Kilwinning Lodge, No. 4.—The Lodge held an emergency meeting in their new Hall, 162 Kent-road, Glasgow, on Tuesday, the 19th instant. Bro. R. Prout presided, and was assisted by Bros. J. D. Dixon D.M., G. Holmes S.W., J. McInnis acting J.W., A. Riddle J.D., J. Jamieson acting as I.G., and D. Ramsay Tyler, when Messrs. Barr, McKellan and Graham were duly initiated. At the request of the R.W.M., Bro. G. W. Wheeler passed Bro. John Murray to the Fellow Craft degree. After the Lodge had been reduced, the R.W.M. thanked Bro. Wheeler for his services that evening, and also spoke of his connexion with the "THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE." Bro. Wheeler, in replying, said that, as an honorary member, he was only doing his duty by assisting the officers in any part of their work, and he was glad to see this Lodge recovering its old prestige under its young Master.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules, Leadenhall-street, on Thursday evening last, at 7.30. Present—Bros. Crawley W.M., Salmonese S.W., Ellis J.W., Grammer Secretary, Weige S.D., Pattison J.D., Rudderforth I.G., Austin P.M. Preceptor, Horsley, Musto, Webb, and numerous other brethren. The W.M. rehearsed the 3rd ceremony, Bro. Holland as candidate. Bro. Webb worked the three sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was then resumed to 1st degree, and Bro. Webb worked the 5th section of the lecture.

Royal Union Lodge, No. 382, Uxbridge.—This Lodge met, on the 18th inst., at the Chequers Hotel. The W.M., Bro. C. J. W. Davis, opened the Lodge. He was ably supported by Bros. W. Smith C.E. P.M. P.G.S. Senior Warden, Halliday J.W., W. Coombes P.M. P.G.S.B. Secretary, Webb S.D., Cook J.D., Lonsdale I.G., Russ D.C. and W.S., and P.M.'s Lonsdale, Coulton, Ferrenbach, B. Swallow and Weedon. The minutes were read and confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. Price and Garard, who were separately initiated into the Order. Bros. Matthews and Nicholson were passed, and Bro. Henderson did not arrive till late, but the W.M. kindly passed him, and in doing so, impressed on him that one of the principles of the Order was punctuality. Bros. Brown and Hanson were raised to the sublime degree. The W.M. was complimented on his proficiency. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to Bro. W. Smith S.W. P.G.S., for his presentation of an elegant inkstand to the Lodge, this was recorded on the minutes. After the Lodge was closed, the brethren partook of a banquet at the "Chequers." The toasts, both Loyal and Masonic, were given and responded to. Some very capital harmony emanated from several brethren.

Thorntree Lodge, No. 512.—This young and flourishing Lodge held its usual bi-monthly meeting in the School Room at Thornliebank, on Saturday, 16th instant. Bro. Robert Scobie R.W.M. opened the Lodge at 7 p.m., assisted by Bros. R. Fletcher S.W., R. McCowan J.W., L. McKeller D.M., Ed. Schindler Secretary, W. Jardine T., F. Waters J.D., F. Gallacher B.B., J. Thomlin S.S., and J. Clayson Tyler. Bros. Charles Tod, John Hunter, and Wm. McKechnie, were passed to the Fellow Craft degree. The Lodge having been reduced, Mr. James Benterwick was very carefully initiated by the Master. The Lodge having been placed under the charge of the J.W., the Master proposed "The Queen and Craft," "The G.L.," "The P.G.L. and Col. Campbell P.G.M.," whom he highly eulogised for the attention he paid to the requirements of the Province of Renfrewshire East. In reply to the toast of "The Visitors," Bro. G. W. Wheeler replied, expressing the pleasure he always experienced in coming out to the Thorntree, not only on account of their uniform kindness to all visiting brethren, but also because he was sure to see some good working. It was useless to expect gentlemen to become good and true Masons if they were not properly initiated with due solemnity and all the ceremonies properly performed. It was because of the excellent working of the Lodge that they had been so successful, he would therefore give them "Prosperity to 512, and long life to her R.W.M." Bro. Scobie acknowledged the toast, stating it was a pleasure to work, supported as he was by the officers and members. Several others were given, but the Glasgow visitors had to leave to catch the last train to the city, well pleased with their visit to 512.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SUSSEX.

THE annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Sussex was held on Tuesday, the 19th inst., at the Royal Pavilion, Brighton. In the absence of the Prov. G.M. (the Right Hon. Lord Pelham), the V.W. the Deputy Prov. G.M. (Bro. E. J. Furner P.G.D.) presided. There was a large attendance, nearly a hundred members being present. The financial report having been received and passed, and letters of apology for their inability to attend having been read from various brethren, Bro. Furner said this was only the second time the P.G.M., Lord Pelham, had delegated to him the power of presiding at this Provincial Grand Lodge, and from the cordial reception he had met with on this, as on the former, occasion, he trusted the interests of the Province had not suffered in his hands. Indeed, Masonry had made great progress in Sussex during the past year. There were more members. He had presided at the opening of a new Lodge at East Grinstead, and shortly a new Lodge at Brighton, to be named the St. Cecilia Lodge, would be consecrated. This would stand No. 1636 on the roll of Grand Lodge, and two other warrants had since been issued, raising the number of Lodges in the jurisdiction of Grand Lodge, England to 1638. Ten years ago, he (Bro. Furner) had consecrated the Mid-Sussex Lodge, at Horsham, No. 1141, so that in this single decade, Masonry had increased by within three of five hundred Lodges. Bro. Furner than expressed his gratitude to Bro. Scott for the valuable services the latter, in his capacity of Secretary, had rendered, and concluded by expressing a hope that they would succeed in developing Freemasonry for the benefit not only of the Craft but likewise of the whole human race.

The officers for the ensuing year were then appointed as follows:—

Bro. Trollope P.M., Derwent, 40, S.G.W.
" Crawford Pocock P.M., Clarence, 271, J.G.W.
" Rev. E. Walker P.M., Yarborough, 811, G. Chaplain
" G. Tatham P.M. Clarence, 271, G. Treasurer
" Woolley P.M., South Saxon, 811, G. Registrar
" J. Scott P.M., Clarence, 271, G. Secretary
" Thorpe P.M., Abbey, 1,184, S. Grand Deacon
" Bramwell P.M., Clarence, 271, J. Grand Deacon
" Tomley P.M. Tyrian, 1,110, G. Superintendent of Works
" Dixon P.M., Clarence, 271, G. D. of Ceremonies
" Cole P.M., Derwent, 40, Assistant G. D. of Ceremonies
" Smith P.M., Brunswick, 732, G. Sword Bearer
" Gladstone, Clarence, 271, G. Organist
" Eborall P.M., York, 315, G. Pursuivant

GRAND STEWARDS.

Bros. Sandeman, York, 315, Kidd, Brunswick, 732, Brass, Ockenden, 1465.

Bro. Hughes, Grand Tyler.

Bro. Scott then proposed, Bro. Marchant seconded, and it was unanimously resolved, that fifty guineas should be voted to the funds of the R.M.I. for Boys, in the name of the D.P.G.M., it being understood that a subsequent vote of a similar amount would be proposed in order to make that officer a Vice President.

The Lodge was closed in the usual form. The members then repaired to the banqueting room, where a récherché dinner had been provided for them by Messrs. Mutton Bros., of the King's-road, Brighton. The Dep. Prov. G.M. occupied the chair, supported by Bros. Sir W. W. Burrell, Bart., P.P.S.G.W., Bro. W. Kuhe Grand Organist England, Hyde Pullen P.G.S.B., W. R. Wood P.P.S.G.W., General Ford P.G.D. (Bengal), Gerard Ford W.M. 271. The other members present were Bros. W. S. A. Huckey P.P.S.G.D., G. Tatham P.G.S., J. H. Scott P.G.S., Joseph Dixon P.G.D. of C., Burrell S.W., Woolly P.G.R., J.W. Cunningham P.P.I.G., W. W. H. Hallett P.G.S.W., C. T. Pocock P.P.S.D.C., Sandiman P.G.S., S. Poddock A.D.C., T. J. Sabine P.P.G., C. P. Henty 138, S. Crosskey P.S.D., W. Hall W.M. 1619, J. Wilkinson Secretary 271, T. W. Well W.M. 315, E. Bright 271, Frank Holford S.W. 811, Harris P.P.G.P., Stride P.P.G.S.W., J. L. Brighton P.M. 732, J. E. Walker 188, W. H. Gibson 315, Geo. Nash 315, W. Sainson, Brown, Morris, Sutton, H. Freeman, Ryle, Somes, J. Curtis, H. Hallet, Captain Molineux, W. Skeats, James Everill, W. W. Gibbing, R. S. Hyde, S. B. Middlesex, F. W. Hyde and Poundell. The toasts were: The Queen and the Craft, The M.W. Grand Master H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, The M.W. Pro G.M. the Earl of Carnarvon, The R.W.D.G.M. the Earl of Skelmersdale and the officers of the Grand Lodge of England Past and Present, The R.W. the Prov. G.M. Lord Pelham, The V.W. the Dep. Prov. G.M. Bro. E. J. Furner P.G.D. and the officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Sussex Past and Present, The Visitors, The W.M.'s of the Province, and The Tyler's Toast. During the banquet, some agreeable music was discoursed by Bro. W. Devin's band, and the various toasts were interspersed with songs, duets, glees, &c., under Bro. Devin's direction. The vocalists were Miss Anscombe, Miss Bessie Devin, Mr. Payne, and Mr. G. Cole. Bro. Kuhe G.O. also contributed a couple of pianoforte solos.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked in the Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27, "Hercules" Tavern, Leadenhall-street, City, E.C., on Thursday evening, 28th September, at 7 precisely. The chair will be taken by Bro. Horsley 933, while Bros. Austin and Musto will act as S.W. and J.W. The Sections will be worked by the following brethren:—

On Thursday the Provincial Grand Lodge of Freemasons for the county of Chester was held in the Market-hall, Knutsford, under the presidency of the Right Hon. the Lord de Tabley, the Provincial Grand Master. After the business of the Lodge had been transacted, the brethren of 38 Lodges walked in procession to St. John's Church, where the sermon was preached by the P.G. Chaplain. On leaving the church, the procession, numbering over 200, proceeded to the banquet, which was served at the Royal George Hotel, the P.G.M. Lord de Tabley presiding.—Echo.

INDISCRIMINATE ADMISSION OF CANDIDATES.

LAST week we drew the attention of our readers to the evil effects of indiscriminate charity, and the likelihood, we may almost say the certainty, that Freemasonry will lose caste if relief is administered without careful inquiry into the antecedents, as well as the present necessities, of those who seek it. Of equal importance is it that those who present themselves as candidates for admission into our Society should not be admitted indiscriminately. Indeed, these two questions of ill-regulated almsgiving and the lax admission of new members are so closely connected, that it is hardly possible to discuss one of them fairly, in all its bearings, without touching upon the more salient points of the other. The more careless we are in the bestowal of our alms, the likelier are we to have our ranks well filled with needy and unscrupulous adventurers. And, similarly, the more indifferent we are whom we introduce into our Lodges, the greater will be the number of those who will abuse our charity. All right-minded Masons are far less anxious for the numerical increase of the Craft than they are for its increased moral strength. Hence it is we have viewed with so much satisfaction that at nearly every consecration of a new Lodge which has latterly been held, the consecrating officer has made a point of enjoining on the members, how necessary it is they should be cautious whom they elect into their Lodge, not only for the peace and harmony of the Lodge itself, but likewise in the interests of Freemasonry generally. Rightly enough was it said by Bro. Metham, in his recent able address before the Provincial Grand Lodge of Devon, that "a little leaven leaveneth the whole mass." A single objectionable brother in a Lodge is enough to set all the members by the ears. Nor does the evil end even here. The obnoxious brother finds admission into other Lodges, where his propensity for stirring up unamiable feelings is not known, and, more often than not, he exhibits the same faults there as well as in his own Lodge. Or he may possess still graver shortcomings than a mere tendency to squabble on all occasions; in which case a part of the odium that attaches to him is necessarily reflected on those with whom he is associated. It must be apparent, indeed, to all who concern themselves about the well-being of Freemasonry that it is impossible to exercise too much caution in the admission of new members. The old saying, noscitur a sociis, is undeniably true. A man is known by the character of his fellows, and a society by that of its members. If the majority of Freemasons are found to be good sterling men, who practise always the morality they profess, then, as that system of morality is known of all men to be marvellously free from all blemish, the world will esteem us highly as a society which never wearies of doing good. On the other hand, if Masons are found to be mere professors of a peculiar system of morality; if the charity they practise is practised ostentatiously and with an eye to future profit; if, under the guise of brotherly love, they permit themselves to lose no opportunity of wilfully misjudging the motives of their fellows, of promoting jealousy, of suggesting in secret what they dare not avow openly; if their boasted conviviality resolves itself simply into an excessive indulgence in the pleasures of the table, then, we say, the world will rightly set us down as a society of rank impostors, banded together for objects which are either blameworthy or beneath contempt. Happily, as we have said, the world knows well enough that our system of morality is pure. It knows likewise that the principles of that morality are not only professed, but practised by the bulk of our society. We say bulk, because a society of men is no more likely, perhaps even less likely, to be perfect than a single individual. But if we cannot attain perfection, we may approach it, and the best way of doing this is to be cautious in our election of candidates.

We are led to indulge in these remarks which, after all, are a mere collection of truisms, by reason partly of certain statements in Bro. Metham's address, already alluded to, and partly by the description of a scene enacted in one of our Lodges, of a most disgraceful character, a description for which we are indebted to our contemporary, the Ballarat Star. The scene is said to have occurred in the "Buninyong Masonic Lodge," a name, however, we do not find in Grand Lodge Calendar for 1876. It appears that some months since a person was proposed for initiation, but rejected by numerous black balls. A Dr. Hallett, member of the Lodge and an old Mason, was not present however. On the evening when the scene took place he was in attendance, but a long delay occurred in opening the Lodge. Dr. Hallett, on some idle pretext, was called out by the late W.M., and no sooner had he left the room than the Lodge was opened. Attempting to re-enter in a very few minutes, he was told the W.M. had ordered he should be refused admittance, though he had already signed the attendance register. While protesting against such tyranny, Dr. Hallett was seized by a member "much taller and stronger than himself, and dragged forcibly from the door of the Lodge, to the serious damage of his right hand." The cause of this outrage is said to have been the fear of the W.M. that Dr. Hallett might black ball the candidate, who was the intimate friend of the Master. Taking the facts as narrated by our contemporary, we have no hesitation in describing the scene as a gross violation, not only of Masonic rights and privileges, but of all decency and propriety. It is almost needless to point out that the several acts which made up the above scene are each and every of them in distinct violation of Masonic law. The denial to Dr. Hallett of Masonic communication with the members of his own Lodge, his seizure and forcible removal from the door of the Lodge, the alleged excuse for this exclusion and violence, that Dr. Hallett might exercise his right of voting, and the barefaced attempt to dictate that he should vote either white or not at all,—these together form a terrible indictment against the W.M. of "the Buninyong Masonic Lodge" and his satellites. We should like to believe the whole thing is utterly untrue, but we fear there is too much circumstantiality in the account for any such good fortune to befal us. We are aware the account is ex parte; indeed, we are arguing upon the tale as it has reached us. But journals with a due sense of their responsibilities do not admit such intelligence into their columns unless it is duly vouched for. But even if the details have been inaccurately given or unduly coloured, there is still forced upon us the belief that the working of "the Buninyong Lodge" must be flagrantly un-Masonic. Even assuming that Dr. Hallett is a most obnoxious member, nothing could justify the outrage of which he is reported to have been the victim. There is a proper Masonic tribunal before which members guilty of un-Masonic conduct may be arraigned. The W.M. had no right to sit in judgment on the merits of his own difference with Dr. Hallett, supposing there to have been one. A member, even of superior height and strength, has no right forcibly to remove from the door of a Lodge another who is neither suspended nor excluded from his rights and privileges. And, lastly, the attempt to force a favourable ballot by excluding a member supposed to be unfavourably inclined towards the candidate, was a monstrous invasion of one of the most sacred rights of membership. We have no hesitation in saying that if this case is not brought under the notice of the District Grand authorities, our Grand Lodge should take the initiative, and forthwith order an inquiry; and if the case is proved, visit the offending members with the heaviest penalties sanctioned by the laws of Masonry. No such ruffianly conduct would pass unpunished in any class of society. It certainly cannot be tolerated in Freemasonry.

Then the cases cited by our Bro. Metham, of the P.M. boasting at "the bar of a public-house, with oath following oath, that he had used a black ball, and would use it even against the G.M. himself, if by doing so he could spit his spite against the Master of his Lodge;" of the drunken candidate who had to be supported through the ceremony of his initiation; of members admitted who could not sign their names and the like; all these are so many more proofs of what we have said in the course of these remarks, and of what every officer who has latterly consecrated a new Lodge has made a point of saying, that it is impossible we can exercise too great an amount of caution in the election of new members. We have room in our ranks and a hearty welcome for the good men and true who may wish to join us. Let the selfish, the ruffianly, and the disreputable, who will trade on Masonry or violate the principles of the Craft in every act of their daily life, be rigidly excluded. Had due caution been exercised in the Buninyong Lodge the scene we have had described to us could not have happened. Had the same caution been exercised in Devon, the Spiteful P.M., the drunken candidate, the members who cannot sign their names, would have been impossibilities. We are very far from placing the outrageous conduct in the Buninyong Lodge and the exceptional misconduct cited by Bro. Metham on the same level. They all, however, serve to point one and the same moral:—Be cautious whom you introduce into the ranks of Freemasonry.

THE LATEST ABUSE OF FREEMASONRY.

WE have long since become accustomed to the attacks of ignorant scribes. They can do us no harm, and we endure them, pretty much on the same ground that the late Earl of Derby's big navvy endured the thwackings of his little wife: they amused her, and did him no harm. But occasionally we light upon an attack exhibiting more than the ordinary amount of spite, ignorance, and presumption. Upon all such we think it expedient to bestow a few words, not because they are more harmful to Freemasonry, but because the outside world, though actuated by no malice, is in a state of ignorance as to our laws and constitutions.

Last week, the Hampshire Post and Southsea Observer devoted the greater part of two columns to an article on "the Cant of Masonry." Our first objection to this precious ebullition of spite is the crass ignorance it displays. The writer introduces a few Masonic terms which he has, no doubt, specially hunted up for the occasion. Save and except these, there is absolutely nothing in the whole course of the article to show the writer has the faintest notion what Freemasonry is. Our second objection follows, naturally enough, that a writer so ignorant should presume to condemn a society of which he knows nothing. We think we shall have no difficulty in the course of the following remarks in proving the validity of these objections.

The occasion of this diatribe in the Hampshire Post and Southsea Observer was the recent consecration, at Havant, by our respected R.W. Bro. W. W. B. Beach, P.G.M. of Hants and the Isle of Wight, of new Lodge buildings for the Carnarvon Lodge, No. 804. We pass over the petty spite of the opening remark about "the lawyers, tailors, butchers, and tradesmen of all sorts, who usurp the name of 'Masons,' and who are vain enough to think that they inherit in some mysterious way the honour and glory of having erected Westminster Abbey, Solomon's Temple, the Pyramids of Egypt, and the Tower of Babel." This is, no doubt, intended as a sneer at the worthy gentleman who sits in Parliament as one of the representatives of the northern division of the county, and who presides over "the lawyers, tailors, butchers, and tradesmen of all sorts," who, in Hampshire, usurp the name of "Masons." If so, the sneer will injuriously affect not Bro. Beach at whom it is levelled, but the writer who makes it. Nor do we think it a matter of serious moment if the new Lodge at Havant is not equal, in point of architectural merit, to Westminster Abbey or King Solomon's Temple. It will, doubtless, answer the purpose for which it has been built, and that is all we look for in buildings dedicated to Freemasonry. Modern Masons are very proud of their connection with the operative Masonic Guilds of by-gone days, but they lay claim to no special knowledge of the builder's art. Had the writer been at the pains of ascertaining what modern Masonry is, he would quickly have discovered that we are Speculative, not Operative Masons, and that we use the tools of the working Masons merely as so many symbols in connection with that system of morality which we profess, and which we humbly yet earnestly hope we act up to, according to our poor ability. We ought not, however, to be surprised at the writer's ignorance when we find him further on, describing our ancestors as "for the most part unmitigated ruffians," or at his vulgarity when we find him imitating the language of Josh Billings.

We pass to what we presume we must describe as the body of the article, in which Masonry is considered from a religious, political, and moral point of view. We must apologise if we cannot follow the writer's meaning exactly as he would have us follow it. We doubt, indeed, if he could define his meaning, save in so far as he has sought to strike a mortal blow at Freemasonry. However, Bro. Ford is reported to have expressed his belief that "Christianity and Masonry are consonant in principle." Whereupon the writer delivers himself of this most sapient argument: "If this be true, then, surely Masonry is superfluous. If they are not so, then Masonry must be mischievous." Our readers will note the sequitur in each section of this marvellous illustration of the art of reasoning. If an institution is in consonance with the principles of Christianity, it is superfluous; if not, it is mischievous. We will not stop to notice this further. The teachings of Freemasonry are based upon the Sacred Volume of the Law—we saw nothing about Christianity, except it were in his mention of "both books of the Sacred Volume," in Bro. Ford's address. The Hampshire Post and Southsea Observer may ridicule our assertion, but ridicule is not disproof. But worse than this follows. We are told the Order "has its political as well as its religious and moral aspect." We have always been under the impression that Freemasonry holds itself strictly aloof from everything connected with politics; but then we are only poor deluded Masons, who know what the Order is and what it is not. The writer in our Hampshire contemporary is not a Mason. His assertion, therefore, that Masonry is a political body, must override ours, that it is not. And as Freemasonry is a political body, and Bro. Ford the exponent of its virtues at the recent consecration at Havant is a Conservative, it follows, of course, that "the principles of Conservatism" are "embodied in Masonry." "Ergo," writes this very abstruse dialectician, "there is a direct connection between Conservatism and Christ." This last inference we overlook, as impertinent to the question. As to Masonry being a political body, it is simply untrue. If to enjoin on its followers due respect for the laws of their country, or of the country in which they may be residing, is sufficient to constitute it a political body, then we are fain to admit we are such. But the word "political," when applied to matters of State, irrespective of all forms of government, has one meaning; when applied to different politics or different sets of opinions as to the best form of polity, it has another. In order to make this more clear to the bemuddled brain of our contemporary, we will simply point out that had Bro. Ford been a citizen of the United States, he would have insisted on all Masons in that country being loyal to the American Constitution. Bro. Ford, however, is a subject of the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland. It was, therefore, his duty to preach loyalty to the British Crown. We have grave reasons for suspecting that the writer in the Hampshire Post and Southsea Observer is not acquainted with the meaning of the words he uses, or he never would have been so silly as to confound loyalty to all forms of government, which is the creed of Masons, with party politics. Had he cared to obtain even a slight knowledge of this portion of the subject, he might easily have learned—to select a single instance—that the Marquis of Hartington, the leader of the Liberal Party in the House of Commons, is in the foremost rank of Masons. It must follow, then, that as the Conservative principles of Messrs. Beach and Ford are embodied in Masonry, they being Freemasons, so the Liberal principles of the Marquis of Hartington, he being a Freemason, must likewise be embodied in Masonry. Therefore, to place the matter before our readers in Euclidian fashion, two sets of political principles, directly opposed to each other, are in consonance with the principles of the same Institution. But things which are in consonance with the same thing are in consonance with each other; therefore, Conservative principles and Liberal principles are in consonance with each other But they have long since been proved to be antagonistic; therefore, Liberal and Conservative principles are both in consonance with, and opposed to each other; which is absurd. But, of course, any inquiry that would have led to this result would only have left this splenetic writer less room for the exercise of his spleen at the expense of Messrs. Beach and Ford.

We come next to the moral aspect of Freemasonry. The writer is dreadfully shocked the Lodge at Havant should have been dedicated to "Masonry, Virtue, and Universal Benevolence," and remarks that "it is notorious that many Masons attach more importance to their Masonry than to all the virtues in the world." According to our humble unenlightened Masonic notions, Masonry includes both Virtue and Universal Benevolence. Rightly, therefore, was Masonry, as being the whole, placed first in order, and then "Virtue and Universal Benevolence," which are only two of its constituent parts. Then, we are told "of all the shams of the Order, the assumption of Universal Benevolence is the greatest and most preposterous." This, as being the mere expression of an opinion, need not detain us long. The good that Freemasonry does may fairly be set against the assumed Benevolence, which is "the greatest and most preposterous of all the shams of the Order." Again, if people are prejudiced, we consider it would not be very difficult for them, on public grounds, to believe that "the operations of Masonry, as a secret society, are actually pernicious." But, unfortunately for this belief, we are not a secret society in the sense intended by this writer. We are all duly registered according to law, at least in this country, so that the government can easily learn, if it choses, who and what manner of men we are. At the time the law was enacted against secret societies, Freemasons were specially and by name exempted from its operation. This would certainly not have been the case had we been a "pernicious" society. As to the statement that "the reason the Masons do not reveal their secret is no doubt that they have none to reveal," we confess we have heard this more than once, but it was always made by non-Masons, who were probably very angry they could not discover it. It happens, indeed, as regards this assertion, that we have our secrets, though they are not of the dangerous character this writer may imagine.

We have touched briefly upon the leading points of this viciously-written article. Were all the world as well acquainted with Freemasonry as we Masons are, we should allow all such attacks to pass unnoticed. But a mystery attaches to us, and when we find our Order assailed with nearly two whole columns of abuse, it is, perhaps, as well the world should know the abuse is uncalled for. Moreover, there is a further justification in the case of this particular specimen of the abuse which is occasionally levelled at us. It will be difficult to find its equal either in vulgarity of tone or the profundity of its ignorance.

NEW RULES AND REGULATIONS PROPOSED BY BRO. METHAM.

WE cannot say we are disposed to accept, in their entirety, the suggestions which Bro. Metham offered in his address at South Molton for the better regulation of the Devonian Lodges. To certain of these no reasonable Mason would dream of taking exception. To others, however, there are, we fancy, innumerable objections, and some of these are likely to prove unanswerable. Bro. Metham has fulfilled a most painful duty admirably. He has proclaimed publicly that certain recent matters in his province have brought, and continue to bring, a large amount of odium on the Craft. He is naturally anxious to prevent a recurrence of them. Having, therefore, in the first place boldly and publicly denounced the un-Masonic conduct of certain brethren, he endeavoured to indicate the likeliest means for preventing such misconduct in the future. He therefore submitted a series of six regulations, by which it occurred to him this desirable consummation might be attained. We give them seriatim, with our reasons for agreeing or disagreeing, as the case may be, with their respective points. They are as follow:

1. "The abandonment of refreshments, as a rule, after every Lodge meeting."

We take exception to this proposed rule. Our Lodges meet but seldom, from six to twelve times in the year, rarely oftener. The bulk of the members are men who would either dine or sup about the hour when Lodges adjourn for refreshment. It seems to us a needlessly harsh rule that would deny the twenty or thirty members, who have attended the duties of the evening, the privilege of sitting round the same table, and enjoying a brief fraternal intercourse over a well served dinner or supper, similar in degree and kind to what they would indulge in at their own homes. We have no very high opinion of men who cannot be trusted to share a homely meal without being guilty of some impropriety. Some there are, of course, who will make the Lodge dinner or banquet an opportunity for over-indulgence in the pleasures of the table. These, however, we are happy to believe form only an insignificant minority among Craftsmen, and it strikes us the height of unreason that the vices of the very few should be visited on the many. Those who cannot take Lodge refreshment without committing themselves more or less grossly are not fit to associate with other members, or indeed to mix in any society of men. What we object to—and we hope we can enjoy the goods things of this life as well as other folk—are the elaborate and oftentimes pretentious banquets, which by many are regarded as the be-all and end-all of Freemasonry. Against this it is we are anxious to believe our worthy brother is raising his voice; and in so far as this is the case, but only to that extent, do we think refreshment after a Lodge meeting should be dispensed with.

2. "That when refreshments are taken on special occasions they should, under no circumstances whatever, be prolonged beyond eleven o'clock.

We think this a perfectly just and reasonable proposition. We consider the brethren have a right to refreshment after labour, not from any canting, hypocritical motive, but for reasons we have already indicated. It is allowable for a Mason to take similar refreshment from home to what he would partake of at home. It is desirable to encourage social intercourse among brethren. But while we recognise the propriety of Lodge refreshment, we see no reason why it should be prolonged to an unseasonable hour.

3. "That no brother should be allowed to sit at table who had not attended the duties of his Lodge during the evening."

This is obviously a just rule to propose, though there are numerous instances in which it would as obviously be discourteous to enforce it. For instance, the Secretaries of our Charitable Institutions have very onerous duties to perform. It is impossible they can always attend the duties of the Lodges they are invited or desire to visit. But as applied to members of the Lodge itself, the old fashioned rule of "No Song, no Supper," is a just one. It is the workman who stands in need of refreshment, not he who shirks his work.

4. "That no brother who becomes insolvent should be allowed to continue a member of a Lodge, nor be admitted into any other Lodge until his debts have been paid in full."

Here, again, we must join issue with Bro. Metham. Such a rule smacks not a little of the objectionable practice of "hitting a man when he is down." There are, undoubtedly, many persons who make a point of incurring debt, and then wash themselves, periodically, of their liabilities, by seeking the protection of the Court of Bankruptcy. It is impossible, of course, to condemn the conduct of such persons too severely. But the majority of insolvent persons become so most unwillingly, through no fault of their own. Peradventure they have suffered by a general depression of trade. Their own particular branch of business has been suffering, and they are among the unfortunate victims. A large firm has failed, and involved them in the wide-spread ruin that ordinarily attends such failure. Or a bank stops payment, and the accumulated savings of years are swept away in a moment. These are among the most ordinary cases of insolvency, and it occurs to us the insolvents are to be pitied rather than condemned. Indeed, towards this class of cases Freemasonry may practise what it enjoins, and by opportune relief, help them to win back again the smiles and favours of fortune. If a man works honestly and honourably at his calling till, finding it becoming more and more unprofitable, he pays all he can, if not all he owes, that man is chargeable with poverty, but not with crime. To draw the line between the two classes of insolvents, it seems to us, will be a matter of great difficulty, nor do we think any such rule as is proposed is in any wise necessary. Masons will not but sympathise with an unfortunate brother. The dishonest insolvent will find no encouragement to attend our Lodges.

5. "That the Worshipful Master elect should be pledged to perform all the duties of his chair, and to instal his successor."

One of the greatest misfortunes to a Lodge is to have its chair occupied by a Master careless about, or incompetent to fulfil, his duties. On the principle of "what is worth doing at all is worth doing well," it can only be an honour to sit in the chair of K.S., if its responsibilities are fully and faithfully discharged. If the W.M. sets an example of ignorance of, and indifference to, his duty, how can his subordinate officers and the members generally be expected to fulfil theirs? We have again and again seen an incompetent W.M. presiding, and we honestly say we never witnessed a more painful sight. Only the gentlemanly feeling and sense of decorum exhibited by those present prevented the whole thing from degenerating into a most complete farce. If a W.M. elect will not pledge himself to do what his office demands of him, the election should be deemed null and void. Other qualities are needed, in addition to a knowledge of his duties, in order to make an efficient W.M.; but we have dealt with the one only point raised by Bro. Metham, and we fully recognise its justice.

"6. That the provisions of the emergency clause should be rigidly complied with, and that a notice be duly sent to the Provincial Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master and Provincial Grand Secretary, the Masters of every Lodge in the town in which the candidate resides, and to the W.M. of every Lodge within three miles in which he is proposed as a candidate."

This, as tending to greater security against the admission of undesirable candidates, is worthy of commendation. We have dwelt at length, in another part of our columns, on the increasing necessity there is for caution in the election of new members. As the general appearance of a sightly building is oftentimes spoiled by the presence of some piece of unbecoming workmanship, as its general safety is liable to be endangered if a portion of the material of which it is composed is worthless, so the sightliness of our Masonic Temple will be lessened, nay, the existence of the glorious structure endangered, if unworthy candidates are admitted within our ranks. As we say elsewhere, we do not want increased numerical, but increased moral, strength. Mere numbers are of little avail. At Marathon, the compact little army of intelligent and well disciplined Greeks under Miltiades was more than a match for the Persians. So with the troops of Pausanias, of Kimon, of Alexander; they fought and conquered in spite of the numbers that were arrayed against them. So has it happened in modern times, in our own and other histories. Numbers, indeed, are too often a cause of weakness. We see every reason to believe that Freemasonry will become weaker morally the stronger it is numerically, unless that caution, on which we have so strenuously insisted elsewhere, is exercised at all times and in all Lodges.

We have thus analysed one by one the merits of Bro. Metham's propositions. We do not agree with him entirely. We are even sanguine enough to believe that the present byelaws in operation in our Lodges, if duly enforced, are enough to guard Freemasonry from any serious misadventure. We fully recognise, however, his zeal in the cause of the Craft. He has done his duty unflinchingly, and he deserves the thanks of the whole Craft throughout England. If others will but imitate the good example he has set us and speak out plainly, calling a spade a spade when occasion requires, we shall have but few public scandals to complain of. On the other hand, if the Rules of our Society are thought but little of, we may find ourselves, perhaps, stronger as regards mere numbers, but our influence, our moral strength, will be seriously lessened.

BRO. METHAM'S ADDRESS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—I have read, with much satisfaction, Brother Metham's address, in Devonshire, at the meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Devon, in August last, and your comments thereon. Although contemplating a modification of the remedies proposed by Brother Metham to cure the evils acknowledged to exist amongst some of the Craft, fully do I endorse your sentiments, as recorded, "that it is absolutely necessary that Masonic Lodges should be purged of disgraceful members," and also the injunction of one of our late Grand Masters, the late Earl of Zetland K.G., enunciated in my hearing, that Masonic Lodges should exercise the utmost caution in the admission and acceptance of candidates as members into the ranks of our Craft. Visiting Devonshire for the restoration of my health at the time of the last meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge at South Molton in Devonshire, it would have given me much pleasure to have been present, and heard Brother Metham's excellent address, having been old school-fellows, and, I believe in the same seminary we both first learned our primary Latin lessons. It is only proper to add that much credit and gratitude are due to Brother Rodda, P.P.G.R. of Devon, for his fidelity, perseverance and zeal, amidst much misrepresentation and obloquy, for taking the initiative in prosecuting the case, however painful to himself—which imperatively called for the strict enforcement of Masonic discipline, thus maintaining the honour, integrity and purity of the Craft.

I have the pleasure to testify that I have had the honour of the acquaintance and friendship of Brother Rodda for many years past. All who know this distinguished Mason must readily acknowledge his transcendent abilities—his great attainments in literature and extensive Masonic knowledge: than whom no one is better versed in Masonic lore, or has had greater Masonic charity, experience or zeal for the prosperity of the Order. I am proud to acknowledge him as a true friend and faithful brother.

I am, Sir, yours truly,

DANIEL ACE D.D.

P.P.G.C. for Lincolnshire, and W.M. 1232.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—It causes me much satisfaction to find that the letter I ventured to send you under the above heading has been answered so ably, and so much to the point. I am encouraged to go on, and shall consider that when arguments bearing on one rendering of a word or sentence remain unconfuted the common sense of the brethren generally goes with the writers, and that henceforth this correspondence may be referred to as providing that authority to the want of which I have alluded.

Having no desire to maintain that my opinion must be right, and all others to the contrary wrong, I shall not indicate in any manner the interpretation of our working to which I incline. "I want to know, you know," as well as others. It is no mock modesty or assumed humbleness which leads me to say that as yet I am but a probationer in the art of Freemasonry, and have still to learn very much. The questions now being put forward will certainly produce the reasonings of other men's brains, and although not by any means "enveloped in a cloud of uncertainty, or suspended in a hazy atmosphere of doubt and perplexity," I shall secure for myself and others logical deductions for "the reason why."

My present object is not the early realisation of any pet scheme or theory. It is an appeal to common sense, and the reasoning faculties of those who profess to teach our noble art, not to permit any longer those manifest errors of language and expression which so frequently render us the laughing stock of the educated. What can these think of such solecisms as are so frequently to be heard in our Lodges of Instruction? Fancy a reasonably educated man condemned to hear uttered by the lips of a so-called "preceptor" such an enquiry as "Was you admitted? and the reply of the brother questioned "I were!" This is not an exaggeration, but has actually occurred in my presence. Can it be wondered at that with so positive an evidence of ignorance, such persons cannot sometimes understand the nice distinction between words which, possessing nearly a similar sound, have yet the most contradictory meaning. "Parrot-like" is hardly the proper term to apply to the elocutionary exercise they attempt, for the result is a miserable travestie of grand and inspiriting language which is more characteristic of the mischievous propensities of the ape.

If no other good can be done in pursuance of my so-called pet scheme, "uniformity of working," at least the minds of many brethren may be led to give consideration to the necessity for preserving our ritual and lectures from ridicule, and if nothing beyond this results, the labour of your correspondents will not be thrown away. It may indeed help to overcome the powerful barriers of prejudice, conceit, obtuseness and obstinacy, to which our Bro. Gottheil refers, and eventually shorten that word impossibility, which I dislike so much, by its first syllable. "He who perseveres may ultimately overcome all difficulties," so we are taught; so do many of us believe. We'll "learn to labour and to wait."

Meanwhile Preceptor No 1 says "The hardest bodies polish by "attrition." Preceptor No. 2 says "by collision," and again the former says, "They travelled East in search of knowledge, and West to promulgate the same," whilst the latter says "they travelled West to propagate the same."

In respect of both these cases,—"Which is correct?

Yours fraternally,

Clapham, 25th September 1876. P.M., P.Z.

UNIFORMITY OF WORKING.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BRO.—I am glad to see that the question of uniformity of ritual is again engaging the attention of some of our most active working Masons. It is a subject that, in my humble sphere, I have tried to promote. While fully agreeing with the opinions expressed by both "Q" and Bro. Gottheil on the question raised by P.M., P.Z., I must slightly differ from the concluding remarks of Bro. G., as my experience has shown me that, at any rate in comparatively limited circles, their attempts have not proved entire and unmitigated failures. On the contrary, I have seen several examples of great successes in the localities where a few earnest brothers set themselves zealously to the work in a kind and brotherly spirit, without which I agree that failure may be expected. However, it is something to have the best wishes of so eminent a Brother and practical Preceptor as Bro. Gottheil, for even that will help on the good work to a considerable extent.

But there is another subject of still greater importance than even uniformity of ritual, great though I fully believe that to be, and that is, Uniformity of Working.

The mere difference of the words in which the necessary instructions are conveyed to our candidates, or the precise answer that should be given to every question in the lectures, sinks into comparative insignificance when we take into consideration the differences that exist in the different modes that are employed in giving the batteries! taking the steps!! and even in showing the signs!!!

In your impression of the 23rd inst., you speak with commendation of the way in which Bro. Abbott translated the French mode of working to the Confidence Lodge of Instruction. Not having been privileged to be present, of course I can say nothing of the way in which it was done; but old standards in Masonic ceremonies, as Bros. Meggy and Stevens, certified to its correctness. If it was like the French work that I have seen, I think the brethren who were present will agree with me that so far as the Universality of Masonry is concerned there is room for improvement if we desire uniformity of working.

But we need not confine ourselves to France to find out these differences. Go to some of our own country Lodges, cross the Atlantic, or run over to Dublin, to say nothing of the lesser Irish towns, or visit Scotland, and you will find that the modes of working are various under each different Constitution, and that even in adjoining towns and sometimes in the Lodges in the same town there is a diversity of work. As an humble Masonic student I hold this to be a grievous error, and one that demands our most strenuous efforts to correct. But for a work of this magnitude to be performed we want the assistance of the leading authorities of each Masonic jurisdiction, to co-operate either by conferences or in whatever other way they may deem best. This they will not do till the body at large see the necessity for the step, and I trust these few lines may enable you to work upon the right tack to bring about this result.

Fraternally yours,

G. W. W.

PSYCHO AT THE EGYPTIAN HALL.—Visitors to London who are fond of the marvellous, need only go to the Egyptian Hall, and see the performance of Messrs. Maskelyne and Cooke, to have their powers of wondering tried to their fullest extent, not only by the surprising exposition of so-called spiritualistic manifestations, but most of all by the performance of the little lay figure, "Psycho," which has been brought to such a pitch of perfection as to thoroughly eclipse all previous automata ever manufactured or thought of. Its most striking peculiarity is not the mere movement of its arms or head, which could of course be effected by clock-work or other machinery, but these movements are so combined and regulated as to allow of no explanation except that the figure is possessed of mind as well as matter, or that it is mysteriously governed by some outside force, with which it communicates independently of electricity or any other force yet known to men of science, who are as unable to solve the mystery as are any of the simple and unlearned pleasure-seekers who go in such large numbers to see this latest triumph of man's ingenuity.

REVIEWS.

Early History and Transactions of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York, 1781-1815. Part V. Published by authority of the Grand Lodge. Granted to Kane Lodge, No. 454, June 1874. New York: Masonic and Miscellaneous Publishers, No. 2 Bleecker-street; D. Sickels and Co., Managers. 1876.

THE period embraced within this part extends from the month of November 1797 to the end of May 1800, during which time the Royal Art may be said to have made very satisfactory progress. True, certain troubles were caused, notably through an attempted introduction of foreign authority within the limits of the New York jurisdiction. The attempt, however, was summarily repressed. We have, further, a record of the proceedings taken by Grand Lodge in memory of the illustrious Washington. A considerable number of Warrants for new Lodges are issued, so that the influence of Freemasonry is slowly but surely being extended, at the same time that the work of consolidation is being prosecuted earnestly and with unabated vigour. One other point is noteworthy, that Bro. Livingston still remains in office as Grand Master, having held the reins of government during a period, thus far, of sixteen years. After these general remarks, we pass, as in the previous parts, to the details which compose this portion of the record, noting the more salient points in regular chronological order.

The first record of any interest is contained in the minutes for the 6th December 1797, wherein it is mentioned that a letter had been received from a certain Huet Lachelle, styling himself a Dep. G.M. under the Grand Lodge of France, and requesting permission to visit the Grand Lodge, either in such capacity or in his private character of a Master Mason. But D.G.M. Morton, having stated he had heard, on good authority, that this Huet Lachelle had granted a Warrant for the establishment of a Lodge, by the name of "L'Union Française," in the city of New York; a Committee is appointed to wait on the said Lachelle, in order to inform him of his invasion of the rights of the State Grand Lodge, and declining to receive him till he pledges himself, in writing, "to revoke the powers granted by him in the said Warrant." Lachelle, however, when the Committee call upon him, declines to revoke the Warrant he had granted, claiming the right to issue such instruments when and where he pleased, but refusing to exhibit this authority for exercising such right. In the result Lachelle, his associates of the Lodge "L'Union Française," and certain dissatisfied members of "L'Unité Américaine," are inhibited from attending any of the Lodges in New York jurisdiction. The report of the Committee appointed to inquire as to the rank of Union Lodge of Albany is agreed to, the report fixing the rank of the said Lodge from 26th February 1765, the date of its first Provincial Warrant. A number of documents relating to dissensions existing in Lodge "L'Unité Américaine," are likewise submitted at this Grand Lodge. It was further agreed to hold an extra meeting, to consider the action taken by certain brethren in reference to a matter of grave importance connected with the foregoing differences. Among the other business transacted, we note the grant of a petition from "Paine's Lodge," No. 27, to change its name to "Hiram Lodge," No. 27, the reason assigned being "the numerous inconveniences they labour under, from the Lodge bearing the name of a man who, since that took place, has rendered himself odious by his indecent attacks on Christianity. A petition from West Chester Lodge, No. 46, to change its place of meeting to some more convenient place in the county is ordered to stand over. At the extra meeting called, as above, on the 12th of the month, the brethren, members of L'Unité Américaine, summoned, as well as Lachelle and his associates, are summarily dealt with in the manner already explained. At another extra meeting, however, held on the 18th, a petition of twenty-eight members of L'Unité Américaine is read, detailing the origin and circumstances of the recent dissensions in their Lodge and their association with Lachelle. They expressed their readiness to acknowledge the jurisdiction of the State Grand Lodge, and solicit permission to meet together as a Lodge. Thereupon it is resolved to re-instate them in their Masonic rights conditionally on their surrendering the warrant received by them from Lachelle, and also on their complying with such disposition of the property and papers of the Lodge L'Unité Américaine as Grand Lodge in its wisdom may direct. The suspension of another brother mixed up with these differences is likewise removed, on explanation and due submission made. At a third extra meeting, held on the 25th, the Committee appointed to report on this prolonged disturbance detail at considerable length the various steps they have taken. They announce that Lachelle's warrant has been returned into the hands of the P.G.M. of San Domingo, who had given it, and that finding the antagonism between the W.M. of L'Unité Américaine and his supporters on the one hand, and his opponents on the other, irreconcileable, they have constituted the latter into a Lodge. These steps are approved, and a dispensation for six months to the Lodge thus erected is granted. It is also directed that the minutes of this new Lodge of L'Unité Américaine be kept both in English and French. A dispensation for the day only is likewise granted to certain brethren confined in the city jail for debt to meet as a Lodge and celebrate St. John's Day. On the 7th March 1798, petitions for warrants to erect three new Lodges are granted, namely, for the Admiral, Renssalaer, and Sincere Felicity Lodges respectively. A fourth petition for a new Lodge, to be called the Roman Lodge, is referred to the Grand Presiding Officers. It is further ordered that twenty shillings be paid in future for a Grand Lodge Certificate, the fee to be the perquisite of the Grand Secretary, and also that the Grand Treasurer subscribe in the name of the Grand Lodge for ten shares in the City

Dispensary, on condition that "the Committee of Charity be entitled to recommend such number of patients as the shares entitle them to." On 6th June of the same year, after the election of officers, Bro. De Witt Clinton reports that he has had delivered to him the old warrant held by Master's Lodge, Albany, and has issued them a new one, but that Union Lodge, Albany, declines to surrender its old warrant, in consequence of which he recommends that decisive measures be taken to enforce the authority of Grand Lodge. This report is agreed to. Of six petitions for warrants, three were granted, one of the three being the Lodge U.D., formed of a section of the members of "L'Unité Américaine." The remaining three were ordered to stand over, or were referred to the Grand Officers. At this meeting an annual salary of two hundred and fifty dollars, in addition to his fees, was voted to the Grand Secretary, in consideration of his increased labours and responsibilities. The installation of Grand Officers was fixed for the 25th, and was held accordingly. No Grand Lodge was summoned in September, owing to the prevalence of an epidemic in New York, in accordance with the prayer of the Masters of the Lodges in that city. On 5th December eight petitions for new warrants were presented, of which three were granted, and the rest referred to the Grand Presiding Officers. Complaint was made against the S.W. and others of Hiram Lodge, No. 7, "for associating in the higher Degrees" with an expelled member, and the complaint was referred to a Committee. A letter was read from Solomon's Lodge, No. 56, Poughkeepsie, announcing its vote of fifty dollars in aid of distressed brethren in the city. The G.S. is directed to acknowledge suitably the letter and vote. On 2nd January 1799, the Ind. Royal Arch, No. 2, is censured for refusing to admit the S.G.W. De Witt Clinton into the Lodge on the 27th ult. At the same time the assurances of the W.M. of Ind. Royal Arch, No. 2, that no disrespect was intended to the S.G.W. are accepted as satisfactory. At the meeting on the 5th March 1799 the warrant of L'Unité Américaine, No. 12, is surrendered to Grand Lodge. A petition for a new Lodge is rejected for "want of a proper recommendation." We again note that the Grand Treasurer is ordered to subscribe in behalf of Grand Lodge for ten shares in the City Dispensary, under the same conditions as already detailed on a former occasion. Pending the adjustment of certain differences which appeared to have arisen in St. Alban's Lodge, a Committee is appointed on 5th June, to receive the Lodge warrant, to inquire into the differences, and "to return or retain the warrant, as to them may appear the most eligible." After the usual election of officers, the W.M.'s of the City Lodges are requested to forward the names of two members, one as Steward, and the other as Deacon, from whom to appoint the Stewards and Deacons of Grand Lodge. Complaint is also made that Temple Lodge, No. 13, is working improperly, and a Committee of inquiry is appointed. At an extra Grand Lodge on the 11th June, a warrant is granted for a new Lodge in Paris, County Oneida. A Committee is appointed to inquire into the Lodge St. George's, Shenectady, reported not to be working under a warrant of New York G. Lodge. A letter from the Grand Master of Maryland, complaining of a censure passed upon him by that Grand Lodge, and asking advice thereon, is referred to a Committee. Arrangements having been made for celebrating St. John's day, the Report re the associating in the Higher Degrees of sundry members of Hiram Lodge, No. 7, with an excluded member is delivered, the result being the exclusion of the S.W. of that Lodge, and the suspension of the others concerned till the next regular Communication of G. Lodge. On the 28th August, we read that the Grand Secretary, with his books, attended, "and waited until near nine o'clock, when none of the other members of the Grand Stewards' Lodge appearing he withdrew." On the 4th December, the death of Grand Secretary, John Abrams, is reported, and it is resolved to erect some memorial as a tribute of respect for the services he had rendered. A letter from the Grand Lodge of Upper Canada, soliciting fraternal intercourse between the two Grand Lodges, and giving a list of the Lodges, fourteen in number, under its jurisdiction, is received, and a suitable reply, reciprocating the friendly feeling, is ordered to be written. Petitions for warrants for "Fortitude" and "Horizontal" Lodges are granted, while a third petition from members of Master's, No. 2, Albany, to form Hiram Lodge in Coymans County of Albany, is referred to the Grand Officers. A sum of 45 dols., collected the previous St. John's Day for distressed prisoners in gaol, is ordered to be expended for their relief. On the 23rd of the same month an extra meeting was held for the purpose of taking the necessary steps to pay a just tribute of respect to the memory of Bro. General George Washington, deceased on the 14th instant. After recording his many virtues and the eminent services he had rendered, both as Commander-in-Chief and President of the United States, the resolution adopted is, that all the Lodges in the jurisdiction wear mourning for six months; that a committee be appointed to take steps to place a suitable memorial of him in the room where Grand Lodge assembles, and that the same Committee further take steps with other committees of Americans in respect of some public testimonial of respect and veneration. Permission is granted to West Chester Lodge, No. 46, to meet, for the convenience of members, at the town of the White Plains and East Chester alternately, and the warrant of Temple Lodge, No. 13, is returned. On the 30th of the month Grand Lodge meets for the purpose of taking part in the funeral ceremony of Washington. The offer of the Grand Secretary to meet the day following in the Reformed Protestant French Church in Pine Street, and there join the procession, being accepted. A detailed account of the order of procession is given in the minutes of the meeting. A petition to form "Abrams Lodge" is referred to the Grand Officers. In the minutes of the Stewards' Lodge, of the 26th February 1800, is entered an account of the expenses incurred at the solemn funeral ceremony, the amount being dols. 154·44 In the same minutes we find recorded the donation of 10 dols. to a "transient Mason of good character and Masonic conduct, named Verdier St. Armand," who had been robbed of all his property by privateers, and was in great distress. At the meeting of Grand Lodge, on 5th March, reasons having been given for the delay in settling a variety of important business, the Grand Secretary, who some time previously had been directed to obtain 24 copies of the Constitutions, announced that he had been unable to obtain them anywhere. A motion to print more copies was, however, negatived. We also learn that "two letters of importance for Masonry, directed to the Grand Secretary, by the Grand Lodge of South Carolina," are referred to a Committee for report. It is then minuted that the Abrams Lodge had been duly constituted. The petition for a new Lodge, to be known as the Washington Lodge, being duly recommended, is unanimously granted, but a second petition for the formation of a "Mount Moriah Lodge" is rejected as being neither properly certified nor recommended. The petition of the late S.W. of Hiram Lodge, No. 7, who had associated with an excluded member, and been expelled, having been considered, he is restored to his former Masonic rights and privileges. The Grand Officers are then directed to take measures for inquiring into certain irregularities complained of as prevailing in Steuben Lodge, No. 18, Newburgh, County of Ulster. The Grand Secretary having made some remarks on the inconvenience arising from the present mode of numbering Lodges in the City, and in the County, the subject is referred to the next regular meeting, and the Lodge is closed. At an extra meeting on the 25th of the month, the Committee to see after the conduct of the Steuben Lodge state they have advised that a meeting of the Lodge be held, and that officers be elected for the current year. Petitions for warrants for four new Lodges, namely, "Warren Lodge," "Asylum Lodge," Coymans, Albany, and Mohawk Lodge, afterwards altered to "Morton Lodge," Shenectady, County Albany, and for "Hiram Lodge," Aurelius, County of Cayuga, are unanimously granted. The Committee appointed to consider the important letters received from South Carolina deliver their report, which is accepted, and a Committee of seven is at once appointed to execute its terms. The other matters recorded are of the usual character, being ordinary motions, petitions in the ordinary way for relief, &c. &c. Among the Grand Officers who figure in this portion of the record may be mentioned as eminent in the annals of New York State, as well as in New York Masonry, the names of De Witt Clinton and Martin Hoffman, both Grand Senior Wardens, and John Jacob Astor appointed Grand Treasurer in succession to Hoffman. Having thus far noted the progress of the story, we await with interest the further numbers, and till they reach us must take leave, with regret, of this valuable publication.

Rules and Regulations of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Devon. The Rev. J. Huyshe, Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master. Plymouth: Leonard D. Westcott, Printer, 14 Frankfort Street. 1876.

THE mere publication of the Bye Laws of a Lodge or Province must be regarded as a necessity, but when we find, as in the case before us, that the publication of such Bye Laws is supplemented by that of a brief, yet sufficient historical sketch of the Province, we are justified in considering it as pre-eminently a mark of zeal and energy in the Craftsmen who compose its several Lodges. The case of a member who will devote time, labour, and money to the preparation and issue of comparatively so slight a work as this without at least a corresponding amount of encouragement from his brethren must be set down as exceptional. The rule we take it is, that where such calendars and histories are published, there will be found a sufficient number of active and intelligent Masons to encourage the good work. Were the good example set by Devon, Cornwall, and other Provinces we might name followed generally, the labours of writing a trustworthy Masonic History would be very considerably lessened. We hail, therefore, with pleasure, the appearance of this short history of the Province of Devon, and we tender our thanks to Bro. Avery, the Provincial Grand Treasurer, for his kindness in forwarding us a copy. Nor must we pass unnoticed the name of the Provincial Grand Secretary, Bro. W. G. Rogers, to whose editorial labour and researches we are indebted mainly, as we are informed, for the publication of this important little addition to the history of the Craft in this country. To him, likewise, we express our warmest congratulations for the very able manner in which he has fulfilled his task.

As to the contents of the pamphlet, there is first of all given a copy of the warrant issued by our late M.W.G.M., the Earl of Zetland, on the 22nd January 1866, and appointing the Rev. John Huyshe to the high position of Grand Master of the Province in which he had already obtained such high and well merited distinction. Then come the Laws and Regulations which have been compiled for the government of Devon. These are followed by a short sketch of the Provincial Grand Lodge, from its establishment in 1775, to the appointment of the present P.G.M., together with some particulars of the Union Lodge, Exeter, to whose exertions we mainly owe it that the Provincial Grand Lodge was established. This Union Lodge, we are told, was warranted on 6th August 1766, was consecrated 6th October of the same year, and continued to hold its meetings regularly till 20th October 1778. It ceased to meet for some time, but it assembled again on 27th April 1781. After the year 1788 it appears to have transacted no Masonic business, and in the following year it was struck off the roll of Lodges. In 1769 it passed a resolution limiting the number of its members to twenty-four. Among the brethren at different times borne on the register of this Lodge are the names of gentlemen of good standing in the County, as well as of "members of the Legal, Medical, and Clerical professions," two of these last having been subsequently raised to the Episcopal bench, namely, the late Dr. H. Bathurst, Bishop of Norwich, and the late Dr. Herbert Marsh, Bishop of Peterborough. The first intimation we have that the formation of a Provincial Grand Lodge was in contemplation will be found in the following extract from the Minute Book of the Lodge, dated 20th December 1774. We quote it in full:—

"1774, December 20th.—Ordered, That application be made to the Grand Secretary to learn the necessary steps to be taken to appoint a Provincial Grand Master for Devon and Exeter."

From the minutes of a meeting, held a few days later, we gather that Bro. C. W. Bampfylde was elected Provincial Grand Master, and accepted the office. This minute is as follows:—

"1774, December 27th.—This Lodge, in conjunction with the Lodges held at the Valiant Soldier and the Bear, elected Bro. Charles Warwick Bampfylde Provincial Grand Master, who accepted the office."

These statements are confirmed by the following extracts from the Secretary's Book of St. George's Lodge, now No. 112, and then held at the Bear Inn:—

(1.) "1774, December 27th.—An application was made from the Union Lodge, inviting the members of this Lodge to join in a petition to the Grand Lodge to appoint Brother Charles Warwick Bampfylde, Provincial Grand Master."

[This petition, it seems, was signed February 23rd 1775.]

(2.) "Brother Charles Warwick Bampfylde having been appointed Provincial Grand Master of Devon and Exeter, by the Grand Master of England, was duly installed by Codrington, Master of the Union Lodge, on the 19th December, 1775."

Thus Bro. C. W., afterwards Sir C. W., Bampfylde, was the first Provincial Grand Master of Devon, and held office for 44 years, till 1819, when he resigned. Any minutes of the Provincial G. Lodges held under his administration must, we regret to hear, have been lost, as none remain, the only evidence we have of his Prov. G. Mastership being the minutes already quoted. Sir C. W. Bampfylde was succeeded, on his resignation, 1819, by Viscount Ebrington, afterwards Earl Fortescue. On his death, in 1861, the Rev. John Huyshe governed the Province as D.P.G.M. till the 24th May 1866, on which day, in accordance with Lord Zetland's patent of appointment already mentioned, he was installed P.G.M. by Bro. Æneas McIntyre Q.C. Grand Registrar. The order of procession on this auspicious occasion is then given, and then lists of the P. G. Officers for 1875-6, and of the Past Prov. G. Officers of all grades. Appended is a list of the various meetings of Prov. G. Lodge during the administrations of the late Earl Fortescue, and, thus far, of the Rev. J. Huyshe, with notes of any events of importance which distinguished them. Then are given two lists of the Devon Lodges, the first being arranged in numerical order, with the days of meeting, the towns in which they are held, and the numbers they held originally, to 1863, and since; the other alphabetically, according to the towns in which they are held. Last of all comes a list of the P.M.'s of the Province, arranged under the Lodges they severally belonged to, and with a description of the Past Provincial Grand Rank (if any) which they have held. As to this last list of all, we note the absence from it of the names of Earl Fortescue, Lord Poltimore and others, who figure in the register of Past Provincial Grand Officers. We mention this, as we do not see how, according to the Constitutions, unless they are contributing members, they can be Provincial or Past Provincial Grand Officers, and we presume, unless P.M.'s, they would hardly have been appointed. We must remark also, that in the footnote, at p. 35, to the List of Lodges alphabetically arranged according to towns, the date of the warrant of the G. Masters' Lodge is set down for 13th August 1739. No "Ancient," or, as they were subsequently called, "Athol" Lodges, were warranted anterior to 1750. This has been stated authoritatively by Bro. Hughan, who is more conversant with these important matters than any other English Craftsman of whose researches we have any knowledge. The date is almost certain to be 1759. We advise a correction of this in future issues.

We have thus sketched at some length the contents of this useful guide-book to the Province of Devon. We are vastly pleased with it, and it only remains to add, that its general appearance and typography are eminently respectable. We trust the day is not far distant when every Province and District under the jurisdiction of our English Grand Lodge will be in a position to boast of a similar compilation.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE OF THE NEW DOCKS AT AYR.

IT having been announced that the G.M. Mason of Scotland would perform the interesting ceremony, there was a large muster of the Ayrshire brethren, as well as a good contingent from Edinburgh and Glasgow, a special train running from the last-named city for their accommodation. About 1,000 Masons put in an appearance. The Grand Lodge met in the County Building, at 1 o'clock. Unfortunately, illness prevented Sir M. R. S. Stewart from being present, and he had deputed Sir James Fergusson, Bart., P.P.G.M. of Ayrshire, as his deputy, who ably fulfilled the duties of the day. He was assisted by Bros. C. Dalrymple M.P. as D.G.M., Wm. Mann S.G.M., Wm. Hay S.G.W., D. Kinnaird J.G.W., R. J. Inglis, Chaplain of Mother Kilwinning, as the G. Chaplain, J. Laurie G. Secretary, R. Wylie P.P.G.M. of Ayrshire, as G. Treasurer, R. Montgomerie M.P. as G.S.D., R. W. Cochrane Partrick as G.J.D., Capt. G. F. Colt G.S.B., C. W. M'Muller G.D. of M., D. Murray Lyon P.P.G.M., J. T. Middleton G.A., D. Davidson G.O.A.T., Arthorp G.M., R. Morrison P. of Stewards, and the Grand Stewards were R. J. Brown, E. S. Law, H. W. Findlay and J. Taylor; W. M. Brice G. Tyler.

The working tools were carried by some of the Bairns of Mother Kilwinning, No. 0, Bros. J. Fergerson, J. Tweed, R. Corner, Robert Burns, Thompson, J. McCrones and others. The Lodges represented were Mother Kilwinning 0, Canongate 5, Journeymen, Edinburgh, 8, Dumbarton 18, St. John Kilmarnock, 22, St. Mungo, Glasgow, 27, London 52, Doric, Port Glasgow, 68, Thistle and Rose, Glasgow, 73 Troon 86, Kilwinning, Ayr, 124, a large muster; as well as St. John ewton 123, Kilmarnock, St. Andrew, 126, St. Mirrens, Paisley, 127, Tarbolton 133, Ayr Operatives 138, Irvine 149, Kilbucan 156, Royal Arch, Ayr, 163, Thistle and Rose, Steventus, 169, Scotia, Glasgow, 178, Maypole 198, St. Paul, Ayr, 204, Old Cumnock 230, Hustin 242, Dunfermline 250, Dalry 290, New Cumnock 334, Ardrossan 442, Catrine 497, Burns St. Mary 505, Straurea 519, Bonnie Doon Patria 565—this, though one of the youngest Lodges, was third in numerical strength, and was preceded by 566—Fergusson St. James and Dailly, named after the Acting Grand Master of the day. The route chosen for the procession was rather lengthy, in order to allow all the inhabitants to see the Masonic display, it being 104 years since the Grand Lodge had assembled before in Ayr. All the Masonic processions in the county since—and there have been a great many—were conducted by the Provincial Grand Lodge, headed by the Mother Lodge. On arriving at the site, the stone was laid with full Masonic ceremonies, and the fact of the ceremony having been completed was heralded by the firing of a number of shots from the big guns situated on the shore. The loud cheering which prevailed having ceased,

Sir James Fergusson said: Right Worshipful Officers of the Grand Lodge, Brethren, the Provost of Ayr, Ladies and Gentlemen,—Having completed the appropriate ceremony of laying the foundation-stone of this grand work, I have now, in words of my own, in the first place, to express the gratification which I feel in being privileged to perform this interesting ceremony. I must allude, in the first place, to one to whom I bear much respect and regard—the Grand Master Mason of Scotland, deeply regretting that he is prevented by severe illness, from performing his duty to-day; but I am not the less highly honoured by being privileged to do his duty. I would congratulate the Provost and Magistrates of this ancient burgh, the trustees of the harbour, and all concerned, in the work on this event, which is not only the laying of the foundation-stone, but the placing, as I may say, of the chief corner-stone of the great dock of Ayr. (Cheers.) For this block of granite, brought from the most distant part of the kingdom—the mines of Cornwall—is destined to bear the great gates of the dock through which we trust commerce in abundance in future years may pass. (Loud cheers.) Let me say one word upon the ceremony which has just been performed. The Grand Lodge, on the invitation of the Harbour Trustees, have come here to lend to this opening ceremony all the importance which it is in their power to confer. It is for them to bring to the practical part of the work their contribution of symbolical ceremony; which, let me tell you, is no idle form, for if the ministration of justice in the kingdom is surrounded with certain features of majesty, so ought the great industrial triumphs of peace to be surrounded by fit ceremonies of respect. (Applause.) Our friends are here engaged in a work which has called forth the highest enterprise, that could not have been undertaken without acts of public munificence and great enterprise, and it was fitting that the Grand Lodge of Scotland should come here to wish success to the work, and to lend all the importance their presence can confer. I regret this day that one is not by our side who, through his life, did so much for the encouragement of works of value to his fellow citizens. (Applause.) But for James Baird's public spirit we could not have hoped that the great work could have been undertaken. (Applause.) Although we may hope that in the future the commerce of Ayr will be amply sufficient to pay for the construction of works of even larger grandeur than the present undertaking, still, at this moment, it would have been difficult and onerous to the town to have found the funds, had it not been that the great man who has passed from amongst us came forward with his open and generous hand. Not to all is it given to see in his lifetime the success and completion of works of usefulness, and though it is an example for those who can do something in their lifetime for the permanent advantage of their fellow countrymen so to do, and though the author of the work has passed away, he has secured to his fellow citizens, for the future, the means of completing it, and in this, as in many other works, his monument stands, and will stand for ages, as an example to Scotchmen, if they succeed in life, to dedicate the good things of this world that came to them not only to founding a family, which, I trust, will long endure, but to works of usefulness which will be for the good of their children's children in ages to come. (Cheers.) In conclusion, Sir James wished an abundant measure of success to this grand work, so honourable to those who had undertaken it, and, he would add, to the country at large. (Cheers.)

A large and influential company gathered in the Assembly Rooms at four o'clock. After an elegant and récherché dinner had been partaken of, Provost Goudie, who presided, gave the usual loyal and patriotic toasts.

The latest example of absurd credulity on the part of the natives of India is the belief, now prevalent at Dinapore, Patna, and the vicinity, that British "soldiers have orders to decapitate any native abroad after sunset, or found in secluded places." The heads are deposited in the Masonic Lodges, and thence distributed over foreign countries, and by their means the Sicar is able to gain intelligence in all political intrigues. So implicitly is all this nonsense believed that no native servant will stir abroad after dark, and even "respectable men of business" are said to give it credit.—Naval and Military Gazette.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—GOOD DIGESTION.—With the weather alarmingly changeable, and foul miasmas penetrating to the very sources of life, the skin will become inactive, and the digestion impaired, unless corrected by suitable means. Holloway's Pills are universally acknowledged to be the safest, speediest, and best corrective of impurity. Loss of appetite, acidity, flatulency and nausea, are a few of the inconveniences which are remedied with ease by these purifying Pills. They strike at the root of all abdominal ailments; they excite in the stomach a proper secretion of gastric juice, and regulate the action of the liver, promoting in that organ a copious supply of pure, wholesome bile, absolutely necessary for digestion. These Pills remove all distension and obstruction.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentay to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

ON Tuesday the Queen presented new colours to the First, or "Royal Scots" regiment, of which her father, the late Duke of Kent, was Colonel-in-Chief. Her Majesty, accompanied by the Princesses Alice and Beatrice and the Duke of Connaught, lately arrived at the Castle, drove over to Ballater in a carriage and four, the ladies and gentlemen in attendance following in two other carriages. The regiment, which was drawn up in line under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel MacGwire, received her with a royal salute. The ceremony of trooping the old colours having been performed, the troops were formed up in a hollow square, and the Queen, having previously addressed to the regiment a brief but effective speech, presented the new colours to Lieutenants Moore and Bond, who received them kneeling. The officer in command having suitably acknowledged, on behalf of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and men, Her Majesty's words, the regiment marched past in quick time. After a royal salute and three cheers, given most enthusiastically, the royal party left the ground. The old colours were presented to Her Majesty, who was pleased to accept them, and promised they should be placed in Windsor Castle. The Prince and Princess of Wales, with their two sons, and Prince John of Glucksburgh, were present, and witnessed the presentation.

On Wednesday the Prince and Princess of Wales, with their children, left Abergeldie for Ballater Station, on a visit to the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, at Dunrobin Castle. Throughout the journey their Royal Highnesses were greeted with the utmost loyalty at the several halting places. The Duke and Duchess were on the platform at Goldspie-station to receive their guests, the route thence to the Castle being very tastefully decorated and lined the whole way with the inhabitants, who had turned out en masse to greet the royal visitors. The visit is expected to last some eight or ten days, in the course of which the Prince and Princess, it is understood, will visit Wick, Thurso, and other towns in the neighbourhood.

On Tuesday, H.R.H. Prince Leopold paid his promised visit to Cupar, the County town of Fife. The occasion was regarded as a public holiday. The road to be traversed was gaily decorated in the usual fashion, and the reception His Royal Highness met with was most flattering. On Wednesday, the Prince was formally installed as Captain of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrew's, which comprises some 800 members, and of which the Queen is patroness. There was a large and fashionable assembly at the Club House on the Links to greet the Captain elect. The Prince having struck off the first ball, which entitles him as Captain to the Royal Adelaide Medal, the annual competition for prizes commenced, the result being that the first prize, the King William the Fourth Medal, fell to Mr. Leslie Balfour, while for the gold medal of the club there was a tie between Messrs. Stuart of Edinburgh, and Brown of Berwickshire. In the evening a banquet was held at the Club House, the Hon. Charles Carnegie, the retiring Captain, presiding, after which the Prince was duly installed and invested with the Adelaide Medal.

The public excitement over the Bulgarian atrocities still continues. Mr. Gladstone has spoken once or twice since our last issue. On Tuesday, Mr. Childers offered a few remarks at the annual meeting of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, at Knottingley, near Pontefract. On Wednesday, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who is a guest of Mr. Rowland Winn, M.P., at Nostal Priory, Yorkshire, addressed a vast concourse of people, in the grounds; and the same day the Deputation appointed at the recent meeting at Guildhall, to convey certain resolutions to the government, waited on the Earl of Derby at the Foreign Office. His Lordship courteously received the Deputation, which was headed by the Lord Mayor, and explained his views, so far as the necessities of his official position allowed. The Deputation do not appear, however, to have been satisfied with his Lordship's statement, for they subsequently met at the Cannon-street Hotel, and arranged to continue the present agitation. Whether this is a wise policy or not to pursue, remains to be seen.

A Court of Common Council was held on Wednesday, at Guildhall, when the report of the City Lands Committee on the removal of Temple Bar was brought up. The Committee recommend that authority should be given them to take down and remove the structure, with the exception of the northern and southern walls, and that then they should consider the best means of marking the boundary of the City jurisdiction at that spot. On division, the report was carried by 69 to 45, and was then referred back for execution. The necessity for the removal of this time-honoured Bar has long been recognised, but we trust a place will be found where it may stand in peace and quietness without impeding, as it certainly does now, the enormous traffic of the metropolis.

"Hell Gate" has been blown up. Our readers need not be shocked at the word. It is merely the name of a rock at the entrance of New York Harbour, which has ever been a serious obstruction to free navigation. Fifty thousand pounds of dynamite were used in its destruction, and the force of the explosion was felt for a distance of fully ten miles; but no damage was done either to life or property, so complete were all the arrangements of the engineers.

The series of trials, at Shoeburyness, of the 81-ton gun, commenced on Wednesday, in the presence of Colonel Younghusband, R.A., and several military officials, as well as of a numerous body of visitors. Five rounds were fired, the charge of powder being 370 lbs., and the weight of the projectile 1,760 lbs. The average distance at which the shot first grazed the earth was 4,694 yards, or about two and a half miles, for the first four rounds, the fifth having, for sufficient reasons, been struck out of the record. In these rounds, the gun was elevated at an angle of seven degrees. The gun was afterwards lowered to one degree to suit the circumstances of the tide flowing in on the sands, when two more rounds were fired, the distances to the first graze being respectively 1,096 yards and 1,080 yards, and the time of flight 2·2 seconds. In these two cases the whole distance supposed to have been traversed by the projectile was 11,000 yards, or considerably over six miles. The effects of the practice with this formidable monster were very perceptible; windows and window-frames were shattered; a large boarded gate leading into the barracks was burst open; the entire wall of the officers' mess-room seemed likely to yield, while in the soldiers' huts, large pieces of plaster were knocked down, and in several the ceilings threatened to come in. What will have become of these buildings when the series of rounds is complete, it would hardly be safe to speculate.

If the efforts of the six Great Powers are rewarded with the success they deserve, we shall very shortly hear of the termination of the Eastern difficulty. In his reply to the deputation that waited upon him on Wednesday, the Earl of Derby stated that though peace was not absolutely certain, the prospect, so far as the disposition of all interested in securing the return of peace was concerned, was very favourable. His Lordship expressed not only a hope, but likewise the confident belief, that the contest would be brought to an issue without the further effusion of blood. In confirmation of this announcement of our Foreign Minister, we have the reply of the German Emperor to a deputation that waited upon him at Stuttgard, in which His Majesty declared that the prospect of peace was more assured than ever, and that a basis had been established among the Great Powers which justified him in believing that a favourable result will be arrived at. The news from Constantinople, that Turkey is favourable to the conditions of peace proposed by Great Britain and endorsed by the other powers, is also satisfactory. On the other hand, we hear that Servia has rejected the further prolongation of the armistice, and that hostilities have actually recommenced. It is further announced that Servia has decidedly rejected the terms proposed by the Great Powers and the Porte, and save in the case of foreign occupation, will fight on à outrance till the independence of Servia and Bosnia is secured. Russia and Austria are both strongly opposed to the erection of Servia into a kingdom, and the latter Power is said to have hinted to Prince Milan that, in the event of his persisting in his present adventurous career, a change of ruler may become necessary. It is evident, then, we are not out of the wood yet; but it is, at least, satisfactory to know that all civilised Europe is working hard and with a will to secure peace on a durable basis. We sincerely trust their efforts may be crowned with success.

Old Warrants.

[We take this opportunity of expressing to the many friends who have so cordially responded to our invitation by forwarding copies of their Lodge Warrants our very sincere thanks for their kindness. We trust their example will be followed by the majority of those to whom we have addressed ourselves. We note, however, that a few consider it little short of high treason to make public these documents. All such must pardon us if we express our belief that their objections to publication are very childish. All of us, or at least all those among us who trouble themselves about such matters, know perfectly well what the body of a Warrant contains. These estimable brethren who object to publication are only keeping hidden from the Masonic public a few particulars, namely, the date of issue of each warrant, the name of the G.M. who issued it, the style and title of the Lodge, and the names of the W.M. and Wardens appointed thereunder. It is no idle curiosity which prompts us to seek this information, but a desire to make the list of Lodges on the Roll of England historically more perfect, there being in the present Grand Lodge Calendar over a hundred Lodges with no date of constitution inserted against them.]

Witness
Jas Heseltine G.S.

The present number, title, &c. are, The Pilgrim Lodge, No. 238, held at the London Masonic Club, 101 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

We are much obliged to the W.M. of No. 238 for his interesting communication and transcript of the Warrant, and trust that the example he has thus set will be followed by many other Worshipful Masters of our London Lodges, especially of the "Ancients."—EDITOR.

We have received from our esteemed Bro. Jacob Norton, the first portion of an interesting article on "Coloured Freemasonry." His views on this important question are not our views; but we are far from being bigoted, and nothing gives us greater pleasure than to be able to afford a Brother who holds other opinions the opportunity of conveying them to our readers. Bro. Norton's article will appear in our next issue.

The ceremony of Consecration will be rehearsed by Bro. Jas. Terry, P.G.D.C. Herts, P.M., Secretary to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons, on Monday, 9th October, at 7 o'clock, at the Marquess of Ripon Lodge of Instruction, Pembury Tavern, Amhurst Road, Hackney. Bro. W. Stephens, P.M. 1365, will rehearse the ceremony of Installation on that occasion, when it is requested the brethren will appear in Masonic clothing.

At the usual monthly meeting of the Upton Lodge, No. 1227, held at the Spotted Dog, Upton, Essex, on Thursday, 21st September 1876, Bro. D. Posener W.M. in the chair, it was unanimously resolved :—

"That this Lodge having heard with extreme sorrow and deep regret of the death of Bro. W. J. Page, their Junior Warden, request that a letter of condolence be written to Mrs. Page, expressing their sympathy with her in the irreparable loss she has so suddenly and so unexpectedly sustained."

RENFREWSHIRE EAST PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE.

A MEETING of this Provincial Grand Lodge was held on Saturday last, in the hall of Lodge Paisley, St. Mirren, No. 129, for the purpose of considering in what way the members of the Lodge would assist in welcoming his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to Glasgow, on the occasion of his forthcoming visit to lay the foundation stone of the new Post Office there. Bro. Colonel Campbell, of Blythswood, P.G.M., presided, and was supported by Bros. James Caldwell, Craigielea Substitute Master. Bro. James Gilmour 129, officiated as Senior Warden, and Bro. J. Peters 153 as Junior Warden. There was a large attendance. The P.G. Master stated that he had had an interview with the authorities in Glasgow, and had ascertained the arrangements so far as made for the Prince of Wales's visit. The Masonic brethren would assemble very likely at Burnbank, where they would be joined by the Grand Lodge. A procession would be formed, and the brethren would proceed by way of the Lord Provost's house, when, after the Grand Lodge had passed, they would be followed by his Royal Highness and the Princess of Wales and Royal party. It would be impossible to accommodate the whole Masonic body at the place of ceremony in George Square, and as the general public would have largely to share in the proceedings, it had been decided that on the arrival of the brethren at the Square, they should open up on either side of the road and along the route, and remain there till after the ceremony, when the royal party would return to the Lord Provost's house by the way they came. He suggested that a committee be appointed to communicate with the Grand Lodge, and also with the Provincial Grand Lodge of Scotland, and thereafter, on learning the definite arrangements, send information to all Lodges in the Province. This was agreed to, and the following committee appointed :—Bros. Colonel Campbell, James Caldwell, James Gilmour, J. Peters, A. Macpherson, ex-Bailie Fisher, A. Wallace, and J. Carswell. Bro. H. S. Edmonds suggested that if the Masons were to line the sides of the streets it was but fair that the senior Lodges should proceed first in the procession, instead of as in the usual way, and thus they would be arranged as they were entitled to be, nearest the place of ceremony. It was agreed to forward this suggestion to the Grand Lodge.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

[The holidays are now over, and everywhere throughout the country Lodges are resuming their labours. The moment, therefore, is opportune for again inviting our readers to lend us all the assistance in their power in making our notices of Lodge meetings agree as nearly as possible in date with the number in which they appear. Particulars of meetings held two or three weeks previously cannot be regarded as "news." We promise that notices will be inserted, as far, at least, as the space at our disposal will permit, if they are despatched in time to reach us by the first post on Friday morning. We set our face strongly against holding over this important class of matter. But we cannot undertake to insert notices more than a week old, save under very exceptional circumstances, and in the case of foreign Lodges. Our readers will be kind enough to bear in mind that, if they desire the particulars of their Lodge doings to appear in these columns, the facilities afforded by the Post Office will enable us to receive their communications within, at the outside, twenty-four hours of their being written. If they cannot oblige us thus far, they must not feel hurt or disappointed if we cannot find space for their insertion. We are sparing no effort to make this journal worthy of the increased support it is receiving in all parts of the country, and among our foreign Lodges. We are desirous of making it not only a worthy medium for the expression of opinion on all topics of general interest to the whole Craft, but likewise as complete a record as possible of the week's Masonic news. Our readers will at once perceive that as regards the latter portion of our programme we must necessarily, and to a great extent, rely on their kindly co-operation. We do not for a moment doubt this co-operation will be forthcoming, we only ask that it may be rendered promptly. Bis dat qui cito dat. Whoso sends us a report of Lodge proceedings promptly, confers on us a double favour.]

St. John Lodge, No. 3 bis.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting in its own Hall, on Saturday, the 23rd inst. There was a fair attendance of members. The 1st degree was very ably wrought by Bro. Wm. Bell I.P.M., and the 2nd by Bro. T. B. Bell S.M.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge met on Thursday evening last, Sept. 28, at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules, Leadenhall-street, when there was a very numerous attendance of the brethren for the purpose of working the fifteen sections. Bro. Horsley presided. Bro. Austin P.M. as S.W., Bro. Musto P.M. as J.W., Bros. Grammer Secretary, Atkins P.M. Treasurer, Crawley P.M., Hoare P.M., Constable P.M., Rudderforth, Webb, and other brethren, numbering upwards of forty. The Lodge was opened in the three degrees, and after the minutes were read and confirmed, Bro. Horsley proceeded to work the fifteen sections, assisted by the following brethren—Bros. Grammer, Smith, Hewlett, Webb, Musto, Crawley, Rudderforth, Wilkins, Hogarth, Constable, Ellis, and Job. Bros. Smith, Spencer, Johnson, Yetton, Abell, Abbott, Bone, McCarthy, and Constable were unanimously elected members of this Lodge of Instruction. It was then proposed by Bro. Crawley, seconded by Bro. Austin, and carried unanimously, that a vote of thanks be entered on the minutes to the W.M., Bro. Horsley, for his kindness in presiding on this occasion. Bro. Horsley was also made an honorary member. A vote of thanks was proposed by the W.M., seconded by Bro. Pitt, to Bros. Austin, Crawley, Musto, and the rest of the brethren who had assisted in working the sections. The same was carried unanimously. There was also a vote of thanks, proposed by the W.M. and seconded by the J.W., to Bro. Grammer, the Secretary, for presenting the circulars to the Lodge, and for his general exertions in the business of this Lodge of Instruction. All Masonic business being ended the Lodge was closed in ancient form.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge met on Monday, the 25th inst., at Bro. Gay's, Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell. Present—Bros. Crawley W.M., Powell S.W., Knight J.W., Killick Secretary, Lake S.D., Ockenden J.D., Millward I.G., Christopher Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. Beckett (Preceptor) and Main. Visitors—Bros. Weeden 813, Higgins H. 185, Baxter 1003, J. Crawley P.M. 174. After the preliminary opening, the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, and the Traditional History given, Bro. Weeden candidate. Bro. J. Crawley P.M. 174 worked the sections of the Third Lecture. Bros. J. Crawley, Baxter, Weeden and Higgins, were elected members, and Bro. Powell was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week. The ceremony of Installation will be worked on Monday next, by Bro. Beckett.

Lodge of Lights, No. 148, Warrington.—The monthly meeting of this old Lodge was held on Monday last, at the Masonic Rooms. The W.M., Bro. W. H. Robinson, was supported by Bros. Thomas Tunstall S.W., Joseph Pickthall J.W., and a large number of members and visitors. The Lodge was opened in form, when the minutes were read and declared to be correctly recorded. The Lodge was opened in the second, when Bro. Ferguson claimed preferment, and having sustained his claim, was entrusted and retired. The Lodge opened in the third, and Bro. Ferguson was re-admitted and raised to the Sublime Degree, in ample form, by the W.M. On the Lodge being closed down, Bro. John Armstrong S.W. 1250 and Treasurer of No. 148, rose to propose a vote of congratulation to two brethren who had, and were about to have, high Masonic distinction bestowed upon them. They all felt that the Lodge was complimented by these appointments. Bro. Bowes had done much for Masonry in Warrington, his able services, however, were not confined to West Lancashire, for he was as well known in the Northern Province of Cumberland and Westmoreland as in Warrington. He, Bro. Armstrong, had it on the best authority that Bro. Bowes had, for many years, ever been ready to afford help in the North whenever needed, and Lord Bective, M.P., the R.W. Prov. Grand Master, acknowledged the obligations of the Province when he appointed Bro. Bowes Junior Grand Warden, at the great meeting at Kirkby Lonsdale a few weeks since. They one and all congratulated Bro. Bowes on the well merited honour which had been bestowed upon him. Bro. Sharp, P.M., &c., was the other worthy brother upon whom the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale was about to confer a similar honour. Bro. Sharp, while he occupied the chair of K.S., rendered their beautiful ceremonies in a manner they all appreciated, and they congratulated him most sincerely. Bro. Tunstall S.W. seconded the motion, which was carried by acclamation. Bros. Bowes and Sharp acknowledged the compliment in suitable terms. Bro. Bowes proposed a vote of congratulation to Bro. James Paterson I.G., on the occasion of his marriage. This was seconded by Bro. J. R. Young S.D., and carried unanimously. The Provincial Grand Lodge Circular having been read, and there being no further business, the Lodge was closed with the usual solemnities, and the brethren separated in harmony.

Perseverance Royal Arch Chapter, Leith, No. 152.—This Chapter celebrated the Autumnal Equinox Festival on Monday, 25th September. The Chapter being opened in ample form, the meeting proceeded to elect and instal the several office bearers for 1876-77. Principals John Laurie Z., George Hudson H., David Turner J., all re-elected. David Laird Scribe E. and Treasurer, John Neil N., James Reid D.Z., G. A. Laurie 1st Soj., J. W. Scoales 2nd Soj., J. Turner 3rd Soj., T. M. Thomson C., G. M. Davidson D.M., G. J. Laurie Org., J. Whitehead S., Alex. Henderson Janitor. The installation over, Comp. J. Laurie M.E.Z. proposed Companions John Taylor, of Chapter Edinburgh, No. 1, and John Schopp, of Chapter Canongate, Kilwinning, No. 56, for application as honorary members of the Chapter for the interest they had shown to the Chapter and Masonry in general, which was warmly received, for which they returned thanks for the high honour conferred upon them. The Chapter was then closed. The Companions then set down to a most excellent supper, purveyed in grand style by Comp. J. Whitehead, Steward to the Chapter. Comp. J. Laurie M.E.Z. occupied the chair, Comp. G. A. Laurie, croupier. Having done ample justice to the viands set on the table, which were all that could be desired, the usual loyal and Masonic complimentary toasts were given from the chair, and duly responded to, they being interspersed with songs and instrumental music, given by the members of the Chapter. Too much praise could not be given to Comp. Fischer for his excellent performance on the guitar. The several glees, given by Comps. Johnston, Say, Gardner and Laurie, were given with much spirit and taste, and warmly received. Comp. G. J. Laurie, Organist to the Chapter, to whom a great deal of the evening's enjoyment depended, presided at the piano in his usual masterly style. The company broke up, at a late hour, after spending a most pleasant evening, with "Sorry to part, but happy to meet again."

Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, No. 174.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting at Bro. Seaton's, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., last Monday evening. Present—Bros. Salmoneso W.M., Hawthorne S.W., Brown J.W., W. Fraser S.D., Hilliard J.D., Hewlett I.G., Crawley P.M. Preceptor. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes read and confirmed. The W.M. rehearsed the first ceremony, Bro. Berry being the candidate. Bro. Webb worked the fifth section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The S.W. was elected to officiate as W.M. at the next meeting. On the proposition of Bro. Browne, seconded by P.M. Crawley, Bro. Larg 1607 was elected a member. There were also present Bros. Ellis Hon. Sec., Baxter, Burrell, Horsley, Newton, Stead, &c. The Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned until Monday evening, the 2nd October.

Caledonian of Unity Chapter, No. 73.—This Chapter held its Election Meeting on Monday, 25th inst., at 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow. Comp. G. W. Wheeler Z. opened a Lodge of excellent Masters at 7 p.m., with Comps. Wm. Hoy and Fred. Jenkinson as S. and J.W., when he advanced to the degree Bro. Wm. Pitt. The Chapter was then opened. Comps. D. Gilchrist P.Z. as H., J. Kinnaird J., when the same gentleman was duly exalted as a R.A. Mason. The election was then proceeded with: Comps. G. W. Wheeler Z. (re-elected 3rd time), J. Kinnaird H., W. Gunn J., J. Balfour S.E. (re-elected), T. Youllo S.N., John Bannerman (re-elected 3rd time), Wm. Hoy 1st S., Fred. Jenkinson 2nd S., David Broadfoot 3rd S., Angus Nicholson 1st Captain of the Vails, Wm. Jamieson Janitor. The members of Chapter 50 were then introduced, and Comp. J. Miller Z. said that, in accordance with an invitation from Comp. Wheeler, they had attended to have their Officers installed along with those of 73. Comp. Wheeler expressed the pleasure he felt in being able to meet those friends of Chapter 50, and as Comp. J. Duthie Z. of 67 was present, he would ask him to kindly instal the officers of both Chapters. Comp. Duthie as Z., assisted by Comps. E. C. D. Gilchrist and G. M. Donald, both P.Z.'s of 73, then installed the Comps. above named for 73, and the following as the officers of No. 50, viz.:—Comps. Wm. Bell I.P.M. St. Johns 3½ Z., James Lonttit R.W.M. 413 H., Colin McKenzie J., Morrison S.E. (re-elected), D. Leeds S.N., P. Agnew T. (re-elected), A. Holms 1st S., J. Wright 2nd, J. Barkie 3rd, and R. Gardner Janitor. The Comps. of the two Chapters then adjourned for refreshment, and were presided over by Comp. Wheeler, who, after the usual loyal toasts, proposed the Provincial Grand Chapter of Lanarkshire. Comp. James Balfour 1st P.G.S. replied on behalf of the Provincial Chapter. He then proposed the Oldest Chapter in the Province, highly eulogising the character of her new Z., arguing that from the excellent way in which he had filled the chair of St. John's Lodge, that he would make an equally good Z. Comp. Bell said he was afraid he should often want to come to his friends Balfour and Wheeler for advice and assistance, before he could efficiently fill the chair. The chairman then gave the Cathedral Chapter 67, to which Comp. J. Duthie as Z. replied. Comp. Bell proposed the Chairman; he did not wonder at the prosperity of 73, as it was so well officered. Comp. Wheeler said the success was attributable to his officers rather than to his own efforts. He then gave the Other Newly Elected Officers, which was acknowledged by J. Lonttit H. of 50. The final toast wound up a pleasant meeting.

Robert Burns Chapter, No. 143.—The annual meeting of this flourishing Chapter was held in the Masonic Hall, Holytown, on Saturday, 23rd September. Comp. H. J. Shields 33° Z. presiding, supported by Comps. D. Baker H., A. Laird J., Wm. McMurdo as E., and J. Menzies 1st S. After the election, Comp. Shields, assisted by Comp. McMurdo I.P.Z., proceeded to instal the following Comps: D. Baker Z., J. Nemmo H., R. Reid J., Wm. McMurdo S.E., R. R. McKay S.N., Henry Dyer T., J. Menzies 1st S., Jas. Kesley 2nd, Wm. Lochron 3rd, and J. Mason Janitor.

The Royal Ark Mariners' Lodge in connection with this Chapter was then opened, and Comp. Wm. McMurdo was unanimously chosen as Commander N., with the assistance of Comps. C. Meek and R. McKay. There being no further business, the Lodge was again moored in safety by her new Commander.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—The members met as usual on Wednesday last, at the Masons' Hall Tavern, under the presidency of Bro. W. H. G. Rudderforth, who was assisted by the following members:—Sayer S.W., G. Corner J.W., Staley S.D., Hollands J.D., I. T. Miller I.G., Bone Steward. The W.M. opened the Lodge punctually at 7, and proceeded with the rehearsal of the third degree, combining the traditional history. We have seldom heard the duty performed with greater ability, clearness, or precision. Bro. Croaker acted as candidate. The Lodge was closed down to first, and called off. Upon business being resumed, Bro. Sayer was elected Master for the ensuing week, and promised that the brethren appointed to office should not lose their position on the following Lodge night through their unavoidable absence this evening. The following brethren were also present:—Bros. W. D. Bayley, J. Constable, J. K. Pitt, Turquand, Abell, Biddell, Bone, Ockenden, Bagg, Colmer, Craske, Fenner, Gomm, Smith, Christopher (Tyler).

Star Lodge, No. 219.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Monday, the 25th inst. The R.W.M. Bro. John Morgan, in that excellent way in which he performs all the ceremonies, wrought the 1st and 2nd degrees.

A new Lodge for Polmadie.—At the meeting of the Renfrewshire East Provincial Grand Lodge, on Saturday last, a deputation appeared and presented a petition, numerously signed, asking the sanction of the Lodge to form a new Lodge of Freemasons at Polmadie, near Glasgow. The petition received unanimous support, and was signed in the usual way by the P.G.M., Colonel Campbell.

St. Andrew Royal Arch (Bonhill and Alexandria), No. 321.—PRESENTATION.—The regular quarterly meeting of this Lodge was held on Friday, 22nd inst. The Lodge having been called from labour to refreshment, Bro. J. Stewart, R.W.M., in a neat speech presented Bro. Andrew M'Lintock, Treasurer, with a handsome silver snuff box and a purse of sovereigns. Bro. M'Lintock having feelingly replied, a very enjoyable evening was spent.

Dramatic Lodge, No. 571.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Saturday, the 23rd inst. In the absence, from the city, of the R.W.M., the chair was taken by Bro. Phillips, and two candidates were very carefully initiated.

Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780.—Amongst those of our Lodges which stand foremost in rank as regards the numerical strength of its members, this one holds a conspicuous place. On its roll are brethren who have made their mark in the Masonic world, and its meetings are invariably well attended. Friday, the 22nd inst. was appointed for the installation of the W.M. for the ensuing twelve months, and, as a consequence, a large contingent assembled at the hostelrie of our brother who so ably conducts the "Star and Garter" at Kew Bridge. The chair was occupied by the W.M., Brother Gardiner, who was supported by his officers—Bros. J. Chambers Roe S.W., Cuzner J.W., W. Goss S.D., Smith Treasurer, Hilton Secretary, W. Gomm I.G., Gilbert Tyler. Amongst those present as visitors we may enumerate Bros. W. Steward W.M. 1351, C. J. Livett W.M. elect 1351, R. Walker 382, W. F. Savage 1425, Clench 511, Webb 834, E. Arrowsmith 783, C. Palmer 1503, G. W. Dixon 209, J. T. Craven 342, H. Craven 342, Fras. Williams, A. Warpell 1351, W. W. Morgan 1385, T. W. Clarke 177, H. Parker 34, Simpson P.M. 180, Henry Cole 962, Kellway, Past Provincial Grand Warden Somerset, &c., &c. For an Installation Meeting the agenda paper was a heavy one, and the proceedings of the day commenced with the formal opening of the Lodge, and the reading of the minutes of last meeting, which were duly confirmed. The next business was the raising of Bros. Benjamin E. Blasby and Richard Edward Cundall. Bros. Henry Morris and Ludolph Franckel were then passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. Bro. Past Master Smith then took the chair, and Bro. Chambers Roe was introduced as the W.M. elect. The ceremony of Installation was ably performed, Bro. Smith receiving the congratulations of all present for the perfect way in which he conducted the proceedings. The appointment of officers for the year resulted as follows:—Bros. Cuzner S.W., Goss J.W., Smith Treasurer, Hilton Secretary, C. F. May S.D., Gomm J.D., Darcey I.G., Metcalfe D.C., Gilbert Tyler (elected for the eleventh time). After the several charges had been given, the new W.M. directed that the ballot should be taken for Mr. John Milross, which being unanimous, that gentleman was introduced and initiated into our mysteries. Bro. Roe conducted the ceremony, and gave an earnest that the choice made by the brethren had fallen on one who was competent to fulfil the duties of his office. After the reading of several communications, the W.M. announced that it was his intention to act as a Steward at the next Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and remarked that doubtless some other brethren would intimate their willingness to serve as Stewards for the other Charities. This brought a response from Bro. W. Gardiner, who said he would serve as Steward for the Girls' School, whereupon Bro. P.M. Smith reminded him that he had acted for the Girls at the last Festival, and suggested he should give the Boys a turn. This request was cordially assented to by Bro. Gardiner, and it was carried, on the motion of Bro. Smith, seconded by Bro. P.M. Beasley, that a sum of ten guineas be voted from the funds of the Lodge,—which had been shown by the auditor's report, previously confirmed, to be in an eminently satisfactory condition,—to each of these Institutions, the amounts to be placed on the respective Stewards' Lists. Ten guineas were also voted for the Girls School, for which Institution the Lodge will nominate a Steward, according to its annual custom. A candidate for initiation at the next meeting was then proposed, and the Lodge afterwards closed. After a brief adjournment a capital banquet was served, every detail reflecting the greatest credit upon Bro. J. H. Stanbury and his staff of assistants. After ample justice had been done by all present, the cloth was removed, and Bro. Chambers Roe, who presided, proceeded with the toasts. The health of Her Majesty was enthusiastically received, and in speaking to that of the M.W. the G.M., Bro. Roe said that the Prince, it was well known, was proud of his connection with the Craft, and sincerely had the welfare of the Fraternity at heart. The health of the Pro Grand Master was given, followed by that of the Deputy Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers, past and present. With this was coupled the name of Bro. Smith P.M., who, in replying, congratulated the W.M. on his obtaining the exalted position he held that evening, which he (Bro. Smith) said must be exceedingly gratifying. Bro. Gardiner I.P.M. proposed the health of the new Master. He was sure that all the brethren could wish or anticipate would be fulfilled by the brother they had selected, who possessed the much-to-be-desired qualification of good temper, coupled with firmness and decision of character. Bro. Chambers Roe thanked Bro. Gardiner and the members of the Lodge for the kind expression of feeling displayed. He would always endeavour to do his duty fairly and fearlessly; by a conscientious discharge of the trust reposed in him, he trusted his efforts would meet with the approval of the brethren. The next toast was the Initiate, the Chairman remarking that though the Royal Alfred was a large Lodge, it was necessary that new blood should be introduced from time to time. He was sure, in Bro. Milross, they had a brother who would be a credit to them. Bro. Milross briefly replied. Bro. P.M. Beasley here favoured the company with "Believe me if all those endearing young charms," which he sang in a pleasing and effective manner. The Prov. Grand Officers, next given, was responded to by Bro. G. W. Dixon (Berks and Bucks) and by Bro. Craven (Province of Hampshire). The W.M. gave the P.M.'s, and presented, on behalf of the Lodge, a jewel to Bro. W. Gardiner I.P.M., who, in the course of his remarks acknowledging the same, said it would always be gratifying to his family to know that he had met with so substantial an acknowledgment from the brethren, and concluded by a reference to his successor, who he was proud to see so cordially welcomed. "The Officers," brought forth a reply from Bro. Cuzner, who thanked Bro. Roe for the confidence he had displayed in placing him in the chair he had the honour to fill. Before closing our remarks, we may say a word for Bro. Stanbury. The dinner and dessert he provided (though charged at a price small by comparison with that of many establishments we could mention) was admirably served, and when we say that not a "grumble" was to be heard from the large assembly, we feel justified in paying him this small compliment. A call for the Tyler concluded a most pleasant evening's proceedings.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—Held at Bro. Allen's, "Royal Edward," Triangle, Hackney. The weekly meeting of the above Lodge was held on Tuesday, 29th September. Bros. Wallington W.M., W. J. Smith S.W., Brown 1227 J.W., Perrin S.D., Worsley J.D., Dallas I.G., Worsley Secretary; P.M. Bro. Horsley (Preceptor); also Bros. Christian, Hogarth, Foliot, Skelton, Morgan, Barker, Brown 1607, Perry, &c. The minutes of the last Lodge meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of raising was impressively rehearsed, Bro. Brown, S.W. of Lodge 1607, acting as candidate. Bro. Horsley worked the 1st and 3rd Sections of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was closed down to the 1st. Bro. Morgan announced that he had seen a proof section of Bro. Harty's Installation Picture, and reminded the brethren that if they, or any of their friends, were present at the Albert Hall, and had not yet forwarded their photographs, the time for receiving the same was becoming very short. Bro. Morgan further explained the arrangement made by Bro. Harty with Bro. Haigh, whereby the latter brother would take (free of charge) the portraits of those who were entitled to be represented in this great Historical Engraving. In concluding his remarks, Bro. Morgan complimented the members of this Lodge of Instruction on the dignified way in which their proceedings were conducted. Bro. W. J. Smith was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation, all Masonic business being ended, the Lodge closed in perfect harmony. We would remind our readers that this excellent Lodge of Instruction will work the 15 Sections on Tuesday, 24th October, on which occasion it is anticipated there will be a good attendance.

Royal Oak Lodge, No. 871.—An emergency meeting was held on Thursday, the 21st, at the White Hart Hotel, 217 High Street, Deptford. Present—Bros. H. J. Tuson W.M., J. J. Pakes S.W., F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex P.M. Secretary, G. Andrews, P.M., D.C., H. J. Fisher Organist, J. G. Vohmann I.G., H. W. F. Fellows, F. H. Burr, W. O. Lochhead, W. Simmonds, E. James, R. Mason, W. H. Truelove, J. G. Thomas, W. Abbott, W. White, A. Macers. G. Eve, L. Michaels, &c. The Lodge was opened, and Bros. W. White, L. Michaels, and W. Abbott were passed to the second degree. Messrs. Gustav Wildermuth, J. Buchele and Joel Davis were balloted for and duly initiated into Freemasonry. Bro. G. Andrews P.M. gave the Lecture on the tracing board in the second degree, also the ancient charge in the first degree, which was listened to with great attention. There being no other business, the Lodge was closed until the hour of 5 on Thursday, the 26th of October. There being no banquet or refreshment the brethren separated. Among the Visitors were Bros. G. H. Kitson 548, D. Smith 1326, &c.

Clapton Lodge, No. 1365.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, the 21st instant, at the White Hart Hotel, Clapton. Bro. R. Wyatt W.M. in the chair, supported by Bros. W. Stephens P.M as S.W., G. Soper J.W., and a very numerous attendance of brethren and visitors. The Lodge was opened, and after the confirmation of the minutes of the election meeting were confirmed. A board of Installed Masters was formed, Bro. G. Soper J.W. and W.M. elect was presented to the Lodge, and duly installed into the chair by the retiring W.M., Bro. Wyatt, who very perfectly and impressively rendered the ceremony. The newly installed W.M. invested his Officers, J. Badkin S.W., T. Cozens J.W., J. Sims S.D., McMillan J.D., Finch I.G., Miles Treasurer, and Lutwyche Secretary. After some business, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet, provided by the worthy host. The W.M. gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, these were enthusiastically received. The toast of the W.M. was eloquently responded to. With the health of the P.M. was coupled the name of Bro. Wyatt I.P.M., who was complimented on his discharge of the duties of the chair, and presented, in the name of the Lodge, with a very elegant Past Master's Jewel. The toast of the Masonic Charities found an able exponent in Bro. W. Stephens P.M. The toast of the Visitors was responded to by each one present. The Tyler's brought the meeting to a close. The visitors were Bros. Vine P.M. 173, Murlis W.M. 1469, Somers W.M. 1602, Cusworth S.W. 813, Hobbs S.W. 749, Felton S.W. 1613, H. J. Felton 1056, Herold 1056, Cochrane 1056, Papineau 9, Withers 299, Verdon 188, Allen 733, Keart 813, Green 861, Perrin 765, Glaskin 569 and 1469, Humphreys 1364, Hawthorn 1469, Collier 1314, &c.

Duke of Connaught Lodge of Instruction, No. 1524.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Wednesday, the 27th September, at the Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston. Bros. Henry Meyer W.M., Hill S.W., Dignam J.W., Robinson S.D., Brown J.D., O. Dietrich I.G. Bros. Fieldwick Preceptor; Gilchrist, J. B. Shackleton, E. Dietrich, Hewlett, Baber, Ferrar and Marsh. The Lodge was opened with solemn prayer, minutes were confirmed, initiation ceremony rehearsed, Bro. Baber as candidate. Lodge opened in the second degree, and Bro. E. Dietrich answered the usual questions. The Lodge was resumed to the first degree. The 1st and 2nd sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Hewlett, assisted by the brethren. A brother hailing from St. Davids in the East, Calcutta (371), Scotch Constitution, applied to the Lodge for assistance, and was relieved. The 3rd and 4th sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Gilchrist, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Hill was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Nothing else offering the Lodge was closed, and adjourned to Wednesday next at 8 p.m.

Chaucer Lodge, No. 1540.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on the 22nd inst., at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Bros. T. J. Sabine P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex W.M., J. C. Mason S.W. and W.M. elect, E. S. Stidolph J.W., Rev. H. J. Hatch Chaplain, F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex P.M. Secretary, G. H. Wright as S.D., C. W. Hudson J.D., H. Faija C.E. I.G., A. J. Hawkes D.C.; C. J. Sparks, W. Klinkenstein, C. Graham, H. Levy, H. Blackwell, R. J. Harrison, R. H. Willats, &c. The Lodge was opened, and Bro. G. Newman was raised to the 3rd degree. Bros. Paul Levy, W. M. Phillips, T. Harding and C. Winstanley were passed. Bro. T. J. H. Wilkins P.M., by the courtesy of the W.M., initiated his two friends, Messrs. C. S. Hodges and W. Carter, into the Order. The work throughout was excellently rendered. Pursuant to a notice of motion given by Bro. T. J. H. Wilkins, the sum of twenty guineas was unanimously voted to Bro. T. J. Sabine, in recognition of his valuable services as the 1st W.M. and one of the founders, and it is expected this amount will be augmented by the brethren. The Lodge was then closed until the 21st October. The visitors were Bros. L. Van Boolen, L. Beck S.D. 1559, L. Alexander P.M. 188, C. H. McKay 97, W. Burmeister, Brady 20, W. Downing P.M., J. Blum W.M. 1017, E. G. Rushworth W.M. 1309, W. T. Lover W.M. elect 1178, and others.

Great City Lodge of Instruction.—The members of this important Lodge met at 111 Cheapside, on Thursday, the 28th inst., at 6.30 p.m. The Lodge having been opened, a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Seex, W.M. elect of "The Great City Lodge," proceeded with the ceremony of installation, and inducted Bro. James Stevens P.M. 1426 into the chair of K.S. It need hardly be stated that Bro. Seex performed his difficult task with great ability, and in a manner alike creditable to himself and to the distinguished Lodge over which he is called to reign during the next 12 months. Bro. Stevens then invested his officers:—Bros. S. Browne S.W., A. Goodman J.W., W. Parker S.D., W. H. C. Wiltshire J.D., J. K. Pitt I.G., J. W. Colmer Treasurer. In accordance with previous announcement, Bro. Stevens gave a complete explanation of the tracing board of the first degree, to the great edification and delight of the brethren present. On the motion of Bro. Taylor, W.M. of the Doric, No. 933, a cordial vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Seex. Bro. Seex, in response, said he felt he had been highly honoured in having been called upon to work the ceremony he had performed in such an important Lodge as this. A vote of thanks to Bro. Stevens, proposed by Bro. Poore Preceptor, and seconded by Bro. Colmer Treasurer, was carried with acclamation. Bro. Stevens, in reply, said he considered it a duty to impart what knowledge he possessed, and in doing so it always afforded him the greatest pleasure. No greater compliment could be paid to him at any time by members of the Craft than by requesting his services. Bro. Taylor, W.M. 933, was elected a joining member. We noticed the following brethren present—Bros. Constable, Blackie, W. W. Morgan jun., Noehmer, McMurray, &c.

Duke of Connaught Lodge, No. 1524.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, at the "Sisters'" Tavern, Pownall-road, Haggerston, Bro. Thomas Charles Chapman P.G.S. Herts, W.M., presiding. There were present Bros. Henry Meyer acting S.W., J. B. Shackleton J.W., Bernard Meyer Treasurer, W. H. Lee P.M. Secretary, James Symes S.D., Neville Green J.D., W. H. Brand I.G., and Gilchrist Tyler. The appearance of the Lodge, which was draped in black, out of respect to the late Bros. Lister and Alford, caused a sense of gloom to prevail among all present. The business of the evening included a ballot for Bro. J. L. Payne, joining member,—elected; the raising of Bro. Dietrich, the passing of Bro. Lorkin, and the election and initiation of Messrs. Rudolf Polak, James Hill, Geo. Alfred McGregor Stevenson, and John Stokes. The several ceremonies were very carefully performed. Towards the end the W.M. displayed a little nervousness, not, however, to be attributed to any want of skill or ability, but to the presence of one or more shining lights in Masonry. Bro. Lee then formally announced the death of Bros. Lister S.W. and Alford. The former was initiated in the Gresham Lodge, and had taken a very prominent part in the establishment of a Lodge of Instruction, now known as the Duke of Connaught, from which this Lodge originated. Brother Lister had filled the office of J.W., and was present in his place as S.W. at the last meeting. By his death the Lodge had lost one of its best and most active members, and his widow and children are now deploring the loss of a kind husband and father. Bro. Lee accordingly moved a resolution of condolence with the late Bro. Lister's family. Bro. J. B. Shackleton most warmly seconded the same, while Bro. Chapman added his tribute of regret at the death of so valuable a member, who had always been distinguished for his honourable and straightforward conduct. Bro. Symes then expressed his sorrow for the lamented death of Bro. Alford, and moved a similar resolution of condolence with his sorrowing relatives, the duty being especially painful to him from long association with the deceased brother, to whose merits he felt himself quite inadequate to do justice. Bro. Johnson, in seconding this resolution, said that all who had been associated in business with Bro. Alford had looked upon him as a man of the most punctilious honour. It is needless to add that the resolutions were passed nem con. The death of the S.W. necessitated, of course, a fresh election, the result being that Bro. Shackleton was appointed S.W., and the Officers in rotation advanced a step, Bro. Symes becoming J.W., Bro. Green S.D., and Bro. Brand J.D., while Bro. Meyer was appointed I.G., and Bro. Johnson D.C. The Lodge was then closed, and the usual repast followed. On the removal of the cloth, the regular toasts were given, and very enthusiastically received. The health of the W.M. was proposed by Bro. Lee. That of the Visitors was suitably acknowledged. The Tyler's toast closed a very pleasant evening, in perfect harmony. Among the visitors present were Bros. Pinder W.M. 15, G. C. Young 820, Oscar Dietrich (from a Geneva Lodge), W. E. Gompertz P.M. 869, and W. W. Morgan 1385.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

OCTOBER ELECTION, 1876.

The favour of the Votes and Interest of the Governors and Subscribers is earnestly solicited on behalf of

EDWIN HAIR,

AGED 8 YEARS AND 9 MONTHS,

SON of the late Bro. JOHN ATKINSON HAIR, Newcastle-on-Tyne, who died very suddenly, 24th June 1875, of heart disease, age 39 years; leaving a widow, one daughter, and two sons entirely dependent on the kindness of an old and warmly attached Masonic friend, the Petitioner, Bro. George Thompson.

Bro. John A. Hair was initiated in the St. Peter's Lodge, No. 481, Newcastle, in 1863, and was twice elected the Worshipful Master of that Lodge, to which he continued to be a subscribing member, as well as to three other Lodges of the Province, until the time of his death; he was also P.P.G.J.W. of Northumberland.

He was exalted in the St. Peter's Chapter, and in due time was elected First Principal thereof. He was also a member in the Royal Kent Encampment of Knight Templars, W.M. of the Northumberland and Berwick Lodge of Mark Masters, and P.P.G.S.D. of M.M.

The case is strongly recommended by the following brethren, any of whom will be glad to receive Proxies:

The Rt. Hon. EARL PERCY, R.W. Prov. G.M. Northumberland, Alnwick Castle, Northumberland.

THE ELECTION TO THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

AS on previous occasions we purpose analysing the list of candidates at the approaching election to be held on Saturday next, it is almost needless to say that in the remarks we purpose making we shall observe the rule of strict impartiality. Our business is to endeavour to secure that the worthiest candidates are elected. We note that there are thirty-six candidates, the number of vacancies being eight. In other words, the ratio of candidates to vacancies is as four and a half to one. We may fairly remark here by the way that the further extension of the School, already determined upon, is, under these circumstances, a matter of paramount necessity. But to return to our figures. Of the thirty-six rival applicants, nineteen have stood the ordeal of ballot on previous occasions; seventeen now apply for the first time. Of the former two are applicants for the fourth, two for the third, and fifteen for the second time. No. 1 on the list brings forward 330 votes to the good, No. 2 brings forward ninety-three, No. 3 179, and No. 4 twenty-seven. The fifteen other candidates bring forward votes varying between 454 and two. As to the locality whence they severally hail, fifteen are from London, eight for the second, seven for the first time; Devonshire sends up two, both for the fourth time of asking; Lincolnshire four, one for the third, two for the second, and one for the first time; Lancashire W. sends up a single candidate, and so do Hants and Isle of Wight, Wilts, Kent and Staffordshire, for the second time; as well as Somerset, Suffolk, Calcutta, Cawnpore, Lancashire E., Cumberland and Westmoreland, and Berks and Bucks, for the first time; while West Yorkshire brings up the rear with two new candidates. Of the fathers of the candidates, he of No. 23 was P.M. of No. 376, P.P.G.D. of Suffolk, 22½ years a subscribing member, and was a subscribing member and Steward to the Girls' Institution. The father of No. 13 was P.M. of No. 185 and P.G. Steward, a subscribing member 15 years, and Steward and Life Governor to both the Girls' School and the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. No. 4's father was J. D. of No. 925, a subscribing member for "2½ years, until death," and subscribed to, or was Steward for the Girls'. No. 7's father was P.M. No. 362, and P.P.G.D.C. Lincolnshire, subscribed for eight years, and was an annual subscriber to the Girls'. The father of No. 34 was S.W. of No. 173, a subscribing member for "four and a half years, until death," and Steward to the R.M.B.I. None of the fathers of the remaining candidates appear to have rendered any direct assistance to our several charities. As regards "parents living," four have both, two neither; twenty-nine are fatherless, and one motherless. Again, one candidate has a sister in the School, a second two sisters, a third a brother in the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, a fourth a sister in the School by purchase, and a fifth has already had two sisters in (of whom one was by purchase), while there is yet a third at present receiving the benefits of the Institution. Our hope is, in the first place, that the most deserving candidates may find themselves at the head of the poll; our next, that at future elections so large a proportion of candidates may not be set aside for want of room. Eleven out of forty-three were elected in the spring, and the ten next highest on the list were received into the School in July. Yet, in spite of this, no less than twenty-eight candidates must be excluded on the present occasion. We sincerely trust the ability of this Institution to accommodate pupils may in future be more in accordance with the number seeking admission.

THE ELECTION TO THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

ON Monday, the 16th inst., a Quarterly General Court of the Governors and Subscribers to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys will be held, when the regular business of the Court having been concluded, the election of twelve out of an approved list of fifty-seven candidates will be proceeded with; the ballot commencing at 1 p.m., and closing at 3 p.m. It will be seen, as in the case of the Girls' School, that the candidates and vacancies are very unequal in point of numbers, the proportion of the former to the latter being as 4¾ to 1, or rather worse than in the Girls' case. Moreover, the names of three others have been removed in accordance with Law 52, restricting the age of candidates to 11 years, and four others have been withdrawn, two at the request of their friends, and two as having been admitted into the School by purchase. But for these withdrawals the list would have included sixty-four names instead of fifty-seven. Of this latter number, thirty-four have presented themselves as candidates at previous elections, one having already stood unsuccessfully five ballots, three four ballots, seven three, twelve two, and eleven one, the remaining twenty-three being candidates for the first time on this occasion. Five of the fifty-seven have both parents living, but the father of one is paralysed; four have lost both, three are motherless, in one case the father being paralysed, while forty-five are fatherless, one of these being, indeed, virtually parentless, as his mother is confined in a lunatic asylum. Several of the fathers had attained high rank in the Craft; among others, the father of No. 21 being set down as "Secretary and Founder, Falcon Lodge;" of No. 23, as one of the Founders of Lodge No. 1072;" of No. 24, as "P. Prov. G.D., P.M. and P.Z.;" of No. 26, as "P.M. and P.Z., one of the Founders of Lodge 1155, and of South Eastern Masonic Charitable Association;" of No. 28, as "P.P.G. Treasurer, P.M., & Founder of 792 and 1294;" of No. 30, as "I.G. 861, P.M. 1366, W.M. 1501;" of No. 37, as "P.M., P.G.S. of Wks. Somerset, Founder of 1197;" of No. 38, as "W.M., Founder of 1471;" of No. 43, as "P.M., Treasurer and Secretary;" of No. 49, as "P.M., P.P.G.W. N.Wales;" of No. 50, as "P.M., P.G.J.W. Northumberland;" and of No. 56, as "Sec. P.G.D.S. Dorset." Among those who subscribed to, or were Stewards for one or more of our Charitable Institutions, we find the father of No. 6, who is set down, we presume, as Steward to the R.M.I.G., and as "occasional subscriber to the R.M.I.B. and L.S.R.M.I.G." The father of No. 18 was a "L.S.R.M.I.B.;" of No. 24, "occasional subscriber to R.M.I.G. and R.M.I.B.;" of No. 25, "continuous subscriber to R.M.I.B. for 12 years," out of the twenty-two and a half years he was a subscribing member. No. 26's father was "Steward R.M.B.I., L.G., and an annual subscriber, occasional subscriber to R.M.I.G., and Life Gov. of R.M.I.B." No. 29's father was an "occasional subscriber to the R.M.I.B.;" and No. 30's was "three times Steward for the R.M.B.I. and L.G., Steward for R.M.I.G. and L.G., Serving Steward for R.M.I.B. at time of death." The father of No. 36 is set down as "Steward and L.G.R.M.I.G." No. 38's as "Steward and L.G.R.M.I.B.," the "Petitioner also as L.G.R.M.I.B.;" No. 43's "presented a Life Vote to Limestone Rock Lodge 1870;" No. 55's was serving office of "Steward at time of death, both for Boys' and Girls' Schools;" and No. 57's for the "R.M.B.I." Thus the fathers of twelve out of the fifty-seven candidates were supporters of one or other of our Charities. Again, one of the candidates has a brother in the School, and one a sister in the R.M.I.G. As to the Masonic districts whence they hail, London is down for twenty-one candidates, Devon, Warwick, Lincoln, and E. Lancashire for three each, N. Wales and Salop, S. Wales, Essex, and N. and E. Yorkshire for two each; while E. Indies, Middlesex, Cambridge, Durham, Westmoreland, Hants and Isle of Wight, Norfolk, Cheshire, Staffordshire, Monmouthshire, Derbyshire, Bengal, Sussex, Northumberland, Bristol, and Dorsetshire, furnish one each. As regards "votes brought forward," No. 1 on the list, with five previous trials, has only 191 to the good; Nos. 2, 3, and 4, who have already stood four times, have 765, 378, and 360 respectively. Of the remaining 30, No. 34 has 1,247, No. 15 1,073, No. 14 1009, No. 21 819, No. 31 802, No. 25 763; while No. 11 has exactly 11 from three previous ballots, No. 16 has 17 from two, No. 22 two from two ballots, and No. 33 one from one ballot.

We have thus analysed the list with the view of placing before our readers the chief points of interest which it is at all likely they may be anxious to know. As to the approaching election, it is certain that only twelve of the fifty-seven can win a vacancy; and our hope is, that the twelve winners will be in all respects the most eligible, and prove an honour to the School. The other forty-five must remain out in the cold, and the majority of them for at least another six months, and many for even a longer period still. This being so, it is evident our Boys' School is not nearly equal, as regards accommodation, to the many heavy demands made upon its resources.

WASHINGTON'S MASONIC CAREER.

WE are indebted to the Keystone for the following particulars respecting the Masonic life of this eminent man, Bro. G. H. Ramey being the writer of the article from which they are taken. There seem to be rival claims respecting the maternity of Washington as a Mason. The records of Lodge No. 4, Fredericksburg, which held its warrant under Grand Lodge of England, contain the following:—

"1752. Nov. 6th Received of Mr. George Washington, for his entrance, £2 3s."

"1753. March 3d. George Washington passed Fellow Craft."

"4th August 5753, which day the Lodge being assembled; present R.: W.: Daniel Campbell, &c. Transactions of the evening are—George Washington raised Master Mason."

On the other hand the English claim that he was made a Mason in a military Lodge, No. 227, which worked in America during the French war. Bro. Ramey says it is supposed that when Washington was on a visit to Philadelphia in 1756, in order to enable him to visit the military Lodges in that city, "he may have been 'healed' or re-made for that purpose." During the War of Independence, Washington evinced great interest in the military Lodges attached to the American army, and it is said that on one occasion he sat in a Lodge presided over by a sergeant. On St. John the Evangelist's day, 1776, he took part in the festivities which the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania held, and was honoured with the chief place in the procession. On 6th October 1779, the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts granted a warrant to a new military Lodge which was named in his honour, the "Washington Lodge." The same year he was unanimously chosen by the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania to be Grand Master of the proposed Supreme Grand Lodge of the United States. Other Grand Lodges concurred, but as no such Grand Lodge ever came into being, the election was only a further testimony of the respect and affection in which Washington was held by the Craft. In 1781 he was presented with a beautiful sash and apron, manufactured at Nantes, and these relics are held by the Alexandria Washington Lodge, No. 221 on the roll of the Grand Lodge of Virginia, of which he was the first W.M. as a Virginian Lodge. In 1784 he joined his brethren of the Alexandria Lodge—which, by the way, was at the time No. 39 on the roll of Pennsylvania—in celebrating St. John the Baptist's day. The same year he was visited by General de la Fayette, who presented to him an apron, most elegantly worked by the fair hands of Madame de la Fayette. This relic is now in the possession of the Grand Lodge of the country. On the 18th September, when a second time President of the United States, Washington laid the corner-stone of the Capital in the city named after him, with full Masonic ceremonial. It may likewise be mentioned that among the numerous presents he received was a sword given by Frederick the Great of Prussia, himself the foremost Mason in that country. The illustrious hero died, after a brief illness, on 14th December 1799, at his seat, Mount Vernon, State of Virginia, and in the funeral rites accorded, the Freemasons of the United States were foremost in showing the depth and sincerity of the affection they bore him.

Almost at the moment of writing the above, Part V. of the History of the New York Grand Lodge has reached us, and from it we extract a few additional particulars as to the conduct of Masonry on this sad occasion. On the 23rd December of the year, 1799, an extra meeting of the G.L. of New York was called, for the purpose of testifying to the love and respect in which Washington was held. A resolution was passed to the effect that all the Lodges in the State should wear mourning for the space of six months, that a memorial in his honour be erected in the hall of Grand Lodge, and that a committee be appointed to take part with other committees in preparing some public testimonial of his public and private worth. On the 30th of the same month a second extra meeting of the same Grand Lodge was held, for the purpose of holding a funeral procession to his memory. The Knights Templar, ten Lodges, and Grand Lodge took part in this ceremonial, the most prominent figure in the line of march being W. Bro. Cadwallader D. Colden, bearing in his hand a short standard, with white pendant trimmed with black, on which was written—and expressing also the figure of an hour-glass run out, and a sickle."

"BROTHER WASHINGTON,

THE GREAT, THE WISE, THE VIRTUOUS,

Such is only one instance of the respect shown to the illustrious deceased. In thus honouring its most illustrious member, Freemasonry did honour to itself.

COLOURED MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES.

By Bro. Jacob Norton.

IN 1868 the Coloured Masons of Massachusetts petitioned the White Grand Lodge for recognition. Similar petitions had been presented previously, when, according to American fashion, somebody moved to lay the petition on the table; it was laid on the table accordingly, and the subject was thus disposed of without discussion. But, in the above-named year, P.G.M. John T. Heard presented the petition, and moved that it be referred to a committee, which was done accordingly. Bro. Heard, no doubt, meant well; but, from the proclivity of the managers of the G.L., no one doubted that it would turn out a mere farce.

The late C. W. Moore then wrote a letter to Bro. Harvey, G.S. of England, inquiring as to when the African Lodge of Boston was stricken off from the English register? Also as to whether Bro. Harvey considered the African Lodge a legitimate Masonic body? Bro. Harvey replied that the said Lodge had been erased from the English list in 1813, and that he did not think the Lodge was legitimate. But immediately after the answer was mailed, Bro. Harvey wrote again to Bro. Moore, stating that he recalled his opinion about the illegality of the African Lodge, and, providing the said Lodge had kept up its meetings regularly, the Lodge did not lose its legal status.

In 1869 I conversed with Bro. Harvey upon the subject, when he told me that the African Lodge was erased from the English register; at the same time that all other American Lodges were erased, and for the same reason; and he also said that, upon reflection, he could not see any difference between the legality of the white and coloured American Lodges—they were either both legal or illegal.

In order to make the question intelligible, I must remind the reader that obedience to the laws of the G.L. is strictly enjoined at every Masonic step, from the initiation to the installation of a W.M. and of a Prov. G.M. As the Constitutions never provided for a legal secession from the jurisdiction of the G.L., secession seems, therefore, to be the highest kind of disobedience; indeed, it is tantamount to rebellion. But yet the history of Masonry since 1717 furnishes many instances of secession, which, nevertheless, did not always impair the Masonic status of the seceders. The French Masons were the first to secede from the Grand Lodge of England's jurisdiction. But when the G.L. of France desired to be on good terms with that of England, the latter at once cheerfully acceded. Two secessions took place in London in the last century—viz., the Ancients and the Lodge of Antiquity: the latter apologised, and was reinstated; but the former continued independent, and was acknowledged as such by the Grand Lodges of Scotland and Ireland, and at the Union in 1813, the Grand Lodge of England itself tacitly acknowledged the Grand Lodge of the Ancients' previous legality. Kilwinning Lodge also seceded, and chartered Lodges in Scotland; and the Grand Lodge of Scotland, after making certain concessions to the said Kilwinning Lodge, received its Lodges and itself within the fold of the G.L. Within thirty years the State of New York had three Grand Lodges for a number of years in succession; each G.L. denounced the others as clandestine; yet, when unions were successively effected between them, each acknowledged the other's previous legality. And last, and not least, we all know that there are at present three Grand Lodges in Prussia, exercising co-ordinate jurisdiction, and between whom perfect harmony exists. From the above facts, we must come to the conclusion that, however desirable unity of jurisdiction may be according to our notions, yet, under certain circumstances, two or more Grand Lodges can exercise co-ordinate jurisdiction without impairing each other's legality, and that exclusive jurisdiction is not absolutely essential to Masonic government or Masonic harmony.

Before I proceed further it is necessary to give an outline of the history of Masonry in Massachusetts. Briefly then, in 1733, a London tailor, by the name of Henry Price, came to Boston, and pretended to hold a Provincial Grand Master's Deputation for New England, from Viscount Montague, G.M. of England, and by virtue of which he organised here a Lodge. In 1734 he pretended to have received, from Lord Crawford, then G.M. of England, an extension of his powers, making him (Price) P.G.M. of all America. The Boston Lodge was made known in England in 1735 or 1736, and in December 1736, Robert Tomlinson was appointed P.G.M. of New England and its territories. That Henry Price's Grand Mastership was a fraud I have proved elsewhere; but let us see how Tomlinson acted. His Deputation required him "to send annually an account in writing of the number of Lodges constituted, with the names of the several members of each particular, together also with two guineas from every particular Lodge so to be constituted." Tomlinson constituted a Lodge in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, in 1738; but he never informed the G.L. of England thereof, and of course did not send the two guineas.

Tomlinson died in 1742, and in 1743 Thomas Oxnard was appointed P.G.M. by Lord Ward; his Deputation enjoined to hold quarterly communications of his P.G.L., to make annual returns to England, and to pay two guineas and a half for every new Lodge chartered by him; he chartered several Lodges, among which two new Lodges were constituted in 1750 in Boston; but no quarterly meetings were held before 1750, and no communication was made to the G.L. of England about the new chartered Lodges.

Oxnard died in 1754. The Boston Brethren petition the English authorities to appoint Bro. Jeremy Gridley P.G.M. of America. With the petition they sent a list of twelve Lodges chartered by the Boston P.G.L. between 1734 and 1754. I must here add that five out of the twelve Lodges, the Boston G.L. never chartered; while the two Boston Lodges constituted in 1750, were omitted from the said list. But the joke is, while they send no guineas for the constitution of the said Lodges, they craved precedency, "and that in order thereunto, our G.M. elect may in his Deputation be styled G.M. of all North America." The G.L. of England, however, appointed the said Bro. Gridley as requested; but it is evident that the English Grand Secretary demanded at the same time pay for the Lodges constituted as per list. Gridley's Deputation demanded three guineas for every Lodge he constituted. But Bro. Gridley never sent to the English authorities a solitary shilling either for old or new Lodges constituted by himself.

Gridley died in 1767, and in the following year the Boston Brethren petitioned the English authorities to appoint Bro. John Rowe P.G.M. This time they did not send their list of Lodges; but as the petition was taken to England by a Bostonian Brother, it was agreed, that if by paying fifteen guineas on account to the G.L. of England, the desired Deputation could be procured; that Bro. Jackson, the messenger, should pay that amount. But Bro. Jackson did better than he was instructed; he paid but eight guineas, for which four American Lodges were registered in England. Bro. Rowe afterwards constituted two or three more Lodges, but never paid a cent. to the G.L. of England. Altogether, the Boston records claim that about forty Lodges were constituted by the Boston P.G.L. between 1733 and 1755, and out of all these the G.L. of England received pay for only five. In 1775 the Boston Provincial G.L. held its last meeting. Bro. John Rowe died in 1787. His Masonic associates attended his funeral, and afterwards passed the usual resolutions. It was also decided to reorganize the G.L., but nothing was done until 1790. Then they held a meeting, "the R.W. John Cutler, S.G.W., presiding," and for the first time they assumed the name of "St. John's G.L.," though they had no G.M.

Here we must leave the so-called St. John's G.L., and take up the history of another Boston Masonic organization of the last century.

In 1752, six Clandestines started a Lodge in Boston and made Masons. It is claimed that they were Ancients, but I never found the authority for that claim. They did not even apply to the Ancients for a charter, but in 1756 the G.M. of Scotland granted them a warrant as "St. Andrew's Lodge." The charter did not, however, arrive before 1760; but yet initiations, &c., were continued by the Lodge previous to 1760. Efforts were then made by the St. Andrew's Brethren to visit the Lodges of English origin in Boston, but admission was refused to them on account of being clandestine. Committees were then appointed by both parties, and the usual quibbles about "Masonic jurisprudence" and ancient landmarks" were learnedly discussed, but without result.

In 1769, Dr. Joseph Warren, of St. Andrew's Lodge, received from Scotland the appointment of P.G.M.; he afterwards constituted three new Lodges—viz., one Lodge in Boston, and two in other towns. In 1775 G.M. Warren was slain at the battle of Bunker Hill. Bro. W. S. Gardner, P.G.M., of Massachusetts, conclusively demonstrated that with the death of a Provincial Grand Master, the Provincial Grand Lodge ceased to exist, and it was so understood and believed by the survivors of G.M. Warren.

In 1777 eleven Brethren belonging to the Scotch party met in Boston, and organised an independent Grand Lodge, and there and then granted a charter for a new Lodge; not a solitary officer of either of the then existing Lodges was present at the said meeting. True, the W.M. of St. Peter's Lodge, Newburyport, was there; but the Lodge lost its charter at the time of the revolution, and it did not receive a new charter before 1794, and even then the Lodge did not long survive its resuscitation. Such was the origin of the famous Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, about which our American Masonic jurisprudence-mongers have raised a cry of "virtuous indignation" against the Grand Lodge of England, that by granting the African Lodge charter in 1784 it invaded the sacred soil of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts. I must here add that St. Andrew's Lodge did not acknowledge the so-called Grand Lodge of Massachusetts until 1809.

I left off the history of the so-called "St. John's Grand Lodge" at the period of 1790. The precise number of Lodges under its jurisdiction I cannot at present ascertain. Of the five Lodges registered in England in 1736 and in 1768, three of these were located in Rhode Island and in Connecticut. The Boston Lodge of 1750 was dead, and even the first Boston Lodge of 1733 seems to have been dormant for some years, but it was revived in 1784. Bro. Moore says that at the meeting in 1787 above referred to, a committee was appointed "to write a circular letter to all the Lodges under the jurisdiction, requiring their attendance at the Grand Lodge, to assist in choosing grand officers. It does not appear, however, that any such meeting was convened until July 29, 1790."

It is my opinion, however, that as most of the Lodges chartered by the Prov. G.L. in Boston were outside of Massachusetts, they, therefore, paid no attention to the circular, if they received any. Indeed, these outside Lodges were never represented at all in the Boston G.L., and as to their Lodges in Massachusetts, I doubt very much whether the St. John's party had any Lodges in Massachusetts. St. John's Lodge, Boston, was, as I said before, resuscitated in 1784; and I doubt very much whether its three other Lodges in country towns, chartered by the Colonial G.L. before the war, were in active existence either in 1787 or 1790. The St. John's G.L., however, held several meetings between 1790 and 1792, when an arrangement was made between the two so-called Grand Lodges for a union. Then the St. Johnns' elected a G.M., and I believe that not a solitary officer of its Lodges was present; and then, after a little mutual admiration, a conference of both parties unitedly elected a Grand Master. And here again we see that two independent Grand Lodges acknowledged each other as equally legal and true blue. But of all these doings the Grand Lodge of England knew just as much as it did about the "man in the moon," so much so that the Masonic Calendar in London continued to print, until 1804, the name of Henry Price as P.G.M. of America.

I now come to the origin of "Coloured Masonry" in the U.S. In 1775, an army Lodge in Boston initiated Prince Hall and fourteen other coloured men. It is said that these applied to the G.L. of Massachusetts of 1777 for a charter, which was refused. In 1784, however, the G.M. of England granted them a charter under the name of "The African Lodge;" the charter did not reach Boston before 1787. The fact, however, of the charter having been so granted was well known to the white Boston Masons, but not a protest or word of complaint was sent by them to England. Prince Hall carried on a correspondence with Bro. White, G.S. of England certainly, until 1791, and letters may have passed between them even afterwards. Upon several occasions Bro. Hall sent a guinea or more to the charity fund of the G.L. of England, a generosity never displayed by the Provincial White G.L. of Boston. In 1807 Prince Hall died, and his successors neglected to report themselves to the English Grand Secretary. In 1824 the officers of the African Lodge wanted to procure a charter for Royal Arch Masonry, and as our American R.A. consists of four degrees, they requested the charter for four degrees. To this letter (though it contained a promise to pay up arrears if any were due) no answer was returned. In 1826 the African Lodge, in imitation of the example set by the white Lodges of both Scotch and English origin, also declared its independence, and soon after it granted a charter to coloured Brethren residing in Rhode Island; and since then it organized Prince Hall Grand Lodge, which issued charters to coloured Masons in many states in America.

Now, that the brethren of the African Lodge were wrong in discontinuing correspondence with the Grand Secretary of England after the demise of Prince Hall, I fully and frankly admit. That its declaration of independence and its setting up a Grand Lodge, &c., was not in accordance with the Book of Constitutions, I also admit. But, in the name of justice and common sense, I ask, wherein have the African Brethren sinned more greatly than the whites of the last century? Upon what pretence, then, do English journalists recommend to make an invidious distinction between the white and the coloured American Masons? Surely, Masonry never contemplated that there should be one law for the African and another for the Caucasian; that for one and the same sin one should be punished and the other should not. It is strange that these facts were better known to Bro. Findel at the time when he wrote his history of Freemasonry than they are known now to English Masonic students. It was because these facts were better understood on the Continent of Europe that France, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, and other Masonic jurisdictions have successfully acknowledged the legal status of Prince Hall and other coloured Grand Lodges in America. And hence the reader will understand why the R.W. Bro. Hervey, G.S. of England, came to the just conclusion that, as far as legality or illegality is concerned, there was really no difference between the white and black American Masons; they are either both legal or both illegal; and I trust, therefore, that my English brethren will no longer be misled by the sophistry of American Masonic luminaries. They have had their say, now let me have mine.

[It is needless for us, after our article on "Coloured Freemasonry," to point out that we have not the slightest sympathy with Bro. Norton's views. However, we consider it is only just that he and others who may differ with us should have, if they wish it, an opportunity of expressing their opinions. We were invited to insert the foregoing article, or portion of an article, and we have done so, because the invitation was a just one. At the same time we beg to offer one or two remarks. We have no present intention of embarking in any controversy with Bro. Norton. Our comments, therefore, will take, for the most part, the form of suggestion. In the first place, we must point out to our contributor that his attack on White American Masonry in Massachusetts is alien to the question, which is the legality of Coloured Masonry. Assuming for the sake of argument that all the irregularities mentioned by Bro. Norton did actually occur, that proves nothing more than that the career of White American Masonry was marked by certain irregularities. Again, as to the secessions and subsequent reconciliation to which Bro. Norton refers. If we take the principal secessions, that in England of the "Ancients" from the "Moderns," we must bear in mind that originally they formed one and the same body; but certain differences of view begat a schism, and the main section, or "Moderns," very properly declined to recognise the seceding section or "Ancients." When, however, in the fulness of time these differences of view were reconciled, the two sections again became one and the same body. But as between American White and Coloured Masonry no such parallelism exists. They never were parts of one and the same body. Therefore no separation can ever have taken place between them. Nor was there ever a secession of African Lodge from the Grand Lodge of England. The former was struck off our Roll at the Union. The question as between the American White and Coloured Grand Lodges is whether the former can in reason or in justice be required to recognise the legality of certain rival Grand Lodges which never formed part of themselves, and which are indebted for their origin to a foreign Grand Lodge. We point out likewise that the discussion as to the legality of Coloured Grand Lodges has, so far at least as we are concerned, nothing whatever to do with "Colour." We have called them Coloured Lodges because they are so called in America; but we recognise no distinctions of colour in Freemasonry. Lastly, as to Bro. Norton's mild sarcasm touching the historian Findel's knowledge and our own ignorance; we have a high sense of Bro. Findel's merits and our own imperfections, but we claim to exercise our own judgment on a question we have studied very carefully. We admire Bro. Findel as an historian, but we do not bind ourselves to accept unreservedly all his views.—[Ed. FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.]

Early in April next year one of the most curious and valuable collections of antique furniture, tapestry, &c., in this country will be broken up. Our good brother Joseph Sly, of the King's Arms, Hotel, Lancaster, intends to sell by auction all the valuable and historical relics of the 15th, 16th, and 17th centuries, which have for so many years formed the principal attraction to that ancient hostelrie, which was immortalised by Charles Dickens in the story of "The Lazy Tour of Two Idle Apprentices." The curious old staircase, which dates from 1625, the carved oaken chairs of the 15th century, and the solid oak four-post bedsteads are well worthy the attention of the antiquarian. Among those we may particularise the magnificent bedstead made for King James the Second in 1686, for which Bro. Sly recently refused 250 guineas. We were also highly delighted with the splendid specimens of Gobelin tapestry and Florentine needlework, which, by the way, is mentioned by Professor Ruskin in "Ariadne Florentina." We wish Bro. Sly all success.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I quite understand "P.M., P.Z.'s" thirst for knowledge, and I trust that, over and above any satisfactory solutions as to moot points between this and that Preceptor which he may succeed in obtaining by his present system of inquiry, he will further succeed in drawing attention to the importance of our having Lodges of Instruction where Craftsmen may not only acquire a knowledge of our ritual, but where they will glean in addition some insight into its rationale. We all know there is much in our ceremonies and lectures which is very trying to educated men, and which they must experience some difficulty in listening to with becoming gravity. I believe the appearance in them of many strange assertions is capable of explanation, and I think it is undoubtedly one of the chief duties of our Preceptors to furnish the brethren with something like an exposition of the spirit of our system. Some there are who, I feel sure, are capable of fulfilling this higher class of duty—of expounding our ceremonies, and lecturing upon our lectures. But others are themselves so ill-furnished with knowledge that any attempt on their part to instruct others in the direction I have indicated would only involve them in endless ridicule. "P.M., P.Z." may or may not obtain authoritative replies to his several queries; but he will have achieved good work if he succeeds, through the medium of your columns, in obtaining a greater degree of respect for our Lodges of Instruction.

Meanwhile as to the rival versions in his last paragraph. Preceptor No. 1 says, "The hardest bodies polish by attrition," and Preceptor No. 1, being a commonsensible kind of person, is right. The idea is of two bodies rubbing against each other and becoming smooth and glossy by the rubbing. Thus, if two stones are rubbed against each other for any length of time, the surface of each, where the friction occurred, will present a smooth and glossy surface. Preceptor No. 2, however, thinks bodies polish "by Collision," and I am sorry for him. "Collision" implies the striking of two bodies against each other with greater or less violence, and consequently with greater or less damage to one or both of them. There was, for instance, in the summer of 1875, a collision between the Iron Duke and the Vanguard, which certainly "polished off" the latter, for it is lying still at the bottom of the Irish Channel; but in no other way can I trace any polish to the collision of these war vessels. In the other case, where Preceptor No. 1 lays down the word as "promulgate," while Preceptor No. 2 prefers "propagate," there is not the same violence in the antagonism between the two versions. The meaning of the sentence will vary, according as we use "promulgate" or "propagate," but the use of the less preferable word is not calculated to excite in us any sense of contempt. Promulgate means to make known or publish, e.g. to promulgate a law or a scheme, that is, to make it known by open declaration. This hardly conveys the sense of the passage quoted, which is: "They travelled East in search of knowledge, and West in order to spread that knowledge by implanting it in the minds of men." The promulgation of knowledge means its publication in the sense in which an act of Parliament is published. The propagation of knowledge is its multiplication and extension, by planting out the seeds or germs of knowledge in other minds, after the same manner as a plant is multiplied by planting out seed or striking slips from the parent plant. I consider propagate undoubtedly the better word, indeed the correct one of the two to use; for it conveys the sense of the passage. But, as I have said, I see nothing supremely ridiculous in the use of "promulgate."

Fraternally yours,

"Q."

LODGES OF INSTRUCTION.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR,—Knowing you take a deep interest in the proper conduct of the several Lodges of Instruction I am sure you will accord me space for a few lines. I am not a smoker, but I do not object to smoking,—in moderation. I have attended several Lodges of Instruction lately, where it has become absolutely necessary to stop the proceedings of the evening to enable those assembled,—shall I say it?—to breathe. This surely should not be; the "quiet pipe," by some of our energetic brethren, is turned into an instrument for "funking the cobbler," and I am sure, in many cases, with as happy a result,—that of laying the operator by. I will not occupy your space with further remarks, my object has been to call attention to an evil which might easily be remedied. I hope my hint will be taken, as if we are to keep our Lodges of Instruction close tyled, it were as well those who attend should not puff quite so hard.

Believe me, yours fraternally,

COUNTERBLAST.

A DISTRESSING CASE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—Among the fifty-seven applicants as candidates for admission into the Masonic Boys' School, if elected, on the 16th inst., stands one, at the top of the list, named George Samuel Cox, who has made six applications without success. The child is an orphan, and his widowed mother has three other children dependent on her for support. This orphan has only hitherto had 191 votes polled in his favour. Why the Province of Devon has not taken up this deserving case, I know not; except it be that the widowed mother has removed from Devonshire to Glebe Cottage, Stanstead, Sudbury, Suffolk, to earn her livelihood, and eke out some sustenance for her orphans.

I plead in behalf of this orphan lad and the distressed widow. I knew the father of the orphan, some years ago, in Devonshire, and then I little thought that for any of his family he would require my humble assistance. A more upright man, a more sterling character, a more worthy Mason I never knew. As Master of Devonport Workhouse, the name of Cox was a household word for economy and efficiency. Will not the Craft save this poor orphan from being rejected from the Masonic School through want of support? I trust that every Mason whose votes for the Boys' School at the next election are not pledged will run to the rescue, save the orphan who seems to have but few friends, bind up the heart of the bleeding widow, and reward the virtues of a deceased worthy Mason and inestimable man, whose connection with our Fraternity was honourable, and of ten years' standing,

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,

DANIEL ACE D.D.

An Address Delivered at the Centenary Meeting of the Grand Master's Lodge, No. I. By Bro. EDWARD JOSEPH POWELL, of Gray's-inn, Barrister-at-Law. London: Printed by Truscott, Son, and Simmons, Suffolk-lane, City.

WE have so often given utterance to the very great satisfaction we feel when anything in the shape of a Lodge History is brought under our notice, that we trust Bro. Powell will not deem it a mark of disrespect on our part if we follow an old rule with which he is certain to be familiar, and plunge forthwith in medias res; in other words, if we momentarily overlook his very interesting introduction, and enter at once on the history of the Lodge of which he is so distinguished a member.

The Lodge was instituted on the 13th August 1759, under a Warrant issued by the Right Honourable the Earl of Blessington, G.M. of the so-called "Ancients," and authorising the Grand Officers to hold a Lodge bearing the name and title of the "Grand Master's Lodge," to admit, enter, and make Freemasons, and empowering the Brethren named therein to nominate, choose, and instal their successors. On Sunday, the 7th December 1787, at a meeting of Master Masons, held at the London Coffee House, Ludgate-hill, at which Bros. James Perry J.G.W., John Tenkins G. Treasurer, John MacCormick G. Secretary, W. James Agar, and W. Felix Mac Carthy, both P.M.'s of No. 81, George Gordon of St. John's, James Turner No. 81, and George Games No. 81, were present, the Lodge was revived under its original Warrant by order of the Right Honourable the Earl of Antrim G.M. Bro. Perry read the old Warrant, which had been delivered to him by Bro. Lawrence Dermott D.G.M., the 5th September preceding, in open Grand Lodge, with the Grand Master's direction to assemble a Lodge of Grand Officers, associating with them such Master Masons as might be found eligible. It was then and there resolved to institute the Grand Master's Lodge at the London Coffee House as above, on the 16th December, and accordingly the first meeting was held as arranged on that day, under the Presidency of Bro. Perry J.G.W. A series of resolutions were accepted for the government of the Lodge, sundry of which are mentioned by Bro. Powell. One provided that the Lodge should dine together at least four times a year, when a Masonic ode set to music was to be performed. By another, a room was to be built, or procured, for the particular use of the Lodge, so soon as the state of its finances permitted, and "fitted upon Masonic principles." A third recommended members, at the four quarterly festivals and other public solemnities, to appear in a regular uniform, consisting of coat of plain blue cloth and buff kersimere waistcoat with emblematic button. This distinguishing badge, Bro. Powell points out, was the Whig party costume, and, though inconsistent with the avowed principles of Freemasonry, may easily, he thinks, be accounted for by the fact of the Duke of Athol being the immediate P.G.M., and Scotch influence being strong with the Ministry. There is, however, an objection to this explanation of Bro. Powell. It was the Tory Ministry of the younger Pitt which then held the reins of Government. If Scotch influence were great with this Ministry, it must have been the influence of Scotch Toryism, not Scotch Whiggism. At all events, such influence prevailing, and the Duke of Athol, the I.P.G.M. of the "Ancients," being a Scotchman, the Grand Master's Lodge of Athol Masons is hardly likely to have adopted the blue coat and buff waistcoat as being the Whig party costume. We think it far more likely, and certainly far more Masonic, to ascribe the adoption, or rather recommendation, of this uniform, to the fact of blue and yellow being the principal Masonic colours, just as formerly a Master Mason's dress was described as a yellow jacket and blue breeches, in allusion to the brass, or yellow body, of the compass, the working tool of a M.M., and its steel or blue legs. But to proceed with Bro. Powell's history. After several gentlemen had been ballotted for, the first Lodge was closed in harmony. The first dinner was held on Saturday, the 19th April 1788, at 2 p.m. On this occasion, Bro. James Perry D.G.M. stated a doubt had arisen as to "the propriety of installing Deputed Acting Officers, and the installation was postponed till the sense of Grand Lodge had been taken on that important point, the several Deputy Officers continuing in office meanwhile. The first nomination of officers took place at the same time, Bro. George Gordon, of St. Johns, being nominated W.M. On 20th June of the same year, Sir Watkin Lewis, Knt., Alderman and M.P. of City of London, James Forsyth, subsequently Colonel of the City Militia, and Thomas Beth, barrister-at-law, were initiated, passed, and raised, at one and the same meeting, a like occurrence happening on 23rd July, in the presence of Lord Elcho, G.M. of Scotland, when James Knowles, a wool-stapler, received all three degrees. On 24th June, the members attended divine service at Camberwell Church in honour of St. John the Baptist and "took their places with the Officers of Grand Lodge." At this Lodge the Right Hon. Lord William Russell and Sir James Erskine were accepted as members. The 1st April 1789 is an important day in the history of the Lodge, Grand Lodge having voted that Grand Master's Lodge should choose and appoint officers to represent it in Grand Lodge. Bro. George Gordon was appointed W.M. for the next six months, and duly installed on the 11th May. Thus the Masters and Officers of the Lodge ceased to be merely the Deputies of the Grand Lodge as hitherto they had been, and became Masters and Officers in their own right. About this period the Sunday meetings were abandoned, and after oscillating between Saturdays, Mondays, and other days, appear to have been generally held on Wednesdays. On 16th March—the year is not stated; we presume, therefore, it occurred in 1789—the Lodge removed to the Crown and Anchor, in the Strand, and Lord John Russell, M.P., was accepted a member. On 9th May 1792, the meetings were held at 4 p.m. instead of in the evening, the members dining together, and adjourning usually at 7 p.m. On 27th December in the same year, the Duke of Athol G.M. being in the chair, it was proposed and unanimously agreed to that the Lodge should meet every second Tuesday at 7 p.m., and Bro. William Dickey was elected W.M. On 29th January following, the latter presented the jewels and furniture of Lodge No. 14 (of which he was the sole remaining member), and requested their acceptance as a mark of his esteem. When this distinguished brother died, in July 1800, the Lodge went into mourning for him till the September following. For ten years the minutes were unfortunately and unaccountably lost, and though a committee was appointed to supply, as far as possible, an account of the transactions, there is nothing to show the results of their labours. At the Union in 1813 the three distinguished brethren chosen by G.M. H.R.H. the Duke of Kent to aid him, on behalf of the "Ancients," in preparing the articles of Union, were Thomas Harper D.G.M. and James Perry and James Agar, both P.D.G.M.'s, all three having filled the chair of this Lodge. Under this Union, Grand Master's Lodge being No. 1 Ancients, and having the good fortune to draw the lot assigning it the first place, became No. 1 on the Roll of the United Grand Lodge of England. Since then it has gone on prospering. In March 1816, the Duke of Sussex G.M., and the P.G. Masters of Hants and Rutland were among its visitors, while on its roll of members may be seen the names of Viscount Torrington, Sir John Soane, the great architect, Sir David Pollock, late a Chief Justice in India, the late Aldermen Thomas Farncombe and Thomas Cubitt, Lord Mayors of London, and the latter also one of its M.P.'s, Sir John Milbanke, Sir Sidney Smith (hero of Acre), Rev. Sir William Dunbar, and many others. Bro. Robert Edwards, also, will be handed down through all generations as the donor of the two large china bowls and the elaborately carved tortoiseshell snuff-box which grace the Lodge banquets. These were manufactured in China specially for the Lodge, and presented in his name by Bro. Edwards Harper. In December 1817, the Lodge moved its quarters to the Freemasons' Tavern. On 29th May 1841, the Duke of Sussex and the Earl of Zetland visited the Lodge, in company with many of the Grand Officers. On the 20th June 1859, the centenary of the Lodge was celebrated by a grand banquet. The R.W. Bro. Richard Hervé Giraud, "the oldest initiated member of the Lodge," its Master, as he had been thirty years before, and Treas., presided, and among the members present were Bros. John March Case S.W., D. H. Stone (the present Alderman Stone P.J.G.W.) J.W., Alex. Dobie P.M. and P.G.M. Surrey, Rev. J. W. Gleadall P.M. and Chaplain and P.G.C., Frns. Crew P.M. and Secretary, G. W. K. Potter P.M. and D.C., P.G.D., E. J. Powell, the author of this history, F. Wyatt Truscott, W. Campbell Sleigh, and others. Among the visitors were the Earl of Zetland G.M., the P.G.M.'s for Hants, Bristol, Durham, Herefordshire, Kent, Oxfordshire and Cambridgeshire, Lord de Tabley S.G.W., S. Tomkins G. Treasurer, Frns. Roxburgh G. Registrar, W. Grey Clarke G. Secretary, Wm. Farnfield Grand Assistant Secretary, and several other Grand Officers, Bro. John Havers, President of the Board of General Purposes, a number of P.G. officers, Provincial and Past Provincial Grand officers as well as W.M.'s and P.M.'s of numerous other Lodges. Covers were laid for over one hundred on this auspicious occasion, and we may be sure in such a gathering due honour was paid to our noble Craft.

Appended to the History is the Code of By-Laws as agreed to in open Lodge on the 19th November 1832, and a list of members at the time of writing the History. Happily, among those will be found the names of several who still live to render valuable service to Freemasonry. May the Lodge continue to flourish in the future as it has done in the past!

A Brief Sketch of the Royal Athelstan Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons. By Bro. WITHAM M. BYWATER, P.M. and Hon. Sec. Centenary Day, 27th February 1869. London.

We pass at once over the earlier remarks of Bro. Bywater, not from any lack of appreciation of their merit, or of the labour involved in collating their substance, but because it is undesirable to set apart a space in these columns for matters which have been again and again repeated and commented upon here and elsewhere. The Warrant of Constitution for Lodge No. 159 was granted on the 27th February 1769, at a meeting of the "Ancient" Grand Lodge, held at the Ship, in the Strand, Bro. William Clarke, S.G.W., occupying the chair, and the following brethren being duly installed officers of the new Lodge—namely, Bros. Robert Lockhead W.M., James Inglis S.W., and William Cousins J.W. The first quarterly Grand Lodge Return after its Constitution is dated 7th June 1769, and from this it appears that there were already twenty-three members on the roll of No. 159. In 1790, the Lodge met at the Griffin, Villars-street, York-buildings, and in 1771, at the City of Hereford, Lichfield-street, Soho. Up to this time the Lodge appears to have prospered, over 120 members having joined or been initiated in it in the twenty-two years of its existence. In 1792, the Lodge, according to a practice at the time prevalent among the Ancients, petitioned their Grand Lodge for permission to take the place of Lodge No. 10, warranted in 1763, but having then ceased to exist. Accordingly, in the minutes of the Athol Grand Lodge, held at the Crown and Anchor Tavern, Strand, on the 7th March 1792, a resolution was passed to the effect that No. 159 be permitted to take the No. 10, in consideration of its paying over the sum of five guineas to the charity. The very same day the warrant was issued by Grand Lodge authorising No. 10 "to meet at the Red Lyon, Cross-lane (now King-street), Long-acre, where the old house may still be seen. In a foot-note it is added, that No. 159 thus vacated was renewed December 18th 1805, as "The Prince of Brunswick Lodge," and was held in Brunswick-street, Blackfriars-road. In 1795, No. 10 met in the vicinity of Bedford-square; in 1807, at the Golden Lyon, Long-acre; in 1809, at the Golden Anchor, Cross-lane, Long-acre; in 1810, at the King's Arms, High Holborn; in 1812, at the Angell Inn, Broad-street, Bloomsbury; in 1829, at the Fitzroy Coffee House, Fitzroy-street, Bedford-square; in 1834, at the George and Blue Boar, Holborn; in 1835, at the King's Head, Museum-street, and at the Fitzroy Hotel, Fitzroy-street, Bedford-square; in 1837, at the Percy Hotel, Rathbone-place; in 1838, again at the George and Blue Boar; in 1851, at the London Coffee House, Ludgate-hill, and subsequently at the Clarence Hotel, Aldersgate-street, in 1852, for a third time, at the George and Blue Boar; in 1862, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street; and in 1867, at the Inns of Court Hotel, Holborn, first, and subsequently at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, its present head-quarters."

At the union of 1813 Royal Athelstan became No. 19, and that place it still continues to hold on Grand Lodge Roll; but as our No. 17 is no longer on the list, Royal Athelstan is really eighteenth on the roll of our English Lodges. During the first century of its existence about 716 members were enrolled under its banners, and though none of them appear to have been either born great, achieved greatness, or had greatness thrust upon them, they were doubtless, as Bro. Bywater suggests, most worthy fellows in their day, and did their duty both manfully and Masonically, as became good men and Masons. At the time the Centenary was celebrated, the Lodge numbered amongst its members no less than eighteen P.M.'s. This joyful festival, to which we are indebted for Bro. Bywater's brief history, was held at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on the 27th February 1869. Bro. Thomas H. Potter W.M. presided, and was supported by Bros. John Pollard S.W., William A. B. Williams J.W., Samuel Gale P.M. D.C. (Father of the Lodge), John Savage P.M. and P.S.G.D., Benjamin Starling P.M. and Treasurer, and William M. Bywater P.M. and Hon. Sec., with twelve other P.M.'s, the rest of the officers, and a strong array of members. The visitors included Bro. J. L. Evans President of Board of General Purposes; Bro. John Hervey G. Sec.; Bro. Albert W. Woods G.D.C.; Thomas A. Adams, P.G.P., and several other Grand and Past Grand Officers, together with numberless W.M.'s, P.M.'s, and members of this Lodge. Over a hundred sat down to the banquet, and the festive occasion passed off most agreeably. It should be added that at the Lodge meeting which had previously been held, the Centenary Warrant granting members permission to wear the Centenary Jewel was read, after which Bro. Gale P.M and Father of the Lodge, was presented with a gold Centenary Jewel, and the rest of the members were duly invested with their jewels in commemoration of the same event. Bro. Bywater then read and presented the address we have been summarising in a book containing a roll of all the members of the Lodge from its date of constitution. For this a hearty vote of thanks was accorded him, and this subsequently took the more substantial form of an ornamental mantle-piece clock, presented to him in the month of May. Bro. John Charles Goldsmith also presented a handsome gilt frame, containing the portraits of all the members of the Lodge. For this also a vote of thanks was unanimously passed to Bro. Goldsmith, and was ordered to be engrossed on vellum, framed and presented to him, signed by the W.M., Wardens, the Father of the Lodge, the Treasurer, and Hon. Secs. of the Centenary Committee. The resolution was perfected on the 8th April following. We trust the future career of Royal Athelstan may be in every sense worthy of its past history.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW MASONIC LODGE IN HULL.

From the "HULL PACKET."

FOR some considerable time past it had been felt that the rapid spread of Masonry in this part of the province, and the unwieldy size to which many of the older Lodges had grown, rendered it necessary that additional convenience should be secured, in order to meet the numerous applications that were being made for admission into the "ancient and honourable institution." When it is mentioned that the "Old Humber" mustered on its roll nearly 300 members, and that the two sister Lodges were swelling in a proportionate degree, it will be readily understood that a certain amount of scruple and diffidence existed when, by the impetus given to Masonry by the elevation of the Heir Apparent to the chief position, and other causes, many and spontaneous desires were expressed for a participation in the hidden mysteries of the Craft. Therefore the idea was happily conceived of founding another Lodge in Hull, supplementary to the three prosperous ones which already flourished in our midst, and the constitution of which was consummated, under the most felicitous auspices, on Wednesday last. The preliminaries necessary to such an event were left in the hands of some half-a-dozen of the prominent members of the Humber Lodge, who, be it said, fulfilled their part in the most disinterested and patriotic manner, without the least show or sentiment of antagonism to the older branches of the Order in the town. The petition to Grand Lodge was cordially acquiesced in by the older Lodges, and the result was that, without the slightest hesitation, a warrant was immediately granted. It is gratifying to find that in the selection of a title for this young offshoot of the Craft, the founders resolved to perpetuate the memory of Hull's most ancient and famous of merchant princes; and the success which characterised the inauguration of the De La Pole Lodge, No. 1611, augurs for the prosperity of that section of the Craft a similar success to that which accompanied the career of those with whom the earliest history of Hull is associated. As soon as the necessary preliminaries had been arranged, and a dispensation from the Grand Lodge secured, the founders cast about them for a "local habitation;" nor could they have been more fortunate than in securing the admirable and commodious premises which they have purchased in Charlotte Street. Had the structure been designed specially for Masonic purposes, we doubt whether the skill of the architect could have produced more satisfactory results. In the all important matter of locality the site is everything that could be desired. Unfortunately, as it has often been mentioned, the approaches to our Masonic Lodges are not all that the brethren could wish. Handsome and elaborate as are the buildings, when once inside the sacred precincts, they are for the most part approached by side streets—nestling, as it were, amidst dingy dwellings; whilst the "De la Pole" has the advantage of a prominent position, in one of our broadest and most respectable thoroughfares, though within easy access from every part of the town. We therefore congratulate the promoters upon their success in obtaining, from the executors of the late Mr. Geo. Wilkinson, architect, such a desirable locale. With comparatively little alteration, the interior has been adapted admirably to the purposes to which it was on Wednesday consecrated; and visitors to the "De la Pole" Lodge will agree with us that it constitutes one of the prettiest and most compact establishments of its kind in the province. On the ground floor are banqueting and committee-rooms, affording every capacity for the business and relaxation of the brethren. Ascending the broad staircase we come to the robing-rooms, and eventually to the Lodge-room, which has been fitted up with consummate taste and in strict keeping with the principles of the Craft. This chamber is 40 feet in length, by 22 feet in width, the body of the Lodge being divided from the apse-shaped dais by an arch supported by marble pillars and adorned with Masonic emblems. The ceiling is suitably adorned, to represent the starry firmament, with symbolic embellishments; whilst around the panelled cornice are illuminated in gold and colours the emblems of the mystic art. These adornments, which are of the most chaste and beautiful description, are, we understand, the work of Messrs. Dreyer and Son, the well-known decorators of St. John-street, and reflect the utmost credit upon their artistic skill and taste. In the furnishing of the Lodge equal care has been taken that, whilst uniformity and good taste have been the prevailing effort of the founders, there is nothing gaudy or tinselled in the matter of adornment. The pedestals are of massive oak, curiously carved, each being supported by shafts of ebony, with foliated capitals. The principal chairs are also of oak, inlaid with ebony, and upholstered with Morocco leather, the respective designs being of the Ionic, Doric, and Corinthian styles of architecture. Over the principal chair is a magnificent portrait of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the Worshipful Grand Master of England; and the windows are shaded by handsome curtains of embroidered silk. The Lodge is lighted by two sun-lights of gas, and the whole of the appointments are of the most unique and perfect description. Adjoining the Lodge-room are lavatories and other conveniences, whilst the premises also contain the necessary kitchens, cellars, Tyler's residence, and every necessary essential to the carrying on of a really elaborate and first-class establishment.

Amongst the presents already made to the Lodge are handsome collars and jewels by the first-appointed officers; a splendid Hebrew Bible by Bro. Morris Haberland, lecture master of the Humber Lodge; and a fine oak pedestal and deacons' chairs, formerly part of the elaborate fittings on board the Bessemer saloon steamer, given by Bro. Gilbert. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, there was a very large assemblage of the brethren at two o'clock, including many distinguished provincial and past officers, who testified their interest in the ceremony which was to do honour to so old and esteemed a Mason as Bro. Richard Boggett, the Worshipful Master Elect. When the brethren had congregated the Lodge-room was almost inconveniently filled; yet the scene presented was one of the utmost animation and interest. Soon after two o'clock the Worshipful Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Dr. John Pearson Bell, accompanied by a formidable escort of Prov. Officers, entered the Lodge, the Prov. Grand Organist, Bro. C. H. Hunt, meanwhile playing a brilliant extempore march. The W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master, prior to the opening of the proceedings, said they had met to-day for the purpose of constituting a new Lodge—a warrant having been granted to certain of the brethren by Grand Lodge. Whilst regretting the absence of the Earl of Zetland from this ceremony, he was happy to be able to attend on this auspicious occasion, and to assist in the constitution of the "De La Pole" Lodge. (Applause),

The Prov. Grand Secretary having read the petition and warrant authorising the formation of the Lodge, the W. Deputy Grand Master obtained the assent of those who had signed the same to the acceptation of the officers nominated for the year. The Rev. Lewis W. Heath, chaplain of the Kingston Lodge, No. 1,010, then read a portion of 1 Kings viii., and after prayer had been offered, the anthem, "Behold, how good and joyful a thing it is," was sung; after which the elements of consecration were dispensed by the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, who, in accordance with ancient rites, solemnly consecrated the Lodge to Freemasonry, Virtue, and Universal Benevolence. The concluding prayers having been said and grand honours given, the Deputy Grand Master delivered an eloquent oration, after which the concluding anthem, "Hail! Masonry Divine," was chanted with much fervour by the brethren. The Lodge was then lowered to the second degree, when Bro. Richard Boggett was presented by P.M. Bro. Martin Kemp to the Worshipful Deputy Grand Master for installation as the first W.M. of the "De La Pole" Lodge. In this solemn and impressive ceremony Dr. Bell was assisted by Past Masters George Hardy, Walter Reynolds, John Scherling, and Dr. Banks Hay, by whom the various portions of the ritual were admirably sustained. Subsequently the newly-elected Master invested the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Thomas Cook Senior Warden, Charles Leggott Junior Warden, Henry Preston P.G.J.D. Treasurer, John Thompson P.P.G.S.B. Chaplain, James R. Ansell Hon. Secretary, C. W. Cheesman Senior Deacon and Organist, Thomas Pearce Junior Deacon, Z. C. Pearson Inner Guard, and J. B. Wharton Tyler. The remainder of the proceedings was conducted in accordance with the usual formularies of the Craft, and at the close Bro. Boggett received the congratulations of the brethren upon his elevation to the dignified position into which he had just been installed.

At five o'clock a numerous and distinguished company assembled at the Royal Station Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was provided by Mr. H. Logan, the excellence of whose catering was marred only by inefficient waiting. Prior to the repast, and during the assembling of the brethren in the vestibule, a selection of music was played by the Arion Orchestral Union band, consisting of members of the Alhambra and Mechanics' orchestras, under the able direction of Mr. Bayman, and these performances tended much to enhance the pleasures of the réunion. At the banquet the chair was occupied by the W.M. Bro. Richard Boggett, who was supported by the W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Bros. A. W. Ansell W.M. of the Humbler Lodge, M. C. Peck Prov. Grand Secretary, B. L. Wells W.M. of the Alexandra Lodge, Hornsey, Christopher Foster P.P.G.S.D., the Rev. Lewis W. Heath, Tom Turner W.M. of the Constitutional Lodge, Beverley; R. E. Harrison P.M., John S. Thompson P.P.G.S.B., Dr. Banks Hay P.P.G.D., Henry Preston P.G.J.D., W. W. Copeland P.P.S.D. (Lincolnshire), W. Tesseyman P.M., Paul Strömer P.M., &c. The vice-chairs were occupied by the Wardens of the "De La Pole" Lodge, Bros. Thos. Cook and Charles Leggott; and amongst the general company we noticed Bros. John Hudson, P.P.G. Supt. Works, James Pyburn P.G.R., C. H. Hunt P.G. Organist, John Ward P.G. Pursuivant, John Scherling P.G.J.D., George Balmford P.P.O., John Coatsworth P.S.P.G.D., Walter Reynolds P.P.G.D.C., George Hardy P.S.P.G.D., John Wilson P.P.G.S.D., James S. Moes P.G.S., Thos. Simons P.P.G.R., R. G. Smith P.G.D.C., W. D. Keyworth P.P.G. Supt. Works, J. Robinson W.M. of St. Alban's Lodge, Grimsby, E. Garforth I.P.M. of the Kingston Lodge, Hull, Jonathan West I.P.M. of the Humber Lodge, Hull, J. W. Kitchen W.M. of the Denison Lodge, Scarborough, Ralph Teal of W.M. of the Sykes Lodge, Driffield, H. Haigh P.M., Thomas Cooper W.M. of the Eboracorum Lodge, York, G. H. Roberts P.P.D.C. (Lincolnshire), W. Marshall P.M. 792, W. H. Rose P.M. 660, W. Needler P.M., R. M'Shoen P.P.J.W., &c. The company numbered 120, including representatives of the following Lodges:—Lion, Writby; Humber, Minerva; and Kingston, Hull; Sykes, Driffield; Denison, Scarborough: York, 236: Eboracorum, York; Pelham Pillar and St. Alban's, Grimsby; Camalodunum, Malton; Constitutional, Beverley &c., &c. At the conclusion of the repast, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, the toast of "Our Provincial Rulers" being given from the chair, and received with the utmost enthusiasm.

The W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master, in responding, thanked the brethren for the hearty manner in which the toast had been received, and for the kindly expressions which had been placed before the brethren by the newly-elected W.M. He could only say he had been very much pleased and honoured by having his name associated with that of the Earl of Zetland, who it was a great pleasure to them, as Yorkshiremen, to see he was following in the footsteps of his illustrious uncle. (Cheers). They occasionally saw his lordship amongst them, and as their acquaintanceship increased the more they admired him. The noble earl evidently had Masonry thoroughly at heart, and the manner in which he discharged the duties of his exalted station in the Craft was most exemplary. They who witnessed his conduct at the Provincial Grand Lodge at Redcar, and also at Saltburn, must have noticed the zeal he manifested towards the Craft. The speaker then alluded in felicitous terms to the way in which the Earl of Zetland fulfilled his part as a country gentleman and landlord; and it was a source of satisfaction to see him following in the footsteps of his illustrious ancestors. He congratulated the brethren upon the spread of Masonry in the province, both in point of numbers and influence, and especially upon the flourishing condition of the Craft in the town of Hull. Formerly there was a degree of jealousy when a new Lodge was started; but now it was with pleasure they witnessed the unanimity that pervaded all parties interested, and the cordiality with which the members of the sister Lodges had assisted in the ceremonial of to-day. (Applause). At all times it was their duty and pleasure to advance Masonry generally, and especially, in their own province; and he took this opportunity of naming that, whenever his services were required, or desired, by any Lodge in the province, they should always be at the command of the brethren. (Cheers).

The W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master then proposed the "Healths of the Worshipful Master and Officers of the De la Pole Lodge," in doing which he congratulated the founders upon the really beautiful Lodge they had established, and upon the satisfactory manner in which the whole of the day's proceedings had passed off. He expressed the hope that the Lodge would be a prosperous one, and that its members would work in harmony with the other branches of the Craft in the town. He assured them that at all times they might count upon his assistance, whenever it was required; and he wished for the newly-elected Master a year of happiness and prosperity. (Applause.)

Bro. Boggett, W.M. in suitable terms, thanked Dr. Bell for the complimentary terms in which he had proposed the last toast, and the brethren for the very flattering manner in which they had received the mention of his name. The De la Pole Lodge was only in its infancy, and hardly yet fledged; but he trusted that with the assistance of the other Lodges—which he hoped would extend the right hand of fellowship towards them—(applause)—they should yet rank creditably amongst the Lodges of the Province. (Applause.) He thanked the many brethren who had attended on the occasion, and assisted in carrying out the ceremony of his installation, and felt a degree of pride that he had this day been surrounded by the Worshipful Masters of no less then 14 Lodges, and 33 Provincial Grand Officers. (Cheers.) He regarded this not only as a great compliment to himself, but also an augury for the interest taken in, and the future prosperity of, the "De la Pole" Lodge, over whose affairs he had been, by their kind indulgence, elected to rule. (Cheers.)

Bro. Henry P.M. Preston then gave "The Sister Lodges," the toast being responded to by Bro. A. W. Ansell, W.M. of the Humber Lodge; Bro. Meggett, J.W. of the Minerva; Bro. E. W. Garforth, I.P.M. of the Kingston; and Bro. W. W. Copeland, P.M. for the Lincolnshire brethren.

Bro. James S. Moes W.M., of the Lion Lodge, Whitby, proposed the "Masonic Charities," in response to which toast Bro. John S. Thompson, as Prov. Grand Charity Steward, replied in a felicitous speech, making an earnest appeal to the brethren for support to the various benevolent institutions in connection with the Craft.

The Worshipful Master, in the absence of the Senior Warden (who had been called away by another pressing engagement), proposed the "Healths of the Visitors," in doing which he thanked those present for their attendance, and the hearty support they had accorded him on this occasion, and trusting to meet them many times in the future. (Cheers). With the toast he begged to associate the name of the Rev. Lewis W. Heath, vicar of Newland, who at short notice had kindly come forward to officiate as Prov. Grand Chaplain of the day. He was also pleased to see amongst them Bro. Christopher Foster, the oldest Past Master of the Minerva Lodge; and mentioned a curious coincidence that it was exactly 50 years that day when Bro. Foster was initiated into Masonry. (Cheers). Bro. Foster's residence was in London, but he had remained in Hull for the express purpose of attending on that auspicious occasion. (Renewed applause). He also expressed his thanks to the Lincolnshire brethren who had evinced their interest in the foundation of their new Lodge; and trusted that the harmony and good feeling which subsisted between the two provinces would long continue, and be firmer cemented as time went on. (Cheers).

The toast was responded to by the Rev. Lewis Heath, Bros. C. Foster, Cumberland J.W. of Eboracorum Lodge, McKay, on behalf of the York brethren, and W. W. Copeland for the visitors from Lincolnshire. Each, in a few happy chosen sentences, congratulated the W.M. and officers upon the success which had attended the opening day of the "De La Pole" Lodge, and assured them of their cordial co-operation and support in the future.

The Junior Warden gave the "Health of the Ladies," for whom Bro. Chas. Newton humorously responded in a speech à la Mark Twain.

The proceedings of the evening were spiritedly kept up, Bro. Jethro Robinson acting as a most genial director of ceremonies; whilst at intervals capital songs were given by Bros. Cheesman, Sherwood, Haigh, Leggott, Newton, Cumberland, and others, the Prov. Grand Organist (Bro. C. H. Hunt) presiding with his accustomed skill at the pianoforte. The réunion throughout was of the most agreeable and harmonious description, and we must add our congratulations to those so universally expressed upon the success which attended the efforts of the founders of the "De La Pole" Lodge on Wednesday last.

Obituary.

Many of our brethren will be grieved to hear that Bro. Boncey, of Roupell-street, Lambeth, expired on the 24th ult., after a short illness of 24 hours. Br. Boncey was initiated in a Scottish Lodge, and joined the Vitruvian Lodge, No. 87, in April 1873. Our late brother was well known as manager of the cuisine department on board some of our best river steamers, such as the "Albert Edward." The funeral took place at Nunhead Cemetery, on the 28th ult., and was attended by a vast number of brethren and intimate friends of the deceased.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Excellent Pills.—The resources of medicine and chemistry were long and fruitlessly tried before they yielded a remedy which could overcome disorders of the stomach and nerves till Professor Holloway discovered his purifying and tonic Pills. They are the safest and surest correctives of indigestion, heartburn, flatulency, torpidity of the liver, twitching, nervous fancies, despondency, low spirits, and declining strength. Holloway's Pills supersede all irregular action in the body, and so strengthen and support the system that disease departs, and leaves the patient not at all shaken. This is the grand aim and object of medical art, to regulate disordered functions without damaging the constitution by the remedy; and admirably is this end attained by Holloway's Pills.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.
OCTOBER ELECTION, 1876.

The favour of the Votes and Interest of the Governors and Subscribers is earnestly solicited on behalf of

EDWIN HAIR,

AGED 8 YEARS AND 9 MONTHS,

SON of the late Bro. John Atkinson Hair, Newcastle-on-Tyne, who died very suddenly, 24th June 1875, of heart disease, age 39 years; leaving a widow, one daughter, and two sons entirely dependent on the kindness of an old and warmly attached Masonic friend, the Petitioner, Bro. George Thompson.

Bro. John A. Hair was initiated in the St. Peter's Lodge, No. 681, Newcastle, in 1863, and was twice elected the Worshipful Master of that Lodge, to which he continued to be a subscribing member, as well as to three other Lodges of the Province, until the time of his death; he was also P.P.G.J.W. of Northumberland.

He was exalted in the St. Peter's Chapter, and in due time was elected First Principal thereof. He was also a member in the Royal Kent Encampment of Knight Templars, W.M. of the Northumberland and Berwick Lodge of Mark Masters, and P.P.G.S.D. of M.M.

The case is strongly recommended by the following brethren, any of whom will be glad to receive Proxies:

The Rt. Hon. Earl Percy, R.W. Prov. G.M. Northumberland, Alnwick Castle, Northumberland.
L. M. Cockcroft, Esq., V.W. Dept. Prov. G.M., Northumberland, Bank Chambers, Mosley Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.
ELECTION, 16th OCTOBER 1876.

The favour of your Votes and Interest is earnestly solicited on behalf of

GEORGE SAMUEL COX,

Aged 9 Years and 10 Months,

WHOSE father was a House Decorator, having served a seven years apprenticeship very creditably; was afterwards foreman to Messrs. Cooper and Sons, Reading, with very frequently 30 workmen under his charge. He next applied for and obtained a situation of master of Stonehouse Workhouse, Plymouth, which he held with very great credit to himself and satisfaction to the Guardians for 11 years, being of a gentle and amiable disposition, and at the same time firm in the discharge of his duties. On his leaving Stonehouse he received a handsome testimonial, and he then became master of the Model Workhouse at Devonport, at a salary of £200 per annum, but only lived 3 years to enjoy his position, dying after three weeks illness. He left a widow with five children, the babe only four months old. The widow was obliged to retire to a village where she is a school mistress at a salary of £40 a year, three of her children being entirely dependent on her exertions; one she has apprenticed, and her little boy George Samuel is living with friends until by your charity he can be admitted to the Masonic Institution. The father P.M. James Cox was initiated into Freemasonry in 1862, and at his death was Honorary Secretary of his Lodge, Fortitude, Princess Place, Plymouth.

The case is strongly recommended by the following brethren, and Proxies will be received by Bro. Rev. C. J. Martyn, P.G.C., Long Melford, Suffolk, who will represent the case at the forthcoming election.

Bro. The Right Hon. The Earl of Carnarvon, G.D.M. of England, Vice-President of the Institution (ex officio).
" Rev. J. Huyshe, M.A., P.G.M., Clyst Hydon.
" Rev. C. J. Martyn, P.G.C., Long Melford Rectory, Vice-President.
" L. P. Metham, Esq., P.G.D., P.G.D.M. Devonshire, Elm, Stoke, Devonport.
" The Right Hon. Lord Waveney.
" Rev. Daniel Ace, D.D.
Bro. James Fowler, Esq., P.M. 712, P.G.S. Warden, Lincolnshire.
" G. R. Portal, Esq., Life Governor, P.M. No. 10, Burghclere, Newbury.
" W. J. Polley, Esq., P.M., Boxted, Suffolk.
" R. R. Rodd, Esq., P.M. 105, P.P.G.W. (Cornwall) P.P.G. Registrar, Devon, Dunsford-street, Stonehouse, Plymouth.
" S. Jew, Esq., Stonehouse, Devon.

May I ask you to oblige me with your votes and interest at the Election for the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys on the 16th day of October next, in favour of George Samuel Cox, whose case is a very deserving one, and in the success of which the brethren of our province feel much interested.

I beg most earnestly for interest for my [illegible], as this is the sixth appeal made on his behalf. [illegible], widow of James Cox.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Duke of Connaught is still with the Queen at Balmoral, which Her Majesty is expected to leave for Windsor Castle about the middle of next month. Prince Leopold on completing his visit to St. Andrew's took train for Rothesay, on a visit to the Marquis and Marchioness of Bute. Subsequently he will be the guest of the Duke of Roxburgh during the Kelso race meeting. Meanwhile the Prince and Princess of Wales have been apparent enjoying their visit to Dunrobin. On Friday, the Sutherland Volunteers to the number of upwards of 700 underwent their annual review, Major Weston in command. The Prince, who, as its Colonel, wore the uniform of the regiment, rode on to the ground accompanied by the Duke of Sutherland, Prince John of Glucksburg, and Colonel Teesdale, the Princess with the Duchess of Sutherland being in one open carriage and the royal children with Lady Florence Gower and the Duchess of Westminster in another. At the close of the review the Prince addressed a few words to the regiment, complimenting them on their appearance and the efficiency with which they had executed the several movements. He subsequently expressed to the Caithness Volunteers a hope that he might again have the pleasure of meeting them at Dunrobin. On Monday, their Royal Highnesses, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, visited Thurso for the purpose of opening the Caithness and Sutherland Industrial and Art Exhibition. Great preparations had been made for the reception of the visitors, the railway station and many parts of the town being gaily decorated with flags and banners, the Artillery and Rifle Volunteers were under arms and furnished guards of honour at the station, the Exhibition, and Thurso Castle, where the Prince lunched with Sir Tollemache Sinclair, M.P. for the County. The Prince formally declared the Exhibition open, and having briefly inspected the building, set off for Thurso Castle, and started on his return to Dunrobin after a short stay for refreshment. A banquet was held in the town in honour of the occasion, and in the evening Thurso was illuminated. Our brethren of the district took part, so we hear, in the procession. Yesterday was fixed for the Prince's visit to Wick, en route to John o' Groat's, and great preparations were being made to do him honour, it having been arranged that the day should be observed as a public holiday.

Meetings still continue to be held, in various parts of the country, in connection with the recent Bulgarian horrors, but it strikes us that people are beginning to regard the Turkish question more dispassionately. We have, in the course of the last few days, entered on quite a new phase of the crisis, and it seems to be a question whether, after all our hopes of a speedy close of the war, we may not see all Europe in a blaze. This, or some such feeling as this, has probably had an effect on the public mind, and we are just beginning to recognize the force of Lord Derby's statement, that it is not so much a question what we may wish to be done as what can be done at this present grave conjuncture. Mr. Cross has been at Glasgow, where he was presented with the freedom of the city. The Conservative Working Men's Association presented him with an address, but Mr. Cross's visit being of an essentially non-political character, the right honourable gentleman did not consider it would become him to make a party-political speech. The Earl of Carnarvon, on the occasion of his visit to the Derby High School, for the purpose of presiding at the annual distribution of prizes, took the opportunity of making a few weighty remarks on the present aspect of the Eastern question, though of necessity the greater part of his speech was directed to matters educational. On Monday, Mr. John Bright was present at a soirée given by the Manchester Reform Club, and expressed his views at great length on the same subject. Mr. Bright's views may or may not find favour —general favour with the public, but he certainly has the merit of consistency. He holds the same opinion now, intensified no doubt by the occurrences in Bulgaria, which he held at the time of the Crimean war. To-morrow, it seems, we are promised a Hyde-park demonstration, under the auspices of the Manhood Suffrage League, when two resolutions will be proposed, one warning the English people against the aggressive policy of Russia, and the other condemning the recent action of the Liberal leaders. Meantime, the Marquis of Hartington is now in Turkey, no doubt for the purpose of learning more directly what has been, and what is likely to be, the course of events. This is statesmanlike conduct on the part of the Liberal leader, and to show how grave is the present juncture of affairs, we note that a Cabinet Council was held on Wednesday, the early part of November being, ordinarily, the time when such Ministerial gatherings are held.

Friday last being Michaelmas Day, a meeting of the Aldermen of the City of London was held in Guildhall for the purpose of electing a successor to Lord Mayor Cotton for the ensuing year. The civic dignitaries previously attended divine service in the church of St. Lawrence Jewry hard by. On their return, the Recorder informed the Livery, who filled the hall, that they would be left to select two of the Aldermen who were eligible for the Mayoralty. The names of Aldermen Owden and Sir Thomas White were forthwith submitted to the Court of Aldermen; but the health of the former being such as to prevent him, for this year at least, from assuming the post of chief magistrate, the election fell upon Sir Thomas White, and when the Lord Mayor and Aldermen returned into the hall from their Court, the fact of Alderman White walking by the side of his Lordship was indication enough that the choice of his brethren had fallen upon him. Alderman White then stepped forward declared, himself ready to bear the responsibilities of the Mayoralty, and expressed his thanks for the high honour that had been conferred upon him. A vote of thanks to Lord Mayor Cotton was then proposed by Mr. Hubbard M.P., and seconded by Mr. Roger Eykyn. Having been carried unanimously, the Lord Mayor appropriately acknowledged the compliment. Thanks were also voted to the late Sheriffs, Messrs. Alderman Knight and Breffit, who severally responded. In the evening, the Lord Mayor, according to custom, entertained the Lord Mayor elect, the members of the Court of Aldermen, and numerous other guests, at the Mansion House, covers being laid for about eighty. The customary toasts were given briefly, the usual compliments being paid to the host and his successor.

The experiments with the huge eighty-one ton gun at Shoeburyness, have, for the present, been brought to a close. Scarcely a hitch occurred throughout the whole proceedings, and the artilleriste, who are qualified to give an opinion, appear to have expressed themselves highly satisfied with the monster's performance. We cannot say if the satisfaction of the soldiers quartered in the immediate vicinity of the butts is equally great. We hardly think so, considering the amount of damage done to their huts, especially those of the married men, which were so shaken by the terrible concussions, that the inmates have had to vacate them for the present. The gun is said to have gone through its series of trials without exhibiting the slightest damage in any part. Further experiments, when the gun will be fired at the 32 in. target, will take place at a later date. Meanwhile, some of our leading artillery officers are leaving for Italy, to watch the trials of Sir William Armstrong's 100-ton guns.

As the first of October fell this year on a Sunday, the inaugural addresses which mark the opening of the winter session at our several medical schools were not delivered till Monday. Dr. Blandford was the lecturer at St. George's, Professor Maudsley at University College Hospital, Professor E. B. Baxter at King's, Dr. Evans at Middlesex, Mr. Francis Mason at St. Thomas's, Dr. Wiltshire at St. Mary's, Dr. J. Mitchell Bruce at Charing-cross, and Dr. Allchin at Westminster. At Guy's there was a conversarione, which was very numerously attended, but at the other hospitals the usual address was dispensed with.

Shortly after Easter a novelty in the way of exhibitions was held at the Alexandra Palace, and proved a very great success. We are alluding to the Costume Display which the public were invited to inspect. A second, on a somewhat larger scale, was opened on Thursday, and will remain so till Saturday next, so that our lady friends have an excellent opportunity of seeing what London costumiers can do for them in the way of dress. We have not, up to the moment of writing, had a chance of visiting the present exhibition; but competent judges have decided that it is well worth a visit, and our experience of the first display fully warrants the belief that those who act upon our advice and go will be immensely gratified with what they see. We gladly note that one of the features to which the greatest prominence is given is the manufacture of becoming dresses at moderate cost. It is easy enough for rich people to indulge their taste for dress, but materfamilias with a regiment of daughters, to do the thing becomingly, finds it no easy task in these days to buy material that is good as well as cheap. Every effort to promote the manufacture of good clothing at modest prices deserves our encouragement. The weather of Saturday last necessitated, of course, the postponement of the great firework competition appointed for that day. It was accordingly set down for Thursday, and the day being fine, the two hours' continuous display drew a large attendance of visitors, who highly appreciated what they saw.

We have already remarked that the holding of a Cabinet Council in the early days of October is an indication of the gravity of the political situation in the East of Europe. All kinds of rumours are flying about, and we must probably wait some days in order to judge, if even then we find ourselves able to judge, of the course events are likely to take. Russia, it is said, means occupying one of the provinces of Turkey, directions having already been sent to the South Russian and Roumanian railways to hold themselves in readiness for the immediate despatch of troops. Then Austria, we are given to understand, will occupy Bosnia and the Herzegovina. All that is certain is, that the Porte has rejected the terms of peace proposed by the Earl of Derby, but is willing to grant, proprio motu, others even more favourable to its Christian subjects. The renewal of hostilities came from the Servians, who, however, were repulsed in their attacks on the Turks, and sustained heavier losses than on any previous occasion during the war. There seems, also, little doubt that Russia is, indirectly, fighting the battles of Servia. At all events there are several thousand officers and men of the Russian army in the Servian ranks. This must strike the minds of ordinary men as being not very far removed from a Russo-Turkish war, but the ways of diplomacy, and especially of Russian diplomacy, are not easily comprehensible by honest Englishmen. It is, however, as we have said, a very grave crisis we are passing through at this present time, and it behoves all Englishmen to do all they can to strengthen the hands of the Government.

Bro. Arthur T. Timewell's handsome marble rink was opened on Saturday last, when, spite of the obstacles to be encountered from the rain, which scarcely ceased during the day, a very large company assembled. The space laid with marble for skating purposes covers an area of 18,000 feet, and this is exclusive of corridors, platforms, &c. Bro. Timewell is the architect, and has personally superintended the erection of the building, which presents a most elegant appearance. Judging from the success that attended the inaugural proceedings, we think this cannot fail to be one of the most fashionable resorts of its kind.

We are deeply impressed with the importance of dining. We are of the same mind as Dr. Johnson, who considered a man who neglected his belly must be capable of any atrocity—we do not, however, use the word in its Bulgarian sense. A man is certainly not selfish who carefully studies what to eat, drink, and avoid. The man who shovels into his mouth large slabs of beef or mutton, and then washes them down with successive tankards of beer, may be said to eat in the sense in which savages perform that function, but assuredly he does not dine. Again, the man who is indifferent to what he eats and when, and how his victuals are dressed, is a barbarian pure and simple. He may be well-clad, worth plenty of money, and even in a certain sense educated, yet is he for all that a barbarian. The man of taste studies the question of feeding. He may luxuriate in a simple chop or steak—such things are luxuries—but he is careful the chop or steak shall be well and delicately served. He may indulge in a set dinner, and in such case he is careful to regulate the several courses so that they follow appropriately and consistently with one another. But the culinary resources of very few private establishments are equal to the preparation of an elaborate dinner; indeed, there are not many plain cooks who can send up even a plain chop or steak to perfection. It becomes a question, therefore, where shall we satisfy the reasonable demand of our bellies for good wholesome food at a reasonable cost? Well, London is certainly large enough to maintain thousands of such establishments, yet the few there are which are really able to satisfy this demand may easily be reckoned. Certainly, among this chosen few may be included an establishment known to the public as the Holborn Restaurant. It has not always been known as such. In years gone by, it was the Holborn Baths; subsequently it was transformed into the Holborn Casino; and, latterly, it has been improved into a dining establishment, and having again and again tested its merits, we may certainly pronounce it to be one of the best of its kind in London. Private dinners may be had in cosy little rooms, or the guest may partake of the regular dinner at the fixed charge; and if he elects to dine between the hours of 6.0 p.m. and 8.30 p.m. he may further enjoy the very artistic performances of an excellent band of music. In short, a Holborn dinner should be eaten, not talked about; at all events until it has been eaten. The resources of the establishment are equal to the production of any and every delicacy; the wines are excellent, the service good, and the accompanying music admirable. We may have occasion to revert to this subject in some future issue, for we repeat this matter of dining is of the very first importance. We have dined often, but not always well, and we are thankful when we know where a good dinner may always be had. If any of our readers are dubious upon the point, let them visit this well-known Holborn Restaurant and judge for themselves, whether or not dining as understood by its managers is not one of the Fine Arts.

On Wednesday, the 4th inst., another Swimming Fête was held at Brill's Baths, Brighton. Entertainments were given both in the morning and evening, the large round bath being specially adapted for the purpose, while the commodious galleries enabled the spectators to have an excellent view. A race for boys under 16 was most interesting, the distance being four lengths, and gold and silver medals being presented to the successful candidates. Miss Saigeman and her pupil, Miss Wilson, delighted the audience by their ornamental swimming. Captain Hoare, captain of the Dreadnought Swimming Club, London, and one of the masters at the establishment gave an exhibition of swimming. M. Olbin, from Paris, repeated his trapeze performance. The sports concluded with a "duck hunt" and a greasy pole contest. The entertainment was a success. Bro. Thomas Hadley Prestage, the hon. sec. of the Victoria Park Swimming Club, acted as starter and timekeeper. The judge was Mr. T. S. Lawrence.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WESTERN DIVISION OF LANCASTER.

ON Wednesday, this Provincial Grand Lodge held its annual meeting at the Temple, Hope-street. The Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale M.W.D.G.M. and R.W.P.G.M. of West Lancashire presided, and there were representatives present from 74 out of the 75 Lodges comprised in the province. From the annual report it appeared that there were 75 Lodges in the province, with upwards of 5,000 members. The annual business of the Hamer Benevolent Fund having been confirmed, a grant of 100 guineas was made from the charity fund to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and 50 guineas to the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution. The annual Court of Governors of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution presented their report, which stated that the income for the year amounted to £636 18s 6d, in addition to which there was £515 12s 7d. from invested funds. After making all necessary payments, there had been added to the invested funds £868 16s 4d, making a total invested fund of £12,683 17s 8d. A sum of £430 9s 11d had during the year been expended for the education and advancement of children, being an increase of £141 14s 4d over the payment in 1874. The report added that the increasing demands on the funds of the institution called for continued exertions on the part of the Masons of West Lancashire, because while there were on the funds in 1874 48 children, the number last year was 62; and at the date of the issuing of the report there were applications for the election of 23 additional children. Later on upwards of a hundred brethren dined together at the Adelphi Hotel, Bro. the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale again presiding. The usual Loyal toasts having been given and duly responded to, the health of Bro. the Earl of Carnarvon M.W.P.G.M., and the other G.L. officers, was proposed; Bros. Colonel Birchall G.S.D., and Sir Gilbert Greenall M.P., P.G.S.W. responding. Bro. Colonel Birchall proposed the health of the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, a toast which his Lordship acknowledged, assuring the brethren that he felt proud of presiding over the second largest province in the kingdom. A number of other toasts followed.—Standard.

JOINING THE FREEMASONS.

Reprinted from the "Liverpool Critic."

April 1.—To-day I resolved to become a Mason. Wagster, who is a Mason, thinks I ought to be one, and suggests I should find it very jolly, though the law forbids him to ask me to join. He also says he's expecting a large Australian order for tiles and chimney pots, which he would like to obtain from a Mason. I'm in the tile and chimney pot way. 'Tis clear I ought to be a Mason.

April 3.—Last night went to Wagster's to meet a few jolly fellows (all Masons). Among the distinguished members of W.'s Lodge was a Past Master, who was Past Master beyond a doubt, being a feeble old fogie; but the light of other days was upon his brow, and I venerated him.

April 5.—Have intimated my wish to join the Taksmin Lodge. Also have commenced studying Masonic literature, as I shall go into the thing thoroughly, and become a dignitary of the Lodge. To-morrow, will drop in on the Church-street dealer who sells Masonic jewellery. Why don't Masons always wear their stars and order? Certainly I shall keep mine in my breast pocket, to be slipped on at the shortest notice. It will look stylish; and if I grow a moustache ever so many persons will think I have the Legion of Honour Cross.

April 6.—This Masonic business looks better and better the more I think of it. Wagster says a great many swells, even some of the blood-royal, are Masons. Sir Thomas Hesketh is one, for Wagster calls him Brother Hesketh. Soon I shall be able to call him Brother Hesketh. Every one has read in novels and heard in conversation how these brothers stick to each other, and how the glorious tie, more ancient than our contemptible modern class distinctions, sweeps over all absurd social prejudices. I shall run over now and then during the summer and see Hesketh. Rufford Hall will be pleasant on Sunday afternoons.

April 8.—In a friendly spirit I have written to Sir Thomas Hesketh, telling him of my intention to become a Mason. Couldn't call him Brother Hesketh yet, thought for a time of commencing with "Dear Brother in future," but discarded the idea, and began "Dear Hesketh." That was brief and not too familiar. Daresay I shall have a reply to-morrow, for I hear he's at home. How my wife will cherish the autograph. She was always absurdly fond of the aristocracy.

April 10.—Haven't yet heard from Sir T. Hesketh, but it's sure to be right, for I'm to be "made" this day week.

April 12.—To-day I met my friend Marsh, who's a Mason. Told him I was going to be "made." Grasping me warmly by the hand, he wished me success through "the trying ordeal." He spoke with emotion and his eyes dimmed as he referred to the T. O. What could it mean? Oh! my prophetic soul, the poker.

April 14.—Forewarned may be forearmed. So I have rehearsed the poker business, and remembering that horses stand fire, and Red Indians stand torture when practice has inured them to it, tried how near to my nose I could stand the red hot thing, and found nothing but actually touching made me shrink. 'Tis a pity respectable Masons must be branded like convicts. Brandied and soda-watered may be endured, but branded simply is repulsive.

April 15.—After a wakeful night my nerves have settled, and I feel ready for "the trying ordeal." Have promised to tell my wife everything, so she is quite willing I shall be a Mason. How wives do like to know everything! O, Eve! Eve! Eve!

April 18.—Was "made" all right and proper last night, and feel pretty well, thank you. When I went home after the ceremony, Maria Theresa let me in, took off my great coat, had (unusual favour) my slippers on the hearthrug, and (also unusual favour) a particularly nice supper ready. Before I could eat she sat down in front of me and said, in a voice of anxious expectation, "Now, my dear" (she generally calls me "Mr. Battleaxe" or, if in good humour "Ben"), "now, my dear, tell me all about it." It really was hard to disappoint her, for though we've been married twelve years I love her still; but the vow, the vow's the thing! So I broke it as gently as possibly, that by the solemnest of oaths, involving more than she could conceive, I was bound to remain silent concerning what had passed. I assure you I did not even smile, for Maria Theresa in her wrath is a fearful and wondrous spectacle. But Calcraft's whip would not have frightened her back just then. She persisted. Sadly, yet firmly, I remained mum. Then Maria Theresa was seized with tantrums. Ye gods and little pigs, such tantrums! The table shook and my eyes blinked as she emphasised her anger. Nevertheless, I was firm; whereupon she rushed off to bed, and I heard her draw the bolt when she had banged the door.

April 21.—Though two days have passed Mrs. Battleaxe hasn't spoken yet. To-day I made a playful allusion to the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, but she didn't take the joke. Shall write to Brother Hesketh and explain my domestic troubles; for he must have gone through it all, and can advise me.

April 24.—At last my wife has spoken. She says she's written to her mother to come and stay a month with her. "A month," she says. Hum! "It may be for years and it may be for ever." Chorus, "It may be for ever."

April 27.—I haven't heard from Sir Thomas, but mother-in-law has come. This is shabby.

April 28.—No letter yet, and my wife remains as surely as Old Boots. The mother-in-law reinforcement has so set her up, that to-morrow I'll send a new bonnet as a flag of truce. There's a mysterious charm in bonnets new, in sealskin jackets and in petticoats blue.

May 1.—Wish I had registered my letter to Hesketh, for it must have gone astray somehow. I have received several letters of congratulation upon my becoming a Mason—one from Davies, the tailor; one from Hall, the shoemaker; one from Eaglesfauld, the hosier—all Masons they say. Each encloses a trade card.

May 6.—Go to Lodge somewhere every night. Have jolly evenings, very. The foul fiend still haunts poor Tom (that's Maria Theresa), but I take no notice now—go to Lodge instead.

May 8.—Receive more letters from Masons, enclosing tickets for concerts, balls, dinners given by brethren, and asking me, as a brother, to support this and that. It strikes me I've married into a big family. There are more people Masons than I suspected.

May 10.—Six Masons called on me this morning before I was up and nine were waiting in the street, asking me to do something or other. Couldn't I pass off my head clerk as me, instructing him to do the civil cut? For really there are a great many Masons. It is possible that each of them has his own Maria Theresa at home, yet, is it not melancholy as he remembers her reproachful eyes? But I go to Lodge every night. The banquets are splendid. Yes, banquets. Eating them, I don't grudge the subscription, for, having it, what's the use of a fat bank account if one can't enjoy one's-self? Some of the brethren must find it hard work to put down the dibs, but that's their affair. So I enjoy feasts to which the trumpery spreads of Foresters and Oddfellows are mere porridge and salt. I am slightly bilious. They tell me all Masons are slightly bilious at first.

May 15.—To-day, two poor women whose departed beloveds were Masons, called, asking me to assist in getting their two lads into the Mason's Orphanage. "A soft answer turneth away wrath." Of course I promised, and they went off quite happy. What did they say their names were?

May 20.—Have been regularly to Lodge. Mrs. Battleaxe still practising for Deaf and Dumb Asylum. How hard this Mason work makes some hearts! Mother-in-law is storing her furniture in our lumber rooms.

May 24.—During the last few days I have been very ill. I went to see my medical man, and he told me I had suppressed gout. Gout took my father to kingdom come. If this is "suppressed" gout I should like to have it out-and-out next time, for it would be pleasanter. In fact I am far from well, though doctor and chemist have had their will of me. Mother-in-law has settled down and the servants are respectful to her. Maria Theresa's frozen up like the tunes in Munchausen's horn; but she'll break loose before I become P.M. or W.M. For really everything looks blue. I have not ordered any Masonic jewellery from Church-street. And I have not heard from Brother Hesketh yet. And there are an astonishing number of Masons who appeal to me as a brother. What a change eight weeks have affected!

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Metropolitan R.A. Chapter of Improvement.—The business of this Chapter was resumed on Tuesday last, at the old quarters, the Jamaica Coffee House, and for an opening night, with a return of summer heat, we may consider the attendance fairly good. The Chapter was opened by the Principals, Comps. G. K. Lemann Z., Dr. Bedolfe H., J. Wyer J., assisted by the following:—Comps. J. Constable N., T. W. White S.E., E. S. Norris Assistant S.E., J. J. Berrie P.S., P. Wagner, C. W. Noehmer, G. Newman. The ceremony of Exaltation was completely rehearsed, Comp. Wagner acting as candidate. The election of officers for the ensuing fortnight resulted as follows—G K Lemann Z, J Constable H, J Wyer J, G Newman N, J J Berrie P.S. Three auditors were appointed to examine the accounts for the past year, and the meeting closed. We may congratulate our friends upon their proficiency after the vacation. This Chapter will meet every Tuesday, at 6.30, until May next.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Thursday evening, 5th October, at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. Bros. Crawley W.M., Hewlett S.W., Hollands J.W., Baxter S.D., Biddle I.G., Crawley P.M. Preceptor, Biddle Secretary pro tem. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last Lodge meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Hogarth acting as candidate. The 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Hewlett, assisted by the brethren. The 4th section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Poore, assisted by the brethren. Proposed by Bro. J. K. Pitt, seconded by Bro. Holland, that Bros. Stevens, Colmer, Harmer, Poore and Spiegel, become joining members, and unanimously carried. The Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned till Thursday next, 12th inst.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Monday, the 2nd October, at Bro. Gay's, Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's-gate, Clerkenwell. Bros. Beckett W.M., Powell S.W., Lake J.W., Killick Secretary, Halford Treasurer, Ockenden S.D., Millward J.D., Weeden I.G., Christopher Tyler, P.M. Bro. Moss 45. Visitor—Bro. Williams 177. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. The ceremony of installation was rehearsed, Bro. Powell acting as W.M. elect. He having been duly installed, appointed and invested his officers. After which the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Stock acting as candidate. Bro. Williams, of the Domatic Lodge, was elected a member. Bro. Lake was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Votes of thanks were unanimously accorded Bros. Beckett and Powell.

Kilwinning Lodge, No. 4.—This old Lodge held its regular meeting at their new Hall, Kent-road, Glasgow, on 3rd Oct. R. Prouth R.W.M., G. Holmes S.W., J. McInnes J.W., J. M. Caw, T. J. Riddle S.D., D. Ramsay Tyler, J. Thorburn I.P.M. The proposition for a New Masonic Hall for the purpose was discussed, and on the motion of the I.P.M., it was agreed that the Lodge should support the proposition. The Lodge was then opened in the 2nd degree, when the P.M. passed to the degree of Fellow Crafts Bros. J. Graham, Jas. Morrison and J. Barr. The Lodge was then made to the 2nd degree, when Bro. R. Mitchell P.M. 332 raised three brethren. The ceremonies were well performed.

St. Mungo Encampment of Knight Templars, Glasgow.—A regular meeting took place on Wednesday, 4th October. The following is the list of the new officers for the ensuing year:—Sir Knights W. F. Shaw Eminent Commander, R. Bell Past Eminent Commander, Thomas Clanachan Deputy Commander, J. O. Park Captain General, G. W. Wheeler Prelate, David Reid Recorder, John A. Fergerson Treasurer, John Kay Marshall, John Tweed 1st Aide-de-camp, Thomas Brunlie 2nd Aide-de-camp, James McLeish S. Warder, Peter Douglas J. Warder, Redie Purrie 1st Captain, Robert Grange 2nd Captain, James Louttit 3rd Captain, Daniel Baker Drill Instructor, Dr. Jas. Chalmers M.D. Standard Bearer, John B. Hardy Sentinel.

Thetis Chapter, No. 122, Glasgow.—This Chapter met on Monday, J. O. Park presiding, when the election of officers was proceeded with, and thereafter Comp. T. M. Campbell, Z of 69, installed the following Companions:—John De Neif as Z, William McAlister H., W. Law J., Jas. Quigley Scribe E, W. Gawlay N., J. Gunn Treasurer, G. Mackay 1st Sojourner.

Rosslyn Chapter, No. 129.—This Chapter held its annual meeting on Monday, 2nd October. The Chapter was opened by Comp. William Dobbie Past Z., G. W. Wheeler Z. 73 acting as H., and T. M. Campbell Z. 69 as J., and then proceeded to instal the following officers:—G. Thallen (re-elected for the sixth time) Z., A. Rutherford H., J. R. Stevens J., R. Glass S.E., J. McMillan S.N., D. Leadbitter T., J. Hogg 1st S., Col. Galbetty 2nd, J. Morthison 3rd, and R. Warnock Janitor. A Lodge of Most Excellent Masters was then opened, and Comp. G. W. Wheeler Z. 73 advanced Bro. Lazarus Louis to that degree. The Chapter was again opened, and Comp. Campbell Z. 69 exalted the same Brother. The thanks of the Chapter was given to both the Comps. for the way they had performed the ceremony.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street, on Wednesday, the 4th inst. Bro. Sayer presided. He was assisted by the following officers:—Bros. Groener S.W., Geo. Corner J.W., E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, John Constable P.M. Treasurer, J. K. Pitt Sec., Staley S.D., Hollands J.D., Telles I.G., Christopher Tyler. There were also present Past Masters Turquand and Webb, and some five-and-twenty brethren. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Spiegel acting as candidate. Three of the sections were worked by Bro. Rudderforth, assisted by the brethren. This being the maiden attempt of Brother Sayer to work a ceremony, the usual vote of thanks was proposed by Bro. Gottheil, who gave utterance to well-deserved praise, and expressed his satisfaction at the progress Bro. Sayer has made, designating him one of those quiet beings who are too diffident to make ostentatious display of their abilities. Indeed, he (Bro. Gottheil) had no notion that the W.M. had advanced appreciably in the knowledge necessary to conduct the business of the evening, but was agreeably disappointed in finding that his judgment in this respect had been at fault. The vote was unanimously carried, for which Bro. Sayer returned his sincere thanks, remarking that the little he knew he had derived through the painstaking Preceptor. It was proposed that the fifteen sections should be worked on the fourth Wednesday in this month, and that Bro. Rudderforth should preside. This was carried with acclamation. Bro. Rudderforth thanked the brethren, and said he thought it no slight honour to be selected for that duty, he for some time having had a strong wish to make his first attempt in that capacity in the Confidence Lodge of Instruction, which worked under the sanction of the Lodge in which he was initiated. Bro. Miller will occupy the chair on Wednesday next.

Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, No. 174.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Monday, 2nd October, at Bro. Seaton's, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C. Bros. Brookson W.M., E. Brown S.W., W. Fraser J.W., Hilliard S.D., Bradbrook J.D., Hogarth I.G., Crawley P.M. Preceptor, Ellis Hon. Secretary. The Lodge was opened in due form; the minutes were read and confirmed. The 1st ceremony was rehearsed, Bro. Larg was the candidate. The 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections were worked by Bro. Crawley, and the 5th by Bro. Webb, assisted by the brethren. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to the W.M. for the earnest manner in which he had performed the duties of the evening. There were also present Bros. Adams, Druitt, Gilling, Baxter, Hogg, Webb, Hewlett, &c. The Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned till Monday next.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its usual meeting at Bro. Fysh's, Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington, 30th Sept. Present:—Bros. Stock W.M., Knight S.W., Halford J.W., Macarthy S.D., Hughes J.D., Millward I.G. The Lodge having been duly opened the minutes were read and confirmed. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Ross being the candidate. Bro. Gilchrist worked the 1st and 2nd, and Bro. Stock the 3rd section of the third lecture. Bro. Knight was elected W.M. A vote of thanks to Bro. Stock, for his gratuitous services to the Lodge, was unanimously carried, and humorously acknowledged. The fifteen sections will be worked in this Lodge on Saturday, October the 28th, Bros. Tolmie W.M., Sadler S.W., Pearcy J.W.

Great City Lodge of Instruction.—The usual weekly meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday evening, the 5th inst., at 111 Cheapside. It may interest some brethren to know that the place of meeting is at the "London Warehousemen's Association," where the Lodge has the use of a fine large, well-ventilated room. Neither smoking nor drinking are allowed in Lodge, but refreshments are easily obtainable from the Magog, which adjoins. The able preceptorship of Bro. Poore has already raised this Instruction Lodge to a position equalled by few, and surpassed by none, and we can, therefore, strongly recommend it to those who are seeking to perfect themselves in a knowledge of our ancient ritual. Bro. P.M. James Stevens occupied the chair, and there were present A. Goodman S.W., W. Parker J.W., J. K. Pitt S.D., J. W. Colmer J.D. Treasurer, W. H. C. Wiltshire I.G., Poore Preceptor. Also the following:—Bros. J. Hamer, M. L. Spiegel, C. Taylor, C. E. Soppett, W. Kleingenstein, H. Payne, McMurray, &c., &c. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, Bro. Stevens worked the ceremony of initiation in his usually impressive manner, Bro. Hamer being the candidate. The first and second sections of the lecture were worked. On the proposition of Bro. Colmer, seconded by Bro. Spiegel, Bro. Dorman 1426 was elected a member. The Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned until Thursday next, at 6.30 p.m.

Dramatic Lodge, No. 591.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Wednesday, the 4th inst., the Worshipful Master, Bro. Dobson, presiding, H. J. Jackman S.W., W. Stevewright J.W., E. S. Smyth S.D., L. Mitchell J.D. Arrangements were made to accommodate professional brethren who may be in the city on the approaching visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. The Lodge was then opened in the 2nd degree, when Bro. J. McOliver S.W. of 360 passed Bro. Hutchinson in a very excellent manner.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—A meeting of the above Lodge took place at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday last. Bro. W. J. Smith 860 W.M., Worsley S.W., Cambridge J.W., Hogarth 1107 S.D., Hewlett 141 J.D., Johnson I.G., Worsley Secretary, and Wallington P.M. Preceptor, also Bros. Davis, Weige, Toy W.M. 1278, Dallas, Perry, Baxter, Turquand P.M. 1556, Watkins 1076, Young 820, Spencer, &c. The minutes of the last Lodge meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Weige S.D. of 860 acting as candidate, after which the W.M. worked the 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the lecture in a masterly manner, it being his first attempt at working the three. This is very creditable to this young Mason. In this Lodge the Preceptor as a rule works the ceremonial sections, and this is the reason so many of its young members are enabled to perform the ceremony so well. Three new members joined, viz.: Bros. Toy 1278, Watkins 1076, Young 820. The Lodge was opened and closed in the three degrees. Bro. Worsley 860 was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. All Masonic business being ended the Lodge was closed in perfect harmony. The 15 sections will be worked in this Lodge on Tuesday, 24th October the late Preceptor, Bro. Crawley will preside; he will be supported by Bros. T. Austin and Wallington as S.W. and J.W.

Gladsmuir Lodge, No. 1385.—This Lodge held its first meeting of the season on Friday, the 29th September, at the Red Lion Hotel, Barnet, Herts. Present—Bros. James Cutbush W.M., Dr. Livingston S.W., R. F. Young J.W., G. Askew Sec., J. Lowthin P.M. Treasurer, F. Venables S.D., C. Grey J.D., Newman and Allen Stewards, W. W. Morgan jun. as I.G., Goddard Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. H. Edwards, J. Lowthin and T. S. Carter. Business—Mr. John Brittain was initiated into Freemasonry by Bro. Lowthin, who acted as W.M. The question of Bye Laws for the Lodge Benevolent Fund was then discussed, after which the brethren adjourned to refreshment.

The Great City Lodge, No. 1426.—An emergency meeting was held on 30th September, at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, E.C. Bros. J. Hamilton Townend W.M., J. Seex S.W. and W.M. elect, R. Stanway J.W., Edward Moody P.M. Secretary, G. W. Blackie S.D., W. H. Catchpole J.D., Thos. Hamer D.C., James Freeman Treasurer as I.G., W. Steadman Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. N. B. Headon, J. Stevens. Visitor—Bro. Constantine, Jamaica Lodge. Bros. Stephens and Styles were passed. Messrs. Oppenheimer, Dorman, Shaw, Lutticke and Turner were initiated. There was a good attendance of brethren. The installation meeting of this Lodge will take place on Saturday, 14th October, when the W.M. and Officers of the City of Westminster Lodge are expected to pay a return visit.

Duke of Connaught Lodge of Instruction, No. 1524. — The annual banquet of the brethren was held on Wednesday evening last, at the Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston. There was a good attendance of the brethren, who were presided over by Bro. T. C. Chapman, the W.M. of the parent Lodge, the worthy Preceptor, Bro. Fieldwick, filling the Vice-chair. The repast, which was served in good style by Bro. Ferrar, having been well discussed, the cloth was removed, and the W.M. gave the customary toasts. That of Prosperity to the Duke of Connaught Lodge of Instruction was entrusted to Bro. Morgan, who briefly sketched its career, and called on Bro. Fieldwick, who suitably replied. The Chairman's health, proposed by Bro. P.M. Lee, was cordially received, and Bro. Chapman expressed the great gratification he experienced at presiding over so congenial a gathering. The W.M.'s and P.M.'s present was acknowledged by Bros. Lee, Pinder, &c. Several other toasts were given and replied to, and the brethren separated after spending a most pleasant evening. Bro. G. C. Young, well known as organist to several Lodges, gave his valuable assistance as accompanyist during the evening, and also favoured the company with some capital songs. Bros. Pinder, Stevenson, Symes and others, also contributed to the evening's enjoyment.

City of Westminster Lodge, No. 1563.—The members of this Lodge met on Thursday, the 28th ult., at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street. Bro. B. Swallow W.M. occupied the chair. Rev. P. M. Holden S.W., White J.W., Scott P.M. Secretary, C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. Treasurer, Turner as S.D., J. E. Shand J.D., Willis I.G., Bishop Organist, Potter Tyler, and Bros. Swaagman, H. W. Bonham, James, Hancock, Docker, Gardner, Gibson, Day, Pratt, Browning, Worrell, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Messrs. Fredk. Pannell, Patch and J. A. Hammond were duly initiated into the order. Bro. H. Bonham was passed to the 2nd degree. This being the night for election of W.M., the choice of the brethren was unanimously in favour of Bro. Rev. P.M. Holden. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Potter Tyler. A sum of £10 10s was voted from the Lodge funds for the purpose of presenting the W.M. (who is one of the Founders) with a Past Master's jewel, on his retiring from the chair, in appreciation of his valuable services. The Bye Laws were read, and the Lodge closed until November. The brethren then sat down to a very excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Nicol. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given.

West Smithfield Lodge, No. 1623.—An emergency meeting of this newly consecrated Lodge was held on Saturday last, at the Newmarket Hotel, King-street, West Smithfield. Bro. Jas. Smith P.G.P. W.M. Presided. Bros. T. W. Adams S.W., G. S. Elliott J.W., F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex P.M. Secretary, who also acted as I.P.M., Howes P.M. S.D., J. Johnson J.D., T. Butt as I.G., E. Mallett Assistant Secretary, and a large attendance of brethren and visitors. The Lodge was opened, and Bro. D. Smith was raised to the 3rd degree; Bro. L. Van Boolen was passed to the 2nd, and Messrs. T. M. Butt (a "Lewis," son of the Host), W. Snow and W. B. Delafons were initiated into the Order. The Secretary announced to the brethren that Bro. J. Johnson J.D. was willing to serve as Steward at the next Festival for the Boys' School. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded and placed on the minutes to Bro. J. Smith P.G.P. W.M. for his very elegant and appropriate present of the Volume of the Sacred Law. The Lodge was then closed until 19th October. A sumptuous banquet and dessert was provided by the worthy host, Bro. Butt. The usual toasts were given. Among the visitors were Bros. E. B. Grabham P.S.G.W. Middlesex, W.M. 19, H. Potter P.M. 11, A. Stevens I.G. 1298, E. Mallett J.W. 141, L. Van Boolen 1275, D. OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentay to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cheltel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

THE

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. IV.—No. 94. SATURDAY, 14th OCTOBER 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

THE USE OF THE BALLOT.

IN recent articles we have been urging on our readers the absolute necessity there is for exercising the extremest caution in the election of new members. We have endeavoured to impress upon them that mere increase in numerical strength does not necessarily bring with it increased moral weight. Oftentimes, indeed, the moral influence of a society or other body of men is in an inverse ratio to its numbers, being weaker according as its numbers are greater, and stronger when its circle of members is restricted. We pointed out in two recent articles, entitled respectively "Indiscriminate Charity" and the "Indiscriminate Admission of Candidates," that, as regards the former, the abuse of charity was one of the surest means of encouraging into our ranks the needy and unscrupulous adventurer, who would join us with the sole object of making as much profit as possible out of Freemasonry; while, as to the latter, the incautious admission of applicants would furnish a never-failing supply of these adventurers. The indiscriminate bestowal of charity must exercise a magnetic influence on the worthless alms-seeker, who prefers living on other people's good-nature to living by honest labour, and the careless admission of all candidates indiscriminately must facilitate the purpose he has in view. We therefore urged it as a principal duty on the part of all Freemasons that they should be cautious in the distribution of alms, and still more cautious in the proposal and election of candidates, or Freemasonry will sink below the level of a benefit society. We now purpose devoting a brief space to the proper use of the ballot, partly because cases now and again occur which show unmistakably there are many who do not attach due importance to the exercise of this right, but chiefly because the more careful we are in the use of the ballot, the likelier are we to secure Freemasonry from the intrusion of worthless members.

Too many regard the ballot with supreme indifference. They consider it a mere form, which may be used or abused at pleasure. They seem not to be aware that it is a right accorded to them under the Constitutions, and that when they join our Society, they bind themselves by a most solemn obligation to exercise this right in common with all other rights and privileges, in a manner conducive to the honour and well-being of Freemasonry. We noted in our article on the "Indiscriminate Admission of Candidates," two most flagrant cases of the abuse of the ballot, in one of which a P.M. openly boasted of having blackballed a candidate, and of the reason which had induced him so to do. The other occurred in a District Lodge in Australia, and led to a scene of violence, which we believe we are justified in describing as well nigh without parallel in the history of Freemasonry. It is clear that in neither of these cases had the offenders the slightest notion of the object of the ballot; and it is certain that though these were probably exceptional cases, others less objectionable are constantly occurring even in Lodges which are ordinarily well governed. We frequently hear of slight contretemps in connection with our system of voting, while the fact of our highest dignitaries laying so much stress on it is sufficient evidence that its abuse is not infrequent, and moreover is generally known throughout the Craft. A word or two in support of these dignitaries will not be out of place just now, when fresh Lodges are being constituted all over the country, and the number of the inexperienced is on the increase.

In a Society like ours, the plan of voting by ballot for the admission of candidates is obviously necessary. Were any other than the secret plan of voting adopted, then in the case of an applicant who was admitted, but not unanimously, it would be well nigh impossible for him to associate comfortably with the one or two members who had opposed his election. It is only in accordance with human nature that a feeling of soreness should influence him in his relation with them, and they, too, probably would reciprocate this feeling to a certain extent. Here, then, we have a terrible cause of discord among those whose relations should be harmonious. The ballot, then, being absolutely necessary in order to secure general harmony, it must be apparent to every one that the purpose with which it was adopted will be entirely lost sight of, if the necessary secrecy is not observed. If Bro. A. proclaims openly that he has cast, or intends casting, a blackball in the case of this or that candidate, the essential condition of the ballot system is violated, and open voting might as well be the order of the day. It is clearly of little avail for learned writers, skilled in all the intricacies of Masonic jurisprudence, to rule emphatically that under no circumstances must a brother make known his vote, if, as a matter of fact, brethren think lightly of the ballot, and are never so happy as when announcing that they have voted, or intend voting, black in certain cases. It is indisputable that voting is one of our most important duties. We bind ourselves, on our admission into Freemasonry, to observe faithfully all the duties required of us by the Constitutions. There is no graduated scale of obligation. We do not undertake to observe certain duties absolutely and unreservedly, while in the case of certain others the observance is simply contingent on our likes or dislikes. The obligation includes all, and we are as much bound to vote secretly and conscientiously as we are to fulfil the tenour of our other undertakings. Again, it must not be overlooked that neglect of our duty in the case of the ballot is well nigh certain to entail most serious consequences to the well-being of the Craft. Wherever there is an abuse of the ballot, there it is well nigh certain that discord will prevail. As for instance, A. proposes a candidate, who is rejected—it may be rightly, but it may equally well be, unjustly. B. or C. proposes a candidate, who is likewise rejected, not, however, on his merits, but simply because he is the nominee of B. or C., and B. or C. is pretty generally believed to have blackballed A.'s nominee. Then rival cliques are formed in a Lodge, and, apart from such general dangers as are inevitable where there is cliquism, it is manifestly impossible that any applicant for admission, how respectable soever he may be, will find his application successful, except, indeed, by accident. In these and similar cases, the ballot is made a means for the exercise of spite or favouritism. There is nothing like the conscientious observance of a duty we are bound to fulfil, and thus the character of Freemasonry is depreciated. We are presumed to exercise towards one another, in private as well as in public, the strictest honour, but where the ballot is misemployed, as we have said it is, too frequently, there is an entire absence of this honourable feeling. Instead of being the moral examplars we hold ourselves out to be, we descend to the exercise of the pettiest and most lamentable malice. We are not worthy of the name of Masons, for we deliberately set at naught the most cherished principles of Masonry—those of honour and of justice.

While, however, on the one hand, the ballot is oftentimes employed in satisfying the paltry dislikes of this or that member, to the detriment of individuals, and, indeed, of the whole Craft, there is, on the other hand, a very serious danger threatening those Lodges whose members lack the courage to use the ballot justly when occasion requires. A brother is proposed as member or a candidate for admission whose antecedents are certainly not commendable, but he is elected in spite of his various disqualifications because sundry members of the Lodge in which he is proposed are too tender-hearted, or, be it said rather, too weak-minded. They know well enough that his election must be detrimental to the true interests of the Lodge. They have it in their power, each, at least, so far as his individual vote is concerned, to secure his rejection. But though they are well aware of the importance of rejecting him, they are silly enough either to vote white, or else take no part in the ballot. Equally in such case do those who act thus fail in their duty. They are bound to the conscientious fulfilment of every Masonic duty. The law provides a means whereby the fulfilment of this particular duty may be observed without fear of question; yet are there far too many brethren who, from excess of good nature, do as we have said, and vote white, when their better judgment tells them they should vote black, or absent themselves from the ballot altogether.

If, as very many hold, Dr. Oliver is not the safest authority in the world on Masonic history, he is certainly a trustworthy guide in all matters relating to the interior working of the Craft. He had a large and varied experience, extending over upwards of sixty years. His views were certain to be broad and comprehensive, and being above all things a gentleman, he was certain to exercise an impartial judgment, dealing out justice with an iron hand, yet always avoiding even the semblance of harshness. Let us see what he says anent this important duty of voting. In considering whether it is constitutional for any brother to be present at a ballot and remain neutral—that is, of course, abstain from casting his vote, either for or against the candidate, Dr. Oliver says, at p. 43 of his Masonic Jurisprudence:—

"We should consider such conduct un-Masonic (although we are not aware of any law to prevent it), for this reason, that where a brother becomes a member of any Lodge, he is supposed by the simple act of affiliation to renew his O.B., by which he undertook when he was made a Mason to be governed by the ancient usages and customs of the Order; one of the most important of which undoubtedly is, to keep the Lodge pure and harmonious, by the exclusion of unworthy candidates: this can only be effected by means of the ballot.

Every Mason ought to feel the full extent of his obligations. But if a single dissatisfied brother, whose unfavourable opinion of the candidate would induce him to give an adverse vote if he voted at all, should refrain from the exercise of this privilege, out of courtesy or tenderness for the candidate's reputation, he might, undesignedly, but not the less surely, inflict an incurable wound on the Lodge, and be indirectly accessory to the introduction of an unworthy member."

And our late Reverend Brother proceeds to argue that if a member "may with impunity evade this paramount duty, the same rule might possibly operate to nullify all his other Masonic obligations; and should every brother be tempted to pursue the same injudicious course, the Order would soon be reduced to a chaotic state." And he argues that as few members would themselves knowingly propose an improper person as candidate, so should they be equally careful, by voting strictly in accordance with their conscience, to guard against the intrusion of similar candidates if proposed by others. Here, then, we have the deliberate opinion of a sound and worthy Mason, that no sense of courtesy, no tenderness for a candidate's reputation, must ever induce us to abstain from recording our vote. It is a duty we owe to the Craft that we acquit ourselves in the matter of voting justly and conscientiously. We are bound to fulfil our obligations, be their fulfilment never so unpleasant. Where duty and good nature are opposed to each other, it is the former which must be obeyed, and obeyed implicitly.

We have shown in the course of these remarks that on the one hand, the ballot-box must not, as Dr. Oliver expressively puts it, "be converted into an unjust and oppressive engine of mortification and punishment." It certainly affords "facilities for the exercise of vindictive feelings, and the private expression of dislike and ill-will." But it is obviously impossible that any one who allows these feelings to influence him can be worthy of the name of Mason. On the other hand, no excess of delicacy must ever stand between us and the conscientious fulfilment of an important duty, for the simple reason that it is impossible to calculate the amount of harm we may be, indirectly, the means of inflicting on our Order. Two things are, in fact, necessary if we would exclude unworthy persons. The first is that members should exercise the greatest care whom they propose as candidates; the second is that they exercise their right of voting in strict accordance with their own conscience and the welfare of Freemasonry.

COLOURED MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES.

By Bro. Jacob Norton.

IN 1795, Judge Tucker, of Virginia, requested the Rev. Dr. Belknap, of Boston, to give him information about the origin and abolition of slavery in Massachusetts; the then status of the coloured population, &c. Among others, Dr. Belknap consulted Prince Hall, whom he described "as a very intelligent black man, fifty-seven years of age." Bro. Hall replied in writing to Dr. Belknap's inquiry thus:—"There is a great number of worthy men and good citizens that are not ashamed to take an African by the hand; but there are also to be seen the weeds of tyranny, pride, envy, and scorn in this garden of peace, liberty, and equality."

Dr. Belknap followed up the narrative with Prince Hall's initiation into Masonry in an army Lodge, and his ultimate reception of a charter from England. "The Lodge," said Dr. B., "at present consists of thirty persons, and care is taken that none but those of good moral character are admitted." Dr. Belknap then gave the following note, "from a white gentleman of the craft, of good information and candour."

"The African Lodge," wrote the white brother, "though possessing a charter from England, meet by themselves, and white Masons, not more skilled in geometry, will not acknowledge them. The reason given is that the blacks were made clandestinely in the first place, which if known, would have prevented them from receiving a charter. But this inquiry would not have been made about white Lodges, many of which have not conformed to the rules of Masonry. The truth is, they are ashamed of being on equality with the blacks. Even the fraternal kiss of France, given to merit, without distinction of colour, doth not influence Massachusetts Masons to give an embrace less complimental to their white brethren. These, on the other hand, valuing themselves on their knowledge of the Craft, think themselves better Masons in other respects than the whites, because Masonry considers all men equal, who are free, and our laws admit of no kind of slavery. It is evident from this that neither avowedly nor tacitly do the blacks admit the pre-eminence of the whites; but it is as evident that pre-eminence is claimed by the whites."—Massachusetts Historical Collection, Vol. IV., 1795.

"Pride, envy, scorn!" "Ashamed of being on equality with the blacks!" "This enquiry would not have been made about white Lodges!" Such was the conduct of Massachusetts white Masons towards the African Lodge, in the last century!

Within the last quarter of a century, two new stories about the African Lodge have been circulated in the press. Story No. 1 was, that when the African brethren petitioned the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, and produced the charter as evidence of their Masonic rights, the said Grand Lodge grabbed the charter, and the African Lodge never recovered it. Story No. 2 is a modification of the above. It was the Grand Lodge of England who requested the return of the charter, for the purpose of making some alteration, but when it got hold of it, it would not return it, and the African Lodge retained a copy only of its charter. The story No. 2 was sent by the late P.G.M., Dr. Winslow Lewis, of Boston, to the G.M. of Vermont, in 1855, I believe. The story is, of course, false; but Dr. Lewis was too honourable a man to have invented it: of that there is no doubt. I have long since suspected that the late Charles W. Moore, of Boston, was the actual inventor, and I have more than once questioned Dr. Lewis about the original authorship of the said story, but always received an evasive answer. Recently, however, Bro. Lewis Hayden, P.G.M. of Prince Hall Grand Lodge, assured me, that in 1868 Dr. Lewis admitted to him, that "Charles did it," meaning C. W. Moore, and I have no doubt it was so.

The "No. 2 story," coming from so high a source, was eagerly seized by the press, and was echoed and re-echoed in almost all of our Masonic proceedings. Dr. B. Barthelmess, of New York, now residing in Germany, did not, however, believe in that cock-and-bull story. He seems, therefore, to have visited Boston, where he saw the original African Lodge charter and likewise its records and MSS., took copies therefrom, and sent them to Bro. Findel, who printed these in 1861, in the Bauhütte, and subsequently made the facts known in his history of Freemasonry. The reading of the said history induced me, in 1868, to examine the said charter myself. Early in 1869, I made known, through the American Freemason, the genuineness of the said charter, which fact was confirmed the same year by a Grand Lodge committee; but so tenacious are our Masonic editors in clinging to fables, that for about two years after the explosion of the story it was here and there repeated in our papers. I once sent a contradiction of it to the New York Dispatch, wherein it was so repeated, which, of course, was not printed; since then the story has ceased to be repeated here. But, wonderful to relate, the very same paragraph from the Dispatch recently appeared, as a matter of fact, in the columns of the Freemason's Chronicle!

I stated, in my last communication, that a committee was appointed by the G.L. of Massachusetts, in 1868, to make inquiry into the claims of the African Lodge Masonic status, that Bro. Moore thereupon questioned Bro. Hervey, Grand Secretary of England, as to when the G.L. of England erased the African Lodge from its register (of course no inquiry was made at the same time as to when the white American Lodges were so erased), and also as to whether Bro. Hervey regarded the African Lodge as still legitimate. To which Bro. Hervey replied that the Lodge was erased in 1813, and that he did not deem the said Lodge legitimate. But Bro. Hervey soon after came to a different conclusion, when he wrote to Bro. Moore that, providing the African Lodge continued its meetings regularly, he (Bro. Hervey) was not prepared to pronounce it clandestine. This, together with the conversation I had with Bro. Hervey upon the subject, the reader will please to bear in mind.

Early in 1869, Bro. John F. Heard, chairman of the said committee, saw the African Lodge charter and records at the State House, Boston, where Bro. Lewis Hayden, G.M. of Prince Hall G.L. is employed. According to Bro. Hayden's statement, Bro. Heard called three times, and devoted each time about an hour in examination of the records. I once happened to call at the State House just after Bro. Heard left the office, and then I myself saw two MSS. records of the African Lodge. They were certainly old, and the writing had become yellow; but beyond a glance here and there, I paid no attention to the contents, save and except I noticed that the chirography was not done by a graduate of a college; the writing and spelling were faulty, but this would not invalidate or impair the testimony of the said records. Subsequently, Bro. Heard twice requested me to give him a synopsis of these records, and promised to incorporate it into his report. I, however, declined to meddle with it.

At last the committee met. The majority were disposed to acknowledge nothing. They evidently thought it dangerous to their foregone conclusion to acknowledge either the genuineness of the charter or the existence of records which furnished evidence of the regularity and continuity of meetings of the Lodge, which, if proved, would have made the Lodge legal according to Bro. Hervey's opinion. The chairman, however, insisted on acknowledging, at least the validity of the charter. So, at last, a compromise was affected between these high and mighty contracting parties to acknowledge the charter and ignore the records, and the following quibble furnished their excuse for shirking from their duty:—

"Your committee have examined the charter, and believe it is authentic; but as they do not deem it to be necessary at this time to investigate the historical statements contained in the petition, they have not inquired into its legal Masonic effect, nor whether proper organisation under it ever took place. The petitioners include only a portion of persons who claim to derive privileges from this instrument, when it is obvious that the granting of this prayer, for the reasons they advance, would equally benefit their associates who have not joined in the petition, and over whom this Grand Lodge would have no control. Under these circumstances it is not necessary to inquire into the validity of the proceedings of the persons named in the charter, or whether the petitioners have any just claim to be considered their successors."

In 1870 Bro. William S. Gardner G.M. of Massachusetts, delivered a long address on the coloured question. His arguments were chiefly based on American Masonic laws; according to which the African Lodge had not a shadow of right. He also dwelt on its illegal secession from the G.L. of England, forgetting at the same time that the white American Lodges were guilty of the same offence. He quoted the first letter of Bro. Hervey, but omitted mention of the second, &c. &c.

I reviewed the said address in the July number of the Masonic Monthly, 1870. And, among other things, I referred to his ignoring Bro. Hervey's second letter. Bro. Gardner read my article carefully, and then frankly acknowledged that my "criticisms were fair and square;" but he assured me that when he compiled his address, he was not aware that Bro. Hervey changed his opinion. I thereupon exonerated Bro. Gardner from the charge of ignoring in the next number of the Masonic Monthly.

One mistake of Bro. Gardner in the said address I entirely overlooked in my review, viz., that the African Lodge became dormant after the death of Prince Hall in 1807, and continued so until near 1824. The address of the Grand Master of Ohio last winter in favour of chartering the coloured Lodges in his jurisdiction, brought out the whole tribe of Masonic quibblers in our magazines, and the alleged dormancy of the African Lodge was made by them a great point in their arguments. The following specimen will show the style of these luminaries:—

"In 1784 the Grand Lodge of England granted a charter to Prince Hall and other coloured men for holding a Lodge in Boston. As there was already a Grand Lodge in Massachusetts, it is evident that the granting of that charter was illegal, and, according to the recognised principles of American Masonic law, the said charter was null and void. But let that pass. There are still more important irregularities. The African Lodge, No. 429,* as it was called, was never recognised by the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts. After some time it ceased its connection with the Grand Lodge of England, and about the beginning of the present century its registration was stricken from the rolls of that Grand Lodge, by which act its Masonic life was effectually destroyed, as would be a man's life by cutting off his head. In the course of events, Prince Hall and his compeers died, and the Lodge which had been for some years acting without any Masonic authority fell into abeyance, or in Masonic parlance became dormant, or more properly extinct. Some years afterwards it was revived, but by whom or under what authority, never has been shown by those who revived it. Notice of the revival was given to the Grand Lodge of England, but no reply or recognition followed. It received, of course, no recognition from the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts."

It is needless to demonstrate that the above paragraph contains very little truth and a great many mis-statements. It is not true that the African Lodge was stricken off from the English roll before the death of Hall, or that the Lodge had been acting during Hall's lifetime without any authority. It is not true that the Lodge had ever been dormant; it consequently never revived, and it consequently never gave notice of such a revival to the Grand Lodge of England. I can satisfy any impartial tribunal that between 1807, the year when Prince Hall died, and 1824, when the African Lodge brethren asked the English authorities to grant them either a new charter to work seven degrees, or otherwise empower them to confer the Royal Arch degrees (they understanding that these consisted of four degrees), that between these two periods not a year passed without initiations, &c., taking place in the African Lodge; of all which my friend Bro. Gardner seems to be perfectly satisfied. But the following authorities will further demonstrate the legitimacy of our coloured Masonic organizations:—

1st. The following extract from Dr. Winslow Lewis's letter, in 1868, to Bro. Lewis Hayden:—

"I am also free to confess that, if the door of our Order was open to all, irrespective of colour, it would make it, as it should be, truly cosmopolitan. I hope to be spared to that epoch, and no one will hail it with more sincere satisfaction than your friend and brother, according to my feeling, WINSLOW LEWIS."

2nd. Dr. Joseph Robbins, now Deputy Grand Master of Illinois, also reviewed Bro. Gardner's address in 1870, and came to the same conclusion I did. And I am pleased to add, that if Bro. Gardner now had the power, he would incorporate the coloured Lodges in Massachusetts into the Grand Lodge's jurisdiction.

3rd. In Ohio, and in Minnesota, the Grand Masters recommended the chartering of the coloured Lodges within their respective jurisdictions, and a committee in Ohio, consisting of honest men of both of our political parties, have unanimously pronounced the coloured Masons as legitimate and legal as the whites.

4th. Bro. John W. Simons, P.G.M. of New York, and Masonic editor of the New York Dispatch, who is a very estimable gentleman, but strongly tinged with American prejudices against niggers, and who, as already stated, reprinted in the Dispatch the "story No. 2," two years after it was exploded by our committee; the said Bro. Simons recently admitted to me, that the conduct of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts in not chartering the African Lodge ere it organized its own Grand Lodge was wrong, thus acknowledging the legal origin of the said Lodge.

5th. Bro. Albert Pike, P.G.M. and Sovereign Grand Commander of the A. and A. Rite of the Southern jurisdiction of the United States, who is generally admitted as the best authority on Masonic jurisprudence in America, wrote to the G.S. of Ohio as follows:—

"Prince Hall Lodge was as regular a Lodge as any Lodge created by competent authority, and had a perfect right (as other Lodges in Europe did) to establish other Lodges, making itself a mother Lodge. That's the way the Berlin Lodges, Three Globes and Royal York, became Grand Lodges * * * If the negro Lodges are not regular, they can easily get regularized. If our Grand Lodges won't recognise negro Lodges, they have the right to go elsewhere. The Grand Lodge can't say to eight or more Masons, black or white, we 'will not give you a charter because you are negroes, or because you wish to work in the Scotch Rite, and you shall not go elsewhere to get one.' That latter part is bosh."

Be it further known that Bro. Pike is so averse to negroes that he threatens to withdraw from the Craft if they are admitted. But he does not resort, as others have, to quibblings and falsification of historic facts and Masonic precedents. Bro. Pike is the only honourable opponent to the admission of negroes in America.

Last, and not least, Bro. Caldwell, G.S. of Ohio, sent me the following extract of a letter from Bro. Parvin P.G.M., and now G.S. of Iowa, whose interesting autobiography appeared recently in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE:—

"I have read opinions of Pike and Lewis in the pamphlet 'New Year' you sent me. My own opinion is, that the negroes can make as good a show for the legality of their Grand Lodges as the whites can. It is only a matter of taste, and not of law. I am satisfied that all the world outside of the United States will ere long recognise them, and I think we had much better acknowledge them than to blend them into our organisations."

The above array of American Masonic authorities of the highest respectability, seconding and sustaining as it were the opinion of the R.W. Bro. John Hervey, justifies me in earnestly recommending and advising our English W. Masters of Lodges to accord the same treatment to Americans hailing from coloured Grand Lodges as they do to those of the white Lodges. Should the question ever be brought before the Grand Lodge of England, I have no doubt that after calm and mature deliberation it will sustain the decisions already passed by the Grand Orient of France, the United Confederation of Grand Lodges in Germany, the Grand Lodges of Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Hungary, and elsewhere, acknowledging the legality of the American coloured Masons. As to the doctrine of "exclusive jurisdiction," be it remembered that it was through the arrogance, malice, envy, pride, and tyranny of the white Masons towards their coloured brethren—conduct justly denounced by the Grand Orient of France as "AN OUTRAGE AGAINST HUMANITY AND MASONRY"—it was through the un-Masonic conduct of the whites in the first place that the coloured brethren were driven to establish Grand Lodges of their own; and even now the fault of divided jurisdiction rests with the whites, for nothing prevents union here, save and except the pride and arrogance of the whites.

"As Masons we are of all tongues, kindreds, religions, and nations." All must be judged by the same standard and the same laws. If secession from the Grand Lodge of England was justifiable on the part of the whites, it was also justifiable on the part of the blacks, and vice versâ. In short, the question of colour should no more influence our judgment or conduct either for or against a brother Mason than the question of religion, nationality, or politics.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The question of identity of renderings in the sections of the three degrees having been opened in your columns, the inquiry may I think be advantageously extended.

As to the question of Bro. Poore, the word "nature" may seem more appropriate to the present time; but it is not improbable that the word "nation" may have been adopted when the minds of all were excited by some calamity, such as the earthquake at Lisbon, to which the British parliament gave so large a grant, when its advocates would loudly proclaim that it did honour to that "nation" whence such bounty had sprung. It is also the more ancient form. But when we apply the same question of propriety to the lectures generally, what answers can we obtain? Or who shall decide?

I am not decrying Lodges of Instruction, for I feel the greatest difficulty in recognising as a true Mason any one who has not duly studied there. I feel he has never gone through the stern discipline there meted out, and which, as a means to an end, is invaluable.

It was a frequent remark of my late esteemed Preceptor, Bro. Thomas, that "few who had passed the Chair ever entered a Lodge of Instruction." We naturally ask, "Why?"

I had formerly the honour of knowing a distinguished Edinburgh Reviewer, and Christian man, who wrote a work "On the Objections of Men of Science to Revealed Religion;" the Sacred Volume affords the best answer. The same may be said of Masonic teachings.

In teaching the truths of Christianity, the highest and noblest talent and genius the world has seen have been consecrated to the work, and all philosophical systems have been illustrated by the great and wise. It may, therefore, fairly be asked whether the neglected and degrading condition into which our philosophical teaching has fallen, as developed in our lectures, is not the best answer to the remark,—"few ever enter."

It is a matter of history that the ancient philosophers adopted a mode of instruction to their disciples, something resembling our own, and judging by the remarks of Cicero, a system of esoteric and exoteric teaching was adopted by the quasi-Masonic Lodges of his day. It is, therefore, by no means impossible that the idea may have travelled down from remote times, and be internal evidence that our body really had a philosophic origin, and that after its passage through the high-ways and bye-ways of time, its first effort, in more favoured era, was to expand its wings and fly to higher regions of thought and of human aim. It is, indeed, the proudest attribute of our body, that it claims to afford a philosophical teaching.

Whatever, however, may have been the original cause of attaching philosophical teaching to our instruction, the present adaptation is not one of antiquity.

The teachings in our lectures are founded upon the subjects taught in the schools of the latter Roman and Middle Ages, called the "Trivium" and "Quadrivium."

The "Trivium" includes what were deemed the introductory and less noble arts, viz., grammar, rhetoric, logic.

The "Quadrivium" closed this "circle of the sciences" (a phrase still in common use) with music, arithmetic, geometry, and astronomy: and then, as all was written in Latin, the following lines fixed them in the memory.

Gram. (loquitur), Log. (docet), Rhet. (verba colorat,)
Mus. (canit,) Ar. (numerat,) Geo. (ponderat,) Astron. (colit astra.)

As shown in the fourth section of our second Lecture, and the initial letters are still used by our brethren as a mnemonic, without knowing its origin.

The most popular work upon the Trivium and Quadrivium was written by Marcianus Capella, in the fifth century, and it remained in use at universities until the sixteenth century.

Gregory of Tours, a bishop and historian, speaks of it as a book by which the grammarian learned the rules of construction, the logician to arrange his arguments, the orator to persuade, the geometrician to trace his lines, the astrologer to mark the courses of the stars, the arithmetician to fix his numbers, and the lover of harmony to adapt his words to the modulation of musical sounds.

Cassiodorus, another writer on the liberal arts, who flourished in the reign of Theodoric, A.D. 520, gives nearly the same arrangement, and it is probably from his work that our Craft articles on the liberal arts are obtained, for he takes them in the same order, grammar, rhetoric, logic, arithmetic, geometry, music, astronomy, and his definitions are almost identical with our own.

His article on astronomy may be thus translated: "Astronomy is the chiefest and greatest of the sciences, and if we study it with a sincere mind, it overwhelms our perceptions by its brilliant light. In such way we raise our minds to Heaven and curiously survey ('indagabile ratione') with searching reason, the boundless extent of this vast machine," &c., &c.

The intelligent Mason will at once recognise the style and language of different versions, and the other articles in our lectures on the liberal arts are almost literal translations.

In the second section of the second lecture it is absurdly stated that geometry was first founded as a science at Alexandria, in Egypt. But it is a parody upon an answer from the same author, Cassiodorus.

Q. Quid isti fecerunt qui in Ægyptiacis partibus possiderunt? Meaning what did they do (in relation to geometry) who lived in Egypt? A. Ubi Nili fluminis supervenionte, &c.

"The River Nile annually overflowing its banks," &c., washed away the landmarks. It continues nearly identical with our own version until the latter states, that the inhabitants "hearing of a Lodge of Freemasons held at Alexandria in Egypt." But what Cassiodorus states is this: "In the time of the taxing under Augustus, Hiram. Metricus, or Hiram-the-measurer, was sent down, so that henceforth the studious person could know it by reading, and recognise the boundaries with his eyes."

Are we children to be taught to repeat that, as historical fact, a Lodge of Masons existed at Alexandria, and that a Euclid was Master?

Is it possible a Preceptor can be found with gravity to teach such absurdity, or does he, with a wink, acknowledge that it is only a puerile lie? It is idle pretensions like these, not one of which will for a moment bear the test of criticism, that has brought Masonic history into such deserved contempt.

There is nothing, however, to reproach ourselves with in using these definitions of the liberal arts; for, from the time of Pope Gregory II., A.D. 604, the learned of all nations, including Alfred the Great, Roger Bacon, Bacon the philosopher, and all kings and counsellors, to the time of Oliver Cromwell inclusive, all studied from the same book, the last edition of which was published as late as the 17th century.

Why also make such a mystery of the origin of our teachings in the liberal arts and sciences when, in the last century, they could have been obtained at every old book-stall in Grub Street.

I have not traced the teachings in Ethics, such as Virtue, Honour, Mercy, &c.; it could readily be done, but they are rather in the style of fine writing common in the last century.

I do not, however, complain of these ten subjects; they are the salt of our teachings, trivial as they are. It is when we come to those in which Hebraic history is so ridiculously travestied, that we ask why our intelligence is to be so outraged.

Why are we asked to listen to sheer idle tales about Abraham and Isaac, Rebecca and Jacob, with a host of others?

Why are we compelled, with all the lights of science around us, to listen to such a childish cosmogony as is detailed in the second section of the second lecture, with all its goody twaddle?

Why is that beautiful and ancient Roman emblem, which St. Paul so well knew how to appropriate in one of his most sublime addresses, to be degraded by its connection with a narration disgusting to listen to, humiliating to repeat?

Here is the beginning, Lecture II. Section 3:—

"At that time there lived a man of note, whose name was Gilead, who had many sons, and one in particular he had by a concubine, whom he called Jephtha."

"Gilead dying and his sons growing up, they expelled Jephtha from his father's house, saying, 'thinkest thou, the son of a bondwoman, to inherit with us who are freeborn?'"

"Jephtha being thus unworthily treated in his native country, and being of a bold and daring spirit, resolved to try his fortune in a foreign one, he therefore repaired to the land of Tob, whence he made incursions into the neighbouring Gentile nations, often returning laden with rich spoil." After a life of freebooting and slaughter, he finally terminates his career by "the plunder of twenty Ammonitish cities."

The perusal of even Biblical narrations, which at the time they were adopted might have been heard with admiration, but when dragged in uselessly are, in the present state of human feeling, calculated only to excite disgust, is enough to make angels weep or wise men mad, and this is of them.

In the first lecture, again, the subject "freeborn" is explained by an absurd travesty of a Biblical narration of "Agar and Ishmael, and Sarah and her husband." If this word "freeborn" has any interest for Freemasons it is to be found in the belief that it is really traditional, and the explanation may have reference to that edict of the Emperor Caracalla, who, when he granted the freedom of the City of Rome to all the Roman world, limited it strictly to the "freeborn."

Can we wonder at the remark, "few ever enter." Shame forbids me to repeat the Lecture.

It may be said that our Lectures teach morality, but a morality like this is a cold morality, a false morality; better leave it untaught than teach it thus.

It may be said they teach the liberal arts and sciences. But it is the office of liberal teaching to train the mind all round, to adapt it for the acquisition of exact and varied knowledge, and to prevent its being the victim of predominant or one-sided views.

How then can we hope to improve the rising generation of initiates, and incite them to higher motives, to teach them to be men of honour and truthfulness, by this farrago of old wives' fables, and which must often cause to blush the faces of many of our esteemed Preceptors, whom custom enchains in its grasp.

In thus speaking of an acknowledged difficulty I have only endeavoured to confine myself to expressing the feeling of humiliation which a visit to some of our Lodges of Instruction causes.

Masonry is by no means opposed to the ideas of the present day. Never was such an Institution more wanted, for its members are citizens of the world. It can adapt itself to all creeds and climes, and even yet we may say of it,

"Time writes no wrinkles on thine aged brow."

But let us not forget also that since our teachings were written Bacon has lived, and that the ipse dixit of masters has passed away.

Let us be content in our Lodges to inculcate great principles of truth, and then men will be found to live and die for them.

Freemasonry is as a neutral land, a commonwealth set apart in a serene region far above political contests, unapproached by party differences and political estrangements, but how is it to maintain its high character if its esoteric teachings are "To pain the thoughtful, make the thoughtless scoff."

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—"Q.'s" letter, on this subject, published in your last impression, is an important one, for it sets forth in a very lucid manner the reasons for accepting or rejecting one or other of the versions adopted by various Preceptors, and it leads the way I hope for many similar ratiocinations on the part of others. This correspondence may probably result in the gathering together of all the moot points upon which the opinions of the brethren are solicited, and it may become a very interesting and extremely useful reference in the future, as indicating the reasonable and commonsense views of those who take part in it. There can be no doubt that your correspondents, as well as those who read, will be, in some measure, better instructed, and rendered more willing to observe and correct errors than hitherto. And although some may be, and indeed are, ready to condemn these letters on the score of their treating only of what they are pleased to call very trivial and unimportant divergencies, it may be relied upon that before the series is completed it will be shown how these, to them apparently unimportant matters, affect in no inconsiderable degree the whole Masonic system, and cause in many respects incalculable injury.

"It is the little rift within the lute
That by-and-bye makes all the music mute!"

The exigencies of Masonic reticence require that many portions of what we call "working" as contradistinguished from ritual, should not be openly referred to in publications which reach non-Masons; and therefore, for the present, and except when discreet allusions can be made to represent the actual word or fact, I shall confine myself chiefly to those portions of the lectures which do not describe ceremony too closely. In the examples I have already quoted there has probably not appeared sufficient difficulty in determining which word to adopt as correct to induce controversy, but I shall conclude this letter by submitting more important differences to the consideration of your readers. Of the first of these I may briefly state that the "rival versions" of the respective Preceptors makes all the difference between universality and speciality, and is of considerable moment in relation to that equality amongst Freemasons which we never tire of extolling as one of our greatest privileges. In respect of this example there is sure to be different opinions, and ample scope for discussion, and it will be interesting to learn the reasons which may be given for the final adoption, as correct, of one or other of the modes of expression. As to the other two, the commonsense verdict of the large majority may be safely predicted.

Preceptor No. 1 says, "He who is placed on the lowest spoke of Fortune's wheel is equally entitled to our regard."

Preceptor No. 2 says may be, &c.

Again, No. 1 says, "Geometry is the base upon which the superstructure of Freemasonry is erected." No. 2 says, "The basis and superstructure upon which Freemasonry rests."

And again, No. 1 says, "Raise the body, &c., to such a sepulture as became," &c. No. 2 says sepulchre. Which is correct?

Yours fraternally,

Clapham, 9th October 1876. P.M., P.Z.

LODGES OF INSTRUCTION.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—"Counterblast" certainly deserves the thanks of all Masonic students—I may almost say, of the whole Masonic community—for his energetic protest against the inordinate consumption of tobacco in our Lodges of Instruction. Personally, I can stand any amount of smoking. Were half-a-dozen brethren in my room at this moment, each emitting from between his lips as dense a volume of smoke as ever did that incorrigible old cattle-lifter Cacus, of whom we read in classic authors, it would cause me not the slighest feeling of discomfort. But then, Sir, I have gone through a long course of training. I have, again and again, spent two or three hours in a Dutch railway carriage, where the smoke was so dense it was impossible to distinguish the features of the fellow-passenger sitting immediately opposite. I have been in Dutch cafés, where the atmosphere most nearly resembled that of the City in a dense November fog. I am, in fact, a thoroughly seasoned smoker, and never wink, sneeze, or cough, no matter how many there are puffing or how vigorously they puff their pipes, cigars, or cigarettes. Yet I confess I have often wondered how it is the attendance at our Lodges of Instruction is so respectable in point of numbers. The brother who does not smoke in one of these Lodges is an exception, as much, perhaps, as I am in the ability to endure smoke, and any amount of it. Yet the non-smoker and the mild smoker, who indulges only occasionally in a mild pipe or cigar, both have a claim upon our consideration. It is, to say the least, not courteous to impose on him the alternative of enduring an hour or two's discomfort, or staying away altogether. Parliament has wisely ordered that smoking carriages shall form part of every train, so that smokers and non-smokers may travel in comfort, each person according to his peculiar taste. I do not see how our Lodges of Instruction can be classed as smoking and non-smoking Lodges; but we may, at least, be moderate in our indulgence of this habit when studying the mysteries of Freemasonry. We have no right to inflict discomfort on those of our fellows whose tastes may differ from our own. "Bear and forbear" is a very good maxim, which smokers and non-smokers will do well to remember. The latter are willing enough, I am sure, to bear as much as they can; let the former forbear to ask more.

Fraternally yours,

BACCALAUREUS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—"Counterblast's" letter, under the above heading (vide page 228) is too important to remain unnoticed. It calls attention to what many members of our Order look upon as a grave impropriety and a serious drawback to the respectability and progress of Freemasonry. The injury caused by the practice referred to is all the more vexatious because there is really no necessity for its continuance. A little attention to the Masonic call upon us to "subjugate our passions" would teach us so to "moderate our desires" that on the occasions of attending Lodges of Instruction a two hours' abstinence from what, to say the best of it, is a habit better not contracted at all, but, once contracted, better controlled than encouraged, ought to be considered no sacrifice. "Giving up every selfish consideration which might tend to injure others," it should be borne in mind that the enjoyment (?) of an atmosphere redolent with the fumes of nicotine, in addition to the ordinary "close-tyled" temperature of the meeting place, is absolutely injurious to many who would fain absent themselves but for the expectation and desire of receiving instruction. Non-smokers cannot remain, and smokers (of whom I am almost one of the inveterates) are compelled to "follow suit" in self defence, and so, against all the proprieties, appear to countenance that which they would fain condemn.

But this is merely taking the personally objective phase of the question into consideration. Let us look upon it with reference to our "system of morality," and ask ourselves how far our practice is in accord with our profession, when not even the most solemn portions of our rehearsed ceremonials have sufficient influence to induce us to desist for even the space of five or ten minutes. What degradation must our ritual suffer by the recital of passages of prayerful appeal amidst such surroundings? How can the presiding W.M. "forcibly impress the dignity and high importance of Freemasonry" from behind a clay pipe? Out upon it! It is a canker, destructive of the very principles of the Order, and the time must surely be at hand when steps must be taken to eradicate it.

But for the demand on your space and the necessary limits I must set myself, I could multiply and multiply such questions as the above, but these should be enough, if answered according to the consciences of true Freemasons, to at once and for ever sweep away the practice of smoking and drinking during Masonic instruction. For what we may respectively do before and after our meetings we have ourselves only to consider, and are, or should be, judges of the propriety or impropriety of our acts; but to Freemasonry we owe another kind of allegiance, and none of us should be permitted to degrade it by association with bacchanalian or nicotinian orgies.

Let us, therefore, in the name and for the sake of our glorious Order, and also out of respect to all those patrons, from our M.W.G.M. downwards, through royal, clerical, scientific and literary circles, who honour it and are honoured by association with it, stamp out this blot upon our fair escutcheon, and resolve that during the brief time from the opening to the closing of our Lodges of Instruction we will copy the example of our Mother Lodges, and permit no refreshment within our walls. 'Tis no hardship, but, on the contrary, will be proved a pleasure. Amongst those Lodges of Instruction which adopt this practice of abstinence are the "Emulation," the "United Pilgrims" and the "Domatic," both of which meet at the Surrey Masonic Hall, "The Great City," and others. May their names be writ large! Visit them, and observe the order which pervades each assembly, the propriety of the work which they do, and the clearness and perspicuity with which questions and answers are put and given. There is no bemused or bewildered brain, no anxiety to get through an exemplification for the sake of the "eternal pipe," no atmosphere which kills!

I dare say this letter will not quite meet the views of many (both personal friends and unknown to me) who may read it. Let them, I beg of you, ventilate the question in your columns, as some of us would wish they would ventilate their rooms. I challenge criticism, and shall be quite prepared to "draw out my army" and do epistolary battle with them, if necessary.

Yours faithfully,

Clapham, 9th October 1876. P.M., P.Z.

INDISCRIMINATE ADMISSION.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—In your issue of the 30th ult. there appeared a very appreciative article on "Indiscriminate Admission," but I am afraid it will take something more than an article in a Masonic paper to stamp out this suicidal system of admission, at least north of the Tweed. Take a case.

Three gentlemen living in Lanarkshire—Middle Ward—got it into their heads that they would like to be Masons. There is a Lodge in the place where they live, but they fix upon one some twenty miles distant, in fact in Ayrshire; but a difficulty here arises, they have no Masonic friends in Ayrshire to introduce them to this Lodge; they therefore fall back upon two members of the local Lodge—who are equally unknown in Ayrshire—who write this Ayrshire Lodge, proposing them as members thereof; a night is fixed, and on that night a party of five arrive in a very ancient town in Ayrshire, which boasted of a very ancient Masonic Lodge, when two perfect strangers—who may or may not be Masons—propose three gentlemen, also perfect strangers, and, presto, they are Masons.

Now, Sir, this occurred only last week, as I have described it. What a humiliating position for one of our oldest Lodges, perhaps our very oldest, to put itself into; yet this is but one of many I could cite of the same kind. Though I have little hope of this exposé doing any immediate good, still, a few such revelations should stir up the hearts of some of our fathers to come to the rescue of the honour of our Scottish Craft.

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

THE MAGAZINES OF THE MONTH.

READERS of Blackwood must remember the very pleasant series of papers which appeared some months since in its columns, entitled "The Abode of Snow." This month the opening article is from the same pen, and describes with equal success "A Run through Kathiawar—the Scythian Kathis." There is no class of contribution more likely to be appreciated than those which give us an idea of comparatively little known countries and peoples, and the account of this run through Kathiawar will, or at least deserves to, attract a multitude of readers. "The Friend of the Hero" is the title of a well-told story, and then we come to Part V. of "A Woman-Hater," displaying still those excellences we have already noted. A most admirable parallel is that in which "The Two Chancellors, Prince Gortschakoff and Prince Bismarck" are portrayed. All the salient characteristics of these two eminent statesmen are most carefully, and, we may add, most truthfully delineated. The writer has evidently made them a study, and being a true master of the pen, is able to bring home to us with no little success the impressions he has formed. Among the other articles, we have noticed a very pleasing description of "Country Life," and a very elaborate sketch of "The Mobilization of the Army and National Defence," based on all the latest experiences at home and abroad.

At its very first appearance the New Quarterly took a foremost place in periodical literature, and now that it is entering on the fourth year of its existence, we may renew our congratulations on the eminently high tone and character which mark all its contents. Let us take, for instance, Mr. O'Connor Morris's paper on the "Military Lessons of the War of 1870," which is so ably written that even non-military readers will probably be the first to recognize its merits. Then the essay of Mr. Mortimer Collins on "Aristophanes" is a masterpiece of its kind. We have seldom read any clearer or more truthful estimate of the great comedian's character. Mr. Collins has entered fully into the spirit of his comedy, and has succeeded most admirably, wherever he gives the English equivalent of any passage, in imparting no little of that same spirit to his own version. It is certainly a most successful performance. The title of Mr. Percy Fitzgerald's article, "The World behind the Scenes," and the writer's known "proclivities"—to use an American word—are a sufficient index to the nature of its contents. The article is well worth reading. Mr. S. Sidney, as the author of the "Book of the Horse," is likely to prove an authority on "Four-in-Hand Driving as a Fine Art," At all events, those who take an interest in the doings of the four-in-hand and coaching clubs, and in the revived taste for travelling by coach, will find much to interest them in Mr. Sidney's remarks. The editor's self-imposed duty of reviewing "Current Literature and Current Criticism" is admirably fulfilled. A number of this New Quarterly without the most instructive critique would be shorn of its principal attractions. "Hester," by Beatrice May Butt, and "Professor Hoffmann's 'Folly,'" by Mr. John Dangerfield, are excellent specimens of the fiction which generally grace the pages of this magazine.

Were the illustrations of equal merit with the literary contents of Belgravia, we should have nothing but praise to bestow upon it. But while the fiction, the occasional papers, and the poetry are of a high standard, the pictorial portion of the contents are certainly not to be commended. We have said the literary matter is admirable. In support of this statement we need but call attention to the serial stories of Mrs. Lovett Cameron, Mrs. E. Lynn Linton and Miss Braddon, in the way of fiction. Mr. Charles Reade is a very popular writer, and "Reality," being No. VI. of his "Good Stories of Man and other Animals," is a capital specimen of his style. Mr. Sala, too, is one of our best contributors to magazine literature. If any doubt this, let them read his "Bean Feidling and the Old Bailey," and we think their doubts will be set at rest. "Tasbrook's Testimonial," by Mr. James Payn, is amusing if nothing else. In the way of poetry we have "Echoes," "Cupid's Alley," by Austin Dobson, and a spirited set of verses by W. E. W. entitled "Black Rupert's Leap."

Temple Bar is always welcome, and seldom more than it is this month. Fiction is represented by Anthony Trollope's story of "The American Senator," and Mr. Dubourg's "An Old Man's Darling." The latter is likely to prove very interesting; of the former's merits we have already spoken. The paper "On Certain Delusions of the North Britons" is one of the best in the programme. A sketch of "Philip, Second Earl of Chesterfield," is skilfully drawn. Mr. A. de Fonblanque contributes a short story with the very uneuphonious title of "A Rat." But the reader must not be led astray by the ugliness of the name, or he will miss a well-written tale. "Heine on Cervantes and the Don Quixote," Lady Pollock's "The Best of our Time," and "An Egyptian Martyr," are the most noticeable of the other contributions.

In Baily we have read with pleasure a short sketch of "the late Mr. Felix," one of the first cricketers of his day; a description of "the Old Fashioned First of September," apparently from the same pen; an article on "American Trotters," the "Yachting and Rowing" summary of last month; "Our Van," and a further chapter of "Frank Raleigh of Watercombe," in which Frank takes farewell of Oxford, and prepares to join a cavalry regiment. As to the general character of the number, it is enough if we say that it is quite up to the high standard of this magazine.

The Leisure Hour is another of those periodicals whose appearance we always look forward to with much pleasure. The contents this month are of the usual order of excellence. The series of papers in which are described "The Border Lands of Islam," "Roumania" being the subject of the present essay, is continued. Dr. Edkins contributes an interesting article on "Early Civilisation," in which he gives us an insight into "the Antiquity of the Chinese," and Principal Dawson one equally interesting on "American Myths, as related to Primitive Ideas of Religion." There are a few notes on "the Exploration of Palestine," and a well written description of "The New Forest, its Scenery and Inhabitants," as well as of "The Royal Military Academy, Woolwich." In addition to these and other contributions are the usual "Natural History Anecdotes," "Antiquarian Gossip on the Months," and "Weather Proverbs." From these last we quote the following, which all relate to the present month:

"A good October and a good blast,
To blow the hog acorn and mast."

"Many haws,
Many snaws,
Many sloes,
Many cold toes."

"Many hips and haws,
Many frosts and snaws."

"If the oak bears mast (acorns) it foreshows a long and hard winter."

Among the contents of the Sunday at Home, we commend specially to the notice of our readers Dr. Stoughton's paper in continuation of his series on "Westminster Abbey," No. X. of "Welsh Preaching and Welsh Preachers," Mr. W. H. G. Kingston's sketch of "Angus Sanderson, the Orkney Blacksmith," and the article on "Sir George Harvey, late President of the Royal Scottish Academy." In both these periodicals the illustrations are highly satisfactory.

There are few more useful or entertaining magazines than Cassell's Family Magazine. It is invariably well furnished with serial fiction, and the two now current, namely, "Caught in the Briars," and "A Hard Case," are worthy successors to the "Manchester Man," and others of the same class. But, as we have said before, it is the practical papers which form its chief recommendation. These include, in the present number, "Some Simple Directions for the Prevention of Sickness," "On the Art of Making Home-life Happy," "Washing at Home," "Gardening in October," "Chit-chat on Dress," "Local Dishes," by Phillis Browne, and last, but certainly not least in point of merit, Mr. A. G. Payne's very sensible directions for making salads. In the way of descriptive writing, A Lady from India instructs us "How a Lady passes her Day in India." There is likewise a most interesting paper by Dr. Andrew Wilson, in which he affords the reader "A Peep at the Jelly-Fish." The Gatherer's Notes, as usual, include many useful hints for the family.

We have also received Part I. of the new issue of Cassell's Popular Educator. No one who has read even a part only of one of the former editions will be surprised that a further issue should have been demanded. We are told, indeed, and with our experience of the merits of the work, we receive the information without the slightest feeling of astonishment, that upwards of 800,000 copies of it have been sold in the twenty years since its first publication. The principal branches of knowledge to which the Educator is devoted are, History, Science and Languages, and the information collected in each branch is most ample. The aim of the work is to enable people to educate themselves, and in evidence as to how this may be done, we quote some of the contents of No. I. There are, firstly, lessons in French, English, Geography, and Drawing, in Penmanship, Arithmetic, Latin, Mechanics, Botany, German, Music, Geometry, and Reading and Elocution. There are two historical sketches, one of "Magna Charta" and the other of "The Murder of Thomas à Beckett," and two papers entitled "Our Holiday," the first being a description of the game of La Crosse, the other being No. 1 of directions for a course of gymnastic training. This programme speaks more eloquently for the value of this admirable publication than would any words of ours.

Part II. of the new serial publication, The Countries of the World, confirms our judgment as based on Part I. The scenes described are all in the Arctic regions. The letter-press is admirably compiled, and the illustrations, which are very numerous, are well done, and will serve to convey a very excellent idea of the scenery in the inhospitable north.

A prospectus of the Royal Polytechnic College, 309 Regent-street, under the presidency of the Right Hon. the Earl of Shaftesbury, has just been issued for the autumn session, which commenced Monday, 9th October. There are classes in seven languages, ancient and modern, and eighteen others in Science and Art in connection with the Science and Art Department, South Kensington, and the Society of Arts.

HOLLOWAY'S PILL.—PREVENTIBLE DISEASES.—Many are the maladies which at all seasons and in all districts silently work their way into the human system through miasma, noxious vapours and deteriorated air, which could be disposed of by a few doses of these admirable Pills. The vitiated gases enter the lungs as we breathe, and contaminate the blood, which will convey the poisonous particles throughout the body, unless some purifier, such as these Pills, be taken to cleanse it. Let the poison lurk where it will—thither will it be followed and confronted by this never failing antidote. Holloway's Pills expel all harmful matters from the circulation, and cleanse the solids likewise from all treacherous impurities tending to produce disease.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

OCTOBER ELECTION, 1876.

The favour of the Votes and Interest of the Governors and Subscribers is earnestly solicited on behalf of

EDWIN HAIR,

AGED 8 YEARS AND 9 MONTHS,

SON of the late Bro. JOHN ATKINSON HAIR, Newcastle-on-Tyne, who died very suddenly, 24th June 1875, of heart disease, age 39 years; leaving a widow, one daughter, and two sons entirely dependent on the kindness of an old and warmly attached Masonic friend, the Petitioner, Bro. George Thompson.

Bro. John A. Hair was initiated in the St. Peter's Lodge, No. 461, Newcastle, in 1863, and was twice elected the Worshipful Master of that Lodge, to which he continued to be a subscribing member, as well as to three other Lodges of the Province, until the time of his death; he was also P.P.G.J.W. of Northumberland.

He was exalted in the St. Peter's Chapter, and in due time was elected First Principal thereof. He was also a member in the Royal Kent Encampment of Knight Templars, W.M. of the Northumberland and Berwick Lodge of Mark Masters, and P.P.G.S.D. of M.M.

The case is strongly recommended by the following brethren, any of whom will be glad to receive Proxies:

The Rt. Hon. EARL PERCY, R.W. Prov. G.M. Northumberland, Alnwick Castle, Northumberland.
L. M. COCKCROFT, Esq., V.W. Dept. Prov. G.M., Northumberland, Bank Chambers, Mosley Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
Bro. J. THOMPSON, P. Prov. G.S.W., Prov. G. Sec. Northumberland, Higham Place, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
JOHN HOPPER, P.P.G.S.W., Lombard Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
E. D. DAVIS, P.P.G.S.W., Prov. G.D.C. Eldon Square, Newcastle.
Bro. H. M. LEVY, P.M., 188, P.Z. 188, 24 Southampton Row, Holborn, London.
E. P. ALBERT, P.M., 1017, G. Purst., 66 Berners Street, London.
HUBERT LAWS, P.P.G.S.W., Secretary to the Charities' Committee, Prov. of Northumberland, Grainger St., Newcastle.
T. W. WHITE, P.G. St. B., P.M. 21, 6 Barnabury Square, London, N.
T. Y. STRACHAN, P.P.G.J.W., Grainger Street West, Newcastle.
C. J. BANISTER, P.G. Std. B., Summer Hill House, Horton Road, Bradford, Yorkshire.
LT.-Col. ADDISON POTTER, P.P.G.J.W., Heaton Hall, Newcastle.
GEO. THOMPSON, P.P.G.S.W., 94 Rye Hill, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Duke of Connaught left Balmoral on Friday last, for the purpose of taking up his command of the 1st Batt. of the Rifle Brigade, quartered at Dublin. On his arrival at Kingston, His Royal Highness was met by several of the authorities, and on reaching the Irish Capital drove to the Barracks, where his regiment lay, amid the heartiest demonstrations of the populace. The same day the Duke left Balmoral, the Prince and Princess of Wales, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, visited Wick, it being fully three hundred years since any royal personage has gone so far north in the British Isles. Naturally the excitement of the inhabitants was commensurate with the rarity of the occasion. Accordingly the town, or at least that portion of which the royal visitors would have to traverse, was quietly yet gaily decorated, the Town Hall and the Railway Station making the most effective display. About noon, the party arrived at the station, where they were received by the Provost and town magistrates, the Sheriff of the County, the Earl of Caithness and others. At the Town Hall an address of welcome was presented, to which the Prince most graciously replied. After a very brief stay the party proceeded on their way northwards, but the rejoicings of the worthy burghers were prolonged till late in the evening. A banquet was held in the afternoon, at the Town Hall, when the usual loyal toasts were most enthusiastically received. In the evening the whole town was illuminated; the effect is reported to have been very grand, and there was likewise a very successful display of fireworks. Among those present to witness the passage of the Royal party were the Artillery and Rifle Volunteers of the county, and our Brethren of the district. Since the return to Dunrobin Castle their Royal Highnesses have been going about visiting various places of interest in the neighbourhood. The weather has, however, been very unfavourable. According to the Scotsman grand preparations are being made at Glasgow to receive the Prince on the occasion of his visit to lay the foundation of the New Post Office. Some dissatisfaction is reported, in consequence of the Volunteers to be reviewed being limited to 6,000, but the Masonic arrangements appear to be very perfect. Grand Lodge will be opened in the Albany Academy at 1.30 p.m., the daughter Lodges assembling in Burnbank Park an hour previously. These will be marshalled in the procession according to seniority. The order of the procession will be—firstly, a band of music, then the daughter Lodges four abreast, the senior Lodge in front, followed by Provincial Grand Officers according to the seniority of their several Provinces, and then the Grand Lodge Officers. When the head of the column reaches the triumphal arch at George-square, the brethren will open their ranks to permit of Grand Lodge passing to the platform, and will stand fast till the Prince returns between the same to the Lord Provost's residence. Full Masonic costume will be worn, and there will be a grand Masonic banquet in the evening. We doubt not the occasion will prove both the strength and loyal devotion of our Scottish brethren.

Among the more recent of what are commonly known as "extra-Parliamentary" utterances, the most important are those of Mr. W. E. Forster, at Bradford; Lieut.-Col. Lloyd-Lindsay, at Reading; and the Duke of Somerset, at Warminster. Mr. Forster, though a prominent member of the Gladstone Cabinet, expressed his readiness to support the endeavours of Lord Derby, whose conduct he highly eulogised, to secure the peace of Europe. Col. Lloyd-Lindsay was able to speak with considerable emphasis on the recent events of the campaign, as he has only just returned from the seat of war. He did not conceal from his audience that great cruelties had been practised by the irregular Turkish troops, but he laid great stress on the conduct of Russia. The Duke of Somerset heartily endorsed the policy of the Foreign Office. Indeed, save in one or two directions, there seems to be a very general desire to strengthen, as far as possible, the hands of the Ministry. Other meetings have taken place, notably one at St. James's Hall, over which another ex-Liberal Minister, Mr. Stansfield, presided; and another, on Monday, in Hyde Park, which appears to have been a failure. On the other hand, several gatherings have been held, at which resolutions in support of the Government have been carried either unanimously or by overwhelming majorities. For ourselves, while expressing no opinion whatever respecting this or that particular line of policy, we think it were far better if, at so tremendous a crisis, the public were to exhibit no agitation whatever. The difficulties of the Ministry are very formidable. They are doing their best to secure a peaceful solution of the most difficult question which has arisen this century, and at the same time to maintain intact the honour and interests of this country. Under these circumstances, we think it is the duty even of those who differ from the Government, to avoid any and everything that may possibly retard the desired settlement. This, we gather, is the general opinion now, whatever it may have been during the excitement of a few weeks. The best evidence we have that Lord Derby is doing the right thing, is his powerfully-written despatch to our ambassador at Constantinople, than which, we imagine, a stronger was never written by the minister of one Sovereign to another.

The end of Lord Mayor Cotton's reign is at hand, yet his Lordship dispenses the hospitality of the Mansion House as liberally as ever. On Monday, he entertained the chief magistrates of various cities and towns in the three kingdoms, to the number of some 250, at dinner, among the guests being the Lord Mayors of Dublin and York, the Lord Provost of Glasgow, and the Mayors of Manchester, Liverpool, Cork, Birmingham, Wolverhampton, Brighton, Portsmouth, &c., &c., together with Aldermen Sidney, Sir R. W. Carden, Carter, Lawrence, Sir J. C. Lawrence, Sir T. Dakin, and other civic functionaries. Most of the guests wore their official robes and chains of office, and these, of course, lent brilliancy to the occasion. The usual loyal and complimentary toasts were received with enthusiasm, and there was some excellent music, both vocal and instrumental, to relieve the intervals between the different toasts. On Saturday, the ceremony of formally presenting to his Lordship's custody the Elcho Challenge Cup, won by the English at this year's Wimbledon meeting, took place in Guildhall. As it is three years since the trophy was last intrusted to the Lord Mayor of London as its official guardian, great interest was evinced in the simple ceremony, and it is almost needless to add that the largest contingent of visitors was furnished by our Metropolitan Volunteer regiments. Captain Wells, as Captain of the English right, acted as spokesman, and the Lord Mayor expressed the great gratification it afforded him to have had so important a trophy handed over to his charge. His Lordship was loudly cheered on retiring, and subsequently a number of past and present members of English eights, and other distinguished riflemen, sat down to a banquet at the Mansion House Station Restaurant, under the presidency of Mr. Wells. Among the principal speakers were Captain Field, H.A.C., Captain of the English twenty, Mr. Parsons, H.A.C., Adjutant of the English eight, Mr. Martin Smith, of the Victorias, Mr. Wells, and others.

There has been considerable activity in the sporting world. This week has been held the Newmarket Second October Meeting, and on Tuesday the first of the two great autumn handicaps was run, the winner turning up in Mr. G. Smith's Rosebery, who passed the post easily four lengths ahead of the favourite, Woodlands, Merry Duchess being only beaten by a neck for second place. On Saturday a grand sculling match, between Boyd of the Tyne, and Sadler of the Thames, for £400, took place, over the usual course from Putney to the Ship at Mortlake. Very soon after starting Boyd took the lead, and maintained it throughout, in spite of the gallant efforts of his opponent, ultimately passing the post a very easy winner by four lengths. It must be borne in mind, however, that Sadler had the very serious disadvantage of being some fourteen years Boyd's senior in point of age. The same day there was a very successful gathering at Lillie Bridge, the occasion being the Autumn meeting of the London Athletic Club. Several important events were contested, but the interest of the day centred in the struggle for the half-mile challenge cup, in which Elborough, Hill, and Slade were entered. They passed the post in the order named, Elborough being about two yards ahead of Hill, and Hill about seven ahead of Slade. Time of the winner 1 min. 57½ sec., so that the pace must have been tremendous throughout, eclipsing any previous achievement among amateurs. The Oval was the scene of a grand meeting of bicyclists, under the auspices of the Surrey Bicycle Club, the same afternoon. A series of races were very keenly contested, and the performance of the band of L Division of Police added greatly to the pleasure of the meeting. On Monday the second bycycle contest between Keen and Stanton, over a fifty mile course, took place at Lillie Bridge, the former ultimately proving an easy winner, covering the distance in 3 hours 6 min. 45 sec. Stanton gave up on finding his task hopeless, after going a little over 48 miles in 3 hrs. 1 min. 42 sec. On Monday, the last polo meeting of the season was held at Preston, near Brighton, by the International Gun and Polo Club. The first match was between two teams of the 20th Hussars, being English and Scotch against Irish. The latter proved victorious, by three goals to none. A second match between two other teams resulted in a tie. There were a number of other military athletic contests, among them being tent-pegging and tilting at the ring. The attendance was numerous and fashionable.

Two distinguished military officers have gone to their last rest. Lieut.-Gen. Sir Percy E. Herbert, who had seen considerable service in the Crimea, died on Saturday, in his 57th year. On Tuesday, one of the veterans of the long war passed away, at the ripe age of 90. This latter is none other than the venerable Field Marshal the Marquis of Tweeddale, who was an aide-de-camp of the great Duke during the Peninsular war. He served in the retreat to the lines of Torres Vedras, and was wounded at the battle of Bursco. In 1842 he was appointed Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Madras Presidency, but his tenure of this high office was uneventful. The noble Marquis was also a very prominent agriculturist. His eldest daughter is the wife of the present Duke of Wellington, and his youngest, of Sir Robert Peel. His grandson, Viscount Walden, succeeds him in the title.

The clouds that overhang the Eastern Question seem to be almost as threatening as they were last week. The news that reaches this country is of a most conflicting character. According to the latest advices the Turks have offered a five or six months' armistice, instead of the six weeks demanded by the Great Powers. The reasons offered are that the longer time will enable the Porte to calm the excitement of its Mussulman subjects and take the needful measures for the introduction of the promised reforms, while, in the event of peace not being arranged, the Turks will not be in a worse position for the conduct of military operations than they are now; whereas a six weeks' armistice would render it well nigh impossible to act, owing to the coldness of the climate. Attached, however, to this proposal of Turkey are certain conditions, the principal of which are, that she will treat for peace with the Great Powers only, and not with a vassal state, and that Russia shall stop the further influx into Servia of Russian officers and soldiers. This latter condition seems especially reasonable. As Servia is said to have expressed her willingness to accept an armistice, there ought not to be much difficulty in arranging the necessary preliminaries; and yet doubt everywhere seems to prevail. Russia is reported to be despatching large bodies of troops to the south. From Vienna, it is reported that Russia will regard this counter proposal of the Porte as equivalent to a rejection of the propositions of the Great Powers, and that Servia will reject the longer, though she is ready to accept the shorter, armistice. As between Turkey and Montenegro, the relations appear to be becoming more friendly. True, we read of occasional engagements, but an armistice of twenty days is said to have been agreed upon, if not concluded. The Prince of Montenegro is by no means pleased with the assumption of Prince Milan of Servia, and it is believed he will readily come to terms with Turkey. We heartily welcome any thing which holds out a promise of peace, and we wish we could say there was the same inclination evinced by Servia as by Montenegro. We confess, indeed, the prospect is far from reassuring.

LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

A LARGE and influential Meeting of the Members of this highly successful Club was held on Wednesday last, in the principal Dining Saloon, Bro. Langton (Chairman of the Committee) presided, and stated that the Meeting was called for the purpose of considering a communication, which had been received from the Directors of the London Masonic Club Company Limited (the proprietors of the Club), this communication was to the effect that the Directors are about to issue some of the unallotted shares of the Company. These shares, owing to the almost unlooked-for success which has attended the undertaking, will, in their opinion, form a safe and lucrative investment. Before offering these shares outside the Club, they wished to invite the Members to subscribe for the same. A resolution to the following effect was then moved by Bro. Banbury, and seconded by Bro. Jarvis, that, having heard the statement of the Directors, and their invitation to subscribe for the shares intended to be issued, it was the opinion of the Meeting that such invitation should, as far as possible, be accepted by the Members, in order that they, by thus becoming proprietors of their own Club, may have more control and take more interest in the continued success of the Club, and secure its being conducted on true Masonic principles. It was then moved by Bro. Binckes, seconded by Bro. Dobbing, and carried unanimously, that the thanks of the Meeting be given to the Board of Directors for their exertions in establishing this Club, and bringing it to its present successful position. Bro. T. J. Smith, the Chairman of the Directors, suitably responded. This very pleasant, and in all respects satisfactory, meeting was then brought to a close by a cordial vote of thanks to Bro. Langton, for presiding on the occasion.

The usual Committee Meeting of the Royal Masonic Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons, was held on the 11th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. Col. Creaton V.P. in the chair. The Secretary, Bro. Jas. Terry, read the minutes of the former meeting, which were confirmed. The reports of the House and Finance Committees were adopted. The death of one annuitant was announced. Five male and five female candidates were placed on the list. It was recommended that the salary of the Clerk be increased £20 per annum. Bro. Col. Creaton V.P. gave a notice of motion that the salary of the Secretary be increased £100 per annum. A vote of thanks was accorded to the chairman, and the meeting was adjourned. There were present Bros. S. Rawson, B. Head, J. Smith, C. A. Cottebrune, J. Brett, T. W. White, H. G. Warren, W. Hale, G. Tattershall, R. W. Little, C. Hogard, H. Massey, R. W. Stewart, W. Hilton, Jabez Hogg and H. M. Levy.

The fifteen sections will be worked in the Royal Arthur Lodge of Instruction, No. 1360, held at "The Prince's Head," York Road, Battersea, on Tuesday, the 17th October 1876, at 7 p.m. precisely. Bro. Manders, P.M. 1201, W.M.; Bro. Pulsford, P.M. 1158, S.W.

We are indebted to the Masonic Review of Cincinnati, Ohio, for the following items of news:—

The Grand Commandery of Knights Templars, Ohio, met in annual conclave at Put-in-Bay, on Tuesday, the 29th August, R.E. Sir Charles E. Kiefer, G.C. presided, and was supported by V.E. Sir J. Kelly O'Neill D.G.C., E. Sir Benton B. Babcock G.G., E. Sir Lafayette Lytle G.C.G., and other Grand Officers. The parade and inspection was very imposing, though the number present was not so great as at the last two meetings. All the Commanderies in the State were represented, but only five appeared duly organised on parade. At 8 p.m. the Grand Commandery was opened with the customary formalities, and the G.C. delivered his annual address. It was then arranged that the meeting next year should be held at Cleveland on Thursday, 26th August, at the same time and place as the Grand Encampment of the United States. A resolution recognising the new Grand Commandery of Colorado was agreed to, and a sum of one thousand dollars was voted towards the expenses of the Grand Encampment U.S., at Cleveland next year. The officers were re-elected.

The day following the Grand Council of the Royal and Select Masters of Ohio met, and after the delivery by the G.M. of the usual address, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year—Comp. Sam. W. Courtright M.I.G.M., Comp. O. A. B. Senter D.G.M., Comp. H. Newbegin P.C.W., Comp. John D. Caldwell G.S., Comp. I. J. Phillips, G.T. and Comp. Jacob Randall G.S. Four new Councils were recognised.

The G. Chapter of R.A. Masons was held the same evening. Comp. R. C. Lemon G.H.P. occupying the chair. The usual address was delivered. It was agreed to meet next year at Cleveland, "on the first Wednesday succeeding the fourth Tuesday of August." A dispensation was granted for a new Chapter at Dresden, and charters were issued for Jefferson Chapter at Jefferson, and Belmont Chapter at Bridgeport. The election of officers for the ensuing year then took place, Comp. R.C. Lemon being re-elected G.H.P. Among the distinguished guests present were Elbert H. English, of Little Rock, Arkansas, G.G.H.P. of the Grand Chapter of R.A.M. of the United States.

The Masonic Jewel (Memphis) contains a careful analysis, by our much esteemed Bro. W. J. Hughan, of The Alnwy MS.: The Amalgamated Guild of Freemasons and Masons (London: Clay and Co., 1875), in which many important errors are pointed out. The article is well worth reading, especially by those who have read the MS. itself, which, we confess, we have not. It is evident that Bro. Hughan has hit upon some very great—we may say, indeed, inexcusable errors, and we strongly advise the more studious among our readers to read this admirable piece of criticism.

NEW ZEALAND.

Private letters from New Zealand inform us that the English Freemasons in the Province of Auckland are not satisfied with the appointment of Sir Donald Maclean as District G. Master for the whole of the North Island, and that it is in contemplation to petition Grand Lodge for the appointment of a District Grand Master for the Province of Auckland. Sir Donald Maclean resides in Wellington, and has no opportunities of ascertaining the wants of the Auckland Masons, who complain that all the appointments are given to Wellington brethren. There can be no doubt that the appointment of a District G. Master for Auckland would conduce very much to the welfare of the numerous Lodges under the English Constitution in the northernmost Province of the Island.

The New Zealand Herald of 26th August says:—

The anniversary ball of the Alexandra Lodge of Freemasons was celebrated on 10th August, with great success, in the Public Hall. The walls of the building were densely covered with native evergreens and ferns, the windows being tastefully arrayed with the well-known nikau (areka sapida), which gave to the room an effective and pretty appearance, while festoons of native climbers, enlivened with bunches of yellow flowers, were hung intersectingly across the ceiling to that extent that it was almost obscured from view. Directly in front of the street door, on the inner side of the screen (likewise profusely decorated), hung the Charter, in a handsome frame, while further along the walls were suspended symbolical emblems of the Order. Dancing commenced at 8 p.m., and was kept up till "'tween the late and early." Upwards of one hundred invitations had been given out, we are told, but judging from the numbers in the room, there could not have been far short of twice that number, among which we noticed ladies and gentlemen from Hamilton, Cambridge, Ohaspo and the surrounding districts.

The same authority says:—

It is stated in Masonic circles that a movement is on foot amongst Masons in New Zealand, holding under the Grand Lodge of Scotland, to declare their independence, and form a Grand Lodge of New Zealand, after the example of their Canadian brethren. Steps are, we learn, being taken to test the opinion of the various Scottish Lodges in New Zealand on the subject, and the proposal appears generally popular. A conference of Lodge delegates will probably be held here at an early date to formally consider the matter.

THE DRAMA.

The Dramatic Season—"Dan'l Druce"—Drury Lane and "Richard III."—The Queens and "Henry V."—"Jane Shore"—"Peril" at the Prince of Wales's.

THE dramatic season has thus far been marked by little of absolute novelty, and still less deserving of lasting record. Dan'l Druce at the HAYMARKET is the most important production, and bids fair to hold a permanent place in the acted drama of this country. It may, at least, be prophesied that so long as Mr. Vezin is at hand to impersonate the title rôle the play will not lack admirers. This excellent actor has appeared with distinction in many parts, and in some, Dr. Davy and the Man o' Airlie, for example, his performance has fallen short only of the very highest perfection of his art. Dan'l Druce completes a trio of impersonations which may be matched against any three of their kind witnessed by the present generation of playgoers. We have cited the play as a novelty, but it is only in a partial sense original, the plot and incidents being largely drawn from the Silas Marner of George Eliot. Mr. Gilbert has treated the subject with great skill, and we doubt if any of his previous productions was so thoroughly deserving of success.

All true lovers of the stage must rejoice to see DRURY LANE THEATRE once more in the possession of the legitimate drama. Richard the Third, albeit the version of that vain old gossip, Colley Cibber, is as far above the spectacular monstrosities of Mr. Halliday as the performances at our great national house should be above the broadsword melodrama of a country fair. The play might perhaps have been more strongly cast; but two at least of the parts could not be better filled than they are, and the acting of Mr. Barry Sullivan and Mrs. Hermann Vezin would alone suffice to redeem the performance from commonplace. Some other characters, moreover, notably the Henry VI. of Mr. Cuthbert, are played with commendable ability, and the scenery and general stage arrangements are deserving of all praise.

At the QUEEN'S, where Henry the Fifth has been produced on a scale of great magnificence, the effect is less satisfactory. We welcome Shakspeare here and elsewhere, and we have no objection to accurate and appropriate costumes; but, in witnessing the performance, we cannot help feeling that the poet has been smothered by the upholsterer. Glitter and stage carpentry are well enough in their way, but as adjuncts only, not as rivals, to the poem. They are at best but the frame, of which the play itself is the picture. Mr. Coleman, we fear, has been more anxious to dazzle than to please—has striven less to illustrate Shakspeare than to eclipse in magnificence all previous representations. It was a happy thought to introduce as a prologue the dying scene from Henry the Fourth, for it has enabled Mr. Coleman to secure the services of Mr. Phelps. Even this fine scene, however, is marred by the noise of the stage preparations for the coronation. Mr. Coleman himself is stagey and pretentious as Henry the Fifth, and both Mr. Ryder and Miss Leighton, in their respective parts, are open to the same charge.

Mr. Wills's new play of Jane Shore at the PRINCESS'S possesses considerable merit, and appears likely to draw good houses. The story is effectively told, some stirring scenes are introduced, and the language throughout is of a high order. The play was originally produced at the Leeds Amphitheatre in the spring of last year, and it is somewhat surprising that it has not found its way on the London boards before this. However, here it is, and here it is likely to remain for some weeks to come. The play is very well acted, Miss Heath sustaining the leading character, whilst Mr. Fernandez, Mr. Edward Price, and Mrs. Alfred Mellon appear in other important parts.

The production of a new English version of Nos Intimes at the PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE may be considered on the whole a success. After having been performed by two French companies, and twice or thrice translated and produced at various London theatres, the experiment of a new adaptation was, it must be confessed, an extremely hazardous one. The work has, however, been carefully done, and many of the faults observable in previous translations have been skilfully avoided in this. We see no reason therefore to doubt that Peril, as the piece is called, will maintain its position on the PRINCE OF WALES'S programme for some considerable time to come. Of course, it need hardly be stated that the play has been mounted with great taste. Cela va sans dire at the PRINCE OF WALES'S. Nor is the acting one whit inferior to the high standard which has hitherto prevailed at this establishment. Mrs. Kendal is, of course, a great acquisition to the theatre, and her performance of the part of the wife, Madame Caussade in the original, throws a new and additional light upon her capabilities as an actress. As Dr. Thornton, Tholosan in the original, Mr. Kendal is gracefully effective. The good-natured husband, the victim of his many friends, is played with a quiet pathos peculiarly his own by Mr. Bancroft. Mr. Arthur Cecil, Mr. Younge, Mr. Sugden, Mrs. Leigh Murray, and Miss Buckstone, sustain other parts in the play with excellence and effect.

Ahiman Rezon was explained by Bro. Rev. Dr. Frederick Dalcho as signifying "the thoughts or opinions of a true and faithful Brother," being a corruption of the three Hebrew words Achi-man-Ratzon. Bro. A. G. Mackey, in his "Encyclopedia of Freemasonry," derives it from the three Hebrew words, ahim, "brothers," marrah, "to appoint," and ratzon, the "will, pleasure or meaning,"—thus signifying, altogether, "the will of selected brethren." The name Ahiman Rezon was devised by Bro. Lawrence Dermot, as the title of the Book of Constitutions of the "Ancients," when they separated, about the middle of the last century, from the "Moderns," who composed the regular Grand Lodge of England.—Keystone.

SCOTLAND.

Lodge St. John 3½.—This Lodge held its fortnightly meeting in their own hall, Buchanan-street, on Tuesday last, when its capacity was tested to the utmost by the large attendance of the members and their Masonic friends. Bro. D. M. Nelson R.W.M, who was assisted by nearly all his officers, presided. After opening the Lodge, he informed the brethren that they had expected the honour of enrolling on their list of members Bro. Henry Inglis, of Torrance, Past Substitute Grand Master Mason of Scotland, and Bro. Sheriff Clark. Bro. Inglis had unfortunately been prevented from attending, but as the Sheriff was now present he would affiliate him; after which Bro. Clark expressed the gratification he felt at being enrolled as a member of one of the oldest Lodges in Glasgow, if not in all Scotland. The R.W.M. afterwards announced that Sheriff Clark had consented to give a lecture to the brethren of St. John 3½, on their second meeting in November, on the "Antiquity of Masonry," and he thought that another learned brother would give them a lecture at their next meeting. Bro. D. B. Bell then proceeded to pass seven brethren to the 2nd degree, and on the Lodge being reduced to the E. A. degree, Bro. William Bell I.P.M. initiated five gentlemen in a very careful manner.

St. Mungo Lodge, No. 27.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Wednesday, 11th October. As their own hall was occupied, that of St. John 3½ was kindly placed at their disposal. Bro. D. Butler presided, assisted by most of his office bearers. The three degrees were wrought, the 2nd by Bro. G. McDonald of 73, who had a candidate of theirs to pass along with those for St. Mungo. Bro. A. Bain P.G.B.B. then raised three brethren to the sublime degree in his usual careful style. Thanks were given to these brethren for their valuable assistance.

Cathedral Chapter, No. 67.—This Chapter held its installation meeting on Monday, the 9th inst., at 23 Struthers-street. The Chapter was opened by Comp. Jas. Duthie, who stated that after holding office for three years, he was glad now to resign it to one of his pupils. He then, with the assistance of Comp. T. M. Campbell, Z. of 69, proceeded to instal Comp. David Ronald as Z., George Purdie as H., and J. Bilslow as J.

St. Andrew's Chapter, No. 69.—The installation meeting was held on the 10th inst., the installing officers being Comps. J. Duthie I.P.Z. 67, G. W. Wheeler Z. 73, J. O. Park P.Z. 122 and H. J. Shield 33° I.P.Z. 143. The officers installed were Comps. T. M. Campbell re-elected Z., Wm. Harper H., R. Prout J., J. Fash S.E., Wm. Thomas S.N., J. Blackwood T., J. McInnis 1st S., Capt. Stark 2nd S., and W. Cuthie 3rd S., W. Rilaland S. of W., J. Brand Capt. of the Veils and D. Ramsay Janitor. After the ceremony was concluded, the Comps. adjourned for refreshment. The following sentiments were given:—The Queen, the Supreme Grand Chapter, the Provincial Grand Chapter, responded to by G.W. Wheeler, Senior Officer present; Prosperity to St. Andrew's, by J. Duthie, and responded to by T. M. Campbell. The Principals of 67, 73, 122 and 143, all suitably acknowledged by the respective Comps., who congratulated 69 on her having risen, Phœnix-like, from her ashes, the Principals, responded to by W. Harper; the other Officers replied to by J. McInnis, 1st Sojourner. The Janitor's toast concluded the meeting.

St. Mark's Lodge, No. 102.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on the 9th October, in its own hall, Buchanan-street. There was a full attendance of members and several visitors. The work consisted of two passings and two raisings. Both ceremonies were admirably wrought by Bro. J. Hallket P.M., and Z. of Chapter 113, who is always equally at home in either Craft or R.A. ceremonies.

St. George's Lodge, No. 333.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on October 11th, at 213 Buchanan-street. Bro. A. Thomson R.W.M. presiding, assisted by Bros. Jas. Findley D.M., Jas. Forsyth S.W., R. Henderson J.W., A. Dunn T., A. McIntyre Secretary, A. Boyd S.D., T. Hill J.D., and W. G. Hickson Tyler. There was a large attendance, both of members and visitors, in the course of the evening, amongst whom we recognised the following—Bros. D. M. Nelson R.W.M., McMillan and McCall P.M. of 3½; A. Butler R.W.M. and Dick S.M. of 27; McDonald R.W.M. 73, and G. W. Wheeler 73, A. Bain P.M. 103, J. Campbell W.M. 128, H. J. Shield 33° of 275, W. Hay 332, and J. Balfour 332 P.G.D. of C.. The work was heavy, and the Lodge considered a new code of bye-laws, then Bro. Findley W.M. initiated four gentlemen—Messrs. T. Corbett, J. Merven, R. Walter, and J. Holme. The Lodge was opened in the Fellow Craft degree, and Bro. G. W. Wheeler passed three brethren, and on the Lodge being opened in the 3rd, Bro. Findley raised to the sublime degree three of the brethren. All the work being well performed. Thereafter a long discussion ensued, relative to the proposed arrangements for the visit of the Prince of Wales, and a deputation was requested to wait on the Lord Provost in relation to the same.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.
NOW IN PREPARATION.

HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.

In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

Sec., Major G. C. Hodding D.G. Sword Bearer, B. Samuel as D.G. Pursuivant; Bros. F. Riley D.G. Tyler, W. H. Wootton of No. 614, and H. B. Davidson of No. 832 D.G. Stewards; and representatives from Star of Burmah No. 614, Victoria in Burmah 832 Lodges. The District Grand Lodge was opened in form at 6.15 p.m., and the summons convening the communication having been read, the proceedings of the last regular communication were confirmed. The District Grand Secretary reported apologies from several brethren for unavoidable absence, and read the report of the District Grand Lodge Committee. The receipts of returns and dues from the following Lodges for the quarter ending the 31st March 1876 were reported—Victoria in Burmah 832, Star of Burmah 614, Greenlaw 1,095, Astrea 1,376, Philanthropy 542, Rangoon 1,268. Some further routine business having been transacted, the Lodge was closed at 9 p.m.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Thursday, 12th of October, at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules, Leadenhall-street. Present—Bros. Howlett W.M., Hollands S.W., Grammer J.W. and Hon. Sec., Biddle S.D., Ellis J.D., and Webb I.G. Business—The ceremony of the 2nd degree was rehearsed, Bro. Wilkins candidate. The 1st, 2nd, 4th and 5th sections were worked by Bro. Webb; and the third by the W.M. assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was closed in the 2nd degree, and the 2nd section of the first lecture was worked.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge met at the Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell, on Monday, 9th October. Present—Bros. Lake W.M., Ockenden S.W., Millward J.W., Crawley S.D., Fenner J.D., and Knight I.G. The first and second degrees were rehearsed, Bros. J. Hill and Powell acting as candidates. Several of the sections of the second lecture were worked. Bro. Ockenden was appointed W.M. for the next meeting. The fifteen sections will be worked here on the 6th November, Bro. Beckett the Preceptor of the Lodge will preside.

Angel Lodge, No. 51.—The members of this old and flourishing Lodge met for the first time after the summer recess on the 3rd inst. There being no ceremony upon the agenda, the attendance of the brethren was not large, but the new W.M., Bro. G. Gard Pye, was in his place, supported by Bros. A. Welch I.P.M., F. A. Cole P.M., W. P. Lewis P.M., C. Cobb P.M., S. Chaplin P.M., T. J. Ralling J.W., W. S. Sprent Secretary, J. J. C. Turner Organist, T. A. Middleton, T. Mothersole, W. Ablitt, C. W. Atkins, &c., &c. The minutes of the previous Lodge and Lodge of Emergency having been read, a candidate for initiation was proposed. Bro. F. A. Cole P.M. then called to the mind of the brethren the comparatively recent death of Bro. Samuel Darley Forbes, of Portsmouth (see FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, Vol. III., p. 143), and having remarked that, during his residence in Colchester, Bro. Forbes was a most active member of No. 51, stated that his daughter wished to present her father's jewel of P.P.S.G.W. Essex to the Angel Lodge, to be used as the brethren might direct. Bro. Cole read the inscription on the jewel, as follows:—"Presented to the Angel Lodge, No. 51, Colchester, in memory of the late SAMUEL DARLEY FORBES, P.M. and P.P.S.G.W. Essex, by his only daughter, JANE. June 1876.". The W.M., on behalf of the Lodge, accepted the kind gift, and, after some conversation, it was decided that the jewel should be held in trust by the senior P.P.S.G.W. of the Lodge for the time being; to be worn by him as long as he continues a member of No. 51. The brethren afterwards adjourned for refreshment, and a very pleasant evening was passed.

Bon Accord Lodge of Mark Masters.—This Lodge met on Tuesday, the 9th inst., at the Mark Masons' Hall, 2 Red Lion-square, when the following brethren, viz., R. Carr Woods P.D.G.J.D. from Singapore, Rev. Jas. Amos, W. Browne Kidder, solicitor, and Louis Whewell, were advanced and congratulated. The Rev. D. J. Drakeford was unanimously elected W.M., and Magnus Ohren F.I.C.E. Treasurer, for the ensuing year.

Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, No. 174.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Monday last, at the Railway Tavern, London-street, at 7 o'clock. Present—Bros. Webb, Preceptor pro tem, W. Fraser W.M., Wells W.M. 174 S.W., Brookson J.W., Ellis Sec., J. S. Fraser S.D., Baxter I.G., and several others. Business—The W.M. worked the 2nd degree, Bro. Bennett candidate. The W.M. then resigned the chair in favour of Bro. Wells, who worked the 3rd degree, Bro. Cox candidate. Bro. Fraser having resumed the chair, Bros. Morgan were proposed, seconded, and unanimously elected members. Bro. Webb reminded the brethren that the 15 sections would be worked in this Lodge on the 30th inst., Bro. Crawley to preside.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Saturday, 7th of October, at Bro. Fysh's, Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, corner of Church-road, Islington. Present—Bros. Knight W.M., Halford S.W., Macarthy J.W., Killick Secretary, Millward S.D., Huggins J.D., Burr I.G. Visitors—Bros. W. T. Scott No. 9, Williams 177, Spencer 1366. Business—The Lodge was opened in the usual manner, and the minutes were confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Powell acting as candidate. Several of the sections were worked, by Bros. Pearcy and Stock. All the visitors were elected members. Bro. Halford was chosen W.M. for the ensuing week. The fifteen sections will be worked here on the 28th inst., at 7 p.m. precisely.

Lodge of Joppa, No. 188.—A very large gathering of the brethren of this Lodge assembled on Thursday, the 12th inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, in lieu of the regular Lodge, this being the first meeting since the vacation. The chair was occupied by Bro. A. G. Dodson W.M., L. Lazarus S.W., — Miller J.W., L. Auerbaan Treasurer, E. P. Albert, Grand Pursuivant, Secretary, M. Spiegel S.D., A. J. Campion as I.G., R. Baker and H. P. Isaac Stew., P.M.'s Bros. L. Alexander, H. Berkowitz, J. Phillips, J Abrahams, M. Alexander, H. M. Levy, S Hickman and O. Roberts. The Lodge was opened and the minutes received confirmation. Bro. Morse was passed to the 2nd degree, and Bros. R. Collier, J. Rohman and Stransky were raised to the 3rd degree. Bro. A. Auerbaan, late a member of the Lodge, was unanimously re-elected. A notice of motion was given and unanimously carried, that no country member be eligible to serve on the Joppa Benevolent Fund Committee. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 101 in number, sat down to a very sumptuous banquet, provided by the Albion Tavern Company, and superintended by Bro. W. G. Jennings. The W.M. then proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. E. P. Albert returned thanks for that of the Grand Officers. The Misses Parfitt and Bro. G. Allen sang "God Bless the Prince of Wales," Mr. C. A. Field accompanying on the piano. The toast of the Benevolent Fund was responded to by Bro. Alexander P.M., the President, who informed the brethren that the Benevolent Fund had reached nearly £1,200. Bro. Hickman I.P.M. then proposed the toast of the W.M. The manner he had presided over them, and had conducted the duties of the chair, merited their regard and esteem. The W.M. suitably replied, and proposed the toast of the Visitors. He was proud to see brethren so distinguished in the Order visiting them; one, a Grand Officer, was universally known and respected, while others had come from afar to visit the Lodge. They were pleased to extend the right hand of fellowship, and a hearty welcome to all. The Lodge of Joppa was always pleased to see and give visitors a hearty welcome. Bros. Robertson and Somers responded to the toast. Their remarks tended to show that the interchange of the kindly feeling exhibited by the Lodge was reciprocal, and that the mention of the name of the Joppa Lodge always showed the high estimate it was held in by the Craft. The toast of the joining member, Bro. A. Auerbaan, was then most enthusiastically received, and cordially responded to. The W.M. then proposed the Past Masters. Their Past Masters were second to none, and were always ready and willing to assist the W.M. in every capacity required. Bro. S. Hickman I.P.M. responded to the toast in his usual eloquent manner. The Wardens was responded to by Bros. L. Lazarus and Miller. That of the Secretary and Treasurer followed. The latter brother said that of so great and influential a Lodge, he felt pleasure in stating it was free from debt, and that every detail of Masonry was carried out satisfactorily. The toasts of the Junior Officers and Tyler followed. The brethren were gratified by the musical catering of Bro. Grove Ellis, who, in the absence of Bro. P. E. Van Noorden, the Organist of the Lodge, was assisted by Bro. George Allen, who was deservedly encored in his well-known songs. The Misses Parfitt also received well-merited applause. Mr. Ellis, a son of Bro. Ellis, also contributed to the harmony, while Mr. C. A. Field was an able accompanyist. The visitors were, Bros. S. Foxall A.G.P., J. Copie 55, G. Wallace 95, C. F. May 780, N. Bassett 22, C. Killick 228, J. P. Cohen 205, H. Michael late 188, E. Isaacs 1263, W. T. Nell W.M. 315 (Brighton), — Baker 180, H. J. Hawkes 315, J. T. Robertson 55, L. Raphael, D. Nash 315, E. Somers W.M. 1602, &c.

Lodge La Tolerance, No. 538.—This Lodge met on Thursday, the 5th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. C. Burmeister W.M., H. Wood S.W., H. L. Walters J.W., J. Quitman S.D., T. W. Cooper J.D., J. Marshall I.G., J. Kench P.M. Treasurer, G. Y. Simon Hon. Secretary, H. W. Lindus P.M., E. Wilson P.M., and Bros. C. Baymann, H. Swears, E. Humphrey, E. Child, T. Brown, J. Skinner, J. Shubrook, D. Yearsley and E. Knoppell. The minutes of the emergency and the last Lodge meetings were confirmed. Bro. S. Yearsley, of the Faith and Unanimity Lodge, No. 417, Dorchester, also Bro. C. Hickling, late of this Lodge, were balloted for and unanimously elected joining members. Mr. E. Knoppell was initiated into the Order. Bros. Humphrey and Swears, of the Royal Union Lodge, No. 382, Uxbridge, were, by the courtesy of the W.M., raised to the sublime degree. The following notice of motion was proposed by Bro. Thos. W. Cooper J.D., and seconded by Bro. Quitman:—"That, considering the increase of members to the Lodge, and also the great want felt by the Craft in general, it is thought desirable that this Lodge should give its sanction to the establishment of a Lodge of Instruction, to be held at the West End, on Saturday afternoons, and that a Committee be appointed to make arrangements for the same." The Committee to consist of the W.M., Senior and Junior Wardens, the proposer and seconder, and to report thereon at the next Lodge meeting. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, by kind invitation of the W.M., adjourned to the Café Royal, Air-street, Regent-street, where they partook of a very excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Nicol. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts; some capital songs were given by Bros, Kench, Davis, Shubrook and Hornblower. The visitors were Bros. R. W. Stewart Past Grand Deacon, H. Hemsworth P.M. 190, Rev. P. M. Holden W.M. elect City of Westminster Lodge, E. Hornblower W.M. 435, C. J. W. Davis W.M. 382, S. Cooper 382, W. B. A. Gerdes 1198, Madras, F. Faith 25 and J. Tidmass.

St. John's Lodge, No. 795.—The members met on Tuesday last, at the Raymead Hotel, Maidenhead. Bros. J. H. Sadler W.M. occupied the chair, C. N. Harvey P.M. as S.W., Pinto Leite J.W.,

C. Gammon P.M. Treasurer, H. H. Hodges P.M. Secretary, J. R. Foulger P.M., G. Bubb P.M., W. Sharpe, &c. After the formal opening of the Lodge, the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Pinto Leite, W.M. elect, was presented, and duly installed by the retiring Master, Bro. J. H. Sadler. The W.M. then invested his officers. A sum of £7 was voted from the funds for the purpose of presenting Bro. Sadler with a P.M.'s jewel. The resignation of several members was announced. After the Lodge was closed, the usual banquet was served. The customary toasts were given, and the brethren returned to town.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting of the above Lodge took place at Bro. Allen's, "Royal Edward," Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 10th October. Bros. Worsley W.M., Cambridge S.W., Hogarth J.W., Weige S.D., Johnson J.D., Smith I.G., Wallington P.M. Preceptor; also Bros. Dallas, Watkins, Williams, Perrin, Turquand, Davies, Crouch, Crosby, Marsh, Toy, Crook, &c. The minutes of the last Lodge meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Davies acting as candidate. Bro. P.M. Turquand worked the 1st and 2nd sections of the lecture. The Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and closed down to the 1st; Bro. Turquand worked the 4th section of that lecture. Bro. John Watson, of 1524, was unanimously elected a member of this Lodge. Bro. Cambridge was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week. The 15 sections will be worked in this Lodge on the 24th inst., by the following brethren:—

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—This recently formed Lodge of Instruction held its first meeting after the summer recess on Friday evening, 6th October, at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, at 8 o'clock. Present—Bros. A. W. Fenner W.M., Gros Preceptor, Scales S.W., Pennell J.W., Bolton S.D., R. Pearcy J.D., Lane I.G., H. Townsend Sec.; the following members were present:—Lupinsky, Crellin, Cleverley, M. Barnett, H. Isaacs and others. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Lupinsky being candidate; after which the first and second sections of the lecture were ably worked by the Preceptor, assisted by the brethren. A unanimous vote of thanks was awarded the W.M., this being the first occasion of his occupying the chair here. A high compliment was also paid him by the Preceptor for the very correct manner in which he had performed the ceremony. It was also proposed that Bro. Gros should be appointed Preceptor to the Lodge. This office Bro. Gros kindly agreed to fill, and we feel sure the members will derive benefit from his instruction if they attend regularly. All business being ended the Lodge closed in due form.

St. Marylebone Lodge, No. 1305.—A meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, 11th inst. at the Eyre Arms, St. John's-wood. Bros. G. Draper W.M., J. L. Baker S.W., G. Fowler J.W., W. B. Botting Treasurer, G. White Secretary, C. A. Smith S.D., Morgan J.D., Tyler I.G., and Past Masters S. Foxall and Stringer. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Macintosh, Dyke and Norminton were raised to the third degree. Bros. Page and W. Smith were passed to the second degree, and Messrs. Samuel Stace and A. Chapman were initiated into the Order. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a capital banquet, where the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given. Bro. E. P. Albert, Grand Pursuivant, as a visitor, returned thanks. The toast of the W.M. was given and responded to. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close.

Baildon Lodge, No. 1545.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, 10th Oct., at the Masonic Rooms, Baildon. There were two initiations, two passings, and one raising. The brethren met early, so that notwithstanding the great amount of work, the ceremonies were not curtailed, as is oftentimes unfortunately the case. This little Lodge, now numbering 18 members, was consecrated 17th August 1875, and met then at the Angel Inn; 18th August, 1876, just twelve months after, the brethren had the extreme pleasure to celebrate the completion of their new private rooms, which are conveniently situated, well and prettily fitted-up, and comfortably arranged.

Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held at York, on Monday last, Bro. Thos. Cooper P.M. W.M. in the chair; the rest of the officers being all present. The ballot was taken successfully for Mr. John Clarke, who was duly initiated. Bros Blenkin and Morgan were passed to the second degree, and Bros. Millington and P. Pearson were raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason. Names were proposed of several candidates for initiation. This Lodge is making very rapid progress, and its raison d'être has been thoroughly justified by the results.

33. "OLD MOR."

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentay to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Bamfshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

THE Quarterly General Court of the Governors and Subscribers was held on Saturday, the 14th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. Col. Creaton V.P., Vice-Patron and Trustee, in the chair. Bro. Robert Westworth Little, Secretary, read the minutes of the various committees, with the reports, which were adopted. Pursuant to notice of motion, Colonel Creaton, the Chairman of the Building Committee, received authority to sign cheques for payment in connection with the new buildings. It was proposed by Bro. Colonel Creaton V.P., and seconded by Bro. R. W. Stewart, that in consideration of the services rendered by the Collector, Bro. H. Muggeridge, for upwards of twenty years, he be awarded a retiring pension of £150 per annum. This was also carried. The Chairman, in appropriate terms, announced the result to Bro. Muggeridge, who, on entering and retiring, received a perfect ovation. All present wished he might be spared for many years. Bro. Muggeridge was overpowered by emotion; and the Chairman kindly told him he would be excused from replying. A discussion then took place with regard to the notice of motion by Bro. R. W. Stewart, that the office of Collector be not filled up, but an additional Clerk be appointed to assist the Secretary. The Secretary explained the duties and emoluments of the office. Several brethren having spoken on the subject, Bro. J. Smith proposed, and Bro. H. M. Levy seconded, that a committee be appointed, to consist of nine brethren, to discuss the matter and report thereon at a Special Court. This was carried. The names of the brethren to be appointed were then proposed. A ballot then took place for the purpose of electing eight girls into the Institution from a list of thirty-six candidates, with the following result:—

No. on Poll.	NAMES	Votes forward	Votes to-day	Total
1	Swain, Frances Amy	—	1687	1687

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Chairman and the scrutineers.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

THE Quarterly Court of the Governors and Subscribers was held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, on Monday last, Bro. J. Symonds V.P. in the chair. Bro. F. Binckes, P.G.S., Secretary, read the minutes of the last Quarterly Court, and of the several committee meetings, which were confirmed. It was then moved and seconded that three additional boys be admitted. This was carried. Bro. R. W. Stewart, P.G.D., then proposed the election of a trustee of the General Fund in the room of Bro. Alexander Dobie (deceased), and named Bro. Capt. J. Wordsworth for that office. He was one eminently qualified to fill it. He had come from Leeds, at his own expense, more than twenty times during the past year, to further the objects of the charities, and he was sure they could not find a brother more worthy. This was seconded by Bro. S. Rawson, D.G.M. China, and carried, amidst expressions of satisfaction. The chairman, in informing Bro. Capt. Wordsworth, fully endorsed the remarks of the proposer and seconder, and trusted their worthy brother's health might be spared for many years. Bro. Capt. J. Wordsworth, in expressing his thanks, said he would do all in his power for the benefit of the Institution. He hoped shortly to see a Preparatory School erected. In furtherance of that object, he should be pleased to place his name down for 100 guineas. The election of fifteen boys, instead of twelve, from the approved list, by ballot, then took place, with the following result:—

No. on Poll.	NAMES	Votes forward	Votes to-day	Total

Bro. Meggy demanded a scrutiny on behalf of a candidate, —H. P. Wisby. The law relative to the subject was read, and the matter referred to the committee to determine upon. Bro. W. Snow then proposed that the best thanks of the meeting be awarded the scrutineers for the able manner they had discharged their arduous duties. This was seconded by Bro. R. C. Else, D.P.G.M. Somerset, and carried unanimously. Bro. Meggy proposed, and Bro. Vockins seconded, a vote of thanks to the chairman, which was responded to.

COLOURED FREEMASONRY.

WE have no intention of embarking in a controversy on this question. In a recent article we explained our views at considerable length. Since then we have been favoured with a communication from our esteemed Bro. Jacob Norton. His arguments, though occasionally exhibiting a certain bitterness of tone, are fairly stated. But nothing that he has said in the course of his very elaborate article is likely to alter or even modify in the slightest degree the decision we have come to, that the so-called Coloured Lodges are not recognisable by the United Grand Lodge of England. But though we have no mind to plunge into an interminable, and probably after all, a fruitless discussion with him, we are anxious to point out to our contributor that none of the facts he has stated in any wise invalidate the views we have laid down.

We dismiss, in the first place, as being unworthy a moment's consideration, the question of colour. We are happily in a position to divest our minds entirely of all prejudice on this point. We have never, indeed, experienced, nor are we likely to experience, any such feeling. We have already said that we speak of these as coloured organisations, because they are so described by our American brethren. But the colour of those who compose them is to us a matter of indifference. We see no objection whatever to there being Negro Masons, any more than to there being Mohammedan or Hindoo Masons. It would never occur to us to suggest that these American coloured Masons should be denied admission into our Lodges on the ground they are negroes. We view the matter from a purely legal standpoint, and Bro. Norton must excuse us for repeating that nothing he has urged has, in our opinion, been able to shake the arguments we have stated.

Bro. Norton lays his chief stress on the legality of the Constitution of African Lodge. We set this aside, as being wholly impertinent to the issue. We said it was no business of ours to prove the legality of their Lodge, and that we cheerfully left that duty to the care of the African Grand Lodges themselves. Nor have we the slightest intention of running our heads against a brick wall; or to put the matter more artistically, perhaps, of attempting to disprove what we believe to be indisputable, namely, that as concerns the formal propriety of the application made by Prince Hall and his brethren to our Grand Lodge Moderns, and the due formality of the charter issued by that Grand Body, we see not the slightest objection to the legality of the status of African Lodge. Our point is that taking the whole of the circumstances of the case, not only in the light we see them in now, but as they were seen by the Americans of those days, the issue in 1784 of the charter constituting African Lodge a Lodge of Masons was ultra vires on the part of our Grand Lodge Moderns, and the American State Grand Lodges are perfectly justified in deciding that these coloured Masonic Grand Lodges are illegal in their origin. And this being the case—at least in our judgment—we are unaware of any single circumstance that has happened since Prince Hall began working under his English charter which can make amends for the original illegality. Were it indeed our business to pursue this part of the discussion further, we might, perhaps, be able to enumerate one or more circumstances which rather strengthen the initial vice of these organisations. But our purpose is not to provide new material for controversy, but simply to point out to Bro. Norton and those who may agree with him the exact nature and limits of our arguments as already stated. These we are desirous of repeating briefly on this occasion.

It was inevitable that when the United States achieved their political independence of Great Britain, Masonic independence should, sooner or later, follow. It may be quite true that neither of the English Grand Lodges, at the time we are referring to, recognised this as a necessity; but it is very certain—to mention only the case we referred to in our former article—that a letter has recently been published, by authority, bearing date, Marietta, Ohio, 5th May 1791, in which it is stated that, "since the war, the Masonic bodies in the different States" had "considered themselves independent of Europe." This, be it remarked, is not given as the expression of an opinion. We are told without any qualification whatever that, when the war ended, the Masonic bodies in the United States considered themselves independent of Europe. In the same important document it is announced, quite as clearly and emphatically, that when other Lodges shall be established within the North-Western territory, "we conceive ourselves as being the Masonic body corporated within the Federal territories, and duly invested with every power necessary to constitute, rule, and govern the same." Then there is the statement made by Bro. Findel, of certain Boston brethren constituting themselves a Grand Lodge, independent of Scotland, on 8th March 1777, and we know, from the records of New York we have so recently been examining, how the Grand Lodge of that State insisted always on its exclusive jurisdiction over the Lodges within the State. Is Bro. Norton prepared with rebutting evidence to show that the testimony of the Wardens of the American Union Lodge, No. 1, dated early in 1791, is worthless? They took a leading part in the Masonic, as well as in the political, events of which they write so circumstantially. Where is the proof that their statements are erroneous, or even untrustworthy? If Bro. Norton is able to overset them, then, perhaps, we may feel inclined to modify, if not to alter, our views, but no amount of railing at the irregularities of White Grand Lodges will suffice to change our present opinion. Not two, or two thousand, white irregularities will make one black legality.

Some stress is laid on the refusal of the Massachusetts Grand Lodge to grant a charter to Prince Hall and his African brethren, and this, in the opinion of many, is held to have justified them in asking for a charter from the Grand Lodge of England. We demur, emphatically, to this view. Assuming that Prince Hall applied, in the first instance, to the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, the fact must be taken as an acknowledgment that, in the opinion of Prince Hall and his confrères, the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts was the proper authority to apply to for such charter. That being so, it follows, as a matter of course, that Grand Lodge Massachusetts being competent to grant, was likewise competent to refuse its sanction to work a Lodge within the limits of its jurisdiction. If, however, we admit the refusal was a justification for the after conduct of Prince Hall, we open the door at once to all kinds of abuses, and the maintenance of a supreme Masonic authority in any State or Country becomes an impossibility. We admit the limits of Masonic government were not as clearly defined in the days of Prince Hall as they are now, nor was it clearly known in England, when the charter to African Lodge was granted by the Moderns, that the American Masons had thrown off, or were throwing off, their allegiance to the Grand Lodges of the mother country. But though this ignorance exonerates our modern Grand Lodge from all blame, and though it in nowise invalidates the charter granted to Prince Hall, it certainly does not follow that the American Independent Grand Lodges were, or are, required to recognise the legality of a charter issued by a foreign Grand Lodge. As a matter of fact they did not recognise it, and the majority of them still decline to recognise it, and its outcome, in the shape of the present coloured Grand Lodges. We have said we consider this conduct perfectly justifiable, and on this ground we think that members of these coloured Masonic communities are not entitled to admission into our English Lodges. And a recent event in British North America, if anything, confirms this opinion. A so-called Grand Lodge of Ontario has just been established, in defiance of the Grand Lodge of Canada, within whose jurisdiction Ontario is. The Canadian Grand Lodge is warning the United States Grand Lodges against Masonic communication with the rebels, and sundry of the latter have already acted in accordance with the warning. We neither know nor care whether these Ontarian rebels, who, by the way, have been excluded from all Masonic rights and privileges, are black, white, or brown; but we think the G.L. of Canada is right in putting the American Grand Lodges, and the latter right in being, on their guard against receiving them as Masons. Similarly, we think the Grand Lodge of England will act rightly if it deny Masonic intercourse to members of certain self-styled Grand Masonic bodies—whether coloured or plain matters not—which have established themselves in different states of America in defiance of the State Grand Lodges.

We like a matter of this kind to be argued calmly and dispassionately. We think it is a great pity, and likewise a great detriment, when anything like bitterness is exhibited by the advocates on either side. Our sole purpose in referring at all to this very troublesome question was to suggest that our Grand Lodge should indicate the course a W.M. should follow in the not improbable event of one of these coloured Masons seeking admission into his Lodge. Is the man of colour to be denied, or is he to be admitted? We think he should be denied. The fact that Bro. Findel thinks otherwise, and that various Grand Orients and Grand Lodges have already recognised the coloured Lodges, does not shake our confidence in this belief. And Bro. Norton must adduce some stronger reasons ere he will succeed in either modifying or altering our views. We have now fulfilled our purpose of defining clearly the arguments we employed in our former article, and having done so, we take leave of this coloured question with a great deal of pleasure.

THE GRAND ORIENT OF FRANCE.

LE Monde Maçonnique contains a full account of the annual assembly of this Grand Orient during the week ended the 16th ult. Bro. de Saint-Jean presided. According to custom the first business on Monday was the verification of powers, the roll-call of those entitled to be present, and the constitution of nine committees. Subsequently the President announced the names of the eleven members of Council whose period of office had expired and of two others who had resigned. In the afternoon of the same day, Bro. de Saint-Jean was elected President by 152 out of 184 votes. On Tuesday, when the Grand Orient had been formally constituted, sundry propositions were submitted. One to alter the date of meeting was rejected, so that the second Monday in September remains still the day appointed for the opening of the general assembly. A proposition to the effect that Lodge delegates who had not served the office of Venerable for three years should be ineligible to serve as members of the Council was adopted.

On Wednesday, the medals and honorary certificates, awarded by the Grand Orient to Lodges and members who had showed themselves worthy of such distinction, and which have not been granted since 1869, were assigned, the Lodge Les Sages d'Héliopolis, Orient of Bucharest, being among the recipients. A proposal to make the wearing of aprons and white gloves obligatory on all Masons at their regular meetings was shelved, the ass / passing to the order of the day, so that the wearing ...e apron remains as before, obligatory in the case of App...ntices and Fellow Crafts, but optional with Master Masons. On Thursday, the most important business of the session came under discussion. This was neither more nor less than a proposal to modify the first article of the Constitution by suppressing so much of the second paragraph as lays down that "Elle (la Maçonnerie) a pour principes l'existence de Dieu, l'immortalité de l'âme et la solidarité humaine." ["The fundamental principles of Freemasonry are the existence of God, the immortality of the soul, and the responsibility of man."] A proposal to shelve the question, by passing to the order of the day, was defeated in open vote by one hundred and ten votes to sixty-five. The result of this is that the project will be submitted to all the Lodges under the jurisdiction of the Grand Orient, and they will be required to send in their several reports within a certain time, so that the next general assembly will formally settle the question. On Friday, President de Saint-Jean, in the name and on behalf of the Council of the Order, in the midst of the most profound silence, read a note to the assembly, clearly defining the nature of the vote taken on the preceding day. Having remarked on the gravity of the decision, the note pointed out that it in no way included a denial of those principles laid down in the second paragraph of the article, namely, the existence of God and the immortality of the soul. Those who by speech and vote had opposed the order of the day, had merely sought to lay it down that the enunciation of those principles might apparently be regarded as a restriction of that tolerance which is one of the fundamental characteristics of Freemasonry. They were anxious to preserve full liberty of conscience, and were unwilling to introduce into the constitution of the Grand Orient a negation of those principles which might involve a danger not less grave to liberty of conscience and the spirit of tolerance. The whole assembly greeted this declaration with applause. The election of new members of Council was then proceeded with. Nine of the retiring members were re-elected, the four new being Bros. Masse, Massicault; and on Saturday, after a second vote, Wyrouboff and Ferdeuil. On Saturday, the annual account of receipts and expenditure was presented, and approved of. Bro. Wyrouboff then delivered a long and effective speech, and at seven o'clock was held the usual banquet, over which Bro. De Saint-Jean presided. At the sitting of the Council held the same day, Bro. De Saint-Jean was re-elected President, Bros. Cousin and Armand Vice-Presidents, and Bros. Caubet and Poulle Secretaries. The other members of Council are Andrieux, Dr. Barré, Blanchon, Bremond, Bruand, Cammas, Coulon, Dalsace, De Houdin, Desmons, Dové, Du Hamel, Ferdeuil, Foussier, Herpin, Albert Joly, Lagache, Marchal, Masse, Massicault, Moreaux, Neumark, Roche, André Rousselle, Thiault, Ed. Valentin, Vienot, Wyrouboff. After the banquet the assembly broke up.

We cannot say we regard the explanation offered by the Council, and reiterated in Bro. Wybouroff's address, and Bro. Caubet's summary in Le Monde Maconnique, of Thursday's important vote, as at all satisfactory. There is yet time to reconsider the question, which will not be finally set at rest for another year; but, in our opinion, the exclusion of the words which recognise the existence of God, and the immortality of the soul, will, if it ever be adopted, be in direct antagonism to the fundamental principles of the Craft. Freemasonry, as we in England understand it, does impose one limit on freedom of conscience. It requires all its disciples to recognise the existence of a Supreme Being, and a future state. They may adopt any form of religious worship they please, but they must believe in God. If a single atheist, that is, one who denies the existence of the G.A.O.T.U. is admitted a member of our Society, such admission will be wholly subversive of its first and most sacred principle. It is no defence, but an offence rather of the gravest kind, to say—we accord you freedom of conscience, so that you may believe in or deny God, according as you are so minded. We repeat, a belief in God is of the very essence of Masonry. We utterly destroy its character if for a single moment we allow this belief to be an open question.

THIRSK ARCHÆOLOGICAL SECTION OF THE FALCON LODGE OF FREEMASONS, No. 1416.

On the 7th inst. the members, accompanied by the vicar, the Rev. Bro. A. T. Atwood, M.A., rural dean, visited Leake, and inspected the Church and Hall. Here, many centuries ago, stood a large village, which was destroyed under successive attacks by the Danes, the Normans, and the Scots, its existence and extent being yet partially traceable in the ridges and buried foundations found in the neighbouring fields. The church, dedicated to St. Mary, stands in proximity to the hall, and is a venerable building, comprising nave, chancel, aisles, porch, and an interesting tower in the Anglo-Saxon style. The tower and nave are evidently the oldest parts of the structure, and without buttresses; the chancel has a buttress at each angle, and one on each side, the entrance door of the chancel being through one of the buttresses. The east window is of four lights in the perpendicular style, and filled in principally with plain glass; those of the nave, clerestory, and chancel, of two lights each. The roof is of low pitch, and covered with lead, and over the entrance of the porch is a sun dial inscribed Labitur et Labetur.

The three arches dividing the north aisle from the nave are circular, as is also the arch opening from the nave into the basement of the tower; all the capitals differ, and are adorned with sculptured foliage. It is matter for conjecture whether the south aisle may not be of later date, the arches being pointed. One of the capitals deserves special notice, being carved into a profusion of oak leaves and acorns. The existence of a piscina in the wall of the south aisle seems to indicate that at some time there had been a small chapel here. In 1854 the church was renovated, and several alterations made. The stalls throughout are of oak, and in excellent preservation; two panels inserted in the screen to the pulpit have originally belonged to the squire's pew, and show some singular ornamentation. Two of the stall ends, removed to the chancel, are unusual specimens of carving in oak, although one of them has been partially mutilated, and bear figures of nondescript animals, symbols with brief legends, and the date of the work, 1519. The tablets in the chancel do not possess much interest, but in the middle aisle of the nave is a brass one with male and female figures, and in excellent preservation. The largest bell in the tower was brought from Rivcaulx Abbey.

The parish registers commence in 1570, during the Protectorate, from 1648 to the Restoration in 1660. The church of Leake appears to have been shut up, as no entry is made in the registers during the whole of those twelve years; and it seems as if not even a Parliamentary Sequestrator had been appointed, as no mention is made of the parish in the Parliamentary Surveys of 1649 and 1655. Kepwick, in this parish, belonged to Lord Fauconberg, who married the third daughter of Cromwell.

Having crossed the churchyard, in which stone coffins have frequently been found, the party visited the Danes' Lane, said to have been associated with the massacre of the Danes, A.D. 1002, and Mr. Atwood read a remarkably interesting statement, taken from the lips of an old man, to whom it had been handed down by oral tradition. Several years ago a great quantity of skeletons were discovered in that part of the churchyard adjoining the lane, apparently having been indiscriminately thrown together, as into a pit, and indicating some great and terrible destruction of human life: as also many silver coins, principally of the coinage of Edward I., and minted at York.

Leake Hall, the only remaining house in the village, has been occupied for 200 years by the Morton family, and was formerly one of the residences of the Danby's and Scrope's. It is an antique building, retaining many of the features of the manorial houses of the 16th century, a wide staircase of massive oak, and having its room wainscotted in panels. These, together with a curious old painting on oak, but in a very dilapidated condition, representing the events of our Lord's Passion, were very kindly shown to the party, who soon afterwards left Leake, having been much interested by their visit, and highly gratified with the courtesy and generous hospitality of the Vicar and Mr. Matthew Morton.

The Consecration of the Unity Lodge, No. 1637, will take place on Saturday, the 28th October, at the De Burgh Hotel, West Drayton, Bro. E. C. Woodman, P.M. 382. is the W.M. designate—J. Varley, No. 33, S.W., J. Hendricks J.W., W. Coombes, P.G.S.B. Middlesex, acting Secretary. Bro. James Terry P.G.D.C. Herts, has been appointed Consecrating Officer. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. is to be D.C.

CORRECTION.—In last week's number, in Dr. Bedolfe's letter, "Which is Correct," first line, second paragraph, the name of Bro. J. Stevens should be substituted for that of Bro. Poore, the former being the brother who first raised the question.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The controversy originated by "P.M., P.Z.," hitherto moderately interesting in its way, seems likely to become highly instructive, now that writers of acknowledged talent and learning, such as "Q." and Dr. Bedolfe, take part in it. The remarks upon this subject of Bro. Bedolfe reveal a studious mind, ready to champion what it conceives to be truth against any and every obstacle, but extremely prosaic and remarkably unimaginative. It is, therefore, hardly surprising that he should enter upon this discussion with the enunciation of views which he will find but few to accept or endorse. There is a distinct difference between the aims of "P.M., P.Z." and the Doctor. The endeavours of the former are directed to building up, those of the latter calculated to destroy. The Doctor is almost fierce in his denunciations of the method and quality of Masonic teaching. His matter-of-fact intellect despises allegorical illustrations, which he refuses to view in any other but the literal sense. He would have what is admitted to be simple tradition stand the test of modern science and philosophic speculation, and ideas cherished by the wisest and best for thousands of generations to be unscrupulously dissipated. It is to be regretted that our learned brother did not confine his observations to the examination of Masonic instruction as a whole, instead of picking out two or three isolated cases, which, as presented by him, may appear contemptible; but which in their proper connection will be found to dovetail with the rest of the work, and to contribute to the symmetry and comprehensiveness of the system. His method of attack, undoubtedly well meant, must be condemned, because it is not only injudicious, but thoroughly inconsistent with the spirit of Freemasonry. He lays himself open to the charge of making public matters which should prudently be kept private, of carelessly trenching upon delicate and forbidden territory, thoughtlessly offending the susceptibilities of many, and, at the same time, placing a barrier in the way of arriving at definite and practical conclusions. Before replying to some of the objections raised, it may be at once conceded that our Ritual and Lectures would be none the worse for a little more pruning and grafting, and that many other matters, quaint in themselves, might be considered somewhat out of date; but, at the same time, it should be understood that there are brethren who have exerted themselves (and who are by no means idle now) to introduce many important improvements, which are gradually and cautiously being adopted in many Lodges east, west, north, and south, in spite of the strenuous and persistent opposition of conscientious obstructives, whose perverse unreasoning proclivities inclines them to venerate and hold fast antiquated notions, however ridiculous and opposed to common sense and the advanced thought of the present day. It appears to me the Doctor entirely misapprehends the nature, aim, and object of a Lodge of Instruction. It has never been intended as a place for the attainment of high, or, for that matter, of low branches of education. People who attend there have presumably completed their scholastic career long years ago. Its pretentions have ever been most modest. It simply professes to aid the novice to become acquainted with the various duties he may at some time or other be called upon to perform in a regular Lodge, and to afford opportunity to those who desire to acquire greater efficiency by constant practice under the supervision of an experienced Past Master or Preceptor. The lectures, or at least a portion of them, are intended to illustrate many points in the ritual and procedure which might to some seem obscure and unintelligible. The great lessons sought to be enforced, and not unfrequently by practical example, are discipline, loyalty, fidelity, unselfishness, toleration for the feelings of others, love of truth and benevolence, and humble acknowledgment of human littleness, frailty, and dependence.

It is, moreover, a place which encourages fraternal intercourse, frequently resulting in the formation of lasting friendships, and where the most amiable qualities of our nature are continually called into exercise. It is there, also, where dormant capacities are stimulated; diffident dispositions acquire manly courage, and wavereres in the moral path gather strength to pursue it to their comfort and advantage. Can Bro. Bedolfe deny the foregoing assertions? Conscientiously, he cannot. Then why stigmatise such teaching as "cold morality and false morality," and advise that "rather than teach thus, to leave untaught?" By thus, I presume, is meant the allegorical form, and in this category are included the Scripture narratives, which, in his opinion, are "sheer idle tales;" but which, to my mind, forcibly illustrate great and abiding truths. To a mind constituted like that of our esteemed brother these may appear mere "idle tales;" but, to men of ordinary intelligence, every one of them conveys, as it doubtlessly was intended they should, lessons of high moral principle, piety, and humanity. Each and all these narratives is capable of fair interpretation, so as to stand the closest scrutiny, even in the dazzling brightness of "all the lights of science around us." From the Doctor's stand-point, the Fables of Æsop or La Fontaine must seem supremely ridiculous, and these, together with the vast literature dedicated to form, train, and direct the budding intellect, ought to be treated with scorn and contempt, and mercilessly destroyed. And yet the records of the remotest ages bear evidence that the wisest have not disdained to sow the seeds of knowledge, and to call into life the finer attributes of humanity by means of parables, emblems, and allegories, conceiving that mode of teaching best calculated to exercise great and salutary influence upon intellectual and moral development. Apart, then, from the question of historical veracity, or theory of inspiration, and taking a mere secular view of these narratives, I will ask,—Are they, indeed, "sheer idle tales?" Is there nothing in them that would repay perusal? Let us see. Is the picture of unbounded and unquestioning faith, as typified by the patriarch Abraham, entirely unworthy of contemplation? Is there nothing suggestive in the sketch of Isaac, and his pride and affection for his bluff and burly eldest born, who might be imagined to have been somewhat of the John Bull type—honest, straightforward, and hearty, fond of sport and the chase; yet, withal, of a temper that could be gentle with the weak, and forgiving to those who may have done him wrong; or in the sketch of the effeminate Jacob, whose yielding disposition so easily led him to commit unpardonable treachery. Yet was he possessed of true nobility of soul and strength of character. He had a capacity for love so intense and faithful as to inspire him with fortitude to submit to the degradation of servitude for twice seven years, and was predestined to be the progenitor of a race to whom civilisation owes a debt of gratitude which can never be cancelled? Is there nothing to be gathered from the story which points to the providential means by which the horrors of famine were averted among his kindred by Joseph, whom envy and jealousy had sold into Egyptian slavery? Is the story of Jephtha even, of which the Doctor makes such a strong point, and which he says fills him with inexpressible disgust, entirely barren of moral reflection? Does it not show how, sooner or later, injustice must make atonement, and the proud and arrogant humble themselves to the dust, and be glad to fly for aid to those who, in the days of prosperity, they had shamelessly trampled under foot? Did space permit, examples of this kind might be multiplied ad infinitum. It is sufficient to observe that every part of the Lectures points to an example or warning, or inculcates some high moral truth. The "cosmogony" the learned Doctor is pleased to designate as "goody twaddle." Well, it is taken from the Sacred Book, and if not strictly in accordance with present notions and geological discoveries, it is sufficient for our purpose that it points to Him who was the Creator of the Universe, and who sustains and directs the vast machine; and, therefore, we can afford to be calmly indifferent as to whether the period of creation occupied six days or six hundred million years. If, as must indeed be admitted, our teachings of the liberal arts and sciences are of the most meagre kind, and quite unworthy of consideration as such, it is enough for us that they are used to teach us to be thankful for the bestowal of the faculties of speech and reason, for the ability to admire the beauties of nature and appreciate the sounds of harmony, and for the capacity for contemplating the wonders of this magnificent world, upon, in, and around which countless miracles are ceaselessly performed. It is, therefore, "Preceptors can be found" who teach what our brother deems "such absurdities," and I can only term it impertinent presumption for any one to assert that "with a wink they acknowledge it is a puerile lie." It is a mere assertion, unsupported by a particle of proof, to say that the philosophy taught in the Masonic school has fallen into disrepute. It is mere affectation, or ignorance, which cries "shame" on anything taught in a Lodge of Instruction. The late venerated Bro. John Thomas is quoted as having asserted that many who have passed the chair never entered a Lodge of Instruction. These "many" form the Doctor's supports. But as their experience of these Lodges must be absolutely nil, of what weight is their testimony, and what is the value of their judgment? Our good Brother sets out with the assurance that "he is not decrying Lodges of Instruction;" and yet while fully acknowledging their value, he does his best to hold them up to contempt and execration. It would be well for him to reconsider the question. I know him to be a true and faithful Craftsman, and am sorry to see him upon false and untenable ground. Let him study the real objects of these Lodges, and I have no doubt he will speedily form a juster conception of their scope and the valuable auxiliary they form in the service of the Craft.

Yours fraternally,

E. GOTTHEIL.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Allow me to thank "P.M., P.Z." for his complimentary expression in reference to my attempts at elucidating the questions he propounds. I confess, however, I am getting alarmed at the bare notion of being accepted as any authority. I give my views for what they are worth; but I have no claim to be an authority. However, I shall go on answering as many questions as I can, in the belief that I may, occasionally, help forward to some slight extent the good work that "P.M., P.Z." has taken in hand.

As to the first of his new series of questions, I hold with Preceptor No. 1, who says: "He who is placed on the lowest spoke of fortune's wheel is equally entitled to our regard;" and not with Preceptor No. 2, who says: "He &c., &c., may be equally &c., &c." The former expresses the actuality of Masonic equality, the latter merely its potentiality. The former establishes its reality, the latter casts a doubt upon it. Masonry recognizes no social distinctions inside the Lodge, nor are such distinctions a just plea for the non-fulfilment of our obligations towards one another outside the Lodge. Inside the Lodge, we are all equally bound by the same duties; outside, we are bound to exhibit the same regard for all our brethren, be they on the lowest or on the highest spoke of Fortune's wheel. Once we admit that a graduated scale of regard may be exhibited towards Masons occupying different stations in life, and the whole fabric of Masonry falls to the ground. As Masons we are all equally required to respect, and, if possible, assist one another. The equality does not, however, extend beyond the circle of our Masonic duties. Inside Freemasonry, prince and peasant are equal; outside, they are unequal—the former being in the higher, the latter in the lower ranks of society. We fully and very properly recognize the distinction outside, but it will never do if we cast a doubt upon the complete equality in things Masonic.

As to the second question, Preceptor No. 1 is clearly right. To say that geometry is "the basis and superstructure on which Freemasonry rests," is sheer nonsense. Geometry is the base or basis, and Freemasonry the superstructure, that is the structure erected on that basis. Only by picturing a house built on the top of another house can we fashion for ourselves the idea of Freemasonry resting on the basis and superstructure of geometry.

In respect of the third question, I do not think it very material whether we say "sepulture" or "sepulchre." I consider the sentence is faultily, or I should say, perhaps, clumsily worded. The body was found to have been hastily and indecently cast into the ground, and instructions were given that it should be raised, and buried, not only reverently and in a decent manner, that is, with proper funeral rites, but also in a manner becoming the exalted rank and great talents of the deceased. Both words are derived à sepelio, to bury, sepulture being the act of depositing a dead body in the grave, and sepulchre the grave or place in which the body is deposited. It will be seen from this, that we may say either to "raise the body, &c., to such a sepulture" [or burial] "as became," &c., or "to raise the body, &c., to such a sepulchre" [or tomb] as became, &c., without detriment to the sense intended to be conveyed. I confess it sounds funnily to me to hear any one speak of raising a body to a sepulchre, seeing that the sepulchre or tomb is raised or erected for the reception of the body. The real truth I take to be this. There were two offices to be fulfilled. First of all, the body had to be raised from its rude burial-place. Secondly, it had to be committed to a tomb becoming the rank, &c. &c. The authors of the Ritual were anxious to express these two ideas in one short sentence, and they have done so not inaccurately, whether we use sepulture or sepulchre; but I cannot regard their mode of expression as particularly felicitous.

Fraternally yours,

"Q."

Re UNIFORMITY OF WORKING.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have been interested in reading various letters from "P.M., P.Z.," and have connected the writer, in my own mind, with a series of important communications which appeared in the Freemason, the keystone of the whole being the one in the issue for 27th March 1869. The Grand Lodge, in response to that indefatigable brother, gave a unanimous vote that uniformity of working was desirable, but, so far, nothing has been officially done to carry out the vote. I do not want to force our brother to reveal his name, but consider that, if my fancy be correct, it would be better for him to come to the front at once, and thus form a link with the eventful past. His success some seven years ago might now be followed by an attempt to secure uniformity, by the Grand Lodge sanctioning the work of one or more Lodges of Instruction, so that country members may know where to attend for authoritative information. I am also persuaded that the advice given some years ago by Bro. Hughan, who is so well posted in the American system of work, is worth following—viz., for the Grand Lodge and each Prov. Grand Lodge to appoint a Grand Lecturer for their respective districts, whose duty it would be to visit the Lodges under their supervision, and make known the ceremonies according to authority. Each Prov. Grand Lecturer should be placed in communication with the Grand Lecturer, and only be entitled to act as such when he has proved himself to be competent so to do. In fact, to all intents and purposes it would be a revival of the old Lodge of Reconciliation.

I may say that I quite agree with all that Bro. Gottheil has advanced on the matter, and so also with our Bro. G.W.W., and I am persuaded that the Grand Officers have little idea how much an alteration is required in many country Lodges.

P. G. W.

A CURIOUS ACCOUNT OF AN ANCIENT LODGE.

The following is the Record concerning Lodge 20, the oldest in the Provinces:—

"Whereas it appears by the Records of the Grand Lodge that a Warrant bearing date the 28th March 1723, was issued under the Seal of Masonry, enabling certain brethren therein named to open and hold a Lodge of Freemasons, at the Crown, Cripplegate, London, under, called, or known by the number 13, and whereas by the general closing up of the List of Lodges in the year 1740, the said Lodge became number 12. In the year 1748 the said Lodge was removed to Chatham, in the County of Kent, and by the closing up of the List of Lodges in the year 1756 it became number 10; and which Lodge, in consequence of the union of the two fraternities of Freemasons on the 27th day of December 1813, became, and is now registered, in the books of the United Grand Lodge, No. 20. In the year 1873, on petition by the Grand Lodge, a centenary charter was granted, with permission to wear the centenary jewel."—From Bye-laws of Prov. G.L. Kent.

We have been favoured with copy of Sir Henry Edwards's address at the recent meeting of the Prov. Grand Lodge of West Yorkshire. We insert it with a great deal of pleasure, and we trust our brethren throughout the country will kindly take to heart the very sound advice respecting the care of archives which our Right Worshipful Brother offers.

Worshipful Masters, Officers, and Brethren of this Provincial Grand Lodge,—The time has again arrived when it becomes my pleasing duty to address you as your Provincial Grand Master, and in so doing, I am sure I cannot gratify both yourselves and myself more than by inviting you all to participate in the pleasing duties of this Provincial Grand Lodge, assuring you that the matters in which we are about to be engaged could not well fail to give you unalloyed satisfaction. Receive, I beg of you, my warmest acknowledgments for the salutation with which you have greeted me in Harrogate, a place familiar to me for a long period, in connection with my yeomanry command, and for the cordiality of the Masonic compliment you have rendered to the office I occupy amongst the brethren of West Yorkshire. We assemble to-day under the banner of a Lodge established in one of the most popular inland watering-places in Yorkshire, a place annually visited by about forty or fifty thousand persons from all countries, in search of health or of recreation, and celebrated for the hospitality of the brethren of the Claro Lodge, as well as for its baths, mineral springs and hospitals. There was a period far back in the chronicle of time, when the whole of this neighbourhood was a thick forest, and when Harrogate was an almost inaccessible nook in the Wolds of Yorkshire. To-day, however, the town is approached by railway and other means of communication, and is replete with every convenience. We meet for our autumnal gathering in a Lodge—the only one in this fashionable resort—which, although small in numbers, has twice entertained Provincial Grand Lodge since the date of its constitution. To the hospitality of the Worshipful Master we are indebted for the privilege of meeting here on the present occasion. Like some other Lodges in this Province, the Harrogate and Claro had had its difficulties to overcome, but it has conquered its vicissitudes, and is now, I am happy to believe, in a prosperous condition. It has been enabled to establish itself in rooms adapted to its requirements, and its treasury is carefully administered and protected. The late Deputy P.G.M. at Doncaster, on this subject, said, on the 8th July 5874, that he "desires to impress upon the brethren the fact that, excepting the Worshipful Masters of Lodges, there was no officer of more importance than the Treasurer, and he impressed upon those officers the desirability of calling upon members for their subscriptions before they got into arrear." I endorse his advice. The brethren, I hope, will have observed a paragraph which has appeared in several of the Provincial Grand Lodge quarterly summonses relating to the safe custody of old Lodge books, records and papers. The notice runs thus: "The Provincial Grand Secretary is anxious to form a complete set of Provincial Grand Lodge summonses; and will take it as a favour if any old copies can be furnished." My deputy informs me that many of the Lodges he has visited regret the loss of old minute and cash books, which destroys the links of history in the Constitutions of the Lodges between the present and the past, and thus the continuity of the history and progress of the Lodges from their dates of constitution cannot now be traced. Let me firmly impress upon the Masters of Lodges that steps be taken in every Lodge to provide proper boxes or safes for the better and certain custody of these invaluable documents. And I earnestly recommend that each Lodge at once form a small committee, to not only search for these scattered records, but also to make an inventory of them. Whilst on this topic, I desire to add that our Provincial Grand Lodge archives, under the care of the Provincial Grand Secretary, are still short of a large number of previous Grand Lodge summonses from the year A.L. 5823, when the province of West Yorkshire was constituted. At our July meeting I mentioned that I and my deputy had determined to have the Huddersfield edition of our Provincial Grand Lodge bye-laws reprinted, and it would be desirable to add another Bye-law to the list, as it is my earnest desire that Worshipful Masters should be better acquainted with these bye-laws as well as with the Book of Constitutions. Our able Provincial Grand Registrar, who has done a great deal of work for us this year, has given notice of such a bye-law, with which I and my Deputy perfectly coincide. In conclusion, I have only to remark that the Lodges in the Province, I believe without exception, in a prosperous condition, and the brethren, I trust, in perfect unity and harmony. And now that I have entered upon the more active season of the year, when the 61 Lodges meet regularly, I trust their may be an earnest desire to study the principles upon which our ancient and time-honoured fraternity is founded, and to guard at the same time our portals from unworthy candidates, whose object is not merely to gratify a vain curiosity, but to join for the privilege of participating in convivial meetings; and to admit those novitiates only who enter of their own free will and accord, to participate in the privileges of our Order, and who are likely to become esteemed and illustrious upholders of piety and virtue.

The Prosperity Lodge of Instruction has been removed to Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall Street, E.C. The brethren will meet on Tuesday Evenings, at 7.30. The attendance and the support of the Craft is fraternally invited.

MASONIC CEREMONIAL AT GLASGOW.

THE Masonic Ceremonial of Tuesday must be ranked as among the most successful that has taken place this century—we may almost say since the revival of Freemasonry in 1717. Whether or not the excitement which attended the Installation last year of the Prince of Wales as Grand Master of England has extended to our brethren north of the Tweed and is not yet wholly spent, we are unable to say. Certain it is that our Scottish brethren have evinced almost the same degree of enthusiasm about their Patron as we did last year about our Grand Master. It is indeed satisfactory evidence of the strong hold which the Craft has taken on the public, when we find a Provincial master of the Craft rivalling in point of numbers the gathering in the Royal Albert Hall, and all the inhabitants of the provincial city in question turning out to do honour to a Masonic ceremonial.

We announced last week that the arrangements of our Glasgow brethren for the solemn ceremony of laying the foundation stone of the New Post-office was likely to give general satisfaction, and the event entirely bears out our announcement. Shortly after midday, the brethren began to assemble in Burnbank Park, and the muster ultimately reached little short of 8,000, the following being the list of the Lodges which took part in the ceremonial:—

Haig, acting R.W. Junior G.W., D. Kinnear, acting Grand Treasurer, John Laurie Grand Secretary, the Rev. Drs. Gray, and A. Thomson Grand Chaplains, William Officer Senior Grand Deacon F. Shaw-Stewart Junior Grand Deacon, Robert Matheson, acting Grand Architect, Andrew Kerr and John Baird assistant Architects, Daniel Robertson Grand Bible-bearer, John Coghill Grand Director of Ceremonies, Captain G. F. R. Colt of Gartsherrie Grand Sword-bearer, C. W. Maxwell Muller Grand Director of Music, A. T. Apthorpe Grand Marshal, William Bryce Grand Tyler, R. Wilson acting President of the Board of Grand Stewards, and Charles Mackenzie Vice-president. Among the officers of the Provincial Grand Lodges were Bros. Colonel Guthrie of Carlogie, J. Wolfe Murray of Cringletie, and Rt. Wylie P.P.G.M. Ayrshire. Letters of apology for absence were read by Brother Laurie, the Grand Secretary, from the Right Hon. the Earl of Rosslyn P.G.M., the Right Hon. Lord Kinnaird, K.T., P.G.M., the Right Hon. Lord Rosehill J.G.W., Brother Alex. Hay Grand Jeweller, Brother F. S. Melville President of the Board of Grand Stewards, Capt. Chas. Hunter P.G.M. Aberdeenshire, East. Grand Lodge was shortly afterwards adjourned, and, during the interval of adjournment, the members of the several daughter Lodges were settling in their appointed places, under the able conduct of Bro. Apthorpe, Grand Marshal, assisted by Bros. Robb and Cranstoun. In addition to these, the Past Prov. Grand Stewards of Glasgow, who had placed their services at the disposal of Grand Lodge, rendered valuable assistance as assistant Marshals. The route followed by the procession was up Woodlands Road, Lynedoch Street, Park-street, East, Park Circus, Park Street West, and Park Terrace, through Kelvingrove Park, Park Gardens, Claremont Terrace. Woodside Crescent, to Sauchiehall Street, and then by West Nile Street to St. Vincent Street and George Square. At the residence of the Lord Provost, H.R.H. Prince of Wales, Patron, and the M.W.G.M., Sir Michael Shaw-Stewart Bart., joined Grand Lodge. The procession moved along at the rate of about three miles an hour, the head of the column reaching Charing-cross shortly before three. An hour later the Prince and Princess, with their escort, passed the same point. Grand Lodge, the members of which retired by the covered way to the City Chambers, was then closed by Acting G.M. the Earl of Mar and Kellie. At length the Royal party reached the site of the new buildings. Grand Lodge advanced and took up a position round the stone, and all the necessary preliminaries having been settled, the Lord Provost stepped forward, and, bowing to the Prince, requested his acceptance of the following address:—

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

May it please your Royal Highness,—We, the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Council of the City of Glasgow, avail ourselves of the presence of your Royal Highness and the Princess of Wales to renew the expression of our loyalty and devotion to Her Majesty the Queen. It is our earnest prayer that Her Majesty may long be spared in health and strength to discharge her high duties, and to add fresh lustre to the Crown by her personal virtues, and by the wisdom, benignity, and beneficence of her reign. We desire, on behalf of the citizens, to offer to your Royal Highness and your illustrious Consort our warmest welcome to Glasgow. On the occasion of your last visit you were pleased to lay, in its new site, the foundation-stone of our University—an institution which, during the last four centuries, has fostered the taste for learning in Scotland, and provided the means of cultivating it. To-day your Royal Highness marks, with a graciousness of which we are deeply sensible, your interest in our postal and telegraphic system, by which the modern activities and widely-extended interests of this community are sustained and developed, and human sympathies most favourable to peace and goodwill among men are maintained and fostered. The rapid increase of Glasgow during the last half-century has been attended with a corresponding increase in the demands upon the Post-Office establishment in the city; and successive enlargements of the old building were soon found to be wholly inadequate even for present requirements. Under these circumstances, her Majesty's Government has sanctioned the erection of an entirely new structure, according to plans and elevations which promise to be a credit to Glasgow. That your Royal Highness has graciously consented to lay the foundation-stone of this building is regarded by the citizens as an evidence of your interest and a mark of your favour, for which they are deeply grateful.

We rejoice to find that your Royal Highness has returned in unimpaired health and vigour from your eventful journey to India. We venture to regard this as an evidence that your constitution has not suffered from the severe ordeal through which it passed during that illness which pressed so heavily on the national heart, and made the people realise, as nothing else could have done, how closely their affections and hopes are entwined round the Royal Family.

We offer our humble and hearty thanks to the Princess of Wales for so graciously accompanying your Royal Highness on this occasion. Nowhere, we venture to say, in her Majesty's dominions, is her Royal Highness more beloved than she is in this city, and it is a special gratification to its many thousands to see her in their midst with her husband and children. It is our earnest prayer that your Royal Highness and your illustrious Consort may long be spared to each other and to the nation, and that in the sweetness and sanctity of family life, which it has been the inestimable privilege of both of you from your earliest years to enjoy, you may find unfailing solace amidst the cares and anxieties of your exalted position.

Signed in the name and by appointment of the Lord Provost Magistrates, and Council of the city of Glasgow, and th seal of the said city appended hereto, this seventeenth day of October, eighteen hundred and seventy-six.

The Prince of Wales in reply said:—

Lord Provost and Gentlemen,—The Princess joins with me in thanking you very cordially for your address, and for the welcome which we have received from the ancient city of Glasgow.

I sincerely appreciate the terms in which you allude to the Queen, and, as her son, I am greatly touched by the expressions which you make use of when speaking of the virtues for which Her Majesty is so conspicuous, both in her public and private capacity.

On a former occasion, I, together with the Princess, visited your town, the most important and populous in Scotland, for the purpose of laying the foundation stone of your new University, and we now come to perform a similar duty for your Post Office. I am always glad when I find that circumstances permit me to manifest the interest which I experience in everything relating to the material prosperity of our great manufacturing and commercial centres, and I had much pleasure, therefore, in accepting your invitation that I should take the principal part in the proceedings of the ceremony to-day.

My expedition to the East was undertaken with feelings of the gravest interest; but high as were my expectations as to what I should witness in that wonderful country, they fell far short of the reality. I trust that the result of my visit may prove to have been of service to the many millions of my fellow creatures in that distant quarter of the globe, and to have united yet more firmly the ties which bind our Eastern possessions with Great Britain. I venture to express a belief that in this hope I have not been entirely disappointed; and one of the most influential of the native Princes has stated in a letter recently received from him that "one of the excellent results of the visit has been to interest India and England in each other, to make them understand each other better, and to daily increase England's confidence in India, and India's hope in England."

You refer, in connection with the presence here this afternoon of the Princess and my sons, to the domestic happiness which exists among the members of the Royal family. This allusion comes especially home to me at the present moment, when I remember that just a year ago I was separated from all those I hold most dear to commence a long journey to a distant land; and I can assure you, gentlemen, I shall not easily forget the ordeal through which I passed on that occasion. In wishing all success to your undertaking, let me not forget to mention the name of the distinguished founder of the penny-postage system—Sir Rowland Hill—to whom we are all, rich and poor, so much indebted.

Bro. the Rev. Dr. W. H. Gray, Grand Chaplain, then read the following prayer:—Heavenly Father,—We bless Thee that, by the inspiration of Thy spirit, we have understanding. Thou teachest us more than the beasts of the earth. Thou makest us wiser than the fowls of Heaven. We give Thee thanks, also, for that gift of speech by which we can hold converse with our fellow-men, and make known to those around us our wishes and our thoughts. Especially at this time we praise Thy name that Thou enablest us to hold communication with the absent, and that we, by Thy revealing light, have been guided to inventions and discoveries whereby our messages can be borne along through earth, and air, and sea to other cities and to distant lands. "There is no speech nor language where their voice is not heard; their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world." Met together as we are this day, to lay the foundation-stone of a building designed to help on this intercourse among the separated members of the human family, we pray that Thy Blessing may rest on the work of our hands. May this edifice be reared in safety and opened with joy. May all employed in carrying on its building now and carrying out its purposes hereafter work in harmony and live in peace; and may the correspondence it may age by age receive and circulate be instrumental in promoting the prosperity of this city, the welfare of this country, and the brotherhood of all the members of the human family. And to Thee be all the praise. Amen.

The ceremonial was then proceeded with, and the Prince advanced close to where the foundatiod stone was placed.

The inscription on the stone was as follows:—By the favour of the Great Architect of the Universe, in the fortieth year of the reign of Her most gracious Majesty, Victoria, Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and Dependencies, Empress of India, &c., &c., &c. And on the Seventeenth day of October, in the year of the Christian Era MDCCCLXXVI., and of the Masonic Epoch MMMMMDCCCLXXX., The Foundation or Memorial Stone of the New General Post Office at Glasgow was laid with great solemnity by His Royal Highness Albert-Edward, Prince of Wales, K.G., K.T., K.P., &c., Great Steward of Scotland, and Patron of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of Scotland, supported by Sir Michael Robert Shaw-Stewart, Bart., Most Worshipful Grand Master Mason of Scotland, and the Grand Lodge, with a great assemblage of the Daughter Lodges, in presence of H.R.H. the Princess of Wales, the Honourable James Bain (Lord Provost), and the Magistrates and Council of the City of Glasgow, and a vast concourse of spectators.

His Royal Highness having been presented with the trowel, which bore an inscription appropriate to the occasion; and the Grand Master Mason, Sir Michael Shaw-Stewart, having directed the Grand Treasurer and Grand Secretary to place the coins, papers, &c., in the cavities, and the Grand Architect to assemble the necessary workmen. The Grand Master said: R. W. Sub-Grand Master, you will cause the various implements to be applied to the stone, that it may be laid in its bed according to the rules of Masonry. The Wardens then executed their duty at the order of the Substitute Grand Master, and the Grand Master said: Right Worshipful Junior Grand Warden, what is the proper jewel of your office? The plumb. Have you applied the plumb to the several edges of the stone? I have, Most Worshipful Grand Master. Right Worshipful Senior Grand Warden, what is the proper jewel of your office? The level. Have you applied the level to the top of the stone? I have, Most Worshipful Grand Master. Right Worshipful Substitute Grand Master, what is the proper jewel of your office? The square. Have you applied the square to those parts of the stone that are square? I have Most Worshipful Grand Master. Having, my right worshipful brethren, full confidence in your skill in our royal art, I now call upon your Royal Highness to complete the work. The Prince then gave three knocks with the gavel, and repeated the prayer:—May the Almighty Architect of the Universe look down with benignity upon our present undertaking, of which we have now laid the foundation with every success.

Three cheers having been given, the corn was placed upon the stone, and the wine and oil poured on it. Bro. the Rev. A. Thomson Grant, Grand Chaplain, then offered the following prayer:—Praise be to the Lord, immortal and eternal, who formed the heavens, laid the foundations of the earth, and extended the waters beyond it, who supports the pillars of nations, and maintains in order and harmony surrounding worlds: we implore Thy aid. And may the continued blessings of an all-bounteous Providence be the lot of these our native shores; and may the Almighty Ruler of events deign to direct the hand of our gracious Sovereign, so that she may pour down blessings upon her people; and may her people, living under sage laws in a free Government, ever feel grateful for the blessings they enjoy.

The Prince next spread the mortar, and the stone was lowered to its place. He then returned to the platform, and said:—

My Lord Provost, I have great pleasure in announcing to you that the work is now completed.

The Lord Provost, in acknowledgment—I beg to thank your Royal Highness, on behalf of all concerned, and to beg that your Royal Highness may accept the trowel you have used as a memento of the auspicious occasion.

This ended the ceremony, and in due course the assembly dispersed.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF ROBERT BURNS CHAPTER, No. 143, HOLYTOWN.

THE Companions of this young, but flourishing Chapter, met on Friday, the 13th inst., to celebrate their fourth anniversary, Comp. D. Baker Z. in the chair, and Wm. McMurdo P.Z., now S.E., as Croupier. After full justice had been to a substantial repast, the presiding officer gave the "Queen," and "Royal Arch Masonry." "Rule Britannia" was sung by the company, led by Bro. Paterson. "The Prince of Wales and rest of the Royal Family;" then followed "The Grand Chapter and the P.G.C." Comp. G. W. Wheeler, as the only P.G.C. officer present, replied, promising on the P.G.C.'s behalf, that this outlying Chapter should be better attended to in the future than it had been in the past. The chairman said he had now come to what he considered the toast of the evening, that of the "I.P.Z., Comp. H. J. Shields, 33°." He held in his hand a handsome P.Z.'s jewel to present him with, but as he was a man of few words, he would ask the oldest Mason present, Comp. G. W. Wheeler, to make the presentation for him.

Comp. Wheeler said, if he had known that he was to be honoured by making this presentation he would have tried to have prepared himself for it, but they must now take the will for the deed. On looking at the jewel he found that it was "Presented for zeal and energy on behalf of Masonry in general." That being so, it would afford him fuller scope to speak of the many good qualities of their excellent Comp. Shields. Holding, as he most religiously did, that the Craft degrees contained all the essentials of Masonry, he yet held, with the English brethren, that the Royal Arch was but the completion of the Master Masonic degree, and no one could be called a perfect Mason who had not taken that degree; but though the solid foundations of the Temple were laid in the Craft degrees, and they, with the cube stone of the Arch, were all that was absolutely necessary, yet, as we liked to adorn and beautify the material temples that we raise in which to worship the Deity, and also like to embellish our public works as well as the residences of our nobility or merchant princes, so we might beautify and very much embellish the solid structure of Craft Masonry by what are called the Higher Degrees. Now, their good friend Shields was not only capable of laying the foundations of Masonry, sound and deep, so as to have a secure building, but he was able to enrich every part of it with splendid columns, rich entablatures and noble friezes, for there was no degree of Masonry, from the first to the thirty-third, that he was not able to work, and not only the thirty-three degrees, but those various other outbuildings, known as the side degrees, as well as chivalrous ones of the Temple, Malta, and the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, as they, knew by his having established a Conclave of the latter amongst them, and he, the speaker, knew that Comp. Shields had now in his pocket a Dispensation from the D.M. Principal of Scotland authorising him to open a Council of the Red Cross of Babylon in their midst. These various works proved Comp. Shield's zeal for Masonry in general, and he felt great pleasure now in adorning him with this splendid jewel, as a slight mark of the esteem felt for him by those amongst whom he had been lately labouring.

Comp. Shields said the present was so unexpected, and the address of Comp. Wheeler so elaborate, that he really did not know how to reply, because they all knew that he was a worker rather than a talker. He would try to deserve the gift, which he should always keep prize, as a memento of the time he had spent amongst them. Comp. Wheeler had betrayed a secret in speaking of the Dispensation to work what was called the Red Cross degrees, as he had not yet told any one in Holytown of it, but, as the cat was out of the bag, he would be glad to meet seven or eight of the Companions on the following evening, and then give them the degree to enable them to legally open a Conclave, and receive candidates. (Cheers.)

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

ON Tuesday the long talked of visit to Glasgow of the Prince and Princess of Wales was paid. The multitudes that thronged the line of route from the St. Enoch Railway Station to St. George's-square were enormous, and so great was the pressure at certain places that, in spite of the efforts of the police and occasional charges of the cavalry escort, the barriers were broken, and the progress of the Royal party was slow and achieved with difficulty. The first event was a review of volunteers, who were present on the ground to the number of some 6,000. The necessary preparations for the reception of their Royal Highnesses had been made. A grand stand had been erected, the central portion of which was specially devoted to the use of the Prince and Princess, and the members of their respective suites. The review consisted simply of a brief inspection, followed by the usual march past, but the pressure of the crowd was enormous, and even these simple evolutions were with difficulty got through. The review over, the visitors were conducted to the site of the New Post Office, where the Prince was to fulfil the main purpose of his visit. Here the arrangements had been better contrived, or the heavy rain had considerably checked the exuberant loyalty of the worthy burghers. At all events the ceremony of laying the foundation stone was accomplished most successfully, the Prince himself taking the leading part, as Grand Patron of the Craft in Scotland, and being ably supported by Bro. Sir Michael Shaw Stewart as Grand Master Mason. On the conclusion of the ceremonial the Royal party returned to Blytheswood, Renfrewshire, the seat of Bro. Col. Arch. Campbell Campbell, Prov. G.M. Renfrewshire, whose guests the Prince and Princess had been over night. After dinner their Royal Highnesses and children left by train for London, reaching the St. Pancras Station of the Midland Line punctually at the appointed hour of 8 a.m. the following morning. They then drove to Marlborough House, and in the evening honoured the Promenade Concerts at Covent Garden Theatre with their presence. On the 20th of next month the Prince has arranged to visit Norwich, for the purpose of installing Lord Suffield as P.G.M. of Norfolk, and likewise to lend his aid in enlarging the Norfolk and Norwich Hospital. Our brethren, the Governing Body of the Hospital, and the Town Council, have already appointed committees, and these will act together in the necessary arrangements to give a fitting reception to the Prince, who, by residence at least, may consider himself a Norfolk man.

The Royal Circle at Balmoral has been increased by the arrival of Prince Louis of Hesse, husband of our Princess Alice. Prince Leopold, too, has returned to his mother's Highland residence. The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh have reached Malta, the former in his ship, the Sultan, the latter on board the Russian frigate Svetland. The Duchess, for the present, will reside on the island, while her husband will rejoin the Mediterranean fleet in Besika Bay.

We hear a great deal less now about the Bulgarian atrocities. People are beginning to recognise the danger of allowing common sense and the interests of our empire to be subordinated to a momentary outburst of passion. What few meetings have recently taken place have been mainly with a view to second the efforts of the ministry to secure peace and maintain the honour and dignity of the British. All kinds of alarming rumours are flying about as to a proposed autumnal session of Parliament, orders to Lord Napier of Magdala to hold himself in readiness to assume the command of a British Army, and so forth. These rumours are contradicted, however, but the gravity of the situation is felt on all sides. The funds, especially on some Continental exchanges, are very seriously depressed—always a most ominous sign. Lastly, a Cabinet Council was held on Thursday, at the official residence of the Prime Minister, in Downing Street. Telegrams were despatched late on Tuesday evening to the Duke of Richmond and Gordon at Gordon Castle, the Lord Chancellor at Brechin, and Lord John Manners, the minister in attendance on the Queen at Balmoral, advising them of the proposed Council. This is the second meeting of the Cabinet within a little over a fortnight, and at a time of the year when ministers are usually enjoying a well-earned relaxation from their arduous duties. These rumours and facts are hardly to be considered favourable to the general peace of Europe.

We are sorry to announce the resignation of the Viceroyship of Ireland by the Duke of Abercorn, who has been one of the most popular Lords Lieutenant who has for many a year watched over the interests of the sister isle. His successor, the Duke of Marlborough, K.G., has already been appointed and will shortly assume the reins of Government.

The Lord Mayor continues his course of hospitality. On Tuesday, he entertained the Masters and Wardens of the various Civic Guilds. The Guilds numbered some two hundred and fifty, all the leading companies, such as the Grocers, the Drapers, the Goldsmiths, the Fishmongers, and the Merchant Taylors being represented. The usual toasts were proposed and appropriately responded to.

The Bristol Festival, the last of the three great musical gatherings of the year, commenced on Tuesday, under the most favourable auspices, and it is hoped that very substantial benefit will accrue to the Royal Infirmary and General Hospital, to which the proceeds of the Festival will be appropriated. The programme was a magnificent one, including Elijah, Israel in Egypt, the Lobgesang, and the Messiah, while among the principal artistes occur the names of Mdlle. Titiens, Mdlle Albani, Miss Edith Wynne, Mr. Maybrick, and Herr Behrens.

The pedestrian meeting at Lillie Bridge, on Monday, proved one of the greatest successes of the season. The event was a fifty-mile walking match for prizes of the aggregate value of £50, given by the Earl of Jersey and Messrs. Chinnery and J. G. Chambers. Thirty competitors had entered their names, and of these five-and-twenty appeared at the post, among them being Vaughan of Chester, who has covered 120 miles in twenty-four hours, and Miles, the fifty-mile champion, who accomplished his distance, in May last, at the Agricultural Hall, in close on eleven minutes under the nine hours. A very salutary regulation was laid down for the present contest, that those who had not covered half the distance in five hours should leave the running path. Miles won the prize of £5 as first man at the end of ten miles, and also the £10 at the end of the first twenty-one miles, which he completed in 3h. 10m. 16s.; but the pace was too good to last, and after going another seven or eight miles, Miles fell out apparently exhausted. This left G. Ide of Woolwich with a good lead as first, Hibbert second, and Vaughan third. Hibbert having been cautioned repeatedly, was at length disqualified, and the race concluded in favour of G. Ide, who passed the winning post in 8h. 19m. 55s. after starting, Vaughan of Chester, 8m. later, being second, Parry of Manchester, 8h. 40m. 28s., third, W. Ide of Woolwich fourth, and then Green, Newman, Hancock, Courtney, Chandler, Emmett and Colman, in the order named. Thus Ide secured the prize of £25, Vaughan £7, and Parry £3, a portion of the gate-money being added in the case of all who completed the full fifty within nine hours. Every arrangement had been made for the reception of visitors. There was covered accommodation for 10,000 persons, the grounds were illuminated after dusk; and, as the weather was fine, there was a very large concourse of spectators, numbering, it is said, about 6,000.

The most conflicting rumours reach this country from the East of Europe, and from the capitals of the Great Powers. One day we hear of Austria having accepted the six months' armistice proposed by Turkey; the next that she has entered into an alliance with Russia, and in the event of the latter power intervening and marching its armies into Bulgaria, will observe a benevolent neutrality. At one time it is said that Germany will hold aloof, leaving events to take their course, and only caring for her own interests; then, that the old Triple Alliance of Germany, Russia, and Austria, which was so abruptly broken by the rejection by Great Britain of the Berlin note, has been renewed. Italy is said to be on the look out for an extension of territory at the expense of Austria, and France views with jealousy the possible aggrandisement of her Italian neighbour. England alone appears to be pursuing the herculean task of attempting to keep the peace of Europe, and it seems more than probable that but for the recent indignation meetings in this country, which are now universally condemned, the achievement of so desirable a consummation was not only possible, but probable. It is no good, however, lamenting mischief which cannot be undone. There is no doubt that were the other Great Powers of Europe as single-minded as this country, it would not be by any means a difficult task to restrain the puny impetuosity of the Servians, or the more formidable filibusterism of Tchernaieff and his Russian coadjutors. Had Russia been sincere in her efforts for the maintenance of peace, she might have stayed the influx of her soldiers into Servian territory. We admit she has serious difficulties to contend with. We maintain, however, that in the early stages of the struggle between Turkey and her vassal, it was in the power of Russia, had she been so minded, to have confined the war within its original narrow limits. She seems, however, to have seen a chance for extending her dominions in the direction of Constantinople. Accordingly, she is now showing her utter contempt for treaty arrangements. She is massing her forces in the south. She appears to have reduced Roumania to a state of vassalage, so that her troops pass through its territory with the same facility as they move in Russia. She will have nothing to do with a six months' armistice, though she admits that more than six weeks may be necessary in order to secure peace on a firm and durable basis. Russia, indeed, at this moment, is the disturber of the peace of Europe. We owe it to her that trade is depressed, that stocks are falling, and that everywhere the most intense anxiety is felt as to the future progress of events. There is, in fact, no longer any attempt to conceal her iniquitous designs, and she will be responsible for the blood that henceforth may be shed in regard to the Eastern question.

A moveable Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons will be held on Wednesday next under the auspices of the "Fowke Lodge, No. 19," at the New Town Hall, Leicester. The business will include the Consecration of the "Simon de Montfort Lodge, No. 194," and the Installation of Bro. William Barfoot, Prov. G.M., and Mayor of Leicester, as W.M. The banquet will take place at 4 p.m., at Freemasons' Hall, Halford-street, tickets (exclusive of wine) 7s 6d, to be obtained of Bro. J. M. McAllister, P.G.M., Freemasons' Hall, Halford-street, by to-day. The M. W. the Earl of Limerick, G.M. will preside, supported by R. W. Lord Skelmersdale, D.G.M.

We see from various public announcements that our esteemed Bro. Sir John Bennett is a candidate for the London School Board. Our Brother, who will doubtless pardon us for speaking of him familiarly as "Father Time," has done some excellent service, both directly and indirectly, in the cause of education, and we wish him every success in the attainment of the distinction he covets.

THE PRINCE AT GLASGOW.

THIS is the second time the Prince of Wales has visited the good city of Glasgow, for the purpose of laying the foundation stone of one of its new buildings. On the first occasion, it was the new University which was thus honoured, while on Tuesday, it was the New Post-office. Moreover, Tuesday was the second occasion in Scotland at which his Royal Highness has performed the solemn ceremonial with Masonic honours. As our brethren are probably aware, the Prince was formally installed as Grand Patron of the Order in Scotland at a Special Communication of Grand Lodge held on 12th October 1870, during the Grand Mastership of the late Earl of Dalhousie, better known perhaps to the general public as Lord Panmure. The installation was a very brilliant affair, and at the close of it, the Prince was affiliated to Lodge of Edinburgh (St. Mary's Chapel) No. 1. The following day the Prince, as Grand Patron, laid the foundation stone of the new Royal Infirmary, Edinburgh, supported by G.M. the Earl of Dalhousie, the Grand Officers, and upwards of four thousand brethren, among the principal dignitaries being the Junior Grand Warden of Scotland, Bro. Col. Campbell, of Blytheswood, Renfrewshire, whose guest the Prince was in the early part of this week. The Princess of Wales was likewise a spectator of both these Masonic ceremonies. We give full particulars of the Glasgow ceremonial in another part of our columns. Suffice it to say here, that in all respects, save the weather, the day passed off most successfully, the gathering of Freemasons being worthy both of Glasgow and its neighbourhood, and the importance of the occasion.

NEW ZEALAND.

A Correspondent writes: You will be very sorry to hear of the death of Brother Past Master Diethelm, of the Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 1338, Auckland, New Zealand, which took place on the 21st August, from inflammation of the lungs. Bro. Diethelm was one of the founders, and a most active member of the Prince of Wales Lodge, and it was mainly through his energies and ability that the Lodge so rapidly rose to the position it now holds, that of the leading Lodge under the English Constitution in the north of New Zealand. His funeral was attended by, amongst others, Bro. G. P. Pierce, Prov. G.M. Irish Constitution; Bro. G. S. Graham, P.M. Waitemata 689, English Constitution; Bro. G. N. Brassey P.M. Prince of Wales 1338; Bro. Wade P.M. Waitemata 689, and many other brethren of the United Service Lodge, Lodge of St. Andrew, Waitemata Lodge, Prince of Wales Lodge, Ara Lodge, as well as the members of the German Association, and of the Choral Society, of which the deceased was a prominent member. Several private carriages also attended, amongst whom were those of Bro. Chas. Goldsbro M.D., P.M. Ara Lodge, Irish Constitution; Mr. F. M. P. Brookfield, Crown Prosecutor, Mr. H. S. Meyers, Mr. Von der Heyde, Mr. Thomas Macfarlane, and other gentlemen.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—PURE BLOOD.—As this vital fluid, when in a healthy state, sustains and renovates every part of the living system, so when it becomes impoverished or impure it exerts a precisely contrary effect. It is abundantly manifest that any medicine which does not reach the circulation can ever exterminate the disease; but any preparation capable of exercising a sanitary influence over the blood, must with it be carried to every living fibre of the frame. The lungs, heart, liver, kidneys, and skin, all receive benefits from its more wholesome condition. Holloway's purifying Pills operate directly, powerfully, and beneficially, upon the whole mass of blood, whether venous or artificial. They strengthen the stomach, excite the liver and kidneys, expel disease, and prolong existence.

GREAT CITY LODGE, No. 1426.

THE Installation meeting was held on Saturday last, at Cannon-st. Hotel, E.C. Present—Bros. J. Hamilton Townend W.M., J. Seex S.W., R. Stanway J.W., E. Moody P.M. Secretary, James Freeman Treasurer, G. W. Blackie S.D., W. H. Catchpole J.D., Rev. R. J. Simpson P.G.C., Chaplain, W. H. Hook Organist, Thomas Hamer D.C., Charles Taylor and W. F. Kibble Stewards, James Freeman Treas. as I.G., W. Steadman Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. N. B. Headon and James Stevens. Visitors—Bros. Fenn, J. Hervey, Cox, Cottebrune, and several others. Business—The minutes of the last Lodge meeting and of the Lodge of Emergency having been confirmed, the ballot was taken for Messrs. C. S. Cartwright and L. C. Libessart, both of whom were subsequently initiated. The installation of Bro. J. Seex P.M. then took place, the ceremony being ably performed by the retiring W.M. Bro. Seex then invested his officers as follow:—Bros. R. Stanway S.W., James Freeman J.W., E. Moody P.M. Secretary, N. B. Headon P.M. Treasurer, G. W. Blackie S.D., W. H. Catchpole J.D., Rev. R. J. Simpson Chaplain, G. Jenkins Org., Charles Taylor D.C., W. F. Kibble and W. H. Hook Stewards, Thomas Hamer I.G., W. Steadman Tyler. The report of the Audit Committee having been adopted, a jewel was unanimously voted to Bro. James Freeman, with the thanks of the brethren, on his resignation of the office of Treasurer. A proposition was handed in and the Lodge was closed. The brethren adjourned to the banqueting hall, where a sumptuous repast was served. Grace after meat having been sung, the W.M. rose and proposed the health of the Queen; Masonry and Loyalty, he said, had ever gone hand in hand, and he was sure the brethren would give the toast a hearty welcome. The next toast was that of the Grand Master, and in proposing it the W.M. referred to the position occupied by his Royal Highness in the Craft. "God Save the Queen" and "God Bless the Prince of Wales" were sung after the above toasts; in the latter, Bro. Hook (who had the direction of the musical arrangements) gave, in first rate style, a verse composed by himself. The W.M. then gave the R.W. the Pro Grand Master The Earl of Carnarvon, whose services, he said, were unequalled; he was entitled to our best respect and esteem. The capital four-part song, "I love my love in the morning," was then sung. In proposing the Deputy Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers, the W.M. remarked that Grand Lodge was formed of those brethren who have gained distinction in the Craft. The toast was a very comprehensive one, and he was pleased to see so many members of Grand Lodge at the table with him. He noticed, especially, one of the oldest members, Bro. Cox, and likewise Bros. John Hervey, Cottebrune, Simpson, Fenn, and others, who he was pleased to see, and would always be welcome. Bro. Cox P.G.C. said it gave him great satisfaction to respond to the toast. He was gratified to see the way the brethren honoured the names of the Grand Officers. The great work of our Order was, he said, in full activity. That afternoon there had been the election for the Girls' School, and on Monday that of the Boys' would take place. Bro. Fenn considered it rather unfortunate to be second in responding to the toast. The Grand Officers would always devote themselves to the interests of the Craft, and in illustration of this he drew the attention of the brethren to the fact that on the 24th Nov. the Fifteen Sections would be worked at the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, on which occasion the Earl of Carnarvon would preside, and eight of the Sections would be worked by Grand Officers. Bro. Seex, in responding to the "W.M. of the Great City Lodge," which was proposed by the I.P.M., said he had the pleasure of presiding for the first time over one of the most important Lodges in the City of London, and nothing should be wanting on his part to render him worthy of the position he occupied. He then proposed "The Initiates," of whom there were seven, five having been initiated at a Lodge of Emergency, and two that evening; he hoped they would all prove themselves worthy members. "The Visitors" was next proposed. The W.M. said that it was a toast that was always received at the "Great City" with enthusiasm. He was always glad to see visitors, and they would always find a welcome. He hoped they had given them some instruction in the Lodge, and some pleasure at the table. He was proud of the number of brethren who were mentioned on the list as visitors, and trusted they had spent a pleasant evening. Bros. Cottebrune, Swallow W.M. 1563, Dyer and others replied. The health of the Immediate Past Master, Bro. Townend, was then given by the W.M., who said the way in which Bro. Townend had conducted the business of the Lodge had won him the esteem of the brethren, and as a mark of their gratitude, he had the honour of presenting him a Past Master's jewel, which he hoped would long be worn by the brother. Bro. Townend expressed regret at being no longer W.M. of the Great City Lodge, but was pleased to know he had gained the approval of the brethren. He considered the moment one of the proudest of his life, he could not say the proudest, as he considered when he retired from the chair of his Mother Lodge that that was the proudest position a Mason could occupy. The "Past Masters" was responded to by Bros. Headon and Stevens. Bro. Hervey G.S. rose and proposed the next toast, which he would take the liberty of altering; it stood "Prosperity to the Great City Lodge." He would suggest the addition of the word "continued," for he was sure they would all admit that the Lodge has been, from the first, prosperous. Three years ago he had the pleasure of consecrating the Lodge, and he now considered himself in the light of its father. On the occasion of the consecration upwards of 200 members were present, and he was supported by first-class brethren, the Wardens' chairs being, on that occasion, filled by Bros. Fenn and Savage, the latter of whom was, he regretted to say, no more. All who witnessed that ceremony went away highly gratified. He had brought the Lodge into existence, and he was pleased to see the way in which the work was done. The prosperity of the Lodge was due to its Past Masters, who had worked hard, and he considered it was greatly to the credit of the Lodge that recruits came to it from all parts of London. He was pleased with his visit, and thanked the brethren for their hospitality. The W.M., in proposing the "Treasurer and Secretary," said he had a pleasing duty to perform, which was to present to Bro. Freeman, their late Treasurer, a jewel, which he hoped he would wear as a recognition by the brethren of the duties he had so willingly undertaken. Bro. Freeman suitably responded. The Secretary, the W.M. considered, was the most important officer in the Lodge, and he had to thank Bro. Moody for what he had done, and to ask for his valuable assistance in the future. The I.P.M. took this opportunity of publicly thanking the Secretary for the assistance he had rendered during the past year, and hoped that future Masters would have him as a guide. Bro. Moody was gratified at the remarks of the W.M. and I.P.M. He found that the duties of Secretary to so large a Lodge occupied a great deal of time, and if he did appear another year as Secretary, all he wanted was to meet with a reception such as had just been accorded to him, even though it might be as "Past" Secretary. "The Masonic Charities," "The Officers," and the "Tyler's" toast brought a very pleasant evening to a close. The musical programme of Bro. W. H. Hook, who was assisted by Miss Jessie Royd and Messrs. Bernard, Daniel, Morgan, and Bamford, was most praiseworthy, and only "the flight of time" stopped the enthusiasm of the brethren, who frequently called for encores.

It is only right we should bear testimony to the increasing zeal and earnestness of our Lodges of Instruction. Next week on no less than three evenings will our London readers have an opportunity of hearing the Fifteen Sections worked, and that too in a highly creditable manner. Tuesday evening is set apart for this purpose by the Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney; Wednesday by the Confidence, Masons' Hall, Masons' Avenue; and Friday by the Burdett Coutts, Approach Tavern, Approach Road, Victoria Park. The following are the lists of those brethren who will work the Sections at the several Lodges above named; and as there are those among our readers who have their special "fancy" for this or that exponent or instructor, it is highly probable there will be a strong muster each evening. For this reason, and in order that our constituents may be in a position to compare the several renderings, we give the full lists of those who will take part in the business of the respective meetings.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The regular weekly meeting of this Chapter was held on Tuesday last, under the presidency of the following officers: G. K. Lemann Z., J. Constable H., J. Wyer J., John Boyd Treasurer, E. S. Norris Assist. Scribe E., John C. Cox N., J. W. Berrie P.S. Upon the Chapter being opened, the minutes of the last convocation were confirmed, the Auditor's report for the past twelve months was also adopted. The ceremony of exaltation was completely rehearsed by the principals, Comp. W. V. Bedolfe acting as candidate. Companion Boyd next gave an explanation of the solids, to the intense gratification of all present, and when we remark that this elucidation occupied twenty minutes in delivery, some idea may be gathered of the study required to perform this arduous task. Comp. Annett was elected a member. The following Comps. were appointed officers for the ensuing fortnight: J. Constable Z., J. Wyer H., John C. Cox J., G. Newman Scribe N., J. W. Berrie P.S. The Chapter was then closed. There were also present Comps. Bull, G. J. Row, Waterolli, Wagstaff, Wyer, Wyatt, H. Darcy, and G. Darcy.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its meeting on Thursday evening last, at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules, Leadenhall-street. Present—Bros. Hollands W.M., Grammer S.W., Biddle J.W., Ellis S.D., Hill J.D., Brown I.G., Austin P.M. Preceptor, and several other brethren. The 3rd degree was rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Powell as candidate. Lodge resumed to the 1st degree, and the 1st and 2nd sections were worked by Bro. Horsley, the 3rd by Bro. Webb, and the 4th by Bro. Ellis, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Lipschitz, of No. 15, was elected a member. All Masonic business being ended the Lodge was closed, and adjourned to Thursday evening next, when Bro. Grammer will preside.

Chapter 50.—This Chapter held its first meeting for the year at 213 Buchanan-street, on Thursday, the 6th inst., Comp. Wm. Bell Z. presiding, J. Balfour P.Z. of 73 as H., C. McKenzie J. A Lodge of Mark Masters was opened, and one candidate advanced to that degree by Comp. J. O. Park P.Z. 122. Comp. J. Ferguson was then affiliated as a regular Scotch R.A. Mason, and the Chapter closed in due form.

Mount Lebanon Chapter, No. 73.—A Convocation of this Chapter was holden Thursday, 12th Oct., at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Comps. H. A. Dubois Z., J. W. Baldwin H., J. Mason J., F. Walter P.G.A. 1st Asst. Soj. Middlesex, E. Harris P.Z. Comp. W. Smeed P.Z. opened the Chapter, when the minutes were read and confirmed. Ballots were taken for the candidates on the agenda paper for exaltation. Several notices of motion were given, and candidates proposed. Comp. T. W. Clarke was present as a visitor, and proposed as a joining member. The Chapter was then closed until the 9th November. The company partook of a capital banquet, where the usual toasts were given.

Commercial Chapter, No. 79.—This Chapter held its installation meeting on Thursday, the 7th October, at 30 Hope-street. The Chapter was opened by D. Lamb, assisted by the whole of his officers, when he called on Comp. J. Duthie P.Z. of 67, as representing the senior Chapter, to preside. Comp. J. Duthie as Z., assisted by Comp. Wheeler Z. of 73 as H., and J. Brodie P.Z. 79 as J., proceeded to instal the following Comps.:—D. Lamb Z., J. Munro as Deputy 1st Principal (by dispensation), J. W. Muson H., R. Brodie J., J. M. Oliver S.E., W. Ratteray S.N., J. Reid T., W. Duncan 1st S., C. McRobbie 2nd (the 3rd not present), and J. Mennech Janitor. From the financial report the Chapter appears to be in a flourishing condition.

Lodge of Sincerity, No. 174.—The members of this well-known and old established Lodge held their first meeting of the season on Wednesday, at the Guildhall Hotel, Gresham Street, City. The members assembled at Five o'clock, in strong force, and the W.M., Brother William Thomas Wells, took the chair. He was supported by Bros. Hilliard S.W., John Appleby J.W., Rawley P.M. Treasurer, John Newton P.M. Secretary, Seddons S.D., Dunstan J.D., Webb I.G., Verry Tyler. There were also present, Bros. P.M.'s E. J. Moore, Lacey, Bulmer, Barlow and Tuck, while amongst the Visitors we may notice Bros. James Terry, E. G. Legge, W. P. Wyatt, Alf. Ellis, C. A. Baxter, T. E. Scott, J. Scott, H. Bremer, C. E. Toppet, J. P. Large, E. M. Beedell, W. W. Morgan, &c. As invariably happens with this Lodge, the business paper was a heavy one, and the proceedings commenced with the customary formalities. When the minutes of the last meeting had received confirmation, Bro. Wells vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Rawley P.M., who was anxious to perform the ceremony of initiation in favour of his son, Mr. Walter John Rawley, who, with Mr. Griffith Jones, had just sustained successfully the ordeal of the ballot. The ceremony was admirably rendered by Bro. Rawley, and produced a deep impression on the candidate. Bro. Wells now resumed the chair, and initiated Mr. Griffith Jones. The ballot was next taken, favourably, for Bro. Charles Augustus Baxter, of the Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 1003. Bro. P.M. John Newton now, by the kindness of the W.M., took the chair, and performed the ceremony of passing, Bro. Canese, of Lodge Cæsarée, being the candidate. The work was performed in Bro. Newton's best style, and was deservedly commended by all present. Bro. Wells then raised Bro. Page, and this brought the ceremonial portion of the proceedings to a close. Several communications were read by the Secretary, and commented on by the brethren; the resignation of a member was accepted, and the Secretary instructed to communicate with the retiring member, expressing the regret of the brethren. The worthy Treasurer warmly advocated the cause of a distressed brother, who was formerly a member of the Lodge. On his motion, which was seconded by Bro. P.M. Lacey, a sum of five pounds was unanimously voted from the Benevolent Fund in connection with the Lodge. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a substantial repast, which was capitally served. On the removal of the cloth, Bro. Wells gave the Loyal and Masonic toasts customary on these occasions. Bro. E. J. Moore I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M., which was well received and briefly responded to. The W.M. then gave the toast of the Initiates, and expressed the pleasure it afforded every member of the Lodge at seeing the son of their highly respected brother the Treasurer amongst them. He hoped both Bro. Rawley jun. and his fellow initiate, Bro. Griffith Jones, would always have occasion to look back with satisfaction at the day on which they had joined our Order. The Entered Apprentice Song was done ample justice to by Bro. J. Newton. The compliment paid them was briefly acknowledged by the newly made brethren. The toast of the Past Masters brought forth a response from Bro. Moore. The W.M. on again rising said, he had now a most pleasing duty to perform. It was that of presenting to their respected P.M. and Treasurer, Bro. S. H. Rawley, an illuminated Testimonial, together with a Tea and Coffee Service, which had been subscribed for by the members as a slight recognition of the ability and energy Bro. Rawley had displayed during the time of his connection with the Lodge, a connection which had lasted 25 years, and one that had been of a most pleasing and gratifying character. Bro. Wells then read the address, as follows:—

THE LODGE OF SINCERITY, ANCIENT, FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND, No. 174.

In accordance with a resolution passed by the Lodge, 17th May 1876, this Testimonial was presented, together with a Silver Tea and Coffee Service, to

W. BRO. SAMUEL H. RAWLEY, P.M. and Treasurer,

on the completion of Twenty-five years of Membership, by the brethren, in recognition of the valuable services rendered by him during that period, and as a token of the esteem entertained towards him, and also for the kindness and ability displayed in his government of the Lodge as a Past Master and Treasurer. 18th October 1876.

Signed by the Testimonial Committee, on behalf of the brethren.

T. W. Wells W.M., Chairman.

Charles Lacey Treasurer	J. M. Dunstan J.D.
John Bulmer P.M.	C. H. Webb. I.G.
Wm. C. Barlow P.M.	G. Jones D.C.
John Newton Secretary	John Miller W.S.
E. J. Moore P.M.	J. Burchill
G. J. Hilliard S.W.	W. T. Roberts
Jno. Appleby J.W.	J. S. Fraser
G. Seddon S.D.	James Thomas.

The illuminated testimonial was handed round, and all present expressed approval with the artistic way in which it had been executed. We heard a whisper that it was the work of Bro. Jas. Terry. If this be correct, we feel almost inclined to crave the favour of an idea or two from our energetic Secretary, as to how he manages to get through all the work that falls to his lot and, yet finds time for such delicate manipulation as is here evidenced. Bro. P.M. Rawley, who, on rising, was most enthusiastically received, said, That twenty-five years ago, that very night, he was initiated in the Sincerity Lodge. He spoke of the visits he had paid to other Lodges, and commented on the good fellowship that he had always experienced. He sometimes regretted that he had not earlier paid attention to what, at the present day, was so well looked after, he referred to their noble Charities. He remembered the day when there was not more than forty Lodges who subscribed to the Benevolent Institution, but now all present were aware of what was being done. He then spoke of the kind way in which his appeal for a distressed brother had been responded to in the Lodge that evening, and concluded his remarks by thanking the brethren for the handsome gifts they had presented him with. The chairman announced that Bro. Charles Blaine had communicated to him that it was his intention to give, in the course of a few weeks, a musical entertainment at the Bow and Bromley Institute, when the profits would be presented to one of our Masonic Institutions. Bro. Blaine had also intimated that, being impressed with the able manner in which Bro. E. J. Moore had initiated, passed and raised him, he was desirous to present him with a portrait, which he had executed, and which he hoped he, Bro. Moore, would be pleased to accept, at the same time requesting Bro. Wells to take upon himself the task of presenting the same. Bro. Wells then handed to Bro. Moore a capital likeness, painted in oil, which the latter suitably acknowledged. The remaining toasts comprised the Visitors, responded to by Bros. Legge and Morgan; the Masonic Charities, by Bro. Terry; the Officers, by the S.W. and others. The Tyler was then called for, and the evening's proceedings, which throughout were of a most interesting character, were brought to a close.

Era Lodge of Mark Masters, No. 176.—The above Lodge met on Friday, 13th October, at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Bro. H. A. Dubois I.P.M. and Treasurer, in the absence of Bro. Dr. John Baxter Langley W.M., who was unavoidably absent, occupied the chair. Bros. Rev. P.M. Holden S.W. and Chaplain, J. Horton J.W., R. P. Jebb as M.O., A. F. Loos M.O., J. Johnson J.O., T. Poore R. of M.'s, F. Walters P.G.P. P.M. Secretary, H. C. Levander as S.D., J. B. Shackleton J.D., R. Meyer Organist, J. H. Dodson, and several other brethren. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Ballots were unanimously taken in favour of G. S. Elliott J.W. 1623, Henry Meyer I.G. 1524, D. Smith 1326, and W. Prattent 1326, who were all advanced to the ancient and honourable degree of Mark Masters by Bro. T. Poore. Bro. David Smith was appointed Assistant Secretary. Bro. Jas. Stevens P.P.G. Secretary Middlesex and Surrey, was unanimously elected an honorary member. Several candidates were proposed for advancement. A notice of motion was given, and the Lodge was closed until Friday 9th February 1877. The usual banquet followed. Harmony prevailed, and the brethren separated after passing a very agreeable evening.

Domatic Lodge, No. 177.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Friday, 13th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Bro. G. Everett I.P.M. occupied the chair, in the absence of the W.M., Bro. Treadwell (who was unable to be present owing to a fracture of his knee cap), James Willing jun. S.W., Palmer J.W., J. Smith P.G.P. Treasurer, Williams W.M. elect 1507 Secretary, Buscall S.D., Clarke J.D., White I.G.; and Bros. Plummer, Purchase, Smith, Bennett, J. Abrams, Harris, Sherlock, Pintrey, Braid, Bird, Zoebeli, Wigmore, Montague, Billinghurst, &c. Bro. R. S. Mendey, Temple Lodge, No. 101, was unanimously elected a joining member. Bros. Killingback and Jewell were raised to the 3rd degree, Bro. Walter Miller was ballotted for and duly initiated. This being the first meeting since the vacation showed the working had not deteriorated, and complimentary remarks were made. Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 95 in number, sat down to a banquet, provided by Bro. Clemow, and superintended by Bro. W. Smith, that gave satisfaction. The acting W.M. presided in his usual genial and happy manner. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and duly responded to. Each brother present expressed his deep regret at the W.M.'s sad accident, and all wished him a speedy recovery. A very agreeable evening was passed. The Visitors were Bros. Draper W.M. 1305, Rowe S.W. 167, Hollis P.M. 167, Butt 1623, Fowler J.W. 1305, Schlesinger 704, Walls 1381, and Carter S.W. 212.

This being the first meeting after the recess, an unusually large number of the fraternity assembled to congratulate the new Master on his installation. The W.M. opened the Lodge in the first degree; the minutes of the last regular Lodge were read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for Mr. W. Hilder for initiation, who was declared to be duly elected; the ballot was taken for Bro. Hammett, formerly of this Lodge, as a joining member, and he was declared to be elected; the ballot was taken for Bro. E. J. Tabor, formerly of this Lodge, as a joining member, and he was declared to be elected; the ballot was taken for Bro. T. J. Pulley 340 as a joining member, and he was declared to be elected. Mr. William Hilder was initiated into Freemasonry by the W.M. in a very correct and impressive manner. The Lodge was opened in the second degree. The W.M. previous to resigning his Gavel into the hands of Bro. Moxhay, Installing Master, begged to express his sincere thanks to his officers and the brethren generally for the kindness and courtesy he had received during his year of office. He then retired from the chair, and introduced to the I.M. Bro. Margrett S.W., who had been elected by the members to fill the chair for the ensuing year. Bro. Margrett, after replying to the usual questions in the affirmative, and having given his unqualified assent to the antient charges, as read by the Secretary, was duly installed into the chair of K.S., amid the salutations of the Board of P.M.'s, the M.M.'s, the P.C.'s, and the E.A.'s The addresses by the Installing Master were given most impressively, and with his usual correctness. The appointment and investment of the officers took place as follows: Bro. J. T. Freeman I.P.M., A. Welch S.W., W. G. Flanagan J.W., Rev. C. R. Hone Chaplain, J. T. Stransone Treasurer, W. P. Ivey Secretary, J. Early Danks S.D., W. Ferguson J.D., R. Dowsett D.C., E. J. Blackwell, I.G., T. Newman and W. W. Ridley Stewards. At the conclusion of the ceremony, the W.M. proposed a vote of thanks to the Installing Master. Bro. Early seconded, and it was carried by acclamation. The Installing Master replied, stating it was at all times a great pleasure to him to meet the brethren of 1101, and it would afford him much pleasure to render any assistance when required. The W.M. proposed, as a joining member, Bro. William Rhind, of Englefield; the I.P.M., seconded. The I.P.M. proposed Bro. L. W. Moule, formerly of this Lodge, as a joining member; Bro. Tabor seconded. The labours of the evening being ended the Lodge was closed according to ancient form, amid the congratulations and hearty good wishes of the visitors, when the brethren retired for refreshment to a sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. Bailey, to which about sixty sat down. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. In reply to the toast of the M.W.G.M. and the Grand Officers, Bro. F. Binckes P.G. Steward and Secretary of the R.M.I.B. stated, That when the Craft had received what was intended to be a death blow to the fraternity, His Royal Highness stepped forward to fill up the gap that had been insidiously made; consequently, the unparalleled meeting at the Albert Hall Installation, and the unprecedented increase of members and Lodges must convince the enemies of the Order that the light of Masonry is not to be put out by their craftiness. During the evening the W.M., in the name of the Lodge, presented Bro. Freeman I.P.M. with an elegant P.M. jewel as a complimentary reward for services rendered during his year of office, unanimously voted by the Lodge, which was felicitously acknowledged by the I.P.M. After spending a most agreeable evening the brethren separated.

Eclectic Lodge, No. 1201.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, the 16th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. J. H. Watts W.M., E. J. Harty S.W., A. Taylor J.W., J. Mander P.M. Treasurer, Watts P.M. Secretary, Saull S.D., Barber J.D., Pochin as I.G., and several brethren. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. The business consisted of raising two, and passing three brethren. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to Bro. Barber J.D. for his valuable present to the Lodge of a volume of the Sacred Law. This to be recorded on the minutes. The Lodge was then closed.

Asaph Chapter, No. 1319.—A Convocation of this Chapter was held on Monday, 16th inst., at two o'clock, at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields. Bro. E. Stanton occupied the chair as M.E.Z. J. Weaver P.Z., H. J. Read J.W., A. Tinney S.E., F. Burgess Treasurer, — Chamberlain P.S., Wellard 2nd assistant, Comps. A. Swanborough, Thomas, and Hanson. The Chapter was opened and the minutes of the former Convocation were read and confirmed. Bros. W. H. Stephenson and H. Cox were duly exalted into R.A. Masonry. The Chapter was then closed and the brethren separated. Companion T. A. Adams P.Z. was present as a visitor.

Era Lodge, No. 1423.—This flourishing Lodge met on Saturday, 14th October, at the Kings Arms Hotel, Hampton Court. In the absence of the W.M., Bro. Dr. Jas. Baxter Langley, Bro. J. W. Baldwin P.A.G.P. Middlesex, presided. Bros. E. H. Thiellay P.G.S.B. Middlesex S.W., T. J. Sabine P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex J.W., F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex Secretary, J. Mason P.G.S. Organist, I. Johnson D.C., W. Hammond P.P.G.D. Middlesex P.M., E. W. Devereux S.D., S. Wolff J.D., A. P. Loos I.G., C. H. Beckwith, J. H. Pearson, G. S. Elliot, J. S. Sweasey, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. The bye-laws were read, and the election for W.M. took place. Bro. E. H. Thiellay P.G.S.B. Middlesex being selected to fill that office, H. A. Dubois P.G.S.D. Middlesex re-elected Treasurer, J. Gilbert P.G.T. Middlesex re-elected Tyler. Bros. E. Beckwith, J. H. Pearson and F. H. Harvey were elected auditors, and the audit committee were appointed to meet on the 20th January 1877. Several notices of motion were given respecting the bye-laws. It was also proposed that twelve guineas be voted from the funds of the Lodge for a jewel, to be presented to Bro. Dr. J. Baxter Langley on his retirement from the chair. A sum of £10 was also voted for the Female Annuity Fund, to be presented in the name of the Secretary of the Lodge for the time being. Several candidates were proposed for admission. It was then arranged that a Lodge of Emergency be held on 9th December, so that all the work could be completed before the installation. The Lodge was then closed. The visitors were Bros. T. David P.P.G.S.B. Devon P.M. 39, J. B. Shackleton S.W. 1524, J.D. 1326, G. Dore 876, B. Meyer 1326, H. Meyer I.G. 1524, &c.

Chiltern Lodge, No. 1470.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 17th inst., at the Town Hall, Dunstable. Present—Bros. F. Howell W.M., Hasalgrove S.W., Randall J.W., Saunders Secretary, Cobley Treasurer, Monk as S.D., Sinkwell J.D., Rev. C. B. Harris Chaplain, Cutler as I.G., Day Tyler; Hopkins, Hayter, Gard, Beart, Crew, Ballans, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the ballot having been successfully taken for two gentlemen, Messrs. Hayter and Stevenson, and they being in attendance, were regularly initiated, in that careful manner which so eminently distinguishes the working of this Lodge. The charge was impressively delivered by the S.W. (who is also a P.M. of No. 475, Luton). The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment.

Metropolitan Lodge, No. 1507.—The third installation meeting of this Lodge, which now numbers over 80 members, was held on Thursday, the 19th inst., at the Metropolitan Club, 269 Pentonville-road, Bro. J. J. Michael W.M. in the chair, T. Williams S.W., R. T. Kingham J.W., Rose Treasurer, Tims P.M. Secretary, and a large number of brethren and visitors. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of March 16th and the Emergency Meeting were confirmed. The report of the Audit Committee was adopted. Bros. Brooker and Bosshart were raised. Messrs. Wrigley, Knight, Tuck, Debenf and Lefevre were passed. These ceremonies being perfectly rendered by Bro. Michael. A Board of Installed Masters was then formed, and Bro. T. Williams, S.W. and W.M. elect, was presented to the Lodge by Bro. Jas. Willing jun., and duly installed into the chair by Bro. J. J. Michael. The customary salutations having been given, on the re-admission of the brethren the officers were invested. Bros. Kingham S.W., J. Douglass J.W., Rose Treasurer, Tims Secretary, C. Scales S.D., Side J.D., W. M. Stiles I.G., Colls D.C., H. Stiles W.S., Daley Tyler. The W.M. made some very pertinent remarks in investing these brethren. Pursuant to a notice of motion by Bro. Cheek, which was seconded by Bro. Kingham S.W., A committee was formed to consider and report on the advisability of removing the Lodge. The new W.M. then said he had a pleasing duty to perform; that of presenting a testimonial to one who had already received the honours of the Lodge, honours which he well merited. He had great pleasure, on behalf of the Lodge, to present to Bro. Jas. Willing jun. a souvenir of the respect he was held in by every member of the Lodge; he hoped he would live for many years, and let his children know the respect felt for him by the Metropolitan Lodge. Bro. Jas. Willing returned thanks for the kind expressions of the W.M.; his aim was to do everything for the comfort of the brethren; he would remember with pride the kind remarks of the W.M., which would never be effaced from his memory. It was a pleasant suprise to him, and it would be an incentive to do all he could for the comfort of the Metropolitan Lodge. Hearty good wishes having been given by all the brethren and visitors, the Lodge was closed until 3rd Thursday in November. The customary banquet followed, where Bro. Williams presided. The toasts were fully honoured, and, in the course of the evening, a P.M.'s jewel, which was of a most substantial and elegant character, was presented to the I.P.M., Bro. J. J. Michael.

Hemming Lodge, No. 1512, Hampton.—The installation meeting of this Lodge took place on Thursday. Present—Bros. E. Hopwood P.M. 141 W.M., W. Hammond I.P.M., S. Hill S.W., J. Hurst J.W. and W.M. elect, C. W. Fox J.D., J. C. Jessett I.G., T. W. Ockenden D.C., and a large number of brethren. Visitors—Bros. Wilson P.M. Etonian, Elsam P.M. 201, Fisher, Gotterbeck, &c. Bro. W. Hammond passed Bros. Errington, Finch and Murphy. The ceremony of installation was then proceeded with, Bro. Hopwood being Installing Master. He was ably assisted by Bros. Hammond and Wilson. The ceremony was most impressively performed, and in due time Bro. Hurst was proclaimed Worshipful Master. He invested Bro. Hopwood as I.P.M. and Treasurer, and appointed the following brethren as his officers:—Bros. J. Hammond P.M. S.W., S. Hill J.W., W. Hammond P.M. Secretary, Fox S.D., Jessett J.D., Ockenden I.G., Walls D.C., Gutteridge W.S., Kent A.W.S. A handsome Past Master's jewel was presented to Bro. Hopwood, who has had a year's hard work, and well deserves this recognition of his services. The brethren adjourned to a banquet, which was excellently served by the host, Bro. Murphy. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts followed, and the members separated, after spending an enjoyable evening, and hailing with satisfaction the commencement of their third year of existence.

Tranquillity Lodge, No. 185.—The members of this Lodge assembled for the first time this season on Monday, the 16th inst., at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, E.C. Bro. J. D. Barnett W.M. occupied the chair. There were also present Bros. John Peartree S.W., David Posener J.W., Phil Levy Secretary, Geo. Pare S.D., Bailey J.D., Croaker I.G. John Ross I.P.M.; Past Masters John Constable, N. Moss, M. H. Harris, Z. Bloomfield, N. Gluckstein, E. Gottheil, and upwards of thirty lay members. The Lodge having been opened, and the usual preliminaries disposed of, Bro. Smith was passed to the degree of Fellow Craft, after which the following gentlemen were initiated, namely:—Messrs. Adolph Salaman, Saul Valentine, Isaac C. Myers, and Baron David Barnett. Notice of motion was given by Bro. E. Gottheil, that a sum of twenty guineas be subscribed by this Lodge for the Boys' School, to be placed on the list of Bro. Constable, who intends to represent the Lodge at the next Festival. The business of the evening being completed, refreshment was served, after which the various toasts were given and responded to. The W.M., in proposing "The Queen," said the lateness of the evening would be sufficient apology for being brief; at any rate, it required no words of his to recommend the toast of the "Queen and Craft." This, together with the one to H.R.H. the Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, Pro. Grand Master, and Lord Skelmersdale and the rest of the Grand Officers, was received with the usual enthusiasm. The W.M. then proposed the health of the "Initiates," and especially adverted to the fact of having that evening introduced his own brother into the Order, having, from boyhood up, stood towards him in the position of a father; he now occupies the same relationship towards him as a Mason, and he was sure that he would prove a credit to the Order. As regards the rest of the Initiates, from the way they had been recommended, he was sure they were gentlemen of integrity, and would not fail to become respectable members of our justly honoured institution. Bro. B. D. Barnett said, in reply—I have been requested by my co-initiates to return thanks for the kind manner in which our names have been received, and we trust that the course of our life and conduct in future will show how we appreciate the honour you have done us this evening. The visitors, Bros. Loewenstark 1360, Chantler 211, A. Gluckstein 141, Peters 15, Welland 1319, Gibbs 15, and Frost 1347, severally responded, expressing pleasure at what they had witnessed in the Lodge, and gratitude for the fraternal reception accorded them. The I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M., who assured the brethren such services as are at his disposal he had always given, and would continue to do so for the benefit of the Lodge. For the Past Masters Bro. Constable replied, dilating particularly upon his love for the Masonic charities, and stated that he was desirous to raise £1,000, and hoped to have the support of all the brethren to aid him to reach the goal of his ambition. The W.M. then pleaded for the Benevolent Fund, when each of the newly initiated subscribed £1 1s. The Officers responded, and the proceedings came to an end. The W.M. and Bros. Bailey and Child contributed to the pleasure of the evening by singing some excellent songs.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Wednesday, the 18th October, at Masons' Hall Tavern, Mason's-avenue, Coleman-street, E.C. Present—Bros. George Corner W.M., Staley S.W., Sayer J.W., Rudderforth Assist. Secretary, Fenner S.D., Turquand P.M. J.D., Watson Steward, Bone I.G., Christopher Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. E. Gottheil Preceptor, James Stevens, W. H. Myers; and Bros. Abell, J. P. Cohen, Batyeo, Walker, Blinkhorn, Pelton, &c. Business—The Lodge having been opened, the minutes read, and the customary proceedings which precede the working of third ceremony rehearsed, the W.M. worked the degree, Bro. Cohen acting as candidate. The three sections were worked by Bro. Rudderforth, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Rudderforth was elected to preside on next Wednesday, for the purpose of working the Fifteen Sections. The proceedings will commence at 7 punctually.

United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228.—Held its weekly meeting on Wednesday, the 11th of October, at the Grafton Arms, Prince of Wales'-road, Kentish-town. Present—Bros. Halsey W.M., Carter S.W., Peener J.W., Koester P.M. 435 Sec., Peener Treasurer, Slyman S.D., Blakemore J.D., Keil I.G. P.M.'s Bros. J. N. Frost, Wood, Limbeer. Members—Bros. Killick and Houston. The Lodge was opened in due form, with solemn prayer, the minutes read and confirmed. Business—The ceremony of initiation was ably rehearsed, Bro. Houston being candidate. The 1st, 3rd, 4th, 5th, and 6th sections were worked. It was proposed that the Fifteen Sections be worked on the 1st of November, by Bro. J. N. Frost, Preceptor. The chair to be taken at seven o'clock precisely.

Panmure Lodge, No. 720.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Monday, 16th October, at the Balham Hotel, Balham, S.W. Present: Bros. W. Trusler W.M., M. Spiegel as S.W., Payne P.M. J.W., Thomas Poore P.M. and Treasurer, McKay S.D., Wolfe J.D., Huntley I.G., Steadman Tyler; Past Masters Bros. H. Pulman, James Stevens, and a large number of brethren. The Lodge having been opened, and minutes of previous meeting read, was passed into the 2nd degree, and Bro. Fisher proved his proficiency as a Craftsman and retired. The W.M. then invited Bro. Stevens P.M. to complete the Masonic introduction of his personal friend, Bro. Fisher, by raising him to the degree of M.M., and that ceremony was duly performed. The Lodge was closed down, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment. In the course of the evening Bro. Fisher expressed his thanks to the members for his admission into Masonry, and his sense of the importance of the step he had taken in joining the Order, together with his gratification with the ceremonies he had gone through. After the usual toasts, the brethren separated, at an early hour.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting of the above Lodge took place on Tuesday, the 17th inst., at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Bros. Cambridge W.M., Hogarth S.W., Weige J.W., Johnson S.D., Smith J.D., Davies I.G., Worsley Secretary, Wallington P.M. Preceptor; also Bros. Dallas, Watkins, Toy, Williams, Horsley, Hewlet, Crosby, Barker, &c. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Toy acting as candidate. The ceremony was rendered in capital style. As this was the first time the W.M. had performed it, especial praise is due. Bro. Turquand worked the second section of the lecture, Bro. Horsley the third, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was resumed to the second degree. Bro. Horsley worked the third section of the lecture, assisted by Bro. Hewlet. The Lodge was resumed to the first degree. Bro. Hogarth was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. A beautiful mahogany box, fitted with brass handles, lock and hinges, to hold the jewels, &c., was presented to this Lodge of Instruction by Bro. Dallas. The gift was pleasingly acknowledged, and a unanimous vote of thanks was recorded on the minutes. The Lodge closed in perfect harmony, and adjourned.

Wear Valley Lodge, No. 1121.—This Lodge held its regular monthly meeting on Friday, the 13th of September, at the King's Arms Hotel, Bishop Auckland. Present—Bros. George Stillman P.M. No. 124 W.M., John Wyld S.W., Andrew Arnold J.W., John Brown Sec., Watson Hunter Treas., Thomas Wilkinson S.D., Wm. Watson Brown J.D., John Henderson D.C., Charles J. T. Poole Steward, David Bryce Tod I.G., Joseph Bourman Tyler. Visitor—Bro. Henry Dowson, Central Lodge No. 71, Springfield, Illinois, U.S.A. Business—Two candidates were balloted for, and, being unanimously accepted and in attendance, were duly initiated by the W.M., Bro. Wyld S.W. delivering the charge. Bros. Ostle and Abbott were afterwards raised to the third degree. Bro. Wm. Crawford presided at the organ. The grand old ceremony was effectively rendered by the W.M. It was announced that the Provincial Grand Lodge would be held at the Mechanics' Institute, South Shields, on Tuesday, the 24th October 1876, and the W.M. requested as many of the brethren as could make it convenient to accompany him there. One new candidate was proposed, and the Lodge was then closed in form and with solemn prayer.

Royal Arthur Lodge of Instruction, No. 1360.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Tuesday last, when the Fifteen Sections were ably worked by the brethren of the Salisbury Lodge of Instruction—Bros. Mander P.M. 1201 as W.M., Cull S.W., Lee J.W. The Lodge was opened in due form. The first lecture was worked by the following:—Bros. Wise, A. Stewart, J. W. Wright, C. A. Woods, W. S. Lee, Bently, J. Collins. Second lecture by Bros. D. M. Belfrage, J. H. Watts, Rudderforth, Farwig, T. Cull. Third lecture by Bros. F. Honeyman, Neighbour and G. Davis. The Lodge was resumed. The W.M. rising, Bro. Weston, Royal Commemoration Lodge, and Bro. Block, of Southern Star, were elected joining members. It was proposed that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes for the manner in which the W.M. had presided. Bro. Cull acknowledged the compliment paid him, and the brethren who were associated with him. It was proposed by Bro. Wise, and seconded by Bro. A. Wright, that the brethren who had kindly assisted that evening should be elected honorary members. After closing, the W.M. proposed the health of Bro. J. Wright, and thanked him for the manner he had entertained them.

West Middlesex Lodge, No. 1612.—Amongst those of our new Lodges for which a prosperous career may be anticipated, we know of none where the prospects are more hopeful than in the case of this Lodge. Consecrated so lately as July of the present year, but little time has yet elapsed for fairly and fully exhibiting its capabilities, but if a competent Master and ably qualified Officers will carry the day, this Lodge should be second to none. The brethren held their first regular meeting on Saturday last, the 14th inst., at the Ealing Institute, when the chair was occupied by Bro. A. Beasley, who was supported by Bros. T. Kingston S.W., W. Goss J.W. 780 as J.W., A. J. Barr S.D., J. Green J.D., W. J. Compton I.G., Brown Treasurer, J. C. Roe Secretary, O. G. D. Perrott Chap., Delevante Organist, Harrison Tyler. The Lodge having been formally opened, Bro. J. Chambers Roe read the minutes, which had been entered in a most perfect manner, and called forth the unanimous approval of those present. On these being confirmed, the ballot was taken for Bros. Richard Carless Prickett 795, Josiah William Fisher 1238, Alfred Hendriks 1238, as joining members, and resulted favourably in each case. The agenda paper bore the names of five gentlemen as candidates for initiation, viz.:—Messrs. Hugh Hughes, Henry Edward Tucker, Alfred Pooley, Edmund Rixon Woodbridge, and William Seward; in their case also the result of the ballot was pronounced satisfactory. Bro. Beasley then, in a most careful and impressive manner, initiated each candidate separately, thus fulfilling his promise that he would carry out the duties of the chair, even to the very letter. One Brother was then proposed as a joining member, and the names of two gentlemen were given as candidates for admission into the ranks of Freemasonry. Bro. Delevante, on the motion of the W.M., was made an honorary member of the Lodge, such honorary membership to continue so long as he retains the post of Organist. The Lodge was then closed. The brethren then repaired to the hostelry of Bro. Brown, where a choice repast was done justice to. Bro. Beasley did the honours of the table in a highly genial manner, and a most enjoyable evening was spent. The visitors were Bros. E. Hopgood P.M. 946, F. F. Johnson 1593, G. Wills 780, J. G. Le Grys 780, and W. W. Morgan 1385.

CHINESE CARVING.—For Sale, an elaborately carved set of Ivory Chessmen. The Kings stand 8½ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Knights and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with concentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican.—Advt.

THE RECENT ELECTIONS AT THE BOYS' AND GIRLS' SCHOOLS.

AS on former occasions, we proceed to give analyses of the ballots at the last elections for these Institutions. In the Girls' School there were eight vacancies and thirty-six candidates, of which latter seventeen were applicants for the first time. No. 28 stood at the head of the poll with 1,687 votes. She hailed from London, and has lost her father, who, however, is not entered as having been either a steward or a subscriber to any one of our Charities. No. 2, Miss Lucy Horn, Lancashire, W., had made one previous attempt. Her father, who is dead, is not set down as either steward or subscriber. Her votes reached a total of 1393, of which 156 were subscribed at the previous trial. No. 3 was a candidate for the first time, and obtained 1,386 votes at the one trial. Her father had been a subscribing member for 22¼ years, and likewise subscriber and steward to the girls. No. 4 obtained 1,333 votes at this her first ballot. Her province is Berks and Bucks. Her father and mother are both dead, and the former was a subscribing member for little short of ten years, but not a subscriber or steward to either of our Institutions. No. 5 was a candidate last April, and secured 410 votes. With a further score of 908, the total cast for her amounted to 1,318, and secured her election. Her father had been a subscribing member for five years, and hailed from Kent. No. 6, W. Yorkshire, an applicant for the first time, obtained 1,277 votes. Her father was a subscribing member for 8½ years. The father of No. 7, E. Lancashire, had subscribed for 9½ years. His daughter obtained 1,249 votes, while No. 8, an applicant for admission at two previous ballots, managed to secure the last vacancy, with 1,236 votes, of which all but 27 were subscribed at this election. The father hailed from Warwickshire, and had subscribed to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. The 9th on the list obtained 1,220 votes, and then there was a considerable falling off, No. 10 scoring only 893; No. 11, 705; No. 12, 600; No. 13, 498; No. 14, 443; No. 15, 365; while the very last obtained only seven votes. London, with fifteen candidates, headed the list, but the other seven vacancies fell to provincial candidates. Lancashire W., Suffolk, Berks and Bucks, Kent, W. Yorkshire, Lancashire E., and Warwickshire, each secured one vacancy.

In the Boys' School there were fifteen vacancies, instead of twelve as originally announced. The single Norfolk candidate who, at two previous trials had amassed 1078 votes, obtained a further aid of 935 votes, and thus secured for himself the first place. His father was a subscribing member for ten years. A London candidate, whose father is described as having been a subscribing member for 22½ years, and a "continuous subscriber to R.M.I.B. for 12 years," obtained the second place, with 1982 votes, of which 763 were carried forward. No. 3, also from London, and having obtained 1,247 votes in April last, had further 667 on this occasion, so that the total of 1914 sufficed to place him third in rank. No. 4 hailed from Derbyshire, and having previously obtained 802, scored 935, and so secured the fourth place. No. 5 was an applicant for the first time, and obtained 1683 votes. His Province is East Lancashire. No. 6 was likewise a candidate for the first time, but a good vote of 1,623 placed him in a high position and secured his admission. A sister of his obtained the seventh vacancy to the Girls' School two days previously. No. 7, having secured 521 votes at the first time of asking, made up his total to 1,548. No. 8, from S. Wales, succeeded with 1,521 votes, of which 1,009 were the result of two previous trials. No. 9 (London) carried forward 765 votes, and made up his total to 1,510. No. 10 (N. and E. Yorkshire) had already 819 votes to the good; 671 votes sufficed to obtain this place for him. The next in order, No. 11 (London), as the result of three previous attempts, had 911 votes recorded in his favour. He increased this number to 1,452, and is now a pupil of the School. No. 12 (Monmouthshire) only obtained 364 votes at his first trial, but a greater display of energy brought this number up to 1,377, and so secured him a vacancy. No. 13 (Durham) had made three previous attempts. This fourth one gave a sufficiency of votes, and procured him the desired vacancy. No. 14 was a candidate for the first time, and carried a place at once, by 1,336 votes; while No. 15, who obtained only 229 in April last, mustered 1,017 on this occasion, and was thus included among the successful candidates. For No. 16, the first of the unsuccessful candidates, 1,189 votes were cast, for No. 17 1,103, for No. 18 985, for No. 54 10, No. 55 8, No. 56 3, and No. 57 nil. It results that London, with twenty-one candidates, has secured six vacancies; E. Lancashire, with three, has secured two; S. Wales and N. and E. Yorkshire, with two candidates each, one vacancy; while Norfolk, Derbyshire, Monmouthshire, Durham, and Northumberland carried their respective candidates. We commend these few figures to the notice of our readers. They may, perhaps, glean from them a lesson as to zeal and activity in working for the candidates of their choice.

MASONIC PORTRAITS.

ULYSSES.

IT is difficult to form a just conception of the character of a structure which is about to be erected from the foundation on which it rests. The ground may have been carefully dug out and prepared, the first stone well and truly laid; the plans of the architect may have been skilfully drawn, and the working Masons may be among the ablest of their Craft; but time alone will determine whether the structure is worthy or not of the skill, care, and ingenuity bestowed upon its erection. So, too, it is well nigh impossible to conceive of a splendid giant of the forest as having sprung from the minute germ which chance, or the hand of man, implanted in the ground. Many a like germ has been sown and perished. Many have attained only a feeble and imperfect growth; but this particular seed has developed into a stately tree, magnificent in its proportions, and splendidly foliaged. In like manner, when the first germ of Masonic science is implanted in a man's mind, or, to phrase it craftily, and therefore, perhaps more appropriately, when the corner stone is laid in the North-East, who shall determine its future product? It may grow into insignificance, or it may in due time exhibit all the attributes of Wisdom, Strength, and Beauty. It is impossible to divine the future; but, occasionally, a forecast of it may be outlined with something like success.

Some years since, one now high in the ranks of our ancient brotherhood sought initiation into our mysteries. His petition was granted, and he passed the trying ordeal successfully. The new brother was heartily welcomed, and his agreeable presence, his genial bearing, and the kindliness of voice and manner which marked his every word and deed most favourably impressed the society of which he was the youngest member. So valuable an acquisition to the ranks of Freemasonry was hailed with more than the usual display of enthusiasm, and it was generally predicted that, with time, health, and fortune in his favour, he would not only obtain the highest honours in the power of the Craft to bestow, but likewise gain for himself the respect and affection of his fellows. Nor has the prediction remained unverified.

The Masonic career we are now sketching commenced in 1843, in Prince Edwin's Lodge, Hythe, when was laid the first stone of what has since developed into one of the firmest and stateliest pillars of our Order. Shortly after obtaining the sublime degree, our new brother, by working the sections of the First Lecture in open Lodge, gave the first indication of those astonishing powers of memory which subsequent practice and an ever-increasing experience have now rendered it well-nigh impossible to surpass. In two short years he became Master of the Lodge. He then affiliated to the East Medina Lodge at Ryde, and the Yarborough Lodge at Ventnor, in each of which he attained the honours of the chair, thrice serving the office of W.M. in the former, and twice in the latter. He was one of the founders of the Ryde Lodge, and himself performed the ceremony of its consecration. Here, too, he twice occupied the Master's chair, and rendered it further service in the capacity of Treasurer. Some time previously he had been appointed to office, under peculiar circumstances, in the Provincial Grand Lodge of Kent, and had also joined the London Lodge, No. 108. He was unable, however, to attend regularly in the latter until, after the lapse of years, he settled in the metropolis, when, after filling the several subordinate offices, he became W.M. In 1860, he assisted at the formation, at Brighton, of the Yarborough Lodge, and it has ever since been considered his especial privilege to instal each of its Masters successively. Having served as Provincial Grand Deacon for Hants and Isle of Wight, he was appointed, in 1855, the D.G.M., and fulfilled for many years the duties of his office with conspicuous advantage to the Craft. Nor were his abilities allowed to pass unrecognised by Grand Lodge, which conferred upon him the appointment of Grand Sword Bearer of England.

At this moment he holds the very responsible office of Secretary to the Friends in Council Lodge, and in that capacity, as during his whole previous career, exhibits on all occasions and under all circumstances a firm resolve to promote in every way possible the wishes of his fellow-members. To all he exhibits the greatest kindliness. To the Seniors he gives readily the benefit of his great experience; to his Juniors he is ever thoughtful and considerate, teaching them to overcome the difficulties they will certainly encounter in the earliest stages of their career, and how, in due time, they may hope to attain positions of eminence in the Craft. Nothing, indeed, is ever permitted to intervene between his personal convenience and the welfare of his beloved Freemasonry; in testimony whereof we cite the following instance.

Our respected Brother very recently had occasion to leave London, in order to attend a meeting at Southampton. In passing along Regent Street he was unfortunately knocked down by a runaway dog cart. Help came immediately, and he was conveyed to the nearest shop, Policeman X. kindly rendering all the assistance in his power. The case seemed serious, and conveyance to an hospital imperative, when our hero awoke to sensibility, pulled himself together, and declared his intention of forthwith proceeding on his journey. He reached Southampton in due course. Having fulfilled his part in the prescribed ceremonies, with his wonted ability, and having participated in the pleasures of a most enjoyable banquet, he retired to rest, only to find next morning that all attempts to rise were attended with the most excruciating pain. His arm and side were swollen and contused, but local medical skill allayed the suffering, and he was soon enabled to return home, having, in the brief interval of his absence, been knocked down and bruised, yet never once dreaming of leaving his appointed duty unfulfilled. It will delight our readers to learn that, beyond a slight numbness in the hand, the injuries he received have left no trace behind.

Nor is it alone in Craft Masonry that our Brother has so greatly distinguished himself. In 1843, the year of his initiation, he was advanced to the degree of Mark Master, and subsequently joined the old Albany Mark Lodge at Newport. In 1847, he was exalted in the Love and Unity Chapter, and filled in succession the three Principals' Chairs in the East Medina Chapter, Ryde. The Rose Croix Degree was conferred upon him in 1856 by Dr. Leeson, the Nestor of the High Grades. He was the first M.W.S. of the Vectis Chapter, and signalised his enthronement by perfecting impromptu a number of brethren, and by installing the chief and aspirants of the Royal Naval Chapter on the following day. He has twice filled the Chair of the Metropolitan Chapter, and most of its Sovereigns have been inducted by him. He entered the Order of the Masonic Knights Templar through the Royal Encampment at Portsmouth, and became a Commander. He has also filled the office of Grand Superintendent of Works in the Grand Conclave. When a Chapter of the Royal Order of Scotland was opened in London, our respected brother was at once appointed to office, and has ever since continued to be a zealous and faithful expositor of its mysteries. It may not be out of place to mention here, as evidence of his conspicuous zeal in the cause of Masonry, that, with a view to obtain the requisite information as to the mysteries of this degree, he travelled into Scotland. While there, he was invited to Glasgow, for the purpose of showing our Scottish craftsmen the correct method of installing a Master. On this occasion he inducted no less than twenty-three brethren into the chairs of as many Lodges, and thus rendered brilliant service towards establishing that uniformity of working which is so desired by all earnest Masons. In the so-called Cryptic degrees—those of Royal Master, Most Excellent Master, &c.—which are worked in London at 2 Red Lion-square, he is a most valued and efficient officer. Amongst other side degrees he has taken the Lancashire one of "St. Lawrence," and is actually the W.M. of the London branch. But, though equally proficient in the rituals of Craft and Arch Masonry, it is by his eminent services to the A. and A. Rite that he is most widely known. He obtained the 30° in 1856, the 31° in 1857, the 32° in 1859, and the 33° in 1869. For many years he was the Secretary of the Rite, and is now Assistant-Secretary to the Supreme Council.

To enumerate the ceremonies and the consecrations performed by him—of which those of the Hervey, the St. Peters', Westminster, the Eccleston, and the Royal Kensington are among the most recent—would occupy more time than is at our disposal. Nor would it be possible, to furnish a complete record of his services, of the Masonic bodies which have conferred upon him Honorary Membership, or of the testimonials with which, from time to time, he has been presented. We must not omit to mention, however, that he is a Life Governor of our several Charitable Institutions, and a member of the House Committee of the Boys' School. He has served many Stewardships to these Charities, and loses no opportunity of promoting their success wherever and whenever it is in his power to do them yeoman service. In short, whether we take into consideration his mental and personal qualifications—his perfect knowledge of our Ritual, his skill as an orator, the kindliness of his disposition, his untiring zeal, his wisdom as a councillor, his staunchness as a friend; the many offices of trust and dignity he has filled, and the rewards and testimonials that have been showered upon him, or the faithful services he has rendered in the cause of each and every of our Masonic Charities, it is impossible to come to any other conclusion than this,—that the subject of our sketch is one of the firmest and stateliest pillars which has ever supported the grand old edifice of Freemasonry. To say that we wish him a long continuance of his truly admirable career is only to echo the wish which every worthy Craftsman feels in his heart. We superadd to this the hope that, in the interests of the Craft he has loved and served so well, men may always be found among us who will fulfil their labours with as conspicuous ability, as great kindness, equal dignity and grace.

LONDON MASONIC CLUB, 101 QUEEN VICTORIA STREET, E.C.

ON Monday last a preliminary meeting of the Brethren of this Club, who had subscribed their names as willing to establish a Lodge of Instruction at the Club, was held, Bro. Joseph Langton was voted to the Chair, there were also present Bros. T. A. A. Rumpff, H. Matthews, C. J. Hogg, N. Reid, J. E. Shand, &c. Bro. Hogg P.M. 1275, P.G. Steward, was appointed Hon. Sec. and Treasurer pro tem. Various suggestions were submitted, discussed and approved, and a Committee appointed, consisting of Bros. Hogg, Reid and Shaw, to frame Rules, and to carry out arrangements for a meeting, which it is expected will take place on Monday, 13th proximo. Further particulars will be announced by us in future issues.

A MASONIC ADDRESS OF THE LAST CENTURY.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The following is an exact copy of an old manuscript address which I have in my possession, written and delivered by Bro. Wm. Pryce, R.W.M. of Redruth Lodge, at the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall, held at Falmouth, 27th December 1773. It has never been published, and, thinking it might be interesting to the brethren of Cornwall, particularly to the members of the Druids' Lodge of Love and Liberality, No. 589, Redruth, I send it you for insertion in the columns of your valuable paper.

Yours fraternally,

JOHN COOMBE, P.M., &c., 450.

M.W.P.G.M., R.W.D.P.G.M., P.G.W.'s and Brethren of the P.G. Lodge; R.W.M., Worshipful P.M., Worshipful Wardens and Brethren of the Lodge of Love and Honour; R.W.M., Wor. P.M., Wor. Wardens and Brethren of the respective Lodges present.

GREET YE THRICE HEARTILY WELL.

To fix the absolute epocha of Freemasonry may be as difficult an undertaking as any search into the antiquities of unrecorded time. From the nature of our institution we are enveloped in a cloud of uncertainties, and our discoveries in many matters have the appearance of conjecture. We are denied the use of dead letters to convey our mysteries to posterity, and we are only living witnesses of the propriety and beautiful harmony of our well-constructed Order.

Although, in one sense, we derive our rise from the fall of our first parent, when it became necessary for man to build an habitation and security from the inclemencies of the season, yet, scientifically, we date our existence as a body as Masons from the building of Solomon's Temple; therefore we may venture to affirm that our infallible and most authentic register is the inspired Word of God Himself, so that of consequence, if our memorials are few, they are nevertheless the absolute language of Truth Divine.

Hence it follows the Bible is the code of our laws and the rule of our faith and works.

Founded on faith itself, our base is sure and cannot fail. The building may decay, but it will ever rise again upon its own ruins, and, like the rebuilding of God's Temple, will rise superior to the ravages of time and the Gothic rudeness of uncivilised men. While we are builded on truth, cemented by secrecy and brotherly love, supported and adorned by prudence and fidelity, and ornamented with the applied precepts of our gracious Law-giver, we shall be such a temple to His glory and an honour to His creation.

Seeing us animated by such Laws and Principles the world has ever been ready to catch at our morals, and to imitate our actions, but not having the same cement with us their mortar has proved untempered, and their buildings have fallen to the ground.

We (in our ancient brethren the chosen people of the Most High) being framed in fraternal confidence by the Almighty Architect and Grand Contriver of the Universe, became the admiration of the Gentile World, and they beholding the progress which Science and Philosophy in fellowship rivetted together by love and unity viewed us with emulation and applause. Of course they contrived to form themselves into fraternities, and to build upon our plan, but not having the same Grand Master to superintend their workmanship, their superstructures were foundationless, and their Babels were all confusion, for how can heathen mythology and human invention be opposed to Him who sitteth in Light Inaccessible.

As the Arts travelled from the East to the West, so has Masonry likewise, and that great system of our mysteries being formed under the auspices of our three grand pillars in the East, came to this island before the arts themselves. They were admired by all nations, and were found necessary to precede all other science for their excellency in preparing and civilising the ignorance and rusticity of our ancestors. The minds of men being thus cultivated and associated into order and morality were fit to receive and preserve the dogmas and rudiments of philosophy and commerce. But as the polite arts have taken up their residence among us, and flourish more in Great Britain than anywhere else, so likewise have the natives shown their superior encouragement and excellence in Masonry to all other countries, insomuch that at this time Masonry Universal is constituted by the Grand Master of Great Britain in particular. Here in this land of liberty it grows and flourishes continually, and while the atoms of freedom are diffused in the very sense and spirit of our constitution, the soul and body of our thrice venerable fraternity will live among us and perish but with the universal crush of matter.

Notwithstanding Freemasonry did not originate in this isle, I am well inclined to judge it made an early and rapid advance into our country, and that many religious and civil institutions were formed by similar maxims and modes of government. I shall only take upon me to display the probability of this surmise by an example in point of a very local and similar nature.

It is allowed by authors of the greatest veracity that the ancient and venerable order Druidism was first invented in Britain. The remains of their antiquity are to be seen in every corner of the kingdom, but nowhere so particularly as in Cornwall. They were remarkable for their learning and antiquity before the time of Pythagoras, who lived 600 years before Christ. Pythagoras travelled almost the then known world to converse with them and learn their doctrines. These proofs of their antiquity and locality do not disprove their taking upon us some hints of their moral government. If it is doubted by some, the strict analogy between us and them will confirm it to others.

Bocherus derives their name from the word Trewe, i.e., Faith; or from Drut, a friend; or from the Hebrew Druism, i.e., People of Contemplation. These epithets of faithful friendship and contemplative equally belong to us. We are true and faithful, linked together in friendship by brotherly affection, and in the most accurate sense, speculative and contemplative in our doctrines and discipline.

There were three degrees of Druids. The superior class was called the Druids by way of eminence; as the sun rises in the East, and opens the day, so they stood in the East to open and unfold their mysteries, and set the next class, the Bards, to work. These Bards were remarkable for an extraordinary talent of memory, and therefore, like our Fellow-Crafts, were particularly employed to teach their young disciples or Entered Prentices, who were to learn to remember, as the principal qualification in societies where no written laws were allowed. The Bards were inferior in rank to the Druids, yet prior in antiquity. So were Fellow Crafts prior in antiquity to Master Masons, for we all know at a certain time there were but three of the latter in the world, and these were only so, in all probability, from their rank and station in life, perhaps from their wisdom in contriving, their strength in supporting the undertaking with men, money, and materials, and their cunning workmanship in carrying on the order. Nevertheless, that circumstance we are taught was followed by a transaction which, at the same time it was most horrible and cruel, produced unto us the Master Key of Masonry. This class were to give instructions and to welcome strange brethren, as were the Ethates or Entered Prentices to rear and receive them, and keep off all cowans or profane persons from the light and knowledge of their mysteries.

The great similitude of the manner and customs of the ancient Druids to those of Free and Accepted Masons, in their allegory, secrecy, morality, mysteries and discipline memoriter, are very obvious. Under the direction of the Druids the most singular part of instruction was that of learning a great number of verses by heart, for they did not think it lawful to commit what related to their particular discipline or work to writing. (Sheringham thinks this favours of the customs of the Hebrews, they being as fond as any people of ORAL tradition, which we, as Masons, know to be very true.) They used also allegory to convey their doctrines into precisely adapted and well prepared minds, without being at all understood by, or made obnoxious to, the refusal or profanation of the ludicrous and perverse. They seem to have pursued their Mysteries Memoriter for several reasons, because they would not have their mysteries become too familiar to the vulgar,—in this, as in many other particulars, resembling the Egyptians,—nor be divulged and exposed to the caprice of foreign countries, nor their scholars trust too much to their written letter, and neglect to cultivate their memory; and it may be observed that we find several instances in history of the same custom among the wisest heathens.

"Lycurgus and the lawgivers of other cities thought it better to imprint their laws in the minds of their citizens than to engrave them in tablets where they might be neglected and unregarded. Plutarch informs us that Numa's sacred books and writings were buried with him by his order (perhaps in compliance with the opinion of his friend Pythagoras), imitating herein the legislators of Greece, who inculcated the contents of their laws so long into the hearts and minds of their priests that their understanding became living libraries of those sacred volumes, it being esteemed a profanation of such mysteries to commit their secrets into dead letters." (Pott's Antiquities of Greece, Vol. I., p. 142.) Such was the opinion also of Pythagoras and Socrates, neither of whom left anything behind them committed to writing. When, therefore, the disciples of Pythagoras perished in the flames during the Metapontine tumults, the discipline and science of that philosopher expired for the most part with them, for their memories were the only repositories in which they had preserved those treasures of knowledge which their great founder had left them; all these therefore were irrecoverably lost, and nothing more was preserved than what some novitiate scholars, who were never admitted into the mysteries, could remember and very badly explain.

Socrates, disputing with Phedrus in favour of teaching by word of mouth rather than by written doctrines, says, "That written books resemble the work of a painter, where the portrayed animals appear indeed as if they had real life, but if you ask them any question they can give you no answer." "How much more excellent and efficacious," says he, "is that instruction, which is written and engraved in the mind of him that teacheth, who knows what and before whom he is to speak, how and what he is to inculcate, and what he is to conceal. He sows not his seed in a hot bed, where it shall soon sprout, flourish for a few days, then languish and decay, but like a skilful husbandman sows his field and waits patiently for a few months in just expectation of a plentiful harvest." In short, Socrates allows only of writing in order to enrich and assist the memory of the teacher, but by no means proper to instruct the scholar.

After the example of the Hebrews, Egyptians and Assyrians, the Druids comprised all the particularities of their religion and morality in hymns, the number of which, as Mr. Martin says, was so great that the verses which composed them amounted to 20,000. In justification of this part of their discipline it must be observed that the subject matter of verses is easier learned, by means of the metre, and more easily retained than what is expressed in prose.

As the Bards were remarkable for so extraordinary a talent of memory this teaching memoriter was their office, whilst the superiors of the Order were employed in higher speculations, or the more secret and solemn parts of duty. The Druids were such great lovers of silence and order that if any one during their assemblies was found to disturb the harmony of their meetings, they cut, after a third admonition, a large piece of his robe, and if after that he offended a fourth time they punished him most rigorously.

I am drawn into these observations and reflections not only on account of the very great resemblance between us and the learned venerable Druids, but likewise this Lodge stands upon the very spot which was once sacred to their use and residence. The ancient name of the place was either Ryd Draw, the Druids' Ford, or Tre Druith. Dre Druith, that is the Druids' Town. By a grant of Fairs to the Bassets of Tehidy no longer back than the time of Henry VII., it went so nearly in sound as Red-drew.

It has now become a custom to dedicate or nominate our respective Lodges pursuant to some circumstance or name. I hope it will not be thought amiss in me if I presume to recommend an appropriate appellation for us in imitation—Maternal Lodge of Love and Honour. In this proposal I hope to be seconded and supported by the unanimous approbation of my brethren present, and that we may be distinguished by our proper appellation in every list of constituted Lodges for the time to come. It is an easy matter to guess at the meaning of my recommendation from a retrospect of the former part of this discourse.

May we then be denominated The Druids' Lodge of Love and Liberality, in reference to our institution; and may we, in token of our following the respectable examples of those wise and virtuous people, both in and out of our Lodge, behave like creatures designed for the glory of our Grand Architect, and not render ourselves, by foolishness, the sport and derision of those who are inadmissible to our confidence and esteem.

Notwithstanding all the injuries that Freemasonry has received from false brethren, and the malicious slanders of mankind, yet the present and frequent revivals of it are additional proofs of its great beauty and excellence. The world at large must acknowledge that the true and faithful part of our Order are men of the strictest honour and probity, that they are loyal, virtuous, and humane, and they are adorned with every qualification to administer and receive happiness. If we look around us, where shall we find any man of moral excellence that ever deserted the society, after he had put into practice its harmonic and eccentric principles? It is not compatible with our idea of the matter to admit of such a possibility.

The fountain and foundation of our moral system are not to be contaminated by vice and folly, and whenever there is a secession of any unworthy member from our Society, I always consider that circumstance as an increase to our strength and reputation. Nay, I wish from the profound of my heart that every rotten branch of our fellowship was lopped off and exterminated from amongst us; but as bad men will mix themselves by ways and means with the best regulated societies, so must we endure these hardships and disgraces in common with other communities.

My Honourable and Worthy Brethren, let each of us now in this right worshipful Lodge of Saint John contribute all in our power to advance and maintain the honour and welfare of our laudable Craft.

May we be true and sincere in our morals, may we be wise and resolutely good, and may we ornament the human edifice with every virtue and fine accomplishment.

For the attainment of these qualifications I recommend a frequent and mutual intercourse between the Lodges of Falmouth and Redruth, to keep up the life and spirit of Masonry by a constant attendance of every member of each Lodge respectively, and never to leave the Lodge till the work be came there to do is well done and performed. One great cause of decay in Masonry is owing to idleness in not doing the Master's work with submission to discipline and order. Let the spirit of emulation in the working part excite each member of our community to excel his brethren, for if you will ask, you may have; if you will seek, you may find; if you knock at the chest where the jewels are, the key which is made of no manner of metal will open it unto you.

May you be free in Faith, fervent in Hope, and zealous in Love, as that mother who receives you into her hospitable bosom when all your other friends have left and forsaken you. With humility receive the milk of instruction from the breast of Him who sitteth in the east to unlock with ivory keys the bone, bone box which contains the mysteries of our art, and suffer the impression of moral principles to sink deep into the trestle board of your mind. Thus grounded in the fundamentals, you may, with time, patience, and industry, be as blazing stars in the centre of the Lodge, or like the indented tessel or beautiful skirting round about it.

I have, my Brethren, but one more remark to employ your forbearance at this time, which is this:—however unworthy a person I am in my own deportment, yet it can no way invalidate or lessen the truth and merit of what I have taken upon me to enforce and inculcate. You are not to look at the man, but apply the benefit to yourselves; and if you have a proper degree of brotherly affection for one who has been a laborious working Mason the last twenty years, you will pity my infirmities, and cover my intellectual nakedness with the apron of candour.

For which and every other mark of principled Masonry may you and yours, your families, friends and connections, be fitted and prepared to receive and administer every good and perfect gift from the boundless ocean of eternal love, whose glorious majesty the Heaven of Heavens cannot contain, even from that Omniscient, Omnipotent, and Omnipresent Lord Jehovah who is God over us all, blessed for evermore.

And may we, my honourable worshipful and dear brethren, while we are in the mortal clay temples of our fleeting bodies be ready to meet, unwilling to part, and joyful to meet again.

[We have acceded to the request of Bro. Coombe with a very great deal of pleasure. Not only is the address interesting, but, in parts, the writer is most earnest in his attempts to inculcate the grand truths of Freemasonry. It is evident he was both a zealous student and an earnest expositor of our mysteries. We believe there are many among us who are as able to expound our doctrine as the late Bro. Pryce, and we trust they will not shrink from the duty of following his example, by always—that is, at all convenient seasons—endeavouring to impress on their younger, and less well informed brethren, the true aims and objects of the Royal Art.—Ed. Freemason's Chronicle.]

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle.

Dear Sir and Brother,—I feel much satisfaction in receiving a reply from Bro. Gottheil, and much regret to differ even in appearance from one I hold in high esteem and respect.

His paper is written with undoubted talent. He eludes each point with wonderful tact; but, when distinct charges are made, the opponent is expected to reply categorically to those charges, and not to mislead, as in this case, by indulging in a kind of paraphrase on Masonry, the principles of which are neither alluded to, contested, or impugned.

Our subject is the Lectures, and the Lectures only. Formerly I have treated more at large on the principles of Masonry, and my good faith has never been impugned. On this occasion my humble endeavour has been to aid in introducing modifications of which Bro. Gottheil, in his letter, states "Lodges, east, west, north and south are earnestly desiring to effect." Is it presumption to ask to be a fellow-labourer? Let us, then, define our objects, and, in earnest endeavours after truth, the Great Architect of the Universe will not withhold His aid.

In my last article, after tracing the literary history of our Lectures, I endeavoured to claim for Masonic teaching a higher standard than is compatible with those of them which, to use Bro. Gottheil's own words, "may be contemptible." I endeavoured, also, to inculcate that Masonry should have lofty aims, but that lofty aims can never be realised by the present imperfect teachings of our Lodges of Instruction; and Bro. Gottheil himself will not deny that a teaching which claims to have the glory of God and the good of man for its aim should at least be founded upon truth.

Now if a Preceptor tells the brethren that a "Lodge of Freemasons" existed "at Alexandria in Egypt, over which Euclid presided as Grand Master," he would tell his pupils what he ought to know is entirely without foundation, and hence imply that Masonic teachings and truth are not identical. There is no allegory here; it is simple fact. It is the principle here involved, that truth may be sacrificed to effect, that calls not for correction, but for entire change in any future Revision.

I must again call attention to the symbol which is pretended to be illustrated by the tale of Jephtha. They have, and can have, no connection whatever, and as to any tradition upon the subject, it is simply absurd. Talk of allegory indeed! I know the pain and mortification it has often subjected me to, in feeling compelled to listen to such an outrage upon common sense.

Take, again, the origin of "Freeborn," illustrated, in like manner, by a reference to Ishmael, Hagar, and Isaac. If they have any relation to this event, it is incumbent upon Bro. Gottheil to prove it; if not, the reference to this subject is merely as an idle tale.

Neither is it fair criticism on the part of my friend to impute to me that I consider Scripture narrative as "an idle tale." I have humble faith in the sacred volume, not less, I trust, than Bro. Gottheil himself. I bow to its authority in all things, yet believe that by unwisely adopting certain examples which it affords—examples which the Most High, in His inscrutable wisdom, permitted for special ends, have often caused, when adopted or inculcated as isolated facts, unspeakable sin, misery and crime.

I bow before the mystery of Hagar and Ishmael, before the sacking by a freebooter of twenty Ammonitish cities, and before the slaughter of forty-two thousand Ephraimites at the Ford. But, whilst the Sacred Volume abounds with examples of love and mercy, and of chivalry of holy living and saintly dying, I object strongly to painful illustrations altogether beyond our finite comprehension being needlessly thrust upon us—illustrations which, taken alone and without explanation (as is the case in our Lodges of Instruction), would go far to confer the sanction of religion on slavery, pillage and murder.

I further add that, if certain Masons in their erratic researches have lighted upon examples which, taken by themselves, give the lie to the higher teachings of the Bible, they are as idle tales, and travesty the sacred page.

Let this be the second principle in Revision.

I am not conscious of deserving the hard things my friend imputes to me. I claim to have had some slight influence, at least, in the modified views which now prevail as to Masonic history and tradition, and I appeal against the odium theologicum which he endeavours to cast upon me to all who value the claims of reason, earnestness and truth.

My friend speaks of the Lectures as "What is admitted to be simply tradition." I think the force of imagination can go no farther, the Lectures have no claim whatever to the rank of tradition. "Traditional" means "oral from age to age," and in this sense Gibbon uses it. What evidence does our friend give for their being traditional? I can only find that those now in use are compilations made a few years, more or less, ago. And if it is true that they are really foisted upon us as Masonic traditions, they can only critically be described as plagiarisms of which the origin has been concealed to hide the fraud, and frauds, pious or otherwise, have never accomplished anything but the debasement of those adopting them. If anything has come down to us traditionally, it is simply the form. The word, however, meets us at every turn, and in any future revision it will be most important to define clearly what is for the future to be understood by the word "Tradition."

One more subject, suggested by the fertile ideas of our friend, I will refer to, and that is "Allegorical." It is a word abundantly used in Masonry, and within certain limits is necessary, but unfortunately in our teachings has fallen sadly into abuse. Locke, in his "Essay on the Understanding," calls upon us earnestly to "Define our terms," and his axiom in reference to this word "Allegory" should be carefully borne in mind in any future "Revision."

In thus replying to my friend, I have endeavoured to point out some of the principles upon which Revision should be founded.

These definitions or canons, comprised in a few articles, would be a guide to the Preceptor, and give a clearness to his teaching; they would become the principles of our philosophy, and when once principles are agreed upon the rest follows as matter of detail. Masonry above all things should remember the axiom of Locke, "Define your terms."

Finally, I care not to reply to my friend's charge of "assumption," but contend that I have at least assisted in making out a case for REVISION. A revision which should be made only under competent authority, equally independent of the tinkering of "those Lodges who" (on the authority of Bro. Gottheil) "in the east, west, north, and south, are by no means idle to introduce important improvements," and, on the other hand, to quote again the language of Bro. Gottheil, of "those obstructives whose perverse, unreasoning proclivities, incline them to venerate and hold fast antiquated notions however ridiculous and opposed to common sense."

It would seem, indeed, that Bro. Gottheil's condemnation is far more sweeping than anything proceeding from me. "Art thou my very son Esau, for thy voice is Jacob's voice?" Dear brother Gottheil, after all we may not be far from each other, but, Jacob or Esau, I claim thine hand.

W. VINER BEDOLFE, M.D., P.M. 1329,
Author of "The Footsteps of Masonry."

22nd October 1876.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In my introductory letter of the 11th ult., it was suggested that any controversy to which it might give rise should be carried on without personality, and in a good Masonic spirit. It will give much pain to others, and to myself, should any of your correspondents injudiciously lose sight of the very simple question at issue, viz., "the propriety or otherwise of using certain words in our rituals," and, by attacking persons or principles, bring discredit or ridicule upon our Order. Tending very much to such a result is the letter of an esteemed friend, "formerly Hon. Sec. to the Sphynx Lodge of Instruction," with which I totally disagree. It commences with an error, which has effectually destroyed the reserve I had thought advantageous to the cause I have at heart, and compels me to at once adopt the suggestion made in "P.G.W.'s" letter, and declare myself. It continues with a statement which, to many, will be a great surprise, for the late lamented Preceptor referred to never, during a close acquaintance, extending over eighteen years, enunciated such a remark to me, nor, as far as I can learn, to those who were his pupils long before my friend's initiation; and indeed could hardly have done so in any case, seeing that he was everywhere surrounded by many whom he had himself inducted into the chair of K.S. The admirable and exhaustive reply of Bro. Gottheil to the remainder of the letter enables me to dispense with any further reference to my friend's communication.

To Q. we are much indebted, for he has taken up the discussion in the needful manner, and ventures upon the expression of his opinions without anxiety as to their ultimate adoption or otherwise.

P.G.W.'s letter has given me much encouragement, and I am greatly obliged to him for his reference to previous labors, to secure "Uniformity of Working." I have re-read the letter of the 27th March 1869, which was the commencement of a discussion leading to the unanimous vote of Grand Lodge, 1st Dec. 1869, (the occasion of the investment of H.R.H. The Prince of Wales, as P.G.M.), "that a Committee should be appointed to enquire and report on the subject," and I see no reason to alter the views therein expressed. If you would give me space for a re-print of that letter, it might prove interesting and useful in connection with the present discussion. The plan then proposed is nearly the same as that suggested by Bro. Hughan, and to which P.G.W. refers, and was approved of by him; and as it is well known in Masonic circles how thoroughly well considered all recommendations from Bro. Hughan are, your readers would probably be gratified by an opportunity being afforded them to learn what has been and still is sought for.

Meanwhile "revenons à nos moutons":—Preceptor No. 1 says, "The sun being the centre of our solar system," &c.; No. 2 says, "The sun being a fixed body," &c. Again No. 1 says, "The distinguishing badge of a Mason;" No. 2 says "Of an E. A. Freemason." And again, No. 1 says, in 3°, "That no trace or remembrance of," &c.; No. 2 says, "Remains." Which is Correct?

Yours fraternally
JAMES STEVENS,
P.M., P.Z.

Clapham, 23rd October 1876.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have been much interested in some of the questions which have of late been under consideration in your valuable journal. May I trouble you with another question, which, to a young Mason at least, is puzzling? That is—How to know what constitutes the secrets and mysteries of Freemasonry which every Brother should consider himself under obligations to avoid the least hazard of disclosing? Some have flooded the country with their endeavours to make all so clear that those who run may read, even introducing wood cuts to make things plainer. One is reminded of Cowper's forbidden part of the pig, which every Mussulman was enjoined not to eat, but that particular part being undefined, each naturally thought it must be the part he did not like, so amongst them they ate it all.

Also, when P.G. Lodges (I refer in all cases to the first three degrees) are opened from manuscript, one may reasonably ask, What is the use of Lodges of Instruction when the Brethren have examples before them of those in authority saving themselves the trouble, and showing how easily everything can be done?

With fraternal regards,
I remain, yours truly, 1545.

Yorkshire, October 1876.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTER MASONS, OF THE COUNTY PALATINE OF LANCASTER.

THE annual meeting was held in the Masonic Hall, Cooper Street, Manchester, on Monday, 23rd inst.

There was a large assemblage of the brethren from all parts of the Province; visiting brethren were sparse. After the ordinary routine business of the Province had been got through, the Most Worshipful Grand Mark Master Mason of England and Wales and the Colonies and Dependencies of the British Crown, Brother the Earl of Limerick, entered the Lodge, escorted by a goodly attendance of Past and Present Grand and Provincial Grand Lodge Officers, and, on ascending the throne, was saluted in the customary form known to Mark Master Masons, when he at once proceeded to instal the Right Honourable Lord Skelmersdale as Prov. G.M.M.M. for the County Palatine of Lancaster, as successor to the highly beloved deceased Bro. William Romaine Callender.

The newly invested Prov. G.M.M. proceeded to nominate and invest with the jewels of their different offices—

The business of the Lodge over, the brethren assembled in the large dining hall, where they partook of a sumptuous banquet, the R.W. Prov. G.M.M.M. Bro. the Lord Skelmersdale presiding, supported on his right by the M.W. Grand Master the Earl of Limerick, Bros. John Sutcliffe, R.W. Prov. G.M.M.M. of Lincolnshire, Bro. Davison Grand Mark Treasurer; and on his left by the Prov. Grand Chaplain and the Assist. Prov. Grand Chaplain, Bros. Heine, Binckes, Alpass, and other well-known brethren of the Mark Degree. The customary Royal toasts of "The Queen," "The Prince and Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family," were proposed and acknowledged. Appropriate songs and glees, by a choir of professional singers, were much approved.

The M.W. G.M.M.M. proposed "Health, happiness, and a pleasant term of office to the newly-installed R.W. Prov. G.M.M.M.," with whom he had for some very many years been intimately connected in many good works, and, although he had sometimes to come under his whip, it was, from his genial disposition so kindly administered that it was always a pleasure to acknowledge it.

The toast was drunk in the most enthusiastic manner, with repeated salutes and cheers.

The R.W. Prov. G.M.M.M. proposed "The Health of the Chief of M.M.," who responded, and was frequently interrupted by cheers of approval.

The Deputy Prov. G.M.M.M., Bro. Le Gendre Nicholas Starkie, having had to retire from the Lodge early, in consequence of domestic affliction, "The Health of the newly-installed Provincial Grand Officers" was drank most enthusiastically, and was responded to by the Prov. G.S.W., Bro. Hargreaves, in a most fluent and superior manner, such as we rarely hear. It is to be regretted that there are not more frequently in Lodges brethren who could repeat in detail such fine, practical remarks as Bro. Hargreaves made on this occasion.

The toast of "The Prov. G.M.M.," coupled with the name of Bro. John Sutcliffe, Prov. G.M.M.M. for Lincolnshire, was drunk most enthusiastically, and responded to by him.

Contrary to usual custom, the toast of "Our Masonic Charities" fell to the lot of Bro. Binckes, Grand Mark Secretary, and Secretary to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, who, in the course of a good, sound speech, informed the Masonic world that already £14,040 had been received this year in support of the Boys' School.

This toast was responded to by Bros. Heine (Manchester) and Alpass (Liverpool), both brethren, it is well known, who take an active interest in the success of our Charities, and who gave some pleasing information of their experience in the working of them.

"The Visiting Brethren" was responded to by Bro. Capt. Wordsworth, Deputy Prov. G.M.M.M. for West Yorkshire.

All poor and distressed Masons were remembered at this exceedingly good Lodge, and this pleasantly terminated an agreeably-spent evening.

The brethren assembled in the Grand Jury Room of the Shire Hall under the charter of the Staffordshire Knot Lodge 726, which was opened at noon. In the absence of the W.M. of the Lodge (Bro. the Rev. F. K. Clarke), the chair was taken by Bro. J. C. Marson P.M., assisted by Bro. the Rev. C. E. Perry S.W., Bro. Chalmers S.D., officiated as J.W. in the absence of Bro. R. Hewson, Bro. T. Foulke J.D., Bro. Wood Sec., Bro. Scott I.G.

At half-past twelve o'clock the Provincial Grand Lodge entered, and were received with the usual Masonic greeting. The R.W.P.G.M. and officers having taken their places, the P.G. Lodge was opened in due form, after which the P.G. Secretary read the notices convening the meeting, and the minutes of the previous meeting at Lichfield, and of the emergency meetings at Cheadle, in May last, for the consecration of St. George's Lodge 1587, and at Handsworth, in August last, for the purpose of laying the foundation-stone of the restoration of Handsworth Parish Church.

The Treasurer's statement was then read and adopted.

The R.W.P.G.M. said he had now a most difficult duty to perform in the distribution of P.G. offices. It would always be his anxiety to distribute those offices in as legitimate a manner as possible, and he trusted he had never given offence to the province in the way in which he had awarded them. There were only eighteen offices, and there were twenty-two Lodges, so that to get round them fairly and honestly was a very difficult task, but the P.G. Sec. had been kind enough to assist him, and had given him a most able report of the offices which had been given away during the past six years. There might have been, and perhaps had been, occasions where Lodges had been unintentionally overlooked; but, while anxious to remedy anything of that kind, he was determined to resist dictations from Lodges. (Applause.) He had received a letter from the P.M. of the Abbey Lodge 624, Burton-on-Trent, who ventured to tell him that he had not given a sufficiently good office to that Lodge. He had a great respect for that Lodge, but was not going to be dictated to, and, therefore, should leave that Lodge out of consideration altogether that day. There were two other Lodges to which he should like to give appointments, but the rules should be kept up; and the Tipton and the Handsworth Lodges—the latter of which he should have thought to be one of the most correct Lodges in existence—had neither of them sent in their returns. Bro. Cartwright P.G. Sec. explained that the forms, though they had been forwarded to the St. James's (Handsworth) Lodge, had never been received, and, therefore, could not be returned.

The R.W.P.G.M. said another lodge, one which bore his name—the Shrewsbury—had sent no return, but being a young Lodge there had, perhaps, been some mistake.

Bro. Jones, W.M. 1,520, said no forms had been received; and Bro. Cartwright excited considerable laughter by replying that two sets of forms had been sent to that Lodge.

The R.W.P.G.M. then appointed and invested the following P.G. officers for the ensuing year:—

Bros. Frank James, P.M. 539, Walsall, D.P.G.M., T. J. Walker, P.M., Wolverhampton, S.G.W., Chas. Hickson, P.M. 460, Newcastle, J.G.W., the Rev. Chas. Lee, Bilston, P.G. Chaplain, the Rev. F. R. Clarke, W.M. 726, P.G. Chaplain, J. Steen, P.M. 526, P.G. Reg., J. Bodenham, P.M. 726, Newport, Treasurer, W. Cartwright, P.P.S.G.W., P.M. 460, Newcastle, P.G. Secretary, T. Cooke jun., P.M. 1,060, Tamworth, P.G.S.D., Thos. Bickley, P.M. 418, Hanley, P.G.J.D., Thos. Humphries, W.M. 539, Walsall, P.G. Superintendent of Works, J. C. Marson, P.M. 726, Stafford, P.G.D.C., Sampson Bennett, P.M. 98, Burslem, P.G.A.D.C., Thos. Whittles, P.M. Leek, P.G.S.B., F. Derry, P.M., as P.G.P., Thos. Wood, Samuel Scott, H. B. Livingstone, T. E. Fowke, J. Baker jun., and T. W. Chalmers, P.G. Stewards.

In concluding the investiture, the R.W.P.G.M. remarked that it gave him great delight to see so many clergymen joining the Lodges. He had done his best to distribute the offices, and though he did not quarrel with those who thought they ought to have promotion, still he thought they ought to suggest and not to demand that promotion. (Applause.)

The Lodge then adjourned, and the brethren walked in procession to St. Mary's Parish Church, where an admirable sermon was preached by Bro. the Rev. Brook Lambert, P.G. Chaplain, who took for his text the words from Zechariah iv.—"Despise not the day of small things," and preached from it an eloquent discourse, pointing out that though Freemasonry might be regarded as a small seed in the past, it had developed wondrously, and become in our own day a mighty agency, which might do a vast amount of good in the cause of charity.

At the close of the sermon a collection was made, amounting to £15 7s, and at the subsequent reassembly of Grand Lodge it was resolved that £5 5s should be devoted to St. Mary's and Christ Church Schools, Stafford, the remainder being carried to Prov. Grand Lodge funds.

Bro. Frank James D.P.G.M. proposed that the sum of £60 from the Shrewsbury fund, and £60 from the Prov. Grand Lodge funds, be voted to assist in purchasing the election of a brother's child into the Masonic Boys' School, but after some discussion Bro. James consented to withdraw this motion in favour of one proposed by Bro. Bodenham, Prov. G. Treasurer, and seconded by Bro. Horley, to the effect that a committee should be appointed to consider the proposal for the purchase of a life presentation to the Boys' School, to be perpetuated by the insurance of the life of the nominee. It was understood that the committee should consist of the Provincial Grand Officers for the current year, with the past deputies, and a representative from each Lodge in the province, an Emergency Grand Lodge to be called for the purpose of deciding the matter on the day of the next quarterly meeting, which his lordship intimated he intended holding at Newcastle.

This being the whole of the business, Bro. the Rev. W. Randall P.P.G.C. Warwick, and P.M. 460, said he desired to take that, the first opportunity which had been afforded him, to return, on behalf of himself and those connected with his church, their most grateful thanks for the very efficient services which the Grand Lodge had rendered in reference to the church. He could assure them that they had given the greatest gratification and satisfaction not only to the members of the Craft, he believed, throughout the province, but in the adjacent provinces too. They had also done a great benefit to Masonry in the outside world, especially in the eyes of the ladies. He was sure on the part of the ladies of Handsworth, and on the part of the committee for the restoration, he could not find words sufficient to express their gratitude for what they felt to have been very beneficial services. The ladies' purses which were presented on that occasion amounted to the very large sum of £482—(applause). He believed that nothing but the presence of the noble lord in the chair, and the Provincial Grand Lodge could have achieved that very great success.

The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Assembly Room of the Shire Hall, where they sat down to a grand banquet, under the presidency of the R.W.P.G.M. the Right Hon. the Earl of Shrewsbury.

The R.W.P.G.M., in proposing "The Health of the Queen," said far be it from him to talk politics on such an occasion as that, but he could not resist the opportunity of saying that the patriotism of the country was roused, and everybody would be glad to accord to Her Majesty the support which, as the Sovereign of a great and enlightened country, we owed to her. (Hear, hear.) We had only recently had the advantage of knowing how brilliantly our Queen had reigned. We knew that she had been ready, and properly so, to receive the advice of the Ministers who had been at the head of the Administrations of the day, but when they reflected that Her Majesty, with a foresight and perspicuity which did honour to her, had been thoroughly aware of the great questions which were now agitating the world, they would see how great was the discrimination and judgment which Her Majesty had shown. (Applause.)

The R.W.P.G.M. next proposed "The Health of the M.W. his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales Grand Master of England, the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," remarking that, as Masons, they were particularly pleased at the reception which their Scotch brethren had given his Royal Highness in Glasgow. It showed that wherever his Royal Highness went he was ready to associate himself with the people and with the great institutions of the country, and he was proud to think that His Royal Highness had given that distinction to Scotland which he had given to England, and which he trusted would eventually be given to Ireland. (Hear, hear.) It showed that His Royal Highness's interest in Masonry was not diminished, but that wherever he was he did his best to encourage noble institutions and the Craft. (Applause).

"The Health of the Ladies" and the toast of "The Press" were next duly honoured.

"The Health of the Most Worshipful Pro Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon" having been drunk,

Bro. Frank James, D.P.G.M., next proposed "The Health of the Right Hon. the Earl of Shrewsbury, the R.W.P.G.M." saying on that occasion he wished to say nothing new of his lordship, for they were only too happy to know that in everything their experience fully justified the observations which had been previously made of the noble lord. (Applause.) It had been a fortunate thing for them that they had had to preside over them a nobleman occupying so high a position as Lord Shrewsbury, and who, from the first moment he had put his head in a Masonic collar had never shirked one bit of duty. He was sure they would drink with the greatest enthusiasm the health of Lord Shrewsbury, and heartily hope that his lordship might long continue to preside over them as Provincial Grand Master. (Great applause.)

The R.W.P.G.M., in responding, thanked the brethren very cordially for the great help and encouragement they had given him. Of his many avocations he liked Masonry as well as any, because it enabled him to meet with men whom he considered were the pith of the land. He met men of various occupations, various interests, and various opinions, and it was a very great advantage to him, anxious to serve his county and his country, that he presided over such a body of men. In conclusion, his Lordship proposed, in complimentary terms, "The Health of Bro. Frank James, D.P.G.M., and the Officers of Prov. Grand Lodge, present and past."

Bro. James, in responding, remarked that they were sometimes told that Masonry was antagonistic to religion, but he could say for himself, having an intimate acquaintance with all Masonic ceremonials, that no idea could be more untrue. (Hear, hear). It was quite true that they did not mix themselves up with sectarian religion, but he believed in that universal religion of morality which led a man to do towards his neighbour that which he wished his neighbour to do towards him. (Hear, hear, and applause). That was the true spirit of Masonry, and he could only say, looking round the world at the present moment, it would be better for the world if there were less talk of religion and more Masonry. (Hear, hear, and applause). The more he saw of Freemasonry the more he was satisfied that if its true spirit were universally extended it would be for the happiness of the whole community. (Applause). The fact that his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales occupied the position of head of the body had given the Order a great impetus, and caused a great numerical increase in it; but he warned them not to endeavour to show that Freemasonry was extending simply by the number of new members they could initiate into their Lodges, but to take great care that the new members were of the right sort. (Applause). They wanted Freemasonry to increase, but they wanted it to increase upon a basis which they would not be ashamed of. Let the "tongue of good report" precede every member who had to be admitted into their Lodges, and then they would be able to continue to hold up their heads as Freemasons amongst any community, and show that they were gathered together, not for the purpose of agitating against Principalities and Powers, but united for one common object, that of assisting their poorer brethren in case of need. He was satisfied that no man could be an honest, good, and thorough Freemason without being at the same time a better citizen. (Great applause).

The other toasts were "The W. Masters," "The Visitors," "The Masonic Charities," "The Provincial Grand Stewards," and "The Tyler's."

DEATH OF THE D.P.G.M. OF SUFFOLK.

DEATH has deprived the Freemasons of Suffolk of a venerable and much respected Deputy Provincial Grand Master, in the Rev. F. I. Lockwood, Rector of Belstead, near Ipswich, whose demise took place on Friday, 20th October, from an attack of gout. The deceased, who was in his 78th year, was initiated in the Stuart Lodge, Bedford, and joined the British Union Lodge, No. 114, Ipswich, in 1861. In 1863 he filled the office of W.M. of the British Union with great credit to himself, and to the benefit of the Lodge, and was presented with a Past Master's jewel. Bro. Lord Waveney, then Sir Alexander Shafto Adair, became a member in the same year, and on being appointed Prov. G.M. of Suffolk at once selected Bro. Lockwood as his Deputy, an office which our deceased brother has ever since filled with dignity and urbanity. His last public appearance in Masonry was at the P.G. Lodge last July, when all who saw him could not but notice, with extreme sorrow, how surely Father Time was setting his mark upon him. The deceased, who entered priest's orders in 1823, was much respected in his parish of Belstead, to which he was instituted on his own presentation as long ago as 1846. He was a widower, and leaves four daughters.

The remains of the deceased were interred on Wednesday afternoon, in the chancel of Belstead Church, by the side of his late wife. The funeral was regarded as strictly private, but the respect in which our reverend brother was held was evinced by the attendance of many of the local clergy and gentry, while the Masonic body was represented by Bros. W. Boby P.M., W. Spalding P.M., W. Casley, and G. Godwin. The burial service was impressively performed by Rev. H. J. Husted, Rector of Sproughton, and the Hon. and Rev. F. De Grey, Rector of Copdock; and the solemnity of the occasion was enhanced by the attendance of the school children, who sang some appropriate hymns. The coffin, of plain oak, bore, on a brass plate, the following inscription:—

Rev. F. I. LOCKWOOD, M.A.,
Parish Priest of Belstead.
Died on Friday, 20th October, 1876,
Aged 78 years.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cheltenham Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Hyde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unostentatiously toil for facts."—Brighton and Sussex Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Keles Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

A COUNCIL was held at Balmoral on Tuesday, at which H.R.H. Prince Leopold, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, and the Marquis of Hertford were present. Parliament was prorogued till 12th December. The Prince and Princess of Wales, since their return to town, have been paying sundry visits to theatres, the former varying his programme by running down to Newmarket, to witness the Cambridgeshire and the other principal events of the Houghton meeting. The Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse are likewise in London, which, accordingly, is resuming some of its wonted gaiety.

Hardly a day passes but the papers contain at least one extra-Parliamentary utterance, nor does a single speaker omit to notice one or more phases of this Eastern difficulty. Among the more prominent speakers, have been the Attorney General, Sir John Holker, Mr. G. C. Bentinck, Sir Massey Lopez, and Sir W. Hart Dyke, who being members of the Government have spoken, one and all, strongly in favour of the policy pursued by the Earl of Derby. Others, like Mr. Charley, who are regular supporters of the Ministry, have not only spoken strongly in favour of the same policy, but have likewise denounced the conduct of Messrs. Gladstone, Lowe, and Bright, in most unmeasured terms of reproach. But one of the most telling events of the day is the publication of a letter from the Earl Fitzwilliam, in which the noble Lord, though a leader among the Liberals, and especially in his native county of Yorkshire, speaks in strong reprobation of Mr. Gladstone's conduct, declaring that it has not met with the slightest favour at the hands of the great Liberal leaders, who are all of them fully prepared to stand by the Government in so momentous a crisis. We should hope after this and the calm dispassionate speech of Mr. Foster that Mr. Gladstone will see the wisdom of holding his tongue. The old maxim "Speech is silvern, but silence is golden," has, after all, some virtue in it.

Yet a third week and we have to record another splendid instance of Lord Mayor Cotton's hospitality. Having at divers times entertained the chief lights of science, our artists and men of letters, the clergy, the gentlemen of the long robe, besides the leading representatives of trade and commerce, municipal functionaries, and others, his Lordship, on Tuesday, received the members of the dramatic profession. There sat down to dinner—which, by the way, and for obvious reasons, was served at two p.m.—some three hundred ladies and gentlemen, among them being Mr. Phelps. Mrs. Keeley, Mr. and Miss Buckstone, Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft (Miss Marie Wilton), Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wigan, Messrs. Tom Taylor, Blanchard, Sala, Arthur Cecil, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paul, and all the leading artistes of the day. The speeches of the Lord Mayor, in proposing the various toasts, were very happily rendered, and those of Messrs. Phelps, Buckstone, Blanchard, Tom Taylor, Sala, &c. were equally happy. The afternoon passed off most agreeably, it being evidently a matter of doubt whether the host or his guests were the more delighted on the occasion. London may have had other Lord Mayors equally hospitable, but not one appears to have dispensed his hospitalities with the same judgment as Lord Mayor Cotton. In a few days more his year of office will be complete, but the memory of his mayoralty will always be cherished by his fellow citizens.

The Cat Show at the Crystal Palace, which opened on Friday last, and remained open for the Saturday and Monday following, was a great success as regards both the number and quality of the exhibits. There were some fifty classes, three prizes of £1, 15s, and 10s respectively being awarded in each class. Some of the animals were splendid specimens of the feline tribe, among them being several wonderful tabbies and tortoiseshells. The prices set on the various animals ranged from the sum of £25,000 to a modest eighteenpence. The greatest novelty, however, in the way of exhibitions, has been the Dairy Show at the Agricultural Hall. It opened on Tuesday, which was a half-crown day, and closed yesterday. There was a very fine display of poultry, some of the geese and ducks being specially worthy of praise. The cattle, too, were of prime quality, but the novelty of the show was the cheese, which was very tastily arranged, with ferns and evergreens, and made to look as attractive as possible. Stiltons were in great force, but most of the best known varieties were finely represented. Indeed, the whole show appears to have given general satisfaction, and we shall, doubtless, hear of its being repeated. It is, unquestionably, a great public benefit that such exhibitions as this should be held, for competition must be a great help in stimulating excellence of production.

We regret to see that the Alexandra Palace Company have had to seek the protection of the Bankruptcy Court, and that a petition for its winding-up has been presented. Two petitions, indeed, were presented—one by the Company, and one by a creditor; but the Registrar granted the usual order on the first of these, while dismissing the second without costs. It may, perhaps, be for the best that such a course should have been adopted, but we think the pluck and enterprise of the directors were worthy of a better fate. Even while the first Palace was being destroyed, the directors hastily met together, and resolved to build another in its stead. The grounds are admirably adapted for out-of-door sports, and especially for such exhibitions as Horse and Hound Shows, there being plenty of open air space where the animals can take their exercise, and show off their paces or points before admiring crowds. Unfortunately, though the space was there in ample extent for races, outdoor and indoor shows, concerts—and, indeed, every kind of attractive display—the admiring crowds came not, or at least came not in sufficient numbers to cover the expenses of the Company, and leave also a fair margin for profit. We think the enterprise was worthy a better fate, and we trust that means may yet be found of rendering it still available as a place of recreation for the north of London.

On Saturday, at the Royal United Service Institution, a handsome testimonial (subscribed for by three hundred and sixty naval officers of all grades) was presented to Commander Cameron for his eminent services in traversing the continent of Africa from the Indian Ocean to the Atlantic. A number of ladies and gentlemen were present to witness the presentation, which was made by the venerable Admiral of the Fleet, Sir George Rose Sartorius, one of the few survivors of Trafalgar, who presided on the occasion. The admiral made a few pertinent remarks on the services of Commander Cameron, and the latter expressed his acknowledgment in brief but appropriate terms. The testimonial took the form of a chronometer, which had the following memorial inscribed upon it:—"A.D. 1876. Presented to Lieutenant V.L. Cameron R.N. C.B., by 360 naval officers of all grades, in token of their admiration of his great achievement in traversing tropical Africa from the Indian Ocean to the Atlantic."

The Royal Aquarium, Westminster, has hitherto been an aquarium in name only, but the tanks are now filled with water, the most attractive of their occupants being among certain very repulsive looking monsters of the deep, among them an enormous devil fish. There will also shortly be on exhibition a Mississippi alligator, ten feet in length, and ugly enough to excite unbounded admiration on the part of the visitors. Saturday, being a popular fête day, the building was thronged, vocal and instrumental concerts, and an entertainment by Bro. Mackney, being among the additional attractions provided. So successful, indeed, was the fête that it will be repeated to-day, and on several succeeding Saturdays.

The members of the old Royal Naval Club of 1765, celebrated, on Saturday, the 71st anniversary of the battle of Trafalgar. In the unavoidable absence of Sir G. R. Sartorius, Vice-Admiral Sir Geo. Giffard presided, among those present being Admiral Sir H. Keppel, Vice-Admiral Ommanney, Vice-Admiral Sir C. H. M. Buckle, Captains Dyke, Walker, Soady, &c., and Commander Cameron. The dinner was held at Willis's Rooms, St. James's. On Wednesday, another anniversary—that of the Charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava—was celebrated, by some seventy survivors of that memorable episode of the Crimean War, at the Westminster Palace Hotel. As to the propriety of this latter celebration there seems to be considerable doubt, and the doubters are not without a strong show of reason on their side. They argue, if the anniversary is kept, it should be kept by the men of the Heavy as well as of the Light Brigade, both having played a leading part in the events of that memorable day. This is the view held by many of the surviving officers, among them being Lord George Paget, who, if our memory serves us right, was himself in the charge of the Light Cavalry. We see no reason why the heavies, who fought so well under Scarlett or the Highland Regiment (the 93rd), which repulsed cavalry, without condescending to adopt other than the line formation, should be left out in the cold. This argument rests on the assumption that the anniversary banquet is paid out of funds subscribed for by the public, and the argument is a forcible one.

Newmarket, during its Houghton meeting, was honoured more than once by the presence of the Prince of Wales. As our readers know, the chief event of this meeting is the Cambridgeshire, and for the first time since their establishment have the Cesarewitch and the Great Handicap of Tuesday found a winner in the same horse. Mr. Smith's Rosebery was an easy winner of the first of the two races, and just managed to secure the second by a short neck, Sir J. D. Astley's Hopbloom being second, and Mr. H. R. Marshall's Liris third. The chief events on Wednesday were the Criterion Nursery Stakes, won by Mr. Ambery's Lancaster, while the New Nursery Stakes fell to Lord Hartington's Rhylstone. The chief event that yet remains to be run off is the Liverpool Cup, which will be decided ere many days are over. The other leading attractions in the way of sport are coursing and football.

As far as Turkey and Servia are concerned, the attempt to bring about an armistice has failed most signally. Towards the end of last week the Turks, who have hitherto remained quietly within their lines, hardly noticing the artillery fire with which they have been from time to time honoured by the Servians, made a tremendous series of attacks on the latter. In spite of the unfavourable weather, and the consequently increased difficulty of moving, the troops of Hafiz Pasha and the other Turkish Generals advanced, and after several days' fighting appear to have inflicted a long series of defeats on their enemy, whose line is said to be broken in two, while Deligrad and Alexinatz are in great danger of capture. This has caused great consternation at Belgrade, which, if the Turks have time to pursue their successes, is not unlikely to be captured. Thus, for the second time since the outbreak of the war, has Servia given convincing proof how utterly incapable she is to cope with her suzerain. It is impossible to say what effect this will have on the progress of the negotiations. It may, perhaps, have the effect of showing Russia and her sympathisers that the task of driving the Turks out of Europe will not be quite the military promenade it was expected to be, and this may make them treat the Moslem with at least the consideration due to brave men. On the other hand, it may enrage the Panslavist societies, and Russia may think it high time for her to intervene when the petty state she has almost forced into war is in such imminent peril. Two things alone appear certain, that we are very far from seeing the end of the present difficulty, and that Russia, if she choose, may bring about peace on a firm and durable basis, if she will but give over her wicked intrigues and act honestly.

SUPREME GRAND CHAPTER OF ROYAL ARCH MASONS OF ENGLAND.

A QUARTERLY Convocation of the Supreme Grand Chapter will be held at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, 1st of November, at 7 p.m.

The business is as follows:—The Minutes of the last Quarterly Convocation to be read for confirmation.

The Committee of General Purposes will report that they have examined the accounts from the 12th July to the 17th October 1876, both inclusive, which they find to be as under:—

Balance Grand Chapter	399	1	11	Disbursements during the quarter	182	7	10
,, Unappropriated Account	178	7	11	Balance	475	11	1
Subsequent Receipts	258	2	0	,, in unappropriated account	177	12	11
	£835	11	10		£835	11	10

The said balances are in the hands of Messrs. Willis, Percival and Co., Bankers of the Grand Treasurer.

The Committee have likewise to report that they have received the following petitions:—

Digitized by Google

1st. From Companions Thomas John White as Z, the Rev. William John Lyte Stradling as H, Thomas James as J, and seven others, for a Chapter to be attached to the Cambrian Lodge, No. 464, Haverfordwest, to be called the "Hwlffordd Chapter," and to meet at the Masonic Hall, Haverfordwest, South Wales (Western Division).

2nd. From Companions Edward Bremner Smith as Z, Robert De la Poer Beresford as H, Samuel Hazlitt as J, and six others, for a Chapter to be attached to the Fitzalan Lodge, No. 1432, Oswestry, to be called the "Fitzalan Chapter," and to meet at the Wynstay Arms Hotel, Oswestry, North Wales.

3rd, From Companions George Hunter Wyldie as Z, William Williamson as H, John King as J, and six others, for a Chapter to be attached to the St. John's Lodge, No. 1137, Timaru, to be called the "St. John's Chapter," and to meet at Timaru, Canterbury, New Zealand.

The foregoing Petitions being in all respects regular, the Committee recommend that the prayers thereof be respectively granted.

The Committee have further to report that a complaint was preferred by Companion Charles Horsley, the Z of the Yarborough Chapter, No. 811, Brighton, against the Scribe E, Companion C. J. Smith, of the same Chapter. The various letters which had passed between the above-mentioned Companions having disclosed a very serious absence of harmony amongst the members generally, the Committee felt compelled to suspend the Chapter. Having summoned the parties before them and fully investigated the case, the Committee continued the suspension until the members of the Chapter could arrive at a good understanding amongst themselves, and petition for its removal. This the Committee are happy to be able to report has been effected, the suspension has been removed, and the Chapter authorized to resume its labours.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S VISIT TO GLASGOW.

ON this, the most important event in the history of Scottish Freemasonry, when, notwithstanding the unfavourable state of the weather, nearly 8,000 of the brethren, the representatives of 228 Lodges, turned out and remained fully four hours in the wet to testify their devotion to the Craft, as well as their loyalty to the Prince, as the Patron of the Order in Scotland—a more severe ordeal than the visit of their English brethren to the Albert Hall—on such an occasion a few observations on some of the leading incidents of the day may not be out of place.

First in the procession came the bairns of Mother Kilwinning No. 0, headed by Bros. J. A. Ferguson and J. Tweed, of Glasgow, the Proxy Wardens of the Lodge, the Master of the Lodge, who in virtue of that office is Provincial Grand Master of Ayrshire, as well as the Secretary, Bro. R. Wylie, P.P.G.M. Ayrshire, being in his place as G.L. Officer. There were 148 other members of this, which claims to be the oldest Lodge in existence. St. Mary's Chapel, from Edinburgh, which claims almost equal antiquity, was only feebly represented in the procession; and the same must be said of No. 2, Canongate Kilwinning, but as they made a good display last month at Edinburgh, on the occasion of the Queen's visit, their loyalty must not be doubted. No. 3, St. John's, Perth, was well represented, and with a deputation from the P.G.L. of Perthshire East, and their band and banner, well maintained the honour of the fair city. No. 3½, St. John, Glasgow, showed in full force, as might have been expected from their being the senior Lodge in the Province. They were headed by their Wardens, Bros. Sellars and Brownlie, and twelve of their members had the honour of carrying the working tools, &c., which were thus distributed to the brethren:—Deacon B. Manuel the level, Deacon Muir the plumb rule, Wm. Bell I.P.M. the square, D. M'Nelson R.W.M. a richly ornamented gilt mallet, Guard and T. B. Bell the plate with the inscription, a copy of which was given in our last. P.M.'s Cruickshan, McMillan, and Fletcher the corn, wine, and oil, Gavin Park the plans, and, though last, not least in the estimation either of the Lodges or of the onlookers, Bros. Dick and Dunn, the Secretary and Treasurer, the hermetically sealed case with the coins, carried in an old oak box, highly prized by the Lodge as that in which, many years ago, their old charter of incorporation as an Operative Lodge was found, during some researches made in the crypt of the cathedral. The box has four locks on it, two to the lid and two to a drawer at the bottom; it is handsomely carved, and at each end, over the handle, is a cherubim with its wings extended the full width of the box; on the front is carved the following:—"God save the King and Masons' Craft, 1684; and below, in the form of a star, the square, compass, plumb rule, level, and 2-foot gauge.

We recently quoted a statement from an Indian contemporary, to the effect that the natives about Dinapore, Patna, and neighbourhood have lately been seized with the belief that the British soldiers have orders to decapitate all natives found abroad after sunset, or found in secluded places, the heads being deposited in the Masonic Lodges, and by their means intelligence can be gained of any political intrigues. With reference to this statement a correspondent writes to the Times as follows:—

"How like one Asiatic people are to another, to believe such childish nonsense, is seen from the fact that some years ago, when I resided in the city of Batavia, gas was introduced there, and while the streets were all opened, preparatory to laying the pipes, and the gasworks were being erected, the natives got an idea into their heads that under each gasometer two barrels full of children's eyes were to be put; a sort of ghost called a 'choelik' going abroad at night and scooping them out of the children's heads; and this impression was so general that, like the natives at Patna and Dinapore, the Malays of Batavia would not issue from their homes at night. The Dutch authorities at last got tired of this folly, which really seized the immense native population of Batavia like a mania, and severely punished one or two of the natives, who ought to have known better, and possibly did, and after this the nuisance abated. Just one word more about Masonic Lodges. The universal name for them among the Malays is 'Roema Sétan'—Devil's Houses. I remain, your obedient servant, JOHN PEET. Thatched House Club, St. James's Street."—Naval and Military Gazette.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—The finest remedies in the world for bad legs, old wounds, sores, and ulcers. If used according to directions given with them there is no wound, bad leg, or ulcerous sore, however obstinate or long standing, but will yield to their healing and curative properties. Numbers of persons who have been patients in several of the large hospitals and under the care of eminent surgeons, without deriving the slightest benefit, have been thoroughly cured by Holloway's Ointment and Pills. For glandular swellings, tumours, scurvy, and diseases of the skin there is no medicine that can be used with so good an effect. In fact, in the worst forms of disease, dependent upon the condition of the blood, these medicines, if used conjointly, are irresistible.

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meeting, &c. as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

The Invicta Sovereign Chapter Rose Croix, of H. R. D. M. 18°.—The above Chapter met on Friday the 20th inst. at a Convocation held at the Masonic Hall, 33 Golden-square. Present—The Illus. Bro. Thos. Harrisson 30° M.W.S., Bros. Rev. Hatch, Hyles, Laird, Powell, Thomson, Webb, Read. Supreme Council—Ill. Bro. Capt. Philips G.S.G.C., Major Shadwell Clerke, G. Secretary General, &c. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. By request of the Supreme Council, Bro. Thos. Allen M.D. was perfected; also Bro. B. Chennell, of Lodges 88 and 1008. Illustrious Bro. J. Hughes M.D. 30° was elected M.W.S., and Excellent Bro. W. W. Bywater 18° was elected Treasurer. The Chapter was then closed.

Bon Accord Lodge of Mark Masters.—This Lodge met at Freemasons' Tavern on Thursday, the 9th instant, for the Installation of W.M. for the ensuing year, with the appointment of officers. The Rev. Bro. J. Drakeford was installed by V.W. Bro. Thos. Meggy, P. Grand Deacon, with unusual solemnity and fervour. Bro. W. Spencer was appointed S.W and Bro. S. Rawson (33°) J.W. A harmonious banquet followed. The immediate P.M., Major Barlow, was sincerely thanked for the strenuous exertions he had made for the Lodge's prosperity during his year of office, and for the handsome presents which he had made. V.W. Bro. Dibdin, a Past Grand Officer, gave a specimen of his vocal abilities for the delectation of the brethren, and the suggestive song of Past Master Davis, "Guck, guck, guck," which has for years been identified with these festivities was forthcoming in answer to calls which admitted no denial. There are indications of the ensuing year proving one of great prosperity for the "Old Bon Accord," under the presidency of our Rev. Bro. Drakeford.

Southwark Grand Lodge of Mark Masons, No. 22.—An emergency meeting of the above was held on the 24th inst., at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark, Bros. C. T. Sparks P.P.G.S.B. W.M., J. H. Spencer S.W., C. Mason J.W., J. Read Sec., J. T. H. Wilkins P.M. Treas., T. Horton S.O., W. Klingenstein M.O., T. Poore P.M. Assist.-Sec., and P.M.'s E. S. Stidolph, Hatch, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the bye-laws were read and adopted. A vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Wilkins for his excellent arrangement of the bye-laws, which was recorded on the minutes. A Past Master's jewel was unanimously voted to the retiring W.M. The Lodge was then closed in due form.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on Thursday evening last, 26th October, at 7.30. Present—Bros. Hill W.M., Biddle S.W., Hewlett J.W., Maidwell S.D., Hollands J.D., Powell I.G., Austin P.M. Preceptor, Grammer Sec., and several other brethren. The W.M. worked the ceremony of the 2nd degree, Bro. Baxter as candidate. The first and second sections of the Second Lecture were worked by Bro. Webb, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Hill, having an engagement, here left the chair, which was then ably filled by Bro. Maidwell. Bro. Webb worked the 3rd, 4th, and 5th sections of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was then closed in the 2nd. and Bro. Grammer worked the 1st section of the 1st Lecture. Bro. Biddell having been elected to the chair for next Thursday, the Lodge was closed in perfect harmony.

Cathedral Chapter, No. 67.—The regular meeting of this Chapter was held on Tuesday, Oct. 24th, under the presidency of the New Z. Comp. D. Rannld, assisted by Comps. G. Purdie, H. J. Duthie I.P.Z. as J., H. Mason Scribe E., G. W. Wheeler Z. 73 as 1st Sojourner, G. Muir Z. 87 as 2nd Soj., J. Laird 3rd Soj., N. Crawford Janitor. Propositions for two candidates were read, but they were unable to attend. Comp. Wheeler, at the request of the 1st Principal, installed into office those Comps. who were not present on the last occasion, after which Comps. Wheeler Z. 73 and Muir Z. of 87, were affiliated as honorary members of 67. Both the Comps. acknowledged the honour which had been conferred on them, and said if they had worked for the benefit of the Chapter before, this would act as a fresh incentive to them for increased exertions on its behalf.

Caledonian of Unity, No. 73.—This Lodge held its regular meeting at 203 Buchanan-street, on Wednesday, 25th Oct., Comp. G. Wheeler presiding, assisted by the following Comps.:—J. Kennaird H., G. Gunn H., J. Balfour S.E., J. Bannerman N., W. Hoy 1st Soj., F. Jenkinson 2nd Soj., W. McMurray 3rd Soj. There were also present Comps. J. Duthie P.Z. 67, J. Park P.Z. 122. Comps. Wm. Horden as 2nd and W. McMurray 3rd Capt. of the Veil, and J. Kay as Superintendent of Works were elected and initiated into their respective offices.

Prudent Brethren Lodge, No. 145.—A numerous assemblage was present on Tuesday, the 24th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. E. H. Thiellay P.G.S.B. Middlesex W.M., Moult S.W., Haslett J.W., J. Boyd P.G.P. Treas., G. S. States P.G.S. Sec., Manly Assist.-Sec., Hughes S.D., Leggat J.D., Lister as I.G., Terry W.S. and P.M.'s G. Parkess, J. Lake, and T. Bull. The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. Bro. Henry Hall, No. 215, St. John's, Ireland, was unanimously elected a joining member. Mr. Joseph August Penet was initiated into the Order. Bros. Aimé Hugon, G. Mathison, and G. Collin were, by the courtesy of the W.M., raised to the 3rd degree, by Bro. G. Parkess I.P.M., in a very perfect manner. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, sixty in number, sat down to an excellent banquet and dessert, supplied by the new manager, Bro. Dawkins, and superintended by Bro. Knill. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, Bro. J. Boyd P.G.P. responding for the Grand Officers. Bro. G. Purkess proposed the toast of "The W.M." He spoke of the able manner in which Bro. Thiellay had discharged his duties. He was a good and charitable Mason; he had been a Steward to all the Charities, and had collected goodly sums for each, thus clearly showing that his heart was in the right place. The W.M. suitably replied. He then proposed the toast of "The new initiate, Bro. Penet." The recommendation he had brought was sufficient to testify how he was respected. He was one who would prove a credit to the Order, and he hoped he might eventually occupy the chair of the Lodge. Bro. Penet responded to the toast, and fully justified the remarks made by the W.M. The W.M. then proposed the toast of "The Visitors," who were—Bros. F. Guida 605, E. Hopwood P.M. 141, G. D. Roe 1604, L. C. Lefevre 1507, J. Godden 862, Brand 25, G. Thompson P.P.G.S.W. Northumberland, R. J. Jewell 194, R. G. Willoughby 73, J. Boyd 23, H. Hall 215, H. M. Levy P.M. 188, Clench P.M., Bishop, Ireuth 1507, &c., who severally returned thanks. The W.M. then proposed the toast of "The Past Masters," and Bro. G. Purkess returned thanks for himself and Bro. Ball. The toast of "The Treasurer and Secretary" followed. The former brother was one who had worthily received Grand honours; he was the Father of the Lodge, and they were proud of him; he was universally respected. The Secretary was equally deserving of their encomiums, his accounts were always correct, and he diligently performed his duties. Bro. John Boyd, on rising, was enthusiastically received; he thanked the W.M. and the brethren for their kind expressions, and their heartiness in responding to the toast. The W.M. had stated he was the Father of his Lodge; he was proud of his children, to see them in so flourishing a state. The Lodge had attained a great age, having completed its centenary. It was never in a better position since it was founded; it was free from debt, and the name of The Prudent Brethren, under these circumstances, they were proud of. It would ever be a household word. (Cheers.) Bro. G. S. States followed. The Lodge had had, from its formation, 100 W.M.'s, and Bro. J. Boyd had served that office twice consecutively; they had, however, only four Secretaries; but while such sentiments were expressed by the W.M. and the brethren he was only pleased to feel that he had done his duty. The toasts of "The Wardens and Officers" were severally responded to by Bros. Moult and Haslett, and the "Tyler's" toast concluded an agreeable evening.

Macdonald Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 104.—A regular meeting of this Lodge was held at Masons' Hall, Masons' Avenue, E.C., on Saturday last. The W. Bro. Thomas W. White W.M. was supported by a goodly attendance of officers and brethren, amongst whom were the W. Bro. G. Ward Verry, Past Prov. G.D.C., as S.W.; the W. Bro. North Ritherdon, Prov. Grand Superintendent of Works, J.W.; the W. Bro. Edward Moody, Past Prov. Grand Standard Bearer, M.O.; the W. Bro. W. P. Collins, Past Prov. Grand Sword Bearer, J.O.; the V.W. Bro. Thomas Meggy P.G.S.C. P.M.; the V.W. Bro. James Stevens P.G.J.O. P.M.; the W. Bro. W. Worrell P.G. Organist, P.M.; W. Bros. M. C. Hale, Prov. Grand Sword Bearer, J. K. Pitt, Prov. G.D.C.; Bros. Bushin, H. F. Partridge, W. Johnston, J. R. Williams, &c., and Bro. J. Rawles, acting for Bro. Grant, Tyler. The Lodge was specially visited by the W. Bro. C. Pulman, Prov. G.S.O. and P.M. of the Panmure Mark Lodge, who had, whilst W.M. of that Lodge, kindly advanced a brother to the degree for, and during the recess of the Macdonald Mark Lodge. The Lodge was duly opened, and minutes read. Apologies from several brethren "out of town" were received. Candidates for advancement being unable to attend on this occasion for a like reason, no ceremony was performed, and ample time was therefore devoted to the discussion of an important notice of motion by Bro. Meggy, for alteration of date of meeting. This, however, resulted in a further adjournment of the question. A very cordial vote of thanks to the late W.M. and members of the Panmure Mark Lodge was ordered to be recorded on the minutes, and was responded to by the W. Bro. Pulman, in highly appreciative terms. Candidates for next meeting were proposed, the Lodge closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the Tomahawk Restaurant in London Wall, where, under the provident care of the worthy Treasurer, Bro. Meggy, a very elegant repast had been provided. Excepting only the formal toasts, the health of "The Visitors," and "Success to the Panmure Mark Lodge," ceremony was dispensed with, and an enjoyable hour or two spent in harmony and social intercourse, the brethren separating, about half-past eight, for their respective homes.

Faith Chapter, No. 141.—The autumn Convocation of this Chapter was held on Wednesday, 18th, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, E.C., the following Companions presiding—N. Gluckstein M.E.Z., C. F. Hogard H., J. Constable J., W. E. Gompertz Scribe E., J. K. Pitt acting Scribe N., M. Isenberger Treasurer, W. C. Hollands acting P.S. The business of the evening consisted purely of passing the minutes of the former Convocation, and the election of officers for the ensuing twelve months. The ballot resulted as follows:—C. F. Hogard M.E.Z., J. Constable H., W. E. Gompertz J., J. Pinder Scribe E., R. L. Bloomfield Scribe N., W. C. Hollands P.S. Longstaff was re-elected Janitor. A Past Principal's jewel was voted to the retiring M.E.Z. There were the following Comps. present:—W. Stead, Ochse, Ososki, Maddison, Parkinson, Brocksopp, Kendall, Kinnear, Croaker, Eidmans, &c. Comp. E. Gottheil was elected an honorary member. Letters of resignation were read from Comps. Harris and Stevens. The Chapter was closed, and the Comps. adjourned to a banquet, which, under the management of Comp. Smith, was of the usual recherché character. Upon the cloth being cleared the usual loyal and R.A. toasts were given, and severally responded to. The Companions separated at 10 p.m.

St. Johns Lodge, No. 178, Lisburn.—This old and prosperous Lodge, which was established in Lisburn in the year 1758, and now numbers about forty members, held its usual monthly meeting in the Masonic Hall, Castle Street, Lisburn, on Friday evening, the 13th inst. The following members were present—Bros. R. M. Tilley, W.M., in the chair; Wm. Graham, S.W.; John Higginson, J.W.; Wm. J. Gilliland, Secretary and Treasurer; R. M'Comb, S.D.; J. Vernon, J.D.; James Pryde, as I.G.; John M'Bride, P.M.; Wm. Wilson, P.M.; Arthur Mussen, P.M.; Wm. Johnson, P.M.; M. M'Knight, P.M.; John Flynn, Joseph Pryde, W. Hawthorn, Wm. D. Duncan, W. J. Knox, jun.; also the following visiting brethren:—P. M'Henry, S.W. 51; W. H. Woods, 51; J. M. Dickson, P.M. 272; A. Hill, 272. After the minutes of the previous communication were read and confirmed, Bro. Wm. J. Gilliland sustained the motion of which he had given notice on last communication—viz., "That this lodge re-consider the appropriation of its contributions to the Masonic Male and Female Orphan Schools, Dublin, with a view to the lodge constituting itself a life governor." After an animated discussion of the motion, in which Bros. Tilley, Higginson, Wilson, Johnson, M'Bride, and Flynn took part, it was finally moved by Bro. J. Higginson, seconded by Bro. Wm. J. Gilliland, and passed unanimously, that the annual subscription of £1 (£2 of which had been subscribed to the male, and £2 to the female) be appropriated to the Boys' School, in order to constitute the Lodge a life governor. The effect of this resolution will improve the position of the Lodge, by giving it the power of voting for as many candidates as there are vacancies in the School, whereas, formerly, it was limited to one vote for each £1 subscribed. Several notices of motion were placed on the books by the members present, for the benefit of Freemasonry and this lodge in particular. The communication was closed in the ancient form of the Craft, and shortly afterwards adjourned.

Lodge of Unity, No. 183.—The first meeting of the Session of this Lodge was held on the 23rd inst. at the Ship and Turtle Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. The principal business of the evening consisted of the initiation of Mr. C. W. Johnson. The ceremony was performed by the W.M., with precision and emphasis, and we do not remember any candidate who more fully understood and appreciated the solemnity of the ordeal. A letter was read from the daughter of a late member, acknowledging the bounty of the Lodge in having voted her the sum of ten guineas. Bro. G. P. Britten addressed the Lodge, stating that he was in possession of a minute-book, dated 1770, which from evidence produced by Bro. Constable clearly proved did not belong to them. He was, therefore, anxious to restore it into the hands of the legitimate owners—viz., the Enoch Lodge, No. 11. He was happy to say that the W.M., Bro. E. Taylor, was present. Upon some further evidence and the testimony of Bro. Constable, the Lodge unanimously decided to restore the book to the Enoch Lodge. This fraternal act was acknowledged by Bros. Constable and Taylor. At this juncture the Lodge was called to refreshment, and we need hardly say that the Ship and Turtle maintained its reputation. The banquet was equal to anything we have had at larger hotels, and at greater cost. Upon the cloth being cleared, the W.M. conducted the business of the table consistently, being explicit and laudatory in introducing his speeches, yet brief withal. For the first toast he merely said: Brethren,—In very few words I call upon you to join me in drinking to "The Queen and the Craft." Following this, the W.M. said: The next toast I have to bring to your notice is that of "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the M.W. Grand Master of Masons;" with equal rapidity the toast of "the Pro G.M., the Dep. G.M. and the rest of the Grand Officers" was given. This naturally elicited a reply from the Grand Lodge representative, Bro. E. P. Albert, Grand Pursuivant, who said that it was with feelings of diffidence and pleasure that he addressed the brethren. It was patent to all that Grand Lodge took a lively interest in the Lodges under its constitution, and the members thereof look with a jealous eye upon subordinate Lodges; but whilst such harmony and unity existed as that he had witnessed during the evening, there was every prospect of that laudable jealousy being tempered. In giving the toast of "The Initiate," the W.M. said it was a pleasure he experienced for the first time, as Master of the Unity Lodge. The gentleman upon whom light had dawned was introduced by friends and brethren for years respected and appreciated. He had no doubt that as time wore on he would share to its full extent the fraternal greeting now offered. He should call on Bro. Johnson. After the Apprentice Song had been rendered by P.M. Todd, Bro. Johnson replied, thanking the brethren for their kindness in supporting the proposition of his friend, and thereby securing his admission. His only regret was that he had not been initiated years before. He hoped, however, his future conduct would prove him worthy of the confidence of the Lodge. The I.P.M. proposed the "Health of the W.M." He did so with pleasure. The W.M. had given a proof of his work, and with this every member present was highly satisfied. When Bro. G. W. Speth jun. was installed they all looked forward to great things, and they had not been disappointed. The W.M. was pleased to hear expressions of satisfaction; so long as he occupied the chair he would do his best to merit the remarks of Bro. Turner. In this Lodge we noticed that the gavel of the master had a hollow head, with a slit in it, to be used as a charity box; this went the round of the table, and the unseen contents were subsequently sold to the highest bidder. Bro. Turner was the purchaser, but we fear his investment was good only so far as our charities are concerned. The W.M. remarked, the next toast he should give was one always hailed with pleasure. Whatever course we may pursue we never fail to evince to our Visitors a perfect respect and liberal hospitality. We may be proud in having such distinguished visitors, Bro. Constable is known universally for his labour of love in furthering the interest of the Charities of Freemasonry generally; he has likewise given us some interesting particulars concerning our own Lodge. Then comes Bro. E. Taylor, W.M. of Enoch Lodge 11. This Lodge, from its high position on Grand Lodge roll, certainly proclaims it no chicken; Bro. Taylor has, however, youth in his face, and all wish him strength and health to perform the duties of life. Bro. E. P. Albert had been referred to in another capacity, but, we must include him in this toast. Bro. Constable dilated upon the courteous manner in which he had been received, and the gracious acquiescence of the Lodge in restoring the Enoch Minute Book. He also pointed out the necessity for brethren to attend our schools of preceptors, to make them proficient in their duties, and to secure dignity in the discharge of their respective functions. He likewise mentioned the project in hand for raising £1,000 by shilling tickets, on the principle of an art union, entitling every purchaser to participate in a ballot for Life Governorships of the Boys' School. He further stated that upwards of 6,000 tickets were already distributed. Bro. Constable resumed his seat, thanking the brethren on behalf of the Visitors. The toast of the "Past Masters" followed, and was enthusiastically received. Bro. Turner replied, apologising for his youth and apparent presumption in returning thanks for this toast, as there were Past Masters who had held that position ranging from thirty-five years downwards, and the example they had set the younger members was one worthy of emulation. He particularly thanked them for the unostentatious assistance he had always received at their hands; he was sure that whatever duty the Past Masters might be called upon to discharge, they would be always found ready and willing. The health of the following brethren was then given, viz., the Secretary, Chaplain, S.W. and J.W., W.S., &c., to which Bros. Britten and Shaboe replied. The former thanked the W.M. and the members for their congratulations on his restoration to health, and hoped to be long spared to continue his duty as Secretary. Bro. Shaboe replied that he had only done his duty, and was well rewarded. The Lodge having been called on, a discussion ensued as to future place of meeting, when, after consideration pro and con, it was decided to remain at the Ship and Turtle Tavern. The Lodge was then closed. There were present Bros. G. W. Speth jun. W.M., G. Turnley S.W., Spencer acting J.W., J. D. Gosley J.D., Bodham acting I.G., G. P. Britten Secretary, Rev. D. Shaboe Chaplain; Past Masters Turner, Todd, Vasey, Groombridge; besides Bros. Pinnock, Ledger (proprietor of Era), White, Blagden and Owens.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—A numerous gathering of brethren took place at the last meeting of this Lodge, at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Coleman-street, E.C., on Wednesday, the 25th inst., for the purpose of listening to the working of the sections. Bro. W. Rudderforth occupied the chair, Austin S.W., Horsley J.W., Yetton P.M. There were also present Past Masters Bloomfield, Turquand, Constable, Gottheil, &c. The sections were worked as follows:—1ST LECTURE—Bros. C. A. Grammer, J. W. Bone, G. L. Walker, S. J. Turquand, W. Musto, J. Horsley, W. Yetton; 2ND LECTURE—Bros. W. Brown, J. B. Hogarth, J. Constable, C. H. Webb, T. Barnes; 3RD LECTURE—Bros. I. P. Cohen, Williams, T. Austin. The following were elected joining members:—Bros. Wyatt, Kennard, Kibble, Davidson, Calver, Travener. Bro. Staley was elected Master for ensuing week. Bro. Rudderforth had conferred upon him honorary membership, likewise a vote of thanks was recorded upon the minutes for his maiden attempt at working the Sections. Bro. Rudderforth then replied: It was in the Confidence Lodge he first saw the light, and hence he felt bound to support the Instruction Lodge under its banner. He was indebted to Bros. Gottheil, Barnes, Yetton and Austin, more particularly the latter, for the greater part of his knowledge; he likewise tendered thanks to the brethren who had assisted in the work of the evening, and proposed a vote of thanks to them. The following letter was read from Bro. W. J. Hughan:—"Truro, 20th October 1876. Very Dear Brother,—I wish it were but in my power to attend the special meeting of the 'Confidence,' our Lodge of Instruction. My cable tow will not reach so far just now. I wish every success to the officers and members, and hope they will remember how much we all owe to the permanent Preceptor, Treasurer, and Secretary. I hope that ere long the Lodge will also include Lectures on the History of the Craft in its curriculum.—Fraternally yours, WM. JAMES HUGHAN, P.G.D. To Bro. J. K. Pitt, Hon. Secretary."

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction.—In accordance with announcement already made by us, the Lodge has been removed to Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. A meeting was held on Tuesday, 24th October. Present—Bros. Hollands W.M., Hill S.W., Sayer J.W., Maidwell S.D., Baxter I.G., Daniel, Laroon, Botibol, Bedell. The Lodge was opened in due form. Bro. Daniel offering himself as candidate, the ceremony of passing and raising was duly rehearsed by the W.M. Bro. Hill was elected to the chair for the ensuing Tuesday, at 7.30 p.m. The Craft are fraternally invited to attend, every opportunity being given for members to work, according to their position.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This lodge met at Bro. Fysh's, Jolly Farmers, Southgate Road, Islington, on 21st October, Bro. Cohen W.M., Maio S.W., Macarthy S.D., Huggins J.D. Braud I.G., Pearcy Preceptor, Halford Treasurer, Killick Hon. Secretary. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Powell acting as candidate. Bro. Main was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A well deserved vote of thanks was unanimously accorded the W.M. for the able manner in which he had fulfilled the duties of the Chair. His working being such that we seldom have the pleasure of witnessing. The Fifteen Sections will be worked this Saturday, the 28th inst. Bro. Tolmie W.M., Sadler S.W. and Pearcy J.W.

Worcester Lodge, No. 280.—The brethren have just removed their habitation from the Bell Hotel to private rooms, called the "Masonic Hall," in High-street. The Lodge dates from the 2nd October 1790, although its warrant, or charter, bears date the 9th of that month. Its formal consecration took place on the 19th of May following, on which day the members attended divine service at St. Martin's Church, their Lodge-room being fixed at the Reindeer Inn, in that parish. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Bro. Haynes, from the text, "And let us consider one another, to provoke unto love and to good works." In 1797 the Lodge removed for a short time to the Star Hotel, but returned to the Reindeer, and there remained until 1842, when it was removed to the Bell Hotel, where it has continued to meet until the present year. The brethren have been long desirous to acquire private rooms for their meetings, but no suitable opportunity has before occurred. They now possess a Lodge-room of noble dimensions, with a suitable dining-room, and all other necessary conveniences. The inaugural meeting took place on the 5th instant, under the presidency of the Worshipful Master, Major W. Stallard, when the brethren formally dedicated their new home to the purposes of the ancient Craft, an eloquent prayer being said by the Rev. Chaplain, J. B. Wilson, rector of St. Helens, concluding with the words which formed the text of the Rev. Bro. Haynes 86 years ago. The business of the Lodge consisted principally in passing three recently-admitted brethren, H. Caldicott, H. G. Budd, and the Rev. C. Gregson. Votes of thanks were given to those brethren whose valuable services have been given to the preparation and fitting up of the new rooms for their purpose, as also to Ald. Josiah Stallard, the lessor, for his aid in meeting the wishes of the Lodge respecting the alteration of the building. The brethren afterwards partook of refreshment, supplied by Mr. Mountford in his usual satisfactory manner. Amongst those present were the W.M. Major Stallard, Past Masters Sir E. A. H. Lechmere, Bart., M.P., C. C. W. Griffiths, Hilary Hill, S. G. Purchas, R. Woof, W. Meredith, C. F. Pidcock, J. Ratland, and D. A. Cooper, with the officers, Bros. Rev. J. B. Wilson, C. S. Faram, T. H. Lewis, G. T. Miller, F. H. Lingham, J. R. Buck, J. V. Stallard, and brethren of the Lodge to the number of thirty.

The Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement holds its weekly meetings every Tuesday, at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's Alley, Cornhill, where those who are desirous of perfecting themselves in the difficult duties appertaining to the Royal Arch degree will find opportunity of doing so. There are always Companions present not only willing, but competent, to impart instruction. The room is spacious and the neighbourhood quiet—no unimportant qualification to render a visit profitable. On our last visit we found the very able Comp. John Constable occupying the first chair. His rendering of the ceremony was in accordance with what is always expected of him, especially as he had the assistance of Comps. Lemann H., Gottheil J., White S.E., and Major Finney P.S., whose style of working is well known. The Chapter well deserves the active support of Royal Arch Masons, as the work is excellent, the position central, and the time early. Business commences at 6.30, and ends at 8.30.

Frederick Chapter of Unity, No. 452.—This Chapter met at the Greyhound, Croydon, on Tuesday, 24th instant. Companion E. A. Baber M.E.Z., Bro. Frederick Julius Macaulay of Lodge No. 142 was exalted, and Companion William Beattie of Chapter 291 elected a joining member. E. Companion Masterman was installed in the chair of Z. Present—Comps. Magnus Ohren, Robins, Francis, Sugg, Harty, Spencer and others. A cheerful evening followed the banquet.

Thorntree Lodge, No. 512.—This Lodge held its regular fortnightly meeting on Saturday, 21st October, at the Hall, Thornliebank, and was opened at 7 p.m. by Bros. R. Scobie R.W.M., R. Fletcher S.W., R. McEwan J.W., Wm. Jardine T., Edw. Schindler Secretary, and Bro. J. Harner P.M. Two candidates were proposed and accepted for initiation, but owing to the inclemency of the weather they did not attend, and some local business was transacted, after which the Lodge was placed for a short time in the hands of the J.W. The Master, after giving the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, gave that of the "Visitors," replied to by Bro. G. W. Wheeler, for the youngest Lodge in Scotland, "The Albert Edward 592." He dwelt on the spirit evinced by this young lodge, who only got their working letter on the 14th, and turned out so well in the grand procession on the 17th. Bro. J. Gunn J.W. replied, thanking the members of the Thorntree, his Mother Lodge, for the assistance they had rendered them, especially their Master, who had come over and passed and raised their first lot of candidates. Though an officer of the new Lodge, he did not intend to neglect his mother, 512. The Lodge was then closed in harmony.

Segontium Lodge, No. 606.—On Wednesday last the brethren of this Lodge mustered strongly in their elegant Masonic Hall, within the ancient castle of Carnarvon, to witness the installation of Bro. J. Sidney Boucher as W.M. for the ensuing year. The ceremony was ably performed by Bro. J. B. Boucher, Shrewsbury, assisted by Bro. J. Salmon, Chester. The proceedings were graced by the presence of Bro. W. Bulkeley Hughes M.P., who was received with acclamation, and greeted right heartily on this his first Masonic appearance since his accession to the dignity of D.P.G.M., most worthily bestowed by Bro. Sir W. W. Wynn, R.W.P.G.M. at the recent P.G. Lodge held in Wrexham. Among the visitors were Bros. Major Lloyd Phillips, P.G.M. South Wales, Dr. Goldsboro P.P.G.S.W., London, J. Francis P.P.J.W., J. Ellis P.M. 597, J. Hughes W.M., W. Jarvis S.D. 384, and C. Davies S.D. Portmadoc. The W.M. invested as his officers Bros. W. Harwood S.W., C. A. Jones J.W., W. E. Davies Treasurer and I.G., D. W. Davies Sec., J. Wynne Jones Chaplain, L. Prothero S.D., T. Williams J.D., W. Hayden Organist, O. Thomas and T. Bugbird Stewards, and Sergeant Watkins Tyler.

The banquet was served in good style, at the Sportsman Hotel, and the usual Masonic toasts were duly honoured, Bro. R. Davids I.P.M. officiating as M.C. For Grand Lodge Bro. Lloyd Philipps responded in eloquent terms, and, while thanking his Northern brethren for their hearty welcome of him, as an entire stranger from the South, expressed the pleasure he felt in seeing the entente cordiale so happily established between the several portions of the Principality, which might be largely attributable to the benign influence of Freemasonry, whose special function and glory it was to bridge over sectional chasms, soften down social asperities, diminish, if not remove, class prejudices, round off the sharp corners of religious and political variance, and unite opposing parties by the sacred bond of the mystic tie, on the holy neutral ground of brotherly love and universal benevolence. In speaking to the toast of D.P.G.M., Bro. W. B. Hughes very feelingly acknowledged the warm and cheery greeting accorded to him, and announced, amid much applause, that, while he had reserved his first visit for No. 606, he proposed to attend every Lodge, in turn, throughout his Province, and personally observe the working of them all. At eight o'clock the visitors departed, and the W.M. left the chair.

Windsor Castle Chapter, No. 771.—The Installation meeting of this Chapter was held in the Masonic Temple at Windsor, on the 19th inst., when were present:—The M.E. Companions H. H. Hodges Z., J. H. Tolley H., E. Grisbrook J., J. Devereux P.Z., James Stevens P.Z., John Read P.Z., G. W. Dixon E., G. H. Powell N., F. Fleck P.S., J. O. Carter A.S., Nowel Janitor; North Ritherdon, Barton, Roberts, Bryett, and Visiting Companion W. Johnson. The Chapter having been prepared by the Principals present, the Companions below the Chairs were admitted, and the Chapter was then opened in due form. After confirmation of the minutes of the previous meeting, Companion John Read P.Z. installed Companions John H. Tolley as M.E.Z., E. Grisbrook as H., and G. W. Dixon as J. with full and perfect ceremony. The following officers were then invested, viz.: Comps. Powell S.E., Flack S.N., Strange (by proxy) P.S., Carter 1st A.S., Cantrell 2nd A.S., North Ritherdon D.C., Barton, Roberts, and Bryett Stewards, and Nowell Janitor. Brother Joseph Johnson, of the Windsor Castle Lodge, No. 771, was approved, and exalted into the supreme degree, the newly-appointed officers working the entire ceremony in an exceedingly creditable manner. A P.Z.'s jewel was presented to the I.P.Z., Ex Comp. H. H. Hodges, accompanied by highly eulogistic and well-merited remarks from the M.E.Z. A cordial vote of thanks to Ex-Comp. John Read, as Installing First Principal, was recorded on the minutes, and the services of ex-Comps. Devereux and Stevens in assisting him were acknowledged from the chair. Propositions having been taken, the Chapter was closed, and the Companions adjourned to the Castle Hotel, for necessary sustenance after arduous labour. The exigencies of the railway arrangements precluded a long sitting, but the Loyal and principal R.A. toasts were duly honoured, and a pleasant hour spent by the members of this now well-established Chapter.

Ranelagh Lodge of Instruction, No. 834.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Friday, the 20th October, at the Bell and Anchor Hotel, Hammersmith-road, Bros. Knowles W.M., Smith S.W., T. Bryett J.W., Alais P.M. Sec., Millis P.M. Treas., W. M. Stiles S.D., Goss J.D., Oliver I.G., Worthington, L. Bryett, Barker, Reid, Chalfont, Ringwood, H. Stiles, Tarrant, Collings, Purdue, Hancock, Barker, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Tarrant acting as candidate. The 2nd section of the 1st Lecture was worked by the W.M., assisted by the brethren. A vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Allcock, the worthy host of the Clarendon Hotel, Hammersmith, where the Lodge of Instruction has met for some years past, for his unvarying attention and kindness shown to the members, and the Secretary was requested to communicate the same to him, he, owing to severe illness, being unable to accommodate them. Bro. Smith was elected W.M. for the next meeting, and the Lodge of Instruction was closed.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860. — The members met at the Royal Edward Tavern, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 24th inst., for the purpose of working the Fifteen Sections. The chair was taken by Bro. Webb J.W. 1607, who was supported by Bros. T. Austin P.M. 933 S.W., Wallington P.M. 860 J.W., Musto P.M. 1319 Preceptor, Gilchrist P.M. 933 S.D., Allen S.D. 733 J.D., Weige S.D. 860 I.G. The following brethren assisted the W.M. in working the 1st Lecture—Bros. Dallas, W. J. Smith, E. T. Worsley, Allen, Brown, Horsley, Turquand. 2nd Lecture—Bros. Cambridge, Hogarth, Hewlett, Rudderforth, T. Austin. 3rd Lecture—Bros. Wallington, Ashburner, Perrin. The sections were admirably worked throughout, and Bros. Rudderforth, Ellis, A. G. Hogarth, Bayley, Fickler, and Dr. Defries were elected members. An announcement was then made that the Fifteen Sections would be worked in the Sincerity Lodge, No. 174, on Monday next, and the brethren present were invited to attend. Bro. Brown appealed on behalf of the family of a brother who had suffered from a most painful complaint, which had resulted in his death. He represented that the family were in deep distress, and made an urgent appeal, which was strongly supported by Bro. Ellis, and resulted in a collection being made to assist the widow. A vote of thanks was proposed and cordially passed to Bro. Webb, for his kindness in presiding, and he was elected an honorary member of this Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Webb made a suitable reply, and thanked those who had assisted him in the proceedings. A vote of thanks was also passed to the officers of the evening.

Whittington Lodge, No. 862.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. There were present—Bros. T. Kingston W.M., C. Walker S.W., A. Moore J.W., Jas. Weaver P.M. Sec., Walmisley S.D., Blakemore J.D., C. E. Packer J.D., E. S. Peck as I.G., Jones P.M., and a numerous assemblage of the brethren. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the general and two emergency meetings were read and confirmed. Bro. C. Walker S.W. was unanimously elected W.M. Bro. T. Kingston was elected Treasurer and Bro. Gilbert Tyler. A sum of ten guineas was voted from the funds of the Lodge for the purpose of presenting the retiring W.M., Bro. T. Kingston, with a Past Master's jewel, as a mark of esteem for the able and faithful manner in which he had conducted the Lodge during his year of office, and in token of the respect he is held in by the brethren. The Lodge was then closed. A capital banquet was provided by Bro. Clemow, superintended by Bro. Smith. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. The visitors were Bros. Roe, W.M. Royal Alfred Lodge; Anderson, Enoch Lodge, &c.

Lodge of Montefiore, No. 1017.—This celebrated Lodge bears the name of a noble and charitable Brother, whose deeds are known and appreciated throughout the civilised world. The brethren met on Wednesday, the 25th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street. Bros. J. Blum W.M., V. Myers S.W., Gulliford J.W., L. Jacobs Treasurer, E. P. Albert Grand Pursuivant P.M. Secretary, Hochfeld I.G. and P.M.'s Bros. J. Grunbaum, S. V. Abrahams, J. De Solla and S. Pollitzer. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. C. A. Norman was balloted for and re-admitted a joining member. Bros. Louis and Davis were passed, and Messrs. B. A. Simmons and Edwin Gill were initiated. Bro. S. V. Abrahams P.M. proposed that a congratulatory letter be sent to Bro. Sir Moses Montefiore, Bart., on his completing his 94th year, with the hearty good wishes of every Brother for the preservation of his health and longer life. This was carried with acclamation, and enthusiastically received. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a banquet. The usual toasts, Loyal and Masonic, were given, Bro. E. P. Albert G.P. returned thanks for the Grand Officers. The visitors were Bros. L. Auerbaan Treasurer 188, Murlis P.M. 1489, Abrahams late 188 P.M., Carroll, Burdett Lodge, Hirsch late 188 and Snelling 188.

Lewis Lodge, No. 1185.—The installation meeting was held on Saturday, the 21st October, at the King's Arms Hotel, Wood Green, and was numerously attended. Bro. Alfred Durrant W.M. presided, Bro. Berrie acting as S.W., Bro. J. H. Turner (W.M. elect) J.W., the other officers all being present, together with the following visitors:—Bros. Vesper, Yarboro' 554, Davis, Zetland 511, Cushion, Great Northern 1287, Brooks-Fowler and Mundy, High Cross 754, and A. Mackenzie, Fitzroy 569. The Lodge having been opened, and the minutes of the last meeting read and signed, the W.M. proceeded to initiate Messrs. Kennett Harris, George Powell, William George Hildreth, and John Francis Chase into the mysteries and privileges of Ancient Freemasonry. The next business was the installation of Bro. Thomas Howes Turner as Worshipful Master, and a Board of Installed Masters having been formed, Brother Turner was duly installed by the outgoing Master, Bro. Durrant. The W.M. having received the customary salutes, proceeded to invest his officers, as follow:—Bros. Shipwright S.W., Sayer J.W., May P.M. Treasurer, Leared P.M. Secretary, Bone S.D., Berrie J.D., Hooper I.G., Row P.M. D.C., Moen Organist, Conolly Steward, C. T. Speight P.M. Tyler. Brother Durrant, the retiring and Installing Master, then delivered the customary addresses, and it must be remarked that, though comparatively speaking a young Mason, he has worked well during his year of office, and having closed it with satisfaction to himself and the members of the Lodge, he has well earned the handsome P.M.'s jewel which was presented him on his vacating the chair. The report of the Audit Committee was received and adopted. The other business of the evening having been disposed of, the Lodge was closed in due form with solemn prayer.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—The usual weekly meeting of this Lodge was held at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday last, at 8 p.m. Bros. Hallowes W.M., A. W. Fenner S.W., Hirsch J.W., Keyes S.D., Cleverley J.D., Piercey I.G., Townshend Secretary and Gross Preceptor. The following brethren were also present:—Bros. Bolton, M. Barnett, Groome and several others. The Lodge was opened in due form. The W.M. worked the 1st degree in a very able manner, Bro. Barnett acting as candidate. Lodge opened in 2nd degree and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Barnett candidate. On proposing a vote of thanks to the W.M. for the excellent manner in which he had worked the ceremonies, for the first time in this Lodge, the Preceptor took the opportunity of explaining to the brethren present the necessity of adhering to the strict letter of Freemasonry in Lodges of Instruction as in mother Lodges, as by so doing much benefit would accrue to the brethren on any future occasion, should their services as officers be required. It is quite clear to us that the Preceptor has the respect and esteem of every member of this rapidly rising Lodge of Instruction, and we wish him every success. All business being ended, the Lodge was closed in due form with solemn prayer.

THE DISCUSSION OF MASONIC QUESTIONS.

WE note with pleasure the growing interest which Brethren take in the discussion of Masonic questions, not only of questions of jurisprudence and the like, but of questions affecting our ritual. We never have been of the number of those who think publicity in things Masonic an evil. We are, of course, aware that the greatest caution must be exercised in carrying on these discussions, and, as far as we are concerned, we shall exercise the needful amount of care on all occasions, so that nothing that may not properly be spoken shall appear in our columns. It is evident, however, that a new spirit has come over Freemasonry. Some there may have been in former days, who were not sufficiently reticent where reticence was an obligation; while, on the other hand, there was an even greater number of brethren who fancied that a single line of public announcement as to the sayings and doings of Freemasons was a crime hardly less terrible than that of high treason. Even in these more enlightened days there are still to be found some who think the publication in the columns of a Masonic journal of a formal printed document is a great sin. But this number is rapidly diminishing, and will doubtless, as the saying is, grow small by degrees and beautifully less, till at length the Mason who objects to reasonable publicity will be as great a wonder as the fossil remains of an antediluvian reptile. Thus the discussion raised, a few weeks since, by "P.M., P.Z.," has already evoked many able letters from the more studious among our brethren. Such learned Masons as Bros. Dr. Bedolfe and Gottheil may be trusted not to say what ought to be left unsaid. They, however, have expressed their views not only with great ability, but at considerable length, and discreetly as to the wisdom or unwisdom of modifying or altering the ritual which has been handed down to us. The originator of this discussion merely pursues the even tenour of his way, seeking information as to the correction of this or that rendering of this or that particular passage; and, we hope we may say, obtaining opinions at all events worthy of careful consideration, if not the opinions that may be wisest and best for us to adopt. But this is far from being the only result his very natural curiosity has obtained for him, and, indeed, for the whole Craft in this country. Among those who have joined in this discussion is a correspondent who signed himself "P.G.W.," and his suggestion as to the appointment by Grand Lodge of Lecturers, whose duty it shall be to lay down the law as to which is, and which is not the correct version to be adopted, is worthy of being considered most carefully by those whom it may concern—that is, by no less a body than Grand Lodge. It cannot be a matter of indifference to our rulers, that even a slight degree of laxity should prevail in the interpretation of our doctrine. What is handed down orally, is always liable to more or less of verbal variation. We cannot point to the man among us, or, indeed, in any other society, whose memory is sure as to every word in a ritual which, if printed, would make a respectable-sized volume. We say, such a man is not to be found anywhere. But, though we may not be able to find one who is word-perfect, we may, at least, find one who is sense-perfect in his teaching—that is to say, one who will rightly interpret, if he does not express with literal accuracy, the doctrines of Freemasonry. For instance, several of the questions propounded by the estimable "P.M., P.Z." show an utter ignorance, on the part of one or other of the Preceptors quoted, of the sense intended to be conveyed. But if verbal perfection is unattainable, the perfection of sense is not in the same predicament. It is possible to interpret rightly all through our services—if we may use the word—the meaning of their authors. The sense still remains to us, though we may occasionally be at a loss for the exact words they employed. Moreover, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, the key to the solution of a difficulty will be found in the context. Classical scholars know full well that many sentences in ancient authors are omitted or imperfect, but they supply the sense by judging of the passage in which our writers occurs. So we, if we experience a sense of hesitation as to which is the correct interpretation in our ritual, ought not to be at a loss in deciding by means of those passages which immediately precede and succeed it. It may perhaps occasionally happen that two renderings will commend themselves almost equally to the Preceptor's mind; but though he may not feel himself capable of deciding in such rare cases, we whose duty it is to follow his instruction, must necessarily benefit by his exposition of the doubts and difficulties which perplex him. We are certain of this, that the language of our ritual should be as nearly uniform as possible, and we consider the suggestion of "P.G.W." as to the appointment of Grand Lecturers one worthy of adoption by the authorities of Grand Lodge. We are not so Quixotic as to expect that successive generations of Grand Lecturers will employ exactly the same words, and in the same sequence. We have, however, a right to expect that, as far as possible, we may always receive from them the same interpretation.

The far larger question of reforming our ritual so as to suit the more enlightened ideas of the present day is one we feel indisposed to discuss, at least under existing circumstances.

MASONIC PORTRAITS. (No. 35.)

THE STATESMAN.

Custode rerum Cæsare, non furor
Civilis aut vis exiget otium,
Non ira, quæ procudit enses,
Et miseras inimicat urbes.

IT is a favourite argument with certain of our opponents that the Society of Freemasons is the declared enemy of all religion and all government. Our organisation is a secret one, and our ramifications extend to well nigh every country in the world. Professedly we have at heart the welfare of mankind, but secretly the one labour we devote ourselves to unceasingly is the utter subversion of all that man holds most sacred, religiously, politically, and socially. It is to little purpose we endeavour to meet this grave charge by pointing to the presence in our ranks of some of the highest and ablest members of all leading civilised communities, that is, of men the most deeply interested in the maintenance of religion and sound government. We are told that such personages are merely the dupes of the more designing members of the fraternity, that they are initiated only into the lesser and comparatively harmless mysteries, while a knowledge of our more dangerous tenets is reserved for a few choice spirits. These latter it is who rule and direct the policy of the Craft, and are at the bottom of all those various religious and political convulsions which now and again disturb the tranquillity of the world. In vain do we attempt to meet this rejoinder by quoting those of our published Constitutions which enjoin the love of God and man, and obedience to the laws; in vain do we cite the case of princes and nobles and others of high degree who take an active part in our government. There is no arguing with those who will not be convinced. Our arguments and the arguments of this class of opponents are, in fact, as two parallel lines, capable of being prolonged infinitely, but never of meeting together and establishing a coincidence of opinion. Again, there are those who take a far less exalted view of Freemasonry. They are careless about our supposed antipathy to religion and morals, but they think us a parcel of zanies, who to an excessive regard for the pleasures of the table unite a most ridiculous love of show. We dine much and often, and we do so, bedecked with ribbons and aprons and jewels. We are charitable, perhaps, but always ostentatiously so. As for our vaunted secrets, we have none, or at least none worth keeping or making a fuss about. We are, in short, a huge confraternity of men, who practise a certain amount of harmless mummery, eat and drink hugely, and bedizen ourselves ridiculously. It is almost as difficult to meet this class of opponents as the former. We say there are wise and temperate men among us who hate mummery, excessive indulgence, and the display of tinsel. The answer is, perhaps, Nemo mortalium omnibus horis sapit, Dulce est desipere in loco, or some equally trite phrase. In spite, however, of the seeming impossibility of carrying conviction to the minds of these and other opponents of Freemasonry, we purpose laying before our readers a short sketch of one of the brightest ornaments of our Society, in the hope that if we fail to convince our enemies of their error, we may at least afford some comfort to our friends and well-wishers.

Our portrait is of one who has attained the foremost rank within and outside the pale of Masonry. By birth a patrician, he has shown himself at each successive stage of his career in the highest degree worthy of his exalted rank. He closed his academic course by taking first class honours in literis Humanioribus, a distinction his Alma Mater acknowledged a few years later by conferring on him the honorary office of High Steward. On quitting the University he took the oath and his seat in the hereditary House of Parliament, and at once made his mark in the political world, as he had previously done in the world of letters. He was, in the first instance, appointed to a minor office in one of the earlier administrations of the late Earl of Derby. In 1866 he attained the rank of Cabinet Minister, and on the formation of the present Conservative ministry he once again resumed the seals of office as Secretary of State for the Colonies. We are, of course, aware that it hardly falls within our province to express any opinion on the political career of one of our brethren. Yet we feel that we are not exceeding the limits of prudence when we say that during the whole course of his colonial administration this distinguished member of our society has faithfully and conscientiously devoted himself to the duties of his office. To him is due the honour of having initiated a grand and comprehensive policy, whereby the inter-relations of our colonies among themselves and with the mother country have been drawn together more closely and familiarly. In the order of things this policy has met with a certain amount of opposition. Local jealousies have occasionally interfered to arrest its progress. But these have merely served to bring out in stronger relief the true magnificence of a scheme whose sole object is the greater consolidation of our empire. Opponents as well as friends now recognise this, and doubtless ere long his plans will be carried out in their entirety. Here then is one who has achieved the most brilliant success, both at his University and in his career as a statesman. At this very moment he is one of eleven men to whom are entrusted the destinies of a mighty empire. Is it conceivable that such a man should countenance a society of conspirators against law and order? And yet he is a Freemason of some twenty years' standing, and one of our leading magnates.

Pass we now, however, to what will more immediately interest our readers,—the Masonic career of the successful student and statesman. He was initiated into Freemasonry in February 1856, in the Westminster and Keystone Lodge, No. 10. Early in the following year, owing to certain foreign brethren having a few months previously been condemned to various terms of imprisonment with hard labour, for the sole crime of being Freemasons, our noble brother rose in his place in Grand Lodge, and moved a resolution to the effect that the Board of General Purposes be directed to draw up and publish a statement of the principles of our Order, showing the basis of our Society in every age. The purpose of such resolution will be sufficiently obvious if we quote a few words from the speech in which the resolution was advocated. "Let that statement clearly show," said the speaker, "that if there be one great principle which has been the mainspring of our Order, that principle has been religion. And that if there be any practice which has been religiously adhered to, it has been that of non-intervention in political and religious matters." The motion, however, was opposed by the D.G.M., the late Earl of Dalhousie, then Lord Panmure, mainly on two grounds—that it would afford the enemies of Freemasonry an opportunity of offering a direct insult to Grand Lodge, and that a declaration of Masonic principles was unnecessary, as all the world knew what those principles were. The motion was negatived without a division; but though the expediency of passing such a resolution may have been doubtful, the animus which prompted it was, and always will be, universally respected. In May 1858, Westminster and Keystone Lodge was the scene of a grand gathering of brethren, including the Grand Master the late Earl of Zetland, the D. Grand Master, the late Lord Panmure, with other Grand Officers, and a strong muster of Provincial Grand Masters, the occasion being the installation of our brother as W.M. of his Lodge. The ceremony was performed by the retiring Master, Bro. Wyndham S. Portal, who had on his right the Earl of Zetland, and on his left Lord Panmure. At its conclusion the brethren, to the number of over two hundred, adjourned to banquet in the great hall. In returning thanks for his health, the newly elect W.M., in the course of a brilliant speech, expressed his gratitude to those country brethren who had done the Lodge the honour of being present on the occasion. "Many of us in this room," said he, "have not seen each other before, but we do not meet as strangers," and he added: "Each fresh step I take in the study of our great science, each fresh line I find in the pages of our history, convinces me still further of its incalculable ramifications, and makes me gaze with wonder and with awe on the boundless horizon of its influence." Some further remarks were addressed specially to his London brethren, in the course of which we find the following:—"We have met sometimes to agree, and, perhaps, sometimes to differ; but, let me assure you, that whenever we do meet, nothing can be more pleasant or more congenial than the thought that, when we do differ, it is only from a sense of duty—from a conviction of principle. That difference of principle, therefore, need not imply any diminution of the respect and regard which is due from Mason to Mason."

The year previous, he had affiliated to the Apollo University Lodge, No. 357, Oxford, and his progress in Craft and Arch Masonry has ever since been commensurate with his merits. In 1868, he was appointed, by the late Earl of Zetland, to the Provincial Grand Mastership of Somerset. On the resignation, in 1870, by that nobleman of the Grand Mastership, which he had held uninterruptedly from the death of H.R.H. the Duke of Sussex in 1843, the Marquis, then Earl, of Ripon was elected Grand Master, and our noble brother became Deputy Grand Master. In 1871, the Friends in Council Lodge, No. 1383, was warranted, and the subject of our sketch became its first W.M. In 1874, on the resignation of the Marquis of Ripon, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, who already enjoyed the rank of Past Grand Master, was chosen to fill the vacant chair. His Royal Highness's installation took place in April 1875, at the Royal Albert Hall, South Kensington, on which memorable occasion our then Deputy Grand Master enacted the chief part in inducting the new G.M. into his office. His speech was in every way worthy of so great an event, and was received with marked enthusiasm by the eight or ten thousand brethren who were present. The very first act of our new chief was the appointment of this eminent brother as Pro Grand Master. A week later, and he became Pro Grand Z. of the Supreme Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons. He is likewise Sovereign Grand Commander of the Supreme Council of the A. and A. Rite, in which capacity he assisted in conferring the 33° on the Prince of Wales, when the latter became its Patron. He is also Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of England and Wales, having presided over that body between the years 1860 and 1863. These are the chief, though far from being the only, distinctions he has had conferred upon him, nor are these his only claims upon the respect of all true Masons. Few there are so deeply versed in all the different branches of Masonic knowledge, and fewer still who furnish in all their acts such indisputable evidence of the value of Masonic teaching. As regards our Charities, he is, as might be expected, a foremost supporter of them all, the last occasion on which he exhibited, practically, his interest in their welfare being in 1875, when he occupied the chair at the Festival of the Boys' School. It is hardly necessary, after what we have said, to adduce further evidence of the appreciation in which he is held. We may mention, however, incidentally, that no less than three Lodges have been named in his honour. These are No. 708, Hampton Court, founded in 1857; No. 804, Havant, founded in 1859—a notice of the consecration of whose new Lodge quarters appeared in these columns only a few weeks since—and No. 1572, a metropolitan Lodge, constituted last year, and meeting at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. A fourth Lodge, which will be consecrated this very day, will also be named after him.

It is time, however, we put the finishing touches to this very inadequate sketch of one of our worthiest Craftsmen. We consider we have proved our case, if not to the complete discomfiture of our enemies, at least to the satisfaction of our friends. We are constantly being charged with exercising a pernicious influence over religion and morals, and with plotting to overthrow the bases of all established government. We point, in reply, to the constituent members of our body, and we say these charges are, primâ facie, groundless. We include in our ranks very many of the best and worthiest members of society, who, above and beyond all personal inclination, are directly interested in the spread of religion and morals, and with the maintenance of order. We say there are thousands of such men among us, and we cite in illustration the case of one who is publicly known, not only as one of the chief Masonic luminaries in this country; but likewise for his great scholarly attainments and his brilliant career as a statesman of the highest rank. Others of like mental calibre have preceded him in our ranks, others accompany him, and doubtless others will follow in his footsteps. And so long as we can point with pardonable pride to their presence among us, we can afford to laugh at the slanders that are launched against Freemasonry. We need have little fear for the safety of our Craft with such captains to command it. Without the slightest idea of flattery we may address to him the lines which the poet to whom we are indebted for the motto to this portrait addressed to Lollius—

"Est animus tibi
Rerumque prudens, et secundis
Temporibus dubiisque rectus."

OPENING OF A NEW LODGE AT GORLESTON.

THE consecration of a new Lodge is at all times of great interest to the Craft, but more especially so when it occurs in their own province. On Monday morning a large muster of brethren from Yarmouth, Lowestoft, Halesworth, and other places in Suffolk, as well as a few brethren from Norwich, mustered at St. Andrew's Hall, Gorleston, for the purpose of assisting at the ceremony of opening a new Lodge in that remote corner of Suffolk. The foundation of the new Lodge is entirely due to E. P. Youell, Esq., a resident in the town—who takes great interest in the Craft—and who, not being able to find a place suitable for the purpose, has erected, at his own cost, a small but convenient Lodge-room, adjoining the St. Andrew's Hall Lecture Room, and fitted it up with every requisite for the work. The new Lodge has been named the "St. Andrew's Lodge;" but why this name has been chosen we cannot say, although as the church is named after St. Andrew, we suppose that saint was the patron of the fishermen of the town and neighbourhood, as St. Nicholas is the patron saint of Yarmouth.

The ceremony of consecration was intended to be performed by the P.G. Master for Suffolk (Lord Waveney), but his lordship was unavoidably detained in Ireland, and the Deputy Provincial Grand Master (Bro. Rev. E. Lockwood) having recently died, the Rev. C. J. Martyn P.G. Chaplain of England, was deputed by the P.G.M. to perform the important office. Excellent arrangements were made for the purpose, but unfortunately the space was so limited, and the number of brethren present so numerous, that the ceremony, therefore, lost a great portion of its effect. The Lodge was summoned for half-past eleven, some time being usually required on these occasions when so many visiting brethren are present to settle the order of proceedings. At half-past twelve, the Lodge was duly opened by Bro. Lucia P.G. Secretary of Suffolk, after which the warrant of constitution from the Grand Lodge in London was read, and the names of the brethren proposed as officers having been duly approved of, Bro. Rev. C. J. Martyn, accompanied by the P.G. Officers for the Province was then introduced in due form. The ceremony of the consecration was then ably carried out by him, Bro. Rev. J. Tweed P.G. Chaplain for Suffolk assisting, with Bro. Mann of Lowestoft at the harmonium. Bro. Martyn then called upon the W.M. elect, Bro. Youell, to answer certain questions, which being satisfactory, he was inducted in due form into the W.M.'s chair, amidst the applause of the brethren. He then proceeded to appoint the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Capt. Dods S.W., J. Hammond J.W., Thurlby S.D., Stainer J.D., Fiske I.G., Bond, of the Friendship Lodge, being appointed as the immediate P.M. The business of the Lodge so far having been concluded, the brethren then arranged themselves in procession, and, preceded by the band of the West Norfolk Militia, wended their way to St. Andrew's Church, where arrangements had been made with the vicar for a special service to be held. A large number of the inhabitants were present. The sermon was preached by the Rev. J. Tweed P.G.C., from 1 Ecclesiastes, 10th verse, the offertory on the occasion being given (by desire) to the Church Restoration Fund. On their return to the Lodge-room, a vote of thanks was moved by the W.M. to the P.G. Chaplain for his admirable Masonic sermon on the occasion, and to the vicar for kindly granting the use of his church. A vote of thanks was also passed to the Halesworth brethren for signing the petition to be forwarded to the Grand Lodge. After which the Lodge was closed in due form. As many of the brethren on these occasions come from various parts of the county, it will not allow of much time to be lost; therefore, shortly after five o'clock, the brethren assembled in an adjoining building, called St. Andrew's Hall, which had been most tastefully decorated for the occasion, and where a most elegant repast had been prepared. The W.M. (Bro. Youell) presided, and was supported by Bro. Martyn and the other Provincial Officers of the Province, as well as by many visiting brethren. After dinner the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, that of the W.M. being given in a most felicitous manner by Bro. Martyn. The proceedings were enlivened by some excellent singing from some of the brethren present, and a most agreeable evening was spent.

We must not omit to state that the band of the West Norfolk Militia played various pieces of music during dinner in a most admirable manner.

Too much praise cannot be given to Bro. Clarke, P.G. Director of Ceremonies, for the able manner in which he carried out the duties of his office on this occasion; and to Bro. Bond, of Friendship Lodge, Yarmouth, praise must be awarded for his excellent arrangement of the business of the day.

The banquet was supplied by Bro. Franklin in his usual admirable manner.

The official number of the new Lodge is 1,631, and by that it appears there have been 131 new Lodges opened in various parts of England since the Walpole Lodge, No. 1,500, which was consecrated in Norwich two years since.—Norwich Mercury.

CONSECRATION OF THE LODGE DRAMATIC, No. 571, GLASGOW.

THIS long-delayed ceremony took place in St. Mark's Hall, on Wednesday, 1st Nov., at three p.m. The P.G.L. was represented by Bros. F. A. Barrow P.G.D.M., acting as P.G.M., J. Baird P.G.S.M., who acted as P.G. Chaplain, G. McDonald R.W.M. No. 73 as P.G.S.W., R. Jack R.W.M. 128 acting P.G.J.W., J. Morgan P.G. Sec., A. Bain P.G.B.B., J. Balfour P.G.D. of Ceremonies, and J. B. Hardie P.G.O.G. The acting Provincial Grand Master performed the ceremonies in an impressive manner. In the unexpected absence of the Chaplain, he said it would rest with him to deliver an address—he would not call it an oration, as set down in the programme, because he was not an orator. He entered into a lucid exposition of the principles of the Order, arguing that these principles, though beautiful in themselves, are useless if they are not reduced to practice. And he would particularly call upon the Master, Wardens and Officers of the Lodge Dramatic to see that, in practice, they strictly adhered to the principles laid down in the charges delivered to Masters, and assented to by them. From his previous knowledge of the Masters and some of the Officers, he had no doubt they would do so, yet the tendency of all new bodies was to try as soon as possible to enlarge themselves, therefore it was necessary to recommend a strict adherence to the grand principles. Masonry was not a religion, but its precepts, if carried into practice, may, like religion, tend to make men better, and more moral. If at any time any of the brethren overstepped the bounds of prudence, and, from the numbers who joined, it was to be feared that some would, let them try, in a brotherly spirit, to get them back to the paths of true morality, and carry out the grand principles of brotherly love, relief, and truth. Bro. Dobson R.W.M., on behalf of the Lodge, as well as himself, tendered Bro. Barrow and the rest of the P.G.L. their best thanks for their zeal that day, and the excellent way in which they had performed the ceremonies, and concluded by proposing that they be all admitted as honorary members. This was accordingly done. Bro. Barrow, on behalf of the other members of P.G.L., acknowledged the compliment paid them. They then retired, and the Lodge, after the transaction of some local business, was closed in due form, by Bro. Dobson.

A MONUMENTAL WORK.
NOW IN PREPARATION.
HISTORY OF EVERY LODGE UNDER THE GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.
Will be Edited by a distinguished Grand Officer.
In a work of this magnitude, the kind co-operation of all Brethren who are in possession of facts not generally known, will be invaluable, and thankfully acknowledged.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—After due consideration I have decided not to continue this controversy, which, if continued, would lead me beyond the bounds I at first contemplated. My public and private avocations alike forbid it.

I have had but one object in view—viz., the improvement of our philosophical teaching, for such it claims to be, and such it ought to be considered by all thinking men.

I do not know by what right my friends who have opposed me assume themselves to be representatives of the Craft, but apprehend that, when the Craft does earnestly bestir itself in this very important affair, as sooner or later it will, leaders will be chosen who will not content themselves with mere verbal quibbles, or who, in matters of fact, accuse their opponent of being "unimaginative."

For the reasons above stated, I now withdraw from the contest, not doubting that, even after many days, the good seed I have sown will bear fruit.

I have nothing to withdraw. I have offered, as an individual ruler of the Craft, thoughtful addresses to thoughtful men, in all earnestness and truth; and if the exercise of my duty has in any way caused pain to friends, I can only express regret, and trust all ill-feeling will be mutually forgotten.

With thanks, Mr. Editor, for your courtesy in inserting my letters,

I am, fraternally yours,

W. VINER BEDOLFE M.D., P.M. 1329,

Author of "Footsteps of Masonry."

Dulwich, 30th October 1876.

[We regret the determination our esteemed brother has come to, and that he will take no further part in this discussion. We had looked forward to deriving no small amount of profit from his well-known ability, and careful study of Masonic doctrine. ED. FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE].

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—If any remarks in my last letter have given pain to Bro. Bedolfe, or if he considers I have dealt hardly with him, I know, he will forgive me when I assure him that they were directed not to him personally, but against some of his statements, which, as an humble Preceptor of a Lodge of Instruction, I felt it my duty to combat, and, if possible, to controvert. A discussion of this kind can with very little difficulty be conducted in a calm and dispassionate spirit, seeing that the aim of either disputant can only be to promote the interest of the cause he is proud and anxious to serve. Actuated by the same principle, I will pass by the first sentence in the second paragraph of his last letter, "His paper is written with undoubted talent; he eludes each point with wonderful tact," and I am willing to look upon the questionable compliment with a forgiving eye. According to my friend's dictum an opponent should give his replies categorically. This is not easy, unless the propositions under consideration follow consecutively, and are methodically numbered. He will, therefore, in this instance allow me to state my views as they happen to present themselves, and he must connect them as he thinks best. I will now proceed to examine what further forces have been marshalled to sustain the onslaught upon one of the redoubts of the Masonic citadel. The Doctor starts by proclaiming that he has given his aid to introduce certain modifications, which, as has been pointed out, are gradually being adopted in various Lodges. I am not disposed to question the fact. He further inquires, "Is it presumption to ask to be a fellow labourer?" Certainly not. But why does my friend stigmatise as "tinkering," work which he seems anxious it should be known he has helped to perform? The necessity for improvement, and the advantages likely to arise if many matters in our system are modernised and rendered more consistent with the present mode of thought has already been conceded. Is it, then, fair criticism to cull a passage here and there and exclaim, "How can you tell your pupils that which you know to be untrue?" The system has been handed down to us in its imperfect form, and the elimination of its discrepancies is by no means an easy task. The process must be gradual, and extreme caution is necessary lest all resemblance to the original be destroyed. The Doctor either mis-read or mis-conceived the purport of my remarks, when he accused me of having stated that the "lectures are simple tradition." Such an assertion would be silly. I can also only express myself in proportionally grateful terms for his considerately volunteering to define the term "tradition." It is many years since I left school, but I have not forgotten it. My friend opines that it is incumbent upon me to prove in what manner the story of Ishmael, Hagar, and Isaac is applicable to the origin of "Freeborn." I do not admit that I am called upon to do anything of the sort, but will, nevertheless, endeavour to show that it is a useful and pointed illustration. Freedom is an important, and, indeed, necessary qualification to a Mason desirous of performing his duties faithfully and conscientiously. Few, if any, whose time and talent are the property, or at the disposal, of a master, can become profitable servants of the Order. Indeed, as numberless examples in our own experience have abundantly proved, the whim or misfortune of the master will invariably render the servant a burden and incumbrance, when it was hoped he might have been a source of strength and support. Hagar occupied what might have been deemed an unassailable position in the household of Abraham. Yet being after all only a hired dependent, caprice and importunity easily succeeded in contriving her banishment, and to reduce her to a condition of dire want and distress. Can it be said the illustration is entirely devoid of force? In the same narrative we are also admonished to guard the young against vulgar and low bred associations, and by keeping them free from baneful influences prepare them for an upright and virtuous life. The learned doctor persists in regarding men who attend Lodges of Instruction as a parcel of school boys. He seems to gauge their intellectual power by a singularly low standard. He assumes, upon what ground I am unable to conceive, that the Scripture narratives are "unwisely adopted," and when used as isolated facts, are productive of "unspeakable sin, misery, and crime." He would raise no objection if each were followed by a suitable explanation. But what reason has he to assume that the brethren who study the Lectures are incapable, not only to explain, but to draw a fitting moral from these passages. The doctrine that these matters are unfit for the common understanding, and should not be read except by the light of those who are supposed to possess the capacity to explain them, is one which I believe was abolished at the time of the Reformation, and is scarcely consistent with the freedom of thought which should prevail in all truly civilised communities. In his former paper my friend indulged in wholesale condemnation. He contented himself by simply enumerating what he conceived to constitute dark and ugly blemishes in the system of Masonic Instruction. Fault finding is, however, a mighty easy task; and I have heard it said that to some the occupation affords the most unalloyed gratification and pleasure, and is often preferred to any other mode of recreation. But experience teaches us that the adverse critic is rarely the one capable of suggesting a way by which the imperfections complained of might be removed or amended. I never for a moment entertained the idea that the Doctor's strictures were objectless. Being sure that he is not one who would carelessly lay bare the wounds of a patient without having a definite purpose in view, I felt some curiosity as to the remedy he was likely to propose in order to relieve Masonry of its complicated disease and shocking disfigurement, especially as I conceived that no one knew better than himself that to obtain a radical cure an exact knowledge of the disease is indispensable. His diagnosis of some time since was sufficiently alarming, and calculated to dishearten the timid, and drive them to despair. But his latest bulletin is much more reassuring. To judge by the proposed treatment, the disease after all cannot be of a very virulent or malignant type. REVISION is to be the panacea. From this it may be concluded that there is no immediate risk of dissolution; indeed, we may confidently dismiss the idea of imminent danger. The learned doctor has not as yet thought proper to enlighten us as to how the remedy is to be applied. It will, therefore, behove the friends of the patient to be particularly vigilant lest it prove worse than the disease, and to be prepared against any fatal consequences that might possibly ensue from its application. I must once more refer to the distinction between the originator of this controversy and my esteemed Brother Bedolfe. The Doctor advocates allopathic treatment. Doctor James Stevens wisely, to my thinking, prefers the homœopathic. Doctor Bedolfe stands, scalpel in hand, ready to amputate or excise, as the exigencies of the case may require. Doctor Stevens, on the other hand, likes to pursue the somewhat slow but sure, and at the same time less dangerous, although probably in this instance much more efficacious, process of pilules and infinitesimal doses. We shall certainly have to make our choice between the two. My friend makes known his "pain and mortification" at the recital of the exploits of a freebooter, the slaughter of forty thousand Ephraimites, and the plunder of Ammonitish cities. But why should the histories of battles, because recorded in the Sacred Book, be considered more revolting than those of the wars of our own time, with their attendant inhumanities and brutalities, the reports of which are placidly read from day to day by millions all over the world? The fact is, war, the irresistible engine of destruction and desolation, and the evil genius whose sinister influences turn mankind into the semblance of wild beasts uncontrolled and uncontrollable, has always been full of horrors. And until Utopia is established, or the Millennium has arrived, individuals and nations will continue to quarrel and fight, and sympathetic sentimentalism must be resigned to suffer "pain and mortification." For His own unfathomable purposes the Most High suffered these things in the days of old; we can only suppose they are deemed necessary now, and must bow in humble submission to His allwise decrees. The Doctors differ and agree. They are at one as to the necessity of rectifying all matters incongruous and obsolete, to round off the slightest excrescence which might have a tendency to mar the beauty and symmetry, and to polish away the least speck likely to degrade the brilliancy and lustre of our cherished institution. They join issue as to the method in which the onerous, but at the same time pleasant, task is to be accomplished. May this discussion result in discovering the best way to bring about the much-needed and greatly-to-be-desired consummation.

Yours fraternally,

E. GOTTHEIL.

"ARE we children to be taught to repeat that, as historical fact, a Lodge of Masons existed	"IN the time of Euclid the river Nile overflowed so far that many of the dwellings of the people of at Alexandria, and that a Euclid was Master? Is it possible a Preceptor can be found with gravity to teach such absurdity, or does he, with a wink, acknowledge that it is only a puerile lie? It is idle pretentions like these, not one of which will for a moment bear the test of criticism, that has brought Masonic history into such deserved contempt."

"Now if a Preceptor tells the brethren that a 'Lodge of Freemasons existed at Alexandria in Egypt, over which Euclid presided as Grand Master,' he would tell his pupils what he ought to know is entirely without foundation, and hence imply that Masonic teachings and truth are not identical."

"Why is that beautiful and ancient Roman emblem, which St. Paul so well knew how to appropriate in one of his most sublime addresses, to be degraded by its connection with a narration disgusting to listen to, humiliating to repeat?

Here is the beginning, Lecture II. Section 3:—

"At that time there lived a man of note, whose name was Gilead, who had many sons, and one in particular he had by a concubine, whom he called Jephtha."

"Gilead dying, and his sons growing up, they expelled Jephtha from his father's house, saying, 'thinkest thou, the son of a bondwoman, to inherit with us who are freeborn?'"

"Jephtha being thus unworthily treated in his native country, and being of a bold and daring spirit, resolved to try his fortune in a foreign one, he therefore repaired to the land of Tob, whence he made incursions into the neighbouring Gentile nations, often returning laden with rich spoil." After a life of freebooting and slaughter, he finally terminates his career by "the plunder of twenty Ammonitish cities."

"I must again call attention to the symbol which is pretended to be illustrated by the tale of Jephtha. They have, and can have, no connection whatever, and as to any tradition upon the subject, it is simply absurd. Talk of allegory indeed! I know the pain and mortification it has often subjected me to, in feeling compelled to listen to such an outrage upon common sense."

"Another expressive symbol dates its origin from a period anterior to the building of the temple. It is an ear of corn placed on the banks of the running stream. This emblem conveys a valuable lesson on the dispensation of Providence in supplying the necessary plenty of food for the sustenance of his creatures; thus displaying the Great Architect of the Universe in the exercise of Mercy; 'doing good,' as the great apostle of the Gentiles beautifully expresses it, 'giving us rain from heaven and fruitful seasons; filling our hearts with food and gladness.' This emblem adds grace and dignity to the Masonic system, whether it be referred to the Divine beneficence, or the occurrence in the history of Jephtha."

"This famous warrior was the natural son of Gilead; and having been ejected from his father's house by his legitimate brothers, he took up his residence in the land of Tob. When the brethren of Jephtha refused him his portion of the inheritance, he became the captain of a band of robbers, which was so far from dishonouring him, that the people of Gilead unanimously chose him for their prince; and we find him hesitating whether he should do his country the favour of accepting that office, or still abide by his former profession. Before his time, Abimelech, a son of Gideon, the judge, had made his fortune in the same manner, heading the men of Sichem in their depredations. In like manner, when David fled before Saul, a number of unfortunate persons joined him; and they lived by committing depredations on those with whom the Israelites were at enmity. How far this was lawful, I do not now enquire * * It is sufficient for my purpose to show that the business itself was highly honourable."

"Much injury may arise from the smallest deviation in the ceremony of initiation, or in the lectures of instruction. We read in the book of Judges, that the transposition of a single point over the Sheen, in consequence of a national defect among the Ephraimites, designated the corners, and led to the slaughter of 40,000 men."

Which is Correct?

A MISSING CASE AND JEWELS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

301 Strand, W.C., 1st Nov. 1876.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—At installation meeting of Chaucer Lodge last Wednesday, at Bro. Spence's, Bridge House Hotel, my case, with my name and Lodge (Domatic, No. 177) written thereon, and containing two collars, one with silver jewel of S.W., with "Domatic, 177," engraved thereon, was taken by a brother, in mistake. If said brother will return same to me at Domatic Lodge, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, or at my office as above, he will greatly oblige.

Yours fraternally,

GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTER MASONS.

A MOVEABLE Grand Lodge of M.M.M. of England and Wales and the Colonies and Dependencies of the British Crown was held on Wednesday, the 25th ult., at the New Town Hall, Leicester, under the auspices of Fowke Lodge, No. 19. The M.W.G.M.M., the Right Honourable the Earl of Limerick, presided, and there were present M.W. Bro. Rev. G. R. Portal P.G.M., Bros. Lieut-Gen. J. S. Brownrigg G.J.W. as G.S.W., and Fred. Davison G.T. as G.J.W., Rev. J. S. Brownrigg G. Chaplain and Rev. W. Langley P.G. Chaplain, J. M. Cunningham Prov. G.M. Sussex, as G.M.O., John Chadwick P.G.S.O. as G.S.O., John Wordsworth D.P.G.M. W. Yorkshire as G.J.O., F. Binckes P.G.W. G. Secretary, J. J. Fast G.I.G., H. W. Binckes Assistant G. Secretary and Chas Pulman, Clement Stretton, and George Yarley G. Stewards, with the following G. Officers of the Province, namely, Bros. W. Kelly Prov. G.M., N. James P.G.J.W., R. Broughton-Smith P.G.S.O., Rev. C. Henton Wood P.G. Chaplain, J. M. McAlister P.G. Secretary W. J. Rowlett P.G.I.G., John Hunt, W. Vical, Meadows Prov. G. Stewards, and a strong muster of brethren of Fowke Lodge, No. 19, Knighs of Malta, No. 30, Aldershot Military, No. 54, Bedford, No. 115, Mansel, No. 116, St. Peter and St. Paul, No. 163, Simon de Montfort, No. 194. The Grand Lodge having been opened, and several letters of apology for non-attendance having been read, the routine business was transacted and the Lodge closed. The ceremony of consecrating the new Lodge, Simon de Montfort, was then proceeded with, after which Bro. Barfoot, Mayor of Leicester, W.M. Designate, was duly installed by the M.W.G.M.M., who fulfilled his task most impressively. The newly-appointed officers of the Lodge were then severally addressed as to the importance of their respective offices, both in respect of the Lodge and the Province. Votes of thanks were then passed with acclamation to the M.W.G.M.M., for his kindness in attending and conducting the important ceremonies of the day, and to Bro. Barfoot, for his great kindness in placing the Council Chamber of the New Town Hall at the disposal of the brethren. These votes having been briefly but appropriately acknowledged, Simon de Montfort Lodge was closed with solemn prayer. The brethren then adjourned to the Freemasons' Hall, where an excellent banquet had been prepared. The Earl of Limerick presided. On the removal of the cloth, the following toasts were proposed, namely, The Queen and Mark Masonry; H.R.H. the Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family, with Prince Leopold W.M. elect of University Lodge, No. 55; the M.W.G.M.M.M. the Earl of Limerick, the M.W.G.M.M.M. Lord Leigh, the Earl of Carnarvon, Viscount Holmesdale, W. W. Beach, Rev. G. Raymond Portal, and Earl Percy; the D.G.M.M.M. Lord Skelmersdale and the Grand Officers present and past; the P.G.M.M. Bro. Kelly; the D.G.P.M.M. Rev. Bro. Langley P.G.C. and the P.G. Officers present and past; the W.M. of the Simon de Montfort Lodge, No. 194, and success to the Lodge; the W.M. of the Fowke Lodge, No. 19; the Masonic Institutions and the Mark Benevolent Fund; the Visitors; the Tylers' toast. It is unnecessary to add that each and every of the above were very cordially received. In the interval a number of songs were very effectively given. In fine, the whole of the proceedings throughout the day passed off most successfully, and thanks are due to all who took part in them, but especially to the Grand Master and his Officers, the Prov. Grand Officers, the Master and Brethren of Fowke Lodge, and last but not least, to the W.M. of the new Lodge, Bro. Barfoot, the highly esteemed Mayor of Leicester.

From the Cape we learn that the South African International Exhibition building will be erected in the gardens of the Masonic Lodge Goede Hoop, adjoining the House of Assembly. The land has been freely placed at the disposal of the Committee by the ancient and wealthy Lodge to which it belongs.

HISTORIES OF OUR LODGES.

UNITED INDUSTRIOUS LODGE, No. 31.

WE thank Bro. John R. Hall for his kindness in allowing us the opportunity of inspecting the notes in MS. which he has been at the pains of compiling. We think great credit is due to Bro. Hall. These notes of his, though no doubt intended originally for his own private information, enable us to place before our readers a short sketch of the latter part of the career of the second oldest Lodge in the Province of Kent, and we feel certain that, however imperfect it may be, it will be read with pleasure.

Originally this Lodge was borne as No. 24 on the Grand Roll of the Ancients, having been warranted on the 7th April 1755. Its first home was at the Great Western Port of Bristol. Under what circumstances it migrated to the archiepiscopal City of Canterbury is a mystery we shall not attempt to explain. Suffice it to say that, though there is still extant a book containing the Treasurer's accounts from 1785, the first recorded minutes refer to the existence of a Lodge, No. 24, "under the ancient and honourable Constitutions of England," which was held at the Marquis of Granby, in Lamb-lane, Canterbury. The earliest particulars bear date the 21st April 1806, the original warrant having been confirmed on the preceding 4th March, and describe an occasional Lodge at which the following brethren were installed in ancient and due form as officers of the Lodge, namely, Bro. Aaron Paris W.M., Bro. Thomas Powell S.W., and Bro. Duke Buckingham J.W. From a minute dated 19th September of the same year it would appear that the landlord of the Marquis of Granby died, and it is further stated that sundry brethren of Lodge 400, Irish Constitution, formed a funeral procession, and accompanied the body of Bro. George Taylor from his residence, the Marquis of Granby, to St. Dunstan's Churchyard. In October 1806, it was unanimously agreed to hold the Lodge at the Eight Bells, King-street, and these are the quarters assigned to it in the list of Lodges appended to Abiman Rezon, seventh edition, published in 1807. The first meeting at this hostelry was held on the eighteenth of the month, and on this occasion a Bro. John Baker presented to the Lodge a dozen goblets engraved with Masonic emblems, in return for which his health was drunk with the usual ceremony. These goblets, be it added, still remain in the possession of the Lodge, a worthy memento of a worthy member long since gathered to his fathers. At this time the members increased rapidly in number, many of the King's German Legion quartered in this city, and of His Majesty's army being made Masons, and being mentioned as among the Lodge visitors. Subsequently, though the exact date is not stated, the Lodge moved to the "Ordnance Arms." Later still, on the 15th October 1812, we find a resolution adopted, to migrate to other quarters, the "Saracen's Head" being given as the place of meeting in June 1813. In July 1816, the W.M., Bro. Cook, who is described as a "most excellent and worthy man and Mason," proposed that a letter be addressed to Lodge 326/416 with a view to effecting a union of the two Lodges. The letter proposed, in the first place, that "a day in Union" should be spent by the officers and members of the two Lodges; and then, having regard to "the decline of Masonry in this city," and with a view "to strengthen the Craft," that the two Lodges should be formed into one. It concludes with a promise to use every endeavour to establish so desirable a union, and is signed "Thos. Cook W.M.," and—in pencil only—"J. King S.W." and "J. Hart J.W.," "Saracen's Head, Canterbury, Aug. 19, 1816." In reply a letter was received from Lodge $\frac{326}{416}$, thanking Lodge $\frac{326}{416}$ for its good wishes, as well as for the proposal to form a union of the two, and it suggests that a deputation of its members should attend the next meeting of the latter with a view to concerting the necessary measures. The idea is at once acted upon, but owing to the paucity of members present the Lodge could not be opened in order to receive the deputation of the Industrious Lodge. However, a friendly conversation took place, and it was finally agreed to send a letter to the Prov. G.M., asking his sanction for the union, and likewise the necessary instructions how to carry it out. On this occasion there were present four members of $\frac{326}{416}$ Lodge, five of "Industrious Lodge ($\frac{326}{416}$)," and one visitor. A hitch, however, occurred, and the scheme temporarily fell through. The W.M. of Industrious having meanwhile returned from London, a letter is written, announcing, under date, "Guildhall Tavern, November 28, 1816," that "after mature deliberation we are unanimous in our attachment to our Constitution, and cannot agree to relinquish it." Thanks are conveyed for the friendly proposal, and the writer—Bro. Chas. Lepine Sec—adds that we "should be very glad to receive you in our Lodge in any manner agreeable to your inclinations." In the return to Grand Lodge dated 19th Jan. 1817, only ten names appear, and in forwarding the Prov. G. Lodge returns in February of the same year, Bro. Cook "deplores the fewness of the members," but "trusts that time will increase their numbers," and expresses his "wish that the Craft may not long be neglected." The wish, however, was some time in being realised. A minute of 8th Jan. 1821 states that owing to the smallness of the attendance it had been impossible to transact any business till that evening, and, after all, none appear to have been transacted even then; for though ten, including visitors, sat down to dinner, it was at so late an hour that the opening of the Lodge had to be postponed till the second Thursday in February, and when the eventful Thursday came, only four, including the Tyler, made their appearance, "owing to their business." The return to Grand Lodge for this year shows only seven members and the Tyler, and henceforth, till 21st Jan. 1819, when the return showed one member less, no meeting was held. However, it was stated in a letter to Grand Lodge that Nos. $\frac{326}{416}$ and Industrious Lodges had established a friendly understanding between themselves, and that they had transmitted their plans to the Provincial G.M. On the last mentioned day the members of the two Lodges, finding themselves seven in number, met in Friendly Convene in Lodge Room No. 37, and a number of propositions were submitted and agreed to nem. con. The first of these, proposed by Bro. Stacey, and seconded by Bros. Pillow and Lawrence, was to the effect that the Warrant of Industrious Lodge No. 416 should be returned to Grand Lodge, the members uniting in forming one Lodge with No. 37; the Regalia to be removed to Lodge 37, such as may be wanted to be retained, and the rest to be sold, and proceeds placed in the Charity Box. It was next proposed that Bro. Cook should take the chair as W.M. of the United Lodge. A third motion was, that a ballot should be taken to settle the meeting-place of the Lodge, when it was decided, by a large majority, to remain at the Saracen's Head. It was further determined that each Lodge should discharge its own debts, if any, and further that a letter should be written to the Prov. G.M., asking his and the G.M.'s approval of the union, and inquiring as to the steps that must be taken to effect it. It was finally agreed that if a favourable answer were received, the steps taken that evening should be deemed conclusive as to the union, the new name being only left undetermined. Those present at this important meeting were six of Lodge 37, and five of Lodge 416. A letter was accordingly written the day following, giving the substance of the foregoing resolutions, and signed by Jacob Hart W.M., 37 and Robert Lawrence W.M. 416. To this an answer was received from Bro. Rd. Thompson, D.P.G.M. Kent, dated Rochester, 24th January 1819, to the effect that he saw no reason why the union should not take place; but that, as the case was a novel one, he had placed himself in communication with Grand Lodge. On the 5th of the month following he again writes, telling them how to proceed, and expressing a hope that the United Lodge may go on prospering. On the 11th February it is finally settled that the Lodge shall be returned to Grand Lodge as the "United Industrious Lodge, No. 37." It was further ordered that the Regalia of No. 416 be removed, by Bro. Lawrence, to Lodge Room No. 37. Nine, including the Tyler, were present. On 8th April 1819, the minutes of the previous meeting having been confirmed, Bro. Jacob Hart vacated the chair as W.M. in favour of Bro. Cook, as arranged on the 21st January, who thus became the first W.M. of the United Industrious Lodge, and appointed as his officers Bros. John King S.W., Charles Delamotte J.W., Thomas Ellis S.D., John Morgan J.D., Alex. William Stacey Treas., G. Birch Sec., and Thomas Blair Tyler. It was at the same time arranged that, as the W.M. was non-resident in the city, Bro. Stacey should, in the case of his unavoidable absence, act as his deputy. The Warrant also was ordered to be returned. In May, the number returned as members of the Lodge was eighteen, the oldest being a Bro. Edward Pillow, Hayman, Canterbury, made in 1787, and this had increased by the month of December to twenty-two. In 1820, Bro. Cook was re-elected to fill the chair. In March 1821, the Lodge numbered twenty-eight members, as per return to Grand Lodge. Early this year a Mr. George Steel was proposed, but rejected in the ballot. In July, however, he was again proposed and elected, being initiated in the month of September. In 1822, the number returned to Grand Lodge is twenty-four, and we miss the names of the two oldest members, Bros. Pillow 1787, and Charles Lepine 1792. In the month of July a letter of resignation is tendered by Bro. Stacey, but Bro. C. C. Cottrell is directed to write on behalf of the Lodge, expressing its regret at Bro. Stacey's contemplated retirement, and requesting him to withdraw it. Whether this request was acceded to, or not, we have no means of ascertaining. In August, the register includes the name of Alderman Frend, and on 15th October it is resolved to hold a Lodge of Instruction at Bro. Lawrence's house, every Sunday evening, at 8 p.m. In June 1823, the number returned to Grand Lodge is twenty-eight. At a Lodge of Emergency held on 26th June 1825, it is announced that the Mayor of Canterbury (Geo. Frend) and the Committee of the Philosophical Society had forwarded to the Lodge an invitation to assist in laying the foundation stone of the new Philosophical Institution, and that the D.P.G.M., Bro. Dr. Thompson, had granted the necessary dispensation for that purpose. Accordingly, on the 28th of the month, a Lodge of Emergency was held, and, in the unavoidable absence of the D.P.G.M., Bro. Tapley, of Lodge 20, Chatham, presided, and most efficiently performed the ceremony, the arrangements by Bro. Sattle, W.M. of No. 37, who acted pro tem as S.W., and Bro. Cook P.M., G.S. of Wks. being admirable. Bro. Tapley received the thanks of the Mayor and Corporation of the City, as well as of the Committee of the Philosophical Society, and was unanimously elected an honorary member of the Lodge. In December of this year it was arranged that the W.M., who had hitherto been chosen by a show of hands, should be elected by ballot, as being more in accordance with the laws of Masonry, and more likely to give general satisfaction; and the 15th December was appointed for the election. From 1826 to 1833 Freemasonry in this city appears to have greatly declined. In 1834, during the Mastership of Bro. Geo. Steel, the Lodge was moved to the King's Head Hotel, and new rules and regulations were adopted, among them being one to the effect that any Brother, being elected a joining member, should produce his G.L. certificate, or that from the Lodge in which he was made. It was also resolved that each brother holding office in the Lodge should attend with the badge of his office attached to his clothing. The officers at this time were Bros. G. Steel W.M., W. M. Smithson S.W., R. Walker J.W., R. Frend P.M., John Jennings S.D., Wm. Beer J.D., C. C. Cottrell I.G., and Thomas Blair Tyler. On 6th March Bro. Cottrell delivered a very able lecture on the real and intrinsic merits of Freemasonry. This year, too, Bro. Robert Chisholm M.D. was elected a joining member. The number, likewise, by the closing up of Lodges, became No. 34. On May 1st Bro. Cottrell presented a handsome sword, to be worn by the Tyler. But from this year to 1848 Masonic proceedings appear to have been at a stand-still, and but for the excellent conduct of Bro. Steel, who kept the warrant going by paying the necessary dues to G.L. Benevolent Fund, the Lodge would have ceased to exist. In 1848, however, some six or seven citizens, of whom one or two chanced to be Masons, met together, and in the course of conversation Freemasonry happened to be referred to. The non-Masons expressed a sincere desire to join the Brotherhood, and in May of that year their wish was realised, and they were initiated. Since then the Lodge has gone on prosperously. Two of the then members are still alive and active, and in the performance of their duties are, indeed, rarely absent from the Lodge.

The Lodge is now numbered 31 on Grand Roll, and second on the Provincial Roll of Kent, Royal Kent Lodge of Antiquity, No. 20, Chatham, being its one and only senior on the latter. Among its members will be found the names of several present and ex-M.P.'s, of representatives of the army and navy, of professional men—clerical, medical, and legal—and of many of the most respectable tradesmen in the city. Its membership is nearly fifty. In 1857 it had the honour of entertaining Prov. G. Lodge, Bro. Chas. Holttum being W.M. at the time. Bro. Hall adds, on information received from Bro. Post,* that on the decease of Bro. Steel, the widow sent up certain books, which are still preserved; many others, however, which doubtless Mrs. Steel considered of no value, being set aside and lost. Appended is a partial list of W.M.'s from 1819, the year of the Union, there being many years anterior to 1848 left vacant. From 1848 till now the list is in regular sequence. We notice a slight discrepancy between this list and the body of the narrative. Bro. W. M. Smithson is entered as W.M. in 1834, whereas it will be seen from the text, as quoted above, Bro. Steel was W.M., W. M. Smithson being the Senior Warden. This is an error which may easily be rectified, and is, moreover, noticeable as being the one discrepancy we have noted in the whole course of the sketch.

Bro. Hall is certainly entitled to the thanks of his Lodge for the pains he has taken in compiling this little history, and for enabling us to make it widely known, through the medium of these columns. If some member of the Lodge, who may have time and opportunity, would, with the sanction of the W.M., furnish particulars from the Treasurer's accounts from 1785, it would help to make the narrative more complete, and we shall have great pleasure in dealing with said accounts in the manner we have treated this sketch of Bro. Hall's. Whether it may be possible to obtain particulars of the thirty years between the grant of the first Warrant in April 1755, and 1785, the date when the accounts are said to commence, we know not. It may be that some of our Kentish brethren, or Bro. Hughan, may be in a position to render this service, and thus complete the history of the Lodge. We trust it may be so, in the interests of Freemasonry generally, and of this Lodge in particular.

THE DRAMA.

"Bounce" at the Opera Comique.

The Opera Comique Theatre, which, in its short career, has seen a variety of changes and vicissitudes, has just passed under the management of Mr. John Hollingshead, who has opened the house with a novel and interesting programme. A three-act comedy farce, entitled Bounce, is its principal feature, and Mr. Charles Collette, an intelligent and rising comedian, the chief actor. The comedy, we presume, has been written for Mr. Collette, for certainly Mr. Collette shows a marvellous aptitude in fulfilling its numerous requirements. The plot hangs, like Lord Lytton's Money, upon an eccentric will. A young lady, with a fortune of £10,000, is left to the care of five guardians, whose different tastes and dispositions render it impossible that they should agree on any subject; and the testator being strongly averse to matrimony has made it a sine qua non of her marriage that she should obtain the consent of all her guardians. Tom Bounce, upon whom the lady has bestowed her affections, is, however, equal to the occasion. Adopting various disguises, and appearing in turn before each one of the guardians, he so plays upon their respective weaknesses and predilections, that he obtains a written consent from them all. Mr. Collette, who, of course, enacts the part of Bounce, thus appears before the audience in a variety of characters, impersonating at one time a hot-headed Irish patriot with a rich Tipperary brogue, at another a French musician, and again an old stable-keeper, a German musical amateur, and other characters. In all of these his success is simply marvellous. The rapid changes, the glib patois the entire performance, indeed, are beyond praise. Our readers who desire to be amused and interested can hardly do better than pay this theatre a visit.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Lond and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is display ed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"advinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Tewkesbury and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cadet Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Kyle News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Dewsbury, Wakefield and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling nobility."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at individual portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Chronicle.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

ON Saturday, the Prince of Wales, who had been on a visit to the Duke of Grafton, at Euston, Suffolk, returned to town. On Monday, accompanied by Prince Louis of Hesse and Prince John of Glucksburg, His Royal Highness visited Windsor, and having had a morning's shooting in the Great Park, lunched with the Prince and Princess Christian, at Cumberland Lodge, and then returned to town. The visit was repeated on Wednesday. The Prince and Princess will be at Sandringham perhaps ere these lines reach the eyes of our readers, and will be there joined by the Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse, on a short visit. H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge will hold a levee at the Horse Guards on Wednesday next, the number of officers being limited to one hundred and fifty. Preparations are being made by our Norwich brethren for the approaching installation by His Royal Highness the Grand Master of Bro. Lord Suffield, the successor of the late Bro. Walpole in the Provincial Grand Mastership of Norfolk, a Provincial Grand Lodge of Emergency having been held on Saturday for that purpose. A number of distinguished brethren are expected to be present on the occasion.

Hardly a day passes without one or more meetings being held in connection with the Eastern question. On Saturday a great demonstration was made at Manchester, when it is estimated over 30,000 persons were present. Mr. Hugh Birley, Conservative member for that city, presided, and among those on the platform were several members of Parliament and local influential persons. Resolutions in support of the Government were passed, amidst the greatest demonstrations of enthusiasm. So numerous, indeed, was the attendance, that a second meeting had to be held. On Tuesday an address was presented, at Edinburgh, to Lord John Manners, H.M. Postmaster-General. His Lordship, in acknowledging it, made a long speech, defending the policy which the Government had pursued, and strongly condemning the attacks to which it had been subjected. The speech was very heartily applauded.

Preparations are being made for the formal installation into office of the new Lord Mayor, Alderman Sir Thomas White, on Thursday. No less than seven military bands will take part in the procession, which will include this year the men in armour, attended by their squires, and likewise, it is said, a number of elephants, as commemorating the Prince of Wales's visit to India. All the ministers, we believe, have accepted the invitation to be present at the banquet at Guildhall, except the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, who is the minister in attendance on Her Majesty at Balmoral. People are looking forward with more than the usual interest to hear what the Prime Minister will say. The Lord Mayor elect was presented to the Lord Chancellor on Thursday, when the latter signified to Alderman White Her Majesty's approval of him as Chief Magistrate Elect of the City.

A most unlooked for event occurred on Friday last, being neither more nor less than the return of the Alert, Captain Nares, which reached Valentia, Ireland, shortly after 1 p.m. that day. The Alert parted company with her companion, the Discovery, in the Atlantic, on the 19th ult. The latter vessel reached Queenstown on Sunday morning, and later the same day was joined by the Alert, the two vessels having since arrived at Spithead. The Admiralty have granted the crews three weeks' leave of absence, after which they will rejoin, and the ships will be paid off. Thus ends the latest Arctic Expedition, which returns safe and sound, having lost only four of its hands after an absence of close on eighteen months. This early return has taken every one by surprise, as no one expected the ships would arrive before the summer of 1877. We are thankful, however, they have got back, weather beaten, of course, but safe and sound, and with so little loss of life. The main purpose of the expedition, namely, the discovery of the North Pole, remains unaccomplished, but a sledge party made a higher latitude (83.20 N.) than has ever before been reached, the Alert having wintered off an exposed coast in 82.27, while the Discovery lay in a well-sheltered harbour, north of Lady Franklin Sound in 81.44 N. It is said that greater results have been obtained from this than from any previous expedition. Officers and men appear to have done their duty nobly, after the manner of true British seamen. The labour was terribly severe, sledging over the ice being carried on at the rate of only a mile or a mile and a quarter per day. Further progress under these circumstances was found to be impracticable, as over 400 miles had still to be traversed ere the Pole was reached. An immense sea of ice, varying in thickness from 150 to 200 feet, barred all further progress northward, and the roughness of its surface made further sledging impossible. Captain Nares, therefore, wisely determined upon returning this year, and was fortunately able to escape from the ice in time to fulfil his purpose. The men suffered greatly from frost-bite, which caused the four deaths already mentioned, while prolonged abstinence from fresh meat had induced a severe outbreak of scurvy. All the men and officers speak in the highest terms of their commanding officer, who appears to have done all in his power to make them happy and comfortable. The sun was absent for a period of 142 days, and for a fortnight the mean temperature was 59 degrees below zero—the lowest temperature recorded being 72 degrees below that point, or 104 degrees below freezing point. For forty-seven days during the winter the mercury was frozen. It is impossible for us who live at home, comparatively at ease, to imagine anything in the way of cold like this. Of course when it was known that the Arctic Expedition had arrived in Queenstown Harbour, the greatest excitement prevailed among the worthy people of Cork and Queenstown, and as the day advanced the vessels were thronged with visitors. On reaching Valentia, Captain Nares, with three of his officers, set off for London immediately.

Commander Cameron has been visiting Oxford and Cambridge, in each of which he gave a lecture, descriptive of his journey across Africa. The attendance of University men was very great at each lecture, and the reception accorded the geographer very enthusiastic.

The performances of our 81-ton Woolwich infant appears to have been surpassed by the 100-ton of Sir William Armstrong at Spezzia. Four of these latter, as our readers are aware, were recently made for the Italian Government, and the first series has been productive of the most astonishing results, the shot striking the target with a force exceeding 30,000 foot tons. The Italian Government already have two ironclads afloat, ready to be armed with these enormous guns, so the one thing, it seems, our Government must now set about doing is to construct still more formidable guns. It will certainly not do for the greatest naval country in the world to be behind a second-rate power like Italy, either in the strength of her ironclads or the force of her guns. What an English engineer can make to order for Italy he can doubtless exceed for his own country. The question to be considered, however, is where will this rivalry end? We may draw this consolation, however, from our naval experiences of former wars. We gained all our greatest victories with ships inferior in number, carrying fewer men, and armed with guns of less calibre than those of our enemy. Superior pluck, not superiority in men, guns or ships, won the day. The next maritime war it is our misfortune to be engaged in, we fancy we shall have to look chiefly to this same pluck to carry us through victoriously.

It is but seldom we have news to record from Holland, once our most formidable naval and commercial rival. On Wednesday, however, the good city of Amsterdam was all excitement, for the new canal which has been cut across the isthmus of North Holland was inaugurated at Velsen, in the presence of the King, his Ministers, the diplomatic body, the naval and military authorities, and a vast concourse of people. The ceremony was very imposing, and, after a long speech, describing the difficulties of the undertaking, and how they had been successfully overcome, the President of the Canal Company asked the King's consent to name the new harbour "The Port of Ymuiden." His Majesty, accompanied by a number of notabilities, then made a short excursion on board a steamer up the canal, after which he returned to Amsterdam, and set out for his palace at Loo. In the evening the city was illuminated, a grand banquet was held at the Palace of Industry, and the whole proceedings terminated with a display of fireworks.

Though we think few Englishmen sympathise with the Government of Servia, we must all deplore the terrible sufferings of its inhabitants, who, left to themselves, would never have dreamt of attacking the Turks. Nor, indeed, do we think the Government would have ventured upon so foolhardy a step, had it not been for the intrigues of Russian societies or Russian Government. Be this as it may, Servia has been terribly punished. The first act of the war closed with the repulse from Turkish soil of the Servian invader. The second act closes with what appears to be little short of the annihilation of her armies. Fighting commenced in earnest last week. The Turks, taking the offensive, and carrying redoubt after redoubt. Djunis, described as the key of the Servian position, was at length carried, and it is said Deligrad has been evacuated. Alexinatz, too, has fallen, and till a few days since there was nothing to prevent the capture of Belgrade. Prince Milan, however, when he found himself hopelessly defeated, even his large contingent of Russian auxiliaries having failed to turn the tide of battle, abjectly besought the intervention of the Czar. Thereupon General Ignatieff was ordered to present an ultimatum, demanding of the Turkish Government a six weeks' armistice, with only forty-eight hours allowed for deliberation. In the event of refusal, the General, with the whole personnel of the Embassy, to leave Constantinople. At the moment of writing it is understood that the Turks have agreed to the armistice, and, if so, we presume the negociations for peace will be commenced forthwith. But a settled peace is by no means assured to us. Russia is a power which is incapable of acting honestly and honourably, and she may only contemplate playing at making peace till her preparations for attacking Turkey are completed. We hope this conjecture may prove groundless, but Russia's contempt for treaty rights, or, for the matter of that, for any kind of right at all, is not calculated to impress us very favourably with her present pacific intentions.

Bro. Mortlock, Preceptor to the Temple Lodge of Instruction of Mark Master Masons, has removed to the Gun Tavern, Wapping, where a Lodge of Instruction will be held fortnightly, on the 2nd and 4th Thursday of each month. Next meeting will be held 9th Nov., when the Lodge will be glad to see any member of the Mark degree. Trains run from Liverpool-street frequently, and the distance is but a few minutes' journey from town.

The consecration of the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, No. 1642, will take place this day (Saturday), at Ladbroke Hall, near to Notting-hill Station. Bros. W. M. J. Murlis P.M. 1489 W.M. Designate, G. Penn S.W. Designate, S. H. Parkhouse J.W. Designate, and J. Pushman Sec. pro tem. The ceremony will be performed by the V.W. Bro. John Hervey G.S.

The theatrical world is always especially active at this season of the year, and we note with pleasure that the King of Dramatists is receiving more respect than is ordinarily accorded to him in London. We have at this present time no less than two Shakspearian performances running concurrently. Richard the Third, with Mr. Barry Sullivan in the leading part, is being played at Old Drury, while Mr. Coleman has had the courage, many will call it the foolhardiness, to offer a carefully-revised edition of Henry V. at the Queen's. The latter, as having been first presented to the public, claims priority of notice on this occasion. To say that Mr. Coleman has succeeded admirably in what is vulgarly described as the "upholstery" part of his business, is only to repeat what dramatic critics have already said very effectively. But this is far from being the limit of Mr. Coleman's achievements. Not only has he placed Henry V. on the stage magnificently, as regards the appointments and scenery; he has also brought together a company of actors and actresses which, in general ability, are certainly above the average of London companies, while, in the case of more than one of its members, the like are not to be found elsewhere. Mr. Phelps, for instance, as an interpreter of Shakspearian character is unsurpassed; we may almost venture to add in these days of respectable mediocrity, unsurpassable. To him is assigned the rôle of King Henry IV., in the closing scene of the second part of that play, which serves as a prologue to Mr. Coleman's edition. It is hardly necessary to point out how skilfully the veteran interprets the grand conceptions of the poet. Mr. Ryder plays the part of the Lord Chief Justice, and likewise that of the soldier Bates in the night scene round the camp fire. Mr. Ryder is a man of commanding presence, and the solemn dignity of his utterances, which never, by the way, verges in the slightest degree on pomposity, makes him perhaps the best exponent of that "majesty and power of law and justice" which Shakspeare presents to us. Miss Leighton was admirable as the Chorus, and to Miss Fowler was assigned the task of personating the French King's daughter, the Princess Katharine, a task she fulfilled successfully. Mr. T. Mead's conception of Pistol was evidently the result of the most careful study, Mr. Coleman himself played Henry V. His performance was very unequal. In the scene where the King joins the guard round one of the camp fires, Mr. Coleman was perfect, but in the more exacting scenes he lacked the vigour and energy which Shakspeare has infused into the part. Mr. James was most admirably made up as the old Knight William, the Sire de Willoughby, but Mr. J. Denis Coyne was singularly feeble in his delineation of the Dauphin. To note each member in succession would occupy too much space. Suffice it, then, if we say, that while as a rule the most important characters were very ably filled, the importance of having the minor parts carefully presented was not overlooked. We were sensibly reminded, indeed, of that general care and quality of acting which marked the course of Shakspearian presentations at the Wells during the many years of Mr. Phelps's management. If our readers are desirous of seeing one of the finest of Shakspeare's historical plays, well presented as to all the stage accessories, and fairly well acted, let them go to the Queen's, and we feel sure they will have every reason to be pleased with their visit.

SECRET SOCIETIES IN CHINA.

SECRET societies have been very active of late in China. From all parts of the Empire rumours are rife about the doings of the Hung Brethren, the members of the Society of the Queen of Heaven, the followers of the White Lily sect, and of a host of other leagues. At towns on the Yang-tsze-Keang the members of some restless brotherhood have been creating quite a panic by cutting off the queues of unsuspecting citizens; and in the province of Keang-soo the Roman Catholic missionaries report the appearance of a secret sect in the rites of which they consider there are to be traced remnants of a debased Christianity. Of these last-named people, who describe themselves as "Fasters," little is known beyond the information supplied by one of their members to Père Rizzi on the subject of the rites attending the "Feast of Tapers." On that occasion tea tables are placed so as to represent the human form, and around them are arranged twenty-five tapers, of an aggregate weight of a thousand ounces. The president and twenty-four "Fasters," each bearing a cross dipped with wax, then take their places at the tables, and having struck a light with a steel and flint, the president lights the extremities of his own cross, and with that lights the twenty-five tapers, and the crosses of the brethren. That done, rice cakes, rice, and tea, which have been previously prepared, are blessed by the president with the sign of the cross, and are then divided among the associates. According to Père Rizzi, the founder of the "Fasters" was Tamo. "Must not this be St. Thomas?" adds the missionary. But the probability is that the sect is not of any foreign origin, and, that it, as well as most other political societies throughout the Empire, is only a branch of the Hung League. In the same way the quasi-Christian rites, which are said to be used, might very readily be remnants of the religious ceremonies practised at Nanking by Hung Sew-tseuen, the leader of the Tai-ping rebels, who was a prominent leader of the league, and who professed Christianity.

The members of the Hung League, like the Freemasons, contend that their society has existed through all time, but history throws no light on any earlier formation of their body than towards the close of the Han dynasty (A.D. 185), when the three patriots, Low Pei, Chang Fei, and Kwan Yu, having associated themselves together by a solemn oath, successfully defended the throne against the "Yellow-cap" rebels. From that time until the establishment of the present Tartar dynasty the League showed few signs of vitality. But at the beginning of the eighteenth century the empire was seriously threatened by an invasion of the Eleuths; and, like the three worthies who supported the Han ruler, a hundred and twenty-eight priests of the Shaoolin Monastery, deeming themselves to be "sufficiently versed in the military art and magics to destroy the Eleuthian soldiers," took the field against the invaders. By the order of their prior they separately attacked the Eleuths on all sides; and when the battle was at its height so furious a storm of wind and sand arose, in answer to their prayer, that the air was darkened, and the Eleuths, terrified at this display of supernatural power, turned and ran, crushing and maiming each other in their headlong flight. Having thus satisfied their patriotic desire, the monks, loaded with honours, returned to their monastery.

But their success raised a number of enemies against them, and shortly afterwards their monastery was attacked and burned, and five monks only escaped with their lives. After various vicissitudes, these survivors found themselves on the banks of a stream in the neighbourhood of Kaou-ke; and as one of their number went down to drink, he found a white porcelain jar, on the bottom of which was inscribed the sentence, "Overthrow the Tsings (the present Tartar dynasty) and restore the Mings" (the dispossessed Chinese dynasty), this was accepted by the monks as a command from heaven; and, having added to their number five horse-dealers, a dismissed minister, and a priest, they bound themselves by a solemn oath, which they ratified by mixing blood from the arm of each in a chalice of wine and drinking it in common, to do all which in them lay to overthrow the House of Tsing. They all adopted the surname of Hung, and took "Patriotism" as their watchword. This done, they betook themselves to different parts of the empire to enlist recruits; and, in order to avoid the appearance of belonging to one and the same society, they gave different titles to the branches which they established. Thus there were soon spread over the empire brotherhoods known as the "Triad Society," the "White Lily League," the "Blue Lotus Hall," the "Golden Orchid District," and others, all of which, however, constituted the great Hung League. It was not long before the society thus formed attracted the attention of the Government, and sternly repressive measures were applied to it, which were also shared in by the Roman Catholics, whose organization was considered by the mandarins to resemble that of the Hungs. Yielding to the storm, the League abstained from all public manifestation, and little was heard of it until the crack-brained leader of the Taiping rebellion brought its machinery to bear to further his insurrectionary movement. With his defeat and death it again subsided into obscurity, and it has only been quite of late that renewed activity has been observable in the ranks of the brethren.

A short time since M. Schlegel, Chinese interpreter to the Government of Netherlands-India at Batavia, became possessed of some documents relating to the formation and the organization of the League. These he translated and published in a volume entitled "Thian ti Hwui—The Hung League," and it is from this and other works that the above and following particulars are gathered. The Hung lodges are built in a square, and are surrounded by walls, which are pierced at the four cardinal points by as many gates. The faces of the walls are adorned by the mysterious symbol of "union," the triangle, and with the old symbol for "a State" a hollow square—a combination which is intended to imply that the League is a united State enjoying universal peace. Within the enclosure is the hall of fidelity and loyalty, where the oaths of membership are taken, and in which is kept the genealogical table of the founders of the League. Here, also, stand the altar and the sacred tablets, before which the brethren worship, and from the centre rises the "precious nine-storied pagoda," in which the images of the five founders are enshrined. Of course the lodges appear in their legitimate splendour only in out-of-the-way districts, where they are safe from the observation of the mandarins; but in towns and populous neighbourhoods, the lodge is dispensed with altogether, and the meetings are held at the house of the president. The instruments of the lodge are numerous. First in importance is the diploma, consisting of a large square seal, having two square margins, while the inner margins are octagonal. In the outer rim are the names of the eight genii, and the rest of the seal is covered with symbolical stanzas and signs. The official flags are numerous, and emblematize the warlike character of the League; and in each lodge is a "bushel," which contains among other articles the "red staff" with which justice is done to offenders against the laws of the society, the scissors with which the hair of the neophyte is cut off, a jade foot measure, a balance, and abacus, an inkstone, a pencil, and a host of flags and other symbols.

The supreme Government of the League is vested in the Grand Masters of the five principal lodges in the provinces of Fuh-kien, Kwang-tung, Yunnan, Hoo-nan, and Che-keang, and the affairs of each lodge are administered by a president, two vice-presidents, one master, two introducers, one fiscal, thirteen councillors, several agents, who are otherwise known as "grass shoes," "iron planks," or "night brethren," and some minor officials, who, as indicative of their rank, wear flowers in their hair.

In peaceful times the ranks of the society are recruited by volunteers, but when the League is preparing to take the field threats and violence are often used to secure members. At such crises a man returning home finds a slip of paper bearing the seal of the League awaiting him, which calls upon him at a given hour to betake himself to a certain spot, and warns him that the murder of himself and his family will be the penalty of disobedience to the command. Sometimes it is said, also, that one of the brotherhood insults a stranger on the road, and, pretending to fly from the just consequences of his act, leads the unsuspecting wayfarer to some lonely spot, where he is seized upon by a number of brothers, and is carried away to the place where the lodge is held. On the appointed evening the recruits present themselves at the "City of Willows," as the lodges are called, where they are met by the "vanguard," who carefully enters their names and places of residence in a book kept for the purpose. The vanguard then gives orders to form the "bridge of swords," whereupon the brethren place themselves in a double row, and drawing their swords cross them in the air in the form of a bridge or arch.

Under this arch the new members are led, and at the same time are mulcted of an entrance-fee of twenty-one cash. After this they are taken to the Hung-gate, where stand two generals, who introduce the "new horses," to the Hall of Fidelity and Loyalty. Here the neophytes are instructed in the objects of the society; and, finally, they are conducted into the presence of the assembled council in the "Lodge of Universal Peace." As a preliminary to the administration of the oaths, the master examines the vanguard in the 333 questions of the catechism of the society, and then orders them to bring forward those neophytes who are willing to take the oath, and to cut off the heads of those who refuse to do so. As the vanguard is supposed not to bear the sword in vain, few decline to the oath, and the ceremony of affiliation is proceeded with by cutting off the queues of the recruits (though this operation is dispensed with if the members are living amongst Chinese who are faithful to the Tartar rule) by washing their faces, and exchanging their clothes for long white dresses, as tokens of purity and the commencement of a new life. Straw shoes, signs of mourning, are also put on their feet, to signify the death of their old nature; and thus attired they are led up to the altar. Here some questions with reference to the immediate objects of the League are put to the vanguard, and then each member offers up nine blades of grass and an incense stick, while an appropriate stanza is repeated between each offering. A red candle is now lighted, and the brethren worship heaven and earth by pledging three cups of wine. This done, the seven-starred lamp, the precious imperial lamp, and the Hung lamp are lighted, and prayer is made to the gods, beseeching them to look down upon the members and to accept the incense burned in their honor. The oath binding them to observe obedience to the League, and to display a spirit of fraternity, devotion, and righteousness towards the brethren, is then read aloud, and is followed by each member drawing some blood from his middle finger and letting it drop into a chalice partly filled with wine. Each neophyte then having drunk of the mixture, and repeated the appointed stanzas, strikes off the head of a white cock, as a sign that so shall all unfaithful and disloyal brothers perish. And now the ceremony of affiliation is over, and it remains but for the president to give to each recruit a diploma, the book containing the oath, law, secret signs, &c., a pair of poniards, and three Hung coins. With these emblems of their obligations the new members return to their homes at break of day.

The laws of the society bind the members to observe a cheap kind of morality, and to protect their brethren as far as in them lies, even to the extent of concealing such as are criminals from justice, and of rescuing any who may have fallen into the hands of the police. Naturally enough, the society protects itself by holding out fearful threats to any who may be inclined to reveal the secrets of the League or in any way to endanger it. But apart from those clauses which refer to the main object of the League—the destruction of the Tsing dynasty—the laws enjoin peace, and brotherly kindness, justice and truth. The secret signs are numerous, and by means of them a brother can make himself known by the way in which he enters a house, puts down his umbrella, arranges his shoes, holds his hat, ties his handkerchief, takes a cup of tea, uses his chopsticks, and performs a number of other actions. The signals by word of mouth are equally numerous, and it is almost impossible to imagine any condition of time or place of meeting for which there are not appropriate questions and answers.

It has been said there exists a strong likeness between some of the rites of the Leagues and those of Freemasons, and no doubt a certain similarity can be traced between the formularies of the two associations, but the principal interest which attaches to the League lies in its political importance. The number of its members and the discipline which is maintained in its ranks render it a formidable political weapon, but fortunately for the peace of the country there is in the Chinese character a want of that enthusiasm which makes rebellion successful. At any time the Hung League might turn the day by throwing in its weight on the side of one of two equally matched combatants, but it is as an instrument, and not as a principle, that its action will be felt.—Pall Mall Gazette.

LITERATURE.

Bye-laws and Regulations of the Victoria Masonic Lodge, No. 4, Dublin. As approved by the brethren of the Lodge, 19th July 1859. Dublin: Printed by Brother John Chambers, 11 Capel Street.

It may seem strange to notice a code of Bye-laws, seeing that one code is so very much like another. In this case, however, there is attached to the Bye-laws a highly interesting "Supplementary Record," and further, the Bye-laws themselves are more comprehensive than we usually find them in the case of our English Lodge Regulations. We purpose, therefore, noticing sundry of their most important features as well as the nature of the interesting record appended.

Bye-law 2 fixes not only the day on which the monthly meetings shall be held, but regulates likewise the hour of meeting for labour and of adjourning for refreshment in the case of eight Lodges, the others, in June, August, September and December, being held "for labour only."

Bye-law 5 provides that "at the first stroke of the Master's mall strict silence shall be observed." If a brother fail to observe this rule "he may be reprimanded by the Master, and if he persist in neglecting it, he shall be ordered to leave the Lodge room, and shall not be re-admitted until due submission shall have been made."

No. 8 enacts that, in balloting for a candidate, "one black bean" shall "exclude."

No. 10, that military and naval brethren (except officers on the staff in Dublin being on full pay) may be eligible to become members, subject, of course, to the ballot, on payment of one guinea entrance fee, the fee of an initiate being £6, and of a joining member £3, as by the preceding law. A fourteen days' notice only is required in the case of military brethren instead of the usual month's, nor are they to be reckoned among the fifty members, to which, by law, the Lodge is limited.

No. 11 provides for the admission of honorary members.

No. 13 fixes the payments at 11s per quarter.

No. 14 arranges the amount of the dinner cheque, and that the members who absent themselves from dinner without giving two clear days' notice will be charged the same.

No. 15 provides that the Master, Wardens, and Deacons shall pay respectively £5, £1, and 10s apiece to the Lodge funds.

No. 16 is to the effect that "the Master's expenses in attending the Committee of Charity and Inspection shall be defrayed out of the Lodge funds;" but all fines for non-attendance of officers at Grand Lodge to be defrayed by the delinquent officer.

No. 17. Members on the country list to pay £1 annually as dues, but not to vote or join in any discussion.

No. 18. A member may rejoin, but as a new member, on paying a readmission fee of £1.

No. 19. Leave of absence for a period not exceeding twelve months may be voted by the Lodge, all dues, fines, &c., having previously been paid over by the applicant to the Treasurer.

No. 20. Grand Lodge Certificate not to be issued till all fees, &c. have been discharged.

No. 22. Officers to be elected at the April and October meetings, and installed at the meeting succeeding St. John's day in each half year.

No. 23. The Master to be elected from among those who have served the office of Master or Senior Warden; the Wardens, Deacons, and Inner Guard from Master Masons. Officers elect to pledge their word of honour they have "neither directly nor indirectly" applied for the vote of any brother.

Nos. 24 and 25. The Secretary and Treasurer to be elected annually in the month of April from among the Past Masters of the Lodge.

No. 26. The Director of Ceremonies, from among the P.M.'s, to be elected annually in April, and to "wear a blue collar of office, bearing the crown and number of the Lodge."

No. 27 provides a "Standing Dinner Committee," to consist of the W.M., J.W., Sec. and D.C. The Lodge not accountable for refreshments ordered by individual members.

No. 28 regulates the appointment of an Auditor and audit committee, and the time and mode of audit.

No. 29. The Treasurer's accounts to be submitted half-yearly, in January and July.

No. 30. Touching visitors and the amount chargeable to them as dinner cheques.

No. 31. The W.M. privileged to invite the W.M. or a P.M. of any Dublin Lodge free of expense; the Secretary and Treasurer to enjoy the same privilege alternately.

No. 33. Costume to be evening dress and Lodge apron, subject to a fine of one shilling, to go to the Female Orphan School Collection. It further provides that "Any member of the Lodge who purposes dining, and may desire to attend in the Masonic costume of a higher degree than the blue, must appear in the dress of the degree he represents, or the same penalty to the Female Orphan School.

No. 34 provides an interval of one month at least before advancement from 1st to 2nd degree, and of not less than two months from the 2nd to the 3rd degree.

No. 35. The Treasurer to pay away no Lodge money except for current expenses, without a vote given by a Lodge expressly summoned for that purpose.

No. 36. Collections at refreshment to be paid to the Female Orphan School.

The Lodge apron to be the usual M.M.'s apron with the Roman numerals IV. between the inferior rosettes.

The Supplementary Record contains interesting particulars of how, in the year 1836, the Lodge resolved to ask for, and did at once obtain, permission to style itself "The Victoria Lodge," in honour of H.R.H. the Princess Victoria, then heiress presumptive to the throne of Great Britain and Ireland; as well as of the two addresses it presented to Her Majesty, firstly, in 1837, when she ascended the throne, and secondly, on the occasion of the Royal visit to Ireland in the year 1849. The addresses are highly creditable evidence, and the official acknowledgment of their reception are equally satisfactory proof of the loyal attachment to the throne of the Members of Victoria Lodge, No. 4, Dublin. We wish our brethren a long career of prosperity under the beneficent rule of Victoria and her descendants.

Newton's Seamanship Examiner. Being the Seamanship required of Candidates for Masters' and Mates' Certificates of Competency, at the Board of Trade Examinations, at the Various Ports. Containing plates of the Commercial Code of Signals; also of the Distance Boat, and Semaphore Signals; and a New "Rule of the Road" Diagram. By John Newton, F.R.A.S., Navigation School, Sailors' Home, Dock-street, E. Tenth Edition. London: Published by John Newton, Sailors' Home, Dock-street.

We thank Bro. Newton for his courtesy in forwarding us a copy of his most useful little publication. The greatest care has been taken to meet every possible requirement of the examiners. Both questions and answers are clearly and concisely given. The plates, exhibiting the different codes of signals, are clearly drawn, while the "Rule of the Road" Diagram will prove invaluable to seamen.

It is hardly necessary for us to speak in further terms of praise of our worthy Bro. Newton's "Seamanship Examiner." Conclusive proof of its excellence lies in the fact of its having already attained the honour of a tenth edition. It is as well, however, we should call attention to its merits, for some of our readers may at some time stand in need of its services, if not for themselves, at all events for some of their friends or belongings. We strongly advise any who may stand in need of such an examiner, to invest their shilling in the purchase of this pamphlet of Bro. Newton's. The investment is sure to be a most profitable one.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Rheumatism and Gout.—These purifying and soothing remedies demand the earnest attention of all persons liable to gout, sciatica, or other painful affections of the muscles, nerves, or joints. The Ointment should be applied after the affected parts have been patiently fomented with warm water, when the unguent should be diligently rubbed upon the adjacent skin, unless the friction should cause pain. Holloway's Pills should be simultaneously taken to reduce inflammation and to purify the blood. This treatment abates the violence, and lessens the frequency of gout, rheumatism, and all spasmodic diseases which spring from hereditary predisposition, or from any accidental weakness of constitution. This Ointment checks the local malady. The Pills restore the vital powers.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Royal Ark Mariners' Lodge.—This Lodge held a meeting, under sanction of the charter of Chapter No. 69, on Tuesday, the 31st October, at 25 Robertson-street, Comps. T. M. Campbell Z 69 presiding as F.N., G. Wheeler Z. 73 as S., J. O. Park I.P.Z. 122 as J., J. Fash as Pilot, J. McInnis as Guard. The Ark was duly unmoored, and it having been reported that there were four distressed W.M.'s in attendance, the Lodge agreed to render them assistance and receive them on board; when Comps. W. E. McMillan, W. Pascoe, J. Green, and Thomas Crumb were received, and duly instructed in their duties as Royal Ark Mariners. There being no further business on hand, the Ark was again safely moored until the waters shall again arise.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting on Monday, the 30th of October, at the Old Jerusalem Tavern, St. John's-gate, St. John's-square, E.C. There were present:—Bros. G. E. Cook W.M., Rowley S.W., H. P. Isaac J.W., Killick Secretary, J. Powell S.D., Mifflward J.D., R. W. Pearcy I.G., Christopher Tyler, and a large muster of members and visitors. Business:—The Lodge was opened in the usual manner. The minutes of the previous meeting were confirmed. The ceremonies of initiation and passing rehearsed, Bros. Knight and S. Jones acting as candidates. Several sections of the first lecture were worked. Bros. H. W. Curry and H. W. Alford, of the United Strength Lodge 228, were elected members. The Fifteen Sections will be worked on Monday next, when Bro. Beckett will preside, and the following brethren will assist:—First lecture: Bros. Hill, Trewinnard, Powell, Killick, Tolmie, Pilbeam, Ockenden. Second lecture: Bros. Kidder, Pearcy, Saul, Sadler, Halford. Third lecture: Bros. Crawley, Morrison, Stock.

Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Thursday, 26th October, at 213 Buchanan-street. The Lodge was opened by Bro. J. Bannerman Deputy Master, who stated that the meeting had been called to initiate three gentlemen, one of whom was a Spaniard, who did not thoroughly understand our language, but the ceremony would be interpreted to him by a competent brother. The R.W.M. then entered, and requested Bro. Wm. Bell, I.P.M. of St. John's 3 bis, to initiate the three candidates, which he did in a most careful manner, the more particular and difficult passages being at once interpreted into Spanish for the benefit of the gentleman who did not understand all the peculiarities of our language, the other Spanish brother speaking our language fluently. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, when Bro. G. W. Wheeler passed five brethren to the Fellow craft degree. The Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and the R.W.M., Bro. Macdonald, raised to the sublime degree five Fellow crafts. This concluded the lengthened session, all the degrees having been ably worked.

Thetis Chapter, No. 122.—This Chapter held its regular meeting on Monday, the 30th October, at 85 St. James-street. Comps. J. De Neif Z., M. McAlister H., R. Love J., D. Quigley S.E., J. O. Park P.Z. 1st S., J. S. Scott 2nd S., D. Gunn 3rd S. Visitors—Comps. G. W. Wheeler Z. 73 and J. McInnis 1st S. 69. At the request of the 1st Principal, the ceremony was most excellently worked by Comp. G. W. Wheeler Z. 73, who also afterwards exalted into the Royal Arch degree Bro. W. Simpson S.W. of the Neptune Lodge 419, for which the thanks of the Chapter were accorded to him. The 1st Principal presented to the Chapter a new altar and some smaller articles of furniture, for which he received the thanks of the Body.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement, No. 167.—At the Jamaica Coffee House, on Tuesday, the 31st ult., the following were present:—Comps. J. Constable M.E.Z., G. Newman H., J. C. Cox J., John Boyd Treasurer, E. S. Norris Asst. Scribe E., J. Wyer Scribe N., J. W. Berrie P.S. After the minutes of the previous convocation had been confirmed, the M.E.Z. rehearsed the ceremony of exaltation, Comp. A. L. Annett acting as candidate. The first clause of the lecture was worked by Comp. Boyd, assisted by the companions. The election of officers for the ensuing fortnight resulted as follows:—Comps. G. Newman Z., Dr. W. Viner Bedolfe H., J. C. Cox J., J. Wyer N., J. W. Berrie P.S. Comp. G. W. Watson of St. Nicholas Chapter, 155, Scotch Constitution, was elected a member. There were also present H. Darcy, J. Seex, &c.

Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, No. 174.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Monday, the 30th October, at Bro. Seaton's, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C. Present—Bros. P.M. Verry W.M., Horsley S.W., P.M. Appleby J.W., Ellis Secretary, F. Brown S.D., Fraser J.D., Webb I.G. Visitors—Bros. Hogarth, Maidwell, Hillard, Baxter, &c. The following brethren assisted the W.M. in working the sections:—1ST LECTURE—Bros. A. H. Brown, Ellis, Appleby, Ashburner, F. Brown, Horsley, Rudderforth. 2ND LECTURE—Bros. J. Fraser, Rudderforth, Hulett, Webb, Ellis. 3RD LECTURE—Bros. P. Cohen, Wallington, Verry. From the well known capabilities of the above named brethren, we need merely add that the work was done in excellent style, and all present expressed their satisfaction at the way the evening had been spent.

Caveac Chapter, No. 176.—The regular Convocation of this Chapter was held on Saturday, 28th October, at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. Present—Comps. W. S. Wyman Z., G. H. Leeman H., J. B. Sorrell J., C. T. Dovey P.Z., the Father of the Chapter, Comp. F. Walters P.G., 1st Asst. Middlesex P.Z. Treasurer, and several others. The Chapter was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Dr. Charles Browne P.M.D.C. 176 was exalted into R.A. Masonry in a faultless manner. The sum of five guineas was voted from the funds for the purpose of presenting Comp. Wyman with a P.Z. jewel on his retiring from the chair, as a slight recognition of the services rendered by him during his year of office. The Chapter was then closed. Among those present were Comps. S. Pownceby, R. P. Tebb, J. B. Sorrell, &c.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Wednesday, the 1st November, at Mason's Hall, Basinghall-street, E.C. Present—Bros. Staley W.M., Hollands S.W., Fenner J.W., Constable Treasurer, Cohen S.D., Bone J.D., Saver I.G., Christopher Tyler, Turquand P.M. Preceptor, and Bros. Rudderforth, Pitt, &c. Business—The 1st section of the first Lecture was worked by Bros. Turquand and Walker, and the 2nd and 3rd sections by Bro. Turquand and the brethren. Bros. B. P. Jesse 1556, Gillard 761, and Abell jun. were elected members. A vote of thanks was recorded in favour of Bro. Staley, who, since his initiation into the Order, which event took place so lately as March of the present year, has been a most careful and persevering student in Masonry, and the fact that he has by his industry thus rendered himself competent to fulfil the duties of the chair in so satisfactory a manner, was evidenced by the cordial way in which the proposition was received. The S.W., Bro. Hollands, was elected to fill the chair at the next meeting.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting on Saturday, the 28th of October, at Bro. Fysh's, Jolly Farmer's, Southgate-road, Islington. Present—Bros. Tolmie W.M., Sadler S.W., Pearcy J.W., Killick Secretary, Halford Treasurer, Trewinnard I.G. P.M.'s Bros. Beckett, Moss, Musto, and several others. Visitors—Bros. F. W. Wilkins W.M. 1445, Hanes P.M. 917, Legge W.M. 861, Saunders 177, W. Dance 754, Cusworth 813, F. S. Holness 1471, Diggens 534, and Haselden 534. Business—Lodge opened and minutes of previous meeting confirmed. The Fifteen Sections were worked by Bros. F. W. Wilkins, I. P. Cohen, Trewinnard, Ockenden, Beckett, Moss, and Legge; those of the 2nd Lecture by Bros. Stock, Musto, Pearcy, Sadler, and Burr; and the 3rd Lecture by Bros. Cohen, Legge, and Stock. Votes of thanks were unanimously accorded the W.M. and those brethren who had assisted. Bros. Hanes 917, Legge 861, Dance 754, Holness 1471, Cusworth 813, Diggens 534, and Haselden 534 were elected joining members. This was a very successful meeting, there being nearly fifty brethren present, and the manner in which the sections were worked is deserving of the highest praise. Next Saturday the ceremony of installation will be rehearsed, by Bro. J. L. Mather P.M.

Zetland Lodge, No. 511.—The installation meeting took place on Wednesday, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Bros. W. J. Russell W.M., H. Whittick S.W., S. Elborn J.W., Barfield P.M. Treasurer, G. Read P.M. Secretary, J. Ave S.D., R. Ward I.G. P.M.'s H. S. Cooper, Pardoe, Birch, J. Hurstead, Barfield, Game, Schofield, &c. The Lodge was opened with the customary preliminaries. Bro. Little No. 312 was elected a joining member. Bros. Pridham and Laxton were passed to the 2nd degree, and Messrs. J. Gawith, S. J. Gordon, and J. Metcalf were initiated. A Board of Installed Masters was formed. Bro. Whittick S.W. and W.M. elect was then duly installed into the chair by Bro. G. Read P.M. in a perfect and impressive manner, Bro. Cooper ably giving the addresses. The newly installed W.M. then invested his officers, W. J. Russell I.P.M., Elborn S.W., Avery J.W., A. Barfield P.M. Treasurer, G. Read P.M. Secretary, Wehlen S.D., Ward J.D., Williams I.G., Schofield P.M. D.C., Cooper P.M. Assist. D.C., Cole W.S., Blum Assist. W.S., Radford Tyler. These appointments gave great satisfaction. The report of the audit committee was read and adopted. It was recommended that on account of the increase of members it was prudent to raise the initiation fee from 10 to 12 guineas; and the joining fee to six guineas. That the sum of £10 be given to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, 10 guineas to the Girls' School, and 10 guineas to the Boys' School, which will constitute the Lodge Vice-President to each of these Charities. It was then asked if any Brother would consent to act as Steward for either of the Institutions, if so the amount named should be placed on his list. The balance in favour of the Lodge was returned as £82 14s 3d, and the Benevolent Fund had a balance of £38 4s 7d. The W.M then presented Bro. Russell I.P.M. with a very elegant P.M.'s jewel. This having been suitably acknowledged, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren sat down to one of those banquets for which Bro. Clemow is celebrated, and which, under the superintendence of Bro. W. Smith, was all that could be desired. The W.M., after grace had been said, proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. In speaking to that of the initiates, he said every Lodge was proud to have them. Bro. Cooper P.M. then sang the E.A. Song. This toast having been responded to, the W.M. gave that of the Visitors. Bro. Worthington P.M. returned thanks. Bro. Russell I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M. They had seen how ably he had performed the duties of the evening. The W.M. returned thanks, and proposed the toast of the "Past Masters," characterising them not only as good working Masons, but as a credit to the Lodge. Bro. Russell replied. He was followed by Bro. Bayfield, who spoke of what the Lodge had accomplished. Bro. Cooper, the founder of the Lodge, said his aim was always the good of the brethren. He was proud of his Lodge, and he hoped in his declining years, to see it prosper (cheers). Bro. Read, in speaking of the Benevolent Fund, said he was its promoter, and the report read to-night showed they had the interest of the charities at heart. If ever they had to curtail expenses, it would be better to give up a banquet than let the Charities suffer. The toast of "The Officers" was followed by that of "The Tyler," and the brethren separated.

Among the Visitors were Bros. J. S. Selven 419, Millis P.M. 157, Upton 62, W. C. Parsons P.M., 180, Markland 144, Hemet 231, Gumpel 1251, J. Willing jun. P.M. 1507, Buscall 177, T. Pinn 860, G. Ward 144, Barleton 860, Gumperts 172, H. J. Easey 1507, Moss 212, Worthington P.M. Ranelagh, H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Ranelagh Lodge of Instruction, No. 834.—The annual banquet of the above took place at Bro. Millis's, Bell and Anchor Hotel, Hammersmith-road, on Friday, 27th October. Bro. G. Reed P.M. 511 in the chair, supported by some eminent brethren, amongst whom we noticed P.M.'s Worthington, Bryett, Thompson, &c. After full justice had been done to an excellent banquet, the chairman gave the usual loyal toasts. In proposing success to the Ranelagh Lodge of Instruction, he said that its prosperity was mainly due to the labours of their hard working and zealous Secretary. To him it was a pleasure to promote the interest of the Lodge and its members. The Secretary, Bro. Alais P.M. 834, said that, as the Lodge had been removed to new quarters, he had no doubt the change would be beneficial, as they had more accommodation to hold their meetings. The health of the Preceptor, Treasurer, and the P.M.'s, was enthusiastically drunk. Some excellent songs and music were rendered by the Organist of the Parent Lodge, Bro. Oliver, and Bros. Smith and Stiles, and the brethren separated, well satisfied with their new premises and the good things so amply provided.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting of this Lodge took place at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 31st Oct. Present—Bros. Hogarth W.M., Weige S.W., Johnson, J.W., J. W. Smith S.D., Davies J.D., Worsley Sec. and P. M. Wallington Preceptor; also Bros. Dallas, Turquand, Watkins, Cambridge, Hewlett, Gilchrist, Wright, Defries, Bilbee, Baber, &c. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Defries acting as candidate. Bro. Hewlett worked the first and second sections of the lecture, and Bro. Turquand the third and fourth, assisted by the brethren. Two new members were added to the list—viz.: Bro. Bilbee of 395, and Baber of 1426. This was the first time Bro. Hogarth ever took the chair in a Lodge; it was pleasing to hear him do the ceremony so admirably, and a unanimous vote of thanks was ordered to be placed on the minutes. Bro. Weige was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. The Lodge was closed in perfect harmony, and adjourned till Tuesday, 6th November.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—The weekly meeting of this rising Lodge was held at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday evening last, at 8 o'clock. Bros. A. W. Fenner W.M., Hirsch S.W., Keyes J.W., Cleverley S.D., Pearcey J.D., Lane I.G., Townshend Secretary, Gross Preceptor. The following were also present:—Bros. Bolton, Barnett, Hobson, Oldroyd, &c. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremonies of initiation and passing, Bros. Oldroyd and Barnett being candidates, after which the Lodge was closed down in due form. We have seldom seen the ceremonies more correctly performed by so young a Mason as the W.M. This reflects credit on the teaching of Bro. Gross, Preceptor of this Lodge.

Burdett Coutts Lodge of Instruction.—A very strong muster of the brethren of this Lodge of Instruction took place at the Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, on Friday, the 27th ult., to assist in working the fifteen sections, Bros. Barnes S.W., Berry J.W., and Verry Preceptor, bringing up their friends in full force. The sections were admirably worked by the brethren who assisted the W.M., and scarcely any dictation was required during the entire evening. On the motion of Bro. P. M. Mortlock, a vote of thanks was unanimously carried, to be recorded on the minutes, to Bros. Barnes, Berry, Verry, and those who had assisted during the evening. The Lodge was closed early for such an occasion, and after spending a very instructive evening, the meeting was adjourned. The Lodge of Instruction meets every Friday evening, at eight o'clock, under the Preceptorship of Bro. W. Verry, with whom all the East-end brethren are well acquainted. Any brother wishing to study the ceremony and Lectures cannot do better than attend here.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction.—The usual weekly meeting was held at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street W., on Thursday the 2nd inst. Present—Bros. F. J. Wray W.M., Stewart S.W., G. Davis J.W., T. O. Davis, Docker, Bentley, Mander Preceptor, T. Cull Secretary, Taylor, Farwig, Blundell, Belfrage, Collins, and Neighbour. The Lodge was opened, minutes confirmed, and ceremony of initiation rehearsed, Bro. Taylor acting as candidate. The 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th sections were then worked by the brethren. Bro. Taylor 902 was elected a joining member. Bro. A. Stewart S.W. chosen W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to the W.M. for carrying out the duties of the chair so efficiently, for the first time in this Lodge. It was unanimously resolved that the Fifteen Sections be worked by Bros. Dutton, Wray, Swallow, Davis, Belfrage, Bentley, Farwig, Harrison, Watts, Saul, Stewart, Boehr, Taylor, Neighbour, and Collins, on Thursday, 30th November, and that the Secretary, Bro. T. Cull J.D. 1446 preside on that occasion.

CHINESE CARVING.—For Sale, an elaborately carved set of Ivory Chessmen. The Kings stand 8½ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Knights and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with concentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican.—Advt.

CONSECRATION OF THE UNITY LODGE, NO. 1637.

OUR brethren met on Saturday the 28th ult., at the De Burgh Hotel, West Drayton, Bro. Jas. Terry, P.G.D.C. Herts, being the officer appointed to perform the ceremony. Precisely at the hour named he took the chair. The Wardens pro tem being Bros. T. A. Adams P.G.P. and S. Foxall A.G.P., while Bro. C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. acted as D.C. The ceremony was performed with Bro. Terry's customary ability. A Board of Installed Masters, which numbered 20, was then formed, and Bro. E. C. Woodward, P.M. 382, W.M. Designate, was installed into the chair. He invested his officers: Bros. F. H. Varley 33 S.W., A. Hendricks 1238 J.W., W. Coombes P.M. 382, P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex, Secretary, W. Stephens P.M. 1365 S.D., C. J. Davis W.M. 382 J.D., T. W. Cooper 538 I.G., W. Smith 33 P.G.S., D. C. Grist Assist. D.C., S. A. Cooper 382 Steward, G. Stacey P.M. 382 Organist, and Longstaff Tyler. At the conclusion of the ceremonies Bro. Terry was warmly and deservedly congratulated by all present, and a vote of thanks and honorary membership unanimously accorded him. Several propositions for joining were handed in. Votes of thanks and honorary membership were passed to Bros. Adams, Foxall, and Cottebrune for their services. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. G. Hine.

The W.M. announced that he had just received a telegram from the R.W. Prov. G.M. Col. Burdett, from Dieppe, regretting his absence, and that he drank the health of the W.M. and officers. This announcement was received with enthusiasm, and the brethren drank their P.G.M.'s health with three cheers, wishing him health and long life. The W.M. also sent the following telegram:—"Message received. The brethren reciprocate your good wishes, and drink your health." The first toast, "The Queen and the Craft," was given, and the national anthem sung. The Most Worshipful Grand Master's health was drank. Song, by Bro. Thomas, "England Yet." Bros. Cottebrune, Foxall, and Adams, responded for the Grand Officers. Bros. Thomas and Musgrave then sang "The Army and Navy." Bro. Coombes, P.G.S.B. Middlesex, returned thanks for the toast of "The Prov. G.M. and the Officers of the Province." Bro. Jas. Terry then proposed "The Health of the W.M." He spoke of his excellent Masonic qualifications. The W.M. had zealously identified himself with the Charities for four consecutive years, and the brethren might congratulate themselves on their selection; he was an offshoot of a successful Lodge in the Province, and he was sure the Prov. G.M. would be proud of the Unity Lodge and the election of Bro. Woodward as the first Master. (Cheers.) Bros. Delevante and Hambleton played a duet on the violin and pianoforte. The W.M. thanked Bro. Terry for his kind expressions. It was a great pleasure to him to preside at the first banquet. He informed the brethren the Lodge furniture was paid for, and they were free from debt. (Cheers.) They were deeply indebted to Bro. Terry, the indefatigable Secretary of one of our noble Institutions. He then said he would qualify himself as a Life Governor, and would represent the Lodge as Steward. He was sure the brethren would liberally support him, and before his year of office had expired he hoped to become a Vice-Patron. (Cheers.)

The W.M. next proposed the toast of "The Consecrating Officer," to which Bro. Terry responded. Bro. Musgrave sang "Hearts of Oak." The toast of "The Masters and Wardens of the Recommending Lodge," was given and responded to by Bros. C. J. Davis W.M. 382, and W. Smith P.G.S. Bros. Delevante and Hambleton sang "The Moon has raised her lamp on high." The Wardens, Officers, and Tyler's toasts concluded a very agreeable meeting. The elegant consecrating vessels were lent for the occasion by Bro. Sir Albert Woods G.D.C., (Garter), and were in charge of Bro. C. B. Payne G.T. The musical arrangements were all that could be desired.

THIRSK FALCON LODGE, ARCHÆOLOGICAL SECTION, No. 1416.

By special invitation the members, on Saturday last, visited the ancient mansion of New Building, the property of Bro. Charles Elsley, Esq., J.P., who received the party most hospitably, and showed its many points of interest. It was formerly styled Kirby Knowle Castle, and is supposed to have been built by Sir Roger de Lascelles, who died in 1297. It afterwards passed into possession successively of the families of Constable, Danby, Rokeby, Buxton, and Smyth, names many of them associated with our county history. In 1827 it was sold to Colonel Elsley, of Mount St. John, whence it came eventually into the hands of the late Recorder of York and Richmond, whose son succeeded to it. The greater part of the castle was destroyed by fire in 1568, and of the four towers of which it previously consisted, only one remained entire. In 1653, then being in a ruinous condition, it was purchased by James Danby, of York, who repaired and partially rebuilt it, giving it the name of New Building, which it has since retained. Much of the old mansion had fallen into neglect and dilapidation, but the whole has recently been renovated and extensive alterations made.

Some of the remnants of the old mansion are very interesting, especially a small secret room in the eastern wall, narrow ways which fulfilled their purpose in the old castle, and the extensive vaults, arched with stone, whence a subterraneous passage leads, tradition says, so far as Upsall. Elevated on a lofty eminence, the mansion or castle commands a magnificent prospect over the whole vale of Mowbray, bounded by the hills of Craven and Wensleydale, and extending from Darlington to York, the towers of whose Minster on a clear day are distinctly visible.

ZEAL AND ITS REWARD.

WE are always pleased when we hear of meritorious service being recognised and rewarded. The most recent cases in which this has happened are those of the Secretaries of our three Charitable Institutions. Considering the nature and extent of the duties which these gentlemen have to perform, the very handsome additions which have been made this year to their respective salaries must be set down as a perfectly just reward for their zeal and the signal ability they have shown. It is no child's play, as our readers are aware, to be Secretary to either of our Charities. There are, in the first place, the secretarial duties, pure and simple. These by themselves are a good day's work all the year round for even a Zealous Officer. They may, to a certain extent, be said to tax the strength even of Our Hercules, and no reasonable man will deny that their accomplishment within the stated official hours must, at sundry seasons of the year, puzzle even the metaphysical ingenuity of The Mystic. Then there are the still more onerous responsibilities connected with the annual provision of the funds necessary to the effective maintenance of the Charities. The Stewards who annually undertake the somewhat unenviable task of raising subscriptions are, in the main, a zealous and energetic body of brethren, but it is the Secretary of the Institution for which they labour, on whom rests the responsibility of directing and encouraging them in their efforts. Just as an army of trained and willing soldiers, well officered though it may be, both regimentally and divisionally, is of little use for active warfare without a general; so individual craftsmen may be charitably disposed, Lodges may be ruled by efficient officers, provinces may be well organised and directed, and there may be a well-trained and zealous staff of Stewards, but without a Secretary to advise, encourage, and occasionally, it may be, restrain, the efforts of these divisions, regiments, and individuals will fall short of our just expectations. The result in each case will, of course, be, that the funds of this or that institution must suffer very materially. There is a falling off in the contributions. Provinces lie fallow which would be only too glad to render help, while others are overtaxed. We look to the Stewards for an active canvass, zealously and ably conducted; but their efforts are necessarily confined to their respective districts. We expect the Secretaries to establish a sort of co-operative movement among the Stewards, so that their work may be conducted hand in hand, in honourable emulation instead of in disorganised rivalry. This duty our Secretaries fulfil, by traversing the Provinces far and near, visiting the different Lodges in each, and pleading—we all know how earnestly—the cause of Charity. They gather fresh experience at each visit; they know exactly how the pulses, even of individual Craftsmen beat, whether slowly and faintly, or rapidly and feverishly. And their advice, whether a district should be canvassed or left fallow, so as to put forth increased strength another season, is necessary, or the annual festivals bring forth less instead of more fruit. But all this hurrying to and fro, week by week, and oftentimes every day of the week, must be very trying even to the hardiest constitution. All this pleading and speech-making, the iteration of the same ideas, not unfrequently in the very same words, involves a tremendous wear and tear of the mental energy, so that these worthy labourers in a worthy field, have very little time left them for the enjoyment of rest and comfort in the bosom of their families. As we said in a former article, they have once a week a day of rest, and are then mostly too worn out to enjoy it. And in addition to all this official work, and the work of travelling, each has to take a leading part in the conduct of the Institution to which he is attached. He is, in fact, the executive body—as well as the official and locomotive body—which keeps all the elaborate machinery in perfect working order. The Committees meet and suggest, take counsel among themselves and issue orders, but it is the Secretary with whom rests the responsibility of advising the Committees, and seeing their instructions carried out. Thus is there, as it were, in the case of the Secretary of each of our charities, a Triple Alliance of duty—the official, the locomotive, and the executive—either of which is enough to occupy one ordinary man's time and strength. Happily, however, our Institutions are blessed with Secretaries of the toughest and truest material of which man is composed. Happily, too, the Committees of these Institutions are wise enough to recognise that this zeal and this ability are worthy of being handsomely remunerated. Hence the additional salaries recently granted to these officers, additions which no true Craftsman will grudge them, and on which we take this opportunity of offering them our very hearty congratulations.

MASONIC PORTRAITS. (No. 36.)

THE TREASURER.

"He that is thy friend indeed,
He will help thee in thy need:
If thou sorrow, he will weep;
If thou wake, he cannot sleep;
Thus, of every grief in heart,
He with thee doth bear a part.
These are certain signs to know
Faithful friend from flattering foe."

THE simple record of a man's achievements speaks more eloquently in his favour than the most elaborately-finished biography. Englishmen, especially, are averse from anything like fulsome adulation. Indeed, to overpraise one who has earned for himself some distinction, or has merely fulfilled his appointed duty admirably is, to return evil for good. The flattery too often brings with it an endless amount of ridicule. Therefore is it that, in all these various Masonic Portraits, we have, let the plain unvarnished tale of each man's services speak for itself. We feel certain our readers will appreciate them all the more, the more accurately they reproduce the originals.

It is long since the subject of our present sketch became a Mason. The year, indeed, in which that auspicious event took place is memorable in the annals of the United Kingdom as the year of the first Reform Bill. It may well be that one of so kindly a temperament, having daily evidence of the bitterness which signalised the political contention of that epoch, wished to seek admission into Freemasonry, where all such discussion is absolutely forbidden. This, of course, is only a conjecture of ours, and must be taken for what it is worth. At all events, our esteemed friend was initiated in the Honour and Generosity Lodge, then No. 274, now No. 165, on the 16th February 1832. Having, in the meantime, served the offices of Deacon and Warden, he was elected to fill the Master's chair in 1834. In this year likewise he joined the Royal York Lodge of Perseverance, No. 7, has continued ever since an active member of that body, and is, in fact, at the present time the Father of the Lodge. Here, again, he quickly ingratiated himself with his fellow-members, and was chosen Master in 1853. For nearly twenty years he held the important office of Director of Ceremonies, and since his resignation of that post he has held the even more responsible trust of Treasurer, a trust he still continues to fulfil with the same zeal and firmness as at his first appointment. As evidence of the thorough esteem in which our brother is, and always has been, held by the members of his Lodge, we announce with pleasure that on two different occasions have they recognised the value of his services. On the 17th January 1855, a testimonial was presented to him in open Lodge, in the presence not only of a large gathering of the Lodge members, but likewise before a strong muster of visitors, among whom was present more than one member of Grand Lodge. This testimonial took the form of a resolution, written ornamentally on vellum, signed by every member of the Lodge, and elegantly bound by the late Bro. R. Spencer, and was presented by the officers and members "as a mark of our appreciation of, and gratitude for, the able and zealous manner in which he has at all times promoted the interest and sustained the character of the Lodge, for the period of twenty years during which he has been a member, and in token of our esteem and regard for him as a man and brother, accompanied by our sincere wishes for the prosperity and happiness of himself and family." Again, in 1868, he was for a second time the recipient of a testimonial, which in this instance, however, took the form of a handsome drawing-room clock and a gold Treasurer's jewel, with gold keys and padlock. Our present Grand Secretary was W.M. of the Lodge, and presided on the occasion. In the course of his remarks that distinguished brother mentioned that the Past Master and Treasurer, to whom these grata munera were about to be offered, had been a member of the Lodge for thirty-four years, had served the offices of W.M. and D.C., the latter of which he had filled for over seventeen years; that he was then, and for the nine preceding years had been, its Treasurer; that he had served the office of Steward to each of the Charities. He further enumerated other positions of trust or honour to which he had been appointed, either in recognition of the able services he had shown himself capable of rendering to Freemasonry, or as a mark of the respect in which he was universally held. The Master concluded his speech by handing our friend the testimonial, and proposing his health, a proposal which was greeted on all sides with the greatest enthusiasm.

Nor are these the only Lodges with which our brother has been connected, or No. 7 the only one which has duly appreciated his many good qualities. In 1855 he joined the Romford Lodge, No. 214, and here, too, served the office of Treasurer for many years. On surrendering the trust, he was presented by the members with a handsome silver teapot. He filled the office of Assistant Grand Director of Ceremonies in the Province of Essex, in the year 1857, and is a member of the Lodge of Good Fellowship, No. 276, at Chelmsford. For over twenty years he has belonged to St. John's Lodge, Hampstead, No. 167, and during the whole of that period has been Director of Ceremonies, with the duties of which post he is, perhaps, as familiar as any Craftsman. So highly, indeed, have his services in this capacity been regarded, that when the foundation stone of the New Buildings in Great Queen-street was laid, we find him appointed, at the special request of Bro. Jennings, G.D.C., to be one of the Assistant Directors of Ceremonies, or Special Stewards, for the occasion. And, again, at the Festival held to commemorate the opening of the new premises, our respected brother was one of the very limited number of brethren selected to fill the office of Steward; and for his services at this festival he wears the only silver jewel worn in Craft Masonry, designed and executed by Wyon of Regent-street. In completing the list of the different Masonic bodies of which he has been, or still is, a member, it remains for us to add that he was exalted in the Fidelity Chapter, No. 3, in 1834. He joined the Romford Chapter, No. 214, on the register of whose members he stands third in order of seniority, in 1856, was M.E.Z. in 1858, and is, for the current year, its Director of Ceremonies.

Thus much for his services in Lodge and Chapter. As regards the Craft generally, we may mention that he has been several times appointed to serve on the Board of General Purposes, has been a member of the Colonial Board, and for many years was one of the twelve Past Masters elected by Grand Lodge to serve on the Board of Benevolence.

His zeal in the cause of our Charities has been equally conspicuous. As far back as the year 1839 he served the office of Steward to the Freemasons' Asylum. In 1861 he filled the same office to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution—as it had then become. He aided the cause of the Girls' School in a like capacity in 1859, while for the Boys' School he has served no less than six Stewardships, namely, in the years 1853, 1868, 1870, 1872, 1875 and 1876. On the last occasion his subscription list realised over fifty guineas, in addition to his own personal contribution, and he was appointed honorary Treasurer of the Board of Stewards. He has been on the Committee of the Royal Benevolent, and is a Life Governor of the Girls', as well as a Vice-President to the Boys', having also made each of his sons a Life Governor of the last mentioned Charity.

Such is the history of our worthy brother's career during a connection with the Craft extending over very little short of five and forty years, and we venture to say that very few members of equal standing can point to a worthier Masonic record. It must be to him a subject of perfectly legitimate pride when he traces back the doings of his past career, and finds that while during the whole of that lengthened period of time he has earned for himself the love and respect of all those fellow-craftsmen with whom he has been directly associated, as well as of very many more to whom he is known only by reputation, he has not made to himself a single enemy. Few men, perhaps, are better calculated to shine in a Lodge of Freemasons. He is genial and chatty, can recal many a pleasant anecdote of worthy men who were bright ornaments of the Craft in the days that are gone by. In the fulfilment of his duties he is the personification of zeal itself. During the forty-three years he has been a member of the Royal York Lodge of Perseverance, he has not been absent three times from its meetings. He has regularly attended Grand Lodge since the year 1833, and Grand Chapter—of the Committee of which he is, and has been for many years past, an active member—ever since his position in Royal Arch Masonry entitled him to a seat in that body. That such long and valuable services should not have won for him the crowning distinction of "the purple" is a mystery we shall not attempt to solve. It is probable that in his heart of hearts our worthy brother feels he is fairly entitled to such distinction; and possibly he regrets—he must be more than human, indeed, if he does not regret—that Grand Lodge has not thought fit to confer upon him one of those coveted honours, which many a younger man has long since enjoyed. His feelings, however, in a matter of this kind are sacred, and we have only ventured on the foregoing surmise because it seems to us that, in the distribution of its honours, Grand Lodge is not as attentive to the claims of unpretentious merit as it should be. We are wandering, however, from the main purpose of our article, which has been to picture to our readers the career of a meritorious Craftsman, who has been again and again tried in this and that position of honour and responsibility, and has never once been found wanting. We have described his career almost step by step, and have chronicled the several positions he has filled with so much credit to himself and so great advantage to Freemasonry. Others there are like him, we rejoice to say, who have fought the good fight as manfully as he has done, though it must be admitted that few indeed, if any, have more highly or honourably distinguished themselves. Our hope is that, in the ages to come, all Freemasons may work with the same earnest zeal, the same kindly consideration for others, and the same high tone of thought and action as one whom, with every sentiment of respect, we venture to designate an Ancient Craftsman.

Miss Emily Mott's fourth Annual Concert will take place on the 24th inst., when this talented lady will have the services of Madame Blanche Cole, Mr. W. H. Cummings, and other well known artistes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—The seeds of disease are often unconsciously sown by some neglect of those precautions which are so necessary in this changeable climate of ours; the earliest symptoms of deranged health are often neglected, and hence another great source of after consequences of a serious character arise. Amongst the precautions most necessary at the change of the seasons is that of attention to the clothing, and to the advent of any cold or throat disorder, which should at once be treated by these remedies, which will quickly remove all chance of their taking hold of the system and producing consumptive symptoms. A few doses of these Pills are the best remedy for all hepatic and dyspeptic symptoms.

THE PRETENDED DORMANCY OF THE AFRICAN LODGE.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As your article on Coloured Masonry, of 21st August, attracted attention, and a desire for more light upon the subject, I am pleased therefore at having anticipated the desire of your correspondent "Q." (see page 196), and shall now proceed to furnish full evidence of the continued activity of the African Lodge between 1807 and 1824, the period of its alleged dormancy.

But I must first state that this alleged dormancy was deduced in 1870 by Bro. W. S. Gardner from a document issued by the African Lodge in 1827, signed by John T. Hilton W.M., Thomas Dalton S.W., Lewis York J.W., and J. H. Purron Sec., and the deduction was made from the following words:—

"In consequence of the decease of the above-named Bro. [Prince Hall] the institution was for years unable to proceed, for the want of one to conduct its affairs agreeably to what is required in every regular and well-educated Lodge."

"Unable to proceed." Bro. Gardner construed into dormancy. In reality, however, Hilton simply meant to say that the institution could not progress, or go onward, or "go ahead," as we say in America. That is all that Hilton and the other signers meant to convey by "unable to proceed." Had Bro. Gardner, in his address in 1870, given his authority for his dormancy theory, I would probably have noticed it, and disproved it in my review of the said address; but Bro. G. referred to it merely as follows:—"Under the direction of Prince Hall the Lodge prospered; but after his death, which occurred 4th Dec. 1807, it became dormant, and ceased to have any actual existence." This was all that Bro. Gardner said, and it somehow escaped my attention in 1871, when I reviewed the said address.

When my attention was called to the subject of dormancy last winter, by "The Voice of Masonry," I called upon Bro. Hayden P.G.M. of Prince Hall G.L.; and he reasoned with me thus: First, said he, "In 1869 we possessed original records of the first quarter of this century, which records Bro. John T. Heard P.G.M. of the G.L. of Massachusetts then examined; and if the Lodge had been dormant, he would have noticed it." And, second, he, Bro. Hayden, belonged to the African Lodge over thirty years, but never heard about its dormancy. Unfortunately, the records were burnt with the Prince Hall Temple in 1869, and this mishap deprived us of the testimony which the records would have supplied. I next requested Hayden to obtain, if possible, some documents of the period, such as certificates of deceased members, or other scraps written during the period of the alleged dormancy of the Lodge. Bro. Hayden then showed me "The Massachusetts Register," an annual, containing the names of various societies in Boston, among which it gave all the Boston Masonic Lodges, Chapters, &c. The African Lodge appeared regularly in the said publication from 1797 to 1813. It is highly probable that the omission of the African Lodge from the said Register, after the above year, was due to the influence of a white brother who may have been connected with the said publication. The white Masons' festitutions were dropped from the Register after 1819. As the white Masons continued to meet after 1819, the coloured brethren doubtless also continued their meetings after 1813.

I next questioned Bro. Gardner about his authority for the alleged dormancy of the coloured Lodge. He told me that he got the information "from somewhere," and that he would hunt it up in about a week. I had no doubt that Bro. Gardner got it somewhere, but I assured him that he made a mistake, and gave him my reasons for my belief. I did call next week, and next, upon Bro. Gardner, and on my fourth call Bro. Gardner said, "I have searched everywhere but could not find it;" but he was sure, he said, that he got it from some of the Proceedings of the Coloured Grand Lodges. In the meantime, I learned, from a member of the African Lodge, that an old member of his Lodge, who lived in New Hampshire was in possession of an old Record, that the possessor would not part with it, and that I would have to go to New Hampshire to see it. I, however, urged my informant to do his best and get the Record brought to Boston. A few days afterwards I once more called upon Bro. Gardner, and informed him that I had at last discovered his authority about the dormancy theory, in Bro. MacCalla's article in the "Voice of Masonry," and when I explained to him, the true definition of the word "proceed," my friend seemed to enjoy a hearty laugh at his own blunder. Soon after this conversation I visited England.

About two or three weeks after my return from Europe the aforesaid Record was handed to me. But before I proceed to describe it, I will state, though at the risk of being considered egotistical and tedious, that I examined the earliest Record of the G.L. of England in 1869; but as Bro. John T. Heard saw the same Record in 1870, and reported here that it was not an original one, I subsequently re-examined it, and satisfied myself that he was mistaken. In 1869 I examined the Colonial Record of the G.L. in Boston, extending from 1733 to 1792, and within a quarter of an hour, I pronounced that, from 1733 to 1750, the said Provincial Grand Lodge Record was manufactured by Charles Pelham. Indeed, the document was not written before 1751 or 1752. The Record of St. John's Lodge, Boston, extending from 1733 to 1754, I demonstrated to have been compiled by the said Bro. Pelham from pre-existing memoranda and from hearsay in 1754. I also examined our Boston St. Andrew's Lodge Record from 1760, and am satisfied that it is original from its beginning. The earliest African Lodge Record, still in existence, which begins with the initiation of Prince Hall and others in 1775, I demonstrated to Bro. Lewis Hayden papers was not written before 1784. These, and other documents which I have examined, make me sceptical about the genuineness of early Masonic Records. When, therefore, such a document is submitted to my examination I subject it to every possible test; first, in order to ascertain whether it is original. If I find it not to be so, I endeavour to ascertain whether it is a true transcript of a pre-existing Record, whether it is a compilation, or whether it is a mere manufacture from hearsay.

The African Lodge Record before me indicates age and hard usage; it is a folio, half bound, with paper covers. The pasteboard of the covers peeps through its leather corners, and the colour of its covers is almost effaced by friction; the paper is very coarse, and the lines or rulings are nearly faded away. The Record embraces the period between 1807 and 1846, but I saw at a glance that up to 1826 it is a mere transcript. After which, I am satisfied that its minutes are all original. Up to 1827, the minutes are preceded with "The African Lodge No. 459." In the latter year the Lodge declared its independence, when the minutes began to be headed with "The African Grand Lodge." On the page next to the cover is written, "The Book of Record of the Grand African Lodge, No. 459, Boston, Nov. 25th, A.L. 5825." This itself implies that the book was not obtained before the above date; but I am inclined to think that the above inscription was not written before 1827, or after the independence of the Lodge was declared. The minutes of 1st May 1810 state, that "it was agreed that the Secretary shall receive three dollars to purchase books for the Lodge." This probably refers to one of the two Records which Bro. Heard examined in 1869. The minutes of January 28th, 1822, say, "They found also the books much out of order, and Brothers Low, Moody and Hay were chosen as a committee to revise the Books, and to purchase a Book of Records to keep the proceedings of the Lodge." The committee evidently did not attend to it, for under date of 21st November 1825 (that is, three days previous to the date mentioned on the first page), I find that Bro. John T. Hilton received three dollars to buy a book with, and "to revise the original Records." And under date of 7th July 1826, it is stated that Hilton was paid for revising the Record. After the above date, the original Record begins.

The second paragraph in the Record merely states, "October 7th 1807, Bro. Prince Hall, to whom the charter was granted, Anno Domini 1783, is the presiding officer." After a blank of a few inches, we have as follows:—"November 7th 1807. This day deceased W. Master Prince Hall, and is no more with us." December 28th 1807, the names of the newly-elected officers are recorded, Nero Prince W.M., &c. The remainder of the page was left blank. As the next minutes are dated 14th June 1808, I am inclined to believe that the minutes between the above dates were torn out of the original Record, and hence the blank was left for the purpose of filling it up should the lost sheet be recovered; this supposition was suggested by the fact that the Record of 1784, before referred to, is very much mutilated. The sheets are loose, some of them torn out, and some more or less destroyed. Between the 14th June and the 22nd October we have another blank. At the last named meeting George Middleton was elected W.M., James Nickson and Peter Low Wardens, &c. After this the minutes continue regular. The first work mentioned is 22nd October 1808, when Eri Low, Walter Martin, and John Shorters, were ordered to attend the next meeting, to be raised, and during the period embraced by the transcript about 80 initiations took place in the African Lodge, including three clergymen. In some places the reviser crowded two or three successive meetings into one paragraph. Under date of 5th August 1817 is recorded the death of the W.M. Peter Lew; his funeral cost the Lodge 36 dollars 98 cents. My friend, the city registrar of deaths, births, and marriages, at my request, searched his City Records, which he found to corroborate the date in the African Lodge Record, about the demise of Peter Lew. And I may here add that the said city registrar, who is a P.M., and is Secretary of a Chapter, has carefully examined the African Lodge Record now in my possession, and he fully concurs with my conclusions as above stated.

Again, the brother who procured the Record for my inspection, and who has been a member of the African Lodge over thirty years, assured me of having, some years ago, sorted out a trunkfull of Lodge documents, such as letters, receipts, &c., and bundled and labelled each package, viz., from such to such date; that a large number of those documents were written during the period between 1807 and 1824. And since my second article on the Coloured Question was mailed, Bro. J. T. Heard admitted to me that he saw, in 1869, the African Lodge Records, and that he was sorry to learn about their destruction. He also added, that they were very badly written, and in great confusion, and that Hayden furnished him with a synopsis of the Records, and as the Records were burned, he regretted having returned, afterwards, the synopsis to Hayden.

But I have still other important evidence to disprove the alleged dormancy of the African Lodge. A fortnight ago I heard that Thomas Dalton, who, as S.W., signed the Declaration of the African Lodge Independence in 1827, which document gave rise to the misconstruction of the dormancy theory, was residing in Bunker Hill Street, Charlestown, now part of the City of Boston, and I took the liberty to interview him. Bro. Dalton was born near Boston, but he did not settle here before 1809. Three brothers of the name of Low, all Masons, were Dalton's cousins. Bro. Dalton was intimate with Moody, Howard, and many other names I found in the Record, that were initiated during the alleged dormancy period, many years before his own initiation, which, according to my Record, took place 11th April 1825. The earliest recollection Bro. Dalton has of the African Lodge was the Masonic funeral of one of its members, within three or four years after his settling in Boston. The minutes of my Record, under date 14th June 1813, mentions the death of Bro. John Wilson, and the funeral cost the Lodge 19 dollars and 92 cents. This is probably the very funeral he referred to. He related other reminiscences of conversations about the Lodge among his Masonic friends before his own initiation, and as he had never heard about the dormancy of the Lodge, either before or after he joined it, he naturally declared his utter disbelief in the dormancy theory. At my request, Bro. Dalton visited Bro. David Pulsifer, a white brother, a gentleman well known and highly esteemed in Boston. Bro. Pulsifer also interrogated Bro. Dalton, the result of all which the following affidavit will make more clear:—

"Whereas, I was recently informed, that in the Proceedings of Masonic American Grand Lodges, and in Masonic journals in this country, a statement is circulated that the African Lodge in Boston, originally No. 459 on the Register of the Grand Lodge of England, had been dormant between the years 1807 and 1824.

"Therefore I, Thomas Dalton, residing in that part of Boston called Charlestown, being eighty-three years of age, and having been initiated in the said African Lodge in the year eighteen hundred and twenty-five, do hereby declare, to the best of my knowledge and belief, that the aforesaid statement about the dormancy of the African Lodge is without foundation and false, for the following reasons:—

"First. I was intimately acquainted with all the old members of the said Lodge, and often heard them converse about the then existing African Lodge years before I joined it. Subsequent to my initiation, I took an interest in the affairs of the Lodge, and frequently associated and conversed with the said brethren, and often heard them relate some of their old Masonic reminiscences, but I never heard that the Lodge had ever ceased holding its meetings regularly, until I was informed, the other day, about the reports circulated to that effect in the Proceedings of Grand Lodges of White Masons.

"And, second. I was keeper of the archives of the African Lodge, and, to the best of my knowledge and belief, I had in my possession the African Lodge Records covering the period of its alleged dormancy. I therefore once more repeat my conscientious belief that the statement about the dormancy of the African Lodge is totally false.

"Thos. Dalton."

"Suffolk s.s., October 10th. Then personally appeared Thomas Dalton, and made oath that the above statements, made and signed by him, are true, according to his best knowledge and belief.

"Edward S. Davis, Jus. Pac. Essex."

I must add that Bro. Dalton bears an unexceptionable character for uprightness: that Mr. Davis, who certified Dalton's affidavit, is an ex-mayor of the thriving town of Lynn, Massachusetts; and that the newly-recovered African Lodge Record exploded the notion hitherto prevailing among the coloured brethren—viz., that their Lodge declared its independence in 1808, and that it chartered at the same time two Lodges in other States. The Record before me does not furnish the slightest evidence in support of that notion, but, on the contrary, the proof is overwhelming that no charter was granted by the said Lodge before its declaration of independence; and then, 1827, it chartered only "Harmony Lodge," in Providence, Rhode Island, and no other Lodge was chartered by the African Lodge during the period covered by my Record. As I believe that further proof in support of the fact of the continued activity of the African Lodge between 1807 and 1824 to be at present unnecessary, I conclude, with fraternal greetings,

Yours respectfully,

JACOB NORTON.

Boston, 21st October 1876.

Office of the City Registrar, Boston,
18th October 1876.

DEAR BRO. NORTON,—I have examined, with considerable interest, what purports to be a Record of the Proceedings of the African Lodge in Boston, from the year 1807 to 1846. That that portion of the minutes, from the first named year to 1826, is a genuine transcript of the original Record there is no reason, I think, to doubt, and I feel equally certain that the subsequent portion, from 1826 to 1846, is the original Record itself. Indeed, the evidences of the authenticity of this Record are so obvious, it se ms to me that one would have to shut his eyes in order not to see them.

That you may be successful in exposing error, by diffusing light and knowledge on the genuine principles of Masonry, is the sincerest wish of,

Yours fraternally,

N. A. APOLLONIO,
P.M. of St. Paul's and Adelphi Lodges.

NEWS FROM THE ORIENT.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your journal being regarded as the faithful exponent of true Masonic principles,—containing literary articles of no ordinary standard, as well as most interesting news concerning the operations of the Ancient Fraternity in all parts of the globe,—has, I believe, found a highly appreciative circle of readers on this side of India, and also, no doubt, in other parts of the East. I am, therefore, induced to send you some scraps of intelligence from this active centre of Freemasonry, and, should they prove acceptable, you may hear from me again.

Brethren at home can at best but form a very imperfect idea of the great and good influence which Freemasonry is exercising in this land. The progress it has made for some years past is undoubtedly to be chiefly attributed to the noble and untiring energies of two of the most highly esteemed members of society in Bombay, in their respective spheres of life, who at present preside over the destinies of the Provincial Craft.

For many years Scottish Freemasonry, under the ægis of the late Sir James Barnes, K.H., Physician-General of Bombay, monopolized the post of honour in the Western Presidency, and, with one exception, until recently, the whole of the Lodges were working under charters obtained from the Grand Lodge of Scotland. The exception to which I refer was Lodge "Orion in the West," established in Poona many years ago (I forget the exact date), but I know that in 1815 it had collapsed. I am glad, however, to note that it has for some time been resuscitated, and is now in a prosperous condition, being worked with undoubted ability. I may, in passing, refer to the establishment of another Lodge, which had but an evanescent existence, called "Olive Branch in the East," which faded away without leaving its mark behind, owing to its exclusive, and, consequently, un-Masonic character.

Lodge "St. George" was the first English Craft Lodge that established itself during the last half-century in Bombay, and amidst all the fluctuations and vicissitudes to which all mundane institutions are subject, it is now doing well.*

As the restrictions of the old East India Company were removed, its prestige supplanted, and the guardianship of India assumed by the Imperial Government, so the beneficent influence of the Craft extended, and Lodges, Chapters, and Encampments, as well as those of the "Hautes Grades," under warrants from the English and Scottish Grand Lodges and Councils alike, have gradually increased in number and influence, and the "Good Cause," at the present time, is now in so flourishing a condition that it augurs well for the future of Freemasonry in this vast Eastern Empire.

As I have already remarked, this most satisfactory result is almost entirely owing to the ability and vigour which characterise the chiefs of the Craft in Western India. The present M.W. Grand Master of all Scottish Freemasonry in India, Bro. Captain Henry Morland, is indefatigable in his exertions to promote, extend, and keep pure the Craft. He is foremost in every good work, unceasing in his attention to the duties of his exalted office, and untiring in his efforts to strengthen and maintain the Ancient Landmarks. His constant visitations to the "Daughter" Lodges under his control, and the vigilant supervision exercised by him, have a most healthy and invigorating influence, which is felt by all. He is, fortunately, most ably supported by his Deputy and Substitute Grand Masters, R.W. Bros. Macintosh Balfour and K. R. Cama. The former gentleman, possessed of the best qualities which ornament the genuine Craftsman, blending the genial graces of the "scion of a worthy sire" with a thorough practical knowledge of the working of the Craft, from the installation to the first degree, one and all of which he works admirably.

R.W. K. R. Cama, Substitute Grand Master, an honoured member of our learned societies, and a most erudite Oriental scholar, deservedly holds the next distinguished position in the Scottish Grand Lodge of India. Belonging to one of the most ancient families of the Zoroastrian community, he is held in the highest respect and esteem, not only by his fellow countrymen, but by all those savans of European and Oriental fame, who, like himself, have devoted their time and talents to the education of the lore and languages of Eastern nations. Regarded as a "Model Mentor," he has earned for himself an enviable and enduring name throughout the Fraternity.

As I must confine my remarks in this brief notice within certain limits, I must defer allusion to other distinguished "Masters in Israel" until another opportunity; it is, therefore, to be hoped that no offence will be caused by the prominence given to those connected with the Scottish branch of the parent-tree.

On Saturday last, the 7th Oct., the regular monthly meeting of the Rising Star of Western India Lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, Cumballa Hill, pleasantly situated on the outskirts of the city. The R.W. Master, Darasbah D. Reporter, occupied the Chair of K.S., and was supported on the dais by R.W. Bro. K. R. Cama, R. W. Bro. Chichgar, a most promising and enthusiastic Mason, W. B. Marzban, one of the staunchest, oldest and best members of the Craft in India, and who has visited and been honoured in many of the Lodges at home, W. Bros. McClumpha, J. Gustadjee, A. J. Bhajnavallah, Phemshah M. Mehta, and though "last, not least," Bro. Hormusji Dadabhai.

After the usual preliminary business of reading, confirming and recording the minutes of the previous meeting, and the proceedings of the Standing Committee had been transacted, one of the most pleasing incidents connected with the objects for which the Lodge had assembled, took place, namely, the recognition of the valuable services for many, many years past, rendered to the Fraternity by W. Bro. Manockjee Cursetjee, a retired Judge of the Court of Small Causes in Bombay. A confrere and confidante of the late Dr. Barnes, the late Honourable Phillip Le Geyt, and Dr. Barton, formerly Senior Magistrate of this City, all of whom held the position of Provincial Grand Master, W. Bro. Manockjee Cursetjee has proved himself a staunch Mason, and has thoroughly earned the gratitude of his brethren in this instance, by the high compliment paid him, of being elected an honorary member of the Lodge Rising Star of Western India.

In the course of the evening the sublime degree was conferred upon a member of the Mahomedan community, who promises to fulfil the expectations of his best friends. The able and impressive manner in which the R.W. Master conferred it left a most lasting impression on the minds of all those who were privileged to listen to his eloquent peroration. His descriptive powers in delivering that revered "Legend of Old" drew from the oldest Past Masters present a candid and well-earned acknowledgment of his genuine worth and talents. The Lodge is likewise to be complimented on the really judicious selection of the Wardens and Deacons. In fact all the officers of the Lodge ably supported the W. Master, and it was the concurrent opinion of the Past Masters on the dais that one and all had done their work well.

At the conclusion of the labours of the Lodge, the brethren retired to refreshment, and partook of the good things of this life so amply provided for them. Whilst the "cup of kindness" was passed round, and many fraternal expressions exchanged, toasts were proposed and responded to. The visiting brethren received their due mead of compliment, responding to which W. Bro. McClumpha gracefully acknowledged the cordial welcome the visitors had received, and paid a deserved encomium on the excellent working of the Lodge so ably presided over by W. Bro. Darmahah.

The Brethren, after receiving the "Tyler's Toast," parted in peace and harmony, with a vivid conviction of the undoubted talents of the R.W. Master and the ability of his officers.

The Freemasons do not seem to have suffered much from the fulminations of the "Old Man of the Vatican," or from the feebler curses showered on them by the smaller fry of the Romish hierarchy in imitation of the doings of Pio Nono. Neither the adjurations of the Pope himself, nor the wordy exordiums of his followers in Calcutta, seem to have reached the ears of the "Fraternity" in Rangoon, if so they appear to be considered as not possessing the slightest claim either to respect or regard. A crowded meeting of the members of the Craft took place on Friday, 28th July, in the building known as "Freemasons' Hall," a somewhat sombre looking erection, near the railway. This meeting was called by the jovial Master of Lodge Star, not to consider the desirability of closing the said Lodge, in obedience to the howl from Rome, but to do honour to one who had done all he could, and that well and successfully, to keep the Lodge from sinking under a press of difficulties which it is unnecessary here to detail. The brethren met at about 6 o'clock, and after some delay the mysteries of opening the Lodge were proceeded with, which we were not permitted to behold, but, about seven, these said proceedings being concluded, the "brethren" came forth, the breast of our worthy and well known townsman, Bro. Douglas De Wet, garnished with a "jewel" of the most exquisite taste and workmanship, to present which, together with an address on parchment, bound with "blue" riband, appears to have been the main object of the meeting. The next part of the evening's programme, understood alike by Masons and non-Masons, was a splendid banquet, to which about fifty sat down, and to which it is almost superfluous to say ample justice was done. Several non-Masons were present, among whom we noticed the Rev. Welbore McCarthy, Captain Arnot, and Mr. Darlington, while, with only one or two exceptions, every leading Mason in Rangoon was present. The usual Loyal toasts and speeches were made. Mr. or Brother De Wet received a splendid ovation when he rose to respond to the toast of his own health, proposed by the Master of the Lodge, who was chairman. The speeches were good, but we will not detail them, as we are very decidedly of opinion that any one who particularly wishes to know what Masons find to talk about should go and join them. He will thus know far more than we can tell him, suffice it to say, that they were what post-prandial speeches always should be, terse and to the point. We wish the Lodge, with its belongings, every success, and venture to hope that the example set by Lodge "Star of Burmah" will be faithfully copied by the Sister Lodges of Rangoon, and that we shall at no very distant date find our feet again under "Masonic mahogany."—Rangoon Times.

CONSECRATION OF THE EARL OF CARNARVON LODGE, No. 1642.

A NUMBER of the brethren assembled on Saturday, the 4th inst., at Ladbroke Hall, Notting Hill. The V.W. Bro. John Hervey G.S. was the Consecrating Officer delegated by the M.W. the Grand Master to perform the ceremony. Bros. J. Smith P.G.P. and John Boyd P.G.P. and Grand Steward occupied the Wardens' chairs. The W.M. was assisted by Bros. Jas. Terry P.G.D.C. Herts. Rev. A. F. A. Woodford P.G. Chaplain, Rev. P. M. Holden G.C. Middlesex, and Stephens P.M. 1365 and 1489. On the brethren being conducted to the Lodge-room, under the able direction of Bro. Terry, the Consecrating Officer opened the Lodge, and addressed those present, his remarks being listened to with great attention. The Rev. Bro. Woodford P.G.C. delivered a beautiful oration on the Nature and Principles of the Institution, when the Rev. P. M. Holden, G.C. Middlesex, offered the consecrating prayers. A board of Installed Masters was then formed, and Bro. J. Murlis, W.M. designate, was installed into the chair, in the presence of 27 W.M.'s and P.M.'s. by Bro. Hervey, in a faultless manner. On the readmission of the brethren, the W.M. invested his officers.

Bros. G. Penn S.W., S. H. Parkhouse J.W., W. H. Stephens P.M. 1365 Treasurer, Rev. C. D. Reade Chaplain, J. Pushman Secretary, W. Gordon (M.P. for Chelsea) S.D., F. Clench J.D., Landor I.G., S. Smout D.C., S. Smout jun. A.D.C., F. Delevante Organist, and T. Scholfield Tyler. Bro. Murlis addressed appropriate remarks to each officer he appointed.

The W.M. proposed, and Bro. Penn S.W. seconded, that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes, and honorary membership be accorded to Bro. John Hervey G.S., for the able and efficient manner he had performed the ceremonies of consecration and instal ation. This was carried unanimously. Votes of thanks and honorary membership were unanimously given to Bros. J. Smith, John Boyd, Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, and the Rev. P. M. Holden, for their services. After these brethren had severally responded, the W.M. read the following letter:—

"DEAR SIR,—Lord Carnarvon regrets very much that your letter of the 30th of October should have remained so long unanswered, and he wishes me to add an expression of his regret at being unable to be present at the Consecration of the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, No. 1642, which his engagements render quite impossible. His Lordship wishes me, however, to say, that he gladly consents to his coat of arms being used for the new Lodge.

"(Signed) A. A. PEARSON."

"To Bro. Murlis."

Numerous propositions for joining and initiation were handed in. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very recherché banquet and dessert, in the splendid new hall, which was divided from the Lodge-room by crimson curtains. Great credit is due to the worthy host, Mr. Linscott, for his admirable arrangements, and the courtesy of the D.C. and Stewards. Grace having been said, the W.M., who very genially presided, proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. In giving that of "The Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon," he hoped, on a future occasion, they might have the honour of his Lordship's presence. The toast was drunk with great enthusiasm.

Bro. Woodford, in eloquent and appropriate terms, responded for the Deputy Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers.

The W.M. then proposed the toast of "Bro. John Hervey G.S., the Consecrating Officer," to whom he paid a deserved compliment for the manner he had performed those duties; he hoped to see him frequently amongst them, it was indeed an honour to have had the eminent services of Bro. Hervey, and he would ask the brethren to drink "Health and long life to him" with all the enthusiasm the toast so well merited.

Bro. John Hervey, who, on rising, was received with loud cheers, said, He thanked them for the high compliment they had paid him. He was pleased to know the ceremony of Consecration had gone off well. As it had done so, he had nothing more to desire. He must, however, express to the W.M. his thanks for the compliment paid him, and the kind reception he had met with. He wished the Lodge every success, and he hoped when he visited them he would see as goodly a congregation as were assembled that evening.

Bro. W. Stephens, acting as I.P.M., then proposed the toast of the "W.M." All who knew him respected him; his own acquaintance had lasted 25 years; he was sure they would drink the toast heartily, and also "Prosperity to the New Lodge."

The W.M. thanked the brethren for their response to the toast. His being elected the W.M. of the New Lodge had caused him some serious thoughts, and to ensure its prosperity he would carefully inquire into the character of every candidate proposed. If any should be found unworthy to enter our Order, they would not be accepted. He thanked Bro. W. Stephens for his kind expressions; that brother had initiated him. During his year of office, indeed, as long as he was connected with them, he would do all they required of him. The W.M. then proposed a special toast. He coupled with it the name of a distinguished Mason, Bro. F. Moore, Deputy Grand Master for the Argentine Republic.

This brother, in responding, said he fully appreciated and highly valued what he had seen, but he did not think he could do anything equal to what had been done that day in the working of Bro. John Hervey. He begged to thank the W.M. for his hospitality. If any brother present should visit the Argentine Republic, he would be sure to have a hearty reception. Bro. Savage responded for the Visitors, he thanked the W.M. for the pleasure they had felt in witnessing the excellent manner in which every detail had been carried out, the beautiful and solemn words uttered by the Rev. brethren would never be effaced from their memory. Bro. Lovcock Webb P.G.D. followed, it was a great pleasure to him to respond to the toast, and to be at the Consecration. Many present were old and valued friends; to-day they had founded a bond of union; he hoped it would long continue, without distinction of religion or politics (cheers); he heartily joined in the hope that the W.M. might be spared for many years to do all that might be required of him; he was sure he would give them satisfaction. The W.M. then proposed the Masonic Charities, they had a brother present who was connected with one of their Institutions; a brother who had conducted the arduous duties of the day satisfactorily to all present; he then dwelt on the merits of the Institution, and the duties so ably performed by Bro. Terry. Those duties entailed on him a vast amount of labour, but to him it was a labour of love. All are grateful to him for his services. He (the W.M.) would act as a Steward at the next Festival, and he would try and get £300 on his list, he might tell them he had already over £70 promised him. (Cheers.) Bro. James Terry, in a very eloquent speech, returned thanks. He referred to the excellent manner in which the other Institutions were conducted. Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. informed the W.M. that the excellent speech of Bro. Terry had made such an impression on him that, although he had served the office of Steward, he would do so again; also that Bros. J. J. Michael, P.M. 1507, and T. Kingston, W.M. 862, would serve. The toast of the Wardens was responded to, and Bros. Gordon, M.P. for Chelsea, and Klouch, responded for the Officers. The Tyler's toast concluded one of the most agreeable and harmonious gatherings in Freemasonry. Bros. Delevante Organist, Pushman Secretary, Thomas Musgrave, and Perry sang some excellent songs. The Visitors were:—Bros. J. Hervey G.S., Gordon M.P. Chelsea 511, E. P. Albert A.G.P., F. Moore D.D.G.M. Argentine Republic, J. Boyd P.G.P., J. Smith P.G.P., Rev. P. M. Holden P.G.P. Middlesex, T. Brown 1611, Dr. Lovcock Webb P.G.D., G. A. Williams 511, Hayes 1489, W. C. Glen P.G.S. 198, J. J. Michael P.M. 1507, Thompson P.M. 834, J. Coutts P.G.P., Hambleton 1319, Davis 167, W. H. Lee P.M. 1524, W. J. Russell P.M. 511, J. Bingemann P.M. 55 and W.M. 1509, Squires 780, Hill 733, E. W. Thompson 55, Dr. Carpenter P.M. 1196, J. D. Woodstock P.M. 749, W. Morris P.M. 704, Craig 1425, C. B. Payne P.M. 27, T. Kingston W.M. 862, G. T. Chester 145, Savage P.M. 145, F. Delevante 1319, Webb 834, P. Kirke P.M. 144, F. Fisher, W. Stephens P.M. 1365, H. M. Levy P.M. 188, S. Pardoe P.M. 511, &c.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am sorry I was too busy to reply—in time at least for publication in your last issue—to "P.M., P.Z.'s" latest series of questions. As regards the first of the two, I incline to Preceptor No. 1, who speaks of the sun as "the centre of our solar system," rather than to Preceptor No. 2, who calls it "a fixed body." It may be, perhaps, merely a matter of taste, or it may be a little hypercriticism on my part, but the former certainly appears to me to fit in better with the other parts of the sentence than the latter, besides being, in very truth, more accurate. As regards the planetary bodies of our solar system, the sun, in relation to these, may be described as a "fixed body;" but it is not "fixed" in the sense of being wholly immovable, for it revolves on its axis within a stated interval of time. Again, if we speak of the sun as being a fixed body, the earth revolving on its—that is, its own—axis, and Freemasonry being spread over its surface—that is, over the surface of the latter—it follows, &c. &c.—we have a sentence containing four propositions, the concatenation of which is not apparent. Perhaps I should say we have three propositions absolute—that is, standing independently of each other—and a deduction which is not logically just, under the circumstances. Or, to explain the matter more fully, the answer stands really thus. Three propositions absolute: (1). The sun is a fixed body; (2). the earth revolves on its axis; (3). Freemasonry is spread over the earth's surface. Therefore, (4) the sun is always, &c. &c. On the other hand, if we phrase it somewhat thus: the sun being the centre of the solar system—this is preferable, I think, to our—the earth —a part of that system—revolving on its own own axis, and Freemasonry being spread over the earth's surface, it follows, &c. &c.—we establish a connection between the several parts of the sentence, and the true force of the deduction is at once apparent.

Next, as between No. 1, who speaks of the "distinguishing badge of a Mason," and No. 2. who says, "of an E. A. Freemason," I am for No. 1's version. ALL Masons alike wear the apron, which, therefore, as between Masons and all other men, is the distinguishing badge of the former. The aprons of the three degrees are distinguished one from the other. The E.A.P. wears a plain white lambskin apron of certain dimensions, the F.C. the same, with two sky-blue rosettes, the M.M. the same, with lining and edging, an additional rosette on the fall or flap, and silver tassels. These several kinds of apron serve to distinguish the brethren of the different degrees one from another, but that which is the badge of distinction as between us and other men is the apron, which, we are told, is more honourable than the badge of any other order in existence. E.A. Freemason would destroy the universality of this distinction. It is quite legitimate, however, to speak of an E.A.P.'s apron in contradistinction to a F.C.'s or M.M.'s, and for this reason it is necessary to particularise the respective badges of those degrees.

I confess, as regards the third difference, that I like neither of the rival versions. I prefer, however, "remembrance" to "remains;" "No trace"—that is, no visible sign of what itself no longer exists; or "remembrance"—that is, no token by which we might be reminded of him. "Remains" would apply to a material relic, or something left behind, which hardly fits so well with "trace."

Fraternally yours,

"Q."

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BRO.,—The correspondence which from time to time has appeared in your valuable journal, upon the above subject, has, I am sure, awakened much interest amongst numbers of the brethren who, like myself, are young in the craft, but, at the same time, who are very desirous of becoming something more than Masons merely in name.

In carrying out our beautiful ceremonies, the great aim most decidedly should be to adopt as nearly as possible a pure and simple uniformity in working, and so far as I can see (as Grand Lodge seems very indifferent in the matter), the only way to arrive at this end is by freely ventilating and interchanging views and ideas upon the subject; and that through the Masonic press, the columns of which—so far as your journal is concerned—are always open to those who really have the cause at heart, and who will fairly and dispassionately discuss the various items which may turn up during such correspondence.

It is to be regretted that, of late, things have been viewed in a light they were never intended to be seen in, but I trust after what we have read in your last issue, all is made clear, and that we shall see the correspondence go on and flourish, until some definite and tangible good is derived therefrom.

In his last letter, our esteemed Bro. Dr. Bedolfe states that he withdraws from the "contest," and, further, that he has "nothing to withdraw." At this point I must differ from him, and say I think he has much to withdraw, that is if he considers the interests of Freemasonry; and this is,—the former sentence I have quoted from his letter, in order that, together with our Bros. Q., Gottheil and Stevens, he will continue this most interesting argument, for the benefit of those whose Masonic experience has yet to be gained.

I also sincerely hope that the three Brethren named will be induced not to give in, but fight until the great end is reached, and then to them shall every praise and thanks be given, for having undertaken what is at present a fearfully heavy task.

Yours fraternally (in working),

TOUJOURS LE MIEL.

INDISCRIMINATE ADMISSION OF MASONS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—Your late admirable comments on the Indiscriminate Admission of Freemasons emboldens me to offer a few lines on a branch of the subject that, so far as I am aware, has not been hitherto touched on, and which I fear, in these days of easy travelling, is becoming more rife than is either desirable or expedient. I allude to the practice of parties passing from the Masonic jurisdiction of either kingdom to the other, and getting initiated into the mysteries of our Craft without any inquiry as to their fitness for the Order.

A rule of our Irish Constitution enacts that no Lodge shall ballot for, or initiate into Freemasonry, any person who is not a resident in the town, village, or neighbourhood in which the Lodge into which he seeks admission holds its meetings until due enquiry shall have been made of such Lodge or Lodges as may exist in the neighbourhood of his residence respecting the character of the applicant, and a satisfactory reply shall have been received, under a penalty of having its Warrant suspended.

Can it be true that between the Constitutions of England and Scotland there is no reciprocity with their Irish sister? or, may any one who passes over for a night, and works upon the good nature of an English brother to propose him, be forthwith admitted? or, as has been told me of a Scotch Lodge, get Craft and Royal Arch degrees all in same night? Hoping, for the benefit of your readers, you will clear up this matter, and, by inviting attention to the subject, that a communion may be established such as will give to Masonry additional strength, by removing such a rent in her armour,

I remain, yours fraternally,

RICHARD HARVEY P.M., P.Z., H.K.T.

Drogheda, 1st Nov. 1876.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

SUN, SQUARE AND COMPASSES CHAPTER, No. 119.

THE annual Convocation of this Chapter was held on Friday, 29th October, at the Freemasons' Hall, College-street, Whitehaven. The Companions assembled at two o'clock, and the officers and members present were as follow:—Comps. J. Barr Z., Whitehaven; E. Fearon H., and Z. elect, Whitehaven; W. Sandwith J., and H. elect, Whitehaven; Major Spencer P.Z., Whitehaven; W. B. Gibson P.Z., Whitehaven; G. W. Kenworthy P.Z., Whitehaven; J. R. Tickle Scribe E., and J. elect, Maryport; W. Armstrong Scribe N., Maryport; E. Tyson P. Sojourner, and Scribe E. elect, Whitehaven; J. Rothery Assistant Sojourner, Whitehaven; W. F. Lamonby Assistant Sojourner, and P. Sojourner elect, Cockermouth; J. M'Kelvie Treasurer, Whitehaven; James Cooper Organist, Whitehaven; G. Fitzgerald Janitor, Whitehaven; W. F. Hunter, T. B. Roxby, F. Hodgson, A. Hardie, D. Greencock, J. W. Bell, T. Atkinson, J. S. Braithwaite, J. W. Mills, J. D. Thompson (Scribe N. elect), and Joseph Frears, Whitehaven; G. M. Tickle, T. Maudle, and J. R. Banks, Maryport; G. T. Archibald, J. R. Smith, W. B. Bowman, and J. S. Smith, Workington; J. W. Young, Harrington; and J. Eilbeck, Egremont. The Visitors present were:—Comps. J. Bowes P.Z., P.P.G. Standard bearer West Lancashire, and Installing Officer of the day; J. Lemon P.Z. St. John's Chapter, 327, Wigton; H. Bewes H., Wigton; J. Gardiner J., Wigton; J. H. Banks, Wigton; W. Kirkbride P.Z. Unanimity Chapter, 339, Penrith; and J. Armstrong, Sefton Chapter, 860, of Warrington. The newly decorated hall, aided by the magnificent furniture of Furness Chapter, 995, Ulverston, kindly lent for the occasion, and the gas illuminations, presented a brilliant appearance when all the Companions were robed and seated in their respective situations. After the Chapter had been opened in form, the minutes of the previous Convocation were read and confirmed, followed by the reading and adoption of the Treasurer's statement of accounts, which showed the satisfactory balance of £43 odd in hand. Nine new candidates for exaltation were then balloted for, and duly accepted. Seven of the candidates being present, were duly exalted by M.E.Z. Comp. J. Barr, in his usual masterly style, assisted by the other officers. The M.E.Z., Comp. Bowes, then ascended the throne as Installing Officer, and proceeded to instal the three Principals, followed by the investiture of the other officers. The lengthy and impressive ceremony was performed by Comp. Bowes in that unsurpassable manner for which he has for so many years been noted in the North, and the appreciation of his talents and kindness in coming so far, was recorded by the Companions present in a special and hearty vote of thanks. He was also elected an honorary member of the Chapter. The list of the installed and invested officers is as follows:—Comp. E. Fearon Z., W. Sandwith H., J. R. Tickle J., E. Tyson E., J. D. Thompson N., J. M'Kelvie Treas., W. F. Lamonby P.S., J. Rothery Assist. S., J. W. Young 2nd Assist. S., James Cooper Organist, G. Fitzgerald Janitor. Before the Chapter was closed five new candidates were proposed for exaltation at next quarterly convocation. On the motion of Companion W. B. Gibson, seconded by Companion Kenworthy, the Chapter voted the sum of £5 to the Royal Benevolent Society for aged Freemasons and their Widows. Companion Barr also moved, and Companion Gibson seconded, that the sum of £5 be voted to the widow of a deceased Companion of Sun, Square, and Compasses Chapter, which was agreed to unanimously. A special vote of thanks was accorded to Furness Chapter, Ulverston, for the kind loan of their furniture, and the Chapter was duly and finally closed. Subsequently the Companions adjourned to the banqueting hall, where a substantial refection was provided by Bro. Smith, of the Albion Hotel, Whitehaven. Companion Fearon presided, supported right and left by Companions Sandwith, Gibson, Bowes, Tickle, M'Kelvie, Kenworthy, Lemon, Kirkbride, &c., and faced by Companions Tyson and Thompson. The Chairman proposed the healths of the Queen and the other members of the Royal Family; and next gave the Prince of Wales, M.E.Z. of England, the Earl of Carnarvon, and Lord Skelmersdale, Second and Third Principals, and the Grand Chapter of England, which was drunk with all the honours. Companion Barr proposed, in a neat speech, the Newly-Installed Principals, to which the Chairman and Companions Sandwith and Tickle replied. Companion Barr gave the healths of the other officers, and Companions Tyson, Thompson, M'Kelvie, Lamonby, and Rothery severally returned thanks. Other complimentary toasts followed, including, of course, the health of the Installing Principal E. Comp. Bowes, and the company broke up, about nine o'clock, having had a most harmonious and highly successful meeting. We may add that Sun, Square, and Compasses Chapter has nearly 150 members on the roll, and the number is steadily increasing at each convocation. Without fear of contradiction, we may affirm that it is one of the most flourishing and best worked Chapters in the Province.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

THE quarterly communication of the Grand Lodge of Scotland was held on Monday afternoon, in the Freemasons' Hall, George-street, Edinburgh. The throne was occupied by Sir Michael Shaw-Stewart, Bart., the Most Worshipful Grand Master Mason of Scotland, who was supported by Bro. William Mann, P.G.W., Acting R. W. Senior Grand Warden; William Hay, V.W. Senior G.D., Acting R.W. Senior G.W. On the dais were Bros. Henry Inglis of Torsonce, P.S.G.M.; Colonel Campbell, of Blythswood, Prov. G.M. of Renfrewshire East; Lauderdale Maitland of Eccles, P.G.M. Dumfriesshire; Captain Harriott, of Killiemore, P.G.M. of Wigtownshire; J. H. Neilson, P.P.G.M. Venezuela; John Laurie, Grand Secretary; Dr. J. T. Loth, representative of the Grand Orient of France; Rev. A. Thomson Grant, V.W. Grand Chaplain; Alexander Hay, Grand Jeweller; John Coghill, Grand Director of Ceremonies; C. W. Müller, Grand Director of Music; Daniel Robertson, Grand Bible Bearer; Robert Davidson, Grand Organist; W. Officer, Grand Deacon. The Grand Lodge having been opened and raised to the sublime degree, the Grand Master read a letter from the Lord Provost of Glasgow in regard to the visit of the Prince of Wales, dated 28th October 1876. The Lord Provost wrote:—

"Dear Sir Michael,—On behalf of my brother magistrates and myself, I beg respectfully to convey to the several Masonic bodies who took part in the proceedings connected with the laying of the foundation stone of the new Post Office by the Prince and Princess of Wales on the 17th inst. our hearty sense of the value of your and their services. That, notwithstanding the unpropitious nature of the weather, the several lodges should have carried out with so much steadiness and good temper the various arrangements in which they had to take part was most gratifying, and we only regret that after coming—some of them from great distances—to show their loyalty, at much cost and sacrifice of personal comfort, they were not favoured with better weather."

Sir Michael also stated that he had been highly pleased with the turn-out on the occasion referred to; and Bro. Inglis then proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Grand Master. (Cheers). He was sure the great craft had lost nothing of its dignity that day. (Applause).

The Grand Master, in returning thanks, said that the proceedings had given him great anxiety beforehand. He had had no fear but that the Masons would do their work well, but great difficulties had to be overcome. The Grand Secretary and the office-bearers in Glasgow, however, took considerable trouble with the arrangements. They were made as complete as possible; and, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, he considered it had been a most successful day. (Cheers). He was sure the Masonic part of the ceremony would never be forgotten by those who had taken part in it. (Applause.)

The Grand Master afterwards intimated the death of the Most Hon. the Marquis of Tweeddale, K.S., R.W.P.G.M., and an expression of regret was ordered to be recorded on the minutes for the loss sustained by the Grand Lodge.

Brother Henry Inglis said he had not the slightest fear but that the motion he had to submit would be adopted unanimously. It was that Sir Michael Shaw-Stewart be elected for another year. (Cheers.)

The Grand Master said he was very much obliged for the kind manner in which his nomination had been submitted and received. He could only say that his best services were at the disposal of the Grand Lodge for another year. (Cheers.) He only hoped he would have the same kind support which he had had hitherto. (Renewed cheers.)

The Grand Committee proposed that Brother D. Kinnear should be appointed Senior Grand Deacon.

Brother Hepburn S.W. Scotia Lodge, moved as an amendment that Brother D. M. Neilson, R.W.M. 3 bis, should be appointed to the office.

Brother Wm. Philips R.W.M. Clydesdale Lodge, said it was but right that such an important province as Glasgow should have some representation in the Grand Lodge. (Cheers.) He was quite sure that Brother Neilson would not only do his duty, but reflect credit on the office. (Cheers.)

A vote was afterwards taken, when it was seen that 84 were in favour of Brother Neilson, and 57 for Brother Kinnear. The announcement was received with cheers by the brethren from the western province.

Brother Samuel Hay (Union Bank) and Brother John Laurie were proposed for the offices of Grand Treasurer and Grand Secretary respectively.

Brother Adam Thomson, R.W.M., Dumfries, objected to the re-appointment of those office-bearers, on the ground that it might be of great advantage to infuse some new blood into these departments. The Grand Treasurer he contended annually violated the rules, and the Secretary had neglected his duties by not replying to a great number of communications from daughter Lodges.

Brother D. M. Neilson stated that at a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow several statements had been made concerning Brother Laurie, and a letter had been handed to him which had been prepared by a committe appointed to bring the matter before the Grand Lodge. He suggested that this letter should be read.

The Grand Master had no hesitation in saying that matters in the Secretary's department were not in a satisfactory state, and he would use every endeavour to get them remedied.

Bro. George Macdonald, R.W.M. Thistle and Rose Lodge, asked whether Bro. Laurie was not being made the scapegoat for the Grand Lodge. As far as complaints from Glasgow were concerned, he believed it was not so much Bro. Laurie who was to blame as the Grand Lodge.

Bro. Laurie, Grand Secretary, said he had listened with considerable pain to the statements which had been made, but he would not take up time rebutting them, as he might do. In going over these matters, whilst condemning what had not been done, they had overlooked what he really did do. (Hear, hear, and applause.) Any one in his position was entitled to at least some consideration, or at any-rate fair play. A number of the brethren present were in a position to prove from their own knowledge of the facts that the labours of the Grand Lodge were immensely more than any single individual could possibly superintend and discharge correctly. (Cheers.) From early on Monday morning till late on Sunday night following he was scarcely ever absent from the office, and the whole of his time was taken up in attending to the interests of the Grand Lodge; and even then it was utterly impossible to overtake the labours imposed upon him. Very few were aware of the enormous amount of work required to be discharged in his department, and the consequence was that many communications could not be replied to. He would prepare a statement in his own justification, which would be submitted to the Grand Lodge.

It was ultimately agreed to appoint Brother D. Kinnear as interim cashier.

The appointments were otherwise agreed to, and the other office bearers elected were:—V.W. Joint Grand Chaplains, the Rev. W. H. Gray, D.D., and the Rev. A. Thomson Grant, V.W. Junior Grand Deacon, Colonel Wilson of Bantockburn, V.W. Architect, W. Hay, Worshipful Grand Jeweller, A. Hay, Worshipful Grand Bible-Bearer, D. Robertson, Worshipful Grand Director of Ceremonies, J. Coghill, Worshipful Grand Bard, J. Balantine, Worshipful Grand Sword Bearer, Captain G. F. R. Cox of Castlerig, Worshipful Grand Director of Music, C. W. M. Muller, Worshipful Grand Organist, R. Davidson, Worshipful Grand Marshal, Captain W. Hole, Edinburgh Rifle Volunteers, Worshipful Grand Tyler, W. M. Bryce, Worshipful Outer Guard, J. Baikie. Board of Grand Stewards: President, F. S. Melville, Vice-President, John Haig.

On the recommendation of the Grand Lodge, charters, on petition, were granted to the following Lodges:—"Bruce," Frickheim, "Athole," Kimberley, Griqualand, "Albert Edward," Polmadie, "Kindred Hope," Nusseraban, Rajpootana.

The Right Hon. Earl of Mar and Kellie was nominated as representative of the Grand Lodge of the Netherlands; Bro. W. Officer P.G.D. for Egypt, D. Murray Lyon for West Virginia, D. Kinnear P.G.D., the Right Hon. Lord Inverarne for Missouri, and Daniel Robertson for South Carolina.

A motion by Bro. John Munro R.W.M. No. 360, Commercial, in regard to the raising of fees, was continued till next quarterly communication, in consequence of his unavoidable absence. The Grand Lodge was afterwards closed in ample form.

The members of the "Old Scholars' Re-union," to the number of twenty-six, dined together on Tuesday evening last, at Anderton's Hotel. The Rev. Dr. Morris was in the chair, and among the guests was the Rev. Mr. Woodward, a former Head Master and Chaplain of the Boys' School.

The chief toasts of the evening were the "Success and Prosperity of the Royal Masonic Institution," and the "Old Scholars' Re-union."

This Old Boys' Club, which was established in April last, is likely to become a permanent institution. All it wants is a little help from the Masonic body, to enable it to fairly establish itself, so that it may number among its members every boy who has been connected with the School, and is not ashamed of the Institution to which he owes so much.

We congratulate Bro. Terry on the addition of £100 to his salary, sanctioned by the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, on Wednesday. This recognition of his zeal was deserved, but this in no way detracts from the pleasure he must experience. We may mention that the addition dates, retrospectively, from the 1st January of this year.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and profanity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"It shows much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Bonfshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is no entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest consideration."—Kelso [illegible].

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Queen is still at her Highland residence, but her return southwards to Windsor Castle may be expected very shortly. With her usual gracious kindness, her Majesty has lost no time in expressing, through the medium of the First Lord of the Admiralty, her thanks to Captain Nares and the gallant officers and men under his command for their valuable services in the late Arctic Expedition. At the same time, she sympathises with them deeply in the hardships they endured, and laments the unfortunate loss of life that occurred. The ships only reached Portsmouth towards the end of last week, and the Admiralty Minute giving effect to this message is dated Monday, the 6th instant. Captain Nares and his men will certainly appreciate this act of kindness on the part of the Queen all the more for the promptness with which it has been done. The Prince and Princess of Wales are at Sandringham, where they are entertaining a large circle of guests, among them Captain Nares, of Arctic fame. The shooting season commenced on Monday, and has been prosecuted vigorously ever since. Thursday being the birthday of His Royal Highness, the day was celebrated with great heartiness. The visitors were very numerous, and the congratulations offered to the Prince were genuinely loyal.

Lord Mayor's Show was a great success, and offered more than the usual attractions, the consequence being that the streets were thronged with sight-seers from a very early hour, our country cousins mustering in considerable numbers. The route travelled was of unusual length, as the wards to which the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs belong were at the opposite extremes of the city boundary. The procession left Guildhall precisely at twelve o'clock, the city dignitaries having previously fortified themselves against the cold and the long drive by partaking of a substantial lunch. Heading the long array was the band of the Grenadier Guards, under Bro. Dan Godfrey, and the Royal London Militia. After the Loriners' Company, came the Watermen, bearing banners innumerable, then the Royal Standard and the banner of the City of London, followed by those of distinguished men who have filled the office of Lord Mayor. Then followed sundry of the City Companies, with military bands between, and the Vintners' Company being among them, there was a compact array of "swan uppers," each bearing a banner more or less appropriate. After the band of the 3rd City of London Rifles, were the Indian elephants, with their howdahs, and trappings, and driven by mahouts—these being commemorative of the Prince of Wales's visit to India—and half-a dozen Knights in armour, attended by their esquires. The Under Sheriffs and Sheriffs, in their state carriages, appeared a little later in the procession, and then, headed by the band of the Honourable Artillery Company, the Aldermen who have and have not passed the chair. The retiring Lord Mayor (Alderman Cotton) followed; after him the mounted band of one of the regiments of Household Cavalry; and, preceded by the City Marshal, the City Trumpeters and his servants, in their gorgeous state liveries, came the great man himself, Lord Mayor Sir Thomas White, in his state coach, with his chaplain and sword-bearer, and escorted by a troop of the 21st Hussars. On reaching Westminster, his Lordship went through the customary formalities; having invited the Judges of the various divisions of the High Court of Justice to honour the banquet with their presence, the procession started on its return to Guildhall, viâ the Thames Embankment, being joined by the Lady Mayoress, attended by her maids of honour. At the banquet which followed, the whole of the Cabinet were present, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon having returned to town from Balmoral. The usual speeches followed, that of the Prime Minister being listened to with eagerness, and greeted with enthusiasm. The usual crowd of roughs appeared in force, but the police effectually restrained their blackguardism whenever it became too effusive to be pleasant to the inoffensive spectators of the show.

Meetings about the Eastern Question still continue to be held throughout the country, though at less frequent intervals. Among the more important speeches that have recently been delivered, the most noticeable is that of the Marquis of Hartington who spoke at considerable length at the comparatively small town of Keighley, remarkable chiefly for the anti-vaccination views of its poor law guardians. The speech was that of a statesman who has a full sense of the responsibility that attaches to all his utterances, not that of a violent partisan. Among other recent speeches may be mentioned Messrs. Sclater-Booth and Baillie-Cochrane, both of them Conservative M.P.'s. We may add here, that the Marquis of Salisbury has been appointed to be Her Majesty's special Ambassador at the approaching conference on the Eastern Question.

It seems that latterly the roughs of Dublin have been exhibiting the greatest violence to the detriment of all peaceful citizens, not only on ordinary week-days, but likewise on Sundays. Certain of them, however, have met condign punishment at the hands of Judge Lawson. These ruffians brutally assaulted one or more constables, in the execution of their duty, and on being found guilty were severally sentenced to five years' penal servitude, to the no small consternation of their companion blackguards. A third rough had a similar punishment meted out to him on Monday, for a similar offence. Attempts are being made at intimidation, but the just severity of this upright and fearless judge will, we trust, have the desired effect of repressing this too-prevalent lawlessness in the Irish Capital.

A special exhibition of chrysanthemums, fruit and vegetables, was offered, on Tuesday, at the Royal Horticultural Gardens, South Kensington. Among the principal exhibitors of chrysanthemums were Messrs. Charles Turner, of Slough, and Messrs. Veitch and Son, of Chelsea. Mr. Williams, of Upper Holloway, contributed a fine collection of plants of various kinds. Messrs. James Carter and Co., of Holborn, and Messrs. Sutton and Son, of Reading, offered prizes for vegetables. Among the fruit were some magnificent grapes, contributed by Mr. Wild Smith, gardener to Viscount Eversley, and some fine pine apples, exhibited by Mr. Eyre, of Newbury.

A series of gunnery experiments has been proceeding at Eastbourne for a considerable time past, the object being to ascertain the battering power of certain guns, and the merits of different kinds of shells. One of the old Martello Towers in the immediate neighbourhood has been the target, and the results are considered by the artillerists who conducted the experiments to have been in every way satisfactory. This is, doubtless the case, for very little of the tower remains standing, the brickwork, which in some places was seven feet thick, having been battered to smithereens. The gun employed was a 64-pounder, weighing 95 cwt.

Except in a few places, Guy Fawkes' Day is no longer celebrated with the same éclat as formerly—at least, in the Metropolis. Moreover, the memorable day fell this year on a Sunday, and people celebrated the event, some on Saturday, but the majority on Monday. On the former of these days we saw a miserable abortion of a guy in the neighbourhood of Aldersgate Station, and not far removed, therefore, from our offices. It was intended, or we imagined it, to bear some resemblance to, Emperor William of Germany. But though that monarch has had a good deal to do with gunpowder in his day, he is the sworn enemy of ragtag and bobtail, and would never have permitted any such indecent liberties to be taken with him as his effigy was submitted to in Aldersgate-street. At Lewes, Hitchin, Exeter, and other provincial towns and cities where the day is still remembered in the good old fashion, the authorities appear, very wisely, to have acquiesced in the proceedings. Consequently, no disturbances occurred. The guys were paraded during the day with becoming solemnity, and, when the shades of evening came on, were duly consigned to the flames of the numerous bonfires specially piled up for their destruction. While the effigies of Fawkes, the Pope, and other public personages, past or present, were being thus destroyed, some excellent displays of fireworks were given. At Croydon there seems to have been some little disturbance. The local authorities had not the same common sense as the authorities at Exeter and elsewhere. The consequence then was a considerable amount of disturbance, and but for the strength of the police, the rough element would have had opportunity for earning further distinction in ruffianism. At Oxford and Cambridge, precautions were taken against the usual town and gown rows. There were a few scrimmages, however, in spite of the efforts of the proctors, and these resulted in sundry broken heads. But nothing more serious happened.

We hear by telegrams from America, that the Election of Mr. Tilden the Democratic candidate for the Presidency is considered certain, but by only the narrowest of majorities. This of course, may be taken as a vote of the United States on the policy pursued by the Executive during the last sixteen years, during which the Republican party has been supreme. We trust the government of Mr. Tilden—assuming him to have been elected—will serve to promote the welfare of the United States.

Cardinal Antonelli is dead, he who, for a quarter of a century, has been the faithful minister of Pope Pius IX., the kindly old scold who occasionally excommunicates a score or two of Freemasons. The Cardinal is said to have amassed enormous wealth which goes to his nearest relations, a brace or more of nephews. Who his successor will be is not yet determined. Death has also claimed another victim in the person of the youthful Duchess d'Aosta, wife of the King of Italy's second son, Prince Amadeo, some time King of Spain, till the Spanish Grandees, who had invited him to their country behaved so shamefully, that the fine young fellow, as he is, shook off the dust from his feet and returned home. His young wife, however, never, it is said, recovered from the anxiety and indignities to which her husband was exposed during his short kingship, and hence her death, at the early age of twenty-five.

Warlike operations have ceased for the present, and we hope there is no chance of their being renewed when the period of the armistice is concluded. The proposal of a Conference appears to meet with general approval, so it is reported, at least; but Russia, as is her custom, has been creating difficulties about the boundary line to be drawn between the contending armies. Austria, however, is opposed to the latest rumoured demand of the Czar, which is to the effect that the Turks shall retire to the positions they held on the 17th ult. Austria proposes the line be drawn as it would have been on the 31st ult., which seems far more reasonable. Meanwhile General Tchernaieff has returned to Belgrade, and is about to enjoy a few weeks' rest in Russia. According to this adventurer, war will be resumed, but five of the Great Powers of Europe may happen to think differently from the General, who has not yet achieved the position of a Napoleon I., so as to dictate the alternative of peace or war to Europe. He may be right; for there is no [illegible] the limits of Russian intrigue. The more we dwell upon the recent agitation in this country, and the conduct of Russia now and during her whole career, the more amazed are we that Englishmen should have wished so brutal a power to act as champion of Christendom. The indignation of the people at the cruelties committed was righteous, but the foul deeds of Russia have been as atrocious, if not more so; in testimony whereof we need but mention the names of Earl Russell and the late Lord Palmerston, statesmen whom Englishmen, of all shades of politics, delight to honour.

The General Committee of Management of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution met on Wednesday the 8th inst. at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, and was numerously attended. Bro. Colonel Creaton, V.P., took the chair. The Secretary, Bro. Jas. Terry, read the minutes of the former meeting, which were confirmed. A letter was read from Lord Skelmersdale, M.W. Deputy Grand Master, stating that in all probability H.R.H. Prince Leopold, P.G.M. Oxford, would take the chair at the annual Festival in February next. The widow of a former annuitant was granted half her late husband's annuity for three years. Eight candidates were placed on the list. The following notices of motion were given by Col. Creaton (V. Patron), P.G.D.:—

"That in consideration of the large sums collected (mainly by the great exertions of the Secretary), and consequent additional amount of work in the office, his Salary be increased £100 per annum, commencing on the 1st January 1876."

Notice of Motion pursuant to recommendation of Finance Committee:—

"That the Clerk's Salary be increased £20 per annum, to commence on the 1st December next."

These were carried unanimously.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Chairman.

There were present—Bros. S. Rawson, R. H. Giraud, T. Fenn, J. Hogg, A. J. Filer, Hyde Pullen, James Brett, C. A. Cottebrune, A. H. Tattershall, J. G. Stevens, W. Hall, J. A. Farnfield, J. Newton, J. Constable, W. Hilton, J. White, J. Hurst jun. J.P., F. Adlard, R. W. Little, C. Lacey, L. Stean, W. Stephens, J. M. Stedwell, G. Bolton, and J. R. Gallant.

In Memoriam.

WE are sorry to announce the death, on Sunday last, of a most excellent Mason, one who, during his connection with the Craft, had always shown himself to be a most zealous, painstaking, and efficient member, and who to these invaluable qualifications added, in a very conspicuous degree, the still more important recommendation of being a steadfast supporter of our Charitable Institutions. We allude, of course, to our late brother, Samuel May, who, in private life, was as esteemed and loved, as in public life he was admired and respected. So long as his health permitted, he was a regular attendant at Grand Lodge, and he bore on his breast a brilliant array of evidence to his Masonic worth. It is, doubtless, within the knowledge of many of our readers that the course of the late Bro. May's business life did not run as smoothly as his friends could have wished. When, some nine years since, Her Majesty's Theatre was burnt down, Bro. May sustained a loss amounting to many thousands of pounds. The whole of the costumes, the result of years and years of labour, and representing, as we have stated, a large capital, were destroyed likewise. Bro. May, however, whose efforts in three different Stewardships had procured for our several Charities a sum amounting in the aggregate to eight hundred pounds, more or less, had the sympathy of his Masonic friends and admirers, not in words only, but likewise in deeds. A Committee was formed, of which Bro. Ledger, of the Era, was honorary Treasurer, and Bro. Thomas Beard, of 10 Basinghall-street, the honorary Secretary, Bro. John Udall, P.G.D., being, usually, the presiding genius. A subscription list was opened, to which the theatrical friends of Bro. May contributed very handsomely. The Christy Minstrels gave an entertainment, the proceeds of which, amounting to £65, were handed over to the May Testimonial Fund. Bro. Chatterton placed Drury Lane at the disposal of the Committee for one night, the proceeds of the entertainment being eminently satisfactory, Bro. Chatterton himself contributing the handsome sum of £50. Bro. Sam. Adams, the then lessee of the Philharmonic, Islington, likewise placed his establishment at the disposal of the Fund, with a beneficial result. The end of all these praiseworthy efforts was, that a festive gathering was held at the Freemasons' Tavern, on the 11th May 1868, and, after an excellent supper, provided by Bro. Charles Gosden, and the usual loyal toasts, Bro. Binckes, who had been previously appointed by the Committee, rose and presented to Bro. Samuel May a testimonial, consisting of an elegant silver salver, weighing sixty ounces, manufactured by Bro. Lamb, masonic jeweller, of St. John's Square, Clerkenwell, and a purse of £700. Bro. Binckes's speech was, as might have been expected, a very felicitous one, and Bro. May's acknowledgment brief but appropriate. The salver bore the following inscription:—

"Presented, with a purse of £700, to Samuel May, by his Masonic and theatrical friends, in evidence of their sincere sympathy towards him, on the severe loss he has sustained by the calamitous fire at Her Majesty's Theatre, and as a slight mark of their esteem. May 11th 1868."

We need add little to this brief record of our late brother's career. They who knew him loved him; they who knew him not, or by reputation only, respected him. The memory of his virtues alone remains, and these doubtless will incite our younger brethren to follow in his footsteps.

NEW ZEALAND.

THE usual monthly meeting of the Mount Ida Lodge, E.C., No. 1262, was held in the Masonic Hall, Naseby, on Wednesday, the 6th September. During the evening, a handsome jewel was presented to W. Bro. Past Master Henry Wirgman Robinson, who held the office of W.M. for a period of two years. This jewel was a hearty offering from the brethren of the Lodge, in recognition of the valuable services rendered by Bro. Robinson in connection therewith. The jewel was a chaste and elegant piece of workmanship. The presentation was made by P.P.G.D. Senior P.M. Bro. Gramitt, in highly complimentary terms, expressing a hope that Bro. Robinson's services might be long continued to the Lodge, and that he might be long spared to wear the jewel which was about to be presented to him. Bro. Gramitt then called upon the Secretary, Bro. Rowlatt, to read the following address:—

Naseby, 6th September 1876.

To P.M. Bro. Henry Wirgman Robinson,
Mount Ida Lodge, E.C., 1262.

Dear Sir and Brother,—The brethren of the Lodge, as mentioned below, desiring to show their heartfelt appreciation of your Masonic abilities as Master of this Lodge for the past two years, have much pleasure in asking you to accept the P.M. jewel which will this evening be presented to you.

It was our intention to have presented this to you on the termination of your last year's Mastership, but, as the jewel had to be obtained from London, about five months delay has necessarily occurred.

We, together with the visiting brethren who have assembled this evening, hope that you may long continue to cement our Lodge, and that your labours in the cause of the Craft may meet that acceptance at the hands of our Great Master to which every member of our Order has the right to aspire.

We are, Dear Sir and Brother,
Yours fraternally.
(Here follow the signatures.)

The Secretary, having read the address, Bro. Gramitt then presented it, together with the jewel, to Bro. Robinson, who, in accepting them, expressed the pleasure which he felt at the receipt of so substantial a mark of esteem from the brethren, and also for the kind sentiments conveyed in the address.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF GLASGOW.

THE quarterly communication of this Lodge was held on 2nd November, in St. Mark's Hall, by Bros. F. A. Barrow D.P.G.M., J. Barrow S.P.G.M., D. M. Nelson R.W.M. 3 bis as S.W., G. McDonald R.W.M. 73 as J.W., J. Morgan R.W.M. 219, Interim Secretary, J. Balfour D.C., A. Fain B.B., A. Adams J., G. Sinclair Treas. of Benevolent Fund, D. Reid P.G.I.G., J. B. Hardie P.G.O.G., and a large attendance of the Masters and Wardens of the Province.

The acting Past Grand Master said he was extremely sorry that the health of their P.G.M. was still such as to prevent him being present, but he sent him commissions in favour of Bro. Easton of St. John 3½ as P.G.S.W., and Bro. Dr. A. Morton I.P.M. of Commercial Lodge 360 as P.G.J.W. Bro. Easton was not present, but as Dr. Morton was, he had great pleasure in installing him as their Junior Warden. (Cheers.) The bye-laws of 465, 510, and 571 were then passed, and the committee on the bye-laws and other disputed points in reference to Lodge St. Vincent, No. 553, were directed to call a meeting of the Lodge, and hear both parties in open Lodge before giving their decision in the matters referred to them. The meeting to be called at the earliest date possible. The consideration of the roll of business to be brought before the Grand Lodge on Monday was then taken up, and the motions to come before it discussed. Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed at the state of financial matters, and also at the want of punctuality in some of the Grand Lodge officials, also at the ignoring of the claims of Glasgow, and the West of Scotland in general, in the distribution of Grand Lodge honours. Ultimately a committee, consisting of the R.W.M.'s of Lodges 3½, 360, 404, and 413, along with the I.P.M. of 102, was unanimously appointed to draw up a memorial, to be presented to Grand Lodge on Monday, first showing their alleged grievances, and also calling attention to the fact that although one-fifth of the total income of Grand Lodge comes from this province, and one-seventh from Ayrshire, yet both provinces have been for some time past systematically ignored by what should be termed the Grand Lodge of Edinburgh rather than the Grand Lodge of Scotland.

Arrangements having been made for the consecration of Plantation Lodge, No. 558, on Monday, the 13th, the Lodge was closed in due form.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

London Masonic Club Lodge of Instruction.—The committee appointed, as previously announced, have now completed the arrangements for the first meeting, which will take place on Monday next, 14th inst., at 6 o'clock p.m. precisely. Of the committee, Bros. J. C. Hogg P.M. No. 55 will be Hon. Treasurer, J. E. Shand 1383 Hon. Secretary, and it is expected that James Mander P.M. 1201 will be appointed Preceptor. Only members of the London Masonic Club are eligible to be members of the Lodge, but they have the privilege of introducing visitors to instruction without any fees. The subscription for members is 5s annually, and is entrance. The meetings will be held on the 2nd and 4th Mondays in each month.

860, C. Cowten 860, C. Walters 860, Marbuth 1366, Parker 1366, Smallpeice, Shipley, T. Cull, &c. Business—The Fifteen Sections were worked as follows:—First lecture—By Bros. J. Hill, Trewinnard, Powell, Killick, Tolmie, T. Cull, and Smallpeice. The second lecture by Bros. Hewlett, Pearcy, Saul, Sadler, and Smallpeice. And the third lecture by Bros. Crawley, Morrison, and Stock. Bros. T. Cull and Shipley were elected members. Votes of thanks to the W.M. and brethren who had assisted were unanimously carried. This Lodge meets every Monday, at 8 p.m.

St. John, No. 3 bis, held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 7th instant, in their own Hall. There was upwards of 60 of the members and a number of visitors present. The Lodge was opened by the R.W.M. Bro. D. M. Neilson, who on the preceding day had been elected to the office of G.S.D. at Edinburgh. Bro. J. Sellers S.W., P. Brownlie J.W., J. Dick Sec., and a large attendance of P.M.'s. The I.P.M., Bro. Wm. Bell, at the request of the Master, initiated four gentlemen into the mysteries of the Order, in excellent style. Three brethren were affiliated as joining members. The case of a distressed widow was brought before the Lodge by the R.W.M., and arrangements made for her relief. Bro. Dr. Robertson then, at the request of the Lodge, delivered an eloquent and instructive lecture on Freemasonry. We hope to give an outline in our next.

Metropolitan Royal Arch Chapter of Improvement.—At the meeting on Tuesday, 7th inst., the following were present:—Comps. Jas. Stevens M.E.Z., E. S. Norris H., J. Constable J., J. Boyd Treasurer, Thos. W. White S.E., E. H. Finney S.N., J. W. Berrie P.S., R. W. Little, G. K. Lemann, J. D. Taylor, G. P. Gillard, A. A. Drew, G. Darcy, A. L. Annett, G. J. Row, H. Venn, J. Seex. The minutes of last meeting having been read, the ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed, after which Comp. Boyd worked two clauses of the lecture, assisted by the Companions.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules, Leadenhall-street, on Thursday evening last, 9th Nov. Present—Bros. Hewlett W.M., Parker S.W., Hogarth J.W., Maidwell S.D., Powell J.D., W. H. Hogarth I.G., Grammer Hon. Sec., and other brethren. The ceremony of the second degree was rehearsed, Bro. Powell acting as candidate. The first, second, and third sections of the lecture were worked by the W.M., assisted by the brethren. The fourth and fifth sections by Bro. Webb, Bro. Horsley dictating the answers. Lodge was then resumed to the first, and the fourth section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Webb, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Peacock, of No. 560, was elected a member of this Lodge of Instruction.

Panmure Mark Master Masons Lodge, No. 139.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Monday, the 6th of November, at the Balham Hotel, Balham. Present:—Bros. Thomas Poore P.M. as W.M., James Stevens P.M. P.G.O. as S.W., George Lilley P.M. as J.W., J. J. Joseph M.O., C. P. McKay Secretary as S.O., J. Gibson J.O., W. B. Miller D.C., J. Haruscastle I.G., W. Grant Tyler; also Bros. J. Barney, J. Wigg, J. G. Hervey, &c. Apologies from principal officers and members for non-attendance, occasioned by absence from town in some cases, and in others, we regret to say, by sickness, were read and received with much regret. So small an attendance as above recorded is most unusual in the Panmure. There were five candidates for advancement, of whom but one, Bro. Larchin of No. 1531, was able to attend. That brother was, however, inducted into the degree of Mark Master with full ceremony, and in the usual efficient manner for which this Lodge is celebrated. A notice of motion for increase of advancement fee, to take effect from March next, and which is rendered absolutely necessary by the great increase of members, was given by Bro. Gibson. Two new candidates were proposed for advancement, with four other approved brethren, at the ensuing meeting. Lodge was then closed, and refreshment followed labour.

Joppa Lodge, No. 168.—The regular meeting was held on Monday, the 6th inst., at the Albion Hotel, Aldersgate-street, Bro S. Hickman I.P.M. in the chair, in the absence of the W.M., Bro. G. A. Deacon. Bros. L. Lazarus S.W., Miller J.W., L. Auerhaan Treasurer, E. P. Albert G.P. Secretary, M. Spiegel S.D., M. Byman I.G., Campion D.C., Baker and H. P. Isaac Stewards, and Past Masters Bros. L. Alexander, I. Abrahams, H. M. Levy, M. Alexander, and Bros. Sirmsky, Barnes, J. S. Lyon, Benjamin, A. Auerhaan, Bottenheim, Botibol, Genese, Hymans, Walters, Rogers and Verdon. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. J. L. Shuter C.C., late a member of this Lodge, was unanimously elected a joining member. There being no other business, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to slight refreshment. The acting W.M. proposed the usual toasts. Bro. E. P. Albert responded for the "Grand Officers," and Bro. Alexander P.M. for the "Joppa Benevolent Fund." Bro. Hickman then proposed "The Joining Member," who they were proud to see among them, he had been initiated in that Lodge 27 years since. The fact of his remaining was evidence that the Lodge of Joppa maintained its high character. Bro. Shuter replied. Bro. L. Alexander then proposed the health of Bro. S. Hickman I.P.M. Although they regretted the absence of the W.M., they were presided over by one in every way qualified to fill his position. Bro. Hickman replied, and proposed the toast of "The Visitors." They had one among them whose name was a household word in Masonry and Masonic charities. This brother had stated that it was his intention to get £1,000 for the Boys' School, and he was sure that, by his indomitable perseverance, he would accomplish what he had undertaken. Bro. Constable replied, and said how pleased he was to visit one of the sister Lodges; but he might say the Tranquillity was its parent Lodge. He then gave a very interesting account of the history of the two Lodges, and, in conclusion, stated that he sincerely hoped to be able to hand the sum mentioned to the Boys' School. There were many candidates for the other two institutions, and the brethren would see the necessity of supporting them all. Bro. H. Young 279 also replied. Bro. Israel Abrahams, in a few trite remarks, returned thanks for the Past Masters. He felt pleasure in responding, inasmuch as one of their number had been selected for a Grand Officer. He would feel it an honour to represent this Lodge at the next Boys' School Festival. Bro. H. M. Levy would again represent the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and Bro. S. Davis the Girls' School. All had the interests of the Lodge at heart, and all felt a pleasure in representing those noble institutions. The toast of the Wardens was given, the acting W.M. saying how excellently they had discharged their duties; he hoped they would eventually occupy the Master's chair. The toast of the Secretary and Treasurer followed, the latter Bro. responding. Bros. Spiegel, Hymans, Isaac and Baker returned thanks for the Junior Officers, and the Tyler's toast was given. Bros. J. Constable and Benjamin contributed to the harmony.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—The members met on Saturday, the 4th of November, at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, corner of Church-road, Islington. Present—Bros. Main W.M., G. E. Cook S.W., Macarthy J.W., Killick Secretary, Halford Treasurer, Defries S.D., Cohen J.D., Powell I.G. Past Masters—Bros. Moss, Mather, &c. Business—The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Staley acting as candidate, and showing that he had already made considerable progress in Masonic knowledge. Bro. Moss took the chair, for the purpose of rehearsing the ceremony of installation. Bro. Main, as W.M. elect, was presented by Bro. Pearcy. The ceremony being rendered with marked eloquence, the investment of officers followed. Bro. J. L. Mather P.M. 65, 1227, 1471, who was prevented from occupying the chair on this occasion by indisposition, at the request of several members, has consented to rehearse the ceremony of installation at an early date, due notice of which will be given.

Sincerity Lodge, No. 174.—In our report of the proceedings of this Lodge, in issue of 21st ult., we omitted the name of Bro. F. Brown, S.W. 1607, who acted as Hon. Secretary to the Testimonial Committee. We must apologise to our good brother Brown for the oversight, as the success of the presentation was mainly owing to his indefatigable exertions. He enters upon any good work with profound pleasure, and is most energetic in all he undertakes for the benefit of the order at large, or individual brethren in particular, and we wish him health and strength to continue his labours of love. There is not a more sincere brother in the Lodge of Sincerity.

Rutherglen.—At a special meeting of this lodge, held on Friday evening—Bro. J. Cunningham, P.M., presiding—the following gentlemen were nominated for election for the various offices:—D. Stuart R.W.M., J. Cunningham P.M., M. Abbott D.M., G. M'Call S.M., John Murdoch J.M., Thomas Alston S.W., John Whyte J.W., William Young J.R., W. Gardiner Treasurer, Alexander Warnock Secretary, A. Robertson S.D., P. M. Ross J.D., Thomas Simpson J.D., A. Brown P.G.S., H. Aitken S.S., M. Sparkis J.S., A. Pearson Chaplain, John Terrie B.B., J. Kennedy B.B., J. Shields S. Bearer, W. Carlin I.G., J. Cairns Tyler.

United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Wednesday, the 1st November, at the Grafton Arms, Prince of Wales-road, Kentish-town. Present—Bros. J. N. Frost P.M. and P.Z. W.M., Wuest P.M. S.W., Limebeer P.M. J.W., C. Koester P.M. 435 Secretary, Peever P.M. Treasurer, Binnie S.D., Carter J.D., Keil I.G. Past Masters—Bros. Slymann, Ash, Sedgwick, Kew, Halsey, H. Slyman, and Scott. Visitors—Bros. E. J. Everdell 1579, O. S. Brown S.W. 1237, J. H. Thompson P.M. 1237, P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex. Business—The Lodge was opened in the three degrees. Minutes read. Resumed to the first degree, and, according to announcement, the Fifteen Sections were worked, the following brethren assisting the W.M.:—First Lecture—Bros. Wuest, Limebeer, Carter, Peever, Koester, Frost, Ash. Second Lecture—Bros. Halsey, Kew, Slyman P.M., Ash, Sedgwick. Third Lecture—Bros. Peever, Sedgwick, Koester. Bros. Past Masters Kew and Sedgwick were unanimously elected honorary members. A cordial vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Frost. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in harmony at 10 o'clock. Our brethren in the north of London, who may have an hour to spare on the Wednesday evening, should drop in at this Lodge of Instruction; we are sure they will be pleased with the way in which the business is conducted.

Lily of Richmond Lodge of Instruction.—The annual banquet was held on Saturday, the 4th instant, at the Greyhound Hotel. Present: Bros. Kyezor as W.M., Digby S.W., Harris J.W., Hopgood S.D., Hurst J.D., Fisher I.G., Phillips Secretary and Preceptor, and several brethren. The Lodge was opened and closed in usual form. The brethren then sat down to an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Palmer, whose catering is well known and appreciated. The usual toasts, both Loyal and Masonic, were briefly given. The event of the meeting was the presentation to Bro. Phillips, by the W.M., in the name of the Lodge, of twelve silver tea spoons and a pair of sugar tongs, in recognition of his valuable services. Bro. Phillips returned thanks for the valuable present. He referred to the increasing numbers of those who had joined. There were some others who were about to do so. Several other toasts were given, and excellent harmony was rendered by Bro. Hurst, Phillips, Digby, and Harris. The "Tyler's" toast was given, and the brethren separated. A subscription in connection with the above Lodge of Instruction was made by about forty brethren, to enable them to become life governors of the three Masonic institutions.

Commercial Lodge, No. 340.—The Installation meeting of this highly influential Lodge was held in their own hall, 80 Hope-street, Glasgow, on Friday, 3rd Nov. Present—J. Munro R.W.M., J. M. Oliver S.W., Thomas Graham J.W., P.M.'s J. Davison and W.W. Smith, with a very large attendance of brethren. The Lodge having been opened to the Fellow Craft Degree, the R.W.M requested Bro. Oliver S.W. to work the second degree, which he did in a very able manner. The election of officers was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—J. Munro R.W.M. (re-elected), J. M. Oliver D.M., J. Colquhoun S.M., G. Scott Treasurer, J. Smith Sec., Wm. Finlay S.W., R. Reid J.W., Wm. Kell S.D., Alex. Patterson J.D., G. Macpherson Jeweller, J. Clark B.B., J. M. Duncan D.C., R. Brodie D.M., Wm. Muir President of Stewards, Alex. Park I.G., and James Minnock Tyler. Bro. J. Davison, one of the founders, and an old P.M., then initiated Bro. Munro, for the second time, also his Depnty and Substitute Masters, Bro. J. Munro installing the rest of his officers, Bro. G. W. Wheeler delivering the concluding charges to the Master and Wardens. The thanks of the Lodge were given to Bros. Wheeler and Davison. The former, in replying, said he considered it an honour to assist in the Installation of the Officers of the Commercial Lodge, which stood second to none in the city of Glasgow. It was always a source of gratification to any good Mason to assist at installations, but in this instance it was an additional pleasure, as, from the personal knowledge he had of the R.W.M., whom they had very wisely re-elected, there was not a more efficient worker in the Province. Their D.M., while S.W., had also shown his ability to work all the degrees. The S.M. was a brother whom any Lodge might be glad to enrol amongst its members, and both the Wardens had shown, by previous work, that they were worthy of preferment. In fact, the same remark would apply to the other officers; no doubt this made the thanks rather due from him, for the honour conferred, rather than to him for his slight services. Bro. J. Davidson said, as one of the founders of the Lodge, and an old Past Master, he had assisted at many such ceremonies but at none with greater pleasure. If he had never done anything else for the Lodge, he should still think he was entitled to their thanks for having introduced their present R.W.M. to the Lodge and to the Order. Bro. Munro acknowledged the compliment that had been paid him, his conduct in the past was the best guarantee for what he would do during the ensuing year; and, first, they would have an emergency meeting, that night week, to confer the third degree on those entitled, as it was too late to do so that evening. He also expected two or three candidates for initiation on that night. Arrangements were then made for celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Lodge on the 23rd inst. The Lodge was then closed in peace.

Cornubian Lodge, No. 450, Hayle.—The regular monthly meeting of this Lodge took place on Thursday, 2nd inst. The Lodge was opened in due form by Bro. George Stevens W.M., assisted by his full staff of officers. The business of the evening—To initiate Mr. Paull, to raise Bro. Boase, to elect W.M. for the ensuing year &c., &c. After the ordinary business was transacted, Mr. Paull not being present, the Lodge was opened in the 2nd, degree, when Bro. Boase was examined as to his proficiency; after giving satisfactory proofs, he retired. The Lodge was then opened to the 3rd degree, when the candidate was re-admitted and raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason. The ceremony was worked to perfection by the W.M., the working tools, lecture, &c., were given impressively by Bro. Bigglestone Spray J.D. The Lodge was then closed down, when the voting papers were issued to elect the W.M. for the ensuing year. The votes were in favor of Bro. Gilbert B. Pearce, S.W. The Brethren, ("55") retired to a supper provided by the Stewards, on the premises, and a most comfortable evening was spent, several Visiting Brethren were present. The annual meeting will take place 27th Dec., when the W.M. elect will be installed in the chair by the retiring W.M.

Thistle and Rose, No. 173.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on the 7th instant, at 213 Buchanan-street. Bros. G. McDonald R.W.M., A. McLeod S.W., A. Wright as J.W., Wm. Kay S.D., J. Kay J.D., G. McDonald jun. I.G., R. Richards Secretary. Upon the dais were Bros. Dr. J. McInnis, R.W.M. elect of No. 27, and G. Wilson, Chaplain of No. 27, who applied to have a candidate of their Lodge, Mr. Alexander Keller, initiated. This request was granted, and the candidate duly initiated by Bro. McDonald. Bro. G. W. Wheeler then passed two brethren to the Fellow Craft Degree, one for the Thistle and Rose, the other for St. Mungo, No. 27. The Lodge was again raised, and Bro. McDonald, in his usual careful manner, raised two brethren to the Sublime Degree.

Manchester Lodge of Instruction, No. 179.—The Fifteen Sections were worked at the Yorkshire Grey Tavern, Charlotte-street, Fitzroy-square, on Saturday, 4th November. Bros. Koester P.M. 435 as W.M., Frost P.M. 704 S.W., Belfrage 179 J.W. The Lodge of Instruction was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. The Sections were worked as follows:—1st Lecture—Bros. Buscall, Koester, Busch, Cooke, Belfrage, Frost, Sedgwick. 2nd Lecture—Carter, Kew, Koester, Ash, Sedgwick. 3rd Lecture—Kew, Harden, Frost. The working was perfect, and the W.M., Bro. Koester, received a vote of thanks, which was recorded on the minutes. The brethren were informed that the ceremony of Installation would be rehearsed on Saturday evening, 11th Nov., at eight o'clock. Bro. Frost would occupy the chair. He hoped the attendance of the brethren would equal that of the present occasion.

Lodge Union, No. 332.—At the regular meeting, held at 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow, on Monday, 6th Nov., which was very fully attended, Bro. D. McKirdy was unanimously nominated again for the office of Master. Bros. James Balfour, Wm. Murray and John McInnis were also unanimously chosen as the D.M., S.M., and S.W. Bros. J. H. Gill and J. Laird were nominated Secretary and Treasurer. Bros. Wm. Hoy and J. Findley were nominated for the post of J.W There was also competition for most of the other offices.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting of the above Lodge took place at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 7th November. Present—Bros. Weige W.M., Cambridge S.W., W. J. Smith J.W., Barker S.D., Williams J.D., Defries I.G., Worsley Secretary, Willington P.M. Preceptor; also Bros. Dallas, Watkins, Bilboe, Perrin, Hewlett, Foliot, Hogarth, Perry, Knowles, &c. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Dallas acting as candidate. Bro. W. J. Smith worked the first four sections of the lecture in a masterly manner, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Cambridge was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. We would remind our readers that this comfortable and capital Lodge of Instruction commences punctually at 7.30, and finishes by 9.30. Brothers who wish to work themselves up should attend early, the Preceptor desiring to give each one a chance of taking office, and thus enable him to take a position in his Lodge with credit to himself and satisfaction to the members.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction.—This Lodge met on Thursday, 9th Nov., at Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, at eight o'clock. Present—Bros. Stewart W.M., G. Davis S.W., Shand J.W., Wray S.D., Lamb J.D., Docker I.G., T. Call Sec., Mander Preceptor; also Bros. Farwig, Watts, Neighbour, Blundell, Filby, Moore, Bower, E. Dutton, S. Lloyd, Collins, G. Lewis, J. W. Lewis, &c. Lodge opened, and minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Lodge opened in 2nd degree, and ceremony of passing rehearsed, Bro. Filby candidate. The 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th sections were worked by the brethren. Bros. Moore and Filby answered the questions preparatory to raising. The Lodge resumed to 1st degree, and Bros. Lamb 1567, Lewis 833, Dutton 765, Moore 1201, Bower 765, and Filby 1201 were elected joining members. Bro. G. Davis was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge closed. The Fifteen Sections will be worked in this Lodge on Thursday, 30th inst., at 7 p.m. Bro. T. Call will preside.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction.—At Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, 7th November. Present—Bros. Maidwell W.M., Ellis S.W., Hill J.W., Pennell S.D., Richards J.D., Brown I.G., Rudderforth Preceptor, Hollands Secretary, Baxter, Holtham, and Watkins. In the absence of Bro. Daniels, Bro. Maidwell took the chair. The Lodge was opened in due form. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Baxter offered himself as candidate for initiation, which ceremony was duly and efficiently worked by the W.M. Bro. Maidwell vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Hollands, and Bro. Maidwell having answered the usual questions leading to the 2nd degree, the Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and Bro. Maidwell duly passed. Bro. Maidwell then resumed the chair, and closed the Lodge in the 2nd degree. Bro. Ellis worked the 1st and 2nd sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Pennell was made a member of the Lodge. Bro. Daniel was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Bro. Rudderforth put a motion, seconded by Bro. Hill, that the Lodge meet at 7, instead of 7.30.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—The weekly meeting of this Lodge was held at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, Shoreditch, on Friday last, 3rd instant, at 8 p.m. Present—Bros. Hirsch W.M., Hallowes S.W., Groener J.W., Cleverley S.D., Lane J.D., Franklin I.G., Gross Preceptor, Townshend Sec., Lupinsky, A. W. Fenner, Pearcy, M. Barnett, Oldroyd, and Bolton, Lodge was opened in due form, with prayer, minutes were read and confirmed, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. A. W. Fenner candidate, after which Bro. Fenner worked the first section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Groener worked the second section, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Franklin, of Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, 1602, was elected a member. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to the W.M. for the manner in which he had fulfilled the duties. All business being ended, the Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned.

The Marquis of Lorne Lodge, No. 1354.—The annual meeting of this Lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, on Wednesday, 1st Nov. The Lodge was opened by the W.M. Brother Smith, assisted by his officers and an unusually large number of brethren, including nine P.M.'s, when the minutes of the last meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, when Bro. John Bowes, P.G.J.W. Cumberland and Westmoreland, was invited to take the chair as Installing Master. Bro. Dr. Hall was presented to the W.M., who was assisted by Bro. James Jackson P.M., for the benefit of installation. The first part of the ceremony being concluded, the Lodge was opened in the third degree. All brethren below the degree of an Installed Master now retired, except the W.M. elect, Dr. Hall, who was entrusted before he withdrew. A Board of Installed Masters was opened in ample form, Bro. P. J. Edelsten P.M. 1134 acting as J.W. The W.M. elect was then admitted, and duly installed into the chair of K.S., according to ancient custom. The Board of Installed Masters being closed, the brethren were admitted in the several degrees, and the W.M. greeted, saluted, and proclaimed. The W.M. then invested the officers for the ensuing year, and they were placed in their respective positions by Bro. Past Master Edelsten. The Installing Master, Bro. Bowes, concluded the ceremony by delivering, in a most impressive manner, the addresses to the W.M., Wardens, and brethren. The auditors having made their report, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren retired to the banqueting room, where a sumptuous repast was served in an excellent manner, and the brethren spent a most enjoyable evening, under the presidency of the W.M. The musical arrangements were under the direction of Bro. Kerfoot, Organist.

Elliot Lodge, No. 1567.—This Lodge held its first anniversary meeting on Saturday last, the 4th inst., at the Railway Hotel, Feltham, Middlesex. Present—Bros. John Mason W.M., Frank Green S.W., W. Dunham J.W., John Elliott Secretary, J. R. Nichols S.D., A. J. Ireton J.D., S. L. Green D.C., J. H. Pearson I.G., Potter Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. Hyde Pullen, C. Cottebrune, Buss, W. T. Howe, Col. Peters, &c., &c. Amongst the visitors were:—Bros. Scott, Swallow, W. Monckton, Knight, Bethell, Cox, Atkins, Burford, Hartley, Myers, Townsend, Legg, Hackford, Pullen, Homslowe, J. Nicholls, J. Green, E. Massey, Henman, Yeoman, Roberts, Rev. Dr. Finch, Forscutt, G. States, J. Nunn, G. Dore, J. N. Pimm, Morgan, &c. The Lodge room, though adequate to accommodate the members at their ordinary meetings, was not equal to the demands made upon it by the numerous assemblage of brethren who wished to be present at the installation of Bro. Frank Green. However, punctually at the hour appointed, the Lodge business commenced, with the customary preliminaries. Beyond the installation of the new W.M., and the investure of the officers for the ensuing year, there was no business on the paper. Bro. P.M. Howe acted as Installing Master, while Bro. Cottebrune ably fulfilled the duties of Director of the Ceremonies. Bro. Howe invariably does any work he undertakes in an eminently satisfactory manner, and on this occasion he gave those present good reason to be pleased with his efforts. The appointment of officers resulted in each brother who had served during the past year being raised a step. Bro. Mason was appointed Treas., while Bro. Elliott was re-appointed Secretary. Bro. Howe then delivered the addresses. The first duty the W.M. had to perform was an exceedingly pleasant one, it was that of having to present his predecessor, in the name of the Lodge, with a recognition of the services he had rendered. He then placed on Bro. Mason's breast an elegant P.M.'s jewel, and said that he was sure it would not be viewed in a materialistic manner, but as a memento of the appreciation by the brethren of his services. He also said that this gift was to have been accompanied with the presentation of an illuminated vellum, which, however, at this stage of the proceedings had not arrived. He had been told by Bro. Howe that it was possible it might reach them later in the evening, meanwhile he would hand over an elegant goblet which he had been deputed to offer for his acceptance. Bro. Mason said he was sure the Worshipful Master and brethren would pardon him if he did not make a speech. When he took the chair it was with the determination to do his duty, and these tokens of their regard proved to him that, whatever his shortcomings might have been, he had endeavoured to do his best. This concluded the business, and the Lodge was closed. It had been arranged that the banquet should be held in the room occupied by the School Board, but, at the eleventh hour, a spirit of opposition was raised, by one of the local magnates, against this being used for any such unworthy purpose as a Masonic banquet, and resulted in new arrangements having to be made. Bro. Harris, however, was equal to the emergency, and to work he went, the result of his exertions meeting with unqualified approval. The room was elegantly decorated, with flags and emblematical devices, while the banner of the Lodge held a conspicuous place. The dinner, admirably served, passed off most pleasantly. After grace had been sung, the W.M. rose to propose the toasts. That of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen was followed by the National Anthem, the solos being given by Madame Ashton, who was in capital voice. Bro. Green, in speaking to the toast of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales said, their Most Worshipful Grand Master was not a Mason only in name, he was quite competent to fulfil all the duties of the chair. He then referred to the Prince's recent visit to Glasgow, and spoke of his expressed intention to instal Lord Suffield as Prov. Grand Master of Norfolk, which event is fixed for the 20th of the present month. The toasts that followed next in order were those of the Pro Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon; the Deputy Grand Master Lord Skelmersdale; the rest of the Grand Officers present and past, gracefully acknowledged by Bro. Hyde Pullen; the Provincial Grand Master the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, and the rest of the Provincial Grand Officers present and past. The toast of the "Visitors" was greeted with applause, and suitably acknowledged by Bro. Joshua Nunn, on their behalf. Bro. Mason, the Immediate P.M., proposed the health of the W.M., remarking that he was highly esteemed by the brethren of the Lodge; that he had creditably fulfilled the duties of Senior Warden, and he (Bro. Mason) felt that before his year of office was over the Lodge would find their choice of Master had been an admirable one. Bro. Green acknowledged the toast, expressing his thanks for the kind manner in which his health had been proposed and received, and his hope that he should be found equal to the discharge of his onerous yet honourable duties. Next came the toast of the Installing Master, Bro. W. T. Howe P.P.G.P., felicitously proposed, and as felicitously acknowledged. The health of the I.P.M., Bro. John Mason, was then duly given, the handsome testimonial on vellum, signed by all the members of the Lodge, being at the same time handed to him. The inscription was as follows:—"Presented by the members of the Elliot Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of England, No. 1567, held at the Railway Hotel, Feltham, Middlesex, to Bro. John Mason, the first Worshipful Master, as a token of their high esteem and brotherly regard, and as a slight recognition of the great services rendered by him to the Lodge during his year of office. November 1876." Bro. Mason very feelingly acknowledged the honour of which he had just been made the recipient, and expressed his determination to fulfil his duty under all circumstances and at all sacrifices. The other toasts were those of the Masonic Charities, the Officers of the Lodge, the Masonic Press, responded to by Bros. Morgan and Massey; and the Tyler's toast. In the intervals between the toasts, a selection of vocal music was given, the artistes being Bro. H. Ashton, assisted by Madame Ashton, and Bro. Theodore Distin; Bro. Meen presiding at the piano. Bro. Distin gave his favourite songs, "Jack's Yarn" and "Nancy o'Bristol" with his usual spirit, and was rewarded with the heartiest applause.

Mount Edgcumbe Lodge, No. 1544, Camborne.—The first anniversary festival of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 1st inst. There was a good attendance of brethren to witness the installation of Bro. E. S. Angove M.R.C.S. (P.M. Druids Lodge Redruth); the ceremony was very ably performed by Bro. J. P. Penrose P.M. P.G.S.D., Phœnix Lodge, Truro. The Treasurer's accounts were very satisfactory, showing that, notwithstanding the expenses of the fitting up and furnishing the Lodge, all the liabilities were not more than £120. The newly elected W.M. invested the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year, viz., Bros. John Rosewarne P.M. P.P.G.S. 450 I.P.M., W. H. Thomas S.W., W. Rowe jun. J.W., E. Lakey Treasurer, J. T. Rodda Secretary, W. H. Trevithick S.D., Wm. Vincent J.D., J. W. Millyard I.G., Rev. W. Vine Chaplain, G. H. Cottam Organist, T. Bartle D.C., J. Terrill and R. Bate Stewards, J. Nicholas Tyler. The brethren then adjourned to Bro. E. Roger's, Commercial Hotel, where a splendid banquet was provided. Visitors present were—Bros. E. T. Carlyon P.G. Secretary, J. P. Penrose P.M. P.G.S.D., J. Ninnis P.M., H. P. Grant, J. Sims, Jas. Roberts, W. Michell, Rodda, Daw, and others.

New Cross Lodge, No. 1559.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Saturday, 4th Nov., at the New Cross Hall, Upper Lewisham-road, New Cross, Bro. H. Keeble P.M. 1275, and Secretary of the Lodge, in the chair, in the unavoidable absence of the W.M., Bro. W. B. Woodman. He was supported by the Wardens and Officers. The minutes of the former meeting were read and confirmed. One brother was passed to the second degree, and three brethren were raised. The election for W.M. resulted in favour of Bro. H. Keeble P.M. and Secretary, owing to the S.W., Bro. E. H. Thiellay, not being eligible, being W.M. of Lodge 145. Bro. F. Walters was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Church Tyler. The sum of ten guineas was voted to the retiring W.M., Bro. W. B. Woodman, for the purpose of presenting him with a P.M. jewel. The Lodge was then closed. Several visitors were present.

P. G. LODGE OF RENFREWSHIRE (EAST).

THE Quarterly meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge (Renfrewshire East) was held on Saturday last, the 4th inst., in the hall of Renfrew County Kilwinning Lodge, No. 370, Paisley. There was a large attendance. Lieut.-Colonel Campbell, of Blythswood, P.G.M. presided, and was supported by Bro. James Caldwell S.M. Bro. James Gilmour occupied the Senior Warden's chair, and Bro. J. Peters the Junior Warden's. The Provincial Grand Master then said that it must have been to the brethren, as it had been to him and every one else, a sad disapointment that the weather had been so unfavourable on the occasion of the recent visit of their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales to Glasgow. He did not think that the West of Scotland had ever seen a grander turn-out of the brethren. He could assure them that both their Royal Highnesses, the Prince and Princess of Wales, had expressed to him their great regret that the weather should be so unfortunately bad. Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales had written to his wife, to tell her how much gratified she had been with everything done for the reception of their Royal Highnesses in Glasgow, Renfrew, and at Blythswood, and with the manner in which the Freemasons had conducted themselves in Glasgow. Brother James Gilmour S.W. said that it must be a matter of gratification to the Masonic body to learn that their services had been so highly appreciated. To their Provincial Grand Master, Col. Campbell, they were exceedingly indebted for the noble manner in which he had entertained the Right Worshipful the Grand Master of Freemasons, the Prince of Wales, at Blythswood, and he moved that a minute to that effect be recorded on the minutes of the Provincial Grand Lodge. Bro. Jas. Caldwell, S.M., seconded the motion, which was unanimously agreed to. It was also agreed that Brother Colonel Campbell should send an excerpt of the letter written by the Princess of Wales to the Hon. Mrs. Campbell, to be engrossed on the minutes of the Lodge. Several motions which were to be submitted to the Grand Lodge were then considered, but were received unfavourably.

THE DRAMA.

"Brothers" at the Court.—The Haymarket.

THE pretty little COURT THEATRE was re-opened on Saturday last, with a new three act comedy by Mr. C. P. Coghlan, entitled Brothers, and a company which, if not as strong as that of last season, will nevertheless bear favourable comparison with the companies of most London theatres. It need hardly be stated that the change from Miss Madge Robertson to Miss Ellen Terry is not a change for the better, and Mr. H. B. Conway but poorly supplies the place of Mr. Kendal. As to the comedy with which Mr. Hare has chosen to commence his season, we fear we must pronounce it weak in plot, defective in incident, pretentious in style, and commonplace in matter. The impression which the author appears desirous to convey, that such and such of his characters are gentlemen of the very first water, is strikingly at variance with the extremely ungentlemanly—to put it mildly—conduct which he attributes to them. We have, for instance, the character of an artist, not a mere gutter genius, but a man of aristocratic connections, who, having allowed an inexperienced girl to place herself in a compromising situation out of a foolish attachment for him, does not scruple, afterwards, to taunt her with having done so, and to threaten to publish the circumstance. Is it possible to conceive a more despicable act, or a more detestable character? Yet the author appears to class him amongst gentlemen. Altogether, the play is unsatisfactory, and the impression left on the mind by it—if any—is unpleasant.

At the HAYMARKET we hear of forthcoming changes, notwithstanding that the attraction of Dan'l Druce continues unimpaired. A new comedietta is in process of preparation, entitled Birds in their Nests Agree, and we hear it whispered that, at the close of the run of Mr. Gilbert's comedy, Mr. and Mrs. Chippendale will return to the theatre.

THE

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. IV.—No. 99. SATURDAY, 18th NOVEMBER 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

MASONIC CANDIDATES FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD.

"Whosoever can,
And will not cherish culture, is no man."

MASONIC journalists have always endeavoured, with more or less success, to keep clear of party politics and those jarring jealousies of public men which have ere now soured so much of the milk of human kindness. The great movement having for its object the education of the people is not, however, a party, or even a political question. The beneficent act of Parliament which has called so many School Boards into existence, is charged with a high mission; its machinery and its principles are intended to "secure cultivated intelligence" to every English child. No man who is concerned for the welfare of his country can regard the Education Act, or the public bodies it has called into existence, with suspicion or dislike. The education of the people has become one of the pressing necessities of the age in which we live. Our artisans, who have been hitherto second to none of the world's craftsmen, have awoke to the perception of the fact that the development of education on the Continent of Europe has influenced, and must continue powerfully to influence, the honourable rivalry of trade. The higher the intelligence of the workman, the better will his work be, and, in those branches of industry in which art plays a conspicuous yet subordinate part, the need of special training and culture for the masses is felt, not merely by the masses themselves, but by those whose intellect and capital are employed in the direction and control of their labour. If England is to maintain her high place in the world of commerce, she must educate those toiling millions upon whose thews and sinews she has hitherto founded her greatness. Ignorance, with its almost necessary concomitants, vice and crime, must be banished from our midst, and the brains which have been endowed by nature with those high qualities, that are not exclusively the birthright of rank and fortune, must be cultivated for the advantage of the nation.

Feeling deeply the vast importance of education, and highly valuing the machinery that Parliament has provided for its due development, we cannot permit the pending election of representatives for the School Board for London to pass without a few words of comment. The contest in the City division promises to be a severe one, and there are candidates in the field whose talents and personal worth entitle them to high consideration. Foremost among them is the late Lord Mayor, Mr. Alderman Cotton, who has already done excellent service on the existing Board. He steadily maintains its policy, and he is not carried away by the specious arguments of those who seek to develope the "voluntary" at the expense of the national system of education. Bro. Sutton Gover, a prominent member of the Corporation, is the next candidate we would venture to bring under the notice of our readers; he was a useful member of the first Board, and is a warm advocate of unsectarian education. Mr. Gover is an exceedingly able man, an actuary of no mean repute, and he possesses a mind which is capable of mastering the most intricate and complicated details of business. He would be an admirable guardian of the public funds entrusted to the Board, and a steady worker on its committees. Last, but by no means least, we venture to say a word in favour of the candidature of our genial brother, Sir John Bennett, whose services, in the cause of the education of the people, are neither few nor trifling. Long before Sir John entered upon that prominent public career which he has pursued with so much zeal and consistency, he was an enthusiastic apostle of education. He has delivered numberless lectures, each having for its object the elevation and the temporal well-being of the working classes. He has served with distinction on a former School Board, and his ripe knowledge and eloquence would be advantageous to any deliberative assembly. Of late years, he has steadily identified himself with all movements which seek to confer "the greatest good upon the greatest number," but although he has been, and still is, a favourite of the public, he has never been its flatterer or its slave. He is a man of sound common sense, of brilliant wit, and his powers of speech are remarkable. We ventured, some time since, to predict, in these columns, that Sir John Bennett would one day be elected to "take his place in the great council of the nation." His qualities of heart and mind would render him popular in the House of Commons The House, of which we claim to know something, would listen with pleasure to his short crisp sentences, and his brilliant, but not malicious sarcasms, and if he did not win a prominent place, at all events he would be universally esteemed. His fellow citizens may not, perhaps, call him to St. Stephen's, but his fame has reached the ears of other constituencies, and he has but to bide his time. Meanwhile, he is fairly entitled to ask those in whose midst he has spent his life, to give him a seat on the Board which is charged with interests that have always been dear to him. He has made sacrifices for the public weal, and for the furtherance of those principles which have been adopted as the enlightened policy of the London School Board. The man who has laboured "to promote throughout the country the mental, moral and artistic education of the English people" is, we think, eminently fitted for a place in the councils of that great body that has built splendid schools where they are needed, in the midst of squalid dwellings, and which is fated to produce in the great metropolis one of the most glorious and most peaceful of revolutions.

MASONIC PORTRAITS. (No. 37.)

THE DEPUTY.

"Please your Grace, my Ancient;
A man he is of honesty and trust."

IN no country in the world are the essential characteristics of Freemasonry so clearly defined as in the United Kingdom. There may, perhaps, have been occasions when Continental Freemasonry has so far forgotten itself as to take part, more or less prominently, in the various political agitations which have marked the last century and a half; but never in England have the Antient, Free and Accepted Craftsmen ever descended into the arena of politics. Similarly, we have invariably abstained from all participation in religious discussions. Our Society respects every religion, but sides, directly or indirectly, with none of them. Hence it is that the progress of Freemasonry, in these islands as compared with other countries, has been distinguished by an evenness of progress which is quite exceptional. We respect and are respected by all classes of the community, be they of this or that political party, or observe they this or that form of religion. True, we now and again find ourselves a target for Roman Catholicism to aim its shafts at. We imagine, however, this is the act of a section only of that Church, a section which has, momentarily, obtained the upper hand, and, thinking it needful to indulge in occasional displays of spleen or power, attacks a body with whose tenets it is necessarily unacquainted. Be this as it may, there is no doubt that Freemasonry in the United Kingdom stands high in the popular favour. There is, moreover, another important reason for this. As the Fraternity takes no part in politics or religion, so it is confined to no particular class. It includes in its ranks men of every grade in society. The noble and the gentle, equally with the professional man and the tradesman, seek admission into the Order. Equally observant are they of the obligations imposed upon them. In Freemasonry, in fact, as it is understood in this country, we find in a great measure realized that ideal equality which so many wise and good men have sighed for. There is no eversion of the natural laws which govern all societies, no attempt to reduce all men to one uniform level. Socially, we retain such distinctions as belong to us, but a man has full scope for the development and practical application of such qualities of head and heart as he may be possessed of. The man of learning will find a splendid field for the employment of his talents; so, too, will the man of energy; so the man of tact; and, in short, so will every one who possesses one or more qualities distinguishing him above his fellows.

We have said we include in our ranks the noble and the gentle; and in no society is it so incumbent on these to observe the wholesome maxim, "Noblesse oblige." We may, however, venture to lay it down as an axiom, that those of the upper class who enrol themselves in our Craft are just those who require no incitement whatever to fulfil the duties of their station. Certain it is, that the titled members of our Order set a brilliant example of zeal and activity in all that concerns Freemasonry, which it were well, perhaps, that all Craftsmen should follow. Thus in our portrait, a fortnight since, of The Statesman, we pictured to our readers one who is never weary of promoting, to the utmost of his ability, the well being of the Craft. Our present sketch is of another eminent Mason, of high rank in the outer world, who has also shown himself to be as zealous as he is efficient in the performance of his duties. There is no difficulty so great but he makes up his mind to grapple with and overcome it, if possible; no detail so trifling that he overlooks it. While yet under age, he was initiated into Freemasonry, in the Apollo University Lodge, No. 357. This was in the year 1856, when he was a member of Christ Church. In the year following he joined the Westminster and Keystone Lodge, No. 10, and is still borne on the roll of its members. In 1862, he became W.M. of Harmony Lodge, No. 580, Ormskirk, and the year following, he was appointed Senior Grand Warden by the late Grand Master the Earl of Zetland. In 1865, he attained the honourable position of Deputy Provincial Grand Master for West Lancashire, and this office he exchanged for the still more honourable post of Provincial G.M. for the same Province, in 1873. On the accession to the Masonic throne of our present Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the merit of our distinguished brother was still further recognised, by his appointment to the office of Deputy Grand Master of England. He holds also a distinguished position in Royal Arch Masonry, having been appointed Grand Superintendent of West Lancashire in 1873, and Grand H. of the Supreme Grand Chapter in 1875. The latest addition to his Masonic honours was conferred upon him in the first half of this year, when, by the lamented death of Bro. W. Romaine Callender, the Provincial Grand Mark Mastership of West Lancashire became vacant. To fill the vacancy thus created, our brother was appointed by the Earl of Limerick, Grand Master of Mark Masons, the ceremony of installation being conducted with great éclat by the Grand Master himself. But these offices of dignity and responsibility are not the only claims he has upon our respect. He has regularly taken a leading part in the support of our charitable institutions, and the very last occasion on which he illustrated his sympathy with the cause of charity was at the annual festival, this year, of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. On this occasion he presided, and to show the esteem in which they held him, the brethren of West Lancashire supported him most handsomely, to the extent of over fifteen hundred pounds. We are further and especially reminded, by the ceremony that is fixed [illegible] Monday next in the good city of Norwich, of another occasion on which our respected brother played a leading part. This was at the installation of the late Hon. F. Walpole M.P., as Provincial Grand Master for Norfolk, in succession to Bro. B. Bond Cabbell. The ceremony of installation was ably and impressively rendered, and the reception accorded to the Deputy Grand Master was in the highest degree enthusiastic.

Thus far as to his Masonic career. In public life he has taken a prominent part in supporting the political party to which he belongs, and the services he has rendered have twice received some mark of approval from his sovereign. During the years 1866-67-68 he was a lord in waiting, and since the advent to power of the present Conservative administration he has held command of Her Majesty's Yeomen of the Guard. In fulfilling the duties of this post of honour, we find him present whenever the exigencies of state ceremonial require it. But a far more responsible duty, and one for which, by all accounts, our distinguished brother has shown himself admirably fitted, is that of "whip" to the Conservative party in the House of Lords. It is well known to our readers that those only are appointed to this office who possess in an eminent degree the important qualifications of tact, energy, and ability. The work which a "whip" of either party, in either House of Parliament does, is most laborious. It may not be very exacting, as to the intellectual energies, but no one would ever be entrusted with such duties who had not the keenest insight into all the various phases of human character, superadded to an energy that knows no bounds, and a tact which nothing will disturb. In his native county he is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant, as well as captain of yeomanry hussars, and honorary colonel of an administrative battalion of rifle volunteers. In private life he is loved and esteemed, as in public and Masonically he is admired and respected. Indeed, in his own particular province of West Lancashire there is, absolutely, no limit to the respect and affection in which he is held by all the brethren.

Such is a brief sketch of one of the worthiest of our English Craftsmen. We are sensible the portrait is at best an indifferent "counterfeit presentment," of the original. In detail, however, we believe it to be accurate. But whether the portrait be artistically or inartistically drawn, it certainly presents another link in the long chain of evidence we are ever and anon submitting to our readers, that Freemasonry is neither a silly hobby which men pursue for the lack of some more profitable occupation, nor a society of political agitators and irreligionists, whose aim is the destruction of order, morality and religion. The brethren we have sketched in these columns are among the most strenuous upholders of all our institutions; and among the foremost of them is the brother whom we have taken upon ourselves to describe as the Deputy.

THE COLOURED QUESTION IN OHIO.

THE question of recognising the Coloured Grand Lodge of Ohio, as a separate and independent Grand Lodge, has been settled, for the present at all events. Bro. Thos. J. Melish, Associate Editor of the Masonic Review, writing to the Keystone, under date "Cincinnati, October 19, 1876," describes, briefly but sufficiently, the result of the last meeting at Columbus of the Ohian Grand Lodge. The legality of the Coloured organisations appears to have been decided, not by a direct vote, but on a side issue. The Deputy Grand Master Cunningham began the engagement by impugning the constitutionality of the proposal to recognise the Coloured Grand Lodge. This was on Tuesday the 11th ult., but the discussion was cut short at noon, and not renewed till the following morning. The question was then about to be debated on its general merits, when Bro. Enoch T. Carson drew attention to the constitutional objection that had been raised the day before, and urged that this objection must first of all be disposed of. The G.M. decided in favour of Bro. Carson's point. That our readers may understand the full force of the objection which the D.G.M. had raised, we may state that the Constitutions of the Ohian Grand Lodge lay it down that the Grand Lodge shall be supreme "and have exclusive jurisdiction over all questions relative to Masonry in Ohio, and that it shall have appellate jurisdiction over all subordinate Lodges of Masons in Ohio." The proposition of the Committee to which the question had been referred was, to recognise the Coloured

Digitized by Google

Masons as constituting a separate and independent Lodge, provided they designated themselves "the African Grand Lodge of F. and A.M. of Ohio." The objection was that such proposition could not be entertained till the Constitution of the Ohian Grand Lodge had been amended in the manner required by law, which is, "that amendments be seconded by a majority vote of all representatives at the Grand Lodge, then be laid over for one year, be submitted separately to each subordinate, and receive the assent of two-thirds of them." Grand Master Woodward demurred to this, on the ground that "the action of Grand Lodge last year had assumed the constitutionality of the proposition, by submitting it to the subordinates." From this ruling the D.G.M. appealed, and when the discussion was closed, Bro. Carson demanded that the vote should be taken by Lodges, as the Constitution on test questions permits. This was accordingly done, and the result of the voting was, that 332 votes sustained the ruling of the Chair, while 401 votes supported the objection of the Deputy Grand Master. In other words, the Grand Lodge of Ohio decided, by a majority of 69 votes, that the proposal to recognise the Coloured Grand Lodge as a separate and independent body, was contrary to the Constitution, which must first be amended before such a motion could legally be submitted.

The result is that the main question of recognising Coloured Masonry is postponed sine die. It is, perhaps, matter for regret, that the Grand Lodge could not have discussed the matter directly. It is satisfactory, however, to find — and we may say this, without fear of being thought guilty of any partisanship—that, so far as the discussion went, it was confined entirely to the consideration of an important legal point. We conclude, from Bro. Melish's simple account, that no foolish sentiment about colour was allowed to find place in the settlement of a proposition which can only be determined, legitimately, on a legal issue.

HISTORY OF OUR LODGES.

MINUTE BOOK OF LODGE No. 6, ANCIENTS.

SOME time since we gave an analysis of an old Lodge Book of No. 6. Ancients, now Enoch Lodge, No. 11 on the roll of the United Grand Lodge of England. We have since this been permitted to examine what, till the discovery of the Lodge Book referred to, was the oldest minute book in the possession of Enoch. The first entry is dated 22nd April 1788, and the minutes are consecutive, with the exception of two breaks, one considerable, from September 1798 to 11th June 1799, the other of shorter duration, from the latter day to the 8th of October 1799. Moreover, though both ill-written and ill-spelt in many places, they afford, till towards the end, a tolerably clear view of the inner life of the Lodge, so far at least as minutes are likely to disclose it. It is greatly to be regretted that a gap should exist between these two Lodge Books. The last minute in the older book is dated 23rd April 1782, the first in this the 22nd April 1788, leaving exactly six years, the details of which are lost to us, at least as far as is known at present. It is possible, however, from the register of members in the first Lodge Book, to carry the list of officers down to June 1784, the last list of members being for the first half of the year 1784, leaving thus only four years for which we have no such memoranda; while the sequence of accounts is complete, as they run on in the first book without a break, till towards the close of the year 1798. Were the lost books forthcoming for this period, and also for the years between 1801 and 1810 and other years, Enoch Lodge would be able to boast of an unbroken series of records from the last month of the year 1770. Let us hope these losses may some day or other be made good. We now pass to the Minute Book, beginning 23rd April 1788.

The first record worthy of notice is the initiation, passing, and raising of a new member at the same meeting, owing to his going abroad. Many other instances occur, however, in the course of these minutes in which the three degrees are conferred on one and the same night. On the 11th November, in the same year, there is an entry to the following effect:—"It was ordered by the Wl. Master and the majority of the Lodge No. 6, to summon the Master and Wardens of No. 225 for a trespass committed by them, in passing a member of Lodge No. 6 through the chair in order to obtain a seat in the H.R.A., contrary to constitution." What followed this order, however, does not appear, as there is no further minute bearing upon the "trespass." There are no minutes between this date and the 10th February 1789, when we find it stated that the W.M. and both Wardens were absent. The absence of these officers is noticed in the next minute of the 24th Feb., while the W.M. and S.W. are again absent at the time of opening the Lodge on 10th March. Indeed, the occasion when they were present appears to have been of rare occurrence. We are not surprised, therefore, that some years later it was found necessary to take steps to revivify the Lodge. On the 12th May 1789, it is minuted that a "Bro. Major Carroll, of Lodge No. 678, Ireland, joined, and paid the sum of five shillings." On the 22nd September, a brother of Lodge No. 367, Ireland, having a certificate from G.L. Ireland, a member of No. 74, Exeter, and a member of Lodge No. 3 are elected joining members. The same evening the Lodge is honoured with a visit from Bros. James Perry D.G.M., James Agar J.G.W., the W.M. (Bro. James Gray), and several brethren of Lodge No. 81, and the W.M. (Bro. Reed), and J.W. of Lodge No. 240. At a Lodge of Emergency, undated, a Mr. Louis Des Beux is passed through the three degrees, owing to his going abroad. At the December election of officers, it is minuted that Bro. John Feakins is elected "Treasurer for life." On the 12th January 1790, we read that Bro. George McCormick "joined his mother Lodge, he not having joined any other Lodge since he drew his certificate from No. 6, which was unanimously agreed to." On the 9th March, a third instance occurs of a person receiving the three degrees in one evening, and for the same reason as in the cases already quoted. On the 23rd of the same month, the Lodge is "called to refreshment, on account of a Bro. coming from Sunderland, saying he was an ancient Mason, and, by examination, could not be found as such, therefore the Lodge could not admit him by ye report that was made." On 22nd June, a motion was made and unanimously carried, "to wear purple ribbons at the Grand Festival." At the meeting on the 24th August 1790, "A proposal was made summons'd (sic) the M. of Lodge No. 128, to the Steward's Lodge, to show just cause why they received Bro. John James Moore to become a member of that Lodge without a Sitiviate (sic)." N.B.—This word appears to have been a serious stumbling-block in the way of more than one Secretary of No. 6. On the 14th September, it is moved and carried "that a memorial should be presented to the W.D.G.M. Humbly thanking him for his great and good conduct in supporting the Antient Craft, &c., &c., &c. Humbly beging (sic) for his support and continuance for the future." A second motion was made, to the effect that Masters and Wardens shall be fined for non-attendance, according to the rules and articles of this Lodge, and, at the next meeting, the J.W. is summoned "to show cause why he do not attend according to regulation." In November, the same officer having been regularly absent in the meantime, is ordered to attend the next stated Lodge, but he does not, nor at the meeting when the election of new officers is held. On 28th December, the new W.M. and Wardens are installed, "according to Ancient custom and ceremonies." Indeed, it appears to have been the custom to instal, not only the Master, but the Wardens likewise. At this Lodge, we find a Bro. Leslie acting as Secretary pro tem, but whether this is the Bro. Leslie who was the Grand Secretary, we have no means here of discovering. It is further recorded that, on this occasion, there was "left bad money, 3s 8d"—a light half-guinea had previously been mentioned. In January 1791, the Lodge is visited by Bro. James Agar D.G.M. Among the visitors on 22nd February, we find the names of Bros. James Knight, P.M. of No. 13, John Hill, "of the Dispensation, Maidstone," Brown and John Hill, members of St. John, Leslie, Grand Secretary, and Davis, of No. 231. In June, when the election of officers was held, two candidates stood for the office of Tyler, but the old one was elected on a ballot. Among the items of expenditure entered under date of 28th June, we find "To new purple ribbons for ye jewels, 12s." On the 12th July, occurs a curious entry. The minutes of 14th June having been confirmed, their confirmation having been adjourned from 28th June, we are told, "the chair being vacant, and Bro. Buckney having served all offices, it was proposed that Bro. Buckney pass the chair as Master, in which he was accordingly installed." The installation of the new officers was then proceeded with. In October, "Bro. Leslie, Grand Secretary, presented a resolution of the General Grand Chapter of H.R. Arch, that Bro. Walter Paulett, of No. 6, be censur'd for indecent and disrespectful conduct to the Gen. Grand Chapter, and suspended from all Masonic rights and privileges until he make such concession as shall be deem'd adequate by the Grand Lodge." Bro. Paulett, who was present, at once expressed his sorrow, if anything he had said in the Grand Chapter had given offence to the Grand Officers or any other brother present, and this concession being deemed sufficient by the Lodge, Bro. Leslie promised to present the same to the next Grand Lodge and Gen. Grand Chapter for their consideration. In April 1792 we read of a Bro. Denby, of Lodge No. 4, attending to solicit a contribution of 4s 6d towards defraying the funeral expenses of a deceased member of Lodge No. 63, who having been "one night bad" could not receive the charity; it having been agreed by several Lodges that he should be buried by contribution. On the 10th July occurs, as an item of expenditure, "Paid for Ribons for St. John's 9s." On the 12th February 1793, a motion was made that the Lodge meet on the second Tuesday in the month, thus altering the Lodge meetings from fortnightly to monthly. In April we note a payment to Bro. Frazer (Tyler) of one shilling, "for summoning Grand Chapter." On the 13th August the Lodge must have allowed itself a little extra indulgence, as among the expenses of the evening is entered half-a-crown for a bottle of wine. At the October meeting it was resolved to change the Lodge quarters, "the landlord of the Lodge House not being a Mason." Accordingly the month following it was arranged that the Lodge should for the future meet at the Horns Tavern, Doctors' Commons, the landlord being a Bro. Griffiths. In December, on the proposition of the Treasurer, it was resolved that members, when absent, should pay only eighteen pence instead of half-a-crown. In the minutes of 11th February 1794 it is entered that Bro. J. Feakins gave a lecture in the first part, but "was obstructed by the noise of the company in the other room." In July, there is entry of a sum of ten shillings and sixpence being paid to Grand Lodge towards the Grand Festival on the previous 24th June, with similar entries in subsequent years, and likewise of five shillings and sixpence expended in "ribbands." At the December election this year the W.M. proposed the Sen. Deacon, and the S.W. the Jun. Deacon. Amongst the visitors on the 12th April 1796 occurs the name of a member of the New Edinburgh Kilwinning, and also that of the W.M. of St. John's. At this meeting, likewise, the sum of fourteen pence is expended on a pair of compasses. In October 1799 it was unanimously agreed to remove the Lodge to Bro. Hart's, "The Bricklayers' Arms, Earl-street, St. Andrew's-by-the-Wardrobe." On this occasion Bro. Harper P.G.W. was a visitor. We further read that the W.M. "proceeded to install Bro. Cook Master and to pass the chair." At an emergency meeting on the 22nd May 1798, it was determined that all the members should be summoned to attend next regular Lodge night, and pay up arrears, under the penalty of exclusion for non-attendance. It was also proposed to remove the Lodge. Nothing, however, was done at the next regular Lodge, the business being ordered to stand over till the next meeting in July, when the usual election of officers was held. It is evident, indeed, from the irregularity of the elections, and the scantiness of the attendance of members, that at this time the Lodge was far from being in a flourishing state. The installation of the officers elected in July was ordered to stand over till the next meeting, but when that came, the Lodge was not opened, only two members being present. The same happened in September, four only being present. In October, and till June of the following year, no meetings were held. On the 11th of of the latter month the election of officers for the ensuing half-year was held. In the October following a move is arranged to Mr. Bass's house, the Manchester Arms, Baker-street, Manchester-square, and the move is made the very next month, when three brethren, Bros. Sinclair, Stork, and Hughes, join as "honorary members, to assist to revive the Lodge." Of these three Bro. Sinclair is elected, and at once installed, as W.M. for the rest of the half year, and Bros. Stork and Hughes as S. and J. Wardens respectively. Bro. Feakins hands over the Treasurer's account to Bro. Stork. The landlord, Mr. Bass, is proposed as member. The week following Bro. Stork joined, by certificate, from No. 239, Chelsea. On the 1st January 1800, it is recorded that St. John's Day was celebrated, and the accounts of the Lodge regularly settled. We find, also, in the statement of account, "the hole (sic) of the expenses of removing the regalia of the Lodge No. 6" is set down as £17 2s. In the next minute we find the amount due to the Treasurer is stated at £25 1s 7d. On the 14th April a Lecture was given by Bro. Sinclair, of Lodge No. 10. On the 8th December another move is agreed upon, to Bro. James Carroll's, the Goat, Stafford-street, Bond-street. Arrangements are also made to liquidate the Lodge debts, amounting to £31 14s 1d, one-half of which is to be paid "the day following," and the other half by Bro. Andrew Barry. At this meeting officers for the next half-year are chosen, but on the 27th of the month other officers are appointed, Bro. Gray as W.M., the name of the S.W. being left blank, and Bro. Jas. Carroll being the J.W. On 12th January Bros. Gray and Carroll join the Lodge by certificate, and pay severally a joining fee of five shillings. There are no less than eight visitors on this occasion, six of them of Lodge No. 4, one of St. John, and one of 244. In fact, about this time, we should judge, the Lodge must have been making great efforts to attain to a higher condition of prosperity. On the 9th February, the visitors are twelve, among them being members of Lodges No. 4, 10, 192, 244, and 368. On 3rd March an Irish Bro., of Lodge No. 742, Ireland, and a member of No. 10 join, and pay each the sum of five shillings. At this meeting the W.M. proposes that each member pay, "for Tyling and an apron, 2s 6d." In May it was unanimously agreed to move to Bro. Proudfoot's, Jacob's Well, Charles-street, Manchester-square. In June the Lodge receives a fresh accession of strength, in the shape of four joining members from Lodge No. 37. Several instances are mentioned hereabouts of brethren passing the chair, by which, we presume, is intended that the rank of a virtual Past Master is conferred on such. It may be, perhaps, though there is nothing in the minutes to show it, that this honour was thus conferred in connection with the Royal Arch Degree. However this may be, these statements form the interesting feature of the concluding minutes, the last of which is dated "Jacob's Well, Charles-street. Manchester-square, July 7" 1801, the attendance on which day is set down at thirteen members and two visitors. Thus the Lodge, at the time we take leave of it, was apparently increasing in strength.

It remains for us to add, that this second minute book is by no means as well kept as the earlier one. We have said the writing is in many parts shockingly bad, and the spelling as faulty. These, however, are trifles. But though, except towards the end, we are enabled to form a continuous narrative, there is in too many places an evidence of haste and carelessness by no means creditable to the officers. The following lists of the principal officers have been compiled from the Minute Books under notice here and in a former issue.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am too much engaged on other matters to write at length, in continuation of this correspondence, and shall content myself, for this week, by thanking Q. for the opinions expressed in his last letter, and by submitting further examples for consideration.

Preceptor No. 1 says: "He hopes to find that which was lost with the centre."

Preceptor No. 2 says: "within a centre;" a great difference, and one of considerable moment. It is admitted that we ought to understand what we talk about.

Again, and here is something in which I am sure many of the better educated continually err (and only for the want or neglect of consideration). Preceptor No. 1 says: of something being "more honorable than the Order of the Garter, or any other," &c.

No. 2 says: "than the Star and Garter, or," &c. And No. 3 says "than the Star, Garter, or," &c.

I shall shortly gather together all the discrepancies I have submitted, and set the remarks of your correspondents against same. Meanwhile, I must say I should like to have other opinions besides those we have been favoured with, and probably some other of your numerous readers might look over the correspondence on this subject, from the commencement, and lay their views before the Brethren, so that in respect of these variations, we may decide, "Which is correct?"

Yours fraternally,

JAMES STEVENS,

P.M., P.Z., &c.

Clapham, 14th November 1876.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your correspondent Q. ably answers the question of the Masonic Paradox, but will you allow me space to give a third reading. There have been more foggy answers given than probably any other, each answer being open to objection from those who have analysed the matter.

I remember arguing the various answers usually given with that most excellent Mason, Stephen Barton Wilson (the Gamaliel at whose feet I sat to gather most of my Masonic knowledge), when I suggested that this reading would meet all objections.

"The sun being that great body round which the earth, &c. on its own axis. Freemasonry being universally spread over the surface of the earth," &c.

He agreed with me, and said he would introduce it at the Lodge of Emulation. Whether he did so or not, I cannot say. I saw him but once again before his lamented death, and forgot to mention the subject.

I am not one to expect uniformity of working, knowing that not even Masons can agree on all points,—"quot homines tot sententiæ"—besides, Masonry is a "progressive science," and there can be no progression where infallibility is claimed; but I think "grammar, rhetoric," and, above all, "truth," should ever be kept in view.

I remain, yours fraternally,

H. E. FRANCES P.P.G.D., Preceptor.

BALLOTS FOR LIFE GOVERNORSHIPS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—From several letters which I have received, I believe an idea exists that the Province of Devon will derive some advantage from the sale of tickets which I have issued for a drawing for Life Governorships in connection with my Stewardship at the forthcoming Festival in aid of the funds of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons.

Permit me to state, most distinctly, this is not the case. Each Province will have as many Life Governorships specially appropriated to it as the amount subscribed therein will permit, and the drawing will be further localised by appropriating our Life Governorships to each town, or even a building in which several Lodges are held (as in London, and other large places), or to one Lodge for every 100 tickets sold in such town, &c.

The tickets issued to R.A. Chapters, Mark Lodges and K.T. Preceptories will be secondarily dealt with, and will form a separate series, except in cases when such Chapter, &c. desires to unite with the Craft Lodge to which it is attached.

I hardly expect the members of Chapters, &c. personally to purchase tickets if they have previously done so, but I hope every Chapter, Mark Lodge and Preceptory will itself purchase a book of tickets, with the knowledge that, for every five books taken, one Life Governorship will be created.

I propose, with your permission, to publish in your columns, a statement of account, showing the moneys which I have received, and the successful numbers, and to forward the official receipts to the holders thereof.

I need hardly say that additional books of tickets may be obtained from,

Yours fraternally,

J. EDWARD CURTEIS,

P.M. 189, 1247, P.S.G.W. Devon, P.M. 35 Mark Lodge, Grand Mark Deacon, Arch Treasurer of the Order of the Temple, V.P.R.M.I.B., &c., &c.

THE ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED RITE.

The Sovereign Chapter of Mount Calvary of Knights of the Pelican and Eagle, and Princes of the Order of Rose Croix of H.R.D.M.—The Convocation of the members of this very old Chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, 33 Golden-square, W., on Friday, the 10th inst., when Bro. William Roebuck 31° was duly installed as M.W.S. by Bro. Hyde Pullen 33°. Amongst the brethren present we noticed: Ill. Bros. Captain Philips 33° P.M.P.S.G.C., Major Shadwell Clerke 33° G.S.G., Bro. Rosenthal 33° of France, Bros. Paas 30°, Stohwasser 30°, Coffin 30°, Dewar, Morgan, Driver, Crossley, Nicole, Raymond, &c. The business being ended, the members adjourned to the Café Royal, where a sumptuous banquet was served, and all spent a most enjoyable evening, under the presidency of the M.W.S.

CONSECRATION OF PLANTATION LODGE, NO. 581, KINNING PARK, GLASGOW.

THE Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow met, at 4 p.m., on Monday, the 13th November, for the purpose of consecrating the Hall, and also the new Lodge, Plantation, No. 581. Bro. F. A. Barrow, Depute Provincial Grand Master, presiding, Bro. J. Baird, the Substitute P.G.M., acting as Chaplain, Bros. J. Morgan interim P.G. Secretary, J. Gillis P.G.T., J. Balfour P.G.D. of C., G. W. Wheeler 73, acting P.G.S.W., R. Brownlie, No. 3 bis, acting P.G.J.W., J. B. Hardie P.G.O.G.

Bro. John Miller P.M. 413 P.G.D. of M., conducted the choir, and contributed much to enhance the solemnity of the Consecration, which was admirably conducted by Bro. Barrow and his assistants. In the course of his address, the acting P.G.M. dwelt on the great service that Masonry, and its progenitors, the Egyptian children and Greek mysteries, had done, by enlarging the human mind, by directing it to the study of the liberal arts and sciences, causing men also to study Nature, and leading them from that up to Nature's God. Thus, in what were called the Dark Ages of the world's history, all the leading men were those who were well skilled in those Mysteries. We read in Holy Writ that Moses was well skilled in all the learning of the Egyptians, and this learning was transmitted from one generation to another amongst the initiated, and confined principally to them. Now, however, by the spread of science and knowledge, the great mass of the people are learning these truths, and they are not kept in the breast of Masons, but we love Masonry now, not because of the power it confers on its possessors, as of old, but because of the wondrous beauty of its principles—Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth. The relief that brotherly love induces us to give may be, and often is, pecuniary charity, but there is also that feeling of sympathy with a brother's wants, and a desire to contribute to his happiness, which can be given by the poorest of the brethren. He may be too poor to give even a sixpence in cash, but he may give that which is above all money value—the sympathy of a kind and affectionate heart. A word of advice, or of friendly caution, is often of great value, especially when in a distant land or on a foreign shore, but to cultivate this feeling properly, we want to have good men to begin to work upon, and the new Lodge, he hoped, would look out for members who already had large, warm hearts, and, without doubt, they would be sure to be improved by becoming members of a Lodge where these feelings could be cultivated and refined.

At the close of the ceremony, Bro. Stobo, the R.W.M., in a few brief, but well chosen remarks, thanked the acting Provincial Grand Master, and the rest of the brethren, for their attendance, and the able way in which they had performed their duties, and proposed them all for Honorary Affiliation, which the Lodge agreed to with acclamation. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the adjoining hall, were refreshment had been provided for them. Bro. Stobo presided.

THE MAGAZINES OF THE MONTH.

The current number of Blackwood is excellent. "A Woman-Hater" is continued, but the thread of the story is somewhat broken by the narrative of Rhoda Gale's experiences. Miss Gale being the young lady whom Vizard met, in an almost fainting state, towards the close of the preceding part. The interruption, however, clearly has its purpose, as will be seen as the story proceeds. An article on "Swift and Macaulay," in which are noted the points that distinguished them, or which they possessed in common, is admirably written. We commend, in particular, the writer's censure of those who publish private letters and papers reflecting on the conduct or character of past worthies, without a thought for the feelings of the latter's relatives. "Pages from the Story of my Childhood" is a pleasantly-written narrative. The continuation of "A Run through Kathiawar" is certain to find appreciative readers. As a specimen of the reviewer's art, we commend to the notice of our friends the review of the second volume of Mr. Theodore Martin's "Life of the Prince Consort." The military reader will doubtless find much to interest him in the essay on "Army Promotion and Retirement," and the political will be equally taken with the views expressed in the last of the contents, "The Recent Home Agitation and the East."

In Belgravia are continued Mr. Charles Reade's "Good Stories of Man and other Animals," but we hardly think the present one of "The Exchange of Animals," in which a man sells his wife for a dog and twenty shillings, is equal in point of merit or in interest to the half-dozen that precede it. However, as the story of an English custom, now, we believe, entirely obsolete—though Mr. Reade's illustration of it belongs to a date within the last half century—we doubt not it will serve to amuse the reader. The illustration accompanying it is the best we have seen in this magazine for several months, the face of the dog, which seems to be enjoying the joke, being admirably expressed. Mr. Richard A. Proctor contributes a paper on "Astrology," well worth reading, and 'An Old Enthusiast and a Young Cynic' furnishes a round dozen of "Quips and Cranks," which are admirable. As to the serial fiction: Mrs. Lynn Linton's story, entitled "From Dreams to Waking," is concluded. 'Juliet' finds her married life with Cis Travers just what she might have expected from the circumstances under which it was contracted, and young Travers himself does not improve. The little Gretchen re-appears in a new character, and Colonel Fleming returns from India, so that there are new elements of interest in store for us. As to the other tales, we have nothing to add to our previous remarks.

The feature of Cornhill is the opening portion of a new serial story, entitled "Erema; or, my Father's Sin," by Mr. Blackman, author of "Alice Lorraine," current some time since in Blackwood, and other almost equally well-known novels. Mr. Blackman is a writer of considerable power, and the reader will doubtless anticipate that "Erema" will be a source of pleasure during the long winter evenings. Nor, to judge from our first introduction, do we think he will be disappointed. "Caritâ" is continued, so that fiction has in this magazine two capital representatives. In addition, we have noted "On Turkish ways and Turkish women" (part II.), which is sure to find many readers just now, when the Turk is engrossing the attention of all Europe. Among the other contributions, the following are in the highest degree praiseworthy:—"The Laws of Dream-Fancy," "Thoughts on Criticism, by Critics," and "Forgotten Jokes."

Baily is always welcome. Its programme for the current month is of the usual character, and includes more than one paper of special interest. Thus a glimpse is vouchsafed us at "Winchester Race Course," and the events and persons most intimately associated with it. Under the head of "Country Quarters," we have a short narrative of the "Surrey Union's" doings. In "Frank Leigh of Watercombe," Frank and the old squire he is visiting sally forth for an early morning's quest after the pole-cat. The experience is new to Frank, and he enters fully into the spirit of the sport. "Our Van" is more heavily laden than usual as regards matter, and as racily written as ever. In addition is a list of "Hounds," with the names of the masters, whips, days of meeting, and the country hunted.

The serial tales in the Leisure Hour, namely, "The Shadow on the Hearth," and "The Grants of Lochside," which are very suitable to the pages of this periodical, are both continued. "The Stone Age in Great Britain" is highly interesting. The Rev. W. Wright's contribution on "Turkish Law and Turkish Mis-rule" is an earnest appeal to the Great Powers no longer to leave the Christian subjects of the latter at the mercy of Turkish law. Then we have noted No. III. of "American Caricatures," and "A Stranger in St. Petersburgh." The experiences of the latter, coming as they do from the pen of Mr. Sala, when he was Special Commissioner of the Daily Telegraph, will be found very amusing. We have noted likewise two other descriptive papers, "Among the Mormons," and an account of "Girton College." In the usual "Antiquarian Gossip of the Month," and the "Weather Proverbs," we find recorded many quaint old customs and sayings. It is almost needless to say that the "5th of November" and "Lord Mayor's Day" occupy a prominent place; in the former, the quaint civic pageants which accompanied the Lord Mayor of former days being specially mentioned. Less well-known, however, are sundry provincial customs, such, for instance, as the Staffordshire one described by Dr. Plot, where children go round from house to house on St. Clement's Day (23rd November), singing—

> Clemeny, Clemeny, God be wi' you,
> Christmas comes but once a ye-ar;
> When it comes it will soon be gone,
> Give me an apple, and I'll be gone.

On this day the bakers in Cambridge hold an annual supper. On St. Catherine's Day (the 25th), young women, according to Hampson, "assembled to make merry, according to a custom which they called 'Catherining,' and which probably originated in the religious processions suppressed by the proclamation of the 33rd of Henry VIII." "Cattern Day" is celebrated by the lace-makers in Buckinghamshire, who hold a "merry-making, and eat a sort of cake called 'wigs,' and drink ale." On the 30th, or the day of St. Andrew, the patron saint of Scotland, "the Scotch, in their annual procession, bear singed sheeps' heads." In Northamptonshire, the same day was kept, according to Miss Baker, "by the lace-makers, as a day of festivity and lace-making; but since the use of pillow-lace has in a great measure given place to that of the loom, this holiday has been less and less observed." Among the "Weather Proverbs," the two following from Notts are worth quoting:—

> "If there's ice in November that will bear a duck, > There'll be nothing after but sludge and muck."

"If the ice bear a man before Christmas, it will not bear a mouse after."

The same prevails in West Kent, we are told, only goose and duck are substituted respectively for man and mouse. A similar one is noted in connection with Hallowe'en (11th November N.S.)—

> "If ducks do slide at Holland tide,
> At Christmas they will swim;
> If ducks do swim at Holland-tide,
> At Christmas they will slide."

But, as the writer remarks, "the experience of certain great frosts in 1565, 1683, 1762, and 1814 directly opposes this popular view." In the Midland Counties, it seems, there is a proverb to the effect that "if the wind is S.W. at Martinmas (23rd November N.S.), it will keep there till after Christmas."

In the Sunday at Home there is a short, well-written story of "The Suspected Man," in addition to which we have noted No. XII. of Dr. Stoughton's historical sketch of "Westminster Abbey," an account of a visit to "Pukapuka; or, Danger Island," in connection with the excellent yet often arduous, and indeed dangerous work undertaken by the South Sea Missions; a narrative of the life and labours in Biblical publication of "Constantine von Tischendorf," and a short story of "The Two Lime Trees." The frontispiece, "St. Martin's Mount," from Turner's picture, is admirably engraved.

The principal attractions in Cassell's Family Magazine are the notes on "Gardening in November," a paper by Professor Andrew Wilson, of Edinburgh, on "The Luminosity of the Sea," a highly interesting description of "The Dinner Tables of the Past," sundry wise directions by Mr. A. G. Payne as to the preparation of "Breakfast Dishes," and a paper exhibiting "The Daily Occupations of a Turkish Lady." In addition, there is a second article about "Washing at Home," and "The Eradication of Stains," and 'A Family Doctor' is seasonably earnest in prescribing "All about Asthma." The 'Gatherer,' as usual, is useful and instructive, and any one who may have needlework for which she experiences a difficulty in finding a market will meet, in these pages, with a solution to her difficulty. The two tales, "Caught in the Briars" and "A Hard Case," are concluded. Our hope is that their successors may prove as entertaining. "By the Hearth," drawn by M. E. Edwards, makes an effective frontispiece.

The third part of The Countries of the World has special attractions at this moment, when all the world is talking of the Arctic Expedition of Captain Nares, so recently returned to these shores. Dr. Brown is very happy in his description of Artic life, and the illustrations which accompany his text are in every respect worthy it. Among the most effectively drawn are those representing "Explorers disturbed by Walrus," "Recreation near the North Pole," and "Wave born Icebergs." "Polar Bear attacked by Eskimo Dogs," from an original sketch, furnishes an admirable frontispiece to the number.

We have also received Part I. of Canon Farrar's well-known work, The Life of Christ. Many of our readers, no doubt, are already acquainted with the merits of this work. It has, indeed, been generally eulogised, and no words of ours will affect the opinions which have been pronounced so unanimously. But the publication by Messrs. Cassell and Co. of a new edition, at a price that will enable all classes to include this important work among their biblical possessions, is a service to literature and to the public, which is deserving of all praise. We have plenty of literature of a cheap form, but it is only in the periodical issues of this and other publishing firms that we find quality combined with cheapness. At the same time, Messrs. Cassell, in bringing out The Life of Christ, at the moderate cost of seven-pence per number, have spared no pains to make the edition worthy of the work. It is admirably and profusely illustrated, those exhibited places and the customs and habits of the people being taken from photographs, to obtain which Mr. F. Mann Gord specially visited the Holy Land. The copies of medals, coins, &c., are produced under the superintendence of the Rev. S. S. Lewis, corresponding member of the Archæological Societies of Paris and Berlin, whilst the maps and plans are based on the latest geographical discoveries. Knowing this, we have no manner of doubt that this serial issue of Dr. Farrar's work will find an earnest welcome from all classes of the reading public.

The September number of The Masonic Herald of Western India contains a short but excellent article on "Masonic Secrecy," a full account of the meeting of the District Grand Lodge of Bombay on the 4th of April last, as well as of the District Grand Lodge of Bengal held on the 14th of June. In the latter we find a resolution passed, expressing the sincerest regret at the resignation, by R.W. Bro. John B. Roberts, of the District Grand Mastership, and a deep sense of the important services he had rendered to Freemasonry in the Province of Bengal. The general news is interesting, and we rejoice to find the Craft in Western India has so ably conducted an organ to watch over and promote its interests.

We have also received Nos. 2 to 6 inclusive of Vol. I. of the Standard, a monthly magazine dedicated to Freemasonry in India. This, likewise, appears to be admirably conducted, and some of the contents, notably an essay on "The Secret Fraternities of the Middle Ages," which gained the Arnold Prize at Oxford in 1865, sundry chapters from "An Ancient History of Freemasonry," and an article on "Masonic Mnemonics," are eminently readable. We wish our contemporary a long period of prosperity.

Among the contributions to the October number of the Masonic Jewel (Memphis, Boyle and Co., 279 Main-street), we have read with pleasure an article by Bro. Robert Morris, on "Dimited Masons," and an editorial, "Are You a Mason?" We have likewise remarked "A Statistical Table of the Grand Lodges of the Globe," compiled from annual proceedings, by Bro. John Carlowitz, Secretary of "St. Rosa Lodge, No. 16." Knowing as we do the labour that is involved in all such compilations, we think this statistical table is creditable to the zeal and research of Bro. Carlowitz. We shall judge better of its value when we have had more time to analyse it in detail.

MASONIC DEMONSTRATION AT DRYBRIDGE.

A General Meeting of the St. Andrews Lodge, Drybridge, took place on Wednesday, the 8th inst., for the purpose of installing the Proxy Master and Wardens, and investing them with the Masonic clothing of the Lodge. A number of the members of Grand Lodge, including Bros. W. Barton, S. M. Munro, and W. Bryce, took part in the proceedings. The Lodge was opened by the R.W. Master, Bro. John Campbell, and some preliminary business having been disposed of, the Proxy Master, Bro. H. Munroe, and Proxy Wardens, Bros. J. Macpherson and A. Daff, were introduced with the usual honours, and addressed by the Master on the duties of their offices. They were then regularly installed and invested in the very handsome clothing and badges specially prepared for the occasion. The Lodge afterwards did honour to Bro. ex-Convener Daniel Robertson, Grand Bible Bearer to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, who, in representing the Grand Lodge, had laid the foundation stone (on the 17th of August, 1872) of their new and beautiful hall, by presenting him with a very handsome silver trowel as a memento of that occasion. The trowel, which was manufactured by Bro. Alexander Hay, the Grand Jeweller, bore the following inscription:—"Presented by the Lodge St. Andrew, Drybridge, No. 380, to Bro. Daniel Robertson, the V.W. Grand Bible Bearer to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, as a memento of his having laid the foundation stone of the new Freemasons' Hall, Drybridge, on 17th August, 1872."—At the request of the master, the presentation was made in a eulogistic address by Bro. John Laurie, the Grand Secretary, amid the plaudits of the brethren. Bro. Robertson returned thanks for the compliment paid him. Bro. D. Shepherd was deputed by the Master to present Bro. Laurie with a very elegant gold pen and pencil case, in testimony of the Lodge's appreciation of his uniform courtesy to them, and the careful attention he had given to the Lodge business at all times. Bro. Laurie thanked them. The Proxy Master and Wardens were for a short time called on to rule. The brethren invited the members of the Grand Lodge to the banquet, and a very happy evening was passed.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The stomach and its troubles cause more discomfort and bring more unhappiness than is commonly supposed. The thousand ills that settle there may be prevented or dislodged by the judicious use of these purifying Pills, which act as a sure, gentle anti-acid aperient, without annoying the nerves of the most susceptible, or irritating the most delicate organisation. Holloway's Pills will bestow comfort and confer relief on every headachy, dyspeptic, and sickly sufferer, whose tortures make him a burden to himself and a bugbear to his friends. These Pills have long been the popular remedy for a weak stomach, for a disordered liver, or a paralysed digestion, which yield without difficulty to their regulating, purifying, and tonic qualities.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Herculee,') whose Herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ayr Scots.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Worcestershire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Bucks Advertiser.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Argus.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Queen and Princess Beatrice are still at Balmoral, in the neighbourhood of which they have been making frequent excursions. At Sandringham, the Prince and Princess of Wales have been entertaining a succession of guests, among them being the Prince of Orange and Princess Louis of Hesse, who took their leave on Saturday; the Earl of Beaconsfield, who returned to town on Monday; the Duke and Duchess of Manchester, the Duke and Duchess of Westminster, the Marquis of Hartington, and the Earl and Countess of Granville. On Friday night their Royal Highnesses gave a ball in connection with the Prince's birthday, and on Monday they drove to the meet of the West Norfolk hounds. On Monday, the Prince left Sandringham for Merton, the seat of Lord Walsingham, on a short visit. On the 20th inst., his Royal Highness will visit Norwich, for the purpose of installing Bro. Lord Suffield as Provincial Grand Master for Norfolk. At the conclusion of the ceremony he will accompany his lordship to his seat at Gunton Park. All the needful preparations have been made at Norwich for the reception of the Prince, and we doubt not the occasion will be a great success.

Bristol is in the habit of celebrating at this season of the year the anniversary of the great philanthropist, Colston, when the opportunity is taken for a great political demonstration by the rival political parties. At the Conservative banquet held on Monday evening, in honour of the occasion, Sir Stafford Northcote was the hero, and delivered a long and elaborate speech on the present political crisis. Mr. Lowe was present at the Liberal gathering held the same evening, and likewise delivered a long speech, in which he criticised the acts of Her Majesty's Government with a considerable amount of freedom. The one other Parliamentary utterance of the week that is noteworthy has been that of Lord George Hamilton, who very naturally defended the conduct of the Ministry of which he is a subordinate member.

Following closely on her Majesty's congratulatory letter to Captain Nares and the officers and crews of the Arctic Expedition comes an Admiralty Minute, which speaks in terms equally eulogistic of the services rendered to geographical science by the gallant members of the Expedition. The Minute very properly lays great stress on the arduous nature of the enterprise, and of the magnificent zeal and endurance shown by all, under circumstances the most trying. Nor has the Admiralty confined itself to this mere expression of thanks. The Minute includes a list of officers, each of whom is promoted to a higher step in rank, and a second list of those whose services are directed to be favourably noted; while as regards the petty officers and seamen, their Lordships promise, as soon as they have received Captain Nares's report of those worthy of advancement, to bestow upon them further marks of their approbation. The splendid fellows of the Alert and Discovery will deeply appreciate this kindly recognition of their services. The Queen has further commanded that the Master of the Mint be instructed to prepare a die, and cast a number of medals sufficient for distribution among the officers and crews of the Alert, Discovery, and yacht Pandora. Last, but not least, the officers and men return from their leave on Friday next, and the Corporation of Portsmouth are proposing to entertain the officers at a banquet, while a town meeting will be convened early next week for the purpose of taking steps to entertain the crew. Captain Brandreth and the officers of the gunnery ship Excellent will likewise give a dinner to Captain Nares and his brother officers, the 28th instant being the day selected.

On Wednesday evening a grand banquet was held in the Corn Exchange, Preston, in honour of the visit of the Grand Master and Directors of the Independent Order of Oddfellows (Manchester Unity). Mr. E. Hermon M.P. presided, and Mr. Clifton M.P., the Mayor of the town, Colonel Lowry, and others were present, together with a numerous gathering of members. Mr. Hermon congratulated the meeting on the great progress the Order had made. In 1845, it numbered 248,000 members, while in 1875 it boasted 495,000, or very little short of half a million. He also congratulated the Order on its objects, and the principles which actuated it; and he further threw out a most valuable suggestion, having for its object the prevention or adjustment of trade differences between employers and the employed. His proposal amounted, in fact, to the establishment of a kind of court of arbitration for the settlement of all disputes, the court to be composed of the secretaries and representa- of both sides. The utility of such a proposal is beyond all question.

The Great National Poultry and Pigeon Show at the Crystal Palace was opened on Tuesday, and closed yesterday. No more suitable place for such an exhibition can be imagined than the Sydenham Palace. There is ample accommodation for any number of exhibits; and, accordingly, when the show was opened to the public on Tuesday, it was found there were only very few short of four thousand entries. These included, among the poultry, some splendid specimens of the Dorking, Cochin, Brahmas, Houdan, Spanish, and other breeds; while the ducks and geese and turkeys were highly to be commended. Among the pigeons exhibited, there were the usual attractions in the shape of Tumblers, Pouters, Almonds, and Almond-Tumblers, Dragons, Jacobins, Archangels, and Trumpeters. The judges' awards appear to have given pretty general satisfaction.

The appeal of Captain Kuhn, of the Franconia, which ran down the British steam-ship Strathclyde, within sight of Dover, and so caused the death of a British subject, against the sentence of imprisonment passed upon him, was heard before a full Court of Judges, including the Lord Chief Justice of England, Lord Coleridge, and the Lord Chief Baron, on Saturday and Monday, when the conviction was quashed by a majority of seven to six, it being also understood that the late Judge Archibald, only recently deceased, was on the side of the majority. The majority was composed of the Lord Chief Justice, Lord Chief Baron Kelly, Justices Lush and Field, Barons Bramwell and Pollock, and Sir R. Phillimore; the minority, of Lord Coleridge, Justices Brett, Grove, Denman, and Lindley, and Baron Amphlett.

On Friday evening last there was a collision in the English Channel, within a few miles of the Eddystone Lighthouse. Within a few hours after leaving Plymouth Sound, the New Zealand Company's iron ship Hurunui, 1012 tons, bound with emigrants for Wellington, New Zealand, and having some 300 persons on board, ran into a barque, and had, in consequence, to put back to Plymouth. It subsequently transpired that the barque, which had a crew of eleven men on board, sank a short time after the collision, carrying down with her seven of the eleven. The remaining four managed to scramble into a boat, but having no oars, they drifted into the surf and capsized, one of the number being drowned, while the other three climbed on to the rocks in Polkerry Bay, in a very exhausted state. The Hurunui suffered considerable damage by the collision, and will probably be detained for some time in harbour, pending the examination she will have to undergo, and the inquiry that will take place. An equally calamitous accident happened on Tuesday morning, on the north-east coast, a few miles from Hartlepool, when the Norwegian barque Insuland was run ashore, having become so waterlogged on Monday night as to be unmanageable. Her crew were nine in number, but only one of them was able to reach the rocks in safety. As there was a terrible gale raging in the North Sea at the commencement of this week, this will probably not be the last loss of which we shall hear from the north-east coast of England and elsewhere.

In a few weeks the Smithfield Club will be holding their annual Cattle Show, and the Agricultural Hall, Islington, will be thronged with sightseers, all anxious to inspect the prize beef, mutton, and pork, and the agricultural implements that will be gathered together from all parts of England. About the same time the Alexandra Palace will be the scene of another interesting exhibition; a great Dog Show, to be held under the auspices of the Kennel Club, being announced for the 5th prox. and three following days, when over £1,000 will be given away in prizes. Londoners need such attractions as these when the weather is dull and muggy, as it so commonly is now at this season of the year.

While there is life there is hope, and so long as peace actually prevails, we may indulge in the hope, however visionary it may appear to be, that the fell dogs of war will not be loosed again in the East of Europe. Unfortunately, we have hardly had time to congratulate ourselves that an armistice has been agreed to, when the Czar of Russia addresses an assemblage of nobles at Moscow in a speech which, if it has been correctly reported in the daily papers, and words have any meaning, means war. And as if to make his Imperial Majesty's meaning still more clear, his Chancellor, Prince Gortschakoff has addressed a circular despatch to all the Russian ministers at foreign courts, the tone of which is said to be even more bellicose than the speech. Orders have at the same time been issued for the mobilization of six army corps, that is, of little short of a quarter of a million of men, with over 600 guns, and the Emperor's brother, the Grand Duke Nicholas, it is said, will hold the supreme command. An order has also been promulgated forbidding the export of horses from Southern and Western Russia. Thus, just when the commission appointed to mark the boundary between the late belligerent armies of Servia, Montenegro, and Turkey is holding its first sittings; just when the plenipotentiaries of the several Great Powers are hastening to meet in Conference at Constantinople, for the purpose of settling honourably the terms and conditions of a durable peace, the news comes upon us, like a thunderclap, that Russia means having her own way regardless of treaties, or going to war. No wonder there has been, these last few days, something like a feeling of consternation on every Exchange in Europe; that Funds have fallen, and trade is paralysed everywhere. Be it remembered, these are statements of fact, as recorded, by telegram or otherwise, in the various daily papers, not expressions of opinion. So, too, is it a fact that news is reported to have reached Berlin from Warsaw, that a rising of the Poles is imminent; so likewise that Turkey is arming to the teeth, so as to be prepared to meet, as best she may, the deadly embrace of the Russian bear. The news about the Poles, which may, after all, turn out to be a mere sham, reminds us of certain events in 1863, which are no more likely to be forgotten by the friends of humanity than are the Turkish atrocities of last spring in Bulgaria. However, we have stated the chief political news of the week, and that is all it concerns us to say in these columns.

A movement is on foot for the purpose of presenting a testimonial to Bro. Frederick Walters, who, during a connection with the Craft of about one-and-twenty years, has earned for himself the respect and esteem of his fellows. Bro. Walters was initiated in the Mount Lebanon Lodge, No. 73, in November 1855, and became its W.M. in 1863. He has been connected with several other Lodges, in nearly every case as one of the founders. He has also played an active part in Royal Arch Masonry, having been exalted in the Chapter of Hope, No. 206, in 1857, and subsequently M.E.Z. of Lebanon Chapter, of which, as well as of other Chapters, he was one of the founders. Bro. Walters is P.G.J.D. Midd., and P.G. 1st A.S. Midd. In Mark Masonry he was advanced in No. 1, St. Mark's, in 1857, was W.M.

Digitized by Google

Samson and Lion Lodge, No. 86, and is P.G.P. in Grand Lodge of M.M.M. He has also been installed in Prince's Conclave of Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, and was first Sovereign of the Rose and Lily Conclave. At this moment Bro. Walters is a subscribing member of eleven Craft Lodges and four Chapters, and has served the office of Steward to one or other of our Charities no less than thirteen different times. He is Vice-President of the Boys', and a Life Governor of the Girls' and Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution in respect of both male and female funds. The Committee has Bro. Dubois, P.G.S.D. Midd., as its Chairman. Bro. J. Baxter Langley, W.M. 1423, has consented to act as its Treasurer, and Bro. J. W. Baldwin, P.A.G.P. Midd., as its Secretary. Already several contributions have been promised, no less than eight Lodges and three Chapters being set down for sums ranging from two to ten guineas, irrespective of contributions from individual members. Bro. Walters has worked long, ardently, and successfully in the service of Freemasonry, and we trust the efforts of the Committee organised to raise this testimonial will be as nearly as possible commensurate with Bro. Walters's merits.

The first of a series of eight concerts of the "North Kensington Musical Evenings for Gentlemen" was given on Saturday, 11th November, at Ladbrooke Hall, Notting Hill. This was a great success. The following artistes assisted, and all ably acquitted themselves: Bros. Lazarus, clarionet; J. C. Arlidge, flute; Mr. J. B. Jeffreys, pianoforte. Several part songs were given by the London Vocal Union, and the singing of Messrs. Kempton, Kenningham and C. Beckett was all that could be desired. Bro. F. Walker was an excellent conductor.

A few weeks since Bro. Hughan, in writing to Bro. Pitt, Secretary to the Confidence Lodge of Instruction, expressed a hope that ere long the Lodge would "include Lectures on the History of the Craft in its curriculum." We are in a position to state that a brother, who is a member of that Lodge, has expressed his readiness to act upon Bro. Hughan's suggestion, and will deliver a Lecture the first meeting the Lodge can conveniently place at his disposal. If this prove a success, it will be followed, at intervals, by other lectures, as time and opportunity permit.

On the occasion of the visit of their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales to Norwich, on Monday next, the Great Eastern Railway Company will run, in addition to the ordinary trains, a special train from Ipswich at 9·45 a.m., which will call at the intermediate stations, and is due at Norwich at 11·55 a.m.

We understand that the Right Hon. Lord Waveney, R.W.P.G.M. of Suffolk, has appointed the Rev. C. J. Martyn, Rector of Long Melford, Suffolk, to be D.P.G.M. in the room of the late Rev. E. L. Lockwood. We venture to predict that this appointment will be very popular in the Province. Brother Martyn is not only an active and good worker, but a highly distinguished Mason, whose exertions in the cause recently inspired us to depict him in our Masonic Portraits, under the title of the Christian Minister. His numerous friends, both in the Order and elsewhere, will rejoice to learn that he has taken another step up the Masonic ladder, and has entered another sphere of usefulness.

The consecration of the Era Chapter, No. 1428, will take place at the King's Arms Hotel, Hampton Court, Middlesex, on Saturday, 25th November. The ceremony will be performed by Comp. Col. F. Burdett, Grand Superintendent Middlesex, P.Z., assisted by Robert Wentworth Little, G.H. Middlesex, and several Companions of distinction. Comps. T. J. Sabine, P.Z. and Treasurer 73, is the M.E.Z. designate, E. H. Thiellay, W.M. 145, H. designate, J. B. Langley J. designate, and F. Walters, P.Z. P.G. 1st Assistant, acting S.E.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked at the Burgoyne Lodge of Instruction, No. 902, Grafton Arms, Prince of Wales Road, Kentish Town, on Friday, 1st December 1876. The chair will be taken at 7 o'clock precisely, by Bro. J. F. Wuest, Preceptor, P.M. 753.

The Kent Lodge of Instruction, under the sanction of the Kent Lodge, No. 15, will be opened at Bro. Hallowe's, The Chequers, Marsh Street, Walthamstow, on Thursday, the 23rd inst., on which occasion the ceremony of installation will be worked by Bro. James Pinder, the W.M. of the mother Lodge, who will take the chair at 7 o'clock.

Bro. J. H. Jennings, the courteous manager of the Oxford Music Hall, who, since the death of the late proprietor, Bro. M. Syer, has conducted that establishment, announces his annual benefit for Wednesday, the 22nd inst. In addition to the company, many well known artists have volunteered their services for the occasion.

PROVINCIAL GRAND MARK LODGE OF CORNWALL.

The meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall took place at the Masonic Hall, New Public Rooms, Truro, on Tuesday, the 7th instant. Sir. P. M. Williams, Bart. M.P., Prov. Grand Mark Master, in the chair. A large number of members, belonging to the degree, from various parts of Cornwall, were present, the following Lodges sending representatives:—No. 78, Meridian, Redruth, No. 78, Fortitude, Truro, No. 87, Cornubian, Hayle, No. 94, Love and Honour, Falmouth, No. 101, Boscawen, Chacewater, No. 175, St. Michael, Helston. The meeting would have been held at Chacewater, but in consequence of the Masonic Hall not being ready, it was held at Truro, for the convenience of members. Sir F. M. Williams, who was enthusiastically received, referred in his opening address to the prosperity of Mark Masonry, not only in Cornwall, but throughout England, and stated the pleasing facts that Prince Leopold had been "advanced" at Oxford, and that there were now 200 Lodges, with 10,000 members, under the Grand Mark Lodge of England. He also referred very feelingly to the loss the province had sustained by the death of Bro. Thomas Soloman, late Prov. Grand Secretary, and expressed regret at receiving a letter from Bro. Reginald Rogers, resigning the office of Deputy-Prov. Grand Master, in consequence of ill health. The reports of the various Lodges showed an increase of members in the province. Bro. William Tweedy, J.P., No. 78, was appointed as Deputy-Prov. Grand Master, and Bro. William Tregay, No. 73, was proposed for re-election as Prov. Grand Treasurer, and the voting was unanimous in his favour. The following officers were appointed and invested by the Prov. Grand Master:—Bros. W. Tweedy, 78, D.P.G.M., Rev. W. H. Bloxsome, M.A., 175, S.P.G.W., John Paull, 101, J.P.G.W., John Coombe, 87, P.G.M.O., J. H. Reynolds, 78, P.G.S.O., T. C. Polglaze, 94, P.G.J.O., Rev. A. H. Ferris, 78, P.G. Chaplain, W. Tregay, 73, P.G. Treasurer, William Lake, 78, P.G. Reg., William Jas. Johns, 78, P.G. Secretary, J. R. James, 175, P.G.S.D. The sum of £5 was voted to the Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund. Several invitations for the holding of the next Provincial Grand Lodge were received, and the Provincial Grand Master promised to consider the matter. The meeting was one of the most successful ever held in connection with Mark Masonry in the province, and the officers appeared in collars and jewels presented to the Lodge by the P.G.M.—Western Morning News.

A GRAND LODGE FOR NEW ZEALAND.

A telegram in the Thames Advertiser states:—A meeting of delegates, representing the various Masonic Lodges in the Colony, holding under the Grand Lodge of Scotland, is to be held in the Provincial Council Chambers, Wellington, on Monday next, at four o'clock, under the presidency of Mr. Vincent Pyke, P.G.M., to consider the propriety of forming a Grand Lodge for New Zealand. Delegates from the north and from the west coast of the Middle Island have already arrived here to take part in the proceedings.

In Memoriam.

It is with great regret we announce, this week, the very sudden death, on Sunday last, of Bro. William Booth, at his residence, Cecil House, Crouch End. Bro. W. Booth was the first W.M. of the Robin Hood Lodge, No. 1493, which meets at Eastwood, Notts. He was a Vice President of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and was proverbial as being ready at all times to assist in relieving distress whenever and howsoever brought before him. His death will be felt by a very numerous circle of friends.

The death of Bro. J. Vause, of the Spotted Dog, Upton, Essex, after a long and painful illness, took place on the 15th inst. Bro. Vause leaves a widow and family, in addition to a numerous circle of Masonic friends.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

St. George Chapter Rose Croix.—Met on Thursday, the 9th November, at 33 Golden-square. Present—Capt. Philips 33°, Maj. G. Barlow 33°, Raphael Costa 33°, James Stevens 18° as M.W. Sovereign, Captain Portlock Dadson 32°, Lieut.-Colonel Somerville Burney 31°, John Read 30°, Bros. Wilkins, Jekyll, Harrison, Knyvett, Reeves, Drewitt, Saunders, Castle, Davison, Gibson, &c. Bro. Norton Ritherdon was perfected in the 18°, and a Past Sovereign's jewel presented to Bro. Frederic Davison 18° P.M.W.S.

Southwark Mark Lodge, No. 22.—The Installation meeting was held on Tuesday, the 14th instant, at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Bros. C. T. Sparks W.M., J. H. Spencer S.W., Horton M.O., Rev. Bro. Hatch Chaplain. P.M.'s Bros. Stidolph, Wilkins Treasurer, J. Read Secretary, Pone Assis. Sec., and Bros. Walsham, Smith, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed, also those of the emergency meeting. The Bye-laws, as proposed, were passed. The ceremony of Installation was then excellently rendered by the retiring W.M., Bro. C. T. Sparks, who installed his successor, Bro. J. H. Spencer, who then appointed his Officers. A cordial vote of thanks was carried by acclamation to Bro. C. T. Sparks, for the able manner he had performed the ceremony of Installation. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a banquet, provided by Bro. Spencer. The usual loyal and other toasts were given. The brethren were honoured by the presence of Bro. Col. Burdett P.G.M.M. Middlesex. Some excellent music, under the direction of Bro. J. Read, who was assisted by Bros. Hodges, Beckett and Lacy, was then given.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—On Monday last, at the "Old Jerusalem Tavern," St. John's Gate, St. John's-square, E.C. Bros. A. Rowley W.M., H. P. Isaac S.W., Killick Secretary and J.W., S. Jones S.D., Fenner J.D., Hunt I.G., Christopher Tyler; P.M. Bros. Beckett Preceptor. Visitors—Bros. J. Clark 188, Hunter 228, Field 917. Business—Lodge opened, and minutes confirmed. The ceremonies of the 1st and 2nd degrees were rehearsed, Bros. Pearcy and Trewinnard acting as candidates. Several sections were worked. Bros. J. Clark, Hunter and Field were elected members. Bro. H. P. Isaac was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week.

Panmure Royal Arch Chapter, No. 72.—Held its regular meeting on Monday, the 13th of November, at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, the officers present being Comps. Rev. W. B. Church M.E.Z., G. H. N. Bridges H., G. Waterall J., James Stevens P.Z. S.E., H. C. Levander P.Z. Treas., Henry Smith P.Z., M. S. Larlham P.S., Burrell 1st A.S., Thomas Meggy Steward, John Gilbert Tyler. Beyond the opening and closing of the Chapter there was no ceremonial business, but propositions for exaltation at ensuing Convocation, and some important Chapter business, occupied the attention of the Companions until the hour of refreshment, when adjournment ensued, and the usual "feast of reason" and "flow of soul" which has distinguished this Chapter from its foundation to the present time made the subsequent hour or two all too brief, and the inevitable separation the more to be regretted.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The weekly convocation of this Chapter was held on Tuesday, at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill, under particularly favourable auspices. The influx of Companions was greater than had been anticipated, and we are glad to know that this School of Instruction is once again merging into notoriety. Notwithstanding that one of its founders has retired from active service, there are Companions who we find ready to impart the knowledge they possess for the benefit of other aspirants for office. The members assembled at the usual time of meeting—viz., 6.30, and the Chapter was opened under the auspices of the following:—Comps. G. N. Newman Z., J. Constable H., J. C. Cox J., J. Boyd Treasurer, T. W. White Scribe E., Wm. Stephens Scribe N., J. W. Berrie P.S. Upon the minutes of the previous convocation having received assent, the M.E.Z. rehearsed the ceremony of exaltation, Comp. Bull being candidate. Comp. Boyd, the ever zealous worker, then explained the Royal Arch jewel in conjunction with the solids. We cannot but regret the absence of the acting M.E.Z. of the previous week, as he then attended particularly to hear this portion of the clause. We feel confident he will share our regret, knowing his anxiety to perfect himself in this branch. The election of officers resulted in the selection of Comps. J. Constable Z., J. C. Cox H., W. E. Gompertz J., J. Soex N., J. W. Berrie P.S. Comps. S. Rawson P.G. Supt. China, and F. W. Grist were elected joining members. Comp. Rawson, in returning thanks, said that although he had held a high position in the Craft during his lifetime, he yet wanted instruction, and he was pleased to testify to the excellent manner in which the business of the evening had been discharged. A few days since he was astounded to find an exception taken to his working, and the ostensible object of his visit was to test its accuracy. He was pleased to find that only a few verbal alterations (improvements, he must admit) were necessary to perfect his ritual. He also begged to add his testimony to the great treat afforded by Comp. Boyd, who had so lucidly and eloquently explained the R.A. jewel. He was aware that such erudition was manifested in this and other Chapters of Instruction presided over by our able Companion, but he had never before heard the elucidation as rendered, and he hoped that Chapters in general would take example, and enable members to obtain a greater insight of the inner working. He knew that time was generally run close, but still there were many who would be pleased to receive the explanations which he had heard. He desired to express his obligations for the courtesy he had received at the hands of the members. There were present Comps. A. A. Drew, G. P. Gillard, G. J. Row, W. Noak, Thos. Bull, G. K. Lemann, R. W. Goddard, G. Waterall, G. D'Arcy, Nathan Moss, &c.

St. Andrew's Chapter, No. 69.—This Chapter held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 14th inst., at 25 Robertson Street, the M.E.Z. Comp. T. Campbell presiding. There were five candidates in attendance, the ceremony being performed in Comp. Campbell's usual able style.

Mount Lebanon Chapter, No. 73.—The regular Convocation of the above was held on Thursday, 9th Nov., at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Present—Comps. W. Smeed P.Z. as M.E.Z., J. W. Baldwin H., J. Mason J., F. Walters P.Z. P.G. 1st Assist. Middlesex S.E., J. T. Moss P.Z., J. S. Sweasey, M. D. Loewenstark, J. H. Spencer, and several others. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. A letter was read from the M.E.Z., Comp. H. A. Dubois, regretting his inability to be present, owing to the death of a younger brother. Feelings of sympathy were exhibited by all present. A letter of apology was also read from Comp. T. J. Sabine. A ballot was taken for the admission of Comp. J. W. Clarke, 177, Domatic Chapter, as a joining member, which was unanimous in his favour. Ballots were also taken for the admission of Bros. W. Dunham P.M. 700, and A. J. Ireton S.D. 73, which also resulted satisfactorily, and they were exalted into R.A. Masonry by the acting M.E.Z. Comps. Baldwin H. and J. Mason J., with the other officers, being perfect, afforded the exaltees an opportunity of expressing how they were impressed with the solemnity of the ceremony. Several notices of motion respecting the bye-laws were given. Comp. F. Walters P.Z. proposed, and Comp. J. W Baldwin H. seconded, that a testimonial of the value of five guineas be given (from the funds of the Chapter) to Comp. W. Smeed P.Z., as a slight recognition of the many and valuable services rendered by him, and of the regard and esteem he is held in by every Companion in the Chapter. The choice of the testimonial to be left to him. This was carried. Comp. W. Smeed thanked the Companions for their kindness. He said his services were always at their command. Several propositions for exaltation were given. The Chapter was then closed, and adjourned until 11th Jan. 1877. The company partook of an excellent supper, where the usual toasts were given. The Visitors were Comps. W. S. Wyman 176, W. T. Lover 176, and T. W. Clark 177.

Elias Ashmore Chapter, No. 148, Warrington.—The regular convocation of this Chapter was held at the Chapter Rooms, on Monday last. The M.E.Z. Comp. W. Sharp, Prov. G.J.W., was supported by his officers, and a goodly number of Companions. The Chapter was opened, the minutes read, and the following three brothers balloted for and accepted, viz:—Bros. A. H. Young, S. E., John and Thos. Hutchison. The M.E.Z. performed the ceremony of exaltation, and the lectures were delivered as follows:—Historic, Comp. Brierley, J.; Symbolic, Comp. P. J. Eckstein, H.; Mystic, E. Comp. John Bowes P.Z., &c. In the absence of Comp. J. R. Young P.S., his work was undertaken and admirably performed by one of his assistants, Comp. Thos. Tunstall. Two Brethren were proposed, and Comp. John Armstrong of No. 680 admitted. There being no further business, the Companions adjourned to refreshment.

Phœnix Lodge, No. 173.—The first regular meeting, since the vacation, of this ancient Lodge, was held on Saturday the 11th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. The W.M., Bro. J. D. Massey, occupied the chair; supported by Bros. S. Phillips S.W., J. Finch, J.W., J. Burford Treasurer, E. W. Mathews Secretary, E. W. Ellen S.D., Blyth J.D., J. Andrews I.G., Jekyll Organist, and P.M.'s W. Watson P.G.S., F. R. Vine, H. R. Sharman, T. Witt, G. R. Green, and a numerous attendance of the members and visitors. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the former meeting and the Emergency meeting were read and confirmed. Messrs. Wood and Lorenz were initiated into the Order, and Bros. Gilbert, Stanham, and Viney were passed. Great credit is due to the W.M. for his excellent working—he was ably supported by the wardens and officers. The following notice of motion was given by the W.M.:—"That application be made to Grand Chapter for a charter or warrant of Constitution for a Chapter, to be called the Phœnix Chapter, No. 173, to be attached to this Lodge." This was carried unanimously, and the W.M. was complimented on the attainment of that object; while numerous applications were made by the brethren present to enrol themselves. Comp. J. D. Massey was requested to sign the petition, as the 1st M.E.Z. A notice of motion was given to make the Lodge Vice Patron of the three Masonic Charities. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, over sixty, sat down to a sumptuous banquet and dessert. This gave great satisfaction, and the W.M., in the name of the Lodge, requested Br. Dawkins, the manager of the Tavern Company, to attend. He complimented him on the manner the banquet had been served. Bro. Dawkins expressed his thanks; his study would be the comfort of the Brethren. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Br. Witt P.M., in eulogistic terms, gave the health of the W.M. He stated that since Bro. Massey had occupied the chair, he had given every satisfaction. They had seen how ably he had performed the ceremony. To-night they had heard of the application for a Chapter; he was sure, under the auspices of the W.M., it would be a success (Cheers). The W.M., on rising to reply, was enthusiastically received. He thanked Bro. Witt; he had met with nothing but kindness from every Bro. in the Lodge. The advent of a Chapter would be also a great incentive for him to look after their interests. The toast of the "Initiates," followed, and was duly responded to. The "Visitors," was next given and acknowledged. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Past Masters. The time would shortly arrive when he hoped to be numbered among those honoured and distinguished Brethren, and he might justly say this from their position in the Craft, and for the admirable manner in which every one had discharged his duty. He was pleased to see so many among them, and he hoped they would each respond. The Past Masters severally returned thanks. The toast of the "Warders and Officers" was then given. The W.M. said he was proud of them; they were all qualified to fill the chair, when the proper time should arrive. Bro. Phillips S.W. felt flattered; he thanked the W.M. for his kind remarks, and he hoped to occupy the proud position the W.M. now held. The Treasurer followed; While they were enjoying good banquets, and were in a flourishing condition, he was pleased to see that they had not, nor ever would, forget the Masonic Charities. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. Bros. Jekyll, Farquharson, and others, favoured the Brethren with some excellent harmony.

St. Marks Lodge, Glasgow, No. 102.—Held their annual meeting, for election, in their own Hall, 213 Buchanan-street, on Monday 13th. In the avoidable absence of the Master, and also of Bro. J. F. Mitchell I.P.M., the Lodge was presided over by Bro. A. Patterson. The elections were all unanimous, and the following are the Officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. James Thompson R.W.M., R. Jameson D.M., J. Reuton S.W., J. Littlejohn J.W., J. O. Smith I.P.M., A. C. Paterson T., John Monteith Sec., Neil Campbell S.D., Neil Brown J.D., Mc Killoch Architect, T. Halket B.B., J. F. Mitchell D. of C., R. Hayes D. of M., N. E. Currie P.G.S., Seth Dory S.S., H. Cammer Std. B., Stewart I.G., and J. B. Hardie Tyler. At the request of the Acting Master, Bro. G. W. Wheeler then initiated Mr. Alexander Fraser into the Order. The thanks of Lodge were given to Bro. Wheeler for his services, and the Lodge was closed in due form.

Percy Lodge Instruction, No. 198.—On Saturday, the 11th of November, at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate Road, corner of Church Road, Islington. Bros. G. E. Cook W.M., Macarthy S.W., Defries J.W., Halford Treasurer, Killick S.D., Powell J.D., Weeden I.G., Visitors—Bros. Fox 65, Benson 192, Field 917, Davies 1278, and Hislop 1471. Minutes of previous meeting confirmed; the ceremony of passing rehearsed, Bro. Brasted acting as candidate; several sections of the First and Second Lectures were worked. Bros. Fox, Benson, Field, Davis and Hislop were elected members. A vote of thanks to the W.M. was unanimously carried, this being the first time he had presided in this Lodge. Bro. Macarthy was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Israel Lodge of Instruction, No. 205.—This Lodge held its usual meeting at Bro. Yetton's, the Rising Sun, Globe-road, Bethnal-green, on the 12th instant. Bro. Austin P.M. Preceptor, Bros. Ellis W.M., Andrews S.W., Defries J.W., Taylor S.D., Dix J.D., T. Yetton I.G., Musto P.M. Hon. Sec., and several other brethren. The W.M. rehearsed the 2nd degree, Bro. Myers being candidate. The W.M. worked the 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the lecture, and Bro. Hewlett the 4th and 5th sections, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was resumed, and Bro. Hewlett worked the 2nd section of the first lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Andrews having been elected to the chair, the Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned until the 19th inst., at seven o'clock.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—On Thursday, the 16th of November, at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. Present—Bros. G. Davis W.M., Wray S.W., Farwig J.W., T. Cull Secretary, J. Mander Preceptor, Weeks S.D.,

Docker J.D., Harrison I.G., and Bros. Parkhouse 511 and 1642, Parsons, Reibold, Woods, Day, Bower, R. J. Taylor 144, Collins, S. Lloyd, Willis, and Shand. Business—Lodge opened and minutes confirmed. Advanced to third degree, and ceremony of raising rehearsed, Bro. Parkhouse being the candidate. The First, Second, and Third Sections were then worked by Bro. Cull. The Lodge was then closed down, and Bros. Taylor 144, Day 1563, and Parkhouse 511, were elected joining members. Bro. Wray S.W. was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The Fifteen Sections will be worked here on Thursday, the 30th instant. Bro. Cull to preside.

Athol Lodge, No. 413.—This Lodge met on Tuesday, 14th inst., at 213 Buchanan Street, Glasgow, Bros. Louttit R.W.M., Walter Nelson D.M., D. Leeds S.W., and A. Holmes J.W. The first degree was ably wrought by the Depute Master, after which Bro. Louttit, in his able manner, passed a brother to the degree of Fellow Craft.

Star Lodge.—This Lodge held its Nomination Meeting on Monday, in its own Hall, No. 12 Trongate, Glasgow, Bro. Morgan R.W.M. presiding. He was proposed for re-election, but declined to stand. Bro. Martin, the D.M., was then nominated unanimously, but some little contest is likely to take place at the next meeting for the subordinate offices.

Belgrave Lodge, No. 749.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on the 8th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet Street. There was a full attendance of the officers and brethren; and, among the visitors, were Bros. Rosenthal P.P.S.D. Middlesex, Llusell P.P.G.P. Mid., Thos. J. Cusworth 813, J. D. Loverdo 1196, G. G. Leech 201, J. L. Cogan 1365. The minutes were unanimously confirmed, and the ballot having been taken for Messrs. Henry W. L. Hobbs, and Richard J. Tyrrell, as initiates, and one for Bro. Captain Redhead, of the Oriental Lodge, Constantinople, as a joining member—all unanimously elected—the W.M., Bro. William Batey, passed Bros. McCreary, Culpin, Clemence, and Chesney. The installation of Bro. Joseph William Hobbs, the late S.W., as W.M., then took place, which was worked by Bro. Henry Garrod, who certainly deserves great praise for the manner in which it was conducted. The installed W.M. then initiated Messrs. Hobbs and Tyrrell, in a masterly manner. The officers invested by the new W.M., each with an appropriate speech, were—Bros. Greenwood S.W., R. E. Booker J.W., G. Gardner S.D., J. Coltart J.D., W. Groves I.G., H. Garrod Sec., Bunting Treas., Nanton Org., P. Parsons Steward. Bro. Battey, the retiring W.M., was presented with a P.M.'s jewel, and, after the closing of the Lodge, the brethren adjourned to a banquet, upwards of ninety sitting down. The dinner over, the W.M. gave the loyal toasts with excellent point, as he did also the toast of the Grand Officers. That of the Initiates was drunk with great cordiality, the newly made brethren replying in appropriate terms. The I.P.M. then gave the W.M., saying he was sure Brother Hobbs would fully justify the choice of the brethren, as he had diligently worked to the chair, having fulfilled every office. The toast was duly acknowledged by the W.M. Other toasts followed, the company separating at a late hour, having listened to some excellent recitations by Bros. Barnard, Cusworth, and Pelham, and some capital singing by members and visitors.

Dalhousie Lodge, No. 860.—The regular monthly meeting of this Lodge took place at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, on Thursday, 9th November, P.M. Dalwood W.M., W. J. Smith acting as S.W., P.M. Senecal as J.W., Weige S.D., Worsley J.D., Dickens I.G., P.M. Littell Secretary, Bro. Wallington I.P.M. and Treasurer; also P.M.'s Underwood and Bates, and a good muster of brethren. The Lodge was opened in due form, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Mr. J. A. Williams was initiated into the Order. Bro. Tompkins was passed to the degree of a F.C., and Bro. Woodhead raised to the Sublime Degree. Two gentlemen were proposed for initiation, and one member for joining, at the next monthly night. The Lodge was closed in due form. The brethren then adjourned for refreshments, when the W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, which were interspersed by some capital singing. The Tyler's toast followed in due course, and the brethren separated, after having spent a pleasant evening.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting of the above Lodge took place at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 14th November. Bros. Cambridge W.M., W. J. Smith S.W., Barker J.W., Weige S.D., Hewlett J.D., Dallas I.G., Worsley Secretary, and Wallington P.M. Preceptor. There were also present Bros. Johnson, Perrin, Crosby, Hogarth, Davies, Saunders, Baxter, Cook, King, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Hogarth acting as candidate. Bro. Hewlett worked the First and Second Sections of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was opened in the Third Degree, and closed down to the First. Bro. W. J. Smith worked the Third and Fourth Sections of the Lecture. Bro. Smith was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, the Preceptor paying him a high compliment, stating that, knowing his working, there was a treat in store for the brethren for next Tuesday night. We heartily wish him a good attendance. Bro. Hewlett gave notice that the Fifteen Sections would be worked by Bro. Webb, on the 24th inst., at the Earl Grey, Mile-end-gate, to commence at seven. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in perfect harmony.

Cosmopolitan Lodge, No. 917.—The Installation meeting took place on Tuesday, the 14th inst., at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, and was numerously attended. Bro. F. W. Jones W.M. occupied the chair. A. F. Rowley S.W., G. M. Taylor J.W., H. J. Deporta P.M. Treasurer, L. Stean P.M. Sec.; and Past Masters Bros. T. Robinson, J. F. Basilio, G. Gibson, L. Keays, Col. Stillwell P.G. Sup. Works Herts, and Moore. After the Lodge had been opened, the W.M. raised Bros. S. J. Corke, W. Pitt, and G. Ridding; and passed Bros. J. Abbott, W. F. Barker, B. Fuld, and C. Jewell; Bro. J. Clark was elected a joining member. A Board of Installed Masters was then formed, and Bro. Rowley S.W. and W.M. elect was presented to the Lodge, by Bro. Jones I.P.M. Bro. L. Stean took the chair, and duly performed the Installation ceremony. The addresses were excellently delivered, and Bro. Stean was warmly complimented. The W.M. then invested his Officers—F. W. Jones I.P.M., G. M. Taylor S.W., Lemarque J.W., F. W. Jones I.P.M. Treasurer, Bros. L. Stean P.M. Sec., Abbott S.D., Ellis J.D., Van Raalte I.G., Gulloch Tyler. The selection seemed to give satisfaction. The newly installed W.M. initiated Messrs. Walter Rowley, T. Bailey, E. Winshurst and F. Bailey, in a manner that reflected great credit for so young a Mason. The W.M. then rose and said it afforded him pleasure to present, in the name of the Lodge, a testimonial of respect to the retiring W.M., Bro. Jones, who had so ably conducted the duties of the chair during his year of office. He hoped that he might follow in Bro. Jones's footsteps. Bro. Jones in reply said, He felt proud to receive the jewel, the more so from the knowledge that, during his year of office, the Lodge was never in a more flourishing condition. The W.M. then said he had another pleasing duty to perform, and that was to present to the Ex-Treasurer, Bro. Deporta P.M., who had been in office since the formation of the Lodge, and who had conducted his duties in every way to their satisfaction, with something that, he was sure, would be a slight recognition of the valuable services rendered by him to the Lodge. Bro. Deporta said the presentation would never be forgotten by him; it would remind him of many happy hours passed. Although he had resigned the Treasurership of the Lodge, it had fallen into the hands of a worthy successor. His services, however, were always at their command, and he heartily and cordially thanked them for their valuable gift. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of the usual banquet and desert. On the removal of the cloth, grace having been said, the W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Jones I.P.M. then asked the brethren to do justice to the next toast, and that was, The Health of the W.M., who had so recently been installed into the chair. He had ably and perfectly initiated four gentlemen. He had watched Bro. Jones's progress in Freemasonry; they had worked hand in hand together; and he was sure the brethren would give a hearty response to the toast. The W.M. said, From the time of his initiation, he was always pleased to be among his brother Masons, and he had attained the summit of his ambition. He then proposed the toast of the Past Masters. The Lodge was very proud of them. Bro. Jones replied. The W.M. next proposed the toast of the Initiates, and Bro. W. Rowley, on behalf of these, made an excellent speech. He was followed by Bros. Bailey and Winshurst. The toast of the Visitors was then given, and Bros. McCarthy, H. Massey, Thomas, H. M. Levy and S. Rowley responded. The W.M. then proposed the toasts of the Wardens, also the Officers. Bro. Ellis said he was pleased to see how harmoniously the meeting had been conducted. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Installing Master, Bro. L. Stean, and spoke of him in connexion with the Masonic Charities. He hoped he might be spared among them for many years, to give the benefit of his valuable instruction. Bro. L. Stean said he was pleased to hear his name connected with the Masonic Charities. He had been a Mason for 45 years, and his great aim had always been the uniformity of working. He had visited many Lodges of Instruction, and there were some slight, but, he thought, great differences in the working. He had seen that of the Lodge of Emulation, and he was sure the one that the Grand Secretary belonged to was that wherein brethren could attain Masonic knowledge. As Masonry was universal, so ought its working to be. (Cheers.) He felt great interest in their Lodge, as one of its founders, and would do all he could for its benefit. He regretted the resignation of Bro. Deporta, late Treasurer, who was also one of the founders. The Lodge was, two years since, made a Vice Patron of one of the Charities, and he hoped before long to see them Vice Presidents of the other two. Bro. Jones I.P.M. then announced his intention to become a Steward on a future occasion, and the Tyler's toast concluded a very agreeable and harmonious evening.

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 8th of November, at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present—Bros. Edward Margrett W.M., Arthur Welch S.W., Wm. George Flanagan J.W., Wm. P. Ivey P.M. Sec., J. T. Stransom Treas., J. Early Danks S.D., Wm. Ferguson J.D., Rev. C. R. Honey Chaplain, T. Newman Steward, Edwd. J. Blackwell I.G., W. Hemmings Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. J. T. Brown, J. Egginton. Members—Bros. Hilder, Palley, Creed, Hukins, White, Sell, Robinson, Bailey. Visitor—Bro. S. A. Pocock S.W. 414. Business—The Lodge was opened, the minutes of the last regular Lodge were read and confirmed. Previous to the W.M. signing the minutes, he begged to return his sincere thanks to the Stewards and Brethren for the excellent arrangements that were made at his installation, which was a great success. The ballot was taken for Bros. W. Rhind, 97 Scotland, and L. W. Moule 1101, as joining members, who were both declared to be elected. Bro. Hilder having proved his efficiency in the first degree, retired to be prepared. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Hilder was passed. The Lodge was resumed, when the election of three members on the permanent committee took place. Bros. Bailey, Robinson, and Hawkes were unanimously chosen. The W.M. announced that the permanent committee had revised the bye-laws, and he thought it would be better that a proof, with a margin, be sent to each member of the Lodge before any discussion took place. This was unanimously agreed to. The Secretary read a letter from the Prov. Grand Sec. of Berks and Bucks, requesting to be informed to which of the Masonic Charities the vote of P.G. Lodge should be applied. After some discussion the Benevolent Institution was decided upon, the stewardship of which Charity was left an open question. After receiving nominations, the Lodge was closed, according to ancient form.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1225.—On Friday, the 10th inst., at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate. Present—Bros. Hallowes W.M., Groome S.W., Cleverley J.W., Townshend Secretary, Lane S.D., Franklin J.D., Oldroyd I.G.; P.M. Bro. Gross Preceptor; also Bros. Pearcy, Hirsch, A. W. Fenner, Andrews, Webb, Bolton, Lupinsky, Barnett, Lowles. Lodge opened in due form, minutes were read and confirmed. Lodge opened in 2nd degree, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Pearcy candidate. Bro. Fenner worked 1st section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Groome worked 2nd section of the lecture, also assisted by the brethren. Lodge was then closed. Bros. Andrews 1227, and Lowles of 861, were elected joining members.

Brownrigg Lodge, No. 1424.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 8th of November, at the Assembly Rooms, Old Brompton, Kent. Present—Bros. H. Fowler S.W., J. J. Magee Secretary, C. Walker Treasurer, W. Ramsden S.D., A. Johnsone J.D., H. Crisp D.C., G. Bliss I.G., J. Drago Tyler. Past Masters Bros. J. Jervis P.G.S.B. Kent, J. A. Bates, P. E. Murphy. Visitors Bros. T. Watson W.M. 1050, W. Gamon S.W. 20, W. Evans 251, T. Rusk 20, S. Young S.W. 184, W. H. Canham J.W. 184, E. B. Moody 398. Business—The Lodge was opened by Bro. Jervis P.G.S.B. Kent, and this being the night for election of officers for the ensuing year, the ballot was taken, and Brother H. Fowler was elected W.M., Bro. C. Walker Treasurer, and Bro. Drago Tyler. Bro. Jervis then announced that he would have the pleasure of Installing Bro. Fowler, in the Assembly Rooms, on Wednesday, the 13th December, at 2.30 p.m. Bro. Fowler thanked the Brethren for the honour they had conferred in electing him. During the whole time he had been a member of the Lodge (which was since its formation) he had endeavoured to perform the duties of the various offices he had held, and he hoped to maintain the high position the Lodge had in the Province. Bro. Jervis P.M. having passed Bro. Milne, opened the Lodge in the Third degree, and vacated the chair to Bro. T. Watson, W.M. 1050, who raised Bros. Phillips and Lockett to the sublime degree. The Chair was then resumed by Bro. Jervis, and after a Banquet Committee had been appointed, the Lodge was duly closed.

The Great City Lodge, No. 1426.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Saturday, the 11th inst., at Cannon-street Hotel, E.C. Present—Bros. J. Seex W.M., Stanway S.W., Freeman J.W., Moody Sec., Headon P.M. Treasurer, Blackie S.D., Catchpole J.D., Taylor D.C., Hamer I.G. Past Masters—Bros. J. H. Townsend, Stevens; and Bros. Colmer, Davis, T. W. Headon, De Leliva, Hartley, Evennett, Hooper, &c. Business—Bros. Stephens and Styles were raised; Bros. Lutticke, Shaw, Oppenheimer and Cartwright passed, and Mr. Cumner initiated. Two propositions were handed in, after which the Lodge was closed.

Hemming Lodge, No. 1512, Hampton.—We have again the pleasure of chronicling another re-union of the brethren of this Lodge, which took place on Thursday evening last, the 16th inst., in the Lodge room at the Lion Hotel. Bro. Hurst, who was installed a few weeks ago, made his début in the chair of K.S., supported by the following officers:—Bros. E. Hopwood P.M. 141 and 1512, I.P.M. and Treasurer, W. Hammond P.M. 201, 1326, 1512, P.P.G.D. Middlesex Secretary, John Hammond P.M. S.W., Samuel Hill P.M. J.W., C. W. Fox S.D., J. C. Jessett J.D., J. W. Hiscock acting I.G., T. C. Walls D.C., F. W. Kent W.S., and Gilbert Tyler. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The W.M. then initiated Mr. Julius Schmits into the mysteries of Freemasonry. We congratulate him on his success, evidently no pains had been spared to qualify for the proper discharge of the duties of his office. We wish we could say as much on behalf of all W.M.'s on their first appearance. Two brothers, whose names were on the summons for passing, not being in attendance, the Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and Bros. C. H. Hill M.D., T. Errington, C. Finch, and H. C. T. Murphy, having duly passed the necessary examination, saluted and retired in the accustomed form. Lodge being opened in the 3rd degree, the W.M. vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Hopwood I.P.M., who, on the re-admission of the candidates aforenamed, raised them to the sublime degree of Master Masons. Bros. Wilson P.M., Etonian, 209, and Maynard, Prospect, 24, were among the visitors. Members present—Bros. P.M.'s Bernard, Sharp, Moody, Aston, Andrews, Day, Wheeler, Knowles, Doctor Hill, Murphy, Finch and Errington. A letter of apology was received by the W.M. from Bro. Ockenden I.G., who has hitherto never missed a meeting, but who was compelled to absent himself on this occasion through indisposition. The business of the evening being concluded, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren separated in perfect harmony, to discuss an ample repast, carefully and efficiently catered for by the host, Bro. Murphy. On the removal of the cloth, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured. The W.M., Bros. Walls, W. Hammond, Jessett and the initiate contributed to the harmony of the occasion, and the Tyler's toast brought a very pleasant evening to an end. The Lodge will not assemble in December. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, 18th January 1877.

Addiscombe Lodge, No. 1556.—This Lodge met on Saturday, the 11th of November, at the Alma, Addiscombe. Present—Bros. S. J. Turquand as W.M., A. Lambert as S.W., S. W. Lambert as J.W., H. E. Frances P.P.G.D. Sec., Carpenter I.G. Visitor—Bro. Thomson, province of Kent. The business commenced with the usual preliminaries, after which Mr. Hornby was initiated, and Bro. Jesse was passed. The work, in the absence of the W.M., from serious illness, was performed by Bro. Turquand I.P.M., in his usual able way. Bro. Masterman P.M. having resigned the office of Treasurer, Bro. Turquand was appointed till the next period of election. The beneficial results of a Lodge of Instruction were apparent in the creditable manner the officers, quite young members of the Lodge, performed their duties. The business of the Lodge would have been seriously retarded had the junior Brethren not been so well informed, and their proficiency is a credit to themselves, as well as to the preceptorship of Bro. Frances, P.G.D. Surrey, to whom they are indebted for their Masonic knowledge.

Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—The regular meeting of thi Lodge was held on Monday, at the Lodge-room, Micklegate, York, at which Bro. Thos. Cooper P.M. W.M. occupied the chair of K.S., and the rest of the officers were present. The agenda paper presented a most formidable appearance, containing as it did the names of four gentlemen to be balloted for as candidates for initiation, one as a joining member, two initiations, one passing, and two raisings. The ballot proved successful in each case, Messrs. A. Dove and J. W. Craven were initiated, and Bros. Blenkin and Morgan were raised. On the motion of the S.W., who remarked on the great importance, at the present day, of the maintenance of a high-class Masonic press, the Lodge resolved to subscribe annually to the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. There was a large muster of the brethren, and several visitors attended from the York Lodge, 236, and from Batley, Leeds, and other places. Preliminary steps were taken with a view to hold a banquet before the close of the year.

Unity Lodge, No. 1687.—The first meeting since the consecration was held on Saturday last, at the De Burgh Hotel, West Drayton. Bro. E. C. Woodward P.M. 382 W.M., T. H. Varley S.W., C. J. W. Davis W.M. 382 J.D., as W.M., W. Coombes P.P.G.S.B. Midd. Secretary, W. Stephens P.M. 1365 S.D., T. W. Cooper 538 I.G., W. Smith C.E., P.G.S.D., C. Grist Assistant D.C., S. A. Cooper 382 Steward, and G. Stacey P.M. 382 Organist. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the former meeting read and confirmed. Bros. T. A. Adams P.G.P., and James Terry Prov. G.D.C. Herts (Consecrating and Installing Officer), Secretary R.M.B. Institution, were elected honorary members, in recognition of the valuable services rendered by them to the Lodge. The following brethren were ballotted for, and elected joining members:—Bros. W. Stephens P.M. 1365, C. J. W. Davis W.M. Royal Union Lodge 382, T. W. Cooper 538, S. A. Cooper 382, W. Grist 1489, and G. Hine 190. Bro. T. A. Adams was invested with the collar of I.P.M. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of refreshments.

THE

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. IV.—No. 100. SATURDAY, 25th NOVEMBER 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

THE PROVINCES OF NORFOLK AND WILTS.

IN the week that ends this day there have occurred two events of more than passing interest in the history of English Craft Freemasonry. We allude to the Grand Master's visit to Norwich, for the purpose of installing Lord Suffield as Provincial Grand Master of Norfolk, and the presence of his brother Prince Leopold at the meeting at Warminster, on Wednesday, of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Wiltshire, under the presidency of its respected chief, Lord Methuen. As regards the former, everything passed most successfully—but for the unfortunate weather, we should have been able to say, brilliantly. The rain, however, was not permitted to damp the ardour of the worthy citizens of Norwich and their thousands of visitors from all parts of the old Saxon kingdom of East Anglia. Special trains ran into Norwich at frequent intervals in the forenoon. Flags and banners, and streamers, lofty Venetian masts, and the other trappings which English cities are wont to assume on high days and holidays, had been erected in the principal streets of the city. The Thorpe Railway Station had been decorated as well as circumstances and its native ugliness would permit. The Mayor and Corporation, in all the brilliance of civic splendour, assembled at the station to greet his Royal Highness and the Princess his wife, and deliver the inevitable address of welcome. In the St. Andrew's Hall were assembled a strong muster of county magnates and worthy burghers with their wives and daughters; for here was to be held one of the two meetings at which his Royal Highness had promised to be present, the object being to raise funds enough to enlarge the Norfolk and Norwich Hospital. On the arrival here of the visitors, the guard of honour furnished by the Norwich Artillery Volunteer Corps presented arms, and the Earl of Leicester, Lord Lieutenant of the county, accompanied by Lady Leicester, stepped forward to receive the Prince and Princess. The party, on advancing into the Hall, was received with every manifestation of loyalty and respect. Lord Leicester presided, having on his right the Prince and Princess of Wales; and among the personages on the platform were Lord and Lady Stafford, Lord Waveney, Lord Sondes, the High Sheriff of Norfolk—Sir W. Ffolkes, the Bishop of Norwich and Mrs. and Miss Pelham, the Dean of Norwich and Mrs. Goulburn, Sir R. and Lady Buxton, the Mayor of Norwich and Mrs. Coller, the Sheriff of Norwich, and many other notabilities connected with the county and city. The proceedings commenced with the presentation of an address to His Royal Highness. The Earl of Leicester having then risen and briefly stated the objects of the meeting, Sir W. Ffolkes proposed the first resolution, to the effect that the Norfolk and Norwich Hospital was in every way worthy of the support and sympathy of the inhabitants of the city and county. The Bishop of Norwich eloquently supported the resolution, which was carried unanimously. The second resolution, having for its object the raising of £35,000, to enable the hospital authorities to extend their sphere of usefulness, was moved by the Prince of Wales, who spoke at some length of the services the Institution had rendered, since its establishment close upon a hundred years since, and the professional eminence to which many of its physicians and surgeons had attained. He also alluded in special terms to his interest, as a landed proprietor of Norfolk, in everything of moment connected with the county, and concluded his speech by earnestly pressing upon his audience the necessity of coming forward and liberally supporting the motion. This was seconded by Lord Stafford, and carried. A vote of thanks to His Royal Highness, for his presence at the meeting, was next proposed by the Mayor of Norwich, and, having been seconded by Lord Waveney, was carried by acclamation. The Prince having gracefully acknowledged the vote, thanks to the Lord Lieutenant for presiding, and for the warm interest he displays in the institutions of the county and city, were voted; his Lordship in response saying, he would contribute £13,000 out of the £35,000 required, as soon as the other £22,000 had been promised. The announcement of subscriptions to the amount of over £12,000, and including one of 200 guineas from the Prince of Wales, brought the proceedings to a close. The Prince and Princess then drove to the Bishop's Palace, where lunch was partaken of, and the Prince then started for the Volunteer Drill Hall, where was to be held the Masonic ceremony of the day. The Hall was well filled in every part, the preparations for receiving and seating the brethren being carried out to perfection. The D.P.G.M. designate, Bro. Major Penrice, had opened the Provincial Grand Lodge some time previous to the Grand Master's arrival, and on the Prince entering the Hall and occupying the chair, the brethren greeted him most enthusiastically. There were present on the dais in support of His Royal Highness Lord Skelmersdale D.G.M. England, Lord Waveney P.G.M. Suffolk, and other distinguished Craftsmen. The G.M. having addressed a few kindly words, proceeded to invest Lord Suffield in the usual manner. Thereupon his Lordship, having acknowledged the honour conferred upon him, and expressed his determination to spare no effort in promoting and protecting the interests of the Craft, appointed and invested his officers and Grand Lodge was closed. The Grand Master then returned to the Bishop's Palace for the Princess, and shortly afterwards the Royal Visitors left Norwich for Gunton Park, the seat of Lord Suffield.

Thus ended one of the most auspicious Masonic events of the year. We offer Lord Suffield our warmest congratulations on his appointment to so important an office, and trust his lordship may have before him a long and prosperous career, so that he may be enabled to strengthen and confirm the Craft in the affections of our Norfolk brethren. Nor in congratulating Lord Suffield must we quite forget the many virtues of his lamented predecessor. This very month of last year Lord Skelmersdale, as representing the G.M., installed in office as Grand Master of this Province, our late worthy Bro. the Hon. F. Walpole M.P. The latter's tenure of the Provincial Grand Mastership was very brief, but his many years' services, as Deputy Provincial Grand Master, had endeared him to all Craftsmen. We are certain Lord Suffield's services will be equally appreciated, and we hope he may long be spared to render them.

The visit of Prince Leopold to the Provincial Grand Lodge of Wiltshire was undertaken with no official purpose. It may be described as a purely friendly one, but it cannot fail to enhance, if that be possible at least, the respect and affection which all Masons entertain towards his Royal Highness. Lord Methuen, who has held the office of Prov. Grand Master of Wilts for over three and twenty years, presided, and in addition to the Prince there were present Bro. G. Goldney M.P., D.P.G.M. Wilts, Lord H. Thynne M.P., P.G.W. England, Sir W. W. Wynn M.P., P.G.M. North Wales and Shropshire, Sir D. Gooch P.G.M. Berks and Bucks, and a strong muster of P.G. officers, present of a section only of that Church, a section which has, momentarily, obtained the upper hand, and, thinking it needful to indulge in occasional displays of spleen or power, attacks a body with whose tenets it is necessarily unacquainted. Be this as it may, there is no doubt that Freemasonry in the United Kingdom stands high in the popular favour. There is, moreover, another important reason for this. As the Fraternity takes no part in politics or religion, so it is confined to no particular class. It includes in its ranks men of every grade in society. The noble and the gentle, equally with the professional man and the tradesman, seek admission into the Order. Equally observant are they of the obligations imposed upon them. In Freemasonry, in fact, as it is understood in this country, we find in a great measure realized that ideal equality which so many wise and good men have sighed for. There is no eversion of the natural laws which govern all societies, no attempt to reduce all men to one uniform level. Socially, we retain such distinctions as belong to us, but a man has full scope for the development and practical application of such qualities of head and heart as he may be possessed of. The man of learning will find a splendid field for the employment of his talents; so, too, will the man of energy; so the man of tact; and, in short, so will every one who possesses one or more qualities distinguishing him above his fellows.

We have said we include in our ranks the noble and the gentle; and in no society is it so incumbent on these to observe the wholesome maxim, "Noblesse oblige." We may, however, venture to lay it down as an axiom, that those of the upper class who enrol themselves in our Craft are just those who require no incitement whatever to fulfil the duties of their station. Certain it is, that the titled members of our Order set a brilliant example of zeal and activity in all that concerns Freemasonry, which it were well, perhaps, that all Craftsmen should follow. Thus in our portrait, a fortnight since, of The Statesman, we pictured to our readers one who is never weary of promoting, to the utmost of his ability, the well being of the Craft. Our present sketch is of another eminent Mason, of high rank in the outer world, who has also shown himself to be as zealous as he is efficient in the performance of his duties. There is no difficulty so great but he makes up his mind to grapple with and overcome it, if possible; no detail so trifling that he overlooks it. While yet under age, he was initiated into Freemasonry, in the Apollo University Lodge, No. 357. This was in the year 1856, when he was a member of Christ Church. In the year following he joined the Westminster and Keystone Lodge, No. 10, and is still borne on the roll of its members. In 1862, he became W.M. of Harmony Lodge, No. 580, Ormskirk, and the year following, he was appointed Senior Grand Warden by the late Grand Master the Earl of Zetland. In 1865, he attained the honourable position of Deputy Provincial Grand Master for West Lancashire, and this office he exchanged for the still more honourable post of Provincial G.M. for the same Province, in 1873. On the accession to the Masonic throne of our present Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the merit of our distinguished brother was still further recognised, by his appointment to the office of Deputy Grand Master of England. He holds also a distinguished position in Royal Arch Masonry, having been appointed Grand Superintendent of West Lancashire in 1873, and Grand H. of the Supreme Grand Chapter in 1875. The latest addition to his Masonic honours was conferred upon him in the first half of this year, when, by the lamented death of Bro. W. Romaine Callender, the Provincial Grand Mark Mastership of West Lancashire became vacant. To fill the vacancy thus created, our brother was appointed by the Earl of Limerick, Grand Master of Mark Masons, the ceremony of installation being conducted with great éclat by the Grand Master himself. But these offices of dignity and responsibility are not the only claims he has upon our respect. He has regularly taken a leading part in the support of our charitable institutions, and the very last occasion on which he illustrated his sympathy with the cause of charity was at the annual festival, this year, of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. On this occasion he presided, and to show the esteem in which they held him, the brethren of West Lancashire supported him most handsomely, to the extent of over fifteen hundred pounds. We are further and especially reminded, by the ceremony that is fixed for Monday next in the good city of Norwich, of another public occasion on which our respected brother played a leading part. This was at the installation of the late Hon. F. Walpole M.P., as Provincial Grand Master for Norfolk, in succession to Bro. B. Bond Cabbell. The ceremony of installation was ably and impressively rendered, and the reception accorded to the Deputy Grand Master was in the highest degree enthusiastic.

Thus far as to his Masonic career. In public life he has taken a prominent part in supporting the political party to which he belongs, and the services he has rendered have twice received some mark of approval from his sovereign. During the years 1866-67-68 he was a lord in waiting, and since the advent to power of the present Conservative administration he has held command of Her Majesty's Yeomen of the Guard. In fulfilling the duties of this post of honour, we find him present whenever the exigencies of state ceremonial require it. But a far more responsible duty, and one for which, by all accounts, our distinguished brother has shown himself admirably fitted, is that of "whip" to the Conservative party in the House of Lords. It is well known to our readers that those only are appointed to this office who possess in an eminent degree the important qualifications of tact, energy, and ability. The work which a "whip" of either party, in either House of Parliament does, is most laborious. It may not be very exacting, as to the intellectual energies, but no one would ever be entrusted with such duties who had not the keenest insight into all the various phases of human character, superadded to an energy that knows no bounds, and a tact which nothing will disturb. In his native county he is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant, as well as captain of yeomanry hussars, and honorary colonel of an administrative battalion of rifle volunteers. In private life he is loved and esteemed, as in public and Masonically he is admired and respected. Indeed, in his own particular province of West Lancashire there is, absolutely, no limit to the respect and affection in which he is held by all the brethren.

Such is a brief sketch of one of the worthiest of our English Craftsmen. We are sensible the portrait is at best an indifferent "counterfeit presentment" of the original. In detail, however, we believe it to be accurate. But whether the portrait be artistically or inartistically drawn, it certainly presents another link in the long chain of evidence we are ever and anon submitting to our readers, that Freemasonry is neither a silly hobby which men pursue for the lack of some more profitable occupation, nor a society of political agitators and irreligionists, whose aim is the destruction of order, morality and religion. The brethren we have sketched in these columns are among the most strenuous upholders of all our institutions; and among the foremost of them is the brother whom we have taken upon ourselves to describe as the Deputy.

THE COLOURED QUESTION IN OHIO.

THE question of recognising the Coloured Grand Lodge of Ohio, as a separate and independent Grand Lodge, has been settled, for the present at all events. Bro. Thos. J. Melish, Associate Editor of the Masonic Review, writing to the Keystone, under date "Cincinnati, October 19, 1876," describes, briefly but sufficiently, the result of the last meeting at Columbus of the Ohian Grand Lodge. The legality of the Coloured organisations appears to have been decided, not by a direct vote, but on a side issue. The Deputy Grand Master Cunningham began the engagement by impugning the constitutionality of the proposal to recognise the Coloured Grand Lodge. This was on Tuesday the 11th ult., but the discussion was cut short at noon, and not renewed till the following morning. The question was then about to be debated on its general merits, when Bro. Enoch T. Carson drew attention to the constitutional objection that had been raised the day before, and urged that this objection must first of all be disposed of. The G.M. decided in favour of Bro. Carson's point. That our readers may understand the full force of the objection which the D.G.M. had raised, we may state that the Constitutions of the Ohian Grand Lodge lay it down that the Grand Lodge shall be supreme "and have exclusive jurisdiction over all questions relative to Masonry in Ohio, and that it shall have appellate jurisdiction over all subordinate Lodges of Masons in Ohio." The proposition of the Committee to which the question had been referred was, to recognise the Coloured

Digitized by Google

Masons as constituting a separate and independent Lodge, provided they designated themselves "the African Grand Lodge of F. and A.M. of Ohio." The objection was that such proposition could not be entertained till the Constitution of the Ohian Grand Lodge had been amended in the manner required by law, which is, "that amendments be seconded by a majority vote of all representatives at the Grand Lodge, then be laid over for one year, be submitted separately to each subordinate, and receive the assent of two-thirds of them." Grand Master Woodward demurred to this, on the ground that "the action of Grand Lodge last year had assumed the constitutionality of the proposition, by submitting it to the subordinates." From this ruling the D.G.M. appealed, and when the discussion was closed, Bro. Carson demanded that the vote should be taken by Lodges, as the Constitution on test questions permits. This was accordingly done, and the result of the voting was, that 332 votes sustained the ruling of the Chair, while 401 votes supported the objection of the Deputy Grand Master. In other words, the Grand Lodge of Ohio decided, by a majority of 69 votes, that the proposal to recognise the Coloured Grand Lodge as a separate and independent body, was contrary to the Constitution, which must first be amended before such a motion could legally be submitted.

The result is that the main question of recognising Coloured Masonry is postponed sine die. It is, perhaps, matter for regret, that the Grand Lodge could not have discussed the matter directly. It is satisfactory, however, to find — and we may say this, without fear of being thought guilty of any partisanship—that, so far as the discussion went, it was confined entirely to the consideration of an important legal point. We conclude, from Bro. Melish's simple account, that no foolish sentiment about colour was allowed to find place in the settlement of a proposition which can only be determined, legitimately, on a legal issue.

HISTORY OF OUR LODGES.

MINUTE BOOK OF LODGE No. 6, ANCIENTS.

SOME time since we gave an analysis of an old Lodge Book of No. 6. Ancients, now Enoch Lodge, No. 11 on the roll of the United Grand Lodge of England. We have since this been permitted to examine what, till the discovery of the Lodge Book referred to, was the oldest minute book in the possession of Enoch. The first entry is dated 22nd April 1788, and the minutes are consecutive, with the exception of two breaks, one considerable, from September 1798 to 11th June 1799, the other of shorter duration, from the latter day to the 8th of October 1799. Moreover, though both ill-written and ill-spelt in many places, they afford, till towards the end, a tolerably clear view of the inner life of the Lodge, so far at least as minutes are likely to disclose it. It is greatly to be regretted that a gap should exist between these two Lodge Books. The last minute in the older book is dated 23rd April 1782, the first in this the 22nd April 1788, leaving exactly six years, the details of which are lost to us, at least as far as is known at present. It is possible, however, from the register of members in the first Lodge Book, to carry the list of officers down to June 1784, the last list of members being for the first half of the year 1784, leaving thus only four years for which we have no such memoranda; while the sequence of accounts is complete, as they run on in the first book without a break, till towards the close of the year 1798. Were the lost books forthcoming for this period, and also for the years between 1801 and 1810 and other years, Enoch Lodge would be able to boast of an unbroken series of records from the last month of the year 1770. Let us hope these losses may some day or other be made good. We now pass to the Minute Book, beginning 23rd April 1788.

The first record worthy of notice is the initiation, passing, and raising of a new member at the same meeting, owing to his going abroad. Many other instances occur, however, in the course of these minutes in which the three degrees are conferred on one and the same night. On the 11th November, in the same year, there is an entry to the following effect:—"It was ordered by the Wl. Master and the majority of the Lodge No. 6, to summon the Master and Wardens of No. 225 for a trespass committed by them, in passing a member of Lodge No. 6 through the chair in order to obtain a seat in the H.R.A., contrary to constitution." What followed this order, however, does not appear, as there is no further minute bearing upon the "trespass." There are no minutes between this date and the 10th February 1789, when we find it stated that the W.M. and both Wardens were absent. The absence of these officers is noticed in the next minute of the 24th Feb., while the W.M. and S.W. are again absent at the time of opening the Lodge on 10th March. Indeed, the occasion when they were present appears to have been of rare occurrence. We are not surprised, therefore, that some years later it was found necessary to take steps to revivify the Lodge. On the 12th May 1789, it is minuted that a "Bro. Major Carroll, of Lodge No. 678, Ireland, joined, and paid the sum of five shillings." On the 22nd September, a brother of Lodge No. 367, Ireland, having a certificate from G.L. Ireland, a member of No. 74, Exeter, and a member of Lodge No. 3 are elected joining members. The same evening the Lodge is honoured with a visit from Bros. James Perry D.G.M., James Agar J.G.W., the W.M. (Bro. James Gray), and several brethren of Lodge No. 81, and the W.M. (Bro. Reed), and J.W. of Lodge No. 240. At a Lodge of Emergency, undated, a Mr. Louis Des Beux is passed through the three degrees, owing to his going abroad. At the December election of officers, it is minuted that Bro. John Feakins is elected "Treasurer for life." On the 12th January 1790, we read that Bro. George McCormick "joined his mother Lodge, he not having joined any other Lodge since he drew his certificate from No. 6, which was unanimously agreed to." On the 9th March, a third instance occurs of a person receiving the three degrees in one evening, and for the same reason as in the cases already quoted. On the 23rd of the same month, the Lodge is "called to refreshment, on account of a Bro. coming from Sunderland, saying he was an ancient Mason, and, by examination, could not be found as such, therefore the Lodge could not admit him by ye report that was made." On 22nd June, a motion was made and unanimously carried, "to wear purple ribbons at the Grand Festival." At the meeting on the 24th August 1790, "A proposal was made summons'd (sic) the M. of Lodge No. 128, to the Steward's Lodge, to show just cause why they received Bro. John James Moore to become a member of that Lodge without a Sitivicate (sic)." N.B.—This word appears to have been a serious stumbling-block in the way of more than one Secretary of No. 6. On the 14th September, it is moved and carried "that a memorial should be presented to the W.D.G.M. Humbly thanking him for his great and good conduct in supporting the Antient Craft, &c., &c., &c. Humbly beging (sic) for his support and continuance for the future." A second motion was made, to the effect that Masters and Wardens shall be fined for non-attendance, according to the rules and articles of this Lodge, and, at the next meeting, the J.W. is summoned "to show cause why he do not attend according to regulation." In November, the same officer having been regularly absent in the meantime, is ordered to attend the next stated Lodge, but he does not, nor at the meeting when the election of new officers is held. On 28th December, the new W.M. and Wardens are installed, "according to Ancient custom and ceremonies." Indeed, it appears to have been the custom to instal, not only the Master, but the Wardens likewise. At this Lodge, we find a Bro. Leslie acting as Secretary pro tem, but whether this is the Bro. Leslie who was the Grand Secretary, we have no means here of discovering. It is further recorded that, on this occasion, there was "left bad money, 3s 8d"—a light half-guinea had previously been mentioned. In January 1791, the Lodge is visited by Bro. James Agar D.G.M. Among the visitors on 22nd February, we find the names of Bros. James Knight, P.M. of No. 13, John Hill, "of the Dispensation, Maidstone," Brown and John Hill, members of St. John, Leslie, Grand Secretary, and Davis, of No. 231. In June, when the election of officers was held, two candidates stood for the office of Tyler, but the old one was elected on a ballot. Among the items of expenditure entered under date of 28th June, we find "To new purple ribbons for ye jewels, 12s." On the 12th July, occurs a curious entry. The minutes of 14th June having been confirmed, their confirmation having been adjourned from 28th June, we are told, "the chair being vacant, and Bro. Buckney having served all offices, it was proposed that Bro. Buckney pass the chair as Master, in which he was accordingly installed." The installation of the new officers was then proceeded with. In October, "Bro. Leslie, Grand Secretary, presented a resolution of the General Grand Chapter of H.R. Arch, that Bro. Walter Paulett, of No. 6, be censur'd for indecent and disrespectful conduct to the Genl- Grand Chapter, and suspended from all Masonic rights and privileges until he make such concession as shall be deem'd adequate by the Grand Lodge." Bro. Paulett, who was present, at once expressed his sorrow, if anything he had said in the Grand Chapter had given offence to the Grand Officers or any other brother present, and this concession being deemed sufficient by the Lodge, Bro. Leslie promised to present the same to the next Grand Lodge and Gen. Grand Chapter for their consideration. In April 1792 we read of a Bro. Denby, of Lodge No. 4, attending to solicit a contribution of 4s 6d towards defraying the funeral expenses of a deceased member of Lodge No. 63, who having been "one night bad" could not receive the charity; it having been agreed by several Lodges that he should be buried by contribution. On the 10th July occurs, as an item of expenditure, "Paid for Ribons for St. John's 9s." On the 12th February 1793, a motion was made that the Lodge meet on the second Tuesday in the month, thus altering the Lodge meetings from fortnightly to monthly. In April we note a payment to Bro. Frazer (Tyler) of one shilling, "for summoning Grand Chapter." On the 13th August the Lodge must have allowed itself a little extra indulgence, as among the expenses of the evening is entered half-a-crown for a bottle of wine. At the October meeting it was resolved to change the Lodge quarters, "the landlord of the Lodge House not being a Mason." Accordingly the month following it was arranged that the Lodge should for the future meet at the Horns Tavern, Doctors' Commons, the landlord being a Bro. Griffiths. In December, on the proposition of the Treasurer, it was resolved that members, when absent, should pay only eighteen pence instead of half-a-crown. In the minutes of 11th February 1794 it is entered that Bro. J. Feakins gave a lecture in the first part, but "was obstructed by the noise of the company in the other room." In July, there is entry of a sum of ten shillings and sixpence being paid to Grand Lodge towards the Grand Festival on the previous 24th June, with similar entries in subsequent years, and likewise of five shillings and sixpence expended in "ribbands." At the December election this year the W.M. proposed the Sen. Deacon, and the S.W. the Jun. Deacon. Amongst the visitors on the 12th April 1796 occurs the name of a member of the New Edinburgh Kilwinning, and also that of the W.M. of St. John's. At this meeting, likewise, the sum of fourteen pence is expended on a pair of compasses. In October 1799 it was unanimously agreed to remove the Lodge to Bro. Hart's, "The Bricklayers' Arms, Earl-street, St. Andrew's-by-the-Wardrobe." On this occasion Bro. Harper P.G.W. was a visitor. We further read that the W.M. "proand past, of the Craft in Wilts, Dorset, Somerset, &c., &c. and other brethren. Occasion was taken at this meeting to present to Lord Methuen a handsome banner, emblazoned with his Lordship's arms, and bearing the date, 1853, of his appointment to the P.G. Mastership, as a slight token of the gratitude felt for his Lordship's services during his long period of office. Bro. Goldney made the presentation and Lord Methuen briefly expressed his sense of the honour shown him. The P.G. Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, to the number of about one hundred, sat down to banquet, under his lordship's able presidency. Among the toasts of the evening was that of the health of Prince Leopold P.G.M. Oxon, which his Royal Highness acknowledged, proposing in return, in highly eulogistic terms, the health of the Prov. G.M. of Wilts. When the other toasts had been disposed of, the brethren separated, after a most enjoyable evening. Doubtless, the day will be long remembered as among the reddest of red-letter days in the annals of Wilts Freemasonry. Especially will it be remembered with feelings of pride by our brethren of the Longleat Lodge, No. 1478, Warminster, which enjoyed the great honour of receiving Provincial Grand Lodge and its distinguished guests.

GRAND LODGE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

THE regular Quarterly Communication of this Grand Lodge was held on the 13th September last. From the Proceedings, copy of which has reached us, we gather that the Grand Lodge opened in ample form at two o'clock p.m., M.W.G.M. Bro. Percival Lowell Everett presiding, supported by the Deputy G.M., the Grand Wardens, Grand Treasurer, the Recording and Corresponding Grand Secretaries, a majority of the D.D.G.M.'s, the Grand Chaplain, and other Grand Officers, present and past. The record of the Quarterly Communication on 14th June was taken as read, and was confirmed. That of the special Communication held on the 21st of the same month for the purpose of constituting Satuit Lodge was read and confirmed. Bye Laws and amendments to Bye Laws on the case of sundry Lodges were referred to the usual Committee which, in the course of the Session, delivered their report, recommending, with an amendment proposed in one instance, their approval, and they were approved accordingly. Two petitions for Charters were likewise submitted, one from the members of Alpha Lodge, South Framingham, and the other from Fraternity Lodge, Newtownville. Dispensations for both these Lodges were issued in September 1875, and the Committee, to which the petitions were referred, having examined the records of their proceedings U.D., and having satisfied themselves that the proper dues had been paid to Grand Treasurer, recommended that Charters be issued accordingly. Petitions for formal healing were also referred to a Committee, and in the case of Thomas H. Johnson the Committee, while declaring him to have been made a Mason clandestinely, recommended that his prayer be granted, and that the said Johnson be formally healed. The roll of Lodges having been called, Past G. Master John T. Heard proposed a resolution congratulating R.W. Rev. Lucius R. Paige D.D. on the fiftieth anniversary of his election as W.M. of Mount Zion Lodge, Barre. Bro. Paige had likewise held the offices of Grand Steward in 1849 and 1850, of Grand Deacon in 1851, and Deputy Grand Master in 1852, 1853 and 1854. He had also served as member of the Committee on the Library during 1850-54, both years inclusive, as well as on other important Committees of Grand Lodge, and was, moreover, one of the Trustees of the Masonic Temple. The resolution was unanimously adopted, and was very feelingly acknowledged by Bro. Paige. A question of jurisdiction between the Orient Lodge, South Dedham, and Constellation Lodge, Dedham, was next determined, the extent of the former being defined as embracing the territorial limits of the newly-incorporated town of Norwood and ordered, to be so endorsed on its Charter. On the motion of R.W. John McClellan, a sum of five hundred dollars was ordered to be appropriated for charitable purposes. Bro. Woodbury then submitted the report of the Committee appointed to consider the application of a Lodge at Palermo, to become subordinate to the Massachusetts Grand Lodge. This Lodge, it appears, had seceded from the Grand Orient of Italy, and the Committee, having carefully considered its wish, recommended that the petition should be dismissed. Our readers need not go far a-field for the reason which influenced the Committee in making such report. The question of Masonic jurisdiction is one in which the American Grand Lodges take a very keen interest, and which they are determined—to judge from this and other cases—to observe most scrupulously. Nor are we surprised the same Committee should have offered some very pertinent observations on what, for want of a better description, we must designate as the great African question. The proposition recently before the Ohian Grand Lodge is naturally referred to, and the line of action which that Grand body proposed to adopt, very seriously, and, as we hold, very properly condemned. Not, perhaps, in so many words, but there cannot be the slightest shadow of a doubt that the tone of the Committee's remarks, and the great stress it lays on arguments, many of which agree with those we have ourselves employed, indicate the complete condemnation of what, happily, is no longer the Ohian policy. In addition, we have a most exhaustive sketch of the African Lodge, chartered by Grand Lodge, Moderns, of England. This is the Lodge started by Prince Hall, from which the different African Coloured Masonic organisations trace their descent. We advise any of our readers who take an interest in this question, to study carefully that portion of these Proceedings which treats of the Coloured Lodge question. They will find much in it that is well worth noting. On the motion of Past Grand Master Sereno D. Nickerson, it was voted that five hundred extra copies of so much of the report as relates "to the proposed action of the Grand Lodge of Ohio, and the status of the so-called African Grand Lodge, be printed for distribution." The Lodge was then closed, as it had been opened, in ample form, with prayer by Bro. the Rev. Alonzo H. Quint, D.D., Grand Chaplain.

Obituary.

WE regret to have to record, in our obituary to-day, the demise of Bro. John Wright Carr, Grand Secretary of the Province of Essex, which took place at his residence, Newland Hall, Roxwell, near Chelmsford, on Sunday night last. The deceased—initiated in the Angel Lodge, Colchester, in December 1846—has always been an active Mason, he was appointed to the Grand Secretaryship in the year 1868, by the present Grand Master, the R.W. Bro. R. J. Barnshawe, and ever since has devoted himself earnestly to the duties of that responsible and somewhat laborious task. The continued indisposition of the R.W. Prov. G.M. during the last year or two, and the interregnum which followed [illegible] death of Bro. Andrew Mogger, the D.P.G.M. early in 1875, and the appointment of a successor, in 1876, have rendered the duties of P.G. Sec. peculiarly [illegible] especially at the times of the meeting of Grand Lodge, but Bro. Carr himself was [illegible] the delicate task of declining his offices, [illegible] and if [illegible] the appointment [illegible] entire satisfaction to brethren [illegible] especially entitled to consideration, they [illegible] the Province generally. [illegible] 2160, which was [illegible] year. As a citizen of Chelmsford, Bro. Carr was widely respected, and few men could [illegible] so large an experience of men and things. He had visited nearly every country in Europe; travelled through the heart of the United States and Canada, and early in the present year was in mid Africa. Altogether, his life has been a most active one, and whether as a Freemason or as a citizen, he will be greatly missed in his native country. The deceased was interred on Thursday afternoon, in the churchyard of the Parish Church of Roxwell. At his express desire, the funeral arrangements were of the simplest character, but a few brethren attended on behalf of the P.G. Lodge, to pay their last tribute of respect to departed merit.

Another painful duty devolves upon us,—to announce the death of Bro. David Davis, late High Sheriff and J.P. of Southampton, which event occurred on the 21st instant, after a short illness. His loss will be deeply deplored by his sorrowing widow.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF NORFOLK.

INSTALLATION OF Rt. Hon. LORD SUFFIELD, K.C.B., AS PROVINCIAL GRAND MASTER.

THE ceremony, on Monday last, at the Drill Hall, Norwich, was one of the most successful Masonic events of the year. In fact never since the celebrated gathering at the Albert Hall, when the M.W.G.M. was installed, have there been assembled so many distinguished members of the Order. The day fixed was the anniversary of the installation, by Lord Skelmersdale, of the late R.W. Bro. the Hon. F. Walpole, as P.G.M. of this Province. The weather was unpropitious, but that in no way affected the attendance of the brethren, who flocked in considerable numbers from London, and especially from the neighbouring provinces, as it was known the M.W.G.M. would conduct the ceremony in person. Hence no labour or expense was spared in decorating the Drill Hall in a manner worthy of the occasion.

For more than a week Messrs. J. and J. King exercised all their skill and art in decorating against more than ordinary difficulties, the building being so unsuited to any kind of embellishment. Nevertheless, they succeeded in effecting a wonderful transformation. The beams of the roof were festooned with evergreens and flowers, &c., and in the bays of the walls, were inserted trophies, armorial bearings, shields, and monograms. The gallery at the entrance end was covered with scarlet cloth; on the wall above was a large Masonic emblem—the square and compasses; and beneath was a temporary screen, faced with crimson and buff cloth, and bearing on its front the arms of Lord Suffield—the new Provincial Grand Master. At the further end, a dais was raised. It was covered with crimson cloth, and draped and canopied, the canopy being of crimson and buff, quilted, and lighted by a handsome pendant corona. In the centre was a massive gilt throne, we believe from the Grand Lodge of London, and on either side of these were chairs of State, whilst the walls of the dais bore in the centre the Royal arms, with the motto, "Love all: trust a few; do wrong to none;" and on either side were miniature Prince of Wales' plumes in white and gold. Right and left of the steps was a gorgeous Royal banner of purple and gold, specially painted for the occasion, with the motto, "Pax et honor, fides et pudor." The building was brilliantly lighted, the ordinary coronas being supplemented by a row of jets, with a radiating star extending the whole length of the building on both sides. The body of the hall was seated with chairs placed diagonally from the sides, with a wide carpeted space down the centre; and the brethren were placed right and left, according to the seniority of their Lodges. Those represented by banners were—on the right, Union 52, Social 93, Unanimity 102, Perseverance 213, Cabbell 807, Sondes 996, and Doric 1193; on the left, Faithful 85, Friendship 100, Philanthropic 107, United Friends 313, Sincerity 943, and Walpole 1500. When filled with upwards of 900 brethren, in full Masonic Craft clothing, a large number of whom wore the jewels of high rank, the scene was a most imposing one. At twenty minutes to three o'clock, the Deputy Provincial Grand Master Designate (Bro. Major Penrice) ascended the throne, and the other officers having taken their seats, the Lodge was opened in due form. The arrival of H.R.H. the M.W.G.M. of All England was now awaited, the following brethren, who had been appointed as special stewards to attend on his Royal Highness, taking up their positions for this purpose—Bros. W. A. Tyssen-Amherst, E. E. Baker, Lieut.-Col. Bignold, Sir F. G. M. Boileau Bart., Sir R. J. Buxton Bart., Lieut.-Col. Boileau, G. Buxton, J. Bond Cabbell, Captain W. Dods, Sir W. H. B. Folkes, Bart. (High Sheriff of Norfolk), R. T. Gurdon, J. S. Holmes, Roger Kerrison, G. W. F. Loftus, Rev. H. Lombe, Rev. Dr. Mangan, Captain W. Massey, Cecil Montgomerie, Captain Hastings Parker, Paynton Pigott, Thomas Watson, George Wilkinson, and H. Morgan. In a short time the Prov. G.M. of Suffolk, Bro. Lord Waveney, entered the Hall, and having taken a seat on the right of the throne, was received with cheers. Shortly after three o'clock, the strains of "God Save the Queen," and some truly English cheers from without, indicated the approach of the G.M., and in a very few minutes afterwards his Royal Highness claimed admission. The order was at once given, and the Prince, accompanied by Lord Skelmersdale, the M.W. Deputy-Grand Master, and Lord Hardwicke, P.G.M. of Cambridge, was attended to the dais by the Stewards. The Deputy Prov. G.M. Designate at once vacated the throne, and handed the gavel to his Royal Highness. Amid much clapping of hands and cheering the Grand Master ascended the throne; and at the call of Sir Albert Woods, Grand Director of Ceremonies, the salute in Masonry was rendered quite as effectively and impressively, considering the difference in the attendance at the Prince's own installation, as in the Royal Albert Hall in April of last year. Bro. Lord Suffield was then announced. His patent was given in and handed to the P.G. Secretary (Bro. H. Barwell), by whom it was read. Bros. Colonel Bignold, E. S. Bignold, Wilkinson, Aldis, Baker, Loftus, and J. Reeve were then selected as stewards to attend upon and escort the Provincial Grand Master Designate to the Throne. When Lord Suffield had ascended the dais, the Right Worshipful Grand Master said:—Brother Lord Suffield, in conferring upon you to-day the office of Provincial Grand Master of the County of Norfolk, I feel convinced, and I think I shall have the approval of the brethren of this Province, that the choice that I have made will find favour in the eyes of the brethren. I know that you have proved a good and true Mason, and I know that the duties you are about to enter upon you will carry out in a conscientious and true manner; and I feel also convinced that the choice I have made will confer pleasure and gratification on the brethren of the county. His Royal Highness then obligated and invested Lord Suffield, on which the brethren accorded his lordship a most enthusiastic cheer.

The Provincial Grand Master having ascended the throne, then said:—May it please your Royal Highness, Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Honourable and Ancient Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of England, I am deeply sensible, Sir, of the great honour that you have conferred upon this province and upon me in selecting me to fill the office which has been rendered vacant by the death of our late lamented Brother Walpole. I am fully aware, Sir, of the responsibilities and rules devolving upon me. Accepting the responsibilities, it will be my earnest and anxious endeavour to perform the duties of my high office, and I will do, as far as in me lies, the best I can for the honour and advantage of Masonry in general, of the Grand Charity, and of this province in particular. And so, Brethren, I hope to merit your approval of the choice which His Royal Highness has made. Circumstances have prevented my entertaining our numerous and distinguished visitors in the customary manner on the present occasion, but I hope before long to hold a Provincial Grand Lodge, to attend Cathedral service, and to have a banquet, when I hope we may be again honoured by the company of those brothers from a distance, to whom I can only now offer my most sincere and hearty thanks for their kindness, their courtesy, and the fraternal good feeling that has induced them to come here to-day to assist in the ceremony which has just taken place. Lord Suffield having offered to the Grand Master the gavel, which his Royal Highness declined, thereupon appointed and invested his officers as follow:—Bros. Major Penrice D.P.G.M., Lieut.-Col. Duff M.P. P.G.S.W., Hanson L'Estrange P.G.J.W., Rev. E. J. Alvis P.G. Chaplain, Lieut.-Col. L'Estrange P.G. Treasurer, G. B. Kennett P.G.R., H. G. Barwell P.G. Secretary, J. C. Chittock P.G.S.D., P. Wortley P.G.J.D., T. Lord P.G.S.J.W., G. A. Buxton P.G.D.C., E. J. Bonfellow P.G.A.D.C., Hon. Harbord Harbord P.G.S., G. Brittain P.G.O., E. D. Horsfield P.G.P., J. B. Bridgman, C. Havers, W. Mills, and J. J. Commins Stewards.

Grand Lodge was then closed. Among the brethren present, in addition to those already named, were Bros. Lord Claud Hamilton, M.P., Sir E. Lacon, M.P., Rev. C. J. Martyn, P.G.C., Rev. R. G. Simpson P.G.C. P.D.C., A. M. F. Morgan, Major Marsham, J. B. Graber Browne, Bro. Perrott P.P.G.S.W. of South Wales, Bro. Evans Holmes P. Prov. G.R. and P.P.G.D. of Suffolk, Bro. Major Allen P. Prov. G.S.W. of Suffolk, Bro. W. Clarke Prov. G.D.C. of Suffolk, Bro. Huddlestone Prov. G. Treas. of Suffolk, Bro. Lucia Prov. G. Sec. of Suffolk, Bro. Boby P.P.G.S.W. Suffolk, Bro. Frazer Prov. G.S.D. of Suffolk, Bro. Hedley Brown Prov. G.S.W. of Suffolk, Bro. Parrie Prov. G.A.D.C. of Suffolk, Bro. James Terry G.D.C. of Herts, Bro. W. Hammond P. Prov. G.J.D. of Middlesex, Bro. Adams P. Prov. G.S.B. of Suffolk, Bro. F. Binckes P.G.S., Bro. Long P. Prov. G.D.C. of Suffolk, Bro. Sedgwick P.P.G. Reg. of Suffolk, Bro. Joshua Nunn P.G.J.W., H. H. Bridgwater P.P.G.C., Rev. H. Evans Lombe P.S.W., J. Cholmeley P.G.C., A. Masters, G. Chamberlin, Gervas Holmes, N. B. Headon, H. Massey, While, W. W. Morgan, &c..

After this the several Lodges in Norwich devoted themselves to the very agreeable and especially Masonic duty of dispensing hospitality. The brethren of the Social, Sincerity, and Walpole Lodges dined together, at the Royal Hotel. Bro. Commins, W.M. of the Social Lodge, occupied the chair, having, on his right, Bro. Chittock, of the Sincerity, and on his left, Bro. Isley, W.M. of the Walpole, there being present Bros. A. M. F. Morgan P. Dep. G.M. Norfolk, Binckes Secretary Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, Terry, Secretary Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, J. Bathurst Graber Browne, Doric 1192, Wymondham, W. W. Morgan, 1385, and other guests. After the cloth was removed, the usual round of toasts was proposed. Bro. Commins gave that of Her Majesty; Bro. Chittock that of the M.W.G.M. the Prince of Wales, of whom he spoke in most eloquent terms, as ready at all times, as a tended proprietor in Norfolk, to promote the cause of Norfolk institutions. Bro. Chittock referred especially to his Royal Highness's presence that afternoon, at St. Andrew's Hall, for the purpose of rendering his aid in extending the Norfolk and Norwich Hospital. The toast of the Pro Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers, present and past, was acknowledged by Bro. Binckes. The health of Lord Suffield P.G.M., proposed by Bro. Chittock, was responded to with the utmost enthusiasm. Bro. A. M. F. Morgan replied for the Deputy Provincial Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers, present and past, proposed by Bro. Isley. Bro. Morgan expressed his firm belief that Bro. Penrice was an excellent working Mason, and congratulated the brethren of the Province on the appointment as P.G.M. of Bro. Lord Suffield, than whom a better man could not have been appointed by the Grand Master. Bros. Terry and Binckes responded to the toast of the Masonic Charities, the latter proposing the health of the three presiding Masters, to which Bros. Commins, Chittock and Isley severally responded. The toast of the Visitors was acknowledged by Bro. Lord Claud Hamilton, who entered the banquet room at an advanced hour of the evening.

Lodge Union dined at the Norfolk, and Lodges Perseverance and Cabbell at the Castle. At the latter, Brother Offord, W.M. of the Perseverance, presided, faced by Bro. Baxter, W.M. of the Cabbell. Our stay at this banquet was necessarily brief, but we may mention that the speech of the meeting was that delivered by Bro. A. M. F. Morgan, in response to the toast of the Provincial Officers. Bro. Kennett presided at the Norfolk banquet.

It only remains for us to add that, as far as it was possible, all the needful arrangements gave the utmost satisfaction. The salute, as conducted by Sir Albert Woods, was perfect. Bro. A. M. F. Morgan, whose name we have more than once mentioned already, was most hospitable in his reception of visiting brethren, and his house was most elegantly decorated in honour of the Prince's visit. Bro. Mills fulfilled the duties of D.C. at the banquet at the Royal very successfully. Last, but not least, the railway arrangements were excellent on the day itself, while on the day previous (Sunday) the Great Eastern management ran a special train for the directors and officials who were anxious to visit Norwich on this grand occasion.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In my attempts to answer "P.M., P.Z.'s" questions, I have strictly confined myself to saying which of his rival versions is, in my humble opinion, correct. Bro. Frances, however, has gone further, and offers a new reading for the whole Paradox. His version is, in some respects, an improvement; and by altering the full point after "axis" to a comma, and connecting the two absolute clauses by the insertion of "and," his reading would be still further improved as a sentence. I fancy, however, objection may fairly be taken to the statement, "round which the earth revolves on its own axis." As a matter of fact, the earth revolves round the sun, not on its own axis, but in a particular path or orbit. Its axial and orbital revolutions are two distinct operations, the former being repeated a certain number of times while the latter is being completed once. Therefore, to say "round which the earth, &c., on its own axis," is to say that which is not. If a reconstruction of the paradox is contemplated, I think it will have to be done by expansion rather than contraction. Each proposition is correct enough. The sun is the centre, &c. The earth does revolve, &c. Freemasonry is spread, &c. What is wanted is something to connect these together, in such manner that the conclusion therefrom may be immediately apparent. Allow me to suggest the following, as certainly meeting the requirements of the case:—As the sun is the centre of the . . . and the earth, in its revolution round that centre, likewise revolves diurnally on its own axis, it follows that, Freemasonry being . . . over the entire surface of the . . . the sun must always, &c. This is longer than either of the present versions, but he that runs may read and understand it.

Let me now answer, to the best of my poor ability, the further questions propounded by "P.M., P.Z."

As to the first query, "with the centre," or "within a centre," which is correct? This depends on the meaning intended. Does he hope to find what was lost with, i.e., by means of, the centre, or with, i.e., where the centre is placed? I incline to the latter, and for these reasons. So long as we keep within the circle of our Masonic duties, being bounded as that circle is by the two great parallel lines representing respectively the greatest lawgiver and the wisest man that ever lived, and supporting as it does the Y. of the S.L., so long will our conduct be free from material error. Within this circle there is one point, and one only, towards which all other points gravitate. That point is the centre, on which depends the accurate description of the circle. As then we must look to find within this the key to the linear circle, so may a Mason hope to find within the centre of the circle of our Masonic duties that important secret on which depends the perfection of Freemasonry. Again, the Mosaic pavement, which is the flooring of the Lodge, is emblematic of the intimate union which prevails among Masons, and the Blazing Star in the centre, of the G.A. to whom we are indebted for all our illumination. The secret we hope to find must lie within that mysterious centre, of whose existence we are aware, but with the nature of which we are totally unacquainted. Dr. Oliver, in his Signs and Symbols, points out, at page 198, that the Tree of Life was in the midst or centre of the Garden of Eden; that the fruit of that tree was reported to convey "the privilege of immortality, and the centre, as being the most honorable situation, would in time be assigned to the Deity, who alone possesses the attributes of immortality and eternity. Within that centre, which is the emblem of the G.A. and His Infinite Wisdom, must we look to find the crowning secret of Freemasonry. For all which reasons I hold the proper version to be, "He hopes to find that which was lost within the circle," or, better still, perhaps, "He hopes to find within the centre that which was lost."

The second question is far easier to answer. Indeed, it is strange that any man of average intelligence should commit any error in rendering the passage. We are speaking of badges in the passage referred to, and the statement from one point of view is, in fact, that the badge of Freemasonry is more honourable than the badge of any Order in existence. Now, in the words which should follow "more honourable than," which stands for the badge and which for the Order? The particular Order referred to is "the Order of the Garter," the members of which are most usually distinguished by a Star worn on the left breast, the Garter itself, another badge of the same Order, being worn only on very state occasions. Clearly, then, it appears to me the sentence should run, "more honourable than the Star of the Order of the Garter or the badge of any other," &c., &c. Or, if we take the comparison as instituted between Freemasonry and the highest orders of chivalry, it would read, "more honourable than the Order of the Garter," &c. The Preceptor who says, "Star and Garter," and No. 3, who thinks Star, Garter, &c. preferable, betray a most uncommon ignorance of common things. The Star and Garter is the name of a well-known hostelry at Richmond, and I imagine there are other hostelries of the same name elsewhere. To compare our Freemasonry with a tavern may be very complimentary to the latter, but it is certainly not very flattering to Freemasonry. There is no Order, so far as I know—certainly no prominent Order of Knighthood—called "the Star," except, indeed, it be the "Star of India," which was not in existence when our Ritual and Lectures were prepared. I believe there is a curious ejaculation among old women, who oddly express their surprise, when anything uncommon happens or is brought under their notice, by exclaiming, "My stars and garters!" I take it the origin of this expression will be found in the stars and garters which are worn by a very limited number of illustrious personages, and may be regarded, therefore, in an old womanish kind of way, as emblematical of extraordinary surprises. But one does not relish the idea of associating old women and Masonic Preceptors in the same breath.

Fraternally yours,

"Q."

BALLOTS FOR LIFE GOVERNORSHIPS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As the promoter of Ballots for Life Governorships by a shilling subscription, I can heartily sympathise with our Brother J. E. Curtels, and am fully assured that he has already met with many difficulties and severe rebukes in his endeavour to benefit the R.M.B.I.

If such were wanting, I could give proofs of brethren (Heaven save the mark) who have denounced my system; upon investigation I have invariably found their antagonism arise from jealousy, and, in some instances, have been unable to trace their names in the lists of subscribers to our Masonic Charities. I advise my good Brother Curtels to take courage; let him pursue his labour of love, without giving ear to "envy, contempt, or malice." Those who have even a small interest in our Charities are now sufficiently well acquainted with the working of ballots, and do not doubt the equitable manner of the appropriation.

For the information of the brethren who have so liberally supported MY SHILLING ENTERPRISE FOR THE BOYS' SCHOOL, I beg to say, that already sufficient tickets have been sold to warrant 35 LIFE GOVERNORSHIPS, OF TEN GUINEAS EACH, being drawn, and should the same liberal support be continued, I hope there will be no difficulty in my raising the sum of ONE THOUSAND GUINEAS for the Boys' School. It is most gratifying also for me to add, that I have received the support of my Lodge and friends, in private subscriptions or separate donations, to the extent of £217, so that, at this early period, I have fair cause for congratulation, having decided to continue my labours to the morning of the Festival, in June 1877, meantime, the money is being placed to the credit of the Fund at the Consolidated Bank, and is bearing interest.

It is not my intention to appropriate to any Province, Lodge, Chapter, or district, a specific number of Life Governorships, but to adopt the same principle as is carried out in the Art Union of Great Britain, which every subscriber will hold to be fair. The corresponding number of the whole series of tickets sold will be placed in a box together, and each Life Governorship drawn separately, thus if 100 Life Governorships are to be drawn, the first 100 numbers drawn from the box will be prizes. Referring your readers to my advertisement in your columns,

I am, yours fraternally,

JOHN CONSTABLE, P.M. 185,
Steward R.M.I.B.

MASONIC CANDIDATES FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Kennington Cross, 22nd Nov., 1876.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Having read with much pleasure your leading article on the Masonic Candidates for the School Board, I beg to call your attention to one soliciting the suffrages of the voters for the Lambeth division, Bro. Chas. White, whom I have personally known for a period of twenty years, and sincerely believe to be duly qualified in every respect to hold such a position. He is a true economist in business matters, but in private a most liberal man and philanthropist, being a subscriber to nearly every public charity in London, and also a life governor to our laudable institutions, "The Girls," "The Boys," and "Aged Freemasons." His Address* will thoroughly explain his principles, and I feel assured in supporting him you will elect a gentleman only to be known to be respected, and one who will represent our interests. I might further say, from his great liberality, he is an honour to the Craft.

I feel assured you will insert these remarks in support of a gentleman who comes forward in the most independent manner, irrespective of any clique or organized body, to honestly serve, and I am proud to say he is a believer and supporter of the pure orthodox Churchman. In his Address, he says, "I am a member of the Church of England, but of no extreme views, as I respect the religious sympathies of my neighbours, and regard the Bible alone as the basis of religious instruction."

Bro. C. White is churchwarden of the parish of Lambeth, and connected officially with both voluntary and Board Schools in his district.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,
SAMUEL W. GARDNER, P.M. 1381.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Indigestion.—Dreary November is proverbial for its unpleasantness, which may lead directly to disease, unless some tonic like these Pills be occasionally taken to sustain the appetite and relish for food. In all cases of indigestion, producing weariness, low spirits, palpitation and feverishness, these famous Pills should be resorted to as the gentlest and surest corrective of the stomach, the best antidote to its ailments. These Pills dispel the cause of dyspepsia, every one afflicted with it may rejoice at the safe and satisfactory results, which can be secured at so small a charge, as the purchase of a box of Holloway's Pills. They purify, strengthen, and remedy imperfect development of growth and health in young persons.

LITERATURE.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Philadelphia, the Mother City of Freemasonry in America. With the Life of Daniel Cox, the earliest Grand Master in America, and an Historical Sketch of the Progress of Masonry in Pennsylvania during the past one hundred years. By Clifford P. MacCalla, M.A., P.M. of Concordia Lodge, No. 67 Philad'a, and editor of The Keystone. Philadelphia Masonic Publishing Co., 237-9 Dock-street. 1876.

THE four articles comprised in this little brochure appeared originally in The Keystone, of which Bro. MacCalla is the editor. They treat severally of "Philadelphia, the Mother City of Freemasonry in America," "Daniel Cox, the Father of Freemasonry in America," "1776-1876, One Hundred years of Freemasonry in Pennsylvania," and "First Things in Philadelphia." In support of the first of these articles, the evidence adduced in proof of Philadelphia being the mother city of Freemasonry is the same as appeared in the Memorial Volume published in 1874, in commemoration of the opening, the year previous, of the new Masonic Temple. As our readers are no doubt aware, the first part of this evidence lies in the comparatively recent discovery of a Deputation granted in June 1730 by His Grace the Duke of Norfolk to Daniel Cox, as Provincial Grand Master for New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. Until this discovery the deputation granted, in 1733, to Henry Price, was generally looked upon as the earliest authentic evidence of Freemasonry having an organised Provincial Grand Lodge in North America. In addition, however, to this Deputation, we have contemporary evidence of the existence of Masonic Lodges and a Grand Lodge in Philadelphia, derived from the Pennsylvania Gazette, a newspaper published weekly, and printed by the celebrated Benjamin Franklin, himself a Mason, and chosen to be one of the Wardens of this Grand Lodge in 1732. Other important testimony is adduced, but, as we have traversed this ground already more than once, it is hardly necessary for us to analyse the statements again. Suffice it to say, that on the faith of these supported statements there is little doubt the claim of Philadelphia to be the mother City of Freemasonry in America is substantiated. Other evidence affecting this claim may turn up later, but, as the case stands now, we do not see how Philadelphia can be moved from her coigne of vantage.

The biography of Daniel Cox is very interesting, and shows him to have been a man not only of good social standing, but possessing likewise very fair claims to literary eminence as well as in the profession of the law. The hundred years of Freemasonry is clearly written, containing all the material points in the development of Freemasonry during the century; while the concluding paper enumerates with just pride all those "first things" which had their origin in the city of Brotherly Love. Altogether we are well pleased with this little pamphlet, which is well written, and, therefore, a worthy contribution to the Masonic literature of the Centennial Year of American Independence. We append, as likely to prove of interest to our readers, a list of the Grand Masters in Pennsylvania from 1730 to the year 1786, when the Fraternity declared itself independent of Great Britain. They are as follows:—

1730. Daniel Cox.	1737. William Plumstead.
1732. William Allen.	1738. Joseph Shippen.
1733. Humphrey Murray.	1739-40.
1734. Benjamin Franklin.	1741. Philip Syng.
1735. James Hamilton.	1749. Benjamin Franklin.
1736. Thomas Hopkinson.	1750-75. William Allen.

ANCIENTS.

1764-81. William Ball. 1782-84. William Adcock.

GRAND MASTERS OF GRAND LODGE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Jewish Calendar for the Year 5637 (1876-7). Compiled by Rev. M. H. Myers, London. Published by the Author, at 8 Ockenden-Road, Islington N.—By our Jewish brethren this diary will be found invaluable. It contains the date of each Sabbath and festival for the year, with the portion of the Law and Prophets appointed to be read on such day, together with a "Condensed Calendar" and table for ascertaining the date of the anniversary of any death for the ensuing ten years, much information respecting early printed copies of the Hebrew Bible, and other interesting matter. It is well printed, and bound in cloth, and indeed in every respect worthy of the highest commendation.

PRACTICAL MASONRY.

(From The Keystone.)

IT has become fashionable to eulogise "Practical Masonry," meaning that Masonry which exhibits itself exclusively in helpful acts and works of charity. We have many words to say for, and not a word to say against these, but we do object to narrowing down the meaning of the term "practical," to merely one of its phases. Indeed we are always suspicious of this word "practical," in any connection. When we observe a man style himself a "practical sign painter," or a "practical printer," we wonder what kind of a painter or printer an unpractical one is, and we begin to doubt whether this practical man knows, after all, much about his business. In like manner, when we hear a Brother enthusiastically advocating "Practical Masonry," we question whether he has not an exceedingly narrow view of the subject, and does not interest himself in behalf of the few at the expense of the many.

Charity is practical, but, Divine as it is, it is only bestowed upon the few, who are under a cloud of misfortune—which cloud often comes to overhang them through their improvident behaviour. These few, when worthy, are entitled to receive the free gifts of the Craft; but there are others, who form the many, whose interests should be kept at least equally in mind. Masonry is not only a charitable institution—it is as well an intellectual, social and convivial one, and therefore we protest against charitable Masonry being exclusively entitled practical. Intellectual Masonry is practical, and so is social Masonry, and convivial Masonry. In other words, it is equally the duty of the Fraternity to conserve the intellectual, social and convivial interests of Craftsmen, as their charitable ones.

Do you ask what is intellectual Masonry? It is the accurate, forcible and impressive rendering of the work of the Craft. It is the interpretation of its wonderful symbolism, so that it may be plain to every Brother. It is the relation of the origin and history of the Brotherhood, showing it to have been, in principle at least, coeval with the earliest time, and that Craftsmen have a genealogy traceable back, without a break, to the Cathedral and Temple builders of centuries ago. That Masonry is intensely practical which seeks to elevate the standard of knowledge among the Brethren, that aids in diffusing "more Light," that explains Masonry by itself—its principles, its symbolism, its history.

Social Masonry is equally practical. Freemasons cannot be in truth a society of friends and Brethren unless they are brought into the closest fraternal relationship to each other. All of the members of a Lodge should be mutually acquainted, and a part of the enjoyment of every Lodge meeting should consist in the social intercourse between the members. And this feeling should permeate the Brotherhood, should subsist not only between Brethren, but between Lodges. It is good for one Lodge to visit another in a body occasionally. Such a course tends to break down any tendency to exclusiveness among the Lodges. It acquaints the members with the style in which the work is done in their sister Lodges and thereby promotes a healthful spirit of emulation. Freemasons may all know each other when occasion requires, but they should actually know one another more intimately than they do. Sociability among the members and among the Lodges is the manner to accomplish this, and this is a form of practical Masonry, that yields, in our opinion, in importance to no other.

Convivial Masonry, too, is practical Masonry. When duly regulated it conduces to the best interests of the Craft, and the heartiest pleasure of the Brethren. Say what you will, the pleasures of the table are in their way unequalled. In our home relations we enjoy them with a zest, three times every day of our lives. In social, political and business life a dinner is a lever of the greatest power. It is easier to raise a flag-pole or a barn, to engineer the sale of an extensive property, or to open a large business enterprise, when a banquet is on the programme. After men have sat around the mahogany, and eaten and drank together, they are apt to think as well as feel alike. They become as one with each other. It is because of this soothing harmonious, fraternal principle, which seems to be an invariable incident to a public lunch, dinner or banquet, that we advocate the more general adoption of substantial refreshment, after labour, by the Craft. If we would have convivial Masonry—a kind of Masonry that is exceedingly practical, we must find it "around the mahogany." If we would gather a full attendance at Lodge meetings; if we would promote cordiality and complete unity among the members; if we would obtain an opportunity for the instruction of all the Brethren in the work and great principles of Masonry, we must call them off sharply from Labour to Refreshment. The work of the Craft is very beautiful and impressive, when properly rendered, but all work and no refreshment becomes just a little bit monotonous. Variety is the spice of Masonic, as well as other life, and must be resorted to if we would make the Brotherhood what it ought to be—a unit in the advocacy of its principles of Brotherly Love, Relief and Truth. Besides, convivial Masonry is true Masonry according to ancient custom. One hundred and fifty years ago Lodges invariably were convivial at the close of their work, and it continued so for a century. During the past fifty years we have progressed in an opposite direction, owing probably to the excesses that came to be indulged in eating and drinking. Reforms of all kinds owe their origin to excess, and they at length, through their own silliness, come to need, in turn, reforming themselves.

Masonry should not be in practice one-sided, for it is in fact many-sided. It should be at once, charitable, intellectual, social and convivial, for in being so it performs its true work, in the best manner, affords to its entire membership the largest culture and enjoyment and is, in the fullest sense, practical.

The approach of winter generally brings about a number of novelties and specialities both for the inner and the outer man, and already the shop windows show signs that the caterers to public favour are in no way backward in their stocks of articles for internal and external comfort. Strange advertisements run through the papers, offering cases of various sorts of wine at a low price per dozen, and our readers must have good constitutions if they can stand the effect of all that is offered in public print. It is, therefore, with some pleasure that we call attention to an article which cannot fail to be welcome to those who are exposed to the cold, or whose stomachs require toning; and in doing so we but echo the opinion of the medical press, and even that of George Augustus Sala, so well known as the journalist of the day. We have all heard of the "Eau de Vie" of H. Brett and Co., so that we need not here refer to its merits. But the introducers of this now well-known brandy have brought out two liqueurs, known respectively as "Liqueur Ginger Brandy" and "Liqueur Ginger Gin," both of which are formidable opponents to all foreign liqueurs, being quite free from cloying sweetness and heaviness, while sold at half the cost of the imported article.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

A SPECIAL General Court was held on Saturday, the 18th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street, in consequence of a requisition delivered to the Secretary, signed by Lieut.-Col. Creaton, V.P. and Trustee, to receive the report of the building committee upon the new laundry, and, if approved, to authorise such further expenditure as may be deemed necessary. Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton V.P. having been unanimously voted to the chair, the Secretary, Bro. R. Wentworth Little, read the advertisement convening the meeting, and the minutes of the building committee. The meeting was called upon to authorise the committee to vote the sum of £1,000, in addition to the sum of £1,400 already voted. Bro. Massa, the architect, having given notice that the builder and contractor could not complete the building of the new laundry, so essential to the requirements, without that sum—£600 being required for engineering purposes, and that would include the fittings. The estimates of the building of the great hall were already given, but this was to be a separate charge. Bro. Massa fully explained the case. It was then proposed by Bro. Lieut.-Colonel Creaton, and seconded by Bro. H. M. Levy, that the sum of £1,000 be voted for the above purposes, that sum to include the fittings. Bro. Raynham W. Stewart P.G.D. said that the architect, Bro. Massa, having given in his estimate, the subscribers ought not to be called on to give a further sum. He then proposed, and Bro. H. Browse seconded, that tenders be solicited, by advertisements, for the work of the new laundry, to include the fittings. Bro. John Symonds P.G.D. proposed, and Bro. A. H. Tattershall seconded, that the building committee be authorised to incur a further expenditure of £600, such additional sum to include the fittings. The chairman having put this to the meeting, the amendment was carried. Bro. John Symonds proposed, and Bro. Raynham W. Stewart seconded, that a cordial vote of thanks be accorded to Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton, for his able presidency, he having, at great personal inconvenience (owing to his late severe accident), attended the meeting This was carried unanimously, and all present expressed their pleasure at seeing him so far recovered. Among those present were Bros. H. Browse, R. W. Stewart, S. Rawson, Ryde Pullen, J. T. Sabine, T. W. White, Major Finney, A. H. Tattershall, Capt. Wordsworth, Massa, J. Symonds, Collard, Moutrie, Rev. J. Vaughan, John Boyd, L. Ruf, F. Binckes, Roebuck, Jas. Terry, H. A. Dubois, Chancellor, H. Massey, Dr. Ramsey and H. M. Levy.

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The monthly meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday evening, at Freemasons' Hall, and was more numerously attended than any Lodge we remember for some years past. Bro. Joshua Nunn, Senior Vice-President occupied the chair, Bro. J. Brett, Junior Vice-President, as Senior V.P., and Bro. S. G. Foxall as Junior V.P., supporting him, together with Bros. C. F. Hogard, F. Binckes, J. Green, J. Bingemann, J. A. Farnfield, M. S. Larlham, and very many others. At the Board of Masters the agenda paper for the next Communication of Grand Lodge was settled. This included notice of motion by Bro. F. Binckes to distribute in equal portions among the three Masonic Charities the sum of £6,000. It was further intimated that the Pro Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon intended calling a special Grand Lodge, with a view to receiving the report of the Committee appointed last Grand Lodge to consider the appropriation of a proposed vote in honour of the Grand Master's visit to and safe return from India. Grants were then confirmed to the extent of £175. The sum of £554 was then awarded by the Lodge as follows: £100 to one applicant, £50 to two, £40 to one, £25 to one, £20 to nine, £13 to one, £10 to seven, £5 to four, and £3 to two. Two other petitions were dismissed. The meeting closed with the usual formalities.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

THE annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Scotland will be held in Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh, on Thursday, the 30th inst., at five o'clock p.m., for the election of Grand Office-bearers; and also in the same place, at six o'clock p.m., at a banquet, in celebration of the Festival of St. Andrew. Chairman, Sir Michael Robert Shaw Stewart, Bart., M.W. Grand Master Mason. Wardens, the Right Hon. Lord Rosehill, the Right Hon. Lord Ramsay. The chair will be taken at six o'clock p.m.

PRINCE LEOPOLD AND THE WILTSHIRE FREEMASONS.

THERE was a very large and influential gathering of Freemasons at Warminster on Wednesday, in consequence of Prince Leopold K.G., P.G.M. for Oxfordshire, having expressed his intention of visiting the annual Provincial Grand Lodge of Wiltshire, held in the Warminster Town Hall. The officers of the Longleat Lodge opened the Lodge at half-past twelve o'clock, and shortly afterwards received the Provincial Grand Lodge, the long procession including the Provincial Grand Master, Lord Methuen, accompanied by Prince Leopold, Bro. Gabriel Goldney, M.P., Deputy Grand Master, Lord Harry Thynne, M.P., Past Grand Warden of England, Sir Watkin Wynn, M.P., Provincial Grand Master for Wales and Shropshire, Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P., Provincial Grand Master for Berks and Bucks, Bro. V. F. Benett-Stanford M.P., General Doherty, the Revs. C. R. Davey and T. F. Ravenshaw, Past Grand Chaplains, Rev. G. O. E. Gardiner, Provincial Grand Chaplain, Bro. Tombs, Provincial Grand Secretary, Bro. Biggs, Provincial Grand Secretary Berks and Bucks, and a number of other Grand Officers of the Craft in Wilts, Dorset, Somerset, and other provinces. The customary honours having been accorded to Prince Leopold and the other distinguished visitors, reports were presented, showing that the province was in a very satisfactory state, upon which Lord Methuen congratulated the brethren generally. Bro. Goldney, the Deputy Grand Master, in the name of Provincial Grand Lodge, presented to Lord Methuen a handsome banner, emblazoned with his lordship's arms, and an inscription giving the date of Lord Methuen's installation (1855), and also that of the presentation. Bro. Goldney delivered a brief address, asking Lord Methuen's acceptance of the banner as a token of the gratitude which the Masons of Wiltshire felt towards him for the ability with which he had for so many years presided over the province of Wiltshire. Lord Methuen, in thanking the brethren for this expression of their kindness and good will, said that whenever his connection with the province of Wilts ceased he should look back upon it with feelings of pleasure and satisfaction. The Provincial Grand Master presented the thanks of the brethren to Prince Leopold for having honoured them with his presence, and said he hoped his Royal Highness would never feel regret, but rather pride that he was a member of a Wiltshire Lodge. At the conclusion of the business, the company adjourned to a banquet, when the usual Masonic toasts were honoured. Lord Methuen presided, and the company, which numbered upwards of 100, included Prince Leopold, Lord H. Thynne, M.P., the High Sheriff of Wilts (Mr. W. H. Poynder), Sir Watkin Wynn, M.P., Sir Daniel Gooch M.P., Bro. Arthur Guest, Past Grand Senior Warden Dorset, Colonel the Hon. Percy Fielding (Coldstream Guards), Colonel Crawley, Colonel Everett, Colonel Magrath, Mr. R. H. Collins, and others holding high office in the Masonic Craft. The health of the Right Worshipful Brother His Royal Highness Prince Leopold, Provincial Grand Master of Oxfordshire, was proposed by Lord Methuen, and received with great enthusiasm.—His Royal Highness, in responding, said: Right Worshipful Sir and Brethren,—I rise to return my most sincere thanks for the cordial terms in which the Provincial Grand Master has proposed my health, and also to return thanks to all the brethren for the kind reception they have given to this toast (cheers). Although I have spent little more than a few weeks in Wiltshire, this is already the second occasion on which I have received a hearty reception from the brethren of this province (cheers). I can assure you that this fact in no small degree increases my appreciation of this country and this neighbourhood in particular. It seems to me that wherever a Mason may take up his residence, and however much he may previously have been a stranger in the country, he is sure to find here a nucleus of ready-made friends (loud cheers.) And this, brethren, is an advantage which I am sure you will agree cannot be valued too highly (loud cheers). I must add that it is a special pleasure to me to make the acquaintance of my brother Masons in Wiltshire, and to find my highly valued friend Lord Methuen in charge of the province (cheers). Although there are probably many present who have enjoyed the Provincial Grand Master's friendship a greater number of years than I have, I can at least say I have known him as long almost as I have known any one, and I need not add that to know him is to appreciate a manly, straightforward, and thoroughly English character (loud cheers). Inviting you to drink "The Health of your Provincial Grand Master," I congratulate you upon having so genial and cheery a chief, and I ask you to join me in praying that he may be spared for many, many years to preside over this province (cheers). Lord Methuen responded, and the toast list was then gone through.—Standard.

Bro. Terry announced, at the banquet of the Social, Sincerity and Walpole Lodges, held on Monday, in honour of the Installation, by the Grand Master, of Lord Suffield, as Prov. G.M. Norfolk, at the Royal Hotel, Norwich, that H.R.H. Bro. Prince Leopold had graciously undertaken to preside at the Festival in February of next year of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution.

ALONG THE HIGHWAY OF MASONRY.

(From the Masonic Advocate.)

AMONG the many organizations in the world that have been instituted among men, there is not one in which the line of conduct of the member is more clearly defined than in the Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons. There is none in which the members are bound by stronger obligations to pursue a steady course in the discharge of his duties as such, and to practise the precepts so prominently set up to teach him the way wherein he should walk. The highway of Masonry is no obscure path with devious windings, a trail that can be followed only by carefully watching the marks left by those who have gone that way before, but a broad open road, through an open country, which may be easily followed by any one when once fairly started on his mystic journey. At every turn and cross-road has been placed a finger-post, upon which, in language intelligible to every well-informed Mason, he finds all needed instructions to enable him to travel in confidence, and in the full enjoyment of all his rights and privileges among his fellow travellers.

With a line of conduct so clearly defined, with obligations so strong to discharge every known duty, and with an open road before them so plain that none need go astray, it might be expected that there would be unanimity of thought and action among all Masons in their intercourse with each other, and especially that all would unite in preserving the land-marks, and in upholding the principles and teachings of Masonry. It is, however, a fact, much to be regretted, that such is not the case. Instead of being thus united as one man, we find Masons often divided in opinions and in their course of action. If all were actuated by an earnest desire to promote the best interests of the Order, such would not be the case, for then we would find them acting more in harmony with each other.

While we believe that a very large proportion of Masons are honest in all that they say and do, it is evident that some are not, and that they are only seeking to promote their own individual interests in remaining members of the Order. They travel along in the good company of their more worthy brethren, with a feigned zeal well calculated to mislead them in regard to their true character; and for a time, perhaps, succeed in pulling the wool over their eyes to the extent of securing for themselves the advantages of high official positions, which place them before the world as recognised, honoured leaders, enjoying the full confidence of the whole Fraternity. Not having the true spirit of Masonry in them, we often find them opposed to measures that would be of undoubted benefit to the Craft, or advocating others that would work to its injury; when the one would interfere with some pet scheme of their own, or the other gratify the longings of a selfish ambition. They remain obedient to Masonic law so far as to protect themselves from charges for un-Masonic conduct, but where there is no fear of a penalty to restrain them, they set it at defiance upon the slightest provocation. Thus they travel on, until their cupidity is discovered, and they are made to fall back to the rear, where they generally follow in forced submission until all hope of regaining their lost position has passed away, when, at the first cross-road, they desert from the ranks, strike out for the camp of non-affiliates, and enlist under their banner, upon which is inscribed one significant word—Deserters.

There is another class of Masons, often found upon the highway of Masonry, who are active and officious, apparently well-meaning, and would do what is right if they only knew how; but who never make an effort to gain the information to qualify themselves to act until the very moment when action becomes necessary. They pass the finger-posts without observing the instructions upon them, and then halt the procession while they discuss the question whether they are on the right road or not. Without the means at hand to arrive at a correct conclusion, such discussions are worse than useless, for they consume valuable time, and still do not develope the desired information. Finally they move on, and, to their mortification, find at last that they made a great mistake. One bright Mason is worth more to a Lodge than a score of such members.

Another class of Masons, and we are sorry to say that they are exceedingly numerous, are no better informed than those we have last described, and are this much worse, that they don't seem to care whether they are right or wrong. They vote "hit or miss" on all questions, with a sang froid that would have astonished King Solomon himself. Now we do really believe that they desire to be right, but are too indolent to make even an effort to find out whether they are or not. Perhaps they are not as much to blame as those who made them Masons.

There are several other classes of Masons that we might mention in this connection, but we will let them rest until some future time. We do not expect much benefit from an article like this, for those for whom it is designed are seldom among those who read a Masonic journal. It is, however, the duty of all good Masons to make an effort to correct existing evils, and we have called the attention of our readers to a few such, hoping that they will endeavour, so far as lies in their power, to aid in bringing about a reformation among the classes we have named. By so doing they will not only benefit the parties themselves, but add to the happiness of the whole Fraternity.

Brighton has had the honour of showing to the country what an Aquarium really might be made, not only as a place of attraction, but as a source of instruction, and no opposition has ever damped the energy of its managers in making it the most complete of any which has yet been established. The result is that it has become a permanent attraction, not only to the inhabitants of the town and neighbourhood, but to those of London, and even of our distant provinces, few persons visiting London without devoting at least one day to a run to Brighton to visit the Aquarium, and none come away feeling that they have not been fully repaid for the time and expenditure so employed. From the first it has been admirably managed, and everything attempted, whether it be in the way of amusement beyond what is to be found in the Aquarium proper, or in the providing for the refreshment of the visitors, has been in the best of taste, and consequently fully appreciated. The Company was established in 1868, and has a capital of £62,500, in £10 shares; £21,000 in Five per Cent. Preference Shares of £10 each; £10,000 Five-and-a-Half per Cent. Debentures, redeemable in 1879; and £7,650 Five per Cent. Debenture Stock. For the last three years the Company has paid dividends of 10 per cent. on the ordinary capital, the reserve and balance carried forward from the last account amounting to close upon £5,500. At the present price of 14½, with nearly five months' dividend accrued, the shares will give the purchaser a return of 7 per cent. per annum, so that we can fairly recommend them for investment, and, being cheap, they are likely to increase in value.—Money.

LONDON SCHOOL BOARD ELECTION.

TO THE CITIZENS OF LONDON.

FELLOW CITIZENS,—

I ask you to return me again as one of the City Representatives at the London School Board. I rest my claim to your support on the fact that throughout my life I have earnestly devoted my time and energy to the elevation and mental improvement of the very classes for whose benefit the first School Board was called into existence. I rejoice to recognise its great services, and to see how much it has already effected. It has erected, or is erecting, over 300 commodious and substantial schools. The total number of scholars has been doubled since the passing of the Act. Indeed, it has laid broadly and surely the foundation of a system which, improved as it will be, will secure cultivated intelligence to every London child.

The London School Board some time ago determined that the Bible should be read, entirely unmixed with any sectarian comment. To this mode of meeting the religious difficulty I am prepared to adhere.

I am a friend to true economy. No more should be spent than is absolutely needed for the attainment of our great object. Beyond that not a farthing should be taken from the pocket of the ratepayer. Compulsion will be less and less needed every year, for the people will soon come to regard their schools with pride, and will take a deeper interest in their children's progress. All statesmen are ready to acknowledge that, in order to maintain our prosperity in the markets of the world, we must put our working classes on an equal footing as to taste and intellectual culture with the foreign workmen with wh m we have to compete. I rest my hope of being returned by you on the sacrifices I have made for so many years to promote throughout the country the mental, moral, and artistic education of the English people.

I therefore respectfully solicit your votes, and have the honour to remain,

Your faithful servant,

JOHN BENNETT.

Cheapside, 14th October 1876.

SCHOOL BOARD FOR LONDON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

The Educational Department having determined on additional representation for this district, and that the election shall take place on the 30th November next, I most respectfully solicit the honour of being returned as one of your Members.

I have had much experience in School work in this locality, having been for many years on the Committee of Management to the Board School, Johanna Street, Lyon Club, the Lemmery Memorial Voluntary School, Kennington Road, and Tyrrell's School, High street, Lambeth (these Schools having an aggregate average weekly attendance of 1,200 children).

I supported applica to assist in carrying out the Elementary Education Act of 1870; but I think that, in the interest of the Ratepayers, more economy is necessary in the proceedings which characterise the present Board. The estimated Expenditure for the ensuing year ending Lady-day next is £300,067 7s 1d, which, on an assessment of £21,500,000, requires a rate of 3d in the £; and if no further improvement has been given to the Voluntary Schools, this amount must necessarily be considerably increased, and probably doubled as the Voluntary System becomes extinct.

At the Voluntary Schools referred to, upwards of 800 children are efficiently instructed; it is self-supporting, and the ratepayers are thus relieved of almost the whole expenditure. Schools of this description should be fostered, instead, of being superseded by the compulsory action of the Board.

I am a member of the Church of England, but of no extreme views, as I respect the religious opinions of my fellow-men, and regard the Bible alone as the source of religious instruction.

If you will favour me by your support, and return me to the honourable position as one of your Representatives, I will devote the necessary time and attention, and use my best endeavours to fulfil with faithfulness the duties of the office to which I aspire.

I remain,

Your most obedient servant,

262, Kennington Road, S.E. October 2nd, 1876. CHARLES WHITE.

FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

WE refer elsewhere to the two principal occurrences of the week, namely, the Installation, on Monday, by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., of Lord Suffield as Provincial Grand Master of Norfolk in succession to the late Hon. F. Walpole M.P., and the visit of Prince Leopold to the Provincial Grand Lodge of Wiltshire at its meeting at the Town Hall, Warminster, on Wednesday. The two events necessarily show the deep interest which both Princes take in the welfare of Freemasonry, and cannot fail to extend the influence of the Craft throughout England. Moreover the Prince of Wales's visit to Norwich, whither he was accompanied by his wife, had in view a two-fold purpose. The installation of Lord Suffield was one, the enlargement of the Norfolk and Norwich Hospital was the other. The Masonic event was a grand success, nor doubt we His Royal Highness's appeal on behalf of the Hospital will be answered most satisfactorily. A large portion of the requisite sum was promised at the meeting in St. Andrew's Hall, and we anticipate, from no simplicius a commencement, that the whole of the amount will be completed very shortly. We regret, however, to add that His Royal Highness's visit to Lord Suffield was abruptly terminated, by the death of one of Lady Suffield's brothers. We beg to express our sympathy with their Lordships and Lady Suffield in their present bereavement.

Extra-Parliamentary speeches have, this week, been more numerous than for some time past. Mr. Cross, who has been on a visit to Ragley Hall, near Birmingham, opened the ball on Monday evening, when the Right Honourable Gentleman was entertained at a banquet in the Town Hall, and took the opportunity of defending the foreign and home policy of the Government of which he is so distinguished a member. The following evening he was presented with an address of welcome by the local Conservative working men, when he expatiated at length on the services the ministry were rendering to the moral and material progress of the whole community. Lord Hampton presided at the former meeting, and the Earl of Warwick at the latter. On Wednesday, he was entertained by the Mayor and Corporation, at a banquet in the Queen's Hotel, when his health was proposed by Mr. Alderman Chamberlain, one of the representatives in the House of Common of the town of Birmingham. In doing so, Mr. Chamberlain spoke at length of the great services Mr. Cross had rendered in connection with his "Artisans' Dwellings Act." The toast was drunk with great enthusiasm, and appropriately responded to. The same evening, Mr. Bright, another of Birmingham's representatives in Parliament, was present at a lecture on International Arbitration, delivered by the Rev. W. Glover, of Manchester, in St. George's Hall, Llandudno. Our readers are no doubt well posted in the views held by the Right Honourable gentleman on the subject of Peace and War, and it will suffice for us to say that he again enunciated them on this occasion with more than his usual emphasis and perspicuity. Other speeches on the political events of the day call for no particular comment.

On Saturday, a Cabinet Council was held at the official residence of the Prime Minister, in Downing Street, when all the members of the Cabinet were present. On Monday morning, the Marquis of Salisbury, Her Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary to attend the approaching Conference at Constantinople, left Charing Cross, accompanied by the Marchioness, Lady Maude Cecil, Lord Cranbourne, and Messrs. Currie, Lee, Northcote, and Hosier, his Lordship's secretaries. The distinguished party reached Boulogne at a quarter to three p.m., and after lunch at the railway station, left for Paris by the tidal train. On Tuesday, the noble Marquis, accompanied by Lord Lyons, our Ambassador at Paris, had a lengthened interview with the Duke Decazes, the French foreign minister. He reached Berlin on Wednesday evening, and was received by Mr. Macdonnell, the first secretary to the Embassy, Lord Odo Russell himself being too unwell to meet him on his arrival. Shortly afterwards, Lord Salisbury drove to the Foreign Office, where he had an interview with Prince Bismarck. On leaving Berlin, he will take Vienna on his way to Constantinople, in order to have an opportunity of seeing the Austrian Prime Mininster, Count Andrassy.

The senior general on the British Army List, General Sir John Bell, G.C.B., died on Monday, at his residence in Cadogan-place. General Bell was born in the year 1782, and entered the army in 1836 as an ensign in the 52nd Foot. He served in Sicily in 1806-7, and during the whole of the Peninsular War, from 1808 to 1814, taking part in nearly all the actions fought by the Duke of Wellington, including the sieges of Badajoz and Ciudad Rodrigo, and the battles of Vittoria, the Pyrenees, Nivelle, Orthes, and Toulouse. He also served with the army in Louisiana, U.S., December, 1814, to June of the following year. He had also held the post of Chief Secretary to the Government of Cape Colony from 1828 to 1841, and was Lieutenant-Governor of Guernsey from 1848 till 1854. He became major-general in 1841, and was created K.C.B. in 1852 and G.C.B. in 1860. This distinguished officer's services had thus extended over little short of three quarters of a century, his life having been prolonged to the very great age of 94.

A meeting was held on Monday at the London Cabmen's Mission Hall, King's-cross, when about five hundred cabmen and their friends sat down to tea. After this came the business of the evening, which was presided over by Mr. S. Morley, who was supported by Colonel Henderson, Chief Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police, and other friends and well-wishers of the institution. The financial report for the past year showed a deficit of about £700 on the building fund, and of £236 on the general business. However, the Shelter, opened a twelvemonth since, had proved a great success, having on an average accommodated over 500 cabmen weekly. The Chairman having briefly addressed the meeting, and handed over to the secretary a cheque for £100 towards lessening the deficiency in the building fund, Colonel Henderson rose, and was received with loud cheers. He told those present some home truths, pointing out that while the licenses were about 13,000, the convictions for drunkenness during the year reached a very ugly total. At the same time, the number of articles left in cabs, and delivered to the Lost Property Office at Scotland-yard had risen under the new regulations from 3,500 in 1870 to 16,000 last year. One case in particular he mentioned, in which a diamond necklace worth £1,000 had been picked up by two gentlemen, and thrown into a cab, and the honest cabman took it at once to Scotland-yard. In concluding his remarks, Colonel Henderson assured the cabmen present of the interest he took in their welfare, and his wish that they might go on prospering more and more every year.

Great damage has been caused to shipping, in various parts, by several severe storms. The Cape mail steamer, Windsor Castle, bound from Dartmouth to the Cape, after experiencing very dirty weather, struck on a reef off Dassen island, thirty-five miles from Table Bay, on the 23rd September. Fortunately, the passengers, crew, and mails were all safely landed. At Liverpool, on Sunday morning, a gale prevailed off the Mersey, and caused considerable loss. The steamer Anglia was towed into Dundee, on Monday morning, in a disabled state, while the Coral Queen, of West Hartlepool, which sailed on Saturday evening for Gothenburg, had to put back into port on the evening following in a very damaged state. At the Admiralty, a telegram has been received, from Admiral Ryder, dated Nagasaki, 20th November, and reporting the loss of H.M.S. Lapwing, in a great gale off Chefoo. No lives, however, were lost.

The publication of further papers, in which the Emperor of Russia has expressed his views to our Ambassador, Lord A. Loftus, has had a somewhat reassuring effect in some quarters; while in others, people are sceptical, not so much of the sincerity of the Czar's intentions, as of his power to control the enthusiasm of the Russian people in the Slavonic cause. They call to mind that similar professions were made by the late Czar Nicholas to another Ambassador of ours at St. Petersburgh, Sir H. Seymour, and yet those professions had no effect whatever in staving off the crisis which came only a few months later, and resulted in a war most disastrous to Russia. People, therefore, are little inclined to have much faith in the utterances of the present Emperor, the rather that the more recent protestations that further conquests in Turkestan were not contemplated, has proved utterly false. We trust, however, the Czar's declaration may have more than a verbal meaning, and that the Conference, so soon about to assemble, may be enabled to settle all difficulties without an appeal to arms. There is little else in the way of news. The Turks have agreed to the Conference, General Tchernaieff has been commanded not to return to Russia, and the Servian Ministry have sent in their resignation to Prince Milan, who, however, at the time of writing, is said not to have made up his mind to accept them. Meanwhile, Europe is concerning itself much about the mission of Lord Salisbury, the leading continental journals offering their opinions on his journey from various conflicting points of view, according as they are impelled to this or that particular political bias.

We are indebted to the Masonic Record of Western India for the following items of news:—At the meeting of R.A. Chapter "Malwa," No. 139, Mhow, on the roll of the Supreme Grand R.A. Chapter of Scotland, held on 23rd September, the office-bearers for 1877 were elected and installed as follows:—Comps. J. W. Butler P.Z., J. Street P.H, B. V. Hughes P.J., A. J. Philips Scribe E., J. Hembridge Scribe N., M. Ardaseer Ramjee P. Soj., W. Batcheler 2nd Soj., J. Taylor jun. Soj., and A. B. Mercer Janitor. At the meeting of the Lodge "Industry," No. 1606, Deesa, —English jurisdiction—W. Bro. W. Alexander Lewis was installed as W.M., the installing officer being W. Bro. G. E. Manle P.M. The Master then elected the following officers:—Bros. C. Hensen S.W., T. Brady J.W., D. Warren S.D., J. Anbrary J.D., J. Johnston I.G., J. F. Cole Secretary, T. Mitchell Treasurer, Preston Steward, and W. Benn Tyler. The installation of the "Pleiades" Lodge, No. 1487, Sholapore—English jurisdiction—was held on the 7th September, the W.M. elect being W. Bro. J. Carrs, who had presided over the Lodge during the past year. Bro. Carrs having been duly installed, elected as his officers Captain H. La Poer Trench I.P.M., J. Edwards S.W., W. Sayers J.W., J. Bailey S.D., J. Todd J.D., Dorabjee Muncherjee Secretary, W. Stewart I.G., and B. Robson Tyler.

The Keystone announces the early issue of a second, revised and enlarged edition of Bro. Fort's Early History and Antiquities of Freemasonry, published about a year since. This speaks favourably for the merits of Bro. Fort's history. We gather from the same source that at the Quarterly Communication of the Grand H.R.A. Chapter of Pennsylvania, the reports of various committees showed that Capitular Masonry in this jurisdiction was in a very healthy condition. M.E. Companion George E. Wagner having declined re-election, the choice of the Grand Chapter fell upon the following Companions:—Comp. Alfred R. Potter, of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 3, was elected M.E. Grand High Priest; Comp. William C. Hamilton M.D., of Harmony Chapter, No. 53, M.E. Grand King; Comp. Hibbert P. John, of Philadelphia Chapter, No. 169, M.E. Grand Scribe; Comp. Thos. R. Patton, of Oriental Chapter, No. 183, M.E. Grand Treasurer, and Comp. John Thomson, of Columbia Chapter, No. 91, M.E. Grand Secretary. The installation of these officers is fixed for St. John's Day next.

The New York Square announces that at the Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, held at Louisville on the 20th ult., the following Grand Officers were elected and installed—namely, M.W.G. Master R. M. Fairleigh, Hopkinsville; R.W. Deputy G. Master C. H. Johnson, Henderson; R.W.G.S. Warden J. Rice, Louisa; R.W.G.J. Warden Thomas S. Pettit, Owensboro'; R.W.G. Treasurer A. G. Hodges, Louisville; and R.W.G. Secretary John M. Todd, Louisville. On the same authority we announce that, at the Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge Illinois, at Chicago, on the 3rd, 4th, and 5th ult., Bros. Joseph Robbins, Quincy, was duly elected and installed M.W. Grand Master; W. J. A. De Lancy, Centralia, Dep. Grand Master; Henry E. Hamilton G.S.W., and W. H. Scott, Troy, G.J.W.; Archibald A. Glenn, Mt. Sterling, G. Treasurer; and John F. Barrell, G. Secretary.

According to the Masonic Jewel for the present month, Bro. Charles A. Woodward, of Cleveland, has been re-elected Grand Master of Ohio, and Bro. John D. Caldwell, of Cincinnati, Grand Secretary. The same excellent magazine contains, as its opening contribution, an admirably-written story, entitled, "Bertha Eberhard, or the Masons of Cologne."

The Vale of Health Hotel, for some time unoccupied, has at last found a proprietor, in the person of Bro. Henry Braun. This hotel, situate at Hampstead Heath, is now open, and possesses every requirement for Lodge meeting, banquets, &c.

A GRAND LODGE FOR NEW ZEALAND.

WE are gratified to observe, from a paragraph published in a Wellington (N.Z.) paper, and reprinted by us last week, that the New Zealand Lodges seem inclined to take steps to obtain a Grand Lodge for New Zealand. The movement seems to be initiated by the Lodges under the Scotch Constitution, but there is every reason to hope that the English and Irish Lodges will join in the movement. It has long been patent, that a Grand Lodge for the whole colony is a thing greatly to be desired. It is impossible that the Grand Lodge at home can exercise a proper control over their intimate children at the Antipodes. The time which must necessarily elapse during the interchange of official communications renders prompt action impossible, and often makes nugatory the steps adopted by the Colonial Boards. Moreover, time are sometimes cases of conflict arising out of the varied interests of Lodges under different constitutions, which are very undesirable, but which cannot be got at, and long abuses remain in statu quo.

Our chief object in alluding to this matter, arises from our wish to see the English and Irish Lodges joining early in the movement. There are certain drawbacks, to use a mild term, about the Constitutions of Scotch Masonry, which have worked, and are working, incalculable evils in Scotland, which we should be very sorry to see perpetuated in the "Britain of the South." It is, therefore, most important that, at the outset, all our New Zealand brethren should join hand in hand to frame such constitutions, as will tend to the upholding of the high character of the Order. Each day serves, only more and more, to convince thoughtful brethren that the strictest caution is necessary in the admission of candidates. If ever Masonry stood in need of recruits, it certainly stands in no such condition to-day. We are at liberty, more than ever, to pick and choose from those who aspire to a participation in our mysteries, and it is more than ever necessary that we should exercise a spirit of caution.

ARE YOU A MASON?

(From the Masonic Jewel.)

A MID those like the Ministers at whom the answer is doubtful, and uncertainty are quite natural to mind, many [illegible] thought with positive, as well as with a negative reply to the surrounding [illegible] corroborate the answer are the mind [illegible] temporary belief. Masonic travellers are as numerous as the showers of spring, and the ritualist rarely [illegible] upon an examination. Masonic travellers and mere ritualists appear happily adapted to each other; the ritualist finds his best ideal of ritualistic brilliancy in many a Masonic mendicant or impostor. Masons who go into Masonry [illegible] be informed in the ritual. Are they Masons? Of course they are. Only try them, and be astonished at what they know. Question them. What folly! Aude, Vide, Tace. You are but a way station for them to stop at and take refreshments. They know your position and use you accordingly.

Are you a Mason? How stupid, if you know us, to ask such a question! We lecture nearly all the candidates in our Lodge; we go to other Lodges and lecture them. They call us bright. Who doubts it, when we can say every word of the lectures?

Are you a Mason? Why do you ask? We pay Lodge dues, attend Lodge meetings, never miss a Masonic procession, and if the Lodge is at labour we are certain to aid in the work—if at actual refreshments we eat, drink, and make ourselves agreeable.

But are you a Mason? Have you not for years done many things to disturb the peace and harmony of your Lodge? How many unkind and unjust remarks have you made about members of Masonic? How many times have you been envious of your brother, because he was higher or better informed than you were? How many times have you slandered his good name? How many times have you sought to place stumbling-blocks in his way, and drag every one down to your own level? Are you in office? The more shame for you. Are you a light in the Masonic firmament? Then look well to your ways. Charity is a rarity in a Masonic Lodge—not the charity that contributes dollars and cents, but that charity that is kind, that envieth not, is not puffed up, is not easily provoked, and thinketh no evil.

Masonry and charity are sisters. The first, to be true to its calling, must have not only intelligence and learning, but it must also possess the accomplishments of the latter. Learning nor wealth will ever make a man a Mason without charity; and charity will always find a reliable guide in following where true Masonry leads. Reader, ask yourself—

ARE YOU A MASON?

MASONIC SECRECY.

THE secrecy of Masonry is its only sybil-voice proclaiming: Procul O procule este profani. It is only the secrecy of the lawyer to his client; of the minister to his penitent; of the physician to his patient; or of friend to friend. This trustworthy confidence is the glory of man; scandal dies like an echo in the shore where the tongue is bridled by truth and honour. Where there is no talebearer the strife ceaseth." Wrench from the heart of a Mason the secret of his brother: and from the same heart you may blot out the laws of his God, the vows made to a fond and confiding wife, or kindness he owes to his children, to country and to home. The liberty of secrets is a moral [illegible] for [illegible] sphere of honour, he is the JUDAS of friendship and the ASSASSIN of character.

Nor never need an honest open-hearted Mason fear that the latter portion of our oath is against the Order in its present [illegible] circumstance that the ladies are now admitted into membership among Free and Accepted Masons. Let him tell, what is the fact, that MINERVA the Goddess of Wisdom presides in the Mason's Lodge; in which she would have indeed but a divided empire if the ladies [illegible] were admitted along with her. We surely could not trust Venus and Minerva together in our Lodges; but we should become as much distracted with the [illegible] of Beauty as we all the severer teachings of Wisdom. But it will be high time to attempt a laboured defence of this Masonic secrecy when a lady shall [illegible] when she shall [illegible] looking over sleeping Memnon [illegible] affections: pillowing on her pure heart, be shall [illegible] and the secret which it contains. Ah, could she make him a renegade to honour, how would [illegible] in such hands and in such keeping would she consider her own fame, and those gems of affection which woman never gives save to the trusty, the brave, the unconquerable, the [illegible]

There is a sublime secret connected with every thing that is valuable. Says the great light of Masonry, the Bible, "the secret of the Lord is with them that fear him." There is a secret in each profession of life, in every science, in every beautiful art. There is a secret in love, an outspoken language that sometimes glances from the eye, but which is oftener hid by virgin modesty until the heart becomes an urn of suffering in which the fires of hidden attachment crimson the recesse of the affections. There is a secret in haste, whispered only to the moon, as its pale cold eye gleams on the assassin's dagger. There are secrets everywhere in nature, from the pedestal to the capital of the pillar of the universe over which the mysterious eye of Omniscience burns with its secret meaning.—H.W. in "Masonic Record."

The Fifteen Sections will be worked at the Highgate Lodge of Instruction, No. 1366, Bull and Gate Tavern, Kentish Town, on Thursday, 30th Nov. 1876. Chair to be taken at 7 o'clock precisely, by Bro. J. N. Frost, P.M. 228, 704, 865, P.Z. 733, Preceptor.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Kemeys Tynte Preceptory of Knights Templars.—Met, pursuant to summons, at the Masonic Hall, Golden Square, on Friday, 17th inst., Lieut. Col. Somerville Barney P. Prov. Prior of Essex being E. Preceptor. The Preceptory is to be congratulated upon the renewed career of vigour now inaugurated under the rule of this zealous officer. Current business was disposed of, and Comps. Kenneth R. Murchison J.P. and W. H. Kempster M.D. were installed Knights of the Order. Ill. Knights Major Shadwell Clerke V.E. Sub-Prior of England, and Captain N. Philips P.G. Sub-Prior of England, &c., together with other visitors attended. A Priory of St. John was afterwards opened, and its Knighthood conferred upon several Knights Templars by Major Shadwell Clerke, the mainstay of the Order of Malta in this country at the present time. The appointments, working and tout ensemble of the ceremonies, did honour to the revered name of Kemeys Tynte, and the banners under that name may emphatically be regarded as constituting a Preceptory comme il faut.

Metropolitan R.A. Chapter of Improvement.—This Chapter held its usual weekly convocation on Tuesday last, at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill, E.C. There was a fair attendance. Comps. J. Constable M.E.Z., John C. Cox H., W. E. Gomperts J., Edward S. Norris Assistant Scribe E., Peter Wagner S.N., John Boyd Treasurer, G. K. Lemann Principal Sojourner, besides whom were present Comps. R. Z. Bloomfield, Alfred L. Annett, George P. Gillard, T. S. Mortlock, G. Waterall, S. H. Wagstaff, Thomas Ball, R. W. Goddard, James W. Berrie, J. B. Lemaitre, John Soane, J. W. Noehmer. The ordinary routine business of the convocation was gone through, and Comp. R. Z. Bloomfield having kindly consented to act as candidate, the M.E.Z. rehearsed the ceremony of exaltation, assisted by the principals, after which Comp. Boyd worked the first clause of the lecture, assisted by the companions. This concluded the business of the evening, and the Chapter adjourned until Tuesday next at 6.30.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules, Londonhall-street, on Thursday evening last, 23rd November, at 7.30. Present—Bros. Hogarth W.M., Howlett S.W., Powell J.W., Ellis S.D., Hollands J.D., Rudderforth Preceptor pro tem, Grammer I.G. and Secretary. The ceremony of the first degree was rehearsed, Bro. Dudley P.M. acting as candidate. Five sections of the Lecture were worked by Bro. Webb, assisted by the brethren. A cordial vote of thanks was then entered on the minutes to Bro. Hogarth, for the very able manner in which he had discharged the duties of the chair. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed.

London Masonic Club Lodge of Instruction, No. 58.—This Lodge held its first meeting on Monday, the 13th inst., at 101 Queen Victoria-street, E.C. (London Masonic Club). Present—Bros. C. J. Hogg P.G.S. P.M. 58, P.M. 1275 W.M., E. W. Hubbuck P.M. 58 S.W., N. Reed J.D. 755 J.W., John E. Shand Hon. Secretary, E. T. Kingsford 58 S.D., J. D. Ticker 1165 J.D., G. Briggs 765 I.G., Bentley P.M. 193 Tyler. Bros. E. Jardine P.M. 140, Jno. White S.W. 1276, Hothrington W.M. 58, W. W. Stevens I.G. 657, Edell 108, Langton, Faller 192, Jas. Ford 58, Jno. Whitaker W.M. elect 1572, Davige 7, Sadlin 185, Taylor 1572, W. M. Stiles I.G. 1507. Business—The Lodge was opened in due form, with solemn prayer; the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Shand was candidate. The W.M. stated, as this was the first meeting he hoped the brethren, when they met for instruction, would adopt the tuition, or dictum and working of the Preceptor, without reference to their previous usages or working, so that only one system would prevail with this Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Mander P.M., Preceptor 1201, gave explanation of first tracing board. It was proposed, seconded, and unanimously carried, that Bro. S.W. Hubbuck be W.M. at next meeting, and he appointed his officers in rotation. It was proposed and carried that a vote of thanks be given and recorded upon the minutes to Bro. Mander, for his able lecture upon the tracing board. The thanks of the meeting were given to the W.M. for his able conduct of the chair on this, the inauguration meeting. Bro. Reed J.W. proposed, and Bro. Hubbuck S.W. seconded, that a vote of thanks be recorded upon the minutes and given to the Directors and Committee of the London Masonic Club, for their kindness in placing the room at the disposal of the Lodge for meetings. The bye-laws were read, and all Masonic business being ended, the Lodge closed with solemn prayer and in perfect harmony, and was adjourned until Monday evening, 27th inst., at 6 o'clock.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.—Held at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on Tuesday, 21st November. Present—Bros. Rudderforth W.M., Ellis S.W., Parker J.W., Maidwell S.D., R. Maidwell I.G. Bros. Hollands, Hill, Davis, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree. Bro. Hill answered the questions leading to the 3rd degree, and was entrusted. The Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and Bro. Hill was duly raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The 1st section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Rudderforth, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was closed in the 3rd degree. The Lodge was resumed to the 1st degree, and the 2nd section of the lecture was worked by the W.M., assisted by Bro. Ellis and the brethren. Bro. Ellis was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks was recorded for the able manner in which Bro. Rudderforth worked the ceremony—including the traditional history of the 3rd degree—for the first time in this Lodge. The motion on the books of the 7th November was carried, that this Lodge of Instruction shall meet at 7 instead of 7.30, the same to take effect on the 1st Tuesday in December. Nothing further offering the Lodge, was closed in due form, the brethren having spent a very instructive evening.

Lodge of Tranquillity, No. 185.—A regular meeting of this Lodge took place at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, E.C., on Monday, the 20th inst. There were present Bros. J. D. Barnett W.M., John Peartree S.W., D. Posener J.W., John Ross I.P.M., P. Levy Sec., George Pare S.D., S. D. Bayley J.D., Fred. Croaker I.G., George Bilby P.M. Organist. Past Masters — J. Constable, R. Z. Bloomfield, S. E. Moss, N. Moss, M. Harris, N. Glucksteln, and E. Gottheil. The attendance of lay members was unusually large. The following visitors were also present:—M. Emanuel P.M. 342, D. Webb P.M. 1242, R. Webb Emanuel Hess. 1017, M. Loewenstark 1360, S. Brown P.M. 1426, A. Wolf 1613, W. Payne 1602, M. Hamer 1419, E. D. Drummond R.W.M. 5 Scotch Constitution. S. Westerby 1613, C. J. Benson 1613. The business of the evening consisted of conferring the degree of M.M. to Bros. Lederer, Salaman, Valentine, Myers, and Barnett; Crafting Bros. Smith and Davis; and initiating Messrs. James Butler, Gustav Feigl, and Alfred Westerby, all the ceremonies being very ably performed by the W.M. Subsequently, Bro. E. C. Chantler was unanimously elected a joining member. In pursuance of notice of motion given at a previous meeting, Bro. E. Gottheil P.M. submitted the following resolution:—That the Lodge vote a sum of twenty guineas to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, to be placed on the list of Bro. John Constable P.M., as Steward representing the Lodge. In the course of his remarks he adverted to the willingness with which the members met any proposition having for its object deeds of mercy and benevolence, and their readiness to carry into practice the exhortation, "Ask and ye shall have." He thought it needed no words of his to recommend the merits of the Boys' Institution, as they were well acquainted with the great amount of beneficial work it accomplished. However deserving of sympathy and support the other institutions may be, it had always appeared to him that the Boys' Institution was pre-eminently entitled to the highest consideration, for boys are destined in due time to participate in manhood's strife for existence, and the Craft, as their guardian, is bound to see that their breeding and education is such as to fit them to enter the battle of life sufficiently well armed to give them a chance to continue the fight with some measure of success. The flourishing condition of the Order, with its incessant influx of new members, of which the Lodge of Tranquillity can boast of having a fair share, must, in the nature of things, eventually result in larger demands upon the institution, it therefore behoved every Mason to do what he could towards seeing their resources kept in a state of efficiency. Whenever a call of this kind is made, whether the Lodge fund permits it or not, if even they have to punish their own pockets, it was a duty, indeed it ought to be a pleasure, to set aside every selfish consideration and respond to it heartily. The motion was seconded by Bro. John Peartree, Treasurer, and carried without a dissentient voice. In accordance with a notice of motion, by Bro. Constable P.M., a committee was formed for the purpose of taking into consideration the advisability of the removal of the Lodge from its present quarters. Bro. Myers, proprietor of the Jewish Chronicle, called attention to the fact that, in North Germany, Jews are not admitted into Masonic Lodges. Recently, at a meeting of the German Grand Lodge, the abolition of the prohibitory clause in the Constitution was strongly advocated, it received the support of the Grand Master, as well as that of the Grand Officers, but had to be retained by the vote of a majority, consisting chiefly of provincial delegates. Bro. Myers thought it was time that such an anomaly should be protested against, as being so utterly un-Masonic. It was not a question of creed upon which the question ought to rest, but upon the broad basis of Masonic principle and practice. A resolution to petition Grand Lodge upon the subject was unanimously carried. Bro. Gottheil suggested that, in the face of such gross violation of one of the fundamental principles of Masonry, the Grand Lodge of England ought, in justice, to suspend all correspondence with the Grand Lodge of Germany. When the Lodge was closed, supper was served, after which the proceedings were of the usual character. The health of the visitors was proposed by the W.M., and responded to by Bro. Duncomb R.W.M. of No. 5, Scottish Constitution. The reason, he thought, he was selected to respond to the toast was that he hailed from a greater distance than any of the other visitors. He represented Lodge No. 5, being the R.W.M., for the second year, in succession to Bro. John Laurie, the Grand Secretary, and when he returned it would be a great pleasure to him to inform his brethren of the excellent work done in this Lodge, the hospitality he had enjoyed, and the kindness with which he had been received. The initiates responded in a practical manner by subscribing one guinea each to the Benevolent Fund, and one of them (Bro. Alfred Westerby) gave, in addition, £10 10s on Bro. Constable's list. Bro. Saillard also subscribed £10 10s. Some excellent singing by Bros. Bailey, Woolf, Barnett, Constable, &c. contributed to enliven the proceedings.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Wednesday, the 22nd November, at Mason's Hall, Mason's-avenue, Basinghall-street, E.C. Present—Bros. I. P. Cohen W.M., Rudderforth S.W., Tollis J.W., J. K. Pitt Secretary, John Constable P.M. Treasurer, F. Croaker S.D., M. Loewenstark J.D., Fenner I.G., Christopher Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. E.Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, Turquand, Bloomfield. Business—The minutes having been confirmed, the third ceremony was very ably rehearsed, Bro. Staley acting as candidate. The first section was worked by Bro. Gottheil, assisted by the brethren. In accordance with bye-law 12, a life governorship was balloted for among those who had attended twenty-five times and upwards during the year. The prize was drawn by Bro. Battie, who will place the ten guineas on Bro. Constable's list. Bro. Rudderforth will preside on next Wednesday, and after the rehearsal of one of the ceremonies, Bro. G. B. Abbott will deliver a lecture on a Masonic historical subject. The meeting will be held in one of the largest rooms, and we trust that brethren who can make it convenient will attend, as this innovation in Lodge of Instruction procedure will, there is no doubt, prove most highly interesting and instructive; and, if approved of, will be followed at stated times by a series of lectures and addresses by brethren who are qualified and perfectly willing to give their services in that direction.

Israel Lodge of Instruction, No. 205.—This Lodge held its meeting at Bro. Yetton's, the Rising Sun, Globe-road, on the 19th inst. Bros. Austin P.M. Preceptor, Musto P.M. Hon. Sec., Andrews W.M., Defriez S.W., Taylor J.W., Lazarus S.D., Hewlett J.D., Webb I.G., also Bros. Barnes P.M., Job, Locks, Fowler, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, the minutes were read and confirmed. The Lodge was then opened in the second and third degrees, and the ceremony of Raising rehearsed, Bro. Locks as candidate. The 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Webb, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was closed down to the 1st degree, and the 4th section of that lecture was worked by Bro. Webb, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Defriez was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A unanimous vote of thanks was recorded to the W.M. for the able manner in which he had fulfilled the duties of the chair. Bro. Webb asked the Lodge to vote him an account, to be added to his list as Steward at one of the forthcoming Festivals, which request was acceded to unanimously. Nothing further offering, the Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned until the 26th inst., at seven o'clock.

Royal Union Lodge, No. 382.—This Lodge held its meeting on Monday, the 20th of November inst., at Chequers Hotel, Uxbridge, Middlesex. Present—Bros. C. J. W. Davis W.M., Coulson P.M. as S.W., Holliday J.W., W. Coombes Prov. G.S.B. Middlesex Secretary, T. Swallow as S.D., Cook J.D., G. Stacey P.M. Organist, Allen Steward, T. Lonsdale I.G., Longstaff Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. E. C. Woodward, Swallow, Weedon, Lonsdale. Visitors—Bros. W. Grist the Unity Lodge, Haines P.M. Cosmopolitan, Watson Ranelagh Lodge, Docker City Westminster, Ford Castle Lodge. Business—Lodge opened at 3.30 punctually, minutes read and confirmed. Bros. Henderson, Matthews and Nicholson questioned and raised. Bros. Ahl and Garrard questioned and passed. Ballot unanimous for Mr. C. Gaylard, who was initiated. The brethren adjourned to the Railway Hotel, where an excellent banquet was provided by Mrs. Marshall, widow of the late Bro. Marshall. After the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given, Bro. Haines P.M., on behalf of the Visitors, in an able speech, stated that the working in the Lodge was perfect, the W.M. and officers being well up to their work. The Tyler's toast closed a very pleasant evening, at 9 p.m.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—The members met at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, on Thursday, 23rd inst. Bro. Wray W.M., G. Davis S.W., A. Weeks J.W., Woods S.D., Neighbour J.D., Smith I.G., T. Cull Sec.; also Bros. Yeomans, Dutton, Rusbold, Belfrage, &c. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. The first Lecture was worked by Bro. Cull. Bro

Yeomans, 167, was elected a joining member, and Bro. G. Davis appointed W.M. for Thursday week, in consequence of the arrangements made to work the 15 Sections here on the 30th inst. The following brethren will assist:—First Lecture—Bros. E. A. Dutton, F. J. Wray, B. H. Swallow, G. Davis, D. M. Belfrage, J. Bentley, E. Farwig. Second Lecture—Bros. Harrison, J. H. Watts, G. W. Saul, A. Stewart, A. Boehr. Third Lecture—Bros. F. J. Taylor, W. Neighbour, W. J. Collens.

St. Peter's Lodge, No. 481.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, 18th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. Bro. J. Spearman I.P.M., in the unavoidable absence of the W.M., occupied the chair, supported by Bros. Eynm S.W., T. Halliday as J.W., G. Thompson P.P.G.S.W. Northumberland Treasurer, G. Hazard Secretary, S. M. Harris as S.D., J. Nespet J.D., J. Martin P.M. as I.G., G. Watson Steward, and Past Masters Bros. W. Fulsham P.P.G.S.W. and J. Cook. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. One brother was passed to the second degree, and one candidate was raised to the third in a manner perfect and impressive. Bro. Thompson P.M. then said he had much pleasure in informing the brethren that their candidate, Edwin Hair, had been elected at the last election of the Boys' School, and that the sum of 125 guineas had been subscribed to the Boys' School, in the name of the St. Peter's Lodge, thus giving them eighteen additional votes in perpetuity, in the name of the W.M. for the time being, in addition to those they already possessed. These he formally presented to the Lodge. The following notice of motion was given: "That the sum of 100 guineas originally voted by the Lodge for the purpose of getting the candidate into the School be handed over to the Boys' School." It was discussed what was the best mode of acknowledging so munificent a gift from Bro. Thompson, how to recognise his long services and valuable assistance to the Lodge. A committee was then appointed consisting of the W.M., Wardens, and Bros. Fulsham P.M. and Martin, for the purpose of carrying out arrangements. It is understood that the testimonial will take the form of a full length portrait, in Masonic clothing, to be placed in the Lodge room. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to slight refreshment. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. The health of Bro. Thompson P.M. being most enthusiastically received. The visiting brethren were Bros. Oates J.W. 304, Manchester, Halliday S.W. 406, J. Turner 424, J. Somerfield 406 and S. M. Harris 406.

Wiltshire Lodge of Fidelity, No. 663.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Thursday, the 16th November, at the Town Hall, Devizes. Present—Bros. T. B. Fox W.M., T. H. Chandler P.M. as S.W., Thomas Raymond as J.W., William Nott P.M. Secretary, Rev. H. Richardson P.M. Chaplain, W. H. Bert S.D., H. Howse J.D., Thomas Waite P.M. D.C., W. H. Bush as I.G., John Hayler Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. J. H. Chandler, H. J. Ward, &c. Members—J. A. Randall, G. S. A. Waylen, W. E. Fulford, &c. Visitors—Bros. William Moore 457, Henry Barnes 503. Business—The Lodge was opened and Bros. Heiron and Cannings—after having had the charge on initiation (omitted at last meeting for want of time) delivered to them by Bros. William Nott P.M.,—were examined, entrusted, and retired. They were subsequently re-admitted to the Lodge, which was sitting in the second degree, and were duly passed by the W.M. Bro. F. J. Butler, after having been examined and entrusted in the second degree, retired, and the Lodge having been opened in the third, he was re-admitted and duly raised by the W.M., assisted by Bro. Nott. On the Lodge being subsequently resumed to the first degree, the lecture on the Tracing Board was admirably delivered by Bro. J. H. Chandler P.M. On the motion of Bro. Nott, seconded by Bro. Richardson, a resolution was passed appointing a "General Purposes Committee," consisting of all P.M.'s, to advise the W.M. generally, and to consider the eligibility of candidates for initiation or joining. Two new joining candidates were proposed, and after the usual routine the Lodge was closed.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting took place on Tuesday, 21st Nov., at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. W. J. Smith W.M., Weige S.W., Howlett J.W., Perrin S.D., Williams J.D., Dallas I.G., Wallington P.M. Preceptor, Worsley Secretary; also P.M. Ashburner and Bros. Barker, Fiekler, Johnson, Perry, Cambridge, Gompertz, Saunders, &c. The Lodge was opened to the 2nd degree. Bro. Saunders having answered the necessary questions, the Lodge was advanced to the 3rd degree, when the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Saunders acting as candidate. P.M. Ashburner gave the traditional history. The W.M. worked the first section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was closed down to the 1st degree. Bro. Weige was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Bro. Gompertz, of Lodge 869, was elected a member. Bro. Cambridge announced that the 15 Sections would be worked on Monday evening next, the 27th instant, at the Lord Stanley, Sandringham-road, Kingsland, at seven o'clock precisely. The meeting would be presided over by Bro. T. J. Barnes, assisted by Bro. T. Austin as S.W. We would advise brethren who wish to attend to be in good time, as the announcement of the two names just mentioned is sure to fill the Lodge, it being always a great treat to hear these able expositors of our Ritual.

City of London Lodge, No. 901.—The usual monthly meeting was held on Monday, 20th November. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The W.M. then initiated Mr. Arthur Wellington Smith, and passed Bro. Micklefield to the degree of Fellow Craft. He then raised Bro. W. T. Trebearn of Lebanon Lodge 1326 to the sublime degree of M.M. This being the evening for election of W.M. for the ensuing year, the ballot was taken, and was unanimous for Bro. Geo. Porter. It was proposed by P.M. Bro. Lawrence, seconded by Bro. Lewis P.M. and carried unanimously, that a jewel be presented to Bro. H. D'Arcy the retiring W.M., as a slight acknowledgement of his efficient services during his term of office. The W.M. in a suitable speech returned thanks, and the brethren then adjourned to the banquet, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—The members met on Friday, 17th inst., at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate. Present—Bros. Groome W.M., A. W. Fenner S.W., Lane J.W., Townsend Sec., Bolton Treas., Hirsch S.D., Scales J.D., Pearcy I.G. Bro. Gross Preceptor, and Bros. Keyes, Webb, Lupinsky and Crellin. Visitors—Dulling 640, St. Lawrence, Montreal, and W. W. Morgan. The proceedings of the evening commenced with the formal opening of the Lodge. When the minutes had received confirmation the Lodge was advanced to the third degree, and the W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of raising. Bro. Keyes acting as candidate. On the proposition of Bro. Gross, which was seconded by Bro. Fenner, Bro. Morgan was elected an honorary member. After the compliment had been acknowledged, Bro. Fenner was appointed to preside at the next meeting. The brethren of this Lodge of Instruction may be congratulated upon having a comfortable, well ventilated room, in which to hold their gatherings.

Great City Lodge of Instruction, No. 1426.—At the meeting, on Thursday, the 16th November, at 111 Cheapside, the following were present:—Bros. Goodman W.M., Freeman S.W., Wale J.W., Spiegel as Sec. pro tem, Colmar Treas., Payne P.M. S.D., Browne J.D., Pitt I.G. Past Master Bro. Poore Preceptor; Bros. Wyler, Hamer, &c. This Lodge of Instruction is generally very well attended, and has an advantage, as many think, inasmuch that it is all labour and no refreshment. The members worked the third and second degrees, for both of which Bro. Wyler acted as candidate. Bro. Freeman was chosen W.M. for the next meeting.

Metropolitan Lodge, No. 1507.—This flourishing Lodge held its first meeting after the installation on Thursday, the 16th inst., at the Metropolitan Club, 269 Pentonville-road, King's Cross. Present—Bros. T. Williams W.M., R. T. Kingham S.W., J. T. Douglass J.W., C. J. Scales S.D., W. Side J.D., W. M. Stiles I.G., G. Colls D.C., and H. Stiles W.S.; P.M.'s J. Willing jun. and J. J. Michael, and a numerous assemblage of brethren. The ceremony of raising was worked in favour of Bros. Bosshart, Wrigley, Knight, Tuck, Debeauf, and Lefebvre. Messrs. Clare and Beattie, having been balloted for, were duly initiated into the mysteries of Ancient Freemasonry. A lengthy report, from the Removal Committee, was read by the W.M., and, after careful consideration, adopted by the Lodge. The W.M. then appointed Bro. W. M. Stiles as Assistant Secretary, and passed a high eulogium on the ability and untiring industry of that brother. Bro. J. Willing P.M. proposed that Bro. Tims, Secretary, be elected an honorary member of the Lodge, which was carried. The W.M. appropriately addressed Bro. Tims, who briefly responded for his election. Bro. Willing then called the attention of the Lodge to the desirability of establishing a Chapter at this appropriate time; the announcement was well received by all present. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren retired for the preparation of the banquet. After the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given, Bro. J. J. Michael I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M., who, he was pleased to say, had done his Lodge duties in a manner gratifying alike to the Past Masters as it must be to the brethren. The toast was enthusiastically received and appropriately responded to. The W.M. then gave the toast of the Past Masters, which was duly acknowledged by Bros. J. J. Michael I.P.M. and Willing P.M. The toast of the initiates followed, the W.M. expressing his gratification in believing that, from the marked attention given to the ceremony by these gentlemen, that they would practically illustrate, in their every-day life, the advantages derived from the teachings of Freemasonry. Other toasts followed in rapid succession, each being suitably acknowledged.

St. John's Lodge, No. 1564.—The first anniversary of this Lodge was celebrated on the 6th inst., at the Prince of Wales Tavern, Knaphill, Surrey. There was a full attendance of officers and brethren, and among the visitors were the following well-known and distinguished members of the Craft:—Brev. Lieut.-Gen. J. Studholme Brownrigg C.B., R.W.P.G.M. of Surrey, Rev. Charles William Arnold G.C. of England; Fred. Binckes Sec. R.M.I.B, H. Hacker P.G.S.D. Hants and Isle of Wight, Harry William Charrington P.P.G.S.D. Surrey, Thomas Cawley Eager M.D., P.G.S.D. Surrey, Wor. Bro. C. Gold, Panmure Lodge, Aldershot, Bros. Benham, J.W. of Panmure Lodge, Aldershot, Thomas James Street C.E., S.W. No. 1395, George Trower J.W. No. 1395. This young and flourishing Lodge was consecrated by the R.W.P.G.M. of Surrey on the 9th November 1875, when its first Master, Bro. John Webster, P.D.G.J.W. of Gibraltar, was duly installed according to ancient custom. The necessity of a Lodge in this neighbourhood had long been felt, a proof of which is amply furnished by the fact that, although it has only been established twelve months, during that short period its numbers have been almost quadrupled, making it now one of the strongest Lodges in the Province of Surrey, this unusual prosperity being mainly due to the untiring exertions and abilities displayed by its very talented W.M., Bro. J. Webster, who, in that short period, has initiated, passed, and raised about thirty members, the brethren showing their appreciation of his valuable services by re-electing him to fill the chair of K.S. for another year. At the hour appointed the Lodge was opened in due form, the minutes of last regular meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Messrs.

Carpenter and Abbott, who were unanimously elected. The Lodge was passed to the F.C. degree, and Bro. William Knight, having passed a satisfactory examination, retired. The Lodge was then raised, and Bro. William Knight was duly advanced to the sublime degree by the W.M., in his usual eloquent and impressive manner. The Lodge was resumed in the first degree. At this stage of the proceedings, the R.W.P.G.M. of Surrey entered the Lodge, the W.M. presenting him with the gavel. He took charge of the Lodge for a short period, during which he called upon the Secretary, Bro. J. H. Askham, to read a Patent, appointing Bro. Rev. Charles William Arnold G.C. as Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Surrey. This announcement was received with acclamation, the ability and zeal for the Craft displayed by Bro. Rev. Arnold being fully appreciated by the brethren in this locality. Bro. Rev. Arnold having duly acknowledged the high honour conferred on him, expressed his determination to faithfully discharge the important duties of his new office. The Very Worshipful the Deputy Provincial Grand Master then proceeded with the installation of the W.M. elect. A Board of Installed Masters being formed, Bro. John Webster was duly installed in the chair of K.S., and saluted according to ancient custom. The W.M. at once proceeded to invest the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year, delivering to each a suitable address on the duties of his office. Bros. Henry Hacker P.M., William Stacey S.W., John McGowan J.W., Thomas Haydon Treasurer, William Weller Secretary, J. H. Askham S.D., William Rowland J.D., Robert Kimmins I.G., William Male Tr. pro tem, William Bisley D.C., E. J. Wilkinson Organist, T. Kemp Almoner, William Pearson, George Payne, and John Eaton Crouch, Stewards. The Lodge being duly closed at 4.30 p.m., the brethren adjourned to a banquet, supplied by Messrs. Brett and Son, of Guildford, in their well-known style, at the Anchor Inn, Knaphill, the rooms being kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. James Jay. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, in the course of which the R.W.P.G.M. and the V.W.D.P.G.M. alluded to the great success of the Lodge during the past year, and complimented the brethren on their wisdom in re-electing their W.M. The "Masonic Charities" were suitably proposed by Wor. Bro. H. Hacker, and replied to by Bro. F. Binckes, in a powerful and impressive speech. A most agreeable evening was spent, Bros. Wilkinson, Weller, and Askham having rendered some capital songs. Bro. Wilkinson efficiently presided at the piano.

Upper Norwood Lodge of Instruction, No. 1586.—White Hart Hotel, Upper Norwood, meets weekly, on Mondays, at 7.30 p.m. H. E. Frances P.M. P.P.G.J.W. Surrey Preceptor, W. Hopekirk P.M. Treasurer, J. Hammond P.M. Secretary. This excellent Lodge of Instruction, which has only been in existence since the formation of the mother Lodge, in April last, now numbers over thirty members. It is presided over by a brother who is well known in the South London Masonic Circle for his earnest zeal in the Craft, and eminent qualifications and natural adaptions to impart Masonic instruction. On the first Monday in each month, the 1st degree is rehearsed, and lectures worked; on the second Monday, the 2nd degree, &c; on the third Monday, the 3rd degree, &c.; and on the fourth, the Installation Ceremony, or any of the former. On Monday last (Bro. J. Pringle W.M. Preston Lodge in the chair), in addition to the third degree, by special request of the Lodge at the preceding meeting, the Preceptor, Bro. H. E. Frances, gave, in true Masonic style, the explanation of the Tracing Board of the 1st degree. So admirably was the lecture given, that the Lodge unanimously resolved to have recorded on the minutes a vote of thanks, not only for the finest and correct rendering of the historical illustrations, but for the accurate and excellent production of a Tracing Board, which practically evidenced that Bro. Frances is as familiar with the professional use of the brush as he is acquainted with the Rituals of Masonry. The Ceremony of Installation will be rehearsed on Monday next, the 26th inst., when it is proposed that Bro. H. E. Frances shall instal Bro. J. Miller (W.M., Upper Norwood Lodge) in the chair.

West Middlesex Lodge, No. 1612.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Saturday, the 11th of November, at the Institute, Ealing. Present—Bros A. Beasly W.M., T. Kingston S.W., W. Goss, J.W. 780 as J.W., J. Chambers Roe Sec., — Brown Treas., A. J. Burr S.D., J. Green J.D., T. Bourne D.C., W. J. Compton I.G., Harrison Tyler. Visitor—Bro. Henry Lawrence, of the Leinster Lodge, No. 263, Irish Constitution. Business—The Lodge was opened in the first degree, at 6 p.m. Bros. Hughes, Tucker, Pooley, and Wm. Seward jun. having been separately introduced, and having shown their proficiency as E.A.'s, were entrusted and retired. The Lodge was then opened in the second degree, and these brethren were severally passed to the degree of F.C., the W.M. performing the ceremony separately for each candidate. The W.M. then requested Bro. J. Chambers Roe to take the chair, and deliver the lecture on the Tracing Board, which was done in an impressive manner, to the delight of all present. The W.M. then resumed the chair, and having closed the Lodge in the second degree, the Secretary stated that he had, in accordance with instructions received at last meeting, written to Bro. B. Kanner J.W., to express the sympathy of the Lodge with him in his great domestic affliction. Having read the letter and Bro. Kanner's reply, it was proposed by the W.M., and seconded by the S.W., that both epistles be entered on the minutes of the Lodge. Several gentlemen were proposed for initiation, and the Lodge was then closed in ancient form. The brethren then retired to Brown's Railway Hotel for refreshment. We cannot too highly praise the W.M. for his excellent working. At his installation he stated that he intended to make the West Middlesex a model Lodge, and it is evident that he intends to carry out this determination.

CHINESE CARVING.—For Sale, an elaborately carved set of Ivory Chessmen. The Kings stand 8½ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Knights and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with concentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican.—Adv.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation,' which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Spectre.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Bucks Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION OF GRAND LODGE.

WE have received the usual copy of Grand Lodge Proceedings at the last Quarterly Communication, held on the 6th September, together with the accounts of the Lodge of Benevolence and Board of General Purposes for the quarter ended 30th June. We offer no further comment, as the salient features have already been noticed sufficiently in these columns. We have likewise received copy of the business to be transacted at the Communication that will be held next Wednesday. At this meeting, after confirmation of the previous minutes, a Grand Master for the ensuing year will be nominated, and the Prince of Wales will be again chosen to fill that office. A President, Senior and Junior Vice-Presidents of the Lodge of Benevolence, will then be elected, together with the twelve Past Masters to serve on the Lodge. After a series of grants of money have been submitted for the approval of Grand Lodge, a report of the Board of General Purposes will be presented, having reference to several instances in which circulars have been issued in behalf of proposed new Lodges, inviting Craftsmen to become joining members. The Board have it under direction from the Pro Grand Master to make known his Lordship's strong disapproval of such proceedings, and that Lodges adopting such course risk the withdrawal of the Warrant. A statement of Grand Lodge accounts, and appeals against certain decisions of two District Grand Masters, will next be submitted, and then comes the notice of motion we referred to last week, in which Bro. Binckes proposes the distribution, in equal portions of the sum of £2,000 among the three Masonic Charitable Institutions. It is believed, however, this motion will be either withdrawn or adjourned, as the Pro Grand Master has given notice of his intention to summon a Special Grand Lodge, in order to receive the report of the committee appointed in September last, to consider the most appropriate way of commemorating the Prince of Wales's visit to, and safe return from, India.

There is only one point in the above sketch of the proceedings which will be submitted next Wednesday on which comment seems to be necessary. This it is almost needless to point out, is the Pro Grand Master's condemnation of the practice of proposed New Lodges canvassing among the craft for additional members. We heartily applaud the Pro Grand Master for dealing thus promptly with a practice entirely at variance with the principles of Freemasonry. It is but one step further, and, if such proceedings were sanctioned or connived at, we should very soon find Lodges canvassing for initiates. We fully recognise the difference there is between touting for joining members, and touting for initiates. The latter is a direct violation of the law, and no man could honestly become a Mason who had been so invited. There is, indeed, no harm in one brother asking another who resides in his neighbourhood, with whom he is associated in business, or on terms of intimacy, to join a proposed New Lodge. New Lodges are erected in different neighbourhoods for the convenience of brethren, and it would only be an act of fraternal courtesy to invite a friend or neighbour to become a joining member. But a friendly or neighbourly invitation is vastly different from an invitation by printed circular. There is reason in the former case, but absolutely no reason whatever in the latter. A motive is assigned in the petition for establishing a new Lodge, but the insertion of such motive becomes a formality when brethren from far and near are invited to join.

We are always pleased when we hear of the establishment or proposed establishment of New Lodges. We take it to be, ordinarily, a sign of continued vitality in the craft. When a Lodge in this or that neighbourhood is overweighted with numbers, the erection of a new one becomes a necessity. It is hoped that a Lodge of Freemasons will prove a harmonious body; but what chance is there of so desirable an end being attained if Bro. A. or Z. is admitted a member for no other reason than that he is anxious to multiply himself Masonically into as many brethren as possible. True, the Lodge benefits, and Grand Lodge is richer to the extent of the fees and dues he has to pay. This, however, is but a sorry apology for thus inviting new joining members. We are glad the Pro Grand Master has expressed himself so emphatically on the subject, and we feel convinced the very judicious hint conveyed in the latter part of his direction to the Board of General Purposes will meet with the universal approval of the Craft.

We necessarily defer all comment on Bro. Binckes's proposition till the scheme of the Special Committee is before us. We doubt not the combined wisdom of that Committee will select the most suitable plan for commemorating the Prince's visit and safe return home, from those that will be submitted to their consideration; or, failing the evidence of sufficient merit in any one of such, will erect one of its own which will serve the desired end. Our only hope is, that the thing may be done speedily.

LONDON MASONIC CLUB COMPANY LIMITED.

A MEETING of the Shareholders was held on 29th November, at the London Masonic Club, Mr. T. J. Smith, the Chairman of the Board of Directors, presiding.

The Secretary having read the notice convening the meeting, the Chairman then proposed the adoption of the Report and Balance Sheet.

The Report stated that, "After very considerable diffi[illegible] the Directors succeeded in obtaining premises at No. [illegible] Victoria-street, which, being in course of erection, could be completed in a manner to adapt them [illegible] purposes of a club.

[illegible] opened on the 26th day of July last, [illegible] by the Right Hon. Lord Skelmers[illegible] and from time to time it has been well attended, and [illegible] appreciated by its members.

"The Directors, in the first instance, allotted only such a number of shares as in their opinion would be sufficient to test the willingness of their brother Masons to support a Masonic Club in London; but having met with so much encouragement and support from the Freemasons in London and the Provinces, they felt quite justified in extending their operations, and in trusting to their Masonic Brethren to subscribe for any further shares which it might become desirable to issue.

"The Directors now contemplate a further issue of 1,000 shares, to enable them to clear off outstanding liabilities.

"Since the Balance Sheet has been made up, the Directors and a few of the members of the Club have subscribed for 250 shares, and it is anticipated that before long the remaining shares will be taken up by the members.

"The present income of the Club, from subscriptions and profits upon provisions, is at the rate of £2,485 4s per annum, and if the subscriptions increase as they have done during the last six weeks, there will be an additional income of £1,250 by the 30th of next September, which, without allowing for any increase on the profits from the sale of provisions, will yield an annual sum of £3,825 4s. The working expenses of the Club, including servants' wages, rent, taxes, coal, gas, &c., are estimated to amount to £3,090 per annum, thus leaving a sum of £735 4s profit, which would be sufficient to pay 7½ per cent. on the whole of the required capital, and leave a surplus for a reserve fund."

After the usual vote of thanks to the Chairman the meeting closed.

QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION OF GRAND LODGE.

THE following is the business to be transacted in Grand Lodge on Wednesday, 6th December 1876 :—

7. THE REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.

To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England :

The Board of General Purposes have to report that their attention has been called to several instances of the issue of circulars on the part of proposed new Lodges, prior to consecration, inviting members of the Craft to become joining members of such Lodges.

The Board have the special directions of the Pro Grand Master to make it known, that such proceedings meet with his Lordship's entire disapproval, and entail the risk of the withdrawal of the Warrant.

(Signed) JOHN B. MONCKTON,
President.

FREEMASONS' HALL, LONDON, W.C.
21st November, 1876.

To the Report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge Accounts at the last Meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 17th day of November instant, shewing a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer of £4,086 15s 10d; and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for petty cash, £75; and for servants' wages, £96 15s.

8. Appeals.

(1.) Appeal of the Sussex Lodge, No. 354, Kingston, Jamaica, against the judgment of the District Grand Lodge of East Jamaica, directing the Lodge to rescind its Minute of the 28th of July 1875, accepting the resignation of Bro. Louis P. Mackinnon, until certain charges alleged against him had been inquired into.

(2.) Appeal of the British Lodge, No. 334, Cape Town, against the judgment of the District Grand Lodge of South Africa, directing the installation of Bro. J. W. Atwell as W.M. to be proceeded with immediately on his return to the colony, and that his Mastership should date from the 24th June last.

N.B.—The papers relating to these Appeals will be in the Grand Secretary's Office till the Meeting of Grand Lodge, and open for the inspection of the brethren during office hours.

9. Notice of Motion.

By Bro. Frederick Binckes, Past Grand Steward, P.M. Grand Stewards' Lodge :—

"That this Grand Lodge desires to return its humble and hearty thanks to the Almighty Architect of the Universe for the safe return to his native land, from his Indian visit, of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, Most Worshipful Grand Master, and in memory of that happy event, determines to devote the sum of £6,000 in the manner following :—

£2,000 to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls.
£2,000 to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.
£2,000 to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for aged Freemasons and their Widows.

To be applied in such manner as the Managing Committees of the respective Institutions may deem most beneficial to the interests of the Institutions, after consultation with the special Committee appointed by Grand Lodge at the Quarterly Communication in September last."

THE ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF THE EMULATION LODGE OF IMPROVEMENT.

A MASONIC gathering of much more than usual importance took place in the Grand Hall of Freemasons, London, on the evening of Friday, the 24th ultimo, the occasion being the Annual Festival of the Emulation Lodge of Improvement. We need hardly remind our readers that this Lodge has been for a considerable number of past years the reliable exponent of the authorised working of Masonic Ritual, and that amongst its members are some of the most influential, as well as the most talented masters of the Art. To these the Craft is indebted for earnest and successful labours in transmitting, pure and unsullied, the oral teaching, without which the ceremonies and lectures of the Order would inevitably become liable to error and confusion. Amongst the many who have done good service to the Lodge none have devoted more attention, or displayed more conspicuous ability than the Grand Secretary, W. Bro. John Hervey. For thirty years that worthy brother has fulfilled the duties of Treasurer to the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, and in his honour the proceedings of this year's festival was surrounded by circumstances which must have been satisfactory to all concerned. A committee having been appointed to arrange for the presentation to Bro. Hervey, on his entering upon his thirtieth year of office, of a suitable testimonial of respect and esteem, secured the services of a body of stewards, comprising noble and distinguished brethren, and the consent of the M.W. Pro Grand Master the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon to preside and present the gift. It was, therefore, not to be wondered at that the Hall was on this occasion filled almost to overflowing, and that but for the absence of the distinctive decorations of Masters, Past Masters and Wardens, the meeting assumed the appearance of a Grand Lodge summoned for business of great interest. At the hour appointed for commencement of the proceedings, there must have been between 600 and 700 brethren present, amongst whom we noticed the R.W. Bros. the Earl of Limerick, Prov. G.M. Bristol, the Earl of Donoughmore S.G.W., Col. W. Platt P.G.W., Lieut. Col. Francis Burdett Prov. G.M. Middlesex, Rev. C. J. Martyn, Joshua Nunn, John Symonds, F. Pattison, Æ. J. McIntyre Q.C., R. J. Spiers, S. Rosenthal, Sir Albert W. Woods (Garter), F. Davidson, Rev. Dr. Brette D.D., H. Grissell, Rev. J. Edmund Cox D.D., the Hon. W. Warren Vernon, T. W. Board M.P., Erasmus Wilson, N. Bradford, E. S. Snell, A. A. Richards, H. Muggeridge, F. P. Morrell, Rhys Williams, S. L. Tomkins, J. B. Monckton, Magnus Ohren, Baxter, S. Foxall, Rev. R. J. Simpson, Dr. Woodman, S. Rawson P. Dist. G.M. for China, Dr. Hamilton Dist. G.M. for Jamaica, Col. Creaton, E. J. Barrow, Samuel Tomkins, N. B. Headon, J. B. Freeman, Dr. Jabez Hogg, Hyde Pullen, H. J. P. Dumas, E. P. Albert, Edward Moody, Klench, De Leliva, Crouch, W. Hallis, W. Goldsmith, J. M. Case, G. Kenning, Capt. Philips, Major Shadwell Clerke, Peter de L. Long, A. H. Diaper, H. Greene, J. While, H. Thompson, W. Beattie, Hamer, Keeble, H. Massey, James Stevens P.M. 1426.

Punctually at the hour named the chair of the Lodge was taken by Bro. Hervey, the several offices being filled respectively by Bros. J. C. Parkinson P.G.D. S.W., C. A. Murton P.G.D. J.W., C. C. Dumas P.A.G.D.C. S.D., J. A. Rucker P.G.D. J.D., R. Gray P.G.D. I.G. Thos. Fenn P.A.G.D.C. acting as Past Master, and W. Smallpiece occupying his usual position as Secretary. The Lodge was opened in the three degrees, and Bro. Parkinson was called upon to work the fourth section of the First Lecture, which was accomplished in a perfect manner, and with all the advantages of a good voice and careful enunciation. The arrival of the M.W. Pro Grand Master was then announced, and the brethren standing to receive him, his Lordship entered the Lodge, amidst hearty applause. On reaching the chair, Bro. Hervey surrendered his seat, and placed the gavel in the hands of the Pro Grand Master, who was then saluted with due Masonic honours, under the direction of Bro. Sir Albert Woods (Garter) G.D.C. After a short pause, during which the testimonial about to be presented was brought into the Lodge, the Earl of Carnarvon said—

Brethren,—I think that I owe you an apology for interrupting, in the midst of your interesting proceedings, this lodge, but my excuse is twofold. First, I have extricated myself with extreme difficulty this evening from the trouble of public business. I have with difficulty snatched some ten minutes to find myself here (cheers), and my time is so limited that, after having accomplished the task which I have undertaken, I shall with great reluctance bid you farewell. Secondly, I was desirous to be present here this evening from my high personal esteem and regard for our Bro. Hervey, and for the deep interest which I take in the proceedings in this Hall. Brethren, we have met together for a doubly interesting purpose, and the great assemblage which you witness is a proof of the feelings which you entertain for our Bro. Hervey. There are few Masons in the Craft who could command such an attendance as that which I witness to-day; there are very few Masons indeed who will not be proud of the honour which such an attendance implies. Brethren, it has been my fortune to be constantly placed in business relations with Bro. Hervey. I have known his workmanship; I have known the principles which Masonically have guided him in all the advice that he has offered, in all the works that he has done. It is needless for me to say I entertain the deepest regard for him in these capacities, and let me go further and say, that I have known him now long enough to feel not only a respect for him in all our business relations, but a strong personal regard and friendship for him in the more intimate duties which Masonic life has brought about. But, brethren, it is not this evening in his capacity as Grand Secretary that you have met to do him honour, and to present him with that beautiful testimonial which we have all admired. It is in his capacity as the Treasurer of the Lodge of Emulation, an office which he has held now for the almost unexampled period of, I think, some 30 years; 30 years of usefulness, 30 years of devotion to the Craft, 30 years of unblemished credit and high honour amongst his brother Masons.

(Cheers.) Brethren, it is in this capacity you have met to honour him; it is in remembrance of these great services that you to-night offer him a tribute. And, let me say, lastly, that if there be any body of Masons from whom any one may be proud to receive such an honour as this, it is the Lodge of Emulation. It is the pattern of our working—of our Masonic working. It is the motto which it boasts to set to all other parts of the Craft, and he who has held for 30 years high office and honour in that Lodge stands upon a different footing from almost any Mason that I know, and the honour which that Lodge does him to-night will be amongst his most vivid recollections, to the last hour of his life. Brethren, beautiful as that testimonial is, I think the honour which this Lodge does Bro. Hervey in thus publicly marking its sense of his high character and abilities is even a more gratifying and a higher tribute to his worth than that testimonial in silver and gold that is before us. (Hear, hear). Brethren, this is a time when many testimonials are given, to many persons, and with many objects. We all have experience of this; and sometimes those testimonials are given somewhat indiscriminately. But this testimonial at least is given with the fullest discrimination of character, after the longest trial and ordeal to which a Mason can well be subjected. It is given with the unanimity of the Lodge,—unanimity, I will say, not merely of the Lodge, but of all those numberless members outside who watch the proceedings of the Lodge of Emulation, who respect those proceedings, and who know how high a position the Treasurer of that Lodge, who has held office for thirty years, must, in the nature of things, hold. Brethren, I have been requested, this evening, even in this informal manner—coming as I do for a short ten minutes among you—to be the channel of communication between you and Brother Hervey. I wish I could have found words better and worthier for the occasion; but, and Bro. Hervey will at least feel this, that my words are words of absolute sincerity and truth (applause), and that when I present him, in your name, with that magnificent testimonial of your esteem, he will believe me when I say that never was a testimonial given to any Mason who more deserved it than himself, and never was one given with a heartier feeling of admiration, of esteem, and of affectionate regard by every single member of the Lodge, and outside that Lodge by every single member who knows and esteems our Bro. Hervey. (Hear, hear). Brethren, therefore, in your name, and without further preface, I will venture to place in the hands of Bro. Hervey—metaphorically, for physically he cannot grasp it—the testimonial by which you desire to record your appreciation of him. (Applause).

The Pro Grand Master here directed attention to the testimonial, which took the form of a very handsome silver inkstand, designed by Bro. John Gibson, well known as a skilful architect, and who, in this instance, certainly displayed much artistic excellence, the introduction of Masonic emblems, more especially of the pillars of Wisdom, Strength, and Beauty, being most appropriate. The inkstand is mounted on malachite and marble, and is protected by massive stand and glass shade. Messrs. Mappin and Webb were, we are informed, the manufacturers.

In acknowledging the gift, Bro. Hervey said—

My Lord and Brethren,—I will not waste your time by making a long speech. I will content myself with offering my hearty and sincere acknowledgments to the Stewards who have presented me with the elegant gift which you see on the table, and I offer my sincere thanks to the noble Lord, the Pro Grand Master, for the too flattering terms in which he has presented it. My Lord, I cannot but feel deeply gratified to have received this testimonial through your hands. Much as I esteem the Lodge of Emulation, I do not know any member by whom I could more willingly have wished to have it presented me than by your Lordship. I can assure you I feel it a very high honour yo have done me by coming here for the few minutes you have been able to spare, and I thank you. I am sure I might also convey the thanks of the Lodge for your coming away from those duties which we know absorb your Lordship's whole time, and from which it is difficult to tear yourself even for the few moments you have spared. The brethren will, I am sure, permit me to limit my speech to a short acknowledgment, and to thank them for the gift, and to thank his Lordship for the kind and gracious manner in which he has presented it, in the name of this Lodge. (Cheers).

The Pro Grand Master then excused himself, as public business required his attention. He retired, after replacing Bro. Hervey in the chair, amid hearty applause. The Earl of Limerick moved a vote of thanks to the brethren who had worked the Sections, he was very pleased at the admirable way in which the Lectures had been worked. Colonel Burdett was much gratified at what he had seen, and had great pleasure in seconding the motion, which was carried unanimously. Bro. Hervey responded, and thanked all present for their appreciation of the work done, he felt proud the Emulation Lodge still kept up its character, and hoped they would go away that evening convinced that the Lodge could turn out some good pupils, who could do their work properly. Several propositions for joining were handed in, and the Lodge was closed, the brethren then adjourned to a banquet at Freemason's Tavern. The 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th sections of the First Lecture were worked by Bros. J. C. Parkinson, C. A. Murton, C. C. Dumas, and J. A. Rucker respectively, and the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th of the second by Bros. R. Grey, H. J. P. Dumas, Hyde Pullen and T. Fenn, all Past Grand Officers. After the banquet the Earl of Limerick, who presided, proposed the toast "The Queen and the Craft," followed by that of "The M.W. the Grand Master." He said the brethren were aware of the great interest H.R. Highness took in the Craft, and alluded to the ceremony at Norwich, the previous week, he hoped that before long the Craft would shew, in some substantial form, their thankfulness of the safe return of H.R. Highness from India. The next toast was "The Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers." The W.M. regretted that the Pro Grand Master had been unable to stay with them, but was sure the brethren were pleased he was present earlier in the evening to present the testimonial to their worthy Bro. Hervey. The D.G.M. was well known for his ability, not only as D.G.M., but as Prov. G.M. of one of the most important provinces in the country. Of the Grand Officers, of whom there were several present, it had already been said they were worthy of their position, in consequence of their accuracy in working the several ceremonies. There was one brother present who, although the junior of several of the Grand Officers in years, yet promised to emulate them in zeal. He would couple the name of Lord Donoughmore, the brother to whom he alluded, with the toast. Bro. Lord Donoughmore said he felt much flattered and gratified at the concluding observations of their chairman. He knew from personal experience that the inability of the Pro Grand Master to remain with them was a matter of great regret. The Pro G.M. had expressed, during the past few days, frequent regrets that his public business would not allow of his staying longer than to present the testimonial, and it was very gratifying to the Earl of Carnarvon that he had been enabled to present it. He had obtained much valuable instruction that evening from the other Grand Officers, whom he considered most efficient, and concluded by thanking the brethren for the way his name had been associated with the toast. "Success to the Emulation Lodge of Improvement," coupled with the name of Bro. Hervey, was the next toast, in proposing which the W.M. said he thought it was impossible to overestimate the influence which the Lodge had throughout the Craft. Its name was known not only throughout the United Kingdom, but wherever Masonry is known; and not less so is the name of our brother John Hervey. It is difficult to speak of a brother in his presence, but he believed in drinking his health, coupled with that of the Emulation Lodge, they drank the health of an eminent Mason and a noble and true-hearted gentleman. The toast was drunk with the greatest enthusiasm. Bro. Hervey, in reply, said he mentioned, just before, to Col. Burdett, that he considered himself a very modest man, or he would be altogether spoiled, and he now felt it, because he considered that the way in which the Pro Grand Master—in presenting the testimonial in Lodge, and the Chairman, in proposing success to the Emulation Lodge—had spoken of him was too flattering and too eulogistic—at any rate for a modest man like himself. He was proud to be associated with the toast, as he considered that the Emulation Lodge did much good for Masonry. He considered no brother should undertake duties he could not perform, and what they had heard that evening showed them that any brother wishing to carry out his duties must study. He was sure all who worked that evening were always ready to do what they could for the Lodge, and would perform any duties they might be called upon to do to increase its renown. You, my Lord, say it is not necessary, but to support it something must be done, and the burden is borne by such men as Bro. Fenn (this name was received with great applause). Bro. Hervey was pleased to know that the services of Bro. Fenn were so highly valued. He then alluded to the Secretary. He said the duties were not those of an ordinary Secretary, for in this case the meetings numbered 51 or 52 in the year, and a great amount of attention was required to the accounts of the Lodge. These, he said, were the officers who deserved the praise. As far as he was concerned, he was the Treasurer only in name. He thanked the brethren for the allowance they made for his frequent absence, and concluded by thanking the Earl of Limerick for presiding, and trusted that, many years to come, the Lodge would maintain the character for work it now possessed. Bro. Burdett proposed "The Health of the Chairman," who, he said, was so often among them, that the brethren almost knew him personally. He was always ready to perform any duty required of him. The Earl of Limerick thanked the brethren. He considered it a very great honour to be present. He regretted the post he occupied was not filled by the Pro Grand Master, but he was always pleased to join in bearing testimony to the worth of Bro. Hervey. Bro. S. Tomkins proposed "The Lodge of Union," coupled with the name of the W.M., Bro. Birch, who acknowledged the compliment. Few Lodges, he said, had so strong a child. Bro. Hervey proposed "The Sister Lodges of Instruction," to which Bro. Muggeridge replied. "Success to the Masonic Institutions" was proposed by the Rev. J. E. Cox, who said that if faith, hope, and charity (of which they had heard definitions in the Lodge) could be circulated throughout the world, those outside the Craft might be able to read, mark, and digest the beautiful precepts which were thereby inculcated. Bro. Terry replied. He saw congregated around the table some of the most distinguished supporters of the charities. During the past year a larger sum had been raised for the charities than had been known before in one year. The Earl of Donoughmore proposed "The Health of the Brethren who had worked the Sections," and coupled with it the names of Bros. Parkinson and Fenn, the former of whom said that the working brethren were thankful for the recognition accorded to them; they would always refer to the work of that evening with pride, and they were pleased they had been able to assist in presenting the testimonial to the Grand Secretary. "The Stewards" and "The Tyler's toast" were then given.

In Memoriam.

We are deeply grieved to hear news of the death of a very worthy and distinguished brother, who, whilst on a pleasure trip, enjoying his holidays, was drowned, attempting to land at the Cocos Islands. W. Bro. John Victor Douglas de Wet was looked upon, in British Burmah, as the destined successor of R.W. Bro. Colonel Duncan, whose resignation has been sent in to the M.W. Grand Master. Bro. De Wet was District Grand Treasurer and P.D.G.J.W. He held a high social position, and was universally esteemed, being connected with every degree worked in the Province. His year of office in the chair of the Mark Lodge was about to expire, and he was on the point of installing a successor.

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

A List of Regular Lodges, A.D. 1734, According to their Seniority and Constitution. Printed for, and sold by I. Pine, Engraver, against Little Britain and in Aldersgate Street. Edited by William James Hughan, Past Senior Grand Deacon of England, &c., &c., &c. 1876.

We thank Bro. Hughan for a copy of this important reprint, which forms No. 6 of his Masonic Sketches and Reprints. We likewise congratulate him on the success which has marked his editorial efforts. His labours, indeed, in the cause of Masonic history are of incalculable value, and hardly a month passes but we come across some fresh evidence of his ability in unravelling a further portion of that mystery which enshrouds the annals of Freemasonry. His introductory remarks are clear and to the point, and he adds a few explanatory notes, showing those Lodges in the list which are still in existence. In the majority of these we fully recognise the justice of the connection he establishes between existing Lodges and certain in Pine's list. We confess, however, we are unable, at least without further evidence, to accept his connection in the case of two or three of them. We have gone through his reprint most carefully, and the following notes are the result of such examination.

It should be stated at the outset that this list of Pine's was the authorised Roll of the Grand Lodge of England, being issued under the authority of the Grand Master. Our first business was to compare it with the list extracted from the late Dr. Rawlinson's Masonic "Common-place Book," contributed by Bro. Hughan to the August number of the Voice of Masonry (Philadelphia, U.S.). The latter contained 116 Lodges, and these, except in some minor particulars, mostly descriptive, agree with the first 116 Lodges in Pine's list. Moreover, the differences are generally slight and easily reconcilable. Thus, No. 4, held at the Swan, Hampstead, is set down as constituted in 1721 in Rawlinson's list, the date in Pine's being 17th January 1722. But the difference is more apparent than real, as all Warrants for Lodges granted up to, say, March 1722, would be dated 1721. No. 12 has no date against it in Pine's list, while in Rawlinson's Bro. Hughan has inserted against it the year 1723. Other differences are probably to be accounted for by changes in the Lodge quarters. Such are No. 16, held at the "Goat, foot of the Haymarket," according to Rawlinson, according to Pine at the "Bedford Court Coffee House, Bedford Court, Covent Garden;" No. 55, at the "Red Lion, at Richmond" (Rawlinson), at "A Cup" (? The Rummer), "Henrietta Street, Covent Garden," (Pine); and No. 110, at the "Rummer and Mitre, on Labor-in-Vain Hill, in Old Fish Street," (Rawlinson), at the "Ship Coffee House, near the Hermitage Bridge," (Pine). It is noticeable, further, that while the last Lodge in Rawlinson's list is described as "a Master Mason's Lodge," held at the "Bear and Harrow, in the Butcher Row," but without date of constitution—though clearly belonging to the year 1733—the last Lodge in Pine's list, with constitution of that year, is No. 121, established "27 Dec. 1733," and held at "Solomon's Coffee House, Pimblico." Thus Pine's list to the end of 1733 is richer by five Lodges than Rawlinson's. In addition, are seven other Lodges, the date of constitution of the last being "Novem. ye 5th, 1734." We may remark, however, as to three of these seven, that No. 124, held at "Hamburg, in Lower Saxony," is set down, both by Thory in his Acta Latomorum, and Findel in his History of Freemasonry, as having been established in 1733; that No. 126, held at "Boston, in New England," was a Lodge warranted by Bro. Henry Price, Provincial Grand Master New England, in 1733, while No. 127, at "Valenciennes, in French Flanders," is said by Thory to have been constituted the same year. It may as well be mentioned here, that seven of the Lodges in Pine's list are located in foreign parts. They are the three at Hamburg, Boston, U.S., and Valenciennes, already mentioned, and in addition, No. 50, "St. Bernard Street, in Madrid," No. 51, at Gibraltar, No. 72, "East India Arms, Bengal, in the East Indies," and No. 90, "Au Louis d'Argent, Dans la Rue de Boucherie à Paris." The last of these is mentioned in Acta Latomorum, under this very No. 90, but as having received its constitution 7th May 1729, while in the list under notice the date is "3rd April 1732." Findel quotes the year as 1729, but adds, "the documents bearing the date of 1732 as that of" its "foundation." Findel appears to connect the Lodge No. 90 with the "Lodge d'Aumont," while Rebold, assigns 7th May 1729 as the date of the "Louis d'Argent" Lodge, and 29th November 1732 to the Lodge "d'Aumont."

The following is worth noting in connection with No. 11, both in this list and Rawlinson's, which Bro. Hughan considers is still in being as No. 18. In a footnote at pp. 160-161 of Oliver's edition of Preston's Illustrations of Masonry, it is stated as follows in respect of the old Lodge No. 3, one of the four old Lodges which met in February 1717, at the Apple Tree Tavern, Charles-street, Covent-garden, and constituted themselves a Grand Lodge pro tem:—"The old Lodge, No. 3, formerly held at the Apple Tree Tavern, in Charles-street, Covent-garden, has been dissolved some years. By the list of Lodges inserted in the 'Book of Constitutions,' printed in 1738, it appears that in February 1722-23, this Lodge was removed to the Queen's Head, in Knaves'-acre, on account of some differences among its members, and that the members who met there came under a new constitution; though, says the 'Book of Constitutions,' they wanted it not, and ranked as No. 10 in the list. Thus they inconsiderately renounced their former rank under an immemorial constitution." The description as to place and date in the quotation made agrees with the description in both Rawlinson's and Pine's lists—Bro. Hughan's "Queen Anne" being clearly one with "Queen's Head" in the former of them—the one point of discord being the number, which in Oliver's footnote is set down as No. 10, while in he lists it is No. 11. However, we are not disposed to attach any importance to this discrepancy; and thus, if Bro. Hughan's idea that the No. 11 of Pine is the present No. 18 on the roll of United Grand Lodge, it is clear the latter has the honour of representing the third of the four old "Time Immemorial" Lodges which met together in 1717, and constituted the first Grand Lodge of modern or Speculative Freemasonry. If the facts are as stated by Oliver, this old No. 3, in Rawlinson and Pine's lists, No. 11, and according to Hughan, No. 18 at this present time, voluntarily surrendered its ancient high position as a "Time Immemorial" Lodge, and started afresh under a new constitution when none was needed. But for this accident, it would have occupied the place on our Roll of the present No. 4, and three out of the four old Lodges would have been distinctly figured in the Grand Lodge Calendar of this date. At all events, assuming Oliver's statement to be correct, and likewise Hughan's surmise about No. 11 of 1734 being our present No. 18—and these lately discovered lists fortify, if they do not confirm, the former; it is a fact worthy of prominent record, that our present Lodges, No. 2, No. 4, and No. 18 are directly traceable to three (Nos. 1, 3, and 4) out of the four old Lodges existing in London in 1717, "under an immemorial constitution."

As to the Lodges now on the roll, which existed at the time when Pine's list was prepared, they are twenty-three in number. These and twenty-two Lodges in Pine's list with which, in Bro. Hughan's opinion, "as far as we can trace," all but one of the present correspond, are as follow. We have placed them in distinct columns, so that our readers may compare them the more easily; the Lodges in the two lists being comparable, each with each, in their respective orders of sequence. Thus, the first in Pine's List agrees with the first in Grand Lodge Calendar List, the second with the second, the third with the third, and so on to the end.

Of the above twenty-three Lodges now on the roll, sixteen are metropolitan and seven provincial. Of the latter, the Medina is not traceable, Bro. Hughan thinks, in Pine's list. The Bolton, Exeter, Bath, Bury, and Birmingham Lodges agree very fairly with the Lodges noted by Bro. Hughan, the points of difference, where such exist, being as follow:—The Bolton Lodge is dated 1731 in G.L. Calendar, and also in Hughan's list of Lodges at the Union, but in Pine's list the year is 1732. The Exeter Lodge is dated 1731 in G.L. Calendar, and in Hughan's list 1814; but the corresponding Lodge in Pine's and Rawlinson's lists occurs in the course of an array of 1732 Lodges. The Birmingham Lodge is not in Rawlinson's list, and has no date assigned it in Pine's, but it precedes the Lodge at Boston, New England, which, we have shown already, was opened on 30th July 1733, under authority of Lord Montague's deputation to Henry Price, bearing date 30th April of the same year. Thus we are justified in assuming that the present St. Paul's, Birmingham, is one and the same with the Lodge held at the Swan at Birmingham, and that its date of constitution was 1733, as stated in G.L. Calendar. The seventh provincial Lodge is the R. Kent Lodge of Antiquity, at Chatham. It will be seen that Bro. Hughan traces this to No. 13 in Pine's list, the sign of the house where it was held being described as "Coat of Arms," Motto "Che Sara Sara," and the locality "Covent-garden." In Rawlinson's list the same is described as having been held at the "Duke of Bedford Arms, Covent-garden," and as the motto of the Bedford family is "Che Sara Sara," these two descriptions agree substantially, but we should like to hear the grounds on which Bro. Hughan connects our present No. 20, held at Chatham, with the No. 13 of Pine and Rawlinson, held at a tavern in Covent-garden. The two localities are far removed from each other, and, therefore, the migration from the latter to the former is more noticeable than a mere change of quarters in the metropolis. There must be strong evidence to fix the connection between the two Lodges, and we shall esteem it a favour if Bro. Hughan will oblige us with the reasons for connecting them.

Of the sixteen London Lodges, we note that our present No. 6, Friendship, is traced to No. 4 at the Swan, Hampstead, dated 27th January 1722 in Pine's list, but 1721 in Rawlinson's list, as published in Voice of Masonry. In Bro. Platt's address, when the Lodge celebrated its hundredth anniversary in 1867, the Lodge is stated to have been constituted in 1721, and to have migrated from Holborn to the Thatched House Tavern, St. James's, in 1767, when it received the name of Friendship, at the Lodge meeting held 10th March of that year. Assuming Bro. Platt's statement and Bro. Hughan's surmise to be correct, the Lodge must have migrated from Hampstead to the city, and thence to St. James's. It should be possible to trace this migration by the aid of such lists—1723, 1725, 1736, 7 and 8, 1746, 1750 and following—as have been preserved. So again our Lodge, No. 26, constituted 1724, is held to correspond with Pine's No. 38, "A Head, &c., in Cheapside, Jan. 22, 1725." In Rawlinson's list, No. 38 it is held at "The Swan, Tottenham High Cross," and dated 1725. Here, again, is a migration from Tottenham to Cheapside, and thence by way of Doctors' Commons, where it was held in 1813, to Willis's Rooms, St. James's. But the most important instance of all is that of No. 128, held at the "Duke of Marlborough, Petticoate Lane, White Chapell," and constituted "Novem. ye 5th, 1734," which Bro. Hughan sets down as our present Strong Man, No. 45. We lay the chief stress on this, not because we love the "Strong Man" more, but because Bro. Hughan's supposition is at variance with a statement of Dr. Oliver's, in the well-known Revelations of a Square. At p. 44, Dr. Oliver says, in the body of his narrative, "The Strong Man Lodge," which owed its origin to Dr. Desaguliers, and was founded and so named by him in honour of the celebrated Thomas Topham, "was numbered 68 in the lists of 1738, 1764, and 1767, and was established, according to the former authorities, 2nd Feburary 1733, and by the latter, February 17th, 1734." A footnote to this statement reads thus:—

"It appears by the Records of Grand Lodge, that a warrant, bearing date the 2nd day of February 1734, was issued under the seal of Masonry, enabling certain Brethren therein named to open and hold a Lodge of Freemasons at the Ship Coffee House, Hermitage Bridge, London, to be called 'The Strong Man Lodge,' which was numbered 110; but by the general closing up of the list of Lodges in the year 1740, it became 98. By the closing up of the list of Lodges in the year 1756, it became No. 68. In the year 1770 the said Lodge became 57. By the closing up of the list of Lodges in the year 1781, it became No. 44; and by the same process in the year 1792 it became No. 41. In consequence of the union of the two Fraternities of Freemasons on the 27th December 1813, it became, and is now registered in the books of the United Grand Lodge, No. 61; and meets at the Swan Tavern, Mansel Street, Goodman's Fields, London."

We have italicised that portion of the above note, to which we would specially direct Bro. Hughan's attention. That statement agrees with the Lodge in Pine's list numbered "110," which was held at the "Ship Coffee House, Near the Hermitage Bridge," but the date of constitution is set down as "2 Feb. 1732-3." It also agrees in two particulars with Bro. Hughan's own list at the Union, in which the "Strong Man" is described as having being No. 41, "Moderns," in 1813, and No. 61 in 1814, after the union had taken place. The No. 110, in what we have described throughout as Rawlinson's list, is set down as having been held at "the Rummer and Mitre, on Labor-in-Vain Hill, in Old Fish Street," and the constitution is given, we believe, by Bro. Hughan himself, as "1733." The date of Pine's No. 128, is "Novem. ye 5th 1734," and, of course, if "1734," which is the date affixed to "Strong Man" in Grand Lodge Calendar, is really the date of constitution, it is manifest that no such Lodge could have figured in a 1733 list. Any how there are discrepancies enough in the various statements we have quoted to justify further inquiry. The only point of agreement between our present No. 45 and Pine's No. 128 is in the year of constitution. In all other respects it seems better to accord with the latter's No. 110.

It should be that, both in Pine's and Rawlinson's Lists, No. 79 is left vacant. This, however, according to Bro. Hughan, "in the Companion issued, in 1735, at Dublin, is ascribed to 'the Hoop in Wales-street' in Philadelphia," (without date) and comes after, not before, Lodges in England of 1731, the latter having thus to do with a still earlier copy of these Engraved Lists, not at present discovered, but which we do not despair yet of tracing.

In closing our remarks we venture to offer two suggestions. May there not be a connection between the present "Medina," No. 35, at Cowes, and Pine's No. 35, held at the "East India Arms, Gosport, Hampshire?" No date of constitution is affixed, though it figures both in Pine and Rawlinson among Lodges founded in 1724. The proximity of the two towns is our sole reason for suggesting the connection. Our other notion, which we also put forward suggestively, is, that the No. 25, both of Pine and Rawlinson, held at Greenwich, in Kent, and founded, according to the former, on Dec. 24, 1723—in the latter only the year 1723 has been added—may have something to do with the present "R. Kent Lodge of Antiquity," No. 20, at Chatham. True, the migration would have been almost as great from Greenwich to Chatham as from Covent Garden, but there are direct and perfectly natural associations between Greenwich with its Naval Hospital and lying between the two dockyards of Deptford and Woolwich, and Chatham, with its dockyard, &c. Moreover, the two towns are both in Kent, and the year of constitution the same for both Lodges. We are sensible of the slightness, we may even say the flimsiness, of the suggestion; yet there is no great violence in imagining the migration of a Kentish Lodge from one Kentish town to another, especially when their associations have always been as intimate as those existing between Greenwich and Chatham. However, Bro. Hughan has doubtless sufficient reasons for connecting Pine's No. 13 with the present No. 20, not the least momentous of them being doubtless the fact that the dissolution of Pine's Lodges, 2, 5, and 12, raised No. 13 to be No. 10, as the Kentish Lodge of Antiquity was at the time of the Union. No doubt, existing lists, which unfortunately are inaccessible at the moment of writing, have already settled the connection to Bro. Hughan's satisfaction.

PROVINCE OF WEST YORKSHIRE.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE OF A NEW HOSPITAL.

THE foundation stone of a new hospital was laid at Wakefield, on Saturday, 25th November 1876. The stone was laid by Colonel J. C. D. Charlesworth M.A. D.L. J.P., with full Masonic ceremonial. The rain fell in torrents most of the day, and marred what would otherwise have been an imposing spectacle.

The new hospital is intended to take the place of an hospital which has existed several years. The hospital was founded in 1854, by the late Mr. Thomas Clayton. He purchased the original buildings at his own cost; and soon afterwards in his honour the name was changed, the addition of Clayton Hospital being made to the title Wakefield General Dispensary. Since then several extensions have been made, not the least being the addition of a wing as a memorial to the late Prince Consort.

A procession was formed in front of the Corn Exchange, at two o'clock. The members of the various orders wore their full insignia. Before the start, a Freemasons' Lodge was formed at the Church Institution, at which the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master, Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., who, along with the provincial officers and many Masons from a distance, was present, and temporarily invested Colonel Charlesworth with the office of Deputy Provincial Grand Master, for the purpose of enabling him to lay the stone in accordance with the customs of the Craft. The procession, which was of great length, proceeded through a deep and continuous line of spectators, by way of Little Westgate, the Bull Ring, Wood-street, and Bond-street, to St. John's. Upon the site of the hospital stood a covered stand, commanding a full view of the stone, which formed a welcome shelter for the ladies who graced the ceremony. Upon arriving on the ground, Colonel Charlesworth, the Mayor, the member for the borough, Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., the committee of the Clayton Hospital, and the heads of other representative bodies took their stand upon a raised platform built round the stone. The Old Hundredth Psalm having been sung by the band, the Vicar of Wakefield (the Rev. Norman D. J. Straton) offered up prayer. At the close of the prayer, Mr. John Binks, the Secretary of the Clayton Hospital, stepped forward, and, on behalf of the committee and subscribers, presented a silver trowel to Mr. Charlesworth, accompanying the gift with a request that the recipient would duly lay the stone. The stone was then raised, and the secretary read aloud the contents of the bottle and the inscription contained on a brass plate, which were placed beneath it. The inscription set forth the fact that the stone was laid on the 25th of November 1876, by Colonel J. C. D. Charlesworth, Master of Arts, Cambridge, deputy-lieutenant for the West Riding, and justice of the peace for the West Riding. It also contained a list of the house and general committees, medical and other staffs. The Treasurer having deposited the phial in the receptacle, and the Secretary having placed the plate in position, cement was placed on the face of the lower stone, Colonel Charlesworth spread it with his trowel. The upper stone was lowered with three distinct stops. Mr. Charlesworth then proved the just position of the stone by the plumb line, level and square; and, on being satisfied of these particulars, he gave the stone three knocks with a mallet. The cornucopia containing the corn and the ewers with the wine and oil were then handed to him. As he strewed corn over the stone, he said, "I scatter corn upon this stone. May plenty be showered down upon this building;" as he poured wine over it, he said, "I pour wine upon this stone, as a symbol of cheerfulness and joy;" and as he poured oil, he said, "I pour oil upon this stone, the symbol of prosperity and happiness;" and each time he spoke a ringing cheer was sent up from the crowd. The Rev. J. S. Eastmead having offered up prayer, the architect presented the plans of the intended building to Colonel Charlesworth, who examined them, and pronounced them [illegible]od, and desired the architect to carry them out in the most ex[illegible]ditious manner. At the conclusion of the ceremony, Colonel Charlesworth delivered a short address.

After a pause, Mr. Charlesworth said Mr. Binks had just placed in his hands a letter which would be most gratifying to every one, and he called upon Mr. Binks to read it.

Mr. Binks then read the following letter:—

"Crofton Hall, Wakefield, Nov. 23, 1876.

To the Secretary of the Clayton Hospital.

My Dear Sir,—I beg you will convey to the committee of the Clayton Hospital my grateful thanks for their vote of condolence on the death of my father, Mr. Tew, of Crofton Hall, and you will accept personally my own acknowledgments for your sympathetic letter of the 13th instant.

As a proof of the interest my father always took as one of its vice-presidents in the institution, I am desired now by my co-executors under his will to forward you the accompanying extract from that document:—'To the Treasurer for the time being of the Clayton Hospital, Wakefield, the legacy of four thousand pounds, for which such Treasurer's receipt is to be a discharge.' Under other circumstances, as Deputy Provincial Grand Master of the Province of West Yorkshire, I should have had great pleasure in being present at the laying of the foundation stone of the new hospital and dispensary, but, at present, under the loss I have sustained by the death of my father, I am not taking part in any public ceremonial. Accept my best wishes for the prosperity and usefulness of your institution.

I remain, my Dear Sir, yours faithfully,

THOMAS WILL. TEW,
Executor under the will of the late Edwd. Tew.

John Binks, Esq., Clayton Hospital, Wakefield."

The announcement which the letter made was altogether unexpected, and when Mr. Binks had finished reading the letter, the assemblage gave vent to their feelings in several rounds of cheering.

After this, a luncheon took place at the Music Saloon. In the unavoidable absence of Colonel Charlesworth, the Mayor of Wakefield presided, and he was supported by about 300 of the principal inhabitants of the town, including Mr. T. K. Sanderson, M.P., and Mr. R. B. Mackie, who occupied the vice-chairs.

The usual loyal toasts were given from the chair, and were duly honoured.

The Rev. J. W. Chadwick, in proposing the toast of "The Masonic Body," remarked that if he were to believe all that he read about them in some of the public prints he should believe some very startling things—(laughter)—but when he looked upon the faces who were associated with them in that beneficent work, he confessed that he could not see any signs of "conspirators" or "assassins," and if they were dangerous members of society, he could wish society in general no worse luck (laughter, and hear, hear). On behalf of the committee, of which he was a member, he very sincerely thanked the gentlemen of the Masonic body for the prominent part they had taken in that day's proceedings.

This toast was acknowledged by Bro. Ibberson.

YORK LODGE OF MARK MASTER MASONS.

THE antiquity of the Honourable Degree of Mark Master is not to be questioned, and the wide-spreading interest which is shown in its practice amongst the leading Masonic circles proves the general recognition of its importance. Few Masons who have made a study of the Royal Art will deny that the Mark Degree has good claims to be regarded as an integral portion of Craft Masonry, and, although not recognised by the Grand Lodge of England as part of Blue Masonry, yet the notorious fact that all the leading brethren are in some shape members and patrons of the Degree conclusively shows the importance which they all attach to its teachings. In the northern counties the Mark Degree was practised in many places from time immemorial, and so the working has been preserved from decay through successive generations of brethren. In the year 1856 an unsuccessful effort was made to induce the Grand Lodge of England to recognise the Degree, and the consequence of its refusal was the formation of a Grand Mark Lodge, which was effected by the joint action of six of the Lodges working from time immemorial. To these, other Lodges gradually gave in their adhesion, and warrants were granted for the formation of new Lodges, until at the present time the Grand Roll numbers about two hundred. The York Mark Lodge from the first declined to recognise the authority of the Grand Mark Lodge, and, although from time to time negotiations were entered upon, it was not until a few months since that a settlement was arrived at, and the York Mark Lodge gave in its adhesion, on condition of its being placed in a position of honour at the head of the roll of Lodges. The occasion of the installation of the Worshipful Master for the coming year was deemed a fitting opportunity for the formal transfer of the allegiance of the Lodge, and a petition for a Warrant of Confirmation was therefore prepared and signed at a special meeting of the Brethren of the Lodge, the officers elected and named in the petition being Bros. Geo. Balmford P.M. 236 Worshipful Master, T. B. Whytehead Senior Warden, and the Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett Junior Warden. The prayer of the petitioners having been duly granted, Tuesday last was fixed as the day of the installation, of which the brethren were apprised by special summonses, and the Secretary of the Grand Mark Lodge, the R.W. Bro. Frederick Binckes, the Secretary of the Masonic Boys' School, very kindly agreed to come down and perform the ceremony of installation, and also to work the Lodge on the occasion. Bro. Binckes was accompanied by Bro. Roebuck, G.M.O. Accordingly, at two p.m. there was a muster of the brethren at the Masonic Hall, Duncombe-place, and the Lodge was duly opened, in ancient form, by Bro. F. Binckes, most of the officers of the past year filling their respective chairs. Three brethren, of whom notice had been given, were then balloted for, and, being in attendance, were advanced to the Honourable Degree of Mark Master Mason, after which the Worshipful Master Elect was duly installed. The Wardens Elect were then invested and placed in their chairs, and the W. Master made the following appointments:—Bros. M. Cooper M.O., T. W. Wilson S.O., Tessiman J.O., the Rev. W. Valentine Chaplain, J. Hollins, Registrar. Bro. Thomas Cooper P.M. was unanimously elected Treasurer; and Bro. J. Redfern was appointed Tyler. The Secretary read a letter from the Star in the East Mark Lodge, at Scarborough, congratulating the York brethren upon their Masonic spirit in giving in their adhesion to the Grand Lodge, and the Senior Warden moved the following resolution:—"That the Secretary be requested to return to the Star in the East Lodge the best thanks of the York Mark Lodge for its fraternal letter, and express the hope that the action of the York Mark Lodge consummated that day may tend to further extend and cement Mark Masonry in the province of North and East Yorkshire," which was carried unanimously. The Lodge was then duly closed, and the brethren repaired to the banqueting room, where a capital collation was served by Bro. Charles Abbott, who invariably caters with excellence. The W. Master presided, and was supported by the Grand Secretary and about twenty brethren and visitors. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly proposed and honoured, and in the course of the evening the Grand Secretary gave a most interesting disquisition on Mark Masonry, its origin, history, and present position. A most agreeable evening was spent, and there seemed to be a general opinion that the new epoch, upon which the Lodge had entered, was begun under the most auspicious circumstances. Amongst the brethren present during the course of the proceedings, in addition to those already mentioned, were:—Bros. R. W. Hollon P.M. 236, J. S. Cumberland, H. C. Camidge, Geo. Seller, T. J. Russell, Rev. H. V. Palmer, John Ward, W. H. Gainforth, G. Garbutt, T. S. Camidge; and amongst the visitors were Bros. P. H. Rowland, Langley Lodge, Cardiff; R. H. Peacock, Star in the East Lodge, Scarborough; Wm. Roebuck, G.M.O., &c.

THE DRAMA.

The Haymarket Theatre—The Virginian.

WHILE the attractive influence of Dan'l Druce continues unabated, the programme of the HAYMARKET THEATRE has been materially strengthened by the substitution of the well known farce of "The Rough Diamond" for "The Balance of Comfort," and by the addition of an entirely new comedietta, entitled "Birds in their Little Nests Agree," by Mr. C. Marsham Rae. "The Rough Diamond" serves to bring once more into the bills the veteran comedian Mr. Buckstone, the character of Cousin Joe being, as most of our readers will remember, one of that excellent actor's most delightful impersonations. The piece is generally well cast, but the part of Margery, originally played by Mrs. Fitzwilliam, has been, by some extraordinary freak of management, entrusted to Miss Annie Lafontaine, a lady whose most successful achievements have been in an entirely different line of business. Mr. Rae's comedietta is a charming little piece, abounding in humorous touches and pleasant sketches of character, and it is, moreover, acted throughout with a finished delicacy, briskness, and verve, which leave nothing to be desired. The story is of an elegant and fanciful character, and it would be an injustice to the author to tell it in any other than his own words. We advise those of our readers who can appreciate light comedy, and who can admire graceful and humorous acting, to see the piece and judge for themselves. The chief part is played by Miss Kathleen Irwin, whose refined and intelligent impersonation of the singing bird in the nest is simply delicious, whilst her singing, we beg pardon, chirruping, of "Tanta Cosa" is rewarded with an enthusiastic encore. Miss Maria Harris, as the Early Bird, is all fun, animation and vivacity, whilst Miss Ella Dietz, as the sentimental nightingale, looks like an exquisite Greek statue, endowed with life. The remaining characters are excellently played by Miss Fanny Wright, Mr. Weatherby, Mr. Kyrle and Mr. Gordon.

MISS EMILY MOTT'S EVENING CONCERT.

THIS young lady first came before the public a season or two ago, and has since exhibited aptitude sufficient to command the favours she then solicited. A large audience was attracted to St. James's Hall on Friday evening, the 24th ult., the occasion of Miss Mott's annual concert—and a highly interesting entertainment was provided, in which the efforts of the beneficiare were seconded by Madame Blanche Cole, Miss Agnes Larkcom, Mr. W. H. Cummings, Mr. W. T. Wrighton, Mr. Thurley Beale, Mr. Winn, and Miss Clinton Fynes. The band of the Grenadier Guards, under Mr. Dan Godfrey's conductorship, was also present. Miss Emily Mott was heard to advantage in Benedict's "By the sad sea waves," and Sullivan's "Let me dream again," two songs which she interpreted with true artistic feeling; and her efforts were successfully united with those of Madame Blanche Cole in Gambert's duet, "Cheerfulness." It is almost needless to add that Miss Mott received all possible encouragement from her auditors, and that her endeavours met with hearty and prolonged applause. Sir Julius Benedict and Mr. J. B. Zerbini presided at the pianoforte.

That very much of the disease existing around us might be easily prevented is indubitable. One frequent cause of illness is inattention to the state of the skin, and even people who should know better, will wash themselves, and, worse still, their children, with common soaps, strong in alkali, which clog the pores, prevent perspiration, and interfere with the secretive functions of the ducts. This dangerous folly is, of course, due to ignorance of the wonderful differences existing in the character of soaps. Yellow soap is most useful for domestic purposes, but should never be applied to the skin, while perhaps worse still are many of the common scented, or so-called toilet soaps. The special requirements for a first-rate soap for the skin are, that it should be a combination of the finest oils, with the smallest possible amount of alkali; that it should be thoroughly refined, to rid it of any possible impurities; that it should be free from artificial colouring; and that it should be hard, rather than soft, yielding a profuse lather. It is difficult for the public to recognise such a soap without a trial, but among those deserving this character, mention may be made of Pearce's Transparent Soap, which has stood the test of almost a century's trial, has gained prize medals at every international exhibition, is patronised by the Prince and Princess of Wales, and is recommended in the most eulogistic terms by the most eminent authorities on diseases of the skin.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Bungfshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Felixstowe Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Queen reached Windsor Castle, on her return from Scotland, early on Friday morning. On Tuesday, Her Majesty held a Council, at which were present the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, the Marquis of Hertford, the Earl of Derby, and the Right Hon. R. A. Cross. Lord Blackburn and other judges were duly sworn as members of the Privy Council. After the Council, Justices Manisty and Lopes, and Baron Hawkins were severally introduced by the Lord Chamberlain, and received the honour of Knighthood.

The Prince and Princess of Wales are at Sandringham, where they are receiving a succession of guests, among whom must be mentioned the Duke of Cambridge and Prince and Princess Christian and suite. Shooting has latterly been the order of the day, but yesterday, being the anniversay of the Princess's birthday, was devoted to the festivities usual on so auspicious an occasion. On Sunday, the Duchess of Edinburgh was safely delivered of a daughter, at the San Antonio Palace, Malta. H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh and the Governor of Malta, as representing the Home Secretary, were present. According to bulletins received, the Duchess and infant were going on favourably. A Royal salute was fired in St. James's Park on Monday, in honour of the event, a number of people being present, in spite of the heavy rain that was falling.

The Court Martial held this week, on board the flag ship at Devonport, under the presidency of Rear-Admiral Willes, for for purpose of trying Captain Pollard, H.M.S. Tenedos, has brought its sittings to a close. It will be remembered that, some months since, the Tenedos escaped a very grave peril, off the coast of South America, only by the promptness and presence of mind of Lieutenant Graham. Captain Pollard was accordingly court-martialled on two charges, one of having, by his negligence, brought the ship into this danger, the other of having misrepresented certain circumstances in his official report to Admiral Symonds. After charge and defence, the court delivered judgment, finding Captain Pollard guilty of the first, but not of the second charge. Captain Pollard was accordingly sentenced to be dismissed his ship.

Death has been very busy of late among notabilities. Last week we recorded the death of General Bell. Since then the Duke of Saldanha, the Portuguese Ambassador at the Court of St. James's, has died. His body lay in state for some days, and will be conveyed to his native country, on board a Portuguese frigate especially despatched for this purpose. We have likewise to note the death, at Brighton, on Saturday last, of the Right Hon.

James Whiteside, Lord Chief Justice of Ireland. The late Chief Justice was born in County Wicklow, in 1806, and, therefore, had nearly, if not quite, completed the allotted three score years and ten. He was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and took legal honours at the University of London. He was called to the Irish bar in 1830, became a Q.C. and a bencher of the King's Inn in 1853. He was Solicitor-General for Ireland in 1852, and Attorney-General 1858-9. He sat in Parliament, as member for Inniskillen, from 1851 to 1859, and thence till 1866 as M.P. for Dublin University. In the latter year, he was appointed to the Lord Chief Justiceship. The late judge will be remembered chiefly for his brilliant defence of the late Daniel O'Connell in 1843, and of Smith O'Brien and his fellow conspirators in 1848, as well as for his successful advocacy in the well-known case of Theresa Longworth, when seeking to establish the validity of her marriage with Major Yelverton. Lord Chief Justice Whiteside was also a man of considerable literary eminence, the best known among his published works being "Ancient Rome," "Italy in the Nineteenth Century," and "Life and Death of the Irish Parliament."

Captain Nares and the officers of the Arctic Expedition, together with Captain Young of the Pandora, were entertained, on Saturday last, at a banquet by the Naval Club. In returning thanks for the toast of the evening, Captain Nares said that though the main object of the expedition had not been achieved, much good had resulted from its labours. He considered there was plenty of Arctic work yet to be done, that a new basis had been formed from which further strides might be made, provided they were made carefully. Thursday had originally been fixed for the presentation of Captain Nares to the Queen, but on hearing the banquet to be given by the Mayor and Corporation of Portsmouth to the gallant captain and his officers was fixed for the same day, her Majesty graciously allowed the presentation to be made yesterday. The Wanderers' Club, Pall-mall, have conferred permanent honorary membership on Captains Nares and Markham, in recognition of their Arctic services. On Tuesday next the principal officers of the expedition will be entertained at a banquet by the United Service Club.

The appointment of Sir Bartle Frere, G.C.S.I., G.C.B., who, it will be remembered, accompanied H.R.H. the Prince of Wales on his visit to India, to be Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, in succession to Sir Henry Bartley, G.C.M.G., whose period of service expires this month, has been graciously approved by her Majesty. It is believed that Sir Bartle Frere will take up his Governorship about the end of February.

The new Lord Mayor, Sir Thomas White, has not been long in office ere his friends and neighbours in the county of Essex have done him the honour to present him with a very elegant silver-gilt dessert service, as a token of their respect and esteem. The presentation was made at a banquet held on Tuesday evening, at the King's Arms, Chigwell, near which place Sir Thomas White resides, the chair being occupied by Lieut. General Markwood, who was supported by a large and influential gathering of the friends and admirers of his lordship. The toast of the evening was received with immense applause, and Sir Thomas very feelingly acknowledged the honour done him.

A recent issue of the Hebrew Leader contains the following statistics of Freemasonry in Texas; number of affiliated Masons, 18,206; number initiated during the past year, 1013; number affiliated, 1,117; dismissions (? dimissions), 1,555; expulsions, 45; suspensions, 451; re-instatements, 215; deaths, 273; charity fund, 1,737 dollars; dues, 11,461 dollars; lecture fund, 4,448 dollars. Amount contributed to the coast sufferers by September cyclone, 1,840 dollars—which was distributed among the members of the Indianola Lodge, No. 84, and Sampson Lodge, No. 231. We further learn that the Grand Lodge of Indian Territory includes six Lodges and one hundred and thirty-one brethren.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Inflammations controlled.—All persons should be forewarned by the present sudden atmospheric changes, that their maintenance of health depends upon rectifying disorder in, and expelling impurities from the system without unnecessary delay. Cases of internal inflammation in the throat, lungs, liver and bowels, are perpetually happening during the winter, and loudly call for a certain curative, such as Holloway's Pills; they supersede blood-letting, mercury, antimony, and similarly dangerous treatment. No invalid will be at a loss to treat his complaint on the surest and safest principles, who carefully reads through the printed directions folded round every box of these Pills. No danger can result from using this medicine, which may be accounted "The Antidote for Inflammation."

L. DERMOTT for EDWD. BUTLER, S.G.W. — L. DERMOTT for HEN. ALLEN, J.G.W.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

We, the Grand Lodge of the most Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons (according to the old Constitutions granted by His Royal Highness Prince Edwin, at York, Anno Domini Nine Hundred Twenty and Six) in ample form assembled, viz., The Right Worshipful and Honourable Thomas Mathew, of Thomas Town, in the kingdom of Ireland, Esquire, now residing in that part of Great Britain called England, and for his great skill in Masonry, Grand Master of Masons, The Worshipful William Dickey, D.G.M., The Worshipful and Hon. Edwd. Butler, Esq., S.G.W., and the Worshipful Henry Allen, Esq., J.G.W. (with the approbation and consent of the Warranted Lodges held within the cities and suburbs of London and Westminster), do hereby authorize and empower our Trusty and Well-beloved Brethren, viz., Mr. Jeremiah Elliott, one of our Master Masons, Richard Boardman his Senior Warden, and James Macdonald his Junior Warden, to form and hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons aforesaid, at the sign of the Sun and Sexton, in the Town of Whitehaven, and County of Cumberland, on the first Monday in each Calendar Month, and on all seasonable times and lawful occasions, and in the said Lodge (when duly congregated) to admit and make Free Masons, according to the most ancient and honourable custom of the Royal Craft in all ages and nations throughout the known world. And we do hereby farther authorize and empower our said Trusty and well-beloved Brethren, viz., Jeremiah Elliott, Richard Boardman, and James Macdonald, with the consent of the Members of their Lodge, to nominate, chuse, and install their Successors, to whom they shall deliver this Warrant and invest them with their power and dignity as Freemasons, &c., &c., such successors shall in like manner nominate, chuse, and install their successors, &c., &c., such installation to be upon (or near) every St. John's Day during the continuance of the Lodge for ever, Providing the above named Brethren, and all their successors, always pay due respect to the Right Worshipfull Grand Lodge, otherwise this Warrant to be of no Force nor Virtue.

Given under our Hands and the Seal of our Grand Lodge, in London, this Eighteenth day of May, in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Sixty-eight, and in the Year of Masonry Five Thousand Seven Hundred and Sixty-eight.

LAU. DERMOTT, Grand Secretary.

DE GREY OF RIPON, H. — T. H. HALL, J.

In the name of the Grand Architect of the Universe.

(Emblem.)

To all the Enlightened Our Brethren of the several degrees of the Royal Craft; but more especially those Citizens of the World and Servants of the Omnipotent, who have been, or hereafter may be, honoured by Exaltation to our Sublime Degree—Health, Peace, Good Will.

Be it Known, that our Excellent Companions, Thomas Routledge, Z., Joseph Fletcher H., Henry Spencer J., James Dees, John Davis, William Benn Gibson, Christopher Hodgkin, James Slade, and Isaac Anderson, having made known to Our Supreme Grand Chapter their desire of holding a Chapter of Our Order, for the cultivation of this (Emblem.) Grand and Universal Science, in hopes thereby the more to extend their aid to, and promote the happiness of, all our Brethren, and link mankind together by indissoluble bonds of Friendship, Peace, and Harmony. And that Our Grand Chapter, having taken their Petition into consideration, and finding it concordant with Our Grand System of Universal Benevolence, We do hereby, with the consent of our said Grand Chapter, grant unto the said Companions this our Charter of Constitution, to be held with and attached to the Warrant of the Lodge, No. 138, called Sun, Square and Compasses, with full power for them, their Companions and Successors, to open and hold a Chapter of our Order, at the Masonic Hall, Whitehaven, on the Second Friday of every month, or at such other place and at such time as Our said Companions and their Successors shall, with the consent of Us and Our Successors, Grand Officers for the time being, think meet. The first Chapter to be opened on the day of now was given, and the company separated. Visitors—Comp. J. E. Walford P.Z. 145, A. Clifford-Eskell P.Z., late 188, Van Stavern late 188.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, 193.—Just upon sixty brethren assembled at the usual meeting on Wednesday, the 29th inst., at Mason's Hall Tavern, Mason's Avenue, Basinghall Street, E.C., undoubtedly attracted by the announcement, at the previous meeting, that an address would be delivered on a Masonic Historical subject. Bro. Rudderforth presided. Bro. Tollis was S.W., F. Croaker J.W., J. K. Pitt Secretary, John Constable P.M. Treasurer, M. D. Loewenstark S.D., Fenner J.D., I. P. Cohen I.G., Christopher Tyler. Past Masters E. Gottheil preceptor, S. Moss, T. J. Barnes, &c. The Lodge having been opened and the minutes confirmed, the third ceremony was rehearsed, Bro. Biddle acting as candidate. After resuming the Lodge, it was called off, when the W.M., after a few preliminary remarks, introduced Bro. G. B. Abbott, who commenced his address by stating that he had no intention on that occasion to submit a theory of his own, it would be sufficient for the present purpose to divide the history of the Craft into three parts, namely, the mythical, operative and speculative. He would not touch upon the mythical portion, as it might perhaps prove too abstruse a subject to some who may not have time or opportunity to study a question of this kind. He would commence his observations from the time when non Masons were admitted members of Operative Lodges, which was about the year 1634. Having glanced at the state of the Craft down to the reign of Queen Anne, and the death without issue of that monarch in 1714, the lecturer referred to the Hanoverian succession, and the civil commotions in 1716, during which time the Craft was almost in abeyance. About that period, however, a few zealous Masons made an effort to resuscitate it. There were but four Lodges who participated in that work. One held at the "Goose and Gridiron," St. Paul's Churchyard; one at the "Crown," in Parker's Lane; one at the "Apple Tree," in Charles Street, Covent Garden; and one at the "Rummer and Grapes Tavern," in Chancel Row. In the year 1717 the Brethren assembled at the "Goose and Gridiron," the oldest Master Mason (being a Master of a Lodge) being in the chair. He proposed a list of proper candidates, when, by a show of hands, Mr. Anthony Sayer was elected Grand Master; to him succeeded George Payne, Esq. in 1718, in 1719 Dr. Desaguliers was the chief, after which Bro. Payne was again elected, in 1720. In 1721 the Duke of Montague was elected Grand Master, and he was the first nobleman who occupied that position. The lecturer enlarged upon each of these periods, and concluded a highly instructive discourse amidst the plaudits of a very appreciative audience. Bro. S. Moss P.M. 185, in proposing a vote of thanks, adverted to the method adopted by Bro. Abbott in the preparation of his paper, in which every point is made sufficiently clear, so as to be perfectly comprehensible even by the necessarily ignorant entered apprentice. Reference had been made to the past. Living in the present, it would be well to prepare for the future, by cogitating upon the various reflections which must have suggested themselves in the course of the lecture. He trusted that at no distant time Bro. Abbott would again favour the Lodge, and that he might continue the history down to the present time. Bro. Gottheil seconded the motion, and suggested that, in addition to the vote of thanks, Honorary Membership should be conferred upon Bro. Abbott. It was the highest honour a Lodge of Instruction had in its gift, and there were few worthier recipients than Bro. Abbott. The vote being carried with acclamation, the lecturer expressed his sincere thanks, and thought that his humble services had been greatly overrated, he valued very much indeed being made honorary member, and felt gratified at the appreciation of the brethren. Bro. T. J. Barnes P.M. begged to be permitted to add his testimony to the pleasure he had received listening to the lecturer. As Bro. Moss observed, it was lucid, and capable of being understood by the humblest intellect. Bro. Abbott instead of (as many might have done) showing his learning, by adopting a tone above ordinary comprehension, had spoken simply, up to the level of the average understanding, and thereby succeeded in instructing the higher as well as the humbler capacity. At the request of the Brethren, Bro. Abbott promised, before long, to resume the lecture. Due notice thereof will be given in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. The following were admitted members, Bros. S. Cohen, B. Summers and Henry Davies, all of 1017, T. K. Abell jun. 1599, S. C. Hewlett 141, W. W. Snelling 180. Bro. Tollis will occupy the chair on next Wednesday.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its usual weely meeting on Saturday, the 25th of November, at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington. Present—Bros. Powell W.M., Rowley S.W., Cohen J.W., Bidwell S.D., Read J.D., Barlow I.G., Past Masters Bros. J. Constable and Moss. Visitor—Bros. Barlow; and over thirty members. The Lodge was opened in the usual manner, the minutes of previous meeting confirmed. The ceremony of initiation rehearsed, Bro. Fox candidate. Also the ceremony of passing, Bro. Groner candidate. The first and second sections of the first lecture were worked by Bros. J. Constable and Moss. Bros. A. Westerby 185, Goodwin 186, Fenner 1227, and J. Westerby 1613, were elected members.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The regular weekly convocation was held on Tuesday last, at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, E.C. After the usual preliminaries had been gone through, the M.E.Z., Comp. Constable, rehearsed the ceremony of exaltation, assisted by Comps. G. Newman H., W. E. Gompertz J., Edward S. Norris Assistant Scribe E., Peter Wagner N., J. W. Berrie P.S., Comp. J. B. Lemaitre, one of the founders of the Chapter, acting as candidate. Comp. Dudley Rolf, of Prudent Chapter, No. 12, was elected a joining member. The election of the officers for the ensuing fortnight resulted as follows:—Comps. G. Newman M.E.Z., J. Constable H., W. E. Gompertz J., J. B. Lemaitre Scribe N., J. W. Berrie P.S. It was incidentally mentioned that the officers elect would be pleased to vacate their position in favour of any Companion who might be desirous of perfecting himself in either of the offices. The Chapter will resume business on Tuesday next, at 6.30 p.m. There were also present Comps. R. W. Goddard, J. B. Poore, and A. G. Medwin.

Harmony Lodge, No. 309.—There was a large muster of members of the Craft at the Red Lion Hotel, Fareham, on Tuesday, 21st inst., to witness the initiation of Col. Sir Frederick W. Fitz Wygram, Bart., of Leigh Park. The ceremony was ably performed by Bro. H. Ford P.M. 309, P.P.G.S.W., and the concluding charge was impressively delivered by Bro. J. Wale W.M. The musical portion of the ceremony was most effective, the following brethren assisting:—First Tenors, Bros. Pillow P.G.O., and Winterbottom; second ditto, Bros. F. Feltham and Stapleford; Basses, Bros. Sperring and W. L. Smith. Bro. R. Osborne P.P.G.O., who bestowed great attention to the musical department, presided at the harmonium, a fine instrument, of great power and rich tone, supplied by Bro. H. Gilbert, of Fareham. After the Lodge had been closed, upwards of sixty brethren partook of dinner, Bro. Whale the W.M. presiding, and Bro. E. Downing S.W. filling the vice-chair. In the course of the evening the health of the newly initiated brother was proposed by brother H. Ford, and replied to in fitting terms by Bro. Sir F. Fitz Wygram, whose remarks indicated an appreciation of some of the leading characteristics of the ancient Craft.

Lodge Caledonian (Edinburgh), No. 392.—The annual general meeting of this Lodge was held on Saturday, the 25th of November, in Freemason's Hall, 98 George-street, when a very large attendance of the brethren were present. Bro. A. D. Cairns R.W.M. presided, and was assisted by Bros. Swanson P.M., Geddes Calder S.W., Rev. A. Stuart Irwin Chaplain, and others of the office-bearers. The Lodge having been duly opened, Bro. Cairns, in a few choice and eulogistic remarks, moved that Bro. Robert Bryce be elected as R.W. Master for the ensuing year, and this having been seconded by P.M. Swanson, was unanimously and enthusiastically agreed to. Bro. Bryce briefly thanked the brethren for the distinguished honour proposed to be conferred upon him, and thereafter the meeting proceeded to the nomination of the remaining offices, which were filled as follow:—Bros. Geddes Calder S.W., William Archibald J.W., Robert Lumsden Secretary, Rev. A. Stuart Irwin Chaplain, J. Macpherson S.D., R. Steele J.D., John Gray G. Steward, Burnet Reid I.G., David Young Tyler, each of whom expressed their acceptance of office. The offices of Depute Master and Substitute Master being in the appointment of the R.W. Master, when installed into the chair, were left open till St. John's Day, 27th December; but we understand that it is the intention of Bro. Bryce, the R.W.M. elect, to appoint two very well known and old members to these offices.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 30th of November, at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. Bros. T. Cull W.M., E. Farwig S.W., G. Davis J.W., A. C. Barrell Treasurer, F. J. Wray S.D., A. C. Woods J.D., F. J. Taylor I.G., J. Mander Preceptor; also Bros. Wilkinson, Dickinson, Burgess, Smith, Elborn, Hirst, Pike, Collett, E. Dutton, E. A. Dutton, Baxter, Blundell, Belfrage, Swallow, Docker, Bentley, Reibold, Rose, Hammond, Neighbour, J. H. Watts, Harrison, Stewart, Filby, Doherty, Day, Willis, Martin, Collens, &c. Business—Lodge opened, and minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Lodge opened in 2nd and 3rd degrees, and resumed to the 1st, when the fifteen sections were worked. 1st Lecture: Bros. E. A. Dutton, F. J. Wray, B. H. Swallow, G. Davis, D. M. Belfrage, J. Bentley, E. Farwig. 2nd Lecture: Bros. Harrison, J. H. Watts, C. A. Woods A. Stewart, A. Boehr. 3rd Lecture: Bros. F. J. Taylor, W. Neighbour, W. J. Collens. Lodge resumed, and Bros. Burgess, Doherty, Smith, Dickinson, Pike, Collett, and Hirst were unanimously elected members. Proposed by Bro. Mander Preceptor, seconded by Bro. Barrell Treasurer, and carried unanimously, that a vote of thanks be recorded to the W.M., and that he be elected an honorary member. Bro. Cull having responded, votes of thanks were accorded to the fifteen brethren who had assisted in the working, for which Bro. Davis J.W. returned thanks. The Lodge was then closed in due form, and adjourned to Thursday, 7th December.

Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780.—This Lodge held an emergencey meeting on Saturday, the 25th November, at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew Bridge. Present—Bros. J. Chambers Roe W.M., W. Gardiner I.M.P. as S.W., Walter Goss J.W., Wm. Hilton P.M. Secretary, A. J. Burr S.D. 1612 as S.D., Wm. Gomm J.D., Wm. Savage D.C., James Squires as Steward, Jos. Dorey I.G., Harrison Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. Wm. Gardiner I.P.M., Thos. Brown, Wm. Hilton, A. Beasley and Littlewood. Visitors—Bros. H. E. Stidolph P.P.G.O. Essex, A. J. Burr S.D. 1612, H. Besley 176, V. J. B. Bennett, 733 and T. A. Woodbridge 1194. Business—The Lodge was opened at 2.30, Bros. Barnes, Morris and Franckel were examined as to their proficiency, and the replies being satisfactory, the W.M. ably worked the ceremony of the third degree in their behalf. Bro. Milross having shown his proficiency as an E. A., was passed to the second degree. The ballot was taken for Messrs. F. H. White, J. E. Carter, John H. Jarvis and H. D. Thompson, and proving unanimous, they were admitted to the mysteries and privileges of the Order, the W.M. performing the three ceremonies in a most able manner. The Secretary here stated that, since the last meeting, he regretted to have to announce the death of a very old and valued P.M. of the Lodge, that of our brother Samuel May, who, Masonically speaking, was a host in himself, and who was known throughout the Craft as a most energetic Mason. The W.M. then proposed, and Bro. Littlewood P.M. seconded, that a letter of condolence be written to the widow, to express the sympathy of the Lodge with her in her bereavement—

this was unanimously carried. The Lodge was then closed, and after a brief adjournment the brethren sat down to a most excellent banquet, provided by the host, Bro. Stanbury. After the cloth had been removed, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. In reply to that of his health, the W.M. stated that he was proud to see such an assembly of brethren (thirty-six in number) at a Lodge of Emergency, it showed the healthy state of the Lodge, and as he believed there were six or seven gentlemen anxious to join, it would be necessary to call another "Emergency." The toast of the Initiates was then given, and responded to. The Visitors' toast was replied to by Bros. Beasley, Stidolph, Bennett, Woodbridge and Burr, the latter saying that he was pleased to have had the opportunity of assisting in the working of the Lodge in the unavoidable absence of the S.D. The W.M. then gave the toast of the P.M.'s, which was duly responded to. Bro. Hilton P.M. replied to the toast of Secretary and Treasurer. The toast of the Officers was replied to by Bros. Goss J.W. and Gomm J.D. The W.M. then proposed the health of the lay members of the Lodge, and said that although the toast was not usually given, he could not let the opportunity pass without thanking some of the lay brethren for the great assistance they had rendered; with this toast he would couple the names of Bros. Squires, Dyer and Atlee. These brethren having replied, the W.M. said he had yet one more toast to propose, which was that of our worthy host, Bro. Stanbury. He said that Bro. Stanbury, on this occasion, had evidently tried to out-Stanbury Stanbury. He had said that there were now three Lodges and one Chapter meeting at the Star and Garter, that if he could get two more Lodges to meet there, he would build a Masonic Hall; this announcement was received with cheers. Bro. Stanbury, in reply, said, that he would at all times endeavour to make the brethren comfortable, by providing such banquets as should be second to none. With regard to what had fallen from the lips of the W.M., respecting the Masonic Hall, all he wanted was the support of the Craft to enable him to defray the outlay, he would then find accommodation worthy of this ancient and honourable institution. Some excellent singing, by Bros. Beasley, Stidolph, Goss, Squires, White and others, helped to enliven the evening. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. We must congratulate the W.M. on his excellent working, and on the honour which he holds in presiding over such a large and influential Lodge. We are pleased also to add our tribute to the worth of Bro. Stanbury as a caterer. We trust he will see his way clear to undertake the task of building a hall for Masonic purposes, and that his enterprise will meet the success it deserves.

Carnavon Lodge of Instruction, No. 804, Havant.—For the benefit of the members of this and the neighbouring Lodges, we are pleased to announce that a Lodge of Instruction has been formed, under the banner of the Carnarvon Lodge, Bro. J. N. Hillman P.M. 804, P.P.G. St. B. Hants and I.W. being the Preceptor; the first meeting was held on Wednesday evening, 22nd ultimo, when the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, and the first section worked; the second meeting was held on Wednesday the 13th inst., at 7.30 p.m., when the ceremony of passing was rehearsed. The subscription has been fixed at three shillings per annum, and this will be an inducement for brethren in the district to join. Bro. Thomas Francis, P.M. 804, of Emsworth, is the Secretary, and he will be pleased to receive the names of brethren desirous of becoming members.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting of the above Lodge took place at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 28th November 1876. Bros. Weige W.M., Dr. Defriez S.W., Perrin J.W., Hewlett S.D., Saunders J.D., Dallas I.G., Worsley Secretary, and P.M. Wallington Preceptor; also Bros. Smith, Lovelock, Gompertz, Cambridge, Barker, Batchelor, Digman, and W. W. Morgan. The Lodge was opened in due form. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The Lodge was then opened in the three degrees, and resumed to the 2nd, when Bro. Wallington worked the Installation Ceremony, to the delight of all present. The Lodge was resumed to the 1st degree. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Cambridge acting as candidate; Bro. Hewlett worked the 3rd and 4th sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Digman, of Lodge 1524, was unanimously elected a member. Bros. Perrin, Cambridge and Smith were elected auditors; to give in their report on Tuesday evening next. Bro. Dr. Defriez S.W. 45 and S.D. 1278 was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge closed in perfect harmony.——A noteworthy fact in connection with this Lodge of Instruction may be mentioned. At the last half dozen meetings there have been several brethren present before the time fixed for the commencement of the proceedings, their object being to obtain the post of any officer who might be absent. As a consequence the work of the evening invariably begins at 7.30.

Finsbury Lodge, No. 861.—This Lodge held its November meeting on Friday, the 24th ult., at the Rosemary Branch Tavern, Shepperton-road, Islington. Present—Bros. Elias Legg W.M., W. Groome S.W., Thomas E. Purday P.M. and Sec., G. Leach P.M. and Treas., Tolmie S.D., F. Hill J.D., W. Mackey P.M. and D.C., W. Stokes P.M. Steward, Preston I.G., Speight Tyler. Past Masters Bros. Nichols, R. Leach, and about 30 other brethren. Visitors—Bros. E. Parker P.M. 619, W. Harman 101, Bell 177, G. Jaquin P.M. 382, J. W. Harper 200, Baldwin 1005, and J. W. Barlen 1027 China. After the preliminaries, the W.M. raised Bro. Howe, passed Bros. Parkes, Honey, Hallows and Scharff, and initiated Mr. William Johnson. Bro. G. Leach P.M. and Treas., one of the founders of the Lodge, presented Bro. Thos. E. Purdy P.M. and Sec., with a very handsome gold watch, for the admirable manner in which he had discharged the duties of Secretary for the past ten years. The gift was duly acknowledged by the receiver. After closing, the brethren retired for refreshment, and spent a very enjoyable evening.

Whittington Chapter, No. 862.—The installation meeting of this Chapter was held on Friday, 24th November, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, Comp. W. H. Stephens P.Z. and H., in the absence of the M.E.Z. presided. Comps. W. J. Hargrave Jones, H. M. Levy P.Z. 188 as H., T. Kingston J., Jas. Weaver P.Z. S.E., Grist, Woodward, Glaskin, Parkhouse, Murlis, Norman, Moore, Macdonald, Cuff, &c. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes of the former convocation were read and confirmed. Comp. C. Walker No. 975, W.M. 862, was elected a joining member. Comp. W. H. Stephens P.Z. and H. was then inducted into the chair, and Comp. T. Kingston was installed H., by Comp. Jas. Weaver P.Z., in his usual impressive manner. The following were appointed officers:—Comps. J. Weaver P.Z., S. E. Moore S.N., Murlis P.S., J. High 1st Assist., Norman 2nd Assist., and Gilbert Janitor. The M.E.Z. then took a ballot for the admission of Bro. S. B. Wilmot No. 874, which being in his favour, he was duly exalted into Royal Arch Masonry, all the officers performing their duties creditably. The result of the report of the audit meeting was satisfactory. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions partook of an excellent banquet, which was superintended by Comp. Smith. The M.E.Z. then gave the usual loyal and R.A. toasts. The M.E.Z., in proposing the health of the I.P.Z., Comp. W. J. H. Jones, alluded to the respect he is held in, and, in the name of the Chapter, presented him with a very elegant solid gold jewel, set with diamonds and precious stones. This presentation having been duly responded to, Comp. Murlis returned thanks for the officers, and, after the Janitor's toast, the Companions separated.

Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017.—A meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 22nd instant, at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street. Bro. J. Blum occupied the chair. Present—Bros. V. Myers S.W., Gulliford J.W., L. Jacobs Treasurer, E. P. Albert P.M. Grand Pursuivant Sec., A. Eskell as S.D., Levy as I.G. P.M.'s Bros. J. Lazarus, De Solla, Pollitzer, Grunbaum, and Loewenstark. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Mr. S. Cohen was initiated. Bro. B. M. Simmons was passed, and Bro. Davis was raised. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. Victor Myers S.W. was chosen. Bro. L. Jacobs was re-elected Treas., and Bro. Smith Tyler. There being no other business, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren separated.

Emulation Lodge, No. 1163, Birmingham.—The regular Lodge meeting of the above was held on the 23rd instant, at the Masonic Hall, New-street, Birmingham. Present—Bros. T. E. Shaw W.M., P. Howse S.W., J. H. Howells J.W., M. Silverston S.D., S. Toy J.D., B. C. Richardson Sec., A. B. Archers I.G., J. Myers I.P.M., J. M. Parsell P.P.G.S.W. Warwickshire, S. Wood P.P.G.J.D., J. Beresford P.P.G.S.B., and W. Balls P.M. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. The Lodge was advanced to the third degree. The W.M., in the name of the Lodge, presented Bro. Joseph Myers I.P.M. with a handsome massive gold P.M.'s jewel, beautifully enamelled, bearing a suitable inscription. The W.M., in making the presentation, said he felt great pleasure in doing so, as a slight recognition of the zeal and ability displayed by Bro. Myers as W.M., and also as a token of the fraternal esteem and regard entertained for him by the brethren. Bro. Myers, in the course of his remarks, said, it was a great pleasure to attain the proud distinction of being a P.M. of the Lodge, after having filled every office. He cordially and heartily thanked them for the valuable gift, so indicative of the good will of the brethren. The artistic enamelling was the work of Bro. Shaw P.M., and a handsome velvet case was presented by Bro. Ball P.M. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of an excellent banquet. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. Bros. S. M. Harris 406 and E. J. Samuels 188 were present as visitors.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—This Lodge held its meeting on the 24th November, at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, at eight o'clock. Present—Bros. A. W. Fenner W.M., Lane S.W., Pearcy J.W., Townsend, R. Bolton S.D. Secretary, Townsend J.D. Lodge opened in due form. Minutes were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was ably performed by the W.M., Bro. Bolton being candidate. The first and second sections of the lecture were worked by the W.M., assisted by the brethren. Bro. Lane was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week. The following brethren were then elected auditors—the W.M., Bros. Lane and Pearcy, together with the Treasurer and Secretary, after which Lodge was closed in due form, and the meeting adjourned.

City Lodge of Instruction, No. 1426.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 30th of November, at 111 Cheapside. Present—Bros. Payne W.M., Wale S.W., Pitt J.W., Spiegel Secretary pro tem, Colmer Treasurer, Goodman S.D., Brown J.D., Wyler I.G., Past Masters Bros. Poore Preceptor, James Stevens V.P. P.M., W. Parker; Bros. Taylor, Walmsley, Freeman, William Job, of the Corinthian Lodge, No. 1382. This being the fifth Thursday of the month, and, according to the Bye Laws, the 15 Sections should be worked, and although no preparation had been made the brethren present were all willing to assist, so far as their knowledge of the sections would allow, Bro. Goodman worked the 1st 2nd and 3rd, Bro. Stevens the 4th and 5th, and Bro. Poore the 6th and 7th sections. Bro. William Job, of Corinthian Lodge, was elected a member of this Lodge of Instruction. The Lodge was then closed.

Ivy Lodge, No. 1441.—The regular meeting was held on the 28th instant, at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell. Present—Bros. F. F. Cantle W.M., C. Pouppard P.M. S.W., Cornelissen J.W., C. S. Jolly P.M. Sec., G. Muttock P.M. Treas., W. Ashwell S.D., Knight Smith J.D., Burgess D.C., Thurkle P.M., and S. Kegg Stewards.

was given, and the company separated. Visitors—Comp. J. E. Walford P.Z. 145, A. Clifford-Eskell P.Z., late 188, Van Stavern late 188.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, 193.—Just upon sixty brethren assembled at the usual meeting on Wednesday, the 29th inst., at Mason's Hall Tavern, Mason's Avenue, Basinghall Street, E.C., undoubtedly attracted by the announcement, at the previous meeting, that an address would be delivered on a Masonic Historical subject. Bro. Rudderforth presided. Bro. Tollis was S.W., F. Croaker J.W., J. K. Pitt Secretary, John Constable P.M. Treasurer, M. D. Loewenstark S.D., Fenner J.D., I. P. Cohen I.G., Christopher Tyler. Past Masters E. Gottheil preceptor, S. Moss, T. J. Barnes, &c. The Lodge having been opened and the minutes confirmed, the third ceremony was rehearsed, Bro. Biddle acting as candidate. After resuming the Lodge, it was called off, when the W.M., after a few preliminary remarks, introduced Bro. G. B. Abbott, who commenced his address by stating that he had no intention on that occasion to submit a theory of his own, it would be sufficient for the present purpose to divide the history of the Craft into three parts, namely, the mythical, operative and speculative. He would not touch upon the mythical portion, as it might perhaps prove too abstruse a subject to some who may not have time or opportunity to study a question of this kind. He would commence his observations from the time when non Masons were admitted members of Operative Lodges, which was about the year 1634. Having glanced at the state of the Craft down to the reign of Queen Anne, and the death without issue of that monarch in 1714, the lecturer referred to the Hanoverian succession, and the civil commotions in 1716, during which time the Craft was almost in abeyance. About that period, however, a few zealous Masons made an effort to resuscitate it. There were but four Lodges who participated in that work. One held at the "Goose and Gridiron," St. Paul's Churchyard; one at the "Crown," in Parker's Lane; one at the "Apple Tree," in Charles Street, Covent Garden; and one at the "Rummer and Grapes Tavern," in Chancel Row. In the year 1717 the Brethren assembled at the "Goose and Gridiron," the oldest Master Mason (being a Master of a Lodge) being in the chair. He proposed a list of proper candidates, when, by a show of hands, Mr. Anthony Sayer was elected Grand Master; to him succeeded George Payne, Esq. in 1718, in 1719 Dr. Desaguliers was the chief, after which Bro. Payne was again elected, in 1720. In 1721 the Duke of Montague was elected Grand Master, and he was the first nobleman who occupied that position. The lecturer enlarged upon each of these periods, and concluded a highly instructive discourse amidst the plaudits of a very appreciative audience. Bro. S. Moss P.M. 185, in proposing a vote of thanks, adverted to the method adopted by Bro. Abbott in the preparation of his paper, in which every point is made sufficiently clear, so as to be perfectly comprehensible even by the necessarily ignorant entered apprentice. Reference had been made to the past. Living in the present, it would be well to prepare for the future, by cogitating upon the various reflections which must have suggested themselves in the course of the lecture. He trusted that at no distant time Bro. Abbott would again favour the Lodge, and that he might continue the history down to the present time. Bro. Gottheil seconded the motion, and suggested that, in addition to the vote of thanks, Honorary Membership should be conferred upon Bro. Abbott. It was the highest honour a Lodge of Instruction had in its gift, and there were few worthier recipients than Bro. Abbott. The vote being carried with acclamation, the lecturer expressed his sincere thanks, and thought that his humble services had been greatly overrated, he valued very much indeed being made honorary member, and felt gratified at the appreciation of the brethren. Bro. T. J. Barnes P.M. begged to be permitted to add his testimony to the pleasure he had received listening to the lecturer. As Bro. Moss observed, it was lucid, and capable of being understood by the humblest intellect. Bro. Abbott instead of (as many might have done) showing his learning, by adopting a tone above ordinary comprehension, had spoken simply, up to the level of the average understanding, and thereby succeeded in instructing the higher as well as the humbler capacity. At the request of the Brethren, Bro. Abbott promised, before long, to resume the lecture. Due notice thereof will be given in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. The following were admitted members, Bros. S. Cohen, B. Summers and Henry Davies, all of 1017, T. K. Abell jun. 1599, S. C. Hewlett 141, W. W. Snelling 180. Bro. Tollis will occupy the chair on next Wednesday.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its usual weely meeting on Saturday, the 25th of November, at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington. Present—Bros. Powell W.M., Rowley S.W., Cohen J.W., Bidwell S.D., Read J.D., Barlow I.G., Past Masters Bros. J. Constable and Moss. Visitor—Bros. Barlow; and over thirty members. The Lodge was opened in the usual manner, the minutes of previous meeting confirmed. The ceremony of initiation rehearsed, Bro. Fox candidate. Also the ceremony of passing, Bro. Groner candidate. The first and second sections of the first lecture were worked by Bros. J. Constable and Moss. Bros. A. Westerby 185, Goodwin 186, Fenner 1227, and J. Westerby 1613, were elected members.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The regular weekly convocation was held on Tuesday last, at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, E.C. After the usual preliminaries had been gone through, the M.E.Z., Comp. Constable, rehearsed the ceremony of exaltation, assisted by Comps. G. Newman H., W. E. Gompertz J., Edward S. Norris Assistant Scribe E., Peter Wagner N., J. W. Berrie P.S., Comp. J. B. Lemaitre, one of the founders of the Chapter, acting as candidate. Comp. Dalley Rolt, of Prudent Chapter, No. 12, was elected a joining member. The election of the officers for the ensuing fortnight resulted as follows:—Comps. G. Newman M.E.Z., J. Constable H., W. E. Gompertz J., J. B. Lemaitre Scribe N., J. W. Berrie P.S. It was incidentally mentioned that the officers elect would be pleased to vacate their position in favour of any Companion who might be desirous of perfecting himself in either of the offices. The Chapter will resume business on Tuesday next, at 6.30 p.m. There were also present Comps. R. W. Goddard, J. B. Poore, and A. G. Medwin.

Harmony Lodge, No. 309.—There was a large muster of members of the Craft at the Red Lion Hotel, Fareham, on Tuesday, 21st inst., to witness the initiation of Col. Sir Frederick W. Fitz Wygram, Bart., of Leigh Park. The ceremony was ably performed by Bro. H. Ford P.M. 309, P.P.G.S.W., and the concluding charge was impressively delivered by Bro. J. Wale W.M. The musical portion of the ceremony was most effective, the following brethren assisting:—First Tenors, Bros. Pillow P.G.O., and Winterbottom; second ditto, Bros. F. Feltham and Stapleford; Basses, Bros. Sperring and W. L. Smith. Bro. R. Osborne P.P.G.O., who bestowed great attention to the musical department, presided at the harmonium, a fine instrument, of great power and rich tone, supplied by Bro. H. Gilbert, of Fareham. After the Lodge had been closed, upwards of sixty brethren partook of dinner, Bro. Whale the W.M. presiding, and Bro. E. Downing S.W. filling the vice-chair. In the course of the evening the health of the newly initiated brother was proposed by brother H. Ford, and replied to in fitting terms by Bro. Sir F. Fitz Wygram, whose remarks indicated an appreciation of some of the leading characteristics of the ancient Craft.

Lodge Caledonian (Edinburgh), No. 382.—The annual general meeting of this Lodge was held on Saturday, the 25th of November, in Freemason's Hall, 98 George-street, when a very large attendance of the brethren were present. Bro. A. D. Cairns R.W.M. presided, and was assisted by Bros. Swanson P.M., Geddes Calder S.W., Rev. A. Stuart Irwin Chaplain, and others of the office-bearers. The Lodge having been duly opened, Bro. Cairns, in a few choice and eulogistic remarks, moved that Bro. Robert Bryce be elected as R.W. Master for the ensuing year, and this having been seconded by P.M. Swanson, was unanimously and enthusiastically agreed to. Bro. Bryce briefly thanked the brethren for the distinguished honour proposed to be conferred upon him, and thereafter the meeting proceeded to the nomination of the remaining offices, which were filled as follow:—Bros. Geddes Calder S.W., William Archibald J.W., Robert Lumsden Secretary, Rev. A. Stuart Irwin Chaplain, J. Macpherson S.D., R. Steele J.D., John Gray G. Steward, Burnet Reid I.G., David Young Tyler, each of whom expressed their acceptance of office. The offices of Depute Master and Substitute Master being in the appointment of the R.W. Master, when installed into the chair, were left open till St. John's Day, 27th December; but we understand that it is the intention of Bro. Bryce, the R.W.M. elect, to appoint two very well known and old members to these offices.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 30th of November, at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. Bros. T. Cull W.M., E. Farwig S.W., G. Davis J.W., A. C. Burrell Treasurer, F. J. Wray S.D., A. C. Woods J.D., F. J. Taylor I.G., J. Mander Preceptor; also Bros. Wilkinson, Dickinson, Burgess, Smith, Elborn, Hirst, Pike, Collett, E. Dutton, E. A. Dutton, Baxter, Blundell, Belfrage, Swallow, Docker, Bentley, Reibold, Rose, Hammond, Neighbour, J. H. Watts, Harrison, Stewart, Filby, Doherty, Day, Willis, Martin, Collens, &c. Business—Lodge opened, and minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Lodge opened in 2nd and 3rd degrees, and resumed to the 1st, when the fifteen sections were worked. 1st Lecture: Bros. E. A. Dutton, F. J. Wray, B. H. Swallow, G. Davis, D. M. Belfrage, J. Bentley, E. Farwig. 2nd Lecture: Bros. Harrison, J. H. Watts, C. A. Woods A. Stewart, A. Boehr. 3rd Lecture: Bros. F. J. Taylor, W. Neighbour, W. J. Collens. Lodge resumed, and Bros. Burgess, Doherty, Smith, Dickinson, Pike, Collett, and Hirst were unanimously elected members. Proposed by Bro. Mander Preceptor, seconded by Bro. Burrell Treasurer, and carried unanimously, that a vote of thanks be recorded to the W.M., and that he be elected an honorary member. Bro. Cull having responded, votes of thanks were accorded to the fifteen brethren who had assisted in the working, for which Bro. Davis J.W. returned thanks. The Lodge was then closed in due form, and adjourned to Thursday, 7th December.

Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Saturday, the 25th November, at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew Bridge. Present—Bros. J. Chambers Roe W.M., W. Gardiner I.M.P. as S.W., Walter Goss J.W., Wm. Hilton P.M. Secretary, A. J. Burr S.D. 1612 as S.D., Wm. Gomm J.D., Wm. Savage D.C., James Squires as Steward, Jos. Dorey I.G., Harrison Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. Wm. Gardiner I.P.M., Thos. Brown, Wm. Hilton, A. Beasley and Littlewood. Visitors—Bros. H. E. Stidolph P.P.G.O. Essex, A. J. Burr S.D. 1612, H. Besley 176, V. J. B. Bennett, 733 and T. A. Woodbridge 1194. Business—The Lodge was opened at 2.30, Bros. Barnes, Morris and Franckel were examined as to their proficiency, and the replies being satisfactory, the W.M. ably worked the ceremony of the third degree in their behalf. Bro. Milirose having shown his proficiency as an E. A., was passed to the second degree. The ballot was taken for Messrs. F. H. White, J. E. Carter, John H. Jarvis and H. D. Thompson, and proving unanimous, they were admitted to the mysteries and privileges of the Order, the W.M. performing the three ceremonies in a most able manner. The Secretary here stated that, since the last meeting, he regretted to have to announce the death of a very old and valued P.M. of the Lodge, that of our brother Samuel May, who, Masonically speaking, was a host in himself, and who was known throughout the Craft as a most energetic Mason. The W.M. then proposed, and Bro. Littlewood P.M. seconded, that a letter of condolence be written to the widow, to express the sympathy of the Lodge with her in her bereavement—

this was unanimously carried. The Lodge was then closed, and after a brief adjournment the brethren sat down to a most excellent banquet, provided by the host, Bro. Stanbury. After the cloth had been removed, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. In reply to that of his health, the W.M. stated that he was proud to see such an assembly of brethren (thirty-six in number) at a Lodge of Emergency, it showed the healthy state of the Lodge, and as he believed there were six or seven gentlemen anxious to join, it would be necessary to call another "Emergency." The toast of the Initiates was then given, and responded to. The Visitors' toast was replied to by Bros. Beasley, Stidolph, Bennett, Woodbridge and Burr, the latter saying that he was pleased to have had the opportunity of assisting in the working of the Lodge in the unavoidable absence of the S.D. The W.M. then gave the toast of the P.M.'s, which was duly responded to. Bro. Hilton P.M. replied to the toast of Secretary and Treasurer. The toast of the Officers was replied to by Bros. Goss J.W. and Gomm J.D. The W.M. then proposed the health of the lay members of the Lodge, and said that although the toast was not usually given, he could not let the opportunity pass without thanking some of the lay brethren for the great assistance they had rendered; with this toast he would couple the names of Bros. Squires, Dyer and Atlee. These brethren having replied, the W.M. said he had yet one more toast to propose, which was that of our worthy host, Bro. Stanbury. He said that Bro. Stanbury, on this occasion, had evidently tried to out-Stanbury Stanbury. He had said that there were now three Lodges and one Chapter meeting at the Star and Garter, that if he could get two more Lodges to meet there, he would build a Masonic Hall; this announcement was received with cheers. Bro. Stanbury, in reply, said, that he would at all times endeavour to make the brethren comfortable, by providing such banquets as should be second to none. With regard to what had fallen from the lips of the W.M., respecting the Masonic Hall, all he wanted was the support of the Craft to enable him to defray the outlay, he would then find accommodation worthy of this ancient and honourable institution. Some excellent singing, by Bros. Beasley, Stidolph, Goss, Squires, White and others, helped to enliven the evening. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. We must congratulate the W.M. on his excellent working, and on the honour which he holds in presiding over such a large and influential Lodge. We are pleased also to add our tribute to the worth of Bro. Stanbury as a caterer. We trust he will see his way clear to undertake the task of building a hall for Masonic purposes, and that his enterprise will meet the success it deserves.

Carnavon Lodge of Instruction, No. 804, Havant.—For the benefit of the members of this and the neighbouring Lodges, we are pleased to announce that a Lodge of Instruction has been formed, under the banner of the Carnarvon Lodge, Bro. J. N. Hillman P.M. 804, P.P.G. St. B. Hants and I.W. being the Preceptor; the first meeting was held on Wednesday evening, 22nd ultimo, when the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, and the first section worked; the second meeting was held on Wednesday the 13th inst., at 7.30 p.m., when the ceremony of passing was rehearsed. The subscription has been fixed at three shillings per annum, and this will be an inducement for brethren in the district to join. Bro. Thomas Francis, P.M. 804, of Emsworth, is the Secretary, and he will be pleased to receive the names of brethren desirous of becoming members.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting of the above Lodge took place at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 28th November 1876. Bros. Weige W.M., Dr. Defriez S.W., Perrin J.W., Hewlett S.D., Saunders J.D., Dallas I.G., Worsley Secretary, and P.M. Wallington Preceptor; also Bros. Smith, Lovelock, Gompertz, Cambridge, Barker, Batchelor, Digman, and W. W. Morgan. The Lodge was opened in due form. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The Lodge was then opened in the three degrees, and resumed to the 2nd, when Bro. Wallington worked the Installation Ceremony, to the delight of all present. The Lodge was resumed to the 1st degree. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Cambridge acting as candidate; Bro. Hewlett worked the 3rd and 4th sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Digman, of Lodge 1524, was unanimously elected a member. Bros. Perrin, Cambridge and Smith were elected auditors; to give in their report on Tuesday evening next. Bro. Dr. Defriez S.W. 45 and S.D. 1278 was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge closed in perfect harmony.——A noteworthy fact in connection with this Lodge of Instruction may be mentioned. At the last half dozen meetings there have been several brethren present before the time fixed for the commencement of the proceedings, their object being to obtain the post of any officer who might be absent. As a consequence the work of the evening invariably begins at 7.30.

Finsbury Lodge, No. 861.—This Lodge held its November meeting on Friday, the 24th ult., at the Rosemary Branch Tavern, Shepperton-road, Islington. Present—Bros. Elias Legg W.M., W. Groome S.W., Thomas E. Purday P.M. and Sec., G. Leach P.M. and Treas., Tolmie S.D., F. Hill J.D., W. Mackey P.M. and D.C., W. Stokes P.M. Steward, Preston I.G., Speight Tyler. Past Masters Bros. Nichols, R. Leach, and about 30 other brethren. Visitors—Bros. E. Parker P.M. 619, W. Hurran 101, Bell 177, G. Jaquin P.M. 382, J. W. Harper 200, Baldwin 1005, and J. W. Barlen 1027 China. After the preliminaries, the W.M. raised Bro. Howe, passed Bros. Parkes, Honey, Hallows and Scharff, and initiated Mr. William Johnson. Bro. G. Leach P.M. and Treas., one of the founders of the Lodge, presented Bro. Thos. E. Purdy P.M. and Sec., with a very handsome gold watch, for the admirable manner in which he had discharged the duties of Secretary for the past ten years. The gift was duly acknowledged by the receiver. After closing, the brethren retired for refreshment, and spent a very enjoyable evening.

Whittington Chapter, No. 862.—The installation meeting of this Chapter was held on Friday, 24th November, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, Comp. W. H. Stephens P.Z. and H., in the absence of the M.E.Z. presided. Comps. W. J. Hargrave Jones, H. M. Levy P.Z. 188 as H., T. Kingston J., Jas. Weaver P.Z. S.E., Grist, Woodward, Glaskin, Parkhouse, Murlis, Norman, Moore, Macdonald, Cuff, &c. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes of the former convocation were read and confirmed. Comp. C. Walker No. 975, W.M. 862, was elected a joining member. Comp. W. H. Stephens P.Z. and H. was then inducted into the chair, and Comp. T. Kingston was installed H., by Comp. Jas. Weaver P.Z., in his usual impressive manner. The following were appointed officers:—Comps. J. Weaver P.Z., S. E. Moore S.N., Murlis P.S., J. High 1st Assist., Norman 2nd Assist., and Gilbert Janitor. The M.E.Z. then took a ballot for the admission of Bro. S. B. Wilmot No. 874, which being in his favour, he was duly exalted into Royal Arch Masonry, all the officers performing their duties creditably. The result of the report of the audit meeting was satisfactory. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions partook of an excellent banquet, which was superintended by Comp. Smith. The M.E.Z. then gave the usual loyal and R.A. toasts. The M.E.Z., in proposing the health of the I.P.Z., Comp. W. J. H. Jones, alluded to the respect he is held in, and, in the name of the Chapter, presented him with a very elegant solid gold jewel, set with diamonds and precious stones. This presentation having been duly responded to, Comp. Murlis returned thanks for the officers, and, after the Janitor's toast, the Companions separated.

Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017.—A meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 22nd instant, at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street. Bro. J. Blum occupied the chair. Present—Bros. V. Myers S.W., Gulliford J.W., L. Jacobs Treasurer, E. P. Albert P.M. Grand Pursuivant Sec., A. Eskell as S.D., Levy as I.G. P.M.'s Bros. J. Lazarus, De Solla, Pollitzer, Grunbaum, and Loewenstark. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Mr. S. Cohen was initiated. Bro. B. M. Simmons was passed, and Bro. Davis was raised. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. Victor Myers S.W. was chosen. Bro. L. Jacobs was re-elected Treas., and Bro. Smith Tyler. There being no other business, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren separated.

Emulation Lodge, No. 1163, Birmingham.—The regular Lodge meeting of the above was held on the 23rd instant, at the Masonic Hall, New-street, Birmingham. Present—Bros. T. E. Shaw W.M., P. Howse S.W., J. H. Howells J.W., M. Silverston S.D., S. Toy J.D., B. C. Richardson Sec., A. B. Archers I.G., J. Myers I.P.M., J. M. Pursell P.P.G.S.W. Warwickshire, S. Wood P.P.G.J.D., J. Beresford P.P.G.S.B., and W. Balls P.M. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. The Lodge was advanced to the third degree. The W.M., in the name of the Lodge, presented Bro. Joseph Myers I.P.M. with a handsome massive gold P.M.'s jewel, beautifully enamelled, bearing a suitable inscription. The W.M., in making the presentation, said he felt great pleasure in doing so, as a slight recognition of the zeal and ability displayed by Bro. Myers as W.M., and also as a token of the fraternal esteem and regard entertained for him by the brethren. Bro. Myers, in the course of his remarks, said, it was a great pleasure to attain the proud distinction of being a P.M. of the Lodge, after having filled every office. He cordially and heartily thanked them for the valuable gift, so indicative of the good will of the brethren. The artistic enamelling was the work of Bro. Shaw P.M., and a handsome velvet case was presented by Bro. Ball P.M. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of an excellent banquet. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. Bros. S. M. Harris 406 and E. J. Samuels 188 were present as visitors.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—This Lodge held its meeting on the 24th November, at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, at eight o'clock. Present—Bros. A. W. Penner W.M., Lane S.W., Pearcy J.W., Townsend, R. Bolton S.D. Secretary, Townsend J.D. Lodge opened in due form. Minutes were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was ably performed by the W.M., Bro. Bolton being candidate. The first and second sections of the lecture were worked by the W.M., assisted by the brethren. Bro. Lane was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week. The following brethren were then elected auditors—the W.M., Bros. Lane and Pearcy, together with the Treasurer and Secretary, after which Lodge was closed in due form, and the meeting adjourned.

City Lodge of Instruction, No. 1426.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 30th of November, at 111 Cheapside. Present—Bros. Payne W.M., Wale S.W., Pitt J.W., Spiegel Secretary pro tem, Colmer Treasurer, Goodman S.D., Brown J.D., Wyler I.G., Past Masters Bros. Poore Preceptor, James Stevens V.P. P.M., W. Parker; Bros. Taylor, Walmsley, Freeman, William Job, of the Corinthian Lodge, No. 1382. This being the fifth Thursday of the month, and, according to the Bye Laws, the 15 Sections should be worked, and although no preparation had been made the brethren present were all willing to assist, so far as their knowledge of the sections would allow, Bro. Goodman worked the 1st 2nd and 3rd, Bro. Stevens the 4th and 5th, and Bro. Poore the 6th and 7th sections. Bro. William Job, of Corinthian Lodge, was elected a member of this Lodge of Instruction. The Lodge was then closed.

Ivy Lodge, No. 1441.—The regular meeting was held on the 28th instant, at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell. Present—Bros. F. F. Cantle W.M., C. Poupard P.M. S.W., Cornelissen J.W., C. S. Jolly P.M. Sec., G. Muttock P.M. Treas., W. Ashwell S.D., Knight Smith J.D., Burgess D.C., Thurkle P.M., and S. Kegg Stewards.

P.M. Bros. C. Smith, J. Noake, C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P., and James Terry P.P.G.D.C. Herts, &c. After the preliminaries Bros. Coldwell and Arnold were raised to the third degree, Bro. Bowley was passed to the second degree, and Messrs. Wm. G. Reynolds and E. W. Catling were initiated into the Order, the ceremony being excellently rendered by the W.M. The W.M. presented Bro. C. S. Jolly P.M. and Sec. with a handsome jewel, as a token of esteem, and in appreciation of his excellent qualities, and his kindness and attention in carrying out the onerous duties of office. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a banquet, after which the W.M. proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune responded for the toast of the Grand Officers. He was gratified to see the W.M. in the chair, and bore witness to the excellent manner he had worked the ceremonies. He (Bro. Cottebrune) had initiated, passed, and raised him, and he felt he had done honour to the Craft by the introduction. The toast of the Masonic charities found an exponent in Bro. James Terry, whose eloquence had the desired effect of inducing the W.M. to represent the Ivy Lodge as Steward at the next Anniversary Festival of the R.M.B.I. The toasts of the Wardens, Past Masters, Visitors, &c., followed. Some capital singing was heard during the evening. The Visitors were Bros. Eames P.M. 22, White 22, Greaves 22, Frampton P.M. 87, Hart 1101, Carrington 1314, Parsons P.M. 749, Sheard 720, Pawley 151, Drew 749, Hillhouse 228, Fabian P.G.S.W. Hants, &c.

Chiltern Lodge, No. 1470.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 21st of November, at the Town Hall, Dunstable. Present—Bros. F. Howell W.M., T. W. Haselgrove S.W., Randall J.W., Saunders Secretary, Otway S.D., Sinkwell J.D., Benning D.C., Warren I.G., Day Tyler; and Bros. Gard, Beart, Ballans, Stevenson, Hopkins, Crew, Middleton, Monk, &c. Visitors—Bros. Alford, Lambie 475, Patmore, Doherty, Bellott 228, Latham, &c. Business—The Lodge having been duly opened in the 1st and 2nd degrees, Bro. Stevenson was, after due preliminaries, passed; a proposition for initiation was made, and the Lodge closed. In the course of the evening, the W.M. announced that active steps were in progress for the formation of a province in the county of Bedford, and three out of the five Lodges had already passed unanimous resolutions in favour. If H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught was to be appointed P.G.M. for Bedfordshire, all the members of the Royal Family who are Freemasons would then hold office becoming their exalted rank. In accordance with a notice given by the W.M., a Lodge of Instruction was opened, and in an excellent manner the ceremony of consecration was rehearsed by him. Most of those present had not had a previous opportunity of becoming acquainted with this beautiful ceremony, and experienced a great treat. The oration of the W.M. elicited many marks of approval, and a very cordial vote of thanks was passed to him for the pains he had taken.

Halsey Lodge, No. 1479.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Wednesday, the 29th of November, at the Town Hall, St. Albans. Present—Bros. F. Webster W.M., I. N. Edwards S.W., T. Kent J.W., G. R. Hall Secretary, E. Palin Treasurer, W. Marks S.D., A. H. Debenham J.D., C. Miskin D.C., A. Bridges Steward, C. W. Reynolds I.G., E. Kirby Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. J. Lowthin P.M. 506, 1385 and 1479, P.P.G.S.W. Herts; Hayward Edwards P.M. 1385, P.P.G.S.W.; F. Venables P.G.S., J. Purrott, F. Horner. Visitors—Bros. T. Bond of Harmony Lodge, Cawnpore, No. 438, G. W. Russell of Chiltern Lodge, No. 1470. Business—The Lodge was opened and the minutes read and confirmed. The Bye-laws were read, in accordance with the Book of Constitutions. The next business was of a somewhat painful character, as Bro. I. N. Edwards had given notice to bring forward a proposition respecting a member whose joining fee and subscriptions for three years had not been paid. The proposition, seconded by Bro. J. Purrott, was to the following effect: "That the member in question should be excluded from this Lodge." This was resolved unanimously, and, in accordance with the Book of Constitutions, notice was ordered to be given to the Grand Secretary and the Prov. Grand Secretary for Herts, of the decision the members of this Lodge had come to in regard to this unpleasant duty. The Lodge was then closed. After refreshment, the toast of the Queen and the Craft was proposed by the W.M.; this was followed by that of the Prince of Wales, the M.W.G.M. The next on the list was the health of the Prov. G.M., Bro. Halsey M.P., and the Prov. Grand Officers, coupled with the name of Bro. Lowthin P.P.G.S.W., who replied in able terms. "The Visitors" was proposed by the W.M.: He was always glad to see visiting brethren, especially when they came from a distance; he coupled with the toast the name of Bro. Bond, of Cawnpore. This brother said he had never attended a Lodge, but that he had been well received. He spoke most heartily of the good feeling existing between the brethren of England and India. The health of the W.M. was drunk with great enthusiasm. The Tyler's toast concluded a very pleasant evening. The supper, which was excellently served, was provided by Bro. W. Marks, at the Peahen Hotel.

Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, No. 1507.—The weekly meeting of the above was held on the 28th ult., at the Metropolitan Club, 291 Pentonville-road. H. B. Fowler W.M., H. Stiles S.W., R. F. Kingham J.W., W. Stiles Secretary, Jas. Willing jun. P.M. S.D., W. Side J.D., A. E. Wrigley I.G., T. A. Adams P.G.P. Preceptor, and Bros. Solomon, Edwards, &c. The Lodge of Instruction was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Edwards acting as candidate. The 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections were worked by the veteran Preceptor. The inventory of the furniture, jewels, &c. was verified. Bro. Adams was unanimously re-elected Preceptor; Bro. Jas. Willing jun. was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Stiles re-elected Secretary. The excellent working qualities of those brethren were deservedly commented on. They severally returned thanks for the confidence reposed in them, and expressed their willingness to do all in their power to further the interests of the Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Adams gave a just meed of praise to the brethren, who were young in the Order, for the excellent working they displayed, and for their attendance upon all occasions. Bro. H. Stiles was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The meeting was then adjourned to the following Tuesday. It was announced that the annual banquet of the Lodge of Instruction would be held at the Metropolitan Club, King's Cross, on Tuesday, the 30th January, under the presidency of the W.M. of the parent Lodge.

Upper Norwood Lodge of Instruction, No. 1586.—White Hart Hotel, Upper Norwood. H. E. Frances P.M. P.P.G.S.D. of Surrey, Preceptor, W. Hopekirk P.M. Treasurer, J. Hammond P.M. Sec. The Lodge was opened punctually at eight o'clock, by Bro. H. E. Frances, and, in pursuance of request at the previous meeting, he rehearsed the ceremony of Installation. There was a full attendance of members. Bro. William Jerrit Miller, W.M. Upper Norwood Lodge, assisted as candidate. The ceremony throughout was performed in full, regular, and Masonic manner, and elicited from the brethren their cordial approbation. The 1st degree will be rehearsed on Monday 4th December.

Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday last, at the Queen's Hotel, Micklegate, York, the business on the summons comprized a passing and three initiations. The working was most ably performed by the W.M., Bro. Thos. Cooper P.M., assisted by Bro. G. Balmford P.M. There was a full muster of members, and several visitors from Newcastle, Liverpool and other places. During portions of the ceremony Bro. Herr Padel, organist to the Lodge, performed a beautiful selection of Masonic music. At the subsequent refreshments, the visitors expressed their delight at the excellent working of the Lodge; the several chairs were all occupied by the respective officers. Arrangements are in progress for a winter banquet of the Lodge, which will probably take place early in January.

Angel Lodge, Colchester, No. 51.—The monthly meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday evening, the 28th ult. Present—Bros. G. Gard Pye W.M., S. W. Crookes S.W., T. J. Ralling J.W., A. Cobb P.M. Treas., W. S. Sprent acting Sec., I. Harris S.D., J. J. C. Turner Organist, J. Healy J.D., C. E. Denton as I.G., A. Welch I.P.M., T. P. Quilter P.M., F. A. Cole P.M., W. P. Lewis P.M., Chas. Cobb P.M., T. Mothersole, G. Mercer, J. Farran, C. W. Atkins, and C. Gunner Tyler. A candidate for passing being unable to be present, and there being no other business, the W.M. announced that, since their last meeting, the Lodge and the Province generally had sustained a very great loss, in the lamented and sudden death of the P.G. Sec., Bro. John Wright Carr; and he felt sure that they would be sorry to allow their first meeting since the sad occurrence to pass without expressing upon their minutes the feelings they entertained upon the subject. He therefore moved, "That the brethren of the Angel Lodge, Colchester, No. 51, have heard with deep regret of the death of the W. Bro. John Wright Carr, Grand Secretary of the Province of Essex, and desire to place on record their feeling that the Province had lost a valuable officer, and the Lodge an esteemed friend. They also wish to express to his widow their sincere condolence with her in the affliction that has befallen her." This was seconded by the senior P.M. present, Bro. T. R. Quilter, and supported by Bro. Mothersole, as a personal friend of the deceased, and, it need hardly be said, was carried unanimously. The W.M. stated that, at the funeral of the deceased, on the previous Thursday, the Lodge was represented by himself and Bro. Ralling. A candidate for initiation having been proposed, the brethren adjourned for refreshments.

Urban Lodge, No. 1196.—The regular meeting of this Lodge, which is composed principally of literary brethren, was held on Wednesday, 29th Nov., at St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell. Bro. J. Tickle, the Worshipful Master of the Lodge, presided, and after performing the ceremonies of raising and initiation, proceeded with the other business of the evening. Bro. J. Simpson was elected Master for the ensuing year, and Bro. R. H. Pearson was re-elected Treasurer. The brethren afterwards gave a considerable sum of money to the widow of an actor who died last Saturday, the grant being moved by Bro. Henry Marsh, and seconded by Bro. Dr. J. E. Carpenter.

Gladsmuir Lodge, No. 1385.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Friday, the 24th instant, at the Red Lion Hotel, Barnet. Present—Bros. J. Cutbush W.M., Livingston S.W., Young J.W., G. Askew Sec., J. Lowthin P.M. Treas., F. Venables S.D., Grey J.D., Allen Steward, J. Enerby I.G., Goddard Tyler. Past Masters Bros. Lowthin and Edwards. Visitor Bro. Hickman. Business—After preliminaries, Bro. John Brittain was raised, the Bye-Laws of the Lodge were read, after which the election of W.M. for the ensuing year took place, a majority being in favour of the S.W., Bro. Livingston. Bro. Lowthin P.M. was re-elected Treasurer, and the Deacons and I.G. were elected auditors. The sum of £5 was voted from the Lodge, to be placed on the list of the S.W., who will represent the Lodge at the Festival of the R.M.B.I., to be held in February next. The W.M., in reply to one of the brethren, remarked that they would vote five guineas, but he believed Bro. Terry had no use for the odd shillings.* After Lodge the brethren adjourned to slight refreshment, where the usual toasts were given and responded to.

Mother Kilwinning Lodge, No. 0.—The Bairns of this Lodge, resident in Glasgow, held a social meeting on 24th November, at Bro. Scobie, about 40 of the brethren were present, and a truly happy evening was spent. Arrangements were made for holding the annual meeting on the 8th inst.

Thistle Lodge, No. 87.—The Installation Meeting of this Lodge was held in the members' own hall on Tuesday. Bro. J. Morgan

* Dear Bro. Terry,—Again we ask, can you not devise some means for fixing these "erratic shillings"?—Ed.

R.W.M. Star 219 was the Installing Master, and performed the ceremony in a very impressive style. The following brethren were installed:—James Booth R.W.M. (re-elected), J. W. Burns I.P.M., A. L. Jeffray D.M., John McLachlan S.W., A. E. Knowles J.W., Thomas Paton T., Arch Cullen Sec., Walter Stewart S.D., S. Gunning J.D., B. Butcher Chaplain, J. Love S.S.B., Wm. Collin J.S.B., Samuel McPhee P.G.S., John Miller S.S., R. Barr J.S., J. McBride I.G., T. Cowan Tyler. The brethren afterwards spent some time in harmony.

RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE.

On Monday the inauguration and dedication of the De La Pole Conclave, No. 132, took place at No. 58 Charlotte Street, York. Illus. Sir Kt. the Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett, Most Puissant Sovereign, was enthroned; Eminent Sir Kt. Henry Preston, Venerable Eusebius, was consecrated, and the following were elected and installed:—Sir Kts. Rd. Boggett Senior General, Thomas Cook Junior General, J. T. Robinson High Prelate, J. Thompson Treasurer, J. R. Ansdell Prefect, A. Marshall Standard Bearer, N. H. Wellsted Herald, T. Crier Sentinel, and C. W. Cheesman, Organist. A number of members from Grimsby, Scarborough, Thirsk, and Darlington, were balloted for and installed. A dinner was afterwards held at the Station Hotel.

LODGE RISING STAR OF WESTERN INDIA.

A hiatus has occurred in connection with the relations of this Lodge and the Grand Master of all Scottish Freemasonry in India, that may lead to direful results if the counsels of the wise do not prevail, and terminate amicably a misunderstanding which should never have arisen, and which it is to be hoped, for the honour of the M.W. Provincial Grand Master, and the wisdom of the young, promising, and highly competent Right Worshipful Master, may promptly be adjusted without lowering the dignity of either the Grand or Craft Lodge. But, in common parlance, things look ominous, and, if the discriminating judgment of wise counsellors do not prevail, then it is to be feared a schism in Scottish Freemasonry will occur, which will, nolens volens, sever a branch from the parent tree that will no doubt revivify and flourish under happier auspices. May the G.A.O.T.U. avert the impending discord, and, guided by the dispassionate influence of the oldest, ablest, and most respected brethren on all sides, prevent such a calamity.

NOTE.—[It should be mentioned that Lodge "Rising Star of Western India" is the oldest Lodge on this side of India, established by the late Dr. James Burns K.H. in 1842, and stands foremost on the roll of daughter Lodges working under the Grand Lodge of Scotland in Bombay Presidency. At the present time, after contributing to all local charities liberally, it has, we understand, a balance of upwards of 2,000 rupees in the Treasurer's hands, and has just voted 200 rupees towards the relief of the sufferers by the Indian famine, verbum sat. In justice to the philanthropy which prompted this highly judicious allocution of the Lodge funds, it should be stated that the proposition emanated from R.W.P.M. Bro. Marzban, who depicted, in glowing language, the duty of the brethren in such an emergency, and the impoverished and hunger-stricken population of the famine districts. We have every reason to believe that this timely aid will be supplemented by large private contributions from the brethren, many of whom have already come forward, bon accord, to swell the subscriptions now pouring into the coffers of the Executive Committee, who are exercising their functions most discriminately throughout the length and breadth of the land.]

AMHURST CLUB.

THIS Club, which is situate close to the Hackney Station of the North London and the Hackney Downs Station of the Great Eastern Railways, was opened on Monday last. From the circular announcing its establishment, we find that it is intended to be entirely of a non-political character, for the accommodation of all, without reference in any respect to political opinion. In addition to which, the Institution will possess a variety of advantages. The skating rink, which will be open to members, covers a space of 20,000 square feet, and, at the proper season, private swimming and other baths will be added. Any information with respect to the Club can be obtained of our energetic brother, T. Hadley Prestage, 531 Hackney-road, E.

"A MASON" ON FREEMASONRY.

SOME one, it seems, has been making certain inquiries respecting the rules of our Society in the columns of the Rock, a journal devoted, we believe, to the support of one of the numerous schools or sections into which the Anglican Church is divided. We do not know if any editorial response was made to these inquiries, but in a recent issue of this journal there appeared a letter from a correspondent, who signed himself "A Mason," voluntarily communicating what doubtless the anonymous contributor would himself describe as the "requisite information." Now we are by no means displeased when attacks are made upon us from without. We feel it to be a kind of honour—unsought, but certainly not undeserved—that is being conferred upon us, when the thunders of that worthy old gentleman the Pope are launched against us, or the edicts of a civil tyrant are issued to destroy us. We know then, if we knew it not before, that we are a power for good in this world, or the spirit of evil would not be thus excited to ruin us. But when the attack comes from within—when we find one of our own brethren malevolently decrying the Order of which he is a member—we pull ourselves together, and look around us, in order to see if there really be any ground for the charges he makes. Thus, when this letter of "A Mason" was brought under our notice, we turned to it at first with some interest—a feeling which, as our readers will soon have an opportunity of judging, was very speedily converted into one of indignation. On finding, in the first instance, that this correspondent proclaimed himself to have been a member of our fraternity for a quarter of a century, we naturally enough expected to find in his letter a truthful exposition, if not of our system, at all events of the laws and tenets of Freemasons. And as no human institution is perfect, we were not without hope that the weak points of Freemasonry would be touched upon lightly, and with some tenderness, at least, by a brother of twenty-five years' standing. Judge, then, our surprise when, on proceeding, we found "A Mason's" statement quite as calumnious, and equally devoid of all truth, as the most reckless and offensive charges ever levelled at us by our most determined enemies. "A Mason" of "a quarter of a century" has "no hesitation in saying that its" (our Society's) "tenets and its practices have a very deleterious influence upon Society at large, and that it exerts a very bad influence over the Christian character; and indeed," he adds, "I have come long since to the conclusion that it is very antagonistic to the spread of religion." We presume "A Mason" has not been a member of our Fraternity for so many years without having seen or heard of our Constitutions. Doubtless he must at some time or other have read our old Charges. The first of these latter lays it down, absolutely, that "A Mason is obliged, by his tenure, to obey the moral law; and, if he rightly understand the art, he will never be a stupid atheist nor an irreligious libertine." And, further on, "Let a man's religion or mode of worship be what it may, he is not excluded from the Order, provided he believes in the glorious Architect of heaven and earth, and practises the sacred duties of morality." Considering this anonymous personage announces himself as still "A Mason," after a membership extending over "a quarter of a century," we can only suppose he still considers himself bound to observe the Charges and Constitutions which he has solemnly sworn to observe, and indeed, generally to fulfil, both literally and in the spirit, each and every of the obligations he undertook at his initiation, and subsequently. How then can he reconcile the statements made in his letter of denunciation with either the spirit or the letter of the laws that govern us or the tenets we profess. He knows well, or ought to know, it is a fundamental principle of Freemasonry that all its members should profess and practise a religion. To say, then, that "where Freemasonry rapidly advances, spiritual religion invariably declines," is to say that which is not. Men are religious before they become Freemasons. They must indeed have in them some source of religion in order to become members of our body. Freemasonry, of course, can no more guard itself against the wilful perjurer than can Christianity or any other religion. We impose on all who join us certain obligations, and if the initiate has no sense of honour in him—setting aside all question of religion—he will observe or violate those obligations at pleasure. But to guard against the admission of such is impossible.

We do not understand how any man of sense or honourable feeling could remain "A Mason," and yet say, honestly, after a quarter of a century's experience of the Craft, "I have long since come to the conclusion that it is very antagonistic to the spread of religion." Nor are we able to appreciate the further remark, "I know of many instances where it has ruined individuals, and I cannot see how a thoroughly religious man can remain in the society." It is no part of our duty to pry into the inner life of private individuals, but it is only a natural inference we are fully justified in drawing from this apparently authoritative statement that "A Mason" who has remained such for so many years is not himself "a thoroughly religious man." Ergo, his statement, on religious matters and opinions is entirely without weight. As for persons being ruined by Freemasonry, we should like "A Mason" to furnish something more trustworthy than a mere general assertion. We should like to see a few instances of this particular form of ruin with which he professes to be acquainted, and to examine minutely the circumstances on which he bases his statement. It is easy to affirm that a person has been ruined by Freemasonry, but the difficulty is to prove it. We have heard of people being ruined by Christianity, but we put no faith in the rumour. Freemasonry, of course, has its black sheep, as well as Christianity, but these are not the members we should offer to the world as specimens of our craftsmen. No sane man, indeed, would ever dream of selecting his illustrations of the value of any particular religion from the tagrag and bobtail of its professors. It may, indeed, be said, without fear of contradiction, that Freemasonry surpasses all religions, at least in this respect—that its members generally are taken from the very cream of intellectual, religious men. There is left only the very narrowest margin imaginable for worthless outsiders.

We regard the statement, "The only man who seems to understand Masonry appears to be the Pope," as a lame attempt on the part of "A Mason" to be funny. It is quite true he anathematises us, not annually perhaps, but certainly periodically. But so does he anathematise the school of Christians to which "A Mason" apparently belongs. Thus, if the Pope only anathematises whom and what he understands, and, understanding, considers worthy of anathematisation, then "A Mason's" form of Christianity is worthless; and, again, we say, his opinion as to the irreligious tendencies of Freemasonry are without value.

As to our meetings being characterised by "feasting and revelry," that in no way applies to Freemasonry, at least not more than it does to any other Society. The members of our Lodges dine together after they have transacted their business, or they sup together, or perchance they go home to their dinner or supper; but seven or eight meetings in a year—that being about the average number per Lodge—even if they close with dinner or supper, afford but a very unsubstantial evidence of "feasting and revelry." We know there are many Masons who make a god of their bellies; so are there many Christians. We should never think of denouncing Christianity for the sins of its worthless members.

We are not surprised at clergymen being Freemasons. Freemasonry is a science as well as a morality, and clergymen are men of intellect as well as supporters of the moral law Then many Masonic clergymen have attained to episcopal honours. We presume, therefore, their clerical ability was in no wise spoiled by their Masonry. Moreover, charity is the ruling principle of Freemasonry, and charity is likewise the basis of that religious faith of which the clergyman is a professor. There is, then, a peculiar fitness in clergymen belonging to our Society.

We have done with "A Mason's" letter to the Rock. Having regard to our obligation, we say nothing further. If indeed any remark of ours can by any possibility be regarded as personally offensive, we are deeply sorry, and shall apologise accordingly. We believe, however, we have strictly confined ourselves to the business of just criticism. We shall merely add that "A Mason" will confer an obligation on the Craft generally by disclosing his name and the number of his Lodge. We should then be in a better position to judge of the personal value of his criticisms. No man, at least no honourable man, has a right to denounce publicly the whole body of Freemasons and yet withhold his name.

UNITED GRAND LODGE.

THE Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday, 6th Dec., at Freemason's Hall. The chair of Grand Master was occupied by Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy Grand Master. The Senior Grand Warden's seat was held by the Earl of Donoughmore, and the Junior Grand Warden's by Captain Vivian. Among the other brethren present were Bros. Hervey Grand Secretary, Sir Albert Woods Grand Director of Ceremonies, Revs. J. S. Brownrigg P.G.C., Charles W. Arnold G.C., R. J. Simpson P.G.C., C. J. Martyn P.G.C., Sir J. W. Hayes P.G.C., S. Tomkins G.T., J. McIntyre Q.C., J. B. Monckton President Board of General Purposes, Bros. Boord, Birchall, Barron, Case G.D., W. Rhys Williams M.D., Assistant G.D.C., W. F. Nettleship G.S.B., Wilhelm Kahe G. Organist, E. P. Albert G.P., S. G. Foxall A.G.P., Earl of Shrewsbury G.M. for Staffordshire, Col. Burdett, F. A. Philbrick Q.C., Hyde Pullen, Bracholme Baker, R. J. Bagshawe P.G.M. Essex, W. W. B. Beach P.G.M. Hants, Richard Giddy, G.M. Guiqualand, Joshua Nunn, H. Browse, John Boyd, Griffiths Smith, J. A. Recker, Joseph C. Parkinson, Thos. Fenn, Robert F. Gould, C. F. Hogard, S. Poynter, F. Binckes, H. D. Sandeman, Dr. Erasmus Wilson, besides about 500 other brethren.

After the preliminary business, Bro. Robert F. Gould W.M. 92, P.M. Nos. 153, 570 and 743, said, Most Worshipful Grand Master in the chair, I beg to nominate his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales for re-election as Most Worshipful Grand Master.

The Acting Grand Master said,—Has any brother any one else to nominate? (laughter.) After a pause: The next business is the appointment of a President of the Lodge of Benevolence. Bro. J. M. Clabon P.G.D., is appointed by the Grand Master to that office. The next business is the election of Senior and Junior Vice President of the Lodge of Benevolence.

The Grand Secretary said there were only two brethren nominated at the Board of Masters, and therefore there would be no election. The names were Senior Vice President Bro. Joshua Nunn P.G.S.B., and for Junior Vice President Bro. James Brett P.G.P. (applause.)

On the Acting Grand Master stating that the next business was the election of twelve Past Masters to serve on the Lodge of Benevolence.

The Grand Secretary said that only twelve Past Masters had been named at the Board of Masters, and consequently there would be no election. The names of the Past Masters nominated were—Bros. Charles Atkins P.M. 27, Henry Bartlett P.M. 147, Herbert Dicketts P.M. 25, Henry Garrod P.M. 749, C. F. Hogard P.M. 205, W. T. Howe P.M. 1445, William Mann P.M. 186, W. H. Myers P.M. 820, Samuel Poynter P.M. 1491, Griffiths Smith P.M. 21, William Smith P.M. 33, and William Stephens P.M. 1365.

The following grants, recommended by the Lodge of Benevolence, were then severally moved, seconded, and confirmed, the movers and seconders being Bros. Clabon and Nunn:—

A Brother of the Lodge of Loyalty, No. 243, Guernsey ...	£50
A Brother of the Royal Navy Lodge, No. 429, Ramsgate ...	£50
A Brother of the Athol Lodge, No. 74, Birmingham	£100
The Widow of a Brother of the Worcester Lodge, No. 280, Worcester	£50
A Brother of the Cleveland Lodge, No. 513, Stokesley ...	£50
The Widow of a Brother of the Lodge of Unions, No. 256, London	£100
A Brother of the Globe Lodge, No. 23, London	£50

THE REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.

To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England:

The Board of General Purposes have to report that their attention has been called to several instances of the issue of circulars on the part of proposed new Lodges, prior to consecration, inviting members of the Craft to become joining members of such Lodges.

The Board have the special directions of the Pro Grand Master to make it known that such proceedings meet with his lordship's entire disapproval, and entail the risk of the withdrawal of the Warrant.

(Signed) JOHN B. MONCKTON,
President.

FREEMASONS' HALL, LONDON, W.C.,
21st November 1876.

To the report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge Accounts at the last meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 17th day of November instant, showing a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer of £4,086 15s 10d; and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for petty cash, £75; and for servant's wages, £96 15s.

Bro. J. B. Monckton said there was nothing for Grand Lodge to do on this report, and after moving that it should be received, and entered on the minutes, the same was carried by Grand Lodge.

Bro. McIntyre, Q.C., G.R., afterwards brought forward the appeals. In bringing up the appeal of the Sussex Lodge, No. 364, Kingston, Jamaica, against the judgment of the District Grand Lodge of East Jamaica, directing the Lodge to rescind its minute of the 28th July, 1875, accepting the resignation of a brother, until certain charges alleged against him had been inquired into. He said it was not a pleasing case to deal with, on account of a complication of facts in the case. It was evident from the papers he had read, that the conduct of the Lodge had been extremely disrespectful to the District Grand Master. A brother who was J.W. of the Lodge had certain charges preferred against him before the Deputy District Grand Master. Before the matter was brought before his Lodge he tendered his resignation of his office. A Lodge of Emergency was called to consider whether the resignation should be accepted, and at this Lodge of Emergency, a brother, who was not a Past Master under the English Constitution, was in the chair. This was a violation of the Constitution, as, if no P.M. was present, it was the S.W.'s business to rule the Lodge. The resignation was accepted, and the District Grand Master's charge was not entertained. The resignation was entered on the minutes, and the District Grand Master subsequently had the Lodge before him, and ordered the resignation to be expunged from the minutes. He had often said in Grand Lodge that if a brother tendered his resignation the Lodge was bound to accept it. In this case the District Grand Master could have summoned the brethren before him for contumacious conduct, and have dealt with them as he might be advised. But he had no power to order them to rescind their resolution. He wished it to be understood, however, that a brother could not get rid of his responsibility for improper acts—by resigning his Lodge. He was amenable to the Masonic authority of the district in which he was, so long as he was a Mason, whether he belonged to a Lodge or not. He should advise Grand Lodge to reverse the District Grand Master's decision.

Bro. Philbrick seconded the resolution, which was put and carried.

Bro. McIntyre also brought up an appeal from Cape Town, in which he also advised the reversal of the District Grand Master's decision.

This also was carried.

Bro. Binckes afterwards withdrew the motion of which he had given notice, and explained that at the time he gave it he was not aware of Lord Carnarvon's intention to call a Special Grand Lodge to consider the report of the Special Committee appointed at last Grand Lodge.

Grand Lodge was then closed.

List of Lodges for which warrants have been granted by the M.W. Grand Master since the last Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge:—

1639.—Watling Street Lodge, Stony Stratford, Bucks.
1640.—Amatole Lodge, Alice, Victoria East, Cape of Good Hope.
1641.—Crichton Lodge, Camberwell.
1642.—Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, Notting-hill.
1643.—Perseverance Lodge, Hebburn-on-Tyne, Durham.
1644.—Alma-Mater Lodge, Birmingham.
1645.—Colne Valley Lodge, Slaithwaite, Yorkshire.
1646.—Sir Donald McLean Lodge, Raleigh, Taranaki, New Zealand.
1647.—Star of the North Lodge, Whangarei, Auckland, New Zealand.
1648.—Prince of Wales Lodge, Bradford, Yorkshire.
1649.—Berar Lodge, Budnaira in Berar, Bombay.
1650.—Rose of Raby Lodge, Stalndrop, Durham.
1651.—Lodge of Progress, Southbridge, New Zealand.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Rheumatic Pain, Tic Doloreux.—These diseases are, unfortunately, very prevalent in this country, and are frequently most distressing, sometimes for years baffling all medical skill to alleviate the sufferings of the victim. In no case have Holloway's Ointment and Pills failed to produce a cure. The Ointment exerts a peculiar and soothing influence over the nerves and muscles, relaxing spasms and subduing pain. The attack soon becomes milder and the intervals between the paroxysms longer; until they cease altogether. The Pills restore the body from a weak and debilitated condition to a state of health and strength. Persons bedridden for months with rheumatic pains and swellings after using the Ointment have been cured in an credibly short period.

MEETING OF THE PROVINCIAL GRAND MARK LODGE OF LINCOLNSHIRE.

PRESENTATION TO BRO. JOHN SUTCLIFFE.

A GRAND Lodge of Mark Master Masons of the Province of Lincolnshire was held in the Old Hall, at Gainsborough, on 29th November, by command of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Mark Master, Bro. John Sutcliffe, of Stallingborough House, Grimsby, who also issued invitations to the Mark Master Masons of the Lodges in Lancashire, Yorkshire, Northumberland, Durham, Cheshire, and North Wales, which were responded to by such an assemblage as rarely meet together in any Provincial Lodge of Mark Masonry. The following is a list of the brethren present:—Grand Officers—C. F. Matier P.G.W., Wm. Roebuck G.M.O., J. N. Scherling P.G.J.O., F. Binckes Grand Sec., Thos. Cubitt P.G.D.C., J. D. Sugden P.G.S.B. Pollitt, A. S. Steffenson, John Nelson, T. Jewitt, S. Walmsley. The large gathering is mainly attributable to the convenient and liberal train arrangements affected with the various railway companies by Provincial Grand Mark Master Sutcliffe, and to the liberality with which the Right Worshipful Master distributed his invitations to the banquet, which followed the business of the Lodge, and which were accompanied by a programme giving in detail all the information that was necessary to be known in reference to accomplishing the journey from distant provinces, the special railway tickets—issued at a first-class single fare for the double journey—being available for three days. After the ordinary duties of the Lodge had been gone through, the R. W. Prov. Grand Mark Master Mason appointed and invested the following brethren as Prov. Grand Officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Chas. Harrison Deputy Prov. G.M.M.M., Alfred Kirk Prov. G.S.W., W. W. Copeland Prov. G.J.W., Charles Scorer Prov. G.M.O., M. Crowden Prov. G.S.O., P. P. Dickinson Prov. G.J.O., Jack Sutcliffe Prov. A further matter of special interest and attraction in the day's proceedings was the presentation to the Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Mark Master of a picture containing portraits of himself and his first Provincial Grand Officers, who were photographed in a group whilst being entertained at Stallingborough House. The photograph was subsequently enlarged, finished in oil, and handsomely framed. The Mark Masons represented in it are—Bros. John Sutcliffe, Charles Harrison, F. Watson, H. Watson, T. H. Oldman, J. Bellamy, William Watkins, Jack Sutcliffe, R. Cotton Carline, R. Gough, W. J. Bland, F. S. Judd, C. J. Hayward, T. B. Jacobson, George Robinson, E. J. Cullen, Charles Scorer, R. Goodman, Rev. D. Aoe, D.D., W. G. Moore, Capt. Lowcock, Charles Mann, F. Binckes, and William Roberts. The frame is enriched with Masonic emblems, and the inscription engraved on a brass plate is as follows:—

FIRST PROV. G.M. OFFICERS FOR LINCOLNSHIRE.
PRESENTED TO THE R.W. BRO. JOHN SUTCLIFFE, PROV. G.M.M.M., 29TH NOVEMBER 1876.

The formal presentation of the picture was made during the after-dinner proceedings, and the terms in which it was offered and accepted will be found reported below in the post prandial speeches.

The banquet, to which about 160 sat down, was of a magnificent description. The tables, laden with choice dessert (including pine apples, melons, grapes, &c.) had a charming appearance as the guests entered the room; but what crowned the brilliancy of the gathering was the regalia of the brethren, emblazoned with jewels, representing the different degrees and orders of Masonry to which the wearers had respectively been admitted. The menu was in harmony with the high character of the occasion, comprising every available delicacy, and the dinner was served à la Russe by Mrs. Frith, of the Hickmann Hotel.

The Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Mark Master, Bro. Sutcliffe, occupied the chair, and, in commencing the toast list, gave "The Queen and Mark Masonry," in terms glowing with loyalty. The Right Worshipful Brother also gave "H.R.H. Albert Edward Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and the Members of the Royal Family," observing how little need be urged in recommending this toast, and that the more they said about it the greater damage they might do it. They all admired the lovely Princess of Wales; all England were ready to lay down their lives for her. He might add that, at the moment they were sitting there, their brother Prince Leopold was being installed in office as Master of a Mark Lodge at Oxford. They would, therefore, add his health to the toast, and if he were present, he would respond to it in a way they would all be pleased to hear. (The National Anthem was sung after the first toast, led by Bro. Copeland).

Bro. P. P. Dickinson, Mayor of Lincoln, in rising to propose "The Bishop and Clergy," said he had pleasure in serving the chairman in any position he might call him to. He asked the company, as Mark Masons, to join him in drinking the health of those men who by their piety showed them the way of life, and invited them to walk therein.

Bro. the Rev. A. A. Bagshawe responded, remarking that, although he did not belong to this diocese, he was a member of the Mark in Lancashire, and as such he had been honoured by being made the Provincial Grand Chaplain, and also the Chaplain of his Lodge, of which he was very proud. He felt a very deep gratitude to the Provincial Grand Master of Lincolnshire for inviting him and the Lodge to which he belonged. They came with a right hearty and especial pleasure, because they knew what a large-hearted man Bro. Sutcliffe was, whose heart was in Mark Masonry, and he rejoiced that he was to be the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Mark Master of Lincolnshire for the second period of three years. It had given him (Bro. Bagshawe) very great satisfaction to meet them on this occasion, seeing that they had such an earnest Provincial Grand Mark Master. He (the speaker) put his soul into it, as he did in the Craft and in the Arch, but he did so particularly as a Mark Mason, and he thought Master Masonry without the Mark was not understood. They did not understand it till they became Mark Masons. He dare say they knew what he meant (hear, hear). Five different provinces had assembled together that day to do honour to their excellent and right worshipful brother the Grand Mark Master of Lincolnshire. It had been a great pleasure for them to meet together and stir up each other's good feeling towards one another. Wherever they met they knew each other, and felt that there was a mark between them, and that mark bound them together in sincerity (hear, hear).

The Chairman proposed "The Most Worshipful the Grand Mark Master Mason, the Right Honourable the Earl of Limerick, and all other Grand Officers, present and past." He was glad, he said, to have to announce that they had several P.G. Officers present. They all, as good Masons, looked to their head and their chief, and they were happy to recognise their head in the Earl of Limerick. (Applause). He had had the pleasure of sitting under him on several occasions, and found him a very pleasant and agreeable chairman and a very good Mark Mason, and they would join him in drinking the toast heartily and sincerely. He coupled with it the name of Bro. Roebuck, the Grand Master Overseer, who would respond.

Bro. Roebuck, in acknowledging the toast on behalf of the Earl of Limerick, observed that it would be his especial privilege to report to Grand Lodge the re-appointment of the Provincial Grand Mark Master of Lincolnshire for another three years. It had been gratifying to him to find the reception that had been given to the name of the Most Worshipful Grand Mark Master, not only by Lincolnshire but by the provinces around. He was aware the Earl was well known in this and other counties; he was also known in London as a good Mark and Craft Mason, and as a supporter of the charities. (Applause). He must say with all the Masonic gatherings he had been amongst he had never been more pleased than to see the manner in which Bro. Sutcliffe had been received by this meeting. (Applause).

The Chairman next proposed "The Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Mark Master Masons of other provinces, and all present and past Provincial Grand Officers." In doing so he said he need not occupy their time long in urging the claims of this toast. The characters of the Provincial Mark Masters were all so well known that they required no recommendation from him to ensure them a hearty and cordial reception. They ought to feel highly honoured that a brother came here to-day from Newcastle to visit their Provincial Lodge. He himself (the Chairman) felt highly complimented by Bro. Strachan, D.P.G.M. for Northumberland and Durham, coming amongst them. They also had Bro. Tom Perkinton P.G.M.M.M. from West Yorkshire. He must not forget to say that he had not the opportunity in Lodge of reading a number of letters of apology from brethren not present, and he might inform the brethren from Lancashire that he had received a very polite note from Bro. Le Gendre Starkie, D.P.G.M. for Lancashire, saying that previous engagements prevented him coming. He wished to say that for the information of the brethren from Lancashire.

Bro. Strachan said he felt highly honoured in having the opportunity of thanking the Most Worshipful Chairman for inviting him and the other Northumberland and Durham brethren, and must say how honoured he also was by the way he had received them, by the way he had proposed their healths, and by the way they were received in the province. He probably should not have been able to come from his district, except that he was returning from the metropolis for the north, and by stopping two days he was able to be present. Therefore it was from no want of confidence in the Chairman that more had not come, but he would take back to them an account of this gathering, and the prospect there was that Mark Masonry was an increasing institution (hear, hear), and they might rely upon it that this was only the beginning of much greater things. He could congratulate the Chairman on his province, and the province on its Grand Mark Master. He felt a peculiar pleasure in being present, and should remember it as a red-letter day when he had the honour of meeting the Provincial Grand Mark Master of Lincolnshire and his Provincial Officers. (Applause.)

Bro. Perkinton acknowledged the pleasure he felt in having his name connected with the toast. He had been a Provincial Mark Master five and a half years, and now his time was nearly ended. ("No, no.") He had been very much cheered with what he had seen to-day. He was much attached to Mark Masonry, and it would ever live in his heart.

Bro. Prince was also proud to respond for his province, whose Grand Master, like the Lincolnshire Grand Master, was a man with a large heart. Addressing the Chairman, the speaker said—"I thank you, Right Worshipful Sir, for the kind support you give to Mark Masonry. You are a most honoured man in this district, and if others can be found like you when your time is run out we shall have cause to be hopeful for the future of Freemasonry. I trust you will accept, through me, the thanks of our Provincial Grand Mark Master for what you have done to-day." (Applause.)

Bro. Newhouse responded for Cheshire and North Wales, by asking the Chairman to accept their heart-felt thanks, and by saying he was glad to hear he had accepted again the office of Provincial Grand Mark Master of Lincolnshire. He (the speaker) had been many years connected with the Craft and Arch and Mark. He liked the Mark, which had a tendency to bring them more in unity with the Craft and Arch. (Applause.)

Bro. Perkinton again rose, and said he would give without much preface the health of "The Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Mark Master Mason for Lincolnshire, Bro. John Sutcliffe" (great cheering.) Nothing he could say would add to the esteem of those present, by whom he was so well known. (The toast was drunk with Masonic honours.)

The Chairman, who was received with prolonged cheers, said he felt very much obliged to his brethren for the proposal of his health and the kind reception it had met with. He knew not what he could say more. He valued their opinion, and allowed them to be the best judges. He could only say he thanked them—thanked them most heartily—for the very generous reception they had given to the toast. He would not sit down without taking the opportunity of proposing the toast of the evening, that was the health of "The Visiting Brethren," and he would call upon them to open their lungs and open their shoulders (laughter), and to receive the toast in a way that would be heard through Lancashire, Yorkshire, Northumberland, Cheshire, and North Wales. It was not often they had representatives from so many provinces, and he thanked them for the honour they had done the province of Lincolnshire in coming from all corners of those counties to the old port of Gainsboro'. The Old Hall in which they were assembled would be interesting to archæologists, and he thought they would like to visit him in that fine old hall, where they were all on a par—all on an equality, which did not exist in any other kind of assembly (hear, hear.) Having thanked them again most heartily and sincerely, he coupled with the toast the name of an "old pal" of his—Charley Matier.

Bro. Matier, in returning thanks, said that all the compliments bestowed upon the Right Worshipful Bro. Sutcliffe had been justly made, and he could only say ditto to all that had been said in his honour. He narrated what he called a "little incident" that occurred on the journey to Gainsboro'. When about three miles on this side of Worksop, and when they were going about 60 miles an hour, the driving axle of the engine broke, but he was happy to say—thanks to the Great Architect of the Universe—no fatality had occurred. He was only too pleased in coming to visit the Provincial Grand Mark Master for the first time, and he sincerely trusted it would not be the last. He hoped they would not allow him to sneak out of the chair. He could not be put out. No one could put him out of the chair of Grand Mark Master—no man, wherever he came from; and they would see him again elected for the third, fourth, or twentieth time. (Applause.)

Bro. Ruddock also responded, saying he would be second to none in giving his adhesion to the Right Worshipful Master. It had been said he was a large-hearted man: so he was, but he was also a large headed man, and so all would say if they knew him as well as they did in West Yorkshire, where they had proved him before he came into Lincolnshire. No better man was ever put into shoes than Worshipful Master Sutcliffe. He said it freely, and without fear of contradiction—with all respect and without flattery—that there never was a man who worked himself up to the position Bro. Sutcliffe now held more rapidly and more successfully than he had done. It was only the week before last that he (Bro. Ruddock) was at a meeting of Royal Arch Masons, and if this gathering had only heard the remarks which were then passed by the brethren of the Provincial Chapter, with reference to their brother who now presided at this meeting, there was no one but would have been proud, and deeply proud, to have had those feelings expressed towards himself. There was no worthier man than the present Worshipful Master of their Mark Lodge. The speaker then referred to the Masonic Schools, mentioning the desire that Bro. Sutcliffe had evinced to have them placed on a proper footing. They were all, he said, actuated by one feeling, and they wished to place those schools in a right position. They did not want to have "fish for one and flesh for another," and he for one wished to find out the feeling that existed in the Province of West Yorkshire, and he was determined to do so. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. Kemp said he had been singled out to propose a toast, and though he lacked the ability he did not believe in shirking a duty. He felt a very great degree of pleasure in doing so. He congratulated the Right Worshipful Chairman most heartily, most sincerely, and most fully on the proceedings of the day, and said the Humber Lodge—of which he was a young member—felt a great pleasure in meeting him and seeing him surrounded as he was by such a large and influential gathering of the brethren. He should have pleasure in reporting it to his Lodge. He was glad to find that West Yorkshire had put in such an appearance as she had done. In the North and East Ridings they had no Provincial Mark Lodge, but they did indulge the hope that they would eventually have a Province, and such a Master to preside over them as Lincolnshire had. He then presented the toast, namely, "The Deputy Provincial Grand Mark Master Mason, Bro. Harrison, and all other Present and Past Grand Officers of Lincolnshire," and again reverted to Bro. Sutcliffe, saying he had made them feel that Mark Masonry was no simple thing, and had made them feel proud that they were Mark Masons, and whether they were recognised by Grand Craft Lodge or not it was a fact, and might she mark well.

Bro. Harrison, in responding, said,—I assure you, worshipful sir, we feel the honour of being here under your presidency, and hope for many years to see you at the head of the province. I have a very pleasing duty to perform. At the last Provincial Grand Mark Lodge the Provincial Grand Mark Master was kind enough to invite the officers to breakfast, to Stallingboro' House. When we arrived an artist was there from Grimsby, and we were photographed in a group. We felt that we would like, as a memorial of our visit, to have it enlarged and painted, and ask our Worshipful Master to accept it. I have now, on behalf of the Past Provincial Grand Mark Officers, to request you to accept this picture as a mark of the esteem and respect of those who had the honour of acting as your first Provincial Grand Mark Officers (applause).

The Chairman gave some account of the first production of the photographic group. He called on the artist to order a copy for each Provincial Officer, but was informed that several brethren had requested him to finish it, and he was about to do so. Therefore it was taken out of his—the Chairman's—hands altogether. It was his intention to present that group to his officers, but he was told in a sense to mind his own business, and he saw no more of it. He thought it had taken a wrong turn, but still he thought they would all agree with him that he could not be so ungrateful as to refuse the honour of accepting that handsome picture. It would not belong to him; it would belong to Masonry—Mark Masonry—and he felt bound to accept it; and some day they would see it hung up in the Province of Lincolnshire as a mark of respect to the Worshipful Master. I accept it (concluded Bro. Sutcliffe) at your hands, and thank you on behalf of the family to whom you have paid this high honour. (Cheers.)

The brethren then separated, to return to their homes by their respective trains.

THE GRAND BARD'S SONG.

Sung at the Masonic Banquet, in Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh, on Thursday, 30th November, in celebration of the Festival of St. Andrew.

Come, gather round the cozy hearth,
And let us chant a canty lay,—
For Scottish hearts ower a' the earth,
Are blythe upon St. Andrew's Day.
Since that gude Saint in days o' yore,
Led forth our sires in battle fray,
And won for Scotland deathless gloir,
A' Scotsmen bless St. Andrew's day.

Come then, brither, join wi' brither,
Lilt and sing a' blythe and gay;
Linked in holy love thegither,
Blessings on St. Andrew's Day.

In every clime, in every land,
On every shore, on every sea,
Far, far frae Scotland's rugged strand,
Are members of her millions three—
Parts of her small, but matchless band,
Men born the world to teach and sway,
All bound together heart and hand,
By Scotland and St. Andrew's Day.

Come then, &c.

And here within this regal hall,
With dear St. Andrew shrined on high,
We'll cherish deep the pledge we all
Have made beneath yon radiant eye.
And may the holy star of love
Light up our hearts with genial ray,
And Mason aye to Mason prove True brother on St. Andrew's Day.

Come then, brither, join wi' brither,
Lilt and sing a' blythe and gay;
Linked in holy love thegither,
Blessings on St. Andrew's Day.

THE HERVEY LODGE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I trust to your well-known impartiality for permission to enter a little more fully than has been done elsewhere into the question whether a member of my Lodge was right in proceeding to extremities against one of its members who declined to pay his initiation fees, and endeavouring by legal means to recover a debt of honour freely and voluntarily contracted by him. On the 11th ult. a contemporary of yours introduced into one of its articles the respected name of our Grand Secretary, and, upon something which fell from his lips at a public dinner, proceeded to charge the Hervey Lodge with having committed "various blunders, too numerous to mention." He then proceeded to express an opinion that "every step the Lodge has taken is constitutionally wrong and illegal."

To the first part of the charge I simply reply, that it is recklessly untrue. The Lodge, like other young Lodges, may have passed through vicissitudes of good or bad fortune. It may have had persons enter it, for purposes of their own, whom it was afterwards found necessary to exclude for non-payment of dues, or other causes, and thus have made a few enemies; but this gives no one any right to charge the Lodge with innumerable blunders, neither does it show "a laxity of system," or that the character of the Lodge "has been sacrificed to obtain funds." It is exceedingly malicious on the part of any one to suggest anything of the kind; for, at the worst, it merely proves that the best regulated society is human, and that Masonic Lodges can no more expect to be free from the danger of receiving "incongruous or heterogeneous elements," than any other institution, or even a family circle. The most damaging charge, however, brought against our Lodge is, that it has acted "unconstitutionally and illegally," because, forsooth, it did what it believed to be right, and took steps to compel an initiate to pay a just and honourable debt, or in the words of our ancient charges, "act honourable to all men." The journal which has made this charge, condemns my Lodge, without judge or jury, although it politely intimates that it may have to answer for its misdeeds before the Board of General Purposes. Now, I ask, is this doing as one would like to be done by, or is this the way to cultivate brotherly love in Freemasonry?

In as few words as possible I will endeavour to place before your readers the facts of the case, and I think it will be admitted that the Hervey Lodge neither acted "unconstitutionally" nor "illegally" in this matter. The person against whom it was decided to enforce payment holds a responsible public appointment, of considerable trust and importance. At his initiation he gave a reasonable excuse for not coming provided with the entrance fee—namely, "that he had been given to understand he was to present himself 'poor and penniless.'" He joined the brethren at the banquet, and expressed himself thoroughly well satisfied. Some time elapsed, and his proposer communicated with him. The Secretary wrote, and so did other brethren who had some acquaintance with him. Ultimately, he promised to attend the duties of the Lodge and settle his arrears. This, however, he failed to do, and treated all further applications with contemptuous silence. It was then thought, as a last resource, that one of our members, who was learned in the law, might make some impression on him, and it was agreed that he should apply in a semi-legal form. This mode of attack met with no better success, and, with feelings of indignation and disappointment, our brother took the case into the County Court. In this he was, no doubt, somewhat hasty, and certainly committed an error of judgment, for it turned out that, if he sued at all, it should have been in the name of the Secretary (or of his proposer, as for money lent), obviously not in the name of the Lodge. In my opinion, it would have been little short of a Masonic scandal had the Lodge permitted an educated, well-to-do man to escape "scot free," and treat his solemn obligation as some well-devised joke, to be kept or broken at pleasure. I also consider, in a matter of this kind, Masons owe a duty to society, as well as to the Craft, and that it is against public morals and policy to submit to dishonour, and permit a man to regard a solemn obligation, which he has already acknowledged "to be binding on him as long as he shall live," as a mere farce. If such a notion gets abroad, it must inflict a mortal injury on Masonry, and good bye to all its attempts to spread among men active virtue and enlightenment. We are told, however, that such a case is provided for in the Book of Constitutions. This is a question fairly open to discussion. The rule, as set forth at page 86, Art. 9, is to the following effect:—"No person shall be made a Mason for less than three guineas, exclusive of the registering fee, nor shall a Lodge, on any pretence, remit or defer the payment of any part of the sum. The member who proposes the candidate must be responsible to the Lodge for all the fees payable on account of the initiation." The latter part of this rule is governed by the first. It clearly follows as an eventuality, and neither invalidating nor superseding what precedes it, and may or may not be put in force by the Lodge. It is in no wise compulsory, and in the case of the Hervey Lodge it was decided not to remit any part of the sum, although in the first instance there was no help for deferring payment, for neither the Initiate nor the proposer was at the moment able to pay. Again, it appears that Grand Lodge intended this rule to be relaxed or modified at the pleasure of the Lodge, otherwise there could have been no occasion at all for any bye-law, which, having received the sanction of the G.S., is a good and valid rule. This law is to the effect that "the brother proposing a candidate shall deposit one guinea on account of the initiation fee," and the forfeiture of this sum is held to be sufficient in all cases. In this particular case, the Lodge unanimously decided not to call upon the proposer, but rather proceed, to extremities, against the person who had evidently made up his mind to avoid, if possible, payment of a just debt freely and voluntarily incurred—an educated gentleman! who had sworn "to conform to all the ancient usages and established customs of the Order." This is what your contemporary has designated "unconstitutional and illegal."

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,

A P.M. OF THE HERVEY LODGE.

November, 1876.

[We have refrained hitherto from offering any comments on the difficulty recently encountered by the Hervey Lodge. The less that is said publicly of such matters the better. We think, however, it would have been more judicious had the Lodge excluded the defaulting member, and reported him to the Board of General Purposes for expulsion from the Society. But we do not consider the member who represented the Lodge, or the Lodge itself, acted either "illegally" or "unconstitutionally." The attempt to recover a just debt by legal means may be unwise, or inexpedient, but it cannot be either "illegal" or "unconstitutional." Nor do we see how, under the circumstances as described above, any blame whatever can possibly attach to the Hervey Lodge. We have known cases where candidates have attended without bringing with them the initiation fee," but in these the momentary default was promptly made good. We should not reject the apology of a person "holding a position of trust and importance" for not bringing his fees, nor should we think of distrusting his promise to pay them forthwith.—[Ed. FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.]

"ERRATIC SHILLINGS."

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am very pleased to see you again refer to the question of Pounds versus Guineas with regard to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. I have frequently heard comments made on this subject, and think that if the authorities only had the matter put before them officially, they would devise some means for altering it. Where do you find a brother who would object to giving the odd shilling when he has made up his mind to contribute? Ask any Steward if he would have had any more difficulty in getting 21s than he had in getting 20s. With respect to the larger amounts, it is the same, and yet, when we consider the amount collected, these "erratic shillings" would now amount to £500 a year. The question is, would any one be worse off? Certainly not. But put the question the other way round,—Would any one be better off? and a very different answer can be given. Suppose, for instance, we decide to allow, out of this fund, annuities at the rate of £26 per annum (10s per week), in its present proportion we could relieve twenty persons to this extent, and yet the matter is allowed to rest. If between now and February next all the Stewards who intend to support our Royal brother, Prince Leopold, would unite and work for the "erratic shillings" I do not think he would refuse to accept the little amount it would realise, and it would be a compliment to him, giving him a reason to look back on his Chairmanship with pride, and his name might be handed down to future generations as the founder of the Leopold Annuities. Brother Stewards, assist in this matter. Remember, we are working for 10s per week for twenty brethren by means of "erratic shillings."

Yours, &c., ALPHA.

On Thursday evening next a Concert will be given at the Bow and Bromley Institute, Bow Railway Station, E., for the benefit of the Masonic Charitable Institutions. This promises to be a great success. Any brother wishing for tickets, or any information, should apply to the Treasurer, Bro. E. J. Moore P.M., 14 Oriental-street, Poplar, E., or to the Hon. Sec. Bro. C. Blain, Bromley-by-Bow, E. Special inducements are offered for the sale of tickets by allowing each brother who sells one guinea's worth to participate in a ballot for a Life Governorship. We hope to see a large amount handed over as the proceeds of this entertainment.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked by the Royal Union Lodge of Instruction, No. 382, on Wednesday, the 13th inst., at the Horse and Groom, Winsley-street, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon). Bro. I. L. Coulton P.M. 382 will preside. Bros. Ferguson P.M. S.D., C. W. Davis W.M. 382, J.W. The Lodge will be opened at seven o'clock. Brethren are invited to attend.

We are pleased to state that Bro. John Coutts P.G.P. is recovering from his severe indisposition.

NEW ZEALAND.

From files of the New Zealand Herald to hand this week we extract the following Masonic items:—

On 9th October, Brother Malcolm Niccol, Past Master of the Lodge St. Andrew, S.C., was presented by the brethren of the Lodge, at the Lodge room, Star Hotel, with a handsome Past Master's jewel, in recognition of his great services to the Lodge as Master and Past Master for several years. The presentation was made at the conclusion of the business by the Right Worshipful Master, William Charles Walker, who was assisted by Past Master's Dewar and Anderson. The jewel, which is a very handsome one, bears the following inscription:—"Presented to Brother Malcolm Niccol, P.M., by the officers and brethren of the St. Andrew's Lodge, 418, S.C., as a token of their appreciation of his services to the Lodge as its Right Worshipful Master, during the years 1874 and 1875. Auckland, May 31, 1876." Brother Niccol acknowledged the presentation in feeling and appropriate terms. During the evening, Brother P.M. Niccol proposed the health of the youngest member of the Lodge, Bro. Cornwall, of Samoa. In the place where Bro. Cornwall was resident, he would not at present have an opportunity of meeting with Masonic brethren in Lodge, there being no Lodge nearer than Fiji, which was nearly as far away from Samoa as Auckland. They would be always glad to see him, however, in Auckland, and he hoped the time would come when a Masonic Lodge would be constituted in the island of Samoa. Brother Cornwall said that he had long wished to become a Mason, and one of the principal objects of his present visit to Auckland was that he might be able to join a Lodge. It was pleasant to him to reflect that although he resided in a far distant island of the sea, he had friends in every quarter of the globe, and no doubt at some time a Masonic Lodge would be formed at Samoa.

The ceremony of installing Bro. Clayton W.M. of the Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 1338, took place at the Lodge-room, Star Hotel, on the 28th September. Bro. P.M. Leers acted as installing Master for the occasion, and conducted the ceremony in a most impressive manner. Bro. Clayton having been duly installed according to ancient form, proceeded to appoint the following officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. W. H. Skinner I.P.M., C. M. Nelson S.W., F. W. E. Dawson J.W., E. Browne Chaplain, W. H. Kissling P.M. Treasurer, M. S. Leers P.M. Secretary, R. C. Dyer S.D., W. Rattray J.D., G. N. Brassey P.M. Director of Ceremonies, C. T. Saxton Organist, J. H. Gossett I.G., C. Burton and W. S. Collins Stewards, C. Porter Tyler.

The inauguration of the Corinthian Lodge, a new Lodge under the English Constitution, at the Thames Goldfields, near Auckland, was announced to take place on the 16th November.

TRAFALGAR ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER OF NELSON, NEW ZEALAND, 157 S.C.

THE third annual meeting of the Trafalgar Royal Arch Chapter, for the election and installation of office-bearers for the ensuing year, was held on the 25th of September, in the Masonic Hall. Lodge being opened in due form, the election was proceeded with, and the choice fell upon the following Companions:— W. W. Squires Z., W. Holmes H., L. C. Boor J., W. B. Sealy P.Z., W. M. Stanton Scribe E., J. Hounsell Scribe N., W. Lightfoot Treasurer, J. C. Moutray First Sojourner, A. B. Jackson Second Sojourner, A. R. Oliver Third Sojourner.

These officers having been duly installed by First Principal W. B. Sealy, Comp. W. M. Stanton brought forward the annual report and balance-sheet, which showed that the funds of the Chapter were in a very satisfactory condition. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions re-assembled at eight o'clock to partake of an excellent supper, served by Comp. Tregea. Owing to the unavoidable absence of the First Principal elect, the chair was taken by Comp. Sealy, and, after ample justice had been done to the good things provided, the following toasts were drunk with musical and Masonic honours:—"Her Majesty the Queen," "The three Grand Principals of England, Ireland, and Scotland, coupled with the name of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales," "The Grand Superintendent, M. E. Comp. Caldwell, and District Grand Chapter of New Zealand," "The Canterbury Kilwinning Chapter, coupled with the health of M. E. Comp. Thiel," "The First Principal elect of the Trafalgar Royal Arch Chapter, Comp. Squires," who returned thanks; "The Past Principal of the Chapter." Comp. Sealy responded, and proposed the health of Comp. Stanton in an appropriate speech, which contained a graceful acknowledgment of his services in the founding and organizing of the Chapter, and of his duties in the capacity of 1st Scribe, to which office he was again re-elected. Companion Browning proposed "The Southern Star Lodge, 735 E.C.," coupled with the name of the W.M., Bro. Moutray, who responded in suitable terms. Several songs were well sung in the intervals between the toasts and addresses, and, after spending a most pleasant evening, the Companions parted in harmony.

Bro. Geo. Fredericks commenced his proprietorship of the Bedford, Camden Town, on the 6th inst. Bros. A. Trotman, late proprietor, and Bro. S. Adams presided during the evening, and a host of talent lent their valuable services. The hall was crowded by friends, who heartily wished Bro. Fredericks success in his new undertaking.

SOAP.—In our notice on this article last week, we should have referred to Pears's Transparent Soap, and not, as was inadvertently printed, to Pearce's, Messrs. Pears, of Great Russell-street, having been the inventors of the Transparent Soap so highly approved of by Professor Erasmus Wilson, and there being no such firm as Pearce in the manufacturing trade.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER TO BRO. JAMES JACKSON, P.M. 172.

AN interesting gathering took place at the Clarence Hotel, Aldersgate-street, on Thursday evening, the occasion being to commemorate the second anniversary of Bro. Jackson's tenancy of this old established house, which has been associated with many a Masonic gathering in the days of yore. The chair was taken by Bro. Herbert Rymill, of the Barbican Repository, who was supported by Mr. J. C. James as Vice-Chairman, while amongst the numerous company assembled we may mention Messrs. J. R. Roberton, J. Dawson, F. Noble, P. Fowler, S. G. Ashwin, T. Keene, F. Keene, F. Watson, Jones, E. Deale, J. Martin, R. M. Stollery, Gryspeerdt, C. Bird, J. Oliver, Biscoe, E. Chesterman, Wilkinson, Davis, Carter, Stollery jun., Roberton jun., Honnor, Edwards, Powell, Cuddeford, W. W. Morgan, &c.

The company assembled at six o'clock, and partook of a capital banquet. On the cloth being cleared, the chairman proposed "The health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family." This toast was followed by that of "The Army, the Navy, and the Reserve Forces," briefly replied to by Capt. Jones, who concluded his remarks by saying that the reserve forces would be ready should they ever be wanted. Mr. J. C. James then rose to propose "The Health of the Chairman of the Evening, Mr. Herbert Rymill." He referred to the thorough business qualifications of that gentleman, and to the kindness always evinced by him to all with whom he was associated. His consideration for those with whom he was surrounded had tended to render his business prosperous, and had made the every day work of life go on smoothly and satisfactorily to those who had dealings with his establishment. This toast was received most heartily, and after a song, capitally given by Mr. Edwards, Bro. Rymill replied, assuring the gentlemen around him that he fully appreciated the success that had attended his business relations with them, and that no effort should be wanting on his part to retain their good opinion.

After a musical performance by Bro. J. C. Bird, which was deservedly applauded, Bro. Rymill rose to propose the toast of the evening, viz.: "Health and Prosperity to their host, Mr. Jackson." In the course of his remarks the chairman spoke in highly eulogistic terms of our worthy Bro. Jackson, he mentioned that the course of events had not gone so prosperously with their friend as his well wishers could have desired, but he hoped that a brighter prospect was now dawning. This he could say,—that Bro. Jackson appeared before them that evening with a smile on his face, and this was very different to the condition he had found him in a few years since. He sincerely hoped business would prosper, and that both Mr. and Mrs. Jackson might never regret the step taken by them in connecting themselves with the Clarence. This toast was feelingly replied to by Bro. Jackson. The toast of the Vice-Chairman was then given, and followed by several others. A capital stump speech was delivered by Bro. Keene, while the vocal abilities of Messrs. Bird, Stollery, Edwards, Dawson, Morgan, &c., enlivened the proceedings. The company separated after spending a very enjoyable evening.

The report and balance sheet of "the Tranquillity and Confidence Masonic Charitable Association" has reached us. From it we learn that since its establishment there have been 80 members enrolled, of this number ten withdrew. The Life Governorships resulting from the monthly payments to the Association were distributed as follows, viz.: 30 to the Benevolent Institution, 25 to the Girls' School, and 15 to the Boys' School. By this means, therefore, we have had upwards of £700 contributed to the Institutions since 1872. The expenses attending the collection and management are remarkably low, amounting during the four years to £6 8s 6d, or less than 1 per cent. on the amount contributed. Thirty Stewardships were undertaken by the members of this Association, thus aggregating the sum of £2,509 12s for the three Masonic Charities. The name of Bro. Constable, Hon. Secretary, is sufficient to evince to the brethren that the work has been done with pleasure. We congratulate him on the successful termination of his labours. Those of our brethren who have not yet enrolled their names on any of the Associations established would do well to follow the advice of the Committee of the Tranquillity and Confidence Association, who:—

"Earnestly invite those who are not already Life Governors of the Masonic Institutions, either to join or establish kindred Associations feeling confident that with the increased numerical strength of the brotherhood there is ample room for many more, both in London and the Provinces, and from their experience of the successful working of this Association, cordially recommending them to all who are desirous of obtaining a Life Governorship, so that there may not be a brother but will be able to say he is a Governor, if not of all at least of one of our noble Institutions."

We are sure Bro. Constable will be only too pleased to give any information he can as to the establishment of such Associations, and we commend to our Provincial brethren this means of becoming Life Governors.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF ARMAGH.

PURSUANT to notice, the quarterly meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Armagh, which embraces the counties of Armagh, Louth, and Monaghan, took place at the Tontine Rooms on 30th November, under the presidency of the Right Worshipful Brother Maxwell Close, M.P., Provincial Grand Master, and representative in Ireland of the United Grand Lodge of England, supported by Brother John G. Winder J.P., Deputy Grand Master of the Province. The various Lodges of the Province were fairly represented, although the representatives in many instances travelled long distances in cold, raw weather—Bros. Thomas A. Young, of Monaghan, V.W.G.S.W., James Whitla V.W.G.J.W., H. H. Handcock W.G. Treasurer, J. J. Hesse W.G. Secretary, &c., &c.

After confirming the minutes of the last meeting, held at Dundalk, and transacting the routine business, a Committee of seven brethren, selected from the entire Province, were appointed to carry out preliminaries, and report progress of the formation of a Masonic Library, after which the new officers were duly installed by the Grand Master, in his usual courteous and efficient manner, to the following offices, viz.:—Bro. George H. Smith V.W.G.S.W. 299 Armagh, William Shimeld V.W.G.J.W. 384 Dundalk, A. K. Young W.G.S.D. 223 Monaghan, A. Marchis W.G.J.D. 24 Lurgan, H. H. Handcock, Armagh, P.G. Treasurer, James Hesse, Dundalk, P.G. Secretary, Rev. Augustine Young, Monaghan, P.G. Chaplain, Arthur Nelson, Armagh, P.G. Organist, and Dr. F. E. Clarke, Drogheda, G.P. Inner Guard; Bros. Richard Harvey, Drogheda, and Hugh Leonard, Dublin, as Representatives of the Board of General Purposes at the Grand Lodge of Ireland; and R. Turner 39, Armagh, and James Hesse 384, Dundalk, as Representatives on Board of Instruction; after which the Lodge adjourned to Clones, county Monaghan. Subsequently the brethren dined together at the Beresford Arms Hotel,

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentay to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We most sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire.—Figaro.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Queen, who will shortly quit Windsor Castle in order to spend Chrismas at Osborne, entertained the gallant Arctic voyager Captain Nares, R.N., as her guest at dinner on Friday last. Captain Nares slept at the Castle, and left early on Saturday morning. Her Majesty has also been pleased to appoint him an extraordinary member of the second class of Knights Commander of the Order of the Bath, as a further mark of her gracious appreciation of his services.

As announced last week, the thirty-second birthday of the Princess of Wales was celebrated on Friday the 1st instant, with the usual festivities. The Prince and Princess also gave a ball to the principal tenants on the Sandringham and neighbouring estates, while the children of the various schools in and around the neighbourhood had their tea in the Royal Mews in the afternoon. At King's Lynn the occasion was duly honoured, the children of the Lynn Union being entertained with a substantial tea at Her Royal Highness's cost. The town was extensively decorated with flags, and the church bells rang out merrily during the day. Nor was Windsor behindhand in its rejoicings. The Royal Standard was hoisted at the Guildhall, and the inhabitants decorated their houses and streets with profusion, regulated by taste. A Royal salute was also fired from the the artillery on the Long Walk.

There was a full attendance at Grand Lodge on Wednesday, Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy Grand Master, presiding. On the proposition, duly seconded, of Bro. Gould, W.M. of the Moira Lodge, 92, his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales was again chosen Grand Master for the ensuing year. Bro. Clabon was then re-appointed President of the Lodge of Benevolence, and Bros. Joshua Nunn and James Brett Senior and Junior Vice-Presidents respectively. The other business having been disposed of, Bro. Binckes' motion, to the effect that £6,000 should be distributed in equal shares among the three Masonic charities, in commemoration of the Grand Master's visit to India, came before Grand Lodge. It was ruled that, until the report of the Special Committee had been received, no proposition of any kind could be entertained. When, however, such report came under discussion, it would be competent for Bro. Binckes or any other member of Grand Lodge to submit an alternative motion by way of amendment. The proceedings then came to an end, and the members separated, after the usual formalities had been satisfied.

tion accorded them. Since the banquet to the men given on Thursday last, by the town of Portsmouth, they have been entertained at the Mansion House by the Lord Mayor. The gallant fellows thoroughly enjoyed themselves, while his Lordship proved a thoroughly genial host, entering into the spirit of the somewhat novel entertainment with a heartiness which did him infinite credit. Indeed, the Lords of the Admiralty are so pleased with this exhibition of his Lordship's hospitality, they have directed a most cordial letter of thanks to be sent to him, expressing their deep sense of his very great kindness.

The great attraction of the week has been the Smithfield Club Cattle Show at the Agricultural Hall, Islington. In quality and numbers, but especially in the former, the entries this year are greatly in excess of last, the numbers being 456 against 395, thus distributed: — Cattle 242 against 186; sheep 153 against 162; and pigs 61 against 46. It will be seen there is a slight falling off in sheep, but the quality is exceptionally good, and the lambs are so great a success, that we may reckon, perhaps, on their becoming a permanent feature of the Show. The Champion Plate of £100 for the finest beast in all the classes was awarded to a splendid Devon ox, exhibited by Mr. S. Kidner, of Bickley Farm, Milverton. This animal had already carried off the first prize in its class, as well as the silver breed cup of £40, and the £50 silver cup for the best steer or ox of any breed. The other silver breed cups were awarded as follow: Hereford, to Mr. T. Fenn; shorthorn, to Mr. J. Stratton; Sussex, Captain W. Taylor; Scotch, to Mr. W. McCombie; Cross-bred or other than the above breeds, to Mr. J. Reid. Mr. J. Stratton also secured the silver cup for the best heifer or cow of any breed. Lord Walsingham was awarded the Champion Plate for the best pen of three in the sheep classes, his pen having previously secured for him the breed cup in the Southdowns, and the first prize in its class. Messrs. J. T. Homer, C. M'Niven, and T. C. Baker were severally adjudged the breed cups in the different breeds of pigs. Among the other prize-winners were the Queen and the Prince of Wales. There was a large and excellent display of all kinds of agricultural implements. The Show was open to the public on Monday at 1 p.m., and as it was known that His Royal Highness, who is president of the club would come up specially from Sandringham to inspect the show and preside at the Board meeting, the throng of visitors was considerably above the average. The Prince was greeted on his arrival, punctually, at 3.30 p.m., in the Hall, and at his departure, with the greatest enthusiasm. In his capacity of President he presented Mr. Brandreth Gibbs, who has held the post of honorary Secretary for over three-and-thirty years, with a very handsome testimonial on vellum, enclosed in a richly mounted box of Coromandel-wood, in token of "the valuable and efficient services" he had rendered to the Club for so many years. Mr. Gibbs having suitably acknowledged the gift, the Prince and the distinguished guests who had accompanied him left the Hall. The show closed yesterday, and, according to all accounts, the attendance of visitors has been in every respect satisfactory, though it must be confessed the weather has not been the most attractive.

Lord Salisbury has reached Constantinople, where he was received, on landing, by our ambassador, Sir Henry Elliott. He has had interviews with the Grand Vizier, the Turkish Foreign Minister, and the various ambassadors. It is expected that the Conference will hold its first sitting to-day. As regards the general aspect of affairs, there is little additional to record of any special interest, save that Prince Bismarck has delivered a speech in the German Reichstag, in which he pointed out the course that Germany would follow. His remarks have been commented upon freely, some critics regarding them favourably, as tending to promote the interests of peace, while others consider he has merely given additional encouragement to Russia to persist in her designs. But Prince Bismarck is not a statesman born only yesterday. There are few men so capable as he of concealing his real intentions under a mass of verbiage, which sounds well, but yet may be interpreted differently by different people. He can be oracular or confidential, as the whim of the moment or circumstances incline him. We must wait some time yet ere it will be possible, either to indulge any reasonable hope of a peaceful issue from the present complication, or resign ourselves, as best we may, to contemplate the horrors of a local, and the dangers of a general, European war. We can but hope and believe, in the meantime, that Lord Salisbury's efforts will be so backed up by the representatives of the other Powers that the outcome of all these diplomatic conferences and pourparlers will be an honourable and enduring peace.

There has been a Ministerial crisis in Paris, the result of which is not yet known; and another in Greece, which King George has not yet succeeded in arranging. From the United States we hear that the Republican candidate for the Presidency has been declared elected by the Returning Boards in South Carolina and Florida. Lastly, it is with great regret we announce that a terrible calamity has befallen Brooklyn, the theatre of which was burned down on Tuesday. It is estimated that between 200 and 300 persons have perished.

No. 138

To all & every our Right Worshipful Worshipful & loving brethren we Francis Rawdon Hastings Earl Moira &c. &c. &c. acting G.M. under the authority of His Royal Highness George Augustus Frederick Prince of Wales &c. &c. &c. G.M. of the most Antient & Honorable Society of Free & Accepted Masons send greeting

Whereas it appears by the records of our Grand Lodge that on the 8th day of March 1758 a Warrant of Constitution was granted in due form under the seals of Masonry to several Master Masons residing in the city of Bristol for the purpose of holding a Lodge of this most antient & honorable Society at the Bell in Broad-street Bristol which was then numbered in the list of Lodges 233 but by subsequent alteration of the numbers is now become 138 That the said Lodge was from thence removed to the sign of the One Pound One in Small-street, from thence to a house on the Quay from thence to a house in King's Head-court from thence to a house in Currant-lane from thence to the Shakespeare in Prince-street & lastly to the Cornish Mount on the Quay Bristol & whereas it has been represented to us by our right trusty & well beloved brethren Joshua Spinger, John Whittingham, William Davies, Walter Ellis, Thomas Cook, & Joseph Sanders & several other brethren of the said Lodge that the said constitution has been lost or destroyed owing to the last mentioned house in which the said Lodge was held having been consumed by fire that they are very desirous for the prosperity of the craft & therefore humbly request to be recognised or acknowledged as a regular Lodge notwithstanding the loss of their constitution & to retain the same number order & rank on the records of the Grand Lodge as they heretofore enjoyed by virtue of the above mentioned constitution.

Now know ye that we having taken the premises into consideration & being satisfied of the propriety of their above mentioned request have & do hereby confirm the said brethren as a regular Lodge of Free & Accepted Masons to be now held at the Cornish Mount on the Quay Bristol aforesaid the said house being rebuilt with every right & privilege they might & could enjoy by virtue of the above mentioned constitution.

Given under our hand & the seal of Masonry this 7th day of May A.L. 5800 A.D. 1800.

We Prince Augustus Frederick of Brunswick Lunenburgh, Duke of Sussex, Earl of Inverness, Baron of Arklow, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter &c. &c. &c. Grand Master of the Ancient & Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of England

Send Greeting No. 95

Whereas, it appears by the records of the Grand Lodge that a warrant bearing date 24th September 1772 was issued under the seal of Masonry enabling certain brethren therein named to open & hold a Lodge of Free Masons at a private room in Shaffield, which Lodge was then No. 72, and which by consent of Grand Master was on the 14th day of September 1807 removed to Bristol; and by the alteration of the numbers, in consequence of the union of the Fraternities of Masonry on 27th December 1813, it became & is now registered in the books of the United Grand Lodge 95, and subsequently by special permission granted by the Most Worshipful Grand Master it assumed & took the title of the Royal Clarence Lodge of Mariners, and is now held at the Freemasons' Hall Bridge-street Bristol. And whereas the brethren comprising the said Lodge having by their memorial represented to us that the said warrant is destroyed, & they have prayed us to grant them a warrant of confirmation.

Now know ye that we being satisfied of the reasonableness of the said request do hereby grant this our warrant of confirmation unto our right trusty & well beloved brethren John Adolphus Stansbury, Robert Slade, James Clift, George Hill, Wintour Harris, William Shaw, John Carter & John Hipwood & the other brethren comprising the said Lodge, authorising & empowering them & their successors to assemble & hold a Lodge of Free & Accepted Masons of England, under the title or denomination of the Royal Clarence Lodge of Mariners, at such times as to the brethren thereof may appear necessary, & then & there when duly congregated to make pass & raise Freemasons according to the ancient customs of the craft in all ages and nations throughout the known world. And further, at the petition of the said brethren, we do appoint the said John Adolphus Stansbury to be the Master, the said John Carter S.W. & the said John Hipwood J.W. for opening & holding the said Lodge, & until such time as another Master shall be regularly elected & installed, especially charging that every member who shall be elected to preside over the said Lodge shall be installed in ancient form & according to the laws of the Grand Lodge, that he may thereby be fully invested with the dignities & powers of his office. The said Lodge to be upon the general register of Grand Lodge No. 95; and we do require you the said John Adolphus Stansbury & your successors to take especial care that all & every the said brethren are & have been regularly made Masons, & that you & they & all other the members of the said Lodge do observe perform & keep the laws rules & orders contained in the Book of Constitutions, & all others that may from time to time be made by our Grand Lodge or transmitted by us or our successors Grand Masters, or by our Deputy Grand Masters for the time being & we do require you to make such bye-laws for the government of your Lodge as shall to the majority of the members appear proper & necessary, the same not being contrary to or inconsistent with the several laws & regulations of the craft, & a copy whereof you are to transmit to us. And we do require you to cause all such bye-laws & regulations, & an account of the proceedings in your Lodge to be entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, & you are in no wise to omit to send to us or our successors Grand Masters, or to the Right Honorable Lawrence Lord Dundas our D.G.M. or to the D.G.M. for the time being, at least once in every year a list of the members of your Lodge & names & descriptions of all Masons initiated therein & brethren who shall have joined the same, together with the fees & monies payable thereon, it being our will & intention that this our warrant of confirmation shall be in force so long as you shall conform to the laws & regulations of our Grand Lodge.

And you the said John Adolphus Stansbury are further required as soon as conveniently may be to send to us an account in writing of what may be done by virtue of these presents.

William H. White, Edward Harper } G.S.

How a Plum-pudding was made in Paris.—Most of our readers have heard of a famous attempt to make a real English plum-pudding in Paris, and how it failed, in spite of all the art of all the King's cooks, because they were not told to tie the materials in a cloth! Dr. Schomberg, of Reading, in the early part of his life, spent a Christmas at Paris with some English friends. They were desirous to celebrate the season, in the manner of their own country, by having as one dish at their table an English plum-pudding; but no cook was found equal to the task of compounding it. A clergyman of the party had, indeed, an old recipe-book; but this did not sufficiently explain the process. Dr. Schomberg, however, supplied all that was wanting by throwing the recipe into the form of a prescription, and sending it to the apothecary to be made up. To prevent all possibility of error, he directed that it should be boiled in a cloth, and sent in the same cloth, to be applied at an hour specified. At this hour it arrived, borne by the apothecary's assistant, and preceded by the apothecary himself, dressed, according to the professional formality of the time, with a sword. Seeing, when he entered the apartment, instead of signs of sickness, a table well filled and surrounded by very merry faces, he perceived that he was made a party in a joke that turned on himself, and indignantly laid his hand on his sword; but an invitation to taste his own cookery appeased him, and all was well.—Leisure Hour.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Royal York Lodge of Perseverance, No. 7.—This Lodge, one of the oldest on the roll of Grand Lodge of England, held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 6th instant, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street W.C. Bro. Geo. Johnston presided, and was supported by his officers. Amongst the P.M.'s present were Bros. John Hervey G. Sec., F. Adlard, Mansfield, R. E. K. Wilkinson, &c. After the confirmation of the minutes, the election of Worshipful Master for the ensuing year took place, and resulted in the unanimous appointment of Bro. Sewell S.W. Bro. P.M. Adlard was re-elected (for the twenty-first time) to the office of Treasurer, and Bro. Gilbert was re-appointed Tyler.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—This Chapter met as usual on Tuesday last, at the Jamaica Coffee-house, Cornhill, but the attendance was meagre in the extreme. We regret this exceedingly, more particularly when we find officers at their regular chapter meetings incapable of performing their duties. The chapter was opened under the guidance of Comps. Dr. Bedolfe Z., J. Constable H., P. Wagner J., Major Finning N., E. S. Norris Assistant Scribe E., T. Griffiths P.M. 907 P.S. The M.E.Z. rehearsed the ceremony of exaltation, Comp. Medwin acting as candidate. This completed the business of the meeting. Companion Boyd was unavoidably absent, consequently classes were not worked. There were present the following members:—Bros. G. K. Lemann, Geo. J. Row, John Sees. The Chapter meets every Tuesday at 6.30 p.m.

St. Paul's Lodge, No. 43, Warwickshire.—The regular meeting of the above was held on the 27th ult., at Masonic Hall, New-street, Birmingham. Bro. John Moore I.P.M., in the absence of the W.M., occupied the chair. He was supported by Bros. M. Rotchild S.W., Smeaur J.W., Solomons Sec., Spiers as S.D., Liebless as J.D., M. Davis as I.G., and P.M.'s Blankensee P.P.G.S.D., and M. Joseph. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. One brother was passed to the 2nd degree. A letter was received from the W.M., regretting his absence, owing to illness in his family. The Lodge was then closed. A very capital banquet followed. The acting W.M. gave the usual toasts, both Loyal and Masonic, Bros. Blankensee, Rotchild, and Dr. West contributing some excellent harmony. The visitors were Bros. Dr. West P.M. and S. M. Harris, No. 406.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.—Held its meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on Tuesday, 5th December. The officers were Bros. Parker W.M., Sayer S.W., Daniel J.W., Maidwell S.D., Holtham I.G.; Hollands, Ellis, &c.. The Lodge was opened in due form, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Parker, a young Mason, worked the ceremony of initiation, for the first time, exceedingly well, and a vote of thanks was recorded on the minutes to that effect. Bro. Hollands rehearsed the 2nd and 3rd degrees. Bro. Sayer was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. In the absence of the Preceptor, Bro. Ellis acted in that capacity, and a profitable and instructive evening was spent.

Lodge Union and Crown, No. 103.—The installation meeting was held on 27th November, at 130 Hope-street, Glasgow. Bro. A. Bain P.M., after transacting the usual business, which included a special vote of thanks to the Secretary and Treasurer, for the excellent style of their book keeping, proceeded to instal the Officers, in that quiet but impressive manner that distinguishes all his working. David Murray R.W.M. (re-elected), Andrew Muir Wright I.P.M., Robert Munroe D.M., John McFarlane S.M., William Thomas S.W. (re-elected), Wm. Forsyth (re-elected), Neil Cameron Treasurer (re-elected), James Gilles P.M., Sec. (re-elected), A. Gray S.D., G. Patterson J.D., Rev. J. C. Stewart, Chaplain (re-elected), Peter Cullen B.B., P. Cameron, J. C. Robinson P.G.S., John Derry S.S., T. Arthur J.S., J. G. Allen M., Jas. Gray I.G., and Wm. Mc Allynch Tyler. After the R.W.M. had returned thanks for the confidence reposed in him; he again urged on the brethren the necessity of each one feeling a direct interest in the welfare of the Lodge, to see that only good men were brought into the Order, that to keep up the dignity of the Lodge the annual fees should be raised, by this means they would be enabled to display that charity which should be their distinguishing characteristic. Charity in its double form characterises brotherly love as well as relief, and on this point he would call their attention to the case of their old Tyler. They had elected a new one—but he hoped they would not forget to render the last days of their old servant comfortable. On a motion, it was afterwards agreed to petition the Benevolent Fund on Bro. Boyd's behalf, and in addition the Lodge voted him 6s per week for the remainder of his days. The Lodge then went to refreshment, and was ably presided over. Bros. McKie P.M., Kavau, Forsyth, Thomas, Banks, Murray, Gilles and others, contributed to the harmony. Bro. Nevil, of Star 219, responded on behalf of the visitors, of whom there were twenty present. In replying to the toast of "Prosperity to the Lodge," the R.W.M. said, Founded as they were in 1766, they had seen times of depression as well as prosperity, indeed, at one time it was for several years dormant, but for the last fifteen years its course had been uniformly upward, this he attributed to the good work of his predecessors in office, and now they were honoured by having two of their P.M.'s P.G. Officers, one of them holding the onerous post of P.G. Treasurer. Bro. J. Gilles responded to the toast of the P.G.L. Bro. Thomas and Forsyth for the office bearers of the Lodge. The final toast sent all home well pleased with the time spent at the Union and Crown.

Hillhall Lodge, No. 121.—This flourishing Lodge held its monthly communication on the 25th ult., in the house of Bro. Samuel Rainey, Hillhall. A very large number of the brethren were present. The Lodge having been opened in due form, in the first degree, the following brethren were elected office-bearers for the ensuing year:—William John Rainey W.M., Wm. A. M'Clean S.W., George Greenfield J.W., Scott Crone Secretary, Wm. Rainey Treasurer, M'Millen S.D., Henry M'Kearney J.D., Samuel Rainey jun. I.G. After the ordinary business had been transacted, the Lodge closed in ancient form and adjourned. Refreshments having been served, the usual toasts were given by Bro. John Keatly W.M., and responded to in the customary manner of the Craft. Bros. David Clarke P.M. and John Forsythe P.M. entertained the brethren with some good songs. The brethren afterwards separated, highly delighted with the evening. Visiting brethren James M'Carrison and Robert M'Gee 811 were present.

Marquis of Granby Lodge, No. 124.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Tuesday, the 5th of December, at the Masonic Hall, Old Elvet, Durham. Present—Bros. George Johnston W.M., John Sewell S.W., Samuel Fenny J.W., William Coxon P.M. 1274 Sec., George Bailis Treas., Harry Gill S.D., Thomas Bell as J.D., William C. Blackett P.M. D.C., William Malcolm P.M. Steward, Joseph Walker P. Prov. Org. as I.G., John Carter Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. George Greenwell I.P.M., H. Laurence, W. Brignall jun. Visitors—Bros. Thos. Shepherd 302, T. R. Richardson, M. Richardson, W. J. Brown 541, I. G. Holt. Messrs. William Robertson and John Carr were initiated. Bros. Harry Ernest Hughes and William Iveson were passed. The election of W.M. then took place, when Bro. John Sewell S.W. was unanimously chosen. Bro. George Bailes was appointed Treasurer, Bro. John Carter Tyler, in each case the election being unanimous. The W.M. appointed Tuesday, 19th December, for holding the Festival of St. John the Evangelist. Propositions for two gentlemen to join the Order were then handed in, and the Lodge closed in due form.

Lodge of Good Fellowship, No. 176.—At the monthly meeting of the members of this Lodge, on the evening of Thursday, the 30th ult., Bro. E. Robbins was unanimously elected W.M. for the year ensuing; and Bro. F. Whitmore P.M. was also unanimously re-elected Treasurer. Other Lodge business was transacted, and the brethren afterwards passed a pleasant evening. On the following day an application was made to the magistrates for the use of the Grand Jury-room at the Shire Hall, Chelmsford, for the annual meeting of the Lodge, to instal the new W.M., where it has been held for some years past; but the chairman of the bench (Mr. Kemble) said a resolution and order of the Court of Quarter Sessions now defined for what purposes the use of the room might be granted, and the object of this application did not come within that rule. They were thus compelled to refuse it.

Caveac Chapter, No. 176.—On Saturday, 25th November, at the Albion, Aldersgate-street, City, the regular convocation was held. There were present Comps. W. S. Wyman M.E.Z., J. B. Sorrell J., G. K. Lemann H., and other officers. Bro. Charles Graham, 1326 and 1540 Lodges, was exalted. The elections resulted in Comps. G. K. Lemann being elected Z., J. B. Sorrell H., W. M. Goss J., F. Walters P.Z. Treas., R. P. Hooton S.E., S. Pownceby S.N., R. P. Tebb P.S., and C. T. Speight Janitor. G. K. Lemann P.Z. was inducted into the M.E.Z.'s chair. He installed J. B. Sorrell H., W. M. Goss J. He invested with the robe, collar, and jewel of office as his officers, Comps. F. Walters P.Z. Treasurer (re-invested 10th time), R. P. Hooton S.E., S. Pownceby S.N., R. P. Tebb P.S., who appointed and invested Comps. A. Williams 1st A.S., C. Browne 2nd A.S. The M.E.Z. appointed H. Faija D.C., A. Middlemass W.S., C. T. Speight Janitor (re-invested 10th time). A splendid P.Z.'s jewel was presented to Comp. W. S. Wyman P.Z., for his exertions in doing the work of the past year, which had been unanimously voted to him from the Chapter funds at a previous meeting. Comp. R. P. Hooton S.E. was unanimously elected as Steward, to represent this Chapter at the Royal Benevolent Institution for Male and Female Annuitants. The work rendered by every officer was done in an admirable manner. Comp. G. K. Lemann particularly distinguished himself in doing the installations in a careful, correct style. Business ended, the Chapter was closed. There were present Comps. C. T. Dorey P.Z., P. A. Nairne P.Z., M. Scott P.Z., R. S. Foreman P.Z., W. T. Lover, R. Griggs, W. Jameson, J. H. Dodson, J. B. Sorrell jun., F. Pertwee, and others. Visitors—Comps. H. Garrod P.Z. 507, Vockins J. 1329, Stacey P.Z., &c.

Lodge of Joppa, No. 188.—The regular meeting was held on Monday, 4th inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, and, being the election night, a great number of the brethren were present. The W.M., Bro. A. G. Dodson, occupied the Chair. Bros. L. Lazarus S.W., Miller J.W., A. Anerhaan Treas., E. P. Albert G.P. Sec., M. Spiegel J.D., H. Hymans I.G., Campion D.C., H. P. Isaac Steward, P. E. Van Noorden Org., and P.M.'s Bros. S. Hickman, L. Alexander, Israel Abrahams, H. M. Levy, O. Roberts, Joel Phillips, M. Alexander. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Morse was raised. The election for W.M. then took place, and was unanimously in favour of Bro. L. Lazarus S.W. The W.M. bore testimony to his aptitude for the office, and to the admirable manner he had filled every place in the Lodge. Bro. L. Anerhaan was re-elected Treas. Bro. Woodstock P.M. was elected Tyler. Bros. A. Anerhaan, M. Spiegel, J. S. Lyons, H. Hymans, L. M. Myers and S. Davis were elected on the Committee of Management. Bros. S. Hickman P.M., O. Roberts P.M., and A. Anerhaan were elected Trustees of the Benevolent Fund. The committee and auditors of the Benevolent Fund were elected, and a sum of £5 5s was voted on the list of Bro. H. M. Levy, representing the Lodge as Steward for the R.M.B. Institution. The widow of a deceased brother was relieved with the sum of two guineas. Seven propositions for initiation were handed in, and it was intimated that a Lodge of Emergency would be held previous to the installation meeting. Bro. S. Hickman P.M. proposed that a sum of five guineas be voted from the Lodge, to form a nucleus for the purpose of presenting the W.M. with a suitable testimonial on his retiring from office. The following notice of motion was given by Bro. M. Spiegel S.D. :—"That the Lodge of Joppa co-operate with other Lodges to petition Grand Lodge respecting the non-admission of members of the Hebrew Faith in Lodges in Germany. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of slight refreshments. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, Bro. E. P. Albert replied for the Grand officers. The toast of "The W.M. elect" was received with applause, the W.M. saying that the members could not have made a better selection. Bro. L. Lazarus briefly and appropriately returned thanks. Bro. L. Alexander P.M., President of the Benevolent Fund, responded to that toast, and informed the brethren the sum had nearly reached £1,200. When the necessities of a brother required aid, it was given liberally, and in some cases £100 had been given; this had enabled many brethren to resume their positions. Amidst great cheering he announced the following donations:—Bros. S. Davis 21s, qualifying him to become a V.P., L. M. Myers 21s, Israel Abrahams P.M., in the name of Bros. A. 21s, Morse 21s, Reibold 21s, Shuter C.C. 21s, Burdon 10s 6d, J. S. Lyon 10s 6d, A. Van Velen 10s 6d, M. D. Hyman 10s 6d, Mrs. Hyman 10s 6d, Mrs. Heilbuth 10s, and H. P. Isaac £3 3s, to constitute him a V.P. Bro. Hickman I.P.M. proposed the toast of "The W.M.," and spoke of his excellent working, and the able manner he had discharged the duties of his office. Bro. J. E. Walford P.M. 177, C.C., returned thanks for the visitors in a very excellent speech. The toasts of "The Wardens," "Junior Officers," and "The Tyler" concluded a very enjoyable evening, the W.M., Bros. Benjamin, Baum, Clark, and Myers contributed some very excellent harmony.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge met on Wednesday the 6th inst., at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons' Avenue, Coleman-street, E.C. Bro. Tollis in the chair. Bros. Croaker S.W., Walker J.W., Abell as Sec., John Constable P.M. Treas., Fenner S.D., Staley J.D., Lay I.G., E. Gotthell P.M. Preceptor, &c. The first ceremony was very ably rehearsed by Bro. Tollis, after which three of the sections were worked. This being his first attempt to work a ceremony, a cordial vote of thanks to the W.M. was proposed, and unanimously carried. Six visitors were present, four of whom were enrolled members of the Lodge. Before the closing of the Lodge, Bro. Constable said: Brethren, You are all aware of the absence of our respected Secretary, Bro. J. K. Pitt. The reason of his non-appearance is that, in the bosom of his family, he is this day celebrating his fiftieth anniversary. I am sure you will all join with me in wishing him every happiness, and many years of life to enjoy such; and, as an expression of our fraternal feeling towards him, I beg to propose that a vote of congratulation be recorded on our minutes, which will also mark the high esteem in which he is held by this Lodge. The proposition was seconded by Bro. I. P. Cohen, who concurred in all that had fallen from the proposer. The motion was carried with great applause. It was announced that the second of the series of Lectures would be given on the 20th inst. Bro. F. Croaker will occupy the chair next Wednesday.

York Lodge, No. 236.—At the regular meeting of this Lodge, held on Monday, 4th Dec., Bro. Wm. Cowling P.M. was elected to the chair of the Lodge for the coming year—being the centenary year of the Lodge. Bro. Wm. Lawton P.M. was at the same time elected to the post of Treasurer. Between forty and fifty brethren were present.

Alfred Lodge, No. 306.—This Lodge held its annual meeting for the installation of Master, on Friday, the 1st December, at the Masonic Hall, Kelsall-street, Leeds. Present—Bros. J. C. Malcolm W.M., E. W. Barker S.W., F. Dunsford as J.W., John Bell jun. Secretary, Thomas Schofield P.M. Treasurer, E. Appleby as S.D., W. J. Boocr J.D., G. H. Stallard I.G., R. Sterling Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. F. J. Fox, C. H. Hoppe, T. E. Seanor, Samuel Freeman P.P.G.D. Visitors—Bros. J. Denton P.P.G.D.C., W. Fleming P.M. 1211 and many others. Business—Bro. John Dolby was duly installed according to ancient custom, the ceremony being performed by W. Bro. T. Schofield P.M. P.P.G.D. of West Yorks, in his usually impressive style. After the ceremony, the brethren adjourned to the Great Northern Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was provided. The customary toasts were drunk, and a pleasant evening spent. The following brethren were invested as officers for the coming year:—Bros. J. Bell jun. S.W., F. Dunsford J.W., T. Schofield P.P.G.D. Treasurer, E. Appleby Secretary, W. J. Booer S.D., G. H. Stallard J.D., A. Austin I.G.; Bro. J. C. Malcolm I.P.M. as representative of the Lodge on the Provincial Charity Committee.

Commercial Lodge, No. 360.—The 25th anniversary of this Lodge was celebrated by the members dining together at the Blythswood Hotel, under the presidency of Bros. J. Munro R.W.M., J. M'Oliver, and W. Findley Croupiers. After full justice had been done to the catering of Bro. Leary, the brethren adjourned across the road to their own hall, where Bro. Munro proceeded to open his Lodge. Bro. Findley S.W., in the absence, through illness, of the J.W., his chair was taken by Bro. Oliver D.M. On the dais were five P.M.'s—Bros. John Davidson, Allan Mackenzie, J. Wallace, Julius Brodie, and the I.P.M., Dr. Morton, P.G.J.W. of the Province. The Master was also supported by F. A. Barrow D.P.G.M., and Bro. McMaster R.W.M. of Greenock, St. John's 175, James Colquhoun S.M. Amongst the other visitors we recognised W. C. Scobo, Mother Kilwinning, J. Brownlie J.W. 3 bis, G. W. Wheeler 73 and acting P.M. 153, P.G.J.W. Renfrewshire East. Letters of apology were read from H. Inglis of Torsonce S.G.M. of Scotland, D. Murray Lyon of Ayr P.G.M. for India, and T. Baird S.P.G.M. Glasgow. The Lodge was then called for refreshment. The toast of "The Queen and the Craft" being given, the National Anthem was sung with that effect that the musical department of No. 360 is celebrated for. After the "Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family," Bro. Grunow sang "God Bless the Prince of Wales." The three Grand Lodges were next honoured. P.M. J. Brodie then gave the "Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow," highly eulogising the work they had done, and the example they had set to the other provinces in Scotland. Bro. Barrow D.P.G.M., in the course of a lengthy reply, said he was glad to find their labours acknowledged in so influential a Lodge as the Commercial. He had known that Lodge in its young days. It was nearly twenty years since he first visited them, on their taking a hall in Croy-place, since which time he had been an honorary member. Bro. Davidson, then P.M., had filled the office of P.G.J.W. and S.W., and he was glad to know that their I.P.M., Dr. Martin, had just been appointed as P.G.J.W. During the twenty years that he had himself been connected with their Prov. G.L., their labours had not been light. They found Freemasonry at a very low ebb, holding its meetings in public-houses, perhaps because in those days it was not easy to get good halls. Now he was glad to say there was not a Lodge in the province that met in a public house. Still their labours were not light; the numbers of the Lodges to superintend had doubled, and, owing to the continued illness of their respected Provincial Master, the greater part of the work devolved on him. The work called, not only for a deal of energy, but also for a deal of patience and forbearance; but he was glad to say that they had never had a single case of dispute between the Lodge Commercial and any of its members to settle. The change was a marked one. This Lodge had a hall of its own, where we are now assembled; it was a perfect little gem in its way, and good surroundings help to make good members. By the help of this Lodge and others like it the tone of Masonry, not only in the Province, but throughout Scotland, had been elevated. (Cheers). Bro. Barrow again rose, to propose Prosperity to Lodge Commercial, and her Master, paying to the Lodge and the Master some well merited compliments. Bro. Munro expressed the pleasure he felt, not only in presiding on this occasion, but also at receiving such encomiums from so distinguished and experienced a Mason as Bro. Barrow, who, without doubt, had done more to elevate Masonry than any other brother in the Province, and he might add even in all Scotland, for the Craft at large had taken an example from the P.G.L. of Glasgow. To-night they were celebrating an epoch in their history; they had existed for a quarter of a century, and though he was tempted to enlarge on such a theme, as they had Past Masters present who were at the formation of the Lodge he would leave that pleasant duty to them. Bro. D. Lamb then proposed the P.M.'s of the Lodge. Bro. J. Davidson, one of the founders, who had filled the chair from 1855 to 1858, and again for the years 1868 and 1869 then gave a lengthy, but interesting history of the Lodge from its formation to the present time. Like a good many of the brethren, it had seen its ups and downs; when he took to the chair it had been closed for two years, its whole possessions were its charter, the Bible, twenty-four aprons and the gavels; now they had opened a Hall of their own. (Cheers). Bro. Brodie gave the Wardens and other Officers. Bro. J. M. Oliver replied, saying the officers had been praised for their efficiency, but with such a Master and the aid of the P.M.'s it would be a shame if they were not proficient. P.M. McKenzie gave the Visitors. Bro. McAlister, Greenock, St. John, responded; he had at different times filled the chair for 8 years, and he was glad, from his experience, to testify to the good working of No. 360, and also the able way in which the P.G.L. was conducted; the Grand Lodge should see that other provinces did their duty. When he proposed to take a Hall in Greenock he was told he would ruin the Lodge; what was the result? they had now above £700 worth of property, and during the past seven years they had given away no less a sum than £470. He hoped they would send a deputation to see them in Greenock, on next St. John's Day; he would ensure them a cordial welcome. Bro. J. Colquhoun S.M., in a truly eloquent speech, proposed the Press. They were favoured to-night with four representatives, but he would ask Bro. Wheeler of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE to reply. Bro. Wheeler acknowledged the toast, on behalf of himself and brethren. Bro. Dr. Martin I.P.M., P.G.J.W. said, after a long illness, he had ventured out, as he could not resist the temptation of being present to assist in their 25th Anniversary; he proposed thanks to the musical brethren, especially Bros. Pentland, Peters, Kay, Greenlees, Lamb, Herron and R. Brodie. Bro. Pentland briefly replied, in a speech; Bro. Brodie with a song. The Master then gave "Happy to meet, sorry to part, but happy to meet again;" and after the company had sung Auld Lang Syne, they departed, wishing prosperity to Commercial, No. 360.

Northampton Chapter, No. 360.—The Companions of this Chapter held their first Convocation in the new Masonic buildings, Abingdon-street, on Thursday evening, 30th Nov., when there were present—Comps. S. Jacob M.E.Z., J. U. Stanton H., R. Howes J., M. A. Boeme P.Z. acting N., George Robinson P.Z. E., J. T. Green acting P.S., B. Wilkins P.Z., D.P.G.M. Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire, M. W. Flewitt P.Z., G. Cotton P.Z., E. E. Welchman P.Z., T. Davies P.Z., Revs. J. T. Drake and Stimpson, E. Roberts, F. Gadsby, J. Cove, &c. Bros. John Henry Hale (Perseverance Lodge 445) and Henry John Atkins (Pomfret Lodge 360) were candidates for exaltation to this supreme degree. Being duly balloted for and elected, the ceremony at once proceeded, Comp. Wilkins officiating for the M.E.Z. in a manner that even surpassed his unusually impressive delivery, the other officers very ably fulfilling their various duties; the whole ceremony being conducted so as to gain the highest encomiums from those present. The election of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with. Comp. Stanton was elected M.E.Z., and Comps. Howes H., Green J., Roberts N., Robinson E., Gadsby P.S., Flewitt and Wilkins Treasurers. The Companions then adjourned to refreshment, to which ample justice was done, a very agreeable and profitable evening terminating with the toasts usual amongst R.A.M.'s. Although all Masonic gatherings now take place in the new buildings, the premises are not yet quite completed, so that those who attend have hardly got settled in their new venture; but a bright prospect tokens for the Northampton Chapter 360 and the Pomfret Lodge 360.

St. David's Lodge, No. 363.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Tuesday, the 5th December, at the Freemasons' Hall, Berwick. Present—Bros. R. Thompson W.M., J. A. Forbes S.W., H. T. Hopper, R. Wood, A. Winlaw, &c. Business—Bro. J. B. Kent was passed to the Fellow Craft degree. Bro. James Arthur Forbes S.W. was elected W.M. for the ensuing year. The installation was fixed to take place on St. John's Day, at four p.m. Bro. Weatherhead was re-elected Treasurer, Bro. A. F. Turnbull Tyler, and Bros. G. Moor, C. Hopper, J. Carr, J. Russell, T. Pattison, and R. Thompson were elected as a board of works for the ensuing year.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 7th of December, at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. Present—Bros. G. Davis W.M., A. Weeks S.W., Neighbour J.W., T. Cull Sec., F. J. Taylor S.D., Farwig J.D., Wray I.G., and Bros. Mander Preceptor, S. Lloyd, Docker, Reibold, Harrison, Bluedell, Collens, R. J. Taylor, Bentley, Rickard, Belfrage. Business—The Lodge was opened in due form, and the ceremony of initiation rehearsed, Bro. Harrison acting as candidate. The seven sections of the Lecture were then worked by the brethren, and Bro. G. H. Rickard, Lodge 1365, was elected a joining member. Bro. A. Weeks was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The Lodge was then closed, and adjourned to Thursday, 14th December.

Royal Berkshire Lodge of Hope, No. 574.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Friday, the 1st inst., at the White Hart Hotel, Newbury. Present—Bros. W. H. Herbert W.M., R. Ravenor S.W., G. J. Cosburn Secretary, F. G. Hall P.M. Treasurer. Past Masters Bros. J. Bance, W. C. Bland, T. Deller, Barron Fielder, F. G. Hall, &c. Business—The minutes having been confirmed, the election of W.M. for the ensuing year took place; this proved in favour of the S.W., Bro. Ravenor. Bro. P.M. F. G. Hall was elected Treasurer, and Bro. Dodd Tyler. The sum of £5 5s having been voted by the Charity Committee to this Lodge, it was decided to present that sum to the Benevolent Institution, and, after some further business, the Lodge was closed. The brethren adjourned to a banquet, which was presided over by the W.M.

St. James's Lodge, No. 765.—This Lodge held its ordinary meeting on Tuesday, the 5th of December, at the Bridge House Hotel, London Bridge. Present—Bros. Thomas Brown W.M., R. W. Gibbs S.W., J. Cox J.W., Montagu Scott Sec., F. Child Treas., E. Goodwin S.D., W. Ponting J.D., G. A. Brock D.C., Nelson Reed I.G., W. Y. Laing Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. G. Hyde, T. Neville, R. P. Hooton. Very little work was done, simply the passing of Bro. R. Tilling, and the voting of £5 from the Benevolent Fund to Bro. R. W. Gibbs, towards recouping him advances he had made to a distressed brother.

William Preston Lodge of Instruction, No. 766.—This Lodge of Instruction, under the sanction of the mother Lodge held its first meeting on Friday evening, the 1st inst., at Bro. Kennards, The Feathers Tavern, Upper George-street, Edgware-road, W. The chair was taken at 8 o'clock by Bro. A. Braun P.M. 766, who, after a few preliminary remarks, inducted Bro. Rudderforth D.C. No. 12 into the chair of K.S. The W.M. then invested his officers as follow:—Bros. G. West S.D. 1287 as S.W., G. Tribbel 1287 as J.W., A. Braun P.M. 766 as P.M. and Secretary, J. Kennard 145 as Treasurer, J. Davison 733 S.D., Lucas S.D. 192 J.D., and S. Nichols 1287 I.G. The ceremony of initiation was then rehearsed in a most impressive manner, Bro. Hayes 1287 acting as candidate, after which the sections of the Lecture were worked by the W.M., assisted by the brethren. The W.M. then submitted a code of bye-laws, which were duly discussed and adopted. Bro. Rudderforth was unanimously elected Preceptor, Bro. Braun Secretary, and Bro. Kennard Treasurer. A cordial vote of thanks, to be recorded on the minutes, was then passed to Bros. Rudderforth, Braun and Kennard. Bro. West was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. The Lodge was then closed in due form. Amongst the brethren present were Bros. Webster 1381, J. March 27, S. Godden 862, Frost 145, Sawyer 145, Brooks 145, Parsons 325, Dunham 1287, Cooper, Chalfont and several others. It is believed that a Lodge of Instruction is much required in this neighbourhood, the brethren are informed that the Lodge will meet punctually every Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—On Tuesday, 5th December, Bro. Dr. Defriez W.M., Perrin S.W., Hewlett J.W., Barker S.D., Saunders J.D., Dallas I.G., Wallington P.M. Preceptor, Worsley Secretary. The Lodge was opened in due form, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Lovelock candidate. Bro. W. J. Smith worked the 1st and 2nd sections of the lecture, Bro. Hewlett the 3rd, assisted by the brethren. On the motion of Bro. Wallington, seconded by Bro. Perrin, a vote of thanks was ordered to be recorded on the minutes for the able manner in which the W.M. had worked the ceremony. Bro. Perrin was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge closed in perfect harmony. The following brethren were present: Smith, Johnson, Foliot, Weige, Goumpertz, Cambridge, Lovelock, and P.M.'s Ashburner and Musto.

Royal Oak Lodge, No. 871.—The regular meeting of this well-established Lodge was held at the White Swan Hotel, 217 High-street, Deptford, on Thursday, 28rd November. Bro. H. J. Tuson W.M. opened the Lodge. The minutes of the previous meeting were read, confirmed, and signed by the W.M. He passed Bros. Whibley, Sanders, Fowler and Davis to the second degree, raised Bros. Abbott and Michaels; and Bro. G. Andrews P.M. D.C. raised Bros. Buchele and Wildermuth to the third degree. The work was ably done. Several important notices of motion were agreed to. The initiation and joining fees were raised each to ten guineas. The services of the W.M. were accepted as Steward, to represent this Lodge at the Festival for the Royal Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons, he heading his list with ten pounds, and the Lodge will supplement that amount with a similar sum; he also received promise of assistance from the members. It was unanimously decided to support the scheme to be introduced by the South Eastern Masonic Association, for securing the election of all candidates approved of for all the Charities, Bros. Wm. Andrews P.M. Treas. being elected as the representative from this Lodge. Business ended, the Lodge was closed, and adjourned to January. There were present—Bros. J. J. Pakes S.W., J. Baxter Langley J.W., W. Andrews P.M. Treas., F. Walters G.J.D. Middlesex, P.M. Sec., G. T. Limn S.D., R. Hannan J.D., F. G. Vohmann I.G., H. J. Fisher Organist, G. Andrews P.M. D.C., A. Macers, G. Powen passed Bro. Rev. A. Whitlow. The proposed new bye-laws, considered at the previous meeting, were read and confirmed. A petition on behalf of the widow of a deceased brother was ordered to be sanctioned, and the Secretary directed to apply for a fresh certificate for a brother who had lost his on the West Coast of Africa.

Welch-Pool Chapter. No. 998.—This Chapter held its regular meeting on 1st December, at the Chapter-rooms, Railway Station, Welch-Pool. Present—Comps. W. Withy Z., W. Collender H., D. Power P.Z. as J., G. Brown as S.E, Sides Davies S.N., T. R. Morriss P. Soj., Anderson and Gilbank as Assist. Soj. The minutes of the regular Convocation were read and confirmed. The M.E.Z. then informed the Companions that the only business was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:—Comps. W. Collender Z., G. A. Brown P.Z. 1098 H., J. B. Bagnall J., J. Sides Davis S.E., T. R. Morris S.N. and Treasurer, Graham Brown P. Soj., Barnard Janitor.

Victoria Chapter, No. 1056.—A regular Convocation of this Chapter was held on Monday, the 6th instant, at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue E.C. Present—Comps. J. D. Taylor Z., Noehmer H., Hooper J., Pendlebury P.Z. S.E., E. Gottheil P.Z. Treas., Fergusson S.N., Bosworth P.Z., Forsyth P.Z., and an unusually small number of Companions. Bro. W. H. Edwards, of 619, was exalted to the supreme degree. A sum of £5 5s was voted to the Girls' School. A banquet followed, after which the usual proceedings on such occasions were briefly and speedily disposed of, and the Companions separated at a comparatively early hour. Comp. Copestake, M.E.Z. of the Lion and Lamb, was a visitor.

Lewis Lodge, No. 1185—Emergency.—A large number of the members of this Lodge assembled at the King's Arms Hotel, Wood Green, on Saturday, 2nd December, pursuant to summons, for the purpose of passing a vote of sympathy with the widow and family of their late Treasurer, W. Bro. S. May, who was also one of the founders of this Lodge, and to elect a Treasurer in his stead. Bro. Turner W.M. presided, and was supported by the following Past Masters of the Lodge, viz.:—Bros. Cover, Leared Sec., Edwards, Ross and Durrant, together with the officers, Bros. Shipwright S.W., Sayer J.W., Bone S.D., Berrie J.D., and Hooper I.G. The Lodge having been opened in due form, with solemn prayer, there were four passings and two initiations taken, in order to give the brethren full time to assemble. After which Bro. Turner W.M. addressed the members as follows:—Brethren,—I have called this Lodge of Emergency together for a special purpose; one which I have not the slightest doubt will recommend itself to every member—that of sympathising with the widow and family of our late, much respected and lamented Bro. May, who was one of the founders of this Lodge, and who has been our Treasurer from the very first, and you, brethren, know how efficiently he discharged the duties of that office. Taking into account the very kind interest which Bro. May has always taken in the welfare and happiness of this Lodge, the truly Masonic spirit displayed by him on all occasions, and the deep and sincere interest which he has always taken in our noble charities, of which we are all so justly proud, I have not the slightest fear but that the resolution about to be proposed by Bro. Cover, one of the founders, and now Senior Past Master of the Lodge, will receive your entire approbation. Bro. May was with us at our last meeting, having left, I might almost say his death bed on purpose to be present, but was too ill to remain long. For my own part, I shall ever remember the kind and hearty manner in which, on that occasion, he congratulated me on my installation, as Master of this Lodge. I shall now without further comment ask Bro. Cover to read his proposed resolution. W. Bro. Cover, having addressed a few well chosen remarks as to the high esteem in which Bro. May was held—not only by this Lodge, but generally,—and pointed out that, of the Founders there are now but two, himself and Bro. Loared left, as subscribing members—proposed a vote of sympathy with the widow and family of the late Bro. Samuel May, in their great and irreparable loss. This having been seconded by Bro. Loared, met with the unanimous approbation of the Lodge. W. Bro. Durrant I.P.M. was elected as Treasurer in the room of the late Bro. May. This having concluded the business of the evening, the Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren separated; there being no banquet on this mournful occasion.

Milton Lodge, No. 1144.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Wednesday, the 6th of December, at the Commercial Hotel, Ashton-under-Lyne. Present—Bros. James Devaney W.M., Abraham Hill S.W., T. Bowers P.M. as J.W., William H. Holt P.M. Sec., John Jones Treas., J. White P.M. as S.D., W. Housley J.D., D. Cordingly I.G. P.M.'s Bros. T. Bowers P.P.G.D.C. Cheshire, W. H. Holt, James White. Visitors—Bros. John Turner, Wm. Lowe, T. Bowers. After the minutes had been read, Bro. Davies was passed, and Bro. Moorhouse raised.

Eastern Star Lodge, Bombay, No. 1189, E.C.—This flourishing young Lodge held a meeting on Saturday evening, 11th November, for one of the most commendable purposes that contribute to honour, and likewise reflect credit on all who have the proud privilege to share in the ceremonies of the Craft. Lodges of Instruction are sometimes regarded, by old, effete, and crotchety elders of the Craft, as a sort of infringement, an excrescence, and a concaction on the superficial skill of Freemasonry. Yet, with all deference to such antiquated and obfuscated opinions, we desire to state how the highest and holiest behests of our Ancient Order are conducted and carried out in all their beauty and integrity in the far East. On the occasion above referred to, there was a most influential gathering of the R.W. Masters and Past Masters of all the Bombay Lodges that have been established for the propagation of the benignant tenets and principles of the Craft amongst our Parsee and Mahomedan brethren, together with an old member of Lodge St. Andrews, No. 48, Edinburgh. Bro. Dinshaw N. Saklatwalla occupied the Orient chair as President. The title for the nonce vividly recalling to memory the first, brightest and best cum longum intervallo of the United States President — George Washington — a true exemplar of our Order, under the "Star Spangled Banner." The ceremony of initiation was worked in all its minutiæ, and the admirable manner in which the duties of each individual office were carried out reflected the highest credit on all. The Senior Warden, W. Bro. Dinshaw N. Saklatwalla, officiated as President, and was supported on the dais by W. P.M.'s Bros. F. K. Patrick, Darashaw Dorabjee Reporter, S. N. Cooper, Muncherjee Framurz Furdonjee C. Powrie acted as Senior Warden, Pestonjee Narielwalla Junior Warden. The candidate for the time being was a promising young Mason, Bro. Merwanjee Motisha, who comported himself as a hopeful noviciate for higher honours. Retiring from labour to refreshment, a pleasant evening was spent, and some Oriental legends, wedded to music, in the Persian tongue, were feelingly executed by W.P.M. Darashaw and other brethren. The usual conventional and convivial toasts were ably proposed and feelingly responded to, and all departed in peace, bearing with them unalloyed reminiscences of an intellectual evening, spent in unison with all that is good and virtuous in Freemasonry.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—On Friday, the 1st of December 1876, at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate. Bros. Lane W.M., R. W. Pearcy S.W., Cleverley J.W., Gross Preceptor, Townsend Sec., Bolton Treas., Barnett S.D., Townsend J.D., A. W. Penner I.G. Business—The Lodge opened in due form, and the minutes were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed by the W.M., and was performed in a very creditable manner, Bro. Franklin being candidate. After which the 1st and 2nd sections of the Lecture were worked by Bro. Fenner, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Pearcy was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The Treasurer and Secretary were unanimously re-elected, and were complimented on the efficient manner they had performed their several duties. A vote of thanks was accorded to the W.M. for his conduct in the chair, this being the first time of his occupying that honourable position, after which the Lodge was closed, in due form.

Star Lodge, No. 1275.—A meeting of the above Lodge was held on Friday, the 1st December, at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich. Present—Bros H. J. Green W.M., R. W. Williams G.O. Middlesex S.W., C. W. Williams J.W., J. Smith P.G.P. Treas., Rev. J. Colles P.G.C. Middlesex Chaplain, F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex P.M. Sec., W. Kipps S.D., E. W. Chetwynd I.G., A. Tirley D.C., S. Marketis W.S., J. Gilbert P.G.T. Tyler, and Bros. W. Ough P.G.P.C., J. Hogg P.G.S.P.M., H Keeble P.M., W. Tong, G. S. Elliott, H. W. Elmer, J. Brooks, E. Lane, W. E. Williams, M. Van Boolen, W. Brough, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. W. A. Simmons J.W. 1559 and M. Van Boolen were elected joining members. Bros. Leonard Van Boolen and W. Vassila (the latter by the courtesy of the W.M.) were raised to the third degree. Several propositions for initiation were given, and the Lodge was closed. The brethren then partook of a very good banquet and dessert. The usual toasts were given, and complimentary speeches made; these were interspersed with songs and recitations. A very agreeable evening was passed. Among the Visitors were Bros. Dwaber P.M. 55, A. H. Tattershall P.M. 13, P.M. 140, Frampton 87, and Thomas P.M. 134, &c.

Lodge St. Mary, No. 1312, Bocking.—The annual festival of this Lodge was held at Booking, Essex, on Tuesday the 28th November, when Bro. the Rev. H. L. Elliott P.M. 466, and P.P.G. Chaplain, Warwickshire, was duly installed W.M. for the ensuing.

Highgate Lodge of Instruction, No. 1366.—The Fifteen Sections were worked at the Bull and Gate Tavern, Kentish Town, on Thursday evening, 30th November. The following brethren occupied the chairs:—Bros. J. N. Frost W.M., P.M. 220, 704 and 865, C. Koester S.W. P.M. 435, Jas. Kew J.W. P.M. 179. The first Section was worked by Bro. Geo. Knill 1607, a young and very promising Mason, who, we doubt not, will make his mark in the Craft. The second by Bro. Eustace Barker J.W. 749, the third by Bro. Thomas Williams 1507, the fourth by Bro. Geo. A. Garratt P.M. 704, 1366, the fifth by Bro. Henry Ash P.M. 179, the sixth by Bro. J. N. Frost P.M., the questions in this section being put from the Senior Warden's chair; the seventh by Bro. C. Koester P.M. 435, the eighth by Bro. Geo. Gardner 749, the ninth by Bro. J. S. Kew P.M. 179, the tenth by Bro. C. Koester P.M. 435, the eleventh by Bro. J. F. Wuest P.M. 753, the twelfth by Bro. H. Ash P.M. 179, the thirteenth by Bro. J. J. Limebeer P.M. 1275, the fourteenth by Bro. J. L. Coulton P.M. 382, the fifteenth by Bro. Henry Ash P.M. 179. The working was worthy of much praise, and our readers will doubtless take notice of the number of P.M.'s of Lodges present; these shared the lion's part of the business amongst them, a circumstance augering well for the prosperity and vitality of this Lodge, which possesses, in its Preceptor, Bro. Frost, one of the most accomplished Masons of the present day, and in its Secretary, Bro. Taylor W.M. No. 11, an officer to whom the brethren of the Lodge must be deeply indebted for the energy which he throws into his work, and the admirable manner in which its proceedings are recorded.

Falcon Lodge, No. 1416.—The Archæological Section, on Wednesday 25th ult., visited Kirkby Knowle, and were most courteously and hospitably received by the Rector, the Rev. L. S. Kenny M.A., who conducted them through the Church, and read an interesting paper on its history and objects of interest. This was possibly one of the primitive buildings of the Northumbrian Church, and was dedicated to St. Wilfrid of York, but nothing remains of the original structure except the chancel arch, lancet-pointed early English, which has been built into the north wall of the chancel, and a few relics which were found when the foundations were cleared for rebuilding the Church the second time, in 1873. A rude holy water sloup, a piscina, some ancient grave stones, a stone coffin, two curious stone crosses, and some sculptured Runic characters were pointed out and examined. Rubbings were taken from several brass plates which are fixed in the floor in front of the altar rails, and which bear crests and inscriptions relating to the families of Danby, Rokeby and Buxton, who formerly were the possessors of New Building, and which was originally known as Kirkby Knowle Castle.

Albert Edward Lodge, No. 1557, Henham.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Friday, 1st December, at the Bush Hotel, Henham. Present—Bros. George White W.M., John Ditchburn S.W., Joseph Fishburn J.W., Joseph Catherall Secretary, William M. Bell S.D., E. Bulmer acting J.D., Thomas Pearson acting Steward, William Oates acting I.G., George Hedley acting Tyler. The principal business of the evening was the election of W.M., Bro. Ditchburn S.W. being unanimously chosen for that office. On Friday, 5th January 1877, the installation of the W.M. will take place, when the annual banquet will also be held.

Carnarvon Lodge, No. 1572.—This Lodge held its installation meeting on Saturday, the 2nd of December, at the Albion, Aldersgate-street, London, E.C. Present—Bros. R. Pawson Hooton W.M., W. S. Whitaker S.W., Jas. Cowan J.W., J. Clarricoats Treas., Montagu Scott Sec., T. S. Hellier S.D., Nelson Reed J.D., Thos. Brown D.C., G. A. Brock W. Steward, Geo. Briggs I.G., W. Steedman Tyler. Visitors—31 in number, the two senior being Bro. H. M. Stottenhoff P.M. Emulation 21, and Bro. J. Wray, of the Robert Burns 25. Business—Pro. Philip Bullock was passed, Bro. Geo. Chaffey raised, and Bro. Walter Solomon Whitaker installed as W.M. for ensuing year. The address to the W.M. was given by Bro. John Hervey, the Grand Secretary, an honorary member of the Lodge; that to the Wardens by Bro. James Terry, Secretary to the R.M.B.I., who also is an honorary member; and that to the brethren by Bro. Montagu Scott, the Secretary. The officers (with the exception of the Treasurer and the Secretary, who were re-appointed) were each promoted a step, and Bro. F. Morgan was appointed W.S. Five candidates were proposed. The banquet was given in the best style of the Albion, and 68 partook of it, there being present 37 out of the 40 members comprising the number on the roll of the Lodge, which number, we may add, is limited to 50.

Royal Kensington Lodge, No. 1627.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Friday, 1st December, at Freemasons' Hall. Present—Bros. R. W. Raymond W.M., C. E. Soppet S.W., W. E. G. Leith J.W., D. M. Dewar Secretary, W. Hyde Pullen Treasurer, B. F. Cramer J.D., Samuel Browne D.C. and Steward, H. M. Sydney I.G., W. Steedman Tyler. Visitors—Bros. H. R. Perry 55, J. T. V. Hardy 521, and C. W. Reynolds 1479. Business—Minutes were read and approved. Mr. Frederick Gass was initiated. Bro. G. R. Mathews passed. Two candidates for initiation were proposed. It was resolved that an alms-box be circulated at every banquet, the amount collected to form a Benevolent Fund. Bro. Soppet S.W. kindly promised to present the Lodge with a box for this purpose.

St. Brydes, No. 579, Uddingstone.—This Lodge held its first annual meeting on Tuesday, for election and installation of the office bearers, when the following were duly installed into their respective offices:—Bros. H. J. Shields 338 R.W.M., Wilson Walker D.M., J. S. Street S.M., J. Partrick S.W., J. Bright J.W., R. Morton Treasurer, Wm. Micklejohn Secretary, J. Baird S.D., Robert Rea J.D., R. Latta S.S., Wm. Watson J.S., Henry McCall D.C., James Robertson I.G., Wm. C. Ross O.G. Arrangements were made for holding a Lodge of Instruction, to post the young officers up in their duty.

Thistle Lodge, No. 87.—This Lodge met in its own hall, No. 30 Cathedral-street, Glasgow, on Tuesday, 5th Dec. Bro. J. Booth R.W.M. in the chair, John Ritchie D.M., J. McLachlan S.W., A. E. Knowles J.W., A. McCubbin Sec., and a good attendance of brethren. Bro. J. Morgan I.P.M. 219 worked the Fellow Craft degree in an excellent way. Arrangements were made for a Harmonic Meeting on the 19th inst.

THE

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. IV.—No. 103. SATURDAY, 16th DECEMBER 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

THE STUDY OF MASONIC HISTORY.

WE have more than once remarked how desirable it is that the Craft should do all in its power to encourage the study of Masonic history. Never a day passes, but some of our more enthusiastic brethren utter a few well-chosen phrases in the highest degree eulogistic of Freemasonry, its profession, and its practice. We listen to these utterances with a great deal of pleasure. We know them to be sincere, and we believe them to be true. But with all this enthusiasm for the science itself, we note, with extreme regret, that very little heed is paid to its early origin and rare development in different countries. The brethren who are so proud of antecedent generations of Craftsmen, are strangely indifferent about the obstacles they had to encounter, the victories they won, and the prejudices they at length succeeded in outliving, until at length Freemasonry, instead of being the butt of other persons' ridicule, won for itself the admiration and respect of men of all classes and creeds. We say there are only a very few of the more studiously inclined who care for these things. The bulk of members exhibit a strange inertia in all that relates to our history, and many are so ill-informed that almost any myth may be made to pass current as an event which actually took place.

We are partly indebted for this state of indifference to many of our own writers, who, in their eagerness to enhance the respectability of Freemasonry, have converted a number of interesting legends into matter-of-fact history. This, too, is a reason why the outer world so often laughs at us when we speak of the great antiquity of the Craft. We have no manner of doubt whatever that Freemasonry is of very remote origin, but we do not rest its claims to antiquity on the very unsubstantial basis so many assign to it. We believe in the antiquity, but not in its circumstantiality, as delineated by most of our Masonic historians. But we are digressing from the purpose of our present article, which is to impress on Lodges, and especially on Lodges of Instruction, the propriety of encouraging historic studies. The latter do excellent work, but the extent of their curriculum is mostly limited to the ceremonies and lectures. We yield to none in the importance we attach to these branches of Masonic labour, but it must be obvious to all that the iteration of the same work becomes in a very short period of time wearisome, and particularly to those whose avocations permit them to attend with greater or less regularity. But even if we are content with the amount of knowledge that may be thus acquired, it is still desirable—we may even go further, and say it is absolutely necessary—there should be occasional historic illustrations, in order that brethren may know the meaning of the many allusions which are made in the course of these ceremonies and lectures. Persons eminent in Biblical and profane history are frequently referred to, but our Catechetical system of instruction hardly allows much room for explanation of the propriety of these references. Again, without some kind of exposition, many brethren must leave the Lodge much in the same condition of mind as a newly-married couple when they leave as one flesh the church they had shortly before entered as two—that is, in amazement. There are many strange legends introduced, which, without their intent and purpose is made apparent, must, figuratively speaking, prove a very Gordian knot for the Masonic novice to untie. There are likewise not a few anachronisms which have been permitted to creep in, or, we should say, perhaps, which having been introduced from the old operative legends, have been permitted to remain. We believe these departures from historic fact are capable of a rational explanation, and it is certainly desirable that some such explanation should occasionally be offered.

This, however, is only a small item in the general account of Freemasonry, which it is desirable we should have expounded. Whether we carry back our Society to early times, or whether we consider that Freemasonry, as it is now constituted, dates back no further than the commencement of last century, it is equally desirable we should learn something of the rise and progress of our Order. It is notorious that only a very limited number of brethren have ever given their minds to the study of such records as have been handed down to us. Now, an Englishman who had not mastered, at least, the outlines of English history, who was not cognisant of its most noteworthy incidents, would consider himself in no slight measure disgraced by his ignorance. Or, to put the matter more gently, his ignorance would cause him grave dissatisfaction, and the chances are many that he would not lose much time in supplying the defect. So with a Frenchman, a German, an American, an Italian. There is, in fact, no one, be his country what it may, who would not experience a sense of shame on finding himself ill-informed about the principal events in his country's life. And yet we Masons, who profess to be in search of greater illumination, are content to go on, week after week, and month after month, without troubling ourselves to inquire what are the main features of our history, and who were the most eminent Masonic personages who have gone before us. We consider this apathy amounts to a very serious dereliction of duty on our part—a dereliction of duty for which it is impossible for any one to offer any reasonable apology. We have a history, and every Craftsman who has found time and inclination to study it, must feel all the more proud of his Order. Whatever, as we have said, may be the true connection existing between the philosophies of a very remote past and our present speculative Freemasonry, it must be apparent to all, that we cannot have existed as a body corporate for close upon one hundred and sixty years but some vicissitudes of fortune must have befallen us, and some eminent personages figured among our members. It is, indeed, a matter of fact, and not of speculation, that Masonry, in its progress from the year 1717 till now, has experienced many troubles from without, and not a few internal disquietudes. We have been attacked by clerics and by governments. We have been denounced publicly as the enemies of all religion and order; while among ourselves there have been several periods in our history in which we Masons have shown that we had little, if any, respect for that love and harmonious feeling towards one another which it is one of the chief purposes of Freemasonry to inculcate. But, in spite of these virulent attacks from without, and these unhappy intestine commotions, the Society has gone on flourishing, till it is not too much of an exaggeration to say that Freemasonry is now a power in the world, and, what is better still, a power whose influence is always brought to bear in the direction of the good and the beautiful. When we speak of Freemasonry as being a power which has a certain influence, we do not, of course, mean that it is an organised body either political, like a government, or religious, like a church. The only force there is in the influence of Freemasonry is the force of its moral teaching. It is this fact which makes its progress so marvellous that, having no material force to back it up, no religious terrors to fulminate against its enemies it has gone on expanding till now there is not a country in the world in which Masonry has not its disciples. True, these disciples in some few countries are forbidden to congregate in Lodges; but no edict of Pope or Emperor is able to extirpate from their breasts a firm belief in the beauties of our Masonic science. The law is obeyed—for it is a leading principle of our Society that the ordinances of a government must be religiously observed—but the faith remains. Is there not in all this a magnificent field for study? If we are proud of a Society which has done all this, is it not well worth our while to learn how this progress has been achieved, and to whom, under heaven, we are indebted for this achievement? The abstruser points of Masonic doctrine and Masonic research may not find favour with some of us, but our history during the last century and a half is worth studying, and there is no intellect so feeble but it may grasp and keep firm hold of the most conspicuous events of that period. And if we English Masons need any encouragement to enter heartily upon the pursuit of this knowledge, it only needs that we should look to what our Transatlantic brethren are doing now, and have been doing for years past. Our history finds favour with them: they read, mark, learn, and digest it; and consequently there are in the United States many able exponents of the history of Freemasonry. Shall it be said of Craftsmen in the United Kingdom, whence has sprung all our modern Freemasonry, that we are less curious about our Craft than the Americans; that we, in the old country are less proud of her than our cousins of the new? We are certain the question, when it has been fairly and fully considered, will be answered emphatically in the negative, and that no long time will elapse ere our present state of apathy will give place to one of energy and earnest study in the domain of history. Lodges, as in the case of some of our Lodges of Instruction—may do much towards securing this desirable consummation; but, after all, it is to Grand Lodge we must look for the needful encouragement. There is already one endowment, left by the late Bro. William Preston, the annual interest of which is payable to whoever delivers the Prestonian lecture. A very small expenditure of trouble would soon induce as great an amount of interest in our history as in our ceremonies and lectures. But the initiative in this, as in all matters pertaining to the Craft, lies clearly with Grand Lodge.

THE COLOURED MASON QUESTION.

By Bro. Jacob Norton.

In the two replies of October 14th and 28th, to my article on the Coloured Mason question, you, Bro. Editor, intimated your unwillingness to have a controversy with me upon the subject at issue; the fact is, I did not anticipate a controversy. I have not quoted a solitary line from your article, and have but barely referred to you, as not knowing what Bro. Findel knew in 1861. I cheerfully concede that on most Masonic topics you are better informed than I am, but on this particular topic I claim to be better informed. I was surprised last Summer to read in the Freemason's Chronicle, the paragraph from the New York Dispatch, about the Grand Lodge of England repossessing itself, in a rather underhanded manner, of the African Lodge Charter. This story had already been exploded by Bro. Findel, and I naturally concluded that you, Bro. Editor, had not read that part of Bro. Findel's history. The tenor of your article on the Coloured Question tended to confirm that belief, hence, I was induced to write the true history of the case, for the information of the English Craft. The Freemason's Chronicle is read by our Boston Masons, and they alone can consistently undertake to controvert either my facts or inferences. But, believe me, they will not attempt it. "Facts," though unpleasant, "are stubborn things." The question here is virtually settled, viz., that as far as legitimacy is concerned, there are six of one and half a dozen of the other; either both are legitimate, or vice versa. The cry now is, "We don't want discussion." "We have believed (said a prominent Mason to me), for nearly a century that the African Lodge was clandestine, and what is the use of upsetting our belief?" Bro. Gardner, the ablest Mason in Boston, tried hard to persuade himself of the illegality of the coloured organisations in America. His address, in 1870, was received with shouts of exultation by the nigger haters; one Masonic journal triumphantly exclaimed, "What will Jacob Norton say to his Grand Master's address?" but my reply to the said address has never been attacked, and why? The Rev. Br., Charles Griswold, P.G.M. of Minnesota, in his article in the "Voice of Masonry," April number, says:—

"When Grand Master Gardner . . . March, 1870, reviewed the status of the coloured Masons in this country, it was supposed that his facts were so stubborn, and his arguments so unanswerable, as to for ever put to rest all questions relating thereto, and it came very generally to be conceded that the coloured [illegible] are hopelessly out in the cold, and must for ever be regarded as clandestine; but during the past few years everything Masonic has been undergoing a very severe scrutiny. . . . Especially is this true with reference to those questions under discussion, relating to the coloured Lodges. A thorough investigation has brought to the surface facts so positive in their nature, and arguments so conclusive, as to put the legitimacy of the coloured Lodges in this country beyond the possibility of being successfully controverted."

Again, the rejection of the motion by the Grand Lodge of Ohio, in October last, to recognise the African Grand Lodge in that State as an independent G.L., was not on account of illegitimacy, that was not disputed, but on account of its conflicting with the constitution of Ohio, which contains a clause of exclusive jurisdiction. If, then, an Ohio coloured Mason should wish to visit an English Lodge, how could he consistently be debarred admission?

You, my worthy brother, have declared that you have no objection to coloured Masons. Now, I never supposed that you did object to colour or race, and never said so. My remarks referred to our American pretenders, that colour was not their objection. I am able to demonstrate that this is a new doctrine here, and it originated only since the Grand Orient of France rebuked the injustice of the American Grand Lodges to the Coloured organisations, and I am even prepared to prove, notwithstanding their protestations to the contrary, that colour, and that alone, is the drawback now to the recognition of the said brethren.

I stated that Prince Hall applied to the 1777 Grand Lodge for a charter: you made a point thereof. I now beg pardon for my mistake: for, on referring to Bro. Gardner's address, I found that Hall applied to G.M. Warren for a Charter; so that point is disposed of. But your point is, that a letter from Union Lodge, New York, in 1791, asserted that since the war the Masonic bodies in the different States had considered themselves independent, and you triumphantly ask, whether I am prepared to rebut the evidence of that letter? In answer, I beg to state that I not only concede it, but will even add, that the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts itself, in 1788, issued a dictum of exclusive jurisdiction;—and what then? There is an adage that "it takes two to make a bargain." The question now is, has the G.L. of England assented to that dictum? and have the Lodges in Massachusetts assented? The fact is, the Grand Lodge of England had never been informed that there were any other Lodges in Boston, save those of its own creation; and the English Provincial G.L. had not written a line to London since 1770. The English G.L. really did not know, in 1784, whether any Masonic Lodges survived in Boston after the war. Again, St. John's Lodge, in Boston, was evidently dormant from the beginning of the war till 1784. It seems even to have lost its Charter. And, according to the assertion of the late C. W. Moore, John Rowe, the English Provincial G.M. appointed in 1768, granted a charter to St. John's Lodge in 1784, or a year after the so-called Grand Lodge issued its dictum of exclusive jurisdiction. This statement of Moore is discredited here, but, nevertheless, it is a well-known fact that the Masons in Boston of English origin regarded the St. Andrew's Lodge of Scotch origin, and her progeny, including the new G.L., as clandestine Masons; and even St. Andrew's Lodge itself did not acknowledge the legality of the G.L. of Massachusetts before 1809.

The Grand Lodge of Massachusetts even now upholds the same doctrine. For instance, the said G.L. chartered a Lodge in Valparaiso, in 1853. A Grand Orient had either then already existed there, or it had been organised since; the Grand Orient requested the Lodge to enrol itself under its jurisdiction. It also notified the G.L. of Massachusetts of its law of exclusive jurisdiction, but our Massachusetts Grand Lodge paid no attention thereto, and had actually chartered since then a second Lodge in Valparaiso, or some other part of Chili. I think it needs no argument to prove that if Massachusetts is right in establishing Lodges in Chili, that the Grand Lodge of England had greater right to Charter a Lodge in Boston in 1784.

But here is a case still more pertinent. The Duke of Sussex granted a charter to Hebrew Masons in Frankfort-on-the-Maine, and the Lodge is still under English jurisdiction. If the Duke of Sussex could violate a German jurisdiction on behalf of Jewish Masons, the Duke of Cumberland could, with equal justice, invade an American jurisdiction (suppose it was only on behalf of coloured Masons.

I shall now proceed to sum up the arguments pro and con in an imaginary scene.

Notices of Meetings.

Lodge of ——.—Half an hour before the Lodge opened, Bro. White Jonathan and Bro. Jonathan Black were introduced to the Tyler, as Bro. Masons, who wished to visit the Lodge. The former seemed very much excited: "I must speak with Bro. John Bull, your W.M.," said he, "ere I enter the Lodge." Just then Bro. Bull came in, and after an introduction, they retired to a private room, where the following dialogue took place:—

Jonathan.—"I hail from St. John's Lodge, Boston. I am, therefore, all right, but that nigger there belongs to the African Lodge, which was erased from your books, and, contrary to American Masonic jurisprudence, the blacks organized a Grand Lodge in our jurisdiction, which established nigger Lodges all over the U.S.; he is, therefore, all wrong; he is a clandestine, and, if you admit him, our American Grand Lodge will certainly resent your insult to their authority."

John Bull.—"I am aware that your St. John's and his African Lodge derived their respective powers from our Grand Lodge, and am also aware that both Lodges acted wrong in so doing, and were I guided by American Masonic jurisprudence, I would kick the pair of you down-stairs (figuratively so, of course), and would give you the hardest kicking. The whole history of Colonial Grand Lodge is a tissue of irregularities and deceptions. You paid no attention to the conditions of your Warrants or the Book of Constitutions. According to your Records, you have chartered forty Lodges, and registered here only five. The fees of the remaining thirty-five Lodges due to our Grand Lodge you have spent in trumpetting, drumming, and feasting on St. John's Days. From 1770 to about 1810, you did not even inform us of your very existence; our Grand Lodge, therefore, not only erased the African Lodge in 1813, but your St. John's Lodge with forty other American Lodges besides, were so erased. It really seems that you were ashamed to write a line to our Grand Lodge until after your misdeeds were forgotten here. On the other hand, the African Lodge paid us four guineas for its Charter—just twice the sum you paid for yours; and between the years 1789 and 1797, the African Lodge generously donated to our Charity Fund the sum of £5 14s 6d. And, though you know very well that the African Lodge was legally constituted, yet, because they were Africans, you would not acknowledge them, and your Whites unscrupulously invented all manner of falsehoods about the said Lodge. The Africans merely neglected to correspond with our Grand Secretary, for which neglect they apologised in 1824; and it was not until after waiting three years in vain for an answer before they declared their Masonic independence."

Jonathan.—"You will at least admit that, after 1792, when the Lodges of Scotch and English origin united, that our Grand Lodge then became a Grand Lodge de facto, as well as de jure, and that all Masons in our jurisdiction must then have become amenable to its laws. Now, in 1827, when the Blacks began to charter Lodges, our Grand Lodge had been in operation for thirty-five consecutive years, we were visited by foreigners, and we visited foreign Lodges all over the world; we, therefore, had a prescriptive right, according to all laws, Masonic and otherwise, and the Blacks were certainly guilty of violating Masonic laws by invading a jurisdiction already established; in fact, they rebelled against our authority."

John Bull.—"My dear Brother, these are mere legal quibbles, for if the Blacks had organised a Grand Lodge in Boston, in 1776, you Whites would not have cared about their prescriptive rights, nor about their claim of de facto and de jure. Your Grand Lodge of 1792 did not invite the African Lodge to participate in the making of your laws; the Africans were, therefore, not amenable to those laws, nor are they now; they never were your subjects, and they consequently never rebelled against your authority; and your own unjust laws precluded them from being subject to your authority. Now, whenever a government presumes to establish injustice by law, the aggrieved are justified to appeal to the higher law, a law which overrides all other human laws—I mean the law of necessity. By that law we have tried and condemned a king for treason, and expelled a legal dynasty; by that law George Washington made your nation independent, and Abraham Lincoln freed your slaves; and by the same law have you assumed your Masonic independence. Bro. Gardner, your P.G.M., now Judge of your Superior Court, could claim no higher legality for your Grand Lodge than that of revolution and assumption. On our part, we admitted your necessity and forgave your shortcomings.

In 1827, the African Lodge also had cause to appeal to that higher law; its offences to us were less than yours, and its necessity was much greater. The African Lodge paid for its Masonry, and was equally with your Lodge, entitled to all Masonic privileges. Your St. John's Lodge, while still subject to our Grand Lodge, for it did not then acknowledge any other Grand Lodge, ignored the rights of the African Lodge; and after 1792, your Grand Lodge, in conjunction with the other American Grand Lodges, entered into a conspiracy to rob the Africans of their Masonic rights. After our Grand Secretary refused to notice their humble petition, their Masonic life, which was as dear to them as it is to us, became seriously endangered. Self-preservation, therefore, the very highest kind of necessity, compelled and justified them to form a Grand Lodge, to scatter Masonic Lodges among their people in their native land, and to create for themselves Masonic homes all over the country. The case may now be summed up. Three distinct Grand Lodges were successively organized by revolution and assumption in Boston—namely, in 1777, 1792, and in 1827. The two former were organized by white Masons, and the latter by coloured. If the White brethren had a right to revolution and assumption, the same right must be also conceded to the Blacks, especially as their necessity was most urgent, and it wholly arose through the unmasonic conduct of the white Masons. Viewing, therefore, the question from every point, I really can see no reason in your Boston notion that you are all right, and he is all wrong."

Jonathan.—"You may, if you please, call my arguments legal quibbles, but I say law must be respected. I don't care for Mr. Lincoln's abolition of slavery, nor about shortcomings of the past, either, to your Grand Lodge or the negroes. All I have to say is this: You have tacitly acknowledged the legality of our Grand Lodge, and it is now your bounden duty to respect our laws."

John Bull.—"The drift of your argument amounts to this, Law is paramount to justice; if a Black man offends against the law, he must be rigorously punished; but if a White man offends, then you don't care about it. These ideas of yours are truly a violation of the laws of Masonry and humanity, and we cannot respect such laws. According to my opinion, Bro. Black is either legitimately, or illegitimately, legally, or illegally (which you please), your Masonic equal, and unless you can prove him otherwise unworthy, I must extend to him the same privileges as I will extend to you.

Our Yankee visitor is a Democratic stump orator; the chief article in his political creed is, that "a nigger is not equal to a white man." Bro. John Bull's remarks, therefore, touched his most tender spot. The wrath which he had hitherto kept bottled up, now began to escape; and, like the steam of a locomotive, it began to issue in distinct puffs, and as its rapidity increased, it became a continuous roar, and now comes out his true reasons.

Jonathan.—"I say nothing against Black's character; he is a decent sort of a man, and upright too; but you can't make me believe that a nigger is my equal. No, Sir! he is of an inferior race. Did you ever hear of a nigger Shakespere, or a Sir Isaac Newton? Would you like your daughter to marry a nigger? I tell you a nigger is a nigger, and if you want to see niggers, go to a plantation in South Carolina; a nigger is not my equal. You don't know what a nigger is."

John Bull.—"As it is now time to open the Lodge, I can here only say that we have nothing to do with race, but only with individuals, for we are of all kindreds. You have admitted that Black is an upright man; it is, therefore, my duty to admit him. We may hereafter resume our discussion. At present, I beg to invite you to the hospitality of our Lodge."

Jonathan.—"No, Sir! I won't sit with a nigger in a Lodge, and I won't discuss with you. We believe that the niggers are clandestine, and you have no right to question my belief." [Exit Jonathan.

Nothing now remains but, according to ancient custom, to shake hands with my plucky antagonist, and part as friends. There was no malice between us, and there ought to be no envy when the judges shall have awarded the belt to the deserving champion. And, in plain English, I sincerely thank my opponent for having permitted me to have my say.

[Our esteemed contributor, Bro. Jacob Norton, will, we doubt not, recognise the propriety of closing the argument on this vexed question. The subject is not one to which we consider we should be justified in devoting further space. We opened the ball—to use a familiar expression—with an article calling on our Grand Lodge to lay down some rule for the guidance of Lodge officers should they be ever called upon to decide as to the admission or non-admission of a member of one of these Coloured Masonic organisations. At the same time, we indicated our belief that should one present himself he ought not to be admitted. Beyond this the subject has no interest for English Masons. However, in dismissing the matter, Bro. Norton will, perhaps, excuse us for saying that his conduct reminds us of the general, who, finding his enemy's position to be impregnable, marches his army all round it, fires off a few rounds of artillery in any direction but the right one, and then retires in the belief he has gained a substantial victory. Bro. Norton's arguments have not affected our position in any way. We have pounded him till he has not a word to say on the real point at issue, which is not whether "African" Lodge was or was not illegal, but whether a body of Masons has a right to invade the jurisdiction of another body of Masons. We say, emphatically, it has not; and, were it possible for a Lodge or Lodges to be established in any one of our English provinces, claiming to exist as a Masonic body or bodies, without paying allegiance to our Grand Lodge, we have a very firm belief that the latter would decline to recognise it or them. Bro. Norton asks, if our Grand Lodge, England, has recognised the claim advanced by American Grand Lodges to exclusive jurisdiction over their several states or territories? Our answer is, decidedly, Yes; and the proof—that several of the American Grand Lodges interchange representatives with our English Grand Lodge. Then, Bro. Norton adduces a case in which the Massachusetts Grand Lodge chartered a Lodge in Valparaiso, and still claims it as a daughter Lodge, though there is in Chili a supreme Masonic authority. Were we called upon to decide this case upon the circumstances as described to us by Bro. Norton, we should rule that this act of the Massachusetts Grand Lodge was an invasion of the rights of the Chili Grand Orient. The next case which Bro. Norton adduces of the Lodge of Hebrew Masons chartered at Frankfort-on-the-Maine, by our late Grand Master the Duke of Sussex, is no help to him whatever, and we are surprised so skilful a dialectician as Bro. Norton should have committed so grave an error as he has done in this paragraph of the above commentary. In the first place, when the Duke of Sussex was Grand Master, Frankfort-on-the-Maine was a free Imperial city, having its own government and laws, but no supreme Masonic authority; and if it chose to place itself Masonically under the wing of our English Grand Lodge, there was no power on earth could say it nay. It was only at the conclusion of the Seven Weeks' war in 1866, that this Frankfort became incorporate with the North German Confederation, and it is now part and parcel of the German Empire. This Lodge is no longer on the roll of the Grand Lodge of England, and therefore this illustration is a serious detriment instead of an assistance to Bro. Norton's argument. But the most egregious error which our amiable contributor has fallen into is in affirming that what the Duke of Sussex did, during his tenure of the Grand Mastership (1813-1843), in the way of violating a German jurisdiction which did not at the time exist, justified an irregular action on the part of Grand Master the Duke of Cumberland, who reigned, Masonically, from 1782 to 1790—the year of his death. We see clearly enough that a precedent established by the Duke of Cumberland would justify the conduct of any one of his successors, but not how the conduct of any Grand Master would serve as a precedent for one of his predecessors. This is something like the proverbial Irishman's progression backwards, or as though we might say that certain people inherited their property from their heirs and successors. Bro. Norton, you must have just a wee drop of Irish blood in your veins, or you never would have made such a bull. Nevertheless, very dear Brother—in imagination, of course—we take you friendly by the hand, and wish you God speed in all your undertakings, Masonic and profane. Only, please be careful in other discussions not to reverse the natural order of things, and justify the past by the future. We greet you well, Bro. Norton, and send you hearty good wishes for a merry Christmastide and a happy New Year.—ED. FREEMASONS' CHRONICLE.]

THE MAGAZINES OF THE MONTH.

Blackwood commences with a further part of "A Woman Hater." Dr. Rhoda Gale again plays an important part, and is destined, we imagine, to render valuable aid in unravelling certain mysterious antecedents in the history of Mr. Severn, who is now engaged to marry Miss Vizard. The picture of the ancestral home of the Vizards is admirably drawn, and indeed in all the scenes depicted in this section of the story the writer has succeeded even beyond expectation. As regards the story of "The Secret Chamber," our readers will gather from the title what is its character. It is not too much to say that it possesses a "thrilling" interest—that we believe to be the proper expression—while, at the same time, it comes legitimately within the range of family mysteries. "A Winter Reverie" is delightful reading, and so, too, No. III. of "Devious Rambles with a Definite Object." The other contributions include a lively description of "A German Bath," a review of "Prejevalsky's Mongolia and Solitudes of Northern Thibet," together with the usual political article, the subject of which is "The Conference at Constantinople." Those of our readers whose political views are the same as Maga's, will, no doubt, derive much pleasure from reading it.

We rarely see a number of Temple Bar which is not crowded with articles exhibiting a very high order of merit. This month fiction, history, and dramatic criticism are worthily represented; the first, by Mr. Anthony Trollope's story of "The American Senator," and "My Uncle's Darling;" the second, by an able sketch of "Henry the Fourth and la Belle Gabrielle;" and the last by another of the series of very popular sketches of "Our old Actors," "The Elder Matthews" being the actor whose career and attributes the writer has chosen to pourtray. Then there are biographical sketches of the late "George Stubbs, R.A.," and a short essay on "Vulgarity," with a Spanish picture, cleverly described, of "Toilers on the River." But the verses by G. J. Whyte-Melville, entitled "The Object of a Life," are unquestionably the chief attraction of the number.

Another magazine to which we are always ready to accord a hearty welcome is Cornhill. The new serial story, commenced last month, of "Erema; or, my Father's Sin," is worthy of all praise, while in "Caritâ," which has been current for a longer time, the interest is well sustained, the story being life-like, and full of incident. "Towards the North Pole," as the title indicates, describes the progress of Arctic discovery, and our readers may be sure that the expedition recently returned to England claims its share of attention; its sledge labours being principally noticed. An essay on "Culture and Modern Poetry," and two biographical sketches of "Charles of Orleans," and "Abraham Cowley," complete the list of contributions.

Belly contains a short, but well-written history, entitled "The Straight Tip," together with a continuation of "The Recollections of Mr. Coleman." Those who are fond of analysing the performances of our Public School Cricketers will find ample to employ their leisure moments on "Cricket; the School Averages," in which the batting and bowling averages of each member of the principal Public Schools Elevens is carefully recorded, and the leading characteristics of each boy's play described. "Our Van" is more heavily laden than usual, while the quality is, as usual, excellent.

Tinsleys' has latterly varied its programme very considerably, and beyond all question for the better. Serial fiction still occupies the most prominent place in the programme; but, relatively to the other contents, the prominence is no longer so distinguishable. Thus Mr. Albert Vandam contributes a paper on "Dramatic Adaptation," for which "Peril" at the Prince of Wales serves as the text. The author of "The Old Candidate" and other works writes a tale, entitled "Vaccination to Matrimony." In addition are an article on "Darwinism," by Mr. Henry Penning; "A Quest," in two chapters; "Too Late to Mend," and "Veneer," by W. Macliris. In the way of poetry we find another of the "Love Songs of all Nations," and a gracefully-written set of verses on "True Friendship," by Mrs. M. A. Baines, whose acrostics on the months we have had so much pleasure in quoting in previous issues. This little poem we take leave to reproduce here.

Oh! for a kind and loving friend,
Who knows our better thoughts untold;
Who'll for truth's sake our name defend,
And virtues more than faults unfold!

Oh! for a pair of trustful eyes
To look into our own, and see
What's hidden from the worldly-wise,
Yet all so plain to you and

Oh! for an honest hand to clasp,
When heart and hand are pledged to you!
Th' unspoken promise of that grasp,
Would say, "'Twill be ever true."

When earthly friends are false, and prove
How fleeting are all things below;
For peace turn to the FRIEND above,
No change can such love ever know.

A new volume of Cassell's Family Magazine is commenced this month, and with it two new serial tales, one by J. Berwick Harwood, entitled "Paul Knox, Pitman;" and the other, "My Guardian," by Miss Ada Cambridge. We like them both, and shall watch their progress with keen interest. Miss Julia Goddard contributes some very appropriate "Christmas Verses." The bulk of the other contributions are of a practical character, such as the directions laid down in answer to the question, "What shall we do before the Doctor comes?" "Gardening in December," Mr. Payne's very seasonable instructions about bishop, mulled claret, and wassail-bowl, and other "Christmas Cheer," "How to Decorate a House at Christmas Time," together with "Chit-Chat on Dress," and "The Gatherer's" Notes. In addition to these are "Some Curiosities of Evergreens," contributed by Mr. J. E. Taylor, F.L.S., F.G.S., &c., and a readable account of "Windsor Castle and its Romances." The frontispiece is a well-executed engraving of "Windsor Castle."

We have received from the same firm of publishers (Messrs. Cassell, Petter and Galpin) Part I. of a new Natural History, intended for the use of the student and general reader, and giving all the latest information derived from authentic sources. This work will be issued in monthly parts, at the modest price of sevenpence each part, and will be illustrated with about two thousand wood engravings. Knowing, as we do, the value of these various serial publications, we strongly advise any of our readers whose library may not be already furnished with such a work, to order this Natural History to be sent them regularly. This Part I. treats of "Quadrumana-Apes and Monkeys," and is unquestionably an excellent number. If succeeding parts exhibit the same degree of merit and the same accuracy of description, the work, when completed, will, indeed, be a treasure to the naturalist.

In Part IV. of The Countries of the World," we find ourselves still lingering in the Arctic regions, but progress is gradually being made to a southerly direction. The whale fishery is noticed at some length, and there is a very good engraving of "Attacking a Whale with a Hand Harpoon."

Among the contents of the Leisure Hour must be mentioned the first part of an interesting biography of "Joseph Mazzini," a description of "Ormuz," an account of "The American Centennial Exhibition," and a paper on "Early Civilisation," in which the Rev. Canon Rawlinson sums up the results of the inquiries in previous papers. "Wit in Court" is highly amusing, while No. IV. of "American Caricaturists" is a worthy sequel to the former three. There are two admirable papers, entitled respectively "Iron Mining and Iron Manufacture in India," and "London District Post-Offices," nor must we overlook the merits of "Antiquarian Gossip on the Months" and "Weather Proverbs." These last are brought to a close, with some general instructions for correctly reading the barometer, as December furnishes only one proverb:—

"Thunder in December presages fine weather."

In the way of Antiquarian Gossip, we find a more interesting array of old and quaint customs than usual. We requote the following from Gay's Trivia on St. Stephen's, or, as it is more generally known, Boxing-day:—

"Some boys are rich by birth, beyond all wants,
Beloved by uncles and kind good all aunts;
When time comes round a Christmas-box they bear,
And one day makes them rich for all the year.

At Drayton Beauchamp, in the county of Bucks, it seems, there was a custom for this day called Stephening. All the inhabitants had to go the rectory, and eat as much bread and cheese, and drink as much ale, as they chose, at the expense of the rector. In Scotland, the last day of the year is known as "Hogmanay." It is a great holiday, and, early in the morning, children go round to the better class of houses for the customary dole of oaten bread, singing at the same time—

"Hogmanay, Trollolay,
Give us of your white bread and none of your grey."

We note that, in the Sunday at Home, Dr. Stoughton's series of articles on "Westminster Abbey" is still current, while Mrs. Finn contributes No. IV. of her series of papers on "Agriculture in Palestine."

The Royal Masonic Cyclopædia of History, Rites, Symbolism, and Biography. Part V. Edited by Kenneth R. H. Mackenzie, IX° ("Cryptonymus"). London: Bro. John Hogg, 15A Paternoster-row, E.C.

THIS part takes us as far as the beginning of the letter S, and there only remains one more part to be issued, when the Cyclopædia will be complete. We notice the same evidence of careful research and thoughtful selection of matter on the part of the Editor in this as in the preceding parts, and we are quite satisfied the work, when perfect, will prove an invaluable addition to every studious Mason's library. Bro. Mackenzie is worthy of all praise for the time and labour he must have spent in the preparation of this work, and we trust the brethren will show their appreciation of his Cyclopædia by purchasing it.

ERRATIC SHILLINGS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I confess I am at a loss to understand why the shilling difference between a guinea and a pound should be described by your correspondent "ALPHA" as an "erratic" shilling. He very properly advocates the conversion of the pound subscription to the R.M.B.I. into a guinea one; but the shilling which is needed to change the former into the latter has no existence, and cannot therefore be erratic, or anything else. It is simply, as the present Sir Robert Peel, I believe, once said in the House of Commons of something, "conspicuous by its absence." However, I fully recognise the propriety of the change which "ALPHA" recommends, and the justice of the grounds on which he recommends it. The man who contributes a pound would as readily contribute a guinea, and these insignificant shilling differences must, in a subscription of (say £10,000), increase the total amount by the very handsome sum of £500—that is, of enough to pay for additional 12½ male annuitants at the increased rate of £40, or of about 20 at the rate of £26 per annum. There is, so far as I can see, no reason whatever why the terms of subscription to the Benevolent should not be assimilated to those of the Girls' and Boys' Institutions. Let it be "guineas" in the case of all three, and I do not doubt the extra shillings will be "erratic" enough to find their way into the coffers of the Benevolent, as they do now into those of the other two charities.

So far I recognise the propriety of ALPHA'S suggestion, and shall be delighted beyond measure if between now and the month of February next so excellent a change is made. But the proposal to elect additional male annuitants at an inferior rate should not be made too hastily. For my part, I think it would be a far better plan to increase the invested property of the Institution, so that it may be better prepared to guard against "a rainy day." We cannot always reckon on the annual festivals yielding their £10,000 or £12,000. A war, the rumour of war, the momentary depression of trade, or other cause, will be sure to affect people as well in their bestowal of alms as in their ordinary expenditure. In any one of these contingencies arising, there will, in fact, be less to give, and consequently less for our Institutions to receive. However, let us take a leaf out of Mrs. Grundy's book. Let us first catch these "erratic" shillings. It will be time enough then to consider about their disposal.

At all events I am wholly for the guineas, as I am wholly and fraternally yours,

"R. C."

ORDER OF PROCEEDING AT LODGES OF INSTRUCTION.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I belong to a Lodge of Instruction, one of whose bye-laws decrees that on the first meeting of the month the ceremony and Lecture of the first degree is to be worked. At the meeting this week, our worthy Preceptor was unavoidably absent. The W.M. having concluded the ceremony of initiation, no one present was competent to put the questions of the sections. There being yet an hour to spare, and no initiate present, it was suggested that the Lodge should be opened in a higher degree, and either the W.M., or some brother by his appointment, should rehearse another ceremony. Exception, however, was taken to this proposition, on the ground that such a course was contrary to the bye-laws, and, if adopted, the matter, if brought under the notice of the Mother Lodge, would undoubtedly incur censure. After some discussion, the W.M. offered to vacate the chair in favour of any brother who would work the 1st degree, but no one volunteering, he went through the ceremony again.

Will you kindly permit me to ask, through your columns, whether, under the circumstances, we were bound to remain in the first degree?

We had complied with the bye-laws as far as we were able, and certainly there is nothing in its wording which limits us to the first degree. If we are to be thoroughly consistent with the literal rendering, we ought always to work the seven sections, as well as the ceremony, instead of a portion only of the former, as is usually done.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

T. W. OCKENDEN.

"A MASON" ON FREEMASONRY.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The thanks of every true Mason is due to you for the very able leading article in your issue of the 9th inst. It hardly seems possible that a member of our Order, of 25 years' standing, could so mistake our tenets and the teachings of our whole system, as to assert that "Masonry is antagonistic to Religion." The question is, what does the individual making the assertion understand by religion? Very many are apt to look upon outward form and ceremony as true religion, utterly ignoring the pure sentiment itself which Freemasonry so forcibly teaches by inculcating Brotherly Love and Charity. Viewed in this light, I believe that Masonry is antagonistic to the spread of sectarianism, so often miscalled religion; for it teaches a man to look beyond the trammels of prejudice, and the narrow mindedness of sect, and to found his religion on a surer and broader basis. As an example of this, we need only refer to our Jewish brethren; surely they cannot be called an irreligious body, and yet we see with what zeal they enter into our mysteries, casting aside much of what was traditionary bigotry. As a proof of this I may mention that last Friday night the son of the Jewish minister of Newcastle-upon-Tyne was exalted in the Chapter "De Sussex," in the presence and with the consent of his father. Knowing the great sanctity with which the Jewish Sabbath is observed, we can hail this as a great fact to show that Masonry and religion can go hand-in-hand; and as an answer to the gross calumny that our Order is antagonistic to the spread of religion.

Yours fraternally,

R. A.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I hope our Bro. Stevens has not lost sight of, nor exhausted this subject. These differences of opinion are of service to those who take any interest in the Craft.

Yours fraternally,

VIGILANT.

THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

THE following officers of the Chapter "De Goede Hoop," have been elected for the ensuing year:—R. le Sueur President, J. C. Weasels Inspector, J. T. C. Ingleby S.W., H. P. du Preez J.W., J. G. Maynard Orator, J. Wocke Treasurer, T. Pybus Chancellor, R. W. Robins Examiner, G. Manuel M. of C., K. N. de Kock Ambassador, E. Brandt Organist.

From the Diamond Field we take the following gratifying incident in connection with the Masonic Lodge "Peace and Harmony," at Dutoitspan:—"Before the departure of the Junior Warden of this Lodge for Cape Town, on Wednesday week, the following address, beautifully engrossed by Bro. Charles Martell sen., was presented to him:—

"To Bro. William Glendenning Welch, Junior Warden, Lodge 'Peace and Harmony,' Dutoitspan.

"DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—We, the undersigned, officers and other members of the Lodge 'Peace and Harmony,' working under Charter of the Grand East of the Netherlands, beg to express our regret at your departure from amongst us; and we desire to assure you that our most kindly and fraternal wishes will follow you to whatever sphere you may be called upon to labour in.

"From the time you first saw the light in our Lodge you have been most regular in your attendance at labour, most intelligent in assisting the Rulers of the Craft, and unceasing in exertion to promote the true principles of the Order. By the zeal you have displayed others have been induced to emulate your action, with advantage to our Lodge and to the Fraternity generally. As Junior Warden of the Lodge 'Peace and Harmony' you have given the brethren unqualified satisfaction, and we regard with affectionate approval the hearty manner in which at all times you practically showed your devotion to those beautiful principles of our Order:—

"BROTHERLY LOVE, RELIEF, AND TRUTH.

"We trust that the Great Architect of the Universe may be pleased to bless you in all your undertakings, to direct your footsteps in the right path, to guide your thoughts always to the true conception of man's mission here, so that in endeavouring faithfully to fulfil God's will as revealed, you may be rewarded hereafter by a seat in

To this Bro. Welch made the following reply:—

"WORSHIPFUL SIR AND BRETHREN,—I feel grateful to the brethren of the Lodge 'Peace and Harmony,' for the expression of their kind wishes on my leaving Dutoitspan, and thus necessarily ceasing to be an active member of the Lodge. From my connection with the Lodge 'Peace and Harmony' I have derived much profitable instruction, and from my intercourse with the brethren no ordinary pleasure. Wherever I may be, I shall watch with unceasing interest the progress of my Mother Lodge, and I trust the precepts impressively inculcated by its Masonic teachings may never be forgotten by me.

"I would wish to make special acknowledgment of the truly fraternal treatment I have always received at the hands of my brethren, and of the kindness which they invariably have extended to me. If, as one of the principal officers of the Lodge, I have succeeded in winning your approval, the fact is, in a great measure, due to the support my brethren have always accorded to me.

"Yours gratefully and fraternally,

"W. G. WELCH."

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—In variable temperatures, cold wet weather, and damp, foggy atmospheres, what is to be done to keep the human body healthy, to protect the weak, to renovate the diseased? The reply is: supplement the suppressed action of the skin, through an alterative like these Pills, by a freer action on the bowels, liver and kidneys; this will preserve the delicate internal structures from congestion, irritation, and inflammation, and carry off those noxious matters ordinarily transmitted through the integument. A course so natural must commend itself, and elicit the unqualified approbation of all who think and understand how nature invariably aids a defective organ by accomplishing its unperformed functions by means of increased activity elsewhere.

SIXTH ANNUAL RE-UNION OF THE MEMBERS OF MOTHER KILWINNING IN GLASGOW.

THIS re-union was held in St. John's Hall, which was kindly lent for the occasion. Bro. J. M. McCash, Esq., of Dalry, R.W.M. of 290, presided; supported by Bros. R. Wylie Sec. P.P.G.M. of Ayrshire, D. M. Nelson R.W.M. 3 bis G.S.D., Muller G.D. of M., R. Smithson of 1270 (E.C.), J. Easton I.P.M. 579, P.G.S.W. Glasgow, J. Walker Sec. of the Committee. The Croupiers were Bros. H. Taylor as S.W., supported by Bros. J. F. Tweed P.J.W., G. W. Wheeler, J. Speirs, Gavin Park, G. Nelson and Donaldson, and the J.W., W. Jamison, supported by Bros. Scobo, McWalters, McMillan and Duncan. Amongst the other distinguished guests were Bros. R. Bell P.E.C. and Wm. Shaw E.C. of St. Mungo Encampment, along with Colonel Robertson the American Consul, Bros. Baillie Donald of Aberdeen, J. A. Fergerson P.S.W., and Whinton, the Treasurer, and oldest member of Mother Kilwinning. Letters of apology were read from Colonel Muir P.G.M., R. Montigue P.G.W., Wor. Bro. Partick S.P.G.M., and J. Baird S.E.M. Glasgow. After ample justice had been done to the purveying of Bro. Shand, the Steward of St. John's Hall, the Chairman, in a few well chosen remarks, gave the "Queen and the Craft." God save the Queen was sung by Bro. Clarke. The Prince of Wales, Grand Patron of Scottish Masonry. "God bless the Prince of Wales," was given by Bro. Nelson. "The three Grand Lodges of England, Ireland and Scotland," was given from the chair, and responded to by Bro. D. M. Nelson G.S.D., who said his experience as a Grand Lodge officer was only that of a few days, but he felt sure that Sir Michael S. Stewart was a man of energy and ability, and he would set himself to work to remedy the evils pointed out by the Chairman now that they had been brought under his notice, and, as a humble member, he should be glad to lend his aid to the work; in fact, the Province of Glasgow had long since set an example in this direction. It was a rather a curious coincidence that the three Grand Masters had all a connexion with the neighbouring province—for the Prince of Wales was Baron of Renfrew, the Duke of Abercorn is Marquis of Paisley, and they all knew that their own G.M. had his principal seat in that county. Well, in addition, they had the services of Colonel Campbell of Blythswood, whom all knew to be a practical man, whether in Masonry or any thing connected with the interest of the county. He felt sure that in future the Grand Lodge would see that their practice was more fully in accordance with their excellent precepts. (Applause).

The J.W. Bro. W. Jamison, in a brief speech, gave the "Grand Lodges of America," and called on Bro. W. Shaw E.C. of St. Mungo Encampment, who had just returned from there, to respond, which he did, giving an interesting account of the kind way in which himself and P.E. Commander Robt. Bell had been received, both in the United States and Canada. Also a sketch of the rise of the Order in the States, more particularly of its progress in Philadelphia from 1730, its formation into a District Grand Lodge in 1732, and its forming an Independent Grand Lodge in 1785, then describing the rapid progress and their present magnificent temple, which is larger than that of King Solomon, and almost rivals it in magnificence; while they have 370 Lodges on their roll, and a membership of 38,328. Wherever he went he found a great respect for Scotch Masonry, and a deep-seated veneration for the Mother Lodge of Kilwinning, as being the cradle from whence the present system had sprung. (Cheers.) His only regret was that this response had not been given by Sir Knight R. Bell, or their mutual friend Colonel Robertson, the American Consul for Leith. The Croupier gave "The Army, Navy, and Reserve Forces," dwelling on the excellence of each arm of the service, and the significance of the toast at the present time. Bro. Captain Donaldson responded, showing the patriotic nature of the Volunteer Corps, the extra qualifications that were now required from its officers, which were calculated to give more confidence to the men. Should our regulars be called upon to go abroad, he felt quite confident of the ability of the volunteers to protect our shores from foreign invaders. The Chairman then gave the toast of the evening, "The Mother Lodge," the formation of which, he said, was coeval with the building of the Abbey in 1140. From that time to the present they had steadfastly continued at work, partly as operative, but latterly purely as speculative Masons; and though they had done so much for Masonry, Masonry had done but very little for them. They had heard of the magnificence of the Temple at Philadelphia, and though he would not say their old Lodge room was a disgrace to them, still he must say it was not worthy of the high place the Lodge held in Masonry; and he trusted that her sons who dwelt in Glasgow, and had the capital, would soon try to assist in getting a better home for the Old Lady who had cradled Masonry in its infancy, and not only so, but had granted many charters to daughter Lodges in the olden times, thus spreading a knowledge of the Craft. About the beginning of the century her rulers—and he would not now dispute their wisdom—agreed to give up their old privileges to a Parliament of Lodges meeting in Edinburgh. This Parliament should be the servant, but he was sometimes afraid they were trying to become the masters, of the Lodges. He was glad there were two Grand Lodge officers present, and that Bro. Nelson had assured them of the desire of the G.L. to redress their grievances, for they did feel in the West that they had some serious grievances; but he would be willing to put their complaints into Bro. Nelson's hands and he hoped he would be able to get a satisfactory settlement of some of them, so that when they next met he might be able to say we have no more serious complaints to make from Ayrshire. (Cheers.) The next toast was, "Our Last-laid Stones." Bro. J. A. Fergerson Proxy S.W. said it was at all times pleasant to have to propose such a toast. He had often done so, but never with greater gratification than on this occasion; for on Wednesday they had initiated five gentlemen, all of whom he believed would be an honour to the Craft. He would ask Baillie McDonald, an old friend of twenty-five years standing to respond. Bro. McDonald said it might be asked why an old man like him should wish to join the Order. Well, he had done so because he had found that their boast of their universal brotherhood was something more than a name; it was a reality. Last year he had been on the Continent, with Bro. Fergerson's partner, Bro. Shaw. They wanted some important information there, and Bro. Shaw applied for it to a Brother Mason at Bruges. He was not at home, but his good lady was, and she was worthy of being a Mason's wife, for she gave them the required information, treated them kindly, and sent them on their way to Ostend. Here they met with another Mason, a perfect stranger; but he treated Mr. Shaw as a brother, and me also, because I was a friend of his. Well, this year Bro. Shaw was in America, and there, because he was a Mason, and a son of Mother Kilwinning, they did not appear as if they could do enough for him; and he (Bro. Macdonald) seeing the reality of Masonic brotherhood, had joined, and hoped he should be no disgrace to the Order. Bro. Wylie P.G.S. Ayrshire, proposed "The Province of Glasgow." This, he said, had long been known as the model Province in Scotland; it had twenty-nine Lodges, the next in size and number to Ayrshire. It was full of life and activity. These Lodges were all working well, and keeping up the old landmarks; they had likewise a good benevolent fund: in fact, if all the Provinces would go and do likewise, there would not be the complaint of which they had heard. He had hoped that his old and respected friend, John Baird P.S.G.M., would have replied, but, in his absence, he would ask Bro. G. W. Wheeler to do so. Bro. Wheeler said it was an unexpected honour to have to reply, but, fortunately, the state of the Province had been so ably described by their esteemed Secretary, that he need not say much. As to the grievances of which the chairman had spoken, he could assure him he might rely on the Province of Glasgow to assist in redressing them. Fortunately we have, as P.G. officers, men of energy as well as of ability. They efficiently superintend each Lodge, look to their working, and also into their books, so seeing that work was efficiently performed between the times of visitation. By the system of putting on a small sum to the entrance fee of each initiate, they had raised a good Benevolent Fund, and they were pleased to see and hear of the progress of other Provinces, and, as on this occasion, to meet with the office-bearers of another Province, and assure them of their willingness to assist them in effecting any reform in the G.L. that might be necessary. By their Master and Wardens attending at G.L., they had been able, after the lapse of some years, to put in a representative from the West at the last election. At the next they must get in a Mother Kilwinning man for Ayrshire, and so assist to carry on the true principles of Masonry by rewarding merit. (Cheers.) The Chairman then gave "Our Hosts, the Lodge St. John's, No. 3 bis." He had previously no idea they had so fine a hall in Glasgow, and he found that while they would not let their hall, they were willing to grant the free use of it to the Mother Lodge. Bro. Nelson, R.W.M. of St. John's, said he was pleased when his Mother Lodge was praised, because he knew she deserved it; and it afforded them—the oldest Lodge in Glasgow—pleasure to open their hall for the annual meeting of the Glasgow members of the oldest Lodge in Ayrshire, if not in the world. Bro. McGregor R.W.M., of No. 458, St. John's, Busby, responded on behalf of the visitors. "The Lord Provost and Magistrates of Glasgow" was proposed by Bro. Taylor, and responded to by ex-Councillor Nelson. Bro. Scott gave "The Press," which was responded to by Bro. J. Stewart, of the Daily Mail. The Chairman then gave "Colonel Robertson and all American Masons." The gallant Colonel expressed the pleasure he felt at being present. Bro. R. Bell also replied. Thanks to the Chairman, Croupiers, and Committee, who had got up the meeting, were given and responded to, Bro. J. A. Fergerson replying for the Committee. The excellent singing of Bros. J. Clark, Nelson, Brodie, Wallace, McWaters, Shira, Scobo, and Ross contributed much to enhance the pleasure of the meeting.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The Committee Meeting of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution was held on Wednesday, the 13th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. Col. Creaton V.P. in the chair. The Secretary, Bro. Jas. Terry, read the minutes of the former meeting, which were confirmed. A letter was read, announcing that H.R.H. Prince Leopold would take the chair at the next Anniversary Festival, which is to be held on the 12th of February, instead of the 14th, as previously announced. The secretary informed the Committee that a cheque for £50, less legacy duty, had been received from the executors of the late Bro. Gates. He also informed them that, up to the present time, there were 175 Stewards. The death of one male annuitant was announced. Eight male and six female candidates were placed on the list of annuitants. Bro. J. Constable proposed that the use of the Hall at Croydon be granted, on the 3rd January, for the purpose of giving the annuitants the Annual Entertainment. A vote of thanks was accorded to the chairman. There were present Bros. S. Rawson, Hyde Pullen, Jas. Brett, W. Stephens, Griffiths Smith, A. H. Tattershall, J. Nunn, J. W. White, R. H. Grant, T. Cubitt, J. Newton, Case, H. M. Levy, Warren, C. F. Hogard, H. Massey, J. Constable, Erasmus Wilson, Hill, Nettleship, &c.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a spice of the old humour, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' all the same time, he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"It reflects much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have earned for him a reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'connterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cricket Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Dewl, Wilmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Bangfshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

LAST Saturday the Queen held a Council at Windsor, at which the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, the Lord Chancellor, the Lord Chamberlain, and the Right Hon. Stephen Cave, M.P., were present. Parliament, which stood prorogued to the 12th instant, was further prorogued till 8th February, on which day it will meet for the despatch of business. The Marquess of Tweeddale had an audience of Her Majesty for the purpose of delivering up the badge and riband of the Order of the Thistle worn by his late father. Captain John Richardson having then been presented as Secretary of the Order in succession to his father, Sir John Richardson, Sir William Stirling Maxwell, Bart., preceded by Captain Richardson, the Secretary, was introduced into the Royal presence, received the honour of knighthood, and was then invested with the insignia of the Thistle. Captain George S. Nares, R.N., preceded by Sir Albert W. Woods, Registrar and Secretary of the Bath, was then introduced to Her Majesty, received the honour of knighthood, and was invested with the insignia of the Civil Division of the Second Class or Knights Commanders of the Bath. Captain Henry Stephenson, R.N., also received from the Queen the insigna of the Third Class (Civil), or Companions of the Bath. The Prince and Princess Christian dined with Her Majesty on Saturday, as did the Right Hon. the Home Secretary, Mr. Theodore Martin, and Sir William S. Maxwell.

The same day His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales arrived at Marlborough House from a visit to the Maharajah Dhuleep Sing, at Elvedon Hall, Thetford. On Monday, the Princess of Wales, accompanied by the Princess Louis of Hesse, and attended by her suite, returned to Marlborough House from Sandringham. On Tuesday the Prince of Wales was present at the meeting in St. James's Hall of the Royal Geographical Society, when Captains Sir George Nares, Stephenson, and Markham, severally read some highly interesting papers relating to the recent Arctic discoveries, the first of them being general in its character, and noting the results of the expedition; while Captain Stephenson described the winter quarters of the Discovery, and how he and her officers and crew passed the winter; and Captain Markham directed his attention chiefly to the various sledging expeditions that were undertaken. Sir Rutherford Alcock, the President, occupied the chair, and, at the conclusion of the addresses, the Prince of Wales proposed a vote of thanks. He was eloquently supported by a former President of the Society, Sir Henry Rawlinson, and, at the suggestion of the Chairman, the vote was passed with three enthusiastic cheers.

On Friday last, what was designated as a Conference, was held at St. James's Hall, for the purpose of denouncing sympathy with the Turks. The Duke of Westminster took the chair at the commencement of the proceedings at twelve o'clock. A variety of speakers having expressed their views on the subject, a brief adjournment took place. On reassembling at 4 p.m., the Earl of Shaftesbury took the chair, and the discussion of the pre-arranged topics was continued, among the speakers being Mr. Gladstone, who delivered one of his impassioned addresses to an excited and sympathetic audience. Whether these appeals of his are better calculated to secure peace than the calm judicial action of our Foreign Secretary is a matter which may fairly be questioned. Our readers will, of course, decide this for themselves. For our own part we begin to think these so-called conferences and meetings are a public nuisance; and, for this reason, we shall be thankful when Parliament meets, about the usual time in February.

A large and influential meeting was held at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on Tuesday—the Archbishop of Canterbury in the chair—for the purpose of considering the best means of promoting a memorial to the late Mr. George Moore. Lord Hampton, Sir Sydney Waterlow, Bishop Claughton, the Rev. Dr. Stoughton, Alderman Lawrence, and others were present. Letters expressing regret at being unable to attend, and approval of the objects of the meeting, were read from the Duke of Westminster, Lord Muncaster, Earl Russell, Lord Shaftesbury, the Bishops of London and Carlisle, &c., &c. The Archbishop of Canterbury having briefly addressed those present, a series of resolutions, to the effect that a memorial should be established, that subscriptions to that end be raised, and that a Committee be appointed to carry out the scheme, were duly proposed, seconded, and unanimously agreed to. A cordial vote of thanks to the Chair brought the proceedings to a close.

Last Saturday saw the end of the Smithfield Club Cattle Show, and the dispersion of the animals which had been exhibited. Many of them, of course, have already found their way into the market, while others, again, have been sent to try their fortune at other Agricultural Shows. On Wednesday, the Birmingham fat Cattle Show, which ordinarily precedes that held at the Agricultural Hall, was opened, and remains open till Monday. This, next to our London Show, is one of the most important in the country, and we are not surprised to learn that it has proved a great success both in the quality and number of the entries, the latter, as compared with last year, being—in cattle, 204 to 119; in sheep, 105 to 72; and in pigs, 66 to 41. Most of our best breeders were represented. Mr. Joseph Stratton won the first prize for shorthorn heifers, and also a special prize of £100. Mr. Kidner, whose Devon ox took the Champion Plate as the best beast in the Smithfield Club Show, was here, also, best in Devons, and likewise took the Elkington Challenge Shield, his exhibit being pronounced the best in the Show. Lords Lonsdale, Walsingham, and Chesham were among the principal winners of sheep prizes. The show of pigs was excellent, and there was a very numerous exhibition of poultry and pigeons, the poultry exhibits being a little over 2,000, and the pigeons 670.

A further series of experiments with the 80-ton gun is being conducted at Shoeburyness, and the artillerists who are watching them appear to express themselves satisfied with the results. If not as monstrous as the guns built for the Italian Government by Sir William Armstrong, these Woolwich infants seem to be as formidable an engine of war as we are likely to need. A bolt that weighs three quarters of a ton, with a charge of 370 lbs, ought to be enough to break through any defences which could be raised against it, nor does it much matter if a ship is sunk or well smashed by a 100-tonner or an 80-tonner. However, it seems to be generally conceded that as Italy has bought a bigger gun from one of our manufacturers than we have got for our own use, we must not remain as we are, but set to work manufacturing 160-tonners, and if need be, 200-tonners. When, however, we have got so far, it will be necessary to design larger and heavier metalled ships, till at length the limit of gun-making and ship-building will be reached, we presume, at last.

Early on Tuesday morning a terrible collision occurred between two barques, of Boston and Liverpool respectively, some eighteen miles off the Start Point, Devon, whereby fifteen lives have been lost. The Liverpool barque, named the Huddersfield, sank in a few minutes; two of her crew, however, contrived to get aboard the Robert Kelly, of Boston, the remaining fifteen being lost. Shortly after, the Robert Kelly was found to be in a sinking condition, and had to be abandoned, those on board, to the number of nineteen, and including the captain's wife, taking to an open boat. Fortunately, after tossing about for some two hours, they were picked up by the brigantine Avoka, though, the sea being so rough at the time, each person had to fasten a rope round him, and be dragged on board. The rescued people were landed at Portland on Wednesday, and were received at the Sailors' Home, Weymouth, where they met with every attention from the officials.

Matters do not appear to be running smoothly in connection with the Presidential election. It is said the canvassing boards have declared the election in South Carolina and Florida to have resulted in a victory for the Republican candidate, Hayes. On the other hand, it is urged that these two States are admittedly Democratic, and that, if the returning officers have done their duty fairly as between the rival parties, there is no doubt the election has gone in favour of Tilden, the Democrat. We know not what may happen, but it is evident there is a rapidly growing excitement about the issue throughout the whole of the United States, and the conduct of the President, of the military, and others, is being fiercely canvassed. We trust the man who is returned will be the man who has really received the majority of votes.

The news from Constantinople appears to be of a far more reassuring character than any we have received for some time past, and the belief is gaining ground that after all there may be no conflict between Turkey and Russia, and therefore no danger of this local being converted into a general European war. A number of preliminary meetings of the plenipotentiaries are being held, with a view, no doubt, to define strictly the questions which will have to be formally decided by the Conference. Some feeling is said to have been expressed in Turkish circles at the non-participation of the Turkish plenipotentiaries in these preliminary conferences, but this will not, we hope, be productive of very serious results. We trust these bright hopes may be realised; but unless we know the real value of the reports that reach this country, we should not like to pin our faith to newspaper telegrams. While there is peace, there is always hope it may continue, and this we sincerely trust may be borne out in the present case.

CRITICISM AND DRAMATIC CRITICS.

WITHOUT laying ourselves open to the charge of being laudatores temporis acti, we think we may safely express our conviction that the dramatic criticism of the present day is not what it has been in times past. We do not merely refer to the period when Hazlitt, Leigh Hunt, Charles Lamb, and Wainwright were the principal writers of this species of literature, but even a generation later than this we contend a sounder and healthier criticism prevailed than is to be found at the present time. Oxenford and Tom Taylor in their younger days, Henry Morley, Sligsby Lawrence, and Frederick Guest Tomlins formed certainly a stronger phalanx than the Morris's, Scott's, Broughton's, and Thomas's of the present day. The mere fact of the verdicts of dramatic critics being so frequently questioned by theatrical managers, and so often disproved by the logic of events, speaks volumes as to the quality of the criticism, and the respect in which its judgments are held. Nor is this a matter for surprise. Pope tells us that—

"A man must serve his time to every trade, and the conductors of newspapers certainly seem to act upon this conviction. To commence with the deity of Printing House Square, has any man yet been able to discover in its present dramatic critic one single qualification for the post he holds beyond the fact that he is the son of his father? Without fear of contradiction, we assert that in the case of four critics out of every five at present on the London press, the experience and knowledge which they possess has been acquired since they were installed in their posts. Thus it happens that when women with the stature of a giantess, and the manners of a fish fag, purchase an appearance in a leading character, a chorus of admiration is raised by the press critics at their magnificent presence and commanding talents; thus it is that shameless creatures, swept from the streets on to the stage, are permitted to essay impersonation consecrated by the memories of England's most delightful actresses.
Save criticism; critics all are ready made,"

These reflections have been forced upon us by the appearance in the columns of a contemporary of an extraordinary criticism upon the little one-act comedy entitled "Toto chez Tata," in which the charming actress Madame Chaumont so recently appeared. The following is the description of the plot, as given by our contemporary:—"Toto is a youthful student, who becomes fascinated with a Parisian coccotte, and puts aside his lessons, in order to take lessons in love, but his parents and guardians, thinking a schoolboy might be better employed, shut him up, with his book, in a garret, feeding him upon bread and water. The indignant youth tells his story to the audience, and as the curtain falls we find him making merry over a bottle of Malaga, sent from this young lady, who sympathises with him in his imprisonment." Now, we have had the pleasure of witnessing this play on two occasions, and we have the book of it now before us. We are, therefore, in a position to assure our readers that almost every word of this description is incorrect. Toto does not become fascinated by a Parisian coccotte; on the contrary, he is selected by his fellow-students to go and tell the woman that they despise her. He does not put aside his lessons to take lessons in love, for the idea of love, save of love for his parents and guardians, never suggests itself to his mind. His parents and guardians do not shut him up in a garret, for the lad is living at a boarding school, and it is the master of the school who shuts him up. Last, though not least, of this chain of blunders, it is not the young lady who sends him the bottle of Malaga, but his guardian, the Marquise de Chateau-Lafond. After this, may we not ask, what respect or consideration is due to such criticism? Or, need we feel surprised that Mr. Hollingshead, Mr. Chatterton, Mr. Emery, and so many other theatrical managers and actors, should challenge the verdicts of such critics?

Royal Chapter, Kingston, Jamaica, No. 207.—The quarterly convocation of this Chapter was held at Freemasons' Hall, on 26th October. Present—M.E. Comps. Langley Z., Gassia H., Davis J. The election of officers then took place, when the following were elected:—M.E. Gassia Z., Davis H., Sherlock J., Comps. Sindo S.E., Ward S.N., Barned Treasurer, Albeya P.S., Magnus Janitor. This is the oldest Chapter in the Island, having been resuscitated during the last twelve months after an abeyance of fifteen years. The Installation takes place in January.

Glenlyon Lodge, Jamaica, No. 346 (S.C.)—Wor. Bro. H. Dias has been re-elected as Master of the Glenlyon Lodge.

Sussex Lodge, Jamaica, No. 354.—The members of this Lodge, having sold their premises to the Government, have purchased, for £1,200, large and extensive premises, situated in Upper Hanover-street. These will shortly be enlarged and consecrated.

Barr, Southern Star, 1158. The business consisted of the raising of Bro. J. Longstaff. After which a ballot was taken for W.M., Treasurer, and Tyler for ensuing year, which resulted as follows:—W. T. Scott W.M., T. Moring P.M. Treas., James Rawles Tyler. Bro. S. Vallentine was elected Treasurer of Benevolent Fund. After which the brethren appointed the Audit Committee. The Lodge was then closed.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Thursday, the 7th inst., at Bro. Hallows, the Checquers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. Hallows W.M., Badkin S.W., Franklin J.W., Saunders Sec., Pinder P.M. Preceptor, Brand S.D., Sanders J.D., Oldroyd I.G., Christian, Groome, Evennett, Upwood, Weston, &c. Business—The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was admirably rehearsed by the W.M., whom we congratulate on the rapid strides he has made in our beautiful ritual. Bro. Evennett acted as candidate. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, and the first section of the Lecture was worked by Bro. Christian, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Badkin was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Doyle's Lodge, No. 84.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, 13th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Court-place, Guernsey. Present—Bros. Haighton Wilkins W.M., Robert H. Payne S.W., C. W. Inman J.W., Frederick Clarke Sec., J. H. Guilbert Treas., Edward K. Corbin S.D., Jos. H. Parker J.D., Aurelius F. Corbin I.G., Nicholas Manger Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. James Gahieno P.D.P.G.M., J. La Serre, James B. Gardner. Visitors—Bros. Hewitt 749, W. W. Martin, Norton, 69. The bye-laws of the Lodge having been read, according to ancient custom, the election of the Worshipful Master for the ensuing year took place, which resulted in the re-election of Bro. H. Wilkins. Bro. Guilbert was elected Treasurer, and Bro. Manger Tyler. Bro. Charles Poole, of Lodge 21, was elected a joining member.

St. John's Lodge, No. 90.—The regular meeting was held on Monday, the 11th inst., at the Albion, Aldersgate-street, and being the election night a large number of brethren were present. The W.M., Bro. W. W. Venn, occupied the chair. Present—Bros. Eglese, J. Griffin, Stephens, McDougall, Adam, Aldermau and Sheriff Hadley P.G.A.D.C. Past Masters Bros. Brown, Rock, Allison, and several other brethren. Visitors—Bros. East (of Israel, 205, one of the Sheriffs of London), Spicer (of Fitzroy Lodge), Bateman, Gadsby, C. Warwick, Jordan, &c. Business—The Lodge was opened, and the minutes read. Bro. Bowden was passed. The election for W.M. then took place, and was unanimously in favour of Bro. Storiner. Bro. Eglese was re-elected Treasurer. Bro. Goddard P.M. was re-elected Tyler. The Lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, Bro. Sheriff Hadley responding for the Grand Officers. Bro. Hadley proposed the toast of "The Worshipful Master," and dwelt on his excellent working, and the admirable manner in which he discharged the duties of his office. The toast of "The Worshipful Master Elect" was proposed by the W.M., who congratulated the Lodge upon the selection made. The toast of "The Visitors" was responded to by Bro. Sheriff East, who spoke in complimentary terms of the pleasure experienced by him on his visit to the Lodge. The toasts of "The Hon. Secretary," "The Treasurer," and "The Director of Ceremonies" were responded to by the several officers, and "The Officers and Tyler" concluded a most enjoyable evening. Bros. Gadsby, Jordan, and Adam contributed some excellent harmony, and recitations were given by Bros. Allison and Rock.

Prudent Brethren Chapter, No. 145.—This Chapter met on Tuesday, the 12th inst., at Freemason's Hall, Great Queen-street, and was numerously attended, both by members and visitors. Comp. E. A. Long occupied the chair of M.E.Z. Present—T. Bull H., E. Moody J., J. Last P.Z. Treasurer, G. States P.Z. S.E., and P.Z.'s John Boyd, H. Dicketts, W. Platt, Warrington, and E. J. Walford. The Chapter having been opened, and the minutes confirmed, ballots were taken for the admission of Bros. John Jermyn Boyd 23, W. C. Lenty 23, and L. Bishop 60, proposed by Comp. J. Boyd P.Z., and seconded by Comp. H. Dicketts P.Z. The election of Principals and Officers was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—Comp. T. Bull M.E.Z., E. Moody H., E. H. Thiellay J., J. Last Treasurer, G. S. States P.Z. S.E., Manley Asst. S.E., Parkins S.N., Cox P.S., Venn 1st Asst., Haslett 2nd Asst. The M.E.Z. was installed by Comp. Long I.P.Z., and the H. by Comp. John Boyd P.Z. The J., Comp. E. H. Thiellay, was unable to attend, in consequence of indisposition. By the courtesy of the M.E.Z., Comp. John Boyd P.Z. occupied the chair, for the purpose of exalting his son and the other two candidates. The working was fully appreciated by every Comp. present, the principals being perfect in their several parts. Comp. John Boyd then gave the lecture and address, which, being so rarely given, was listened to with great pleasure. Previous to commencing, he stated that as it was seldom that Companions of the Order heard anything but the ceremonies, it was the intention of the Chapter at future meetings to give some portions of the lectures and sections. He then proceeded with the lecture on "The R. A. Jewel." The resignation of two Comps. was accepted, with regret. Comp. Belfrage proposed, and Comp. Long P.Z. seconded, "That a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to Comp. Boyd, for his excellent rendering of the lecture on "The R. A. Jewel." The vote of thanks was carried by acclamation. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions sat down to a very sumptuous banquet, provided by Comp. Dawkins (the manager). Grace having been said, the M.E.Z., with his usual ability and geniality, gave the usual Loyal and Royal Arch toasts. The National Anthem having been sung, by Comps. Theodore Distin, Carter, and Miss Florence Lavender, the toast of "The Grand Z. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales," and the toast of "The Grand H. and J." was next given, coupled with the name of "Col. Creaton P.G.S.B., P.Z. No. 2," who, in responding, said those distinguished noblemen were indeed worthy of the honour they had received, and he felt proud to respond on their behalf; but we must give the meed of praise to this Chapter, which is, indeed, par excellence; it is a model Chapter, and he had never witnessed better working in his life. Comp. Long I.P.Z. then proposed the toast of "The M.E.Z." who, he said, had filled every office in the Lodge and Chapter with credit to himself and satisfaction to the Companions; we can congratulate ourselves on falling under such pleasant superintendence. We are in the constellation Taurus. At the present moment we have on either side stars of lesser magnitude. On each of his horns, and around him, are a cluster of stars, we may call the Pleiades, and we may say we have a miniature representative of the Grand Constellation, the Bull. Comp. Bull responded, and said he thanked them heartily for placing him in the proud position he now occupied, he hoped to discharge his duties to their satisfaction. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of "The Visitors," and mentioned their names seriatim. Many of these were distinguished in the Order, and they were pleased to see them present. Comp. Hyde Pullen P.G.D.C., in a very eloquent speech, returned thanks, and in the course of his remarks paid a compliment to the working he had witnessed in the Chapter. Every detail had been well carried out. He had seen the introduction of the son of Comp. John Boyd P.Z., who he hoped would emulate the bright example of his respected father, whom they were all proud of. (Cheers). In conclusion, he thanked them, in the name of the Visitors, for the hospitality shown them. Comp. Carter sang very sweetly "My Pretty Jane." The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of "The newly exalted Companions," one of whom is a son of our old and esteemed Companion John Boyd, the other his nephew, and the third an old friend, who informs me he has known me for over twenty years. I need not say that, from their excellent recommendations, we are pleased to see them among us. I am sure they will be an acquisition to the Order. Comp. Boyd jun. returned thanks in an excellent speech, and said he felt a pleasure in being among them; it was indeed gratifying to hear the encomiums passed on the working of the Chapter by those distinguished Companions, Colonel Creaton and Hyde Pullen. He paid a deserving compliment to Comps. Boyd and the M.E.Z. for the cordial reception they had met with. Companions W. C. Lenty and L. Bishop followed, with very excellent speeches. The M.E.Z. said he had a very pleasing duty to perform—and that was to propose the health of the "P.Z.'s." They all had seen how admirably they had discharged their duties, but they must not forget the I.P.Z., Comp. Long, remembering how successful his year of office has been, his perfect working, and the many happy hours they had passed under his presidency. Comp. Long, in returning thanks, said: I rise with great pleasure to return thanks on behalf of myself and the Past Principals; it was pleasing to hear from the M.E.Z. and Companions these expressions of satisfaction for the manner the duties had been conducted, but this evening, being a P.Z. for the first time, I feel like a monarch retired from business; but not like him, because, going into retirement, we carry with us the satisfaction of the Companions. The M.E.Z. then proposed "The Health of Comp. E. Moody," the newly installed H., and spoke of his qualifications. They had seen his working, and he was able to fill every office the Chapter required of him. Miss Florence Lavender then sang "Tell me, my Heart," which was deservedly applauded. The M.E.Z. said he had an especial toast, it was a very pleasing one—viz., "The Health of Comp. J. Boyd." (Loud cheers.) It was to him they owed the existence of the Chapter. Whatever duty is required of him he is always ready and willing to perform. You have seen what he has done this evening, and know his worth. The toast was received with great enthusiasm. Comp. Boyd having replied, the M.E.Z proposed the toast of "The Treasurer, Comp. J. Last, together with that of Comp. G. S. States S.E." The M.E.Z. stated he could testify to the ability and zeal they had always shown in the discharge of their respective duties, and he hoped they would be spared for many years to be among them. (Cheers.) Comp. Last returned thanks. He hoped the wishes of the M.E.Z. might be realised. Comp. G. S. States followed, and, in the course of his speech mentioned, the Public Night that was given, when 370 Companions were present. He hoped they would have another, and he was sure it would be numerously attended. He said he thanked them for the confidence reposed in him, which would always be an incentive to him to do his duty. The toasts of "The Junior Officers," and "The Janitor" concluded a most intellectual and harmonious evening. Among the visitors were Comps. S. Rawson V.I.G.S. China, E. G. Scott 77, J. B. Amor Regularity, Col. Creaton P.Z. P.G.J.B. No. 2, Hyde Pullen P.G.D.C., H. G. Buss P.Z. 177, H. Massey P.Z. 619, H. M. Levy P.Z. 188, J. Constable H. elect 141, C. Duke Emulation 40, Hastings, T. W. Murley, C. Martin 25, Fletcher 180, H. C. Levander P.Z. 720.

Caveac Lodge, No. 176.—This Lodge met at the Albion, Aldersgate-street, on Saturday, the 9th inst., under the presidency of Bro. Walter Miller Goss W.M., who was well supported by officers, members, and visitors. Amongst those present were—Bros. Percival, A. Nairne P.M. (who, in the unavoidable absence of Bro. Stride, officiated as S.W.), J. B. Sorrell J.W., Stansfield S.D., Neumegen J.D., Thorpe I.G., C. Dorey P.M. Secretary, C. Browne P.M. and D.C., and Past Masters Sorrell I.P.M., P. Browne Treasurer, Besley, and Lemann. Also Bros. Jones, Payne, Morrice, Lamb, Griffiths, Akenhead, Kirkness, Moore, Bryson, and others. The Lodge was visited by the W. Bro. the Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G. Chaplain, representing "Westminster and Keystone" No. 10, James Stevens P.M., "The Great City" No. 1426, A. H. Lilley P.M., "Fortitude and Old Cumberland" No. 12, John Constable P.M., "Tranquillity" No. 185, Edward Clarke P.M., "Caledonian" 134, and Alfred Grubb 78, "Irish Constitution." The minutes of the previous meeting having been confirmed, Bro. Henry Bryson was passed to the second degree in a most able and efficient manner, and, no further business being before the Lodge, it was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was served in the usual excellent manner so long identified with the management of the Albion. On the cloth being cleared, the usual loyal and principle Masonic toasts were introduced by the W.M. in brief but admirable terms, and were duly acknowledged. For Grand Lodge Officers, Bro. Simpson responded, in a speech congratulatory of the work and progress of the Lodge, and, referring briefly to the propositions before the Grand Lodge on the subject of the commemoration of the return of the M.W.G.M. from India, expressed the hope that, whatever decision might be arrived at by the Special Grand Lodge, about to be holden, it would be unanimous, and be accepted by the Craft generally with satisfaction. The W.M.'s health was drank with much enthusiasm, and the kind and truthful remarks as to his courtesy and efficiency, with which the toast was introduced, were heartily endorsed by all present. The several visitors responded to the toast proposed in their honour, Bro. Stevens remarking that he had attended to represent "The Great City" Lodge, then holding its meeting in Cannon-street, bringing with him the cordial greetings and hearty good wishes of that Lodge, and suggesting that when several Lodges met in the metropolis on the same evening, visits of representation from one Lodge to another would tend greatly to the mutual advantage of the respective Lodges, and cement that good feeling which each entertained for the other; but which, from the circumstance of concurrent dates of meeting, they were unable otherwise to evince. His remarks were received with considerable favour, and we have been informed that at a later period of the evening, Bro. Stevens was enabled to convey to the members of "The Great City" Lodge, through its W.M., and before they separated, the hearty response of the "Caveac" Lodge, and to express his sense of the generous welcome which had been accorded to him as their representative on this occasion. Bro. Dorey Sec., and Bro. Browne Treas., having acknowledged the toast, coupled with their respective offices, the charity box received a liberal deposit, and after further compliments had been paid to the officers, the final toast was proposed, prior to which, however, the brethren, as is the annual custom in this Lodge, united to ensure to their worthy Tyler a liberal provision for his Christmas cheer; and so with the consciousness of duty performed, and charitable instincts indulged, this interesting ceremony was brought to a close, and the members of the "Caveac" separated with seasonable good wishes towards each other, and until the New Year shall once more re-unite them.

Domatic Lodge, No. 177.—The regular meeting of this numerous and flourishing Lodge was held on Friday, the 8th inst. at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Bro. G. Everett I.P.M. occupied the chair, in the absence of the W.M., who lately met with a severe accident. James Willing jun. S.W., Palmer J.W., J. Smith P.G.P. P.M. Treas., Williams Sec., Buscall S.D., G. Clarke J.D., White D.C., and Bros. J. Jones, Goodfellow, Harris, Pierpoint, Purchase, Hertage, Rendersleigh, Abrams, Thomson, Tribe, Renkauff, Plummer; and P.M.'s Kent C.C., Elmes, Haydon, Walford and Ferguson. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Millen was raised to the 3rd degree, and Bro. Cox was passed to the 2nd. Ballots were then taken for the admission of Messrs. H. E. Read, W. R. Pether, R. Scatterwood, C. J. Davies, and G. W. Brangwin; which proving in their favour, they were duly initiated into the Order. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. James Willing S.W. was unanimously elected to fill that office, the announcement being received with acclamation by all present. Bro. J. Smith was re-elected Treas., and Daly Tyler. The Audit Committee were appointed, it consisted of Bros. Harris, Jones, Everett jun. Beard and Fencroft. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of the usual banquet, provided in Bro. Clemow's best style, and superintended by Bro. Smith. The acting W.M. presided, and proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. The health of the W.M. elect was received with enthusiasm, and was suitably replied to. The toasts of the Wardens, Officers, and the Tyler concluded a very pleasant evening. Visitors—Bros. Still, Lansdown, Wordley, Jones, Hunt, Ohren, Mucers, Stiles, Cunningham, Crowder and Hall.

Royal Arch Chapter, No. 178.—A Mark Master Masons' Lodge in connection with this Chapter was held in the Masonic Hall, Castle-street, on Friday evening the 8th inst, at half-past five o'clock. Present—Bro. B. M. Tilly W.M. presiding. Bros. A. Murchie S.W., J. M'Bride J.W., J. Higginson Sec. and Treas., T. Falcon S.D., W. Graham J.D., W. R. Kelly M.O., T. Tallentire S.O., T. Byron J.O., J. Darling I.G., and Magill Tyler. Visitors were present from Belfast and Lurgan. Bro. W. Redfern Kelly conferred the Mark Degree in a very superior and workmanlike manner upon the undermentioned brethren of the Lodge, viz.:—Bros. A. Boyd P.M., W. Wilson P.M., Johnston P.M., Wm. J. Gilliland, W. J. Knox jun., and J. Stewart. After which the Lodge was closed in ancient form.

Wiltshire Keystone Mark Lodge, No. 178.—This Lodge held its installation meeting on Wednesday, the 6th of December, at the Town Hall, Devizes. Present—Bros. the Rev. T. F. T. Ravenshaw, P.G.M.Ch. W.M., the Rev. H. Richardson S.W., J. Chandler J.W., D. A. Gibbs M.O., J. H. Chandler J.O., William Nott I.P.M. Secretary, Thos. Raymond S.D., C. R. Barnes J.D., W. Day and H. Howse Stewards, Thos. Ford as I.G., John Hayter Tyler, Visitor Bro. J. W. Barnam M.D., Old York T. I. Lodge. Business.—After minutes of the last meeting had been read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for Bro. Geo. Parry of Hengist (Craft) Lodge No. 195, Bournemouth, and proved unanimous. Bro. Parry, and also Bro. H. C. Tombs, Prov. G. Sec. (Craft) Wilts, who had been approved at a former meeting, were advanced to this degree. The W.M. then requested Bro. William Nott I.P.M. to take the chair. This was done, and Bro. Nott proceeded to instal the W.M. elect for the ensuing year, Bro. the Rev. H. Richardson, into the chair of A. The newly installed W.M. appointed and invested his officers, and the accounts for the year having been passed, sundry routine business was disposed of. A proposition of a candidate for advancement at the next meeting in March was handed in, and the Lodge was closed. The brethren adjourned to a banquet at the Crown Hotel.

St. John's Lodge, No. 178.—This Lodge held its Monthly Communication in the Masonic Hall, Castle-street, Lisburn, on Friday, the 8th inst. There was a crowded attendance of the members, those present including visiting brethren from the following Lodges:—Nos. 24, 66, 121, 167, 272, 384, 565, 602, numbering upwards of 50. The installation of officers for the ensuing year, being the first business on the paper, was disposed of as follows:—Bros. Boyd as W.M., Higginson S.W., M'Comb J.W., W. J. Gilliland Secretary and Treasurer, Vernon S.D., M'Clelland J.D., Nelson I.G. Those elected were presented by Bros. M'Bride and Johnston. The charges were impressively given by Bro. Redfern Kelly, when the newly-installed officers were severally invested with the respective badges of their office. Bro. Kelly then proceeded to confer the Third Degree on Bro. John M'Waters Boomer. The solemn and lucid manner in which Bro. Kelly imparted the sublime degree left a lasting impression on those brethren who were privileged to take part in the ceremony. Some routine business having been transacted, the Communication was closed. The brethren then adjourned to the commodious refreshment-room of the Lodge, where a short time was agreeably spent in that social concord which is eminently the characteristic of the Masonic society.

Temple Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 178.—The regular meeting of this Lodge took place on Monday, the 11th inst., at the Green Dragon Tavern, Stepney-green, Bro. Geo. Ward Verry W.M. in the chair. Bros. E. Gottheil S.W., Turquand as J.W., T. Mortlock P.M. Treas., Sturtevant Hon. Sec., Marsh M.O., N. Glopkstein as S.O., Mole J.O., Christian S.D., Wallington J.D., Tory I.G., Lacy P.M., F. Binckes P.G.J.W., G.S., &c. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, Bros. David Wrae J.W. 1206 C.L., and E. West P.M. 1076 C.L., were advanced to the degree. This being the night of election of officers for the ensuing year, the ballot proved unanimous in favour of Bros. Gottheil W.M., T. Mortlock P.M. Treas., and Grant Tyler. The brethren next adjourned to refreshment. After "The Health of the Queen," and "Prosperity of Mark Masonry," the W.M. proposed the name of "The M.W. the Earl of Limerick," who, at the last meeting of the Grand Mark Lodge, was for the third time elected as chief of the Order. The Grand Master has endeared himself to every Mark Mason, by the unflagging interest he has ever taken in the degree. The next in order came "The Health of Lord Skelmersdale D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers." Mark Masons have reason to think well of his Lordship, were it only for the alacrity in which he acceded to the request of taking the office of D.G.M., when it became vacant by the lamented death of the late Deputy, Bro. Romaine Callender. There were two Grand Officers present in the Lodge, namely, Bros. Mortlock and Lacy, the W.M. continued, and he would couple the name of Bro. Lacy with the toast. This having been responded to, the health of the initiates was replied to by both advancers, and the W.M. next submitted the name of Bro. Gottheil W.M. elect, who thanked the Worshipful Master for the flattering terms in which he was good enough to speak of him, and the brethren for the cordiality with which his name had been received. The happiest hours in Masonry, he assured them, were spent in the Temple Mark Lodge, in which there is neither envy, jealousy, bickering, or cliqueism of any kind, but all are united as one happy family. In conclusion, he promised that the interests of the Lodge will have all due care, and when his year of office shall have expired he hoped to deliver the Charter to his successor as pure and unsullied as it was when in the hands of his predecessors. The responses of the several officers were characterised by frank confessions of shortcomings in their duties, and earnest promises of amendment, which gave great satisfaction to the W.M. and Past Masters, whose pleasure thereat was indicated by repeated "hear, hear's." Bros. Mortlock, Constable, Sturtevant, Wallington, and Davis, contributed to the harmony of the proceedings by some very excellent singing.

St. James Union Lodge, No. 180.—The election meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday, the 12th inst., at the Freemason's Hall, Great Queen-street. Bro. W. C. Parsons I.P.M. occupied the chair, in the absence of the W.M. Present—Bros. L. Annett

S.W., Pillin J.W., G. Bubb P.M., H. A. Stacey P.M., S. A. Cameron P.M. as S.D., Harrison J.D., Farwig I.G., Stollard W.S., and Past Masters L. Herf, J. Stacey, Robinson, Stoner, and a numerous assemblage of the brethren. Business—The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Dibley was raised to the 3rd degree and Mr. Sarti was balloted for, and initiated into the Order. Great credit is due to Bro. W. C. Parsons, who at so short a notice occupied the chair, and performed the duties required of him, to the satisfaction of all present. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro L. Annett S.W., who had filled every office in the Lodge, was unanimously elected. He was informed by the acting W.M. that the brethren could not have found a better representative, to which he suitably replied. Bro. G. Bubb P.M. was re-elected Treasurer, and Gilbert P.M. Tyler. Bro. Stoner P.M. was re-elected Treasurer to the Benevolent Fund, and a P.M. jewel was unanimously voted to Bro. Gillard W.M., on his retirement from the chair, as a mark of respect for his services as W.M. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Crown room, to a banquet provided by Bro. Dawkins, and superintended by Bro. Knill. Bro. Parsons I.P.M., as acting W.M., proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. The W.M., in proposing the toast of "The W.M. elect," said it was not often that so young a member of the Lodge had so far qualified himself. Their future W.M. was eminently qualified to fill the chair. He felt a pride in proposing the toast that had fallen to his lot for two consecutive years. They had worked in Freemasonry together, and he was sure he was one who would carry out every duty to their satisfaction. Bro. Annett suitably responded, and thanked Bro. Parsons for his kind expressions, and hoped to do all required of him. He hoped to follow in the footsteps of his predecessors, and that would be a sufficient guarantee that he had merited the encomiums passed on him. Bro. G. Bubb P.M., in proposing the toast of "The acting W.M.," Bro. Parsons, characterised him as one who, in the chair that he had so ably filled, not only in the Lodge, but also at the banquet table, showed his aptitude for the office. Bro. Parsons briefly and appropriately replied. The toasts of "The Initiate," "P.M.'s" and "The Visitors" followed, and were severally responded to, after which the toast of "The Tyler" was given. Bros. Davies, McRae, Sarti, L. Herf, Warner, and Pillin contributed to the harmony.

United Chatham Lodge of Benevolence, No. 184.—This Lodge held its meeting on Tuesday, 12th December, at the Assembly Rooms, Old Brompton, Kent. Present—Bros. Elias Gorham W.M., Simon Young S.W., William Rankine J.W., Charles E. Clark Secretary, Jessie Gustavus Redman P.M. Treasurer, Edward J. Middleton S.D., William A. Radd J.D., Samuel Varren D.C., Alfred W. Tinnis and Frederick Bloom Stewards, Hugh Russell McKean I.G., John Drago Tyler. Past Masters Bros. Redman P.P.G. Superintendent of Works, Barlow P.P.A.D.C., Hewett I.P.M., and Cecil Henry Fielding Chaplain. Visitor—Bro. Firman. Business—After the usual preliminaries, the election of W.M. for the ensuing year took place, when Bro. Young was unanimously chosen. Bro. Redman Treasurer, and Bro. Drago Tyler, were both unanimously re-elected. Bros. Scott, Roscoe, Burnham, and Whitmore were raised to the 3rd degree, after which the Lodge was closed.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge met on Wednesday the 13th inst., at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Coleman-street, E.C. Bro. P. Croaker in the chair. Bros. Loewenstark S.W., Walker J.W., J. K. Pitt Sec., Constable P.M. Treas., Fenner S.D., Lay J.D., Staley I.G., E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, James Stevens P.M., and an average number of regular attendants. The principal business of the evening consisted of the rehearsal of the second degree, Bro. I. P. Cohen acting as candidate. The first section of the Lecture was then worked by Bro. Constable, assisted by the brethren. The new landlord of this tavern having informed the Lodge that unless a fee of half a guinea per meeting was paid it would not answer his purpose to allow the use of the room, this Lodge will be compelled to remove. The new quarters have not as yet been fixed upon, and until then the meetings will take place as usual. Bro. M. D. Loewenstark having been elected W.M. for the ensuing week intends to rehearse the third ceremony. After which Bro. G. S. Abbott will give the second of the series of Lectures commenced on the 29th November. The large room will again be secured, for the greater convenience of the numerous brethren who attended on the former occasion, and who are no doubt anxious to hear the sequel to the interesting account of Masonic doings in years gone by. Brethren desirous of acquiring a knowledge of Masonic history should attend, and they will find their time has not been spent unprofitably.

Royal Brunswick Lodge, No. 296, Sheffield.—The installation meeting of this prosperous Lodge was held in the Cutler's Hall, Sheffield, on Monday evening, the 11th inst., on which occasion the W.M. Bro. Henry Ecroyd presided. A ballot was taken for Bro. the Rev. Canon Blakeney, Vicar of St. Paul's, Sheffield, who was elected a joining member. The W.M. elect, Bro. John Ridal, was then duly placed in the chair of K.S. The Board of Installing Masters numbered twenty-one. The Installing Officer was Bro. P.M. Enoch Drury P.P.G.W. of West Yorks. After having been saluted in ancient form, Bro. Ridal appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. Henry Ecroyd I.P.M., Walter Nicholson S.W., Robert Schott J.W., Dr. M. de Bartolomé P.M. and P.P.G.W. Treasurer, William Skinner S.D., John Marples J.D., Thomas Harrison D.C., Samuel Suckley Organist, Clement Carr I.G., Moses Hartley and Walter Parkin Stewards, and Bro. Hessey Tyler. The very responsible duties of Charity Steward were again entrusted to Bro Armison P.M. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to an excellent repast, served in the banqueting room of the Cutler's Hall. Amongst the visitors present were Bros. Thomas William Tew, Deputy Prov. G.M. of West Yorkshire, Major Ryan G.S. of Scotland, W. Hale W.M. of the Scarsdale Lodge, Chesterfield, Clement Hamil Perrot (P.G. Organist) W.M. of the Phœnix Lodge, Rotherham, Samuel B. Ellis W.M. of the Wentworth Lodge, Sheffield, William Jervis W.M. elect of the Britannia Lodge, Sheffield, &c.

Shakespeare Lodge, No. 284.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday the 12th inst., at the Masonic Rooms, Warwick. Present—Bros. F. H. Haynes M.D. W.M., S. H. Smith S.W., Brabazon Campbell J.W., S. W. Cooke P.P.G.S. Works Sec., George Wilson M.D. S.D., Thornfield M.D. J.D., C. Fontaine Browne S., N. Marridew I.G., Bro. Purser Tyler. Past Master—Bro. Margetts. The business of the evening consisted of the initiation of Mr. W. Wakefield, the passing of Bro. Spilsbury and the raising of Bro. Crofts. After which the election of W.M., Treasurer, and Tyler for the ensuing year took place. Bro. S. C. Smith S.W. was chosen for the office of W.M., and the Treasurer and Tyler were re-elected.

Pomfret Lodge, No. 360.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Thursday, the 7th of December, at the new Masonic buildings, Abington-street, Northampton. Present: Bros. M. A. Bodmé P.M. W.M., R. Winter S.W., J. U. Stanton P.M. J.W., G. Robinson P.M. Secretary, B. Wilkins D. Pr. G.M. Treasurer, F. Gadsby S.D., H. W. Parker J.D., J. T. Green P.M. D.C., J. S. Norman I.G., Dean and Kirby Tylers. Past Masters—Bros. Flewitt, Cotton, Kellett, &c. Visitors—Bros. Greville and W. H. Linnell 445, and a very good attendance of the brethren. Business—Bro. J. Spoor was raised to the degree of M.M., the W.M. being assisted in the ceremony by Bro. Wilkins. Mr. A. J. Jeffery (a Lewis), was duly initiated, the W.M. officiating. Bro. Winter was elected W.M. for the ensuing year. After the labours of the evening, the brethren spent a couple of hours in a most convivial and harmonious manner.

Benevolent Lodge, No. 446.—This Lodge held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday, 7th December, at the Town Hall, Wells, Somerset. Present—Bros. A. Turale Perkins P.P.G.J.W. W.M., F. B. Wickenden S.W., J. Kearton J.W., L. E. Newnham Secretary, J. H. Holloway P.M. and Treasurer, C. Brown S.D., R. Wingfield Cox J.D., R. Duke I.G., W. Woodard Tyler, Past Masters Bros. J. T. Knight, T. Parnell, W. Drayton, A. Elsworth, W. Fisher, R. Tyley. Visitors—Bros. A. Hill and A. K. Ainsworth. Business—The Lodge was opened in due form by the W.M., and the minutes read and confirmed. Bros. Hill and Ainsworth were balloted for as joining members, and unanimously elected. Mr. S. P. Ross, having been duly balloted for, was admitted and initiated by the W.M. in his usual impressive manner. Bro. F. B. Wickenden P.S.W. was elected W.M. for the ensuing year, and Bro. T. Parnell was elected Treasurer, Bro. Woodard being re-elected Tyler for the twenty-sixth time. The business of the evening being concluded, the brethren retired from labour to refreshment, and the health of the W.M. and the W.M. elect were given, and cordially received. Bro. Perkins, who has held the chair for the past two years, carries with him, on his retirement from office, the best wishes of the brethren, to whom he has endeared himself by his general urbanity and courtesy, as well as by the efficient manner in which he has carried on the duties of the Lodge. We are glad to hear that it is the intention of the Lodge to present him with the Charity Jewel, in recognition of his having twice represented the Lodge at the annual festivals during his term of office, as well as the many other services which Captain Perkins has rendered, not only to the Lodge in general, but to its members in particular.

St. Andrew's Lodge, No. 465, Glasgow.—This Lodge held its election meeting, in the Hall, on Thursday, 7th Dec. Present—Bros. Gilchrist R.W.M., J. Clark D.M., J. McLeish S.M., J. Davidson S.W., Wm. Chalmers J.W., R. Donaldson Treasurer, Wm. Campbell Sec., and the Rev. W. E. Bradshaw Chaplain. In the East were the following visitors:—Bros. J. Kinnaird R.W.M., G. Macdonald I.P.M., G. W. Wheeler P.M. 73, J. Booth R.W.M., J. Miller P.M. 87, A. Fergerson R.W.M. 354, J. Morgan I.P.M. 219, Wm. Phillips R.W.M. 556, R. Aikman R.W.M., and J. Law I.P.M. 570, and no less than 164 members signed the Roll book. The Rev. W. C. Bradshaw read a letter of condolence with the widow and orphans of the late Bro. David Younger, who was one of the founders of this Lodge, which was ordered to be signed on behalf of the Lodge and forwarded. The report of the auditors showed that during the past year nearly £60 had been paid off the expenses of fitting up their new hall. The R.W.M. then said as he, as well as the I.P.M. of the Lodge, had both been proposed for the office of Master, he would ask Bro. G. W. Wheeler to preside; and with the assistance of the other R.W.M. and P.M.'s present, conduct the whole of the elections, as they had two candidates for nearly every office. Bro. Wheeler having taken the chair, the ballot showed a majority of two votes in favour of Bro. David Read, the I.P.M. In most cases, the contest was very close. In the case of the Treasurer, it resulted in a tie, and eventually Bro. Heron by one vote gained the office over Bro. Donaldson, who had held it for four years. The following were declared duly elected: Bros. D. Reid R.W.M., John Fyfe D.M., J. Mills S.M., Jas. Annand S.W., J. Morton J.W., John Rogers Sec., A. Horir Treas., Rev. W. C. Bradshaw Chap., Peter Douglas S.D., D. McDonald J.D., J. McDonald B.B., D. McMaster Architect, R. Maxwell Jeweller, J. Anderson S.S., J. Morrison J.S., J. Anderson, Sir B. C. McDonald S.B., J. McDonald P.G.S., A. Adams D of M., A. McCall D. of C., Jas. Mullen I.G., and P. Johnson Tyler. After thanks to the presiding Bro. and the other Masters who had assisted, the Lodge was closed, and immediately a Board of Installed Masters was formed, comprised of the nine brethren mentioned above, when Bro. Kennard, of No. 73, was duly installed by Bro. J. Morgan I.P.M. of 219, Bro. D. Reid, of St. Andrews, having previously obtained the degree.

Plantation Lodge, No. 581.—The installation meeting of this Lodge took place on Monday, when J. Morgan P.G.S. installed Bro. Stobo for the second time.

Humphrey Chetham Lodge, No. 645.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday 6th December, at the Freemasons' Hall, Cooper-street, Manchester. Present—Bros. W. H. Barlow W.M., John Ed. Lees S.W., W. C. Gilles J.W., Robt. Richardson Sec., S. Kelly J.D., O. Dean D.C., F. Weddle Steward, A. Middleton I.G., J. Sly Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. C. F. Matier I.P.M., C. Götz and E. Simpson. Visitors—Bros. T. Bentor Truth 521, James Batchelden W.M. 1458, C. R. Dykes 1425, Chas. H. McKay, 97 Robt. Cunningham 104, G. Hunt, Reserve, Boston, Mass. U.S.A. Business—The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, when the W.M. passed Bros. Graham, Craig and Dowling, and Bro. I.P.M. Matier passed Bro. Stenhouse. The Lodge was opened in the third degree, when the W.M. raised Bro. Canning. This being the evening for the election of W.M. for the ensuing year, the ballot was taken, and it was unanimous for Bro. Lees S.W. Bro. Duffield was re-elected Treas., and Bro. J. Sly Tyler. The Lodge was closed at 10 p.m., when the brethren adjourned to the festive board; the chair being occupied by the W.M., who proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts in graceful and felicitous terms.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting took place at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 12th December. Present — Bros. Perrin W.M., Hewlett S.W., Barker J.W., Saunders S.D., Dallas J.D., Johnson I.G., Wallington P.M. Preceptor, Worsley Secretary; also Bros. Smith, Perry, Lovelock, Cambridge, Weige, Foliot, and P.M. Wright. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Lovelock candidate. Bro. Cambridge worked the 1st section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was opened to the 3rd degree, and closed down. Bro. Hewlett worked the 3rd and 4th sections of the lecture. Bro. Hewlett was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation.

Urban Lodge of Instruction, No. 1196.—The above Lodge of Instruction held its first meeting on Wednesday, 6th December, at Bro. T. G. Willett's, the Three Bucks Tavern, Gresham-street, City, Bro. J. Tickle W.M. of the Urban Lodge, officiating as W.M. for the evening. C. Hawksley S.W., W. Wilkins J.W., E. Hollands S.D., C. Young J.D., C. Willett I.G., J. L. Mather P.M. Preceptor, J. Wall Secretary. The ceremonies of initiation and passing were worked by the W.M. After the election of new members and other business, the Lodge was closed in due form.

Hervey Lodge, No. 1260.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Wednesday, the 12th of December, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Present—Bros. George Harrison W.M., J. H. Southwood S.W., H. Hollingsworth J.W., George King jun. P.M. Secretary, Dr. Jabez Hogg P.M. Treasurer, J. Sandiland Ward S.D., E. J. Goodacre J.D., J. T. Spalding I.G., Edward S. Foot jun. Assist. Sec., C. T. Speight Tyler. Visitors—J. Green, R. S. Archbold, J. Rogerson, Vagg, F. Ough, F. Egan, Frank Herold, E. A. Wells, P. Anger and W. W. Morgan. On the assembling of the brethren, the Lodge was opened, and the business was proceeded with. The minutes were read and duly received confirmation. The ceremonial portion of the proceedings commenced with the rising of Bros. Spender, Sheward, and Robbins. Bro. Jackson was then examined, and afterwards advanced to the degree of Fellow Craft. The ballot was next taken on behalf of Mr. William Good Ellis, and being successful, that gentleman was formally received into our Order. The whole of the ceremonies were performed by the W.M., who, though but a young Mason, has made himself proficient in every way to conduct successfully the business of his Lodge. The usual routine business having been transacted, the Lodge was closed. The members of this Lodge have made it a rule, for some time past, not to hold their festive gatherings at the Tavern, and after their labours they retire elsewhere for their banquet. On this occasion the Inns of Court Hotel was selected, and, under the management of Bro. Charles Gosden, the repast was served. After justice had been done to a well-spread board, the W.M., Bro. George Harrison, gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, that of "Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen" being warmly received. In proposing "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M.," Bro. Harrison said all were acquainted with the amount of interest taken by His Royal Highness in all matters affecting the Craft, and he was convinced all would join heartily in drinking his health. This toast was followed by that of "The Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers Present and Past," with which the W.M. said he would couple the name of their highly-esteemed I.P.M., Bro. Dr. Jabez Hogg. Bro. Hogg said he sincerely thanked the brethren for the hearty way they had received the toast. The present Grand Officers were worthy of the high position they held; they had, at the late meeting of the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, given ample evidence of their capability, by the way in which they had worked the Sections. They were always ready, when called upon, to do any duty that was required. He sincerely thanked the W.M. for coupling his name with the toast. Bro. Hogg proposed the health of the W.M. All the members of the Hervey Lodge were satisfied with the way in which Bro. Harrison performed his duties. He was always to be found at his post, and was most energetic in the performance of all that was required of him. Bro. Harrison regretted that he had not the power to express his feelings. So long as the brethren supported him, he would always try to do his duty. If his actions had given satisfaction, he could assure all that his course was an easy one, and he hoped to follow it so long as he was connected with the Lodge. The health of the Initiate was given from the Chair, and after a reply from Bro. Elis, Bro. Speight sang the "Entered Apprentice" song. "The Health of the Visitors" was responded to by Br. Dr. Egan W.M. 838, who was followed by Bros. Ough, Green, Wells, and others. Bro. Hogg next rose, and said he had a special toast to propose, it was that of the Press, and with it he would couple the name of Bro. Morgan. Our worthy Bro. Hogg referred to some unpleasant matters in which the Hervey Lodge had been compelled to take an active part, and said he was greatly pleased with the remarks which had been made by the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE in connection therewith. All present knew Bro. Morgan, and all entertained towards him the greatest respect, and he called on all present to honour the toast. After Bro. Wells had favoured the Company with a humorous song, Bro. Morgan replied. He said it was often imperative on people to do disagreeable things to enable them to arrive at the conclusion they had done their duty. He would not touch upon the matter to which Bro. Hogg had referred further than to say, that he was not one who thought all these disagreeable incidents should be kept quiet. The members of the Lodge were acting—as they thought—honestly and consistently, and "what honest men deserve they may challenge 'gainst the world." He was pleased to know that, in the unhappy case referred to, the brethren had not given the second degree to the individual initiated. He hoped they would pursue the course proposed to them that evening by previous speakers, and use due caution in their selection of candidates. Bro. Morgan concluded his remarks by thanking the brethren for the hearty way in which they had received the toast. The toast of the P.M.'s was replied to by Bro. G. King jun., who said it was only by sufferance that he was amongst them, however, as he had his medical attendants present he should hold them responsible if he did wrong. The "Officers" was replied to by Bro. Southwood S.W., who said that they had a good captain, and they were pleased to know that their efforts to do their duty were appreciated. They all hoped in the fulness of time for preferment, and would all try to merit the confidence of the members. During the evening, in addition to those we have named, Bros. Herold, Ough and others exerted themselves most successfully to amuse the company. The call for the Tyler brought an agreeable evening to a close.

The Great City Lodge, No. 1426—Met at the Cannon-street Hotel on Saturday the 9th inst. Present—Bros. J. Seez W.M., R. Stanway S.W., J. Freeman J.W., J. H. Townend I.P.M., Rev. R. J. Simpson P.G.P. [illegible], N. B. Headon P.M. Treasurer, Edward Moody P.M. Sec., G. W. Blackie S.D., W. H. Catchpole J.D., T. Hamer I.G., Kibble and Hook Stewards, W. Steadman P.M. Tyler, and Bros. J. Hartley, Luggar, Lockett, Ginders, Potter, Kibble, Colmer, DeLeliva, Wright, Shaw, Cartwright, Skinner, Hooker, W. H. Thompson, Wyler, Headon, Stephens, Frith, Middleton, Lewis, Baber, Bertram, Bowen, Dulan, Macqueen, Hannaford, H. Thompson, Archer, Moore, Hooper, Davis, Hudd, Jendick, Lord, Browne, White, J. R. Hartley, and Visitors Bros. Rev. A. Galbraith and C. Capel, Macnamara University Lodge, Dublin, Watts S.D. 507, Triggs 157, and Roberts 1594. Lodge was opened about 8.30, minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Bros. Shaw and Cartwright were raised, Bro. Libessart was passed, and Mr. Louis Charles Brocks was initiated. Motion to alter the bye-law 10 was negatived. Lodge was closed about 7.30, and the brethren adjourned to supper, about fifty sitting down, at conclusion of which the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured. The health of the W.M. was enthusiastically received, and, in responding, the W.M. said he fully appreciated the honour the brethren had done him in placing him in the proud position of Master of such a Lodge, he should endeavour always to tread in the footsteps of his predecessors. The W.M. proposed the health of the initiate, who made a short but effective reply. The W.M. said he had just received from Bro. J. Stevens P.M. a communication from the Caveac Lodge (from a visit to which Bro. J. Stevens had just returned), to the effect that the members of the Caveac Lodge sent their heartiest greetings to the members of The Great City Lodge. Bro. J. Stevens asked the permission of the W.M. to state that he, in company with Bro. Simpson, had been received in the most fraternal manner at the Caveac Lodge, the officers and members of which had desired him to state that, as the members were prevented from exchanging visits, by the meetings of the two Lodges being held on the same evenings, they should be glad on some future occasion to receive a deputation from the Great City Lodge, when they promised a hearty and fraternal reception. The toasts of the "Past Masters" was responded to by Bro. J. H. Townend I.P.M. In response to the toast of the "Treasurer and Secretary," proposed by the W.M., in very flattering terms, and enthusiastically received by the brethren, Bro. N. B. Headon P.M. and Treasurer said, that although his duties were not very onerous, he thanked the brethren for the manner in which they had received the toast, and he should like to appeal to the members of the Lodge, now, he said, numbering considerably over one hundred, to make the work of the Secretary as light as possible, by paying their subscriptions promptly, and in one sum, although the bye-laws admitted of its being paid in two instalments. Bro. Moody, in responding, said, that heavy as the duties of the Secretary had now become, he should never tire of performing them while the W.M. and brethren were so appreciative of his efforts. The toast of the visitors was responded to by Bro. Roberts 1594 (who likewise greatly added to the amusement of the brethren by a song, eulogistic of the Ap Morgans, the Owen Owen's, and other members of the great family of Taffy). The toast of the officers was very ably responded to by Bro. Stanway S.W. Bro. Jenkins, Organist, also said a few words in reply. Bros. Stevens, Bertram, Hook, Kibble, and Frith, contributed some excellent singing, and the Tyler's toast brought a very pleasant meeting to a conclusion, about ten o'clock.

Eboracum Lodge, 1611.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held at the Queen's Hotel, York, on Monday evening, when there was, as usual, a full attendance of officers and members, the W.M. Bro. Thomas Cooper P.M. presiding. The business consisted of an initiation and three raisings, and the ceremonies were performed in a manner that left nothing to be desired. Several visitors from Wakefield, Liverpool, Newcastle and Manchester were present. On the motion of the J.W., seconded by the J.D., it was resolved to increase the annual subscription of the Lodge to £1 5s, and to devote 5s out of this sum to a Charity Fund, to be disposed of at the end of each financial year, by the vote of the Lodge, to some purpose in connection with the Masonic Charities. This step was taken in consequence of suggestions thrown out by the D. Prov. Grand Master at the Prov. Grand Lodge Meeting of the North and East Ridings, held at Redcar last August, that a small sum should be voluntarily subscribed by each member of the Lodges in the province, in order that the province might do more for the Charities in the future than it had done in time past, and we believe that the Eboracum Lodge, though the youngest but one in the province, has been the first to take steps in the direction indicated.

CONCERT AT THE BOW AND BROMLEY INSTITUTE.

THE truly charitable instinct of the East-end Masons, abundantly conspicuous on many occasions, was again exemplified on Thursday, the 14th inst. By the assistance of a Committee of Stewards, consisting of some thirty odd brethren, more or less eminent, and under the immediate patronage of the Secretaries of the three Institutions, a Grand Concert was given at the Bow and Bromley Institute, the entire profits of which will be divided amongst the Masonic Charities. The Hall of the Institute, exceedingly lofty, is not over spacious, and, having no gallery, affords accommodation for only about five hundred persons. The floor is level, but the platform, holding a magnificent organ, is sufficiently elevated to secure an uninterrupted view to the entire audience. The decorations and panellings are chaste, of neutral tints, and very pleasing to the eye. Shortly after the appointed time, the proceedings commenced with an organ solo, by Mendelssohn, excellently performed by Miss Georgiana Cowes. The first portion of the programme included a variety of songs, duets, violin solos, &c., mostly of the old-fashioned kind, yet none the less pleasing, owing to the care which every one of the artistes bestowed upon their respective performances. The May-pole song was satisfactorily rendered by Miss Coyte Turner. Mr. Arthur E. Hooper, though excellent, was somewhat deficient in his upper notes, in which the wanted ring and clearness was missing. Special mention must be made of the talented Miss Jessie Boyd, whose exquisite rendering of "The Bird that came in Spring," by Benedict, elicited the most enthusiastic applause, to which she very graciously responded with the well-known old ballad, "Jeanette." Bro. Farquharson delighted the audience with his characteristic song, "Oh, rabbier than the Cherry" (Handel), on being vociferously redemanded, he gave, with exceeding humour, "The fat Grey Man." Miss Martha Harries was also most favourably received, the audience at once recognising the latent talent of the young artiste. Madame Wensley was simply exquisite. The three part, by Mesdames Wensley, Boyd, and Harries, received its due meed of approbation. After a short interval, the second part of the programme was proceeded with, and we can only reiterate the gratification and delight loudly expressed by the audience after each performance, which concluded with "A romance of Juvenile Literature," by Bro. Farquharson, which was most enthusiastically applauded. Previous to the separation of the audience, Bro. Binckes, in most eloquent terms proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. Blain, which was seconded by Bro. Terry, and most enthusiastically carried, with hurrahs and great cheering. Bro. Blain expressed his thanks. The enterprising Bro. C. Blain, whose indefatigable labours as Secretary to the Entertainment Committee contributed in no small degree to the success which crowned their efforts, will not fail to inscribe the 14th of December as a red letter day in his career, for on that very day the members of the River Lee Traders' Protection Society presented him with a handsome gold watch and chain, value fifty guineas, for important services rendered in organising the same. It should be mentioned that the services of the artistes were gratuitously rendered.

Freemason's Chronicle;

FREEMASONRY IN PERU.

WE have received certain documents, which enable us to place before our readers some very interesting particulars as to the rise and progress, as well as the present position of the Craft in the Republic of Peru. The regular Session of the Grand Lodge was held at Lima, on the 26th July, when the officers for the ensuing year were elected, Bro. Arthur M. Wholey being appointed Grand Master, Bro. Charles Elizondo Deputy Grand Master, Bro. Roman S. Perez Senior, and Bro. L. Murguia Junior Grand Warden, Bro. Marian Arias G. Treasurer, Bro. Charles Prince Grand Secretary, and Bro. Jos. Navarro Grand Orator. Among the other documents is the first instalment of a history of the Craft from its earliest appearance in the country to the year 1857. This sketch has been compiled and translated into English, from original documents, and may therefore be accepted as the authoritative record of Peruvian Freemasonry. So long, of course, as the country remained under the domination of Spain, the Fraternity had no existence in the country; but when, in 1821, the Declaration of Independence was made, free intercourse with other countries was at once opened, and Freemasonry quickly found itself extending among the inhabitants. Four years later—that is in the year 1825—when Peru had succeeded in achieving its complete independence, Bro. General Valero, a member of the Grand Orient of Columbia, visited Lima, and having full authority from that Grand Orient, proceeded at once to regulate the different Masonic bodies he found working in the new Republic, and to organise and found others under the letters patent issued to him. All his proceedings appear to have received the sanction of the Grand Orient of Columbia, so that Peru is indebted to this Grand Body for the organisation of its Masonic powers and privileges. The following were the Masonic bodies in existence in 1825 and up to the year 1830, namely, four bodies in Lima:—No. 1. Paz y Perfecta Union, founded in 1821; No. 2. Orden y Libertad, 1822; No. 3. Virtud y Union, 1823; and No. 4. Constancia Peruana, 1824; a Lodge at Cuzco, with the style and title of Sol de Huayna Capac, founded in 1826; one at Lambayeque, known as the Union Justa; the Constancia Heroica at Piura, and the Filosofia Peruana at Ica, both of which were chartered in 1829. Other five bodies likewise existed at this time in Arequipa, Trujillo, Cajamarca, Puno, and Huamachuco, but their several names and dates of Warrant are lost. In addition were three chapters of Rose Croix, 18°, namely, the Regeneracion Peruana at Lima, founded in 1826, the Benevolencia Universal at Lambayeque, in 1827, and the Fidelidad Peruana at Piura, in 1829. A Supreme Council of the 33°, A. and A. Rite, was founded in Lima, on the 27th of November 1830. A consistory of the 32° was founded in the same city on the 2nd of November 1831, and the same year, at the same place, an Areopago of the 30°. There were present at the foundation of this Supreme Council nine brethren of the 33°, and it was established as above, under the Presidency of the senior member of the degree, Ill. Bro. José Maria Monson, Roman Catholic Chaplain in the Army of Independence, and afterwards a Canon of the Cathedral in Trujillo. On its constitution, Ill. Bro. General Domingo Tristan was obligated and installed Sov. Grand Commander; Bro. Juan Elizalde, Lieut. Grand Commander; Bro. L. B. Cabillos, Grand Treasurer; Bro. José Salzar, Grand Chancellor; and Bro. D. Castaneda, Grand Secretary. Five other brethren in possession of the degree were afterwards elected members of Council, and subsequently four others were elected to the degree, and again four incorporated as members.

When the Fraternity was thus established and duly organised, it soon became apparent that the constitution of an Independent Peruvian Grand Lodge must follow sooner or later. The distance from Bogota, the seat of the Columbian Grand Orient, was such as to make communication with it very difficult. Accordingly, on the 23rd of June 1831, the Masters and Wardens of the Symbolic Lodges, as well as Deputies Elect from the Supreme Council, the Consistory, and Rose Croix Chapter in Lima, together with representatives from the other Masonic bodies in other cities and towns, met in Lima, under the presidency of the Ill. Grand Commander Bro. Don Juan Elizalde, and constituted themselves a Grand Lodge of Freemasons for Peru, Bro. T. Ripley Eldredge being chosen Grand Master, Bros. Manuel Bosco and Dr. D. Luciano M. Cano Grand Wardens, and Bro. Pablo Romero Grand Secretary. In due time the Grand Orient of Colombia recognised this action of the Peruvian Lodges. On the 11th August following the Grand Lodge met, and commenced the task of preparing Constitutions for the Order, and also agreed to change their title from Grand Lodge to that of Grand Orient of Peru. Unfortunately no long time had elapsed after these proceedings when political disturbances broke out in the country. Men obtained the reins of Government who were opposed to progress, and who exerted themselves to the utmost to drive Masonry and their Society out of the country. It was only, indeed, by closing the Lodges that the members managed to escape the violence with which they were threatened. In lieu of Lodges, secret political societies were established, but these, in turn, were extinguished, and as they died out Freemasonry again raised its head. In 1845, after a dormancy which had lasted some twelve years, several of the more enthusiastic members of the Lodge Orden y Libertad, and the Rose Croix Chapter, Regeneracion Peruana, recommenced their labours, and continued to work regularly till 1848, when, on the 1st November in that year, a general assembly of the brethren was held, and the Grand Orient reopened, by the deputies elect and the representatives of the Lodge and Chapter above mentioned. On the 30th January 1849 the Supreme Council 33° was reconstituted by the M.P. Sov. Grand Commander, Don Juan Elizalde, having been in recess from 1838. The Council obligated and installed Bro. Dr. D. Matiasacon as Sov. Grand Commander, Bro. Fr. J. Mariategui Lieut. Grand Commander, Bro. Blas José Alzamora Grand Secretary, and Bro. Ant. de Sauza Perreira Grand Treasurer. In 1850 three Sov. Grand Inspectors-General were installed by the Council, one in 1851, and in the year 1852, General José Rufino Echenique, the then President of the Republic. On 13th July 1852, the Grand Orient of Peru was re-constructed, as the National Grand Orient of Peru, with Bro. Dr. D. Matias Leon as Grand Master, Bros. Mariategui and Quiros as Grand Wardens, and Bro. Miguel Saldivar as Grand Secretary. There were present at this meeting twenty-five brethren, representing various Masonic Lodges, among which must be enumerated the Lodge "Orden y Libertad," one of the Lima Lodges, Lodge Estrella Polar, also of Lima, warranted by the Supreme Council of Peru, on 28th May 1855, and Lodge Concordia Universal of Callao, founded by the Grand Orient of Peru, when Bro. San Roman was Grand Master. In the same year a Royal Arch Chapter was warranted, at Callao, by the Supreme Grand R.A. Chapter of Scotland, but its existence was ignored by the Supreme Council and National Grand Orient. In 1855, a Lodge Virtud y Union was chartered in Lima, a Lodge bearing the same name, and formerly (in 1823) organised in the city, having apparently ceased. In November, the National Grand Orient was acknowledged by, and exchanged representatives with, the Grand Lodge of New York. In March 1856 the Grand Lodge of Hamburgh followed the example of New York, and exchanged representatives with the Peruvian Grand Orient, while, in the same year, the Supreme Council 33° for the Northern Jurisdiction of the United States, accredited a representative to the Supreme Council of Peru. On 5th May 1856, a Code of Statutes for the Order in Peru was adopted and promulgated, but they were found to be very defective, and, as they placed the government of the Society entirely in the hands of the Supreme Council, great dissatisfaction, which afterwards broke out into open rebellion, resulted among the members of the Symbolic Lodges. On 17th August 1856, Bro. Quiros was elected Grand Master of the Orient, and the same year was succeeded by Bro. Ferreira. At this time there were in all fourteen Lodges under this Government—namely, seven Lodges, of which three were at Lima, one at Callao, one at Guayaquil in Ecuador, one at Huaraz, and one at Conception in Chili, together with five of the 8th, 10th, 25th, 30th, and 32nd degrees in Lima, and one each of the 8th in Callao and Guayaquil. In May 1857, a Supreme Grand Chapter of Rites was assembled, and issued four new regulations; these, however, gave great dissatisfaction, and three Lodges, two at Lima and one Callao Lodge, met and formally expressed their independence. By the Constitu- of 1864, the passing and enforcement of all laws rests solely with the Grand Orient. This is the limit to which the sketch furnished to us is carried. We shall continue the history as we receive the further account.

THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION AND THE PROVINCE OF DEVON.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Referring to the report in your contemporary of the last Committee Meeting of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, at which meeting Bro. John Constable, P.M. 185, is reported to have asked Bro. James Terry, the Secretary of the Institution, the number of annuitants on its funds, and whether the Province of Devon was not the largest in that respect? Bro. Constable suggesting that the Province and its Grand Master be solicited to aid the Institution at the coming Festival in February next.

For the information of Bro. Constable, knowing the deep interest he takes in our Charities, and for all whom it may concern, I beg to say this suggestion has been fully anticipated. Since August last the Provincial Grand Lodge of Devon has voted the sum of £100 to the R.M.B. Institution, the Provincial Grand Mark Lodge of Devon £10. Various private Lodges and Chapters in the Province have, since August last, voted sums to the same Institution, to be placed on the lists of Bros. Charles Godtschalk and J. E. Curtois, Stewards for their Province for this year. The amounts so voted, from these private Lodges and Chapters in the aggregate doubtless reach £200, and will be augmented before the date of the Festival in February next.

Out of the monies voted by the Province since August last, the sum of £110 was actually in the hands of Bro. James Terry, the Secretary, at the moment Bro. Constable asked the question.

Allow me also to remark, that if Bro. Constable will refer to the published list of the R.M.B. Institution he will find our beloved Prov. G. Master, the Rev. J. Huyshe, is a larger supporter to that particular Institution than any other Prov. G. Master in England, he being in possession, by self and family alone, of over 150 votes, and that he is handsomely represented on the lists of our other Masonic Charities, and that his name is another word for benevolence.

Believe me, yours fraternally,

CHARLES GODTSCHALK,

P.M. 70 and 1255, P.G.D., Steward for Devon for R.M.B.I. 1876-7.

"ERRATIC SHILLINGS."

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I quite agree with your correspondents, Alpha and R. C., that uniformity of subscription to our three Charities is desirable, and I trust those whom it may concern principally, that is, the Committee of the Benevolent Institution, will lose no time in making the needful alteration. I can say, honestly, that if a collector called upon me for a subscription to it matters not what Institution, it would make no difference to me whether I subscribed a guinea or a pound; that is, I should not feel the difference between a guinea and a pound, while by taking the aggregate of say five hundred subscriptions, the Institution would derive a very substantial benefit from the difference between them. Or, to reduce the matter to actual figures, five hundred guinea instead of pound contributions mean an additional receipt of £25. In the case of our Benevolent Institutions, as the subscriptions amount to several thousands of pounds, the addition would be several hundreds. Truly a difference worth advocating!

It will be urged, perhaps, by some, that as a vote at one election is given to every one who subscribes five shillings to the Benevolent Institution, while no such privilege is accorded to the supporters, to a like amount, of the other Charities, some difficulty may perhaps arise, from the fourth part of a guinea, unlike the guinea itself, being an awkward sum. I do not myself see this. If it is deemed politic to retain the five shilling vote, let it be retained, by all means, but let the same privilege be extended to five shilling contributors to the Boys' and Girls' Institutions. Or, let it be abolished. This, I think, would be the juster plan to follow. Why should A have a vote for the Benevolent Fund, for the small sum of five shillings, while B, who figures in a Stewards' list for one of the other Charities for a like amount, has none? If the object of assigning a vote for this amount is to secure as much support as possible from the less wealthy, then it should be extended to all the three Charities, or, if it turn out to be comparatively worthless as an inducement in the cause to which it is now applied, the regulation should be struck out. I think that uniformity is desirable, especially as the substitution of guineas in lieu of pounds will be so profitable a change to the Charity for which Bro. Terry labours so diligently.

Yours fraternally,

AN OLD FILE.

ADDRESS OF CONGRATULATION TO THE D.P.G.M. OF SUFFOLK.

AT a recent meeting of the Stour Valley Lodge, No. 1,224, it was proposed by the Worshipful Master, Bro. H. Welham, seconded by Bro. W. L. Lowis, that an address of congratulation be presented to the Rev. C. J. Martyn on his appointment as Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Suffolk. The W.M. and P.M.'s were appointed as the deputation, and the address was afterwards drawn up by them, and most beautifully illuminated on vellum, by Miss Berry, of Ballingdon. The corners are illuminated with the Masonic emblems; headed with the jewel of the D.P.G.M. in gold; the Master's emblem, Sec. and P.M.'s emblem at the sides; at the bottom the Past Grand Chaplain of England's emblem. The deputation, consisting of the W.M., Bro. H. Welham, Bros. G. Grimwood I.P.M., J. F. Hills P.M. and P.P.G.J.W., and F. Wheeler P.M., presented the address, on Wednesday morning, at the Rectory, Long Melford, and were entertained at luncheon. The following is the address:—

"To the Very Worshipful the Reverend Charles J. Martyn, P.G.C. of England, D.P.G.M. of Suffolk, &c., &c.

"We, the undersigned Worshipful Master, Past Masters, and Officers of the Stour Valley Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, of ourselves and brethren, in conformity with the unanimous resolution of a Lodge of Emergency held November 21st, 1876, beg to offer to you our most sincere and hearty congratulations upon your succession to the honourable office of Deputy Provincial Grand Master for the Province of Suffolk.

"We are deeply sensible of the great privilege so long enjoyed by our Lodge in having amongst our members so distinguished and zealous a Mason. We feel that the worthy selection made by the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master will not only add to the stability and good working of Masonry in this province, and meet with the unanimous approval of all its members, but will also reflect honour and credit upon our Lodge.

"That it may please the Great Architect of the Universe to spare you many years to enjoy the privileges of the exalted position so justly bestowed upon you, will ever be the prayer of your faithful and sincere Brethren in Masonry.

"The Members of the Stour Valley Lodge, No. 1224."

Signed by the following officers:—H. Welham W.M., G. Grimwood I.P.M., F. Wheeler P.M., J. F. Hills P.M., C. Emmerson S.W., W. H. Smith J.W., A. O. Stead S.D., N. Aprile J.D., E. R. Boulter I.G., C. J. Cardmall D.C.

Friends in Council Chapter of the Holy Royal Arch held a Meeting of Emergency, at 33 Golden-square, on Saturday, the 16th inst. The Right Hon. the Baron Henneker, S.W. of Lodge 1629, Robert Fyers, J.D. of the Bayard, and Dr. Thomas Beswick Purchas, P.M. of Lodge 420, were exalted. The Right Hon. the Earl of Donoughmore, Sir George Henry Scott Douglas, the Chevalier C. E. Habicht, the Rev. Arthur Bruce Frazer, the Rev. Frederick Kill Harford, and Samuel Graham Bake Esq. were elected joining members. Dr. Robert Hamilton, Grand Superintendent of Jamaica, presided over the ceremony, with his well-known customary ability.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Kilwinning Lodge, No. 4, Glasgow.—The installation meeting of this old and highly respected Lodge was held at the New Hall, St. Vincent-rooms, Dumbarton, on Tuesday, 19th December. In the absence from the city of Bro. R. Prout, Bro. Henderson took the chair, Bros. T. G. Jameson acting S.W., G. Holmes J.W. A. B. Thorburn P.M. and R.W.M. elect said, In the absence of the retiring master, he would request Bro. G. W. Wheeler to instal himself and the office bearers, unfortunately there were two or three of these absent. Bro. Wheeler then proceeded, to instal Bro. A. B. Thorburn for the third time, as R.W.M., John Dixon as D.M., G. Holmes S.M., J. H. Mc Naughton J.W., James M. McKenzie Treasurer, John McNair Sec., A. Rowan Chap., J. Barr S.D., C. Struthers J.D., Thomas G. Jamieson Architect, Chas. Henderson P.G.S. and David Ramsey I.G. The new Master thanked Bro. Wheeler for attending, and for the efficient way in which he had performed the ceremony, as well as for former services. Bro. Wheeler said, having had the pleasure some time since to be made an honorary member of No. 4, the least that he could do in return was to render what little aid he could, and there was no more pleasant duty than installing a worthy Brother, such as he knew Bro. Thorburn to be, into the chair of a Lodge. He trusted a year of prosperity was before them. Bro. Holmes S.M. proposed thanks to Bro. R. Prout, the I.P.M. regretting that he had been called away to England that day. Bro. G. Wilson 27 replied for the Visitors.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 14th of December, at Bro. Hallowes', "The Chequers," Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. Badkins W.M., Franklin S.W., Brind J.W., Saunders Secretary, W. G. Hallowes Treasurer, Saunders S.D., Tollis J.D., W. G. Hallowes I.G., also Bros. Christian, F. Hallowes, Upwood, Groome, Weston and Mumford. Visitor—Bro. Varley. Business—The Lodge was opened in due form with solemn prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, and the ceremony of passing rehearsed, Bro. Groome acting as candidate. The Lodge was closed in the second degree. The W.M. worked the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Varley acting as candidate. Bro. Varley of Lodge 1508, and Bro. Fisher of Lodge 1364, were elected members of this Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Franklin was elected W.M. for the ensuing Thursday evening. The by-laws were agreed upon, and ordered to be printed. The Lodge was then closed, and adjourned to the 21st of December.

St. Cuthbert Lodge, No. 41.—This Lodge held its anniversary meeting on Thursday, 30th Nov., at the Masonic Hall, Kirkcudbridbright. Present—Bros. James Cowan R.W.M. W.M., John Halliday S.W., J. Stuart Moody J.W., Laurentius Norin Sec., A. Jack Treas., David Clark S.D., David Hair J.D., R. G. Blair Chaplain, W. Mackenzie, J. Legge and D. G. Williamson Stewards, William Mouncey I.G., James Livingston Tyler. Past Masters Bros. James Clark, David Craig. Visitors—Bros. James Campbell R.W.M., James Halliday S.W., Thomas Dalrymple J.W., Thomas Tait Sec., Joseph Tait, John Biggam, a deputation from Lodge No. 141, Gatehouse. The business consisted of the election of office bearers, when the following brethren were elected:—Bros. John Erskine R.W.M., James Cowan P.M., Thomas Campbell D.M., James Slater S.M., John Grant S.W., David Clark J.W., Laurentius Norin Sec., A. Jack Treas., David Hair S.D., Daniel Campbell J.D., David Conning Chaplain, John Logan I.G., James Livingston Tyler. The business being finished, the Lodge was closed in due and ancient form. The brethren then proceeded to Bro. Stewart's, Commercial Hotel, where they, together with the deputation from St. Stephen's, No. 141, Gatehouse, partook of an excellent supper. After the cloth had been removed, the usual toasts were gone through. "The Queen and the Craft" was proposed by the chairman (Bro. John Erskine), also "The Prince and Princess of Wales." "The Grand Lodges of Scotland, Scotland, and Ireland," was proposed by P.M. J. Cowan; also "The Army, Navy, and Volunteers," coupled with the name of Captain Craig, who responded. He was quite proud of being commander of such a company as the 1st Kirkcudbright Rifle Volunteers, many of them he now saw round the table, and he had no doubt, if they were required to defend their country, they would do their duty. A number of other appropriate toasts followed, diversified by songs and recitations.

St. John's 3 bis.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Tuesday, 19th Dec., at five p.m., for the purpose of initiating the Rev. John Dabbie D.D. and Captain James Menzies. The Lodge was opened by D. M. Nelson R.W.M., Wm. Bell I.P.M., P. Bramlie S.W., A. Cameron J.W., G. W. Wheeler acting S.D., J. Harn acting J.D. The ceremony of initiation was very carefully worked by Bro. Wm. Bell I.P.M.

Angel Lodge, No. 51.—The monthly meeting of this old established and flourishing Lodge, on Tuesday last, was rendered particularly interesting, from the fact that the W.M. had issued a carte blanche to the members of the sister Lodge in Colchester—the United, No. 697—to pay their brethren of the Angel a friendly visit, besides invitations to several officers of the garrison. The result was, that when the Lodge opened, about 7 p.m., between 50 and 60 brethren were in attendance, and the Lodge-room presented an imposing appearance. The W.M., Bro. G. Gard Pye, occupied the chair of K.S. The S.W. was represented by Bro. Charles Colt P.M.; in the absence of Bro. Crookes, the J.W., Bro. T. J. Ralling, was in his place, and those present included Bros. A. Welch I.P.M., W. A. Bowley P.M. (father of the Lodge), T. R. Quilter P.M., Samuel Chaplain P.M., P.S.G.W., John Coppin P.M., Thomas Rix P.M., W. Richey P.M., I. Harris S.D., J. Hasly J.D., J. J. C. Turner Org., Geo. Mercer and W. Ablitt Stewards, W. S. Sprent Assist. Soc., S. Stallard, Colonel R.A., T. Mochersole, C. E. Denton, F. B. Capon, C. Wilson Atkins, R. Nash, B. Barber, and C. Gunner Tyler. The visitors present included Bros. Capt. Kane, 105th Light Infantry, Leslie O. Patterson, Surgeon Major A.M.D., J. H. Staddon W.M. 376, W. Clarke W.M. 959, N. Tracey P.M. 376, J. B. Wiseman P.M. and Sec. 433, W. L. Ling 433, J. Englefield 434, John Salmon, formerly of 51, and the following members of No. 697:—Bros. A. R. Clonch W.M., E. H. Crates P.M. P.P.G.C., T. Eustace P.M., W. Potton, W. W. Wilkin, H. J. Everett, W. Jelley, T. Mellonie, G. Eustace, G. Univer, John Inwood, G. Smith, and D. Higgins. The ceremony on the agenda was a passing, which was well performed by the W.M., and on its conclusion the lecture was ably given by the I.P.M. Bro. Welch. Three candidates for initiation, and one joining member were proposed, and the representatives of the visiting Lodges gave the W.M. the accustomed fraternal greeting. Among the "communications" was a letter from the widow of the late Bro. John Wright Carr, Prov. G. Sec., acknowledging the vote of condolence passed last Lodge night; and a note was read from the D.P.G.M., setting forth the serious loss Bro. Carr's death was to the Province, and the difficulties which surrounded the selection of a successor. The Acting Secretary also presented an application, written on a mourning card, purporting to come from "A Freemason of twenty years' standing," suggesting "a whip round," to supply his immediate need, he having "in vain advertised his most painful position." A brother present said he heard the same application read at his London Lodge, the other night, and suggested a doubt as to its genuineness. It was decided that, as the application was not "vouched for," no notice be taken of it. The brethren subsequently adjourned for refreshment, and a truly Masonic evening was spent. The post prandial proceedings were greatly enlivened by the vocal renderings of Bros. S. Chaplin, T. M. Bear, C. Wilson Atkins, and W. Wilkin, under the direction of Bro. Turner, the Organist.

Thistle Lodge, No. 87.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on the 11th inst., in their own hall, 30 Cathedral-street. The R.W.M., Bro. Jas. Booth, initiated one gentleman, after which he raised two of the brethren to the sublime degree.

Cornubian Mark Lodge, No. 87, Hayle.—At the meeting, on Tuesday, the 19th, Bro. Frank H. Poole P.P.G.M.O. was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing year.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—The regular weekly meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday last, at Masons' Avenue, under the presidency of the following officers:—Bros. Loewenstark W.M., Walker S.W., Crosker J.W., Staley S.D., Lay J.D., Sayer J.G., Christopher Tyler. Upon the minutes of the previous meeting being confirmed, the W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of raising, Bro. Biddle candidate. We have seen Bro. Loewenstark work better on former occasions. Bro. Abbott then gave the second of his series of Lectures, taking up the history of our Craft from the installation of the Duke of Montagun, in 1721, and continuing it to the Grand Mastership of the Duke of Norfolk, in 1730. The lecturer enumerated the most interesting events during this period, particularising the extension of the Craft to other countries, and the establishment of Lodges in Paris, Gibraltar, Bengal, and Philadelphia respectively, in the years 1725-7-8-30. He also gave a capital sketch of the general career of the Duke of Montague, illustrating his Grace's kindness of heart and love of frolic. Due notice will be given in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE when the third Lecture will be delivered. In consequence of the Christmas Holidays, standing orders were suspended in this Lodge; and the meeting was adjourned until Wednesday, the 3rd January, at 7 p.m., when Bro. Walker will preside. We noticed the absence of Bro. Gotthelf, which, we regret to say, was owing to illness. We hope he may be speedily restored to health. The following were present:—Bros. Bloomfield, Abell, Botobol, Batye, Cohen, Powell, Peartree, Rudderforth, Stephens, Snelling, Turner, Constable Treas., Pitt Sec., Jesse, Larkin, Colthrup, Bardon, Davis, &c.

St. Luke's Lodge, No. 225.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 13th inst., it being the installation of W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. W. Daking, the W.M. elect, was duly installed. Amongst those present we noticed W. T. Westgate P.M., J. Whitehead P.M., P. Whitehead P.M., F. Prentice P.M., Bros. G. Abbott, Hillyard, Garrett, Orton, Byford, Cannoe, J. King, and about twenty other brethren. The ceremony of installation was well performed by Bro. J. Whitehead P.M. The W.M. appointed his officers as follows—Bros. Charles Hillyard S.W., Philip Whitehead J.W., Alexander Barber Secretary, John Orton S.D., G. A. Garrett J.D., Thomas Prentice P.M. D.C., Thomas Westworth I.G. The W.M., although a native of Ipswich, was initiated, in 1862, at Bermuda, in the Loyalty Lodge, Ireland Island, No. 358, R.E., and afterwards became affiliated to the Virgin Lodge, No. 396, R.E., Halifax, Nova Scotia. The members of this Lodge presented Bro. Daking with a beautiful Past Secretary's jewel on his leaving for England in June 1871. We trust that the coming year will be a successful one for the Lodge; in fact the new W.M.'s inherent energy is almost certain to make it so.

York Lodge, No. 236.—The annual meeting of this Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Duncombe-place, York, on Monday evening, the 19th instant, the principal business before it being the installation of Bro. William Cowling P.M., P.P.S.G.W., the Worshipful Master elect for the ensuing year, which will be the most important one in the history of the Lodge since its formation. Within the next few months the Lodge will complete the 100th year of its existence, it having been constituted by the Grand Lodge of England in June 1777, and as it is contemplated shortly to celebrate the centenary of the Lodge in a manner commensurate with its high reputation, and worthy of the ancient city with which it is associated, a special interest was attached on this occasion to the installation of the W.M. elect, as was evidenced by the large number of brethren and visitors from other Lodges who were in attendance. The ceremony of installation was performed with great ability by Bro. Ralph Davison P.M., after which the W.M. (with the view of the proceedings attendant upon the proposed celebration being most effectively carried out) appointed and invested the following distinguished members of the Lodge as his officers for the year, viz.:—Bros. Sir James Meek P.M. P.P.G.W. S.W., William Benson Richardson P.M. P.P.G.W. J.W., Rev. H. V. Palmer P.M. P.P.G.C. Chaplain, William Lawton P.M. P.P.G.R. Treasurer, Josh. Todd P.M. P.P.G.O. Secretary, John March P.M. P.P.G.W. S.D., Charles Smith P.M. P.P.G.D. J.D., Ralph Davison P.M. P.P.G.S.B. D.C., and Thomas Smurthwaite P.M. P.P.G.W. I.G. Bro. Kirby was also appointed Assistant Secretary, Bros. Capidge P.P.G.O. Organist, Tissiman and Garbutt Stewards, and Redfare Tyler.

Lion Lodge, No. 312, Whitby.—At the monthly meeting, on Monday last, Bro. J.M. Bottomley was elected W.M. for the ensuing year, in succession to Bro. J. S. Moss.

Union Lodge, No. 332.—At the regular meeting, on Monday, after the installation of a candidate by the R.W.M., Bro. J. McKirdy, Bro. John Servas, of Lodge St. John 347, who is a working joiner, presented the Lodge with some beautiful specimens of his own work, in the shape of three turned mauls, a large square, level and plumb rule, fit to carry in processions, two columns for the Wardens' chairs, and also two batons, all elaborately finished and highly polished. Bro. McKirdy, in accepting this valuable gift, highly extolled the good qualities of Bro. John Servas, whom he proposed for honorary affiliation. Bro. Servas hoped the Lodge would have as much pleasure in using the articles as he had had in preparing them.

Royal Preston Lodge, No. 333.—This Lodge held its Festival of St. John on Thursday, 14th of December, at the Castle Hotel, Preston. Present—Bros. Quarter-Master-Sergeant William Menzies, Royal Engineers, W.M., Richard Banks Preston S.W., Robert Jones J.W., George Stevenson Sec., William Thompson S.D., William Osbaldeston J.D., John Poole Steward, George Ireland I.G., William Brunt Tyler. Past Masters Bros. D. Wilson and H. P. Burton; Bros. McConnell, Bilsbrough, Rev. J. P. Sheppard M.A., R. Williams, Howarth, Harrison, Porter, and others. Visitors—Bros. Harry Johnson P.M. 113 R.C.S., Thomas Nevett P.M. 113, L. Barnes P.M. 113, R. Cuthbert, W.M. 340, and M. Mather W.M., L. Spencer, C. Spencer, Beattie, Ashton, Walker, Badger, Jolly, Bibby and Barber. The usual preliminaries having been disposed of, Bro. Payne was passed to the degree of F.C., after which Bro. J. Porter was appointed Tyler, and Bro. S. Craig Almoner for the next twelve months. The S.W., Bro. R. B. Preston, was then installed W.M. for the year, and appointed his officers as under, viz., Robert Jones S.W., George Stevenson J.W., John McConnell S.D., George Ireland J.D., Wm. Osbaldeston Sec., Rev. J. P. Sheppard M.A. Chaplain, Samuel Craig P.M. 333 Treasurer, William Bilsbrough I.G., William Wilson and William Knowles Stewards.

Cornubian Lodge, No. 450, Hayle.—Bro. Gilbert B. Pearce S.W. will be installed as W.M. on St. John's Day, viz., 27th December, by Bro. George Stevens, the retiring W.M.

Mersey Lodge, No. 477.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on the 14th instant, at the Masonic Chambers, 55 Argyle-street, Birkenhead. Present—Bros. John Gleave Adams W.M., William Pulford S.W., John Dutton J.W., Donald Fraser I.P.M. Sec., Robert Gracie P.M. Treas., Thomas Brown S.D., William Worrall J.D., Robert Ridyard D.C., Robert Hamilton Steward, William Bennett I.G., James H. Holtoway Tyler. Past Masters Bros. Samuel Jones, John Griffiths, J. H. Johnstone, and seventy members. Visitors—Bros. Thomas Shaw S.W. 605 and Pink 1356. There were three initiations—viz., W. H. Golightly, Henry Bolton, and James Henry Dillon; after which Bro. William Pulford S.W. was elected W.M. for the ensuing year, and Bro. Donald Fraser I.P.M. and Sec. was elected Treasurer. The demise of Bro. D. H. Whalley was feelingly commented upon, and Bro. W. M. Asker was deputed by the Lodge to see if any assistance was required, and how it might be applied to assist the widow and children of the deceased brother.

Clyde Lodge, No. 408.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Friday, the 15th Dec., at St. Mark's Hall, Glasgow. Bro. John McGivins presiding, supported in the east by T. M. Campbell P.M., also by W. Bell P.M. 3 bis, G. W. Wheeler 73, D. Reid R.W.M. 465, and J. Harn R.W.M. 592. One brother was raised to the sublime degree by the new Master, Bro. Campbell P.M. giving the traditionary lecture. A board of Installed Masters was then formed, consisting of Bros. Bell, Wheeler, Campbell, and Harn, when Bro. McInnis was duly installed into the chair of King Solomon, and saluted by the brethren.

St. Helens Lodge, No. 531.—This Lodge held its installation meeting on Thursday, the 7th of December, at the Masonic Hall, Regent-square, Hartlepool. Present—Bros. Thomas J. Johnson W.M., Thomas H. Fleetham S.W., William Fleetham J.W., John Horsley Secretary, Walter Shaw Treasurer, Frederick Bennett S.D., P. Venlles J.D., John Hunter P.P.G.J.W. D.C., L. Salt Steward, M. Spofforth I.G., James Mowbray Tyler. Past Masters Bros. John Hunter, James J. Armstrong, J. H. Atley, William Pearson. Visitor —Bro. Liddell, Williamson Lodge, Sunderland. Business—Bro. T. H. Fleetham was installed W.M., John Horsley S.W., F. Bennett J.W., J. W. Shotton S.D., M. Spofforth J.D., P. Venlles Secretary, W. Shaw Treasurer, G. W. H. Winter I.G., James Mowbray Tyler, John Hunter D.C. After this the brethren adjourned to Bro. Humbles' Cleveland Hotel, where a banquet was prepared, and partaken of by about 30 brethren. At the after meeting Bro. Horsley, in the name of the Lodge, presented Bro. Thomas J. Johnson with an elegant Masonic jewel, as a token of esteem and respect, for the very able manner in which he had discharged the duties of Worshipful Master for the past year.

Clydesdale Lodge, No. 556.—The election and installation of the officers of this young but highly flourishing Lodge took place on Tuesday, 12th December, in the hall belonging to the members, 106 Rose-street. That great interest was felt in the event was shown by the crowded state of the Hall, and the fact that 140 recorded their vote—73 for Bro. Phillips, and 67 for Bro. G. H. C. McNaught—for the office of Master for the ensuing year. The Lodge was opened by the R.W.M., Bro. Wm. Phillips, Bros. Hugh McCulloch D.M., Jas. Boyle S.M., John McNaught S.W., and Thos. Phillips J.W. The auditors' report showed that, after defraying the expenses of fitting up their hall, providing clothing and furniture, and above £20 extra expenses incident on the visit of the Prince of Wales,—though the Lodge has only been in existence two and a half years,—yet they had paid all demands, and had a balance in Treasurer's hands of £30 1s 2d. Thanks were given to the Master for such a satisfactory result, and also to the Sec. and Treas., for their labours. The R.W.M., being a candidate for re-election, handed the maul to Bro. Hugh McCulloch D.M., to preside, and Bros. G. W. Wheeler 73, McFarlane 176, and G. Stein 592, were appointed to superintend the ballot, and act as tellers. The contest was keen, there being two candidates for nearly every office, and, the votes in each case were nearly equal. The following was the result:—Bros. Wm. Phillips R.W.M. (re-elected third time), Hart S.M., Thos. Phillips S.W., L. McKechnie J.W., J. Groggins Treas., John Webster Chaplain (re-elected), Main Sec., J. Reid S.D., J. Gardner J.D., R. Middleton P.G.S., J. McMillan S.S., G. Malcom J.S., H. Gillespie S.B., J. Geddies Architect, A. Middleton D. of M., R. Maben S.B., B. Wilson I.G., Wm. Graham Tyler. The R.W.M. elect then appointed Bro. R. Gardner as his Deputy, and requested Bro. G. W. Wheeler to instal him, and Bros. Gardiner and Hart as the D.M. and S.M. for the ensuing year. At the wish of the Lodge, Bros. Wheeler 73 and Stein 592 were affiliated as honorary members, and the Lodge, after four hours of labour was called to refreshment, when, after all the contests, peace and harmony reigned.

St. Bryde's, Udderston, No. 579.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Tuesday, 11th inst., when the R.W.M. Bro. H. J. Shields, very carefully initiated two gentlemen into the Order.

St. John's Lodge, No. 675.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 5th inst., at the Masonic Temple, 22 Hope-street, Liverpool. Present—Bros. Thomas Roberts W.M., Henry Burrows S.W., David Jackson J.W., William May P.M. and Secretary, Thomas Clark P.M. and Treasurer, William Bruckenbury S.D., Louis Herman J.D., John Thornton P.M. and D.C., J. Fulshaw Steward, John Seddon I.G., W. E. Bull Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. Digges, Cullow, Hocken, Corless, Pearson, and a considerable number of visitors. Business—The Lodge having been regularly opened, Messrs. Etchells, Atherton, and Bebington were initiated, after which three brothers were passed to the 2nd degree. A sum of five guineas was voted for the purpose of charity, and, the Lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to supper, after which the usual toasts were given and responded to. During the evening about seventy brethren were enrolled as subscribers to the West Lancashire Educational Institution.

Panmure Lodge, No. 720.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Monday, the 18th inst., at the Balham Hotel, Balham, S.W. Present—Bros. Daniel Truslen W.M., Sheard S.W., Payne P.M. as J.W., Thomas Poore P.M. Secretary, McKay S.D., Woolfe J.D., McMurray D.C., Smith I.G., Steadman Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. Pulman and James Stevens; also Bros. Lilley, Saunders, Max. Brenner, Willshire, Mills, Kerr, Gunner, Treves, Mitchell, Holliday King, &c. The business comprised the passing of Bros. Trever Gunner, Holliday, and King to the degree of F.C., and the initiation of Mr. Charles Alfred Blogg. In consequence of the lamented decease of Bros. J. B. Wolpert P.M. and E. Clarke, the brethren appeared in Masonic mourning, and in the course of the evening votes of condolence with the widows of the respective deceased were passed. Two candidates for initiation sent apologies for non-attendance, and four others were proposed for admission at the ensuing meeting. The Lodge was then closed, and refreshment followed labour.

William Preston Lodge of Instruction, No. 766.—This Lodge held its third meeting on Friday, 15th December, at the Feathers Tavern, Upper George-street, Edgware-road, W. Present—Bros. W. H. G. Rudderforth 12 W.M., Kidman S.D. 766 S.W., D. Gellian 1425 J.W., A. Brawn P.M. 766 Sec., J. Kennard Treas., G. West 1287 S.D., Nichols 1287 J.D., Gadden I.G. Visitors—Bros. Ridley, C. J. Reddie, Atkins, Whall 742, Dunham, W. Forster. Business—The Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes having been read and confirmed, the Lodge was opened in the second. Bro. Ridley answered the questions, and was entrusted; the Lodge being then opened in the third. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of raising, Bro. Ridley giving the traditional history. The Lodge was resumed to the first, and the fourth section worked. Bros. Gellian, Kidman and Whall were elected joining members, and Bro. Kidman appointed W.M.; the officers in rotation. The Lodge was closed in due form.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, 860.—Met on Tuesday, Bros. Hewlett W.M., Barker S.W., Saunders J.W., Dallas S.D., Johnson J.D., Williams I.G., Worsley Secretary, Wallington Preceptor; also Bros. Smith, Brown, Perry, Webb, Davies, Cambridge, Perrin, Defries and P.M. Ashburner. After preliminaries, the Lodge was opened in the 2nd, Bro. Perry answered the questions, and the Lodge was advanced to the 3rd, when the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Perry as candidate. Bro. Ashburner gave the traditional history. Bro. Webb worked the 1st and 3rd sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge closed down to the 1st. Bro. Barker was unanimously elected W.M. for Tuesday, 2nd January 1877 (the meeting being adjourned till then). He appointed his officers in rotation. A unanimous vote of thanks was accorded Bro. Hewlett for the efficient rendering of the ceremony, it being the first time of his taking the chair in this Lodge. His perfect working and delivery delighted all present. We are pleased to hear that £10 was voted to the Masonic Benevolent Fund for Old Men and Women. Bros. Wallington and Webb have been elected by their respective Lodges to act as Stewards. Five pounds was ordered to be placed on each of their lists. This is as it should be, pleasing to both, and satisfactory to the Lodge, which will now be able to have more votes in future. We wish this Lodge all the success it deserves: it is always well attended, and is doing its utmost to support the Charities.

The Metropolitan Royal Arch Chapter of Improvement.—A meeting was held at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill, on Tuesday, the 19th inst. Present—Comps. E. S. Norris Z., J. C. Cox H., C. Nash J., J. Boyd Treasurer, Thomas W. White S.E., Thomas Massa S.N., J. W. Berrie P.S., E. H. Finney, A. G. Medwin, J. J. Pukes. Business—The ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed. Comp. Thomas Massa, of the Burdett Chapter, No. 1293, was elected a member. It was resolved that the Chapter be adjourned till Tuesday, 2nd January 1877.

Strawbury Hill Lodge, No. 946.—The usual monthly meeting was held at the Grotto Hotel, Twickenham, on Wednesday. Bro. Johnson W.M., Wolgemuth S.W., Skinner J.W., W. Platt P.M. Sec., C. B. Woodman S.D., Argyle I.G., and P.M.'s Bro. W. Smeed G.J.W. Middlesex, and W. Waghorn. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. W. Smeed P.M. then raised Bro. Russell to the 3rd degree, and ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. E. D. Garwood and R. J. Garwood, who were afterwards duly initiated by the W.M. The Lodge was then closed and the brethren partook of a very excellent banquet, provided by the worthy host. The W.M. proposed the usual toasts. Bro. W. Smeed P.M. returned thanks for the health of the Provincial Grand Officers. The toasts of the Initiates, P.M.'s, Wardens and Officers were given, and the brethren returned to town. Bros. S. Jowell 1550, Miller and Parkes were present as visitors.

Erme Lodge, No. 1091.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 6th of December, at Erme House, Ivy Bridge. Present:—Bros. James Hill Toms W.M., Stephen Sandover S.W., Thomas Searle J.W., William Bofall P.M. Secretary, Henry Cole P.M. and Treasurer, William Henry Mackay S.D., Richard Lavers J.D., Richard Tring jun. Steward, John Sawyer I.G., Thomas Ford Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. William Bozall I.P.M, Henry Cole P.M. Visitors—Bros. Gidley P.M., Avery S.W., and Glover S.W. Business.—Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Ballots were taken for Messrs. Thomas Blackmore and Richard Tring, which proved unanimous in their favour; they were then prepared and initiated, the ceremony of initiation being very ably and impressively performed by the W.M., assisted by the Past Masters present. The Lodge closed at 8 p.m. The brethren retired to refreshment, and some very eloquent addresses were given to the newly-initiated brothers by the Past Masters.

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday the 13th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present—Bros. Edward Margrett W.M., Arthur Welch S.W., W. G. Flanagan J.W., Rev. R. C. Money Chap., W. P. Ivey P.M. Sec., J. T. Stratton Treas., J. Early Danks S.D., William Ferguson J.D., Richard Dowsett D.C., Thos. Newman Steward, E. J. Blackwell I.G., W. 33. "OLD MOG."

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and profixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

MRS. JOHN WRIGHT CARR wishes to return her sincere Thanks to the numerous Friends and Brethren of her late lamented Husband for their letters of Condolence, which have been most consoling to her, bearing, as they do, strong testimony to the high esteem in which her Husband was held in his public character, and how much he was appreciated by the large circle in which he moved.

Mrs. CARR regrets that she cannot thank each kind writer, but the large number renders this impossible.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Queen is still at Windsor, where she takes her daily drive with her daughter the Princess Beatrice. On Monday and Tuesday, her Majesty's Royal Bounty was distributed at the Almonry Office in Middle Scotland-yard by the Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean of Windsor, Lord High-Almoner, assisted by the Rev. E. R. Wilberforce, Sub-Almoner, and Mr. John Hanby, Secretary. The recipients exceeded a thousand in number, one-third of them being over threescore years and ten, while some had reached the patriarchal age of ninety-five. Whether these latter indulged in any outbursts of joy on the occasion, and returned home, singing the old familiar song—

"I'm ninety-five, I'm ninety-five, or not, our informant has not said. No doubt they rejoiced exceedingly over their gifts, which varied in amount from five to thirteen shillings. A number of blind and otherwise sadly-afflicted persons were included among the deserving body selected as worthy objects for the bestowal of the Queen's alms.
And to keep single I contrive—"

This, of course, being the week preceding Christmas, people are thinking far more about the provision of good cheer than even of the most serious political questions. However, several Members of Parliament and others have been addressing different assemblies on the Eastern Question. Among them we note the Earl of Carnarvon, who, naturally, defended the conduct of the Government of which he is so distinguished a member. Another prominent personage, Mr. Russell Gurney, the Recorder of London, has been also expressing his views on this important topic. The annual dinner of the Southampton Conservative Association, at which Mr. Gurney was present, afforded the Right Honourable gentleman the needful opportunity. He, too, as a Conservative, spoke at some length and very earnestly in support of the Ministry, defending their policy, and calling upon all Englishmen to lay aside party feeling and back them up at a time so critical.

But the interest of the hour centres, as we have said, in the preparations for our Christmas festivities. Everywhere in London are to be seen attractive commodities offered for sale, and if the usual amount of rejoicing over Christmas Boxes is not as demonstrative this year as at former Christmastides, it will certainly not be the fault of our London shopkeepers, who for months past have been busying themselves to secure the patronage of the public. The provision shops—especially the butchers, Italian warehousemen, and greengrocers—are in admirable form just now. Prize sheep and bullocks are on view in the shops of the first; all kinds of dainty preparations in the way of jams, preserved fruits, bon-bons, and the like, are noticeable in those of the second; while the latter seem to have had their places converted all of a sudden into one huge holly hedge, relieved here and there by small firs for Christmas trees, and branches of mistletoe, under which Cousin Jack will pay his dear Angelina the compliments of the season in good old English fashion. As for the poulterers, there seems to be no end to the turkeys, geese, pheasants, and other game and poultry which they have laid in for our benefit when the eventful day arrives. In the bazaars are to be seen piles upon piles of toys, both English and foreign, including musical boxes, warlike implements more or less dangerous, magic and Chinese lanterns, bon-bon boxes, and such-like ornaments for the Christmas tree, with flags and banners of every nationality which ever boasted an existence, either actual or in the imagination only. Elsewhere are to be seen books of all kinds, handsome picture cards, and Christmas and New Year cards, on which some pretty sentiment, appropriate to the season, is inscribed; and likewise albums, varying in price from a few shillings to a few pounds. The difficulty which, it seems to us, is the likeliest to befal the purchaser, in the first place is that he may contrive not to buy all that is offered him without unpleasantly snubbing the pretty girls who serve behind the counter, and how to get out of a shop, when once he has entered, with enough to pay his cab fare home. Speaking with the experience of many, many years, we advise our friends, if they contemplate purchasing Christmas gifts, to do so as quietly and as knowingly as possible, and without having their little dears in company with them. The appetite of children for toys and the like is well-nigh insatiable, and Paterfamilias will probably find his face a little longer than usual, when, having bought incautiously he finds it necessary to reckon the cost of the little ones' amusements.

One person, at all events, has been doing some good hard work this week, and that is the American pedestrian, Weston, who is for the second time in London essaying the task of walking five hundred miles in six days. It will be remembered that some months ago Weston attempted this unparalleled feat at the Agricultural Hall, but covered a distance of only 450 miles. This was a great achievement, though it fell short of absolute success. Since then he has been starring it in the provinces, and, financially speaking, we imagine, he must have been turning his pedestrian ability to very good account. This week he has, as we have said, devoted to a second attempt to cover 500 miles, but additional attractions have been offered on this occasion. The managers of the Exhibition at the Agricultural Hall, though not contemplating more than a display of Weston's marvellous powers, have invited certain comparatively untrained Englishmen to test their powers of endurance against him, and have offered a series of three prizes of £60, £30, and £20 respectively to the three men who shall together walk a distance longer than Weston covers, each of the three walking 48 hours, and to cover at least 160 miles in that time to entitle him to the first prize, 150 miles for the second, and 140 for the third. The giving, however, of these prizes at all is conditional on the total of the three men's distances exceeding that walked by Weston. Up to the first hour of yesterday morning, or to be exact, at five minutes past midnight, Weston had completed 326½ miles, while the three so far had done only 318 miles, namely, Ide 152 miles and 5 laps, Parry 163 and 1½ laps, and Cross-land about two miles. Thus Weston is ahead on the first two-thirds of his journey, but he labours under the disadvantage of having to keep his lead against a fresh, and, as it happens, a very good man, who has already walked his 114 miles in the 24 hours. It seems that Weston in some manner broke down the third day. He had a slight abrasion of the skin on one of his heels, which for a time proved very painful, and the weather, which was anything but seasonable during the first half of the week, appears to have affected him, irritating his throat, and making him feel very drowsy. But on Thursday he picked up again, and the last accounts we had left him walking steadily. Long distance walking has never been popular in this country as a sport, so that the performance has attracted a goodly number of spectators. It is not unlikely, however, we may hear of a contest shortly, Sir J. Astley having staked £500 on Weston walking 500 miles against any man in the world. The stake has been covered, so we shall doubtless witness a match in the course of the next three or four months. So large a sum is worth going in for a course of training to win.

In the City, the Wardmotes in the different districts for the election of Common Councilmen were held on Thursday. In the majority of Wards there was no contest, but in some a poll was demanded, and that was to have been taken yesterday. By the way, a vacancy has been caused in the Court of Aldermen by the death, at the advanced age of 80, of Alderman Besley, the well-known type founder, who had filled the office of Sheriff, and Lord Mayor, with great credit to himself and great satisfaction to his fellow-citizens.

Our news from the East, if not very alarming, is not particularly reassuring. In some quarters it appears to be taken for granted that war is inevitable between Russia and Turkey. Others are more hopeful that the efforts of the Conference will be successful in securing a firm and honourable peace. We hope so most sincerely, but, without being alarmists, we confess we do not see our way to indulging in this hope. When the two Powers which are supposed to be most concerned go on arming to the teeth, laying up warlike stores, and preparing for the victualling of their armies, when fortresses are being provisioned, and the ordinary railway traffic is interrupted, that soldiers and material of war may be conveyed to their appointed destination, it looks very much as though they meant fighting. Moreover, the matter is becoming more complicated and critical. The Magyars are growing as excited as the Sclaves are said to be, while another outrage on the Austrian flag has been perpetrated by the Servian officer in command of Belgrade. This will certainly not help forward the cause of peace, for Austria is said to be dissatisfied with the apologies offered, and the increasing excitement of the Hungarians, whose hatred of the Russians is well known, may force the Emperor Francis Joseph into a conflict. However, let us hope that the Conference will pass off well, and that the last week of the present year of anxiety may bring forth good fruit, so that we may enter on the year 1877 with a fair prospect of peace.

It has already been announced, in our Advertisement columns, that H.R.H. Prince Leopold, Provincial Grand Master of Oxfordshire, will preside at the annual Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution on Monday, the 14th of February next. We are now in a position to supplement this agreeable piece of intelligence with another equally gratifying, namely, that Lord Suffield, the newly-installed Provincial Grand Master of Norfolk, will preside on the occasion of the Eighty-ninth Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, which is fixed for Wednesday, the 9th May.

St. George's Preceptory of Knights Templar met at the Albion Tavern, on Friday, the 15th inst. The Rev. D. J. Drakeford was installed a Knight of the Order by the Preceptor, W. Spencer, assisted by W. Hyde Pullen.

The annual ball of the Stockton Freemasons was held on Friday evening, the 15th inst., in the New Masonic Hall, Wellington-street, and was largely attended.

CONSECRATION OF A LODGE AT BRIGHTON.

(From The Brighton and Sussex Daily Post).

ON Wednesday, at the Royal Pavilion, Brighton, a Special Grand Lodge of the Province of Sussex was held, for the purpose of consecrating a new Lodge, the St. Cecilia, No. 1,636, a warrant for the establishment of which had been granted by the Grand Lodge on the application of the following:—Bros. Kuhe (Grand Organist of England), Everall, Sandeman, Broadbridge, Nell, Foat, Belcher, Devis, Hawkes, Nye and H. Payne. The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened, at three o'clock, by the Acting Prov. G.M., Bro. E. J. Turner (in the absence of the Prov. G.M. Bro. Lord Pelham). The Acting Grand Master was supported by Bros. Sir W. W. Burrell, Bart., M.P. (Prov. D.G.M.), and by his Provincial Grand Officers as follows:—Bros. T. Trollope S.G.W., C. Pocock J.G.W., E. Walker (Rev.) G. Chaplain, G. Tatham G. Treasurer, C. Woolley G.

Registrar, J. H. Scott G. Secretary, B. H. Thorpe G. S. Deacon, R. Bramwell G. J. Deacon, — Tomes G. Superintendent of Works, J. Dixon G.D. of C., T. H. Cole G. Assistant D. of the C., Walter Smith G.S.B., E. Gladstone G. Organist, J. Eberall G. Pursuivant, Bros. J. M. Read, C. Sandeman, G. Money, and T. S. Byass, G. Stewards, T. Hughes, G. Tyler. The brethren present included the following:—Bros. W. Marchant, J. M. Cunningham, J. Fabian, E. Bright, W. J. Harris, H. Belcher, V. P. Freeman, A. King, A. Partridge, R. J. Pope, J. Butler, G. De Paris, G. B. McWhinnie, J. Glass, C. J. Smith, W. Kuhe, H. W. Hawswell, C. W. Arnold, E. M. Norris, G. S. Gray, J. F. Eyles, G. H. Day, W. Wright, H. F. Mackay, J. M. Reid, H. Payne, James Curtis, G. Vickers, F. C. Woodman, R. Grey, J. F. Capon, W. P. Nell, W. A. Butt, W. Withers Moore, T. J. Sabine, W. Winn, C. Beckett, J. Hedges, H. Freeman, H. Collet, W. H. Gibson, H. Duval, J. P. M. Smith, W. T. Clarke, F. Noakes, T. Fenn, L. F. Noakes, G. Smith, W. S. Eversbed, J. W. Stride, C. Warwick Orme, S. G. Foxall, R. Willard, T. C. Abell, C. Batt, H. M. Jenner, J. Sergison, E. Histed, E. Byass, W. G. Pomdall, H. C. Davis, S. T. Post, J. Weed, C. Winstanley, C. Hudson, S. R. Legg, W. R. Wood, J. H. Rees, J. Farncombe, S. Tanner, F. J. Holman, W. A. Stuckey, A. Whitefield, B. Roberts, A. J. Hawkes, R. W. Willat, T. R. White, H. W. Wells, F. Holford, R. Ford, T. Chandler, T. S. Watts, Mark Tanner, J. T. Whatford, J. C. Stratford, &c.

The brethren having assembled in the Music Room, a procession of the Acting Grand Master and his officers was formed in the Drawing Room, and on the Acting Grand Master taking his seat, the Lodge was opened with the usual formula. The petition and warrant were then read, and the petitioning brethren signified their approval of the officers named in the warrant.

The Prov. Grand Chaplain (Bro. Rev. E. Walker) then, at the call of the Acting Prov. Grand Master, delivered a short oration on the nature and design of Freemasonry. He observed that the occasion on which they were assembled was one of those convincing proofs that the principles of Freemasonry were generally extending. Persecution in former days, and in still later times, had done its utmost; yet here, thanks to the G. A. of the U., it stood, holding its own; and if the brethren carried out their professions of fidelity, love, and truth, it still would hold its own against all persecution. Tracing Masonry down from the earliest ages, he observed that if the brethren would but continue to maintain in their breasts the unity of the Godhead, they would ever be found carrying out the principles of the Craft in brotherly love, relief, and truth. Unless these principles were exhibited in all their doings, then Masonry was spurious; but, on the other hand, if carried out, how grand was the link binding them all together, making them better subjects, and giving proof to the world that their professions were more than a name. Might all present in the good time of the G.A. of the U., be brought to the Grand Lodge above, from whence all goodness emanated.

After other formula peculiar to the Craft, the ceremony of consecration was admirably performed, the musical portion of the ceremony being ably given, under the direction of Bro. Gladstone P.G. Organist, by Bros. Hodges, Thornton, Berett and Winn.

All this being ended, Bro. W. Kuhe was then installed as the W.M. of the Lodge, and he then proceeded to appoint his officers as follows:—Bros. Everall S.W., Sandeman J.W., H. Payne Treasurer, Belcher Secretary, Nell S.D., Post J.D., Hawkes D. of C., Nye J.G., Hughes Tyler.

The following were then proposed as candidates for initiation, and to join the new Lodge:—Messrs. W. R. Wood jun., G. L. Fenner, H. E. Cox, W. Smithers, J. Sayers, F. Mocrante, G. H. Germans, — Marks, G. A. Mellisen, J. B. Mellisen, E. Hall, J. Crappe, G. Cole, H. S. Gates, E. Roe, W. Roe, J. Maynard, T. K. Pelham, and J. M. Newnham.

On the proposition of the S.W. seconded by the J.W., it was unanimously resolved that the Acting Grand Master and the Grand Secretary should be elected honorary members of the Lodge, and the following were then proposed as joining members:—Bros. J. Wood, Yarborough 811, R. J. Pope, York 315, W. H. Gibson, York 315, H. C. Davis, Mount Lebanon 73, L. Grandel, York 315, R. Page, Industry 421, C. Hudson, York 315, E. Bright, Clarence 271.

The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banqueting room, where Messrs. Mutton Brothers, of King's-road, had provided a banquet which gave the greatest satisfaction, and redounded highly to their credit as public caterers. The W.M., Bro. Kuhe, presided, supported by Bro. Sir W. W. Burrell, Bart., M.P., Bro. Furner (Acting Grand Master), Bro. J. H. Scott (P.G. Secretary), and by the following officers of the Grand Lodge: Bros. C. W. Arnold Grand Chap., Foxall Grand Pursuivant, Hene P.G. Deacon, Grey P.G. Deacon; also by Bro. Barnet Ford, General, and the brethren whose names we have already given.

Bro. Kuhe, on rising to respond, was received most heartily. He assured the brethren that, accustomed as he had long been to kindness from his fellow men, this last act of theirs was most grateful to him. He hoped in the future they would overlook his shortcomings. It was his desire to do his best for the Lodge, and it would not be from want of desire if he did not carry out his duty to the utmost. But they were aware that his avocations were onerous, and that he had a deal to think of. He might not be able to do all he could wish, but he could assure them, with regard to the nineteen proposed that night for initiation, that it was his intention to perform all the initiation ceremonies himself. (Loud cheers.)

Bro. Belcher gave "The Worshipful Masters of the Province of Sussex," to which the Master of the Derwent Lodge, Bro. C. M. Norris, responded.

Bro. Kuhe, W.M., here, at the request of the company, as expressed to him by Bro. J. Scott, contributed a most brilliant performance on the pianoforte.

Bro. J. H. Scott proposed "The Visitors," remarking that the Lodge had celebrated its consecration aright by inviting 70 guests, 50 of whom had accepted, and were present that evening. He coupled with the toast the name of Bro. General Barrett Ford, a distinguished Mason recently returned from India, who most ably responded.

The W.M. then gave "The Officers of the Lodge," to which Bro. Eberall (S.W.) responded.

"The Tyler's" toast brought a very agreeable evening's proceedings to a close.

ENTERTAINMENT AT LEYTON COLLEGE.

ON Thursday evening we enjoyed the privilege of being present at the Winter Entertainment given by the pupils of this College, and highly gratified were we with our visit. Everything passed off most pleasantly. The various items in the programme of the Concert were capitally rendered, as also a short Dramatic Cantata by Messrs. Arthur Sullivan and W. S. Gilbert, entitled Trial by Jury. The prizes were then distributed, and the evening closed with dancing. It must have been a subject of pride and pleasure to Bro. Geo. J. Westfield, who is the respected Principal of this establishment, to find the boys placed under his charge acquitting themselves with so much credit, not to themselves only, but likewise to the merits of the system of education in force at the College. Having spoken thus far generally, we gladly enumerate certain of the performances which struck us as being specially well rendered. The Concert began with the overture from the Caliph of Bagdad, which was executed with taste and feeling by Miss Edith Westfield and Mr. W. F. Bradshaw. Then followed part songs, and a duet by Masters J. Povey and D. Bradley. Master Slater played a solo on the piano very carefully and with judgment. After the well-known glee of The Church and Cross came a recitation by Master J. Jackson, which that young gentleman gave most effectively. Miss Edith Westfield then enchanted the company with a pianoforte solo, Chanson à Boire, and after a patriotic and part songs, Mr. Bradshaw followed with a Fantaisie Diverse on the piano. The other items included pieces on the piano by Master W. Milton, Miss Westfield, Mr. Bradshaw, Masters A. Delves, and T. Hamilton, this portion closing with a funny song, with chorus, by Master R. Hamilton, entitled "The Pig with the Roman Nose." Trial by Jury was rendered very effectively, all fulfilling their parts well. It is also right we should mention that among the specimens of drawing and writing exhibited, some were admirable, showing unusual skill and pains on the part of those who executed them. The drawings of A. Delves and H. Webster entitle us to hope that they may occupy a high position hereafter as engineering draughtsmen. H. Milton shone in general subjects, and R. Hamilton and C. Wilson in architectural drawing; but what was, perhaps, most generally admired was a dog's head, in crayon, by R. Hamilton. The writing of J. Slater, Grant, D. Bartlett, and T. Hamilton was much praised. We understand that Mr. Bradshaw, whose musical ability and genial disposition are highly appreciated by the pupils under him, is about to enter upon a matrimonial venture, and we take this opportunity of wishing him long life and happiness. We likewise congratulate Bro. Westfield on the signal success of his entertainment. Among those present as guests were Bros. Jackson, Milton, Delves, West, the Rev. — Lucas, Yelland, Hill, W. W. Morgan, &c.

A MASONIC PROTEST.—Freemasonry pursues an exalted object. It aims at uniting those on common ground whom difference of race, religion, and social position is apt to separate. It is the symbol of the equality of all men before God. It appeals to man's highest and noblest qualities, whereas passion addresses itself to his lower feelings and animal instincts. It has the laudable ambition to promote peace and goodwill on earth, to bring out all that is good in man and to keep down all that is mean and selfish in him. It is the pursuit of this object alone which has won for the Craft the esteem of so many excellent and high-souled men, and has introduced into it its best and most valuable members. Its secrecy, its passwords, gorgeous badges, conviviality and charity have no doubt contributed their share towards its success. But these differ only as daily incidents which it has in common with other secret orders, which have, nevertheless, never been able to exercise attractive power similar to Freemasonry; and this because the former after all acted only the part of friendly societies, while the latter soared up to a much loftier ideal, which shone like a brilliant star beckoning to a model higher goal. The moment a Lodge loses sight of this object it forfeits its right of existence as a constituent of the Craft. It may continue to play at the worship, but the essence is gone; all that has remained is the husk. Such a Lodge has clearly committed high treason against the vital principle of the Order. It is clearly guilty of apostacy, although it may hypocritically still cant in the phraseology of the Order and parade forth all its paraphernalia. Such a Lodge should, without delay, be warned of its iniquity, and, if remaining impenitent should forthwith be denounced and excluded from Masonic fraternity. It is therefore astonishing how Germany could have tolerated for so many years the existence of the Berlin Lodge, "The Three Globes," and the Lodges affiliated to it, which refuse admission to Jews on no other than religious grounds; and still more astonishing that the English, French and American Lodges should hold any communion with these apostates. We can only account for this toleration by the assumption that this treason to the fundamental principle of Masonry has never been brought under the notice of the English Grand Lodge. Great credit is therefore due to the Lodge of Tranquillity for having resolved to draw the attention of the Grand Lodge to it by entering its protest against this outrage. The protesting Lodge should do still more; it should endeavour to induce as many sister Lodges as it could rouse to join in denouncing this defiance of Masonic Fraternity and extend the agitation to other countries. All members of the offending German Lodges should be excluded from Masonic fraternity wherever there exists Lodges, while the defiance is preserved in and all intercommunion with the apostates be broken off. The time has come when such a demonstration would have an excellent chance of being successful.—Jewish Chronicle.

mings Tyler. Past Masters Bros. Egginton, Hurley, Brown, Weightman, Biggs (Hon.) and Bros. Robinson, T. Simonds, Creed, Bailey, Hawkes, Hilder, Barnicoat, White, Pulley, Rolfe, Rhind, Tabor, Hammett. Visitors—Bros. Pocock S.W. and W.M. elect 414, S. Bradley J.D. 414, A. M. Yetts W.M. 414, Nichols 1046, J. Dormor 340, Butler 414, Mount J.W. 1328. Business—The Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes of the last regular Lodge read and confirmed. The ballot was taken for Mr. Edwin Hunt, who was declared to be elected. The Lodge was opened in the second degree. Bro. Hilder satisfactorily replied to the questions leading from the second to the third, when he retired to be prepared. The Lodge was opened in the third degree, and Bro. Hilder was raised. The W.M. performed the ceremony in a most correct and masterly manner. This being the first raising since his installation, in October, it took the brethren rather by surprise to witness the beautiful ceremony so correctly carried out, not only by the W.M., but by the Wardens as well. The sublime hymn in the third degree was sung as a solo by Bro. Pulley, and afterwards by all the brethren in full chorus. The effect was most impressive. The ceremony of raising being ended, the Lodge was closed down from the third to the second degree, and from the second to the first degree, when Mr. Hunt was announced as a candidate for initiation. The perfect working throughout shows the great advantage of the Lodge of Instruction, which was held on Monday, the 11th inst., under the Preceptorship of the Secretary. At the conclusion of the labours of the evening, the W. M. announced his intention to be present as Steward at the Festival of the R.M.B.I., in February. He hoped the two Lodges in Reading, and those in the province, would support him on the occasion by sending up a good round sum. After receiving nominations the Lodge was closed. The brethren retired for refreshment to Bro. Robinson's, the Broad Face Hotel, where they spent a pleasant evening.

Perfect Ashlar, No. 1178.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, 14th inst., at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark, Bro. W. Lover W.M. Bros. W. Batchelor S.W., F. Garbett J.W., F. H. Eborworth P.M. Treas., F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex P.M. Sec., J. Stock S.D., T. Simpson I.G., P.M.s J. A. Smith and C. Deakin, and Bros. E. H. Vagg, E. Amsbs, Quincy, Shaw, Bridges, J. R. Fenwick, G. Taylor, J. J. Bell, J. Wakelin, J. S. Hood, Stamp, Bridges, Challoner, T. Edsworthy, T. Parratt, G. G. Judge, J. J. Gibbs, J. Gehringer, W. Young, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. W. Royal was raised to the 3rd degree, and five gentlemen were introduced into the Order. Several candidates were proposed for initiation.

Eclectic Lodge, No. 1201.—The members of this Lodge met on Monday, the 18th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bro. J. H. Watts W.M. occupied the chair. Bros. E. J. Harty S.W., Taylor J.W., R. Watts P.M. Sec., Mander P.M. Treas., Saul S.D., Barber J.D., Moss I.G., Joshua Nunn P.G.S.B. P.M. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Names of candidates were on the agenda paper for passing and raising, but the brethren were not present. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. E. J. Harty S.W. was elected without a dissentient voice. Bro. Mander was unanimously re-elected Treas., and Grant Tyler. The audit committe was appointed. In pursuance of a notice of motion by Bro. Mander P.M. and Treas., a committee was appointed, to consist of the W.M., Wardens, P.M.'s, and four brethren; to revise the bye-laws. These were discussed, and met with the cordial approbation of the brethren. The resignation of Bro. Joshua Nunn P.G.S.B., late Treas., was accepted. Bro. Mander P.M. proposed, and Bro. Barber seconded, that a P.M.'s jewel be presented to the W.M., Bro. J. H. Watts, on his retirement from the chair, in recognition of the able manner in which he had conducted the duties of the Lodge during his year of office, and the high regard and esteem he is held in by every brother of the Lodge.

Macdonald Lodge, No. 1216.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Thursday, the 14th inst., at the head-quarters of the First Surrey Rifles, Camberwell, S.E. Present—Bros. Marler W. Lariham W.M., Henry Hammond S.W., T. Woodbridge Carroll J.W., James J. Curtis Sec., Captain Aug. Hyam Treas., C. Pointon S.D., Thos. Edmonstone J.D., Wm. C. Hale I.G., A. Woodcock I.G., W. Grant Tyler. Past Masters Bros. James H. Hastie I.P.M., James Stevens, S. H. Wegstaff, G. H. N. Bridges, and W. J. Messenger. Visitors Bros. Watkin and Cottam, of the Wandsworth Lodge. Amongst others present were also Bros. Ebokey, Nevill, Jarman, Goldring, Bradley, Young, &c. The Lodge was opened and minutes read. Bro. H. Bridges proved his proficiency in the first degree, and was subsequently passed to the F.C. A grant of ten guineas was unanimously made in favour of a distressed brother, whose present unfortunate position called forth expressions of deep sympathy. Other Masonic business having been despatched, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment, the customary loyal and Masonic toasts being duly honoured.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Friday, the 15th inst., at the King and Queen, Norton Folgate, E.C. Present—Bros. Broom W.M., Oldroyd S.W., Lane J.W., Pearcy S.D., Barnett J.D., Keapes I.G., and Bros. Townsend, Bolton, Cleverley, &c. Business—The Lodge was opened to the third degree, and the ceremony of raising rehearsed by the W.M., after which the last section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Gross, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was closed down, Bro. Oldroyd being elected to fill the chair at the next meeting.

Talbot Lodge, No. 1323.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, 6th December, at the Masonic Rooms, Mackworth Hotel, Swansea. Present—Bros. John Jones Hewson W.M., Evan Francis Daniel S.W., William John Bees J.W., Thomas Thomas Secretary, E. Sidney Hartland S.D., A. F. Bayston J.D., David Imrie D.C., R. A. Barnie Steward, Henry Simons Tyler. Past Masters Bros. G. B. Brock, James G. Hall, and George Allen. Business—Lodge opened and minutes read. Ballot taken for Mr. Walter Dalton, resulting in his unanimous election. Lodge opened in 2nd degree, when Bro. Camus came forward, answered the usual questions and retired. Lodge opened in 3rd degree, when Bro. Camus came forward, properly prepared, and was duly raised. Lodge closed down to 1st degree. Lodge of Emergency arranged for Wednesday next, the 13th inst., for the initiation of Mr. Walter Dalton.

Beaminster Manor Lodge, No. 1367.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Monday, the 18th inst., at the White Hart Hotel, Beaminster, Dorset. Present—Bros. Edward Gapper Legg W.M., James Andrews P.M. as S.W., Edward Holland J.W., Samuel Cox Sec., James Andrews Treasurer, Edward Toleman S.D., George Rugg J.D., J. S. Webb P.M. D.C., W. H. W. Toby P.M. Steward, William Murrant I.G., F. Long Tyler. Past Masters Bros. John Hine, C. G. Parkis and George Squire. Business—Brother Charles George Parkis was raised to the sublime degree, and Mr. James Broad was initiated. The lectures on the 3rd and 1st Tracing Boards were ably given by Bro. Past Master Toby, after which the Lodge was closed, and the brethren retired from labour to refreshment, a very agreeable evening being spent. From its steady increase of members, and the great unanimity among them, this promises to be a flourishing Lodge.

Brownrigg Lodge, No. 1424.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 13th inst., at the Assembly Room, Brompton, Kent. Present—Bros. Cottrell S.W., Fowler J.W., Magee Secretary, Walker Treasurer, Johnstone S.D., Ramsden J.D., Bliss Steward, Pickering I.G., Drago Tyler. Past Masters Bros. J. A. Bates, J. Jervis P.G.S.B. Visitors—Bros. Neate W.M. 77, Andrews P.M. 615, Hewett P.M. 184, Major Hunt 188 P.M. 883 and P.P.G.S.W., Dr. Fleming P.M. 1174 and P.P.G.S.B., Gamon S.W. 20, Spinks S.W. 1536, Warne P.M. 20 and P.P.G.S., Thompson J.W. 1174, Lieut.-Col. Burton 1174, Weston W.M. 1536, Picken S.W. 1536, Turner W.M. 1449, Eastley 184 and P.G.T., Barfield P.M. 20, Dr. Penfold P.M. 1173 and P.P.G.O., White P.M. 1174, Wyles P.M. 1050 and P.P.G.S.W., Wood P.M. 20 and P.G.S.W., Dr. Butler 1174, Attwood 569, Henderson 87, Sparrell W.M. 615, Thornton W.M. 20, Edwards P.M. 20 and P.P.G.J.W., &c., &c. The Lodge was opened in the three degrees by Bro. Jervis P.M. and P.G.S.B., who then raised Bro. Miles to the sublime degree of M.M., in his usual excellent manner. Bro. Bates P.M. then occupied the chair, and proceeded, in conjunction with Bro. Jervis, with the ceremony of installing Bro. H. Fowler as W.M. of the Lodge. The ceremony was most beautifully and impressively performed, Bro. Rock officiating at the organ. After a vote of thanks had been carried to the Installing Officers, Bro. Warne P.M., on behalf of the Visitors (of whom there were nearly sixty present), thanked the Lodge for the enjoyment they had experienced in witnessing such excellent working. Upwards of 100 brethren were present at the installation. The brethren adjourned to the Lecture Hall, Chatham, where an excellent banquet was prepared by the host of the Mitre Hotel. The following were the officers invested for the ensuing year—Bros. Jervis I.P.M., Cottrell S.W., Ramsden J.W., Walker Treasurer, Johnstone Secretary, Magee S.D., Pickering J.D., Bliss I.G., Langshaw Organist.

Era Lodge, No. 1428.—An emergency meeting was held last Saturday, at the Red Lion Hotel, Hampton. Bro. J. Baxter Langley W.M. in the chair. Bro. J. Quincy was appointed Steward for the next Anniversary Festival of the R.M. Benevolent Institution, on the 12th of February. The Lodge was then closed, and adjourned to 1st February, 1877. Visitors—Bros. J. W. Adams S.W. 1623, H. W. Kent P.M. 879, T. White P.M. 22, J. Brown 1507, J. Smith 1257, &c. There was no banquet. It was settled by the votes of the brethren, that in future the meetings of the Lodge should be held on the second Friday in the month, in lieu of the third Monday. It was announced that another emergency meeting would be held previous to the Installation. The Lodge was then closed.

Francis Burdett Lodge, No. 1503.—This Lodge held its twenty-fifth meeting on Wednesday, 13th December, at the Albany Hotel, Twickenham. Present—Bros. W. H. Saunders W.M., S. H. Knapp S.W., H. Court sen. J.W., W. Higginton P.M. I.P.M. &c., Sec. J. Tomlinson P.M. Treasurer, W. Taylor S.D., J. W. H. Vaughan J.D., Rev. L. M. D'Orsey M.A., Assistant Chaplain, H. Court jun. Assistant Organist, C. Palmer LL.D. D.C., B. Cohen Stew. and F. M. Ashley, G. Harrison Tyler. Past Master Bro. C. Horsley, &c. Visitor—Bro. Captain Elliott. Business—The ballot was taken and declared unanimous for Mr. Basford Bennett, who will be initiated in January. After one or two motions had been discussed, and the report of the Committee appointed to arrange alteration of nights of meeting had been received and adopted, Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet, where peace and harmony reigned supreme. The photos of the brethren, taken in November, as a group, were much admired, and distributed. This is to be continued every year, and a copy hung up in Lodge—together with a large photo of the W.M. and his successor.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Prostration of Strength.—When, from unknown or undiscovered causes, the system is weak and the nerves unstrung, disease is certain to present itself, unless some purifying and strengthening means be resorted to to arrest the threatened mischief. In such cases no treatment can equal these excellent pills. No other plan can be pursued so well devised for ejecting all impurities from the blood without straining or weakening the constitution. Holloway's Pills so fortify the stomach and regulate the liver, that they raise the capability of digestion, thus create new power, raise up a barrier against the deteriorating influence of noxious vapours, and throw a great protection against illness arising from exposure to cold or wet.—[ADVT.]

THE MASONIC YEAR 1876.

THE year that will have closed to-morrow week has not been marked by any such noteworthy event as the Installation as Grand Master of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, but its career, nevertheless, has exhibited an evenly-maintained rate of progress. If it has been characterised by no unusual incident, it has at least shown that Freemasonry retains its firm hold on the affections of men of all classes and creeds. We are now more prosperous than we were this time twelvemonth. The efforts we have made towards demonstrating more unmistakably the beauty and the utility of our system have been in every respect worthy of the Craft; and the success of these efforts has been eminently satisfactory, even beyond our fondest hopes and aspirations. Of course our readers will clearly understand that in speaking of these endeavours to strengthen and confirm the Craft in the affections of the community, we have had recourse to no unusual means. It is a well-known and very proper rule of Freemasonry, that even the semblance of proselytising is strictly forbidden. We seek no additional strength from without; it comes to us. When, then, we refer to the efforts made during the past year to extend the influence of our Fraternity, we naturally allude to the greater activity of our Lodges, the greater earnestness they have shown in fulfilling the aims and purposes of the Order. If it is one of the privileges which we, as a recognised organ of Masonic opinion, enjoy, to laud the efforts of the Craft to perfect its organisation, and promote its usefulness, it is likewise one of our duties—albeit occasionally a painful one—to note irregularities and condemn them, so that the Craft universal may not sink in the estimation of the profane world. We have our enemies; for it is in human nature that people should speak enviously, and oftentimes even maliciously, of an Institution that is prosperous. Moreover, we respect all religious and political creeds equally, and therefore those governments and religious sects which have reason to be in dread of freedom of conscience, are certain to oppose us by every means in their power, be they lawful or unlawful. Yet, in spite of all opposition, and without seeking additional strength from without, we have gone on prospering more bravely than ever this year. Turn we in what direction we may, whether towards the United States of America, the Continent of Europe, or the United Kingdom with its numerous colonies and dependencies, everywhere will be found evidences of the growing strength of our Society. We have, indeed, strong reason to be thankful to the Great Architect of all things, for that He has been pleased to watch over and protect us far beyond our deserts.

We have said that in England, to which our attention is in the first instance most properly directed, if there has been no event of surpassing interest to mark our career during the last twelve months, the tenour of our progress has been uniformly satisfactory. The first evidence of this will be seen in the establishment of seventy-two additional Lodges—namely, 26 in the Metropolitan district, 33 in the provinces, and 13 in foreign parts. The provincial are thus distributed—1 Herts, 2 Montgomeryshire, 1 Merionethshire, 3 Surrey, 2 Middlesex, 5 Lancashire, 5 Yorkshire, 1 Staffordshire, 2 Warwickshire, 2 Durham, 2 Suffolk, 2 Sussex, and 1 each in Bucks, Northumberland, Salop, Essex, and Stafford. The 13 foreign Lodges are composed of 4 in South Africa, 4 in New Zealand, 3 in Queensland, and 2 in Bombay. The increase for 1876 is represented by these 72 Lodges, as against 52 for last year, and this irrespective of increase of members in Lodges already existing.

Among other evidences of progress two stand out prominently before the other events of the year—not so much because they were outside the regular course, but because of the part played in them by two of our most illustrious brethren. We allude, of course, to the installation of His Royal Highness Prince Leopold as Provincial Grand Master of Oxfordshire, and the installation, by M.W.G.M. the Prince of Wales, of Lord Suffield as Provincial Grand Master of Norfolk. We note these in the order in which they occurred.

It will be remembered that Prince Leopold was initiated into Freemasonry on the 1st of May 1874, and that early in the following year he was appointed to the Senior Warden's chair in the Apollo University Lodge, No. 357, Oxford. On the 22nd of February of this year His Royal Highness was installed as Worshipful Master of this Lodge, in the presence of a number of distinguished members and visitors, among whom were conspicuous Bros. the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, Provincial Grand Master of Staffordshire; Lord de Tabley, Provincial G.M. Cheshire; Lord Methuen, Provincial G.M. Wilts; Colonel Burdett, Provincial G.M. Middlesex; Æ. McIntyre, Grand Registrar, in charge of the Province of Oxfordshire; J. B. Monckton, President of the Board of General Purposes; the Rev. C. J. Martyn, Past G. Chaplain; Captain Philips ("Bayard"); and R. J. Spiers, D.P.G.M. Oxon. A banquet followed at the Clarendon, when the health of the new W.M. was proposed by the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, and gracefully acknowledged by His Royal Highness. The following day the Prince was formally installed as Grand Master of the Province of Oxon. The ceremony was held in the Sheldonian Theatre, and, as may be imagined, was very numerously attended by brethren from all parts of the country. The Lodge was opened by Bro. Æ. McIntyre, Grand Registrar, in charge, and there were present, in addition to the majority of those enumerated above, the Earl of Limerick, Provincial G.M. Bristol; Lord Leigh, P.G.M. Warwickshire; General Brownrigg, Provincial G.M. Surrey; Colonel A. W. Adair, Past Prov. G.M. Somerset; W. B. Beach, M.P., Prov. G.M. Hants and Isle of Wight; Alderman Stone, G.J.W.; Lord Balfour of Burleigh, P.G.S.W. England; the Earl of Jersey; Colonel Campbell of Blytheswood, Provincial G.M. East Renfrewshire; Captain Hunter, Provincial G.M. East Aberdeenshire, and many others. Shortly after the opening of the Lodge, Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy Grand Master, was announced, and having been introduced and saluted, took the chair vacated for his Lordship by Bro. McIntyre. Prince Leopold's patent of appointment as Provincial Grand Master having been read, and it having been announced that His Royal Highness was in waiting, a deputation was formed, and he was conducted into the Lodge, the procession being headed by three Prov. Grand Stewards, and including Prov. G.D.C., Prov. G. Registrar, Prov. G. Treasurer, Grand Chaplains, and Grand Wardens, as well as two Masters of Lodges, carrying the insignia of the Provincial Grand Master. Prince Leopold, having taken his seat to the left of the Deputy Grand Master, prayer was offered by the Prov. Grand Chaplain, and then the ceremony of installation was most impressively gone through. The usual salute followed. The Prince then appointed his officers, and having received the congratulations of the Grand Orient of Italy, and transacted the remaining business, to a portion of which we shall have occasion to refer to later, closed the Provincial G. Lodge with the customary formalities. At the banquet which followed, and was held at the Corn Exchange, His Royal Highness very gracefully presided in person.

The other event is of more recent occurrence, Lord Suffield having been installed, by the Prince of Wales in person, as Provincial Grand Master of Suffolk, on the 20th November. The ceremony was a very brilliant one. The Provincial Lodge was held on this occasion in the Volunteer Drill Hall, and it is calculated that over 900 brethren were present, among them being the Deputy G.M. Lord Skelmersdale, Lord Waveney Prov. G.M. Suffolk, the Earl of Hardwicke Prov. G.M. of Cambridgeshire, and a number of Grand and Provincial Grand Officers present and past from different parts of the country, but especially from the Province of Norfolk itself and the neighbouring Provinces. The Lodge was opened by Bro. Major Penrice, the Deputy Provincial Grand Master Designate, and shortly afterwards His Royal Highness the Grand Master, having claimed admission, was ushered in by a body of Stewards previously selected for that purpose. Having ascended the throne, he was saluted with enthusiasm, and, making due allowance for the difference in numbers, quite as effectively as at his installation in the Royal Albert Hall. Lord Suffield, Provincial Grand Master elect, was then announced, and his patent of appointment having been given in and read, his Lordship was introduced by certain of the Stewards, and duly installed by the Grand Master. His Royal Highness then offered his congratulations to Lord Suffield, who, in acknowledging them, expressed a hope that he might be found worthy of the high office to which he had been appointed, and his determination to do all in his power to promote the welfare of the Craft. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren dispersed, His Royal Highness being greeted with the same enthusiasm on leaving as on his arrival. In the evening the six Norwich Lodges met together, again to celebrate the auspicious event in the usual manner among Masons, and those who had the pleasure of being present as guests will ever look back with pleasure to the abounding kindness and hospitality of the Norwich brethren, one of whom, Bro. A. M. P. Morgan, Past Deputy Grand Master of the Province, deserves to be mentioned by name, as having exerted himself to the utmost to receive and entertain the visitors who had flocked to the city from all parts. We almost have it in our heart to envy our Norfolk brethren the high distinction they enjoyed in having their Provincial Grand Master installed thus ceremoniously by the highest Masonic dignitary in England. As an incident of the week in which this event occurred, we may mention that Prince Leopold was present as a visitor at the Provincial Grand Lodge of Wiltshire, held at Warminster, two days later. On this occasion the respected Provincial Grand Master, Lord Methuen, was presented with a magnificently emblazoned banner, in honour of his prolonged tenure of the Provincial Grand Mastership, and the many valuable services he had rendered to Freemasonry. After replying to the toast of his own health, His Royal Highness proposed "The Health of the Provincial Grand Master," in terms of well-merited eulogy, and his speech was most enthusiastically applauded by the brethren present. It is also worthy of mention, while referring to the connection of our Royal brethren with Freemasonry, that, early this year, Prince Leopold was advanced to the 30°, on which occasion the Earl of Carnarvon, Sovereign Grand Commander, 33°, presided; and further, that during his term of service on the Staff at Gibraltar, H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught had conferred upon him the 18th degree of Rose Croix.

But while we sincerely congratulate the Fraternity on these accidents, for such they really are, of our growing fortune, we must look for the more substantial evidences of our progress to the regular working of the Craft. In doing this, we find our statement more than justified. At no period in our history has there been greater zeal and energy displayed than during this year. Not only have our Lodges met on the appointed days with their wonted regularity, but they have done so in more considerable force than heretofore. There has, likewise, been a greater amount of earnestness displayed in the labours of the Lodge, a greater desire to be perfect in rendering the ceremonies and working the Lectures, a deeper anxiety manifested to be Masons actually, as well as nominally. Craftsmen individually have fulfilled their duties in more workmanlike fashion, as though they had been to the manner born; while collectively, as Lodges, they have left no stone unturned in order to accomplish their allotted task. Grand Lodge, at its regular Quarterly Communications, has been more numerously attended than ever, and this is explicable, at least as much owing to the increased sense of our Masonic responsibilities as to the interest excited in one important question not yet fully determined, so far as regards the character it shall assume. The same may be said of the various Provincial Grand Lodges that have been held throughout the country; while in the case of unusual celebrations, such as attended the consecration of a new Lodge-room at Havant, for the use of the Carnarvon Lodge, No. 804, and the laying of the foundation-stones of new Masonic Halls at Launceston and Redruth, the occasions have proved not only a source of pride and pleasure within the Craft, but a matter for envious comment—always, as we have said, a sign of increased prosperity—among profanes. And here it seems fitting that we should go just one step further, and mention some of the most conspicuous instances in which the more zealous among our members have received some acknowledgment for their valuable services. The presentation of these special testimonials of respect and esteem has occurred too frequently for us to enumerate them all, but certain of them deserve attention. Thus almost the first duty that devolved upon Prince Leopold, as Provincial Grand Master of Oxfordshire, was the presentation to Bro. Spiers of an inkstand and a purse of 500 guineas. Bro. Spiers had held the important office of Deputy Grand Master of the Province for over twenty years, during which period he displayed unwonted energy and enthusiasm in the discharge of his duties. His Oxfordshire brethren were fully sensible of this, and very wisely determined that Bro. Spiers should receive a substantial token of their affection for him, both as a man and as a brother. Accordingly, Prince Leopold had barely been installed, and appointed his officers, when the pleasing task fell to him of handing the testimonial we have mentioned to Bro. Spiers. A suitable address accompanied it, and in discharging his duty, the Prince added a few words of his own, in graceful allusion to the Past Deputy P.G. Master's admirable career in Masonry. Among other instances of a like character must be mentioned those of Bro. Hervey, our respected Grand Secretary, and Bro. Sutcliffe, a leading Mason in the Province of Lincolnshire. Bro. Hervey, as our readers are no doubt aware, has filled the important office of Treasurer to the Emulation Lodge of Improvement for upwards of thirty years, and on the 24th November a handsome inkstand was presented to him by our Pro Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon, in the presence of between 600 and 700 brethren. On the 29th of the same month, Bro. Sutcliffe, in his capacity of Provincial Grand Mark Master Mason of Lincolnshire, was presented with an oil painting, containing portraits of himself and his first Provincial Grand Officers, the handsome frame being enriched with suitable Masonic emblems.

Let us now, however, pass to the most important achievements of the year—we mean the work done for our various Masonic Institutions. Whenever the world is inclined to be distrustful of the true purposes of Freemasonry, when it tells us we are little better than an irreligious, immoral society of men, bent on the destruction of all that is valued and valuable in all countries, a Brother has merely to point to our three noble charities, and ask—"If an Order which has established and maintains such noble institutions is truly eager for the overthrow of Governments, religions, and moralities?" He may say, "By our fruits ye shall know us!" And how magnificent are these fruits of our beloved Freemasonry—a Benevolent Institution, which relieves aged and distressed brethren, and the widows of distressed brethren, to the number of two hundred and forty-six; a Boys' School, which clothes, maintains, and educates one hundred and eighty boys; and a Girls' School, which now receives one hundred and fifty, and will shortly be enlarged to receive over two hundred girls—the sons and daughters of deceased or indigent Masons. These are, indeed, a legitimate subject of pride with all Craftsmen, and should satisfy the world that our Society is an honest and an honourable one. And how is all this done? By the voluntary contributions of Craftsmen, gathered and presented annually, at the regular Festivals of the three Charities. This year the Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution was held at the Freemasons' Hotel, on 9th February. Our Deputy Grand Master, Lord Skelmersdale, presided, and was ably and energetically supported by nearly 400 brethren. Towards the close of the evening the indefatigable Secretary, Bro. Terry, announced the total amount of the subscriptions as £9,184 10s 6d; West Lancashire, of which Lord Skelmersdale is the Provincial Grand Master, nobly supporting his lordship to the extent of over £1,500. The substantial result of this magnificent success was the increase of the several sums payable to the male annuitants from £36 to £40, and to the female annuitants from £28 to £32; truly a great boon to our worthy patriarchal friends, who have seen more fortunate, if not happier times! Before closing our reference to the Benevolent Institution, we may as well add, that the last year or two, Bro. Terry has provided a Summer and Winter Entertainment for our Old Folks, and on these occasions there is always a numerous gathering of the friends and supporters of the Institution, who lay themselves out specially to please our ancient fellows.

In May was held the eighty-eighth Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. Sir Henry Edwards Bart., Provincial Grand Master for West Yorkshire, presided, and the subscription list—announced in the course of the proceedings—presented the very handsome total of £8,214, with twelve Stewards' lists still outstanding. Thus we are justified in setting down the full amount of the year's contributions handed in at the Festival at £8,500, and that irrespective of other sums subscribed at different periods of the year. Two days previous, the Stewards of the Institution paid their annual visit to the School, when certain of the pupils delivered recitations, and the prizes were distributed, in the presence of a very strong muster of friends and brethren, among whom, as a matter of course, the ladies were fully represented. We cannot enumerate all the prize-winners, nor, indeed, is it desirable we should do so, as the list was given in our columns at the time when the meeting was held. It is right, however, we should commemorate the names of those who secured the most important prizes. These were Miss Lilian Mary Nelson, to whom were awarded the Gold Medal for Proficiency, given annually by Bro. Paas, and £5 given by Bro. Winn; Miss Lucy Kate Clemence, who took the Silver Medal for good conduct, given by the Institution, together with £5 given by Bro. Winn; and Miss Jane P. Pattison, who received £5, given by the same brother, for General Proficiency. It is desirable, also, we should mention, as evidence of the excellence of the education provided in the school, that prizes were also awarded to those pupils who had passed successfully the Cambridge Examination, among them being Miss Leila Lucy Caparn, who passed with honours, and obtained special distinction in Religious Knowledge. We have mentioned incidentally that it is intended to enlarge this school, so as to accommodate over two hundred pupils, but it is necessary we should give some fuller particulars. Several schemes were submitted for the consideration of the General Court of Governors and Subscribers. In some it was proposed that the school should be removed into the country, while in others various suggestions were offered for the purpose of further accommodation in the neighbourhood of the present building. However, after a patient examination of all the requirements, it was resolved, on the motion of Lieut.-Colonel Creaton, to erect a large Assembly Hall or School-room, with dormitories, &c. over, sufficient to accommodate additional fifty-six girls, thus raising the total number of pupils to 204. The cost of this enlargement will amount to £9,400, according to the original contract; but, doubtless, before the work is complete, a further sum will have been expended. Such, at least, is our experience of all contracts of this description, that they invariably exhibit a tendency to expand instead of contracting their limits. Be this as it may, but a short time will elapse ere the requisite building is completed, and then we shall have a magnificent school for the maintenance and education of over two hundred girls. We may add that no time has been lost in giving effect to the above resolution. The first stone of the new building has already been laid, Lieut.-Colonel Creaton, as the proposer of the scheme, appropriately taking the leading part in the interesting ceremony, and the work is being pressed forward with all the diligence of which the contractor and his staff are capable. One other pleasing duty we have to perform in connection with this Institution, and that is to record that a testimonial of fifty guineas was presented by the Governors to Miss Moss, on her retirement from the post of governess.

It next becomes our duty to chronicle the fortunes of the Boys' School 1876. It is doubtless within the recollection of some of our readers that in the summer of last year a fierce controversy arose between certain of the brethren of the Province of West Yorkshire on the one hand, and the Governing Body of the School on the other, as to the government and expenditure of the school. The former alleged that the educational staff did not receive that amount of consideration to which it was justly entitled, and that the funds were not as wisely and economically administered as they should be. The latter, of course, maintained that every thing was being done that could be done to promote the welfare of the school, and to make it a first-class educational establishment. A good deal of acrimony was imported into the controversy, but as time passed on, and it was found that the position of the Executive was impregnable; when, the more the matters in dispute were sifted the more apparent it became that the committees had acted on the whole wisely, and beyond all doubt honestly and honourably, in the interests of the Institution entrusted to their care, a strong feeling prevailed that the controversy must be summarily closed, or the school would suffer. Accordingly, at the Quarterly General Council held on the 10th April, Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford moved a resolution expressing the unabated confidence of the whole body, governors and subscribers, in the House Committee and Executive generally. This resolution was met by the brethren of West Yorkshire with a direct negative. A sharp debate followed, and was prolonged far beyond the usual hour for closing the business of the Court, the result being that Bro. Woodford's resolution was carried, in a full house, by an overwhelming majority. Since then, we believe, a feeble attempt has been made to revive the controversy, but it was a last flicker. The candle of discontent has burnt out, and we trust, in the interests of the school, we shall hear no more of these unpleasant differences. It is evident, however, that the disputes can have had no effect whatever on the main body of the Craft. The canvass for subscriptions was, if possible, more energetic than in previous years. There were no less than 280 Stewards, a number greatly in excess over all previous Festivals. Lord Leigh, Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire, occupied the chair, and among his supporters was a very numerous sprinkling of the fair sex, who, thanks to the gallantry of Bro. Binckes, have been permitted these last two years to play an active, as well as an ornamental, part in the proceedings of the day. When Lord Leigh had proposed the toast of "Prosperity to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys," and the toast had been enthusiastically welcomed, the Secretary announced a subscription list amounting to £12,100, there being, however, twenty lists still outstanding. Thus, it will be rather under than over the mark, if we set down the labours of the 280 Stewards as having resulted in the contribution towards the funds of the Institution of the handsome sum of £12,500. But this, as is the case with the other two charities, is very far from representing the total contributed during the year. There has, indeed, been paid this year into the Bank no less a sum than £14,400. Thus over £32,000 must have been raised this year by voluntary subscriptions among the Craft for the maintenance of our three magnificent charities. That Our Boys should receive the largest share of support is only to be expected, for the Institution has but little invested property, and every year an increase is made in the number of pupils. Seventy-eight years ago the school was started, with six boys, and there are now in it somewhat over one hundred and eighty, and we note with satisfaction that it is contemplated next year, at least by the worthy secretary, Bro. Binckes, to found a preparatory school that will suffice to accommodate one hundred little boys, the sons of Masons. The cost of this additional school is reckoned at £10,000.

At the distribution of prizes, which was held on the Monday preceding the Festival, the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite presided, Bro. J. M. P. Montagu, Grand Chancellor, occupying the chair, and among those present to support him were Major Clerke, the Grand Secretary-General, Hyde Pullen, Assistant Secretary, S. Rawson 33°, and R. Giddy, Inspector-General 33°, for South Africa. Prior to the distribution of prizes, Bro. Binckes offered a few remarks as to the state of the School and the result of the year's work. He mentioned, with just pride, that while the number of boys who passed the Cambridge middle class examination averaged 55·3 per cent. of the whole number who submitted themselves for examination, fourteen out of eighteen boys from the Royal Masonic School, or a per centage of 77 7-9, were successful last December. An even greater degree of success attended the examination early this year, for while, for the whole of London, only 21 passed out of 44, 9 out of the 11 Masonic boys passed, or 81 9-11 per cent. Then two pupils, named Bryant and Shaw respectively, obtained second-class certificates from the Science and Art Department, South Kensington, and he added that three pupils took first-class honours at the Cambridge local examination (for juniors), namely, Beaumont, Bryant, and Shaw. These, he very properly pointed out, were highly satisfactory proofs of the value of the education given in the Boys' School. Then followed the annual speeches, and dramatic representations, the various prizes being distributed in the intervals. The Canonbury Gold Medal, given by Bro. Edward Cox, was awarded to W. H. Packwood, and the silver medal for good conduct, presented by the Institution, to H. G. Shaw.

Before quitting the subject of the Masonic Institutions, it seems fitting we should mention that Grand Lodge, having unanimously agreed to commemorate the visit to, and safe return from, India, of His Royal Highness, the Grand Master, has appointed a Special Committee for the purpose of determining the most appropriate form which the Memorial shall take. It is announced that a Special Communication of the Grand Lodge will be held shortly, for the express purpose of receiving this Report, but it is not yet known what will be the nature of the recommendations they will submit. There is, however, a very general idea prevailing that nothing more suitable could be devised than the presentation of a certain sum of money to each of our three Charities, the appropriation of such sum being left to the wisdom and discretion of the respective governing bodies. We certainly consider this would be an excellent scheme for commemorating so auspicious an event. We gladly announce that Bro. Binckes, with that energy for which he is so remarkable, has a plan of his own, namely, that the sum of £6000 shall be distributed, in equal shares, among the three Institutions. We cannot say this is a better scheme than that of the Special Committee, for, as we have remarked already, the said Committee have not allowed the nature of their proposition to become public. This, however we do affirm, that it is a scheme in every way worthy of the Craft, as well as of him in whose honour it is propounded. A Prince of Wales's Endowment attached to each of the Charities will, indeed, be an excellent commemoration of his visit to India.

Another event of sufficient importance to record in our history of the year's doings is the opening of the Masonic Club, in Queen Victoria-street. This is a matter for hearty congratulation. Brethren now have a place, outside the Lodge, where they can meet and enjoy the pleasures of social intercourse. It is not creditable to so numerous and influential a body of men—and men so clubbable as Masons are generally esteemed to be—that they should have been so long without their club; and it speaks well for the energy and enterprise exhibited by the directors, and notably by Bro. Langton, chairman of the Sub-Committee of Management, that they have carried out their plans so expeditiously and successfully. The formal opening of this London Masonic Club was celebrated, in the customary manner, by a banquet, at which the Deputy Grand Master, Lord Skelmersdale, presided with his wonted geniality. Those present were delighted beyond measure with the arrangements made for their entertainment, and especially with the very practical illustration they received of the excellence of the cuisine. Profanes, of course, will laugh at us for laying stress on this, but a club without a good culinary department would very soon go to the wall. The rooms are handsomely, but not ostentatiously furnished, the comfort of members having been the main consideration of the managers. There are billiard rooms and smoking rooms, a reading room, and a very handsome suite of apartments, which is used for Lodge purposes, as occasion demands. Though all London was out of town, as the saying is, when the opening ceremonial was held, the directors have since had every reason to be satisfied with their venture, and we trust the new Club may go on prospering more and more every year.

As regards Royal Arch Masonry, the year has been equally satisfactory as with Craft. Eighteen new Chapters have been added to the roll of Grand Chapter. Of these, six are on foreign stations, namely:—three in the East Indies, one in Jamaica, one in New Zealand, and one in South Africa. Of the remaining twelve—three are in the London district, and nine in the Provinces; namely, one in each of the following:—Devon, Cornwall, Monmouth, Middlesex, Lancashire, Hants and Isle of Wight, Northumberland, South Wales, and North Wales. One of the most interesting events is certainly the consecration, on the same day, by the Rev. J. Huyshe, Provincial Grand Superintendent of Devon, of the Dundas and Devon Chapters. Our Rev. Comp. is known for his earnest zeal in the cause of every branch of Freemasonry, and so unusual an event will be looked back upon by him with the kindliest recollections, as it certainly will be by those who enjoyed the pivilege of witnessing and taking part in the impressive ceremonials. Of course, as the Royal Arch is so intimately associated with Craft Masonry, there is little additional matter to record of it which does not likewise concern the latter. We note however, with great pleasure, the appointment of Lieut.-Colonel Creaton to be President of the Grand Chapter Committee, in the room of the late lamented Comp. John Savage. Colonel Creaton is a man of energy and ability, and is further distinguished by such essential qualifications for this particular office, as firmness, tact, and discretion. We feel that we are but echoing the opinion of all Royal Arch Masons, when we state that the Pro Grand Z. could not have made a happier use of the right in him vested, than when he selected so worthy a Companion for this important office.

In Mark Masonry, the year has been one of unwonted activity. The half-yearly communications of Grand Lodge in June and December were very numerously attended; the Grand Master, the Earl of Limerick, being re-installed at the former, amid very general enthusiasm, and at the same time a further sum of £200 was directed to be invested on account of the General Fund. We have it, indeed, on the authority of Sir F. W. Williams Bart. M.P., the Provincial Grand Master of Cornwall, that at the present time there are in England some 200 Mark Lodges and 10,000 Mark Master Masons. The Moveable Grand Mark Lodge took place on the 25th of October, at Leicester, under the presidency of Grand Master the Earl of Limerick. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Fowke Lodge, No. 19, and there was a very strong muster of the brethren. After Grand Lodge was closed, a new Lodge, bearing the title of the Simon de Montfort Lodge, No. 194, was consecrated by the M.W. the Grand Master, and subsequently Bro. Barfoot was installed as the first Worshipful Master. The ceremony, which, thanks to Bro. Barfoot, was conducted in the Council Chamber of the Town Hall, was very impressively rendered, and the occasion was honoured with the usual banquet. On the 29th November, the Provincial Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire held a meeting in the Old Hall at Gainsborough. Bro. John Sutcliffe, Provincial G.M. Master, presided, and as he had issued invitations to the brethren in the provinces of Lancashire, Yorkshire, Northumberland, Durham, Cheshire, and North Wales, the gathering was on a far grander scale than usual. There was, moreover, a special interest attaching to the occasion, as a testimonial was presented to the Prov. G.M. Master, for his eminent services on behalf of Mark Masonry. To this allusion has already been made; we need not, therefore, enter into any further detail here. But, perhaps, the most important event connected with this degree is the installation of Lord Skelmersdale as Provincial Grand Mark Master Mason for Lancashire, in succession to the late respected Bro. William Romaine Callender M.P. The ceremony was performed by the Earl of Limerick in person, and it is almost needless to say that the attendance of Grand and Provincial Grand Officers, past and present, as well as of Mark Master Masons generally, was very numerous and influential. One other event deserves to be recorded—namely, the issue of a warrant of confirmation to the York Mark Lodge, which till quite recently had persistently declined to recognise the Grand Mark Lodge. Many attempts have been made to induce it to take its place among the rest of the Mark Lodges of England and Wales, but these were all of them unsuccessful, till a few weeks since, when the new W.M. for the year was duly installed in his office by Bro. Binckes, Grand Mark Secretary. Nor must we omit to mention that the annual Festival of the Mark Benevolent Fund was held at the Alexandra Palace, on the 19th July, under the presidency of Lieut.-Gen. Brownrigg, Grand Senior Warden. On this occasion, the Stewards' subscription lists amounted to within a few shillings of £130. It is also worthy of notice that H.R.H. Prince Leopold has been advanced to this degree.

A few other matters deserve to be recorded in connection with Freemasonry in England. It is worthy of notice that a new Lodge, the Eboracum, No. 1611, was this year constituted in the ancient City of York—a city which, both traditionally and in fact, is associated with the very earliest history of our Society. It is with deep regret, also, that we announce the death of sundry among the leading members of the Craft, the most prominent amongst them being the late Hon. F. Walpole, M.P., who survived his installation as Provincial Grand Master of Norfolk only a few months; Bro. W. Romaine Callender, M.P. P.G.M. of East Lancashire and Prov. Grand Mark Master for Lancashire; the Rev. Bro. Lockwood, Deputy Prov. G.M. Suffolk, and Sir Cordy Barrowes, Provincial G.M. Master of Sussex. It is also fitting we should pay a slight tribute of respect to the memory of our late Bro. Richard Spencer, who died on the 21st July, at the ripe age of 76. Bro. Spencer, during his career, rendered many valuabl services to Freemasonry, and was always a most active supporter of our charities. But it is chiefly for his encouragement of Masonic literature that Bro. Spencer will be known to future generations of Brethren. He it was who published so many of the works of the late Rev. Bro. Dr. Oliver, and other Masonic works. In this way, perhaps, did Bro. Spencer help to raise the Craft in public estimation to a far greater extent than even the ablest and most zealous of his contemporaries. It must be a source of satisfaction to his family to know that his long service as a Mason was fully appreciated, and that he was as greatly respected outside the limits of his family circle as he was beloved within.

As to the so-called high and side degrees, we may state generally that their condition leaves nothing whatever to be desired. The most eminent among the Craft Masons are among the most active supporters of them, and it follows naturally that though the numbers are somewhat limited, the A. and A. Rite, the Rose Croix, and Templarism are flourishing, even beyond all precedent.

We turn now to Freemasonry in Ireland, and we rejoice to say that there too it is highly respected by all loyal men. Some attacks are occasionally made upon the Order, but these have the effect of promoting its welfare rather than of causing it any serious damage. A Belfast journal, more ingenious than wise, contrived, in a roundabout way, to describe Freemasonry as exercising a pernicious influence on the flax trade. The absurdity of such a connection was apparent to every one, and we experienced no difficulty whatever in demolishing the weak assertions of the journal in question. But, save these harmless attacks, the progress of Freemasonry in the Sister Isle has been one of uninterrupted satisfaction. On the 22nd May, Grand Master his Grace the Duke of Abercorn, Her Majesty's Viceroy, visited Belfast, and was presented with an address, by the brethren of the province of Antrim. The Duke was accompanied by his daughter, the Lady Georgina Hamilton, and their reception by the brethren, in the Music Hall, was most enthusiastic. There was a very strong muster of the Craft, and his Grace most cordially thanked all present for the very kind wishes they had expressed in his behalf. On the 28th April, was held, in the Exhibition Palace, Dublin, the annual festival of the Female Orphan School, Dublin, the Grand Master presiding, and his daughter, the Lady G. Hamilton, gracefully fulfilling the very agreeable task of distributing the prizes to the successful pupils. On no previous occasion has this festival been so brilliantly attended. There was a very large gathering of the brethren, including the Deputy Grand Master, Bro. Shekleton, the Lord Mayor of Dublin, Lords Desborne and Plunket, and Bros. Oldham, Dr. Ekington, and G. Hall Major. When the report had been read, from which it appeared that the number of pupils in the school was forty-five, the Grand Master delivered a very eloquent address, in which he expatiated at some length on the excellent condition of the Institution, and the benefits it conferred on the less fortunate members of the Craft. A selection of music was then given by the girls, after which the prizes were distributed; in the first instance to the girls, and then to the pupils of the boys' school attached to the Asylum. The good conduct medals (girls) were awarded to Emily Christian and L. A. M. Bartlet, and the Oldham ditto ditto for boys to Edward Shields, in the first class, and Crosbie Hervey in the second. After a vote of thanks to the Duke of Abercorn for presiding, the meeting closed. It is, of course, a subject of regret with most people, and especially with the Freemasons, that his Grace has been compelled, by the ill-health of his wife, to resign the Viceroyship, but this will not sever his connection with Freemasonry. Long may his Grace of Abercorn live to preside over the destinies of the Sister Craft in Ireland!

Scotland enjoys the honour this year of having witnessed the largest and most imposing assemblage of the Craft—hardly even exceeded by the ever memorable gathering last year in the Royal Albert Hall—since the revival of Freemasonry in 1717. The Prince of Wales, as we all know, is not only Grand Master of England, but Patron of the Order both in Scotland and Ireland; and it was in his capacity of Patron that His Royal Highness was invited to be present at, and play the leading part in, the important ceremony of laying the Foundation Stone of the new Post Office, Glasgow. For some time previous the most elaborate preparations had been made for the reception of the Prince. At one time, it was officially announced that the stone would not be laid with the customary Masonic formalities. But His Royal Highness, on the intercession of the Craft, graciously waived all objection to a Masonic inauguration of the new building, and on Thursday, the 17th October, Glasgow was in a state of enthusiasm at the approaching event. The evening previous, the Prince and Princess of Wales reached Blythswood, the seat of Colonel Campbell, Provincial G.M. of East Renfrewshire. On the eventful day, the brethren began to assemble shortly after twelve o'clock in Barnbank Park, and ultimately the muster reached the magnificent total of very little short of 8000. No less than 223 Lodges, headed by Mother Kilwinning, were represented, and the Grand Lodge mustered in strength befitting so important an occasion. The procession along the prescribed route was watched with great interest by the inhabitants, and, had the weather been more propitious, nothing perhaps could have exceeded the brilliancy of the spectacle. The ceremony itself passed off most successfully. The various officers fulfilled their task admirably, and the Prince completed it most impressively. This is the second occasion on which His Royal Highness has discharged this duty in Scotland. On the first, he laid the foundation of the New Royal Infirmary, Edinburgh, in the presence of Grand Master the late Earl of Dalhousie and some four thousand brethren. In both cases the Princess of Wales was a witness of the ceremony. Among those present who took part in the Masonic duty was Sir Michael Shaw Stewart, Bart., Grand Master Mason of Scotland.

But this, though the most important, is far from being the only occasion on which Freemasonry has played the chief part in events of public interest. On the 22nd of May, the Foundation Stone of the new Royal Blind Asylum, Edinburgh, was laid with Masonic ceremony, by Sir Michael Shaw Stewart, Bart., Grand Master Mason, in the presence of a large gathering of the Craft. The previous month the foundation stone of a new block of buildings, intended for the accommodation of working men, was laid, Masonically, by Bro. Steel, Sheriff of Dumbartonshire, acting as Grand Master of the Province; while in September the first stone of the New Docks at Ayr was laid by Bro. Sir James Ferguson, Bart., P.P.G.M. Ayrshire, acting on behalf of Sir M. Shaw Stewart, who was unfortunately prevented, by illness, from attending. About a thousand Craftsmen were present, representing some thirty-four Lodges. We should also mention, as an illustration of the increasing vitality of the Royal Art in the provinces of Scotland, the interesting gathering of the Perthshire Craftsmen on the occasion of their visit to the Right Hon. Lord Kinnaird, Prov. G.M. of the County, at his residence at Rossie Priory. His Lordship has always evinced a steady support of Freemasonry. It is to his energy particularly that so much activity has been shown in the province of which he is the respected chief, and the visit paid to Rossie Priory on St. John the Baptist's day, affords some slight indication of the extent to which his Lordship's labours are appreciated.

It is further worthy of record that, on the 21st of August, a Grand Imperial Council of the Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine for Scotland was inaugurated, by a deputation sent to Edinburgh especially for that purpose. Sir Knight R. Wentworth Little presided, as Grand Sovereign, and Colonel Burdett was duly installed as Grand Sovereign of the Order. After the installation of the Grand Council, and the appointment of the Grand Senate, the Knights adjourned to a banquet at the Windsor Hotel, when the toasts usual on such an occasion were given and responded to with much enthusiasm.

If we turn to our colonies and dependencies, we shall find that, in these likewise, as well as in the mother country, the Royal Art is flourishing. The Grand Master's visit to India very naturally aroused the brethren in that magnificent empire to a high pitch of enthusiasm. Bombay had the honour of leading the way in congratulating the Prince on his arrival, and the ceremony of laying the foundation stone of the Elphinstone West Dock, together with the grand Masonic Ball that was given about the same time, will always be remembered with pleasure and pride by our Bombay brethren. It was expected that on his arrival in Calcutta the brethren in the Bengal Presidency would enjoy a like opportunity of congratulating the Grand Master on his presence in the capital of India; and possibly also that he might find time to lay the foundation stone of the new Freemasons' Hall about to be erected in the city. Unfortunately, the Prince's numerous engagements prevented the wishes of the Craft from being carried out. All that could be done, however, was done. A few days before His Royal Highness's departure from Calcutta, a deputation from the District Grand Lodge of Bengal, consisting of District Grand Master Roberts, the Deputy Grand Master and Past D.D.G.M., together with the District Grand Treasurer and Grand Secretary, had an interview, for the purpose of presenting an address. This address was beautifully engrossed and illuminated, and enclosed in a silver casket, appropriately ornamented with miniature Craft tools and jewels, and Royal Arch symbols and jewels, all in gold. The Prince expressed his acknowledgments in a few well-chosen and kindly words, and the deputation retired, much gratified with their reception. These, however, as we have pointed out in the case of England, are merely the accidents of the year. The evidence of a substantial progress must be looked for in the ordinary labours of the various Lodges, but especially in the activity of the several District Grand Lodges and other ruling bodies. If these pursue their work half-heartedly, and only as a matter of course, we justly conclude that the star of Freemasonry is under a cloud; but if the Lodges are well attended, if the duties required of members are fulfilled earnestly, as well as with ability, the inference is that the Craft is prospering. We have this evidence in the case of India. The District Grand Lodges meet regularly, and are well attended. Moreover, not only are the Lodges becoming numerically stronger, they are likewise becoming more numerous. There are now eighty-nine Lodges in the East Indies, grouped in six districts, namely, the Eastern Archipelago —which may certainly be regarded as East Indian—with three, Bengal with thirty-one, Bombay with sixteen, British Burmah with eight, the Punjaub with seventeen, and Madras with fourteen Lodges. In addition, there are twenty-three Lodges under the Grand Lodge of all Scottish Freemasonry in India, with its head quarters at Bombay, and presided over by Bro. Henry Morland as Grand Master. Royal Arch Masonry is represented by thirty-five Chapters, including the three warranted this year, arranged in five District Grand Chapters—namely, Bengal, Bombay, British Burmah, Madras, and Punjaub. All this is eminently satisfactory, and we take this opportunity of congratulating our Indian brethren upon the earnest manner in which they pursue their Masonic duties. Every year they grow stronger, meeting numerously, building themselves new Temples, and last, but most important feature of all, they have their benevolent institutions, in order to meet the claims of the indigent and friendless members on the charity of the Society. We can only say to India,—Go on prospering in the future as heretofore.

In Australia and New Zealand, as well as in South Africa, the same picture is presented. Australasia is divided into six districts, including Western Australia, which, however, at present has no District Grand Lodge. First comes New South Wales, with its 28 Lodges, 8 of which are located in Sydney, the capital of the colony. Queensland has 16 Lodges, of which 3 belong to Brisbane, the capital. South Australia has 14 Lodges, 4 of them being in Adelaide, while in Victoria there are no less than 63 Lodges, of which 9 are in Melbourne. Western Australia has 4 Lodges, and Tasmania 7. This gives a total of 132 Lodges, distributed throughout our Australasian colonies. In New Zealand there are 36 in the five districts of Canterbury, Otago, Southland, Westland—South Island—no District Grand Lodge as yet—and Northland. Of these 5 are located at Auckland, which is somewhat anxious to be constituted as a separate district, and two each at Christchurch, Dunedin, and Wellington. South Africa embraces 3 districts—namely, Western Division with 5 Lodges, Eastern Division with 21, and Griqualand with 3 —making together 29; and there are besides 3 Lodges in Natal, 1 at Cape Coast Castle, 1 at Lagos, and 2 in St. Helena, making in all 36 Lodges in Africa, but omitting the 9 English Lodges (3 at Alexandria, 5 at Cairo, and 1 at Ramleh) in Egypt. There are as yet no District Grand Chapters in Africa, but there are 5 R.A. Chapters in Cape Colony, and 1 in St. Helena, besides certain others that have been warranted this year. But this is very far from representing the full extent of Masonry in these countries. Both the Irish and Scotch Grand Lodges have numerous Lodges under their respective jurisdictions. Under the Irish jurisdiction there are Provincial Grand Masters for Victoria, New South Wales, Queensland, and South Australia, as well as one for New Zealand, while under the jurisdiction of the Scottish Grand Lodge there are exactly the same districts presided over by officers of the same rank. In addition, there are sundry Dutch Lodges in Cape Colony. But perhaps it is in New Zealand that the Craft has made the greatest strides this year. It is only recently that the North Island of New Zealand has been erected into a separate District Grand Lodge, and the most memorable event we have to record is the installation, on the 20th June, of Sir Donald McLean K.C.M.G. as the first District Grand Master. The ceremony was very ably performed by Bro. John Lazar, District Grand Master of Westland, South Island, in the presence of a large concourse of brethren. Bro. Sir D. McLean, having been formally proclaimed and congratulated, expressed his sense of the honour conferred, and his determination to spare no effort in order to carry out the arduous duties of his office. We regret to say, however, this election has not given universal satisfaction. The Brethren at Auckland muster strongly, and they consider this would justify the establishment of an Auckland District Grand Lodge. We believe, indeed, that steps are being taken—they are certainly in contemplation—to secure this result. If Masonry will be still further strengthened hereby, we see no reason why their wishes should not be gratified. This, however, is the sole cause of dissatisfaction, as in all other respects the appointment of Sir D. Maclean has been well received by the New Zealand Craftsmen.

Still one event remains to be chronicled in connection with New Zealand, which especially illustrates the deep sense our brethren there entertain of the duties of hospitality. Early in the year a submarine telegraph was successfully laid between Australasia and New Zealand, and when the cable ships "Hibernia" and "Edinburgh" arrived in Nelson Harbour, it was known this task was completed. The members of the Southern Star Lodge, No. 735, located in that town, held an emergency meeting, for the express purpose of inviting those among the officers of the ships who were Craftsmen to a banquet. This, accordingly, was held in the month of March, at the Commercial Hotel, when the W.M. of the Lodge, Bro. Mountray, presided, and a most agreeable evening was passed. The example thus set by the Masons was quickly followed by the general public, and a picnic and ball were held, to which the officers of the expedition were invited. This, of course, was the "right thing" for the citizens of Nelson to do, but the merit of having led the way puts another bright feather in the cap of New Zealand Freemasonry.

We are now approaching the close of this portion of our record of the year's events. The balls and picnics and other pleasant réunions which have been held at different times in different parts of the country do not need to be referred to particularly. There is one, perhaps, which deserves special mention, and that is the dramatic entertainment given under the auspices of sundry Cheshire Lodges, when Bro. Charles Duval took the lion's share of the work of entertainment, and generously placed the lion's share of the proceeds to the credit of the Cheshire Masonic Educational Institute. When we find a brother turning his talents to so excellent an account, it were churlish, indeed, if we did not express to him our hearty thanks for his devotion to the cause of charity. This cannot, of course, be done very frequently, but when it is done, the event must be recognised. Other items there are, which are likewise worthy of introduction. On his return from India, the Prince of Wales put in at Gibraltar, and during his brief stay there his Royal Highness laid the first stone of a new Market, with Masonic ceremonies. There was, too, a Masonic ball in honour of the occasion, at which both he and his brother the Duke of Connaught were present. It is well, also, to note that among the first to welcome the Prince on landing at Portsmouth were the brethren of the Province of Hants and the Isle of Wight, under their respected Provincial Grand Master, Bro. W. B. Beach, M.P. On this occasion an address of welcome was presented, at the railway station, at the moment of the Prince's departure for London. Last but not least, Sheffield enjoys the honour of having set an admirable example to brethren in other parts of the country. Early in the year a scheme was prepared for the establishment of a Masonic Library, and a goodly array of useful Masonic works were announced as having been collected for the purpose. We should like to see this example very generally followed. Good must come if the doings of the Craft are—within proper limits, of course—made public, while the more brethren study our literature, the more enthusiastic will they become as Masons. The example shows that our Craft blades in Sheffield are true as steel. Thus much for Freemasonry in the United Kingdom. Pass we now to a review of the Craft in foreign countries.

In France the Grand Orient has pursued the task of controlling and directing the destinies of Freemasonry with unabated vigour, and with its usual success. One unfortunate question was raised at the General Assembly held in October, and this has certainly caused among English Craftsmen a grave sense of disquietude. But, apart from this, to which we shall shortly refer at greater length, there is nothing in the conduct of our French brethren which affords us other than the sincerest pleasure. We should, indeed, be wanting in our duty if we did not offer them our hearty congratulations on the general activity that has been noticeable in Paris and throughout the provinces during this year. In those works of charity which it is the duty of all Masons to encourage and promote, in accordance, of course, with the means at their disposal, our French brethren are continually doing honour to the Craft. Nor are these labours directed to this duty alone. French Masonry has certain attributes peculiar to itself. The Lodges under its jurisdiction are encouraged both by precept, and the example of the Grand Orient, to assist in promoting whatever will conduce to the general welfare of the community. Thus, in the month of January, a course of lectures on the English language was commenced under the auspices of the Grand Orient. A course of German study had already been tried, and with a success so signal, that the G.O. made a further experiment with our language, and at the inaugural meeting, which was presided over by Bro. Armand, one of the Vice-Presidents of the Council of the Order, assisted by Bro. Caubet, one of the Secretaries, and Bro. Seingnerlet, no less than five hundred persons were present. The instruction is given gratuitously, and it is hoped, as time progresses, that tuition in other subjects may be attempted with equal success. On the 28th of July a meeting was held, under the presidency of Bro. de Saint Jean, President of the Council of the Grand Orient, at the hotel of the G.O., for the purpose of distributing the prizes to those students who had distinguished themselves above their fellows in the study of German, English, and geography. About one thousand persons were present, and among the Masonic celebrities who supported Bro. de Saint Jean were Bros. Armand, Caubet, Garnier Moreaux, and André Rousselle, members of Council, and Bro. Koch, director of studies. Bro. de Saint Jean opened the proceedings in a very eloquent speech, and was followed by Bro. Koch, who furnished some very interesting particulars as to the different branches of study it was his duty to preside over. One point we note with pleasure, that the various sets of lectures are attended by about one thousand students. A number of recitations were then given, and after the successful pupils had received the rewards of their ability and zeal, the assembly dispersed, well pleased with all they had heard and witnessed. Again, at one of the sittings of the Grand Orient, in October, certain medals and certificates were distributed to those brethren and Lodges which had rendered themselves deserving of some kind of testimonial. The last occasion on which this custom was observed was in 1869, and we are pleased to note its revival in this instance. The medals were six in number, and were awarded as follows:—(1) To Bro. Bonnet, for his very active support of the Masonic Benevolent Institutions established at Bordeaux; (2) to the Lodge Les Sages d'Héliopolis, Orient of Bucharest, for its exceptional activity in erecting Schools and Benevolent Institutions; (3) to Bro. Baverel, Orient of Caen, for exceptional acts of devotion; (4) to Bro. Ponsolle, Orient of Toulouse, for eminent services rendered during the inundation; (5) to Bro. Menou, Orient of Tours, for signal services during fifteen years of Masonic labour; (6) to Bro. Poullain, Orient of Paris, for exceptional activity and eminent services rendered on behalf of the Masonic Orphanage. The honorary certificates were fifteen in number, and were adjudged to as many brethren, who had, in some way or other, distinguished themselves, either in the cause of Masonry or in their labours for the public good.

Equally zealous are our worthy French brethren in the sacred cause of Charity. In 1862, a Masonic General Orphanage was established. Its progress was at first uncertain, but those most interested in achieving a success persevered with an energy beyond all praise, and now this Institution is capable of supporting no less than eighty-six children, many of its pupils having already turned out to be brave workmen. The receipts of the Orphanage from its foundation have reached the highly respectable sum of 147,000 francs. During the past year the amount realised by contributions from all quarters, was 20,000 francs, while the expenditure reached 17,000. It is also noteworthy that the Grand Orient contributed the sum of 200 francs towards defraying the expenses of workmen dispatched to the Philadelphia Exhibition, at the same time recommending to all the Lodges under its jurisdiction that contributions should be raised towards the same laudable purpose. Another illustration is worth recording, of the manner in which the cause of Charity is promoted. In March the Lodge at Versailles gave an entertainment, at "La Salle des Variétés, in aid of the funds for its Orphanage, and the sufferers by the then recent inundations. The house was crowded everywhere, and every item in the programme was admirably rendered and enthusiastically applauded.

But it is time we noted the events which occurred at the Grand Assembly of the Grand Orient in October. The assembly was first constituted and Bro. de Saint Jean appointed President. The various Committees were then nominated. Several questions were next discussed, the majority of which, however, displayed rather a local than a general interest. But the decision on one subject will be read with regret by all English Masons. This was a proposal to strike out from the second paragraph of the First Article of the Constitutions the passage in which the existence of God and the belief in a future state are declared to be the leading principles of Freemasonry. The grounds on which this proposal was urged were, that Freemasonry recognised absolute freedom of conscience, and to insist upon the reception of these principles by Masons would be in direct violation of the grand system of equality. Freemasons, it was argued, should enjoy full liberty to accept or reject these principles. After a long and animated debate, in which an attempt was made to shelve the question, by passing to the order of the day, a vote was taken, when the order of the day was rejected by 110 to 65. The result of this important decision is that the question is now being brought under the notice of all the subordinate Lodges, and these must make their reports within a stated time. When these reports have been received, the General Assembly, in October next, will decide finally on this grave question. We have already expressed our very deep regret at the result of the discussion. We, in England at all events, hold most devoutly that the ruling principle of Freemasonry is a belief in God and the immortality of the soul. There is no place in our English Lodges for him whom the Charges describe as "the stupid atheist." The day following this decision Bro. de Saint Jean addressed the Assembly, on the vote that had been arrived at, pointing out that it by no means involved a negation of God's existence, but simply left it open to every brother to believe or disbelieve in it, according as his conscience impelled him. The explanation was no doubt well meant, but the fact of its being submitted shows there was reason to fear some misinterpretation. We, however, consider the explanation in no way mends matters, and we repeat the expression of our sincere regret, particularly on the ground that it interposes a barrier which ought not to be erected between two sections of the Craft universal. There is, perhaps, a hope that between now and the next General Assembly our French brethren will view the subject in a manner more consonant with the true principles of our Fraternity.

The remaining business of the Assembly was then proceeded with. Thirteen members of Council were elected from certain lists, eleven in the place of as many members who had retired in the usual course by rotation, and two in lieu of other two deceased. The Report of the Financial Committee was then submitted and agreed to, and, after a long and able address by Bro. Wyrouboff, the session closed, and the brethren adjourned, till the hour appointed for the banquet. But before this was held, the Council of the Order held a brief sitting, for the election of officers and committees, the result as regards the former being, that Bro. de Saint Jean was re-elected President, Bros. Cousin and Armand Vice-Presidents, and Bros. Caubet and Poulle Secretaries. At the banquet, about two hundred and fifty brethren were present, and President de Saint Jean occupied the chair. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and at the hour of ten o'clock the assembly rose, and departed to their several homes. A few words as to the financial condition of the Grand Orient, and we have done. The accounts opened on the 1st March 1875, with a balance in hand of Fr. 2338.10, receipts to end of February 1876, Fr. 214,240.40. Total receipts, Fr. 216,922.50. Expenditure, Fr. 212,200.05, leaving a balance on the right side of Fr. 4723.85, which, added to the amount already to the credit of the Grand Orient, in the Caisse Hospice, of Fr. 8278.25, gives the very respectable sum in hand of Fr. 13,002.10. This is a very healthy evidence of the state of Freemasonry in France, as regards, at least, its financial interests, the more especially as not many years since the Grand Orient was largely in debt.

In Germany the progress of Freemasonry has been marked by many vicissitudes of fortune. Nor has there always been that harmony of feeling among the different Masonic organisations which might have been expected. We believe, however, we are fully justified in saying that now, at all events, the Craft is firmly set, and if its chiefs continue to be animated by wisdom and that conciliatory spirit which alone will hold the various sections together, we doubt not its present state of prosperity will be enduring. At the beginning of the year there were in all Germany no less than 325 Lodges, with an aggregate of over 8,000 members. Of these the Grand Lodge of the Three Globes at Berlin comprised 112 Lodges, with 12,265 members; the Grand Countries' Lodge, Berlin, 81 Lodges, with 9,762 members; and the Grand Lodge Royal York of Friendship, the third Berlin Grand Lodge, 45 Lodges, and 5,387 members. The Hamburgh Grand Lodge numbered 23 Lodges, and 1,818 members; the Bavarian 22 Lodges, with 1,673 members; the Grand Lodge of Saxony 18 Lodges, with 2,908 members; the Eclectic Union, Frankfort-on-the-Maine, 12 Lodges, and 1,536 members; the Grand Lodge at Darmstadt, nine Lodges, 896 members. In addition there were five Lodges, independent of the above Grand Bodies, and mustering among them 1,340 brethren. There are various funds and societies for the relief of Masons' widows and children in different parts of the country, and there are, too, a number of Masonic Clubs, as well as a Central Masonic Educational Union in Berlin, to which some 40 Lodges pay each an annual contribution. But while we gladly concede that Freemasonry has done, and is doing, its appointed task, but the whole world over, there is one slight blot on the escutcheon of the German Craft. They are not, or at least all of the existing Lodges are not, true to the fundamental principles of Freemasonry as regards freedom of conscience. While our French brethren err in excess of freedom, and allow members to believe or not believe in the existence of a God; on the other hand the German Lodges, or, as we have said, certain of them, hold extremely circumscribed views upon this point, in so far as this, that they set their faces obstinately against the admission of Jews into the brotherhood. Once already the subject has been brought before the notice of our Grand Lodge, and we believe a recommendation, based, if we remember rightly, on the refusal of a Berlin Lodge to admit a visiting English brother of the Jewish persuasion, was made to the ruling Masonic authorities. Latterly, however, we understand the question has been again brought forward, and report has it that more than one of the Berlin Grand Lodges has decided that Jewish applicants are not admissible into the Society. This, as every one acquainted with the Society is aware, is directly opposed to the principles of Freemasonry. The matter was lately mentioned in one of our Lodges—we think it was Tranquillity, No. 185—and we trust some measures may be taken to remonstrate with the offending Grand Bodies; or that the latter will, without such remonstrance, recognise the propriety of following strictly the old and sound law of Freemasonry, which requires that all its members shall worship God, but leaves the manner of that worship to the conscience of each individual. We may further add, and it is in the highest degree creditable to those German Lodges which have adopted the system, that lectures are frequently given and published for distribution among the Craft generally. This shows, at all events, that Germany does not lose sight of the intellectual business; we have already pointed out that it does not neglect the Benevolent.

In other countries in Europe there is little to record which is not subject for congratulation. In July, our Dutch brethren celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of the accession to the Grand Mastership of the Netherlands of His Royal Highness Prince Frederick. A large gathering of the Craft were present to witness the interesting ceremony, among them being the Imperial Crown Prince of Germany, and many distinguished members of the Fraternity. In honour of the occasion, a gold mallet, set with diamonds, was presented to His Royal Highness. We also hear that Prince Alexander, the younger son of the King, was initiated into Freemasonry in the summer, by his great uncle, the Grand Master. In Denmark the Grand Lodge held its annual Festival in January, when Grand Master H.R.H. the Crown Prince presided. Prince Hans, the King's brother, and some four hundred brethren were present. A most hearty reception was accorded to the Grand Master, and the meeting passed off most successfully. In Hungary a very noteworthy increase of Masonic strength is perceptible. There is now a Grand Orient, as well as a Grand Lodge, and both interchange representatives with our Grand Lodge. One of our representatives there is Bro. Dr. Herman Beigel, a Past Master of our Lodge of Tranquillity, No. 185, and editor of a new Masonic journal, Der Freimaurer, the first number of which appeared in January. These two grand bodies number together 33 Lodges, of which 21 are under the Grand Orient, and 12 under the Grand Lodge. Of the former, six are located in Buda-Pesth, and nine in the Provinces. There are, in addition, four other Lodges in foreign parts, holding under the Grand Lodge. A remarkable occurrence must be mentioned in connection with Hungarian Freemasonry. It appears that a lady, a certain Countess Hadick, having studied the literature and history of our Craft, conceived a strong desire to be made a Mason. She accordingly sought admission into one of the Lodges subordinate to the Grand Orient, and, strange to say, in spite of her sex, was not rejected. The ceremony of her initiation was duly performed, and the lady obtained a knowledge of, at all events, the secrets entrusted to a Masonic novice. On hearing of this, the Grand Orient declared the initiation void and of no effect. The case stands thus, therefore,—The Countess Hadick having been solemnly initiated into Freemasonry is, ipso facto, a Freemason. The Grand Orient, however, by a stroke of the pen, has deprived her of all her Masonic privileges. The matter is one of considerable difficulty, but, with all due deference to the Grand Orient, we fail to see how its action has in any way mended matters.

The Craft in Spain has this year sustained a serious loss by the death of Bro. Calderara, Grand Master of the National Grand Orient. The vacancy has been filled by the appointment of Bro. the Marquis de Seoane. Under this Grand Orient there were, at the beginning of the year, six Lodges in the important Spanish West Indian Dependency of Cuba, while at the same time there was a Grand Orient of Cuba in the same island, with no less than twenty-five Lodges under its jurisdiction. It is almost needless to say that Spain ignores the existence of the latter Grand Body. However, in August, a new Grand Lodge of Cuba was formally established. Nine Lodges, which had been warranted by the Grand Lodge of Colon, met together, in the persons of their Masters, Wardens, and Deputies, and elected a Board of Installation, to the effect that it constituted itself into a free and independent of the Supreme Council of Cuba, which had usurped an absolute authority over the Grand Lodge of the Isle, that they no longer recognise the latter as a regularly constituted Grand Lodge, and that they have constituted themselves an Independent Grand Lodge with the style and title of "Grand Lodge of the Island of Cuba." It was further determined, that only the three degrees of Craft Masonry, together with that of Past Master, should be granted by the new Grand Lodge, and that, till its code of laws had been promulgated, they would take Bro. Dr. Mackey's Masonic Jurisprudence as their guide. The assembly then proceeded to the election of Grand Officers, when Bro. Enrique Verdeja was chosen Grand Master, and Bros. Arvelio Almeida and Gregorrio Gonzales Amador Grand Wardens, Bro. Em. Mola Grand Treasurer and Bro. Carlos Ruiz Grand Secretary. The Grand Officers were then solemnly installed, by the oldest Master present, and Grand Lodge took the oath of obedience and respect to the Grand Master and his Wardens. A circular, bearing date the 22nd August 1876, was then ordered to be sent to the various Grand Lodges and Grand Orients, and the proceedings thus terminated. Portugal is lamenting one of its foremost chiefs in Masonry. It is only a very short time since that we recorded the death of the Duke of Saldanha, Portuguese Minister Plenipotentiary to the Court of Queen Victoria. The Duke was a member of the A. and A. Rite, 33°, in Portugal, and for a great portion of his life had taken a very active part in Freemasonry.

In Italy, the business of the year has been directed chiefly to consolidating the work so auspiciously commenced in the spring of 1875. These efforts have been so far successful that only a feeble number of dissentients, at Palermo and in Central Italy, refuse to cast in their lot with the bulk of Masonry. One Palermitan Lodge went so far as to seek affiliation to the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, but the request was summarily rejected, and the petition dismissed with a severe, but just rebuke for their un-Masonic conduct. This, however, is almost the only event calculated to excite a feeling of dissatisfaction. With these trifling exceptions, Italian Freemasonry has firmly established itself, and every day that passes will serve to make the fusion of the several Lodges in different parts of the country friendlier and more intimate. Many new Lodges have been added to the roll, while, on the 15th March, the three Lodges at Rome, the Chapter of Rose Croix, and many members of the Grand Consistory and Grand Orient, met together, for the purpose of celebrating the first anniversary of the foundation of the Masonic Temple at Rome. Bro. Joseph Petroni presided, and Bro. Ul. Bacci, as orator for the occasion, delivered a very eloquent address, in which he congratulated the Craft on the high position they had attained, and expressed a hope that only those would be admitted members of the Vatican who were noble in heart, elevated in mind, and manly in character.

In Egypt a new Grand Orient, to which recognition has been accorded by our Grand Lodge, has been constituted. It includes a national symbolic Grand Lodge, with Bro. Zola as Grand Master, Bros. de Beauregard and Sciarrone as 1st and 2nd Assistant Grand Masters respectively, and Bro. Oddi as Grand Secretary, as well as a Supreme Council of the A. and A. Rite, with Bro. Zola as Sovereign Grand Commander, Bro. Beauregard as Lieutenant Grand Commander, and Bro. Oddi as Grand Secretary. The Grand Lodge has under its jurisdiction fifteen Lodges, the last of which, the Lodge Ibraïmia, No. 15, was chartered this year, at Manfalud, and is the first Lodge established in Upper Egypt. The official organ of the new Orient is the Memfi Risorta. In other countries, too, the efforts which Freemasonry is making to strengthen and confirm its position are very laudable. In Brazil the United Grand Orient comprises a Grand Orient, a Supreme Council, 185 Lodges, 107 Chapters, and 5 Lodges of superior degrees. No less than 9 Lodges and 5 Chapters were constituted during the last three months of 1875.

The pleasing duty now devolves upon us of chronicling the principal events of the year in those countries of the New World in which the English language is the language of the community; and the first among these is unquestionably the United States. Here, within a very few years of the Revival in 1717, speculative Freemasonry found an abiding-place. In June 1730, a deputation was granted by the Duke of Norfolk to Bro. Daniel Coxe, appointing him to be Provincial Grand Master for the then British colonies of New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. We believe it is a fact thoroughly well established now, that a Lodge of Freemasons met at the Hoop, in Water-street, Philadelphia, towards the close of the year 1730, or the early part of 1731. At all events, evidence has been recently discovered, in a contemporary Philadelphian journal, that a Lodge was in sound working condition in 1732. Hitherto the general belief has been that the patent granted by Viscount Montagu to Bro. Henry Price in 1733, was the earliest evidence obtainable as to the establishment of Freemasonry on the continent of North America. But, in the face of this latest Norfolk testimony, accepted, as it is, by eminent English brethren—who at least have no part in the rival claims of different States to the honour of priority as a regular Masonic body, and are therefore quite impartial—as well as of the best informed American, it seems hardly possible to doubt that Philadelphia is the mother city of American Masonry. We have, however, gone carefully into the evidence on a previous occasion, and it is not therefore our present purpose to enter now into any consideration of the subject. We merely refer to it, in order to show how great is the interest which everything Masonic excites in the minds of our transatlantic brethren, how narrowly they inspect the history of our Fraternity in their own land,—how justly proud they are when any fresh discovery is made which throws further light on the early development among them of the Craft. It may seem to the careless and uninitiated a very trifling matter indeed whether the fraternity was established in 1730 or 1733. What, it will be asked, can the difference of two or three years make? What does it matter if Freemasonry found its first home at Philadelphia or in Boston? Its home now is everywhere throughout the whole of the United States. It is one immense family of reputable men, numbering at this present moment 600,000, more or less. But all States and Cities have in them some sense of pride, it may be about the beauty of their buildings, their rare collection of antiquities, the historical events with which they have been associated, the illustrious men and women they may have given birth to. We may take it, indeed, generally, as an evidence of decadence in any people when they cease any longer to take a legitimate pride in what is honourable,—we use the word in in its two-fold sense, of worthy of honour and conferring honour. Now we take it there are few Craftsmen who truly respect the Society of which they are members who do not experience a sense of pride when they hear that Freemasonry was received into the place or country of their birth at an even earlier period than had previously been supposed. We understand, therefore, and appreciate the rejoicing which our Philadelphian friends must have indulged in, when, at each fresh step of the inquiry, it became more and more apparent that the Coxe Deputation, and the establishment of a Lodge almost immediately after, were authentic. This pride we have been commending has nothing about it of envy and malice, but is exactly that feeling of honest pride which a man has who has led the way in some brilliant enterprise. And Philadelphia, having been the first—it may have been only through an accident—to recognise the value of Masonry as an institution, is justified in being proud of this fact. Moreover, Philadelphia enjoys the additional honour of having been the city in which the famous Declaration of Independence of Great Britain was made and signed. Thus, when a century had elapsed since that important political event, it was quite in the natural order of things that the hundredth anniversary of the National Independence should be celebrated in this City of Brotherly Love. Equally natural was it that on the occasion of so important a national thanksgiving the Masonic Fraternity, or a portion of it, should play their part in the public rejoicing. Masons are not a political body of men, but their laws enjoin them to be good and loyal citizens of the State, and in this instance they were merely illustrating, in common with the rest of their fellow citizens, that love of their country which all honest men and Masons feel. Then a very favourable opportunity offered for a public parade. Last year it was arranged that the Annual Session of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania should be held, on the 30th and 31st May, and 1st June. Invitations were issued to the other Commanderies at home and abroad to take part in the parade, which was fixed for the last of the three days mentioned, and these, in many instances, were cordially accepted. Accordingly, early on the 1st June the procession was formed. First came the Home Commanderies, 37 in number, with 3,369 Knights Templar; New York, 10 Commanderies, 848 Knights; New Jersey, 10 Commanderies, 661 Knights; District of Columbia, 3 Commanderies, 322 Knights; Massachusetts, 2 Commanderies, 127 Knights; Michigan, 1 with 113 Knights; Virginia, 6 with 74 Knights; Delaware, 1 with 59 Knights; Ohio, 1 with 54 Knights; and St. John's, New Brunswick, Rhode Island, and Maryland, with 14, 10, and 8 Knights respectively. The procession marched proudly through the most important thoroughfares of the City, and as the weather was brilliant, the whole length of the route was thronged with admiring spectators. In Broad-street the line countermarched, and on reaching Filbert-street passed in review before the Grand Encampment of the United States and the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania. It is estimated that there were 8,000 persons in the procession, of whom close on 6,000 were Knights Templar fully equipped, while the others were composed of musicians, those who took part in the display in carriages, and others. In the procession were many of the most distinguished members of the Order, men eminent not only by reason of their rank in Grand or Subordinate Commanderies, but likewise by reason of their virtues as citizens of the United States; men of position, either as regards their intellectual power or their wealth, and the respect in which they were held by their countrymen. It was, indeed, a worthy sight to behold. Not only was it a magnificent pageant, with the waving plumes, gleaming swords, and gorgeous clothing of the Knights, such as is not often witnessed in these days; it also gave evidence of the deep-seated love which the leading citizens in the States feel for Freemasonry. For though in England Templarism is only an offshoot of the Craft, and is, indeed, in no way recognised by our Grand Lodge, still, in America, the most eminent among Craft Masons enrol themselves in the Order of the Temple, and, in fact, the association between the two is far more intimate, and also more publicly allowed than in this country. Hence, this grand Re-union at Philadelphia, of the Knights Templar, must be looked upon in some measure as a Masonic display, and as on that account evincing the public interest in the doings of the Craft. In the evening there was a grand reception at the Academy of Music and Horticultural Hall, at which about 4,000 persons, including a large proportion of ladies, were present. The scene was a magnificent one, what with the Knights in full costume and the ladies in evening dress. In the course of the reception, an address of welcome was delivered by the Hon. Sir Knight James H. Hopkins, M.E. Grand Master of Knights Templar in the United States. The audience listened to it with pleasure, and applauded the speaker at intervals, and especially at the conclusion, with great enthusiasm. On the whole, this Templar Parade, albeit less numerous than other parades we have heard or read of in Philadelphia or New York, was a unique event, and will be remembered with peculiar pride, especially by those who took part in it, and also by those who had the rare pleasure of witnessing it. Were this the first, instead of being the last, of a long series of great events connected with Pennsylvanian Masonry, it would still entitle it to a foremost place among the States who encourage our Society and its off-shoots.

But it is to the inner life of the Craft we must look especially for that which most forcibly illustrates the progress or otherwise which it has made. The outer and visible signs of Masonry make an effective, if harmless, display in public; but it is by means of the inward and invisible tokens of the labour achieved that we must hope to trace the career of the Fraternity. As in England, so in America, the duties of the Grand and Subordinate Lodges have been numerously and regularly attended, and faithfully discharged. If we are to judge of American Freemasonry simply by its numerical strength, we shall find some details which will, on the whole, prove very gratifying. From a tabular statement prepared by Bro. Drummond, and published in the June number of the Masonic Jewel—the official organ of the Grand Lodges of Mississippi and Tennessee—we glean the following interesting particulars: There were in the whole of the United States, when Bro. Drummond prepared his table, 594,617 Craft Masons—that is, only a few thousand short of the enormous number of 600,000, and doubtless this number by this time has been appreciably increased. During the period of a year, for which the return has been made out, the number raised is 84,204, the number admitted and restored 19,231, withdrawn 16,452, expelled 908, suspended 775, suspended for non-payment of dues 15,984, died 6,804, and rejected 6,340. These are truly formidable figures, and though we have said that, "on the whole," they may be regarded as satisfactory, the qualification was undoubtedly necessary, for there are two or three items which betray a great laxity in the admission of candidates. Change of residence will in some measure, no doubt, explain the large number of withdrawals from the privileges of Freemasonry, but the figures that follow tell a somewhat ugly tale. It is not a wholly satisfactory report to read when we find included in it no less than 908 expulsions, 775 suspensions, and close on 16,000 suspensions for non-payment of dues. Indeed, if we understand the statement rightly, it seems to us that, in respect of numbers, Freemasonry must have lost instead of gained during the period it refers to. Thus, there were 19,231 admissions and restorations, against which we must set the expulsions, suspensions, and suspensions for non-payment of dues enumerated above, and amounting in the aggregate to 17,667, which, together with 6,804 deaths, makes a total loss (partly absolute and partly, of course, for a time only) of 24,471. We cannot, of course, venture to interpret a tabular statement of this kind, with the preparation of which we have had no concern. The above, however, appears to be a fair interpretation of the figures as recorded, and, if it be so, Craft Masonry must have lost, as regards numbers, over 5,000 members. This will probably prove no loss whatever, but a gain, for it is doubtless only the drones, the lazy, the indifferent, and the worthless, who thus either sever their connection with the Craft, or have it severed for them. The room of these is better than their company. As, however, we have already said, these formidable figures suggest the necessity for exercising the greatest caution in the admission of candidates. We have more than once drawn the attention of our readers to this matter, and we commend it to our American brethren as well. Masons are, or ought be, a select body of men, not one that is composed of "anybodies," who may turn out to be nobodies, or even worse. Before dismissing these statistics, it will be as well to note those referring to the more prominent States. In New York there are 80,701 Masons; 1,374 were admitted or restored, 44 expelled, 24 suspended, and 3,660 suspended for the non-payment of dues. The returns for Pennsylvania are for the year previous, and show there were then 37,546 Masons, 659 admissions and restorations, and 736 suspensions, both for un-Masonic conduct and non-payment of dues. In Ohio, the number of Craftsmen is 30,608, with 1,391 admissions, &c., 91 expulsions, 44 suspensions, and 1,134 suspensions for non-payment of dues. In Illinois there are 40,468 Masons. There were admitted and restored 1,191, expelled 86, and suspended for un-Masonic conduct or non-payment of dues 978. In Tennessee the numbers are, members 17,994, admitted, &c., 1,157, expelled 42, suspended 284, and ditto for non-payment 844. In a later number, for October, of the same Masonic periodical, is a second table, giving, among other particulars, the number of Lodges in the different Masonic jurisdictions. The compiler is Bro. John Carlowitz, and he sets down New York as having 750 Lodges, Pennsylvania 501, Ohio 498, Illinois 735, Tennessee 485.

We pass on now to notice a subject which has long excited the attention of the whole Masonic world, and has managed to somewhat seriously disturb that harmony and good feeling which it is the aim of all true Masons to promote. This is what is called the Coloured Question. We have latterly had more than one article on the subject in these columns, and an esteemed brother on the other side of the Atlantic has favoured us with more than one exposition of his views. It would therefore not be seemly in us to pursue the subject any further in a résumé of the year's history. Let it suffice, therefore, if we state that in Ohio, where the battle of the Colours has been creating the greatest furor, the question is, for the present, shelved. The Grand Lodge of Ohio met at Columbus on the 11th October, and on the following day, a point of order having been raised to the effect that the proposition to recognise the Coloured Grand Lodge could not be entertained till the constitution of the Grand Lodge itself had been amended, the Grand Master ruled that the point of order was not well taken. From this decision an appeal was made by Deputy G. Master Cunningham, when the appeal was sustained by 401 votes to 332, the vote being taken by Lodges. This decided the point, that the proposition to recognise the Coloured Organisation was unconstitutional, and there the matter rests, for the present. We regret, in common with our American friends, that any subject should have arisen to disturb the peace and harmony of the various Masonic bodies in the United States. We cannot, however, expect that our career will always be free from disturbing elements. Meantime, the Coloured Organisations exist, and according to a table published in le Monde Maçonnique, they are a tolerably substantial body as far as numbers go. On the authority of our French contemporary, we learn that there are in the United States 35 Coloured Grand Lodges, having under their respective jurisdictions 500 Lodges, and an aggregate membership of 13,360. We may add that in April of this year the Council of the Grand Orient of France recognised the Coloured Grand Lodges of Ohio and Missouri, and Bro. Caubet has since been appointed their representative, the compliment being at the same time paid of conferring upon him the honorary rank of a Past Grand Master. Thus much as to the Coloured Question.

But we must not dwell too long on particular matters. Our desire is to give a kind of panorama of Freemasonry in the United States, so that our readers may judge for themselves what manner of work it is which is being done in the way of regular duty. We have seen accounts at divers times and in different periodicals, of the meetings of nearly all the Masonic Grand Bodies in the country, and it is a pleasure to us to be able to record that, almost without exception, these meetings have been well attended, the labours of the various Committees appointed to report on matters financial, constitutional, jurisprudential, and the like, have ably, promptly, and satisfactorily discharged their duties, while the numerous petitions submitted for charters for new Lodges afford evidence that the influence of Masonry is extending either in districts already occupied, or to new districts wherein Masonry has hitherto not established for itself a local habitation. All this, we say, is intensely gratifying, but we do not see there is anything special which need occupy our attention now. The following, however, are worthy of record. On the 24th of June a new Masonic Temple at Buffalo, New York State, was solemnly dedicated to the purposes of Masonry, and this occasion was made one of great rejoicing. Five Commanderies of Knights Templar were present, and acted as an escort to the Grand Lodge. In the line were eleven Lodges, and the Grand Lodge was under the supreme direction of Grand Master Husted. The ceremony of dedication having been rendered, Bro. the Hon. Judge Clinton, son of the eminent Bro. De Witt Clinton, delivered an oration, on the value and beauty of Masonry. At the conclusion of his address the speaker was rapturously applauded. In the evening a reception was held in the Temple, and was followed by a banquet, at which the Grand Master presided in person. Everything passed off most satisfactorily, while the procession through the streets in the forenoon attracted large crowds of spectators, who were highly delighted with the pageant.

An event even more interesting still, was the celebration on the same day, at Marietta, Ohio, of the hundredth anniversary of the American Union, No. 1 on the roll of the Grand Lodge of Ohio. We have already quoted from the recently published records of New York Masonry, some few particulars respecting the history of this old Lodge. Briefly we may state here—that the Warrant of Constitution was granted by Bro. Richard Gridley D.P.G.M. of the St. John's Grand Lodge, Massachusetts, on 15th February 1776, and that it held its first meeting at Roxbury. It was composed of officers and soldiers in Washington's army, which it accompanied to New York. On its arrival, it applied to Deputy Grand Master Middleton for a confirmation of the Warrant. This was refused, but a new one was granted to it, under the title of Military Union Lodge No. 1, and so long as it remained within the jurisdiction of New York it retained this title, but when outside it returned to its first love again, and became American Union. Its first W.M., Bro. Joel Clarke, and other of its members were killed or taken prisoners at the battle of Long Island, on 27th August, same year. Bro. Joel Clarke died in captivity—and the next we hear of it is at Reading, Conn., in 1779, when Bro. Parsons was W.M., and Jonathan Heart S.W. In the summer of the same year it was located at West Point, on the Hudson, and from 1781 to 1783 was at Newburg. Subsequently the warrant was taken to Marietta, West of the Ohio, by the W.M. Bro. Heart, and from this place a letter was despatched to the Grand Lodge of New York, in October 1791, in which the Lodge proclaimed itself the principal Masonic authority in the territory West of the Ohio. Not very long after this—on 4th November, Colonel Heart fell, at the battle of Port Recovery, in Darke County, Ohio, but the Lodge survives him, and has lived to see the roll of Ohian Lodges exceed 500. This is certainly a proud position to have enjoyed, and we offer, in all sincerity, our fraternal congratulations to the brethren of American Union No. 1, Ohio, on its celebration this year of so auspicious an event. The festivities were on a grand scale, and the address in honour of the occasion, was delivered by the Hon. Richard Vaux, Past Grand Master of Pennsylvania.

On the 14th June, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, was the scene of yet another grand Masonic celebration, the occasion being the assembly in this city of the Wisconsin Grand Lodge. Unfortunately, the weather was not all that could be desired, but everything was done to give a hearty welcome to the brethren, and along the line of route the houses were decorated with the usual holiday paraphernalia. Eight Commanderies, with 361 Knights Templar, headed the procession, and these were followed by two divisions, comprising together close on two thousand Master Masons. The fourth and last division was composed of Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter, aged members, and others. On reaching the Park, the usual religious ceremonial was observed, after which the Hon. A. R. R. Butler, who is not a Mason, addressed some very eloquent, and at the same time hearty words of welcome to the assembly, words which, coming from a non-Mason, were highly appreciated. Afterwards, Bro. the Rev. S. Fellows delivered an address, which was likewise applauded; and, then, after sundry other ceremonies, the procession re-formed, and having returned to the city, dispersed. Later in the day, excursions were organized, and in the evening a ball was given at the Academy of Music, and also a festival at Quentin's Park. In fine, the celebration proved a great success.

These are a few only of the public festivals which have been held in different parts of the United States during the year. Were we to give particulars of all of them, we should find it necessary to enlarge the narrow limits of our space to those of a large octavo volume. We wish, indeed, it were in our power to record at some length how the various Grand Bodies and subordinate Lodges have conducted their labours, and how they have met in various places, at divers times, and for particular purposes. In such case might we find space to dilate on the eloquent addresses delivered by the more eminent brethren, to chronicle how worthy brethren—such, for instance, as the Immediate Past Grand Master of New York, Bro. Ellwood Thorne—were made the recipients of handsome, and in some cases costly, testimonials to the eminent services they have rendered in the cause of Freemasonry. All this we should wish to do, but we cannot. We can only conclude this brief and necessarily imperfect record of United States Freemasonry by saying that, taking into account all the circumstances, the Craft has prospered for the most part during the year now so shortly about to close. We trust the future may be as productive of good as the past, and even though our American contemporaries may occasionally have cause to lament a certain degree of apathy in respect of Masonic literature, we firmly believe they will, sooner rather than later, begin to enlarge the sphere of their operations, and not only work hard for the Craft, as thus far they have generally done, but also encourage that Masonic literature to which we are indebted for the materials of this sketch. We wish our brethren in all parts of the United States what, in England, we designate "The Compliments of the Season," and may the Great Creator of all things shower down upon them, one and all, His greatest blessings!

The Grand Lodges in British North America are to be congratulated generally on the even progress they have made during the year. The Grand Lodge of British Columbia has some eight Lodges, with an aggregate membership of close on 300. In Canada there are over 300 Lodges, and very nearly 16,000 Masons. New Brunswick has 30 Lodges, and just over 2,200 brethren; Nova Scotia 70 Lodges and 3,295 brethren; Quebec 37 Lodges and 2,704 brethren; while Prince Edward's Island musters a very respectable contingent, in the shape of eight Lodges. One deplorable event has happened, during the year, within the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Canada. Certain brethren, conceiving themselves to be aggrieved, have been guilty of the heinous Masonic offence of erecting themselves into an independent Grand Lodge. All their proceedings, so far as we have been able to follow them, have been most irregular. A fancied grievance, or it may be a real one—in which case this offence against Masonic usage and courtesy is all the greater—we say a real or fancied grievance has induced certain brethren, placed under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge, to meet together irregularly, and proclaim themselves to be, within the jurisdiction of this Grand Lodge of Canada, an independent Masonic Body. Thus far, we rejoice to say, this conduct has met with its just reward. Their advances towards a friendly intercourse with neighbouring Grand Lodges have been repelled with scorn, so far at least as Masons permit themselves to exhibit that feeling. It may be the errant brethren will see the ignominy that attaches to their conduct, and in such case, no doubt, the Grand Lodge of Canada will receive again the repentant Craftsmen. We hope so, but in the meantime we sincerely trust that all American Grand Lodges will follow the noble example set them by the Grand Lodges of New Brunswick and Maine, and repel summarily the advances of these most irregular Ontarian brothers.

We have now traversed, as nearly as circumstances permit us, the the whole field of Masonry. We have shown that, though the year has not been productive of any particularly brilliant results, the progress made has been solid and substantial, and will, no doubt, prove enduring. It is not every year which can boast of the installation of a Prince of Wales, or the dedication of a new Masonic Temple at Rome, at New York, or at Philadelphia. But, after all, the silent but substantial work of Masonry will never fail to be matter for hearty congratulation, and of this we have given evidence enough to satisfy even the most sceptical. It only remains for us to direct attention to the literary achievements of the year. These have not been many; indeed, the bulk of Masonic literature is confined to journals and other periodicals. The work these have done has, on the whole, been well done, nor do we think that the support accorded to Masonic journalism is less than formerly, but, on the contrary, has increased, though it is by no means in the ratio it should be, considering the additional numerical strength which has been made by the Craft, and the greater interest which is taken in its proceedings. We note with extreme regret the stoppage of two excellent Masonic organs. One of these is the New England Freemason, of which Bro. Sereno D. Nickerson, a Past Grand Master of Massachusetts, was the editor. The other is the Canadian Masonic News, edited by the Rev. Bro. Myers. These are, indeed, a loss to Masonic literature which it could ill afford to bear. They were ably conducted. A large portion of their contents was set apart to the discussion and illustration of matters of historic interest. The leading articles might almost be described as learned and elaborate essays, so admirably were they put together, so clear and concise their enunciation of sound Masonic policy. We do not offer our congratulations to the brethren in Massachusetts and Canada, through whose default these model periodicals have died a premature death. We consider it is the bounden duty of Freemasons to support liberally the organs which are started, not in the way of commercial speculation—for no Masonic periodical, past or present, of which we have any knowledge, ever made a fortune for its proprietor—but in the maintenance of their especial interests. This rests, of course, on the assumption that the Masonic organ which seeks to fulfil this serious yet honourable office is worthy of such support. In the case of the two we have mentioned, this was undeniably the case. We believe, however, we are correct in saying, that these are the only friends of ours whose place knows them no more. With these exceptions, the various perodicals in different countries have held their ground fairly well, if they have made no considerable advance towards being remunerative. The New York Square has latterly passed through a series of changes. It passed from a monthly to a weekly. Then it ceased to be a square, and became an oblong. Now, we believe, it has reverted to its original form, and is again our old familiar friend, fair and square in form, as it has always been through all its vicissitudes of fortune fair and square in its policy and teaching. The Keystone is half way through the tenth year of its existence, and those who are privileged to read it know well its merits, and appreciate them. It is sound in doctrine, and the attention it pays to Masonic history and archæology is in the highest degree creditable to the energy and ability of its editor. It is, perhaps, a little vain at times of its position, as the representative organ of Philadelphian Freemasonry, but who, we ask, is not honestly and justly proud when he feels and knows that he is doing good service? We are all prone to blow our own trumpets, even though the blast may be a gentle one, and we confess our surprise would indeed be great if the Keystone omitted to luxuriate in an occasional outburst of legitimate pride. The Masonic Journal of Greensborough is always welcome; so, too, are the Freemasons' Repository, the Voice of Masonry, the Masonic Review, and Masonic Jewel. India now boasts of two Masonic journals—the Masonic Record of Western India (removed from Bombay to Jubbulpore), and the Standard, started this year, and published at Bombay. Australia, also, has its representative organ, in the shape of the Australian Freemason, while the Craftsman is still flourishing as an earnest advocate of the interests of our Canadian brethren. To say of our French contemporary, Le Monde Maçonnique, which has nearly completed its seventeenth year of work, that it fulfils its duty admirably, is simply to say the truth. We never take up a number of it but we find some record of interest, some practical illustration of the enterprise of French Freemasonry, or the enunciation of some valuable idea as to the part which Freemasonry is called upon to play in the world's history. Der Freimaurer, ably edited by Bro. Beigel, P.M. of our Lodge Tranquillity, is a very clever exponent of Hungarian Masonic ideas. All these, however, are the continuous literary supports on whose able advocacy the Craft must rely in its time of need, as well as in its prosperity. In the way of special literary ventures, the year has but few to boast of, but the few have the merit of possessing a rare excellence. What has been published must prove invaluable in the illustration of our ancient Craft and its history, and there is the promise of more still to come. Bro. Hughan has published another of his Masonic reprints, which, besides affording additional evidence of his energy and ability in the field of Masonic literature, throws additional light on the early history of our Craft. The "Royal Masonic Cyclopædia," edited by Bro. Mackenzie, is approaching completion, there being only one more number to appear. In America Bro. Fort has published a history of Freemasonry, which is highly spoken of by the general Masonic public, as well as by his numerous friends and admirers, while Kane Lodge, in the jurisdiction of the New York Grand Lodge, has extended our acquaintance with the early history of Freemasonry in the State of New York, by publishing, with the authority of the Grand Lodge, the early records of the Craft in the Empire State. The work is not yet complete, but six parts have already appeared, and we are justified in saying that the Masonic world has never seen a more important contribution to its history, albeit the records are, in the first instance, of a purely local interest. We, too, in our small way, have been enabled, through the zeal and ability of Bro. Constable, to promote the interests of Masonic history. The warrants which have appeared in these columns from time to time are of the utmost importance. The general public has thus far had but a very limited knowledge of the early history of the Grand Lodge of the "The Ancients," and the bulk of the documents we have published relate to the Lodges under that jurisdiction. Should we succeed in completing this work, we shall have the satisfaction of knowing that whatever else we may have done or left undone, we have helped to enlighten our brethren as to the early history of one of our two English Grand Lodges, which played so important a part in the history of the Craft during last century, but which now is happily reunited to our older Grand Lodge, or as it used to be called, the Grand Lodge "Moderns." With this one, and perhaps excusable, blast of our own trumpet, we say to our readers, Valete!
