WE acknowledge with hearty thanks the receipt of Proceedings at the Annual Communication of this Grand Body held in the City of Richmond, on the 11th, 12th, and 13th December 1876. Bro. Taliaferro, the Grand Master, presided, and was supported by Bro. Richard Parker, Deputy Grand Master, Bros. Beverley R. Wellford jun. and Peyton S. Coles, S. and J. Grand Wardens respectively, other of the Grand Officers, the representatives of most of the Lodges in the jurisdiction, certain Past Grand Masters, District D.G. Masters, and others, together with the representatives of the Grand Lodges of Nebraska, Ireland, Dacotah and Canada. The Grand Master delivered the customary address, in which he touched, in brief, but appropriate terms, on all the leading incidents of the past year. His allusion to the loss sustained by the Grand Lodge through the deaths of the late Grand Secretary Dove, Grand Treasurer Thomas W. Dudley, and Grand Lecturer James R. Dowell, was couched in language befitting the occasion. We have already included in our columns a short sketch of the late estimable Bro. Dove, who, at the time of his death, was the oldest Grand Sec. in the world, having filled the office uninterruptedly from the year 1835. The other two Grand Officers were younger than Bro. Dove, both as men and Masons; Bro. Dudley having attained the age of sixty-eight only, and having served the office of G. Treasurer for a quarter of a century, while Bro. Dowell, the Grand Lecturer, was younger still, being only in his fifty-fifth year, and having discharged his very important functions for only a few years. It rarely happens that a Grand Lodge sustains such serious losses within the brief period of a few months. We sympathise deeply with our Virginian brethren in their present sorrow. The Grand Master then dwelt on the antiquity of Freemasonry, its inestimable value as an Institution, and the need there is that all who profess it should most religiously observe the precepts set down for their guidance. Among other matters passed under review, Bro. Taliaferro announced that he had withheld approval, for reasons which commend themselves to us, as to him, to the holding of "Lodges of Sorrow." He likewise announced the interchange of representatives with the Grand Lodges of New York, Louisiana, and Nevada, that a communication relative to the new Grand Lodge of Cuba would be submitted for the consideration of the brethren, and that he proposed to reject the petition of the so called Grand Lodge of Ontario, for recognition and the interchange of representatives. He congratulated those present on the steady progress of the Craft. He urged on them the necessity of preparing historical sketches of their several Lodges, as material for a general history of the Fraternity in Virginia, and also to use all speed in preparing a new edition of the Virginia Text-book, the last edition, compiled by the late Bro. Dove, having been exhausted more than twelve months since. Having invoked their sympathy and support on behalf of the "Masonic Widows' and Orphans' Home," which, we regret to hear, is not in so flourishing a condition as it should be, and having enumerated the various decisions he had felt called upon to make during the year, on questions submitted for his judgment, the Grand Master brought his remarks to a conclusion, and, as usual, the address was referred to a Committee for their report. The standing Committee having been appointed, and other business transacted, the Grand Lodge was closed till the following morning, when the Grand Working Committee "exemplified the work of the three degrees by questions and answers." In the evening Grand Lodge again met under the Presidency of the Grand Master, when the election of Grand Officers was proceeded with, the following being chosen to fill the principal offices, namely: Bros. W. Parker as G. Master, B. R. Wellford jun. as Dep. G.M., Peyton Coles and Reuben M. Page Senior and Junior Grand Wardens respectively, P. M. Marshall G. Treasurer, and Wm. B. Isaacs G. Secretary. Those who were present having been introduced and installed, the Grand Master appointed Bro. James Evans as Grand Lecturer. A resolution having been adopted, authorising the Committee on Finance and Investment to make arrangements with the trustees of the Masonic Temple Association for the occupancy of the room in which they were then assembled, at the "annual and emergent meetings" of Grand Lodge, a brief adjournment took place; after which the Committee on Dispensations and Charters submitted its report, which was adopted, and Grand Lodge closed. At the morning session on the third day, the Grand Lecturer, assisted by members of the Grand Working Committee, exemplified the third degree of Masonry. In the evening, a series of very elaborate reports was submitted, among them that of the Committee on the proceedings of Grand Officers, those of the District Deputy Grand Masters on the condition of the Craft in their several districts, and also that on Masonic Jurisprudence, in which sundry of Past Grand Master Taliaferro's judgments were not endorsed. The financial Report showed a balance as yet undetermined, owing to the recent death of the Grand Treasurer. The Committee on the Grand Master's address having delivered their report, and the Deputy Grand Masters having been appointed for the several districts, Grand Lodge was closed till the second Monday in December 1877, unless sooner convened by the Grand Master. Then follows a variety of important statistical information. The sum paid to the Grand Treasurer by Lodges at this Communication amounted to 4,260 dollars, the sum yet due from the same being 1,896 dols. 50c. Then, in a most minute report, are given the rolls of the several Lodges in this jurisdiction, arranged, in the first place, under their respective districts, in order to show the strength of each, and then tabularly and in alphabetical order, with other statistical matter, in order to show the strength of the Craft during the year, and its present status. As many Lodges appear to have made no return, the figures represent imperfectly the numerical strength of the Craft; but the result, as regards those which have furnished the needful information, exhibits the following results:—There are in the forty-one districts into which the Jurisdiction is divided, 231 Lodges, with an aggregate membership of 8,992. The reinstatements during the year amounted to 23, the suspensions to 207, the expulsions to seven, and the deaths to 109. In the Appendix is a list of the general regulations adopted by this Grand Lodge, and the affirmed decisions of successive Grand Masters from the year 1866 to this last year both inclusive. contents completes this highly interesting and very elaborate report of this Grand Lodge.

Two among the points we have recapitulated above deserve the special attention of our readers. The first of them is the great importance attached in this, and we may add, in all American jurisdictions, to the appointment of a Grand Lecturer, whose duty it is to see that the working of the different Lodges is uniform throughout the jurisdiction, and that it is not neglected. The other is that the working, on one day of the meeting, of the three degrees, and of the third degree on the second occasion was exemplified in Grand Lodge under the direction, in the latter instance, of the Grand Lecturer, who was aided in his duties by members of the Grand Working Committee. We in England may take a lesson from our brethren of Virginia. We are far too indifferent in this country to the working of our beautiful ceremonies, and the sooner Grand Lodge takes upon itself to appoint officers, whose duty it shall be to see that the different degrees are well and uniformly worked, the better for the general body of the Craft. We may add, however, that this will be of very doubtful benefit indeed unless Lodges themselves are careful in the selection of competent officers. Were there Grand Lecturers in England at this present time, we doubt if one-half of the Lodges would be able to acquit themselves even moderately well, much less with credit, in the labours of the Lodge; while in far too many cases, the attempt at working would amount simply to a most pitiable display of absolute—we feel almost disposed to add—crass ignorance on the part of the Worshipful Masters. This is a matter which calls for immediate remedy. Lodges of Instruction are of little use if they are not properly attended; and it is very little good in brethren visiting them unless they go prepared to expend some trouble in acquiring a portion of that knowledge in which so many of them are so lamentably deficient. We beg leave to add that this is our deduction from the Proceedings of the Virginia Grand Lodge recorded above. We think it is a very fair one, and we trust that, at no very distant date, it will be in our power to announce that it has been acted upon. It is not creditable that, in the motherland of Freemasonry, the members of the Craft should be left to pick up their crumbs of knowledge anyhow. Still less creditable is it that brethren should be pitchforked into positions they are utterly incompetent to fill. The oft quoted lines of Horace's epistle to the Pisos occurs to us as very appropriate—

> Humano capiti cervicem pictor equinam
> Jungere si velit, et varias inducere plumas
> Undique collatis membris, ut turpiter atrum
> Desinat in piscem mulier formosa superne;
> Spectatum admissi risum teneatis, amici?

Had Horace lived in these days, and been a member of one among sundry of our English Lodges of Freemasons, he would have written, perhaps, somewhat to the following effect:—"How, my brethren, will you be able to refrain from laughter, if, when you enter a Lodge for the solemn purposes of Freemasonry, you find the representative of King Solomon with the body of a Worshipful Master, the head of a donkey, and the gorgeous plumage of an unintelligent parrot?

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

ELECTION OF GRAND SECRETARY.

A SPECIAL meeting of the Grand Lodge of Scotland was held at Freemasons' Hall, George-street, Edinburgh, on Monday, the 19th inst., for the purpose of determining the salary of the Grand Secretary, and to elect a brother to fill the position. Grand Lodge was opened at 5 o'clock, in ample form, by the M.W. the Grand Master, Sir Michael R. Shaw Stewart, with H. Inglis D.G.M., William Mann acting S.G.W., W. Hay acting J.G.W., Captain G. R. Harriott, Prov. G.M. of Wigtown and Kirkcudbright, Roger Montgomerie, M.P. Prov. G.M. of Ayrshire, the Rev. A. Thomson Grant, Grand Chaplain, W. Officer, Representative of the Grand Lodge of Egypt, Dr. Loth, Representative of the Grand Orient of France, David Kinnear, interim Cashier and Secretary, Alexander Hay, Grand Jeweller, Daniel Robertson, Grand Bible Bearer, G. Hunter Thoms, Proxy Grand Master of South Australia, F. A. Barrow, D.G.M. Glasgow, J. J. Muirhead, W. Clark, W. L. Mair, &c. The first business transacted was the reading of the report of the Grand Committee. This stated that there had been fifteen candidates for the office of Grand Secretary, from whom the Committee had selected three, and they recommended that the salary should be fixed at £400 per annum, with £100 extra for clerks. It was moved by Bro. Officer that £300 be allowed the Grand Secretary, with £100 for a clerk. Grand Lodge, he said, for some time past had been spending more than its income, and he thought they ought to act as they would for themselves, and retrench the expenditure until their income would allow them to be more liberal. Bro. Mackenzie, Past Master of St. John's, Fisherrow, moved that the salary be £400, with £100 for a clerk, if necessary. These motions were seconded, and after a deal of discussion the roll was called, when there voted for Bro. Officer's motion, 196; and for the amendment, 187; so that, by a majority of nine, the salary was fixed at £300, with £100 for a clerk.

The appointment of Grand Secretary was then proceeded with. For this office Grand Committee had suggested Bros. D. Murray Lyon, Ayr, R. Wylie, Secretary and Past Master of Mother Lodge, Kilwinning, and W. B. Heath P.M. and Sec. 198, London. It was suggested by the Grand Master that as Bro. Heath, though highly respectable and highly recommended, was necessarily unknown to the brethren in Scotland, and would not receive any considerable amount of support, his name should first be put to the meeting. His election was accordingly proposed by Bro. Mann, who referred to the very high certificates the candidate had been able to produce, and said that while he might not expect success, it was extremely gratifying to him to find himself so highly appreciated by his Scotch brethren. Bro. G. C. C. Christie duly seconded the nomination, but the result was such as to leave no hope of success, and accordingly the vote was left as between the two other candidates.

Bro. F. A. Barrow, Glasgow, then moved the election of Bro. D. Murray Lyon, recommending him, from a knowledge of his qualifications for many years, as a man of honour, high character, position, and ability for the office. He had bestowed a great amount of labour on Freemasonry; his writings thereon were held as standard works, not only in Scotland, but all over the globe. He had had considerable practical experience in financial and literary matters, and he had no doubt he would bring all this experience to bear favourably upon the interests of Grand Lodge. In support of his remarks, the speaker referred to a recommendation from the Provincial Grand Master of Ayrshire, and a letter from the office-bearers of that Lodge. Bro. Daniel Robertson seconded, and referred to the assistance which the candidate had rendered in connection with Masonry in the province of Ayr.

Bro. Roger Montgomerie, M.P., moved the appointment of Bro. R. Wylie, remarking that he had taken upon himself, as Past Master of Mother Kilwinning, to appear before them to propose Bro. Wylie, who for many years had been Grand Secretary of the Provincial Lodge of Ayrshire. He submitted his name along with that of Bro. Murray Lyon, for whom he had the greatest respect, and asked them to give their vote to the candidate they thought the best. If their decision were in favour of Bro. Wylie, he had not the slightest hesitation in saying that their choice would be beneficial to Masonry in Scotland, and highly satisfactory to the Provincial Lodge with which he had the honour of being connected. As stated by Bro. Barrow, Bro. Wylie had signed an address, in which it was said that Bro. Murray Lyon would make a good Secretary; but he did not see that that fact should prevent Bro. Wylie from coming forward as a candidate when pressed by a number of office-bearers. During the past fifteen years Bro. Wylie had done good service to the Craft in Ayrshire Lodge Kilwinning. He was a man in the prime of life, had been brought up in business habits, and had acquired practical experience of the working in Freemasonry. This motion was seconded by Brother James W'Cosh, Dalry; and the two propositions were then put to the vote, when Bro. Murray Lyon was elected by 210 against 128. The newly appointed Secretary was then formally installed into his office, the Grand Master expressing a hope that he would show his appreciation of the manner in which he had been elected by devoting himself entirely to his important duties, in which no doubt he would be aided by the assistance of the office-bearers of Grand Lodge, and the members of the Craft in general. The Grand Secretary having appropriately acknowledged these remarks, Grand Lodge was closed in ample form.

ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED RITE.

THE FESTIVALS OF THE MASONIC SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Our Rev. Bro. Simpson deserves great credit for suggesting a means by which the expenses of our Masonic Festivals may be curtailed to the extent of about £100 per annum. I trust, however, he will kindly excuse me for pointing out that in his zeal to effect a worthy object he has lost sight of the real facts of the case. This is all the more surprising as he was himself a Steward at the recent Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution.

The Festivals cost the Institutions not one halfpenny per annum. The expenses are defrayed out of the Stewards' fees. Let us take the case of the latest Festival for purposes of illustration. The fees, at two guineas apiece [to which the fee is now reduced], amounted, for the whole 260 Stewards, at the Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, to 520 guineas, or £546. Of this sum, after allowing a guinea for each Steward who was present at the banquet, about four shillings for the rosette to which each is entitled, the cost of the skilled professionals, and all other expenses, such as complimentary tickets, &c., &c., incident to the occasion, there remained in hand a balance of £47. This was still further reduced by the presentation to Bro. Marsh Case, President of the Board, of a Life Governorship to the Institution, the remainder being presented to Bros. Terry and Knill in token of the valuable services they rendered in connection with the Festival. The whole of the amount collected was paid over intact into the coffers of the Institution. Thus the Stewards not only undertook all the labour of canvassing and collecting for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, but they also, as is customary on these occasions, shared among themselves all the expenses of the banquet and of the musical entertainment that followed, the ladies' tickets being separately paid for by the brethen who invited them. How, under these circumstances, Rev. Bro. Simpson can affirm that the engagement of skilled professionals costs the Charities close on £100 a year puzzles me.

There have been Festivals at which sundry pupils of the Boys' [illegible] but considering the lateness of the hour at which the musical portion of the entertainment begins—in the case of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution especially—I do not think it either wise or expedient that our boys and girls should be invited, as a general rule; more especially as they have the opportunity allowed them of exhibiting their musical talents at the public distribution of prizes which, in the case of the Schools, immediately precedes the Festivals.

There is one other point to be noticed, and I have done. If the Stewards like to engage the services of skilled professionals, why should the Masonic public object to their doing so? We all know they work hard enough. The immense contributions they have succeeded in raising during the last two or three years are evidence of this. I do not for one moment imagine that Rev. Bro. Simpson had any such idea in his mind when he was prompted to write you on this subject, but it seems to me it would be extremely churlish to deny the Stewards the privilege of expending their own fees in the manner that seemeth best to themselves. We must not scrutinise too narrowly an outlay which is so very profitable to our Institutions, especially when those who promote the outlay discharge it out of their own pockets.

Fraternally yours,

T. B. A. G.

THE JEWISH QUESTION.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have seen, according to your valuable paper, that petitions have been presented from the Lodge of Montefiore, and also from Lodges in Warwickshire and elsewhere, respecting the refusal to admit Jews into certain Lodges in Germany. Surely such intolerance ought not to exist in this enlightened age. In almost all societies, as well as in the House of Commons and municipal corporations, civil and religious disabilities have been removed. Why, then, should they be allowed to exist in one of the noblest Orders in the world, an Order which has for its foundations Brotherly Love and Charity? Those of our brethren who are privileged to attend the Grand Lodge of Benevolence know full well, that applicants are always relieved irrespective of creed.

We are supposed to be bound by our Book of Constitutions. The following therein refers to the admission of candidates:—Name, age residence, and business or profession. Creed is never mentioned, and is but seldom known until the candidate is in the Lodge. There are four so-called Jewish Lodges in London, one in Birmingham, and one in Liverpool; at the present time most of these have almost as many members of the Christian faith as of the Jewish. In these so-called Jewish Lodges many brethren of the Christian religion have filled the several chairs with credit and ability, and with satisfaction to the Lodges. Under these circumstances I might suggest that the term "Jewish Lodges" has probably not been fully explained. The ritual is precisely the same. The only notable difference is that grace is said in Hebrew, while in supplying the viands proper regard is paid to the Mosaic Law. While the Lodges freely admit on proper recommendation, all classes and denominations, surely it is unjust to refuse the members of the Hebrew Faith admission into Lodges in Germany.

Let the brethren unite and bring the matter before Grand Lodge, where we have the representative of the Grand Lodge of Germany, Bro. Wendt, and surely this blot will be speedily removed.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

A PAST MASTER.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In reply to "Equity's" letter in your last week's issue, I beg to say that eight years ago I had the honour to be Worshipful Master of the Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017, and then initiated at least five non-Jewish brethren during my year of office.

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

S. POLLITZER, P.M.

Upper Brook's Wharf, Upper Thames-street, E.C.

19th March 1877.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—For the guidance of our friends, allow me to ask you to insert the following statement.

The Lodge of Montefiore, 1017, was consecrated in November, 1864. Five of the founders were not of the Jewish faith. During the years from 1865 to 1876 inclusive, fifty-four gentlemen not professing Judaism were initiated, several of whom are still members of the Lodge, one being our respected S.W. I may add, of the fifty-four previously mentioned, one was a Hindoo gentleman.

I am, dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

LOUIS JACOB, Treasurer 1017.

CRAFT MASONRY AND THE HIGH GRADES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

[illegible] an interesting relic, which is perhaps, somewhat illustrative of this subject, was placed in my hands the other day. This is an old seal, which at some period has evidently belonged to a Masonic body, meeting, probably, in the north of England, if not at York, where, during last century, Craft Masonry seems to have been curiously intermingled with Templary, according to old records. The seal in question is of brass, round in form, and one and three-eighth inches in diameter. Upon the summit of a vaulted dome rests a passion cross, bearing the serpent entwined round it, the three upper limbs of the cross surrounded by the letters I.H.S. On the left of the cross are a pair of trumpets crosswise, and on the left a pair of crossed swords. Below the trumpets is a Senior Warden's level, and below the swords a square and compasses. The manifest combination of Craft, Royal Arch, and Templar symbols, in the device of a massive official seal of some antiquity, seems to me to be, if not of value, at any rate remarkable, and worthy of notice at this time, when there seems to be such a disposition to regard "Craft" Masonry as the only legitimate phase of Masonry, and the Christian degrees as modern innovations. I enclose for your inspection an impression of the seal in question.

Yours fraternally,

T. B. WHYTEHEAD 18°.

York, 19th March 1877.

BOMBAY.

Islam Lodge, No. 490, S.C.—This Mahomedan Lodge was officially inaugurated at a special meeting held on the 30th January last, when, surrounded by a large number of the most influential Past Masters, office-bearers, and members of the other Lodges in Bombay, the R.W. Master elect, Bro. Francis Turner, was duly installed by the M.W., the Grand Master of all India, Bro. H. G. Morland, who conducted the interesting ceremony with that tact, thoroughness, and ability for which he is conspicuous, and which has won for him, on all sides, the envious and honourable position of being recognised and respected as one of the most efficient rulers of the Ancient Craft in the East. Immediately after the opening of the Lodge, the arrival of the Grand Lodge was announced, and the M.W. Grand Master was admitted and saluted with all the honours. He was accompanied by R.W. Bros. Manockjee Cursetjee, Hon. P. Sub-Master, K. R. Kama, Hon. P. Sub-Master, Geo. B. Thomson, Hon. P. Warden; Bros. Frant Grand Clerk, H. Holland G. Sword Bearer, J. C. Houghland Grand Tyler, and several others. The Hiram having been handed to the M.W. the Grand Master, he raised the Lodge, and proceeded with the installation of Bro. Turner, who has worked the Lodge for some months, under a special dispensation, as the first W.M. The newly installed W. Master was proclaimed and saluted according to due and ancient form, in the several degrees, and after the transaction of some formal business, the R.W. Master proceeded to appoint the following brethren as officers for the ensuing twelve months, viz.:—R.W. Bros. E. Freeborn D.M., C. Matthews S.M.; W. Bros. Mirza Ali Ackbar Khan, Bahadoor, S.W., Mhir Ali Mahamed Patell J.W.; Bros. B. M. Seanee Treasurer, S. H. Cassim Secretary, Kajee Bhurawoodeen S.D., Mhir Abdool Ali Khan J.D., Hussan Hajee Ludah I.G., Mirza Hussan Khan Tyler. After receiving the congratulations of the numerous Past Masters on the dais, the Lodge was duly closed, when the brethren and the guests adjourned to refreshment, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. The auspicious opening of this new acquisition to the roll of Lodges in Western India, induces the hope that it will rapidly enlist under its banner many of our Mahomedan citizens who are worthy of admission into the Ancient Craft.

Caledonia Lodge, No. 490, S.C.—Wednesday, 31st January last will long be held in happy remembrance by the numerous members of this prosperous Lodge, as being one of the most cordial re-unions which has characterised its operations since its establishment. Caledonia has been fortunate in the careful selection of its officers during the few years of its existence, but, without wishing to draw any invidious comparison, in none more so than in the gentleman whose term of office as R.W.M. has just terminated. The Lodge assembled at 7.30, and was opened in the usual manner when here were present—Bros. G. B. Thomson 32° W.M., Rodger 30° S.W., J. Y. Lang 30° J.W., Archibald Taylor S.M. as S.D., Thorpe S.M. as J.D., Allan Treas., Ogg I.G., W. Smith Tyler, and a large attendance of members and visitors, upwards of one hundred and thirty being present, including some of the oldest and most influential members of the Craft in Western India. On the dais were W. Bros. Mackenzie, Fred Cull, MacClumpha, Mitchell and other Past Masters. The minutes of the previous regular meeting having been read and confirmed, Bro. John Young Lang J.W. of the Lodge, having been unanimously chosen for the position of W.M. for the ensuing year, was presented by P.M. E. M. Walton for installation. Previously, however, the important announcement was made that the M.W. the Grand Master of all Scottish Freemasonry in India, Bro. Captain Henry J. Morland, and the officers of his Grand Lodge were in attendance. The R.W. Master immediately called the brethren to order, when the following Grand Officers entered the Lodge, and were received with grand Masonic honours: M.W. Bro. Henry Morland, Grand Master for all India, R.W. Bros. James Gibbs, Member of Council and District Grand Master under the Grand Lodge of England, Macintosh Balfour, Depnty Grand Master, K. R. Kama, Hon. Sub. Grand Master, Rev. Chas. Gilder, Grand Chaplain, E. Freeborn, Hon. Past Grand Junior Warden, and a number of Masters and Officers of Sister Lodges. A fraternal invitation had been sent to the members of the Craft on the Flag Ship of Admiral Macdonald, on the Indian station, and of H.M.S. Undaunted, now refitting in the harbour. A number of the officers and crew availed themselves of the hospitality so kindly proffered, and proved an agreeable accession to this influential assemblage. On the M.W. the Grand Master ascending the dais, the R.W. Master handed him the Hiram, when the usual [illegible] the Hiram to the R.W. Master, and congratulated him on the highly efficient state of the Lodge, particularly on its flourishing financial condition. The Lodge having been passed to the F.C. degree, the W. Master elect was introduced and presented for installation. Having given assent to the regulations of the Grand Lodge, he took the oath de fideli, after which the Lodge was raised to the sublime degree of M. Masons. A Lodge of Installed Masters having been formed, R.M. Bro. Lang was duly inducted into the Orient chair, after which the Lodge was reduced, and the brethren who had retired were re-admitted, and called upon to salute him in form. The new W.M. having returned thanks for the high honour conferred upon him, proceeded to appoint the following brethren as office-bearers for the ensuing year: Bros. Taylor S.M., Clarke D.M., Rodger S.W., Doolittle J.W., Hanscheer Treas., Pirrie Sec., Cooper S.D., Ogg J.D., Roberts I.G., Smith Tyler. This concluded the business of the evening, and was succeeded by a banquet, which was a great success, and to which nearly 100 brethren sat down. The usual toasts followed, the health of the R.W. Master being proposed by the M.W. the Grand Master, and received with the greatest enthusiasm. During the evening some excellent songs were sung by the members and visitors, one of which, by a brother of the Undaunted, drew forth special applause.

We understand that the movement in favour of the formation of a Provincial Grand Mark Lodge for North and East Yorkshire, initiated by the York Mark Lodge (time immemorial), has been suspended, it having been found that a large proportion of the brethren in the Province are opposed to such an organisation, on the ground that the number of Lodges (four) does not justify the expense necessarily involved.

The Secretary of the Masonic Mutual Benefit Society of Indiana announces in the columns of the Masonic Advocate that five benefits, amounting together to the sum of 20,689 dols. 51 cents, were paid during the preceding month, raising the total benefits paid in first division to 1,321,853 dollars 20 cents. During the same period the sums received and paid over into the hands of the Treasurer amounted to 18,000 dollars, raising the amount in the Treasury since the seventh annual meeting to 114,000 dollars. We learn from the same source that a similar institution in Connecticut has been three years in existence, and is proving a great success. With over fifteen hundred members, it had but five deaths during the past year.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE progress of the week has been marked, in the House of Lords, by the transaction of a small amount of business. The Irish Peerage Bill, which is not a government measure, however, has passed its third reading, while the Bankruptcy [illegible] Bill, on the motion of the Lord Chancellor, received a second reading. One or two questions about the Eastern difficulty pretty nearly completes the picture. In the House of Commons there has been almost as much discussion as in the week previous, but we question if the amount of business done has been as great. There has been further progress made with the supplementary Civil Service Estimates and Navy Estimates, and some Government measures have been advanced one or more stages. A motion of inquiry into the constitution and rules, &c., &c., of the Stock Exchange, brought forward by Mr. R. Yorke, was assented to by the Chancellor of the Exchequer on behalf of the Government. On Wednesday, Mr. T. Butt made an attempt to induce the House to accept the second reading of his Land Tenure (Ireland) Bill, but he was overwhelmingly defeated by 323 votes to 84 votes.

The Queen returned to Windsor, as usual, shortly after holding her levée at Buckingham Palace. Here various members of the Royal Family have visited Her Majesty, among them the Prince of Wales, the Princess Christian and the Princess Louise (Marchioness of Lorne) and the Marquis of Lorne. On Tuesday, His Excellency General Ignatieff and his wife paid a visit of ceremony to the Castle, being accompanied thither by the Earl of Derby, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and the Countess of Derby, as well as by the Russian Ambassador, Count Schouvaloff. The General was presented to Her Majesty by the Russian Ambassador, and Madame Ignatieff by the Countess of Derby. Lunch was served later in the day, and shortly after the distinguished visitors returned to Claridge's. When the reception was over, the Queen held a council, at which the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, the Earl of Derby, the Marquis of Hertford, and Mr. Cross, M.P., were present. Subsequently, Messrs. Walter H. Medhurst, James Gell, and W. Leece Drinkwater were introduced and received the honour of knighthood. To-day, their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales leave Marlborough House, for a cruise in the Mediterranean, in the Royal yacht Osborne, and are expected to be absent for a period of six weeks. During their excursion they will visit the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh at Malta, and the King and Queen of Greece at Athens. We should add that as Sir William Knollys has accepted the office of Usher of the Black Rod, vacant by the death of Sir Augustus Clifford, he has resigned the post of Comptroller to the Prince of Wales, which he has held for a period of about fifteen years. He is succeeded in the Comptrollership by Major-General Sir D. T. Penrhyn.

The Grand Lodge of Scotland held a meeting on Monday, for the purpose of electing a Secretary in succession to Bro. John Laurie, who, our readers are aware, resigned the office a short time since. The choice lay between Bros. D. Murray Lyon and Wylie, the former a man of great erudition, the latter of great secretarial experience. A ballot was taken, and the result showed a considerable majority for Bro. Lyon, to whom, accordingly, we offer our most cordial congratulations at the distinction thus conferred upon him. The defeated Bro. Wylie has the usual consolation that of two candidates to fill one office, how meritorious soever they may be, one only can receive the appointment. But more than this, he has the satisfaction of knowing that it is only to him who is acknowledged on all hands to be one of the brightest lights in Masonry in this or any age, he has had to yield the palm of victory. We have it on the authority of Homer himself that the Wylie Ulysses, albeit a brilliant leader of men, was no match, in war at least, with the Lyon-like warrior Achilles.

The greatest excitement of the week has been to judge, as far as practice will enable people to judge, which will win the day, the Light or Dark Blue. When these lines meet the eye of our readers, the result will most probably be known throughout the length and breadth of the land. Yesterday was devoted to the Inter-University Athletic meeting at Lillie Bridge, but the exigencies of time prevent us giving any details of the sport. To-day will be another great meeting at the same popular resort of the athlete. Lillie Bridge, in fact, will witness a sight which we cannot call to mind as having ever before been presented to the London public, and we strongly advise those of our readers who have leisure or who may not care to undergo the fatigue of business after witnessing the boat-race to visit these grounds for the purpose of "assisting" at some very singular trials of strength. There will be what is known now as "The Tug of War," not only between men and men, but between fifty men — guardsmen and life-guardsmen — and an elephant. There will also be trials of speed between the camel and a donkey, a trotting horse and the bicycle ridden by the Champion, J. Keen, and also the Tug of War between horses and men. If the weather is favourable there ought to, and we trust there will be, a grand assemblage of people to witness so unusual a spectacle. On Monday will be held another great annual athletic festival, the championship sports, under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Club, which will be held on the same ground, commencing at 2 p.m.

The visit of General Ignatieff to London has caused no little excitement. His Excellency has been, the principal part of his time, the guest of the Marquis of Salisbury, at whose seat at Hatfield he has been staying chiefly. He has also been received at dinner by the Earl of Derby at the Foreign Office, and by the Prime Minister, the Earl of Beaconsfield, at his residence in Whitehall-gardens. On the latter occasion the Prince of Wales was present, to meet the distinguished Russian.

The first exhibition of spring flowers was held in the Royal Botanical Gardens on Wednesday. The entries were very numerous, and there were some very fine specimens among them. The show was held, as a matter of course, under cover, and everything was done to make the visitors as comfortable as possible, there being the additional attraction of the band of the Royal Horse Guards. The Duke of Teck visited the exhibition in the course of the afternoon, and was conducted over it by Mr. Sowerby, the Secretary.

This is unquestionably the age of statistics. The most abstruse calculations are made about the most diverse matters, and tables of calculations on every subject are to be met with everywhere. We read every week all about the averages and per centages of the Births, Deaths, and Marriages in London and many of our large provincial towns. We are informed periodically about the average rainfall, and the rainfall on special occasions, or for special periods. We have now, in addition, particulars as to the number of hours in the week during which the sun shines. However, these particulars have been neither brilliant nor assuring. The latest news is, that the sun has only been visible for 26¼ hours out of the 81.9 hours it has been above the horizon. This is very unkind of the sun, or else London is too dull and dark a place to receive the visits of Phœbus Apollo more than occasionally, and for brief intervals only.

It is still doubtful what course affairs will take in the East. But the business of the Protocol has certainly made matters look a little more hopeful. General Ignatieff's visit to London has had a beneficial influence, and people are beginning to feel a little more comfortable in their minds. The great event that has occurred since last we submitted our Budget is the meeting of the new Turkish Parliament, on which occasion the Sultan himself was present, though the imperial speech was delivered by one of his officers. This looks as though Turkey were resolved on carrying out the reforms to which she stands committed in the face of Europe; in which case she will not be behind her great antagonist, Russia, in the march of civilisation. We trust that, after the heavy diplomatic labours of the last eighteen months, the peace of Europe will not be broken between Russia and Turkey, for, if so, we do not know where the disturbance will end. As regards Montenegro, it is rumoured the negotiations are faring better than they were a few days since, though the smaller state is still making very exorbitant demands. However, it cannot be long now ere we receive some definite news, which will either set us all happy once more, or trouble the diplomatic and financial worlds for, it may be, several years to come.

The regular meeting of the Grand Lodge of Benevolence, was held on Wednesday, the 21st inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. John Clabon P.G.D., President, in the chair. J. Nunn P.G.S.B. S.W., E. P. Albert G.P. J.W. Grants to the amount of £220 were confirmed, and new grants to the amount of £610 were made. There were present Bros. H. Browse, H. Docketts, S. Rawson, J. Smith, C. A. Cottebrune, J. Constable, W. Smith, W. J. Howe, C. F. Hogard, C. Atkins, H. Bartlett, S. G. Foxall, J. Bingemann, H. Massey, H. Garrod, S. Poynter, W. C. Crick, John Hervey G.S., H. G. Buss, Pendlebury, B. S. Swallow, &c.

The Masonic Chronicle of New York mentions the names of several brethren who have recently quitted the sphere of their earthly labours, after a long and meritorious career, both civil and Masonic. W. Bro. Maurice Hoyt, a P.M. of St. John's Lodge No. 1, of the New York jurisdiction, died on the 10th ult., within a few days of completing his 85th year. Bro. Hoyt was initiated into Freemasonry in the year 1822, in Clinton Lodge No. 143 of the same jurisdiction, and was elected W.M. in 1825. In 1834 this Lodge amalgamated with St. John's No. 1, the Morgan excitement being at its height just then. He became one of the original members and Chaplain of Warwick Lodge No. 544 in the year 1864, and was likewise a R.A. Mason, having been exalted in Jerusalem Chapter No. 8, City of New York, in 1824, at the time when the late Marquis De Lafayette, and his son, M. G. Washington De Lafayette, received that degree. In 1828 he attained the honourable office of High Priest. His funeral was conducted with full Masonic rites. We also read of the deaths of Bro. D. Whitney Hyman, aged 53, buried with Masonic honours, several distinguished members of the Supreme Council A. and A. Rite 33°, for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U.S., being present; of Bro. P. D. Ballou 33°, Ex-Mayor of Burlington Vt., and honorary member of the same Supreme Council, who was killed by accidentally falling down a mining shaft; and of Ill. Bros. S. W. K. Ellis, 33° Indiana, Wendell T. Davis, 33° Mass., and Will. S. Patrick, 33° Michigan, who were all honorary members of the same body.

It is with much pleasure we draw the attention of our readers to a Fund, which is known as the "Mace Fund," now in course of being raised for the purpose of assisting Mr. Thomas James Mace, a former pupil of our Masonic Boys' School, in obtaining sufficient funds in order to prosecute his studies with the ultimate object of taking Holy Orders. During his career in our school, Mr. Mace distinguished himself by carrying off the silver medal and the Maybury prize. On leaving, he entered himself as a student at the Evening Classes held in King's College, London, and here again, he secured the favourable regard of the authorities, by gaining several first-class certificates, and the College Prize for Divinity, and at the close of his three years' term, was elected to an Associateship. Several of the Bishops of the Established Church have expressed their willingness to ordain him after a further course of study. But the Funds of the Institution are not applicable to the case of a boy who has already ceased to be on the books of the School. Hence the establishment of the "Mace Fund," of which Bros. Benjamin Head and William Paas, of the House Committee, have kindly consented to act as Trustees, and of which Bros. Captain W. Pollock Dodson as Treasurer, and Fred. Binckes, Secretary R.M.I.B., are members. The list of donors, as at present constituted, includes, in addition to the names we have already mentioned, those of Bros. J. Sutcliffe, S. Tomkins, Sir Henry Edwards Bart., Rev. C. J. Martyn, Major Pearson R.A., Lord Leigh, and other distinguished and influential brethren. We commend the Fund to the notice of our readers, and trust that the needful sum may be raised, so as to enable a former and very worthy pupil of our Boys' School to gratify a most laudable ambition.

We read, in the columns of Le Monde Maçonnique, that latterly, at Stockholm, a new Lodge of Freemasons was constituted. The ceremony, which was conducted on a scale of great magnificence, took place in the Hall of the Knights, an apartment capable of holding 1,600 persons, but on this occasion hardly spacious enough, owing to the presence of large numbers of brethren, not only from various parts of Sweden, but also from Norway, Denmark, Germany, France, and England. At seven o'clock, King Oscar arrived, accompanied by the Crown Prince, who had a short time previously been admitted into the Brotherhood, and Prince John of Glücksburg, brother of the King of Denmark. The Masonic Regalia were borne on a cushion before the King and Princes, and, on their entrance, a solemn march was played, and lasted till they had taken up the places assigned to them. The King having delivered an address suitable to the occasion, Bro. Dahlfelt sketched briefly the history of the Order in Sweden, after which the National Anthem was sung. At eleven o'clock, a banquet was served in the Hall St. John, covers being laid for 270 guests. We learn, from the same source, that the Grand Orient of Italy has passed sentence of expulsion against certain members, who have withdrawn from its obedience, in order to range themselves under the banner of a Grand Orient at Naples. It is further announced that the Supreme Council of the Grand Orient of France, at its meeting on the 10th ult., decided on opening a subscription in favour of the Lyons workmen. The Grand Orient itself headed the list with the handsome contribution of a thousand francs, and directed a circular letter to be addressed to all the Lodges within its jurisdiction, inviting them to participate in this excellent work. On the same occasion, the Council decided to present a sum of three hundred francs to the Lodge La Sagesse, of the Orient of Barcelona, towards the relief of the victims of the inundations which have lately caused such damage in certain provinces of Spain.

We have great pleasure in announcing that an amateur dramatic performance, the proceeds of which will be presented in equal moities to the Funds of our Girls' and Boys' Schools, will take place on the afternoon of May the 5th, at the Opera Comique Theatre. Mrs. Monckton has kindly consented to appear on the occasion, and she will be assisted by Captain Arthur Gooch, Mr. S. Brandram, Captain FitzGeorge, 20th Hussars, Captain F. C. Hughes Hallett, Mr. F. O. Barrington Foote, R.H.A., Mr. Bingham R.A., Mr. Dundas Gardiner, Mr. Bolton Rowe, &c. The prices of admission to the reserved seats will be as follow—namely, to orchestra stalls and front row of balcony stalls, one guinea; to balcony stalls, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th rows, half a guinea; and to the upper circle, five shillings. The box plan will be opened at the theatre and at the libraries the 2nd prox. Seats may be previously secured on written application to the "Acting Manager," 33 Golden-square W. We feel assured that, from the known dramatic talent of Mrs. Monckton, the occasion will prove a great success, and we trust the Craft will show their appreciation of her kindness by supporting her. The Prince and Princess of Wales have signified their intention of being present.

Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales attended the Lenten Services at St. Anne's, Soho, on Friday evening, the 16th inst.

ATHOLL, GRAND MASTER.

WILLIAM DICKEY, D.G.M.

ROBERT GILL, S.G.W. JOSEPH BROWN, J.G.W.

To all whom it may concern.

WE, the Grand Lodge of the most Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, according to the Old Constitutions granted by His Royal Highness Prince EDWIN, at York, Anno Domini Nine hundred twenty and six, and in the Year of Masonry Four thousand Nine hundred twenty and six, in ample form assembled, viz., The Right Worshipful the Most Noble Puissant Prince John, Duke, Marquis and Earl of Atholl, Marquis and Earl of Tullibardine, Earl of Strathtay and Strathardle, Viscount Balquider, Glenalmond and Glenlyon, Lord Murray, Belveny and Gask, Heritable Constable of the Castle of Kinclaven, Lord of Man and the Isles, and Earl Strange and Baron Murray of Stanley, in the county of Gloucester, &c., &c., GRAND MASTER OF MASONS, The Right Worshipful William Dickey, Esq., Deputy Grand Master, The Right Worshipful Robert Gill, Esq., Senior Grand Warden, and the Right Worshipful Joseph Brown, Esq., Junior Grand Warden (with the Approbation and Consent of the Warranted Lodges held within the Cities and Suburbs of London and Westminster), Do hereby authorize and impower our trusty and well beloved brethren,

No. 299 viz., The Worshipful John Bird . . . . . one of our Master Masons, The Worshipful Adam Armstrong, his Senior Warden, and the Worshipful George Louthean, his Junior Warden, to Form and Hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons aforesaid, at Merlin's Cave, in the town of Liverpool, or elsewhere in the said town of Liverpool, upon the second and four Wednesdays in every Calendar month . . . . . on all seasonable times and lawful occasions, and in the said Lodge (when duly congregated) to admit and make Free Masons according to the most ancient and honourable custom of the Royal Craft in all ages and nations throughout the known world. And we do hereby further authorise and impower our said trusty and well beloved brethren John Bird, Adam Armstrong, and George Louthean . . . . with the consent of the members of their Lodge, to nominate, chuse, and install their Successors, to whom they shall deliver this Warrant, and invest them with their powers and dignities as Free Masons, &c., and such Successors shall in like manner nominate, chuse, and install their Successors, &c., &c., such installations to be upon (or near) every ST. JOHN'S DAY, during the continuance of this Lodge for ever, providing the above named Brethren and all their Successors always pay due respect to this Right Worshipful Grand Lodge, otherwise this Warrant to be of no Force or Virtue.

Given under our Hands and the Seal of our Grand Lodge in London, this Twenty-second day of April, in the Year of Our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred Ninety and Six, and in the Year of Masonry Five Thousand Seven Hundred Ninety and Six.

NOTE.—This Warrant is Registered in the Grand Lodge, Vol. 8, Letter H.

The present No., title, &c. are, The Harmonic Lodge, No. 216, Liverpool.

THE BIBLE IN MASONRY.—The following are Bro. E. H. Cushing's views on this topic. Bro. C. is Chairman of Committee on Correspondence of the Grand Lodge of Texas:—"Masonry is founded in Biblical history. Its teachings are all derived from the Bible. Its tenets are all derived from the same source. Its patrons are Bible characters. It is as much an institution of the Jewish and Christian religion as is any society in China, founded upon the writings of Confucius, a part of the religion of Confucius. The universality of Masonry is a worn-out dogma. Show us a Masonic Lodge in a Mahommedan country. Show one where the Avesta is regarded as authoritative. Show one among the natives of Africa, find one in Persia, or China, or Tartary, or even in aboriginal Russia, or aboriginal Ireland, or aboriginal Norway. It is not a part of cultivated human nature, except such as is cultivated in the line of the Christian religion. Japan, with all its intellect, had no Masonry; China, with a third of the human race under one Government, had no Masonry. With these facts, the Bible takes its place where it belongs—in the centre of the Lodge—and as the first of the Great Lights. And whoever denies its Divine authenticity denies all the Masonry we know anything about, and consequently is unfit to be a member of a Lodge—much more its Master."—Keystone.

CONSECRATION OF THE GOSFORTH LODGE, No. 1664.

THE Consecration of this Lodge, and the installation of the Master, took place on Friday, the 9th of March, at the Freemasons' Hall, Grainger-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne, for which purpose a Special Meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Northumberland was convened for four o'clock. At that time there was a very large gathering of brethren of the Province, as well as a full attendance of Grand Officers. The Consecrating Officers were the Very Worshipful L. M. Cookcroft, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, who was assisted by Bros. J. Cook Prov.G.S.W. as S.W., A. C. Hanson Prov. G.J.W. as J.W., and E. D. Davis Prov. Grand Director of Ceremonies. The Lodge was opened in the three degrees, and the anthems were sung by a most efficient choir, under the direction of Bro. Richard Watson, Pro. G. Organist, who presided at that instrument. The brethren of the new Lodge were then arranged in order, and the Provincial Grand Secretary received the petition and warrant from the Grand Lodge. An oration on the nature and duties of Freemasonry was delivered by the Grand Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. W. B. East, which was listened to with very great attention by the brethren. The Lodge was then consecrated according to ancient custom, the ceremony being most impressively conducted. Bro. John S. Wilson Prov.G.S.D., was then installed first W.M., he having been saluted in ancient form, invested his officers; the installation was performed by Bro. E. D. Davis Pro. G.D.C., in a manner rarely equalled. Several propositions were given to the Sec. for initiation, as also the names of several brethren as joining members. The Lodge was then closed, and the Provincial Grand Lodge retired. The brethren adjourned to the Queen's Head Hotel, where an excellent banquet was served; after the removal of the cloth, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given. The healths of the V.W.D. Grand Master, and the W.M. of the new Lodge, were most enthusiastically received; as also hearty good wishes and success to the new Lodge. During the course of the evening several of the brethren contributed to the harmony by some capital singing, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

CHESHIRE EDUCATIONAL MASONIC INSTITUTION.

THE Annual Court of Governors of this Institution will be held at the "Crewe Arms Hotel," Crewe, on Wednesday, the 28th inst., at 2 p.m., to receive and determine the several recommendations of the General Committee, to place on the Education Fund

CHARLES WM. ASTBURY, aged 7 years, Son of the late Bro. Charles Astbury, of Sincerity Lodge, 428, Northwitch.

JOHN HEYWOOD, aged 7 years, Son of the late Bro. John Heywood, of Lodge of Peace, No. 322, Stockport.

To substitute Randall Poynton, aged 10 years, in place of Denis Poynton, who has finished his education.

For advancement of R. Heywood, aged 16 years, Son of the late Bro. John Heywood, of Lodge of Peace, 322, Stockport.

To receive the Treasurer's Accounts as Audited, and the Auditor's Report; to Elect the Medical Officers, Secretaries, Treasurer, Committee, and Auditors for the ensuing year; and for the transaction of the Annual Business of the Institution.

We understand that the Committee of the Montefiore Lodge, appointed to take steps with reference to the exclusion from the benefits of Freemasonry of all persons except those professing Christianity, have already received numerous petitions, signed on behalf of many Lodges throughout the country, together with many interesting letters sympathising with the cause that all Freemasons have at heart.

The 7th annual ball in aid of the Metropolitan and City Orphanage, now supporting 200 children, will take place on Thursday, the 26th of April, at the Cannon-street Hotel, under the patronage of the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, Bro. Sir Thos. White, Bro. Alderman and Sheriff Hadley, Bro. Sheriff East, and the Under Sheriffs, who have signified their intention of being present. Bro. T. Butler will be the M.C., and there is an efficient body of Stewards, among whom we see the names of Major Bowman, Bro. G. B. Childs, &c.

We have received some remarks on the election of the Grand Secretary of Scotland, but they arrived too late for any notice this week.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Worthy of especial note.—These Purifying Pills excel every other medicine for regulating the digestion, acting healthily on the liver and bowels, invigorating the nervous system, and strengthening the body. They cause neither pain nor other inconvenience. At all seasons the system is liable to sudden checks. In such cases, these Pills restore the balance of the circulation, and ward off dangerous attacks of diarrhœa, dysentery, or cholera. They are the best correctives of the stomach, when disordered by repletion or by the presence of indigestible food. They speedily rectify the flatulent weight, and general uneasiness which are experienced in the bowels prior to the accession of more serious symptoms, which debilitate, if they do not endanger.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Kent Lodge, No. 15.—This Lodge held its regular meeting at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 14th March. Present—Bros. Pindar W.M., Wharman S.W., Cambridge J.W., Ginman S.D., Ball J.D., Levy I.G., Dukes P.M. Hon. Sec., Sleeman P.M. Treasurer, and a strong muster of the brethren. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes confirmed. Bros. Rogers, Winkley and Barfold were passed by Bro. Sleeman P.M. in the absence of the W.M. On the arrival of Bro. Pinder W.M., the installation of Bro. Wharman W.M. elect, who is the first Hebrew Master of the Kent Lodge, was proceeded with, and worked in a very able manner. Bro. Wharman then invested the following officers:—Bros. Pinder I.P.M., Cambridge S.W., Ginman J.W., Sleeman P.M. Treas., Ball S.D., Levy J.D., Lipscombe I.G., Barlow P.M., Wells D.C., Dukes Sec. The Lodge was resumed to the 1st degree, and Messrs. Walter Lipscombe and Thos. Holloway were initiated into Freemasonry. The Lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet room, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of. The usual Masonic toasts were given and responded to, interspersed with harmony. The toast of the Visitors was responded to by Bros. Gottheil, Posener, Hollands, How and J. Levy. The meeting broke up at a late hour after a very gratifying and harmonious evening. Besides those already mentioned, Bros. Holt 928, Back 1227, Piso 1228, Taylor 1445, Hooper 1260, Southwood 1260 W.M. elect, Levy 188, and Williams 65, were present as visitors.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 22nd inst., at The Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. W. G. Hallows W.M., T. Franklin S.W., Appleby J.W., F. Hallows S.D., Groome I.G., Upward Organist; P.M. Bro. Pinder Preceptor; also Bros. H. Field, Mumford, Delvalle, Hunt. Visitors—Bros. Cates and Holloway, Chegwell Lodge 453. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Mumford acting as candidate. The first, second, and third sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Appleby, assisted by the brethren.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its meeting at the Old Rodney's Head, 12 Old-street, Goswell-road, on Monday evening, 19th instant. Present—Bros. Powell W.M., Read S.W., Isaac J.W., Millward S.D., Killick J.D., Fenner Secretary, S. Pearcy Acting Preceptor, Christopher I.G., Robison, Alford, Trewinnard, Curry, Saul, Stock. Lodge opened in due form; minutes confirmed. Lodge opened in 2nd degree. Bro. Killick answered the usual questions and was entrusted. Lodge opened in 3rd, when the W.M. rehearsed the ceremony, giving the traditional history, Bro. Killick acting as candidate. This was the first time the W.M. rehearsed the ceremony, and from the very effective manner in which he done it, deservedly brought forth high encomiums from the brethren present. Bro. Pearcy worked the 1st and 2nd sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Reed was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.—This Lodge held its meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on the 20th inst. Present—Bros. Ellis W.M., Powell S.W., Brown J.W., Daniel S.D., Rich J.D., Lees I.G., Hollands, Walker, Harris, Haller, Baxter, West, Webb, Wharman, Lipscombe, Parker, Cant, Cornwall P.M. The Lodge was opened in due form. The minutes of the previous meeting confirmed. Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree. Bro. Rich answered the questions leading to the 3rd degree and was entrusted. Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and Bro. Rich duly raised. The Lodge was closed to the 1st, and the 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of that lecture were worked by Bro. Ellis and the brethren. The Lodge was resumed to the 2nd. Bro. Cant answered the questions leading to the 3rd. The Lodge was resumed to the 1st degree. Bros. Lipscombe, Cant, and Cornwall were elected members, and it was resolved that Bro. Cornwall should be an honorary member of this Lodge for four years, for the substantial donation given by him to this Lodge on the annual supper night. Bro. Powell was elected W.M. for the ensuing Tuesday. The Lodge was then closed in due form.

Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, No. 174.—The annual supper of this Lodge took place on Monday, the 19th inst., at the Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. Bro. Hilliard, the W.M. of the Mother Lodge, was in the chair, supported by Bros. Appleby and Webb. After the supper the usual toasts were duly honoured. Bro. P. M. Moore responded to that of the P.M.'s. Bro. Austin, in acknowledging the toast of the Preceptor, said that many years ago he had joined the Sincerity; in fact, it was there he had got his instruction; and he considered it was his duty to impart his knowledge to others, which he was always ready and willing to do. Bro. Ellis (the Secretary) thanked the W.M. for proposing, and the brethren, for drinking his health. He was very glad they had such a Preceptor. When they lost Bro. Crawley they were in a difficulty, but Bro. Austin had come forward and removed it. He was sure that, under the guidance of that brother, they would make the Sincerity equal to any Lodge of Instruction in London. Bros. Brown and Webb responded for the Stewards, Bro. Bateman on behalf of the Visitors, and Bro. P.M. Appleby for the Officers. Some excellent songs and recitations were given during the evening.

Tranquillity Lodge, No. 100.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, whither it has migrated pro tem. from the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street. Bro. John Peartree W.M., presided, and there were present the following officers, namely, Bros. D. Posener S.W., G. S. Pare, J.W. J.D. Bartlett I.P.M., J. Constable Treasurer, P. Levy Secretary W., D. Bayley S.D., F. Croaker J.D., J.W.C. Bush acting I.G., Sadleir M.C. and Potter Tyler, together with a considerable number of members, and Bros. F. Binckes, Sec. R.M.I.B., Spiegel and Davis, both of Joppa, No. 188, and Plummer. After the Lodge had been opened, Bros. Tom, Cohen and Feigl, were passed. Mr. Moritz Vogl was then balloted for, and the ballot having proved clear, was in due form initiated. Two motions were then proposed by Bro. Constable, and seconded by Bros. Pare and Bush respectively. By the first it was moved that the initiation fee be increased to ten guineas, and the joining fee to five guineas. The second had for object the removal of the Lodge to Anderton's Hotel. Both these motions were accepted, and likewise another proposed by Bro. N. Moss, and duly seconded, to the effect that a Committee be formed to inquire into the propriety of removal. It was likewise agreed, on the proposition of Bro. Constable, seconded by Bro. N. Moss, that a Committee, consisting of Bros. Asher Meyers, John Peartree, J.D. Barnett, N. Moss, E. Harfield, M. Harris, G. S. Pare, J. D. Posener, and W. Brisker, be appointed to act in concert with the committe of the Joppa in reference to the question of the Jewish Masonic disabilities in certain German Grand Lodges. A modest banquet was then served, at which the Worshipful Master presided. On the removal of the cloth, instead of the usual formal array of toasts which head the lists, the W.M. introduced, for the first time in this Lodge, what appears to be known as Bro. Binckes's Patent. It undoubtedly answers all requirements, and was very well received by all present. In this Patent are comprised all the essential features of the ordinary toasts, but neatly and most artistically interwoven. Thus, it was found that when Bro. Peartree so far departed from the laws of custom as to introduce this novelty, the first three toasts were combined in one, namely, "Loyalty to the Throne and devotion to the best interests of the Order." It is needless to say how cordially this toast was drunk. In proposing the health of the W.M., Bro. Barnett expressed the pleasure he felt in doing so, which was all the greater, that the Master had worked the ceremonies of the 1st and 2nd degrees so accurately and impressively. Bro. Peartree, on the evening of his installation, had expressed his belief that, at his time of life, he should find it necessary to rely, for the accurate fulfilment of his duties, on the kind assistance of the Past Masters. Bro. Barnett, however, expressed his opinion, which he believed was that of all his colleagues who had witnessed the ceremonies, that Bro. Peartree was able to teach them what good work was, rather than stand in need of their assistance. Bro. Peartree responded appropriately. The Initiate acknowledged his health in a few words, but they were to the point. The Visitors severally spoke to that important toast, Bro. Binckes leading the way with his usual eloquence. The evening came to an end shortly afterwards, there having been present some fifty brethren, and everything having passed off most comfortably in the temporary quarters of the Lodge. We have omitted to state, in the course of the meeting, Bro. Peartree announced that he had directed a sum of three guineas to be handed over to a distressed brother, and likewise that the Initiate inaugurated his entrance into Freemasonry by contributing a guinea to the Lodge Benevolent Fund.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge met at its new home, the Whittington, Moor-lane, Fore-street E.C., which, if appearances are not deceptive, is likely to prove a permanent settlement. The accommodation is excellent. The room, if not quite as large as could be desired, is very lofty, and pleasantly furnished, and the viands are of first-rate quality and moderate in price. The situation is most convenient, being adjacent to the Metropolitan, North London, and Great Eastern Railways, a minute's walk from Moorgate-street, and not five minute's walk from the Bank; it is, therefore, easily accessible from every part of the town. Under all circumstances, there is a reasonable prospect that the Lodge will gain rather than suffer from the enforced removals. To judge by the first meeting, these anticipations are most likely to be realised, for just upon thirty members and visitors assembled on Wednesday, the 18th inst. Bro. J. T. Miller occupied the chair, and was assisted by Bros. F. Croaker S.W., Sayers J.W., E. Gotthelf P.M. Preceptor, John Constable P.M. Treas., J. K. Pitt Sec., Ager S.D., Tollis J.D., Sadleir I.G., and Christopher Tyler. The W.M. rehearsed the third ceremony, including the traditional history connected with the degree, Bro. A. Woolf acting as candidate. One of the sections was worked in the usual manner. As the removal of the Lodge was so sudden and unforeseen, Bro. J. R. Foulger P.M. and Worshipful Master of the Cripplegate Lodge, suggested that a record of the fact, and the circumstances leading to it, should appear on the minutes. Bro. Constable supported the proposition, and expressed his indignation and disgust at the treatment they had lately received. The strong language with which he desired to modify Bro. Foulger's suggestion was, however, objected to, and he reluctantly allowed milder counsels to prevail. Bro. F. Croaker will preside on Wednesday next.

St. Paul's Lodge, No. 194.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday, the 20th inst., at the Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, City. Present—Bros. S. Hunt W.M., Seager S.W., C. E. McBean J.W., R. Fowler P.M. Secretary, R. M. Veal P.M. Treas., Wm. W. J. Compton S.D., A. B. Renshaw J.D., H. F. Paget I.G., Harper P.M. Steward. Past Masters—Bros. G.N. Watts, W. Temple, E. Randall, Weston, Dr. Watson, Wilson, and Bros. Fisher, Gilbert, T. G. Smith, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bro. T. G. Smith, No. 890, was unanimously elected a joining member Bro. Otto Rochs was passed. Bro. Reynolds, of the Sphynx Lodge, 1329, was proposed as a joining member. A sum of £10 10s was granted from the charity box to be placed on Bro. Compton's list, who is a Steward for the Boys' Festival. A letter was read from the Montefiore Lodge, and the petition respecting the non-admission of the members of the Hebrew Faith in Germany was, after some discussion, signed by the W.M. on behalf of the Lodge. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a very excellent banquet and dessert. The W.M., in eloquent and genial terms, proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. In introducing that of the Charities, he said Bro. Compton would well represent the Lodge at the Festival for the Boys. He coupled with the toast the name of Bro. Randall P.M., who said Bro. Compton being absent, he was pleased to say that he had a goodly sum to add to his list contributed by the brethren present. They had a candidate on the list, and this was the last application. He was the son of a brother who was an ornament to the Lodge and the Craft. He was sure every brother who knew him would support the case, and when the election took place he hoped to see their efforts would be crowned with success. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Visitors. They had many distinguished brethren present, among others Bro. Harty, who is now completing the Great Historical Picture of the Installation of H.R.H. the M.W. Grand Master. Bro. Harty responded, and in the course of his speech, said a proof will be presented on the 28th of April, that being the second anniversary. Bros. Swallow and H. M. Levy followed. Bro. Watts I.P.M. then rose and said he was pleased to propose the toast of the W.M. He had done so on several occasions, but to-night especially he had done his work well, and while they had such Masters the Lodge would prosper, and they all wished him long life and health to carry out his duties. The W.M. returned thanks for the kind manner they had responded to the toast. He hoped, at the expiration of his year of office, that they would be satisfied with his exertions for the benefit of the Lodge. He then proposed the P.M.'s, and he would couple with it the name of Bro. Randall, who, in a humourous speech, returned thanks. The W.M. then proposed the officers of the Lodge, all of whom are thoroughly proficient in their duties. The Treas. and Sec. are invaluable. Bro. McBean having responded, the Tyler's Toast was given. Bros. T. Lawler jun., Randall, Watts, Collins, Lambe, Rochs, &c., contributed some very excellent songs during the evening. The Visitors were Bros. B. Swallow P.M. 1563 and 382, E. J. Harty W.M. 1201 and 228, Collins 765, Contro 1150, Badkin S.W. 1365, W. Hollens 766, F. J. Cronin P.M. 231, Lawler jun. 1297, G. Whitehead, Bodkin, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Saturday the 17th inst., at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington, N. Present—Bros. Goode W.M., Ross S.W., Ansbell J.W., Killick Sec., Halford Treasurer, Brensted S.D., Fenner J.D., Larkin I.G. Visitor—Bro. Francis Holland 1158. Business—The Lodge was opened in regular order, and the minutes confirmed. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Isaac acting as candidate. The sections of the third degree were worked by Bros.

Hewlett and Pearcy. Bro. Ross was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks, deservedly earned by the W.M., closed the proceedings.

Royal Union Lodge, No. 382.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, the 19th inst., at the Belmont Hall, Uxbridge. Bros. C. J. W. Davis W.M., Ferenbac P.M. as S.W., Halliday J.W., Coulton P.M. Treasurer, W. Coombes P.P.G.S.B. (Middlesex) Secretary, Diarcy as S.D., Cook J.D., Lonsdale I.G., Weedon P.M., and a numerous assemblage of members and visitors. The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. Bro. Price and Gaylard were passed. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. I.C. Swallow W.M. elect was presented to the Lodge; he was duly installed by Bro. Coulton P.M. The salutations to the newly installed W.M. were given, and he then invested his Officers—Bros. C. J. W. Davis I.P.M., Weedon as S.W., in the absence of that Bro., Bro. Webb, Halliday J.W., Coulton Treasurer, W. Coombes P.P.G.S.B. Sec., Cook S.D., Diarcy J.D., Russ I.G., Lonsdale D.C. The newly installed W.M. then initiated Messrs. W. Marshall and C. Sarf into the Order; a ballot was also taken for Mr. F. Lucy. Bro. Cooper proposed and Bro. Halliday seconded, that the following resolutions be passed and entered on the minutes, "that the best thanks of the Lodge are due to Bro. C. J. W. Davis for his exertions in connexion with the removal of the Lodge of Instruction and its regeneration in the formation of the La Tolerance Lodge of Instruction." This was carried unanimously. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet provided by Bro. Drinkwater. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic Toasts. That of the Provincial Grand Officers found a very able respondent in Bro. W. Coombes P.P.G.S.B. Bro. C. J. W. Davis then proposed the health of the W.M., which was responded to. The I.P.M., Bro. Davis, was next given. He was one who had, in every respect, carried out the duties of the chair to their satisfaction; and, in recognition of those services, in the name of the Lodge, he had great pleasure in presenting him with a Past Master's jewel. He hoped he might live long to wear it, and give his valuable assistance as a P.M. to the Lodge. Bro. Davis suitably returned thanks for the kind expressions of the W.M., and also for the valuable gift. He said that whatever duties in connection with the Lodge were required of him, he was always willing to undertake. They were now in the position to establish a Lodge of Instruction in the Province. Should such take place they had only to call on him, and he would always be ready and willing to do all in his power to further the object. The toasts of the Treasurer, Secretary, Wardens, and Officers were given and responded to, after which the Tyler's Toast concluded the evening.

Union Lodge, No. 414.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Tuesday, 20th inst., at Reading. Present—Bros. Stephen A. Pocock W.M., Edward Baker S.W., Charles Oades J.W., Nicholas Garry Chaplain, J. Leaver Sec., Sam. Bradley S.D., Charles Stephens J.D., R. C. Mount I.G., F. J. Ferguson D.C., S. Wheeler and C. Sprent Stewards, W. Hemmings Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. Morris, Bradley, Weightman, Strachan, R. T. Woodhouse P. Prov. D.G.M. Berks (hon. mem.), Bros. Brakspeare, F. Blackwell, Ayres, Sydenham, Higgs, Withers, Butler, Mitchell, Martin, Stallwood, Hawkes, and Visitors, from 1101, Bros. Margrett W.M., Stransom Treas., Ivey P.M. Sec., Hurley P.M., Hunt, Pulley, Bailey, Robinson, Cottrell and Hawkes, and from Fidelity No. 663 Bro. J. Long, P.M. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. The W.M. announced that Bros. Martin and Hawkes were candidates for passing to the second degree; he therefore put the usual questions to them, and they retired. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree. Bros. Martin and Hawkes were passed. The lecture on the Tracing Board was given by Bro. Dr. Woodhouse, who is the senior Mason in the Province, and on the venerable brother taking the chair, the utmost attention was given to the interesting lecture, which called forth a unanimous vote of thanks, to which he responded. The sum of ten guineas was voted to Bro. Weightman's list, as Steward to the Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. A discussion took place on the subject of the exclusion of Jews by the German Grand Lodges, which was referred to the Permanent Committee. The labours of the evening being ended, the Lodge was closed.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Thursday, the 15th inst., at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. Present—Bros. Wray W.M., Farwig S.W., Weeks J.W., T. Cull Sec., T. O. Davis S.D., Docker J.D., Cornelisson I.G.; also Bros. Mander Preceptor, Belinfant, Solomons, T. Ager, Collins, A. Stewart, Milmow, Morphew, Dr. Lloyd, Beckett, and Knight. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the last meeting confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd and 3rd degrees, and the latter ceremony rehearsed. The 1st section was then worked by Bro. Mander, the 2nd by Bro. Farwig, and the 3rd by Bro. Cull Sec. The Lodge was closed down, and Bro. Farwig elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The Lodge was then closed in due form. The ceremony of installation will be rehearsed by Bro. Mander on Thursday, 29th inst.

William Preston Lodge of Instruction, No. 766.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Friday, the 16th inst., at Bro. Kennard's, Feathers' Tavern, Upper George-street, Edgware-road. Present—Bros. S. Nichols W.M., Lucas S.W., Hayes J.W., A. Brawn Secretary, G. Tribbel Preceptor, March J.D., Parsons I.G. Bros. Cooper, Thompson, Kennard, Godden, Reid and W. J. Hall 103. Lodge was opened in due form. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Thompson being the candidate. Bro. P.M. Brawn gave the three installation addresses. Bros. Thompson and Reid answered the questions for passing. Bro. W. J. Hall, of Confidence Lodge, No. 193, was elected a member. A vote of thanks was recorded on the minutes to Bro. Nichols, for the able manner he had fulfilled the duties of the chair for the first time. Bro. Lucas was elected W.M. for the ensuing meeting. All business being ended, the Lodge was closed in due form.

Ranelagh Lodge, No. 834.—An emergency meeting of the above well-known Lodge took place at the Bell and Anchor Hotel, West Kensington Gardens, on Tuesday, the 13th instant. Present—Bros. T. Knowles W.M., Fisher S.W., Baker J.W., Watson S.D., Shaw J.D., Middleton I.G., Oliver Org., Warner and T. Bryett Stewards, W. T. Worthington Secretary. The Lodge was duly opened by the W.M., who afterwards raised Bros. Doncaster, Tuck and Sinclair. Mr. Richard Josey was next initiated, after which the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous supper, provided by Bro. P.M. Millis. After ample justice had been done to the repast, the W.M. gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. In proposing the health of the Visitors, consisting of Bro. Cumming 534 and another, the W.M. stated that nothing gave the Ranelagh members greater pleasure than to see visitors among them, and the Lodge would always endeavour to make them comfortable. Both of the visiting brethren suitably replied. Bro. Butt I.P.M., in proposing the health of the W.M., spoke in touching terms of the admirable way in which Bro. Knowles had carried out his duties during his year of office, and the time he had given to studying the same. The W.M., in a neat and appropriate speech, replied that he had always the success of the Ranelagh Lodge at heart, and would endeavour to do his best in keeping up its character. The Tyler's toast followed. We may here mention that Bro. Oliver presided at the piano, and some of the brethren gave great satisfaction in rendering part songs, &c.

Andrew Chapter, No. 834.—On Thursday the 15th inst., a convocation of this Chapter was held at the Bell and Anchor Hotel, West Kensington Gardens. Comps. W. T. Worthington Z., Lewis Bryett, H. Adamson T. After the usual preliminaries, the M.E.Z. exalted three brethren; the manner in which the ceremony was conducted, showed that the M.E.Z. had paid great attention to the study of his duties. The Comps. after the closing of Chapter, sat down to an excellent dinner, which did great credit to Comp. Millis. The M.E.Z. in due course, gave the usual loyal and R.A. toasts, which were well responded to. The Comps. separated after spending a most enjoyable evening.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Tuesday, the 20th of March, at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. Perrin W.M., Perry S.W., Johnson J.W., Worsley Secretary, Barker S.D., Ashburner P.M. J.D., P.M. Wallington Preceptor, Smith I.G.; Past Masters—Bro. Wright, Ashburner. Visitors—Bros. Dallas, Christian, Ould, Davis, Hewlett. Business—The Lodge was opened with solemn prayer, and the minutes of the last meeting confirmed. The Lodge opened in the 2nd degree, Bro. Davis having answered the necessary questions, the Lodge was opened in the 3rd, when the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Davis acting as candidate; P.M. Wallington gave the traditional history. The W.M. was highly complimented on his having worked the ceremony in such a perfect manner. Bro. Hewlett worked the 1st and 3rd section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was closed down to the 1st degree; Bro. Perry was unanimously elected W.M. for next Tuesday week, and appointed his Officers in rotation. The Preceptor gave notice that the annual supper would take place on Tuesday next at 7 o'clock, and hoped that all those brethren who intended being present would make it convenient to be there in good time. The Lodge will be opened at 6.30. The list being full, no more tickets can be issued.

Marquis of Dalhousie Lodge, No. 1159.—The installation meeting of this respected Lodge took place at Freemasons' Hall on the 19th inst. The Lodge was opened at 5 p.m.. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for Mr. Ernest C. Cheston, which being unanimous, that gentleman was initiated. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and Bros. Cunliffe Owen C.B. and Gustav Guillain were duly passed. Bros. W. F. Kelly, Lodge No. 1, of Carthagena, New Granada, and Arthur Le Nove Foster, Bulwer Lodge, of Cairo, having been elected joining members. Bro. Wood P.M. and Secretary, proceeded to instal Bro. Henry James Moxon, who had been unanimously voted to the chair of King Solomon. The ceremony was performed in a very solemn and impressive manner, and hearty congratulations accorded to Bro. Moxon in that high position. The newly-elected W.M. then proceeded to appoint and invest his officers, suitably addressing each; after which a very pleasing duty devolved upon him, in presenting the retiring Master (Bro. Simmonds) with a Past Master's jewel, which he acknowledged. The Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet-room. Amongst the visitors present we noticed Bros. Hyde Clarke D.G.M., Turkey, C. Horsley P.P.G.R. Middlesex, G. Glover P.G.J.W. and P.M. Prince of Wales' Lodge, J. H. Younghusband P.P.G.M. Lancashire and P.G.J.W. Dr. Ramsey P.M. Prince of Wales Lodge, Dr. Bonny P.M. 193, J. Burkett 1114, W. J. Woodman P.M. 1298, A. Harding P.M., Leftwich P.M., Calder, Harold, Kember and Barshall. At the conclusion of the banquet the customary toasts were proposed. "The Queen and the Craft." "The M.W.G.M.," "The P.G.M.," "The D.G.M., and the other Grand Officers Past and Present" were given briefly and pertinently from the chair, and duly honoured. Bro. Simmonds, the I.P.M., then asked the brethren to join him in drinking the health of their esteemed W.M., dwelling at some length upon the zeal and attention which he had shown in the discharge of his duties since he entered the Craft. The W.M. (Bro. Moxon), in reply, said some one had told us that language was made to conceal our thoughts, but he must confess, in rising to

to thank them for the kind manner in which they had been pleased to receive his name, that he certainly lacked the power to express his thoughts on that occasion. To be, he said, the W.M. of a Lodge, was, indeed, a proud priviledge; but following in the footsteps of such Past Masters was what he most sincerely valued. Although he undertook the office with a certain amount of diffidence, the considerate treatment of the brethren was already fast overcoming it, and he hoped soon to acquire that confidence which is so necessary for the proper performance of his duties. He assured them that there was no one whose heart was warmer towards Masonry than himself, and he felt bound to say that to him it had proved a blessing, having cemented many friendships which already existed, and fostered others of recent growth. If he failed to express his feelings in words for their kindness, he claimed their indulgence, and asked them to look to his deeds while he occupied the elevated position to which they had that evening elected him; before resuming his seat he should like them to know that he had been appointed a Steward at the next festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, to be held on the 9th of May, and he asked to be allowed to state on behalf of the Institution for which he was now appealing, that there was not another more deserving their sympathy. It is, he said, supported entirely by voluntary contributions, and since its establishment, two thousand girls had been educated, clothed, and maintained within its walls. Bro. Moxon then gave other particulars, speaking also of recent improvements, and, in conclusion, confidently appealed to those present to support an institution which had effected so much good for the little ones of our deceased and distressed brethren, and reminding them that charity was the brightest jewel in the Masonic Crown, and the great end of Freemasonry. The W.M. next proposed the health of Bro. Past Masters Woods and Cama. Bro. Simmonds in reply, heartily thanked the W.M. for his kind expressions, and spoke of the pleasure it afforded him to see the chair so ably filled. The W.M. then gave the Initiates, Bros. Cheston and Owen, who he hoped were pleased with the ceremony. Bro. Cunliffe Owen was midway in Freemasonry, and the W.M. availed himself of this opportunity to couple with the toast the name of such a distinguished brother for as director of the South Kensington Museum, he had by his energy and ability greatly contributed to the value of the collection. Bro. Owen had also the confidence of British exhibitors, and would no doubt obtain higher and additional honours at the Paris Exhibition next year. The toast having been briefly acknowledged, the W.M. gave the Visitors, and said the theme of this toast afforded him great pleasure and gratification, that he was sure they would all participate in. It was very flattering to have such a goodly array of visiting brethren, and be honoured with the presence of those whom he was proud to acknowledge, and should always be glad to see. Bro. C. Horsley P.P.G.R. Middlesex, eloquently replied. The toast of the Officers followed, to which Bro. Reeve S.W. responded, after which the brethren separated, having spent a very enjoyable evening.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—Held at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday, the 16th inst. Present—Bros. Crouch W.M., R. W. Pearcy S.W., Lane J.W., Fenner S.D., Leo Engell J.D., Towsend I.G. Lodge was opened in due form, and minutes confirmed. Lodge was then opened in 2nd and 3rd degrees, and afterwards resumed to the 1st, and Bro. Odell 1366 was elected a member, after which the Lodge was closed, and the brethren present, numbering about 20, sat down to a very substantial repast, provided by the host, Bro. Bolton. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to. This was the first anniversary supper of the Upton Lodge of Instruction. The W.M. informed the brethren that he hoped it would succeed as other Lodges had done, and make its mark in Freemasonry as an efficient Lodge of Instruction. A very pleasant evening was spent, many of the brethren contributing to the harmony by some very excellent songs.

Great Northern Lodge, No. 1267.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, the 15th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. P. G. Jupe W.M., Christie S.W., West J.W., S. Webb P.M. Treasurer, T. H. Staton P.M. Secretary, E. Lancaster I.P.M., &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. Bros. Dawkins (manager of the Freemasons' Tavern) and Croucher were raised. Bros. Parry, Hawkins, Watkins and Kempton were passed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. H. Kernot, R. H. Mansbridge, and Walter Soden, which proving unanimous in their favour, they were duly initiated. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshments. There were several Visitors present.

Royal Standard Lodge of Instruction, No. 1298.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Friday, the 16th inst., at the Castle Tavern, Holloway-road, N. Present—Bros. Simpson W.M., Eldridge S.W., Hunter J.W., Dickinson Secretary, Passingham S.D., Sparrow J.D., Chant I.G.; also Bros. Cull (Preceptor), Wright, Shackle, Yeomans, Nunn, and several other brethren. The Lodge being opened, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Lodge opened in the 2nd, and Bro. Coughtrey answered the questions and retired. Lodge opened in 3rd, and the ceremony of raising rehearsed, Bro. Yeomans candidate. Lodge closed to 1st degree, and the ceremony of initiation rehearsed, Bro. Hall candidate. Bros. Mash Lodge 73, Coughtrey, Lodge 73, and Ager, Lodge 185, were elected members. Bro. Eldridge chosen W.M. for the ensuing Friday. Resolved unanimously, that the 15 sections be worked in the Lodge on Friday, 27th April, and that Bro. Cull preside on the occasion. The Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

The Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The regular weekly convocation of this Chapter was held on Tuesday, 20th inst., at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill, E.C. After the usual preliminaries, the ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed by the Principals, Comp. Messenger acting as candidate, who was afterwards elected a member. The following were present—Comps. J. K. Stead M.E.Z., Lindus H., A. A. Drew J., Hugh S.N., J. Constable acting S.E., J. J. Berrie P.S., E. Moody, F. Brown, J. Ramsey, A. D. Lowenstark, G. J. Row, G. K. Lemann, &c., &c.

THE DRAMA.

"Cora" at the Globe.

"CORA," the English version of M. Belot's L'Article 47, is an unpleasant play, as any play must be in which all the characters are either criminal, silly, or contemptible. The heroine is shot by her lover, in a fit of jealousy, early in the piece, and but for the admirable acting of Mrs. Hermann Vezin in the part, we could have wished that she had been there and then finally disposed of. Her lover is sent to the galleys for five years, and she opens a gambling house, where, in conjunction with a gentlemanly blackleg, she drives a lucrative trade. Her quondam lover, returned from the galleys, changes his name, and woos a maiden of the silly ingénue order, and is already engaged to marry her, when the discarded Cora appears on the scene, and, under threat of denouncing him to his betrothed as a returned convict, induces him to visit her. Eventually the truth comes to the ears of the young lady, her lover at once breaks from Cora (who thereupon goes mad), and after some little difficulty with the lady's father, the matter is amicably settled, and Cora repents and dies. The play is an unpleasant one, and it is only fairly acted, except, as we before intimated, by Mrs. Hermann Vezin, whose acting throughout is very fine.

Turner's Den.—At No. 47 Queen Anne-street, was living, in the year 1836, J. M. W. Turner, the prince of modern English landscape painters; and here he kept for many years the great part of his stores of pictures, patiently biding his time till they should be worth thousands. He was right in his calculations, as well as in the estimate which he had formed of himself. Indeed, his one hundred and more paintings in the National Gallery, not to mention his drawings on the basement-floor, and at South Kensington, show a versatility and an infinite variety, endless as Nature herself. It has been, perhaps justly, observed that, "after all allowance and deduction, Turner remains the fullest exponent of Nature, the man above all others who was able to reflect the glory and the grandeur, the sunshine and the shade, the gladness and the gloom which in the outward landscape respond to the desires and the wants of the human heart." He was just commencing to climb the hill of fame when he first settled here. As a young man he was slovenly and untidy, and now he gave way to his penchant for dirt and disorder. The house was "subsequently known," writes Dr. W. Russell, "as 'Turner's Den.' And truly it was a den. The windows were never cleaned, and had in them breaches patched with paper; the door was black and blistered; the iron palisades were rusty for lack of paint. If a would-be-visitor knocked or rang, it was long before the summons was replied to by a wizened, meagre old man, who would unfasten the chain sufficiently to see who knocked or rang, and the almost invariable answer was, 'You can't come in.' After the old man's death, an elderly woman, with a diseased face, supplied his place."—From Cassell's Old and New London.

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

JEWISH MASONIC DISABILITIES IN PRUSSIA.

WE rejoice to hear the movement inaugurated by the Montefiore Lodge, to which we allnded in a recent article, is progressing so satisfactorily. No less than a hundred and twenty Lodges have expressed their readiness to support its efforts to obtain from the three Berlin Grand Lodges that recognition, in practice, as well as in theory, of the universality of Freemasonry which at present the latter decline to acknowledge. We trust that other Lodges will follow suit, and that when the time comes for the question to be dealt with by our Masonic authorities in this country, those who take the lead will find they have not only the enthusiastic, but, likewise also, the unanimous support of the English Craft. We are also rejoiced to hear that the movement has the support of the able German Masonic historian, Bro. Findel. This alone is enough to prove that the intellectual section of the Fraternity in Germany is opposed to the narrow-minded exclusiveness of the Berlin Grand Lodges.

It must be apparent to all our readers that no real community of feeling can exist between the Grand Lodge of Freemasons in this country and her sister Grand Lodges in Prussia, when the former accepts in its entirety, and the latter reject, the admissibility of reputable men of all political and religious faiths into the ranks of Freemasonry. It is one of our fundamental laws that no man shall be questioned as to his religious or political views. All that is necessary is that he must be a law-abiding man, and one who believes in the existence of a God and a future state. Jews are admittedly loyal to the Government under which they live, be it republican or monarchical. No kind of government, indeed, has more loyal subjects, while in the matter of religion none are more strictly observant of the principles they profess. They believe in the Creator of the Universe, and are as truly religious, according to the light that is in them, as any other sect. They have suffered in former days for the tenacity of their faith, as Christians have suffered, and as, indeed, men of all creeds have suffered, and will continue to suffer; so long, at least, as there are religious differences, and the charity we all profess is not universally practised. In England the principles of toleration have always been practised among Freemasons, at least since the constitution of our Grand Lodge in 1717, and the establishment of a regular system of Masonic Government. A Jew who is known to be a worthy man is, and always has been, and, we may venture to say, always will be, admissible into the ranks of Freemasonry. It would no more occur to an English brother, who was invited to propose a candidate, to inquire what the latter's religious belief was, than what his political views were. It would be enough for him to know that the man he was asked to propose for election was a religious man, as well as loyal to the Government of his country. Above and beyond this, the intending candidate might hold any views he chose, either in religion or politics. Prussia is a great country. It has given birth to many great men, and it is an enlightened country, yet not so enlightened as we are, who are cut off from the rest of Europe by the "silver streak." Prussians have evidently to understand what toleration really means, that is, the Prussian brotherhood at least; and the sooner they make further acquaintance with its character, the better for their own sakes, as well as for the interests of that Freemasonry which they, as we, profess to love so dearly. We do not care to speak harshly of any brethren. We are too sensible of our own imperfections to advocate a policy of reprisal. Yet see we not how it is possible to fulfil our duty properly and conscientiously, and at the same time pass over unnoticed this most flagrant breach of Masonic law, which our Prussian brethren insist on perpetrating. We feel that when the proper time comes, it will be the duty, albeit a painful one, of the Grand Master to withdraw from all official Masonic intercourse with this or that one of the Prussian Grand Lodges which practically denies the universality of the Craft. We feel that it will be his duty to withdraw our representatives, and to order the withdrawal of theirs, till such time as the true Masonic light shall illumine their minds, and induce them to practise, as well as preach, the true principles of Freemasonry. We shall regret to see any dissension arising between sister Grand Lodges, but it is absurd to expect us to act against our conscience, and accord to our German brethren that recognition which they deliberately withhold from our Jewish brethren.

It is as well, perhaps, we should add a few lines, in order that we may express a hope, that the progress of this movement may not be interrupted by any minor feelings of jealousy, on the ground that one Lodge is taking a more prominent part than its fellows. It matters little what Lodge enjoys the honour of having taken the initiative in raising this question publicly. We have a community of interest as well as of feeling in this matter. We are all equally anxious these Masonic disabilities of the Prussian Jewish Masons should be removed, and if the Prussian Grand Lodges will not do what they are in duty bound to do, there is but one course for our Grand Master to follow. What that course is, we have already indicated with sufficient clearness. Masonry and bigotry are as opposite to each other as the two poles.

THE COMPREHENSIVENESS OF FREEMASONRY.

WE often hear maliciously-disposed people affirm that the equality on which we Freemasons so justly pride ourselves has no existence, except in our own perfervid imagination. We are, it is true, all equally admitted into some of the minor and more harmless mysteries. So far the same degree of knowledge is vouchsafed to all, and so far, of course, we are all equally bound to observe the obligations imposed upon us at our admission into the Society. But there is, say they, a Masonry within Freemasonry, into which only a very select few are admitted. It is these select few, we are told, who are the wire-pullers in every foul conspiracy that is hatched against society and religion. These it is to whose machinations are due the overthrow of kings and emperors; the prevalence of atheism and materialism; the calm indifference with which the behests of that sacrosanct personage the Pope are regarded by all but a few religious quacks; and that eternal perdition hereafter which is reserved for all mankind, or for so much of it as [illegible] refuses to believe that the unholy fanaticism of Christianity is in any way representative of the true principles of religious faith. We have no intention, [illegible] moment the charges raised against [illegible] assailants of the Romish Church [illegible] very elaborate argument to demonstrate their worthlessness. To begin with, there is absolutely not a tittle of evidence either direct or circumstantial that a single one of them is more than the mere assertion of persons interested in or anxious for our destruction. It is not necessary a man should be a Mason to have thus much knowledge. Our aims and purposes, our constitutions and laws, are published to all the world. If there are those among us who do not abide by our laws, who deviate from the path of duty as prescribed by our Constitutions, that in no way destroys the purity of Freemasonry. As well might it be said that because some Christians and some Jews have violated, the former the laws of Christianity, and the latter those of Judaism, that Christianity and Judaism are worthless as religions. These so-called arguments must be applied generally or not at all. If we are to condemn utterly the whole Fraternity of Freemasons for the crimes of a few irreligious or political fanatics who happened to have been members of that body, then must we condemn utterly, the whole system of Christianity for the crimes of a Cæsar Borgia, of Alexander VI., the Inquisition, and other Christian persons and societies too numerous to mention. The truth is, we are becoming so influential a body in every country illumined by the sun of reason as well as by that glorious orb of day, which is the emblem, as it is the centre, of all life, both human and divine, that certain perverse-minded priests of the Church of Rome are becoming alarmed for the loss of their own power. None know better than they do that the pretentious system of which they are the professors will be shattered, in fact, is being shattered to pieces, the moment that freedom of consience is accepted of all peoples. It is only by the most unholy terrorism this priesthood has been able to influence the minds of men; but as the light of reason becomes brighter and still more bright, the system which formerly was so much feared will be laughed to scorn, and the whole fabric of this Pseudo-Christianity will come tumbling to the ground. It is then, for the reason that we are daily increasing in numbers and in influence, that we are almost daily erecting new temples in countries where none previously existed; it is because all men acknowledge that our system is admirable, while even those who are careless in the matter are fain to admit that, in its general character as understood by most people, Freemasonry is perfectly innocuous as regards either religion or morals, that the bigoted section of Roman Catholicism assails us so bitterly. As we advance, so must they inevitably retire. The day of our triumph will be the day of their destruction. We can understand fully the savage determination with which they seek to avoid their doom. We are ready to concede it is human-natural they should struggle fiercely to this end. Yet none the less will they fail in their efforts, and when we triumph, then whatever form or forms of religious worship may prevail throughout the world, they will have at least one element in common which in some is wanting now. They will all be animated by the spirit of love—the love of God and of one's neighbour. This will, at all events, be something for which the world will be indebted to Freemasonry.

We commenced these remarks with a reference to the charge so frequently laid against us, that we are a society, into the innermost circle of which only a few choice spirits are admitted. The princes and nobles who are received into Freemasonry are said to be admitted only to a limited knowledge of our system. What is vouchsafed to them is perfectly harmless. They live, therefore, in the belief that the Fraternity of which they are proud to be members is likewise harmless. Moreover, these princes and nobles are inveigled into our ranks for the express purpose of giving an appearance of respectability to a Society whose real aim is the destruction of religion and morality. Nothing more clearly exhibits the woful ignorance of our enemies than these assertions. There is no inner circle in Freemasonry. Craft Masonry is the basis of the superstructure, and most intimately associated with this is what is known as Royal Arch Masonry. In addition, are Templarism and a large number of high and side degrees, all more or less respectable. But these are not recognised in this country as part and parcel of Freemasonry. On the other hand, most of our distinguished Craft Masons are members of these grades. Every one, indeed, who is so minded and is thought worthy may receive them. It is clear, then, that so far from the greater number of our mysteries being restricted only to a few, they are open to as many as desire initiation, there being only one degree to which a numerical limit is imposed. But this is of far less importance than the comprehensiveness which is the most striking characteristic of Freemasonry pure and simple. Within its fold are admissible men of all gradations of rank in society, the one condition being that they must be free men, of reputable character. But as one tittle of evidence is worth more than a whole bundle of statements, how authentic soever these may be, we will just mention the names and status of the candidates for admission to the various grades who presented themselves on the 13th instant in one of our Craft Lodges, to wit, the Wanderer's Lodge No. 1604, which meets at Freemasons' Hall. On this occasion there were elected as joining members of this Lodge the following, namely, Bros. Will. Francis Mimms, Visitor L.S.B., late Troop Serjeant Major 8th (King's Royal Irish) Hussars, Richard Philips, Pioneer Serjeant Scots Fusilier Guards, and Capt. the Hon. Richard S. G. Stapleton Cotton, a near relative of Viscount Combermere. The following were passed to the second degree, namely, Bros. Capt. Ralph Vivian, Capt. W. S. Montgomery, Captain Lord Francis C. Gordon Lennox, a son of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, Lord President of the Council, and Capt. Fred. Lorn Campbell. The following were initiated, namely, Messrs. Richard Bryant, late Regimental Clerk Coldstream Guards, John Holloway, Quartermaster Sergeant in the same regiment, and George Hendry, late Regimental Clerk, and Henry R. Filcher, late Quartermaster Sergeant, both of the Grenadier Guards. Who will deny that Freemasonry comprehends men of every rank in society, when we find members of the nobility, gentry, and commonalty elected members of one and the same Lodge on one and the same occasion? The select body of conspirators against religion and morality must be very dull fellows indeed if they accord to men of high as well as men of modest birth exactly the same privileges and knowledge of our Masonic rites.

MASONS OF MANY DEGREES.

(From the Voice of Masonry.)

NOT unfrequently we hear it stated by members of the Masonic Institution, and, occasionally, see the same idea put forth in our Masonic journals, that Masons, who are recipients of what are called the higher degrees of the Order, become careless of their obligations to the Lodge; neglect to attend its communications; deprive it of their aid and council, and neglect its interests and disregard its prosperity. This charge—for it amounts to a charge—is grave, and, if sustained, ought to call upon those who are amenable to it, the severest reprehension. If not true, it should cease to be made. It is, probably, one of the multitude of questions upon both sides of which something may be said and a fair argument exhibited, and yet we cannot concede the general truth of the allegation. Were we to make up our opinion on the subject from our own personal experience in the matter, we should at once conclude that the charge is mostly without foundation. Where we have been connected with the Lodge, it has almost invariably been the case that that body has principally been governed, supported and sustained by officers and members who were in possession of the secrets of the Chapter, Council and Commandery. In one instance that is recollected there were but two Knights Templars belonging to the Lodge; they were decidedly the most prompt in attendance on the meetings of that body of any of the members. If they were not present it was known that there was a good and sufficient reason for their absence. But this was not all. They willingly filled the offices to which they were called, either permanently or temporarily, and were ready to assist wherever they could be of service, for, in fact, they were the pillars and supports of the Lodge; and no one there thought that they were derelict in their duties towards the "foundation of all true Masonry,"—the first three degrees.

In another case that fell under our observation, there were several Lodges in the place, while the Chapter, Council, Commandery, and the various degrees of the Scottish Rite were represented by a single organization for each. It was not discovered that those who were members of these so-called higher bodies were lukewarm or careless of the progress and prosperity of the Lodges. On the contrary, one of the Knights Templars served year after year as a Lodge officer; and another, a past officer in the Consistory, discharged the duties of Warden and Master for a series of consecutive terms; and two others, equally far advanced in the condemned bodies, officiated in the office of Secretary—an office that would certainly not be sought for the honour it would confer. This was in one Lodge. In another, a Past Commander of the Commandery held the office of Master, and when he succeeded in convincing the brethren that it would be better to have a new presiding officer, they rewarded him by electing him Secretary—a place which he filled for a number of years—and this was about the way the Lodges were officered.

As regards the members not in the chairs, the facts were about coincident with these. It was not often that a special communication of any of the other organizations, if it became necessary after the Lodge was closed, could not be held without going out of the hall for a quorum; and in not very isolated cases a majority of the Lodge members present were, also, members of the so-called higher degrees. These are facts that have come under our own observation, and it is not to be supposed, and will not be contended for a moment, that these are exceptional cases. "All the rest are like these."

The charge we are considering is usually predicated upon the supposition that those who take the higher degrees are so much better pleased with them than they are with the Lodge that they lose all interest in the latter, and are entirely absorbed in the greater beauties of the ceremonies and rites of the former. It is believed that this supposition is founded on a misconception of facts. We must admit, to the discredit of Masonry, but more to the discredit of the humanity of which Masons are made, that many become Masons through motives of mere curiosity. They go through the first three degrees, but they are not satisfied because there are other mysteries which have not been unveiled in their presence, and their curiosity still leads them on and on until they have passed through them all, when they sit down and cry, Alexander-like, because somebody will not give them the eighty-four degrees of the Egyptian Rite in addition to the thirty odd of the American and Scottish Rites. Having satiated their curiosity so far as possible by the reception of the degrees within their reach, they lose interest in them all, and attend on the administration of none of them. They have got what they wanted—have satisfied their foolish curiosity—and why should they pay any further attention to the matter? As a rule, this class attend neither the Lodge nor the consistory, and, if the facts were submitted to a scrutiny, we believe it would clearly appear that the great majority of those who are now set down by Lodge members as absenting themselves from Lodge because they like the higher degrees better, are as often absent from the one as the other, and that the reason of their absence is not that they care more for the one than the other, but rather that they care for neither. On inquiry made, we should find them absent from one place as well as the other, and attending neither, unless on particular occasions, and at long intervals.

Were an extended view of the facts touching the subject taken, it would probably appear that the best workers in the Lodge are, generally, the best workers in the higher bodies; and we assume it would be found to be equally true that members of the higher bodies do their full share in keeping up the interests of the Lodge, in proportion to their numbers. We have not yet found the first individual member, who is a thoroughly active and efficient worker in the newer degrees, who does not reverence the ancient landmarks, and hold it to be his duty to preserve them in their vigour and full strength, as well as inviolate. The three degrees are the base and the ground-work of all true Masonry, and are conceded that position by every widely prevailing Rite or system in the world.

We are unwilling, hence, to believe that there is any considerable number who prefer to labour for the up-building of the superstructure without a proper regard for the soundness and perfection of the foundation. The man who builded his house on the sand instead of a rock is designated as a fool, and the saying has long since passed into a proverb. How much wiser is that Mason who, having a sure foundation prepared for him on which to build his moral and Masonic edifice, builds on a new or untried foundation, or on none at all, and finds his structure, like the tenement house of Chicago, based on nothing but mud? But we trust there are few of this class of builders in Speculative Masonry. All have been taught better how to erect their moral and Masonic edifice. Let every one build as well as he has been taught, and his work will be strong and permanent.

But the charge we have so briefly examined may teach those of the so-called high degrees a salutary lesson, if heeded and practised. They cannot be ignorant of the truth that there are large numbers of those who have taken the Lodge degrees only, who really believe those who have been inducted into the others are remiss in Lodge duties, and look upon that body as secondary in importance. It is for those of the higher degrees, so-called, to dispel this illusion. It is in their power to do it. They are the only power which can do it. Let them, in pursuance of this fraternal work, see that a full share of time, work and influence is given to the Lodge. If need be, to correct this wrong impression, let them give more attention, proportionally, to the first three than to the last thirty-three degrees, that no brother may be able, truthfully, to say that they build on any other foundation than that which has been laid.

These last remarks are addressed only to true Masons, who love the Fraternity, and who are willing to labour for its welfare, and suffer that it may prosper. Those who have passed through the various degrees to gratify an idle curiosity, and who attend the Convocations and Conclaves only on public occasions, and think all the good of the higher degrees is covered by a baldric, a sword, and an ostrich feather, will never heed our advice or profit by our exhibition of the facts. But let all true and genuine brethren of the Fraternity remember that in well-regulated communities some must obey if others rule, and that there need be no contention among them except that noble contention, or rather emulation, of who best can work and agree.

DEDICATION OF THE NEW MASONIC TEMPLE, KEOKUK, IOWA.

WE gather the following particulars from the Weekly Constitution:—

It has been scarcely a year since a violent wind cloud burst over our city, and destroyed the hall occupied by the Masonic fraternity. They had been at great expense the fall preceding in entertaining and banqueting the grand bodies of the State which assembled here, and the loss entailed upon them by the destruction of their hall and paraphernalia was heavy. But they were not discouraged. Temporary quarters were secured, and a committee, consisting of members from each of the Lodges, was appointed to see about building a new temple. Thursday, the Masonic fraternity of Keokuk dedicated one of the best arranged, most convenient, finest finished and furnished halls in the west.

At half-past 2 o'clock on Thursday, 1st March, the Grand Lodge met at 7th and Main streets. It was soon joined by Eagle and Hardin Lodges, when a procession was formed in the following order:—Eagle and Hardin Lodges under charge of their officers. The Grand Lodge of Iowa, under the charge of Grand Master H. W. Rothert. The bodies then moved off and marched out Blondeau to Tenth, from Tenth to Main, down Main to Third, from Third to Johnson-street, out Johnson-street to Fourth-street to the Hall.

On the arrival of the bodies at the Hall, the Grand Lodge was greeted with public grand honours. Music by the band followed, after which the dedication exercises began. Grand Master Rothert, after addressing the Craft, briefly recited, in an impressive manner, the dedicatory ode.

After this the hall was inspected by the Grand Lodge, the members marching through all of the rooms and corridors in the building. The consecration prayer by the Grand Chaplain, Rev. R. C. McIlwain followed, then came the address to the Grand Master, by the Grand Architect, R. F. Bower, who presented Grand Master Rothert with the Square, Level and Plummet, remarking that, "having, according to the best of my ability, accomplished the task assigned me, I now return my thanks for the honour of this appointment, and beg leave to surrender up the implements which were committed to my care when the foundations of this fabric were laid—humbly hoping that the exertions which have been made on this occasion will be crowned with your approbation and that of the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge. The Grand Master replied in the usual form, after which he was addressed by Deputy Grand Master Cross who expressed the desire of the Craft to have the hall dedicated.

The Grand Lodge then formed a procession around the hall, during which the Craft sang the dedication ode. The Junior Grand Warden, S. L. Bayliss, then presented the Grand Master with a vessel of corn, which he spread on the Lodge, saying: "In the name of the Great Jehovah, to whom be all honour and glory, I most solemnly dedicate this hall to Freemasonry."

A second procession was then formed, and marched around the hall, after which the Senior Grand Warden, John R. Carpenter, presented the Grand Master with a vessel of wine, which he sprinkled over the floor, accompanying the action with these words: "In the name of the most holy St. John, I do most solemnly dedicate this hall to virtue." A third procession followed this act, the Craft singing an ode as the procession marched around. The Deputy Grand Master then presented the Grand Master with a vessel of oil, which was sprinkled over the Lodge, the G.M. repeating: "In the name of the whole fraternity, I do most solemnly dedicate this hall to universal benevolence." The public Grand honours were then thrice repeated, when the G.M. retired to his station. After the Invocation by the Grand Chaplain, Dr. Shaffer delivered a very eloquent oration, which brought the proceedings to a close.

We hope in a future number to publish Dr. Schaffer's oration which we are sure will be read with great interest.

GLASGOW.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE VISITATIONS.

Bro. Col. Walter Montgomerie Nelson, P.G.M. of Glasgow, commenced his visitation for the present year, by a visit to the Union and Crown, No. 103, on Monday, 26th March, and highly complimented the Lodge on the very efficient state of the books, and also of the finances. He, with several P.G.Os., went to the St. Clair. That Lodge in the absence, through illness, of the Master, had been opened by Bro. Hogg I.P.M., assisted by the whole of the remaining office bearers. The report showed that since last visitation there had been 22 initiations, and the funds had been increased by above £30. The P.G.M. congratulated them on their financial as well as their moral prosperity. It was very desirable they should look strictly into the morals of those they were about to admit into the Order.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS, &c.

ATHOLL, GRAND MASTER.

[LAURENCE DERMOTT, D.G.M.
THOMAS CARTER, S.G.W. ROBERT DAVY, J.G.W.

To all whom it may concern.

WE, the Grand Lodge of the most Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, according to the Old Constitutions granted by His Royal Highness Prince EDWIN, at York, Anno Domini Nine hundred twenty and six, and in the Year of Masonry Four thousand Nine hundred twenty and six, in ample form assembled, viz., The Right Worshipful and Most Noble Prince John, Duke, Marquis and Earl of Atholl, Marquis of Tullibardine, Earl of Strathtay and Strathardle, Viscount of Balquidder, Glenalmond and Glenlyon, Lord Murray, Belveney and Gask, Heritable Captain and Constable of the Castle of Kincleaven, and Hereditary Keeper of the Palace of Falkland, and that part of Great Britain called England and Masonical Jurisdiction thereunto belonging . . . . GRAND MASTER OF MASONS, The Right Worshipful Laurence Dermott, Esquire, Deputy Grand Master, The Right Worshipful Thomas Carter, Esq., Senior Grand Warden, and the Right Worshipful Robert Davy, Esq., Junior Grand Warden (with the Approbation and Consent of the Warranted Lodges held within the Cities and Suburbs of London and Westminster), Do hereby authorise and empower our trusty and well beloved brethren, No. 204 viz., The Worshipful Thomas Beeley one of our Master Masons, The Worshipful George Boyle his Senior Warden, and the Worshipful Thomas Tyrer his Junior Warden, to Form and Hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons aforesaid, at the sign of the Cock, or elsewhere, in the town of Stratford, in the County of Lancaster, upon the First and Third Friday in every Calender Month, ... and on all seasonable Times and lawful Occasions. And in the said Lodge (when duly congregated) to admit and make Free Masons according to the most Ancient and Honourable Custom of the Royal Craft in all Ages and Nations throughout the known world. And we do hereby farther authorise and empower our said Trusty and Well beloved Brethren Thomas Beeley, George Royle, and Thomas Tyrer, with the Consent of the Members of their Lodge, to nominate, chuse, and install their Successors, to whom they shall deliver this Warrant, and invest them with their Powers and Dignities as Free Masons, &c. And such Successors shall in like manner nominate, chuse, and install their Successors, &c., &c., &c. Such installations to be upon (or near) every ST. JOHN'S DAY, during the continuance of this Lodge for ever. Providing the above named Brethren and all their Successors always pay due Respect to this Right Worshipful Grand Lodge, otherwise this Warrant to be of no Force nor Virtue.

Given under our Hands and the Seal of our Grand Lodge in London, this Twenty-seventh day of July, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred Seventy and Seven, and in the Year of Masonry Five Thousand Seven Hundred Seventy and Seven.

JAS. JONES,
Grand Secretary.

COUNTY OF LANCASTER.

WESTERN DIVISION.

WHEREAS, by patent bearing date the 14th day of September 1826, His late Royal Highness Prince Augustus Frederick of Brunswick, Lunenburg, Duke of Sussex, Earl of Inverness, Baron of Arklow, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, &c., &c., &c., Grand Master of the most Ancient and Honorable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of England, constituted and appointed Le Gendre Nicholas Starkie, Esq., M.P., &c., &c., &c., of Huntroyde, in the said County, and whereas the said Le Gendre Nicholas Starkie hath duly appointed me to be his Deputy Provincial Grand Master, in and for the said County, Now I Gilmour Robinson Clerk, by virtue of the Great Power, Trust and Confidence reposed in me, do hereby make known my Will and Consent, and I do hereby authorize and impower you, Brother Gem, the W.M. of Lodge No. 181, to remove the Warrant of Constitution, together with all the Furniture, Clothing, Jewels and property belonging to your Lodge, from Preston to the Royal Hotel, Dale Street, Liverpool, in the said Division, for doing thereof this shall be your authority.

Given under my Hand and Seal of the Provincial Grand Lodge at Liverpool aforesaid, this 7th day of May, in the year of Masonry 5852, and of our Lord 1852.

So mote it be.

Recorded in the Minutes of the Provincial G. Lodge.

JOSHUA WALMSLEY, Prov. G. Secretary.
GILMOUR ROBINSON, D.P.G. Master.

The present title, No., &c. are, The "Lodge of Perseverance," No. 155, Liverpool.

We are indebted to W. Bro. John R. Goepel P.M. 155, 823, P.P.G.D.C., for the following interesting description of the above Warrant:—

DESCRIPTION AND REMARKS OF THE WARRANT OF THE LODGE OF PERSEVERANCE, NUMBER 155.

The body of this Warrant is printed from a plate, the requisite portion being filled in with writing; its length is 23 inches by 17 inches broad, and was granted by the Fourth Duke of Atholl, and is dated the 27th July 1777. It has a blue Government stamp value 1s 6d. On the bottom margin of the Warrant is a blue ribbon 2½ inches wide, laced through, forming three blue bars rather less than ¼ an inch deep; there are also 2 cuts where a ribbon has been laced through about 1½ inches broad. On the top margin of the Warrant there is a ribbon laced through showing 3 bars of about ¼ of an inch deep, and ¼ inch broad, equally divided yellow and blue. On the back of the Warrant at the top right hand corner is the written authority of the Deputy Grand Master of England, Thomas Harper Esquire, empowering the removal of the Lodge from Stratford to Preston. On the top left hand corner, also on the back of the Warrant, is a printed dispensation, and filled in with writing, granted by Gilmour Robinson Esq., Deputy Provincial Grand Master of the Western Division of Lancashire, to empower the removal of the Lodge from Preston to Liverpool. This Warrant is one of the class known as the Ancients, and like all of this class, is printed from a plate, space being left for inserting, in writing, the names and dignities of the Grand Master, and of all Grand Lodge Officers on their being elected or appointed, and also to whom the Warrant is granted and where to be held. This Warrant purports to be held at the sign of the Cock at Stratford in Lancashire; this is evidently a mistake, as it should be Stretford, and not Stratford, as there is no such place as Stratford in Lancashire; but the Cock Inn at Stretford is still in existence, and from it omnibuses start to Manchester, being four miles distant. The word Viscount is spelt without the letter S as Vicount. The dark blue paper Government stamp is 2 inches long and 1½ broad, in the centre is a rose surrounded with the garter, and surmounted by a crown; across the bottom is the word one shilling; up each side and across the top is the word VI. pence, the stamp is affixed in the margin of the Warrant, and there is also a strip of thin silver, looping it to the parchment, which is bent flat at the back and covered by a white piece of paper, on which is printed the letters G.R., surrounded by a crown, and underneath the letters G.R. interlaced, the whole being pressed together, the blue stamp being ornamented with a spray. This is the only Warrant I know of that has a Government stamp affixed to it. There is no seal of the Grand Master attached to this Warrant, as is usual in those of later dates. The Grand Lodge seal is broken away, the Warrant in its earlier days being folded into one-eighth its size. The original number of the Warrant is 204, at the Union 1814 it became 255, in 1832 it was 181, and in 1863 it was as it is at present No. 155. Taking all things into consideration, the Warrant is in a good state of preservation, the written part being partially faded.

There is no record of the volume or letter under which this Warrant is registered. The James Jones who was Grand Secretary at the time this Warrant was granted appears to have held that office for two years, viz., 1776-8.

The Consecration of the Phœnix Chapter, No. 173, will take place on Saturday, 7th April. Comp. J. D. Massey is the M.E.Z. designate, George Wilson H., and G. R. Green J. The ceremony of Consecration will be performed by Comp. Jas. Terry, P.Z. Nos. 174 and 975.

On Thursday, 22nd inst., a party of gentlemen met at the Holborn Restaurant, for the purpose of presenting the courteous and excellent manager, Bro. I.J. Hamp with a testimonial, consisting of a silver tea and coffee service of the value of 50 guineas. The inscription showed that it was presented by the subscribers as a token of their appreciation of his uniform courtesy as manager of the establishment. The chair was occupied by W. E. Brougham Esq., supported by N. G. Pennyton F. Adlard, F. B. Davage, &c.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Throat Affections.—All the varieties of these distressing complaints may be readily and effectively treated by rubbing this Ointment twice a day upon the neck and chest, and supporting the strength by suitable nourishment. By this simple means diphtheria, ulcerated and relaxed throat, irritation of the windpipe, quinsey, and all glandular enlargements will have their progress arrested and the destruction they have caused repaired. Holloway's Ointment is the most trustworthy remedy for all internal and external throat ailments, and may be safely and effectively employed in every case, without regard to season, sex, age, or constitution. It is highly extolled for its ready cures of spasmodic coughs, chronic hoarseness, and disagreeable discharges from the throat and nose.

PROVINCIAL GRAND MARK LODGE OF MIDDLESEX AND SURREY.

AN important gathering of the Mark Masons of this Province was held at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street, on Wednesday, the 21st inst., and the attendance and proceedings were of the most gratifying nature. Prior to the meeting of the Prov. G.L. the Grosvenor Mark Lodge 144 was opened by the W.M. Bro. W. G. Brighten, the G. Sec. of the Province, and as soon as the ordinary business of the Lodge was disposed of, four brethren were in regular order duly advanced, viz., Bros. Chas. Coupland 106, F. W. Goddard 19, A. D. Everingham 569, and J. H. Evans 1017.

Bro. F. H. Cozens officiated as Organist, and with Bros. Theodore Distin and H. D. Martin conducted the musical and choral part of the ceremony, which was thereby rendered the more impressive. By the time the advancements were completed, the Lodge-room was full in every part, on account of the Prov. G. Officers and many visitors arriving to witness the working of the Grosvenor Mark Lodge. The W.M. then called upon the brethren to salute the Prov. G.M. Col. F. Burdett, who replied in most suitable terms.

The ceremony of installation was then proceeded with, and Bro. W. Wigginton presented Bro. G. A. Rooks the W.M. elect to Bro. Brighten to receive, at his hand, the benefit of installation; the usual questions were put and answered satisfactorily by Bro. Rooks. Bro. Brighten then formed and declared a duly constituted Board of Installed Masters; (probably one of the largest in the Mark Degree). After the installation of Bro. Rooks in due form, the brethren were re-admitted, and listened to the various addresses delivered by the Prov. G. Sec. in an able manner. The new W.M. Bro. Rooks then presented the retiring Master with an elegant and valuable P.M.'s jewel, voted to him by the brethren of the Grosvenor Mark Lodge, and that Lodge was closed soon after six. A procession of the officers of Prov. G. Lodge was then formed, and they were received by the brethren present in Masonic form. The Prov. G. officers present were, the R.W. Prov. Grand Master, Bro. Col. Burdett, the V.W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Bro. F. Davison, Col. Stallard G.S.W., J. Baxter Langley, LL.D., G.J.W., Rev. D. Shaboe P.G. Chaplain, E. S. Baikie G.M.O., Wm. Wigginton G.S.O., Chas. Pulman G.J.O., C. Hammerton G. Treasurer, J. M. Klenck G. Reg., W. G. Brighten G. Secretary, G. A. Rooks S.D., J. T. Ritchie J.D., E. B. Bright Superintendent of Works, J. B. Shackleton D.C., J. K. Pitt Asst. D.C., H. Court Sword Bearer, W. Taylor Standard Bearer. F. H. Cozens Grand Organist, and C. H. Rogers Harrison and R. P. Spice Stewards, and among the numerous brethren present were, R. G. Glover P.G.S.W., Thos. Parker P.S.D., R. J. Moore P.M.O., H. C. Levander G.R., Geo. Yaxley 198, A. Wolton 104, John Close, E. Hopwood 181, A. W. Hall Chaplain 7, H. A. Pocock 198, E. Passover 5, A. W. Hume 5, H. R. Cooper Smith 7, Theo. Distin 104, H. D'Almanie 1, Geo. Huddock, Major Harding 7, Bernard Meyer 176, Chas. Legg 198, W. J. Nicholls 198, Saml. Griffiths, R. W. Brown 198, Dr. Ramsey, Louis Bock, E. H. Thiellay 1, and several other brethren of the Grosvenor Lodge.

The Provincial Grand Lodge having been opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous meeting, held at Richmond in July last, confirmed, the Roll of Lodges was called over by the Prov. G. Sec., whose report thereon was received with much satisfaction, the great increase in the number of members during the past year being observable, and a new Lodge, the Croydon, having been consecrated.

The Provincial Grand Master then said that the special business of this meeting was the nomination of a Prov. G.M. for the ensuing three years. He had been already re-elected for a second period of three years, which latter term had passed by so pleasantly and quickly that it seemed scarcely a year since that election; as he thought it his duty to leave the brethren free and unfettered in the full discussion of the matter, he would leave the Lodge while that business was being settled. The Rev. Bro. Shaboe at once stated that such a course was not required or wished for by the brethren present (universal applause), and in a few words proposed the re-election of Bro. Col. F. Burdett.

Bro. Col. Wigginton seconded the nomination. The motion being put by Bro. Col. Stallard, it was carried unanimously and with acclamation. Col. Burdett then thanked the brethren and congratulated them upon the great and increasing prosperity of the Order in general and of their Province in particular.

The list of Prov. G. Stewards not having been filled up last July, owing to the apathy of some of the Lodges who had failed to recommend any brother for such honours, the Prov. G. Secretary stated how those vacancies arose, and read over certain recommendations now to hand, when the Prov. G.M. appointed Bro. Sanderson, the W.M. of the Mallet and Chisel Lodge, Bros. Legg and Pocock, of the Croydon Lodge, and a brother to be named by the Macdonald Lodge as Prov. G. Stewards.

The Prov. G.M. then adverted to the great family bereavement lately sustained by the head of the Order, the Grand Mark Master of England and Wales, &c., &c., the Earl of Limerick, and proposed that a letter of condolence on the death of Lady Limerick be written by the Prov. G. Sec., and sent from the Province to the Grand Master. The motion having been seconded by Bro. Dr. Ramsey, it was duly put from the chair and carried unanimously.

No further business being before the Lodge, the same was closed, and the brethren adjourned to an elegant banquet, at which the R.W. Prov. G.M. presided, assisted by the Prov. G. Wardens. On the right was the V.W. the Dep. Prov. G.M., and on his left Bro. W. G. Brighten, acting for the W.M. of the Grosvenor Lodge, the banquet for which was provided at the same table. Accordingly, Bro. Brighten was assisted by the Wardens of the Grosvenor Lodge in such duties as were required of him and that Lodge. The toast of the Queen, the Prince of Wales, Prince Leopold, and the members of the Royal Family, were duly honoured, as was also that of the Grand Master—the Earl of Limerick. Each of the above toasts, as well as the subsequent ones, was followed according to programme by suitable music, wherein the services of Bro. F. H. Cozens, the Prov. G. Org., and Bros. Theo. Distin and H. D. Martin were rendered in a most agreeable and pleasant manner. Bro. Levander responded for the Grand Mark Officers. The toast of Col. Burdett as proposed by the Dep. G.M. was received with much enthusiasm. The G.M. replied in terms of unmixed satisfaction; not only with the progress of the Province and Mark Masonry, but with the gathering round that table. He expressed his pleasure at being again nominated, although he felt they might have nominated a better. (No, no.) He would not conceal the fact that he was pleased to be further associated with the Province as Presiding Master now they had reached their present height of prosperity, which promised yet to increase. Bro. Brighten then proposed the health of the D.G.M. F. Davison, and the rest of the Prov. G. Officers, and bore testimony to the manner in which they performed their duties, and all took their part in the work; to Bro. Davison and the officers was due much of the success they were met to celebrate. Bro. Davison, at the close of his reply, said he should turn the tables upon Bro. Brighten, for he was sure that all the brethren would agree with him (Bro. Davison) that Bro. Brighten had been proposing his own health in reality; for the Province now owed much to him. The brethren had that evening been able to see him work, as Master of a Lodge, the ceremony of advancement, and also that of installation. The gathering this evening bore testimony to his ability as Provincial Grand Mark Secretary.

After Bro. Brighten's reply, in which he referred with regret to Bro. Rooks having been compelled to leave, he proposed the Past Masters of the Grosvenor Lodge, viz.: Bro. C. Hammerton, the first Master of that Lodge, the first Grand Secretary of the Province, and the present Grand Treasurer, and Bro. Barker, Past Grand Deacon. Those brethren having replied, the next toast was that of the newly-advanced brethren, to each of whom Bro. Brighten briefly referred. Bro. Goddard returned thanks in an able and entertaining manner. The toast of the Visitors, Bros. Dr. Ramsey and Major Harding, was replied to by the former, and soon after concluded an evening which was frequently spoken of as one of the most pleasant and successful ever remembered.

INAUGURATION OF THE CORINTHIAN LODGE, NEW ZEALAND.

THE inauguration of the new Lodge, formed at the Thames, under the English Constitution of Freemasonry, which has been named the Corinthian Lodge, took place on Thursday, 16th November, and was conducted with all the display of Masonic solemnities peculiar to such occasions. That great interest was felt in the inauguration of this Lodge was manifested by the large attendance, not only of the older Lodges—the Lodge of Light I.C., and the Lodge Sir Walter Scott S.C.—at the Thames, but by the large number of visitors who attended from Auckland and Ohinemuir. The Corinthian Lodge being the first under the English Constitution started at the Thames, and the first in the North Island province since the appointment of Bro. Sir Donald McLean as P.G.M. under this Constitution, a greater amount of interest was manifested than is customary. It had been intended that the P.G.M. himself should have inaugurated the Lodge and installed its W.M., but Sir Donald McLean finding himself unable to attend, appointed Bro. M. S. Loers, P.M. of the Prince of Wales Lodge E.C., Auckland, acting D.P.G.M. for the occasion. He was accompanied from Auckland by that veteran Mason, Bro. T. Jenkins, who officiated as Master of Ceremonies and Grand Marshal. Amongst the other visitors from Auckland were Bros. C. M. Nelson Chaplain Prince of Wales Lodge E.C., Reece P.M. Ara Lodge I.C. and Prince of Wales Lodge E.C. Visitors from Mackaytown and the Ohinemuir district also attended, and amongst these were Bros. A. J. Allom, D. H. Bayldon, and J. Hayman of the Ara Lodge, W. Climo of Lodge of Light I.C., Keddell P.M., &c. Sir Walter Scott Lodge was first to assemble, before 11 o'clock, at the Freemasons' Hall. The Lodge was opened in form by Rev. James Hill, who was supported by all his Lodge officers, and Past Masters Brodie and Black, and 40 brethren, who were joined by about 10 others shortly after. The Lodge of Light I.C., met at the Masonic Hall, Queen-street, about half-past 11 o'clock, when the Lodge was opened in form by Bro. J. L. Bagnell W.M. with his officers and about 25 members. The Lodge was at once called off, and at noon exactly the members of the two sister Lodges joined their brethren of the new Lodge in the Masonic Hall. Bro. Loers as D.P.G.M. presided, and the following officers of the Grand Lodge officiated:—Bro. Jenkins Director of Ceremonies, C. M. Nelson G. Chaplain, G. S. Graham G.S.W., W. R. Robinson G.J.W., W. Davies G.S.D., J. Reece G.J.D., A. Brodie G.I.G. The whole of the officers were Past Masters. The Grand Officers having been received with the customary rite, the Grand Lodge was opened by the D.P.G.M.

The Secretary of the new Lodge, Bro. Woodward, intimated to the D.P.G.M. that on behalf of the new Lodge he desired that they might be inaugurated as the Corinthian Lodge, under the English Constitution. He had, as required, a copy of the petition, with the names of the new members appended; also the warrant, under the hands of the P.G.M., Sir Donald McLean, and the minutes of the last meeting of the proposed members of the Lodge. He read the documents and minutes, and the latter, after being put to the brethren of the new Lodge, were signed as correct by the D.P.G.M., who then read his own warrant, under the hands of Sir Donald McLean P.G.M., to officiate. The brethren then intimated their satisfaction with the officers named in the dispensation. The Grand Lodge being then fully constituted, was saluted by the brethren with grand honours, and the choir sung an anthem, Bro. Bell presiding at the harmonium. Bro. Rev. C. M. Nelson then read the first seven verses of the 95th Psalm, and pronounced an invocation to the Great Architect of the Universe to bless the object of the present assembly. The Grand Officers and Past Masters then marched round the hall (the choir in the meantime singing suitable selections) and poured out the customary oblations of corn, wine, and oil, and the Chaplain, having invoked the Divine blessing on the officers and members of the new Lodge, and on the brethren scattered throughout the world, and the usual responses and honours being given, the Grand Director of Ceremonies, Bro. Jenkins, made the following declaration:—"Brethren, I am directed by the Most Worshipful the Acting Deputy Provincial Grand Master to make proclamation that by virtue of the power and authority of Grand Lodge, these brethren are now constituted a regular Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, by the title and designation of the Corinthian Lodge. And from henceforth they are fully entitled to exercise all their rights and privileges agreeably to the tenour of their charter, the laws of the Grand Lodge, and the ancient usages of the Fraternity, and may God be with them. So mote it be." Bro. Rev. C. M. Nelson G. Chaplain then read a selection from the 8th chapter of the First Book of Kings, after which the R.W.M. of Sir Walter Scott Lodge, the Rev. J. Hill, delivered an address to the brethren assembled. After suitable anthems had been sung by the choir, this portion of the ceremony was brought to a termination. Bro. Leers officiated as Installing Master. Bro. Wildman, the W.M. elect of the Corinthian Lodge, was presented by Bro. Bagnall W.M. Lodge of Light I.C. and Bro. the Rev. J. Hill R.W.M. Lodge Sir Walter Scott S.C. in the customary form. Bro. Wildman having given his adhesion to the charges and regulations, which were read to him by the Secretary, was received by the Installing Master, and having taken the obligation of Worshipful Master, he was duly installed with the insignia and implements of his office. The following officers were then invested by the Worshipful Master:—Bro. L. Ehrenfried S.W., H. Goldsmith J.W., Rev. V. Lush Chap., F. R. G. Woodward Sec., J. Osborne Treas., T. Bell Organist, G. Best S.D., D. Boone J.D., Hopkins I.G., O. Garrett Tyler. The new Master then thanked the Installing Officer and the officers of Grand Lodge, and also the brethren of the Lodge who had elected him to his present position.

Royal Veterans Encampment, Plymouth.—The annual Convocation was held at the Huyshe Masonic Temple, on Thursday, 22nd March. Comp. John P. Sawyer having been duly incepted, was then installed a Knight of the Order. The installation of the Eminent Commander followed, both ceremonies being performed very efficiently by the retiring E.C. Sir Knight Godtschalk. The newly installed E.C. Sir Knight J. B. Gover appointed and invested the following officers:—Sir Knights S. Jew 1st Captain, W. Browning 2nd Captain, L. D. Westcott Prelate, J. Austin Treasurer, V. Bird Registrar, J. H. Keats Ext., T. Heath C. of L., Templer Almoner, Charles Godtschalk I.P.C. A Priory of Malta was then opened, and Sir Knight J. B. Gover was installed Prior, this ceremony being performed impressively by Sir Knight V. Bird. The customary salutations, proclamations, &c., having been made, the Encampment was closed in ancient form. The Sir Knights assembled at the Globe Hotel for the purpose of dining. The usual loyal and other toasts of the Order were given and heartily responded to. Sir Knight Charles Godtschalk the I.P. Commander, rose and proposed the toast of the evening, that of the Newly Installed Commander, Sir Knight J. B. Gover, in the following terms:—Our Brother graduated through all the important chairs of Masonry, and displayed skill and great judgment in the work. He was recognised as worthy of honours by the then aristocratic chief of this important Province, the late Earl Fortescue, and a Provincial collar was conferred on him. Our Brother is yet in harness, zealously working for the Order with a well digested knowledge of our laws and constitutions. He is Secretary of your Committee of Petitions, which in itself unites the functions of a Lodge of Benevolence and Board of General Purposes for the whole Province. The duties of this important office, with the large amount of other Masonic matters undertaken by our brother, can only be done by one who has both heart and soul in the work. It having fallen to me, Sir Knights, to instal our brother in the chair of our Encampment, I am honoured thereby and proud of my task. I ask you all to drink long life, health and prosperity to him. The E. Commander, Sir Knight J. B. Gover, feelingly and with emotion, alluding to the high honour of his present position in the Commandery, said, the Sir Knights knew quite enough of him to know he would do his duty and preserve the honour of the Encampment, but they would remember that if he did not work the ceremony perfectly it would be for the reason that in after life or in later years the memory was not so retentive. Ceremonies learned when a young man adhered with more tenacity, and at all times came readily to aid when wanted. Neither could he help saying the Order was in a transitory state. They even did not know but the ceremony of installation they had heard and witnessed that day from Sir Knt. Godtschalk would be denied them in future, and a new ritual attempted to be thrust upon them. These thoughts led him to express a fervent hope that every Installed Commander in the Province would make it his business to be at the next Convent General in May, to support the majority of the Sir Knights of the Order in confirming the proceedings of last Convent General, the majority at that meeting wishing for a return to the names and forms dear to us as Knights Templar. He was proud to have taken his obligation as an Installed Commander and not as a Preceptor. Sir Knt. Isaac Watts, P.G.T. of the Province, then proposed the health of the I.P. Commander, Sir Knt. Charles Godtschalk. Adverting to the work he did in the various degrees, his connection with the Charities, and his late most successful Stewardship for the Province, he was very sure they all could have but one opinion in reference to the brother who was that day amongst them. This having been responded to by the I.P. Commander, the health of the Novice who had that day been installed into the Order was proposed, and replied to in a few well-chosen remarks. The conversation then turned upon the best means for the organisation of a strong party of E. Commanders to attend Convent General in May next, to support the motions, &c., carried last December.

THE JEWISH QUESTION.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Before "Equity" had written in yours of the 17th inst., concerning the Lodge of Montefiore, No. 1017, I think it would have been well if he had made an inquiry of our excellent brother Secretary, one of the Grand Officers of England, who would have assured him that this Lodge is conducted on the purest principles of Freemasonry. I myself am an instance, having been initiated in the Montefiore about seven years ago, and having passed through each successive office to the chair of S.W., and I can only say that all the brethren have cordially endorsed each successive appointment; that I am not an Israelite has not made any difference at all. Indeed, I can truly say that in this Lodge, which includes brethren of various creeds, the only desideratum to ensure being received in good fellowship, is that a man approve himself a good Mason.

I am,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

W. H. GULLIFORD S.W.,
Montefiore, 1017.

11 Caroline-street, Bedford-square,
22nd March 1877.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I was very glad to see in your last impression that several brethren, high in authority in the Montefiore Lodge, had come forward to give you the information which I took the liberty of asking you on this matter. There was likewise an indirect answer to my question, supplied in the shape of an explanation of what the Jewish Lodges are; information which I perused with interest, because it conveyed to me matter of which I was to some extent formerly ignorant.

Of course, to me it was so natural to have a Jew sitting by my side, and to consider him an equal-born brother without an arrière pensée, that when the circular appealing for the intervention of the Grand Lodge of England, was submitted to the private Lodge for their support, for the purpose of averting the threatened exclusion of the Jews from the Lodges in Germany, I gave it my hearty and undivided approbation.

Now, sir, you will, of course, want to know, as you have a perfect right to know, what should have prompted me to ask such a question. Well, it was neither idle curiosity nor, as was hinted, a love of mischief which induced me to appeal to you. It struck me, when I saw the circular of the Montefiore Lodge, that it was the very same Lodge which some eight or nine years ago—I won't be certain about the exact year—refused me, on the ground which I have stated. However, in the bustle of life, the incident had long since totally escaped my memory, until it was suddenly revived by the circular in question. Now, why should the brother who brought me the answer of which I complain have tumbled on such an excuse, of all the excuses in the world, he himself being a Jew, if it was not true? If the Montefiore Lodge now repudiates such an imputation as never having had any foundation in fact, nothing, I assure you, can be more gratifying to me; and I commend the readiness and the thoroughness of their repudiation.

All I can say, then, is, that I or my friend, or both of us, must have been the victims of a mystification which can only be explained in one way, viz., that the Montefiore Lodge, being a so-called Jewish Lodge, and the then W.M. or Secretary, I do not exactly know which, with whom my friend communicated on the subject, being a more zealous Jew than others, would rather not admit any more non-Jewish members, without a pressing or particular reason.

My apology for intruding upon your valuable space must therefore be my anxious desire to have an impression removed from my mind, which if it was true, must have made the Montefiore Lodge appear to put themselves forward as the champions of the universal Fraternity of all Freemasons without distinction, whilst they themselves were hatching narrow-minded and exclusive privileges, which, if they existed, must have been at once torn up root and branch by every lover of

EQUITY.

THE ELECTION OF GRAND SECRETARY OF SCOTLAND.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As the unsuccessful English candidate for the Grand Secretaryship of Grand Lodge of Scotland, may I beg space in your columns for a few remarks?

The office was, I believe, declared vacant at Grand Lodge 5th February last, and no intimation to the contrary appearing, it was, I imagine, pretty generally understood that a native of Scotland only would be eligible. In the London Times, however, of the 3rd inst., appeared an advertisement inviting application from efficient members of the Craft, such application, with testimonials, to be lodged at Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh, not later than Saturday, 10th inst. The appointment was thus at the last moment thrown open, to all intents and purposes, to qualified candidates, under the English as well as the Scotch Constitution, and then only did I consider myself at liberty to enter the field. At some considerable expenditure of time I procured most powerful testimonials from many friends, some of them brethren holding or having held the highest executive offices in the Grand Lodge of England, and, by advice, I personally visited Edinburgh, on the 10th inst., to deposit my testimonials with formal application, naturally imagining that an advertisement issued under authority of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, or its Grand Committee, was bonâ fide, and that, accordingly, every candidate would be placed at the election upon an equally fair footing. To my surprise, I soon discovered that the appointment was really a foregone conclusion, and had been so for some weeks. That the two most important of the native candidates had, from the date of the vacancy, enjoyed the advantages of a very powerful organisation, distributing among members of the Grand Lodge (the elective body in Scotland,) fervid appeals and copies of testimonials, &c., receiving as a result, and by active canvass a large majority of promises; and that even the greater number of the brethren constituting the Grand Committee had actually pledged themselves to one or other of those candidates, even before waiting to ascertain the result of the advertisement they themselves had sanctioned. It was therefore evident, notwithstanding my name was placed as one of the three on the short or reduced list, I had not the slightest prospect of success on the day of election, and, indeed, I was given to understand, that although my qualifications and testimonials were most unexceptionable and important, it was feared they would prove of little avail against personal influence; and further, that I was so very late in the field, although I fail to see how I could well have presented myself before being invited.

Now I would not be considered so impertinent as to presume, for one moment, to say a single word as to the choice of Grand Lodge, but I do contend I have a perfect right to complain of the manner by which the result was arrived at. The advertisement was either real or —may I say delusive? It can scarcely pretend to have been the former in face of what I have stated, and it is therefore the more to be regretted that it was allowed to appear, seeing that it could only have one effect—that of misleading.

These are the facts which, not only in justice to myself, but for the information of my Masonic friends, I think it well to make known, and I shall be mistaken if, in face of these facts, it is not admitted that instead of having suffered what, without this explanation, might be regarded as an overwhelming defeat, I have every reason to be justified at having, as an English Mason, received the support of even so few independent brethren in Scotland.

My experience may, perhaps, enable the brethren in England to estimate the value of such advertisements in future.

Yours fraternally,

W. B. HEATH,

THE COMMEMORATIVE LIFEBOATS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—On the motion being recently carried in Grand Lodge relative to the endowment of two lifeboats to celebrate the safe return of our Grand Master from India, I hoped that the county of Devon might have had the honour of having one appropriated to it, and, by an Exeter paper, I am sorry to find my hope will be realised. The expression may seem strange, but it is a true one, for I find that it is proposed to place one at Hope Cove, at the eastern extremity of Bigbury Bay. I am not quite sure that it would be of the slightest use in such a position, for recently "Lucretius," whose nom de plume is well known to the National Lifeboat Institution and to the Board of Trade, when examining the coast, arrived at the conclusion that Dartmouth was the only spot between Torbay and Plymouth where a lifeboat, to be of any use, should be placed, a steam tug being always available there. I fancy such arrangement has been made, and that a lifeboat is projected for Dartmouth, but still such boat would be useless for Hope. The assertion, however, remains the same (I was going to say the fact, but I do not pledge myself to its accuracy), that the only spot where a lifeboat could be of any use is at Dartmouth. I would, though earnestly desirous of seeing one of the boats appropriated to the county, sooner find that it was stationed at the furthest extremity of the kingdom, or anywhere, where one single life might be saved, than placed where it might prove but a useless luxury. Before the matter is settled, it would be well to be sure that a boat would be of service at Hope. I know the coast is a very dangerous one, and a lifeboat is a necessity, but do not let one be stationed unless it can be of use when wanted. There is one now at Salcombe, not five miles from the proposed spot as the crow flies, and I should like to know if, during the years it has been established, it has ever saved a single life, or been off to a single wreck, or been manned in a single storm? I am not disparaging the valour of the Salcombe men (I believe there is no fixed crew), for they might as well attempt to navigate the boat on land as put out to sea without the aid of a steamer in a storm. What I want is, before the establishment of a lifeboat at Hope, that the Craft may be assured that the money so liberally and unanimously voted may be invested to the very best advantage. We shall have no gratification in knowing that we have given and endowed a lifeboat. Our gratification will be that the lifeboat we have given and endowed shall be the means of saving the lives of many cast upon our rock-bound coast.

I am, yours fraternally,

March 26, 1877. A SOUTH DEVON P.M.

CRAFT MASONRY AND THE HIGH GRADES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The seal of which Bro. Whytehead speaks in his letter of last week is, undoubtedly, a very curious relic of former days. But let me ask him, Is he justified in arriving at the conclusion that it is an official seal? May it not have been a mere trinket worn by some brother who was a Craft, Arch, and Templar Mason? The combination of Craft with Arch is not so surprising, for under the "Ancients" the Arch degrees were worked under the warrants of Craft Lodges. Templarism, moreover, was patronised by the most august personages during the last century, as a correspondent of yours showed indirectly in connection with the late Bro. Dunckerley. Nor, if he turn to the pages of Bro. Hughan's Old Charges of British Freemasons will he have any reason to wonder at the occurrence on this seal of the Letters I.H.S. In these Charges, the three persons of the Christian Trinity are invoked severally and in their usual order.

Yours fraternally,

P. T. T.

ETIQUETTE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Kindly inform me what the Masonic etiquette is in the following case:—A brother sued another in the county court of this town for the value of a work on Masonry, lent and lost. A third brother, who is high in office in the Province, acted as solicitor to the plaintiff. I want to know if it was not his duty as a Mason to refuse to have anything to do with the case.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother, yours truly,

A PROVINCIAL OFFICER.

Stonehouse, Devon, 27th March.

[We fear, in this case, that temper has been introduced. So trivial a matter should not have been allowed to go to extremes. The solicitor might say, so far as he was concerned, it was a matter of business.—ED. F.C.]

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THERE has been but little business transacted in the House of Lords, the meetings having been very brief, except on one occasion, when the Earl of Dudley made a speech on the Eastern Question, in the course of which he passed a severe censure on Sir Henry Elliott, our Ambassador at Constantinople, now on leave of absence in this country, owing to ill health. The Earl of Derby in his reply, deprecated any such attack on a public servant who had rendered such valuable services. Sundry measures received the Royal assent, and the House stands adjourned till the 13th prox. In the House of Commons, too, there has been more talk than business. Several motions and questions have been raised as to the conduct of Ministers and our Ambassador in Turkey. These have led to somewhat long and wearisome debates, especially as at this moment important negotiations are in progress, and the tongues of ministers are tied. Some further progress has been made with the Estimates and the Prisons' Bill, but by no means so much as might have been made had not these motions, &c., been interposed. The house has adjourned over Easter till the 5th prox.

The contemplated cruise of the Prince and Princess of Wales has been postponed, owing, unfortunately, to His Royal Highness's indisposition. The Prince's general health is good, but he has been suffering, it seems, from a boil, to which those who have had typhoid fever are said to be peculiarly liable. We sincerely trust he will be restored to health, and be able to make his projected trip to the Mediterranean at an early date.

General Ignatieff has left England, and is now, at the moment of writing, in Berlin, having taken Paris and Vienna by the way. He will speedily return to St. Petersburgh, and then we shall know perhaps a little more about the designs of Russia. It is said his object in visiting England was not accomplished, as our ministry declined to sign the Protocol, unless Russia gave assurances she would demobilise her army forthwith. We cannot say we are surprised at the conduct of Russia and her diplomatic agents, or at the refusal of the British Cabinet.

On Saturday evening, about ten o'clock, a fire broke out in the Cold-Bath Fields Prison. The flues in the region of the bakery got over-heated, and in the result the whole of that portion of the building, including the bakery, the treadmill, &c, &c., was destroyed. Two firemen received injuries in the performance of their duty. Some of the prisoners had to be removed from their cells, but none of the inmates received the slightest injury. Some difficulty was experienced in extinguishing the flames, owing to the great height of the walls, but the task was eventually accomplished. This is the second fire that has occurred in a prison within a brief interval of time, and as in the case of railway and other accidents, verifies the old saying, "It never rains but it pours." In this case, however, the element which dististinguished itself was fire, not water.

There has been great excitement during the last few days in the athletic world, and no wonder, considering the number of important events which were crowded together at the end of last week and the beginning of this. We take the University Boat Race first, as being first in importance. We find that last week we somewhat overrated our ability to announce the winning crew—for both crews won, if we may be allowed to express ourselves so mysteriously. The race was probably the grandest and most closely contested which has ever taken place. There seems to be little doubt that Oxford would have won by some two lengths, but a mishap befel bow's oar, when only half-a-mile remained to be covered, and he became at once comparatively useless as far as helping the boat forward. A supreme effort on the part of Cambridge enabled them gradually, and amid the wildest excitement of the spectators, to reduce this distance, till, when the goal was reached, honest John Phelps, the judge, delivered his fiat, to the effect that it was a dead heat. Such a result as this was never anticipated. Very few instances have occurred, even in shorter races; but it has never happened over a four-and-a-half-mile course that both boats reached the winning-post at the same moment. Thus the relative positions of Light and Dark Blue remain unaltered by the contest of 1877, and Oxford is still one victory ahead of her gallant rival. The day previous the Inter-University Athletic meeting was held at Lillie Bridge, in the presence of not far short of 10,000 people. There were nine events on the card, and of these Cambridge was fortunate enough to win five. The Hundred Yards fell to Oxford. Then Cambridge won the High Jump, the Mile, and Throwing the Hammer. Jackson was first in the Hurdle Race, and so scored a second victory for Oxford, but Davidson put the weight the furthest for Cambridge, and Churchill won for her the Quarter Mile. Thus the Light Blue success was assured, whatever might befall her champions in the two remaining contests, which, as it happens, both fell to the Dark Blue. The day previous there had been a very fine gathering in the same grounds to witness the Amateur Championship Boxing, Wrestling, and Four Mile Bicycle Contests. On Saturday there was a very novel series of contests, between men and animals, under different conditions. Many of the events created great amusement among the spectators, the race between two camels, a donkey, and a pony, being most ludicrous. The camels ran all over the place in every direction but the right one, and the donkey obstinately refused to move at all for some time, and then it turned off the contrary way, its rider coming to grief, owing to the saddle slipping on one side. The most unruly of the two camels was at length caught by a policeman, and some wags in his neighbourhood suggested that the latter should "run his captive in." In the tug-of-war between an elephant and some fifty guardsmen, the latter proved victorious, the animal not appearing to understand what it had to do, or possibly the result might have been different. Keen, the champion bicyclist, won easily in a race of two miles against a trotting mare, "Queen of the Turf," and also against a little pony over two-thirds of a mile, the pony galloping. We trust the experiment will be repeated. On Monday the Amateur Championship sports were held. Webster, of Knotty Ash, near Liverpool, won the Seven Miles walking, within fifty-four minutes, his principal opponent, Morgan, being beaten by only about half-a-yard. Slade had no opponent in the Mile, but he ran it in 4m. 29sec. notwithstanding. For the Pole Jump 10ft. 9in. was cleared by the winner, and in nearly all the other contests there was some excellent sport exhibited. Unfortunately, the weather was most unfavourable, and, consequently, the attendance of spectators was not worthy of the occasion. No doubt on Monday, which is a Bank Holiday, some provision will be made for the sporting world at West Brompton as elsewhere.

Another serious railway accident, this time to the Flying Scotchman, has happened within the last few days, by which five persons were killed, and several others seriously injured. For some reason, as yet unexplained, the engine left the rails, somewhere near the Morpeth Station, and the carriages immediately following were smashed to atoms. For a long time the line was blocked, and all traffic suspended. The usual inquest was opened as soon as possible, and stands adjourned till the requisite inquiries have been made.

A meeting was held on Monday, at the Mansion House, for the purpose of taking the necessary steps to celebrate the four hundredth anniversary of the introduction, by Caxton, into this country of the art of printing. The Lord Mayor presided, and when he had briefly explained the objects of the meeting, Mr. Anthony Trollope and Count Munster severally proposed and seconded the first resolution, to the effect that such an occasion was worthy of public commemoration. A second resolution, proposing that the celebration should take the form of a loan exhibition of Caxton's works, was proposed by the Deputy-Governor of the Bank of England, and seconded by Sir Charles Reed. This was also carried unanimously, and so was a third resolution, that the pecuniary benefits resulting from such exhibition should be appropriated to the establishment of permanent pensions for aged and decayed printers and their widows, in connection with the Printers' Pension Corporation. A vote of thanks to the Lord Mayor brought the proceedings to a close.

Field-Marshal Sir J. F. Fitzgerald, G.C.B., has died at Tours, at the advanced age of 91. Sir J. F. Fitzgerald was gazetted ensign in 1793, when yet only seven years of age. In the following year he was promoted, first to a lieutenancy and then to a captaincy. He took active duty with the 46th Regiment in 1801, when only fifteen years old. He saw a good deal of service in the Peninsular War, having been present at the siege of Badajos, and the battles of Salamanca, Vittoria, and the Pyrenees. He was taken prisoner at or after the last mentioned, but was afterwards exchanged. By order of the French Minister of War, the same military honours were accorded to the deceased as would have been accorded to an officer of the same distinguished rank in their own army, and the whole of the garrison escorted the remains to the grave. We feel certain this proof of courtesy and good fellowship will be appreciated in England as it deserves.

The outbreaks of Cattle Plague are extending. Hitherto this terrible disease has been confined to the East-end of London, but on Tuesday it made its appearance in the neighbourhood of Shepherd's Bush. Measures are said to be in contemplation by the Metropolitan Board of Works for the stoppage of all movements of cattle in the metropolitan district. This indeed seems absolutely necessary, if we are to prevent a repetition of the fearful losses which occurred in the outbreak of 1865-6, and will be fully justified by the appearance of the disease in a locality seven miles distant from the scene of the earlier outbreaks.

Last week the political atmosphere was lighter than it had been for some time past; now it is once again gloomy, and the prospects of war seem to outweigh all other prospects. It is reported that Russia will not demobilize her army in Besserabia while the peace negotiations between Turkey and Montenegro hang fire. It is evident that Turkey having a proper respect for her own sovereign independence declines to be coerced, and as Russia is the only European power which has threatened coercion, it is certain she must yield on this particular point or war is, it seems to us, inevitable. There is, perhaps, just the shadow of a shade of a chance that Austria may be able, if at least she is willing, to intervene with some effect, but one of the telegrams received in this country from Berlin represents General Ignatieff as stating that he believes in war. Our readers must be fully alive to the extreme gravity of the situation, but on the principle "while there is life there is hope," we must go on hoping that so terrible a calamity as war will not be the outcome of the negotiations that have been going on, and are still going on, in order, if possible, to preserve the peace of Europe. Once the two powers come to blows, and there is no knowing what the consequences will be. Meantime, it is worthy of mention that the Turks are doing their utmost to set their house in order, but the prospect of an attack from Russia prevents her from doing as much as would otherwise be possible in the way of reform. It is needless to say that almost every capital in Europe is disquieted by these fearful rumours, and we consider we are not saying too much when we affirm that Russia is beyond all doubt —vis et origo mali.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

A MEETING of the Stewards for the anniversary Festival was held at Freemasons' Hall, on Friday, the 23rd inst., Bro. John Boyd G.S. and P.G.P. in the chair. The Secretary, Bro. R. W. Little, read the minutes of the last meeting, which were confirmed. It was decided that the Festival be held at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 9th of May. The R.W. Lord Suffield, Provincial Grand Master of Norfolk, will take the chair. The report of the Musical Committee was read, and the tender of Bro. Theodore Distin was accepted. The Dinner and Wine Committees were appointed, and the proceedings were brought to a close by a vote of thanks to the chairman. Among those present were—Bros. C. F. Hogard, Dr. J. F. Staines, Tanner, R. B. Webster, Davis, J. Bingemann, Jones, Stanwitz, H. Leah, Leggot, S. Rosenthal, Lefaux, B. Swallow, Pixley, Melhuish, Bennett, Loftus, Reed, J. Garner, H. M. Levy, &c.

The Australian Freemason for February contains a full account of the proceedings of the Quarterly Communication of the District Grand Lodge of New South Wales, held on the 15th January last, under the presidency of Bro. A. T. Holroyd, Dist. G. Master. A motion to vote a sum not exceeding £20 from the funds of the D.G.L. in order to purchase a copy of the engraving of the Installation as Grand Master of the Prince of Wales was not carried. After the transaction of other business, Bro. Holroyd rose and announced his intention of resigning the District Grand Mastership, which he had held for a period of ten years, having been appointed to that office by the late Earl of Zetland on 20th January 1867. In doing so, Bro. Holroyd gave a short sketch of the D.G.L., from its establishment in 1848, and also a résumé of its labours during his term of office. He pointed out that in 1867 there were twenty-four Lodges, with 852 members, while in 1877 the numbers had been increased to twenty-nine Lodges, and 1,262 members respectively. When he assumed office, the D.G.L. was in debt to the extent of about £120, against which there were in the Treasurer's Funds only £17. Since then, in spite of its heavy expenditure, the D.G.L. had purchased five Government Debentures worth £500, and the cash balance in hand at that moment was £115 19s. It also possessed 22 £5 shares in the Freemasons' Hall, of the nominal value of £110, and 159 £1 shares of the value of £159. The Benevolent Fund was also in a healthy condition. In 1867 there was a cash balance in hand of about £100. At the beginning of 1877 the assets consisted of Four Government Debentures, equal to £400; Fixed Bank Deposit £200, and a cash balance of £71 3s 3d. As regarded the Freemasons' Orphan Fund, its investments included Eleven Government Debentures at £100 each, of the aggregate value of £1,100, a fixed Bank Deposit of £100, 533 £5 shares in the Freemasons' Hall Company, of the nominal value of £2,665, and 762 £1 shares of the value of £762, while the cash in hand amounted to £109. Bro. Holroyd also alluded to his efforts to establish a Masonic Library, and expressed his intention, in accordance with a promise of long standing, of presenting to it his own collection of Masonic works, so soon as the needful accommodation was provided. Bro. Holroyd then vacated the chair, and the question of electing his successor was informally discussed, expressions of regret at the D.G.M.'s resignation being general and hearty. We learn, further, from the same source, that at the half-yearly general meeting of the Australian Freemasons' Hall Company on the 8th January, the auditors' report, and the balance sheet were submitted. The directors' report, recommending their acceptance, was agreed to. The balance sheet showed a sum of £163 11s 4d standing to the credit of the Company, with arrears outstanding to the extent of £65 17s 4d. The Directors therefore recommended a dividend of 8 per cent. for the past half-year on the preference shares. It was likewise stated that 1,113 £5 shares had been bought in on account of the Company, which, with the £5 shares previously purchased and exchanged, amounting to 896 £5 shares, representing £3,377, had reduced the capital by that amount.

When we had the pleasure to chronicle the consecration of the Bayard Lodge, No. 1615 (under the Mastership of Lieut.-Colonel Somerville Burney), on 17th May last, we did not anticipate being able to make an announcement so glorious for a Lodge in the first year of its existence, as that it had become already Vice-President of the three Masonic Charities. This progress of the Bayard is unprecedented in our records. We can but add, for the encouragement of others, "Go, and do thou likewise."

Warrener 403, C. C. Dick P.Z. 403, H. L. Thomas P.Z. 403, J. B. Scriven P.Z., J. Linsell 174, Craven Cobham 1329. The Comps. afterwards partook of a capital dinner, served by Mr. E. M. Davis, of the Salisbury Arms Hotel, and a very agreeable evening was spent.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its meeting at the Old Rodney's Head, 12 Old-street, Goswell-road, on Monday, 26th inst. Present—Bros. R. Pearcy W.M., Isaac S.W., Millward J.W., Stock S.D., A. W. Fenner Secretary, Tolmie acting Preceptor, Halford J.D., Trewinnard I.G., S. Rowley, J. Parkinson, Cook, Killick, L. Finkelstein. Lodge opened in due form. Minutes read and confirmed. Lodge opened in 2nd degree. Bro. Halford answered the usual questions and was entrusted. Lodge opened in 3rd degree. The ceremony of raising was very excellently rehearsed by the W.M., who also gave the traditional history, Bro. Halford acting as candidate. Lodge resumed to 1st, when the W.M. worked the 4th, and Bro. Tolmie the 5th sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Leopold Finkelstein, of Lower Lodge 309 (Scotland), was duly elected a member. Bro. Isaac was chosen W.M. for the next gathering (no meeting will be held on Easter Monday). Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

London Masonic Club Lodge of Instruction, No. 58.—This Lodge held its meeting on Monday, the 26th inst., at 101 Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Present—Bros. Nelson Reed W.M., Sharratt S.W., Shand J.W. and Sec., C. J. Hogg Treas., Hawksley S.D., Whitaker J.D., Bently I.G., Mander Preceptor, and several other members of the Lodge. Visitors—Bros. Morgan and Cull. Lodge opened, the ceremony of installation was worked by Bro. Mander. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Morgan as candidate. The Preceptor worked the 4th and 5th sections of the lecture. Bro. S.W. Sharratt was elected W.M. for next meeting. Lodge closed in due form.

Prosperity Lodge, No. 65.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, 22nd inst. Present—Bros. J. Carruthers W.M., Beadel as S.W., C. Daniel J.W., J. H. Goodwin P.M. Treasurer, G. Broom Secretary, E. W. Braine I.G.; P.M.'s Bros. A. L. Leins I.P.M., T. Davey, Cornwall, E. Arnold, J. Betterby, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. H. Stadden, A. Plater, and T. Sewell. The former gentleman was initiated by Bro. A. L. Leins, and the two latter by the W.M. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, Bro. Davey P.M. acting as D.C. Bro. C. Daniel S.W. and W.M. Elect was presented to the Lodge, and was duly installed into the chair by Bro. A. L. Leins, in his usual careful and impressive manner. On the admission of the brethren, the W.M. was saluted according to ancient custom, and invested his officers, Bros. J. C. Carruthers I.P.M., G. F. Burge S.W., G. T. Brown J.W., Goodwin P.M. Treasurer, C. F. Ferry Secretary, E. W. Braine S.D., Matthews J.D., Sim I.G., A. L. Leins P.M. D.C., Wright W.S., Chicken A.W.S., Speight Tyler. The appointment of the officers was received with marks of approbation. Bro. Leins was warmly congratulated on the conclusion of the ceremony by every brother and visitor. Bro. Muggleton proposed, and Bro. Cornwall P.M. seconded, that the sum of ten guineas be given from the funds of the Lodge for the purpose of presenting a testimonial to the Treasurer, Bro. Goodwin P.M., for the efficient manner he had discharged the duties of that office, and that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes. This was carried unanimously. The report of the Audit Committee was read, showing the Lodge was in a flourishing state, with a balance in hand of £117 16s 6d. A committee was formed for the purpose of carrying out the arrangements for the summer banquet. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to Bro. A. Leins P.M. for the efficient manner he had discharged his duties as Installing Master, and also for his valuable assistance rendered to the Lodge in every capacity. The resignation of two Past Masters was accepted, with regret. Bro. Lake then pointed out the loss the brethren had sustained by transferring the worthy Secretary, Bro. G. T. Brown, to the office of Junior Warden, he had discharged the duties of Secretary in every respect to their satisfaction, he had never seen books better kept, and he proposed a vote of thanks to him, which was seconded and carried unanimously. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 98 in number, sat down to a sumptuous banquet and dessert, provided by Bros. Ritter and Clifford. The W.M. proposed the Queen and the Craft. The National Anthem was then sung. The Toast of H.R.H. the M.W.G.M. was enthusiastically received; also that of the Pro G.M., the Deputy G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers. Bro. J. Carruthers rose for the first time as I.P.M. He felt great pleasure in proposing the health of the W.M., who, he considered, was a credit to the Lodge. He had discharged the duties of every office he held satisfactorily, and he would ask them to drink the toast with the enthusiasm it merited. Bro. Brown J.W. then sang a capital song. The W.M. thanked the brethren, he had always worked for the honour and dignity of the Lodge. He might want some assistance from the Past Masters, and he was sure of their support. He hoped, at the expiration of his year of office, to hear the same kind expressions, and he hoped the Lodge would henceforth merit the name, Prosperity. (Cheers.) He then proposed the I.P.M., Bro. Carruthers, who, while occupying the chair, had done his duty, and left a good balance. His year of office was a successful one, and he had much pleasure, in the name of the Lodge, to present him with a valuable gold watch, and a Gold Past Master's Jewel, of very artistic design, with suitable inscription, in recognition of services rendered to the Lodge. He hoped he might live long to wear both. Bro. Hartley then sang a humorous song. Bro. Carruthers in reply, thanked the brethren for their kind expressions and valuable gifts; words almost failed him to utter the sentiments uppermost in his breast, he had always had the interest of the Lodge at heart, he had worked in a straight and undeviating line, and whenever he looked on their valuable presents, it would be a pleasing remembrance of his connection with the Lodge. The W.M., then proposed the newly initiated brethren, and Bro. Speight sang the E. A. song; the toast having been responded to, the W.M. proposed the Visitors. Bro. R. A. Wright P.P.G.S.D. Herts, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188, responded, and in the course of their speeches paid just compliments to the W.M., for the excellent manner in which he had invested his Officers, and also for his genial presiding, both of which showed he was fully capable of fulfilling the duties of the chair. The toast of the installing Master, Bro. A. L. Leins was next honoured. Bro. Leins P.M., in a very excellent speech, responded. The toast of the Past Masters, Wardens, Treasurer, Secretary and Officers were severally given and responded to, the Tyler's toast concluded a very agreeable evening. Bro. Speight officiated as Toast Master. The Visitors were W. Foote 948, Drew P.M. 890, R. Russell P.M. 299, Sandham late 65, W. H. Main P.M. 813, Murphy 84, E. Bratton P.M. 1227, T. Parry 8, R. A. Wright P.M. 504, P.P.G.S.D. Herts, T. Fowler 1158, E. Hodgkinson 875, Marfleet P.M. 217, G. Murray 1471, Hillier 1572, J. Batson 25, W. J. Batson 25, J. Boulton W.M. 98, E. Isod 1069, S. Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.—Held at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on 27th instant. Present—Bros. Ellis W.M., Daniel S.W., Brown J.W., Hewlett S.D., Lees J.D., Gieberman I.G., Walker, Hollands, Baxter, J. Lipscombe, W. Lipscombe, Harris, West, Wharman. The Lodge was opened in due form. The minutes of the previous meeting confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Harris candidate. Bro. Wharman answered the questions leading to the second degree, and was entrusted. The Lodge was opened in the second, and Bro. Wharman duly passed. The Lodge was resumed to the first. The first section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Walker, second by Bro. Hewlett, third by Bro. Ellis, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Lipscombe jun. answered the questions leading to secon degree, for his instruction. It was proposed by Bro. Hewlett, seconded by the J.W., that Bro. Daniel be W.M. for the ensuing Tuesday. It was proposed by Bro. Hollands, seconded by Bro. Walker, that the sum of £1 1s should be devoted to charity, by purchasing to that amount Bro. Constable's tickets. The same was carried unanimously, an example all Lodges of Instruction should follow. It was explained to Bro. Daniel and Brown that the votes (should any be successful) would be for the future benefit of this Lodge. Bro. Cornwall P.M., through Bro. Brown, thanked the brethren for having voted him an honorary member, for what he considered so small a gift. Nothing further offering, the Lodge was closed in due form.

Joppa Chapter, No. 188.—A convocation of this Chapter was held on Monday, the 26th, at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. Comp. E. A. Albert P.Z. as M.E.Z. in the absence of Comp. Emanuel, W. Baum, J. Klein, C. Haines, Davis, P. Moore, &c. The Chapter was opened and the minutes confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Bros. C. Roberts, No. 212, J. Cohen 205, S. Botibol 188, J. E. Walters, and L. Brall 1017, who were unanimously accepted. The latter Bro. being in attendance, was duly exalted into R.A. Masonry, the ceremony being admirably worked. A sum of five guineas was placed on the list of Comp. H. M. Levy P.Z., who is a Steward for the next anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, in May. After some other business the Chapter was closed. The companions then sat down to a very sumptuous banquet, provided by Comp. W. J. Jennings, and superintended by Comp. Keeping, assisted by Comp. M. Silver. The acting M.E.Z., Comp. E. P. Albert, presided very ably and genially. He proposed the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts. In introducing that of the newly exalted Companion, he said it was a pleasing duty; their new Comp. was one in every respect worthy of their esteem. He has been known and respected in his Lodge, and he was sure every one would be proud to see him among them for many years. Comp. Brall responded. He was greatly pleased to be a member of the Chapter. Comp. H. M. Levy P.Z. then proposed the toast of the acting M.E.Z. Although the absence of the M.E.Z. was regretted, they had found a very able substitute in Comp. Albert. Comp. Albert, in responding, said he had been a P.Z. for fifteen years; he was always ready to render them any assistance, and he had to thank Comp. Littaur, who had so materially assisted him. He then proposed the toast of the Visitors, Comps. Bloomfield 141, S. M. Harris 406, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and M. Spiegel, severally returned thanks. The toast of the H. and J. was given, and responded to by Comps. Littaur and H. M. Levy. Comp. S. V. Abrahams P.Z. and Treasurer, replied for the Past Principals. In proposing the S.E. and P.S., the M.E.Z. paid them just compliments for the admirable manner they had performed their duties. He hoped in the ordinary course to see them in the occupation of the chair, a post they were eminently qualified to fill. Comps. Dickinson and L. Lazarus replied, and the Janitor concluded a very agreeable and harmonious evening.

Davis W.M., Belfrage S.W., Cornelisson J.W., T. Cull Sec., Watts S.D., Blundell J.D., Giles I.G.; also Bros. Mander Preceptor, G. Davis, Pearce, Irinth, Ager and others. Business—The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. The W.M. then rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Ager being the candidate. The 5th section was worked by Bro. Mander. Bro. Giles, Lodge 1441, was unanimously elected a member. Bro. Belfrage S.W. was chosen as W.M. for Thursday, 5th April. The ceremony of installation will be rehearsed on Thursday next by Bro. J. H. Watts P.M. 1201. The Lodge was then closed. The 15th ballot of the Benevolent Association attached to the Lodge was drawn after the close of the Lodge meeting.

Fitzroy Lodge, No. 569.—This Lodge held its meeting on Friday, the 23rd of March, at the Artillery Grounds, Finsbury. Present—Bros. Ensign W. I. Spicer W.M., G. Webster S.W., A. Everingham J.W., Capt. J. Eglese Sec., Capt. R. Helsham Treas., J. Sanderson S.D., Ensign F. J. Stohwasser J.D., W. J. Jolliffe D.C.; P.M.'s Bros F. Graves, Helsham, Adams and Eglese. Visitors—Bros. Shulbrook, Perry, James, Tryon and others. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Rolfe, and also (by permission of the W.M.) Bro. the Rev. Richard Morris (initiated in the Lewis Lodge, No. 1185) were passed to the second degree. Bros. H. P. Matthews, Fulcher, and Pash were raised. After the Lodge was closed, the brethren adjourned to supper, and the evening's entertainment was enlivened by some capital singing by Bros. H. P. Matthews, J. Shulbrook, and J. Perry.

Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780.—This Lodge held a regular meeting on Friday, the 23rd of March, at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew Bridge. Present—Bros. J. Chambers Roe W.M., L. H. Cuzner S.W., Walter Goss J.W., Wm. Hilton P.M. Secretary, C. F. May S.D., Wm. Gomm J.D., Wm. Hale P.M. Steward, J. Dorey I.G., J. Gilbert Tyler. Past Masters Bros. Gardiner, Brown, Hilton, Littlewood, Hale, Potter. Visitors—Bros. H. E. Tucker 1612, E. Woodbridge 1612, A. Heald 269, W. K. L. Hutton 1351, G. Cook 1585, G. H. Lay 569, J. H. Cumming 534, W. Vassila 1326, W. H. Knill-Abell 1599, Neville Parker 1438, and Wm. Campden 901. Business—The Lodge was opened at 2 p.m. Bros. H. D. Thompson and J. Millross were raised. Bro. White was passed to second degree, and Messrs. Alfred Tolliday, C. P. Brown and James Humphreys were initiated. Bro. W. E. S. Saunderson was admitted a joining member. Bro. Gardiner I.P.M. said he noticed on the minutes a vote of thanks to the W.M. for the very handsome Japanese embroidered silk cushion, which he presented for the use of the Master's pedestal, and he must ask the brethren to accord a vote of thanks to Bro. Goss J.W. for the five new curtains which he had presented to the Lodge; this was seconded by Bro. Brown P.M., and carried unanimously. Some propositions for initiation having been handed in, the Lodge was closed. The rethren then, to the number of 56, sat down to a banquet, provided by the host, Bro. Stanbury, in regular "Star and Garter" style. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts having been given, Bro. Gardiner I.P.M. rose, and said it was a source of great gratification to him to have the privilege of proposing the health of the W.M. Having introduced that Brother into Masonry, he felt sure that all the brethren must have been delighted with the excellent manner in which the W.M. had performed the ceremonies. The W.M. thanked Bro. Gardiner and the brethren for their kind expressions of feeling. It had always been his ambition to be W.M. of his Mother Lodge, and having reached that position, he trusted he would always deserve the approbation of the brethren. Bros. Tolliday, Brown, and Humphreys replied for the initiates. Bros. Heald, Lay, Cumming, Vassila, and Neville Parker for the Visitors, and Bros. Gardiner, Brown, Hilton and Littlewood for the P.M.'s. Bros. Cuzner and Goss replied to the toast of the officers. The evening was much enlivened by some excellent songs by Bros. Goss, Cuzner, Lay, and Parsons. The Tyler's toast brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The annual supper of this Lodge took place on Tuesday evening, 27th inst., at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Bro. Wallington, the Preceptor, took the chair, faced by Bro. Wright P.M. and a good muster of brethren. Some of those who gave in their names and did not attend, we suppose, in consequence of the unpleasant and very wet night, lost a treat. The supper was served in every way satisfactorily. The wines, &c., were all first class, the attention paid by the host, who not only attended to the wants of those present, but enlivened the company with several capital songs, accompanying himself on the piano, all that could be desired. Songs were also sung by Bros. Wallington, Smith, Dallas, Crouch, Saunders, Defries, Worsley and Davis, the last-named sang several times, and at each rendering kept the company in roars of laughter. The meeting did not break up till late, every one having thoroughly enjoyed himself.

Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017.—A meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday, the 27th inst., at the Regent Masonic Hall, W. Present—Bros. Victor Myers W.M., Gulliford S.W., Lazarus P.M. J.W., Albert Secretary, L. Jacobs Treasurer, Hockfield J.D., M. Levy D.C., W. Brale as I.G. P.M.'s—Bros. Eskell, De Solla, W. Abraham. Visitors—Bros. Dickinson W.M. Royal Standard, C. John 1287, Schneider 151, and W. W. Morgan jun. 1385. One brother was raised, after which the W.M. announced that he had received a letter from the Joppa Lodge, requesting the committee of the Montefiore to join them and the Israel and Tranquillity on the Jewish question. Bro. S. V. Abraham informed the members what had been done by the committee appointed at the last meeting. The best result he could show were the petitions that had been signed by the various Lodges and returned to him. These were 120 in number, sufficient to show that the efforts of the committee had been successful. He had also received several letters sympathising with the movement. He considered the committee might come to the Lodge with some amount of confidence. They did not desire the Montefiore Lodge to be put prominently forward. They were anxious to join any other Lodge willing to take up the matter, and give what assistance they could. In the petition they had stated that three Grand Lodges in Germany excluded Jews, and although this was hardly the case in theory, it was in practice the fact. In a letter from Bro. Wendt, it was stated that Jews were admitted to the three blue degrees by the Royal York Lodge of Friendship. This implied that they were admitted, and this was all the concession that was made. A letter from Bro. Findel was referred to, and after some further discussion, Bro. C. Eskell proposed, and Bro. Brall seconded, that a further sum of £5 be voted from the Lodge towards paying the expenses incurred by the committee. With reference to the letter from the Joppa Lodge, Bro. Abrahams remarked that they would be glad to co-operate, but he considered that the petitions they had in their possession were held by them as trustees, and they ought to hand them over to Grand Lodge only. Whatever position they eventually took up, they were bound morally, as well as Masonically, to hand over the petitions to Grand Lodge. He stated this that there might be no misunderstanding between them and other Lodges, as to the terms on which the various committees would meet. They were the first to take energetic steps and communicate with the various Lodges throughout the kingdom; it was not for their own aggrandisement, but as they had asked other Lodges to give their names, they were bound to make use of them in the way they had promised. Bro. Eskell asked if any letters had been received in opposition to the petition, and was answered in the negative. It was proposed and seconded by Bros. Eskell and Brall respectively, that the letter from the Joppa be referred to the Montefiore committee. Full power to act was given to the committee, after which Bro. Breidenbach proposed that the W.M. sign the petition on behalf of the Montefiore Lodge. This was seconded by Bro. Cooper, and carried unanimously. Bro. P.M. Abrahams proposed, and Bro. Loewenstark seconded, that Bro. M. Levy be elected on the committee of the Montefiore Lodge, which was carried. The Lodge was then closed, after which the brethren adjourned for refreshment. A very pleasant evening was spent under the presidency of the W.M. who proposed the usual toasts.

Wandsworth Lodge, No. 1044.—An excellent gathering of this Lodge, including many visitors, was held at the Spread Eagle Hotel, on Wednesday, the 21st inst. Bro. Landon was very ably raised to the third degree by Bro. Body P.M. Mr. A. A. Denham was initiated into Freemasonry by Bro. J. G. Carter P.M., in the unavoidable absence of Bro. P. Cooke W.M. The Lodge was closed in due form, and a banquet followed. The Queen and Craft, and other Masonic toasts, were ably given by the W.M., followed by the Health of the Initiate. This having been acknowledged, Bro. A. A. Denham responded, and thanked his brethren heartily for the honour they had conferred upon him. The Tyler's toastconcluded a happy evening.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—Held at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday, 23rd inst. Present—Bros. R. W. Pearey W.M., Andrews S.W., Smith J.W., Powell S.D., Townsend J.D., Simpson I.G., Bolton, Cleverley. Lodge opened in due form. Minutes read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was very ably rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Simpson acting as candidate. Bro. Andrews was elected W.M. for ensuing meeting. All business being ended, Lodge was closed, and the meeting adjourned.

Dundas Chapter, No. 1255.—The regular convocation of this Chapter was held at the Havelock Masonic Temple, Plymouth, on Wednesday, the 21st inst. The Chapter was opened in due form: minutes of last meeting confirmed. The Comps. proceeded to the exaltation of Bro. S. B. Harvey P.M. 1255, already accepted. There were present—Comps. Charles Godtschalk Z., J. B. Gover P.Z. P.P.G.P.S. Treas., W. Bell P.Z., Isaac Watts P.Z. as H., J. Gidley as J., W. H. Triplet P.G.J. P.S., John P. Rogers S.E., S. W. Crimp 1st A.S., and several visitors from Sister Chapters. Upon the conclusion of the exaltation of P.M. Harvey, Comp. Godtschalk called the attention of the Chapter to the fact, that during his late Stewardship for the Province, on behalf of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, he had not had the opportunity of bringing the claims of that Institution before the Chapter at a regular meeting, but that he had adopted what he considered the next best course, viz.: he had individually brought the matter before their worthy Treasurer, Comp. Bell, out of Chapter, and had mentioned the matter to the P.Z., Comp. J. B. Gover. In fact he had communicated to all connected with the Chapter, that it was his intention to make the Chapter a Life Governor of the Institution, and that if he had their sanction and support, he should enter upon his Stewardship the sum of £10. He scarcely need mention to the Comps. that this list was handed in to the Secretary of the Institution on the 12th of February last. This therefore, was the proper time, under the circumstances explained for the £10 to be voted. He called to the recollection of the Comps., that the Chapter had been founded last year by himself, with the able assistance of others present, that he was in the honourable position of the first Z., and concurrently with this, he had undertaken the Stewardship for the Province, which this year had sent up the largest amount of any Province of England; their Lodges and Chapters had sent up £596; out of this £596, himself and Bro. Curtois had got together £565. As a matter of form, and with the fullest confidence, he proposed that the sum of £10 be voted to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. This being duly seconded by Comp. J. B. Gover, was carried with acclamation. A question having arisen with a sister Chapter, holding its meetings in this Temple, as to the regular and actual days of meeting of the Dundas Chapter, Comp. J. B. Gover P.Z. requested that the S.E. might be requested to read the bye laws, in one of which the actual days were named, viz.:—the 1st Wednesday following the third Monday in March, June, September and December, and these were the days expressed in the petition upon which the Charter of the Chapter had been granted. Exd. Comp. Watts P.Z. expressed a wish to have a copy of these bye-laws for the good working of a Chapter he was connected with, these bye-laws of Dundas Chapter, as worthy Comp. Watts expressed it, embodying the true principle that should rule in every well regulated Chapter. After the closing, the Comps. retired for the accustomed social half hour.

Tregenna Lodge, No. 1272, St. Ives, Cornwall.—The annual festival of this Lodge was held on Friday, the 23rd inst., at the Masonic Rooms, Fore-street. After the formal business was disposed of, the W.M. Bro. the Rev. J. Balmor Jones, P.G. Chaplain of Cornwall, proceeded to install Bro. T. Broking, the W.M. elect, as W.M., and he proceeded to invest his officers for the ensuing year. They were, Bros. J. B. Jones P.G.C. I.P.M., J. T. Short S.W., M. Daniel J.W., J. E. Short Treas., James Wearne P.M. Sec., Rev. J. B. Jones, M.A., Chap., F. H. Gibbone, C.E., S.D., James Martin J.D., A. R. Harry P.M. Organist, John Richards P.M. D.C., Capt. John Richards I.G., J. P. Trevorrow Tyler, J. T. Short, Steward Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund. After the business the brethren adjourned to the White Hart Hotel, where a capital banquet was provided by Bro. Richards. There were several visitors from the neighbouring Lodges. After the dinner the usual Masonic toasts were honoured, and the brethren separated having spent a very pleasant evening.

Royal Standard Lodge of Instruction, No. 1298.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Friday, the 23rd inst., at the Castle Tavern, Holloway-road, N. Present—Bros. Eldridge W.M., Hunter S.W., Passingham J.W., Sparrow S.D., Chant J.D., Ager I.G., T. Cull Preceptor, Wright, Yeomans, Shackle, Sheffield, and several others. The Lodge being opened in due form, the minutes of the last meeting were confirmed. The ceremonies of the 1st and 2nd degrees were rehearsed, Bros. Gianella and Yeomans respectively acting as candidates. Lodge then resumed to the 1st degree. The 1st and 4th sections were worked by Bro. Cull. Bro. Francis 1698 was elected a member, and Bro. Hunter W.M. for Friday, 6th April. The Lodge was then closed, and adjourned. The 15 sections will be worked in the Lodge on Friday, 27th April, when Bro. Cull will preside.

Chiltern Lodge, No. 1470.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 20th of March, at the Town Hall, Dunstable. Present—Bros. Haselgrove W.M., Randall S.W., Otway J.W., Howell P.M. acting as Secretary, Rev. C. B. Harris Chaplain, Sinkwell S.D., Cutler J.D., Russell D.C., Saunders as I.G., Day Tyler; Bros. Beart, Crew, Ballans, &c. Bro. McLean, 935 Wexford, visitor. The Lodge having been opened, and the minutes confirmed, the ballot was taken for Mr. James Eames, which proving satisfactory, he was initiated in the W.M.'s most careful manner. The charge was given by Bro. Howell I.P.M. The W.M. then gave the lecture in the first degree. It was a great treat to the brethren, and a unanimous vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Haselgrove, and recorded on the minutes. The Lodge was closed. After other business had been transacted, the brethren adjourned to sup together at Bro. Saunders, Sugar Loaf Hotel.

THE LISTS OF CANDIDATES FOR THE APPROACHING SCHOOL ELECTIONS.

THE Lists of approved candidates for the approaching elections at the Girls' School on the 14th inst., and the Boys' School on the 16th inst., are before us. In the case of the former, there are thirteen vacancies and fifty-four candidates, of whom five, if unsuccessful on this occasion, will be ineligible, on the score of age, to try again, while for the latter, there are twelve vacancies and fifty-nine candidates, nine of whom will be ineligible again for a like reason. But for convenience sake, let us continue the analyses of the two lists separately, taking the girls first, both as an act of courtesy and because their election will take place first.

We have said that for the Institution at St. John's Hill there are fifty-four candidates for thirteen vacancies, or over four for each vacancy. Of these the two at the top of the list are applicants now for the fifth time. The next in numerical order has made three previous attempts, and this will be her last. The thirteen that follow in order are making their third essay, and in the case of one of them—No. 6—if she will fail this time, all chance of her entering the school is destroyed. There are then twelve candidates who have already presented themselves on one occasion. Two of these twelve, namely, Nos. 20 and 24, must obtain a place among the successful at this election, or their hope of obtaining admission will be destroyed. The remaining candidates are applicants for the first time, and ni the case of one of them—No. 37—for the last likewise. If we distribute them among our Masonic Provinces and Districts we find that twenty of the candidates hail from London. W. Yorkshire and Lincoln furnish four each; Devon and Hants and I. of W. each three; Kent, E. Lancashire, and the District of Bengal two each; while the following send a single candidate each, namely, Wilts, Staffordshire, Somersetshire, Cumberland and Westmoreland, Eastern Archipelago, Durham, Sussex, Notts, Bristol, Herts, Lancashire W., Yorkshire N. and E., and 14th Regiment of Foot. Two of the girls have lost both their parents, forty have no father, two have no mother, nine have both parents living, while the remaining one has lost both her parents, but has a step-mother. The fathers of only eleven out of the fifty-four candidates, or less than one-fourth of the whole number, have ever in any way contributed directly to our Charitable Institutions.

Turning now to the Boys' School, we note that of the fifty-nine candidates who will compete, on the 16th inst., for twelve vacancies, the first on the list has made six previous attempts, the second five, and the five next in order four. Of the last, Nos. 3 and 5, if unsuccessful now, will be ineligible at the October election. The next eight are now competing for the fourth time, and one of them, No. 14, will have no other than the present opportunity of getting into the School. The five next in order of rotation have had each two previous trials, and in the case of two of them, Nos. 18 and 19, this will be their last. Then come twenty candidates who were on the list at the October election last year, but were unsuccessful. Three of these, namely, Nos. 22, 26, and 29, must win now or never. The remaining nineteen are new candidates, and in the case of No. 45, this will be his last, as it is his first, chance of winning. London furnishes twenty-one of the fifty-nine candidates, Warwickshire five, Devonshire, N. Wales and Salop, and East Lancashire three each; Cumberland and Westmoreland, Essex, Lincolnshire, Dorset and Gloucestershire, and West Yorkshire two each; Middlesex, Cambridgeshire, Hants and I. of Wight, Cheshire, Staffordshire, Sussex, Bristol, N. and E. Yorkshire, Northampton and Hunts, and Wilts, with the Districts of Bengal, Bombay, S. Africa, E. Div., and W. Indies send up each a single candidate. Three of the applicants have lost both parents, and one has lost both parents, but has a stepmother, forty-four have no father, two are motherless, two are as good as fatherless, for their fathers are paralysed, and seven have both parents still living, and in one case, the father has deserted his wife since 1871. The fathers of fourteen, or somewhat less than a fourth of the whole number, have subscibed to or served the office of Steward for one or more of our Institutions, while in several cases they held or had obtained high rank in the Society.

Only a few particulars remain to be added. One of the candidates to the Boys' School has already a brother in the Institution, while another has a sister in the Girls' School. On the other hand, of the girl candidates, one has a sister in the School, and a second two sisters; a third has had two sisters, of whom one by purchase, and has a third in at the present time, while a fourth has a brother in the Boys' School. The father of one of the girl candidates was a Freemason for twenty-eight, of one of the boys twenty-seven, of another boy twenty-six years, and of another of the girls for twenty-four years, while in one case—a girl—the father died when he had been a member only three quarters of a year. As our readers are aware all votes obtained at a previous candidature are carried forward to the credit of the candidate at future elections. Thus one girl starts with 1,220 votes to the good, and there are two boys with 1,198 and 1,102 votes respectively to their credit. On the other hand, a girl who was a candidate in October last, has only seven votes to start with, while of the boys who have tried before, one has obtained eight votes as the result of three trials, and one three as the result of two trials. We need say little further. We can only express a hope that the most deserving cases will be chosen to fill the vacancies, and with the expression of that hope we must leave the result in the hands of the electors.

THE HISTORY OF AMERICAN UNION LODGE, No. 1, OHIO.

IT so seldom happens that we are in a position to present to our readers anything like a continuous history of the foundation and early career of a Masonic Lodge, that the following particulars, gleaned from various sources, cannot fail to prove interesting. We believe we have referred to sundry of them on a former occasion, but only in the way of passing comment. We now furnish them in the form of a connected history, and take the opportunity of acknowledging that it is to Bro. Corn. Moore's Centennial Sketch we are indebted for the major portion of the details. This Sketch appeared in the 1st Number of Vol. 49 of the Masonic Review, the last number indeed in which that distinguished Masonic writer figures as its Editor.

The period at which the American Union Lodge came into being was an eventful one. The struggle by the then British colonies of North America for Independence had commenced. The city of Boston was occupied by a British force, and an American army was encamped outside. A number of Freemasons serving with that portion of the latter, known as the Connecticut Line,—because the troops composing it hailed from the province of Connecticut,—had obtained from Bro. Richard Gridley, Deputy Grand Master of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, a warrant, authorising them to meet as a Lodge of Freemasons at Roxbury, Mass., by the style and title of American Union Lodge. This warrant, which bears date 15th February 1776,—according to the newly published Early History and Transactions of the Grand Lodge of New York, the date is the 13th,—is a somewhat curious document and is worth reproducing in extenso. It reads thus:—

"John Rowe, Grand Master, to Joel Clark, Esq., greeting:—

By virtue of authority invested in me, I hereby, reposing special trust and confidence in your knowledge and skill of the Ancient Craft, do appoint and constitute you, the said Joel Clark, Esq., Master of American Union Lodge, now erected in Roxbury, or wherever your Body shall remove on the Continent of America, provided it is where no Grand Master is appointed.

You are to promote in your Lodge the utmost harmony and brotherly love, and to keep up to the Constitutions for the reputation of the Craft. In your makings, you are to be very cautious of the moral character of such persons, and also of visitors, and such as desire to become members of your Lodge (such as were not made under it). You are to transmit to the Grand Lodge a fair account of the choice of your officers as well present as future. Any matters coming before your Lodge that cannot be adjusted, you are to appeal to and lay before the Grand Lodge for a decision. You are, as often as the Grand Lodge meets, to attend with your two Wardens. Of the time and place the Grand Lodge shall meet, you will have previous notice.

In order to support the Grand Lodge, your Lodge is to pay into the hands of the Grand Secretary, each quarterly night, the sum of twelve shillings, lawful money, all of which you will pay due regard to. The Commission to remain in full force and virtue until recalled by me or my successors in office.

Given under my hand, and the hands of the Grand Wardens (the seal of the Grand Lodge first affixed), this the 15th day of February, Anno Mundi 5776, of Salvation 1776.

RICHARD GRIDLEY D.G.M.
WILLIAM BURBECK S.G.W.
——— J.G.W.

Per Order of the Grand Master.

Recorded, Wm. Hoskins, Grand Secretary.

Bro. Moore is quite right in describing this as a "peculiar and unique document." It is not very formal, yet it was sufficient for all purposes. Moreover, as the same Brother points out, it gave authority for the Lodge to meet and work anywhere "on the Continent of America, provided it is where no Grand Master is appointed." Well, the Lodge held its first meeting under the above warrant, the very month in which it was granted, and commenced its labours; the original members, as quoted by our authority from the minutes being, "Col. Joel Clark, Col. John Park, Thomas Chase Esq., Ensign Jonathan Heart, Captain Joseph Hoit, Col. Samuel Holden Parsons, Captain Ezekiel Scott,—Whittlesey, and Cotton, Fellow Crafts, and Col. Samuel Wyllys, Entered Apprentice." Shortly after this, that portion of the army with which the members of American Union Lodge were connected moved to the City of New York, and here, in the month of April of the same year, we find its officers and members applying to Bro. Dr. Peter Middleton, Deputy Grand Master of the Province of New York, to confirm this warrant. This, however, it seems, was not done, but a new warrant was granted, under the name of "Military Union, No. 1." The following record of this transaction is from the Lodge minutes as quoted from the Early History and Transactions of the Grand Lodge of New York, already alluded to.

"April 23rd 1776.—'At a Lodge or Meeting of the Brethren of the Antient or Honorable Society of Free and Accepted Masons, held by Particular Permission of the Right Worshipful Bro. Middleton, Deputy Grand Master of all Masons in the Province of New York, Joel Clark in the chair, unanimously agreed that a petition be presented Bro. Middleton, Deputy Grand Master, to confirm the former warrant appointing Joel Clark Master, John Poole Senior Warden; Samuel Wylly Junior Warden; Samuel Parsons Treasurer; and Jonathan Heart Secretary of a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons: and that Brother Parsons, Crane and the Secretary wait on the Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master, and present the said petition.'"

The result we have already stated, and, under the authority of Dr. Middleton, the Lodge, as we gather, met at "Bro. Vandanham's," June 20th, when it was voted that Bro. Hull be invited "to deliver something agreeable to the occasion on St. John's Day," which was to be held on the 24th of the month, "at such place as the steward shall provide." It was at the same time resolved, that the utensils, consisting of "aprons, glasses, candlesticks, Bible, &c." purchased by American Union should be returned to the said Lodge, and considered as only being lent to the Military Union. Henceforward the Lodge met frequently, till the 15th August, just prior to the battle of Long Island, shortly after which it is recorded that in the engagement which took place on the 27th August, R. W. Joel Clark, Elisha Hopkins, Ozias Bissell, Joseph Jewett, Nathaniel Gore, were taken prisoners. On the 13th September the Lodge was still further reduced, as Bro. James Chapman and Micajah Gleason were killed, William Cleaveland and John P. Wylly taken prisoners, while the latter misfortune likewise befel Bro. Otho H. Williams, who was taken prisoner at Fort Washington. This record in the minutes is "Signed: Jonathan Heart Secretary." A meeting of the Lodge is recorded to have been held in March 1777, from which date till February 15th 1779, no further meetings were convened. On the latter date, the Connecticut line being quartered at Reading Conn., the Lodge was called together, and as Bro. Joel Clarke had meanwhile died in captivity, a new election of officers took place, with the following result:—Bro. Samuel Holden Parsons was chosen W.M., and Bros. Jonathan Heart and Elisha Marshall Senior and Junior Wardens respectively. The last meeting mentioned in the minute book in possession of the New York Grand Lodge, occurred on the 10th March following, but we have it on authority of Bro. Moore, that the Lodge met together at Widow Sandford's, near Reading Old Meeting House, not only as above, on the 15th February, but also on the 24th of the same month, and likewise the 10th, 17th, 22nd, and 25th March. At the meeting on the 22nd, "it was determined that the members should dine together on the 25th, and that the Hon. Rufus Putnam, Mrs. Sanford, her daughter and niece, together with Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Heart, 'with the brethren of the Ancient Society,' be invited to dine with them." From this time till the 7th May, the Lodge was in a state of great activity, and Bro. Moore tells us that on one of these festive occasions which marked the brief interval, among the music performed, the "Dead March" in Saul was followed by the "Country Jig." On the 7th May, the Lodge "closed without date," as the services of the Connecticut line were required elsewhere. On the 24th June in the same year, we read of it at "Nelson's Point" on the Hudson, when a fresh election of officers took place, and Bro. Jonathan Heart was elected Master. "A procession was then formed, and proceeded to West Point, where, uniting with other brethren, all marched to 'the Red House,' where 'George Washington and family' joined them. Dr. Hitchcock delivered an address, dinner was served, and toasts and speeches followed. And now comes a scene worthy of special memory: George Washington wished to retire to his quarters across the river, when the Wardens and a 'crowd of brethren' attended him to his barge, the music playing 'God Save America.' On embarking, his departure was announced by three cheers from the shore, answered by three from the barge." On the 26th July, the Lodge met at "Robinson House," which Bro. Moore supposes to have been not far from West Point, and on this occasion the name of Colonel Rufus Putnam figures among those of the candidates for initiation. This distinguished brother was raised on the 9th September following, and remained identified with the Lodge to the very close of his life. In December of the same year, it was "at Morristown, New Jersey, celebrating the natal day of St. John the Evangelist. General Washington was again a visitor, and was present at the opening of the Lodge, Captain Heart presiding. At this meeting initial steps were taken, relating to the organisation of a Grand Lodge for the United States, a proposition which ultimately failed."

In the summer of 1780 the Lodge was again on the Hudson, and held its meetings at "Robinson's," and as the regular election of officers had not been held, by reason of the movements of the army, a Lodge was held for that purpose on the 20th July, and Captain Heart was again chosen. "Thereafter, till 1782," says Bro. Moore, "there seems to have been no time, place, or opportunity for the Lodge to meet." But in the New York record already referred to, we find that it was at Newburgh from 1781 to 1783, and that during a portion of the time Col. John Parke was Master of "Military Union Lodge," "from which," says the compiler (Bro. John G. Barker P.G. Librarian) "we conclude that the Lodge continued under the authority of the old Provincial Grand Lodge of New York while in its territorial jurisdiction." The roll of the Lodge was headed "Members of the Military Union and American Union Lodge." Be this as it may, Bro. Moore, in continuing his sketch, says, that on the 25th March 1782 the Lodge was again on the Hudson, and convened at "Connecticut Huts," wherever that was. Captain Heart was again elected Master. "The Lodge met frequently during the summer, and celebrated St. John the Baptist's Day, with Washington Lodge attached to the Massachusetts Line. In October of the same year it met at "Verplank's Point," in a Block House, and in March of 1783 it was again at West Point. Its last meeting while connected with the army was at the latter place, on 23rd April, when the following record is quoted by Bro. Moore, namely, "Bro. Rose, an Entered Apprentice, was proposed, balloted for, accepted, and passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. Lodge closed, to stand closed until the W. Master should call them together." In this uncertain state as to the future of the Lodge, and having full authority to convene it when and where he might deem it best to do so, Captain Heart very properly retained the warrant in his own personal keeping. In the course of a few years, the first settlers in the North Western Territory landed at Marietta. This was on 7th April 1788. The company was under the lead of General Rufus Putnam, and among the Directors were the General and Bro. Samuel H. Parsons, both old members of the Lodge, while Captain Heart was in command of Fort Harmer, just across the river. Within a year one of the Directors, Bro. James Mitchell Varnum, a judge and revolutionary hero, died, and was buried by the brethren with full Masonic honours, this being the first Masonic act done in the new settlement. No long time elapsed, and the brethren began to think of reviving the Lodge whose Master was living so close at hand. Accordingly, on the 25th June 1729, a meeting was held, at which "Bros. Rufus Putnam, Benjamin Tupper, Griffin Green, Robert Oliver, Ezra Lunt, William Stacey, William Burnham, Anselm Tupper, Thomas Stanley, and Ebenezer Sprout, were present, and it was agreed to request Captain Heart to convene the Lodge, and resume labour. Captain Heart acceded to the request, and in his reply stated, "Being the present Master of the Lodge held under the authority of said warrant . . . . and being the oldest Ancient Mason within the said territory, I have thought it proper, with the advice of Bro. Putnam, member, and Bro. Benjamin Tupper, Past Master, to grant the request contained in your petition, and will meet you in Campus Martius" (close by Marietta,) "on Monday, the 28th instant, at six o'clock p.m. for the purpose of forming you into a Lodge." In accordance with this arrangement the brethren assembled, there being present Jonathan Heart W.M., Benj. Tupper S.W., Rufus Putnam J.W., together with Bros. Thomas Stanley, William Burnham, Griffin Green, William Mills, Robert Oliver, and William Stacey. The old Warrant of American Union was produced and read. Several brethren applied to be elected as members, and were at once accepted. The Lodge then resumed its labours, and Bro. Rev. Daniel Story was raised to the third degree on the 8th December following. On the 27th of the month, St. John's Day was celebrated, when Rev. Bro. Storey preached a sermon to the brethren assembled. As some doubts appear to have existed as to the legality of the reorganisation, steps were promptly taken to dispel them, and letters were forwarded to the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, from which the Warrant emanated, and also to the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania. In December, 1791, the Grand Master of Massachusetts wrote to say that his Grand Lodge applauded their views and pursuits, and was pleased with so "laudable an undertaking." He also acknowledged unreservedly the validity of the warrant, and pointed out that it must have force and operation "where you are until a Grand Lodge is formed in your Territory, when it will become your duty to surrender it, and obtain in its place a warrant from the Grand Lodge that may have the Government of Masonry in your State." He added, "I confirm your warrant as good and perfect, as you are where no Grand Lodge is established." The Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania also replied, congratulating the Lodge on the resumption of its labours, "in the midst of the immense wilderness of this West, where but lately wild beasts and savage men were the only inhabitants, and where ignorance and ferocity contributed to deepen the gloom which has covered that part of the earth from the Creation. This ray of light, which has thus broken in upon the gloom and darkness of ages," we "consider as a presage that the time is fast approaching when the knowledge of Masonry will completely encircle the globe, and the most distant regions of the Western hemisphere rival those of the Eastern in Masonic splendour." The Grand Lodge of New York was similarly addressed, as those who have read our reviews of its "Early History and Transactions," will doubtless remember. The letter, which will be found at p. 117, part III. of the History, is far too long to reproduce. It narrates the circumstances under which the Lodge was revived, and claims for itself, not only recognition as a regular Lodge, but also as being, when other Masonic Lodges are found necessary in the Western Territory, "the Masonic Body corporated within the Federal territories, and duly invested with every power necessary to constitute, rule, and govern the same, agreeable to the Constitutions, and ancient customs of the Royal Craft throughout the world." What was the nature of the answer ordered to be sent, we know not, but there is a certain significance in this passage, which will call for some remark by-and-bye. The letter to Grand Lodge N.Y. was dated "Marietta, May 5th, 5791," and signed "by Benjamin Tupper, S.W.," and "Rufus Putnam J.W." on behalf of the Lodge.

The Lodge pursued its labours uninterruptedly and successfully, and Bro. Moore enumerates, with a pride which is very natural, the work accomplished by its members. These, he says, "were among the first settlers in this then vast wilderness; they organised the first civil government here, provided for the first school, held the first courts, commanded the first troops, made the first treaty with the Indians, aided in organising the first church, and one of its members preached the first sermon." Some years later, the hall in which it met was destroyed by fire, together with the old warrants and records, but a duplicate of the former was obtained, and the Lodge continued working with renewed vigour, some of the most distinguished Ohians, such as Putnam, Cass, Nye, Meigs, Heart, Cushing, &c., being on its roll of members. In January 1808, a Convention was held at Chillicothe, for the purpose of forming a Grand Lodge, and "American Union, No. 1," was represented by "Robert Oliver, Ichabod Nye, and William Skinner." A Grand Lodge was organised, and Bro. Rufus Putnam, though absent, was elected First Grand Master of Masons in Ohio. He was not, however, installed, and the Deputy, Thomas Henderson, of Cincinnati, "performed the duties of the office during the year." At the next session of the Lodge in January 1809 a letter was read from General Putnam, declining re-election, on account of age and infirmities. Bro. Moore quotes from it the following passage:—"My sun is far past the meridian; it is almost set; a few sands only remain in my glass. I am unable to undergo the necessary labours of that high and important office—unable to make you a visit at this time, without a sacrifice and hazard of health which prudence forbids."

For some years the Lodge continued working, but declined to accept a charter from the Grand Lodge of Ohio, and was not again represented in that body until the session of Chillicothe in January 1816. Bro. Moore speaks of this abstention as arising "from some cause not clearly known, and not necessary now, after the lapse of more than half a century, to inquire into." We recognise the wisdom of the latter portion of the remark. We fancy, however, we trace the reason to the claim advanced in the letter to the Grand Lodge of New York, written on 5th May 5791, when the venerable Putnam was Junior Warden. We have pointedly alluded to this above, and will repeat a portion of the excerpt in which the claim is set forth. The Lodge therein considered itself to be the Masonic Body "duly invested with every power necessary to constitute, rule, and govern the same." In other words, American Union, No. 1, claimed to be the future Grand Lodge of the Western Territory, and very probably resented the idea of being reduced to a common level with the other Lodges subsequently established. This is merely a theory of ours, which must be taken for what it is worth, but we think our readers will admit that it has some basis of probability to rest upon. However, in January 1816, the Lodge accepted a new warrant from the Ohian Grand Lodge, and has gone on more or less prosperously ever since. In 1790, it was the one and only Lodge of Freemasons existing in the vast territory of the West. Now it heads a roll of over five hundred Lodges, all acknowledging obedience to the Grand Lodge of one of the proudest and richest states in that "American Union," whose name it has borne so worthily for a little over a century. All honour to this fine old Lodge, whose warrant was granted some months before the declaration of American Independence, and on whose list of members occur such names as Joel Clarke first W.M., Parsons, Wyllys—

one of the original members, made prisoner by the British on Long Island,—Putnam initiated 1771, and deceased 1824, and Heart slain in battle with the Indians in 1791, in the unfortunate St. Clair expedition. May its future career be as prosperous, and may its members always be worthy of its distinguished founders!

BRO. HEATH'S CANDIDATURE FOR THE GRAND SECRETARYSHIP, SCOTLAND.

BUT few, if any, of our readers who have carefully studied Bro. Heath's letter, which appeared last week in these columns, will deny that he has a grievance. He has stated his case fairly and dispassionately. He vouches for the accuracy of his statements. Let the Committee of Grand Lodge, or whom it may most particularly concern, adduce, if possible, rebutting evidence, and we venture to say Bro. Heath is not the man we take him to be if he does not at once, and without arrière pensée, withdraw that portion of his letter which places certain officials of Grand Lodge, Scotland, in so ridiculous a light.

The case, as stated by him, is very simple. The office of Grand Secretary was declared vacant in Grand Lodge on 5th February, and it was, he suggests, pretty generally believed that only a Scotchman would be considered eligible to fill it. But an advertisement was inserted in the London Times of the 3rd ult., inviting applications from efficient members of the Craft, "such application, with testimonials to be lodged at Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh, not later than Saturday, 10th March." Under these circumstances Bro. Heath considered himself at liberty to enter the field. He procured several of the highest testimonials which a brother could have procured, and lodged them, with his formal application, as desired, on the 10th ult., for which purpose, acting on the advice of his friends, he visited Edinburgh in person. On his arrival, however, he found "the appointment was really a foregone conclusion, and had been so for some weeks"—the italics are our own—and he argues very justly that the Committee had no right to have inserted a meaningless advertisement in a leading London journal, when they knew the choice of the electors had been already made, virtually, if not formally. Bro. Heath puts the matter in a worse light still by his statement, "that even the greater number of the brethren constituting the Grand Committee had actually pledged themselves to one or other of those candidates, even before waiting to ascertain the result of the advertisement they themselves had sanctioned." As the case stands, and it will require some very convincing evidence to upset it, Bro. Heath has placed the Grand Committee on the horns of a dilemma. If—and we do not for one moment presume to suggest otherwise—they issued the advertisement bond fide, they of all men had no business to pledge themselves until they had ascertained its result. Or, if their minds were already made up in favour of this or that candidate, they should have issued no advertisement whatever; or so penned it that no man of ordinary common sense could possibly have mistaken it for anything but a mere form of procedure, which the authorities were bound to observe, but which would have not the slightest influence on the result of the election.

As regards this portion of his letter, we consider Bro. Heath has a right to complain of the Grand Committee, unless they can disturb his statements, which he tells us are statements of facts. But we cannot say we think he has any reason to be surprised at their conduct. In the singleness of his heart, he appears to have regarded the matter strictly from a Masonic point of view. He considered the invitation of brethren to brethren had some meaning attached to it, or it would never have been issued. On the other hand, the Committee appear to have considered the invitation they issued was either a joke or a mere matter of form, which it was their duty to observe, but which no one would ever dream of taking seriously. We shall be curious to learn what, if any, answer the Grand Committee can make to Bro. Heath's statements.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SOUTH WALES (EASTERN DIVISION.)

ON Wednesday Sir George Elliot, M.P., who had been appointed by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to be the Provincial Grand Master of the Eastern Division of South Wales, was duly installed into that high office at a Provincial Grand Lodge held at Aberdare. That the office thus conferred upon Sir George Elliot is esteemed of great honour, is to be seen from the names of the other Provincial Grand Masters at the present time, these including Prince Leopold (Oxfordshire), the Earl of Carnarvon (Somersetshire), Lord Hartington, M.P. (Derbyshire), the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe (Cornwall), Lord de Tabley (Cheshire), the Duke of St. Albans (Lincolnshire), the Earl of Limerick (Bristol), Lord Skelmersdale (Western Division Lancashire), Viscount Holmesdale, M.P. (Kent), the Earl of Ferrers (Leicester and Rutland), Lord Suffield (Norfolk), the Duke of Manchester (Huntingdonshire), Earl Percy, M.P. (Northumberland), the Duke of Newcastle (Nottinghamshire), the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot (Staffordshire), Lord Pelham, M.P. (Sussex), Lord Leigh (Warwickshire), Lord Methuen (Wilts), the Earl of Zetland (North and East Riding of Yorkshire), the Earl of Bective (Cumberland and Westmoreland), Lord Waveney (Suffolk), Lord Sherborne (Gloucestershire), Sir D. Gooch, M.P., Mr. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., Mr. T. P. Halsey, M.P., Sir W. W. Wynn, M.P., Colonel Burdett, Sir H. Edwards, General Brownrigg, Colonel E. C. Malet de Carteret, &c. Though the Grand Master's position is yearly an elective one, that of Provincial Grand Master is an appointment by the Grand Master under Letters Patent, and is bestowed upon those members of the Craft who have distinguished themselves in "Craft Masonry," and are connected with the Provinces. Sir George Elliot is a Past Master of the Bard of Avon Lodge, held in Middlesex; was Deputy Grand Master of Middlesex, and is a member of St. David's Lodge, held in Aberdare—a Lodge which, with his aid and the aid of his relative, Mr. J. C. Parkinson, has been raised to a high position. Sir George is connected with the industrial enterprise of this part of Wales, and his accession to this dignity was hailed with pleasure by all. There were great numbers of visitors from all parts of the country, especially from the neighbouring Province of Monmouth. The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in the Temperance Hall, which had been specially prepared for the occasion. The Grand Registrar of England, Brother Æneas M'Intyre, Q.C., was the acting Grand Master, and was assisted by Brother J. C. Parkinson, Past Grand Deacon of England, Past Deputy Grand Master of Middlesex, and Brother Thomas Fenn, Past Grand Deacon of England, Colonel Burdett, Provincial Grand Master of Middlesex, and Bro. John Monckton (Town Clerk of London), President of the Board of General Purposes of Grand Lodge of England. The Lodge having been opened in due form, the Letters Patent conferring his high rank having been read, the Acting Provincial Grand Master appointed a deputation to meet the Provincial Grand Master elect, who was then brought into the Lodge amid great cheering. Having given the usual solemn pledges to uphold the rights of the brethren of the Province, and to discharge the duties of the office, Sir George was regularly installed and invested, and was greeted in the customary form by the large assembly. The newly-installed Grand Master of the Province then nominated his officers, as follows:—Bros. J. Jones Hewson Prov. G. Reg., J. E. Price Prov. S.G.W., J. Rogers Prov. J.G.W., F. G. Glass Prov. S.G.D., D. Hopkins Prov. J.G.D., J. Jones Prov. G. Treas., the Vicar of Aberdare Prov. G. Chap., W. P. Garrett Prov. G.D. of Cers., George Batterwell Prov. G. Tyler, J. R. Robinson Prov. G.S. of Works, R. Webb Prov. G. Sword B., G. H. Webb Prov. G. Purs. The officers having been greeted in form, the usual congratulations were offered, and Sir George, assisted by his officers, duly closed his Lodge. The visitors then proceeded to the Market Hall, where a banquet was spread, and the usual speeches customary on the occasion were made. Bro. J. C. Parkinson, as Past Master of the St. David's Lodge, whose members had made all the arrangements of the day, gave the visitors cordial welcome, and in the course of his speech touched upon the principles of the Craft as known to Englishmen in its symbolical teachings of the highest principles of pure religion, and its requirement in its members of a strict observance of the laws and a ready obedience to the rulers in the land. Hence, he said, Freemasonry in England was a bulwark and a support to the institutions of the nation. The gathering was entirely successful, and the town in the evening was in gala array.—Times.

We gather the following additional particulars from the South Wales Daily News:—Sir George Elliot was born at Gateshead, and through life has been associated closely with the coal trade of Durham. Without following the details of his first years, we may safely assume that Sir George Elliot firmly established a determination in early life to "dare and do." By indomitable perseverance, he beat down the barriers to fame and fortune, and by a sure and rapid process eventually developed into one of the leading men of the county of Durham. As one of the members of that county he is now, and has been for many years, returned to Parliament in the Conservative interest, where his conduct has earned for him universal respect. It is only necessary to observe further that Sir George Elliot is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant, not only for Durham, but for the county of Glamorgan; he is a member of the St. David's Lodge, Aberdare, and has been well known in the eastern division from his connection with the Powell's Duffryn Coal Company, the Alexandra Docks, Newport, and other local commercial undertakings. Sir George was initiated as a Mason many years ago in the city of Durham, where his constant activity in Masonic matters made him an esteemed and conspicuous member of the district Lodges of the north. With all Sir George's strong will for good work, his efforts might not perhaps have been so successful, but for the happy promptings and guidance of his son-in-law, Bro. J. C. Parkinson. Some years since, when the Freemasons of Stratford-on-Avon resolved upon resigning the warrant of the Bard of Avon Lodge, Bro. J. C. Parkinson P.G.D. Engd. P.D. Prov. G.M. Middlesex, applied that, in lieu of the warrant being surrendered, it should be transferred to the Province of Middlesex, which was subsequently effected, and he was appointed as its first Master. Sir George Elliot at that time occupied the position of Senior Warden, but was soon installed as W.M. Almost simultaneously, we believe, Bro. Parkinson, Sir G. Elliot, and Lord Limerick founded the Bard of Avon Chapter. Sir George is a stanch supporter of our charities, being vice-patron of the three institutions. Sir George took a prominent part in the ceremony, which took place three years ago, at Stratford-on-Avon, to commemorate the erection of a marble tablet in the church of the Holy Trinity, which notified that an adjacent stained glass window, opposite Shakespeare's effigy, was presented to the church by the Bard of Avon Lodge. The day passed off with considerable eclat, Lord Leigh having opened, at Stratford Town-hall, a special Provincial Grand Lodge of Warwickshire, from which a deputation was formed to receive Sir George Elliot, as W.M. of the Bard of Avon Lodge, Bro. M'Intyre Q.C., and several brethren of eminence, who arrived from London to participate on the occasion. At the close of the proceedings a banquet was given under the presidency of Sir George, who, in eloquent speeches, afforded ample evidence of his knowledge and deep appreciation of those sacred lines upon which faithful Masons ever work. The hon. baronet was elected Dep. Prov. G.M. of Middlesex upon the resignation of Bro. Parkinson. In addition to his labours in Craft Masonry, he has filled position in the ancient and accepted Rite, and in the religious and military Order of the Temple, he being a Past Preceptor of the Bard of Avon Preceptory, of which he was one of the founders; as also the Bard of Avon Rose Croix Chapter, wherein he is P.M.W.S. Sir George's retirement from the Bard of Avon Lodge was not allowed to pass without a substantial acknowledgment of his labours, and accordingly the noted Wyon of London, was commissioned to design a handsome and appropriate gold medal, which was presented to him. Sir George's charitable acts are not blazoned abroad, but they are well-known to those who are familiar with his Masonic movements.

After the closing of the Lodge, the brethren proceeded to St. Elvan's Church, where the service was carried out by the Vicar of Aberdare, who selected as his text Ezra iii. 13, "The people could not discern the noise of the shout of joy from the noise of the weeping." At the close of the sermon a collection was made on behalf of the local Charities. At the banquet, Sir George Elliot, who presided, was supported by Bro. J. C. Parkinson on his right, and Bro. Æ. McIntyre on his left. After the regular loyal toasts had been disposed of, that of the Pro G.M., the Deputy G.M. and the rest of the Grand Officers was given, coupled with the name of Bro. Monckton, who said he esteemed it a distinguished honour to reply to the toast. It was a pleasure to represent one's highly esteemed colleagues—officers of the Grand Lodge—even for a few moments. In their names he begged cordially and briefly to respond to the kind remarks of the Provincial Grand Master. But he was compelled to allude to a further and greater pleasure; he alluded to the privilege of being present in the eastern division of South Wales on this most interesting and most auspicious occasion. There were many present older in Masonry than himself, and although his connection dated many years back, he could not remember having attended a meeting which had given him greater Masonic pleasure and satisfaction than that of to-day. They who had come from the metropolis had been more and more astonished as the day had gone on, and he would tell them frankly that when he was invited to be present at this installation, he thought he was coming to a new country place called Aberdare, and that they would have to get on as best they could. He had no conception he was going to see such splendid and business-like preparations as he had witnessed in the two buildings that day. When he heard it whispered that a great deal of the good taste displayed was to be attributed to a young Mason, and a member of the youngest Lodge in the Province, he affirmed that there must be a great deal in Masonry that could evoke such enthusiasm from a young brother; but that good taste of the young brother would have gone for little without kindly fraternal hands to assist. (Cheers). It would have been most ungracious to come and enjoy the hospitality and Masonic pleasures of the day if he failed in the names of those afar off to acknowledge the manner in which they had received the toast of the Grand Officers. He wished, in conclusion, prosperity to all present. (Cheers).

Bro. McIntyre, Q.C., had much pleasure in proposing the "Health of the Right Worshipful Prov. G.M." wishing him long life and continued prosperity, and a desire to see him as he was now—surrounded by his neighbours and brethren, and that he would always be supported by them. (Cheers). In the presence of Sir George, one could not say so much as if he was absent. They saw him now, had known him, and would know more of him. He was a brother whose hand would be open with that generosity which characterised faithful Masons, and whose kindly feeling would animate every Lodge and every brother in the Province. The Prov. G.M., in response, remarked that the brethren must have very strong sympathy with him in the very embarrassed position in which he now felt himself, especially after the very handsome manner in which his esteemed brother had proposed, and in which they had received, his health. He felt that it was very well for him. He did not prepare any speech, for, had he done so, he believed he would have forgotten every word. (Laughter.) The few observations, therefore, that he proposed to make would be spoken from the impulses of his own heart. (Cheers.) He had no reservation in his feelings, but he was almost overwhelmed by the sentiments expressed by his brother in proposing the toast, and by the kindness evinced towards him by the brethren in the Province in supporting his nomination to the Provincial Grand Master of England. He felt that it was an undeserved compliment that had been paid to him. (Cries of "No, no.") He could only say that he had to record his most sincere thanks for their kindness. He almost felt that there must have been some secret in his life which he had not discovered — that there was something about himself which he had not been able to discern, that had brought about such a good result. He supported fully the great principles which were embodied in the system of Freemasonry, and when he looked at it from every point of view it always impressed him that their system more than any other was one which it was his duty to uphold. (Applause.) There was a secrecy in connection with the noble Order which the outside world knew nothing of. If it were possible that the outside world could be made acquainted with it, he believed that not merely would their principle be more largely appreciated, but there would be a great accession to their body of members. If they looked at it in any of these views it would be seen by their acts of love, always accompanied by and combined with a most excellent religious feeling and dogma, that there was no possibility, as long as Freemasonry was upheld and proclaimed, the country would be given over to idolatry. (Cheers.) In speaking as he had done, he had spoken from his heart. He had been somewhat exercised in mind as to whom he should appoint as his deputy, but he refrained from making that appointment on this occasion. Many had worked well and done much in securing such gratifying results as they that day witnessed. If he could be in his way a medium to promote the good of the noble Order, if he were supported by the brethren as he believed he should be, he should feel most happy to do everything that lay in his power. He assured them that he would lend his aid to establish the solidity, the vitality, and enduring usefulness of Masonry in the Province.

Bro. J. C. Parkinson proposed the health of the Visitors, and coupled with the toast the names of Bros. Colonel Burdett, Prov. G.M. Middlesex, S. G. Homfray D.P.G.M. Monmouth, and Fenn P.G.D. The Provincial Grand Officers was responded to by Bros. McIntyre, Col. Burdett, S. George Homfray and Fenn. All these distinguished brethren alluded in the highest terms to the splendid arrangements made by the Lodges for the installation, and expressed their high pleasure at the testimony they had received on the occasion of the zeal and earnestness with which Freemasonry was supported in the Province. The concluding toasts were The Masonic Charities and The Lodges of the Province. Suitable addresses were delivered in connection with these toasts, and heartily responded to. The interesting proceedings were shortly afterwards brought to a close. We may mention that the decorations, which were universally admired, were completed under the superintendence of Bro. Fenn, and that the banquet was supplied by A. Jones, of the Black Lion Hotel.

THE COMMEMORATIVE LIFEBOATS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—Your correspondent, "A South Devon P.M.," in his letter on the above subject, says that "Lucretius" had stated "that Dartmouth was the only spot between Torbay and Plymouth where a lifeboat, to be of any use, should be placed." I am sure that gentleman will permit me to say that I did not examine or speak of the coast below Salcombe. I was most solicitous about the district, of which I consider Dartmouth the centre, because of the distressing shipwrecks which are constantly taking place there, and I hope that the lifeboat, which I find has already been built and paid for, will soon be placed on the pontoon which is to be erected for her reception. I may say that I have heard Hope Cove spoken favourably of; but, personally, I know nothing of its eligibility for a lifeboat station. There is much to approve in the other remarks of "A South Devon P.M.," and if I might take the liberty, I would point out to him the desirability of placing lifeboats at Scilly, where in ten years 415 persons were drowned, and property to the extent of one million pounds sterling was lost. I have brought these facts prominently before some of the leading men of this kingdom, and I shall be gratified by your allowing me to do so in your own excellent journal. I should like to see my countrymen act more upon well ascertained principles, and less upon impulse, so that provision should be made before catastrophes occur in order to lessen the mournful consequences which too often follow. Perhaps you will allow me to add, that among the designs which have been submitted to me for the saving of life on these terribly destructive coasts is that of a telegraph buoy, invented by Mr. Festing of the Control Office, and which I have submitted to the consideration of the Board of Trade.

Faithfully yours,

LUCRETIUS.

CRAFT MASONRY AND THE HIGH GRADES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In reference to the seal which I described, and concerning which "P. T. T." wrote last week, I may say that my reasons for calling it "official" are, that it is far too massive and clumsy to have ever been intended for a "trinket" or even for private use. You will see, from the impression I sent you, what are the dimensions of the face. The handle is of hard wood, ending in a large knob about three inches in diameter.

I quite agree with your correspondent, that there is nothing surprising in the combination of emblems, and only sent you a description of the seal because I regarded it as a link in that very strong chain of evidence which exists that, until the revival of 1717, Freemasonry was essentially Christian in its teachings, and that it was not until some years after that date that the "universality" doctrine, which we now regard as the essence of the thing, was accepted throughout this country.

Yours fraternally,

T. B. WHYTEHEAD, 18°.

THE JEWISH QUESTION.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

Dear Sir and Brother,—It hardly appears to me to be worth while discussing the question whether a few years since a particular candidate professing Christianity was or was not refused admission into one of our so-called Jewish Lodges. The fact is pretty generally known throughout the Craft, that both now and in years gone by, these Lodges have always been included Jews and Christians among their members, though the former were superior numerically. The issue which the Montefiore and Joppa Lodges have raised is an important one, and, as you have pointed out, involves a question of principle, the importance of which cannot be exaggerated. What I hope, is, that the Lodges, be they so-called Jewish or not, which have initiated the present movement, will persevere until their object is attained. This, as far as my judgment goes, I take to be either that our Grand Lodge shall successfully press the recognition of the admissibility of Jews into Freemasonry upon the Berlin Grand Lodge or Lodges which now reject it, or as you have suggested, abstain from further official intercourse with it or them, till recognition is accorded. They have thus far obtained a fair measure of success; let them work with all the greater diligence, and I feel certain they will carry their point.

Yours fraternally,

T. P. C.

MASONS OF MANY DEGREES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your extract under the above heading from the Voice of Masonry, has appeared very opportunely. I feel quite sure that unprejudiced brethren of experience in this country will admit that a large proportion of working Craft Masons are also working members of the higher degrees. Occasionally, it is true, one hears disparaging remarks made with regard to the high grades, but these always come, as might be anticipated, from brethren who have not taken those degrees, and who therefore speak "foolishly." The fact is, the study of Masonry is so thoroughly absorbing to those who take it up in a right spirit that few who once enter upon it are content (unless prevented by religious disabilities or opinions) to remain ignorant of any Masonic teachings or curiosities of ritual which come within their reach. Depend upon it your Mason who sneers at what he does not comprehend, and who declines to be enlightened, is a Mason in name only.

I am, yours fraternally,

T. B. W.

QUALIFICATION OF CANDIDATES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—A few months back a candidate presented himself at Lodge Victoria in Burmah, No. 832, for initiation, a foreigner, when it was discovered by brethren that his knowledge of English was so limited that he barely understood his O.B. It was discovered further that he could not read nor write any language. It was again discovered that in the Tyler's book a brother had signed for the initiate "his × mark. Witnessed by —— Tyler!!!" And, to cap all, that the application and declaration had been signed by the candidate's wife!!!

The District Grand Secretary reported the whole matter to the Deputy District Grand Master. An inquiry was held by the District Grand Lodge Committee, and a report submitted to the District Grand Lodge. A warm discussion ensued, technical objections being raised regarding the powers and procedure of the District Grand Lodge Committee and the District Grand Lodge. The compromise arrived at, which you have noticed in your paper of the 20th January, was that the initiate should satisfy the Deputy District Grand Master of his qualifications before he was advanced to a higher degree, and on the 12th September it is declared that the candidate having satisfied the Deputy District Grand Master that he was able to read and write, permission was granted to confer the second and third degrees. Meanwhile the candidate has learned to sign his name.

Can the Deputy District Grand Master or the District Grand Lodge condone such conduct on the part of a private Lodge? What is the punishment to be meted out to the private Lodge, its Master and Wardens, for its and their neglect? What precedent can be cited for or against the Lodge?

Yours fraternally,

A BURMAH MASON.

APPROACHING ELECTION, FOR THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—It seems to me to be very desirable in our election of boys for admission into the Royal Masonic Institution that a rule should be adopted by the Committee, if the proposal should meet with their approbation, that an orphan boy, a son of a deceased Freemason, who has been unsuccessful in his application seven times, and has not yet attained to the age of exclusion, should be received on the foundation without further election. Such an act of grace would be welcomed by the Craft throughout the country, and be rewarded by additional support to the funds. There is such a case now standing on the list of candidates, viz., that of George Samuel Cox. What is the widowed mother with her four orphan children to do, under the oppressive circumstances of struggling with poverty? Masonry expects and professes something more than "Be ye warmed, and be ye clothed." This case I know to be a deplorable one, and will not the Craft assist?

I remain, Sir, very faithfully yours,

DANIEL ACE, D.D.,

P.M. 1233, and P.G.C. for Lincolnshire.

Laughton Vicarage, near Gainsborough, 4th April 1877.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—May I ask you kindly to insert this letter in your next issue. I wish to plead for the little boy George Samuel Cox, the first on the list of applicants for admission into the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. It is his 7th application, and he can only stand one more election. He is the son of the late Bro. James Cox, who was initiated into Freemasonry in 1862, and who was successively W.M. and, until the time of his death, Secretary of the Fortitude Lodge, No. 165, Plymouth. Our brother Cox was for eleven years master of the Stonehouse workhouse, and, on his retirement in order to take a better position, he was presented with a handsome testimonial. He then became master of the Model Workhouse, Devonport. Since his death, his widow has been supporting herself and her five small children by taking a situation as a national schoolmistress at Stanstead, in Suffolk; she is a most respectable and deserving person, has managed to apprentice one son, and is now most anxious to get this child elected to the Boys' School. But in the six elections, he has only polled 383 votes. The case is known to, and recommended by the M.W. Pro Grand Master Lord Carnarvon, R.W.'s the Lord Waveney P.G.M. Suffolk, the Rev. J. Huyshe P.G.M. Devon, W. W. Beach Esq. M.P. P.G.M. Hants and Isle of Wight, Rev. C. J. Martyn P.G.C. D.P.G. Suffolk, L. P. Memtham Esq. P.G.D., D.P.G.M. Devon, Rev. Dr. Ace P. Prov. G.C. Lincolnshire, J. Foster P. Prov. S.G.W. Lincolnshire, Jew, Stonehouse, Plymouth; Bros. the Rev. G. R. Portal P.G.M. Mark Masters, R. R. Rodd Esq. P.P.G.R. Devon, and many other brethren. I shall be happy to receive proxies and to give any further information that may be required, and I hope I shall not appeal in vain for help to the Craft.

I have the honour to be, yours fraternally,

CHARLES J. MARTYN P.G.C. D.P.G.M. Suffolk,

Vice Patron of the Institution.

Melford Rectory, Suffolk, 4th April 1877.

THE DRAMA.

Easter Novelties.—The Olympic.—Prince of Wales's.—Gaiety.

NOVELTY this season is conspicuous by its absence, at least in the dramatic world. The "new and original" drama by Mr. Charles Reade, produced under the title of The Scuttled Ship, at the OLYMPIC, can hardly be said to be either the one or the other. Under the title of Foul Play, the incidents employed in this production were some years since used by the author in a novel—which was fairly successful—and by Mr. Boucicault in a drama, which was, if we remember rightly, a failure. The present play differs from its predecessor in many respects, not the least of which is its inordinate length. A drama, in six acts, which takes four hours and a half in representation, is surely little short of an anachronism in these days. Yet, although neither new nor original, and too long by at least a third, the play is both interesting and dramatic in a high degree. Mr. Neville as Michael Penfold, and Miss Pateman as Helen Rolleston, appear to great advantage in these important parts, and the other characters are not inadequately represented.

The PRINCE OF WALES'S re-opened with an entirely new programme on Saturday last, but of the two pieces presented, one, London Assurance, is familiar to most playgoers, and has been performed at most theatres; whilst the other, under the title of The Vicarage, hides the well-remembered features of The Cosy Couple, a farce originally played, we believe, by Mr. Charles Mathews, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthews. The comedy is less successful than might have been expected interpreted as it is by the full strength of Mrs. Bancroft's excellent company. Neither Miss Madge Robertson as Lady Gay Spanker, nor Mr. Bancroft as Dazzle are as effective as we have been accustomed to see them in other roles. Mrs. Bancroft, as Pert, is, of course, all that could be wished, and not even Mrs. Keeley, in her best day's, could have rendered the part better. As Grace Harkaway, that somewhat over-rated actress, Miss Carlotta Addison was of a commonplace order of excellence, whilst Mr. Kendal as Charles Courtley, and Mr. Sugden as Carl, were fairly successful. The Vicarage is capitally played throughout by Mr. Arthur Cecil, Mrs. Bancroft and Mr. Kendal.

The Babes in the Wood; or, the Orphans Released, by Mr. Burnand, is the holiday production at the GAIETY, and is both a humorous piece in itself, and capitally acted by Mr. Hollingshead's company. Mr. Toole and Miss Farren as the two "babes," assisted by Mr. Royce, Miss Emily Muir, and Miss Kate Vaughan, trip merrily through their parts, and the general hilarity of the audience testifies to the success of their endeavours. This (Saturday) evening, sees a new programme at the HAYMARKET, consisting of a new Robertsonian comedy, entitled Fame, by C. M. Rae, a comedietta called A Fair Encounter, by the same author, and that capital farce, Tom Noddy's Secret, which has not been performed on the London stage for some years past.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentay to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Bonfshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Keiso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

"The inquiring Brother who may wish to know something of the strength and beauty of the principles of Masonry, will find a pleasure in scanning the characteristic pictures in this book."—The Brighouse News.

H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G., &c., M.W.G.M., President.
HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

A QUARTERLY General Court of the Governors and Subscribers of this Institution will be held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London, on Saturday, the 14th day of April 1877, at Twelve o'clock precisely, on the general business of the Institution; to consider Notices of Motion as follows, and to elect Thirteen Girls into the School by ballot from a list of Fifty-four candidates. The Election will commence at One o'clock (or after the usual business is over), and close at Three o'clock precisely.

By Bro. H. G. Warren—

That, having regard to the increased income of the Institution and the altered position of the Secretary and Collector, it is expedient that Rules 74 and 76 shall be so amended as to provide that the Secretary shall give security for £1000, the Secretary's Chief Clerk £500, and any other Clerks £250 each. Such security to be provided through an Approved Guarantee Society, and the premiums paid by this Institution, so as not to be a burthen on the officials.

By Bro. F. W. H. Ramsay, M.D.—

That the proposition of Bro. Warren, as to the Guarantees, be referred to a Select Committee, composed of Bros. Col. Creaton and Col. Burdett, Trustees; W. Hyde Pullen, Wm. Roebuck, D.M. Dewar, Raynham W. Stewart, John Mason, and Dr. Ramsay, with power to add to their number.

By Bro. Raynham W. Stewart, P.G.D., V.P.—

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Queen, with the Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold, is spending Easter at Osborne. On Wednesday, the Princess of Wales left London en route for Athens, in order to visit her brother, King George, and the Queen of Greece. The journey was viâ Paris and Brindisi, at which latter place it is expected she will arrive this day. Here the Royal yacht Osborne will be in readiness to convey her to Athens, where it is expected she will make a stay for some little time. Meanwhile, the Prince of Wales's health is steadily improving, and we trust he will soon be able to set out upon his projected trip to the Mediterranean. The Duke of Cambridge has returned to town from Portsmouth, whither he had gone for the benefit of his health. On Tuesday he visited the Prince and Princess of Wales at Marlborough House.

As regards weather, the holiday folk have fared better than might have been anticipated. Both Good Friday and the Bank Holiday were fine; consequently the various places of amusement in and near London were pretty well thronged with visitors, while not a few ventured on an excursion to this or that favourite sea-side resort. As usual, the Cumberland and Westmoreland Wrestling Society held its annual fête at Lillie Bridge on Good Friday. The entries for the several contests were numerous, and the large assemblage of spectators which had gathered in this popular resort of athleticism were highly gratified with the sport. The prize for London men, not exceeding eleven stone, was won by Atkinson. There were fifty-three entries for the All-comers' Prize, same weight, and in the final rounds, two out of three, R. Pooley threw W. Matthews the first and third, while the latter won the intermediate. For the Championship Prize, open to all weights, the entries were more numerous still. After a good display of strength and skill, G. Steadman was proclaimed the winner. The wrestling was followed by pole-leaping, which excited a considerable amount of interest, and a Quarter Mile Handicap. W. Barrow, of Keswick, won the first prize in the former with a leap of 10 ft., but the second prize was divided among W. Robson, T. Atkinson, and J. Scott, who severally cleared 9 ft. 3 in. The handicap was won by W. Arthur in 48 sec. On Monday, throngs of sight-seers were to be seen in all parts of London, in the neighbourhood of those resorts where sight-seers most do congregate. The Enfield Steeplechases was one of the principal attractions, and, of course, drew a large concourse of spectators. The Crystal Palace, which is always known to provide plenty of amusement on our public holidays, was nearly as well filled as it was last year, the number of visitors being about 58,000, against 60,000 in 1876. The attraction at the Royal Albert Hall was a Grand Miscellaneous Concert, in aid of the Cheesemongers' Benevolent Institution. Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Madame Patey, Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Signor Foli were among the principal artistes engaged for the occasion. Nor was the Royal Aquarium, Westminster, behindhand in its endeavours to attract visitors. There were two performances in the theatre, and two concerts in the main hall, besides a variety of other entertainments. The Zoological Gardens, the Polytechnic, and the British Museum were among the most popular of the places which offer instructive entertainment. In the evening the theatres were well attended, so that, on the whole, people must have been very hard indeed to please if they were unable to spend their holidays agreeably.

The revival of the Easter Monday Review, which was held this year at Dunstable, appears to have given general satisfaction. At all events over 13,000 men appeared on the field, the arrangements having been under the direct supervision of the War Office, while the railways were able to despatch the men promptly, so that little, if any, delay occurred on the journey either going or returning. General Stephenson was in command of the entire force, which, as usual, was divided into two armies, of attack and defence respectively, the former being under the command of Colonel Sargent, C.B., and the latter under that of Lord Abinger. The defence was presumed to have been successful, and after the mimic battle, the whole of the force marched past the general, and then left the ground on their return to London, the first detachment reaching King's Cross at 5.30 p.m.

On Tuesday the operatic season opened at the Royal Italian Opera, Covent Garden, with the performance of Verdi's opera, Un Ballo in Maschera. The artistes included Mdlle. D'Angéri as Amelia, Madame Scalchi as Ulrica, Mdlle. Bianchi as Oscar, and Signors Graziani, Capponi, Rossi, and Manfredi. On Thursday was given Auber's Fra Diavolo, with Mdlle. Bianchi, Madame Scalchi, Signori Ciampi, Tagliafico, and Capponi, and M. Capoul.

The Agricultural Hall is again the scene of one of those great walking matches with which the name of Weston is so intimately associated. On the present occasion, however, Weston is not matched against time, but against another long distance walker, who, in America at least, enjoys almost as high a reputation, namely, D. O'Leary. The men began walking at five minutes past midnight on Sunday-Monday night, Weston starting on his journey about a minute earlier than his rival. The two walked on steadily at the rate of about five miles an hour. O'Leary took his first rest a little after noon, when he had covered a little more than 63 miles. Weston continued walking for over two hours more, and then rested for some seventeen minutes. By midnight Weston had walked over 116 miles, and O'Leary over 114 miles. At the end of the second day, however, the position of the men was greatly changed in favour of the latter. When the second twenty-four was completed, O'Leary had retired to rest some time, having walked 208 miles, while Weston, at the same time, had gone over 194 miles. O'Leary covered his first 200 miles in the unprecedented time of 45hrs. 21min. 33sec., or less by 1hr. 13min. 57 sec. than the fastest time hitherto on record. At the end of the third day, O'Leary had done 294 miles, and Weston nearly 275. Further details must be reserved for next week.

We are sorry to see that the present holiday season has not passed without some fatal casualties. On the afternoon of Good Friday a party of three excursionists from Liverpool went for a row on the Dee, near Chester. On returning, either through carelessness or other cause, the boat was upset and the occupants were precipitated into the water. One of them, a woman, named Mary McCutchon was gallantly rescued by a soldier of the 106th Regiment, but the two others, who were men, were both drowned. On Saturday afternoon, a somewhat similar and equally fatal accident occurred on the Thames at Teddington Weir. Two young gentlemen had hired a boat from Richmond and rowed up the river; when near the Weir, just above Teddington Lock, they met a steam launch, when, owing to some cause, as yet unexplained, the occupants of the boat were soon overpowered, and as the tide was on the ebb, the boat was drawn through the puddles of the weir and instantly smashed to pieces. Several attempts were made to rescue the unfortunate gentlemen. Joe Sadler and others put off in boats from Messenger's Ferry, but accomplished nothing, owing to the rapidity of the current. A young gentleman named Chappell and a Mr. Wilkinson, who were on the lawn of a house abutting on Weir-bank, plunged unhesitatingly into the water, when they heard cries for help, but they were unable to do anything, and were themselves able to return to land only after great difficulty, and thoroughly exhausted.

The Eastern Question seems but very little nearer solution than it was last week. True, the Protocol on which Russia appears to have set her heart has been signed by all the Great Powers, provisionally by England, and it is said likewise by Austria. This, in the opinion of many people, was to determine the whole difficulty, but diplomatic difficulties are unlike others. No sooner has that happened which we are given to understand will set matters right, than some fresh obstacle presents itself, and the end appears to be as far removed as ever. This appears to be the case in the present instance. Everything depended on the Protocol being signed. It has been signed, and when Turkey and Montenegro have settled the terms of peace between them; when Russia and Turkey are agreed to a mutual disarmament; when the former is satisfied that Turkey is serious in the reforms she is introducing; and when Turkey is able to satisfy Russia that no more outbreaks will occur, either in the provinces now disaffected or in any others, then, it seems, but not till then, there is a prospect that war will not ensue. This is not exactly reassuring, but we cannot say it is entirely unsatisfactory. It is impossible we can continue much longer without gathering the real character of Russia's designs. She it is who has been throughout the main obstacle to a settlement. We are not hazarding any opinion in writing this, but stating a simple fact with which the whole world is acquainted. Her anxiety is for peace, while her acts are warlike. But she cannot continue fooling the rest of Europe for ever. If she is sincere in her desire for peace, the peace of Europe may be assured to-morrow, and the world generally is beginning to recognise this fact. Turkey may be as black as she is painted, but this is doubtful. Russia is not as honourable as she would have us believe she is. This is not doubtful, though some may have elected to think so in the days of the "atrocities."

In a report on a Widows' and Orphans' Home and Industrial School, which was agreed to at the Annual Communication in Vicksburg, on 7th February, of the Grand Lodge of Mississippi, and is appended to the Masonic Jewel for last month, we find some very interesting details as to Masonic Institutions established, or in contemplation, in various of the United States, and elsewhere. Connecticut, it seems, is about establishing a Home for Aged and Infirm Masons, their Widows and Orphans, but before any attempt is made at organisation, it is proposed to raise a fund of one hundred thousand dollars by contribution, but whether by voluntary or enforced contributions is not stated. In Kentucky for some years past a Masonic Widows' and Orphans' Home has been maintained under the auspices of Grand Lodge. The subscriptions received from the outset from Lodges and the Ladies' Aid Society amount to nearly 149,000 dollars. There is an endowment fund of close on 138,500 dollars, which yields an income of about 10,000 dollars per annum. Since the opening of the Home, a hundred and eighty-five widows and orphans of deceased Kentuckian Freemasons have been admitted, and there are at present one hundred and twenty-eight inmates of the Institution. The expenses for the year ended 31st August 1875 amounted to, in round figures, 39,800 dollars, but of this sum 25,884 dollars were expended for building purposes, so that the actual current expenses of the year were only 13,815 dollars. The Home is governed by a board of fifteen directors, five of whom retire annually. In Missouri, we are told, the Grand Lodge once built and owned a Masonic Orphans' College, but after the lapse of a few years it was abandoned, as it was found that it "cost about four times as much to educate each orphan in the school as it would to pay their tuition in the regular academic and public schools by the Lodges themselves near their own homes." The College was accordingly closed, and presented to the Central Female College, which grants free tuition to thirty orphans if Grand Lodge desire it, but Lodges now attend to their own orphans, and are, in consequence, excused from paying any Charity Fund to Grand Lodge. North Carolina formerly appropriated 2000 dollars annually for the support of two Orphan Asylums—one at Oxford and one at Asheville. At the last Communication of Grand Lodge the latter was incorporated with the former, the annual subvention being continued. The two Institutions since their establishment have fed, clothed, and instructed 145 orphans, taken from the most needy in the State. In Nebraska a fund is being raised for the education of indigent children of deceased Masons, and now in Mississippi it has been determined to erect a Widows' and Orphans' Home and Industrial School. An endowment of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, calculated to yield an annual income of ten thousand dollars, will be raised in the first instance, and then a sum of fifty thousand dollars will be secured for building. The Institution will be governed by a Board, consisting of the Grand Master, Dep. Grand Master, Grand Wardens ex officio, and fifteen members, elected at the rate of five annually, each class of five retiring in turn, in order to create the requisite number of vacancies.

We have received copy of a Petition or Memorial which will be presented at the next Quarterly Convocation of Grand Chapter by the three Principals of Royal Union Chapter, No. 382, Uxbridge. It appears that in the beginning of this year Comp. M. Cooke, M.E.Z. of the Chapter in question, with the other Principals, was summoned to appear before Col. Burdett, Grand Superintendent of Middlesex, to show cause why the Chapter should not be suspended for non-payment of dues to the Provincial Grand Chapter from the year 1872 till the present. Z., H. and J., however, acknowledged the receipt of, but did not obey, the summons, and as a consequence, sentence of suspension was passed against the Chapter, while the Principals were suspended from all their "Royal Arch Masonic Functions." At the last meeting of Grand Chapter an attempt was made by Comp. Cooke to present his memorial, but owing, we presume, to the non-observance of certain formalities, the reception of the memorial was declined. We trust the document in its present form will be found sufficiently formal, and that the appeal will be heard forthwith. It is unsatisfactory to have cases of this kind left unsettled, especially when the important question of jurisdiction has been raised. We reserve our opinion on the case till it has been heard and determined in Grand Chapter.

The General Committee of the Boys' School will meet this afternoon at 4 p.m., when, as we understand, the question of the extension of the School will be taken into consideration.

PERIODICAL LITERATURE.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

The New Quarterly offers one of the best programmes we have read for some time. The number opens with an admirable paper by George Meredith, "On the idea of Comedy, and of the Comic Spirit." We advise our readers not simply to read, but to study it likewise. "The Tourist in Portugal" is next in order, and when we say it is from the pen of Mr. John Latouche, we think we have said enough to secure for it the attention it deserves. Mr. Latouche has already distinguished himself by a series of articles, entitled "Travels in Portugal," which appeared in the earlier numbers of this periodical, and we are promised that, from time to time, further papers will appear with the heading of the present paper. We are glad of this, for the author is quite equal to the task, having been evidently at much pains to acquaint himself with Portuguese habits and customs and with the capabilities, agricultural, industrial, and otherwise, of the country. He writes, moreover, in an easy fluent style, without the slightest care to misrepresent or exaggerate. "The Art of Lying," by C. Elliott Browne, is most interesting. Travellers are great adepts in the art, the instances adduced in the course of this essay, of their marvellous ability in the art of lying are both numerous and entertaining. The amateur of music will rejoice in the article on "Musical Expression and the Composers of the Eighteenth Century," while the man of science will derive equal pleasure from taking "A Glance at the Comets," under the guidance of Mr. E. V. Heward. The fiction is contributed by writers whose names are familar to readers of the New Quarterly, Mrs. Jack; a Story," being from the pen of Frances Eleanor Trollope, and "The Mystic; or, a Journey to Edinburgh," from that of Mr. John Dangerfield. This completes the list of contents, and we fancy our readers will admit that a better has seldom been furnished even by the New Quarterly.

Our friends will find that Cassell's Family Magazine is full of sound practical information. In addition to the usual light entertaining stories, Mr. Harwood's tale of "Paul Knox, Pitman," and Miss Ada Cambridge's "My Guardian" are admirably told. The characters are generally well drawn, and most of the scenes are as interesting as they are vivid. The short stories are "Told by her Sister," "Our Mistaken Generosity," and "What he lost by it." The practical papers tell us "How to Write a Good Letter," about "Popular Science Schools and Classes," and "The County Schools and Cavendish College," and "How to Build Cities of Health," of which last our old familiar friend "A Family Doctor" is the contributor. The article on "Gardening in April" is a model of what such papers should be. "Art Needlework," "Some Rules of Neatness," and our Paris correspondent's "Chit-Chat on Dress" will prove especially interesting to ladies, while "The Gatherer" furnishes an omnium gatherum in the way of notes generally useful. The poetical contributions are, if anything, above the average, and the frontispiece by E. Wagner, "John Maynard, Pilot," does great credit to the artist's powers, both conceptive and executive. We have omitted one paper, but inadvertently. There are many who hardly know what to do with themselves when they have a holiday, and we advise all such to study the advice of A. Heward, in his paper headed "Your Bank Holiday." Whit Monday is not very far off. Let them test his counsel, and we doubt not they will be all the better for it.

In The Countries of the World we hardly know which to praise most, the illustrations or Dr. Brown's narrative. At all events, both are praiseworthy, and that cannot be said of all illustrated periodicals. The engravings include one of "Cod Fishing on the Great Bank of Newfoundland," a "View of Montreal from the St. Lawrence," "Flowers of Canada," a "View of Halifax, Nova Scotia," the "Canadian Primeval Forest, Birch Bark Canoe, and Indian Lodges," "View of Westminster, British Columbia (looking up Fraser River)," and "Saw-Mills in a Forest of Pines." As may be imagined, the narrative is somewhat short, but Dr. Brown has compressed into it as much valuable information as his space would permit.

"A Young Wife's Story" is continued through the present number of the Leisure Hour, and there are Chapters V. and VI. of Miss I. Bird's exceedingly graphic account of "Australia Felix: Impressions of Victoria." No. II. of "New Helps for Hospitals" contains a mass of interesting statistical information. The following, relating to St. George's Hospital, will probably surprise many of our readers:—"In the ten years ending in 1765 its subscriptions amounted to £26,832; in the ten years ending in 1865 they had not doubled." And again, "In 1875 the hospital received only thirty-three more inpatients than it had held in 1865. Nevertheless, the cost of its service, exclusive of board, had risen 119 per cent., of its nursing, also exclusive of board, 97 per cent., of light and gas 113 per cent., of milk 101, of bread and flour 31½, of fish 75, of butter and eggs 97, grocery 35, vegetables 66, extra diets 33, washing 62, bedding and furniture 27, coals 36, fire insurance 110, instruments, &c., 34, drugs 24, and salaries and wages 7 per cent." Meat, also, has only risen 7 per cent.; but in 1865 the nurses and servants were allowed a shilling a day for meat, and this was reckoned in the accounts of meat. A description of "Upsala," a good paper on "The Royal Commission on Historical Manuscripts," a biographical sketch of "the late Sir William Fairbarn," "the Story of a Greek Merchant," and last, but very far from being the least entertaining of all, "An Ingenious Defence," derived from Mr. James Grant's work, The Bench and the Bar. The illustrations are good, while the "Varieties" and "Natural History Anecdotes" are interesting and pleasant reading.

We need say but little of Sunday at Home. What we have to say is almost a repetition of former remarks. The second of the series of J. T. Wood's articles on "Ephesus and the Temple of Diana," the fourth of J. Alexander's "Pictures of Jewish Life," the account of "Destructive Earthquakes in Palestine in Scripture Times," and No. IV. of the late Rev. R. Demaus's account of "The English Bible," are among the chief contributions. There is likewise an admirable paper on "Dr. Livingstone." Most of the other contents are suited to the special character of the periodical. In this case, likewise, the illustrations are, as usual, to be commended.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Rheumatism or Neuralgic Affections.—No diseases are more frequent, painful, or difficult to cure than these. From their attack no tissue of the human body is exempt, no age, sex, or calling secure. It is a blessing, however, to know that all these sufferings may be completely and expeditiously subdued by Holloway's remedies. The Pills much assist in banishing the tendency to rheumatism and similar painful disorders; whilst the Ointment cures the local ailments, the Pills remove the constitutional disturbance and regulate the impaired function of every organ throughout the human body. The cure is neither temporary nor superficial, but permanent and complete, and the disease rarely recurs, so perfect has been the purification performed by these searching preparations.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Visitations of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow.—Bro. Colonel W. Montgomery Neilson, accompanied by a deputation of nine of his officers, visited the Plantation Lodge 581, and congratulated Bro. Stobo on the great success that had thus far attended them as a young Lodge. He hoped they would be very careful of the character of those whom they initiated into the Order. Bro. Stobo thanked him for his kind remarks, and said he wished to rule over a good Lodge rather than a large one. The deputation then visited the Union Lodge 332, and were able to give Bro. J. McKirdy and his officers a clean bill of health, and also congratulated them on their financial and moral prosperity. On Tuesday the oldest Lodge in the Province, St. John No. 3 bis, was visited, and with the like satisfactory result. Bro. Kyle R.W.M. promised that it should not deteriorate during his term of office. The deputation then crossed the passage to Lodge Thistle and Rose No. 78, where Bro. Kinnaird and his officers were warmly commended for the work done during the past year by their predecessors in office. The good effected by the Provincial Lodge of Benevolence was also ably spoken of by Bro. G. Sinclair, Treasurer of that Fund. Bro. Kinnaird thanked the P.G.M. and the deputation for the visit, and said he would take care that 78 maintained its old prestige, and would be second to none in the Province.

Visitations of the Provincial Grand Chapter of Lanarkshire.—Comp. F. A. Barrow P.G. Superintendent for Lanarkshire, accompanied by Comps. Thos. Halket P.G.T., Jas. Balfour P.G. Scribe E., G. W. Wheeler P.G. Scribe N., T. M. Campbell P.G. 1st Soj., G. MacDonald P.G. 3rd S., J. Duthie P.G.S. of W. and J. M. Oliver P.G.S.B., visited the Govan Chapter 117, on Thursday 29th March. The Chapter was opened by Comps. R. Muir Z., J. Sutherland H., J. Miller J., Allen Scribe E., C. McKenzie J. of 50, acting as 1st S., Bailie McFarlane P.Z., officiating as Treasurer. The P.G. Superintendent, after seeing the Chapter opened, and the books thoroughly examined, expressed his gratification at finding the Chapter in such a satisfactory condition. At one time they had fallen into bad hands, and ceased working for a time, but he was glad to find that the efforts of Bailie McFarlane to reconcitate it had been so successful, and that he had got such a worthy successor as Comp. Muir. If they only persevered, no doubt they would soon raise the status of Masonry in Govan. Comps. Muir and McFarlane both acknowledged the compliments that had been paid them, and proposed that the members of the deputation from P.G.C. should be affiliated as honorary members. Bailie McFarlane having performed this ceremony, Comp. Wheeler, on behalf of the deputation, returned thanks for the honours thus conferred on them, and promised to do all in his power to assist this Chapter in its working. On Saturday, the 31st ult., the same deputation, accompanied by Comp. W. Smith P.G.H., went over to Holytown to visit the Robert Burns Chapter 143, and saw the Chapter opened by Comps. D. Baker Z., J. Nimson H., R. Reid J., Wm. McMurdo P.Z. Scribe E., J. Naismith S.N., H. Dyer Treas., J. Menzie 1st Soj. After a few remarks from the P.G. Scribe E., in reference to the books, the Superintendent highly complimented the Chapter on the status they had attained in so short a time, and situated as they were in an isolated position, it was highly satisfactory to find that in three years they had had fifty exaltations; that the work was so creditably performed, and the books so well kept. In Glasgow, where there were so many Masons, they had larger sources from which to draw their supplies, and could also get more assistance in performing the ceremonies, so that it was really gratifying to find them in such a state. He was sorry to hear that their 1st Principal Comp. was leaving for England, and would wish him prosperity in his new sphere of usefulness. He had no doubt that their P.Z. Comp. W. W. McMurdo would carry on the affairs of the Chapter till the next annual election with credit to himself and to the good of the Chapter. Comp. Baker thanked the P.G.S. for his kind remarks, and also the rest of the Officers of the P.G.C., for coming so far out to see them. He trusted they would allow themselves to be enrolled as honorary members. Comp. W. Smith P.G.H. returned thanks. They were pleased with what they had seen of the working of the Chapter, and duly appreciated the honour of becoming members. In addition to the deputation some visitors from Glasgow were present.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 29th of March, at Bro. Hallows, The Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. Franklin, W.M., Appleby S.W., F. Hallows J.W., Christian acting Sec., Pinder P.M., Groome S.D., Mumford J.D., Claridge I.G.; also Bros. W. G. Hallows, Hunt, Clark, Brown. The Lodge was opened in due form. Ceremony of initiation rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Hunt acting as candidate. Bro. Christian worked the ceremony of passing, Bro. Franklin candidate. Bro. Appleby was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week. It was proposed that the following committee be appointed to take the necessary steps for forming a Masonic Charitable Association in connection with this Lodge of Instruction:—Bros. Christian President, W. G. Hallows Treasurer, Pinder Sec., and Bros. Appleby, Groome, Badkin, Mumford, Claridge, and Franklin. It was further resolved that it be called the Walthamstow Masonic Charitable Association, and that the meetings should be on the third Thursday in every month. A vote of thanks was recorded upon the minutes to the W.M., for the able and efficient manner in which he performed the duties of W.M. Lodge was then closed.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—Brethren are reminded that the anniversary banquet will take place at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on Thursday evening next, 12th April, at 7 o'clock. Application for tickets (price 4s. each) should be made to Bro. Maidwell at once, as the number is limited.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.—Held at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on 3rd instant. Present—Bros. Powell W.M., Daniel S.W., Hewlett J.W., Baxter S.D., Lees J.D., Hill I.G., Ellis, Holloway, Walker, Hollands, Rudderforth, Sayer, Cay, Lipscombe. The Lodge was opened in due form. The minutes of the previous meeting confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Sayer candidate. Bro. Walker, Hill, and Powell, assisted Bro. Hewlett in working the first, second, and third sections of the lecture. Bro. Rudderforth assisted Bro. Hewlett in working the fourth, fifth, sixth, and seven sections of the lecture. Bro. Holloway, of the Kent Lodge, was elected a member. Bro. Daniel was chosen as W.M. for the ensuing Tuesday. In the absence of Bro. Daniel, Bro. Baxter responded. It was proposed by Bro. Rudderforth, seconded by the J.W., that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to Bro. Powell for the able manner in which he filled the chair for the first time in this Lodge. Carried unanimously.

Cathedral Chapter, No. 67 Glasgow.—At the regular meeting on Tuesday, 27th March, the Chapter was opened by Comp. David Ronald Z., assisted by Comps. J. Duthie P.Z. as H., Wm. Bilsland as J., J. Wood T., J. Mason Scribe E., J. Goldie S.N., N. Trumer 1st S., W. Neville 2nd, J. Muir 3rd, and H. Crawford Janitor, after which a deputation from the P.G.C., consisting of Comps. W. Smith P.G.H., Acting P.G. Superintendents, J. Halket P.G.T., Jas. Balfour P.G. Scribe E., G. W. Wheeler P.G. Scribe N., T. M. Campbell P.G.P.S. G. McDonald 3rd S., J. Duthie P.G.S. of W., and J. M. Oliver P.G. St. B. The G.S.E. having read a report of the examination of books, &c., the Acting Grand Superintendent congratulated the Chapter on having exalted 14 Companions in the past year, and also for the way the business of the Chapter was conducted, but advised them to hold some instruction meetings to get the members posted up, and enable them to fill any office that might be temporarily vacant. Comp. Ronald thanked the deputation for their visit, and the Grand Scribe E. and Superintendents for their favourable report, hoping he might get as good next year.

Caledonian of Unity Chapter, No. 73, Glasgow.—Was visited by the P.G. Superintendent and his officers on Wednesday, 28th March. The Z., Comp. G. W. Wheeler, opened his Chapter, with J. Kinnaird H., W. Gunn J., J. Bannerman T., J. Balfour S.E., J. Youle S.N., William Hoy 1st S., J. Jackson 2nd, and the rest of the officers. From the report it appeared that there had been 21 exaltations during the past year, and the Superintendent was able to report that not only were the books admirably kept, but the whole of the working of the Chapter was in a highly satisfactory state, and reflected credit upon all its officers. Comp. Wheeler thanked the P.G.S. and the deputation for their visit, and also his own officers, by whose assistance they had been able to obtain so favourable a report.

Doric Lodge, No. 81.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 4th inst., at the Private Rooms, Doric-place, Woodbridge, Suffolk. Present—Bros. Alfred Barnes W.M., E. C. Moor S.W., C. F. Brown J.W., W. Wilmshurst Sec., B. D. Gall Treas., T. Grimwood pro. tem. S.D., F. Bradbrook J.D., E. Fitzgerald P.M. P.P.G.S.B. D.C., Richard Allen I.G., George Hall Tyler. Past Masters Bros. B. Gall and Phillips. Visitors—Bros. E. Row, of Lodge 555, and E. Holmes P.M. 114. Business—The minutes of the previous Lodge read and confirmed. Bros. Ernest St. George and Cobbold were raised; Goodwin, Samuel, and Johnson passed, and Mr. Henry Rowe, of Wickham Market, initiated. £5 granted from the Lodge Funds for the relief of a member of this Lodge, who has lately become insolvent. The Lodge members were summoned for 6 o'clock p.m., and the Lodge was closed at 9.30, when some of the brethren adjourned to Bro. T. Grimwood's, Crown Hotel, to supper, after which the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given.

Hawton Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 100, Ivybridge.—The annual meeting was held on Wednesday, 28th March, when Bro. James H. Toms P.P.G.S.B. was installed W. Master, the ceremony being efficiently performed by W. Bro. J. B. Gover P.M. 50 and 66, P.P.G.T., assisted by W. Bros. W. Boxall P.P.G.P., E. A. Davies P.M. P.P.G.M.O., James Gidley, and J. Y. Avery. The following were the officers appointed:—Bros. W. Boxall I.P.M., S. Sandover S.W., T. Searle J.W., J. P. Sawyer M.O., T. E. Scobell S.O., M. Patterson J.O., H. Cole Treas., T. Searle Sec. and R.M., F. E. Pearce S.D., J. S. Short J.D., J. Meathrel I.G., Thos. B. Ford Tyler. Four brethren were proposed for advancement, and it was announced that the affairs of the Lodge were in a very satisfactory state. The Rt. Wor. Prov. Grand Master, Bro. Col. Tanner Davey J.P., was unexpectedly prevented from attending to instal the W. Master.

Royal Arch Lodge, No. 116, Rutherglen.—Celebrated their 108th anniversary by a supper, concert and ball, on Friday last. There were about 200 present, J. Hunter R.W.M. in the chair; the Croupiers were the Wardens, Bros. J. Stone and J. D. Montgomery. Amongst the visitors were Masters of St. John, Rutherglen, The Thorntree, and R. Nisbett, of the Albert Edward, Polmode, and his Treasurer, J. C. Shand S.D. of the Provincial Lodge of Renfrewshire East. The proceedings were of an interesting character.

Thetis Chapter, No. 122, Glasgow.—Held its usual meeting on Monday, 26th ult, and received a visit from the Provincial Grand Chapter of Lanarkshire, consisting of Comps. F. A. Barrow P.G. Superintendent, T. Halket P.G.T., James Balfour P.G. Scribe E., G. W. Wheeler P.G. Scribe N., T. M. Campbell P.G. 1st Soj., G.

Mc Donald P.G. 3rd S. J., J. M. Oliver P.G. St.B., and J. B. Hardie P. G. Janitor. The Chapter having been opened by the Z., Comp. De Neef, with Comp. Wm. McAlister H., A. Love J., Wm. Gunn T., J. Quigley Scribe E., and other Officers; there being also present J. O. Scott Past Z.'s. The P.G. Superintendent congratulated them on the state of the books, and the general work of the Chapter; they had exalted seven Companions, not so many as in former years, but he looked to the quality of the members rather than to their numbers, and it was pleasant to find the Chapter working so harmoniously and well. Comp. De Neef thanked the P.G.S. and his Officers for their visit, and also for the kind words he had spoken to them; they would try in the next year, if possible, to do better than in the past. Comps. H. and J. Park J.S. proposed that those of the deputation not already members should be made honorary members. Comp. J. O. Park P.Z., at the request of the Z., then conferred that honour on Comps. S. McDonald P.Z. of 73, and J. M. Oliver S.E. of 79.

Scotia Lodge, No. 178.—Celebrated their 86th anniversary on Friday. Bro. Wm. Hart R.W.M. presiding, assisted by his principal officers. Amongst the visitors were the Masters of the following Lodges, accompanied by a deputation—D. Ronald 275, J. McInnis 406, J. B. McNaught 556. Bro. Hart gave an interesting synopsis of the history of the Lodge, which is now in a highly flourishing state. He feelingly alluded to the death of Bro. Joseph Singleton, their late P.M., stating that the monument to his memory, subscribed for by the brethren, was now nearly completed. The Rev. J. C. Stewart Chaplain, also addressed the meeting at some length, with good effect.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington, on Saturday, 31st March. Bro. Ansbell W.M., Halford S.W., Brasted J.W., Fenner S.D., J. Lorkin J.D., Baxter I.G. The Lodge was opened in the usual manner, the minutes of previous meeting confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Hewlett as candidate. The W.M. vacated the chair, which was taken by Bro. Killick, and the ceremony of raising rehearsed, Bro. Bedwell candidate. The W.M. resumed the chair, and closed down. Bro. J. Hill W.M. 228 was elected a member, and Bro. Halford chosen as W.M. for the ensuing week. The Fifteen Sections will be worked by Bro. Hewlett on the 28th of April, further particulars of which will duly appear. A vote of thanks to the W.M. (this being the first occasion on which he had presided) brought the proceedings to a close.

Rosslyn Chapter, No. 199.—At the regular meeting on 2nd April, Comp. G. Thallon opened in the Mark degree, with Comps. Hogg as S.W., and Wm. Dobbie as J.W. Comp. Wheeler Z. 73 asked the Chapter to kindly exalt a Companion for them, as the gentleman was leaving for America before his Chapter would meet. This was readily granted, and Comp. Thallon, having illness at home, vacated the chair, asking Comp. Wheeler to preside, which he did, and gave the Mark degree to Bro. Jas. Davison, of the Union Lodge 332. He then opened a Lodge of Most Excellent Masters, and requested Comp. T. M. Campbell Z. of 69 to work that degree, which he did in his usual excellent style. The Chapter was then opened by G. W. Wheeler as Z., J. Hogg H., and T. M. Campbell Z. 69 as J., W. Dobbie P.Z. acting Scribe E., R. Tranven 1st S. of 67 1st S., J. McInnis 1st S. of 69 as 2nd, and J. Brand 3rd. After the close of the proceedings, Comp. Wheeler returned the thanks of Chapter 73 to the Rosslyn for their kindness in allowing him to exalt his member in their Chapter.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Tuesday, the 3rd inst., at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. Wallington W.M., Lovelook S.W., Barker J.W., E. T. Worsley Secretary and J.D., Dallas S.D., and Bonner I.G. Visitors—Bros. Saunders, Christian, Defries, &c. The Lodge was opened. The minutes of the last meeting confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Defries acting as candidate. Bro. Worsley worked the first, second, and third sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Haines, of Euphrates Lodge 212 was unanimously elected a member. Several of the regular attendants were absent, we suppose in consequence of its being holiday time. Bro. Wallington will go through the installation ceremony on Tuesday next, previous to his installing the W.M. in his mother Lodge on the 12th instant. We hope there will be a good muster present, as his rendering is very perfect and pleasing. The Secretary stated that P.M. Bro. T. J. Barnes had kindly undertaken to work the Fifteen Sections on the 24th instant; he will be assisted by P.M. Bro. Thomas Austin as S.W. and P.M. Bro. W. H. Wallington as J.W. A full list of the brethren who will work the sections will be given in this paper the week previous.

Erme Lodge, Ivybridge, No. 1091.—This Lodge held its annual meeting at the Masonic Rooms, Erme House, on Wednesday, 28th March, amongst those present being W. Bro. J. H. Toms W.M., W. Boxall I.P.M., Henry Cole P.M. and T., S. Sandover S.W., T. Searle J.W., J. P. Sawyer J.D., Coleman, Grills, Scobell, Arthurs, Mackay, Lasens, and Ford. Visitors—W. Bros. E. A. Davies P.M. 1099, P.P. G. S. Works, J. B. Gover P.M. 70, P.P.G.A.D.C., R. Rodd P.M. 189, P.P.G.R., H. W. Thomas P.M. 70, J. Y. Avery W.M. 156, Jas. Gidley P.M. 1205, J. Hill 1205. The minutes having been confirmed, Bro. S. Sandover, Master Elect, was presented for installation. This ceremony was admirably conducted by W. Bro. H. W. Thomas, ably assisted by W. Bros. J. Y. Avery, Gidley, and Gover. The following officers were appointed:—Bros. James Toms I.P.M., Thos. Searle S.W., J. P. Sawyer J.W., H. Cole P.M. Treas., John P. Sawyer Sec., W. H. Mackay S.D., R. Lavers J.D., T. Barons D.C., M. Bager A.D.C., W. Arthurs O., G. Grills I.G., W. Tremeran S.S., R. King jun. J.S., Thos. Ford Tyler, H. Cole Representative Com. Petitions. Some routine business having been transacted, the brethren adjourned to Bro. Tom's, King's Arms Hotel. After the banquet (which was an excellent one), the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given from the chair, and heartily responded to. Bro. Toms I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M. He said he possessed the entire confidence of the Lodge, was worthy of his position, and predicted for him a very successful year of office. Bro. Sandover, in reply, said he should constantly endeavour to merit their good opinion by doing his duty faithfully and to the best of his ability. He thanked them most cordially for the way in which they had always received him, and more especially for the proud position he now occupied. Bro. J. Y. Avery proposed the healths of the I. P. Master, Treasurer, and late Secretary. The Lodge was much indebted to these officers for their energy and perseverance when it was not so prosperous, and they were respected and esteemed for their valued services. Bros. Toms, H. Cole, and Boxall replied in suitable terms. The W.M., in proposing the healths of the Senior and Junior Wardens, expressed his conviction that from their known ability, and love of Masonry, he should receive valuable aid from them during the year. Bros. Searle and Sawyer thanked the W.M. for their positions, and the brethren for their kind reception, as did also the Assistant Officers, whose healths were proposed by Bro. Gover. Bro. Cole proposed the Visitors, saying how glad they were to receive them at all times, and thanking them for their assistance. Bros. H. W. Thomas, R. R. Rodd, and E. A. Davies eloquently replied. Bro. Gover, in a speech full of humour, introduced the important toast of the Ladies, making especial reference to the kind attention and thoughtful catering of the hostess, Mrs. Toms, to whom they had been indebted on many occasions for their comfortable and enjoyable social comforts. Bros. Toms and Sawyer having responded, the Tyler's Toast was given, and brought a profitable and pleasurable day to a happy conclusion.

SUPPORTS OF MASONRY.

AN ORATION DELIVERED BY Dr. SHAFFER, OF KEOKUK, IOWA.

WISDOM, strength and beauty are the supports of the Masonic institutions. Wisdom may design, strength may establish; there remains beauty to adorn. Wisdom may suggest never so wisely; strength may support never so firmly, but without beauty to attract, both are voiceless and silent. The pillars of the inner porch of the Temple, constructed with skill, designed after the strictest principles of geometry or architecture, strong in their might to sustain the vast weight resting upon them, would—and rightly, too—have been lost to tradition if wisdom and strength were their only attributes.

The soul of the thoughtful Mason warms as he contemplates the chapiters crowned with lily-work, net-work and pomegranates. These strike a chord responsive in his heart of hearts. These, wrought by the graving-tool of the cunning artisan, carry him beyond the master whose wisdom contrived, and link him with the humble fellow-craft whose name is long ago lost. In fancy he revives the memory of the faithful workman, who, from the rough ashlar, surmounted the columns of strength and establishment, and with his chisel and mallet wrought images of beauty that speak lessons of joy and gladness to the succeeding ages.

There is within us a certain awe of the wisdom of our ancient Grand Masters. There is a certain admiration for the genius of those who set up the tabernacle, and placed the Ark of the Covenant in the Holy Seat, for those who built and afterwards rebuilt the Temple. Both Ark and Temple live in the dim shadows of history. But the blue, the purple, the scarlet, the fine twined linen—the tessellated floor—the costly, because beautiful ornaments of Temple and tabernacle are a gracious remembrance—a sweet-smelling incense which time only deepens and intensifies.

It is well that it is so. Our lives are far too short to be wasted on wisdom and strength alone. Neither of these elements, nor both of them, can do that for human character which the Supreme Grand Master has designed. Fill the mind with all science, if that be possible, at least let a perfect knowledge of some one division of some one of the sciences be achieved. Let there be strength, force, material, moral, mental and spiritual, and the outgrowth is but a miserable abortion of character, apart from a just appreciation of beauty. That element of attraction towards symmetry, form, colour, harmony and taste, is what makes human character perfect.

The chemist who does not revel with delight in the shapes, lights, shadows, proportions and even the seeming irregularities of the products of his magic art is not half a man, though he have boundless knowledge of the material substance in the universe. The mechanic who fails to see and to cultivate the beautiful in the work of his hand, is but a machine having strength and endowed with wisdom. The farmer who looks out upon his fields, green, or golden, or tinged with many coloured hues, as the representative of so many dollars and cents only, is not far removed from the cattle that feed at his crib, in every element of perfected character. The mason who works in the quarries and has wisdom and strength to earn his bread, unless he may read "Sermons in Stones," unless he may see the beauty of harmony that lies lurking everywhere about him, is but little more conscious of the bright, though buried glories of his own existence, than is the fossil which is exposed by his drill. The good and zealous craftsman as he performs his labour in the broad field of speculative Masonry may have all ritualistic knowledge; but it is "sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal" if he has failed to drink in and appropriate the enrapturing beauty that everywhere reveals itself to the eye which is open and ready to see.

Every kingdom and every family of nature is overflowing with beauty. Go abroad upon the paths of nature, and when all

"Its voices whisper and all its silent things
Are breathing the deep beauty of the world,
Kneel at the simple altar, and the God
Who hath the living waters, shall be there."

On the face of the heavens are painted the unapproachable glories of the rainbow, and the varied and ever varying shadows, forms and colours that mark the rising, the course, and the setting of the sun. No less is this beauty stamped on each one of the one hundred thousand beetles described, than on the vaulted canopy of the sky. The grass of the field which to-day is, and to-morrow is cast into the oven, is so clothed with beauty that all earthly attempts at rivalry are but wretched counterfeits. Even those living beings that repel the unthinking who regard them with aversion or terror are the best representative of the ideal of perfection of form and harmony of proportion. Even serpents are of matchless grace and beauty; they are the living design on the trestle-board of the "line of beauty," immortalised by painter and sculptor. Their varied blending of colours sparkling in the sun, their graceful, gliding motion conspire to convert this despised race into a fit subject of the highest admiration. Our Grand Master Solomon, King of Israel, found "four things" in all the world of matter and of mind that "were too wonderful for him" among them. "The way of a serpent upon a rock." Had he possessed the same love of the beautiful in nature which he so sedulously cultivated in art, his wonder would have been swallowed up in regard, and his loftiest tribute would have been paid to its peerless symmetry.

The clouds and tempests and lightnings have a grandeur of beauty that is felt by all reverent souls, even while they terrify. The rugged mountains, capped with snow, and their sides clothed with verdure and instinct with life, stand out against the sky, revealing forms and shadows and and glimpses and beauties that, above any other property, speak the divinity of their Maker. The snow covers the earth; its whiteness soon dissolves away; but every flake, be it ever so small, is the perfection of attractive form, as if moulded, chiseled, fashioned and shaped by the hand of a cunning artificer for duration throughout eternity. Birds sing in the forests, fly in the air, swim in the waters, and they are garnished all over with beauty. The endless variety of form, of motion, of plumage, of colour, attract the dullest sense, make the rude ploughboy halt in his heated work, and force from him a glad exclamation of pleasure, no less than when

"Forgetful of his toils
And due repose, he loiters to behold
The sunshine gleaming as through amber clouds
O'er all the western sky."

Some one has written that beauty was not necessary to the existence of plant or animal; that beauty was an added element for the gratification of sentient beings. Form, colour, tints could have been made inattractive: there might have been repelling distortions; or an entire absence of the endless varieties of shadings, shape and symmetries, and yet plant and animal could have lived.

Such a proposition needs no response in the mind of him who sees God everywhere and talks with Him as a man talks with his friend. Beauty is indispensable to the very existence—nay to the very desire to exist—if we may so speak—of plant and animal. What! Who "causes it to rain in the wilderness . . . where no man is . . . to cause the bud of the tender herb to spring forth?" What! Who paints the prairies with manifold hues, tinges the ocean with green, clothes the island with bright and beautiful garments, fills the tropics with life and the perfection of form and motion and brightness, and the frozen circles of the North with lines and images of gigantic beauty and proportions. He can do all things, but he cannot make a flower, create a bird, give wings to the tiniest insect, scales to the fish, leaves to the trees, fruit that may propagate its kind, and not at the same act of creation, make them beautiful.

When the "Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden, he made to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight and good for food." He made them first of all beautiful, and afterwards "good for food."

There is nothing uncomely, nothing misshapen, nothing unattractive, in the whole realm of God's universe. With the telescope, sweep the vast extents of space, and find beauty everywhere. With the microscope, unfold the minutest atoms that together make up the globe, and find beauty, symmetry, perfection of form everywhere.

Thus finding this element all-pervading, it must be a condition necessary to existence, and if so, the deduction is natural that we should cultivate the love of the beautiful. To study and admire that which is beautiful is to strengthen and esteem that which is good and true. From all forms and lines and shadings that add attraction to utility, there go forth the spirit of truth and goodness, and God is goodness. From all that is deformed, and hideous, and repulsive, in art or in perverted lives, there goes forth the spirit of error and wrong. Light, grace, beauty, fitness, taste in things material, grow into love, peace, honour and happiness in things spiritual. Darkness, uncomeliness, squalor, and unfitness in things earthly, grow into vice, hatred, meanness and misery in things heavenly.

It is a token of good when costly pictures and statuary adorn the dwellings of the rich, for these are silent teachers training the soul to the higher life. It is an equal token of good that the cheap print ornaments the rough wall of the cabin or shanty of the pioneer or coy labourer. It is a potent educator. It breathes a benison upon the heart of the worn toiler as he crosses the threshold at the close of the day. It is a noble inspiration to the humble wife as she performs her ceaseless round of duty. It is a delight to the children God has sent to their home, and is leading all, as the years are added, to seek the best gifts that the Omnipotent may bestow. It is a token of good when cities are beautified with all the adornments of art. When cemeteries blossom with flowers, when they are fresh with evergreens, when sparkling fountains, artistic monuments, beautiful hedges, shady walks, all bathed in the perfume of fragrance, glad incense to deity, then the city of the dead is the expression of the character of the city of the living. When churches rear their lofty spires, when porch and turret, and column beautify, when the lights through the windows are shaded by many coloured rays, when altar, aisle, pew and wall are touched by the magic wand of beauty and taste, then the glory of the house reflects the mind of a people worshipping in the "beauty of holiness."

And where, among all the associations of man, are there like grand opportunity and invitation to cultivate this element, as in the time honoured institution of Freemasonry? In its several orders, its varieties of shades and forms and proportions are almost numberless. Some of these have origin long anterior to the days of Zerubabel. Ancient heathen symbolism was caught up by Greek and Roman of later days, incorporated by Hebrew, and adopted by Christianity—drawn, attracted irresistibly by the power of beauty. Those forms were made by worshippers in very remote times, the symbols of faith, and their significance lost to history and tradition, has been read engraven in lines of beauty upon the solid rocks. But for their attractiveness of form they would long ago have perished, never to be restored. Buried for ages, the dead marble speaks. Science and learning drawn with magnetic force by symmetry, and order and adornment, the wondrous lines of beauty that everywhere united all the past, unlock the mystery, and bring us face to face with our brethren who taught Moses the lesson, and gave him the learning not only to give the law, but to erect the tabernacle, construct the ark, and prepare all appropriate things to establish the worship of Almighty God. Read in the trefoil of the church the triangle and triple tau of the Craft, the square, the gavel of the Lodge, the symbolism that gave to Ashtaroth the worship and adoration of the mighty nation of the earth. The Cross! emblem of the gallant and magnanimous Knights! What has not this symbol done for men? It was a "sign of faith as ancient as Homeric Troy." "It was used by the Phœnicians before the Jews had existence as a people." Ages before the "Man of Sorrows" was nailed to its rugged limbs, it was the representative of the noblest conception of mortal or immortal minds. Engraven upon tomb, and chapel, and pillar, and column, it is the silent, glorious evidence that nowhere in all the dim ages of the past has God "left himself without a witness" of his unquenchable love. This emblem led thousands to the grave, who left all to rescue the Holy Sepulchre from the infidel conquerors. So great, so irresistible is the power of beauty; beauty in the very form and symbolism of the Cross; beautiful in its rugged simplicity as it stands by the dusty wayside, on the mountain pass, in cemetery, in church, in lodge, in the cottage of the lowly. Beautiful when adorned with all the cunning skill of the most refined taste and knowledge, and this supplemented with the richest treasures that earth and ocean can yield; beautiful in the faith it represented to Ayrian, and Hindoo, and Etruscan; beautiful in the pathetic, the sublime and simple story of the despised and rejected Nazarine.

Holding these views, feebly expressed and but faintly illustrated, yet firm in the conviction of their truth, you may well be prepared for words of the highest commendation of all that has been done in clothing this hall with beauty, elegance and taste. Dedicated to-day to the uses of the craft, let its beauty shine, together with the wisdom that designed and the strength which endows with establishment. Hold not back in your hearts any regret for the sacrifice of money which has illumined its altar and stations, and all its parts with a radiance of light, glory, and beauty. Be not regretful that you have called to your aid culture, refinement, the best graces of art, to make this Lodge the abode of beauty, the resting place of attractive lines, and forms and colours. Should the Pharisee find fault and ask, "Why was this waste made? for these might have been sold for more than three hundred pence, and given to the poor," rebuke him in love, and with the Master say, "These have wrought a good work"—a good work whose influence shall never die, but shall rather increase in the widening circle of its power till the love of the beautiful shall fill all hearts, and transform all homes into images of the paradise of God.

Going forth from these enchanting scenes, let us carry the lessons of beauty with us to our homes, to our places of business, to our houses of worship, and let their rejoicing and purifying influence permeate all our lives, and bring our characters nearer and nearer to perfection. So shall we and our children, so shall the generations following, drinking inspiration from the love of the beautiful, be the better prepared and fitted for those immortal—those imperishable beauties that deck the chambers of the skies.—Weekly Constitution.

To-day will appear the first issue of a new weekly illustrated paper, bearing the style and title of Touchstone. Its pages will be devoted to the discussion of literary, artistic, and social questions of general interest. It will be very ably conducted, and the editor has fortunately succeeded in gathering around him a staff of experienced writers. But what will prove, in the eyes of our readers, the great attraction of the new aspirant for public favour, is the fact that one of its pages will be set apart for recording the Masonic news of the week. We wish the new venture every success, and hope the Craft will benefit by its exertions.

We understand that a Warrant has been granted by the Supreme Grand Council for a Conclave of Knights of the Red Cross of Constantine to be called the Eboracum Conclave, No. 137, to be held at York, and that the Consecration ceremony will probably take place next month.

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. 5.—No. 120. SATURDAY, 14th APRIL 1877. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper

THE GENERAL COMMITTEE OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

WE cannot say we are altogether surprised at the result of Saturday's meeting. The report of the House Committee as to the extension of the School came under consideration, and the General Committee have postponed offering any opinion upon its merits till their next monthly meeting. Our readers may take this either as evidence of hesitation to contract a greater amount of obligation, or as showing a determination not to commit themselves to any scheme, however well considered, till a way was seen to carry it fully and permanently into execution. We incline to accept the latter alternative, and are of opinion that the Committee are exercising a wise discretion in not committing themselves to any plan of operations, till they are tolerably well assured of its success. But we are hurrying onward too fast. We have not yet placed before our readers the suggestions of the House Committee. Having done this, we will again consider the action of the General Committee.

The report which was submitted for the consideration admitted virtually, and, indeed, in precise terms, that an enlargement of the School must be made sooner or later. The number of applicants at each successive election is far in excess of the number of vacancies. The School is numerically stronger now than at any previous period of its history, there being, we believe, no less than one hundred and eighty-four boys on the establishment, all of whom are clothed, fed and liberally educated out of the resources of the Institution. But Freemasonry is increasing annually in point of numbers, and the question now exercising the minds of all genuine Craftsmen is—What shall be done under the circumstances? Shall the School be limited to its present strength, or shall it be increased? The latter opinion, as we have seen, finds favour with the majority, and a determined attempt is being made to solve the difficulty in a broad and liberal fashion. The House Committee at their different meetings have had submitted to them a variety of plans, all more or less calculated to meet the requirements of the case, and the one they have thought proper to recommend has certainly the merit of comprehensiveness. This contemplates the erection on the site of the present laundry and drying ground of a new and spacious hall, one hundred feet in length by fifty feet in breadth and extending from East to West, access to which would be obtained through the present western or kitchen corridor by means of a covered way leading from the School and class rooms in the main building. One special advantage in connection with this arrangement would be the propinquity to the Hall of the present kitchen, which, with the adjoining scullery annexed, would prove amply sufficient for the needful cooking and supplies. A new scullery-room would be obtained by re-arranging the present store-room and offices. It is a further part of this scheme to erect, in addition, an entirely new block of buildings, measuring one hundred and ten feet by fifty-five, and having three floors, such block to start in a line from the east end of the new Dining Hall, and extend northwards. On the ground floor there would be four commodious class-rooms, with Assistant Masters' sitting-room, lavatory, cap-room and other requisite premises, with convenient exit to closets, &c., &c. On the second and third floors there would be six dormitories, each large enough to accommodate twenty boys, and assistant masters' bed-rooms, together with the assistant matron's and servants' rooms, isolated and accessible by a separate staircase. So much as regards the new premises. The question of annual maintenance has not been overlooked, and it is estimated that when the building is ready, then, if all the one hundred and twenty boys were added to the strength of the School, the annual cost would be about £12,000, while the average special expenditure per annum would amount to about £1,000. The Committee, however, are of opinion that it would not be necessary to take in the whole of the proposed addition at once, but that an increase of sixty would suffice for the increasing wants of the present generation. Moreover, they point out that it would be in the highest degree inexpedient to elect all eligible candidates who might present themselves, and so make admission to the benefits of the Institution too easy. The cost of this enlargement is set down at £22,000, which, with due allowance for fittings and the like, would probably reach £25,000. Accommodation for an addition of seventy boys, instead of one hundred and twenty, it is reckoned, would cost only £3,000. The Committee close their report by stating that (1) they recognise fully the legitimacy of the demands for further accommodation, and (2) they have ascertained the feasibility of carrying out such extension; but (3) the issue—shall such extension be proceeded with?—they leave entirely in the hands of the Fraternity.

We imagine our readers will admit that the foregoing plan is, as we have stated, sufficiently comprehensive. At the same time the General Committee were justified in not accepting it on the instant. Objection was taken by Bro. Snow to the cost of the enlargement, on the ground that an outlay of £200 per boy for mere building purposes would be excessive. Considering the few data before us, it would be extremely unwise to enter upon the discussion of a point of so much importance. It may be Bro. Snow's objection was well taken, but at all events, the estimate is not widely different from that already approved in the case of the Girls' School. There is almost an exact proportion between an outlay of about £10,000 for providing accommodation for some fifty girls, and one of about £25,000 for erecting premises large enough to accommodate a hundred and twenty boys. However, we need not pause to consider this now. The General Committee will arrive at no decision for the present. The whole subject has been postponed till the next monthly meeting, and even in the event of its being decided then, there is still a final court of reference in the Quarterly General Court. And when the plan of action, if any, has been determined, the issue—shall such extension be proceeded with?—rests entirely with the Fraternity. While then we are most anxious the question should be considered from every imaginable point of view, while we fully recognise the necessity for making some further provision for the education and maintenance of our boys, we do not for one moment imagine the authorities will rashly commit themselves to any scheme, until they have first satisfied themselves they will have the co-operation of the whole Craft. Unlike our other Institutions, the Boys' School has no, or, at all events, but a very modest amount of invested property, amounting only to £5,000. Moreover, it is only recently the Institution has been enabled to relieve itself of the balance of debt remaining from the cost of the present premises. No enlargement, therefore, is possible, unless the Craft is prepared to furnish the necessary ways and means. That these ways and means will be forthcoming under the circumstances we do not doubt. Have we not been told, if the Boys' School needed funds they had nothing to do but to appeal to the Craft for what they wanted?

THE CONDUCT OF A LODGE.

SEVERAL of our correspondents have kindly expressed the pleasure they have derived from reading our recent articles on the "Rights and Privileges of Worshipful Masters." One of them has gone even further, and propounded a series of elaborate questions, which we shall endeavour, to the best of our humble ability, to answer.

The first question in the series is as follows:—"Can a Warden, in the absence of the W.M. and P.M.'s open a Lodge?" As our readers are aware, the Constitutions lay it down that, "in the Master's absence, the immediate Past Master, or, if he be absent, the Senior Past Master of the Lodge present, shall take the chair. And if no Past Master of the Lodge be present, then the Senior Warden, or in his absence the Junior Warden, shall rule the Lodge." Our first care appears to be to determine the force of the expression, "rule the Lodge." It is obvious that the word Lodge is applicable in this case to a body of Freemasons, not only incorporated together by virtue of the Warrant issued by the Grand Lodge to which they owe obedience, but likewise to such corporate body assembled according to law at a stated time to fulfil Masonic duties. In order to fulfil those duties at least a certain number of brethren must be present. When this is found to be the case, the Lodge may then be opened and proceed to business. It will be obvious, we think, to our readers that this opening of the Lodge is the act of constituting it, and nothing more. Till this ceremony has been completed, the brethren assembled together are merely individual Freemasons, not members of a constituent Masonic body: exactly in the same sense that a number of officers, non-commissioned officers, and private soldiers, though assembled on the parade-ground, do not constitute a battalion of soldiers for military duty, until the officers and the rest have taken up their proper positions in the companies to which they severally belong, and the companies have been formed up into line in the order of their sequence. When all this is done, and the commanding officer has called his battallion to "attention," then it becomes a constituent body of soldiers in condition for military duty. Similarly, when the officers and members of a Lodge of Freemasons have arranged themselves in due form, and the Worshipful Master has called them to attention, then the formal ceremony of opening is proceeded with, and the Lodge is ready for the discharge of business. This being so—and at the risk of being thought prolix, we have dwelt at length on these preliminaries—we have next to consider what ruling a Lodge means. The Constitutions provide that, in the event of the death, removal, and incapacity of the Master, the Senior Warden shall summon the Lodge, and, in his absence, the Junior Warden; in their absence the I.P.M. and P.M. When the Lodge is met together in the absence of the Master, the I P.M. or other P.M. shall take the chair; in the absence of P.M.'s, the Senior, and in his absence the Junior Warden, shall rule the Lodge. Here then we have the position and duties of a Warden in the absence both of the W.M. and P.M.'s very clearly defined. He may summon his Lodge, and he may rule his Lodge in certain eventualities, but he must not occupy the chair. He must occupy a seat in front or to the right of it, and thence enact such duties as belong to a ruler who is not competent to fill the chair. But how can a ruler rule his Lodge until the Lodge has been duly opened? It is not, in fact, a Lodge at all, as we have already indicated, till this is done. The mere act of summoning a number of persons to meet together does not constitute a meeting; and when they have assembled, the meeting is not formally constituted until some one of those present has been appointed to preside and open the proceedings. We say then a Warden takes priority of P.M.'s in summoning a Lodge, and, in certain cases, he rules it. And, as it is impossible to rule a Lodge unless it has been formally constituted or opened, we include the opening of the Lodge among the rights and privileges of a Warden.

We come now to the question whether the work must be done by a member of the Lodge. As regards the opening of the Lodge, a visiting brother manifestly has no locus standi until it has been opened or constituted. Even when this has been done, a visiting P.M. has no claim to take any part in the government or business of the Lodge. As an act of courtesy, the principal ruling officer, not being the Master, will probably invite such stranger P.M. to occupy the chair, but he has no right to complain if this act of courtesy is not shown him. In the absence of Installed Masters, the P.M. is of superior rank to the Warden and members among whom he is visiting, but he is, so to speak, off duty. Taking the recent exposition of the Grand Registrar for our guide, we are inclined to lay down the following as applicable to a Lodge in which no installed Master happens to be present. The Warden is Master pro tem., but disqualified from, and therefore incapable of occupying the chair or fulfilling its special duties. He may, however, invite any qualified brother to do the work of the Master, such invitation being an act of courtesy, not compulsory. The law is very precise. The words are "the Immediate Past Master," or in his absence, "the Senior Past Master of the Lodge present." The words we have italicised indicate most clearly that Past or Installed Masters of other Lodges have, as we have said, no locus standi whatever.

We shall deal next with the question as to the eligibility of a Warden who attended on the day of installation and received his collar, but has only attended two Lodges. Here again the law is singularly clear as to what constitutes eligibility in a Warden to fill the Master's Chair. "Every Lodge shall annually elect its Master and Treasurer by ballot, such Master having regularly served as a Warden of a Warranted Lodge for one year." The words are "regularly served;" if, therefore, a Warden has deliberately absented himself from his post, he cannot be said to have served his office for one year. If he were not present the night of installation, and did not, therefore, receive his collar, he cannot be said to have completed his full term of service. In both cases, he becomes ineligible for election as Master, and that through his own default. In the case of occasional absence, through illness or other valid cause, we consider he does not forfeit his right to be elected Master, nor if he has filled the office during two consecutive Masterships, provided, however, such service has been continuous. We do not think a brother who has served the office of Warden for say eight months, and is subsequently, after a greater or less interval of time, appointed Warden a second time, becomes eligible for the chair, even though the two broken periods of service taken together may exceed the prescribed period of a Warden's service.

Lastly, is a W.M. responsible for the correctness of the minutes? The constitutions enact that "the Master is responsible for the due observance of the laws relating to private Lodges, and is bound to produce all books, minutes, and accounts when required by lawful authority." Nothing whatever is said about his preparing the minutes, or being responsible for their correctness. This, we take it, is the duty of the Secretary. Oliver, in reference to this latter officer, says: "His" (the Secretary's) "duty is to issue the summonses; and he is expected to attend the Lodge punctually, that he may enter the proceedings on the minutes, and read them at all meetings of the brethren, whether regular or emergent." It is the Master's duty to see that the proceedings are entered on the minutes, or, in other words, to take care the Secretary fulfils his duty. But the Master has nothing whatever to do with the preparation of the minutes, and cannot, therefore, be held specially responsible for their correctness. These minutes, it must be remembered, are not the official record of the Lodge proceedings until they have been read and confirmed in open Lodge. One of our constitutions provides that "a book shall be kept in every Lodge, in which shall be entered the names of its members, and of all persons admitted therein . . . . . together with such other transactions of the Lodge as are proper to be written. The Master is responsible for the observance of this law." It is the duty of the Secretary to keep this book, and the duty of the Master to see that it is properly kept. In a general sense, of course, the latter is responsible for the correctness of the minutes, as, indeed, he is responsible for everything that happens in the Lodge during his tenure of the Mastership. There is in his case, however, no special responsibility attaching to this particular duty apart from his other duties.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—At all seasons of the year mankind is subject to diseases, but some seasons are particularly dangerous, and none more so than the spring, with its sudden alternations of temperature and varying climate. That a remedy of some kind is requisite at this season to purify the blood has been a recognised fact for ages, and at different times strange remedies have been resorted to for the carrying this into effect. The discovery of the above-named remedies has been most opportune, for by their use as purifying and strengthening agents, the blood is quickly relieved of effete matters, and at the same time no risk is incurred by undue purging or weakening in any way.

SERMON.

DELIVERED on the occasion of the meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of South Wales (Eastern Division), on Wednesday 4th inst., by the Rev. the Vicar of Aberdare.

"The people could not discern the noise of the shout of joy for the noise of the weeping."—EZRA iii., 13.

It is always so in this old world. The weeping overcomes the joy. The day of happiness is overshadowed by a thought of sorrow. The cries and lamentations over blessings forfeited by sin are more prominent than grateful praise. The gloomy past damps and disfigures the bright present and hopeful future. These old men of whom we read in this chapter as outdoing in their wailing the joyful shout of the young had good cause for sorrow. They remembered, as we are told, the old temple, the greatest glory of their greatest prosperity, a wonder to the whole world, a monument of past history. They remembered a glorious building, where they had assembled for their daily devotions, full of treasures, replete with symbols of the Divine Presence, rich in all the appurtenances of their religion. Yet they knew how the gold and silver sanctified to their God had been carried off by a foreign conqueror, God having fulfilled his terrible judgment of profaning his sanctuary. The golden candlestick of 7 branches, the cherubims of the Mercy Seat, pillars inlaid with gold and silver, all had been lost in the common ruin of the nation. Nothing could replace them to the old men. The liberal grants of Cyrus, the special effort of their nation, were as nothing compared to the past, when the preparations of mighty David were taken up and enhanced by Solomon, his mightier Son. The loss of these outward glories, this tangible wealth of the old Temple, doubtless weighed upon the minds of the old men, but there was more than this. It was not only in size and splendour that it fell short, for it was of the same dimensions, and, though not as gorgeous, it was very rich and beautiful. What the old men missed now, was that which constituted the main glory of Solomon's Temple, apart from external splendour. There was now no Shekinah, or visible glory of Divine Presence on the Mercy Seat. There was now no altar of undying fire; for that fire had been quenched. Doubtless the presence of the Almighty seemed less real to them now. No Shekinah; no holy fire; no Urim and Thummim. Those very things by which God's presence had been shown most were gone. They had even now evidence of His being with them, but the special marks of His favour were missing. This second Temple was, indeed, to be more honoured by His presence, for when Christ in human form came into it the glory of the latter house did indeed far exceed the glory of the former, and the loss of prestige and its comparative poverty were more than compensated. But the old men saw only the bitter past, not the bright future. They thought of those days of captivity, when their harps hung idle on the willows of Babylon. Had they not hushed the Lord's song in a strange land, and wept in a foreign country at the remembrance of Jerusalem? These old men did well to weep. There was also a shout of joy. The young, who had seen no better, were glad to see these goodly preparations—glad to be restored to their national worship, which was the very life of their land. They were all energy and hopefulness. They knew now that it was not for their destruction or embitterment that they had been cut off from the blessings of the true worship of the true God, but that it was a chastening, and that it was now over—the clouds of captivity were blown away, and the full sun of Divine favour was shining upon them. His restored people. Their first care was to build an altar; the school of sorrow had taught them to begin with God. The forced want of the blessings of religion had shown their value. So their joy found its outlet, not only in shouting, but in building and worshipping. They were anxious to confirm and strengthen the blessings of their restoration in that one way which could preserve them; by binding them up in Divine worship, by glorifying His holy name in works begun, continued, and ended in Him. Weeping, then, and rejoicing—there was cause for both—but the weeping prevailed. The cause of the captivity over which those elders wept had been sin, separation from God; God's favour forfeited by unholy kings and disobedient people. Strange gods—Baal and Ashtaroth—gods of the heathen, gods of their own making, had usurped the place of the one true God. Kings had done evil in the sight of God, despite the warnings of His prophets. Holy places had been defiled, and the true worship dishonoured. Perhaps, too, these elders had been themselves good and faithful, and yet unable to avert the responsibility of the times they lived in, and that made their cup even more bitter. They had seen the forefathers of these young men as glad, as hopeful, as energetically devotional as they. Would it not soon die away? Would there not be another destruction, another captivity, despite present ardour and exultation? Often too, old and experienced men, who look upon the world, as it were, from a standpoint outside, and see the ebb and flow of its cares and joys. Things do not present the same aspect as to those who are carried along in the rush of the times. Their eyes fixed on some near object, their ears filled with the turmoil around them. The neutral looker on may see cause for weeping—some seem always to see it. The whole earth is a mere lazaretto to them, full of despair and hopeless misery. We cannot but think that it is presumption to take this view of God's bright creation. Doubtless God's creatures, created for good and blessed, do not fulfil the divine ends for which they were created. The discordant voice of sin mars the harmony of creation. The whole creation in one sense groans and travails. Yet these words are not spoken of the mind, which is itself its own tormentor, or of that distorted vision which makes all views of comfort hideous and unreal. "A merry heart," says the wise man, "doeth good like a medicine, but a wounded spirit drieth the bones." There is a duty of cheerfulness which is too often neglected; there are impulses and motives of joy which are not to be stifled and smothered. Yet there is cause for weeping, and these old men had a cause. God was not so near them. What was the new building worth without his sanctifying presence? To the young it was something to be allowed to return to God's worship, however shorn of its glory—they felt less the past. Let our lesson to-day be this: The presence of God, however manifested, means, and alone means, happiness. We, weak and fallible as we are, find ourselves helped in religion and in Masonry by the use of sign and symbol, and we cannot afford to despise these aids. It is true that God dwelleth not in Temples made by hands, yet He has, in one sense, His habitation and His house. There is a place where His honour abideth. As we associate the most sacred blessings of home, its love and endearments, with places and things, so too with the far more sacred blessings of religion. Some places, some things, call more vividly to the mind the presence of God. Let those who have never known such associations go their way and shout over each new attraction. But let us who feel the special significance of certain places, forms and things, be jealous of their being disparaged; and not let ourselves be carried away by something more new, more exciting, perhaps more attractive. Let it be something sad and sorrowful for us to see some great element of holiness wanting in our religion, or in our Craft. Let what we miss be what these old men missed, the assuring sign of God's presence. We shall do well to copy both the young men and the old—the old who wept over the deficiency of the worship, the young who spent their energies in his service, labouring with gavel, and square, and compasses, and plumb-line, to build His temple. It may be that now or sometime the weeping will prevail over the joy shout, but let the glory of God be the cause of either. Not selfish sorrow, not the pang caused by a taste not flattered, or a whim not gratified, but God first and last, God first to be worshipped, God first to be worked for, God first to be missed.—South Wales Daily News.

The Dublin Freeman's Journal, whose care for the welfare of mankind in general, and Freemasonry in particular, is well known, has the following:—

"Royalty and Masonry are becoming great friends. The Whitehall Review tells us that on the 25th of the present month the Grand Lodge of England will proceed to elect its officers for the new Masonic year. The Prince of Wales will, of course, be re-elected Grand Master, and we have reason to believe that his Royal Highness will nominate, either personally or through the Earl of Carnarvon (Pro Grand Master) H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught as Senior Grand Warden and H.R.H. Prince Leopold as Junior Grand Warden. Three of the Queen's sons, one of them being the future Ruler of the United Kingdom, will be members of a secret society if this programme be carried out. We lament this abuse of privilege in the interests of morality and society. The Royal family can have no need for the sort of work which chiefly occupies Masonic intelligence, but the society is undoubtedly strengthened by the addition of such disciples. We know quite well that a Prince of the blood in England has perhaps less power than any ordinary peer of the realm: but the Prince of Wales is a notable exception to this rule. In time he will be a factor of incomparable influence in the State; and if he is to do his duty even-handedly to all his subjects, he had need to be free from trammels of which his subjects at large cannot know the grip. We have had too many cases in which Masonry had been employed for something more and something less than fraternity, and in high places. The Christian religion includes all the laws which can make men brothers; and if it be insufficient for this purpose, in view of certain mental developments, we hardly think the gap can be filled by the puissance of a secret oath, a bounteous guxledom, a morality which maintains an inner society by feeding on society at large, and a supply of millinery and gimcrackery worthy of the middle ages."

The Morning Advertiser states:—The assertion that Herr-Von-Dachroeden, the Master of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Prussia (Grosse Landeslogs) who is at Rome, has become a convert to Roman Catholicism is declared by his deputy in office, Herr Gaarts, on the authority of a telegram received by him from Herr-Von-Dachroeden, to be an infamous falsehood.

The members of the Neville Dramatic School will give a performance in aid of the funds of the Newport Market Refuge and Industrial School, on Saturday morning, 28th April. On which occasion will be performed the celebrated play, by J. Sheridan Knowles, of the "Hunchback."

PERIODICAL LITERATURE.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

No. 14 of Picturesque Europe, is richer than usual in the quality of its engravings. Only two or three relate to English scenery, and these two or three suffice to complete the portion of the work devoted to Old English Homes. The rest of the number is descriptive of scenery on the West Coast of Ireland. Among the best of the illustrations in this section of the work, are the engravings of "Rocks near Kilkee," two views of the "Giants Causeway," "the Subterranean Passage of the Mask," "Carrigan Head," "View from Moyne Abbey," "'One Man's Pass' Donegal," and "Dunluce Castle." The principal engraving is the work of R. Hensbel Wood, from a picture by H. Fenn, of "Rock at Ross." We may add that the Title and Index to volume are now ready, price sixpence, and also cloth cases for binding, price 5s.

APPROACHING ELECTION FOR THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I fully sympathise with the case of George Samuel Cox, now a candidate for the seventh time for admission into the Boys' School, and rejoice to see his cause so strenuously advocated by our Rev. Bros. Dr. Ace and C. J. Martyn, D.P.G.M. for Suffolk. I do not think the adoption of such a rule as the former proposes would be wise, and for this reason. I can only account for so deserving a candidate obtaining so little support, by supposing that those who have had charge of his case have not set to work in the proper manner. I assume that every brother who has backed the candidature of young Cox has not only canvassed for him, but likewise given him his own votes. But what do I find when I turn to the list of subscribers to the Boys' School? The Province of Devon, from which the case emanated, has, I believe, 289 votes at command, while those whom "the case is known to, and recommended by" muster among them other 78. These, added to the Provincial votes, make a total of 367. Multiply this result by 6, and we have a total of 2202. The following is the lowest number of votes which sufficed at the last four elections to secure admission into the School. In April 1875, the last successful candidate polled 1554 votes. There were forty-eight candidates, but only eight vacancies, and therefore the votes were not so widely distributed. In October of the same year there were fifty-eight candidates for ten vacancies. The last of those elected polled 1676 votes. In April 1876, there were fifty-nine candidates for sixteen vacancies, and No. 16 on the poll carried his election with 1272 votes. As this was young Cox's fifth application, there is no apparent reason why his Province and backers should not have secured for him the fifth place with 1835 votes. Last October, fifteen out of fifty-seven candidates obtained admission into the School, the lowest with only 1217 votes, while No. 1 obtained 2008, or less by only a few short of 200 than the 2202, which, as I have already pointed out, might, and, in my humble judgment, ought to have been polled for Cox. I fancy I remember to have read in a former article of yours—I believe it was in one of your periodical analyses—a suggestion that brethren should not permit an applicant's name to be placed on the list of candidates unless they are prepared to support him (or her as the case may be) thoroughly.

I know there have been other cases emanating from Devonshire, and these may have commanded, and no doubt justly commanded, most of the support at the disposal, directly or indirectly, of the Province. Many of young Cox's present supporters may not have been in a position to help him at previous elections. Be this as it may, it seems inexplicable that a boy should now be offering himself as a candidate for the seventh time with only 381 votes standing to his credit.

Yours fraternally,

THE EXCLUSION OF JEWS IN GERMANY.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The letters and inquiries as to what proceedings the "Joppa Committee" intend taking in this matter are so numerous, that I find it impossible to answer them separately. I beg to inform those brethren who show so much sympathy, through your kindness by inserting this letter, that the Committee are taking for the present only the proper steps to inquire, but will do nothing which might prejudice the Montefiore petition now circulating, and patiently wait, for the disposal of the same.

I beg to remain, Dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,

MAURICE SPIEGEL.

QUALIFICATION OF CANDIDATES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—There seems to have been a direct violation of the law in the case referred to in the letter of your correspondent, who signs himself "A BURMAH MASON." Nothing can be more explicit than the statement in our Constitutions: "Previous to his initiation, he must subscribe his name at full length to a declaration of the following import," &c., &c. It is added in a footnote in reference hereto, "Any individual who cannot write is, consequently, ineligible to be admitted into the Order." Oliver, in his "Jurisprudence," remarking on this stringency of our Constitutions, says, "that all illiterate persons are pronounced ineligible for initiation," and he adds, "No one who is incapable of signing his name at full length to the declaration can be legally admitted as a candidate." This, of course, is nothing more than a repetition in another form of words of the law itself. He then states the penalty. "Any Lodge guilty of violating this regulation is subject to erasure, and he goes on to mention a case which had been "brought before the Grand Lodge some few years" previously, and "in which this law was fully recognised. It having been represented that certain brethren of a Lodge were unable to write, inasmuch as their marks only were affixed against their names, amongst whom was the Junior Warden; and as the Constitutions declare such persons ineligible for initiation, it was resolved that after this notice all such offences shall be brought under the cognisance of the Grand Lodge, and shall subject the offending Lodge to erasure." Oliver then cites another and corresponding case which "was reported by the Board of General Purposes to the Grand Lodge in 1844, where a party joining a Lodge at the recommendation of the Worshipful Master, was unable to write, and it was further given in evidence that the Worshipful Master had literally guided his hand to enable him to sign his name to the usual document. That officer, however, having declared his ignorance of the law until it was too late to repair the evil, he was admonished to be more careful in future." The latter is almost a complete parallel to the case mentioned by your correspondent.

The grounds on which "the compromise" was arrived at are not given. There may have been extenuating circumstances, and these might have the effect of altering or modifying one's judgment. But I repeat, on the faith of "A BURMAH MASON'S" exposition of the facts, a serious mistake has been committed. By whom, I leave it for others to decide.

Fraternally yours,

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WEST YORKSHIRE.

ON Wednesday, 4th inst., the annual meeting of this Province was held at the Church Institute, Bradford, under the banner of the Pentalpha Lodge, No. 974, when about 200 brethren assembled. The customary salutations having been heartily accorded to the Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master, Sir H. Edwards, Bart., and to the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Bro. T. W. Tew, the Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master in reply, said: Brethren of West Yorkshire, we have assembled, by the generous invitation of the Rev. R. W. Loosemore W.M., and the Officers and Members of the Pentalpha Lodge, No. 974, for our annual meeting, in the centre of one of the greatest industries of the North of England. Amongst the marvellous towns of the West Riding of Yorkshire, Bradford has a remarkable commercial history as interesting as either that of Sheffield, Leeds, Batley or Dewsbury. Certainly with these the town in which we met to-day has had a developement equally rapid, and in a very brief period of time its inhabitants have done as much as those of any other town in the province to increase the wealth of the nation. In 1811 Bradford had a population of 7,767, in 1871 of 146,000, and this population has unquestionably conferred a boon even upon the world at large. Development has succeeded to development; improvement has been made upon improvement, until to-day its commercial importance and magnificence are concurrent with the gigantic prosperity of its trade and the tastes of the times. Let us hope that the present suspension of the intense activity of its pursuits is due not to a diplomatic postponement of painful eventualities in the last, but to the simple awaiting the commencement of a settled basis of affairs, and that Bradford will start again on a course of development as brilliant in the future as in the past. (Applause.) As is recorded in its history since 1811, Freemasonry in Bradford has developed with its commercial developments. Under two previous chairmen of our Charity Committee—Bros. Manoah Rhodes and Thomas Hill, names brilliant in Yorkshire Freemasonry (applause)—a policy of Masonic prosperity and success has been built up, which has placed the Freemasonry of West Yorkshire on an influential footing, unsurpassed by any other provinces in the Grand Lodge of England. Pentalpha Lodge is an offspring of the famous Lodge of Hope, No. 302, and it has striven to emulate in charitable deeds the efforts of its munificent parent. The Pentalpha was established in 1863; in 1864 it was consecrated by Bro. Bentley Shaw, and has now sixty active members. Since its establishment, up to this day, it has liberally contributed to our Charities. We thank Pentalpha for this day's invitation, for its support of our Institutions, and Bradford for its fraternal welcome accorded to the Provincial Grand Lodge. Called, myself, by our Royal Grand Master to the government of this great province, I have now to observe that this day's ceremonial closes another year of my occupancy of this chair, and the commencement of another period of its tenancy. Therefore, in accordance with a practice of my illustrious predecessors, I shall trespass upon your attention with some comments upon the more prominent features of interest to the Craft in this province during the past year. Without flattery to the province, I may venture to say, this perhaps, is the only province in England containing a like number of Lodges—sixty-three—of which it could be said that every Lodge has made its annual returns for the past year, and thus enables me to put before you its position in the Craft. The income from quarterage fees has been £357 6s 6d, and we have a balance in hand of £921 2s 3d to the credit of next year. But the balance for charitable purposes will be at least six times the amount. I shall be able to say more on that subject at our July meeting. The number of active members returned for this province is 3,065. During the past year, the Lodges have enrolled 250 new members. Fifty-three members have died, and in some of them valuable charitable votes have lapsed, thus increasing the difficulties of the Charity Committee with regard to voting powers. Let me earnestly impress upon Worshipful Masters and Treasurers the importance that subscriptions should be applied for and paid at the commencement of each year instead of at the end of the year, and thus the list of arrears would probably be reduced to insignificant proportions, and many excellent, but negligent brethren would be retained on the muster-roll of this province. I have made a written communication to Lord Carnarvon that one of the Masonic Lifeboats (in commemoration of the Prince of Wales's safe return from India) should be placed on the Yorkshire coast, and have pressed the special claim of Robin Hood's Bay upon the attention of his Lordship, and am glad to inform this Provincial Grand Lodge that, assisted by the co-operation of North and East Yorkshire, the Pro Grand Master has said the application shall have the fullest consideration of himself and the committee. (Applause.) I cannot allow the retiring Provincial Grand Officers to vacate their chairs without expressing to them the obligations of the province for their zealous and able services. To the Mayor of Wakefield and to the Provincial Grand Junior Warden my sentiments towards them are those of unbounded gratitude for the time and ability they devoted in the performance of their executive responsibilities. In the nomination of officers to fill their places, I feel myself confronted with the grave and difficult task of selection of a few from a band of brethren of exalted merit, and to entrust these few new officers with the practical administration of the government of this province for the ensuing twelve months, viz., to carry out the duties of a well-organised Provincial Grand Lodge, whose ruling and guiding principles alone are framed and directed on the written as well as the unwritten laws of the Craft, and which all thoughtful and patriotic Provincial Grand Officers regard as of supreme importance. Whatever difference of opinion may exist as to the discrimination of this selection, I feel sure you will one and all recognise the justice of the claims of the brethren it is my duty to appoint to office, and that you will give them loyal and hearty Masonic support, and obey faithfully our Prov. Grand Lodge bye-laws, accepting my prerogative and resting your approval in accordance with my own upon the sure and solid foundation of that beneficent self-government the superstructure of which has been built up by the letter and spirit of fidelity to the Book of Constitutions. (Hear, hear.) I call, therefore, upon the old and new officers to unite with the brethren in unselfish efforts to secure, as heretofore, to our province, under the blessing of the Great Architect of the Universe, the faithful development of justice, piety and virtue, and the practice of a liberal charity, the principles upon which Freemasonry is founded, that we may exhibit to the outside world that amongst us we fervently decree:—That all things may be ordered and settled upon the best and surest foundation; that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety, may be established amongst us for all generations. After the usual preliminary routine business had been gone through, the officers for the ensuing year were invested as follow:—Bros. I. Booth 61 Halifax, Prov. S.G.W., J. Hurst jun., 337 Uppermill, Prov. J.G.W., Rev. R. Oldfield 275 Huddersfield, Prov. G. Chap., Rev. H. J. Day 1513 Barnsley, Prov. G. Chap., R. I. Critchley 208 Dewsbury, Prov. G. Treas., J. G. The July meeting will be held at Sheffield, and the Lodge will take part in opening the new Masonic Hall there.—Bradford Observer.

PHŒNIX CHAPTER, No. 173.

THIS Chapter was consecrated on Saturday, the 7th inst., at Freemasons' Hall. Comp. J. D. Massey W.M. 173 was the M.E.Z. designate, G. Wilson H., and G. R. Green J. The M.E.Z.'s chair was taken by Comp. Jas. Terry P.Z. 554 as H., Rev. R. J. Simpson P.G.C. as J. The regular consecration ceremony having been performed, the three principals were installed. The M.E.Z. then invested his officers—C. J. J. Salmon S.E., F. R. Vine S.N., J. Blyth P.S., G. H. Humphreys 1st A.S., Wiles 2nd A.S., J. Burford Treas., Speight Janitor. A letter was read from Comp. John Hervey G.S.E. regretting his absence, and wishing the Chapter prosperity. Propositions for joining and exaltation were handed in to the S.E. for balloting on the next meeting, comprising Rev. R. J. Simpson P.G.C., James Terry P.Z., P.P.G.S.B. Herts, G. W. Verry P.Z., and W. Watson P.Z. were unanimously elected honorary members. The Chapter was then closed until the 23rd of April, and the companions, thirty-four in number, sat down to a banquet. Grace having been sung by Comps. Thos. Distin, Carter and Cozens, The toast of the Queen and R.A. Masonry was given, and the National Anthem sung. The toast of the G.Z., H.R.H. The Prince of Wales., was given and enthusiastically received, as also those of the Earl of Carnarvon, Lord Skelmersdale and the rest of the Grand Officers. Comp. the Rev. R. J. Simpson, in a very excellent speech, returned thanks; he said he was not fully conversant with the working of Royal Arch Masonry, but was pleased to return thanks for those noble Companions. He thanked the companions for their kindness in receiving him. Comp. Terry said, in the absence of the P.Z. I am pleased, as Consecrating Officer, to be allowed to propose the next toast; I must say you have an efficient officer to preside over you. He has been only six months a R.A. Mason, but you know his capabilities in the Lodge; we shall see what he will do here; on this occasion there are 22 propositions for joining and exaltation. He would ask them with all sincerity to drink the health of the M.E.Z. of the Chapter. The toast was received with great cheers. The M.E.Z. said he would endeavour to do his duty, he hoped, to their satisfaction, while in the occupation of the chair, and while he had his health and strength his services would always be at their command, he had to propose the toast of the H. and J. They were old Past Masters, and they would, he was sure, do their duty. His excellent Companion on his right had performed the duties in another Chapter, and he, as well as the J., would give every satisfaction by their working. Comps. H. and J. responded to the toast. The former said he must compliment the 1st M.E.Z. for his energy in getting up the Chapter. The Parent Lodge had been in existence for many years, but never had a Master like the present one. He now shewed his enthusiasm by forming this Chapter. He had worked very assiduously, and we, as his assistants, feel great pleasure in rendering any duties required of us. We work, and hope to see the Chapter flourish. Comp. Green, J., followed. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the Consecrating Officer. He was one who was a true and trusty friend, and was well known and respected; he would ask them with all heartiness to drink to his health. Comp. J. Terry responded in a very excellent speech, and complimented the M.E.Z. on his able and genial presidency. The toast of the Visitors was next given; they would always be welcome. Comp. Buss, in reply, said that he regretted he could say but few words where such an army of visitors was present. It was a source of great gratification to see the manner the Chapter had been consecrated, and great credit is due to the M.E.Z. for his energy in getting up the Chapter. On the first night they had seen how admirably everything had been arranged; he trusted the Phœnix Chapter would be the largest and most successful in the Craft. Comp. Carter then sang "Sweethearts." The M.E.Z. proposed the toast of the Officers. They would, on a future occasion, have an opportunity of seeing how they could perform the duties required of them. Comp. Cozens then sang "Tom Bowling." The toast of the Officers was responded to, and the Janitor's toast was given. The companions then separated. The Visitors present were Comps. D. Witts H. 527, H. G. Buss P.Z. 177, G. Carter, J. L. Mather H. 174, C. A. Woods 145, G. W. Verry P.Z. 554, H. Simpson, J. Middleton No. 22, T. Distin, F. H. Cozens 1216, W. Watson P.Z., F. B. Davadge 185, H. Cormick 753, H. M. Levy P.Z. 188, Frampton P.Z. 749, Hilton P.Z., H. Massey P.Z. 619, Parker P.Z., Baker P.Z., Bowyer 174, Banson 174, Walls, Killick 749, Steedman 174, Betts 607.

ROYAL LEOPOLD LODGE, No. 1669.

THE above Lodge was consecrated at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New-road, S.E., on Saturday, 7th inst., being the anniversary of H.R.H. Prince Leopold's birth, by Bro. J. Hervey, V.W. Grand Secretary of England, assisted by Bro. Richard C. Else, D.P.G.M. of Somersetshire. Bro. the Rev. J. H. Gandy, M.A., Vicar of St. John's, Brixton, officiated as Chaplain, and during the ceremonies of consecration and installation, the Senior Warden's chair was occupied by Bro. Baxter W.M. Grand Steward's Lodge, while that of Junior Warden was filled by Bro. Lartham W.M. 1216, P.M. 1539, Bro. Hastie I.P.M. 1216 acted as I.G.

The beautiful and impressive ceremony of Consecration was ably performed by the Consecrating Officers, and the V.W. Grand Secretary, in a short address, gave much sound and excellent counsel and advice to the brethren of the new Lodge, with regard to their duties and privileges as Masons.

Bro. Else thereafter installed Bro. G. Newington Bridges P.M. 135 and 1216 as first W.M. of the Royal Leopold Lodge, and he in turn appointed his officers. Bro. W. H. Thomas was invested as S.W., Bro. T. Edmondston J.W., and Bro. T. Preston Hon. Secretary. Bro. Dakers, P.P.G. Treasurer of South Australia, was nominated by Bro. Woodcock (Founder) as Treasurer of the Lodge, and unanimously elected to that office. H.R.H. Prince Leopold having graciously signified his willingness to accept honorary membership of the Lodge, was elected thereto on the motion of the W.M. Bros. Hervey, Else and Sandy were also elected honorary members, in token of the brethren's appreciation of their services as Consecrating and Installing Officers.

The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren dined together in the banquet room.

Amongst those present, in addition to the names already mentioned, there were—Bros. Headon P.M. 1426, Colls P.M. 1, Moody P.M. 1426, Bradley, Woodcock, Wilkins, Jarman and Cranch, Founders; Bros. P. Nairne W.M. 1329, P.M. 176, J. Stevens P.M. 720, 1216 and 1426, S. Wagstaffe P.M. 1216, G. Waterall P.M. 1216, Messenger P.M. 1216, J. Dann P.M. 72, J. I. Harvey W.M. 1658, &c.

The Lodge having been opened, and the usual formalities disposed of, Bro. Shore was raised, Bros. Gordin, Wade and Sanders passed, and Mr. Walter Johnson initiated. The Lodge Bye-laws having been read, the Auditors' report received and unanimously adopted, Bro. J. C. White was installed W.M. for the ensuing year by Bro. Wallington, in a perfect and faultless manner for which the thanks of the Lodge were voted to him, and a record of the fact placed on the minutes. The W.M. promoted all of the officers one step, and re-appointed Bros. Littell, Wallington and Gilchrist as Secretary, Treasurer and Tyler respectively. This ending the business portion of the evening's proceedings, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment. After the toasts of the Queen, the M.W.G.M., the Pro G.M., the Deputy G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers had been disposed of, Bro. Dalwood I.P.M. rose to propose the health of the W.M., Bro. White. He considered it a very important toast. He was sure that no brother was more respected than the one they had in the chair. From the time he was initiated he had quietly plodded on, and had earned the reputation of being a good and popular Mason. Whenever a brother worked, he considered he was entitled to their respect. He hoped that the brethren would rally round and support their Master. No one had ever spoken ill of him in the Dalhousie, and he was sure the members would never regret having elected him to fill the chair, where he would do honour and be a credit to the Lodge. They had seen him through all the varied offices. He had served the post of Steward to two of our Institutions, and had taken up a goodly sum on each occasion. He considered that he really deserved the support of the brethren, and he hoped on the present occasion they would give the toast a hearty reception. The W.M. heartily thanked the brethren; he would endeavour to work, during his year of office, to their satisfaction, and let none of the lustre be dimmed by the way he would transact the affairs of the Lodge. He had good officers, and hoped with their assistance to keep up the prestige of the Lodge, if he could not enhance it. The next toast the W.M. said, was one that was everywhere received with pleasure, but particularly so at the Dalhousie. They were always glad to have new members, and he hoped the brethren would welcome their initiate, who had seen part of what he has to go through. He hoped he would persevere, and become a worthy brother. Bro. Johnson, in reply, said: Brethren, you can scarcely conceive the magic of that word. It has been my hope and aspiration for years to address a meeting by that term. I scarcely expected to have been received with such enthusiasm, and hope you will accept the few words in which I thank you as coming with a feeling it is difficult to express. I hope to be able to show I am a worthy member, and be some little credit to so worthy an assemblage. The W.M. in introducing the Visitors, said it was a toast very much appreciated throughout the Craft. They had seventeen visitors among them. He was grateful to them for coming to see how the work was performed at the Dalhousie, and hoped they were pleased with what they had seen. He specially referred to the rendering of the Installation ceremony by P.M. Bro Wallington, which he felt sure all present had appreciated. He hoped the visitors would make a point of again coming to see them. Bro. Driscoll was the first to reply. It had been his especial good fortune, he said, to attend on the installation evening for several years; in fact, with the exception of two, he had seen all the Past Masters who were present placed into the chair of the Lodge. He hoped to be able, by the kindness of his friends, to see several others. He considered he was a judge of good working, having seen the various ceremonies frequently worked, but he had never been so impressed as on that evening, when Bro. Wallington so ably installed the Master. He hoped the present Master would have a successful year, and that the Lodge would continue to prosper. Bro. Hunt P.M. followed. When he was asked to attend by a friend, he little knew that the brother to be installed was a very old friend of his. When he was installed Master of his Lodge, at Manchester, seventeen years ago, he well remembered their present Master, in fact, he had known him from his childhood. He could only reiterate the statements of the brother who had preceded him, as to the working of the various offices, but was especially pleased at the working of Bro. Wallington. The W.M. then, in the name of the Lodge, presented the retiring Master with a ring, which it had been decided was the best form of showing the esteem of the brethren—our respected Bro. Dallwood having already received a Past Master's jewel—in addition to the ring, a bar was added to the jewel. Bro. Clark, in affixing these marks of the brethren's appreciation, hoped they would long have the pleasure of seeing Bro. Dallwood among them; he was universally respected, and he might say beloved by every brother of the Dalhousie. Bro. Dallwood said he had been so used to thanking the brethren, for during his two years' term of office he had received nothing but kindness, that he hardly knew what to say. He very much appreciated their kind gifts. During his term of office everything had been done to make them enjoy themselves and make enjoyment for others. He heartily thanked them for every kindness he had received at their hands, and hoped that their present Master would leave the chair at the end of his term with the same expressions on the part of the members. The P.M.'s was next given; without them the W.M. considered no Lodge could be efficient. They had some good Masons among their number. Bro. Wallington, whose name was coupled with the toast, replied. He supposed the reason for calling on him was because they all knew he could not say anything. He felt like a fish out of water, as he had "nothing to do." He would work hard, and endeavour not only to keep up the good name of the Lodge, but if possible to enhance it. He considered the officers were all able and ready to work. Most of them were workers in the Lodge of Instruction, and their attendance there had brought them up to their present high standard. The W.M. had also mentioned Bro. P.M. Bates in connection with the toast, and as all knew he was a good hand at talking, he should leave him to finish thanking the brethren for the kind way in which they had been referred to. Bro. Bates did not know what to say, and even if he did, he should have been obliged to forego it in consequence of the late hour. The Lodge was established under good auspices, and it had certainly not degenerated. The first W.M. was a good Mason. Bro. Underwood was the second, and himself the third. He had seen better meetings than their present one on the occasion of the Installations, they had had as many as thirty visitors. He hoped the good feeling which now existed among the members would continue. He was pleased at the unanimity in which the W.M. had been elected. He must bear in mind that the duties of a Master do not cease at the door of the Lodge; he must be always at work for the good of his Lodge; ever on the look-out for something to improve and strengthen it. The Secretary and Treasurer were next referred to by the W.M. They were grateful for the way both of those officers had performed their duty, which was no light labour. Bro. Wallington (Treasurer) said the few remarks of the W.M. had reminded him that he had had something to do, but it was, during the past year, a very easy task; if a Treasurer has plenty of money his work is very light. He hoped next year would be a better one for the Lodge and for himself too. They could now hold their own, and still have a good balance sheet. They had voted £10 to one of the Charities, and he wished them to become Life Governor of all three. He hoped to remain Treasurer for many years to come. Bro. Littell was very pleased Bro. Wallington could now answer for himself. Hitherto, in consequence of his being the I.P.M., the duty of replying for both Secretary and Treasurer had devolved on himself. It was a much easier task to reply for one than for two, although when it became a question of speaking of oneself it was difficult. He could only repeat what he had so often said in reply to their kind expressions, that he most heartily thanked them. He would continue to discharge the duties to the best of his abilities. Their present W.M. was one of his initiates, and he was pleased to see him in that position. The officers were then toasted. The W.M. considered that no one need be ashamed of such a body. Bro. S.W. thanked the W.M. and brethren. It was a great pleasure to him to be appointed to the office; he would do all in his power to make it pleasant in the Lodge. Bro. Weige J.W. also thanked the brethren. He would act up to the advice given him that evening, and make himself proficient to fill any office he might be called upon to fulfil. He hoped some day to be in the chair now occupied by the W.M. The Tyler's toast followed, and brought a very lengthy meeting to a close. Bros. S. Smith, W. T. Smith, Wallington, Giblin and Weige sung some capital songs.

Hervey Lodge, No. 1260.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 11th instant, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. The Lodge room was adorned by the portrait of the worthy Grand Sec. Bro. John Hervey, which was presented to the Lodge by Bro. J. H. Southwood S.W. and W.M. elect, painted by Bro. Baron Tittenborn. The W.M. Bro. G. Harrison occupied the chair, supported by Bro. J. H. Southwood S.W., J. S. Ward J.W., G. King Sec., Jabez Hogg P.M. P.G.D. Treas., E. J. Goodman J.D., Shalding I.G., and Bros. Foot, Burley, Robbins, Hooper, Butter, Mansell, Bigwood, Condy, Elis, H. B. Condy, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the regular meeting, with those of an emergency meeting, were confirmed. The report of the Audit Committee was read, showing the Lodge was in a flourishing condition. Mr. G. Reason being in attendance, was initiated into the Order by the W.M. A board of installed Masters was then formed, and Bro. J. H. Southwood was presented by Bro. Jabez Hogg P.M. He was duly installed into the chair by Bro. G. King P.M. perfectly and impressively. On the conclusion of the ceremony he was warmly congratulated by the brethren and visitors. Bro. Seymour Smith played effectively on the organ. The newly-installed W.M. having been saluted in due form invested his officers:—Bros. J. S. Ward S.W., Goodacre J.W., Jabez Hogg P.G.D. Treasurer, G. King P.M. Sec., in the absence of Bro. G. King jun., Spalding S.D., Birley J.D., Rubens I.G., J. R. Cook and, Foot Steward, Speight P.M. Tyler. The W.M. then said it was a pleasing duty he had to perform, and that was to present to the retiring W.M. Bro. G. Harrison a very elegant Past Master's jewel. In placing it on his breast he said it was one voted unanimously by the Lodge, and he hoped he might live long to wear it. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to Bro. G. King for the manner he had performed the ceremony of installation, for which he suitably replied. The W.M. then read a letter from Bro. G. King jun. on the eve of his going to Natal, thanking the Lodge for the very handsome testimonial presented to him previously to his leaving England, and hoping that his health might be restored to enable him to be among them again. He wished the W.M. a successful year of office. It was proposed and seconded that the letter of thanks should be entered on the minutes. Several letters of apology were read from brethren, regretting their absence. Bro. Czarnecki gave notice of motion, that from the 1st of October the subscriptions be increased to five guineas, and the initiation and joining fees to ten guineas. Bro. Jabez Hogg P.G.D., proposed that the sum of ten guineas be placed on the list of the W.M., who is a steward for the Boys' Festival in June. The brethren liberally subscribed the sum of £40 in addition. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 66 in number, adjourned to the Inns of Court Hotel, where a very excellent banquet and dessert was served. The W.M. provided some very artistic menu's, with list of toasts and songs. Grace having been sung, the W.M. proposed the toast of the Queen and the Craft. The National Anthem was sung, Miss Lincoln singing the solo. The toast of H.R.H. the M.W.G.M. the Prince of Wales, was given, and Bro. Frank Elmore, Miss Lincoln, and Seymour Smith sang "God Bless the Prince of Wales," which was enthusiastically received. The W.M., in very eulogistic terms, proposed the toast of the Pro G.M., the D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers, Past and Present. All who attend Grand Lodge see how the Pro G.M. and Lord Skelmersdale do their duties; but to-night we have one distinguished brother with us, and whom we are always pleased to see, not only as a Grand Officer, but one who, as a member of this Lodge, we are proud of, but we have also another Grand Officer, viz., Bro. T. Cubitt, Past G. Pursuivant. He is not only known to us in Grand Lodge, but also in many Lodges, and in connection with the charities, as Bro. Hogg will reply in another capacity. I shall call on my worthy friend, Bro. T. Cubitt, to respond to the toast. Bro. T. Davey played a cornet solo. Bro. T. Cubitt was pleased to respond. The example the Grand Officers set had done good to Freemasonry. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the initiates, one of whom was initiated to-night, and the other on the emergency meeting. He was sure they would never regret being initiated into our ancient and honourable Order. The E.A. song was then sung by Bro. Seymour Smith. Bro. O. L. M. Latreille returned thanks. It would always be a source of pleasure to be among them. He would be proud to attend to the duties, and hoped to become one whom they would never regret having accepted. Bro. Raison also responded. Bro. J. Hogg P.G. D.P.M., was proud to be called on to propose a very gratifying toast—one that he felt a very great pleasure in proposing—it was that of the W.M. He is one who had in every respect done his duty. Every one who has met him knows what he has done for the Lodge. He hoped he might be spared for many years to be among them. Bro. Seymour Smith then sung a new humourous song. The W.M. returned thanks for the eloquent manner in which Bro. Jabez Hogg had proposed his health. By an accidental visit to the Hervey Lodge five years since, he joined, and was put into office; now he had attained to the proud position of W.M. He hoped when he left the chair he should do so with the satisfaction of every brother. He regretted the worthy founder of the Hervey Lodge, Bro. John Hervey, was not present. They would commence a new era in the Lodge, and follow out the good name of the one whom the Lodge was named after. (Cheers.) The W.M. then proposed the toast of the visitors. He mentioned their names seriatim. He would call on Bro. H. G. Buss P.J.G.W. for Middlesex to respond to the toast, and he, in a very excellent speech, returned thanks for the numerous visitors. He hoped he would embody their sentiments in saying that it was with feelings of deep regret he had not visited the Lodge since its consecration. He hoped the W.M., on the conclusion of his year of office, would follow out the principles and tenets laid down. Miss Lincoln sang "It was a Dream," which was loudly applauded and re-demanded. The W.M. then proposed the Past Masters. We are a young Lodge. We regret the absence of the working P.M. and Sec., who is so ill that he is now on his way in search of health. He hoped he might be spared to return to them in renewed health and vigour. He also brought forward the I.P.M., who had done his duty, although under domestic affliction. He had done everything required of him. He called on Bro. G. Hampson I.P.M. to respond. Bro. Frank Elmore then sang "The Woodmanns Son." The I.P.M. responded to the toast. He hoped he had given satisfaction as W.M. Bro. G. King P.M. followed. He hoped to see many of the brethren among them at the Hervey Lodge of Instruction, which meets every Friday evening at the Punch's Tavern, Fleet-street. The toast of the Wardens and Officers was then given. Bro. Davy then sang "The Exile's Lament." Bro. Ward S.W. returned thanks in a very eloquent speech. They were pleased to accept office under such a W.M., and he hoped at a future time to occupy the chair now so worthily filled. The Tyler's toast followed. The visitors were Bros. Thos. Cubitt P.G.P., Baron Tittenborn 943 and 1507, Chitty 1551, G. Mitchell 490, N. Y. United States, Lough P.M. 59, J. W. Legge 15, Heaton 583, C. Atkins P.M. 27, E. Powell 723, W. T. Howe P.P.G.P. Middlesex, Hollis P.M. 169, H. G. Buss P.M. 27 P.J.G.W. Middlesex, J. Green P.M. 27, Augh 49, Defriez 45, Heaton 353, Wells 15, Davis 1218, Bryant 1107, Mallon 1288, T. Morgan 1572, J. Sheppard 27, H. M Levy P.M. 188.

Manchester Lodge of Instruction, No. 179.—Held at the Yorkshire Grey, London-street, Fitzroy-square. The fifteen sections were worked in this Lodge on Saturday evening, the 7th inst. Bro P. M. and Preceptor Koester 435 in the chair. P.M. Wereat S.W., Long J.W., Blackmore S.D., Dairy J.D., Dickinson J.G. There were also present Bros. Davis P.M. 382, Baker P.M. 167, Golding P.M., Fahrenbach P.M. 382, Sedgwick P.M. 180, Coulton P.M. 382, Belfrage S.D. 179, W. Cooper S.D. 538, S. A. Cooper W.S. 1637, Phillips, Cook 435, Martin 382, Lovett, Carter S.W. 212, &c. It was proposed by Bro. Baker P.M. 67, and seconded by Bro. C. W. Davis P.M. 382, that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes for the very able manner the worthy Preceptor had discharged the duties of the chair. He returned thanks. He also had to thank Bro. Weist P.M. for his able support, and the brethren for their efficient working and kind attention during the performance of the ceremony. The Lodge of Instruction was then closed until the next Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

WOOD GREEN, LONDON, N.

OFFICE: 6 Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, W.C.

PATRON:

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G., &c., M.W.G.M.

A QUARTERLY General Court of the Governors and Subscribers will be held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London, on Monday, the 16th day of April 1877, for the transaction of the ordinary business of the Institution, to elect a Treasurer for the ensuing year, to elect 13 brethren as members of the General Committee to represent the life and annual subscribers, to elect 12 Boys from an approved list of 59 candidates, to consider the following notices of motion:

1. By Bro. Raynham W. Stewart:—

That the meetings of the Quarterly General Courts, in January and July, be held at 4 p.m. instead of 12 noon.

2. By Bro. H. G. Warren:—

That, having regard to the increased income of the Institution and the altered position of the Secretary and Collector, it is expedient that Rules 74 and 75 shall be so amended as to provide that the Secretary shall give security for £1000, the Secretary's Chief Clerk £500, and any other Clerks £250 each. Such security to be provided through an Approved Guarantee Society, and the premiums paid by this Institution, so as not to be a burthen on the officials.

The chair will be taken at 12 o'clock at noon precisely.

The ballot for the election of candidates will commence at 1 o'clock, and will close at 3 o'clock, or earlier, should the general business be completed before that hour.

By order,

FREDERICK BINCKES, P.G. Steward, Secretary.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE House of Commons reassembled after the Easter recess on Thursday, the 5th instant. Public business, however, does not seem to have progressed as rapidly as could be wished. In Committee of Supply several of the Civil Service Estimates have been voted, not always, however, without opposition. Matters connected with the Eastern Question have occupied no little share of attention. Several questions have been asked, the inquisitors of the Government being chiefly Messrs. E. Jenkins, Rylands and W. E. Forster. A bold attempt was made on Tuesday by Mr. P. A. Taylor to abolish flogging in the navy. His motion was opposed by the Government, and on division, the honourable member for Leicester was defeated by 164 to 102. The announcement of the numbers was received with considerable cheering by the minority. When this question had been disposed of, Sir R. Anstruther moved, and Mr. Walpole seconded, a motion for a committee of inquiry into the petition of Lord Cochrane, grandson of the late Earl of Dundonald. The object of this petition is to induce the House of Commons to vote the half-pay which his grandfather would have been entitled to had he not been dismissed the Service for alleged participation in certain Stock Exchange frauds. The dismissal occurred in 1814, and the late Earl was not restored to his place in the Navy List till 1832, when the bitterness of political rancour had passed away, and it was known that one of our most gallant officers had been treated most shamefully. But though restored to rank, the late Earl did not receive the half-pay he would have received in the eighteen years between 1814 and 1832, had he been retained in the Navy. The old sea-wolf, as he was called, is long since dead and gone, and now his grandson is seeking to recover these moneys, less on account of their value than because, if they are voted, the reparation made to his grandfather's honour will be complete. It would have been a graceful as well as a prudent act on the part of the Chancellor of the Exchequer had he accepted the motion. Instead of this he opposed it on technical grounds, and then, feeling that the House was not with him, he, as it were, let judgment go by default, or, in other words, he declined to carry his opposition to the length of a division. This is not creditable to Sir Stafford Northcote's business habits. On Wednesday afternoon, a Newspaper Registration Bill was rejected on its second reading by 149 to 69 votes. In the course of the debate Mr. Sullivan delivered a very impassioned speech against the further progress of the Bill, in the course of which he denounced a certain infamous publication. Though its name was never even mentioned, the House very keenly appreciated the honourable gentleman's emphatic utterances. What may fairly be described as a scene was the consequence of this speech. When the result of the voting had been announced, Mr. Sullivan rose, and informed Mr. Speaker that, while the division was taking place, Dr. Kenealy had approached him and called him a liar. Having thus placed the matter in his hands, Mr. Speaker rose, and pointed out that such language had been very properly brought under his notice, and he left it to the house to determine its course of action in the matter. Dr. Kenealy having risen and offered certain explanations, withdrew; whereupon Mr. Forster proposed, and the Home Secretary seconded, a motion to the effect that Dr. Kenealy should withdraw the offensive expressions, and apologise to the House for having used them. Dr. Kenealy shortly reappeared, and at once withdrew the words and tendered the required apology. On Thursday the House resolved itself into a Committee of Ways and Means, and the Chancellor of Exchequer delivered his annual financial statement, there being, as usual, a very full house to hear it. Yesterday evening was fixed for an exciting debate on the Eastern Question, the Marquis of Hartington having given notice on Monday of his intention to ask for certain papers relating to the Protocol and a Russian despatch of the 19th January. Whether the debate came off or not, and, if so, with what result, our readers will learn as soon as we shall.

The Prince of Wales, we rejoice to say, has sufficiently recovered to be enabled to start on his visit to the Continent. His Royal Highness left Marlborough House on Wednesday evening for Paris and the South of France, vid Folkestone and Boulogne. At the Charing-cross Station Prince Christian, the Russian, Danish, Portuguese, and Spanish Ambassadors, with other gentlemen, were assembled to bid farewell to the Prince, who reached Folkestone shortly after 10 P.M., and immediately went on board the steamer Victoria. It was expected he would have reached Boulogne shortly after midnight, whence, after a brief rest, he would continue his journey to Paris. Here apartments have been engaged for him. On Thursday evening or Friday morning he was to leave for the South of France. The Princess of Wales reached Brindisi on Sunday evening, and left at midnight on board the Royal Yacht Osborne for Athens. The Osborne was expected to reach Corinth on Tuesday. The Duchess of Edinburgh left Malta on Monday morning, for Villafranca, on board H.M.S. Sultan, Captain the Duke of Edinburgh. Her Royal Highness's suite were on board the Antelope, which accompanied her husband's ship.

It is stated that Her Majesty's birthday, which falls on the 24th May, will be publicly celebrated on the 2nd June instead of on the 26th May, as originally announced.

During the whole of last week the Agricultural Hall was thronged with spectators eager to watch the progress of the great match between Weston and O'Leary for stakes amounting to £1,000. It is stated there were no less than 35,000 present on Saturday. We gave some particulars of the earlier days' performances. By the end of the third day O'Leary had walked 294 miles to Weston's 275. The advantage the former had gained thus far was maintained without material variation till the end, and O'Leary, in the course of Saturday afternoon, was proclaimed winner, as soon as Weston's backer, Sir John Ashtey, saw that no amount of exertion on the part of his protége could by any possibility destroy the advantage which O'Leary had gained. The latter covered 520 miles, with several hours to spare, and it is stated, with some show of reason, that had he been pushed he might have accomplished another ten miles. Weston walked 510 miles, or ten miles short of his opponent, and the pluck he exhibited in continuing his journey hours after the victory of his opponent had been conceded, elicited the warmest and most enthusiastic cheers of the multitude. Suffice it to say that both men exhibited astonishing powers of endurance, no such feat having, as far as we know, been previously accomplished. Weston was none the worse on Sunday for his exertions, but O'Leary had a sore place on one of his feet, and was obliged, therefore, to rest on a sofa. The difference in the styles of walking in the two men was very marked. O'Leary walked in a soldierly manner, while Weston's was careless, not to say ungraceful. Further exhibitions of speed and endurance are likely to follow, as Crossland, a well-known long distance walker, has challenged all the world to walk him for a stake of £1,000 a side.

Mr. Roebuck, the veteran M.P. for Sheffield, is a common-sensible speaker. On Monday evening, he "assisted" at the opening of the first cocoa and coffee-house established in Sheffield. The Mayor, Mr. Alderman Barrett, presided, and among the principal persons present were Sir Harcourt Johnstone and Mr. Mundella. Mr. Roebuck, in the course of his address, pointed out how desirable it was that people should live temperately. At the same time he ridiculed the idea that men would not get drunk if they wished it. Intemperance would not be put down by intemperate means, and by endeavouring to force the principle of teetotalism down people's throats. He therefore explained why it was so many working men were driven to the public-house and gin palace, and showed that if the men had home comforts and respectable institutions like the new coffee-house, they would very soon forsake the former. The new institution has been erected through the generosity of Mr. F. T. Mappin, and has likewise been furnished throughout by the same gentleman.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Andrew Halliday who was so long connected with literature and the drama. Mr. Halliday, whose full name was Andrew Halliday Duff, was born in 1830. He was educated at Marischal College and University, Aberdeen. He came to London at an early age, and soon found occupation as a journalist on the Morning Chronicle. He also contributed to the Leader, and subsequently to the Cornhill Magazine and All the Year Round. His skill in dramatic literature as an adaptor of plays was acknowledged on all hands, and many were the successes he achieved in burlesque, comedy, farce, and melodrama. He will, however, be best remembered by his Essays contributed to the Cornhill and All the Year Round. Mr. Halliday had, for months past, been in failing health, but though it was generally anticipated that his days were numbered, his death, which took place on Tuesday, was a painful surprise to his large circle of friends. He leaves a widow to lament his early loss, but no children.

Though the Eastern Question is fraught with the most serious difficulties, and though every one is aware that if war breaks out, there is no knowing how long the rest of Europe may be able to stand aloof, we believe there is hardly an Englishman who is not utterly weary of hearing the subject discussed. Those whose duty it is to watch the ever-varying phases of this momentous struggle must be well nigh worn out with anxiety when they find that no sooner is one obstacle to a peaceful solution removed, than another, and even a greater perhaps, is conjured up. If we look the difficulty fully and fairly in the face, there appears no valid reason why it should not be arranged speedily. Europe is anxious to be free, for a season at least, from threats of war. Turkey expresses her readiness to improve her internal administration, but very properly resents interference with her domestic government. Her sovereign is not the only ruler who has entrusted to him the destinies of people of different races and creeds. The Turk is not naturally cruel. When his blood is up, and he feels that he has been wrongfully dealt with, he lashes out viciously, and woe betide those who cross his path. But his wrath is never cold-blooded. It must be the extreme of indignity and persecution which drives him to turn at bay and retaliate fiercely to the best of his ability. It has been the fashion in England for many months to speak harsh untruths of a people who have acted, on the whole, fairly and squarely towards others. The Turk has no idea of government according to our Western ideas. But he is courteous, affable to strangers, and, above all things, most hospitable. He may be wasteful and extravagant. He may incline to fanaticism in religious matters. He has, in short, his good qualities as well as his bad. His neighbour, the Russian, is hardly so enlightened or so polished; while, in the matter of common honesty, we prefer the Turk to the Russian a thousand times over. In fact, as we have said more than once, the disturbances which have at length brought about the present grave conjuncture of affairs are due to Russian agency. It was Russian, or, at all events, Panslavist agents who excited the insurrection in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Servia would never have rushed voluntarily to her own doom, had she not been almost forced to do so by Russian intrigues. It is well known that the Prince of Montenegro is merely a protégé of the Czar, and will declare war or make peace exactly as he is bidden. And now the Protocol has been signed by all the Great Powers, conditionally by two, unconditionally by the others, when Russia can withdraw from her position, demobilise her armies, and boast of a diplomatic triumph, she is said to be acting towards Turkey more peremptorily than ever. She declares it is impossible for her to support the present uncertainty any longer, but if she is acting sincerely, she has the power of determining the uncertainty instanter. Turkey will be only too glad to be left alone, in order that she may set her house in order, dismiss her troops to their quarters, and enter upon a policy of retrenchment. In saying this much, we are indulging in no predilections for this or that political power. We are, indeed, but repeating what nearly the whole of the English Press has been saying for months past. We have no sympathy for the individuals who committed such barbarities in Bulgaria during the summer of last year, but the Sultan is no more responsible for their foul acts than is our Queen for the atrocious outrages perpetrated by English ruffians. Those who goad a man into anger, which is a passing madness, must not blame him, but themselves, for the excesses which may follow.

At the General Committee Meeting of the Boys' School on Saturday last, at Freemason's Hall, after the report of the House Committee on the enlargement of the Institution had been discussed, it was reported by Bro. Dr. Morris that of the twenty-eight boys who had submitted themselves for examination at the recent Cambridge local examination, twenty-six had passed the ordeal. Of these fourteen took honours and twelve obtained certificates. Several applicants were placed on the list of candidates for the October election. Bro. Benjamin Head took the chair, and there were present Bros. Captain Phillips, Hyde Pullen, G. Snow, Browse, Paas, C. F. Matier, J. Constable, H. Massey, and a numerous attendance of those entitled to be present.

The Freemasons' Repository announces the re-election, at the Annual Convocation of the Grand Chapter of Rhode Island on the 13th ult., of Comp. Wm. T. C. Wardell as Grand High Priest. The Grand Chapter dinner was excellent, as usual, and was "well appreciated by the large company gathered around the inviting tables." We learn from the same source that a Special Communication of the Grand Lodge of the same jurisdiction was held on the 22nd February—the anniversary of Washington's birthday—for the purpose of exemplifying the three degrees of Freemasonry. The occasion excited more than ordinary interest, as it had been arranged that the only son of the Grand Master, Bro. Van Slyck, should figure as the candidate in the ceremony of initiation, and would subsequently receive, by virtue of a special dispensation granted for the purpose, the second and third degrees the same evening. The following Lodges worked the ceremonies incidental to the several degrees—namely, Corinthian Lodge, No. 27, that of the first degree, Union, No. 10, that of passing, and after a brief adjournment for refreshment, Adelphoi No. 33, that of raising. A cordial vote of thanks to these Lodges was passed unanimously, and after brief addresses from Past Grand Master Doyle, W. Bros. Arlington and Knapp, and a few chosen words from Grand Master Van Slyck, the Lodge was closed. There was a numerous attendance of brethren, nearly all the Lodges in the State being represented.

A Benevolent Fund having been established in connection with the Upper Norwood Lodge, No. 1586, an evening concert will be held in aid of its funds, in the Opera Theatre of the Crystal Palace, on the 23rd inst. Amongst the vocalists will be Bros. George Perren, Barton Mc Guckin, George Stedman, and George Fox, together with Madame Worrell-Duval and Miss Frances Brooke. Among the instrumentalists are the names of Bro. Dubruck, solo oboe, and Bro. Henry Gadsby, who will preside at the pianoforte. Bros. Henry Gadsby and James Coward and Mr. L. C. Venables will be the conductors. Bro. Aug. Manns, musical director at the Crystal Palace, has kindly undertaken to superintend the whole of the musical arrangements. The programme will be in two parts, one classical and the other miscellaneous, and will include a quintet by Beethoven for pianoforte, clarionet, oboe, bassoon, and horn, one of Reicha's quintets for flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon and horn, a new serenade from Hiawatha by Bro. H. Gadsby, with accompaniments for piano, wood-wind, and horn, and a new Shakespearian song by Bro. George Fox. Among the stewards occur the names of Bros. F. Binckes, Secretary Boys' School, J. Bertram, William Bertram, R. Wentworth Little, Secretary Girls' School, Magnus Ohren, Rev. R. J. Simpson, Tattershall, James Terry, Secretary R.M.B.I., E. Cox, James Stevens, Thiellay, Frances, Coward, Fox, &c., &c., &c. Tickets, including admission to the Palace after 7 p.m., as follows:—Numbered stalls, 5s and 2s 6d; unnumbered reserved seat tickets 1s. The concert has our heartiest good wishes, and we doubt not, will materially assist the Benevolent Fund in whose behalf it has been prepared.

The first number of Touchstone fully realises the expectations we had formed of it. Music and the drama receive the chief share of attention, and the criticisms, freely interspersed among the notices of different theatres and concerts, metropolitan, provincial, and foreign, are written carefully and with great judgment. Social questions are also treated both ably and impartially. The columns devoted to "Varieties, or What you Will" are highly interesting, while the portion set apart for "Field Sports" is entirely free from that obnoxious slang which is considered by so many a necessary element in sporting chronicles. A page is devoted to Masonic intelligence, but of this we leave our readers to form their own opinion. In fine, the general tone of the paper is excellent, and we heartily wish our new contemporary a long and prosperous career.

Royal Kensington Lodge, No. 1627.—This Lodge held its last regular meeting for the season on Friday, the 6th inst., at Freemasons' Hall. Present—Bros. Hyde Pullen Treas. as W.M., Chas. E. Soppet S.W., W. E. G. Leith J.W., Donald M. Dewar Secretary, B. F. Cramer J.D., H. M. Sydney I.G., Potter Tyler; and Bros. Steele, Dunning, Wainright, Robinson, Gass, Tustin, &c., &c. Visitors—Bros. Henry A. Lee, Lodge No. 50 I.C., C. H. Paine, Cadogan Lodge 162, and Chas. Taylor, Great City Lodge 1426. Business—Lodge opened by Bro. Hyde Pullen, in the unavoidable absence of the W.M. After the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed, Mr. D. N. Easlea was initiated, Bros. Steele and Wainwright passed, and Bro. Tustin was raised, the whole of the ceremonies being performed by Bro. Pullen in his usual able and impressive manner. The petition to the M.W.G.M. on the subject of the exclusion of Jews from the benefits of Freemasonry by certain Grand Lodges in Germany having been approved and ordered to be signed, the brethren adjourned to a banquet, and passed a most enjoyable evening.

THE FIFTEEN SECTIONS.

THE DRAMA.

The new bill at the Haymarket.

"A Fair Encounter," "Fame," and "Tom Noddy's Secret, constitute the present bill of fare at the Haymarket. The first is a pleasantly written one-act piece by Mr. C. M. Rae, delightfully acted by Miss Kathleen Irwin and Miss Ella Dietz, and containing a pretty song, warbled with characteristic effect by Miss Irwin. The second is a new three act comedy, also by Mr. Rae; and the third is a capital old farce by Mr. T. H. Bailey. With regard to "Fame," we fear we can only describe it as a failure. Destitute of plot, with a singular paucity of incident and situation, unenlivened by brilliant or amusing dialogue, and, by at least some members of the cast, indifferently acted, its success on the night of its production seemed doubtful from the first, and when the curtain fell over the final tableau, but one opinion was expressed by all present, capable of judging. Miss Annie Lafontaine, to whom the chief part had been allotted, acted like an uneducated novice, and failed throughout to obtain the sympathies of the audience. To be sure the character was an unpleasant one, but in the hands of an artiste it might have been made effective. Miss Marion Terry was fairly successful in a small part, but Miss Harris was altogether unsuited to the character she was cast for. Mr. Buckstone gave a droll representation of an impecunious speculator who was anxious to float a company for "milking cows by machinery," Mr. Howe, Mr. Herbert, and Mr. Clarke sustained effectively the characters they assumed, and Mr. Kyrle deserves a special tribute of praise for the quiet humour with which he endowed the character of a stuttering baronet. The play was decidedly a poor one, and we prophesy for it a short and melancholy career. The real hit of the evening was the revival of "Tom Noddy's Secret," which had not been played in London for many years before. The complications, cross purposes, and genuine fun in this piece, would suffice for twenty such plays as "Fame." Those capital actors Messrs. Everill and Clarke were quite in their element here and their performance of the parts of Tom Noddy and Inkpen, elicited roars of laughter from the audience, as have not been heard in this theatre for years past. As Gabrielle, Miss Kathleen Irwin looked and acted to perfection. Nothing could be more becoming than the Cavalier uniform she wore during part of the performance; whilst the general sprightliness and vivacity of her acting were delightful to witness. Mr. Herbert and Miss Dietz also contributed to the general success of the revival. If "Fame" could be replaced by another good revival, say even Mr. Gilbert's "Palace of Truth," the programme we are persuaded might remain unaltered, and bring crowds to the theatre for many months.

The members of the Peckham Lodge, No. 1475, have promoted a Masonic Ball, which will take place on Monday, the 23rd inst., at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New-road. As the proceeds are to be devoted to the Charities, we hope the Craft will support the committee on this occasion.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Thistle Lodge of Mark Masters, No. 8.—The members of this Lodge met at No. 2 Westminster-chambers, Victoria-street, S.W., on Friday, the 6th inst. Bro. Chas. Lacy P.M. occupied the chair. Bros. E. Gotthiel W.M. 173, a visitor, was S.W., Mander J.W., Figg P.M. Treas., Cottebrune P.G.S.B. and P.M. Sec., and acting M.O., Swallow S.O., Farwig J.O., Hart Org., Leggett S.D., Burrell J.D., Reed I.G., and Woodstock Tyler. The Lodge having been opened, and minutes read and confirmed, Bros. George Allen, George Evans, and Forscut were regularly advanced to this degree, the ceremony being very ably rendered by Bro. Lacy. After an ample and highly satisfactory repast, the usual toasts were proposed and responded to. In returning thanks for the Grand Officers, Bro. W. Mann remarked that upon his first entrance into this degree he had a great hope and desire to see it acknowledged in Craft Grand Lodge. Indeed, he never could form a conception as to why it should not be so acknowledged, seeing that the most eminent Past and Present Grand Officers in Craft Masonry have not hesitated to occupy similar positions in the Mark Grand Lodge. But matters have considerably altered since that time, it being now sixteen years ago, and the Mark Grand Lodge, being fully competent to hold its own, would strenuously oppose any attempt which might be made to bring about a union of the two bodies. Responding to the toast of the W.M., which Bro. Cottebrune had proposed in highly flattering terms, Bro. Lacy expressed his thanks, and stated that he had done no more than his duty, and that it should always be his endeavour to serve the Lodge with such ability as he possessed. Bro. Gotthiel replied for the visitors. He was grateful to the W.M. for his courteous invitation, and to the brethren for the kindness in which his name had been received. As a general rule, responding to these toasts is a difficult task, unless one is possessed of a conscience capable of being stretched. For it frequently happens that you must either hold your tongue altogether respecting the working in the Lodge or indulge in a system of flattery which has no foundation in truth. In this instance, however, it is gratifying to be able, conscientiously, to give praise for the smoothness and ability with which the work was done, especially when it is considered that the officers labour under the disadvantage of having no Lodges of Instruction in which to rehearse and practice, for it is well understood, that although a ritual may be possessed in manuscript or print, still without practice no one can hope to work efficiently. It is, therefore, highly creditable to the W.M. and officers that the business was carried out so well. Regarding the hospitality, nothing could have been more satisfactory. He (Bro. Gottheil) has always held that a plain repast is very much to be preferred, and for many very sound reasons, to the elaborate banquets which include costly wines, and which bring in their wake sleeplessness, discomfort and indigestion. Bros. Cottebrune, Mann, Dawson and Mortlock, responded for the Past Masters. Bros. Dr. Shiemann, Henley, Mander and Mortlock sang, and Mortlock and Hurley whistled their famous duet.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 12th of April, at Bro. Hallows', The Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. Groome W.M., W. G. Hallows S.W., F. Hallows J.W., Saunders Secretary, Franklin S.D., Bell J.D., Upward Organist, Oldroyd I.G., Pinder Preceptor; also Bros. Field, Badkin, E. Trebeck and Clark. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last meeting confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Saunders acting as candidate. The first section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Pinder, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was closed in the second degree. Bro. W. G. Hallows worked the first section of the lecture, and Bro. Pinder the second and third sections, assisted by the brethren. Bro. W. G. Hallows was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The Lodge was then closed in due form.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—Held at the Old Rodney's Head, 12 Old-street, Goswell-road, on Monday, the 9th inst. Present—Bros. Isaac W.M., Stock S.W., Millward J.W., Brasted S.D., Powell J.D., Tolmie Acting Preceptor, Fenner Secretary, R. Pearcy I.G., Ross, Weedon and Killick. Lodge was opened in due form, and minutes read and confirmed, after which the Lodge was opened in 2nd degree. The W.M. worked the first section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was then resumed to 1st degree. Bro. Ross answered the usual questions and was entrusted. Lodge was again resumed to the 2nd degree, when the ceremony of passing was very ably rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Ross acting as candidate; the W.M. worked the 2nd, Bro. Saul the 3rd, and Bro. Tolmie the 4th and 5th sections of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was resumed to the 1st degree, when Bro. Brasted of the Duke of Connaught Lodge, 1524, and Bro. Ross of Salisbury Lodge 435, were duly elected members. Bro. Stock was chosen W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed, and adjourned.

Fortitude Lodge of Mark Masters, No. 66, Plymouth.—The annual meeting of this Lodge was held at the Huyshe Masonic Temple on Monday, the 2nd inst., when, after confirmation of the minutes, the W. Brother John Jackson Avery P.P.G.R. was duly installed. The ceremony was most efficiently and impressively performed by Bro. Charles Godtschalk, in the presence of a large board of Installed Masters. The following were the officers elected or appointed:—Bros. Isaac Latimer P.P.G.J.W. I.P.M., Henry W. Thomas P.P.G.D.C. S.W., C. Godtschalk P.M. P.P.G.D.C. J.W., H. Ferry P.P.G.S. M.O., W. H. Crimp P.G.S. S.O., H. F. Hearle P.P.G.M.O. J.O., V. Bird P.M.O. Eng. P.G. Secretary, and Chaplain, S. Jew P.P.G.M.O. Treasurer, J. B. Gover P.P.G.T. Sec., Geo. Emery P.P.G.O. S.D., J. Gover P.P.G.A.D.C. I.G., Thomas Smith P.G.A.T. Tyler. The W.M. having received the congratulations of the assembled brethren, returned thanks for the honour conferred on him, he remarked that it was a proud position to preside over such a Lodge as the Fortitude, every member of which was either a present or Past Grand or Provincial Grand Officer. The Provincial Grand Master and Deputy P. Grand Master being numbered amongst them. He regretted much that his distant residence would prevent his being with them so much as he desired, but having regard to the status in the order of his officers he was confident the Lodge would not suffer should he be at any time unavoidably absent. The brethren having spent a short time in social chat, separated, highly gratified with the proceedings.

Prudent Brethren Chapter, No. 145.—The regular convocation of this Chapter, which now ranks as one of the best working in the Order, was held on Tuesday, the 10th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Comp. T. Bull M.E.Z., E. Moody H., J. Boyd P.Z. as J., J. Last Treasurer, G. S. States P.Z. S.E., Belfrage as S.N., Manby assist. S.E., J. Cox P.S., H. Venn 1st Assist., D. Haslett 2nd Assist.; P.Z. H. Dicketts; and Comps. Headon, Purkess, J. Chinnery, Braine, Leggott, Moon, J. Boyd jun., W. Platt, W. C. Davis, Rance, Moult, Woods, Biggs, H. Dowding, Masters, F. Godfrey, &c. The Chapter was opened and the minutes confirmed. Bros. Waugh, of Nos. 177 and 1563, and T. A. De Leliva having been ballotted for, were duly exalted into Royal Arch Masonry. The election of principals then took place, and Comps. E. Moody was elected M.E.Z., E. H. Thiellay H., J. Cox J., G. S. States S.E., Venn S.N., Haslett 1st Assist., Biggs 2nd Assist., and J. Last Treasurer. The election of the latter Comp. was received with approbation. Comp. J. Boyd P.Z. said he regretted the lateness of the evening prevented him giving the company the lecture on Royal Arch Masonry, but he would, with pleasure, do so on the next occasion. Comp. Bently was elected Janitor. The Chapter was closed until December, and the Companions, 39 in number, sat down to a very sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. Dawkins. Comp. J. Boyd P.Z. said he regretted he had not the time to eulogise the M.E.Z. He could say he was a good worker in Craft and Royal Arch Masonry, he is one whom to know is to respect, and he hoped all would cordially drink his health. The M.E.Z., in reply, thanked Comp. Boyd for his kind expressions, and his multum in parvo remarks. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the newly-exalted Companions. Comp. Baugh was one whom he had been acquainted with for many years. Comp. De Leliva, in a very excellent speech, thanked the M.E.Z. for the perfect and impressive manner he had exalted him. The ceremony was so ably rendered by the other two Companions, that it would never be effaced from his memory. Comp. Waugh briefly responded. The M.E.Z. then proposed the health of the Visitors. Comp. H. M. Levy returned thanks for the toast, and complimented the Z. on his excellent working, also for the manner he had discharged the duties of the Z. chair; he regretted there was not time for Bro. Boyd to give the lecture which he considered was a great Masonic treat. Comp. J. Boyd said he took a great interest in the welfare of the Chapter; he, as well as all the Past Principals, endeavoured to make it one of the best in Masonry; they had elected Companions to fill the chair who could work well, and his ardent wish was to further the interest of the Chapter. The toast of the H. and J. was then proposed. Comp. E. Moody as M.E.Z. elect, said it was the proudest moment of his Masonic life, and he felt it a great honour to follow those who have preceded him. Comp. E. H. Thiellay followed as H. elect, and said he should only be too happy to render any assistance to the Chapter. The M.E.Z. then said he had with pleasure, to propose the toast of Comps. Cox, Venn and Haslett, who had ably performed their duties. The Janitor's toast brought a pleasant evening to a close. The visitors were:—E. Hopwood 141, J. Greir 975, J. R. Gallant, C. Martin 25, A. M. Lewis P.Z. 188, J. W. Klenk 1339.

Joppa Lodge, No. 188.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, the 12th inst., in lieu of the regular meeting, which fell on the Bank Holiday, at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. Bros. L. Lazarus W.M., Miller S.W., M. Speigel J.W., L. M. Anerhaan Treasurer, H. Hymans as Secretary, in the absence of Bro. E. P. Albert G.P., Campion J.D., R. Baker I.G., H. P. Isaac Steward; and Past Masters L. Alexander, H. Berkowitz, H. M. Levy, I. Abrahams, A. G. Dodson, Rosier; and Bros. Bean, Emanuel, Cohen, Botibol, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bros. Osborne, Blanks, and Lenzburg were raised. Mr. Burrows was balloted for, and duly initiated into the Order. Bro. Israel Abrahams proposed, and Bro. A. G. Dodson seconded, that a letter of condolence be sent to Bro. E. P. Albert P.M. and G.P., sympathising with him on his recent bereavement, occasioned by the loss of a dear member of his family, which was carried unanimously, amidst feelings of deep regret from every member of the Lodge. A sum of five guineas was placed on the List of Bro. C. Davis, who is a Steward for the next Festival of the R. M. Institution for Girls. A letter was read from Bro. M. Levy, of the Montefiore Lodge 1017, on behalf of the Committee, respecting the non-admission of members of the Hebrew Faith into certain German Lodges, which stated that they would be pleased to meet not only the Joppa Lodge Committee, but any other Lodge, and also that they had taken active steps in the matter, and hoped that an early meeting would be convened. Other Lodges have also sent letters co-operating. Three propositions were handed in for initiation, and the Lodge was closed. The brethren adjourned to slight refreshment. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. The toast of the Benevolent Fund of the Lodge was responded to by Bro. L. Alexander P.M., the President, who informed the brethren that the newly initiated brother, and Bro. Lenzberg, had each given 21s to the fund. The W.M. proposed the toast of the newly initiated, who was one in every way entitled to their respect. The toast was responded to briefly and appropriately. Bro. A. G. Dodson I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M., who, in reply said, during the period he occupied the chair, his services would always be at their command; his endeavours to give them satisfaction would, he hoped, be successful. The toast of the visitors was responded to by Bros. J. Lazarus P.M. 205, and J.W. 1017, followed by Bros. R. J. Tolmie 861, and M. Moseley. To the toast of the P.M.'s, Bros. Dodson, L. Alexander, I. Abrahams, and H. M. Levy, returned thanks. They felt proud to respond to it. They could not have a better W.M. to do the duties, and hoped he would be for many years among them as a P.M. Bros. Miller and Speigel replied for the Wardens, after which the toast of the Treas. and officers was given, Bro. L. M. Anerhaan responding. The Tyler's toast concluded the evening. Bros. Benjamin Rosier and Miller contributed to the harmony.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—The meeting of this Lodge, which was held at the Whittington, Moor-lane E.C., on Wednesday, the 11th instant, was presided over by Bro. D. Posener, who rehearsed the ceremony of the second degree, having Bro. F. Crosker acting as candidate. By a vote of the Lodge to suspend the standing order, the W.M. vacated the chair in favour of Bro. A. B. Loewenstark P.M., who gave a rendering of the ceremony of installation, Bro. M. D. Loewenstark acting as Master elect. Subsequently the second section of the second lecture was worked by Bro. E. Gottheil, assisted by the brethren under the dictation of Bro. Turquand. It was announced that the Fifteen Sections would be worked in this Lodge on Wednesday, the 25th, but as that is the day on which the Grand Festival will be held, it has since been thought desirable to postpone the working of the sections until the following Wednesday, the 2nd of May, Bro. Turquand will preside on that occasion. Several brethren inscribed their names to a number of sections, but many of them are still open, and brethren desirous of assisting are requested to make their wishes known by Wednesday next at the latest. The officers present were—Bros. Fenner S.W., Ager J.W., J. Constable Treas., Turquand acting Sec., E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, Jessie S.D., Polton J.D., Sadleir I.G., Christopher Tyler. The Lodge was well attended by a number of diligent brethren, who were unanimous in their praise of the convenience and comfort of its present quarters. Bro. Fenner was elected W.M. for the next meeting.

Croydon Mark Lodge, No. 198.—An emergency meeting of this Mark Lodge was held at the Greyhound Hotel, Croydon, on Friday, 6th inst., when there were present W. Bros. Geo. Yaxley W.M., J. K. Pitt J.W., W. J. Nicholls S.O., R. W. Brown J.O., H. A. Pocock Sec., Samuel Griffiths S.D., W. J. Purvis J.D., Geo. Haddock D.C., A. Long I.G., and Wm. Grant Tyler; also the V.W. Bros. Stevens P.G.J.O., Byron Ridge, G. Grossmith, Thos. P. Dickin, and A. Haynes. Visitors—Bro. A. J. Thomas, of the Mallet and Chisel Lodge, and Bro. Sneadd. The Lodge was opened by Bros. Stevens as W.M., Bro. Yaxley acting as P.M., Sheadd S.W., Nicholls M.O., Griffiths S.O., Haynes J.O., and Thomas Organist. The minutes of the consecration meeting were read and confirmed, and ballots taken for brethren proposed at that meeting for advancement, and also for Bros. Haynes, of St. Andrews, No. 63, and Wohlgemuth of Fowke, No. 19, as joining members. Bros. Dickin, Ridge, and Grossmith were then admitted and advanced to the honourable degree. Subsequently Bro. Dickin was elected as Treasurer, and the W.M. then appointed and invested Bro. Ridge as Organist and Bro. Grossmith as W.S. Propositions were taken for two candidates for advancement to be balloted for at the next meeting, and after some further routine business the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment, separating at an early hour.

Northern Counties Lodge, No. 406.—The regular meeting of this Lodge took place on the 4th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. Bros. W. Monday W.M., R. Knox I.P.M., T. Halliday S.W., T. Armstrong J.W., R. L. Armstrong Secretary and Treasurer, J. S. Bell as S.D., R. Samon J.D., G. Lain I.G., G. Lox and S. M. Harris Stewards, G. J. Lines Tyler, G. Kepperd Organist. P.M.'s Bros. Troulstom, W. S. Hugh, and Ryedive. The ballot was taken for four gentlemen, which proved successful, and they were then initiated. The Lodge being opened in the second degree, one brother was passed. The Lodge was then opened in the third, and four brethren raised, all three degrees being most excellently rendered by the W.M. The election of W.M. for the ensuing year was then proceeded with; it proved successful for Bro. J. Halliday S.W., who was declared unanimously elected W.M. Bro. Punchion P.M. was elected Treasurer, and Bro. Lines Tyler. A vote of thanks was passed with acclamation to Bro. R. L. Armstrong, Secretary and Assistant Treasurer, the same being ordered to be put on the minutes. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshments, when the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given, those of the W.M. and the W.M. elect being most heartily responded to. Some capital harmony was also rendered by several of the brethren. The Tyler's toast brought the evening to a close. Amongst the visitors were Bros. H. T. Sewell W.M. 451, G. Loads W.M. 24, Mein W.M. 541, H. C. Martin P.M. 481, &c.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 5th inst., at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street. Present—Bros. Wray W.M., Shand S.W., Belfrage J.W., T. Cull Sec., Bentley S.D., Docker J.D., Atkins I.G.; also Bros. G. Davis, W. Smith, Pearce, Smith, Giles, Smith, Willis. Business—The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. The W.M. then worked the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Giles being the candidate. The first, second, fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh sections were worked by the W.M., and Bros. Davis and Cull. Bros. Atkins, Lodge 890, and Bro. Smith, Lodge 1425, were elected members. Bro. Shand S.W. was chosen W.M. for the ensuing week. The votes of the Lodge were given to Bro. Cull, for the case of Jessie Langley. The Lodge was then closed and adjourned to 12th April.

Star in the East Lodge, No. 650.—The monthly meeting of this Lodge was held at the Pier Hotel, Harwich, Essex, on Tuesday last, and was rendered specially interesting by the introduction for the first time, of an excellent harmonium, which had been purchased by subscription among the members. The popular W.M. Bro. G. Gard Pye, occupied the chair of K.S., and worked the three degees with his accustomed ability. At the close of business, the brethren sat down to the festive board, and much harmony prevailed. The recently appointed acting P.G. Sec., Bro. T. J. Ralling, was present, and his health was warmly received. Lodge Star in the East is now in a very flourishing condition; it has a goodly array of members, and, through the exertions of its indefatigable Secretary, Bro. Basham, not only has it now become possessed of an harmonium, but its furniture has recently been renewed.

William Preston Lodge of Instruction, No. 766.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Friday, the 6th inst., at the Feathers Tavern, Upper George-street, Edgware-road. Present—Bros. George Tribbel W.M., S. Godden S.W., Geo. West J.W., Aug. Braun Sec., Rudderforth Treas., Nichols S.D., Hayes J.D., Reid I.G. Also present Bros. Hill, Kennard, &c., &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes confirmed. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Hill being candidate. Bro. Hill then answered the questions for passing in a most exemplary manner. Bro. Preceptor Rudderforth asked the questions in the first section, likewise the fourth section. In the course of the latter Bro. G. West answered the whole of the questions most satisfactorily. Bro. Godden was elected W.M. for the ensuing Friday. Lodge was then closed in due form. The ballot for the first life subscribership in the William Preston Lodge of Instruction Benevolent Association resulted in favour of Bro. Tribbel.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Tuesday, the 10th inst., at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. Lovelock W.M., Barker S.W., Weige J.W., E. T. Worsley Secretary, Dallas S.D., Perry J.D., P.M. Wallington Preceptor, Smith I.G.; Past Master Bro. Ashburner; Bros. Johnson, Watkins, Perrin, Macklin, Hewlett, Pavitt, Webb, Crouch, Christian 1278, Pinder, Morgan jun., Davies, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bro. Wallington worked the the installation ceremony and installed the above officers to their respective offices. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Hewlett acting as candidate. Bro. Webb worked the first section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Barker was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. The W.M. was highly complimented on his working, he is a very young member, but perfect and has a very pleasing style in his rendering.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—Held at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday, 6th instant. Present—Bros. A. W. Fenner W.M., Crouch S.W., Smith J.W., Lane S.D., Simpson J.D., Townend I.G., R. W. Pearcy and Bolton. The Lodge was opened in due form, and minutes read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was ably rehearsed, Bro. Townsend acting as candidate; after this the W.M. worked the first, second, and third sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The S.W. was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned.

Burdett Coutts Lodge of Instruction, No. 1278.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting at the Approach Tavern, Approach-road, Victoria-park, on Friday, the 6th inst. Present—Bros. Geo. Perry W.M., Toye S.W., Allen J.W., Ashburner P.M., Finch S.D., Witherick J.D., Loveday I.G. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Witherick as candidate. The 1st and 2nd sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Allen. Bros. Toye, Allen, and Finch were appointed auditors. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to Bro. Perry for the very able and careful manner in which he worked the ceremony for the first time, a record to that effect to be placed in the minute book. The death of Bro. Thos. Lloyd sen., one of the founders of the Mother Lodge, was announced, and received with sorrowful expressions by the brethren present, as he was very much respected in the Parent Lodge. Bro. Toye was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and the Lodge was closed in due form.

Royal Standard Lodge of Instruction, No. 1298.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Friday, the 6th inst., at the Castle Tavern, Holloway. Present—Bros. Hunter W.M., Sparrow S.W., Chant J.W., Dickinson Secretary, Wright S.D., Ager J.D., Eldridge I.G., T. Cull Preceptor; also Bros. Wright, Yeomans, Rowe, Shackle, Humphries, Mash, Coughtrey, Demits, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form. The minutes having been read and confirmed, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Demits being the candidate. The first five sections were then worked by Bro. Cull. Bro. Swallow was unanimously elected W.M. for next week, and the Lodge was closed.

Asaph Lodge, No. 1319.—This Lodge held its meeting on Monday, the 9th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, W.C. Present—Bros. W. A. Linney W.M., G. Buckland J.W., C. Stanton Jones Secretary, E. Swanborough S.D., Wellard J.D., Delavanti Organist, H. Cox I.G., J. Gilbert Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. C. Coote, J. M. Chamberlin, J. Weaver, E. Frewin, J. Read. Visitor—Bro. T. Lowe, St. Dunstan's Lodge, and several others. Business—Minutes confirmed, including proposition of Bro. Chamberlin that, considering the prosperous state of the Lodge, the sum of fifty pounds should be given as a donation to the Benevolent Fund. Mr. P. C. Castell, Mr. Powell and Mr. C. Linney (brother to the W.M.), were initiated into Freemasonry by the W.M. Bro. Gulton was raised to the degree of a M.M. Bro. Lionel Brough, comedian, was unanimously elected a joining member, and the Lodge was closed in due form.

Falcon Lodge, No. 1416.—The Archæological Section of this Lodge, accompanied by Bros. Rev. W. C. Lukes M.A. F.A.S., Rev. A. T. Atwood M.A. Rural Dean, and Rev. E. C. Camidge M.A., on Saturday visited the curious old church at Sand Hutton, and were most cordially received by the Rev. J. Reace and Mr. W. Small. They afterwards proceeded to inspect the the neighbouring churches of Kirby Wiske and Carlton Miniott, the Rev. J. J. Pulleine M.A. and the Rev. R. D. Jackson respectively pointed out matters of interest connected with each.

Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, No. 1507.—A meeting was held at the Metropolitan Club, King's-cross, on Tuesday, 10th instant. Present—Bros. Hingham W.M., Side S.W., Stiles J.W., Scales S.D., Smith J.D., Trotman I.G., Adams P.G.P. Preceptor, and several other brethren. The Lodge opened in due form, and the minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. The ceremonies of initiation, passing, and raising were very ably rehearsed by the W.M. The first sections of the first and second lectures worked by the Preceptor, Bro. Adams P.G.P., to whose kind instruction may be justly attributed the excellent working of the officers of this Lodge. Bro. Side was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing meeting, and the Lodge closed in due form.

Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday last at the Queen's Hotel, Micklegate, York, when there was a very large attendance of brethren. The W.M. Bro. Thos. Cooper P.M. P.P.G.D.C., was in the chair, and the whole of the officers were in their places. The business consisted of an initiation and a passing, which were thoroughly well worked, and a successful ballot was taken for two candidates. The names of four gentlemen were proposed and seconded as candidates for Freemasonry. Just before the closing of the Lodge, Bro. M. Millington rose, and said that he had a pleasing duty to perform, which was to hand over to the W.M. a cheque for ten guineas for the purpose of endowing the Master's chair in perpetuity with one vote in one of the Masonic Charities. He said that since the Lodge was consecrated last August, up to the end of the year 1876, there had been fourteen initiations, and it had been the wish of those fourteen brethren to join together in some movement which should show to the Lodge the satisfaction which they felt at having been admitted into Masonry, and the admiration which they cherished for its teachings, but especially as a kind of testimony to the gratitude which they felt towards the W.M., whose uniform kindness had been thoroughly appreciated, and whose excellence as a man and a Mason was so universally acknowledged. Bro. J. Morgan, Bro. T. A. B. Turner, and Bro. T. T. Smith, all subscribers to the fund, added some remarks, all dwelling upon the warm fraternal feeling with which they regarded their excellent W.M., who was ever found so kind and ready, and who was so bright a Mason. The W.M. replied, thanking the fourteen brethren, in the name of the Lodge, and on behalf of himself, and moved that the gift be accepted, and that a record thereof, and of the names of the brethren, be placed on the minutes. This was seconded by the Treasurer (Bro. G. Balenford P.M.), and carried by acclamation. After the Lodge was closed, the brethren, numbering nearly forty, met at refreshment, there being present numerous visitors from the York Lodge, 236, Stockport, Selby, Newcastle, and from the Regiment of the 6th Carabineers, quartered in York Barracks. A very pleasant and social evening was spent.

Wolsey Lodge, No. 1656, Hampton Wick.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting, at the White Hart Hotel, on Monday, the 9th inst. The chair was taken shortly after 5 o'clock by Bro. W. Hammond P.M. 201, 1326, 1512, P.P.G.D. Middlesex, and he was supported by Bros. B. Sharp P.M. 84 S.W., J. Bond P.M. 889 J.W., A. Nuthall Treasurer, F. T. V. Honeywell P.M. 889 Hon. Organist, T. W. Ockenden Secretary, R. R. Aston S.D., J. Hurst W.M. 1512 J.D., T. C. Walls I.G., and E. Andrews. The Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the ballot taken and declared unanimous for the admission of Bro. A. Hindson Miller, of the Ivy Lodge, 1441, as a joining member. A ballot was taken, and with a similar result, in favour of the initiation of Messrs. Jackson, Pinto, and Forge. These gentlemen, with another, Mr. Taylor (balloted for at the last meeting) were then solemnly initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry. Bro. W. Carwin, Scott, Bicher and Featherstone having satisfactorily passed the necessary examination were entrusted and retired. After the opening of the Lodge to the second degree, these brethren were re-admitted, and the ceremony of passing them as Fellow Crafts was performed. Bro. John Hammond, the Hon. P.M., was unanimously elected an honorary member of the Lodge. Letters of apology for absence were received from the R.W. Bro. Colonel Burdett, Prov. G. Master, Middlesex, P.G.W., Bro. the Rev. F. J. C. de Crespigny P.M. 708 and Chaplain, Bro. John Hammond P.M. 201, Bro. Jeffreys, A. H. Miller and others. All business being concluded, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet. After the Loyal and Masonic toasts, the health of the Worshipful Master was proposed by Bro. Hill in his usual style, and was most heartily responded to. This young Lodge is fortunate in having so able and experienced a Mason as Bro. W. Hammond for W.M., and with the officers at his command there is no reason whatever why the working throughout should ever leave anything to be desired. The toast of the Visitors was warmly received, and several of the brethren acknowledged the compliment. The health of the Initiates was responded to by Bros. Taylor, Jackson, Pinto and Forge. The brethren then separated, after having spent a very pleasant evening. Amongst the visitors present were Bros. S. Hill P.M., Stammwitz P.M., Hiscox 1512, Kracutler J.W. 1903, Sexton 889, Stevens 141, Green 435, Bowra 889, Kent 1512, and Tagg 1512.

Beaconsfield Lodge, No. 1662.—A meeting of this Lodge was held on Saturday, the 7th inst., at The Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. W. T. Christian W.M., W. Groome S.W., W. B. Brand J.W., J. Pinder P.M., F. Hallows Hon. Sec., C. T. Saunders S.D., T. Franklin J.D., A. Oldroyd I.G., T. Upward Organist, J. H. Cambridge W.S., W. Gilchrist Tyler; and Bros. W. G. Hallows, H. Field, &c. The Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The Lodge was then opened in the 2nd degree, and the following brethren were passed. Bros. Dendy, Carter, Hunt, Delvallé and Clark. The Lodge was then resumed in the 1st degree, and the ballot taken for Mr. W. Moffatt, which proved unanimous in his favour, and he being present, was initiated into Freemasonry, according to ancient rite and custom. The Bye-Laws were then submitted to the Lodge by the W.M. and carried unanimously. The Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned until Saturday, the 5th May. Amongst the visitors present were Bros. Crouch W.M. 1297, R. Allison 1602, B. Blimson 742, J. J. Bere 1178, E. Brown 1598, C. Carter 1607, E. A. Trebeck 1445, &c., &c.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Bradfshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

"The inquiring Brother who may wish to know something of the strength and beauty of the principles of Masonry, will find a pleasure in scanning the characteristic pictures in this book."—The Brighouse News.

THE GIRLS' SCHOOL ELECTION.

ON Saturday, at the Quarterly General Court of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, fifty-four Candidates presented themselves in competition one with another to fill the thirteen vacancies. As we recently pointed out, London furnished twenty candidates, Lincolnshire and West Yorkshire four each; Devonshire, and Hants and Isle of Wight three each; Kent, the District of Bengal and East Lancashire two each; the remaining fourteen coming from as many provinces or districts. Three London candidates were successful, namely, Clara Kingcombe, who stood first on the list, with 1,603 votes, Alice Warburton Cecil, who was fifth, with 1,339 votes, and Jessie Langley, eleventh, with 1,027 votes. Hertfordshire sent only one candidate, Hannah Mabel Ward, who obtained the second place, with 1,522 votes, and Wilts, which had likewise only a single representative, secured her election; Mary Jane Feltham, the girl in question, being third, with 1,487 votes. The District of Bengal had two candidates, both of whom were successful, namely, Kate Isabel Mills, for whom 1,355 votes were polled, and Kathleen Isabella Alicia Collins, who was thirteenth, with 896 votes. Ada Huyshe Clase, one of the Devonian candidates, polled 1,332 votes, and obtained the sixth place. She was immediately followed by Maria Edith Gregory, hailing from Kent, with 1,269 votes. One of the three Hants and Isle of Wight candidates, namely, Eleanor Amy I. Ludlow, stood eighth, with 1,233 votes. Then came two of the four West Yorkshire candidates, Ada Hartley Healey, ninth, with 1,162 votes, and Mary Ellin White, with 1,106 votes. The remaining successful candidate was from Lincolnshire, Mary Anne Johnson, who scored 916 votes, and so obtained the twelfth vacancy. The twenty-eight candidates who had already made one or more applications for admission brought forward among them an aggregate of 8,199 votes, ranging from Clara Kingcombe, who had standing to her credit as many as 1,220 votes down to Gertrude Henrietta Mey, who stood twenty-eighth on the list, and had as few as 7 to the good. Of the 17,409 votes cast on Saturday, 9,783 were given to old candidates, and 7,726 among the twenty-six new ones, or rather to twenty-three of the number, for there were three candidates who polled no votes at all, while one obtained only ten, another three, and a third two only. Of the applicants for the fifth time, one succeeded in obtaining the sixth place. No. 3 on the list, who had tried on three previous occasions, and is now ineligible to compete, only added 20 to her previous 209 votes, and drops from the list. Of thirteen candidates who were applicants for the third time, five were successful; a piece of good fortune in one case, seeing that age would have been an obstacle to her standing again. The twelve next on the list had made one previous attempt. Three succeeded, of whom one was ineligible to make further trial; while of the nine unsuccessful, one was similarly circumstanced, and will be excluded from the list in future. Of the twenty-six new candidates, four obtained places, and in one instance this was her last as well as her first chance. The friends of one of these four fought so gallant a battle as to secure for her the second place. Among the unsuccessful candidates, No. 16 stood highest, with 870 votes, of which 746 were polled on Saturday, No. 12 came next, with 838 votes, then No. 1, with 707, of which 107 were polled on Saturday, and then No. 28, with 697 votes, all but seven of which were given at this election. There is then a wide gap until we come to two candidates, Nos. 13 and 15, who obtained each 477 votes, followed by No. 40, a new applicant, with 466. In all, and including the 8199 brought forward, the total votes distributed among the candidates amounted to 25,708, the thirteen successful ones scoring among themselves 16,247 of them, so that 9461 remain to be carried to the October election, or would so remain were the whole forty-one who failed eligible to try again. Two, however, will have no further opportunity, and therefore the 576 votes cast for them will disappear, and leave only 8886 to go forward for next October. Taking the thirteen successful candidates, a reference to the list will show that one has both parents living, one has lost both, ten have lost their father, and one her mother. In three cases the father had contributed to or served the office of Steward for one or more of our Institutions. The same remark applies to eight of the unsuccessful candidates. It should likewise be mentioned that among the successful is one girl who has had two sisters in the Institution (one was by purchase), and a third is in now. Appropriately enough, the title of the father's Lodge was True Friendship, No. 218, of Calcutta. In this instance, the widow has had tangible evidence of the true friendship of the Craft towards her fatherless offspring. To sum up the results. Twenty candidates hailed from the metropolis, of whom three were successful; thirty-one from the Provinces, of whom eight succeeded; and three from Districts abroad, of whom two have obtained admission. We subjoin a complete list of the candidates, showing the order in which they stood at the declaration of the poll.

THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THE Quarterly General Court of this Institution was held on Monday, at the usual hour. When the minutes of the previous Court had been read and confirmed, the regular business was rapidly disposed of. On the motion of Dr. Ramsay, seconded by the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, it was resolved that it be an instruction to the General Committee to take the necessary steps for calling a special meeting, for the purpose of taking into consideration the report of the House Committee as to the enlargement of the School. It was subsequently stated by the Secretary that a letter had been received from Bro. Monckton, announcing that an amateur performance would be held at the Opera Comique, on the afternoon of Saturday, the 5th prox., the proceeds of which would be divided equally between the Boys' and Girls' Schools. The poll was then opened, and, in due course, the result was declared, fourteen of the fifty-nine candidates being elected. The number of vacancies was originally twelve, but at the last moment had been increased to thirteen, and as Nos. 2 and 6 on the list obtained exactly the same number of votes, it was unanimously resolved by the Court that both of the boys should be admitted. We have already stated that London furnished twenty-one of the fifty-nine candidates, that five hailed from Warwickshire, that Devonshire, North Wales and Salop, and East Lancashire, sent three each, while the rest were distributed, in two's or singly, among nineteen other provinces and districts. The result of the election is as follows:—London secured the first four places on the poll. Herbert Pattison Wisby, the highest unsuccessful candidate last October, obtained the first place with 2,129 votes, 1,198 of which were cast on the occasion of his first candidature. The friends of Clifton Sparks and Henry John Owens, being aware this was the last chance their respective protéges had of being admitted, worked hard to secure success. Their labours were rewarded, for Sparks was a capital second with 2,100 votes, out of which no less than 1,690 were polled on Monday, while Owens stood third with 1,895, 798 of which were obtained at his two previous applications, and 1,097 on this occasion. No. 4 was William Glen Barnet, who has been a candidate at three previous elections, and had 985 votes already to his credit. This number was increased to 1,755, and so obtained for him the fourth place. A provincial candidate, hailing from North Wales and Salop, stood fifth with 1,706 votes, and then came another Londoner, whose credit of 1,102 votes from two previous trials was now increased to 1,620. West Yorkshire had two candidates in the field, of whom William Arthur Sutton, an applicant for the first time, obtained 1,571 votes, and the seventh place on the poll. East Lancashire sent up three—William Emmott and two others, of whom Emmott, also an applicant for the first time, succeeded in securing the eighth place with 1,563 votes. Next in order was another London boy, for whom his friends worked hard, and successfully, to the extent of obtaining for him 1,553 votes, otherwise, the name of Batley would have disappeared from the list. One of the Dorset and Gloucestershire candidates stood tenth, the whole of his 1,549 votes being the result of one application only. The next candidate was Hatton J. H. Edwards, the only one of the five Warwickshire candidates who obtained admission, his votes amounting to 1,523, of which 163 were cast in October last. The solitary candidate hailing from Cambridgeshire, who had figured in four previous lists, and whose name would have been removed if unsuccessful on this occasion, was placed twelfth, with 1,497 votes. A second North Wales and Salop candidate, by name Richard George Head, and an applicant for the sixth time, tied with John Butterwith, of the Province of Cumberland and Westmoreland, for the thirteenth place, the number of votes cast for each being 1,491. Butterwith had made four previous attempts, and secured 651 votes in so doing. It will be noticed that the contest among the last eight candidates was a very close one, there being only eighty votes between No. 7, who scored 1,571, and Nos. 13 and 14, who scored 1,491 each, while the first of the unsuccessful candidates only lost his election by nine, the number polled for him being 1,482. The total number of votes declared for fifty-eight out of the fifty-nine candidates was 37,564, of which 12,529 were already distributed among the forty candidates, who had made one or more applications, while the votes polled on Monday were 25,035. Only one candidate obtained no votes whatever, though there were three old candidates for whom no fresh votes were cast. One of these has been on the list at three previous elections, yet the number of votes now standing to his credit is eight. There were as many as nine boys for whom ten or less than ten votes were recorded. The highest number recorded on Monday for any single candidate was 1,690, and next to this came the votes polled by three of the successful candidates who were applicants for the first time, they obtaining respectively 1,571, 1,563, and 1,549. Previous to the election it was announced that, by the operation of Law 52, which fixes eleven years as the maximum limit of age for candidates, nine names should be removed from the list if they were unsuccessful this time. Four of these nine were elected. Of the other five, one increased his score from 115 to 196, another from 103 to 155; a third, by obtaining eight additional votes, raised his total from 137 to 145, the fourth just exceeded his century, having obtained 84 votes at three previous trials, and increasing this number to 102. The remaining one obtained two votes.

As usual, we feel it incumbent on us to offer one or two remarks on the results we have noted or omitted. George Samuel Cox, whose name headed the list as an applicant for the seventh time, increased his total from 381 to 551—that is, by 170 votes. Fortunately Cox has one more opportunity, and we trust, as his case is spoken of so highly, that he will obtain the requisite addition to his score, and find himself among the elect in October next. We have further to ask why brethren will go through the farce of putting a boy's name on the list of candidates when they can only obtain for him two votes at his one and only chance of admission? This was the case of Sam Woodhouse. It is also worthy of record that a Cambridgeshire boy is, or will shortly be, a pupil in the School. Is it asking or expecting too much of Cambridgeshire that, as she has gone the length of patronising the Institution by obtaining its benefits for one of her own boys, she will now reciprocate the kindness and contribute handsomely to its funds. We know the Province has only four Lodges on its roll, but they are neither the least wealthy nor the least influential in the kingdom. To speak, more Hibernico, the reciprocity must not be all on one side. Subjoined is a complete list of the candidates, both successful and unsuccessful, showing the order in which they stood when the poll was declared.

THE CHESHIRE EDUCATIONAL MASONIC INSTITUTION.

THIS Institution was founded in the year 1863, and the report for the year 1876 presents several features which are eminently satisfactory. The cash account opens with a balance brought forward of £388 11s 7d. Including this, the total receipts from all sources—donations from Masonic Ball at Stockport, Amateur Performance at Birkenhead, and Lodges, Chapters, and Brethren; subscriptions, fees, interest on invested moneys—amount to £923 12s 10d. The expenditure reached only £447 6s 10d. Of this £122 17s 1d was expended for the education of nineteen children, and £18 13s 11d for the advancement of four. £270 was invested on mortgage of two houses, at 5 per cent., and there were sundry items for stationery, printing, &c., amounting together to £35 15s 10d. Thus there remains a balance of £476 6s, of which £345 11s 9d is in the North and South Wales Bank, and the remaining £130 14s 3d in Treasurer's hands. The funds of the Institution consist of invested moneys to the extent of £2858 13s 10d; this being an increase over the amount at the corresponding period of the previous year of very nearly £358. On glancing over the list of donors and subscribers for the year, we find that, with hardly an exception, the Lodges and Chapters in the Province figure for sums more or less considerable. This indicates an advance on the year 1875; and though the Committee still earnestly impress on the Craft the necessity for contributing liberally, and likewise call attention to the Provincial Grand Master's recommendation, — that a certain amount out of every initiation and exaltation fee should be appropriated to this charity, it is obvious that with so considerable an addition as £358 in one year, our Cheshire brethren must have been working very strenuously, and are becoming less and less open to the charge contained in the Report for 1875, to the effect that "there is much laxity on the part of some Lodges and Chapters in forwarding their annual returns, and in collecting subscriptions from the brethren." This, of course, may still apply in some cases, but the increase in donations, fees, and subscriptions, from Lodges, Chapters, and brethren, shows a substantial gain last year as against 1875. The income from this source was £384 5s in 1876 as against £268 3s 6d in 1875, though the casual donations in the latter were £72 5s 2d as against £35 15s in the former. If we compare the expenditure for education and advancement during the two years, we find that in 1875 a sum of £128 13s 4d was spent in educating twenty-one children, in 1876 a sum of £122 17s 1d on nineteen children. On the other hand the sums expended in advancement were in the one case only four guineas, and last year £18 13s 11d. The sums invested in the two years were as nearly as possible equal, and so were the amounts expended in printing and the like. The closing balance in Treasurer's hands is larger in this than in the former account.

Not only does the establishment of such an institution as this reflect the greatest credit on the Province of Cheshire, it is likewise of great service in relieving our central establishments of at least a portion of the pressure to which they are becoming more liable with each succeeding year. For instance, if we turn to the lists of candidates at the recent elections, we find that only one boy hailed from Cheshire, and not a single girl; while the report we have been analysing contains evidence that there are several children of brethren in the Province who are in need of educational assistance, and that some of these require further help in order to start them fairly on the journey of life. It is obvious that a Province which does this out of its own funds lightens pro tanto the difficulties which our Boys' and Girls' Schools experience in meeting the heavy demands upon their resources. At the same time, Cheshire is not unmindful of the claims of the latter institutions on their support, as will be seen on reference to their respective lists of subscribers and governors.

It remains for us to add that an annual contribution of five shillings constitutes the subscriber an annual Governor with one vote, and an additional vote for every additional five shillings. A donation of five guineas or upwards in one or more payments within the twelve months constitutes the donor a Governor for life, with one vote for each guinea contributed; and a donation of twenty guineas in two or more payments within two years, entitles the donor to be a Vice-President. If a Lodge or Chapter contribute the latter sum at one time, or in several payments within three years, it becomes entitled to twenty votes during its existence. The limits of age for the admission of candidates to the benefits of the Institution are seven and fifteen, or in the case of a child who has lost both parents six years. After sixteen, the child ceases to be a recipient of such benefits. The father must have been a subscribing member for at least three years to a Lodge or Lodges in the Province. The children are sent to some educational establishment in their immediate neighbourhood, and the Institution defrays the annual charges. Candidates for the benefits of advancement must not be under twelve or over eighteen years. At the last meeting of the Governors, held at Crewe, on the 29th March, two candidates were admitted to the benefits of education, and two were "advanced." It has given us great pleasure to detail these particulars, for the information of our readers, and we trust the Institution at no distant date may be able to realise its hopes, and that the interest on its investments will suffice to meet its expenditure.

The Duke of Connaught Lodge of M.M. Masons will be consecrated on Friday the 27th inst., at the Havelock Hotel, Albion-road, Dalston, by the V. W. Bro. Frederick Binckes Grand Sec. M.M.M. Bro. J. B. Shackleton Prov. G. D. of C., Middlesex and Surrey is the W.M. Designate. Special permission has been given to advance candidates on that occasion.

On Thursday last, the 12th inst., at the Metropolitan Club, No. 1 Minories, Bro. G. R. Innes jun. in the chair, Bro. L. H. Phillips, C.C., No. 205, was presented with a very elegant and valuable testimonial, in the shape of a silver claret jug, on a stand of silver three feet in heighth. The following was the inscription:—

"Presented to L. H. Phillips, Esq., by a number of his friends in Portsoken and Aldgate Wards."

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

A QUARTERLY General Court of the Governors and Subscribers was held on Saturday, the 14th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. Col. Creaton, Vice-President, in the chair. Bro. R. W. Little, Sec., read the minutes of the former court, which were confirmed. Bro. S. Rawson, D.G.M. China, proposed, and Bro. R. W. Stewart P.G.D. seconded, the re-election of Bro. Samuel Tomkins G.T. as Treasurer of the Institution. This was carried unanimously. Twelve members were elected on the Committee of the Institution, and Scrutineers were appointed for the election.

Bro. H. G. Warren proposed:—

"That, having regard to the increased income of the Institution and the altered position of the Secretary and Collector, it is expedient that Rules 74 and 75 shall be so amended as to provide that the Secretary shall give security for £1,000, the Secretary's Chief Clerk £500, and any other Clerks £250 each; such security to be provided through an approved Guarantee Society, and the premiums paid by this Institution, so as not to be a burthen on the officials."

There being no seconder, the motion fell to the ground.

The motion of Bro. F. W. H. Ramsay, M.D.:—

"That the proposition of Bro. Warren, as to the Guarantees, be referred to a Select Committee, composed of:—Col. Creaton and Col. Burdett, Trustees, Bros. W. Hyde Pullen, Wm. Roebuck, D. M. Dewar, Raynham W. Stewart, John Mason, Dr. Ramsay, with power to add to their number,"—was withdrawn.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart P.G.D. V.P. proposed, and Bro. H. A. Dubois seconded,

"That the Quarterly Courts in January and July shall be held in future at Four o'clock, instead of Twelve o'clock."

An amendment was proposed by Bro. H. G. Warren, that the hour remain as hitherto, and after some remarks from Bros. Bodenham, John Symonds, J. Smith and Col. Burney, the amendment was carried.

The election of 13 Girls into the School from a list of 24 candidates was then proceeded with. Full particulars of the ballot appear on another page.

There were present Bros. S. Rawson, R. W. Stewart, L. Ruff, E. H. Finney, T. W. White, Griffiths Smith, Symonds, G. Bolton, W. Stephens, H. A. Dubois, A. H. Tattershall, Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, H. Massey, G. Kenning, Jas. Terry, Hyde Pullen, A. D. Loewenstark, H. Potter, F. Adlard, J. Smith, Warner, Dr. Ramsay, T. Cubitt, T. Sabine, H. Browse, H. M. Levy, T. Bull, B. Swallow, C. W. Davis, H. Dicksette, A. L. Lains, &c.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

THE Quarterly General Court of the Governors and Subscribers was held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields, on Monday, the 16th day of April 1877, Bro. J. Symonds P.G.D. in the chair.

Bro. G. Pluckett was unanimously elected Treasurer.

The notice of motion given by Bro. H. G. Warren:—

"That, having regard to the increased income of the Institution, and the altered position of Secretary and Collector, it is expedient that Rules 74 and 75 should be so amended as to provide that the Secretary shall give security for £1,000, the Secretary's Chief Clerk £500, and any other clerk £250 each; such security to be provided through an approved Guarantee Society, and the premiums paid by this Institution, so as not to be a burthen on the officials,"—was withdrawn.

The following notice of motion by Bro. Raynham W. Stewart:—

"That the meetings of the Quarterly General Courts in January and July be held at 4 p.m. instead of 12 noon,"—was also withdrawn.

Bro. Dr. Ramsay gave notice of motion:—

"That it be an instruction to the General Committee from this Quarterly Court to consider the propriety of convening a Special General Court of the Institution, at which the Report of the House Committee, together with the architect's reports and plans, and a detailed estimate of the proposed expenditure, may be fully and carefully considered."

Twelve brethren were elected members of the General Committee, to represent the life and annual subscribers. Scrutineers were appointed, and the election for 12 boys from an approved list of 59 candidates was then proceeded with. Full particulars of the ballot appear on another page.

The Chairman announced that 12 boys had been elected, but No. 2 on the list, Richard George Head, and No. 6, John Butterworth, had each polled 1491 votes. It was proposed, seconded, and unanimously carried that both lads should be declared elected, a decision that gave great satisfaction.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Scrutineers for their arduous duties.

Bro. R. J. Webster returned thanks.

Bro. Boddington proposed, and Bro. H. M. Levy seconded, that a vote of thanks be accorded to the Chairman, Bro. John Symonds P.G.D., for his able and impartial presidency.

This also was carried unanimously.

CONSECRATION OF THE SAMSON LODGE, No. 1668.

UNDER most promising auspices, this new Lodge was consecrated on Wednesday, the 18th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. At the appointed hour, the assembled brethren, members and visitors, entered the Lodge-room in procession, when Bro. H. Muggeridge P.M., whom the M.W.G.M. had appointed to act as his deputy on this occasion, positioned himself in the east, and appointed Bros. Cottebrune P.G.P. as P.M., Albert P.M. G.P. S.W., E. Gottheil P.M. J.W., Lazarus W.M. 180 I.G., John Constable P.M. 185 D.C., and S. Hickman P.M. 180 as acting G.S. pro. tem. The Lodge having been formally opened in the three degrees and the Warrant read, the Consecrating Master proceeded to deliver an oration on the utility, advantages and privileges of Freemasonry. Forcibly and most eloquently were pointed out the principles which should guide every true Mason, and the zeal and fidelity with which the important duties of the Order should be performed. The speaker aptly illustrated the outward life of men by the degrees of the Order, and urged his hearers to be earnest, faithful and diligent in building the spiritual temple higher and higher until the topmost stone reached the heavens. The venerable orator, though greatly suffering from indisposition, spoke with fervency and considerable power, and was listened to with breathless attention by the assembly, who manifested their appreciation by a burst of applause at the end of the discourse. The Lodge was then duly consecrated in accordance with prescribed form, Bro. Bilby P.M. 185 conducting the musical portion with well-known ability. Bro. Muggeridge then vacated the chair in favour of Bro. A. D. Loewenstark P.M., father of the W.M. designate, to whom the duty of installation had been assigned. Bro. M. D. Loewenstark having been presented and duly installed W.M. of the new Lodge, appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. J. D. Barnett P.M. S.W., W. H. G. Rudderforth J.W., A. D. Loewenstark I.P.M. and Treasurer, Charles Ochse S.D., Baron D. Barnett J.D. and Secretary, Lever I.G., and Oberdorfer Tyler. Bro. Muggeridge received the compliment of honorary membership, and thanks were voted to the brethren who assisted in the duties of the proceedings. Next followed a réchérche banquet, and the customary toasts were given and responded to. The W.M. gave the health of the Queen, and said Loyalty and Freemasonry have ever gone hand in hand. none are more devoted to the Throne than members of the Order. He next submitted the name of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M., and went on to descant upon the virtues of the Pro Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon, the Deputy Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Present and Past Grand Officers. Bro. Albert G.P., whose name was coupled with the toast, and of whom the W.M. spoke in the most flattering terms, pointing out the great services that Brother had rendered to the Craft, and whose worth had been recognised by Grand Lodge in electing him for the office he now holds, expressed his thanks, and said, let unity and concord be your watchword and the Lodge's prosperity is secure. Bro. Muggeridge proposed the health of the W.M. It was a most pleasing duty; having known the father intimately for the last 30 years, and the son ever since he was a child, it may be well imagined how gratifying it was to him to have consecrated the Samson Lodge, in which the latter presides as the first Master. From his knowledge of the W.M. he had no doubt all the duties of his office would be performed to the satisfaction of the Lodge. The Worshipful Master, in his reply, observed, that he really could not find words sufficiently expressive of his gratitude for the manner in which his name has been submitted and received. As first Master of the Samson Lodge, it would be his aim to lay a foundation which should make it what the name implies, a fabric of strength, not only in respect to the number of its members, but the quality of those who may hereafter be enrolled. With the assistance of his officers, he would endeavour to secure for it a standing A 1 in the Craft. The W.M. next gave the Consecrating Officer, who, in his response, regretted that the delicate state of his health precluded the idea of having performed the duties with the amount of satisfaction he could have desired; at the same time he was pleased to find the brethren were kind enough to be contented. He would take this opportunity to inform the meeting that the Stability Lodge of Instruction, in which he had been Preceptor for thirty-eight years, will hold its anniversary at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on Friday, the 27th inst., on which occasion he hoped to meet some of those who were then around him. Seven of the sections will be worked by competent brethren, and they may be sure of a pleasant evening, as a banquet will follow, at which Bros. Fred. Cousins, Chaplin Henry and Symonds, of the Temple Choir, will give their musical services. The W.M. then proposed the Recommending Lodge, to which Bro. John Peartree W.M. 185, responded, and in his speech referred to the gratification he had experienced that evening in witnessing for the first time, though a Mason for over 27 years, the ceremony of consecrating a Lodge. In despotic countries, Freemasonry is discouraged and often persecuted, in this land of freedom its growth is fostered, hence the great increase in the number of Lodges, of which this is youngest on the roll. With the best wishes for its prosperity and success, he trusted they would meet in happiness and unity until time shall be no more. Bro. D. Posener, the Senior Warden of the Recommending Lodge, said he signed the petition with the conviction that the names of the petitioners were sufficiently distinguished in the Craft to induce the Grand Master to grant a warrant without any other recommendation at all. The Visitors' toast was replied to by Bros. Cottebrune and Gottheil. In proposing prosperity to the Charities, the W.M. said that this Lodge had been established not only for the purpose of Instruction and enjoyment, but with the special view of rendering assistance to the Institutions. Masonry teaches that men should not exist for themselves alone, but for the support of others, and therefore the Charities should be nobly supported. Previous to this toast, the ladies, who most kindly assisted in the musical part of the programme, had been admitted, Bro. F. Binckes therefore replied as follows: Ladies and Brethren, I have to offer a word of apology for my seeming neglect in failing to reply to the invitation you so kindly sent me, but when you consider my numerous engagements, and if I give expression of sincere regret for my shortcoming I am sure you will grant me full and unconditional absolution. I value very highly the compliments the W.M. was good enough to express, and am rejoiced to see the ladies amongst us, they charm with their presence as well as with their voices and talent. The delightful melody of "Home sweet home," which has been so well rendered, must have impressed every individual present, as containing sentiments evoking our nearest and dearest sympathies. Masonry is home, emphatically for us all. The analogy is complete in the unity of our sentiments, and the care bestowed on the aged and orphan. The name of this Lodge is Samson, which means strength. I therefore trust it will prove a strenuous and strong supporter of the Charities. After all said and done, the great aim and end of our efforts, and that which interests us most, is the practice of charity in its most comprehensive sense, the encouragement of congenial feelings of sympathy, the promotion of love from one towards another, and the kindling of generous impulses and kindly thoughts. While this is the case, we can afford to laugh at the anathemas of foreign Priests or any other opponents who are absolutely ignorant of our purposes, and the high aims towards which all our efforts are directed. They may ridicule as much as they like, and the outer world may indulge in their sneers. We can afford to be forbearing, for they know nothing of the ties which bind us together, or the organization which produces such practical results as that of the last year's subscriptions—no less a sum than £35,000. We despise their malice, and point to the fact, that from 500 to 600 aged widows and orphans are cared for, fed, clothed, and educated with the most generous liberality. Here I must not omit to mention that brethren professing a certain faith, are among the most liberal, and at the same time disinterested donors and contributors, although their aged and offspring are unable to participate to any great extent in the benefits. This is indicative of the beneficent influence of Masonry dispensing blessings irrespective of any distinction of religious creed. Bro. Binckes concluded a lengthy and interesting speech amidst great cheering. The ladies who honoured the Lodge with their presence, and who contributed in no small degree towards the enjoyment of the evening, were Mrs. M. D. Loewenstark, wife of the Worshipful Master, who played and sang with much taste and proficiency; Misses Eugene and Ida Samuel, sisters of the last-named lady, Miss Loewenstark, sister of the W.M.; several other ladies were present. Bros. J. Barnett and Rudderforth distinguished themselves by the excellence of their vocal efforts. The Visitors were Bros. E. P. Albert G.P., G. Cottebrune P.G.P., Raynham Stewart P.G.P., F. Binckes P.G.S., B. Harris 13, John Dyce P.M. 25, A. H. Tattershall P.M. 140, Charles Payne P.M. 27, J. Terry P.M. R.M.B.I., Chas. Hogard P.M. 205, John Pearless W.M. 185, I. P. Cohen W.M. 206, D. Posener W.M. 1227, R. Z. Bloomfield P.M. 185, Charles Adkins P.M. 27, &c.

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

ONE of those charming re-unions of this club, which have helped so much to consolidate it, took place on Thursday, the 12th April. The guests were invited to meet the Lord Mayor of London, and the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex, Bros. Alderman Hadley and Quartermaine East, and covers were laid for 85. The dinner was presided over by Bro. Joseph Langton, Chairman of the Committee, assisted by Messrs. F. C. Dobbing and Thos. Lane as Vice-Chairmen. After a musical grace, the usual Loyal toasts were proposed, in brief but appropriate terms, by the Chairman. The next toast was that of Lord Carnarvon, Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers, Present and Past. The Chairman said that although some of the gentlemen present were not members of the Masonic body, still he had no reluctance in proposing this toast for their acceptance, as he was sure they would all appreciate their public good qualities as statesmen and members of the great Commonwealth of England. He had much pleasure in coupling with the toast the name of one who was highly appreciated among Masons,—Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary of England.

Bro. Hervey said he was beyond measure honoured by the compliment paid him. He had great satisfaction in stating that for many years he had known one of the distinguished guests as a Past Grand Officer of England (Bro. Ald. and Sheriff Hadley P.G.A.D.C.), and had equal pleasure in discovering that the other Sheriff, Mr. Quartermaine East, was also one of the Fraternity. He thanked the gentlemen very heartily for the enthusiastic manner in which they had drunk the toast.

The next toast was the Army, Navy, and Reserve Forces, which was coupled with the name of Lieut.-Col. Burdett, who, on rising to reply, was received with cheers. He said the military and naval forces of Great Britain had always done their duty, and he trusted they would ever be found to give satisfaction to this great country, which depended on them for defence and protection.

The Chairman then rose to give the toast of the evening,—The Right Hon. the Lord Mayor of London, and the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex. He regretted to inform the members of the Club and visitors that, at the last moment (5 p.m.), the Lord Mayor had written him to say that, by the strict injunctions of his medical attendant, he was obliged to decline an invitation to which he had looked forward with much pleasure, and requested the Committee to believe that the only reason that prevented him discharging this engagement was the consideration of his health. The Chairman said they would all deeply regret this; but they had present to-night the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex, known to them not only as Masons, but as high officers of the Corporation of the chief city of the British Empire, and it was a matter for which Masons might fairly take credit, that the three great magnates of the Corporation were all members of the Masonic body. After the visit of the Sheriffs, he thought the London Masonic Club might be fairly looked upon as an institution of the City of London. He had much pleasure in asking Mr. Alderman and Sheriff Hadley to reply.

The worthy Alderman said he was sure no one regretted the absence of the Lord Mayor more than his Lordship himself. During the term of his Mayoralty at present expired, the Lord Mayor was only actuated by one desire,—that the citizens of London should not suffer through their interests being placed in his hands. The Sheriffs had many disagreeable duties to perform, but the pleasure of meetings such as these, made ample amends for much that was unpleasant. Certainly he must consider this dinner one of the happiest during his official year, because he not only met those who knew him in his official capacity, but brethren with whom he had associated for years in Freemasonry. He had known his colleague for twenty years, and he considered his auditors fortunate in having such a Lord Mayor, and—such Sheriffs." (Great laughter.) Bro. Hadley concluded by asking those present to drink the health of the Chairman with three times three.

Bro. Langton thanked the members and guests for the hearty way in which his health had been drank.

The toast of the London Masonic Club was proposed by Mr. Sheriff Q. East, and coupled with the name of Bro. F. J. Smith, who made a suitable reply.

A charming selection of songs was sung by Bros. George Perrin, Edwin Moss, S. Fox, Musgrave, and Burgess Perry. Bro. Walter Pelham gave one of his inimitable readings, which convulsed the audience. We can only say, in the words of Bro. E. Harrodine the Toast Master:—Prosperity to the London Masonic Club, root and branch, and may it flourish for ever and ever.

Besides the distinguished visitors we have mentioned, we observed Messrs. G. C. Boor, F. Flint, T. A. A. Rumpff, G. R. Steel, G. T. Thornes, S. White, F. G. Wood, Binckes, Little, Terry, C. F. Matier, Stuart, Barker, and many others, whose names space alone prevents our inserting.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE INSTALLATION OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The second anniversary of our Grand Master's installation being close upon us, the occasion is an opportune one whereupon to jog the memories of the brethren who served as special Stewards in 1875, and to put forward a suggestion, that in some shape or form, either by the institution of a Lodge, or by an annual dinner, or otherwise, they should aid in keeping alive the pleasant recollections which are inseparably connected with the 28th April 1875.

Yours fraternally,

ONE OF THEM.

THE GIRLS' SCHOOL ELECTION.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Will you have the kindness to allow me a small space in your valuable paper to express my extreme regret that the candidate, Maria Gertrude Goddin (No. 24 on the list), was not elected, in consequence of the unfortunate and helpless condition the mother was placed in for want of a little more aid.

I feel it my duty, as one who assisted the candidature of this case, that some explanation is due to those friends and subscribers who assisted to make up a total of nearly 700 votes, including 252 already polled at the previous election, and to state how the votes were disposed of. Finding there was not sufficient votes in hand to poll with the slightest chance of success (900 being necessary), there was no alternative but to make the best use of what votes were available—namely, to assist some other case, this one being hopeless. I am truly sorry that the poor mother's hopes should have been raised and encouraged, and end in her being sent away disappointed. That the case was a deserving one I am satisfied of, the candidate being one of seven orphans totally unprovided for. I believe it is the intention of the mother to endeavour to get placed on the list of candidates for next election a younger child, and I trust, with the kind assistance and support of the subscribers, the mother may be successful in obtaining, for one of the seven, admission into the Girls' School.

Believe me, dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

CHARLES LACEY P.M. 174.

THE RECENT ELECTION FOR THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Usually, I do not enter a rejoinder to an anonymous writer; but, this exceptional case of the deserted orphan, Cox, may prove the rule. Your correspondent has written nothing relevant to the case, his remarks seem only to be vituperative. It is an easy reply to any case of distress, that there is something wrong; but that is neither charitable nor relieving. My suggestion seems now to be the only chance the poor orphan has of not being thrown overboard. Frater Londoniensis says, that my proposal is "not wise;" but assertion is no proof. It would, nevertheless, be, in my humble judgement, very wise, both for the destitute orphan's relief, and for the committee to adopt, with a view to increase their revenue.

Again, the writer proceeds to give a reason, not, I venture to think, very conclusively, for his assertion, this reason apparently, I will not write pretext, is a vote of censure on the Devonshire brethren, as I suspect, very undeservedly; and on myself and others he seems to cast not very encouraging laudation, on our support of the case of a suffering widow and forlorn orphan.

The petitio principii, or begging the question lies in the assumption that all who know a Masonic case of woe, and recommend it for relief, must necessarily confine their votes to their specific object of charity, and extend them to no other. We are not always in a position to do this; for there may be other paramount claims we cannot abandon.

I have given my votes for the lad Cox this year, as I have done once previously, although I am told I shall throw them away, and no distressing case is to be placed on the list of the committee, unless the parties to the recommendation are prepared to carry their candidate successfully. I am really almost inclined to ask is this Masonry? Such a proposal would be treated with indignant scorn by other charitable societies.

I am also informed that there are no less than half-a-dozen distressing cases in Devonshire; but it would be very illogical to argue that the Devonshire brethren must not take up one, or any of them, because they cannot, by their own exclusive energies, carry the whole of their candidates to a successful issue. Is then the election of candidates solely dependent on the rich and powerful, apart from all considerations of necessity and work?

If not, then, the relaxation or adoption of a rule, as I have suggested, admitted by other societies, and some Masonic, is feasible.

Bro. Terry, the indefatigable Secretary of the Annuitant Masonic Fund, submitted to the consideration of his committee a somewhat analagous, or similar proposal in principle, viz., that aged female candidates, exceeding 70 years from their birth, and having twice unsuccessfully contested for an annuity, should be placed on the list without the ordeal of a future election. This proposal was adopted, and, as I well know, the blessing of two widows ready to perish has been richly his, with an abundant increase to the funds of the Annuitant Society.

I have always stood hitherto as an humble champion in favour of the committee for the administration of the funds of the Masonic Boys' School. I believe the excellent Secretary has been treated with much undeserved obloquy. But it will soon become a serious consideration, if a lad, an orphan, destitute, ready to perish is thrown overboard, for want of support, when, it is said, thousands upon thousands of pounds, are locked up as funded property, although only five thousand invested for the Boys' School, and we are at the same time informed that the plethora of our wealth, as Masons, is our perplexity as to its distribution.

As a Life Governor of the Boys' Masonic Institution I, for the last time, cry for help for this destitute lad; and beg to state that I will join in any plan, and assist in any way I can, to place this destitute orphan in the Boys' Masonic School. He ought to be admitted there, if destitution and work entitles the admission of any forlorn orphan.

It will not add to our reputation for Masonic charity if it be known as a matter of fact that a poor orphan is not to be aided on the merits of his case, but solely on account of his being the protégé of the influential and wealthy.

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother,

Your very faithful servant,

DANIEL ACE, D.D.,

P.M. 1232, and P.P.G.C. for Lincolnshire.

Laughton Vicarage, near Gainsborough, 16th April 1877.

MACDONALD LODGE, 1216, MASONIC CHARITY ASSOCIATION.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—A Report has been issued by the Honorary Secretary of the above Association, by direction of the Committee, and some of its features are deserving of notice. The Association is not of very old date, having been originated in January of last year, mainly through the zealous efforts of Bro. S. J. Wagstaffe, Past Master of the Lodge from whence its name is derived. Yet, notwithstanding the short period of time within which its operations have been confined, the Society numbers nearly seventy members, has raised £165, and balloted for and distributed sixteen Life-Governorships in the various Masonic Charities. This result cannot be regarded as other than highly satisfactory, not only by members of the Association, but also by many others in the Craft who take a kindly interest in all that conduces to the support of our Masonic Educational and Benevolent Institutions.

The system pursued in this and in other Associations of like nature is very simple. A subscription of 1s a week, or 4s a month is paid by each member; and when the balance in hands of the Treasurer reaches £10, a "drawing" takes place, and the winner of the prize is entitled to select any one of the three Institutions which he may prefer as recipients of the donation. The money is then paid over by the Treasurer in name of the winner, who thus becomes a Life Governor of the Institution, and possesses all the privileges of such, subject of course to the condition that his weekly or monthly payments be continued until the full amount of ten guineas (the cost of a Life-Governorship) has been contributed by him. In this way every member will become a Life-Governor of one or other of the Masonic Institutions within four years from the commencement of the Association, and by such easy and gradual payments as not to be felt.

There are many such Associations amongst us, but their number might be increased a hundred-fold, and the benefit to our deserving Charities enhanced in like proportion. Such things only want a beginning, and when the interest of a dozen or a score of brethren is enlisted in them, their success becomes a perfect certainty.

Yours fraternally, T. E.

[We are always pleased to record the successful efforts of our brethren to raise funds for our Charities, and are fully alive to the vast amounts that are being obtained by means of these Charitable Associations. We hope shortly to be able to refer to the subject more fully.—ED. F. C.]

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The chiefest wonder of modern times.—This incomparable medicine increases the appetite, strengthens the stomach, cleanses the liver, corrects biliousness, prevents flatulency, purifies the system, invigorates the nerves, and reinstates sound health. The enormous demand for these Pills throughout the globe astonishes everybody, and a single trial convinces the most sceptical that no medicine equals Holloway's Pills in its ability to remove all complaints incidental to the human race. They are a blessing to the afflicted, and a boon to all that labour under internal or external disease. The purification of the blood, removal of all restraint from the secretive organs, and gentle aperitive action are the prolific sources of the extensive curative range of Holloway's Pills.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Keies Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire.—Figaro.

"The inquiring Brother who may wish to know something of the strength and beauty of the principles of Masonry, will find a pleasure in scanning the characteristic pictures in this book."—The Brighouse News.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE House of Lords met for the first time after the Easter recess on Friday the 13th inst., and have since dealt with several measures of importance. The day of their reassembling, the Supreme Court of Judicature Bill received a second reading, and the Justices' Clerks' Bill passed through Committee. Earl Granville had previously given notice of his intention to move an important resolution when the Burial Acts Consolidation Bill come on for second reading. On Monday nearly the whole of the sitting was devoted to a discussion of certain phases of the Eastern Question. Earl Granville led the way. The Earl of Derby gave, as far as he could, the needful explanation. The Marquis of Lansdowne and the Earl of Dudley offered some remarks, and the subject then dropped. On Tuesday, the Bankruptcy Bill passed through Committee, and Lord Selborne moved the second reading of the Inns of Court Bill, which was agreed to after a debate, in which several noble and learned lords took part.

The financial statement of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, to which we briefly referred last week, offered no especial features. The right honourable gentleman was in a position to announce that the surplus for last year amounted to £443,000. He reckoned the expenditure for the current year would reach the sum of £78,794,000, of which £28,000,000 would be for the permanent charge on debt, £14,538,700 for army, £10,979,300 for the navy, and £13,726,000 for the Civil Service. The Revenue he estimated would yield £79,020,000, so that he anticipated a small surplus of £226,000. No alteration whatever was proposed in the taxation of the country, and consequently Customs and Excise, Stamps and Taxes remain exactly the same. Considering the troubled period through which the country in common with the rest of Europe has passed, there is reason for being satisfied with the statement we have just outlined. Our hope is that nothing may happen during the present financial year to disturb the expectations of the Government. On Friday, the Marquis of Hartington brought forward his motion for certain papers connected with the famous Protocol, and in doing so, critised very freely the conduct of the Government throughout the whole course of the negociations. Mr. Hardy followed with a very fervid speech in defence of ministers. Sir W. Harcourt, Mr. Fowgyth, Sir C. Dilke, Mr. Roebuck, Mr. Goschen, and Sir Stafford Northcote, joined in the debate; the one notable feature in connection with their speeches being the very outspoken language of the honourable member for Sheffield, who accorded his free and unhesitating support to the Government. In the end, the motion of the noble Marquis was withdrawn. On Monday, the Mutiny and Marine Mutiny Bills passed through Committee, but the divisions on certain of the clauses were very numerous, a section of the Home Rule party doing their best to obstruct the progress of these necessary measures. To such an extent, indeed, has this spirit of obstructiveness been carried, that Mr. Butt, who is the leader of the party, disclaimed all sympathy with the action of certain of his followers. On Tuesday the House discussed the question of the Railway Passenger Duty, and on Wednesday afternoon the Territorial Waters' Jurisdiction Bill was withdrawn, at the earnest desire of the Government, while the Married Women's Property (Scotland) Bill was read a second time.

Her Majesty is expected to arrive this day at Windsor from the Isle of Wight. The Prince of Wales reached Cannes on Monday, having made a longer stay at Paris than was expected. We trust the rest he will enjoy during his present excursion will restore him completely to his normal state of health.

A marriage was celebrated in Westminster Abbey on Tuesday, in the presence of a numerous fashionable gathering. The bridegroom was Mr. Reginald McLeod, second son of McLeod of McLeod, and the bride Miss Agnes C. Northcote, the eldest daughter of Sir Stafford and Lady Northcote. The service was a full choral one. There were present in the Abbey the Princess Louise and Marquis of Lorne, the Princess Mary of Cambridge, Duchess, and the Duke of Teck, the Marquis of Salisbury and daughters, the Earl of Beaconsfield, the Earl of Carnarvon, Mr. and Mrs. Cross, Mr. and Mrs. Gathorne Hardy, Lord and Lady John Manners, the Earl and Countess of Derby. Mr. Arthur J. Balfour M.P. was best man, and the bride, who had a numerous attendance of bridesmaids, was given away by her father. After the service, the bridal party left the Abbey for the Chancellor of the Exchequer's residence in Downing-street. Here the guests, to the number of close on three hundred, were entertained at breakfast. Shortly after two o'clock the newly married pair left for Warwickshire, to spend the honeymoon. The presents were very numerous and costly, among them being a superb Indian shawl, given by the Queen.

Mr. Layard, who has been appointed temporarily, during the absence on leave of Sir Henry Elliott, to be our ambassador to the Porte, reached Brindisi on Tuesday morning, and left immediately in the Royal Yacht Osborne for Constantinople, where it was expected he would arrive yesterday. It is satisfactory to know that, at this critical time, the important interests of Great Britain will be entrusted to a diplomatist of recognised ability, who has such knowledge as Mr. Layard possesses of eastern peoples, and in whom the Sultan and his Ministers are likely to repose such confidence.

We are enduring the pleasures of a second March. Keen winds and clouds of dust welcome those whom duty requires them to move about through London streets. People, indeed, are beginning to look miserable against the prospect of Spring having put off its visit until later in the year. It were well, perhaps, if their passing discomforts represented the full extent of the misery we have had to endure this week. There has been more than one gale attended with serious loss of life, and there is no apparent prospect of any immediate improvement.

In South Wales a very serious calamity happened to some colliers in one of the Collieries in the neighbourhood of Pontypridd. On Wednesday of last week some men at work in one part of the mine were suddenly overtaken by a flood of water, so that egress from the cutting was out of all question. It was determined, however, to spare no effort to rescue these imprisoned colliers, and at the moment of writing the good news reaches us, that communication has been established with the men, and they have been released from their fearful situation.

The proposed demonstration on behalf of the convict Orton came off in Hyde Park, on Tuesday, but the proposed invasion of the House of Commons was summarily stopped. The police had taken all needful precautions to prevent the approach of the demonstrators, but ten of the principals were permitted to pass into Westminster Hall, where, after a brief interval, they were received by Mr. Whalley, and entertained by him in the Tea-room of the House of Commons. The following day, Mr. Cross, the Home Secretary, considerately permitted the same ten leaders to have an interview, but as the right honourable gentleman very properly refused to discuss with them the case of the convict, we cannot see what advantage was gained from the interview. Mr. De Morgan will now, perhaps, be pleased to permit the worthy people of London to enjoy their walks in Hyde Park, and not to have their leading thoroughfares obstructed by stupid demonstrations, which are intended as a menace to law and order, but which invariably, as in this particular instance, turn out to be miserable fiascos. We have no sympathy whatever with such as Mr. De Morgan, who threaten to break the law, in order, as they say, to vindicate the pure administration of justice. In no other city in the world would such demonstrations be permitted. We should like to see a law passed forbidding the use of our parks for any purposes other than those of peaceful recreation. The majority of the men who assembled on Tuesday, in Hyde Park, were of the ruffian class, who indulged in hunting quiet and inoffensive people out of the park, bonneting and otherwise maltreating all who had about them an appearance of respectability. That such a state of things should have been allowable is not creditable to the country.

A spring flower show was held in the grounds of the Royal Botanical Society on Wednesday afternoon. The weather was none of the kindest, but the gathering was nevertheless both numerous and fashionable. The band of the Royal Horse Guards was present, and made the time pass agreeably. Among the winners of principal prizes must be mentioned the names of Mr. Charles Turner, Messrs. Paul and Son, Mr. Terry, of Fulham, Mr. Thornton, of Sydenham-hill, and Mr. Watson, of Isleworth. The same afternoon a similar exhibition was held in the garden at South Kensington, but in this instance a new feature was introduced, a portion of the space set apart for exhibits being devoted to a display of produce by the growers and salesmen of Covent Garden market. The Duke and Duchess of Bedford arrived early in the day for the purpose of opening this portion of the exhibition. They were received by Lord Alfred Churchill, one of the Vice-Presidents of the Royal Horticultural Society, Dr. Hogg, the Secretary, and some of their Grace's tenants. Later in the day the Duke and Duchess of Teck honoured the gardens with their presence. The principal prizes among the nurserymen were carried off by Messrs. B. S. Williams, Upper Holloway, J. Wills, South Kensington, Barr and Sugden, and Hooper and Co., of Covent Garden. For Covent Garden produce the chief prize winners were Messrs. Beckwith and Son, Messrs. Hawkins and Burnett, Messrs. Webber and Co., and Mr. Poupart, of Twickenham. The band of the Artists' Rifle Volunteers attended during the day and performed a choice selection of music.

The annual dinner of the Institution of Civil Engineers was held on Wednesday evening at Willis's Rooms, St. James's. Among the more distinguished guests assembled to do honour to the occasion, were H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, the Duke of Teck, Sir C. Adderley, Sir R. Baggallay, the Earl of Carnarvon, Mr. Lowe, Admiral Sir A. Milne, Professor Owen, Professor Huxley, and nearly every member of eminence in the profession. The chair was occupied by Mr. George R. Stephenson, and a very agreeable evening was spent. The Duke of Cambridge returned thanks for the army, and Sir A. Milne for the navy. The Earl of Carnarvon acknowledged the toast of Her Majesty's Ministers, while Lord Halifax and Mr. Lowe replied for the Houses of Lords and Commons, respectively. The same day, the one hundred and thirty-ninth anniversary of the Royal Society of Musicians was celebrated at Freemasons' Hall. About two hundred guests were present, and the chair was occupied by Lord Skelmersdale. The Earl of Dudley, Lord Hampton, Sir Julius Benedict, Professor Macfarren, Mr. Walter Macfarren, Mr. Otto Goldschmidt, and Mr. Carrodus were among the more eminent of the guests. The result of the evening's contributions was stated by the honorary treasurer, Mr. Cummings, to be over £1,400, including a donation of £100 from the chairman. Yet a third banquet was held the same day—at Fishmongers' Hall, where about one hundred-and-fifty guests were entertained at dinner, among them being Mr. Edward Pierrepoint, the United States Minister, and Lord Hatherley. The former made a very amusing speech in response to the toast of his health.

"I confess that it makes me sick when I hear of the Emperor's desire for peace. If he desires peace, why does he not make it?" These words will be found in an extract from a private letter written by the great Duke of Wellington to the late Lord Aberdeen in 1829, when Nicholas was Czar of all the Russias, and his army under Diebitsch had penetrated as far into Turkey as Adrianople. History, it has been said, repeats itself. We are on the eve of another Russo-Turkish war, and the son of Nicholas does little else than declare his desire for peace, all the while that 500,000 of his troops are assembled as near the borders of Turkey as possible, and preparations for an attack on the latter power are being pressed forward with all diligence. Europe is most anxious for peace. Turkey desires nothing more than to be left alone to carry out her scheme of reform. The Czar declares he is desirous of peace, and yet the one question which is agitating the whole of Europe is, when will hostilities commence, and what result will attend the onslaught of Russia on her ancient rival? There is no one driving Russia to pursue her present policy—she is too powerful to be driven, except, as she gives us to understand, by motives of religion and humanity. All the civilised nations of Europe are actuated by the same motives, but they do not think they best exhibit their sense of religion and humanity by assembling huge armies and fleets, and threatening to carry slaughter and devastation into the heart of a neighbouring country. It was once said that Providence was on the side of the big battalions, and this, perhaps, may enable us to understand why it is that Russia so piously invokes the aid of Providence in her plans of slaughter and spoliation. Be this as it may, given that the whole of Europe, and especially Russia is sincerely desirous of peace, how comes it that we are on the eve of a war, which is likely to prove the most terrible of our time? No war is so fearful as a religious one. Russia is exciting the fanaticism of her people, and Turkey will do the same in order to defend the integrity of her Empire. Nor is this all. It is impossible to say how long the war may be confined to these two powers. Russia may over-whelm the Turks in one short campaign. Will she then grant terms of peace likely to be acceptable to the other European powers, especially to Austria and this country? Or it may be the Turk may offer a decided resistance and repel with more or less success the assault of Russia. This contingency certainly offers a fairer prospect, but even so, we doubt if the conflict will be strictly limited to these two combatants—for any length of time. As in the last struggle between them, little more than half a year elapsed, when France and England took part in the conflict. Russia invaded the Principalities in the autumn of 1853, and in March 1854 war with Russia was declared by the Emperor Napoleon and Queen Victoria. This is not exactly a good omen. We would far rather overlook it, but this is impossible. A day may come when the true designs of Russia will be more apparent, and England will find it necessary to see that her important interests in the East are not imperilled. All of us are anxious that the war may be localised, but just as all the efforts of the Great Powers have been powerless to prevent the armies of Russia and Turkey from confronting each other, so when the sword has been drawn, and the struggle between them is raging furiously, it may be impossible to avoid engaging in it. Cassandra was not a very popular personage, but it was right she should utter her warnings, though they boded no good to her country. We are happily outside the arena in which the contest, now imminent, must take place. How long we may be able to remain outside is a question which, however unpleasant it may be, cannot be omitted from the reckoning.

Thanks to Bro. Dr. Strong's kindness, "our Patriarchs" had the opportunity afforded them of spending a most agreeable evening on Wednesday. A concert was given on that occasion, in the Hall of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, by the Croydon Symphonic Septett Society, assisted by the Amateur Glee Society. The instrumentalists included Mr. Viotti Collins, and Bro. Dr. Strong as first violins, Messrs. James and Johns, second violins, Messrs. Bartlett and Tinson, tenors, Mr. W. Owen, violoncello, Mr. W. O. Strong, double bass, Messrs. De Vine and Hatchwell, flutes, and Mrs. Dubois, pianoforte. Mr. Viotti Collins conducted. The Programme was in two parts, and was most successfully rendered. Under these circumstances, it may seem invidious, perhaps to select any for special notice, but we imagine even the artistes themselves will admit that Mr. Viotti Collins's selection from "Il Trovatore" was splendidly rendered, that Mesdames Strong and Dubois sang the familiar duet "I know a bank" with exquisite taste and feeling, and that Mr. Maitland Gard'ner's interpretation of the well-known Buffo Song "Largo al factotum," was beyond praise. At intervals during the evening, light refreshments were handed round, and when the entertainment was ended, Bro. Terry rose and briefly proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. Dr. Strong for his kindness. The vote was carried by acclamation and suitably acknowledged. Among the guests of the evening were Bro. and Mrs Terry, Miss and Master Terry, Bro. and Mrs. Pearcy, and Bro. and Mrs. E. G. Legge, Miss Strong very kindly charged herself with the task of distributing the programmes.

On Monday, Stratford-on-Avon will be the scene of an interesting Masonic ceremonial. Our readers are possibly aware that the day in question is the anniversary of Shakspeare's birth, and it has been resolved, in honour of the immortal Bard of Avon, to erect to his memory a block of buildings, which shall include a theatre, library, and picture gallery. Accordingly, Lord Leigh will hold a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Warwickshire, at the Corn Exchange, Stratford, at one p.m. on the day named. After the necessary preliminary business, and a collection has been made towards the building fund, a procession will be formed, and the brethren will march to the site of the Memorial Building, where Bro. Lord Leigh P.G.M. will lay the north-east corner stone with the customary Masonic rites. Bro. the Rev. F. M. Beaumont Pro. G. Chaplain, and Bro. Creswick will then deliver addresses, at the termination of which the procession will reform, and return to the Corn Exchange where the P.G. Lodge will be closed. A cold collation is fixed for 3·15, price of tickets five shillings each. A programme of the order of procession has been issued, and special arrangements, as will be seen in our advertisement columns, has been made by the North Western Railway Company for the conveyance of visitors from the metropolis to the neighbourhood of Stratford. The ceremony cannot fail to be an interesting one, and we doubt not will be successfully carried out. We shall give a full report of the ceremony in our next issue.

The 16th anniversary of the Lodge of Instruction which meets under the sanction of the Lodge of Stability, No. 217, will be held at the City Terminus Hotel, on the 27th inst., at half past 5 o'clock. Selections from the Lectures will be worked by the following brethren:—1st Lecture—1st Section by Bro. E. H. Hewett S.W. 235; 2nd by Bro. J. W. Clever J.W. 171; 3rd by Bro. E. F. Storr W.M. 22; 7th by Bro. A. H. Diaper P.M. 5. 2nd Lecture—Bro. H. Muggeridge will lecture on the six Grand Periods, and the moral advantages of Geometry. 3rd Lecture—Bro. J. B. Scriven will lecture on the Lodge Board of the degree. A banquet will take place at 8 o'clock; tickets, 5s each. The attendance of the brethren is requested. Masonic Craft costume will be worn.

A new Lodge, the Mornington, No. 1672, will be consecrated at the Eagle Tavern, Snaresbrook, on Monday, the 30th inst. The names of the officers given in the Warrant are Bros. William Robert Marsh P.M. 9, 993, 1000 W.M. designate, J. Edward Cockett 1364 S.W., George Blackman 9 J.W. The Consecrating Officer will be the V.W. Bro. John Hervey P.G.D. Grand Secretary. The brethren will assemble at 3 o'clock p.m. punctually.

Mount Lebanon Chapter, No. 73.—Held its installation meeting on Thursday, 12th inst., at the Bridge House Hotel, London-bridge. Present—Comps. H. A. Dubois M.E.Z., J. W. Baldwin H., John Mason J., T. J. Sabine P.G.S. Middlesex P.Z. Treas., Frederick Walters P.P. 1st A.G.S. Middlesex P.Z. S.E., J. C. Mason S.N., B. Isaacs P.S., J. T. Moss P.P.G.R. Middlesex P.Z., E. Harris P.Z., J. H. Spencer, T. W. Clark, W. Dunham, and others. Visitors—Comps. T. Kingston, W. Porter, and W. T. Lover 176. The Chapter was opened by the Principals and Past Principals, and the minutes confirmed. The report of the Audit Committee showed a good balance in hand. Ballots were unanimous in favour of Bros. S. Barney 1567, T. Lamb 1567, L. Samuels 1531. Bro. L. Samuels was exalted. Comp. W. Smeed P.Z. P.P.G.J. Middlesex, installed Comps. J. W. Baldwin Z., John Mason H., James Cattley Mason J. The officers invested were Comps. T. J. Sabine P.Z. Treasurer, for third time, F. Walters P.Z. S.E., for fifteenth time, M. D. Loewenstark S.N. third time, B. Isaacs P.S. third time, W. A Maloney 1st A.S., T. W. Adams 2nd A.S., W. Y. Laing Janitor. Vote of thanks were given to Comp. W. Smeed for the able manner in which he worked the ceremonies. The usual five guinea P.Z.'s jewel was unanimously voted to Comp. H. A. Dubois, the I.P.Z. The Chapter was then closed, and a banquet followed. The usual Loyal and R.A. toasts were given.

Caledoni an of Unity Chapter, No. 78.—An emergency meeting was held on 18th April, at 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow. A Mark Lodge was opened by Comp. G. W. Wheeler, assisted by Comps. G. McDonald S.W., J. M. Oliver J.W. Propositions were read from Bros. Colonel Robson, the American Consul, Canongate Kilwinning No. 2, R. Wylie P.G.S. Ayrshire Mother Kilwinning No. 0, J. McCrow No. 0, and J. McWaters No. 17. They were introduced and took that degree. A Lodge of Most Excellent Masters was opened, and the same gentlemen duly passed. The Chapter was then opened by Comps. Wheeler Z., W. Shaw H., J. Tweed J., J. Balfour S.E., S. B. Hardie, J. Fergerson, and J. Bowers Sojourners, and the same four gentlemen were introduced and duly exalted. Comp. Balfour performed the duties of 1st Sojourner in his usual faultless style. Visitors—Comps. J. M. Oliver S.E. of 79, and J. Lloyd of 87.

Tranquillity Lodge, No. 185.—This Lodge held its last regular meeting of the session, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, on Monday, 16th inst. An average number of members attended, and the business was conducted by the following officers:—Bros. John Peartree W.M., D. Posener S.W., G. Pare J.W., J. D. Barnett I.P.M., John Constable P.M. Treas., P. Levy Sec., W. D. Bayley S.D., F. Croaker J.D., Digby Sadlier as I.G. The Past Masters present were Bros. Harfeld, S. Moss, M. Harris, N. Gluckstein, and E. Gottheil. The Visitors were Bros. C. D. Taylor 925, S. N. Lamble P.M. 27, and I. P. Cohen W.M. 205. The Lodge having been opened with the accustomed formalities and the minutes of the previous meeting confirmed, the W.M. proceeded to confer the third degree upon Bros. Cohen and Toms, to pass Bro. Vogl to the second, and initiate Messrs. Charles Harris and S. Barnett into the novitiate of the Order. Upon the conclusion of the Lodge business, an excellent supper was served, after which the customary toasts were given and responded to. In proposing the health of the Queen, the W.M. adverted to the threatening aspect of the political horizon, and to the anxiety which must be felt by the head of the State. At such a time as the present Masons are bound to entertain feelings of redoubled loyalty towards the gracious Lady who presides over the destinies of the State. A hearty response followed. The Initiates severally replied after their names had been submitted. Addressing the Visitors, the W.M. gave them hearty welcome, and assured them that the Tranquillity Lodge is never better pleased than when brethren from other Lodges honoured them with their presence. The visitors gave suitable responses. Bro. J. D. Barnett I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M. He did so with feelings of the utmost pleasure. Bro. Peartree did not look particularly promising at the time of his election, and it was whispered that the new Master would be quite incapable as regards the working of the ceremonies, however efficient he might prove in other respects. But to the great and very agreeable surprise of all, he shows as much proficiency, and presides with even greater éclat than many of his predecessors. To listen to his exposition of our beautiful ritual was indeed an intellectual treat, and all must admit him to be the right man in the right place. The services Bro. Peartree has rendered to the Lodge, sixteen years as Treasurer and now as Worshipful Master, must claim our sincerest gratitude. The W.M. expressed his thanks, and said he felt very grateful for the kind words that had been said about him, but he did not like to be praised. It had the curious effect of making him feel awkward. It is, of course, highly gratifying to give satisfaction, and the Lodge may always calculate upon his small services while health and strength lasted. The vacation having now arrived he trusted they might all be spared to meet again at the beginning of next term in health and prosperity. He would now say a few words about the Benevolent Fund attached to the Lodge, being one of its founders. The fund was established about 20 years ago and possesses at present a sum of £700. They therefore did not ask for subscriptions, indeed they were not wanted, but initiates, actuated, no doubt, by the dictates of their benevolent dispositions, very kindly subscribed one guinea each. It may be interesting to them to be informed that many a one who used to sit amongst them prosperous and light of heart, had found himself suddenly reduced and without means. An emergency of this kind will occur. But the timely help this fund was enabled to render had the effect, not only of immediate relief, but frequently became the starting point of renewed prosperity. It may also be mentioned as a creditable feature of the laws regulating the dispensing of its privileges that the name of the recipient never transpires, and is only known to the Committee. He would therefore propose prosperity to the Tranquillity Benevolent Fund, and may the sum be doubled and even trebled, and may no one ever have occasion to require its assistance. Bro. S. Moss P.M. endorsed the remarks of the W.M. respecting the Benevolent Fund, he being also one of the founders. They had that evening confirmed a grant of a small sum (£20), but in this case, more had not been asked or required, else a larger amount would have been cheerfully given. Responding to the toast of Treasurer, Bro. J. Constable said, the high encomiums passed upon him by the W.M. were very flattering, he trusted he might be deserving of them to some extent. His best energies would always be employed, not only in the interests of the Lodge, but for the Order at large. He thanked the brethren for the good feelings and fraternal sentiments as exemplified by the hearty manner in which his name has been received. The W.M. next proposed the health of the Officers, and congratulated the Lodge upon having such thoroughly capable men occupying important positions, upon whom depended the efficient working of the ceremonies, and the carrying out of all the various duties in a proper and satisfactory manner. Bro. D. Posener as S.W. responded, and assured the W.M. of the gratification felt by the Officers for being praised for their humble services. Their only fear being that to follow creditably the bright example of the W.M., who, to the surprise of everybody, has outdone them all in every way, would not be an easy task. It was thought that by placing him in the Master's chair great honour would be conferred upon Bro. Peartree as a slight acknowledgement of his long and faithful services. By his skill in the work and ability in the direction of the business, he really confers honour upon the Lodge in accepting the position. The brethren, however, may rest assured that the Officers will use every effort to attain proficiency in order to uphold the high degree of efficiency with which the work of the Lodge has always been conducted. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. In the course of the evening Bros. Child, Bayley, Constable and Barnett, sang some excellent songs, which were received with well deserved applause.

Union Lodge, No. 414.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Tuesday, the 17th of April, at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present: Bros. Stephen A. Pocock W.M., Edward Baker S.W., Robert Bradley P.M. acting J.W., N. T. Garry Chaplain, J. Leaver Secretary, George Bothy P.M. Treasurer, Samuel Bradley S.D., F. J. Ferguson D.C. acting J.D., F. Davis Organist, Samual Wheeler and Charles Sprent Stewards, R. C. Mount I.G., W. Hemmings Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. Yetts I.P.M., J. Morris, Weightman, Strachan; and Bros. Nash, C. Butler, A. Mitchell, D. Witherington, Moffatt, Ayres, Higgs, Hawkes, Parry, Martin, Blackwell, Albury, Withers. Visitors—Bros. G. W. Webb 494, W. P. Ivey P.M. Secretary 1101, Hunt 1101, J. T. Brown P.M. 1101. Business—Minutes read and confirmed. Lodge opened in the second degree, and Bros. Martin and Hawkes, having proved their efficiency, retired. The Lodge was opened in the third degree, Bros. Martin and Hawkes were raised. The beautiful ceremony was conducted by the W.M. in a most correct and impressive manner, he being well supported by his officers. The Lodge was closed down to the first degree. The report of the Permanent Committee upon the Jewish question and the appointment of new trustees was brought up, and produced an interesting discussion on both subjects, which resulted in an unanimous vote in favour of the memorial to Grand Lodge and the appointment of six new trustees. The W.M. announced that, this being the first time his predecessor had attended the Lodge since his very sincere illness, he had much pleasure in congratulating him on his restoration to health, in which he was certain all the members coincided, he had great pleasure in presenting him with a Past Master's Jewel in recognition of his services, and the excellent working of his year of office, he also begged to thank him in the name of the Lodge for the handsome present of a case of working tools which would be most useful in conducting the ceremonies. The I.P.M. Bro. Yetts expressed his gratitude for the present, and for the kind remarks with which it was conveyed to him, he was much pleased that the working tools were appreciated, and he hoped they would be frequently used. After receiving nominations the Lodge was closed and adjourned according to ancient form.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 16th inst., at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W. Present—Bros. Shand W.M. Belfrage S.W., T. O. Davis J.W., T. Cull Secretary, Wray S.D., Solomons J.D., Corner I.G.; also Bros. Mander (Preceptor), Docker, Farwig, Collens, W. J. Hall, T. Lloyd, E. Toms and Dairy. Business—The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes read and confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree and the ceremony of passing rehearsed. The 1st and 5th sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Farwig, and the 2nd, 3rd and 4th by Bro. Mander. The Lodge was resumed to the 1st, and Bros. Hall 193 and E. Toms 185 were elected members. Bro. Belfrage S.W. was then unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks was ordered to be recorded on the minutes, for the able manner in which the W.M. had carried out the duties of the chair for the first time in this Lodge of Instruction. The Lodge was then closed in due form.

Polish National Lodge, No. 534.—This Lodge held its Installation Meeting at Freemasons' Hall, on Thursday, the 12th instant. The Lodge was opened and the minutes of the previous meeting confirmed. The W.M. Bro. F. Ráth then advanced the Lodge to the second degree, and passed Bro. J. J. Rüntz. The S.W. Bro. J. H. Cumming was duly presented as the W.M. elect. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, and the ceremony of Installation performed by the outgoing Master in a most impressive manner. The newly-installed Master then invested the I.P.M. Bro. Rath with the collar of his office. On the return of the brethren the W.M. appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. J. F. Ebner S.W., J. Aspinall J.W., J. Boyd P.M. Treasurer, W. Paas P.M. Sec., J. Taylor S.D., Dr. A. V. Jagielski J.D., Dr.

Corrie Jackson I.G., J. Lancaster D.C. The first duty that fell to the W.M. to perform was the presenting, in the name of the Lodge, to the I.P.M., a splendid jewel, as a token of the esteem in which Bro. Ráth was held by the brethren, and for the admirable manner he had carried out the duties of the chair. Bro. Ráth, in acknowledging the gift said,—Brethren, you have been pleased to confer on me an honour by the presentation of the P.M.'s jewel, which I receive with deep emotion. Generally, when you have been striving with all your might, and when you have given up your nights and your days, and all your thoughts to the one object which you wished to attain, you find that, at the moment when all your most ardent wishes are fulfilled and gratified, you are smitten with a feeling of surfeit and reaction. I said generally, because I mean to point out one exception at least to the general rule, and that exception is myself in the present instance. I feel that I have worked with my head, as well as with my heart, for the higher ends of our great Brotherhood, and that I am ready to work on to the end of my powers. The testimonial which you have been good enough to give me as a mark of your recognition of the few services that I might have been able to render you in my place in the chair I accept as such. It shall ever live with me, and the pleasing recollection of this evening, as also of your kind affection, shall last, like the precious metal the token is made of,—for ever. A petition was then presented on behalf of a distressed brother, and duly signed by the W.M., and the brethren of the Lodge present. We are glad to state that the Lodge of Benevolence has since granted £50 in this case. Thus the commencement of the W.M.'s year of office was marked by a pleasant act of duty. The Lodge was then closed with solemn prayer, and the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous banquet at the Freemasons' Tavern. On the removal of the cloth, the W.M., Bro. Cumming, proposed the Loyal toasts, which were received in the usual enthusiastic manner. The gavel having been placed in the hands of the I.P.M., he said, Brethren,—It is by sanction of the W.M. that I rise to address you on the present occasion, that I may, according to ancient custom, bring a sentiment under your notice which must, by reason of its great importance, with reference to the position and the welfare of the Lodge, occupy a prominent place in our social gatherings, particularly on the evening which is devoted to so solemn a rite as that of the installation of the eminent Brother whom your flattering suffrages have elevated into the high position of the ruler of the Lodge for the ensuing twelve months. It is a well known axiom of the Constitution of this country, that "The King cannot do wrong," and, if that is true, the converse of it must equally be true, viz., that he who is placed upon the throne can do an immense deal of good. We must assume, and we gladly assume, that this rule holds equally good in the case of the individual Brother who occupies the Masonic throne of the Lodge. There is but a very little goodwill, amiability and diligence required to make things pleasant in a circle like ours, where everybody is so well disposed to meet the W.M. of the time with affection and submission, and unless we are greatly mistaken, the qualities which we have a right to look forward to in the elect of our confidence, are not missing in him whom we this evening delight to honour, thus prognosticating a pleasant and happy year of office for all of us. (Cheers). We cannot, however, disguise from ourselves the fact that the possession of such unlimited power, for good or for evil, as is constitutionally vested in the W.M. of the Lodge may make of him a being quite different from what we thought him when he was yet only an aspirant to that high office. We trust, however, that he will not be unmindful of the fact that it is a "fierce light that beats upon a throne," that his every word and deed is watched and judged by the brethren, and that he will therefore pass through that ordeal with firmness and grace. He has every advantage given him by nature; he has youth, suavity of manners, ease of address, and kindness of heart, and whilst, therefore, we are thus gladly rendering him homage, we humbly wish him success and prosperity. The W.M. suitably replied, and gave the toast of the I.P.M., Bro. Ráth, who spoke as follows: Brethren,—You have done me too much honour in dwelling upon my short activity in the Lodge, and upon what you very indulgently call my merits. We have but few opportunities given us, beyond the periodically returning meetings, to see one another, and to exchange ideas, and very few are even then the moments allotted to anything but well worn routine work. A man like myself, naturally anxious to see moral good emanating from such a huge machinery as that of our Confederation, is not slow to seize upon every opportunity, if ever so slight, to throw out such sparks as will ignite the sacred flame of humanity latent in every heart, thereby to unite the brethren more by the instantaneous contagion of the sublime thought than by the clumsy instrument of the tongue, in such sentiment as will make them feel proud to belong to us. Yes, the good that Freemasonry might do in a thousand directions, if only initiated with modest beginnings, is incalculable. Who has done more to exemplify small beginnings than the Apostles of the Faith? And why should we, who hold the world like in a net, not be following in the same direction? We must either do our allotted duty right manfully or die—die the death of decay and oblivion, and the sooner we begin to bestir ourselves the better. The W.M. next gave the health of the P.M.'s, and this the I.P.M. acknowledged in the following terms:—It was a wise man who first said, "Speech is silvern, but silence is golden." I only hope that you will believe me when I assure you that I would very gladly have availed myself of your permission to carry this wise saying into practice on the present occasion, had not the turn of fortune's wheel placed me first among the P.M.'s. A friend of mine was in the habit of saying, "Here I am, in a state of betweenity." And so am I, for I find myself placed between two chairs—the one which just gave me up as a bad job, and the other, viz., the P.M.'s, in which I do not feel quite at home. I am as yet not sufficiently a P.M. to be able to sing the praises of this most coveted resting-place of ambition. There is, however, no rest for the wicked, and so I must perforce inflict a few minutes torture on your long-suffering ears. When Sir Robert Peel made his famous speech on the Bank Charter, he began, as everybody knows, by asking a question. He said, "What is a Pound?" I am inclined to follow the same tactics, and to ask what is a P.M.? Before, however, Sir Robert Peel had finished his speech he came to a most practical conclusion, inasmuch as he founded a place of worship and pilgrimage, before which kings and peoples, the wise and the foolish, the young and the old, all equally bend their knee. If you feel inclined to doubt this, you need only pay a visit to the Old Lady in Threadneedle-street, and you will see how fervently she is worshipped. I am afraid, however, that the answer to my own question will have quite a different sound, for is not a P.M. a satellite around the sun, or a sort of moon? And is not his existence all moonshine? However, brethren, moonshine or not, we must rest and be contented in whatever position we are placed, and if we succeed in reflecting, albeit in pale and soft silence, the shining virtues of the sun in the east, our place will always be an enviable one. P.M. Szulcewski, the founder of the Lodge, also responded, in glowing terms. Bro. Saegert, P.M. Wellington Lodge 548, and Bro. Taylor, from the United States, thanked the brethren for drinking their health, as visitors. The W.M., in giving the toast of the Officers, stated how proud he was in possessing such an excellent staff, and trusted they would support him well during his year of office. The Officers severally thanked the brethren, promising to do all in their power to promote the interests of the "Polish National Lodge." After the Tyler's toast, the brethren separated.

Ranelagh Lodge, No. 884.—On Tuesday, the 10th inst., the installation meeting of this Lodge was held at the Bell and Anchor Hotel, West Kensington Gardens. After the confirmation of the minutes, the ballot was taken for the admission of Sir C. W. Dilke, M.P. for Chelsea. The Lodge was then opened in the 2nd degree, and Bro. Josey passed. The W.M. immediately proceeded with the ceremony of installation. This, it is almost needless to state, was performed in that perfect manner for which Bro. Knowles is so noted, and has always marked his working during his year of office. The good judgment of the brethren in selecting such a worthy and efficient Master as Bro. Fisher was soon displayed in the admirable way in which he proceeded to invest his officers, as follows:—Bros. Baker S.W., Watson J.W., Thompson P.M. Treas., Worthington P.M. Sec., Middleton S.D., Shaw J.D., Warner I.G., Bryett D.C., Elkington S.S., Webb J.S. Sir C. W. Dilke was then initiated, and appeared greatly impressed by the eloquent manner in which the beautiful ceremony was delivered. The W.M. then, in the name of the Lodge, presented the I.P.M. with a gold Past Master's jewel of very artistic design. On the proposition of the I.P.M., the sum of ten guineas was voted to two of the Institutions. All business being ended, the Lodge adjourned to an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Millis P.M.

Wandsworth Lodge, No. 1044.—A meeting of this Lodge was held at the Spread Eagle Hotel, on Wednesday last. Among those present were the following:—Bros. P. Cooke W.M., J. G. Carter P.M., G. Howick P.M., F. H. Newens P.M., J. Kewney P.M., E. H. Boddy P.M., H. R. Jones S.W., W. A. Morgan J.W., J. Frost Secretary, W. Huntley I.G., A. N. Newens S.D., J. B. Walker J.D., J. J. Holland Wine Steward, and Bro. T. Steed Tyler. There was also the following visitors:—Bros. Dr. Hugh Mackintosh 4, G. W. Usil 1·6, E. Swanborough 1319, F. Mead 1420, and W. F. Pether 179. Bro. A. A. Denham was raised to the second degree, and Mr. Robert Walker was impressively initiated by Bro. Boddy P.M. The Lodge then proceeded to elect a W.M., Treasurer and Tyler for the ensuing year. Bro. H. R. Jones was unanimously elected W.M., and Bros. H. Wilson and S. Steed re-elected as Treasurer and Tyler respectively. Bro. P. Cooke W.M. said he should resign the chair with both regret and pleasure—regret, because he knew he had not had sufficient leisure to attend to his Masonic duties as he should have liked; and pleasure, because he knew that a very worthy successor would be found in Bro. Jones. Bro. Jones ably and feelingly replied. Upon the motion of Bro. Boddy, a jewel to the value of five guineas was unanimously accorded to Bro. Cooke, the retiring W.M. A banquet followed. "The Queen and Craft," and other Masonic toasts having been given, "The health of the Initiate" followed. Bro. R. Walker replied in a humorous speech. The Lodge was in mourning for Bro. Robert McRae, and it was decided that a letter of condolence be sent to his widow and family.

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 11th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present—Bros. E. Margrett W.M., A. Welch S.W., J. E. Danks S.D. acting J.W., W. P. Ivey P.M. Secretary, W. Ferguson acting S.D., W. W. Ridley D.C., Thomas Newman Steward, E. J. Blackwell I.G., W. Hemmings Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. Hurley and Egginton, and Bros. Pulley, Hawkes, Creed, Rose, Bailey, Hunt, Rolfe, Hilder, Howlett, Robinson, Simonds. Business—Minutes read and confirmed. Bro. Ferguson J.D. presented to the Lodge a handsome Tyler's sword, for which a vote of thanks was carried by acclamation. A letter to the I.P.M. of 414, Bro. Yetts, congratulating him on his recovery from sickness, and his reply were read. The Secretary was ordered to write to those brethren who were in arrears with their subscriptions, requiring immediate payment, after which the Lodge was closed according to ancient form.

Marquis of Dalhousie Lodge, No. 1159.—On the 16th inst., a meeting of this steadily progressing Lodge was held at Freemasons' Hall, under the presidency of the new and esteemed W.M., Bro. Henry J. Moxon, who was supported by the following officers:—Bros. Reeve S.W., C. Cheston J.W., Arthur Le Neve Foster S.D., Kelly J.D., Cama P.M. I.G., and Wood P.M. Sec. The Lodge having been opened according to ancient form, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for the admission of Bro. K. C. Krikorian, Dekran Lodge, 1014, Turkey, as a joining member, and it being unanimous in his favour, he was declared elected. Bro. Krikorian was then raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, and Bro. E. C. Cheston passed to that of a Fellow Craft, the W.M. rendering the ceremony in a perfect and impressive manner. The Lodge having been resumed to the first degree, the W.M. congratulated the brethren on the success of the last meeting, and alluded to the efficient manner in which the installation ceremony was worked by Bro. Wood P.M., dwelling at some length upon his energy and ability. The W.M. then briefly referred to his forthcoming Stewardship, as representing the Lodge at the ensuing Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, expressing his satisfaction with the support already given, and his anticipations with regard to further additions to his list. Hearty good wishes having been tendered by the visitors, and the business of the evening completed, the Lodge was closed in due form.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—This Lodge held its meeting at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday, the 13th inst. Present—Bros. Hewlett W.M., Crouch S.W., Lane J.W., Kent S.D., Townsend J.D., Simpson I.G., Bolton, Pearcy and A. W. Fenner. Lodge was opened in due form. The minutes of last meeting confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was excellently rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Fenner acting as candidate. The 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the lecture were worked by the W.M., assisted by the brethren. Bro. Hewlett, of Lodge 141, was unanimously elected an honorary member. Bro. Hewlett being requested to take the Preceptorship of the Lodge, declined doing so, but kindly agreed to become acting Preceptor until another brother was permanently elected to the office. Bro. Crouch was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. This being the first time of the W.M. occupying the chair of K.S., a vote of thanks was awarded him for the able manner he had fulfilled the duties of the same. Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

Royal Standard Lodge of Instruction, No. 1298.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Friday, the 13th of April, at the Castle Tavern, Holloway, N. Present—Bros. Sparrow W.M., Chant S.W., Agar J.W., Dickinson Sec., Eldridge Treas., Yeomans S.D., Rowe J.D., Humphries I.G.; also Bros. Mash, Coughtrey, Wright, Shackle, Hunter, Powell, Passingham, T. Call Preceptor, and other brethren. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous meeting confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and the ceremony of passing rehearsed, Bro. Powell being the candidate. The 1st and 4th sections were worked by the brethren, the 2nd by Bro. Dickinson, the 3rd by Bro. Shackle, and the 5th by Bro. Chant, Bro. Call putting the questions. The Lodge was closed down, and Bro. Chant elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Sparrow for so ably presiding as W.M. for the first time in the Lodge. The Lodge was then closed, and adjourned.

Wanderer's Lodge, No. 1604.—This flourishing Lodge, exclusively established for the purpose of diffusing Masonic knowledge amongst the military brethren stationed in London, met to celebrate their first anniversary on Tuesday, the 10th inst., at Freemason's Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. S. H. Meredith P.M. (in the absence of the W.M., who is stationed in Cork) opened the Lodge punctually at three o'clock, and in a very perfect and impressive manner raised three brethren, passed two, and initiated five candidates into the Order. Bro. Quartermaster Sergeant W. J. Parish was then presented to the Lodge. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, and he was duly installed into the chair by Bro. Meredith, who rendered the ceremony. He was ably assisted by Bro. C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P., who acted as D.C. On the admission of the brethren, the W.M. was saluted according to antient custom, and he appointed and invested his officers:—Batt. Serg. Maj. A. Brookson R.A. S.W., Cr. Serg. F. J. Wray Cold. Gds. J.W., T. H. Meredith I.P.M. and Treasurer, Rev. R. C. Halpin M.A. Chaplain, Qr.-Mr. Serg. R. J. Scott R.E. Sec., Geo. Boulton S.D., Cr. Serg. C. Fuller Cold. Gds. J.D., Serg. Maj. T. Ross Scots Gds. I.G., Serg. Maj. W. Gordon Scots Gds. D. of C., Corp. Maj. R. Hornblower 2nd Life Gds. A.D. of C., Qr.Mr. Serg. T. White A.S. Corps Steward, Reg. Drill Serg. W. J. Hancock Gren. Gds. Steward, Bomb. J. Lockland R.A. Tyler. Bros. W. H. Bird, Schoolmaster, R. T. Kenny Cold. Gds. and Serg. Maj. B. Barton A. H. Corps, were appointed members of the Reference Committee. The Lodge having been closed, the brethren sat down to a very recherche banquet and dessert, provided by Bro. Dawkins. The room presented an elegant appearance. The uniforms of the brethren were adorned with well-earned medals and orders, while several wore Provincial Grand clothing. The W.M., who ably presided, proposed the usual Loyal toasts, which were duly responded to. The health of the W.M. was proposed in a very excellent speech. Bro. Parish thanked the brethren for their kind expressions, and the hearty response given to the toast. He was fully sensible of the honour conferred on him in placing him in the chair, and he was deeply impressed with the responsibilities attached to the office. He would always have the interest of the Lodge at heart, and hoped, during his period of office, to give the members satisfaction. He was proud of the prosperous condition of the Lodge, which now numbered one hundred members, representing nearly every corps in H.M. service. He referred to the balance-sheet, which showed a balance of £36, after repaying a loan of £75, purchasing £52 worth of furniture, giving £11 to the Masonic charities, and paying Grand Lodge dues, &c., to the amount of £124. He hoped he might show as good a balance at the expiration of his year of office. This he would endeavour to do by strict economy. In conclusion, he hoped that peace and harmony would reign supreme among them. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Initiates. Twelve brethren had been received amongst them since the 6th of July last, and he made some very excellent remarks on the duties incumbent on them as Masons. The toast of the Visitors followed, and these brethren, in returning thanks for the toast, paid great compliments to the admirable manner in which Bro. Meredith rendered the ceremony, which included that of the installation. The toast of the Installing Master was given and responded to. Bro. Brookson, in a very humourous and talented manner, responded to the toast of the Officers. After the toast of the Ladies had been given, that of the Tyler brought a very agreeable and harmonious evening to a close. Lieut. General Brownrigg C.B., Provincial Grand Master of Surrey, expressed his pleasure and satisfaction of the working of the Lodge, and honoured the brethren by accepting an honorary membership. The Visitors were Bro. John Hervey G.S., Lieut. Gen. J. S. Brownrigg P.G.M. for Surrey, Capt. Cole P.M., C. J. F. Burmeister P.M. Salisbury Lodge, Sergeant Major Cotterell, and several Provincial Grand Officers and Past Masters.

Visitations of Provincial Grand Chapter of Lanarkshire.—On Thursday, 12th April, Comp. F. A. Barrow, P.G. Superintendent of Lanarkshire, accompanied by Comps. J. Mitchell P.G.J., Jas. Balfour P.G. Scribe E., G. W. Wheeler P.G. Scribe N., T. Halket P.G.T., G. MacDonald P.G. 3rd S., and J. M. Oliver P.G.S.B., paid a visit to Chapter 50. The Chapter was opened by the M.E Z., Comp. Wm. Bell, who was ably assisted by Comps. J. Lonttit H., Colin McKenzie J., F. Morrison S.E., P. Agnew T., J. Leeds, R. Trainer and J. Wright Sojourners. The P.G.S.E. reported that they had found all the books admirably kept, and the Chapter in good working order. The P.G. Superintendent said that, not only in his official capacity, but also as an old P.Z. of 50, he was glad to find that his Mother Chapter was continuing to work so satisfactorily. Like many other bodies, it had had its vicissitudes, but it had surmounted them, and if, during the past year, they had had but few exaltations, if the quality of their candidates was considered, he thought they should not repine; still, he was glad to find that, under Comp. Bell, this year would show a large increase in membership, and he trusted, indeed, in the quality of the material, for that, after all, was the test of true prosperity. Comp. Bell thanked the P.G.S., and the deputation for their visit, as well as for the kind words spoken; they were the more valuable coming from the source they did, for they all knew there was not a better working Mason, either in the Craft or Arch, than Comp. Barrow. He was glad to see him at the head of the Red, and if hard work in the Province was deserving of recognition, he should also be at the head of the Blue—a position he yet hoped to see him occupy. Comp. Barrow said he was quite satisfied with the honours he had obtained, and had resigned his office of D.P.G.M. of the Province that he might devote more of his time to the Arch and the other high degrees of Masonry. Comp. J. M. Oliver, the only member of the deputation not already an honorary member of 50, was then affiliated, and the deputation withdrew. A Mark Lodge was thereafter opened, and C. MacKenzie J. conferred that degree on Bro. J. Higgins, M.M. of Lodge 73. On Friday, the 13th, Comp. Barrow, with his officers, visited the Commercial Chapter No. 79. In the absence of Comp. D. Lamb 1st Principal, the Chapter was opened by his Deputy, Comp. J. Munro, Comps. J. Duthie P.Z. of 69 as H., A. Brodie J., J. M. Oliver Scribe E., R. Reid T., with C. Mackenzie, R. Trainer, and Capt. Duncan as Sojourners. The P.G.S.E. reported the state of the books as being faultless. Comp. Barrow congratulated the Comps. on getting this clear bill of health, but it was what he expected from what he knew of Comp. Oliver as an office-bearer in P.G.C.; and although he was sorry for the absence of the 1st Principal, still while he had so good a Deputy as Comp. Munro, whose work in the Commercial Lodge was well known, the Chapter would not suffer much. They had only latterly been re-constituted, and he believed that Comp. Munro had done much, not only to get the Chapter re-opened, but also to secure its prosperity when open. Comp. Munro thanked the P.G. Superintendent for his kind remarks; it was true he had taken some interest in the Chapter, but if they had known beforehand how little assistance they should get from the old members, they might have hesitated; but, thanks to the deputation, and especially Comps. Duthie and Wheeler, they had never wanted assistance when there was work to be done, and he thought they now stood in a very proud position. He thanked the P.G.S. and his officers for their visit, and their kind expressions towards himself and the Chapter. After the deputation retired, Comp. Duthie opened a Mark Lodge, and conferred that degree in his usual able style. On Tuesday, the Superintendent and his officers visited the St. Andrew Chapter, No. 69, and highly eulogised the working of Comp. T. M. Campbell and his officers. The Chapter had been in a low state, but since Comp. Campbell had again assumed the 1st Principal's chair, their success had been very marked, proving that good work will surely raise the Order and secure members. On Wednesday, the Shamrock and Thistle, No. 87, was visited, and Comp. George Muir its Z. was complimented on the progress the Chapter had made. There had been 19 exaltations last year, and the present one promises to be equally successful. There was a good attendance of members and visitors. Patrick Chapter, 113, was visited on Wednesday, the 5th, and the deputation was received by Comp. J. Halket Z. The examination of the books was satisfactory, but the attendance of the members was but small. This is the more to be regretted, as Comp. Halket, P.G. Treas., its Z., is one of the best working Arch Masons in the Province.

A complimentary soirée Dansante will be held at the Manor Rooms, Mare-street, Hackney, on Wednesday next, under the auspices of Bro. Hadley Prestage. The large ball room will be elegantly decorated for the occasion, and Payne's band will be in attendance. Tickets may be had at the office, Amhurst-road, Hackney, E. Prices as follows:—Gentlemen's, five shillings each; Ladies', three shillings and sixpence; double tickets, seven shillings. We trust Bro. Prestage will obtain the amount of support he so richly deserves.

THE MASONIC CEREMONIAL AT STRATFORD-ON-AVON.

THE Masonic ceremony at Stratford-on-Avon on Monday, was worthy of the occasion and the Craft. Lord Leigh is justly popular in the Province he has ruled for so many years with such ability. Moreover, he is Lord-Lieutenant of the County of Warwickshire. There was therefore, a two-fold propriety in his presiding at so interesting a ceremonial. All the arrangements were carried out most efficiently, and we must congratulate our brethren of Warwickshire on the success of the day's proceedings. As previously announced, the brethren met in considerable force at the Corn Exchange at the hour of 1 p.m., the officers of Shakespeare Lodge, No. 284, Warwick, very appropriately presiding. The Masonic contingent having arrived from Birmingham, the Lodge was opened by Bro. S. E. Smith in the usual manner, shortly after which the Mayor was received and presented the mallet. Provincial Grand Lodge was then admitted with the usual formalities. When the roll had been called, a collection in aid of the Building Fund of the Memorial Buildings was made, and a considerable sum was realised. Provincial Grand Lodge then adjourned, and the procession was formed. A posse of police led the way, followed by two Tylers with drawn swords. Then followed the 1st Administrative Battalion of the Warwickshire Rifle Volunteers, preceded by their band, and then the invited guests not members of the Fraternity, marching two and two. Brethren unattached to any of the provincial Lodges followed next in order, and then the several Lodges of Warwickshire in numerical order, commencing with the junior Lodge. Next to these was the Provincial Tyler, and then, between two Stewards, four Masters of Lodges bearing corn, wine, oil, and salt, followed by the members of Provincial Grand Lodge in their order of precedence, but juniores priores, Lord Leigh as P.G.M., preceded by the P.G. Sword-bearer, between two Stewards, and supported by the P.G.S.D. and a P.G. Tyler, closing the procession. On arriving at the site, which is on the margin of the Avon, and close to the church where Shakespeare lies, the brethren divided left and right for the purpose of enabling Lord Leigh to advance to the north-east corner, where lay the foundation-stone. Here his Lordship and the Provincial Grand Officers and officiating brethren, having taken up their several stations, the Mayor of Stratford, in the name of the Shakespeare Memorial Association, addressed to him a few hearty words of welcome. The Provincial Grand Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. J. M. Beaumont having invoked the Divine blessing, then addressed the meeting, playfully suggesting, in the course of his remarks, that Shakespeare must have been himself a Freemason. All Freemasons keep their secrets, and Shakespeare nowhere mentions Freemasonry in his works. The usual preliminary forms having been observed, Lord Leigh addressed the assemblage according to ancient custom, and then called upon the several officiating brethren to fulfil their duties. These were faithfully discharged accordingly, and then the Dep. Prov. G. Master having presented the mallet, his Lordship completed the ceremony, and the corner stone of the new building was laid. Lord Leigh then added a few words as to the circumstances which had led him to undertake this duty. He referred to previous celebrations in connection with the illustrious poet and dramatist whom they were that day assembled to honour, explained the nature of the buildings about to be erected, and the financial condition of the association, and in calling on Bro. Creswick to deliver an address, mentioned incidentally that the mallet with which he had laid the stone was made of a piece of oak cut from a beam in Shakespeare's own house, and had been most kindly presented by the trustees of the house; he considered it would be a most interesting relic to be preserved for generations to come in the Museum of the Shakespeare Theatre.

Bro. Creswick, on rising, was received with great cordiality. In the course of his address, he expressed his belief that Masons could not have been engaged in a more profitable work than in laying the first stone of this truly Masonic temple, in which, when ready for its legitimate uses, order and harmony would prevail, instruction, alternating with amusement and labour, being cheered and lightened by the prospect of refreshment, all tending to that refinement, moral elevation, and high intellectual culture, which it is the aim and desire of Freemasonry to promote. He considered the work commenced that day was in every way worthy of the place and him in whose honour it was intended. He further expressed his belief that, as a memorial theatre implies a school of dramatic art, the stigma under which England rests at the present moment of having no dramatic schools, will be swept away, and the new theatre will thus form the incentive and nucleus of such schools, the influence of which will be beneficially felt through all time. Bro. Creswick having concluded his address amid the heartiest applause, the National Anthem (Masonic version) was sung, and the procession having been re-formed, returned to the Corn Exchange, where Prov. Grand Lodge was closed in the usual manner. A collation followed, at which the Mayor presided, and was supported by Lord and Lady Leigh, the Earl of Yarmouth, Sir J. E. Eardley Wilmot, Mr. Creswick, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Martin, and other gentlemen and ladies.

LODGE ORION IN THE WEST, No. 415.

A REFERENCE to Grand Lodge Calendar will show that the oldest Lodge in the District of Bombay is Lodge Orion in the West, No. 415, which received its Warrant of Constitution in the year 1833. The Standard (Bombay) for last month contains the first part of an elaborate history of this Masonic body, many of the particulars being of so interesting a character that we have thought it worth while to reproduce, in outline, some of the incidents in its career, as well as some peculiarities in its earlier constitution.

We have said this Lodge figures in our G.L. Calendar as having been constituted in the year 1833, but we must go back another decade of years in order to obtain a complete summary of its history. On the 8th April 1823, then, an application, dated Poona, 29th March 1823, was presented to Bro. Captain Peile, Provincial Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Coromandel, for a warrant of Constitution for Lodge Orion in the West, No. 415, in the registry of the Provincial Grand Lodge of the said Coast, to be held in the regiment of Bombay Artillery. This application was signed by Lieut. Col. F. H. Pierce, Royal Arch Companion; Captain F. F. Schuyler, Royal Arch Companion; Lieut. G. R. Lyons, Royal Arch Companion; Captain W. G. White, 4th degree; Major R. Macintosh, 4th degree; and Captain J. Lawrie, 2nd degree. The presentation was made to Captain Peile, at a meeting of Lodge Perfect Unanimity, No. 1, on Coast Coromandel, now No. 150 on Grand Lodge Roll, and then, as now, held at Madras, he being at the time W.M. of the Lodge. As the Provincial Grand Master was present, the application was at once handed to him and favourably discussed. It was only signed by six brethren, and was returned, therefore, for an additional signature, and also for a recommendation by the Masters of three regular Lodges. In due time a recommendation was obtained from Lodge St. John, No. 13, Secunderabad, and transmitted to the Provincial Grand Lodge, together with a letter from the Commandant of the Bombay Artillery conveying his approbation for a Lodge to be held in the regiment. Two further signatures were appended to the petition, namely, those of Lieut. J. C. Peyton, and Surgeon F. C. Trash, both of No. 361, E.C. (now extinct). There is evidence that Lodge Perfect Unanimity backed up the application, but the name of the third recommending Lodge is not given. On the 14th August 1823, the Prov. Grand Secretary intimated to the petitioning brethren that "a warrant of constitution had that day been despatched, for the assembling, holding, and opening a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons in the Bombay Regiment of Artillery, under the style and title of 'Orion in the West,' No. 15, in the register of the Provincial Grand Lodge of the Coast of Coromandel." The Warrant was signed by the Acting Provincial G.M., Bro. George Lys, the officers named thereon being Bros. Robert Macintosh W.M., Lyons S.W., White J.W. Accompanying the Warrant, were the Bye-laws, duly confirmed by the Provincial Grand Master, together with a copy of the Bye-laws of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and the Act of Union between the two Grand Lodges of England. The Lodge met on 15th November 1823, in the mess-room of the second troop of the Bombay Horse Artillery, at Poona, "for the purpose of installing the Warrant of the Lodge as 'Orion in the West,' No. 15, in the registry," &c., &c. There was present on this occasion Bros. Major R. Macintosh, Commanding Horse Artillery, St. John's, No. 13 E.C., Lieut.-Colonel Fortunatus H. Pierce, R.A., No. 361 E.C., Surgeon F. C. Trash, R.A., No. 361 E.C., and Visitors—Bros. T. Tiernan, T. Cain, J. Hughston, R. E. Willock, J. Clifford, No. 361 E.C., and T. Torr, No. 94 I.C., held at Kaira in H.M.'s 17th Dragoons.

The Bye-laws contain some noteworthy points. The meetings are to be held on the first and third Monday in each month, but only one of them is to be devoted to initiating, passing or raising. Those who are absent without explanation are to be admonished from the chair for the first offence, to have their non-attendance noted on the proceedings for the second offence, punished at the discretion of the Lodge for the third offence, while for the fourth successive absence, the name is to be struck off the roll of members. Article 4 lays down "that, at the first sound of the Worshipful Master's Hiram, always to be repeated by his Wardens, there shall be a general silence," the penalty for non-compliance being a public reprimand. Under Article 6, no member under the degree of M.M. was allowed to vote except for a new Master, new Treasurer, a candidate, the expulsion of a member, or on points connected with the rules and regulations of the Lodge. By Article 8, the election of W.M. and Treasurer is fixed to take place half yearly, at the Lodges preceding the Festivals of the Saints John respectively, and the installation at the festival next evening after the election. By Article 9, a P.M. who has served the regular period is not required to take the chair, or hold any office, unless there be not a sufficient number of M.M.'s to hold the Lodge, but no M.M. may refuse except for reasons that may be deemed satisfactory. In the absence of the W.M. and P.M., the S.W. to take the chair, the J.W. to act as S.W., and the S.W. to appoint a brother to act as J.W. By Article 15, those only who are initiated in the Lodge, or belong to the regiment, to be admitted members, all others to be honorary members. By Article 17, "every Mason desirous of becoming a member or honorary member," to produce a certificate from his former Lodge or, be "well recommended by a member being a Master Mason." Having undergone a strict examination, "he shall then be balloted for, and if admitted, he shall pay the sum of two gold mohurs," about £2 17s, "to the Lodge fund. Article 18 provides that for a "Certificate of a member's rank in Masonry there shall be paid two gold mohurs to the Lodge Fund, and one rupee to the Tyler. Article 19, regulates the admission of candidates who must be proposed by members who are M.M.'s, producing the applications, and declarations of the candidates "agreeable to form (vide Preston)." "If, after due inquiry into his moral character and circumstances," he is admitted at the next regular meeting, the candidate to pay three gold mohurs (about £4 5s 6d) to the Lodge fund and one rupee to the Tyler. By Article 20, an E.A. to attend "two regular meetings," before he can be passed to the second degree, and a F.C. "for the like period, before he can be raised to the sublime degree." The fee for passing is two, and for raising three, gold mohurs. No brother to be promoted till, after due examination, he has been found qualified. Article 21, provides as penalty for non-attendance, after summons and non-payment of Lodge dues, erasure from the Lodge list. By Article 23, a Mason residing in the vicinity of the Lodge, is not to visit the Lodge twice, "without becoming a member or honorary member," except for reasons approved on ballot. "No visitor, however skilled in Masonry, shall be admitted into the Lodge, unless he is personally known to, or well vouched and recommended by one of the members of the Lodge then present, and with the consent of all the brethren then present." By Article 25 a monthly sum of five rupees (10s) was fixed to be paid by every brother of the Lodge present to defray the current expenses.

We omit, for the present, all comments on the foregoing Laws, and pass to the historical details. A just tribute of praise is awarded to Bro. Macintosh, the first W.M., for his zeal in the cause of Masonry, and also to the brethren of the 17th Dragoons for attending from their quarters at Kaira at the consecration of the Lodge. The first Initiate was William Fleetwood, Captain in the Artillery, who received the degree the evening the Lodge was opened, Bros. Trash and Cain officiating as S.W. and J.W. respectively in the absence of the brethren named in the Warrant. On the same occasion, Captain Thomas Jane (?) Groundwater, Lieut. John Sackville Leeson, of the Artillery, and Captain W. Donald Robertson, 4th Reg. N.I., were proposed as candidates. These, with Lieut.-Col. W. Gilbert, Native Infantry, were balloted for at the meeting on the 1st December, a ballot being also taken for Bros. Turnan, Cain, and Willock, "as respectable Masons, for admission as brethren visitors until further resolutions." On the next day, the four candidates, named above, were initiated, Bro. Lieut.-Col. Gilbert leaving for England the same evening. It was voted at this Lodge that "all resolutions of the Lodge involving pecuniary expense to the brethren beyond the customary entertainments on the Festivals of St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist be defrayed by those composing the majority who vote for such." On the 24th of the same month, Bro. Macintosh was re-elected W.M. Bro. Captain Groundwater, Initiate, was chosen by a majority the first Treasurer and Secretary of the Lodge. On the 27th Bro. Macintosh was installed, and Bros. Trash and White appointed S.W. and J.W. respectively. On the 24th Jan. 1824, Serjeant Wm. Clinch and Bombardier George Cormack were admitted into the Lodge as serving brethren. On this occasion it was resolved that one-third of all fees should be devoted to such charity as might afterwards be determined, and that a Charitable Fund be organised and kept by the Treasurer. It was further determined that 50 rupees annually be sent, on St. John the Evangelist's Day, to the "Bombay Education Society," to continue during the period the Lodge may work.

In the description of the brethren who signed the application for the warrant, our readers must have noticed that two were stated to have been of the "4th degree." The writer in the Standard presumes this to have been the same as the present Installed Master's Degree. At all events, it was regularly worked in a similar way to the other degrees, for it is found that Bro. Groundwater, the second Initiate in the Lodge, together with Bro. Iredell, of the 8th N.I., a member of Lodge "Esperanza," Cape of Good Hope, who had subsequently joined it, were examined in the Third Degree, and passed into the chair of the Fourth Degree, on the 24th April 1824. It is also noticed that the Lodge Warrant was deemed sufficient for working the Royal Arch in accordance with the practice in the Lodge attached to the 17th Dragoons, and also in Lodge No. 88, I.C., then working in Poona. In this opinion they were further confirmed by the Constitutions of Freemasonry—Ahiman-Rezon—published by Bro. Harper, with the authority of the Duke of Atholl, the "Laed Laws and Regulations for the Government of Royal Arch Chapters," and also by Art. XI. of the Act of Union, which states that "pure Freemasonry consists of three degrees, and no more—viz., those of the Entered Apprentice, the Fellow Craft, and the Master Mason, including the Supreme Order of the Holy Royal Arch." It is also mentioned that no brother was advanced to a higher degree until he had been regularly proposed, seconded, and balloted for. On the 24th June of the same year, Bro. Captain Robert Mansfield, Madras Cavalry, of Lodge No. 456 E.C., was admitted a member of the Lodge. On the 24th of the month, Bro. Macintosh was re-elected W.M., and appointed Bro. White as S.W., and Bro. Groundwater as J.W. The first Deacons were also appointed at this meeting, namely, Bro. Peyton S.D. and Bro. Iredell J.D.

UNITED GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

THE Annual Installation Meeting of Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday last at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, and was very numerously attended by London and Provincial brethren. Grand Lodge was opened by the Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, who was supported by the Deputy Grand Master and the other Grand Officers, there being likewise a strong muster of Past Grand Officers on the dais. After the usual formal business, the Pro Grand Master, in the absence of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, announced that he had been re-appointed Pro Grand Master, Lord Skelmersdale Deputy Grand Master, and that the other Grand Officers for the ensuing year were as follows:—

H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught ...	Senior Grand Warden.
H.R.H. Prince Leopold	Junior Grand Warden.
The Rev. Charles W. Arnold	Grand Chaplains.
The Rev. W. Onslow.....
Samuel Tomkins	Grand Treasurer.
Æneas J. McIntyre, Q.C.	Grand Registrar.
John Hervey	Grand Secretary.
H. G. Buss	Assistant Grand Secretary.
Ernst Emil Wendt.....	Grand Secretary for German Correspondence.
Capt. N. G. Philips	Senior Grand Deacons.
Peter de Lande Long
H. C. Tombs	Junior Grand Deacons.
E. J. Morris (Swansea).....
Frederick Pepys Cockerell	Grand Superintendent of Works.
Sir A. W. Woods, Garter, P.G.W....	Grand Director of Ceremonies.
F. Robinson P.G.S.	Assistant Grand Director of Ceremonies.
G. Toller, jun. (Leicester)	Grand Sword Bearer.
C. E. Willing 30°	Grand Organist.
S. G. Foxall	Grand Pursuivant.
W. T. Howe	Assistant Grand Pursuivant.
C. B Payne	Grand Tyler.

and the following as Grand Stewards:—C. E. Smith 58, A. J. Bristow 14, Charles O. Barker 29, Ralph Gooding 1, Edward Parker Deacon 2, Henry Anthony Bennett 4, Major Horace Scriven 5, Christopher Jas. F. Fawcett 6, John Phillip Probert 8, Thomas Adair Masey 21, Charles Martin 23, Arthur Horsenden Henry 26, George Henry Savage 46, Capt. John Wordsworth 60, Watson Surr 91, Alexander Bell 99, Thos. Donnithorne 197, Fred. Hastings Goldney 259.

In the absence of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught and H.R.H. Prince Leopold, the Earl of Donoughmore was invested with the collar and badge of the office of S.G.W. and the Hon. William Warren Vernon with those of J.G.W. The Pro Grand Master announced that Bro. E. P. Albert had been appointed by His Royal Highness to the rank of Past G. Pars. and that he would be entitled to wear the clothing of that rank. At the moment of closing Grand Lodge, the Earl of Carnarvon regretted his official duties would prevent his staying with the brethren to the Festival. After the banquet which followed, the Deputy Grand Master, who occupied the chair, proposed the toast of the Queen. Little commendation was required from him in introducing it; Her Majesty is our Patroness, and always acts up to our watchword, Charity. Witness the late accident in South Wales, when she displayed the greatest anxiety for the sufferers. The next toast was that of H.R.H. the Princess of Wales, and the other members of the Royal Family. With this the noble Chairman coupled that of H.R.H. the Most Worshipful Grand Master. He took this liberty, not because he wished to shorten the time occupied in giving the toasts, but because the present was the first occasion they were enabled to mention members of the Royal Family other than the Prince of Wales as officers of Grand Lodge. H.R.H. very much regretted that he was not with them that evening, but as his journey abroad is for the benefit of his health, he hoped the brethren would not regret his absence. The Princess is also abroad, and he hoped her journey would be for her good also. He considered it a great day for Freemasonry when they had members of the Royal Family occupying the three chairs in Grand Lodge. Their being absent was not their fault. The Duke of Connaught was in Ireland, and the ill-health of Prince Leopold kept him away, but both had Freemasonry at heart. The Pro. Grand Master was next given. All must regret his absence from the Festival, no better Mason is to be found in England. He has Freemasonry thoroughly at heart, and ever wishes it success. He (Lord Skelmersdale) would not dilate on his virtues, as they were sufficiently well known to all present. Lord De Tabley proposed the health of the Chairman. He felt it presumption on his part to refer to the D.G.M., but was sure the honour of the toast would justify it. Lord Skelmersdale thanked the brethren most heartily for the compliment. He felt great pleasure and also pain in presiding; he had made up his mind for once to have nothing to say, he hoped the brethren would forgive any faults, as his sudden call to the chair had found him quite unprepared. He congratulated the Craft on their prosperity, it is flourishing and increasing throughout the country. In his own Province he was glad to say it was becoming almost unwieldly. Their grand gift to the Lifeboat Institution would be an everlasting record of the gratitude of Freemasons. He was happy to be able to inform them that the committee would soon report as to the places selected for the boats. He hoped their Charity would increase in like proportion to their numbers, for without Charity Masonry was worth nothing. With the next toast, that of the Sister Grand Lodges, he coupled the name of Bro. Colonel Laurie, Grand Master of Nova Scotia, who he was pleased to see present. Bro. Laurie, who said he was an old English Mason, and had gone abroad in course of business, at the request of a large number of friends, had accepted the position of G.M. Their chairman had spoken of the increase of Freemasonry at home; he could say the same with respect to the colonies. He had seen in one State of America as many as 25,000 Masons assemble to dedicate a Masonic Temple. He could assure the brethren that in America the Lodges which were warranted from England ever clung to the old country. They preferred the old English number in place of the one they occupied on the roll of their respective Grand Lodges. Bro. W. W. B. Beach M.P., Prov. G.M. of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, proposed the Grand Wardens and other Grand Officers past and present. Two Royal Princes, he said, have been appointed to the position of Grand Wardens, he hoped the high office to which they have been appointed would be an incentive to them to work harder in Masonry; he hoped the outer world, especially those who were continually attacking us, would be convinced, by the connection we now have with the Royal Family, that there is nothing mischievous in the Society. In the unfortunate absence of the two Princes, he would couple the toast with the name of the Earl of Donoughmore Past G.W. Such is his enthusiasm for Masonry, that in addition to his connection with the Sister Isle, he presides with marked ability over a Lodge in the metropolis. The Earl of Donoughmore in replying said, he found it rather difficult to say anything now, he felt very much like the old year, but was proud of being able to resign his office in favour of such brethren as those now appointed. He was a very young Past Grand Officer, and doubted whether the number of brethren who were present, bearing that rank would care about leaving their ideas in his hands, but on behalf of them all, he would thank the brethren. The toast of the Prov. Grand Masters was next given from the chair. The Pro G.M. looked upon them as the generals of the Order, without them the Grand Master would be powerless, they bring the whole system of Freemasonry together. He had intended to have coupled the name of the Senior Prov. G.M. with the toast, but found he was not among them, he would therefore call upon the Junior one (Bro. Montague Guest), who had only been appointed to the Mastership of Dorsetshire during the past few days. Brother Guest was sure several Prov. G.M.'s present were better able than he to respond to the toast. So far as he could see, the duties of the office were to promote peace and harmony, and this would ever be his desire. If all the work was as pleasant as that in which he was then engaged, he felt sure that he should find the position of Provincial Grand Master an extremely pleasant one. Bro. the Rev. C. J. Martyn P.G.C., Deputy Prov. G.M. of Suffolk, proposed the Masonic Charities. He hoped the coming Festivals of the Schools would be as successful as that of the Benevolent Institution, where the splendid amount of £12,000 was realised. Bro. Binckes (R.M.I.B.) replied. He considered the brethren were justified in pressing the claims of the Charities on every occasion, notwithstanding the remarks of some who considered they were mentioned too often. The Grand Stewards of the year was next given, and was responded to by Bro. Felix Sumner Knyvett, the President, after which the brethren dispersed, many of them joining the ladies in the Temple, where a concert was performed under the conductorship of Bros. W. Kuhe and W. Ganz P.G. Organists.

THE SECTARIAN QUESTION IN PRUSSIA.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In 1845, during a visit to England by the Crown Prince of Prussia, Protector of Freemasonry in Prussia, a motion was brought forward in the G.L. of England to vote an address to the said exalted personage. My esteemed friend, the late Bro. Henry Faudel, opposed the motion, on the ground of the refusal of admission by Prussian Lodges to Masons of the Hebrew faith. Bro. Faudel was, however, prevailed upon to suffer the motion to pass unanimously: but the Grand Master, the Earl of Zetland, assured the G.L. that he would endeavour to induce the Grand Lodges in Prussia to bring Prussian Freemasonry into harmony with the principle of universality. When the Earl of Zetland found that his efforts were fruitless, he caused, in 1846, the withdrawal of the English representative in Prussia, and the Prussian representative from Grand Lodge, England.

While these efforts were being made by the G.M. of England, and, I may add, by the Grand Orient of France and other Grand Lodges in Europe and America, a letter, signed Sit Lux appeared in the Freemasons' Quarterly Review. The writer began by stating that the subject he was about to discuss would require a series of papers; and, at the conclusion, he promised to continue the series. The subject implied danger to the Craft, because the Catholic and Protestant clergy were opposed to Freemasonry. The writer referred to an article by Bro. Oliver about a crusade against Masonry by the Anglo-Indian clergy. The Bishop of Exeter, and Mr. Blunt in England, were also hostile to the brotherhood, all which threatening trouble Sit Lux attributed to the heresy of the Duke of Sussex and other Grand Officers, who sanctioned alterations in the Masonic ritual in 1815 or thereabouts, when the St. Johns were removed from the Lodge work, &c. The writer quoted a long paragraph from a speech made "by our distinguished Bro. Dr. Oliver," showing that Masonry was full of Christian types, &c., &c. Sit Lux then went on after the following strain:—

"If the original plan of Freemasonry is a Christian institution, as it undoubtedly is, it is no wonder that the Jews, when they acquire influence in any Lodge, should become dissenters from the original plan, and use that influence to endeavour to withdraw from the lectures every reference to Christianity. But it is an abused attempt. Can any man possessing common sense suppose that, if every reference to the sublime plan of human redemption were to be withdrawn from our "pure and unsullied system," it would be any longer called a system of light. Impossible! It would then become a system of the purest darkness—of that darkness which once covered all the nations of earth; but, in a greater degree of grossness than the once favoured people of God, which was only dispelled by the rising of the Sun of Righteousness. No wonder that the Grand Lodge of Prussia—if they are aware of the innovations above alluded to—should feel jealous about admitting among them those who have been exerting themselves to introduce such innovations. The Jews should remember that it is not many years since they were first admitted into our Order in England, but were looked upon as aliens and outcasts, both in civil and religious society. If, then, we admit them to an equality with ourselves, it is very ungracious on their part to aim at ascendency. However, they are not so much to blame as the Grand Master and his Officers, who preside over the Order, who are morally responsible to the fraternity for preservation of the ancient landmarks which are committed to their care, and whether they have taken an active or passive part in the innovations which have been introduced during the late Grand Mastership of thirty years, their responsibility is the same."

The Masonic system advocated by Sit Lux is in full blast in American Lodges. Jews are initiated here under the solemn assurance by the W.M. "on the word and honour of a gentleman and Mason" that there is nothing in the institution to interfere with any one's religion or political opinions, and that men of all religions enjoy the same privileges, etc., but it is all a sham; no Israelite can take the office of W.M. without having to use phrases which go against his grain. Our Masons are in harmony with the teachings of the old saintly bigots, viz., "It is a virtue to be and deceive when the good of the church can be promoted thereby." At first our Masonic luminaries defended their inconsistency under the plea of ancient landmarks, which amounts to this, "if our ancient brethren were unjust, and resorted to lying in behalf of the church, we must therefore continue to lie and be unjust." But since the "ancient landmark," superstition has been exploded, they answer with an indignant air, "Do you expect that we are going to eliminate all allusions to the truth of Christianity from our Lodge work." Now, let me distinctly state, that I regard the American Masonic practice as more offensive and blameworthy than that of the Prussians; the misconduct of the latter is open and above board, but that of the former is simply Jesuitical. And now I will go back to Sit Lux.

In 1845 the late C. W. Moore G.S. of Massachusetts, called my attention to that very Sit Lux letter, but he could not inform me the real name of its author. Recently I had occasion to borrow several volumes of the Freemasons' Quarterly Review from the Masonic Library, at the Temple, when I came across the very same Sit Lux letter, and after a careful perusal of it, notwithstanding the writer refers to "our distinguished brother, Dr. Oliver," I came to the conclusion that Dr. Oliver himself was the author of the Sit Lux letter.

One of the replies to Sit Lux in the Freemasons' Quarterly Review in 1846, was by the Rev. Bro. Slade D.D. Bro. Slade was a genuine-hearted Freemason, and his defence of unsectarian Freemasonry will be as welcome and seasonable now as it was then. The Prussian Grand Lodge, which still sticks to Zinnendorf's corrupt Masonic system, will doubtless be compelled to yield ere long to the pressure brought against it from without as well as within. It will doubtless ere long consent to modify its constitution by removing the Jewish disabilities. But that is not enough. It will have to adapt its ritual to the standard of Masonic universality; otherwise they will have in Prussia a similar kind of a Masonic mongrel to what we have in America. Bro. Slade's letter, which I will send you, and which I hope will be reprinted in your valuable journal, will show our deluded bigots in Prussia, as well as in America, the honest opinion as to the true aim and intent of Freemasonry of an English clergyman of thirty-two years ago, and I have no doubt that there are many distinguished clerical brethren in England now who would cheerfully endorse Bro. Slade's opinion on Freemasonry.

Fraternally and respectfully yours,

Boston, U.S., 13th April 1877. JACOB NORTON.

THE RECENT ELECTION FOR THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I really am very sorry my harmless letter, inserted in your issue of the 14th instant, should have given so much offence to our Rev. Bro. Dr. Ace. I trust he will pardon me for saying that, in his very natural anxiety to defend the wisdom of his own proposition, he has hurriedly described my remarks as irrelevant and vituperative, when, in very truth, they were neither the one nor the other.

Permit me to say I have not had the presumption to assert that Dr. Ace's proposition was unwise. My words were "I do not think the adoption of such a rule as the former" (that is, Dr. Ace) "proposes would be wise, and for this reason." The gist of my reason was as follows:—Here is a very deserving case, emanating from the Province of Devon, which commands a certain number of votes, and likewise known to, and recommended by, certain influential brethren who have at their disposal certain other votes. Yet, after six consecutive attempts to obtain admission into the School, it is found the lad has secured only 381 votes, or less than a third of the number again and again secured at a single trial. My inference is that those who have had charge of the case have either wofully misreckoned or misdirected their efforts, and if so, the adoption of such a rule would not tend to improve matters, and, therefore, would be unwise.

In the second paragraph of his letter, Dr. Ace shifts his ground. Hitherto he has described my opinion as an assertion, now he says, "the writer proceeds to give a reason not, I venture to think, very conclusively for his assertion." At the outset the "assertion" I did not make was no "proof," but here the "reason" for this assertion is not conclusive. I venture to think I convict our Rev. Bro. of a want of logical tact. I fully concede that my opinion may be wrong; but why this confusion between an "assertion" I never made, and a "reason" which is not conclusive. I will further ask him how a reason which is only not conclusive can be irrevelant.

Again, "it is an easy reply to any case of distress that there is something wrong, but that is neither charitable nor relieving." In the next paragraph, my reason is "a vote of censure on the Devonshire brethren, as I suspect, very undeservedly." Can Dr. Ace have read the whole of my letter? I said, towards the end of it, "I know there have been other cases emanating from Devonshire, and these may have commanded, and, no doubt, justly commanded most of the support, directly or indirectly, of the Province." Surely, these words, if they have any meaning at all, do actually furnish the only explanation which is possible of the apparent indifference of the Province to this particular case. I fancy, indeed, this explanation is not so uncomplimentary as the suggestion contained in Dr. Ace's letter, published in your columns last October. He then wrote, "Why the Province of Devon has not taken up this deserving case, I know not; except it be that the widowed mother has removed from Devonshire to Glebe Cottage, Stanstead, Sudbury, Suffolk." That is, Devon forgot all about a distressing and deserving case, when the widowed mother removed to another Province.

Will Dr. Ace kindly point out where I have laid it down that "no distressing case is to be placed on the list of the Committee, unless the parties to the recommendation are prepared to carry their candidate successfully." I merely reiterated a suggestion, I fancy I have seen in the columns of your Journal, "that brethren should not permit an applicant's name to be placed on the list of candidates unless they are prepared to support him (or her, as the case may be) thoroughly." I need hardly point out to our reverend and learned brother that there is a wide distinction between carrying a candidate successfully and supporting him thoroughly. It is in no man's power to command success, but in every one's to work for it.

I should be trespassing unduly on your valuable space if I followed Dr. Ace through all the points he has raised in his letter of last week. I fully agree with him, that "it will not add to our reputation for Masonic charity if it be known as a matter of fact that a poor orphan is not to be aided on the merits of his case, but solely on account of his being the protégé of the influential and wealthy." But may I ask what this has to do with the question I have raised? If I have said anything at all in this connection—as American writers phrase it—it has been in reproach of brethren—generally and apart from all considerations of influence or wealth—for not supporting by their votes a distressing case they think worthy of recommending. I hold that a brother who backs a case incurs a certain amount of responsibility; and, I ask, has this responsibility been fulfilled in this particular instance? If so, how is it the boy obtained only 381 votes at six, and 550 votes at seven attempts? I confess I do not think that Dr. Aoe's proposal is calculated to strengthen this sense of responsibility.

I will add, for the purpose of showing that what I have written has been written without animus, that the little voting ability at my disposal last October was employed in behalf of this very case.

I cannot see that the revelation of my name will make the slightest difference in the merits or demerits of my argument, and, therefore, I still subscribe myself,

Fraternally yours,

FRATER LONDINENSIS.

EXPULSION OF MEMBERS BY THE GRAND ORIENT OF ITALY.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Having seen, in your issue of 24th of March, a notice to the effect that certain brethren had been deprived of the privileges of the Order by the G.O. of Rome for having gone over to that of Naples, I beg to enclose you translation of two extracts which appear in a pamphlet published by the latter G.O. in 1875. Should you like the entire work, I shall endeavour to get you a copy.

From my own personal experience of Italian Masonry, which extended over a year, I could not fail to see a deal of jealousy and antagonism existing between the different G.O.'s, each claiming the supremacy. There is one in Rome, one in Naples, and one in Palermo working at present. I believe those of Turin and Florence went under that of Rome. Prior to affiliating in Palermo, I wrote to Bro. J. Hervey, G.S. of England, to assure myself of the body being a recognised one, and he replied that the G.O. of Palermo was recognised by the G.L. of England. The legality of the formation of the G.O. of Rome I should consider very doubtful. It certainly sprang directly or indirectly from those of Turin and Florence, and the records of that of Naples are much more ancient than either of them. A sort of amalgamation was formed between the G.O. of Palermo and Naples at the beginning of last year, each retaining distinct powers and holding annual meetings at their respective cities, in which members of each S.C. meet, frame laws and transact the general business of the Order.

The fact of Rome being the capital of Italy would not legalise any spurious body of miscalled Masons into a bond fide G.O., and on that ground I am inclined to think their strongest claim will rest. Most of the Lodges in Italy have put themselves on the roll at Rome, but I firmly believe, merely on the grounds above stated, i.e., Rome is the capital. It would certainly be preferable to have one G.O., and that in the capital, but "Italia Unita" does not mean half as much as the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and here we have three G. Lodges. For my own part, I am firmly convinced that both Naples and Palermo are far more ancient than the roots from which Rome sprang. I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

W. T. ALLAN, 18°.

TRANSLATIONS.

"The G.O. of Naples has ever been celebrated in the historical records of Freemasons as the first and most orthodox amongst the G.O.'s of Europe. It claims origin from the most remote times in which Pythagoras flourished in Magna Grecia. The Masons of Naples, not exclusively those of Sicily, have always been in every age the most jealous custodians of the "Most Ancient rite of Misraim," which, in its first series, comprises almost the whole of the degrees which compose the A.A.R."—Rapon Manuel de l'Initie, p. 253.

"The Masonic rite of Misraim was propagated in France under the supervision of the Neapolitan brethren, not before the 3rd lustre of the present century. On the 24th December 1813, power was granted to Bro. Joly, signed by President Changeur, G. Chancellor Beobers and G. Seal Bearer Lasalle, to propagate the whole four series in France."—Idem.

THE SHAKESPEARE MEMORIAL AT STRATFORD-ON-AVON.

ON Monday the corner stone of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre about to be erected at Stratford-on-Avon was laid, with Masonic ceremonial, by Lord Leigh, Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire, in the presence of a very large assemblage of Freemasons, ladies, and visitors from various parts of the country. The inhabitants of Stratford-on-Avon had made ample preparation for the interesting ceremony which was to grace the anniversary of the birthday of the great dramatic poet. The streets were gaily decorated with flags, banners, and evergreens, triumphal arches being erected in conspicuous positions. In addition, expressions of hearty welcome were displayed, and the church bells pealed throughout the day. From an early hour visitors began to arrive, from Birmingham, Warwick, Leamington, and other places in the neighbourhood, and long before the hour announced for the commencement of the official proceedings the streets were well lined with holiday makers. The memorial building is to be erected on the banks of the Avon, at the lower end of the town, on a site generously presented by Mr. C. E. Flower. When completed it will be an imposing and handsome structure, embracing theatre, museum, reading-room, and library. As will be seen, however, in reference to the proceedings reported below, the Memorial Association have not yet sufficient funds to warrant them in even commencing the whole of the work. The theatre itself is first to be completed, and the association hope, in the course of a short time, to receive such additional pecuniary support as will enable them to carry out the entire design of the architects, Messrs. Dodgshun and Unsworth, Buckingham-street, Strand, London. The architecture will combine the Early English and Elizabethan styles, parts being timbered, in order to be in keeping with the ancient buildings of Stratford, of the period in which Shakespeare lived. The wall will be of red brick, with stone dressings, the roof being of green slates. The interior will be decorated with carved panels, illustrative of scenes from Shakespeare's plays. It may incidentally be mentioned that it is intended to build a museum in a more ornate style, but as this is a work of the future, description will be premature. The proceedings commenced at mid-day, with the annual meeting of the Shakespeare Memorial Association, which was held in the Town Hall; Mr. C. E. Flower presiding. The annual report stated that the land for the site of the memorial buildings and gardens was conveyed to the association by Mr. C. E. Flower on the 1st July. The five architects whose sketch designs were selected from those sent in for the first competition submitted more complete plans for the second competition, on the 23rd of May, and the design sent in by Messrs. Dodshun and Unsworth being accepted, they were appointed architects to the association. As the amount subscribed had not yet been sufficient to allow of the whole building being undertaken, the Council decided upon commencing the theatre only, leaving the library and picture gallery to be erected as soon as the funds would allow. The tender of Messrs. Horseman and Co. for the foundations was accepted, and these had now been completed. The appeal made last year to the managers of theatres for a "Shakespeare night," only met with a response from two. The Council learned with extreme regret that many managers had been deterred from giving their aid by a statement which had been industriously circulated that the Shakespeare Memorial was a scheme got up for the benefit of the promoters. The subscriptions to the present date amounted to nearly £8,000. The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, remarked that the Council had had many difficulties to overcome, and expected more, which they would overcome in the same manner. (Hear, hear). Eight tenders had been received for the second contract, including the main portion of the theatre, and the Council had accepted that of Messrs. Lascelles, of London, amounting to £9,256. The Mayor of Stratford (Dr. Nason) seconded the motion, and it was carried. The Council having been re-elected, a vote of thanks was passed to the Mayor and Corporation of Stratford for allowing the use of the room for the meetings of the association, and the proceedings concluded with a vote of thanks to the Chairman. The Masonic part of the ceremony then commenced. Lodge was opened in the Town Hall at 1.15, the officers of the Shakespeare Lodge, No. 284, conducting the proceedings, prior to the advent of the Provincial Grand Lodge. Shortly after one o'clock the special train from Birmingham arrived, bringing so large a contingent of members of the Craft that the hall was quickly crowded to a most inconvenient degree. Brother S. E. Smith then duly opened Lodge, and in a few minutes Dr. Nason (Mayor of Stratford) attended to present for use in the ceremony of the day a mallet, made from a piece of oak, forming a portion of a beam in Shakespeare's old house, which had been kindly presented for the occasion by the trustees. Brother Smith suitably acknowledged the gift, and Provincial Grand Lodge was next received in due form. At this time there were present Lord Leigh P.G.M. of Warwickshire; Lieut.-Colonel Machen D. Prov. G.M., Brothers J. Pursall and E. Worrall Prov. G. Wardens, many other officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge, Masters and members of Lodges of the Province of Warwickshire, visitors, &c. A collection having been made in aid of the memorial funds, a procession was formed, and a start for the site was effected. First marched a body of police, then the band of the Warwickshire Volunteers, and next the Freemasons in proper order, each Lodge being headed by its banner. Finally came the Provincial Grand Lodge, in Masonic order, according to rank; the procession, which was of great length, being closed by a Tyler. Thousands of people had assembled in the streets to witness the pageant, and a very large number had already taken up positions around the stone which was to be laid. On arriving at the site the Freemasons were received by a guard of honour of the Stratford Rifle Volunteers, and the Mayor and Corporation of Stratford also came forward to greet them.

All being assembled within the enclosure, the Mayor, Dr. Nason, in the name of the burgesses of Stratford-on-Avon, and on behalf of the Shakespeare Memorial Association, gave a sincere welcome to Lord Leigh, and the Freemasons present. He felt sure that Lord Leigh would bring to bear upon the duty he was about to perform all the grace and dignity of the ritual of Freemasonry and the splendour which personally and officially he commanded. He was also certain that the Masonic body would wish God speed to the work that their Right Worship ul Provincial Grand Master that day so auspiciously commenced. (Hear, hear.) The Rev. F. M. Beaumont, Provincial Grand Chaplain, then delivered an address. He said they were assembled upon a day of the highest interest connected with the memory of him who had made the town celebrated throughout the world. By a happy chance, the 23rd day of April was connected with the memory of St. George, the patron saint of old England, whilst on that date also William Shakespeare was born in the town, and there, on the anniversary of the same day, the 23rd of April 1616, he was gathered to his rest. He believed he could say that more than mere English interest was felt in the day's proceedings, for if there was one thing more than another which brought together English speaking people throughout the world it was the knowledge that they all shared the inheritance of being the fellow countrymen of Shakespeare. They were erecting, not only a memorial to Shakespeare, but a building which might serve for the highest aims of refinement and education in the town which Shakespeare loved so well. The building, on the site upon which they were gathered, was to be not only a library and a museum, but first and foremost a theatre, where they might from time to time witness representations by the highest artists of the country of the dramas which Shakespeare had so lavishly given to the world. He held that the drama, rightly considered, had a great tendency to educate and refine and elevate the mind. There was a day when he, as minister of the Church of England, would scarcely have dared to take part in such proceedings as laying the foundation stone of a theatre. He alluded to the degrading state of the drama fifty years ago, and thanked God that it was now changed. He believed now that the production of a fine drama, not only in the metropolis, but in the country towns, would draw people from many questionable amusements, such as music halls, &c. People sometimes said that they had no proof that Shakespeare was a Freemason. He contended that they had, because in his (Shakespeare's) plays it was exceedingly difficult to find anything whatever about Freemasonry. (Laughter.) The unenlightened people whom he saw around him were aware that Freemasons guarded their secrets most religiously, and he contended, therefore, that they had an evidence that Shakespeare was a Brother. Beyond this, some of the great heroes of Shakespeare's tragedies were Brothers, such as Henry VI., and Cardinal Wolsey, who in their times were Freemasons of England. Again, Freemasonry recognised no sectarian difference, and Shakespeare, they found, was far above any such contemptible feeling; for it was a question to this day whether he was a Roman Catholic or a Protestant. (Laughter.) He contended, therefore, that they, as Freemasons, might fairly claim to do honour and reverence to Shakespeare. In conclusion, he appealed to those present to aid the Memorial Association by increased subscriptions, and mentioned the fact that the Freemasons that day had contributed 50 guineas towards the building fund. Lord Leigh then announced that they were about to lay a memorial stone to the world's greatest poet; and the Provincial Grand Chaplain having invoked a blessing, the P.G. Superintendent of Works presented the plans for the approval of the Provincial Grand Master. The Provincial Grand Secretary (Bro. Beech) next read a copy of the inscription, which was placed in a phial. This stated the date and by whom the stone was laid, together with the names of the chief officials taking part in the work. The P.G. Treasurer (Bro. Collins), having placed a number of coins in another phial, and several newspapers in a third, the whole were deposited in a cavity under the stone, and the ceremony was proceeded with in the usual form, the band meanwhile playing "God bless the Prince of Wales." On the conclusion of the laying of the stone, Lord Leigh, according to ancient custom, declared that the stone had been laid in accordance with ancient Masonic ceremony, and he prayed that God would prosper the work for the promotion of Godliness, harmony, and brotherly love. Next the stone was proved in the usual manner by officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge; and, finally, Lord Leigh strewed wheat upon the stone, and poured wine and oil upon it, as emblems of plenty, cheerfulness, and prosperity. Salt was also thrown upon the stone, as an emblem of wisdom, fidelity, and perpetuity. The Provincial Grand Master next mounted the stone, and explained that when first asked to conduct the ceremony, he had felt some diffidence in undertaking to do so, as he considered that there were others who had more claims to the honour. It having, however, been represented to him that the council were very anxious to have the stone laid with Masonic ceremony, and he having been Provincial Grand Master of the Freemasons of Warwickshire, Shakespeare's own county, for the long period of twenty-five years, he felt that he could not very well decline, and it was a great satisfaction to him to find that he was assisted by so many distinguished members of the Craft who possessed high literary qualifications. He next mentioned that their Brother Creswick, who thirteen years ago, on that very day, on the occasion of the Tercentenary Festival, took a very prominent part in the proceedings, would deliver an address to them. He congratulated the Council and the Memorial Association upon the commencement of the good work, and reminded them of an effort made in 1864 to gain funds for the erection of a Shakespeare statue. That, however, fell through. For the satisfaction of some people who could not see how a theatre could be supported in Stratford, he might mention that the building was not intended only as a theatre, but it was hoped that a museum and a free library might be attached to it. He had no doubt that the public of Stratford would derive very great benefit from such institutions, for the library, reading-room, and the gardens it was intended should be free to the public except for twenty days in the year. (Applause.) Bro. Creswick, who was received with loud applause, first expressed the pleasure it gave him to be present, and alluded to the reverence he had for the poet, whose works it had been the happy privilege of his life to honour, etc. They had assembled to erect a Temple to Genius and to Art. Such work belonged essentially to the highest culture and the most advanced civilisation. The hero-worship of nations began with the deification of physical force—it culminated in the recognition of intellectual beauty. First the soldier—last the poet—such is the order of appreciation; and Masons could not be engaged in any nobler work than in laying the first stone of that truly Masonic temple, wherein order and harmony would prevail—instruction alternating with amusement, and pleasant labour with cheering refreshment—all tending to social refinement, to moral elevation, and to the highest intellectual culture. (Applause). It was befitting that there should be a Shakespearean theatre in the town which derived its glory from association with the poet's name. The links which bound Shakespeare to Stratford-on-Avon were singularly close. There he drew his first breath and his last. There he mastered that "little Latin and less Greek," by means of which he created the classic poet of Greece and Rome, and gave life to the very bones of the greatest heroes. There also he first acquired that knowledge of history which enabled him to depict so vividly the stormy, turbulent days of this nation's early struggles; and there, amidst the pastoral and pure, he grew up—the wonderful, the witty, and the wise. Above all, it was there that he stamped his genius on those creations which were the priceless heritage of all time. In gaining their end that day they inevitably paved the way to another. They began the temple, but necessarily there must follow provision for the purpose to which it was to be dedicated. A memorial theatre implied a school of dramatic art, and the need for this had become imperative. Loving regard for the great dramatist was a national sentiment; the absence of any due representation of his dramas was a national disgrace. In the absence of schools they would look in vain for scholarly dramatic art. He accepted their work that day as a happy augury that ere long the stigma would be swept away, and that the Memorial Theatre would form the incentive and nucleus of schools of dramatic art, the influence of which would be beneficially felt throughout all time. This was the becoming expression of our love and reverence for Shakespeare. To him and to that art was dedicated that temple—sacred to his name and fame, sacred to the wonders he created, sacred to the pursuit he loved and followed. Might it endure to remotest times, a memorial of his greatness and their love, an incentive to the highest histrionic excellence, and medium for maintaining in its purity the proudest drama of the world—a drama "the applause, delight and wonder of"—mankind. (Applause.) Mr. C. E. Flower briefly acknowledged the kindness of Bro. Creswick in delivering the address; and the proceedings were brought to a termination by the singing of the Masonic National Anthem. The brethren reformed procession, and marched back to the Town Hall, where the Provincial Grand Lodge was duly closed and the assembly dismissed. At the luncheon, which was held in a large marquée, erected in the gardens of New Place, the health of the Queen having been duly honoured, the chairman proposed "The Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family." Having called upon the Freemasons to do especial honour to the toast of The Right Worshipful Grand Master of England, the Prince of Wales, and the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master of Oxfordshire, Prince Leopold, he said he might announce that Prince Leopold had been invited to be present, and he felt sure that his Royal Highness deeply regretted that he was prevented accepting the invitation. He felt himself justified, however, in announcing that he had in his possession documents which would fully lead them to hope that the day was not very distant when they would have associated with them in that undertaking at least one member of the Royal Family. (Applause.) He felt certain that they would give a right loyal welcome in Stratford to any member of the Royal Family who would come amongst them. They could not do too much honour to that wonderful man whose birthday they were celebrating. Shakespeare had raised himself to the highest pinnacle of fame, and "wherever the bright sun of heaven shall shine, his honour and the greatness of his name shall be." This was followed by the toasts of "The Immortal Memory of Shakespeare," proposed by Sir Eardley Wilmot; "Success to the Shakespeare Memorial," proposed by Mr. Tom Taylor, and acknowledged by Mr. C. E. Flower; "The Drama" proposed by Mr. Theodore Martin, &c., &c.—Birmingham Daily Post.

DEDICATION OF A MASONIC HALL AT EXETER.

MONDAY last was an epoch in the Masonic history of Exeter. That ancient city contains the oldest Masonic Lodge in the Province, and may thus be deemed to have been the first home of the brethren in the county. The growth of the fraternity has not, however, been so rapid there as in Plymouth and its vicinity. At present Exeter contains three Craft Lodges—St. John the Baptist, No. 39; St. George, No. 112; and Semper Fidelis, No. 1254; one Chapter, St. George, No. 112; one Mark Lodge, St. George, No. 15; one Knights Templar Preceptory, the Union, or Rougemont; one Rose Croix Chapter, the Coryton and Rougemont. Hitherto there had been no building in the city owned by the Masonic body, the Masonic meetings being generally held at Tucker's Hall, Fore-street-hill, hired premises. Of late the inconvenience of that arrangement had been felt by the Exeter brethren, and a Committee of nine members, three from each of the Craft Lodges, was appointed, with Bro. S. Jones as the Hon. Sec. and Treasurer, to endeavour to provide a remedy. To build an entire new Hall, in a suitable manner, in a central part of the city, it was found would incur a larger outlay than was contemplated. It was, therefore, determined to purchase one of those houses, numerous in the city, once the residences of the most prominent citizens and merchants of Exeter, before country residences became so secure, and travelling so easy as at present. The choice fell upon a fine old house in Gandy-street, centrally situated, and once a principal street in the city, and still boasting of considerable importance, where houses may now be seen that were erected under the régime of Henry VIII., of notorious and ecclesiastical reformatory memory, and fine specimens of the style returning to popularity in Queen Anne's time, and erected in that reign. Gandy-street is believed to have derived the name it has borne for several centuries from an ancient Devonshire family, a member of which was for many years the respected vicar of St. Andrew's Plymouth, where a striking life-size effigy of him now stands within the communion rails. The house selected by the Masons stands within a few doors of the offices of the Prov. Grand Sec., Bro. W. G. Rogers, solicitor, P.P.G.S.W. It is of four storeys, and contained eighteen rooms. Its early history is obscure, but the house is known to have been occupied at the beginning of the seventeenth century by the Brake family, then prominent in the city, and one of whom, Thomas Brake, has left several memorials behind of its having been used as a city banquetting hall. At more recent periods it has been occupied by the Fortescue, Granger, Sanders, and Snow families, all leading citizens in their times, and one of whom, Admiral Granger, has left behind many stirring anecdotes of his eccentricity in the memories of aged citizens. The premises under their new owners have undergone a thorough renovation, and been converted to their requirements. While the general features remain, the rooms have been re-arranged, and in some instances thrown together, to form larger ones. A grand old moulded oak frame front, filled with pargetting, that was street back from the seet in a small court, and is believed to have been erected about the latter end of the reign of Henry VII., or the beginning of that of Henry VIII., has been covered over with rough cast, it being in the way of the new arrangements. A handsome modern door with Masonic emblems now gives entrance to the premises, and a wide glazed vestibule leads to the entrance hall of the house, on each side of which committee-rooms, a voting-room, lavatory, and other offices fill up the ground floor. A grand wide staircase—the old one—leads to the first floor. Against the wall of the first landing hangs a handsome presentation portrait of the late Rev. Dr. Carwithen, a great light in Devonshire Masonry in former days, and who for many years filled the office of Deputy Prov. Grand Master under the rule of the late Earl Fortescue P.G.M. The picture is nine feet by five, and gives a rather over life-size of the doctor. It is pronounced a striking likeness, and, as a painting, possesses considerable merit. On the first floor is the principal Lodge room, an apartment 33 by 20 ft., and 14 ft. high. It is fitted for comfortably seating seventy brethren, and can accommodate 150 on an emergency. It is for the use of the local lodges, and was not intended to provide for the meetings of the Provincial Grand Lodge. The Lodge room door is provided with a specially designed Masonic knocker, and its walls, doors, and windows are so constructed as to prevent all egress of sound, a powerful organ being inaudible outside the premises, which are situated in the immediate proximity of several other buildings. The ventilation of the rooms is carefully arranged, on the syphon principle. The gas fittings are Masonic designs specially cast, and the gas laid down to the candlesticks, while complete provision is made for regulating and lowering the gas during the ceremonies. The grate is an Abbotsford Armstrong ventilator, and the fireplace is provided with a steel shutter for purposes known to the initiated. The brethren are seated around the room on a raised platform, with velvet padded seats. The organ is by Walker, of London, and is fixed in a recess. It was brought from the old Masonic Hall in Fore-street-hill, has been remodelled, had two new stops with improved bellows and swell added, and is a very effective chamber instrument. The walls have been carefully prepared with Keene's cement on selenitic ground, after the patent of General Scott R.E., and have been painted with delicate salmon tints, on which appropriate Masonic devices have been stencilled in carmine. A rich gold cornice adorns the upper part of the walls, also a coloured Dado ornament just above the backs of the seats. The ceiling is a light blue, with the sacred emblem in the centre, surrounded by a five-pointed star, from which radiate gold stars. The carpet is a three-thread Brussels, specially designed with Craft and Royal Arch devices, and has been woven at Kidderminster, where, it is said, the best "Brussels" carpetings are now manufactured. The chimney-piece, a handsome design, is in Corsham stone, with the motto of the Order inscribed along its front. The windows are fitted with double sashes, glazed with brilliant cut devices and border, and fitted with concealed shutters. Adjacent to the principal Lodge room are corresponding, reception, and preparing rooms. On the second floor is a commodious store room for storing the extra furniture, fittings, and paraphernalia of the various branches of the Order, with adjoining closets for similar use. On the third floor is a handsomely fitted-up Lodge room, corresponding in character with the larger Lodge room, and appropriated solely for the use of the Mark and Chivalric Degrees of the Order, all the banners and shields of the Knight's Templar and of the Rose Croix covering its walls. Above the third floor is an attic story, used for various minor purposes. The servants' wing of the old house has been converted into a roomy and convenient residence for the attendant in charge of the premises. At present, that office is filled by the widow of Bro. Gregory, the late P.G. Tyler. A neat garden at the back of the premises opens by a side door also into Gandy-street. That street, not long since, contained two curious relics of antiquity—at its St. Paul's-street end—the famous Jans Cross, and at the other the base of a granite cross that was removed from the centre of the old Exe Bridge. With the innovations of modern improvements the City Council has removed both.

A special Provincial Grand Lodge was convened on Monday, for the purpose of dedicating the premises to the purposes of Freemasonry. The members of the Lodge assembled in the afternoon in the small room of the Victoria Hall, where the Lodge was opened by R.W. Bro. the Rev. J. Huyshe M.A., Prov. G.M. and Past G. Chap., supported by R.W. Bro. G. W. Rogers D. Prov. G.M. pro tem, W. Bros. J. E. Curtois S.G.W., Dr. J. Harper J.G.W., the P.G. Chaplain, I. Latimer Prov. G. Sec. pro tem, C. Godstchalk, Prov. G.J.D., J. A. Orchard, Prov. G.D.C., F. Day Prov. G.D.C., F. Day Prov. G.R., C. Stribling, J. P. Phillips, G. Evans, J. Watson, and F. J. Pratt, Prov. G. Stewards.

After the usual ceremonies the Lodge was adjourned, and the brethren proceeded in procession in full regalia, with banners displayed, to the new Masonic Hall. There the Lodge was re-opened, and the building dedicated in solemn form to the uses of Freemasonry. Through the absence of R.W. Bro. L. P. Metham, from illness, the oration was given by W. Bro. W. G. Rogers, the D. Prov. G.M. pro tem. The address of the W. Bro. was an able disquisition upon the antiquity and present position of Freemasonry, which displayed considerable research. On the antiquity of the Order, Bro. Rogers argued with much force that the attempts recently made at giving Masonry a modern origin were futile. Masonry in former times, he urged, was cultivated with more rigid attention to its training than at present. Brethren were then more closely tested after longer periods of probation before they were allowed to proceed in taking the degrees. At the close of the dedication service the brethren returned in procession to the Victoria Hall, where the Lodge was closed with the usual formula. In the evening a large party of the brethren dined together at the New London Hotel.—Western Morning News.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THERE have been evidences this week that the enforced activity of the House of Lords which always marks the early portion of the Session is drawing to a close. Necessarily the War Question has occupied a leading place in the consideration of their lordships, and on each occasion of the House sitting, either some question relating thereto has been asked and answered, or the Foreign Secretary of State has voluntarily furnished some important information. In addition, a question was raised as to the service of Hobart Pasha in the Turkish Navy, the gallant Admiral being likewise borne on our own Navy List. This, of course, was duly explained by the official representative of the Admiralty. On Monday, the South African Bill received a second reading, the Earl of Carnarvon, who moved the question, and the Earl of Kimberley and Earl Grey, both ex-Colonial Secretaries, taking part in the debate. The same evening the Mutiny and Marine Mutiny Bills were read a second time, and, the Standing Orders having been suspended, were then read a third time and passed.

In the House of Commons, the War in the East has received its due share of attention, and Mr. E. Jenkins has been urgent as to certain atrocities in Bulgaria. Great progress, however, has been made with the real business of the year. On Friday, a motion was brought forward by Mr. Hanbury-Tracy, on the subject of Parliamentary Reporting. A long debate ensued, and, in the result, Mr. Hanbury-Tracy was defeated by 152 to 128 votes. On Monday, the debate on the second reading of the Customs and Inland Revenue Bill afforded the House an opportunity of criticising the financial measures of the Government. Mr. Childers led the way, and Mr. Smith, the Financial Secretary to the Treasury, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer defended the measures of Ministers. The Bill was ultimately read a second time. A Public Works Loan (Consolidated Fund) Bill was introduced by Mr. Sclater-Booth, and discussed at some length, and, in the end, received its first reading. On Tuesday, Mr. Shaw introduced a motion on the Home Rule question, which engaged the attention of the House for the greater part of the evening. A considerable number of English and Irish members took part in the debate, among them being Mr. I. Butt, Mr. Fawcett, Sir M. Hicks Beach, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and Mr. Gladstone. On a division, the motion was emphatically rejected by 417 to 67 votes, the latter being composed of thirteen English liberals and fifty-four Irish members. On Wednesday, Mr. Hopwood moved the second reading of the Summary Prosecutions Bill. An attempt to adjourn the debate was defeated by 219 to 165, and, on the main question, the numbers were 228 for and 164 against the second reading. The Bill was therefore lost.

The Queen, with the Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold, returned to Windsor on Saturday. On Sunday, the Prime Minister, the Earl of Beaconsfield, left his residence in Whitehall-gardens for Windsor. On reaching the station a royal carriage was in waiting to convey his lordship to the Castle, where he had a very lengthened interview with Her Majesty, after which he left and returned to town. On Tuesday, the Duchess of Edinburgh reached Windsor Castle on a visit to Her Majesty. The Prince of Wales and the Duke have reached Naples, while the Princess of Wales is at Athens on a visit to her brother, King George of Greece.

The rescue of five of the miners imprisoned in the colliery near Pontypridd has been achieved. The men and boy were utterly exhausted, and were carried to bank. They have since been most kindly attended, and, it is reported, are gradually regaining their strength. The Queen graciously telegraphed to have all the news communicated to her, and has since expressed her wish that the Albert medal, which was instituted some years since for the purpose of rewarding those who save life at sea, should now be extended to those who have saved life on land, and that the gallant fellows to whose exertions the unfortunate five who were imprisoned owe, under Providence, their lives, should be the first recipients under the new regulations. Her Majesty has also contributed £50 towards the fund now being raised to remunerate the rescuers, and relieve the rescued. This fund is now attaining proportions worthy of the case, over £1000 having already been received at the Mansion House alone, while other funds are being raised; so there is no doubt the poor and the gallant fellows together will be well remunerated—in the one case for their sufferings, in the other for their daring and successful courage.

On Saturday Lord Bury presided at the sixty-eighth anniversary festival of the Artists' Benevolent Fund, which was held, as usual, at the Freemasons' Tavern. In the course of his speech, proposing the toast of the evening, the chairman stated that there were fifty-three widows and fourteen orphans on the fund, who received among them the sum of £1,125 in annuities, and that since its establishment there had been distributed among the widows and orphans of deceased artists no less a sum than £38,182 10s. Subsequently the Secretary announced that the list of subscriptions amounted to £600, including one hundred guineas from the Queen.

The same day, at Willis's Rooms, St. James's, Sir J. M. Hogg, M.P., Chairman of the Metropolitan Board of Works, gave his annual dinner to the members and officers of the Board. A number of distinguished guests were invited to be present, among them being Mr. Gathorne Hardy (Secretary of State for War), the Lord Chancellor, the Marquis of Hertford, Lord Chamberlain, Lord John Manners, the Lord Mayor, Mr. Sheriff East, Admiral Sir John Hay, and Colonel Lloyd-Lindsay, M.P. The Lord Chancellor, in an eloquent speech, proposed the health of the Chairman, who responded very cordially, while the toast of the officers of the Board was acknowledged by Sir Joseph Bazalgette, C.B.

On Tuesday the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress gave a banquet, at the Mansion House, to the bankers and merchants of the City of London. About 250 ladies and gentlemen were present, including the Earl of Jersey, Viscount Midleton, Mr. G. J. Goschen, M.P. and Mrs. Goschen, Mr. Childers, M.P. and Mrs. Childers, the Deputy-Governor of the Bank of England and Mrs. Birch, Sir H. Havelock, M.P., Mr. Ashbury, M.P., and others. The Earl of Jersey responded for the House of Lords, Mr. Goschen for the House of Commons, and Mr. Birch, Deputy Governor of the Bank of England, for the merchants and bankers of London. An excellent selection of vocal and instrumental music was performed during the evening.

On Wednesday next, the First Great Summer Show at the Royal Horticultural Gardens, South Kensington, will be graced by the presence of Her Majesty, and it is expected that the Princess Louise (Marchioness of Lorne), the Princess Beatrice, the Duke and Duchess of Teck, and the Marquis of Lorne will accompany her. Lord Aberdare, the President of the Society, the Vice-Presidents, and other officials, will receive the Royal party, and will conduct them round the exhibition. The Council, in commemoration of this auspicious event, will present gold, silver, and bronze medals to the different exhibitors, according to their respective merits.

We are just about entering on the season of Art Exhibitions. On Saturday, both the Society and the Institute of Painters in Water Colours held their private views, while on Saturday next will be held the grand annual banquet of the members of the Royal Academy. Other exhibitions are likewise open, so that London will, as usual, be well furnished with this class of attraction during the height of the season.

The terrible calamity of war has at length overtaken the East of Europe. It was hoping against hope to expect that the Czar, having mobilised his troops, would dismiss them to their homes without endeavouring to secure some return for his expense and trouble. Still there were many who believed in the pacific intentions of Russia, and that she had no intention of going to war, if war were avoidable. The last shadow of hope, however, has departed from us. The Czar has issued his manifesto or Declaration of War, and an address to certain of his officers. He has inspected his troops at Kischeneff, and already detachments of Russian soldiers have invaded the Province of Roumania, while the main body of the army is advancing nearer to the frontier of Turkey. On the other hand, the Turks are believed to be actively organising their defence. It is said the forces of the latter, along the line of the Danube, muster little short of 180,000. As regards position, these enjoy many natural advantages. There is the strong and difficult Danube in front. There are the Balkans behind. Several first class fortresses exist, which have already earned for themselves a great name in the many Russo-Turkish wars of this century, such as Widden, Silistria, Varna, and others. The Turkish fleet under Hobart Pacha is reported to be in magnificent condition, and will, no doubt, play a leading part in the terrible events about to happen. In Asia, movements of Russian troops are reported. It is said they have invaded Armenia, and that the celebrated fortress of Kars, which played so important a part in the war of 1854-6, is the object of their attack. The Montenegrins are about to renew their attacks, while the Miridites who were expected to have given the Turks some trouble are said to have evacuated their positions. Great alarm is said to prevail in Roumania. Indeed, all kinds of rumours are flying about, all more or less portentous. It is said that Austria contemplates the mobilization of her army, that the British Fleet will anchor off Constantinople, that an Italian squadron will sail for Salonica, and that in the event of Servia again being seized with warlike desires, the principality will be occupied by Austrian troops. We must wait many days before any of these rumours can be verified or falsified, or, indeed, before anything authentic can be expected to reach us. Meanwhile, all our Government can do is to watch closely the progress of events, and see that our honour, and our interests are not imperilled. It will be noted that Cabinet Councils are frequently held and, indeed, we believe the country generally reposes the utmost confidence in the ministry, and will implicitly trust the Earl of Derby, our Foreign Secretary, to protect the important destinies which come more immediately under his care.

We must remind our readers that Saturday next is fixed for the amateur dramatic performance at the Opera Comique, in aid of the funds of our Boys' and Girls' Schools. The Prince of Wales is expected to honour the performance with his presence, and we trust there will be an attendance of the Craft and their lady friends worthy of the occasion. Those who may wish to procure tickets should apply to "Acting Manager," 33 Golden-square. It must be borne in mind that our respected Bro. J. B. Monckton, the President of the Board of General Purposes, has guaranteed a hundred guineas to each Institution, and it will be the duty of the Craft to see that the fulfilment of such a task is in no wise a burden to him. We trust the house will be full to overflowing, not only for the sake of our two Institutions, but likewise because it will be the very best compliment which Craftsmen can pay to the gifted lady who will enact the principal part in the performance.

We have received a letter from a West Yorkshire Bro. complaining of a comment of ours in our article of last week, on the recent Election to the Boys' School. We are sorry we cannot compliment our correspondent on the tone of his communication. Had we not known, indeed, that it emanated from a Bro. we must have described it as intemperate, or more fitly still, perhaps, as both impertinent and dictatorial. Under the circumstances, however, we discuss it in a fraternal spirit. The comment objected to is the following:—"We have further to ask why brethren will go through the farce of putting a boy's name on the list of candidates when they can only obtain for him two votes, at his one and only chance of admission? This was the case of Sam Woodhouse." With every respect for the deeply injured feelings of our West Yorkshire brother, we submit, with all humility, that this our comment was a very natural one. We are necessarily indebted to the published lists of candidates for most of the information we possess. It is from them we learn the votes brought forward by a candidate, the number of his applications, whence he comes, &c., and whether or not he will be eligible at a future election. The declaration of the poll generally, though not invariably, completes the information we have to work upon. In the case of Sam Woodhouse, we did not know, and we do not see how, without a knowledge of the boy and his supporters, we could have known, that it was purely a farce having his name entered, or at all events retained, on the list. We are now informed by our fraternal correspondent, in a truly fraternal spirit of correction, that the boy in question will be admitted in June, on the De Grey Presentation. We do not feel called upon to experience any sense of surprise at the receipt of this news, for it merely explains what otherwise was inexplicable. We are pleased for the boy's sake, and trust he may prove an ornament to the School he is about to enter; but we are surprised at nothing, not even at the fraternal brusqueris of the West Yorkshire brother, who has deigned to honour us with this correction. Lastly, we are always thankful for advice that is delicately tendered. We trust our amiable correspondent will be pleased, if not surprised to learn, that in future we shall make it our business, as we have done hitherto as far as possible, "to thoroughly know the merits of the various cases." But with an anxious desire to satisfy everybody, we cannot promise even when this knowledge has been acquired, to "rush into comments which are uncalled for, and quite out of place." We fully recognise the wisdom of our correspondent in not desiring the publication of his letter in these columns.

We extract the following from the Broad Arrow:—

Most good men, except the Pope and the Editor of Truth, are Freemasons. The Prince of Wales is Grand Master of England, and 'tis said his two brothers are this year to be Grand Wardens. The Craft is prosperous; the Craft is powerful; it is an honour to belong to the Craft; and the world will have it that to be a good Mason you must be a good man. We need not tell our readers, so many of whom belong either to the military or naval service, that, go where they will in either hemisphere, every Mason will find a brother, one not only in name but in fact, one ready to aid him in all his laudable undertakings, and willing to bear his burdens and console him in the hour of his affliction. Now, some Masons are born with silver spoons in their mouths, marked, of course, with armorial bearings and other Masonic signs of material prosperity; but, confound it! there be wooden-ladle babies also in the Craft, and many a poor brother has to work in the quarries, while the chief architects flourish in purple and fine linen in the innermost recesses of the Temple. Among the fortunate there are few whose hearts do not warm to the unfortunate, and even among the easy-going there are few who do not recognise with pride the worth and claims of those who have proved their zeal for the Brotherhood by long and faithful membership, recognised by high esteem and promotion in Masonic rank. A good old friend who had seen everything, been everything, and done everything in Masonry, once remarked, "Well, I can go no further, unless the old Earl makes me Past Deputy Provincial Grand Band of Music," and evidently sighed for more Masonic lands to conquer. "Become a Vice-President of the Boys' School," said we, and straightway he drew a cheque for fifty guineas, and entered on a new era of Masonic interest and usefulness. But we know also a brother who cannot draw a cheque for fifty pounds, and yet has been a very worthy Mason, and after paying seventy-two years' dues to the benevolent funds of his Lodges, now has to seek the benevolence of his brethren to aid in his election to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution in May. Brother Richard Barnes has subscribed to one Lodge for forty-one years, has been honorary Secretary to it for thirty-five years, and is now the father of that Lodge. He has subscribed to another Lodge for thirty-one years, and is the father of that Lodge also. He has been thirty years Honorary Secretary of another Masonic body, and is the father of that body. Prosperous and respected as a schoolmaster for many years, he is now, at sixty-three years of age, from failing eyesight and other troubles, deprived of his means of livelihood, and, with a wife and three children to support, is seeking an honourable retreat in the excellent Institution we have named. His case is a very hard and a very deserving one; and the Editor of the Broad Arrow, knowing the worth and misfortunes of this worthy Mason, asks that those of his readers who have votes for the Masonic Charities unpromised, will kindly forward them to him to be used for Brother Richard Barnes.

[COMMUNICATED.]

ON SUNDAY, the 15th instant, the Lodge "Les Amis de la Patrie" gave their first fête de l'Enseignement. In the spacious hall of the Grand Orient a large concourse of brethren assembled, with their families and friends, to be present at an entertainment which, if novel in a Masonic way, was all the more attractive, and indeed proved to be a pleasing, instructive, and brilliant affair. In the movement set on foot a year or two ago by the Masons of Paris for the purpose of free and public education, "Les Amis de la Patrie" indeed stood prominent. And it must here be admitted that the agitation has already, throughout France, borne satisfactory fruits. Under the auspices and direction of the Grand Orient, evening lectures have been delivered by able professors, while classes have been formed for the study of stenography, geography, literature, French history, and foreign languages. In addition to these evening lectures, on each Sunday at nine and ten o'clock a.m., one has the advantage to hear the worthy Bro. Albert Leroy, in his capacity of a lecturer; a conférencier who knows not only how to instruct and enlighten his audience, but also how to charm and amuse it, and that in the most humorous and agreeable manner. Brother Leroy must be looked upon, too, as one of the originators of popular "conferences," or public lectures, in this Capital, wherein, not long since, little of that kind of public speaking was known, if we except the enunciation of strictly political views. Of late, however, this sound constitutional and beneficent practice, so much the fashion both in England and America, has been adopted here, and widely developed, not merely in politics, but in all cases and for all purposes; insomuch that upon any subject, however insignificant, people are often convened to hear a lecture, and sometimes listen with great interest to a "conférencier," whose name they have no idea of. The introduction in this country of such public and philanthropic ways of informing and enlightening the public mind has, of course, been the work of many years; it has been often checked, and sometimes stopped rather violently by imperial authority. This Bro. Leroy, to his cost, has experienced. Its practice is still watched with suspicion, even under our Republican Government. However, it may be confidently hoped that the latter will soon give up those legal restrictions which it found in the inheritance of those régimes which have long passed away, and have, in fact, ceased to retain any hold upon the vast majority of Frenchmen.

The "fête" was organised by Bros. Mention and Lemarignier, both good men and true Masons, highly esteemed by all. The former is now the Immediate P.M. of the Lodge "Les Amis de la Patrie," over which he has presided for many years, with true Masonic zeal and ability, and thus contributed to its present high tone and prosperity. Of the latter, who now fills the W.M.'s chair, it may be said, without fear of contradiction, that he is the right man in the right place. Agent General of the "Society for Elementary and Free Teaching"—an institution founded in 1815, to supply a desideratum long required, and which now continues to extend progressively its innumerable benefits upon both children and adults—Bro. Lemarignier may, without doubt, be said to be, both in and out of the Master's chair, a true representative of that popular and Masonic agitation which has raised the cry for more Education.

The entertainments consisted partly of a concert, the enjoyment of which was much enhanced by the vocal and instrumental ability of the talented artists engaged, and partly of some scientific demonstrations and chemical experiments, made, with wonderful skill, by Bro. A. Jacquemart, upon the "Origin and Sources of Light," that "Lux" which is so appropriate a symbol in our mystic Order, and which the G.A.O.T.U. so munificently diffuses all over our terrestrial globe, for the enlightenment and delight of mankind.

Still, however delightful and instructive were these parts of the entertainment, to many of those present the most pleasant and interesting portions of it, were the able and well-meant remarks of Bro. Albert Leroy, upon the "Les nouveaux Dimanches Parisiens." The lecturer is no Sabbatarian. He has, however, travelled and lived in the very lands of Sabbatarianism; and though much inconvenienced by the strict observance of the day of rest, yet he fully respects the spirit with which people submitted to and honoured the old Judaic precept, especially in Scotland; and on this point he related many old tales about the breach of the Scotch Sabbath. Nothing, however, should tend to stifle that love for freedom of action which is so innate in human nature. Nature herself never rests: her wonderful and mighty work is a constant and unceasing one, for rest is death or nothingness. Contrasting the Parisian with the London Sunday, the lecturer could not help wondering at the fact that three millions and a half of people are, on a certain day each week, put to rest by law. He believes that in such a fact there is something mischievous to some and dangerous to others, and fears that it will one day, with the increase of population in the already largest city of the world, prove to be a social evil for the whole community. The masses are never so apt to move themselves to evil doings as when they know not what to do with themselves; where to go for recreation, and how to fill their hands or feed their minds, to while away their time. Hence the shares taken so often by drink and its dreadful accessories in the "days of rest." To labour or work—which in clerical language is called profanation of the Lord's day—is most probably, to a great number of persons, the best preservative from wrongdoing. At the same time the lecturer is no supporter of absolute menial work on Sunday, where such work can be avoided, that is if poverty does not forbid the luxury of a whole day in idleness. His own idea is not for entire cessation from work, but simply for a change of occupation, with a moral and social view of improvement, according to station. The intellects should receive on that day a variety of food. Hence the diversity of ways and means devised and prepared here, and by which the Parisians can and do spend their Dimanche. Why should churches only be within the reach or attainment of the people? Why are those who would gladly go to a museum or a library, who would attend a concert, see a play, or hear a lecture, why should such as these find that they are by law almost forcibly sent to church? Why such encroachments against the liberty of thought and the freedom of action; and that, too, among a nation so justly proud of its liberties, and so jealous of being foremost in the van of liberal and progressive principles?

The sympathy of the lecturer for the English people, whose character he has had occasion of fully appreciating, and of whose feelings for the French he can positively testify, makes him ardently hope that England will soon get rid of these antiquated notions respecting the "day of rest" for the people; and that, proclaiming religious equality and religious independence, they will do so in that broad sense and liberal manner which freedom of thought and action requires to be rightly and entirely unfettered. Thus, Bro. Albert Leroy concluded his remarks, which were followed with interest and pleasure by a crowded audience, whose approbation was evinced by long and hearty applause.

It is in this way that the Freemasons of Paris have laboured, and are still labouring hard, for the good of Masonry in its broadest sense and largest views, viz., the diffusion of light, the elevation of the standard of morality for the better perception of right and wrong, and that by waging determined and vigorous war against ignorance and error, under whatever shape or form they may appear. To make so difficult and, at the same time, so highly Masonic a crusade, the French Masons will be too glad to vie, in fraternal rivalry, with their Brethren across the Channel, and over the world, in labour and zeal.

Can it possibly be said that they are not following the right path of true Masonic teaching?

BOMBAY.

Eastern Star Lodge, No. 1189, E.C.—A regular monthly meeting of this flourishing Lodge was held in the Freemason's Hall, Mazagon, on Monday, the 19th March last, which was attended by a large number of the Craft, who had been specially invited to meet the R.W. the District Grand Master, and the Officers of the D.G. Lodge, as the Hon. James Gibbs, the D.G.M., had intimated his intention of paying an official visitation to the Lodge on that evening. Amongst those present on this auspicious occasion were—W. Bros. Pirosha w Merwanjee Jeejeebhoy W.M., Sorabjee Navorojee Cooper I.P.M., Dinshaw Dorabjee Mistry P.M., Framjee Kaikhasrav Patuck P.M., Dinshaw Nowrojee Sacklochwalla S.W., Dunjeeshaw M. Capadia J.W., Dhunjeebhoy M. Jeejeebhoy Treas., Nowrojee N. Wadia Sec., Pestonjee M. Narielwalla S.D., Framjee D. Petit J.D., Manockshaw Cavashah I.G., Cowasjee Sorabjee Patel Tyler. The R.W.'s the Hon. James Gibbs, District G.M. of Bombay, Macintosh Balfour D.D.G.M., W. H. Hussey, Manockjee Cursetjee, Khorsetjee Rustomjee Cama, Jamsetjee N. Dady, Rustomjee C. Baderjee, Muncherjee C. Murzban, C. E. Mitchell, Jehangir Gustadjee, H. W. Barrow, W. C. Rowe, W. M. McClumpha, T. Counsell, and many other members and honorary members, including a numerous assemblage of visitors.

The arrangements for the reception of the D. Grand Lodge and the guests of the evening were all that could be desired; and, considering the large and influential body of brethren from the sister Lodges in the Presidency that accepted the invitation of the W.M., it was evident the Officers of "Eastern Star," in the preparations they had so judiciously made, were thoroughly acquainted with their respective duties.

After the Lodge had been opened in the E.A. Degree, and the minutes of the previous regular meeting had been read and confirmed, the arrival of the R.W. the D.G.M. and his Officers was announced. On entering the Lodge in procession, they were received by the assembly present with full Masonic honours. The R.W. the D.G.M. having ascended the dais was welcomed by the W.M., who resigned to him the emblem of his authority, and requested him to be seated in the Chair of K.S. The Hon. Bro. Gibbs having made a few complimentary remarks, the W.M. read a short and clear statement of the present condition of the Lodge and its Funds, at the conclusion of which the R.W. District G.M. congratulated the W.M., Officers and brethren on the harmony that existed, on the efficient working of the Lodge, and the flourishing condition of its finances.

The Lodge was then advanced to the F.C. degree, when Bro. Hirjee Ardaseer Dady was examined as to his progress in the Craft, when, having proved his proficiency, he was passed out, and the Lodge being opened on the Centre, he was duly raised to the sublime degree in a manner that reflected great credit on all who took part in the ceremony.

The Lodge thereafter, having been gradually reduced to the E.A. degree, the most pleasing incident of the evening took place. The W.M. availing himself of the presence of the D.G.M., solicited him, on behalf of the members of the Lodge, to present a testimonial to W. Bro. Sorabjee Navarosjee Cooper, the Immediate P.M., which had been subscribed for by the members of the Lodge, in recognition of the able and valuable services he had rendered it, during his tenure of office, as W.M., in the year 1875-6. The D.G.M. most readily acceded to the request, and expressed the extreme satisfaction it afforded him to undertake the pleasing duty of being the exponent of the brethren's good wishes, and gratitude to their Immediate P.M. who, during the time he ruled the Lodge, had rendered it most valuable services, and was worthily entitled to this substantial acknowledgment of the successful termination of his career as W.M.

The Hon. R.W. Brother Gibbs then decorated W.P. Master S. N. Cooper with a valuable Past Master's gold jewel, and invested him with a handsome suit of P.M.'s clothing, which had been voted to him by the Lodge, at the same time presenting him with an elegantly chased silver cup, and a salver of exquisite Cashmere workmanship, which had been subscribed for by the individual members of the Lodge, as a token of their respect and esteem.

The presentation being completed, the hall re-echoed with the plaudits of the brethren, evincing, by this demonstration, how heartily they concurred in the interesting ceremony that had just taken place.

W. Brother Sorabjee Navarojee Cooper then rose, evidently intensely affected by the very high honour and rewards that had been conferred upon him, and briefly, but most appropriately, gave feeling expression to the deep and lasting gratitude which he considered he laboured under to the brethren, who had, with one accord, come forward so nobly and so generously to acknowledge and requite the poor services he had, with heart and goodwill, rendered to the Lodge. After which, he said that, as it had lately been brought to his notice that there existed a Benevolent Fund in connection with the District Grand Lodge, he begged to present the Lodge with 100 Rs., to be forwarded to the Treasurer of that fund. On resuming his chair, W. Bro. Cooper received quite an ovation from the brethren, and, to speak the truth, he well deserved it, for he had worked hard and earnestly to promote the prosperity of his Lodge, and to further the best interests of the Craft, and, on the evening in question, he had heartfelt satisfaction in witnessing the successful result of his arduous labours by the admirable manner in which the Lodge was worked by his successor in office, by the large number of members present, and by the high and influential brethren of the Craft belonging to sister Lodges who had met to do him honour.

Bro. Framjee Duishawjee Petit was subsequently nominated Grand Steward, to represent the Lodge in the District Grand Lodge, which is to meet in Quarterly Convocation on the 7th proximo. This terminated the proceedings of the Lodge, which was then closed in peace and harmony.

As "Eastern Star" is proverbial for its hospitality, a magnificent banquet had been prepared, to which the District Grand Master, his officers, and the distinguished company of visitors were invited. The entire space of the capacious hall was filled to overflowing. The Stewards deserve the highest encomiums for the sumptuous fare provided, and the excellent quality of the wines.

The usual conventional toasts followed, and the speech of the D.G. Master, in proposing the health of the W. Master and prosperity to Lodge "Eastern Star," was characterised by that simplicity, grace and elegant expression for which he is so well known and appreciated.

The company broke up before High Twelve, the D.G. Master and his popular Deputy, W. Bro. M. Balfour, having a short time previously taken their departure.

On the whole, the meeting was a great success, and bore testimony to the firm hold which our ancient Craft has taken amongst the first classes of the native community, who vie with each other in observing, in the strictest manner, all those peculiar duties devolving upon them as "Sons of Light."

The General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Thursday, the 26th inst., Bro. B. Head P.G.D. in the chair. The minutes were read and confirmed. Nominations for the House and Audit Committee were handed in. Bro. Dr. Ramsay gave a notice of motion—"That, in the opinion of this Committee, the accommodation for the officials of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls in Freemasons' Hall is totally inadequate for the increased and increasing labours which they have to perform, and that it be referred to the Board of General Purposes, to ascertain what accommodation should be provided."

Mrs. Johnson the mother of the girl who gained the 12th place at the recent election for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, desires to express her thanks to those brethren who so kindly supported her.

The Freemason's "Jamshedi Naoroz Festival" was celebrated, with great éclat, at Bombay, on the 21st March last, by the members of Lodge "Rising Star of Western India" S.C. 342; Lodge "Rising Sun," S.C. 506; Lodge "Eastern Star," E.C. 1189; and Lodge "Cyrus," E.C. 1359. We hope to publish details in our next issue.

The 22nd Annual Ball of Des Cuisiniers Français was held on Tuesday, the 24th inst., at Willis's Rooms, King-street, St. James's, and was numerously attended. Dancing was kept up with great spirit, under the inspiring influence of Bro. T. Adams P.G.P., who had conducted the band for the last 22 years. During the interval a very recherché supper was provided. The chair was occupied by Bro. Debenef, supported by Bros. M. Gleiche, John Boyd, Francois Gendré, W. C. Parsons, T. Bull, &c. Several toasts were proposed, including the worthy chairman, Bro. Gleiche, and the Ladies. There were also present Bros. Lt. Hart, Thoumie, Penét, Le Blanc, Bouyon, Blondeau, Cossard, Madlin, Desubray, Bequinot, Maitré, H. M. Levy, &c.

An association has been formed which has for its object the better securing of policy holders in the various Life Assurance Companies. The payment of a small fee will entitle the subscriber to certain confidential information, and general security, so far as a continual supervision of the various offices can give it. Considering the very serious results which may follow the loss of a person's savings in this kind of investment, any scheme which will afford protection should be well received.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Security against Bad Health.—With the warm sunny days of Spring, maladies will be made manifest, unless the blood is pure and the skin be active; eruptions, blotches, and more formidable skin affections may be successfully subjugated by the use of Holloway's detergent ointment, when it is aided by moderate doses of his purifying Pills. Hoarseness, sore throat, chronic cough, enlarged glands and stiff neck, will be at once relieved by rubbing this cooling Ointment upon the skin overlying or adjacent to the afflicted part. In childhood, these medicaments are pre-eminently useful, since the nation's welfare springs therefrom. Children of to-day will be the makers of to-morrow and the parents in the future.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 26th April, at Bro. Hallows', The Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. F. Hallows W.M., Franklin S.W., Bell J.W., Saunders Sec., Pinder Preceptor Upward S.D., Brand J.D., W. G. Hallows I.G.; also Bros. E. Brown Hunt, Field, Carter, and Groome. Business—The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed Bro. Hunt candidate. Bro. Pinder worked the 1st and 3rd sections of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Langford, of Marquis of Ripon Lodge, was unanimously elected a member; and Bro. Franklin W.M. for next Thursday evening. A vote of thanks was accorded to the W.M. for the very able manner in which he had performed the duties of the chair. He was raised in February last, and the way in which he worked reflects the highest credit upon him. The Lodge was then closed.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge met, as usual, at the "Hercules" Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C., on Thursday, the 26th inst. There were present Bros. Wharman W.M., Maidwell S.W., Hollands J.W., E. Gottheil P.M., Chas. Atkins Acting Sec., Gramonar S.D., Hill I.G., and several other brethren. The preliminary formalities having been disposed of, the W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Webb acting as candidate. In due course the W.M. worked the ceremony of raising, Bro. Andrews being candidate. The first section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Hewlett, assisted by the brethren. Two new members were unanimously elected. Bro. T. Austin P.M. 933, through ill health and other circumstances, having tendered his resignation as Preceptor, it was proposed by Bro. Grammar, and seconded by Bro. Horsley, that the resignation be accepted with regret. Bro. Horsley dilated, at some length, on the excellent qualities of Bro. Austin, who had so long given his valuable services so well and gracefully in this Lodge. The resignation must, of course, be accepted, but it should be intimated to him in writing how sorry the brethren were in losing his services. Bro. Webb, who was elected Preceptor, while accepting the office, assured the brethren that he had not sought the honour, and he felt his deficiency, but he thought it the duty of every Mason to render every assistance in his power. He would, therefore, endeavour to do such duties as might devolve upon him to the best of his ability. A vote of thanks was given to Bro. Wharman for his efficient conduct in the chair, which he occupied for the first time in this Lodge. Bro. Maidwell will take the chair at the next meeting.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—Met at the Old Rodney's Head, 12 Old-street, St. Luke's, on Monday, the 23rd inst. Present—Bros. Powell W.M., Pearcy S.W., Crawley J.W., Tolmie Act. Preceptor, Halford S.D., Robison J.D., Fenner Sec., Christopher Tyler, Isaac, Leber, Garbutt, Ross, Cook. Lodge opened in due form, minutes of last meeting confirmed. Lodge opened in 2nd degree. Bro. Isaac answered the necessary questions, and was entrusted. Lodge was then opened in the 3rd, when the ceremony of raising was very ably rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Isaac acting as candidate. Lodge resumed to 1st degree. Bro. Tolmie worked the 3rd section assisted by the brethren, the 4th assisted by Bro. Isaac, and the 5th assisted by the brethren. Bro. Pearcy was duly elected W.M. for the ensuing fortnight. Lodge was then closed, and adjourned. The Fifteen Sections will be worked by Bro. Tolmie on Monday next, the 30th inst., when it is hoped a large gathering of brethren will take place.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.—This Lodge met at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on Tuesday, 24th inst. Present—Bros. Daniel W.M., Wharman S.W., Lees J.W., Sayer S.D., Brown J.D., Rutherford Preceptor, Posener I.G., Rich, Hollands, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Brown candidate. Lodge opened in second degree. Bro. Rich answered the questions leading to the third, and was entrusted. Lodge opened in third. Bro. Rich raised. The Lodge was then closed down to first. It was proposed and seconded that Bro. Wharman be W.M. for the ensuing Tuesday. Arrangements are made that the ceremony of installation shall be worked on the off night in every month at this Lodge, for the instruction of those working for the chair; the same to commence in the month of May. The Lodge was then closed.

Macdonald Lodge of Mark Masters, No. 104.—This Lodge met at the Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, Coleman-street, E.C., on Friday, the 20th inst., and was attended by a large muster of brethren, amongst whom were:—Bros. T. W. White W.M., Alfred Williams P.G.S. S.W., G. W. Verry as J.W., E. Moody M.O., F. Cozens S.O. and R.M., W. P. Collins J.O.; the V.W. Bros. Thomas Meggy P.G.M.O. P.M. and Treasurer, and James Stevens P.G.J.O. P.M. as Secretary; Bros. N. J. F. Basnett S.D., George Yaxley J.D., W. C. Hale Organist, J. K. Pitt I.G., Grant Tyler; also Bros. W. Worrell P.M. P.G. Org., C. R. Crommelin, W. Johnston, F. G. Raggett, J. R. Williams, T. de Lotiva, and others. Bro. R. W. Brown, of the newly constituted Mark Lodge, "Croydon," 198, was the only visitor on this occasion. The Lodge having been opened, Bro. T. W. Simons was duly ballotted for, approved of, and advanced to the honourable degree of M.M.M.; the V.W. Bro. Meggy conducting the ceremony with his usual skill and ability. The Lodge then proceeded to the election of W.M. and Treasurer for the ensuing year, and Bro. Alfred Williams was unanimously elected to the office of W.M., and Bro. Meggy was re-elected as Treasurer. Both appointments gave great satisfaction, and the announcement of each respective election was received with applause. Bro. Grant was re-elected Tyler. Bros. J. R. Williams and R. Johnston were elected on the Audit Committee. Candidates were proposed for the ensuing meeting, which will also be that of installation. The P.M. jewel of the Lodge was voted to Bro. T. W. White, in recognition of his services during the past year. Bro. James Stevens gave notice of motion: "That the sum of Ten Guineas be voted by the Lodge to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, the same to be placed on the list and in the name of Bro. Meggy, who will represent the Mark Degree at the ensuing Festival of that Institution." The Lodge was closed in harmony, and the brethren adjourned to banquet. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts having been duly honoured, the newly advanced Bro. T. W. Simons was cordially welcomed, and responded to the good wishes expressed towards him by a neat and forcible speech, and, to the great delight of the brethren, gave an admirable specimen of his professional vocal powers. To the toast of "the Visitor," Bro. R. W. Brown, was appended "Success and Prosperity to the Croydon Mark Lodge, No. 198, the first god-child of the Macdonald," in reply to which, after Bro. Brown had suitably acknowledged his personal appreciation of the welcome accorded to him, Bro. George Yaxley, the W.M., and Bro. J. K. Pitt, the J.W., respectively, of the "Croydon" Lodge, expressed their sense of the benefits derived by that Lodge from association with the Macdonald, the assistance rendered to it by Bros. Meggy and Stevens at its consecration, and their conviction that the new Lodge would be a worthy branch of the parent stem. The remaining toasts were honoured, special reference being made in response to that of "The Officers," to the past exertions of the Treasurer, Bro. Meggy, and the hope that the same would be remembered and recognised by liberal additions to his Steward's list at next Boys' School Festival. Another most agreeable evening, enlivened by song and social converse, was added to the many pleasant gatherings associated with the "Macdonald," at whose hospitable board we, in common with other privileged Mark Masons, are ever cordially welcomed.

Prudent Brethren Lodge, No. 145.—The above Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 24th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros. Moult W.M., Haslett S.W., Hughes J.W., J. Boyd P.G.P. Grand Steward Treasurer, G. S. States P.M. P.G.S. Secretary, J. G. Manby Asst. Sec., Leggott S.D., Lister J.D., Dr. Wilkinson I.G.; P.M.'s Bros. J. Last and E. H. Thiellay; also Bros. A. Hugon, Talbot, Cherer, Penet, Hall, J. Chinnery, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bros. Chambers, Newton and Doyle were passed to the 2nd degree, and Bros. Lambe, Penet, Reid and Parnacott raised. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a very capital banquet, provided by Bro. Dawkins. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. The Visitors were—Bros. Delevante 1319, E. Davies P.M. 228, T. Grosstephan 348, &c.

Phœnix Chapter, No. 173.—The first convocation of this Chapter was held on Saturday, the 21st inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Present—Comps. J. D. Massey M.E.Z., G. Wilson P.M. H., G. R. Green J., Burford Treasurer, Salmon S.E., J. Blyth P.S., C. T. Speight Janitor, and several companions. Ballots were taken for the admission of Bros. T. Witt, W. J. Mitton, J. Andrews, G. Guterbock, F. Foxley, F. D. Vine, J. H. Waterham, E. Kennedy, W. A. Mott, W. Quiney and T. Huntley, all of whom were duly exalted. The working in every respect was perfectly performed, and fully justified the remarks made at the consecration that every one selected would be capable of fulfilling the duties. The Chapter was closed and the companions separated.

Industry Lodge, No. 186.—A very numerous assemblage of brethren and visitors were present on Tuesday, the 24th inst., at 2 Westminster-chambers, this being the last meeting previous to the vacation, and also to do honour to the worthy Secretary, Bro. W. Mann P.M., to present him with a testimonial as a token of the respect he is held in, and for the efficient manner he had discharged his duties for the last ten years. There were present—Bros. A. Black W.M., W. H. Hook S.W., D. J. Robinson J.W., W. Mann P.M. Secretary, J. Powell S.D., R. Allison J.D., G. Smith Organist, H. J. Johnson Steward, W. W. Philp I.G., and P.M.'s G. Dyer I.P.M., Mortlock, Tallent, Wylie, Seex, Noehmer, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bro. Stanford was passed, and Bros. Bowden and Coleman raised. The resignation of a brother was accepted with regret. The Lodge was then closed until September, and the brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Cole. Grace having been sung by Bros. Hook, Smith and Smith jun., the W.M. proced the toast of Her Majesty the Queen. He spoke of the kind interest she took in the sad case of the miners in Wales; she always takes a great interest in all her subjects, from the highest to the lowest. The national anthem was then sung. The toasts of H.R.H. the M.W.G.M., the Pro Grand Master, the D.G.M., and the rest of the grand officers were given. Bro. Dyer I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M., who, in reply, said he was only too pleased if he had given them satisfaction. His great aim was to render any service required of him for the benefit of the Lodge. He was proud to announce the next toast, he might call it the toast of the evening. He called upon the brethren to drink the health of one who had conducted the duties of the Lodge in so able a manner; he referred to their esteemed Past Master and Secretary Bro. Mann. On behalf of every member he felt a pleasure in presenting the testimonial. He hoped Bro. Mann might for many years be among them. In addition to a silver tea and coffee service and salver, there was a testimonial on vellum, beautifully designed by the S.W. Bro. T. S. Mortlock P.M. said he would be pleased to say a few words in addition to those of the W.M., every word of which he endorsed. He had been associated with Bro. Mann for forty years. When he (Bro. Mortlock) was W.M. he was fortunate to appoint him as Secretary; the brethren knew how the duties had been performed. More than that he has always exerted himself for the good of the three Masonic Charities. Bro. Mortlock sang "My Old Friend John." Bro. Mann, on rising to reply, was enthusiastically cheered. It was one of the proudest moments of his life to receive such a valuable presentation, and the testimonial on vellum was indeed an agreeable surprise. He felt a great pleasure in hearing the kind words spoken by the W.M., and his old and valued friend Bro. Mortlock. Mention had been made to the Masonic Charities. The Industry Lodge was a very old one, and, he was glad to say, a flourishing one. He had been pleased to represent it when £2,000 was given at a Festival, now we can get together £12,000. The W.M. next proposed "The Visitors." Bro. Kelly replied in a very excellent speech; the other visitors severally followed; every one paid a just compliment to Bro. Mann for his Masonic qualifications, and regard for the Charities, and expressed the pleasure they felt at witnessing the presentation he so well deserved. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Committee of the Festival Fund. The thanks of the brethren were due to Bro. Dyer I.P.M., who was not only the promoter, but also the Treasurer of the Fund, and to Bro. Seex P.M., who was the Sec. The other P.M.'s had also lent their valuable assistance. He coupled with the toast the names of the Past Masters. Bro. Skeen then sang "The Old Mill Stream." Bro. Dyer, as one of the Committee, and also a Past Master, was pleased to respond. With regard to the testimonial, it was a labour of love. Bro. Mann is thoroughly appreciated, not only as a P.M. and Sec., but also as a good representative of the Charities. He is one whom all would be pleased to follow, and were the testimonial six times its value, he would be justly entitled to it. Bro. Mann followed. Not only he did not know from where the testimonial emanated, but he was extremely surprised to see the one on vellum. Bros. Seex and Hock also replied. The toast of the Wardens followed, and, having been responded to, the Tyler's toast was given.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—No doubt owing to the important meeting at Grand Lodge, there was an unusually small attendance at this Lodge, on Wednesday, the 25th inst. After the Lodge had been duly opened, and the minutes of the previous meeting confirmed, Bro. Ager, who occupied the chair, rehearsed the first ceremony, in which duty he was ably assisted by Bros. Jessie S.W., F. Croaker J.W., E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, J. K. Pitt Secretary, Abell S.D., Walker J.D., Beattie I.G., Christopher Tyler; Bro. Benson acted as candidate. The chair was then vacated in favour of Bro. D. Posener, who worked the ceremony of raising, having Bro. Ager for candidate. The latter then resumed the position of W.M., and conducted the business to the closing of the Lodge. Bro. E. Gottheil, in proposing a vote of thanks to Bro. Ager, for the manner in which the duties of the evening had been conducted, said it was the usual practice in this, and he believed in every Lodge of Instruction, as an encouragement to those who attempted, for the first time, to perform the duties of Master, to pass and record a vote of thanks. In this instance the compliment was well deserved. Bro. Ager has only been a Mason since last December, and taking that fact into consideration, it must be confessed that his work has been done in a highly creditable manner, better, indeed, than many a one who occupied the position of W.M. in a regular Lodge. In fact, upon second thoughts, the comparison is scarcely just, as we know there are a great many who are honoured with the most prominent position in the Lodge, who have but a hazy notion of the duties. Bro. Ager's working showed a perfect appreciation of what was required of him. The W.M. expressed his thanks. He felt scarcely satisfied with himself, and thought he might have done much better. It would, however, be his aim to become more perfect, and on the next occasion on which he should have the honour to occupy the position of Master, he hoped to be able to do his duties more creditably. On Wednesday next, the fifteen sections will be worked. Bro. T. Turquand P.M. will preside. Although the time of meeting (7 p.m.) has not been altered, several brethren have expressed a wish to assemble at 6.30, so that all the preliminaries might be arranged and disposed of before the bulk of members arrived. Those who are able to do so are therefore invited to be present at 6.30.

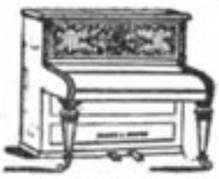
Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting on Saturday, the 21st of April, at The Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington, N. Present—Bros. A. W. Fenner W.M., J. Lorkin S.W., Hewlett J.W., Killick Secretary, Holford Treasurer, Brund S.D., Brusted J.D., Baxter I.G. Visitor—Bro. Kushmann 917. The Lodge was duly opened, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Bedwell acting as candidate. Bro. Hewlett worked several sections of the three lectures. Bro. Kushmann was elected a member. Bro. J. Lorkin was chosen W.M. for the ensuing week.

Southampton Lodge, No. 394.—At the meeting held at the Masonic Hall, Bugle-street, on Thursday, the 19th, a handsome Past Master's jewel was presented to Bro. W. Farber J.P., in recognition of the valuable services he has rendered to the Lodge as its treasurer for many years past, the testimonial having been obtained by subscriptions from the members, added to a sum voted from the Lodge funds. The Right Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master (Bro. W. Hickman) made the presentation, in the presence of a large assembly of the members, and in some well chosen remarks referred to the pleasure it afforded him, as the oldest Past Master there that evening, to tender to another old Past Master some slight, yet tangible recognition of the services he had rendered in his capacity of treasurer to the Lodge—a position which he had long and most honourably filled; while the admirable manner in which he had carried out his duties, and the courtesy and kindness he had invariably manifested towards all with whom he came in contact, rendered him thoroughly deserving of any compliment it was in their power to pay him. He expressed the hope that he might long be spared to assist in promoting the comfort and welfare of those with whom he was associated. Bro. Farber, in a brief but feeling reply, assured those assembled that it had always afforded him pleasure to render any services in his power to the Lodge with which he was connected, and to Freemasonry generally. This he should ever continue to do, and should never fail to remember the kindly feeling displayed towards him, as evinced in the presentation of that evening.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—At the weekly meeting held at Bro. Allens, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 24th inst., the fifteen sections were worked by the brethren mentioned in our last issue, excepting that Bro. Constable worked the 5th, and Bro. Turquand the 11th, in place of Bros. Berry and Austin. There was a very large attendance of brethren, and the working was perfect. Another unanimous vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Barnes, who presided at this Lodge in working the sections for the fifth time, he being also one of the founders. Votes of thanks were passed to Bros. Musto and Wallington, the latter being highly pleased as some of the brethren are pupils of his, the Lodge was not closed till 11, all being highly gratified with the evening spent.

Upton Lodge, No. 1227.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held at the Spotted Dog, Upton, E., on Thursday, the 19th inst., Present—Bros. D. Posener W.M., G. Brown S.W., Lyons J.W., Webster S.D., Oldfoyd J.D., Andrews I.G., Dr. Levick Sec., Wayland Treas., and P.M.'s Bolton, Bratton, English, Holtham, and Picking. Minutes of last meeting confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, when Bros. Jones and Simpson were passed. Lodge was resumed to the first degree, and Messrs. J. J. Cowell, and A. Austin were regularly balloted for, approved, and initiated into Freemasonry, all the ceremonies being excellently performed by the W.M. It was agreed that the Lodge should go into mourning for the late Bros. W. J. Page, Vause, and Pennell, after which the Lodge was closed in due form and adjourned. The brethren then sat down to a substantial repast. After the removal of the cloth, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly proposed and responded to. The evening was enlivened by some excellent singing by the brethren, and a reading by Bro. Stevens, Bro. Barnett kindly presiding at the piano. The widow of the late Bro. Vause having been left with nine daughters, one of whom, being a candidate for admission to the Girls' School, it was determined that the Lodge should support her, after which the brethren separated. The visitors were Bros. Hewlett 141, Barnett and Salmon 185, Wood 193, 699, &c.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227, met at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday, 20th inst. Present—Bros. Couch W.M., Powell S.W., Fenner J.W., Hewlett Acting Preceptor, Cleverly S.D., Townsend J.D., Smith I.G., Lane, Holtham P.M., Austin, Bolton. Lodge opened in due form. Minutes of last meeting confirmed. Lodge opened in 2nd degree; Bro. Lane answered the necessary questions, and was entrusted. Lodge opened in 3rd, ceremony of raising rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Lane candidate. Lodge was closed in 3rd and 2nd degrees. The 1st and 2nd sections of the 1st Lecture were worked by Bro. A. W. Fenner, assisted by the brethren, the 3rd section by Bro. Hewlett, assisted by Bro. Powell. Bro. Austin, of the parent Lodge, was duly elected a member, and Bro. Powell was chosen W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed and adjourned.



Tredegar Lodge of Instruction, No. 1625.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Monday, the 23rd inst., at the Royal Hotel, Mile-end-road. Bro. Wharman W.M. of the Kent Lodge, No. 15, presided. There were present Bros. Ives S.W., Hogard J.W., E. Gottheil P.M., T. J. Barnes P.M. Treas., Geo. Hollington Sec., Hayward J.D., Hallett I.G., and an average number of regular attendants. The first ceremony was rehearsed, Bro. B. Goldberg acting as candidate. The W.M. then performed, for the first time, the ceremony of raising in a very satisfactory manner, Bro. Huggett being candidate. A suggestion was made to vote £5 to the Benevolent Institution for the Aged. Bro. Barnes, the Treasurer, objected to this, and stated that when the affairs of the Eastern Star Lodge of Instruction were transferred to the newly-formed "Tredegar," he applied to Bro. Terry to forward the proxies to which the former was entitled in the name of the latter. Bro. Terry refused on the ground that, by the act of transference, the "Eastern Star" had ceased to exist. This he (Bro. Barnes) totally denied. The books, furniture, and members all remained intact, and, in reality, nothing was changed except now that the Lodge works under the authority of the Tredegar Lodge, and the name has naturally been altered. Bro. Terry's refusal may possibly be in strict conformity with the letter of the law, and sharp practice in such cases may be customary. Such treatment, however, is far from liberal, and he would advise the brethren, taking all the circumstances into consideration, to be chary as to the voting of any sums to that Institution, at any rate, until something more has been said and ascertained upon the subject. Bro. Geo. Hollington was very much surprised that the proxies should have been withheld, seeing that they are no expense whatever to the Institution, and cause no more trouble than the writing of the address. He should certainly oppose any proposition to vote money to the Institution until such time when the matter shall have been fully and satisfactorily explained and settled. It was announced that at the next meeting Bro. Jonathan Taylor P.M. 993 would rehearse the ceremony of installation. With the assent of the S.W., Bro. Huggett was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The Lodge meets at 8 p.m. sharp.

THE LIFE POLICY-HOLDERS' PROTECTION ASSOCIATION.

OFFICE—8 DUKE ST., ADELPHI, LONDON, W.C.

THIS ASSOCIATION is intended to meet a want long felt by large numbers of the 1,750,000 persons whose lives are assured in the existing offices representing an amount assured of nearly £400,000 000, and is of the utmost importance to all Policy-Holders, who, by registering their Policies with the Association, will secure that protection against inevitable and calamitous loss which they can obtain in no other way.

The Association proposes to proceed as follows:—

1. Information and Accounts relating to the financial position of Life Assurance Companies will be compiled in the most efficient manner for the purpose of showing the actual condition of each Company.
2. This information will be available only to those Policy Holders whose Policies are entered on the Register of the Association.
3. The fee will entitle the Policy-Holder to special and confidential information of a thoroughly impartial and trustworthy character, which will enable him to come to a proper conclusion as to the safety of the particular office in which he is assured.
4. As the position of all Life Assurance Offices will from time to time be subjected by the Association to the strictest scrutiny, it will thus be in a position to advise the holders of Registered Policies of any office becoming unsafe.
5. Life Policies being extensively used as securities for advances, either collaterally or otherwise, bankers and others will find the Association of great assistance to them in arriving at the proper value of any Policy offered as security.
6. To persons intending to purchase Annuities the Association will afford every information so as to enable them to do so with safety, and will thus afford a much-needed protection to those who frequently sink their all in purchasing an Annuity.
7. Agents will be appointed in all the principal towns and on the Continent.
8. No liability is incurred beyond the fee for the Registration of the Policy.
9. Means will be adopted to secure further legislation for the protection of Policy-Holders by endeavouring to supplement the Life Assurance Companies' Act, 1870, by getting an Act passed, requiring that, in addition to the Accounts now compelled to be filed with the Board of Trade, full particulars of each Company's Assets and Securities shall be filed with every Balance Sheet.

Forms of Application for Registration of Policy will be forwarded on receipt of an addressed stamped envelope enclosed to the Secretary.

THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

WE need hardly remind our readers that Wednesday is the day fixed for the celebration of the eighty-ninth Anniversary Festival of this Institution. Lord Suffield, Provincial Grand Master of Norfolk, will preside, and as there is a strong muster of Stewards for the occasion, we doubt not that brethren will muster in force, and support the School in a manner commensurate with its merits. We repeat, we need hardly do more than remind our readers of the close propinquity of so auspicious an event. Indeed, we should offer no remarks whatever, only there are one or two matters which apparently call for some notice.

We are anxious that this Festival should be an unprecedented success, for two reasons in addition to those which ordinarily commend themselves to all well-wishers of the School. In the first place, this will be the first occasion of the President's appearance before the London Masonic public since his installation as a Prov. G.M. It is desirous on these occasions that the Provinces and the metropolis should work together in the most complete harmony. The School, though located in the vicinity of London, is open to the whole country. It is one of three noble monuments the Craft has erected to Charity. It is the oldest of the three. It offers home comforts and a liberal education to the daughters of indigent or deceased brethren. Its benefits, we repeat, are diffused throughout the whole country—we might, also, go the length of saying, throughout the whole empire, or, at least, so much of it as, in Freemasonry, acknowledges the sway of our Grand Master. When then a Provincial Magnate takes the chair at one of its Festivals, the Metropolis must recognise the compliment paid by the Provinces to an Institution located near London, while the Provinces themselves must see the necessity for handsomely supporting one of their own most favoured leaders. In this particular instance the necessity is more obvious still. It is we believe the first occasion of Lord Suffield's presidency at any festival. It is the duty, therefore, of the whole English Craft—and a duty we feel they will cheerfully discharge—to reciprocate the feelings which have prompted his Lordship to undertake so considerable a responsibility.

There is, however, another and a still weightier reason why the subscription list should far exceed that of any previous Festival. The authorities of the School have undertaken the grave task of considerably enlarging it, so considerably, indeed, that when the new premises are complete, the number of pupils to be educated will be, in round numbers, one-third as great as at the beginning of last year. It is intended to provide for over fifty more pupils, so that when the roll is complete there will be two hundred girls being clothed, fed, and educated, instead of one hundred and fifty. In order to carry out this scheme, a sum of about ten thousand pounds will have to be expended. This is equivalent to, nay, in excess of, the annual income of the Institution. As no such scheme of extension could have been undertaken without the approval of the whole body of governors and subscribers, it clearly becomes the business of these latter to see that the funds of the School are in nowise diverted from their ordinary channels. Moreover, with an additional charge for the maintenance of the new pupils, the disbursements will necessarily be increased. This increase will be permanent as well as considerable, and thus there will have to be raised a still more liberal amount of benefactions. A special outlay of money is easily met by a special subscription, but the measures recently adopted point to a large permanent addition to the annual expenditure on the part of the School, as well as to the subtraction of a very heavy sum from moneys presently available. This being, then, the very first Festival, since the enlargement of the School was taken in hand, it is important that the Craft throughout the whole country should open their purses more liberally than ever. The Masonic public has, in fact, endorsed the action of the School authorities. Moreover, the Masonic public will reap all the benefit of such action. Our argument, therefore, is unanswerable, that the Masonic public must contribute in proportion to the increased responsibilities of the School. It will likewise augur well for the future, if the Fraternity responds heartily on this occasion. The subscriptions at the festivals of our several Institutions have very properly shown an increase which has been annually progressive. It behoves us to see that this increase is maintained, especially under the circumstances we have just delineated.

Thus have we enumerated the special reasons which, in our judgment, necessitate a heavier list of contributions on Wednesday next. We doubt not the same has occurred to our readers as well as to ourselves, but none the less is it our duty to give them all the prominence we can. Many may think we are but repeating ourselves, when we offer these or similar remarks on each recurring anniversary. Still, though it is inevitable to a certain extent that we should be constantly harping, so to speak, on one string, it will be universally admitted that it is a very admirable string to harp upon.

We do not know there is very much to add to the remarks we have already made. Last year the Festival yielded over £8,200, with a few lists at the time outstanding, or about £1,000 in excess of the sum contributed in 1875. This year "our Girls" should command as much as "our Patriarchs" did in February. Considering the increased strength of Freemasonry, no one of our Festivals should produce an aggregate less than it requires five figures to represent. One thing, however, we may mention. If ever there is a difficulty in properly disposing of the Funds of Grand Lodge, we do not know how better they could be disposed of than by increasing the annual contributions to our three Charities. It may be the Craft will never permit an appeal to be made to it in vain, where one of these institutions is the subject of the appeal; but it occurs to us that Grand Lodge would set an excellent example by enlarging its dole, now that the need for its enlargement is so obvious. Moreover, it would afford a splendid stimulus to the Craft generally to surpass all previous efforts, when it was seen that Grand Lodge itself was resolved on outdoing itself. Having said this much, it only remains for us to add that Bro. Little has a strong working Board of Stewards, who, we feel assured, will do their utmost to secure for him the same good fortune. May he and they experience as splendid a success on Wednesday as did Bro. Terry who commenced this year so auspiciously; for the sake of Lord Suffield, who will preside, and the Institution whose anniversary will be celebrated, as well as for the honour of Freemasonry in general! We commend these remarks to the notice of our readers, and trust they will be accepted in the same kindly spirit in which they are offered. Wars and rumours of wars are not generally promotive of Charity, but we doubt not that, in spite of the troubled aspect of the political world and the general depression caused thereby, the Craft in England will liberally support an Institution which has achieved so much.

ON the 19th July 1828, the first civilian, in the person of Mr. P. Le Geyt of the Civil Service, was initiated in the Lodge. On the 7th August, a petition by certain brethren, for a dispensation from the P.G.M. of the Coast of Coromandel to meet as a Lodge in the territory subject to the Governments of Bombay and Madras, was recommended, under the signature of the W.M. and Wardens of "Orion." On the 18th of the same month, three gold mohurs was fixed as the fee for receiving the Fourth Degree. On the 16th September, Bro. Groundwater was elected and installed Master in the place of Bro. Macintosh, who quitted Poona two days later and never returned. Bro. Macintosh and Bro. Fleetwood, the first initiate, both died suddenly in 1825. On the 1st November, Colonel Hunter Blair, Military Secretary to the Commander-in-Chief was initiated, and on 27th December, Bro. Groundwater was installed as Master for the next six months, Bro. Brown and Mansfield being appointed Senior and Junior Wardens respectively. This closed the year 1824, during which there were twenty-four gentlemen initiated, sixteen passed, ten raised, four advanced to the fourth degree, and six joined. On the 7th March of the following year, a subscription was opened for the erection of a building suitable for any Lodges in Poona to work in. On the 4th April, Rs.300 were voted to the Royal British National Institution for preserving lives from shipwreck. On the 2nd May, it was resolved that the Lodge should meet only once a month, and also that the furniture, &c., of Orion should be at the service of Lodge Benevolent, till the latter had provided its own, and that members of the latter should be admitted as honorary members to Lodge Orion without fee or subscription, the same privilege being accorded by Lodge Benevolent to members of Orion. On the 14th of June, the brethren met at Brother Le Geyt's bungalow, and marched thence in procession to Church, where a sermon was preached by the Rev. Thomas Robinson in aid of the funds of the Madras Provincial Grand Masonic Fund. The brethren then returned to Bro. Le Geyt's. Bro. Groundwater was installed W.M., and appointed Bros. Boyd and Le Geyt Sen. and Jun. Wardens respectively. Rupees 300 were voted towards the relief of the Widows and Orphans of the Madras Charitable Fund. On the 10th July, the Lodge met at Bro. Boyd's house, and Bros. Peterson, Warden, Arbuthnot, and Goring were recommended "for the Supreme Order of the Holy Royal Arch, to be taken under the covenant of this Lodge." On the 27th December, Bro. Groundwater, was re-elected W.M., Bro. Boyd being reappointed S.W., and Bro. Neil Campbell appointed J.W. During this year there were fifteen initiations, twelve passings, nine raisings, six advanced to the fourth degree, and four joinings. Early in 1826, the Queen's Royals were quartered in Poona, and as this regiment had no Lodge of its own, several of its officers were initiated in Orion. On the 24th June of this year, the civilian brethren of the Lodge seceded and established Lodge Hope, under a Warrant obtained from Grand Lodge of England. Accordingly, Bro. A. Wogan Browne was installed W.M. of the New Lodge, and appointed Bros. R. Mansfield S.W., H. Robertson J.W., N. Campbell S.D., G. Boyd J.D., R. Hughston Tyler, and Bro. Grafton, acting Sec. of Orion, as Sec. pro tem. This had no sooner been done, than the Hope brethren proceeded to ballot for a new Master, and the choice fell on Bro. Robertson, who appointed his Officers. The W.M. of Orion then resumed the Hiram, and Bro. White was chosen Master. Thus, Orion, unregistered at home, aided in "the secession of some of its members, who had obtained a Warrant, on their petition, direct from the Grand Lodge of England." On 7th July 1826, Rs. 200 were voted towards the debt incurred for building the Hall, and on the same occasion it was resolved that a portion of the Constitutions should be read at each meeting until the whole had been gone through. On the 19th October, a donation of 300 Rs. was voted to a distressed French brother, then present as a visitor. On the 4th November, the brethren of the Queen's Royals seceded in a body, and the Lodge recorded a resolution to the effect that the conduct of the latter had been so unMasonic that the Lodge could not regret their retirement. Bro. Groundwater was re-elected on the 27th December, and appointed Bros. Arbuthnot S.W, Mosley J.W., and Falconer as Secretary and Treasurer. But this half-year was unprofitable as regards work. On the 24th June Bro. Hennessey was installed as W.M., having been elected on the 18th, and Bros. Schuyler and Falconer were appointed S.W. and J.W. respectively, Bro. Grafton being re-elected Sec. and Treas. At this meeting 300 Rs. were voted to the Poona poor. On the 25th August a letter was read from Lodge Benevolent on the subject of a Provincial Grand Lodge of Bombay, but the question was postponed till the 15th September, and then again postponed till a more favourable opportunity. Early in the year 1828 it was found necessary to suspend the sittings of the Lodge, owing to the exigencies of military service. In the meantime, grave dissatisfaction was felt at the non-receipt of Grand Lodge certificates, and a meeting was called for the 6th September, when it was resolved to apply to the Grand Lodge of England, and also to the Grand Lodge of Coromandel for an explanation. On this occasion, letters were read from the Grand Secretary of England, and from the W.M. of Lodge Benevolent, Bombay, touching the authority for working the Royal Arch Chapter under the authority of a Craft Warrant. 600 Rs. were voted to the Hall funds, which was 1,800 Rs. in debt, and it was also resolved that the Lodge should again meet regularly. This resolution was acted upon, and at the meeting on the 27th December, Bro. W. Grafton was installed W.M., Bros. Schuyler and Martenburg being the new Wardens. Thus the year closed fairly, there having been eight initiations, five passings, one raising, and one advanced to the fourth degree. On St. John the Baptist's Day 1829, the same officers were retained in their respective posts, and the Rev. Bro. Goode delivered a lecture on the history and duties of the Craft. Bro. Groundwater was again chosen W.M. on 27th December. There were seven initiations, and as many passings and raisings, together with five joinings, during this year. On 26th February 1830, as Bro. Groundwater was about to leave the station, Bro. Schuyler was appointed Master in his stead, but on the 24th June Bro. Darby was installed in that office, and appointed Bros. Stirling and Maxwell as S.W. and J.W. respectively. As evidence of the prosperous condition of the Lodge, it is stated that Rs. 2,300 were withdrawn from the Poona Pay Office, and deposited with Messrs. Leckie and Co., Bombay, on the 11th July of this year. On the 5th August, a Hall Committee was formed, and Bro. Darby appointed the first member. About this time, although many civilians had been initiated in the Lodge, application was made to the P.G.M. of the Coast of Coromandel for a dispensation to initiate individuals generally, whenever Lodge Hope of the Deccan was unable to meet, and on 6th September a letter was read from the Prov. G. Treasurer, according the required permission. On 26th November two natives of Persia applied for initiation, but objections were raised, and they were unanimously rejected. Rs. 100 were voted to "The Institution lately established at this station for the relief of the aged, blind, and indigent natives." Bro. Cameron was installed W.M. on the 16th December, and at this meeting it was deemed necessary to appoint four Tylers for the protection of the Masonic Hall and its property. This year, there were eleven initiations, and as many passings, twelve raisings, five advanced to the fourth degree, and one joining. Nothing occurred during the first half-year of 1831, that was worthy of note. On 24th June, the same officers were retained, but Bro. Cooke became Treasurer and Secretary. At this Lodge Rs.300 were voted to be sent to the Rev. T. Carr, Bombay, for charitable purposes, and on 17th August five rupees were subscribed by each member towards the repairs of the Hall. On 24th August, Lord George Thynne, an ensign in the 40th Regiment, was one of the initiates, and on the 25th October Sergeant Major Farrell and Quartermaster King were initiated as serving brethren. The whole of the officers were voted to retain their places on the 27th December, and Rs. 300 voted to the Rev. T. Carr as before, besides Rs.100 to the Poona Bazaar Institution for the relief of the blind, maimed, &c. During this year the Lodge met twenty-six times, and there were twenty-four persons initiated, fourteen passed, ten raised. Seven were advanced to the fourth degree, and ten joined.

All this time, however, that is, from November 1823, the Lodge had been working without a Grand Lodge Warrant or Certificates. On 1st August 1830, Bro. Grafton had gone to England with a commission from the Lodge, and on consulting the Grand Secretary, was surprised to find that no notification of the existence of Orion had reached them, nor any registry or fees been received, though the latter, including the quarterages, had been most regularly paid to the Provincial Grand Lodge of the Coast of Coromandel. Bro. Grafton further ascertained that in granting a Warrant to a Lodge on the Bombay side of India, the P.G. Lodge of Coromandel had exceeded its power, and that nothing remained but for the Lodge to begin again de novo, and to forward a memorial with the usual fees, and a letter explaining the circumstances. This news was received in Poona, 8th August 1831, and caused the utmost consternation among the brethren. However, a memorial, dated the 21st of the same month, was sent, together with the fees, signed by seven P.M.'s and sixty-six members, and on the same day a letter was forwarded to the P.G.M. of Coromandel, detailing all the circumstances, and demanding restitution of the fees paid by Orion. The writer is in doubt whether the latter request was ever complied with, as a further letter was written on the 16th May 1838, reiterating the demand. The D.P.G.M., however, of Coromandel, replied to the earlier request, by expressing his annoyance that Orion in the West had been so neglected. He further stated, "It appears, by the letter-book of the Provincial Grand Lodge, the sum of forty pounds and upwards—the document is now before me—was remitted to the Secretary of the Grand Lodge of England on the 12th of February 1825, expresly to pay for the Registration of the Warrants working under the Provincial Grand Lodge of the Coast of Coromandel, and that 'Orion in the West,' was included in the list, and, strange to say, the letter from the Provincial Grand Lodge has received a direct confirmation from the Grand Lodge of England forwarding a Grand Lodge registry of their Warrant."

But, on whichever side the fault rests, there appears to have been no other way out of the difficulty than to issue a fresh Warrant, and this was accordingly done on 19th July 1833, the Warrant being signed by H.R.H. the Duke of Sussex. Previously, however, that is, on 4th July 1831, the Grand Secretary, E. Harper, had informed Captain Boyd, W.M. of Lodge Hope, at the time working at Ahmednuggur, that in constituting Lodge Orion in the West, the P.G.L. Coromandel had acted illegally, as the latter had no power to establish Lodges beyond the limits of its territory.

But to resume our narrative. On 11th January 1832, Bro. Cooke was elected and installed W.M., vice Bro. Cameron leaving Poona, and the latter was presented by the Lodge with a "Master Mason's Jewel," while Bro. Schuyler presented the Lodge with a set of Masonic books. At this time, we read of a Bro. St. Clair being Secretary and Treasurer, the said brother having been the first initiated by dispensation, under twenty-one years of age. The circumstances, being of a peculiar character, are noted. They were as follow:—"Lieut. William Augustus St. Clair, of the Horse Artillery in this Presidency, is the only uninitiated officer of the mess of his corps, and, in consequence, on all occasions of Masonic assembly he is excluded, much against their inclination, from the society of his brother officers. But this is not the only inconvenience which his exclusion from the brotherhood produces; his presence necessarily operates sometimes as a restraint on conversation, and he is painfully conscious that it does so." The 24th October 1832 was the last meeting held in that year, and, on that occasion, the sum of Rs. 600, from the Lodge funds, was presented to the widow of the late Bro. Riddle.

Owing to the exigencies of the service, the Lodge did not meet again till the 4th June 1836, when the Warrant, which had been in the meanwhile received from Grand Lodge England, was, for the first time, displayed in open Lodge. On this occasion, Bro. Balbiac was chosen W.M., and appointed Bros. Foster S.W., Secretary and Treasurer, Adams J.W., Hogart S.D., St. Clair J.D., Wylie and Carter Tylers. The Lodge met six times this year, four being initiated, two passed, and two raised, but no mention is made of the Fourth Degree after the Lodge was temporarily closed in 1832. In 1837, only one meeting of the Lodge was held, when Bro. Briaux, of the 4th Light Dragoons, was passed. At this meeting, it was resolved that "all Lodges working in the Hall should pay Rs. 5 monthly to 'Orion in the West,' it being the property of the Lodge." Lieut. W. C. Say, R.A., was initiated at a meeting on the 16th June, Bro. Forster S.W. in the chair, and on the 25th of the same month, the same Bro. Forster was elected and installed W.M., and appointed Bros. Adams S.W., Cotgrave J.W., and St. Clair Secretary and Treasurer.

The accounts for the quarter to 17th April, presented the following aspect:—Receipts, including balances brought forward, namely, £414 6s and £172 7s 11d, £1,097 17s 4d; expenditure, including by purchase of £300 Consols, £288, £592 9s 10d; leaving balances, £425 19s 1d and £179 8s 5d.

The following petitions had been received and recommended to be granted.

Pentangle Chapter, No. 1174, Chatham, Kent.
Dunheved Chapter, No. 789, Launceston, Cornwall.
Brent Chapter, No. 1284, Topsham, Devon.
Bertha Chapter, No. 31, Canterbury, Kent.
United Strength Chapter, No. 228, Guildhall Tavern, E.C.
New Concord Chapter, No. 813, Southgate-road, Islington.
Progress Chapter, No. 1185, Lahore, Punjab.
Caltbrop Chapter, No. 1439, Palumpore, Kagra, Punjab.

The appeal of Comp. Matthew Cooke and others, of the Royal Union Chapter, No. 382, Uxbridge, then came before Grand Chapter. The papers being very voluminous, and every Companion having had the opportunity of reading them, they were taken as read. Comp. Cooke then stated his case. The objections he urged against the suspension of the Chapter and its principals were that (1) he had only received one summons before suspension, and (2) that he had been cited to appear before the P.G. Supt. at a place without the Province. The Grand Registrar gave it as his opinion that in consequence of these informalities, the appeal must be sustained and the suspension withdrawn. At the same time he ruled that Comp. Cooke was wrong in not acknowledging the P.G. Supintendent, as he was the representative, in the Province, of H.R.H. the Grand Z., and allegiance, therefore, was due to the Prov. Grand Superintendent. On this, the acting Grand Z. submitted the decision to Grand Chapter, and the withdrawal of the suspension was approved. Grand Chapter was then closed.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Indigestion.—How much thought has been bestowed, and what ponderous volumes have been written upon this plague of every household, which is with certainty and safety dispelled without fear of relapse, by a course of this purifying, soothing and tonic medicine. It acts directly on the stomach, liver and bowels—more indirectly, though not less effectively on the brain, nerves, vessels and glands, and communicates such order throughout the entire system that harmony dwells between each organ and its functions. Dyspepsia can no longer be the terror of the public, since Holloway's Pills are fully competent to subdue the most chronic and distressing cases of impaired digestion, and to restore the miserable sufferer to health, strength, and cheerfulness.

TREDEGAR LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 1625.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I note with some regret that in your report last week of the meeting of this Lodge of Instruction on the 23rd ult., a difficulty arose about a proposed vote of £5 to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. I feel confident our esteemed Bro. Barnes must be labouring under some misapprehension of the circumstances he alluded to, or he would not have raised any opposition to the vote. I fancy he and the brethren of the Tredegar Lodge of Instruction will find I am right in stating, that Bro. Terry will be only too happy to hand over the Eastern Star proxies to the new Tredegar Lodge of Instruction, when evidence has been furnished to him of the amalgamation of the two Lodges, or rather of the transformation of the Eastern Star into the Tredegar. I think Bro. Terry is justified in asking thus much. If any difficulty hereafter arise—and difficulties occasionally intervene even in the best-regulated societies—and the Eastern Star Lodge of Instruction should be revived under the auspices of its parent Lodge, Bro. Terry might find himself in a predicament. I do not say such an event is at all likely to happen, but it is right that a brother holding an important office should guard himself against all eventualities. The revival of the Eastern Star Lodge of Instruction, though it may be in the highest degree improbable, is far from being impossible. If it should be so revived, how about Bro. Terry and the proxies then, unless he has some written evidence to show how he has disposed of them and on what grounds?

Yours fraternally,

LITERA SCRIPTA MANET.

THE RECENT ELECTION FOR THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Logomachy is a very poor substitute for an argument to vindicate the claims of a sorrowing widow and a forlorn orphan. If, however, any parties will now unite to secure votes to place the boy Cox in the Masonic School at the next election, my anxiety and exertions will be amply repaid.

I do not discover as yet how "an unknown," and yet "well known" writer, has, by his pen, added anything relevant to the distressing case, and if evidence was wanting to substantiate the allegation of being "vituperative," the letter of the writer, in last week's issue, abundantly supplies it. He is kind enough to style me "learned;" but I confess I do not understand what Londinensis means. Londiniensis is something intelligible. But let us pass to the inexorable logic of facts; premising a few criticisms on the verbiage of logical assumption, conceding the superiority of the writer as a dialectician in the use, but not in the detection of the fallacy of petitio principii, or begging the question; for the writer's first letter proceeded on the fallacy, that all the gentlemen who recommended the case were bound to record all their votes to this candidate, young Cox, and to no other; which the writer well knew that local circumstances and other obligations prevent. I must be excused if I consider a conclusion drawn from such assumed figures or premises to be illusory: or, as common folks say, "throwing dust in people's eyes."

When the expression of an opinion is couched in language as the result of deliberation of a superior judgment, that, I call an "assertion;" or an affirming or maintaining, viz., that my suggestion "would not be wise;" and the reason assigned—I did not write pretext—was that the parties who had backed up the case had been remiss in their duties. This was really implied, if not expressed; otherwise upon the assumed calculation (which I venture to submit was groundless) the boy's success was certain long ere this time, so that the blame rests, as imputed, entirely with his supporters, which I emphatically deny, and can prove the contrary.

There were, as I learn, five or six other cases for the Devonshire brethren, claiming their support. They brought up 889 votes a fortnight ago, to bring an orphan girl, the daughter of an excellent Mason, now deceased, into the Masonic Girls' School, and were successful. Neither the Rev. C. J. Martyn nor myself has been inattentive to this case. We are supporting him "thoroughly." We are corresponding with some influential Devonshire brethren on the case. I had reason to fear that the poor distressed widow, driven by force of circumstances out of Devonshire to "Glebe Cottage, Stanstead, Sudbury, Suffolk," was "out of sight, out of mind," even if Frater Londinensis were fortunate enough to escape this unhappy predicament. But she is not altogether, thank goodness. One of the Devonshire brethren writes to me, "What can we do in the case of young Cox, without much extraneous aid? We are doing all we can with our comparative few votes. There are five other Devonshire cases like it. I admit that the case of Cox is most deserving." The D.P.G. Master of the Province writes to me:—"I know the case of Cox well: it is most deserving; but we must get in the poor orphan girl Clase this time." The Province of Devonshire, therefore, is "not indifferent" to this case; and surely neither Brother Martyn nor myself. Will our excellent brother "Frater Londinensis" render his superior logical skill and tact to our aid? We shall hail them, with his powerful assistance and influence, as omnipotent auxiliaries.

I must not forget to ask him how an inconclusive argument can be relevant to the cogency of reasoning? In other words, can there be a logical conclusion, where there is a fallacy in one of the premises? Or, can such illicit process be otherwise than irrelevant to argument, and to the benefit of the case?

I am afraid that my brother's "harmless" letter is of a negative character, in the interest of George Samuel Cox. I ask for powerful, numerical, positive aid; for votes to be sent to the Rev. C. J. Martyn, Melford Rectory, Suffolk, or to myself, for the election in October next. One thing is very certain, that I have aroused our good brother to one weighty consideration most worthy of his very serious undivided attention, "that it will not add to our reputation for Masonic Charity, if it be known as a matter of fact, that a poor orphan is not to be aided on the merits of his case, but solely on account of his being the protégé of the influential and wealthy." What this has to do with the Boys' School, is his concern, and that of every Life Governor; but, better still than all banter, cavil, or logomachy, let us have the benefit, for immediate application, of his superior dialectics, comprehensive organisation, and influential support to bring in young Cox at the next election for admission of candidates into the Royal Masonic Boys; and then we will accord him the first and leading position in the triumph. Hoping that my cognomen will not detract in any wise from securing the blessing of one ready to perish, and that every voter to the Boys' Masonic School who is not pledged, will now come to the rescue of George Samuel Cox, by forwarding to us or pledging their votes in his favour at the next election,

I am, faithfully yours,

DANIEL ACE, D.D., P.M. 1232,

P.G.C. for Lincolnshire.

Laughton Vicarage, near Gainsborough, 30th April 1877.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

(ENGLISH CONSTITUTION.)

AT the Special Meeting held on Thursday, the 8th February 1877, there were present:—Bros Ernest O. Smith D.D.G.M. (in the chair), John Williams P.D.G.M., Owen S. Evans S.D.G.W., A. Gardner J.D.G.W., Wazir Beg M.D. LL.D. D.G.C., W. H. Simpson D.G. Treas., T. S. Bullard D.G. Reg., R. Lewerthy D.G.S., W. D. Banks sen. D.G.D., N. J. Robit son D.G.S. of W., J. S. Gordon D.G.D. of C., J. E. Grahame D.G. Asst. D. of C., H. J. Wager D.G. Purs., S. A. De Liesa D.G. Tyler, several District Grand Stewards, Past District Grand Lodge Officers, other Brethren, and representatives of the following Lodges:—Australia No. 390, Harmony No. 556, Cambrian No. 626, Robert Burns No. 817, Balmain 868, United Service No. 937, Unity 169, Cumberland 1568, St. Leonards Samaritan (U.D.), and Prince of Wales (U.D.)

The District Grand Lodge was opened in form at 8 p.m. After prayer by the District Grand Chaplain, the D.D.G.M. requested the D.G. Sec. to read a letter received from R.W. Bro. A. T. Holroyd; also copy of letter addressed by him to the Grand Sec., tendering his resignation of the office of District Grand Master.

The D.D.G.M. stated that the Meeting was called for the purpose of nominating a Brother to succeed Bro. A. T. Holroyd, as D.G.M. of the Colony. R.W. John Williams, Past D.G.M. proposed His Excellency Sir Hercules Robinson, the Representative of Her Majesty in the Colony, to fill the Office. He was sure, should the Governor be elected, it would be a great advancement to the Craft, and Masonry in general in the Colony. P.M. Westcott seconded the nomination. The D.D.G.M. said he was not really aware if the Governor was a Freemason, and if so, to which Constitution he belonged, but accepted the assurance of Bro. Williams, that the nomination of the Governor was made with his knowledge and consent, and with his intention to act if elected. Bro. Williams announced that the Governor was a Scotch Freemason, and that he would be pleased to accept the office of G.M. P.M. Senior argued that it was not necessary that a candidate for the office should be a member of any Lodge in the Colony. After some further discussion, the D.D.G.M. very much regretted to say that so far as they had proceeded, he was of opinion that the Governor was not qualified, but before deciding, he should like to hear the opinion of some other brethren upon the subject, though he feared that nothing could be advanced to alter his opinion. P.M. T. A. Strickland objected to the nomination; it appeared to him that, as any brother who was a candidate for the office of W.M. of a Lodge, must have served as Warden for twelve months, and must be enrolled in the Books of the Grand Lodge of England, it was equally necessary that a candidate for the District G.M.'s chair should be so enrolled, and more than that, he should be a Past Master, who had ruled a Lodge. All knew that if a New Lodge was to be constituted, the Petition to the Grand Master must be signed by at least seven brethren whose names are on the Registry of the Grand Lodge of England, so that it stands to reason if the rule is so rigidly enforced in the case of the Masters, Wardens, and Founders of a New Lodge, it must be intended to be enforced in the case of a candidate for the highest position amongst us. In his opinion, we ought and cannot go beyond the bounds of our own Constitution for a ruler, and he would say more, that none but a Past Master should be eligible. P.M. R. P. Abbott M.P. quite agreed with the remarks of the last speaker, and held that as no brother ought to be accepted as a candidate for the chair unless he had served the office of Warden, and been Master of a Lodge, he considered that, therefore, the Governor was not qualified to hold the office. He fully admitted the ability of the Governor, still, by the Book of Constitutions, "eminence and ability in the Craft" was essential, and this should be considered when they thought of passing over very old and deserving Past Masters and District Grand Lodge Officers. P.M. J. S. Gordon said he would oppose the nomination being received, excepting under protest, as there was actually no evidence before the meeting to prove that Sir Hercules Robinson was even a Master Mason. R.W. John Williams said that, by the Constitutions, brethren of eminence and ability in the Craft might be appointed District G.M., though not members of our own Constitution. P.M. Simpson said it appeared to him that the meeting had been called too early, for the important matter required more ventilation. The country Lodges had not had an opportunity of being present, and now a technical point has been raised that may be good, viz.:—That his Excellency, not being a Master Mason under the English Constitution, is disqualified—he could join an English Lodge, and he thought it was a pity to hurry the business to-night on this point, and, therefore, he moved the adjournment of the meeting for a month, so that the Governor might qualify himself. P.M. Mitchell seconded the motion, he had invited the Governor to visit his Lodge, but, at the last moment, he excused his attendance on account of having a visitor. No doubt if the Governor was elected as their District G.M., it would be a very great honour conferred on them. The D.D.G.M. said, that under existing circumstances the responsibility rested solely with him to make the best arrangements. He desired that there should be no undue haste, as he also intended that there should be no unnecessary delay. Every member of the District Grand Lodge had long since had the printed report of the proceedings of the last meeting, at which Bro. Holroyd stated he was going to resign, so that neither town or country members could plead ignorance of what the proceedings were to be this evening. He believed this, the time fixed for the nomination, the proper one. So important a matter as the appointment of Bro. Holroyd's successor, should not be allowed to hang before their eyes perhaps indefinitely, but should, as it can be, settled promptly. He would remind Bro. Simpson that it was the prerogative of the D.G.M. to call Special Meetings when and where he thought proper, and that no motion could be submitted by which he would be dictated to in the matter. At present he was only temporarily the head of the Craft, and while he held that important post he should zealously guard the rights of the Master's gavel, and allow no infringements to be attempted through his instrumentality. He regretted, therefore, he could not submit the motion. Supposing a further time was allowed, who could say if the Governor would avail himself of the opportunity of qualifying himself for the office by submitting to the ballot in a private Lodge? Possibly he might not do so. It was no fault of his that the Governor's supporters did not ascertain his qualifications before putting him in nomination, they had ample time to do so. The D.D.G.M. then retired. The D.S.G.W., O. S. Evans, taking the chair. P.M. Bullard D.G. Reg. nominated Bro. Ernest Octavius Smith, the present D.D.G.M., and a Past Senior Deacon of the Grand Lodge of England; in doing so, he said the qualifications essential for the office were a thorough knowledge of, and ability to preside over the Craft, and a good social position. P.M. Smith possessed these. As a Freemason, all knew his worth. He had been Master of a Lodge seven times. He had been Deputy for ten years, and has been unceasing in his zeal and attention to Masonry. He had taken part in every Masonic movement. He drafted Bye-laws, attending every meeting of Committees when framing them, and the Laws for the Benevolent and Orphan Committees; he had great experience in Freemasonry, and was most eminently qualified to be their head. He did not believe they had ever had so hard-working and efficient a Mason amongst them, or one so well suited to be the District G.M. P.M. Strickland seconded the motion. He thought Bro. Smith in every way most suitable, and he considered that he ought, without doubt, to be elected to the office. P.M. Grahame also supported the motion. P.M. Senior thought Bro. Smith had had quite enough of office; he had held that of D.D.G.M. for ten years, a period far too long for any one to occupy the position. He fully admitted, and always had done so, the great ability, zeal, and attention that Bro. Smith had shown in Masonry, but still he had been Deputy for ten years, so ought now to retire. P.M. Abbott could not agree with Bro. Senior, that Bro. Smith had been too long in office, it is admitted by every one that he has performed the Deputy's duties with the greatest zeal, intelligence, and ability; indeed, no one could have performed them as satisfactorily. Yet for all this he has not had the honour of being at the Head of the Craft. He had known Bro. Smith for a great many years, and was persuaded that no one would make so good a District G.M. as he. He thought after Bro. Smith's long and useful career in Freemasonry, that it would be most ungrateful if they did not elect him to the high position of D.G.M., for which he is a candidate. With regard to His Excellency, who is also a candidate, he considered the fact of his being a Scotch Mason, as stated by Bro. Williams, and not an English one. P.M. Thomas rose to a point of order. He did not think Bro. Abbott justified in again speaking upon the subject of the Governor's nomination and qualifications, as he had already done so. D.G.S.W. as presiding officer, sustained the objection raised to Bro. Abbott's proceeding. P.M. Wilkins believed that it was well known that the present Grand Master was initiated in Sweden, and yet his Royal Highness was elected to the highest position in the Craft. P.M. A. W. Manning, Past D.D.G.M. of Queensland, said that before the Prince of Wales was made Past G.M. of England, he was made a member of an English Lodge, over which he presided, and so become a Past Master under the English Constitution before he took his rank in Grand Lodge. P.M. Davidson said the G.M. could, under his warrant, appoint a Bro. to any office, and quoted the Book of Constitutions to support his idea. The D.D.G.M. having resumed the chair, P.M. Kennedy nominated Bro. John Williams as D.G.M. He did not intend to say much. The reason he nominated that Bro. was that in the event of the nomination of the Governor being declared invalid, Bro. Smith would be elected without opposition, which he hoped would not be the case—he would try and prevent it. He considered Bro. John Williams in every way qualified to fill the Office, the duties of which he had before discharged, and while he gave Bro. Smith great credit for the very zealous and able way in which he had discharged his duty as deputy, he objected to his having continued in office for so long as ten years. P.M. Solfe seconded the nomination, he had previously performed the duties satisfactorily, and he did not approve of Bro. Smith holding office any longer. P.M. Simpson supported the nomination, because it appeared to him that a technical point would be taken against the Governor's nomination. He believed that Bro. Smith had performed his duty most zealously and efficiently, but considered no Bro. should hold office longer than three years. The D.D.G.M. said that matters were now becoming very complicated, for the Governor was in the position of being opposed by his proposer, which he thought most unseemly. And then having ascertained that there were no other nominations, proceeded to review the remarks that had been made. With regard to the Governor's nomination, he considered it quite clear that, under the Constitutions, he was not qualified. So far as he knew, he has little or no interest in Freemasonry, for he has not during his Administration of the Government in any way identified himself with Masonry, or its Charities. Upon his arrival, had he expressed his wish to affiliate with a Lodge under either Constitution, though without personally attending it, and had he recognised and assisted us, then I say he would have shown an interest in Freemasonry. Had he been a Member of our Constitutions I should gladly have seen him presiding over us, but our Laws and Constitutions cannot suffer violation, even for so distinguished a gentleman. Ten years ago Bro. Williams suddenly resigned this Chair; it is upwards of ten years since this brother has been in his place in this Lodge, where he appears to improperly submit the Governor's name to a free, and in my opinion a very undesirable discussion. As to Bro. Senior, many amongst us can recall, how, when our last election took place, he brought out the late Dr. Williams, who was almost unknown in our ranks. Had these two distinguished brethren asked for a special Meeting of the District Grand Lodge, to consider the propriety of asking the Governor to come out, and I had received a requisition with fifteen or twenty names thereto, I would have convened such a meeting. Would not this have been a more dignified course than for these two brethren to dictate to some thirty or forty Lodges who was to preside over them? I submit that it would have been more discreet if, before replying to these two brethren, his Excellency had sent for and conferred with Brother Holdroyd or myself, when he would have been informed he was not, by our Constitutions, qualified to be nominated; I do not revel in the great privilege of easy, private entrée and audience at Government House, if I did I should be careful not to abuse it, as I think has been done in making a tool of the Governor, for party and selfish ends. Surely Worshipful Brethren will see that in the course pursued by these brethren a serious blow has been aimed at propriety and order, and I trust that the example they have set will not be followed, but that all our proceedings will be transacted openly, and that we shall not again find one or two members of District Grand Lodge assuming the office of Delegates to induce the Governor to come out, or to do some equally important acts without the knowledge or advice of this Lodge. Much has been said about the Grand Master's power under Patent, and the rules of the Grand Lodge quoted, but where we have the District Grand Lodge laws to guide us, we do not require to refer to that of the Grand Lodge, and what is it that is relied on by those who have quoted from the laws of the Grand Lodge? It is that the Most Worshipful Grand Master may, by Warrant, appoint brethren of eminence and skill to represent him in a sister Grand Lodge, and he may make distinguished brethren deputed from sister Grand Lodges members of Grand Lodge, with such rank as he pleases. We are not a sister Grand Lodge, we are only a subordinate to a Grand Lodge, that of England. The sister Grand Lodges are of Ireland, Scotland, Canada, Germany, &c., so that the law quoted in no way touches the case under our notice. In like manner, the case of the Prince of Wales and the present are as widely different. What do we find was the case with that exalted personage? Even he had to affiliate with a Lodge under the English Constitution, and even went further, for he was a Worshipful Master and a Past Master, thus actually attaining a seat in Grand Lodge before he was made Past Grand Master and afterwards Grand Master. If this routine was necessary in his case, a similar qualification and membership must be quite as much so in the Governor's. The ordeal through which our Grand Master consented to pass was intended to form a precedent, and a very proper one for guidance in any similar cases. Under these circumstances, can it be argued that a technical point is raised? It is a broad and fundamental principle that is sought to be set aside. It has been remarked that, if the Governor is elected, this will be the only one of the colonies where the Governor presides over the Craft. Of this I am aware, and I think the Governors of the Colonies are wise not to fill an office by which they must place themselves in antagonism to a large and important section of the community over which they preside. This is a point that could not have escaped his Excellency's consideration. I much regret that the Governor was not qualified, but this disqualification was no fault of mine. If the Governor was a duly qualified and eligible candidate for this Chair, and it was shown to be the wish of the Craft that he should occupy it, I should be the last to put any impediment or obstacle in the way of his election, and I believe that the majority of my hearers will give me credit for sincerity when I say that under such circumstances I would have relinquished my ardent expectations to fill the distinguished position for which I may humbly submit I have claims and qualifications. For the past few days wild rumours have been floating about, and much mystery displayed; but until the Governor was nominated here to-night, I did not know that he would be. I regret that I must still longer tax your patience, whilst I refer to matters in District Grand Lodge. When the Right Worshipful Bro. John Williams resigned, many of the then most influential members of the Craft pressed me to be nominated for the District Grand Mastership, because they were pleased to say I was fitted for the position. After their repeated requests and assurances that my election would be certain, if not unanimous, I positively refused; first, because that, in conjunction with some prominent brethren, I had been instrumental in causing the Right Worshipful Brother John Williams to abandon the chair, I did not care immediately to succeed him; secondly, I considered myself then too young for so important an office; and, thirdly, I thought it undesirable that the occupant of the chair should be employed in a Government Office. For these three reasons I declined to be put in nomination, though fully qualified, being then a Past Master under the English Constitution. I strongly recommended the election of Bro. Holroyd, because I felt that his age, experience, the nature of his profession, combined with the tact he had evinced as Parliamentary Chairman of Committees, would all prove most beneficial to us. By request I communicated with Bro. Holroyd, and the good results are patent to us all. I strongly urged that Past Master Israel should be Deputy, as I thought he deserved the position. However, Bro. Holroyd pressed me to take the Collar, which I did, and he appointed Bro. Senior District Grand Senior Warden. After four years I asked to be relieved of the office, because I had had it long enough, but Bro. Holroyd assured me that if I relinquished office he also would do so, an event that I considered would have been most disastrous to the Craft. Twice after this I resigned, and named twelve brethren from whom to select my successor. Finally, Bro. Holroyd said he should resign when he had held office ten years, and urged that I should continue to be his Deputy till then, otherwise he would resign before. How could I have left him under these circumstances, he having placed me in the honourable position I hold? Hence, against my will, and at inconvenience and loss of time to myself, I have for some years continued as Deputy, because I felt that Bro. Holroyd's retention of office was absolutely essential for our Masonic well-being. Though I feel I may now be addressing many unwilling ears, I assure you this narration is true, and I ask, is it generous, that when I seek advancement and honour amongst you that it should be sought to withhold it from me, on the ground that I have been ten years Deputy; and yet those who advance this objection place in opposition to me the Right Worshipful Bro. John Williams, who was Deputy for sixteen years, and District Grand Master for five, in all twenty-one years in office? You are aware that after a year or so I had nothing to gain in Masonic position by continuing in office, for the Past Deputy has really no past rank or position, and I had received high honour from the late Most Worshipful Grand Master. I cannot but be very much gratified to find that no one has questioned my ability, industry, zeal, and efficiency as Deputy, and that the only objection to my promotion is the fact of my ten years acknowledged faithful services to Freemasonry, and this is advanced by those who had the opportunity afforded them of shortening my term by taking the Collar when offered to them, so I really do think they are not justified in complaining or seeking to severely punish me for a matter they might themselves have remedied. Much I shall esteem the honour, if elected District Grand Master, and be disappointed if I am not so elected, but I shall bow with submission to the decision of the majority, and endeavour to display and feel the same interest in Freemasonry I have hitherto done. Of this you may be sure—I should not seek the preferment and honour if I did not feel that I have admitted claims upon the Craft to be elected District Grand Master. R.W. Bro. John Williams rose to explain the reason why he was formerly so long in office. He had done much for Freemasonry in this colony, and it was not true that he had deserted it ten years ago, as had been stated that evening. The Past District Grand Master, he considered, was the proper person to ask the Governor to come forward. It was no fault of the Governor that he had not recognised us, because upon his arrival in the colony there was no Address presented to him by the Masons, as there ought to have been. Past Master Senior also wished to explain that nobody knew better than the Deputy, did how he came to propose the late Dr. Williams. He went to his place of business, and bothered and pestered him until he promised to propose him, and that is why he did it. The District Deputy Grand Master said the explanations did not a whit alter the facts as stated by him, that the Right Worshipful Brother John Williams had continued in office some twenty years, and that Bro. Senior had proposed a rival candidate to Bro. Holroyd. In reply to questions put, the District Deputy Grand Master said he would arrange for the election meeting as soon as possible, of course giving sufficient time for the country Lodges to consider and take part in the matter; and with regard to the Governor's qualification, a point on which he was quite clear, he should consult with Bro. Holroyd, and he would make known the result to the Craft. This concluded the business of the District Grand Lodge, which, after prayer by the District Grand Chaplain, was closed in form.

CONSECRATIONS.

MORNINGTON LODGE, No. 1672.

ANOTHER addition has been made to the magnificent roll of Lodges registered in the books of the Grand Lodge of England, and to all appearances, this latest bantling has every chance of maturing into a sturdy member of the Masonic family. It has been ushered into life under most favourable circumstances, and in a locality well calculated to speed its growth and ensure future prosperity. Its birthplace, the Eagle, Snaresbrook, in Essex, stands on a charming spot, not so distant as to be difficult of access, yet far enough away from the noisy and turbulent metropolis as to be environed by gladsome rural scenes full of peace and sleepy quietness, pleasant walks and homesteads full of ease and comfort, into which the wearied city man is glad to retreat as soon as his day's worry is over. Like at a Royal court where high dignitaries of State are summoned to bear witness to the advent of a new Royal personage, so were present on this occasion Masonic eminences to assist the entrance into the world of this young offspring of the body Masonic. First and foremost was to be seen the venerable and V.W. Bro. John Hervey G.S., whom H.R.H. the M.W. Grand Master had deputed to act as consecrating officer. Next were to be observed the V.W. Bro. Buss, the newly appointed A.G.S., who, on this occasion, performed the duties of D.C., V.W. Bro. E. P. Albert P.G.P. acting S.W., W. Bro. James Terry P.P.G.D. Herts, Sec. R.M.B.I. as J.W., and W. Bro. Rev. R. M. Holden P.G.C. Middlesex as I.P.M. The imposing and highly impressive ceremony of consecration was conducted by Bro. John Hervey with his well known abilities, the Rev. R. M. Holden delivering the oration and prayers. After the Lodge was formally dedicated, Bro. W. R. Marsh P.M. 9, 933 and 1000, the W.M. designate, was presented, and, in conformity with ancient usage, inducted as first Master of the new Lodge. The Board of Installed Masters consisted of twenty-nine P.M.'s and W.M.'s. The first address was given by Bro. Hervey, the installing Master, the second by Bro. Terry, and the third by Bro. Holden. The musical arrangements at the consecration, installation and banquet were under the direction of Bro. Dr. James F. Haskins, Organist to the Earl of Zetland Lodge, No. 1364, assisted by Bros. T. W. Simons, G. T. Carter and R. Farquharson. The brethren expressed their gratitude and gratification to Bro. Hervey and the eminent brethren who so ably assisted him, by conferring honorary membership upon them all. The following are the officers designated and appointed:—Bros. R. W. Marsh W.M., F. E. Cockett S.W., G. Blackman J.W., John Cook Treasurer, D. King Secretary, S. Redfearn S.D., W. B. Salisbury J.D., J. W. Pollard I.G., S. Costa D.C., J. Lenster Steward. A banquet followed. The proceedings were unusually protracted, in consequence of which, as many had to return to town by the various trains, the W.M. very considerately submitted the various toasts with as few words as possible and they were responded to with equal brevity. Several of the songs, &c., on the programme were also omitted. The visitors were:—Bros. F. Binckes Sec. R.M.I.B., H. Massey P.M. 619, Charles Lacey P.M. P.P.G.D. Herts, W. T. Scott W.M. 9, H. Gomperts J.W. 1364, W. G. Clark P.M. 101, A. Looking P.M. 160, S. A. Thompson 9, W. Bristo W.M. 860, S. A. Nairn P.M. 176, E. Wright W.M. 1364, H. Marfleet P.M. 217, E. Brown 1598, B. Blunsen 742, W. Chrishmas 312, W. Bailey S.W. 49, W. Wilson 402, S. Rawley P.M. 174, John G. Stevens P.M. and W.M. 933, T. W. Simons 1185, T. Mortlock P.M. 186, J. W. Litson 1306, R. G. Thomas 1602, G. T. Carter P.M. 382, T. A. Biancho P.M. 1598, J. Turner 49, Wallington P.M. 860, Thomas Barford P.M. 55, T. Austin P.M. 933, E. Gotsheil P.M. 141, &c.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT MARK LODGE, No. 199.

IT has seldom been our privilege to record a more interesting proceeding than the consecration of the above Lodge, which took place on Friday, the 27th instant, at the Havelock Hotel, Albion-road, Dalston. A special dispensation had been granted for the purpose of advancing several brethren to the Mark degree, in order that they might be present and take part in the ceremony and consecration; accordingly, at the appointed hour of three p.m., Bro. F. Binckes Grand Secretary M.M.M., took the chair, and was supported by Bros. James Stevens as S.W., S. Lazarus J.W., C. F. Matier Chaplain and D. of C., and J. B. Shackleton I.G. The Lodge was then opened, and the following brethren were advanced:—Bros. Oscar Dietrich 1524, W. Fieldwick 1364, John Stokes 1524, James Lorkin 192, Henry Godfrey 382, Charles Johnson 1524, F. Bonner 1524, G. Ferrar 1524, W. Ferrar 1524, J. F. Lovelock 212, A. Kelday, W. Jetson Brewster 1489, W. B. Delafons 1623, and Henry Thompson Scotch Constitution. Bro. Binckes then proceeded with the ceremony of consecration, which, it is needless to add, was performed most impressively, he delivering the oration customary on these occasions; in the course of which he gave some account of the constitution of Mark Masonry, and its intimate connection with the Fellow Craft degree. The chair was then taken by Bro. C. F. Matier, and Bro. J. B. Shackleton W.M. designate was presented by Bro. Davison, and installed with the usual ceremony. The following brethren were appointed and invested, viz., Bros. Bernard Meyer S.W., Henry Meyer J.W., Ernest Dietrich M.O., W. Fieldwick S.O., Jas. F. Lovelock J.O., John Stokes Registrar, Frederick Bonner S.D., Charles Johnson J.D., Oscar Dietrich Organist, James Lorkin I.G., W. Gilchrist Tyler. The appointments to the Treasurership and Secretaryship were held over. Several propositions for advancement and joining were handed in. The following were elected honorary members of the Lodge:—Bros. F. Binckes, C. F. Matier, S. Lazarus, James Stevens, F. H. Cozens, F. Davison, H. W. Binckes, and John Constable. After the transaction of the necessary business, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet, which was admirably served by "mine host" of the Albion. Upon the removal of the cloth, Bro. Shackleton proposed the usual toasts, prefacing each with a few suitable and well chosen remarks, which were appreciated by those present. Bro. Matier replied for the Grand Officers past and present, and Bro. Davison for the Province. In proposing the consecrating Officers, the W.M. spoke at length, not only on the manner in which Bro. Binckes had fulfilled his duty on that occasion, but also on the zeal and energy he displayed at all times in the fulfilment of his onerous duties as Grand Secretary and Secretary to the R.M.I.B., he concluded an effective speech by expressing a hope that Brother Binckes might be long spared to continue the work he performed so well. Bro. Binckes, in reply, acknowledged the compliments of the W.M., and expressed himself at all times willing to advance the interests, not only of Mark Masonry, but of Freemasonry generally. He also enlarged upon the charitable aspect of the Craft, and although he did not feel called upon on this occasion to press the brethren too urgently to support the institutions connected with Freemasonry, still he considered it to be his duty to urge upon their notice the plan devised by his friend, Brother Constable for aiding the funds of the school, of which he was secretary, and he trusted they would not separate that evening until each member had taken at least one of Bro. Constable's shilling tickets. We have great pleasure in adding that this appeal was cordially responded to, and no less than fifty-one tickets were disposed of, and the whole number deposited with the Master for the benefit of the Lodge. Bro. Binckes next proposed the health of the W.M. in his usual finest terms, and congratulated him on the position he had attained in Mark Masonry; at the same time, he wished the W.M. and the Lodge a long career of uninterrupted prosperity. Bro. Shackleton feelingly acknowledged the compliment on his own behalf, as well as that of the Lodge. Bro. S. B. Ellis (Sheffield) replied for the visitors. The toasts of the advancees and officers were duly given and acknowledged, and the Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. It is obvious, from the fact of there being no less than twenty-nine candidates entered on the list on this occasion for advancement, that the inauguration of the Duke of Connaught Lodge at Dalston, has not taken place a moment too soon, and we doubt not that now Mark Masonry has established its footing in this neighbourhood, it will fare as prosperously as in other parts of England. It may be interesting to some of our readers to know that during the last four years as many as 30 Lodges have been consecrated, and there is every prospect of this number being still further increased.

The New Practical Window Gardener. Being practical directions for the cultivation of flowering and foliage plants in windows and glazed cases, and the arrangement of plants and flowers for the embellishment of the household. By John R. Mollison. Illustrated with coloured plates and wood engravings. London: Groombridge and Sons, 1877.

We strongly advise those of our readers who are minded to cultivate the art of window gardening to take Mr. Mollison as their "guide, philosopher and friend." That gentleman has keen appreciation of the beautiful, a thorough practical knowledge of floriculture, and shows considerable taste in all that he recommends, in connection with the floral decoration of rooms, balconies, areas and windows. A London house, externally at least, is not particularly cheerful. In the humbler and more crowded thoroughfares, the ugliness of our buildings is exceedingly painful. What a marvellous relief is afforded by the presence of a few bright flowers, may be noted any and every day in the week, if the reader will only look about him during his walks through the streets. It is quite a pleasure to see the taste and skill in decoration which some of our artisan class display in the adornment of their windows, and the pleasure becomes all the greater when we contrast the homes which present this cheerful aspect with others where no care or attention is paid by the occupants to such appearances. Window gardening, however, if it is to be carried out, will require some knowledge of floriculture. It is necessary to understand something about the propagation of plants, their growth in pots or boxes, the kind of soil that suits them best under those conditions, and all about the needful drainage. Something also should be known about the seasons when seeds must be sown, and how they should be sown, as well as about watering, trimming, transplanting from one pot to another, and many other details which will occur to our readers as a matter of course. Now all this knowledge, and, indeed, a great deal more, is to be obtained by studying this work of Mr. Mollison's. He describes to us the most suitable kinds of pots and boxes, the best kinds of soil and drainage, how to pot our plants and water them, how to get rid of insects, what plants belong to different seasons, and what are best grouped together. He is equally careful to give all the needful information about area and balcony gardening, as well as about the decoration of rooms. He tells us under what conditions we may keep plants even in our bed-rooms, and why, under certain and other conditions, they may prove injurious to health. He superadds to all this a list of plants most suitable for house culture, and gardening notes for each month of the year. In fine, Mr. Mollison tells us, in a quiet but thoroughly business-like way, all the information we are likely to require, if we propose to decorate our rooms, either internally or externally, with flowers. We strongly recommend the book to our readers, not only for the valuable matter it contains, but also for the very serviceable illustrations with which it is embellished.

Worshipful Brother W. Andrews jun., has been elected Master of Royal Lodge, No. 207, Kingston, Jamaica, this being the second time that he has been called to occupy the chair of this Lodge.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF CUMBERLAND AND WESTMORELAND.

THE Spring Meeting of this Provincial Grand Lodge was held at the Crown Hotel, Penrith, at the hour of high Twelve on Friday, 27th April. In the unavoidable absence of the Prov. G. Master, the Earl of Bective, the Prov. Grand Lodge was opened by the D.P.G.M., Colonel Whitwell M.P., who was supported by Bros. Kirkbridge S.G.W., John Bowes J.G.W., John Lemon P.P.S.G.W. Treas., W. Gibson P.P.S.G.W. Sec., Whitehead Prov. G. Reg., Dodgson, Prov. G. Par., Geo. Kenworthy P. Prov. G.S.W., Jos. Bintley P.P.G. Sup. of Wks., John Holme P.P.J.G.W., John Talbot P.P.J.G.W., Lamonsby P.M., Isaac Evening S.W. 1002, &c., &c. The business was of an interesting character, and included the presentation of a Charity Jewel to Bro. McKay, for his valuable services both in London and in the Province. On the motion of Bro. Lamonsby, seconded by Bro. Evening, and supported by Bro. Bowes P.J.G.W., it was unanimously resolved to ask the Prov. G. Master to hold the September Meeting of Grand Lodge at Cockermouth. After the conclusion of the business, the brethren sat down to an excellent luncheon, after which the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured.

THE MONTEFIORE LODGE AND THE PRUSSIAN JEWISH DISABILITIES QUESTION.

AT the regular meeting of the above Lodge on the 23rd ult., when the purely Masonic business of the Lodge was completed, the honorary secretary of the Montefiore Committee announced that 230 petitions, relating to the exclusion of non-Christians from the Prussian Lodges, had been returned duly signed, and likewise that several letters fully sympathising with the movement had been received. He further announced that the letter from the Joppa Committee had been considered, and a reply forwarded, in which the Montefiore Committee expressed its willingness to meet the Joppa or any other Committee. This reply was dated 28th March, but no response had yet been made to the offer. We hear that since the above meeting the number of petitions has been increased to 240, and the Committee are anxious that those Lodges which have not yet taken the question into their consideration should do so at the earliest possible opportunity. That our readers may fully realise its importance, we transcribe the words of the 165th section, which have been sent us by a correspondent:—"In the Confederacy of the Grand National Mother Lodge, only such a one can be proposed for initiation into Freemasonry who profess the Christian faith without distinction of creed." The removal of so objectionable a law is desirable, for it is distinctly opposed to the fundamental principles of the Order.

MEETINGS HELD, &c.

Hauraki Chapter, No. 454.—The annual meeting for the installation of officers for the ensuing year was held at the Masonic Hall, Queen-street, Grahamstown, on the 15th February. Several brethren from Auckland attended to assist in the ceremony. The installing officer was Comp. Climo M.D.S.K. The following were duly installed as officers:—Comps. R. M. Mitchell K., Bowden H.P., W. Jenkins C.S., Woodward C.H., S. Mills S.F., S. Catran C.S.V., J. Osborne Treasurer. After which the company proceeded to the Bowen Hotel, where a banquet was provided by Bro. Lymington, and there spent a most agreeable evening. Bro. E. T. Wildman was unavoidably absent through indisposition.

Sir Hugh Middleton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1602.—The usual weekly meeting of this Lodge was held on Friday, the 27th ult., at the King Edward VI., Liverpool-road, Islington. Present—Bro. Knill W.M., A. Rowley S.W., Ross J.W., Lee P.M., Pearcy S.D., Somers J.D., Fenner I.G., Osborne Sec., &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed, after which the ceremony of initiation was very ably rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. W. Rowley acting as candidate. Bro. Lee P.M. then occupied the chair, and the ceremony of installation was rendered by him in his usual admirable manner, he installing Bro. A. Rowley. The officers were then invested, after which the usual addresses were delivered by Bro. Lee. The Lodge was closed in due form and adjourned.

Royal Ark Mariners Lodge, No. 69.—Met on 27th April at 25 Robertson-street, Glasgow. Petitions from three distressed mariners were presented, and they were received on board and duly instructed.

Royal Ark Mariners Lodge, No. 78.—Met at 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow. Petitions were presented from four distressed mariners, who were duly received on board, and instructed in their duties by Comp. Jas. Balfour.

Red Cross Knights of Babylon.—A Council was held on 27th April, at 25 Robertson-street, Glasgow, Sir Knight J. M. Campbell President. Comps. J. Belle-Nair, Tho. Backwood, Wm. McMillan, J. B. Clement, and W. Lightbody, were duly created Knights of the Sword, Knights of the East, and also Prince Masons and Knights of the East and West, all the ceremonies being admirably rendered.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

IN the House of Lords the second reading of the Burials Acts Consolidation Bill was opposed by Earl Granville. A long debate followed, in which, amongst others, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, the Bishops of Winchester, Lincoln, and Oxford, the Marquis of Salisbury and the Duke of Richmond and Gordon took part. On a division, the second reading was affirmed by 141 to 102, the smallness of the majority being the cause of much cheering among the opposition. On Friday, Lord Bury brought the subject of Railway Accidents under the notice of the House. A long and interesting discussion ensued, in which the Earl of Beaconsfield and other peers took part. On Monday, and again on Tuesday, questions were asked of the Government relating to the Russo-Turkish War. On the former day, the Earl of Carnarvon announced that a proclamation of neutrality would be issued, and this, as our readers are aware, has since been done, while on the latter, the Earl of Derby stated that an answer to the Russian Circular was only awaiting the approval of Her Majesty in order to be sent to St. Petersburg. When it had been presented, a copy would be laid on the table of the House.

In the Commons, the greater portion of last Thursday was occupied in Committee on the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge Bill. Some clauses were agreed to, but not without opposition. On Friday a resolution respecting Irish Tenants was moved by the O'Donoghue. A debate followed, and on division, the resolution was lost by 189 to 65. On Monday, Mr. Gladstone laid on the table a series of resolutions which it is his intention to bring forward on the Eastern Question, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer very readily placed Monday, the 7th inst., at the Right Honourable gentleman's disposal. In reply to the Marquis of Hartington, Mr. Bourke said that a proclamation was on the point of being issued. Other questions relating to the same important question having been disposed of, the Committee on the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge Bill was resumed and further progress made. On Tuesday, a motion by Alderman M'Arthur on Ecclesiastical Endowments in Ceylon was only defeated by 147 to 121, a result which was loudly cheered by the opposition. A motion by Mr. Lefevre on the Irish Land Act was acceded to by the Government. Mr. Cross obtained leave to introduce a new Bishoprics Bill, which was subsequently read a first time. The House then set about nominating the Select Committee on the Cattle Plague, and several divisions occurred over sundry of the names submitted, so that the House did not rise till a very advanced hour of the night. On Wednesday, Mr. Holt moved the second reading of a Cruelty to Animals Bill, but he was defeated by 222 to 83. Mr. O. Morgan withdrew his Burial Bill, and then the Assistant County Surveyors (Ireland) Bill was affirmed on its second reading by 211 to 32.

The Queen held a Council at Windsor on Monday afternoon, at which H.R.H. Prince Leopold, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, the Earl of Beaconsfield, the Earl of Derby, the Marquis of Hertford, and Mr. Cross were present. At this meeting the Proclamation of Neutrality, published the same evening in a London Gazette Extraordinary, was submitted to her Majesty and approved. The several ministers had audiences, and subsequently Mr. Justice Fry and Colonel Herbert Sandford R.A. were introduced, and had the honour of knighthood conferred upon them. On Tuesday morning the Queen, accompanied by the Duchess of Edinburgh, the Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold, attended by the usual suite, left the Castle for Buckingham Palace. It being the anniversary of the Duke of Connaught's birthday, his Royal Highness arrived at the Palace from Dublin, and met her Majesty on her arrival. In the afternoon a Drawing room was held at which the Duchess of Edinburgh, Princess Beatrice, the Dukes of Connaught and Cambridge, Prince Christian, and the Duke and Duchess of Teck, were present. It was a Collar day, and therefore the Knights of the several Orders wore their respective Collars. The Foreign Ambassadors and Ministers having been introduced, several presentations were made by certain of them, after which a large number of other presentations were made, the names having been previously left with the Lord Chamberlain, and submitted for her Majesty's approval. On Wednesday morning, the Queen, with other members of the Royal family, paid a visit to the Gardens of the Royal Horticultural Society, South Kensington. The Royal party were received by Lord Aberdare, President of the Society, who attended them round the Exhibition. In the afternoon forty of the boys of Christ's Hospital on King Charles II.'s foundation paid their annual visit to the Palace, for the purpose of submitting their charts and drawings to the Queen. The Queen entered the Picture Room, accompanied by the Princess Beatrice and the Duke of Connaught, and here the boys, with Bro. Allcroft, treasurer, the governors, and two masters, were presented to her Majesty by the Duke of Cambridge, who is President of the School. The Queen was pleased to select a water colour drawing of H.M.S Thunderer, executed by Frank D. Thompsett. On Thusday a second Drawing-room was held. On Monday, her Majesty will visit Aldershot, and hold a review of the troops stationed there. The Prince of Wales reached Marseilles on board H.M.S. Sultan, Captain the Duke of Edinburgh, early on Wednesday morning. He reached Paris on Thursday, and will have reached London ere this record is read by our constituents. He is expected to be present at the Amateur Dramatic Performance at the Opera Comique this afternoon, the proceeds of which will be apportioned equally between the two Schools. On Sunday, the Duchess of Edinburgh attended Divine service at the chapel of the Russian Embassy in Welbeck-street, and offered up prayers for the success of the Russian army. It was also her father's birthday. She dined with the Russian Ambassador, and returned the same evening to Windsor.

On Saturday, her Majesty's Opera was opened for the first time since its re-edification after the fire a few years since. Sir Michael Costa presided in the orchestra, and Mdlle. Titiens was the leading artiste. After "God save the Queen" had been sung, Bellini's opera of Norma was given—how well it is almost needless to say. Madame Valleria and Signor Fancelli and Brocolini were among the other singers. Thus both opera houses are now open, and everything gives the hope that the season at Her Majesty's will be a brilliant one.

Lord Sudeley died a few days since at the early age of 40, having been born on 9th April 1837. He is succeeded in the title by the Hon. Charles D. R. Hanbury-Tracey, M.P. for Montgomery district. This, of course, has created a vacancy in the House of Commons, for which already certain rival candidates are in the field.

On Thursday next the new season at the Alexandra Palace will be inaugurated by the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs, with a considerable amount of ceremony. There will be a grand concert in honour of the event, and in the evening a magnificent display of fireworks. On Friday and Saturday the Alexandra Park Races will be held. We wish the new venture every success.

On Wednesday the Two Thousand was run at Newmarket, and resulted in the victory of Chamant, who stood second in the betting, Brown Prince being second and Silvio third. The victory appears to have been very easily achieved, and, of course, Chamant now stands well in the betting for the Derby. We are now entering upon the full season of sport, as cricket has already commenced in more than one locality, notably at both Universities, and in Gloucestershire. Moreover, a new athletic ground, not far removed from the Lillie-bridge Grounds, has been opened for the special accommodation of the London Athletic Club. There was, of course, a good meet on the occasion, and at the close of the day's sport the Lady Mayoress delivered the prizes to the several winners. On Wednesday and Thursday there was held the first show of the Fox Terrier Club, and the liberal prizes offered brought together no less than 220 entries, who were divided into twelve classes. Mr. F. Burbidge's Nettle was awarded the Challenge Cup of fifty guineas given by the Club, Mr. C. Thelwell Abbott's Archer securing first prize in the Dog Puppy Class, and two extra prizes.

The war has now commenced—in Asia, at least—in stern reality. The Russian army of the Caucasus has invaded Armenia in three corps, and according to the latest accounts received up to the time of writing, the Turkish army in front of Kars—a fortress which played so conspicuous a part in the war of 1854-6,—has been defeated and driven back, under cover of its walls. The Russians have also captured the fort of Bayazid, a position of no little importance. On the other hand, the Turks have repulsed more than one attack on Batoum, a fort of considerable strength on the Black Sea, and are said to have bombarded Poti and another place. In Europe, the Russians have occupied Roumania, and are said to be advancing, but slowly, towards the Danube. The weather however, is most unfavourable. The roads are very heavy, and the reports which reached us during the first days of the war, of large masses of Russians having advanced rapidly, do not appear to be confirmed. They have, however, secured more than one very important position, while the Turks seem to be acting with somewhat of their usual dilatoriness. As yet no one seems to have divined the plans of the Russian Commander-in-Chief. It is even said he will play a waiting game, and endeavour to tire out the Turks. Certainly he may well hesitate, even if there were no heavy and well nigh impassable roads to traverse, about pressing forward too hastily, for the Turks have a strong position, an army respectable in point of numbers and filled with enthusiasm, as well as with the most deadly hatred of foe. They have several very strong fortresses, and also a splendid fleet. In fact, it is generally admitted that Turkey is far better prepared for a successful defence than she was in 1853, when she repelled the attacks of the Russians and defeated them in so many engagements. However, under existing circumstances, we must expect to wait some time ere news of an exciting interest is received. As regards the Russo-Roumanian convention, it is universally condemned, while the Russian edict closing the navigation of the Danube is rumoured to have been cancelled at the special instance of Austria. At home the Government is quietly preparing itself to meet any and every eventuality. If we are not exactly buckling on our armour, we are taking care to see that it is in order and ready, if need be, for immediate use. The Admiralty is quietly seeing that our magnificent ironclads are in condition for sea, and no doubt the War Office is looking well after the army. This is merely enacting the part of a wise man. We trust that England may be spared the necessity of taking part in the struggle, but if not, she will know how to do her duty.

The final meeting of the Board of Stewards for the Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls to be held on the 9th of May, was held on Wednesday, the 2nd inst. Bro. Geo. Kenning in the chair. The minutes of the former meeting were read and confirmed. The drawing for positions took place, and various matters were arranged. A vote of thanks was accorded to the President. A meeting of the Ladies' Stewards was afterwards held. There were also present Bros. Wright, Dr. Morris, R. B. Webster, Tanner, Vine, Stamwitz, J. Bingemann, Farthing, B. Swallow, Massa, Douglass, Garner, Moxon, Nelson Reed, Hobbs, H. M. Levy, &c.

The Stewards' visit to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls is unavoidably postponed by direction of the House Committee on account of late sickness in the school. It is gratifying to announce that the children are now all convalescent.

The first meeting of the Board of Stewards for the approaching Festival of the Boys' School, was held on Wednesday afternoon. Bro. T. Meggy having been voted to the chair, it was announced that up to the present time there were 190 Stewards, a number which, between now and the Festival, it was anticipated would be very largely increased. The Earl of Donoughmore was elected President of the Board, and Bro. Æneas McIntyre, Q.C., as the honorary Vice-President. Bro. Meggy was then chosen to fill the office of Acting Vice-President, Bro. Stpn. Barton Wilson that of Treasurer, and Bro. F. Binckes, as usual, that of Honorary Secretary. It was then determined that the festival should be held at the Alexandra Palace, that as on the last two occasions, ladies should be admitted to be present, and further, that gentlemen who are not Masons should be permitted to attend. The price of tickets was fixed as at previous Festivals, while a Sub-Committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the musical portion of the programme. Other necessary preliminaries having been settled, it was arranged that the next meeting of the Board should be held on Thursday, the 17th instant. A vote of thanks to Bro. Meggy for his services in the chair brought the proceedings to a close. Present—Bros. Meggy, Rosenthal, Tanner, Abrahams, Wilson, C. F. Matier, Constable, Larlham, Thomas, &c., &c., and Bro. Binckes Secretary.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Suffolk will be held at Hadleigh, on Friday, the 29th of June next, under the presidency of Lord Waveney, the Prov. G.M.

It is with very deep regret we announce to our readers the sad death of Bro. Geo. Frank Gouley, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Missouri, at the early age of forty-five. Bro. Gouley and his wife were staying at the Southern Hotel, St. Louis, when the terrible conflagration which destroyed it broke out. They had dressed themselves as soon as the alarm was given, and Mrs. Gouley, with a wet towel over her face, left the room, in the full belief her husband was following her, and escaped. Bro. Gouley, however, is believed to have remained a few minutes to collect some papers or documents, and, on endeavouring to follow, was beaten back by the smoke. He was afterwards seen at the window signalling for a ladder, but before this means of escape could be brought, he is believed to have been rendered insensible. At all events, he fell from the window, and on being picked up was found with his skull fractured, his chest crushed, and one leg and an arm broken. Everything was done to comfort the widow which the sympathy of friends could suggest, though it is impossible the recollection of the terrible calamity can ever be driven from her mind. Let us hope that, as time passes, the bitterness of her great sorrow may be assuaged. Bro. Gouley was born at Wilmington, Delaware, on 15th February 1832. He had received a good academical education, and had studied for the law in the office of Senator Bayard. He had in his time played many parts, as Secretary to Stephen A. Douglas, in the Land Department in Nebraska, and lastly in St. Louis as a bookkeeper; in each and every of these positions he acquitted himself honourably. He was made a Mason in Washington, and after settling in St. Louis became a member of Masonic Lodge No. 1, St. Louis R.A. Chapter No. 8, and St. Louis Commandery No. 1 of Knights Templar. In 1864 he became assistant to Bro. O'Sullivan, Grand Secretary of the Masonic Grand Bodies in Missouri, and on the latter's death, in 1866, succeeded him as Grand Secretary to the Missourian Grand Lodge of A.F. and A.M. This office he held at the time of his death, as well as the offices of Grand Secretary and Grand Recorder of this and other Masonic bodies in the State. For some years he edited and published the St. Louis Freemason, a journal afterwards merged in the Voice of Masonry, to which he was a frequent contributor. Bro. Gouley's body was removed to the Masonic Hall, St. Louis, where it lay in state for some days. The funeral service was conducted by Missouri Lodge No. 1, the members of which were escorted to the room by the Grand Commander of the State. The body was then removed to the Bellefontaine Cemetery, the Knights Templars heading, and the Master Masons closing the procession. Here it was to remain for ten days, after which it was to be removed East for final interment at Wilmington, Del. We are indebted for the foregoing particulars to our esteemed contemporary, the Keystone. It only remains for us to add the expression of our deep sorrow for so untimely a loss, and of our warmest sympathy in this affliction with the family and friends of our deceased brother.

BRO. E. J. MORRIS, J.G. DEACON.

BROTHER E. J. MORRIS, who was, by the gracious pleasure of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, our Grand Master, invested as Junior Deacon at the Grand Lodge held on Wednesday, the 25th ult., is the late D.P.G.M. of the Eastern Division of South Wales. Before his appointment as D.P.G.M. he had made himself a name as a skilful Craftsman, and an indefatigable worker; since his appointment to that office he has so thoroughly identified himself with Freemasonry in South Wales as to be in every way the most eminent brother in the district. Widely known and recognised as his invaluable services to Freemasonry are, he justly prides himself upon the influence for good he has exercised in South Wales upon the fortunes of the Charities of the Order. He initiated the system of Steward representation, and was the first Steward sent up from South Wales. When he took this good work in hand, the Sister provinces held a very low rank as contributors to our noble Charities. By his influence, his unwearying industry, and disinterested effort, the Eastern Division has raised itself to a foremost place amongst contributors, while the Western has begun, with some success, to tread in the footsteps of her sister province. May Bro. Morris's retirement from the active pursuit of Freemasonry not have a disastrous influence upon this progress. He has in succession filled the office of Steward to the Boys' and Girls' Schools, and finished by handing in a list of contributions to the Aged Freemasons of £325 from the Eastern Division alone. Under the quiet unassuming demeanour of Bro. Morris is to be found an energy as boundless as his will is determined, combined with a force of character and outspokenness of speech rare in one who has made himself so beloved and respected as he. When he deemed it to be his duty, he never failed to reprove and at times his reproofs have been so strong and severe that many have deemed him a madman, but all admit that he has been guided in his actions by a deep and sincere love of Masonry. He was initiated in the Indefatigable Lodge, No. 237, Swansea, in which he served as Secretary, Junior and Senior Warden, and of which he was elected W.M. in 1860, and again in 1864. As W.M. of the Indefatigable, he introduced into South Wales the system of section working, and during his second Mastership held Lodges of Instruction, at one of the last of which, he, assisted by his officers, worked the 15 in one night. When in the chair, he was very careful in training his officers, all of whom he left fit to perform any duty that they might be called upon to undertake. He was the founder and first W.M. of the Talbot Lodge, No. 1323, Swansea. Is an Honorary Member of the Cambrian, Afan, Caradoc, and Merlin Lodges in the Eastern Division, and of the St. Peter's in the Western Division. He was appointed Grand Deacon of the Province in 1859, by the then Prov. G.M., Col. Charles Kemeys Tynte, and when the late Bro. Talbot was appointed Prov. G.M., Bro. Morris, for his known skill and ability, was selected to fill the post of D.P.G.M., which he held for eleven years, when he resigned. At the request of Bro. Talbot he continued to discharge the duties of the office during his (Bro. Talbot's) illness, and thus it was that he held the office at Bro. Talbot's death. In R.A. Masonry he is also eminent. He was exalted in the Virtue and Hope Chapter, No. 237, Swansea, in 1857, filled all the chairs, and was three times M.E.Z., has also been M.E.Z. of the St. David's Merlin, and Talbot Chapters. Of the last named he was one of the founders. He is an Honorary Member of the St. David's, Merlin, and St. Elliw Chapters. He is the oldest Mark Master Mason in South Wales, and is the first W.M. of the Talbot Lodge of M.M.M.'s, he is founder of that Lodge. Is a P.E.C. of the Palestine Encampment of Knights' Templar, Swansea, and a member of the Rose Croix and 30th degree. When it became known that Bro. Morris had been appointed a Grand Deacon, several of the most distinguished Masons in South Wales resolved to accompany him, to be present at his investiture, as a mark of respect to him. After Grand Lodge, the occasion was thought a fitting one to invite him to dine with them. A dozen or more Past Grand Wardens and Past Grand Chaplains requested Bro. Price, W.M. of the Merlin Lodge, No. 1578, to act as caterer, and on Thursday evening Bro. Morris, with another illustrious brother, were the honoured guests at a choice banquet, prepared by Messrs. Spiers and Pond. Bro. Charles Bath, J.P., Past Provincial Senior Grand Warden of the South Wales Western Division, in the chair, faced by Bro. the Rev. J. Marsden, W.M. of St. Peter's, No. 476, P. Prov. Grand Chaplain of the Western Division, both divisions being well and worthily represented. The spontaniety of this invitation, and the high Masonic rank of those who attended, was a fitting tribute to Bro. Morris's many excellent qualities and real geniality of temperament, and a proper pendant to the high honour just bestowed upon him by H.R.H. the Grand Master.

The Masonic Temple of the Friendly Lodge, Kingston, Jamaica, is now undergoing extensive repairs. A very heavy expense will occur in the enlargement and decorations, which are expected to be completed in a month or two.

KELLY, GRAND MASTER.

WILLIAM OSBORN, D.G.M.

L. DERMOTT, for WILLIAM DICKEY, S.G.W. J. GIBSON, J.G.W.

To all whom it may concern.

WE, the Grand Lodge of the most Ancient and Honorable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons (according to the Old Constitutions granted by His Royal Highness Prince Edwin, at York, Anno Domini Nine Hundred Twenty and Six, and in the Year of Masonry Four Thousand Nine Hundred Twenty and Six), in ample form assembled, viz., The Right Worshipful and Right Honorable Thos. Erskine, Earl of Kelly, Lord Viscount Fenton, Baron of Dittenween, in Great Britain, Grand Master of Masons, The Worshipful Mr. William Osborn, Deputy Grand Master, The Worshipful Mr. William Dickey, Senior Grand Warden, and the Worshipful James Gibson, Esq^r., Junior Grand Warden (with the approbation and consent of the Warranted Lodges held within the cities and suburbs of London and Westminster), Do hereby authorise and impower our trusty and well-beloved brethren, viz., Captain Daniel Whitle one of our Master Masons, Mr. John Turner his Senior Warden, and Mr. Thomas Stead his Junior Warden, to form and hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons aforesaid, at the sign of the Star, in the town of Mottram Longdendale, and County of Chester, upon the first Thursday in every Kalender month, and on all seasonable times and lawful occasions. And in the said Lodge (when duly congregated) to admit and make Free Masons according to the Most Ancient & Honorable Custom of the Royal Craft, in all ages and nations throughout the known world. And we do hereby farther authorise and impower our said trusty and well-beloved brethren, Messrs. Daniel Whitle, John Turner and Thomas Stead (with the consent of the members of their Lodge), to nominate, chuse, and install their Successors, to whom they shall deliver this Warrant, and invest them with their powers and dignities as Freemasons, &c. And such Successors shall in like manner nominate, chuse, and install their Successors, &c., &c., &c. Such installations to be upon (or near) every St. JOHN'S DAY, during the continuance of this Lodge for ever. Providing the above named brethren and all their Successors always pay due respect to this Right Worshipful Grand Lodge, otherwise this Warrant to be of no force nor virtue.

Given under our Hands and the Seal of our Grand Lodge in London, this Twenty-first day of October, in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred Sixty and Five, and in the Year of Masonry Five Thousand Seven Hundred Sixty and Five.

L. DERMOTT,
Grand Secretary.

ENDORSEMENT.

Transferred to our trusty and well-beloved Brothers James Davidson one of our Master Masons, John Carson his Senior Warden, and Patrick Haffrand his Junior Warden, to form and hold a Lodge at the sign of the Grapes, Manchester Hill, in the County of Lancaster, upon the second and fourth Mondays in every month (being duly registered pursuant to the Statute), subject, nevertheless, to the rules and orders of the Grand Lodge, and the proviso and condition within mentioned.

Given under my hand, in London, this 31st day of March 1806.

RON^D. LESLIE, G.S.

The present title, No., &c. are, St. John's Lodge, No. 104, Private Rooms, Ashton House, Greek-street, Stockport.

The 7th Annual Ball of the City and Metropolitan Orphanage was held on Thursday last, at the Cannon-street Hotel. Among those present were the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, the Lady Mayoress, Bros. Sir Thomas White, Alderman and Sheriff Hadley, Sheriff East, and their ladies, Mr. Alderman Figgins, Bros. Eccles, Edis, Superintendent Foster, Cox, J. C. Walford, &c. A very excellent supper was provided. Bro. Alderman and Sheriff Hadley occupied the chair, and proposed the toast of the "Queen," and "Prosperity to the Metropolitan and City Police Orphanage." The toast found a very able responder in Bro. J. Corke C.C., who then proposed the toast of the worthy Alderman. Bro. Sheriff East, in very happy terms, proposed the "Ladies." Dancing was then resumed until an early hour, Bros. T. Butler, T. Meekham, and R. J. Foulger efficiently acting as M.C.'s.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 3rd of May, at Bro. Hallows, "Chequers," Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. Franklin W.M., Bell S.W., Upward J.W., Saunders Secretary, W. G. Hallows S.D., Brand J.D., Oldroyd I.G., Pinder Preceptor; also Bros. Groome, Dilwalle, Stuart, Claridge, E. Brown, Christian, Field, Clarke, Moffatt. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Claridge acting as candidate. The chair was then taken by Bro. Christian, and the Lodge having been opened in the 3rd degree, the ceremony of raising was rehearsed Bro. Hallows candidate. The Lodge was resumed to the 1st degree, and Bro. Pinder worked the 1st section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Moffatt, of Beaconsfield Lodge 1662, was elected a member, and Bro. Bell W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—Held at the Old Rodney's Head, 12 Old-street, Goswell-road, on Monday, 30th April 1877. Present—Bros. Tolmie W.M., Saul S.W., R. Pearcy J.W., Powell S.D., Pulsford acting Preceptor, A. W. Fenner Sec., Killick J.D., Millward I.G., Christopher Tyler, and several brethren. Lodge was opened in due form, and minutes of last meeting confirmed, then opened in 2nd and 3rd degrees, and afterwards resumed to the 1st degree, when the W.M. worked the Fifteen Sections, assisted by the following brethren:—1st Lecture—Bros. Powell, Stock, A. W. Fenner, S. Rowley, Killick, Harvey, Pulsford. 2nd Lecture—Bros. F. W. Jones, Saul, R. Pearcy, Renshaw, Sadler. 3rd Lecture—Bros. Crawley, Isaac, S. E. Moss. Lodge was resumed to 1st degree, when the following brethren were duly elected members:—Thomas 813, Humphreys 1509, Bisset 405, A. D. Renshaw 194, S. E. Moss 185. In proposing a vote of thanks to the W.M. for working the Fifteen Sections, Bro. Hames paid a high compliment to him, for the very excellent manner he had conducted the business of the evening, and the proposition was carried nem. con. The W.M. duly responded, and proposed that a vote of thanks be accorded to those brethren who had so ably assisted him in working the sections. This was also carried unanimously. Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

Doric Lodge, No. 81.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 2nd inst., at the Private Rooms, Doric-place, Woodbridge, Suffolk. Present—Bros. Alfred Barnes W.M., E. C. Moor S.W., B. Gall J.W. pro. tem., W. Wilmshurst Sec., B. D. Gall Treas., F. Bradbrook S.D., G. E. Keer J.D., E. Fitz-Gerald P.M. D.C., J. Bull I.G., G. Hall Tyler; Past Master Bro. W. P. T. Phillips. Visitors—Bros. Rev. Chas. J. Martyn, D. Prov. G.M. Suffolk, and P. G.C., &c., and J. Page. Business—Bro. J. Roe, having answered the usual questions, was entrusted and regularly passed to the 2nd degree by the W.M., when the Deputy P.G.M. explained the tracing board in an effective manner. A reply was read from the Grand Secretary, to the application made by this Lodge, for permission to adopt a centenary jewel, by which it appeared the Lodge is not yet qualified to claim it. Although the warrant is of an old date, it formerly belonged to the Lodge held at Aldborough, and after lying dormant for a time was transferred here, therefore the hundred years have not yet expired, about twenty being now wanted to complete the period. A letter was read from a Freemason's Widow in the neighbourhood, applying for relief; but her late husband who had been a member of a Lodge in Kent, having neglected to join a Lodge here, although he resided in this district for several years, her application was not entertained. The Lodge having been formally closed, several of the brethren adjourned to Bro. J. Grout's, Bull Hotel, to supper, where a few hours were spent most agreeably in the usual Masonic style.

Union Lodge, No. 129, Kendal.—The regular monthly meeting of this Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, on 26th April. The W.M., Bro. R. J. Nelson, was supported by Bros. McKay S.W., R. Godfrey W.M. 1074 as J.W., T. Wilson P.M., Banks Sec., John Bowes P.M. P.J.G.W., and a goodly number of brethren. The Lodge having been opened, and the minutes read and confirmed, the W.M. announced that, as there was an initiation, passing, and raising, he should esteem it a favour if Bro. Bowes, the Junior Grand Warden of the Province, would work the third degree. Bro. Bowes then took the chair of K.S., and raised Bro. Rodick. The other labours having been completed by the W.M., in a highly satisfactory manner, the Lodge was closed with the usual solemnities.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—A large muster of brethren assembled at the Whittington, Moore-lane, E.C., on Wednesday, the 2nd inst., the attraction being the working of the Fifteen Sections. Bro. T. Turquand P.M. 1556 acted as W.M., Barnes P.M. 554 and 933 as S.W., Walker, in place of Bro. Constable, who was unavoidably late, as J.W., and E. Gottheil P.M. and Preceptor as I.P.M. The 1st Lecture was worked by Bros. Jessie, Fenner, Croaker, Andrews, L. Turquand, Webb, and Rudderforth; the 2nd by Bros. Posener, Constable, Walker, Barnes, and Defries; and the 3rd by Bros. Loewenstark jun., Hewlett, and Perrin. On the business being ended, Bro. Gottheil proposed that a vote of thanks and honorary membership be conferred upon Bro. Turquand, for the very efficient manner in which he had conducted the work. All must have been gratified with what they had witnessed. There are many capable of performing the work, but few who had the power of comprehending its drift and meaning. Bro. Turquand, it must be admitted, has put the questions with considerable intelligence, and, seeing that this was his first attempt, in a highly creditable manner, they could not, therefore, do less than pay him the proposed compliment. Bro. Barnes seconded the motion, he quite coincided with Bro. Gottheil's remark as to the intelligent way in which the duties were performed, the W.M. showing clearly by the way the questions were put, that he grasped their significance, but he disagreed with the idea that they could not do less than pass the proposed vote. The Lodge unfortunately had not the power to do more, yet, again, taking another view of it, it is a gratifying honour to be made an honorary member of a Lodge of Instruction, for it is not bestowed, like some other honours in Masonry, as a matter of course, but as a token of appreciation for real services rendered. Bro. Turquand sincerely thanked the brethren for the kind words spoken; though an old man, yet he was comparatively young in Masonry. He remembered when he was just 365 days and twelve hours old, Masonically speaking, he was introduced to an "Emulation" man to receive instruction. Shortly after that he was exalted into Royal Arch Masonry by Bro. Preceptor Gottheil, who on that occasion, mentioned to him the Confidence Lodge of Instruction, at which he has ever since been, if not the most, at all events, one of the most regular attendants. Since then he had done his best to get rid of the many nobs and excrescences of the Emulation working. He hoped he had succeeded, to some extent, but would not rest until he had knocked off all with which, in his opinion, that particular mode of working is encumbered. Bro. Barnes interposed, and said that he did not care how many of their excrescences the W.M. might knock off, but hoped that mercy might be shown to our nobs. Bro. Jessie was elected to preside on next Wednesday. Bro. Turquand desires to express, through our columns, his regret for not thanking, at the conclusion of the proceedings, those brethren who assisted him in the working of the sections.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road. The Fifteen Sections were worked on Saturday, the 28th of April. Bro. Hewlett occupied the chair, supported by Bros. Musto P.M. as I.P.M., Austin P.M. as S.W., and Pearcy as J.W. Bro. J. A. Powell acted very efficiently as I.G. The first lecture was worked by Bros. Musto, Fenner, Powell, Isaac, Killick, Webb, and Rudderforth; the second by Bros. Brasted, Moss, Job, Turquand, and Baxter; and the third by Bros. Stock, Pearcy and Trewinnard. There was a very large meeting even for the Percy Lodge (which is generally well attended), the well-known abilities of the W.M. having attracted a large number of visitors as well as members, including several P.M.'s. The W.M. performed his task in a highly satisfactory manner, and a well-earned vote of thanks and honorary membership of the Lodge were conferred upon him. Bros. Turquand P.M. 890, W. H. Myers P.M. 820, T. Maidwell 27, Rudderforth 12, T. B. Humphrey 1509, Geo. Musto 813, W. M. Dondd 1445, J. De Solla 205, L. Nordel 205, Howard 898, Tongue 534, J. Leber 1366, T. Poore 1349, and G. Weige 860, were elected members. Bro. J. Lorkin was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The W.M. proposed a vote of thanks to those who had assisted him, which was acknowledged by Bro. Rudderforth. Bro. Musto has kindly consented to rehearse the ceremony of installation on Saturday next, 5th May, at eight o'clock.

Royal Chapter, No. 207, Kingston, Jamaica.—The installation of Principals took place on 25th January, when the following were duly installed:—H. Garcia Z., C. Davis H., T. Sherlock J. The installation service was performed by the Most Excellent Deputy Grand Superintendent for Jamaica, J. W. Whitbourne, assisted by Most Excellent Comps. G. J. De Cordova, R. Langley, and P. J. Ferron P.Z.

Stability Chapter, No. 217.—A Convocation of this Chapter was held on Thursday, the 26th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Comps. Howe M.E.Z., Webster H., F. Green J., Townsend S.N., Barham P.S., Green 1st. Assist., Turner 2nd Assist.; and Comps. James, Kerile, Stean, S. L. Green, Walkar, Whitmarsh, Holliday, &c. The Chapter was opened and the minutes confirmed. Bros. Cutler, Prestage, James, and Winn were exalted. The report of the auditors was read, and a notice of motion was given by Comp. Webster P.Z., that the subscription be paid annually. The Chapter was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet, supplied by Bro. Clemow, and superintended by Bro. Smith. The M.E.Z. gave the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts. Comps. P. De L. Long Z. 8, E. P. Albert P.Z. 188, and S. Gauntlets P.Z. 632 severally returned thanks for the visitors.

Friendly Royal Arch Chapter, No. 239, Kingston, Jamaica.—The following have been installed as the officers of this Chapter:—J. G. Lewis Z., M. Asbemèn H., G. H. Lewis J., S. Lawton P.S., E. Brandon S.E., J. Ashemièn S.W., E. Wolfe Treasurer, E. Dessass, and A. Mordecai Asst. S., G. Magnus Janitor. A Special Convocation was held on 5th April, when a testimonial, consisting of a P.Z.'s jewel, with an address on vellum, was presented to A. De Cordova, who had performed the duties of Z. for three years.

Sussex Lodge, No. 354, Kingston, Jamaica.—The installation meeting of this Lodge took place on 17th January, at the Friendly Hall, when the following were duly installed:—Bros. W. Rastick W.M., Dr. Tomsett S.W., W. Madon J.W., C. Whitehouse Treas., A. Jones Sec., Corty S.D., G. Pearce J.D., Lucie Smith I.G., Crosbie and Callow Stewards, G. Magnus Tyler. There were several Past Masters and brethren of the Sister Lodges present. The installing officer being W. Bro. Dr. Prescott. The brethren adjourned to a banquet, when the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and heartily responded to.

Fitzroy Lodge, No. 569.—A meeting of this Lodge was held at the Artillery Grounds, Finsbury, on Friday, the 27th ult., under the presidency of Ensign W. I. Spicer W.M. The following officers were present:—Bros. R. G. Webster S.W., A. D. Everingham J.W., Captain R. Helsham Treasurer, Captain J. Erlesa Secretary, J. C. Sanderson S.D., F. J. Shöbwasser J.D., W. Jolliffe D.C., and Quarter Master W. G. Brighton I.G. After the ordinary routine business was disposed of, the W.M., in a very able and impressive manner, raised Bro. C. Bolfe to the 3rd degree. A sum of £10 10 was voted to be placed on the list of Bro. Q.M. Brighton, who had consented to act as Steward at the forthcoming Festival of the Boys' School. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a banquet, served in their magnificent hall. After the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts had been duly proposed and honoured, the health of the W.M. was given by P.M. Bro. Captain Helsham in felicitous terms, and suitably acknowledged. To the toast of "The Visitors," Bro. J. H. Smith P.P.G. Chaplain of Essex, and Bro. Barton, No. 3, returned thanks. Among others we noticed Bros. Miroy No. 55, Hepman 66, W. P. Brown 90, E. E. Phillips P.M. 879, Forge 619, Chas. Driver P.M. 905 P.P.G.S.W. Surrey, Stephenson 890, McCabe 1260, C. E. Eglese 1261, Smith 1297, Hayward 1309, and Humphreys 1565. The harmony of the evening was considerably enhanced by some excellent singing by Bros. Driver, Brown, Matthews, Q.M. Brighten, and McCabe.

William Preston Lodge of Instruction, No. 766.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Friday, the 27th of April, at the Feathers Tavern, Upper George-street, Edgware-road. Present—Bros. Hayes W.M., Hill S.W., Godden J.W., Braun Sec., Kennard Treas., Tribbell S.D., West J.D., Harris I.G., Chinnery candidate; and Bros. Ridley, Risk, Allah, Sawyer, Jackson, March, Trimwell, Chipper, S. Nicholls, &c. The Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed by the W.M. Bro. Rudderforth Preceptor worked the first and second sections of this lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Godden was elected W.M. for the ensuing Friday. A vote of thanks was unanimously passed, and was ordered to be recorded on the minutes, for the able manner in which the W.M. performed the duties of the chair for the first time. The Lodge was then closed in due form. This prosperous Lodge, so recently formed, is most successful under the direction of the very intelligent and courteous Preceptor, Bro. Rudderforth J.W. of the Sampson Lodge.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Tuesday, the 1st of May, at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. Weige W.M., Dallas S.W., Perry J.W., E. T. Worsley Sec., Smith S.D., Johnson J.D., P.M. Wallington Preceptor, Pullen I.G.; Bros. Saunders 860, Allen, Christian 860, Hewlett, Macklin, Pavitt, Barker, Davies, Defriez, Watkins, &c. Business—The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Lovelock acting as candidate. Bro. Allen worked the first section of the lecture, Bro. Hewlett the second and fourth, Bro. Worsley the third. Bro. Dallas 860 was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. We hope he will have a good master, as it will be the first time of his occupying the chair. He is a very young Mason, and has worked very hard to attain the position; a treat is therefore in store for next Tuesday. The Lodge was closed in due form.

Royal Oak Lodge, No. 871.—The above Lodge held its regular meeting on the 26th April, at the White Swan, High-street, Deptford. Bros. J. J. Pakes W.M., G. S. Lime J.W., W. Andrews P.M. Treasurer, F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex P.M. Secretary, R. Harman S.D., G. H. Vohman J.D., A. Harvey I.G., G. Andrews P.M. D.C., H. J. Tuson P.M., W. S. Barin Tyler. The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. Mr. E. G. G. Bax was initiated by the W.M. in a very perfect manner. The Lecture on the Tracing Board was given by Bro. Andrews P.M., for which he received a cordial vote of thanks. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren separated there being no banquet. The Visitors were Bros. J. How 1326, J. R. Croft 1326, H. Bartlett P.M. 147, and J. Evans 749.

Phœnix Chapter, No. 914, Port Royal, Jamaica.—At a Quarterly Convocation held on the 17th January, the following officers were elected for the present year:—Comps. O. Delgado sen. Z., D. Barned H., O. Delgado jun. J., A. J. W. Rutherford S.E., W. D. Smedmore S.W., L. C. Hollar P.S., R. Thompson Treas., F. W. Hollar Janitor. The above officers will be installed at the April convocation. In April this Chapter will be one year old, and have exalted about twenty candidates. The object of this Chapter, in conjunction with the Blue Lodge, are for the especial benefit of the Army and Navy stationed at the town of Port Royal.

Lord Warden Lodge, No. 1096.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held at the Public Rooms, Park-street, Deal, on Friday, the 20th April. There were present Bros. T. Ayling W.M., A. H. Des Barres S.W., E. Kirby J.W., J. B. Harrison P.M. Chap., T. J. Usher P.M. P.G.R. Sec., J. E. Laurence S.D., J. Leggett J.D., W. Hazell I.G., H. R. L. Botting Organist, S. Holgate Tyler; and Bros. F. Leith P.M., W. T. Pritchard, J. Horne, W. Ryder, J. Carpenter, J. Miller, R. N. Spratling, W. J. A. Norris, C. L. Selth, T. Smith, G. G. Thomson. Visitors—Bros. G. R. Ingleseden 109, A. P. S. Bird P.M. Prov. S.G.W., W. M. Cavell P.M. P. Prov. S.G.D., Thos. Mason P.M., J. E. Apps P.M., J. M. Browning P.M., E. A. Ralph P.M. Prov. J.G.D., W. H. Hayman W.M., T. Bent I.G., E. Grigg, and J. F. Solly of 784, A. Hill P.M. P. Prov. G. S. of W., F. Baker P.M., W. W. Woodruff P.M., W. Mate P.M. P. Prov. G.R., R. J. Emerson P.M. P Prov. I.G.D., H. Watts W.M., C. Baker Sec., and L. Hatherway S.D. of 1206, W. A. Smeeth P.M. and H. M. Baker W.M. of 1208., H. Sanctuary 1428. The W.M., in a most able and impressive manner, installed Bro. A. H. Des Barres W.M. elect, as Master of the Lodge. The W.M. then appointed the following brethren as his officers for the year ensuing:—T. Ayling I.P.M., E. Kirby S.W., W. Hazell J.W., T. J. Usher P.M. P.G.R. Sec., S. Hinds Treas., J. B. Harrison P.M. Chaplain, H. R. S. Botting S.D., J. Leggett J.D., J. Carpenter I.G., S. Willey D.C., J. Horne and W. T. Pritchard Stewards, T. Holgate Tyler. The W.M. rose and said he had one of the most pleasing duties it ever fell to the lot of a W.M. to perform, that was to present to Bro. T. Ayling I.P.M., a massive and most handsome P.M.'s jewel, as a slight token of esteem for the valuable services he had rendered during his Mastership. What makes it all the more valuable it had been subscribed for by the whole of the members of the Lodge, and not, as was generally the case, taken out of the Lodge funds. Bro. Ayling, in thanking the brethren for so valuable a gift, said he had only done his duty. It was a most pleasant and unexpected surprise, if ever it fell to his lot to be able to do more for the Lodge his services would be always at their command. Forty-three of the brethren then adjourned to the Royal Hotel, where the banquet was held, which was provided in excellent style. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts being gone through, the company were entertained by the following brethren:—R. J. Emerson, T. Ayling, H. R. Botting, G. R. Ingleseden, W. A. Smeeth, H. Sanctuary, T. J. Usher, A. F. Bird, V. Amiel, J. E. Apps, and W. Mate. The Tyler was called on just before 11 p.m. to do his duty, which terminated one of the most successful Masonic gatherings that has ever been held in connection with this Lodge.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—Held at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday, 27th April. Present—Bros. Powell W.M., Hill S.W., Smith J.W., Hewlett acting Preceptor, Kent S.D., Hogarth J.D., Lane I.G., Townsend, Austin, Crouch, Pearcy, Bolton, &c. Lodge opened in due form, minutes of last meeting confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed by the W.M. in his usual able manner, Bro. Austin acting as candidate. The first, second, and third sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Hewlett, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Hill W.M. of 238, and Bro. Hogarth 1107, were duly elected members. Bro. Hill was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

Royal Standard Lodge, No. 1298.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday, the 1st inst., at the Wellington Club, Wellington-street, Islington. Bros. P. Dickenson W.M., De Metz as S.W., Hunter J.W., Gladwell S.D., Buderus J.D. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. There being no business on the agenda paper, the bye-laws were read, and the W.M. worked the first and second sections of the lecture. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a very excellent supper. The W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts.

Royal Standard Lodge of Instruction, No. 1298.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Friday, 27th of April, at the Castle Tavern, Holloway-road, N. Present—Bros. T. Cull Preceptor W.M., J. W. Saul S.W., S. D. Lee J.W., P. Dickenson Sec., Eldridge Treas., Hunter I.G., and about fifty brethren. Business—The Lodge being opened at 7 o'clock in due form, the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd and 3rd degrees, and resumed to the 1st, when the Fifteen Sections were most ably worked. A cordial vote of thanks was accorded to the W.M. for presiding, which Bro. Cull acknowledged in suitable terms, and proposed a vote of thanks to the brethren who had assisted him. Bros. Lee and Davis were then unanimously elected honorary members. Several brethren were elected members. The Lodge was closed and adjourned to Friday, 4th May, at 8 p.m.

Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, No. 1507.—Held at the Metropolitan Club, 269 Pentonville-road, King's-cross, on Tuesday, the 1st inst. Bros. Williams W.M., Scales S.W., Side J.W., Clark S.D., H. Stiles J.D., Smith I.G., Adams P.G.P. Preceptor, W. M. Stiles Sec. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. The ceremonies of passing and raising were rehearsed. The first, second, and third sections of the first lecture were worked by Bro. Adams Preceptor. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in due form.

Chaucer Lodge, No. 1540.—The above Lodge met on the 25th April, at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Bro. J. C. Mason W.M., E. S. Stidolph S.W., W. J. Kemp J.W., T. J. Sabine P.P.G.S.D. Middlesex Treas., F. Walters P.M. P.G.J.D. Middlesex Sec., H. Faija C.E. J.D., W. Laing P.M. Tyler, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. F. Mayer, W. J. Harrison, and E. Ricardo, which proving unanimously in their favour, they were duly initiated. Bro. J. Simpson was passed to the 2nd degree. A distressed brother was relieved from the Charity Fund. A petition was read from the Montefiore Lodge respecting the non-admission of members of the Hebrew faith in Germany, which received the unanimous support of the Lodge. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren separated. There was no banquet. The Visitors were—Bros. W. C. Bland 574, C. J. Rushworth W.M. 1309, and D. Smith 1326.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The weekly convocation of this Chapter was held on Tuesday last, at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill, E.C. Present—Comps. Noehmer M.E.Z., J. Constable H., Drew J., T. W. White Scribe E, Messenger Scribe N, Ramsey P.S.; also Comps. F. Brown and Sheffield. The ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed, Comp. Brown acting as candidate. It is announced that this Chapter will close for the season after Tuesday, the 29th inst.

Metropolitan Lodge, No. 1507.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, 3rd inst., at the Metropolitan Club, 269 Pentonville-road. Bros. J. Williams W.M., R. J. Kingham S.W., J. Willing jun. P.M. Treas., W. M. Stiles Sec., C. J. Scales as S.D., W. Side J.D., H. Stiles I.G., C. Coll D.C., J. J. Michael I.P.M. The Lodge was opened, and Bros. J. J. Bossbart, F. H. Trotman, and J. Bruton were raised to the 3rd degree. Bros. D. Hatch, A. Ponchot, T. C. Edmonds, and W. Wiltshire were passed to the 2nd degree. Ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. J. Fortescue, W. Parfitt, C. Denham, P. G. Tombs, and they were duly initiated into the Order. Bro. J. G. Mc Ewen, No. 317 was elected a joining member. Bro. Jas. Willing jun. P.M. stated that their next meeting would be held at Anderton's Hotel. As a testimonial is about to be presented to Bro. W. Smith, he proposed that the sum of 21s should be given from the funds of the Lodge, and this was carried unanimously. The Lodge was closed until October. The brethren then sat down to a very excellent banquet and dessert, provided by B. Cox. Grace having been said, the W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. In giving that of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, he remarked how proud they felt at the M.W.G.M. having appointed two Princes of the Royal Family as Grand Wardens. The toast of the R.W. the Earl of Carnarvon Pro G.M., the R.W. the Earl of Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers was given, after which Bro. Jas. Willing P.M. rose, he had a pleasing duty to perform, viz., to propose the toast of the W.M., it was a difficult task to speak of his many good qualities, and his excellent working. All will be sorry to lose him when he goes out of office, for during his year of the occupation of the chair he had done his duty in every respect. The W.M. in replying, thanked Bro. Willing jun. for the kind remarks made by him, and he hoped he deserved them; he had done his share of initiations but they were not equal in numbers to those of the 1st W.M. This evening was a Lodge of emergency, and he hoped to have another one before he vacated the chair. He then gave the Initiates, be regretted that one of them had been obliged to leave. The toast having been responded to, the W.M. proposed the Past Masters. They were but two in number. Bro. James Willing in a very humorous speech returned thanks,—he regretted the absence of Bro. Michael the I.P.M., who is supposed to assist the W.M., but the W.M. required no assistance. The Lodge had been in existence only three years, he was not only astonished, but pleased at the success of the Lodge; they were now in a position to ask Grand Chapter, to grant a Warrant to hold a Chapter in connection with the Lodge. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the W.M. elect, whose abilities are well known, he was pleased to have so able a successor. Bro Kingham in reply said he thanked the W.M. for all his kind remarks, he would endeavour to emulate the Past Masters, who are shining lights in Masonry. The Visitors toast was next proposed, they were always welcome. Bro. Dyer Harris, and Fortescue responded to the toast. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Treasurer and Sec., he was proud to say this young Lodge is a Vice-President of the R.M.B. Institution, which was due to the exertions of Bro. Willing and Michael, the two Past Masters,—it was gratifying to the Lodge, and he hoped at a future time they would be Vice-Presidents of the other two charities. The toast was responded to by Bro. Stiles, who said that while acting as Secretary, he would only be acting for their comfort and looking after their interests. The toast of the Press was then proposed in connection with the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. Bro. H. M. Levy returned thanks, and the Tyler's toast was given. Bros. Solomon and Stiles contributed to the harmony. The Visitors were Bros. C. Solomon, 23, J. Rowley, 185, W. Harris, 177, Pinkey, 177, Colls, G. Dyer P.M., 186, Richards, Fortescue and H. M. Levy P.M., 188.

City of Westminster Lodge, No. 1563.—A meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, 26th April, at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street. Bro. Rev. P. M. Holden W.M., White S.W., Phillip J.W., Scott P.M. Sec., C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. Treas., Turner S.D., Docker as J.D., Hutchinson D.C., Shand I.G., Bishop Organist, Potter Tyler; Bro. B. Swallow I.P.M.; and Bros. Docker, Waugh, Swaagman, Emanuel, H. E. Bonham, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. Ward jun., Eastgate jun., Lee, Jones and Wilkins, which being unanimously in their favour, the four former gentlemen were duly initiated into the Order. Bros. Stilwell, Köhler and Misselbrook, were passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. The working of the ceremonies was perfectly and impressively rendered by the W.M. A collection was made, and liberally subscribed to by the brethren, for the W.M.'s list, who is a Steward for the Festival of the Girls' School. The Lodge was then closed until September. The brethren sat down to a banquet provided by Bro. Nicol. The W.M. in his usual genial manner presided, and proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. B. Swallow I.P.M. gave the health of the W.M. The toast of the I.P.M. was given, and that of the Visitors followed. Bro. Bourne P.M. Ebury Lodge, and Bro. Crook responding. The toasts of the Wardens, Treasurer and Sec. were given, also that of the Officers, who severally returned thanks. The Tyler's toast concluded the evening. Bros. Thomas, Bourne, Crook and Beck were present as visitors. The W.M. gave a recitation, and Bro. Beck and others contributed to the harmony o the evening.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Hyde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire.—Figaro.

"The inquiring Brother who may wish to know something of the strength and beauty of the principles of Masonry, will find a pleasure in scanning the characteristic pictures in this book."—The Brighouse News.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentay to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. 5.—No. 124. SATURDAY, 12th MAY 1877. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

THE ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

WE call the attention of our readers to the election, on Monday next, of a certain number of annuitants, male and female, on the funds of the above Institution. It will be in their recollection that, owing to the unexampled success of the Festival held in February last, it was unanimously resolved to place an additional fifteen male and fifteen female candidates on the Fund. Thus the number of vacancies to be filled on Friday next will, in the case of the men, be twenty-four, and in the case of the women, eighteen. For the former there are thirty-four candidates, and for the latter thirty-six. In glancing an eye down the two lists, we note, as regards the men, that all of them are candidates for the first time. This is owing to the fact that last year there was no ballot, and all the candidates were placed on the Fund. Among the women there is one candidate in the 73rd of her age, with 24 votes to her credit, who has applied at three previous elections. There is a second, who will complete her 77th year in July, and has 86 votes to her credit, who has made two previous attempts. Then follow four other candidates who stood last year. The first in order of sequence has no votes to bring forward, but the next three have respectively 177, 273, and 351 to the good. The other thirty on the list are now candidates for the first time. Among these last we find one who was born as far back as September 1793, and is, therefore, within a few months of completing her 84th year, while another has written against her name "By Proof 80 years of age." The oldest male candidate was born in May 1795, and will have just completed, a day or two before the election, his 82nd year. A second was born in June 1798, and is, therefore, within a few weeks of completing 79 years. Two others were born in the year 1799, one in the month of July, and the other in October. These, of course, have very nearly attained the ripe age of 78. But there is something still more noteworthy in studying these lists. The reader cannot help remarking on the terrible vicissitudes of fortune to which all of us are liable. Thus, in the case of one male candidate we are told that his present reduced circumstances are attributable to the failure of a bank, and to his being stricken with paralysis. Another has been unsuccessful in business, and is in receipt of three shillings per week from a friendly society. No. 6 has been reduced by losses in business to great poverty, his only income being £7 per annum as secretary to a local friendly society. No. 10, a P.G. Steward, who, in the days of his prosperity, served the office of Steward to all three of our Institutions, and further made himself a Life Governor of each, is suffering from heart disease and is unable to support himself on account of his advanced age—he is in his 75th year. No. 12 has lost his property through unforeseen circumstances, and is suffering from paralysis and softening of the brain, so that he is unable to follow his own profession or earn a living otherwise. No. 13 has three children dependent on him, yet is unable to do anything except Tyling, which does not yield him much. No. 15, from failure of sight and advanced age, cannot follow his former occupation as Clerk of Works. His income consists of £16 from the Humber Lodge Annuity Fund. No. 32 for some time past has been dependent on a daughter, who was herself left a widow with six children, but as her means are now exhausted, she can no longer help her father. No. 33 was formerly in a good business, but has lost all through adverse circumstances, and would now be penniless but for a grant from the Lodge of Benevolence; he has one child, a cripple, dependent on him. No. 34 can no longer work, through age and infirmities. His only support is an allowance by his Lodge of seven shillings per week. Among the female candidates we find No. 6, with two children dependent on her, endeavouring to gain a livelihood by charing. No. 8, since her husband's death, has been dependent on a daughter who, herself, is the mother of seven children. Another lost all her property by a Chancery suit, her only means now being an annuity of £20 from the Merchant Taylors' Company. No. 14, the widow of a cloth manufacturer, has no means of support. Her husband died in December 1875, in great poverty. No. 21 is prevented from earning anything by old age, and is suffering from rupture. No. 25, the widow of a barrister, who in his latter days lost £70,000 by the failure of a banking company, was left without any means, has dependent on her an invalid daughter and a son affected with epilepsy. Her income is £25 per annum. No. 28, the widow of an engraver, is in receipt of parish pay, and suffering from paralysis. The only means of support which No. 33 has, is by letting apartments, and she has three children dependent on her. No. 34, the widow of a clergyman, has no means of support, and since her husband's death has been entirely dependent on friends. No. 35 is without means of support, and unable to do anything. While No. 36 had been obtaining a livelihood by letting lodgings, till paralysis attacked her and rendered her incapable of maintaing herself.

We have endeavoured to picture to ourselves the harrowing circumstances disclosed to us in these brief epitomes of the lives of men and women who were once in prosperous, or at all events in competent, circumstances. It is terrible to think of a man, once well to do in life, dependent on his daughter, herself a penniless widow with six children; of a pauper father endeavouring to maintain a crippled son, and of yet another eking out an existence on three shillings a week, or on £7 per annum. Let us try to realise the position of a lady, once in wealthy circumstances, maintaining herself, an invalid daughter, and an epileptic son on £25 per annum, or the widow of an engraver, in receipt of parish pay, and paralysed as well. How must it fare with a poor old woman of 65, with an income of £8 6s per annum, and dependent for further help on a daughter with seven children of her own to maintain. It is, indeed, a painful duty to bring such cases as these under the notice of our readers. There is at least one solitary ray of light to comfort us among all this fearful gloom. It is the sense of joy we experience when we know that Freemasonry it is which has established this noble Institution; this Institution to which the poor distressed brethren and women are now looking for some relief, not merely from the cares and troubles, but likewise from the absolute poverty they have been forced to endure. If brethren need any stimulus to induce them to support so magnificent a foundation, let them ponder well over the sad disclosures which are contained in these lists. They will not need much pressing, we think, if they call to mind these cases of pauper men and women striving to maintain crippled and invalid children, or penniless sons or daughters, with families of their own, assisting to maintain their poverty-stricken parents. Or if they do, they are no true men or Masons.

NON-MASONS AT OUR BANQUETS.

OUR readers will have noticed, perhaps, that in our short account of the first meeting of the Board of Stewards to the approaching Festival of the Boys' School, it was announced that, as at the last two anniversaries, the Ladies should be admitted to the banquet. We have always regarded this as a most graceful innovation on the practice of former years. It is not necessary we should stop to point to out how much more enjoyable a dinner is when the fair sex take part in it, nor need we do more than indicate the peculiar appropriateness of an arrangement which sanctions their presence, seeing that the Festival is intended to promote the welfare of our charitable Institutions. The ladies are as much interested in the prosperity of the School as our Craftsmen. Indeed, we do not consider we are travelling out of the road when we say they are, in one sense, more deeply interested. In nine cases out of ten, it is the widow who is driven to obtain from it some relief for her fatherless children. It is, therefore, an act as appropriate as it is one of thoughtful kindness, that ladies should be invited to grace these Festivals by their presence, not in accordance with the old rule in the character of mere spectators, but to a full share in the festivities of the day. There are yet other reasons why the precedent of the last two years should be faithfully adhered to in future. The influence they are calculated to exercise will always be a benign one. Knowing and hearing, as they will do, more about the purpose for which the School has been established, and the amount of good it accomplishes, they will no doubt lend a helping hand the more willingly—if that be possible at least—from the very fact of their being, as it were, admitted to this annual consultation over its affairs. There are very many Craftsmen who need an occasional prompting to fulfil their duty. A part of such duty is the support of this and the other charities, and the influence of wives and sisters will make itself felt the more powerfully when they know something of the institution for which such influence should be exercised. The compliment paid them will be fully reciprocated. We may, in fact, attribute the marvellous successes of 1875 and 1876, in some measure at least, to the presence of ladies, and as we are anxious those successes should not only be repeated, but, if possible, exceeded, it seems but just that we should invite their co-operation in the future, as in the past. We rejoice then, in common, we believe, with the majority of our brethren, to find that the Boys' Festival in June will in this respect be celebrated as it was last year and the year previous.

The approaching festival, however, will inaugurate a new epoch in Masonic festive gatherings. We should say, rather, that an experiment will be made on this occasion, which, if successful, will deserve to be repeated. The Board of Stewards have unanimously resolved that gentlemen who are not Masons should be permitted to be present. This is a wide and still more noticeable departure from custom, but it is one from which we see reason to anticipate decidedly beneficial results. All those public institutions which depend for support on voluntary subscriptions have some kind of annual gathering, and attendance on these occasions is not limited to members and patrons. People outside the circle of those immediately interested are eligible to be present. The patrons of the institution, no doubt, constitute the bulk of the guests, but strangers are cordially welcomed. Why should it not be the case with these annual gatherings in behalf of our Masonic Institutions? They are not attended by any Masonic ceremonial. At the last two gatherings at the Alexandra Palace there has not even been the very harmless display of Masonic regalia. The brethren and their fair guests have dined together as a company of ladies and gentlemen, to the delight of all, and to the undoubted benefit of the School. May we not fairly hope for an extension of such benefit if non-Masons are permitted to sit with us? The purpose for which the meeting will be held is one that commends itself to the whole world. The more this portion of our duty is published abroad, the stronger will be the position of the Craft in the estimation of men. There are many who fight shy of Freemasonry, on the score of its having secrets, but the non-Mason who dines with us on this occasion will certainly rise from the table with the belief firmly impressed on his mind that a society which supports so worthy an Institution cannot have much in its laws and regulations which is objectionable. We may be a very mysterious body, but it will be seen that the members who compose our Fraternity are men of repute, moving in different grades of society, with nothing about them of the conspirator against law and order. On the contrary, it will be found we are a perfectly innocuous body of gentlemen, met together to promote a charitable object, and with no other thought animating us than a desire to do our duty towards the indigent children of deceased brethren. It is the fashion in some quarters to denounce Freemasons as the enemies of all religions and governments, and there are people thoughtless enough to believe there is some truth in the charge. The presence of non-Masons at our banquets will help dissipate this belief. What we do in our Lodges will still be hidden from the public, but the public will judge of Freemasonry by its fruits. People will point to our three successful Charities, and it will be asked, Can the men who have achieved so much have in them the slightest sense of disloyalty or disaffection? We not only see no reason why attendance at our Anniversary Festivals should be confined exclusively to Freemasons. We believe there is much to be gained by this removal of the restrictions heretofore existing. They have been removed as regards the ladies with signal success, and we consider, for the reasons we have indicated, that the same success will follow the further experiment about to be made this year at the Festival of the Boys' School.

We have little further to add than this. It may not be generally known that some years ago the wife of one of our brethren actually fulfilled the duties of a Steward, we believe to this very Institution, and the amount of subscriptions which she was able in this capacity to raise in aid of its funds was somewhat in excess of £200. Why should not the experiment be repeated? Her Most Gracious Majesty is Patron of our Boys' School, the Princess of Wales is Patroness of the Girls' School. We have Lady Vice-Patrons, Vice-Presidents, Life Governors, and Subscribers; why may we not hope to have Lady Stewards? We can imagine that "A Zealous Officer" might have been able to suggest to his Committee an even greater increase to the number of annuitants than has been made this year had he enjoyed the assistance, as we know he has always enjoyed the sympathy, of the ladies. "The Mystic" would probably have resisted more successfully those sad attacks upon his health which so severely crippled him on Wednesday had he found his able company of Stewards swelled by a score or two members of the fair sex. And albeit "Our Hercules" is supremely indifferent to the amount of labour he undertakes, we dare venture to say that, with his accustomed gallantry, he would most cordially welcome the presence, on his board of Stewards, of any ladies who may feel inclined to give him the benefit of their services. If an artist personify Charity, he presents her as a fair lady of angelic face and figure. Why should not Freemasonry have its Sisters as well as Brothers of Charity to plead the holy cause of the indigent brother, the forlorn widow, and the tender orphan? Let Bro. Binckes consider this suggestion, against the meeting of his board of Stewards on the 17th inst. It may be good for him to adopt it, that is, it may help to swell the funds of the School for which he works so diligently.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

THE usual Quarterly Communication was held in Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh, on Monday, the 7th inst. In the unavoidable absence of the Grand Master, the D.G.M. Bro. Henry Inglis occupied the throne. He was supported by W. Mann P.J.G.W. as S.G.W., W. Hay Grand Architect as J.G.W. There were also present Bros. Dr. Gray G.C., Rev. W. N. Wannop, Prov. D.G.M. for East Lothian, Lord Inverarie, Provincial G.M. elect for Kincardineshire, Neilson Proxy Prov. G.M. of Venezuela, &c. Apologies were received from several brethren, regretting their absence. The acting Grand Master referred, in appropriate terms, to the recent death of Major Hamilton Ramsay of Garrion, and it was unanimously agreed that the Grand Secretary should communicate to Mrs. Hamilton Ramsay a minute expressive of the regret of the members of Grand Lodge at the loss of their deceased brother. The minutes of the previous meeting of Grand Lodge having been read and approved, the Grand Master intimated that he had accepted an invitation from the R.W. Master of Lodge No. 261, to lay the foundation-stone of a new High School at Kelso, on the 21st inst., and that he would be accompanied by a deputation from Grand Lodge. He had no doubt the Master of No. 261 would be glad to have the presence of members of the Craft. Charters were granted for the following new Lodges:—

St. Andrew, Campbeltown, near Fort George.
Lencophibia, Whithorn.
Grenville, Grenada.

Robert Burns, Christchurch, Canterbury, New Zealand.
Eureka, Christianstadt, St. Croix, Danish West India Isles.
Roslyn St. Clair, Rosslin.
Prince's, Glasgow.

Provincial Grand Masters were then appointed for three provinces as follows:—Provincial Grand Master for New Zealand, North Island, Bro. the Honourable Frederick Whittaker, Provincial Grand Master for South Australia, Bro. Connor, and Provincial Grand Master for Lanarkshire, Middle Ward, vacant by the lamented death of Bro. Merry, Bro. Forrest, Provost of Hamilton, Bro. K. D. Walker Past Grand Master, was appointed representative to Grand Lodge of West Virginia. Grand Lodge next approved a minute of Grand Committee, confirming the appointment of Bro. D. Kinnear as Grand Cashier, at an annual salary of £200, and left with Grand Committee to consider a report as to the duties of Grand Secretary and Cashier. An address which had been sent to the Emperor of Germany on the occasion of his eightieth birthday, and the translation of a communication in reply, were laid on the table. The acting Grand Master then introduced to the brethren Lord Inverarie, remarking on the gratification with which they hailed members of the noble families of Scotland promoting the interests of the Craft. His lordship presented a petition from the Lodge of Kincardineshire praying to be disjoined from the Provincial Grand Lodge of Forfarshire, and erected into a province. It was countersigned by Lord Ramsay, Provincial Grand Master of Forfarshire, and Lord Inverarie explained that there were so many Lodges in Forfarshire that those in the adjacent county desired to form a province by themselves. They had five Lodges at present, and he hoped two others would soon be revived. They might have their difficulties, but he trusted these would not be more numerous than those of the Glasgow province. The petition was unanimously sustained, and Kincardineshire was erected into a province, of which it was stated Lord Inverarie will be Provincial Grand Master. Some other business having been transacted, Grand Lodge was closed.

TREDEGAR LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 1625.

THIS Lodge met as usual on Monday, the 7th inst., at the Royal Hotel, Mile-end-road. Bros. Geo. Hollington W.M., Cambridge S.W., Berry J.W., E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, T. J. Barnes P.M. Treasurer, Rawley jun. S.D., Clark J.D., Hamm I.G. There were also present Bros. Charles Lacey P.M., Huggett, who acted as Secretary pro tem, Wharman, Anderson, Frankan, Myer, Hallett, Andrews, Giles, I. Posener, A. Posener, Hubbard, Campbell, &c. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. A. Posener being candidate. The first and second sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Gottheil, assisted by the brethren.

Bro. Hollington then rose and said: Most of you will remember that when Eastern Star and Tredegar Lodges amalgamated, it was arranged that the fact should be communicated to Bro. Terry, in order that the proxies belonging to the former should for the future be sent in the name of the latter. Accordingly, I wrote as follows:—

DEAR BRO. TERRY,—I am directed by the brethren of the Eastern Star Lodge of Instruction, now amalgamated and working under the name of the Tredegar Lodge of Instruction, to request you to kindly forward the Lodge votes at your earliest convenience.

Trusting you are well,

Believe me, yours fraternally,

GEO. HOLLINGTON, Hon. Sec.

To this the following reply was sent:—

Office, No. 4 Freemasons' Hall, London, W.C., 1st May 1877.

DEAR BRO. HOLLINGTON,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, asking for the votes of the Eastern Star Lodge of Instruction to be forwarded. Before I can do so, it will be necessary for you to send me a copy of the resolution passed by the Eastern Star Lodge, No. 95, withdrawing its sanction from the Lodge of Instruction meeting any longer under its warrant, and giving its consent to the transference of the Lodge of Instruction to the Tredegar Lodge. Unless this be done, according to the laws of this Institution the Eastern Star Lodge of Instruction will be considered as having ceased to exist, and that its votes and all its privileges have died out. Directly you are able to reply to this, I shall be only too happy to send the proxies.

J. TERRY, Sec.

Bro. Hollington concluded by saying, You have now the correspondence before you, and I now leave the matter for you to discuss.

Bro. Charles Lacey, the W.M. of the Tredegar Lodge, was of opinion that Bro. Terry demanded only that which was fair and in accordance with the laws which govern the Institution; and thought it was necessary to obtain the sanction of the Mother Lodge if it be desired to retain the privileges appertaining to the Lodge of Instruction; he would suggest that the sanction of the Mother Lodge should be obtained to enable the interests and privileges to be transferred from one Lodge to the other; and, together with a copy of the resolution passed at the meeting at which the amalgamation took place, be forwarded to the Secretaries of the Institutions. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. T. J. Barnes thought a Mother Lodge had no power to interfere except in a case where the proceedings are not conducted in conformity with the Constitutions or committal of some other illegal act. The Mother Lodge then had the power, nay, it behoves it, to withdraw the sanction from a Lodge of Instruction; for upon it rests the responsibility. But it possesses no other power in any shape or way. But let me ask, has the Mother Lodge concerned itself about this Lodge, or is it cognisant that it exists at all. Has any one of its members ever visited this Lodge? Very rarely indeed. This Lodge was originated by Bro. Gottheil many years ago, under the name of the "Faith." The Lodge of Faith, No. 141, gave sanction to establish an Instruction Lodge, none of its members being aware that such a Lodge already existed. When that fact came to light, application was made to the Eastern Star Lodge, which very kindly acceded to the request. Now that is some some years ago, and he (Bro. Barnes), was of opinion that scarcely any of the members know whether this Lodge exists or not, for it is many years since any one of them made their appearance among them. He could not agree with the statement of Bro. Lacey, though, as a mere matter of courtesy, the fact should have been made known to the Mother Lodge, that this Lodge had thought it beneficial to its interests to change its name, for in reality nothing else had been altered. At the first meeting under the new arrangement, he had desired the Secretary to acquaint the Mother Lodge that this Lodge had transferred, or blended, or amalgamated, whatever term may seem best, its affairs with the brethren of the Tredegar Lodge. For some reason or other it was not done, an omission which certainly required to be rectified. Nothing further need be done, and to ask a Mother Lodge, as has been suggested, to withdraw its sanction, seemed to him ridiculous and absurd. Bro. Lacey is altogether wrong in supposing that a law exists bearing the interpretation Bro. Terry puts upon it, but may be there is such a law, and he would make it more or less his business to exert his influence to carry out what he stated at the last meeting, the report of which appeared in THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. That report was literally correct in every particular, and he would stand by it. There is also a letter from a brother, who signs a nom de plume, who entirely misapprehends the circumstances of the case. The facts are simply these:—The Lodge voted so much money to the R.B.I., and therefore was entitled to so many votes. Application is made for the votes, and a refusal is given, on the ground that, by changing the name, the Lodge had ceased to exist. This to him was a novelty, considering that the body consists of the same members who had voted the money, and who met in the same room, at the same hour, and had in use the same paraphernalia. The Lodge did not, and does not, cease to exist. He would remind the younger brethren that he spoke with no ill feeling, but upon principle. He had ever endeavoured to do his duty in promoting the interests of the Institutions, and had been instrumental in procuring for them many hundreds of pounds. He had been Steward many times, and would be so again but that the younger brethren were equally eager to serve in that capacity. He did his best to second their efforts in every shape and way. But if the Committee of the R.B. Institution persist to act so remarkably sharp, and in a manner that can never benefit, but is bound to injure the Institution, he for his part would adopt a different course. The cost of a proxy is the paper and the writing of the address, the refusal to send it may render it much more expensive. This is not the first time the authorities of the Institution have acted in a similar spirit. The United Mariners Lodge of Instruction and the Doric used to meet in the same house. The former possessed a number of votes. As separate Lodges neither succeeded; it was, therefore, determined to amalgamate them, and in order that there should be no chance of losing the proxies, both names were retained, and the Lodge was, and is known, as the United Mariners and Doric Lodge of Instruction, thus giving prominence to the first-named. The votes were nevertheless refused. Shortly after, about twelve months or two years, a new Lodge was established somewhere near the Post-office, under the sanction of the United Mariners, the members of which had probably forgotten that the sanction had never been withdrawn from the already existing Lodge; and although they (the new Lodge) had never subscribed a single sixpence, the votes were nevertheless sent to them. He would conclude by reiterating the caution he gave last week—namely, that the brethren should be chary to subscribe to that Institution until a more liberal policy is adopted (General approbation.) After a few words from Bro. Berry, Bro. George Hollington wished to explain that until that evening he was not aware that directions had been given to the Secretary to write to the Mother Lodge; he could not account for it, he had been unable to be present at the first meeting, and Bro. Huggett had kindly taken his place, and upon the rough minutes there appeared nothing approaching to what Bro. Barnes had just stated. Perhaps it had been uttered during a temporary absence of the Sec. pro tem. Eventually it was agreed to convey the best thanks of the Lodge to the Mother Lodge in writing, and a copy of that and also a copy of the resolution of the preliminary meeting be forwarded to the Secretaries of the Institutions.

A vote of thanks was unanimously passed to Bro. George Hollington, for his conduct in the chair, and Bro. Cambridge was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The following letter, which has been widely circulated in the district, was handed round:—

May 1877.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER—You, and the brethren of your Lodge, are respectfully invited to attend a meeting of Subscribers to the Masonic Institutions at the Royal Hotel, Mile End-road E., on Monday evening, 14th May 1877, at 8.30 p.m., to take into consideration the advisability of devising means by which some unity of action may be brought about to concentrate the votes of the brethren, so that a more equitable return may be the result, and the candidates for admission to the different Institutions receive that aid and support which the urgency of their cases may require. Candidates are often at a disadvantage in consequence of the absence of some proper mode of action to support their candidature.

Believe me, yours faithfully,

CHAS. LACEY W.M. 1625, P.M. 174, &c.

The Lodge will be opened at 7.30 on Monday next.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

THE 89th Anniversary Festival of this Institution was held on Wednesday last, the 9th inst., at Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, W.C., under the presidency of the Right Hon. the Lord Suffield, K.C.B., Prov. Grand Master for Norfolk. After the banquet, which was served in a manner that reflects great credit on the managers of the Tavern Company, grace was sung, and then followed the various toasts of the evening. In proposing that of the Queen, the Chairman said it was one always received, as he hoped it always would be, with enthusiasm. We all respect it as loyal Englishmen, but more so as Freemasons, it being one of our especial privileges. This toast having been duly honoured and the National Anthem sung, Lord Suffield proposed the next. Though not the toast of the evening, it was one that should be well received, it being the health of the M.W. the G.M. of England, Patron and President of the Institution we are met to support this evening; with it is coupled the health of H.R.H. the Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family. All know the interest which the Royal Family of England has at all times taken in Freemasonry. His Royal Highness deeply concerns himself with all that appertains to the good of the Craft. This was followed by that of the M.W. the Pro G.M., the D.G.M. and the rest of the Grand Officers past and present. The noble Chairman had pleasure in coupling with that toast the name of the Grand Chaplain, Bro. C. W. Arnold, who felt proud to have to acknowledge the toast. The names of Earl Carnarvon and Lord Skelmersdale had been received as Masons always did receive them, with cordiality. The Grand Officers are often considered as Masons retired from business, but such is not the case. All who witnessed the working at the late Festival of the Emulation Lodge of Improvement must have been satisfied that the Grand Officers are able and ready to work. Colonel Burdett, the Prov. G.M. of Middlesex, next rose. Often as were the opportunities he had of addressing the brethren, his duty on the present occasion was very difficult. The duties of the Chairman at such gatherings as the present are not merely nominal, but require great care; he had seen several in the chair on similar occasions, and, no doubt, all had acted to the best of their ability, but he had never seen any better than their present chairman. He is well known in his own Province, if not to the Masons of the great metropolis; there he is thoroughly appreciated, and highly honoured, not only as a Mason, but by the outside world; he concluded by wishing health and happiness to the Chairman. Lord Suffield said, in reply,—My friend and brother has told you it was most difficult to propose my health. If it is so for him, how must it be for me to reply. Most of you present this evening are unknown to me, and I am extremely gratified for the kind and cordial way in which I have been received. Although I have been a Mason for a considerable time, this is the first occasion on which I have had to present myself before members of the Metropolis, whom I thank for so numerously attending to honour the occasion. Whatever I can do to further the good of the Order I shall always be pleased to undertake. I now come to the toast of the evening, viz., Success to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and with it I couple the name of the Treasurer, Bro. S. Tomkins. Much may be said about this noble Institution, but as you all have before you the printed reports and statistics, I will not trouble you with a review of them, but there are two or three things I must mention. With respect to the good the Institution has done, it has lived a long life, is, in fact, I believe, the oldest Masonic Institution in the World. During the last few years it has made some enormous strides. The Masonic body has lately greatly increased, and is still increasing. Not only may we do so in numbers, but also materially. The Institution for which I am now pleading is about to increase the number of its scholars to 220. Masons have always been celebrated for their charity, and, considering the cause for which I appeal, I hope it will not be in vain. The funded property of the Institution does not realise one-twelfth part of the amount required to meet the annual outlay; therefore, without individual support this noble Institution cannot flourish. He was sorry they had not been able to pay the usual annual visit to the School, but he looked forward to doing so with a great deal of pleasure; we shall then have an opportunity of testing the value of the instruction there given. The more humble accomplishments of everyday life are not there forgotten, but form a considerable part of the education of the establishment. Bro. S. Tomkins, the Treasurer, replied. He could with a great deal of pleasure go through the whole of the statistics of the Institution, but considered it unnecessary. They were extremely gratified to find that through the energy of the brethren they were able to increase the accommodation. He referred to the support given to the Institution by the country brethren, and hoped it would continue and improve. Bro. T. W. White then announced the various amounts subscribed, the total of which he gave as £2757 13s 6d, with twenty-three lists to come in, including a sum of 50 guineas subscribed by the Chairman. Bro. Philbrick proposed the other Masonic charities. After the telling eloquence of the figures they had just heard he felt that their claims should not be forgotten. Although the Girls' School was the oldest of the Institutions connected with the Craft, he considered the other two were equally deserving. The three are an open proof that the principles of Freemasonry are carried into practice, and are not the dead letter they are at times considered. We can point with pleasure to these three institutions, supported by the liberality of Masons throughout the country. Never did they possess greater claims than now, when we hear so much about the depression of every trade and business, and the consequent increase in the prices of necessary articles. Bro. Binckes considered it at all times a source of gratification to have his name coupled with "Masonic Charity." They were celebrating, that evening, the second of the annual festivals of the year. After the success of February last, all connected with the institution had felt materially anxious, and to-night they had to record a second, which if not as great as that of the Benevolent Institution was, in itself, a great success. They had yet another before them, which he hoped would be very much better than either of the former. He would be a very disappointed man if he could not announce a list next June at the Alexandra Palace far in advance of Bros. Terry and Little, notwithstanding the splendid totals they had reached. The committee are doing all they can to support a large number of boys, and if the brethren will only supply the means, he was sure the number would be increased. What they asked for was additional support. The question of enlargement is already before them, and if they only receive the support of the brethren they will continue to keep ahead of the others. Bro. Terry, in the absence of Bro. Little, thanked the brethren for what had been done. He regretted Bro. Little was not there to express his gratification. Speaking for what has passed, he had to thank many of those present for contributing so liberally to his institution, enabling him to announce, in February last, the largest amount ever subscribed for that charity—viz., £12,866. He hoped Bro. Binckes would be able to acknowledge more in June than he had done at any previous festival. Bro. Hervey G.S. proposed the health of the Stewards, many of whom, he said, were personal friends, and were ever entitled to their esteem and regard. Bro. Philbrick, President of the Board of Stewards, acknowledged the toast. They had all endeavoured to carry out the duties required of them. The toast of the Ladies was given, after which the brethren separated. The musical arrangements of the evening were under the direction of Bro. Theodore Distin, who was assisted by Madame Thaddeus Wells, Miss Florence Lavender, Miss Kate Baxter, and Madame Osborne Williams, Bros. G. Perrin, G. T. Carter, J. Baxter, M. Smith, and Chaplin Henry, with Bros. F. H. Cozens and C. Warwick Jordan at the pianoforte.

We subjoin the several Stewards' Lists, together with the numbers of the Lodges and Chapters contributing, and the amount forwarded by each, to the above Institution:—

REVIEW OF AN OLD PAMPHLET.

BY BRO. JACOB NORTON.

Freemasonry; a Word to the Wise. Being a vindication of the science as patronized by the Grand Lodge of England, and the devices of the crafty on the Fraternity disclosed. Under the following heads—Elects of Nine—of Perignan—of Fifteen—Noachites—Architects—Grand Architects—Scot Masters—Excellects—Super Excellents—Super Intendants—Knights of the Sword and of the East—Rosycrucians—Knight Templars, etc., etc. London: Printed for W. Thiston, Google-street, Tottenham-court-road. 5796.

THE above is all crowded into the title page of a pamphlet of eighty pages. The writer, as the above implies, was an enthusiastic adherent of the Grand Lodge of England. He believed that Craft Masonry began with Solomon, and the Royal Arch with the creation of the world; but all the degrees above the R.A. he held in thorough detestation and contempt, he is particularly severe against "Rosycrucians," and even more so against the Knight Templars, and here are his own words verbatim, etc.

"Prior to descending to notice the unwarrantable practices in view, it will be essential to premise that the Grand Lodge of England did acknowlede any Masonic meeting beyond their own jurisdiction to have the least connection with Freemasonry except the Sublime Degree of Royal Arch Masonry, a particular Chapter of which was noticed so far as to announce the usual time of its being convened to the Masonic world in their Freemasons' Calender from 1777 to 1792, which was published expressly under the sanction of the Grand Lodge, and which notice, during the time it continued, considerably promoted the success and increase of Royal Arch Masonry; and upon this consideration, that at the time of congregating the Lodges to form a head [1717] that not the least trace of the mushroom appellations [of the high degree] were to be met with, heard of, or produced."

After quoting at length the report of them in Anderson's Constitution of 1723, with all the names of the committee, from Philip Duke of Wharton, down to Charles Garey and Edward Morpbey, the writer goes on to inform us,—

"From this document it is evident that the superstitious interpolations in the system of Masonry (now complained of) are calculated to place on EMINENCE a FEW at the EXPENCE of the REST," &c.

Our author next pitches into the York Grand Lodge, not only for assuming independence, but also for setting up "superiority by grafting on the good old stock sprigs of folly and falsehood. In other words, their successors at least pretend to the knowledge of seven degrees, and without the initiation of their disciples into the highest, they are considered as aliens, and are not permitted to partake of the repast prepared, only for the well informed in the SANCTUM SANCTORUM." And that is not the worst. "And as a further insult to the Grand Lodge of England, a Deputy Grand Lodge of York Masons is held in London." There were also in London some Lodges chartered by the Grand Lodge of York itself. But here comes the most curious part. It seems that the adherents of the York Grand Lodge claimed the sole right of conferring the high degrees, and used this as a means of fleecing the would be Sir Somethings of 7s 6d each for registering the party in their records, and when once so registered, he virtually gave up his allegiance and ceased to belong to the Grand Lodge of England, as the following regulation indicates, viz.:—

"That every person who was not previously registered in the books of their [York] Grand Lodge shall pay seven shillings and sixpence, as a fee at the time of being proposed for the high degrees."

In 1874, we had a friendly tilt with Bro. Hughan about the precise year when the Grand Lodge of York first fell into a dormant state. Our worthy opponent maintained that she was partly active until between 1734 and 1750, but the evidence furnished by him seemed insufficient, and, hence, we are still of Bro. Findel's opinion, that York went to sleep in 1730. Assuming this to be the case, we need not feel surprised that Dr. James Anderson knew not, in 1738, that the York Grand Lodge had been dormant about eight years, when we see here, in 1796, a similar ignorance on the part of the author of our pamphlet. The Lodge of Antiquity, which was the Deputy Grand Lodge of York in London, referred to by the pamphlet, was reconciled to the Grand Lodge of England in 1790; and the Grand Lodge of York itself finally gave up the ghost in 1792, and yet, in 1796, the writer of the pamphlet pitched into the poor defunct Grand Lodge of York, as if it was still living and sinning.

Next, we have an account of the Ancient Masons, to whom our author was very lenient. "To their credit be it recorded," says he, "that they have attempted no subterfuge to delude, no imposition to entice, no pretension to superiority of information," and gave a wish for the speedy union of the two Grand Lodges under one head.

Our author next animadverts severely against the Rosicrucians, to whom he applies the terms impiety and stupidity, and adds:—

"To the credit of the Grand Lodge of England (be it said), it permits no mummery to be practised in any of the Lodges that derive their constitution from it."

"The attention in the next place, he continues, should be turned to the Knight Templars, which, by a few manœuvres—to use a military phrase—is attached to Freemasonry, but with what propriety remains to be determined. At present it will suffice to assert that it is a glaring imposition," and the writer reserves his rod in pickle for the Templars to a subsequent page in the pamphlet. His remarks on Harodim are not of any importance to the Craft, but the paragraph on th Royal Arch is worth quoting at length.

"That Craft Masonry is in an imperfect state as to knowledge, is an axiom which every well-informed member of the Society must accede to; from whence the vacuum is to be supplied, remains to be ascertained with precision. The Royal Arch is named, and upon that account alone it hath been promoted by the most eminent, zealous, and distinguished characters in Craft Masonry, who have held for many years the highest offices in the Grand Lodge in their individual capacity, and it hath been sanctioned by the Grand Lodge of England in a general point of view, by its recognition in their annual almanack, and with singular propriety, as that, when considered as an UNIVERSAL Lodge could not admit brethren as Royal Arch Masons as part thereof, by reason of certain characters being proscribed from the one degree which are admissible in the other. The protection that the one hath given to the other, arises from the indirect and imperfect state in which the third degree concludes, as well as from certain knowledge that the necessary information to complete the science in all its parts is to be attained by those who are qualified, and who merit the admittance into the Royal Arch, which is the copestone of the edifice, and has ever been considered as a continuation and completion of Freemasonry.

The anachronisms indulged in by the Royal Arch manufacturer, Chevalier Ramsay, and the American Royal Arch tinker, Bro. Webb, are somewhat remarkable. The plot of the degree is laid during the period of the building of the second Temple at Jerusalem, some centuries before the New Testament existed; but nevertheless in the course of the ceremony of that degree in America a Chapter of the New Testament is read by the principal officer. Now, would it not appear ridiculous if our modern artillery were brought on the stage, and used there during the performance of the "Siege of Troy?" The recital of a chapter from the Gospels in a drama in which Zerubbabel figures is equally ridiculous. And so is the introduction of the Trinne dogma into the English Royal Arch; for we all know that Jews in Zerubbabel's day believed no more in a Trinity than they believe in it to-day. Now, it seems that the phrase in the above paragraph—"could not admit as Royal Arch Masons * * * by reason of certain characters being proscribed from the one degree, which are admissible in the other," must refer to the then exclusion of Jews from the Royal Arch on account of the sectarian dogma therein, to which Jews could not subscribe. If it does not mean this, what does it mean? And if so, as Jews are now admitted into the Royal Arch, why then does not the Grand Chapter expunge that dogma from its ritual. Surely, no one can deny the inconsistency. There was a time when all the legends were believed, and when the rituals of all the degrees were supposed to have descended from the alleged period of the commencement of the degree; then these kind of Masonic anomalies were defended on the plea of ancient landmarks, but we know better now; and we also know that after the R.A. degree was conferred in a London Chapter on a highly respectable Israelite, that he not only expressed his disappointment, at what he very probably conceived to be a Jesuitical trick, but also stated, there and then, that he would never again enter a Chapter; and it seems still more strange, that while English Masons are concentrating their indignation against a Grand Lodge in Berlin, that they suffer this Masonic inconsistency in the Royal Arch to remain intact. It seems that the beam should be removed at home, ere they demand its removal abroad.

The pamphlet suggests also the settlement of another question. Dr. Oliver states, somewhere, that Bro. Dunckerley had mutilated the third degree, and worked that part of the third degree into the Royal Arch. Now, this allegation always seemed to us as absurd; for, in the first place, we all know that the Royal Arch degree was practised before Dunckerley became a Mason; second, we have positive evidence that in 1730-1750, &c., the third degree was communicated essentially as it is now, and, consequently, Dunckerley could not have tampered with it; third, had the Grand Lodge suffered Dunckerley, in 1777 or thereabouts, to make such an alteration, then it would not merely have tolerated the advertising of the night of meeting of a R.A. Chapter in its almanac, but it would there and then have acknowledged the Chapter degree as part of its system; and, fourth, the language of the paragraph above quoted shows, conclusively, that owing to the third degree being in an imperfect state, "upon that account alone," the Royal Arch "hath been promoted by the most eminent, zealous, and distinguished members of Craft Masonry."

The remainder of the pamphlet is devoted to specimens of the rituals and catechisms of the degrees enumerated on the title page, to which is added a ritual of Ladies Freemasonry. As we have not been honoured with the illuminations of those degrees, we shall transcribe only one specimen from the Rosicrucian degree:—

"Q. Worthy Knight, from whence came you? A. Judea.
Q. By whence have you passed? A. Nazareth.
Q. Who has conducted you? A. Raphael.
Q. Of what tribe are you? Judah.
Q. Collect the initials of these names. A. J.N.R.J."

The author further insinuates that unique MSS. in some foreign language were purchased by English brethren, which were translated into ungrammatical English. The seller got a good price for them, but he might have got more if he had been a little sharper. These MSS. which were rituals, enabled the purchasers to organise the high degree Chapters, Commandaries, etc. But, be this as it may, the pamphlet ought to be examined by those who are illumined with moonshine. We advisedly say "moonshine," because moonshine figures in the scenery and machinery of some of these degrees. Those, therefore, who have been thus illumined, may derive from it advantage and instruction by being enabled to judge and compare as to what it was, and what it is. As far as we ourselves are concerned, we have given all which we deemed would be interesting to the general reader, and shall at present say no more about it.

"MACE FUND."

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

33 Golden-square, W.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—We have much pleasure in announcing that our appeal on behalf of the above fund has been so far successful as to have enabled Mr. Mace to study at Queen's College, Cambridge, for the last six months. He has passed his preliminary examination, and will be sufficiently prepared by a few months further study to undergo his final examination prior to presenting for ordination.

We feel that, having gone thus far, the brethren will not allow the fund to lack support for so worthy an object as assisting one of our Masonic Boys, who having carried off the silver medal, and Maybury prize at our school, pursued his studies at his own expense, after his day's work was over, in the evening classes of King's College, London, and there, by hard work, gained the Divinity prize, several first class certificates and the Associateship of that College.

We feel, therefore, justified in appealing for further subscriptions, which we hope to receive early, as the fund at present is entirely exhausted.

Yours very truly and fraternally,

W. PORTLOCK DADSON, Treasurer.
F. BINCKES, Sec. R.M.I. for Boys.

THE TREDEGAR LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 1625.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—"Litera Scripta Manet" is informed that Bro. Barnes is not "labouring under" a misapprehension of "the circumstances" referred to, nor is our highly esteemed Bro. Terry,* inasmuch as Bro. Barnes put Bro. Terry in possession (verbally) of the facts of the case as mentioned in the report of the proceedings of the Tredegar Lodge of Instruction in your issue of the 28th ult. The Easter Star Lodge of Instruction has not ceased to exist, but only changed its patronymic, and instead of continuing to work under the authority of the Eastern Star Lodge, it now works under that of the Tredegar Lodge. All the members of the E.S.L.I. are members of the T.L.I. The Treasurer of the former is Treasurer of the latter; the books, balance of cash in the hands of the Treasurer, the furniture and other effects of the one were transferred to the other; and I cannot see why, in justice, the proxies should be forfeited merely because the Lodge has changed its name. Bro. L. S. M. has started the supposition that at some future time a new Lodge of Instruction may be formed, which will work under the name and authority of the Eastern Star Lodge, and then a difficulty might arise about the proxies. Now, if things should turn out as surmised, and such a result is not improbable, would such newly formed Lodge be entitled to claim the funds, furniture, &c. of the Lodge that formerly bore the name? I think not; and if it has not that right, upon what principle

* I disclaim all intention of imputing blame to Bro. Terry for his share in this matter. Bro. T. is not the maker of the law, but only its expositor, when personally applied to by any of the brethren upon any question relating to the Institution of which he is the Secretary.

sen it claim proxies obtained by funds to which the members of the newly-formed Lodge never contributed one penny? I have been, and still am, one of the warmest of the supporters of the several Masonic Institutions, and especially so of the one for the relief of our aged brethren and the widows of departed brethren, and cannot be charged with entertaining a feeling of hostility towards those institutions. The brethren generally have manifested a liberality beyond all praise, and I hope that the growing bounteousness of the brethren and the Lodges will not be met by an illiberal spirit in the matter of proxies.

Yours fraternally,

THE RECENT ELECTION FOR THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I trust I may be pardoned for feeling excessively nervous in essaying a reply to Dr. Ace's last letter. The multitude of compliments he has so kindly paid me is wholly unmerited. My native modesty impels me to disclaim possession of that "superior logical skill and tact," that "powerful assistance and influence," the "superior dialectics, comprehensive organisation, and influential support" which he attributes to me, or considers I possess. I confess, when I first read his letter, I came to the conclusion I was somebody else than poor FRATER LONDINENSIS, whose nom de plume has been enduring such agonies of misprint during the last few weeks. I was reminded of the story of an Irish officer who had been playing Othello, and went to bed with his face still blacked, telling his servant to call him early. The servant did so; but when the officer looked in his glass, forgetting the events of the previous evening, he turned round on the former and abused him. "Why, Pat, you rascal," said he, "you've awaked the wrong man." As between Dr. Ace and myself, there is little doubt he has fallen into a grievous error in picturing to himself FRATER LONDINENSIS as possessing the marvellous attributes I have quoted above.

Premising that in the Lansdowne edition of Milton, certain poems are described as Johannis Miltoni LONDINENSIS Poemata, I will proceed to touch on one or two points of interest in Brother Dr. Ace's letter. I hope, first of all, he will graciously permit me to express my entire sympathy with him under his present affliction. I allude, of course, to the very grave attack of petitio principii, from which he is evidently suffering. I consider his symptoms are even more alarming than any I have noted in the course of a pretty long experience. However, there is a remedy, which I have invariably found, I must not say infallible, but certainly efficacious, in these cases. It is obviously wiser to apply it in the earlier stages of the attack, but a cure is possible even when the patient is enduring the most terrible convulsions. The remedy is so simple that I dare say our learned brother will smile at its simplicity. Nevertheless, I give it, for it is worth knowing. There are, I believe, in petitio principii, as in other diseases, certain premonitory symptoms. When these set it, let the patient open his eyes continually—I do not mean so much his visual organs, though that will be a part of the process, as the eyes of his understanding. Let him grasp with all the strength of which he is capable the meaning of what is then presented to him; let him consider it in all its bearings, and having done so, let him interpret it plainly and pertinently. Let him do this, and the attack will be arrested. For instance, Dr. Ace would have escaped his present suffering, if instead of running full tilt against arguments and assertions I had never employed, he had considered what I really did say, then grasped its meaning, and interpreted it plainly. In such case he would have discovered that I did not proceed on the fallacy that all the gentlemen who recommended the case "were bound to record all their votes to this candidate, young Cox, and to no other." On the contrary, having allowed that the Province might have had other more deserving cases, I added, "Many of young Cox's present supporters may not have been in a position to help him at previous elections," that is, of course, record for him their votes. My argument, or rather my inquiry, until Dr. Ace so ingeniously distorted it out of all resemblance to its former self, was simple enough. I said, in effect: Here is a case of distress emanating from a province which commands certain votes, and supported by certain influential brethren, who command among them certain other votes. I allow the province may have had other more urgent cases, and that many of these supporters may not have been able to help with their votes. Yet how comes it that this very deserving case has failed so signally, that at six consecutive ballots only 381 votes were cast for it? I reckoned the votes at command, not because I assumed they would all have been recorded in Cox's favour, but in order to contrast their total with the number of votes polled, and the numbers—less than 1,300 at two out of the six contests—which had sufficed to secure success. Had Dr. Ace, instead of describing this very pertinent inquiry as irrelevant and vituperative, replied at once, instead of, at the last moment, that Devon had five or six similar cases, my inquiry would have been disposed of satisfactorily.

It would be very churlish in me to grudge Dr. Ace the pleasure he appears to derive from nothing. I have, it is true, invariably held to the old maxim, Ex nihilo nihil fit. But if he is pleased at finding me admit what I have never denied or had the remotest intention of denying, I can only say he has my very heartiest congratulations.

Having regard to the pressure on your valuable space, I must not follow Dr. Ace through all his elaborate arguments as to what constitutes an assertion, or when a statement is "relevant to the cogency of reasoning." I am already sufficiently bewildered about my own identity to dream of undertaking a labour so Herculean. I will merely say in conclusion that I admire the thorough earnestness with which he is pleading the cause of this orphan, and I hope I may be in a position to help him at the next election. It is no fault of mine that he has over-rated both my skill as a dialectician, and my influence as a Craftsman. Further, as it seems that though "unknown," I am nevertheless a "well-known" writer, it will obviously increase Dr. Ace's perplexity if I sign my true name. Hence in my last, as in my very first letter, I subscribe myself,

Fraternally yours,

FRATER LONDINENSIS.

Ancient Ebor Preceptory K.T. — On Wednesday, an emergency meeting of this Preceptory was held at York, E. Sir Knight T. B. Whytehead presiding, when Comps. W. T. Orde-Powlett and A. G. Dunoombe were duly installed, and proclaimed according to ancient usage.

THE DRAMA.

"Tom and Jerry" at the Surrey.

SCARCELY a theatre in London offers, at the present time, a more entertaining programme than the SURREY. The revival, by Mr. Holland, of Tom and Jerry, affords an opportunity, that should not be missed, of witnessing a play which, in its time, was probably as successful a production as Our Boys now. So successful was it, that the names of the principal characters may be said to have become part of the literature of the nation. Tom and Jerry, and Bob Logic are known to most of us, at least from the description of our fathers, and although somewhat antiquated in point of costume, and in the character of their diversions, we welcome them none the less heartily for their ready wit, their boisterous good nature, and their unflagging spirits. As played at the SURREY, the fun of the piece is admirably rendered, and in particular, the representatives of Bob Logic (Mr. A. C. Lilly), Corinthian Tom (Mr. H. C. Sidney), Jerry Hawthorn (Mr. H. Taylor), and Jemmy Green (Mr. A. Williams), are to be congratulated for entering so thoroughly into the spirit and humour of the work. Tom and Jerry has been preceeded during the week by an excellent comedy-drama, entitled Alone, the result of the united authorship of Messrs. Palgrave Simpson and Hermann Merivale. The chief parts in this piece are effectively sustained by Messrs. Arnold, Lilly, and Sidney, and by Miss Florence Gerard and Miss Annie Travers. The programme is the best we have seen at the SURREY for some months.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

LITTLE of importance has occurred during the past week in the House of Lords. A question was asked on Friday by Earl Delawarr respecting the extent to which the neutrality of the Suez Canal was secured. On Monday the Duke of Rutland called attention to the Earl of Derby's recent Dispatch to our ambassador at St. Petersburgh, in reply to the Circular Dispatch of Prince Gortschakoff. A short but sharp debate, in which the Earl of Derby, Earl Granville, and the Lord Chancellor took part, followed. As Thursday was Ascension Day, the House adjourned till yesterday. But though there has been little doing in the hereditary house of Parliament, there has been tremendous excitement over the proceedings in the House of Commons. Towards the end of last week further progress was made in committee with the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge Bill, and the nomination of the Committee on the Cattle Plague was completed. On Monday, the House was crowded in every part, as the great debate on Mr. Gladstone's resolutions was fixed for that evening. After a long and unseemly wrangle of two hours, caused by a change of tactics on the part of the Opposition, Mr. Gladstone announced his intention of not moving certain of the series of resolutions of which he had given notice the previous week. He then moved his first resolution in a speech of great power. Some passages in it were loudly and heartily applauded by most of those sitting on the Liberal benches. When Mr. Gladstone sat down, Sir H. D. Wolff rose and moved an amendment to the effect that the House of Commons declined to pass any resolutions which might in any way embarrass Her Majesty's Government in the maintenance of peace and in the protection of British interests. After a short speech from Mr. Chamberlain, the junior member for Birmingham, in support of Mr. Gladstone, the Home Secretary rose and delivered a long and powerful speech in defence of the Government policy. Mr. Childers then moved the adjournment of the debate, and it was adjourned accordingly, after a short desultory conversation. On Tuesday the discussion was resumed by Mr. Childers, who, in due time, was followed by Viscount Sandon, a member of the Ministry, and then came Mr. H. Vivian, Mr. Leatham, Mr. B. Cochrane, Mr. Baxter, and Mr. Roebuck. The last-named gentleman spoke in his usual plain, independent manner, and announced his intention of voting unhesitatingly with the Government. The Attorney-General followed, with a defence of Ministers. Mr. Lowe attacked them, and Lord J. Manners's speech brought the debate to a close for that evening, the adjournment being moved by Mr. Mundella. On Wednesday, some unimportant business was transacted, and on Thursday, the grand debate of the week, perhaps of the Session, was resumed with increased animation. The result may be anticipated; but it is not known, of course, at the time of writing these presents.

After holding her second Drawing Room last week, the Queen, with other members of the Royal Family, returned to Windsor. It was Her Majesty's intention to have visited Aldershot on Monday, but the day was changed, and the visit was postponed till Wednesday. Accordingly, Her Majesty, with the Princess Beatrice, travelled to Farnborough, where she was received by General Sir T. Steele and Staff, and conducted to the Royal Pavilion. After lunch, the troops, which had been drawn up in the usual formation, marched past the Queen; the Horse Artillery, followed by the Cavalry, leading. Then came the Artillery, five batteries or thirty guns, and about 8,000 infantry, the Royal Engineers, pontoon, telegraph, and waggon troops, and Army Service Corps bringing up the rear. The total of the force on the ground was between 11,000 and 12,000. At the close of the march past, the whole line advanced, and gave a Royal salute, after which Her Majesty left for Farnborough Station, and reached Windsor on her return about six p.m. The same day, Chatham was the scene of some very elaborate siege operations, in which the troops in garrison, to the number of about 5,000, took part. At the close of the movements, the terrible force of certain hand grenades and ground torpedoes was exhibited, after which the troops returned to barracks.

On Monday the Prince of Wales reached London on his return from the Continent, having, it is said, been greatly benefited by his trip to the Mediterranean. In the afternoon, by command of the Queen, His Royal Highness held a Levee at St. James's Palace, presentations on this occasion being regarded as equivalent to presentations to Her Majesty in person. In the evening he presided at the Anniversary Festival of the Licensed Victuallers Asylum, Earl Granville and others being present. Both the Prince and his Lordship good naturedly alluded to the objections raised against their presence, and we trust the dignified, yet quiet rebuke, admininistered by His Royal Highness, will prevent his being similarly insulted in future. The amount of subscriptions, announced after the toast of Prosperity to the Asylum had been proposed and acknowledged, represented a sum in excess of £5,000.

The Masonic event of the week was the eighty-ninth Anniversary Festival of the Girls' School, held on Wednesday, at Freemasons' Hall. We give full particulars elsewhere. It will suffice therefore if we mention here that Lord Suffield presided, that his lordship was numerously and influentially supported, that the total amount of subscriptions was announced as £9,757 13s 6d, including a donation of fifty guineas by the Chairman, and that there were still twenty-three lists outstanding. The dinner was well served, and the musical arrangements, in charge of Bro. Theodore Distin, gave every satisfaction. We are sorry to say that Bro. Little was prevented from fulfilling his usual duty by very severe indisposition. We warmly congratulate him and the able and energetic body of Stewards which assisted him in the success of the Festival. We have no doubt whatever that when the outstanding, lists are paid in, it will be found the grand result is represented, as we expected it would be, by five figures.

On Monday evening was held, at the Royal Albert Hall, South Kensington, the first of the Wagner National Concerts. Herr Wagner experienced a most cordial reception from the audience. The orchestra contained 169 instrumentalists, and the programme included the Kaiser-March and selections from Rienzi, and Tannhauser, and Das Rheingold. The second of the series of six Concerts was given on Wednesday, the third will be given to-day, and the remaining three on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday of next week.

The eighty-eighth anniversary dinner of the Royal Literary Fund was held at Willis's Rooms, St. James's, on Wednesday evening. The Earl of Derby presided, and among the more distinguished guests, were the Austrian, French, and Italian Ambassadors, the Chinese minister, the Earl of Hardwicke, Lord Houghton, Lord Justice Brett, Mr. Beresford Hope M.P., and Dr. Schliemann. Among the speakers were Count Beust, who responded for the Ambassadors and Ministers; the Chinese Minister, who replied to the toast of the Literature of other countries, and Dr. Schliemann, who spoke for the Travellers. Subscriptions were announced in the course of the evening to the extent of nearly £1,000, including one hundred guineas from Her Majesty, and £50 from the Earl of Derby.

On Saturday last the annual banquet given by the Royal Academy took place at Burlington House. In the absence, through indisposition, of Sir Francis Grant, the President, the chair was occupied by the eminent architect, Sir Gilbert Scott, and among the guests present were H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, Prince Christian, the Duke of Teck, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Dr. Schliemann, Lord Hampton, Dr. Hooker, and Mr. Gladstone. The same evening the Marquis of Hartington presided at the Newspaper Press Fund Dinner at Willis's Rooms, St. James's, and was supported by Lord Houghton, Lord O'Hagan, the Duke of St. Albans, the American Minister, Lord Henry Lennox, Mr. Theodore Martin C.B., Sir T. Wade, and others. The subscriptions on the occasion amounted to £900, including twenty guineas from the noble chairman.

There is no serious news from the seat of war. It seems more than probable that Russia will obtain some substantial successes in Asia; but her advance towards the Danube is necessarily somewhat slower, and more cautious, partly owing to the bad weather which has prevailed, but likewise to the fact of the Turks being there in very great strength, and also strongly posted. So far as can be gleaned up to the time of writing, the warlike operations in Europe have been confined to minor attacks and bombardments. The Turkish gunboats show themselves very active, and are evidently giving the Russians a good deal of trouble, while the latter have seized one or two positions of great importance. There has been one momentous event during the week, which, however, it was foreseen, would probably occur sooner or later. We allude to the active participation in the war of Roumania as the ally of Russia. There has been firing between Kalafat and Widdin, but as yet no great amount of harm appears to have been done. We presume that this principality, finding itself already occupied by the Russian armies, has deemed it prudent, as the lesser of two evils, to side with the invader rather than with the Porte, to which she owes allegiance, albeit a nominal one. There is no doubt, however, that come what may, Roumania deserves and will have our sympathy. Situated as she is between two inveterate enemies it was well nigh impossible for her to come off unscathed. War, in her case, means something very much like ruin. The crops on which she is wholly dependent will fail her this year and so long as the war lasts. Her towns and villages are sure to suffer as well from the Russians who occupy, and will defend her territory as from the Turks, who will certainly inflict as much damage as they can, if only in self-defence. It is noteworthy that the Turkish Government, which has established a blockade of the Russian ports on the Black Sea, has graciously extended the period for the free ingress and egress of commercial ships to and from the blockaded ports. This has been done at the instance of Mr. Layard, our ambassador at Constantinople. In Asia it is believed that Kars is shortly to be besieged, and that Erzeroum, the capital of Armenia is endangered. It is further announced that the Russian Chancellor will not reply to the Earl of Derby's dispatch of the 1st instant. We think this is highly probable. The noble lord's statements are irrefutable. It is wise on the part of Russia to abstain from doing or saying aught that is likely to intensify the feeling of this country against her.

The first number of a new series of The Scottish Freemasons' Magazine will make its appearance on the 1st prox. The paper will be published as a bi-monthly, under the auspices of a duly registered Company, on the 1st and 15th of the month; and it is with great pleasure we announce that the services of so well-known and so capable a Craftsman as Bro. John Laurie, lately Grand Secretary of Grand Lodge Scotland, have been secured as editor. The offices of the Company are at 63 Princes-street, Edinburgh, and all applications should be made to this address.

We acknowledge with fraternal thanks a communication anent our recent sketches of Lodge "Orion in the West," from a Brother who was mainly instrumental in its resuscitation in 1859. The information he furnishes is highly interesting, and when a convenient time arrives for completing the history—for which, be it remarked, we are indebted to our Bombay contemporary the Standard—we shall avail ourselves of his kind permission, and incorporate it in our sketch.

It will be seen from a notice which appears in our advertisement columns, that the Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017, is making arrangements to present the petitions it has received on the subject of the Masonic disabilities of German non-Christians at the next quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge. It is obviously desirable, therefore, that all those Lodges which have not yet forwarded their petitions, should do so without loss of time, if they approve the policy initiated by this Lodge. We cannot understand any member of our English Craft opposing the movement, though it is quite possible, of course, that some may not think favourably of the mode of procedure adopted, while others may think it expedient to avoid meddling with the question. This, however, is not our opinion. The exclusion of non-Christians is diametrically opposed to one of the leading articles of our Masonic faith. The respectful submission to our Grand Lodge of a number of petitions, praying for the exercise of its influence in removing the restrictions complained of, is, in our judgment, the best, if not the only way of inviting attention to this undoubted grievance. Under these circumstances, we most cordially second the appeal of Montefiore Lodge, and we trust that every Lodge which owes allegiance to our Grand Lodge will second its noble efforts in behalf of the true principles of Freemasonry.

We are informed that W. W. B. Beach, Esq., M.P., R.W Prov. Grand Master of Hants and the Isle of Wight, has most kindly consented to preside at the 79th Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, to be held at the Alexandra Palace on Wednesday, 27th June next.

We have been favoured by Bro. E. J. Harty with a view of an advanced proof of his great picture of the installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales as Grand Master at the Albert Hall, which shows the drawing in progress and the effects of light and shade, the more effective touches of which are yet to come. We had much pleasure in recognising the portraits of quite a number of our esteemed brethren and subscribers amongst the hosts of faces ranged in rows of diminishing perspective from the foreground. We have never seen a finer effect than that caught by Bro. Harty. Standing at a short distance from the picture, the spectator, after a few seconds of gazing, actually feels himself to be part and parcel of the scene. The extreme care required in the production will not, we believe, allow of its being finished and out of hand for some six weeks yet.

On Wednesday afternoon, Bro. Haigh, of the firm of Hemery and Haigh, of Regent-street, was graciously permitted to wait on H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, at Buckingham Palace, for the purpose of taking a series of photographs of the Duke. In one of them H.R.H. appears in the clothing of Grand Senior Warden of England, to which office he was lately appointed by his brother, the Grand Master.

The Keystone, on the authority of Loomis's Masonic Journal, announces that Bro. Charles S. Stratton, better known throughout the world as "General Tom Thumb," was initiated into Freemasonry in St. John's Lodge, No. 3, Bridgeport, Conn., on 8th October 1862. In July of the following year he was exalted in Jerusalem Chapter, No. 3, R.A.M. In July 1865 he received the orders of the Red Cross and Temple in Hamilton Commandery, No. 8. In 1867 he received the earlier degrees of the A. and A. Rite. He is now a 32° Mason, and is thus "a very high Mason, although still quite a diminutive man."

Thursday, the 10th instant, according to the Masonic Jewel, was the day appointed for the meeting at Natchez of the Grand Commandery of Mississippi. A general attendance of the Commanderies of the State was expected, and among individual Knights it was believed that the Governor of the State, Sir Knight J. M. Stone, would attend, in company with the Commandery, at Jackson.

Bro. Corn. Moore continues, in the columns of the Masonic Review, the history of old Lodges in Ohio. Last month is given a highly interesting sketch of Old Erie Lodge, No. 3 on the roll of Grand Lodge, Ohio.

The history is very interesting, the original of the present Lodge having been warranted in 1804 by the Grand Lodge of Connecticut, and to it belongs the honour of having first suggested the organisation of the Grand Lodge of Ohio. It was for many years in abeyance, but was revived in 1854, when it received the prefix of "old" in order to distinguish it from another Erie Lodge, which had been established during the period of its cessation from work.

At the General Committee of the Boys' School, held on the 5th inst. Bro. W. Raynham Stewart presided, and there were present Bros. H. Browse, Jessie Turner, W. Roebuck, S. B. Wilson, C. F. Matier, T. Meggy, H. Massey, E. C. Massey, F. Adlard, Dr. Morris, J. W. Dosell, W. F. C. Montrie, R. B. Webster, J. G. Chancellor, Hyde Pullen, S. Rosenthal, and others. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Copy of the report on increased accommodation was submitted and taken as read, but the question was deferred for further consideration. Three applications to be placed on the list of candidates were read and entertained, and several outfits were granted. The House Committee were then nominited for the ensuing year. The following sixteen names from which the required number will be chosen being handed in—namely:—Bros. H. Browse, J. G. Chancellor, A. Durrant, T. B. Grabbam, Benjamin Head, H. W. Hunt, W. F. C. Montrie, George Newman, W. Paas, W. Hyde Pullen, W. Roebuck, S. Rosenthal, G. Rowe, J. B. Scriven, Raynham Stewart, and S. Wood. The Audit Committee were re-nominated.

The Regular Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution was held on Wednesday, the 9th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. Col. Creaton P.G.D. in the chair. The Secretary, Bro. Jas. Terry, read the minutes of the former meeting, which were confirmed. The various reports were read and adopted, and several matters in connection with the Institution discussed. The three members of the Committee who retire by rotation were unanimously re-elected. Bro. Griffith Smith gave a notice of motion—That in the opinion of the Committee, the accommodation provided for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution in Freemasons' Hall is totally inadequate for the increasing labours which have to be performed, and that it be referred to the Board of General Purposes to ascertain what better accommodation can be provided. A vote of thanks was accorded to the Chairman, and the meeting was adjourned to the following month.

Prince Iskander, nephew of Shere Ali, King of Affghanistan, who has been residing in London for the last few years, has gone to Constantinople, for the purpose, it is stated, of offering his sword to the Sultan in defence of Turkey. He is a most accomplished Oriental. In 1874 he became a Freemason. He was initiated and passed in the Board of Avon Lodge, in the Province of Middlesex, by Bro. J. C. Parkinson P.G.D. Deputy Provincial Grand Master, and subsequently raised to the third degree by Major C. Harding P.M., acting as W.M. on the occasion.

UNDER the auspices of the Phœnix Lodge, and in the presence of a fashionable and numerous audience, a concert was given in the Portland Hall, Portsmouth, on Monday last, the proceeds being intended for the Masonic Schools. The vocal part of the entertainment was entrusted to Miss Ellen Horne, Mrs. Hayman, Mr. C. E. McCheane, and Mr. C. Cottam, whilst the orchestra was filled with the combined bands of the Royal Marine Artillery and the Royal Marine Light Infantry, under the conductorship of Messrs. Winterbottom and Kreyer. The concert proved a decided success, and will we hope, substantially benefit those charities on behalf of which it was organised.—Portsmouth Times and Naval Gazette.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Help under Suffering.—No diseases which afflict the human body are more irksome to bear, or more difficult to cure, than skin diseases, whether superficial sores or deep ulcerations. Holloway's Ointment has proved itself a remedy for these maladies; it clears off scurvy, incrustations, heals up cracks and fissures, reduces unnatural heat, mitigates irritation and inflammation and it at once assuages pain, cleans wounds, and works out a sound and lasting cure more certainly and more rapidly than any other application. In those affections, which are probably constitutional or chronic, obstinated habits and constitutional ailments, Holloway's Pills should be taken to increase the salutary effects of this unguent.

OPERA COMIQUE.

Amateur Performance in aid of the Royal Masonic Educational Institutions.

THE distinguished company of amateurs who assembled on Saturday last, the 5th inst., to give their services in aid of the funds of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls and the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys deserve, and will doubtless receive, the thanks of the entire Craft. The programme had been wisely selected, and all engaged exerted themselves to make the gathering a brilliant success. We had the pleasure of announcing, a fortnight since, that at that early period the applications for tickets were most satisfactory, and that Bro. J. B. Monckton, the respected President of the Board of General Purposes, had guaranteed, in the name of his talented wife, that the performance should produce the substantial amount of 100 guineas to each of our two Educational Establishments. Under these circumstances we were not all surprised, when we reached the pretty little theatre, to find that the seats were well filled, and that a fashionable and brilliant audience had assembled to witness the performance. After an overture by the band, the curtain rose for the well known farce, by J. Maddison Morton, of A Most Unwarrantable Intrusion, which was well sustained by Mr. E. G. H. Bingham, R.A., as Mr. Nathaniel Snoozle, and Mr. Barington Foote R.H.A. as the Intruder, the latter gentleman displaying an amount of energy seldom witnessed from an amateur. The next piece was the late T. W. Robertson's adaptation of MM. Scribe and Legouvé's interesting drama, The Ladies' Battle. This, if we remember rightly, was originally produced some twenty-five years ago at the Royal Olympic Theatre, when it was supported by the Bros. Henry and William Farren, and by Mr. Leigh Murray, while Mrs. Stirling and Miss Louisa Howard respectively represented the Countess d'Antreval and Leonie de Villegontier. The scene is laid in France, at the Chateau d'Antreval, and the period assigned for the action is the year 1820. Henri de Flavigneul, a prescribed Bonapartist, is being sheltered and protected by the Countess d'Antreval, at her chateau; he assumes the disguise of a domestic, and his adventures with the Baron de Montrichard, the Prefect of Police, forms the plot on which the drama is constructed. The caste on the present occasion comprised Capt. Hughes, as the Baron de Montrichard, Capt. Fitz-George (20th Hussars), as Henri de Flavigneul, Mr. S. Brandram as Gustave de Grignon, while Mrs. Monckton and Miss M. C. Helmore appeared as the Countess d'Antreval and Leonie. The acting of Mr. Brandram was characterised throughout as of a high order. His heroic speeches were admirably delivered, and he fairly carried the audience with him. It is seldom, indeed, that anything approaching this is to be seen, except from those who have made the stage their profession. Capt. Hughes played the rather up-hill part of the Baron carefully; here and there, perhaps, he displayed a trifle more impetuosity than was warranted; but this, should he repeat the performance, could easily be remedied. Captain Fitz-George, as Henri de Flavigneul, was, to our mind, rather too jaunty, and a little more repose would decidedly have improved his performance. We will mention one instance to which our attention was more particularly attracted. After the arrest of Grignon, Henri enters and receives from the Baron his promised reward; the Baron exits, and Henri, throwing himself into a seat, bursts into a fit of exultation. This part of the performance was keenly watched by a young lady who sat immediately in front of us, and when Captain Fitz-George thus interpreted the part, she exclaimed, involuntarily, "Ridiculous; he will betray himself through his own indiscretion." But though we feel bound to find a little fault here, we cannot but accord to the ladies the highest praise. Mrs. Monckton's portraiture of the witty and kind-hearted Countess was excellent. In some of her scenes she exhibited great dramatic power, and in recounting her triumphs over the wily Baron, when he held the post of Procureur, she exhibited talent that was thoroughly appreciated by the audience. Miss Helmore's modest interpretation of the part of Leonie was a most happy contrast, and the deep interest of the piece was thoroughly sustained throughout. The smaller parts, so frequently overlooked by amateurs, were all carefully represented, thus tending greatly to the success of the piece. The entertainments concluded with a comedietta, translated from the French by Miss Bolton Rowe, entitled Tears. The scene is laid at Baden Baden, and the piece recounts the adventures of two married couples who are on their wedding tour. Mr. Arthur Gooch, as Gerard Vivian, gave a very happy assumption of the confiding husband who had entrusted his wife with that most necessary attribute to comfort—his cheque book; while Mrs. Monckton, as Kate, gave a pleasing display of the powers she had so generously been entrusted with. In happy contrast with the endearments of the more matured couple, were the love-sick vapourings of Sir Francis Ainslie and his wife Mabel, while the small part of Jean, a French waiter, was made the most of by Mr. Dundas. The stage arrangements were under the direction of Mr. E. F. Edgar, and from that gentleman's well-known ability, it is scarcely necessary for us to say that everything passed off satisfactorily.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 10th of May, at Bro. Hallows's, Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. Bell W.M., Groome S.W., Claridge J.W., Saunders Sec., Pinder Preceptor, W. G. Hallows S.D., Franklin J.D., F. Hallows I.G.; also Bros. Dilvalle, Simms, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last meeting confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and the ceremony of passing rehearsed, Bro. Dilvalle acting as candidate. The Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, Bro. Simms acting as candidate. Bro. Groom was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A cordial vote of thanks was recorded to the W.M. for the able manner in which he had performed the duties of the chair, it being the first time he had taken the position in this Lodge of Instruction.

Kent Lodge, No. 15.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 9th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields. There were present Bros. S. Wharman W.M., Cambridge S.W., Ginman J.W., Martin P.M., in the absence of the I.P.M., Sleeman P.M. Treas., Dukes Sec., Lipscomb I.G., Becket Tyler, and a number of other members. The visitors were Bros. L. Colman 186, S. Fortescue 511, W. Holt 928, T. Lewis 1445, and E. Gottheil P.M. 141. The principal business consisted in raising Bros. Lipschutz and Holloway to the degree of M.M., and passing Bros. Joseph and Alex. Posener to the Craft degree. In the absence of both Deacons, Bros. Martin and Gottheil performed the duties. When the Lodge was closed, the brethren adjourned to the Holborn Restaurant, and partook of a very enjoyable banquet, excellently served under the supervision of Bro. Hamp, the manager. Upon the removal of the cloth the usual toasts were given—The Queen, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M., the Earl of Carnarvon M.W. Pro G.M., Lord Skelmersdale Deputy G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers Past and Present. Bro. Martin then proposed "The health of the W.M." I am not the Immediate Past Master, but, in his absence, the pleasant duty devolves upon me to act in his stead. The I.P.M. is engaged at the Festival of the Girl's School, which takes place this evening, representing the Kent Lodge, the subscriptions from which amount to the satisfactory sum of £46 4s. Bro. Wharman conducts the Lodge very creditably and satisfactorily. Let us wish every success to him. The W.M. replying, expressed his very sincere thanks. With regard to the work, he felt it was not satisfactory, although he tried to do his best. He had only comparatively lately taken to the work, and trusted to be more efficient on future occasions. Bro. Gottheil responded for the visitors, he earnestly and sincerely congratulated the W.M. upon the manner in which he performed the work, and continued, it is the more remarkable, inasmuch as he being a foreigner, without any considerable grasp on the English language, is yet able to perform so very creditably one of our most onerous ceremonies. The condition of the Lodge seems all that could be desired, of course I do not mean from a financial point of view, naturally of that I can know nothing. But I refer to the future prospects of its working power. There are some good men gradually working on to the first chair. Bro. Cambridge the S.W., who is frequently met in Lodges of Instruction, works excellently well. The J.W. with whom I privately conversed, informed me he attended two or three evenings at these Lodges. Of the inferior Officers I cannot say anything—they being absent, excepting Bro. Lipscomb, who I think from what I have seen of him, will prove an efficient officer; but what struck me as being of good omen in reference to the working of this Lodge, was the intelligence of, at any rate, two out of the four candidates who were raised, and passed this evening. I will not mention names; it would be invidious, and not at all necessary. I will conclude these few remarks by thanking you very heartily on behalf of the visitors for your hospitality, and the very kind reception you have been pleased to vouchsafe unto us. Bro. Martin, in responding for the P.M.'s, said: Having spoken once before, I do not know that I can add anything to what I have already stated. There used to be a long array of P.M.'s in the Kent Lodge, eighteen or twenty. There are not so many now, for which I am sorry, for it is not only the assistance Past Masters render, but they add substance, and give weight by their presence to the deliberations of a Lodge. I therefore trust to see again a long line of P.M.'s among us. Bro. Dr. Sleeman P.M. and Treasurer, said it was all very well to be called upon to speak after so many able speeches had been delivered, but he thought he could please them by stating that although since his accession, the W.M. has made a tolerable inroad in the finances, yet they may rest satisfied, as he could assure them they are in a very good position. He trusted the brethren and visitors had enjoyed themselves. The W.M. has indulged them, but he (Bro. Sleeman) was always ready to pay the bill when presented. Bro. Dr. Dukes P.M. Sec. said his inate modesty stood in the way of his making a speech, but he would just say he thought he had done his duties conscientiously ever since the Secretaryship was entrusted to him, and hoped to continue to do so. He was pleased with the way in which Bro. Wharman carried on the business of the Lodge, as it was he (Bro. Dukes) who introduced the W.M. into Masonry. Bro. Cambridge and Bro. Barlow P.M. and W.S. responded for the Officers. The proceedings were enlivened by a band of music playing various selections, and by some excellent songs by Bros. Fortescue, Godfrey, Green, Wells, Lipshütz, &c.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules, Leadenhall-street, on Thursday evening last, 10th May. Present—Bros. Maidwell W.M., Powell S.W., Hewlett J.W., Garbett S.D., Grammer J.D. and Sec., Isaacs I.G., and other brethren. The ceremony of the 2nd degree was rehearsed, Bro. Hill acting as candidate. The whole of the sections in the 2nd lecture were worked by Bro. Hewlett, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Isaacs, No. 27, was elected a member, and the Lodge was closed.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge was held at the Old Rodney's Head, on Monday, 7th instant. Present—Bros. R. Pearcy W.M., Killick S.W., Ross J.W., Cook S.D., Tolmie acting Preceptor, Fenner Secretary, Millivard J.D., Bisset I.G. Christopher Tyler, Powell, Stock, Fairbank, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form and the minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed by the W.M. in his usual excellent manner, Bro. Fairbank acting as candidate. The W.M. worked the first 4 Sections of the Lecture, and Bro. Tolmie the 5th assisted by the brethren. Bro. Killick was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. It was proposed by the W.M. and seconded by Bro. Fenner, that the votes of the Lodge for the Girls' School be given to Bro. Stock which was carried unanimously. Lodge was then closed in due form and adjourned.

Lodge of Joppa, No. 188.—This Lodge met on Monday, the 7th inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. Bros. L. Lazarus W.M., W. Miller S.W., H. Hymans as J.W., L. Auerbaan Treasurer, E. P. Albert P.G.P. Secretary, A. J. Campion J.D., R. Baker I.G., H. P. Isaac D.C.; P.M.'s Bros. A. G. Dodson, S. Hickman, L. Alexander, M. Alexander, I. Abrahams, H. M. Levy, and Bros. J. S. Lyon, M. Auerbaan, L. Davids, S. Davis, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bro. E. Cogswell was balloted for, and being unanimously elected, was initiated. Bro. Althorp was raised. A distressed brother was relieved with the sum of 21s. A letter of condolence was proposed to be sent to Bro. Spiegel, on his recent bereavement. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to slight refreshment. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. In replying to that of the Earl of Carnarvon, Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers, Bro. E. P. Albert P.G.P. said this was the first time he had had to return thanks to the brethren for the toast as a Past Grand Pursuivant. The W.M. gave the toast of the Joppa Benevolent Fund, coupled with the name of Bro. H. M. Levy P.M., the Senior Vice-President, who informed the brethren that the Fund had now reached £1,200. He was sure, while the Lodge so progressed, the members would support each other. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the newly initiated, which having been acknowledged, Bro. Dodson I.P.M. proposed that of the W.M., which was received with great enthusiasm, Bro. Dodson considered him a credit to the Order; his working was well known, thoroughly appreciated, and worthy of imitation. The W.M. thanked Bro. Dodson for the kind manner in which he had spoken, he hoped to be spared to be among them for many years, to render any service required of him. He then gave the toast of the visitors. Bro. Cohen W.M. 205, A. Godfrey and others responded, in very excellent speeches. Bro. Israel Abrahams, in a very eloquent speech, returned thanks for the Past Masters. The toasts of the various officers, followed by that of the Tyler, brought the meeting to a close. The visitors were Bros. J. Rosh 1201, J. H. R. Sims 1357, A. Godfrey 193, Kellar 6, H. F. Young 299, J. Cohen 205, Stack 62 and 147.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction. No. 193.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Wednesday, the 9th of May, at Bro. W. Edwards's, the Whittington, Mour-lane, E.C. Present—Bros. G. L. Walker W.M., Edward Abell S.W., Staley J.W., J. K. Pitt Sec., W. Sayer S.D., Bone J.D., Ager Steward, Sadleir I.G. Christopher Tyler. After the usual formalities the Lodge was opened in the three degrees, and the ceremony of raising rehearsed. The S.W. worked the first section of the second lecture, and was chosen to fill the chair at the next meeting. Bro. Felton was elected a member, and the Lodge was closed.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its meeting at the Jolly Farmer's, Southgate-road, Islington, on Saturday, the 5th inst. Bros. Musto P.M. presided, Hewlett S.W., Brasted J.W., Baxter S.D., Ockenden J.D., Gibbs I.G., Pearcy Preceptor, Halford Treasurer, Killick Secretary, and nearly forty members. The ceremony of installation was rehearsed; Bro. J. Lorkin, acting as W.M. elect, was regularly installed. The appointment of officers followed, they being invested and addressed by Bro. Musto. The newly installed W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Musto acting as candidate. Bro. Pearcy worked the 1st, and Bro. Musto the 3rd section of the first lecture. Bro. Hewlett was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks and honorary membership of the Lodge was proposed by Bro. Killick, seconded by Bro. Pearcy, and unanimously carried in favour of Bro. Musto, and was acknowledged by him. A vote of thanks was also passed to Bro. J. Lorkin, it being the first time he had occupied the chair of the Lodge. Bro. Marvin, of the Wolsey Lodge, was elected a member.

William Preston Lodge of Instruction, No. 766.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Friday, the 4th of May, at the Feather's Tavern, Upper George-street, Edgware-road. Present—Bros. S. Godden W.M., G. Tribbel S.W., Geo. West J.W., Aug. Braun Secretary, Rudderforth Preceptor, R. Tate S.D., Parsons I.G. Also Bros. Evans, Reid, Harris, Murch, Kennard, Thompson, Hill, Nichols, and Codlin. The Lodge was opened in due form in the first degree, and the minutes confirmed. The W.M. most ably rehearsed the ceremonies of initiation and passing, Bro. Harris being the candidate. The W.M. then vacated the chair in favour of the Preceptor, who, after having asked the usual questions, opened the Lodge in the third degree, and rehearsed the ceremony of raising, Bro. Thompson being candidate. Bro. G. Tribbel was elected W.M. for the next meeting, and the Lodge was closed in due form. The ballot for the Life Subscribership of the William Preston Benevolent Association resulted in favour of Bro. Sam. Nichols, of the Great Northern Lodge, No. 1287.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The meeting of this Lodge, which was held at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, the 8th instant, was presided over by Bro. Wallington P.M. Preceptor, who rehearsed the ceremony of the second degree in his usual masterly style, Bro. Pavitt acting as candidate. The officers were Bro. Smith S.W., Perry J.W., Johnson S.D., Lovelock J.D., Defriez I.G., Wright P.M., Bros. Cambridge, Pullen, Brasted, Christian, Saunders, Crouch, Hewlett, and Barker were also present. Bro. Defriez worked the first section assisted by the brethren. Lodge was then opened in the third degree, and Bro. Hewlett worked the first and third sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was closed to the first, when Bro. Smith was unanimously elected W.M. for ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. The Lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned.

Royal Albert Lodge of Instruction, No. 907.—Held at Bro. C. Chard's, White Hart Tavern, Abchurch-lane, E.C. The fortnightly meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday last as above, when there were present:—Bros. F. A. White W.M., J. F. Hallett S.W., R. Jennings J.W., W. Suelgrove S.D., G. F. ceremony of raising in a most creditable manner, it being, as we were informed, his second attempt. The Lodge voted the sum of one guinea, to be invested in shilling tickets in Bro. Constable's ballot for Life Governorships of the Boys' School, and in the event of any one of the tickets being successful, a ballot is to take place among the members of the Lodge of Instruction for the same. We congratulate the Lodge upon thus assisting a good cause, and we should much like to see other Lodges and Lodges of Instruction following the wake of the Royal Albert. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, the 22nd, at eight p.m.

Lord Warden Lodge, No. 1096.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Friday, the 4th inst., at the Public Rooms, Park-street, Deal. The following brethren were present:—A. H. Des Barres W.M., T. Ayling I.P.M., E. Kirby S.W., W. Hazell J.W., S. Hinds Treasurer, T. J. Usher P.M. P.G.R. Secretary, H. R. Botting S.D., J. Laggett J.D., J. Carpenter I.G., S. Walley D.C., J. Horne S.; Bros. T. Smith, W. Dunn, H. E. Drew, W. Ryder, S. Holgate Tyler. Visitor—Bro. H. Sanctuary 1428. Business—Minutes read and confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the second degree. Bro. Geo. Chandler, having proved his efficiency, retired. Lodge opened in the third degree. Bro. Geo. Chandler was raised. The very beautiful ceremony was conducted by the W.M. in a most efficient and impressive manner, he being well supported by his officers. Lodge was then closed down to the first degree. It was proposed and carried unanimously that £10 10s out of the Lodge funds be placed on the list of the W.M., he being a Steward in connection with the Festival on the 9th inst. The W.M. announced that he had been able to collect the very handsome sum of £66 19s. He hoped to be able to double that amount on the next occasion. The Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to refreshments, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts being given and responded to. It is gratifying to note that this very prosperous Lodge has been represented at one of the Festivals for the last three years, and it is intended that they shall be represented at one of the Festivals each year, a brother has already come forward to act at the one in connection with the Aged Freemasons next year.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—Held at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday, the 4th inst. Present—Bros. Kent W.M., Andrews S.W., Cleverley J.W., Crouch S.D., Oldroyd J.D., Lane I.G., Austin, Fenner, Townsend, Bolton, Smith, Hewlett, &c. Lodge was opened in due form. Minutes of last meeting confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Austin acting as candidate. The 1st, 2nd, and 3rd sections of the Lecture were worked by Bro. A. W. Fenner, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Andrews was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Bro. Fenner proposed, and Bro. Hewlett seconded, that a vote of thanks be awarded to the W.M., for the very able manner he had carried out the duties of the evening, it being the first time he had occupied that honourable position in this Lodge. This was carried unanimously. Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

Golden Rule Lodge, No. 1261.—A meeting was held at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street, on the 1st inst. Bros. J. P. Godfrey W.M., Jessop S.W., Longley J.W. and Sec., Williams P.M. Treasurer, James Levy S.D., Emdin J.D., H. Atkins I.G., Allworth I.P.M. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bro. Abud was passed. Mr. W. J. Cox was balloted for and duly initiated. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. Nicols. The W.M., who very ably and genially presided, proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. In giving that of the Grand Officers, he said he was pleased to see one among them—Bro. E. P. Albert P.G.P. He had just retired from active service, and now enjoyed the fruits of his labour as a Grand Officer. Bro. Allworth I.P.M. proposed the toast of the W.M., commenting in the course of his very excellent speech on the able manner in which the duties of the Lodge were conducted. He hoped they would give the toast a hearty reception. The W.M. thanked the brethren for their kind expressions. He had to thank the Past Masters and the officers for their support during his year of office. He hoped at the expiration of his term to hear the same kind and good feelings. The toast of the Past Masters was then given. The W.M. had great pleasure in presenting Bro. Cross P.M. with a jewel for his valued services in connection with the Lodge. He was one who was worthily entitled to wear it. Bro. Cross returned thanks for the valuable gift, the more so from the fact that he had no previous knowledge of it. The toast of the Visitors was given, and duly responded to by the visiting brethren. The toast of the Wardens and Officers followed, and a very agreeable evening was passed. The Visitors were Bros. E. P. Albert P.G.P. P.M. 188, Godfrey 193, E. J. Harty W.M. 1201, and H. Zachurie.

Asaph Lodge, No. 1319.—The regular meeting of this excellent working Lodge, whose members are principally composed of the musical and theatrical profession, was held on Monday, the 7th inst., at the Freemasons' Hall. Bros. W. Finney W.M., Chamberlain P.M. as S.W., G. Buckland J.W., E. Stanton Jones P.M. Sec., W. Wellard D.C., Harry Cox I.G.; P.M.'s Bros. C. Coote, Jekyll, Trewin; and Bros. Henson, Smith, Parker, Barrett, Alias, Reynolds, Dodson, Snyders, Castell, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Messrs. Bell, Hatcher, Beveridge, and Kent were balloted for and duly initiated into the Order. Bros. Castell, Powell, and Finney were passed to the 2nd degree, by the W.M. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren separated. There was no banquet. The Visitors were Bros. B. Nelson, St. Johns (Scotland), and Lowe, St. Dunstan's Lodge.

Wolsey Lodge, No. 1656, Hampton Wick.—An emergency meeting was held at the White Hart Hotel, on Monday last, the 7th inst. The business on the summons was very heavy, there being three initiations, four passings, and four raisings. The Lodge being opened in the 1st degree, Messrs. Richard Masters, George Malcolm, and John Piller were admitted to the light of Freemasonry. Bros. Taylor, Jackson, Pinto, and Forge were then examined, entrusted, and retired until after the opening of the Lodge on the Square, when, on their re-admission, they were duly passed to the degree of F.C. Bros. Marvin, Scott, Richer, and Featherstone were presented candidates for the 3rd degree. Having successfully passed the necessary examination, the beautiful ceremony of the sublime degree was proceeded with. The business of the evening concluded with the investiture of Bro. Albert Marvin as D.C. and Bro. Scott as W.S. The Lodge was closed shortly before 11. The whole of the ceremonies was worked by the Worshipful Master in a most impressive manner, and he certainly had a hard night's work. Amongst the visitors we were pleased to hail Bro. John Bowes of Warrington, Prov. G.J. Warden of Cumberland and Westmoreland, P.P.G.S.B. West Lancashire, P.Z., and who, as P.M. of five Lodges, came laden with hearty greetings to the Master from our Northern brethren. The visitors' list also included the names of Bros. D. B. Raw P.M. 926, Kracutler S.W. 1303, J. Griffiths 1641, Hiscox 1512, Murphy 1512, &c. The following officers and members were also present—Bros. J. Hammond I.P.M., B. Sharp P.M. 168 S.W., J. Bond P.M. 889 J.W., The Rev. F. J. Champion de Crespigny P.M. 708, P.P.G. Chap. Middlesex Chaplain, T. W. Ockenden Secretary, B. R. Aston S.D., J. Hurst W.M. 1512 J.D., T. C. Walls I.G., F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex, J. W. Baldwin P.A.G.P. Middlesex, Marvin, Scott, Richer, Featherstone, Jackson, Pinto, Andrews, Taylor, Forge, &c. We need hardly add there was not any banquet, the brethren of the Wolsey had met strictly for Masonic business, and they separated with the idea that they had transacted the same.

Beaconsfield Lodge, No. 1662.—The general meeting of this Lodge was held on Saturday 5th May 1877, at the Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Bro. W. T. Christian W.M., W. Groome S.W., W. B. Brand J.W., J. Pinder P.M., F. Hallows Hon. Sec., C. J. Saunders S.D., T. Franklin J. D., W. G. Hallows acting I.G., T. Upward Organist, J. H. Cambridge W.S. and W. Gilchurst Tyler. The Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. The Lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bros. Clark, Carter, Deady, Delvalle and Hunt, were asked the usual questions entitling them to be raised to the third degree; these being all satisfactorily answered, the Lodge was opened in the third degree, and the above-named five brethren were raised in the usual manner according to ancient rite and custom. The Lodge was resumed in the 2nd degree, and Bro. Wm. Moffat was passed. The Lodge was then resumed in the first degree, and two candidates were proposed and seconded for initiation at the next meeting of the Lodge. The ordinary business was then gone through, and the Lodge was closed in due form and adjourned until the 6th October. Among the members and visitors present were Bros. H. Field, John Bell 1178, Walter Claridge 1598, C. Carter 1507, E. Brown 1598, G. E. Laversack 917, Samuel Morris 1421, J. S. Baxter 206, T. Elves 174, J. Lake 1471.

Upper Norwood Lodge of Instruction.—The last meeting of the session was held at the White Hart Hotel, Upper Norwood, on Monday, the 30th April. Bro. H. E. Frances P.P.G.D. Surrey Preceptor, in his usual capital style, worked the ceremony of installation. There was a numerous attendance of members. The most interesting feature of the evening was the presentation of a handsomely finished P.M.'s jewel, accompanied with a testimonial on vellum, to Bro. William Jerrett Miller P.M. and late Secretary to the Lodge. The scroll is magnificently illuminated by Bro. H. E. Frances, Preceptor, and is a creditable specimen of Masonic genius. Bro. Miller acknowledged the gift in appropriate and feeling terms, and concluded by remarking that he not only valued the testimonial as a proof of brotherly love, but as an excellent production of Masonic ability. The following is the wording of the testimonial:—

"To Bro. William Jerrett Miller P.M. 763 and 1586."

"At the regular weekly meeting of the Upper Norwood Lodge of Instruction, on Monday, the 16th April 1877, White Hart Hotel, Upper Norwood, on the proposal of Bro. Walter Hopekirk P.M. 179 and W.M. 1586, seconded by Bro. J. Pringle P.M. 763, it was cordially and unanimously resolved,—

"That in addition to the P.M.'s jewel to be presented to Bro. William Jerrett Miller, an indelible expression of the sincere feelings of the members of the Lodge be inscribed, testifying to the unqualified appreciation of the valuable and instructive services rendered by him while acting as Secretary to the Upper Norwood Lodge of Instruction, under the Warrant of the Sydney Lodge, and for the highly merited esteem in which he is held for his eminent Masonic ability, invariable courtesy and affability of demeanour, under all circumstances, on every occasion, to each and all of the members of this Lodge of Instruction in particular, and Freemasons in general, being in himself, by his exemplary conduct, an impeachable exponent of those grand Masonic principles—Brotherly Love, Relief and Truth.

"The earnest prayer of the Lodge is hereby added that Bro. William Jerrett Miller may long be spared, in good health, to enjoy the domestic bliss of his family, the general goodwill of his friends, the high esteem of the brotherhood, and ample prosperity in his avocation, so that when summoned from this sublunary abode he may ascend to the Grand Lodge above where the world's Great Architect lives and reigns for ever."

H. E. Frances P.M. P.P.G.D. Surrey, Preceptor.
Walter Hopekirk P.M. 179 and W.M. 1586, Treas.
John Hammond P.M. 201, &c., &c., Secretary.

THE POPE AND MEDIÆVAL FREEMASONS.

FROM THE PHILADELPHIA SUNDAY SUN.

THE conversion of Constantine the Great to Christianity, in the Fourth Century, gave a decided impulse to the enlargement of Episcopal authority, which at a later period developed into the Papacy. With the protection afforded throughout the vast Empire, proselyting and evangelical labours were assiduously pursued, not only within the circumscribed limits of the municipalities of Rome and Alexandria, but reached forth into the more remote provinces of Gaul and Germany. The zeal of Missionary enterprise soon opened a way for the introduction of Christianity either in a greater or lesser orthodox form among the native Teutons, or burned its fiery pathway to the obdurate hearts of Gallic pagans. While Uphilas captivated the Goths with the errors of Arianism, the Romish Church, which, under the weighty pressure of Byzantine favor, overshadowed all competitors, had at an early period organised, upon the pure doctrines of Christ, a compact system of evangelical missions, whose labourers boldly advanced into undeveloped territory, and through numerous expedients, succeeded in converting the heathen Teutons to the new religion.

As a consequence of such enterprise, it was of the last necessity that those who accorded an implicit acceptance of the Christian faith should not only become an integral part of the Church Militant, but also have erected for their accommodation rude and temporary structures, in which the services of the church might be celebrated, amid the solemn pomp of a rapidly increasing cumbersome ritualism. The earliest edifices so hastily put together for the purpose alluded to were mainly due to the work of a class of workmen in wood, designated as lignarios, composed of inferior Craftsmen, whose skill was narrowed down to the preparation of timber churches, to be used for temporarily assembling the new converts. These builders, as early as the Fourth Century, may be stated to have consisted exclusively of ecclesiastical workmen, acting under specific instructions of the Head of the Church at Rome, sanctioned by imperial authority. Although colleges of artificers were still sojourning upon Germanic territory at this epoch, and pursued their avocations with many customs, and practised their skill, derived from ancient precursors, there does not appear sufficient evidence to assume that the stone-workers were at this time under the control of Church government. In this age the secular authority still had need of the skilled labour of such constructors, but when, a century later, the great heart of the Byzantine Empire withdrew along its arterial routes the vital fluids from remote provinces, and more closely concentrated them at home, then under the mighty advance of sacerdotal authority they were controlled by Church forces.

In the Fifth Century, as is well known, the Gothic King Theodoriok, influenced by his Secretary, Cassiodurus, introduced from Byzantium numerous bodies of builders, who aided him in reconstructing the public edifices which had suffered from the destruction of war. The Church of Rome having, by frequent politic subserviency, managed to maintain with increasing vigor a foothold in the administration of civil society, quickly seized the opportunity offered, to utilize the building guilds, by erecting more important edifices than had hitherto prevailed, on newly converted territory. These artificers were exclusively composed of Masons, cæmentarii, and carpenters, lignarii and in the absence of that profound knowledge subsequently current among the later Freemasons, viz.: as to the preparation of an entire building from stone, these two classes of Craftsmen worked upon uniform plans, and possessed traditions drawn from identical sources. During the middle ages the guilds of Masons and carpenters were in the closest union. To such intimacy in detail was this similitude carried that a distinguished archæologist asserts the original unity of these corporations, while our own Masonic writers of the last century earnestly insisted upon their common parentage.

These associations of builders, continually recruited and invigorated by additions from Byzantium, were used by the Romish Church in the erection of houses of religious worship of a more enduring character than the first structures in foreign countries, of woodwork, and yet, when completed on this new scheme, presented the appearance of churches built of stone and timber—a combination of material which fully accounts for the frequency of conflagrations during the middle ages. Down to the eight century, it may be added, the wood-workers, or lignarii, were made use of in the erection of churches and cathedrals. The system closely followed by the ecclesiastical authorities of those remote ages, in the rapid extension of Christianity among the Teutonic races, placed such evangelical labour under the immediate control of the supreme head of the Church—an assumption fully recognised and allowed by the temporal authorities. The earliest prerogative claimed by the Papacy, and radically incorporated into canonical law, was the exclusive administration of church government over new converts gathered to the Faith of Christ wheresoever the proselytes were made. An infinitely more important concession, maintained by the canons of the Church, permitted the Pope to exercise personal direction in missionary labours, and to him, as the Divine Vicegerent, was entrusted the undisputed privilege of systematising all plans of extending ecclesiastical jurisdiction, or rendering them effective in such territory as the evangelising zeal of his subordinates added to the Papal See. Towards the close of the Fifth Century this power began to assume the appearance of more than an empty assumption. As rapidly as the increasing number of converted pagans, especially in Gaul and Germany, rendered such measures necessary for the perpetuation of congregations, substantial edifices were erected at convenient places in episcopal districts. These structures, although often of hasty construction, were built by corporations or guilds of masons and carpenters already organized and possessing the prescriptive right by immemorial usage in Italy to be governed according to their own laws. Such, consequently, was the well-defined social status of these builders upon Italian soil at the period when the exigencies of the Romish Church demanded a more elevated art-knowledge for the erection of cathedrals and chapels upon territory where the religion of Christ had vanquished the sombre rites of Teutonic deities. The organization and extension of missionary enterprise invariably contemplated the use and association of these ancient artificers in such schemes. Wherever the Evangelists travelled, with assiduous zeal to proselyte and convert, bodies of builders quickly followed upon their foot-steps, in order that temples consecrated to the new worship might rise into immediate use. Both the laity and clergy, under authorization of the Roman Pontiff, eagerly affiliated with these travelling Craftsmen. It would indeed be an unwarranted assumption to assert that at this early period of the middle ages the precusor of the Mediæval Freemasons were under exclusive pontifical jurisdiction, inasmuch as it can be demonstrated to the contrary that contemporary with such control, and in the Seventh Century, where papal influence extended, these colleges were by royal rescripts recognised to possess the right of independent government. It is, however, manifestly in exact accord with the necessities of the enlarging Church in distant countries that those building guilds, whose services were demanded and called thither, should travel in obedience to the sole undisputed power which could contract with and direct them with supreme authority, which was inherent in the Pope. Such of them, therefore, as accompanied the Evangelists, or were sent upon their demand, maintained a direct relationship with his holiness, and were under his sanction and patronage.

It has oftentimes been claimed that these early bodies of artificers existed throughout the vast domains of the Romish Church, under and by virtue of Papal charters or indulgences. To this day no proof of such allegation has been found. This statement is in open antagonism with other important facts having reference to the earlier Masons and Carpenters, and it is believed cannot be attested. Neither charters nor Pontifical indulgences were necessary to preserve this corporate existence, which was repeatedly recognised by the rescripts of Roman Emperors and by edicts of Longobordic rulers as late as the Eighth Century. There is, however, a germinal truth in this venerable tradition. As early as the era of the Merowingian Kings, about the year 550, in France, there was a fully developed system practised by these rulers of granting to individuals especial letters of safeguard or protection, which, when issued in the form of a written document, exempted the bearer from all and every local restriction. In the Cartularies of Charlemagne, several centuries later, these letters of personal protection are frequently referred to as a well recognised privilege of imperial power. The Roman Pontiffs evidently adopted this system from sheer necessity, in order that such building corporations as traversed unsettled France or Germany might present themselves with letters guaranteeing their personal safety and authenticating the claims of the traveling craftsmen to papal protection. When the progress of civilisation and advance of solid government rendered this system unnecessary, it was certainly merged into the gradual discipline which the Mediæval Church, through convents and monasteries, assumed over the Freemasons, at which time it was universally accepted to be true that episcopal or pontifical authority possessed a rigid control over the craft. It can be stated with precision at what epoch the mediæval guild of builders attempted to withdraw from church discipline, and began to apply their skill to other construction than sacred edifices.

Before the year 1060, modification of the relations existing between the conventual institutions and the Freemasons had so far progressed that these builders were known throughout France and Germany as conversi barbati fratres, or converted bearded brothers. Under ecclesiastical and evidently pontifical sanction, they still remained under sacerdotal control, and were unqualifiedly subjected to Church government and direction, although by express permission of episcopal authority, these Fratres or brothers were allowed to wear the peculiar secular costume which distinguished the Masonic guild at a later period of the middle ages. History attests with unequivocal certainty that as early as the year 1090, the Barbati Fratres used marks of a specific character, hewn upon stones, for purpose of proprietory distinction.

In the year 1099 these craftsmen in the Low Countries had evidently advanced to an open rupture with the Church, and assumed the privilege of concealing their secret arts from the clergy. A Frisian master, by the name of Pieber, in the year alluded to, pledged his head by way of forfeit to successfully execute certain work which clerical authority deemed impossible. The enormous compensation demanded upon perfecting this exhibition of skill induced the Bishop to cajole Pieber's son into betraying the secret of the abstruse principle by which the work was accomplished, which disclosure of craft arcana—archanum magisterium—so enraged the master builder that he killed the Bishop. The first authentic evidence attesting the decided tendency of these fratres to abandon ecclesiastical jurisdiction is to be found at this period, when the Church or Canonical authorities granted permission to the laity to use their skill upon the condition that the craftsmen should not be required to construct machines for the destruction of human life—machinæ mortiferæ. A century later the Abbe William of Premontre attempted to reduce the guild again to Church discipline, and issued an order that these Barbati Fratres, bearded brothers, should shave off their beards. They peremptorily refused, and threatened, if the edict were made mandatory, to set fire to every cloister in the country. This order and prompt refusal mark the absolute severance of the guild of Mediæval Masons from sacerdotal control, and with the same ended for ever the direct or indirect authority of the Roman Pontiff over the Craft.

Mr. John Nash and Mr. F. Clifton have been very successful with their entertainment, entitled Be Merry and Wise, at the Egyptian Hall New Drawing Room. The various impersonations are clever and amusing, and at the same time free from vulgarity. Perhaps one of the best is that of Adolphus St. Jean, who is described as being passionately fond of music, in which Mr. Nash introduces a serenade and fearful denouement, with wonderful imitations and effects, including a clever burlesque of Levey.

TAMAR INDIEN.

SPECIAL CAUTION.

OWING to the marked success of this medicine, the only patent medicine universally prescribed by the faculty, and the acknowledged cure for constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c., BASE IMITATIONS, containing drastic irritants, are being foisted on the public. The genuine preparation bears the title "Tamar Indien," and the signature E. GRILLON, Coleman-st., London, E.C. Price 2 6d per box. In a recent case, 1876, G. No. 211, a perpetual injunction to restrain the defendant from applying the name "Tamar" to his lozenges was awarded, with costs, by Vice-Chancellor Bacon, on 19th January 1877, and all such piracies will be summarily proceeded against.——N.B.—See that the outer wrapper (directions) are printed in the English language, and that each box bears the Government 3d stamp. The boxes with foreign wrappers are not prepared for English requirements.

FESTIVAL OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

ANALYSIS OF THE SUBSCRIPTION LIST.

WE have so often explained the motives which actuate us in making these analyses of the subscriptions at our different Festivals that we do not feel called upon to repeat them on the present occasion. We shall therefore follow that famous old golden rule of plunging forthwith in medias res. Premising that this year's Festival has been more productive than that of 1876 to the extent of over £1,500, and that, as there are still several other lists to be received, there is a prospect of the sum of £10,000 being reached, we note generally that the Metropolitan District contributed £5,197 3s 5d, and the Provinces and Abroad £4,599 9s 6d. These totals, it will be found, when taken together, amount to £9,796 13s, or about £39 in excess of the sum stated last week, namely, £9,757 13s 6d. Slight variations of this kind are to be expected. We have taken the figures as they appeared in these columns last week. They were most carefully revised at the time, and under these circumstances we think they may be accepted as trustworthy. But to return to our analysis. London, we repeat, contributed £5,197 3s 6d, or considerably over a moiety of the whole produce of the day's contributions. Taking the Grand Lodge Calendar as our guide, we note that there were to the close of last year 252 Metropolitan Lodges. Eighty-four of these, together with six Chapters and four "Miscellaneous," were represented on the Board of Stewards, the number of representatives being ninety-eight. Thus about one-fourth of the whole were contributors at this Festival, and among these are several which are handsomely represented. Friends in Council, No. 1383, for which Major S. H. Clerke acted as Steward, headed the list with £281 9s. Prudent Brethren, No. 145, comes next, with £220 8s, and is followed closely by United Lodge of Prudence, No. 83, with £201 12s, and St. George's, No. 140, with £198 1s. In addition to these Lodges, Nos. 12, 173, 183, 197, 657, 1339, 1615, and 1662 are set down severally for three-figure contributions. It is further noteworthy that fifteen out of these eighty-four Lodges have figured in the list of all the Festivals held thus far during 1875, 1876, and the current year, while several others have been very successfully represented at seven, six, or five out of the eight Festivals. We think it right to mention these few circumstances, as they tend to show that in London the duty of supporting our Institutions is faithfully observed. Indeed, the number of its Lodges which have been conspicuous by their absence from the lists during the last three years is very limited, and even these have an opportunity at the Boys' Anniversary in June next of redeeming their neglect.

As regards the Provinces, there are, including the three districts of Bedfordshire, the Channel Islands, and the Isle of Man, no less than forty-four Provinces or groups of Lodges. Twenty-six of these sent representatives to this Festival. The eighteen unrepresented were Bedfordshire, Bristol, Cambridgeshire, Cornwall, Cumberland and Westmoreland, Derbyshire, Hereford, Leicester and Rutlandshire, Monmouthshire, Northumberland, Somersetshire, the two Divisions of South Wales, Worcestershire, N. and E. Yorkshire, the Channel Islands, Jersey, and the Isle of Man. Of these there are no less than four Provinces or groups which have not appeared in any of the eight lists that have been published since the commencement of 1875, namely, Bedfordshire with five Lodges, Cambridgeshire with four Lodges, Worcestershire with ten Lodges, and the Isle of Man with three Lodges. We do not presume to suggest that the Lodges in these four districts are wittingly unmindful of their duties, but it occurs to us that some energetic brethren might be found who would readily undertake to canvass them. We know that Cambridgeshire, at one of the School elections last month, succeeded in carrying its candidate, and we remarked at the time that when the Province thinks so highly of an institution as to patronize it, it becomes a duty which cannot with propriety be evaded to contribute towards the support of the School in question. The twenty-six contributing Provinces sent up among them 126 Stewards, and are as follow. Berks and Bucks, which comprises sixteen Lodges, had four Stewards, one each for as many Lodges, the aggregate of their lists amounting to £114 9s. Cheshire has no less than thirty-nine Lodges, and three of these appear in the lists, the amount being ten guineas. No doubt, however, this sum represents one list only, and in time, probably, we shall hear of the total being swelled to a still higher amount. Even then it would seem, at the first glance, as though this considerable Province is not adequately represented; but we happen to know that Cheshire has a Masonic Educational Institute of its own. Indeed, our readers must have noticed a few weeks back a short résumé of the accounts of this Institute for the past year. It is doing good work at home, and, therefore, we must not expect so considerable a support towards our great Central Charities. Moreover, it has been a contributor to the Girls' and Boys' Schools in 1875 and 1876, and to the R.M.B.I. in 1875, and this year. Devon has forty-six Lodges, two of which contribute together the sum of fifty guineas. In February last this Province sent up very little short of £600. Last year it was down for five and a half guineas to the Girls', £122 10s to the R.M.B.I., and £173 5s to the Boys'; while in 1875 it gave £53 to the R.M.B.I., and £289 17s to the Boys'. Thus Devon has been absent from only one out of the last eight Festivals. The Province of Dorsetshire reckons thirteen Lodges, and its Deputy Grand Master, Bro. J. M. P. Montagu, acted as Steward, the result of his labours being the very handsome sum of £180 12s. In February last, its contribution to the Benevolent Institution was £305, and in 1876 it gave £222 to the same Charity, while in 1875 it raised a few shillings over £633 for the Boys' School. Putting these sums together, we obtain the total of over £1,300, contributed by a Province which, if one of the most active, is certainly not one of our largest. Next in order is Durham, with its twenty-four Lodges. In 1875 the Province rendered good service to "our Boys" by raising close on £373, and last year it contributed a further sum of £275 2s to the same Institution. This year "our Girls" have claimed its attention, the result being a subscription list amounting to £286 2s 6d. Bro. Babington Boulton acted as Steward for the Province. Essex, with its sixteen Lodges, entered on this year's duties by helping Bro. Terry's Institution to the extent of £113 13s; and now it has given—or rather two of its Lodges have contributed between them, £37 9s. Last year it did nothing for Bro. Little, though it contributed £86 6s 6d in 1875, while in 1876 it assisted both Bro. Terry and Bro. Binckes, the former to the extent of £42 10s, and the latter with £144 18s, and the year previous "Our Hercules" included a sum of sixty-five guineas from this Province in his list of contributions. Gloucestershire, fourteen Lodges, was represented by a Cheltenham Lodge, Foundation, No. 82, the amount of its subscription being £135 9s. It also figured in Bro. Terry's list last February, and very handsomely supported Bro. Binckes in 1876, to the extent of £276 14s. Two Lodges, No. 130, of Southampton, and No. 342, of Portsea, sustain the honour of the Province of Hants and the Isle of Wight and its twenty-nine Lodges, the former contributing £169 1s, and the latter £53 11s. This Province has missed only one out of the last eight Festivals, and as its Grand Master Bro. W. W. B. Beach M.P., it is said, will preside at the Boys' School Festival in June, we shall reckon on its supporting him loyally on that occasion. Little Herts has only ten Lodges, but it is always to the fore in contributing to the Funds of our Charities. Four of the ten send up among them £143 16s 6d, while in February it helped Bro. Terry with over £176; in 1876 it contributed to the R.M.B.I. and the Boys', and the year previous it sent up Stewards to each of the three Festivals. Kent comprises forty Lodges; there were Stewards from six of these, and though one list has still to come in, the amount of their contributions is £175 4s 6d. It has been represented at the last eight Festivals, the aggregate of its subscriptions being £2,588 10s 6d, or over an average of £323 on each occasion. It gave to the R.M.B.I. in February close on £500, close on £466 last year, and over £305 in 1875 to the same Charity, while Bro. Binckes was materially aided at his last Festival, the total for this Province on that occasion being within a fraction of £660. East Lancashire has more Lodges than any other Province, there being comprised within it as many as eighty-four. Having given £340 5s to the R.M.B.I. in February, we presume it is resting, as its total this time is only £89 5s. It is noteworthy, however, that this Province has its own Charitable Institution, as is the case with Cheshire, therefore we must not look for large contributions from it. Nevertheless, like Kent and its neighbour of West Lancashire, it has contributed to all the Festivals this and the two previous years. West Lancashire has seventy-four Lodges, and figures for £310 1s 6d, of which £268 were brought in by the labours of Bro. Goepel, the Treasurer of the Masonic Hall, Liverpool. Last year it nobly seconded the efforts of Lord Skelmersdale, on behalf of the R.M.B.I., by giving over £1,500. Lincoln, with twenty Lodges and four Stewards, is down for fifty guineas, there being two lists yet to come in. Last year its contributions to this School reached £543 14s. Middlesex, of which Bro. Little is Deputy Prov. G. Master, very properly supported him most liberally. Bro. Little himself acted as Steward, and his list of £285 15s is the highest individual Steward's list at this Festival, so far as we know at present. The Province is always to the fore at the Girls' Anniversary, and contributed £711 12s in 1876, and £581 19s in 1875. It further helped Bro. Terry with the substantial sum of £329 5s, while in 1875 did Bro. Binckes an equally good turn, and swelled his list by £400 1s. It has, indeed, contributed to all the Festivals, and, considering it musters only twenty-four Lodges, we must describe the total of its subscriptions at the eight Festivals, amounting together to £3,253 16s, as worthy of all praise. Norfolk is not very strong as regards numbers, there being only fourteen Lodges, but Lord Suffield, its Grand Master, was the President at the Festival, and the result was that, with Bro. Barwell as representing the Provinces, and four other Stewards besides, a sum of two hundred guineas was brought into the coffers of the Institution. Of this sum fifty guineas was the donation of Lord Suffield himself. Bro. Marson was Steward for the Province of Northampton and Hants, which has only eight Lodges, and the sum of its subscriptions was one hundred guineas. Notts, too, has eight Lodges, of which one sent up a Steward, whose list produced £43 1s. There were four Stewards, representing five of the twenty-four Lodges in North Wales and Shropshire, the result being £27 6s; but there are two lists yet to be sent in. Three of the seven Oxford Lodges contributed among them £62 9s, and there is one list still outstanding. Three of the twenty-five Staffordshire Lodges amassed together a total of £161 3s. Two Suffolk Lodges out of eighteen sent Stewards, and a sum of £91 19s resulted from their efforts. The amount contributed by Surrey, or rather by two Stewards, members of the Province, one of whom represented Lodge No. 370, was £40 19s. In February, however, it subscribed just over £111 to the R.M.B.I. Neither Surrey nor Suffolk has been unrepresented at any one of the last eight Festivals. There are nineteen Lodges in the Province of Sussex, and three of them sent subscriptions, amounting to £233 7s 6d, a very fair sum, if we bear in mind that only in February it gave £158 13s to the Benevolent Institution, and £206 5s 6d to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys in July last. Warwickshire, with its twenty-nine Lodges, is not strongly represented, but this is not to be wondered at. It raised £467 5s 6d towards the Benevolent in February, £2,000 towards the Boys' last July, and £262 10s for the Girls' in 1876. Wilts is not a very large Province, having only ten Lodges, but it has only missed contributing once in 1875, 1876 and 1877. On this occasion, a Swindon Lodge, No. 355, does duty for the county, its subscription amounting to £122 14s. In February, its contribution to the R.M.B.I. was £273 1s. West Yorkshire, as our readers are aware, always plays a prominent part on these occasions. Next to the two divisions of Lancashire, it is the strongest of our Provinces, as regards the number of Lodges, of which there are now sixty-three. At this Festival it had as many as forty-six Stewards at work for it, and the sum they raised was £840. This brings the total of its contributions to our Charities in this and the last two years to £3,917 11s. Fifty guineas from China completes the tale of subscriptions from the Provinces and Abroad.

We have now gone through the whole list so far as it has been made up. We have dealt only with facts. We have endeavoured to explain, as far as we could, either why certain Provinces have not been represented at this Festival, or why the total of their contributions has been greater or less than the Craft, perhaps, may have had reason to expect. For the rest, we must leave our readers to draw their own conclusion from the analysis we have made and the comparisons we have instituted, where necessary, between this and the seven preceding Festivals.

BALANCE SHEET, GIRLS' SCHOOL, 1876.

THE accounts for the past year of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls are eminently satisfactory. There was an opening balance amounting to £2,276 18s 3d, of which £50 were in Secretary's hands, and £20 in Matron's. The donations and subscriptions include the annual contributions of £150 from Grand Lodge and £10 10s from Grand Chapter; from individuals, London, £5,045 4s 3d; from Lodges and Chapters, ditto, £856 16s; from Lodges of Instruction, ditto, £73 10s; from various bodies, such as A. and A. Rite, Royal Order of Scotland, &c. &c., £82 19s; from individuals, Provincial, £2,046 16s; from Lodges and Chapters, ditto, £1,731 9s; from A. and A. Rite, ditto, £31 10s; and from Ireland, Scotland, and the Colonies, £133; making together £10,161 14s 3d, contributed by the Craft. Musical Instruction, less cost of instruments, tuning, &c., yielded £43 12s 5d, and there were sundry small receipts, including £55 10s in the shape of legacies, amounting together to £60 14s. The interest on invested moneys was £1,162 3s 11d. Thus, the total income of the School, inclusive of the opening balance, was £13,705 2s 10d. Against this, we have an expenditure of £9,923 3s 2d, distributed thus: new building, £2,832 15s; repairs to plantations, £25 17s; various items, such as University examination fees, recreation of girls during holidays, prizes, and rewards, gratuities, and outfit to girls on leaving, gratuity to late assistant governess, pension to late Secretary, Stewards' visit, gratuities to workmen, grants to invalid girls, and votes of thanks to Stewards (three years), £492 2s 2d, and ordinary expenditure, £5,572 9s. Under this last head of service we find provisions for 155 girls and 20 adults, £1,717 18s; clothing and boots, £773 9s 11d; house utensils and turnery, &c., £215 17s 6d; furniture and house linen, £120 12s 10d; coals, gas, and water, £244 8s 6d; printing and general repairs, £121 2s 4d; drugs, medical attendance, &c., £60; laundry, &c., £16; garden and grounds, £68 13s 1d; School stationery and books, £74 16s 9d; tithes and taxes, £135 8s 4d; salaries and wages, £1,255, being £617 10s for Office, and £637 10s for School; church accommodation, £25; office expenses, rent, coals, &c., £38; stationery, books of subscribers, postage, &c., &c., £242 14s 3d; advertisements, £75 7s 8d; poundage to collector, £254 18s 8d. A few other items, such as election expenses, secretarial disbursements, accounts under 40s, incidental and petty expenses, per matron, make up the total of ordinary expenditure as above stated. Thus, the balance at bankers' and in hand on 31st December 1876, amounted to £3,781 19s 8d, out of which, however, allowance must be made for Christmas accounts unpaid to the extent of £1,564 15s 8d; so that the actual available balance for the current year was, in fact, £2,217 4s. The Sustentation, Improving, and Building Fund account shows a balance at the close of year of £291 8s 10d; the receipts, including opening balance of £258 15s 8d, amounting to that sum, while the expenditure was nil.

We congratulate the authorities of the School on the very lucid as well as satisfactory statement of accounts they are thus enabled to publish. The funds of the Institution must be not only in a sound and healthy condition, but likewise well managed, when they allow of so heavy a disbursement as that of £3,832 15s towards the new building now in course of erection, without creating any material difference between the opening and closing balances of the year. It occurs to us, however—and we offer the suggestion in no spirit of carping criticism—that a slight re-arrangement of the different items of receipt and expenditure might be adopted with some advantage. For instance, on the Dr. side we would suggest the following as the main heads of receipt—namely, balance; donations and subscriptions; interest on invested moneys; and casual receipts; the items composing each being given in an inner column, and the total being brought out in the main column. On the Cr. side we would suggest the distribution of items under the two principal heads of Ordinary and Extraordinary, each being subdivided into School and Office expenditure, the details and totals being placed as per contra in inner and main columns respectively, and the balance described in detail and total as now. Assuming that such an arrangement of the figures is practicable, we fancy any casual student of the accounts would be enabled to see at a glance the income of the Institution, and its normal as distinguished from any extraordinary expenditure which it may be necessary to incur during the year. There would likewise be a further and very proper distinction between the expenses incurred in maintaining and educating the pupils on the one hand, and the office expenses and those of management, &c. on the other. We trust these suggestions will be accepted in the spirit in which they are offered. We are very far from finding any fault with the statement as now presented, but it strikes us the re-arrangement we have suggested would make what is admittedly clear and precise still more so.

The Consecration of the Eboracum Conclave, No. 137, of the Red Cross of Constantine, has been fixed to take place at the Masonic Rooms, Micklegate, York, on Tuesday, the 29th inst. The ceremony will be conducted by V. I. Sir Knight the Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett G.S.G., Int. Genl. for N. and E. Yorkshire, M.P.S. 132, and he will be assisted by I. Sir Knight W. H. Brittain, Int. Genl. for W. Yorkshire, I. Sir Knight Woodall, P. Int. Genl. for N. and E. Yorkshire, I. Sir Knight S. B. Ellis, Int. Genl. unattached, &c. The M.P.S. and V.E. elect are E. Sir Knight T. B. Whytehead, and E. Sir Knight Thos. Cooper respectively.

The Portsmouth Times states that in consequence of the retirement from office of Lord Pelham as R.W. Prov. G.M., and of Bro. E. J. Farner as Prov. D.G.M., the appointment of Prov. G.M. for Sussex has been conferred on Bro. Sir W. W. Burrell, Bart., M.P. for Shoreham and the Rape of Bramber, and that of Prov. D.G.M. on Bro. John Scott, for some years past Provincial Grand Secretary, that Brother Vincent Paine Freeman has been elected Prov. Grand Secretary.

Bro. Westfield was recently the recipient of a testimonial presented to him by the pupils of the College over which he so worthily presides. Wednesday, the 16th inst., was the anniversary of his birth, and the scholars of Leyton College, Leyton, Essex, evinced their regard for him by requesting his acceptance of a valuable set of gold studs, each inscribed with Masonic emblems. Accompanying the gift was a letter, expressing their good wishes for his continued health and happiness, and also the kindly sense they entertained of his efforts to promote their advancement in life.

THE LATE EARL OF SHREWSBURY AND TALBOT.

IT is with the deepest regret we announce to our readers the very sudden death, on the 11th inst., of the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, Provincial Grand Master of Staffordshire. His lordship had retired to bed in his usual health on Thursday. In the course of the night alarming symptoms set in, and some eminent medical men were summoned. A slight rally followed, but at 6 a.m. there was a second seizure, which almost immediately resulted in death. Thus Freemasonry has lost one of its strongest pillars, in the plenitude of his strength. The late Earl had recently entered on his 48th year, and his health was such that we might have looked forward to many years of active service from him, but our hopes have been destroyed, and it remains for us to bow with all humility to the allwise decrees of the Great Architect of all things.

Charles John Talbot, nineteenth Earl of Shrewsbury and fourth Earl of Talbot, was born in April 1830, and was educated at Eton and Merton College, Oxford. During his career at the latter he was initiated into Freemasonry in the Apollo University Lodge, then No. 460, now No. 357. On 10th November 1871 he joined the Lodge of Honour, No. 526, Wolverhampton, and was its Worshipful Master for the year 1871-2. On 24th June 1871 he was appointed to the high position of Provincial Grand Master for Staffordshire by our then M.W.G.M. the Marquis of Ripon. On 20th June 1873 he joined the Royal Alpha Lodge, No. 16, and was its W.M. at the time of his death. He was one of the founders of the United Lodge, No. 1629, and was one of the brethren who had signed the petition for a warrant for a new Lodge, to be called the Londesborough Lodge, No. 1681, as yet unconsecrated. He was also a member of the high degrees, and was present at the meeting of the Supreme Council of the A. and A. Rite 30° only the Wednesday evening before his death. But the mere enumeration of the different positions he held in the Craft would convey only a very feeble idea of his glorious achievements as a Mason. His name figures on the roll of Vice-Patrons to the three central Charities. In January 1875 he presided at the Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and so successful was his advocacy that the sum raised on that occasion amounted to over £6,600, with several lists still outstanding. This year, when Prince Leopold at the very last moment found it impossible, through indisposition, to preside at the Festival of the same Charity, his place was promptly taken by the late Earl, and the list of subscriptions announced, as our readers well remember, was little short of £13,000. The loss of so brilliant an exponent of one of the highest principles of our Order will be felt everywhere throughout the jurisdiction of our Grand Lodge, and indeed among Freemasons generally; but especially will it be felt in his own Province, where the brethren had long since learnt to love and respect him as their Grand Master. Nor had his lordship's career outside Freemasonry been less active and useful. He had represented North Staffordshire in the House of Commons from 1859 to 1865. In 1868 he was elected for the borough of Stamford, but was called to the Upper House the same year, on the death of his father. In 1874, on the accession of the present Ministry to power, he was appointed Captain of Her Majesty's Hon. Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms. He married, in 1855, the daughter of Captain Cockerell, by whom he leaves issue Viscount Ingestre, born 1860, now twentieth Earl of Shrewsbury and fifth Earl of Talbot, and three daughters. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon, and though strictly private, there was a large gathering of the family and friends of our deceased brother, among the mourners being Viscount Ingestre, the Countess of Shrewsbury, Lord and Lady Castlereagh, Viscount Helmsley, Mr. H. Chaplin. There were also deputations from the Stafford Town Council, as well as from the brethren of the Province, while Her Majesty was represented by Colonel Kerr. The body was deposited in the family vault in Ingestre Church, which is close to the Hall. In closing this brief notice of a Craftsman who had so worthily fulfilled his duties, we offer to his widow and children the respectful tribute of our sympathy with them in their present bereavement. May they, in firm reliance on the G. A. O. T. U. and His Wisdom, find strength to bear the grievous affliction!

TREDEGAR LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 1625.

AT the last meeting of this Lodge, which was held on Monday, the 14th instant, at the Royal Hotel, Mile-end-road, E., Bro. Cambridge occupied the post of W.M. Bro. Berry was S.W., Rawley jun. J.D., E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, T. J. Barnes P.M. Treas., Huggett as Sec., Anning S.D., John Stevens P.M. as J.D., Newton P.M. as I.G. There were also present—Bros. Marsh P.M. 933, C. Lacey P.M., W. Hallett W.M. Merchant Navy, Hilliard W.M. Sincerity, Cunningham, R. Cunningham, Humm, Pilgrim, Dawson, Brooks, Hallett, Cross, Goldberg, Giles, and many others. The second ceremony was very ably worked by the W.M., Bro. Giles being candidate. The Lodge was closed at an early hour, in order to give time for the meeting having for its object to consider the desirability of united action in the matter of utilising the proxies for the Masonic Institutions belonging to the Metropolitan Lodges, as was announced by circular, a copy of which appeared in the last issue of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. Bro. Charles Lacey, P.M. and W.M. of the Tredegar Lodge, the originator of the present movement, was unanimously voted to the chair. The Chairman commenced the proceedings by stating the reason for calling the meeting; that he thought the time had arrived when the question might fairly be taken into consideration as to our position with regard to the Charitable Institutions with which we are all so closely associated, namely, the Aged, the Boys and the Girls, and whether our voting power was equivalent to the amount of subscriptions obtained from the London Lodges. He thought the voting power was far from commensurate with the benefits obtained, and that the fault resulted from the laxity and apathy of the brethren themselves. The Institutions constituted the grandest secrets of the Craft, and therefore demanded the constant thought and attention of every member of the Order. They could point with pride to that at Clapham, in which 160 girls receive their excellent training; to Wood Green, where 181 boys are well educated and made useful members of society; to the Institution at Croydon, in which 145 aged Freemasons, who have done good suit and service to the Craft, are in receipt of £40 each per annum, and where will be found, in comfort, 138 widows of departed Freemasons; that is to say, strictly speaking, 32 receive £10 less, but in round numbers there are 650 men, women, and children depending on our support. Speaking more particularly of the aged Freemasons, they could look with pardonable pride at the condition of that Institution. Looking back, say ten years, namely in 1867, at that Festival £3,900 was collected, whereas the amount in the present year reached the magnificent sum of £12,500. That is something to be pleased at and proud of. The altered position was mainly due to the indefatigable Secretary, Bro. Jas. Terry. Let it not be supposed that this remark is intended to cast any reflection on the other Institutions. Bro. Binckes, whose name is so well known throughout the Craft, through his constant and fearless advocacy of its claims, has secured a wonderful success for the Boys' Institution, and, no doubt, in time to come, many a boy will have reason to bless the name of Frederick Binckes. The Girls' Institution flourishes, although it is possibly somewhat retarded by Bro. Little's delicate state of health. The brethren have, however, rallied round him, and the last Festival produced a considerable sum. Having given these general outlines, he would appeal to them to support the claims of all the Institutions, for, by so doing, should misfortune render it necessary, they could use their privileges and seek there shelter with much better grace. The East-end of London, as is well known, had always given important support to these Charities, through the disinterested exertions of brethren who have passed away, and those upon whom the mantle of benevolence had fallen. Indeed the Boys' Institution was originated by the late Bro. Dr. Daniels, for seventeen years Master of the Royal Naval Lodge, now No. 22, who first conceived the idea, and suggested the propriety of affording shelter and protection to the sons of departed or indigent Freemasons, and which has since grown to such immense proportions. The London brethren possess a great number of votes, but unless they are properly and judiciously used, a part of them necessarily stand in the way and form an obstruction. Now it seemed to him the bounden duty of every one to assist in bringing about a concentration of the London voting power, for it would then be possible to secure success to every well considered and deserving case, and thus might be prevented sore disappointment to the necessitous candidate who, after wearily working for months, finds in the end the application rejected. He would now direct their attention to the list of the last election for the girls. There would be found 54 candidates—20 London, and 34 from the provinces. Out of these the successful cases were 3 for London, and 10 for the provinces. Among the rejected there was a London candidate (the last application), one of 7 fatherless children. Now, seeing that on the last occasion the London brethren contributed £6,05 , and the country only £3,942, he thought the result was neither just nor equitable. The provinces having contributed but one-third of the gross amount were yet able to secure the admission of 10, while London only succeeded in obtaining the privilege for three. Again, looking at the Boys' list, it is found that there are 59 applications—21 London, 38 provinces. Out of the 14 to be elected, 6 were London and 8 from provinces who succeeded. Two were sent away, being found disqualified in their last application by reason of their age. These lived within a stone's throw of Freemasons' Hall, both fatherless, one being of a family of 9 children, the other of 6. Such a discreditable state of things should not be allowed to exist. There were on the list —one case, the fifth application, another the second, both necessitous, and deserving. There are other cases—one especially of 9 children, fatherless, and so forth, who were unsuccessful, while one of 4 children motherless, and one, No. 55 on the list, one child who had a stepmother, succeeded to the almost heartrending disappointment of individuals whose appeals were much more urgent. Now, all this clearly shows something must be radically wrong. How comes it that a case where there is but one child is admitted, and those from families with 9 or 6 children are shut out? There are in the Boys' School 181, out of which number 49 are London, and 132 provincials. These facts he pointed out, not in order to find fault with the provincial brethren, far from it, but to show that the fault lies with the London Craftsmen, and to impress upon them the necessity of union, and the wisdom of satisfying themselves of the merits of each individual case, so that, by united efforts, success should be assured to the most deserving. As things are now, many votes are lost or rendered useless. Would it not be wise to concentrate, or make some provision to control and utilise them, it would only be an act of justice to those who call for assistance, and have a claim for support. This was not a new matter, these combinations have long existed in the provinces. He would suggest that London Lodges should be requested to appoint a representative, who should meet to arrange the preliminaries for forming an association to carry out this object. A society of this kind would tend to do away with a great amount of labour, to which applicants, who are either aged, when it concerns their personal interest, or perhaps poor, ailing and sorrowing when they canvass for their offspring, are subjected. They are, at all events, persons of the most helpless description; and to alleviate their anxiety and distress was, he thought, pure Masonry. (Cheers) After some telling observations, illustrative of the above facts and statements, Bro. Lacey called for the opinion of the meeting. Bro. Stevens P.M. 554, and W.M. 933, said he had listened with great attention and interest to the exhaustive speech of Bro. Lacey, and in the main agreed with his suggestions, but must dissent from the assertion that many votes were lost or became useless. Speaking from the experience of the last 7 years, and backed up by only two Lodges, namely, the Yarborough and the Doric, he, in conjunction with Bro. Barnes, secured the admission of no less than nine candidates in that time. He quite agreed that there was a necessity for union, but the question arose, how was it to be done? This same thing had been attempted some years ago, but without success. He did not think fault could be found with East End London brethren, and it was unfair to charge them either with laxity or apathy, seeing that the two just named Lodges possessed no less than 220 votes jointly (Bro. Lacey rose to explain that London Lodges in general, and not the East End in particular, were meant). Bro. Stevens continued:—I can put my hand on eight brethren, members of these two Lodges, who are capable of producing between them 212 votes, which makes 432; there are others from whom 200 more are obtained, and thus together I can command, I do not use the term boastingly, I will say manipulate, 600 and odd votes per annum. I have laboured in this matter with Bro. Barnes for the last five or six years, and we had never to apply twice in the case of the aged, and but once we had to go a second time in the case of a girl. Now a great deal has been said about the non-success of candidates; who are the brethren who allow their names to appear on the application card, and permit the case to fall through? That is the nut you have to crack. It has too often gone to my very heart to witness the hopeless dejection of the widow when not elected. I have never but once had to proceed twice to an election. Indeed, last time I was enabled to lend 100 votes, to be repaid in October; we husband our proxies, and they are always utilised. If cases are lost, it is too often the fault of the brethren who undertake the charge, and fail to enter into it with proper energy and spirit. Possessing so much voting power as the Doric and Yarborough, I would ask what position should we be in should we join the proposed combination, for we must secure ourselves from the chance of being outvoted. Bro. Marsh spoke in support, and thought that such a combination as the one suggested would materially assist in arriving at a fair judgment of the merits of each case, as it must be brought under the criticism of the experienced. He would, however, suggest that the experiment should be tried, with say only six Lodges, as a larger number might have the effect of voting power being bestowed upon a majority whose amount of votes would scarcely entitle them to it. This might engender a natural jealousy, and set aside the end in view. He would give his best support to the undertaking. (Applause). Bro. Newton thought if two Lodges can effect so much as has been stated, being in possession of only the comparatively small number of 600 votes, what might not be done by the united action of a greater number. He would support Bro. Lacey to the utmost of his power, and submit to any trouble while steps are being taken to bring about the long desired desideratum. Bros. Anning, Hilliard, W. Hallett, and Berry spoke in favour of the project. Bro. Barnes said: Upon the closing part of Bro. Anning's speech hinges the whole question. That is, the voting power of London is distributed all over the country, while each Province works exclusively for itself, and not only that, but sends its applications all over London. The metropolitan voters dissipate their strength, and therefore fail when the time of trial comes. He thought it was well that at length the necessity is felt to provide means whereby brethren might reap a fair share of the fruits of their contributions. Eleven years ago Bro. W. Hamilton and myself used to work together in the same way, that is, combined our interests and influence. We early perceived the necessity and advantage of concerted action in these matters, and intended to apply the principles by uniting only seven Lodges, but the notion was altogether pooh-poohed, although we drew up a code of regulations to show distinctly that we harboured no selfish intentions. We had to confine ourselves to two. Naturally the votes of the individual brethren generally follow the Lodge votes, and thus success is obtained. He would give his general approval, and move that "the brethren present feel there is a necessity for the London brethren to combine, in order that they may reap advantages, in reference to the Masonic Institutions, equivalent to the large amount which they subscribe towards the funds of those Institutions." This was seconded and unanimously agreed to. Bro. Lacey, in summing up, adverted to the various objections advanced by the speakers, and urged his hearers to aid him in this attempt to combine the voting power of London, for he was certain that if London brethren would consent to work harmoniously together, no case whatsoever coming under their notice would be subject to disappointment. He would earnestly advocate the proper use of their strength, and no case they deemed worthy would need a second application. Bros. Stevens and Barnes, who might be considered as pioneers in this matter, have set an excellent example by the steady and resolute energy with which they pursued their course, and should stimulate to effort and exertion. It was only, as he had already stated, an act of justice to those helpless beings who have a right to look to the Fraternity for succour and support in the day of trouble and distress. He would conclude by reading a list of Provinces in which similar combinations exist: East Lancashire, West Yorkshire, Cheshire and West Lancashire, Hants and Isle of Wight, Berks, Bucks and Surrey, Lincolnshire, Wiltshire and Dorset, Kent, and Bristol and Somersetshire. Bro. Huggett then proposed, and Bro. Geo. Hollington seconded, that Bros. Lacey, Barnes, Gottheil, Stevens, Newton, Marsh and Berry form a deputation to wait upon Lodges and urge the advisability of combination, in order to secure a fair amount of voting power for the London brethren. (Carried.) A vote of thanks to Bro. Lacey closed the proceedings. Next Monday being Bank Holiday, the Lodge will not meet. On Monday following, Bro. Berry, P.M. 554, will preside.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF DORSET.

THE Province of Dorset, which consists of thirteen Lodges, has been governed from the earliest days of its formation by a succession of Masters who have sought at all times the advancement of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and also the subordinate Lodges in the Province. The result has been that the membership during the last twenty years has greatly increased, and the Province of Dorset, small as it is compared to that of some of those of the more thickly populated counties in the north of England, has sent up to the Masonic Charities in London larger subscription lists than have many other Provinces with double or even treble its membership. The late Provincial Grand Master—Bro. Joseph Gundry, Esq., of the Hyde, Bridport—was greatly respected and honoured by the brethren, and as a tribute to his great worth a deputation attended his funeral from almost, if not every, Lodge in the Province. The question was then very generally asked by Masons of each other—"Who is to be our Provincial Grand Master?" There were those in the Province who had gained great credit for being good Masons, and who, from their social positions were mentioned as probable successors to the office, but generally the name of Bro. Montague Guest came uppermost, and when it was announced that his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales—the Grand Master of England—had appointed this gentleman to the high office, every Mason regarded Bro. Guest as "the right man in the right place." It is a trite saying, and often used in a meaningless way, when it is said of a person that he is "respected by everybody who knows him," but to say this of Bro. Guest is only to utter what is true to the very letter. His appointment, therefore, was received with unbounded satisfaction, and we are sure that Masonry in Dorsetshire under his rule will gain many fresh adherents, whilst the Lodges in working will vie with each other in seeking to extend the principles which they are established to propagate. The Provincial Grand Lodge of Dorset which assembled at Wimborne on Saturday afternoon last was probably the largest Masonic gathering which has ever taken place in the county. Certainly not less than 350 members assembled at the Corn Exchange, which we should mention is the property of the members of Cuthbergа Lodge, No. 622. The large room was prepared in due form by the Wimborne brethren, who seemed to consider no amount of trouble too great to render the meeting a success. No doubt they regarded it a great honour that a member of their Lodge was to be elevated to so high an office, and that on this account the installation ceremony was to take place in Bro. Guest's own Lodge. According to announcement, the Lodge was to be Tyled at two o'clock, but this did not take place until after three. As a matter of course it took some considerable time to obtain a correct list of the brethren present, together with their various titles. This was got over more easily than might have been expected. Bro. R. N. Howard, Prov. Grand Sec., was quite equal to the occasion, and the names of all present were duly recorded. On the members entering the Lodge they arranged themselves under their respective banners, and Bro. Wm. Smith P.M., the Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies, was indefatigable in his exertions in getting everything in perfect order previous to the arrival of the Grand Lodge Officers. About three o'clock the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, the Deputy Grand Master of England, Sir A. Woods, Grand Director of Ceremonies, W. Kuhe, Grand Organist, Viscount Holmesdale, Provincial Grand Master of Kent, Lord Methuen, Provincial Grand Master of Wiltshire, W. W. B. Beach M.P., Provincial Grand Master of Hampshire, and other distinguished members arrived, and entered the Lodge, with Past and Present Provincial Grand Officers. The Deputy Grand Master, on entering, was saluted according to ancient Masonic form. After some routine business had been gone through, the R.W.D.G.M. briefly addressed the Lodge, stating the object of the meeting that day. The minutes of the Provincial Grand Lodge held at Shaftesbury on the 14th September last were then read. These minutes included a resolution to the R.W. Bro. W. Eliot, Past P.G.M., "congratulating him on his having been a subscribing member of the Lodge of All Souls, No. 170, Weymouth, for an uninterrupted period of sixty years, and on his being the oldest member on the Provincial Roll, and that in recording this interesting fact on its minutes, this Provincial Grand Lodge would especially bear testimony to the highly moral and religious character of the R.W. Bro., who has thus, during his long life, so well and worthily represented the true principles and practical teaching of our Order." The arrival of the Provincial Grand Master designate, Bro. M. Guest, having been announced, and the patent directing his installation duly examined, a deputation of Masters retired with the Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies to introduce him to the Provincial Grand Lodge. The ceremony of installation, which was of a very impressive character, then took place, and on the new Provincial Grand Master taking the chair he was duly proclaimed and saluted. The Provincial Grand Master then appointed his officers as follows—Bros. Thomas B. Hanham Prov. S.G.W., Charles Tucker Prov. J.G.W., Rev. Henry Everett Prov. G. Chap., Robert Case Prov. G. Treas., Robert Leigh Prov. G. Reg., R. N. Howard Prov. G. Sec., G. M. Evans Prov. S.G.D., A. J. Budden Prov. J.G.D., Robert Eyres Prov. G.S. of W., William Smith Prov. G.D. of C., G. F. Stokes Prov. G.A.D. of C., W. H. Dean Prov. G. Sword Bearer, Stephen Champ Prov. G. Org., John Fenn Prov. G. Purs., T. Wootton, Edward Tolman, James Lowe, J. S. A. Herford, W. D. Dugdale, and J. R. Shopland Prov. G. Stewards, John Lovelace Prov. G. Tyler.

We may mention that the above officers, with one exception, are the same as those appointed at the Provincial meeting held at Shaftesbury in September last. The exception is that of Bro. Case, as Treasurer, who has well earned his appointment by the assiduity with which he has worked in various ways in his own Lodge—Faith and Unanimity, Dorchester—and also as Provincial Grand Lodge officer. The business of the Provincial Grand Lodge was brought to a close by the passing of votes of thanks to the installing officers and to the members of Cuthbergа Lodge for having made the necessary arrangements for holding the meeting that day. At the close of the Provincial Grand Lodge the brethren were invited to a magnificent banquet provided in the great hall of Canford House, by Messrs. Gunter, of London. A number of carriages were in readiness in the Square, Wimborne, ready for the conveyance of the brethren to Canford, and the entire company were speedily conveyed thither. According to the notice on the agenda paper, the brethren appeared at the banquet in Masonic Craft clothing. The tables were splendidly laid out, and the liberality which prompted Bro. Montague Guest to invite so large a company to so sumptuous a banquet called forth the highest praise. As a matter of course, the newly-installed Prov. G.M. occupied the chair, and he was supported by Bros. the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale Deputy Grand Master, J. Hervey Grand Secretary, Sir Albert Woods Garter P.G.W. Grand Director of Ceremonies, Wilhelm Kuhe Grand Organist, Viscount Holmesdale Provincial Grand Master Kent, Lord Methuen Provincial Grand Master Wiltshire, W. W. B. Beach Esq. M.P., Lord Henry Thynne, W. T. Benett-Stanford M.P., J. M. Brymer M.P., A. E. Guest Esq., the Honourable R. Harbord, C. Hambro Esq., and other distinguished Masons. Grace was said before and after dinner by Bro. the Rev. H. Everett, of Dorchester. Bro. Winn, gentleman, of Her Majesty's Chapel Royal, and Vicar Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral; Bros. Baxter and Carter, of Westminster Abbey; and Bro. Beckett, of Her Majesty's Chapel Royal, during the evening sang a number of glees in excellent style, which called forth repeated applause. The Chairman proposed the health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, the Patroness of Freemasonry. He felt he need not say anything to commend the toast, for it was always well received. He next proposed the Prince of Wales, the Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family. He thought no person in England could maintain the dignity of the office of Grand Master better than did the Prince of Wales. Two of the Prince's brothers were also Masons—the Duke of Connaught and Prince Leopold. The Princess of Wales was deserving of their esteem and regard. The Chairman proposed as the next toast the health of the Right Worshipful Pro Grand Master of England—the Right Hon. Lord Carnarvon. He felt so much had been said in praise of his Lordship during the past few years that he need not on that occasion say anything respecting him, because they all knew how much his Lordship had done. He had hoped their Pro Grand Master would have been present with them that day, but being prevented by other duties, his lordship had sent him a very kind letter, expressing his regret, and hoping that they would have a pleasant evening. This toast having been acknowledged, he said he was sure they would be pleased to receive in the most enthusiastic manner the next toast which he would have to propose. It was the health of their Deputy Grand Master—Lord Skelmersdale. He felt he could personally do no more than the Provincial Lodge had already done, viz., thank his lordship for his great kindness in coming down on this occasion to assist them. This he could assure their Deputy Grand Master was no idle praise. He had known his noble friend for many years, and he knew how many matters his lordship had to engage his attention, and also how he had to tear himself away from other important duties so as to be with them that day. Whatever his lordship did was always successful, and he felt that his coming down to them that day had made the meeting a success. Lord Skermersdale thanked the brethren most warmly for the kind way in which they had received the toast of his health. He assured them it had been a real pleasure to him to meet them that day. He was glad that the meeting had been fixed for Saturday, as that was his free day. The Chairman had said that whatever he took in hand proved successful, and he hoped that in this present instance this would prove true, and that his coming amongst them that day would be an augury of the future prosperity of the Province under the rule of its newly-installed Master. His lordship then referred to the death, on the previous day, of the Earl of Shrewsbury, than whom, he said, no person took a greater interest in Freemasonry, and concluded by proposing the health of the Provincial Grand Master of Dorset. The toast was received with great enthusiasm. The Chairman, in responding, thanked the Deputy Grand Master for the way in which he had proposed his health, and for the good wishes which he had expressed towards him. He felt that a sorrow overshadowed their meeting that day, occasioned by the death of their late Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Joseph Gundry, who for 18 years reigned over the Province. They all knew how well he had worked, and he was sure they would agree with him that he filled the office with impartiality and ability. He felt it was an exceedingly difficult task to follow after one who was so much appreciated, but he was certain it would be his endeavour to fill worthily the post to which he had been appointed by the Grand Master. It would be his endeavour to personally work amongst them, and he should be pleased to listen to any suggestions which might be made by any of his brethren for the furtherance of the interests of Masonry in general, and of that Province especially. The Chairman then proposed the health of four Grand Masters of other Provinces—Lord Methuen, Wiltshire; W. W. B. Beach, Hampshire; Viscount Holmesdale, Kent; Lord Skelmersdale, West Lancashire. He most sincerely thanked them for attending that day, and he could only hope that he should prove as good a Prov. Grand Master as they were. Lord Methuen briefly responded. He said Masonry was largely compounded of Loyalty and Charity. They all knew that their Charity abounded, and that nothing could destroy their Loyalty. Viscount Holmesdale, M.P., said he could not help coming down that day to see his old friend, Bro. Guest, installed as Provincial Grand Master. Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., referred to the thoroughly amicable feeling which existed between the Provinces of Hampshire and Dorsetshire. Lord Skelmersdale said he appeared that day before them in two characters—as Deputy Grand Master of the United Grand Lodge of England and as Provincial Grand Master of West Lancashire. He could assure them, as Grand Master of a province, with the largest Masonic constituency of any in England, that the brethren of Dorset had the hearty greetings of the Lodges over which he had to rule. The Chairman then proposed the health of the Officers past and present of Grand Lodge, he associated with the toast a gentleman whose name was familiar to all of them, Lord Henry Thynne. He knew the toast would call forth the hearty response which it always did. He would mention in connection with the toast the names of Bros. Hervey, Grand Secretary, Sir Albert Woods, Grand Director of Ceremonies, and Chevalier Kuhe, Grand Organist. Lord Henry Thynne, in responding, said he could assure them that for various reasons he had much pleasure in being present. He was greatly pleased at seeing the enthusiastic way in which his old friend Bro. Guest was received in the Province. He also expressed his satisfaction at seeing the good fellowship which existed between the provinces of Dorsetshire and Wiltshire. Brother Hervey, Grand Secretary, said he had been very gratified with the manner in which the proceedings of that day had been carried out. When he looked at the services rendered by Brother Sir Albert Woods he felt they must acknowledge that the officers of the Grand Lodge were alive to the duties devolving upon them, and were always ready to perform those duties. Although that was not the first time he had been present at their Provincial Grand Lodge, he was impressed that day by the manner in which everything had been carried out, and by the hospitality shown them, which he had never seen exceeded—he might say he had never seen equalled. He felt he must pay this tribute to the generosity and kind feeling of the Chairman. Sir Albert Woods also briefly responded. He said that he, like the previous speaker, had felt it his duty to be present on the occasion, and to render any assistance in his power, as every officer of the Grand Lodge was always ready to do, and if he had contributed in any way to the success of the ceremony he was pleased. Brother Chevalier Kuhe, Grand Organist, in responding, expressed the pleasure he felt in being present that day. Twenty-one years ago he spent his honeymoon in that very house, and he had a dim recollection of several lads who at that time were dressed in jackets. These were now men, and it was a great pleasure to him to be there again that day, to witness Bro. Montague Guest's installation as Provincial Grand Master. (Cheers). The Chairman said:—Although the toast he was about to propose came at a late hour of the evening, yet he was sure it was not to them the least in importance. It was the health of the Deputy Grand Master of the Province, and past and present Provincial Grand Officers. He made special allusion to Bro. W. Eliot, of Weymouth, a Past P.G.M. of Dorset, who had been sixty-one years a Mason, and was the oldest member of the Fraternity in the county. He regretted Bro. Eliot, owing to his great age, was unable to be present that evening. The Chairman proceeded to say that it would be his endeavour to work with the Grand Officers of the Province, and he was sure they would assist him to the best of their power. He would connect with the toast the name of Bro. T. B. Hanham, who was for the second time the Provincial Grand Senior Warden. Bro. Hanham, in returning thanks, said he did not think he should be called upon to respond to the toast of the Provincial Grand Officers of Dorset, who attended on that occasion, and whom he so unworthily represented. They gave their thorough acquiescence to the appointment of Provincial Grand Master that had been made, and they were determined to show that was their feeling by supporting their Provincial Grand Master, and maintaining that position which the Province of Dorset had achieved. He hoped all the Provincial Grand Officers would concur in his remarks. Lord Skelmersdale said he rose to propose a toast which was not strictly Masonic, viz., "the Health of Sir Ivor Guest." He was sorry that Sir Ivor was not one of them. They all owed him a debt of gratitude for enabling his brother to entertain them so regally that evening, and he was sure they would drink the toast with the most hearty cheers. The Chairman proposed the health of the Visitors, connecting with the toast several brethren present belonging to the Meridian Lodge of the 31st Regiment, stationed at Portland, and particularly mentioning the names of Mr. Montagu, the son of their Deputy Grand Master, and Mr. Ralph Harbord, brother of Lord Suffield, Provincial Grand Master of Norfolk, who was an active Mason. Bros. Montagu and Rev. Dr. Collis responded. The Chairman then proposed the Masonic Charities. Lord Methuen had said that the motto of Freemasonry was Loyalty and Charity, and he could not help asking them to drink the health of Bro. Binckes, Secretary to the Boys' School, and Bro. Terry, Secretary to the Benevolent Institution. Bro. F. Binckes said the toast had come home to them when they heard all present join in wishing happiness and prosperity to the Institutions just mentioned by the Provincial Grand Master. But another toast ought not to be forgotten. There was a large amount of Masonic distress which they were called upon to relieve and assist in every way they could. He should not take advantage of an exceptionally auspicious occasion like that to occupy their time with regard to it. He thought they might boast upon their inexhaustible loyalty and charity, and he asked them to give their thanks to Bro. Benett-Stanford, who had accepted the position of Steward for the Boys' School this year, and to assist him in taking up a good list of subscriptions with him. He hoped the brethren would support him both materially and personally, and he was proud to acknowledge the present Right Worshipful Grand Master as one of the most munificent supporters of the Benevolent Institutions. He had every confidence that, under his benign rule, the Province of Dorset would reap the greatest advantage. Bro. J. Terry said he thanked them very sincerely on behalf of the Benevolent Institution. He was most grateful to them for the support which it had received from that Province, and he felt certain that the effort which would be made on the following Friday would result most successfully. The amount contributed by the brethren to the charity-box during the evening was £27 3s 3d. The brethren then separated, highly gratified with the princely liberality with which they had been entertained.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF TASMANIA.

THE ceremony of installing Bro. William Simmons Hammond, P.M., as District Grand Master of Tasmania, and of opening the District Grand Lodge, took place in the Masonic Hall, which was very tastefully arranged for the occasion, on Tuesday, 27th February last. The dais was reserved for the Worshipful Masters, Past Masters, and other members of the District Grand Lodge, and the west end of the hall for Master Masons. The number of members present was about 120. Out of 27 who could claim to sit in the District Grand Lodge, 23 signed their names in the attendance book. The authority of the R.W. the District Grand Master for opening the District Grand Lodge having been read, it was proposed, seconded, and carried, that Bro. P.M. Toby act as Installing Master; P.M. Wise as S.W., P.M. Susman as J.W., and P.M. Clark as Sword-Bearer. The District Grand Lodge was then opened in form, and an announcement was made by Bro. P.M. Smith, as Herald, that the R.W. the District Grand Master desired admission, to receive the benefit of Installation, which having been duly reported, and his patent of appointment received and read, a deputation, consisting of P.M.'s Jamieson, Scott, Davey, and Smith, the Chaplain and four Stewards, withdrew, for the purpose of introducing the Grand Master. The D. Grand Master having been introduced by the P. Masters, was conducted to a seat on the left of the Presiding Master, and presented for installation. The Installing Officer addressed him in prescribed form on the importance of the office to which he had been appointed. He was then requested to kneel while the Chaplain offered up the Installation Prayer; and, still kneeling, he was obligated by the Installing Officer, after which he was clothed and invested with the insignia of his office, and conducted to the chair. The Herald sounded the trumpet, and Bro. P.M. Wise proclaimed the installation, the brethren saluting the D. Grand Master according to ancient form, passing round the Lodge while the organ played the march from "Eli." The D. Grand Master then appointed his Deputy District Grand Master, Bro. P.M. George Smith, who was obligated, proclaimed, and saluted according to ancient form; and proceeded to appoint the other officers of the D. G. Lodge for the ensuing year, as follows:—Bros. F. H. Wise D.G.S.W., L. Susman D.G.J.W., Rev. R. D. P. Harris D.G. Chap., C. Toby D.G. Sec., W. A. B. Jamieson D.G.S.D., C. W. Rocher D.G.J.D., J. A. Ferguson D.G.D. of C., John Clarke D.G.Sw.B., George Beaumont D.G. Tyler, Jno. Hamilton, W. R. Davey, and G. W. Fletcher D.G. Stewards. Bro. W. H. Burgess jun. was elected by the D. Grand Lodge to be D. Grand Treasurer. All these officers, with the exception of the D.G.D. of C., were severally invested with the insignia of office. Bros. Jno. Hamilton and T. M. Evans were appointed as Auditors, and the following brethren as a Committee of General Purposes, viz., the Senior and Junior D.G. Wardens, the D. Grand Chaplain, D.G. Treasurer, D.G. Secretary, Senior and Junior D.G. Deacons, G. F. Huston W.M., T. H. Magrath W.M., J. Perkins jun., and R. Fitzgerald, Wardens of Lodge 536. The D. Grand Lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren retired, the Processional March being repeated.

At eight o'clock there was a grand banquet in the hall, about 110 members being present, on the invitation of the D. Grand Master. The D. Grand Master presided, supported on the right by W.M.'s and on the left by the P.M.'s, the vice-chair being occupied by Bro. P.M. Wise. After the removal of the cloth, the toasts of The Queen and the Craft, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales Grand Master of England, and His Excellency the Governor, was proposed by the Chairman, and enthusiastically received. Bro. F. H. Wise in proposing the Right Worshipful District Grand Master, said:—Right Worshipful Master and Brethren—After some 23 years active experience in Freemasonry in Tasmania, to be permitted the pleasure of witnessing such a gathering as assembled in Lodge this evening to do honour to you, worshipful Sir, was indeed truly gratifying. The toast placed in my hands at so short a notice is one that I cannot render that justice to which it deserves upon the present occasion. Upon so memorable an event I could have wished, had time been allowed me, to offer for the information of younger brethren a short history of Freemasonry in this colony, but, as I cannot do so, I must content myself with recalling to mind a few of the events which have passed under my immediate experience. It will be in the recollection of some of our older brethren how, years back, we had to carry on the good work of Freemasonry under serious difficulties. Many will remember occasions during the last twenty years when we could scarcely gather enough members to open a Lodge, and others will recollect when for a time we did not meet at all. But, thanks to the indomitable perseverance of a few brethren, who, knowing they were associated in a good cause, strove manfully to preserve our ancient and honourable institution, and to tide it over the difficulties which surrounded it, happy am I, Right Worshipful Sir, that those difficulties have been satisfactorily surmounted, and that instead of meeting few in number and in an unsuitable building, we now hold our Lodges in a hall which is the admiration of our visitors, and in which our brethren can assemble in numbers with a feeling of honourable pride and comfort. (Cheers.) The Fund of Benevolence, contributed to by the Lodges in this city, has done much good, and is now, owing mainly to the continued exertions of its energetic Secretary, in a most flourishing position. (Applause.) Yours, indeed, Right Worshipful Sir, must have been a pleasing duty this evening to preside over so many brethren occupying high social positions, not only in the city, but also in the northern capital and in other parts of the island. When I observe that besides the brethren who were to-night invited to your District Grand Lodge, the attendance included nearly the whole of those entitled to that distinction, I cannot but feel that you, Right Worshipful Sir, must be satisfied that the honourable position which His Royal Highness the M.W. Grand Master of England has been pleased to bestow has fallen upon one justly considered by his brethren worthy of distinguished precedence. The power now placed in your hands, Right Worshipful Sir, will, I feel assured, be conscientiously exercised for the general benefit of the Craft; and should differences of opinion arise amongst Masons, I believe all here present have sufficient confidence in your ability and good judgment to bow to your ruling, and cheerfully abide by your decision. In conclusion, I earnestly hope that henceforth a brighter era in Freemasonry is dawning upon us, and that those brethren who to-night have assisted in the ceremony of your installation will all combine, under your guidance, in forwarding the cause of Masonry in Tasmania. The pleasing duty is mine now, Right Worshipful Sir, of asking the brethren to unite with me in wishing you health and happiness and a long and prosperous Masonic career. The toast was received with Masonic honours and heartily responded to. The District Grand Master, in reply, returned thanks for the manner in which the toast had been received, and also for the kind and considerate remarks of the proposer. He was fully sensible of the great honour that had been conferred upon him, and he trusted that he should realise the hopes that were entertained respecting his performance of the duties entrusted to him; at all events, he should endeavour to exercise the power he had for the general benefit of the Craft, and he knew that he should have the support of his brethren. He could endorse all that had been said by Bro. Wise concerning the Craft in this Colony, and he trusted with him that Masonry would progress in Tasmania more than it had ever done before. The remaining toasts were the Deputy D. Grand Master and Officers of the District Grand Lodge, proposed by the Chairman, and responded to by Bro. Smith D.D.G.M., the W.M.'s and P.M.'s of Tasmanian Lodges under the E.C., proposed by Bro. P.M. J. T. Robertson, and responded to by Bro. W.M. Huston; the W.M.'s and P.M.'s under other Constitutions, proposed by the D.D. Grand Master, and responded to by Bro. J. T. Robertson P.M. and Conway P.M. for the Irish Constitution; our Visitors, proposed by Bro. F. H. Wise, and responded to by Bro. Conway P.M.; and the Ladies, proposed by Bro. C. W. Rocher P.M., and responded to by Bro. Coates. The entertainment was interspersed with songs by Bros. Dr. Smart, Ferguson, Chapman, R. J. Harris, Rogers, Moir and others, Bro. Packer presiding at the piano; and a most enjoyable evening was closed by the company singing the National Anthem.

RITUAL OF THE ROYAL ARCH DEGREE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Astute Bro. Jacob Norton, in his trenchant style, ridicules the anachronisms contained in the ritual of the Royal Arch degree. I trust those brethren whose affection for the Craft soars beyond the perfection of the fourth degree will note and take seriously to heart his very cogent remarks upon the subject in the last number of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. There have been, and still are, brethren, my humble self among the number, who have earnestly and strongly protested against the incongruities which have either inadvertently crept in or were designedly incorporated into one of our most impressive rituals. But of what avail is the most solemn protest, unless the authorities can be induced to examine these matters, and either, by legislation or otherwise, bring about the desirable emendations? To non-members of a certain Faith, upon being introduced into the R.A. degree, the position is extremely perplexing. Their first impression is feeling the rather uncomfortable sensation of being placed in a dilemma. On the one hand, conscience forbids giving expression to sentiments antagonistic to conviction; on the other, the sense of loyalty imperatively demands due submission to recognised authority. In the end, as is but natural and right, conscience obtains the victory over loyalty; but why should any member of a non-sectarian and universal Brotherhood be subjected to such a struggle, or placed unnecessarily in such an awkward predicament? As Brother Norton justly points out, "it is strange that while English Masons are concentrating their indignation against a Grand Lodge in Berlin, that they suffer this Masonic inconsistency in the R.A. to be intact." Now, it seems to me that many other inconsistencies than those Bro. Norton points out, both in Arch or Craft, might, with great propriety and advantage, be swept away. As, for instance, how can the terms Jewish or Christian Lodge be fairly reconciled with the idea of a system basing its principles upon the belief and adoration of one universal God, disregarding altogether the question of Creed? Why should ceremonies be varied by reason of difference of theological opinion in an assembly in which the slightest reference to any kind of dogma is strictly prohibited? There are, in both degrees, passages which unmistakably point, and were clearly intended to enforce, a philosophy in no sense identical with the true spirit of Masonry. That sectarian ideas, whether intended or surreptitiously interpolated, disfigure and disadvantageously affect the purity of Masonic rituals, I venture to think no one will seriously dispute. That they are inconsistent with the very groundwork of the Order cannot, with any show of reason, be denied. Then the question remains, in what manner can such important, and, to my mind, most necessary improvement, be legally and legitimately effected? Perhaps some of your learned and very able correspondents may be induced to offer suggestions.

Yours fraternally,

E. GOTTHEIL.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—indelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Keles Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire.—Figaro.

"The inquiring Brother who may wish to know something of the strength and beauty of the principles of Masonry, will find a pleasure in scanning the characteristic pictures in this book."—The Brighouse News.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,' whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

SOME progress with public business has been made during the past week in the House of Lords. On Friday last the Bankruptcy Bill passed through Committee. On Tuesday the South Africa Bill was reported, and a new clause added, on the motion of the Earl of Carnarvon. There has been, of course, some desultory conversation on Eastern politics, and on Monday, a question, put by the Earl of Rosebery, relative to the Tripartite Treaty of 1856, excited a brief, but somewhat warm debate, in which the Earl of Derby, the Duke of Argyll, and Earl Granville took part. The other events have been the withdrawal of the Railway Companies Bill, and the second reading of the Game Laws (Scotland) Amendment Bill. The House now stands adjourned for the Whitsun recess till the 4th prox.

The great debate in the House of Commons was resumed on Friday by Mr. Bourke, the Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and was continued by Sir R. Anstruther, Lord Elcho, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Newdegate, who for once severed himself from the Conservative party and voted with Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Lefevre, Mr. Yorke, Sir J. Lubbock, and others, among whom were Mr. Goschen and Dr. Kenealy. On Monday Mr. Waddy led off, and was followed by Mr. Bruce, Sir W. Harcourt, Sir T. Sinclair, Sir G. Bowyer, and others, the last speakers being the Marquis of Hartington, as leader of the Opposition, and Sir Stafford Northcote as leader of the House. Mr. Gladstone having replied, Major O'Gorman intervened for a few minutes between the House and the division, but only for a few minutes, when the House divided, and the tellers announced the result as being in favour of Ministers by an overwhelming majority. The numbers were for Mr. Gladstone's first Resolution 223, and against it 354. If we take into account the Speaker, the four tellers, the ten pairs, and the members who, like Mr. Hubbard, Mr. Butt, and some others abstained from voting, we may calculate that quite 610 members out of a total of 658 gave a formal indication of their views for or against Ministers, or as observing a strict neutrality between the two parties. Thus ended what will, in all probability, turn out to be the chief debate of the Session. Calling to mind former debates in the Commons—as, for instance, the debate on the policy of Lord Palmerston in connection with the Don Pacifico difficulty and Greece, the debate on the policy of Ministers in relation to the Danish War, and others, we cannot say the one just terminated has done much to raise the House in public estimation. There were several statesmanlike speeches, such as those of the Home Secretary, Mr. Roebuck, Sir Robert Peel, Mr. Chaplin, Lord Elcho, the Marquis of Hartington, Sir Stafford Northcote; while the opening and closing speeches of Mr. Gladstone were in every respect equal to his most brilliant efforts. But some of the other speakers, and notably that of Mr. E. Jenkins, who will thrust himself into a prominent position, were below mediocrity. On Tuesday the Committee on the Oxford and Cambridge Universities Bill was resumed. On Wednesday the County Training Schools' and Ships' Bill, and the Mercantile Marine Hospital, were defeated, on the second reading, the latter by the ridiculous majority of 212 to 11, and a similar fate befel the Poor Law Guardians Elections (Ireland) Bill, the second reading of which was moved by Sir C. O'Loghlan. Next week the House will enjoy a brief holiday.

The Queen, with the Duchess of Edinburgh, the Princess Beatrice, and other members of the Royal Family, is still at Windsor Castle, where she has been receiving a succession of visitors. The Duke of Connaught left the Castle on Thursday last for London, en route for Dublin. On Friday, the Prince Imperial visited Her Majesty, and stayed to luncheon. On Saturday, the Duchess of Edinburgh visited the Marchioness of Lorne at Kensington Palace, and was afterwards present at the Wagner Concert, in the Royal Albert Hall, at which the Prince of Wales likewise assisted. On Monday, the Queen held a Council, there being present Prince Leopold, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, and the Earls of Beaconsfield, Beauchamp, and Bradford. The same day the Princess Beatrice was present at the Philharmonic Society's Morning Concert, in St. James's Hall, and the Prince of Wales and Prince Leopold at the fourth Wagner Concert. The Duke of Edinburgh, in command of H.M.S. Sultan, is stationed off the entrance to the Suez Canal with the other ships of the Mediterranean Ironclad Squadron, under Vice-Admiral Hornby. It is announced that there will be two state concerts next month, at Buckingham Palace. The first will be held on the 6th prox., and the second on the 27th prox. Madame Adelina Patti, Mdlle. Zaré Thalberg, and Signor Gayarré have received commands to sing at the first, and Mdlle. Albani, Madame Scalchi, and Signor Nicolini at the second.

The Fiftieth Anniversary Festival of the Royal Free Hospital, Gray's Inn Road, a wing of which was erected by the Craft as a memorial to our late Grand Master H.R.H. the Duke of Sussex, was held on Wednesday evening, at the Freemasons' Tavern, when some two hundred ladies and gentlemen sat down to dinner, under the presidency of Lord Chief Justice Sir A. Cockburn. In proposing the toast of prosperity to this admirable institution, the Lord Chief Justice mentioned incidentally that while its permanent income was only £1,300 a year, its expenditure was not less than £7,500. Owing, however, to the generous support of the public, it was kept free from debt. He also announced that a new wing, large enough to accommodate fifty additional patients, would shortly be opened. The same evening the annual dinner of University College Hospital was held at Willis's Rooms, St. James's, under the presidency of Sir Henry Thompson, who announced that Sir F. Goldsmith had offered to contribute £10,000 towards the enlargement of the hospital, if other of the friends of the institution would raise amongst them a further sum of £20,000. Lady Goldsmith also promised £1,000 from a fund at her disposal. The subscriptions amounted to about £1,400.

The cricket season has begun in right earnest, and there have been several first-class matches played already. In one of them, between the M.C.C. and Ground and England, the club was victorious by 24 runs, but the match is chiefly noticeable for the small scores made in the second innings. The winning team could only achieve a total of 36, of which 33 were off the bat, not a single member getting into double figures. England, with but 51 to win, was only able to score 26, ten of which were made by Mr. W. R. Gilbert. The bowlers, in fact, had it all their own way, owing to the weather. We have also entered on the yachting season, and some half dozen matches have been sailed. Athletic meetings are taking place frequently, and the principal racing fixtures of the year are close at hand. Thus the public is well provided in the way of sport. We must not forget to mention further that the Coaching Season, though formally inaugurated on May-day, was practically opened on Wednesday, when the first meet of the Coaching Club was held at the Magazine, Hyde-park. Twenty-eight drags, of which the Duke of Beaufort is President, drew up at the rendezvous at noon, the President's being driven by Lord Arthur Somerset, beside whom sat the Prince of Wales. The Duke of Teck occupied the box seat on Captain Whitmore's coach, but in all other cases a lady sat beside the driver. The scene was a very animated one, and there was a great crush of carriages, horsemen, and footmen to witness the gathering. At 12.30 the Club started for a drive to Richmond, to the Orleans Club, where a lunch awaited them, after which the drags returned to town.

In spite of the unfavourable weather, the first Summer Exhibition of Flowers and Plants at the Royal Botanic Society's Gardens, Regent's Park, was attended by some 2,500 visitors. There seems, indeed, to be quite a fatality attending these shows, which are not unfrequently held on what turn out to be rainy days. It was so, we remember, in the old days of the Chiswick Horticultural Fêtes. However, the attendance on Wednesday, in Regent's Park, was respectable in point of numbers even beyond expectation, among the élite of the visitors being H.R.H. the Duchess of Teck, the Duchess of Bedford, the Marchioness of Exeter, the Marquis and Marchioness of Bristol, Lord Londesborough, and Lord Chesham. The band of the 2nd Life Guards was present. The day previous, the Royal Horticultural Society held it seventh Flower Show this season in its grounds at South Kensington. The attendance was not very numerous. Among the prize winners, were Messrs. Cutbush and Son of Highgate, Mr. C. Turner of Slough, Messrs. J. Veitch and Sons of Chelsea, and Messrs. Paul and Son of Waltham Cross.

The War news from the Danube and Asia is in many respects conflicting, but some events of importance have occurred in the latter country. A squadron of Turkish ironclads has bombarded Soukoum Kaleh, on the coast of the Black Sea, after which a force of Circassians was landed, and established themselves in the place, in spite of the efforts of the Russians. This success is likely to have a very important effect. The Turks are determined to excite, if possible, a rising of the Circassians, and this will, no doubt, seriously interfere with the progress of the Russian armies under the Grand Duke Michael. Another and more considerable engagement has taken place at Batoum. The Russian were the assailants, and are said to have carried some heights, but further attempts to advance on the town were defeated, and the Russian loss is reported to have reached, if it did not exceed, 4000 men in killed and wounded. In spite of all rumours to the contrary, the news received now and again from the neighbourhood of Kars and Erzeroum proves that the progress of the Russians in that direction is not as rapid or effectual as at first was reported. On the whole the balance thus far in Asia has inclined to the side of the Turks, who have shown themselves far more energetic than usual, and also far stronger. On the other hand, the fighting on the Danube has been inconsiderable, and has been confined chiefly to the bombardment by the Turks of Kalafat, the garrison of which, consisting of Roumanians, has been returning the compliment by firing on Widdin. The Roumanians acknowledge to have sustained a considerable loss in wounded, but nothing is said of those who have been killed. The most serious event has been the destruction of a Turkish monitor, which engaged the Russian batteries near Matchin, and was blown up by a shell. All on board are believed to have perished. An interchange of courtesies has taken place between the Grand Duke Nicholas and Prince Charles of Roumania, in the first instance at Ploeshti, whither the Prince went to visit him, and again at Bucharest, which, in accordance with the Russo-Roumanian Convention, the Grand Duke entered without any escort, but attended by one or two of his suite. Another rumour is worth noticing, to the effect that the Russians have crossed the Danube into the Dobrudscha. This may be the case, but there is no doubt the Russians are slowly but surely concentrating their forces, and that the passage will be attempted shortly.

A ministerial crisis has occurred at Paris, and M. Jules Simon has been dismissed from office by the President. It is impossible to say who will be the new minister, but the event, as indicating that Marshal MacMahon has broken with the Republican party, has caused an intense amount of excitement.

M. GILLIES, S.G.W. THOS. MAHON, J.G.W.

To all whom it may concern.

WE, the Grand Lodge of the most Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons (according to the Old Constitutions granted by His Royal Highness Prince EDWIN, at York, Anno Domini Nine hundred twenty and six, and in the Year of Masonry Four thousand Nine hundred twenty and six) in ample form assembled, viz., The Most Noble Prince John, Duke, Marquis, and Earl of Atholl, Marquis and Earl of Tullibardine, Earl of Strathtay and Strathardle, Viscount of Balquider, Glenalmond and Glenlyon, Lord Murray, Belveny and Gask, Heritable Constable of the Castle of Kincleaven, Lord of Man and the Isles, and Earl Strange and Baron Murray of Stanley, in the County of Gloucester, &c., GRAND MASTER OF MASONS, The Right Worshipful Thos. Harper, Esquire, Deputy Grand Master, The Right Worshipful Malcolm Gillies, Senior Grand Warden, and the Right Worshipful Thos. Mahon, Esquire, Junior Grand Warden (with the approbation and consent of the Warranted Lodges held within the Cities and Suburbs of London and Westminster), do hereby authorise and empower our trusty and well-beloved Brethren, viz., The Worshipful Donald MacCraw one of our Master Masons, The Worshipful James Mansfield his Senior Warden, and the Worshipful Henry Terry his Junior Warden, to form and hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons aforesaid, at the Queen's Head, Crown Court, Princes Street, Golden Square, No. 16 or elsewhere in London, upon the first and third Tuesday in every month, and on all seasonable times and lawful occasions; and in the said Lodge (when duly congregated) to admit and make Free Masons, according to the most Ancient and Honourable Custom of the Royal Craft, in all ages and nations throughout the known world. And we do hereby further authorise and empower our said trusty and well-beloved Brethren, Donald McCraw, James Mansfield and Henry Terry (with the consent of the Members of their Lodge), to nominate, chuse, and install their successors, to whom they shall deliver this Warrant, and invest them with their Powers and Dignities as Free Masons, &c. And such successors shall in like manner nominate, chuse, and install their successors, &c., &c., &c.; such installations to be upon (or near) every ST. JOHN'S DAY, during the continuance of this Lodge, for ever. Providing the above named Brethren, and all their successors, always pay due respect to this Right Worshipful Grand Lodge, otherwise this Warrant to be of no Force nor Virtue.

Given under our Hand and the Seal of our Grand Lodge in London, this Tenth day of July, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Ten, and in the year of Masonry Five Thousand Eight Hundred and Ten.

ROBERT LESLIE,
Grand Secretary.

HWLFFORDD CHAPTER HAVERFORDWEST.

THE consecration of this Chapter took place on Thursday, the 10th inst., the ceremony being performed by M.E. Companion Capt. S. G. Homfray P.Z., P. Standard Bearer of Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, and P.G.H. of Monmouthshire. He was assisted by M.E. Comps. T. Powell P.Z. of the Virtue and Hope Chapter, Swansea, as H., and M.E. Dr. Grätte P.Z. of the Silurian Chapter, Newport, Monmouthshire, as J. To those who have heard Comp. Homfray works the ceremony, we need only say that the fluency with which he performs his duties was characteristic of his performance on this occasion. As acting J., Comp. Dr. Grätte left nothing to be desired, his well-known skill in all pertaining to R.A. Masonry being exemplified by the ease with which his duties were performed. Immediately after the consecration ceremony, Comp. Homfray proceeded with the installation of the three principals. Comps. T. J. White P.M. the Cambrian Lodge, Haverfordwest, being installed as Z., the Rev. W. Lyte Stradling P.M. of the St. David's Lodge, Milford, as H., and Comp. T. James P.M. of the Cambrian Lodge, Haverfordwest, as J. All three being Comps. of the Merlin Chapter, Carmarthen. The Comps. were then admitted, and the principals saluted in ancient form. It must have been gratifying to the principals of the new Chapter to have had greetings from so many Chapters. The Silurian and Isca, in Newport, Mon., the Virtue and Hope and Talbot, in Swansea, the St. Elliw, Llanelly, and Merlin in Carmarthen, having all sent representatives to honour the consecration of this, the second Chapter consecrated in the Western division of South Wales within the year. No further proof is needed that Royal Arch Masonry is prospering in the Western Counties of Wales. We hear that steps are about being taken to obtain a Charter for a Chapter in connection with the Aberystwyth Lodge. When this takes place, each of the three counties forming the division, will have its Chapter. Carmarthenshire, however, already has two—the Merlin and St. Elliw. The M.E.Z. expressed himself as being highly gratified at the representatives of so many Chapters being present, and thanked them for travelling such long distances; he also announced that a Chapter for the exaltation of brethren would be held the following day. At the request of the new Principals, Comp. Homfray as Z. performed the ceremony on Friday, assisted by Comp. Dr. Grätte as H., and Comp. Morgan as J.; there were twelve candidates exalted. After the labours of the day were over on Thursday, the refreshment took the form of a banquet, capitally served by Miss Reynolds, at the Salutation Hotel. After the cloth was removed, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were received in the manner befitting R.A. Masons. A most enjoyable evening was spent, to which Comp. Groves, of Newport, very materially contributed by his musical abilities. Indeed, a large measure of the success of the meeting is due to Comp. Groves' exertions—by his labour in Chapter, he gave solemnity to our beautiful ceremony, and by his happy touch and exquisite bon homme he added grace and lightness to the banquet. After the ceremony of exaltation on Friday, Comp. T. Rule Owen gave a banquet, at which all who could stay in Haverfordwest were present.

LIVERPOOL MASONIC HALL ACCOUNTS FOR 1875 AND 1876.

WE acknowledge with thanks two statements of account, for the years 1875 and 1876 respectively, of the Masonic Hall, Liverpool, of which our esteemed Brother J. R. Goepel is the Treasurer. As regards the former year, it will suffice if we state that the balance on the General Account was £7 4s 1½d; that on the Building Fund the expenditure amounted to £216 14s 10d; while the receipts, including a balance brought forward of £13 0s 5d, amounted to £82 0s 10d, leaving a balance from Maintenance Fund of £134 14s 2d; and that the Furnishing Account showed a deficiency of £20 6s 3d, the liabilities amounting to £72 16s 3d against cash in bank to the extent of £52 10s. We deal more fully with the accounts for the year 1876, the Balance Sheet for which exhibits the following results:—Income, including balance as above, of £7 4s 1½d, £764 5s 5½d, the items being as follow, namely:—Rent from Lodges, £373 13s 4d; Rent from Chapters, £101; Rents, Miscellaneous, Lodges of Instruction, and Occasional Meetings, £45, £34, and £9 3s respectively; Emergencies, Committees, Refreshments, &c., £169 5s. The expenditure amounted to £769 9s 7½d, the principal items being Insurance, £8 17s; House Account, £143 5s 1d; Printing, £25 13s 5d; Coal, £30 1s 9d; Repairs, &c., £56 10s 11½d; Furniture, £37 8s 11d; Interest, £15; Rates and Taxes, £70 16s 9d; Gas, £108 14s 4d; Coke, £9 19s 1d; Gas Fitting, £26 8s 9d; Plumbing, £44 7s; and Building, £46 6s 2d. Thus there was a balance due to the Treasuer of £5 4s 2d. On the Building Fund, the payments reached a total of £111 14s 3d, while the receipts were £85 8s 1d, leaving a "Balance from Maintenance Fund" of £46 6s 2d. The Furnishing Fund balances exactly, the Receipts, including cash in bank £52 10s, and the expenses being £75 16s. The outstanding debts of the Hall amount to £201 1s 4d, and there is a mortgage on the property of £2,500, for which interest is payable at the rate of £4 per cent. It is worthy of note that the rents, which form the bulk of the receipts, are paid by twenty-one Lodges, eleven Chapters, sundry Chapters, Preceptories, Conclaves, and the West Lancashire Mark Lodge, and nine Lodges of Instruction, irrespective of occasional rents from P.G.L. and Chapter, &c. As far as can be gathered from this plain statement of figures, the Hall Committee appear to exercise a wise control over the management of the funds.

REVIEWS.

Fire Protection. A Complete Manual of the Organisation, Machinery, Discipline, and General Working of the Fire Brigade of London. By Eyre M. Shaw, Chief Officer Metropolitan Fire Brigade, Author of "Fire Surveys," &c. London: Charles and Edwin Layton, Fleet-street.

IF there is one person in England who is competent to speak authoritatively on the subject of Fire Protection, it is Captain Shaw, who for the last sixteen years has been principal officer in charge of our Metropolitan Fire Brigade. On his appointment to the office, he tells us he could find no published information on the subject. He, therefore, visited all those countries where he thought it possible he might pick up some practical and theoretical knowledge, but though he acquired some of the former, he failed to obtain anything in respect of the latter which would be of any service. Under these circumstances, he set about the very difficult task of working out for himself a complete system. Accordingly, he studied all the different apparatus in use, both practically and theoretically. As time and opportunity allowed him to perfect his judgment not only on these, but on the manner in which they were worked, and the drill of the men who worked them, he in time became enabled to present a perfect system of arrangements. Fortune, he modestly tells us, favoured him. Many victories were achieved over the dread element of fire rather by luck than by the plans adopted, and carefully noting all these as they occurred he at length elaborated a system of drill which those who are at the pains of reading this work cannot fail to see is admirably calculated to meet almost every class of difficulty that may arise. To Captain Shaw, indeed, undoubtedly belongs the merit of having brought the mode of dealing with fires as nearly as possible to perfection. The work before us treats most exhaustively of the subject. The opening chapter deals with the two important elements of "Air and Water." Then follows a dissertation on "Pumps." Next come four chapters, in the first of which is described the several parts of the "Manual Fire Engine," while the other three are devoted to the subject of "Leathern Hose," "Branches and Nozzles," and the "Gear Carried on an Engine." He passes next to "Engine Drill," "Scaling Ladders and Ladder Drill," and "Fire Escape and Escape Drill," and in the following chapter to "Smoke Appliances," &c. The rest of the work is occupied with the Constitution and Organisation of the Fire Brigade, the appointment of Men and their training, the internal management and duties of the Brigade; while their clothing, telegraphic communication, list of articles in use among firemen, and sundry general memoranda complete the work. It will be seen from this brief outline of the contents that the author has treated of Fire Protection exhaustively. No details have been considered too trivial to be omitted, and the result, in our humble judgment, is a full description of all the fire protecting apparatus in use, and a complete code of regulations for the conduct of a fire brigade. Under these circumstances, we have no hesitation in commending the work to the notice of our readers. Neither they nor we, perhaps, can lay claim to much knowledge of the subject, but they, as well as we, on glancing even casually at this book, will be able to form something like a just idea of its merits. There are also numerous illustrations which have enabled us to understand more fully the value of the author's instructions and descriptions. Captain Shaw, in fact, has achieved a task of great difficulty in a manner which is worthy of all praise. It is not only that he has compiled a most elaborate system, but he likewise explains it in the clearest and most precise manner possible.

Bathing in London. A Practical Treatise, containing a Description of the Baths and Bathing Places of London. By Hadley Prestage, Hon. Secretary of the Victoria Park Swimming Club, Member of the Metropolitan Bathing Association, Member of the Swimming Association of Great Britain, &c. London: J. Roberts, 195 Shoreditch High Street. 1877.

WITHIN the modest compass of a pamphlet, Bro. Prestage has brought together an array of information we seldom meet with, his object being a most admirable one, namely, to encourage the erection of public baths and bathing-places in the Metropolis. Bro. Prestage is quite right in his statement that, to put the matter Masonically, the immediate past generation of Londoners were not distinguished by any special regard for personal cleanliness. He is quite right in his inference of this fact, from the almost universal presence of the footbath in bedrooms. Thirty years ago people washed their face and hands and feet, but rarely their bodies. The morning tub was unknown as an institution, though a few strong-minded people may have ventured, in a quiet kind of way, and almost apologetically, upon its adoption. Bathing in the Serpentine was permitted then, as now, and small boys dabbled in the muddy waters of the Thames. But London had few baths and no washhouses. We have made some progress since. There are now twenty-seven baths in the metropolis, many of them having washhouses attached, and Bro. Prestage gives particulars of each of them in this treatise. Yet he very pertinently asks why we are even now so indifferently provided in this respect? and he very strenuously advocates their multiplication in every part of the Metropolis, and especially in the more crowded eastern districts, where the labouring portion of our population most do congregate. He makes mention of the very handsome gift, by a late Mrs. Brown, to the Government of £55,000 for the erection of baths, &c., and he is anxious to know why it has not yet been devoted to the purposes designated by the fair donor? So are we; and if others will second the efforts of Bro. Prestage, in his laudable efforts to improve the cleanliness, health, and godliness of Londoners, we shall soon have the present cause of complaint removed,—that the greatest civilised city in the world is the worst provided in respect of baths and bathing-places. We commend Bro. Prestage for his manly endeavours to secure so admirable an object. In the list of the baths that have been, we note one omission. It is a matter of no great moment, but the list is incomplete without it. This is the Holborn Bath, afterwards the Holborn Casino, and now the Holborn Restaurant. Speaking personally, we may mention that thirty years ago we have again and again enjoyed the pleasure of a bath at this establishment, and a very well ordered establishment it was too, albeit not as extensive as the Lambeth Baths, or as enjoyable as the open-air bath yclept Peerless Pool. The omission will be easily rectified in future issues of the pamphlet, which deserves, and we trust will have, a large circulation among all classes.

Official Directory for the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall. Seventh year of publication. Edited by William James Hughan, P.M. No. 131, Truro, Past Provincial Grand Secretary, &c., &c. Truro: Printed at the Royal Cornwall Gazette Office. 1877.

IT is almost needless to say that this little directory is well nigh perfect of its kind. It contains the usual lists of Provincial Grand Officers and of Lodges, each of the latter having also the names of its principal officers and P.M.'s, and of Provincial Grand Chapter Officers, and Chapters, the latter having likewise the names of Principals and P.Z.'s. The laws and regulations of Provincial Grand Lodge and Chapter are added, and there are two tabular statements, one showing the votes of the Province for the several central Charities, and the other the progress and present numerical strength of the Craft in Cornwall. Information is further given as to Charity and Centenary jewels, the fees payable to P.G. Lodge and Chapter respectively, respecting the Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Institution, and also as to Lodges and Chapters formerly existing in the Province, with a list of the P.G.M.'s and Superintendents, since, in the one case, the year 1752, when Cornwall became a Province, and in the other, the year 1791, when the late Bro. Danckerley appointed himself P.G. Superintendent of R.A. Masons for Cornwall. Bro. Hughan has made his Directory a perfect compendium of the Masonic History of Cornwall, and, in the interest of Masonic History generally, we can only express a hope that every other Province in England will be similarly provided at no distant date.

PERIODICAL LITERATURE.

Cassell's Family Magazine offers, as usual, a most excellent programme. The serial fiction, and particularly the Story of "Paul Knox, Pitman," is full of interest, but, as we have several times remarked before, the chief attractions in this periodical will be found in the Essays on domestic and social matters, and in notes on ordinary topics. There is an article on "New Employments for Women," which cannot fail to be of service to the fair sex. Then there are "Notes on Gardening," than which we are acquainted with none that are more practical. If any of our young friends are about to undergo the ordeal of an examination, we advise them to turn to these pages, and they will find many useful hints how to prepare themselves. At first sight it may appear hard to tell people "How to Read aloud," but ask nine people out of ten to read aloud an article from a newspaper, or a chapter or two from some entertaining or instructive book, and the chances are they will bungle over it. The ability to read aloud well, with due emphasis bestowed where necessary, with proper modulations of the voice, so as to avoid monotony, and without fatigue, is by no means a common accomplishment, and Cassell's have done wisely to lay down a few simple instructions for the benefit of intending readers. We may also speak highly of the papers on "Tiny Dwellers in our Ponds and Ditches," "Our Model Day Nursery," "Fancy Bazaars and Sales of Work," and "Suitable Climates for Invalids," the last being especially valuable. In addition are two or three short tales, such as "Kate's Prince," by Mr. G. Manville Fenn, "Without a Pigtail," and "The Old Manor House." "The Bugle Call," which does duty as Frontispiece, is capitally drawn.

Part 9 of The Countries of the World is worthy of all praise. The illustrations, especially those of "A Lumber Wharf on the North Pacific Coast," the "Crystal Lake in California," the "Californian Quail," and "A Cañon in the Wahsatch Mountains (Utah Territory)," like all that have appeared in previous numbers of this serial publication, are well drawn, and give an excellent idea of the scenes they severally portray. The narrative treats chiefly of the Western portions of the United States, and contains a geographical account of them, as well as a description of the inhabitants and products, interspersed here and there with stories of Indians, notes about the labour market and the cost of living, and much other needful information.

In the Leisure Hour there is much instructive as well as entertaining matter. Among the contents, we have marked as particularly noteworthy a paper on "Cuckoo Lore," an explanatory paper on "Common Legal Expressions," and the continuation of Miss Isabella Bird's valuable sketches of "Australia Felix: Impressions of Victoria," besides a well-written study of our first English printer, "William Caxton." In addition are several contributions, in the shape of "Fen and Mere," by Cuthbert Bede, "Counsellor Tennant," "A Circassian Scotchman," and "New Helps for Hospitals," which it will be worth our friends' while to read, while the Varieties and Natural History Anecdotes are useful, and in many instances novel.

"The Belfry of Dresden" heads the programme of the Sunday at Home. It is an episode of the Seven Years' War and very well recounted. Miss Alcock contributes a page of Jewish history, entitled "Uncrowned," and Mr. J. Alexander, the fifth of his "Pictures of Jewish Life." There is a very useful paper about the "South African Races," and this is followed by the fifth of the late Rev. R. Demaus's articles on "The English Bible." We were almost on the point of leaving unnoticed "Welsh Peasant Sketches—Uncle Morgan;" had we done so, we should unintentionally have committed an act of injustice, for it is one of the best articles in the periodical. The illustrations are to be commended, those of "Ahab and Jezebel confronted by Elijah," "A Jewish Wedding," and "Reading the Bible in Old London," being among the best, in our opinion at least. In fact, in this particular, the Sunday at Home and the Leisure Hour are invariably deserving of praise.

The steel engraving in Picturesque Europe is of "Melrose Abbey," and is a highly finished specimen of the engraver's art. Most of the wood engravings delineate scenes in the border counties, such as Berwick Bridge, Fernieburst Castle, Kelso Abbey, and others; but there are some of scenery on the West Coast of Ireland, of which, in this number, we now take leave, in order to wander among the many historical scenes associated with "Border Castles and Counties."

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The weekly meeting of this Chapter was held at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill, on Tuesday last. Present—Comps. J. Constable M.E.Z., A. A. Drew H., Thomas Griffiths J., Thomas W. White S.E., F. Brown S.N., S. Pownceby P.S., J. W. Berrie, J. Dennis, R. E. Stevenson, G. F. Row, G. Waterall, E. H. Finney, C. Saron Hooper, F. J. Rumsey. The business consisted of confirmation of minutes of previous convocation, and rehearsal of the exaltation ceremony, Comp. R. E. Stevenson being candidate; he was afterwards elected a member. The sum of £3 3s, previously promised, was voted to the Girls' School, for the list of Comp. John Boyd.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 17th inst., at Bro. Hallows, The Chequers, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. Groome W.M., Claridge S.W., W. G. Hallows J.W., Saunders Secretary, Pinder Preceptor, Franklin S.D., F. Hallows J.D., Upward Organist, Delvalle I.G.; also Bros. Dendy, Simms, Brown, Christian, Varley, Mumford, Field, Clarke. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd and 3rd degrees, and the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Simms acting as candidate. The Lodge was resumed to the 1st degree, and Bro. Claridge was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The Lodge was then closed.

Mount Sinai Chapter, No. 19.—The installation meeting of this Chapter was held on Tuesday, the 15th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Comps. Birch M.E.Z., Rev. P. M. Holden as H., Pound as J., Bywater P.Z. S.E., Worthington S.N. P.Z.'s T. L. Fox, H. Potter, W. Platt, Barfield, Fox, Slack, &c. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bros. F. E. W. Collard, No. 19, and T. C. Venables, No. 263, were ballotted for, and were duly exalted, and Comp. Rev. J. M. Vaughan P.Z. was inducted M.E.Z., Millis P.Z. H., Reed P.Z. J., J. Smith P.Z. Treas., Bywater P.Z. S.E., Worthington S.N., Bryett S.E., Grabham 1st Asst., Game 2nd Asst., Daly Janitor. Comp. Bywater P.Z. said the testimonial to Comp. J. Smith P.Z. and Treas. for his long and valuable services rendered to the Chapter, was nearly completed, and would shortly be presented. Comp. Barfield P.Z. said 28 Lodges and Chapters had subscribed to the testimonial to Comp. W. Smith, who so well looked after their creature comforts, and he hoped the Companions present would contribute to it. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions sat down to a very excellent banquet. Grace having been said, the M.E.Z. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Comp. J. Smith P.Z., in a very eloquent speech, returned thanks for the Grand Officers. Comp. Birch I.P.Z. rose and said, you have been accustomed, during the past year, to hear my voice. I have now the pleasure of proposing the toast of the M.E.Z.; his star has shone to-night, and will shine brighter as he progresses. You have an educated man, a reverend clergyman; out of the fulness of the heart the mouth speaketh, and those words would speak in his praise. He has very arduous duties to perform in his parish, and his time has been much occupied. The duties of the Z.'s chair are very arduous, and if at any time he should require my services, they will be at his command. The M.E.Z. thanked Comp. Birch for his kind expressions, he regretted not being able to come up at an earlier period to-day, but he would assure them he would do his best to perform his duties to their satisfaction. The Z. then gave the toast of the newly-exalted Companions; he regretted the absence of Comp. Venables, who was obliged to leave, but they had Comp. Collard, a member of the Royal Athelstone, No. 19, whom they were all pleased to see. Comp. Collard returned thanks for the toast, he felt impressed with the ceremony of initiation eighteen months since; he could say now how much more he felt the solemnity of this beautiful ritual. He was sure it would make him a better man and a better Mason. The M.E.Z. then, in eloquent terms, proposed the toast of the Visitors, with which he coupled the name of Comp. H. M. Levy P.Z. 188, who responded. The M.E.Z. then proposed the health of the P.Z.'s, the Pillars of the Chapter. We have P.Z.'s present who are not only in every respect capable, but are ready to assist in the duties. Our I.P.M. Comp. Birch, you have seen how ably he has discharged the duties during the past year. I will try to imitate him, for I could not follow a better predecessor. It is now my duty and privilege to place on his breast this jewel, awarded him by the Chapter, and I am sure I am speaking your sentiments when I say, may he live long to wear it. Comp. Birch said he felt a great pleasure in being complimented by the Z.; it was flattering to him to know that he carried with him the good wishes of the Chapter, as, from the time he was initiated and exalted, he hoped to command success, and he was proud to say that he had succeeded in gaining their approbation, and he thanked all for their kindness. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the H. and J., who were unavoidably absent, but they had good representatives in Comps. Pond and the Rev. P. M. Holden, whose names are well known and respected. Comps. Rev. P. M. Holden and Pond returned thanks in suitable terms. The Z. said he had now great pleasure in proposing the health of Comp. J. Smith P.Z. and Treasurer, Comps. Bywater S.E., and Grabham, who are all indefatigable in their various duties. Comp. Smith returned thanks; in the course of his speech he said, in admitting gentlemen into the Order, we do not know who they are as a rule; but in R.A. Masonry, we know what they are like, and without good recommendations they cannot be admitted. This Chapter is A1, and the cause is, that we work harmoniously. He was the oldest member, and they were fortunate in having two such excellent working officers as Comps. Bywater and Grabham. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the Officers; he was proud of the selection made; they would be a credit to the Chapter. This having been responded to, the Janitor's Toast followed. Companion Rev. P. M. Holden gave an excellent recitation, and Comp. Harrer contributed to the harmony. Visitors—Bros. T. Ball P.Z. 145, C. Palmer 1293, T. E. Scott 771, H. Harvey 554, B. H. Swallow Z. 77, J. Layland 180, Churchill 834, and H. M. Levy P.Z. 188.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its meeting at the Old Rodney's Head, 12 Old-street, Goswell-road, on Monday, 14th inst. Present—Bros. Millward W.M., Cook S.W., Ross J.W., Bisset S.D., Halford J.D., Tolmie acting Preceptor, Fenner Secretary, Christopher I.G., Roberts, Defriez, Isaac, Davis, &c. Lodge was opened in due form. Minutes of last meeting confirmed. Bro. Roberts answered the usual questions and was entrusted. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, when the ceremony of passing was rehearsed by the W.M. in a very able manner, Bro. Roberts acting as candidate. Bro. A. W. Fenner worked the 1st, Bro. Defriez the 2nd, Bro. Tolmie the 3rd, and Bro. Defriez the 4th and 5th sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was resumed to 1st degree, when Bro. Cook S.W. was duly elected W.M. for the next meeting, which will be in a fortnight's time. On the proposition of Bro. Tolmie, who paid a high tribute to the W.M., seconded by Bro. Fenner, a vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to the W.M., for the very efficient manner he had discharged the duties o the chair. Lodge was then closed and adjourned till the 28th inst.

Phœnix Lodge, No. 173.—The members of this Lodge met on Saturday, the 12th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. The following particulars of this old Lodge may be interesting. It is on the Registry of the Athol Grand Lodge, and was established on the 27th September 1785, at the Swan Inn in the Borough, when the number was 231. At the Union in 1813 the number was 202, and when the alteration of numbers took place in 1863 it took the present number, 173. The Lodge will attain its Centenary in 1885. The W.M., Bro. J. D. Massey, occupied the chair; S. S. Phillips S.W., and W.M. elect, J. Finch J.W., J. Burford Treasurer, E. Mathews Secretary, E. Walton S.D., J. Blyth J.D., J. Andrews I.G., and P.M.'s Bros. W. Watson, T. Witt, F. R. Vine, G. Wilson, Green and Salmon. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bro. R. R. Dunlop, Hamilton Kilwinning Lodge, No. 7, was elected a joining member. Bro. Bennett, a son of Sir Sterndale Bennett, the eminent musical composer, and C. F. Kearley were passed to the 2nd degree, and Bro. Gilham was raised, the working of the W.M. and officers deserving especial praise. Bro. Jekyll, the organist, played some very excellent and appropriate music. A board of installed masters was then formed, and Bro. S. S. Phillips S.W. and W.M. elect was presented to the Lodge. He was duly installed Master, by the retiring W.M. Bro. J. D. Massey. On the conclusion of the addresses Bro. J. D. Massey received the deserved encomiums of every brother and visitor. The W.M. having been saluted, invested his officers, addressing a few pertinent remarks to each. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 73 in number, adjourned to the Crown room, where a sumptuous banquet and dessert was provided by the energetic manager, Bro. E. Dawkins. The W.M. ably presided. In proposing the toast of H.M. the Queen, he spoke of the kindly feeling shown by her. She had always evinced the greatest solicitude for the welfare of every one of her subjects. The National Anthem was then sung. The toast of H.R.H. the M.W.G.M., the Earl of Carnarvon Pro G.M., the R.W. the Earl of Skelmersdale D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers, found a very able respondent in Bro. W. Ough P.G.P. Bro. Farquharson then sang "Let Brotherly Love Continue." Bro. Massey I.P.M. then rose. He had great pleasure in proposing the next toast, that was the health of the W.M. (Cheers). In filling the various offices, he had done so to their satisfaction, and during the short period he had occupied the chair, and by the manner he had invested his officers, he had shown his proficiency; he was sure, at the expiration of his year of office, Bro. Phillips would retire with the knowledge that he had efficiently discharged his duty, and gained the regard and esteem of every one in the Lodge. (Cheers). The W.M. said he felt great pleasure in having his health proposed by one who had occupied the chair so worthily, and who had also installed him. The words uttered by Bro. Massey were indeed complimentary to him. My family motto is, "I Will Keep Faith," and I hope this will be proved when I leave the chair. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Initiates. They were pleased to have them amongst them. They were initiated at a former meeting, and to-night they had passed the 2nd degree. They are gentlemen who can and will prove ornaments to our Order. They are men of education, and from the careful and attentive manner they had listened to the ceremony, would eventually prove an honour to the Craft. Bro. Bennett said he had been fully impressed by the beautiful and sublime ceremony. He thanked the W.M. for his kind expressions. The remarks made would be an incentive to him to work diligently, so that at a future time he hoped to occupy the chair the W.M. now so ably filled. Bro. Kearley followed. He also felt fully impressed by the rendering of the ceremony by Bro. Massey, and also the pleasure in store for him in receiving the 3rd degree from the W.M. The W.M. in proposing the toast of the P.M.'s alluded to their valuable services in the Lodge. Bros. Vine, Green and Witt responded. He next, in a very eloquent speech, proposed the toast of the Visitors. He should call on Bros. Waters P.G.S. and H. M. Levy P.M. 188 to respond. These brethren paid a just tribute to the excellent manner in which the ceremonies had been given by Bro. Massey; his rendering of the installation ceremony was perfect. The W.M. then said he had pleasure in bringing before their notice a toast that deserved their attention, that was the health of the I.P.M., Bro. Massey. (Cheers.) They had seen how effectively he had discharged the duties of W.M., and the more credit is due to him, he having been a Mason only four years; to prove how those duties were appreciated by the Lodge, and to show the regard and esteem in which he is held, he had great pleasure, in the name of the Lodge, to present him with a solid gold Past Master's jewel. It would be the embodiment of the good wishes and true Masonic feeling of every brother; he hoped he would live long to wear it and be among them. Bro. Massey, in reply, said the words so kindly uttered by the W.M. would never be effaced from his memory. He thanked the brethren for the hearty manner they had received the toast. If his services were appreciated, they were always at their command, and he hoped to be spared to be among them for many years. The toast of the Wardens was next given, and Bros. Finch and Allen returned thanks. Also that of the Officers. The Tyler followed, and the brethren, after passing a delightful and harmonious evening, separated. Bros. Farquharson, Kift, &c., contributed to the harmony. The Visitors were Bros. Harris, 1185, W. Stollard 180, J. Homes 87, Harrington 1512, W. Radford 1196, Kift 749, E. Collins 25, Brewer 1309, H. Apstone 1309, F. Lough P.M. 159, Limebeer P.M. 12, W. T. Scott W.M. 9, Canfield 364, Godfrey, W. Ough P.G.P., C. Burmeister P.M. 538, Waters P.M. Grand Stewards' Lodge, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Sincerity Lodge, No. 174.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 16th instant, at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street. Present—Bro. G. J. Hilliard W.M., A. H. Brown as S.W., Seddon J.W., Newton P.M. Sec., Percival as S.D., Webb J.D., F. Brown D.C., G. Jones I.G.; E. J. Moore, C. Lacey, and W. Barlow; Past Masters, and the following visitors:—E. P. Albert P.G.P., J. H. Litson 1306, J. J. Berry P.M. 554, H. Manns and J. F. Clark 217, F. Dunn 72, W. H. G. Rudderforth 12, T. Jones 1607, J. Townson and G. Meadway 1405, James Self 214, W. J. O'Connor 636, E. Legge S.W. 1196, W. W. Morgan jun. 1385, &c. The Lodge having been formally opened, and the preliminary business disposed of, Messrs. J. H. C. Gray and T. Matthews were initiated into the Order, after which the Lodge, having been advanced, Bros. Wilson and Spill were raised. The Lodge was resumed to the first degree, and the J.W. rose and expressed his great sorrow at having to ask the Lodge to pass a vote of condolence to their S.D., on the loss of his wife. This was seconded by the W.M., and carried unanimously by the brethren, amid expressions of general regret and sympathy. The petition of a late member of the Lodge was then introduced by the Secretary, and signed by the members previous to its presentation to the Lodge of Benevolence, and, after some few remarks from Bro. P.M. Lacey, the sum of five guineas was voted from the fund of Benevolence attached to the Lodge, to assist the Bro., for the time being. The case of the widow of a deceased Bro., who had been initiated in the Sincerity, was then brought forward, and we are pleased to announce that a similar amount to that given in the previous case was voted from the same fund. The widow may certainly have cause to thank the members of the Sincerity for this illustration of true Masonry, her husband had only paid one year's subscription to the Lodge, and now they unhesitatingly assist her in the hour of her affliction. Lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to refreshments. After grace the W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, in introducing that of the Grand Officers, he referred with pleasure to the presence of Bro. Albert, who in reply thanked the brethren for the way in which the toast had been received. From what he had seen that evening, he considered Grand Lodge should be proud of having such a Lodge under its banner. The next toast, that of the Initiates, was regularly received and acknowleged by both of the brethren who had been initiated during the evening, in short, but well chosen words. Bro. P.M. Lacey proposed the health of the W.M. He had had the pleasure of initiating, and also of installing their present Master, and thus felt very great interest in his Masonic welfare. He is well known as a staunch supporter of the Charities, the interest in which he was always endeavouring to extend. The W.M. heartily thanked the brethren. His principal feeling with regard to Freemasonry was charity. None of us know how soon we may have occasion to call upon the funds of the institutions connected with the Order, therefore we should ably support them when in a position to do so. He referred to the fact of the Lodge being represented at the approaching festival of the Boys' School, and hoped the Sincerity list would be an extensive one. He concluded by again thanking the brethren for drinking his health, and then proposed the toast of the Visitors, of whom he was pleased to see so strong a muster. Several of the visitors acknowledged the toast, and one and all praised the Lodge for the charitable way in which they had acted during the time of business. Some farther remarks were made by the W.M. on the subject of Charity, with the view of introducing Bro. Percival (who is the Steward for the Boys' Festival) to the notice of the brethren, and he, after going the round of the table, announced that the sums promised on his list now amounted to £128 11s 6d. After expressing his satisfaction, he remarked in the usual dissatisfied manner that he should not be content until he had got £150 promised. The toast of the Past Masters having been honoured, was replied to by Bro. Lacey. The health of the Officers, and the toast of the Tyler concluded the proceedings.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its regular weekly meeting on Saturday, the 12th of May, at The Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington N. Present—Bros. Braated W.M., Hewlett S.W., Moss J.W., Killick Secretary, Halford Treasurer, Defries S.D., Fenner J.D., Gibbs I.G. Visitor—Bro. Hildreth 1189. The Lodge was opened in the regular order, and the minutes of the previous meeting were confirmed. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Brand acting as candidate. Several sections of the 1st and 2nd lectures were worked by the Preceptor and Bro. Hewlett. Bro. Hildreth was elected a member, and Bro. Hewlett appointed W.M. for the next meeting. A vote of thanks to the W.M. (it being the first time he had presided in this Lodge) was unanimously carried.

Jordan Lodge of Instruction, No. 201.—A meeting in connection with this Lodge, which has been defunct for many years, was held at Bro. Hiscox's, Devonshire Arms, Devonshire-street, Portland-place, W. Bro. John Hammond, the senior P.M. of the mother Lodge present, was unanimously voted to the chair. Having appointed his officers, he performed the ceremony of initiation to the entire satisfaction of the brethren assembled. The Lodge was then called off, and certain minor details as to fees, day, and time of assembling were discussed. It was arranged that another meeting (to take into consideration the framing of bye-laws and other necessary business) be held at the above address, at eight o'clock on Tuesday next, the 22nd instant. Bro. Peter Robinson, Secretary of the mother Lodge, Bro. Davage, and a few other members of the parent Lodge were present, besides a considerable number of brethren from the vicinity. Bro. Ockenden, Sec. 1656 (7 Friday-street, E.C.), was appointed provisional Secretary, and will be happy to afford all necessary information. Brethren in the neighbourhood, and particularly those connected with the mother Lodge, are cordially invited to attend on Tuesday next at eight p.m.

William Preston Lodge of Instruction, No. 766.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Friday, the 11th inst., at the Feathers Tavern, Upper George-street, Edgware-road. Present—Bros. Geo. Tribbell W.M., Aug. Braun P.M. and Sec. S.W., Jackson J.W., Rudderforth Preceptor, Kennard Treas., S. Godden S.D., Parsons J.D., Thompson I.G.; Bros. March, Hayes, Reid, Nicholls, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes confirmed. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Hayes candidate. Bro. March then answered the questions previous to passing, and Bro. Tribbell, having opened the Lodge in the second, rehearsed the ceremony of that degree. After the working of some of the sections, the W.M. rose for the first time. Bro. Braun was elected W.M. for the ensuing Friday. The proposition to work the Fifteen Sections was deferred until a more convenient time. It was proposed by Bro. Preceptor Rudderforth, seconded by P.M. Braun Sec., and carried unanimously, that the sum of one guinea be voted from the Lodge funds towards Bro. Constable's drawing. Lodge was then closed in due form.

St. John's Lodge, No. 795, Maidenhead.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 16th inst., at the Raymead Hotel, Taplow. In the unavoidable absence of the W.M., Bro. Pinto Leite, Bro. G. Bubb P.M. 180 occupied the chair. J. R. Foulger W.M. 77 S.W., W. H. C. Sharpe J.W. and Treasurer, H. H. Hodges P.G.S.W. Sec., Blake S.D., Ball J.D., O. FitzGeorge I.G., A. B. Cownie W.S., C. N. Harvey I.P.M., and Ludovici sen., Preston, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes of the former meeting and of the Emergency meeting of the 5th of December were read and confirmed. A letter of apology from the W.M. was read, regretting his absence. Mr. Albert Ludovici being in attendance, was duly initiated by the acting W.M. The resignation of Bros. Moule and Tait was accepted, with regret. The Treasurer's Account showed a balance in hand of £35. The report respecting the revision of the bye-laws was deferred until the next meeting. Bro. H. M. Sydney and L. Watson (Reform Club) were proposed as joining members, and Messrs. R. Pooley and Dr. Webb were proposed for initiation. The Lodge was then closed, and a very excellent and substantial dinner was provided by the worthy host, Bro. Deacon. Bro. Bubb proposed the usual toasts, including the R.W. Sir Daniel Gooch, P.G.M. for Berks and Bucks. Bro. H. H. Hodges, Senior Grand Warden, in returning thanks said, The next Provincial Grand Lodge would be held at High Wycombe; and, if it is possible, we hope next year it will be held at Maidenhead. We hope also at a future time to see a member of this Lodge receive Provincial Grand honours. We have a new building, capable of holding a numerous assemblage of the brethren. With regard to the Charities, this Lodge had given its contributions. In the new Bye-laws it has been carried—that if any brother wishes to act as Steward, the fee would be paid by the Lodge. He, Bro. Hodges, would be pleased to be Steward for the three Charities, but as the W.M. was absent, and he was sure he would act, as also would Bro. Bubb, he would be pleased to serve one, or give place to any brother who would consent to act in so good a cause. Bro. Blake, in proposing the toast of the acting W.M., said they all regretted the absence of the W.M., whom they respected; yet they found a worthy substitute in Bro. Bubb, who had impressively performed the ceremony of initiation, and also had most genially presided. He hoped they would drink the toast with the enthusiasm it merited. Bro. Bubb briefly and appropriately responded. Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. 188 returned thanks for the visitors. Afterwards the health of the Wardens and Initiates was given, and the brethren returned to town early. Great credit is due to Bro. W. Sharpe Treas., who was indefatigable in his exertions to secure the comfort of the brethren. Through the kindness of the Secretary of the Great Western Railway, a saloon carriage was provided for the occasion.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Tuesday, the 15th May, at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. W. J. Smith W.M., Perry S.W., Johnson J.W., E. T. Worsley Secretary, Lovelock S.D., Allen J.D., P.M. Wallington Preceptor, J. H. Pavitt I.G.; P.M. Bro. Ashburner, and Bros. Dallas, Barker, Christian, Crosby. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. The Lodge advanced to the 2nd degree. Bro. Christian having answered the necessary questions, the Lodge opened in the 3rd, when the ceremony of raising was rehearsed. Bro. Wallington gave the traditional history. Bro. Hewlett worked the 1st section of the lecture. The Lodge was resumed to the 1st degree. Bro. Webster, of Confidence Lodge, 198, was unanimously elected a member. Bro. Perry was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. Bro. Barker brought forward his motion for altering the time of meeting from 7.30 to 7; after a deal of discussion it was withdrawn. Next Tuesday will be the first time of Bro. Berry taking the chair at this Lodge. He is a very hard working member, and well up in his duties. We hope a strong muster will meet to support him. The Lodge then closed in due form.

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 9th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present—Bros. Edward Margrett W.M., A. Welch S.W., W. G. Flanagan J.W., Rev. C. R. Honey Chap., W. P. Ivey P.M. Sec., J. T. Stransom Treas., Danks S.D., Ferguson J.D., Newman Steward, Blackwell I.G., Hemmings Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. Weightman, Harley, Eggington. Members—Bros. Hilder, Pulley, Creed, Robinson, Bryant, Hawkes, Hunt. Visitors—F. McDowell 52, Martin 414, Webb 494. The Lodge was opened, the minutes were read and confirmed. Bro. Stransom was nominated as Treasurer for the ensuing year. The revised bye-laws were not read, as announced in the agenda, which is to be regretted. The Chaplain feelingly referred to the extreme illness of one of the members of the Lodge, who had expressed his strong fraternal regards for the brethren. The W.M. said he was sure all the members of the Lodge would join him in expressions of deep sympathy with this brother and his family. There being no other business, the Lodge was closed, according to ancient form.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—Held at Bro. Bolton's, the King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday, the 11th instant. Present—Bros. Andrews W.M., Crouch S.W., Fenner J.W., Smith S.D., Simpson J.D., Lane I.G., Howlett, Townsend, Bolton Austin, W. G. Kent, Keyes, Cave, &c. Lodge was opened in due form. Minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Kent, answered the necessary questions, and was entrusted. Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, when the ceremony of passing was very excellently rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Kent being candidate. The 3rd section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Howlett, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was resumed to the 1st degree. The W.M. worked the 2nd, and Bro. Fenner the 3rd sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. On the proposition of Bro. Lane, seconded by Bro. Fenner, Bro. Cave, of Union Lodge 127, was unanimously elected a member. Bro. Crouch, the S.W., was duly elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

The Great City Lodge of Instruction, No. 1426.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting at Masons' Hall Tavern, on Thursday evening, at 6.30 p.m. There were present Bros. Parker W.M., Saul S.W., De Leliva J.W., Wood S.D., Goodman J.D., Cadiot I.G., Poore P.M. Preceptor, Blackie Hon. Sec., and several other brethren. The Lodge was opened in the first degree and the minutes read and confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Harper having offered himself as candidate, was examined and entrusted. The Lodge was opened in the third degree, and the ceremony of raising was very ably rehearsed by the W.M. The Lodge was then closed down to the first, and the officers for the ensuing week appointed. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in due form. The Fifteen Sections will be worked on Thursday, the 31st inst., at 6 p.m. Bro. Saul J.W. 1201 will preside. There are one or two sections still open. Brethren are particularly invited to attend.

London Masonic Club Lodge of Instruction.—Held its fortnighly meeting on Monday the 14th inst., at the Masonic Club, 101 Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Present—Bros. Hawksley W.M., 1196, Tickle S.W., J. E. Shand Sec. J.W., James Mander Preceptor, C. J. Hogg Treasurer, Wale S.D., H. Howard 323-1126, P.G.J.D. of Cheshire, J.D., Willett I.G., 902, and other brethren of the Club. Lodge opened in due form, the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Eastgate 1663 candidate. Bro. Hogg offering himself to be passed to second degree, answered the usual questions, was entrusted and withdrew. Lodge opened in second degree, Bro. Hogg was duly passed to degree of F.C. Lodge closed in the second degree. Bro. S.W. Tickle was unanimously elected W.M. for next meeting. Lodge closed in usual manner, and adjourned till Monday, the 28th inst. at 6 o'clock p.m., when a large attendance of brethren is expected, many of the Langton Lodge, 1673, to be consecrated at the Club on 17th inst., having promised to attend.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

MEETING OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE.

THE proceedings at the annual meeting of the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, held last Friday, must not be passed over without some notice. In the first instance the number of male annuitants to be elected this year was nine, but the wonderful success at the last Festival enabled the Committee to increase the number to twenty-four, and this was still further increased, by the occurrence of five deaths, to twenty-nine. To compete for these there were thirty-four candidates (of whom one died prior to the day of election) on the approved list, so that, thanks to the liberality of the Craft, there were only four poor brethren who were left out in the cold to endure the keen disappointment of failure. As regards the female annuitants, there were originally only three vacancies, but for the reason already mentioned this number was increased to eighteen. Six deaths subsequently occurred, and so raised the number of annuitants to be elected (out of an approved list of thirty-six candidates) to twenty-four. Thus only twelve were necessarily disappointed. The case of one of these twelve unfortunate old ladies deserves a passing reference. A day or two before the election was appointed to be held, the Secretary of the Institution received a letter from a Mrs. Stansfield, announcing the withdrawal of her name from all connection with the R.M.B.I., and her name was subsequently withdrawn. On the day of the election the son of Alice Stansfield called at Freemasons' Hall, to ascertain how his mother was prospering, and was told, of course, of her absolute withdrawal. He was shown the letter which had been received, and at once declared that the handwriting was not that of his mother. It was too late to remedy the misfortune, and poor Alice Stansfield, who, it is believed, would have stood an excellent chance of succeeding, was denied even the poor satisfaction of knowing that her failure was the result of the ordinary mischances of candidature. Unfortunately Mrs. Stansfield, who was in receipt of half her late husband's annuity, loses this now, in accordance with the laws of the Institution. When inquiry was made, it turned out that the letter had been written by another Mrs. Stansfield, who had never had anything whatever to do with the R.M.B.I., either as a candidate for an annuity, or as receiving half of her late husband's annuity. The latter part of this unfortunate episode necessarily occurred after the election was over, so that all chance of preventing or remedying the mistake was gone. Thus Alice Stansfield has lost her chance of appointment, and her half annuity has just lapsed.

It may be as well to note that the resolution of Bro. Rawson, P. Dist. G.M. China, to the effect that if the widow of a brother marry again, and become a second time a widow, she may be eligible for election on the Female Fund, was agreed to. The motion which stood in the name of Bro. Professor Erasmus Wilson, for the substitution of "guineas" instead of "pounds," so as to assimilate the subscriptions to this institution to those paid to the Schools, fell through, in the unavoidable absence of Bro. Wilson. We trust, however, that the question will not be allowed to fall through altogether, as there is every reason why the qualifications for Life Governorships and Life and Annual Subscriberships should be the same for all our Charities.

One or two items of news remain to be added. Lord Leigh, Prov. G. Master Warwickshire, was elected a Trustee of the Male Annuity Fund in place of the late Earl of Shrewsbury, and Bro. Sir Fred. Martin Williams Bart., M.P., D. Prov. G.M. Cornwall. Trustee of the same fund in succession to the late Bro. Alex. Dobie, P. Prov. G.M. of Surrey. The Committee of Management reported that the receipts at the last Festival amounted to £12,866, but we are in a position to state that sums have since been received which raise the total to £13,300.

THE RECENT MASONIC FESTIVAL IN DUBLIN.

THE recent Masonic gathering in Dublin, of which full particulars, summarised from our contemporary, the Dublin Mail, are given elsewhere in our columns, is an event which demands something more than a passing notice. In the first place, it is only a matter of simple courtesy that we should offer to the Craft in Ireland our heartiest congratulations on the complete success of the day's proceedings. The Grand Master, the Duke of Abercorn, was absent, by reason of the continued indisposition of his wife. Other leading Craftsmen were unable to attend, but, in spite of these drawbacks, the assembly was a very brilliant one. The large Concert Hall in the Exhibition Palace was crowded. Craftsmen were conspicuous by their regalia, while the fair sex, in all the freshness and gay variety of spring attire, mustered in very considerable numbers—they always do where the welfare of children is concerned—and greatly enhanced the splendour of the scene. There have been magnificent Masonic assemblies in England and elsewhere, in connection with our Craft Charities, but we question if there has ever been a more successful one than that over which the Duke of Connaught so genially presided last Friday. In the next place, a meeting of this kind has a far deeper significance in Ireland than it would have in this country or in Scotland. Our readers hardly need to be informed that Ireland is a Roman Catholic country, some four-fifths of its inhabitants professing that particular form of Christianity. They know, likewise, how bitterly hostile to Freemasonry is the Roman Catholic priesthood. The only parallel case to this Dublin gathering of Masons which occurs to us at the moment was that which took place some time since in Rome, under the very nose of His Holiness the Pope, when the new Masonic Temple was formally consecrated to the purposes of the Craft. Why there should exist this hostility to our harmless fraternity on the part of the Romish priesthood, is immaterial. They hate us, and they take every possible opportunity of evincing their hatred. No greater damage befals us than is done in mimic warfare, when a couple of armies blaze at each other with blank cartridges even for a long hour or more by Shrewsbury clock. Indeed, these onslaughts remind us of a story to which, we fear, we have alluded before, but which will bear repetition in this instance. We refer to the story of the big navigator, who allowed his little wife to pitch into him, for the twofold reason that it amused her, and did him no harm. So we Craftsmen all the world over have no objection to the little attacks of the old Scarlet Lady of Rome. They amuse her, and they do us no harm. But what must the Pope think of it all, and Cardinal Cullen, and other dignitaries of the same church, when they hear of this grand meeting of Freemasons in the capital of one of their own most favoured countries—that is, of course, from a Romish ecclesiastical point of view? What can the Freeman's Journal say when they know that the members of the first and most respected families in Ireland assembled in Dublin, under the presidency of a Prince of the Blood Royal, to do homage publicly to the meritorious deeds of Freemasonry? In one respect, the occasion was one of very ordinary occurrence in the United Kingdom, the mere annual distribution of prizes to the successful pupils of orphan girls' and boys' schools. Yet, certain distinctive features about it gave it unusual prominence. The schools were established by Freemasons, for the maintenance and education of the orphan sons and daughters of brethren. And the Hall was crowded with fair ladies and Craftsmen and non-Masons, who had come from all parts of the country, in order to evince their appreciation of Masonry. The people who thus met together had nothing about them of the conspirator. They were not diabolical in their appearance; they were simply a very numerous party of ladies and gentlemen, loyal subjects of Queen Victoria, who love their fellow creatures, without a thought for the religion or politics they profess. Some of our Irish contemporary journals may occasionally try to make out that Freemasonry exercises a baneful influence on the flax trade of Belfast, or promotion in the army, but it will task all their powers to extract any harm to religion and society out of the brilliant Masonic gathering of Friday last. We again offer our Irish brethren our warmest congratulations on the splendid success of their School Festival this year.

THE CENTENARY OF THE GRAND LODGE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

A SPECIAL Communication of this Grand Lodge was held on the 8th March, for the purpose of celebrating this auspicious event. A copy of the Proceedings at this and the regular Quarterly Communication on the 14th, as well as at another Special Communication on the 22nd of the same month, has reached us. For this we offer our fraternal thanks, and, as our readers will probably be pleased to learn some particulars of the celebration, we shall proceed to give a brief summary of the record of the Communication and its attendant festivities. It will be within the recollection of our readers that Freemasonry was introduced into Massachusetts under the auspices of Bro. Henry Price, who received his patent of appointment as Provincial Grand Master of North America from our then Grand Master, Viscount Montagu, in the year 1733, and that he opened a Prov. G. Lodge at Boston in July of that year. In Pine's List of Lodges for 1734—recently edited and published by Bro. Hughan—we find Lodge No. 126 located at Boston, Mass., this, no doubt, being the first Lodge warranted by the new Provincial G.M. This P.G. Lodge was known as the St. John's G. Lodge, and worked on regularly till 1775, after which no meetings were held till 1787. In 1756 the Grand Lodge of Scotland chartered the St. Andrew's Lodge, Boston, and in 1769 the same Grand Lodge, during the Grand Mastership of the Earl of Dalhousie, issued a Commission to Bro. Joseph Warren, as Prov. Grand Master for Boston and one hundred miles round. Bro. Warren was slain at the Battle of Bunker's Hill, in 1775, and his commission died with him. In 1776 informal meetings of the Craft ("Ancients") were held. On 17th February 1777 the P. G. Lodge met, under the presidency of Bro. Joseph Webb, Deputy Grand Master, and it was agreed to take the necessary steps to organise an independent Grand Lodge. This was done on 8th March following, Bro. Webb being chosen to fill the office of Grand Master; and this was the event which our Massachusetts brethren assembled to commemorate on the 8th March of this year.

The meeting was worthy of the occasion. Bro. P. Lowell Everett, Grand Master, presided. The Grand Officers, Present and Past, mustered in strong force, and there were, in addition, about two hundred brethren from various parts of the jurisdiction present, together with representatives from the following Grand Lodges, namely:—the Grand Masters of New Hampshire and Connecticut, the Grand Master and a Past Grand Master of Rhode Island, the Grand Master, a Past Grand Master, and Grand Secretary of Vermont. Grand Lodge having been opened in ample form with the customary preliminaries, the Grand Master delivered an excellent, though brief, address, in the course of which he touched on the leading events in the history of Freemasonry in Massachusetts; after which, Past Grand Master C. Levi Woodbury, in obedience to the Grand Master's summons, delivered a long and, for the most part, admirably conceived résumé on the same subject. Bro. Woodbury having mentioned the events we have already chronicled above, proceeded to show how, after the declaration of Masonic Independence, the new Grand Lodge took steps to clear away the doubts which appear to have existed as to the legality of its constitution, and also how, in due time, steps were taken to bring about a union between it and the older, or St. John's Grand Lodge, which had its origin in 1733, under Bro. Price, but had not met together during the war or for a few years subsequently. This union was happily effected in 1792, thus anticipating, by thirteen years, that still more important union of the rival ancients and moderns, which did not take place in England till 1813. Bro. Woodbury further details the different steps which were taken for the establishment of a Supreme Grand Lodge for the whole of the United States. He points out, also, how in the course of time other Grand Lodges, such as those of Connecticut, Maine and Rhode Island, sprang into being. Indeed, Bro. Woodbury's historical sketch is a most exhaustive one, and—save in one particular, of which hereafter—most favourably impresses the reader with the idea that his task was undertaken as one of labour, and that to no one could it have been more safely entrusted. At the banquet which followed, Bro. Past Grand Master Nickerson very ably fulfilled the duties of toastmaster, and the speeches which were made in response to his various calls, breathed the true spirit of Freemasonry.

Appended to Bro. Woodbury's sketch is a mass of documents illustrating the progress of the Craft, not in Massachusetts only, but in other jurisdictions likewise. There are also included in the Proceedings a number of letters from officers of those Grand Lodges which were unable to accept the invitation to be present at the gathering. All these latter are written in the heartiest style of congratulation. There is but one point in the address to which, as we have said, any exception can be taken, and we doubt not, if Bro. Woodbury should happen to read our friendly criticism, coming as it does from a perfectly impartial source, he will say there is in it some validity. We fully recognise the patriotism of our American brethren of the War of Independence. We admire the loyalty they displayed in defence of their liberties. We understand the spirit which animated Bro. Joseph Warren and other of his compatriots who were members of the Masonic body. But we think that, as far as possible, the political and the Masonic should be dissociated. We do not like, for instance, at p. 16, to see any connection between the Provincial Grand Lodge meeting at the Green Dragon Tavern, and the Tavern as the head-quarters of the Revolution, or any mention of the St. Andrew's not holding its regular meeting on a particular evening in consequence of its member "having business with the consignees of foreign tea." Equally obnoxious to good taste, in our judgment, is it to speak of the brethren of Lodge St. Andrew being "busy preparing the tea with salt water." History has fully justified the political acts of the American patriots, and therefore it would be supremely ridiculous in us to presume to question them a century after they occurred. But these acts they did as citizens—not as Masons. It would have been in better taste had he praised these worthy fellows for their patriotism, without connecting their political with their Masonic labours, especially as there were very many equally worthy Colonial brethren who took a different view of their political duty, and remained loyal to the King's Government. No doubt Bro. Woodbury only intended to record the events of that stirring period, and to show what fine patriotic fellows the brethren then were. We do not dispute this for one moment. We think he might have paid the same tribute to their memory as patriots, if he had not made it seem as though they were prompted to do what they did as citizens by the teachings of Freemasonry. Save in this particular, we commend Bro. Woodbury's historical effort unreservedly, and we take this opportunity of offering our Massachusetts brethren generally our heartiest congratulations on the success of their Centennial Masonic celebration.

THE KEMEYS TYNTE PRECEPTORY, K.T.

THE Installation Meeting of this Preceptory took place at the Masonic Hall, 33 Golden-square, W., on Friday, the 18th inst. V.E. Sir Knt. Lieut.-Colonel H. S. Somerville Burney, P.P. Prior of Essex, as E.P. There were present—Major Shadwell H. Clerke Grand Sub-Prior, Major-General Henry Clerk F.R.S., R.A., P.E.P., P.P. Prior of Kent, Captain N. G. Philips, P. Prior of Suffolk and Cambridge, Hugh D. Sandeman, P.P. Prior of Bengal, Captain Portlock Dadson R.B.G., P.E.P., P.D.P. of Kent, Treasurer, Colonel C. W. Randolph, late of Grenadier Guards, as Constable, James Lewis Thomas F.R.G.S. as Marshal, the Rev. P. M. Holden as Chaplain, Thomas Harrison P.E.P. as Registrar, Peter Laird P.E.P. as Almoner, John T. Gibson, Captain C. F. Compton, Captain Adolphus Nicols P.E.P., S. Graham Bake, Captain Henry S. Andrews, Edwin M. Lott, and Captain Francis Pavy R.B.G. Also as Visitors—Sir Knights Dr. R. J. Nunn, of the Palestine Encampment, Georgia, the Hon. R. W. H. Giddy P.E.P., Diamond of the Desert, South Africa, and Charles S. Jekyll as Organist.

A resolution was entered on the minutes, expressing the deep sorrow of the members at the sudden death of the Great Prior of England and Wales, the Right Hon. the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, who had honoured the Preceptory by his presence at the last meeting. A communication was read from Convent General, ordering mourning to be worn for the next six months. Companions Major F. J. Ricarde-Seaver, Captain Francis Pavy, Captain William Arthur Hicks, Edwin Matthew Lott, and Captain Kilner A. A. Brasier-Creagh, were ballotted for and approved, together with Companions the Right Hon. Lord Henniker and Sir T. Douglas Forsyth C.B., K.C.S.I., and Companions Captain Pavy and E. M. Lott being in attendance, were duly installed as Knights Templar, and proclaimed accordingly. Companions Lieut.-Colonel Bonsfield M.P. and Captain W. M. A. Barnes were proposed as candidates for ballot at the next meeting. The Treasurer's report was submitted by the Audit Committee, showing a balance in favour of the Preceptory of £66 5s 6d, and on the charity account of £2 17s 3d, after giving donations and subscriptions to the R.M. Benevolent Institution, the R.M. Institutions for Boys and Girls, and other charities. Sir Knt. Captain Adolphus Nicols P.E.P. proposed, and V. E. Sir Knt. Colonel Somerville Burney E.P. seconded the following resolution:—

"That a cordial vote of thanks be tendered to Sir Knight Captain W. F. Portlock Dadson P.E.P., in recognition of his services in having, by his indefatigable zeal, raised the Kemeys Tynte Preceptory to its present very high position, both for strength of arms and the status of the Knights (such vote to be entered on the minutes), and that in addition thereto some appropriate gift or token of our regard, to the value of ten guineas, from the funds of the Preceptory, be also presented to our worthy brother; the Audit Committee being instructed to consult his wishes as to the form of the gift."

This was supported by Sir Knt. Peter Laird P.E.P., and carried nem. con.

Sir Knt. Colonel Randolph was then duly installed, and invested as E. Preceptor for the ensuing year, by Sir Knt. Colonel H. Somerville Burney, and appointed his officers as follow:—

Sir Knt.	J. Lewis Thomas F.R.G.S. as Constable.
"	The Rev. P. M. Holden as Marshal.
"	Captain W. F. Portlock Dadson P.E.P. as Treasurer.
"	Thomas Harrison P.E.P. as Registrar.
"	J. Sandilands Ward as Sub-Marshal.
"	Edwin M. Lott as Organist.
"	Captain C. F. Compton as Master of the Ceremonies.
"	Peter Laird P.E.P. as Almoner.
"	Captain R. F. Leeson as Captain of the Guards.
"	John T. Gibson as 1st Standard Bearer.
"	W. H. Kempster M.D. as 2nd Standard Bearer.
"	Captain H. S. Andrews as 1st Herald.
"	Captain W. S. Gilbert as 2nd Herald.
Frater	George Austin as Equerry.

The Preceptory was then closed in solemn form and with prayer. The members appeared in mourning, and the annual banquet was postponed in consequence of the death of the Great Prior.

The following interesting account of the family of Tynte was given by the P.E.P., Colonel Burney. Of the surname of this family, tradition (says Burke) has handed down the following derivation:—

"In 1192, at the celebrated battle of Ascalon, a young knight of the noble house of Arundel, clad all in white, with his horse's housings of the same colour, so gallantly distinguished himself, that Richard Cœur de Lion remarked publicly after the victory that the maiden knight had borne himself as a lion and done deeds equal to those of six crusaders. The King then rewarded him for his prowess, conferring on him for Arms; a lion argent on a field gules between six crosslets of the first, and for motto 'Tinctus cruore Saraceni.'"

The Palestine Chapter Rose Croix met at the Masonic Hall, 33 Golden-square W., on Tuesday, 22nd inst. Ill. Bro. Charles Hammerton 30°, M.W. Sov. Bros. F. G. Bailey and the Rev. W. S. Moses M.A. were duly perfected in the 18°.

The Installation Meeting of the Bayard Lodge 1615 will be held at the Masonic Hall, 33 Golden-square W., on Monday, 28th inst., at 4 p.m. W. Bro. Lieut.-Colonel Somerville Burney P.G.D. of Essex W.M. Bro. Captain R. P. Leeson W.M. elect.

The Albion Chapter Rose Croix will meet at the Southdown Hotel, Eastbourne, on Friday, 8th June, at 5 p.m., for the reception of candidates, and election of the M.W.S. and Treasurer for the ensuing year. Ill. Bro. Thomas Lane, 30° M.W.S.

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF NORTH AND EAST YORKSHIRE.

ON Wednesday the annual communication of this Chapter of Royal Arch Masons was held at Malton, under the banner of the King Edwin Chapter, No. 660. The Companions, who were assembled in considerable numbers from all parts of the Province, mustered in the large Assembly Room, and the Grand Chapter entered in procession, E. Comp. J. P. Bell M.E. Prov. Grand Superintendent being supported by E. Comp. George Marwood P.P.G. Supt., and many other past and present members of the Prov. Grand Chapter. After the completion of the formal business, the M.E. Prov. G. Supt. gave a very interesting address on the subject of the recent valuable discoveries made under the auspices of the Palestine Exploration Society, by Comp. Lieut. Warren, and exhibited a number of valuable photographs of the foundation stones of the temple of Solomon. The subject of the Masonic Educational Charities was discussed at some length, E. Comp. J. W. Woodall P.Z. advocating the importance of primary education being carried on under home influences as preparatory to the final removal of the children to the Boys' and Girls' Schools. The M.E. Prov.G. Supt. appointed his officers for the year as follow:—Comps. Handyside, Dundas 543, Prov. G.H., A. Fraser, Old Globe 200, Prov. G.J., M. C. Peck Prov. G.S.E., J. West Prov. G.S.N., C. H. Priestley, King Edwin 660, Prov. G.S., Thompson, Hull, First A. Soj., Chas. Johnson Second A. Soj., Thos. Smurthwaite, Zetland 236, Prov. G.R., G. H. Walshaw, Old Globe 200, Prov. G. Standard Bearer, Hunt, Hull, Prov. G. Organist, J. Ward, Zetland 236, I. Jan., Crier, Hull O. Jan. E. Comp. R. W. Hollon P.Z. was re-elected Prov. G. Treasurer, by acclamation. A banquet was subsequently served at the Talbot Hotel, at which the M.E. Prov. G. Supt. presided, supported by about forty companions.

PSEUDO-MASONIC JOKES.

AN amusing story is told in a recent number of the Hebrew Leader. A countryman was wandering about Paris during a republican fête, gazing at the various attractions of that lively capital, but frequently puzzled at what he saw. Finding a respectable young fellow close by him, he asked several questions, and was very civilly answered. At length, the young man remarking to his companion that the latter was evidently a stranger, offered to do the hospitality of the city, and suggested they should attend a somnambulist séance at the house of Alexander Dumas. The countryman was delighted. They set out for the purpose, and the young man entered the Porter's Lodge, but came out again in a few minutes, and said the séance was put off for a day. He suggested, therefore, a dinner at the Palais Royal, and a visit to the theatre afterwards. They dined accordingly, in very luxurious style, and the wines, which were of excellent quality, began to take effect on the old gentleman. Dessert and more wine followed, when the young man began making a series of signs, in which his fingers and nose played a prominent part. The countryman fancied he was being insulted, and was indignant. "Ah!" said the younger of the two, "I see you are not a Freemason." "Is that the sign of Freemasonry?" asked the old gentleman, and he was told it was "the first sign." He then expressed a wish to be made a Mason, when his companion readily undertook to introduce him, and announced that the Grand Orient was then sitting, so that he could procure his election immediately. The countryman was delighted, and at once submitted to what he was told was the ceremony. He divested himself of his coat and waistcoat, and had his eyes bandaged, and sat down to wait his companion's return. An hour passed, but no one came, and at last the old gentleman was violently seized by the arm, and the bandage was removed. The landlord and three waiters stood before him. "My silver spoons, my silver forks, my clock, my silver candlesticks," cried the landlord. "My coat, my waistcoat, my watch, my money," demanded the old gentleman. An explanation was offered, and the landlord, in spite of his loss, roared with laughter. The two at once got into a coach, and drove to the Prefecture of Police. The story was told, the detectives were set at work, and before the next morning the young man and his booty were captured. The countryman appeared and gave evidence, after which he returned, home, a wiser if not a better man.

A not dissimilar story, even more amusing, but with no felony mixed up with it, is told in Percival Keene, one of the late Captain Marryatt's sea-novels. Keene was fond of practical joking, as our readers may remember. A very soft young gentleman, named Green, joined the ship as midshipman. He had not been long on board before he was almost frightened out of his wits by overhearing the first lieutenant severely wig a fellow "mid." He at once takes Keene into his confidence, and explains his error. Keene tells him that he gets on very well with his superior officer, as they are both Freemasons, and young Green offers him anything if he will only initiate him into the important secret. A bargain is struck, and Green agrees to give his telescope as an equivalent for the information. Keene then tells him that if ever the first lieutenant is angry with him, he is merely to wait till the latter has left off speaking, and then apply the thumb of his right hand to his nose, and distend his fingers. This, he is told, will at first appear to increase the lieutenant's anger, when, waiting as before for the latter to have said his say, he is to apply the thumb of his left hand to the little finger of his right, and distend his fingers, and the lieutenant will be satisfied. A few days later, Green upsets a pannikin of water on the quarter-deck, and is called up for reprimand. He follows out Keene's instructions to the letter, the result being that the first lieutenant orders him to be placed in irons, and young Green is in a fair way to be expelled the service. Keene, however, explains the secret, the lieutenant nearly dies of laughter, and poor Green is liberated. Keene, moreover, very properly offers to return the telescope, but his fellow "mid" will not hear of it, and they are fast friends during the rest of their career together.

THE DUBLIN MASONIC SCHOOLS.

DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES TO THE PUPILS.

THE Annual Festival of Masonic Charity was celebrated on Friday evening, the 18th inst., in the Exhibition Palace, Dublin, with a success alike worthy the cause and the influence of the Order. His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Senior Grand Warden of the Grand Lodge of England, presided. Round him was gathered the cream of the Order and of Irish society. That his Royal Highness has faith in the principles of the Order, and desires initiation into all the arcana, the fact of his advancement beyond the domain of Craft Masonry fully attests. In conjunction with Lord Pelham Clinton, of the Rifle Brigade, he has lately obtained, at the Freemasons' Hall in this city, the Mark Degree, the Royal Arch, and, the other day, he became a Knight Templar. His Royal Highness is now Great Prior Elect for Ireland, and would have been in office ere this but for the sudden death of the Earl of Shrewsbury, who was to have come over specially to instal him. The sight which presented itself to his Royal Highness on Friday must have confirmed his opinion of the power and utility of the Order. Before him was arrayed a fashionable multitude of Freemasons and their lady friends, numbering fully seven thousand. Of the Masons, the number who displayed governors' badges was remarkable, showing to the eye what a wide-spread interest there exists in the cause of charity, and which the figures in the reports likewise testified. During the year the receipts for the Boys' School amounted to £2,375, exceeding those for the previous year by £493, and making, after paying expenses, a total to credit of £8,869. In this School 22 boys are maintained. Of the Girls' School, the account was still more satisfactory. During the year the receipts amounted to £5,315, and the total to credit, after paying expenses, £8,850. Forty-five Girls are maintained. Freemasonry, the ignorant allege, is opposed to religion, social order and the rule of kings! Yet Popes in past days granted the Masons bulls of protection and recommendations, as the precursors of religion and civilisation. Kings and princes of the present day are the chief rulers of the Craft. Its chaplains are, in most instances, eminent divines, one of those of the Irish Grand Lodge being a bishop. For sixty-four years the late Duke of Leinster—clarum et venerabile nomen!—was head of the Order in Ireland. There are those who will remember his Grace's testimony in the House of Lords to its worth, obtaining its exemption from the Illegal Oaths Act. Again, witness the testimony of Ireland's late popular Viceroy, his Grace the Duke of Abercorn, the present Grand Master of Ireland, delivered this time twelvemonths on an occasion similar to the present:—"It gives me most sincere gratification (said his Grace) that my first public appearance in the high position in which I have been placed as Grand Master of the Freemasons of Ireland has been an occasion which so fully exemplifies the leading objects of our great and ancient Order. These objects are unity, benevolence, and charity to all men; and in no way can these great principles be better or more usefully carried out than in contributing, as far as lies in our power, to the education and instruction of our rising generation in such a way as, by God's providence, may serve to render them both sincere and good Christians, and also useful members of the universal brotherhood of mankind." On that same brilliant occasion, another speaker, Col. Ffolliott, who is remarkable both for his piety and loyalty, testified that the Charity in whose cause they had met was "the noblest example of Masonry, in which everything was carried out in the exercise of practical Christian feelings and principles." Few there are, whatever they may think of Masonry, who will not regret that the cause of the absence of the Duke of Abercorn from this ceremonial is the continued indisposition of the Duchess. It may not be amiss to mention here that the present Viceroy, his Grace the Duke of Marlborough, is also a brother of the mystic tie. Apologies for unavoidable absence were received from the Marquis of Headfort S.G.W., the Earl of Bandon G.S., the Most Rev. the Lord Bishop of Meath G. Chap., the Hon. David R. Plunket, Q.C., M.P., S.G.D., the Earl of Huntingdon Prov. G.M. of the Midland Counties, Viscount Powerscourt, K.P., Prov. G.M. of Wicklow and Wexford, the Marquis of Donegall, K.P., Prov. G.M. of Antrim, Lord Harlech Prov. G.M. of North Connaught, and the Right Hon. Edward Gibson, M.P., Attorney-General for Ireland. Both reports, which are given in extenso as read, afford a gratifying account of the state of the Schools during the past year. The children were healthy, and some of them launched into the world to do for themselves. Miss Shegog, whose brilliant execution on the pianoforte at previous gatherings never failed to elicit warm appreciation, has been sent to Germany to finish her education. The girls who remain maintained the credit of the School last night for good musicians, their performance being characterised by accuracy and expression. At present a question of momentous interest to the well-being of the Schools is agitating the governors—no less than that of their amalgamation. It presents two points for consideration—the financial and the moral. Financially, some saving would doubtless be effected in the cost of management, while, on the other hand, many of the brethren who now subscribe £1 to each School, would, in subscribing for both together, probably limit their subscription to £1. Hence, even the financial gain is open to doubt. If that be so, the moral side of the question scarcely merits attention, for none can gainsay that the children are in this respect better off separated from each other, especially as their ages range from seven to sixteen. The difficulties inseparable from the proposed system of amalgamation invest the question on every side with such objections as might well deter the governors from the danger even of an experiment. The experience of other institutions, conducted on the amalgamation plan, is diverse. However, three questions have been submitted to the governors, whose answers, which are to be received on or before the 1st prox., will determine the issue. The questions are:—1st. Are you in favour of the boys and girls being educated in buildings erected on the same site? 2nd. Are you in favour of the Schools being amalgamated financially? 3rd. Are you in favour of the Schools being under the management of a common board? Accompanying the interrogatories is a summary of opinions expressed for and against amalgamation at a meeting of the governors held last February. It is no wonder that the question of amalgamation should have arisen, having regard to the too limited accommodation in the Girls' School, and the fact that the boys have not yet the fabric of a School for themselves.

On the arrival of His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, at 8.30, he was received by the Stewards, the band playing the National Anthem. A procession was then formed, consisting of the Grand Officers, the Provincial Grand Officers, Foreign Representatives, and the officers of the Dublin Lodges, who conducted His Royal Highness from the robing-room to the dais in the Grand Concert Room, through an avenue composed by the brethren; Bro. Charles Grandison playing Gounod's "Marche Romaine" on the organ, and the combined bands of the 3rd Dragoon Guards, under Bro. J. Brophy, and of the 6th Inniskilling Dragoons, under Bro. H. Murray, playing Mendelssohn's march from "Athalie," until the processionists took their places on the dais. Then came the pupils of the Schools, two-and-two, led by Stewards, the hon. Secretaries, Bros. J. F. Elrington, Q.C., Major L. H. Deering, and the Assistant Secretary, Bro. Whitty, and some members of the Committee. The girls were dressed in blue and white, and presented a pleased and happy appearance. They took their places on the front tier of the dais to the left, the boys occupying the right. Led by the Right Worshipful the Rev. John James MacSorley, Grand Chaplain, the 100th Psalm was sung, "With one consent," the ladies joining the brethren in producing a glorious volume of praiseful sound to the Almighty Architect of the Universe.

His Royal Highness wore the collar of the Senior Grand Warden of England, and on his left breast the stars of the Orders of the Garter and St. Patrick.

Dr. Elrington, Q.C., Hon. Secretary, read the Governors' report of the Female Orphan School for the year ending the 31st December 1876:—"The amount received from all sources, including the balance of £825 12s 2d from the former account, and proceeds of sale of stock, amounting to £1,772 17s 8d, was £5,315 12s 3d. The net revenue exceeds that of the previous year by £75 7s 3d. The expenditure, including the purchase of a plot of ground adjoining the Schoolhouse, and £1,000 invested in Railway Securities, amounted to £3,746 10s 3d; leaving at 31st December 1876 a balance of £1,569 2s, out of which £1,046 2s 5d has been invested in India Four per cent. Stock since the commencement of the present year. The increase in the receipts of the School arises principally from the annual subscriptions of individual and official governors, which is a very satisfactory source of increase. This class of subscription exceeds that of last year by £128 3s 6d; while the donations of Life Governors of all classes presents a decrease in the whole of £47 2s, which makes the net increase from donations and subscriptions amount to the sum of £81 1s 6d for the past year. The Governors have to congratulate the friends of the institution upon the fact that they have nothing to report save the usual summary of the number and condition of the pupils. During the year 1876 five of the girls have left the School; four have accepted situations as governesses, and one has obtained employment in a business establishment in Dublin. Four new pupils have been elected into the School during the year; and the total number of girls in the School, including the pupil teacher, is forty-five, a number which can only be accommodated by the expedient of converting one of the class rooms into a dormitory, as mentioned in report for last year. The health of the girls has been very good during the year which has elapsed, and the Governors have once again to express their thankfulness that they are enabled to report so favourably upon the sanitary condition of the School. The Governors have again to report that they have every reason to be satisfied with the conduct and efficiency of those to whom the management of the School and the education of the pupils have been committed, while the condition of the Schoolhouse remains the same, and the inconvenience already more than once pointed out, owing to temporary arrangements for first-class work and the accommodation of the girls, still continues to interfere with the efficient working of the School. The Governors trust that some plan may be shortly agreed upon which will relieve the Institution of these inconveniences. They feel that the blessings which they acknowledge with gratitude as having been hitherto abundantly bestowed upon their labour should encourage all those interested in the Masonic Orphan School to make the Schoolhouse and its arrangements more fitted for the requirements of modern education than it is; and as the School is generously supported, so should the sphere of its usefulness be extended, so as to make the Institution more worthy of the support which the brethren have so long and freely given to it, and more capable of affording relief to the class for whom it is designed."

The following Report of the Boys' School was next read:—

"The Committee of the Masonic Orphan Boys' School beg to present their ninth annual report to the Governors of the Institution, and annex hereto the usual audited statement of accounts for the year 1876, from which it will be gratifying to observe that, during the year, the total receipts from all sources exceeded those for the year 1875 by the sum of £493 19s 5d. During the same period—the year 1876—six boys left the School, viz.:—George Macartney, Alexander Semple, Despard Humphreys, John Sayers, Richard Watson, and James Frazer. George Macartney is at present engaged in an establishment with the view of adopting the medical profession; Alexander Semple has obtained the position of first-class clerk in the London and North Western Railway; John Sayers that of clerk in the office of the Great Northern Railway of Ireland; Despard Humphreys has joined his mother, who is at present residing in Germany, with a view of furthering his educational studies; James Frazer, who only left the School at the commencement of the Christmas vacation 1876, is preparing for the examination for entrance at the Royal College of Surgeons, but neither he nor Richard Watson, who left at the same time, have as yet obtained any situations. The number of boys at present maintained in the Institution is twenty-one; and they are still in the establishment of Brother the Rev. S. S. Skeen, at Merrion. The Committee continue to have special examinations of the boys at Midsummer and at Christmas; and they are happy to be able to state that the several examiners generally reported favourably on the results of the examinations. The Committee cannot close their report without again urging the brethren in the country to come forward and support the Institution more liberally than they have hitherto done, and thus enable the Committee to extend the benefits of the School, and to provide for a larger number of the orphans of their deceased brethren."

The Right Worshipful R. W. Shekleton, Q.C., Dep. G.M.—I ask the brethren to assist me in saluting the patron of the Order, represented by the Senior Grand Warden of England, His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught.

The salute was given according to ancient custom.

Bro. Shekleton—I have been directed by the M.W. Grand Master, his Grace the Duke of Abercorn, to express his deep regret that he is not able to be present. He is absent in the south of Europe, and but for that he would have been at the annual distribution of prizes to the children of the Masonic School, in which he takes a deep and warm interest. (Applause.) I desire on behalf of the Order at large to return our thanks to the fairer portion of the audience for their kindness in attending here to-night. (Applause.) It is a great satisfaction to us that they have not been deterred from venturing amongst Masons by certain pictures which were exhibited recently in reference to Masonry. (Laughter.) I am sure our lady friends do not consider that we Masons in Ireland, or Masons in any country, would participate in those barbarous and cruel atrocities which are portrayed in those pictures to which I refer. (Applause.) I can assure you those pictures and these facts are as unfounded as their anatomy is at fault. In these pictures they represent Masons as having their hearts at the right side. Now, I can assure you Masons' hearts are at the left side, but though at the left side, they are in the right place. (Applause.)

His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught on coming forward to propose the first resolution was received with enthusiastic applause. He said,—Most Worshipful Grand Master, my Lords, Ladies and Brethren, I have the pleasure to propose "That the report now read be circulated, and that the thanks of this meeting are due to the members of the several committees of the Institution, and also to the medical officers of the School, for the zealous and efficient manner in which they have discharged the duties devolving upon them, and for the lively interest they manifest in everything conducive to the prosperity and progress of the pupils of the Masonic Female Orphan School." I hope I may be allowed, Sir, this opportunity of expressing to every one here present the great pleasure I feel in being present on this interesting occasion. As Grand Officer of the Grand Lodge of England, this pleasure is very much enhanced by my being enabled to express to you the deep sympathy and interest taken by our fellow Craftsmen in England with their brethren in this country. (Applause.) I have to thank you, Sir, for affording me this opportunity of meeting so large and so influential a number of the Freemasons of Ireland. (Renewed applause.) Charity has ever been the first principle of Freemasonry; and I am sure when we look on this charming array of girls and boys, who show by their appearance, and by what we have just heard, that everything connected with the mind and with the body is cared for, I say when we see this, I am sure you will agree with me we should congratulate those connected with the Institution on the admirable manner in which they carry out this principle. I cannot sit down without expressing my deep regret that the Most Worshipful the Grand Master, his Grace the Duke of Abercorn, should be absent on this occasion. You all know the deep interest he takes in this Institution, and in everything connected with Freemasonry. (Applause).

Judge Townsend, in seconding the resolution, spoke of the flourishing financial condition of the Schools. He remembered the time when the total annual expenses did not amount to as much as one item of the expenses did now. A great deal of this was owing to those who were called governors, but who were really merely subscribers. It could not be expected that the large number of those who were governors would pay any attention to the management of the School, and so it was managed by committees elected from out of these, and he (Judge Townsend) was quite certain every one would agree with him that they had performed their duties well. The appearance presented by the pupils of the School that evening was a sufficient proof that their temporal condition had been well cared for, and the result of the examinations showed how well their education had been looked after. They were a credit to the Institution in which they had been brought up, and to the exertion of the committee who directed the School. (Applause).

The resolution was passed amidst applause.

General Darby Griffith moved the following resolution:—"That whilst acknowledging with gratitude the liberal support and assistance with which the Institution has hitherto been favoured, the Governors would earnestly invite the co-operation of the brethren, in order still further to extend its usefulness." He said that, as representative of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, who always felt the sincerest interest and sympathy with the Freemasons of Ireland, he had very great pleasure in being present on that occasion, and on being called upon to propose a resolution in favour of the noble Institution, in which the interest felt was plainly manifested by the magnificent assemblage that evening. He felt the greater pleasure, and an additional pride, owing to the presence that evening of his Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, who had kindly consented to distribute the prizes to the orphans of their deceased brethren, the pupils of the Female Masonic School, which was a noble example of Christian charity. The report which had been read showed that the financial condition of the School was satisfactory; but the Governors had further efforts in view, and they were deserving of hearty support. (Applause).

The Solicitor-General, who was received with loud applause, seconded the resolution. He said—Most Worshipful Grand Master, Ladies and Brethren—I wish that the choice of the Deputy Grand Master had fallen on some other Brother to second this resolution, for I feel I can make no claim to the honour he has conferred on me, except that I hope I do represent a somewhat old body—namely, those of the youngers of this Institution, who are willing and anxious to do their best to fill the places which time will necessarily render vacant in the ranks above them. The resolution I have to second contains two parts. The first is an expression of thanks; the second is an expression of hope. The thanks are rendered to the brethren who have hitherto assisted the Institution which we are here to-night to help and advocate. The hope is that their brethren of the Order may be stirred to assist and do actual work in aid of so excellent an Institution. With regard to the thanks, I wish it to be distinctly understood that the gratitude conveyed in this resolution is largely leavened by the expectation of favour to come (applause). The annual governors of the Institution will no doubt be willing and anxious to continue the help they have hitherto given, and will, I hope, be prepared to confer on themselves the position of governors for life. The governors for life, I hope, will be willing to renew their annual existence, and continue to act as they have hitherto done. It should however be remembered that the work will be only half done, for we are here to night to advocate and assist the cause of the girls of the Orphan Masonic School only, and when that is perfected, the boys remain behind (hear hear). As to the expression of hope that others will come forward to assist, I think it should be remembered we have strong claims to expect that our appeal will not be made in vain. You have been told, and told truly, that charity is one of the first principles of Masonry. It is not all. I am not here to preach a charity sermon. I am here as a lawyer, and I want to enforce obedience, and I want to enforce the obligations of duty, and to tell the brethren that it is their duty to assist in the work we are endeavouring to remember not in the light of a mere work of charity, but in the performance of a grateful and becoming duty. (Applause.) In doing so they are discharging an obligation first to themselves, for the most selfish amongst us must remember that no one can foresee when the hand of death or misfortune may not be heavily laid; but those who know what the principle and spirit of Masonry is, will be glad to think that it has amongst its brethren an institution which will protect the orphans of its deceased members. But there is a higher duty. Reference has been made here to some amongst the many manifestations of ignorance and prejudice which have from time to time shown themselves outside our city. It is all very well for those high in the Order to come forward and manfully denounce those falsehoods and misstatements; but that is not a sufficient answer. These are our brother's children, and yet we are told that the Masonic brotherhood is a dead form—that we are but the dry bones of some repulsive monster that are here exhibited. I say that this meeting, this magnificent assemblage, is the best answer which can be given to such a calumny as that. (Applause). Still if you wish calumny—if you wish prejudice and falsehood to be overcome, you must bear in mind that you will not overcome it by mere prejudice. (Hear, hear). You must do it by deeds, and what deed can be better than that which is only part of the great work of Masonry that we are here to forward. If it be true we are brothers—if it be true that we are not engaged in a secret dark work, but in a work of charity and brotherly love, then, I say, by our fruit let us be judged. It is a fact as yet unparalleled in the history of the Order that this year the Grand Lodge of England is governed by three brothers, the sons of our Most Gracious Sovereign the Queen. (Loud Applause). May I express some ray of hope, from the manner in which the Freemasons of Ireland receive that announcement, that we may look forward to the time when their visits will not be few and far between, but when the Grand Lodge of Ireland will have some representative of Royalty to whom they may accord a welcome such as that given to his Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught this evening. (Loud applause). I think the little circumstance in which these anticipations are received is a sufficient refutation to the charges made against them of not being obedient to the laws of the Constitution and to the Crown under which we live. (Applause). I repeat that we must show that the love which begins at the throne extends to the poorest brother of our Order, and that when the gate of death opens to some poor brother, his children will be cared for by his surviving brethren. (Applause). This School is doing a good work, but it might do much more. It might become one of the brightest jewels in the Masonic crown if every member present to-night determined to contribute according to his ability to this most deserving Institution, so that they might never see their brother's children want.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

In the intervals between the speeches a selection of music was admirably played by the pupils on the pianoforte.

The following is a list of the prizes awarded:—

The Ffennell Prize, value £3, for the best answerer in Scripture and English, founded by a donation from Lodge No. 248, Roscommon, in memory of Bro. John Ffennell, Past Master of that Lodge. This prize was not awarded in the year 1876, the examination not having been completed at the time of distribution of prizes last year. It is now awarded to Grace Harte, for 1876. Ffennell prize, 1877, Gertrude Gill.

The Astley Prizes, founded in memory of the late Charles D. Astley, Grand Superintendent of Works, consist of two divisions, two prizes being given in each division. First division, English (spelling, reading, writing and arithmetic)—1st prize (£2) Frances Smith, 2nd prize (£1) Grace Harte. Second division, French—1st prize (£1 5s) Gertrude Gill, 2nd prize (15s) Frances Smith.

Good Conduct Medals, presented by Bro. B. Samuel B. Oldham, Deputy Grand Secretary, awarded by the votes of the pupils themselves:—Silver medal, Elizabeth Emily Christian; bronze medal, Florence Hendley.

The Prince of Wales' Tour: A Diary in India; with some account of the Visits of His Royal Highness to the Courts of Greece, Egypt, Spain, and Portugal. By William Howard Russell. With illustrations by Sydney P. Hall, M.A., Artist in the Suite of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. London: Sampson Low, Marston, Searle and Rivington, Crown-buildings, 188 Fleet-street. 1877.

Those of our readers who are desirous of possessing some memorial of our Grand Master's visit to India will find this narrative of the journey, by one of the ablest descriptive writers of the day, a most suitable one. The name of Russell is sufficient guarantee of its merits as a history; it is, for the most part, well illustrated, and it has the further advantage of being excellently printed, and very handsomely bound. It is, indeed, in all respects a worthy memorial of an ever-memorable event in the annals of our Anglo-Indian Empire, and, we feel assured, will be properly appreciated by members of our Society. The Masonic ceremonials which occurred during the Prince's journey were few and far between, and, as they formed but a comparatively insignificant item in the glorious pageant, Mr. Russell has, very properly, bestowed on them only a passing notice, but none among Her Majesty's subjects evinced a deeper or more genuine interest in the tour than the Freemasons. Under these circumstances no apology is needed if we devote a considerable portion of our space to a review of the events recorded in these pages.

In a brief introductory chapter Mr. Russell tells us how the idea of visiting India first suggested itself. The Prince, he mentions, declared, a day or two after his arrival in Bombay, that it had long been the dream of his life to visit India. Lord Canning, the last Governor General of the old régime, under the East India Company, and the first under the new system of government which supplanted it, was the first to suggest the idea to the late Prince Consort, though it is not improbable, as Mr. Russell suggests, that the same idea would have occurred to the Prince Consort even in the absence of any such suggestion. Be this as it may, a number of circumstances intervened to prevent for a long time the realisation of the project. When the government of India was transferred to the Crown, the Prince of Wales was but a youth. For a long time the native princes and chiefs, as well as people, were unable to realise the change. Tranquillity was not immediately restored when the mutiny was put down. Then followed, at intervals, the death of the Prince Consort, and the marriage of the Prince himself, while the additional duties cast upon the latter by the comparative seclusion of his mother necessitated his remaining more at home than otherwise he need have done. Among other events, we may mention his own illness and the assassination of the Earl of Mayo as offering further delays. However, early in 1875, the proposed visit was seriously considered. It was officially announced in the March of that year that, in the event of no unforeseen circumstances occurring, it would take place in the ensuing autumn. In due course, the necessary moneys were voted by the House of Commons, and a programme of the journey drawn up, which it was thought likely would meet the exigencies of the case, and enable the Prince to make as general an acquaintance with the country as the time at his disposal and the season would permit. At length, in the middle of October, His Royal Highness set out from London, and travelling overland as far as Brindisi, found the Serapis and her consorts there, awaiting his arrival; and, with his departure from this port, the diary begins.

A very few pages suffice to put us on the best of terms with the diarist. We may imagine how pleasantly the time passed on board the huge ship as it sped on its way eastwards, bound in the first instance for the Piræus, which the Prince was timed to reach on the 18th, and where he would land on a short visit to his brother-in-law, King George. We read at p. 9, for instance, how the first morning after starting "electric bells begin to tinkle, and various figures, draped after the antique, appear outside the cabins, and hold converse on the main deck, whilst they await their turns for the bath, exchanging ideas about the weather, past, present, and to come, and the sensations which the sea has caused or which it yet menaces. The athletically-disposed take to various strengthening exercises. Dr. Fayrer armed with two mugdahs, or Indian clubs, whirls them round his head with an air of entire resignation and devotion, diligently improving his already very respectable biceps, and Canon Duckworth gives demonstration that he is no bad representative of the school of muscular Christians. Sir Bartle Frere is one of the very early risers, and begins his work before breakfast hour; but, no matter how busy he may be, he never minds any interruption, and is always ready to give information, of which he has such ample stores in most matters, with the greatest cheerfulness." Off Cerigo it became almost dead calm, but "there was a glorious sunset—beautiful exceedingly—a great fire on the western horizon, which cast a purple glow over the sea, and flung a broad hemisphere of saffron, gold, and green into the sky." No wonder that "all the company turned up on deck, and watched the radiance in silence." The day following, and almost to the minute, Athens was in sight, the harbour of the Piræus being crowded with ships of war—British, Greek, Russian, and others, and yachts and small craft of every imaginable description. Then, amid the thunder of salutes, the Serapis made her way carefully along the avenue left for her, but an accident happened at the moment she was about to anchor, which fortunately ended in no more serious consequences than the loss of two anchors. The order was given, "Let go the starboard anchor," and as the cable "snapped at the fourth shackle," the anchor went by the board, and settled at the bottom on its own account. A similar order respecting the port anchor was followed by a similar misadventure, and there seemed a chance that "either the Serapis would crash up the whole flotilla of wooden vessels like so many eggshells, and run aground, or she would be impaled on the spur of one of our own ironclads." By no means a pleasing alternative, but fortunately no such catastrophe occurred, though the Royal Greek yacht, Amphitrite, had a narrow shave of being sent to the bottom. But we will give the words of Mr. Russell himself:—

"Gathering way rapidly, the Serapis came down on the astonished Greeks on board the yacht; but the King of the Hellenes, who is a thorough sailor, saw what was the matter at once, and sent the crew forward to fend off the coming mountain. In a second more, there was a loud crash and snap, as the Serapis avenged the damage done by the yacht's bowsprit to one of her boats by the abrupt removal of that spar, and then continued her career astern. There was speedily a scene of much activity all round us. Off came the Russian's boat with the end of a warp, and landed it cleverly on board the Osborne, which had her steam up, and was manœuvring to help her erratic consort. There was not the smallest confusion, but there was a good deal of excitement on board. In a very short time the warp was made fast on board the Serapis, her way was checked just in time to avoid the danger of fouling, and, forging ahead again, she was brought up to her old ground, and then let go both shore anchors, which held her fast at last."

The scene on landing is very vividly described. After a short trip by rail from this port to the outskirts of the capital, a state procession was formed, and the line of route was pretty well thronged with people, among whom we read there were some who, albeit well-dressed and apparently well-to-do, pointed with a freedom unusual in Western cities. Others were dressed in Greek costume, and others again, with unwashed faces and wearing felt hats of every kind of shape, who were of all nationalities in the world, as may be seen in every crowd which assembles in a Levantine town. There is noticed the extremely modern aspect of the city, and the contrast of the splendid monumental remains of ancient Athens looking proudly down upon the new buildings. There is a lively scene on arriving at the Palace, and when the guests disperse to their rooms for the needful change of raiment, "even Canon Duckworth, whose Greek was of the freshest and best, was at fault when he came to 'hot water' and the like." But we must not dwell too long on the opening scenes of the Prince's Eastern expedition. Suffice it to say that everything passed off most admirably. The regrets when the leave-taking approached were mutual, and the departure of the Serapis and its consorts appears to have been even more brilliant than its arrival. Then follow again descriptions of the life on board the stately vessel, and we are told how the time was passed, now in discussing probable events in the future, now in the enjoyment of private theatricals, or a little negro minstrelsy, the company consisting of members of the ship's crew. Early on the 23rd October, the harbour-light of Port Said was reported in sight, and at 8.30 a.m. the Serapis and Osborne entered the Suez Canal. On mooring off the Custom House Quay, Consul General Stanton, and subsequently the Princes Tewfik, Hussein, and Hassan, attended by several officers of the Khedive's court, came on board to pay their respects to the royal traveller. The Prince then shipped his flag and went up the canal on the Osborne to Ismailia, where he landed and went by rail to Cairo, on a visit to the Khedive, who had set apart the Palace of Gezireh for the Prince's accommodation during his stay. We need not recount the events of the Prince's visit, but the picture of the Khedive himself is worth reproducing. He maintains a state of great magnificence, but this is only for purposes of state, and not from any personal love of splendour, as no one, it seems, is better pleased with a quiet life than Ismail Pasha.

"He is very happy when he can get out of gold-laced coats, put his jewelled scimetar and sash away; slip on his black Stambouliee coat, easy shoes, and sit down with a friend in a quiet corner for a little conversation, which on his side is always original and fresh, and is sustained by the aid of cigarettes, of which his highness keeps a store for himself and his friends in his breast coat pocket. To Europeans he speaks French, to his secretaries and to those who wait on him he generally addresses Turkish, and to the Egyptians he talks in Arabic. His powers of calculation are extraordinary, his conception rapid, his memory acute, and his love of work inexhaustible. He has a fair fund of anecdote, and appreciates a joke most thoroughly, for all his Turkish gravity. As an instance of his sagacity and foresight, it is related that when he returned to Cairo, after his visit to England and France, he expressed the strongest opinion that a war with Prussia was intended, or at least was inevitable, and thathe Emperor, who then seemed at the summit of his splendour and power, was on the verge of a precipice.'"

After a visit to the Pyramids, which were illuminated in honour of the occasion, the Prince took leave of the Khedive, and journeyed by rail to Suez, where the Serapis and Osborne were awaiting him. On the 1st November Aden was in sight, and here he landed, and received the Arab chiefs, who were allies of England, the principal among them, namely, the Sultan of Lahej, being decorated at the hands of his Royal Highness himself. Having returned on board, the Prince entertained the Resident and the principal officers of his staff, after which he continued his voyage to Bombay, which was reached early on the morning of the 8th November. The scene as the Serapis drew near the harbour was grand in the extreme, and is thus described:—

"At eight a.m., the ships of the East India squadron, under his Excellency Rear Admiral R. J. Macdonald (Commander-in-Chief), viz., Undaunted (flag), Briton, Daphne, Philomel, and Nimble, as well as the harbour ironclad turret ships Abyssinia and Magdala, and the ships of the flying, or detached squadron, under Rear-Admiral Rowley Lambert, Narcissus (flag), Raleigh, Topaze, Doris, and Newcastle, dressed and fired a salute, with magnificent effect, though the Serapis was rather too far at the time. They lay in echelon in two lines, the Indian Squadron on the port, and the Detached Squadron on the starboard side of the grand sea alley through which the Serapis was to pass. Behind the Light House, which rises out of the sea like one of the huge painted candles to be seen in foreign churches, there lay spread out, when the smoke rolled away, the fair panorama of the Bay, fenced in by the blue Ghauts, with the fleet in front, and enclosing in its arms the great expanse of buildings, steeples, and houses, which give some impression of the importance of the city of Bombay; but the scene was once more shut out by the rolling cloud of smoke from the broadsides and forts, which drifted slowly away before the land breeze northward. It was just nine o'clock when the Serapis, the Prince's stately yacht, entered between the lines of the men-of-war, the marines drawn up and presenting arms, officers in full uniform with uncovered heads, and the crews on the yards cheering ship after ship. The fleet then fired another salute, the bands on board each ship playing 'God Save the Queen' and 'God Bless the Prince of Wales.' The spectacle is not one to be described. There might be naval displays with more lively backgrounds, greater life and animation in flying yachts and countless boats and steamers crowded with people and gay with flags elsewhere; but where, out of India, could be seen such a stretch of coast fringed with tropical vegetation, and lighted by such a sun?"

Of course, all the arrangements had been made beforehand, not without some difficulty, however, so that when the Serapis came to her moorings all was ready for the Prince's landing. But, first of all, the Viceroy had to pay his visit of welcome, and this did not take place till some six hours later. In the meantime, however, members of the Viceregal suite came aboard, and also the officers who had been charged with the duty of accompanying His Royal Highness during his journey. With the passage describing these four gentlemen, we must bring our notice to a close, for the present. The four "were Major-General Sam Browne, V.C., Major Ben. Williams, Major Bradford, and Major Sartorius V.C. The first-named officer was charged with all the transport arrangements, trains, carriages, baggage, and the like. The second was entrusted, with the care of the stud-horses, syces, &c. The third had, perhaps, the most difficult and arduous post, for he had to look after the safety of the Prince's person, and to act as the head of the police. The fourth had the control of the tents and valetaille, and service of the Royal Camps. Among these four officers there were two Victoria Crosses, and only six arms, for 'Sam' Browne had lost one of his in an action near the Rohilcund Terai, near the end of the mutiny, and Major Bradford had to suffer the loss of one by amputation, in consequence of injuries received from a wounded tiger. There are few men whose four hands could do as much work as these gallant soldiers managed with only two."

Cook's Tourists' Handbook for Holland, Belgium, and the Rhine. Entirely New Edition. London: Thomas Cook and Son, Ludgate Circus, E.C.; and Simpkin, Marshall and Co.

In another month or two people will begin to ask themselves the question—Where shall we spend our holiday? and no doubt a considerable number will elect to visit the Continent in preference to roaming about in some of our own counties. Belgium and the Rhine are favourite resorts for the English tourist, while Holland, albeit only a few find their way thither, is a country which will repay the traveller to cross the German Ocean in order to visit its quaint old cities and towns. But a traveller hardly stands a fair chance of enjoying himself in a foreign country who does not provide himself beforehand with some description of guide book. It is in order to meet this requirement that Messrs. T. Cook and Son are now publishing a series of Tourist Handbooks, and the latest of these is before us. We need not say much as to its general character, for all these handbooks are compiled on the same principle of giving, in as moderate a space as possible, the greatest amount of needful information. In this instance a long series of itineraries is given, embracing all the cities and towns of importance. Under each city and town are mentioned all the most interesting sights—the churches, the libraries and museums, the picture galleries, old buildings, public monuments, and the like. In the case of cities like Amsterdam, Haarlem, the Hague, &c., short histories are likewise furnished; while, in every instance, particulars are to be found as to hotels, railways, steamers, cabs, commissionaires, money, &c., &c. All, in fact, is included which the traveller is ever likely to want in the way of information, and a great deal besides which is interesting without being absolutely necessary. We advise our readers who may think of visiting Holland, Belgium, and the Rhine this season, to purchase this Tourists' Handbook. They will find it invaluable.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their b ographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Bonfshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Keles Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire.—Pigaro.

"The inquiring Brother who may wish to know something of the strength and beauty of the principles of Masonry, will find a pleasure in scanning the characteristic pictures in this book."—The Brighouse News.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,' whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentay to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Queen left Windsor Castle for Balmoral on Friday evening, reaching her Highland residence in the course of the following afternoon. The Princess Beatrice, Prince Leopold, and Princes Albert Victor and George of Wales are with her. The Duchess of Edinburgh accompanied Her Majesty as far as the Great Western Railway Station, and then left for Buckingham Palace, where she stayed some days. The Princess of Wales will shortly quit Athens, where she has been visiting her brother, King George, and is expected back in London about the 2nd prox. The Duke of Edinburgh, during the brief stay of our fleet off the Suez Canal, paid a flying visit to the Khedive, by whom he was very cordially received. The Prince of Wales arrived at Portsmouth on Tuesday evening, on a visit to Sir Hastings Doyle, commanding the Southern District. A number of guests had been invited to meet His Royal Highness, among whom were Captain the Hon. Carr Glyn, C.B., R.N., Major Russell, Colonel Lord W. Seymour, Commander Lord C. Beresford, and the Duke of Montrose. The visit was as strictly private as possible, so that there were no decorations, crowds or addresses. On Wednesday morning, His Royal Highness, wearing the uniform of a Captain of the Royal Naval Reserve, accompanied by his host, Major Russell, and Captain Glyn, drove to the Dockyard, where the Admiral Commander-in-Chief, the Vice-Admiral in command of the Channel Squadron, and the Rear-Admiral Superintendent of the Dockyard were in waiting to receive him. A guard of honour of Marines and Marine Artillery were drawn up, and received him with a Royal salute. The Prince shortly after embarked on Admiral Elliot's barge, for the purpose of inspecting the vessels of the Channel Squadron. He first went on board the monster turret ship the Thunderer, over which he was conducted by Captain Wilson and Commander Lord C. Beresford. The crew were exercised at turret and torpedo drill, and the practice under the new system in the fore turret, containing two 38-ton guns, proved a special attraction for the Prince, who highly praised the men for their smartness. He then went on board the Lightning, torpedo vessel, which can steam at the rate of over 18½ knots an hour. He then landed again at the Dockyard and inspected the Inflexible, now in course of building, only one-fourth of her yet remaining to be completed. This monster turret ship is intended to carry four 80-ton guns. The Dreadnought was then visited, and he then returned and went on board Vice-Admiral Seymour's flagship, the Minotaur. Here he was entertained at luncheon, after which he witnessed a series of torpedo experiments. He then went on board the Vernon, and saw further torpedo experiments, in which gun-cotton was used, and then visited the Vesuvius, on board which Captain Morgan explained to the Prince some of the torpedoes and torpedo gear with which his craft is supplied, a fish torpedo being exploded for purposes of illustration. He then returned to Sir Hastings Doyle's residence, and afterwards dined on board the Thunderer. The Duke of Connaught on Friday last presided at the annual distribution of prizes to the pupils of the Masonic Female Orphan School, Dublin, and the Boys' School in connection with it. The gathering was held in the Exhibition Palace, and the attendance of Craftsmen and ladies was very numerous and very enthusiastic. Everything passed off admirably.

The Holiday folk were not highly favoured in the matter of weather. In less than a month we shall have reached Midsummer Day, but as yet we seem hardly to have had any spring. Of course, these eccentricities of the meteorological department are not to be explained by any known law of philosophy, nor is it our special province to concern ourselves about them. Our business is to record facts, and we have stated a fact, namely, that this Whitsuntide, the Clerk of the Weather was far from being gracious towards our holiday folk. Saturday last, for instance, was a magnificent day for ducks, but as a wag once remarked, it is necessary to be a duck to appreciate such weather. Sunday was delightfully cold and chilly, though there was nothing to speak of in the way of rain. Monday was dry over head, if not under foot, and thousands of pleasure-seekers went abroad for the purpose of enjoying themselves. Whether they found the pleasure they were in search of is a question not easily solved. We have no great faith in an hour's "squeedge" at a railway station, followed by an hour's journey in stuffy and overcrowded railway carriages as a corrective for people who are supposed to have been working hard since Eastertide. This "squeedge" and travel are of course repeated towards the end of the day's excursion, and, as a rule, we have found that people who thus spend their holidays are unfitted for business for several days, owing to the fatigues they have undergone in their quest for enjoyment. We are churlish enough to think that these public holidays are a great nuisance. They are a serious interruption to business, for nine out of every ten persons abuse instead of using them. No one appreciates a rest from labour more than we do. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," but the play in which English folk indulge is more fatiguing than the hardest work. However, every man to his taste. Londoners made the best of their Bank Holiday under trying circumstances. Nearly sixty thousand people visited the Crystal Palace, where, as usual, a special programme was provided. There were nine military bands engaged, and these, it is almost needless to say, proved a great attraction. Then Mr. Coward performed on the great organ, and there was a children's pantomime, familiar enough to habitués of the Adelphi, but not so to frequenters of the Palace at Sydenham. Among the vocalists engaged were Mesdames Patti and Lemmens-Sherrington, and Messrs. Edward Lloyd, Patey and Hollins, while Mr. Manns was conductor of the combined military bands. At the Alexandra Palace, now re-opened to the public, some 50,000 people had entered up to 3 p.m., and this number was largely increased later in the day. Every variety of entertainment was provided. There were organ performances, a ballet, the inimitable Mackney, Mr. Howard Paul and his company, a Grand Concert in the large Concert Hall, which was crowded to overflowing, and in addition there were out-door sports for those who prefer witnessing athletic displays. The Zoological Gardens proved a great attraction, now that the new outdoor cages for lions and tigers, &c., have been erected and are in use, the visitors to these grounds being in excess of forty thousand. Among other places of amusement and instruction, the British and South Kensington Museums were crowded during the whole day, and so, too, was the Royal Aquarium, Westminster. Indeed, every place in London had its share of visitors, while the suburban attractions were equally well attended. We believe there are a good many people who have not yet recovered from their recent surfeit of pleasure.

A fatal fire occurred on Monday morning, in the neighbourhood of Charing Cross. About a quarter to four in the morning, a cabman noticed flames in the Charing Cross Restaurant, Villiers-street, Strand, a building four stories in height, and occupied at the time of the outbreak by a M. Calangue, who had staying with him some five and twenty persons, servants and others. The fire-escape men rescued M. Calangue and his wife. Some seventeen others got on to the roof, and thence to that of the next house, the Princess of Wales public-house, and were thus rescued. At the rear of the premises, which extended into Buckingham-street, two men jumped from one of the second floor windows, and were so terribly injured that they were conveyed to Charing Cross Hospital, where they lie in a critical state. The others, however, were saved, all but a cook, whose body was found by the firemen so terribly burnt that identification was well nigh impossible. The cause of the fire has not been ascertained, but the premises are said to have been insured. Only the front and back walls remain.

News was received at Bristol on Sunday that a terrible explosion occurred in mid Atlantic on board the Anchor Line Steamer Sidonian, by which seven men lost their lives. An accident had occurred to her engines, and they had been stopped in order that a pin might be repaired, when the boilers burst, and the captain, who was superintending the repairs, three engineers, two firemen, and a trimmer were so seriously injured that they all died in the course of twenty-four hours, the cook being also seriously hurt. Fortunately, no material damage was done to the sides or bottom of the vessel, and the chief officer decided to make for his port under sail, though assistance was offered by the Cunard Steamer China. The Sidonian reached King's Road on Sunday morning, and went up the river to Bristol, a day or two later.

The Wagner Festival came to an end on Saturday last, but there will be further opportunities for the British public to hear and judge of the music of the future, as two concerts have been arranged for next week, one on Monday afternoon at 3 p.m., and the other the day following at 8 p.m. They will be given in the Royal Albert Hall, and the prices of admission will be reduced. Several other concerts have been given, while among those that have yet to come, must be mentioned one for the benefit of the Royal Cambridge Asylum for Soldiers' Widows, to be held this afternoon, at the Royal Albert Hall, under the patronage of the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Princesses Christian and Louise, the Duchesses of Edinburgh and Cambridge, the Princess Mary Duchess of Teck, and several members of the nobility and gentry. Nine military bands and 80 drummers of the Guards will take part in it. The same day in St. James's Hall will be held the third concert of the Royal Albert Hall Amateur Orchestral Society, of which the Duke of Edinburgh is President, in aid of the funds of the Shipwrecked Mariners' Royal Benevolent Society. A series of three grand Opera Concerts has also been arranged at the Royal Aquarium, Westminster, to come off to-day, next Saturday, and the Saturday following.

The excitement in Paris over the dismissal of M. Jules Simon is very great. The event is now described as a coup d'état, and people are naturally speculating as to what will be the upshot of it all. The Duc de Brogli is the new minister, and the chamber has been prorogued for a month, but in spite of changes of prefects and the customary arrangements for securing a majority for the conservative party, there is reason to fear that some unpleasant consequences may follow. No doubt the President, with the army at his back, is strong enough to repress any outbreak, but so he would have been, it is argued, had there been no dismissal at all. Some consider he has made a great mistake in acting as he has done, and that it would have been better to have given the party of M. Simon, M. Gambetta, and others as much rope as they needed. The idea spread abroad that France contemplates a change in her foreign policy is not held to be worth much, especially as the Duke Decazes still retains his portfolio as Foreign Minister. There need be no alarm of France attacking Germany or Italy, though it may suit some folk to say so.

The news from the two seats of war hardly keeps pace with the impatience of the public, who, many say, are sadly disappointed because there have not been already some half-dozen sanguinary battles. However, the Russians have gained an important success by the capture of Ardahan, for this will open for them another road by which they may approach and complete the investment of Kars. More, it is believed, has been made of this victory than the case warrants, for Ardahan was not in a position to offer any serious or protracted defence, as its walls and earthworks were out of repair, and the force stationed there was greatly outnumbered by the Russians. This does not, however, alter the fact that the Czar's troops have gained possession of an important place. There is no doubt either that the Turks, by the capture of Soukoumkaleh, are seriously disturbing the communications of their enemy, and that the Circassians are likely to rise and cause some trouble. On the Danube there have been no military movements of importance. The Russians are still concentrating their forces, but the weather is very unfavourable. The river has risen, and the distance to be traversed is considerable. But if there is nothing in the way of war news, the political events of the last few days are of some importance. Roumania has thrown off her allegiance to the Porte, and declared herself independent, and Servia is believed to be contemplating a renewal of the war. What effect these events will have it is premature to determine; but an opinion very widely prevails that Austro-

Hungary may possibly become involved in the war at no distant date. As regards the relations between Russia and this country they remain the same, but our Government are keeping a strict outlook, and Malta, Gibraltar, and other places are having their defences strengthened, and the Channel fleet will rendezvous off Plymouth to-day. Let us hope that these preparations to meet all eventualities may be the utmost limit of our undertakings.

The second meeting of the Board of Stewards for the Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys was held at Freemasons' Hall, on the 17th instant. Bro. T. Meggy, acting Vice-President, presided. The Report of the Sub-Committee appointed to look after the musical arrangements was submitted. The Sub-Committee recommended that the tender of Bro. Louis Emanuel be accepted, and it was accepted accordingly. By this arrangement the following artistes will appear, namely, Mdlles. Pattie Laverne and Sinclair, Mesdames Poole and Capponi, and Messrs. T. G. Carter, Theodore Distin, Weigl, and Burton McGucken, together with Herr Van Biene as solo violoncellist. The Special Stewards were appointed, and the next meeting arranged for the 18th proximo. There were present Bros. C. F. Matier, Rosenthal, S. Barton Wilson, John Seex, F. Newton, J. Tanner, Captain Wordsworth, G. Phythian, T. W. Murley, and J. D. Massey.

At the annual meeting of the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, on Friday last, a letter was read from Bro. Francis Knollys, private Secretary to the Prince of Wales, announcing that His Royal Highness approved of the next Festival of the Institution being held on the 13th February 1878.

The ceremonies of consecration and installation will be worked by Bro. Jas. Terry P.G.D.C. Herts., P.M. 228, 1278, 1366, and Secretary Masonic Benevolent Institution, at the New Concord Lodge of Instruction, Rosemary Branch Tavern, Hoxton, on Wednesday next, May 30th, at 7 p.m. Brethren are to appear in Masonic clothing.

The installation ceremony will also be worked at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on Tuesday evening next, at 7.

The Masonic Review announces that the two branches of the Order of the Red Cross of Constantine now existing in the United States have come to a partial settlement of their differences, and that there is every probability they will be blended into one body in the course of next month. We learn, from the same source, that the Grand R.A. Chapter of Maryland has thirteen subordinate Chapters, with an aggregate membership of 1,304. Illinois has fifty-one Commanderies, with 8,664 members. We are further informed that William Astor, the well-known New York millionaire, while sojourning in Florida, for the benefit of his health, has joined King Solomon's Lodge at Jacksonville in that State.

We read in the Masonic Record of Western India for last month that a Quarterly Communication of the District Grand Lodge of Bengal was held on the 27th December last, at Freemasons' Hall, Bentinck-street, Calcutta. Bro. J. B. Knight, D. Dist. G.M. presided as Dist. G.M., and there was a numerous attendance of Dist. G. Officers and representatives of Lodges. After an address from the acting D.G.M., and the transaction of certain usual business, the names of the officers for the ensuing year were announced, and Bros. W. H. Fitze, A. Le Franc, and G. Alexander were re-elected Dist. G. Treasurer, Custodian of the Hall, and Tyler respectively. The roll of officers is now as follows:—Bro. J. B. Knight D.D.G.M. acting as Dist. G.M.; Bros. T. Jones and T. J. Whilly, Dist. S.G.W. and J.G.W. respectively; Bro. Rev. W. B. Drawbridge, D.G. Chaplain; Bro. W. H. Fitze, D.G. Treasurer; Bro. G. C. Farr, D.G. Secretary; Bros. J. H. Turner and J. H. E. Beer, Dist. S. and J.G. Deacons respectively, Bro. C. F. Egerton Allen D.G.D. of C., and Bro. T. W. Fitch, Dist. Assist. ditto; Bro. Col. G. A. Browne, Dist. G.S.B.; Bro. J. V. Woodward, Dist. G.O.; Bro. H. Friedemann D.G.P.; Bro. H. M. Rustomjee D.G. Standard Bearer; Bro. A. Le Franc, Custodian of Hall; Bros. G. T. Snead, C. F. B. Siddons, E. J. Dean, E. G. Sinclair, Thos. Duke, and E. Perry, D.G. Stewards, and Bro. G. Alexander D.G. Tyler. A letter was read from Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, requesting, on behalf of the Pro Grand Master, to be informed of the name of the brother whom the Lodges are anxious to elect as Dist. G.M. in succession to Bro. J. B. Roberts. Shortly after this the Dist. Grand Lodge was closed.

The Natal Witness, of 3rd April, announces that by the last mail a warrant was received from His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., constituting a new Lodge in that city, under the name of the "Natalia" Lodge, No. 1665. The first Master to be Bro. G. O. Matterson, who last year occupied the Senior Warden's chair in the Prince Alfred's Lodge; the first Senior Warden, Bro. Jesse Smith, who was last year Junior Warden in that Lodge; and the first Junior Warden, Bro. R. I. Finnemore, late Hon. Secretary of the Prince Alfred Lodge. The "Natalia" Lodge, was, they understood, to have been formally consecrated on Wednesday evening, the 4th April.

We learn from the Keystone that the Quarterly Communication of the Grand Holy Royal Arch Chapter of Pennsylvania was held at the Masonic Temple, Philadelphia, on the 3rd instant. M.E. Grand High Priest Comp. Alf. R. Potter presided, and there was a more than usually large attendance on the occasion.

The New York Courier is our authority for stating that according to the latest returns there are 132,675 R.A. Masons in the United States, and of these 18,539 are in the state of New York alone.

Der Freimaurer for the current month contains two interesting biographical sketches—one of the Emperor Francis I., the same who was initiated into Freemasonry in 1731 at an occasional Lodge specially convened for the purpose at the Hague, and the other of Bro. Joseph Haydon, the celebrated composer, who was received into Masonry, in 1785, in the Lodge Zur Wahren Eintracht at Vienna. Of this Lodge he remained a member till the day of his death, on the 31st May 1809.

WE, the Grand Lodge of the most Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons (according to the Old Constitutions granted by His Royal Highness Prince EDWIN, at York, Anno Domini Nine hundred twenty and six, and in the Year of Masonry Four thousand Nine hundred twenty and six) in ample form assembled, viz., The Right Worshipful and Most Noble Prince John, Duke, Marquis and Earl of Atholl, Marquis of Tullibardine, Earl of Strathtay and Strathardle, Viscount of Balquidder, Glenalmond and Glenlyon, Lord Murray, Belveney and Gask, Heritable Captain and Constable of the Castle of Kinoleaven, and Hereditary Keeper of the Palace of Falkland, and that part of Great Britain called England and Masonical jurisdiction thereunto belonging, GRAND MASTER OF MASONS, The Right Worshipful Laurence Dermott, Esquire, Deputy Grand Master, The Right Worshipful Thomas Carter, Esquire, Senior Grand Warden, and the Right Worshipful Robert Davy, Esquire, Junior Grand Warden (with the approbation and consent of the Warrant Lodges held within the Cities and Suburbs of London and Westminster), do hereby authorise and empower our trusty and well-beloved Brethren, viz., The Worshipful Timothy Kelly one of our Master Masons, The Worshipful John Croke his Senior Warden, and the Worshipful George French his Junior Warden, to form and hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons aforesaid, at the Rosemary Branch, in Rosemary Lane, or elsewhere in London, upon the third Tuesday of each Kalendar month, and on all seasonable times and lawful occasions. And in the said Lodge (when duly congregated) to admit and make Free Masons, according to the most Ancient and Honourable Custom of the Royal Craft, in all ages and nations throughout the known world. And we do hereby farther authorise and impower our said trusty and well-beloved Brethren, Timothy Kelly, John Croke and George French (with the consent of the Members of their Lodge), to nominate, chuse, and install their successors, to whom they shall deliver this Warrant, and invest them with their Powers and Dignities as Freemasons, &c. And such successors shall in like manner nominate, chuse, and install their successors, &c., &c., &c. Such installations to be upon (or near) every ST. JOHN'S DAY, during the continuance of this Lodge, for ever. Providing the above named Brethren, and all their successors, always pay due respect to this Right Worshipful Grand Lodge, otherwise this Warrant to be of no Force nor Virtue.

No. 23

Given under our Hands and the Seal of our Grand Lodge in London, this Twenty-third day of June, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred Seventy and Seven, and in the year of Masonry Five Thousand Seven Hundred Seventy and Seven.

JAS. JONES,
Grand Secretary.

NOTE.—This Warrant is Registered in the Grand Lodge, Vol. 1, Letter A. And bears date, 10th October 1753.

Renewed 23rd June 1777.

The present title, No., &c. are, The "United Mariners'" Lodge, No. 30, Great[illegible]-street, London.

GRAND REPRESENTATIVES.

WITH a few exceptions, each of the Masonic Grand Lodges of this country has adopted the system of appointing a Grand Representative near all the other Grand Lodges. As a general rule the representative is a member of the Grand Lodge to which he is accredited, and in most instances at the time of his appointment one of its Grand Officers. The appointing power is given to the Grand Master, who issues credentials to the representative, duly attested by the Grand Secretary and the great seal of the Grand Lodge he is to represent. This document he presents to the Grand Lodge of which he is a member, and he is welcomed as the Grand Representative of the one by which it is issued, and the proceeding is made a matter of record. At each succeeding annual meeting of the Grand Lodge thereafter his name appears on the records as such Grand Representative.

The above gives about all there is in the Grand Representative system. Whatever may have been the design of those who inaugurated it, or how much they may have expected to make the system of practical utility, it has evidently proved a failure. In looking through the printed proceedings of the various Grand Lodges, one will find a score or more of these Grand Representatives reported as present, but he will find nothing submitted by or referred to one of them in that capacity. They perform no duties of any sort and nothing seems to be expected from them. They are not even made the medium of correspondence between the Grand Lodges. Their elaborately prepared credentials, signed, sealed and delivered, amount in reality to so much white paper. The writer knows whereof he speaks, for he is the happy possessor of several of these elegant commissions, gotten up in the most approved style. The Grand Lodges are always very kind and allow the representatives to retain them to exhibit to their friends, or even to display in gilt frames in some conspicuous place, if they so prefer. One of the Grand Lodges he has the honour to represent in the Grand Lodge of Indiana had a grievance against the latter, but his attention was not called to the matter until it was referred to a committee of which he was chairman in the Grand Lodge of which he was a member, and contrary to the decision of the one appointing him a Grand Representative.

If the system can not be used to advantage in cases like the above, there is not much in it to commend itself to the favorable notice of our Grand Lodges. It all sounds well enough and looks fine on paper, and affords an opportunity to bestow a high-sounding title upon those who are so fortunate as to be honoured with an appointment, but if that is all there is to be of it, as a matter of economy it had better be abolished at once and save expenses in printing.—Masonic Advocate.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Any dyspeptic sufferer aware of the purifying, regulating, and gentle aperient powers of these Pills, should permit no one to cloud his judgment or to warp his course. With a box of Holloway's Pills, and attention to its accompanying "Directions," he may feel thoroughly satisfied that he can safely and effectually release himself from his miseries without inquiring his neighbour or distressing his digestion. By acting natural nutrition, this excellent medicine raises the bodily strength to its extreme limits, and banishes a thousand annoying forms of nervous complaints. An occasional resort to Holloway's remedy will prove highly salutary to all persons, whether well or ill, whose digestion is slow or imperfect, usually evidenced by weariness listlessness, and despondency.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting at Bro. Hallows, Chequers, Walthamstow, on Thursday, the 24th inst. Present—Bros. Claridge W.M., W. G. Hallows S.W., Franklin J.W., F. Hallows S.D., Delvalli J.D., Hunt I.G., Saunders Secretary, Upward Organist, Pinder Preceptor; also Bros. Groome, Clarke, Pargetter, Simms, Pullen. The Lodge was opened in due form and the minutes of the last meeting confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Clarke acting as candidate. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and the ceremony of passing rehearsed, Bro. Upward candidate. Bro. Pinder worked the 1st section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was closed in the 2nd degree, and Bro. Pinder worked the 2nd section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. W. G. Hallows was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks was ordered to be recorded on the minutes to the W.M., for the very able manner in which he had performed the duties of the chair. The Lodge was then closed.

Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting at Bro. Maidwell's, the Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on Thursday evening last, 24th May. Present—Bros. Hewlett W.M., Grammer S.W. and Sec., Hunter J.W., Webb Preceptor, Maidwell S.D., Richards J.D., Isaacs I.G. The third ceremony was rehearsed, Bro. Webb acting as candidate, the W.M. giving the T.H. The Lodge was then closed in the third degree, and Bro. Hewlett vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Maidwell, who rehearsed the ceremony of the second degree, Bro. Hewlett acting as candidate. The Lodge was then resumed to the first degree. The first section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Grammer, and the third by Bro. Hewlett, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Grammer was elected W.M. for next Thursday. Bro. Hewlett, with some emotion, announced the death of Bro. C. Baxter, of No. 174, which sad event took place on Tuesday evening last. This announcement was received by the brethren present with feelings of deep regret, Bro. Baxter having been very constant in his attendance at this Lodge of Instruction. The Lodge was then closed.

Glasgow Chapter, No. 50.—Held its regular meeting on 10th May. Comp. Wm. Bell Z. presiding, assisted by Comps. J. Lonttit H., C. MacKenzie J., Jas. Morrison S.E., G. Leeds S.N., P. Agnew Tr. A Mark Lodge was opened, with Comp. J. W. Brownlie as S.W., and Hoare J.W. On the dais we also observed Comps. G. W. Wheeler Z., D. Gilchrist P.Z., and J. Bannerman Tr. of 73, R. Traynir 1st S. of 87, and J. O. Park P.Z. 122. An interesting discussion took place on the best mode of advancing R.A. Masonry. It was suggested that essays should be delivered on the various degrees of Scotch Royal Arch Masonry, and eventually the M.E.Z. Comp. Wm. Bell agreed to deliver the first, at the next regular meeting of the Chapter.

Angel Lodge, No. 51.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Tuesday, the 22nd inst., at the Lodge-room, Cups Hotel, Colchester. Present—Bros. G. Gard Pye W.M., Samuel Chaplin P.M. as S.W., Thomas J. Ralling J.W., John J. C. Turner acting Sec., Alfred Cobb P.M. Treasurer, Isaac Harris S.D., Jos. Hanly J.D., W. P. Lewis P.M. D.C., Charles E. Denton as I.G., C. Gunner Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. A. Welch I.P.M., John Coppin, W. Richey, Charles Cobb, Thomas Rix, and C. L. Acland Chaplain. The Visitors included the W.M. of the United Lodge, No. 697, W. Bro. the Rev. E. H. Crate, the W.M. Lodge of Hope, No. 433, Bro. W. Clary, the Sec. No. 433, Bro. J. E. Wiseman, and several members of 433; the P.G. Chap.

Bro. the. Rev. A. Pertwee, &c. The first business of the evening was a ballot for four candidates, which being declared in their favour, they were duly initiated by the W.M. The election of W.M. for the ensuing year followed, when the brethren unanimously selected Bro. Thomas J. Ralling the J.W., who has been nearly seven years Sec. to the Lodge. Bro. Alfred Cobb was unanimously re-elected Treas., and Bro. C. Gunner Tyler. The W.M. announced that he intended to represent the Lodge at the Annual Festival of the R.M.I.B., on the 27th June, and several sums were promised in the room to add to his list. The Lodge having been closed, upwards of thirty brethren assembled round the festive board, and a very harmonious evening was spent.

Mount Lebanon Chapter, No. 73.—An emergency meeting of this Chapter was held at the Bridge House Hotel, Borough High-street, Southwark, on the 10th May. The Chapter was opened by Comps. J. W. Baldwin M.E.Z., F. Walters P.P. 1st Asst. G.S. Middlesex P.Z. as H., J. T. Moss P.P.G.R. Middlesex P.Z. as J., W. Smeed P.Z. The following Comps. were then admitted: M. D. Loewenstark S.N., B. Isaacs P.S., J. H. Spencer, J. S. Sweasey, L. Samuel, W. Dunham, T. W. Adams and others. Strange to say, there were not any visitors. The ballots, taken seperately, were declared to be unanimous in favour of the admission of Bros. Henry Moore 1326 and James Moore 1326. Comp. William Smeed, acting as M.E.Z., exalted Bros. Barney, Lamb and H. Moore into Royal Arch Freemasonry. The other officers being well posted in their duties, rendered able assistance to the good, correct, and excellent working of the acting M.E.Z. Business ended, the Chapter was closed and adjourned, to meet on Thursday, 18th October, at six o'clock p.m. Banquet and dessert followed. Songs, glees, and recitations were given. The usual toasts were gone through. The members separated, well pleased with a delightful evening's re-union. Apologies were received for the absence of Comps. John Mason, caused through illness, and James Cattley Mason J., who was out of town.

Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73.—Held its regular meeting on the 15th inst., in St. Mark's Hall, Glasgow. In the absence from town of the R.W.M., it was opened by Bro. G. McDonald I.P.M., A. McLeod S.W., W. T. Kay J.W., R. R. Richards Sec., G. McDonald jun. I.G. Visitors—Bro. J. McInnis R.W.M. 408, and Bro. Hugh Murray 33°, of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, G.J.W. of Canada.

Caledonian of Unity Chapter, No. 73.—Held an emergency meeting on the 15th inst., at 213 Buchanan-street, Glasgow, for the purpose of giving the Mark degree to Bro. Samuel Baker, No. 73. The Chapter was opened by G. W. Wheeler the M.E.Z., assisted by J. Kennard H. as S.W., J. McInnis as J.W., J. Balfour S.E., J. Bannerman Tr., and G. McDonald as S.D. The Chapter had as a visitor Comp. Hugh Murray 33°, G.S.N. of Ontario, who expressed himself highly satisfied with the way in which the degree was wrought, though differing in some high points from the way they work in Canada.

Commercial Chapter, No. 79, Glasgow.—This Chapter held its regular meeting on Friday, the 11th inst., at 30 Hope-street. A Mark Lodge was opened by the P.Z. Comp. Jules Brodie, with Comps. R. Traynir as S.W., R. Reid J.W., and G. W. Wheeler Conductor, when Bro. James Henderson, of Lodge 360, was advanced to that degree by Comp. D. Lamb. Comp. C. McKenzie, J. of Chapter 50, gave the lecture. Comp. Lamb then assumed the chair, and opened a Lodge of Excellent Masters, and Comp. G. W. Wheeler Z. of 73 conferred that degree on Bros. J. Henderson and A. Burnett. The Chapter was then opened,—Comps. D. Lamb Z., G. W. Wheeler H., R. Brodie J., J. Munro Deputy Z., J. M. Oliver S.E., R. Reid Tr., R. Traynir 1st S., R. Burnett 2nd S., and J. McLean 3rd Ass., when Bros. Alex. Burnett and James Henderson were exalted into that degree by Comp. G. W. Wheeler.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington, on 19th inst. Bros. Hewlett W.M., Moss S.W., Defriez J.W., Fenner S.D., Groner J.D., Bedwell I.G., Pearcy Preceptor, Halford Treas., Killick Sec., and about twenty members were present. The Lodge was opened, and minutes confirmed. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed in full, Bro. Poore acting as candidate. The sections of the 3rd lecture were worked by the W.M. and Preceptor. Bro. Hunter 1677 was elected a member. Bro. Moss was chosen W.M. for the next meeting.

St. James's Union Chapter, No. 380.—The regular convocation of this Chapter was held on Tuesday, 22nd inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Comps. Cameron P.Z. as M.E.Z., Smithett H., W. C. Parsons J., H. Reed P.Z. S.E., Knyvett S.N., Pillin P.S.; P.Z.'s Comps. Stonor, L. Hert, and Dawson; and Comps. Farwig, C. Smith, Pink, Van Duren, Martin, W. Smith, &c. The Chapter was opened and the minutes confirmed. The installation of Principals then took place, Comp. Smithett being installed M.E.Z., W. C. Parsons H., Knyvett J.; the ceremonies were perfectly and impressively delivered by Comp. H. Reed P.Z. The investiture of officers then took place:—Comps. Cameron P.Z. Treas., H. Reed S.E., Pillin S.N., L. Annett P.S., G. Bubb 1st Ass., Farwig 2nd Ass., Gilbert Janitor. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions sat down to a very sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. E. Dawkins. The M.E.Z. proposed the usual Loyal and Royal Arch toasts.

Royal Union Lodge, No. 382.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, the 21st inst., at the Belmont Hall, Uxbridge. Bros. T. C. Swallow W.M., Webb S.W., Holliday J.W., Coulton P.M. Treas., W. Coombes P.P.G.S.B. Middx. Soc., Cook S.D., Dairey J.D., Ross I.G., J. C. W. Davis I.P.M., Forebenbach P.M.; Bros. Brown, Pearce, Drinkwater, Matthews, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. Bros. Price and Gaylard showed their proficiency, and were raised to the sublime degree by the I.P.M., Bro. C. J. W. Davis, in his usual perfect and impressive manner. The W.M. then occupied the chair, and passed Bros. Marshall and Serf to the 2nd degree. Mr. F. Lucy (who had previously been ballotted for) and, by fiat, Messrs. F. W. Hubnichen and T. De Courcy Meade were duly initiated into the Order by the W.M. It was proposed and carried unanimously that the sum of £2 2s should be given to the Prov.G.M.'s (Col. Burdett) Testimonial Fund. In accordance with the resolution of the Lodge, it was carried that the future meetings of the Lodge should be held at the Belmont Hall, instead of the Chequers Hotel. The Lodge was closed, and the brethren partook of a very excellent banquet, where the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given.

Union Chapter, No. 414. — A regular convocation of the above Chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, Reading, on Friday, the 18th May. Present—Comps. Lemon M.E.Z., Grisbrook H., Bradley J., Weightman P.Z. Scribe E. and Treasurer, Portsmouth Scribe N., Parsons P.S., Lamb A.S.; P.Z.'s Bothey, Biggs and Dew. Members—Comps. C. F. Webb, H. Webb, J. Bance, J. T. Browne, Thatcher, Mount, Herbert, Lear, Daniels, Yetts, and Bailey. Visitor—Comp. W. P. Ivey, Windsor Castle, 771. The minutes of the last regular Chapter were confirmed. Bros. A. Brakspeare and J. H. Moore were exalted. Bros. J. H. Hawkes 1101 and F. W. Albury 414 were ballotted for, elected, and exalted. Comp. Portsmouth withdrew his motion for a grant of ten guineas to the R.M.I.B., on account of the funds in hand being less than he anticipated. The election of Principals and Officers took place, and resulted in the following return: Comp. E. Grisbrook M.E.Z., R. Bradley H., A. Portsmouth J., Weightman E. and Treas., W. Parsons N., Lamb P.S. The working of the Chapter was very good. Comp. Parsons is evidently an enthusiastic worker, and his duties were performed admirably. The Chapter may be congratulated on having taken good root. Another Chapter was in contemplation, in connection with 1101, but as the Basingstoke Companions are about to consecrate one of their own, which will draw pretty strongly from 414, it is thought better to defer another in Reading for the present. After appointing the Audit Committee, the Companions retired for refreshment to the Upper Ship Hotel.

Lodge Dramatic, No. 591, Glasgow.—Held an emergency meeting on Friday, May 11th, at 11 p.m., to confer the M.M. degree on Bro. J. Cook, of Hengler's Cirque, prior to his leaving the city. The Lodge was opened punctually at the appointed hour by the R.W.M. Bro. H. W. Jackman, with Bro. Chute D.M., Wm. Sievewright S.W., J. Mitchell J.W., J. Marshall S.D., A. Smith J.D. There was a good attendance of the professional brethren, and amongst the other visitors we recognised Bros. J. Stewart 3 bis., G. W. Wheeler 73, J. Findley R.W.M. 333, John Stewart 360, D. Lamb P.D.M. 360, and Kilper S. 581. At the request of the R.W.M., D. Lamb raised Bro. Cook, in a very careful manner, for which he received the thanks of the Lodge. The R.W.M. having reduced the Lodge, said it had been thought desirable to spend a little time on refreshment with the brethren who would be leaving the city with Mr. Hengler's company next week. The Lodge was accordingly put under the care of the J.W. After the usual Lodge toasts, ably proposed, the Master, Bro. J. Findley R.W.M. of 333, responded for the Provincials. The health of the new M.M., Bro. Cook, was given in eloquent terms from the chair. Bro. Cook was glad to be associated with so noble an Order, and hoped to uphold the fame of Lodge Dramatic in many parts of the kingdom. Bro. Kilpin proposed the Brethren of Mr. Hengler's Company. Bro. Hill replied. Bro. J. Stewart replied for the Visitors, and gave Lodge Dramatic. The Press was replied to by Bro. J. Stewart. The singing and recitals were excellent.

Andrew Chapter, No. 834.—The regular meeting of this Chapter was held on Thursday, the 17th instant, at the Bell and Anchor Hotel, West Kensington Gardens. Comps. W. Y. Worthington M.E.Z., L. Bryett H., W. H. Adamson J. The attendance of the Comps. was (as is usually the case) numerous. After the Chapter had been duly opened, and minutes confirmed, the M.E.Z. proceeded to exalt Bros. Ward, Moyle and Mickelbargh, in whose favour the ballot was unanimous at the previous meeting, and it is almost needless to state the ceremony was performed in the masterly style that always characterises the working of the M.E.Z. The election of officers for the forthcoming session then took place, and resulted as follows:—L. Bryett M.E.Z. elect; W. H. Adamson H., G. F. Butt J. After the Chapter was closed, the Comps. sat down to an excellent repast, provided by Comp. Millis, which deserves the highest praise. The evening was spent in a most pleasant manner, and the list of toasts well discussed by the various speakers. After the Loyal toasts had been duly honoured, the health of the M.E.Z. was proposed. In responding, Comp. Worthington said that as it was the last occasion he should have of occupying the Principal's chair, he could not let the opportunity pass without thanking the Comps. for the cordial way in which they always accepted this toast. He was not aware that he had done anything in particular to merit their approval, but he could assure them how pleased, and proud he was to see the continued success of the Andrew Chapter during his year of office. The goodwill of the various officers and Comps. he felt certain had been extended towards him, and he might almost say that he was more than satisfied. The health of the Visitor was then proposed, and Companion Cooper, P.Z. 19, said, how pleased he was to meet the Comps. once again, after being separated by distance from them for so many years. Before he left London, as some were aware, he took a great interest in attending the different meetings of the Craft, particularly the Royal Arch; but circumstances had for some time past compelled him to relinquish attending to those duties as he wished. He saw among the Comps. assembled that evening around the table several whom he could recollect as lads attending school when he resided in the vicinity, and he could assure them that the pleasure to him was very great when he could mark the success that had attended the Andrew Chapter, founded by, and named after his late lamented friend Andrew. The toast of the officers was well responded to by Comps. Bryett and Lines, and, after the Janitor's toast, the Comps. separated.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The meeting of this Lodge was held at the Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, the 22nd inst. Bros. Perry jun. W.M., Lovelock S.W., Allen J.W., Hewlett S.D., Pullen J.D., Dallas I.G., Wallington Preceptor, also Bros. Perry sen., Sanders, Bonner, Christian, &c. Ceremony of Initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Bonner candidate. Bro. Allen worked 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Lovelock was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed the officers in rotation. A vote of thanks was to be recorded on the minutes, for the able manner in which the W.M. worked the ceremony, it being the first time he had occupied the chair. Lodge closed in due form.

Upton Lodge, No. 1227.—The brethren of this Lodge held their usual meeting at the Spotted Dog, Upton, on Thursday, the 17th inst. Bro. David Posener W.M. presided, and amongst the brethren present were—Bros. George Brown S.W., Benjamin Lyons J.W., W. Webster S.D., Andrews I.G., A. W. Fenner acting Secretary, Leo Engell W.S., Cowell, H. Jones, W. Lane, E. G. Bratton P.M., R. W. Goddard P.M., T. Simpson, C. H. Belsay, Adolphus Elland, &c. Among the visitors present were—Bros. Samuel Moss, Euphrates 212, Alex. Giles, Earl Spencer 1426, W. G. Kent, West Kent 1297, W. Christie, Tranquillity 185. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, Bros. Jones and Simpson were raised to the Sublime Degree, and Bros. Cornell and Austin passed. It was unanimously agreed that the summer banquet should take place, on the 5th of July, at Broxbourne; the sum of five guineas was voted, from the Lodge Benevolent Fund, to the widow of a deceased member, to be placed in the hands of the W.M., and to be used at his discretion. The labours of the evening over, the brethren adjourned for refreshment.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—Held at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday, 18th instant. Present—Bros. Crouch W.M., Fenner S.W., Simpson J.W., Townsend S.D., Smith J.D., Lane I.G., Hewlett, Bolton, Austin, Cave, Scales, Lupinsky, &c. Lodge was opened in due form. Minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Lodge was opened in the second degree, Bro. Cave answered the usual questions. Lodge was opened in the third degree, when the ceremony of raising was rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Cave being candidate. The traditional history was given by the acting Preceptor, Bro. Hewlett, in his usual correct manner. Lodge was closed in the third and second degrees. The second and third sections of the first lecture were worked by Bro. A. W. Fenner, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Fenner was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed in due form and adjourned.

Lebanon Lodge, 1326.—Held its first meeting of the season on Saturday, 19th May, at the Red Lion Hotel, Thames-street, Hampton. Bro. Edwin Gilbert W.M. opened the Lodge, and the minutes of the last regular meeting were confirmed. The ballot for Mr. W. Clark was declared to be unanimous in favour of his admission. Bros. W. Priddy and S. Page were passed, and Bro. W. Blakeley was raised. On the motion of Bro. F. Walters, it was unanimously resolved that a congratulatory letter be sent to Bro. R. W. Little on his appointment as D.P.G.M. Middlesex. The subject of the "Burdett" testimonial was deferred until the next regular meeting, double the amount (on notice of motion made) being intended to be given than what had been proposed at this meeting. The usual notice of motion was given to present the W.M. with the customary P.M. jewel, of the value of seven guineas. Several names of brethren for joining and gentlemen for initiation were given to the Secretary. Business ended, the Lodge was closed, and adjourned to Saturday, 21st June, to meet at half-past three. The usual banquet was served, and reflected the greatest credit on Bro. Murphy, the host, who personally superintended it. There were present during the afternoon and evening—Bros. E. Gilbert W.M., C. W. Fox S.W., H. Gloster acting as J.W., F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex P.M. Sec., J. B. Shackleton W.M. 1514 J.D., W. Stanton acting as S.D., J. W. Baldwin P.A.G.P. Middlesex I.G., G. Shotà D.C., H. Potter P.M. W.S., W. Hammond P.P.G.D. Middlesex P.M., and many others. The only visitor was Bro. H. C. T. Murphy, 1512, Hemming Lodge. The J.W., Bro. R. W. Williams P.G. Organist Middlesex, was absent through ill health.

Falcon Lodge, No. 1416.—The Archæological Section, in company with Rev. Bros. C. E. Camidge M.A., P.G.C. West Yorkshire, W. C. Lukis M.A., F.A.S., and A. T. Atwood M.A., Rural Dean, the W.M. and his Wardens, on Saturday, the 12th inst., visited Felliskirk and South Kilvington. The Rev. H. Clayforth B.A. and the Rev. W. T. Kingsley B.D. very kindly received the party, and afforded them much information. The Church at Felliskirk has been almost entirely rebuilt, but has some interesting remains, having at the Dissolution belonged to the Commandery of Knights Hospitaliers on Mount St. John. There are two remarkably fine effigies, of a cross-legged knight in chain armour, and a lady, both in excellent preservation. The great curiosity of Kilvington Church is the font, made at the cost of Lord Thomas Scrope, and said to have been removed there from Upsall Castle. The formation of this section has conduced very greatly to pleasant and profitable intercourse among the members, and secured for them good report in the neighbourhood generally. Other Lodges might take up the matter in a similar form with great advantage.

The Great City Lodge of Instruction, No. 1426.—This Lodge met at Masons' Hall Tavern, on Thursday evening, at 6.30 p.m. There were present Bros. Saul W.M., De Leliva S.W., Goodman J.W., Wood S.D., Cadiot J.D., Taylor I.G., Colmer Treasurer, Blackie Secretary, and other brethren. The Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was then rehearsed. The Lodge was afterwards opened in the second and third degrees, and the ceremony of passing and raising very ably rehearsed by the W.M. The Lodge was resumed to the first degree, and Bro. De Leliva unanimously elected W.M. for Thursday week, the 7th June. All Masonic business being ended the Lodge was closed in due form.

West Smithfield Lodge, No. 1623.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, 17th inst., at the New Market Hotel, King-street, West Smithfield. Bro. J. Smith P.G.P. P.M. W.M. opened the Lodge. There were present during the afternoon and evening Bro. T. W. Adams S.W., G. S. Elliott J.W., F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex P.M. Secretary, J. Howes P.M. S.D., J. Johnson J.D., G. S. Wintle I.G., W. Pennefather P.M. D.C., J. Gilbert Prov. G. Tyler Mid. Tyler, J. J. Howes, E. Crombie, F. West, G. H. Stevens, W. Smyth, H. J. Lardner, T. Butt, W. Snow, T. M. Butt, &c. Amongst the numerous visitors we noticed Bros. J. W. Baldwin P.A.G.P. Middlesex P.M. 1423, &c.; H. Potter P.M. 11, G. Wallace 95, A. Stevens 1298, J. H. Pearson 423, &c. The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was unanimous in favour of the admission of Mr. Craddock Seymour; also for Bro. James Payne, of No. 245, as a joining member. Bros. J. J. Howes, E. C. Crombie, F. West, G. H. Stevens, and H. J. Lardner, were passed to the second degree, and Bro. W. Smyth raised to the third degree. Several gentlemen were proposed for initiation, and some brethren for joining. An important notice of motion was given by the Secretary. The Lodge was closed and adjourned to Thursday, 19th July. The usual banquet, &c., followed.

BALANCE-SHEET, 1876-77.

A BARE enumeration of figures is by no means attractive reading; but the statement of account of this Institution for the past year, albeit it presents no extraordinary features in the way of either receipt or expenditure, is worth noticing in detail, if only on account of the increased munificence of the Craft, and the resultant increase of means wherewith to aid the distressed and aged members of our Craft and their widows. As our readers are aware, the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution is two benevolent Institutions rolled into one. Each of these twain has its special purpose, which, in the one case, is the relief of old indigent brethren, and in the other that of the widows of brethren, who, by the death of their husbands, or other approved cause, are found unable to maintain themselves. Hence, in stating the accounts the two are kept distinct, and we have really two balance-sheets—one for the Male Fund, and the other for the Female Fund. It would not, we imagine, be altogether unsatisfactory if a general balance-sheet, in which the accounts of both these funds were incorporated, were made of it. It would entail some additional labour, but it would enable many who may not understand the reason for keeping the two funds separate, to see at once the annual receipts and expenditure of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. This, indeed, is done so far as to show the total balance at the end of the year; yet we think it might be with advantage extended to the whole account, especially as there are many items of expenditure which are apportioned equally between the two Funds. However, let us pass to the accounts themselves, and first as to the MALE FUND. On the 1st April 1876, there was a balance to the credit of the fund amounting to £3,825 7s 2d. The sums received during the year from all sources reached the sum of £7,495 7s 8d, so that the total receipts were £11,320 14s 10d. Of this, £500 represents the donation from Grand Lodge, and £100 that from Grand Chapter. The general body of the Craft contributed £6,056 2s, namely, in the way of Lodge, Chapter, or individual donations £4,907 19s, and in respect of annual subscriptions £1,148 3s. The interest on invested moneys amounted to £828 18s 11d, while the small remaining sum of £10 6s 9d was casual. Turning to the expenditure, we find that it reached the very considerable sum of £7,799 12s, of which, however, two items alone absorb by far the greater portion, namely, annuitants, who divide among themselves £4,851, and the purchase of £2,000 3 per cent. Consols, on which the sum of £1,880 was expended. The remainder, amounting to £1,068 12s, must be described as managerial expenditure. The four principal items are the salary of the Secretary and Clerk, Collector's commission, stationery, &c., and postages, &c., including expenses of election. These, together, account for £743 16s 3d. The other items are too numerous to report, but they include, among other matters, the Secretary's provincial expenses, medicine, wages of Warden, Gate-keeper, and Gardener, repairs, &c., Taxes, and Fire Insurance, together with £50 gratuity to Mrs. Lane, widow of the late Collector, and rent, &c., at Freemasons' Hall £18. Thus there remained, at the end of the year, that is, on the 31st March 1877, a balance to the credit of the Institution amounting to £3,521 2s 10d.

We turn now to the FEMALE FUND, with the following result. The opening balance on the 1st April 1876, was £1,341 17s 11d, and the moneys received during the year reached £6,792 19s, making the total receipts for the Fund £8,134 16s 11d. The principal heads of receipt are Grand Lodge Donation £300, and Grand Chapter ditto £50, while the Craft contributed £5,857 2s 3d, of which £4,847 15s 6d is set down in respect of donations from Lodges, Chapters, and Individuals, and £1,009 6s 9d for annual subscriptions; Dividends on Government Stock £532 8s 3d, proceeds of a legacy of £50 from the late Bro. W. Brooks Gates £45, and a small casualty. The expenditure reached £5,560 11s 5d, but as in the Male Fund two items alone suffice to account for the bulk of this outlay. These are the annuitants who received among them £3,545 10s, and the purchase of £1,000 3 per cent. Consols which accounts for a further £940. As these together amount to £4,585 10s, there was expended for management the sum of £975 1s 5d. The four principal items, namely, Salary of Secretary and Clerk, Collector's Commission, Stationery, &c., and Postage, &c., including expenses of election, represent an aggregate of £685 15s 9d, leaving £289 5s 8d to be distributed under the various heads of Secretary's Provincial Expenses, Medicine, Matron, Repairs, Fire Insurance, and the like, and including £50 for gratuity to Mrs. Lane, and £18 for office rent. If, then, we take the two Funds together, for the purpose of arriving at the total expenditure of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for the year, we find the figures are as follow:—Balance on 1st April 1876 £5,167 5s 1d, Sums received, including from Grand Lodge £800, from Grand Chapter £150, from Craft £11,913 4s 3d, for interest £1,361 17s 2d—together amounting to £14,288 6s 8d. Total Receipts £19,455 11s 9d. Total Expenditure—including for annuities £8,496 10s, for purchase of £3,000 stock £2,820, and for management £2,043 13s 5d—£13,360 3s 5d. Thus there remained on 31st March 1877 a total balance of £6,095 8s 4d. Then there is the Sustentation of Building Fund Account, which opened with a balance of £6 18s 7d. The interest of the £1,000 stock set apart for this Fund raised the receipts to £36 18s 7d, and as the expenditure only amounted to £9 14s 3d for repairs, there remained a balance of £27 4s 4d; and if we add this to the balance, as stated above, of the Male and Female Funds, the total balance to the credit of the Institution amounts to £6,122 12s 8d.

As regards the permanent income on which the Institution has to rely for support, this amounts to £2,341 7s 2d, of which £950 are contributed by Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter together, while the rest is interest on moneys invested in Government Stock, of which investments there is to the credit of the Male Fund £28,950 Government Stock, to that of the Female Fund £18,450, and to the Sustentation of Building Fund £1,000; total investments, £48,400, all Government Stock. As regards the number of beneficiaries, we may say that last year there were 130 men and 110 widows borne on the funds of the Institution, but owing to the magnificent result of the last Festival, it was determined to place an additional 15 men and 15 women on the respective funds. Thus there are now 145 male and 125 female beneficiaries, besides thirteen widows who are entitled to receive each a moiety of her late husband's annuity for a certain term of years, surrendering it, however, in the event of election on the fund. In order to meet this annual expenditure, to which the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution now stands committed, there will have to be raised annually for annuities alone, no less than £10,035, and as the management costs, apart from repairs, &c., over £2,000, there must be provided, in order to cover the normal annual expenditure, quite £12,500. The permanent income is, as we have said, £2,341 and some odd shillings and pence, or less than one-fifth. Need we say more, by way of conclusion, than that, under the circumstances, the Craft are bound in honour to contribute at least £10,000 towards the support of this Charity, or—but we do not care, in such a case as this, to contemplate the possibility of there being an "or." Our readers know well-enough what must happen if the sum we have stated is not forthcoming annually.

The General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Thursday last, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. S. Rawson, D.G.M. China, in the chair. The Sec., Bro. R. W. Little, read the minutes of the General Committee, which were read and adopted. The nominations for the General Committees were read and adopted. The nominations of the members to serve on the House and Audit Committees were also read. The notice of motion proposed at the last meeting, by Bro. Dr. Ramsay, in reference to the bad accommodation at the Secretary's office, was seconded by Bro. Kenyon, and supported by Bros. J. Smith, J. R. Rucker, and Rev. Bro. Cox. This was carried unanimously. Four candidates were placed on the list. A letter was read from Bro. Colonel Creaton V.P., stating his regret at not being present, owing to his military duties requiring him at Aldershott. The scrutineers reported the result of the election for the House Committee as follows:—Bros. John Boyd, H. Browse, H. A. Dubois, Benjamin Head, Peter de Lande Long, Joshua Nunn, Lieut.-Colonel Peters, J. A. Rucker, Griffiths Smith, A. H. Tattershall, Rev. J. M. Vaughan, and T. W. White. The result of the Audit Committee was as follows:—Bros. J. G. Chancellor, H. Dicketts, T. Kingston, H. C. Levander, H. M. Levy, J. Nunn, W. Paas, W. Roebuck, and R. B. Webster. A cordial vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to Bro. S. Rawson, for his able and impartial presiding, and the meeting was adjourned. There were present—Bros. Sir Albert Woods, John Boyd, H. Browse, B. Head, Lieut.-Colonel Peters, Dr. Ward, J. Last, R. B. Webster, Pierce Egan, Barnes, J. Stevens, Roebuck, C. E. Lacey, W. Venn, Waters, H. A. Dubois, R. W. Stewart, Captain J. Wordsworth, F. Adlard, Murley, H. Massey, J. C. Parkinson, John Hervey, T. J. Sabine, C. Moutrie, W. Howe, B. Swallow, Nicols, J. Pinder, J. Coutts, L. Ruff, H. Dicketts, Elliot, W. H. Hemsworth, Rev. P. M. Holden, G. Kenning, C. F. Burmeister, Dr. Ramsay, A. H. Tattershall, T. Cubitt, &c.

The final meeting of the Board of Stewards for the late Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Monday last, Bro. Capt. H. A. Bennett G.S. in the chair. Bro. R. W. Little, the Hon. Sec., stated the result of the Annual Festival, when the R.W. Lord Suffield, P.G.M. Norfolk, occupied the chair. He announced that there were 169 Stewards, and 137 ladies were present. 279 brethren dined. The donations amounted to £9,828 3s. It was announced that the Stewards' visit to the Institution and the Distribution of Prizes would take place on the 18th of June. In connection with the Stewards' fees, a sum of £31 10s included a day's recreation at the Crystal Palace. After the payment of all matters in connection with the Festival, a sum of £38 was left, and Bro. H. M. Levy proposed that the sum in question be presented to the Hon. Sec., Bro. Little. On former occasions, where a balance was left, he had generously given it to the Institution, but whilst labouring under many difficulties, Bro. Little had succeeded in getting a large amount for the Festival, and his services in connection with the Institution deserved the commendation of every brother. This was seconded by Bro. Newland, and Bro. F. A. Philbrick, Q.C., P.G.D. supplemented it. He entirely endorsed the remarks of the former speakers. He only regretted that the balance in hand was not double the amount, as Bro. Little well deserved it. He had contributed to the success of the Institution. Bro. Philbrick then proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman for his able and impartial presidency. Capt. Bennett G.S. thanked the brethren for their vote. He thought it necessary, before the Stewards separated, that a cordial vote of thanks should be recorded to Bro. R. W. Little for his great and untiring efforts, and also for his zeal in connection with the Institution. In conclusion, he hoped Bro. Little would have renewed health and vigour to continue his duties as the Secretary of this noble Institution. Bro. Little returned thanks, and the final meeting of the Stewards of 1877 ended, with the hope of still greater success to the Institution—owing to the accession of new Lodges—in 1878. There were present Bros. F. A. Philbrick, Q.C., P.G.D., T. Massa, E. Stamwitz, Newland, W. Buck, R. B. Webster, J. Bingemann, Dr. Brette, G. Allen, F. Rath, S. Cooper, and H. M. Levy.

It is announced, in the Masonic Record of Western India, that at the meeting of the Eastern Star Lodge, No. 1189, held at the Masonic Temple, Bombay, on the 19th March, a Past Master's jewel and clothing, together with a silver cup and salver, of exquisite Cashmere workmanship, were presented to Bro. Sorabjee Navarojee Cooper I.P.M., for his eminent services to the Lodge during his Mastership in 1875-6. The testimonial was presented by Bro. Hon. James Gibbs, Dist. G. Master. The day following, Bro. Gibbs presided in the St. George Lodge, No. 549, and installed Bro. Tyrrell Leith as W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. Leith appointed and invested as his officers Bros. W. A. Baker S.W., J. M. Sleater J.W., Lyon S.D., Balfour J.D. and Treasurer, Langley I.G., and J. W. Seager Tyler, the W.M. himself undertaking the duties of Secretary. A vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Gibbs and his assistants for the able manner in which they had performed the Installation Ceremony, and subsequently a P.M.'s jewel was voted to the retiring W.M. Bro. Dr. Lyon.

Last month, La Monde Maçonnique, which was published in 1858, entered on the nineteenth year of its existence. We trust this journal will go on as prosperously as heretofore. We cannot endorse all the views to which our French contemporary is pleased to give utterance, but we know it works conscientiously for the advancement of Freemasonry. It has, therefore, our most profound respect, even when we feel least disposed to concur with the views it enunciates.

We gather, from the Australian Freemason, that on the 15th March, Bro. Past Dist. G. Master J. Williams was elected District G. Master of New South Wales in succession to Bro. A. T. Holroyd resigned, by a majority of thirty votes over Bro. E. O. Smith Dep. District. G. Master, the votes recorded being for Bro. Williams 73, and for Bro. Smith 43.

We acknowledge, with fraternal thanks, a copy of the very handsome programme of the service in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church attended by the Hanselmann Commandery, No. 16, Cincinnati, on Ascension Day. Sir Knight John B. Peaslee is the Eminent Commander of it, and the editor of our esteemed contemporary, the Masonic Review, Sir Knight Thomas J. Melish is Prelate.

A Brother of the Nyanza Lodge, No. 1197, Ilminster ...	£75
The Widow of a Brother of the British Kaffrarian Lodge, No. 863, Port Elizabeth, Cape of Good Hope	£50

7. REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.

To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

(1.) It having been represented to the Board that a Brother had been raised to the third degree in twenty-five days only after having passed to the second degree, the circumstances were fully enquired into, and, in result, it was ordered that the Brother be re-obligated and the Lodge (No. 529) fined one guinea, and admonished to be more careful in future.

(2.) A complaint having been laid before the Board, alleging that a candidate had been initiated into Masonry by the W. Master of Lodge No. 820, whose name and description had not previously appeared in the Lodge Summons, as enjoined by the Book of Constitutions, such candidate being afterwards passed to the second degree in the face of a protest, the Lodge was duly summoned to appear before the Board by its Master and Wardens, with the Lodge Warrant and Books, and after the complaining Past Masters had been heard, as also the W. Master, I.P. Master and other Members, the Board arrived unanimously at the conclusion that not only was the Masonic offence fully proved, but so unsatisfactory a condition of things was found to exist in the Lodge, that the Board suspended it from all its Masonic functions for the space of six months, and directed that the candidate in question should be regularly initiated and passed before being entitled to Masonic position and privileges.

(3.) The Board of General Purposes further report that the number of the Trustees of the real property of Grand Lodge, originally ten, has become, by death and resignation, reduced to four, and the Board recommend that the original number be made up by Grand Lodge, and that it be referred back to the Board to take the necessary steps for vesting in them the real property of Grand Lodge.

(Signed) JOHN B. MONCKTON,
President.

FREEMASONS' HALL, LONDON,
16th May 1877.

At the Meeting of the 16th May, after the ordinary business was concluded, it was proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that the best thanks of the Members of the Board are eminently merited by the President for the great attention he has paid to the duties of the office, for the admirable manner in which he has discharged them, and the great courtesy and kindness he has on all occasions evinced to his colleagues, and they are therefore fraternally tendered to him.

(Signed) PETER DE LANDE LONG,
Vice-President.

To the Report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge Accounts at the last Meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 11th day of May instant, showing a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer of £5,035 3s 5d; and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for petty cash, £75; and for servants' wages, £96 15s.

8. Appeal of Bro. John Locke, W. Master of the Royal Prince of Wales' Lodge, No. 867, Trinidad, against a sentence of expulsion from the Craft, pronounced upon him, and the erasure of the Lodge, by the District Grand Lodge of Trinidad.

N.B.—The papers relating to this Appeal will be in the Grand Secretary's Office till the Meeting of Grand Lodge, and open for the inspection of the Brethren during Office hours.

9. The Annual Report of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, dated the 17th of May 1877, will be laid before Grand Lodge, and the following proposed alteration in the Rules which was then agreed to will, in accordance with the Laws of the Institution, be submitted for the approval of Grand Lodge, viz. :—

To add to Law 1, page 15, after the words "husband's petition" the following :—"And in the event of a Widow marrying again and being again left a Widow, she shall still be eligible to be a candidate."

10. Proposed motion by W. Bro. Benjamin Head P.G.D. :—

That the sum of £70 be given from the Fund of General Purposes; that the money be placed in the hands of the Secretary of the "Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons," to supply the residents of the Institution at Croydon with coals during the winter season.

RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE.

CONSECRATION OF THE EBORACUM CONCLAVE, No. 137.

ON Tuesday last, at York, took place the very interesting ceremony of consecration of a Conclave of an Order whose traditional origin may be said to be intimately blended with the early history of the quondam "Capital of the North." Early in January of this year preliminary steps were taken by a few brethren residing in York, and a warrant having been obtained from the Grand Council, active efforts were made to get the Conclave into working order. Committees were appointed for the purpose of making preparations, and "Royal Oak Day" having been appointed as the date of consecration, everything was in order when the time arrived. It happened, rather unfortunately, that the consecration of the new Masonic Hall, at Grimsby, had been fixed for the same day, and the consequence was that several members of the Red Cross Order, belonging to the De la Pole Conclave, at Hull, who had previously accepted invitations to Grimsby, were debarred from being present. Notwithstanding this circumstance, however, there was a very good muster on the occasion, and the ceremonies passed off most favourably.

A party of Sir Knights from Sheffield, including Ill. Sir Knt. S. B. Ellis, Intendant General unattached, and several other members of the White Rose of York Conclave, arrived in York by an early train, and were received at the Masonic Rooms, Queen's Hotel, by E. Sir Knt. T. B. Whytehead, under whose guidance they spent some hours in viewing the more interesting of the archæological relics which are so numerous in the ancient city. The Guildhall, a very fine old Gothic hall, erected in 1446, and which was used by the Freemasons on the occasion of the installation of the present Earl of Zetland as Prov. Grand Master of North and East Yorkshire, in 1874, was first visited, after which the party proceeded to the Yorkshire Philosophical Society's Gardens, and inspected the ruins of St. Leonard's Hospital, founded by Athelstane (of Masonic fame), in 936, and rebuilt by King Stephen. Portions of the walls of ancient Eboracum afforded much interest, and the ruins of the Abbey of St. Mary, with the innumerable specimens of Masons' marks to be found on its stones, were greatly admired. The large collection of antiquities, and the geological collections of the Society, were not unnoticed, as well as the picturesque old palace erected by Henry VIII., and now used as a school for the blind. Thence, proceeding through Bootham Bar, the premises belonging to the York Lodge, No. 236, in Duncombe-street, were visited. The interior of the Lodge room, with its handsome decorations and appropriate arrangements, was the source of much admiration, and an examination of the large collection of Masonic engravings, &c., the property of the Lodge, occupied some little time. The noble Church of St. Peter of York was the next object of attraction, and the party there visited the ancient crypt, where the old operative Masons used to hold their Lodges, and where the remains of the old Saxon and Norman Churches, over which is erected the present Gothic pile, have been opened out for the benefit of the student of architecture; the unrivalled octagon Chapter House was also visited, and the party then passed through the ancient Ecclesiastical College of St. William, erected in the reign of Edward IV., and so to Monk Bar, the ancient barrier at the eastern entrance of the city, whence, proceeding through Goodramgate, the site of the palace of the Emperor Constantine, the Merchants' Hall in Fossgate was reached; it was in the handsome and quaint meeting-room of this Ancient Corporation of Merchant Adventurers that Francis Drake the historian, as Junior G.W., gave his oration, since reprinted, at a Grand Lodge on St. John's Day, the 27th December 1726, the Right Worshipful Charles Bathurst Esq. Grand Master. At Walmgate Bar the ancient outwork or barbican was the subject of much curiosity, together with the old gates and portcullis, which are still in existence. Thence the party proceeded, by way of the old city walls, dating about the time of Edward I., to St. George's Fields, on their way gaining a view of Clifford's Tower, erected by William the Norman, as the keep of the Castle of York. Crossing the river, the walls were again the route adopted, and a few minutes' walk brought the party to Micklegate-bar, the finest of the four chief gateways, and the arch of which is of Roman construction. Thus the circuit of the City was completed, and an adjournment was made to lunch, at the Queen's Hotel.

At three p.m. the Conclave was opened, by V.I. Sir Knight the Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett, E. Sir Knight Roddewig M.P.S. 120 acting as E.V.E. Ill. Sir Knt. S. B. Ellis as Grand Marshal, and other Knights from Hull and Sheffield occupying the several offices. Five candidates for the Order, having previously been elected, were then duly installed, and proclaimed Knights of the Order in ancient form. A procession was then formed in the ante-chamber, and the ceremony of consecration was proceeded with. At its completion, E. Sir Knt. T. B. Whytehead and E. Sir Knt. Thos.

Cooper were respectively installed as M.P.S. and V.E. A vote of thanks to the consecrating officer and his assistants was carried by acclamation, and the Conclave was then closed. A sanctuary of K.H.S. and Commandery of St. John, in connection with the Conclave, under the title of the St. Peter Sanctuary, was then opened, and several Sir Knts. were admitted to those degrees. At the conclusion of the proceedings the visiting Sir Knights were entertained at a banquet, at which the M.P.S. presided, supported by a number of officers, members and visitors. The following is a list of the officers of the Conclave:—Sir Knights J. Morgan Senior General, J. S. Cumberland Junior General, Rev. W. Valentine High Prelate, G. Simpson Recorder and Treasurer, C. G. Padel Prefect, G. Balmford Standard Bearer, A. T. B. Turner Herald, M. Millington and G. Renton First and Second Aides, H. Jackson Sentinel.

The following is a list of the Sir Knights present on the occasion, in addition to the officers of the Conclave and others already mentioned:—J. W. Woodall Past Inst. Genl. of North and East Yorkshire, Henry Preston V.E. 132, H. J. Barnett 120, J. E. Darling 120, J. Binney H.P. 120, A. G. Duncombe 132 and 137, W. S. Wade 120, H. Churchill 137, J. J. Boswell 137, E. Pullan 137, &c.

In the course of his remarks, in replying to the toast of "Prosperity to the Eboracum Conclave," the M.P.S. took occasion to remark that the inauguration of the Conclave had been most auspicious. Amongst its members it numbered the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, Grand Viceroy of England, the Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett, Grand Senior General of England and Intendant General for North and East Yorkshire, Ill. Sir Knight J. W. Woodall, Past Intendant General for North and East Yorkshire, Ill. Sir Knight S. B. Ellis, Intendant General unattached, as well as a number of other well known and prominent Masons, and that there was every promise of a very happy future. He thought that around that table, and comprising the officers of that Conclave was such a nucleus as might bode well for the coming existence of the Order in York. Regarding the close connection between the history of the Order and that of the ancient city in which they were then stationed, the event of the day became doubly interesting, and from the interest that had been manifested in many quarters in the initiation of the movement which had resulted in the meeting of the day, and from the very kind and fraternal feeling that had been exhibited, both East and West of York, he felt convinced that the pathway of the Eboracum Conclave was already marked out for it, and that everything augured well for a prosperous and pleasant future.

Dyer Steward, Arthur White Steward, George Austin Tyler. On the proposition of the W.M., a Past Master's jewel was unanimously voted to Bro. Colonel Somerville Burney, for his great services in the chair, and in founding the Lodge, and was presented to him, for which he returned thanks. On the proposition of Bro. Rioch, a Past Master's jewel was unanimously voted to Bro. Frank Richardson P.M., for his services as acting Past Master and Treasurer of the Lodge, and was presented to him by the W.M., for which he returned thanks. A beautifully embroidered alms bag was presented to the Lodge by Bro. Frank Richardson P.M. The annual banquet took place at the Café Royal, 68 Regent-street, upwards of 50 brethren being present.

This Lodge was consecrated 17th May 1876, by R. W. Bro. the Earl of Limerick P.G.M. Bristol. Lt.-Col. H. S. Somerville Burney P.M., P.G.S.D. of Essex, first W.M. It now numbers 78 members, of whom 29 have been initiated in the year, or one less than could have been made by the Constitutions at the six regular meetings. These include 1 Peer, 1 Count, 1 Baronet, 2 Chevaliers, 2 M.P.'s, 1 Ex-M.P., 5 Priests, 5 Justices of the Peace, 17 holding University or Literary Degrees, and 38 who hold, or have held, Commissions in the Army, Navy, or Militia. Donations have been made of one hundred guineas to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, one hundred guineas to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and £50 to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, qualifying the Lodge as a Vice-President of all the Charities, a thing never done before by any Lodge in its first year of existence. The lists of the W.M. for these Charities were large ones, one member giving an annual subscription of five guineas to each of the three Charities.

The Apollo University Lodge, No. 357, met at the Masonic Hall, Oxford, on Tuesday, 29th May, at 7 p.m., for initiations and other business. Bro. Lieut.-Colonel the Hon. W. E. Sackville-West M.A., P. Prov. G. Sup. W. Oxon W.M.

The Philips Chapter Rose Croix met at the Athenæum, Lancaster, on Wednesday, 30th May, at 8 p.m. Bro. W. J. Sly 18° M.W.S.

The Prince of Wales' Tour: A Diary in India; with some account of the Visits of His Royal Highness to the Courts of Greece, Egypt, Spain, and Portugal. By William Howard Russell. With illustrations by Sydney P. Hall, M.A., Artist in the Suite of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. London: Sampson Low, Marston, Searle and Rivington, Crown-buildings, 188 Fleet-street. 1877.

Towards three o'clock in the afternoon of the day in which the royal travellers reached Bombay, the preparations for the reception of Lord Northbrook on board the Serapis were completed, and soon a salute from a shore battery, taken up by the ships of the two squadrons, announced that Her Majesty's Viceroy had embarked. On boarding the ship, his Excellency was conducted by Lord Suffield to the Prince, who received him very cordially, and the two introduced to each other the several members of their respective suites. About half an hour later the Governor General of Bombay, Sir Philip Wodehouse, and the Commander-in-Chief, Sir Charles Staveley, went on board, and were received in an equally ceremonious manner, but Sir Philip did not long remain, having to return to the dockyard to join the party awaiting the Prince's landing. At length the moment had come when His Royal Highness should first set foot on Indian soil. A number of boats containing his suite preceded the royal barge, and, writes Mr. Russell, "looking back from one of these, a noble pageant, lighted up by a declining sun, met the eye—the hulls of the fleet, bright streamers and banners, long rows of flags from yard to yard and mast to mast, white boats, a flotilla of steam-launches, gigs, pinnaces, and a crowd of on-lookers hastening fast as oar could send them in wake of the royal barge to the Dockyard." But brilliant as was the water pageant, the scene in the Dockyard must have eclipsed it. Where ordinarily was to be seen only a common-place and very ugly landing, appeared "a vast triumphal arch, spanning the water-way between two piers, but gay with banners, branches and leaves, and with decorations of palm and cocoa-nut." But the scene beneath this arch was "perhaps the most strange and picturesque assemblage ever seen of late days in any part of the world." There were long lines of benches, covered with the inevitable scarlet-cloth, and the same material was laid along the avenue as far as the gate where the carriages were waiting. But it was the occupants of the benches who lent the scene its strange appearence. There were "Chiefs, Sirdars, and native gentlemen of the Presidency, multitudes of Parsees, rows of Hindoos, Mahrattas, and Mahommedans," "a crowd glittering with gems," and presenting "the appearance of bright enamel, or of a bed of gay flowers, agitated by a gentle breeze." In addition, were the officers of government, the Municipal body of Bombay, all the naval and military officers who could be spared, and various other dignitaries, and "all the ladies who could be found within the radius of some hundreds of miles, and who had hastened to greet the Prince with their best smiles and bonnets." When the Prince had landed, Mr. Russell tells us "the anxiety of the chiefs to see him was almost painful," and "for once, they were much agitated, and the proudest departed from the cover of their habitual reserve."

They had some difficulty in identifying him, but when they did so, "the frankness of his smile, and the candid look with which he surveyed them," produced a favourable impression. Of course, sundry addresses were presented, to each of which the Prince vouchsafed a suitable reply. Then as he passed along, he shook hands with most of the chiefs, being especially gracious to the younger ones. The procession had an apparently interminable distance to traverse, and Mr. Russell considers it would have been better had there been more music and a greater military display. As to the scene thus presented along the route, Mr. Russell writes: "There was something almost supernatural in those long vistas, winding down banks of variegated light, crowded with gigantic creatures tossing their arms aloft, and indulging in extravagant gesture, which the eye—baffled by rivers of fire, blinded with the glare of lamps, blazing magnesium wire, and pots of burning matter, sought in vain to penetrate." And a little further on he writes thus:—

"Windows filled with Parsee women—matrons, girls, and children—the bright hues of whose dresses, and the brilliancy of whose jewels, emulated the coloured fires burning along the pavement—scarcely attracted one's notice before it was challenged by the next house, filled with a crowd of devout Mahommedans, or by a Hindoo temple opposite, with its Brahmins and its votaries, on steps and roof; flanked appropriately by a Jew bazaar, or by an Armenian store, or by the incongruity of a European warehouse; or was solicited by the grotesque monitors on a Jain Temple. For if the changes in the chess board are so numerous as to furnish matter for profoundest calculations, the extraordinary varieties of race and population in Bombay present endless subjects for study."

At length, however, Parell House, where the Prince was to stay, was reached, and then came, to crown the labours of the day, a long official banquet. The record for the following day begins with a neat little sketch of life in India.

"Once more in a tent, with black faces all around me! People and trees and surroundings all different—mango trees and mango birds, the gold mohur-tree, cocoa nut and toddy trees (Borassus flabelliformis), the wheeling kites overhead—higher still, the soaring vultures—the cry of the great woodpecker, and the chattering of the familiar minar; a new land, but a glance revealed that you were in India, and you felt it too. There is the Headquarters' barber, in a great red Mahratta turban, waiting outside—a handsome, smooth-faced fellow, who makes his English go a long way, and who is a master in his art, though his fingers are deadly cold, and he is for his trade overfond of garlic. Him, be sure, you will never lose sight of as long as you are in India. There is the bheestie with his water-skin ready to fill your tub. There is the syce with your horse outside, if you are minded for a morning ride. There is the sweeper hovering in the distance, the khelassies or tent-pitchers awaiting orders, the khitmutgar with a cup of coffee, and the Bombay 'boy'—in my case one Jivan—a slight, quiet, demure-looking man of forty or so—who has already taken possession of my property—boxes, bags, clothes, money and all—to the intense astonishment of Maclachlan, who would have resisted his assumptions by force, but that I told him it was the custom of the country. These and others. Each tent is a centre of existence to seven or eight of the people called 'Natives,' to whom you are for the time being lord and master. The impudent and irrepressible crows, which are already marking you for their own, are taking accurate note of your proceedings, and studying your character from the branches of the mango-tree overhead, and have been trying your patience by making a prodigious cawing and croaking on the top of your tent."

This being the first day of the Prince's visit, was devoted to the Chiefs. It happened, likewise, to be the anniversary of his birthday, and, consequently, the fatigue he had to endure was unusually great, while the ceremonies in which he was to play the leading part were novel, and must have been exceedingly tiresome. Thus, "the heat even at 8 a.m. was quite sufficient to warn us that we were in India, and yet the Prince was obliged to wear a uniform of European cloth, laden with lace and buttoned up to the throat, and to stand and sit for hours, going through the same kind of labour with each of the Rajas whom he received, who, after a time, must have appeared very much like the same people who had just left the room and were coming back again—figures lighted up with jewels, followed by crowds in white robes and gay head-dresses." In the audience-chamber where the chiefs were received, the preparations were very gorgeous. Servants in scarlet and gold surcoats and turbans were ranged along the room. For the Prince had been prepared a silver throne; behind it were four servitors, two with peacocks' feathers and horse-tails, and two with broad fans; and ranged along the wall, to the left and right of it were twenty-four chairs, with a second row behind. But the most important of all was the carpet, which plays so conspicuous a part in these Eastern Durbars—on this occasion, however, the visits were considered as private—a purple or crimson cloth with gold lace borders, and in the centre an emblazonment of the Royal Arms and motto in full. We need not, however, dwell long on the scene, gorgeous and ever-varying as it was as regards the visitors, albeit its general aspect was one of sameness. The first visitor was the Rajah of Kolhapur, a boy of twelve years old. "He was attired in purple velvet and white muslin, and was encrusted with gems. His turban was a wealth of pearls and rubies; his neck like an array of the show-cases of some great jeweller." He was accompanied by his Sirdars "in their Oriental bravery of shawls, jewels, and tissue of gold." Then came the Maharajah of Mysore, a boy of thirteen—"The jewels which literally hung on him must be of enormous value. One stone of the many of his necklace is said to be worth nine lacs of rupees. . . . . He wore a coat of black velvet. His neck, wrists, arms, and ankles, were encircled with strings of pearls, diamonds, and rubies. His turban was graced with an aigrette of brilliants of large size, and a large tuft of strings of big pearls and emeralds hung down on his shoulder from the top." The third to appear, we are told, according to Sir Thomas Roe, is descended from Porus, and is described as tall, good-looking, and very fair, very dignified in his carriage and manners, and seemingly conscious of his origin. "He was dressed all in white—turban, robe, and pantaloons. But on his head-dress there was an aigrette of magnificent diamonds, and he exhibited on his neck and on his arms some great pearls and rubies, and his gold sash was ornamented with a buckle set with the finest brilliants. His sword-hilt and sheath were richly studded with precious stones." The Sirdars, who accompanied him were even more gorgeous. Of the other chiefs may be mentioned the Rao of Cutch, who had made a long and painful journey in order to see the Prince for just a few moments, and indeed only returned to his state to die; and the young Gaekwar of Baroda, whom the Paramount Power placed on the throne. He is described as "a small, delicately-framed lad for his twelve years and more, with a bright pleasant face. He was weighted, head, neck, chest, arms, fingers, ankles, with such a sight and wonder of vast diamonds, emeralds, rubies, and pearls, as would be worth the loot of many a rich town." He was accompanied by Sir Madhava Rao, who is regent during the little Gaekwar's sovereignty, and of whose career a short, yet interesting sketch, is given. The Nizam of Hyderabad was unable to pay his homage in person on account of his feeble health, but a deputation, headed by Sir Salar Jung G.C.S.I., his Prime Minister, attended. Many other chiefs were received, and we should imagine the Prince was heartily glad when the receptions were at length ended. But the work of the day was not yet ended. The crews of the Serapis and Osborne were celebrating the Prince's birthday, His Royal Highness having made special provision for this, so that a visit to the former was included in the programme. Then, in the evening, there were the illuminations of the city and fleet to be inspected, and an extremely grand display was made. Following this, a State banquet was given by Governor Sir Philip Wodehouse in honour of the happy event. Last of all, came a reception, which was attended by many of the chiefs. On the next day the Prince received the minor chiefs, after which he held a kind of levee at the "Secretariat" or Government buildings, where he spent an hour in bowing to the two thousand, more or less, of native gentlemen, who passed before him. Then came the Children's Fête. "Boys and girls of all castes, classes, and creeds, dressed in the most brilliant colours, were collected under their various teachers, to the number of 7,000, with banners flying, and insignia denoting the schools to which they belonged, driving one again for comparison to the oft-used image of wide-spread banks of flowers in full bloom; and these were in full bloom, if not with ruddy cheeks, at least with that peculiar light and glow which indicate youth and health in this part of the world, and with an intensity of eye which, except in Spain and Italy, is not seen out of India; and as the Prince, almost with difficulty, made his way up to the elevated stand, where he was to hear the song in his honour, and to present himself to the little multitude, the cries, the cheers, and hurrahs which arose, indicated their possession of excellent lungs. Finally, he was almost smothered in garlands and wreaths of flowers." This must have been one of the most agreeable of the innumerable episodes which marked his progress through India. The evening was devoted to paying return visits to the chiefs, and on this occasion, most of the restraint which had been felt by the latter on visiting the Prince, had disappeared altogether. The Byculla Ball, which was a brilliant scene, closed the proceedings of the day. Under date of 11th of November, we have a graphic description of Indian juggling. Then more return visits, and then the entertainment given by the City of Bombay to the two thousand sailors of the fleet. The Prince visited the gallant tars during their entertainment. How he was received will be best given in the narrator's own words:—

"And to hear these two thousand sailors cheer when they saw the Prince of Wales enter and advance to the centre of the canvas hall, all draped with flags, was great comfort in itself—a sort of marine assurance that there was, without Chauvinism, no want of the old stuff which some think thinned and worn out by chafing innovation! No wonder the Prince wanted to see them as they saw him, and so he called for a chair to stand upon, and mounting the plank with a glass in his hand, exclaimed, 'My lads!'—such a combination of roar and laugh as broke out at this!—'my lads! I am glad to meet you all! I drink your good health and a happy voyage home.' Well, it would be very difficult to say what these two thousand men would not have tried to do at the Prince's bidding when he spoke these words. I am glad their only task was to keep quiet and get on board, and that they did in the most orderly fashion—albeit they put the wreaths of flowers on their necks, and ornamented their caps with the little flags which graced the table. There never were better behaved fellows, not only at the vast feast spread in immense tents, wherein tables had no time to groan under beef, pudding and beer, and had to bear a good deal of dancing all during the festivities, but in the streets."

The other event of the day was the laying the foundation-stone of the Elphinstone Dock with Masonic honours. Of this Mr. Russell gives only a passing notice, remarking that "the only mistake lay, perhaps, in inviting the chiefs to come and see, and placing them where they could not see anything;" and further, that "it was a surprise to the ignorant to see Parsee, Mahommedan, and Hindoo members of the Craft, but they were there in considerable numbers." All passed on well, and the stone was laid amid general rejoicing. The day was brought to an end, after more return visits, with another grand dinner and reception at Parell. On the 12th of the month, the Prince was entertained in the evening at a banquet in the caves of Elephanta, after which came an inspection of the different chambers of the Temple, and fireworks, amid which he left on his return to Parell. On the 13th the Prince set out on an excursion to Poonah, passing en route Kirkee, where was fought the battle in which the British had overthrown the Mahratta Empire some fifty-eight years previous. Arrived at Poonah, there was a round of festivities—receptions, a ball, a visit to the famous temple of Parbuttee, and a review of the Division—the Prince returning to Bombay early on the 16th, and quitting it the 18th, on a visit to Baroda, which was reached the day following. Some anxiety had been expressed as to the propriety of paying this visit, having regard to the political complications of a short time previous, our dethronement of the Gaekwar's predecessor, and that many of the dethroned ruler's followers were likely to be in the neighbourhood. However Sir R. Meade was satisfied the visit might be safely made, and it was made. The Prince on reaching Baroda, by rail, found the little Gaekwar awaiting him at the station, and after a few minutes conversation, was conducted by the latter to the elephant which they were to mount together. This is described as "an elephant of extraordinary size; on his back was a howdah of surpassing splendour, which shone like burnished gold in the morning sun, and which was either made of gold or of silver gilt. It was covered with a golden canopy. This exquisitely finished carriage, reported to have cost four lakhs of rupees, was placed on cloth of gold and velvet cushions, fastened over the embroidered covering that almost concealed the outline of the great elephant, which stood swaying his painted proboscis to and fro as if he kept time to the music of the bands outside. His head was coloured of a bright saffron, and on this ground were traced quaint scrolls. His proboscis was especially ornamented in different coloured patterns, and his ears were stained of a pale yellowish green. His tusks had been sawn off to the length of three feet, and false tusks of greater diameter, also shortened, were wedged over them by bands of gold. His painted legs were encased in thick round coils of gold. The mahout was attired in a costume befitting such a gorgeous charge. Attendants stood by with state umbrellas, fans of peacocks' feathers, yaks' tails, and streamers of scarlet and cloth of gold, which they waved before the Prince, others held the silver ladder for him to ascend to the howdah." The Prince having been helped up, the Gaekwar and Sir Madhava Rao followed, and took their seats, the former by the side of his guest. Then, at the word to rise, "the mountainous creature swayed to and fro, and the Prince held on strenuously to the rail in front, while the animal was establishing itself on its forelegs." As the animal made its first stride, a salute of artillery was begun. Other elephants, gaudily, and in some cases as gorgeously attired, followed, and there was a line of elephants to clear the way, preceded by an advanced guard and escort of the 3rd Hussars, while in the rear was a half battery of Royal Artillery, a detachment of the 83rd Regiment, and troops of the Gaekwar, followed by a miscellaneous crowd of Parsees, Sirdars, Mahrattas, and others. On reaching the Residency, where the best arrangements had been made that circumstances would permit, the Gaekwar left for his Palace, after a Durbar at which the Sirdars were presented, and the suite presented to the Gaekwar. In the afternoon the Prince returned the visit, traversing the city of Baroda for that purpose, there being a large crowd lining the route that was traversed, and several triumphal arches. He also paid a visit to the Gaekwar's mother, described as "an exceedingly engaging and graceful lady, not yet thirty years of age, with a pleasant face, bright eyes, and agreeable smile. Her hands and feet are particularly small and well-shaped." His Royal Highness then set out for the Agga, or arena for wild-beast combats, and here he witnessed in succession several wrestling bouts, combats between a pair of elephants, two rhinoceroses, and two buffaloes, the whole concluding with an exhibition of fighting rams, &c. In the evening he dined with the officers of the 9th Native Infantry. The following day, the Prince went on his first shikar party, there being a strong muster of sportsmen, together with some half-dozen cheetahs, and some fierce dogs of the Persian type. Towards the latter part of the day, the Prince tried stalking, and shot a fine buck, after which the party returned to Baroda, and dined with the officers of the 22nd Native Infantry. The next day a visit to the Gaekwar's palace, inspection of Crown jewels, and grand banquet; then another day's shooting, and then a return to Bombay, and then departure from the latter on board the Serapis on a visit to Goa.

Chapter VII. contains a highly interesting account of the visit to Ceylon. One great drawback to locomotion here is the leech, which abounds everywhere. At the outset the narrator experienced discomfort from these bloodsuckers. "A sharp prick above the ankle directed my attention downwards, and I saw a small black body, not much thicker than a pin, which gave decided signs of life, contracting and expanding itself vigorously from one point, just above the shoe. I caught hold of the little black thread in my hand, and pulled it away; where it had been a spot of blood appeared; in a second the leech fastened upon my finger. The place was swarming with the wretches. I had inadvertently walked on the greensward, populous with these bloodsuckers. I instantly fled, and resolved to wear shoes no more in these latitudes." A few pages further on we read, "'Will you take this off my neck, if you please?' 'Hang it! there's one on the calf of my leg!' They came wriggling and jumping along the grass. They must smell one's blood. If you stood on the gravel walk for a few moments, you could see them making their way from all parts of the surrounding country towards you as a common centre of interest. Most horrible of all their properties—they can stand erect on their tails and look out for what is coming." Among the objects of special interest which the Prince inspected was the "Sacred Tooth of Gotama Buddha," in a Wihara, or sacred chamber, in a tower adjoining the Malagawa Temple. While here also, the Prince enjoyed some elephant hunting, and brought down his first elephant in excellent style. On the return home, the carriage conveying His Royal Highness came to grief, and shot the occupants one against the other, but without doing any damage. On leaving Ceylon, Tinnevelly, Trichinopoly, and Madras are successively visited, and among the sights at the last-named must be mentioned the Madras Races, and the illumination of the surf. On the 23rd December the Serapis reached Calcutta, and Lord Northbrook came off to welcome him as at Bombay. We need not dwell upon the events of the visit to the metropolis of our Indian empire, as they closely resemble those of which we have made mention, at Bombay. There were the receptions of the chiefs, and the return visits paid them; ceremonials almost as tiresome to record as to witness, but necessarily part and parcel of the Royal progress. Here, however, on New Year's day 1876, was held a Grand Chapter of the Order of the Star of India, at which the Prince, as representing Her Majesty, conferred the different degrees of the Order on different native chiefs and English officials. In the afternoon, His Royal Highness unveiled the statue erected in memory of the late Earl Mayo, and, later on, was present on the race course, as spectator of a Polo match, between the Calcutta and Munipari players. On the 3rd January, the Prince's visit to the capital ended, and he left for the interior. The reception at the old fort of Ramnagar, by the Maharaja of Benares, was one of the most brilliant episodes in the whole journey. It is thus described:—

"The river-bank was blazing with the twittering of feux de joie; the air lighted up by the discharges of artillery from the ancient parapets; the battlements of the fort were illuminated. Silver flambeaux and torches were held by people on parapets, walls and river banks, which were as light as day. Preceded by mace bearers, spearsmen and banners, the Prince and the Maharaja were borne in gold and silver chairs, on men's shoulders, up the ascent from the river to the castle gate, between lines of matchlockmen and cavalry. Elephants, accompanied by wild music, marched on the left, shootee sowars rode on the right. Before the massive gateway, flanked by men in chain armour, the Maharaja's infantry presented arms. There, in the courtyard, was a line of elephants, bearing gold and silver howdahs. In another courtyard were assembled the retainers and the officials of the household, who received the Royal visitor with profound salaams. The Maharaja led the Prince upstairs, where, after the usual presentations and a short conversation, a long file of servitors laid examples of gold brocade, of the famed kinkob of Benares, Dacca muslin, and costly shawls at the Prince's feet, while the Maharaja sat, like a benevolent old magician in spectacles and white moustache, smiling in his hall, with his hands joined in a deprecating way as each tray was laid on the ground, as though he would say, 'Pardon that unworthy offering!' The Maharaja then conducted the Prince to a room, where other beautiful presents were laid out on tables. In a third room, a rich banquet was served, which was untouched."

At Lucknow, the Prince laid the foundation stone of the memorial to the native officers and soldiers who fell in the memorable defence of the Residency. When the ceremony was over, by a "happy unpremeditated thought," as Mr. Russell puts it, the Prince requested that the surviving veterans who were in attendance should be presented to him. The scene which followed was most touching. We read of one veteran "led in by his sons, nearly blind from a wound," who exclaimed, "'Let me see him.' The Prince, understanding what he meant, told the officers to permit him to approach. The veteran, with his hand to his turban at the salute came quite close, peered into the Prince's face, drew a deep sigh, and said, 'I thank Heaven I have lived to see this day and the Prince's face;' but when he felt that the Prince had taken his hand, he burst into tears, and was led sobbing away." Then came the visit to the Memorial at the Well of Cawnpore. Then Delhi was visited, where was held a grand review in honour of the occasion. Afterwards Lahore, Agra, Gwalior, and other famed cities were similarly honoured. Lastly, the Prince had the opportunity of enjoying some rare sport in the Nepaul jungle, under the conduct of the late Sir Jung Bahadoor, tiger and elephant being the principal quarry. The reader will doubtless enjoy this part of the volume, as there is some of the best descriptive writing in it, and more than one exciting adventure. However, we feel it imperative to bring this notice to a conclusion. We have enjoyed reading it, and though it is inevitable that in books of this kind there should be a certain degree of monotony, yet this, our readers will well believe, in the skilful hands of Mr. Russell, is reduced to a minimum. The illustrations are numerous, and several of them are exceedingly happy; but we hardly think they are on a level with the requirements of such a work. Were they all of the same standard as that representing "The Pleasures of the Chase—Pad Elephant," "A War Dance at Delhi," or "Ceylon—the Dead Elephant," we should experience a greater amount of enthusiasm for the work of the artist. With these remarks, we take leave of one of the most interesting books of its kind which it has been our good fortune to read.

WHAT MIGHT BE.

IF we look over the written history of our Fraternity, we shall find that very shortly after the revival of 1717 in London, it was brought to this country, and finding congenial soil, it took root and grew, slowly at first, as was but natural in a sparsely settled country, and more vigorously when the colonies had became a nation, so that Ben. Franklin and his Lodge, at the Hoop, in Water-street, Philadelphia, have grown into ten thousand Lodges and more than half a million Masons. The end is not, for annually there is an increase in the number of the brethren and the family circles, called Lodges, where they meet and transact business. During the period of little more than a century in which the transformation from a handful to a vast army has taken place, we shall find that, apart from the mere routine, the reception of profanes, the making of laws and supervising their execution, the giving to the needy—of which we desire, in the spirit of the Institution, to make no boast, rather wishing that, in so far as that particular branch of our labour is concerned the right hand may not know what the left is doing—during this period we may say we have devoted ourselves to growing. We have so cared for our stewardship that its roots have deeply penetrated the soil, and its leaves and branches spread themselves abroad until in every state of humanity we find it represented, and within its grasp a power not equally possessed by any other human association, for the reason that within our assemblies there is nothing to arouse the divisions and animosities among men that naturally grow out of their varying opinions on matters pertinent to this or the other world—to this in the scramble for wealth, position, power; the heartburnings of rank and caste and station—to the other in that old battle between Armageddon and the rest, in which, as a general rule, you can only go to heaven if you see your way through my spectacles, or vice versa, you are sure to bring up in outer darkness if you look through your own. This at least then we have accomplished, that we have gathered together half a million intelligent men, not one of whom has given up or been expected to give up an idea of his religious faith, or of his political convictions, but yet who see for themselves that it is possible for men to entertain the most thoroughly opposite ideas, and yet recognise the fact that they are still men, and may live in accord, and work happily together for good, notwithstanding that they vote different tickets, or take different roads to reach the final rest. That in reaching this result we have been the disciples and exemplars of toleration in the largest and most beneficial way cannot be successfully contradicted, and this especially, because while we have no special faith to advocate neither have we any to oppose, and so leaving every one unmolested in the pursuit of what may be happiness to him, we are, so to speak, the custodians of a pleasant retreat, where men may forget for a time the world and its strife in the enjoyment of friendship and social communion unmarred by jarring incentives.

But the question presents itself, are we not capable as an organisation of more extended usefulness? Are we, considering the material of which our association is composed, exercising our real weight in the community and demonstrating, as we might do, the real value of associated effort? Every thinking man will at once say No—decidedly No. Take an illustration: Masonry has a literature, as witness its thousands of published volumes, from the balderdash of the parrot up to the effusions of the scholar and philosopher, and yet, except the mere manuals and guides to the ceremonial, we doubt whether any Masonic author ever got as much for his labour as he could have earned with a shovel in the same length of time. No Masonic journal has ever had more than a temporary success; not one has ever been permanently established, and there is not, to the best of our belief, one brother who has devoted himself to the literature of Masonry, to the instruction of the brethren, and to the championship of the Institution, who has not poverty for his reward. And yet, how different all this might be? If only one brother in ten would feel called by his pride in the Craft to remember the agency by which, more than all others, it has been enabled to resist the attacks of its enemies, and stand before the world as proudly as to-day it does, its power and security would be still further enhanced, and its servants have some brighter visions in the future than that of a pauper's grave.—*N. OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Dial, Welfare and Cardiff Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their b ographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

"The inquiring Brother who may wish to know something of the strength and beauty of the principles of Masonry, will find a pleasure in scanning the characteristic pictures in this book."—The Brighouse News.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,' whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of it members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

TO-DAY is fixed for the official celebration of Her Majesty's birthday, the actual anniversary having fallen on the 24th ult. Of course there will be the usual demonstrations of loyalty; for, though the day itself may be set apart for the purpose, there is not in England, as in some other countries, the slightest necessity for organising any periodical displays of affection for the sovereign who has so long and so ably ruled over us. There will be the usual parade at the Horse Guards, and a field-day on Woolwich Common, while in all garrison towns there will certainly be some kind of military display more or less effective. Then, in the evening, the streets at the West End will be thronged with sightseers, all anxious to see the illuminations. No doubt it will require careful steering to find one's way comfortably along such thoroughfares as Regent-street, Bond-street, and Piccadilly. We may reckon that Mr. Poole, the tailor of Saville-row, will make as brilliant a display as in past years, that the clubs will be all ablaze with light, and indeed generally, that there will be plenty to see, and vast crowds to see it. The different ministers have already issued invitations for the customary banquet this evening, so that from the highest to the lowest there will be ample opportunity for celebrating the auspicious event. Let us hope the Clerk of the Weather will be reasonably kind, and allow Londoners and their country cousins to enjoy themselves in their own way.

On Thursday last the Prince of Wales returned from his visit to Sir Hastings Doyle. The day following he lunched with the Prince and Princess Christian at Cumberland Lodge, Windsor Park, dining in the evening with the Baron and Baroness Lionel de Rothschild at their residence in Piccadilly. On Saturday he was present with his two daughters at the Grand Military Concert at the Royal Albert Hall, in aid of the funds of the Royal Cambridge Asylum for Soldiers' Widows. On Tuesday, accompanied by Prince Christian, he honoured the Earl and Countess of Wilton with his presence at dinner, and on Wednesday he was at Epsom, and witnessed the great race of the year, as he has done almost regularly for many years. The Princess of Wales left Athens on Tuesday morning, accompanied by the King and Queen of Greece. On reaching Corinth, the latter were to take farewell, and the Princess was to continue her journey in the Osborne to Brindisi, whence she was to travel by rail the greater part of the way home. The Duchess of Edinburgh, is at Cobourg with her children. On Tuesday, Prince Leopold left Balmoral Castle for London, Oxford, and Boyton.

Even wars and rumours of war do not lessen to any appreciable extent the interest which the general public takes in the Derby. The race itself, perhaps, may not have been as attractive as in some years we remember, but the course was as thronged as ever, amongst the most illustrious of those who witnessed the contest for the Blue Riband of the turf being, as we have said, the Prince of Wales, with whom also was Prince Christian. Among others who flocked to the Downs were the Chinese Ambassadors, who probably did not understand the exact nature of the festivities it was their fortune to be spectators of. The roughness of an English crowd is not likely to commend itself to the grave dignitaries of the Celestial Empire. As regards the race itself, there was a field of seventeen, or two more than the number which ran last year. An excellent start was effected, and a good race ended in favour of Silvio, a Blair Athol colt, which passed the winning post first, by half a length, Glen Arthur obtaining second place, while Rob Roy was just three quarters of a length behind, Rhidorroch losing the honour of a place by a head only. The owner of the winning horse is Lord Falmouth, and this is the second occasion on which his lordship has secured this important prize.

It seldom happens that England has the opportunity of showing hospitality to a more illustrious visitor than General Grant, ex-President of the United States, who reached Liverpool on Monday afternoon, and has since arrived in London, where he will be the guest of the American Minister, Mr. Pierrpoint. General Grant received his education at West Point, but at the time the Civil War broke out between the Northern and Southern States he did not hold very high rank. He soon, however, showed his fitness for important commands, and in time achieved several important successes, especially the capture of Fort Donnelson and Vicksburg. When McClellan, Hooker, Burnside, Pope, and other Generals were successively beaten in their attempts against General Lee, President Lincoln summoned General Grant to take the command and after a series of desperate engagements, in which, it is hard to say, whether the stubborn determination of the Federal or the skill of the Confederate were the more admirable, he succeeded in driving the Confederates from their Capital, and thus achieved a decisive victory for the Northern arms. When President Johnson's term of office was about determining, General Grant stood as candidate for the Presidency on the republican platform, and was elected. He enjoyed a second term of office, and in March last retired to make way for President Hayes. Other ex-Presidents of the United States have visited these shores, but none of them were so illustrious as Grant. There may, of course, have been times during his period of office when the relations between the two countries left something to be desired, but it was as natural that President Grant should take an American view of the interests of his country as that we should regard British interests from a British point of view. We feel certain, however, that General Grant will meet with an enthusiastic welcome in old England. He has, indeed, already been most flatteringly received at Liverpool and Manchester, and there is every reason to believe that he will be presented by the Corporation of London with that mark of respect which custom prescribes should be shown to illustrious foreigners. For the matter of that, indeed, we can hardly speak of one who bears the British name of Grant as being a foreigner. We can only add that England will extend to him the right hand of good fellowship without the slightest arrière pensée.

And while speaking of the arrival among us of the most illustrious of American soldiers and statesmen, it is only fitting we should pay our humble tribute of respect to the memory of another worthy citizen of the United States, who died as recently as Tuesday, at Kingston, Dorsetshire. We are alluding to Mr. J. L. Motley, whose name as the historian of the Dutch Republic is as familiar among all classes of Englishmen as a household word, and whose fame will be co-existent with the English language. Mr. Motley was born at Dorchester, Massachusetts, on 15th April 1814, and had therefore entered on his 64th year. He graduated at the Harvard University in 1831. In 1841 he became United States Secretary of Legation at St. Petersburg. In 1851 he again visited Europe. In 1861 he was appointed Minister Plenipotentiary at Vienna, from which position he was recalled in 1867. On the accession of President Grant, in 1869, he was appointed Minister in London, but held the office for a year only. Mr. Motley was a member of the principal literary societies in Europe and America, and had had conferred upon him the honorary degree of D.C.L. at Oxford, and that of LL.D. at Cambridge. We have already mentioned the work on which his literary fame principally rests, but besides this and other historical works, he was the author of many contributions to periodical literature. In him the United States undoubtedly loses one of its foremost men of letters.

On Tuesday the City of Brussels, which left New York on the 21st April, reached Liverpool, after an unusually protracted passage of thirty-eight days. She had scarcely left New York when the screw-shaft broke, and she had to continue her voyage under sail, and as the weather was most unfavourable, the progress she made from day to-day was very slow. However, the passengers behaved admirably, and managed to pass the time comfortably. Of course they had to put up with some inconvenience, but this was endured philosophically. All of them speak in the highest terms of the conduct and kindness of Captain Watkins, the commander of the vessel. There were 76 cabin and 111 steerage passengers on board, and of the latter, one who suffered from chronic bronchitis died.

It is somewhat of a novelty to read of a highway robbery of the old-fashioned sort occurring within a few miles of London—indeed, within the limits of the metropolitan district. Yet, on Monday evening, the carriage of Mr. Hodgson, one of the Treasury solicitors, when traversing a lonely part of Blackheath, was stopped by two men, who first compelled the coachman to pull up, and then presented pistols at the head of Mr. Hodgson. The latter, who was accompanied by his sister and niece, fearing for the ladies, gave the men five shillings, but this did not content them, and he then gave them his purse, containing £17 in notes and gold. The men then made off, but as yet the police have obtained no clue to this daring robbery.

The excitement over the recent dismissal of the Simon Ministry continues throughout all France; but it is noticeable, of course, chiefly in Paris. It is impossible to forecast the issue of the struggle between the President who has declared he will remain firm, and the Republican party who possess an immense majority in the Legislative Chamber.

As regards the war, there are some items of news to record. The Special Correspondent of one of our daily contemporaries speaks of a fresh repulse of the Russians before Batoum, and of the recapture by the Turks of Ardehan. In addition, the attempt to bring about a rising in the Caucasus is said to be causing the Russians a great deal of anxiety and trouble, not only as regards the locality of the insurrection itself, but also on the banks of the Danube, whence all the Circassian troops are said to have been retired into the interior at a distance from the seat of war. On the Danube the Turks have experienced the loss of another ironclad gunboat, which was sunk by torpedoes, so that naval men, when fuller news arrives of this exploit, will be in a better position to judge of the power of this devilish instrument of warfare. It is unpleasant to contemplate the possibility that any one of our own magnificent ironclads may be sent to the bottom, or blown into the air, by a comparatively insignificant, yet terrible engine of war. This, however, is merely a remark en passant. As regards other news from Eastern Europe, there is little to add, as no attempt as yet has been made to cross the Danube. But there is political trouble apparently looming in the near future. Servia is becoming again restless, and the Greek Ministry, which was anxious to maintain neutrality, has been driven from office, and a demonstration made before the Royal Palace at Athens. All this is very unsatisfactory, as it indicates a possibility that the war may not long be confined within its present limits. Meantime, the greatest activity reigns in our dockyards, and the Channel Fleet is on the point of sailing—it is said by one daily paper, for Gibraltar. Let us hope that England will not have to change this attitude of careful observation.

Most of our readers have necessarily heard of Bro. Constable's tickets; we are assured that a majority have seen them. An esteemed brother, speaking only the other day, told us that for the last six months they had haunted him by day, and he had dreamed of them by night. "However," added he, "they have a mission to fulfil, and that mission will soon be brought to an end." We are led to these remarks by the fact that, knowing as we do the number of tickets our "Man of Energy" has issued, and the absolute necessity for an early return of the same being made, sufficient time may be allowed for the return of those yet outstanding between now and the day fixed for drawing. There is, moreover, another reason. A contemporary of ours has spoken of Bro. Constable having launched no less than 12,000 of these tickets on the Masonic waters, and our anxiety is that none of the said tickets may be left floating about uselessly, as "flotsam and jetsam," till the time is past. Speaking seriously, we wish our brother success, and announce that the day for drawing will be the 13th inst., the place, Masons' Hall, Masons' Avenue, Basinghall Street, E.C., and the hour 7 p.m.

Elsewhere in our columns will be found a report of the installation meeting of the Bayard Lodge. This Lodge, as we pointed out a few weeks ago, has distinguished itself by becoming Vice-Patron of all the Masonic Charities during the first year of its existence; implying the dedication of a considerable sum to the sacred cause of Charity, reflecting no less credit upon its rulers than upon the hearty co-operation of its members. We offer our cordial congratulations to No. 1615.

A Lodge of Instruction has been formed under the sanction of the Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780. It meets every Friday evening, at 7.30, at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew Bridge.

Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow.—Concluded their official visitations for the season on Thursday, 17th ult., by going, at 7.30, to St. Andrews, No. 465, were they were received by the R.W.M. Bro. David Reid P.G.S.B. and the officers. The report showed the Lodge to be working very satisfactorily, and they had initiated 26 brethren during the official year. They then proceeded to St. Mark Lodge, No. 27, were Bro. Dr. McInnis R.W.M., D. Buller and the officers, as well as a good many visitors were waiting to receive them with due honours. The Deputation consisted of Bros. Easten acting D.P.G.M., J. Jellis P.G.T., G. Sinclair Treas. to Benevolent Fund, W. H. Bickerton P.G.S., Allison P.G.S., James Balfour P.D. of C., A. Bain P.G.B.B., T. Halket P.G.D. of M., J. Booth P.G.I.G. and J. B. Hardie T. The report stated "The books were fairly kept, and the Lodge generally working in accordance with the Constitutions." They had initiated 20 members. The acting P.G.M. said that having now visited all the 29 Lodges of the Province; they were glad to find the great majority of them in such good working order. They wished, however, to see the Benevolent Fund in a more flourishing position, and more worthy of the Order and its own beneficent objects. He would then ask the Treas. of that fund to say a few words to them. Bro. G. Sinclair said, the fund was increasing, but not so fast as they wished. They had a sum of £900 invested, and £40 in hand to carry them through this year; that was, including their receipts of this night; but he wished to make the investments up to £2000, and then with the interest of it, and current subscriptions, he might be able to dispense greater benefits than he was now able to do. He knew an old and wealthy Lodge, like St. Mungo, would assist in soon procuring this sum. Bro. Gillis, Treasurer of the Province, said, he was working with Bro. Sinclair in this, and they looked for the support of every Mason in the Province. Bro. Sinclair had told them that subscription sheets were to be sent to each Lodge. He trusted every member would give at least 1s, many would give more, some £1, others, like the P.G.M., £5 annually, and then the fund would enable them to dispense real and substantial relief to all deserving cases. The R.W.M. said the case was deserving of their serious consideration, but as it was getting late, they had better defer it, especially as the deputation had now concluded their labours. The Lodge would be only honoring themselves by asking them to take a little refreshment. The Lodge was then called off, and a pleasant hour spent in harmony with the brethren.

Provincial Grand Chapter of Lanarkshire.—This Chapter held its Quarterly Communication in St. Mark's Hall, Glasgow, on 25th May, the Prov. G. Supt., F. A. Barrow, presiding, assisted by Comps. W. H. Smith P.G.H., J. Michell P.G.J., James Balfour P.G. Scribe E., G. W. Wheeler P.G.S.N., T. W. Campbell P.G.P.S., D. M. Lamb P.G. 2nd S., George McDonald P.G. 3rd S., and J. Duthie P.G.S. of W. The Scribe E. reported the result of the P.G.C. visitations to the various Chapters in the Province. Comp. Barrow P.G. Superintendent expressed the pleasure he felt in finding all the Chapters in a better position than at the former visitation, and expressed a hope that the Comps. would not slacken their efforts to maintain the dignity of the Order throughout the Province. Comps. W. H. Smith and J. Mitchell, both of whom were unable to be present at the annual meeting, were then initiated into their chairs as P.G.H. and P.G.J. Comp. Muir Z. of Chapter 117 wished to know if it was constitutional to work a Lodge of Mark Masters as a separate degree under the Charter of a Craft Lodge. The Superintendent held that it was not, though in Scotland a Craft Lodge had the power of conferring the Mark degree on Master Masons. The P.G. Scribe read the correspondence between himself and the Grand Scribe E. on this subject, also a communication from the Craft Grand Secretary; and from the replies of both these brethren he held it was unconstitutional for any Royal Arch Mason to take part in working such separate degree. Eventually the P.G.S.E. was instructed to communicate with the Comps. referred to, and also to write to the First Principals of their Chapter, calling their attention to the facts of the case, so that their position may be definitely understood.

Phœnix Chapter, Port Royal, Jamaica, No. 914, Prov. No. 6.—The installation of officers of the above Chapter took place at the Phœnix Hall, Port Royal, on 12th April, when the [illegible] the M.E.Z.'s G. J. de Cordova, Altamont de Cordova and R. Langley P.P.Z.:—M.E. Comps. Osmond Delgado sen. P.Z., David Barned P.H., Osmond Delgado jun. P.J. The following officers were invested:—Comps. W. J. Lovesy Rutherford S.E., W. Dey Smedmore S.N., L. Cole Hollar P.S., R. Thompson Treasurer, G. P. Myers and J. B. Allen Assist. Sojourners, F. W. Hollar Janitor. Two candidates were duly exalted by the newly installed officers. After the Chapter was duly closed, the brethren retired to a banquet, where the usual Masonic toasts were proposed and heartily responded to. This Chapter is now twelve months old, and about thirty brethren have been exalted. This Chapter being intended for the use of the Navy and Army, the fees have been reduced, so that those who belong to the Navy and Army will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Bro. L. C. Hollar was elected Master, on 10th April 1877, of the Phœnix Lodge, Port Royal. This brother has served the Lodge in capacity of Secretary for three years, and one year as Senior Warden. The installation will take place about 24th May. Bro. R. Thompson has been elected for the fourth time as Treasurer. The installation of officers of the Royal Lodge took place at the Friendly Hall, on 7th May, when the following officers were duly installed:—Wor. W. Andrews jun. Master (second time), A. E. Burke I.P.M., Bros. G. Sargeant Senior Warden, Thorwell Secretary, G. Campbell Treasurer (second time), J. Duff Senior Deacon, J. Romney Junior Deacon, G. Garsia Inner Guard, Simpson and Jackson Stewards, G. Magnus Tyler. The following Past Masters were present, and assisted in the ceremony:—Wor. R. Langley, A. E. Burke, Taylor, Davis, Andrews, and Dias, the installing and retiring Master being Wor. A. E. Burke. After the ceremony of installation had been closed, the brethren retired to a banquet, when the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and heartily responded to. The Royal Lodge is the oldest in the island, being nearly 100 years. During the past year, under the mastership of Wor. A. E. Burke, the finances of the Lodge have been more than it has been for the past six years. The Friendly Rooms will shortly be completed as regards extension and repairs, and the building will then be able to be called a Masonic Hall.

Salisbury Lodge of Instruction, No. 435.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 31st of May, at the Union Tavern, Air-street W. Present—Bros. G. Davis W.M., E. Farwig S.W., F. J. Wray J.W., T. Cull Sec. and acting Past Master, Parkhouse S.D., J. H. Watts J.D., Ward I.G., and a large number of brethren. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. Lodge opened in second and third degrees, and resumed to the first, when the Fifteen Sections were worked by the following brethren:—First Lecture: Bros. W. Corner, — Elborn, T. Cull, C. A. Woods, D. M. Belfrage, J. Bentley, J. H. Watts. Second Lecture: Bros. Sparrow, F. J. Wray, E. Farwig, A. Stewart, R. J. Smith. Third Lecture: Bros. A. C. Burrell, W. J. Collens, J. Davis. Several brethren were elected joining members. A vote of thanks and honorary membership was accorded to the W.M. (Bro. G. Davis), who had so ably worked the sections, and in proposing the vote, Bro. Cull took occasion to remark upon the great proficiency exhibited by the W.M., seeing that he was not two years a Master Mason. The W.M., in acknowledging the compliment, paid a deserved tribute of thanks to the excellent Preceptor, Bro. J. Mander, who had been indefatigable in his tuition. The W.M. proposed a vote of thanks to the fifteen brethren who had so ably seconded his efforts. Bro. Farwig S.W. having responded, the Lodge was closed, and adjourned to Thursday next at the hour of 8 p.m.

INCREASE IN THE CRAFT.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The agenda paper for the meeting of Grand Lodge, to be held next week, gives a list of no less than 25 new Lodges which have been warranted during the past three months. Such an accession to the roll of the Grand Lodge of England is, I believe, unprecedented, and shows a marked increase on most of the returns made during the past two years. These, from Grand Lodge papers I have before me, were as follow:—

	New Lodges.	Home.	Abroad.
September 1875 ...	12	8	4
December „ ...	17	13	4
March 1876 ...	18	14	4
June „ ...	22	19	3
Sept. „ ...	19	18	1
Dec. „ ...	13	8	5
March 1877 ...	16	8	8
June „ ...	25	19	6
	142	107	35

I question much whether this great accession to the number of our Lodges is productive of good to the Order at large. I fear many Lodges are established solely for the sake of getting certain aspiring brethren through the chair, and I sincerely hope that no evil effects will follow.

Feeling this is a matter that might be discussed with advantage, I am induced to trouble you with these few lines.

Yours fraternally,

ONE OF THE OLD SCHOOL.

HINTS TO BATHERS.—There is a little difficulty, either in town or country, in obtaining access to the water. We believe all our large towns are now supplied with swimming baths, in which it is preferable that the beginner should practise, rather than that he should seek an open stream for the purpose. The baths are usually attended by experienced persons, from whom lessons may be obtained if desired, or whose help may be useful in an emergency; and at such places the learner may also gain kindly hints and assistance from others who have recently experienced, and are ready to sympathise with his difficulties. But if the beginner is the denizen of a rural locality which is destitute of such an advantage, he should exercise care in the selection of a spot in which to practise. Let him, in the first place, choose a stream, the bottom of which slopes gradually from the bank, and ascertain its precise depth at various distances. Let him be very careful to select a place which is free from weeds, either attached to the bottom and scarcely seen from the bank, or floating freely on the surface. A clear stream, with a gravelly or sandy bottom, is by far the best. One with a muddy or rough and stony bottom should be avoided; and especially keep clear of water the bed of which is full of deep and sudden holes. Bathing on the sea-shore can only be practised with safety when the beach is shelving, and its general features, as to freedom from rocks, etc., are well known. The novice should select still weather only for the purpose, or the sudden coming in of a wave may take him off his legs and carry him helplessly out to sea. A terrible calamity occurred a few years ago in this way, seven youths out of eight who were bathing on the Hampshire Coast being swept away and drowned. The best time for practising is in the morning, an hour or two after sunrise; but bathing or swimming on an empty stomach is not advisable. A crust of bread, with the addition of a cup of coffee, if practicable, is all, however, that will be necessary. Bathing either shortly before or after a full meal is injurious, but the latter especially so. Take a brisk walk before you enter the water, that the body may be in a glow when you step in; then strip as quickly as possible, and take your plunge while the blood is still coursing freely through the veins. When you have learnt to swim, you will be able to enter by diving; but until you have, you must walk into the water, and in this latter case you should dip the upper part of the body in and out again, otherwise the blood will be driven too much to the head.—From Swimming, in Cassell's Popular Educator for June.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—In all outward complaints a desperate effort should be made to at once remove those annoying infirmities, and establishing a cure. The remarkable remedies discovered by Professor Holloway will satisfactorily accomplish this desirable result, without any of those dangers or drawbacks which attended the old method of treating ulcerative inflammations, scrofulous affections, and eczematic annoyances. The most timid need not stay to use both the Ointment and Pills with the utmost safety with certain success, provided a moderate attention be bestowed on their accompanying "Directions." Both the preparations soothe, heal, and purify. The one assists the other most materially in effecting cures and renewing strength by helping exhausted nature just when she needs such succour.

Posener was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and, from the able manner he works, a large attendance is expected.

Joppa Chapter, No. 188.—The regular convocation of this excellent working Chapter was held on Monday, the 28th inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. Comps. W. Littaur P.Z. as M.E.Z., E. P. Albert P.Z. as H., L. Jacobs J., S. V. Abrahams P.Z. Treas., P. Dickinson S.E., L. Lazarus P.S.; P.Z.'s Comps. S. M. Lazarus, H. M. Levy, J. Lazarus, S. Pollitzer; and Comps. G. Ellis, L. Auerhaan, Brall, Haines, N. Baum, R. G. Howell, J. S. Lyon, Davis, M. Silver, W. J. Jennings, W. H. Cremer, P. Moore, Myers, &c. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Bros. I. P. Cohen W.M. 205, W. Brall 1017, J. W. Dewsnap 188, H. P. Isaac 188, and A. Botibol 188, which ballots were accepted. Bros. S. Botibol, H. P. Isaac, A. Botibol, and C. Roberts, being in attendance, were duly exalted into R.A. Masonry, in a perfect and impressive manner. The election for Principals, Treasurer, and Junior Officers then took place—Comp. W. Littaur P.Z. was elected M.E.Z., L. Jacobs H., P. Dickinson J., S. V. Abrahams P.Z. Treas., Gulliford S.E., J. S. Lyon S.N., M. H. Myers P.S., Smith Janitor. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions sat down to a banquet, provided by Comp. Jennings, and superintended by Comp. M. Silver. Grace having been said, by Comp. Myers, the M.E.Z. proposed the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the newly exalted Companions. By the attention they had paid to the ceremony, he was sure they would prove an accession to the Order. He then gave a beautiful and instructive illustration of the duties of R.A. Masonry, and hoped the Companions would drink the toast as it merited. The Companions having severally responded, Comp. E. P. Albert P.Z. proposed the toast of the Acting Z., Comp. Littaur; all who had seen his working must have had a great Masonic treat. He had ably performed the duties of the three chairs, and every office he had held he had filled in a praiseworthy manner. The acting M.E.Z. then rose; he thanked Comp. Albert for his kind manner in speaking of him; he and Comp. Albert had worked together, and he hoped he had gained the good will of all present. He thanked them sincerely. The M.E.Z. then said he had great pleasure in proposing the toast of the Visitor who had honoured them with his company. The introduction he comes with is sufficient voucher for them to give him a hearty welcome. Comp. Bausor, No. 174, said he was gratified at the manner he had been received, he had been to many Chapters, but had never seen better working, nor more genial hospitality. The toast of the P.Z.'s was then given, and Comp. J. Lazarus responded. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the newly elected H. and J., both Companions are well worthy to fill those offices, he was sure, to their entire satisfaction. Comps. Jacobs and Dickinson severally responded. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the P.S., and spoke well of his capabilities. Comp. L. Lazarus P.S. responded. The Janitor's toast was then given, and the Companions separated.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, on 26th May. Bros. Moss W.M., Defriez S.W., Fenner J.W., Bedwell S.D., Gibbs J.D., Elliston I.G., Pearcy Preceptor, Halford Treasurer, Killick Secretary. The Lodge was opened in the usual order, and the minutes of the last meeting were confirmed. The three ceremonies were rehearsed in a masterly manner. Bro. Defriez was elected W.M. for the next meeting. A cordial vote of thanks was unanimously accorded the W.M.

Commercial Lodge, No. 340, Glasgow.—The regular meeting was held in the Hall, 30 Hope-street. In consequence of the absence from town of the R.W.M., Bro. J. Munro, the Lodge was opened by Bro. J. M. Oliver D.M., W. Findlay S.W., Graham J.W., C. Duncan S.D., A. Barnett I.G. Amongst the visitors were Bros. Smith 3½, A. Watson S.D. 30, J. Callam 48, G. W. Wheeler 73, G. Fisher R.W.M. 129, St. Mirren's, Paisley, with a deputation, namely—Bros. Edwins I.P.M., Macpherson S.P.G.T. of R.E., P.M. Allen, and Wm. Jameson, F. Hardie 354, Wm. Dobbie P.M. 362, McKay 556, and Bro. James McKay 728 (E.C.) Mr. James McDonald, having been unanimously ballotted for, was then introduced and carefully initiated by the acting Master. The Lodge was raised to the sublime degree, and Bro. Thomas Ferguson was obligated by the D.M., when Bro. Munro, having arrived by train, assumed the chair, and completed the ceremony of the 3rd degree, in his usual impressive style. When the Paisley deputation had to [illegible] proposed the thanks of the Lodge to them for their friendly visit. Bro. Fisher acknowledged the compliment; he had had the pleasure of seeing Bro. Oliver there, but the brethren of St. Mirren's would be most happy to receive a return visit from the Lodge. Bro. Munro then, in feeling terms, alluded to the recent death of Bro. Dr. Martin, their I.P.M., and suggested they should hold a funeral Lodge to mark the event, which was agreed too.

Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780.—Tardy though spring has been in its advent this year, Friday, the 25th ult., was a day that the most fastidious of grumblers about our changeable climate could have but little to complain of. As a consequence, the members of the Royal Alfred Lodge, who always come well to the fore, literally besieged the famed Star and Garter, at Kew Bridge, and the worthy host, Bro. Stanbury, had his work cut out to provide accommodation for all who presented themselves. The business of the day commenced at two o'clock, when the W.M., Bro. J. Chambers Roe, took the chair; he was supported by Past Master Brown as S.W., Walter Goss J.W., J. Smith P.M. Treasurer, William Hilton P.M. Secretary, Charles May S.D., William Gomm J.D., J. Dorey I.G., Hale W.S., Gilbert Tyler. Amongst the P.M.'s present we noticed, in addition to those previously enumerated Bros. Gardiner, Littlewood, Potter, Beasley, &c. Bro. Beasley, who we regret to say has just suffered a severe and trying illness, was only present for a short time, but he must have been greatly cheered by the hearty reception he met with, and if the good wishes of his friends are of avail, he will soon be in a position to declare himself once more capable of active duty. After the formal opening of the Lodge, and the reading and confirmation of the minutes, Bros. Joseph Edwin Carter, Alfred Tolliday, Charles P. Brown, and John Child were raised to the sublime degree; the latter Brother at the request of the W.M. of the St. Clement Danes Lodge, No. 1351. The ballot was then taken for Messrs. George Webb, Edward Francis Wyer and William Slater, and the result was in their favour. These gentlemen, with Mr. Thomas Clarke, who had been ballotted for at a previous meeting, were then duly initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry, the ceremony being performed in a most creditable manner by the W.M. Bro. J. Chambers Roe. The routine business having been disposed of, the Lodge was closed. After a short interval, the brethren sat down to a capital banquet, with which all present expressed their satisfaction, and to which full justice was done. On the removal of the cloth, the W.M. gave the Loyal and Masonic toasts. In proposing the health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, he said it was a toast that was always well received wherever Englishmen assembled, and needed no words of his to commend it. After speaking briefly to the health of the M.W.G.M., the health of the Pro G.M., the Deputy G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers, was given, and with this was coupled the name of Bro. P.M. Smith, who referred to the fact that the three principal chairs of Grand Lodge were now held by members of the Royal Family, and expressed a hope, which he was sure would be endorsed by every member of the Craft, that the engagements of the Royal brothers would permit of their being present at the meeting of Grand Lodge fixed for the 6th June. Bro. Smith next referred to the candidature for a seat on the Board of General Purposes of one of their members (Bro. William Hilton P.M.), and urged all present to assist, by their vote or their influence, in promoting his election. He

(Bro. Smith) had held a seat there for 30 years, and he would be gratified if a second member from the Royal Alfred Lodge were selected. The I.P.M. Bro. Gardiner, in felicitous terms, proposed the health of the W.M. Bro. Roe, who, in reply, characterised the present meeting as the happiest and most successful they had had under his presidency. He thanked Bro. Gardiner for his kind remarks, and stated he had strenuously endeavoured to do his duty, and also to induce his officers to render themselves competent for all that was required of them. It was highly gratifying to know that his efforts were appreciated by the members. He then proposed the health of the Visitors. After a capital song by Bro. Goss, Bro. Kysor J.D. 820 responded; he was followed by Bro. W. W. Morgan, and several others, who spoke highly of the way in which the business of the day had been conducted, and of the hospitality shown. The remaining toasts comprised the initiates, severally replied to by the four newly made brethren; the P.M.'s, replied to by Bros. Gardiner and Brown, the latter brother pertinently remarking that a Mason could not be made in a day, and that he did not believe in the "hot-house" process, where a brother was considered capable of doing all that might be required of him within six months after his initiation. Bro. Hilton P.M. replied for the Treasurer and Secretary, and appealed to the brethren assembled to assist him in his candidature for a seat at the Board of General Purposes. After the toast of the Officers had been honoured, the health of Bro. Stanbury, the host of the Star and Garter, was heartily drunk, and suitably replied to. The call for the Tyler brought this pleasant gathering to a termination. During the evening some capital songs were given, Bros. Fernandez, Child, and others, ably distinguishing themselves.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—Held its weekly meeting on Tuesday, 27th May, at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. Lovelock W.M., Hewlett S.W., Barker J.W., E. T. Worsley Sec., Davies S.D., Dallas J.D., Christian 860 I.G., P.M. Wallington Preceptor; Johnson, W. J. Smith, Haine, Pavitt, Saunders, &c. The Lodge was opened with solemn prayer. The minutes read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Haine acting as candidate. Bro. Worsley worked the first and second sections of the lecture, and Bro. Smith the third, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was opened and closed in the three degrees. Bro. W. J. Smith was unanimously chosen W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. It was afterwards arranged that if Bro. Hewlett attended in time, Bro. Smith would give up the chair in his favour. This was in consequence of Bro. Hewlett having to leave the Lodge after the ceremony had been worked. We were pleased to find that this Lodge commenced punctually at 7·30, so that all business was completed and the Lodge closed at 9·20, thus giving those brethren who live at a distance an opportunity of getting away much earlier.

Whittington Chapter, No. 862.—A regular meeting of this flourishing Chapter was held on Friday last, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. The Chapter was opened by Comp. William Stephens M.E.Z., Thomas Kingston H., and W. A. Tinney J. The minutes of the last regular convocation, and Chapter of Emergency were then read and confirmed. Bro. S. Smout, of 1489 and 1642, and Bro. J. Collinson, of the Mother Lodge, were exalted to the R.A. degree, by the M.E.Z.; this was rendered most impressive by the excellent working of the whole of the officers. The election of officers for the ensuing year then took place, Comp. Kingston being elected M.E.Z., Tinney H., W. J. Marlis J., Wm. Stephens Treas., J. Weaver Scribe E., John High Scribe N., and Wm. Norman P. Soj. A Past Principal's jewel was unanimously voted to the retiring M.E.Z. Several brethren were proposed for exaltation, which will necessitate another emergency meeting during the next month. Business ended, the Chapter was closed, and the Comps. adjourned to banquet, when the usual toasts were proposed and duly honoured. Comp. Wright P.Z. 22, and a Companion of the Grand Chapter of Ireland, were the only visitors present. The former flatteringly replied on their behalf.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—Held at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, Friday evening, 25th May. Bros. Fenner W.M., Tayler S.W., Smith J.W., Crouch S.D., Townsend J.D., Lane I.G.; and Bros. Hewlett, Bolton, Austin, &c. The Lodge was opened in the 1st degree, and advanced to the 2nd. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Austin acting as candidate. The Lodge was closed in the 2nd degree. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Austin as candidate. The 4th section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Hewlett, assisted by the brethren. Proposed by Bro. Hewlett, seconded by Bro. Lane, that Bro. Tayler, of Yarborough Lodge 554, become a member of this Lodge of Instruction. Proposed by Bro. Hewlett, seconded by Bro. Smith, that Bro. Tayler take the chair at the next meeting. The Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

Falcon Lodge, No. 1416.—The members of the Archæological Section have visited the village of Topcliffe, associated with many memorable events in English history. The Rev. Bro. Hawkins M.A. most hospitably entertained the party, and accompanied them through the church, which probably dates from the sixth or seventh century, and contains some interesting monumental remains. On their return, they inspected the modern church at Baldersby (Butterfield, Arch.), commenced by the late Lord Downe, the lofty spire of which is a conspicuous object many miles round, and where they were met by the Rev. E. Malleson M.A. Some of the members, on Whit Tuesday, spent a very pleasant day at Askrigg and Bainbridge, having special facilities kindly afforded them by the Rev. C. Whaley M.A., and the Rev. W. Balderston M.A.

The Great City Lodge of Instruction, No. 1426.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting at Masons' Hall Tavern, on Thursday, 31st May, at 6 p.m. This being the night for working the Fifteen Sections, there was a good number of the members present, and among the visitors were Bros. Harris 1185, Nuding 140, Abel 55, Tolmie S.W. 861, Sherrington 1546. The Chair was occupied by Bro. Saul W.M., Poore P.M. S.W., Goodman J.W., Moss I.G., Colmer Treasurer, Blackie Hon. Sec. The Lodge was opened in the first, second, and third degrees and resumed to the first. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The Fifteen Sections were worked in a very efficient manner by the following brethren:—Bros. Wood, Cadiot, Taylor, Barker, Saul, Poore P.M., Tolmie, G. Moss, Stevens P.M., Bisset, Blackie. It was proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes for the very able manner in which Bro. Saul, as W.M., put the questions, and also to those brethren who had assisted him. All Masonic business being ended, Lodge was closed in due form.

Duncombe Lodge, No. 1486.—The anniversary of the consecration was held last Monday, at the King's Arms Hotel, Kingsbridge, Devon, when a large number of brethren were present. The special business of the day was the installation of the Worshipful Master, the Rev. E. Augustus Lester, M.A., Duncombe Lecturer, and the investment of his officers for the next year, according to ancient usage. The Lodge commenced business about twelve o'clock, and having performed its duties in camera, the brethren sat down to dinner, which was well supplied with everything except waiters, who were somewhat deficient in their attendance. The members of the Lodge, and especially the founders, were much gratified on seeing one of the first that was initiated after its foundation in the chair. On such an occasion it was considered opportune to present the two Past Masters with jewels, indicating their rank in the Craft, and as an acknowledgment of their zeal in founding the Lodge, which was done in appropriate terms by Bro. Lester. Dinner being over and the cloth removed, the usual loyal toasts were proposed. The first was "The Queen," in proposing whose health Bro. Lester said there were two kinds of secret societies—one whose members not only kept their peculiar secrets, but also made their membership itself a secret; consequently, although they might know there was such a society, no one could say who were its members or where they met. An institution of that kind was dangerous to society, it had some object which would not bear the light of day to shine on it, and hence it was nearly always disloyal. But the institution of Freemasonry was wholly different. They took as their motto the text from which their brother, the Lord Bishop of Peterborough, preached in connexion with the Craft:—"Love the brotherhood, fear God, honour the king!" The spirit of Freemasonry was a spirit of love to all mankind in the fear of God and due obedience to the sovereign of their native land. For this reason they were proud of being Masons, and felt it a privilege to have such a sovereign as their beloved Queen. "The Grand Master of England, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales," was the next toast. In proposing his health, Bro. Lester said that the history of the appointment of H.R.H. as Grand Master was an apt illustration of the nature of their Institution and its title to the epithet "Free." And when the Prince of Wales accepted office in the Craft, he performed a duty worthy of his house and the freedom of his future subjects. The late Grand Master resigned at the dictation of a foreign prince whose influence had never tended to liberty, and some of whose public speeches had not been very complimentary to their free institution; but when their own Prince of Wales accepted the vacant office, they could not but see in that acceptance a guarantee that so far as their future sovereign was concerned this country would continue to maintain its freedom from the dictation of any foreign prince or prelate. The health of "The Grand Master of the Province, Rev. J. Huyshe, and his deputy, Bro. L. P. Metham," was next proposed, both of whom Bro. Lester said were in a very critical state of health, especially their Right Worshipful Brother Huyshe, who had been, and he feared was still, in a dangerous state. He did not despair, however, of his recovery, and he was quite certain that if sympathy could do him any good he had the sympathy of all those who knew him. He was well known, not only in that Province, but in Grand Lodge and was held in the highest respect by the whole Craft. To this Brothers Curteis, Col. Ridgway, and Rev. J. C. Carwithen responded, in appropriate terms, Bro. Carwithen especially mentioning that he had good news from Bro. Huyshe that day, which gave him great hope of his ultimate recovery. Bro. Col. Ridgway then proposed the health of the Worshipful Master, Rev. E. A. Lester. He said he had great pleasure in proposing Bro. Lester's health, as he and all present must be gratified at what they had seen that day. He had no doubt of Bro. Lester's ability to perform the duties of his office, indeed he had never seen those duties better performed than they had been by their respected Master.

Marquis of Ripon Lodge of Instruction No. 1489.—The usual weekly meeting of the above Lodge was held on Monday, at the Pembury Tavern, Hackney. Bros. Jacob W.M., Driver S.W., Grist J.W., W. Stephens Preceptor, Defries S.D., High J.D., and Mann I.G. At the conclusion of labour, it was proposed to adjourn during the summer months. The matter was however, deferred (for the consideration of the members) until the last Monday in June, upon which occasion the ceremony of installation will be rehearsed.

Sir Hugh Middelton Lodge, No. 1602.—The first anniversary and installation meeting of this flourishing Lodge was held on Friday, the 25th May, at the Agricultural Hall, Islington. Bros. Elias Somers W.M., E. G. Sim S.W., T. J. Coombs J.W., J.

Weston Treas., J. Osborn Sec., A. F. Rowley S.D., W. Norris I.G., Upward Organist; and Bros. Oppenheim, Dawson, Field, Tilson, Franklin, Abrams, Gibbs, Paterson, Hiscock, Payne, W. H. Lee, S. Rowley, &c. The minutes of the former meeting were read and confirmed. The report of the Audit Committee was read and adopted. It showed the Treasurer had received £298 18s 6d; after paying all expenses since the foundation of the Lodge, there was a balance of £8 12s 9d. The Treasurer, Bro. Weston, having resigned office, an election took place, and Bro. Payne was selected. The brethren wore Masonic mourning out of respect to the memory of the late Bro. F. Ellen J.D. Bro. E. G. Sim S.W. and W.M. elect was then presented, and a Board of Installed Masters was formed. The ceremony was ably performed by the retiring W.M., Bro. Somers. Bro. W. H. Lee P.M. very impressively gave the concluding addresses. On the re-admission of the brethren, the W.M. received the customary salutations. He then invested his officers:—Bros. E. Somers I.P.M., T. J. Coombs S.W., A. F. Rowley J.W., J. Osborn Sec., Weston S.D., Norris J.D., Poulton I.G., Upward Org., Field D.C., Oppenheim W.S., Steadman P.M. Tyler. The W.M., in investing his officers, showed the brethren had made a very excellent selection. The pertinent remarks uttered by him were fully appreciated. Bro. Furlong proposed a vote of condolence, and that a letter be sent to the widow of the late Bro. Ellen J.D. He was one of the founders. Every brother regretted his loss. He leaves a widow and one child. The W.M., in putting the resolution to the Lodge, said the last tribute to the memory of their deceased Brother was shown at his funeral, where nearly every member of the Lodge was present. It was proposed, seconded and carried unanimously, that honorary membership be conferred on Bro. W. H. Lee, W.M. 975 and P.M. 1524, in recognition of services rendered to the Lodge. The W.M. and the S.W. spoke in flattering terms of the manner in which Bro. Lee had given valuable instruction. Bro. Lee suitably returned thanks. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the "Cock Tavern," Highbury, where a very excellent banquet and dessert was provided by Bro. Baker. Grace having been sung, the W.M. proposed the Queen and the Craft; every Englishman reveres The respects her for the manner in which she has ruled the nation. and National Anthem was then sung. The toast of H.R.H. the M.W.G. Master was next given. He is not only revered as heir to the Throne, but also as head of our Order; he is beloved by every one in the nation. Glee—"Haste ye Soft Gales"—was then sung. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the M.W. the Pro G.M. the [illegible] to attend Grand Lodge have an opportunity of seeing how that distinguished Brother [illegible] his duties. Bro. A. Hubbard then very artistically sang "Jack's Yarn," after which the W.M. gave the toast of the R.W. Lord Skelmersdale D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers. We all know how his duties are carried out by this noble Brother; we have present three Grand Officers, Bros. H. G. Buss Asst. G. Sec., E. P. Albert P.G.P., and Howe A.G.P., we are proud to have those brethren amongst us, and he hoped all would drink the toast with the enthusiasm it merited. Bro. T. W. Simons then sang "Just as Well." Bro. Buss, in responding, said his office was a very novel one. In the Deputy Grand Master you have one who is always ready to render assistance in any way for the benefit of the Craft. I have a brother on my left, Bro. Albert, who has discharged his duty to their satisfaction. The other brother who has been selected for Grand Office is in every way worthy to receive the honour. He thanked the W.M. and the brethren for their kind expressions and hospitality. Bro. E. Somers I.P.M. then rose, he said it was the first time he had the pleasure to propose the toast of the W.M., and he could say that they were proud and pleased to see him in the chair. The Lodge is but young in the Order, but we hope to do our best; he trusted the brethren would support the W.M. as they had supported him. After a part song—"The Hunt is Up"—the W.M. thanked Bro. Somers for his kind expressions. He felt a great obligation to the brethren for placing him in that proud position. The duties devolving on him he would endeavour to carry out to their satisfaction. He then proposed the toast of the Visitors, to whom he accorded a hearty welcome. Bro. F. Meen played a solo on the pianoforte. Bros. Barnham, Todd, and Braine responded to the toast. The W.M. then gave the health of the Installing Master. He had pleasure in proposing the toast, and great gratification in presenting him with a P.M.'s jewel; he was sure he would look on it with pride. The jewel is of solid gold, of artistic design; it has the word Primus, with the arms of Sir Hugh Middelton, and the motto, "Virtus Palma." It also bears a suitable inscription. Bro. F. H. Cozens then sang the "Woodpecker." Bro. E. Somers said he was pleased to see that his endeavours to do his duty in the Craft had met with their approbation, he felt proud and honoured to receive the jewel placed on his breast, it was one of those things he would wear with pride and honour. He could never forget the kindness of the brethren. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Masonic Charities, spoke of the benefits those noble Institutions were doing. We have present to-night one of our zealous Secretaries, and to-day was a peculiar incident, viz., the birthday of our esteemed friend, he hoped they would enthusiastically drink his health. Bro. Hubbard then sang "Nancy Lee." Bro. James Terry P.P.G.D.C. Herts, returned thanks; he was sure their Lodge would be a great supporter of the Charities. The I.P.M. had represented the Aged, the W.M. the Girls' School, and Bro. Abram had selected to be a Steward for the Boys' School, and had already on his list £65. He, Bro. Terry, had consecrated 19 Lodges, and in February last 16 brethren had contributed £900. £13,300 was the result of the last Festival. The Festival of the Girls' School had been also successful, and he was sure the Steward to represent the Boys' School would bring up a large amount. He was pleased to know that they were contributing to all the Charities, but he must urge them not to forget the Aged in their declining years. (Cheers.) The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Officers of the Lodge; all are qualified to do the duties required of them, and he hoped to see them in turn occupying the position of W.M. Bro. Osborn returned thanks, and was followed by Bros. Norris and A. F. Rowley. The Tyler's toast was given, and the brethren separated, after enjoying a very harmonious and agreeable evening. The visitors were—Bros. C. F. Barham 754, E. W. Braine 65 and 1471, G. B. Jaffa 1579, A. Johnson 468, E. P. Albert P.G.P. P.M. 188, J. H. Jones P.M. 917, H. Massey P.M. 619, S. Lazarus P.P.G.W. Wilts, Nathan 215, J. Wilson 1298, J. Tongue 534, W. T. Howe A.G.P., H. G. Buss Asst. G.S., James Terry P.G.D.C. Herts, Daniel W.M. 65, Todd P.M. 183, Pare 185, Bailey 917, J. Anshell 1464, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188. The Lodge of Instruction attached to the Sir Hugh Middelton Lodge meets every Friday evening, at the "King Edward VI.," King Edward-street, Liverpool-road, at half-past 7 o'clock; Bro. W. H. Lee W.M. 975 and P.M. 1524 Preceptor.

Langton Lodge, No. 1673.—An emergency meeting of this newly-consecrated Lodge was held on Wednesday, 30th inst., at the London Masonic Club, 101 Queen Victoria-street. Bros. H. D. Stead W.M., Joseph Langton S.W., F. C. Dobbing J.W., and a numerous assemblage of the brethren. The Lodge was opened, and the following brethren were unanimously elected joining members:—T. Lane. A. J. Reid, A. Rosenthall, Rev. H. G. Rosenthall, J. Fuentes, J. A. A. Rumpff, A. C. Cooper, T. J. Smith, G. C. Boor, W. W. Blackston, D. F Cook, F. Flint, A. P. Fabian, B. T. Fountain, H. Rockingham Gill H. Mathews, J. F. Morley, E. W. Parkes, J. Ridley, E. G. Sim, George T. Thorne, Taunton, S. White, J. P. White. A dispensation was read from the M.W. the G.M. to allow Mr. J. David Langton (a son of the S.W.) to be initiated, he being a Lewis, and in his 20th year. Ballots were then taken for Messrs. J. D. Langton, P. McKinlay, and C. E. Barnett, and being unanimously in their favour, these gentlemen were duly initiated into the Order by the W.M., in a very perfect and impressive manner; he was ably assisted by the officers. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a recherché banquet, under the efficient management of Bro. G. S. States. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. In speaking to the toast of the Initiates, he said he was pleased to have the honour of initiating the son of his esteemed friend Bro. Langton, whom the Lodge was named after; he was sure, under such auspices, and the attention they paid to the ceremony, they would eventually prove themselves ornaments to the Craft, and pillars and supporters of our antient and honourable Order. Bro. Langton, in replying to the toast, said he had felt feelings of pride and gratitude in being allowed to be the first initiate of this Lodge. The ceremony so impressively delivered, would make a lasting impression on him, more especially in a Lodge bearing the name of his honoured father. Bros. P. McKinlay and C. E. Barnett followed, with appropriate speeches. The toast of the W.M., Wardens, Officers, Visitors &c., followed, and the Tyler brought an enjoyable and harmonious evening to a close. The visitors were Bros. Morrell P.M. 111, Thomas P.M., H. Massey P.M., Gates W.M. 715, and Hunter 1494.

London Masonic Club Lodge of Instruction.—This Lodge held its meeting at 101 Queen Victoria-street, E.C., on Monday, 28th ultimo. Present—Bros. N. Reed W.M., J. E. Shand S.W. and Sec., W. Sharratt J.W., C. J. Hogg S.D. and Treas., T. Eastgate J.D., H. Wilkinson I.G., E. Farwig 180 acting Preceptor; Bros. Ward 1563, G. Davies 167, Murchin 1269, and other brethren. The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the W.M. initiated Bro. Ward, in an impressive manner. Bro. Farwig worked the 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Davies worked the 4th and 5th sections of the lecture. It was proposed by Bro. Farwig, seconded by Bro. Sharratt J.W., and carried unanimously, that Bro. Shand be W.M. at next meeting, Monday, 11th June, at 6 o'clock. After which, Lodge closed in due form and harmony.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The Regular Weekly Convocation was held on Tuesday last, at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill. Present—J. Constable M.E.Z., A. A. Drew H., J. C. Cox J., Thos. W. White Scribe E., J. Dennis S.N., S. Pownceby P.S., J. Ramsay, E. J. Row, W. J. Parish 538, T. H. Meredith 77, G. L. Walker, F. A. White, Major E. H. Finney, H. Darcy, H. Bartlett, C. W. Noehmer, John Seex, Thos. Griffiths, &c. After the usual preliminaries had been gone through, the exaltation of Comp. F. A. White, candidate, was ably and completely rehearsed by the presiding officers. Comps. W. J. Parish and F. H. Meredith were unanimously elected joining members. The latter expressed his grateful acknowledgments for the honour conferred, and the treat that had been afforded by the ability displayed throughout the ceremony. He assured the Companions that whenever opportunity offered he would be present. The sum of one guinea was voted from the funds of the Chapter, to be invested in shilling tickets in Bro. Constable's ballot for Life Governorships of the Boys' School. The Chapter was then closed for the season, and adjourned until the first Tuesday in October.

The annual installation of the Master and Officers of the Hamilton Lodge, No. 1440, Prov. No. 6, took place at Spanish Town on Thursday evening, the 3rd May. The installing officers in conclave were:—

Wor. Joseph Reid, Master of the Hamilton Lodge, C. W. Tait, Past Master of the Sussex Lodge, A. E. Burke, Master of the Royal Lodge.

The following Brethren form the Administration:—

Wor. Wm. Thos. Jamison Master, Bros. A. J. L. Lyon Sen. Warden, Geo. H. Rees Jun. Warden, Wm. P. Purden Treasurer, A. G. Ffrench Secretary, Chas. Sanguinetti Sen. Deacon, Wm. D. Byles Jun. Deacon, Wm. McFie Inner Guard, Jos. B. DeLeon Tyler.

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. 5.—No. 128. SATURDAY, 9th JUNE 1877. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

REMOVAL OF LODGES.

IT is worth while calling attention to the fact that, lately, a circular letter was issued from the office of Grand Secretary, addressed to the Worshipful Masters of the several Lodges, and enclosing a form to be filled in and returned forthwith, in order that the needed information may be incorporated in the Freemasons' Calendar and Pocket Book for 1878, which will be published in the first week of November. We say it is worth while calling attention to this Circular, not because the information to be embodied in the form is other than is usually required to be furnished in accordance with the Constitutions, but because of the notorious laxity with which the regulations of our Society are observed. Were brethren who are elected to rule our Lodges as mindful of the responsibilities of their office as they are of the honour it is presumed to confer, and the decorations they become entitled to wear, the information contained in our Grand Lodge Calendar would be infinitely more valuable than it is, or, as it seems more desirable to phrase it, infinitely more accurate, and therefore trustworthy. As the case stands now, little reliance is to be placed in the announcements made in it as to the days and places at which our different Lodges meet. This is not owing to any want of diligence on the part of those charged with the duty of preparing the list of Lodges and Chapters, or to any want of supervision on the part of the Calendar Sub-Committee of the Board of General Purposes, but simply because the requirements of the law are in so many instances entirely disregarded by whom it does concern. We speak with a painful experience of the errors which occur in Grand Lodge Calendar. Again and again have we been taken to task for misleading brethren as to the day and place of meeting of this or that Lodge. Our answer has been, we prepare our Weekly Calendar from Grand Lodge Calendar. We have simply reproduced the announcements contained in the Official Guide-book, published, as its title-page declares, "under the sanction of the United Grand Lodge of England, and by the command of the M.W. Grand Master." Thus have we been able to acquit ourselves of all responsibility for the errors complained of. However, as our readers are aware, it is extremely unpleasant to be called to account even for the mistakes of others, or, be it said, for the mistakes into which others have been unwittingly betrayed. We therefore resolved that in our Weekly Calendar no Lodge should, under any circumstances, be inserted, the accuracy of which was not duly vouched for by the Secretary. Naturally, these Weekly Calendars of ours are imperfect, but they have the merit, so far as they go, of being accurate.

We, who in our time have had much laborious compilation of a somewhat similar character thrust upon us, know perfectly well the difficulties attendant on the production of a perfect Calendar. But if perfect accuracy be not attainable, it is possible to approach it. In order to secure this happy consummation, the Grand Secretary has just invited Worshipful Masters to lend him their hearty co-operation, and we trust that Worshipful Masters will promptly obey the summons. We must remember that the proceeds of the sale of the Freemasons' Calendar and Pocket-book is paid into the coffers of our three Masonic Institutions, and the more trustworthy the Calendar is, the more considerable will be the sale; and, as a consequence, the greater will be the amount of benefit conferred on the Charities. While, however, we properly hold out this as an inducement to W. Masters to do what is required of them, it is incumbent on us to point out, at the same time, that what they are now invited to do is neither more nor less than their duty. As laid down in article 8, page 64 of the Constitutions, "Every Lodge, when removed to a new place of meeting, or whenever the day of assembling shall be altered, shall immediately send notice thereof to the grand secretary, and, if a country lodge, also to the provincial grand master. The officers of a removed lodge shall not be permitted to attend the grand lodge or provincial grand lodge until the removal be properly notified." Again, by article 3, page 93, it is laid down that "when a lodge shall have resolved to remove, or to alter the day of meeting, the master or a warden shall forthwith send a copy of the minutes of the lodge for such alteration to the grand secretary, and also to the provincial grand master or his deputy, that it may be ascertained whether the above laws have been strictly complied with, and that the alteration may be duly recorded." Here, then, are two laws, which lay it down most clearly and emphatically, that the removal of a Lodge and any alteration in its day of meeting shall be notified—there is no option—to certain authorities; and in one of the laws a penalty is attached to the officers of a Lodge if the law is not observed. It further occurs to us that in the event of such removal or change of day or meeting not being duly notified to the authorities, then, ipso facto, the propriety or accuracy of the Lodge proceedings might be vitiated. In other words, the requirements of the law not having been strictly observed, its proceedings would be illegal. There are then three sufficient reasons why the recent invitation of the Grand Secretary should be complied with. It will ensure greater accuracy in the Calendar, and greater accuracy in the Calendar may confer a greater amount of benefit on our Charities. It is the duty of W. Masters to do what they are asked to do. Thirdly. Non-compliance with the law may render illegal the proceedings of a defaulting Lodge.

ORGANISATION OF LONDON LODGES FOR VOTING PURPOSES.

A FEW weeks since there appeared in these columns the report of certain proceedings of the Tredegar Lodge of Instruction. To Bro. Lacey belongs the credit of having—on this occasion at least—initiated the movement, the object of which is to secure a larger share of success for London candidates at the elections to our several Institutions. Bro. Lacey took the more recent elections to the Boys' and Girls' Schools, and proved to demonstration that, in proportion to the amount of her contributions, London was not as successful in the ballot for vacancies as she might, could, should, or would be, if her voting powers were properly directed. He urged, therefore, that London Lodges should combine together, in order to promote the success of the London candidates, just as in very many of the Provinces the Provincial Lodges combine together for the purpose of carrying the day for their candidates. He remarked that London gave far more towards the maintenance of these Charities than did the whole of the Provinces taken together, while the numbers of the elect in certain cases, which he cited, were hugely out of proportion, as between the two, London with its excess of contributions having a most noticeable defect in the number of its successful nominees. There is a great show of reason in

Digitized by Google

Bro. Lacey's argument, and the discussion which followed was both exhaustive and interesting. Yet, without for one moment wishing to throw cold water on a very laudable object, we fancy that, in the first place such a combination, as is proposed, would be very partial in its character, and, in the next, that the object in view may be gained by other means. The number of Metropolitan Lodges is not exactly legion, but it is now over 250, and they are distributed over an immense district. Assuming it is possible to induce the Lodges, east, west, south and north, to combine together, it would be well nigh an impossibility to canvass them. Even in one of these four divisions, it would be a tremendous undertaking. A fortiori, would it be the case if all London were formed into one voting district. Combination in the provinces is far easier. The average number of Lodges in each is perhaps twenty. They are so located as to be come-at-able without much difficulty. A few energetic brethren might direct the voting power of a Province into the proper channel, and secure the success of the particular candidate, while the claims of the different London candidates were being discussed. Moreover, a Province is enabled to concentrate its efforts in order to secure the election of one, or it may be, at the outside, of two of its candidates, while the voting strength of London is necessarily distributed among a large number, all presumably of equal merit. There are, perhaps, other difficulties, which need not be enumerated, in the way of Metropolitan combination. Those, however, which have already been stated, will doubtless suffice for the purpose. Our opinion is, that London would obtain a larger share of success if those who undertook the charge of cases were more zealous and energetic in their labours. Far too many brethren consider they have fulfilled their duty when they have allowed their names to appear as recommending this or that particular candidate, whereas it is only when a brother—entitled to vote or not, as the case may be—has consented to recommend the case, that his duty really begins. Once he has satisfied himself that a candidate is worthy of support, and it becomes his duty to use all his efforts to promote his success himself. He may not command many, or even any, votes. He may simply know enough of the case to be sure of its merits. But no matter how little the assistance he may be able to render personally in the way of votes, he is bound to obtain as many votes as he possibly can from others. He must leave no stone unturned, or, to speak more precisely, no donor or subscriber uncanvassed, until he is satisfied, as far as human foresight will enable him to judge, that success is possible, if not probable. He may easily form an idea of the number of votes that will be issued. He must take the votes issued and the results of previous elections as affording him an approximate notion as to the number of votes that will be required in order to carry the election. When he has done this, when he is assured that by no farther efforts on his part can a single additional vote be obtained, then he may rest satisfied that he has done his duty; and if, in spite of his efforts, the day comes, and his nominee or protégé is not successful, he will have no conscience to accuse him of indifference or neglect. What can be done by the efforts of two or three brethren working well together was shown by Bro. Stevens, who said that he and Bro. Barnes had never but once had to make a second attempt to carry the candidate of their choice. The friends to whom they looked for support were always ready to assist them. They could always command, or, as Bro. Stevens put it modestly enough, manipulate a considerable number of votes, and the result we have stated; they only once failed to carry their candidate at the first attempt. Surely if two can do this—have, indeed, done it again and again—a combination of ten or a dozen brethren, equally influential, might always command success. Then multiplying these so as to have a sufficient number of zealous canvassers to carry the proposed number of candidates, and we see not the slightest reason why the London district should not have its due proportion of success. Let the Lodges in the more immediate neighbourhood of the locality from which the case emanates join together, and, considering the numerical strength of London voters, we think they would stand an excellent chance of success, especially among our East-end brethren, who have always set a good example to the Craft in the work of benevolence.

We are very far from being surprised there should be some soreness among Craftsmen in London when they find a Province carrying the election of its candidate which has done little or nothing to help our Charities. We need not trouble ourselves to repeat the names of districts in England which are invariably, to use a familiar phrase, conspicuous by their absence from the annual subscription lists of our Institutions. We have no desire to force people into giving, though it is our duty to plead the cause of the poor, the widow, and the orphan, to the best of our poor ability. Nor do we think it proper that the benefits of our Institutions should be distributed only among those, or the belongings of those, who have helped towards their maintenance. We must not too keenly criticise the past when a case of distress stands before us imploring our aid. But, undoubtedly, those who have supported our Institutions have a prior claim upon our sympathy and assistance over those who, in the time of their ability to assist, have fallen short of their duty. Nor is there any graduated scale by which the benefits conferred by a Charity can be distributed proportionately to the benefits it receives. Yet we think it not unnatural that those who give more abundantly should bestir themselves more to ensure the success of their own nominees than that of comparative strangers, how worthy soever the latter may be. However, Bro. Lacey and his coadjutors will have reason to congratulate themselves if the utmost they achieve is to arouse London brethren generally to a proper sense of their duty.

THE LODGE OF THE NINE MUSES.

THIS Lodge, which now stands No. 235 on the roll of Grand Lodge, recently celebrated the Centennial Anniversary of its Constitution, and, in order to commemorate the auspicious event, the Worshipful Master of the Lodge, Bro. Walter Webb, has published a brief sketch of its history. Unfortunately, the materials from which a complete record might be compiled are not forthcoming, as the minute books anterior to the year 1814 are missing. Nevertheless, Bro. Webb has succeeded in compiling a very readable account of the Lodge over which he presides as W.M. Moreover, in the Freemasons' Magazine for the year 1796, there happened, fortunately, to be published a brief sketch of the Lodge, from its constitution to date, so that Bro. Webb has been in some respects able to supply a portion of the hiatus valdè deflendus in the history. From this sketch, which is quoted in extenso in the Appendix, and the main features of which are incorporated in Bro. Webb's narrative, we learn that a preliminary gathering of certain brethren was held at the Thatched-House-Tavern, St. James's-street. John Hull presided as R.W.M., Raphael Franco as S.W., and the Rev. Dr. William Dodd as J.W. Robert Biggin as Treasurer, and the Chevalier B. Ruspini were also present, together with Rich. Barker, Will. Porter, J. Baptiste Cipriani, and — Borghi as visitors. On the 23rd of the month, permission having been granted in the interim for the above to assemble as Masons, and to make and raise Masons, Bro. Cipriani was raised to the degree of Master Mason. At this meeting Bro. Biggin offered to supply a Bible and jewels, and Bro. Cipriani to suggest suitable designs, while Bro. Franco engaged to provide three elegant candlesticks. The unfortunate Dr. Dodd, it seems, was never really a member of the Lodge, as he was expelled from the society, as constituted above, before the formal issue of the Warrant on the 25th March of the same year. Then follows a list of sundry of the more distinguished members, with the dates of their admission or making appended. Among these we find Count Siedlecki, Chamberlain to the King of Poland, His Excellency General Paoli, Earl Ferrers, the Venetian Ambassador, the Earl of Effingham, Lord Cranstoun, the Earl Kelly, Sir Robt. Salusbury Cotton, Hon. Wm. Ward, Lord Macdonald, Count Soderini, another Venetian Ambassador, Marquis Trotti, Sir Nicholas Nugent, Sir John Ingleby. Lastly are given the names of the officers at the time (1796), namely, Chevalier B. Ruspini R.W.M., W. Blackstone (son of the Commentator on the "Laws of our Country") S.W., Sam. Beazley J.W., C. Carpenter Treasurer, Simon Stephenson Secretary, and Thomas Tinson Mas. Cer. We gather also from this account that the Lodge still continued to meet in 1796 as in 1777, at the Thatched House Tavern. This is the sum and substance of what Bro. Webb is indebted for to the Freemasons' Magazine, and, with the exception of the Warrant, dated, as we have said, 25th March 1777, in which occur the names of the petitioners, as well as of John Hull as W.M., R. Franco S.W. and Richard Barker J.W., this is all he is able to furnish respecting the history of the Lodge till the year 1814. Thenceforward he has had the minute books of the Lodge to consult, and he is enabled, therefore, to chronicle the principal events that have since happened, as well as to describe the general conduct of the Lodge, so far as it may be learned from these records. Thus we are told of the difference between the Nine Muses and the brethren of the Prince of Wales's Lodge, in connection with the Candlesticks. Bro. Ruspini, for reasons best known to himself, appears to have quitted the Muses and joined the Prince of Wales's, and to have presented to the latter the candlesticks which Bro. Franco had so generously given about the time when the Lodge was constituted. A smart interchange of resolutions took place between the two Lodges, but the candlesticks were restored to their first owners, and the difference, which Bro. Webb considers to have originated in a misapprehension, was at an end. The moral he deduces from this episode, namely, that Lodge property should be adequately cared for, will suggest itself to most of our readers. Later, we have mentioned the circumstances attending the temporary loss of the W.M.'s jewel. This had been lent to H.R.H. Duke of Sussex, and for some time mislaid, but it was restored in the year 1823, and the jewel provided as a substitute "seems to have been," ever since, "devoted to the use of the immediate Past Masters." As to what may be called the vie intime of the Lodge, this appears to have passed most pleasantly. The meetings were spent in a most agreeable manner, members took an interest in each other's welfare, not only within, but likewise outside, the precincts of the Lodge. The summer gatherings, when ladies were present, were mostly held at the Star and Garter, Richmond, and were most enjoyable, while benevolence, and a sympathetic and liberal regard for the claims of our poor and distressed brethren, were duties which the Nine Muses appear to have fulfilled most conscientiously on all occasions. We agree with Bro. Webb that it is most undesirable for a Lodge to change frequently its place of meeting, nor do the Nine Muses appear to have erred greatly in this respect. They met during the first forty-four years of their existence at the Thatched House Tavern. For the next forty-three years they met at Freemasons' Tavern, and for the nine years following at the Clarendon Hotel, Bond-street. In 1873 they removed to St. James's Hotel, Piccadilly; in 1874, after one meeting at Freemasons' Tavern, to the Queen's Hotel, Cork-street; and in 1875 to their present locality, Long's Hotel, Bond-street. In the Appendix is given a list, as far as it was possible to complete it, of the Worshipful Masters, and in connection with this, the author cites the names of four who have specially contributed to the maintenance of the Lodge in a state of efficiency during the latter half of the century. These are Bro. John Propert, who filled the chair in 1822, 1823, 1839, and 1846, and was Treasurer for some time; Bro. Francis Kearsey, W.M. in 1847, 1848, and 1850; Bro. C. B. Claydon, W.M. in 1842 and 1849, and Bro. John M. Clabon, whose zeal in the cause of Masonry is so well known and appreciated, who was W.M. in 1863 and 1869, and likewise fulfilled the duties of Secretary for several years. A transcript of the Centenary warrant, an inventory of the Lodge Jewels, Furniture, and Books, and a list of the present members, together with a copy of a memorandum on fly-leaf of the earliest Minute-book in possession of the Lodge, complete the contents of the Centenial sketch. It is to be regretted there were so few materials available, for it is evident, from the manner in which he has dealt with what existed, that had Bro. Webb been able to trace a connected history of the Lodge, he would have compiled a most interesting narrative. As it is, his fellow admirers of the Sacred Nine are deeply indebted to him for the very able manner in which he has discharged a self-imposed task. We, too, thank him for the opportunity he has so courteously afforded us of reading his history, and as every little scrap of information relating to the Lodge will doubtless be acceptable to him and to his co-members, we are pleased to be enabled to direct his attention to an entry in the Freemasons' Calendar for the year 1813, published under the sanction of Grand Lodge. Therein occurs, at p. 34, under the head of "Lodges erased for not conforming to the Laws of the Society, or discontinued on being united to other Lodges, since the alteration of the Numbers in 1792," the following entry in the year 1796, "350 L. of Rural Friendship, united to No. 330, L. of the Nine Muses." This union is also mentioned in the Freemasons' Magazine as having been ordered at the meeting of Grand Lodge on 13th April 1796. The words are:

> "ORDERED, That No. 350, Lodge of Rural Friendship, be discontinued on the List of Lodges, being united to No. 330, the Lodge of the Nine Nuses, at the Thatched-House-Tavern, St. James's-street."

It will also interest him, perhaps, to learn that in the same Freemasons' Calendar are to be found, in the List of "Officers of the Grand Lodge of England, from its revival, A.D. 1717, to the present Time," the following names, which occur in Bro. Webb's narrative, in the ancient Warrant, or in the record quoted from the Freemasons' Magazine, 1796. John Hull, one of the petitioners for the Warrant, and the 1st W.M. of the Lodge was Secretary of the Board of Grand Stewards for 1773, and Junior G.W. in 1775. There is a "Rt. Biggin" among the Grand Stewards for 1778, and a Robert Biggin is one of the petitioners. There is a "Dr. Isaac Sequeira" among the G. Stewards in 1777, and an "Isaac Sequeira M.D." among the petitioners. Bart. Ruspini was a G. Steward in 1772 and G. Sword Bearer from 1791 to the time of his death in 1814. In the list of members in the extract from the Freemasons' Magazine are entered "Lord Viscount Tamworth, made December 8th 1778," "Earl Ferrers, admitted June 1779," "Earl of Effingham, admitted March 15th, 1779," "the Hon. Washington Shirley, made April 4th 1782," "Hon. William Ward, made 9th January 1783," "Lord Macdonald, admitted 13th February 1783," and "Sir Nicholas Nugent, Bart., admitted 1785." On referring to the Freemasons' Calendar in question, we find that the "Right Hon. Viscount Tamworth" was Senior G. Warden in 1779, and "the Earl Ferrers" was President of the Board of Grand Stewards in the same year. It should be noted, by the way, that Viscount Tamworth is the second title of the Earl Ferrers, and is borne, by courtesy, by his eldest son, so that if these are severally identical with the Viscount Tamworth and Earl Ferrers named in the extract, father and son may have been Grand Warden and President of Grand Stewards the same year. But this is not necessarily the case. Referring to the same authority, we find "Thomas Howard, Earl of Effingham," Acting Grand Master 1782-89; the "Hon. Washington Shirley"—a relative of the Earl Ferrers and Viscount Tamworth just mentioned—as Senior G. Warden and President of Board of Grand Stewards in 1783, and Prov. G. Master of Warwickshire in 1813; the "Hon. William Ward," Senior G. Warden and President of G. Stewards in 1784; Lord Macdonald, President of G. Stewards in 1786, and Senior G. Warden 1787; and Sir Nicholas Nugent, President of G. Stewards in 1785, and Senior G. Warden in 1786. Of those named as being officers in 1796, William Blackstone S.W. is among the G. Stewards for 1795, and there is a "Charles Carpenter" a G. Steward in 1794, who may be one and the same with "Charles Carpenter, Esq., Treasurer." Lastly, "Sir W. Rawlins, Knt.," who is referred to specially as one of the most active and valued members of the Lodge—at all events from 1814 to 1837, and for how much longer it is impossible to say, as the Minute books are lost—was W.M. from 1814 to 1818, resigning in the last year, and filled the same office again for the biennial period, 1820-2. Bro. Webb further states that he was Treasurer, 1824-35, and, on the authority of Debrett, that he was knighted in 1802, in which year he held the office of Sheriff of London and Middlesex. On glancing down the list in Freemasons' Calendar, we find a "Sir William Rawlins" was a G. Steward in 1798, and, being marked with an asterisk, that he was a member of G. Stewards' Lodge in 1813. There is likewise a "Sir William Rawlins" named as Senior Warden in 1802. We do not say that all we have quoted from the Calendar are identical with those named in Bro. Webb's Record and Appendices, but there is a reasonable degree of probability they are. It should be added, that in the same Calendar, in the "LIST of SUBSCRIBERS to the HALL LOAN, agreeable to a Resolution of the GRAND LODGE on 21st June 1779" will be found the following names of members of the Lodge, on the assumption, of course, that the bearers of the respective names were severally identical with the names quoted by Bro. Webb:—"Earl of Effingham P.A.G.M.," "Earl Ferrers P.S.G.W." — this may possibly be the "Hon. Thomas Shirley," Senior Grand Warden in 1764 (or, perhaps, the Hon. Robert Shirley, Senior G.W. 1747-51) and Earl Ferrers of 1779; "Earl Ferrers P.S.G.W."—the same perhaps as Viscount Tamworth

S.G.W. 1779; the Hon. Wm. Ward, Sir Nic. Nugent, Bart., both P.S.G.W.'s; John Hull P.J.G.W., and first W.M. of the Nine Muses; and Chev. Bartholomew Ruspini. while No. "330 L. of Nine Muses, St. James's-street," is one of the twenty-six contributing Lodges. It may not be out of place to mention—though in doing so we are necessarily deviating from the strict record of the Lodge career—we say, it may not perhaps be out of place to state briefly that this subscription was raised for the purpose of paying off the debts due on account of the Hall, which at the time were found to be very considerable. In accordance, therefore, with the resolution as given above, it was resolved to raise £2,000 by loan, without interest, at the discretion of subscribers; £25 to be the limit for each subscriber, and one hundred to be the number of subscribers; the moneys so subscribed to be repaid, in equal proportions, among the subscribers, at such time as the Hall fund should admit. It was further resolved that an honorary medal should be presented to the subscribers, and, if a Master Mason, the wearer of such should be entitled to be present at, and vote in all, future meetings of Grand Lodge. The sum was soon raised and applied as intended.

We have exhausted our limited stock of information—which must be taken for what it is worth—as to the earlier and more obscure portions of the annals of this Lodge. If any of the particulars we have furnished should turn out to be of value, it will be a source of satisfaction to us to feel that we have done some service, no matter how trivial it may be, towards the greater elucidation of the history of so worthy and worshipful a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons. May the same prosperity attend it in the future as in the past! And with this wish we wish you, O ye Nine Muses, heartily farewell!

BRO. THEODORE M. TALBOT,

LATE PROV. G.M. SOUTH WALES, EASTERN DIVISION.

AT the recent installation of Bro. Sir George Elliott, as Provincial Grand Master of the Eastern Division of South Wales, at Aberdare, no reference was made to the rare ability with which Bro. Talbot, assisted by his Deputy, Bro. Morris, had administered the affairs of the Province for eleven years. This omission gave grave offence at the time to several of the leading brethren in the Province, and it was felt that something should be done to remedy the grievance. Owing to the continued absence of one or two very influential Past Grand Officers of the Province, nothing, however, was done; the feeling of dissatisfaction gained strength, so that upon the return to South Wales of the influential Masons above spoken of, it at once found vent, and has resulted in a firm, but temperate Memorial, signed by nearly all the Past Grand Officers of the Province, addressed to Sir George Elliott, the P.G.M., requesting him to call a Grand Lodge of Emergency, at an early date, and at such place as may be most convenient to him, when the grave omission may be rectified, and the feelings of deep respect and warm regard to the late chief of the Province may have fitting expression. The rapidity and completeness with which the Memorial has been got up speaks volumes for the earnest wish of the Masons of South Wales that the conspicuous merits of their late Provincial Grand Master should be acknowledged and properly recognised.

We understand that the Provincial Grand Lodge of Essex is to be held next Thursday, at Romford, under the banner of the Hope and Unity Lodge, No. 214. In consequence of the continued indisposition of the Rev. P.G.M., Bro. R. J. Bagshawe, the R.W.D.P.G.M. (Bro. Matthew Clark) will preside over Provincial Grand Lodge.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The chiefest Wonder of modern times.—This incomparable medicine increases the appetite, strengthens the stomach, cleanses the liver, corrects biliousness, prevents flatulency, purifies the system, invigorates the nerves, and reinstates sound health. The enormous demand for these Pills throughout the globe astonishes everybody, and a single trial convinces the most sceptical that no medicine equals Holloway's Pills in its ability to remove all complaints incidental to the human race. They are a blessing to the afflicted, and a boon to all that labour under internal or external disease. The purification of the blood, removal of all restraint from the secretive organs, and gentle aperitive action are the prolific sources of the extensive curative range of Holloway's Pills.

THE UNITED GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

THE Regular Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge, England, was held on Wednesday. R.W. Bro. John Fawcett, Provincial Grand Master of Durham, presided. Bro. Captain Platt P.S.G.W. acted as S.G.W., and the Hon. W. Warren Vernon P.J.G.W. as J.G.W. The minutes of the last Quarterly Communication, and of the Grand Festival having been read and confirmed, the acting Grand Master announced that before the business of the evening was proceeded with, it would be as well, perhaps, that Bro. the Earl of Donoughmore should make the statement he was charged to make in respect of the two Lifeboats recently voted by Grand Lodge in commemoration of His Royal Highness the Grand Master's safe return from India. Thereupon his Lordship rose and said that the Committee appointed to confer with the authorities of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution as to the localities where it would be most desirable Commemorative Lifeboats should be placed, after a most careful consideration of the different places which had been mentioned, had arranged that one of them should be placed at the new watering-place, known as Clacton-on-Sea, and the other at Hope Cove, near Salcombe on the Coast of Devon. He further announced that the permission of the Prince of Wales had been asked for, and graciously allowed, to call the lifeboats the Albert Edward and the Alexandra respectively. His lordship's statement was greeted most warmly by those present. The Acting Grand Master then said that the Grand Master had been pleased to reappoint Bro. J. B. Monckton as President of the Board of General Purposes, and Bro. J. R. Rucker as President of the Colonial Board. Scrutineers were then appointed in connection with the election of the Board of General Purposes, the Colonial Board, and the Committee of Management of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. The Report of the Lodge of Benevolence, recommending the several grants enumerated in our last issue, having been submitted, a discussion was raised by Bro. Brackstone Baker as to one of the sums, in which other brethren took part. Satisfactory explanations, however, were given, and the whole of the grants were approved. The Report of the Board of General Purposes was next submitted and agreed to. As regards the suggestion, in the third paragraph, that the number of trustees of the real property of Grand Lodge, now reduced to four, should be raised to ten, as originally fixed, Bro. McIntyre proposed, and Bro. P. de L. Long seconded, and it was unanimously agreed, that the trustees should be as follow, namely:—Earl of Carnarvon, Lord Skelmersdale, Lord Tenterden, Sir Albert Woods (Garter), the Earl of Donoughmore, Bro. J. B. Monckton, Bro. John A. Rucker, and Bro. F. A. Philbrick, Q.C. The annual report of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for the past year was then submitted, and the alteration in Law I., p. 10, to the effect that in the event of a widow marrying a second time, and again becoming a widow, she should be still eligible as a candidate, was approved. Bro. Benjamin Head then proposed the motion of which he had given notice, that the sum of £70 should be set apart from the Fund of General Purposes, and placed in the hands of the Secretary of the R.M.B.I. to provide the inmates of the Institution at Croydon with coals during the winter season, and the motion having been duly seconded, was agreed to unanimously. The following, as regards the newly elected members, are the Board of General Purposes, Colonial Board and Committee of Management of the R.M.B.I. as now constituted, namely:—Board of General Purposes:—W. Masters: Bros. Major Shadwell H. Clerke, A. B. Cook 259, W. G. Cusins 197, Frank Green 1567, E. March 410, Jas. Muzio 1150, J. G. Stevens 933, Alfred Strong 1118, Arthur J. R. Trendell 29; Past Masters Bros. Daniel Betts 1351, Bishop 66, Dubois 1326, C. F. Hogard 205, H. C. Levander 633. Colonial Board—Bros. Brackstone Baker 21, Fr. Bennoch 1, J. Brett 177, J. Gibson 259, R. F. Gould 92, Griffiths Smith 569, Dr. Erasmus Wilson 2. Committee of Management—Bros. J. Brett, C. A. Cottebrune, T. Cubitt, J. A. Farnfield, C. F. Hogard, H. M. Levy, J. G. Stevens, A. H. Tattershall, H. G. Warren, T. W. White. Grand Lodge was then closed. Among those present were Bros. H. D. Sandeman, S. Rawson, Rev. R. J. Simpson, Rev. C. J. Martyn, Rev. W. Lake Onslow, J. C. Parkinson, J. M. Clabon, J. B. Monckton, J. A. Rucker, Raynham W. Stewart, Willing jun., H. A. Dubois, W. Hyde Pullen, C. L. Matier, Capt. Philips, P. de L. Long, Sir Albert Woods, Æ. McIntyre Q.C., C. F. Hogard, Jas. Terry, S. B. Wilson, G. F. McKay, Taylor, J. Constable, Captain Wordsworth, &c.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SUSSEX.

ON Saturday, the 2nd inst., the Provincial Grand Lodge of the Province of Sussex assembled at the Royal Pavilion, Brighton, for the purpose of the installation of Bro. Sir Walter Wyndham Barrell, Bart., M.P., of West Grinstead Park, Sussex, as Prov. G.M. The meeting was held under the presidency of V.W. Bro. John Hervey, P.G.D. and G.S. England, assisted by members and officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge. Shortly after four o'clock, the Installing Master, together with the Grand Officers and Provincial Grand Officers, present and past, entered the Music Room, and opened the Provincial Grand Lodge. Bro. Vincent P. Freeman, Prov. Grand Secretary, read the minutes of the last annual Provincial Grand Lodge; they were unanimously confirmed. The Prov. G. Sec. reported that he had received numerous letters from distinguished brethren, regretting their inability to attend; the Installing Master then proceeded to address the Provincial Grand Lodge, stating the object of the meeting, and remarked that his feelings were those of regret, mingled with pleasure—regret that so worthy a brother as Lord Pelham had been compelled from ill-health to relinquish the post he had adorned—and pleasure that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M. of England, had selected R. W. Bro. Sir Walter Wyndham

Burrell to succeed him. The arrival of the R. W. Provincial Grand Master of Sussex designate having been announced, he was requested to send in his patent. This having been secured by the Director of Ceremonies, and presented to and examined by the Installing Master, a deputation of Masters and Past Masters was directed to retire with the Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies to introduce the R. W. Provincial Grand Master designate to the Installing Master. This ceremony having been completed, the Provincial Grand Secretary read the Patent, and after prayer by the Acting Provincial Grand Chaplain, the Installing Master proceeded with the impressive installation, and invested the R. W. Provincial Grand Master designate with the marks of office, and placed him in the chair. Bro. Sir Walter Wyndham Burrell having been duly proclaimed and saluted, expressed the pleasure he felt in occupying so high a post of honour, and proceeded to correct an erroneous impression that existed in the minds of "outsiders," that Bro. Furner had resigned his position as Deputy Provincial Grand Master because he had been passed over in the appointment of Prov. G.M. He read letters showing that Bro. Furner had tendered his resignation previous to that of Bro. Lord Pelham, but that the latter had prevailed upon him to reconsider his retirement. Lord Pelham too had placed his own resignation in the hands of the M.W.G.M. of England, but withdrew it, feeling that he could secure much valuable assistance from his Deputy Prov. G.M. When, however, the latter felt compelled to retire, Bro. Lord Pelham relinquished the post of Prov. G.M., and thus enabled him (Bro. Sir W. W. Burrell) to occupy the proud position of Prov. G.M. of Sussex. As to his own appointment, he intended to visit every Lodge in the Province. Bro. John Henderson Scott was appointed Deputy Prov. G.M.; after his patent had been read he was addressed by the R.W. Prov. G.M. on the duties of his office, then obligated, invested and placed in the chair. After the usual proclamation and salutation, the R.W. Prov. G.M. appointed and invested the following as Provincial Grand Officers:—Bros. Trollope M.D., P.M. No. 40, Prov. S.G.W., C. J. Pocock P.M. No. 271, Prov. J.G.W., C. Walker W.M. 811, Prov. G. Chap., C. A. Woolley P.M. No. 811, Prov. G. Reg., V. P. Freeman No. 732, Prov. G. Sec., B. H. Thorpe P.M. No. 1,184, Prov. S.G.D., R. Bramwell P.M. No. 271, Prov. J.G.D., C. Tomes P.M. No. 1,110, Prov. G.S. of W., J. Dixon P.M. No. 271, Prov. G.D. of C., T. H. Cole P.M. No. 40, Prov. G.A.D. of C., Walter Smith P.M. No. 732, Prov. G.S.B., Alfred King No. 271, Prov. G. Org., J. Eberall P.M. No. 315, Prov. G. Purs., G. Tatham Prov. G. Treas., C. Sandeman P.M. No. 315, J. M. Kidd P.M. No. 732, G. Moren P.M. No. 916, and T. S. Byass P.M. No. 1,465, Prov. G. Stewards; and T. Hughes G. Tyler. The Provincial Grand Officers having been saluted, Bro. Trollope proposed, and Bro. Challen seconded, the appointment of a Committee to examine and amend the bye-laws, and report to Grand Lodge, the Committee to consist of the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Prov. S.G. Warden, Prov. J.G. Warden, Prov G. Registrar, Prov. G. Secretary, Prov. G. Treasurer, and Bros. Kidd, Challen, Cunningham, C. J. Smith, and Eberall. Bro. C. J. Smith moved, as an amendment, that the Committee should consist of one brother from each Lodge. Bro. Mark Tanner seconded, and after a brief discussion the original proposition was declared carried. It was also resolved that votes of thanks should be tendered to the retiring Prov. G.M. and Deputy Prov. G.M., for their eminent services in the past, the form of thanks to be inscribed on vellum. This concluded the business of the meeting, and the Provincial Grand Lodge was closed. The banquet followed, and was supplied by Bros. Sayers and Marks—caterers who never fail to give the utmost satisfaction. The chair was taken by the newly installed Prov. G.M., while over a hundred brethren were present. The toasts, to which ample justice was done, were "The Queen and the Craft," "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M. of England;" "The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon Pro G.M.;" "The Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale Deputy G.M. and Officers of Grand Lodge, Present and Past." Bro. W. Kuhe, P.G.O. of England, responded to the last, and apologised for the absence of other members of Grand Lodge, who had been compelled to leave to catch their trains. He congratulated the R.W. the Prov. G.M. upon his appointment, and expressed the pleasure he felt in seeing his old friend Bro. Scott appointed as Deputy Prov. G.M. He embraced the opportunity of thanking those brethren who joined with the members of his own Lodge in presenting him with the clothing of P.G. Organist of England. Bro. Hallott proposed the health of "The R.W. Bro. Sir W. W. Burrell, Bart., M.P., Prov. G.M. of Sussex." In responding, the Prov. G.M. acknowledged the cordial reception which had been accorded to him in the afternoon. Reverting to his appointment, he assured the brethren that he at first hesitated to accept the honourable post, but at the earnest solicitation of Bro. Scott and others he consented to take it. Had he a "tongue more tuneable than lark to shepherd's ears," he could do ample justice in responding to the toast; he, however, assured the brethren that he intended (as he stated in the afternoon) to visit each Lodge in the Province should he continue to be blessed with health and strength. He threw out valuable hints as to the business of the Province, and felt assured that so long as the brethren continued to encourage charity, love and truth, morality and loyalty, no one could speak against the cause of Masonry. The remaining toasts were the "R.W. Bro. J. H. Scott, Dep. Prov. G.M. of Sussex, and the Officers of Prov. Grand Lodge present and past," "The Visitors," "The Worshipful Masters of the Province of Sussex," and the "Tyler's Toast." Bro. J. H. Scott, in responding to the toast bearing his name, was deeply sensitive of the honour conferred upon him—an honour he had on a previous occasion refused. He felt a difficulty in following his illustrious predecessors, but would do his utmost to merit the confidence reposed in him. Bro. Scott was warmly applauded. During the evening some glees and songs were rendered, in excellent style, by Bros. Frank Elmore, Henry Taylor, and C. Tinney, while Bro. W. Roe was a most efficient accompanist. The Prov. Grand Stewards must be congratulated upon the success of the whole meeting.—Brighton Daily News.

CONSECRATION OF THE LONDESBOROUGH LODGE, No. 1681.

AMONG the numerous Lodges lately constituted bearing the name of brethren distinguished in the Order few have been consecrated under more favourable auspices than the Londesborough, which has been specially honoured by the Right Hon. Lord Londesborough, P.M. 734, giving it the sanction of his name, and by his becoming its first Master. The recent death of the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot has taken from the Lodge one of its founders, for, as we mentioned in referring to that nobleman's death, he was one of the brethren who signed the petition. Much as all must regret this occurrence, we hope the new Lodge will not suffer from the loss of so distinguished a brother, but will prosper, and become, as from its inauguration it bids fair to be, one of the most influential of our London Lodges. Bro. W. Ranting, P.M. 740, was the S.W., and Bro. Geo. Babb, P.M. 180 and 795, the J.W. designate, while Bro. Geo. Read P.M. was the acting Secretary. The Consecration ceremony, which had been entrusted to the R.W. Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, took place on Thursday last, at the Masonic Hall, Air-st. Regent-st., and was carried out by him with his well known ability, he being ably assisted by Bros. Col. Stuart P.G.D. as S.W., T. Fenn P.A.G.D.C. as J.W., H. G. Buss A.G.S., Rev. P. M. Holden P.G.C. Middlesex, B. Swallow P.M. 1563, &c. Bro. John Hervey, in very appropriate terms addressed the brethren, and congratulated the Lodge on the acceptance by the noble Lord of the position of its first Master; his social, as well as his Masonic position, made it an honour to the Lodge, and the brethren might be proud of having him amongst them. He represented a Masonic Family, his father having been initiated 40 years since, and had held the position of Senior Grand Warden of the Grand Lodge of England. Their W.M. designate was initiated 20 years since, and he also was a Past Senior Grand Warden. In undertaking the Mastership of the Lodge, he incurred a great responsibility, but he (Bro. Hervey) was sure the brethren would support their Master, and, by being punctual and perfect in their respective duties, take a great part of the trouble off his hands. A Masonic Lodge might be compared to a piece of machinery, and, as such, ought to be perfect in all its component parts, he hoped the brethren for their part would carry out their duties, as he felt perfectly sure their Master would his. They must consider themselves as the New Londesborough Lodge, there being another Lodge of the same name in the Provinces, and he hoped that by good working their Lodge would become a credit to the Craft. The Rev. P. M. Holden followed, with an oration on the nature and principles of the Order, his impressive remarks being listened to with attention. He congratulated the brethren on the favourable auspices under which they had started, and complimented them on their Master, whose motto, "Adversa virtute repello," adorned the room. A board of 23 Installed Masters being formed, the W.M. elect was duly installed into the chair by Bro. Hervey. On the re-admission of the brethren, who saluted the new Master in due form, he proceeded to invest the following as his officers: W. Ranting S.W., Geo. Babb J.W., Barfield P.M. Treas., G. Read P.M. Sec., W. Cole S.D., R. Burleton J.D., D. H. Harrison I.G., T. Schofield P.M. Tyler. Hearty good wishes having been given by the members, the W.M., in felicitous terms, proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. J. Hervey, Col. Stuart, T. Fenn, Rev. P. M. Holden, and H. G. Buss for their valuable services in consecrating the Lodge. This was seconded by Bro. Barfield, and carried. Bro. G. Babb, the J.W., proposed that, in addition to the thanks which had already been voted to them, "that these several brethren be elected honorary members of the Lodge." Bro. Col. Stuart acknowledged the compliment paid the consecrating officers, and after several propositions for initiation and joining had been handed in, the Lodge was closed, until August. The musical portion of the ceremony was efficiently conducted by Bros. Farquharson, Cozens, Fox, Fountain and Meen, under the direction of Bro. L. Beck. The brethren then adjourned to banquet, which was provided by Bro. Nicols, and gave great satisfaction. After grace had been said by the Rev. P. M. Holden, the Right W. Lord Londesborough, the W.M., proposed the toast of the Queen and the Craft. The national Anthem followed, Bros. Fox and Coste singing the solo parts. The toast of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M. was next given, the W.M. expressing his pleasure that they had so popular a man to preside over them. Bro. F. H. Cozens sang God bless the Prince of Wales. The toast of the Pro Grand Master was then duly honoured, and was followed by that of the D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers, with this toast the W.M. had great pleasure in coupling the name of Bro. John Hervey G.S. The present was the first day he had had the pleasure of seeing Bro. Hervey, and he hoped that a friendship, which might continue for years, would arise from the meeting. Bro. Hervey said he would always be pleased to acknowledge the toast of the Grand Officers, especially so long as they had such Masons among them as Lord Skelmersdale. He had to thank the brethren for the very hearty reception they had given them. As consecrating officer, he hoped he had done the work to the satisfaction of the brethren; he personally had to thank Bros. Col. Stuart, Fenn and Buss, for their able assistance, and on their behalf, as well as for himself, he thanked the brethren. He must ask them now to allow him to propose a toast, one he was sure that would give them great pleasure. Their W.M. had hitherto done duty in the Province to which he belongs, and comes among them as a Past Grand Officer of England; he hoped he would become a shining light in London Masonry; he concluded by calling upon them to drink the health of their W.M., and prosperity to the Lodge. The W.M. thanked the brethren for selecting him to preside over them; he hoped the Lodge would become a credit to the Order. Bro. Philbrick Q.C. P.G.D. rose. He felt it an honour to propose the toast of the Founders. He spoke of the chronological events in connection with the date of consecration, and the application of the number of the Lodge. What was required in a new Lodge was quality, not quantity. He hoped they would be successful. He would couple with the toast the name of Bro. Col. Stuart P.G.D., who replied in a very able manner. Br. Fenn said he had been selected to propose the health of the visitors, he hoped they would visit the Lodge on some future occasion. They were numerous, and many of them distinguished in the Order. He would couple the name of Bro. Philbrick with the toast. Bro. Philbrick said he could hardly find words to return thanks for the array of visitors. On their behalf he could only hope the Lodge would continue as flourishing as it had commenced. Col. Bannister and Rev. P. M. Holden also replied to the toast. The former said it was his first visit to a London Lodge. He had the honour to be associated with their W.M. in the provinces. He hoped they would have the pleasure of seeing the Grand Secretary down in Yorkshire, where he is universally esteemed, and if any of the brethren present were down in Yorkshire he would always be pleased to meet them. Bro. Holden thanked the members for having selected him to perform the duties of Chaplain; he had great pleasure in proposing the toast of the Charities, with which he coupled the name of Bro. Bubb the J.W. Bro. Buss proposed the health of the Wardens, after which the Tyler's toast was given, and the evening's enjoyment brought to a conclusion. The visitors were Bros. J. Hervey G.S., E. H. Hirch S.W. 235, T. A. Philbrick Q.C., P.G.D., B. Swallow P.M. City of Westminster, Grunebaum P.M. 1017, Levitt 180, T. Fenn P.G.D.C., Fletcher 180, J. Wade 860, H. H. Hodges, P.G.S. Berks and Bucks, T. Pinn 860, Farquharson, E. C. Willan 511, H. G. Buss A.G.S., S. Jones W.M. 1425, L. Beck 1559, S. C. Scott 771, Edmunds, H. M. Levy P.M. 188, Emanuel Nine Muses, Fletcher 180, Major Bannister P.G.D. North and East Yorkshire.

THE GRAND MARK LODGE.

THE half-yearly communication of the Grand Lodge of Mark Masons of England and Wales, &c., &c., was held at Freemasons' Tavern, on Tuesday afternoon. The Earl of Limerick R.W. G.M.M.M. presided. There was a numerous gathering of Grand Officers and other brethren. The Report of the General Board was submitted. It began with a most gratifying announcement as to the increase and prosperity of the Mark Degree, as shown by the issue of no less than 522 certificates during the half-year ended 31st March, and further stated that early in April the new Mark Province of Monmouthshire was constituted, Bro. Lorenzo Augustus Homfray being installed as the first Prov. G.M.M.M. The Board also stated that old T.I.M. Lodge, "The Lebanon," of Liverpool, had accepted a warrant of confirmation from the M.W.G.M.M.M. Three grants of £20, £25, and £20 respectively were recommended and agreed to. The suggestion that the number of Grand Deacons should be increased from two to four was accepted. The question whether, without consent of Grand Lodge, the M.W.G.M.M.M. had power to confer Past Master's rank on brethren who had not served the office of W.M. for a whole year was decided in the negative. It was also arranged, in accordance with the Board's recommendation, that the accounts of Grand Lodge should be audited every month, and that the auditor's fee should be increased to £25. The Grand Treasurer's accounts, as audited, were then submitted and received. They showed a balance in favour of Grand Lodge on the General Fund of £205 16s 10d, and on the Fund of Benevolence of £161 13s 8d. The Earl of Limerick was then installed as M.W.G.M.M.M., and having been proclaimed and saluted, expressed his gratification at the increasing prosperity of Mark Masonry, and his hope that the increase might be maintained. The following were then appointed as Grand Officers for the ensuing year, and invested and saluted, namely:—Lord Skelmersdale Deputy G.M.M.M., the Earl of Donoughmore G.S.W., Sir Henry St. John Halford, Bart. G.J.W., Revs. P. M. Holden and F. W. Thoyts G. Chaplains, Frederic Davison G. Treas., H. C. Levander G. Reg., Frederick Binckes G. Sec., A. B. Cook G.M. Overseer, D. M. Dewar G.S. Overseer, J. D. Moore M.D. G.J. Overseer, W. Rowe and R. C. Else G.S. Deacons, A. Spears and T. C. Roden M.D. G.J. Deacons, W. Wiggington G.S. of Works, Robt. Berridge G.D. of C., Walter Spencer G.A.D. of C., W. Hyde Pullen G. Sword Br., Joseph G. Podevin G. Std. Br., W. T. Belcher G. Org., Thomas Poore G.I.G., J. Tomlinson, S. S. Pearce, M. Crowden, S. Robinson, G. J. McKay, H. M. Baker, George Boulton G. Stewards. Bros. the Rev. G. R. Portal, W. F. Gumbleton, T. Meggy, S. Rosenthal, C. F. Matier, R. W. Edis and Dibdin were appointed by the M.W.G.M.M.M., and Bros. Magnus Ohren, Sabine, Dewar, Cubitt, W. Roebuck, were elected by G. Lodge as members of the General Board. It was then announced that an invitation had been received to hold a moveable Grand Lodge in the Province of Cumberland and Westmoreland, and the invitation having been renewed on this occasion by Bro. G. J. Mackay, was accepted, it being arranged that it should be held some time in the month of September, at a locality to be hereafter determined. Grand Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet, the Earl of Donoughmore, in the absence of the M.W.G.M.M.M., occupying the chair. It is almost needless to add that his lordship proved a most excellent president, and in the course of his different speeches made several amusing hits, which were greeted most heartily. The following are the new Lodges for which warrants have been granted since the last Communication:—Earl of Chester, Exeter, 196; Studholme, London 197; Croydon, Croydon, 198; Duke of Connaught, Dalston, 199; Lazar, Hokitika, 200; Wahab, Bengal, 201; St. Mark's in the South, Tasmania, 202.

CHINESE CARVING.—For sale, an elaborately carved set of Ivory Chessmen. The Kings stand 8¼ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Knights and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with concentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 67 Bartholomew.—Advt.

RED CROSS OF ROME AND CONSTANTINE.

CONSECRATION OF THE INVERURIE CONCLAVE, No 9, AT DUNDEE.

LORD INVERURIE, who has recently been elected Grand Viceroy of Scotland, in the place of Major Hamilton Ramsay, deceased, presided at the opening of a New Conclave, at Dundee, on the 31st ult. His lordship being also Intendant General for Forfar and Kincardineshire, the petitioners, Sir Knights Kelt, Brown, Henry MacFarlane, Mac Durand and Hay, had determined to name it after his Lordship. The meeting was held in the Upper Hall of the premises belonging to the Lodge Ancient, No. 49, Dundee, which, with its appropriate decorations, was well adapted for the purpose. A Grand Imperial Conclave was opened by Lord Inverurie as Grand Sov., Dr. Beveridge I.G.S.G. in the chair of the Grand Viceroy, G. W. Wheeler Grand Chancellor, R. S. Brown Grand Recorder, J. Crighton Grand Treasurer, John Crombie Grand Examiner, J. B. Shaw Grand Vice-Chancellor, and C. Grimsby E.V. No. 1; there were also present deputations from Edinburgh, Aberdeen, and Glasgow. There being eleven approved candidates in waiting, the I.G. Sov., with the assistance of his Officers, in a very able manner installed them as Knights of the Order. He then proceeded to Consecrate the New Conclave, and also the Hall to the purposes of the Order. The newly constituted Conclave having elected Andrew Kelt as the first M.P.S., R. Brown as E.V.E., and also recommended Sir Knts. MacFarlane and Capt. Leith Hay as Hon. Sovs., a Council of Viceroy was held, and afterwards a Senate of Sovereigns, in which the Sov. and past Sov. of Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 6 were present, when these grades were conferred on the four Knights named above, who were duly saluted by the Knights on their re-admission to the Conclave, which was then closed in due form. A number of duly qualified Knights having expressed there desire to take the degree of K.H.S. and St. John, whilst the deputations were present, his Lordship kindly consented, and opened a Sanctuary of K.H.S. as I.R.K.P., Dr. Beveridge as I.P., J. Gregory I.P.S., G. W. Wheeler 1st L., J. Creighton 2nd L., P. S. Brown G. of S.V. When Sir Knights Kelt, Brown, MacFarlane and Captain Leith Hay were entrusted with the sublime secrets of that degree, and subsequently with those of the Knights of St. John the Evangelist.

The Sir Knights, after their protracted labours, repaired to the St. David's Chapter-rooms, Bank-street, which had been kindly placed at their disposal. The chair was filled by Sir Knight Kelt, the newly installed M.P.S. of No. 9, who is also the R.W.M. of Lodge Ancient, No. 49, Sir Knight MacFarlane Hon. Sov. No. 9, first Principal of St. David Chapter, and R.W.M. of 225, Forfar and Kincardine Lodge, being croupier. Upwards of forty sat down to the banquet, and after full justice had been done to the excellent purveyance of Bro. Barthe, the Chairman gave the usual Loyal toasts. Captain Leith Hay, Hon. Sov. No. 9, responded for the Army, and Capt. J. Crombie M.P.S. of No. 6, Aberdeen, for the Volunteers. The Chairman then gave the Grand Council of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine for Scotland, and Lord Inverurie. They had all seen how well his Lordship had performed the arduous labours of that day, involving as it did so many different ceremonies,—they were also deeply indebted to him, not only for his kindness in coming there and so ably presiding, but also for the very valuable present of the banner he had given them, and he thought that as they had taken his name for their Conclave, they would never disgrace it by any unworthy act of theirs. (Cheers.)

Lord Inverurie, in reply, said, He felt a real interest in Masonry, and was determined to be something more than a mere idle member. He felt a great regard for the Red Cross Order, and having been appointed Intendant General for Forfar and Kincardine, he felt that he must do some work. Naturally, he turned his thoughts to Dundee, with its seven Lodges. He saw his friend Kelt, and one or two others, and the result was before them. He was proud to think that what he had been able to do to-day had given them satisfaction; it was his first attempt at any of the ceremonies in public, but he hoped to be able to do better when he had more practice; a Consecration was not an every day affair, and he should not be satisfied till he had consecrated another Conclave in Dundee, one in Arbroath, and four or five others in the Province. (Cheers). For what little he had been able to do for them, they were very welcome. The Banner and the Conclave bore his name, and he thought it was he that should return thanks rather than receive them. (Cheers.)

His Lordship again rose, to propose a vote of thanks to the Sir Knights who had come forward to assist him. They had been honoured with large deputations, both from Aberdeen and Edinburgh, and he felt that without their assistance in the work the meeting would not have been so successful.

Dr. Beveridge, I.G.S.G. and Intendant General for Aberdeen, replied for the Aberdeen Knights. They had been pleased to attend to welcome a new Conclave into their midst; at present he had only one Conclave under him, but, like Lord Inverurie, he was in hopes of soon having others to consecrate.

R. S. Brown I.G.R. replied for Edinburgh, and congratulated them on the progress the Order was making. The Grand Council for Scotland was formed in July last, with six Conclaves; since then one had been opened at Nairo, another in Ayr, and to-day they had No. 9, at Dundee. The Order was not like a Craft Lodge, or even a Chapter; he therefore thought they should be proud of the progress they had made in the first year. G. W. Wheeler G.C., as the only representative of the Glasgow Conclave No. 3 present, wished to propose prosperity to No. 9; they had been started to-day under very favourable auspices, with a good number of candidates, and he was informed six more gentlemen would be installed at their next meeting. They had had the advantage of seeing the best workers, from the oldest Conclaves; the assistance of their indefatigable Recorder, who was a host in himself, the patronage and name of the nobleman who stood second in the Order, the help of Dr. Beveridge, whose name was a tower of strength in the north of Scotland, and he, with the other visitors, was deeply indebted to their Dundee friends, for affording them such an opportunity of meeting together, to wish prosperity to the Inverurie No. 9, and long life to her first Sovereign. (Cheers.) Sir Knt. Kelt M.P.S. thanked Bro. Wheeler and the rest of the visitors for their kind wishes. He was not a speaker, but he hoped to prove himself a worker in the cause, and if the Conclave did not prosper, it should not be for want of any help he could give it. The Croupier, in very felicitious terms, proposed the health of Colonel Robertson, the United States Consul at Leith, who had come to grace their meeting, and who had displayed all that enthusiasm that distinguishes our Masonic brethren on the other side of the Atlantic. Colonel Robertson expressed the pleasure it had given him to be present to witness the opening of a new Conclave of the Order, as he was sure the Order only wanted to be known to be more widely appreciated. The visiting brethren were here obliged to leave, to get to their respective trains; but the Dundee brethren continued for some time longer, to enjoy the Feast of Reason and the Flow of Soul.

LONDON ORGANISATION FOR VOTING PURPOSES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I noticed, some time since, a report in your columns of a meeting of the Tredegar Lodge of Instruction, at which it was suggested that London Lodges should combine together for voting purposes, as is the practice in many Provinces. I think the scheme is in the first place objectionable on general grounds, but especially because it omits all consideration of the merits of the different candidates. This, of course, applies equally to Provincial organisations of a similar character as to this proposed London one. In the next place, I consider the suggestion is impracticable. I do not see how even the most influential brethren will induce all London to combine together for this or other purposes. Different Lodges are likely to be actuated by different views, and I fancy it will be found that in many cases these different views are irreconcilable. More good is likely to be done if brethren interested in the success of a candidate will follow the example of Bros. Stevens and Barnes. Assuming they are satisfied, on inquiry, that a case is worth supporting, let them find out who the men are they will have to work with them, and if they think them capable, and that there is a fair chance of succeeding, let them set to work might and main, and I do not think they will be less fortunate than the two worthy brethren whose names I have cited.

Yours fraternally,

GREY FRIAR.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A FEW years since the question was fully discussed in this country whether the existence of a secret society should be tolerated in a republican government; and when those who belonged to such societies were found not to yield to the force of the arguments adduced, the learned legislators of several states concocted and enacted certain sage laws, the object of which was to destroy all societies of this character. This was one of those chapters of human history which all men should read, both in its inception and results. It was, by no means, our first trial. We had before been "excommunicated by the Pope, because we were antimonarchial—assailed by some Protestant sectaries, because we were anti-republicans—and proscribed by Tom Paine, because we were too religious." Having previously escaped unscathed from this amusing variety of attack, we "waited patiently," agreeable to our principles, to see what we were to be shown next. And we have not been disappointed in our expectations. Masonry remains precisely where it was; but how has been the result as to secret socities in general? Odd Fellowship—a society scarcely known twenty years ago—took new life, and that three linked chain now numbers its tens of thousands, and competes, in the cause of humanity, with the "old handmaid"—Sons of Temperance, and Brothers of Temperance, and Rechabites, now display publicly their collars and their rosettes, and hardly drink cold water together without the word, the sign, or the grip. Surely that old argument against secret societies has produced strange results, and in its effects is a good specimen of the old apothegm for interpreting dreams—always "to explain them by the rule of contrary." In short, secret societies seem to have increased in a geometrical ratio under the influence of argument, and that increase is the natural and fair commentary upon the merits of the discussion. And then, those sage pieces of legislation—almost equal in wisdom to those against the Quakers, and Baptists, and witches of Massachusetts—where are they, and where are the convictions under them? Echo answers "where." They stand already as "obsolete ideas" upon the statute books, no very honourable memorials of the spirit which inspired them.

Masonry meddles not with the government, the politics, or the religion of the world. The very first instruction she imparts reads thus:—"In the State you are to be a quiet and peaceable subject, true to your government and just to your country;—you are not to countenance disloyalty or rebellion, but submit with patience to legal authority, and conform with cheerfulness to the government of the country in which you live." Without this principle it is self-evident that Masonry could not have existed, in its universal character, for many centuries past even in enlightened Europe.—Hebrew Leader.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Keiso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

"The inquiring Brother who may wish to know something of the strength and beauty of the principles of Masonry, will find a pleasure in scanning the characteristic pictures in this book."—The Brighouse News.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,' whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE House of Lords met on Monday, for the first time after the Whitsun recess. A question was asked by Earl Granville respecting the Burials Bill, and the Earl of Belmore drew attention to the inconvenience and danger to the public of having joint railway stations. A few minutes sufficed for the despatch of business on Tuesday. The House of Commons reassembled on the 31st ult. On the motion to go into Committee of Supply, various questions were discussed in connection with the Eastern Question, telegraphic communication with Lundy Island, and the policy of the Government. In Committee, an amendment to reject the estimate for the Lord Privy Seal was defeated by 104 to 46. Many other of the Civil Service Estimates were passed, and after rejecting a proposed new clause for the Customs, Inland Revenue, and Savings' Bank Bill, and despatching other business, the House adjourned. On Friday, a motion of Lord C. Hamilton, respecting Harbour Accommodation on the North-east coast of England, was rejected, shortly after which the House was counted out. The greater part of Monday's sitting was occupied in Committee in discussing the remaining clauses of the Oxford and Cambridge Universities Bill. Several divisions took place, some of which were close enough to be received with cheers by the Opposition, but the Government carried their Bill safely through this stage. The rest of the business was quickly disposed of. On Tuesday, a desultory conversation took place as to Russia's intentions as to the observance or non-observance of the Maritime Declaration of Paris, and the neutrality of the Suez Canal, in the course of which Mr. Jenkins, in speaking of the "arrogance" of certain British pretensions, was greeted with cries of dissatisfaction. A debate ensued on the Prisons' Bill as amended, its further consideration being ultimately postponed. A motion of Mr. Mitchell Henry, on Irish taxation, was rejected by 191 to 70. Then Mr. Whalley, in calling attention to a petition about the Tichborne case, in which the petitioner prayed to be heard at the Bar of the House, frightened members away, and the House was counted out, at a quarter to one o'clock. On Wednesday afternoon, the House discussed the second reading of the Women's Disabilities Removal Bill. Several members took part in the debate, which resulted in the Bill being talked out, amid ironical cheers.

On Saturday, which was set apart for the public celebration of Her Majesty's 58th birthday, the weather was anything but the proverbial Queen's weather. But then Her Majesty was at Balmoral, and that circumstance may have made the Clerk of the Weather somewhat less condescending than of yore to Her Majesty's lieges. Be this as it may, there was a considerable crowd of spectators to witness the interesting ceremony of trooping the colours. The three younger children of the Prince and Princess of Wales viewed the sight from some windows overlooking the Horse Guards' parade, and there were present, likewise, the children of the Duke and Duchess of Teck, and the Prince Imperial. The ceremony was performed in presence of H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief, and the Prince of Wales, who were attended by a numerous and brilliant staff. When the trooping was over, the Guards marched past in slow and quick time, a Royal salute was fired, and the Princes and staff left the ground. At noon, the usual salutes were fired from the Tower and Park guns, and the Hon. Artillery Company had the wonted parade at their Head Quarters in Finsbury. Banquets in honour of the occasion were given by the Earl of Beaconsfield, Sir Stafford Northcote, Mr. Cross, the Earl of Derby, the Marquis of Salisbury, Mr. G. Ward Hunt, the Earl of Carnarvon, and Mr. Hardy. There were the usual illuminations at the West-end, and crowds paraded the streets till a late hour, admiring the display, which in Regent-street, Piccadilly, and the region of clubs, was very effective. The same evening the Prince of Wales left London for Paris, in order to meet the Princess, who reached the latter city from Athens, vid Brindisi, late that night. The Prince arrived in the French capital on Sunday morning, and their Royal Highnesses left it on Wednesday evening, arriving at Marlborough House on the following morning. The young Princes Albert Victor and George of Wales have been appointed supernumerary Naval Cadets to H.M.S. Britannia. The elder of the two boys is in his fourteenth year, while the younger completed his twelfth year on Sunday last. A Levee, which was numerously attended, was held, in accordance with Her Majesty's command, by the Prince of Wales, on Thursday afternoon, at St. James's Palace.

It is with regret we announce the death, after a brief illness, of the Queen of the Netherlands. Her Majesty, who was a frequent visitor to this country, was the daughter of the late King of Wurtemburg, and was born 17th June 1818. She was married on 14th June 1839, and leaves issue two sons, the Prince of Orange and Prince Alexander, the latter of whom was some time since initiated into Freemasonry by his great uncle, Prince Frederick of the Netherlands. The funeral is fixed for the 20th instant. In consequence of this event, the State Concert, which was fixed for Wednesday, did not take place; and, moreover, the Court has gone into mourning for the usual period.

It is satisfactory to know that Mdlle. Titiens, who has recently undergone a serious surgical operation, is progressing favourably towards recovery, her medical attendants having, in reply to the inquiries of Her Majesty, pronounced her out of danger. This news has been received most thankfully by the public, with whom Mdlle. Titiens enjoys a wide and well-merited popularity.

It is not yet certain that Bro. Sir John Bennett has been elected Alderman of the Ward of Cheap. The poll was in his favour by a majority of one, the votes being—for Sir John Bennett 234, and for his opponent, Mr. Waddell, 233. The latter, however, demanded a scrutiny, which has been fixed for the 22nd instant, and will be looked forward to by the citizens with great interest. The ground of the scrutiny was that many of the votes taken were irregular.

A serious accident occurred at Bath, on Wednesday, by the fall of a bridge over the river Avon. This week has been held in that city the annual exhibition of the Bath and West of England Agricultural Society, and consequently the fine old place has been crowded with visitors from all directions. About 11 a.m. an excursion train arrived, bringing a fresh contingent of sightseers, many of whom made for the bridge, by which they were given to understand they would reach the show more speedily. Accordingly, some two hundred people made their way to the frail structure, when it suddenly gave way, and all were precipitated, either into the water or on to the banks of the river. At first, the most alarming rumours prevailed as to the loss of life thus caused, but eventually it was learned that seven people had been killed, and a very considerable number more or less seriously injured. It is believed that many others are still missing, so that the lists of death is not yet complete; while of the injured many are reported as having been fatally hurt. The inquest was begun on Thursday.

The Horse Show was opened on Saturday morning, at the Agricultural Hall, Islington. The attendance that day was greatly in excess of any previous opening day. Shortly after ten o'clock the judges of the Hunter classes commenced operations, and the work was continued through Monday and Tuesday, the leaping prizes for ponies having been reserved for the latter day. The genial summer weather of Monday drew crowds of visitors, nor has the more variable weather of the following days proved any drawback to the attendance. Yesterday was the last day, and, all things considered, we imagine the management will have every reason to be satisfied with the results of the Exhibition.

On Saturday the Civil Service Athletic Club, availing itself of the usual holiday which is granted for the Queen's birthday in all Government offices, held their annual athletic meeting at the Lillie Bridge Grounds, West Brompton. There was a good muster of spectators, though the day was by no means favourable for outdoor recreation. The arrangements were under the charge, as usual, of Mr. William Morse, and gave entire satisfaction. Mr. F. A. Hawker acted as judge, and Messrs. Beauford and Eaton as starters. The only new feature was the introduction of the now deservedly popular Tug of War, in which one of the teams representing the India Office ultimately won the prize. The same day the London University College held their Annual Athletic Meeting at the New Stamford Bridge Ground of the London Athletic Club. In the way of cricket there have been several first class matches, in one of which, between North and South, for the benefit of the Cricketers' Fund, Mr. W. G. Grace made one of his tremendous scores. He played for the South, and made 261 out of 452 from the bat. The North were easily beaten in one innings, their two totals together only reaching 296. In the match between Cambridge and the Gentlemen, the former were victorious in one innings by 56 runs. The Inter-University match is fixed for the 25th instant and following days, and to judge from the performances of the rival elevens, there is every reason to expect that victory will incline to the Light Blue. Yachting and other sports are in full swing, and on Saturday last was held the usual Middle Park Yearling sale. There were forty-two lots sold, the amount realised being 12,285 guineas, or an average of 273 guineas per lot. The highest price was 1,500 guineas.

On Wednesday evening, the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress entertained, at dinner, at the Mansion House, Her Majesty's Judges, together with a considerable number of the members of the bar of England, there being over 200 guests. The Lord Chief Justice replied to the toast of the Judges, Lord Hatherley responded for the House of Lords, Mr. Roebuck for the House of Commons, and the Solicitor General for the Bar. The health of the Lady Mayoress was proposed by the Lord Chief Justice, and acknowledged on her behalf by Sir Robert Carden. The health of the Lord Mayor having been duly honoured, and the other toasts disposed of, the company separated, about eleven o'clock. The same evening, several important festivals were held. At that of the Royal General Theatrical Fund, held at Freemasons' Tavern, the Duke of Beaufort presided, and subscriptions were announced to the amount of nearly £800. At the dinner in aid of the Funds of St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington, Bro. J. D. Allcroft presided, and over £700 were subscribed. The Earl of Dunmore took the Chair at the Royal Agricultural Benevolent Institution, at Willis's Rooms. In the course of the evening the Secretary announced subscriptions and legacies to close on £11,000. At the Albion, Mr. Baron Pollock presided at the Solicitors' Benevolent Association Festival. Subscriptions to between £500 and £600 were announced.

The political excitement in France, especially in Paris, has not yet cooled down. On the contrary, the greatest bitterness prevails. Whatever else they may manage better in France than in other countries, it is manifest they do not get on so well in matters political as we or the Germans do. However, though the present crisis there would, in ordinary times, be the talk of everybody, it is the war which attracts the chief attention of the political world. Thus far the operations on the Danube have been confined to occasional bombardments, now of Widdin, now of Kalafat, and other places. Hitherto, of course, the weather has been the chief obstacle to greater activity on the part of the Russians, having rendered the rapid movement of troops impossible. However, we hear now, that the Danube, which had risen amazingly by reason of the rains, is now falling to its usual summer level, and no doubt when the Czar has arrived on the scene of action, an attempt to cross the river will be made in several places at once. Such at least appears to be the general belief. There are also rumours that Servia is again about to mix herself up in the war, as though the beating she received from the Turks last autumn were not enough for so small and insignificant a principality. As for Roumania, she must be in a sorry plight. Whether Turkey or Russia wins, there is little doubt it will take years before Roumania recovers from the present disturbance of peace. As for Montenegro, we hear, at length, that these hardy but cruel mountaineers have been seriously defeated by the Turks, and if the latter can succeed in capturing Celtigne, it will be possible for them to despatch a portion of their forces to do battle, either on the Danube, or in the neighbourhood of the Balkans. The tenor of the news from Asia is generally unfavourable to the Turks. They have not only not recaptured Ardahan, but they are said to have been obliged to retire their force, before the superior armies of Russia. There is a rumour that Kars is invested, and that it is only a question of days when Erzeroum will fall. Batoum, however, still holds out, in spite of the efforts of the Russians, and it is said that the insurrection in Caucasus is extending. No doubt, as the summer advances, we shall hear of infinitely more momentous events than any that have as yet occurred.

Bro. Charles Bonnett, official shorthand writer to Grand Lodge, desires to inform the Craft that he is not the Charles Bennett, shorthand writer, whose name is now so frequently before the Courts of the country in certain legal proceedings.

The Keystone anticipates that the Triennial Conclave of the Grand Encampment of the United States, which is to be held in August, at Cleveland, Ohio, will prove as magnificent a gathering as that of the same Grand Body held in 1871 at Baltimore, or at New Orleans in 1874. We learn from the same source that at the annual Conclave of the Grand Commandery of Michigan, on the 9th ult., the following were elected Grand Officers for the year—namely, Sir Knights Hugh McCurdy G. Comm., H. F. Knapp D.G. Comm., F. Henderson G. Genlmo., W. B. Wilson G.C. Genl., G. W. Wilson G. Prelate, R. G. Chandler G.S.W., J. B. Newton G.J.W., M. S. Smith G. Treasurer, W. P. Innis G. Reg., and W. V. Griffiths Grand Sent. The day previous, the Grand Chapter of Connecticut elected Comps. H. W. Coye Grand High Priest, Joseph K. Wheeler Grand Secretary, and other Grand Officers for the ensuing year.

The Masonic Jewel contains a long account of Bro. S. Patton, Past Grand Master of Mississippi. Bro. Patton was born in the year 1813, and was initiated in 1842, in Livingston Lodge, Alabama. In the same year he received all the Chapter degrees. In 1843, he took the Council degrees in Tuscaloosa Council, No. 4, and the same year became S.W. of his Mother Lodge, being advanced to the position of W.M. the following year. In 1850, having removed into Mississippi, which was his native State, he obtained a dispensation for Patton Lodge, No. 129, and became its first W.M. In 1853, he obtained a dispensation for the Patton Chapter, No. 152, Lauderdale Springs, and was chosen its first High Priest. In 1854, he was elected G.H. Priest of the Grand Chapter of Mississippi. The same year he took part in the organisation of the Grand Council of Mississippi, and was appointed its first "T. Ill. Grand Master." He received the order of Knighthood the year following, in Mississippi Commandery, No. 1, Jackson, and became Grand Captain General in the Grand Commandery in 1858, and Grand Commander in 1872. He was elected Grand Master of Mississippi in 1864, and re-elected the following year. Bro. Patton played a not unimportant part in the Civil War, holding high rank in the Confederate army. He was the means of rendering service to two Federal prisoners confined at Meridian, who proved to be brother Masons. He was also indebted for the preservation of what little property remained to him, when Sherman captured the place we have just named, to the fact of some Masonic jewels, which he had made for an army Lodge, being found in his house; the Federal Captain, who meant capturing all, being himself a Mason. We have seldom read a more interesting career, whether private or Masonic, than that of Bro. Patton.

SYMBOLISM.

From the "Hebrew Leader."

TRUTH does not end with the fact alone that symbols were the first language of mankind. That kind of communication appears to have been a favourite one with all men and in all ages. They have been the preferred expletives of all the religions of the earth. They stand out on the temple of Salsette, the cave of Elephanta, and the palaces of Delhi. Egypt reveals them from her monuments and her tombs; Scandinavia, Yucatan, Mexico, but repeat the story; Greece and Rome only reiterate it when it had become old; and if all Europe and America are not now repeating it, it is simply because a purer feeling and a higher and holier morality have descended to them from the "still small voice" once breathed upon the mountains of Judah and perfected in the teachings of that pure Being, who upon the fields and mountains, and lakes, and seas of Palestine, brought "life and immortality to light."

The love of symbols among mankind, anciently used as a language, and afterwards as the expletives of religion, has, in all ages, preserved the favourable opinion of the world and has come down to us, even politically, with a force scarcely, perhaps not at all, lessened in its power, by the intelligence of this enlightened age. We need not go far for examples. The two-headed eagle of Russia, the lilies and the tricolour of France, the red cross of St. George, our own ever glorious stars and stripes—what are they all but symbols of nationality, and to what purpose is their symbolic character, but for distinction, national honour, national pride, or national glory? The "eagles of victory" and of triumph have furnished the common metaphor of numerous centuries, the national banner is as ever sacred to the humblest citizen as to the highest statesman; its protection from stain constitutes the highest pride of the soldier and the sailor, and he proudly walks to carnage or to death, while the symbol of his country's honour spreads its folds to the breeze. The slightest contempt for it will electrify a nation. When a celebrated English statesman once ventured to speak contemptuously of the American Navy, as "a half dozen fir frigates, with pieces of striped bunting at their mast heads," he little imagined that the lightning spark thus thrown forth would expire not until that piece of "striped bunting" should mark its triumph upon every sea and proudly float above the red cross of his own powerful country; and that the unreflecting remark would burst forth from thousands of bosoms in retort, whenever and wherever the defenders of that piece of "striped bunting" saw it borne aloft as the representatives of victory. We allude to this instance in illustration of the subject only, and not with any invidious feeling.

Symbols, then, have not passed out of use, even in this matter-of-fact age, and if they have always been favourites with the world, and still are so, the Institution of Freemasonry—which has always used them—ought not to be thought unwise, or foolish, or ridiculous, because, agreeably to her original practice, she continues to use them, and applies them to the same purposes for which they were originally designed. When, therefore, we invest the Master with the square, the Wardens with the level and the plumb, the Deacons with the gavel, and the Tyler with the sword—when we give in charge to the Master the holy writings, the square and the compass—and when our brethren appear in aprons—we ask only that common charity which is extended to all other men's modes of thinking and of acting, in this nineteenth century, when we ask others to believe that all this form and show, to us, is but "the exhibition of useful truth." To some men it may perhaps appear useless mummery; to others, the trappings of a useless vanity; to others, even, the garb of a supposed past disgrace. To us, it is our language—the idiom in which we teach. It is more than this—it is an impress of what is taught.

And let it not be forgotten here what Freemasonry, in its present speculative character, is. No one claims that it is now a society of actual architects and Craftsmen, engaged in the actual employment of building and architecture. No Freemason claims, at the present day, that his brotherhood with this Society necessarily makes him a workman in a stone quarry, a hewer of stone and wood and worker in brass and metals; but we do instruct, and we also teach that a brother must be well skilled as Apprentice and Craftsman before he is fitted to be Master. If the college imparts its Greek and its Latin, we also teach our Masters a language which, for all practical purposes, has the advantage of both, in ease and universality—and while the Church is labouring for some one of the ten thousand dogmas of the ten thousand sects, we are quietly teaching at the Masonic altar, the simple theology in which nearly all the world agree, that there is one God and father of all, who is above all, and over all; and that there is no doubt about the duty of offering prayers, and thanksgiving, and adoration to His ever great, glorious and holy name.

Freemasonry may, very properly, as we thing, be defined as the teaching of a moral science by a method peculiarly its own. We unite, in our teachings to the initiate, the building of a splendid temple with the practice of morality, friendship and Brotherhood—we connect with the creation of this earthly edifice a system of private recognition, useful to ourselves, of obligation and protection towards those who are dear to us, and of continual remembrance of that "mystic temple," whose

> "Altars are the mountains and the ocean—
> Earth, sky, stars—all that springs from the great whole
> Who has produced and will receive the soul."

We can well anticipate the inquiry which will, very naturally, be made here, by some learned, independent, free-thinking outsider, (as the modern phrase has it). It will be something after this manner;—

Do you think that all Masons look at this subject from the same point of observation—that they view it in the light and shade now exhibited—that they see it as you see it, and apply its teachings as you apply them?

The anticipated inquiry is both natural and fair. It is one that we wish it was in our power, consistently with truth, to answer more favourably and more satisfactorily than we are able to do. We candidly answer:

In ordinary life the difference between industrious and lazy men—between the bee or the ant, and the glutton, are fully recognised. There is no difficulty in approaching it. Results are written upon its face, in characters of "living light." Is it strange, then, that the same results should be seen among a class of men professing the same belief, some of whom have laboured with the industry of the ant, while others have rolled themselves up in the inaction of the sloth. There is, between studious Masons and their slothful, uninquiring brethren, the same difference in the views they take of Masonry as their is between an artist and a peasant in their respective estimations of an old painting—it may be a Raphael or a Rubens. The peasant gazes, with stupid wonder, or with cold indifference, on the canvass redolent with life, without the excitation of a single emotion in his barren soul. Its colours, mellowed to a rich softness by the hand of time are to him less pleasing than the gaudy tints which glare upon the sign of the village inn; and its subjects, borrowed from the deep lore of history, or the bold imaginings of posey, are less interesting to him than the daubed paint which hangs conspicuously at his cottage fireside. But to the eye of the artist how different is the impression conveyed? To him everything beams with light and beauty. To him it is the voice of nature speaking in the language of art. Promethens-like, he sees the warm blood rushing through the blue veins, and the eye beaming with a fancied animation. The correctness of the outlines; the boldness of its fore-shortenings, where the limbs appear to burst from the canvass; the delicacy of its shadows, and the fine arrangement of its lights, are all before him, subjects of admiration on which he could ever gaze, and examples of instruction which he would fain imitate.

And whence arises this difference of impression produced by the same object on two different individuals? It is not from genius alone—for that, unaided, brings no light to the mind, though it prepares it for his reception. It is cultivation which enlarges the intellect and fits it for its reception, and this cultivation we arrive at as Masons, through instruction by symbols and legends—by that through which we work closer into the hearts of our fellow-men than by mere words.

We are informed there will be a very startling innovation introduced in connection with the Stewards' Badges at the Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. We have reason to believe the new feature will give the greatest satisfaction.

The new Lodge, No. 1677, bearing the style and title of the Crusaders' Lodge, will be consecrated on Wednesday, the 13th instant, at St. John's Gate Tavern, Clerkenwell. Bro. James Terry, Secretary to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution will officiate on the occasion.

Mark Masonry will hold high festival in Hull on the 12th instant.

Canterbury Cathedral.—Canterbury Cathedral cannot thoroughly be appreciated unless it be studied from a considerable distance; for its great size and unusually intricate plan make the task of apprehending it a difficult one from any near point of view, so that we unconsciously compare only some part, not the whole, with surrounding objects. But when the building is seen in all its grandeur, rising far above the trees and houses of the town—almost like a mountain of carved stone—dwarfing all surrounding objects, we realise that it is indeed worthy to be a mother church of a great country. The Cathedral is certainly most fortunate in its surroundings. The old grey walls and circular towers, which still enclose part of the town, the narrow streets with their picturesque houses and occasional fragments of ancient buildings, chief among which is the gateway of St. Augustine's Abbey, tell of a peaceful present and an unbroken continuity with the past, and fitly introduce us to the Precinct or Christ Church Gate, an extremely rich and beautiful work of the early part of the sixteenth century. We pass through this into the Close, and at once obtain one of the most striking general views of the Cathedral. A grassy lawn, bordered with trees, runs all along the southern side, allowing of a much more uninterrupted view than is possible from any other quarter. The central tower rises grandly above the nave, its firm, simple, yet graceful lines, contrasting well with the more florid and less satisfactory outlines of those at the western end, the northern of which is quite a modern work replacing an old Norman tower pulled down some forty years since. Immediately in front of us is the fine southern porch, from the earliest times the principal entrance to the Cathedral.—From Picturesque Europe for June.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 7th of June, at Bro. Hallows, The Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. Franklin W.M., F. Hallows S.W., Upward J.W., W. T. Christian Acting Secretary, Pinder P.M. Treasurer, Carter S.D., Groome J.D., Claridge I.G.; also Bros. W. G. Hallows, Varley, Delvalli, Brown, Shepherd, Hunt. The Lodge was opened in due form, and minutes of last meeting confirmed. Ceremony of initiation rehearsed, Bro. Varley acting as candidate. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, and the ceremony of passing rehearsed, Bro. Delvalli acting as candidate. Bro. Pinder worked the 1st section of the lecture. Lodge resumed to the 1st degree. Bro. Pinder worked the 1st section of that lecture. Lodge resumed to the 1st degree, and Bro. Pinder worked the 1st section of that lecture also. Bro. Shepherd, of Ley Spring Lodge, No. 1598 was elected a member of this Lodge. Bro. F. Hallows was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed in due form.

St. John's Lodge, No. 28, Kirkintilloch.—This old Lodge held its regular fortnightly meeting on Saturday, 26th May, at 6 p.m. The Lodge was opened by Bro. J. S. Allen R.W.M., J. Cameron I.P.M., with A. Kirkwood S.W., Thos. Miller as J.W., J. S. Phillips acting Sec., B. Hysley I.G., J. Frankleburv Tyler. There was a good attendance of members and visitors, amongst whom we noticed Bros. J. Dick, A. Leslie and J. S. Phillip 3 bis, G. W. Wheeler 73, A. Garsia 171, Doune, A. Miller 400, J. Martin, and others from 195, Campsie. A deputation was appointed to seek for a new hall, or for the ground on which to build one for themselves, as the Lodge is in possession of considerable funds. At the request of the R.W.M., Bro. G. W. Wheeler of 73 passed Bro. R. Cowrie to the F.C. degree, for which he received the thanks of the Lodge. The R.W.M. was about to raise a brother to the 3rd degree, but owing to the time spent on the Hall business and a pro'est of Bro. Turnbull, train time had nearly arrived, and it was resolved to hold an emergency meeting, on Tuesday, to raise him.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—Held at the Old Rodney's Head, 12 Old-street, Goswell-road, on Monday, 4th inst. Present—Bros. Bissett W.M., R. Pearcy S.W., Trewinnard J.W., Ross S.D., Tolmie acting Preceptor, Fenner Sec., Harvey J.D., Gibbs I.G., Christopher Tyler, Hunter, Morgan jun., &c. Lodge opened in the 1st degree, minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The W.M. worked the 1st section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The ceremony of initiation was ably rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Millward acting as candidate. Bro. Harvey worked the 4th, Bro. Tolmie the 5th section, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Tolmie worked the 6th section, assisted by Bro. Harvey. Bro. Tolmie worked the 7th section, assisted by the brethren. A sum of £1 was voted from the Lodge funds to a distressed brother Mason. A vote of thanks was cordially passed to the W.M. for his conduct in the chair. Lodge was then closed in due form, and adjourned.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.—Held at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on 5th June. Present—Bros. Posener W.M., Daniel S.W., Sayer J.W., Walker S.D., Gieberman J.D., West I.G., Hollands, Harris, Maidwell, J. Posener, &c. Bro. Posener worked the three ceremonies in a very able manner, thereby rendering instruction to all present. Brethren wishing to perfect themselves in the ceremonies are given every opportunity of holding office at this Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Daniel was elected W.M. for the ensuing Tuesday.

Doric Lodge, No. 81.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 6th of June, at Private Lodge Rooms, Doric-place, Woodbridge, Suffolk. Present—Bros. Benjamin Gall I.P.M. W.M. pro tem, Benjamin David Gall Treas. S.W. pro tem., C. F. Browne J.W., W. Wilmshurst Secretary, F. Bradbrook S.D., E. Fitzgerald D. of C., Richard Allen I.G., G. Hall Tyler. Past Masters Bros. B. Dove, W. P. T. Phillips and J. Cullingford. Visitor—Bro. H. E. Roe 555. Business. The minutes of the previous Lodge were read and affirmed. An application from a distressed brother, a member of this Lodge, for relief from the Provincial Lodge, was recommended; also an application signed for a candidate for the Boys' School. Fellow Craft J. Roe having been questioned and entrusted, retired, and, on re-admission, was duly raised to the third degree. The Lodge was adjourned to the first Wednesday in September next. The brethren retired to their banqueting room (adjoining the Lodge), to refreshment, and spent a few hours agreeably, in the usual Masonic style.

Lodge of Joppa, No. 188.—This Lodge met on Monday, the 4th inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, City. Bros. L. Lazarus W.M., Miller S.W., M. Spiegel J.W., L. M. Auerhaan Treas., E. P. Albert P.G.P. Sec., H. Hymans S.D., A. J. Campion J.D., R. Baker I.G., H. P. Isaac D.C., P. E. Van Noorden Org., P.M.'s Bros. Israel Abrahams, L. Alexander, M. Alexander, H. Berkowitz, H. M. Levy, S. Hickman, A. Dodson I.P.M. After the formal opening of the Lodge, and the preliminary business had been disposed of, a letter was read from the W.M. of the Lodge of Israel, requesting that Bro. De Silva, who had been passed to the 2nd degree in that Lodge, be raised to the 3rd degree. This request was readily complied with. After which Bro. Cogwill was passed to the 2nd degree. The Lodge was then closed until October, and the brethren, 108 in number, sat down to a very sumptuous banquet and dessert, provided by Bro. W. G. Jennings, and superintended by Bro. M. Silver. Grace having been said by the Rev. Bro. H. Berkowitz P.M. and Chaplain, the W.M. proposed the toast of Her Majesty the Queen, and the Craft. The National Anthem was then sung. Miss Pattie Laverne and Miss Florence Levander singing the solo parts. The toasts of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M., the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers successively followed, and with the latter was coupled the name of Bro. E. P. Albert, who in a very appropriate speech returned thanks. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Benevolent Fund, and coupled with it the name of Bro. L. Alexander P.M., President, who said the fund was instituted in 1849, by Bro. N. Canstatt P.M. Since then there had been given to brethren eligible to receive it various sums, even up to £100. With pride we can say we yet have £1300 in hand, and in the course of the next eight months we shall have £100 more. (Cheers.) Bro. Campin gave 21s, and Miss May F. Auerhaan (a granddaughter of the Treasurer) also gave 21s to the Fund. Bro. A. Dodson I.P.M. then proposed the toast of the W.M., which was received with loud cheers. When silence had been restored, Bro. Dodson said he could scarcely find words sufficiently eulogistic of his working, which was perfect, and was fully appreciated by every Bro. and Visitor. Of his capability in presiding they had a specimen, and he was sure they would give the toast the hearty welcome it deserved. The W.M. said the words uttered by Bro. Dodson, and the hearty response the brethren had given, would never be effaced from his memory. He was pleased his efforts had been successful. Whatever he had done, or would do in Freemasonry, would be for the good of the Craft in general, and this Lodge in particular. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Visitors, said they were honoured by the presence of several distinguished in the Order. The Lodge was always pleased to see them, and he hoped the brethren would drink the toast as it merited. Bro. Major Shadwell Clerke P.P.G.S.W. Devon, P.M. 1383, returned thanks; in the course of his remarks he said it was a great amount of pleasure to him to be present. He had been a Past Master for twenty years, and had never heard better working, not only from the W.M., but from the several officers; the brethren may congratulate themselves on their selection. Another great and noble attribute you possess; your Benevolent Fund, which would be a credit to any Lodge, and is worthy of imitation throughout the Craft. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Past Masters, and mentioned their names seriatim. He spoke of their Masonic qualifications, and the services they had rendered to the Lodge. The toast having been responded to by Bro. Alexander, the W.M. proposed the health of the Wardens. He was sure no better selection could have been made; those who had witnessed their working would agree with him that, in the ordinary course, they would be selected to occupy the chair. Bros. Miller and Speigel severally returned thanks. The W.M. next proposed the toast of the Treasurer and Secretary. Those brethren are a host in themselves; it is to them that the success of the Lodge is to be attributed. This having been responded to, the Tyler's toast was given. The W.M. provided a very excellent concert, under the direction of Bro. P. E. Van Noorden, the Organist of the Lodge, who accompanied the following talented artistes—Miss Pattie Laverne, Miss Florence Levander, Miss Kate Vere, and Messrs. Prenton and White, who were deservedly applauded and encored. The visitors were Bros. Major Shadwell Clerke P.P.G.S.W. Devon, P.M. 1383, G. S. States P.G.S. P.M. 145, H. Leah J.W. 193, Austin P.M. Doric, E. Williams, E. Behrends, W. Russell, W. R. Phillips 975, I. Botibol 1201, C. Ochse 1668, A. Naas 27, J. H. Cummings W.M. 534, Anabell 1464, N. Moseley 228.

Hayle Chapter, No. 450.—The Annual Meeting was held at Freemasons' Hall, Hayle, on Tuesday, when the retiring Z., Ex. Comp. John Coombe, ably installed Comp. John P. Smith as Z., F. H. Pool as H., and James Poole as J., after which Comp. Smith appointed as his officers Comp. Joseph G. Osborn E., Dr. Madge N., G. H. Eustice P.S., John J. Taylor and G. B. Pearce First and Second Assist. Sojourners, and I. V. Bray Janitor. A capital supper was laid in the banqueting-hall, and a very agreeable evening was spent.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Tuesday, the 5th June, at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. Hewlett W.M., Barker S.W., Davies J.W., E. T. Worsley Secretary, W. J. Smith S.D., Johnson J.D., P.M. Wallington Preceptor, Pullen I.G.; also Bros. Saunders, Haine, Lovelock, Dallas, Dendy, Lorkins, &c. Business—The Lodge was opened with solemn prayer, the minutes read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was then rehearsed, Bro. Saunders acting as candidate. Bro. Hewlett worked the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Barker was unanimously elected W.M. for next Tuesday, and appointed his officers in rotation. The proceedings will commence punctually at 7.30. Bros. Lorkins, of 1524, and Dendy, of 1662, were unanimously elected members of this Lodge of Instruction. We should like to see a good muster next Tuesday, to support Bro. Barker, as it will be the first time of his working the 2nd degree.

Asaph Lodge, No. 1319.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Monday, 4th June, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Present—Bros. W. Tinney W.M., G. McLow, St. Dunstan 1580 S.W., G. Buckland J.W., Stanton Jones Sec., E. Swanborough S.D., J. Wellard J.D., Harry Cox I.G., J. Gilbert Tyler. Past Masters—Bros. Chamberlain, C. Coote sen., and Jekyll. Visitors—Bros. H. Hall 541, T. Webb 892, Cutler, Andrews J.W. 231, Chearn 145. Bros. Soutar, MacLean, Barnett, Delevante, Saunders, Pearson, Poulter, Calcott, Fogarty, W. Smith, Carter, Henson, Rogers, Egerton, Ball, and Gittoes. The minutes of the last Lodge meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. H. J. Calcott was elected a joining member. Bros. W. B. Fair, P. le C. Castell, C. B. Powell, and C. F. Tinney were raised to the sublime degree. Bros. Bell, Hatcher, Kent and Beveridge were passed to the second degree; the working being perfectly rendered. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren separated.

Wolsey Lodge, No. 1656, Hampton Wick.—Although comparatively of recent formation, the province of Middlesex has, under the genial sway of its esteemed Grand Master, the Right Worshipful Bro. Colonel Burdett, made rapid strides. Lodge after Lodge has been added to the roll call, which now numbers, we believe, twenty-four, but any mere accession of numerical strength is by no means a criterion of Masonic success. The Middlesex brethren are however fully alive to their responsibilities. Amongst them may be found those who rank second to none throughout the Craft in the effective rendering of the Ritual, while, what is of equal importance, they are not unmindful of their duty to the sacred cause of charity, as a reference to any of the Festival lists of our three Metropolitan Institutions in late years will amply verify. The Wolsey Lodge, the last offshoot of the province, although only then consecrated ten weeks, was represented by Bro. Bond, as Steward, at the recent Girls' Festival, the result being most creditable to that worthy brother's efforts, especially when, in the first place, we bear in mind the short time at his disposal to canvass the brethren, and in the second, that most of them, being members of a neighbouring Lodge, were already pledged to fulfil prior promises for the same excellent Institution. When a Lodge is thus mindful of its charitable obligations, it is not likely to be unsuccessful in other matters, and we are pleased to record there is every prospect of future prosperity. The bye-laws limit the number of members to thirty, of these ten are founders, thirteen have enrolled, either as initiates or joining members, while on Monday last, the 4th inst., two more were added, of the former class, at an emergency meeting, held at the White Hart Hotel. The Lodge was summoned for 6.30, and after its opening the ballot resulted in the election of Messrs. J. H. Duffell and A. Elphick, who were impressively admitted to Masonic light by the W.M., Bro. Wm. Hammond P.P.G.D. Bros. Masters, Malcolm and Piller were next examined and entrusted, and they retired. On re-admission they were duly passed as F.C.'s. Bros. Taylor, Pinto and Forge were then presented as candidates for the 3rd degree, and having undergone the usual preliminaries, were in due course raised to the sublime degree of M.M. To state that the W.M. performed the entire ceremonial ritual in most effective and impressive manner, is but to repeat a thrice-told tale. Further business being despatched, the Lodge was closed, at 10 p.m., and the brethren adjourned, not to banquet, but to their respective homes, the W.M. having determined to dispense with refreshments at emergency meetings for the time being; an excellent policy, which the brethren adopt with pleasure, proving that the Wolseyites are prepared to discharge the labours of the three degrees without the attraction of the fourth. There were present—Bros. W. Hammond P.P.G.D., &c. W.M., J. Hammond P.M. 201 Hon. I.P.M., Bentley P.M. 193 acting S.W., J. Hurst W.M. 1512 acting J.W., F. Honeywell P.M. Org., T. M. Ockenden Secretary, Marvin D.C., Scott W.S.; Bros. Featherstone, Forge, Fitt, Piller, Richer, Andrews, Masters, Malcolm, Pinto, Taylor, and Pickering P.M. 30. We regret to say that Bro. Sharp S.W. was unable to be present, owing to serious indisposition; and business engagements detained Bro. Bond J.W. until a late hour. A letter, regretting inability to attend, was received from Bro. the Rev. F. J. C. de Crespigny, Chaplain, who was some distance away in the country.

Samson Lodge, No. 1668.—This new Lodge held its first Emergency Meeting on Tuesday, the 5th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. There were present Bro. M. D. Loewenstark W.M., Joseph D. Barnett P.M. S.W., W. H. G. Rodderforth J.W., A. D. Loewenstark I.P.M., Charles Ochse S.D., Baron D. Barnett J.D. and Sec., Charles Lover W.M. 1178 I.G., S. Wasserberg D.C., G. Bilbey Organist, Hyam Aarons, C. Loughton. Visitors—W. H. Lee P.M., J. Lyons, Shamrock and Thistle Lodge, Glasgow, S. Jewell, New Cross Lodge. The Lodge was opened in first degree, and ballots were taken for the following candidates for initiation:—Mr. John Grose Thomas, Mr. Samuel Joseph, Captain Joseph Larke, which were unanimous for their admission; also ballots were taken for the following joining members—Bro. Isaac Quincey, Perfect Ashlar Lodge, No. 1178, Bro. Morris Wilson, Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017, which also proved unanimous for their admission. Bros. Aarons and Loughton, candidates for passing, having been entrusted, the Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and the W.M. duly passed them. The Lodge was then resumed to the 1st degree, when the following approved candidates were initiated: Messrs. Samuel Joseph, David Jewell, Henry Jewell, John Grose Thomas, and Capt Joseph Larke. The brethren then proceeded to elect their Treasurer and Tyler, which had been omitted at the last meeting. The selection was unanimous in favour of Bro. A. D. Loewenstark I.P.M. (who had been acting as Treasurer since the formation of the Lodge) as Treasurer, and Bro. A. Oberdoeffer as Tyler, both of whom returned thanks in suitable terms. A committee of the officers of the Lodge was then elected, in order to frame the Bye-laws. Several candidates for initiation and joining were then proposed. The W.M. announced his intention to have another emergency meeting the first Tuesday in July, to initiate some of the candidates on the list, there being already eight for initiation. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment to the Holborn Restaurant, where, under the able management of Bro. Hamp, a very nice supper was provided. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, interspersed with several songs and solos, by Bros. J. D. Barnett S.W., W. H. G. Rodderforth J.W., and Baron D. Barnett I.G. and Secretary, assisted also by Mrs. Loewenstark (wife of the W.M.), who sang sweetly, and Miss Eugenie Samuel, the latter singing, with great taste, two contralto songs, which were very much appreciated by the brethren. This lady possesses a fine voice, which she exercises with great judgment. Miss Loewenstark also gave a solo on the pianoforte, which was well received.

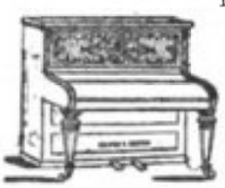
"MY Guardian," the second of the two serials which have been appearing for some months past in Cassell's Family Magazine, is concluded this month. Those of our readers who have followed it closely, as we have done, must agree with us that it is a well-written tale, and well contrived, and that several of the characters are extremely well-drawn. We have not yet reached the term of the career of "Paul Knox, Pitman." In addition, there are two short stories, one entitled "A Ride for Life," of a very exciting character, as indeed the heading suggests, while the other affords an illustration of the stupefying powers of a certain drug called "Bang." In the way of papers are an admirable one by Professor Andrew Wilson, descriptive of "A Forest of Animals Under the Sea," a most interesting account of "Cornell University, America," and particulars as to "Summer Climates for Invalids," by "A Family Doctor." Mr. Edward Oxenford introduces to us some "Curiosities of Coronations." In the way of domestic matter will be found "The Story of Furniture," the usual "Chit-Chat on Dress," and a most interesting paper on "Other People's Servants," in which the writer shows that, much as we in England complain of the difficulties in finding good servants, others, and especially the Americans and those who dwell in our Australian colonies, are a thousand times worse. There is another excellent paper with the familiar signature—Phillis Browne—at foot, telling us "How We Managed our Garden Party," and what adds to the merit of this particular code of directions is, that it is very prettily illustrated. Very amusing is the picture of "An Artists' Conversazione," by an Artist, and very pleasant is the story of "Our Summer Holiday in Donegal." Not the least acceptable of the contents is the description of "The Children's Day in the Country." Indeed, there is nothing in the number which we should hesitate about commending to the notice of our readers.

Part 10 of The Countries of the World is chiefly occupied with descriptions of different places in the State of California, but Oregon, Alaska, &c., &c., come in for a share of the attention paid to the portion of the United States bordering on the Pacific. The frontispiece is an illustration of "Hydraulic Mining in California." Other full page engravings are, "A View in the Rocky Mountains (Colorado)," "View of Mount Rainier, Washington Territory (from the Nisqually Plains)," "The Capitol Sacramento," and "A Chinese Quarter, San Francisco." Among the smaller illustrations are, "View of Silver City, Nevada," "At Work in the Silver Mines of Nevada," "A Street in San Francisco," and "An Hotel in San Francisco." This last gives an excellent idea of the palatial buildings our American cousins delight to erect for the accommodation of travellers and sojourners. The Capitol at Sacramento, to judge from the engraving, must be a grand pile of building. The letter-press contains a mass of valuable and interesting information.

There is, as usual, a highly attractive programme in The Leisure Hour. "A Young Wife's Story," which has been one of the chief items for so many months, is concluded. Miss Isabella L. Bird is still favouring the public with her experiences of "Australia Felix," and her "Impressions of Victoria," in the same agreeable manner which has marked all her contributions. There is a fourth paper on the important subject of "New Helps for Hospitals," in which the writer directs attention to "Special Hospitals," such as the Royal London Ophthalmic Hospital in Moorfields, the different Orthopædic Hospitals, St. Mark's Hospital for Fistula in the City-road, and the Hospital for Consumption at Brompton. Another article, which deserves to be read carefully, as bearing upon the education of youth, is that on "School Natural History Societies," in which, after pointing out the value of such societies, the writer enumerates sundry which have already been established, either at our public schools or elsewhere. Then we have noted the description of "An Italian Wedding," an excellent paper on "Japanese Music and Musical Instruments," an account of "Three Weeks in Rhineland," a second paper on "The Royal Commission on Historical Manuscripts." But, perhaps, the most interesting in the whole series of contributions is a biographical sketch of "Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hall," than whom there do not exist two more diligent workers in the cause of art and literature. Mrs. Hall is well known for the many admirable works she has given to the world from time to time, but none exceed in merit her well known sketches of Irish life and character. Mr. Hall has also attained a high position in the literary world, but he is chiefly known as the editor of that most admirable of all publications connected with art education—we allude to the Art Journal, which has maintained the first position in this class of periodical ever since its first appearance in 1839, and which was, indeed, founded by him on his own and sole responsibility. There is an effective frontispiece, representing an "Episode in the Battle of Waterloo."

"Number Twenty-Nine" is the title of a new and promising story in the Sunday at Home. Among the other contents must be noticed the second and third of "Welsh Peasant Sketches," No. II. of Miss Alcock's contribution entitled, "Uncrowned: A Page of Jewish History," the sixth of the late Rev. R. Demaus's series of articles on "the English Bible," the story of "A Night on the Yorkshire Wolds," and the "Pictures from Jewish Life," by J. Alexander. There is an illustration of the new "Herbert and Cowper Memorial Window in Westminster Abbey," the place of honour at the commencement of the number being assigned to it.



MESSRS. MASKELYNE AND COOKE AT THE EGYPTIAN HALL.—The manifestations in the new Séance are far in advance of anything done by so-called Spirit Media, and also superior to anything Mr. Maskelyne has before introduced in this way. Hitherto, ropes have been used, and both Mr. Maskelyne and Mr. Cooke have been secured together in the cabinet, à la Davenport Brothers. In this instance Mr. Cooke alone is secured, and in the following manner:—Seated in a cabinet, his hands are tied with whipcord behind his back, the ends of the cord being passed through holes and tied and sealed on the outside; a net is then passed over both the cabinet and the performer, and enclosed by a simple screen. In the space of a few seconds audible manifestations take place, and hands are seen over the top of the screen, which being immediately thrown open, Mr. Cooke is discovered fastened up in every respect as the Committee had secured him. The back as well as the front of the screen is narrowly watched during the whole time, thus preventing the possibility of any person getting in to produce the effects. The room is placed in darkness for a few moments, and then the stage gas is turned on, and powerful lights are also thrown from the body of the Hall into the screen, and Mr. Cooke is clearly seen floating into the room, taking with him the cabinet. He pursues his aërial flight from the stage to the ceiling in the centre of the room, and then returns with his cumbersome burden to the starting point. One minute of darkness, and the Committee re-examine their work, and are amazed to find that all the fastenings, which had been thought sufficient to render Mr. Cooke helpless, were completely intact. Two minutes are occupied by Mr. Cooke to release himself from the bonds, and untying all the knots. During the floating, the light is not obscure, but very brilliant, thus enabling the audience to see distinctly the features and every part of Mr. Cooke.

LODGE NOMENCLATURE.

OUR attention has not unfrequently been called to the singular want of taste evinced in the selection of Lodge titles. Taking into account the rapid increase in the number of our Lodges, we recognise the difficulty which must occasionally be experienced in providing appropriate names. It will not do to go on calling too many new Lodges after the same eminent brother. In the first place, it betokens extreme poverty in nomenclature. In the second place, what was intended originally as a compliment stands a fair chance of degenerating into fulsome adulation. As regards those names which denote this or that abstract quality, such as wisdom, strength, beauty, harmony, felicity, perseverance, fortitude, and the like, the list is speedily exhausted, and it becomes necessary to append thereto some distinctive qualification. If there are, for instance, half-a-dozen Lodges of Antiquity, and as many of Harmony and Fortitude, we must be in a position to distinguish one from the other, or we shall be in the same dilemma as Punch's unfortunate cabman, who carefully arranged his four jovial fares, so that he might put them down at their respective houses. When, however, he reached the first house, and opened the door of his vehicle, he found them so confoundedly mixed up together, he was unable to make any selection whatever, and they were too far advanced to be in a position to help him. Thus, the first Antiquity on the list may stand on its own merits, and remain, as it has been always, "Antiquity" pure and simple; but more modern "Antiquities" must, as in some cases they do, have something to distinguish them from their more ancient colleague. Still, the abstract qualities, whether pure and simple, or compounded with other names, are, as we have said, very quickly exhausted. The names of places are another source to which we may look for the titles of Lodges, but even here our choice is limited by the number of places in which it is likely that a Lodge of Freemasons will find a proper degree of support to warrant its establishment. The mere multiplication of Lodges is not by any means desirable. The erection of a new Lodge means the expenditure of a considerable sum of money. To plant one in a comparatively unknown spot were as wise a proceeding as to build a lighthouse in the heart of Birmingham for the safer navigation of the Channel. Scriptural names, taken from both the Old and the New Testament, are frequently adopted, but there are several instances in which these are too often repeated. We see no objection to St. George, who is the patron saint of England, being chosen as the title of a Lodge, but we think it an act of weakness when we find there are some twenty on the roll, all bearing the same name. However, if there are some twenty St. Georges, there are nearer fifty St. Johns on the Grand Roll of England, but as there were two St. Johns, and a learned brother once laid it down that both were Grand Masters of Freemasons, we ought not, perhaps, to be surprised at the frequent adoption of this name. But we need not enumerate all the sources whence the title of a Lodge may be derived, or the limits which good taste will suggest should regulate the appropriation of such titles. Let any of our readers take up a Grand Lodge Calendar, and cast a glance over the list of our Lodges, and we venture to say they will be struck with wonder at the extraordinary combination of names in our Lodge titles. Let us take at hazard a name which occurs more than once, either singly or in combination, such, for instance, as Royal. By itself it sounds well, and in a monarchical country like this it is appropriate. Nor is there any reasonable objection to there being a Royal Lodge in Jamaica, as well as a Royal Lodge at Filey. But what shall we say of such combinations as the "Royal Trinity," or the "Royal Prince of Wales." We understand well enough the Royal York, Royal Edward, Royal Athelstan, Royal Victoria, but what about the Royal Phœnix, the Royal Alpha, or the Royal Oak, the last of which is most commonly associated—in London at all events—with the name of a well known terminus for certain public vehicles. Again, Ivy Lodge, Camberwell, is suggestive of a suburban villa rather than a Lodge of Freemasons. A Crystal Palace Lodge were advisably placed in the neighbourhood of Sydenham, but why have a Lodge of that name at Ealing, of all places in the world, unless, perchance, the brethren who compose it are, to use a cockneyism, distinguished by their possession of certain "Healing" virtues or properties. "Florence Nightingale" sounds prettily, and has the further advantage of commemorating the name of a most excellent lady. Therefore, though ladies are not admissible into the Craft, we see no inconsistency in naming one of our Lodges after so estimable a person. So again with the Burdett Coutts Lodge; there is even a greater fitness in the use of this title. The lady is the daughter of a Mason, and, moreover, she is one of those who practise that particular virtue of Charity which it is the purpose of Freemasonry to inculcate in all its disciples. We are not deeply impressed with such names as the Marquis of Granby and the Old King's Arms, but they belong to old Lodges, and doubtless commemorate the places at which they were in the habit of meeting at their first establishment. We have no great difficulty in reconciling ourselves to Hengist as a Lodge title, though there are no authentic records of his having been a Mason. A Saxon Prince, whose name is intimately associated with the legendary grant of a Charter to the Freemasons, lived close on five hundred years after Hengist. We know that a few centuries, more or less, whether they be antecedent or subsequent to any particular epoch, are of no great importance in tracing the history of Freemasonry. The supposition that Prince Edwin was a Mason may to a certain extent justify the assumption that Hengist, who preceded him, was also a member of the same body. Be this as it may, Hengist both looks and sounds well as the name of a Lodge, but then the Lodge so distinguished should hail from some part of Kent, not from Hampshire, Kent being the first of the seven kingdoms composing the Heptarchy and Hengist its first sovereign. Such titles as "Peace and Harmony," "Social," "Love and Honour," "Scientific," "Unanimity," "Perpetual Friendship," "Prudent Brethren," "Integrity," and "Honour and Generosity," have the twofold advantage of being appropriate and euphonious, but a Grenadiers' Lodge sounds too warlike for so peaceful a body of men as Freemasons. And what shall we say to an "Atlantic Phœnix," or to an "Amphibious" Lodge. An "Adam's" Lodge has about it a certain sense of antediluvianism, and when people speak of a thing or person being antediluvian, they do not usually intend their remark to be complimentary. Moreover—we trust our readers will excuse any error in the rhyme or rhythm—

> When Adam delved and Eve span,
> Who was then a Freemason?

Another singular title is that of "Noah's Ark," which is the name of a Lodge at Tipton. The idea we commonly associate with a "Noah's Ark" is that of a child's toy. But it may also be considered applicable to the place wherein a family party assembles, and this most likely explains the connection of the name with a Lodge of Freemasons. A "Silent Temple" is hardly appropriate, except on the ground that silence is one of the virtues on which Freemasonry lays the greatest stress, while as to the "Limestone Rock" Lodge, we can only account for the selection of such a name by the fact that geology has something to do with Freemasonry. An "Arboretum" is oftentimes a trysting-place for lovers, but the love which is cultivated in its shady recess is not exactly fraternal love. Still Masonry covers a multitude of loves and "Arboretum," may pass muster. Moreover, as a certain school of philosophers were wont to pace the groves of Academe, when imparting their lessons of wisdom, so the modern Masonic philosopher may find many a less convenient place than the quiet nooks of an arboretum for inculcating the truths of Freemasonry. It is fortunate, perhaps, that the "Octahedron" Lodge is located somewhere in the neighbourhood of the Cape of Good Hope. Were it in London it would, we fear, stand a chance of being severely damaged in the pronunciation. However, as suggestive of solidity, it is admissible. But these are only a few of the more remarkable names to be found in the Calendar. We need not be at the pains of selecting other examples of the hap-hazard manner in which names are selected. It occurs to us, there are sundry essential points to be considered in providing a title for a new Lodge. It should read smoothly; there should be no inconsistency between it and the Lodge to which it is applied. For instance, a Mason is not an amphibious animal, though there be Masons both on land and water. Nor do we think that the names of brethren should be too commonly used in distinguishing Lodges from one another. The names of Connaught, Leopold, Carnarvon, Skelmersdale, Moira, Cabbell, and other eminent brethren past and present, naturally enough suggest themselves to the founders of a new Lodge, but these, we have said, can be used too often, and we do not think it wise to adopt as titles the names of brethren who have not pre-eminently distinguished themselves. But we shall better indicate our meaning if we take a few names at random, as instancing what it is desirable to avoid in our Lodge titles. We will suppose we are co-founders with some of our readers of a Lodge as yet unnamed. We are in the agonies of consultation, but no inspired thought has occurred to any one; suddenly one who is given to the study of palæontology suggests, "Ichthyosaurus." "Why?" say we. "Well," it is at least as good as amphibious, more definite, and eminently respectable from — well, from an antiquarian point of view." "Why not 'Charles Matterface?'" says the W.M. designate. "Or 'Periwinkle Bay' Lodge?' It will be located there." "Pardon me," says a third, "I fancy 'Castor and Pollux' would do admirably. In the first place, they never had anything to do with speculative Freemasonry, so we should avoid arousing any sense of jealousy among our patrons. In the next, as they together form one of the signs of the zodiac, we should be paying a compliment to celestial Freemasonry, which nobody understands." "Let us call it 'The Six Grand Periods,'" says another. "Or, 'The Queen's Head,' where we purpose meeting." The last evoked a chorus of disapproval. "Smacks too much of the Postage Stamp," was the universal rejoinder. "Or the 'Plantagenet' Lodge; it sounds regal, and ours is a Royal Art. Besides, a Plantagenet issued an edict about operative Masons, and there are those who think this had something to do with the rise of Speculative Freemasonry." An "Obtuse-angled Triangle" was favourably received at the outset, but was discarded, on somebody pointing out that it, or a part of it, might be considered as personal to the members. Many other names were suggested, and the meeting was on the point of separating without coming to a conclusion, when the inspired thought presented itself. "Let us call it the 'Pro Bono Publico Lodge.'" "Why?" exclaimed all but the inventive genius who proposed the name. "Well," remarked he, "being expressed in a strange language, it will sound more impressive to English ears. Moreover, it directly explains some of the objects of Freemasons. Thus, we cultivate the study of Freemasonry 'for the Public Good,' and we shall meet at mine host's of the 'Pig-and-Sticking-Plaister,' let us hope, as much to our own satisfaction as 'for the Good of the Public.'" And it was called the "Pro Bono Publico" Lodge accordingly. Speaking seriously, we think the present fashion of naming Lodges might with advantage be improved, and we trust the practice of naming them after brethren, who, albeit respectable and respected, are not pre-eminent, will cease.

FREEMASONS AT ISSUE.

DIFFERENCES will inevitably arise between Masons, as between other men, nor is it to be expected that brethren will always be successful in arranging such without having recourse to law. No doubt it is very lamentable to think that litigation is a necessary evil, but unfortunately it is so; and until the millennium shall arrive, when, like the lion and the lamb, we shall sit down in perfect harmony with one another, we may regard it as an absolute certainty that, whether they be Masons or non-Masons, men, who are infinitely more quarrelsome than all the rest of the animal kingdom put together, will go on quarrelling. However, as one of the objects of Freemasonry is to induce a stronger sense of concord among its disciples than prevails in the word generally, the spectacle of two or more brethren submitting their disputes to one of the legal tribunals of the country is not often witnessed. Our Constitutions lay it down that if the Craftsmen cannot agree together, they should endeavour to settle their differences in the Lodge, and if that expedient fail of success, then they must seek the intervention of the Grand Master. But as many Masons have business relations together, and as differences often occur in respect of such business, a difficulty arises as to where the line shall be drawn between these and their Masonic relations. It is not always possible to say where, in the case of such brethren, Masonry ends and business begins. This may sound strange in the ears of many of our readers, but we have business relations with Craftsmen, and we know to our cost that Masonry and business are often confounded together in a most unjustifiable manner. We know many well-intentioned brethren who are quite willing to patronise our Masonic literary wares, and consider they are promoting the welfare of Freemasonry by permitting us to bear all the expense. When they call for dinner, either at home or at an hotel, they must pay for it; but when they ask for such plain Masonic pabulum as it is in our power to purvey, they feel aggrieved if we suggest that a pecuniary return is necessary. But we are slightly wandering from the main point of our article. We say there is oftentimes a diversity of opinion as to where, in the case of brethren who have business relations together, the Masonry ends, and the business begins, and a certain amount of odium unduly attaches to the brother, who is bold enough to draw a hard and fast line between his Masonic and his business relations. For ourselves, we see no reason for this confusion, and still less reason is there for blaming a brother who makes a point of insisting that business is business, and not Freemasonry. At the same time, as we have a perfect horror of litigation, we would advise brethren to settle their differences amicably, if possible, not only for their own sakes and the avoidance of cost, but in order to avoid bringing, even indirectly, any reproach upon Freemasonry. But an angry man is seldom amenable to reason, and the confusion already existing in his mind as between business and Masonry leads him to commit an error of judgment. The result is, that a dispute, which is purely Masonic in its character, is submitted to the stern arbitrament of the law, while another, which is essentially non-Masonic, is referred to the decision of a Masonic tribunal. However, two cases have figured in the law courts within the last few days, which will enable us to enlighten our readers as to what should and what should not be settled legally. In one an action for libel came on for hearing in the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Judicature. Justice Field presided, and when the case was about to be argued, he, having in the meantime noted the leading particulars of the suit, interposed, and suggested that the case was one which should properly be submitted, not to one of Her Majesty's Courts of Law, but to the Grand Master. His words, as quoted in the report of one of our daily contemporaries, were "It is contrary to the rules of Masonry to come into a court of law on such a matter. It will be much better to ask the Grand Master to interfere, and decide the question." The counsel for the defence expressed the readiness of his clients to adopt this course, when the counsel for the plaintiff remarked that such a course had been taken, but the Grand Master considered it was a case which could only be lawfully decided in a court of law. Justice Field, however, repeated his suggestion, declaring, at the same time, that in his opinion, it was eminently a matter for the Grand Master. The case, therefore, stands over for reference as suggested, and we trust the Grand Master, acting on the advice of so eminent an authority, will decide the issue between the contending parties. Our readers, of course, will inquire what were the circumstances which induced the judge to make the recommendation he did. They were these. In a young Lodge, in one of our northern provinces, the election of the present Master was only carried by a small majority of votes, and we are informed that the minority, in order to avenge themselves for their defeat, adopted the very objectionable course of black-balling candidates proposed by members of the majority. This, of course, provoked a bitter quarrel, and a letter was written which was interpreted as libellous, by one who was, but no longer is, a member of the Lodge. Hence the action for redress which Justice Field so promptly arrested. Now, without offering any opinion upon the merits of the dispute—to do so would of course betoken an utter disregard of all sense of propriety and justice—we say, without touching the pros and cons of the case, we lay it down most emphatically, that this was a matter which was very properly referred in the first instance to the Grand Master, who alone, according to the Constitutions of Freemasonry—that is, if plain English has any meaning whatever—is competent to decide the difference. It follows, of course, that in our judgment, the Grand Master was wrongly advised when he declined to interfere and referred the disputants to a court of law. The quarrel was purely and simply Masonic. It arose, in the beginning, out of a closely contested election for the Mastership of a Lodge. The rejection of candidates was a direct consequence of the ill feeling begotten out of the contest, and the words which were taken as libellous were the direct outcome of the rejection of candidates. If ever there was a dispute which called for the intervention of the Grand Master, it was this; and we repeat, with all the emphasis which it is possible to throw into half-a-dozen words, and assuming the correctness of the facts as they have been represented to us, that the Grand Master was improperly advised when he refused to intervene, and told the litigants to seek legal redress. The words of our law are clear: "All differences between, or complaints of members, that cannot be accommodated privately, or in a regular lodge, shall be reduced into writing and delivered to the grand secretary, who shall lay the same before the grand master or the board of general purposes, or other board or committee appointed by the grand Lodge, or in the country to the provincial grand master, if there be one. When all parties shall have been summoned to attend thereon, and the case investigated, such order and adjudication shall be made as is allowed by the laws and regulations of masonry." The distinction between referring a case to the Grand Master, or the "provincial grand master, if there be one," is a distinction without a difference. The Provincial Grand Master is the Grand Master's representative in the Masonic district over which he, the P.G.M., presides. The intention of the law is, obviously, that a purely Masonic dispute shall be referred for settlement to a purely Masonic tribunal. So much for one of the two cases. The other was tried on Friday last in the Rolls Court, before the Master of the Rolls. The plaintiffs were Messrs. Hutton and Co., of Newgate-street, the defendants, Messrs. Bayliss, Agg, and Gilles, who carry on business as wholesale fancy warehousemen in Paternoster-square. Mr. ex-Sheriff Hutton is a Past Grand Deacon of England, and the other parties to the suit are Freemasons. The plaintiffs' object was to restrain the defendants from selling a certain thread to which Mr. Hutton, as far back as 1869, had given the name of "Flossette." This thread had for many years previously been known as "Floss," or "Flourishing Thread." The defendants sold the same thread under the same name as the plaintiffs. In his affidavit, Mr. Hutton claimed to have "invented an improvement in the manufacture of the thread in 1869, but it was given in evidence by the defendants, in affidavits of the manufacturer from whom both parties purchased the thread, that precisely the same articles had been manufactured and sold to the trade generally for five-and-twenty years. His lordship did not even call upon the defendants' counsel. He dismissed the action with costs, and in doing so remarked that Mr. Hutton, to judge from his affidavit, must have a very peculiar idea of the "Queen's English," and that he had no trade mark, no copyright, and no property in the name whatever. Messrs. Chitty and Williamson were counsel for the plaintiff, Messrs. Davey and Fullerton for the defence. Now, in this instance, the dispute between the parties was purely and simply a trade dispute. They were Masons, but their differences were of a business, not a Masonic character. We may deplore the fact that two well-known firms should have engaged in a law suit, but it is as clear as the sun at noonday that the fact of both parties being Masons had nothing whatever to do with the case. Indeed, it would have been as conspicuously wrong to have introduced the Masonic element into the question at issue as it was in the other question to refer a Masonic squabble to one of our ordinary legal tribunals. As to the decision of the judge, it was manifestly a righteous one. The rights of the case were absolutely and entirely with the defendants, and Mr. ex-Sheriff Hutton, in common parlance, had not even the fraction of "a leg to stand upon." Common sense and law are not always at one with each other, but in this case they were so closely allied, that we are astonished at any man of business having had the foolhardiness to refer a dispute of this kind to the decision of any person possessing the usual allowance of sanity. However, to resume the thread of our article. Here, fortunately, we have before us two cases, occurring within forty-eight hours, which suffice to show what may and what may not be justly referred to the decision of a judge. Henceforth, we think there will be little, if any, difficulty in drawing the line between the two kinds of quarrel, the Masonic and the non-Masonic. A Mason, like an official, acts in two capacities. An official does certain acts, and has a certain knowledge qud official; he does certain acts, and has a certain knowledge, qud ordinary individual. But his two capacities are entirely distinct. So a Mason. He does certain acts, and has a certain knowledge as a Mason; he does and has certain other acts and knowledge respectively as an ordinary individual. Yet the two capacities are entirely distinct. In the two cases we have taken for illustration, the squabble in the former was a Masonic one, and should have come before the proper tribunal. In the latter, the squabble was a trade one, and was very properly determined by a legal tribunal.

A MOST EXCELLENT LIGHT.

IF being applauded and made much of were as injurious to societies as to individuals, then, indeed, would our ancient Order be in some danger; for, whether for good or for evil—let us hope the former—we Freemasons have become decidedly fashionable, and the one great fear that agitates our body is, that in the crowd of candidates who are daily seeking admission into our ranks, some elements of a non-masonic standard may be introduced. It is not a profitable task to gild refined gold, nor is the painting of the lily calculated to afford much gratification to those who undertake the operation; it is equally questionable whether the laudation that the Craft receives at the hands of the outside world is likely to improve the general status of the Brotherhood. It is doubtless more pleasing to find ourselves the object of friendly and flattering criticism, the recital of our movements filling considerable space in the London dailies, than to see covert sneers and animosity in a vituperative publication, which actually libels the very title it adopts; but we have that within ourselves, our institution, and our teachings, that renders us independent of, and indifferent to, outside praise or censure. Ours is not a history of to-day, and our past is so glorious that it will irradiate our noble science to all time.

Not to outer commendation, however well meant, do we owe our present position, but to the assiduity and hard work of those good men and true who are within our gates. What do we not, as a body, owe to those brethren who bring great talents and perseverance to bear on the proper performance of our ceremonies, who devote time and labour to small matters of detail, which render our system a harmonious whole, and whose constant aim seems, both by precept and example, to impart a true knowledge of our working to those who are willing to learn? These are the pillars of Masonry, and when we find a Province or Lodge enjoying great prosperity, be sure it numbers amongst its members men who have taken a delight in studying the intricacies of Freemasonry.

It is surprising what the efforts of one mind will do, and how its influence is felt far and near. What the Province of Northumberland owes in this respect to its Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies is not easily told in the limited space devoted to one of these sketches. In the discharge of the duties of his peculiar office, our worthy brother brings to bear all the energy of a mind singularly in accord with his position. His early dramatic culture gives him a keen eye to effect, and under his direction our ceremonials gain a warmth of tone and a breadth of colour that add greatly to their solemnity. Officers seem to glide imperceptibly into doing the right thing, and the working proceeds as smoothly as if every one concerned were to the manner born. The great gift, however, of our respected brother is his natural eloquence, added to the charm of a highly-cultivated elocution. It is here that he shines out so pre-eminently. In Chapter he is a Most Excellent Light (holding the office of P.G.H., and being P.Z. of no less than five Chapters in this and the adjacent Province); his rendering of the grand Ceremony of Exaltation is an intellectual treat to all, and very many Companions of the R.A. have said that they knew very little of the supreme degree till they had heard him expound it. That the subject of this sketch should be greatly esteemed is but natural, and that his opinions and advice carry weight, is evident from the support given to our Charities, of which he is ever a persistent advocate. Very few of those present will readily forget the burst of eloquence in which he urged the claims of the Masonic Institutions at the last installation banquet of Lodge 24. It is only on matters of this kind that our worthy brother speaks at length during the fourth degree. He is not generally given to after-dinner eloquence, and consequently never runs the risk of becoming tiresome. For this pleasing trait of character he deserves our heartfelt gratitude. In private life our brother has made many friends; in fact, we may say their name is legion; in all circles, Masonic or otherwise, he shines steadily, as a sturdy English gentleman, and a Most Excellent Light.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Berks and Bucks will be held, under the presidency of R.W. Bro. Sir Daniel Gooch, the Prov. G.M., on Monday, the 25th inst., at the Town Hall, High Wycombe. Lodge will be opened at 1.30 p.m., and after the business of the Province has been transacted, the brethren will adjourn for banquet to the Red Lion Hotel. Tickets for the banquet (7s 6d each) may be obtained of Bro. W. S. Cantrell, W.M. 1501, Thames-street, Windsor. Special arrangements have been made with the Great Western Railway whereby return tickets will be issued at single fares from London and other of their principal stations.

Bro. Fred. Albert announces his farewell benefit for the 22nd inst., at the Cambridge Hall of Varieties. A host of talent will support him on the occasion. Bro. Albert will present the audience with 1,000 copies of one of his popular songs, and also with 100 photographs.

We learn from the Portsmouth Times and Naval Gazette that by means of the concert recently given under the auspices of the Phœnix Lodge, No. 257, Portsmouth, in aid of the funds of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, an amount was realised sufficient, with that already standing to the credit of the Lodge on account of former subscriptions, to complete the sum of 100 guineas. This gives the Lodge ten votes in perpetuity and the privileges of a Vice-Presidency.

ERRATUM.—In our article on the "Removal of Lodges," for "into the coffers of our three Masonic Institutions," read "into the coffers of the Charity Fund." The mistake in no wise affects the argument. It will be obvious to our readers that the error is due to a lapsus calami, as the latter half of the sentence in which the words we should have used occur was quoted from the title page of Grand Lodge Calendar.

The Knot Tied. Marriage Ceremonies of all Nations. Collected and Arranged by William Tegg, F.R.H.S., Editor of "The Last Act," "Wills of their Own," &c., &c. London: William Tegg and Co. Pancras-lane, Cheapside. 1877.

THIS is a highly interesting work, in two parts. Part I. contains the marriage customs of different nations, together with particulars relating to novel, eccentric, and irregular marriages, the Dunmow Flitch of Bacon, &c. Part II. notes the various superstitions relating to marriage, and many curious details respecting wedding rings, golden weddings, aristocratic and historical marriages, besides anecdotes and other matter connected with the marriage ceremony. It must have been a laborious task to compile so much matter, and Mr. Tegg has evidently had his heart in the work. He has not only put his materials together in a manner which is highly creditable, but he has likewise shown great judgment in their selection. The marriage service according to the Church of England naturally takes precedence, and then are noticed any peculiarities in Scotch and Irish marriages. Jewish, Greek, and Roman marriages, both ancient and modern are described, as likewise marriages among the Babylonians and modern Egyptians, in China, Japan, Mexico, Russia, Hungary, Peru, Australia, and, indeed, nearly all the world over. It will be easily imagined that many quaint customs are alluded to. One of the most entertaining of these accounts is that of a Hungarian Wedding, taken from the Evening Hour. The writer was roused from his bed, to which he had retired early in the evening, and solemnly invited to a wedding feast. He went accordingly, and was ushered into a large-sized apartment, where some sixty guests were assembled, the gentlemen with their backs to the wall, and the ladies opposite. He was hoisted into the seat of honour, which was at the furthest corner of the wall, among the old gentlemen, who sat to his right and left, "sedate, solemn, but most courteous, all attired in vests, tight breeks, and boots, with linen sleeves of immense magnitude." The bride and bridegroom are described as a fine and well-to-do couple. The former "wore a large circle of white roses in her hair, short sleeves, a handsome bodice, twenty petticoats, I believe, and red boots;" the latter "alone kept his hat on, which was decorated with ribbons, and one large black ostrich feather, a bare neck, with a large white collar, and a black handkerchief, bordered with gold fringe; immense shirt sleeves of the finest cambric, with a border (no coat, of course), and a blue vest and breeks." There was one drawback—that none of the party spoke German, and the writer was somewhat at a loss, but he seems to have fared well. The feast was conducted simultaneously at the houses of the bride and bridegroom—it is of the latter entertainment the account is given—the provision being the same, "namely, two oxen, forty geese, and sixty elmers of wine in all"—an elmer, we are told, is a cask containing from sixty to eighty quarts. The supper lasted two hours. There were ten courses in all. The old gentlemen ate and drank abundantly, and spoke well and affably, but the young remained silent. The writer's health was proposed, and he returned thanks in a composite language, made up of Gaelic, English, French, and every language he knew, concluding with a Highland toast. Then came the dancing. "In the most solemn and sedate manner arms were akimbo'd, and nothing could exceed the astonishing burlesque of the commencement, which lasted about ten minutes. Every species of gymnastic dislocation was performed with the gravest countenance, and in the proudest and slowest manner possible, heel and toe, and knee and toe, and toe and heel, and walking after your partner, and slowly steering round, and when the quick step began, the old gentlemen actually flew round, clapping their spurs and their boots with their hands, till I was perfectly ashamed of my performance." We are told that "the oldest man in the room was at the taking of Mantua in '97; but, "I scarcely," adds the writer, "saw a young man dance better, though a bulky, fat man, and he kept it up till the morning." The fête lasted three days, but though a good deal of wine was drunk by the old gentlemen, the young ones drank little, and none were intoxicated.

In China, among the opulent classes, marriages are settled by the parents. The intending husband sends a sum of money to the bride, which is laid out in clothes, &c., &c. When the day fixed for the nuptial ceremony arrives, the bride is put into a sedan chair, magnificently adorned with festoons of artificial flowers, her clothes, &c., being carried by her servants or hired attendants, who bring up the rear of the procession, which is further set off by lighted flambeaux, even though it be noonday. The nearest relative carries the key of the sedan, which is completely closed, and on arriving at the bridegroom's he gives it to the latter. As the couple have never seen each other before, there is naturally great curiosity on the man's part to see his intended. Sometimes he is dissatisfied, and shutting the door again, lets her return to her friends, putting up with the loss of his money, rather than marry one he does not like. This seldom happens, however, and when the bride steps out of the chair, the bridegroom hands her into a hall, where is a table specially set apart for them, the guests being at other tables. Before sitting down, they make four reverences to Tien, a spirit, and before eating they pour wine on the ground, also setting apart some provision for their idols. The moment each has tasted of the viands, the bridegroom invites the bride to drink, and she returns the compliment. Two cups of wine are then brought, of which they drink part, and pour the remainder into another cup, of which they drink alternately, this latter part of the ceremony ratifying the nuptials. The pair then separate for the day, the bride going among the ladies, and the bridegroom entertaining his friends in a separate apartment. The marriage is preceded by three days' mourning, as the marriage of their children is regarded by the Chinese as a presage of their own death. The day after the ceremony, the newly-married couple visit the nearest temple and offer sacrifices to their gods, at the same time having their names enrolled among those of their ancestors. The priest then bestows a benediction upon them. If a wife elope from her husband, she is sentenced to be whipped, and he may dispose of her as a slave. If a man leave his wife and family, she may apply, at the end of three years, to the Mandarin for permission to take another husband.

In Mexico, the nuptial contract consisted in the priest tying a point of the bride's gown with the mantle of the bridegroom, the two being seated on a new and curiously wrought mat placed in the middle of the chamber, and close to the fire, which was kept lighted. In Peru, the Inca called the bride and bridegroom together before him, made them pledge fidelity to each other, after which they were returned to their parents, and the event was celebrated during three or four days, or even more. Among the aboriginal Australians, wives were often carried off by force, and sometimes, in order to atone for this violence, the young men would have to submit voluntarily to the "trial of spears." Ten men, belonging to the captive woman's tribe, armed each with three spears, discharged them at the offender, who had only his shield to protect him, and it rarely happened, owing to the skill of the natives in the use of their weapons, that any wound was inflicted. In Lapland it is a capital offence to marry a maid without the consent of her parents, and the fashion is, when a young man has formed an attachment for a girl, to appoint a day when the two shall race together, the girl having a start allowed her of one-third the distance to be run. If the man overtakes her he wins his bride. Under the head of "Irregular Marriages," will be found particulars of Fleet, Savoy, May Fair, and Gretna-green marriages. Among the local manners and customs are mentioned some very curious Scottish local customs. By one of these the parties having agreed to marry "licked the thumbs of their right hands, which they pressed together, and vowed fidelity." By another, when the girl had accepted her lover's offer, the pair proceeded to the nearest station, and "washing their hands in the current, vowed constancy, with their hands clasped across the brook." In Highland districts, "a marriage was held only to promise good fortune, when, prior to the ceremony, all knots on the apparel of both parties had been loosened. Formerly, in St. Petersburg, we are told, the ceremony of choosing brides took place on Whit Monday, on which day the sons and daughters—the latter arrayed in all their jewels and finery—assembled in the Winter Garden. The young men paraded among the damsels, and eight days after the bride show, interviews took place at the houses of the parents, and marriages were all but concluded, the young couples departing fully bethrothed to each other.

In the anecdotes and miscellaneous information some strange particulars have been collected. As regards "Perplexing Marriages," —rightly enough so called, the reader will say—We read the two following taken from Hone:—"At Gwennap, in Cornwall, in March 1823, Miss Sophia Bawden was married to Mr. R. Bawden, both of St. Day. By this marriage the father became brother-in-law to his son; the mother, mother-in-law to her sister; the mother-in-law of the son, his sister-in-law; the sister of the mother-in-law, her daughter-in-law; the sister of the daughter-in-law, her mother-in-law; the son of the father, brother-in-law to his mother-in-law, and uncle to his brothers and sisters; the wife of the son, sister-in-law to her father-in-law, and aunt-in-law to her husband; and the offspring of the son and his wife would be grandchildren to their uncle and aunt, and cousins to their father." We leave it to our readers to solve this knotty problem, and quote the second, which reads as follows:—"In an account of Kent, it is related that one Hawood had two daughters by his first wife, of which the eldest was married to John Casbick the son, and the youngest to John Casbick the father. This Casbick, the father, had a daughter by his first wife, whom old Hawood married, and by her had a son; with the exception of the former wife of old Casbick, all these persons were living at Faversham in February 1650, and his second wife could say as follows:—

'My father is my son, and I'm mother's mother;
My sister is my daughter, I'm grandmother to my brother.'"

We add a third case, a little less complicated perhaps, but no doubt more familiar to our readers. The late Queen Hortense was step-daughter of the First Napoleon, being daughter of the Empress Josephine by her first husband, the Count de Beauharnais. By her marriage with the Emperor's brother, King Louis, she became sister-in-law to her mother and step-father, her husband step-son-in-law to his own brother, and son-in-law to his sister-in-law; and their issue, the late Emperor Napoleon III., was step-grandson as well as nephew of the First Napoleon, and grandson and nephew of the Empress Josephine, while King Louis was grand-uncle-in-law, as well as father to his own son. We have, however, said enough to show that our opening statement holds good, to the effect that this work on marriage ceremonies and customs is replete with interest, containing, as it does, a mass of carefully-collated information, of various kinds, relating to the history of one of the most important events in a man's lifetime.

One Hour's Reading. Remarkable Customs, Seasons, and Holidays, Epithets and Phrases, &c., &c. Collected and Arranged by William Tegg, F.R.H.S., Editor of "The Last Act," "Hone's Three Trials," &c., &c. London: William Tegg and Co., Pancras Lane, Cheapside. 1877.

THIS is another equally useful and interesting compilation. It is divided into three Parts, of which Part I. is devoted to "Remarkable Customs," Part II. to "Seasons and Holidays," and Part III. to "Epithets and Phrases." Many of the customs described in the first Part are no doubt familiar to our readers, or, at least, to those among them who, having a taste for this kind of study, have paid any attention to, and noted them from time to time, But there are many which, when in force, had a local interest only. Thus at Ashton-under-Lyne, there is a custom on Easter Monday which is known as "Riding the Black Lad." On that day, "the rude figure of a man, made of an old suit of clothes, stuffed with rags, hay, &c., is carried on a horse through all the streets." Those who attend it call at the different public houses, in order to beg liquor for the thirsty attendants. En route, the figure is shot at, and when the journey is ended, it is then tied to the market cross, and the shooting is continued till it is set on fire and falls to the ground. This is supposed to perpetuate the memory of one of the Ashetons who was Vice-Chancellor to Henry VI., and exercised great severity towards the tenants on his estates in Lancashire, establishing the gool or guld riding. On Easter Monday he made his appearance, clad in black armour and attended by a numerous train, for the purpose of claiming the penalties arising from the neglect of the farmers clearing their corn of the "carr gulds" or "marygold." He is said to have been shot when riding down the principal street on one of these occasions, and the tenants not only took no trouble to discover the murderer, but made a subscription for the purpose of erecting an effigy to his honour. The memory of the stern landowner is still preserved in the following verse:—

"Sweet Jesu, for thy mercy's sake,
And for thy bitter passion;
Save us from the axe of the Tower,
And from Sir Ralph of Asheton."

But the origin of the custom has been forgotten.

In Part II., under the head of "Plough Monday," is given an account of the manner in which in the northern counties, and especially in Yorkshire, the day is celebrated. One of the principal items in the programme is the sword-dance. "The dancers arrange themselves in a ring, with their swords elevated, and their motions and evolutions are at first slow and simple, but become gradually more rapid and complicated: towards the close, each one catches the point of his neighbour's sword, and various movements take place in consequence; one of which consists in joining or plaiting the swords into the form of an elegant hexagon or rose, in the centre of the ring, which rose is so firmly made, that one of them holds it up above their heads without undoing it. The dance closes with taking it to pieces, each man laying hold of his own sword. During the dance, two or three of the company, called Toms or Clowns, dressed up as harlequins, in most fantastic modes, having their faces painted or masked, are making antic gestures to amuse the spectators: while another set, called Madgies or Madgy Pegs, clumsily dressed in women's clothes, and also masked or painted, go from door to door rattling old canisters, in which they receive money, and when they are well paid, they raise a huzza; when they get nothing, they shout out 'hunger and starvation.'

In the third Part are given explanations of the origin of different epithets and phrases. Some of these appear to be sufficiently familiar, while others, occurring no doubt more rarely, strike one as fresher and more curious. Thus, in the case of "shamming Abraham," many there are probably who have not heard the origin of this kind of imposture. The idiots who were formerly received into Bethlehem Hospital were lodged in the Abraham ward, and were hence known as Abraham men. On the 1st April, those not too incapacitated were allowed a holiday in order to see their friends, while those who had none wandered about the streets begging. Their pitiful appearance brought them much alms, and this induced vagabonds to imitate their dress and pretend idiotcy, till an order was issued that any one caught "shamming Abraham," should be whipped and set in the stocks. Among sailors, and we believe among some schoolboys likewise, "an Abraham" is a person who is out of sorts or unwell. To "sham Abraham," therefore, is to shirk duty or school. Our James I., albeit a pedant, said many wise things. Mr. Tegg traces two familiar sayings to this monarch, namely, "Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones," and "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." The importunate Scottish gentry who thronged the court of the English Solomon were very unpopular with the English, and the favourite, Buckingham, connived at the annoyances—among others, that of pelting them with stones—to which they were subjected. Buckingham, however, lived in a house remarkable for the number of its windows, and hence known as the glass house, and the Scotchmen, hearing this enmity of the royal favourite, retaliated by breaking his windows. Buckingham complained to the king, but the Scots had been beforehand, and James merely remarked, "Those who live in glass houses, Steenie, should be careful how they throw stones." As to the proof of the pudding, the same favourite had been praising some particular dish, when the king said, "It may be so, Steenie, but the prufe of a gude thing is in the eating on't, so here's at it."

A number of "Topographical Rhymes" complete this, which is the concluding portion of the book, and there is a very well compiled table of contents, placed, somewhat unusually, at the end; but then it answers the purpose of an index as well, so that after all it is more convenient as it stands. In fine, Mr. Tegg has shown the same judgment, and has do doubt expended as much labour in the compilation of this as of his other work, "The Knot Tied." We congratulate him on the success of both his achievements.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Rheumatic Pains, Tic Doloreux.—These diseases are unfortunately very prevalent in this country, and are frequently most distressing, sometimes for years baffling all medical skill to alleviate the sufferings of the victim. In no case have Holloway's Ointment and Pills failed to produce a cure. The Ointment exerts a peculiar and soothing influence over the nerves and muscles, relaxing spasms and subduing pain. The attack soon becomes milder, and the intervals between the paroxysms longer, until they cease altogether. The Pills restore the body from a weak and debilitated condition to a state of health and strength. Persons bedridden for months with rheumatic pains and swellings, after using the Ointment, have been cured in an incredibly short period.

HUMBER LODGE OF MARK MASONS, No. 182.

THE installation of Bro. Richard Boggett as Worshipful Master of this Lodge, was celebrated, amidst much ceremony, on Tuesday evening, at the Freemasons' Hall, Osborne-street, Hull. At four o'clock there was a numerous and influential assemblage of brethren, the dais being occupied by a brilliant array of Grand, Provincial, and Past Officers. The Lodge having been opened in form, under the presidency of W.M. Bro. Martin Kemp, the usual formalities were gone through, and several candidates advanced, the concluding charges being impressively delivered by the V.W. Bro F. Binckes, P.G.W. of England, and Grand Secretary of Grand Lodge of Mark Masons, assisted by Bro. Matier P.G.J.W. of Grand Mark Lodge of England. At the conclusion of the ordinary business Bro. Boggett was presented under the dispensation granted by the Grand Lodge for installation, and the ceremony was performed in a most eloquent and impressive manner by Bro. F. Binckes, who congratulated the brethren upon the selection they had made, and also upon the satisfactory position to which this young Lodge had been brought under the Mastership of Bro. Martin Kemp. He had no doubt that under Bro. Boggett's rule the prosperity and prestige of the Lodge would be vastly increased, and if such was not the case, it would not be from any lack of zeal or energy on the part of the new Master. He concluded by expressing, on behalf of the brethren, their regret at the indisposition from which Bro. Boggett was suffering, and wishing him a speedy restoration to his usual health. (Applause). The newly installed W.M. then invested his officers for the year, as follow:—Bros. Martin Kemp I.P.M., J. West S.W., Henry Preston J.W., T. Thompson M.O., T. Cook S.O., Henry Tooxes J.O., J. Wilson Treasurer, W. B. Hay M.D., Chaplain, E. Kidd Hon. Sec., W. Tesseyman P.M. Registrar of Marks, T. D. Wing S.D., J. R. Ansdell J.D., C. W. Cheeseman Organist, M. Haberland D.C., A. King I.G., E. Cooke Steward, T. Crier Tyler.

The Grand Secretary (Bro. Binckes) then rose and said he esteemed it a high honour and compliment to have been entrusted with what was to him a pleasing task, though he assured them he was not merely using the stereotyped expression when he said he wished that duty had been placed in abler hands. Their worthy Master would have performed it himself, but for the fact that he was indisposed, though he had manfully come forward and discharged his duties on this occasion. Having alluded to the kindliness of friendship he had always received at the hands of the Hull brethren, Bro. Binckes reminded them that Bro. Martin Kemp had been twice elected to the Mastership, a circumstance that was somewhat unusual in a Mark Lodge. He had cheerfully undertaken the duties, and by his untiring zeal, indomitable energy, and the possession of many excellent qualities, which had endeared him to a wide circle of friends as a man, a Mason, and a W.M. of this Lodge, the members had kindly, generously, and, he thought, wisely come to the resolution that he ought not to be allowed to leave the chair without receiving at their hands some mark of their approval, friendship, regard and esteem. In the name of the brethren, therefore, he begged Bro. Kemp's acceptance of the testimonial which had been subscribed for, the inscription upon which possessed a charming simplicity and comprehensiveness, expressing no fulsome adulation, but merely what he knew perfectly well were their genuine and sincere feelings towards Bro. Kemp. Both personally, and on behalf of the august body he represented, he congratulated their Immediate Past Master upon the very large success which had attended his efforts. That success was no doubt a source of great gratification personally to Bro. Kemp, but it was only fitting and graceful that the brethren should mark their sense of that success by some tangible embodiment of their esteem. He expressed a hope that the recipient of this small testimonial might be spared for many years to enjoy the respect and affection he had gained amongst his brethren, and that every time he gazed upon that ornament on his sideboard it might recall to him the two happy years he spent as the ruler of this Lodge, and convince him that in those two years he did not labour in vain. (Hear, hear).

The testimonial consisted of a massive silver salver with a richly embossed scroll, border, and feet, the centre bearing the following inscription, surrounded by the Past Master's jewel and other emblems of the Craft:—"Presented to Bro. Martin Kemp P.M., by the brethren of the Humber Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 182, as a token of their respect and esteem during his term of office, 12th June 1877." The salver, which was supplied by Bro. B. Barnett, was much admired for its chaste and elegant workmanship.

Bro. Kemp in acknowledging the compliment paid to him, said whatever difficulties might seem to have presented themselves in the formation of a new Lodge, where every brother was nerved by a determination to overcome those difficulties under all circumstances, success must be the only natural result. There were difficulties to be surmounted when this Lodge was formed, and when they did him the honour to place him in that chair, but these had been overcome, and he was proud of the prosperous position the Lodge had attained. (Hear, hear). To-night he confessed he felt utterly bankrupt in knowing what to say for this beautiful testimonial. He could only say if he were to attempt to thank them as he wished that he should utterly fail, and he would therefore content himself with merely reiterating the words of the late Charles Dickens when parting from his friends in America, "From my heart of hearts I thank you." (Applause).

The Worshipful Master proposed, and Bro. Kemp seconded a vote of thanks to the Grand Secretary of Grand Lodge, and Bro. Matier, for their kindness in coming from London to assist at this ceremony, and the motion was carried amidst cheering.

The Lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the banqueting hall, where a sumptuous repast was served by Bro. Evelyn Cooke. The W.M. presided, and was supported by many Provincial and Past Officers, and the Masters of several Craft Lodges in this province and in Lincolnshire, the Grimsby contingent being especially strong.

At the conclusion of the banquet the customary loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, the W.M. giving Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, and Mark Masonry, and their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family, the Right Hon. the Earl of Limerick, M.W.G.M. of Mark Masons, the last named being suitably acknowledged by Bro. Matier P.G.J.W. of Grand Mark Lodge of England. Bro. W. Tesseyman gave the W.M. of the Humber Lodge of Mark Masons, and the newly appointed officers, the toast being heartily received and responded to by W.M. Bro. Boggett, and by the Wardens, Bros. J. West P.M. and H. Preston P.M. Bro. Kemp next proposed the V.W. Bro. F. Binckes P.G.J.W., Grand Secretary G. L. of Mark Masons, the installing officer. The toast was received with enthusiasm, and Bro. Binckes responded in a lengthy and eloquent speech, in the course of which he alluded to the great importance and success of the various Masonic Institutions, especially the Boys' School. The remaining toasts were the retiring W.M. and his Officers, responded to by Bro. Kemp and Haberland J.W. The Masonic Charities, the Visiting Brethren, and the Ladies. During the evening some excellent songs were sung, Bro. C. W. Cheeseman presiding ably at the pianoforte, and the proceedings throughout were characterised by the utmost harmony and good feeling.—Eastern Morning News.

POWERS AND PRIVILEGES OF MASTERS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In the Appeal of Bro. Waller M.D., late W.M. of No. 442, as to the rights of W. Masters, the Grand Registrar says that if the Master could be present in the Lodge, he had a right "to call upon any Brother he chose, who was a member of the Lodge, to perform the ceremonies . . . the words spoken by that Brother being the words of the W.M., uttered by proxy."

According to this, any Brother being a member of the Lodge, whether a Master or not, is qualified to repeat the ceremonies, while the Master occupies the chair. As this is an important matter, which will bear repetition, may I ask the favour of your assistance on the subject? I thought that none under the rank of an installed Master could act, even as proxy, and many think the same; but if the above reading of the judgment is right, we are all wrong, and I hope we are wrong, in order that we may be able to give our Wardens an opportunity of learning their future duties.

Yours fraternally,

W.M. REQUISPONS.

9th June 1877.

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Some difference of opinion having arisen in this locality, respecting the status of suspended members, who have given proper notice of appeal, you would oblige a number of brethren by replying to the following queries:—

1. A brother in open Lodge having acted in a disrespectful way to the members of a deputation from the P.G. Lodge, is summoned to attend a special meeting of the P.G.L. He is found guilty, and sentenced to suspension for a given period.

He at once gives notice of appeal to Grand Lodge, and in due course sends his appeal to the Grand Secretary. Does his so doing bar the action of the P.G.L., and is he entitled to all his rights and privileges till such time as G.L. hear and determines his appeal?

2. A Lodge having acted in such a way as to incur the censure of the P.G. Master, a Special Provincial Grand Lodge meeting is called, the officers of the Lodge are summoned, and those who attend are examined. The P.G.L. temporarily suspended that Lodge, and, of course, thereby prohibits it from working. The R.W.M. and officers say they will appeal, and do send their appeal through the Grand Secretary. Pending the decision of Grand Lodge, are they still entitled to meet as a Lodge, and make Masons—that is, enter, pass, and raise members, same as if no edict of suspension had been issued? Or do the decisions of a Lodge hold good till reversed by that of the P.G.L.; and, in like manner, are not the decisions of a Provincial Grand Lodge binding till they are reversed by the action of the Grand Lodge? Your opinion on these points will oblige a number of Scotch brethren, and yours faithfully,

Glasgow, 13th June. JUSTITIA.

RESTORATION OF THE PARISH CHURCH, SHEFFIELD.—We understand the faculty for the restoration of the parish church has been issued from the Chancellor's Court. The work will, therefore, in all probability, be now proceeded with without delay. The Freemasons of Sheffield have offered to erect a font in the restored building, the gift, we understand, being of a very handsome and valuable character.—Sheffield Daily Telegraph.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

ON Thursday last, the House of Lords went into Committee on the Game Laws (Scotland) Amendment Bill. The various clauses were discussed seriatim, and the bill emerged from this stage with sundry amendments introduced into it. Afterwards, on the motion of the Lord Chancellor, the Education and Discipline Bill received a second reading. Questions connected with Accidents in Industrial Occupations and Railway Break Power were raised on Friday, on the former subject by Earl Delawarr, on the latter, by the Duke of Somerset. On Monday, Lord de Mauley made a motion on "Russia and Central Asia," but it was withdrawn at the instance of the Marquis of Salisbury, who touched on all the points raised by the noble Lord. The Highway Robberies on Blackheath were also the subject of notice. On Tuesday, the Crown Office Bill was read a second time.

In the House of Commons, sundry questions were asked on Thursday, relating to the Suez Canal, and Mr. E. Jenkins was again successful in arousing the dissatisfaction of the House with his arrogant pretensions to statesmanship; after which the Prisons Bill was reconsidered in Committee as amended. Several suggestions were offered, but with one exception they were rejected by overwhelming majorities. On Friday, a motion of Mr. P. Taylor's, to open the National Museums and Galleries on Sundays, was summarily rejected by 222 to 87. The Currency Laws were then discussed, and the House shortly afterwards adjourned. On Monday, on the motion for going into Committee of Supply, an amendment on the subject of Ireland and her Administration was moved by Mr. Butt, but rejected without a division. In supply the House voted moneys in respect of the Civil Service Estimates. On Tuesday, the consideration of the Prisons Bill was resumed in Committee. A motion by Sir G. Wilmot, calling for the revision of the laws relating to Capital Punishment, and an amendment by Mr. Pease, proposing the abolition of Capital Punishment, were both rejected. On Wednesday, the Parliamentary Registration (Ireland) Bill was read a second time, while a motion of Mr. Hubbard's, for the second reading of his Crossed Cheques Bill, was defeated by 175 to 66.

The Prince and Princess of Wales, on their return from the Continent, paid a visit to the Horse Show, at the Agricultural Hall, three of their children accompanying them. The same afternoon, a deputation from the Council of the Zoological Society had an interview with the Prince, at Marlborough House, for the purpose of presenting His Royal Highness with the gold medal of the Society. On Monday, the Prince and Princess left Marlborough House, for Easthamstead Park, near Bracknell, where they have been staying the greater part of the week—it being Ascot week—and receiving a number of distinguished visitors. On Tuesday, and again on Thursday, the Royal Party went in the usual semi-state procession to see the races, and, as usual, experienced a very hearty reception, there being a very distinguished gathering on the Heath. On Wednesday, too, His Royal Highness was also present, being driven over on Lord Carington's drag, and there were likewise there the Duke of Cambridge, Prince Christian, and the Duke of Teck.

Oxford Commemoration was held on Wednesday, but the fêtes proper to the occasion were not confined to those two days, as the whole city surrenders itself to festivity during the week in which the Encœnia are held. As usual, of course, our brethren of the Apollo University distinguished themselves. They gave a musical fête in the Gardens of Worcester College, at which the band of the Coldstream Guards and the Orpheus Glee Union played and sang admirably. The Sheldonian Theatre was the scene of the customary uproar on the part of the undergraduates. The usual cheers and groans were awarded to high dignitaries of the State, or those who had rendered themselves in any way obnoxious; among the names which evoked the greatest amount of enthusiasm being those of the Earls of Beaconsfield and Derby, Mr. Cross, and the Marquis of Salisbury. There was a diversity of opinion as to Mr. Gladstone, while such as Dr. Kenealy and the Rev. A. Tooth were greeted with groans. It is needless to say the names of different members of the Royal Family were received most loyally. Among those on whom the degree of D.C.L. was conferred, honoris causâ, were Lord Coleridge and Mr. Cross, the reception accorded to the latter being in the highest degree complimentary. Later in the afternoon, those who had carried off the chief University prizes recited their compositions. Of the six who did so, no less than four hailed from Balliol College, one of the remaining two being a Brazennose man, and the other from Merton.

The principal events at Ascot excited a good deal of interest in the racing world. On Tuesday, the Prince of Wales's Stakes were won by Glen Arthur, who ran second for the Derby. There was a field of nine started for the Ascot Stakes, which fell to Sir G. Chetwynd's Chypre, Mr. W. S. Crawford's Finis being second, and Mr. H. Savile's First Spring third. On Wednesday, twenty-two ran for the Royal Hunt Cup. Cradle won easily, by a length and a half, Mr. J. Manningham's Sutton being next, and Mr. W. S. Crawford's Prince George a bad third. Belphœbe carried off the Coronation Stakes, and Lord Falmouth's Silvio, the Derby winner, came in first by two lengths for the Ascot Derby. The great event of Thursday was the Gold Cup, which fell to Petrarch, Skylark being second, and Coomassie third. In the way of cricket we have to record that Surrey has won her match with Middlesex by four wickets, the skilful defence of Mr. Lucas in the second innings (26 not out), and the effective batting of Mr. G. Strachan (32) contributing mainly to the result. In the match between Gloucestershire and Sussex, the former, thanks to the very admirable bowling of Mr. W. G. Grace (who took seven of the wickets for 49 overs, of which 21 were maidens, and 46 runs), secured the victory, by 84 runs. On Thursday Middlesex commenced playing Oxford University at Lord's, and Surrey the sister University team at the Oval. Both these matches are still in progress at the time of writing.

Yesterday was the day fixed for the presentation to General Grant, Ex-President of the United States, of the freedom of the City of London. The ceremony was to take place in the library, which was closed to the public for this purpose during the latter half of the week, after which a grand banquet was to be held in the Guildhall itself. We may add that on Friday next, there will be a special performance at the Royal Italian Opera, Covent Garden, in honour of the illustrious visitor. We hail with satisfaction this display of courteous hospitality towards one of the greatest men in the United States. It will bring England and America still closer together. No doubt when General Grant returns to his own country he will be able to tell his countrymen of the affection we bear them. In these days, when brutal despotism is allowed to work out its evil ends almost with impunity, it is something that the two greatest free countries in the world are being drawn into a more intimate union of feeling.

The sixty-second anniversary of the Royal Caledonian Asylum, was held at the Freemasons' Tavern, on Wednesday, under the presidency of the Duke of Buccleugh. There were among the guests present the Earl of Galloway, Lord Abinger, Lord Gordon, the Chinese Ambassador and suite, Sir J. H. Meadwell, Sir C. Macgregor and Sir G. Montgomery. The Chairman, in proposing the toast of the evening, made a stirring appeal on behalf of the Asylum, and subsequently there was announced by the Secretary a subscription list amounting to between £1,600 and £1,700.

Our readers may remember that one of the most successful Mayoralties was that of Alderman Cotton, who distinguished himself by his princely hospitality during his occupancy of the Civic throne. On Wednesday afternoon, the citizens of the Ward of Lime-street, of which Mr. Cotton is Alderman, met together for the purpose of presenting the worthy alderman with a testimonial in recognition of his services to the City during his Mayoralty, and to the Ward over which he so ably presided as Alderman. As the testimonial consisted of a handsome suite of oak dining-room furniture, the actual presentation was impossible, but Mr. White read out an inscription on an engraved plate, which will be affixed to the sideboard. Mr. Alderman Cotton duly acknowledged the testimonial.

Monday was speech day at Merchant Taylors' School, and in the evening the usual banquet was held in honour of the occasion. Among the more distinguished guests were the Marquis of Salisbury, the Earl of Derby, Midhat Pacha, ex-Grand Vizier of Turkey, Sir C. Adderley, Viscount Sandon, Lord G. Hamilton, the Bishops of London and Ely, Lord Justice Baggallay, and Justice Manisty. The Marquis of Salisbury replied for the honorary members of the Company, and the Earl of Derby for the House of Lords. Both these speeches were listened to with the greatest attention, and the noble speakers were at intervals applauded with great enthusiasm.

In France the political situation remains unchanged. At the two seats of war there have not been any very serious engagements, if we except the case of Montenegro, in which a series of battles have been fought, and the Black Mountaineers so severely handled, that Prince Nikita has been obliged to retire his head quarters to Ostrog. On the Danube there has been a good deal of artillery practice, especially on the part of the Turks, who do not allow the Russians and Roumanians to have much peace. Off the Sulina mouth of the Danube, an attempt to blow up the Turkish ironclads there, by means of torpedoes, has signally failed. Hobart Pacha is reported to have issued certain instructions to his subordinates, not only to be extra vigilant, but to have the ships furnished with a special gear, which will prevent the too near approach of these destructive engines of war. At all events, whether he has done so or not, the Turks were not caught napping on this occasion, but destroyed some of the boat party which attacked them, and made prisoners of six, among whom were an American and an Englishman. Servia seems determined to rush into the struggle. She was severely handled last year, and cannot pay for the provisions, &c., &c., she ordered of the Austrian contractors, but the want of money is no obstacle to her desire for more bloodshed. Being unable to meet her financial liabilities honourably, she is madly going to seek, on the battlefield, for that honour she lost against Turkey in the summer and autumn of 1876. Greece, also, is said to be assuming a still more warlike attitude. As to the Russian army on the Danube, we hear little of its movements. It is more than a week since the Czar arrived, but nothing has been done as yet, and all we are enabled to do is to conjecture what will happen. From Asia there is apparently a dearth of news. That the Russians are far superior in numbers is manifest, but the Turks are fighting manfully. No impression has been made on Kars, though all kinds of rumours are flying about as to its fall sooner or later. We are told that the Turks have retaken Olti, which the Russians shortly before had forced them to evacuate. Batoum is still safe, and the insurrection in the Caucasus is reported to be spreading. Troops also are being sent to Asia to reinforce the Turkish armies, and the Egyptian contingent is on its way to Constantinople, a squadron of Turkish ironclads having arrived for the purpose of convoying it. This will be a great help to the Sultan, as the contingent is reported to be composed of very serviceable troops. There are fears of disturbances in Crete, and Russia is about to raise a fresh loan of fifteen millions sterling. This, as far as we are able to state at present, is the sum and substance of the news from Asia and Eastern Europe.

BRO. CONSTABLE'S DRAWING.

ALBEIT the enterprise in which Bro. Constable so boldly embarked in the autumn of last year has not realised the full amount which we were sanguine enough to hope for, we must not allow the present occasion to pass without offering him our very warmest congratulations on the measure of success he has achieved. Bro. Constable issued, in round numbers, 12,000 shilling tickets, the purchaser of each of which was entitled to participate in the ballot for Life Governorships. The number actually purchased was between two and three hundred short of 10,000, so that our worthy Brother disposed of close on five out of every six he distributed. The result to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys is the receipt of £488 5s, or about £120 more than double what he accomplished in 1875 for the Girls' School. This only shows, as we said some time since, that "where there's a will, there's a way." But Bro. Constable committed himself to a subscription list of four figures, and a bird has whispered to us that the project will be realized. It remains for us to congratulate him on the success which has attended his efforts. How hardly he has worked, only those who have been in frequent contact with him during the last six months can know. Never a day has passed during the whole of that period but he has striven to the uttermost to raise the amount he proposed; and all his labour has been bestowed with no further hope than that the undertaking he was engaged in might be of service to the Boys' School. It is not every one who merits the appellation of "the Man of Energy." This undoubtedly, belongs to Bro. Constable, who, if he had never done anything previously, has done in this instance what will entitle him to the regard of all Craftsmen. May he be as successful in all his enterprises as he has been on this occasion!

The regular meeting of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution was held on Wednesday last, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. Colonel Creaton in the chair. Bro. James Terry, the Secretary, read the minutes of the 9th of May. The deaths of a male and female annuitant were announced. In accordance with the notice of motion of Bro. Griffiths Smith, respecting want of accommodation at the Secretary's Office, it was agreed that it be referred to the Board of General Purposes. The names of the brethren appointed by the M.W.G.M. were read: Bros. E. J. Barron, S. Rawson, R. H. Giraud, Jabez Hogg, Capt. N. G. Philips, W. F. Nettleship, J. Nunn, P. de Lande Long, and J. Smith. Elected by Grand Lodge—Bros. J. Brett, C. A. Cottebrune, T. Cubitt, J. A. Farnfield, H. G. Warren, C. F. Hogard, A. M. Tattershall, H. M. Levy, J. G. Stevens, and W. White. Elected by the subscribers—F. Adlard, J. Bellerby, W. Hale, J. Newton, Griffiths Smith, W. Stephens, R. W. Stewart, L. Stean, W. Hilton, and R. W. Little. £350 was voted for repairs at the Asylum. The Warden's Report was read, certifying the work was well done, and the House Committee reported that all the annuitants now had their own apartments, and everything was satisfactory. The Finance Committee were re-elected. There being a vacancy for a member of the House Committee, Bro. H. M. Levy proposed that Bro. S. Rawson be elected. This was carried unanimously. A letter from Bro. Curteis, regarding the votes, was read. It referred to Rule 19, page 9. It was proposed that a letter be sent to Bro. Curteis, who is on the Committee of Management, asking him to give notice of motion to alter that law. A letter was read respecting the case of Mrs. Stansfield, whose name was withdrawn at the last election. Bro. S. Rawson proposed that the name be replaced on the list of candidates at the next election, and that her case be recommended to the Grand Lodge of Benevolence. Bro. Col. Creaton proposed that in consequence of there being a mistake in the result at the last election, with regard to Bro. J. T. Allen, and there now being a vacancy in the Institution, that he be placed on the Annuity Fund. This was carried unanimously. It was also carried unanimously that the use of the Hall be granted for the Annual Summer Entertainment to the inmates, and that the charges be paid from the funds of the Institution. It was announced that during the past year the sum of £11,997 11s 6d had been paid into the Institution. A cordial vote of thanks was given to Bro. Col. Creaton for his services as President, and the meeting was adjourned. There were present Bros. S. Rawson, Capt. Philips, H. Browse, Jabez Hogg, Hyde Pullen, R. W. Stewart, James Stevens, J. Newton, J. Bellerby, W. Hale, G. Bolton, R. W. Little, H. Massey, L. Stean, H. M. Levy, J. Mason, J. Hilton, C. F. Hogard, T. Cubitt, B. Head, C. E. Lacey.

A good permanent Building Society, established on sound principles, well supported, and economically conducted, is of immense benefit to the public, or to that section of the public for whose special behoof it is established. We acknowledge, with thanks, the receipt of a copy of the prospectus of "The Masonic and General Permanent Society," recently incorporated pursuant to Act of Parliament. On glancing over the names of the Directors and others associated officially with the enterprise, we see every reason to anticipate that it will be well and economically managed; and if the Craft, in particular, and the public give it that measure of support which it deserves, we doubt not that in a short time it will attain a high degree of prosperity. The Directorate includes Bros. Bingemann, Bradley, Davies, Richard C. P. Gethin, Horncastle, Jardine, and Richardson. Bro. Æ. J. McIntyre, Q.C., is standing counsel, Bro. Rooke solicitor, Bros. H. A. Dubois and James Waddell auditors, and Bro. James H. Ginder Secretary. It is hardly necessary to say that the object of the Society is to provide facilities, in the first place, for the acquisition of property without premium, and, in the next, for the sound and profitable investment of savings free from all personal liability. There are, as is usual in these cases, two departments—the Investing and the Borrowing. In the former, interest at 5 per cent. is added annually to subscribing shares; in the latter, the terms offered are liberal. There is, in addition, a Deposit and Savings' Bank Department, which need not be described. It is sufficient to state that sums of £1 and upwards are received on deposit, the interest paid being at the rate of £4 or £5 cent. Shares are £25 each, payable either by monthly subscriptions of five shillings per share, or in one sum. Entrance fee, one shilling per share. Subscription meetings will be held the first Tuesday evening in each month, at the Gresham-buildings, Basinghall-street, E.C., from 6 to 7.30 p.m., the first being fixed for Tuesday, the 3rd proximo. The Directors have our hearty good wishes for the success of their venture.

On the 5th inst., the members of the Old Scholars' Reunion of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, dined together at the Holborn Restaurant. The Rev. Dr. Morris, Head Master of the Institution, and President of the Reunion, was unable to attend, and the chair was taken by Mr. A. W. Dutton, who was one of the first boys in the old building at Wood Green. The chief toasts were Prosperity to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys and to the Reunion. All old scholars of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys who have not joined the Reunion, are requested to communicate with Mr. Geo. W. Martin, 123 and 124 Newgate-street, who will give them all particulars of membership.

The ceremony of Consecrating the new Lodge, Guelph, No. 1685, will take place, at Leytonstone, on Saturday, the 23rd instant, at 4 o'clock p.m. Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, and other brethren from Grand Lodge will officiate.

While there are upwards of 3,000 Craft Masons in the Province of West Yorkshire, it seems there are only 838 Royal Arch Masons, belonging to 26 Chapters. In 1869, there were 23 Chapters with 563 R.A.M.; in 1870, 576; in 1871, 616; in 1872, 644; in 1873, 671; in 1874, 733; in 1875, 797; and in 1876, the number stated above, namely 26 Chapters and 838 members.

The Report of the Great Western Railway Literary Society, which was read at the twenty-fifth general meeting, discloses a very satisfactory state of things. Bro. Sir Daniel Gooch Bart. M.P., Provincial Grand Master Berks and Bucks, is the President of the Society, which numbers now 593 members, there having been an increase during the past year of 43 members. As many as 411 volumes have, in the same period, been added to the library for circulation, thus raising the total number from 7,354 to 7,765 volumes. Mr. J. W. Grant has succeeded Mr. H. Rennie, as honorary Sec., and Mr. J. R. Atcherly has been appointed Treasurer, vice Mr. Grant. The accounts for the year 1876-7 are likewise satisfactory. The receipts, including the opening balance of £57 17s 1d, reached the sum of £315 14s 8d. Of this £247 5s 8d were received from members as subscriptions. The expenses for books, binding, periodicals, furniture, printing and stationery, librarian's salary, &c., &c., amounted to £237 7s 4d, leaving a balance, composed of cash in hand £25 7s, and cards and periodicals have collected £53 0s 4d, or together £78 7s 4d.

It is our painful duty, this week, to record the death of Bro. George Macadam, of Glasgow, who for many years held the office of Secretary to the Glasgow Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73. The deceased brother was on his way to attend the funeral of a departed friend, on the 6th inst., but feeling unwell, was obliged to return to his home, where he died, very suddenly, the same evening. Brother Macadam was well known, and highly respected in the Craft, for his uniform uprightness of character and obliging disposition. He was beloved by those who had the privilege of meeting him often, and his awfully sudden departure will be much felt by a large circle of acquaintance. Bro. Macadam leaves a widow and family, for whom the brethren of the Province, and particularly those of his Mother Lodge, No. 73, have the deepest sympathy.

The Pupils' Entertainment, at Leyton College, Leytonstone, will take place on Friday next, the 22nd inst. Bro. Westfield will be very pleased to see brethren and their families who may be desirous of attending on the occasion. Bro. Westfield numbers among his friends and patrons very many Craftsmen, and we doubt not his kindly invitation will meet with a very cordial response. As we have personally enjoyed the pleasure of being present at one of these interesting gatherings, we are able to assure any of our readers who may be minded to visit Leyton College that they will be at no loss to enjoy themselves.

The Stewards of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls will pay their annual visit to the School on Monday next. The Right Hon. Lord Suffield, Prov. G. Master of Norfolk, who occupied the chair at the Festival, will preside on the occasion. After a selection of music and various recitations have been given by the pupils, the usual distribution of prizes will follow. Our readers need not to be told that this is one of the most interesting sights, and certainly one of the most popular entertainments of the year. Given the fine weather we are now enjoying, and we may safely venture to predict that the fête of Monday next, at St. John's Hill, Battersea, will be both brilliant and enjoyable.

THE DRAMA.

Madlle. Thérésa at the Gaiety.

L'ANNI FRITZ, recently performed by a French company at this theatre, having been withdrawn, the programme during the past week has comprised a number of small pieces, one of which, Les Chansons de Sucon, introduces to the English public the celebrate Madlle. Thérésa, the songstress par excellence of the Champs Elysées Café Chantant. Madlle. Thérésa is a singer of unequal merit. Some of her notes are clear and melodious as those of a flute, others are more suggestive of a fine-toned cornet, while again others are harsh and unpleasing, and grate on the ear. Her songs are undeniably effective, and they are all given with dramatic spirit. Perhaps the most pleasing are "Rien n'est sacré pour un Sapeur" and "C'est dans le nez que ça me chatouille." The other pieces on the programme are Chez L'Avocat, by M. Ferrier, capitally acted by MM. Lasgallay and Blondelet and Mdme Drége; and Un Homme de Bronze, the principal parts of which are sustained by MM. Boisselet and Blondelet, and Mesdames Maurel and Dumont. On Monday, Madame Chaumont is announced.

Gresham Lodge, No. 869.—This Lodge held its installation meeting on Saturday, the 9th inst., at Cheshunt Great House, Cheshunt-park. Present—Bros. J. E. Grocott Prov. S.G.W. W.M., W. H. Etherington S.W., E. G. Pottle Prov. G.S.B. J.W., W. E. Gomperts P. Prov. G.P. P.M. Secretary, F. D. R. Copestick P.P.G.S.B. P.M. Treasurer, T. C. Chapman S.D., C. B. Cheese as J.D., Rev. C. E. Mayo M.A. P.G.C. Chaplain, W. E. Gomperts jun. and J. R. Dickie Stewards, Thomas Perry I.G. Visitors—Bros. F. Binckes P.M. Grand Stewards Lodge, Secretary R.M.B. School, John Constable P.M. 185, G. Bilby P.M. 185, G. Levick P.M. 1227, G. Mickley P.M. 449 P.P.G.D. Herts, H. W. Gomperts J.W. 1364, G. Phythian S.W. 22, W. Windsor 1310, W. J. Wolsham 1491, J. Knight J.D. 1327, &c. The usual formal business having been disposed of, the auditors' report was presented, after which Bro. Johnson was passed to the degree of F.C. The installation of the W.M. elect (Bro. W. H. Etherington) was then proceeded with, and after the usual greetings, he invested the following as his officers for the year:—Bros. E. G. Pottle S.W., T. C. Chapman J.W., Rev. C. E. Mayo Chaplain, F. D. R. Copestick Treasurer, W. E. Gomperts Secretary, Thos. Perry S.D., C. B. Cheese J.D., W. E. Gompertz jun. I.G., R. Bruce D.C., Dixon Organist, Bernard and Holland Stewards, Gilchrist Tyler. The installation ceremony, which was admirably worked by the Sec., Bro. Gompertz, being ended, the Lodge was formally closed, and the brethren adjourned for banquet, at which the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured. Bros. Constable and Bilby replied on behalf of the visitors, and Bro. Binckes, in acknowledging "The Charities," enlarged on the benefits of the Institutions. Several sums were subscribed by the brethren for the Boys' School, including two amounts of £5 5s, two of £1 1s, &c., and one guinea was voted from the funds of the Lodge to be invested in Bro. Constable's tickets. A visit to this Lodge, which necessitates a most pleasant drive, is very enjoyable at this season of the year. The manner in which the duties of the day were disposed of added greatly to the enjoyment.

THE ROYAL ORDER OF SCOTLAND.—On Monday, at 33 Golden-square, was consecrated the Royal Bruce Chapter of the Royal Order of Scotland. Dr. Hamilton, Prov. G.M. for London and the Home Counties, presided, and was assisted by General Clerk, S. Rawson, and the Hon. R. Giddy; and there were present, Lord Skelmersdale, Lord de Clifford, C. F. Matier, D. Prov. G.M. for Lancashire and Cheshire, and many other distinguished brethren. After the ceremony had been performed, fourteen candidates were admitted to the Order. Bro. Rev. Canon Harford was then installed as V.W.T., and subsequently appointed as officers, Earl Doncoughmore Dep. T., Lord Henniker S.W., the Hon and Rev. Francis E. C. Byng M.A. J.W., Lord Brooke Marshall, J.D. M. Littler Q.C. Dep. Marshall, Lord Clifford Steward, and Captain Portlock Dadson Treasurer and Secretary. When the Chapter was closed, the brethren adjourned to banquet at the Café Royal, the Rev. Canon Harford V.W.T. presiding. The usual toasts were given, and a very agreeable evening spent. It may be remarked that this is the first occasion on which a subordinate Chapter under a Prov. Grand Lodge has been consecrated.—Touchstone.

Provincial Grand Lodge of West Yorkshire is to meet in the new Masonic Hall, Sheffield, on 4th July prox., that handsome and spacious building being now nearly ready for occupation. The meeting will be held under the banner of the Britannia Lodge, No. 139.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Kilwinning Lodge, Glasgow, No. 4.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Wednesday, the 6th inst., 221 Dumbarton-road. Bros. R. Thorburn R.W.M., J. Dixon P.M., J. Henderson S.W., J. Martin J.W., J. McNair Secretary, J. McCain Treas., D. Ramsey I.G. A petition for admission was presented from a gentleman, and although it is often said, as a reproach to Scottish Masonry, that they take in all who will pay, this gentleman's proposition was not entertained, as he was considered to be of rather intemperate habits. Bros. W. Huston and Buchanan were then passed to the Fellow Craft degree, in a most excellent manner, by the R.W.M., after which, at the request of the Master, Bro. Henderson S.W. raised Bros. Robert Buchanan and Thomas Bennett to the sublime degree of M.M.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 14th inst., at Bro. Hallows, "Chequers," Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. Saunders W.M., Claridge S.W., Upward J.W., W. G. Hallows acting Sec., Pinder Preceptor, Groome S.D., Delvallé J.D., Dendy I.G., and Bros. Brown, Franklin, and Pullen. After preliminaries, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Pullen acting as candidate. Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Pullen acting as candidate. Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and closed down. Bro. Claridge was unanimously elected for the ensuing week.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—Held, at the Old Rodney's Head, on the 11th inst., its usual meeting. Bros. Pearcy W.M., Ross S.W., Harvey J.W., Powell S.D., Gibbs J.D., Tolmie acting Preceptor, Fenner Sec., Cook I.G., Christopher Tyler, Kidder, Stock, Trewinnard, Fairbank. Lodge opened in due form, minutes read and confirmed. Lodge opened in 2nd degree; ceremony of passing was rehearsed by the W.M., in his usual excellent style. Bro. Kidder acting as candidate. The W.M. worked the 2nd section, assisted by the brethren. The W.M. vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Kidder. Bro. Stock answered the usual questions, and was entrusted. Lodge opened in 3rd degree; the ceremony of raising was very ably rehearsed, Bro. Stock Candidate. The W.M. giving the traditional history. Bro. Pearcy resumed the chair, the W.M. worked the 3rd section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge returned to the 1st degree. Bro. Ross was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. All business being ended, Lodge was closed in due form, and the meeting adjourned until next Monday evening, at 8 o'clock.

Jordan Lodge of Instruction, No. 201.—Bro. J. O. Wood occupied the chair at the usual meeting, on Tuesday last, at the Devonshire Arms, Devonshire-street, W. He was supported by Bros. Long S.W., Errington J.W., Hiscox Treas., Ockenden Sec., Marvin S.D., Fox I.G.; Sheerman, Lawrence, Fromholz and other brethren. The Lodge was opened in the three degrees, and the ceremony of raising exceedingly well rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Hole acting as candidate. The first three sections of the 1st lecture were worked by Bro. Long, assisted by the brethren. Notice was given that, on Tuesday next, it will be proposed that the annual supper take place on Tuesday week, 26th June; brethren unable to attend next Tuesday are requested to communicate in the meantime with Bro. Hiscox, at the above address, stating whether it will be convenient for them to be present at the Supper on the 26th inst.

Caledonian Railway Lodge, No. 356.—This Lodge having removed into a new hall, No. 30 Cathedral-street, Glasgow, on Wednesday, the 6th inst., they were visited by deputations from several of the Sister Lodges, who had come to wish them fraternal greeting. All were cordially received and made heartily welcome by Bro. Ferguson and the rest of his officer bearers, and a very happy and harmonious evening was the result.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting, on Tuesday last, at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, was well attended. Bros. J. Barker W.M., W. J. Smith S.W., Dallas J.W., E. T. Worsley Sec., Johnson S.D., Saunders J.D., P.M Wallington Preceptor, Pavitt I.G., Dandy, Christian 860, Haine, Lovkins, Davies, Pullen, Wiege, Allen, &c., &c. The Lodge was opened with solemn prayer, the minutes read and confirmed. Bro. Haine having answered the necessary questions leading to the second degree, the Lodge was advanced, when the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Haine acting as candidate. Bro. Smith worked the first section of the lecture. The Lodge was opened in the third degree, and closed down to the first. Bro. Worsley worked the third section of the first lecture, Bro. Smith the fourth, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Smith was unanimously chosen W.M. for the ensuing week, and he appointed his officers in rotation. As Bro. Smith is thoroughly efficient, there is no doubt that he will have a good attendance next week. We again remind brethren who attend this Lodge to be there before 7.30, as it is opened punctually at that time. We noticed some of the brothers who held office on the last occasion lost their position through not being in their place in time. This is annoying to those who are punctual, and who are anxious to begin.

Eclectic Lodge, No. 1201.—An Emergency meeting of this Lodge was held in the Zetland-room, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, on Friday, the 8th inst. Bros. E. J. Harty W.M., Taylor S.W., Saull J.W., W. H. Barber Sec., Lee S.D., Dobbing J.D., Moss I.G., Dr. Lloyd W.S., T. O. Davis Asst. W.S., N. H. Higgs Org., Watts I.P.M., and a numerous attendance of brethren and visitors. After the Lodge was opened, ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. S. C. H. Everett, H. Manchester, Rev. J. B. Dixon LL.D., and Paul Caralmbe Bavers, and being unanimously in their favour, these gentlemen were duly initiated into the Order. Bros. T. Hamp and J. S. Wade were passed to the 2nd degree. The latter by the courtesy of the W.M., and at the special request of the W.M. of 1475. Bro. Madell was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason. The working of the W.M. was very impressive, every Officer being equally perfect. Bros. Higgs Org. and Dr. Payne played some excellent music on the organ. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Holborn Restaurant, where a sumptuous banquet was provided by Bro. Gordon, superintended by his courteous manager, Bro. Hamp. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Watts, in giving the health of the W.M., justly complimented him. The W.M. having suitably replied, the toast of the newly initiated found a very excellent respondent in Bro. the Rev. J. B. Dixon. The other initiates followed. The Visitors, Wardens and Officers were severally given, and the Tyler's toast concluded a very agreeable evening. Among the Visitors were Bros. E. Spencer Harty 75 (Irish Constitution), James Stevens P.M. No. 1426, Major Tyler, G. N. Watts P.M. 194, James Levy S.D. No. 1261, R. Jessop J.W. 1261, Dr. Payne, Captain O. T. Herne 969, Woodcock 1216, S. Longley S.W. 1261, &c.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—This Lodge held its meeting at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday, the 8th inst. Present—Bros. Crouch W.M., Smith S.W., Harlow J.W., Fenner S.D., Powell J.D., Lane I.G., Hewlett, Townsend, Bolton, Hogarth, Cave, Austin, &c. Lodge opened in due form, minutes of last Lodge meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Hogarth answered the usual questions leading to 2nd degree, and was entrusted. Lodge opened in 2nd degree. The ceremony of passing was very ably rehearsed by the W.M. Bro. Fenner worked the 1st, and Bro. Hewlett the 2nd section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was closed in the 2nd degree. Bro. Harlow, of the Mother Lodge, 1227, was elected a joining member, and Bro. Smith was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. All business being ended, Lodge was closed in due form, and the meeting adjourned until next Friday, at 8 p.m.

Mount Edgcumbe Lodge, No. 1446.—A meeting of this Lodge was held on Saturday, the 9th inst., at the Swan Hotel, Battersea, when the following officers, brethren, and visitors were present:—Bros. A. M. Thomas W.M., A. C. Barrell P.M., W. Ough P.M. Treas., Charles Poupard P.M., J. J. Limebeer Sec., Joseph Wright S.W., A. Thomas jun. J.W., T. Cull J.D., G. T. Fox P.M. 73 and P.Z. 18, Tyler; J. Hutchings, W. J. Simpkins, T. Gardiner, J. Weavell, H. Willmott, J. Coates and T. Collings. The following were visitors: Bros. P. Leaper, Star 1275, J. Featherstone, Wolsey 1656 and A. A. Denham, Wandsworth 1044. Some formal business of the Lodge having been transacted, Bro. A. A. Denham was raised, in a very impressive and perfect manner by Bro. A. M. Thomas, the W.M. Bro. Joseph Wright S.W. was unanimously chosen as the W.M. for the ensuing year. The retiring W.M. passed a high eulogium on Bro. Wright, who is P.M. of 1585, and is also an earnest worker, both for the Royal Arch and Craft Masonry. Bro. W. Ough was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. G. T. Fox Tyler. Bros. Collings, Weavell, and Griffiths were chosen as auditors. A jewel of the value of five guineas was unanimously accorded the retiring W.M., Bro. Thomas. The Lodge was then closed in due form. The brethren were afterwards refreshed by a capital cold collation, provided by Bro. Knight, in good style. A very pleasant evening was spent.

Duke of Connaught Lodge of Instruction, No. 1524.—The members and friends of this popular Lodge of Instruction assembled in great force on Wednesday evening last, at the Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston, when the whole of the Fifteen Sections were worked, under the presidency of Bro. Fieldwick, S.D. 1364, who put the questions in a very creditable manner. In the 1st lecture the 1st section was taken by Bro. Bonner 1529, the 2nd by Bro. J. Larkin 192, the 3rd by Bro. Dignam 1524, the 4th by Bro. Marsh 1326, the 5th by Bro. Lee P.M. 1524, the 6th by Bro. Webb J.D. 174, and the 7th by Bro. Hewlett 141. In the 2nd lecture the 1st section was worked by Bro. Brasted 1524, the 2nd by Bro. Cull, J.D. 1446, the 3rd by Bro. Job I.G. 1076, the 4th by Bro. Pinder P.M. 15 and 1662, and the 5th by Bro. Austin P.M. 933. The sections in the 3rd lecture were thus distributed: 1st Bro. C. Kur Crouch W.M. 1297, 2nd Bro. Webb 1524, and 3rd Bro. Perren P.M. 1056. Where so many excellent workers in Masonry vied with each other, it were almost invidious to comment upon the working of individuals, but the brethren present seemed to accord the highest meed of praise to Bros. Austin, Pinder, Dignam and Hewlett. Bro. Geo. Ferrar, the landlord of the Havelock, deserves well of the brethren at the East End, for finding that his principal room lay due east and west, he had the billiard tables removed, and determined to devote the room to the purposes of Masonry only. To this end he has had the room decorated in distemper. The walls are panelled, and in each corner is some Masonic emblem. The dominant tone of the ceiling is light blue, and on this ground are portrayed the emblematic lights, all of which are admirably drawn and painted, and occupy their true positions in regard to the workers.

Beaconsfield Lodge, No. 1662.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held at the Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow, on Saturday, the 9th inst. Present—Bros. W. T. Christian W.M., W. Groome S.W., W. B. Brand J.W., J. Pinder P.M., F. Hallows Sec., C. J. Saunders S.D., Franklin J.D., T. Oldroyd I.G., Upward Org., J. H. Cambridge W.S., Goddard (acting) Tyler, and the following brethren, viz., W. G. Hallows, H. Field, Hunt, Clark, Deady and Delvalle. The Lodge was opened in due form, with solemn prayer. The candidate for raising being late in arriving, the W.M. worked the first, second and third sections of the lecture. After which the Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Wm. Moffatt answered the usual questions; the Lodge was then opened in the 3rd degree, and the candidate was raised to the sublime degree. The Lodge being resumed in the first degree, the ballot was taken for Mr. Henry Charles Rubery and Mr. Charles Stockwell, which proved unanimous in their favour. They being in attendance, were duly initiated into the Order, according to ancient rite. The Lodge was then closed with solemn prayer, and adjourned until Saturday the 6th October 1877. After the business was over, the brethren sat down to a cold collation, and the usual Masonic toasts were given and responded to by the Officers, &c. Visitors present—Bros. F. Rothschild S.W. 1288, E. P. Baldwin 382, S. North 382, W. Snellgrove 907, E. A. Trebeck 1445, W. Claridge 1598 and E. Brown 1598.

London Masonic Club Lodge of Instruction.—Held at the Club, 101 Queen Victoria-street, E.C. At the meeting on Monday last, at 6 o'clock, there were present Bros. J. E. Shand Secretary W.M., Sharratt S.W., Dobbing J.W., J. Langton S.D., Churchill J.D., Ward I.G., T. Cull acting Preceptor, C. J. Hogg Treasurer, Eastgate, Hawksley, "Lewis" Langton, and other members of the Club. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of last Lodge were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Langton jun., of No. 1673, being candidate. The ceremony was ably and impressively rehearsed, after which Bro. Cull worked the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Sharratt S.W. was elected W.M. for next meeting. Lodge closed and adjourned till Monday, 25th inst., at 6 o'clock p.m.

Prince's Lodge, Glasgow.—The Charter for this new Lodge, which is intended to be the A1 Lodge of the Province, was granted at the last Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge, and we understand the brethren have now made their preliminary arrangements for holding their first meetings in the Queen's Rooms, till they can get possession of a new hall for themselves. The proposed list of officers is an influential one, and includes the names of the following brethren:—Bros. Francis Wm. Clark, Sheriff Principal of Lanarkshire, for R.W.M., the Hon. James Bain, Lord Provost of Glasgow, D.M., Wm. Easton P.G.S.M. as S.M., Wm. H. Hill S.W., Councillor James Salmon J.W., Wm. Maclean Secretary, the Rev. Dr. J. W. W. Perry D.D., Provincial Grand Chaplain, as Chaplain, John Burnet S.D., James Provan J.D., John Forrester Steward, William Alexander I.G., and John Sinclair O.G. With such a list of distinguished brethren its success should be insured, and it is to be hoped that they will indeed act up to the principles on which they profess to start, and work to raise the status of Masonry in Glasgow.

TAMAR INDIEN.

SPECIAL CAUTION.

OWING to the marked success of this medicine, the only patent medicine universally prescribed by the faculty, and the acknowledged cure for constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c., BASE IMITATIONS, containing drastic irritants, are being foisted on the public. The genuine preparation bears the title "Tamar Indien," and the signature E. GRILLON, Coleman-st., London, E.C. Price 2s 6d per box. In a recent case, 1876, G. No. 211, a perpetual injunction to restrain the defendant from applying the name "Tamar" to his lozenges was awarded, with costs, by Vice-Chancellor Bacon, on 19th January 1877, and all such piracies will be summarily proceeded against.——N.B.—See that the outer wrapper (directions) are printed in the English language, and that each box bears the Government 3d stamp. The boxes with foreign wrappers are not prepared for English requirements

RUPTURES.

BY ROYAL LETTERS PATENT.

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of Hernia. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided, a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER fitting with so much ease and looseness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep.

A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post on the circumference of the body two inches below the loins being sent to the manufacturer,

THE APPROACHING FESTIVAL OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

IT is hardly necessary to remind our readers that the Seventy-ninth Anniversary of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys will be held on Wednesday next. Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., Provincial Grand Master for Hants and Isle of Wight, will preside, and, as on the last two occasions, the Festival will be held at the Alexandra Palace, Muswell Hill. The Earl of Donoughmore, P.S.G.W. is President of the Board of Stewards, which consists of over 200 brethren, and may be still further increased between now and the appointed day. As our readers are aware, the ladies are present on these occasions, whereas, at the Festivals of the R.M.B.I. and the Girls' School, having previously dined apart in another room, they are merely admitted to be spectators of the proceedings that follow the banquet. This year there will be a still further innovation. Gentlemen who are not Masons will be permitted to be present. To repeat an argument we adduced some time since, when the proposal was first sanctioned, brethren and their friends will meet together as a company of ladies and gentlemen. Some of the outside world will thus have an opportunity of learning what manner of men we are, and whether we bear any resemblance to the desperate band of conspirators we are supposed to be. We do not fear the verdict that will be passed upon us. We believe, indeed, the innovation will be productive of good, not only to the Institution, whose well-being we are so desirous of promoting, but to the Fraternity likewise. The silly reports which are propagated about us will be scattered to the winds, when we are proved to be a quiet and inoffensive body, loyal to the government, and avoiding all offence towards others who may differ with us in religion or politics. But we need not dwell upon these points. Let us rather direct the attention of our readers to the School itself, which, from so small a beginning, has, in so short a period of time, grown to be so important and so well regulated an establishment. In 1875 the Festival yielded an aggregate sum of close on £13,000. Last year the amount it produced was only a little less, but in each case, the total subscriptions exceeded the totals subscribed to the Girls' School and Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution respectively. We have no intention of instituting a comparison between this and the sister charities. The work of Charity is the same, whether it be directed to the maintenance of old men and women, girls, or boys. We can but do our duty towards those whom age, misfortune, or sickness has rendered incapable of helping themselves, or the young of both sexes, who in early childhood are deprived of their natural guardians. There is this, however, to be said on behalf of the Boys' School. It is only a few years since it was freed from debt, and consequently the amount of moneys it has been able to lay by for a rainy day is represented by a few thousands only. If—which Heaven forefend—a political or commercial crisis should suddenly overtake the country, and while lessening the chance of the requisite support being as readily forthcoming, should make perhaps the need for that support even greater than it is now, it is possible the Benevolent and the Girls' School might tide over the eventful period, but the funds of the Boys' School would be exhausted in a few months. Moreover, it becomes more apparent every year that the Institution is incapable of meeting the increasing number of applications for admission on the part of orphan boys. On an average, perhaps, there are three unsuccessful to one successful candidate at each successive election, and this in spite of the fact that, even during the last three years, some fifteen or sixteen pupils have been added to the strength of the School. While, then, our three Institutions stand before the Craft on exactly the same footing in respect of the good they are striving to accomplish, we do not consider we are acting invidiously if we lay some stress on the exceptional circumstance we have just described in connection with the Boys' School. As one of our three great Charities, it has no right to expect either more or less in the way of favourable consideration than its fellows; but, as possessing little or no invested property, and as being, therefore, less able to cope with the pressure of even a momentary adversity, it certainly is entitled to hope for a more liberal share of support—until it shall find itself once again placed on a tolerably equal footing with them in this respect. Our readers are perfectly well aware that we have made it our business, as the anniversary of each Institution has recurred periodically, to do all in our power to enlist the sympathy and assistance of the Craft in its behalf. We do not for a moment imagine they will consider we are animated by any predilection whatever in favour of this particular Institution. But we know there are circumstances connected with it which call for special comment—which, indeed, it would be the height of unwisdom to leave unnoticed; and in directing attention to these circumstances, we are simply fulfilling an important duty.

A few days, and the Festival of the Boys' School for 1877 will be an event that is past. It behoves us, therefore, to point out to Craftsmen, while there is yet time to do so, that it rests wholly and solely with them, whether the year begun so auspiciously at the Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution in February, and so fruitful of good to the Girls' School in April, shall turn out as favourably in the case of the Boys' School on Wednesday next. The Board of Stewards may be numerically weaker than it was last year. That, however, is a defect which there is even yet time to remedy. At the same time, there is no reason why the amount of contributions should be smaller. On the contrary, it seems to us the fact of the Stewards being fewer in number will serve to stimulate them to even greater exertion.

"The fewer men, the greater share of honour."

Then, when the lists are closed, and a glorious victory has been won, they will be entitled to say to each other, with feelings of honest pride:—

"We few, we happy few, we band of brothers," and those who might have joined "shall think themselves accurs'd, they were not" there. For the sake of Bro. Beach, who, on Wednesday next, will preside not for the first time at one of these magnificent gatherings; for the sake of the Boys' School, which more than ever needs the support of brethren; and for the honour of the Craft generally, we trust the Festival of next week will not be the least successful of this year's celebrations.

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

LAST week, there appeared in these columns two letters, in which were submitted certain questions connected with Masonic Jurisprudence. As regards one of these, it is not our intention to dwell upon it at any length. The writer referred to the ruling of the Grand Registrar at the March Communication of Grand Lodge, when, having declared it as his opinion that the decision of the D.P.G.W. of Northamptonshire and Hunts must be upheld as against the appeal of Bro. Waller, a P.M. of No. 442, he proceeded to justify the conduct of the latter in having invited some member of his Lodge, who was not the I.P.M., to rehearse a portion of one of the ceremonies. Bro. McIntyre ruled, and Grand Lodge endorsed his judgment, that the W.M. has the right to invite any brother he chooses to perform the ceremonies, the W.M. continuing to occupy the chair, so that the words spoken by the brother are the words of the W.M., uttered by proxy. If our correspondent will kindly refer to our articles on this subject in Nos. 115 (10th March) and 117 (24th March), he will find we expressed ourselves as being entirely in accord with the Grand Registrar. If the W.M. remains in the chair, he may call on any—that is, of course, any qualified brother—to perform the duties, and he may place him anywhere in the Lodge, whether by his pedestal or in some other part. As M.M.'s are qualified to be present at initiations, passings, and raisings, it follows that a W.M. may invite a M.M. to speak the words for him, which, in fact, are "the words of the W.M., uttered by proxy."

As regards the position of brethren and Lodges, who have been suspended from their Masonic rights and privileges, but have appealed against the sentence, it is obviously in accordance with common sense that the suspension, which is a punishment, should not be enforced until the sentence has been duly confirmed. But as law and common sense are not always of the same mind, we have consulted Oliver and Paton on the subject. As both these authorities agree together, it will suffice if we say that Dr. Oliver lays it down most emphatically, that pending an appeal against suspension, "the rights" of the appellant "remain intact," and he cites the legal opinion of the late Sir Frederick Pollock, in the case of Wood, Crucefix and Stevens, in support of this view. Said the late Sir F. Pollock: "I am of opinion that the parties under sentence of suspension may, pending the appeal, exercise their Masonic rights and privileges, until the final decision on their respective appeals has pronounced them either innocent or guilty. By the Constitutions, an appeal is given; and it is the essence of an appeal that it should stay execution of the judgment appealed against: this may be supported by analogy from every existing code of laws. In many cases a contrary doctrine would lead to the greatest injustice and the grossest absurdity; as if a judgment affected life and limb. The case of Mr. Stevens, in an inferior degree, is a specimen of the same sort; the punishment will have been suffered before the justice of it can be inquired into, unless it be held that the appeal suspends all proceedings under the judgment; which in my opinion it does." In order to show the force of this opinion, we may take for illustration a case which lately occurred in Capitular Masonry, when Comp. Matthew Cooke and two others appealed to Grand Chapter against a sentence of suspension passed by the Prov. Grand Superintendent of Middlesex on them and the Chapter of which they were the principals. The appeal was sustained, and the sentence quashed, on the ground of certain irregularities in the formal proceedings of the Prov. Grand Superintendent. Had the suspension been enforced pending the appeal, it is obvious the three principals of the Lodge would have been unjustly punished. Thus, as Dr. Oliver puts it, "the rights remain intact" pending appeal, so that in the case of the brother and the Lodge cited by our Correspondent JUSTITIA, the rights and privileges of both would remain intact till the appeal has been heard and the sentence approved or disapproved.

MASONIC PORTRAITS. (No. 38).

A PROVINCIAL MAGNATE.

"In faith, he is a worthy gentlemen;
Exceedingly well read, and profited
In strange concealments; . . .
And wondrous affable."

FEW people there are who occupy a worthier position in society than English country gentlemen. Many among them are of ancient lineage; many have achieved distinction through their own industrial or commercial energy and enterprise; and possibly there are those who have had the distinction thrust upon them. It matters not, however, by what means the rank is attained, the class itself is a numerous and deservedly influential one. They are invariably men of culture. They usually possess what is commonly known as "a stake in the country." They rarely lead an inactive life. Either they busy themselves with matters political, and are elected to represent some county or borough in Parliament, or they devote themselves to the equally important duty of promoting privately the welfare of the community. Sometimes they set themselves the task of solving or attempting to solve some knotty social question. They usually occupy some position of dignity and trust in the local magistracy. They form themselves into societies for the advancement of this or that particular interest, be it political or social, religious or moral, agricultural or commercial. In short, our country gentlemen are among the most useful and energetic members of the great English Commonwealth. The good they do is immeasurably great, and accordingly we are not surprised to find that the respect and affection which is entertained towards them is well nigh universal. But to pass without further preface from the class to the individual. The portrait we are about to present to our readers is that of a Provincial Magnate, whose Masonic titles to our respect have for many years been "familiar in our mouths as household words." Born a member of the class whose merits we have feebly attempted to portray, and of an ancient family long resident in the county he now governs so craftily, the subject of our sketch was educated, in the first instance, at the chief, if not the oldest of our great public schools. He passed thence to that splendid collegiate foundation on the banks of the Isis, which is indebted for its origin to the munificence of that Cardinal Minister of Bluff King Harry who, in the legendary history of our Order, is sometimes written down as the Grand Master of Masons of his day. At the close of his academical career he took the customary degrees, and a few years later, when yet only thirty years of age, he was elected one of the representatives in Parliament of the Northern Division of his native county. This honour he has retained ever since, and though it has not been given to him to achieve high parliamentary distinction, he has conscientiously fulfilled his allotted duty. As our readers are aware, there is plenty of work done in Parliament of which the public knows little or nothing. It is no sinecure to represent a great county constituency. There are the local interests to look after and promote. Much of the real business of the House of Commons is done in the Committee Rooms, and, in most cases, the only reward which members comprising such Committees must content themselves with is, the consciousness of having done their duty. We may add that he is likewise a Justice of the Peace and, a captain of Yeomanry Cavalry, while, in private life, he enjoys the affectionate regard of his friends and the respect of all his neighbours. It is, however, his character as a Mason, and the high position he has attained in our ancient fraternity, to which we must chiefly direct the attention of our readers. To these we now turn, in the hope that the record it is in our power to present may at least serve as an incentive to others to follow in his footsteps.

His Masonic career, extending, as it has done, over but little short of thirty years, has been a most brilliant one. Like many other men who have attained to distinction in the ranks of the Craft, the subject of our present sketch first saw the light in Apollo University, No. 357, having been initiated in that Lodge—in those days No. 460—on the 24th March 1848. In 1852 he was chosen to be W. Master, and in 1854 the same honour was a second time conferred upon him. In 1851 we find him filling the office of Provincial G. Junior Deacon of Oxfordshire. The year following he was Provincial G. Senior Deacon, and in 1853 he became Prov. Senior Grand Warden. In 1869, on the death of Admiral Sir Lucius Curtis, he received, at the hands of the Earl of Zetland, his patent as Provincial Grand Master for Hants and the Isle of Wight, the island being at the time annexed to the county, so that, together, they might form one considerable and influential Province. In 1855 he joined the Westminster and Keystone, and was elected its W.M. in 1868. Among the Lodges in his own Province, there are three of which he was a joining member, namely—Economy, No. 76, Winchester; Hengist, No. 195, Bournemouth; and Oakley, No. 694, Basingstoke. In Capitular Masonry he holds equally high rank as in Craft Masonry, having been appointed, in 1869, Provincial Grand Superintendent for Hants and Isle of Wight. In Mark Masonry he has attained still higher rank, having served as Deputy Grand Master during the Grand Mastership of Viscount Holmesdale, and having, in succession to that nobleman, held the office of Grand Master for the customary triennial period from 1866-69. This, by no means, exhausts the list of his Masonic dignities, for in the United Religious and Military Orders of the Temple and St. John of Jerusalem, &c., he has had conferred upon him the post of Very Eminent Provincial Prior of Hampshire, and, no doubt, there are other positions he has held or may hold still. But formidable as is the list of distinctions we have just enumerated, it is not these alone which entitle him to our respect. The evidences we have given suffice to show how diligently he has laboured to advance the interests of Freemasonry, but they do not disclose the whole of his labours. When he was installed as Provincial Grand Master, the eminent Mason who presided at the ceremony, and whom we sketched in these columns some months since as "The Statesman," described the subject of this notice as "a brother who would devote his time, energy, best thoughts, and attention to the office without stint and without fear of trouble to himself;" and, he added, "More than this, he held there was no man in England more truly devoted to the bests interests of the Craft, more familiar with its working, or more fitted in every way to be its exponent." Such eulogy as this, coming, as it did, from one who himself held a high position in the Craft, and was, therefore, by his own great Masonic attainments well qualified to judge, must be regarded as praise indeed. That it was no mere passing compliment, such as one friend may legitimately pay another on some auspicious occasion, has been amply borne out by the ability and energy with which he has fulfilled his very responsible duties. We cannot be charged with fulsome adulation when we say that he is universally loved and respected throughout his Province. Whatever concerns the Craft, in that we find him invariably taking the most prominent part. During the eight years he has presided over the destinies of Masonry in Hants and the Isle of Wight, no less than five new Lodges have been constituted. The Province comprised twenty-four Lodges at the date of his appointment, and there are now twenty-nine. The last memorable occasion in which he took the principal part at any great gathering of Freemasons in his Province, was in the autumn of last year, at Havant, when he consecrated the new quarters of the Carnarvon Lodge, No. 804, the foundation stone having been laid by him in the April previous. It may be asked, however, what need is there to praise a man when he merely does his duty? Our notion is that the man who "merely does his duty" is worthy of the highest praise, and our reason for so thinking is, there are so many men, in every station of life, who perpetually neglect their duty. But we have not even yet completed the list of his titles to the respect of all true Craftsmen. His name will be found among the supporters of all our Institutions. Moreover, he has already presided at one of those gatherings which are held annually in order to promote their welfare. In 1870, the year following his elevation to the rank of Provincial G. Master, he occupied the chair at the Anniversary of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. It is only during the last three years that the subscriptions at these Festivals have assumed such magnificent proportions. Thus we are guilty of no exaggeration when we say that his first presidency was a most successful one, the amount subscribed under his auspices being over £4,050, with fourteen lists still outstanding. He will preside again next week, and we trust it may be in our power, when the proper time arrives, to record a total of subscriptions for the benefit of "Our Boys" in keeping with our experience of the last two Festivals of this splendid Institution. We have before remarked that whoever undertakes the duties of a chairman at one of these gatherings, no matter how exalted his rank may be, incurs a very serious amount of responsibility. It is a truism to say there are presidents and presidents, yet he among them who conscientiously discharges the trust reposed in him, fulfils his duty in a manner to command the thanks, as well of the Institution whose cause he has pleaded as of all interested in its welfare. We know well, beforehand, that our respected brother will play his part to perfection, and our desire is that the Craft may show, by the liberality of their contributions, a just sense of their gratitude for his devoted attachment to their Institutions.

It is time, however, we put the finishing touches to this portrait. We have no mind for flattery. On the contrary, we have striven to depict our hero as we know him to be, a sterling fellow-craftsman, well versed in Masonic lore, capable as a ruler, and ready at all times to do what in him lies for the furtherance and protection of our interests. He is yet in the prime of life, and we may look forward to his retaining the office he adorns so much for many a long year. But were he, to-morrow, to withdraw from active participation in our labours, there are few who could point to a more serviceable record. As a senator, we know him heedful of his duty, and at this moment, especially, anxiously watchful, in the words of the Roman poet,

"Quid Seres et regnata Cyro Bactra parent, Tanaïs que discors."

But it is as a Mason he is more familiar to us. For nigh on thirty years he has been among us, rising from one post of dignity to another, till now he stands in the foremost rank of our chiefs, respecting, and respected of, all worthy brethren.

"Who is it says most? which can say more
Than this rich praise,—that you alone are you?
In whose confine immured is the store
Which should example where your equal grew.
Lean penury within that pen doth dwell
That to his subject lends not some small glory;
But he that writes of you, if he can tell
That you are you, so dignifies his story;
Let him but copy what in you is writ,
Not making worse what nature made so clear,
And such a counterpart shall fame his wit."

FESTIVAL REGULATIONS—27th JUNE 1877.

THE Stewards to be divided into two bodies:—
Distinguishing colour of Dinner Tickets, &c., pink and blue.

1.—Stewards, ladies and brethren, with pink tickets, will meet in the large saloon on the right of entrance.

The ante-room to be reserved for the use of the Stewards of the pink division.

2.—Stewards, ladies and brethren, with blue tickets, will meet in the large saloon on the left of entrance.

The ante-room to be reserved for the use of Stewards of the blue division.

The badges for each division will be distributed in the respective rooms by a Steward entrusted with their charge.

Wands will be borne by special Stewards only.

On the arrival of the Chairman, he will be received by the officers of the Board and conducted to the room at the west of saloon on the right, were presentations, if any be necessary, will be made.

At a given signal the Stewards and their friends in the right saloon will pass up the staircase—on reaching the corridor on first floor, turn to the right, enter the banquet-room, and take their seats at the tables numbered 2 to 9.

That done, the Stewards and their friends in the left saloon will proceed similarly, turning to the left on reaching the corridor, enter the banquet-room, and take their places at the tables numbered 10 to 17.

The company seated, the Chairman will enter, accompanied by the House Committee of the Institution, the Officers of the Board, and the Grand Officers, for all of whom seats will be provided at the long table.

A private drawing-room at the western end of the banquet-hall known as the "Western Tower Saloon," will be reserved for the exclusive use of ladies.

The general drawing-room, in which the evening concert will be given, will be the large saloon on the ground floor—colour, blue.

In the saloon on the ground floor—color pink, light refreshments—tea, coffee, lemonade, ices, &c., will be served throughout the evening after the banquet.

The room on the ground floor—in which the Chairman was received—will be reserved as a smoking room.

Special trains will be provided, leaving the Palace Station for King's Cross at 9.30 and 10 p.m.

For those driving to the Festival, accomodation for Horses and Carriages will be found in the Palace stabling, &c., on payment of One Shilling per horse.

The Institution at Wood Green, distant one mile from the Palace, will be open throughout the day for inspection by Visitors to the Festival.

By Special Command of THE M.W. PRO GRAND MASTER—
No Masonic Clothing or Jewel of any kind shall be worn.

By order,

FREDERICK BINCKES,
Hon. Sec. Board of Stewards.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF ESSEX.

THE annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of this Province, was held at Romford, on Thursday, the 14th inst., under the banner of the Hope and Unity Lodge, 214. The Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master, Bro. Matthew Clarke, presiding. The Lodge was opened at 2 o'clock, and after receiving the D.G.M., proceeded to business. All the Lodges in the Province were represented, and regret was expressed at the absence of the R.W.P.G. Master, Robert Bagshaw Esq., through illness. The acting Secretary stated that the R.W.P.G.M. had been pleased to re-elect Bro. M. Clarke as his Deputy. This announcement was received with great pleasure, for during the short period our Bro. M. Clarke has been in the Province, he has gained the esteem and respect of the brethren. The other officers appointed were as follows:—W. Bros. Rev. T. Cochrane Prov. Senior G. Warden, Geo. Corble Prov. Junior Grand Warden, Rev. J. H. Bridge Prov. Grand Chaplain, and W. J. Burton Prov. Grand Treasurer, elected for the 14th time, he being complimented upon his re-appointment. The office of Grand Secretary, which had become vacant by the death of J. W. Carr (whose services and merits will ever be remembered in the Province) was conferred upon Bro. T. J. Ralling, of the Angel Lodge, No. 51, Colchester, a worthy brother, and well fitted for the position. Bros. E. Hunt Carter Prov. Grand Registrar, W. P. Lewis Prov. Senior Grand Deacon, Digory Reed Prov. Junior Grand Deacon, T. G. Day Prov. Grand Superintendant of Works. The office of D. of C. has hitherto been held by W. Bro. Peter Matthews, who has been a useful member in the Province, especially at installations, but owing to illness, which prevents him taking so active a part now, the appointment was conferred on the assistant D. of C., Bro. A. Lucking. Bros. J. A. Wardell acted as Asst. D. of C., B. B. Brayshaw Prov. G.S.B., W. W. Brown Prov. G. Org., W. F. Francis Prov. G. Purs., W. I. Chigwell, G. F. Jones, G. W. Patmore, A. Manning Prov. G. Stewards. The Provincial Grand Lodge was then closed, and the brethren proceeded to St. Edward's Church, which had been placed, by kind permission of Bro. the Rev. E. Fox, M.A., and Vicar, at their disposal, a special service was held, and a sermon preached by the Rev. J. H. Bridge P. G. Chaplain from Luke xi. 26. After the sermon, the brethren returned, and Prov. Grand Lodge was re-opened. Bro. J. Tanner P.P.S.D. Essex, then brought before the Prov. G. Lodge, a scheme, which he hoped would be entertained, namely, to form a Charitable Association in connection with the Province. After some discussion had taken place, a committee was proposed to take into consideration the best means of carrying out the same. At the present time the Province were recipients to a larger extent than what was subscribed. Letters expressing regret at their inability to attend were received from the R.W.P.G. Master of Oxford, His Royal Highness Prince Leopold, the R.W.P.G. Master of Suffolk, Bro. Lord Waveney, the V.W. Bro. Rev. C. W. Arnold G. Chaplain of England and D.G.M. of Surrey, the V.W. Bro. John Hervey Grand Secretary, and several others. A vote of thanks was passed to the brethren of the Hope and Unity Lodge for their reception of Prov. G. Lodge, and the complete manner in which all the arrangements had been made. Prov. G. Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Corn Exchange, which had been fitted up very tastefully as a banquetting hall, when about one hundred sat down and partook of a banquet. The V.W. Rev. C. J. Martyn P.G. Chaplain of England and D.G.M. of Suffolk, returned thanks for the Grand Officers of England, in a very appropriate speech, and the Rev. C. Wigram P.G. Chaplain of England also replied. The D.G. Master, in responding, expressed his regret at the absence of the R.W.P.G. Master, but he should be able to report to him that the Lodges in the Province were in a prosperous condition, and expressed his satisfaction at the state of the Province. Bro. Burton, the Treasurer, in responding, alluded to this being the 14th year he had acted as Treasurer to the Province, and thanked them for the continuance of the trust reposed in him. Bro. Ralling responded for the Secretaryship. Bro. Corble also spoke for the rest of the P.G. Officers. Bro. the Rev. T. Cochrane, in returning thanks to a special toast, was of opinion that the entertainment had been enhanced in value by the musical brethren who had given their services gratuitously, for which the thanks of the brethren were due. Bro. Terry, in responding to the toast of the Charities, spoke of the Rev. C. J. Martyn as one of their noblest supporters, and trusted that the scheme proposed by Bro. Tanner would be carried out in the Province, feeling assured of its necessity. In referring to the Girls' School, he mentioned that at the examination at Cambridge the Senior was educated at their Schools; then again, with regard to the Boys, no less than 16 passed examination; and lastly, in respect to the aged, who have borne the heat and burden of the day, all were good in their several objects. At the present time there were six recipients from this Province. He therefore hoped the brethren of the Province would support the Institutions, so that they might be carried on creditably to the Craft. Several other toasts followed, ending with the Tyler's. During the evening the music from an old friend and brother, Geo. Buckland, enlivened us, as also did the singing of Bro. Wilkinson, and some extremely good playing by a brother upon the clarionet.

CONSECRATION OF THE CRUSADER'S LODGE, No. 1677.

THIS new Lodge was consecrated on Wednesday the 13th June, at St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell, the presiding officer being Bro. James Terry Prov. G.D. of C. Herts, assisted by Bro. James Hill W.M. 228, and Bro. Henry Marsh P.M. 1196. There was a large concourse of influential Masons to witness the ceremony, which was performed in a masterly and most impressive manner by Bro. Terry. The necessity for a new Lodge in this locality has been long and largely felt, and great praise is due to Bros. Thomas Goode and J. G. Defriez, but especially and in particular to Bro. W. J. Hunter, as well as the rest of the founders, for their energy and assiduity in bringing the negotiations for the new Lodge to a happy and successful issue. The other founders are Bros. Jarvis Maples W.M. Designate, J. W. Simmonds, F. Rothschild, R. C. Davis, J. S. Knight, A. J. Millward, and W. C. Gray, all of whom devoted time and labour towards the consummation of this desirable end. Among the visitors were—Bros. H. Field 1602, W. H. Hooper P.M. 435, R. D. Cummings 704, T. H. Miller P.M. 907, R. H. Marsh 228, W. J. Randall 228, D. Posener 185, W. Best 1288, Edward Witts P.M. 144, A. Mallord 1288, A. H. Hickman 228, G. Ward Verry P.M. 554, H. Paine 228, G. E. Fairchild 1196, S. S. Bacon 1196, J. Newton P.M. 174, R. Grigge P.M. 228, C. Koester P.M. 435, R. Soare 228, J. E. Crump 1223, J. Walker 27, S. Price P.M. 1288, G. C. Baker 228, Thomas B. Payne P.M. 27, J. Kew P.M. 179, S. Rawley 1602, and many others. The brethren marched in procession to the Lodge room, which is a new one, adjoining the hall. The Lodge was opened in the three degrees, after which the presiding officer, Bro. Terry, addressed the brethren on the nature of the meeting, and ably dilated upon the fine lessons inculcated by Freemasonry, and upon the blessings which it bestows. The founders were assembled round the board, and the Acting Secretary Bro. Defriez, read the Petition and Warrant, which were approved by the brethren in Masonic form. The Lodge-board then being uncovered, the elements of consecration were carried thrice round by the Masters and Wardens pro tem., when corn was scattered from the horn of plenty, and wine and oil were poured, emblematic of "Plenty," "Joy, and Happiness," and "Unity." During this beautiful and imposing ceremony the brethren chanted different hymns, Bro. Miller presiding at the organ. The Lodge was then dedicated and constituted, and resumed in the second degree. The installation of the W.M. then followed, Bro. Jarvis Maples P.M. 144, being raised to King Solomon's chair. The officers appointed by the W.M. were Bros. J. W. Simmonds S.W., he being unavoidably absent at sea, J. Piggot took his place pro tem., W. J. Hunter J.W., T. Goode S.D., F. Rothschild J.D., R. C. Davis I.G., J. S. Knight D.C., A. J. Millward W.S., and J. G. Defriez Sec. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet. The usual Loyal toasts were well received, and were heartily responded to. The toast of the W.M. was proposed by Bro. Terry, who said that under Bro. Maple's Mastership the Lodge was sure to prosper, he is a tried Mason, and one who has already done good work for the Craft. The energy that the W.M. has shown in establishing the Lodge, together with his brother founders, is sufficient guarantee that, during his year of office, the interests of the Crusaders Lodge will not be neglected. The W.M. replied in very appropriate terms, expressing his devotion to the Lodge, and his eagerness to do his duty, however arduous it might be, with credit to himself and honour to the Lodge. The Worshipful Master then proposed the health of the Consecrating Officer, who, in reply, said that during the time he had been a Mason, he had consecrated 19 Lodges, and had become honorary member of 99 Lodges. He had always endeavoured to do his duty, and acted to the best of his ability to preserve the honour of Masonry in England. The toast of the Visitors was responded to by Bro. Marsh (Henry Marston), who thanked the brethren kindly for the cordial reception they had accorded to the visitors, and earnestly advised the members of the new Lodge to exercise great discretion as to the kind of candidates they introduced. The toast of the Officers was then proposed, to which each of them replied. In the course of the evening, Bro. Marsh recited "The Charge of the Six Hundred," and Bro. Fairchild gave "My Pipe." Some excellent music, by Bros. Millward, Millard, and others, gave extreme satisfaction for the skill and tact displayed by the performers.—Islington Gazette.

CONSECRATION OF THE ROYAL BRUCE CHAPTER.

MONDAY, 11TH JUNE 1877.

THE Provincial Grand Chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, 33 Golden-square, W., at 3 p.m., R. W. Bro. Dr. Robert Hamilton, Provincial Grand Master, presiding. The following companions were admitted and advanced to the order of H.R.M. of K.L.W.N.G.:—

" Walter Spencer.
" Joseph F. Starkey.
" Charles Allen.

The banquet took place at the Café Royal, 68 Regent-street, at 8 p.m., the R. W. Bro. the Rev. F. K. Harford, the T.R.S.T.A. presiding.

NEW ZEALAND.

FROM New Zealand we learn that there is great activity in Blue Masonry, especially under the English Constitution, and in the Province of Auckland. Our excellent brother, M. S. Leers, who has always shown himself so able and active, has lately consecrated (as the Pro District Grand Master for the North Island), two Lodges—the Remuera Lodge, in one of the most beautiful and wealthy suburbs of Auckland, and the Rodney Lodge, which is held at the settlement of Maburangi, a few miles north of the city. The first W.M. of the Rodney Lodge is Bro. Moat, who is a well known and worthy Mason, and he is supported by a good team of officers. Nearly all the officers of the two new Lodges are members of the Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 1338, which is now the leading English Lodge in the North Island, chiefly owing to the exertions of Bro. Leers P.M. the Secretary, and one of the original founders.

A few days after the late mail left last month, a new Masonic Hall was to be opened in Onehunga, a flourishing sea-port, about four miles from Auckland, and the occasion was to be celebrated by a concert and ball; in a few weeks another Masonic Hall was to be opened in the Waikato, an extensive pastoral district south of Auckland.

THE MACE FUND.

THE Treasurer of the Dorcas Beneficent Society acknowledges, with many thanks, the following donations received in answer to the Appeal of the 14th May:—

Major George Barlow, 33° . . .	1	1	0

Further donations are asked to enable Mr. Mace to complete his University course, and will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, Captain P. Dadson, 33 Golden-square, W., or Bro. F. Binckes, Freemasons' Hall. The Trustees of the Fund are Bros. W. Pass and B. Head.

The Paxton Lodge will be consecrated on Wednesday, the 30th June, at the Crystal Palace, by Bro. H. E. Frances P.P.G.S.D. Surrey. Bro. the Rev. R. J. Simpson P.G. Chap., will officiate as Chaplain.

The Summer Festival of the Metropolitan Lodge will be held at the Castle Hotel, Windsor, on the 18th of July, under the able direction of the W.M. Bro. Thos. Williams, and an efficient body of Stewards.

POWERS AND PRIVILEGES OF MASTERS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—What does our Brother "W.M. Regispons" mean? He reads a judgment one way, and says if his reading is right, "we are all wrong, and he hopes we are all wrong." I fancy he has forgotten his obligation, "that he would not permit or suffer any deviation from the ancient customs and established landmarks." Surely he does not hope that the time may come when a W.M. may be a figure 0, and call upon his brethren to do his work. In a well constituted Lodge, sufficient for each officer is the work thereof, and it seems to me that the Wardens can learn their future duties at a Lodge of Instruction, even if, as your correspondent implies, the W.M. is not up to his work sufficiently to teach them by his example. Let me advise your correspondent to seek to do his duty in the high office in which he is placed, and not attempt to shirk his work by putting it upon the Wardens' shoulders, before they are, by the training of a good example, fitted for the task; for, in my opinion, if the suggestion were followed, our regular Lodge meetings would be virtually Lodges of Instruction, and would lead to manifold abuses.

Fraternally yours,

PRIMUS.

FREEMASONS AT ISSUE.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—From the remarks of the plaintiff's counsel in the case lately before Mr. Justice Field, referred to in your article of Saturday last, it would appear that the plaintiff had submitted the matter in dispute to the G.M., and had been referred by him to a court of law. The facts are that the P.G.M. had, and still has, the matter before him for his consideration; and that he has not declined to adjudicate.

It is to be inferred from what the plaintiff's counsel further stated that the action if founded on a letter written (presumably) outside the Lodge; the fact is, the action is brought upon the Lodge summons, against the W.M., the Secretary, and a third brother, whose name appeared on it as the proposer of a motion to take into consideration the conduct of the plaintiff and other brethren, in reference to certain alleged blackballing in the Lodge.

I am, Sir, yours fraternally,

THE DEFENDANT'S SOLICITOR.

REGALIA.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I should like to make a few remarks on a subject which has an interest for a great number of Masons, a large proportion of whom are amongst the most active members in the Craft. I refer to the question of regalia or clothing, with which, if my memory does not deceive me, you dealt editorially some few weeks since.

For the sake of making matters clear, I will quote the Constitutions, p. 118: "No honorary or other jewel or emblem shall be worn in the grand lodge or any subordinate lodge which shall not appertain to or be consistent with those degrees which are recognised and acknowledged by and are under the control of the grand lodge as part of pure and ancient masonry."

I am well aware of the interpretation put upon this law by our late noble Grand Master the Earl Zetland, and others high in authority, and, of course, in a question of this kind a legal decision once formally made must be final. Nevertheless, I believe no decision has been formally promulgated, and, therefore, I presume that it is still competent for any brother to open out the question.

The point to be decided would appear to be the interpretation to be put on the word "consistent," and it seems to me that any or all of the "outside" or "high" degrees are consistent with "pure and ancient masonry."

Blue Masonry makes no pretence of being anything more than a system of morality. We are expressly taught that it is not intended that Masonry should be put in the place of religion. Masonry then can be nothing more or less than a basis or ground work, a solid foundation, on which may safely be erected any edifice, provided the temple be perfect in all its parts, and honourable to the builder. It is unnecessary, save for the sake of the maintenance of the thread of the argument, to urge that many eminent Masons are also excellent Christians, and yet by this patent fact we are driven to admit that Christianity is not inconsistent with pure and ancient Masonry, and if this be so, how can it be said that the Christian degrees are not consistent with the Royal Art.

I do not argue for the amalgamation of Craft and Christian Masonry, because that would be a deliberate infringement of a principal landmark, but I maintain, that according to our Constitutions, if a brother chooses to adorn himself with emblems of other than Craft degrees he is strictly within the letter of the law.

If my view of the case be erroneous, then I submit that the badge of any Order, be it the Bath, St. Michael and St. George, or any other British or Foreign Order or Society, cannot be legally worn in a Masonic Lodge.

I am, yours fraternally,

R.S.Y.C.S.

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Wonders of Operative Masonry. Sketches of the Principal Abbeys and Cathedrals of England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales. By Clifford P. MacCalla, M.A., P.M. of Concordia Lodge, No. 67, Philadelphia, and Editor of the KEYSTONE. Philadelphia: Masonic Publishing Company, 237-9 Dock-street. 1877.

IT is not necessary we should devote much space to this excellent little publication, as the papers which are comprised in it have appeared from time to time in the pages of our esteemed contemporary, the KEYSTONE. At the same time, it is a duty as well as a pleasure to call attention to the work, because the work is well worthy of being described. Moreover, we have enjoyed reading it, and are anxious that others who may not have had the opportunity should not escape the chance of doing so; while from the fact that Bro. MacCalla frequently makes kindly mention of ourselves, we would not let the reciprocity of such kindness be all on his side. It is evident, from the amount of interesting matter which Bro. MacCalla has collated, that he has spared no pains to make his series of sketches as complete as possible. And this trouble must have entailed upon him the expenditure of a considerable amount of time, which to one so busily engaged as he is, in the editing of a Masonic weekly, is no light task. But if the work has involved, as it must have done, heavy research and a considerable inroad upon his already too limited leisure, he has, at least, the satisfaction of knowing that his efforts to describe the grand works of our operative predecessors are duly appreciated. No one can possibly take up this neat little volume without being not only pleased, but also enlightened. Bro. MacCalla is an able descriptive writer, and to this circumstance we owe it that his sketches are, if we may be permitted to use the phrase, so exceedingly picturesque. In reading the story, it flows so smoothly, and is so compactly arranged in all its details, that we seem to regard it as a succession of tableaux, each perfect in itself, the series forming one harmonious whole. Among the Abbeys and Cathedrals which are described are Westminster, Melrose, Tintern, Holyrood, and Kilwinning Abbeys, York Minster, and Canterbury, Winchester, Durham, Ely, and Peterborough Cathedrals, besides our famous Temple Church in London. In each case, Bro. MacCalla gives particulars of their erection, and any historical events or personages associated with them. He also describes the general appearance of each and any special features which have appeared to him worthy of being noted. Having done this, he devotes one Chapter to "the Freemason Architects of the Middle Ages," and another to the subject of "Gothic Architecture." These, though supplementary to the main purpose, must be described as an essential feature in a work of this kind, and it is almost needless to say, that together they are far from forming the most interesting portion of the book. Three tabular statements follow. In one is shown "the Comparative size of celebrated English Cathedrals," with dates of their erection. The second contains similar information of certain famous Cathedrals on the Continent; whilst the third gives the revenues of our English and Scotch Abbeys at their dissolution. And, by way of completing the edifice, Bro. MacCalla has added a capital Index of names; so that the reader who may be desirous of obtaining information respecting any particular Abbey or Cathedral has only to turn to this, and he will at once find where he must look in the book for what he is in search of. Several illustrations are interspersed throughout the volume, and these, of course, greatly enhance its appearance. We must not omit to mention that the work is admirably printed and neatly bound, and does the greatest credit to the Masonic Publishing Company. Having said thus much, with a view to show what manner of book this is, we take our leave of it. We strongly advise our readers to buy it, we are confident they will regard the investment as a profitable one, and we thank Bro. MacCalla most warmly for his courtesy in forwarding us a copy.

Picturesque Europe has reached its 16th number, and still continues to merit the very high praise we have bestowed upon it from the very outset. The principal engraving presents a fine view of "Edinburgh, from Calton Hill." The minor illustrations include three connected with "Border Castles and Counties," namely "Neidpath Castle," "Johnny Armstrong's Tower," and a view of the "Esk, near Gilnockie." We are then taken off to inspect the architectural and monumental beauties connected with our Cathedral cities. Among the illustrations in this portion of the work are sundry of Canterbury Cathedral, showing the "Baptistry," "the Precinct," "Bell Harry Tower," "the Norman Staircase," and "the Tomb of the Black Prince." In addition are views of York Minster, "Durham Cathedral from the River," the fine old Western Doorway at Rochester, a view of Salisbury Cathedral, and "the South Porch, Gloucester Cathedral."

Christian worked the 1st section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bros. Stockwell and Rubery, of Beaconsfield Lodge, No. 1662, were unanimously elected members of this Lodge of Instruction.

Glasgow Chapter, No. 50.—Met on Thursday, 14th June. Comps. W. Bell Z, J. Louttitt H, P. Agnew T., D. Morrison S.E., J. Leeds S.N., and a full attendance of members and visitors, amongst whom we recognised G. W. Wheeler Z. 73, J. Balfour 73 P.G.S.E., G. Muir Z. 87, A. Mercer J. 87, R. Frayner 1st S 67, and several P.M.'s No. 3 bis. Comp. Bell having asked Comp. Wheeler to take the chair, he proceeded to affiliate Comp. John Walker. Comp. Bell then delivered his promised lecture on the Antiquity and Present Position of Masonry Abroad, in which he treated of the rise of the Order in each of the present Grand Lodges, showing the difficulties and trials that many of them had undergone before they were established, and even now the difficulty that is experienced in some Catholic countries, concluding with a description of some of the Parisian Lodges. Comp. Wheeler expressed the pleasure they had all felt in listening to so able an address, and hoped Comp. Bell's example might be followed by other Principals in the Provinces. Comps. Louttit, Brownlow, Leeds, and Muir also expressed their gratification, and a cordial vote of thanks terminated the meeting.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—No doubt owing to the oppressive atmosphere which naturally induces a preference for the open air to the confinement of a crowded room, there was but a spare attendance at the meeting of this Lodge, which took place on Wednesday last, at the Whittington, in Moor-lane, Fore-street, E.C. Bro. Walker opened the proceedings. Bro. Ager was S.W., Sayer J.W., Pelton acting Sec., Gomm S.D. There were also present—Bros. E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, John Constable P.M. Treas., F. Binckes Sec. R.M.I.B., Matier P.M., D. Posener W.M. Upton, W. B. Lamberton Perseverance Lodge No. 21 Pennsylvania U.S.A., and John Daunt St. Patrick's Lodge No. 8 Cork Ireland. The W.M. kindly vacated the chair, in order to give Bro. Posener the opportunity of practising the ritual of the third degree, after which Bro. Constable gave the replies of the third section. Bro. F. Binckes craved permission to address the meeting, which being conceded, he said:—I would ask to be allowed to exercise my privilege as a member of this Lodge to submit a proposition, which I hope will be cordially accepted. The English nation is just now favoured by the visit of a distinguished and exalted personage, the late President of the United States, and as the representative of the American people, due honour has been shown, from the Crown downward, to General and Mrs. Grant. This evening, the Lodge is honoured by the visit of a brother from the state of Pennsylvania, to whom we also desire to show respect. This you may think is comparing great things with small. In my official capacity I have to correspond with brethren in many parts of the world, and the distinguished name of Bro. Lamberton is not unknown to me. He in a way also represents the brethren in the State of Pennsylvania. I would, therefore, ask him to honour the Lodge by permitting himself to be enrolled as one of its honorary members. If he would grant this request, it would be most gratifying. The motion was unanimously carried. Bro. W. B. Lamberton expressed his thanks for the entirely unexpected honour. Bro. Binckes again rose and said: It is by the merest accident that I am among you this evening. Being engaged at the Board of Benevolence, I had the pleasure of meeting Bros. Matier and Constable. Our duties there being discharged, we thought we could not do better, nay nor so well, than proceed to the Confidence Lodge of Instruction. I am afraid on the last occasion, you missed the presence of one of your most distinguished members. But he had elsewhere, most important duties to discharge, namely: to settle the question as to who shall be entitled to the Life Governships for the R.M.I. for Boys' arising from the sale of between 11,000 or 12,000 shilling tickets. At the ballot which took place at Masons' Hall, City, his supervision was indispensably necessary, I myself was there, and beheld to my surprise, evidences of the enormous amount of labour and energy, which he must have exerted, to bring to a successful conclusion, so Herculean a task. My object in rising is, to wish him long life, health and happiness, and strength to continue to act for the benefit of the Institutions here in this Lodge in which he is held in such high esteem. This is his third effort in the same direction: In the first he realised £300 or £400, on the second occasion £400 or £500, and at the festival next week, I hope publicly to announce his list to amount to some £1,200 or even more. I would now ask that a vote of thanks to Bro. John Constable be recorded, as a cordial expression of recognition of his indefatigable labours in the cause of Charity particularly with regard to the Boys' Institution. Bro. Gottheil, in seconding the motion, said he had intended to propose a vote of the same nature at some time, when a large number of brethren should have assembled, but Bro. Binckes having, with so much ability, forestalled him, he would content himself by just observing that not having seen much of Bro. Constable during the time of his sale of the last tickets, he could not speak of his exertions, but judging by his former efforts, part of which he had opportunities of witnessing, in which there were not only a great expenditure of energy and sacrifice of time, but actually a considerable sum out of pocket, his labours in the present case must have been enormous, especially when it is considered that drawbacks in the shape of envy, &c., and many disparaging remarks were not wanting, and in some instances freely used as obstructives. Bro. Constable made some enemies, but more friends, in his present endeavour, but every thoughtful brother must admire a man who, when he says he will do a thing, disregards all obstacles and walks straightway to the end. Bro. D. Posener, in supporting the motion, bore witness to the energy and faithfulness which characterised everything Bro. Constable undertook for the benefit of others, and thought that gratitude was eminently due to that brother for his labours in the cause of Charity. Bro. J. K. Pitt spoke cordially in support of the motion, which being put, was unanimously carried. Bro. Constable expressed his thanks. He was glad to have successfully concluded what Bro. Binckes was pleased to designate a Herculean task, but was afraid if so much praise be heaped upon him, it might result in his losing his head, and then it would be impossible for him to to anything more with a chance of success. He would always do his best for the Institutions, which were not only a credit, but the brightest ornament of the Masonic body. Bro. Ager was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Ebury Chapter, No. 1348.—A convocation of this Chapter was held on Tuesday, the 19th inst., at the Morpeth Arms, Ponsonby-street, Millbank. Comps. W. Bourne Z., J. Palmer H., Peter Parsons J., W. Smeed P.Z., and several others. The Chapter was opened and the minutes confirmed. Several candidates were on the agenda paper, but being unable to attend, letters of apology were read. The election for principals and officers took place, the result being as follows:—Comps. J. Palmer M.E.Z., P. Parsons H., F. Harrison J., M. Cook S.E., J. Gallant S.N., Perryman P.S., John Coutts Treasurer, Potter Janitor. A P.Z.'s jewel was unanimously voted to the retiring M.E.Z., for his ability in discharging those duties to their satisfaction. Comps. Skinner and Perryman were elected as members of the Audit Committee. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions separated. There was no banquet.

We are pleased to announce that Bro. A. W. Fenner, who has for some time past managed the business of the late John Lillywhite, has received the following letter from Sir D. M. OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

ON Thursday last, in the House of Lords, Lord Redesdale drew attention to the subject of confession and Absolution, especially to a most objectionable work entitled "The Priest in Absolution," which appears to be sanctioned by a number of clergymen of the Church of England. Two or three members of the bench of bishops took part in the debate that followed. The next day, Lord Stanley of Alderley raised a discussion on the treatment of the united Greek Church in Asia, after which there took place a debate, originated by the Duke of Argyll, on our policy in Afghanistan. The speakers, besides His Grace, were, the Marquis of Salisbury, Secretary of State for India, and Lords Lawrence and Northbrook, late Viceroys. On Monday, the report of amendments to the Burials Acts Consolidation Bill was taken into consideration. A clause, proposed by the Archbishop of York, was defeated, but Lord Harrowby's clause, which had previously been defeated by the bare majority of one, was brought up again and carried by 127 to 111, the Government thus sustaining defeat on one important measure. Thereupon the Duke of Richmond and Gordon proposed the adjournment of the Bill till next week, in order that the Government might consider what course of action they should take.

In the House of Commons, further progress was made with the Prisons Bill, and the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, both of which at length emerged from Committee in spite of vexatious delays interposed by Mr. Biggar and others. On Friday, the Roads and Bridges (Scotland) Bill was read a second time, while a resolution, proposed by Mr. Meldon, the Borough Franchise in Ireland was defeated. On Monday, on the question of going into Committee of Supply on the Navy Estimates, an amendment, proposed by Mr. Lefevre, on the subject of Naval Cadets was defeated by 171 to 130. Dr. Playfair having drawn attention to the report of the Arctic Admiralty Committee, the House went into Committee, and Mr. Hunt, who has not yet entirely recovered from his illness, moved sundry votes which were agreed to. The Universities of Oxford and Cambridge Bill was read a third time, and passed amid much cheering. On Tuesday, the Prisons Bill, after some debate, passed its third reading at the morning sitting. On the House meeting, at 9 o'clock there was a count out. On Wednesday afternoon, a Locomotives on Roads Bill was withdrawn, on Colonel Chaplin, who proposed its second reading, receiving an assurance from the Government that they would take the subject into consideration.

Wednesday was the fortieth anniversary of the Queen's accession to the throne, and the bells in London rang out a merry peal in honour of the auspicious event. Thursday next will be coronation day, when many of the Government offices will have a holiday. The day following was fixed for the return of Her Majesty from Balmoral to Windsor. Two State Concerts are arranged to be held at Buckingham Palace next month, one on the 6th, and the other on the 11th prox.

The visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales to Easthampstead Park was varied on Saturday by the usual water party at Virginia Water. The Princess with her children drove over about half-past six, while the Prince followed shortly after on Lord Carington's drag. The Duke of Cambridge and others were of the party. The young Princes enjoyed the fishing amazingly, some very fine perch and some pike being captured. Dinner was served in the Fishing Cottage, and as the weather was fine everything passed off most satisfactorily. On Monday, their Royal Highnesses concluded their visit to Easthampstead Park, and on their way to town drove to Wellington College, Wokingham, whence they continued their journey to the South Eastern Railway Station, and proceeded by special train to Charing-cross. On Tuesday, they gave a dinner party at Marlborough House, in honour of the Emperor and Empress of Brazil. In the afternoon they had paid a visit to the Royal Horticultural Gardens, South Kensington, where they were received by Lord Aberdare and other officials of the society. Having inspected the gardens, Her Royal Highness distributed the prizes awarded early in May last, shortly after which the party took its departure, amid general cheering. The band of the Royal Horse Guards contributed much to enliven the proceedings. Thursday was fixed for the visit of the Prince and Princess to the Warspite training ship, the journey to Woolwich, where the ship is stationed, being made by water. The Princess distributed the prizes at the close of the inspection.

General Grant continues to be the "lion" of London. On Friday he visited Guildhall, and was formally presented with the Freedom of the City of London. The presentation took place in the library, and a banquet in the Guildhall itself, at which about 800 guests were present, followed as usual. The same evening he visited the Crystal Palace, and a special programme including a grand display of fireworks was provided in honour of the occasion. On Tuesday, he dined at Marlborough House, having previously visited Alexandra Palace, where, as at Sydenham, grand preparations had been made in order to give him a fitting reception. As it was the opening day of the Horse Show, there was a large gathering of people to see the distinguished visitor. The General thoroughly appreciates the warmth of his reception, which he modestly attributes, not to his own merits, but to his being a representative citizen of the United States. There is no doubt the fact of his having held so high a position in his own country, has had much to do with the cordiality he has experienced everywhere, for the fact that we and our American cousins have occasional differences is a proof of the strength of our mutual affection and respect. But it is equally beyond all doubt that the British public have received General Grant thus heartily, because he is a man of great merit. He is a gallant soldier who has done good service in maintaining the Union of the States, and whatever may have been the sympathies or antipathies of these or those Britons at the time of the great American War, there is no doubt we all respect the man who did his duty so nobly and so successfully, not simply because he was successful, but because he acted so as to deserve success.

Death has been somewhat busy these last few days among our celebrities. Lord Justice Mellish died, on Friday evening last, in the 63rd year of his age, having been born in the month of December 1814. The late judge was educated at Eton, and University College, Oxon, was a special pleader from 1840 to 1848, and was called to the bar of the Inner Temple in the latter year. He received "silk" in 1861, and was raised to the bench in 1870. He was generally respected, and a fitting tribute was paid to his memory, both by the bench and the bar. Another public man has gone to his last rest. Admiral Rous, whose connection with the turf for the last forty years of his life, must be so well known to our readers. The gallant Admiral died, on Tuesday, from old age and general decay rather than from any special disease, having been born in the year 1795, so that he was in his 83rd year. In early life, Admiral Rous had seen considerable service, having joined the navy in January 1808. His most memorable exploit was his safely navigating H.M.S. Pique, without rudder or keel, and with her foremast sprung, across the Atlantic, from the Coast of Labrador, but a letter of thanks was the only mark of approval he received by way of recognition. In 1838, he was elected a member of the Jockey Club, and has taken the most prominent part in racing ever since. His place, as the great handicapper of the day, it will be difficult, if not impossible, to supply. There have died, also, Lady Stirling-Maxwell, better known as the Hon. Mrs. Norton, and granddaughter of the celebrated Richard Brinsley Sheridan, and Miss Carpenter, who had taken a leading part in connection with the establishment of Children's reformatories. It is seldom we have to record the death of so many worthies in one short week.

We are in the full swing of cricket. Surrey has gained its second victory this season, by overthrowing Yorkshire, even though several of her leading batsmen were conspicuous by their absence. But she had to succumb to Cambridge University, who defeated her easily, with four wickets to spare, and so did Middlesex, in her match with the sister University. This week Lord's has been the scene of some good performances, the first half of the week being occupied with the match between the M.C.C. and Ground and Cambridge, in which the latter were beaten by six wickets, though the University team compiled no less than 303 runs in their second innings. During the latter half, M.C.C. has been trying the strength of Oxford, the match at the time of writing being still in progress. Kent v. Derbyshire was very closely contested, the latter securing victory by one wicket. Another great match in progress is that between North and South at the Oval, and if any of our readers have the leisure, they may find many worse ways of spending it than by looking in for a few hours at the Kennington ground. Another annual gathering has been held this week, to wit, the Henley Regatta, while aristocratic Ascot has been followed by the great cockney gathering at 'Appy 'Ampton.

Among the meeting of societies and corporate bodies which have taken place, may be mentioned the commemoration day of King's College, London. In the early part of the day, services were held in the chapel, after which lunch was served in the great hall, there being present about 180 ladies and gentlemen. Canon Barry, Principal of the College, presided; and among the guests were the Earl of Powis, the Bishop of Ely, the Bishop of Bath and Wells, Sir T. Watson, Sir Gilbert Scott, Sir F. Fitzwigram, Archdeacons Hessey and Browne, &c., &c.

In France, the Legislative Assembly has re-assembled after its month's prorogation, and the meetings have been exceptionally stormy. The most desperate scenes have been enacted, the different speakers being inaudible for the noise which was going on around them. M. Paul de Cassagnac appears to have been one of the chief disturbers. A motion of want of confidence in the Government was passed by a vote of 363 to 158. Meantime, the President has called upon the Senate to vote the dissolution of the Lower Chamber, but whether the Government, even with the tremendous influence it is able to exercise at an election, will secure a majority, remains to be seen.

There has been plenty of severe fighting in Asia. The Russians appear to be pressing the siege of Kars, but the several attacks they have made are reported to have failed. An engagement between the right wing of the Turks under Mehemet Pasha, and about an equal force of Russians, has ended in the retreat of the former. The Russian artillery did great execution, and it is to this arm and to a flank movement that the success is mainly attributable. Mukhtar Pasha is in the neighbourhood of Erzeroum. The attack on Batoum is still pressed, but as yet the Turks manfully hold their ground. We have heard somewhat less of late about the insurrection in the Caucasus. There can be little doubt, however, that it is causing Russia some inconvenience, though not to the extent that might have been anticipated. The Czar's army is strong enough to keep its communications uninterrupted. A part of the Egyptian contingent, under Prince Hassan, has reached Constantinople, and these, no doubt, will speedily join the Turkish army on the Danube. The Sultan must find this reinforcement very welcome. There are still, it is said, some 5,000 more to be dispatched, so that Egypt will be very fairly represented, as some troops were sent last year when the war with Servia was raging. As yet no serious movements have taken place on the Danube. The Turks maintain an expectant attitude. They are on the look out, and display more than the usual amount of activity, any appearance of the gathering of a numerous force causing tremendous expenditure of shot and shell. Their Circassian cavalry are constantly making raids into Roumania, carrying off cattle, and occasionally inhabitants. On the other hand, the Russians are very properly as silent as the grave about their intentions. Newspaper correspondents are forbidden to mention anything as to the movement of troops, even though the movement may have taken place before it could possibly be known in any distant capital. It is generally expected that an attempt to cross the river will be made at an early date, and it is likewise expected that the passage will be successfully effected though perhaps at a cost of from 20,000 to 25,000. However, to say nothing of the Turks who may be slain as well, all these thousands of lives will be sacrificed, as the Czar has said, in the interests of religion and humanity, and the world says the Czar is an honourable man, so we presume it is quite right all this bloodshed should take place. Prince Milan has visited the Czar who is reported to have ordered him to maintain his neutrality, though we are informed that Russian troops may possibly use Servia as they are using Roumania and make it a point from which more effectually to attack the Turks. As to the Montenegrins, they have been having a bad time of it. In spite of the stories current about the defeat of large Turkish forces by two or three battalions of the mountaineers, the little principality has been successfully invaded, and we should not be surprised to hear of its capital being occupied. All we have to say is, so much the better, seeing that the principality might have had honourable terms of peace in the spring of this year. There is said to be considerable agitation in Greece, where the party appears to be gaining strength, and Hungary is excited. Indeed, in the event of Servia being occupied by any Russian force, it is quite possible that Austro-Hungary may look after her interests somewhat seriously. Still, we must bear all that is happening and may happen with resignation. The Czar has declared it is all for the good of religion and humanity, and, we repeat, the Czar is "an honourable man; so are they all"—Prince Milan, Prince Charles of Roumania, Prince Nikita, and the rest of them—"all honourable men."

The Board of Stewards for the Festival of Wednesday next met on Monday, at four p.m., at Freemasons' Hall. The business transacted was confined to balloting for seats, and this done, the meeting separated. Bro. Stephen Barton Wilson occupied the chair, and among those present were Bros. J. Constable, C. F. Matier, J. D. Massey, Tanner, Lucking, Murley, and J. G. Berry.

It is announced, by command of the Earl of Mount-Edgcumbe, Prov. G. Master, that a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall will be held on the 5th prox., at the Western Subscription Rooms, Launceston, at 10 a.m. precisely. The business paper is a very full one. After receiving a communication from Sir William Knollys and the annual statements of P.G. Treasurer and Secretary, reports respecting the "Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund," and from "the Committee of Relief," will be submitted. A report will also be received from Bro. W. J. Hughan, as to his management of the votes for the London Masonic Charities, on behalf of the Province. The same worthy brother will then propose that the fees payable to P.G. Lodge shall be increased in the case of initiations from three to five shillings, and in the case of joining members from one to three shillings. Such grants as may be considered desirable will be made to the "Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund," and the "Great Masonic Charities," after which a Treasurer, Secretary, and two Auditors to the former will be elected. Bro. Hughan has likewise given notice, on behalf of the committee appointed to revise the bye-laws of the local Masonic A. and B. Fund, that certain alterations and additions thereto will be made in accordance with the recommendations of the Committee. Two annuitants will next be elected to local Annuity Fund. After dedicating the Masonic Hall of Dunheved, Lodge No. 789, to Masonic purposes, the P.G.M. will nominate and invest his officers, a P.G. Treasurer and two Auditors will be elected, and likewise a Committee of Relief. The remaining business having been disposed of, the P.G. Lodge will be closed. A banquet will be served at 3 p.m., at the Central Subscription Rooms. Tickets—price five shillings, exclusive of wine—may be obtained at the King's Arms Hotel, of Bros. Chegwidden and T. Gill, or of the P.G. Stewards. Special arrangements have been made with the Great Western and Cornwall Railway Companies for the conveyance of members at single fares, available for the return journey, from the 4th to the 7th, both inclusive. A special train will leave Truro for Launceston at 5.50 a.m. on the 8th prox.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Surrey, will be held at the Town Hall, Farnham, in the county of Surrey, on Tuesday, the 10th July, at 2 P.M.

At the Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge of Scottish Freemasons in all India, held on the 28th April, at the Masonic Hall, Khumballa Hill-road, Bro. Henry Morland Grand Master, who presided, announced his intention of resigning the office he had held so many years. The announcement was quite unexpected, and was received with general expressions of regret, Bro. Turner, on behalf of those present, giving utterance, in a few but well chosen sentences, to this feeling, Bro. Morland, without attempting any interference with members, very strongly recommended as his successor, Bro. Macintosh Balfour, Deputy Grand M., from whom he had received such valuable assistance. It was resolved, in the course of the meeting, to make the P.G. Secretary a monthly office allowance for the future. Full particulars of the communication will be found in the Masonic Record of Western India for May.

The Grand Commandery of Tennessee held its annual Conclave at Memphis on the 3rd and 4th instant. The following, according to the Masonic Jewel, are the Grand officers for the ensuing year:—Sir Knights Ed. R. T. Worsham G. Commander, Wilbur F. Foster Dep. G. Commander, Geo. C. Connor G. Generalissimo, Joseph H. Fussell G. C. General, Will. A. Nelson G. Prelate, W. D. Robinson G. Sen. Warden, Benj. F. Haller G. Jun. Warden, N. P. Woodward G. Treasurer, Morton B. Howell G. Recorder, W. P. Robertson G. Standard Bearer, W. H. Albers G. Sword Bearer, and A. C. McKissick G. Warder. The next annual Conclave will be held at Nashville, early in May 1878.

The Right Hon. Lord Londesborough V.E. Provincial Prior of North and East Yorkshire (K.T.) will hold a Provincial Priory, under the banner of the Ancient York Conclave of Redemption, at Hull, on Thursday evening next, the 28th inst. This is the first meeting since the appointment of his lordship, who is a P.E.P. of the Ancient York Preceptory, No. 101.

The first regular meeting of the Eboracum Conclave, No. 137, of the Order of the Red Cross of Constantine, of the consecration of which we gave an account a few weeks since, will be held at York on the 5th prox.

The Voice of Masonry for this month contains an essay, entitled "Lights and Shadows," by Bro. J. R. Hardy, Dist. Dep. G.M., 14th Dist. Mo., before Charity Lodge, No. 331, of St. Joseph Mo., and an article headed "A Masonic Glance at Pennsylvania," written for the Bauhütte by Bro. Richard Bartholmess, and translated by Bro. A. Roesler. Both these, and, indeed, the contents generally, are in every way worthy of the high reputation the Voice has so deservedly obtained.

The Freemasons' Repository announces that the eighty-seventh Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island was held in Masons' Hall, Providence, on the 21st ult. Bro. Nicholas Van Slyck, M.W.G.M., presided, and some two hundred brethren were present. After the usual address, the election of Grand Officers was proceeded with, Bro. Van Slyck, who has held the office of Grand Master for a term of four years, vacating the chair. A successor was found in the person of Bro. Charles R. Cutler, who was accordingly installed M.W.G.M., while the following were chosen and invested as officers, namely, Bros. E. L. Freeman D.G.M., T. Vincent and W. J. Underwood Senior and Junior Grand Wardens, Nelson W. Aldrich Grand Treasurer, E. Baker Grand Secretary, A. Greene and James M. Davis Senior and Junior G. Deacons, John B. Pierce and Sam T. Whipple Grand Stewards, Rev. Henry W. Rugg Grand Chaplain, Sam. G. Stiness Grand Marshal, and Edward W. Brunsen Grand Sword Bearer. It was stated that dispensations had been issued during the past year for four new Lodges, namely, Nos. 31, 32, 33, and 14; the last being a re-issue. All these were working admirably, and gave promise of realising the expectations formed of them. The jurisdiction is divided into five districts, each of which is governed by a District Deputy Grand Master. We note also, with pleasure, that it is in contemplation to publish the Proceedings of this Grand Lodge from its Constitution down to the year 1860. Unfortunately, it seems the materials for a complete record are not likely to be forthcoming. Still, it will be an advantage to have those that still exist made public.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Friendship Chapter, No. 100.—A regular Convocation of the above Chapter was held at the Town Hall, Great Yarmouth, on Monday, 18th June. The circular calling the meeting, showed a heavy amount of work, as, in addition to the installation of officers, no less than nine brethren were announced as candidates for exaltation. The following Companions were installed as officers for the ensuing year:—Comps. James Bond M.E.Z., Bonfellow H. Martins J., A. Hanlon P.Z. S.E. and Treasurer, E. B. Wright S.E., R. W. Hubbard P.S., Fowler and Hammond A.S., F. W. Rolfe Organist, the ceremony being carried out by our veteran Comp. H. J. Mason P.Z. The following brethren were then exalted (each of the officers just appointed performing his work in a creditable manner)—Bros. G. H. Cooper W.M. 71, James Tennant, Rev. H. J. Bode, G. F. Crane, John J. Harvey, and A. D. Stone, jun. Comps. Wrightson, Stratherne, and P. Glover were ballotted for and accepted as joining members. In addition to the foregoing, the following Companions were present:—G. L. Chipperfield P.Z., J. G. Franklin P.Z., J. F. Maybank, Hudspeth, Cattermole, Fisk, Fenton, Stanier, Owles, Etheridge, Captain Dods, Swan and others. The Companions adjourned to the Crown and Anchor Hotel, where a most recherché banquet awaited them, served in the well-known style of Comp. Franklin and his wife, after which a most enjoyable evening was spent under the genial sway of Comp. Bond Z.

Domatic Lodge, No. 177.—The committee of this Lodge met on Wednesday, the 20th inst., at Anderton's Hotel. Bro. James Willing jun. W.M. occupied the chair. The meeting was convened for the purpose of arranging for a Summer Festival, which, on former occasions had cemented the bond of friendship between the members. The committee decided that it should be held on the 12th or 13th of July, at the Castle Hotel, Woodford, and deferred their final resolution until satisfactory details should be arranged. Bro. G. Everett P.M. was selected to provide the music, the brethren present fully appreciating the former services rendered by him. Bro. J. E. Walford C.C. P.M. proposed a cordial vote of thanks to Bro. James Willing jun., for occupying the chair. This was seconded by Bro. J. Ambrose, and supplemented by all present. It was announced that gentlemen's tickets would be 7s 6d, and ladies 6s 6d each. Those present comprised Bros. Buscall J.W., J. E. Walford P.M., M. Haydon P.M., H. Potter P.M., Williams Sec., Pinbey Assist. Sec., W. Harriss I.G., Tims, Beard, Jennings, Holt, &c.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held its regular weekly meeting on Saturday, the 16th of April, at the Jolly Farmer's, Southgate-road, Islington. Present—Bros. Killick W.M., Gibbs S.W., Powell J.W., Halford Treas., Brasted S.D., C. Lorkin J.D., J. Lorkin I.G., Pearcy Preceptor. Business—The Lodge was opened in the usual manner, and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed, with the traditional history, Bro. Reid acting as candidate. The W.M. worked the 1st and 3rd sections of the lecture. Bro. Gibbs was appointed W.M. for the evening week.

Jordan Lodge of Instruction, No. 201.—The usual weekly meeting took place on Tuesday last, at the Devonshire Arms, Devonshire-street, Bro. Albert Marvin in the chair, Bros. Ockenden S.W. and Secretary, Errington J.W., Reed S.D., Hiscox J.D. and Treasurer, Fox I.G., and other brethren. The Lodge was opened in the three degrees, and closed down to the 1st. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Emmanuel being candidate. Bro. Wood worked the 1st and 2nd sections of the 1st lecture assisted by the brethren. Bro. Marvin (who was only initiated some three months since) was rewarded with a hearty vote of thanks for the very efficient manner in which he had performed the ceremony and filled the chair, and the same was ordered to be recorded on the minutes. Bro. Ockenden was elected W.M. for the next meeting. The supper proposed for the 26th inst. has been postponed. This Lodge meets every Tuesday, at 8 p.m.

The Frederick Lodge of Unity, No. 452.—Among the numerous Lodges it is our privilege, and likewise our pleasure to visit, there is not one where a more cordial reception is given us than at the Frederick Lodge of Unity. In this Lodge the Past Masters ever take a most active part in the conduct of affairs, and any candidate for the Master's chair well knows that his chance is but a poor one unless he is prepared to exhibit a thorough knowledge of the Ritual, and has given assurance that his duties will be carried out thoroughly and efficiently. Tuesday last was appointed for the installation of the W.M. for the year 1877-78, and though it is customary on these occasions to do as little work as possible, the agenda paper was an exceptionally heavy one. It comprised three raisings, two passings, one initiation, and the installation of the W.M.; in addition, also, there were several questions to be discussed. The chair was taken by Bro. John Walter Sugg, who was supported by Bros. George Wright S.W., A. T. Jeffery J.W., P.M.'s Magnus Ohren and James Robins Secretary and Treasurer respectively, whilst Bros. Edmands and Pawley were the Deacons. After the Lodge had been regularly opened and the minutes read and confirmed, the W.M. proceeded to raise Bros. Cousins, Pugh and Scott. The ceremony of passing followed, the candidates for the second degree being Bros. Hunter and Brattle. The ballot was then taken for Mr. Daniel Richard Wise, and it being declared in that gentleman's favour, he was initiated into the mysteries of Ancient Freemasonry. All these ceremonies were capitally performed by Bro. John Walter Sugg. The ballot was then taken for the admission, as joining members, of Bros. the Rev. James Amos, Lodge of Unions, No. 256, and William George Batchelor, J.D. Wellington Lodge, No. 548. It proved successful, and it was notified to those brethren that they had been elected members. Bro. P.M. Masterman, acting as Director of the Ceremonies, then introduced the Junior Warden, Bro. Arthur Thomas Jeffery, as W.M. elect, and Bro. Sugg completed the duties of his year of office by installing his successor, performing the task in a highly satisfactory and impressive manner. On the re-admission of the brethren, the customary salutations were given and the W.M. invested his officers: George Wright S.W., Charles Henry Edmands J.W., Magnus Ohren P.M. Sec., Jas. Robins P.M. Treas., Charles Pawley S.D., Edwin H. Sugg J.D. and Organist, John Walter Sugg P.M. D.C., George Robins and J. C. F. W. Rogers Stewards, Frederick A. Manning I.G., C. F. Speight Tyler. After the delivery of the customary addresses, Bro. J. W. Sugg referred to the intimation, made in an earlier part of the evening, by Bro. H. E. Frances, that, owing to that brother's other engagements clashing with the days fixed for the meetings of the Frederick of Unity, he should be compelled, reluctantly, to sever his connection with that Lodge. Bro. Sugg spoke in terms of praise of the services rendered by Bro. Frances to the brethren, and concluded a highly eulogistic speech by proposing that Bro. H. E. Frances be elected an honorary member. This was seconded by Bro. Magnus Ohren, put to the Lodge, and unanimously assented to. The Auditors' report showed the funds of the Lodge were in a flourishing condition, and that there was a goodly balance in hand. A notice of motion was given that the Joining Fee be increased to £5 5s. An elegant jewel was presented to Bro. John Walter Sugg, whose services in the chair during the past year were spoken of in the most flattering terms. After a reply from Bro. Sugg, terse and well to the point, a letter was read from Bro. Baber, regretting that illness prevented his attending Lodge. A sum of £5 5s was voted to the fund for presenting a testimonial to Bro. Charles Greenwood P.M., Prov. G. Sec. for Surrey. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a capital banquet, provided by Bro. J. P. Budden. After ample justice had been done to the good things provided, the W.M., Bro. A. T. Jeffery, gave the customary loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Magnus Ohren responded for The Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master, the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, and the Provincial Grand Officers Present and Past. He said it was a pleasure to all who attended Provincial Grand Lodge to see how well the duties were performed. Lieut.-General J. S. Brownrigg, the Provincial Grand Master, has many cases to inquire into, and to adjudicate upon, both in reference to Lodges and individuals. He invariably exhibits the capabilities of a thorough man of business. He had stated that he wished the brethren of his Province to understand he could not make them all Wardens, and under these circumstances he hoped they would consider all appointments as of value. Bro. Ohren urged that in proof of this, their esteemed Prov. Grand Master had placed one of his own sons in a subordinate position. Their Lodge was well represented among Past Prov. Grand Officers, and he thanked all present for the hearty way in which the toast had been received. Bro. Wise, in replying to the toast of the Initiate, remarked that he had come amongst them as a stranger; the reception he had met with had gratified him. Though he could not add any new lustre to the Craft, he would never do anything to dim its glory. The W.M., in speaking to the toast of the Visitors, gave them, on behalf of the Lodge, a hearty greeting. They had seen the working of the I.P.M. He (Bro. Jeffery) hoped to tread in his footsteps, and so keep up the character of the Lodge. Bro. Spooner, on behalf of the Visitors, acknowledged the compliment. The health of the W.M. was given in an excellent speech by Bro. J. W. Sugg, and acknowledged by Bro. Jeffery. The other toasts comprised the P.M.'s, the Joining Members, the Secretary and Treasurer, and the Officers of the Lodge, to each of which responses were made. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings of the day to a close. Amongst the Visitors we noticed Bros. Bull, Jekyll, Spooner, Thomas Hunter, W. W. Morgan, Leeper, H. Massey, &c., while the P.M.'s of the Lodge, in addition to those we have already mentioned, were represented by Bros. William Sugg and Arthur J. Dickinson. During the evening some capital songs were given by Bros. Magnus Ohren, W. Sugg, G. Robins, Methven and C. M. Ohren. Bro. E. H. Sugg, as accompanyist, rendered excellent service; while the talents of Bro. Jekyll were also impressed, to the advantage of all who listened to his performance.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Tuesday, the 19th June, at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney. Present—Bros. W. J. Smith W.M., Dallas S.W., Johnson J.W., E. T. Worsley Sec., Saunders S.D., Davies J.D., Wallington P.M. Preceptor, Christian I.G. Bros. Lorkin, Dandy, Barker, Allen, Perry, Webster, Saunders 860, &c. The Lodge was opened with solemn prayer. The minutes read and confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree. Bro. Danby having answered the necessary questions, the Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, when the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Dandy acting as candidate. Bro. Wallington gave the traditional history. Bro. Allen worked the 1st section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. James of Lodge 198 was unanimously elected a member. Bro. Dallas was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation; this will be the first time of his taking the chair. We were pleased to hear him say that he had worked himself up, and intended to do the first ceremony. We hope he will be supported by his old friends; with the assistance of the able Preceptor of this Lodge of Instruction, they will have a pleasant evening; the officers who will assist, are well up in Masonry, so that nothing will be wanting to make things agreeable.

Rose of Denmark Lodge, No. 975.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Friday, the 15th of June, at the White Hart Hotel, Barnes, Surrey. Present—Bros. W. H. Lee P.M. 1524 W.M., W. R. Phillips S.W., G. Waggensworth J.W., C. A. Smith P.M. Treas., James Garner S.D., F. A. Riches J.D., John Noble I.G., J. Gilbert Tyler. Past Masters Bros. J. H. Tyler, G. I. Edmonds, and E. W. Clarke; Bro. Buss Asst. Grand Sec. (honorary member). Visitors—Bros. Somers I.P.M. 1602, Winslow 859. The Lodge having been opened in due form, and the minutes of the preceding meeting read and confirmed, ballot was taken for three candidates for initiation. These proved favourable, and Messrs. Matthews and Perigal, being in attendance, were initiated into Freemasonry. The W.M., having undertaken to represent the Lodge at the ensuing Festival of the Boys' School, made an appeal to the brethren for their support. Five guineas was placed on his list, in the name of the Lodge. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to a cold collation, after which the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. In the course of the evening Bro. Buss, Assistant Grand Secretary, was warmly congratulated on his recent promotion. Bro. Somers P.M. 1602 responded for the Visitors, Bro. Smith for the P.M.'s, and Bro. Phillips S.W. for the Officers. The Tyler's toast brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 13th of June, at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present—Bros. Edward Margrett W.M., A. Welch S.W., T. Newman Steward acting J.W., W. P. Ivey P.M. Secretary, J. T. Stranson Treasurer, J. Early Danks S.D., W. Ferguson J.D., E. J. Blackwell I.G., W. Hemmings Tyler; P.M. Bro. R. C. Hurley; and Bros. Hilder, Hukins, Hammett, Pulley, Rhind, Hawkes, Pricket, and Hunt. Visitor—Bro. C. E. Hawkes 414. Business—The Lodge was opened in the 1st degree. The minutes of the last regular Lodge were read and confirmed. The election took place for a Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. Bro. Arthur Welch S.W. was declared to be elected, the announcement calling forth the acclamations of all the brethren present. The S.W. thanked the brethren for the honour which they had done him, in raising him to the position of Worshipful Master elect. He should endeavour, during his year of office, to discharge his duties in such a manner, as that he hoped the tradition of the Grey Friars Lodge would not greatly suffer. With regard to the Ritual, he was sure that it would be the ambition of them all to perform the ceremonies fluently, accurately, and impressively. He (the W.M. elect) was afraid that in the ceremonial portion he should compare very unfavourably with his predecessor, and should be considered a far less advanced Masonic Ritualist. (Laughter.) As to the Masonic Charities, it had been the pride and the privilege of the Grey Friars Lodge to render substantial aid to those Institutions, and he felt convinced that the members of the Lodge would not be less generous in the future than they had been in the past. Furthermore (and this was the point which he considered the most important of all), he was sure that the members of the Lodge would cultivate and maintain a thorough Masonic spirit, a genuine sentiment of fraternal regard the one for the other. Unless that spirit and sentiment continued to prevail in the Lodge, its Ritual, however perfect it might be, would lose its meaning, and even their gifts to the necessitous or the afflicted would be bereft of much of their merit and their grace. He was persuaded, however, that they would keep alive the Masonic spirit, and such being the case, they had every guarantee that the next year in the Lodge's history would in all respects prove to be both pleasant and prosperous. (Cheers.) Bro. Stransom was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Hemmings Tyler; each returned thanks. The Secretary was directed to write a letter of condolence and sympathy to the widow of Bro. Thomas Phillips, deceased. The Treasurer moved, and the W.M. seconded, that a new set of collars be provided by the installation meeting. Bro. Hurley P.M. moved (in congratulatory terms) that a P.M.'s jewel be presented to the W.M., on his retirement from the chair, this the W.M. elect seconded. All business being ended, the Lodge was closed and adjourned.

Lebanon Lodge, No. 1326.—On Saturday, the 16th inst., at the Red Lion, Hampton, the regular meeting was held. Bro. E. Gilbert the W.M. in an efficient manner, raised Bros. W. Priddy, and S. Page; initiated W. Butler, J. Maxwell, and W. Kay. The elections were unanimous in favour of Bro. C. W. Fox S.W. being the W.M.; S. Wickens P.M. Treasurer, (re-elected for the fifth time); Bro. J. Gilbert P.G.T., Tyler (re-elected for the eighth time). Bros. H. Gloster, W. Stanton and W. R. Vassila were elected auditors in addition to those provided for by the bye-laws. The usual seven guinea Past Master's jewel, on the motion of Bro. F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex P.M., was unanimously voted to Bro. E. Gilbert W.M. for his efficient services rendered to the Lodge. Ten guineas was voted from the Lodge funds to the Boys' School. Several gentlemen were proposed for initiation. The Lodge was closed and adjourned to Saturday, 21st July, to meet at two o'clock. After business, came the banquet, which was well and efficiently served. The usual Loyal toasts were given and responded to. The Visitors were—Bros. E. Beckwith 1423, Scott 1656, T. Ockenden 1512, H. T. Murphy 1512, &c. There were present besides those mentioned, Bros. J. Hammond P.M. S.D., J. C. Woodrow P.M. Assist. Sec., J. W. Baldwin P.A.G.P. Middlesex P.M. I.G., J. T. Moss P.P.G.R. Middlesex P.M., W. Hammond P.G.D. Middlesex P.M., and several others.

Falcon Lodge, No. 1416.—On Thursday, the 14th instant, the Archæological Section, accompanied by the Rev. W. C. Lukis, M.A., F.A.S., of Wath; E. C. Camidge, M.A., of Thirsk; L. G. Maine, M.A., of Sowerby; J. Cornforth, M.A., of Ripon, &c., &c., visited the picturesque village and neighbourhood of Coxwold. After a passing notice of Shandy Hall, for several years the residence of the Rev. Laurence Sterne, on their arrival at the village they were most cordially received by the Vicar, the Rev. O. Scott, M.A., J.P. The church, dedicated to St. Michael, is in the perpendicular style, with octagonal tower, and contains monuments of the Bellasyses, Earls of Fauconberg; a panelled ceiling, and some interesting relics of stained glass. Thence they proceeded to Byland, situated in the midst of charming scenery. The chief ruins are those of the Abbey Church, transition Norman, A.D. 1177, but of the monastic buildings only the foundations can be seen. The Society expressed a very earnest desire that the contemplated work of clearing, and exploring the ruins should be speedily and efficiently carried out. The same evening, the regular meeting of the Lodge was held, when there was a large attendance of members and visiting brethren, viz., Bros. G. Anderson W.M., G. Ayre S.W., T. J. Wilkinson J.W., W. Coltman Sec., Rev. E. C. Camidge P.G.C. West Yorkshire, W. Hall S.D., R. Musgrave J.D., R. Atkinson I.G., J. Lee, J. Johnson, Z. Wright Org., J. S. Walton P.P.G.S.B., J. Walton, H. Masterman, R. H. Brodrick, C. Greensides, A. C. Marr, J. H. Gilling, Dr. Paley W.M. De Grey and Ripon 837; J. W. Bishop P.M. 837, T. R. Mountain S.W. 837, Rev. W. C. Lukis J.W. and Chap. 837, J. Colley Sec. 837, E. J. Crow Mus. Bac. St. John 279 P.M. P.P.G.S.D. Leic., W. McConochie 837, Rev. J. Cornforth 837, F. J. Smith 837, J. W. Bishop jun. 837, W. Storks 837, &c. Mr. Eusebius Richardson, ballotted for at the last Lodge, was initiated, the W.M. working the ceremony, and the Rev. Bro. Lukis, in his most effective manner, giving in full the lecture on the First Tracing Board. After the business had been concluded, the brethren proceeded to the banqueting room, where an excellent and abundant collation had been provided by the W.M., as a welcome to the visiting brethren of the De Grey and Ripon Lodge, who had come in response to a special invitation; it being the pride of the Falcons to seek to cultivate the most fraternal relations with the neighbouring Lodges. The usual toasts were given and acknowledged, and when the time for parting came, it was felt that all the circumstances of the day had been of the most enjoyable character.

Era Lodge, No. 1423.—The regular meeting of this prosperous Lodge was held at Hampton Court on Saturday, 9th June. Bro. E. H. Thiellay P.G.S.B. Middlesex P.M. 145 W.M. presided. Mr. John Bartlett was initiated. Bros. W. Swindlehurst, F. F. Beard, and E. Woelcke were raised to the sublime degree of Master Masons. On motion made by Bro. T. J. Sabine P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex P.M. S.W., and seconded by Bro. J. Baxter Langley I.P.M., it was unanimously resolved, "That a letter of congratulation be sent to Bro. R. W. Little on his appointment as D.P.G.M. Middlesex." Following in the wake of what has been done in other Lodges, although the Era Lodge was one of the first in the Province to solicit and recommend the R.W.P.G.M. Middlesex, Bro. Col. F. Burdett to confer the office of D.P.G.M. Middlesex on Bro. R. W. Little. These and other acts show how popular this appointment is in the Province and the great respect Bro. R. W. Little holds in the estimation of all who know him. Notice of motion was given to vote ten guineas to the Burdett Testimonial Fund, which amount will be supplemented by the donations among the members, the W.M., Bro. E. H. Thiellay, proving his earnestness by heading the list with five guineas, and many others giving their guineas. Several gentlemen were proposed for initiation, and apologies received from absent candidates. Business ended, the Lodge was closed. There were present—Bros. T. J. Sabine P.M. S.W., E. W. Devereux J.W., F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex P.M. Sec., S. Wolff S.D., A. F. Loos J.D., B. Wright Assist. Sec., J. W. Baldwin P.A.G.P. Middlesex P.M., J. T. Moss P.P.G.R. Middlesex P.M., W. Hammond P.G.D. Middlesex P.M., J. Baxter Langley P.M., and several others. Amongst the Visitors we noticed Bros. A. Hagon 145, W. Etheridge 829, T. B. Gibb 34, T. G. Tagg 1326. After banquet, the usual Loyal toasts were given and responded to, that of the R.W.P.G.M. Middlesex coming in for the lion's share of applause and appreciation. After a few well-spent hours of enjoyment, the members separated and returned to town.

Felix Lodge, No. 1494.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held at Teddington, on Saturday, the 16th inst., Bro. Francis Bradley Archer W.M. in the chair, supported by Bros. W. G. Moore P.M. S.W., T. S. Archer J.W., F. Sumner Knyvett P.M. P.G. Steward Treasurer, Edward B. Grabham P.M. Prov. S.G.W. Middlesex Secretary, E. A. Woolley S.D., H. R. M. Belward I.G., George Hancock P.M. P.P.G.D. Somerset D.C. Visitors—R.W. Colonel Burdett, Provincial Grand Master Middlesex, Bros. A. H. Lilley P.M. 12, T. L. Fox P.M. 19, Dr. William O'Connor P.M. 28, J. B. Sorrell P.M. 176, F. Rath P.M. 534, S. Carey 901, and many others. The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. Mr. Henry George Bevington and Mr. William Rose, F.R.C.S., were ballotted for and duly initiated by the W.M., after which Bro. W. G. Moore P.M. was presented for installation, the ceremony being exceedingly well rendered by Bro. Knyvett P.M. The W.M. appointed the following as his officers:—Bros. F. B. Archer I.P.M., T. S. Archer S.W., Woolley J.W., Knyvett P.M. P.G. Steward Treas., E. B. Grabham P.M. P.S.G.W. Middlesex Sec., Kingsmill S.D., Belward J.D., Sadler I.G., Geo. Hancock P.M. P.P.G.D. D.C. The Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was presided over by the W.M. The usual Loyal toasts having been honoured, the health of Bro. Colonel Burdett was drank, with much enthusiasm. He, in responding to the toast, expressed his satisfaction with all that he had seen of the working of the Lodge, and announced his intention of paying another visit on the completion of the new Lodge room. Bro. Archer, in proposing the health of the W.M., gracefully alluded to the satisfactory manner in which Bro. Moore had filled all the offices in the Lodge, and predicted him a very happy year of office. The W.M., in responding to the toast, said he felt sure, from the exceedingly kind way in which the I.P.M. had proposed his health, and the hearty response given to it by the brethren, that his year of office would be to him a labour of love, and, in emulating the good example of his predecessor, he hoped to retire from the chair retaining the good opinion of all the members. He had now a very pleasing duty to discharge, and that was to present to Bro. F. B. Archer a very handsome Past Master's jewel, in recognition of the eminent services rendered to the Lodge during the past year, and as a slight mark of the high esteem in which he is held by every member. The past year has been a very prosperous one for the Lodge, and this was in a slight degree due to Bro. Archer, whose year of office had been a very arduous one. The toast was warmly received. Bro. Archer suitably acknowledged the toast, which had been so feelingly proposed by the W.M. The jewel which had been presented to him that evening would always remind him of the kind way in which his services had been received by the Lodge, and his endeavours would always be for its continued prosperity. Bro. A. H. Lilley P.M. 12 responded for the Visitors, and Bro. T. S. Archer S.W. for the Officers of the Lodge. The Tyler's toast then brought the evening to a close, and most of the brethren returned to town, after the enjoyment of an exceedingly pleasant evening.

Llanidloes Lodge, No. 1582.—The first anniversary of this Lodge was held at the Trewythen Arms Hotel, Llanidloes, 13th June. The Lodge assembled at two p.m., when the W.M. Bro. Collender P.M. 998, and Prov. A.D.C. North Wales and Shropshire, assisted by his officers, Bros. W. A. Davies S.W. (W.M. elect), J. Kitto J.W. and Hon. Sec., Edward Hamer P.M. 1072 Treasurer, J. H. Webb as S.D., J. Hughes J.D., W. Russell Past Prov. D. of C. I.G., opened the Lodge. The ballot was taken for Messrs. Hugh Lumley and Hugh Lewis, as fit and proper candidates for Freemasonry; it proved unanimously in their favour, and they were admitted and initiated in ancient and solemn form. The report of the Audit Committee was read and confirmed. Lodge was then advanced to the second degree, and Bro. D. P. Owen P.M. 998 presented the W.M. elect to the W.M. to receive from his hands the benefit of installation. Lodge was opened in the third degree, and a Board of Installed Masters being formed, Bro. Collender proceeded with the ceremony of installing Bro. Davies as W.M. of the Llanidloes Lodge. The brethren were admitted, and saluted in the several degrees, and the W.M. appointed the following as his officers:—Bros. John Kitto S.W., W. H. Williams J.W., John Hughes S.D., W. Russell J.D., J. Davies Secretary, Hugh Jones Treasurer, W. H. Webb I.G., J. Trewin Tyler. Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren retired to a sumptuous banquet, prepared for them by Bro. Russell. In consequence of the trains being very inconvenient, the brethren had to disperse at 7.30, thus bringing a very enjoyable day to an early close.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—A certain remedy for diseases of the skin. Ringworm, scurvy, scrofula, or king's evil, sore heads, and the most inveterate skin diseases to which the human race is subject, cannot be treated with a more safe and speedy remedy than Holloway's Ointment and Pills, which act so peculiarly on the constitution, and so purify the blood that these diseases are eradicated from the system, and a lasting cure is obtained. They are efficacious in the cure of tumours, burns, scalds, glandular swellings, ulcerous wounds, rheumatism, contracted and stiff joints. These medicines operate mildly and surely. The cure effected by them is not temporary or apparent only, but complete and permanent.

A. OLDROYD,

Agent for Algerian Cigars, and Importer of Havana and Continental Cigars,

LEYTON, LONDON, E.

THE NEW REGISTERED CLOCK BAROMETER.

Height, 27 inches; Width, 10 inches.

INDISPENSABLE in every House, and undamageable by heat or damp.

Price (securely packed) £3 3s.

THE case is metal bronzed (the design being beautifully brought out), and forms a striking ornament for the dining room, hall, library, counting-house, &c.

THE CLOCK goes 12 days, striking hours in full, and one at each half hour, and is a sound movement, keeping accurate time. White enamel dial and crystal glass.

THE BAROMETER is Aneroid, the kind which from its convenient size, precision, and non-liability to injury, has come into such universal requirement.

THE THERMOMETER is graduated to both the Fahrenheit and Reaumur scales.

THE NEW REGISTERED CLOCK BAROMETER is also made same in all respects as above, but with a cylinder movement, of superior quality, jewelled in six actions, going and striking equally well in any position, so as to be suitable for Travelling and Ship's Use, as well as for all the above purposes.

Price (securely packed) £4 4s.

SPECIAL CAUTION.

OWING to the marked success of this medicine, the only purest medicine universally prescribed by the faculty, and the acknowledged cure for constipation, headache, bile, hæmorrhoids, &c., RARE IMITATIONS, containing drastic irritants, are being foisted on the public. The genuine preparation bears the title "TAMAR INDIEN," and the signature K. GRILLON, Coleman-st., London, E.C. Price 2/6 per box. In a recent case, 1876, G. No. 211, a perpetual Injunction to restrain the defendant from applying the name "TAMAR" to his lozenges was awarded, with costs, by Vice-Chancellor Bacon, on 19th January 1877, and all such piracies will be summarily prosecuted accordingly.—N.B.—See that the outer wrapper (directions) are printed in the English language, and that each box bears the Government 3d stamp. The boxes with foreign wrappers are not prepared for English requirements

RUPTURES.

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS

is allowed by upwards of 800 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of Hernia. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided, a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and looseness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep.

A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post on the circumference of the body two inches below the loins being sent to the manufacturer,

Mr. JOHN WHITE, 228 PICCADILLY, LONDON.

Price of a single Truss, 16s, 21s, 26s 6d & 31s 6d. Postage free. Price of a Double Truss 31s 6d, 42s and 52s 6d. Postage free. Price of an Umbilical Truss, 42s and 52s 6d. Postage free. Post Office Orders to be made payable to JOHN WHITE, Post office, Piccadilly.

NEW PATENT

ELASTIC STOCKING KNEE CAPS, &c., for VARICOSE VEINS, and all cases of WEAKNESS and SWELLINGS of the LEGS, SPRAINS, &c. They are porous, light in texture, and inexpensive, and drawn on like an ordinary stocking. Price 4s 6d, 7s 6d, 10s and 16s each, post free.

CHEST EXPANDING BRACES (for both sexes.) For Gentlemen they act as a substitute for the ordinary braces. For children they are invaluable; they prevent stooping and preserve the symmetry of the chest. Prices for children 3s 6d, 7s 6d and 10s 6d; adults 13s 6d and 21s, post free.
