasion by Mr. H. J. Byron, to which Mr. Buckstone responded in characteristic terms.

Old Warrants, No. 3.

No. 306 (Ancients); 389, A.D. 1814 (at the Union); 270, A.D. 1832; and 223 from A.D. 1863. (Now held at Plymouth.)

ATHOLL, GRAND MASTER.

WM. DICKEY, D.G.M. JOS. BROWNE, S.G.W. GEO. BOWEN, J.G.W.

To all whom it may concern, Sir, the GRAND LODGE of the Most Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, according to the old Constitutions granted by his Royal Highness Prince Edwin of York, Anno Domini Nine Hundred Twenty and Six, and in the year of Masonry Four Thousand Nine Hundred Twenty and Six, in ample form assembled, viz., The Right Worshipful the Most Puissant Prince John, Duke, Marquis, and Earl of Athell, Marquis and Earl of Tullibardine, Earl of Strathtay and Strathardle, Viscount Balquidder, Glenalmond, and Glenlyon, Lord Murray, Belvony, and Gask, Heritable Constable of the Castle of Binclaven, Lord of Man and the Isles, and Earl Strange & Baron Murray of Stanley, in the county of Gloucester, &c., Grand Master of Masons; the Right Worshipful William Dickey, Esq., Deputy Grand Master; the Right Worshipful Joseph Browne, Esq., Senior Grand Warden; and the Right Worshipful George Bowen, Esq., Junior Grand Warden; (with the approbation and consent of the Warranted Lodges held within the cities and suburbs of London and Westminster) do hereby authorise and empower our trusty and well-beloved brethren, viz., the Worshipful Robert Field, one of our Master Masons, the Worshipful Paul Ford, his Senior Warden, and the Worshipful Andrew Mc' Lean, his Junior Warden, to form and hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons aforesaid, at the Hambro' Arms, St. Mawes (or elsewhere), in the county of Cornwall, upon the first and third Tuesday in every calendar month, on all seasonable times and lawful occasions; and in the said Lodge (when duly congregated) to admit and make Free Masons according to the most ancient and honourable custom of the Royal Craft in all ages and nations throughout the known world. And we do hereby further authorise and empower our said trusty and well-beloved brethren Robert Field, Paul Ford, and Andrew Mc' Lean, with the consent of the members of their Lodge, to nominate, chuse, and install their successors, to whom they shall deliver this Warrant, and invest them with powers and dignities, as Free Masons, &c. And such successors shall in like manner nominate, chuse, and install their successors, &c. &c. &c., such installation to be upon (or near) every St. John's Day, during the continuance of this Lodge for ever, providing the above-named brethren and all their successors always pay due respect to this Right Worshipful GRAND LODGE, otherwise this Warrant to be of no force nor virtue.

Given under our hands and the seal of our GRAND LODGE in London, this Seventh day of September, in the year of our Lord One thousand seven hundred ninety and seven, and in the year of Masonry Five thousand seven hundred ninety and seven.

ROBERT LESLIE, Grand Secretary.

NOTE.—This Warrant is registered in the Grand Lodge, Vol. II., Letter L.

The present title and number are "The Lodge of Charity, No. 223, Plymouth."

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

——10!——

SATURDAY, 10th JUNE.

186—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.
R. A. 1185—Lewis, King's Arms Hotel, Wood-green. (Consecration.)
1391—Commercial, Freemasons' Hall, Leicester.

MONDAY, 12th JUNE.

45—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem, St. John's-square, E.C., at 8. (Instruction.)
M.M. 175—Temple, Green Dragon, Stepney, E.

65—Royal Clarence, Freemasons' Hall, Bristol.
104—St. John's, Ashton House, Greek-street, Stockport.
501—Druids' Love and Liberality, Masonic Hall, Redruth.
650—Star in the East, Pier Hotel, Harwich.
685—Montague, Royal Lion, Lynn Regis.
1021—Hartington, Masonic Hall, Custom House Buildings, Hindport-road, Barrow-in-Furness.
1073—Greta, Court-buildings, Keswick, Cumberland.
1350—Fermor Hesketh, Masonic Temple, Hope-street, Liverpool.
1389—Baldwin, The Castle, Dalton-in-Furness.

TUESDAY, 13th JUNE.

Provincial Grand Lodge of Surrey, Greyhound Hotel, Croydon.
55—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
167—St. John's, Holly Bush Tavern, Hampstead.
860—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
1507—Metropolitan, 249 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)
1539—St. Martin's-le-Grand, Masons' Hall Tavern, Basinghall-street, E.C.
R.A.—Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michaels'-alley, Cornhill, at 6.30.

63—Social, Freemasons' Hall, Norwich.
903—Gosport, India Arms Hotel, High-street, Gosport.
1266—Gilbert Greenhall, Masonic Rooms, Sankey-street, Warrington.
1384—Equity, Walker's Commercial Hotel, Widnes.
1405—Ockenden, Talbot Hotel, Cuckfield, Sussex.
1465—Royal Naval College, Ship Hotel, Greenwich.
K. T. 109—Antient Star, York.

WEDNESDAY, 14th JUNE.

Committee, Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, Freemasons' Hall, at 3.
193—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7. (Instruction.)
1246—Finsbury Park, Finsbury Park Tav., Seven Sisters'-rd., at 8.0. (Instruction.)
1305—St. Marylebone, Kyrle Arms Tavern, St. John's Wood.
1524—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Albion-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)

109—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover. (Instruction.)
241—Fortitude, Athenæum, Louth-ter.
806—Benevolence, Private Room, Prince Town, Dartmoor, Devon.
853—Worthing of Friendship, Steyne Hotel, Worthing.
1040—Grey Friars, Masonic Hall, Reading.
1424—Brownrigg, Assembly Rooms, Old Brompton, Chatham.
1511—Alexandra, Masonic Hall, Hornsea, at 7.0. (Instruction.)
R. A. 1385—Clapton, White Hart Tavern, Clapton, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

THURSDAY, 15th JUNE.

3—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, London-st., Fitzroy-sq., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Lendenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
435—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 6. (Instruction.)
1260—Harvey, 102 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1339—Stockwell, Half Moon, Herne-hill.
1469—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

86—Howard, High-street, Arundel.
243—Concord, Militia Officers' Mess Rooms, Starkie-street, Preston.
623—John of Gaunt, Freemasons' Hall, Halford-street, Leicester.
1164—Abbey, Masonic Hall, Battle, Sussex.
1332—Unity, Masonic Hall, Crediton, Devon.
R. A. 536—Regularity, Crown Hotel, King-street, Penrith.

FRIDAY, 16th JUNE.

House Committee, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
933—Doric, Earl Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1278—Birkbeck Centre, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, 7.30. (Instruction.)

347—Noah's Ark, Wagon and Horses Hotel, Tipton.
618—Phœnix, Fox Hotel, Stowmarket.

SATURDAY, 17th JUNE.

186—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

SATURDAY.

149—Peace, Masonic Rooms, Meltham.

MONDAY.

264—Royal Brunswick, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.
857—St. John's, Masonic Temple, Halifax-road, Dewsbury.
1221—Defence, Masonic Hall, Carlton-hill, Leeds.

TUESDAY.

468—St. James's, Freemasons' Hall, St. John's-place, Halifax.
493—Wakefield, Masonic Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield.
951—Zetland, Royal Hotel, Cleckheaton.
1022—Airedale, Crescent Hotel, Ilkley.
1135—Baildon, Angel Inn, Baildon.
R. A. 204—Fidelity, Masonic Hall, Carlton-hill, Leeds.
R. A. 269—Judea, Masonic Club, Hanover-street, Keighley.

WEDNESDAY.

700—Friendship, Freemasons' Hall, Bellamy-street, Cleckheaton.
1018—Shakespeare, Freemasons' Hall, Salem-street, Bradford.

THURSDAY.

800—Harmony, Freemasons' Hall, Salem-street, Bradford.
1062—Excelsior, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.
R. A. 276—Perseverance, Masonic Hall, South-parade, Huddersfield.

FRIDAY.

1311—Zetland, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.
R. A. 631—Trent, Freemasons' Hall, Fitzwilliam-street, Huddersfield.
R. A. 857—Marquess of Ripon, Town Hall, Ripon.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

240—St. Hilda, Freemasons' Hall, Fowler-street, South Shields.
481—St. Peter, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
949—Williamson, Royal Hotel, Monkwearmouth.

TUESDAY.

80—St. John, Masonic Hall, Park-terrace, Sunderland.
784—Harbour of Refuge, Freemasons' Hall, Upper Church-street, West Hartlepool.

WEDNESDAY.

661—Fawcett, Masonic Hall, North-road, Seaham Harbour.
R.A. 21—De Swinburne, Freemasons' Hall, Grainger-street-west, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

THURSDAY.

851—St. Helen's, Masonic Hall, Regent's-square, Hartlepool.
940—Philanthropy, Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-road, Stockton-on-Tees.

FRIDAY.

841—De Loraine, Freemasons' Hall, Grainger-street-west, Newcastle-on-Tyne

IRELAND.

THURSDAY—129—Industry, Dundonan, Donegal.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

MONDAY—165—St. Stephen, St. James's Hall, Writer's-court.
TUESDAY—1—Mary's Chapel, Waterloo Hotel, Waterloo-place.
WEDNESDAY—2—Canongate, Kilwinning, St. John's Chapel, St. John's-street.
" R.A. 1—Edinburgh, Freemasons' Hall.
THURSDAY—48—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall.
" 126—Portobello, Royal Hotel, Bath-street.
" R. A. 152—Perseverance, Lodge Room, 88 Constitution-street.
FRIDAY—R. A. 65—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall.

GLASGOW AND THE WEST OF SCOTLAND.

During the Tourist Season, for the benefit of our travelling brethren, we purpose giving all the Masonic Meetings in the West.

MONDAY—102—St. Mark's, 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow.
" 204—St. Paul, Whip Inn, Ayr.
" 206—Garthland St. Winnoch, Eagle Inn, Loch Winnoch.
" 219—Star, 12 Trongate, Glasgow.
" 307—Union and Crown, Freemasons' Hall, Barrhead.
" 362—St. Clair, 25 Robertson-street, Glasgow.
" 641—Marie Stewart, Freemasons' Hall, Crosshill, Glasgow.
TUESDAY—177—St. James, Freemasons' Hall, Coatbridge.
" 179—St. Mungo, Lennox Hotel, Manchline.
" 330—St. Barnabas, Black Bull, Old Cumnock.
" 400—St. John Daniel, Freemasons' Hall, Motherwell.
" 413—Athol, 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow.
" 419—Neptune, 55 St. James's-street, Glasgow.
" 441—Glasgow, 24 Struthers-street, Glasgow.
" 462—Prince of Wales, Freemasons' Hall, High-street, Renfrew.
" R. A. 69—St. Andrew, 25 Robertson-street, Glasgow.
WEDNESDAY—178—Scotia, 12 Trongate, Glasgow.
" 313—St. George, 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow.
" 510—Maryhill, 167 Main-street, Maryhill, Glasgow.
" R. A. 113—Partick, School-room, Douglas, St. Partick.
THURSDAY—27—St. Mungo, 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow.
FRIDAY—12—Greenock Kilwinning, Town Hall, Greenock.
" 31—St. Mary Colinton, Scott Hall, Wishaw.
" 306—St. Thomas, 90 Wellgate-street, Larkhall.
" 321—St. Andrew, Public Hall, Alexandria.
" 471—St. John, Stone Inn, Shotts.
SATURDAY—Red Cross Conclave, Freemasons' Hall, Holytown.
" 313—Thorntree, Schoolroom, Thornliebank.
" 524—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall, East Kilbride.
" 544—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall, Bank-street, Coatbridge.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

A full report of the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons will be given next week.

Zetland Lodge, No. 655, Sydney, New South Wales.—The regular monthly meeting of this Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall. The W.M., Bro. T. W. Craven, occupied the chair, supported by the Wardens, Officers, Past Masters, and a numerous assemblage of the brethren, including several visitors, and a brother distinguished in the Craft from Victoria. The W.M. said he had a pleasing duty to perform, and that was to give a hearty welcome to Bro. J. Leveson P.M. on his return from England and America. This met with hearty expression from all present, and Bro. Leveson, in replying, said it was indeed a matter of grateful surprise to receive such an ovation of fraternal feeling towards him. He thanked the W.M. for his kind and feeling speech; he then gave an account of his visits to various Lodges and Chapters. He had seen nobler halls, splendid banquets, with costly regalia, but he had never seen more genuine brotherly feeling, and business better conducted than in this Lodge. He was pleased to hear from the Master that the numbers had so greatly increased since his departure, 16 months ago. He hoped that prosperity might continue. Since the installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales as M.W.G.M. the number of applications were so great that the initiation fee had in almost every Lodge been increased to £10 10s, and still the numbers were augmenting and new Lodges were being formed. He again thanked them for their courteous expression of regard. After the usual routine business the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a very excellent banquet, where the W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Some good speeches were made, and capital harmony prevailed.

St. John's Lodge, No. 28, Kilwinning.—This Lodge held its regular meeting in their hall, Black Bull Inn, 27th May, Bros. D. Cameron R.W.M. presiding, John S. Allan D.M. Applications were read from the following gentlemen for admittance into our Order, viz., John Buchanan, traveller, and Alex. Russell, engine keeper. There being no objection, they were duly initiated by the R.W.M.

Digitized by Google

The Lodge was then raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, when Bro. Arch. Neven received that degree at the hands of Bro. D. Gilchrist R.W.M. 465. A deputation from Mayhill Lodge, 510, headed by Bro. John McKay R.W.M., was then received, after which the Lodge was closed by the R.W.M., all being satisfied.

St. Andrew's Royal Arch, No. 69.—An emergency meeting was held in St. Clair's Hall, Glasgow, on 1st June, Comp. T. M. Campbell Z. presiding, assisted by Comps. J. Duthie Z. of 67 as H., J. O. Park P.Z. of 122 as J., and G. W. Wheeler Z. of 73 acting as 1st Soj. Three brethren were received as Mark Masters, then advanced to the degree of Excellent Master, and afterwards exalted into the Royal Arch degree, all the work being rendered in first class style.

Caledonian of Unity Chapter, No. 73.—This Chapter held its first regular meeting in their new hall, 212 Buchanan-street, on Wednesday, the 31st ult., G. W. Wheeler Z. presiding, assisted by G. McDonald P.Z. as H. and J. Kinnard J., J. Balfour Scribe E. acting as 1st Sojourner, J. Bannerman Treasurer who acted as S.W., when the Mark Lodge was opened, and Bros. J. Crawford of Lodge 238, Bryden of 557 and Montrie of 73 were advanced to that degree, and afterwards exalted to that of Most Excellent Masters, and then to the Royal Arch.

An emergency meeting was also held on Monday, the 5th inst., when Bro. L. L. Dutch of Dublin, but a member of Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73, was duly exalted to the Royal Arch degree. G. W. Wheeler Z., J. O. Park P.Z. 122 acting as H. and G. McDonald P.Z. 73 as J., J. Balfour S.E., Arthur S.N., J. Balfour 1st S., J. Bannerman 2nd S., W. E. Dobson 3rd S., S. Yeuil Captain of the Guard. Captain Stark 69 was present as a visitor, and expressed himself pleased with the working of the Chapter.

Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, 6th June, at Glasgow. G. McDonald W.M. in the chair. There was a good attendance of members and several visitors; the work consisted of the initiation of Dr. Robt. Scanler Simpson, which was ably performed by the R.W.M.

St. Mungo Encampment of K.T.—This Encampment held their regular monthly meeting on 7th June, in St. Mark's Hall. In the absence of the E.C. Sir Knight Bell, who has gone to represent this body and the Red Cross of Constantine at Philadelphia, the chair was taken by Sir Knight H. J. Shields 33°, P.C. of Manhattan Commandery, G. W. Wheeler Prelate, and J. McLeish Warder. There were three candidates present, W. Harding of Chapter 73, W. Hoy and John de Neif, who were duly dubbed and created Knights of the Temple by Sir Knight H. J. Shields in a careful manner, D. Baker acting 1st Aide-de-Camp, R. Campbell 2nd Aide-de-Camp.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—On Wednesday, the 7th instant, at Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street. Present—Bros. Pare W.M., Rudderforth S.W., Pelton J.W., J. K. Pitt Sec., Hollands S.D., Croaker J.D., Gomm Steward, Triggs I.G., Christopher Tyler. Business—After preliminaries, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Bone candidate. The first three sections of lecture were worked by Bros. Walker, Rudderforth and Ellis respectively, assisted by the brethren. A vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Pare for the manner in which he had presided. Bro. Rudderforth was appointed W.M. for next meeting. The Lodge was then closed.

Union Lodge, No. 332.—This Lodge met at St. Mark's Hall, Buchanan-street, on Monday, 5th June, Bros. D. McKirdy R.W.M., J. B. McNair I.P.M., R. Mitchell D.M., John McInnis S.W., G. W. Wheeler acting J.W., J. H. Gill Secretary. Amongst the visitors were Captain Brown, of St. David's, Edinburgh, J. Willis, of 88 (E.C.), J. Johnson, of Connecticut, U.S., and two Spanish brothers hailing from Lodge Parfait Union, Marseilles, also Bro. Morrison I.P.M. of the Strathavon 215, who requested the Lodge to confer the second degree on a brother of their Lodge resident in Glasgow, which was kindly granted, and the ceremony performed by the R.W.M., at the conclusion of which he announced that as this was their first meeting in the new hall they would go for a short time on refreshment. After the usual toasts, Bro. J. B. McNair responded for the Provincial Lodge of Glasgow, Bro. J. L. Parvis replied in Spanish for himself and friend to the toast of the Grand Orient of France, which Bro. Bland subsequently translated for the benefit of those unacquainted with that language. He expressed the pleasure he felt at this his first visit to a Lodge working in the English language, and the kind manner in which they had been received. The American Grand Lodges were afterwards toasted in honour of Bro. Johnson, also the English, but Bro. Willis had unfortunately left. Bros. McInnis, McEwan, Harding, Hoye and others by their vocal abilities contributed to the pleasure of the evening.

Caledonian Railway Lodge, No. 354.—At an emergency meeting held at No. 30 Hope-street, Glasgow, in the unavoidable absence of Bro. Forgerson R.W.M., the Lodge was opened by Bro. G. W. Wheeler, Bros. J. Harley S.W., C. McKenzie J.W., R. A. McLean Secretary, and J. Harley J.D. A petition was read from a Captain, and as he was leaving the port it was voted a case of emergency. Bro. J. M. Oliver S.W. of 360 then initiated the candidate in a very careful manner, after which he received the degrees of Fellow Craft and Master Mason at the hands of Bro. G. W. Wheeler. The Lodge passed a vote of thanks to both brethren for the way in which they had conducted the ceremonies.

Lodge of Hope, No. 433.—On Monday, 5th June, the brethren of the above Lodge assembled at the Swan Inn, Brightlingsea, to celebrate the Festival of St. John the Baptist, when a large number of members and some Colchester brethren were present. The visitors were—Bros. Alfred Welch P.G.J.W. W.M. 51, A. R. Clench P.G.S.W. W.M. 697, F. A. Cole P.M. 51 P.P.G.R., T. Rix P.M. 697 P.P.G.S.B., E. H. Crate P.P.G.C. and P.M. 697. The following members of the Lodge were present:—Bros. D. Griggs W.M., J. Closon S.W., W. Clarry J.W., Rev. A. Pertwee Chaplain, A. E. Rogers S.D., W. Bishop J.D., H. Yorke I.G., T. Wilson Tyler, W. S. Ling, J. E. Wiseman P.M. and Secretary, J. Richardson, C. Blyth, Rev. J. P. Britton, J. Howling, J. Fance, J. Bowdell, R. Atthill, J. Skinner, R. French and J. Gess. The Lodge was opened by the W.M. (Bro. D. Griggs), at 2.30, and a candidate having been initiated by Bro. C. Blyth P.M., the W.M. announced that the installation of the W.M. elect and the appointment of officers for the ensuing year would be proceeded with. He called upon Bro. J. E. Wiseman P.P.G.A.D.C. and P.M. to perform the ceremony. Bro. W. Clarry P.M. W.M. elect, was then presented by Bro. D. Griggs I.P.M., and he was duly installed W.M. in a most impressive manner by the Installing Master. The W.M. invested his officers as follows:—Bros. D. Griggs I.P.M., A. E. Rogers P.G.O. S.W., Rev. A. Pertwee P.G.C. J.W., Rev. J. P. Britton Chaplin, J. E. Wiseman Secretary, C. Blyth P.M. S.D., J. Gess J.D., W. Bishop D.C., J. Bowdell I.G., and T. Wilson Tyler. Bro. Clarry was re-elected Treasurer for the ensuing year. The business being completed, the Lodge was closed, according to ancient usage, at 5 p.m. The brethren, after a short interval, sat down to the usual substantial tea, provided by the hostess, Mrs. Harmer, and after tea the Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. The W.M., Bro. W. Clarry, presided, and he was ably supported by the P.M.'s and visitors. A beautiful and valuable timepiece was presented by the W.M., on behalf of the Lodge, to Bro. J. E. Wiseman, with a suitable address, in which he spoke highly of the valuable services rendered by Bro. Wiseman, not only as Secretary of the Lodge, but also in the working of the Lodge at all times, when called upon. The timepiece was inscribed as follows:—

"Presented to Bro. J. E. Wiseman, by the brethren of the Lodge of Hope, No. 433, Brightlingsea, as a token of their esteem and appreciation of his long and diligent services as Secretary to the Lodge."

Bro. Wiseman, who was visibly moved by this unexpected recognition of his services, returned thanks in a few suitable words. The retiring W.M., Bro. D. Griggs, spoke highly of his officers, and thanked the brethren for the able manner in which he had been supported. He complimented the W.M. on the honourable position he had attained, and on his staff of officers for the year. The W.M., in excellent terms, returned thanks, and stated that it was his intention to maintain the honour of the Lodge, and hoped on the expiration of his term to leave it as unblemished as he had received it. He hoped that the brethren would rally round him as they had done round his retiring brother. The evening was spent in a most enjoyable manner, some capital songs being given between the toasts. The Prov. G.O., Bro. A. E. Rogers, presided at the harmonium.

Clyde Lodge, No. 508, Glasgow.—The regular meeting of this Lodge took place on Friday, 2nd June. In the absence of the R.W.M., Bro. J. Gordon P.M. and D.M. presided, he was ably assisted by Bros. J. McGunnis the S.M., J. Bisland S.W., G. W. Wheeler acting J.W., W. Anderson Treas., J. Bannerman acting S.D., Bro. G. McDonald R.W.M. of 73 asked permission of the Lodge to have two candidates initiated along with their one, which was readily granted, when Bro. Gordon initiated the three gentlemen in good style. The Lodge was then raised to the Fellow Craft degree, and two brethren were advanced thereto. The Lodge was afterwards raised to the 3rd degree, and Bro. Gordon raised Bros. Gonzolgo and Fraser for his own Lodge and Bro. L. L. Dutch for the Thistle and and Rose Lodge. Bro. J. Bannerman, D.M. of the Thistle and Rose Lodge, thanked the Lodge and the acting Master for their kindness. Bro. Gordon said it was a pleasure to confer a favour on a Sister Lodge; the Clyde had often asked the same favour of others, and was never better pleased than when she could return such kindness.

Dramatic Lodge, No. 571.—Held its regular meeting on Wednesday, 7th June, at 3 p.m., Bro. Dobson R.W.M. presiding, assisted by Bros. J. Huston D.M., H. J. Jackman S.W., Wm. Sloveright J.W., L. Mitchell J.D. There were three candidates for the Fellow Craft degree, which was admirably wrought by Bro. T. M. Oliver, S.W. of No. 860, who was made an honorary member of the Dramatic Lodge at the last meeting. The Lodge having been raised, the R.W.M. asked Bro. Forgerson, I.P.M. of St. John's, Dalmuir, to work the 3rd degree, which he did in the style locally known as the Vale of Leven working, Bro. Wheeler acting as his Senior Deacon, and Bro. Walter was duly raised. At the conclusion, the S.W. moved the thanks of the Lodge to Bro. Oliver for working the 2nd degree, and Bro. Forgerson the 3rd, expressing his perfect satisfaction at the way in which they were wrought. The R.W.M. in seconding, said he believed it to be more in accordance with the ancient landmarks, and certainly was more solemn and sublime. He also wished to return his thanks to the numerous visitors who had honoured them with their company, and especially to the three brethren from Pollockshaws. The Lodge was then duly closed at 6 p.m.

Lodge of Joppa, No. 188.—An emergency meeting was held on Thursday, 8th instant, in lieu of the regular meeting. It was numerously attended by several Grand Officers and brethren. Brother L. Alexander P.M. occupied the chair, L. Lazarus as S.W., Miller J.W., L. M. Auerbaan Treasurer, E. P. Albert G.P. Sec., M. Spiegel S.D., H. Hymans I.G., H. P. Isaac and Baker Stewards,

Digitized by Google

P. E. Van Noorden Organist. P.M.'s Bros. O. Roberts, H. M. Levy, Israel Abrahams, L. Alexander, and S. Hickman, who was present for the first time since his severe accident, and it is almost unnecessary to say every brother was pleased to see him. The Lodge was opened, and Bros. Stransky, Rohman, Bromfield and Rasmus were passed to the 2nd degree by Bro. L. Alexander P.M. The W.M., who had now arrived, raised Bro. Riebold; and Bro. Staley 185, by the courtesy of the W.M., was also raised to the 3rd degree. Bro. A. Auerbaun, late 188, was proposed as a joining member. The resignations of three brethren were accepted. The Lodge was then closed until October. The brethren afterwards sat down to a sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. W. G. Jennings and superintended by Bro. Keeping. Bro. A. G. Dobson proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. That of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M. was received with great enthusiasm. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Pro G.M. the R.W. the Earl of Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers. Some had honoured them with their presence that evening, and he would ask Bro. S. Foxall A.G.P. to respond. Bro. Foxall said, on behalf of the Grand Officers he begged to return his sincere thanks. Although he occupied the lowest office in Grand Lodge, he felt it a great honour to being selected to be one of that body. He thanked them for the kind reception he had received that evening. In proposing the toast of the Benevolent Fund, the W.M. said he was proud to say the Fund now reached the sum of £1,200; there had been no applications lately for its benefits. Bro. Hickman had given the sum of 21s. Bro. L. Alexander P.M. returned thanks for the toast. Bro. Hickman I.P.M. then rose amidst loud cheers and said, You will all, I am sure, be glad to hear that I am enabled again to resume the gavel. I have been precluded from attending here by my unfortunate accident, but I now have much pleasure in proposing the toast of the W.M. Although I have not been present to witness the manner he has performed his duties, from what I have seen, and your expressions, he must have performed them to your satisfaction. The W.M. suitably replied. He then proposed the toast of the Visitors, whose names he mentioned seriatim; he felt proud to see so many esteemed brethren, particularly the Grand Officers, and he would ask Bro. Hyde Pullen P.G.S.B. to respond. Bro. Pullen was pleased to return thanks for the Visitors. He could hardly express his feeling of pleasure in seeing the united feeling of the brethren. He hoped again to visit them; he alluded to the Benevolent Fund, which was indeed a credit to them, and he hoped it might be long before they had an application. While embodying the word unity, the Lodge would be sure to prosper. (Cheers.) The W.M. then proposed the toast of the P.M.'s, whom he stated were always ready to render any service, as all had seen that evening. He was gratified to see one Past Master among them who had been unable to be present at the last few meetings, and he hoped he would, on the next occasion, be able to be among them with renewed health and vigour. (Cheers.) Bro. Hickman I.P.M. returned thanks. I owe you my sincere thanks, not only for the enthusiastic reception I have met with, but also—there is a silver lining to every cloud—to say my expressions of thankfulness come from my heart, and if the Great Architect restores me to health, my services will always be at your command. The toasts of the Wardens, Officers, Treasurer and Secretary, and the Tyler, were then given and responded to. The W.M. provided an excellent musical melange, under the direction of Bro. P. E. Van Noorden Organist. The vocalists comprised Miss Alma York, Mr. Preston, Miss Doria. Bros. Watts S.D. 1381, and Jarvis No. 14 contributed to the harmony, and received deserved applause. The visitors were Bros. Hyde Pullen P.G.S.B., T. Wells S.D. 1381, Jarvis, No. 14, J. Austin P.M. 933, Solomons 194, J. H. Ross P.M. 185, Mollish 55, W. B. Woodman W.M. 1551, Ball 15, Snelgrove, S. Foxall A.G.P., H. G. Buss P.G.T. Middlesex, A. Auerbaun late 188, L. Raphael, A. W. Steed W.M. 1297, H. Lewis 807, Staley 185, Sonneal P.M. 860, J. B. Fleschor 180, Baker 180, Williams 933, &c.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules, Leadenhall-street, on Thursday evening last, 8th June, at 7.30. Present—Bros. Ellis W.M., Hocking S.W., Hill J.W., Grammer Sec., Atkins P.M. Treasurer, Webb Preceptor pro tem, Blackhall S.D., Rudderforth J.D., Hogarth I.G., and numerous other brethren. The ceremony of the 2nd degree was rehearsed, Bro. Maidwell acting as candidate. The 1st section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Horsley, the 2nd by Bro. Webb, and the 3rd, 4th and 5th by Bro. Horsley, assisted by the brethren. All Masonic business being ended the Lodge was closed in due form.

Salisbury Lodge, No. 435.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Thursday, the 8th June, at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. Present—Bros. J. H. Watts W.M., Allcott S.W., Holden J.W., T. Coll Secretary, T. O. Davis S.D., Glass J.D., Alf. Brown I.G. P.M.'s Bros. Mander Preceptor, Bentley, Farwig, Belfrage, Neighbour, S. Lloyd, T. Lloyd, Harvey, Dutton, Stewart, Blundell, Parsons and Setter. Business—The Lodge was opened, and the minutes read and confirmed. The ceremony of passing was then rehearsed, Bro. Belfrage being the candidate. The 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th sections were worked. Bro. Allcott S.W. was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The Secretary announced that the ceremony of installation would be rehearsed on the last Thursday in the month.

MASONIC INCIDENTS.

"From the MASONIC JEWEL."

AT the feast given by the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts in December last, Rev. Bro. Young, the Grand Chaplain, related the following incident, and made the following excellent comments thereon:

The other evening, on a certain occasion, I alluded to the influence of Masonry during the rebellion. Since then I heard a story from one who was in the war, which beautifully illustrated the influence of Masonry in the direction of love and fraternity. In one of the battles in Virginia, General Wordsworth—I think that is the name—of Vermont, fell, and his body was within the enemy's lines. His friends wished to obtain it, and a Federal officer, who was a Mason, said to the Sentinel, who was also a Mason, "You go down to the shore of the stream, and if you see a man on the other side, make some signal to him of a Masonic character." He went down to the shore, and by and by he saw a person on the opposite side. He gave the signal, but no answer was returned. The next morning when he went down he repeated the practice with the same results; no answer was given. Finally the officer himself went down and made some signals, and he soon found them answered on the opposite side. In the course of the day communication was had, the body was given into the hands of his friends, and carried home to Vermont for interment. The rebel officer, in his communication with the American officer, said that the sentinel on the other side did not know what these signals meant.

Now, it is just that, brethren. The world laughs at our signs, and calls them nonsense. But their object is to touch the secret springs through which we are brought into close and intimate connection with others, and are enabled, as in the case illustrated, to close a bloody chasm, and bring enemies into the relation of friends.

And so in the secret character of our organization. Why, all the grand forces of nature are secret. God himself is a great secret, a great mystery; the eye does not look upon him, the ear does not hear him, the hand cannot touch him, and yet we believe in his boundless love, and wisdom, and power, and we worship that Great Unseen and Invisible One. Life is secret and invisible. The surgeon, the dissector, can cut the body and lay open its parts; but he cannot lay his knife upon the secret life and expose it to the eye. The air is invisible. We only feel it on our cheeks; we hear its music in the forests. Electricity is invisible. Gravitation is invisible. All the secret powers and forces that move the world and holds systems together are unseen and secret, eluding the eye and hand. So it is in this grand Institution of ours, which I believe we cannot too much praise, and too much love, brethren, nor too much honour in our own manly characters, in our own upright lives, and in our loving dispositions. It is that very characteristic of Masonry which gives it the power that is to-day, in a hundred thousand ways that we don't see, moving the world onward, and lifting it up nearer to the skies, and preaching that love and brotherly kindness which shall make the earth we live on like the heaven we aspire to.

On the same occasion Bro. Sawin, the S. G. Warden of Massachusetts, related the following incidents. Although tinged with party or sectional feeling, and somewhat overdrawn, we publish them:

At the Battle of Antietam, General Mansfield advanced with his column, and drove the rebels back over the knoll. Then they rallied and drove him back. The Vermont Brigade was then ordered to drive them back. They occupied one side of the knoll, and we the other. We were ordered to fall down, and there the rebel batteries played upon us for some time with shot and shell. On the summit of that knoll was a poor wounded rebel, who had fallen as his troops were retreating, and he lay so that it would be impossible for a man to reach him without being torn to atoms. His leg was broken. He called for help. It seemed almost certain death for any person to attempt to rescue him. After calling several times, he called the mystic words when one of the soldiers of a Vermont regiment stepped up, took the wounded comrade off, and both fell fainting in each other's arms.

Another instance: In the Seven Days' Fight it was my fortune to fall into the hands of Stonewall Jackson, at Savage Station. I was sent to Richmond and placed in Libby Prison. Our men were suffering terribly. We found men whose limbs had been amputated, and had gone without dressing for ten or fifteen days. They were dying as much for want of proper nourishment as for want of proper care. Strict orders had been given that no Union persons should be allowed to contribute anything to the hospitals, no matter what the circumstances might be. I was not a Mason at the time, but my steward was, and he said to me "I have a power about me which I think will supply this hospital with food. I shall try it, if I get put in Castle thunder." The result was that he soon had an under current working that supplied that hospital with delicacies and other things which every other hospital failed to receive. And that is what made me a Mason. I had thought, many times before, that it must be a good organization, but I was busy and refrained making application. But I said then, "if there is a power in Masonry that makes men brothers like this it is something worth having." That is one reason why I became a Mason; and I thank God I did.

"A suitable gift from a Master to his Lodge."

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 8s 6d EACH,

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUMES I. and II.

London:—W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Sent, Carriage Paid, to any address in the United Kingdom, on receipt of Cheque or P.O.O.

Cloth Cases for Binding can be had from the Offices, price 1s 6d each.

Digitized by Google

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief PARISIAN ESTABLISHMENTS, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

MASTER MASON'S JEWEL.

A JEWEL, which can be worn by any M.M. in England, Scotland, or Ireland, and in all parts of the World, has been designed and executed by Bros. BROOKE & MARCUS.

Silver, Hall Marked	Price	17s
Silver Gilt	,,	18s 6d
18 carat Gold	,,	70s

Sent, post free, in Morocco case, on receipt of Post Office Order.

Address:—18 FAUNCE STREET, KENNINGTON PARK, S.E.

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,

Bro. J. L. MATHEWS, P.M. 55, 1227, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Winchester-street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE,

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure

It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 6d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

NEW WORKS ON FREEMASONRY,

BY

Bro. CHALMERS I. PATON,

(Past Master No. 381, England).

FREEMASONRY: ITS SYMBOLISM, RELIGIOUS NATURE, AND LAW OF PERFECTION. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

FREEMASONRY AND ITS JURISPRUDENCE. 8vo, Cloth, Price 10s 6d.

THE ORIGIN OF FREEMASONRY: THE 1717 THEORY EXPLODED. Price 1s.

LONDON: REEVES & TURNER, 196 STRAND.
AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

MR. THOMAS C. MACROW,

252 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD,
LONDON, S.E.

(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)

BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let quickly and quietly (Town or Country). All parties wishing to sell, call or send full particulars. Registration fee. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 3. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

YOUNG'S Arnicated Corn and Bunion Plasters are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d and 1s per box. Any Chemist not having them in stock can procure them.

Observe the Trade Mark—H. Y.—without which none are genuine. Be sure and ask for Young's.

Demy 8vo, Price 7s 6d.

THE CHESS OPENINGS.
By ROBERT B. WORMALD.
LONDON: W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN, E.C.

ESTIMATES GIVEN FOR EVERY DESCRIPTION OF
PRINTING.

CONTRACTS ENTERED INTO FOR SUPPLYING ALL KINDS OF
STATIONERY.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE
FOR PUBLISHING.

PARTICULARS ON APPLICATION TO
W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN,
LONDON, E.C.
One Door from Aldersgate Street.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, hemorrhoids, &c. Tamar (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—2s 9d per box, post free 3d extra.—E. GRILLON, 34 Coleman-street, London; E.C.; and of all Chemists.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY.—A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a simple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.

Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Grove Terrace, Fulham London.

W. W. MORGAN,

LETTER-PRESS, COPPER-PLATE, LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTER, &c.

GENERAL BOOKBINDER AND STATIONER,

67 BARBICAN, LONDON, E.C.

(ONE DOOR FROM ALDERSGATE STREET.)

MASONIC LODGE SUMMONSES, MENU CARDS, &C. ARTISTICALLY EXECUTED.

SKETCHES OR DESIGNS FOR SPECIAL PURPOSES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION.

BOOKS, PERIODICALS, PAMPHLETS, PROSPECTUSES, CATALOGUES, POSTERS, BILLHEADS, SHOWCARDS, &C.

Every description of Printing (Plain or Ornamental) executed in First Class Style.

Digitized by Google

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.
SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

ESTABLISHED 1838.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,
MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,
AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING.
Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.
MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;
AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.
ESTIMATES GIVEN.

JOSEPH J. CANEY,

DIAMOND MERCHANT, AND MANUFACTURING JEWELLER AND WATCH MAKER,
44 CHEAPSIDE, LONDON.
MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND FURNITURE.
Specialité—First Class Jewels—Artistic—Massive—Best Quality—Moderate in Price.
CATALOGUES POST FREE.
A LARGE STOCK OF LOOSE BRILLIANTS FOR EXPENSIVE JEWELS.
Diamond Rings, Brooches, Studs, Earrings and Bracelets in Great Variety.

NEW MASONIC SONGS.

"THE PRINCE AND THE CRAFT," Written by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, 1385. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON.

"THE APRON BLUE." Written by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, 1385. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH (NETT), FREE BY POST.

London: W. W. MORGAN, Office of the "Freemason's Chronicle," 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

GLASGOW AND THE HIGHLANDS.

ROYAL ROUTE, viâ Crinan and Caledonian Canals by Royal Mail Steamer "IONA," from Glasgow Daily at 7 a.m., and from Greenock at 9 a.m., conveying passengers for the NORTH and WEST HIGHLANDS.—See bill, with map and tourist fares, free, at Messrs. CHATTO and WINDUS, Publishers, 74 Piccadilly, London, or by post from DAVID HUTCHESON and Co., 119 Hope Street, Glasgow.

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,
INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (REGISTD.)

"Bro. ADLARD'S far-famed JEWEL ATTACHER, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price is 6d., if with pockets for Jewels 6d each pocket extra; place it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and usefulness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Lodge Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,
Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8, No. 96 for JUNE, now ready. Sixpence. CHESS, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE DRAMA.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES.
Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE
(a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.
This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

"There should be a better return for the race of Deposition than a fluctuating rate of two or three per cent."—INVESTOR'S GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited), Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City; and 277 and 278 Regent-street, W. Established 1856, receives Deposits On Demand, 5 per cent. Subject to Notice, 6 per cent. Opera Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to examine this new and improved system, that ensures a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-discounted or re-hypothecated any of the securities. To BORROWERS.—It offers pre-eminent advantages for prompt advances on leases, reversions, policies, trade stocks, farm produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, sureties, or fees. JAMES PEYUS, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 277 and 278 Regent-street, W. Established 1869. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. TO INVESTORS.—Deposits received at liberal interest. The Directors by strict economy have hitherto paid every investor 10 and 12 per cent. per annum. Borrowers are offered unusual facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Parties, &c. New and Special Feature.—The Society will build Houses, etc., in any approved part of Great Britain, finding the whole of the building, at 6 per cent., repayable by instalments, the applicant merely finding the plan and paying or giving security for the first 3 years' interest. Prospectuses, balance-sheets, and press opinions

THE COMING FESTIVAL OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

IT will be seen from an advertisement in another part of our columns that the Anniversary Festival of the Boys' School will be held on Wednesday, the 28th inst., and the Alexandra Palace, as last year, will be the scene of the gathering. Lord Leigh, P.G.M. Warwickshire, will take the chair, and will be ably and enthusiastically supported by a Board of Stewards, having Sir H. Edwards, Bart., P.G.M. West Yorkshire, for its president, and numerically the strongest that has ever been formed on any occasion for either of our charitable institutions, there being just two hundred and fifty-six brethren from the metropolis and the provinces who have undertaken to act for the Boys. The examination and distribution of prizes will take place on the Monday previous, under the auspices of the Supreme Council 33° of England, and we doubt not the occasion will be one of which the Governing Body, the masters, and the boys themselves will have every reason to be proud. That the stewards will leave no stone unturned to swell the subscription list to an amount unprecedently large we are well assured, and a few reasons why these efforts should be successful may very properly be discussed on this occasion.

It cannot be too frequently or too emphatically urged upon the Craft generally that our Boys' School is, in one respect, on a worse footing than our other charitable institutions. It has little or no invested funds. What Stock it had was used for building purposes. Therefore, beyond the annual contributions of Grand Lodge, it has no permanent income whatever. It is absolutely dependent on the beneficence of the Craft for support. That support has been yielded with no ungrudging hand. Year after year the Festival has been productive of results grander and still more grand, until, last year, the aggregate of the stewards' collections represented an amount somewhat in excess of £13,000. Naturally we are hopeful of a success more brilliant on Wednesday week. More stewards, more money, is only a just concatenation. We might rest contented, indeed, with the degree of support hitherto accorded to this charity, provided the demand upon its resources were an unvarying quantity. But generous as have been the contributions of the brotherhood, they have only sufficed to meet the current expenses. If we are entitled to hope that a greater body of Stewards than ever will secure a greater subscription than ever, we may state beyond the possibility of a doubt, that the more pupils there are to educate and maintain, the greater the outlay. This year the number is in excess of every previous year. Consequently the expenditure has been beyond all precedent. Then, not only are we maintaining and educating more boys then we were, the number of candidates is regularly increasing, and, unfortunately, each election shows us that the number of applicants for admission to the benefits of this charity is out of all proportion to the number of vacancies. If we take the last three elections only, we find that in the spring of 1875 there were forty-eight candidates for eight vacancies, in the autumn of the same year there were fifty-eight for ten vacancies, and on the last occasion there were fifty-nine for sixteen. Thus the number of approved candidates for whom it was impossible to find room at these three elections was forty-two, forty-eight, and forty-three respectively. Hence, gathering up our reasons as we go along, we find that more money is needed, because, in the first place, more boys are being educated now than formerly; and, in the second place, because the number of considerably beyond the nun dated. Then, in order to k order that our boys may rec fit them to play their part in found necessary to extend t three R's of proverbial fame present generation of schoo merely reading, 'riting, and r should have a good sound bas the solid superstructure of has succeeded in the battle
Latin whatever, but it follo with this important dead lan degree beneficial. It may be he has never enjoyed, but th prove that he would not without the enjoyment. S at me, my boys. I neve am I, worth—well, not the saying is, but several pr twenty, fifty, or a hundred may be). I learnt no Lat precious hard too." This, w it furnishes no proof whate with the long purse would even better, had he receive English education. He would to appreciate and speak his o longer an isolated people.
peoples, and especially with French. Hordes of French of Englishmen visit France.
buy of their produce and n
Thus, a boy who starts in li
French language has, caeter him than the boy who has recognized as an indispens that every boy shall hav
French. The same may be and for similar reasons, a speak German has manife can do neither. Hence it well educated youth is exp of German, and the know from a literary, but from a as it would be cruel not to liberal education they wo misfortune not overtaken th
Body of the school has ve education, so as to meet
day. Hence, Latin is taug taught, and other branch that when the boys of the their first insight into th be reasonably well furnis honest livelihood. But t only be imparted at a larg raise the standard of trai
the greater the demands n
Here then is another reaso have said that more boys a and there are still more these we now add a third the duty of the Governi with the times, to give education than was thou

Digitized by Google

and this higher standard makes our school more costly. This, however, is by no means the limit of our tether. A system of education must be judged by its fruit. If our boys went forth into the world ill-fitted in respect of knowledge and moral character for the duties of their station, we should say at once to our readers, To give your money to our School is only waste, so far at least as the mental training of the pupils is concerned. It is a great misfortune there are so many orphans for us to look after, but as it is our duty to provide for them according to our ability, let us find them schooling elsewhere. We shall not then waste a great part of our annual income in the maintenance of a large establishment. We shall have no costly managerial expenditure, we shall have no costly educational staff, which is worse even than useless. But this is not the case. Our boys go forth into the world admirably well trained, both in knowledge and morals, for the positions they are likely to fill. The staff of masters, with Dr. Morris at its head, acquits itself ably of its most important and, at the same time, most onerous duties. In evidence of this, we have the reports of the examiners, who have spoken in the highest terms of the system of education and the fruit it bears, and, we think our readers will admit, they ought to know. They speak with an authority based on a long and vast experience, not only of our school, but of hundreds of schools throughout the kingdom. Many of the pupils have passed the local University examinations, and some have done so with "honours." This is proof that the training we give them is a sound one, or we should not have it in our power to record a fact so gratifying. Not only, then, do we educate our boys, but we do it well. We have a good soil to begin with. We work it admirably, and the tree of knowledge we have planted bears excellent fruit. Here, then, is a fourth reason why funds are always necessary. Let us recapitulate them. (1) We are educating more boys than formerly; (2) there are more boys requiring to be educated than can at present be provided for; (3) our standard of education is higher, and, therefore, more costly than it was; (4) our system is a most efficient one, our money is well spent.

Let us glance for one moment at another batch of reasons. We commenced by citing one to the effect that this school, unlike our other institutions, has no invested funds, and is absolutely dependent, therefore, for support on the beneficence of the Craft. This let us put down as No. 1 of the second category. Reason No. 2 is the following. For more than twelve months the management of the school has been the subject of most violent animadversion on the part of certain brethren in one of our most considerable provinces. A series of pamphlets, in which the conduct of the officials was seriously denounced, was published. We said at the time these appeared, the charges they contained were of a very grave character. We said also, that a very grave responsibility rested on those who published these charges. The conduct of the Secretary was impugned. The conduct of the House and Audit Committees was impugned. It is easier perhaps to enumerate who were not, than who were charged with a most terrible array of high crimes and misdemeanours. The pamphlets, one and all, denounced the conduct of the School authorities one and all in language truly formidable. It was a departure from the ordinary practice to make public such terrible charges, but we said nothing could justify such departure but the most momentous considerations—nothing short, in fact, of proof positive, that all the school authorities were worthless, and the whole managerial system utterly rotten. We are almost ashamed to quote Horace, but a well-known line of his is very pertinent to the case—

"Parturiunt montes, nascetur ridiculus mus."

The tremendous mountain in labour gave birth to the most absurdly ridiculous little mouse. Just a few trifling errors, easily capable of being rectified, were shown to have been made. These affected not the credit of the management in the slightest degree whatever. The money which it was supposed could not be properly accounted for was proved to have been expended in a legitimate manner for legitimate purposes. The office expenditure is just and necessary. This, indeed, is a head of expenditure which is usually in an inverse ratio to the strength of a school: the fewer the pupils, the greater the office expenditure per head. Doubtless, were the School doubled in point of numbers, the present amount would not be perceptibly increased. A very slight additional outlay would meet all requirements. Thus a most elaborate—we were almost on the point of writing, a most vicious—attack resulted in proving one thing, that the School was well and economically (we do not use the word in a cheese-paring sense) managed. We admit that frequent changes in the educational staff are always deplorable, but here it seems to have been a case of Hobson's choice: either the educational or the managerial staffs must have been changed, and the former was rightly sacrificed in preference to losing the tried and long experience of the latter. In short, the Special Committee appointed to inquire into the allegations which the pamphlets contained, emphatically ruled that the conduct of the management had been worthy of all praise, and would always continue to command, most certainly the respect, and most probably the implicit confidence of the Craft. But satisfactory as it was to be told this, the pamphlets had already borne fruit. The School suffered temporarily, and can hardly yet be said to have recovered wholly its former place in the general estimation. The idea that it was not being well managed once bruited about, brethren fought shy of contributing to its funds. True, in the very height of the conflict there came that grandest of all subscriptional (we hope the word is allowable) achievements since our charities were first originated, namely the collection, last July, of over thirteen thousand pounds. But the Craft hardly knew at that time more than that the Masters and the Secretary were at loggerheads. The first blow had been struck, but there had been no time to mark its effects. Other blows followed; in fact, the battle of the pamphlets was long and severe, and victory did not declare itself as emphatically and decisively as it has done on the side of the Management till the last General Court of Governors. Thus the School must have lost, temporarily, some ground, and the only just return the Craft can make for any momentary misgivings it, or a section of it, may have allowed itself to feel is, to subscribe more liberally than ever to the funds of this splendid and well-managed charity. This, then, is our second category of reasons why the efforts of this year's Board of Stewards should produce a more abundant yield. The first is that the School has no invested funds, and therefore no permanent income: the second that the recent onslaught on its management, though perfectly unjustifiable as it turns out, must have exercised an unfortunate influence on the minds of the Craft, and have prevented many from subscribing who would only have been too happy and willing to contribute. Let West Yorkshire in particular, who may be said in a measure to have endorsed the action of one of its most conspicuous officers, behave handsomely, after the manner of West Yorkshiremen. Its Grand Master is President of the Board of Stewards. It is clearly impossible he can retain any sore feeling on account of the evident mistake that was made by his subordinate next in rank to himself. Let the West Yorkshire brethren renew their youthful days. Let them indulge in a glorious bout at the good old-fashioned game of "follow my leader." It is very certain Sir Henry Edwards will lead them nowhere where they will have need to be ashamed of themselves. Let them follow him loyally into the very thick of that far nobler contest—who shall serve best the cause of the Orphan! In that case, the more tremendous their efforts, the more welcome will they be.

MASONIC PORTRAITS (No. 32).

"OLD MUG."

"I can profess, I never writ that piece
More innocent or empty of offence.
Some salt it had, but neither tooth nor gall,
Nor was there in it any circumstance
Which, in the setting down, I could suspect
Might be perverted by an enemy's tongue."

WHO is there in the ranks of the Craft who does not know "Old Mug?" If there be any brothers unfortunate enough to be without the honour of his acquaintance, we can say for their consolation that "Old Mug" might exclaim, in the language of Milton:—

"Not to know me argues yourselves unknown!"

He is one of the kindliest and best of men, the most pertinacious of beggars in the cause of Charity, and one of the most skilful of Masons. Thousands of the brethren have learned the precepts of the Craft from his lips, and the Lodge of Instruction in which he officiates so ably is always well filled with aspirants for office or for fame. We met "Old Mug" recently, at the house of a mutual friend, and in the course of conversation we endeavoured to draw out of him a sketch of his life and Masonic career. Guessing our purpose, he was reticent, short, sharp, and genially snappish. He did not wish to be sketched; he did not care for fame. He had no desire to tell the world the history of his life, nor had he any anxiety to publish a list of his titles and honours. He had dropped in, he added, to see his old friend "Z.," for various reasons; it was raining, and he felt tired and wanted a cup of tea, moreover, he wanted a guinea for the School, which he was sure Bro. "Z." would not refuse him. This was indeed a pretty combination of business and pleasure, and he desired peace to enjoy one and to transact the other. We might question him if we pleased, but he should perhaps decline to answer, although he felt assured we should not make any unfair use of any information he might drop. The "Portraits" were, he condescendingly added, very tolerable, and he had recognised many of them. But what did we want his phiz for? There were grandees enough, surely, who had not yet been sketched, men who had won high renown, and whose lives might be worth writing. We could sketch them if we pleased, but he desired to be left in obscurity, and, for the present, he desired to enjoy his tea; perhaps, under the influence of the cup that cheers but not inebriates, Bro. "Z." would hand over that guinea for the "Girls." Brother "Z.," whose mind was at that moment dwelling upon the events of his early life, did not feel the sting in the tail of this gentle remark, but we are nevertheless quite sure the guinea will be forthcoming, if it is really wanted. We do not like to be checkmated, or, as "Z." would say, we don't care to allow any one to "get the weather gage" of us, and so we tried our friend on a new tack. If he could live his life over again, would he care to be a Mason, or was he disposed to say of the Craft as Solomon said of the world—"Vanity of vanities, all is vanity?" Our question was a happy one, for it went home, and, as our transatlantic cousins say, "struck ile" at once. "Old Mug" declared that if he could live his life over again he would be twice—and, if that were possible, thrice a Mason. It was a grand system, which, if it were followed out by all who took upon themselves its obligations could not fail to do vast and lasting good to mankind at large. Masonry was based on the Bible, and, therefore, on truth, but the fraternity did not exclude any one not actually a believer in the religion of the Bible. The Jew, the Mohammedan, the Parsee, the Deist, were all welcome. All that was demanded of a novice was, that he should confess his belief in an Almighty maker of the Universe. "And yet," said we, "the fraternity has admitted 'X.,' who is said to be an Atheist?" "Old Mug's" tea was either very hot, or it was not sweetened to his liking, or a "crumb" had gone the wrong way, for he coughed a most solemn and portentous cough, frowned darkly, and looked as severe as he possibly could, and then remarked, with withering scorn, that there must have been some mistake about the initiation of "X." He either forgot, said "Old Mug," his precise views of theology when the momentous question was asked him, or the officers of the Lodge were deplorably lax in admitting him. Should he ever enter a Lodge while "Old Mug" was present, "Old Mug" would at once retire. He disliked Atheists; he did not believe there was an honest Atheist in existence. He could never hold out the right hand of fellowship to a man who denied or affected to deny the existence of the Almighty. But for all that, he was not bigoted. He was a Christian, and could regard as his brethren all who stood upon the common ground of Deism. But, said we, with perhaps a mischievous desire to hold up the "red rag" once more, "X." has never declared himself an Atheist, at least so we are informed. His enemies have said many evil things of him, which have little, or no foundation in fact, and perhaps, after all, the difference between him and us is merely based on the meaning of a word. What we call God, he may call Nature; he may fail to see, in the apparently endless chain of causation, a primary cause or beginning of all things, but he does not surely deny that adequate forces produced the Universe! "Old Mug" would not, however, rise to this delicate bait. He knew nothing, he declared, of those refinements of language, by the aid of which a so-called "advanced thinker" eliminated the Deity from the Universe. He only knew that Masonry was based on a belief in the existence of an All-wise and Omnipotent Being—a belief which was full of hope and consolation for those who sincerely embraced it. He knew also that those who denied the existence of this Being could not legally be members of the fraternity.

Digitized by Google

"Old Mug" having fairly opened the sluice gates of his active mind, was now willing to talk freely. He needed no spur, and we had only to listen and learn. He had, he declared, some claim to possess a little knowledge of the Order, for he was almost bred in the principles of Masonry. His father was an enthusiastic member of the Craft, and his house was a sort of Masonic rendezvous for men who were as "hobby horsically" inclined as himself. From these zealous Masons, "Old Mug," then a lad, caught the contagion of their enthusiasm, and determined to enter the Order as soon as he legally could. It was not, however, until he was twenty-eight years of age that he was initiated. He was made a Mason in the Lion and Lamb Lodge, in the year 1839, and was introduced by the celebrated Peter Thomson, P.S.G.D. He joined the Stability Lodge of Instruction the following night, and has been a regular attendant since. He was exalted in Jerusalem Chapter, in 1843, but subsequently resigned, and joined Union Waterloo, No. 13. In the year 1845 he became Master of his Lodge, which dates its existence from the year 1817. He was here an assiduous and constant attendant, and, upon the death of Peter Thomson, in 1851, was appointed Preceptor, and finally, in addition, Treasurer and Secretary. In 1857 he was Master designate of the Panmure Lodge; he had previously joined the Mount Zion Chapter (145) now 22, and is now P.Z. of that and the Union Waterloo. He is Scribe E. of St. James's Chapter, No. 2, and has had the honour of holding the office for fifteen years. He was appointed, by the Earl of Zetland, Grand Standard Bearer of Grand Chapter of England, in 1868, and he is the present Scribe E. of St. George's Chapter, No. 5. On the 9th October 1856 he was elected Collector to the Girls' School. He is honorary member of many Lodges and Chapters, and is Vice-Patron of each of the Charities. He can boast of the possession of many testimonials. Some years since, a piece of plate was presented to him, and seven out of the nine jewels he wears were gifts from Lodges and Chapters. The Stability Lodge of Instruction presented him with a silver snuff box, which contained three bank notes for a considerable amount. "Old Mug" is an able lecturer upon the principles of Masonry, and he has had the pleasure of teaching great numbers of the brethren, both privately and in Lodge, and many of his pupils have distinguished themselves.

These, then, are all the characteristics of "Old Mug" that we could glean during our brief interview. Like a veteran who has seen service in the field, he did not care to talk of himself. He could talk for ever of the beautiful principles of Masonry, and, no doubt, his sage counsels are duly appreciated. "Old Mug" arose to say adieu, but the "Portraits" appropriately reminded him that he had just been photographed by Bro. "H." He would send Bro. "Z." a copy, even if he did not contribute that guinea. Bro. "C.," who was with us, should also have a copy, and he would be happy to send us one. Here "C." interposed with that frankness which is so characteristic of him, and remarked that we were not a Mason, and that he had proclaimed the fact when he introduced us. "Old Mug's" countenance immediately fell; he looked blank for an instant, and an interjection escaped him, the tone of which could not possibly be given by any combination of letters in the alphabet. The word he uttered was merely "Oh!" but it meant volumes; we had evidently sunk below zero in his estimation. But the good man speedily rallied, and said—but we must give his words in full—"You shall have a Carte, brother —, Mr. —, if you will accept it, I will send you one. If you are not a Mason now, you will probably soon be one; at all events, you will not object to place in your album a copy of the phiz of 'Old Mug.'"

Bro. E. Danvers, No. 780, the well-known comedian of the Strand, the Duke's, and other theatres, announces a complimentary benefit, which will take place at the Olympic Theatre, on 1st July, when a morning performance will be given. Bro. Danvers, who we are pleased to say has recovered from his late accident, will be assisted by a host of talented artistes.

Digitized by Google

ZEAL WITHOUT DISCRETION.

EVERY one appreciates zeal. Provided the object a man is striving for is a legitimate one, the more zealously he prosecutes it, the more thoroughly does he command the respect and admiration of the world. It is admitted on all sides, however, that a zealous man should likewise be a discreet man. His zeal must not outrun his discretion. If it does, not only is he likely to fail in his purpose, but he is pretty sure, sooner or later, to provoke hostility. As in the case of two men rapidly traversing a crowded thoroughfare. One moves carefully, so as to avoid inconvenience to his fellow passengers. His civil "By your leave!" or "Permit me to pass, sir," acts like magic, and people step aside for him, immediately, and with pleasure. He is at the end of the street in no time, and has the satisfaction of knowing that he has annoyed or offended no one. But the other, equally solicitous to make rapid way, is not equally solicitous about the comfort of others. He pushes and drives past everybody, provoking angry comments at every step he takes. Often, too, a stalwart fellow, whom it were dangerous to molest, bars all further progress, and the uncivil man fails where the civil succeeded. So with two men pursuing some object. The zeal of one is, the zeal of the other is not, tempered with discretion. The former succeeds, the latter fails. Our advice then is, Be zealous, of course; but, above all things, discreetly zealous.

We are led to make these reflections by what happened at the recent meeting of Grand Lodge. Two worthy Past Grand Officers severally had in view the same laudable object, namely, to establish some enduring memorial of the Grand Master's visit to India. They differed widely, however, as to the character of this memorial. Bro. Havers favoured two subsidies of £1,000 each towards the restoration of St. Paul's and St. Alban's. The Rev. Bro. Simpson at first contemplated an aid to some Indian charity of £1,000; but finding this idea did not commend itself very generally to the members of Grand Lodge, he so far modified his proposition as to suggest a memorial, yet leaving the nature and extent of it for further consideration. We all know the result. Both were zealous advocates, but one was courteous, the other violent. One gained the sympathy of his opponents, the other lost the sympathy of his friends; one was anxious the vote of Grand Lodge should be unanimous, the other set all who differed with him at defiance. One courted, the other disdained the goodwill and co-operation of his fellow craftsmen. One was conciliatory, the other dictatorial. One conceived the idea that Grand Lodge might be led, the other that it might be bullied. Is it surprising which of these rival leaders prevailed? Is it matter for astonishment that the courteous Simpson proved victorious over the rude, intemperate Havers? By no means. Had the result been otherwise, then, indeed, should we have had excellent grounds for wonder. Had the cause he advocated been a thousand times more commendable, we should still have rejoiced over Bro. Havers's discomfiture. In a moment of causeless anger, he cast aside all respect for himself, and for the body of which he was a member. We are sorry he did so, but there are no extenuating circumstances that make us regret his overthrow.

We have made these remarks from a sense of duty. We have no desire to increase the feeling of mortification which Bro. Havers is no doubt experiencing. We should be ashamed indeed if we could allow ourselves to be actuated by any such malignant motive. It may seem senseless to say so, but probably the sincerest well-wishers of Bro. Havers are those who have no regret whatever for the check he has just encountered. Men do not rise to an eminent position in Freemasonry or any other society without they possess many admirable qualities both of heart and mind. What is commonly called "luck" may help a man. Fortune, in the sense of "worldly possessions," is no doubt a great assistance. But in Masonry, at all events, these recommendations alone will not establish a man firmly in the estimation of his fellows. Luck may or may not have favoured Bro. Havers. Wealth may or may not have been a help to him. But he could not have attained his present rank, or earned for himself so liberal a share of the esteem and respect of his fellow Craftmen, had he not shown he possessed some sterling points of character. We know he has a large heart, sound sense, and, ordinarily, a clear judgment. He sees at once what others are a long time seeing. He is prompt to act where others only think of deliberating. His judgment is rarely, if ever, at fault. But on this occasion his impetuosity overbore his reason. He would have denied to others what he claimed for himself—the right to have an opinion. He was first surprised, then angered, and then most signally defeated. Bro. Havers, however, if we judge him aright, is not the man to commit a wrong wittingly. He may easily convert defeat into a lasting triumph if only he will submit himself to the sway of reason. It will indeed be a great achievement for Bro. Havers, when once again he realises the distinction between the licence which brooks no opposition and the liberty which respects the free unbiassed judgment of all. Then truly, and in the sense we have just indicated, will he deserve the encomium passed upon Augustus.

"Ordinem
Rectum evaganti frenum licentiæ
Injecit."

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SURREY.

THE annual meeting was held on Tuesday, 13th June, at Croydon. Lieut. General Browrigg C.B., Grand Master for the Province, presided, and was well supported by his Grand Officers, past and present, and a numerous attendance of the brethren, considerably over 100 being present in the Lodge room. After the reading of the minutes and report of the audit and finance committees, the R.W. the Grand Master invested his officers for the year ensuing as follow:—

Bro. Harrison	Dep. Prov.	G.M.
„ Rev. Ambrose Hall	„	G.S.W.
„ John Lambert Sim	„	G.J.W.
„ Rev. D. J. Drakeford	„	G. Chaplain.
„ George Price	„	G. Treasurer.
„ A. B. Cook	„	G. Registrar.
„ Charles Greenwood	„	G. Secretary.
„ T. C. Eager	„	G.S.D.
„ Charles Gale	„	G.J.D.
„ H. B. B. Podence	„	G. Sup. of Works.
„ John Clese	„	G. Dir. of Cer.
„ John Rhodes	„	G. Organist.
„ Capt. M. S. Browrigg	„	G.S. Bearer.
„ D. B. Woodward	„	G. Pursuivant.
„ Pawley 452		Prov. G. Stewards.
„ Saunders 889
„ Kemp
„ F. West 463
„ Turquand 1536

From the funds of Prov. Grand Lodge five guineas were voted to Croydon Hospital, and a similar sum to the widow of a late Freemason, and to each of the three Masonic Charitable Institutions. Twenty guineas were voted towards a testimonial to the Provincial Grand Secretary, Bro. Charles Greenwood, who has occupied that position nearly a quarter of a century. A Charity Committee was formed to act with the Provinces of Middlesex, Wilts, and Berks and Bucks in concentrating the votes of all four Provinces for selected candidates at the elections of the Masonic Institutions. The brethren afterwards went to Croydon Old Church, which was beautifully decorated by the ladies belonging to the church. There was a full choral service, the choir numbering over 70, the Processional Hymn, No. 304 (A. and M.), "Come, ye faithful, raise the anthem," being given with wonderful effect, to the "March of the Israelites," from Costa's "Eli," arranged in B. flat. Proper Psalms and Lessons were read for this service. The anthem, Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer," was faultlessly rendered, the solos "Hear my Prayer" and "Oh, for the wings of a dove," being sung by two young gentlemen in such a manner that had it not been a sacred edifice and a solemn service, there would undoubtedly have been a vociferous burst of applause. The Rev. C. W. Arnold, Grand Chaplain of England, preached a most eloquent sermon, taking for his text the 9th and 10th verses of the 3rd chapter of the 1st Epistle to the Corinthians. (As we understand it is to be printed we hope to allude to it more fully on a future occasion.) The service was brought to a close by the choir singing Handel's Hallelujah Chorus, in a manner that has never been surpassed within the walls of this venerable old church.

The offertory, which amounted to over £25 (irrespective of the grant of £5 5s referred to above), was to be given to the Croydon Hospital.

The brethren returned to the Greyhound Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was provided by mine "Host," Bro. Budden. The R.W. Grand Master presided, and nearly 80 brethren sat down. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were regularly gone through, and were interspersed with some capital singing from Bros. Lawler, Lester, and Carter. The brethren then separated, having thoroughly enjoyed what may be termed a red-letter day in the Province of Surrey, but not without tendering their warmest thanks to the indefatigable Hon. Sec. of No. 463 (Bro. C. H. Woodward P.M. and P.Z. of 463, and P. Prov. G.J.W. of Surrey), on whom had fallen the heavy duty of carrying out the day's arrangements. Everything passed over without a complaint. It is also to this worthy brother's exertions that the Hospital is indebted for the grant and offertory.

Digitized by Google

THE UNIVERSAL PROVIDER.

THERE are many who think a Masonic Journal should contain nothing but Masonry. We are not entirely of this view. We recognise, of course, that the sayings and doings of the Craft should form the greater portion of its contents. A collection of news, with only a slight dash of Masonry in it, would have a very small claim to be regarded as a Masonic Journal. But Masons are men of the world. They are not so narrow-minded as to feel indifferent to the concerns of every-day life. What goes on outside the brotherhood has a deep interest for them, for the simple reason that Masons, as a rule, are men of business. Most of them follow some trade or profession. Even the Masonic scribe who purveys news for the Craft must find an occasional leisure moment in which to ponder over the work that is going on around him. And so a journal, albeit aspiring to be the organ of the Craft, may occasionally find space for other than Masonic matter. Recently we had an opportunity of going over possibly the largest, but certainly one of the largest, business establishments in London. It has nothing whatever to do with our Order. We saw there no Masonic aprons, no Masonic paraphernalia of any kind. What we did see, however, so completely interested us that we have no hesitation in favouring our readers with a description of it. We saw it under the most propitious circumstances: that is to say, our cicerone was none other than the proprietor himself, who conducted us over all the parts of his house, —or houses be it said rather, for there are more than a dozen of them—sparing himself no pains to acquaint us thoroughly with the character and contents of his establishment. We have already thanked him personally for his kindness. We do so again, now, more publicly, and we think our readers will admit, when they have read our imperfect sketch, that if ever a man deserved honest thanks it is MR. WHITELEY, the Universal Provider, of Westbourne Grove and Queen's Road, Bayswater, for the trouble he bestowed on us at our visit.

The name of Whiteley is, of course, familiar to the West-end Londoner especially; we may safely, indeed, add to the Londoner generally. His business is by no means local. He trades with customers from all parts of the metropolis, from the provinces, and in foreign parts. His name is a household word in more senses than one. Thousands of households in the United Kingdom are indebted to him for the comforts they enjoy. The handsome drawing and dining room suites may have come from his furniture warehouse in the Queens-road. The wearing apparel of the family, both male and female, was made perhaps on his premises. The jewelry they bedeck themselves with was bought at his stores. They have dined, perhaps, at his table d'hôte. Indeed, every article of daily use, from the diminutive pin to the most elaborate furniture, be it of the room or of the person, may have been purchased at his establishment. He sells everything, so that a man with money who has many wants may satisfy them all within the four corners of Whiteley's. But to proceed in order through the several houses. We are in Westbourne Grove at the busiest time of the day, and locomotion is not uninterrupted. The side streets are lined with carriages from all parts, while their occupants are shopping. Taking the houses seriatim, we enter, first of all, No. 31. This is for the sale of hosiery, gloves, shirts, &c. On the basement floor are warehoused the goods sold in this department. On the first floor is the show room, where are exhibited dressing gowns, shirts, morning jackets, sleeping suits, cricket toggery, and the like, in every variety to suit every body's taste and pocket. On the second and third floors are the work rooms, the cutting and machine rooms being on the former, while on the latter are engaged some fifty assistants in executing the more delicate hand work. Shop No. 33 is a tailor's and woollen draper's. Here may be seen coats and nether garments to match of every description, besides uniforms, both military and naval, ladies' riding habits, servants' liveries, &c. On the first floor is exhibited every variety of boys' clothing. On the second are located the trousers and breeches makers, the cutters for the juvenile department, and for riding habits, and at the back are busily engaged a whole room full of trimmers. The tailors occupy the third floor, and in the basement are warehoused trunks and such like gear. No. 35 is for the sale of calicoes and plain muslins. In the show room are ranged trunks, portmanteaus, bags, air-tight cases, bullock trunks, dog collars and chains, deed boxes and uniform cases. The tailoresses, who make the boys' suits, are on the second floor, while the third is set apart for the manufacture of coats and vests, trousers and breeches. Muslins, calicoes, and choice Indian silks are stored away on the basement. Printed and washing materials in endless variety are to be bought at No. 37. To the rear of this is a counting-house, with clerks to receive and pay money, private secretaries, &c., &c. The show room is set out with silk costumes, and ball-dresses, and to the rear is a fitting room, where a lady may try on her dress. On the second floor are made the bodices, and above this are the tailoresses again. No. 39 is stocked with materials for fancy dresses, and all kinds of silks. The orders given in this department are all executed on the premises. In the show room above may be seen specimens of every description of feminine costume, be it for the ball room, for travelling, for walking, or other purpose, which the stern edicts of fashion prescribe must be worn by its votaries. On the floor above are the dressmakers' working and fitting rooms, and higher still are the sleeping rooms of the night porters, of whom there are always nine on the premises. On the basement floor a workshop for gas-fitters, carpenters and the like, occupies the front portion, and behind this is a warehouse for fancy dress and washing materials. Here, too, are the boot cleaners and lamplighters for the buyers and shop walkers. No. 41 is always well filled with ladies, engaged in selecting the needful haberdashery, trimming, hosiery, gloves, ribbons, feathers, flowers, or Berlin wool. The first floor is entirely given up to baby linen, and the clothing of young girls up to the age of twelve. The dressmakers, with a convenient waiting room, are on the second floor, and on the third are fifty workpeople engaged in the making-up department. The stationery department occupies the basement. No. 43 is for the sale of lace—which is made up on the premises—umbrellas, sunshades, and furs, &c. The rear is a dark room, where ladies can match by gaslight the different materials required for evening dresses, so that the colours or shades of colour may harmonise properly. On the first floor is the show room for ladies' under-linen, dressing gowns, jackets, &c. Flowers and flower mounting are a floor above, on a level with the under-linen workpeople, and higher still is the warehouse, in which are kept, already marked and numbered, a large stock of ladies' and children's underlinen. The porters' room is on the basement. Mantles and shawls are on sale in No. 45, the first floor being set apart for millinery, the second to making head-dresses, hats, &c., and the third to English millinery, baby and under-linen, &c. The porters' kitchen and beer cellar are on the basement floor. In No. 47 may be purchased all kinds of jewellery, plate, fancy and plain stationery, china and ormolu goods, perfumery, patent medicines, fans, opera glasses, and that extensive range of articles known as fancy goods. On the first floor are ladies' and children's boots and shoes of English manufacture. Above, on the second floor, are the mantle cutting room for stock, and a store room where goods as made are kept, and two large work-rooms, accommodating fifty people, are on the third. Below are the refreshment kitchen, the matron's sitting room and store rooms. No. 49 is for the sale of gentlemen's boots, shoes, hats, india-rubber goods, saddlery, whips, sticks, fishing tackle, banners, lawn tennis, croquet, cricket apparatus, &c., and here also is the refreshment department, where customers who are bent on a long day's shopping may make a light or substantial lunch or dinner, or appease the appetite with any agreeable light refreshment, including tea, coffee, ices, &c., but no wine, beer, or spirit is to be had for love or money. In the show room above are an endless assortment of ladies' and children's French boots and shoes. Higher up is the mantle cutting room, where special orders are executed, with a fitting room and back room adjoining. The topmost floor of all is likewise devoted to mantles, there being two workrooms, each accommodating twenty-five people. On the basement, the front is occupied as a kitchen, for soups, fish, and joints, while at the back is the silk hat warehouse. Family and house linen of all kinds, as well as blankets, are purchasable at No. 51. The show-room is filled with fancy goods, dressing bags, writing desks, jewel cases, despatch boxes, &c. On the second floor are warehoused, in the front, foreign goods; at the back, perfumery, patent medicines, croquet, lawn tennis, and other games. Above are plate, jewellery, cutlery, &c., in the front, household linen being stowed away at the back. What are known as soft furnishing goods, such as rugs, damasks, cretonnes, chintzes, ticks, table-cloths, with curtains, cornices, curtain-poles, furniture trimmings, oil-cloths, window-curtains of all kinds—Notts and Swiss lace, Leno, &c.—all these are sold at No. 53. On the first floor is the juvenile print room, on the second are located the boot warehouse, the superior class of cutters out, and the examining departments where goods, as they come in, are rigidly overhauled; on the third, ribbons and silk scarfs. Below the basement of Nos. 51 and 53 are the servants' dining hall, and store-rooms for flannels, blankets, lace curtains, &c. Then at the back of Nos. 55 and 57 are carpets of all kinds, druggets, rugs, oil-cloths, Linoleums, mats, and adjoining Kensington Gardens Square, and to the rear of Nos. 45-53, are the ladies and gentlemen's hair-cutting saloons. The china and earthenware branch is at 51 Kensington Gardens Square, where every description of breakfast, dinner, tea, dessert, and kitchen services may be had, and every variety of artificial flowers for table decoration. The first floor is wholly for glass, and the basement serves as a store for both glass and china goods. At No. 50, the ground floor is for iron, tin, and copper ware, gas stoves, gaseliers, chandeliers, &c.; the first floor for brushes and turnery, sponges, &c.; while on the basement are stowed away ironmongery, tin, and other wares. There is besides a lace and stationery warehouse, and at Douglas Place is a branch for printing, repair of jewellery, plate cleaning, fur warehouse, &c., &c. We have already mentioned a counting-house at No. 37, but large as this is, there is a larger one still, where a small regiment of clerks are engaged in preparing invoices inwards and outwards, ledger clerks, telegraph clerks, postal clerks, &c., &c. Then on the basement there is a second kitchen for the dainties edibles, such as ices, cakes, tarts and tartlets, raised pies, and confectionery of all kinds, and for the accommodation of the assistants, there are four dining rooms, two for the young ladies of the establishment, and two for the men assistants. These four, together, accommodate five hundred at one time, two having each six tables for twenty-five each and a carver, and two others four tables each for the same number. There is also a buyers' refreshment room, where the buyers and superior employés take their meals. In Douglas Place are stabling for over fifty horses, and coach-houses, and a sufficiency of carts and waggons for the conveyance of goods throughout the metropolis, and for a distance of twenty-five miles out into the surrounding country. The stablemen and helpers are likewise housed very comfortably, while all the appurtenances, in the shape of smithies, and the like, are ready at hand, so that Mr. Whiteley is absolutely independent of all external help. The premises in the Queen's Road are wholly devoted to house furniture, of which only a limited selection is kept in Westbourne Grove; just enough, indeed, to let the customers know that house furnishing and decorating is a part of Mr. Whiteley's business. The Queen's Road establishment is on a magnificent scale. The building is lofty, of considerable width, and as to depth extends back a distance of no less than three hundred feet. There are four floors, and the amount of stock on these premises, in the shape of drawing, dining, library, and bedroom furniture, may be more easily imagined than described. In quality they are excellent, varying, of course, according to price. There is also a hiring out branch, where tables, chairs, seats, and the like are hired out to people on the occasion of a ball, dinner party, or similar entertainment. Here, too, are workshops innumerable, and a magnificent space for planning and fitting carpets, so that the furniture warehouse is not only on a large scale, but includes accommodation for all the necessary work of fitting, stuffing, covering, polishing, and repairing.

Digitized by Google

This, which we are well aware is an exceedingly bald sketch of Mr. Whiteley's place, will, nevertheless, serve to convey to our readers some idea of the magnitude of his business. A man with funds in his pocket may go thither and furnish for himself a house from attic to basement—he may even buy or build one, if he is so minded. He may clothe himself anew from head to foot, and his wife and family too, if he is a paterfamilias. He may buy his coals, his stationery, furnish his library with books, clothe his servants in plain or gorgeous livery, according to his taste. If he belong to either the naval or the military profession, he may buy his uniforms and implements of war. If he is an athlete, he may invest in cricket and similar traps; if a sportsman, he may buy his fishing-tackle and the like. His horse furniture is obtainable here, and so, too, carriage furniture. With a thousand or two to spend in jewellery, he will find here trinkets costly, showy, of modern or antique pattern, of any price. Knick-knackery of every variety, choice services of China and Porcelain, Lambeth pottery ware, glass, linens, umbrellas, furs, all these may be bought here; indeed, nearly every want he is likely to feel can be satisfied within the limits of this establishment, even to the wants of the inner man. If he is careful as to his personal adornment—some, we believe, call it titivation—he will here find the place and the man to operate. He may even provide his own funeral paraphernalia, for Mr. Whiteley will bury his customers, as well as feed, clothe, and find house accommodation for them. There is, in short, nothing a man can require or wish to purchase for actual use or abuse, or for mere caprice or ornament, which Mr. Whiteley will not either sell or procure for him. His establishment may almost be described as a street of shops, so extensive are his premises. As to the small army of assistants, upon whose ability he must rely for meeting the requirements of his customers, there are, if we remember rightly, over five hundred salespeople alone. The assistants, in fact, are over two thousand in number, from secretaries, buyers, superintendents of branches, down to porters, carriers, bottle washers, and scullery maids. Nearly every house in Westbourne Grove Terrace close by is either leased or owned by Mr. Whiteley, and these are occupied by his shop-people. Only thirteen years since Mr. Whiteley commenced business, in a single house in Westbourne Grove, with two young lady assistants to attend to the wants of his customers. Now his premises include nearly a score of houses, and his assistants number two thousand. Then he confined his attention to the sale of hosiery, &c. Now, he sells, as we have said, well nigh everything a man can want, from a diamond necklace to a birch broom. This is, indeed, an honourable achievement, and one of which Mr. Whiteley has every reason to be proud. He is, indeed, a leader of men, for he is the head and chief of, perhaps, the largest business in the world. His indoor assistants, we repeat, are two thousand; his out-door workpeople are even more numerous. He has agents and correspondents in all the large manufacturing and commercial towns, not only in the United Kingdom, but wherever else goods are manufactured and commerce flourishes. All this he has done by his own exertions, by a wonderful activity and energy of mind, by the most rigid attention to business, by a ceaseless desire to please. A genial, manly, straightforward bearing, superadded to great business powers, has raised him to this pinnacle of fortune. It matters not, if a person enters to purchase only a small packet of pins—Mr. Whiteley orders these in by the ton—or the most costly jewel, the same considerate kindness, the same desire to satisfy the most whimsical, the most capricious taste or temper is observed. By great ability, indomitable energy, a civility the rudest boor in England would find it well nigh impossible to disturb, Mr. Whiteley has rapidly built up a magnificent business, and certain are we, not only that he merits the success he has achieved, but that his prosperity will be an enduring one. The cordial nods and smiles, and "Good morning, Mr. Whiteley," with which, ever and anon, some customer saluted him as we walked about the premises, and his kind and friendly bearing towards his subordinates, showed us well enough the kind of man he was. With this for evidence, we did not marvel at his success. We owe him cordial thanks for a view of his establishment, and we acquit ourselves in the best of English coin—hearty good wishes for his continued prosperity.

Obituary.

It is with deep regret we have to announce the death, after a long and painful illness, of Bro. E. P. Hingston. Bro. Hingston was possessed of literary talents that were highly appreciated. He was the manager of the entertainments of the late Artemus Ward, and wrote a biography of that celebrated humourist. He was engaged by Bros. Spiers and Pond to conduct the entertainments at "The Hall by the Sea," Margate, but failing health compelled him to relinquish this appointment, where he had gained the good wishes of all with whom he was associated.

The death of Bro. T. Roberts, Dental Surgeon at Charing Cross Hospital, took place last week. Our late Bro. will be remembered as the acting manager of the Princess's Theatre during the lesseeship of the late George Vining, and as the husband of the popular singer, Rebecca Isaacs. Bro. Roberts was greatly esteemed as a kind father and a true hearted man.

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME.

ON Tuesday, thanks to our genial Bro. Terry, Croydon was all smiles and joviality. Dull as was the weather for a summer entertainment, there was no lack of enjoyment on the part either of our fine old veterans of the Royal Art and the widows of former members or of their friends who visited them. All was done to make the former happy in their retirement, as happy, indeed, as the day was long, and with pleasant memories for the morrow. A nice repast was served in the Hall of the Institution, including tea and fruit, with an abundance of viands, in the shape of cold meats, for those who needed more substantial fare; while later in the evening wine, cake and fruit were handed round, the visitors, as in duty bound, attending to the wants of their less youthful friends with ceaseless care and untiring zeal and energy. Bro. Terry himself, who presided, was, in a certain sense, ubiquitous. Everywhere he was to be seen looking most kindly after his "ancient charges," and exerting himself to the utmost of his power to make the entertainment as complete a success as possible. His efforts were laudably seconded by those of Bros. Constable, Stevens, Stewart, Lane, and others too numerous to mention. Equally solicitous were the ladies, and notably Mrs. Terry and Mrs. Constable, for the comfort of all, while there was present a most powerful phalanx of talent, both artistic and musical, so that it was impossible for any evening to have passed off more pleasantly. To Bro. Binckes, we presume, the hosts and their guests were indebted for a part of the musical programme. We do not wish our readers to understand that "Our Hercules" performed personally. We are not even aware if he has any musical talent, be it vocal or instrumental. We know, for we have heard it, that he has a voice, and a right sonorous one it is; but the only part we have ever heard him play has been that of an advocate for "Our Boys," and we all know how perfectly successful he is in that character. But the next best thing to being a drummer, trombonist, or cornet player oneself, is to be one by deputy, and as Bro. Binckes does nothing by halves, he had, not a single deputy to play for him, but a whole band, who journeyed all the way from a certain Institution at Wood Green, and did their very best to entertain "the Old Folks at home." They had with them their band master, who conducted with equal emphasis and skill. A wag on the ground, having an eye to the thunder storm that seemed brewing, suggested he would serve admirably as a "lightning conductor," but we looked, or at all events felt, unutterable things, and our funny brother decamped with amazing promptitude. The selection they played was just what was to be expected from a newly organised band, and if, now and again, there was perceptible a slight unsteadiness, and occasionally a false note or two, their performance, taken altogether, was very creditable, both to themselves and their very efficient instructor. The applause they received when about to return home, and the few kindly words Bro. Terry expressed, were fully deserved. We have no hesitation in setting down the first public appearance before any audience, outside their own building, of Our Boys' Band as a great success. They have our best thanks, as well as our best wishes, for their future career. Tea over, a pleasant stroll and a smoke in the well-kept grounds followed, and then a move was made to the Hall before mentioned, and there was fulfilled the most important part of the programme. Bro. Seymour Smith led the way, with a pianoforte recital of his own composition—"The Installation March." This is not the first time it has been played. We are certain, however, it was never more effectively rendered—that were impossible—and we doubt not it will be heard again and again at other of our Masonic gatherings. Later also in the evening, Bro. Smith, both played and sang, his really comic mélanges being capitally given and very heartily applauded. Bro. Theodore Distin sang "Jack's Yarn" and "Nancy of Bristol" in a style that can only be described as perfection. Bro. Lawler was equally happy in the songs he selected, and was rewarded with the same smiles and plaudits. Bro. Fairchild gave very successfully two readings, in which were severally described the woes of the Hon. Mrs. Flashington and Mr. Bowerbank Vane. Bro. Henry Marston recited two short pieces in a manner worthy of his great professional reputation. His enunciation was faultless, his emphasis perfect. Many an amateur reader might profitably take a leaf out of Bro. Marston's book—if, at least, he be able to follow, even at a distance, so admirable an elocutionist. Mr. Fred. Stevens gave two comic songs in character. We have not had the pleasure of meeting him since. We trust, however, he has recovered somewhat his natural self possession, and that now, at all events, he is able to "keep himself still." Bro. J. Stevens recited in admirable style, and, like his son, was very justly and very heartily applauded. Miss Terry sang "La Pepita" very charmingly, and Miss Haynes played a difficult piece with much judgment, and with great b illiancy of execution. Bro. Morgan, too, sang "The Maid of Athens" with considerable taste. But, whi e we hold generally to that excellent rule of criticism on occasions like these, not to institute a comparison between the various performances, we imagine the kind brethren and others whom we have thus far enumerated, will be the first to pardon our present departure from the custom. Not that we do so with any desire to lessen the value of what they did. Our purpose is simply to give a little more prominence than usual to the inimitable mimicry of Bro. Taunton, known in professional circles as Mr. Walter Pelham. The selections he gave were a choice variety of Penny Readings, including the May Queen by a venerable clergyman, and then a second series, comprising the Cheap John, and sundry vendors of pills, and a puffe possessing the most remarkable properties. To say the whole audience were convulsed with laughter is the statement of a simple fact. How, indeed, any one who witnessed Bro. Taunton's powers could have done so with ordinary self-command, we should be at a loss to conceive. The exhibition, too, had the further advantage of being an entirely novel feature at such Masonic gatherings. We are not, therefore, exceeding the limits of truth, nor have we the slightest idea of detracting from the signal merits of the other performers, when we state that Bro. Taunton's contribution was the feature of the entertainment. We can only hope this may not be the last occasion on which we shall be permitted to offer our talented brother our warm felicitations on his success in the art of amusing. Bro. Raynham Stewart then stepped forward, and in a few well-chosen sentences, proposed a vote of thanks to the entertainers. This was very cordially acknowledged by Bro. Seymour Smith. Bro. John Stevens then proposed a similar vote as regards Bro. Terry, a compliment which, we need scarcely add, was justly merited, and most genially acknowledged. Bro. Terry read a letter from Mdme. Thaddeus Wells, expressive of her great regret in not being enabled to be present to assist in the entertainment, owing to illness, an announcement which was received with great sympathy by all present, more especially the "Old Folks," by whom she is much respected. Shortly after, the party broke up, the visitors having to catch the last train up, and thus one of the most agreeable evenings it has ever been our good fortune to spend came to an end. Among those present we noticed Mr. Terry sen. and Mrs. Terry, Mrs. Moss, Bro. Raynham Stewart, Miss Stevens, Mrs. Strong, Bros. Barker, Massey, Abbott, Crutch, Pearcy, Halford, Newton (W.M. of No. 1607) and Mrs. Newton, with several others, both ladies and brethren. May future entertainments pass off as agreeably!

Digitized by Google

GRAND LODGE OF GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

PRESENTATION TO D.P.G.M. NEWMARCH.

LORD Sherborne, the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, held the annual Provincial Grand Lodge in the Assembly rooms, Cheltenham, on Thursday, 8th June. He was supported by the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Bro. Newmarch, by the P.G. Chaplain, and the other Grand Officers, and by more than a hundred brethren from the various Lodges of the province, each being represented by its W.M. and other members. The Lodge having been properly constituted, with Bros. E. Crawshaw as P.G. Senior Warden and T. Tayston as P.G. Junior Warden, the business proceeded in due course. On the proposition of the P.G.M., seconded by the D.P.G.M., a special record was made of the services rendered by the late Treasurer, Bro Palmer; and Bro. Brook-Smith was afterwards unanimously elected in his stead. The report of the Charity Committee (which was re-appointed) was read and approved, and Bro. Colonel Basevi, its Hon. Secretary, was especially thanked for his labours, which this year resulted rather unexpectedly in the election of the two candidates, Cromwell and Keddell, to the Masonic Institution for Boys. Bro. Wiggins was re-elected P.G. Tyler with the usual formalities, and the roll of Lodges was called over in the following order, the W.M. of each being present, and able to make a satisfactory report:—Royal Union Lodge, Cheltenham; Foundation Lodge, Cheltenham; Faith and Friendship Lodge, Berkeley; Royal Lebanon Lodge, Gloucester; Cotteswold Lodge, Cirencester; Sherborne Lodge, Stroud; St. John's Lodge, Dursley; Lodge of Sympathy, Wotton-under-Edge; Royal Gloucestershire Lodge, Gloucester; St. George's Lodge, Tewkesbury; Prince of Wales Lodge, Stow-on-the-Wold; Zetland Lodge, Redford; Royal Forest of Dean Lodge, Newnham; Tyndall Lodge, Chipping Sodbury.

The following were appointed and invested to serve as officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge for the ensuing year:—Bros. John Walker S.W., Jas. H. H. Howard J.W., Col. Basevi Reg., Rev. W. E. Hadow Chaplain, H. W. Bruton S.D., G. W. Keeling J.D., Jos. Read Superintendent of Works, George Tomes and H. S. Crump Directors of Ceremonies, L. Winterbotham Pursuivant, Trenfield Sword Bearer, E. G. Woodward Organist.

The special and chief event of the day was the presentation to D.P.G.M. Newmarch of a testimonial and address, in accordance with resolutions passed at the Provincial Grand Lodge held at Newnham last year, when Bro. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach took part in the proceedings. A committee was then appointed, with Bro. Gwinnett as Hon. Secretary, to collect subscriptions and carry out the design of the resolutions. In true accord with the modesty and Masonic zeal of Bro. Newmarch, who has earned the cordial and unanimous respect of the Masonic fraternity, it was arranged, at his suggestion, that the major portion of the subscriptions should be appropriated to purchasing certain rights of patronage in connection with the great Masonic Charities, which should be vested in Bro. Newmarch during his tenure of office, but which should permanently attach to those who may succeed him. Grand Lodge subscribed 100 guineas to the testimonial, £115 was voted by various Lodges, and over £240 came in as the subscriptions of individual brethren, so that the gross sum at the disposal of the committee exceeded £460. Of this sum £100 has been paid to the Benevolent Institution, and 100 guineas each to the Boys' and Girls' Institutions, so that the Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Gloucestershire will be in perpetuity a vice-president of these associations, having ten votes at his disposal for each election at each of them. Bro. Newmarch's personal wishes having been further consulted as to the disposal of the surplus, a very handsome compound microscope, with object glasses and other fittings, was purchased and enclosed in a walnut case. This cost over £100, and the residue was spent in a beautifully illuminated album, containing the Masonic address, and a list of all the Lodges and brethren subscribing to the testimonial. This album is a superb work of art, and is inscribed with the crest and monogram with other insignia of the recipient; it is enclosed in an elegant casket.

Lord Sherborne, in formerly making the presentation, contented himself with expressing the hope that Bro. Newmarch would receive it with satisfaction, and would live long to make use of it. His many merits were so well known to the brethren that it was quite needless to expatiate upon them, and his lordship called upon the P.G. Secretary (Bro. E. Trinder) to read the following address:—

"To the Very Worshipful Brother George Frederick Newmarch, Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Gloucestershire.

"Dear Sir and Brother,—The Freemasons of Gloucestershire have for many years observed with satisfaction and pleasure your earnest endeavours to disseminate the principles and to promote the objects of our ancient institution.

"Some of us can remember the time when there were only two working Lodges throughout the Province, and when the Royal Arch Chapter was completely in abeyance. By your zeal and perseverance the Chapter was revived, and new Lodges were planted in Cirencester and Stroud, and all soon became conspicuous for the purity of the working and the activity of the members. Many new Lodges have since been founded in the Province and old ones that had ceased working have been re-established, owing mainly to your exertions and the example you have presented of the worth and excellence of the science. You have brought the Lodges into friendly and fraternal intercourse, and given Masonry a stimulus which will be felt and appreciated for years to come. If the design of Freemasonry be mutual love, mutual instruction, mutual assistance,—if it teach us the duty which we owe to God, our neighbours, and ourselves,—if it teach morality, integrity, and equality, and if it be by adherence to these principles that Masonic Lodges flourish, while a departure from them brings decay and dissolution, then we can scarcely over-rate the value of Freemasonry, nor hesitate to offer you some testimony of our appreciation of your labours, extending over more than a quarter of a century, in the cause of so noble a science. We desire to do you honour, for we have largely become your debtors; we have observed with admiration the unselfishness of your nature and the charitable spirit which appears to influence you in every act of your daily life, never more clearly shown than your desire to transfer the generosity of your brethren from yourself to those benevolent institutions which others partaking of your own truly Masonic spirit have founded for the relief of our poorer brethren, their widows and children. Under the influence of these feelings the brethren of the Province desire to address you in warm terms of affectionate and fraternal regard; and to give a substantial character to it they beg your acceptance of the accompanying compound microscope, with object glasses and apparatus.

"They desire also to express their gratification at being able to comply with your wish that the Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Gloucestershire for the time being should be a vice-president of the three great Charitable Institutions of the Craft, the Royal Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, the Royal Institution for the sons of indigent Freemasons, and the Royal Institution for the daughters of indigent Freemasons.

"We hope you will long continue to the brethren the aid you have so ably given them; and sincerely and heartily wish that you may live many years in the enjoyment of health and happiness, and in the consciousness of having zealously discharged your duty to the Craft."

Bro. Newmarch, who was received with fraternal demonstrations, and was evidently affected by the warmth of his reception, expressed his thanks for the kindness shown to him. He recalled that when his testimonial was first suggested he expressed, what he felt, that he had already received quite sufficient honour from the Craft to satisfy him for anything he had done; but that they could do him no greater additional honour than to endow his office rather than himself with the vice-presidency of some charitable institution. He had no idea that so large a sum would have been subscribed as to admit of all that had been done. The address contained a great deal more than he could honestly take to himself. He knew pretty well from whence it emanated, and he deeply appreciated the kind heart as well as the able pen that dictated and produced that address. To have so secured the friendship of that brother was a great gratification to him; and though he could not name that Brother, he offered him sincere thanks for his kindness. Bro. Newmarch also thanked Lord Sherborne, Bro. Gwinnett, and the P.G. Secretary, for their share in preparing the testimonial. The prosperity of the Craft in the province was not due to any individual, but to circumstances, especially to the formation of Provincial Grand Lodge over twenty years ago, which had caused the number of lodges to increase to fourteen. He had rendered what assistance he could, and he rejoiced with them that day that Freemasonry was signally prospering among them. It was in no spirit of mock modesty that he had suggested that the honours should pertain to his office rather than to himself; because this was a far more enduring memorial, and it was a greater honour that his name should be thus prominently and permanently associated with the charitable endowments of the Province. In conclusion he reiterated his hearty acknowledgments.

After the business of the Lodge the brethren dined together at the Plough Hotel, under the presidency of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master.

REVIEW.

Tweed's Guide to Glasgow and the Clyde.

THAT enterprising Glasgow publisher, Bro. John Tweed, has just brought out a new edition of his well-known guide. We formerly thought that it was as near perfection as any tourist or commercial man could wish, but we find several fresh features of general interest have been added, and with "Tweed's Guide" in his hand, any of our brethren wishing to explore Scotland, from Lanark to Inverness, need not be at a loss, as there are two large well executed maps, one of Scotland, round which are illustrations of events of the principal places of interest; the other of the City of Glasgow and its environs, with views of its four parks. In addition, nearly every page is embellished with either a steel plate engraving or a woodcut of the places described. We have also about a hundred pages of good readable matter, not told in the old dry style, but with a freshness that gives an extra zest to the scenes described. The book is a marvel of cheapness, as the illustrations must have cost some hundreds of pounds, and our Masonic friends, when visiting Scotland, or even if wishing to have a quiet tour at home, cannot do better than invest in "Tweed's Guide."

Digitized by Google

INSTALLATION OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,
Most Worshipful Grand Master, &c., &c., having been graciously pleased to accept the special Dedication,

A SPLENDID

HISTORICAL STEEL ENGRAVING

WILL SHORTLY BE PUBLISHED,

OF THE

ROYAL INSTALLATION ON THE 28TH OF APRIL 1875,
IN THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
By BRO. EDWARD JAMES HARTY, S.W. No. 1201.

Application for Circulars and for all particulars to be made to the

ROYAL MASONIC INSTALLATION GALLERY COMPANY, 213 REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS,

WOOD GREEN, LONDON, N. OFFICE: 6 Freemasons' Hall, W.C.

PATRON:
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

PRESIDENT:
HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G., &c., M.W.G.M.

THE SEVENTY-EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL will be held at the ALEXANDRA PALACE, on WEDNESDAY, 28th June 1876, the Right Hon. LORD LEIGH, R.W. Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire, in the chair.

BOARD OF STEWARDS.

President—R.W. Bro. SIR HENRY EDWARDS, BART., Provincial Grand Master of West Yorkshire.
Vice-President—V.W. Bro. REV. W. K. ROLAND BERNCAN, M.A., Past Grand Chaplain and P. Prov. G. Ch. Warwickshire, P.M. 794, &c.
Acting Vice-President—W. Bro. SIR. ROSENTHAL, P. Prov. G.W. Middlesex, P.M. 435, &c.
Hon. Treasurer—W. Bro. FREDERICK ADLARD, P. Prov. G.D.C. Essex, P.M. 7, &c.

With 250 brethren, representing Lodges in the Metropolis and Provinces, lists of whom may be had on application at the Office.

The Musical Arrangements under the direction of Bro. CHAPLIN HENRY.
Dinner on the Table at Five o'clock precisely.
Tickets: Ladies, 15s; Brethren, 21s; may be obtained at the Office, and from the Stewards.

The visit of the Festival Stewards, and Annual Distribution of Prizes, will take place at the Institution, Wood Green, on Monday, 26th June, commencing at 3 o'clock, under the Presidency of the Supreme Council 33° of England.

FREDERICK BINCKES (P.G. Steward), Sec. to the Institution,
Hon. Secretary Board of Stewards.

14th June 1876.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—GREAT AQUATIC FETE AND SWIMMING MATCHES, IN UNIVERSITY COSTUME, MONDAY, 19th June 1876. First Race to take place at 4 p.m. 400 Yards Handicap, open to Amateurs. Three Prizes—First, presented by Sir John Bennett, F.R.A.S., consisting of a Handsome Silver Watch, engraved with inscription. 200 Yards Hurdle Race, over Open Boats. Three Prizes. 100 Yards Siamese Twin Race. Two Prizes for the First Couple. 100 Yards Race, in Complete Suits of Clothes, to weigh not less than Four Pounds. Three Prizes. Pole Walking for a Live Pig; and a Live Duck Hunt. Aquatic Tournament. Entrance Fee to each Race, One Shilling; Siamese Twin Race, One Shilling the Pair. Entry Free to the Walking and Duck Hunt.

Every Information to be had of Bro. Hadley Prestage, Hon. Sec., Victoria Park Swimming Club, 881 Hackney Road, E., and General Manager, Crystal Palace, &c. The Prizes will be presented by Bro. John Bennett, F.R.A.S., in the Concert Room, after the Races.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

PARLIAMENT has reassembled after the Whitsun holidays. The Lords met for the first time on Tuesday, but the sitting was a very brief one. On Thursday the 8th inst., when the Commons resumed their labours, the Commons Bill passed through committee, and the House made further progress with the Civil Service estimates. On Friday, Mr. Disraeli, in reply to a question from the Marquis of Hartington, made a statement respecting the present Eastern crisis, which was received with loud cheers. The House subsequently went into Committee of Supply, and agreed to many items of expenditure, chiefly for the military service. On Monday, was first of all discussed a question of privilege, and then the University of Oxford and Army Corps Training Bills passed a second reading. On Tuesday, the Poor-law Amendment Bill went through committee, and was reported to the House. Later, Lord Elcho's motion for the better municipal government of the metropolis was withdrawn, after a long discussion. On Wednesday, Sir W. Lawson tried to induce the Commons to accept his Permissive Bill on the second reading. His speech was greeted with occasional laughter, for Sir Wilfrid aims at being a funny man, but in spite of his genial eloquence the House refused to listen to the voice of the charmer, and summarily rejected the bill by 299 to 81. On Thursday, the second reading of the Elementary Education Act was partly debated.

The Queen is still in Scotland. The King of the Belgians has returned home, and King George of Hanover leaves, we believe, to-day. The Prince of Wales is temporarily sojourning in the neighbourhood of Ascot, this being Ascot week. On Tuesday the Royal party, which included the Prince and Princess, the Dukes of Connaught and Cambridge, and the Duke and Duchess of Teck, drove in semi-state to the Royal Stand. The weather, however, was far from brilliant, but, fortunately, the rain held off till the important business of the meet had been disposed of. There was a heavy day's sport, including the Gold Vase, won by Thunder, the favourite, Freeman, being beaten easily by a length; the Prince of Wales's Stakes, in which the winner of the Two Thousand, Petrarch, was first, Great Tom and Julius Cæsar being second and third respectively; and the Ascot Stakes, won by Whitebait. On Wednesday Hopbloom won the Royal Hunt Cup. On Thursday was the State visit of the Royal party, the chief event being the Ascot Cup, which was secured by Apology, who was second favourite at starting.

We have just said the weather on Tuesday was far from brilliant. Indeed, it seemed as though we were to have had a thunderstorm. Rain, however, fell heavily, and doubtless lessened the number of visitors to Croydon, where Masonry was doubly in force. The Provincial Grand Lodge of Surrey, under the presidency of its Grand Master, Lieut.-General Brownrigg, met at the Greyhound, and elected its officers for the year; while at the R.M.B.I. all was gaiety, for the old and young and middle-aged had met to enjoy one of Bro. Terry's social summer gatherings. We have described this and the Surrey Grand Lodge elsewhere. We need say here no more, therefore, than that everything passed off most satisfactorily and enjoyably. Now that our opportunities for social pleasure are so numerous, it is to be regretted that Lodges do not meet more frequently in the summer. We can do our Masonry first, and then enjoy ourselves in a quiet genial fashion afterwards. A pleasant pic-nic, a quiet ramble in some country lanes, a modest little dinner at the Alexandr

Digitized by Google

Palace, all of these are very agreeable ways of spending a few hours. Even Grand Lodge itself has visited Hampstead on such an errand, but that was a long time ago, and then the journey to Hampstead was a long affair. The place itself was right away from London, and the visitors were more select than they are now-a-days. But the region about Boxhill and Dorking is easily accessible. The Crays are within a short ride by rail, and other equally pretty spots, north, south, east and west, are well within our reach. Why should we not cultivate more these genial meets? We should know more of each other, and, if it be possible, be still more intimately banded together. As to expense, it would cost less to arrange and carry out two or three such summer recreations than would a single stately and elaborate banquet. The chief obstacle, perhaps, is this capricious climate of ours, one day all sunshine, the next all tears. But shady arbours are pleasant harbours of refuge, even for a band of brothers, and if there are any sisters and daughters in the case as well, why—so much the jollier, say we. We commend the simple idea to the notice of our readers. We may get a wrinkle or two from one or other of them.

Those who take an interest in the scenes of the Prince of Wales's royal progress through India have now the opportunity of seeing a series of drawings by Mr. Simpson, the well-known artist of the Illustrated London News. The sketches are on view at Mr. Thompson's, Burlington Gallery, 191 Piccadilly, and will well repay a visit of inspection.

The military athletic meeting at Lillie Bridge, on Friday and Saturday last, was, as we expected, a great success. The second day was brilliant as regards the weather, and the attendance, therefore, was on a larger scale than the day previous. The mounted contests were the great attraction, for the pedestrianism was not above the average. The Duchess of Teck, who with her husband and the Duke of Connaught were present, afterwards distributed the prizes, saying a kindly word to each of the recipients. Had Hurlingham not offered several attractions, in the shape of La Crosse and Polo, Lillie Bridge would no doubt have drawn more spectators. The same Royal party visited likewise the rival display of sport.

The political world is a little calmer, especially since Mr. Disraeli's declaration, last Friday, in the House of Commons. His statement has given great satisfaction both at home and abroad, as is evidenced by the rise in the most important stocks on the various Bourses. The Porte has offered the insurgents an armistice, which the latter are said to have rejected. This ought to excite the good will of the European powers towards the Turk. Servia has received a civil note from the Sultan's government, and has answered civilly. A Servian representative will be present at the investiture of the new Sultan, and Roumania will also be present on the occasion. The Khedive will also be present in person. All kinds of rumours are, of course, afloat. General Ignatieff is said to have been recalled from his post of ambassador at Constantinople, Prince Gortschakoff to have resigned his chancellorship. All these must be taken for what they are worth. One piece of news is certain, that the Emperors of Russia and Germany have met, and cordially embraced each other at Ems. It is said that the Emperors of Russia and Austria will meet later. Be it so. With all these personal interviews, the three Emperors ought to manage somehow to keep the peace of Europe from being disturbed. Be this as it may, the action of the British government has raised the fame of the present ministry. It is felt everywhere that England is still a power in Europe. In saying this, we imply nothing disrespectful to our late government. No such terrible commotion occurred while they were in power. The Franco-German war was a struggle between two great rival states, but an Eastern outbreak means something not very far short of a general European war. May such a catastrophe be averted!

As already announced, the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall will hold its next General Communication at the Town Hall, Falmouth, on Thursday next, the 22nd inst., at 10 a.m. precisely. At twelve o'clock the brethren will walk in procession to church, when service will be held, and the sermon preached by Bro. the Rev. J. K. Lethbridge, P.G. Chaplain. After service, the procession will be re-formed, and return to the Lodge Room, when the officers for the year will be appointed, and the other business of the meeting concluded. A banquet will follow, at 3 p.m., at the Polytechnic Hall, tickets for which, price 6s each, exclusive of wine, may be obtained at the Royal Hotel Bar, of Bro. Charles Trevithick P.G.D.C., Bro. James Sims A.P.G.D.C., or of the P.G. Stewards. Arrangements have been made with the Cornwall and West Cornwall Railway Companies to issue first and second class tickets to Falmouth on 21st and 22nd, and available for return up to and inclusive of 23rd of June, at the usual single fares, on members producing their Masonic clothing at the time of booking.

On Monday the Crystal Palace will offer a special attraction. A great Aquatic Fête will form part of the day's programme, and there will likewise be a series of swimming matches in university costume, the first race being fixed for 4 p.m. The following is the list of events:—400 yards Handicap, open to amateurs, for three prizes, the first of which will be a handsome silver watch, presented by Bro. Sir John Bennett; 200 yards Hurdle Race, over open boats, three prizes; 100 yards Siamese Twin Race, two prizes for the first couple; 100 yards in complete suits of clothes, which must weigh not less than four pounds, three prizes; pole walking for a live pig, and a live duck hunt, together with an aquatic tournament. Entrance fee to each race, 1s, and to the Siamese Twin race, 1s the couple. The prizes will be presented in the Concert Room at the close of the entertainment, by Bro. Sir John Bennett, and considering how necessary an accomplishment swimming is, both to ladies and gentlemen, and how desirable it is that every encouragement should be given to young people to acquire it, we trust the enterprise of the Crystal Palace Directors in organising such a fête, and the energy of the promoters in preparing for it, will meet with a fitting reward. We hope there will be a numerous attendance of visitors to witness the contests. Every information may be had of Bro. Hadley Prestage, Hon. Sec., Victoria Park Swimming Club, 531 Hackney Road, E., and of the General Manager of the Palace.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked at the "Earl Grey Tavern," Mile End Road, on Friday Evening, 23rd June, at seven o'clock precisely. Bros. W. Musto W.M., P.M. No. 1349; T. J. Barnes S.W., P.M. No. 933 and 554; B. Cundick J.W., S.W. No. 1421; T. Austin P.M. No. 933 and 1445.

FIRST LECTURE.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. Salmoneus 27.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. Blackhall, P.M. 1349.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. A. H. Brown 174.
4th "	... ...	Bro. T. Jennings 554.
5th "	... ...	Bro. J. Briant 933.
6th "	... ...	Bro. W. Yetton, P.M. 933.
7th "	... ...	Bro. Williams 933.

SECOND LECTURE.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. A. Ellis 933.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. Hogarth 1107.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. Job 1076.
4th "	... ...	Bro. Wm. H. Myers, P.M. 820, W.M. 1445.
5th "	... ...	Bro. Miles 1076.

THIRD LECTURE.

1st Section	... ...	Bro. I. P. Cohen, S.D. 205.
2nd "	... ...	Bro. C. H. Webb, J.W. 1107.
3rd "	... ...	Bro. T. J. Barnes, P.M. 933 & 554.

Reports of Provincial Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire; District Grand Lodge, Punjab; Consecration of Llanidloes Lodge 1582, and of Cydewain Lodge 1594, with other matters, stand over for want of space.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Summer weather brings with it many risks and many diseases. The blood becoming often overheated, and the system relaxed it interest in numbers, renders it a more susceptible recipient for poisonous emanations and all other processes. Fevers are often generated in this manner, and even more be looking in the system, in a latent form, until some accidental exciting cause calls the disease into activity. Premonitory symptoms often indicate such a state of things, such as nausea, headache, pains in the back, shiverings, &c., and such admonitions should be cautiously heeded by none. Early attention to these will often ward off impending disease and stifle the disease in its infancy. Holloway's remedies afford the best means of doing this.

Digitized by Google

CONSECRATION OF THE LEWIS CHAPTER.

"THERE is a tide in the affairs of men," as the poet has said, "which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune." The remark may, with equal truth, be applied to localities, and the propriety of the application will be manifest when we look at the present prosperous condition of our northern suburb of Wood Green. Taken in connection with the Boys' School, it may be regarded as one of the centres of Masonry, and perhaps enjoys a far wider reputation in our Order than places of far greater commercial importance. During the past twelve months it has done much to prove the popularity thus claimed for it, two new Lodges (the Alexandra Palace No. 1541 and the Loyalty No. 1607) having been consecrated. The special object of our notice this week is to report further progress, by the foundation of a Chapter in connection with the Lewis Lodge, No. 1185, which was consecrated about nine years since, and was, we believe, the first home of Masonry in these parts. Comp. Hervey G.S.E. officiated as consecrating officer, supported by Comps. A. A. Richards as H., J. Terry as J., Rev. C. T. Ridgway as Chaplain, Dr. B. Ringrose as S.E., and H. G. Buss as D.C. Comp. Hervey having addressed the Companions as to the nature of the meeting, and ably worked the usual portions of the ceremony, the Chaplain delivered the following oration:—

The beautiful ceremony prescribed to be used at the consecration of a new Lodge or Chapter includes, as a prominent feature, an oration on the merits of Freemasonry. We should be doing the wisdom of our ancient brethren who devised this ceremony a great injustice if we supposed that this was meant to be confined to a mere eulogium on the system or on those who possess it. The former is unnecessary, for the science of Freemasonry speaks for itself; neither would the latter be congenial to its spirit, for the practice of Freemasonry carries with it its own reward to those who practise it aright, and they value not the praise or flattery of men. The purpose of an oration has a higher and a nobler aim; for as every human institution is liable to be deteriorated and corrupted by the wear and tear of ages, it is intended to carry the mind back to the first principles of the Order, to trace the stream of Freemasonry through the quicksands which beset its course, to clear away the rocks and shoals which time has accumulated, until we reach the clear pellucid fountain from which flow the pure and crystal waters of charity, morality and justice. It is intended to enforce on the members of every new Chapter that they are to guard its landmarks with jealous care, and to extend its principles with unflagging, self-denying zeal. Such is, I believe, the object of this prescribed oration; and I could only wish that I had power of language sufficient to enforce upon you the importance of exercising this care. I pray you to remember that on you is thrown the responsibility of evincing to the Craft at large that the confidence placed in you by the Supreme Grand Chapter has not been misplaced. I trust you will never forget that this Chapter should be so conducted as to improve the quality of Freemasonry rather than to increase the numbers of professing Freemasons; above all, that it may be a great centre for the diffusion of brotherly love, relief and truth; brotherly love, as shewn in mutual forbearance and forgiveness, mutual aid and sympathy—joy in a companion's joy, and grief in a companion's grief, relief of his wants freely and ungrudgingly given, relief not only to his bodily but to his mental wants, relief not only to himself but to those who are nearest and dearest to him, in the persons of his widow and his orphans. And, above all, that the hand of a brother given to a brother Mason should be the sure pledge of brotherhood; ay, and when given to any of the outer world should be received as an obligation binding as any the law of man could devise, because given by a Mason. Above all, let charity and benevolence be your motto, words tending to the same end, but by different means; charity to give when you have the power, to every one of your fellow creatures in the hour of their need, and his handmaid benevolence to wish well to and to strive well for every good cause, even when, as in the Apostles' case, "silver and gold we have none" to give. Remember that the noblest instinct of man, his noblest attribute, is labour, to work through the morn, to work through the noon, to work through the evening of life, until "the night cometh when no man can work." And when man is in muscular life he should be in the higher domain of spiritual life. The highest and most complete state of man which his nature most longs for, and in which it fulfils its most sublime instinct, is work, bodily and intellectual, leading up to moral and religious work. For, as the race began with an outward paradise, which being lost may yet offer the type of a higher paradise to be gained, so each individual life begins with muscular life, the passing through the hard struggles of work in which body, mind and soul are alike engaged, it may carry its first wish it, and emerge at last into a state of inspired liberty and spontaneous beauty. It may be a gigantic task that which has been sketched out for us by the wisdom and self-denial of our forefathers in the Order; but if any of the objects of human activity are worth living for at all, if, on the whole, it is not the highest wisdom to say, "Let us eat and drink, for to-morrow we die," it is impossible to imagine a nobler or more stirring object of ambition, a cause for which a man could work with more complete satisfaction, or in which he would be sure to meet with a higher or purer reward, and to which he could devote all the energies of his life as a Mason, than to carry out to their limit the principles inculcated by Freemasonry. Let each in his own sphere, each according to the talents with which God has endowed him, take up his share of the work which lies at his door waiting to be done. There is work for all, and if Masons would but do the work which they should do, then would they be fulfilling indeed that they had undertaken, in the first and noblest degrees, to perform. Then of them it would be said, and it deserved, how sweet would it be to hear it said, "when the ear heard me, then it blessed me; and when the eye saw me, then it gave witness to me; because I relieved the poor that cried, and the fatherless, and him that had none to help him; the blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon me, and I caused the widow's heart to sing for joy." God imposes on us serious duties; we must struggle in the interests of humanity against the strong when they abuse their strength, and against the powerful when they abuse their power. From time to time the struggle is interrupted, to contemplate its fruits; the oppressed delivered from the tyrant, the poverty or diseased stricken man snatched from the abyss of want, and sent forward rejoicing on a new career of life; the widow encouraged, protected and supported, when she believed she was forsaken by all the world; the orphan, once wan and emaciated, now lighted up and rosy in the splendid dawn of its young life. Thus do we pass from indignation to tenderness, and we understand the aim of life. Then may we thank God, who, giving us the task to combat the powerful and the wicked, gives us also to succour the innocent and the feeble, and who, side by side with the grave duties of life, has placed the cheerful ones, the latter to uphold the former. The man who so understands and practices Freemasonry, even if he has not progressed beyond this degree, and even if he does not care to display one single jewel, is a better Mason and better acquainted with its symbolical teachings than he who, having taken every degree under the sun, has never carried into every day life the principles and teachings which Freemasonry has perpetually enjoined upon him. He is a Mason who can, and he is not a Mason who cannot—

"Grasp the whole world of reason, life and sense
In one close system of benevolence;
Happier, as feeling in whate'er degree,
The height of bliss in height of charity."

The ceremony having been completed, the installation of the principals followed, Comp. Leared being appointed Z., Row H., and Durrant J. The following companions were the officers selected, viz.: B. Ringrose S.E., G. Newman S.N., J. Berrie P.S., S. May P.Z. Treasurer, and C. T. Speight Janitor. The thanks of the Chapter were then voted to the Companions who had consecrated it, and Comps. Hervey, Terry, Buss, Richards and Rev. C. T. Ridgway were elected honorary members. Comp. Hervey acknowledged the compliment on behalf of himself and the others. Several propositions were then handed in, after which the Chapter was closed.

At the banquet which followed, the toasts of the Queen, the Prince of Wales, and the Grand Officers were given. In responding to that of the Grand Officers, Comp. Raynham Stewart expressed his regret at the lateness of his arrival. He was present when the Lewis Lodge was consecrated, and was pleased to see such a hopeful future before the Chapter. He concluded by wishing the Chapter as prosperous an existence as that which the Lodge had enjoyed. The toast of the Consecrating Officers having been duly honoured, Comp. Hervey replied, and then proposed the health of the Principals, and coupled with it "Success to the Chapter." Other toasts having been duly honoured, the Companions dispersed after spending a very agreeable day.

PRESENTATION TO BRO. W. G. JENNINGS.

ON Friday, 9th inst., a presentation of a very gratifying character was made to Bro. W. G. Jennings, manager of the Albion, Aldersgate-street, on the occasion of his fiftieth birthday. The staff of the establishment, with a few other personal friends, had united to give him a testimonial of their esteem and regard, and it took the form of a timepiece and two candelabra, all under glass shades, together with a handsome silver salver, bearing a suitable inscription. The presentation was made by Mr. J. Staples, C.C. (one of the directors), in the name of the donors, and in concluding a highly complimentary address, the speaker expressed a hope that Mr. Jennings, with Mrs. Jennings, would be spared for many years to come, and that each succeeding year would be pleasanter and more prosperous than the preceding—a wish that was heartily endorsed by the staff assembled. Bro. Jennings, in the course of his reply, said that when a few weeks previously he expressed a wish to meet a few friends on his fiftieth birthday, he did not at all think it would be made the occasion of such a presentation. He had endeavoured to do his duty both to employers and employed. He could not say that the handsome testimonial now presented to him would be handed down to his boys, because he was not blessed with any; but some member of his family would have it when he was gone, and would see that there had been some one connected with them who had honestly striven to do his duty, and not unsuccessfully. He thanked them most sincerely, and he hoped all connected with the Albion would ever do their utmost to make it a continued success. A further testimonial, in the form of a couple of silver breakfast cups and saucers with spoons, in a case, was then presented from the Directors. Bro. Jennings expressed his acknowledgments for this further agreeable surprise, and called for three cheers for the Directors. Before leaving the room, the members of the staff severally congratulated Bro. Jennings upon the auspicious event.

In the evening, a select circle of friends, with the principal members of the Albion staff, were entertained at dinner. The arrangements were of a thoroughly social character, such exercise of speech as was indulged in being rather of a conversational than of an oratorical order. A few toasts were duly honoured, the list including the usual expressions of loyalty and patriotism. The proceedings, which were throughout of a pleasant character, were agreeably varied by some capital singing by Miss Bessie Stroud, Messrs. Lester, Michael Watson, and Chaplin Henry, whose efficient services were duly acknowledged.

CHINESE CARVING.—For Sale, an elaborately carved Set of Ivory Chessmen. The Kings stand 8½ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Knights and rooks on horseback, all mounted on stands, with concentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. Monnas, 67 Barbican.—Adet.

Digitized by Google

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE General Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons met on Wednesday, the 14th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Gt. Queen-street, Bro. Col. Creaton P.G.D. V.P. in the chair. The Secretary, Bro. Jas. Terry, read the minutes of the former meeting, which were confirmed. In pursuance of a notice of motion, Bro. E. W. Stewart P.G.D. proposed, and Bro. J. Constable seconded, That, owing to the numerous calls upon the time of Miss Norris, by the residents of the Institution at Croydon, she be appointed matron, with a salary of £30 per annum, the appointment to date from the 1st of March last. The death of a male annuitant was announced. The list of the brethren elected to serve on the Committee was read. The Secretary stated that 19 male annuitants were admitted without election, and 21 females, being one more than was placed on the list. The report of the House Committee was then read and adopted. A vote of thanks was unanimously carried to Bro. Dr. Strong, for his presentation of a very handsome clock, which has been placed in the Institution. The members of the Finance Committee were re-elected, and the following were elected on the House Committee:—Bros. Col. Creaton P.G.D., B. Head P.G.D., E. W. Stewart P.G.D., J. E. Saunders P.G.D., and J. A. Farnfield. Bro. Col. Creaton said one candidate at the last election had lost by three votes. This candidate was over eighty years of age, and two more applicants being also over that age, it was carried unanimously that they be placed on the list of annuitants. A vote of thanks was accorded to the chairman, and the meeting was adjourned. Among those present were Bros. B. Head, S. Rawson, J. Brett, W. Hale, J. Constable, E. W. Wheeler, J. M. Case, H. J. Warren, J. Stevens, Hilton, H. Massey, Griffiths Smith, E. W. Stean, R. W. Stewart, L. Stean, Hyde Pullen, T. Cubitt, H. M. Levy, C. Hogard, &c.

LODGE OF LIGHTS, No. 148, WARRINGTON.

PRESENTATION OF A CONGRATULATORY ADDRESS TO BRO. SIR GILBERT GREENALL, BART. M.P.

THE Masonic world at Warrington was fully alive on Tuesday, 6th June last. The Craft has a history in this thriving manufacturing town. The distinguished antiquary, Elias Ashmole, was initiated there in 1646, and so pleased was he with all he then saw and heard that he carefully recorded the fact of his initiation in his diary, which can be seen at the British Museum. From that time down to the present the Craft has been well cared for. Some twenty years since, however, it was in rather a languishing condition, but, thanks to the present Secretary of No. 148, and others, new life was infused into the working, and from that time to the present Warrington has been looked upon as a model of correct, well-interpreted ritual. At the time of the "revival" the old Lodge, which was the only one, had about twenty members; now there are two Lodges and a Chapter, and the muster roll records nearly two hundred names. In the early part of the present year Bro. Greenall, one of the senior members, was made a baronet, and a unanimous desire was at once expressed to present that worthy brother with an address of congratulation. The first convenient opportunity of presenting the address was during the Whitsuntide recess, and, accordingly, a Lodge of emergency was summoned for five o'clock on Tuesday, 6th June, the W.M., Bro. W. H. Robinson, was supported by his Wardens, Bros. Thomas Tunstall and Joseph Pickthall, and a large number of brethren. The Lodge was opened in due form, and it being reported that Bro. Greenall sought admission, he was duly received, and under the direction of Bro. John Bowes, was saluted as became his rank. The W.M. rising from his chair, said: Right Worshipful Bro. Sir Gilbert Greenall, we are met for the especial purpose, as you are aware, of presenting to you an address of congratulation on the occasion of your elevation to a Baronetcy. I assure you we are all actuated by one single desire, and that is, in a feeble manner, perhaps, to give expression to the intense gratification we experience on the present occasion. You have lived amongst us all your life, and for more than a quarter of a century been "one of us." In filling the various offices you have secured credit to yourself and great advantage to your brethren. Such being the case, we all felt a brotherly desire of giving you some tangible proof of our esteem and regard. I now call upon our esteemed Secretary, Bro. Bowes, to read the address, of which he is the author, after which I shall invite those brethren who desire the opportunity to support the sentiments briefly expressed in the address.

Bro. Bowes then read the address as follows:

"To Sir Gilbert Greenall, Bart. M.P., P.M. E.A.C., P. Prov. G.S.W. W.L. and Past Senior Grand Warden of England.

"Right Worshipful Sir and Brother,—We, the W.M., Wardens, Officers and Members of the Lodge of Lights of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, No. 148, Warrington, beg your acceptance of our fraternal congratulations on the occasion of you being raised to the dignity of a Baronetcy by Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen.

"As members of your Mother Lodge we take peculiar pleasure on this occasion, because you have been long and intimately associated with us in the promotion of the best interests of our ancient Craft.

"You were admitted to Masonic light on Monday, 29th January, A.L. 5650, and we are proud to know that in your Mother Lodge you were promoted to those positions which qualified you for the high Masonic distinction you now enjoy.

"During the first year of your Mastership of the Lodge, A.L. 5851, we celebrated our Centenary Festival, and we have good reason to remember the great importance your official position amongst us imparted on that interesting occasion.

"That the Most High may long preserve you and Lady Greenall and when this transitory life shall have passed away, that the Lewis—upon whose birth it was our pleasure and privilege to congratulate you—may sustain the high distinction conferred upon his father, with equal honour, dignity and grace, is our ardent prayer

"So mote it be."

We are, Right Worshipful Sir and Brother,
Your faithful brethren,
Signed on behalf of the Lodge, W. H. Robinson, W.M.
Thos. Tunstall, S.W.
Jos. Pickthall, J.W.
John Bowes, P.M. and Hon. Sec.

Masonic Rooms, Sankey Street, Warrington.
27th March, A.L. 5876.

Bro. James Hepherd, P.M., J.P., on the invitation of the W.M., said that he felt it a great honour, as one of the senior members of the Lodge, to take part in the interesting proceedings of that day. The members of the Lodge of Lights felt proud that they numbered among their members a brother who deserved so well of his Queen and country. Bro. Greenall was well known to all present and to know him was to esteem and respect him. As a Mason he held high rank, as he deserved to do, and they felt proud of him in that respect. He cordially endorsed the sentiments conveyed in the address drawn up by their excellent Secretary, and, in common with every member of the Lodge, he tendered to Bro. Greenall his hearty congratulations.

Bro. Pickthall, J.W. said he could not let the occasion pass without adding his congratulations to those of his brethren. Bro. Sir Gilbert Greenall had their best wishes. They all united very heartily in the prayer with which the address closed, and he hoped their distinguished brother would assure Lady Greenall, and the Lewis, how sincerely they prayed for their health and happiness.

Bro. Thos. Tunstall, S.W., said: As one of the younger members of the Lodge, he begged on behalf of himself and that section of the members to express the extreme gratification they all felt at his elevation to a Baronetcy. The name of Greenall was a household word amongst them, and it was their aim to emulate his good example in carrying out the sublime precepts of their ancient and honourable Order.

Bro. Sir Gilbert Greenall, in reply, said he begged to express his heartfelt thanks for the very kind sentiments expressed towards him by the W.M., his Wardens, Bros. Hepherd, Bowes, and other brethren, and for the presentation which had just been made to him as a token of regard from the brethren of the Lodge. He received them with pleasure and delight, and he should ever remember his having been amongst them on that occasion. He always felt that there was amongst them that good and kindly feeling which ought always to exist amongst brethren, members of the Masonic Order. He felt especially grateful for the reference which had been made to him in the position he held as a Mason. He was first attracted to Masonry by the respect which he had for some excellent friends who were Masons, and having voluntarily offered himself as a candidate for the mysteries and privileges of the Order, he could most sincerely assure them that he had never had the least reason to regret having taken that step. The honour that it had pleased her Majesty to bestow upon him would in no way alter their friendly relations. He felt towards his brethren as he ever had done, and he hoped to meet them again and again in Lodge, and in the discharge of those great and important duties which they had in common undertaken to perform. He felt very grateful to them for the kind allusions which had been made to Lady Greenall, and the good feeling expressed for the welfare of his and her son. He was sure his wife would highly prize their good feeling, and he hoped that if their son was spared to grow up to manhood that he would be a good and useful man, and, like his father, be attached to Masons, and in due time be a good and true Mason himself. He again begged to thank them for their kindly expressions and the token they had given him of their friendship, which he should always look upon with pleasure, and prize very highly.

The address was beautifully written and illuminated, in book form, on vellum, and elegantly bound in blue morocco, with suitable Masonic emblems in their proper colours. The work was executed by Bro. Hine, of Manchester.

EARLY HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY IN IRELAND.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—It was with extreme pleasure I read "Masonic Investigator's" letter, and am glad to find we have such a brother in Ireland. Would that we had a few more such.

The records of the Grand Lodge of Munster, to which our brother alludes, are in the possession of the present Provincial Grand Lodge of Munster, where they have been ever since their recovery, many years ago, by our esteemed and valued brother George Chatterton, 33° and P.P.D.G.M. of Munster.

The earliest date in these records is 1721, not 1726, this 1721 record being signed by Lord Kingston G.M. and Spriggan Penn D.G.M.

What is alluded to in Bro. Spencer's catalogue of 1850 is, I think, a MS. copy of part only of these original records, being those from 1726 to 1733. This MS. copy may have been the one used by the printer when printing part of these original records for Mr. Hewitt.

Much praise is due to our brother George Chatterton for having secured these invaluable records. They were found by him, after much trouble, in the shop of an old book dealer in Cork.

Could our Bro. Chatterton be persuaded to write a history of this Grand Lodge? No brother is so competent, or has the information to hand.

I shall be glad to receive our brother "Masonic Investigator's" address, so as to enter into a Masonic correspondence with him.

Yours fraternally.

3 Upper Mount-street, Dublin, JAMES H. NELSON,
18th June 1876.

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

SATURDAY, 17th JUNE.

186—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

MONDAY, 19th JUNE.

65—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem, St. John's-square, E.C., at 8. (Instruction.)
1159—Marquess of Dalhousie, Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street.

238—York, Masonic Hall, York.
331—Phœnix of Honour and Prudence, Public Rooms, Truro.
360—Peace and Harmony, Freemasons' Hall, Southampton.
409—Merit, George Hotel, Stamford Baron, Northampton.
725—Stranleigh, King's Arms Hotel, Kenilworth.
1037—Portland, Royal Breakwater Hotel, Portland.
1161—Mid Sussex, Assembly Rooms, Horsham.
1236—Gooch, Prince Alfred Hotel, Southall.
1402—Israel, 22 Hope-street, Liverpool.
R. A. 402—St. James's, New Inn, Handsworth, Staffordshire.

TUESDAY, 20th JUNE.

66—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
865—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
1507—Metropolitan, 269 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)
Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, at 6.30.

219—Perseverance, Masonic Hall, Theatre-street, Norwich.
1006—Tregullow, Masonic Rooms, St. Day, Scorrier, Cornwall.
1325—Stanley, Masonic Hall, Kirkdale, Liverpool.
1470—Chiltern, Town Hall, Dunstable.
R. A. 41—Royal Cumberland, Old Orchard-street, Bath.
R. A. 419—St. Peter, Swan Hotel, Wolverhampton.
R. A. 705—Oliver, Ball-ring-lane, Grimsby.

WEDNESDAY, 21st JUNE.

190—Oak, Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street.
193—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7. (Instruction.)
218—Euphrates, Masons' Hall, Basinghall-street, E.C.
1286—Finsbury Park, Finsbury Park Tav., Seven Sisters'-rd., at 8.0. (Instruction.)
1534—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Albion-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)

121—Mount Sinai, Public-buildings, Penzance.
137—Amity, Masonic Hall, Thames-street, Poole.
139—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover. (Instruction.)
200—Old Globe, Private Rooms, Globe-street, Scarborough.
221—St. John's, Commercial Hotel, Town Hall Square, Bolton.
591—Buckingham, George Hotel, Aylesbury.
966—Sun and Sector, Assembly Rooms, Workington.
1040—Sykes, Masonic Hall, Great Driffield.
1043—Malling Abbey, Bear Inn, West Malling, Kent.
1048—Walton, St. Lawrence Boys' School, Kirkdale.
1114—Joppa, Corn Hall, Faversham.
1164—Eliot, Private Rooms, St. Germains, Cornwall.
1247—Anchor, Masonic Rooms, Durham House, Northallerton.
1263—Duke of Lancaster, Athenæum, Lancaster.
1443—Salem, Town Hall, Dunstable, Beds.
1502—Wycombe, Town Hall, High Wycombe.
1661—Alexandra, Masonic Hall, Bromley.
R. A. 403—Hertford, Town Hall, Hertford.
R. A. 591—Buckingham, George Hotel, Aylesbury.
R. A. 907—Royal Albert, White Hart Tavern, Archurch-lane, E.C.
R. A. 1365—Clapton, White Hart Tavern, Clapton, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

THURSDAY, 22nd JUNE.

General Committee, Girls' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
3—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, Lambton-st., Fitzroy-sq., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Lendenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
435—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W., at 8. (Instruction.)
1305—Hervey, 182 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1426—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
78—Imperial George, Appleton Arms Hotel, Middleton, Lancashire.
100—Friendship, Crown and Anchor Hotel, Quay, Great Yarmouth.
R. A. 216—Sacred Delta, Masonic Temple, Hope-street, Liverpool.
R. A. 217—Stability, Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, E.C.
R. A. 279—Fortitude, Freemasons' Hall, Halford-street, Leicester.

FRIDAY, 23rd JUNE.

933—Doric, East Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1279—Burdett Coutts, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, at 7.30. (Instruction.)

SATURDAY, 24th JUNE.

186—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
463—Chigwell, Castle Hotel, Woodford, Essex.
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

MONDAY.

R. A. 139—Paradise, Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield.

WEDNESDAY.

1019—Sincerity, Freemasons' Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield.
131—Brighouse, Mayor's Room, Town Hall, Brighouse.
R. A. 254—Amphibalus, Freemasons' Hall, Bradford.

FRIDAY.

R. A. 61—Sincerity, Freemasons' Hall, St. John's-place, Halifax.

SATURDAY.

1402—Wharncliffe, Rose and Crown Hotel, Penistone.
R. A. 30—Alfred Ray, Station Hotel, Bolton-le-Moors.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

424—Borough, Freemasons' Hall, West-street, Gateshead.

TUESDAY.

1427—Percy, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
R. A. 30—St. John's, Masonic Hall, Park Terrace, Sunderland.

WEDNESDAY.

1324—Norman, Freemasons' Hall, Old Elvet, Durham.
1389—Fenwick, Masonic Hall, Park-terrace, Sunderland.

THURSDAY.

1418—Fraternity, Freemasons' Hall, Malcolm-terrace, Stockton-on-Tees.
R. A. 451—Ogle, Masonic Hall, Northumberland-st., Newcastle.

FRIDAY.

Royal Kent Rose Croix, Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

IRELAND.

WEDNESDAY—161—Excelsior, Bishop-street, Tuam.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

MONDAY.—44—St. Luke, Freemasons' Hall.
TUESDAY—36—St. David, Star Hotel, East Register-street.
426—Rifle, Freemasons' Hall.
WEDNESDAY—100—Roman Eagle, Iona Hotel, 62 Nicolson-street.
THURSDAY—82—Caledonian, Freemasons' Hall.

GLASGOW AND THE WEST OF SCOTLAND.

During the Tourist Season, for the benefit of our travelling brethren, we purpose giving all the Masonic Meetings in the West. All the meetings are at 8 p.m., unless otherwise expressed.

MONDAY—102—Unity, 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow.
" 348—Partnership, Maryhill-street, Govan-road, Glasgow.
TUESDAY—349—St. Matthew, Crown Hotel, Dreghorn, at 7.0 p.m.
WEDNESDAY—117—St. Mary Street Room, Douglas-street, Partick.
" 371—Dramatic, 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow, at 5.0, p.m.
" R.A. 150—Shettleston, Freemasons' Hall, Shettleston.
THURSDAY—280—Blair Dalry, White Hart Hall, Dalry, at 7.0. p.m.
" 424—St. John, Castle Inn, New Cumnock.
FRIDAY—276—St. John's, Forth Inn, Carnwath.
" 360—Royal Kilwinning, Commercial Hotel, Kilwinning.
SATURDAY—24—St. John's, Black Bull Inn, Kirkintilloch.
" 305—St. John Westhall, Freemasons' Hall, Holytown, (Installation), at 7.0 p.m.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons.—On Tuesday, 6th June, the summer half-yearly Communication was held at the Masonic Hall, 33 Golden-square. Present—The Rt. Hon. the Earl of Limerick M.W.G.M.M., Rev. G. R. Portal Past Grand Mark Master, Colonel Le Gendre M. Starkie P.G.W. as G.S.W., Captain N. G. Philips G.J.W., Major George Barlow G.M.O., John Chadwick G.S.O., S. Tassentiel P.G.D.C. as G.J.O., Rev. C. R. Davy P.G.C. as G. Chaplain, Frederic Davison G. Treasurer, H. C. Levander G. Registrar, F. Binckes P.G.J.W. G. Secretary, Samuel Jones G.S.D., J. C. Gregg G.J.D., R. W. Edis G. Inspector of Work, Thos. Trollope M.D. G.D.C., T. W. Coffin P.G.S.B. as G. Sword Bearer, T. S. Mortlock G. Standard Bearer, J. H. Spencer G. Inner Guard, C. T. Speight G. Tyler, with a large number of Past G. Officers, Masters, P.M.'s, Wardens, Overseers, and brethren of private Lodges. The minutes of the Communication of 30th November, and those of the moveable G.L. held at Bristol on 28th April having been read and confirmed, the report of the General Board was read and adopted, i.e., grant to a brother from the Fund of Benevolence £20, announcement of the Benevolent Fund Festival for 19th July next, recommendation for a further investment of £200 on account of the General Fund. The Rt. Hon. the Earl of Limerick was then installed, proclaimed and saluted as Grand Mark Master Mason, and returned his thanks to the brethren for their election of him to this his second year of office, alluding to the flourishing state of the Order, which he trusted would continue to prosper under his rule. The M.W. Grand Mark Master thereupon invested the following for the ensuing year:—The Rt. Hon. Lord Skelmersdale Deputy Grand Master, the Rt. Hon. Earl of Jersey Grand S.W., Lt. General J. S. Browning Grand J.W., Rev. R. H. E. Brette, B.D., and Rev. J. S. Browning Grand Chaplains, F. Davison G. Treasurer, H. C. Levander G. Reg., F. Binckes (P.G.J.W.) G. Secretary, Wm. Roebuck G.M.O., W. S. Webster G.S.O., Hy. Matthews G.J.O., Josiah Austin G.S.D., J. E. Curtois G.J.D., R. W. Edis G. Supt. of Wks., H. M. Green G.D.C., Chas. Lacey G.A.D.C., Henry Bugot G. Swd. Br., T. W. Faulkner G. Std. Br., F. H. Cozens G. Org., J. J. Fust G.I.G., H. W. Binckes G. Asst. Secy., C. T. Speight G. Tyler, Robert Butterworth, J. J. Loewenthal, C. Pulman, Geo. Bolton, and Mason, G. Stewards. Bros. W. E. Gumbleton, Thos. Moggy, S. Rosenthal, R. W. Edis and S. C. Diblin were then nominated by the Grand Master, and Thos. Cubitt, D. M. Dewar, T. J. Sabine, E. S. Stildolph, and W. Roebuck were elected members of the General Board, of which the Rev. G. R. Portal P.G.M. was appointed President. Bro. Roebuck was presented by the G.M. with the jewel for having served as Steward to the Benevolent Fund. The G.M. then performed the very pleasing duty of presenting Bro. Gerald Martin P.M., of the Mallet and Chisel Lodge, No. 134 (Poona, Bombay), with a handsome P.M.'s jewel, which had been voted to him by the members of that Lodge in token of their admiration and esteem for him as a Master, and their regard for him as a friend and brother. Bro. Rev. Wm. Langley P.G. Chap. invited G.L. to hold a moveable G.L. at Leicester in the autumn, which the M.W.G.M. was pleased to accept. G.L. was then closed in ample form, and the brethren adjourned to banquet at the Café Royal, Regent-street, under the presidency of the G.M.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting on Monday, the 12th of June, at the Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell. Present—Bros. Baker as W.M., Thornton S.W., Rule J.W., Kedick Sec., Hadrell Turner, Ingleton P.D., Perrett J.D., Gilbert I.G., Christopher Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. Parker, Prentice, and Hines. Business—Lecture on the first section, and the minutes were duly confirmed. Bro. Hall was passed to the second degree. Bros. Beckett and Turner worked the sections of the second lecture. Bro. Morris was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Clapham Chapter, No. 50.—This Chapter held its monthly meeting on Thursday, the 8th inst., at St. Mark's Hall, and was opened by the Z., Comp. Morris, in the Mark degree, with Comps. C. Vandervell S.W., B. Lewis J.W., P. Arthur Treasurer. Visitors—J. Parker Z. of 67, H. W. Gee Z. 73, J. O. Park P.Z., Mercer 1st S. 73. A long discussion took place relative to the status of those brethren who had received the Mark degree in a Craft Lodge, all the 1st Principals named above holding that they could not receive such a brother into a Chapter, even when it was working in the Mark degree. The question was also raised as to the legality of a Royal Arch Mason assisting to confer the Mark degree in a Blue Lodge.

Digitized by Google

St. Andrews Royal Arch Chapter, No. 69.—This Chapter held its regular meeting, in St. Clair Hall, Robertson-street, the M.E.Z. Comp. Campbell presiding, who opened the Chapter in the Mark degree with Comps. Harper J. as S.W., Wm. Dobbie P.Z. of 119 as J.W., J Fash Secretary, J. Blackwood Treasurer, and D. Ramsay O.G. There were two candidates for advancement, Bro. Wm. Pascoe of St. Clair 362 and Wm. Bisland S.W. of the Clyde Lodge 408. At the request of Comp. Campbell, Comp. Wheeler Z. of 73 performed the ceremony. The office of H. and others being vacant, the following Comps. were nominated for the respective offices:—J. Harper J., W.M. of 408, was raised to the chair of H., J. R. McNair P.M. of 332 as J., Comp. McGinnis Superintendent of Works, Collett Capt. of 1st Veil, Stark Capt. of 2nd Veil, and Wm. Pascoe Capt. of 3rd Veil. Amongst the visitors present were Comps. J. Dobbie Z. 67, Wheeler Z. 73, Mercer 1st S. 87, W. Dobbie P.Z., and Mirrain of 119.

Shamrock and Thistle Chapter, No. 87.—This Chapter held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, 7th June, at 12 Trongate, Comp. McNaught presiding, Comp. J. Dobbie Z. of 67 was also present, and took part in a discussion on the legality of Blue Lodges conferring the Mark degree, and granting diplomas thereof. It was resolved to lay the matter before the Supreme Grand Chapter of Scotland.

Royal Arch Lodge, No. 116, Rutherglen.—This Lodge having lost one of its most active members, the late P.M., Wm. Robertson, who was also Substitute Master of the Province of Renfrewshire East, determined, with the sanction of the P.G.L., to hold a Lodge of Sorrow to do honour to his memory, and having secured the Town Hall for the purpose, and draped it in sombre hue befitting the melancholy occasion, the Lodge was opened at 8 p.m. on Friday, 9th June, by the R.W.M. Bro. John Hamilton, Calton S.W., P. Rice J.W., J. Ferguson I.P.M., and the rest of the Office-bearers; in the East, the Rev. J. C. Stewart, who officiated as P.G. Chaplain, the R.W.M.'s of Royal Arch, No. 114, Cambuslang, and St. Mirrens, No. 129, Paisley; there were also deputations from the following Lodges in Renfrewshire East and the Province of Glasgow, in most cases headed by the W. Master and Wardens. St. John's 3 bis, Old St. John's 21, Kirkintilloch 28, Thistle and Rose 73, Cambuslang 114, Royal Arch 116, Shelleston 128, St. Mirrens 129, Scotia 178, Pollockshaw 153, Star 219, Shamrock and Thistle 275, St. George 333, St. John's, 347, Rutherglen, St. Clair 362, St. John's, 458, Busby, Thorntree 512, and the Clydesdale 556. The R.W.M., Bro. J. Hamilton, in his opening address, gave a brief outline of the Masonic career of our late brother Robertson, who was initiated on 8th August, 1861, in the Royal Arch Lodge, Rutherglen. In 1865 he was elected to the chair, and filled it with such ability that on the two following years he was re-elected. He was also elected again in 1868, and filled a third term of office in 1873, when he was also Substitute Grand Master of Renfrewshire East, and in the absence of Col. Campbell he frequently presided at the Provincial Quarterly Communications. Col. Campbell had written expressing his regret that he was unable to attend at this public testimony of their appreciation of his Masonic worth. At a later stage in the proceedings, the Rev. J. C. Stewart, Chaplain, delivered a most excellent oration, commenting on the many virtues of our deceased brother, and showing how the theory of Masonry, when, as in this instance, reduced to practice, was calculated to adorn the moral man, and fit him for the Grand Lodge above. The hymns, anthem, and chants were very well rendered by a choir of brethren from the Rutherglen and Shamrock and Thistle Lodges, Bro. Miller P.M. of the Athol 413, P.G.D. of Music of the Province of Glasgow, presiding at the harmonium; the other members included J. Neilson G.C., P. McNaught P.M. 275, J. B. McNaught, J. Stirling, Hamilton, and Parkinson. The whole of the proceedings were rendered in a very impressive manner, and must have been very gratifying to the sorrowing friends of our lamented brother.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—The Lodge met on Wednesday, the 14th inst., at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street, E.C., Bro. Rudderforth presiding. There were also present Bros. Pelton S.W., Hollands J.W., J. K. Pitt Hon. Sec., John Constable P.M. Hon. Treas., Geo. Pare S.D., Trigg J.D., Bone I.G., Christoper Tyler; E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, T. J. Barnes P.M., James Stevens P.M., W. Yerton P.M., C. Atkins P.M., and a full complement of members. The minutes of the previous meeting having been confirmed, the second ceremony was ably rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. P. Turner acting as candidate. Three of the sections were worked by Bro. Gottheil, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Hollands was elected to preside on the next occasion. It was decided that the fifteen sections should be worked by Bro. T. J. Barnes P.M. 933, &c. on Wednesday, the 5th of July. As a great gathering is anticipated on that occasion, the largest room in the house has been engaged for the purpose.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Saturday, 10th June, at Bro. Fyall's, "Jolly Farmers," Southgate-road, Islington. Present — Bros. Macarthy W.M., Halford S.W., Read J.W., Killick Secretary, Halford Treasurer, Stock S.D., Powell J.D., Hurgins I.G., Percy Preceptor. Business—The Lodge was opened with due care. The ceremony of passing was then rehearsed, Bro. Powell being the candidate, Bro. Stock, with the assistance of the brethren, worked several of the sections. Bro. Halford was selected as W.M. for the ensuing week.

Temple Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 173.—A meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, 12th June, at the "Green Dragon" Tavern, Stepney. In the absence of Bro. G. W. Verry W.M., and also of Bro. C. Lacy the I.P.M., Bro. T. Mortlock P.M. occupied the chair. There were also present Bros. E. Gottheil S.W., N. Glackstein as J.W., Sturtevant Hon. Sec., S. Turquand M.O., Dr. Defries as S.O., Mole I.O., Condick S.D., Wallingford J.D., J. K. Pitt acting as I.G., Grant Tyler, and many other brethren. Bros. J. Starkey of 1489, and W. C. Claridge of 1421 were duly advanced to the degree. Although there was but slight refreshment on this occasion, Bro. Mortlock, in his genial way, managed to render the evening a most pleasant one. Several good songs were given by Bros. Barnett, Wallingford, Davis, Defries, Mortlock and Toy, and at a very early hour the brethren dispersed, with mutual good wishes, expressions of satisfaction, and sincere regrets that two months must elapse before another opportunity for a similar gathering will occur.

Northern Counties Lodge, No. 406.—A meeting of this Lodge took place on Wednesday, 7th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. There were present—Bro. W. Mondoy W.M., R. Knox S.P.M., J. H. Holloday S.W., G. Lax as J.W., R. L. Armstrong Treasurer, &c., J. Page S.D., S. M. Harris as J.D., — Deco I.G., G. T. Timmes Tyler. Past Masters—B. J. Tompson Prov. G.S., W. Fulsham, W. T. Hughes, Rev. T. H. Harris. The Lodge was opened in due form by the W.M. There was one initiate, and five brethren were passed by the W.M., in a very excellent manner. The Lodge being closed, the brethren adjourned, when the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. There were present as Visitors Bros. J. Spearman W.M. 481, E. J. Deen J.W. 541, R. H. Stone 541, McKenning, Boston, U.S.

Northern Counties Lodge of Instruction, No. 406.—At the meeting held on Tuesday, the 13th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne, were present Bros. W. T. Hughes P.M. as W.M., J. Watson S.W., T. M. Harris J.W., J. Wood Secretary and S.D., J. Duckitt J.D., G. T. Timmes I.G., Marten P.M. Tyler, R. Knox P.M. Preceptor. The Lodge was opened in the three degrees, and several questions asked. Bro. Rysdoll P.M. was elected Lecture Master for the next meeting.

Royal York Lodge of Instruction, No. 315, Brighton.—On Tuesday last an interesting ceremony took place in connection with this Lodge, an illuminated address of thanks being presented to P.M. Bro. Hugh Saunders for the gratuitous use of his house for the purposes of the Lodge during the past 18 years. The presentation was made by the W.M., Bro. T. Nall, but, in accordance with the wishes of the recipient, was of an entirely private nature. The address was handsomely framed, and the illumination the work of Mr. Leggatt, of Gloucester-place, to whom great credit is due.

St. Peter's Lodge, No. 481.—The election meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, the 12th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. Bros. John Spearman W.M., R. L. Armstrong as S.W., H. S. Sewell J.W., G. Thompson P.M. P.P.G.S.W. Treasurer, R. Honard Secretary, R. Eynon S.D., H. Turner J.D., Carr I.G., Marten Tyler. There was one candidate initiated, two brethren passed, and one raised. The election of W.M. then took place, and resulted in favour of Bro. H. S. Sewell, the J.W. Bro. G. Thompson P.M. was elected Treasurer, and Bro. G. S. Timmes Tyler. The Finance Committee elected were Bros. J. T. Wilson P.M., J. Atkinson P.M., J. H. Thompson P.M., J. Spearman I.P.M., J. Cook P.M. and W. Pearson. The Lodge being closed, the brethren adjourned to refreshments. The health of the W.M. elect was given by the W.M., who spoke in very high terms of the capabilities of Bro. Sewell. Bro. Sewell, in reply, thanked the brethren for the honour they had conferred upon him in placing him in the proud position of W.M. The whole of the work was done by the W.M., Bro. Spearman, in his usual excellent manner. There was a very large attendance of brethren, amongst whom were J. Cook I.P.M., W. Fulsham P.M. and D.C. Visitors—W. Mondoy W.M. 406, P. O. Smith P.M. 541, Waddington J.W. 48, J. Wood I.G. 48, Hord Secretary 1427, S. M. Harris J.S. 406.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The members met at the "Royal Edward," Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 13th June. Present—Bros. Weige W.M., Brown S.W., Barker J.W., Smith S.D., Williams J.D., Johnson I.G., Worsley Secretary, Wallington Preceptor, and several other brethren. The Lodge was opened in due form, and Bro. Cull, having answered the usual questions, was passed to the 2nd degree. The 1st section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Allen, the Lodge was then closed to the 1st degree; the 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the lecture were worked, the first two by Bro. Cull, and the 3rd by Bro. Allen, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Brown was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing meeting.

Rose of Denmark Chapter, No. 975.—The usual quarterly meeting of this Chapter was held at the Star and Garter, Kew Bridge, on Saturday, 3rd inst. Present—Comps. Terry acting M.E.Z., John Newton H., Henry Martin J., J. P. Richards S.N., W. Dodd S.E., J. Green S.S., J. Walker A.S., H. G. Buss P.G. Treasurer, G. Price P.Z., Mar, Chapman, Gorman, and several others. Visitors—Comps. D. W. Rais P.S. 1293, Roberts 771, C. G. Hill S.N. 177. The Chapter was opened and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. John Bingemann, P.M. 65, W.M. 1599, and Bro. Charles H. Goode No. 27 were balloted for and approved, when Bro. Bingemann being in attendance was duly exalted in Companion Terry's usual excellent style, he being well supported by his officers. The Chapter was then closed in ancient form and adjourned till September.

Digitized by Google

Duke of Connaught Lodge of Instruction.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Wednesday, 14th June, at the Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston. Present—Bros. Robinson W.M., Brown S.W., Hill J.W., F. Garbutt S.D., Sims J.D., Brasted I.G., Gilchrist Preceptor, and Bros. Torking, Marsh, Bell, Fieldwick, Dicnam, Farrah, Pool and Shackleton. Lodge opened in due form with solemn prayer, minutes of last Lodge meeting read and confirmed, initiation ceremony rehearsed, Bro. Torking as candidate. The 1st and 2nd sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Gilchrist, the 3rd and 4th by Bro. Fieldwick, assisted by the brethren. Bros. Torking 1524, and Gartitt 1178 were elected joining members. Bro. Brown was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Nothing else offering the Lodge was closed in ancient form, and adjourned to Wednesday 21st inst., at 8 p.m.

Phœnix Lodge, Port Royal, Jamaica, No. 914.—An Emergency Lodge was held on the 11th May, at 8 p.m., for the installation of the following officers:—Worshipful Osmond Delgado jun. Master, Worshipful Osmond Delgado sen. I.P.M., Bros. W. I. L. Rutherford S.W., J. S. Campbell J.W., R. Thompson Treasurer., L. C. Hollar Secretary, J. Hall S.D., E. C. Price J.D., J. Allen D.C., C. Ward and C. Levy Stewards, E. De Pass I.G., Frank Hollar Tyler. Several Past Masters of Sister Lodges were present, and assisted the W.M., G. J. De Cordova, in the ceremony of installation, after which the brethren retired to a well-spread banquet, where the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and heartily responded to, the brethren retiring at a very late hour. This Lodge has completed its own Masonic Temple, it being intended for the use of the Navy and Army. It numbers about fifty members.

The Phœnix Lodge having obtained a charter for the Holy Royal Arch Chapter, a convocation was held on the 11th May, at 3 p.m., when the following officers were installed:—Excellent Companions W. J. L. Rutherford Scribe E., Henry Barned Scribe N., R. Thompson Treasurer, and Compa. L. Hollar and J. L. Campbell Assistant Sojourners, F. Hollar Janitor. Seventeen brethren were elected, of whom twelve were exalted on the 7th April. The consecration took place, and the following Principals were installed:—Most Excellent Companions G. J. De Cordova Z., O. Delgado H., D. Barned J., and Excellent Companion O. Delgado jun. Principal Sojourner. The Consecration was performed by the Most Excellent J. W. Whitbourne Deputy Grand Superintendent, assisted by several others. The members of the Sussex Lodge, Kingston, Jamaica, having consented to sell their premises, have purchased another spot, where, shortly, a new Masonic Temple will be raised.

CLUB HOUSE PLAYING CARDS.—Mogul Quality, picked 1s 3d per pack, 14s per dozen packs. Do. seconds 1s per pack. 11s per dozen packs. If by post 1½d per pack extra. Cards for Piquet, Bésique, Ecarté, &c., Mogul Quality 10d per pack, 9s per dozen packs.—London: W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, E.C.

"A suitable gift from a Master to his Lodge."

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 8s 6d EACH,

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUMES I., II. and III.

London:—W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Sent, Carriage Paid, to any address in the United Kingdom, on receipt of Cheque or P.O.O.

Cloth Cases for Binding can be had from the Offices, price 1s 6d each.

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE can be ordered of any Bookseller in Town or Country, but should any difficulty be experienced, it will be forwarded direct from the Office, on receipt of Post Office Order for the amount. Intending Subscribers should forward their full Addresses to prevent mistakes.

Post Office Orders to be made payable to W. W. MORGAN, at Barbican Office. Cheques crossed "London and County."

The Terms of Subscription (payable in advance) to THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE are—

Twelve Months, Post Free	...	...	£0 13 6
Six Months	ditto	...	0 7 0
Three Months	ditto	...	0 3 6

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisers will find THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE an exceptionally good medium for Advertisements of every class.

Per Page...	...	...	...	...	...	£8 0 0
Back Page	...	...	...	...	...	£10 0 0

General Advertisements, Trade Announcements, &c. single column, 5s per inch. Double Column Advertisements 1s per line. Special Terms for a Series of insertions on application.

Births, Marriages and Deaths, 6d per line.

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief PARISIAN ESTABLISHMENTS, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

ESTIMATES GIVEN FOR EVERY DESCRIPTION OF

PRINTING.

CONTRACTS ENTERED INTO FOR SUPPLYING ALL KINDS OF

STATIONERY.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR

PUBLISHING.

PARTICULARS ON APPLICATION TO

W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN,

LONDON, E.C.

One Door from Aldersgate Street.

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE.

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.

It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 6d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,

Bro. J. L. MATHER, P.M. 55, 1237, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Winchester-street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c. Tamar (unlike pills and the usual purgatives) is agreeable to take, and never produces irritation.—1s 6d per box, post free 3d extra.—E. GRILLON, 34 Coleman-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY.—A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a simple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.

Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Grove Terrace, Fulham London.

Digitized by Google

A SELECTION OF SCARCE MASONIC BOOKS, ON SALE BY JOHN HOGG, 15A PATERNOSTER ROW,
LONDON, E.C.

(SEE ALSO CATALOGUE OF OCTOBER 1875.)

POST OFFICE ORDERS TO BE MADE PAYABLE AT THE CHIEF OFFICE.

Masonic Scrap Book.—Containing MS. Rituals for the Craft and R.A. degrees (Helvetian Ceremonies at the Building and Dedication of a Lodge, Dedication of a Chapter, R.A. Lecture, &c.) Also Nash's Commentary on the Bible, for the consideration of Comps. Together with many things of Special Interest to the Humber and Minerva Lodges, Hull. Compiled by Bro. Samuel Standing Walton, P.M. £5 5s 0d

United Friars.—History of the Knights Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem, including various papers, historical and descriptive, written by Bros. John Taylor, Edward Foss, Matarin, Richard Payne Collier, the Rev. Joseph Hunter of Bath, &c. Also the original Document re-constituting the Society in 1918, and the proceedings on the admission of members, rules, vouchers, &c. An exceedingly curious and perfectly unique collection £5 5s 0d

A Valuable Collection of the Proceedings, Transactions, and Constitutions of the Various Grand Lodges in America, 1837-75. 21 vols. 8vo. £8 8s 0d

Constitutions.—The very rare 1723 edition, 4to., with frontispiece £4 14s 6d

Constitutions.—Continued by Noorthouck, 4to., 1784, with frontispiece £3 17s 6d

The Freemason's Magazine: or General and Complete Library. The first 9 vols., 1793 to 1797, half calf, Masonic tooling and lettered. With the plates complete, which is very rare. A very nice copy £3 18s 6d

Curious Proceedings of the Inquisition of Portugal against Freemasons to Discover their Secret, with the Questions and Answers, the Cruelties exercised, &c., 12mo. (In French.) 10s 6d

The Freemason's Repository.—Containing a Selection of Valuable Discourses, Charges, Rules, Orders, Aphorisms, and Letters, particularly one from Oundit ul Omrah Bahander, son of the Nabob of Arcot, &c. Fine and curious frontispiece. 12mo. 9s 0d

Freemason's Vocabulary: followed by 20 Chapters of Constitutions, &c. 18mo., Paris. (In French.) 2s

Catechisme des Francs Maçons, décidé en Beau Sexe. Par L. Gabanon. 18mo., Jerusalem et Limoges, 1440 (depuis le Déluge). Avec Approbation et Privilege du Roi Salomon 9s 0d

Abridgement of the History of Freemasonry, with pieces in prose and verse, and anecdotes; also an essay on the mysteries and true object of the Society, &c. 12mo. Lausanne, 1779. (French) 7s 6d

Freemasonry Explained by a Friend of the Truth. By A. N, Dr. M. 12mo. Metz, 1833. (In French) 7s 6d

Moral of Freemasonry; and Spirit, Thoughts, and Maxims of the most Distinguished Freemasons. By M. Bazot. 18mo. Paris, 1827. (In French) 7s 6d

Bedarride's Masonic Order of Misraim. Portraits, 2 vols. Paris, 1845. (In French) 10s 6d

The Principles and Practice of Masonry.—Including Duties of a Freemason; a Collection of Laws, &c., 12mo., 1796 ... ... 10s 6d

Extrait des Statuts et Reglemens Généraux de l'Ordre Maçonique en France; Ouvrage indispensable à tous les Maçons Reguliers, 12mo., Paris, 1825 ... ... 6s 0d

Le Rameau Maçonnique (Masonic Songs, &c.) Curious frontispiece, 18mo., Paris, 1810 ... 7s 6d

Notice Historique sur l'Etablissement et les Travaux du Gr. Or. de Belgique, with illustrations, 12mo., Bruxelles, 1840 ... ... 6s 0d

Freemasonry Contrasted with Intolerance, Dublin, 1844 ... ... 2s 6d

Apology for the Order of Freemasons. Curious frontispiece, 18mo., Berlin, 1809 (In German) 9s 0d

Etat du G. O. de France, 1777-79. 3 vols., 8vo. 10s 6d

Gourdin's What is Freemasonry? 8vo., Columbia, 1857 ... ... 3s 6d

G. O. of France before Universal Masonry, 8vo., Paris. (In French) 3s 6d

Hermetic Letters against Prejudices and Deceptions. First Collection. By Dr. J. Salomo Semler, 18mo., Leipzig, 1781. (In German) 6s 0d

Historical and Philosophical Studies of Ancient and Modern Masonry. By J. S. Boubée, 8vo., Paris, 1854. (In French) 7s 6d

Le Bon-Sens. A Translation into French of Tom Paine's "Common Sense; or Natural Ideas opposed to Supernatural Ideas," 12mo., London, 1782 ... ... 5s 0d

Le Secret des Francs-Maçons, Symbolical cut on title-page, 18mo., 1744 ... ... 15s 0d

Mackey's Principles of Masonic Law. Portrait, 12mo., New York, 1856 ... ... 10s 6d

Masonic Knights Templar. Statutes of the Order. Editions, 1853 or 1864, with illustrations ... 7s 6d

Moore's Address before the Boston Encampment of Knights Templars, 17th April 1853, 8vo. ... 6s 6d

Oliver's History of Initiation, 8vo., Lond., 1829. 15s 0d

On the Object of the Order of Freemasons. Curious Vignette, 18mo., Berlin, 1781. (In German) 6s 6d

Ragon's Philosophical and Interpretative Course of Ancient and Modern Initiation. Paris, 1841. (In French) 17s 6d

Les Franc-Maçons et les Sociétés Secrètes. Par Alex. de Saint Albin. 12mo., Paris, 1852 7s 6d

Discoveries in Freemasonry.—Letter to the Author of Thoughts on Freemasonry. To my Fellow Citizens, on Freemasonry. Three Tracts in one vol., 18mo., 1793. (In German) ... 10s 6d

The Women Monument.—With Macoy's Address and Ceremonies of Dedication, and the Funeral Procession. Presentation Copy, with Bro. Macoy's Autograph, 8 plates. New York, 26th November 1857 ... ... 9s

Report of the Lodge Immortal Peace, to which is added a Collection of Songs, &c. 8vo., Paris, 1809. (In French) 6s

Secret of the Corruption and Burning of all Things. 18mo., Frankfort, 1725. (In German) ... 6s

Secrets of some Fellow-sphere and Adepts. Curious Plate. 18mo., Leipzig, 1780. (In German) 6s

Splendour of Light: a Treatise on the Philosopher's Stone. By Aloysio Wiesner. 18mo., Frankfort, 1784. (In German) 6s

Truth Drawn from the Hermetic Well. By Adamah Bon. 18mo., Leipzig, 1783. (In German) 6s

Les Plus Secrets Mystères des Hauts Grades de la Maçonnerie devoilés. Curious Allegorical Frontispiece and Double Folding Plate. 12mo., Jerusalem, 1782. (In French) 10s

Manuel du Franc-Maçon. By M. Bazot, 18mo., Paris, 1819, 15s; Ditto, 2 vols, 12mo., frontispiece, Paris, 1825, 20s; Ditto, 2 vols, 12mo., frontispiece, Paris, 1841, Calf, extra tooled. A very nice copy £1 10s

Oral Course of Symbolical Masonry. In twelve Sessions, with a Vocabulary, forming a little Masonic Catechism. 8vo., Paris, 1823. (In French) 7s 6d

Dermott's Ahiman Rezon. Frontispieces. Editions 1778, 1783, 1787, 1800, 1801, & 1813 12s 6d to 17s 6d

The Freemason's Pocket Companion. Editions 1759, 1763, 1765, 1783 and 1788 10s 6d to 17s 6d

Pocket Tyler of the 33 degrees of the A. and A. Scottish Rite, 12mo., Paris, 1819. (In French) 10s 6d

Stapleton's Handbook of Freemasonry. With Illustrations, 8vo., Calcutta, 1857 ... ... 21s 0d

Temple of Solomon: A general Chart of the Working Plan of the Revolutionary Alliance, with Explanatory Essay upon it; and besides the principal chart, 13 additional drawings for technical explanation; together with the discovery of the key, and the method of application revealed and deciphered. By Edward H. Eckert, small 4to., Prague, 1865. (In German) 17s 6d

Findel's Defence of the Rosicrucians, 18mo., Halle, 1782. (In German) 6s 6d

Missive to the Highly Illuminated Fraternity of the Gold and Rosicrucians, 18mo., Leipzig, 1783. (In German) 6s 6d

The Rosicrucians fully Exposed; with descriptive table of degrees, 12mo., Amsterdam, 1781. (In German) 9s 0d

Rosicrucians.—Secret History of the Attempts of the Brotherhood to support the Maddest Mysticism by the Protestant Religion, 18mo., 1796. (In German) 9s 0d

15 Secret Letters concerning the Great Secret of the Universals and Particulars of the Gold and Rosicrucians, addressed to J. L. B., Leipzig, 1788. (In German) 6s 6d

Instructions to France on the Truth of the History of the Brothers of the Rose Croix. By G. Naudé. 12mo., Paris, 1822. (In French) 21s 0d

Universal and General Reformation of the whole broad World; by means of the Fama Fraternitas of the praiseworthy Order of the Rosy Cross, 12mo., Eutichos, 1771. (In German) 9s 0d

Origine de la Maçonnerie Adonhiramite; ou Nouvelles Observations, Critiques et Raisonnées, sur la Philosophie, les Hiéroglyphes, les Mystères, la Superstition, et les Vices des Mages, 18mo., Hellopolis, 1787 ... ... 9s 0d

Recueil de la Maçonnerie Adonhiramite. In two parts, with curious frontispiece; also Manuel des Franches-Maçonnes, ou La Vraie Maçonnerie d'Adoption, 18mo., Philadelphia, 1787. (In French) 10s 6d

Mackey's American Quarterly Review of Freemasonry, July 1856 to January 1860. 4 Nos. 7s 6d

Freemasons' Quarterly Review. 1834 to 1840, 7 vols. half-bound calf, a very fine copy £3 5s; also 1834 to 1839, six years in 3 vols., 30s. Second series, sundry Nos. 1845 to 1850 ... 3s per No.

Moore's Freemason's Monthly Magazine. Vols. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 17 and 18 ... 4s 6d per Vol.

The Mason Unmasked, &c. Vignette title, 12mo., Berlin, 1747. (In French) 9s 0d

Creigh's Masonry and Anti-Masonry, 12mo., Philadelphia, 1854 ... ... 9s 0d

Freemasonry: Its Pretension Exposed in Faithful Extracts from its standard authors. Frontispiece, 8vo., New York, 1828 ... ... 12s 0d

On the Restoration of the Jesuits; the Suppression of Freemasonry; and the only means to restore Peace in Germany, 18mo., Frankfort, 1815. (In German) 9s 0d

Undeniable Evidence that the Freemasons are Jacobins, and the Cause of all the Evil in the World. 12mo. Cairo, 1797. (In German) 10s 6d

Jacobinism in Franc Macon. Lecendre des Sociétés Secrètes. Par Jean de Septchenes. Paris, 1852 (4th edition, with 8 Caricature wood cuts and an Appendix of Adoptive Masonry, Chevalier de l'Aslc, &c., &c.) 9s 0d

The Architecture, Architects, and Builders of the Middle Ages. By James Miller, Master of the Lodge St. Mark. Frontispiece and Illustrations. 12mo, cloth, 1851 ... ... 7s 6d

LONDON: JOHN HOGG, 15A PATERNOSTER ROW, E.C.

NEW & IMPORTANT WORKS ON FREEMASONRY.

"May be classed among the Standard Works of Great Britain."—Vide Current Notices.

THE ROYAL MASONIC CYCLOPÆDIA of History, Rites, Symbolism, and Biography. Edited by Kenneth R. H. Mackenzie, IX°. ("Cryptonymus.") To be completed in Six 3s 6d Parts, comprising 768 pp. Demy 8vo. Parts I. to IV. Now Ready. To Non-Subscribers, 21s, Cloth.

"The task has been admirably performed. No question the work will be a valuable addition to every Masonic Library."—Freemason's Chronicle.

"Evidences a considerable amount of hard work, alike in research and study. We can honestly and sincerely say, we wish it all success."—Freemason.

"The object set forth is fully attained, and we commend the work as a useful and valuable aid to the Craft."—Canadian Masonic News.

"Aims to accomplish for the English Craft what Mackey's Encyclopædia has done for the American Brethren. Its execution is satisfactory."—Keystone.

"One of the most useful and valuable Masonic Works ever published."—Masonic Jewel.

"The most valuable work of reference on all matters relating to the Craft that has yet been published."—British Mercantile Gazette.

"We commend this work to all."—British Mail.

"The Editor has lavished much reading and labour on his subject."—Sunday Times.

"It has my heartiest wishes for success, as it deserves."—Bro. W. J. Hughan.

"Is passing forward in a most sturdy manner."—Bro. J. G. Findel.

"Bro. Mackenzie deserves all praise for the most interesting Work he is giving us."—Bro. J. Yarker.

"Your new work is excellent."—Bro. W. R. Woodman, M.D.

"One of the best books in my Masonic library."—Bro. Capt. F. G. Irwin.

"Of very great use to all who are Masons in more than the mere name, and may be classed among the standard works of Great Britain. Not only should every Lodge possess it, to place side by side with the 'Book of Constitutions,' as a handy reference for the Brethren; but individual Members will do well to have it at hand, as they have their Todd's Johnson."—Bro. J. Leyland Fedden.

"You have rendered a signal service to literature."—Bro. L. M. Faithfull.

"Bears evidence of unusually careful collation."—Bro. Capt. J. H. Lawrence Archer.

"Should spread far and wide throughout the Fraternity."—Bro. Alexander Andrews.

"The reputation of the Rev. Author is world-wide, and both these important works require careful reading."—Canadian Masonic News.

"The get up of the books is handsome, and without any fault."—Bro. J. G. Findel, in Die Bauhütte.

"A real service has been rendered to the Craft by the publication of these books."—Bro. J. Yarker.

"We would advise every Lodge to procure a copy of each for the instruction of the Brethren."—Masonic Record of Western India.

The Subscription List includes the Chief Masonic Bodies, and the most distinguished Members of the Craft at home and abroad.

DR. OLIVER'S POSTHUMOUS WORKS.

Author of "The Revelations of a Square," "The Book of the Lodge," "Historical Landmarks," &c.

I.

Just Published, in one handsome Crown 8vo. volume, cloth, with numerous Diagrams, price 7s 6d, post free.

THE DISCREPANCIES OF FREEMASONRY: Examined during a Week's Gossip with the late celebrated Bro. Gilkes and other Eminent Masons, on Sundry Obscure and Difficult Passages in the Ordinary Lodge Lectures, which, although Open Questions in Grand Lodge, constitute a source of Doubt and Perplexity to the Craft.

"We hope that the thoughtful Brethren in the Fraternity (of whom, surely, there ought to be many thousands) will manifest their appreciation of the enterprise by cheering out the edition in a few months. Neither as respect the contents nor the price can we complain."—Bro. W. J. Hughan.

"It is difficult to imagine a more charming book, or one more calculated to inspire the Masonic Student with enthusiasm for the Royal Art. The pen of a practical as well as a ready writer is needed in writing dialogues, and those who have read Dr. Oliver's Revelations of a Square will be the first to concede that few writers of the day would surpass him in this particular style. The late Sir Arthur Helps is the only man of eminence who could possibly have infused more interest into such a work."—Freemason's Chronicle.

"A most amusing and curious book."—Standard.

"We advise Freemasons to read the book."—Era.

"To mention Dr. Oliver's name is sufficient to prove the value of the work."—Masonic Jewel.

"Contains considerable food for Masonic thought and instruction."—Keystone.

II.

Just Published, in one handsome Crown 8vo. volume, cloth, with Diagrams, price 6s, post free.

THE PYTHAGOREAN TRIANGLE; or the Science of Numbers. (Treating of all the Peculiarities of Masonic Number.)

"Among the ablest and most interesting of Dr. Oliver's writings."—Keystone.

"In handling his subject, the Author has shown more than his usual skill."—Freemason's Chronicle.

"Certainly most curious."—Bro. W. J. Hughan.

"We commend this publication."—Freemason.

"Of surpassing interest."—Canadian Masonic News.

"We have derived both information and entertainment from this volume."—Literary World.

"The facts will repay careful study."—Figaro.

"A source of delightful study to every Brother."—British Mercantile Gazette.

"In addition to all its stores of curious and varied learning, as connected with the Craft, the Rev. Doctor's treatise contains many sage remarks on a host of other interesting topics, which will please all curious readers."—Standard.

"From first chapter to last, it would be impossible to read a more interesting book, illustrative of the symbolism of Freemasonry."—British Mail.

LONDON: JOHN HOGG, 15A PATERNOSTER ROW.

Digitized by Google

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.
SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

ESTABLISHED 1838.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,
MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,
AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING.
Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.
MANUFACTORY—39 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;
AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.
ESTIMATES GIVEN.

JOSEPH J. CANEY,

DIAMOND MERCHANT, AND MANUFACTURING JEWELLER AND WATCH MAKER,
44 CHEAPSIDE, LONDON.
MASONIC JEWELS, CLOTHING AND FURNITURE.
Specialité—First Class Jewels—Artistic—Massive—Best Quality—Moderate in Price.
CATALOGUES POST FREE.
A LARGE STOCK OF LOOSE BRILLIANTS FOR EXPENSIVE JEWELS.
Diamond Rings, Brooches, Studs, Earrings and Bracelets in Great Variety.

NEW MASONIC SONGS.

"THE PRINCE AND THE CRAFT," Written by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, 1385. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON.

"THE APRON BLUE." Written by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, 1395. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH (NETT), FREE BY POST.
London: W. W. MORGAN, Office of the "Freemason's Chronicle," 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

GLASGOW AND THE HIGHLANDS.

ROYAL ROUTE, viâ Crinan and Caledonian Canals by Royal Mail Steamer "IONA," from Glasgow Daily at 7 a.m., and from Greenock at 9 a.m., conveying passengers for the ORTH and WEST HIGHLANDS.—See bill, with ap and tourist fares, free, at Messrs. CHATTO nd WINDUS, Publishers, 74 Piccadilly, London, by post from DAVID HUTCHESON and Co., 9 Hope Street, Glasgow.

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,
INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (REGISTD.)

"Bro. ADLARD'S far-famed JEWEL ATTACHER, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price 5s 6d, [if with pockets for Jewels 6d each pocket extra] places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and usefulness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Lodge Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,
Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8, No. 90 for JUNE, now ready. Sixpence. ENG, WHIST, GAMES OF SKILL AND THE USAGE.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES.
Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE
(a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.
This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give unfressed satisfaction

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

"There should be a better [illegible] for the race of Depositors than a fluctuating rate of two or three per cent."—INVESTOR'S GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited), Nos. 42 and 44 Lombard-street, City; and 277 and 279 Regent-street, W., Established 1863, receives Deposits, On Demand, 5 per cent. Subject to Notice, 10 per cent. Opens Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to examine this new and improved system, that ensures a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-discounted or re-hypothecated any of the securities. To BORROWERS.—It offers pre-eminent advantages for prompt advances on leases, reversions, policies, trade stocks, farm produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, trouble, or loss. JAMES PRYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 42 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 277 and 279 Regent-street, W. Established 1863. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. To INVESTORS.—Deposits received at liberal interest. The Directors by strict economy have liberally paid every investor 5l and 6l per cent. per annum. Borrowers are offered unusual facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. New and Special Feature.—The Society will build Houses, etc., in any approved part of Great Britain, within the whole cost of the building, at 5 per cent., repayable by instalments, the applicant merely finding the plan and paying or giving security for the first 5 years' interest. Prospectuses, balance-sheets and [illegible]

THE

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

VOL. III.—No. 78. SATURDAY, 24th JUNE 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

THE LATEST THEORY ABOUT MASONIC CHARITY.

WE trust none of our readers will be led astray by the new theory just promulgated as to Masonic charity. It is impossible to imagine an argument more mischievous in its tendencies than one employed by our Masonic contemporary last week. We may go further and add, that a mischievous argument was never enunciated at a moment more inopportune. On Wednesday next will be held the annual Festival of our Boys' School. Every effort is being made to secure a great financial success on this important occasion. The greatest activity is being shown by the Secretary and his colleagues. There is a larger body of Stewards than in any previous year, and they are leaving no stone unturned to out-do their predecessors. At this very time, when all are hoping these efforts will be crowned with a magnificent success, when it is obvious to the meanest intellect that our Boys' School is not equal to the demands made upon its resources, that it might do more good if its funds were more certain, and that the harder we strive to build up for it a permanent income the more secure against accidents will be its position; at this very moment, we say, our contemporary speaks in terms the most disparaging of Masonic benevolence being confined only to Masonic objects. It calls it a "narrow view," which far too many hold, that "Masonic benevolence is meant only for Freemasons." It was suggested at the last Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge that, instead of voting a large sum of money for a certain purpose, "something might be better done for the Asylum or the Boys' School." But our contemporary has always felt "there was a certain amount of truth" in the objection "that Masonic benevolence had somewhat of selfishness about it if you confined the liberality of the Order to Masons alone." It is fain to admit that, "primarily, of course, we are bound to do so," but every now and then it thinks there are occasions when "we are to evince our good will towards humanity at large, towards religion, towards local distress, towards national objects, towards æsthetic improvements, and, we will add, towards church restoration." We infer, accordingly, that one of these occasions when the Order may justly neglect their "primary" duty is the erection of a memorial to the Grand Master's visit to India. We shall best evince our respect for him, and the Order over which he presides, by neglecting what "primarily, of course, we are bound to do," in favour of something else, which is not of "primary" importance. And, we repeat, the time selected for the enunciation of this singular doctrine is just ten days before the anniversary festival of one of our charitable Institutions. This is one of three festivals occurring annually. When these come round, each in their turn, it is a duty enjoined on us, equally by the teachings of Freemasonry, the obligations we have taken, and the dictates of common sense, that we should concentrate all our efforts on improving their financial resources. It is a fact, as patent as the sun at high noon, that large as are the annual subscriptions to these Charities, they might profitably be larger still, for then the Charities would be capable of a greater amount of good. It is equally a fact that the extent of Masonic indigence is greater now than ever it was before. We pointed out, last week, the marked disproportion existing between the number of vacancies and the number of candidates at the last three elections to the Boys' School only. In April, not only was every vacancy filled, but the number of pupils was increased. Yet over forty approved candidates were left out in the cold, and remain at this very time a burden upon the already sorely-taxed resources of their parents or guardians. When our contemporary has quite recovered from the supreme difficulty of forming its latest apology for an opinion, it will probably be able to recognise that, under these circumstances, a substantial addition to the permanent funds of the Boys' School is by no means a narrow-minded or selfish plan to advocate. An increase in the number of its pupils would be a serviceable as well as a handsome way of commemorating the Prince of Wales's visit to India. We feel the deepest sympathy for our contemporary, who finds itself on the unpopular side in this question. We are aware the views of the majority are not necessarily the truth, but in the instance before us we prefer the narrow-minded selfishness of the many to the all-round magnanimity of the few. We see something reasonable as well as tangible in the former, something consistent with the "primary" duties of Freemasonry, with its ordinary teachings, and with the teachings of common sense. On these grounds, and apart from others previously enumerated, we rejoice that Grand Lodge has decided against Bro. Havers's views. We do not think its acceptance, by an overwhelming majority, of the Rev. Bro. Simpson's amendment is subject matter for regret, even "as before the outer world just now." On the contrary, we think Grand Lodge has acted in perfect harmony with the true principles of Masonry, and that cannot be a matter for regret.

We readily admit that "the argument that we ought to do something specially for our Masonic Charities does not exclude the propriety of doing something for something else, which the Grand Lodge might approve of, and which, as Freemasons, we ought to feel it to be our duty to do." If this is meant to indicate any ulterior project, such as that Grand Lodge should vote something for our Charities, and "something for something else;" by all means let a proposition embodying such a plan be submitted at the next Quarterly Communication. We shall be prepared to discuss it when due notice is given. But we hardly think a whole week's laborious thought was required to enunciate an idea so simple. We admit also there is some force in the argument that as Grand Lodge recently voted a hundred guineas toward the Palestine Exploration Fund, it might justly have voted £1,000 towards the completion of St. Paul's. But this latter proposition emanated from Bro. Havers, and he, in the early part of last year, had emphatically laid it down that Grand Lodge funds were intended only for Masonic purposes. Thus Bro. Havers was "hoist with his own petard." This important little fact our contemporary has, unintentionally, of course, overlooked or forgotten. There is no doubt Grand Lodge, in the face of its previous vote that Masonic funds were only for Masonic purposes, stultified itself when it granted the hundred guineas toward the Palestine Fund. It were monstrous indeed if we questioned the propriety of its latest dictum, which is, in fact, a deliberate return to its original views. However, we leave Grand Lodge to explain its own inconsistencies, and pass to the concluding utterances of our contemporary. It considers "the best solution of all now, for this difficulty, as perhaps the 'dignus vindice nodus' will be simply to confine the resolution to a record of our grateful thanks for our beloved Grand Master's safe return." This were most impolitic. In the first place there is no difficulty to solve. Grand Lodge has determined to commemorate the Grand Master's visit to India, and his return home. A committee will inquire and report as to the fittest memorial of so auspicious an event, and Grand Lodge will either accept such report or reject it in favour of some other and still worthier proposal. This appears to us to be a plain, straightforward way of dealing with the matter. The movement is the movement of the Craft, which has made known its wishes through Grand Lodge. It will not be too late or come with "a halting grace" in September. The grace of the whole thing lies in the determination to commemorate, not in the nature of the memorial, which, after all, is a matter of opinion only. And having advocated a particular proposition unavailingly, it appears to us to be a great piece of churlishness for any one to turn round and say to those who have prevailed: We admit your proposal is in accordance with the primary duties of the Order, that it is more popular than ours. We think, however, you have made a great mistake; this being so, and as you, the majority, have rejected the kind of memorial which we, the minority, advocated, let us have no memorial at all. Such a suggestion might very reasonably have emanated from a certain personage in London Assurance, but it augurs ill for the wisdom of Masonic journalism when it is made with a solemnity the most painful, and after a week's agony of mind the most intense.

Digitized by Google

We are sorry so elaborate a preparation should have ended so ridiculously. We looked for some very imposing result, and we have an article, one-half of which is devoted to self-praise, while the other half, when it states nothing mischievous or inopportune, is—and we say it with becoming respect—the most pitiful display of nonsense we have ever read. It is mischievous to lay it down that a primary duty may be lightly regarded at any time. It is wrong to attribute Masonic benevolence to selfishness, and narrow-mindedness, under any circumstances, but especially inopportune is it to question the sterling character of our benevolence just a few days before one of our most important festivals. It is just then we most need the co-operation of the whole Craft, and some, if they are told it is selfish and narrow-minded to give only to Masonic Charities, may close their ears and draw tight their purse-strings against every appeal for contributions rather than be thought selfish and narrow-minded. As to the other utterances of our contemporary, we have shown they are unfounded, or uncalled for; more than this is not necessary. It only remains for us to add that, while its language more than justifies the remarks we have made, we do not for a single moment imagine that our contemporary means what it says. It is far too anxious to promote the well-being of Freemasonry to intend anything detrimental to its own interests. When it has fully recovered from the recent strain imposed on its intellectual energies, it will, doubtless, recognise the errors it has unintentionally committed.

MASONIC PORTRAITS (No. 33).

A SOLDIER OF FORTUNE.

"O, your desert speaks loud; and I should wrong it,
To lock it in the wards of covert bosom,
When it deserves, with characters of brass,
A forted residence 'gainst the tooth of time,
And rasure of oblivion."

MANY a civilian who has never fought elsewhere than in the peaceful struggles of social life has just as much claim to the title of a soldier of fortune, as any of the brilliant throng of military men who have achieved eminence without the aid of any other weapons than their swords. The fight for existence in a community like ours is always severe, and none but the robust in body and mind may hope to achieve success. Courage, perseverance, and industry, combined with talent, will help a man to the highest stations in life. "Luck" or "chance" have little to do with a man's social condition, but every "human failure" who lounges at a street corner, or wears out the remnant of his wretched existence as a mere drudge of the desk, is almost sure to point out his successful rivals as the favourites of fortune. The "human failure" declares that the successful men who have passed him in the world's race have been exceptionally favoured, while his merits and his labours have been unrecognised. Those amongst us who are accustomed to observe are fully assured that the men who succeed are not, as a rule, able to boast of much aid from the fickle goddess. They had the good sense to make their opportunities; they were observant enough to wait and watch for that flood tide in their affairs which should bear them far beyond the drones who "cared not how the metal of their minds was eaten by the rust of idleness." In the course of a busy career it has been our fate to be acquainted with many persons who have been the architects of their own fortunes. Most of these successful men have exhibited marked and conspicuous ability; they had all the shrewdness of the citizen of the world, ability to read the minds of those with whom they were associated, and that fine tact and foresight which are so invaluable to a man of business. No difficulties daunted them, no trials were too severe for their highly tempered patience, and they won because they were masters of that "high chess game whereof the pawns are men."

The brother, whose firm and well-cut features are at this present writing vividly before our mind's eye, is one of the many champions who have carved out a career without any aid from fortune or friends. He has fought a good fight, and has conquered. His career has been a chequered one, but he can look back with satisfaction upon his battles with the world, and may fairly boast that he owes his present position to his own sturdy arm and clear and active brain. His march up the hill "difficulty" has been trying and tedious, but while the second rate men were sliding slowly down, his firm foot yielded no step of the advantages it had gained, and his march was ever onward and upward. He was born at Plymouth in 1824, of a good family, in which town his father was settled as a merchant and ship broker. He received his education in the place of his nativity, and at an early age he was sent up to the metropolis to prepare himself for a commercial career. He learned the first rudiments of trade in one of those great establishments which yearly absorb some of the best and brightest of our provincial youth; and after gaining some mastery of the mysteries of buying and selling, he entered the service of a great firm in the stationery trade and assumed the management of a department. He remained here some time, and we next find him located in his native town in the office of the leading journal of the locality. In this position his literary tastes had some chance of development, and he soon acquired a knowledge of all the mysteries of journalism. He here acquired, also, a perfect mastery of his pen, in proof of which we may refer to his admirable letters on some abstruse points of Masonry which attracted much attention some years since. But our brother did not find journalism a royal road to wealth, and in 1845-6 we find him actively engaged in honourable work connected with the then budding railway system of these islands. At this period he entered the service of an eminent firm of contractors, who were employed in the construction of a line of railway in the south-west of England. His duties were arduous, but he brought a willing mind and untiring industry to bear upon his work, and had the satisfaction of learning that his zeal and intelligence were highly appreciated by his employers. He was afterwards actively engaged in important work in connection with the laying of the service pipes of the Great Central Gas Consumers' Company, and when he resigned his post for a better one, he received from the firm a high testimonial of his sterling worth as an able and conscientious employé. For a period of six years he was in the office of a gentleman at Clapham; in due time he became the head of the concern, and in this position he still remains. He has largely developed the business to which he succeeded, and at the present moment he is widely known, for his high business qualities, for his steady attention to the interests which are committed to his charge, and for his urbanity and sound sense. He married at an early age, an example which was followed by his eldest son, and he has the pleasure of seeing his grandchildren growing up around him, carefully instructed in those principles of integrity which will tend to make them good and successful citizens of the world. Recently four generations of the family were present at his hospitable board. It was an occasion for just and natural congratulation, and when the health of the good old great grandfather was drunk, some pleasant tears, "the raindrops of the soul," were mingled with the generous wine.

Our brother's Masonic career has been a remarkable one. He was initiated in the Robert Burns Lodge (No. 25), in the year 1857, and afterwards joined the Panmure (720), of which he is a P.M., and for five years he was its Secretary. He was the originator of the Macdonald Lodge (1216), and here he again passed the chair. He is the founder, and was first W.M. of the Great City Lodge (1426), and he was I.P.M. on the memorable occasion when Lord Mayor Stone and many other Masonic celebrities paid it a visit. He is an honorary member of Lodges 70, 105, 421 and 771, and has served the Stewardships of the Charities; is Life Governor of the Boys' School, and of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. He is an eminent Mark Mason, and acknowledges Kent as his Mother Lodge. He is Founder and P.M. of the Macdonald (104), and likewise of the Panmure (139). He is an Honorary Member of 8, 50, 118, 129, 164 and 176, Past Grand Overseer, and Past Prov. Grand Mark Secretary of Middlesex and Surrey. As a Royal Arch Mason he is equally conspicuous. He was a member of Robert Burns (25); Founder, P.Z. and Scribe E. of the Panmure (720), and was M.E.Z. for three successive years of Windsor Castle Chapter (771). He is a Royal Ark Mariner, P.N.; and of the Cryptic Degrees he is Royal and Select Master. He is, further, the originator and Past Sovereign of No. 14 Red Cross Rome and Constantine, and M.W.S. of St. George's Chapter of Rose Croix. He was one of the promoters and directors of the Surrey Masonic Hall, which is likely to prove a great success, since it affords to the Craft of the locality, the members of which gladly avail themselves of it, the accommodation which was so greatly needed for Masonic business. His pen has been ably employed in the advocacy of a scheme for making the ritual of the Craft uniform. His able papers on this subject may still be read with pleasure and profit, and although he has not carried his point, he has indicated the form and direction which any reforms of the ritual should take. His suggested Lodge of Preceptors, which would practically be a College, or perhaps, a University, having for its object the scientific instruction of members, is a brilliant idea, but huge difficulties lie in the way of its realisation. Uniformity is certainly desirable, but some experts, whose opinions are worthy of all respect, declare it to be impossible of achievement.

Digitized by Google

GRAND LODGE OF INDIANA.

WE learn, from the Masonic Advocate, that the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge was held in the new Grand Lodge Hall, Indianapolis, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 23rd and 24th ultimo. The Hall will accommodate about eight hundred, and was nearly filled at the opening, there being a full representation of subordinate Lodges and a large number of visiting brethren. Grand Lodge was opened in ample form by M.W. Daniel McDonald, Grand Master. The standing Committees having been announced, the G.M. then read his address, which was generally interesting. He reported having arrested the charters of four Lodges, having granted fifteen dispensations for organizing new Lodges, dedicated eleven Masonic halls, and laid four corner stones with Masonic ceremonies. A mass of valuable statistical information had resulted from a circular letter sent out to all the Lodges, and a series of important decisions were reported. The Grand Treasurer's financial statement showed—Receipts, Dols. 34,589·93, including an opening balance of Dols. 13,249.38, and Expenditure, Dols. 19,189.08, leaving a balance on hand at the end of the year of Dols. 15,400.85. The Building Committee for the erection of the Masonic Temple and Grand Lodge Hall reported these buildings completed and accepted. To accomplish this a hundred thousand dollars had been borrowed, and fifteen thousand more were required to meet the remaining liabilities. On Wednesday, after a large amount of business, locally interesting, had been transacted, the election of Officers for the ensuing year was announced. Of these the principal are, Frank S. Devol, New Albany, G.M., Andrew J. Hay, Charleston, D.G.M., Robert Van Valzah, Terre Haute, S.G.W., B. S. Sutton, Shelbyville, J.G.W., Charles Fisher, Indianapolis, Grand Treas., and John M. Bramwell, Indianapolis, Grand Sec. The Officers having been installed, and the usual standing Committees appointed, Grand Lodge was closed in ample form at 4 p.m.

The swimming races at the Crystal Palace, on Monday last, under the management of Bro. Hadley Prestage, were a gigantic success. The programme was, if anything, too long. Our worthy Bro. Sir John Bennett presented the first prize, a very handsome watch. Bro. R. L. Sturtevant (Sec. Temple Mark, &c.) in the absence of "Father Time," presented the prizes to the successful competitors.

THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

SPEECH day, and the distribution of prizes, will be held under the presidency of the members of the Supreme Council 33° of England, on Monday. This body has ever been a most liberal supporter of our Masonic Institutions, and we trust its appearance this year will be effectively and numerously supported by the Craft. The programme of the day's proceedings will open with "God Bless the Prince of Wales," which will be rendered by the choir, and the overture to Raff's "Les Pêcheuses de Procida," arranged as a duet. After these will be presented the prizes to the first, second, and third classes, and then, after a song, "Speed on, my bark," by G. L. Lyon, and "The Men of Harlech," by the choir, will be performed Mr. Thomas J. Williams's Farce of "Ici on Parle Français," the several characters being enacted by W. Beanmont, W. R. Jones, R. Bryant, W. R. Parker, E. E. Oates, E. T. Sage, and W. S. Sparkes. After another song, Mendelssohn's "O forest, deep and gloomy," and a duett, "Broken Spells," the prizes to the fourth, fifth, and sixth classes, as well as the Special Prizes presented by private donors, will be given away. A selection from Moliere's Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme, in which C. D. Green, E. T. Sage, H. Bowler E. E. Oates, W. R. Jones, and W. S. Sparkes will take part, will follow, after which further Special Prizes, comprising Bro. Captain Wordsworth's for elocution (to be awarded on the day itself), and Dr. Morris's series, will be distributed. A piano solo, by Daniel G. Doswell, and another duett of Mendelssohn's, "I would that my love," will come next, and then the series of Special Prizes presented by the House Committee will be given. Scenes from a German play, Der alte Leidkutscher Peter des Grittes will be played by F. E. Ladd and C. D. Green, and then follow more part songs, including the familiar "Hardy Norseman," and the "National Anthem." The Silver Medal for good conduct, presented by the Institution, has been adjudged to Henry Giles Shaw, and the Canonbury Gold Medal, presented by Bro. Edward Cox, Vice-Patron, P.M. Canonbury Lodge, No. 657, to William Harbottle Packwood. Prizes have also been given to the fourteen pupils—out of eighteen who entered—who passed the Cambridge Local Examination in December of last year. These prizes are awarded from the fund founded by Bro. W. Winn, Vice-Patron, and the recipients are the following: William Beanmont, distinguished in English; Robert Bryant, distinguished in Mathematics; and Henry Giles Shaw, who took First Class Honours; William Ramsay Parkes, Second Class, and William Hillier Sutton, Third Class ditto; and Charles David Green, Frank Harvey, Frederick Edwin Ladd, Francis Dalrymple Lane, Frank Lond, Edmund Ernest Oates, William Harbottle Packwood, Edward George Leigh Sweet, and Charles Martin Howard Uwins, who satisfied the examiners. The Band of the Institution will play a selection of music throughout the afternoon. We trust the weather will be as brilliant as it is at the moment of writing. As to the programme, we have no doubt it will be efficiently carried out; indeed, we have already expressed our belief that the occasion will be a great success, of which the managerial and educational staffs, and the boys, as well as the Festival Stewards and other visitors, will have every reason to be proud. Especially gratifying will it be to the very able head-master, Dr. Morris, and the energetic Secretary, Bro. Binckes.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Hertford will hold its Annual Meeting on Saturday, the 8th of July, at Cheshunt Great House, Cheshunt Park. The Rt. W. Bro. T. F. Halsey, M.P., Provincial Grand Master, will preside.

Obituary.

It is our painful duty to announce, this week, the decease of Bro. H. Nye Chart, who has been so well known as Manager of the Brighton Theatre for almost the last twenty years. Brother Chart, who was deservedly respected, had been in failing health for some time, and expired on Sunday last. His funeral will take place this day (Saturday), at the Parochial Cemetery, where, by his express wish, he will be laid by the side of his brother, the late Mr. Tom Chart.

Digitized by Google

REPORT ON FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.

(Continued from page 372.)

OLD TIME INTEREST IN CRAFT MASONRY.

We cull from Riley's "Memorials of London and London Life:"

In the twenty-sixth year of King Edward I., 1098.—Account of the reconcilintion of two Master Masons before the Mayor and Aldermen: namely, Master Simon de Pabingham and Master Richard de Watham, Masons—both appearing to be French—who were then reconciled as to certain abusive words which had before passed between them. They agreed if either of them should be able to give information against the other, that he had, by the same abusive words, or in deed, committed trespass against each other; and such person should, in the faith of two trustworthy witnesses, be found guilty thereof, he should give one hundred shillings toward the fabric of London Bridge; if refused, the Chamberlain should cause said amount to be levied.

Now, don't you say that that was doing very well for Masons four hundred years before America was discovered?

We note, further, that, in 1353, Edward III. issued proclamation to correct the evils of a strike of the workmen who left their places at the works on the Palace of Westminster; that they should be returned to their work; and that those who secured them to work at other places should be imprisoned in the Tower.

Also that, in 1356, thirtieth year of Edward III., divers disputes and dissentions between Masons who were hewers, on the one hand, and the light Masons and Setters, on the other, came before the Mayor of London. This reference to him, it was stated, was made because their trade had not been regulated in due manner by the government of folks of their trade in such forms as other trades are. Thereupon, to allay dispute, to nurture love among all manner of folks, in honour of the city, and for profit of the common people, all the good folks of said trade were summoned before the Mayor and Aldermen, to have from them good and due information how this trade might best be ordered and ruled for the profit of the common people.

Representatives of each branch of the Masonic workers attended, and gave evidence under oath; viz.: For the Light Masons and Setters—Thomas Hardegray, John Wylot, John de Eston, Simon de Barton, Richard Joy, and Richard Conwayth. For the Mason Hewers—Walter de Sallynge, Richard de Sallynge, Thomas de Bredone, John de Tyringtone, Thomas de Gloucestre, and Henry de Yeorlee.

Being thus named by the historian, it may not be out of place to remark that at least one set of the parties were French Masons.

The trial resulted in declaring a rule of government: That there should be no interference with each other's apprentices; that every man of the trade may work, if he be perfectly skilled and knowing to perform such work (this to be determined by the overseer) and if convicted that he does not well and perfectly know how to perform such work, for the first time, fined one mar; for the second, two; and for the third time he shall be foreworn the trade for ever. No apprentice or journeyman to be at the work, except in the presence of the Master, before perfectly instructed in their calling, under a fine. No apprentices to be taken for less than seven years, according to usage. The Master to oversee day-workers, who are to be paid as they deserve and are skilled, and not outrageously. If rules are not observed, complaint to be made to the Mayor, so that other rebels may take example, and thus be ruled by the good folks of the trade.

In 1396, twentieth year of Richard II., they had their Young England for the serving men. The Young Saddlers formed a fraternity, and had their yearly meeting on the 15th of August. It was determined that there should be no "covins," under feigned colour of sanctity; but that they should continue under government, as before, of the Master Saddlers. "Youthful ambition is the parent of much excellence; while subordinate to reason and duty, it is an honourable energy in the Spring-time of life, when the buds of expectation are incessantly shooting."

There comes somewhat of a change in the relation of dependence of the Guilds to the municipal corporation in 1415, third year of Henry V. It was decreed that no officer of the city should hereafter, as heretofore, receive a hood or vestment each year from the different crafts of the city, but only of that craft and fraternity of which he had been made free.

WHENCE CAME WE AS MASONS?

We answer, Masonry is the product of evolution—a growth from old-time roots. Trueman Smith, in the introduction to his valuable treatise on "English Guilds," gives a view of the manners, morals, and language of the time.

"The ancient principle of association is more than a thousand years old. It was a part of the essential life of England, which always worked well till forcibly meddled with. It was in this spirit that the early fathers met together, prayed together, aided one another. It was their faith in law-abidingness, their liberty, and their charity.

"It was the English guild, an institution of local self-help, which, before the poor-laws were invented, took the place in old times of the modern friendly or benefit society; but with a higher aim, while it joined all classes together in a care for the needy and for objects of common welfare, it did not neglect the foremost, the practice of religion, justice, and morality.

"'Guilds' were associations of those living in the same neighbourhood, and remembering that they have, as neighbours, common obligations. They were quite other things than modern partnerships or trading companies; for their main characteristic was to set up something higher than personal gain and mere materialism as the main object of men living in towns; and to make the teaching of love to one's neighbour be not only accepted as a hollow dogma of morality, but known and felt as a habit of life.

"If we go back to the darkest and most troubled period of the Middle Ages, we shall find, even at a very early date, sworn secret societies associated together for purposes of offence or defence, not only against enemies from without, but also against those from within, especially the great landed proprietors, who were becoming overbearingly arrogant and powerful.

"Soon after the rise and aggrandisement of the cities, with the influx of a host of freemen, and the developments of trade and commerce, similar sworn fraternities or guilds were formed also in the walled towns. At the head of these protective guilds was a president (alderman, meister, maitre, master). New members were required to be vouched for by some brother of the fraternity; all matters relating to the affairs of their trade or occupation were concerted and regulated at their regular assemblies; the sons of members were peculiarly privileged, as concerned their admission, &c. There were general rules common to all the guilds. In the course of time the city guilds became more exclusive, and the ordinary workmen, who were debarred from their association, then formed similar societies among themselves.

"We have written Constitutions of them early in the twelfth century."

The German or Gothic style passed from France into England, 1174-1185—cathedral, Canterbury; back into Germany, 1212—cathedral, Magdeburg.

At this period science had a mystic bent, that had by the Crusades been imparted to the whole life of the Middle Ages. Arabic and Hebrew wisdom, with their interpretations of the Old Testament, gave their peculiar philosophic glees to even architecture and the secret work of the artificer.

The privileges conferred upon the Freemasons, the usefulness of their services, and the great wealth which they obtained, tended to swell their numbers greatly. People in all countries sought admission into their ranks; in fact, no man could work as a mason without being a member of one of these guilds. Thus a knowledge of architecture was diffused from Italy, wherever the Latin Church spread.

As architecture gave dignity to the rites of religion also, the clergy joined the Freemasons, that they might know how to practice the art. Bishops, abbots, and simple priests gave designs for churches and other ecclesiastical buildings, while the inferior clergy executed the artificers' work; and by these many of the earliest structures were raised. Whilst war was the pastime of kings and the employment of the people, the clergy, in their monasteries, were the industrious bees of the community. Often, when a new church was required, the abbot or superior gave the plan, and, while some of the monks raised walls, others among them wrought the sculptures.

It is no wonder that architecture spread, when it was patronised by powerful kings, carried on by a learned clergy, and regarded as a holy work.

Freemasonry was at its height in the tenth century. An idea became prevalent among Christians that Christ would reappear on earth 1010 years after his death upon the cross, and that the world would come to an end. For many years preceding, then, very few churches were built, and those which existed were suffered to fall into decay. But when the time had passed, and the idea proved to be a delusion, people aroused themselves from this fear of death, and desired churches, that their souls might be saved. Then the Freemasons scattered themselves far and wide. Strong in their union, protected by the great and powerful, receiving asylums in the religious houses, finding work to be done everywhere, they poured out of Italy through the West, proceeding farther and farther, advancing from country to country, from Italy to Germany, from Germany to France, from France to Belgium, and from these places crossing the sea into England.

But as civilisation rose Freemasonry fell. The Pope's power was diminished, native skill increased, the natives of each country asserted their right to work, and native sovereigns regarded these foreign workmen with jealousy. The secret signs and practices of the Freemasons brought suspicion on them; they were deprived of their privileges in some countries; they were expelled from others; and, as their services were no longer indispensable, the clergy and laity withdrew their patronage from them. At length the Freemasons ceased to be architects, and the guilds expired.

LEGEND OF STRASBURG CATHEDRAL.

There is a quaint old tradition which comes down to us from ancient times, tottering under its load of age, and replete with the superstitions of the past.

On the borders of Alsatia there lies a great city, dating its foundation far back to the old Roman days, and rich in those architectural relics of the olden time which are ever so dear to the antiquary.

"Quaint offspring of centurial years, the town of Strasburg stands,
Rich in the lore of a mighty past, in legend and in story;
Rich in high-hearted men, honest sons—a country's truest glory;
Rich in its old Cathedral Church, with clustering ivy spread,
The Santa Croce of the land, where sleep her noble dead."

The story runs that, once in every twelvemonth, on the eve of St. John, when the quiet burghers of that ancient city are wrapt in peaceful slumber, and when the hour of midnight clangs out from the loud-tongued bell which hangs in the old Cathedral tower, the spirits of the stone-masons by whose hands the sacred pile was erected arise from the tomb and once more re-visit the scene of their former labours. Up from the dark and gloomy crypt, along the columned aisles and vast dim nave, across the white-gleaming marble floor, checkered with ghostly shadows that stream from picture oriels, past the stone-carved statues that keep watch and ward with their swords and sceptres, comes the long train of death-like, night-wandering shadows. Clad in their quaint old mediæval costume, the masters with their compasses and rules, the craftsmen with their plumbs and squares and levels, the apprentice lads with their heavy gavels, all silently greeting their companions, old and dear, with time-honoured salute and token, as of yore.

Digitized by Google

While the last note of the deep-mouthed bell is still trembling in the air, reverberating from arch to arch, and dying away amid the frozen music of the traceried roof, forth from the western portal streams the shadowy throng. Thrice around the sacred edifice winds the waving, floating train, brave Old Erwin himself leading the way; while far up above, above the sculptured saints who look down upon the sleeping city—up where, at the very summit of the feathery, fairy-like spire, the image of the Queen of heaven stands—there floats a cold, white-robed female form, the fair Sabina, Old Erwin's well-beloved child, whose fair hands aided him in his work. In her right hand a mallet, in her left a chisel, she flits among the sculptured lace-work of the noble spires like the Genius of Masonry. With the faint blush of dawn the vision fades, the phantom shapes dissolve, and the old masons return to their sepulchre, there to rest until the next St. John's-eve shall summon them to earth.

Abbe Grandidear, in his "Essay on the Cathedral of Strasburg," written in 1782, gives this account of the Craft:

"The Masons of those fabrics and their pupils—spread over the whole of Germany—to distinguish themselves from the common workmen formed themselves into the fraternity of Masons, to which they gave the German name of Hutten, which signifies Lodges; but they all agreed to recognise the authority of the original one at Strasburg, which was named Haupt-Hutten, or Grand Lodge.

"The different Masters of the individual Lodges assembled at Ratisbon, where they drew up, on the 25th of April 1459, the Act of Fraternity, which established the chief of the Cathedral of Strasburg and his successors as sole and perpetual Grand Masters of the fraternity of Freemasons of Germany. In 1498 Emperor Maximilian confirmed their privileges in a diploma, which was successively renewed by Charles V., Ferdinand, and successors.

"Their Lodge as tribunal judged, without appeal, all cases brought before it, according to the rules and statutes of the fraternity which were renewed and printed in 1563. The members of the society had no communication with other Masons, who merely know the use of the trowel and mortar. They adopted for characteristic marks all that belonged to the profession, which they regarded as an art far superior to that of the simple laboring mason. The square, level and compasses became their attributes. Resolved to form a body distinct from the common herd of workmen, they invented, for use among themselves, rallying words, and tokens of recognition, and other distinguishing signs. This they called the sign of words, das wortzeichen, le salut, der gruss. The Apprentices, Companions and Masters were received with ceremonies conducted in secret. They took for their motto—'Liberty.' They were a fraternity, and practiced a secret art, or technology.

"The Freemasons carried the architecture of their country throughout the whole of Europe. They indentured their apprentices—initiated only those who were to form members of their body; they bound them to secrecy by imposing oaths; they carefully concealed, and even destroyed, documents which might disclose their knowledge; they formed a secret language that they might describe their art to each other without uninitiated persons understanding them; and they formed a code of secret signs that they might recognize each other as Masons, though personally unknown to each other, and keep strangers from getting into fellowship with them.

"The Lombard kings having been very zealous in spreading the Christian religion, the Freemasons were largely employed in filling their dominions with churches and monasteries. They spread into other countries in search of work. They became troops of labourers following in the tracts of the Christian missionaries, and building the churches required for the converts; in fact, no sooner did a missionary reach a remote place to convert the inhabitants than a troupe of Freemasons appeared, ready to raise a temple in which they might worship. As an edifice advance, they sent for more of their brethren; and being authorized by the Pope, backed by Kings, and upheld by public opinion by the sanctity of their work, they demanded and obtained materials, carriages, and manual assistance from the neighbouring gentry. They also imposed conditions on the parishes in which they laboured; thus a covenant was entered into between a Lodge of Freemasons and the churchwardens of Parish Suffolk, in the reign of Henry VI., that each Mason be furnished with a pair of leather gloves and a white apron; and that a Lodge, properly tiled, should be built for their meetings at the expense of the parish."

Bro. M. Syers announces his annual benefit at the "Oxford," for Thursday, 6th July, on which occasion Miss Kate Vaughan, Messrs. J. H. Milburn, G. Leybourne, Lieut. Cole, F. Jonghmans, Ella Wesner, and several talented artistes will lend their assistance. A grand military band has been selected for the occasion. Bro. Syers is gradually recovering from his recent indisposition, and hopes to be present.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Self Protection.—Alternations of heat and cold, chilled by the use of unripe fruits and unwarned wearables, always beget a tendency to diarrhœa during summer. To prevent unpleasant consequences, the first feeling of distention, rumbling of the bowels, or occasional relaxation, should be promptly met by some such corrective as these Pills, which will remove the present symptoms, and avert their progression to formidable disorders. With ordinary vigilance, there is no fear of contracting the prevailing epidemic if Holloway's medicine be taken when disordered digestion first manifests itself; and there be any alarm of a sudden outbreak of this formidable disease in any household where these innocent Pills have purified, cooled, regulated, and strengthened.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

All Letters must bear the name and address of the Writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

—:o:—

FREEMASONRY EXPROBRATED, BY A CLERGYMAN IN LINCOLNSHIRE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

"Neither doth he himself receive the brethren, and forbiddo n them that would, and casteth them out of the church.—3 John x. .

SIR,—It is generally understood that Freemasons in England have an Annual Provincial Assembly, consisting of members of their fraternity residing in one or two counties. And this year, 1876, the Freemasons of Lincolnshire met on the 6th day of June, at Brigg, under the Presidency of His Grace the Duke of St. Albans. As Freemasons always open and close their assemblies with prayer, it was not very remarkable that some of the Freemasons of Lincolnshire should express a desire to unite in prayer in the service of the Church of England on the day of the meeting of the Grand Lodge at Brigg, in the church of that town, and have the benefit of a sermon preached to them, as is usual, by a clergyman of the Church of England, who is also one of their Society. I repeat that this is usual, for the writer of this epistle has attended such a service in York Minster, and, if his health had permitted, might have done so last week in Peterborough Cathedral. But the Rev. Wm. John Wylie, of Brigg, is gifted with penetration far exceeding many of his clerical brethren, if not approximating to omniscience. He, like his holiness the pope of Rome, has espied, in the fraternity, if not actual ungodliness, consummate infidelity. Consequently, so far as the town of Brigg is concerned, the gates of Zion may stand open night and day to returning prodigals, but those Freemasons, proviso scelerum, the worst of souls or criminals, they shall not, as members of their fraternity, have the privilege, at Brigg Church, accorded to convicts elsewhere, to join in the House of God in prayer and praise; nay, they shall not be addressed in church by a Priest in Holy Orders who has any connection with such a curious sodality, if not degraded fraternity; an omnium gatherum of Jews, Turks, Infidels, and Christians. And if the anathema be not openly enunciated, the baneful effects of the greater excommunication were to be enforced on the fraternity of Freemasons on the day of their convocation at Brigg, the 6th of June in 1876. As a brother clergyman, I yield in nothing to Mr. Wylie in my attachment to and connection with the Church of England. I shall forbear to enter now into a defence of Freemasonry, which has for its objects, inter alia, unity and godly love, endeavours to do good, and to aid the distressed, to help those to right who suffer wrongfully, support the widow, and succour the orphan. But, instead of the argument ad rem, I will now employ the argument ad hominem. Is not that influential salesman of Brigg Church, by whose endeavours, influence, and purse, in common with others, a peal of bells were recently placed in Brigg Church, a well-known, distinguished, worthy Mason, and a worthy churchman? a man of piety and Christian liberality.

Again, is not Mr. Wylie's neighbouring clergyman the Master of the Brigg Lodge of Freemasons? Mr. Wylie must admit that this clergyman is equal to himself in piety and orthodoxy. So are other clergymen in Lincolnshire, belonging to the Society of Freemasons—which is tabooed by Mr. Wylie—his equals, if not superiors in ability, learning, and loyalty to the Church of England, as well as to their Order. No clergyman by his connection with the Order of Freemasons would deviate in his teaching one jot from the Articles or Liturgy of the Church of England, and since the validity of his orders cannot be impeached by Mr. Wylie, or the title "reverend" be impugned, what more does this Rev. divine require? The days are past, even at Gaston Ferry, and at Brigg, these little towns in a nook in Lincolnshire, for a priestly onslaught on the civil or religious rights of the laity. It will answer no good purpose for the clergy to assume to have dominion over the faith of their flock or hearers, for this is essentially little popedom; but rather to be the helpers of those to whom the clergy are called to minister in holy things.

But when a clergyman assumes to be the censor of his clerical brethren,—and certainly in this case Mr. Wylie has done so by implication, however unintentionally,—he must not be surprised if he receives the retort, "Take heed to thyself and to thine own ministry, which thou hast received from Christ Jesus;" and if his clerical brethren should, in charity (as I sincerely do), pray that henceforth, in the exercise of his ministry, he may be characterized with the spirit of liberality, and love, and of a sound mind.

I am, Sir,

Yours respectfully,

DANIEL ACY, D.D., Vicar of Langton, near Gainsborough, W.M. of 1231 at Bourne, P.P.G.C. for Lincolnshire.

14th June 1876.

THE PERPETUATION OF MASONIC ERROR.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR,—I have been not a little amused these last few days at the fervent inconsistency of your London Masonic contemporary. In the early part of the year you published a leading article on "the Antiquity of Freemasonry." In the course of it reference was made to the famous MS. which is said to have been signed by King Henry VI., to have been seen—at least a copy of it—by Leland, by him preserved in the Bodleian Library, and to have been recopied and published at Frankfort in 1748. Now, as you are aware, the authenticity of this MS. is rejected, the fact of Leland having ever seen a copy of it is doubted, and the statement of its publication at Frankfort in 1748 is denied. The week following the appearance of your article, your contemporary published a leader bearing the title I have given to this letter, "The Perpetuation of Masonic Error." In it the Masonic scribe, whoever he may have been, took you roundly to task for your exceeding simplicity in attaching any value whatever to this unfortunate MS. and its history, real or fictitious, as the case may be. Your contemporary observed that the "averment," that the date of the MS. in question was practically 1445, "on the part of a Masonic writer in 1876," was, "as Talleyrand said of a mistake, 'worse than a crime.'" It was "an insult practically to the critical studies of our period," it was "in itself absolutely incorrect and unhistorical from beginning to end," and demonstrated that your "Masonic scribe, whoever he may be," had "not mastered the first rudiments of Masonic archæology." It proceeded: "In Germany such a remarkable assertion will be simply laughed at. Indeed, we have never seen more errors in a short statement."

Digitized by Google

Now I have no intention of entering the lists against you or your contemporary. I may remark, however, there is no very violent improbability, and nothing that outrages common sense, in the averment that Henry VI. signed the MS., that Leland saw a copy of it, and that it was recopied and published in 1748 at Frankfort. All this may never have taken place, and your assertions may be worthy of the ridicule so plentifully heaped upon them. This, however, concerns me not at this moment. I read your leader and your contemporary's, and if I am not sufficiently bewildered between the pair of you, it is my misfortune, perhaps, but certainly not my fault. Judge, however, of my surprise, when I read, a few days back, in the columns of your contemporary, the following statement, apropos of a part of Bro. Havers's motion. "St. Alban is, in all our legends, identified inseparably with the first effort of our operative Order, and all our later Masonic MSS., from the 16th century at any rate, mention St. Alban and the provincial Verulamium." If your "averment" about the MS. referred to was worthy of so severe a condemnation, what shall be said of your contemporary's "averment" about the inseparable identification of St. Alban "with the first effort of our operative Order." I imagine "the first effort of our operative Order" must have been the erection of a mud-cabin or some similar protection against the weather. The first effort I have read about is the city that was built by Cain's son Enoch, as mentioned in an early chapter of Genesis. But this happened before the Deluge, and I think St. Alban can have had nothing to do with that: there is no evidence, at least, that he had. The Tower of Babel is a later effort of the operative Masons, but even that was built considerably over two thousand years before the Christian era, whereas St. Alban flourished towards the end of the third century after it. A still later effort of the operative Mason was the building of King Solomon's Temple, but I was not aware that the wise King of Israel and our British proto-martyr to Christianity were contemporaries. If I confine my attention to Britain, I find among the earliest efforts of our operative Order the erection of a chain of forts by Agricola, to keep in check the northern barbarians, then the building of Adrian's wall, and then came that of Severus, but all these were anterior to St. Alban's time. If I narrow the circle of my inquiries to St. Alban himself, I am able to learn that he lived in the reign of Diocletian, and that he was put to death for his attachment to Christianity, but the year of his death is variously stated. As regards the Abbey which bears his name, that was built in Saxon times, a few centuries after his martyrdom, I presume, by operative Masons, but I see nothing in that to identify St. Alban with "our operative Order." I wish I could. A few such interesting fables might be worked up into a very readable volume, and would create almost as much excitement in our nurseries as ever did the stories of Mothers Hubbard and Goose.

But "all our later MS., from the 16th century at any rate, mention St. Alban and Verulamium." Now then, we read, "That great and interesting cathedral contains mementoes both of Alban and Amphibalus, and no history of our operative forefathers can be complete without recognition of the early connection of Alban with the operative guilds." It comes to this, then. Alban is mentioned in a number of MSS. of comparatively recent origin, and having a greater or less value. Therefore, no history, &c. is complete without mention of his connection with the operative guilds. No history of Rome is held to be complete which omits the story of Romulus and Remus being suckled by a wolf, but no sane man believes the story, and certainly no sane man now-a-days would dream of presenting £1,000 to the shrine of Mars merely because history recorded such an absurdity. Centuries hence people may be erecting monuments to the sea-serpent, because its frequent appearance during the season of "big gooseberries" is mentioned in "the daily papers." Of this epoch there always have been and always will be a number of simple folk ready to believe anything they have had told them or seen in print or MS. I have no objection to include St. Alban, Euclid, Pythagoras, King Solomon, Noah, and, if need be, Adam, among the Grand Masters of our Order, whether operative or speculative, but I shall only do so in the nursery. If the Germans have been laughing at your "averment" about the MS., &c., &c., what will they do about this absurd rigmarole which your contemporary has now served up to its readers?

Fraternally yours,

"Q."

MASONIC PORTRAITS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Through the diaphonous scramble of your Masonic Portrait in a recent number of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, entitled "A Shining Light," one cannot fail to recognise a generally faithful transcript of the worthy Secretary of the Frederick Lodge of Unity, Bro. Magnus Ohren, P.P.G.J.W. But there is one error in it, and as this called forth some animadversions from our excellent Treasurer on the occasion of the last meeting of the Lodge, I take the liberty of putting a touch or two to the Portrait. The Lodge has never been resuscitated, for the simple reason that it has never been moribund. To Bro. Magnus Ohren it is much indebted, not only for important services rendered in his official capacity, but also for the introduction of a large number of men of high intelligence and good social position. At no period of the history of the Frederick Lodge has there been any want of vitality. Bro. Ohren has therefore increased its prosperity, augmented its numbers, but there never was in the Lodge any symptom of decay. Apologising for trespassing on your space,

I remain, yours truly and fraternally,

H. E. FRANCIS, P.P.G.S.D., D.C. 452.

LODGE REPORTS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In an editorial in a late number of your Masonic contemporary attention is called to the manner in which Lodge proceedings are made public. About a year ago I endeavoured, through the medium of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, to impress upon reporters the necessity of caution, and the importance of keeping within the veil. Details, however apparently insignificant in themselves, might nevertheless tend to the betrayal of matters which should be carefully and jealously guarded. I was glad to perceive that in many cases the hint was acted upon. There was a marked improvement in the style of the reports. They were conspicuous by the absence of "over publication of detail, uninteresting repetition of common place and well-known Ritual formularies" which the writer of the article alluded to points out as dangerous. Of late, however, the tendency to over-communicativeness has assumed some of its former proportions. We are far from observing obligatory reserve, and too frequently from being guided by common and extremely necessary prudence. Turning to the reports in the same publication, I find them replete with the evil which is so strongly deprecated. They might very advantageously be modified. We are not justified, neither is it consistent with the tenor of our Masonic duties, in presenting to the outer world a vivid and minutely defined picture of the mode in which the ceremonials of the various degrees are conducted. To the initiated the barest statement of the names of those who had passed through the ordeal of any of the ceremonials is amply sufficient, as the method of procedure is quite as familiar to the reader as to the writer, and the recital thereof therefore entirely superfluous. Not only is the prevalent custom to particularise injudicious, useless and unnecessary, but, as experience teaches, very often injurious. A shrewd impostor, perusing Masonic records as they appear from week to week, could easily gather sufficient knowledge of the routine of the Lodge room to succeed in his pursuit of deception, and, if possessed of plausible and insinuating address, would have no great difficulty so far to hoodwink the incautious and careless as to penetrate into the Lodge itself. As one of the results of this laxity, which cannot be too strongly deprecated and condemned, we have periodical complaints of tricks played upon the unwary, and of successful deceit, which diverts charity from its legitimate course into the pockets of the trickster, whose audacity and vicious acuteness enables him to transmit the flimsiest materials into current coin of the realm. Without any desire to dictate or censure brethren who from a sense of duty take the trouble to forward reports, I would exhort them to exercise greater care, and cease to travel in such fearfully dangerous proximity to the boundaries of our landmarks, bearing in mind the ease with which, in an unguarded moment, they might be overstepped. Information intended solely for the Masonic public can be, with but little effort, so wrapped up as to be perfectly intelligible to those interested and remain profoundly mysterious to the rest of the world. There are numerous incidents in the course of a Masonic meeting in Lodge which, without much harm, might perhaps be openly discussed. But if reports were chiefly restricted to the proceedings of what is understood to constitute the fourth degree, although not quite so instructive, they would be devoid of danger, and most probably prove much more interesting and often more amusing to the general reader. It is for the conductors of a Masonic publication, upon whom, after all, the weight of responsibility rests, to omit all objectionable matter, and expunge statements likely to lead to over-publicity. There is always a class of individuals on tip-toe of expectation to catch their fellows tripping, and ready to turn the follies of others to their own profit and advantage. As Masons, we are strictly bound to reticence, and to perform our appointed tasks with that silence and circumspection which has always been deemed essential to the very existence of the Order. It were better to suppress publicity altogether than bring discredit upon ourselves by furnishing matter for gossip, and possibly, though perhaps unwittingly, violate our obligations.

Yours fraternally,

E. GOTTHEIL.

OLD WARRANTS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The following from Burke's Peerage and Baronetage (Ed. 1864), setting forth the titles, &c. of the Dukes of Athole and a few particulars respecting the two who were Grand Masters of "Ancients," will doubtless interest your readers, and especially Bro. Constable.

Athole, Duke, Marquess, and Earl of (Sir George Augustus Frederick John Murray K.T.), Marquess and Earl of Tullibardine, Earl of Strathtay and Strathardale, Viscount Glenalmond, Balquhidar, and

Digitized by Google

Glenlyon, Baron Murray of Tullibardine, Lord Belvenie and Gask, in the Peerage of Scotland; Earl Strange, Baron Strange, and Baron Murray of Stanley, co. Gloucester in the Peerage of England; Baron Glenlyon, of Glenlyon, in that of the United Kingdom; hereditary Sheriff of Perthshire.

John Murray, 3rd Duke, succeeded his uncle, the 2nd, in 1764 (being eldest son of the Pretender's Lord George Murray, who died in 1766, and was fifth son of first Duke); m. only surviving daughter and heiress of James 2nd Duke in 1765, disposed of sovereignty of Isle of Man to British Government for £70,000, reserving, however, their landed interest, on payment of £101 15s 11d annually, and rendering two falcons to the Kings and Queens of England on days of their coronation—died 5 Nov. 1774.

John Murray 4th Duke s. 5 Nov. 1774—m. (1st) 26 Dec. 1774, Jane el. dau. of George 9th Earl of Cathcart, (2) 11 March 1794, Marjory el. dau. of James 16th Lord Forbes and widow of John, Lord Macleod, (she died 3 Oct. 1842). Created a peer of United Kingdom in dignities of Baron Murray of Stanley and Earl Strange—18 Aug. 1786 and inherited Old English Barony of Strange on death of his mother in 1805. A.K.T. and F.R.S.: disposed of rest of property and privileges in Isle of Man for £409,000: died 1830.

Creations: Baron Murray 25 April 1604. Earl of Tullibardine 10 July 1606. Earldom of Athole, granted to Sir John Stewart, eldest son of Sir James Stewart, called the Black Knight of Lorn, and his wife, Jane, dau. of John, Duke of Lancaster, and Queen Dowager of James I. of Scotland, 1457, and confirmed to John Murray, eldest son of Lady Dorothea Stewart, eldest dau. of John, 8th, and last Earl of Athole of that line, by William, 2nd Earl of Tullibardine, by patent, dated 16 Feb. 1622. Marquess of Athole, 7 Feb. 1676. Duke of Athole, &c. 30 June 1703—all in Scotland. Baron Strange, by writ 1628, in peerage of England. Earl Strange, &c. in peerage of Great Britain 18 Aug. 1786. Baron Glenlyon in peerage of United Kingdom, 9 July 1821.

Fraternally yours,

"Q."

FREEMASONRY IN NORTH WALES.
LLANIDLOES AND NEWTOWN.

THE province of North Wales and Shropshire has of late years, under the rule of so popular and genial a chief as Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, increased in strength at a very rapid rate. During last week two more Lodges were added to the roll, making a total of 21, the R.W.P.G.M. having been present at the consecration of 17 of them. We may add that next year he will have completed his quarter of a century as a ruler in the Craft, and at the present time there are only two Provincial Grand Masters who have ruled over a province for a longer period than Sir Watkin, namely, Dr. Bowles, the R.W.P.G.M. of Hereford, and John Fawcett, Esq., the R.W.P.G.M. of Durham.

On Thursday, 8th June, an especial Provincial Grand Lodge was held at Llanidloes by the R.W.P.G.M., Sir W. W. Wynn, Bart., M.P., for the purpose of consecrating the Llanidloes Lodge, No. 1582, which was attended by a goodly army of officers and brethren.

The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in due form. At the roll call of Lodges it was found 9 only were represented. The Bye Laws of the North Wales and Shropshire Masonic Charitable Association were confirmed. This Association is formed of subscribers to two funds; one by subscribing one guinea per annum enables the brother to become a life member of one of the London Charities in the course of five years, or sooner, if he is successful at the yearly ballot. The other fund is for the purpose of educating the children who are candidates for the London Charities until they are elected.

Bro. W. Blakeway, the S.P.G.W., brought up a communication by unanimous request from the Aberystwyth Lodge, No. 1072. Bro. W. Hamer W.M. congratulating the Provincial Grand Lodge of North Wales and Shropshire on the safe return of their R.W.P.G.M. to them in restored health. Bro. Salmon P.G.S.B. moved that this be entered on the minutes, and that the P.G. Sec. be requested to write thanking the W.M. of 1072 for the communication. This was seconded by Bro. A. Walker P.G.S. of W., and carried unanimously.

The Llanidloes Lodge, No. 1582, was then consecrated in due form by the veteran of consecrations, Bro. Dr. T. W. J. Goldsbro' P.P.S.G.W., the Consecrating Officer appointed by the R.W.P.G.M., after which he duly installed Bro. W. Collonder P.M. 998 P.G.S., the W.M. designate, who then invested the following officers:—Bros. Dr. W. A. Davies S.W., J. Kitto J.W., E. Hamer Treasurer, J. Kitto Secretary, W. W. Williams S.D., J. Hughes J.D., J. Russel I.G.

The brethren then adjourned from labour to refreshment, and partook of a banquet provided in the Market Hall by Mr. Russell, of the Trewythen Arms Hotel, after which the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were drunk, interspersed with music, under the direction of Bro. J. B. Boucher, of Shrewsbury, P.G. Org., assisted by Bros. Dumville P.M. 152, S. Hazlitt S.W. 1432, Roscoe 268, Miller 1357.

On the following day, Friday, 9th June, another especial Provincial Grand Lodge was held in the Public Rooms, Newtown, by the R.W.P.G.M., Sir W. W. Wynn, for the purpose of consecrating the Cydewain Lodge, No. 1594.

The proceedings commenced at one o'clock, in the Public Rooms. About seventy brethren attended the consecration, many of whom came from long distances expressly for the purpose. Bro. Frederick Britton, the Worshipful Master designate, was formally presented to the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, Bro. J. Danily S.W. designate, Bro. H. N. Gilbank J.W. designate, and the other petitioning brethren taking their places. After the Lodge had been opened, Bro. Dr. Goldsbro' W.I.P.M. 998 Past Provincial Grand Senior Warden, the Consecrating Officer, having addressed the assemblage upon the nature of the meeting, called upon Bro. W. H. Spaull, P.G. Secretary, to read the petition and warrant. The Lodge was then consecrated according to ancient form.

About half-past three, the order of procession having been arranged by Bros. Salmon and G. Owen P.P.G.D. of C., the Order started from the Lodge-room at the Public Rooms, and proceeded along Broad-street, High-street, Lower Park-street, New Church-street, to St. David's Church, where a service was held. The brethren appeared in full Craft Masonic clothing and jewels. The route was lined with spectators, and the windows were also used extensively by the wives and friends of the brethren.

As the brethren marched up the church Bro. J. B. Boucher, P.G. Organist, played a march composed by him for the occasion, and dedicated by permission to the R.W.P.G.M. There was a crowded congregation present during the service.

The musical portion of the service was ably given by the choir of the church, assisted by Bros. Miller, Dumville P.M. 152, Hazlitt S.W. 1432 and Roscoe, who sang the solo parts of the anthem excellently. The prayers were intoned by the Rev. J. Williams, rector of Newtown, and the lessons were read by the Rev. Wynne Jones, formerly of Oswestry, and now Vicar of Llanllwchaiarn. The rector preached an excellent sermon from 12th Matthew 49 and 50.

There was an offertory at the close in aid of local and Masonic Charities, and £9 9s 1d was realised.

After divine service the brethren re-formed in procession and marched back to the Elephant Hotel, where upwards of fifty sat down to a banquet, under the presidency of Bro. F. Britton P.M. 850 and 998, P.P.G.J.W. Derbyshire, and W.M. of 1594 ("Cydewain" Lodge), who occupied the chair. He was ably supported on his right by Bro. Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, Bart., M.P., Prov. G.M.; on his left by Bro. T. W. J. Goldsbro' M.D., P.M. 998, P.P.G.S.W.

The whole of the proceedings passed off without a hitch of any kind, and the consecration of "Cydewain" Lodge, No. 1594, will long be a red-letter day among the Craft in Newtown.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF OXFORDSHIRE.

THE Provincial Grand Lodge of Oxfordshire was held on Friday, 16th inst., at the Apollo University Masonic Hall, Oxford. There was a very large assembly of brethren from the different Lodges in the Province. The Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Reginald Bird, M.A., opened the Lodge, the Rev. H. Adair Picard, M.A., taking the Senior Warden's chair, while the Junior Warden's was occupied by the Provincial Grand Junior Warden, Bro. Cooper Smith. The Grand Junior Warden of England, the Hon. W. Warren Vernon, was present. Several important items of Masonic business were transacted. Among these were the report on the state of Freemasonry in the Province, which showed that the Order was making strong headway in the different districts, and the report of the charity committee, which, by centralising the votes that the different brethren in the Province had for the Masonic Charitable Institutions, enabled them to carry their candidates at each election. After this business had been concluded his Royal Highness Prince Leopold, K.G., Provincial Grand Master, was announced, and he entered the Lodge, attended by Bro. the Hon. R. H. Collins, C.B., and Bro. Walter J. D. Campbell, of Blythswood, his equerry. His Royal Highness then ascended the traditional chair of the Royal Solomon, and was received with a round of applause. The customary Masonic salute was given, and the Lodge again settled down to perform its business. Bro. Thomas Randall was re-elected Grand Treasurer for the Province for the 23rd year successively, and Prince Leopold then said that he had appointed Bro. Reginald Bird Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Oxford, an announcement which was received with general applause. The following brethren were appointed to office:—Bro. Jules Boë, M.A., Worshipful Master of the Alfred Lodge, 340, Provincial Grand Senior Warden; Bro. H. Offley Wakeman, B.A., Fellow of All Souls' College, Worshipful Master of the Churchill Lodge, 478, Grand Junior Warden; Bro. the Rev. R. W. M. Pope, M.A., Worcester College, Worshipful Deputy Master of the Apollo University Lodge, 357, and Bro. the Rev. J. Spittal, M.A., Worshipful Master of the Cherwell Lodge, 999, Grand Chaplains; Bro. Alderman T. Randall, Alfred Lodge, Grand Treasurer; Bro. W. Peppercorn, Churchill Lodge, Grand Registrar; Bro. J. E. C. Bodley, Balliol College, Apollo Lodge, Grand Secretary; Bro. T. B. Brown, Marlborough Lodge, 1399, Senior Grand Deacon; Bro. J. Reade, Bowyer Lodge, 1036, Junior Grand Deacon; Bro. F. W. Ansell, Alfred Lodge, 340, Grand Superintendent of Works; Bro. C. G. Paget, Christ Church Apollo Lodge, and Bro. Gordon Campbell, B.A., Exeter College, Apollo Lodge, Grand directors of Ceremonies; Bro. J. Jenkin, Bertie Lodge, 1515, Grand Sword Bearer; Bro. W. Parrat, B. Mus., Magdalen College, Apollo Lodge, Grand Organist; Bro. F. Dolley, Bertie Lodge, Grand Pursuivant; Bro. J. Chapman, Alfred Lodge, Assistant Grand Pursuivant; Bros. W. J. Douglas Campbell, St. Alban Hall, Apollo Lodge; W. N. Glencross, Exeter College, Churchill Lodge; F. Hodges, B.A., Exeter College, Churchill Lodge; H. H. Parry, T. F. Plowman, Churchill Lodge; and H. Harris, Bertie Lodge, Grand Stewards; and Bros. W. Stephens and G. Norwood, Grand Tylers. Ten guineas were voted to the Masonic Institutions, and ten guineas to the Oxford local charities, three guineas of the latter to the Radcliffe Infirmary. On the motion of Prince Leopold, seconded by Bro. Bird, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, a vote of congratulation to the Prince of Wales on his safe return to England was unanimously adopted. The Grand Lodge was then closed, the customary banquet was afterwards held at the Clarendon Hotel, Prince Leopold presiding.

CLUB HOUSE PLAYING CARDS.—Moral Quality, picked 1s 3d per pack, 14s per dozen packs. Do. seconds 1s per pack, 11s per dozen packs. If by post 1½d per pack extra. Cards for Piquet, Bezique, Ecarté, &c., Moral Quality 10d per pack, 9s per dozen packs.—London: W. W. Morgan, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Digitized by Google

READY THIS DAY!

Bound in Cloth, Price 8s 6d,

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUME III.

Cases for Binding either of the Volumes can be had from the Office, 67 Barbican, Price 1/6 each.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS,

WOOD GREEN, LONDON, N. OFFICE: 6 Freemasons' Hall, W.C.

PATRON:
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

PRESIDENT:
HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G., &c., M.W.G.M.

THE SEVENTY-EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL will be held at the ALEXANDRA PALACE, on WEDNESDAY, 28th June 1876, the Right Hon. LORD LEIGH, R.W. Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire, in the chair.

BOARD OF STEWARDS.

President—R.W. Bro. SIR HENRY EDWARDS, BART., Provincial Grand Master of West Yorkshire.
Vice-Presidents—V.W. Bro. Rev. W. K. RILAND BEDFORD, M.A., Past Grand Chaplain and P. Prov. G. Ch. Warwickshire, P.M. 794, &c.
Acting Vice-President—W. Bro. SIR. ROBERTSAL, P. Prov. G.W. Middlesex, P.M. 435, &c.
Hon. Treasurer—W. Bro. FREDERICK ADLARD, P. Prov. G.D.C. Essex, P.M. 7, &c.

With 248 brethren, representing Lodges in the Metropolis and Provinces, lists of whom may be had on application at the Office.

The Musical Arrangements under the direction of Bro. CHARLES HENRY.
Dinner on the Table at Five o'clock precisely.
Tickets: Ladies, 10s; Brethren, 21s; may be obtained at the Office, and from the Stewards.

The visit of the Festival Stewards, and Annual Distribution of Prizes, will take place at the Institution, Wood Green, on Monday, 26th June, commencing at 3 o'clock, under the Presidency of the Supreme Council 33° of England.

FREDERICK BINCKES (P.G. Steward), Sec. to the Institution,
Hon. Secretary Board of Stewards.

14th June 1876.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.

NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

SPENCER AND CO., 23a GREAT QUEEN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

SEASON TICKETS, available for one year from the 1st of each month, to be had of W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR THIRD VOLUME.

WITH the present number is completed our Third Volume, and a few words as to our past career may not be out of place. We think it well, first of all, to express our thanks for the continued and increasing support extended to us by the Craft. Our progress may not have been rapid, but we flatter ourselves, with some reason, that it has been a sure one. We have earnestly striven to redeem the pledges we gave at starting. We have, of course, had, like every other Masonic Journal, our difficulties to contend with, and these have been neither trifling in character nor few in number. But we have gone on battling with them, and the fact that our circle of readers is an ever-extending one we consider is fair evidence that our efforts have not been entirely unsuccessful. We are anxious, of course, to obtain more support, and we shall do our best not only to retain the good opinion we have gained thus far, but to earn for ourselves the sympathy and support of a still more numerous and influential section of the Brotherhood. And when we have gained these we need have little doubt as to the future. This, indeed, has been, and always will be, one of the principal subjects of gratulation—namely, the fact, that once we have obtained the support of a brother, it has only happened in very rare instances that he has withdrawn himself from the number of our friends and well-wishers. Any remarks we have to make as to the future we reserve for the new volume. Let it suffice, on the present occasion, that we thank the Craft generally, as well for its kind indulgence towards our shortcomings as for its warm commendation when commendation may have been deserved.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THERE has been, comparatively, little business in the House of Lords. The Cruelty to Animals Bill passed through Committee on Tuesday, but this is the only measure worth referring to.

In the House of Commons, on Friday last, Messrs. Burt and Macdonald presented a monster petition against the grant of further allowances to the Royal Family till a full statement of their present incomes were known. Weighty, in one sense, this petition, with its 102,000 signatures, undoubtedly was, for the honourable members had some difficulty in carrying it; but weighty, in the sense of likely to prove influential, we are certain it was not. We think Mr. Burt and his colleague might have saved themselves so much trouble. Certain protective duties in the island of Malta, special allowances to the Foot Guards, Summary Jurisdiction, the Audit of Army and Navy Accounts, and Supply, occupied most of the sitting. On Monday, the debate on the Elementary Education Bill of the Government was brought to an end, Mr. Mundella's resolution, which stopped the way, being disposed of by 309 to 163, and the second reading assented to by 356 to 78. On Tuesday, at the morning sitting, the Commons Bill was considered as amended. In the evening a motion of Mr. P. A. Taylor, on the subject of Flogging in the Navy, was defeated. A count-out occurred soon afterwards. On Wednesday, the Banns of Marriage (Scotland) Bill was defeated on its second reading. On Thursday, after a statement by the Prime Minister, as to the Eastern Question, the Jurors' Qualification (Ireland) Bill passed through Committee, and the second reading of the Prisons' Bill was in part debated.

Monday was the thirty-ninth anniversary of Her Majesty's accession to the throne. On Wednesday, a State Concert was given at Buckingham Palace by command of the Queen, who has been enjoying rest in Scotland, and returned to Windsor on Thursday. The Prince and Princess of Walesand the Duke of Connaught were present. Among the artistes Mdlles. Zarè Thalberg, Albani, and Titiens, Madame Patey, Signor Campanini, and Mr. Santley. A second State Ball will be held on the 4th proximo. On Tuesday, their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess entertained at dinner, at Marlborough House, Sir Salar Jung, G.C.S.I., the Dukes of Connaught and Cambridge, and a distinguished party being present to meet him. On Friday, Prince Leopold presided as Grand Master at the meeting in the Apollo University Masonic Hall of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Oxfordshire. The Duke of Connaught has been gazetted Colonel-in-Chief of the 17th Lancers. The Duke of Edinburgh in command of H.M.S. Sultan, has arrived out at Malta, and would proceed shortly to join the fleet under Admiral Drummond in Besika Bay.

Weather of unusual brilliancy has attended the Horse Show held this week in the grounds of the Alexandra Palace. The animals, though fewer in number than at the rival display at the Agricultural Hall, more than held their own in the matter of quality. On Wednesday, the Four-in-Hand Club paid a visit to the Park and Show, the Duke of Beaufort having previously notified Sir Edward Lee, the manager, that their Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught would be among the guests of the Club. The drags, to the number of fifteen or sixteen, reached the Park shortly after one o'clock, the Prince being seated on the Duke of Beaufort's, and his brother on that of Lord Carington. Messrs. Bertram and Roberts had previously received orders to provide lunch, and this having been discussed, the Club and its royal guests witnessed the parade of horses and their jumping, and then returned to town at half-past four o'clock, highly gratified with their visit. Sir Edward Lee and Mr. Bertram were presented to the Prince by the Duke of Beaufort. As regards the show itself, we have said that as regards quality it was all that could be desired, and as it is held under far more favourable conditions as regards place than the Islington show, we doubt not in the course of time it will become the leading exhibition of its kind. The coaches to the number of four and twenty paid a second visit on Thursday.

Digitized by Google

The second Summer exhibition of plants, flowers and fruit at the Royal Botanic Gardens, Regent's Park, on Wednesday, was honoured with a visit by the Princess of Wales and two of her children, and the Duke and Duchess of Teck and their children. About ten thousand people were present. The display was very brilliant. The orchids from the Earl of Londesborough, the pelargoniums from Messrs. Veitch, Bull, and Williams, and the roses of Messrs. Paul and Son of Cheshunt, and Mr. Charles Turner of Slough, were magnificent.

Oxford, which has recently been the scene of Masonic doings, has been gay this week after its usual fashion. This is Commemoration Week, when everybody entertains everybody, when every day has its appointed round of fêtes, and the famous old University city, in fact, does well nigh everything but study. The Freemasons were not behind their academic brethren in celebrating the occasion. Their musical fête, which had been entrusted to the management of a committee, with Prince Leopold in command, was a grand success. The invitations issued exceeded 2,000, and among the attractions were the performances of the Coldstream Guards Band, the Orpheus Glee Union, and the Hungarian Band.

Against these brilliant displays of festivity, we have to record a most deplorable conflagration at Ayr, by which a large factory was burned down, and some twenty-seven persons, with one or two exceptions young girls between 12 and 24 years of age, have lost their lives. The origin of the fire does not appear to be known. The fire at Brook's Wharf has broken out again more than once, but the brigade are fortunately able to prevent its extending to the neighbouring premises.

Among the deaths that have occurred recently, that of Sir Thomas Henry, the respected chief metropolitan magistrate at Bow-street, deserves to be recorded, for Sir Thomas was not only a magistrate of long standing and great experience, having had a seat on the bench for six and thirty years, but he was a most kindly, genial man, and was as dearly loved in private life as he was respected in his public capacity.

Further distracting news has come from the East. Certain of the Turkish Ministers have been assassinated, and the murderer, a captain or major in the army, having been taken red-handed, has since paid the penalty of his crime. This does not look hopeful for the new Sultan, to have lost two of his leading advisers just when their advice is most needed. We shall not pretend to discuss the question whether the crime was political or merely the act of a madman, or of private and personal revenge. It is enough that it weakens public confidence at a very critical time. As to what further steps the three Emperors will take, or whether they will take any, we are not yet able to say. The Prince of Montenegro has thrown up, it is said, the task he had undertaken, and that is a good sign. Servia seems in a more pacific mood, and has not resolved, single-handed, to dispatch the Turk. This is an act of prudence, if of nothing else, for the Turk is likely to prove a tough customer, as those who remember the events of 1853-4 know well enough. However, every day that is spent in deliberation is a gain, and we sincerely trust that peaceful counsels may prevail in the long run. The other foreign news is of no great moment. Our Government has refused, for certain reasons, to surrender certain persons whose extradition was demanded by the United States Government, but the question involved we do not doubt will form the subject of friendly discussion, and possibly of new treaty arrangements. A report was widely circulated to the effect that His Holiness the Pope was dead. We should have been sorry had it been so, but we rejoice to say that Pio Nono still survives, in health, and no doubt with strength enough to hurl a few more harmless maledictions at the heads of us poor harmless Freemasons.

Old Warrants.—No. 4.

No. 320 (Ancients); 405, A.D. 1814 (at the Union); 280, A.D. 1832; and 230 from 1863. (Now held at Devonport.)

ATHOLL, Grand Master.

Robert Gill, S.G.W. William Dickey, D.G.M.
Thomas Hanscomb, J.G.W.

To all whom it may concern, Viz, the GRAND LODGE of the most ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, according to the Old Constitutions granted by His Royal Highness Prince Edwin at York, Anno Domini Nine Hundred Twenty and Six, and in the Year of Masonry Four Thousand and Nine Hundred twenty and six, in ample Form assembled, viz. The Right Worshipful The most Noble and Puissant Prince John Duke, Marquis and Earl of Atholl, Marquis and Earl of Tullibardine, Earl of Strathtay and Strathardale, Viscount Balquidder, Glenalmond and Glenlyon, Lord Murray Belveny and Gask, Heritable Constable of the Castle of Kinclaven, Lord of Man, and the Isles, Earl Strange and Baron Murray of Stanley, in the County of Gloucester, &c. &c. &c.

(No. 320.)—Grand Master of Masons. The Right Worshipful William Dickey Esq. Deputy Grand Master, the Right Worshipful Robert Gill Esq. Senior Grand Warden, and the Right Worshipful Thomas Hanscomb Esq. Junior Grand Warden, (with the approbation and consent of the Warranted Lodges held within the Cities and Suburbs of London and Westminster,) Do hereby authorise and empower our Trusty and well beloved Brethren, viz. The Worshipful George Bowen, Esq. one of our Master Masons. The Worshipful Richard Baker, his Senior Warden, and The Worshipful George Davis, his Junior Warden, to Form and Hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, aforesaid, at the House of the said George Davis, known by the sign of the Acorn in Rotherhithe, and elsewhere, in or near the Cities of London or Westminster, upon the First and Third Tuesday in every Month, and on all seasonable times and lawful Occasions, and in the said Lodge (when duly congregated) to admit and make Free Masons according to the most Ancient and Honourable Custom of the Royal Craft, in all Ages and Nations throughout the known World. And we do hereby further authorise and empower our said Trusty and Well Beloved Brethren George Bowen, Richard Baker, and George Davis, (with the Consent of the Members of their Lodge) to nominate, choose, and instal their Successors, to whom they shall deliver this Warrant, and invest them with their Powers and Dignities as Free Masons &c. And such Successors shall in like manner nominate, choose, and instal their Successors &c. &c. &c. Such Installations to be upon (or near) every St. John's Day, during the continuance of this Lodge for ever, Providing the above named Brethren and all their Successors always pay due Respect to this Right Worshipful Grand Lodge, otherwise this Warrant to be of no Force or Value.

Given under our Hands and Seal of our the Grand Lodge in London, this Second day of May, in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred Ninety and Nine, and in the Year of Masonry Five Thousand Seven Hundred Ninety and Nine.

ROBERT LESLIE, Grand Secretary.

This Warrant is registered in the Grand Lodge, Vol. II. Letter L. Page 196. No. 320.

Let the within Warrant and Lodge No. 320, be transferred to our trusty and well beloved Brother Thomas Barry, one of our Master Masons, John Mc'Laughlin his Senior Warden, and John Morgan his Junior Warden, to form and hold a Lodge at the house known by the name of the Hotel at Kinsand near Plymouth Dock or elsewhere in the County of Devon, upon the first and third Wednesday in every month, and on all other times and lawful occasions, according to the most Ancient and Honourable Custom of the Craft, Our said Brothers and their Successors always and at all times during the continuance of this Warrant, paying due respect to the Right Worshipful Grand Lodge, by whom these presents are granted, otherwise the within Warrant and these presents to be of no force or effect. Provided also that all, and every, the Members of the said Lodge be first, and at all times duly registered, pursuant to the statute in that case made and provided.

THOS: HARPER, D.G.M.
Entd. Let. K. Vol. 10. ROBT: LESLIE, G.S.

The present title and number, &c., are "The Lodge of Fidelity, No. 230, Devonport."

FREEMASONRY IN IRELAND.

To the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle.

Dear Sir and Brother,—I am really very much obliged to Bros. Richard Spencer and James Homer Neilson for their replies to my query as to the whereabouts of the Grand Lodge of Munster records.

Bro. Neilson's communication is very valuable and interesting, and I trust he will succeed in inducing our illustrious Bro. Chatterton to publish these important records, about which nothing absolutely correct as to their contents is known.

If Bro. Chatterton cannot find time to do so, doubtless Bro. Neilson, or his friends, Hogan or Lyon, would oblige us by editing all these records.

I have sent my card to Bro. Neilson to satisfy his private curiosity as to my name and locality, and I hope soon to see him personally in our city of cities (Dublin).

Masonic Investigator.

Digitized by Google

ANTIENT AND PRIMITIVE MASONRY.

TABLES OF THE LAW OF THE FREEMASONS.

(Literally translated from the French of Brother JACQUES ETIENNE MARCONIS, Paris, 1862.)

(Continued from page 371.)

BENEFICENCE.

Created in the image of God, who spreads happiness over all men, approach this infinite model by a constant will; throw incessantly over thy kind all the happiness in thy power, for all which the spirit can conceive of good is the patrimony of the Mason.

All beings which suffer have sacred rights upon thee; withdraw not from the piercing cry of misery which solicits thee, anticipate and reassure the timid unfortunate; poison not, by the ostentation of thy gifts, the sources of that living water where the unfortunate ought to quench their thirst; seek not the price of thy beneficence in vain applause, but in the tranquil suffrages of thy conscience; let that sordid passion, avarice, never soil thy character, and let thy heart ever raise itself above the cold and arid calculations which it suggests; let thy beneficence be active, ingenious, but always enlightened by a prudent wisdom. Let thy good-will extend to all nature, even the noxious insect has a right to live, crush it not without reason; be not cruel to animals, but, on the contrary, compassionate their sufferings, fear not ridicule in defending them against stupid brutality.

DUTIES TOWARDS THE NEIGHBOUR.

Be thou affable and officious towards all the world, edify by example, love thy neighbour, contribute to the happiness of others, permit not envy to rise for a single moment in thy bosom.

Be thou tolerant, for it is not just to seek to impose thy opinion upon men endowed like thyself with the faculty of reason.

Pardon thy enemy, avenge thyself, but by benefits; this generous sacrifice will procure thee the most pure pleasures, and thou wilt become the living image of the Divinity, who pardons with celestial good-will the offences of men, and pours down mercies upon them in spite of their ingratitude; remember that forgiveness is the most beautiful triumph over instinct. Mason! forget injuries, but never benefits.

Love, friendship, fraternity for all men, respect for all women, veneration for the aged, filial piety for fathers and mothers, tenderness for brothers and sisters, good will and gaiety for children, generosity for the unfortunate, and for the widow and orphan, in a word, humanity for thy kind, behold the culte which men owe to human nature.

MORAL PERFECTION OF SELF.

In devoting thyself to others forget not that which thou owest to thyself; endeavour by a firm and constant will to attain the moral perfection of thy Being; have but a single aim in this life; to acquire science by virtue, and virtue by science. Neglect not then to satisfy the wants of thy immortal soul; descend often into thy inner self to sound the most secret folds of thy heart; to know thyself is the grand pivot of Masonic precepts; thy soul is the rough ashlar, the brute stone, which it is necessary to chip; offer to divinity the homage of thy regulated affections and vanquish the passions.

Let the sublime idea of the omnipotence of God fortify and sustain thee; watch and pray; renew each morning the vow to improve in virtue, and when in the evening thy self-satisfied heart recalls to thee a good action, a victory obtained over thyself, repose thou then in peace in the bosom of providence.

Let chaste and severe morals be thy inseparable companions, that thy soul may be pure, upright and true.

Let modesty be thy law; pride is a most dangerous enemy, for it confines man in an illusory confidence in his own strength; consider not the boundary whence thou hast come, or thy course will be relaxed, but where thy journey has to terminate. The short duration of thy existence leaves thee hardly a hope of attaining the goal; strip away self love, a comparison with those who are behind thee is dangerous ailment, but submit to the goad of a virtuous emulation, and study the most accomplished models. The road to virtue is as easy as that of vice, it suffices to enter therein, the march will be easy if, in good hour, thou submit to temperance, without which there is no wisdom; temperance is a universal medicine, both to the physical and moral being; be sober, frugal, and moderate, and thou wilt thus overcome the evils of thy body and spirit.

DUTIES TOWARDS THE BROTHERS.

From the immense crowd of beings with which this universe is peopled thou hast chosen, by a free vow, the Masons for thy brethren. Never, then, forget that all Masons, of whatever country, religion, or condition they may be, in presenting the right hand in symbol of free fraternity, have sacred rights upon thy assistance and thy amity. Faithful to the voice of nature, which is equality, the Mason establishes again in his temples the original rights of the human family; they never sacrifice this principle to popular prejudice, and the sacred level assimilates all states. Respect, in civil society, the distinctions established or tolerated by Providence; but enter but our temples unless escorted by the virtues.

Blush not in public for an obscure but honest man, whom in the Lodge thou hast acknowledged as a brother, else the Order, in its turn, will blush for thee, and send thee back with thy pride to exhibit thyself upon the profane theatre of the world.

If thy brother is in danger fly to his assistance, and fear not to expose thy life for him; if he is in want cast upon him of thy treasure, and rejoice in being able to make such good employment of them; thou hast vowed to exercise benevolence towards men in general, but above all to the brethren who implore thee. It is in vain that thou wilt say to thy kind: there exists a Supreme God, if thou are not thyself a friend and brother to thy species; it is in vain thou wilt say to the poor and the orphan: thou hast a father in heaven, if thou art not a father to them.

If thy heart, alienated by real or imaginary offences, nourishes some secret enmity against one of thy brothers, dissipate instantly the rising cloud, call some disinterested arbitor to thy aid, claim his fraternal mediation; but never pass the threshold of the Masonic temple without having disposed of all hatred and desire of vengeance. Thou wilt invoke the Eternal in vain to dwell in our Lodges, unless they are purified by the virtues of the brethren and sanctified by their concord.

DUTIES TO FRIENDSHIP.

If a friend is necessary to thee, choose him in good hour, for life is short; let him be the most worthy of thy acquaintances, he will be thy master. God guard thee from his descent to the rôle of complaisance, for he will then become the accomplice of thy passions, and be far from aiding thee to vanquish them. A true friend is a treasure, thrice happy he who obtains it. Be slow to tie the knots of friendship, but still slower to sever them.

The friendship of men is the true treasure of wisdom; one cannot attach too much merit to the love of it. Those who love mankind ought to serve them, to be useful to them, to tell them the truth. To serve mankind it is necessary to love good, to be useful to them it is necessary to will and to execute. Truth is the knowledge of good, to teach truth and to do good to mankind is to imitate the works of God.

O! divine friendship, celestial light, supreme felicity, union of human souls! come to form all hearts, come to purify, vivify them, animate them with the same sentiments of love, of fraternity, of benevolence, that the sweet bond may unite all men as one family of brothers and friends.

May love and friendship live in all souls, warm all hearts, and animate all spirits; and soon all men will give themselves to the virtues which elevate and perfect humanity.

DUTIES TOWARDS THE ORDER.

In exchange for thy admission into the Order thou hast abandoned a part of thy natural liberty; accomplish then strictly the new moral obligations required of thee; conform thyself to our Statutes and particular rules, and respect those whom public confidence have constituted the guardians of the law and the interpreters of the general vow. Thou wilt be a bad brother if thou shouldest misunderstand the subordination necessary in all society, and it will be obliged to exclude thee from its bosom.

Purify thy heart, sow in the world the word of life, instruct the ignorant, and relieve those who suffer; teach to mankind—thy brothers, hatred of vice and bad passions, the love of all the virtues.

Thy principal duty is to attack and destroy ignorance, misery, depravity amongst men, and bring the reign of God upon earth.

March, with the torch of reason, in search of virtue; its object is the elevation and ennoblement of the human spirit; show thyself unceasingly virtuous, seek constantly to allie wisdom and prudence; let the love of thy kind burn in thy heart; and hence, worthy of the Sublime Architect of the Universe, thou canst call thyself with pride the true child of light.

When the Masonic torch shall illumine the world, and Masonic doctrines be known amongst all people, then will be realised the sublime idea which is enclosed in our Symbols: but be sure that it is not in an agglomeration of wicked, jealous, and vindictive men, proud mediocrities, that our sublime institution will become strong and powerful.

FINIS CORONAT OPUS.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE, PUNJAB.

AT the Quarterly Communication held at Freemasons' Hall, Lahore, on Wednesday, the 12th day of April 1876, at 7.30 p.m. Present—W. Bros. Major W. H. Mackesy D.D.G.M. in charge of District, Capt. John Chalmers S.G.W., James Wilkinson as J.G.W., Walter Adlard Pratt J.G.W., Charles H. Cheetham G. Treas., Henry T. Tanner C.E. G. Reg., George Davies G. Sec., Capt. A. Dunbar G.D. of Cers., Henry W. Warmington G. Purs.; Bros. W. J. Donaghey, W. Rosswood Stewards, George Read Tyler.

The following Lodges were represented:—

HOPE AND PERSEVERANCE, 782, by W. Bro. W. Adlard P.M.

RAVEE, 1215, by W. Bros. H. W. Warmington W.M., P. Scott P.M., G. Davies P.M., C. H. Cheetham P.M., W. Bell S.W., W. J. Donaghey J.W. and J. J. Davies.

MOOLTAN, 1307, by W. Bros. Capt. A. Dunbar W.M. and D. P. Masson.

JUMNA, 1391, by W. Bro. Capt. John Chalmers P.M.

LIGHT IN THE HIMALAYAHS, 1318, by W. Bro. Henry T. Tanner P.M.

SAINT JOHN THE EVANGELIST, 1183, by W. Bros. Capt. L. W. Taylor W.M., and William Brown as J.W.

INDUSTRY, 1185, by W. Bros. J. Wilkinson P.M., J. W. Lonmarchand S.W., and G. W. Read.

The D.D.G.M. proposed that, the Minutes of the January Communication having been printed and circulated, be taken as read. This was carried. In the course of his address the D.D.G.M. remarked: Since our last Communication H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M. visited Lahore, on which occasion he was pleased to receive a small Masonic deputation, and to accept an address and ornamental cricket bat on District Grand Lodge, to which a gracious reply was returned. The Report of the Board of General Purposes shows that Masonry continues to flourish in the Province, and he recommended for acceptance the recommendations of the Committee of the Fund of Benevolence, and the Report of the Freemasons' Hall Committee.

District Grand Secretary then read the several reports, and the other business having been disposed of, Lodge was closed at 9.30.

Digitized by Google

MASONIC HALL, LAUNCESTON.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE.

WITH the ceremony usual on such occasions, the foundation stone of a new Masonic Hall was laid at Launceston on Monday. The hall is being built by the brethren of the Dunheved Lodge, No. 789, who for some years passed have met at Parson's, King's Arms Hotel. Bro. the Rev. J. K. Lethbridge, P.G. Chaplain of Cornwall, gave a capital site on the Tavistock-road, and on it Mr. W. Burt, of Launceston, will, under the direction of the architect, Mr. J. Hine F.I.B.A., Plymouth, raise a simple structure in the Italian style to contain a Lodge room, preparation and Tyler's room, dining room, and rooms for the porter in charge. The principal feature of the building will be an external porch. The hall is estimated to cost between £600 and £700, exclusive of the furniture and decoration, and towards this sum the Lodge has collected about £400.

The Lodge was opened at the King's Arms at three, and soon after a procession was formed. The band of the volunteers led, behind it was carried the handsome banner of the Lodge, and the brethren followed in Masonic clothing, the officers bearing the Bible, the articles of the ceremonial, &c. Amongst the brethren present were D. H. W. Horlock W.M., P. F. Simcoe I.P.M., J. P. Trood S.W., C. Parsons J.W., Rev. G. Ross P.P.G.C., Dr. Sedgewick P.G.C.E., Rev. E. S. T. Daunt C. D. Thompson Treas., J. Hawkins P.M. P.G.S. Secretary, E. Trood S.D., J. Kitto J.D., S. Couch P.M. acting as I.G., W. Derry Pearse P.M. P.P.S.G.W., W. T. Parsons P.M. P.P.G.S., P. D. Maddox P.M., W. R. Bray P.M., F. Thorne P.M., H. M. A. Sergeant, J. Short, Rev. W. S. Johns, J. J. G. Moore, Dr. Andrew, and T. Webber (Mayor of Falmouth) "Love and Honour," and J. Rowe, "One and All" (Bodmin). To the quaint tune of "O, who would not be a Freemason?" the procession slowly marched through the ancient south gate, down Exeter-street to the site. The brethren having ranged themselves on the platform round the stone, they were called upon by the W.M. to kneel whilst the Chaplain offered a prayer. The architect then presented the plans and received them again from the W.M., who said the brethren approved them, and asked him to see them carried out with the utmost precision and execution.

The W.M., addressing Bro. the Rev. G. Ross, remarked that the brethren of Dunheved Lodge had unanimously chosen him, as a distinguished brother in the Craft, and also as an old friend of the Lodge, and one who, perhaps, had done more than any for the good of Cornwall, to perform the very important ceremony of the day, which would mark an epoch in the Lodge and be remembered as long as Freemasonry lasted. It was, therefore, his pleasing duty, as W.M., to call upon him to lay a foundation stone upon which it was their intention to raise a superstructure for the carrying out of Masonic rites and the worship of Almighty God.

Bro. the Rev. G. Ross replied that a great compliment and a great honour had been conferred on him by selecting him to perform the interesting ceremony. It was also a very great gratification for him to be so called upon, because it had been his desire, through his long Masonic career, to see every Lodge have its separate dwelling, and thus put to silence those ignorant men who asserted that Freemasonry existed merely for conviviality, and could not exist without being associated with hotels and places of entertainment. Lodges when first formed, were greatly indebted to the proprietors of those places for accommodation, but as soon as they were in a position to do so, Lodges should come forward and build a hall, so that there should be no excuse for the false accusation. On this occasion, by the generosity of a reverend brother, whose absence he regretted, they were able to commence such a work on a beautiful and well adapted site, and the liberality of the brethren had furnished means for the raising on it a useful and ornamental building for the benefit of the Lodge. That Freemasonry had extended itself throughout the world was a matter of notoriety, and that it had the support of loyalty and of the intelligence of England, and of monarchs in distant lands, was a proof that there must be something sound and praiseworthy in it. In England they could boast that the Prince of Wales, their own Duke of Cornwall, was their Grand Master; that as rulers of the Order they could number eminent statesmen, Lord Carnarvon and Lord Skelmersdale, and that the House of Commons included many who were proud to be called brothers. Monarchs had not deemed it derogatory to their dignity to exchange the sceptre for the trowel, to participate in their ceremonies, and be present at their gatherings. That this support had been extended from time immemorial was the best testimony of the soundness of the principles of the Order. The grand secret of it was the volume of the sacred law—the word of God, on which their foundations were laid, and as long as brethren adhere to its leading characteristics, brotherly love, relief and truth, so long would Freemasonry continue, and would increase more and more.

Directed by Bro. Ross, the W.M., the S.W., and the J.W. tested the stone with square, level, and plumb rule, and reported favourably. Bro. Ross expressing his confidence in their skill in the royal art declared well and truly laid the stone of a building which he hoped would be completed and used in brotherly love, peace and harmony. Advancing to the stone, Bros. Derry, Pearse, and Thompson poured corn, the W.M. oil, and Bro. Simcoe wine, with the customary brief declarations of the symbolism. Bro. Simcoe, as I.P.M., added a few well chosen words congratulating the Lodge on the commencement of a work calculated to have so important an effect on them; and afterwards apologising for the absence of Bro. the Rev. J. K. Lethbridge, said his inability to attend was the only drawback to the cheerfulness and joy felt on the occasion.

The W.M. next presented Bro. Ross with the handsome silver trowel he had used in the ceremony, requesting him whenever he saw it to pray for the success of the Lodge at Launceston and the Craft in general.

Bro. Ross accepted it as a testimony of their kind regard and esteem, and spoke of the various charitable institutions of the Order—the Schools for boys and girls, the almshouses, and annuities for decayed Freemasons. With prayer by the Chaplain, the ceremony was brought to a conclusion, and the procession reforming, the brethren returned to the Lodge. In the evening the W.M. entertained the brethren at his residence, Ogbear Hall.

GRAND LODGE OF LINCOLNSHIRE.

THE annual Provincial Grand Lodge and General Communication of Masons in this province was held at Brigg, on Tuesday, 6th inst., under the most brilliant auspices. Soon after twelve o'clock there was a general muster of the brethren at the Corn Exchange. The following Lodges were represented: Nos. 272, 297, 362, 389, 422, 426, 712, 792, 838, 985, 1,010, 1,232, 1,286, 1,294, 1,304, 1,386, 1,511, 1,600, &c. About ten minutes to one o'clock the Provincial Grand Officers were admitted.

The Prov. G.M. was supported on his immediate right by the deservedly popular Deputy Prov. G.M., Bro. Major W. H. Smyth, and the officers of Prov. Grand Lodge. The Lodge having been opened in due form, and the hymn of invocation chanted, the Prov. Grand Secretary called over the roll of Lodges and Prov. Grand Officers, when it was found that all the Lodges in the Province were more or less strongly represented. The minutes of the last Prov. Grand Lodge, held at Boston, were then read and confirmed, the D.P.G.M. observing previously, that in accordance with a resolution passed at that meeting a handsomely illuminated address had been forwarded to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, congratulating him upon his elevation to the dignity of M.W.G.M. of England. A letter acknowledging the receipt of that address had been received by Bro. James Fowler, Mayor of Louth. (Applause.)

The Prov. Grand Treasurer then submitted his financial statement, which proved that the funds of the Prov. Grand Lodge were in a very satisfactory condition.

After the business of Provincial Grand Lodge had been transacted, The Provincial Grand Master proceeded to invest his officers for the ensuing year, the jewels being bestowed in the following order:—Bros. Major W. H. Smyth D.P.G.M., W. Pigott, of the Ancholme Lodge, P.G.S.W., F. Watson, of the St. Hugh Lodge, P.G.J.W., the Rev. J. Lowe, of the Lodge of Harmony, P.G.C., C. M. Nesbitt, of the Lindsey Lodge, P.G.T., H. Watson, of the St. Hugh Lodge, P.G.R., F. D. Marsden, of the Lindsey Lodge, P.G.S., J. Sutcliffe, of the St. Alban's Lodge, P.G.S.D., J. Robinson, W.M. of the Pelham Pillar Lodge, P.G.J.D., G. Nelson, of the Ancholme Lodge, P.G.D. of C., R. Nicholson, of the Olive Union Lodge, A.P.G.D. of C., W. S. Bladen, of the Yarborough Lodge, P.G.S.B., W. Mason, of the St. Hugh Lodge, P.G.O., J. Queenborough, of the Lodge of Harmony, P.G.P., F. Goodhand, E. Chamberlain, F. Smith and Field P.G. Stewards.

For the comfort and convenience of the brethren who had come from a distance to attend Grand Lodge, a spacious marquee had been erected for the purposes of the banquet, it having been deemed preferable to dining, as usual, indoors. A magnificent tent was obtained from Mr. Fussey, of Hull, and its appearance, when filled by the numerous company, was exceedingly picturesque. The chair was occupied by the R.W. P.G.M., his Grace the Duke of St. Albans, who was supported by the Provincial Officers, and a numerous assembly.

THE DRAMA.

St. James's and "Les Danicheff"—The Prince of Wales's.

AN original and powerful drama, from the pen of a Russian, named Pierre Kronkoffski, is now being performed by the Parisian Odéon company at the ST. JAMES'S. Les Danicheff, as the piece is entitled, is based on the old Russian institution of serfdom. A Russian aristocrat, named Wladimir, in opposition to the traditions and wish of his family, has fallen in love with a beautiful serf. His mother, horrified at the idea of their marrying, forms a plot to prevent it. Having succeeded in persuading her son to join his regiment at Moscow, she compels the girl to marry her coachman, Ossip. The marriage is solemnized in due form, but the couple having acted under compulsion in the matter, agree to consider it as null and void. Eventually, after a passionate scene between the Countess and Wladimir, who returns to find out the deception that has been practised upon him, the difficulty is overcome by Ossip entering the priesthood, which, it appears, according to Russian law, has the effect of releasing the girl from her vows. The play is admirably performed, Madame Fargueil as the Countess, Madame Petit as the girl Anna, and M. Marais as the young Wladimir, being especially fine. The French season at ST. JAMES'S can hardly fail of being a success.

An important change of cast has taken effect at the THE PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE during the past week. Mrs. Bancroft, the charming and able manageress, has, we regret to say, been too unwell to sustain her character of Mary Netley, in Mr. Robertson's comedy of Ours, and her place has been supplied by her sister, Miss Blanche Wilton, a delightful little actress, second only to Mrs. Bancroft herself in the successful assumption of this impersonation. The sudden illness of Miss Ellen Terry, on Tuesday last, occasioned a further alteration in the cast, for Miss Kathleen Irwin, called upon at a few hours' notice to supply Miss Terry's place, appeared that evening in the character of Blanche Haye, and has continued in the part throughout the week. The performance of so important a part at such short notice, without a hitch or a break of any kind, must be regarded as a veritable tour de force. Miss Irwin is a charming actress, and her long absence from the London boards is much to be regretted on behalf of London play-goers.

Digitized by Google

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

SATURDAY, 24th JUNE.

186—Percy, Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, N., at 8. (Instruction.)
453—Chigwell, Castle Hotel, Woodford, Essex.
1541—Alexandra Palace, Alexandra Palace, Muswell Hill.
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

MONDAY, 26th JUNE.

45—Strong Man, Old Jerusalem, St. John's-square, E.C., at 8. (Instruction.)
66—Royal Clarence, Freemasons' Hall, Bristol.
1177—Tenby, Royal Assembly Rooms, Tenby, Pembroke.
M. M. 149—Stamford, Town Hall, Altrincham, Cheshire.

TUESDAY, 27th JUNE.

14—Tuscan, Freemasons' Hall, W.C.
55—Constitutional, Wheatsheaf, Hand-court, W.C., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
860—Dalhousie, Royal Edward, Tyrangle, Harkrow, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
1507—Metropolitan, 399 Pentonville-road. (Instruction.)
Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, at 6.30.
253—Tyrian, Masonic Hall, Gower-street, Derby.
810—Union, Freemasons' Hall, Castle-street, Carlisle.
873—Perseverance, Shenstone Hotel, Halos Owen.
1006—Elkington, Masonic Rooms, New-street, Birmingham.
1358—Torbay, Town Hall, Paignton.
R. A. 101—Beaufort, Freemasons' Hall, Bristol.
R. A. 923—Everton, Masonic Temple, 22 Hope-street, Liverpool.

WEDNESDAY, 28th JUNE.

Festival, Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, Alexandra Palace.
185—Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, at 7. (Instruction.)
1334—Duke of Connaught, Havelock, Albion-road, Dalston, at 8.0. (Instruction.)
R. A. 1365—Clapton, White Hart Tavern, Clapton, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
109—Peace and Harmony, Royal Oak Hotel, Dover. (Instruction.)
996—Soudes, Eagle Hotel, East Dereham, Norfolk.
1039—St. John's, George Hotel, Lichfield.
1611—Alexandra, Masonic Hall, Horncss, at 7. (Instruction.)
R. A. 236—Benevolence, Red Lion, Littlebury.

THURSDAY, 29th JUNE.

General Committee, Girls' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
3—Fidelity, Yorkshire Grey, London-st., Fitzroy-sq., at 7.0. (Instruction.)
27—Egyptian, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. (Instruction.)
435—Salisbury, Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. at 8. (Instruction.)
1260—Hervey, 152 Fulham-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1469—Marquess of Ripon, Albion, Albion-road, Dalston, at 7.30. (Instruction.)
807—Cabbell, Masonic Hall, Theatre-street, Norwich.
966—St. Edward's, Literary Institute, Leek, Stafford.
R. A. 67—Humber, Freemasons' Hall, Osborn-street, Hull.

FRIDAY, 30th JUNE.

933—Doric, East Grey Tavern, Mile End-road, at 8. (Instruction.)
1278—Bunker Coutts, Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, at 8. (Instruction.)
1365—Clapton, White Hart, Clapton, 7.30. (Instruction.)

SATURDAY, 1st JULY.

General Committee, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
R. A.—Sinai Chapter of Instruction, Union, Air-street, Regent-street, at 8.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

SATURDAY.

1402—Wharncliffe, Rose and Crown Hotel, Penistone.
R. A. 308—Affability, Station House, Bottoms, Eastwood.

WEDNESDAY.

304—Philanthropic, Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds.
1263—Ryburn, Private Rooms, Town Hall-street, Sowerby-bridge.

THURSDAY.

839—Craven, Devonshire Hotel, Skipton.
904—Phœnix, Ship Hotel, Rotherham.

FRIDAY.

R. A. 242—Magdalen, Guildhall, Doncaster.

SATURDAY.

808—Prince George, Station House, Bottoms, Eastwood.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND.

MONDAY.

48—Industry, Freemasons' Hall, West-street, Gateshead.

TUESDAY.

1167—Alnwick, Masonic Hall, Market-place, Alnwick.
M. M. 99—Eclectic, Freemasons' Hall, Upper Church-street, West Hartlepool.

WEDNESDAY.

1119—St. Bede, Mechanics' Institute, Jarrow.

IRELAND.

MONDAY—378—St. John's, Lisburn.

SCOTLAND.

WEDNESDAY—6—St. John, Old Kilwinning, Caledonian Hotel, Inverness.

EDINBURGH DISTRICT.

MONDAY—349—St. Clair, Freemasons' Hall.
TUESDAY—158—Defensive Band, Alexandra Hall, Cockburn-street.
R. A. 40—Naval and Military, Freemasons' Hall.
WEDNESDAY—132—St. John Fleharrow, Royal Hotel, Musselburgh.
FRIDAY—223—Trafalgar, 94 Bernard-street, Leith.

GLASGOW AND THE WEST OF SCOTLAND.

During the Tourist Season, for the benefit of our travelling brethren, we purpose giving all the Masonic Meetings in the West. All the meetings are at 8 p.m., unless otherwise expressed.

MONDAY—108—Union and Crown, 12 Trongate, Glasgow.
" R.A.—122—Thetis, 36 St. James's-street.
TUESDAY—56—Clydesdale, 196 Rose-street.
" R. A. 62—Cathedral, 24 Struthers-street.
WEDNESDAY—510—Maryhill, 167 Main-street, Maryhill, Glasgow.
" R. A. 13—Caledonian of Unity, 213 Buchanan-street.
THURSDAY—324—St. John, Cumnock, Freemasons' Hall, New Cumnock, 7 p.m.
" 570—Kennuir, Freemasons' Hall, Springbourne, 7 p.m.
FRIDAY—51—London Kilwinning, Black Bull Inn, New Miles.
" 153—Royal Arch, Freemasons' Hall, Cogan-st., Pollockshaw, 7.30.
" 189—St. Bride's, Freemasons' Hall, Douglas.
" 347—St. John, Operative, Freemasons' Hall, Cathcart-st., Rutherglen, 7.30.
" R. A. 75—Commercial, 90 Hope-street, Glasgow.
SATURDAY—270—St. George, 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow, 3 p.m.
" 456—St. John's, Wilson's Hall, Busby, 6 p.m.
" 566—St. Andrew, Freemasons' Hall, Bank-street, Coatbridge.
" R. A. 143—Robert Burns, Freemasons' Hall, Holytown, 7 p.m.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting on Monday, the 19th June, at Bro. Guy's, Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's-gate, Clerkenwell. Present—Bros. Morrison W.M., Hill S.W., Pearcy J.W., Powell Deputy Secretary, Crawley S.D., Stock J.D., Robinson I.G., Christopher Tyler, P.M.'s Bros. Beckett Preceptor, and Hance. Business—The Lodge having been opened in due form, and the minutes confirmed, the W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of raising, including the traditional history, Bro Stock being the candidate. The sections of the degree were worked by the Preceptor and Bro. Stock. Bro. Hill was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. After Monday, the 26th inst., the Lodge will adjourn until the first Monday in September.

Macdonald Mark Masters Lodge, No. 104.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held at the "Mason's Hall," Coleman-street, E.C., on Saturday, the 17th inst., and was well attended, although several Officers were absent from illness and other unavoidable causes. The Lodge was opened by the W. Bro. Robert Berridge, supported by Bros. T. W. White S.W. and W.M. elect, N. Ritherdon M.O., the V.W. Bro. T. Meggy P.G.M.O., P.M. and Treas., the V.W. Bro. J. Stevens P.G.E.O. and P.M., W. Bro. W. Worrell, P.M., W. P. Collins S.D., N. J. F. Bassett I.G., G. Yaxley D.C., G. W. Verry W.S., J. K. Pitt, W. C. Hale, C. A. Heinmann, H. F. Partridge, W. Johnston, W. Grant, &c. The Deputy Prov. Grand Mark Master for Middlesex and Surrey, Bro. F. Davison, honoured the Lodge with a visit, accompanied by the W. Bro. Sigismund Rosenthal P.G.D.C., and the W. Bro. James W. Smith, P.M. and P.G.S. The minutes of the previous Lodge meeting having been confirmed, a ballot was taken for Bro. John Gilbert Edgecumbe, of the Hengist Lodge, No. 195, who was unanimously approved of for advancement at next meeting, with other candidates already approved. A dispensation from the M.W.G.M. Master was then read, directing the W.M. and P.M. to instal into the chair of A. Bro. C. A. Heinmann, in order that that brother might have power to form a new Lodge in Japan, whither he was about to proceed. The V.W. Bro. Meggy, as Installing Master, in his usual careful and perfect manner, duly Installed Bro. T. W. White as Master of the Lodge, and at the same time gave effect to the commands of the M.W.G.M.M. by conferring the dignity of a W.M. of the Order on Bro. Heinmann. Both newly elevated brethren were saluted according to ancient custom, and good wishes expressed for the safety and prosperity of the intending traveller. The W.M. of the Lodge next appointed his officers in the following order, viz.: Bros. A. Williams S.W., N. Ritherdon J.W., E. Moody M.O., E. Drewett S.O., W. P. Collins J.O., the V.W. Bro. T. Meggy P.M. Treas., F. H. Cozens R.M., the W. Bro. Charles Hammerton P.M. Sec., N. J. F. Bassett S.D., G. Yaxley J.D., G. W. Verry I.G., W. C. Hale Org., J. K. Pitt W.S., J. Close D.C., H. F. Partridge C.S., and W. Grant Tyler. A request from the Provincial Grand Secretary for a nomination of a member of the Lodge for Prov. Grand Office was read, and the choice of the brethren fell on Bro. J. K. Pitt. The Deputy Prov. Grand Master having called for the minute book of the Lodge, was pleased to make an entry therein commendatory of the working he had witnessed, and of the admirable manner in which Bro. Meggy had discharged the duties of Installing Master. Dues having been rendered, wages paid, and working plans deposited, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet. As a rule we refrain from expressing an opinion on the catering of hotel proprietors, but in this instance it is but common justice to observe that if the dinner then provided is a fair example of what the new proprietors of "Mason's Hall" intend to set before their customers on like occasions, both the Lodges meeting there and the hosts themselves will have much satisfaction in the result. Moderation in charge, excellence in quality of both viands and wines, attentive service, and regard for comfort are not so frequently displayed that when met with those qualities should remain unnoticed. After the customary toasts and a most enjoyable evening the brethren separated at an early hour, much pleased to know that the contemplated removal of the Lodge to other quarters is now no longer necessary on the score of want of accommodation for Lodge working and subsequent refreshment.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—The weekly meeting of this Lodge took place on Wednesday, the 21st inst., at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons' Avenue, Basinghall-street, E.C.

Digitized by Google

Bro. Hollands presiding. There were also present Bros. Geo. Pare S.W., Blackhall J.W., J. K. Pitt Hon. Treasurer, Triggs S.D., Rudderforth J.D., Fenner I.G., Christopher Tyler, E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, and a considerable number of other brethren. The proceedings were conducted with accustomed proficiency. The ceremony of the third degree was rehearsed by Bro. Hollands in a manner which gave great satisfaction to all present, Bro. Sayer acting as candidate. One of the sections of the degree was worked by Bro. Gottheil, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Geo. Pare was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. It was announced that the fifteen sections will be worked at the Great City Lodge of Instruction, 111 Cheapside, on Thursday, the 29th of June, Bro. James Stevens P.M. will preside, and also that the fifteen sections are to be worked at this Lodge on the 5th July, when Bro. Thomas J. Barnes P.M. 933 will take the chair.

Royal Clarence Lodge, No. 271.—The June banquet of this Lodge was held on Friday last, at the Royal Pavilion, Brighton, under the presidency of Bro. Gerard Ford W.M., supported by his Wardens, Officers, and several distinguished brethren, among whom were the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. E. J. Turner, General Ford, brother of the W.M., &c. The regular business of the Lodge was transacted, and the brethren, 55 in number, sat down to a very sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. Mutton. The regular Masonic and Loyal toasts were given and duly responded to.

St. George's Lodge, No. 333.—This Lodge held their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, 14th June, at 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow. Bro. Alex. Thompson E.W.M. opened the Lodge with Bros. James Findley S.M., Jas. Forsyth S.W., R. Anderson J.W., A. Dunn Treasurer, A. McIntyre Secretary, T. Hill J.D., W. G. Hickson Tyler. There was a large attendance of members and visitors; a petition was presented on behalf of a gentleman, and there being no objection, at the request of the Master, his substitute, Bro. Findley, performed the ceremony in most excellent style. The Lodge was then opened in the 2nd degree, when Bro. G. W. Wheeler passed three brethren to the degree of Fellow Craft. The R.W.M. announced his intention of calling an emergency meeting for Saturday, 1st July, that the brethren might be raised before the summer vacation of the Lodge.

The Supreme Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland.—This Chapter held its quarterly meeting on Wednesday, the 21st June, at Freemasons' Hall, George-street, Edinburgh. Present—Comps. Carmichel P.Z. acting as 1st Grand Principal, G. W. Wheeler Z. 75 2nd Grand Principal, J. Mitchell 3rd Grand Principal, L. Mackessy G.S.E., Major H. Ramsay 1st G.S., D. Carmichel 2nd G.S., H. J. Shields Z. 143 3rd G.S., James Barker Grand Janitor. Business—Communication from the Grand Chapter of Nova Scotia about the reception of Comp. Alexander Hay as their representative to the Grand Chapter. Comp. Mackessy presented an interesting communication from the Grand Chapter of Philadelphia; also communications from Chapters 35, 86 and 130. The bye-laws of 139 and 160 were confirmed. Chapter 35 was ordered to be reported on the roll. A charter was granted for Agemem, Lima, to stand as No. 167. An application was received from Gibraltar for a charter, which was remitted to the Grand Committee.

Tyne Lodge, No. 991.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on 8th June, at Freemasons Hall, Willington, Quay-on-Tyne. Present—Bros. John E. Robson P.M. 48 acting S.W., J. Montgomery J.W., Ellison acting S.D., G. Redpath J.D., George Ridley Steward, Wm. Gladstone I.G., Geo. Heslop Tyler, W. Morton Secretary, M. Guthrie P.M. Treasurer. The following, with many distinguished brethren, were present, viz., Bros. G. A. Allan P.P.G.J.D. Northumberland, Nicholas Brown, Wm. Hardie 991. Past Master Bro. Charles Jarvis, occupied the chair of W.M., and initiated three candidates into Freemasonry in a highly creditable manner, and also explained the tools. There will probably be a Royal Arch Chapter attached to this Lodge shortly, in consequence of the very rapid progress Freemasonry is making in the district.

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—This Lodge held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 14th of June, at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present—Bros. James Greenfield I.P.M. acting W.M., Margrett S.W., Welch J.W., Ivey P.M. Sec., Stransom Treas., Newman (Steward) acting S.D., Hukins acting J.D., Danks I.G., Hemmings Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. Chancellor, Hurley, Egginton. Members—Bros. Rolfe, Bailey, Hawkes, Creed, White. Visitor—Bro. A. M. Yotts W.M. 414. Business—The I.P.M. announced that he had received a letter from the W.M., stating that owing to a pressure of business he was prevented attending the Lodge, and requesting him to conduct the ceremonies on this the last Lodge of the season. The Lodge was opened in the first degree, the minutes of the last regular Lodge were read and confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree. The acting W.M. stated that Bros. White and Creed were candidates for admission to the 3rd degree, he therefore put the usual questions to them, which were most satisfactorily answered, when they retired to be prepared. The Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, Bros. White and Creed were raised to the sublime degree of M.M., the acting W.M. going through the proceedings in a most complete and satisfactory manner, the candidates appeared to be deeply impressed with the ceremony, which only required the musical accompaniment to render it fully impressive. The Lodge was resumed in the 2nd and 1st degrees, when the election of W.M. for the ensuing year took place, Bro. Margrett S.W. was declared to be elected. In returning thanks the S.W. and W.M. elect expressed the hope that the members of the Lodge would not regret the choice they had made; he hoped, with the assistance of the P.M.'s and a good staff of officers, that he should pass through his year of office as satisfactorily as his predecessors had done. He alluded to the singular coincidence that on that very day ten years he was initiated into Freemasonry, 14th June 1866, he being the last of the four first initiates after the consecration of the Lodge. Bro. Stransom was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Hemmings as Tyler. The notice of motion by Bro. Brown P.M., seconded by Bro. Egginton, was the next business on the agenda, "that the sum of £31 10s be paid to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys," which was carried unanimously. The W.M. elect was congratulated on being a Vice President of that Institution, to which he feliciteously replied. Bro. Chancellor moved, and the W.M. elect seconded, "that a P.M. jewel, of the same value as that of his predecessors, be presented to the W.M. for his services during his year of office," this was carried by acclamation. The Lodge was adjourned till the second Wednesday in October, when the new Master will be installed. The following are the Stewards for the Installation Banquet, Bros. H. W. Ridley, Danks, Ferguson, and Newman.

Upton Lodge, No. 1227.—A regular meeting of this Lodge took place on Thursday, the 15th June, at the Spotted Dog, Upton, Essex. The chair was occupied by Bro. R. Bolton P.M. as W.M., and he was well supported by Bros. D. Posener S.W., G. Brown J.W., J. Wayland Hon. Treas., E. Picking P.M. Hon. Sec., W. Webster as S.D., W. J. Page J.D., A. W. Fenner as I.G., F. C. Kinnear W.S., R. W. Goddard P.M., and a number of brethren, among whom were the following visitors:—R. Farquharson 99, Sam. Carter P.M. 763, Geo. Parks 157, Thos. Pottinger P.M. 77, Chas. Daniels J.W. 65. In the course of the evening Bros. Canfield and Vinacombe were raised to the third degree, Bro. Legg passed to the second, and Messrs. Chas. Henry Belsey and Arthur Land were permitted to enter upon their noviciate as members of the ancient craft. Subsequently refreshment, in the shape of a substantial supper, was served, which was partaken of and enjoyed with considerable heartiness. After grace the toasts were speedily disposed of. Great regret was expressed at the absence, through illness, of the W.M., and if sincere wishes for recovery have any influence, his restoration to health cannot be far distant. The presiding W.M., in speaking to the toast of the officers, took occasion to remark upon the excellent working and general Masonic abilities of Bro. D. Posener the S.W., who, he trusted, will be unanimously chosen as the future W.M., when the election takes place on their meeting in July. Arrangements are being made upon rather an extensive scale for the summer festival of this Lodge, Bruxbourne having been selected as the favourite spot for the occasion, the W.M. hoped to have the pleasure of their society, and he also hoped nothing would intervene to mar anticipated enjoyments. Bros. Carter, Daniels and Farquharson returned thanks for the visitors. The latter brother intimated that he was a member of numerous Lodges; the special favourites, however, were situated at Melbourne and Ceylon. Some excellent songs were sung, one especially, by Bro. Land, whose magnificent vocal powers were displayed to great advantage, being sustained by the skilful performance on the pianoforte of Bro. Farquharson, one of the visitors, who courteously offered to play the accompaniment. A very agreeable evening came, at length, to a close, the brethren being highly gratified, and the visitors loud in their expressions of hearty thanks for the cordial and hospitable manner in which they had been received.

Dundas Lodge, No. 1255.—The annual meeting of this Lodge took place on Monday, the 19th inst., at the Huyshe Masonic Temple, Plymouth. Amongst the members present were Bros. Charles Godtschalk W.M., P.M.'s W. Bell, T. W. Triplett and S. B. Harvey; Samuel J. Hearle S.W., John Pearce J.W., T. Willis, H. Crimp, Thos. Smith, Pearce, Duggan, Hammond, T. Smith, and a large number of visitors, including R.W. Bro. Metham P.G.D. England, D. Prov. G.M. Devon, J. H. Gover P.M. 70 P.P.G.A.D.C., L. D. Westcott P.M. 70 P.P.G.S.Wks., R. G. Bird W.M. 1550, J. Fly W.M. 1247, J. P. Rogers J.W. 1550. The ceremony of installing his successor, Bro. S. J. Hearle S.W., was admirably performed by the retiring Master, Bro. Charles Godtschalk, and was a fitting completion to a year's work which has earned for him the honour and esteem of the Lodge over which he has so ably presided. The following officers were appointed:—W. Bro. Godtschalk I.P.M., Bro. John Pearce S.W., Henry J. Ham J.W., W. Bro. W. Bell P.M. Treas., W. Bro. T. B. Harvey P.M. P.P.G.D.C. Sec. and Representative on Committee of Petitions, — Smith S.D., W. H. Crimp J.D., Bro. Temple Willis I.G., Bro. Hammond D.C., Bro. Cann A.D.C., T. Smith Tyler. The Lodge decided upon increasing the initiation fee to seven guineas, and having received and adopted the Treasurer's accounts, adjourned to the Globe Hotel, where a banquet was provided by Bro. J. Watts. The usual loyal toasts having been duly honoured, W. Bro. Godtschalk proposed the health of the R.W. Bro. Huyshe, Prov. G.M., and V.W. Bro. Metham, D. Prov. G.M. In doing so he stated it would be a difficult matter to find a word in the English tongue that had not been over and over again used, and justly used, in praise of our Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Huyshe. The well-known characteristics of that eminent brother, his kindliness of heart and benevolent disposition, his zeal and true Masonic spirit, were ever bubbling forth to administer charity of heart in its most substantial form. In this good work he was aided by our worthy D.G.M., Bro. L. P. Metham, who was famed for his quiet yet active benevolence. The active part taken by him in the work of the province, his close connection with its charities, has earned for him the esteem and respect of the entire province. He therefore asked them to join with him in wishing to each of these brethren long life and happiness. V.W. Bro. Metham thanked the brethren for the manner in which their names were always received, and concluded by proposing the health of the W. Master. He had no personal knowledge of him, but was certain that a Lodge always so careful in selecting their W.M. would be sure to make a wise choice, and that the new W.M. would try at all times to preserve the prestige of the Lodge. Bro. Hearle thanked the D. Prov. G.M. for his kindly notice, and the brethren for their confidence, which he would always endeavour to deserve. W. Bro. Gover proposed the health of the Past Masters, Treasurer and Secretary. The Treasurer and Secretary were the founders of the Lodge, and had done much in assisting it to attain its present high position. The Past Masters had done their part well and efficiently, while their I.P.M. Bro. Godtschalk had not only done everything which could be expected in the Lodge, and for the Lodge, but had given valuable assistance to the province. He had been instant in season and out of season, and very much of the success of the Devon candidates was due to the zeal, energy and tact displayed by him whilst acting in London as representative for Devonshire. Bro. Charles Godtschalk on rising stated that if he attempted to reply to the toast as given by Bro. J. B. Gover, he should fail. He should leave the P.M.'s, the Secretary and Treasurer to take care of themselves, they being old and experienced Masons. He had, however, undertaken a duty at the request of the Lodge. At the expiration of a pleasurable year of office, this was one of the most gratifying tasks. This was, on behalf of the Lodge, to make a presentation to their esteemed P.M., Bro. Samuel Harvey. In doing so, he stated it was a pleasure to him from the fact of their having worked together in Lodge, in having passed through the chairs together, he might say cordially and almost hand in hand. In making this presentation he should endeavour to give utterance to a few simple words of truth. They might be feeble, and not what the occasion deserved, yet they would not be mere praise and flattery, but the outspoken sentiments of one who had had ample opportunity of judging the qualifications of a brother who deserved to have those qualifications spoken of in terms far more eloquent than he could hope to use. He felt honoured in being the mouthpiece of the Lodge on this occasion. Bro. Godtschalk then placed on the breast of Bro. S. Harvey an elegant P.M.'s jewel, which was suitably acknowledged. V.W. Bro. Metham, in proposing the last toast, "Our distressed brethren," said it was a very important one. He was glad to be able to congratulate the Lodge of Dundas on what they had already done in the way of charity, and was sure he should not appeal in vain to them to continue in the same course. He particularly advocated the claims of our aged brethren and their widows, at the same time saying that whilst we should always take care of our own household, a Mason's charity should know no bounds save those of prudence. He was pleased to learn that the Lodge had recently given liberal sums to what was sometimes called outside the Order, but which was not really so; notably they had supported the South Devon Hospital and the Female Orphan Asylum. A very enjoyable day was spent, several of the brethren contributing appropriate music. Bro. J. Fly, whose talent is widely known and appreciated, gave some choice selections on the cornet.

Digitized by Google

Lebanon Lodge, No. 1326.—The regular meeting of this summer Lodge was held at the Red Lion Hotel, Hampton, on Saturday 17th. It being election night, there was a strong muster of the brethren; amongst those present whose names we were able to obtain were Bros. H. A. Dubois P.P.G.A.D.C. Middx. W.M., W. Hammond P.G.J.D. &c. Middx. I.P.M., E. Gilbert S.W., C. W. Fox J.W., F. Walters P.P.G.P. Middx. P.M. Sec., W. Mitchel acting S.D., J. B. Shackleton acting J.D., J. W. Baldwin I.G., H. Gloster D.C., H. Potter W.S., J. C. Woodrow P.M., D. Steinhauer, J. Greenwood, T. Stone, J. Howe, A. Bolingiron, F. Knight, J. Hermanan, G. S. Streeton, C. Lacup, W. Stanton. Visitors—B. Sharp P.M. Mariners 168, Rev. T. W. Cave Sec. Acacia 1309, R. W. Martin Jordan 201, and E. Beckwith 1423. Lodge was opened in due form with solemn prayer. Minutes of last regular meeting read and confirmed. Messrs. W. Blackely and W. T. Trebearne, who had been previously balloted for, were initiated into the Order. The bye-laws of the Lodge were read by the Secretary and agreed to. The next business being to elect a W.M. for the ensuing year, a ballot was taken, the result being unanimously in favour of the S.W., Bro. Gilbert, who in well chosen terms thanked the brethren for the honour they had conferred on him, assuring them it would be his earnest endeavour to discharge those duties to their satisfaction. Bros. S. Wickens P.M. was re-elected Treasurer, and Gilbert P.G.T. Tyler. W. Mitchel, W. Stanton, and J. B. Shackleton were appointed Auditors in addition to those provided for in the bye-laws of the Lodge. A notice of motion by Bro. F. Walters, that the sum of five guineas be spent in purchasing a P.M.'s jewel, to be presented to Bro. H. A. Dubois, was met by an amendment from Bro. Gilbert, that the amount be increased to seven guineas, seconded by Bro. Stanton, and carried unanimously. Bro. J. C. Woodrow was nominated for office as A.S., J. Symes as C.S., and G. Short as S. Nothing else offering the Lodge was closed in ancient form, and adjourned to the third Saturday in July (installation). The brethren afterwards sat down to one of those capital banquets for which this Lodge is so famous. After grace, the W.M. proposed, in rapid succession, the toasts of the Queen and the Craft, H.R.H. the Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Pro and Deputy Grand Masters, and our R.W.P.G. Master, Col. Francis Burdett, from whom a letter had been received, expressing his regret at not being able to attend, military duties requiring his presence elsewhere,—and the rest of the Grand Officers past and present, the latter being responded to by Bro. Hammond, who also proposed the health of the W.M., complimenting him on the very able and creditable manner he had discharged his duties as W.M., and also on the success that had attended his year of office. In reply, Bro. Dubois said he was not going to make a speech, but on this, the last occasion he would have to address them in that capacity, he felt bound to return them his sincere and heartfelt thanks for their unvarying kindness and courtesy towards him. His success was in a great measure due to their active co-operation, and he hoped the brethren would also support the W.M. elect during his year of office, reminding them that Bro. Gilbert had served nearly every office in the Lodge, and would, he felt certain, prove to them he was "the right man in the right place;" he would therefore propose the health of the W.M. elect. The toast, we need scarcely say, was received with enthusiasm. Bro. Gilbert hoped he had not been over praised, but he was one of those who thought, if a thing was worth doing at all, it was worth doing well, and as they considered he had done his duty in the minor offices, he hoped he might be enabled to uphold, with their assistance, the dignity of the Lodge, and the proud position they held as one of, if not the largest Lodge in the province. The W.M. next proposed the health of the initiates, which was severally replied to. The next, being that of the Visitors, was very ably responded to, particularly by Bro. Cave. "The Officers" brought the veteran Secretary forward again to reply, who also gave the E.A. song. Bro. Woodrow caused considerable merriment by his excellent rendering of the "Vagabond." The Tyler's toast terminated another very enjoyable meeting at "Happy Hampton."

Felix Lodge, No. 1494.—The Installation meeting of this Lodge was held at the Clarence Hotel, Teddington, on Saturday, 17th inst. Present—Bros. P. S. Knyvett, Grand Steward, W.M., Edward B. Grabham I.P.M., F. B. Archer S.W. W.M. elect, Hyde Pullen P.G.S.B. acting as J.W., W. G. Moore P.M. S.D., T. S. Archer J.D., E. A. Woolley I.G., G. Hancock P.M., Past Provincial Grand Deacon Somerset, D.C., and the following Visitors—Bros. Hyde Pullen P.G.S.B., H. G. Buss, Provincial Grand Treasurer Middlesex, W. R. Pullen, East Medina 175, J. Whitmore, M.D., P.M. Royal Athelstan 19, A. R. Marten, Past Grand Steward, P.M. 58, J. Keates Eden Lodge, Limerick, F. Knyvett 160, H. Thorne P.M. 165, W. W. Aldridge P.M. 165, Thos. Yeo. 167, J. Brockett Sorrell P.M. 176, J. Brockett Sorrell jun. J.W. 176, E. H. Smithett 180, E. G. Fox P.M. 235, T. D. Boulton, Past Grand Steward, 259, T. Wilkinson Secretary 271, H. T. Wrendfordsley 442, W. Croucher 534, T. E. Woollard 1293, P. Dickinson S.W. 1298, W. F. Taunton 1385, T. W. Ockenden D.C. 1372. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed. Several communications from brethren, expressive of regret at not being present, were read. Bro. Sharon Grote Turner (Lodge of Antiquity, No. 21) was elected a joining member. Bros. Getty, Hunter, Twinberrow, and Youngbusband were raised to the third degree, by the W.M., after which Bro. Francis Bradley Archer was presented by Bro. Grabham P.M., Provincial Grand Steward Middlesex, to the W.M. for Installation, the ceremony being performed by Bro. Knyvett W.M. in a very able and impressive manner. Bro. Archer being installed into the chair, and saluted according to ancient custom, he invested Bros. Knyvett I.P.M., Grabham P.M. Secretary, Berridge Grand Steward S.W., W. G. Moore P.M. J.W., T. S. Archer S.D., E. A. Woolley J.D., J. Melville Curtis I.G., G. Hancock P.M. D.C. There being no further business before the Lodge, the brethren adjourned to the banquet, presided over by Bro. Archer W.M. On the removal of the cloth, grace was beautifully sung by Bros. Sealy, Hunter, and Taunton, and the usual loyal toasts were given and responded to. Bro. Hyde Pullen P.G.S.B., in returning thanks for the Grand officers, congratulated the W.M. upon his present position. It was with sincere pleasure he had witnessed the prosperity of the Lodge under the Masterships of Bros. Grabham and Knyvett, and he had little doubt that it would continue unabated under the rule of the present W.M., who had shewn considerable ability and tact even the short time he had occupied the chair. Bro. H. G. Buss, in responding for the Prov. Grand Officers, expressed his regret that the Prov. Grand Master, Bro. Col. Francis Burdett, was not able to be present on this occasion. He was exceedingly gratified on his last visit to find the Lodge in its present state of efficiency, and felt assured that it would still continue to prosper. The health of the W.M. was proposed in eulogistic terms by Bro. Knyvett I.P.M., who spoke of the valued services which Bro. Archer had rendered, and the pleasure it had afforded him to instal into the chair of the Felix Lodge a brother who would continue to maintain the dignity and high position which the Lodge held in the Province of Middlesex. The toast was very enthusiastically received, and Bro. Archer in responding said that he would do his utmost to keep the Lodge in its present state of prosperity, and thanked the brethren for the hearty manner in which his health had been drank. Bro. A. R. Marten, Past Grand Steward, P.M. 58, responded for the visitors. The toast of the Past Masters, Bros. Grabham and Knyvett, was duly acknowledged by the latter, and that of the Officers by Bro. W. G. Moore P.M. J.W. The Tyler's toast brought the meeting to a close. It is due to the musical brethren of the Lodge to say their efforts to please were highly appreciated, and contributed very much to the success of the evening.

City of Westminster Lodge, No. 1563.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, the 19th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street. The W.M., Bro. B. Swallow, occupied the chair, Rev. P. M. Holden S.W., — Morrell J.W., C. A. Cottebrune P.M. P.G.P. Treas., E. J. Scott P.M. Sec., Phillips S.D., Turner J.D., Shand D.C., Hutchinson Steward, W. C. Parsons P.M. I.G., Potter P.M. Tyler, and Bros. Swaagman, Gardiner, Waugh, Bishop, Willis, Handcock, &c. The Lodge was opened; the business consisted in raising Bros. W. Benham, Pike, T. C. Benham, and Riley; Passing Bros. Docker and C. T. Green of Elliot Lodge, No. 1561, and initiating Mr. H. E. Benham. The various ceremonies were perfectly and impressively delivered by the W.M., who was ably assisted by the Wardens and Officers. It is in contemplation to limit the number of brethren; with this view, to raise the initiation fee to £12 12s. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Nicoll. The W.M. presided in his accustomed genial manner, and proposed the usual toasts, which were duly and eloquently responded to. The proceedings were enlivened by some capital songs and recitations, thus contributing to the enjoyment of the evening.

Digitized by Google

THE THEATRES, &c.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—This evening, AIDA. On Monday, DON GIOVANNI. On Tuesday, FAUST E MARGHERITA. On Thursday, FRA DIAVOLO. On Friday, AIDA. On Saturday, LINDA DI CHAMOUNI. Each evening at 8.30. FLORAL HALL CONCERT 26th June.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA, DRURY LANE.—This evening, LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO. On Monday, ROBERT LE DIABLE. On Tuesday, LUCREZIA BORGIA. On Thursday, IL DON GIOVANNI. On Saturday, FIDELIO. At 8.30. each evening.

LYCEUM.—On Monday, CORINNE.

ADELPHI.—At 7.30, COLLEEN BAWN and STRUCK OIL.

HAYMARKET.—At 7.30, RURAL FELICITY. At 9.0, L'ETRANGERE.

STRAND.—At 7.30, HIS LAST LEGS. At 9.0, L'AFRICAINE. At 10.30, THE RIVAL OTHELLOS.

GAIETY.—At 7.45, BLUE DEVILS. At 9.30, MY AWFUL DAD. At 10.30, COOL AS A CUCUMBER.

CHARING CROSS.—At 8.0, THE LOAN OF A LOVER. At 9.0, MY NIECE AND MY MONKEY.

OLYMPIC.—At 7.30, FASCINATING FELLOWS. At 8.0, HOME, SWEET HOME.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—At 8.0, OURS.

ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE.—At 7.30, THE WATERMAN. At 8.15, JO.

GLOBE.—At 7.30, SQUARING THE CIRCLE. At 8.0, MISS GWILT, &c.

VAUDEVILLE.—At 7.30, A WHIRLIGIG. At 8.0, OUR BOYS, and a FEARFUL FOG.

COURT.—At 8.0, A SCRAP OF PAPER, and A QUIET RUBBER.

ST. JAMES'S.—At 8.30, LES DANICHEFF.

OPERA COMIQUE.—MADAME L'ARCHIDUC.

CRITERION.—At 8.0, MARY'S SECRET, and THE GREAT DIVORCE CASE, &c.

ALHAMBRA.—LE VOYAGE DANS LA LUNE, &c.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.—This day, GRAND CONCERT, ILLUMINATION, &c. On Tuesday, THE CORSICAN BROTHERS. On Wednesday, BICYCLE MATCH. Open daily, BROEKMANN'S CIRCUS, SKATING RINK, &c.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—On Thursday, FIREWORKS, &c. Open daily, AQUARIUM, SKATING RINK, CIRCUS, &c.

ROYAL AQUARIUM SUMMER AND WINTER GARDEN. Open daily. CONCERT, SKATING RINK, &c.

ROYAL POLYTECHNIC.—MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT, entitled ALICE'S ADVENTURES. Solos on the Violin and Zither. NEW LECTURE: A SUNBEAM, and HOW TO WEIGH IT. HEINKE'S DIVING DRESS and SUBMARINE LAMP. The New Type Writer in operation. FROM ENGLAND TO PHILADELPHIA. A TRIP TO THE SUEZ CANAL. Dissolving Views and Mechanical Effects. MARVELLOUS ILLUSIONS BY M. HORACE DE GREY. Open from 12 till 5, and 7 till 10. Admission to the whole, 1s.

EGYPTIAN (LARGE) HALL.—MASKELYNE AND COOKE, daily at 3.0 and 8.0.

"A suitable gift from a Master to his Lodge."

NEATLY BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 8s 6d EACH,

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE,

VOLUMES I., II. and III.

London:—W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Sent, Carriage Paid, to any address in the United Kingdom, on receipt of Cheque or P.O.O.

Cloth Cases for Binding can be had from the Office, price 1s 6d each.

THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE can be ordered of any Bookseller in Town or Country, but should any difficulty be experienced, it will be forwarded direct from the Office, on receipt of Post Office Order for the amount. Intending Subscribers should forward their full Addresses to prevent mistakes.

Post Office Orders to be made payable to W. W. MORGAN, at Barbican Office. Cheques crossed "London and County."

The Terms of Subscription (payable in advance) to THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE are—

Twelve Months, Post Free	...	...	£0 13 6
Six Months	ditto	...	0 7 0
Three Months	ditto	...	0 3 6

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisers will find THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE an exceptionally good medium for Advertisements of every class.

Per Page...	£8 0 0
Back Page	£10 0 0

General Advertisements, Trade Announcements, &c. single column, 5s per inch. Double Column Advertisements 1s per line. Special Terms for a Series of insertions on application.

Births, Marriages and Deaths, 6d per line.

THE HOLBORN RESTAURANT, 218 HIGH HOLBORN

ONE OF THE SIGHTS AND ONE OF THE COMFORTS OF LONDON.

Attractions of the chief PARISIAN ESTABLISHMENTS, with the quiet and order essential to English customs.

DINNERS AND LUNCHEONS FROM DAILY BILL OF FARE.

A Table d'Hote every evening from 6 to 8-30. Price 3s 6d.

INCLUDING SOUPS, FISH, ENTREES, JOINTS, SWEETS, CHEESE, SALAD, &c., WITH DESSERT.

This FAVOURITE DINNER is accompanied by a SELECTION of High-class INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

COFFEE, TEA, CHESS AND SMOKING ROOMS.

ESTIMATES GIVEN FOR EVERY DESCRIPTION OF
PRINTING.

CONTRACTS ENTERED INTO FOR SUPPLYING ALL KINDS OF
STATIONERY.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE
FOR PUBLISHING.

PARTICULARS ON APPLICATION TO
W. W. MORGAN, 67 BARBICAN,
LONDON, E.C.
Our Door from Aldersgate Street.

"FOR the BLOOD is the LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE,

Trade Mark,—"Blood Mixture."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER & RESTORER.

For cleansing and clearing the blood from all impurities, cannot be too highly recommended.

For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin Diseases, and Sores of all kinds it is a never-failing and permanent cure.

It Cures Old Sores,
Cures Ulcerated Sores on the Neck,
Cures Ulcerated Sore Legs,
Cures Blackheads, or Pimples on the Face
Cures Scurvy Sores,
Cures Cancerous Ulcers,
Cures Blood and Skin Diseases,
Cures Glandular Swellings,
Clears the Blood from all Impure Matter,
From whatever cause arising.

As this Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of Testimonials from all parts.

Sold in Bottles, 2s 9d each, and in Cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long-standing cases—BY ALL CHEMISTS AND PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the United Kingdom and the world, or sent to any address on receipt of 30 or 132 stamps by

F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, High Street, Lincoln.
Wholesale: All Patent Medicine Houses.

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION,

Rec. J. L. MATHER, P.M. 55, 1237, 1471, Preceptor.

THIS truly Masonic Lodge of Instruction meets every Wednesday evening, at the Crown and Cushion Hotel, London Wall, Corner of Wingrave-street. The members aim rather at the perfection of the ceremonies than the mere working of the lectures.

The meetings commence at 7.0, and close at 9.0.

TAMAR INDIEN (universally prescribed by the Faculty), a laxative, refreshing, and medicated fruit lozenge, for the immediate relief and effectual cure of constipation, headache, bile, haemorrhoids, &c. Tamar Indien pills and the usual purgatives is accessible to none, and never produces irritation—2s 6d per box, post free 3d extra.—S. GRILLON, 34 Cannon-street, London, E.C.; and of all Chemists.

NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY.—A gentleman, after years of suffering, has discovered a sim ple means of self cure. He will be happy to forward the particulars to any sufferer on receipt of a stamped and directed envelope.

Address—Mr. J. T. Sewell, 7 Grove Terrace, Fulham, London.

Digitized by Google

ORDERS EXECUTED IMMEDIATELY.
SPENCER & Co., 23A Great Queen Street, London, W.C.

ESTABLISHED 1838.

ADAM S. MATHER,

GAS ENGINEER, GENERAL GAS FITTER AND BELL HANGER,
MANUFACTURER OF BILLIARD LIGHTS,
AND OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS APPARATUS FOR COOKING AND HEATING.
Bath Rooms Fitted up. All the Latest Improvements Introduced.
MANUFACTORY—33 CHARLES STREET, HATTON GARDEN, E.C.;
AND AT 278 CALEDONIAN ROAD, ISLINGTON, N.
ESTIMATES GIVEN.

JOSEPH J. CANEY,

DIAMOND MERCHANT, AND MANUFACTURING JEWELLER AND WATCH MAKER,
44 CHEAPSIDE, LONDON.
MASONIC JEWELS. CLOTHING AND FURNITURE.
Specialité—First Class Jewels—Artistic—Massive—Best Quality—Moderate in Price.
CATALOGUES POST FREE.
A LARGE STOCK OF LOOSE BRILLIANTS FOR EXPENSIVE JEWELS.
Diamond Rings, Brooches, Studs, Earrings and Bracelets in Great Variety.

MASONIC JEWELS FOR ALL DEGREES. MINIATURE WAR MEDALS AND DECORATIONS.
ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD IN ALL SIZES. ATHLETIC SPORTS MEDALS AND BADGES.
A. D. LOEWENSTARK & SONS, Medallists, 210 STRAND, LONDON, W.C.
MANUFACTORY—1 DEVEREUX COURT, STRAND.

NEW MASONIC SONGS.

"THE PRINCE & THE CRAFT," "THE APRON BLUE."
Written by G. BLIZARD ABBOTT, 1385. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON.
PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH (NETT), FREE BY POST.
London: W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican, London, E.C.

MR. THOMAS C. MACROW,
252 WESTMINSTER BRIDGE ROAD,
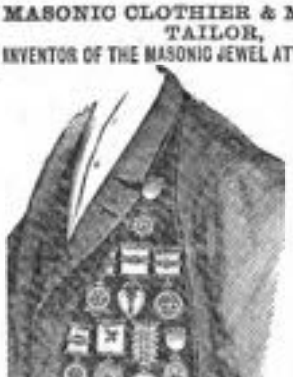
LONDON, S.E.
(OPPOSITE ASTLEY'S THEATRE.)
BUSINESSES, of Every Description, let quietly and quickly (Town or Country). All parties wishing to sell, call or send full particulars. Registration fee. Hours, 10 to 6; Saturday, 10 to 3. Enclose stamp for reply. No canvassers employed.
ESTABLISHED 1864.

F. ADLARD,

MASONIC CLOTHIER & MERCHANT TAILOR,
INVENTOR OF THE MASONIC JEWEL ATTACHER (REGD.)



"BRO. ADLARD'S far-famed JEWEL ATTACHER, from its simplicity and convenience, has only to be known to be universally adopted. The price is 6d. (if with pockets for Jewels 6d each pocket extra) places it within the reach of all."—MASONIC MAGAZINE.

"We have much pleasure in recommending Brother Adlard's Attacher for its convenience and neatness."—THE FREEMASON.

Bro. Adlard's Superior Fitting Lodge Collars are well worthy attention of the Craft.

No. 225 HIGH HOLBORN,
Opposite Southampton Row, W.C.

THE WESTMINSTER PAPERS, Vol. 8, No. 96 for June, now ready. Shipscot.

THE CITY HAT COMPANY'S NEW STYLES are the LEADING SHAPES for London and the Provinces.

HATS at WHOLESALE PRICES.
Unequalled in quality and durability

CITY HAT COMPANY,

109 AND 110 SHOE LANE
(a few minutes' walk from Farringdon Street Station) and

EXACTLY EIGHT DOORS FROM FLEET STREET.
This notice will prevent gentlemen from entering the other Hat Shops in Shoe Lane by mistake

HATS.—BEST SHAPES, 10s 6d and 12s 6d each, give universal satisfaction

BEST HATS 21s; these are unequalled.

"There should be a better reason for the rate of Depositors than a fluctuating rate of two or three per cent."—INVESTOR'S GUARDIAN.

LOMBARD BANK (Limited), Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City; and 277 and 279 Regent-street, W. Established 1856, receives Deposits, On Demand, 2 per cent. Subject to Notice, 3 per cent. Opens Current Accounts. Supplies Cheque Books. Investors are invited to examine this new and improved system, that ensures a high rate of interest with perfect security. The Directors have never re-discounted or re-hypothecated any of the securities. To BORROWERS.—It offers pre-eminent advantages for private advances on houses, reversions, policies, under stocks, farm produce, warrants, and furniture, without removal, publicity, sureties, or fees. JAMES PEYOR, Manager.

LOMBARD BUILDING SOCIETY, Nos. 43 and 44 Lombard-street, City, and 277 and 279 Regent-street, W. Established 1866. Incorporated under the New Act, 1874. To INVESTORS.—Deposits received at liberal interest. The Directors by right economy have 30 Shares paid every Investor 10 and 12 per cent. per annum. Borrowers are offered unusual facilities for the purchase of Houses, Shops, Farms, &c. New and Special Features.—The Society will build Houses, etc., in any approved part of Great Britain, finding the whole cost of the building, at 5 per cent., repayable by instalments, the applicant merely finding the