THE

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. V.—No. 105. SATURDAY, 30th DECEMBER 1876. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

OUR FIFTH VOLUME.

WE open the FIFTH VOLUME OF THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE in a period pregnant with great events, and characterised by unusual doubt, apprehension, and uncertainty. The political horizon is overcast with clouds, and the most weather-wise observers are baffled in their attempts to pierce the surrounding gloom, and discover some indication of our probable whereabouts and destination. At one time the talk is all of imminent war, of legions marshalling in arms to oppose legions as vast, of the deadly and undying hatred of hostile races and rival creeds, of the failure of diplomacy, and the final departure of its agents and ministers. A moment after we are told, that peace is almost certain, that the negociations are progressing as favourably as one could wish, that powers suspected of cherishing warlike designs are exhibiting unexpected magnanimity and moderation, and that a few days more will bring relief to the present pent-up condition of public feeling by the completion of a real and satisfactory settlement of the questions in dispute. In the meanwhile, by the proclamation of our Sovereign as Empress of India, on the first day of the new year, England declares to all the world that she will suffer no aggression in this or any other of the lands under her dominion; and that while she covets not the possessions of her neighbours, and desires to live on terms of amity and brotherhood with them all, she is prepared and resolved to maintain her position, whenever and by whomsoever it may be menaced.

Amid such grave and portentous subjects of interest, while Nations seem tottering to their fall, and the lives of perhaps a million human beings hang upon the word of a single despot, "the whisperings of our petty burgh," the scraps of intelligence indicating the vitality and constant growth of our Order appear, by comparison, insignificant. Yet are they not so. By and bye these vexed questions between Russian and Turk will be laid at rest and forgotten; whilst Freemasonry will only have become the stronger, and its roots and branches more widely spread, for the lapse of time. The principles of the Craft, like the first principles of religion, are planted too deeply in the human heart to be ever uprooted. And whilst the spread of education will only add to the number of our brethren throughout the world, we may hope that it will ultimately render impossible the gusts of passion and deadly hatred which now, from time to time, sweep over the earth, scattering ruin and desolation in their path.

The Four Volumes of the CHRONICLE which have now been issued contain a record, as full and accurate as we could make it, of a most important epoch in the History of the Craft. During that period, the number of Masonic Lodges in England has been largely augmented; on the Continent a like vitality has everywhere been apparent, more particularly in France, Germany, and Italy; whilst in the Western World, Freemasonry has advanced with giant strides. For ourselves, we have ample reason for self-congratulation. The constant and increasing favour shown to the CHRONICLE are an evidence that our efforts to uphold the standard of the Fraternity, and to afford a trustworthy record of its proceedings, have not been without success. We ask our readers for a continuance of their sympathy; and to the Craft in general we look with confidence for increased support and consideration. If we are not prodigal of promises for the future, it is because we feel that the best guarantee of our devotion to Freemasonry is to be found in the Four Volumes of the CHRONICLE already issued. With resolve unimpaired and hope unchecked, we enter undismayed upon the labours and responsibilities of a FIFTH VOLUME.

NORTHERN LIGHTS.—No. I.

A GRAND LIGHT.

CONSIDERING the energy that the men of the "North Countree" impart to everything they undertake, it is no wonder that Freemasonry should flourish amain in the North East Corner of our tight little Island. Its geographical position is singularly appropriate for the foundation of our institutions, and the brethren seem to be devoted heart and soul to the ancient customs and established usages of our mystic order. Certainly nowhere under the broad rule of the united Grand Lodge of England is Masonry making more progress. The sons of "Northumbria's bleak shores" are second to none, not only in the solid support they give our Great Charities, but in the practical manner in which all provincial concerns are managed. Little is known of the great amount of good work done, for these canny men of the North are not given to trumpet forth their deeds, and, wonderfully enough (in these days), rather eschew publicity, and evince a singular desire not to appear in print. It is a positive fact that very many of the brethren shrink from having any Masonic proceedings reported. Like the Eastern sage, their motto is, "Say little, and do much." Here also, strange to relate, testimonials and presentations are all but unknown, brethren, after filling the highest offices in Lodge or Chapter, work their hardest in the cause of charity, do their utmost for the welfare of those over whom they preside, and further the interests of the Craft generally, by establishing new Lodges and Chapters; never looking for a higher reward than the pleasure of doing their duty, and receiving the approbation of their fellows. No doubt in all this they are behind the South, yet still it is not to be regretted, for the funds, in consequence, are generally in a flourishing state, and ready for any emergency, and when needed they are dispensed with a lavishness well worthy of emulation. Who shall say how much of this prosperity, this good management and general wellbeing is due to the kindly influence of the genial nobleman who is at the head of the Province, and than whom a brighter Masonic light scarcely shines? An exalted position, a historical name, for centuries entwined in the affections and linked with the fortunes of the county, a liberal hand, and a manner so winning that all are charmed by it, have doubtless done much to cement and knit the brethren of the Province together.

Had our Right Worshipful Brother been born to less exalted fortunes, his love of the Craft, together with his great Masonic ability, must have placed him in the foremost ranks of our Order. The manner in which he performed his duties when W.M. of the Alnwick Lodge, No. 1167, was as surprising as it was gratifying; to see one so highly born evince such knowledge of real working Masonry, and the instruction he then imparted to those who were fortunate enough to be members, will never be forgotten, for it has been instrumental in creating a body of officers who can hold their own against all comers. Many remember, with pleasure, the lucid explanations he was wont to give the initiates and candidates for the several degrees, on many points of our Ritual and History that are too often left untouched, and how much light he threw on what otherwise would have been but dim obscurity. Happily for the Craft in general, our R.W. brother is still young, and will, no doubt, in years to come, add to his already great Masonic services. That these have been appreciated is proved, not only by his present position as Prov. G.M., but also by his having filled the exalted office of Grand Mark Master Mason of England.

In the outer world he is as popular as within the inner circle of Freemasonry. Heir to princely estates, he is beloved by his tenantry, from the highest to the lowest; and the interest he takes in the welfare of the vast army of the labouring classes dwelling about him, and the efforts he is continually making to improve their intellectual and sanitary condition, by identifying himself with every movement of real progress, indicates him as one who will infallibly make his mark in the history of this great Empire. In the House of Commons, no member creates a more favourable or lasting impression, or commands greater attention and respect to any subject he speaks on. Proud indeed, and with just cause, are the brethren of Northumberland of their Provincial Grand Master.

BRO. CAUBET ON A RECENT SPEECH BY OUR GRAND SECRETARY.

IT will be within the recollection of our readers that last month, at the Consecration of the Crichton Lodge, our respected Grand Secretary, Bro. Hervey, in his speech as Consecrating Officer, referred pointedly to the recent action of the Grand Orient of France, and the contemplated elision from Article I. of its Constitutions of so much as contained a declaration of belief in the existence of God and the immortality of the soul. Bro. Hervey further expressed his opinion, not officially, but as an individual member of Grand Lodge, that the time might not be far distant when the Grand Lodge of England would find it necessary to impose certain restrictions as to the admission of foreign Masons into the Lodges under its jurisdiction, so far at least, as to exclude all such as did not believe in the existence of a Supreme Being. In reference to this Consecration and the speech of Bro. Hervey, Le Bien Public, of the 17th ult., appears to have drawn attention to the remarks of the speaker as illustrating the sense of disquiet entertained in England, at what it decribes "as in some measure the anti-religious movement" among our French brethren, and the probability that it may sap the very foundation of the fundamental principles of Universal Freemasonry. In the current number of Le Monde Maçonnique occurs an article by Bro. Caubet, one of the secretaries of the Council of the Grand Orient, in which he comments on this statement, and the event which gave rise to it. This article being an apology for the present conduct of French Freemasonry, or perhaps we should say, an explanation of the particular amendment proposed during the last Session of the Grand Orient, we feel it to be our duty to reproduce it in extenso.

"We cannot," says Bro. Caubet, "at the moment when the Lodges under the jurisdiction of the Grand Orient are on the eve of taking into their consideration the proposed revision of Article I. of our Constitutions permit the foregoing statement," in Le Bien Public, "to pass without rectification. The suppression, or rather the contemplated suppression of the second paragraph of Article I. can in nowise be described as the outcome of any anti-religious movement. Freemasonry—we have repeated it a thousand times, and shall only cease repeating it when everbody sees it clearly, and it has become stale news—Freemasonry is a society purely moral in its character, in which may be admitted all free and reputable men, whatever their opinions, political, religious or philosophical, may be. It is not a narrow-minded sect, but, on the contrary, the highest and noblest expression of perfect liberty of conscience. Now, the second paragraph of Article I. of the Constitutions, which declares that Freemasonry has for its fundamental principle the existence of God and the belief in the immortality of the soul, has again and again served as a pretext for manifestations of opinion essentially sectarian. In some Lodges free and reputable men have been rejected on the sole ground that they did not resolutely affirm these articles of faith. The reception into the bosom of our Society of a man who is one of the noblest of our country and of the present age, the reception of the illustrious Bro. Littré has aroused numberless protestations, because, in the extreme rectitude of his conscience, Bro. Littré would only affirm and proclaim what he knew was true and demonstrable, and because he maintains a respectful reserve on all hypothetical questions about beginning and end.

"Such protestations were not only a scandal, but likewise exhibited an utter contempt for the true spirit of our Institution. It is to put an end to these that the proposed modification of Article I. was taken into consideration at the last General Assembly of the Grand Orient of France. The question is not one involving any anti-religious Manifestation, for Freemasonry would not lend itself to such a proceeding; it is simply one of assuring and guaranteeing, within the limits of our Association, absolute respect for liberty of conscience. It is also a question having for aim to assure the peace of our Society by removing every pretext for theological or metaphysical discussions, which only divide us, as is super-abundantly proved by the discussions that arose in the Scotch Rite, after the Lausanne Congress, by reason of the definition laid down by that assembly of the attributes of the Great Architect of the Universe, and now again by the speech delivered at the consecration of the English Lodge Crichton by Bro. Hervey, which our readers will have noted in a previous page. Intolerant people, who consider every manifestation of liberty of conscience is but an outrage on their faith, will assuredly exclaim loudly against our purpose; but what matter? Formerly, they abused our mystic formulæ, now they reproach us because we wish to suppress them from our ritual. But, again, what matters it? We have nothing in common with them, and their bitterest criticisms in no wise affect us. It were impossible to be, at one and the same time, of the opinions expressed by our brethren and by liberal-minded organs.

That our English brethren should be mistaken as to our intentions afflicts us most profoundly; but that is in a measure explained, the moral atmosphere in which they live being essentially different from ours, and their conception of liberty of conscience being generally limited by such interpretations as the Bible affords.

"As for those journals which are truly liberal in their views, we should deeply regret to see them fall into any misunderstanding on this point, and unconsciously allow themselves to become nothing more than mere echoes of those numerous and angry recriminations in which our eternal enemies indulge. Under these circumstances we cannot too strongly advise them to distrust appearances, and not to launch into polemics till they have obtained a thorough knowledge of the subject in dispute."

THE DRAMA.

Christmas Programmes—Covent Garden.

AN unusual number of novelties have been crowded round the Christmas season this year. To be sure, some of them are not of the highest order of merit, and others are only quasi-novelties—revivals of pieces that had almost been forgotten. Si Slocum at the OLYMPIC may be taken as a specimen of the first class, and Hunted Down and The Invisible Prince at the GLOBE as samples of the second. Si Slocum strikes one as being more suited for a circus than a theatre. The Frayne family are very clever, and their speech is of the purest American order, but, as the late Mr. Tomlins remarked on a memorable occasion, "This is not the drama." Mr. Edgar Bruce deserves our thanks for the revival of Planché's burlesque, especially as it affords that excellent actress Miss Jennie Lee a further opportunity for the display of her talents. The theatres which have retained their programmes unchanged are the HAYMARKET (Dan'l Druce), the PRINCE OF WALES'S (Peril), the ST. JAMES'S (London Assurance), and the ADELPHI (Shaughraun).

COVENT GARDEN, of course, heads the list of Pantomimes. In magnificence of effects, in heartiness of fun, and in excellence of acting, Mr. Rice's production merits the first place. The subject of the pantomime, which by the way, is the work of Mr. McArdle, is our old friend Robinson Crusoe. Considerable liberties have been taken with the story as related by Defoe, but the result is a thoroughly amusing piece, with plenty of ludicrous situations and laughter-promoting lines. Amongst other absurd incidents, we may mention one that occurs on board Crusoe's ship. The sailors take to fishing, and succeed in landing an enormous shark. From the maw of this voracious beast, a number of extraordinary things are produced, amongst them the missing Gainsborough and Crusoe's wife. The pantomime is capitally acted by Messrs. Wallace, Furneaux, Cook, Augustus Glover, and Mesdames Pauline Markham, Nelly Bouverie and Rosalli; the scenery of Mr. Telbin is beyond all praise.

We will conclude our remarks on the Christmas novelties next week.

ORDER OF PROCEEDING AT LODGES OF INSTRUCTION.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I can hardly understand a Lodge of Instruction finding itself in the difficulty described by Bro. Ockenden. Surely one among the brethren present might have been found equal to the emergency. Why was it not proposed to suspend the standing orders for the occasion, and then open in a higher degree? There would then have been no fear of censure. Or, perhaps, the W.M., or another brother, might have volunteered a short exposition of the ceremony. It would have been in keeping with the work assigned by the bye-laws for the particular evening, and, better still, would have been somewhat of a change from the monotony that attends travelling over the same ground again and again without any variation whatever. We need this relief occasionally.

Yours fraternally,

VIATOR.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—My numerous engagements of late have precluded my giving the attention I desire to this correspondence, but I shall be glad if you will, by insertion of this letter, assure "Vigilant," and other brethren interested, that I have not "lost sight of, nor exhausted the subject."

I will write further as soon as opportunity is afforded me; meanwhile, if other pens were employed in promoting the discussion, so that the opinions of several might be ascertained, with a view to arrive at a just decision in respect of the variations already referred to, it would materially assist the discussion.

Yours truly and fraternally,

JAMES STEVENS, P.M., P.Z.

Clapham, 28th December 1876.

MASONIC QUERIES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I shall feel greatly obliged to any Brother who will answer the following questions:—

1. Why is no provision made in the Constitutions for filling the vacant chair when any officer, from S.W. downwards, dies, or otherwise withdraws during his year of office?

2. What is the usual practice in the oldest Lodges under such circumstances?

3. "The Tyler may be removed at any time by a majority," &c. Can a successor be appointed in the same way?

4. The W.M. is entitled to three TAUS on his apron. Is it ignorance or design that constantly attaches them upside down, so as to look like three levels?

5. What is the origin and date of the Ritual employed in opening a Board of Installed Masters?

23rd December 1876. W.M.C.L.

It has been justly said that the Granville Hotel at St. Lawrence-on-Sea is the establishment par excellence of all the hotels in the country, in fact, we might say, in the whole world. It is a residence combining all the luxurious domesticity of wealthy English life, with the manifold conveniences of an hotel. Originally planned for a terrace of magnificent private mansions, the Granville has been made into an hotel, and families may enjoy within its walls the delights of home comfort, and partake of the intellectual and fashionable amusements of the age, without leaving the grounds which surround the vast building. In winter, the climate of Ramsgate is especially pure, bracing and delightful, the more so from comparison with the dinginess and smokiness of the Metropolis, and we cannot imagine a greater treat for the jaded City or professional man than a run down to this bright and really picturesque little sea-port, with a stay at the Granville Hotel for some days. For such delightful excursions, the South-Eastern Railway and the management of the hotel have combined to offer unusual facilities, by arrangements for a special private express to run, every Friday afternoon, to Ramsgate, in two hours, returning every Monday. So short a railway journey is not an onerous undertaking, even for an invalid, and, considering the wonderful sanitary arrangements of the establishment, its facilities for baths of every description, its faultless cuisine and magnificently furnished suites of apartments—each a luxurious home in itself—it is certain that many persons would benefit far more by a winter's residence in the Granville than by going to a foreign country, worn out and exhausted by a fatigning journey, which only lands them in a warmer clime, where more than half the comforts of English home life are unknown.

ROYAL VETERANS PRECEPTORY, PLYMOUTH.

A regular meeting of this Preceptory was holden on Tuesday, 19th inst., at the Huyshe Masonic Temple, Plymouth. Present—E. Sir Knights Charles Godtschalk P.P.G.D.C. Preceptor, J. Watts P.E.C. P.P.G.T., V. Bird P.E.C. P.P.G.B.B. Reg., J. Austin P.E.C. P.P.G.E. Treasurer, T. Heath, J. B. Gover P.P.G.T. Con., L. D. Westcott P.P.P.G.C.L. Prelate, S. Jew P.G.T., Marshal, J. H. Keats C. of G., Jas. J. Covery Sub Mar., J. P. Rogers, H. A. Arnold P.G.O. Organist, H. F. Hearle P.P.G.E., F. P. Holmes, T. Smith. The Preceptory having been opened in ancient form, and the call of muster roll over, the minutes of last meeting, on the 19th September, were read and confirmed. Apologies from the following Fraters were read and accepted, Sir Knights J. Harris P.E.P., Hiffey P.E.P., and Browning. Comp. John James, already incepted, was then announced, and received his initiate. The ceremony of installation and investment was most impressively performed by the E. Preceptor Sir Knight Godtschalk, whose zeal for and knowledge of the Order was never better displayed than in his admirable working in this exalted degree. The further business of the Preceptory was to elect the E.P. and Treas. for the year ensuing. Sir Knight Charles Godtschalk E.P. on rising, remarked, He should avail himself of the privilege of nominating a firm and staunch friend, in private life; an able and thoroughly hard working Mason, whether in Lodge, Chapter or Preceptory, one who did his work with love for the true interests of Masonry; one who not only worked with talent and skill in the various degrees, but who was closely identified with the Masonic Charities of our Province, in the real interests of which he was ever ready to work. He therefore proposed their esteemed Brother Sir Knight J. B. Gover as Eminent Preceptor for the ensuing year. This proposition being seconded by Sir Knight L. D. Westcott, was put to the ballot, which was unanimous. The Treasurer, Sir Knight Austin P.E.P., being proposed and seconded to retain that office, received the united votes of all present, added to which came the thanks of the Preceptory, freely expressed, for the able manner he had, for so long, carried out the duties of his office, to the well-being of the Veterans Preceptory. Sir Knight J. B. Gover, Constable of the Preceptory, expressed his deep sense of the honour conferred by the Sir Knights, by their unanimous election of himself to fill the chair of Eminent Perceptor, giving his heartfelt thanks, and stating it would be his special privilege to maintain the reputation and position the "Veterans" had earned for their Preceptory. The Treasurer, Sir Knight Austin P.E.P., in giving a few words of thanks for the honour of election and the kindly sentiments of all present towards himself, stated that what he had done in the past would, to the best of his ability, be repeated in the future. Upon the suggestion of Sir Knight J. Watts P.E.C., supported by Sir Knight Charles Godtschalk, who severally detailed what had taken place at the last meeting of Convent General, on 8th December last, in London, at which meeting certain resolutions were carried in reference to the words "Masonic," "First and Second Captains," "Post Rank," &c., and urging energetically upon all Sir Knights who had the right of voting in Convent General, the necessity and advisability, even at personal inconvenience to themselves, to be present and record their votes in favour of those resolutions being confirmed. The Preceptory having been closed, the Fraters retired, after a most successful and pleasant meeting.

ABDUCTION OF WILLIAM MORGAN.—In the year 1826, a painful circumstance occurred, which for awhile created a panic. Masonic societies had for some time existed in the United States to a very considerable extent; but it was not generally supposed that there was anything objectionable in their character. A man, however, named William Morgan, living at Batavia, in Genesee County, New York, conceived a dislike to these associations, and, knowing something about their organisation, announced his intention of publishing a book which should disclose what he called the secrets of Freemasonry. On Monday, 11th September, this man was taken from his home, under pretence of a criminal process, conveyed into Ontario County, a distance of fifty miles from his domicile, examined, and discharged. In the evening he was again arrested on a charge as frivolous as the first, thrown into goal by the persons who had taken the original proceedings, once more discharged, and immediately afterwards once more seized—this time in the obscurity of night. The last arrest had a much more alarming character than the two former. The man was gagged, bound, and forced into a carriage, which was rapidly driven off. In this way he was conveyed a hundred miles without interruption, and, as relays of horses were prepared along the whole line of road, it was evident that his abduction was the result of an organized scheme. It came out in subsequent inquiries that Morgan was carried towards the Canadian frontier, where he was lodged within the walls of an unoccupied fort. What ultimately became of him has never been clearly known. He mysteriously disappeared, and although it could never be proved that he was murdered, it is not easy to avoid the conviction that he met his death by treachery and violence. It is supposed that he was taken in a boat by night to the Niagara, and there drowned. A body, thought to be that of Morgan, was subsequently found below Fort Niagara; but it was impossible to identify it, and, notwithstanding that the Legislature of New York passed an Act ordering a strict investigation of the subject, and some Freemasons were charged with murder, a conviction could not be obtained. The report of the New York Committee of Investigation confirmed the general suspicion that the unfortunate man had been assassinated, and the agitation of the public mind was so great that it was proposed to exclude Freemasons from office. An anti-Masonic party was formed, which, having in a few years spread over several States, held a convention at Philadelphia in 1831. This party endeavoured to influence the elections, but, after a brief period of activity, collapsed and disappeared.—From "Cassell's History of the United States."

Early History and Transactions of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York, 1781—1815. Published by authority of the Grand Lodge. Granted to Kane Lodge, No. 454, June 1874. Parts VI. New York: Masonic and Miscellaneous Publishers, No. 2 Bleecker-street D Sickles and Co., Managers 1876.

THIS further part of this valuable history contains several records of considerable importance or interest. At the outset we read that at the meeting of Grand Lodge held on the 4th of June 1800, the Grand Secretary announced that Union Lodge, Albany, acknowledged the jurisdiction of New York Grand Lodge, that a warrant had been delivered to the W.M. of said Lodge, on promise that the warrants should be delivered to the Grand Secretary, and that the rank and number of the Lodge would be regulated in accordance with the date of the first warrant issued by Provincial Grand Lodge of New York, on 21st February 1765. On 16th the same month the report of the Special Committee appointed to consider the present Constitution, and report any amendments or alterations that might be deemed expedient presented their report, which was read, when it was unanimously resolved that the Code of Laws, as amended and altered, should be referred to the consideration of the subordinate Lodges, and, if two-thirds of them signified their approval, then the new code should immediately come into operation as the Constitution of the Grand Lodge. At the same meeting it was unanimously resolved that the Grand Chaplain should be decorated with a jewel appropriate to his office. At the meeting held on the 3rd December of the same year, the question of ratifying the new Constitution came under consideration, and on noting the returns made by sundry of the Lodges, it was found that only seventeen were in favour of the ratification, while twenty-five were for its rejection, either wholly or in part. After some debate, it was carried, that, as the requisite two-thirds majority of the Lodges had not voted for its acceptance, the proposed code should be held to have been rejected. On the 4th of March 1801, it is minuted that "A person alleging himself to be a Mason of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania applied for admittance, but, not being known to or vouched for by any member present, his admission was refused." At the meeting on 3rd of June, it was announced that Grand Master Robert R. Livingston, having accepted the post of Minister Plenipotentiary to the French Republic, would shortly depart on his Embassy. Grand Lodge, accordingly, proceeded to the election of a successor, and the result was that Colonel Jacob Morton, Deputy Grand Master, was unanimously elected, and at once proclaimed as Grand Master. A resolution was also unanimously passed, appointing a committee for the purpose of conveying to M.W.G.M. R. R. Livingston the thanks of Grand Lodge for the valuable services he had rendered to Freemasonry in New York during the term of his Grand Mastership, as well as an expression of deep regret that Grand Lodge was thus deprived of his superintending care, and further requesting his acceptance of a Past Grand Master's Jewel as a slight token of their esteem and respect. At a Grand Lodge of Emergency on the 15th June the G.M. Livingston expressly attended for the purpose of installing his successor; but the address he delivered occupied so much of the evening that the ceremony of installation was of necessity postponed, and Bro. Livingston deputed R.W. Bro. John Lawrence to perform the ceremony in his stead. Accordingly, Col. Jacob Morton was installed with the usual formalities on the 25th June, in the presence of a large assembly of grand officers and brethren. We read that G.M. elect and R.W. Bro. John Lawrence, the installing Grand Officer, "were received at the entrance of the building by the body of Knights Templar, dressed with the insignias (sic) of their order, and with drawn swords, who conducted them into the Lodge and to the seat." The ceremony of installation was then proceeded with, and after a brief address, the Grand Master installed his officers, according to ancient usage. After another address from the Chair, and the appointment of a committee to consider the best method of procuring a suitable apartment for the meetings of Grand Lodge, Grand Lodge was closed. At a meeting on the 11th July, held in consequence of the death of Bro. R. J. Vandenbroeck, Past Grand Secretary, it was resolved to bury the deceased brother with Masonic honours, and the funeral took place accordingly the day following, in the French Church burial ground, the Rev. Bro. Ireland, Grand Chaplain, delivering an appropriate address over the grave. At the meeting on the 2nd September, a committee appointed to investigate a complaint made some time previously respecting the incautious admission of visitors by Lodge l'Union Francaise, No. 14, reported that the Lodge was not aware of having done anything of the kind, and would ever continue to exercise the utmost caution in receiving applicants for admission. Several instances, however, were mentioned by different brethren, in which the Lodge had shown laxity in this respect, and a committee was thereupon appointed to acquaint Lodge No. 14 with the information conveyed to Grand Lodge, and to request greater vigilance in the future. On the 2nd December the Grand Master announced that he had appointed Bro. Edward Livingston, Mayor of New York, to be Deputy G.M., and his installation was fixed for St. John's Day next ensuing. The report of the committee appointed to present a P.G.M.'s jewel to Bro. R. R. Livingston, together with the reply of thanks from that distinguished brother, were then read, and ordered to be recorded on the minutes. Notice of motion was then given that no Mason be permitted to appear in Grand Lodge or any of its processions in other than the distinguishing clothing, or with other ornament than those of a Master Mason, as conferred on members of that degree by the Constitutions of Grand Lodge. It was then resolved that the Lodges in the jurisdiction be recommended to associate and dine together as a Grand Lodge on the approaching festival of St. John. On the 4th of the month Bro. E. Livingston was installed as Deputy Grand Master, after which ceremony the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to Little's Hotel, where an elegant entertainment had been provided.

On the 10th of February a most important communication was read in Grand Lodge, from Apollo Lodge, No. 49. This communication included a circular letter from the chairman of the joint committee of Union, Masters, and Temple Lodges, Albany, inviting other Lodges in the neighbourhood of that city to join in securing the removal of Grand Lodge to Albany, as being the seat of Government of the State of New York, and, therefore, more appropriate for the meeting of Grand Lodge. Several reasons were assigned for this action of the aforesaid Albany Lodges, among them being dissatisfaction with the system of proxies in force, and the engrossment by New York brethren of all the important offices in Grand Lodge. On receipt of this invitation, Apollo Lodge expressed its resolution, to the effect that the proposed transfer of Grand Lodge to Albany would effect no salutary change, and determined to report the matter forthwith to Grand Lodge. Upon this the Grand Lodge passed a resolution, thanking Apollo Lodge for its loyal conduct, and a further resolution warning the Lodges in the northern parts of the state against the impropriety of the joint committee of the three Lodges, the latter being also summoned to appear and answer for their conduct. On the 3rd March, the motion as to Masonic clothing, of which due notice had been given the December previous, was rejected, by a large majority. On the 14th May, a series of resolutions proposed by the committee appointed to deal with the question of suitable Grand Lodge premises, together with an alternative proposition, were submitted to Grand Lodge. The former proposed the issue of six hundred shares of twenty-five dollars each, which should be offered to brethren on sale, or exchange for notes payable to Grand Treasurer, or order, at six, nine, or twelve months. When a sufficient number had been sold, a site should be purchased, and a contract for the building at once entered into, the property so acquired being conveyed to trustees, who should be bound to appropriate it only to Masonic purposes; the rent received from Grand Lodge and other Lodges having accommodation to be distributed among the stockholders. These resolutions were agreed to, and a committee of seven appointed to see them carried into execution.

On St. John's Day 1801 (should be 1802), Grand Lodge went in procession from Adams's Hotel to Trinity, in accordance with a resolution agreed to the 2nd June. Ceremonies of the day were opened by the Grand Chaplain, with a prayer suited to the occasion, after which an eloquent and appropriate oration was delivered by Bro. Washington Morton, of Howard Lodge. A collection having been made on behalf of the Society for the Relief of Distressed Persons, and the Society for the Relief of Poor Widows with small children, to be divided in equal moieties between the said societies, "the Grand Officers proceeded from the Church, escorted by the Knights Templar, with drawn swords, to Lovett's Hotel, where the Grand Lodge and brethren spent the residue of the day in harmony and festivity." On the 1st September, warrants were granted, on petition, and recommendations presented for the following Lodges:—Military Lodge, Manlius, County of Onondaga; Phœbus Lodge, Norwich, County Chenango; Friendship Lodge, Stephenstown, County Rensselaer; Hiram Lodge, Plattsburg, County Clinton; and Erin Lodge, City of New York. A form of Masonic certificate was submitted by a brother, for the approval of the Grand Lodge, which resolved to recommend it to the Lodges under its jurisdiction. In the minutes of Grand Stewards Lodge of 24th November, it is noted that a sum of twenty-eight dollars, paid by the Grand Secretary for two boxes of cigars, furnished at the dinner of Grand Lodge on the last Festival of St. John the Evangelist, is to be allowed him on his account with Grand Lodge. On 15th of December, a reply, by Grand Secretary, to a communication received from a Convention of Lodges at Albany, was read, approved, and ordered to be transmitted, the said Lodges being required to appear and answer "concerning their un-Masonic conduct in holding the said convention without the knowledge or sanction of the Grand Lodge." On 2nd March 1803, "a communication from John Mitchell, of South Carolina, styling himself K.H.T.R.S., Sovereign Grand Inspector General of the thirty-third degree of Masonry, and Grand Commander in the United States of America, was presented and read;" the said letter being referred to a committee for report. On the 1st June, six petitions were granted for warrants to hold as many Lodges, namely:—Vernon Lodge, Hilldale, County Columbia; Columbia Lodge, Claverack, same county; Mount Moria Lodge, Palmyra and Philips, County Ontario; Revival Lodge, Windham, County Green; Constellation Lodge, Mayfield, County Montgomery; and Charity Lodge, Worcester, County Otsego. Another petition was referred to the Grand Officers, and yet another was rejected. On the 8th of the month, the Grand Master with his Grand Officers and a large assemblage of P.M.'s, W.M.'s, Wardens, and brethren, assembled in St. John's Hall, when the ceremony of consecrating the Lodge-room was carried out, according to the ancient usages and customs of the order. On 7th of December, a dispute between Hiram and Adelphi Lodges, as to priority of right of meeting in St. John's Hall, was referred to a committee. On 26th January 1804, Bro. Martin Hoffman was appointed D.G.M. vice Bro. E. Livingston resigned—his installation to take place on a day fixed by the G.M. A petition for a warrant recommended by Union and Masters Lodges, Albany, was ordered to stand over till said Lodges had discharged their arrears of dues. Two Masonic certificates, found among the papers of a deceased English brother—one signed by the Master and Wardens of Lodge No. 25, held at Liverpool, England, and the other from Grand Lodge, Ancients, signed by "ROBERT LESLIE Grand Master, and EDWARD HARPER Grand Secretary," were presented by a brother to Grand Lodge, and ordered to be destroyed. On 7th March petitions for Warrants were granted to hold the following Lodges:—Malta Lodge, Saratoga, Co. Saratoga; Bethlehem Lodge, Bethlehem, Co. Albany; and Albion Lodge, City of New York. Three other petitions for Warrants were referred to the Grand Officers. At a Grand Lodge of Emergency, on 27th April, some very irregular proceedings in Union Lodge, Albany, respecting the election of officers the December previous, were reported to G.L. by the aggrieved brethren who had been elected and installed officers of the Lodge on the 20th December, the said election being declared void at a meeting held the 26th of the month, and a new choice of officers made. Thereupon Grand Lodge unanimously ruled that the election of the 20th December previous was constitutional and regular, while that of the 26th was illegal, unconstitutional, and void. Accordingly, the officers regularly elected and installed should resume the execution of their duties. This is the last minute of any importance, the last record in this Part VI., under date 30th May 1804, relating to Grand Stewards Lodge, and minuting that as "no brethren attended excepting the Deputy Grand Master and Grand Treasurer," who did not by themselves constitute a quorum, "no business was transacted." However, the W.M. of St. Andrews Lodge attended before the above brethren had departed, and paid over to the G. Treasurer dues to the amount of twenty-one dollars.

Here endeth the sixth portion of this strange, eventful history.

NOTES OF AMERICAN TRAVEL.

DR. A. M. Robertson, of St. John's 3 bis, lately delivered a lecture to his Lodge, detailing some of the incidents he encountered, and describing the scenes he visited during a tour through the greater part of the United States. He has published those Notes, and they prove that with keen observation he combines a ready pen. The delivery of such lectures in a Lodge prove the advance that the Craft is making, as it is much better for the brethren, after the regular work is over, to listen to discourses that tend to enlarge the mind and improve the understanding, rather than to devote them—as our adversaries sometimes accuse us of doing—to the pleasures of the bottle, or "the singing of trashy songs." Not that such things often occur, but the outside world think they do, and the publication of a few descriptive passages from Dr. Robertson's pages, as delivered by him, may help to disabuse the mind of those who take up current Masonic literature for the purpose of trying to find fault with our ceremonies, while we are at labour, or our mode of passing the time when at refreshment.

THE MAMMOTH CAVE, KENTUCKY.

After describing the nine miles ride, over a route which he says is only by courtesy called a road, he arrives at the Cave, and the guide lights the lamp, which the strong current of air make it difficult to carry. "The atmosphere inside is wonderfully pure and invigorating, so as to do away with the lingering effects of the rocky ride. Several years ago the value of the place, as a residence for consumptives, was tested, but the want of natural light proved fatal, and the experiment has never been repeated. The main cave extends for six miles, being in some parts 100 feet high and 300 wide; one of the avenues leading from it is called the Rotunda, it has had its vicissitudes. The ground here is saturated with nitre. Many years ago a saltpetre manufactory was established here, of which the ruins still strew the floor. Here, too, fifteen years ago, cottages were built for consumptive patients, and they still remain uninjured, either by the lapse of time or the ravages of decay. A little further on, a smaller hall was pointed out as the Methodist Church; devotional services were really carried on for some time; the pulpit was a ledge of rock 25 feet high, and the logs for seating the congregation still retain their old positions. The roof and walls are varied; in some places as flat and level as art could make them, in others beautifully vaulted and arched; some are pure white in colour, and others perfectly black; in some cases black and white appear side by side, forming fancied resemblances to beasts, birds and men; but the most beautiful effects are produced by the exuding from the roof, of liquid, impregnated with various salts and lime. These form crystals, sometimes as corrugated pillars, rocks and alabaster flowers, and are termed stalactites, sometimes they rise from the floor and proceed upwards, these are termed stalagmites."

* * * * *

"The Star Chamber has a ceiling composed of black gypsum, studded with innumerable white spots. The guide takes away all the lamps, and, descending behind a rock, leaves all in absolute darkness. He then, from his concealed position, throws the light on the vaulted roof. For a moment every one imagines that he is gazing up into the heavens, and that he sees innumerable stars shining on him through the darkness. The guide then passes something over the lamp, and a heavy cloud is seen slowly crossing the sky, thus completing the illusion, and making one imagine that a storm is approaching. He then proceeds further away, through a subterranean passage, to a lower cavern. In a minute he reappears, a great distance off, and slowly approaches, raising the light as he advances, and the visitor stands watching the dawn of a new day, and the rising of the sun."

* * * * * * * *

"Proctor's Arcade, named in honour of the proprietor, is the most magnificent natural tunnel in the world. It is 100 feet wide, 45 feet high, and nearly a mile in length; the ceiling is perfectly smooth, the walls are vertical, and present the appearance of having been chiselled out of the solid rock. When lighted up with a Bengal light, it is magnificent beyond description. At Wright's Rotunda, another light shows forth that chamber in all its grand proportions. It has a ceiling of 400 feet span, without a single pillar to support it; from this point seven avenues branch off.

We must not follow the doctor through all the intricacies of this stupendous piece of Nature's handiwork, but must content ourselves with quoting two more short passages:—

"No place, no castle, ancient or modern, can rival in beauty or in grandeur these halls and corridors of the Mammoth. There is a never ending variety; on one side we have lofty domes, on the other bottomless pits. Now we come upon the murmuring brooks and leaping cascades, and to 'roaring rivers.' The most magnificent dome is 250 feet, and is viewed from a terrace 40 feet from its base, at the left of it are five large Corinthian columns, cut out of the solid rock. The awful sublimity of the scene when strongly illuminated, exceeds any thing ever pictured by a mind frenzied by opium or hasheesh. Many of the chambers have stories attached to them, one has even a romance:—In Gothic Chapel there was once married a young lady. She had a true lover, but inexorable parents, who bound her by a solemn oath never to marry him, on the face of the earth. The young lady fulfilled the letter of her vow, for she descended into the earth,—and here, in Gothic chapel, married the man of her choice. No description—even the most detailed and minute—can impart the feeblest conception of the immensity, the grandeur, the awful sublimity that is revealed at every step. One hundred and fifty avenues have been explored, estimated to extend to above 100 miles. Yet we are told there are hundreds of other avenues that have never been entered. The shortest route that visitors are taken, occupies five hours in travelling—the longer one twelve hours. The impression produced on the mind by such a marvellous work of Nature's rearing will never be effaced while life lasts. One comes away with a more humiliating feeling of his own feebleness and smallness, and with a more profound sense of the wondrous nature of the power by which he is surrounded. But another feeling mingles with this, and takes from it its sting: 'Man is not the servant but the interpreter of nature,' and is raised by virtue of his worth and intellect above the blind forces that work around him."

SEGONTIUM LODGE, No. 600, CARNARVON.

Much interest was excited on Thursday, 14th inst., by the attendance of the Freemasons in full costume at the funeral of the late Bro. Thomas Williams, foreman in the shop of Mr. Lewis Lewis, draper, Bridge-street, Carnarvon. He died suddenly, after a very brief illness, and being highly esteemed by the brethren of the Segontium Lodge, in which he was a junior Officer, a large number of the fraternity assembled to pay him the last mark of respect in their power. The Lodge having been duly opened in the Castle, the brethren marched two-and-two to Bridge-street, the van being led by two officers with drawn swords, while the rear was brought up by four Past Masters bearing the Holy Bible on a cushion, with the W.M. in close attendance behind. In this order they headed the long procession through the town to the cemetery at Llanllyfni, where the W.M., standing at the head of the grave as chief mourner, was permitted, by the kind courtesy of the authorities, to recite the special Masonic office customarily used at the interment of a deceased brother. The ceremony being concluded, the brethren returned in the same order, when the Lodge was closed in due form.

NOTHING TO DRINK.—It may be said of many persons that it is almost literally the case they have nothing to drink, or nothing that they can drink with a regard to either their constitutions, safety, tastes or pockets. Certain persons have their choice of beverages limited by order; this person dare not drink beer; that cannot take sherry or port; another touches claret or hock, champagne or Moselle at a perilous risk to health; cider or perry must be eschewed by many, and water in several localities is strictly tabooed; but there are many people who may have all these beverages, and a thousand others into the bargain, if only they can afford to buy them—and so on ad infinitum. We have said enough to show that, at all events, at the dinner table this cry of "Nothing to drink" is by no means uncommon, and experience teaches us that the classes uttering it with most reason are persons with delicate constitutions.

It is, however, a remarkable fact that, ever since the existence of "Merrie England," we have had, growing in luxuriant abundance at our very feet, what, if carefully selected and judiciously and properly used (instead of being misused, as is generally the case), would be a remedy for this state of things. In the midlands,— there abounds an almost inexhaustible supply of cowslips, and from these, it is now an established fact, can be produced a light, delicate, wholesome and slightly sparkling wine, especially adapted and highly recommended for the above-mentioned classes. Particularly in Leicestershire do cowslips abound and attain the necessary degree of perfection for the production of wine, and we are glad to bear testimony to the fact that Messrs. Mott and Co., of Leicester, after much study and scientific application, are enabled to offer to the public, at the moderate price of 16s a dozen, wine which far exceeds, in excellence and medicinal properties, the cowslip wine generally made.

"When the breath of English meadows
Is fragrant on the breeze,"

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—It is indisputable that the dark and dreary days of winter depress the mind and disorder the body, the most certain precursors of sickness, which will assail those who disregard, at such times, the all-predominative necessity of purifying, regulating and strengthening the various organs of the body, whose functions are deranged. Holloway's remedies present the most safe and effectual means of attaining these ends. They cleanse the blood from any taint, the body from every noxious matter, and exert such a general good effect on the system, that indigestion, biliousness, headache, dimness of sight, loss of appetite, debility and nervousness disappear under the influences. These pills may be relied upon by both sexes, under all climates and circumstances.

GRAND MASTER

Of the Most Antient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of England.

SEND GREETING.

WHEREAS, it appears by the records of our Grand Lodge, that a Warrant bearing date 1st of April 1777 was issued, under the Seal of Masonry, enabling certain brethren therein named to open and hold a Lodge of Freemasons at the sign of the Cock, in the Town of Barnsley, in the county of York, which Lodge was afterwards removed to the town of Dewsbury, in the said county, and was then No. 199, and which Lodge, in consequence of the Union of the two Fraternities of Freemasons on the 27th day of December 1813, became, and is now registered in the books of, the United Grand Lodge No. 247, and now meets at Honley, in the county of York, aforesaid.

And we do enjoin you to make such bye-laws for the government of your Lodge as shall to the majority of the members appear proper and necessary, the same not being contrary to or inconsistent with the general laws and regulations of the Craft, and a copy whereof you are to transmit to us. And we do require you to cause all such bye-laws and regulations, and also an account of the proceedings in your Lodge, to be entered in the book to be kept for that purpose. And you are in no wise to omit to send to us or our successors Grand Masters, or to the Right Honourable Lawrence, Lord Dundas, our Deputy Grand Master, or to the Deputy Grand Master for the time being, at least once in every year, a list of the members of your Lodge, and the names and descriptions of all Masons initiated therein, and brethren who shall have joined the same, together with the fees and monies payable thereon, it being our will and intention that this our Warrant of Confirmation shall be in force so long only as you shall conform to the laws and regulations of our said Grand Lodge. THINGS WORTH REMEMBERING.

From the Masonic Advocate.

THE present month, of all others of the year, is the most important as affecting the welfare of the Craft generally. The election of officers for the ensuing year, in all the Lodges, occurs during this month, at the last stated meeting previous to the anniversary of St. John the Evangelist, 27th December. Every experienced Mason knows that the prosperity of a Lodge depends very much upon the character and ability of those who are chosen to rule over it, and hence there is no act that a member is called upon to perform that carries with it results of more vital interest to Masonry than when he deposits his ballot for one of its principal officers. As the chief officer, the Worshipful Master holds the station of first importance, and, as is generally the case, there being but a few members who are eligible to the place, it is most difficult to fill with just the right man. Having made the best choice that can be had under the circumstances, the election of the Wardens, next in order, is of scarcely less importance, for they are thus made eligible to the higher position. They should not only be competent to serve in the South or West, but should possess those peculiar qualifications necessary to preside in the East. Never lose sight of the fact that from among those who have served as a Warden, must come the future Worshipful Masters of the Lodge.

For Treasurer, vote for a brother whose word is as good as his bond. For Secretary, elect a good business man; one who is a good collector, and one who can attend regularly all the meetings of the Lodge. His office is really next in importance to that of the Worshipful Master. If the balance of the officers are to be elected, vote for those best qualified for their respective places, and always for those who are most regular in their attendance. Vote for no one simply because he wants an office, or because he is thought to be a good fellow, for such qualifications alone do not make an efficient officer. Let him earn the position first, by giving evidence that he possesses the necessary qualifications, or has the zeal to acquire them if elected. Above all, beware of those who are seldom seen in the Lodge-room, except on election nights, or immediately preceeding them, for the chances are that their chairs will be often found empty. Do not accept an office yourself when not qualified to fill the place, unless you intend to qualify yourself at once, nor then unless you will be so situated that you can generally attend the meetings of the Lodge during your term of office.

If you have no official position, remember that the officers, however well qualified, can accomplish but little without the hearty co-operation of the members. Give them your earnest support at all times, and be ready to perform such duties as may fall to your lot whenever called upon.

INSTALLATION MEETING OF THE BRITISH UNION LODGE, No. 114.

THE regular meeting was held on Thursday, 28th December, at the Masonic Hall, Ipswich, when the installation of the W.M. elect took place. The V.W. Grand Secretary of England, Bro. J. Hervey, having accepted an invitation to be present, and to act as Installing Master, a very large number of members of the Craft attended. Amongst those present were—The V. W. Grand Secretary, Bros. J. Hervey, Rev. J. J. Burton W.M., Rev. J. B. Tweed W.M. elect, who is also P.G. Chaplain of Suffolk, C. Schulen P.M. Treasurer, W. Spalding P.M. Secretary; Bros. H. C. Casley S.D., Ridley King J.D., and G. S. Elliston I.G. The Past Masters of the Lodge present included Bros. P. de Laing Long, Dr. Elliston, W. Boby, Emra Holmes, P. Cornell, A. J. Barber, H. Harris, and J. South. The members of the Lodge included Bros. T. Clement Cobbold M.P. for Ipswich, Captain J. Parsons R.N. of H.M.S. Porcupine, Dr. A. Meadows P.G.S., Rev. T. G. Beaumont, Rev. G. N. Godwin, S. Shortridge, C. J. Meadows, J. Watkins, and E. W. Butler. The Visitors were Bros. the Rev. C. J. Martyn, Deputy P.G.M. of Suffolk, Dr. Muir P.M. 593, Dr. A. Fleming P.P.G.S.W., W. D. Paine A.P.G.D.C., G. Croswell P.M. 959, N. Tracy P.M. 376, J. H. Staddon I.P.M. 376, W. Daking W.M. 225, T. R. Elkington 376, &c., &c. Bro. W. Clarke P.G.D.C., was also present, and acted as Director of Ceremonies.

The Lodge having been opened in due and ancient form, and the ordinary business gone through, Bro. J. Hervey proceeded to perform the ceremony of the installation of Bro. the Rev. J. B. Tweed, which the worshipful brother well executed. The W.M. then appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bros. H. Miller jun. S.W. (in his absence through illness W. Boby being invested), H. C. Casley J.W., C. Schulen Treasurer, W. Spalding Secretary, G. S. Elliston S.D., S. Shortridge J.D., S. W. Butler I.G., the Rev. T. G. Beaumont Chaplain.

Bro. P. de L. Long, in a few well-chosen words, asked the Lodge to accept a rule which had been presented him as Vice-President of the Board of General Purposes in connection with the Masonic Institution for Girls.

On the motion of the W.M., a vote of thanks was heartily accorded to the Installing Master for fulfilling the office on this occasion, to which Bro. Hervey responded, expressing the happiness he felt to be of service to the Craft.

Lodge having been closed in ancient form, the brethren retired to the banqueting room, where the usual loyal and Masonic toast list was gone through, interspersed with some choice music, Bro. C. Cooke presiding at the pianoforte.

BRO. SIR MICHAEL COSTA.—Sir Michael Costa has never married. He lives unostentatiously, but with such elegance of artistic and social refinement as befits one so distinguished by natural gifts and studious accomplishments. A brother, Mr. Raphael Costa, known in musical circles as a skilful amateur, is his constant companion. Sir Michael's compositions are in style eclectic, and his musician-like quality appears to most advantage in his two oratorios, with their splendid orchestration, beautiful melodies, fugal choruses, and melancholy recitatives. He is courted by the aristocracy, and enjoys the esteem of his Royal patrons; has few intimate friends; is steadfast and honourable; at home, courteous, and entertaining by his intellectual charms; in public and in his business, austere and distant. The secret of his success may be found in his truthfulness, industry, knowledge of details, perfect discipline, determination to know neither friend nor enemy in the orchestra, and, above all, to that mysterious magnetic influence which alone can rule and sway, and fashion the stubborn materials of diverse humanity.—From Cassell's National Portrait Gallery for December.

THE CROWN PRINCE OF GERMANY ON FREEMASONRY.—At the great Masonic meeting at the Hague, in celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the installation of Prince Frederick of the Netherlands as Grand Master of the Dutch Freemasons, the Crown Prince of Germany delivered a speech, in the course of which he said:—"Nationalists have created frontiers; Freemasonry desires charity, tolerance, and liberty, without distinction of frontiers. I am happy on this day, which I shall never forget, to be able to raise my voice in Holland to testify my adhesion to the principles of the Order, and to express the hope that in the struggle engaged for the free development of the peoples and the liberty of the human mind, the final victory will remain with the Order." The Crown Prince's speech was received with the greatest enthusiasm.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'his off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentay to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"Those sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

THE COMPLIMENTS OF THE SEASON.

AS this is the last working day of the year, we take the opportunity of wishing all our readers all those good wishes which are usually described as the "Compliments of the Season." They have stedfastly supported us in our struggles to make this journal a success, and many among them have been most energetic in the assistance they have rendered. If our prospects are brighter now than at any previous period in our career, the gratification is due at least as much to their kindness as to our own perseverance. We have done our best, and they have shown their appreciation of that best by helping us to the utmost of their ability. We thank them, one and all, and trust the new year which we enter upon on Monday will be one of prosperity and unalloyed happiness to the Craft universal.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE QUEEN, contrary to her usual custom of late years, spent Christmas at Windsor Castle, where the regular festivities connected with Yuletide were faithfully observed. One of the consequences of Her Majesty's remaining has been, that the State apartments were closed to the public on Boxing-day, when ordinarily there is a great influx of visitors into the town. The Prince of Wales has been, and indeed now is in residence at Sandringham. The usual distribution of Christmas fare was made in His Royal Highness's presence, so that all on the estate might thoroughly enjoy themselves at this festive season.

We feel we owe some apology to our readers for making such frequent references to the weather. It is necessary, however, we should repeat the infliction, for this once only at all events, though what we are are about to say must not be regarded as news. Our announcement is simply to the effect that the weather has not been seasonable, not like the Christmas weather we read about in story-books, and which the longer we live the more firmly we believe is, after all, mere moonshine. A genial Christmas out-of-doors is a thing of the past. Our forefathers, many generations since, may have known what it was to have sharp, crisp, frosty weather, but it is not our good fortune who live in these degenerate days. At all events people who are desirous of knowing when the last genuine Christmas visited us, must go back a matter of over twenty years, when, if we remember rightly, there was a long and sharp winter of the right sort, that is as far as snow and ice are concerned. This year we have had slush and rain, varied, on Saturday evening, with what we must describe as a very sorry apology for snow, which, the next morning, in those places where traffic had not disturbed it, had a very dirty, disreputable look about it. Boxing-day, however, was an improvement on Christmas-day—at least till the evening came, when the rain again descended in torrents. Holiday-makers, however, made themselves as merry as circumstances would permit. If Englishmen had not the knack of enjoying themselves under most depressing circumstances, this happy little country of ours would be about the most miserable on the face of the earth. Of course in the evening the said holiday-makers flocked in numbers to the different theatres, especially to those among them which, like Old Drury, Covent Garden, the Standard, Britannia, &c., made a point of having Pantomime for the entertainment. At the first of the theatres we have enumerated the piece may be described by its short title of The Forty Thieves, and here the Vokes family are in their glory. Mr. Fred. Vokes turns his legs, if not inside out, at all events in such strange ways that at times they may be mistaken for a revolving spindleshaft. His three sisters comport themselves as genially, and act as well as ever we have seen them, and so does his brother, Mr. Fawdon Vokes. The harlequinade is under the direction of the veteran Mr. John Cormack, whose name for years has been quite a household word in connection with pantomime. At Covent Garden the piece is called Robinson Crusoe, at the Standard Open Sesame, at the Surrey Jack and Gill, at the Britannia Turlututu, at the Grecian Grim Goblin.

But while in our cosy homes and at our various places of amusement there have been all kinds of feasting and merriment, there have been many disastrous occurrences both by sea and land. The weather—which we have already described as unseasonable as regards Christmas—has been terrible along our coasts, and even inland places have suffered considerably. There have been several wrecks, attended in some cases with loss of life as well as of property, while in others the latter only has perished, the men having been rescued from impending death by the gallant services of our life-boat crews. Then, on Saturday, a fatal collision occurred on the Great Northern Railway, within a short distance of Hitchin, by which five persons—namely, the driver and stoker and three passengers, were killed outright, while a number of other passengers, some dangerously, some seriously, injured. The accident was caused by an express dashing at full speed into a luggage train, which was being shunted across the down line. The destruction of the company's property was very great, and the scene immediately after the catastrophe is described by eye-witnesses to have been appalling. These are sad things to record at the festive season of Christmas.

But to pass to livelier themes. On Wednesday, our patriarchs will have their annual entertainment at Croydon, and doubtless there will be a sufficient muster of visitors to do honour to so important an occasion. We sincerely hope so, for nothing gives us greater pleasure than to witness the rejoicing of our old friends. A goodly programme was prepared for them at the last summer and winter festivals, and a bird whispers to us that the present will not fall short in merit of either of its immediate predecessors.

The same day a special communication of Grand Lodge has been appointed, by Lord Carnarvon, to be held, in order to receive the report of the Special Committee appointed to consider the best plan for commemorating the Prince of Wales's safe return from India.

Weston's second attempt, at the Agricultural Hall, to walk 500 miles—or rather on this occasion the distance was 505 miles—has proved a failure, only 460 miles having been covered within the allotted time. Considering that he had completed 400 miles by the end of the fifth day, this is less than was generally expected. His three opponents, Parry, Ide and Crossland, among them accomplished about 486 miles, thus exceeding Weston's distance by 26 miles. They became, therefore, entitled to the three prizes of £60, £30, and £20 respectively, together with the additional £25 each as their united distances exceeded Weston's. From an observation the latter made in a short speech at the end of his performance, we should gather that a match to cover 505 miles in six days, is in contemplation, when our pedestrians will have a chance of pitting themselves against him.

On Saturday, at the very time the Plenary Conference at Constantinople was holding its first meeting, a number of salutes announced to the Plenipotentiaries and the inhabitants of the Turkish capital that a new and extremely liberal Constitution had been granted to all his subjects by the Sultan. This, then, is the first act of the new Grand Vizier, Midhat Pacha. His second has been to annul the Irade issued some time since by his predecessor, Abdul Aziz, declaring that only one-half of the interest payable to the holders of Turkish Bonds would be paid them. As regards important news relating to the crisis, there is little that is trustworthy. A monstrous shave appeared a day or two since, to the effect that Lord Salisbury had had an interview with the Sultan, and announced that if the programme agreed to by the six Powers was not accepted, he and the embassy would leave Constantinople, and the British fleet be withdrawn from Turkish waters. We do not imagine that Lord Salisbury is the man to have taken newspaper correspondents into his confidence, and have told them what he had not yet told the Sovereign to whom he is accredited. There is an etiquette in all these matters which an English gentleman is not likely to overlook. Beyond other vague rumours, there is nothing to record at the moment of writing.

It is announced in the Keystone that the regular Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania was held on the 6th instant, when the usual election of Grand Officers for the year, commencing on St. John the Evangelist's Day, the 27th instant. M.W. Bro. Robert Clark was re-elected Grand Master, Bro. James Madison Porter Deputy Grand Master, Bros. Nisbet and Dick Grand Wardens, and Bros. Patten and Thompson Grand Treasurer and Grand Secretary respectively. At the same time Bros. Landenslager, Griscom, Britain, Harrold and Strickland were re-elected Trustees of the Grand Lodge Charity Fund, and Bros. Perkins, Thompson, Prevost, Howell, and Roberts Trustees of the Girard Bequest. The next important business of the meeting was the reception of the Report submitted by the Committee as to the proposed revision of Ahiman Rezon. On the motion of Past Grand Master Lamberton, and at the instance of the Committee itself, the Report was referred back to the Committee, which, till June next, will receive through the Grand Master all amendments that may be suggested by Lodges or individual brethren, and report thereon at the Communication to be held next September, when five printed copies of Ahiman Rezon, as finally determined by the said Committee, will be forwarded to all Lodges under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvanian Grand Lodge. Meanwhile, a circular letter will be addressed by the Grand Master to all the Lodges, earnestly requesting their consideration of the revision of the work, and their fraternal help in the suggestions of any further amendments that may seem advisable. It is further arranged that the Committee, which had hitherto consisted of seven members, should be enlarged to thirteen. The attendance was numerous, and everything passed off most harmoniously.

A Masonic Conference, which was attended by the representatives of nearly every Lodge in the eastern districts, has been held at Grahamstown, for the purpose of considering a letter which had been received from the Grand Lodge of England, recommending the district to select one of its most able men for the office of District Grand Master for the Eastern Province of South Africa. The Conference took place in the Albany Lodge, No. 389, and out of 20 Lodges on the roll 13 were duly represented. Bro. C. J. Egan, M.D., M.A., of King William's Town, and P.M. of British Kaffrarian Lodge, No. 853, was nominated and recommended to the Pro Grand Master Earl of Carnarvon as the designate of R. W. District Grand Master for the Eastern Province of the Cape of Good Hope.

The R.W. Prov. G.M. of Hants and the Isle of Wight (Bro. W. W. Beach, M.P.) and the D.P.G.M. (Bro. W. Hickman), performed the ceremony of installing the W.M. of the Clausentum Lodge, Woolston, near Southampton, on Monday, the 18th of December. The W.M. (Bro. F. A. Rosoman) appointed his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bro. Captain T. H. M. Martin, R.N., I.P.M.; Bro. George J. Tilling S.W., Bro. R. R. L. Rosoman J.W., Bro. Captain R. W. Evans Treasurer, Bro. H. Phillips P.M. Secretary, Bro. E. A. Andrews S.D., Bro. W. H. Chapman J.D., Bro. J. Methven I.G.; Bro. E. Waters D.C. Subsequently the brethren adjourned to the Woolston College (lent for the occasion by Bro. J. Methven), where a splendid banquet was provided by Bro. Dartnell of the High-street, Southampton.

The festival of St. John was celebrated on Wednesday by the St. John's Lodge, Melrose, to the number of between 80 and 90, marching in procession, headed by the 4th Roxburgh (Hawick) Volunteer band, thrice round the Market Cross, and then making a circuit of the town. After dining in the Corn Exchange the procession was resumed, each member being armed with a flaming torch, and again the Masons perambulated round the Market Cross. Thereafter the Abbey was visited, where the customary parade was gone through, amid a fine display of fireworks, which, in combination with the torchlight, illumined the ancient ruin to great advantage.

We are pleased to announce that the annual Christmas treat to the annuitants of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution will take place on Wednesday next, at the Institution, Croydon. We understand that some of our energetic brethren have provided an amusing entertainment. As usual, Bro. Terry, the worthy Secretary, who will be assisted by Dr. Strong, will conduct the proceedings.

The first meeting of the brethren who have kindly accepted the office of Steward for the Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the widows of Freemasons, will be held on the 4th of January next, at four o'clock in the afternoon, at Freemasons' Hall. Brethren who have not yet enrolled their names can do so on application to Bro. James Terry, the Secretary to the Institution.

Our worthy brother T. A. Adams P.G.P., The Octogenerian, announces his Annual Ball, which will take place on Tuesday, 6th February, at Willis's Rooms, King-street, St. James's; an efficient body of Stewards, many of them distinguished in the Order, have consented to act, and we trust their combined efforts will ensure the success that has hitherto attended Bro. Adams' annual gatherings.

The report of the Special Committee appointed by Grand Lodge on the 6th of September last, for the purpose of recommending the most appropriate mode of recording the thankfulness of the Craft for the safe return of the M.W. the Grand Master from India will be presented to an especial Grand Lodge to be holden on Wednesday next, the 3rd January, at Freemasons' Hall, W.C., and, if approved of, the report will be recommended for adoption at the next Quarterly Communication. The Grand Lodge will be opened at 7 o'clock.

MASONIC BANQUETS.

WE have reached the season of Masonic Banquets—not that they are especially numerous, even now, but they are more frequent than at other seasons. Many Lodges meet "around the mahogany" at their annual meetings, that do so at no other time. In our opinion, such a custom is promotive of genuine Masonic feeling, and strengthens the mystic tie between brethren. In proof of this fact we propose to consider some of the pleasures of the table.

How refreshing are the memories that fill our minds as we recur to the joys of our childhood's home, when we gathered, a gay and loving band, around our father's board, and feasted not less upon a mother's cheerful converse, than upon the viands her love and care had prepared. Sometimes they portray the scenes of later days, when fatigued with the toils of the day, hungry and thirsty, we sought at night our sheltered home. How refreshing the welcome that greeted us! How quickly was the whole current of our feelings changed! A table arranged with neatness, and prepared by generous hands, awaited us—what though it was spread with a simple, or scanty fare? Love prepared it. Love presided over it. Beaming happy faces surrounded it. Cheerful voices mingled over it—faces all the brighter for our coming—voices whose cheerful tones awakened a responsive echo in our own breasts. Such a table does more than appease hunger. It refreshes the soul. It invigorates the moral and social nature. No man can come under its influence without being made happier and better. It is a school of training as well as a fountain of pleasure. How many of the vivid recollections of our childhood's home are associated with those cheerful gatherings around the family board. How many a care-worn man has been sustained by the heart sympathies—the pure and radiant cheerfulness, that pervades the circle which gathers daily around his well-ordered-table! Such a table has been styled the "emblem of home." It is more than this; it is home itself—the centre of its attraction, the radient point of its beneficent sway. It is the seat and soul of its power. Banish this regular gathering around the family board and you banish home from our land. If each member of the family should take his meals alone, like the prisoner in his cell, who does not feel that home would be home no longer? The sweet amenities, the unselfish courtesies, the habits of regularity which are the daily discipline of a well-ordered and happy home, would all be lost. The family board is the strongest conservator of the family tie—the legitimate fruit of civilization, the harmonizer of every domestic and social organization. It is degraded when made to minister only to the demands of appetite. It has a higher mission. Influences centre around it and radiate from it in the cementing of friendship, the nurturing of love, the healing of alienation, the cultivation of refined and genial manners, which leave their impress upon the entire character and life. Who can tell how much he owes to their constantly recurring power during all the years of childhood and the riper experience of manhood? What happy hours have we passed—what valuable lessons have we learned—what sweet communion with kindred hearts have we enjoyed around that common table in our dear old home!

Now apply these acknowledged principles to our life in the Craft. Freemasonry is a moral, intellectual, social, and convivial fraternity. It, too, should rightly esteem and judiciously profit by the pleasures of the table. Masons should meet statedly around the convivial board, not necessarily at every Lodge meeting, but certainly upon at least one occasion during every Masonic year. The annual banquet should gather together all of the brethren into a loving throng. It should seat them in an unbroken circle "around the mahogany." It should fill them with the home feeling that we experience so fully when seated at our own board, surrounded by the members of our family. Every brother is a member of the Masonic family, especially every brother who is a member of our own Lodge. Freemasons should be loth to entirely surrender their Lodge banquets. True, they should not be suffered to degenerate into occasions for gormandizing, or bacchanalian orgies. Perhaps such an experience in the now somewhat remote past led to the comparative disuse of the banquet. There was a time when knife-and-fork Masons brought disrepute upon the Craft, and when the excessive drinking customs of society were prevalent at convivial Lodge gatherings; but the times are now altered. It is no longer respectable to be either a glutton or a drunkard. A "three-bottle man" is not considered any longer the highest class of man in society. We may, then, safely indulge in the pleasures of the table. We may at least annually gather the Craft for social and convivial enjoyment—that is, we may if we have the means. Poverty and banquets are not twins. So long as we have empty treasuries we must have, so far as the Lodge is concerned, empty stomachs, and forego the social joys that are associated with the festal board. Of course we do not advocate the squandering of Lodge funds, or the wiping out of the treasurer's account. Neither a Lodge nor an individual should give a banquet without having ample pecuniary ability to do so. But wherever the funds permit it, or subcriptions are obtainable forthe purpose, we are sure that the gathering of the brethren, en masse, on or near St. John's Day, and their joint participation in healthful convivial pleasures, can only result in rational enjoyments that is peculiarly Masonic. The earliest Lodge record we possess, dated December 18, A.D. 1599 (Lodge of Edinburgh, Mary's Chapel, No. 1 Scotland), refers to the banquet, and for many years thereafter it was deemed an indispensable adjunct to the ceremonies of the Craft, and was provided at the expense of the newly-made brethren. If there be any truth, beauty or force in the principles we enunciated in the beginning of this article, then Freemasons should be loth to dispense with Masonic banquets.

CONSECRATION OF KENMUIR LODGE, 570, SPRINGBOURNE.

THE consecration of Lodge Kenmuir took place on Friday, 22nd December 1876. The ceremony was performed in a highly creditable manner by Bro. F. A. Barrow P.G.D.M., Provincial Grand Lodge, Glasgow. In the course of the evening Bro. Barrow delivered an address on the principles of the Order, in which he strongly enjoined the brethren to maintain in all their integrity the genuine tenets of the Order, and above all to be upright and just in all their actions, and seek to feel and cultivate love to God and good-will to man. The Provincial Grand Lodge being closed, Lodge Kenmuir was opened by Bro. Aikman, who requested Bro. Gilles to confer on Bro. Barrow and the other members of the deputation the honour of affiliation, for which Bro. Barrow returned thanks on behalf of himself and the deputation, and expressed how highly they appreciated the honour conferred upon them, after which Bro. Law, in a felicitous speech, passed a high eulogium on Bro. Barrow for his eloquent and practical address, and commented in glowing terms on the zeal and interest Bro. Barrow had shown for many years towards Freemasonry.

Clydesdale Lodge, No. 556.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday, 26th December, as owing to the lengthened proceeding at the election, the Master and his deputy were the only officers installed at the last meeting. Bro. Phillis R.W.M. now proceeded to instal the other office bearers, the list of whom appeared in our last impression. Amongst the visitors we observed the following brethren:—N. Duncan and G. W. Wheeler 78, Louis McGellan 88, J. Denby 137, D. McDougar 175, R. Jack R.W.M. 128, W. Hart R.W.M. 178, W. West 347, J. Gard 347, A. B. Fergerson R.W.M. 354, with his Warden Bro. Harley, Bro. Harley sen., C. McKenzie S.M. and others of a deputation; D. Reid R.W.M. 465, and Bros. Gould and Fife D.M., J. Fergerson D.M. 381 and J. McInnes 360, of the Glasgow News. After the installation, the Lodge was placed under the care of the new J.W., Bro. McKechney, and the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured. Bro. Phillis then said as they had the Master and Wardens, as well as a deputation from the Caledonian Railway Lodge 354, he would follow the old time-honoured custom of placing the Lodge in their charge for a short time. After Bro. A. B. Fergerson had taken the chair, he proposed the health of Bro. Phillis, highly eulogising his work, by which he had raised the Lodge to its present proud position. Bro. Phillis said it had been his ambition always to keep before the Lodge, whether at work or at refreshment, the three great principles of Brotherly Love, Relief and Truth, as well as the cardinal virtues of Faith, Hope, and Charity; and though the Lodge had just had a sharp contest, he hoped that now all would again unite to carry these principles into practice. He knew he should have the assistance of the new office-bearers, and trusted that the rest of the members would second their efforts in the good work.

Albert Edward Lodge, No. 592.—The election and installation of officers of this Lodge took place on the 21st. Amongst those who took part in the ceremony were H. S. Edmund I.P.M. St. Mirrens 129, who acted as installing Master, J. E. Caldwell P.G.S.M. of Renfrewshire East, D. M. Nelson I.P.M. 3 bis G.J.D., L. M. McKeller R.W.M. 512 and J. Stewart 360. The following is the list of officers:—R.W.M. Robert Nesbitt, D.M. T. White, S.M. J. Clark, I.P.M. R. Horne, S.W. A. C. Kellock, J.W. Jas. Gray, Treasurer J. E. Shand, Secretary M. Nash, S.D. Walter Gums, J.D. G. Kitto, S.B. J. Gallings, S.S. R. McMillan, J.S. J. B. McKellock, I.G. G. Stein, and Tyler R. Breen. When the Board of Installed Masters was formed, Bro. L. M. McKellar, the newly elected Master of the Thorntree 512, was duly installed, along with Bro. Nisbett. Although the Albert Edward is only just formed, it promises to rival some of its compeers in Renfrewshire East, as from its situation in the suburbs of Glasgow it has a good field for its labours.

Lodge of Montefiore, No. 1017.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 27th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Café Royal, Air-street, Regent-street. Bros. J. Blum W.M., V. Myers S.W., Gulliford J.W., L. Jacobs Treasurer, E. P. Albert G.P. Secretary; and P.M.'s Bros. Grunebaum, J. Lazarus, S. Pollitzer, J. De Solla, A. Blumenthal, A. D. Loewenstark, A. Eskell, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. Sampson Samuel and A. Marks, the latter gentleman being the father-in-law of the W.M. elect. Bro. Victor Myers was presented to the Lodge, a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. S. V. Abrahams P.M. duly installed him into the chair, perfectly and impressively. At the conclusion of the ceremony he received the congratulations of every brother and visitor present. Bro. T. Fenn P.G.A.D.C. occupied the J.W.'s chair. There were 18 W.M.'s and P.M.'s present at the ceremony. On the admission of the brethren, the W.M. invested his officers: Bros. Gulliford S.W., J. Lazarus P.M. J.W., L. Jacobs Treasurer, E. P. Albert G.P. Secretary, L. J. Salomons S.D., Hockfield J.D., Ellis I.G., M. Levy D.C., B. Simonds and Davis Stewards, Smith Tyler. The W.M. showed his aptitude for the office by the pertinent remarks he made. Bro. S. V. Abrahams said, He had a pleasing duty to perform; to present, in the name of the Lodge, Bro. Blum with a Past Master's jewel. By the way he had performed his duties, he had won the esteem of all the brethren. The jewel he was about to present was but a feeble expression of the respect of the members. It might be of considerable value, but that ill represented the great jewel that lay beneath it,—The truly Masonic heart. Not only had he been the means of introducing many influential members, but he had also not been unmindful of the Masonic Charities. Bro. J. Blum returned thanks for the valuable gift. When he accepted the office of W.M., he did so with a view to benefit the Lodge, and he was pleased his duties had been done to their satisfaction, it was in every respect pleasing to hear the manner in which he had been spoken of by their worthy Bro. Abrahams. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to banquet and dessert. On the removal of the cloth, the W.M. proposed the toast of the Queen and the Craft. The National Anthem was then sung, by the Misses Perfitt, accompanied by Bro. Grove Ellis. The toast of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M. was given and enthusiastically received. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers, said he felt honoured by the presence of one of those distinguished brethren who had favoured them with his company, he referred to Bro. T. Fenn P.G.D.; he had only to mention the name, and all would know what he had done for Freemasonry. He would, however, not forget another Grand Officer, who was a member of the Lodge, one who they not only respected, but of whom they were proud. Bro. Fenn, who, on rising, was loudly cheered, in the course of a very eloquent speech, said he had to thank the W.M. for the kind manner in which he had spoken. He regretted the absence of Bro. John Hervey, who he said was unfortunately prevented from attending. You have among you a Grand Officer, Bro. E. P. Albert, who is known and respected by all. He felt it a great honour to be called upon to respond to the toast. Loud calls for Bro. Albert were then made, and that Brother also spoke to the toast. The W.M. proposed the newly Initiated Brethren; he was pleased to see them, their contributions to the Benevolent Fund attached to the Lodge was sufficient to show their appreciation of the obligations of Freemasonry. Bros. Samuel and Marks responded. Bro. Blum I.P.M., on rising for the first time as a P.M., had great pleasure in proposing the toast of the W.M. (Cheers.) He had seen him initiated five years since, he had carefully watched him, and he had showed his capacity for filling any office; he was one who would fully maintain the welfare and integrity of the Lodge, and he was sure the Lodge would have a happy and prosperous year. The W.M., in the course of his speech, thanked Bro. Blum for his kind wishes, he could only reiterate what had already been said; he would say deeds, not words, would be his motto, and at the expiration of his year of office he hoped to receive their approbation. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Visitors, who were so distinguished and numerous that he could not mention their several qualifications, but he would call on Bro. Myers to respond. That brother justified the call of the W.M., speaking highly of the working of the Lodge in every respect, and also of the hospitality shown them. The W.M. then proposed the toast of Bro. Blum I.P.M., who he characterised as a good Mason, and one who had discharged his duties to their satisfaction. He would indeed feel satisfied if, on retiring from the chair, he could hear the same expressions from the brethren that had greeted Bro. Blum. Bro. Blum said he could hardly find words to express his gratitude. He had to thank the Past Masters and the brethren for their kind and valuable assistance during the last twelve months. He was sure they had forgiven his shortcomings; he had the welfare of the Lodge at heart. He thanked them for their valuable presentation; he would always wear the elegant jewel with pride, in whatever country he might visit, and he would look upon it as a paramount duty to further the interests of the Montefiore Lodge. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Past Masters, he mentioned their Masonic qualifications, and particularly referred to the services rendered to the Lodge by Bro. S. V. Abrahams, P.M. Bro. Abrahams said he now felt his duties were at an end; by his observance of the manner of the junior officers—he might say every officer—they were qualified to fill any office, and he was sure they would efficiently carry out their duties. He would only be too happy, at all times, to assist them. The W.M. proposed the toast of the Wardens, which was responded to by Bros. Gulliford and J. Lazarus. Bros. J. J. Salomons and Ellis replied for the Junior Officers, and the Tyler's toast concluded a very agreeable and harmonious evening. A special musical treat was provided by Bro. Grove Ellis, who was assisted by the Misses Perfitt, Grove Ellis jun., and Mr. Field. The Visitors were Bros. T. Fenn P.G.D.C., J. Ebner, G. H. Jaffa 1579, J. Luisner 25, G. Goody 34, A. M. Cohen P.M. 205, H. Massey P.M. 619, A. G. Dodson W.M., C. F. Hogard P.M. 205 P.P.G.S.W. Essex, J. Levi 1507, Eisenstein 177, Grove Ellis 188, Lowe 205, Barnett W.M. 185, Diepenheim 188, Shnieder, Weingott, Blum late 1017.

Chiltern Lodge, No. 1470.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 19th of December, at the Town Hall, Dunstable. Present—Bros. Frederick Howell W.M., J. W. Haselgrove S.W., William Randall J.W., Otway S.D., Sinkwell J.D., Rev. C. B. Harris Chaplain, Cutler Steward, M. M. Harris I.G., T. Day Tyler, Bros. Hopkins, Benning, Stevenson, Gard, Teale, Crew, Rest, &c. Business—The Lodge having been opened and the minutes confirmed, the ballot was taken for the W.M. for the ensuing year, when the unanimous choice of the brethren proved to be in favour of Bro. J. W. Haselgrove S.W. (P.M. No. 475), and in a few suitable sentences the W.M. congratulated Bro. Haselgrove, and that worthy brother replied. Bros. Cobley and Day were re-elected to their respective offices of Treasurer and Tyler. The ballot was then taken for Mr. Ezekiel Jones, and that gentleman was declared elected. The Lodge was then advanced, and Bro. Stevenson was raised, the beautiful ceremony being most impressively rendered. The Lodge resumed, and as Mr. Jones was present, he was initiated into our mysteries, and took his seat. The S.W. then proposed that, to mark the ending of the W.M.'s second year of office, and the high esteem of the brethren for him, and their appreciation of his excellent working, a clasp should be added to his P.M. jewel, with a proper inscription. This being seconded by the Chaplain, was carried. Bro. Howell returned thanks for the honour done him. The Lodge was then duly closed, and the brethren adjourned to Bro. Saunders', Sugar Loaf Hotel, where their comfort was in every way studied by the host. Bro. Latham was present as a visitor.

Metropolitan Lodge, No. 1507.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday 21st inst., at the Metropolitan Club, Pentonville Road. Bros. T. Williams W.M., R. T. Kingham S.W., J. Douglass J.W., W. M. Stiles Sec., C. J. Scales S.D., W. Side J.D., H. Stiles I.G., and P.M.'s J. J. Michael and James Willing jun. Bros. Ormiston, Solomon, Wrigley, Sainsbury, Gilbert, Cook, Van Camp, Brooker, Tims jun., Baron Von Tittenborn, Little, Cooper, Tuck, Clark, Beattie, Rainey, Clare, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. T. J. Clare and S. Beattie were passed to the 2nd degree, and Messrs. T. J. Thorn and C. Killingback were initiated into the Order. The working was carefully and impressively rendered by the W.M., and the Officers were perfect. An election for Treasurer then took place, in consequence of Bro. Rose having resigned that office. The election was unanimously in favour of Bro. James Willing jun., P.M., and the W.M., in investing him with the collar, said, that ever since the consecration Bro. Willing had performed every duty the Lodge required of him, and that no better selection could have been made. They had seen what he had done, not only for the interests of the Lodge, but also how, in every respect, he had performed the duties of W.M. They were proud to see him among them in any capacity he occupied. A notice of motion was given by Bro. Kingham S.W., "That the removal of the Lodge be discussed at the next meeting." The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Cox. Grace having been said, the W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. His remarks were brief, and to the purpose. Bro. J. J. Michael I.P.M. proposed the toast of the W.M. Bro. Williams had on several occasions done his work well, and all present would drink his health with enthusiasm. Bro. Williams said that he was very proud of the position he held. As W.M. of so flourishing a Lodge, his best services would ever be at their command. He was much indebted to the I.P.M.'s, in whose footsteps he hoped to tread. The W.M. next proposed the toast of the Past Masters of the Lodge, they were energetic in all they undertook, and were never tired in working for the good of the Lodge. Bro. Michael returned thanks. The more the Lodge flourished, the more pleased the Past Masters would be. He had great pleasure in announcing that he should represent the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution at the next Festival, and he would ask the brethren to contribute any sum they could afford, a vote would accrue to each donor of 5s. Bro. Michael's appeal was liberally responded to by each brother present. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Initiates. It was a toast all were pleased to receive. Both had paid great attention to the ceremony, and all present were proud to see them. He hoped that at a future time they would be enabled to occupy the post of W.M. Bro. Brooker here sang a very humorous song. Bros. Killingback and Thorne returned thanks. Bro. J. Michael sang the E.A. song. The W.M. proposed the toast of the Visitors, who were Bros. McKenzie 261, Winn No. 25, H. M. Levy P.M. 188. They were pleased to see them; Visitors were always welcome among them, and he hoped they would be present on many occasions. Bro. Tuck then favored the company with a capital song. The Visitors severally returned thanks, each brother complimenting the W.M. on his working, and also Bro. Michael for the interest taken by him in the Masonic Charities. The W.M. said he had great pleasure in proposing the health of the Secretary, who was unfortunately absent through illness. They had, however, among them that evening one who, by the numerous votes of the brethren, had been elected Treasurer. He referred to Bro. James Willing, whose knowledge of the duties of Freemasonry was such that they were proud he had accepted this office. He had lately been elected W.M. of a very powerful and influential Lodge; that alone would tend to shew that their interests would be carefully looked after. Bro. Stiles, as Assist. Secretary, was one who was in every way qualified to fill the office. Bro. James Willing, in an excellent and humorous speech replied, and was followed by Bro. Stiles. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Wardens, said, That however competent the W.M. might be to carry out his duties, those duties could not be performed without the co-operation of his principal officers they had performed their task satisfactorily and he hoped all would drink the toast in a befitting manner. Bro. Kingham S.W. returned thanks, he was gratified at the expressions of the W.M. and the approbation of the brethren. He, as well as his brother officers, would endeavour to follow in the footsteps of those who had preceded them. Bros. Scales and Side also acknowledged the compliment. The Tyler's toast was given, and the brethren, after having passed a very agreeable evening, separated, wishing each and all the compliments of the season and a happy new year.

Chaucer Lodge, No. 1540.—The monthly meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 27th inst., at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Bros. J. C. Mason W.M., E. S. Stidolph S.W., W. J. Kemp J.W., T. J. Sabine, P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex Treasurer, F. Walters P.P.G.J.D. Middlesex Secretary, C. W. Hudson S.D., H. Faija J.D., C. Grabham W.S., A. J. Hawkes I.G.; and Bros. Harding, C. Winstanley, and several others. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. The W.M. raised Bro. Carter to the 3rd degree, passed Bro. A. Ward into the 2nd degree, and also initiated Mr. John Simpson. One gentleman was proposed for initiation at the next meeting. The Special Grand Lodge meeting for the 3rd of January was announced, and the Lodge was closed, slight refreshment followed. The Visitors were Bros. J. W. Baldwin P.G.G.P. Middlesex P.M. 1423, J. W. George S.W. 1309, T. W. Adams S.W. 1623, and T. Knight 1326.

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

Vol. V.—No. 106. SATURDAY, 6th JANUARY 1877. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

SPECIAL COMMUNICATION OF GRAND LODGE.

IT will be seen elsewhere in our columns that on Wednesday was held, by order of the Pro Grand Master, a Special Communication of Grand Lodge, the purpose being to receive and recommend—or otherwise as the case might be—for adoption at the next regular meeting of Grand Lodge, the Report of the Special Committee appointed to consider the most suitable way of commemorating the auspicious visit to, and safe return from India, of Grand Master His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. The Pro Grand Master presided in person on this important occasion, and there was a large attendance of brethren present. Lord Carnarvon, in his capacity of Chairman of the Special Committee, himself submitted its Report for the adoption of Grand Lodge. The proposition they offered was, to the effect that a sum of £4000 should be handed over to the National Lifeboat Institution for the purpose of building and endowing two additional Lifeboats, to be placed at two different spots on the English coast, where their services would be most needed, a Sub-Committee being further appointed in order to confer with the authorities of the Institution as to the fittest places for stationing the boats in question. His Lordship strongly urged on the brethren present that the proposition should be recommended to Grand Lodge for adoption at its next regular Communication, and in doing so, exhausted well nigh every argument that could be suggested in support of his motion. As regards our Charities, his Lordship pointed out, on the one hand, that they were not in need of funds. They had but to indicate to the brethren the sum that was required to keep them in sound working order, and the brethren took care there should be no deficiency in the amount required. On the other hand, this was undoubtedly an occasion on which the beneficence of the Craft might legitimately be extended to objects outside the pale of Masonry. It was a visit which had excited the enthusiasm of the whole nation, and a safe return home from which had been the subject of general thanksgiving throughout the whole of the British Empire. Thus, the appropriation of this money might be regarded in the light of a thank-offering to the G.A.O.T.U., who, in His infinite wisdom, had watched over and restored to us, in health and strength, the eldest son and heir of our Most Gracious Sovereign. The proposition was seconded by Lord Leigh, Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire. An amendment was then moved and seconded by Bros. J. G. Marsh and Baxter Langley respectively, to the effect that the Freemasons' Lifeboat, presented, a few years since, to the Lifeboat Institution, and now stationed at North Berwick, should be endowed to the extent of £1,500, that a sum of £1,000 be given to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and £1,000 to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, while a further sum of £2,500 should be handed over to the Boys' School, for the purpose of founding, in connection with it, a Prince of Wales's Scholarship. An appeal, however, was made by the Rev. Bro. Simpson to Bros. Marsh and Langley to withdraw their amendment, and it was likewise pointed out by the Grand Registrar, Bro. McIntyre, that to move an amendment under the circumstances was out of order, as Grand Lodge had been convened with the one object of receiving the report of the Committee, and accepting or rejecting it, as might seem fit to the majority of those present. Thereupon, the Pro Grand Master submitted the report for adoption, and it was declared to be adopted unanimously, though many of the brethren gave no indication whatever of the opinion they held.

So much for the events of this Special Communication. When, however, we come to examine the character of the proposal, we confess to feeling a certain sense of disappointment. We have, from first to last, inclined to the belief that the most fitting memorial of the Grand Master's safe return from India would be a special grant of money to each of our Charitable Institutions. They sorely need it. Their sphere of operations is becoming larger and larger every year. The number of candidates for election on the lists is always hugely in excess of the number of vacancies. True, the subscriptions and donations of Craftsmen are on a very munificent scale. But we may not always be in a position to reckon on a continuance of this munificence. A time of commercial distress, or a grave political crisis may so affect the ability of Craftsmen to contribute, that, with all their old will to give as freely as ever, they may yet lack the means to do so. In such case, the benefits of our Institutions must be curtailed, at a time when those benefits are most likely to be needed, or the Institutions must use their invested moneys, or, having none, run into debt. Our Charities are not endowed, at least to any appreciable extent, as are so many other similar institutions scattered throughout the country. They depend for the greater part of the funds necessary to maintain them in good working order on voluntary contributions. Any increase, therefore, of their invested moneys, how small soever, speaking comparatively, it might be, would be of infinite and lasting service to them. There is, be it remembered, no narrow-minded selfishness in advocating gifts of so special a character to our several charities, nor need such gifts be absorbed in the general body of donations, and so lose their distinctive character. A Prince of Wales's endowment fund for each of our Charities would be a fitting memorial of an event in his life we are all so anxious to commemorate, worthy alike of the Body which grants it and the Grand Master in whose honour it is granted. This, in our honest opinion, would have been the most suitable way of commemorating the visit and return home, and we regret the Special Committee have not elected to recommend some such proposition for acceptance by Grand Lodge.

As to the proposition itself, as submitted and approved, and now only awaiting confirmation at the meeting of Grand Lodge in March next, taking it on its merits, and apart from the views to which we have already given expression, we do not know of any proposal more likely to command general acceptance. The Institution, whose funds it is thus proposed to augment so considerably, is one of the noblest of which even England, with all its splendid charities, may honestly feel proud. Its labours are arduous and unceasing, and the services it renders to our common humanity are such as must command the admiration of the whole world. Those whose knowledge of the seas which gird this happy little island of ours, is derived from a holiday visit to one of our fashionable watering-places, can form little idea of the dangers which await the tempest-tossed mariner when he finds his ship driven, slowly perhaps, but surely, towards our rock-bound coasts. And those, too, whose experience of ocean-travel is limited to a pleasure trip on board some yacht or passenger-boat at the best season of the year, can in no wise gauge the perils which those encounter who man the lifeboat in order to rescue their fellow creatures from a terrible death. There is, indeed, no service so skilfully and courageously performed as that of our Lifeboat Institution, and it is certain there is no service for which there is greater need. The lifeboats stationed along our coast-line are numerous, but not numerous enough for the demands that are constantly being made upon them. Many a stout ship goes down, many a score of lives are lost which would be spared to us were the means of rescue more numerous. The dreadful accounts of disasters which have figured so conspicuously in our daily contemporaries during the last few days are evidence enough that we are still insufficiently furnished with life-saving apparatus. Therefore it is we have said there is no Institution throughout all England we should more gladly see benefited substantially than the Lifeboat Institution. The whole world will, to a certain extent, benefit by the gift, and Grand Lodge will have the gratification of feeling that it has adopted a right worthy plan for commemorating the most auspicious event in the recent history of our Craft, though not, in our opinion, the most worthy. Nor must it be forgotten that, barely two years since, when a proposition was made to vote £100 from Grand Lodge funds towards the endowment of the existing Freemasons' Life Boat already referred to, the motion was rejected, one of the grounds urged against the proposal being that the funds of Grand Lodge were intended for Masonic purposes only. Thus, by their present action, our rulers are to some extent stultifying themselves. The endowment of our Charities is a legitimate Masonic purpose, and certainly the endowment of Lifeboats is as much outside the main object of Freemasonry now, as in the first quarter of the year 1874. We repeat our opinion, that the Masonic Charities should have received, each of them, a handsome contribution from Grand Lodge Funds, to be known always as the Prince of Wales's Endowment. But as this, it seems, is not to be, we cannot but state our belief that the Special Committee have made the second best proposal it was in their power to make.

TOLERANCE AND INTOLERANCE.

OUR readers must not run away with the notion that all Masons practise what they profess. We are no more free from human infirmity than the rest of our fellow-creatures. We all of us have our special idiosyncracies, and are not always sufficiently careful to sink them in the company of our fellows. Were brethren as disposed to study the beauties of Freemasonry as they are prone to cultivate the fourth degree, the Fraternity would rub on the better for this disposition. But precept and practice do not always go hand in hand together; there is even at times a very strong antagonism between the two. We ought to be perfect illustrations—as perfect, that is to say, as men can be; we ought, we repeat, to be perfect illustrations of all the cardinal virtues; but we are not, and perhaps in no one particular do we more exhibit the innate weakness of our humanity than in the tenacity with which—paradoxical as it will seem to many or most of our friends—we cling to the vices of tolerance, and neglect the virtues of intolerance. We are tolerant to a fault in many instances—that is, we exhibit forbearance towards many things and on many occasions which we have no business to, or, at all events, which it were better we should not, exhibit. We are also intolerant to a fault—that is, we are not always as forbearing towards our fellows as we should be. This is what we mean by saying that we cling to the vices of tolerance, and eschew the virtues of intolerance, so that our readers need have no fear on the score of our perfect orthodoxy. But to the proof of our proposition.

Is it not within the knowledge of every one of our readers that all of us endure what ought not to be endured, on the plea that harmony and good fellowship require us to do so? We see around us brethren who are as careful in ignoring the fundamental principles of the Craft, as they should be in observing them. We give them all credit for possessing the will to observe them, but they lack the courage to exercise that will. They allow the natural vices of their disposition to ride roughshod over the beautiful teachings of our Society, and the consequence is their whole Masonic career is, in very truth, a lie. Setting aside the infirmities of our humanity, for which, indeed, we have already made sufficient allowance, we find there are many who neglect their duties, or defy our principles almost as a matter of course. For instance, we are enjoined to study the doctrines of Masonic science, yet we study them not, or only in a perfunctory sort of way. We are taught to speak well of a brother in his absence as well as in his presence, and if that cannot be done honourably and with propriety, to observe silence! Yet there are far too many who are slanderously given; or, we should rather say, there is a good deal of backbiting among Craftsmen. It is gently insinuated by some one that Bro. So-and-So is not the model Mason he appears to be. True, he is active and attentive in the fulfilment of his duties, but then he has some purpose to serve in being so. He is a subscriber to our Charities, but he takes good heed beforehand to satisfy all his own luxurious wants. He is a zealous official, but in private life he has, or is said to have many and great infirmities, and to indulge them incontinently. These backbitings, of course, are only ordinary weaknesses to which all men yield more or less at home, but the Mason who yields to them is guilty of a two-fold crime. The religion he professes teaches him to behave towards others as he would have others behave towards himself; and the Masonic obligations he contracts long after he has imbibed his first lessons of religion enjoin on him the fulfilment of the same righteous duty. There is, then, in the case of the Mason who neglects the observance of what he has been taught is right, in the first place, an infraction of religious duty, and secondly an infraction of Masonic duty, the latter being, in our opinion, the more blameworthy of the two, seeing that, in a certain sense, Masonry is higher than any or all religious faiths. It includes them all, for no man can become a Mason who does not at least solemnly declare himself to be of some religious persuasion. And as the whole is greater than any one of its parts, so is Masonry, in this sense, greater than any or all of the religions it includes, or requires its members should profess. Far be it from us to prefer, ordinarily, a system of morality to any religious creed. We are merely now indicating that the Brother who violates his Masonic oath—and the backbiter does so unquestionably—is doubly guilty, towards his religion and towards Freemasonry. Moreover, there is no such thing as free will in being a religious man — the forms of religion are a matter apart and may justly be left to one's own conscience—but men become Freemasons voluntarily. We are, however, digressing, and must return to the main purpose of our article. We have said there is much backbiting among Craftsmen. There is also much ostentation, which exhibits itself principally in a love of vain display. The original simplicity of the Craft is lost sight of in the painful eagerness with which so many among us strive after Masonic decoration. We see no particular harm in a brother wearing a score or two of jewels, but we see great harm in the jewels being assumed to be the evidence of a Mason's worth. The Charity Jewel, for instance, was instituted as a reward for meritorious exertion in the cause of our Institutions, but many brethren virtually purchase the right to wear them. They serve the requisite number of stewardships, paying their own subscriptions, but concerning themselves little about the further duties of the office. There are numbers of brethren who wear several P.M.'s jewels. In many instances they are the just reward of superior merit, but in many also they are merely the evidence that the wearer has been W.M. of, and subscribes to, a corresponding number of Lodges. Sometimes, too, we see a brother wearing a P.M. jewel, who, during his term of office as W.M., properly fulfilled no single duty of the Mastership, and who is, in fact, almost as ignorant of Lodge duties as the initiate of yesterday. We are not citing imaginary cases, but cases which are generally known to have occurred, and we ask our readers, is it not carrying Tolerance to a fault when we sanction or connive at these evils? We go further, and ask, Is it not worth while making a vigorous effort to repress them? The backbiter would soon find his occupation gone if brethren resolutely declined to hear his tittle-tattle. The silly ambition to be covered with jewels and gold would quickly give place to loftier and worthier aims, if the practice of wearing so many decorations were discouraged. As a rule, men in high places in the State are simpler in their habits and personal adornment; the higher their position, the greater their merit. Let this be the case in Freemasonry. Let a brother's worth be judged more by his ability, and less by the number of his jewels, and we shall approach more nearly to the true principles of our Craft.

The endurance of these evils of which we have spoken is one of the foremost vices of Tolerance. Let us now turn for a moment to what we have called the virtues of Intolerance. We have said there are many among us who are intolerant to a fault, who make no allowance whatever for the frailty of human nature, but condemn utterly, without one spark of charitable feeling, the faults to which this or that brother is unfortunately given. This kind or degree of intolerance is the least likely to prove of any effect, the last that will bring about a reform in the conduct of the condemned brother. Intolerance becomes a tyranny when it closes all the avenues against his reinstatement in the good graces of the Craft. It was said, on a certain memorable occasion, by one of the greatest teachers of Morality the world has ever seen—by the greatest Teacher in the estimation of some hundred millions of our fellow-creatures—"Let him that is without sin cast the first stone." This implied that before utterly condemning, before showing ourselves wholly intolerant towards the sins which others commit, it is well we should bear in mind that we are not ourselves entirely without stain. When, then, a brother errs in his conduct, let us not send him to Coventry, but rather encourage him, by that kind forbearance which a sense of our own frailty will suggest, to repent him of the evil he has done. The just condemnation of human error must be tempered with mercy, which blesseth him that showeth it as well as him towards whom it is shown. It is no duty of ours to condemn utterly the man who has sinned. Charity—that Charity which is the proudest boast of our Freemasonry—requires rather that we should encourage him to abandon his evil ways. We must be intolerant of error, but virtuously so; and this is what we mean when we exhort our friends to remember the virtues of Intolerance. We have a mind to prolong the subject, but we have said enough to fulfil our original aim, which was to show that even the virtue of Tolerance may have its vices, and the vice of Intolerance its virtues. As Charity is the mainspring of Freemasonry, and the avoidance of error and the encouragement of rectitude are among the leading principles which Charity inculcates, we exhort our readers to be neither tolerant nor intolerant to a fault; and we do this in the name of that Charity without which Freemasonry is nothing worth.

Le Monde Maçonnique announces, that with the concurrence of Grand Master Mazzoni, the Lodge Tito Vezio, of the Orient of Rome, is about to establish a Masonic Mutual Benefit Society, and that, in all probability, it will be a great success. The same journal announces that Bro. Pasquali, of Turin, is engaged in writing a history of Piedmontese Freemasonry, and also that a certain militant priest of Corsica is about entering the lists against Freemasonry, and will commence his onslaught by translating the pamphlet of Bishop Dupanloup.

The Masonic Jewel for last month records the death of Bro. Dr. John Dove, Grand Secretary of the Masonic Grand Bodies of Virginia, at the ripe age of eighty-four. Bro. Dove was, it seems, the oldest Grand Secretary in the world at the time of his decease, having been elected Grand Secretary of the Grand Chapter of Virginia in 1813, and of Grand Lodge in 1832. In 1822 he was a Deputy District Grand Master, and had also at different times held the offices of Grand Junior and Senior Deacon, and Grand Junior Warden. He was the author of several Masonic works, the most valuable among them being his "Masonic Text Book," containing a history of Freemasonry and Digest of the Laws, Rules, and Regulations of the Grand Lodge of Virginia. He was born in Richmond, Va., in September, 1792, and was initiated into Freemasonry in St. John's Lodge, No. 36, of that city, in 1813. He joined the Randolph Lodge, No. 19, at an early date, and remained a subscriber to both these Lodges till his death. He was also honorary member of several Lodges and Chapters, and two Lodges in his native State bear his name. One who knew him well speaks of him thus: "Dr. Dove was a model man, kindly, courteous, intelligent, and considerate to all; he was an honour to his native City and State. But it was as a Freemason he was best known. Never father loved a child more devotedly than John Dove loved Masonry. Never child loved a father more devotedly than the Masons of Virginia loved John Dove." He was buried with Masonic honours by St. John's Lodge, No. 36, assisted by the Grand Lodge of Virginia and the Masonic bodies in and near Richmond.

UNITED GRAND LODGE.

THE PROPOSED INDIAN THANKOFFERING.

ON Wednesday evening an Especial Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons, was held at Freemasons' Hall to receive and consider the Special Committee's Report on the most appropriate mode of commemorating "the Most Worshipful Grand Master's safe return from India." The Temple was thickly filled, and a great many of the brethren could not obtain seats. The Earl of Carnarvon, Right Worshipful Pro Grand Master, presided, having the Earl of Donoughmore S.G.W. in his place, Bro. F. Pattison as J.G.W., Lord Leigh as D.G.M., and Lord de Tabley as Past G.M. Among the other brethren who were present were Bros. Æ. J. McIntyre Q.C. G.R., the Earl of Limerick, Sir Albert Woods (Garter) G.D.C., Dr. Rhys Williams A.G.D.C., Gen. Brownrigg Prov. G.M. Surrey, Capt. Platt P.G.D., Bro. S. Tomkins G.R., Rev. Sir J. Warren Hayes, Bros. W. Gauz, Brackstone Baker, Clabon, Joshua Nunn, Rev. R. J. Simpson, Bro. Grissell, Revs. C. J. Martin, S. R. Wigram and C. W. Arnold, Bros. Hervey Grand Secretary, S. Rawson P. District G.M. of China, Rev. A. B. Frazer, Bros. Boord M.P. G.D., A. J. Filer P.G.S.B., Cottebrune, James Mason, James Glaisher, J. A. Rucker P.G.D., Thomas Cubitt P.G.P., Joseph Wright, E. P. Albert, S. G. Foxall, Raynham Stewart, J. M. Case G.D., &c. The dais was quite full.

After Grand Lodge had been formally opened, Grand Secretary, by direction of the Earl of Carnarvon, read the following report of the special committee:—"The committee have carefully considered the matters submitted to them, and beg to report as follows:—1st. That the sum of £4,000 be voted for the Royal National Life-boat Institution, for the purpose of founding two life-boat stations in perpetuity, and in such localities on the English coast as the sub-committee hereinafter mentioned shall decide; 2nd. That a sub-committee, consisting of the Right Worshipful Pro Grand Master, the Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master, and the Right Worshipful Senior Grand Deacon, be appointed to wait on the Secretary of the Royal National Life-boat Institution, with full powers to arrange all matters as to locality, details, &c; 3rd. That a memorial tablet be erected in Grand Lodge in commemoration of the event."

The Earl of Carnarvon rose, amidst loud cheers, to propose, "That this report be now received, and that the scheme which it proposes be recommended for adoption to the next Quarterly Communication. In doing so he said that his general duty in that chair and his desire was to act simply as a speaker, to offer no personal opinion, and not to influence in any degree the resolutions which might be arrived at. His general duty, to which he desired to confine himself, was to regulate the proceedings, and to see that they were conducted with that propriety and dignity which befitted this great meeting of Freemasons of England. But on that evening there were exceptional circumstances, and he passed beyond all that limit and took upon himself, as chairman of the special committee, to make a special and exceptional recommendation to Grand Lodge. Under those circumstances he asked the brethren to give him that cordial support which he had invariably met with at their hands. The committee, of which he was the chairman, met, and he wished, in the first instance, to do that committee the simple justice of saying that no inquiries could have been fuller, no discussions could have been more exhaustive, no attention could have been more patient than that which the committee gave to the question before them. They were a committee which represented very fully the opinions of the Craft. Each separate opinion that could find favour with the Craft, either in its general body or in its individual section, were fully brought forward and discussed, and he had now, as the chairman of the committee, to present the brethren with their resolutions, which embodied in fact the report which had been read by the Grand Secretary. The cause of their attendance in Grand Lodge that night was due solely and entirely to himself. He felt—and felt strongly—that in a matter of this sort and of this importance, where such an unusual course was proposed, it was due to the Craft that every conceivable opportunity for discussion should be afforded, and the fullest publicity granted, that no one should have a right hereafter to say that a course had been adopted without the full knowledge and sanction of the Craft, as represented in Grand Lodge. This was his excuse for putting the brethren to the trouble of coming to an especial meeting of Grand Lodge. He hoped that the resolution which he proposed would meet with no opposition. He did not ask this for himself, though he was entitled to look for the brethren's support; but he asked it in consideration of the importance of this question, and above all of the illustrious person in whose name and for whose sake he was now proposing it (hear, hear). It was not so long since his Royal Highness made that most remarkable progress through India that he need recall any of its special incidents to the brethren; it was doubtless fresh in their minds how his Royal Highness passed through the length and breadth of that wonderful—he might almost say fabulous—empire, which it was the boast and glory of the English Crown to hold as its own. They would remember how he passed from one native state to another; how the whole pageantry, so to speak, of Indian pomp, was unrolled before him; and how he, the first of English princes, became acquainted, as it were, both with the public and the private life of the great chiefs of that vast dependency (hear, hear.) It was not merely a matter of private interest and of legitimate curiosity; he fulfilled from his (Lord Carnarvon's) point of view a great public duty (hear); he learned a lesson that no books, no public offices, no documents could possibly have taught him; he saw the inner life of India; and he returned more fitted to advise and to govern than when he left these shores. He discharged a great public duty, and he discharged it well; and when he returned to this country he met with a welcome and a reception such as no Prince of Wales ever met with before. From one end of the country to the other there ran a thrill of congratulation that he had been preserved through all the difficulties and the perils of this long journey, and that he had been restored, as they truly hoped, for the good and the welfare of the country. But if that was the welcome throughout the length and breadth of the land, nowhere was it more strongly felt, nowhere was it more heartily expressed, than it was among the Freemasons of England (hear, hear). Their object that night was to find some means by which they could, so far as they were concerned, erect a memorial of that successful progress of their illustrious Grand Master H.R.H. the Prince of Wales; and at the same time record their thankfulness to the Great Architect of the Universe that it had pleased Him to preserve his Royal Highness through all those perils and difficulties, and restore him back to us in England. As far as finance was concerned there was no difficulty. Happily for Freemasons, unlike almost every other society, this difficulty did not exist. Their funded property afforded them the means of being just and even generous. Their annual surplus was not less than £3,000. The difficulty really was, according to an old French proverb, the embarrassment that proceeded from an excess of wealth. It was difficult to select the object to which their money should be appropriated. At former meetings of Grand Lodge there was some difference of opinion on the point. Many different schemes were proposed, all admirable in themselves. It had been proposed to devote a sum to the restoration and decoration of certain old churches that were more or less connected with Masonry. It was also proposed, at another time, to devote a certain portion to the foundation of scholarships. It was also proposed (and this had at one time found great favour with him) to appropriate it to the charities of Freemasonry (great cheering). He perfectly understood that cheer, and heartily sympathised with it. Had he seen his way to devote this money to the charities, he should have been the first to come forward and give his voice in favour of it. But it was not from want of consideration or predilection for that course that he had come to a different conclusion. If they adopted that course they must either create a new charity, give to one of the old charities exclusively, or divide among the three charities equally. He was opposed to the foundation of a new charity, and he thought the Grand Lodge would not be prepared to devote the money to one only of the existing charities. As to its being divided among the three charities, it appeared to him that it would then be a paltry sum. The charities were the great jewel in the Masonic crown, and if any money was wanted for them it could be got immediately by the voluntary subscriptions of the craft. In illustration of this he submitted to the brethren an experience of his own. He took the chair for the Boys' School the year before last, and over £13,000 was raised on that occasion. Did they mean to tell him, or any one else, that the Boys' School needed the paltry addition of £1,500? If the Boys' School needed funds they had nothing to do but to appeal to the Craft for what they wanted. Therefore he appealed to the brethren not to do the Masonic Institution the wrong and the injustice of applying this money to them; let them not stop the free flowing fountain of benevolence which was ever running in their behalf. The object of the present vote was to record a particular event in history in which the Grand Master of Freemasons played an important part. He thought the brethren had gone along with him so far. He would ask what were the objects to which they should look in this case? They were—Firstly, that any memorial they might create should be special and definite; secondly, that it should be lasting; thirdly, that it should be inseparably connected with some great case of charity; fourthly, that it should go beyond the bounds of the Craft, and embrace the whole nation; and, lastly, that it should be connected with something in which they knew the Grand Master took a lively interest. The present proposition satisfied all these conditions. This memorial would be lasting; it would not be only for a few years one that was to be the sport of the winds and waves, to be worn and torn, and to disappear in time; but it was to last in perpetuity, and to record, as long as the waters washed our shores, the intention and purpose of Grand Lodge. He had gone into the matter carefully, and he found that by arrangements with the Lifeboat Institution they could, for £4,000, furnish two life-boats. The cost of one boat would be about £550; her transport to her place of destination, £150; a building for housing her from decay £350. Her maintenance would be £70 a year, which would require £2,000 at 3½ per cent.; but as the Life-boat Institution extended over a large area, they could afford to do it at a cheaper rate, and they would pledge themselves for £1,000 a year to maintain the life-boat. Therefore, £4,000 would be enough for the two. He thought this was a very satisfactory bargain. He was aware that in a matter of this sort one person would like one thing, and another person another; but he would put it to them that they should forego to a certain extent their own individual opinions. They were met together for a great purpose, and had no private or selfish interests or objects in view. He would exhort them to endeavour at once to act with unanimity. He thought that the foundation of two lifeboats would satisfy all the conditions he had mentioned. It was special and definite, lasting and permanent, and unquestionably charitable. It was national as well as Masonic, and no one could doubt that the Prince of Wales took the liveliest interest in it, because on one occasion he had Presided at its Anniversary Festival. They would not go far astray in giving it for the endowment of two lifeboats. The gift would be made in the cause of Masonry. Masons were on board most ships, labouring in many a gale. Those who had heard the howling of the wind during this last week, those who had listened to the touching services in many of our churches, still more, those who, under such circumstances had had a father or mother, brother or sister, relation or friend, on board those ships, would feel that such a grant as he now asked the brethren to make did not really fall beyond the circle of Masonry. True it was that in a certain sense such a vote appealed, beyond Masonry, to the whole outward world, and he, for one, rejoiced when, once in a way, they could put forth a hand to the outer world, and show they were united to it by the common ties of humanity and sympathy—that they could give the lie to what had been so often urged against the Order, that it was a mere selfish body, actuated by selfish motives and selfish feelings. He rejoiced to give a practical proof in refutation of such a vile calumny as that. Sometimes it was said that Masonry was a mere benefit society. Freemasons, who knew its principles better, and saw its workings more intimately, were aware that there was no truth whatever in such an assertion, and he ventured to think that they who that night recorded by their vote their assent to his proposal would do a great and signal service to English Freemasonry throughout the whole of the world. One word more. This proposal might be better, or it might be worse; he believed it to be good; he believed it to be one of the very few proposals which could be made that on the whole comprised all the conditions that he had mentioned, and which recommended it alike to Freemasons and to others for the objects it had in view. He ventured to put it to Grand Lodge that this vote should be absolutely unanimous. He trusted sincerely that there would be no one single voice raised in opposition to it. Under ordinary circumstances he courted criticism, he rejoiced in criticism, but he would ask them, that, having remitted this question to a Committee, that Committee having given the fairest, fullest, and most impartial consideration to it, the brethren who had appointed the Committee should forego, so far as they conscientiously could, their individual desires (which, he admitted, were perfectly legitimate in every one), and, if it was possible to do so, give the resolution a cordial and unanimous approval. He asked this, not for the sake of the Committee, not for the sake of the Chair from which he was addressing them, but specially for the sake of the particular object they had in view, and of the illustrious person their Grand Master, with whom that object was indissolubly connected, and for whose sake he would not have, if it were possible, the slightest difference of opinion on the subject (loud applause).

"For those in peril on the sea,"

Lord Leigh seconded the motion. He regretted very much the absence of the Deputy Grand Master, who was to have seconded the resolution. He was pleased, however, himself to have the honour of doing so, but his task was an easy one, as the noble Earl had fully, ably and feelingly gone into the whole subject. He must, however, be permitted, on his own part, and on behalf of the Province over which he had the honour of presiding, for six and twenty years, to express the great pleasure it had given him to hear read the resolution which had emanated from the Committee. He agreed with all the remarks of Lord Carnarvon when he said he rejoiced to think that they stepped beyond Masonry with the proposed memorial. He agreed with the noble Earl that it was an unusual subject, and that they ought to show the great world outside Masonry that they were capable of stepping outside their circle, and associating others than their own body with them. The three great Masonic Charities were nobly supported, and if they wanted more support they could not require that paltry £3,000 or £4,000 which was represented by this vote. Lord Carnarvon had said that there were many Masons on board different ships; he, Lord Leigh, might go beyond that, and say that there were tens of thousands of their brethren on the broad seas who might require their assistance; on this ground, therefore, he appealed to his brethren to carry the resolution. He could not conceive a more English mode of assisting charity than for such a great maritime nation to assist their brethren on the seas. He might add for himself, and also for his Province, which numbered a very large body of Freemasons, that they all most cordially agreed with the proposition which had been made. (Applause.)

Bro. W. R. Marsh, amidst loud and continued expressions of dissent, addressed Grand Lodge in opposition to the vote, and submitted an amendment, to the following effect: That £1,500 be applied to endow the Freemasons' Life Boat already stationed at North Berwick. That £1,000 be given each to the Girl's School and Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and £2,500 to found a Scholarship for the Boys' School, this amendment Bro. J. Baxter Langley seconded, upon which Bro. E. J. McIntyre explained that an amendment could not be received, whereon Bro. Marsh moved that the report be referred back to the Committee. However, Bro. J. Baxter Langley and Bro. Marsh subsequently withdrew their amendment, and the resolution was put to Grand Lodge and carried unanimously, amidst hearty cheering.

The Earl of Carnarvon complimented Bro. Marsh and Dr. Baxter Langley on their good feeling, which, he said, all the brethren appreciated; and he requested Grand Secretary to make a formal note that the resolution had been accepted unanimously.

We learn from the Masonic Journal of Greensboro', N.C., that the Grand Lodge of North Carolina held its ninetieth Session at the Hall in the City of Raleigh, on Tuesday the 7th ultimo and three following days. The Grand Master, Bro. Geo. W. Blount, presided, and was supported by his Grand Wardens and other Officers, there being present about two hundred representatives of the Lodges under this jurisdiction. On the second day, the Grand Officers were elected for the ensuing year, namely, Bro. H. H. Munson, Grand Master, and Bros. R. M. Hardee, and J. C. L. Gudger, Grand Senior and Junior Wardens respectively, while Bros. W. E. Anderson and D. W. Bain were re-elected, the former Grand Treasurer, and the latter Grand Secretary. The various Committees having delivered their several reports, and Grand Lodge having accepted them, in some cases with, in other cases without amendment, and having promulgated certain resolutions thereon, the installation of the Grand Officers was held on the evening of the third day. On the last day, further business was transacted, and the Lodge was then closed in ample form and amidst the greatest harmony.

PROVINCE OF EAST LANCASHIRE.

CONSECRATION OF STARKIE LODGE, No. 1634.

ON Wednesday, 27th ult., the anniversary of the festival of St. John, a new Lodge was consecrated and constituted at the Railway Hotel, Ramsbottom. Hitherto there had been no Masonic Lodge in Ramsbottom, and brethren resident there had to travel a number of miles, either to Bury on the one hand, or Haslingden on the other, in order to participate in the proceedings incident to the mystic Craft. Wednesday's ceremony was numerously attended, and passed off with great eclat. About ninety of the brethren were present from different parts of the province of East Lancashire, including the following Provincial Grand Officers:—Colonel Le Gendre, N. Starkie R.W. Provincial Grand Master, William Harrison S.G.W., of Samlesbury Hall, near Preston, Thomas Charlton G. Registrar, Manchester, John Tannah G. Secretary, Bolton, W. O. Walker S.G.D., Bury, John Pilling G. Superintendent of Works, Bacup, C. M. Jones G. Director of Ceremonies, Rochdale, J. H. Sillitoe assistant ditto, Manchester, James Mills G.S.B., Heywood, Thomas Hargreaves G. Organist, Haslingden, Westray Bonn assistant G. Pursuivant, Bacup, Rawdon Ashworth P.G.S., Joseph Handley P.P.G. Treasurer, Bury, Henry Maiden P.P.G.S.B., Bury.

The proceedings commenced about half-past two o'clock in the afternoon. Bro. S. Perritt P.M. opened a Craft Lodge to the third degree, after which the R.W. Prov. Grand Master and his officers were admitted in procession, and Bro. Le Gendre Starkie having taken his seat in the W.M.'s chair the ceremony commenced, and was performed in a most impressive manner. Bros. A. Wroe, S. Bailey, J. Simpson and Kershaw, of Bury, sang the anthems and musical responses most effectively, Bro. J. R. Fletcher, of Bury, officiating as accompanist. The petition and warrant of the new Lodge—which bears the name "Starkie," No. 1634—having been read, and the petitioning brethren having signified their approval of the officers named in the warrant.

The Prov. Grand Master delivered a short oration on the nature and design of Freemasonry. In the course of his remarks he said he hoped that the brethren composing this new Lodge would maintain the dignity and unity which were so essential in Masonry, and which would not only be a credit to themselves, but would show to the outer world that there was something more than mere banquets. Far be it from him to say they should not have their banquets and convivial meetings. He did not see, in their own precepts nor yet in any system of morality, why men should not meet together to enjoy themselves; but when they had certain rules laid down, as they had in Freemasonry, that those enjoyments should be fraternal and rational, a Mason who outstepped them and traduced his obligations was much more culpable than the man who had never been taught them or had the principle brought before him. He wished them to be very careful, concerning character and antecedents, as to who they elected into this Lodge, so that no trouble need be experienced by having among them persons who joined Masonry for ultimate ends of their own, and not for the good of society. The Christmas of 1876 had brought to them the nativity of their Lodge, and he hoped it would be a Christmas hereafter which to the poor might be a benefit, to the oppressed a solace, and to the well-doing a source of brotherly association whereby they might receive benefit.

The remaining portion of the ceremony was then proceeded with, and the consecration being completed, the Prov. Grand Master vacated the chair in favour of the installing master, Bro. W. O. Walker, who installed Bro. Henry Heys as the W.M. of the Lodge, following which Bro. Jos. Handley invested the W.M.'s officers, viz., Bros. Thomas Peak S.W., Samuel Porritt J.W., George J. Cottrill S.D., Samuel Wilson J.D., Samuel Horrocks I.G., Lawrence Stead Ch., John Spencer D. of C., George Thorpe Treasurer, Hazell Imeson Secretary, Henry Lee Sladin Organist, Abel Booth T., John Schofield and Thomas Smith Stewards.

This being completed, the Prov. Grand Master returned his hearty thanks to the Provincial Grand Officers for the assistance they had given him, and especially acknowledged his obligation to Bros. W. O. Walker and Jos. Handley for the admirable manner in which they had performed the installation and investiture respectively. They were not, he was happy to say, under the necessity of procuring extraneous aid from other provinces. It was an honour and credit to the province to have brethren who could perform the ceremony as it had been performed that day, and it was no small gratification to him to know that he had officers under him who were capable of doing their duty, and ever willing to do it, in a manner that could not be beaten by the officers in any other province.

The Prov. Grand Master and his officers then retired, and the W.M. closed the Lodge in due form, announcing that the regular meetings will be held on the third Wednesday of every month. It may be stated that the Lodge furniture, &c., are of an unusually rich and costly description, and excited much admiration on the part of the visitors.

The brethren subsequently adjourned to St. Paul's school-room, which had been appropriately adorned, with a variety of festoons, mottoes, &c., and where a most substantial banquet was served, to a company of 93, by Bro. John Rostron, of Bolton. The chair was occupied by Bro. Heys, who was supported by the Prov. Grand Master and his officers. In the course of the evening a number of choice songs, duets, and glees were given by the vocalists already named as sustaining the musical part of the consecration ceremony, a song of Bro. J. R. Fletcher's, sung by Bro. Wroe—"Here's to his health"—being enthusiastically encored.

The W.M. proposed in succession "The Queen," "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W. Grand Master," "H.R.H. the Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal family," "The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, M.W. Pro Grand Master, the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, R.W. Deputy Grand Master, and the Grand Officers past and present," and "Colonel le Gendre N. Starkie, R.W. Prov. Grand Master. In giving the latter toast he referred in terms of high praise to the good qualities of Bro. Starkie, and said that they must all feel that the Lodge No. 1,634 had not been misnamed in being styled after him. (Cheers.)

The Prov. Grand Master, on rising to respond, met with a perfect ovation. After some preliminary observations, he said Masonry was a system which, if properly and duly studied, would elevate a man in his social position—would elevate his thoughts and inspire him with ideas whereby he could not only ameliorate himself, but also be of great advantage to his brother citizens. Freemasonry was open to the world—to all who believe in Him who is the Great Architect of the Universe. An atheist or deist could not conscientiously enter within the precincts of their Order, but a man was allowed that grand liberty of conscience whereby he could make himself known to be a good citizen, a moral man—and there was no morality without a certain amount of religious feeling—and an obedient citizen to the civil law. Everything noble, generous, and sublime that a man could wish constituted the elements of the great cardinal virtues, the basis and bulwarks of their Order—Faith, Hope and Charity. Would anyone tell him that in this large province of East Lancashire over which he ruled—with its muster roll of 3,880 to 4,000 brethren—Freemasonry had not done good? As this was the christening day of one of the junior members of his provincial family of 84, he thought it would not be inopportune if he gave them a few statistics relative to their numerical position. There were 41 Provincial Grand Lodges in England and Wales, and 37 District Grand Lodges in the colonies and foreign parts, giving a total of 78 under the Grand Lodge of England. There were on the register of the Grand Lodge of England 1,648 Lodges, dividing which by the 78 Provincial or District Grand Lodges they had an average of 21 Lodges to each province or district. How did they stand in the province of East Lancashire? Why they had 84 Lodges, or nearly one-twentieth of the whole of the Lodges under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of England. Taking Lancashire as a whole—84 in the East, and 74 in the West province, or a total of 158 Lodges—they had nearly one-tenth of the whole of the Lodges on the roll of the Grand Lodge of England. He did not think the accusation had ever been made of Lancashire people that they were wanting either in enterprise or acumen; they did not take things up with a futile notion. It was with great pride when he came through those valleys to see how his friends had made fortunes for themselves by their industry and enterprise and knowledge of commerce; and when he found those men likewise great advocates of Freemasonry, it was still more gratifying to him that he held the high and honourable position which he had among them, because they must have taken up Masonry in a very earnest and proper sense, or he should not have found their Lodges so strong and flourishing. This portion of Christmastide had been one of the happiest days he ever spent in his life, and he thought that if Dickens, the great master of Christmas literature, had been a Freemason and could have been with them that day, and have described the proceedings of that day, it would have formed a chapter that would have been eagerly perused by the Masons of Lancashire, and never have been forgotten. It was likewise the Festival of St. John, and he had never spent a happier St. John's Festival than this one. He congratulated Bro. Heys upon being the first Master of this new Lodge, and he must also congratulate them upon the Lodge furniture. He was a sort of provincial octogenarian, and he trusted that his family of 84 Lodges might thrive apace, and that his rule over them might be long. He trusted they might steer clear of all shoals, and that they would keep their charities well supplied with funds, remembering that charity should begin at home. Let not the outer world have to accuse them of indifference or neglect in respect to poor and distressed Masons or their children. They had to be judged by the world, and the world judged very fairly by men's actions. Let them show an example to others, proving by their actions that they wished to enhance the value of morality, pay respect to religion, obey the civil law, and, whatever their political or religious opinions, prove themselves loyal and true to those who were above them; so that as they passed away they might be remembered as men who worked for the good of their country, their neighbours, and the Almighty. (Cheers.)

Bro. Peak proposed the health of "George Mellor, Esq., W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master, and the Prov. Grand Officers, present and past," and Bro. Harrison responded. Bro. Hargreaves proposed "The new Lodge," and Bro. L. Stead responded. The Prov. G.M. gave the next toast, "The newly-installed Master," and expressed much pleasure at the selection which had been made; to which the W.M. responded in appropriate terms. "The Officers of the Lodge" was proposed by Bro. George O'Neil P.M. 191 Bury, and responded to by Bro. Peak; "Masonic Charities," proposed by Bro. Heywood, of Clayton-le-Moors, and responded to by Bro. Spencer; "The Visiting Brethren," proposed by Bro. Porritt, and responded to by Bro. Smethurst; and the Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close.

Nobility of birth is like a cipher; it has no power in itself, like wealth or talent, but it tells with all the power of a cipher when added to either of the other two.

Freemasonry has its history—a history full of generous and noble deeds, well worthy to be preserved and cherished through ages to come. She has survived the vicissitudes, the wars and revolutions of nearly thirty centuries; has witnessed the rise and growth of all the civilised nations on the face of the globe.

Death comes equally to us all, and makes us all equal when it comes. The ashes of an oak in a chimney are no evidence of how nigh or how large it was; it tells me not what flocks it sheltered when it stood, nor what men it hurt when it fell. The dust of a great person's grave is speechless too; it says nothing—it distinguishes nothing.—Masonic Advocate.

NEW ZEALAND.

FILES of New Zealand papers to hand this week contain some items of interest to the Craft. The Thames Advertiser of the 17th November gives a report, extending over five columns, of the opening of a new Lodge under the English Constitution, at the Thames Goldfields, of which we give a condensed account:—

On the 16th November, the Corinthian Lodge was consecrated at the Thames. The ceremony was largely attended, not only by the Thames Masons, but by Masons from other parts of the province. The Corinthian Lodge is the first under the English Constitution started at the Thames, and the first in the North Island province since the appointment of Bro. Sir Donald McLean as P.G.M. under this Constitution. It was intended that the P.G.M. himself should have inaugurated the Lodge and installed its W.M., but Sir Donald McLean, finding himself unable to attend, appointed Bro. M. S. Leers, P.M. of the Prince of Wales Lodge, E.C., Auckland, acting D.P.G.M. for the occasion. The Prov. G.M. could not have made a better selection, Bro. Leers being an enthusiastic Mason, very popular amongst the brethren and thoroughly well up in Masonic usages. He was accompanied from Auckland (a distance of 40 miles) by Bro. T. Jenkins P.M. and Prov. G.D.C. Berks and Bucks, Bros. Reece P.M. Ara Lodge I.C., Dyson P.M. Ara Lodge I.C., G. S. Graham P.M., Gossett, Prince of Wales Lodge E.C., W. R. Robinson P.M. Ara I.C., Prince of Wales E.C., Dr. Dawson, Prince of Wales Lodge, Rev. C. M. Nelson, Prince of Wales Lodge. Visitors from Mackaytown and the Ohinemuri district also attended, and amongst these were Bros. A. J. Allom, D. H. Bayldon, J. Hayman, Ara Lodge, and W. Climo, Lodge of Light I.C. Bro. Keddell P.M. from Coromandel was also present. In fact, the interest shown by the brethren under all three Constitutions was most gratifying. The Sir Walter Scott Lodge S.C. and the Lodge of Light I.C. having assembled at the Masonic Hall, a Provincial Grand Lodge was opened by the Dep. Prov. Grand Master, who read his warrant, under the hand of the Prov. G. Master, empowering him to officiate on the occasion. The following brethren were appointed to act as Prov. Grand Officers pro tem: Bros. G. S. Graham Prov. S.G.W., W. R. Robinson Prov. I.G.W., C. M. Nelson Prov. G. Chaplain, W. Davies Prov. S.G.D., J. Reece Prov. J.G.D., Jenkins Prov. Director of Ceremonies, A. Brodie Prov. Grand Pursuivant. The Prov. G. Lodge having been duly saluted by the brethren present, the ceremony of Consecration of the new Lodge began, and the choir sang an anthem, Bro. Bell presiding at the harmonium. The Prov. G. Chaplain read the first seven verses of the 95th Psalm, and pronounced an invocation to the Great Architect of the Universe to bless the object of the present assembly. The Grand Officers and Past Masters then marched round the hall (the choir in the meantime singing the usual music), and poured out the customary oblations of corn, wine, and oil, and the Chaplain having invoked the Divine blessing on the officers and members of the new Lodge, and on the brethren scattered throughout the world, and the usual responses and honours being given, the Prov. Grand Director of Ceremonies, proclaimed the Corinthian Lodge, duly constituted according to ancient usage. The Prov. Grand Chaplain then read a selection from the 8th chapter of the First Book of Kings; after which the Rev. James Hill delivered an oration. Bro. E. T. Wildman, the W.M. designate, was then duly installed into the chair of K.S., the acting Deputy Prov. G.M. acting as installing Master, and he afterwards appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bros. L. Ehrenfried S.W., H. Goldsmith J.W., the Rev. V. Lush Chaplain, F. R. G. Woodward Secretary, J. Osborn Treasurer, T. Bell Organist, G. Best S.D., D. Boone J.D., Hopkins I.G., O. Garrett Tyler. The brethren afterwards marched in procession to the Anglican Church of St. George, where the order for evening prayer was conducted, and the Prov. Grand Chaplain preached from Hebrews viii. 1, "Let brotherly love continue." A Grand banquet wound up the day's proceedings, this was held in the Academy of Music, where the usual loyal, patriotic, and Masonic toasts were duly given and honoured, and where the brethren spent a most pleasant evening, every satisfaction being expressed at the very able manner in which Bro. M. S. Leers had discharged the onerous duties of his office. The gallery of the banqueting room was occupied by a number of the fair sex, invited by the brethren, who appeared much interested in the proceedings.

"From all parts of the Waikato," says the Waikato Times, "there was a large muster of the brethren of the mystic tie assembled at Hamilton East, on the 9th November, to lay the foundation-stone of a Masonic Hall for Waikato. At the conclusion of the ceremony the brethren sat down to a sumptuous dinner, after which the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were given and responded to."

SCOTLAND.

FESTIVAL OF ST. JOHN'S DAY.

ST. JOHN'S DAY is kept by most of the Scotch Lodges as a high festival. They generally speak of "St. John's Masonry," when their English brethren would describe it as Craft Masonry. From the numerous reports that have reached us we select brief notices of some of the more important meetings. In Glasgow perhaps the most influential was that of St. John's Lodge, No. 3 bis.—The meeting was held in the Lodge's own hall, under the presidency of the retiring Master, Bro. D. M. Nelson, who said he considered it a higher honour to have been Master of this, the oldest Lodge which had preserved its ancient records, than even that of holding the position of G.S.D., to which he had been recently elected by the suffrages of the brethren in the West of Scotland.

Commercial Lodge, 360, under the presidency of Bro. J. Munro R.W.M., J. M. Oliver D.M., and other officers, also held a highly successful meeting, as did St. Mungo, No. 27, and St. Vincent, No. 553. Space forbids our noticing other of the Glasgow Lodges.

Auchterarder.—Bro. B. Malcolm was installed as R.W.M. and A. G. Reid as Secretary, after which a torchlight procession was formed through the "Lang Toun," and although the deep snow somewhat impeded the march of the brethren, yet it added to the effect of the torches.

Beith, No. 157.—After electing and installing Bro. William Gray as R.W.M. for the ensuing year, the members dined together at the Town Hall.

Creif.—Captain Moray, of Blair Drummond, was installed as R.W.M., the brethren afterwards holding high festival.

Dundee, with its seven Lodges, showed its appreciation of the day, by four of them supping at their respective Halls.

Grangemouth, No. 391.—Elected and installed Bros. Selkirk and Watts as R.W.M. and Secretary, and concluded their proceedings with a supper.

Hamilton and Hawick both had suppers, with P.G. Officers present.

Millport, though only an island, was as demonstrative as the main land. The R.W.M. elect, Bro. Wishart, was unable to be present, having met with an accident of a serious nature during a recent storm, but his place was ably supplied by the Rev. H. H. Richmond D.M., who has recently been appointed as Chaplain to the "P.G.L. of Argyle and the Isles."

Rothesay St. John's, No. 292.—At the adjacent island of Bute, the members, under the presidency of Bro. A. Duncan, to the number of about fifty, supped together at Bro. Keeble's, the Victoria Hotel. Both Lodge and Chapter in Rothesay are in a flourishing position.

Stirling No. 30.—Installed Bros. R. Brown and Hawkshire as R.W.M. and Sec., and then dined together in the Corn Exchange. Amongst the Visitors was the Provost of the borough and the Provincial Grand Master, General Sir James E. Alexander, of Westerton. No. 76 also celebrated the day by supping together at their own hall.

Thornhill No. 252.—Held its election during the day, and installed Bro. J. Sutton as Master. In the evening they had a supper, when the Master dwelt on the fact that they had a benefit society in connection with the Lodge, which had a reserve fund of upwards of £100, recommending other Lodges to follow their prudent example. The Blair Dalry Lodge, No. 290, the Melrose St. John, and several other Scottish Lodges, have also benefit societies in connection with them, the officers being elected by the Lodges, and the membership confined to the brethren of the Lodge. Some think this but a sorry kind of substitution for the English style of the Lodge of Benevolence, and the Institution so ably conducted by Bro. Terry, though most Lodges have a private benevolent fund as well, which grant relief in small sums to worthy brethren.

Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73, Glasgow.—Held its first meeting of the year on Tuesday, the 2nd inst., when the new R.W.M. opened it, with Bros. G. M. Donald I.P.M., A. McLeod S.W., John Kay as J.W., in place of his brother William, R. M. Richard Secretary, J. S. Ampleford Treasurer, and the rest of the Officers were in their places. Bros. James Crossley and Duncan McIntyre were raised to the 3rd degree by Bro. G. W. Wheeler, after which the brethren celebrated the new year by an hour's harmony.

St. Mungo Encampment K.T.—Held an emergency meeting on the 3rd inst., at 3 p.m. Sir Knight W. F. Shaw M.E.C. presiding, there were present Sir Knight T. Clavahan P.E.C., J. O. Park D.C., G. W. Wheeler Prelate, J. Ferguson T., J. Tweed S.C., McClanachie J.C., D. Baker 1st A. de C., H. J. Shields 33° P.E.C., Munnohutain Commander, J. Kay, J. B. Hardie, Reddie Carrie, and also, as visitors, Sir Knights D. Russel and D. Ramsey.

LODGE "CANONGATE AND LEITH, L. & C." No. 5.

ODE FOR ST. JOHN'S NIGHT, 27th DECEMBER 1876.

Tune—"Lead kindly Light."—Hymns Ancient and Modern.

HAIL! holy Light, with five mysterious rays,
Nor fierce nor wan;
Monarchs have fed and prophets watched thy blaze
In ages gone:
Hail! holy Light, thou star of brotherhood,
O! bless us still, and guide us to the Good.

Hail! *Master bright, twice raised to yonder throne
The Light shines on,
Thou soul of truth, that Love declares His own
When time is gone,
All joy be thine; oh! reign supremely blest,
Till angel signs shall ope the Lodge of rest.

Hail! Wardens true, and all the mystic tie
Has bound in one;
Behold the glorious Light that streams on high,
Each faithful son:
In compass and on square to order stand,
Till Death shall knock by the Supreme's command.

PETER GARDNER, Poet Laureate.

THE DRAMA.

The Pantomimes—Drury Lane—The Adelphi—The Surrey—The Aquarium—National Standard—The Princess's—The Strand—The Gaiety—Opera Comique—The Royalty.

RESUMING our notes on the various Christmas productions, DRURY LANE, of course, commands our first attention. The subject of the pantomimo this year—which, again, is from the pen of our perennial friend, Mr. E. L. Blanchard, is the well-known story of the Forty Thieves. Every one is familiar with this story, and Morgiana, Ali Baba, and Cassim are amongst one's earliest acquaintances. It is needless, moreover, to assure our readers that the tale does not suffer in the telling; for there is not a man living, if we except, perhaps, Mr. J. R. Planché, who can render an Eastern legend or fairy tale like Mr. Blanchard. The piece is full of fun and vivacity, from the first rising of the curtain to the final transformation scene. Amongst the exponents of the story the Vokes family occupy their usual foremost position. Mr. Frederick Vokes figures as Ali Baba, Miss Victoria as Morgiana, Miss Jessie as the Captain of the Thieves, and Mr. Fawdon Vokes as Hassarac. The company has been further reinforced this year by a most marvellous donkey, which certainly ought not to pass unnoticed. The animal wags his ear and winks his eye in a most knowing fashion, and his tail is a perfect cyclopædia of expression. Altogether the pantomime at Old Drury must be pronounced a most decided success.

At the ADELPHI, Mr. Chatterton presents a decided novelty. While the successful drama of The Shaughraun follows its course uninterrupted at night, a morning pantomime is provided for the juveniles. Unlike other pantomimes, however, it is played entirely by children. The piece is based on the story of Goody Two Shoes, and clever children from all parts of the country have been engaged to sustain the leading rôles. The idea is a good one, and the programme will probably be largely patronised during the holiday season.

Despite his recent financial embarrassments, Mr. William Holland, "the people's caterer," is once more to the fore at the SURREY. The pantomime, Jack and Jill, or, Harlequin Sing a Song of Sixpence, the Demon Blackbird, and the Good Fairies of the Gold and Silver Ferns, is the production of Mr. Frank W. Green. It is an amusing piece, with an abundance of the popular melodies of the day interspersed, and it is mounted with great splendour. Mr. Holland may be congratulated on his success.

The AQUARIUM pantomime is entitled Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star, a title that somewhat unfairly hides the fund of humour and comicality which the piece contains. The scenic effects are very fine, and the acting leaves nothing to be desired. A little army of children, clad in mail, and armed with lances, and the various other accompaniments of a mumalino Tournament form perhaps the most striking feature in the performance. But where all is good, it is difficult to award the palm of merit.

The NATIONAL STANDARD pantomime is based on the same story as that of Drury Lane, and in magnificence of scenery and splendour of appointments the one theatre may be considered not altogether an unfair rival of the other. Here the part of Ali Baba is sustained by Mr. Cyrus Bell, whilst Miss Rose Bell, late of the Alhambra, appears to great effect in the character of the Captain of the Forty. Miss Frederica Taylor, in the part of Hafriz (son of Ali Baba), Mr. Orkins in that of Cassim Baba, and other established favourites make a cast of even excellence throughout.

FREEMASONRY AT BEVERLEY.

From the Hull and Lincolnshire Times.

THE installation of Bro. George Ford as Worshipful Master of the Constitutional Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons took place on Thursday evening, at the Assembly Rooms, Norwood, Beverley. There was a moderate attendance of the brethren, at seven o'clock, including several Provincial and past officers, together with some Visitors from the Humber Lodge No. 57 Hull, the York Lodge No. 236 York, the Alexandra Lodge No. 1511 Hornsea, &c. The chair was taken by the retiring W.M. Bro. Tom Turner, who opened the Lodge in due form, and afterwards performed the solemn rite of installation in accordance with the ancient formularies of the Craft. The newly-installed Worshipful Master then invested his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bros. Tom Turner I.P.M., Henry Grover S.W., T. C. Heselton J.W., W. E. Dixon P.M. Sec., J. F. Wynn P.M. Orator, J. Ford S.D., Findlater J.D., J. B. Naylor D. of C., Eli Bryan I.G., Thomas Marshall P.M., M. Wray Steward, Steele Caterer, and Waudby Tyler. The usual charges having been delivered, and other business transacted, the Treasurer's report was read, from which it was shown that there remained a balance of over £46 in favour of the Lodge. At the conclusion of the interesting proceedings, the brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. Burrell, of the White Horse Hotel, where there was a goodly muster, under the presidency of the W.M. Bro. George Ford. The W.M., in suitable language, expressed his thanks to Bro. Turner for the kind manner in which he had performed the ceremony of installation, and hoped that the I.P.M. and other officers would support him, as he felt convinced they would do, during his year of office. Bro. A. Shepherd P.M. P.P.G.S.D. moved that the very valuable services rendered to the Lodge during the past year by Bro. Tom Turner be recorded on the minutes. Although he had removed from Beverley, yet he had at some inconvenience attended meetings regularly, and had by his experienced aid rendered great service to the Lodge. (Applause). Bro. R. Norfolk P.M., seconded the motion, which was carried amidst great applause. The Immediate Past Master, in acknowledging the compliment paid to him, assured the brethren of the pleasure it had afforded him to render any little service he could to the brethren, and he hoped the time would not soon come when his interest in the Lodge should be diminished. (Applause). It had been a source of unfeigned pleasure to him to install his old friend, Bro. Ford, to whom he wished a happy and successful year of office. He was supported in the chair by Bros. S. T. Camidge P.M. P.P.G.O., W. D. Keyworth P.M. P.P.G. Superintendent of Works, Tom Turner I.P.M., W. E. Dixon P.M. P.P.G.S.D., R. Norfolk P.M., T. Marshall P.M., J. F. Wynn P.M., &c. The vice-chair being ably filled by Bro. A. Shepherd P.M. P.P.G.S.D. At the conclusion of a very sumptuous repast, the customary Loyal and Craft toasts were given from the chair and most enthusiastically received.

Bro. R. Norfolk P.M. then gave the health of the Immediate Past Master, Bro. Tom Turner. (Applause). They must all acknowledge the valuable aid they had always received at Bro. Turner's hands, and the efforts he had put forth for the furtherance of Masonry generally. His heart was thoroughly in the cause, and his whole actions testified that he wished to see it progress. Bro. Turner had risen rapidly through the various grades to the highest position in the Lodge, and this was due to the very high esteem in which he was held among the brethren. (Applause.) He trusted their excellent I.P.M. might long be spared to maintain his connection with the Old "Constitutional" Lodge, and that his zeal in the furtherance of the interests of the Craft would be as marked as it had been in the past. (Applause.)

Bro. Tom Turner I.P.M., in responding, thanked the officers and brethren sincerely for the support they had accorded to him during his year of office. He must say he felt some regret that he had not discharged his duties to his own satisfaction, for living out of the town it was not always possible for him to remain during the whole time their meetings lasted. That absence, however, he was glad to say, would be only temporary, when he hoped to be able to meet them more regularly. (Applause.) He should be happy to assist the new Master in every possible way; and he trusted the brethren would rally round him in such a manner as would render his year of office a happy and successful one. (Applause.) Bro. Ford had been the Treasurer of the Lodge for many years, and had managed their funds in the most satisfactory way. They were now entrusting him with higher duties, and he had every confidence their new Master would acquit himself with satisfaction to all who took an interest in the Lodge. (Applause.)

Bro. Geo. Ford W.M., who was received with prolonged applause, thanked the brethren for the cordiality with which he had been received, and assured them he should endeavour to discharge the duties of the exalted office to which they had elected him to the best of his ability. (Applause.)

Bro. J. F. Wynn P.M., in proposing the Health of the Visiting Brethren, spoke of the value of an interchange of thought and action between members of the various Lodges. Nothing more tendered to promote the grand principles that the Craft inculcated, than these reciprocal visits, not only because the brethren became better acquainted with each other, but also because they afforded an opportunity of observing the manner in which the ceremonies were conducted in various Lodges (hear, hear). By this means they caught the spirit which pervaded all the Masonic symbols, and he felt certain if they studied the principles of Masonry, as depicted on those emblems—he might say the ethetics of Masonry—it would elevate them in the standard of human excellence, and raise Masonry into that estimation which it so justly merited. It was well known that Masonry was not only the most ancient, but also the most honourable institution that ever existed, inasmuch as it inculcated the highest principles of piety and virtue, amongst all its genuine purposes (applause). He hoped they would strive to rise in intellectual knowledge, in accordance with the principles which Masonry taught them, if so, it would not only make them better members of society, but would tend to influence their homes, and make home what it ought to be, the scene of mutual happiness and love. That influence, like the circle in the water, would extend, not only to the benefit of this Lodge, but of all other Lodges, and through them to the whole human family. (Applause).

The toast, having been received with the utmost cordiality, was acknowledged in suitable terms by Bro. Camidge, P.M., P.P.G.O., on behalf of the York Lodge, by Bro. W. D. Keyworth, P.M., P.P.G. Supt. Works for the Humber Lodge, and by Bro. H. J. Amphlett for the Alexandra Lodge, Hornsea.

Several other toasts followed, and the proceedings—which were of a very harmonious and interesting description—were enlivened by some excellent songs, &c.

MISTAKES IN FEEDING FOWLS.—We need not stop to prove that as an egg contains animal food in its most concentrated natural form—a fact well known to all physicians—its regular production must demand a regular and sufficient supply of food adapted to produce it. There is an amazing difference between the appetites of hens which are not laying and those which are, or are about to commence. Hence the starving system of feeding poultry can never afford any return; and fowls which are only allowed to eat "what they pick up," will, in England at least, rarely produce anything worth speaking of. In America and the colonies, where grain is little thought of, and abounds to some extent all over the farm, or in the English stack-yard at harvest seasons, it may be different; but, as a rule, chance feeding will always result in very chance receipts, added to which birds thus left to forage for themselves will in many cases lay away, where their eggs can never be found. But in general the mistake is the other way; and with respect to adult fowls we have not the slightest hesitation in saying that at least three-fourths of all kept by the middle classes, excepting those of experienced "fanciers," have far too much to eat. Farmers' fowls get far too little; other people's mostly the reverse. They get fat; and a fat hen is never a good layer, while a pampered male bird is lazy, if not altogether useless for purposes of breeding.—From "The Illustrated Book of Poultry."

67 BARBICAN, E.C.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE event of the week is, undoubtedly, the solemn proclamation of Her Majesty, at Delhi and the chief cities in our Indian Empire, Empress of India. Delhi, it will be remembered, was the capital of the old Mogul Empire, of which most of the other princes of India were vassals, and from which we first obtained permission to erect factories for the purpose of trade, in the early part of the 17th century. It was, therefore, the fitting place for the most important of the ceremonials to take place, namely, that in which the Viceroy himself took a leading part. The event passed off most auspiciously. There was a grand gathering from all parts, of the principal vassals of India. The diplomatic and consular bodies were strongly represented. The splendid display made by the chiefs was in keeping with the occasion, and there was a fine body of troops, numbering some 15,000 men, of all arms of the service, present as an illustration of our Imperial Power. The Viceroy played his part vice-regally, and the usual salutes announced the event to the population of the Imperial city of the old Moguls. A new Order of Knighthood has been instituted in commemoration of the event, while numerous appointments and promotions in connection with the Order of the Star in India have further signalised it. We note, for the benefit of those who have objected to the assumption by her Majesty of the Imperial title, on the ground that the more ancient and honourable title of Queen would be lost sight of, that the National Anthem of "God save the Queen" was played, at the fitting moment, by the military bands. So long as our National Anthem is what it is, there need not, we imagine, be any fear of the Queenly title yielding precedence to the Imperial. The same formal proclamation of her Majesty's assumption of her Indian title was made simultaneously in Calcutta, Bombay, Madras, and other cities.

Wednesday was an important day in the history of our Craft. A special meeting of Grand Lodge was convened on that day, for the purpose of receiving the report of the Special Committee appointed to consider the fittest means of commemorating the Grand Master's visit to India. A full report of the proceedings will be found in another part of our columns, and also our remarks on the nature of the proposition, so that no further comment here is necessary.

The almost daily record of storms and inundations is very terrible to read. There has been nothing of what is known as genial Christmas weather, but a warm spring temperature and a succession of tremendous gales and storms of rain almost unprecedented, even in our fickle climate. Hardly, indeed, has any part of the country escaped without sustaining damage more or less considerable. Turn we in which direction we may, we hear of rivers rising and flooding the country for miles and miles on either side of the banks. The towns along our southern coast have suffered severely. The pier at Eastbourne has been washed away, and the officials had a narrow escape of being washed away with it. Seaford, a few miles from Newhaven, has been inundated. The piers at Brighton and Hastings experienced some rude shocks, and indeed all the favourite sea-side resorts of our London population have latterly had a hard time of it. In Scotland, the storm has been terrific. In the valley of the Thames, the country for miles around is under water, and so, too, has it been the case in the valleys in the Midlands and to the West and East of England. In London the Thames rose, in the early part of this week, and caused immense loss of property in the low lying districts, especially along the southern shore. But, fortunately, the inhabitants had received warning of the threatened rise of the river, and had made preparations accordingly. At sea, ships have been driven out of their course, and many have perished. There has, too, been serious loss of life as well as of property. In fine, we have latterly had a continuance of stormy weather such as few people remember to have visited us for many a long year.

From the annual report, just issued by the Registrar-General of Births, Deaths, and Marriages, it appears that during the 52 weeks of the year 1876 the births registered in London numbered 127,015, and the deaths 77,411, the difference being 49,604, which represents, of course, the year's growth of population. This means an increase of over half a-million for the decennial period which elapses between one census and another. The birth-rate was equivalent to 36·5 per 1,000 as against 35·7 for the preceding year, while the death-rate was slightly increased, being 22·2 per 1,000 as against 21·5 for 1875. The more fatal diseases appear to have been small-pox, which shows an increase of 660 over last year; measles, which has caused 314 more deaths, and diarrhœa 320. On the other hand, scarlet fever has declined by 1,354 fatal cases, other fevers by 108, diphtheria by 187, and whooping-cough by 493. The number of marriages in the year was 33,248, of which 6,500 were celebrated in the March quarter, 8,689 in the June quarter, 8,883 in the September quarter, and 9,176 in the December quarter. Of the persons married 4,612 were widowers and 3,309 widows. While as to age 1,531 men and 5,582 women were under the age of 21.

One of those fine-spirited men of energy to whom this country is so largely indebted for its commercial success, died on Friday last, at the age of seventy-three. Sir Titus Salt, Bart., was the son of a woolstapler near Bradford, and was born in September 1803. He devoted himself in early life to the manufacture of stuffs, but his success in life is in the main attributable to his being the discoverer for practical purposes of the wool or hair of the alpaca. In 1836 he showed some cloth manufactured from this to a Liverpool broker. In 1848 he was elected mayor of Bradford. In 1851, his works at Saltaire for the manufacture of the new material were commenced, and in 1853, on the anniversary of his fiftieth birthday, they were opened for business purposes. In 1859, he entered Parliament, as one of the members for Bradford, but resigned in 1861. He was a magistrate for this town, and also on the commission of the peace for the West Riding of Yorkshire, while he was also a deputy lieutenant for the latter. In 1857 he filled the office of President of the Bradford Chamber of Commerce, and in 1869 had the honour of a baronetcy conferred upon him. His works at Saltaire furnished employment to a large number of persons, there having been, according to the last census, 820 houses occupied by 4,389 persons. In 1863 he erected baths and washhouses for his people, besides schoolrooms and a congregational church, the latter at a cost, with the site, of £10,000 In 1871 he gave a beautiful park of fourteen acres in extent for the use of the public; and, besides these acts of beneficence we have mentioned, distinguished himself by innumerable acts of charity towards the inhabitants of his neighbourhood, and especially towards his workpeople. Indeed, his contributions to charities and public donations during the last quarter of a century, are said to have amounted to some hundred thousand pounds. Be this as it may, he was a very worthy man, and deserved his success.

The year opened more auspiciously as regards the prospects of peace, now, however, the political horizon is again clouded and the outcome of the conference presents, at present, a very gloomy aspect. It is said that Turkey declines to yield on those points submitted for her acceptance which affect her Sovereign independence. In some quarters, indeed, it is rumoured that she has declined even to entertain the various propositions that have been presented by the Ministers of the Great Powers. If this be the case, the future would indeed be a sad one, for Russia, in the general opinion, has gone too far to recede from the advanced position she took up on the 1st November last. However, the armistice as between the late contending powers has been prolonged for a further period of two months, and the Russian army in Bessarabia is said to be quite unfit to take the field. It is rumoured also that Russian enthusiasm for the Slavonic cause has calmed down greatly since the return home of the officers and soldiers engaged in the recent Servian campaigns. If this be the case, and Turkey shows herself not too unyielding, there is hope after all that the peace of Europe may not again be disturbed. That the present time, however, is a critical one may be gathered from the fall in stocks which has occurred on most of the European Exchanges. One thing is certain amid all these painful uncertainties, and that is, that the conduct of our special ambassador the Marquis of Salisbury is both firm and conciliatory, as befits that of a great civilized power like ours. Whatever may betide us we shall have great reason to be proud of his conduct throughout these difficult negotiations. He has upheld the dignity of the British Crown in the most trying circumstances. It is not England that will lose in public estimation by her conduct throughout this critical negotiation.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE first meeting of the Board of Stewards was held on Monday, the 4th inst., at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street. Bro. Jas. Terry announced that H.R.H. Prince Leopold would take the chair on the 12th February (the 14th being Ash Wednesday). Bro. J. March Case G.J.D. was elected to the chair, Bro. S. Tomkins G. Treasurer was appointed Treasurer, Bro. Jas. Terry Secretary to the Board. He announced that up to the present time there were 221 stewards. Bro. Bros. Rev. C. J. Martyn P.G.C., S. Rosenthal, C. J. Levitt, and H. M. Levy, were appointed a Musical Committee. LIFEBOAT SERVICES IN 1876.

THE Lifeboats of the National Lifeboat Institution during the storms of the year which has just closed rendered goodly service in saving life from shipwreck on various parts of the coasts of the United Kingdom. 498 lives were rescued by the Society's Lifeboats during the year, in addition to 18 vessels saved from destruction. In the same period the Lifeboat Institution granted rewards for saving 85 lives by fishing and other boats, making a total of 583 lives saved last year, mainly through its instrumentality. It should be also stated that the launches of the Lifeboats, unattended with positive results, have, as in previous years, been during the year very frequent. But on such occasions there is no time for hesitation, and the Lifeboat proceeds out at once to offer help, which, as it often happens, the vessel in distress may not, from various subsequent causes, ultimately need. Altogether, since its formation the Society has contributed to the saving of 21,372 shipwrecked persons, for which services it has granted 968 Gold and Silver Medals, besides pecuniary rewards to the amount of £30,029. The character of these noble Lifeboat services has varied much, some having been performed during the darkness of the night, others in the daytime; but nearly all have been rendered during stormy weather, which would have prevented any ordinary open boat from accomplishing the rescue. Again, it is most gratifying and encouraging to know that, notwithstanding the peril and exposure incurred by the gallant crews last year, only one life was lost from the 256 Lifeboats of the Society, although about 12,000 men were out in them on all occasions during the twelve months. We feel assured that an Institution so truly national and benevolent in its character will maintain its firm hold on British sympathy and support; and that while it continues to pursue its course of usefulness with unabated vigour, the support and appreciation of the public will be proportionately liberal. We will only add that contributions in aid of the great and important work of the National Lifeboat Institution are received by all the Bankers throughout the United Kingdom, and by the Secretary at the Institution, 14 John Street, Adelphi, London.

A meeting of this institution was held on Thursday at John-street, Adelphi, Mr. Thomas Chapman in the chair. The meeting expressed great gratification at the fact that, at a special meeting of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons, it was recommended that two life-boat stations should be provided and endowed by the Freemasons of England, at an expense of £1,000, in thankfulness for the safe return from India of the Grand Master, the Prince of Wales. The thanks of the institution, inscribed on vellum, were voted to the Rev. Henry R. Wilson, curate of Drumbeg, for going out in the Ballywalter life-boat, during a very strong gale from the south-east, and in a heavy sea, on the 15th ult., when she was the means of saving the crew of five men from the brigantine Jenny Lind, of Whitehaven, stranded on the rocks off Ballywalter. The sum of £12 19s 6d was also granted to pay the expenses of that lifeboat service. Other rewards, amounting to upwards of £100, were also granted to the crews of various lifeboats of the institution for gallant services during the late severe and long-continued storms. Payments to the amount of £3,700 were ordered to be made on the 256 life-boat establishments of the society.

Lodge La Tolerance, No. 538.—The installation meeting was held on Thursday, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bros. C. F. Burmeister W.M., H. Wood S.W., Walters J. W., J. Kench P.M. Treasurer and Acting Secretary, and Past Masters Bros. Lindus, Wilson and Sly. The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. The W.M. raised Bro. Frank. Bro. H. Wood S.W. and W.M. elect was then presented to the Lodge, and a Board of Installed Masters was opened. Bro. H. Wood was duly installed by Bro. J. Kench P.M., in a manner that reflected great credit. The brethren having saluted the W.M., he invested his officers, C. F. Burmeister I.P.M., Walters S.W., Quitman J.W., Kench P.M. Treas., Child Secretary, T. Cooper S.D., Marshall J.D., Williams I.G., Dudgeon D.C., Humphreys W.S., Sweares Steward. The W.M., in a very genial manner, addressed appropriate remarks to each brother on his investure. Bro. Seymour Smith presided at the harmonium. The W.M. said he had great pleasure to inform the brethren that, by the unanimous votes of the brethren, they had decided to present Bro. Burmeister with a Past Master's Jewel. He had discharged his duties ably. Bro. Burmeister, in feeling and appropriate remarks, returned thanks for the valuable gift. The Secretary stated that Bro. Humphreys had presented the Lodge with an elegant album, where he hoped the portraits of the members would be placed. The W.M. also presented the Lodge with two Deacon's wands. Votes of thanks were unanimously accorded to the brethren. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to an excellent dinner and dessert, provided by Bro. Dawkins. Grace having been said by the Rev. P. M. Holden, the W. M. proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Burmeister I.P.M., said the Gavel had been placed in his hand for a pleasurable duty, that was to propose the toast of Bro. Moore, the W.M. He hoped he would be spared for many years to be among them; he was one whom they all respected, and who he was sure would carry out every detail to their satisfaction. (Cheers.) The W.M. responded to the toast. It was his pleasure to do all he could to give satisfaction to the Lodge; he, however, had to follow a good predecessor. He gave a poetical idea of the good fellowship that sprung from Masonry; he might claim many brethren amongst those who he saw surrounding him. The next toast was that of the "Visitors." The distinguished brethren present they were all pleased to see. Bros. Rev. P. M. Holden, Swallow, Harrison, and H. M. Levy responded, and each one paid a compliment to the working of the I.P.M., the Installing Master, Bro. Kench, and the hospitality of the Lodge. The W.M. in eulogistic terms spoke of the excellent qualifications of the I.P.M. Bro. Burmeister, who they were all proud of. He had discharged each duty required of him, and he hoped that every brother would drink the toast with the enthusiasm it merited. Bro. Burmeister said he was one of the oldest members of the Lodge. He felt it an honour to be among them as a Past Master, and he hoped to be with them for many years, to look after the interests of the Lodge. The W.M. was pleased to see among them five Past Masters. All knew their value, and the manner every one had discharged his duty in the chair. He hoped they would give them a hearty fire. The toast was responded to by Bros. Wilson, Sly, Kench, and Lindus. The W.M. next gave "The Officers." All were qualified to fill any office required of them; while they had such brethren he was sure the Lodge would flourish. This toast having been responded to, the Tyler's was given. Bros. Seymour, Smith, Mutton, Crump, Simmonds, and Davis contributed to the harmony. The Rev. P. M. Holden gave a recitation. The visitors were—Bros. Gunerall 1228, Rev. P. M. Holden W.M. Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.—Held at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on 2nd Jan. Present—Bros. Hill W.M., Bedell S.W., Ellis J.W., Maidwell S.D., Sayer I.G., Symonds, Baxter, Daniel, Hollands, Davey P.M., Richards, Marks, Dart, Hewlett. The Lodge resumed to the first degree, and the first and second sections of the Lecture were worked by Bro. Ellis, assisted by the brethren. Bros. Symonds, Hewlett and Dart were elected members. On the ensuing Tuesday arrangements will be made for the annual banquet.

St. John's Lodge, No. 70.—The annual meeting of this Lodge was held at the Masonic Temple, Plymouth, on the day of St. John the Evangelist. The minutes having been confirmed, two gentlemen were ballotted for, and, having been duly elected, they were initiated. This ceremony was performed by the W.M., Bro. Thomas. The next business was the installation, which was also conducted by the retiring W.M., Bro. H. W. Thomas, who very ably installed his successor, Bro. Richard Pengelly S.W. He had the able assistance of the W. Bros. J. J. Avery, Gover, Westcott, V. Bird, and a large Board of Installed Masters. The officers appointed for the ensuing year were:—Bros. H. W. Thomas I.P.M., J. Arnold S.W., Samuel Roach J.W., L. D. Westcott P.P.G.S. Works. Treas., J. B. Gover P.P.G.A.D.C. Sec., J. Lean S.D., J. Willcocks J.D., C. Stribling P.G.S. D.C., E. Tout A.D.C., H. Arnold Org., W. Odam I.G., J. Fox S.S., H. Richardson J.S., T. Smith Tyler. The usual business consequent at the yearly meeting having been transacted, the brethren adjourned to the Globe Hotel, where the banquet was held, which, as on former occasions, was all that could be desired. The W. Master proposed The Queen, the Patron of the Order, which was received with the usual enthusiasm. W. Bro. Stribling, in proposing the health of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the M.W. Grand Master, alluded to the eminent services rendered to the Order by its illustrious head; our Grand Master always efficiently performs his duty, and had been ably assisted by the Grand Officers. W. Bro. J. B. Gover proposed the toast of the R.W. P.G. Master, the Rev. Bro. Huyshe the R.W., Bro. L. P. Metham D.G.M., and the Officers past and present of the Prov. Grand Lodge of Devon. He said that the name of Bro. Huyshe was always identical with pure Freemasonry. As a landowner and landlord, he was universally respected; as a magistrate, his decisions had never been questioned, because he always tempered justice with mercy; as a clergyman, he was the venerated adviser and helper of his parishoners, in fact, no one of them ever wanted either the necessaries or comforts of life, because Bro. Huyshe, or his amiable wife (who was a Mason in heart and practice), always cared for every poor and needy person in their district; as a Freemason, the Prov. Grand Master was respected throughout the length and breadth of England; his experience of more than half-a-century, his munificent donations and subscriptions to every charity, whether inside or outside of the Order, and the high and exalted positions he had filled in every degree, had caused him to be regarded as 'one of the pillars of the Order, whilst in his own Province of Devon, over which he had ruled for a quarter of a century, he was universally beloved. Bro. Metham was also known far and wide for his practical Masonry. The Female Orphan Asylum at Stoke would be a lasting monument to him; it would remain, when marble memorials have crumbled into dust, a lasting tribute to his indomitable energy and perseverance. As the second ruler in the province, he was always accessible, always ready to give advice and assistance to his brethren, however humble, and he had done very much to raise the tone of Freemasonry in Devon. The P.G. officers, past and present, were the right men in the right place. The Masons of Devon need never be ashamed of their officers. The Rev. W. Whittley returned thanks for the Past Grand officers. He endorsed all that had been said by the proposer. As to the practical Masonry of the P.G. Master and the D.P.G. Master, their names were household words, and their example, if followed by all the brethren, would cause Freemasonry to assume a higher position than even the exalted one which it at present held. W. Bro. Curtcis P.G.S.W., in returning thanks for the P. Grand officers, said it occurred to him that Bro. Gover had remarked, some years ago, that the Grand officers were always the best Masons, and accepting that as a truism, he had much pleasure in occupying the proud position of Senior Grand Warden. His name had been mentioned on many occasions as a beggar, he was proud of the name; he had begged before for other Charities. He was begging now for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Masons and their Widows; and having carried up a large amount for that Institution, he hoped at no very distant period, to ask the cordial co-operation of the brethren to a new Charity, to be introduced by the R.W. Bro. Metham, and to be called "The Huyshe Educational Fund," its object being to clothe and educate the sons and daughters of deceased or indigent Freemasons. W. Bro. Westcott proposed the R.W. Bro. the Earl Mount Edgecumbe P.G.M., the R.W. Bro. Sir F. M. Williams D.P.G.M., and the officers of the Grand Lodge of Cornwall. He alluded to the rapid progress of the Order under the genial sway of the present rulers; the courtesy and urbanity of manner of the P.G. Master was widely known and appreciated, and the cordial manner in which he had acted with Devon, on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales to Plymouth, had cemented the two provinces. He also bore willing testimony to the eminent services rendered to the Craft by the W. Bro. Hughan P.G.D. of England, who was an authority, not only in his own province, but throughout the world. He regretted that a previous engagement prevented the noble Earl Mount Edgecumbe, and indisposition prevented Bro. Hughan from being present. Bro. H. Clarke S.W. of Lodge 1071, Cornwall, returned thanks, reciprocating all kindly feelings. R.W. Bro. Moore (the Mayor of Plymouth) proposed the health of the W. Master, Bro. Pengelly. He said, his short experience in the Order had taught him that no one could be unanimously elected to the proud position of W.M. of such an influential and numerous Lodge as St. John's, unless he had proved himself to be worthy of the proud position which he held; from what he knew and what he had heard, he believed that Bro. Pengelly would preserve the prestige of his Lodge, and he sincerely wished him a very successful year of office. The W. Master, in a few well chosen words, returned thanks: He thoroughly appreciated the high honour of presiding over the senior Lodge of this portion of the province. He knew he could always rely on the assistance of the Past Masters, and he hoped his officers would be punctual in attendance, and perfect in their duties. Bro. J. J. Avery proposed the health of the I.P.M., Bro. Henry W. Thomas, who had well and efficiently performed his duties for the past year. Under his presidency, there had been nothing but peace and unanimity; there had been a large increase of members, a large increase of subscriptions to various charities, a marked improvement in working, and he handed to his successor the warrant pure and unsullied. The brethren of the Lodge, duly appreciating his services, had resolved to present him with a P.M.'s jewel. It was not a vote from Lodge funds, but a gift from the members individually, to mark their appreciation of the efficient services rendered by Bro. Thomas. During his Mastership the Lodge had been very happy and prosperous. He left the chair with the warmest wishes of the brethren for his continued health and prosperity, and all hoped that he might be long spared to continue his very valuable assistance to the Lodge. Bro. Thomas said he was taken by surprise, and could not find words to express his thankfulness to the brethren for their generous and thoughtful kindness. He should always set a high value on the jewel just presented, not on account of its intrinsic value, although that was considerable, but because of the true brotherly feeling manifested towards him by every member of the Lodge. He was very glad to think that faults of which he was conscious had been overlooked by the brethren, they had each and all done their utmost to make his year of office a pleasant and prosperous one, and they had succeeded. The amount of work done had been very large. Their donations to different charities bore favourable comparison with any other Lodge in the province, and their funds were in a flourishing condition. He left the chair with regret, because of its many happy associations, but he was proud to think that whilst there he had, however undeservedly, won their approbation, and he should ever remember with gratitude their many kindnesses. The W.M. proposed the healths of the Wardens. Bro. J. Arnold had been constant in attendance, and efficiently performed his duties. Bro. S. Roach was an old Mason, he was highly respected by his brethren, and he was sure he could rely upon the Wardens carrying out their duties to the satisfaction of the Lodge. Bro. J. Arnold thanked the Lodge for his position in it; he would endeavour faithfully to carry out the duties of his office. Bro. S. Roach said that from various causes he had been prevented from attending Lodge so often as he could have wished, but he fully intended being present on every possible occasion. He had a high respect for the Order. None could fail to be impressed with the loyalty and power for good which was contained in Freemasonry. Bro. Thomas proposed the healths of the Treasurer and Secretary. A Lodge owed a great deal to those officers; their work was arduous and continuous. Their Treasurer was always at his desk, ever ready to receive dues and fees, and equally ready to expend. He occupied a proud position in the Lodge, and deservedly so. The Secretary had for many years occupied his position, to the satisfaction of all. His Masonic experience was invaluable, his advice and assistance were always available, and he was sure that the Treasurer and Secretary had the respect and best wishes of the members. Bro. Westcott returned thanks to the brethren for their renewed confidence. His motives were to so manage the funds that there might always be an available balance, but when votes were made for any charity it had never been his custom to see which side the balance stood; he was only too happy to pay. He congratulated the Lodge on its present financial position. Bro. Gover said his position was no doubt highly honourable, but the Secretary was very generally the scapegoat for the sins of the Lodge, and it required some amiability of temper to bear the faults of others in addition to his own. He, however, always acted with the best possible intentions, and if in the execution of his duties he inadvertently offended any one, he assured them that it was not intended; that he aimed to please every member, and preserve intact the dignity and honour of his mother Lodge. The Worshipful Master proposed the Past Masters. Few Lodges were so favoured with large attendances of P.M.'s as Lodge 70. They could always be relied upon for advice and assistance, thus rendering the duties of the chair comparatively easy. W. Bro. Holmes could speak for all the others, they were always happy to be of assistance to the W.M., or to fill any vacant office, however humble. W. Bro. Andrews proposed the Assistant Officers, without their constant attendence, and knowledge of their duties, the work of the Lodge could not be carried on with effect; he thought it was the toast of the evening. W. Bro. C. Stribling P.M., &c., thought the Assistant Officers would be equal to any occasion; the W.M. might rely upon them. W. Bro. Du Pre proposed the Visiting Brethren. He thought his was the toast of the evening. It had been his lot to travel over the world, and whether in India, America, or any part of Europe, he had always received a hearty welcome and invaluable advice. Lodge 70, like every other Lodge, was always delighted to have visitors, they could not come too often, or in too great numbers. He should ask the W.M.'s of Lodges 105 and 156, and W. Bro. Vincent Bird, the Treasurer of the Three Towns Casual Relief Fund to respond. W. Bro. Twose 105, and W. Bro. J. Y. Avery 156, reciprocated all the kind wishes of the proposer, and enforced the principle that it was the duty, as well as the pleasure of Masons to visit each other as often as practicable. W. Bro. V. Bird in the course of his remarks adverted to the Educational Scheme which had been previously spoken of by Bro. Curteis. Years ago he had advocated it; had recently endeavoured to initiate it; and was ready to support it in a practical way, and to the best of his ability. Bro. Gover said that, notwithstanding what had been uttered by previous speakers, they came now to the real toast of the evening, they could do without assistant officers, they might, however, hardly do without Masonry, but it was quite impossible to exist without the ladies. All true Masons were poets, all true poets were Masons, and from time immemorial had united to bear willing testimony to the influence of the better and fairer part of mankind. Truly they were "ministering angels." He could not understand how a bachelor could exist, but he knew all who were happily married sympathised with them in their unhappy condition. Bro. W. F. Moore, with much pleasure, returned thanks, although his idea was that it should have been the pleasant duty of a younger bachelor, still he would yield to none in his respect and admiration of the ladies, for whom he esteemed it an honour to respond. The Rev. W. Whittley proposed the last toast. Our Poor and Distressed Brethren. In Masonry the poor were never forgotten, the charity of the Order was universal, and he appealed to the brethren to keep up their high prestige, and to go on in a pure rivalry to do good to their fellow men, The enjoyment of the festivity was much enhanced by excellent songs from Bros. Thomas, J. J. Avery, J. Y. Avery, Mitchell, Goodchild, and others, who were accompanied by the Organist, Bro. H. Arnold. Bro. Twose gave some readings in his usual brilliant manner. The following brethren were present:—Bros. R. Pengelly W.M., H. W. Thomas I.P.M., W. F. Moore 156, Rev. W. Whittley S.W. 156 P.P.G.C., V. Bird P.M. 954 P.P.G.T., E. A. Davies P.M., P.P.G.S. Works, J. D. Westcott P.M. P.P..G.S. Works, J. B. Gover P.M. P.P.G.A.D.C., R. B. Twose P.M. and W.M. 105, J. J. Avery P.M. P.G. Treasurer, C. Stribling P.M. P.G.S., J. E. Curteis P.M. P.G.S.W., J. Du Pre P.M. P.P.G.D.C., H. F. Hearle P.M. P.P.G.A.D.C., F. P. Holmes P.M. P.P.G.S. Works, J. Hiffley P.M. P.P.G.A.D.C., W. Browning P.M. P.P.G.D.C., H. Hearle W.M. 1255, J. Watts P.M. P.P.G.S., W. K. Richardson, Farthing, Mitchell, Fox, Williams, Tout, Holloway, Adams, Tarratt, Cooper, Boon, Popkiss, Griffin, Symons, H. Clarke 1071 S.W., Smith, Goodchild 1247, Lewis 1217, T. Cuming. Letters of regret of inability to be present from various causes, and conveying best wishes, were read from the R.W. Bros. L. P. Metham D.P.G.M. &c., Earl Mount Edgecumbe P.G.M. Cornwall, W. J. Hughan P.G.D. England P.P.G.S. Cornwall &c., Charles Godtschalk P.G.J.D. &c., R. R. Ellis P.M. 105, C. Mutten 1205 J.W. and others. The dinner was supplied in Bro. Watts' usual style, the viands being varied, ample in quantity, and excellent in quality; the wines all that could be wished, and the attendance unusually good—all things tending to mark the Festival of Lodge St. John for 1876 with a white stone.

Royal Gloucester Lodge, Southampton, No. 130.—On Wednesday, the 27th of December, Bro. Robert Sharpe, Past Prov. Grand Organist, was installed the Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. The ceremony was performed by the Grand Secretary for the province of Hants and the Isle of Wight, P.M. Le Feuvre, in the presence of a goodly number of brethren, twelve past masters forming the board of Installed Masters. At the conclusion of the ceremony, which was performed in a most impressive manner, and subsequently acknowledged by a special vote of the Lodge, the newly-installed Master invested his Officers as follows:—Bros. C. J. Phillips S.W., C. W. A. Jellicoe J. W., Rev. E. Y. Nepean Chaplain, J. E. Le Feuvre P.M. Treasurer, J. R. Weston P. M. Secretary, J. Cole S.D., Jennings J.D., H. M. Pike Organist, Meyer I.G., Robertson and Obree Stewards, Biggs Tyler, and Headlam and Vare Assistant Tyler. Before the Lodge was closed a grant was made to the Masonic Charities, and a Past Master's jewel voted to the retiring Master, Bro. W. J. Hickman, in recognition of his services during the past year.

Lodge of Lights, No. 148, Warrington.—On Thursday, 28th December, the brethren of the Lodge of Lights, No. 148, met in the Masonic Rooms, Sankey-street, to celebrate their 111th anniversary, and to instal in the chair of K.S. Bro. Thomas Tunstall, Past S.W. A large number of members and visitors assembled to do honour to the new Master, who, though the youngest Mason who has filled that office in their Lodge for many years, gives promise of being a most efficient Master, and one in whom the brethren have great confidence that the prestige and usefulness of the Lodge will not deteriorate. The Lodge was opened in due form, at three o'clock p.m., by Bro. William Robinson, the retiring W.M., assisted by Bro. Henry Poynter W.M. 948, P.M. 1087, P.P.G.P., Prov. G. Reg. Berks and Bucks, Z. 948, &c., as S.W., and Bro. D. W. Finney P.M. 148, P.M. 1250, P.Z. 148, &c., as J.W. The Board of Installed Masters was opened in ample form, and the ceremony of installation was most efficiently performed by Bro. Robinson, who is the first retiring Master that has exercised his privilege in this respect for many years. Bro. John Bowes P.M. 148 P.J.G.W. Cumberland and Westmoreland, assisted Bro. Robinson, and gave the addresses to the Master, Wardens, and brethren, in that emphatic and perfect style for which Bro. Bowes is so widely known and so deservedly famous. Before the Lodge was closed, the Treasurer's accounts for the past year were read and passed, and ordered to be printed and circulated. We were pleased to notice that, although large sums had been voted to the central and provincial charities, a good balance was left in the hands of the bankers. The brethren passed a unanimous vote of thanks to Bro. Robinson, and a P.M.'s jewel was cordially voted to him for his able conduct while in the chair. Bro. Hannah, who had faithfully filled the office of Tyler for about ten years, now resigned that position, and was unanimously elected an honorary member of the Lodge. The Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren separated in harmony. Among the members present were:—Bros. T. Tunstall W.M., W. Robinson I.P.M., J. Pickthall S.W., John R. Young J.W., J. Armstrong Treasurer, John Bowes P.M. Secretary, Dr. Alfred H. Young S.D., James Paterson J.D., T. M. Pattison Organist, Dr. G. W. Joseph I.G., Thomas Domville Tyler, James Hepherd P.M., John Harding P.M., C. E. Hindley, T. Grime, T. W. Thorpe, E. Edwardson, Charles Skinner, John Laithwaite, A. Peake, J. Dimmelow, T. Jones, H. Ferguson, C. Savage, C. Ekkert, E. P. Sherwood, John Pierpoint, Robert Gibbons, James Hannah. Visiting brethren:—Bros. R. Brierley P.M. 1250, J. Kenworthy 1565, W. S. Hawkins P.M. 1250, D. W. Finney P.M. 148, P.M. 1250, P.Z. 148, Henry Poynter W.M. 948, Z. 948, Prov. G. Reg., &c., F. C. Hunt P.M. 43, L. R. Barnes P.M. 113, W. Richardson P.M. 1250, &c., &c. At five o'clock p.m. the brethren reassembled at the Lion Hotel for their annual banquet, which was served by Bro. and Mrs. Pratt in their best style. Upon the removal of the cloth the W.M. gave the toast of "The Queen," the brethren singing the National Anthem, led by Bro. Pattison. The next toast was that of "The Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," after which "God Bless the Prince of Wales" was sung, Bro. Pattison again leading. The W.M. then entrusted his Gavel to Bro. Hepherd P.M., who proposed, in most glowing terms, the health of the M.W.G.M. of England, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. In the course of his remarks Bro. Hepherd impressed on the brethren the fact that the Craft generally did not want patronage, yet was glad to receive support from those who were high in authority and position. The toast of "The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, Pro Grand Master," was proposed in suitable terms by Bro. Robinson, followed by a song, "The Village Blacksmith," from Bro. Dr. Joseph. Bro. Robinson proposed "The Health of Lord Skelmersdale, R.W. Prov. G.M., the Hon. F. A. Stanley, R.W.D.P.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers;" song from Bro. W. Milner. Bro. Pickthall S.W. proposed the health of the Prov. G.M.'s of East Lancashire, Cumberland and Westmoreland, Cheshire, and other neighbouring provinces, coupling with the toast the names of Bros. Bowes P.G.J.W. Cumberland and Westmoreland, and Bro. Poynter Prov. G.Reg. Berks and Bucks. Bro. Bowes, in response, thanked the brethren for the uniform kindness he received from the Lodge. He felt no little pride in being a member of 148, and of the training he had received in that Lodge. He had filled all the offices, and had worked all the ceremonies, and felt inward satisfaction that his services had been so highly appreciated by the officers and brethren; he should always feel happy in placing his services at the command of the W.M. Bro. Poynter, who upon rising was greeted with applause, thanked the brethren, both on behalf of himself individually, for the kindness he always received when he came amongst them, on behalf of the Lodge 948, of which he is the present Master, for the post of honour they had acceded to him in the Lodge that afternoon, and on behalf of the province of Berks and Bucks, which he represented. He remarked that Sir Daniel Gooch Prov. G.M., and the Rev. J. Studholme Brownrigg D.P.G.M., were good men and true Masons. They had the good of Freemasonry at heart, and worked hard to further the interests of the Lodges which were under their supervision, and they dispensed honours to the different Lodges in the province without fear or favour. With regard to Lodge 948, it was one that was doing its work faithfully and well, but it was greatly indebted to Lodge 148 for its able and efficient Installing Master, Bro. Bowes, of whose services the Lodge of St. Barnabas was glad to avail itself at their last annual meeting. Moreover, Bro. Bowes had promised to repeat his visit for a similar purpose next year. (Applause.) The toast of the evening was "The Health of the new W.M. Bro. T. Tunstall," proposed by Bro. Robinson I.P.M., who complimented him on his accession to the chair, which had hitherto been filled by Masters much older both in years and in Masonry. But the efficient discharge of his duties in the minor offices was a guarantee that the office of W.M. would be well and ably filled during the next twelve months. Bro. Tunstall, who on rising to respond was greeted with several rounds of applause, said that though young in years he was not deficient in Masonic zeal. He should endeavour to hand down the office of W.M. to his successor with the same lustre with which he had received it. He hoped the brethern would not expect too much from him, but would render him all the assistance they could in his new office. It would be his constant aim and pleasure to enhance the interests of the Lodge and the comfort of the brethren while he presided over them in the capacity of W.M. Before sitting down he proposed "The Health of the P.M.'s and Officers of the Lodge of Lights, 148," which was suitably replied to by Bro. Robinson. The toast of "The Visiting Brethren" was proposed by the W.M., and responded to by each respectively. "The Success of the Masonic Charities" was given by Bro. Bowes, and responded to by Bro. Gibbons, who remarked that next to the Gospel Freemasonry taught the grandest principles under the sun. He felt thankful that the Craft so well looked after the aged, and took such care of the sons and daughters of deceased brethren. He concluded by recommending the Masonic charities to the increased support of the members of the Craft. The Tyler's toast brought this very pleasant gathering to a close.

Lodge of Joppa, No. 188.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, the 28th inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, City. Present—Bros. A. G. Dodson W.M., M. Spiegel as J.W., E. P. Albert G.P. Secretary, A. Auerhaan Treasurer, H. Hymans S.D., H. P. Isaac as J.D., Campion I.G. Past Masters Bros. L. Alexander, I. Abrahams, S. Hickman, &c. The Lodge was opened, and ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. Wilenski, Buck and Lenzburg, who were duly initiated into the Order. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren separated.

The installation meeting was held on Monday, the 1st January, at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, and was well attended. The chair was taken by Bro. A. G. Dodson. Present—Bros. Miller S.W., L. Lazarus J.W., E. P. Albert G.P. Secretary, L. Auerhaan Treasurer, M. Spoigel S.D., Campion I.G., D. C. Woodstock Tyler, P.M.'s L. Alexander, S. Hickman, H. Berkowitz, M. Alexander, H. M. Levy, O. Roberts, and I. Abrahams. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the former meeting and of emergency meeting were confirmed. Messrs. W. R. Blanks and B. Althorp were initiated into the Order. Bro. L. Lazarus S.W. and W.M. elect was then presented to the Lodge, a procession was formed, and the brethren proceeded to an adjoining room, where a Board of Installed Masters (numbering 22) was opened. Bro. Lazarus was then installed into the chair, by the retiring W.M., Bro. A. G. Dodson, who rendered the ceremony in a fluent and perfect manner, he at the conclusion receiving hearty congratulations from all present. The brethren then returned to the Lodge room, where the W.M. was saluted. He then invested his officers, Bros. Miller S.W., M. Spiegel J.W., L. Auerhaan Treasurer, E. P. Albert G.P. Secretary, H. Hymans S.D., Campion J.D., R. Baker I.G., H. P. Isaac D.C., P. E. Van Noorden Organist, S. Geneso and Snelling Stewards, Woodstock P.M. Tyler. A distressed brother was then relieved with a small gift. Five gentlemen were proposed for initiation. The resignation of two members was accepted. The selection of officers by Bro. Lazarus appeared to give great satisfaction. After this the Lodge was closed, and the brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. W. G. Jennings, and superintended by Br. Keeping. Grace having been said, the W.M. proposed "The Queen and the Craft," and the National Anthem was sung. The toast of "H.R.H. the M.W.G.M." was next given, and that of the Pro. G.M. and Deputy G.M. In the course of his speech the W.M. said they were honoured by the selection that had been made of Bro. E. P. Albert, their respected Secretary, for a Grand Officer's post. They had a Past Grand Officer with them, Bro. Wright, and he would also couple his name with the toast. Bro. E. P. Albert could say very much on behalf of the Grand Officers, but if he spoke for himself he might be thought egotistical. The Grand Officers were always ready and willing to do all that was required of them. Bro. Wright P.G.P. followed. However pleasing it was to be a G.P., they had to rely on the assistance of the Scrutineers, who always do their duty, and their duty was very arduous. All have to thank them, for their exertions always result satisfactorily. The W.M. then proposed "Prosperity to the Joppa Benevolent Fund," and he called on Bro. L. Alexander, P.M. and President, to respond. Bro. Alexander said he was pleased to hear the expressions of the brethren as the name of the Benevolent Fund was introduced. The V.P.'s and the Committee are pleased to hear that their exertions have been appreciated. The Fund was instituted in 1849, by Bro. Carrobutt P.M. It was a Fund from which large sums were given. The Secretary read the report of the audit meeting of the Fund, which stated that the amount in hand now reached £1269 4s. The W.M. announced that through the liberality of the brethren who had severally contributed that evening, the amount of £17 1s 6d had been raised. Bro. Dodson I.P.M., in proposing the health of the W.M., said it afforded him a great amount of pleasure to have the honour of performing this duty. He was pleased to find Bro. Lazarus on his right hand. He had for many years been working from the bottom of the tree, with a view to get to the top, and he (Bro. Dodson) hoped Bro. Lazarus would have health and strength to carry him through his year of office. He had been associated with him for many years, and he felt the Lodge would never regret the selection they had made. Bro. Lazarus returned thanks for the kind way in which Bro. Dodson had spoken of him. It was six years since he had to return thanks there as an Initiate. He had many friends in the Lodge whom he had known from boyhood. During his year of office he hoped his duties would be conducted to their satisfaction. Bro. Lazarus then proposed the toast of "The Initiates," some of whom were introduced at the emergency meeting on Thursday last. All had shown that the seeds of charity were sown in their breasts; each contributing liberally to the Benevolent Fund (cheers). The toast was responded to in excellent speeches by each initiate. The W.M. next proposed the health of "The I.P.M." Bro. Dodson. Their worthy brother has many friends, and all have seen how he has conducted himself during his year of office. He had now great pleasure in placing on his breast a jewel, that had been presented to him by the Lodge of Joppa, as a mark of respect and for the high estimation he is held in. Bro. Dodson thanked the brethren very much for their kindness. He could not say how grateful he felt. The expressions given utterance to could never be forgotten by him. The jewel, which was of elegant design, and bore an appropriate inscription, was then handed round the Lodge. The W.M. gave the toast of "The Visitors," they were a numerous and distinguished body; he would call on Bro. V. Myers W.M. 1017 to respond. Bro. Myers said there were many more Past Masters present who were far more eloquent than he; but, on behalf of those brethren, he felt great pleasure in responding to the toast. The toast of "The Past Masters" was coupled with the name of Bro. M. Alexander, who said he felt gratified in returning thanks. He had the pleasure, six years since, of initiating the W.M., and it was gratifying to see him in the chair. He was a credit to the Lodge. The toast of the Senior Officers was replied to by Bros. Miller and Spiegel. After due honour had been paid to the Press and the Junior Officers, the Tyler's toast was given, and the brethren separated. An excellent concert, under the direction of Bro. P. E. Van Noorden, Organist to the Lodge, was given, the artistes being Miss Alma York and Madame Viney, and Bros. Arthur Thomas, H. Brearton, Benjamin, and Heino Hugo. The Visitors were:—Bros. J. Wright P.G.P., J. Constable P.M. 185, Friendlich 1017, J. Austin P.M. 933, J. Anshell 1404, J. S. Sweasey 1423, V. Myers W.M. 1017, H. Massey P.M. 619, J. Gaskell P.M. 1076, Ridler 219, S. M. Paisley St. Mirren Lodge, No. 129.—The members of this Lodge met in their Lodge-room, Moss-street, on Wednesday evening last, for the purpose of celebrating the 128th Anniversary of St. John. Upwards of forty brethren sat down to supper. The R.W.M. Bro. George Fisher occupied the chair, supported by Bros. John Carswell P.M., Alex. M'Leod P.M., Thos. Bustard D.M., Peter Blair Treasurer, R. C. Kilgour Secretary, &c. The Senior and Junior Wardens, Bros. T. J. Bustard and R. C. M'Leod, acted as croupiers, and were supported by Bros. P. Moir S.D., Wm. Russell J.D., Wm. Scott Jeweller, J. Barnett S.D., W. Craig I.G., &c. The supper having been done justice to, and the cloth removed, the Chairman proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, also, "The Grand Lodge of Scotland," "The Grand Lodges of England and Ireland," "The Provincial Grand Lodge of Renfrewshire East," coupling the latter with the name of Bro. A. M'Pherson P.G. Treas., who ably responded. Bro. J. Carswell P.M. proposed the toast of "The Army, Navy, and Volunteers," in his usual pithy and humorous style, to which Bros. A. M'Pherson, H. Craig and P. Moir replied respectively. An important feature of the evening's proceedings was the presentation of a handsome timepiece to the worthy and respected Deputy-Master of the Lodge, Bro. Thomas Bustard, bearing a token of the esteem and regard in which he is held by the members of St. Mirren's Lodge. The R.W.M. made the presentation, to which the recipient briefly and feelingly replied. The Chairman, in proposing the toast of the evening "Paisley St. Mirren Lodge, No. 129," took occasion to remark on the unusually prosperous state in which the Lodge now was, having at last balance a sum of £37 to their credit, and also having added to their membership during the year 47 initiates, all which augured well for the future prosperity of the Lodge. Other toasts were proposed and responded to during the evening. Some excellent songs were rendered by many of the brethren, and Bro. A. Hardie, Direc. of Music, ably presided at the harmonium. During the evening, deputations were despatched to Lodges Prince of Wales, No. 426, Renfrew, Houston St. Johnstone, No. 242, Johnstone, St. John's, 3 bis, Glasgow, and Renfrew County Kilwinning, No. 370, Paisley, and deputations were received from Prince of Wales Lodge, Renfrew, and Renfrew County, Kilwinning, Paisley.

St. David's Lodge, No. 393, Berwick.—On Wednesday, 27th Dec., the brethren celebrated the festival of St. John. At four o'clock the Lodge was opened in due form. Bro. J. A. Forbes was installed as W.M., the installing officer being Bro. R. Thompson P.M. The W.M. then appointed his officers for the ensuing year as follows: Bros. Heron S.W., J. J. Oswald J.W., R. Weatherhead Treasurer, Adam Winlaw P.M. Secretary, Rev. T. Procter Chaplain, R. Craik S.D., J. Teague J.D., G. Moor D.C., R. Roxburg I.G., W. Weatherston, G. Lamb and J. Moor Stewards, and A. F. Turnbull Tyler. After the installation ceremony the brethren dined together. Bro. J. Carr was purveyor and the excellent manner in which the dinner was provided and placed on the table gave great satisfaction. The W.M. presided, Brother Heron S.W. occupying the vice chair. The usual toasts were given and responded to, and altogether a very pleasant evening was spent.

Hall. The Lodge was opened at noon by Bro. George Stevens W.M., to transact the following business:—To collect the dues. To receive the Treasurer's statement of accounts. To ballot for Bro. Frank Harvey P.M. P.P.G.S. of Works, nominated for re-election as Treasurer for the ensuing year. To instal the W.M. elect, Bro. Gilbert B. Pearce. To invest the officers. To elect a Tyler. To appoint a committee as required by Bye-Law, No. 14, viz., "A committee shall be annually appointed on the day of the annual festival, consisting of the W.M. and his Wardens, the Secretary, and three Past Masters, for the purpose of making all necessary inquiries respecting any candidate for admission who may be unknown to a majority of the brethren, and their report to be made to the Lodge previous to the ballot being taken." To consider the following proposition by Bro. John Coombe P.M., &c., of which notice was given at the last regular meeting. To solicit subscriptions on behalf of the Cornwall Masonic Annuity and the Benevolent Fund; also for Boys' and Girls' Schools. After which the brethren will adjourn to the banquet. After the ordinary business had been transacted, the Lodge was opened in the second degree. Bro. George Stevens, the retiring W.M., installed Bro. G. B. Pearce as W.M. for the ensuing year, and a board of installed Masters was formed by Bros. James Mudge PP.G.J.W., N. J. West P.P.G.R., J. Coombe, P.P.G.J.D., C. Trevithick P.P.G.D.C., J. P. The ceremony was performed in a very impressive manner, and the Worshipful Master then appointed his officers for the ensuing year, namely:—Bros. George Stevens I.P.M., Edward Hodge C.E. S.W., H. H. Trevithick J.W., Frank Harvey Treasurer, J. P. Smith Secretary, Bigglestone Spray S.D., T. Mills J.D., H. Broad D. of C., Adams I.G., Harvey and Gilbert Stewards, J. V. Bray Tyler. Bro. John Coombe P.M., &c., was appointed Steward of the Royal Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund; also appointed to receive subscriptions for the Boys' and Girls' Schools. After the Lodge was closed, the brethren adjourned to the White Hart Hotel, where a banquet was served by Miss Olver. Bro. Mudge proposed the health of the Provincial Grand Master, the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, in an exceedingly happy manner, and it was enthusiastically received, as was also the toast of the Health of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Reginald Rogers, proposed by Bro. West. The W.M., in the course of replying to the toast of his health, pointed out what Freemasonry was, and what it was not, and exhorted the members of the Lodge to maintain the honour and reputation of the Craft unsullied, especially asking them to use the utmost caution in introducing new members, as he did not want to make a large number in his year of office, preferring that the candidates should be good men, and true; members should see that the candidates' character, were such that the brethren would be pleased to have them filling the highest offices in the Lodge.

Lodge of Unity, No. 613, Southport.—The annual meeting of this large and flourishing Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, on St. John's Day, when an unusually large number of members and visitors assembled. The Chair was occupied by the W.M., Bro. Cory, assisted by his officers. After the confirmation of the minutes, the Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, when Bro. John Bowes P.M., Prov. G.J.W. Cumberland and Westmoreland, was invited to take the chair as installing Master. The W.M. elect, Bro. George Bailey, presented by Bro. Cory, was installed in ample form. Bro. Bowes delivered the address to the W.M., Wardens and brethren. The whole ceremony was rendered in a manner that elicited the warm approval of all present. The Lodge having been closed down, a gold P.M.'s jewel was presented by the Lodge to the I.P.M., Bro. Cory, for his efficient services during the past year. A vote of thanks was recorded on the minutes to the installing Master. The banquet was served at the Scarisbrick Hotel, in Bro. Watson's best style. The chair was occupied by the newly installed W.M., who was supported by Bros. Bowes, Henry Poynter P.M., Prov. G. Reg. Berks and Bucks, D. W. Finney P.M. P.Z., &c., Cory I.P.M., Roberts P.M. Prov. G.D. of C., and about fifty other brethren. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured. West W.M., George Tribbel S.W., John Murch J.W., Aug. Brann Secretary, S. Kennard Treasurer, Evans S.D., J. Davison J.D., H. Cooper I.G. Past Master Bro. Rudderforth Preceptor. Visitors—Bros. Rudderforth, then proposed that this Lodge of Instruction should become an annual subscriber to the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. This was duly seconded and carried unanimously. Bro. Rudderforth dwelt with considerable eloquence upon this subject, intimating it was not only interesting but also necessary for every brother to make himself acquainted with what passes in the Masonic world; he trusted that other Lodges who did not already subscribe would follow suit. The Lodge was then closed.

Woodfall, of the Earl of Zetland 1364, and Davies, of the Burdett Coutts, were duly elected members. Bro. Saunders was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed with solemn prayer, and adjourned till Tuesday, 9th January. Bro. Worsley, the worthy Secretary, has since informed us that his not being in his place was not his fault, but that of the railway company, a breakdown on the line having occurred, which stopped the trains running to Bethnal Green, thus preventing his reaching the Lodge during the evening.

ADMISSION OF CANDIDATES.

WE have more than once referred, at some length, to the necessity there is for exercising the extremest caution in the admission of candidates. We are impelled to recur to the subject, firstly, from its importance, and, secondly, because mention of a special bye-law relating thereto occurred in one of our Lodge Reports last week, to wit, that of Cornubian Lodge, No. 450, Hayle. The occasion was the annual Installation Festival, and it seems that provision is made in the Lodge bye-laws for the appointment of a Committee, consisting of the W.M. and his Wardens, the Secretary, and three Past Masters, whose duty it shall be to make all needful inquiries into the character and antecedents of every candidate who may be proposed for election but is unknown to the majority of the members. None will question the propriety of this law, which is a most salutary one, and, if carried out fully, must secure the object in view, namely, to prevent the acceptance of any candidate about whose merits any shadow of a doubt exists. For, be it known, the result of the Committee's inquiries is reported in open Lodge, before the ballot takes place, so that it is the Lodge's own fault if an undesirable candidate is intruded within its precincts. That this wholesome rule is not a mere matter of form we have a right to assume from the fact that Worshipful Master Pearce, in replying to the toast of his health, laid special stress on the importance of brethren being very cautious whom they sought to introduce into the Lodge. He said he had no wish that his year of office should be signalized by the influx of many new members, but he hoped that those who were admitted would be found, in due time, so worthy of the high honour conferred upon them, that the brethren would hail their rise to office in the Lodge with the heartiest satisfaction. This, unquestionably, was a sound view to lay down. Masters are prone to consider the mere increase in numbers the symptom of a Lodge's increasing strength. The notion is, in some measure, perhaps excusable. It is fair to presume that members who propose candidates do so with a certain sense of responsibility, that they would not lend themselves wittingly or willingly to the introduction of persons who are likely to prove either obnoxious to their fellow-members, or to bring the Fraternity into disrepute. The Master, therefore, generally speaking, regards the addition of new members as a sign that his term of office has been a prosperous one. We regret to say that this is not invariably so. We have it, indeed, on record, on the authority of the Deputy Grand Master of a province adjoining Cornwall, that some very undesirable persons have found their way into the ranks of the Society. We repeat, however, that, as a rule, Masters regard the introduction of more or fewer new members into their Lodges as a good sign. It is, therefore, we hail with all the greater satisfaction this very proper note of warning which it has pleased Bro. Pearce to utter on the first day of his Mastership, and we trust the members of the Cornubian Lodge will treat their Master's caution with the respect it deserves.

It is, indeed, a matter of the gravest moment to the welfare of the whole Masonic community, this cautious admission of members. The more we admire the Craft it is our privilege to belong to, the more anxious must we feel that none but reputable persons should be received into its ranks. By reputable we do not mean merely persons holding a certain position in society—persons with means, and exercising a certain influence in the station of life in which they move. We attach a far higher meaning to the term, and consider that reputable must be applied to persons who are fitted by their character and general bearing to mix freely and on equal terms with good, honest, and honourable men. They may not be overburdened, perhaps, with this world's goods, but, having a competence, they should be free of all other obligations than those of working honestly for the maintenance of themselves and their families, if so be they have any. The man of wealth is not always a desirable acquisition in any society. It will enable him, no doubt, to write himself down a subscriber to our Charities, or to be lavish of his hospitality among Craftsmen generally, and the members of his own Lodge in particular. But this merely results from the accident of his being wealthy. He may, nevertheless, bring discredit on Freemasonry by his questionable demeanour towards his less fortunately-circumstanced fellows. Again, cantankerous or irascible men are undesirable as companions, albeit they may be just and honourable in all their dealings; à fortiori, will they be out of place in a Lodge where, before all things, it is necessary that harmony and good fellowship should prevail. Men of questionable repute and questionable character must at all hazards be kept outside the portals of the Lodge. We seek no addition to our numbers, and therefore we should be the more careful in electing those who offer themselves as candidates. Masonry will be shorn of much of its undoubted value when people are admitted for the asking.

After all, Bro. Pearce was only repeating, in another form, the caution which has been so earnestly and so repeatedly impressed upon us of late by our respected Grand Secretary, Bro. Hervey. Whenever the important duty has devolved upon that eminent brother of consecrating a new Lodge—and that duty has, as our readers are aware, devolved upon him many times within the year that has just ended—whenever, we repeat, the duty of consecrating a new Lodge has been entrusted to our Grand Secretary, he has made it a point of impressing upon the members how necessary it is they should be careful whom they receive into the Brotherhood. Bro. Hervey speaks, of course, with almost a life-long experience of the Craft, and his advice, therefore, is of the weightiest, and cannot be too scrupulously followed. It is doubtful if Freemasonry can ever be more prosperous than it is at this present moment. It is possible, of course, that its virtues may be more generally recognised, for there are still those who wilfully shut their eyes to the good services we are capable of rendering to society at large. Wherever people are free to minister constitutionally to their own wants, wherever tyranny, be it political, religious, or social, is powerless to repress the free exercise of a nation's will, there, invariably, it will be found that Freemasonry lives in the esteem and respect of worthy men. It is so in this country, where, within the limits prescribed by the laws, all men are free to think and act as they please. It is so in the United States of America, and so in other countries which enjoy the blessings of a civilized government. On the other hand, wherever there is any undue restraint exercised over the thoughts and actions of a people, there it will be found that Freemasonry either has no abiding-place at all, or leads but a very precarious existence. This being so, and the Craft generally being so highly esteemed by all reputable governments, we ask, Is it not worth while that we Masons should do our utmost to justify the respect which is entertained towards us? Is it not our duty to take all proper precautions in order to prevent the influx into our ranks of those who will not only endanger the harmony and good feeling which it is our chief business to promote throughout the Craft, but may likewise lower us and our Society in the estimation of the public? At present, and without the slightest suspicion of Pharisaicism, we may honestly boast that if we do not deserve the high reputation we enjoy, we spare no pains to deserve it. Let us not then relax in our endeavours to maintain that reputation. Let us bear in mind the sage advice so strenuously urged upon us all by one of our ablest and most experienced officers during the past year, and so pertinently impressed upon the members of Cornubian Lodge at the recent installation of its Worshipful Master, that it is impossible to be too cautious in the admission of new members. We see no objection to an increase of the Order numerically, provided it brings with it increased strength in reputation and character. The Craft is deeply indebted to those brethren who take upon themselves to administer such counsel, and we thank them. We trust the example of Bros. Hervey and Pearce will not be lost upon the officers of other Lodges, and that they too will follow such excellent examples.

GRAND LODGE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

WE have received a copy of the Abstract of Proceedings of this Grand Lodge during the year 1875, and offer our most fraternal acknowledgments for the same. It is a very elaborate volume, containing, indeed, far more than is usually to be found in these records. First come the minutes of the Quarterly Communications held in June, September, and on the 1st December, and then follow those of the annual meeting on the 27th December, when the new Grand Master was installed according to ancient custom, together with addresses delivered by the retiring and newly-elected Grand Masters respectively. In addition, are the reports of the various Committees on Finance, the New Temple, the Library, &c., &c., together with those of the Trustees of the Grand Lodge Charity Fund, and Girard Bequest. All these contain the amplest information on the work achieved by Freemasonry in this jurisdiction, and will prove of great interest to all Craftsmen. The bulk of the volume, however, consists of a review of the proceedings of all the North American Grand Lodges, the preparation of which must have been a very laborious task, and reflects the highest credit on Bros. E. Coppée Mitchell, Chairman of the Committee on Correspondence, and John C. Uhle, who, between them, shared this important duty. This review offers a complete picture of the Craft in North America during the preceding year. All important points are noted, and some valuable statistics are given, showing the numerical strength throughout the United States and British North America. Lastly comes the Special Report presented at the Quarterly Communication held in March of last year, in which a consideration of the status of different foreign Masonic Bodies forms the chief point of interest. The principal matters to be noted herein are that the Committee of which Bro. Richard Vaux, a Past Grand Master, is the Chairman, submits that the Grand Lodge Diet of Germany, composed of the Grand Masters and certain representatives of the eight Grand Lodges, is not a body with which the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania can hold any Masonic intercourse, or towards which it feels itself justified in extending any recognition. It is further submitted that other Grand Bodies, including, among them, the Grand Orients of France, Brazil, Portugal, Hungary, and Egypt are not in such a condition as to call for recognition from the Pennsylvania Grand Lodge. We shall, doubtless, have occasion to note, on future occasions, sundry of the particulars contained in this very elaborate abstract. Suffice it now to call attention to the statistical table, in which are recorded all necessary information as to the Lodges holding under this Grand Lodge. On the 27th of December, of the year 1874, up to which date the return is made out, there were 529 Lodges, with an aggregate membership of 38,157 brethren. The number of admissions was 600, of initiations 1,974, of resignations 642, of suspensions or expulsions 946, and of deaths 427. These figures are eminently satisfactory, except as regards the one head of suspensions and expulsions, which is really a very formidable figure, representing, as it does, a total of close upon one thousand, or one in every thirty-eight members. Our Pennsylvanian brethren will doubtless pardon us if we suggest, that certain remarks of ours made at different times on the incautious admission of candidates may be considered by them with some profit; in which case we venture to say that this formidable array of brethren who neglect or set at naught the obligations they have contracted will be very sensibly reduced. We note, likewise, with pleasure the compliment paid to Bro. Hughan, in connection with the recent discovery as to early Freemasonry in Philadelphia, a discovery which has settled the precedence—so far as age is concerned—of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania over all other American Grand Lodges. We cannot, of course, marvel that a question of this character should have awakened so strong a sense of interest in the brethren of this jurisdiction. It shows how strong is the Masonic feeling in their hearts when they are thus prompted to lay so much stress on a priority of two or three years only. We have referred to this on previous occasions, and we only do so now, because it would be un-Masonic of us to let pass the tribute of respect which is paid in this abstract to the eminent historical services of a worthy English Mason. We will merely add that our Pennsylvanian brethren have our heartiest good wishes for their continued prosperity.

For some time past it has been the custom to give an entertainment to those of the pupils who remain at our Girls' School during the vacation. These, numbering about 30, were entertained on Friday, the 5th, by the House Committee. The decorations, which were executed by the pupils, were tasteful and artistic. Tea having been partaken of, a series of dissolving views, with an amusing description of the scenes, &c., was given, the apparatus being kindly lent by Bro. F. Cox. Dancing was then commenced and thoroughly enjoyed. During the intervals, Bros. Cox and March sang some songs, and Bro. John Boyd afforded great amusement by some mechanical dancing figures of "the cure," &c. Refreshments were then served and bon bons distributed, which caused great amusement. Master Dicketts proposed the health of the young ladies, which was cordially received. All present spent a very pleasant evening, and the children seemed greatly to appreciate the efforts of their friends, who are at all times willing to do all they can to amuse the pupils. Several well-known supporters of the School were present, among them being Bros. Colonel F. Burdett, P.G.M. Middlesex, B. Head, P.G.D., J. R. Rucker, P.G.D., J. Nunn, P.G.S.B., and Mrs. Nunn, J. Boyd, P.G.P., E. H. Finney, T. W. White, A. H. Tattershall, C. Moutrie and Miss Moutrie, H. Dicketts, T. Kingston and Mrs. Kingston, E. Cox and Mrs. Cox, H. Muggeridge, T. Massa, J. G. Marsh, J. Faulkener, H. Massey, Mrs. Massey, and the two Miss Masseys, Griffiths Smith, W. Lane and Mrs. Lane, W. Rucker, L. Hirsch and Mrs. Hirsch, Mrs. F. Binckes and the two Misses Binckes, Dr. Eady, H. M. Levy, and also Bro. Robert Wentworth Little and Mrs. Little, whom all were pleased to see among them.

It will be seen from an announcement made in our advertisement columns that some very important business will come before the Quarterly General Court of the Boys' School, to be held on Monday. We allude, of course, especially to the proposition that will be submitted by Bro. Snow, one of the Vice-Patrons of the Institution, to the effect that the buildings surrounding the playground be raised by adding an extra story, so as to provide an increased sleeping accommodation for fifty boys; and further that fifty boys be admitted at the October election. The proposal is very simple, and will, unquestionably, if carried, prove a great boon to those deserving candidates whose admission is at present impossible, owing to want of the necessary space. However, we are not about to discuss the merits of Bro. Snow's resolution. The question of enlarging the School is already before the public—that is to say, it is contemplated to erect a Preparatory School for the accommodation of a hundred little boys; and it may be wise to treat this extension of the School and Bro. Snow's proposition as parts of one general scheme; or it may be considered more expedient to take these several steps seriatim, and at intervals, as the financial arrangements of the Institution permit. But whether the proposed entertainment be dealt with summarily or piecemeal, it will always command our support.

OF THE MOST ANTIENT AND HONOURABLE FRATERNITY OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

SEND GREETING.

WHEREAS, it appears by the Records of Our Grand Lodge, that a Warrant of Constitution, bearing date the 17th day of July 1751, was issued in due form, under the Seal of Masonry, authorizing and impowering certain Brethren therein named to hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, and which was accordingly opened at the Sun Tavern, Ludgate Hill, London, which Lodge was then placed and stood on the Registry of the Grand Lodge, No. 4, but by the Union of the Two Branches of the Fraternity on the 27th December 1813, the same became, and is now, No. 7. AND WHEREAS, it also appears by the said Records, that another Warrant of Constitution, bearing date the 7th May 1776, was issued to certain other Brethren therein named, authorising them to hold a Lodge, at Kew, in the County of Surrey, and which was accordingly opened at the King's Arms in that Town, and was then placed on the Registry of the Grand Lodge, No. 492, but by the general alteration of the Nos. in the year 1781, it became No. 398, and again, by the general alteration of numbers in the year 1792, it became No. 392, and by the Union of the Two Branches of the Fraternity before mentioned, it became No. 7 and now stands recorded on the Books of the Grand Lodge No. 409, and holds its meetings at the George and Blue Boar Tavern, Holborn, having, some years since, with the approbation of the Grand Master, been removed into London. And whereas, the Brethren composing the said two Lodges, No. 7 and No. 409, have, by resolutions unanimously agreed to at their respective meetings, as appears by their separate Books of Minutes, agreed to unite together, and be for the future only one Lodge, under the title or denomination of "The Royal York Lodge of Persoverance," retaining upon the registry of the United Grand Lodge the No. 7. AND WHEREAS the said Brethren have by their memorial applied to us for our sanction and authority to carry their wishes and intention into effect, and for that purpose have surrendered into our hands the two before recited warrants.

NOW KNOW YE, that we, having taken the subject into consideration, and being willing to grant the prayer of the Brethren, We do hereby grant this our Warrant of Consolidation and Confirmation unto our right trusty and well beloved Brethren Theophilus Gamauf, W. And then and there, when duly congregated, to make, pass, and raise Free Masons according to the Antient Custom of the Craft, in all ages and nations throughout the known world. And further, on the petition of the said Brethren, we do appoint the said Simon Andrew Foster to be the Master of the United Lodge, the said John Robson to be the Senior Warden, and the said William Taylor to be the Junior Warden, for continuing to hold the said Lodge until such time as another Master shall be regularly elected and enrolled, strictly charging that every Member who shall be elected to preside over the said Lodge shall be installed in Antient form, and according to the Laws of the Grand Lodge, that he may thereby be fully invested with the Dignities and Powers of his office. AND WE DO enjoin you to make such bye-laws for the government of your Lodge, as shall to the majority of the members appear proper and necessary, the same not being contrary to or inconsistent with the General Laws and Regulations of the Craft, and a copy whereof you are to transmit to us, and we do require you to cause all such By-Laws and Regulations, and also an account of the proceedings in your Lodge, to be entered in Books to be kept for that purpose. And you are in no wise to omit to send to us or our successors Grand Masters, or to THE RIGHT HONORABLE LAWRENCE LORD DUNDAS, our DEPUTY GRAND MASTER, or to the Deputy Grand Master for the time being, at least once in every year, a list of all the Members of your Lodge, and the names and descriptions of all Masons initiated therein, and Brethren who shall have joined the same, together with the Fees and Monies payable thereon. LION AND LAMB LODGE, No. 192.

A clique in a Lodge is like a skeleton in a house, it has a chilling effect upon the mass of the members, and causes many who would otherwise take an interest in Lodge matters to absent themselves from Lodge meetings, and ultimately to throw themselves into the ranks of the unaffiliated. C. H.

THE installation meeting of this old Lodge would have been held on Thursday, the 4th inst., but for certain un-Masonic practices which appear to have been carried on for some time past by a clique. Accordingly, above fifty of the old members attended, and determined to put it down at once (and we hope for ever). The Lodge was opened in due form, at 3.30 p.m., and the minutes of the last meeting were read, and submitted for confirmation by the respected W.M., Bro. Cohn. When the votes were called over by the W.M., there were only 9 for the confirmation and 45 against, so that Bro. Arkell's election to the chair of K.S. was rendered null and void. The brethren also refused to confirm the election of the brother who had been appointed Treasurer. Among the un-Masonic practices complained of, are maliciously black-balling two members who were proposed for initiation by a P.M., and admitting them at the next meeting when proposed by a M.M., and seconded by the P.M., and also turning a deaf ear to the distress of the widow of an old member, while others, newly-initiated members, have had immediate relief. These and similar practices have caused the old members to absent themselves from their mother Lodge. But justice has not been dead; she has only slept; the "Lions" have been roused, and are determined to have no private piques brought into their Lodge; but to cultivate that love and harmony which always existed in former days—in short, the brethren are determined to have Masonry pure and simple. Last year, it seems, the brethren presented Bro. J. G. Marsh, P.M. and Secretary, with the sum of fifty guineas for the services he had rendered to the Lodge, as Secretary for the past ten years, and yet, this worthy Mason would have been passed over, and a brother who had only been initiated a year or so appointed in his stead. Again, another most worthy Mason, who has served every office up to J.W., and has been a great supporter of our Masonic charities, was also to have been left out in the cold for reasons which it is not worth while to record. The Lodge having being opened to the third degree, the W.M. raised a brother. The Lodge was then resumed to the first degree, and the case of an old member's widow came before the Lodge for the third time, when Bro. C. Hosgood proposed that the sum of ten guineas be immediately given from the Lodge funds. This was unanimously voted by the brethren, of whom above eighty were present. The brethren then voted a ten-guinea jewel to the W.M., and Bro. Hosgood, the oldest Past Master present, said, when presenting it, in the name of the Lodge, that he (Bro. Cohn) had, by his many genial and social qualities, as well as by the good working he had displayed, won the esteem and respect of every true Mason. Bro. Cohn cordially thanked Bro. Hosgood and the members for the honour they had conferred upon him, and likewise for the kindness and support he had received, of which he should ever retain a grateful recollection. He hoped that unity and brotherly love would continue, as formerly. The Lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to a banquet, where the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. In the hope that the following lines may be read over and over again by our erring brothers, we give this short dissertation:—"Slander of a Mason by a brother Mason.—For such violations of Masonic duty and solemn obligations subordinate Lodges claim the right of expelling an unworthy brother, and the Grand Lodge, where the charge was sustained, would not hesitate to confirm the action of its subordinate; for Freemasonry, far from encouraging injustice or tolerating prejudices, teaches virtue and science, courage and hope, and, spreading its beneficent light throughout the globe, unites all men, of all creeds, of all opinions, and of every persuasion. Truth is its centre, the eternal point whence its radii diverge, pointing out to its disciples not only a knowledge of the eternal Ruler of the Universe, and the moral laws which He has ordained for our guidance, but of those useful arts and sciences which alone distinguish civilised man from his uninformed savage brother. In Freemasonry there should be neither first nor last, strongest nor weakest, highest nor lowest. We should be all brethren, all equal, all wishing the welfare of one another, all united to enjoy the pleasure and happiness of rectifying each other's hearts, of edifying each other's minds, and of promoting as much as possible the social virtues of charity, goodwill, and harmony among ourselves and in the world at large. We would advise these erring brothers at once to discard as their motto, "Vitium sequimur, virtutem fugimus," shun their moral blindness, and learn to discriminate between what is lawful and what is expedient, by avoiding that which is evil, and doing that which is good."

"And live as ye are taught, that men may see
What human nature can and ought to be.
Then Masonry—the source of truth and peace,
Will spread its influence far, and far increase;
Unfading glory deck the Mason's name,
While built on virtue stands its spotless fame."

Among those members present were Bros. J. G. Marsh P.M. and Sec., G. Kenning P.M., West S., E. Coleman S., Fitzjohn, Doublett, Mabey, Elliott, Legge S.D., Child Past Inner Guard, Layborn, King P.M., Smith, W. R. Baker, W. Harwood, H. Davis, G. R. Dixon, T. Gardiner, G. Newman P.M., Hyde, C. Cann, J. Kent, Cohn W.M., R. Bright, S. Haynes, T. Fisher, S. Lucas D.C., Figes, Follett, J. Carle, Smale, Regan, T. Barker, R. Stubington, C. Scholes, and Edward Jones J.W.—Communicated.

[We deeply regret there should have been any grounds of complaint by the older members of this Lodge against certain of their fellow members. But those who habitually absented themselves from the Lodge in disgust at the "malpractices" referred to, must bear in mind they have only themselves to thank for the state of disorder which fell upon their Lodge. Had they fulfilled their duty, by attending the business of the Lodge regularly, it may be taken for granted that the evils complained of would long since have been suppressed. We can quite understand the feelings which prompted them to stay away, and had it been a matter of feeling only, we should have sympathised with, and applauded them most heartily. But by their non-attendance, they were permitting Freemasonry to fall more and more into evil ways, at the same time they rendered it necessary to act more rigorously, when it was found no longer possible to tolerate these scandals. However, on the principle of "better late than never," the older members have now resumed their proper places in the Lodge, and have promptly put an end to this discreditable state of things. We are glad of this—that they have at length awakened to a due sense of their responsibilities, and that there is every chance of the Lodge being henceforth harmoniously conducted. We wish the members a fresh career of prosperity.—ED. FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.]

MASONIC POPULARITY.

IT is an observable fact that Freemasonry is becoming too popular, and the profane world is becoming as familiar with our Masonic vocabulary, both in the definition and application, as are many Masons themselves. This was not always so; for we remember when a boy that the names of Freemason and Lodge carried with them such a great weight of mysterious awe as made the young folks bate their breath when passing that secluded building, and so quiet and unobtrusive were those brethren of the secret tie that it was scarcely known who of the community were of its membership. But how changed. Now, there is scarcely a family in any community that is not represented in some Masonic Lodge. Then, Masonry was unpopular, because of its unobtrusiveness and the little that was known of it; but having permeated all the better classes of society to such an extent, it has become the most popular Order on the face of the globe, and old and young have learned to look upon it with the greatest favour, and to speak of it in the highest praise.

A very striking feature of its popularity is, that almost every society that has sprung up in these latter days is dubbed with the dignified and ancient term of Lodge, thus borrowing prestige from our ancient Institution. Of course, we appreciate all such special recognition of the high dignity of the Masonic nomenclature, and of the mystic vocabulary, &c., generally, but if those organising these new societies had a better knowledge of our language and symbolisms, we think they would not be so lavish in their appropriation of those terms and symbols of which the very use of them proves them to be ignorant. We beg all such new designers not to be so hasty in their mis-appropriations. Our venerable Institution is hoary with age, but its existence will prove co-equal with its universality, and they will never get even a quit claim, much less a fee simple title to any of our time-worn property.

Again, while on this subject, we will refer to the fact that Masonry is becoming too popular, generally, for its own good, and the rush for admission into its fold, just now, is greater than is to be desired. Much of this rush is the result of mere curiosity, personal popularity or individual gain, all of which is the "bias of mercenary motives," and should be guarded against by the Lodges, as with this flood-tide of petitions much of the above-mentioned drift wood will be sure to find its way to the door of the Order. The recent war record of the Order in this particular should be a sufficient warning; as it is tenfold easier to take bad material into the building than to get it out when once there.

With these views of the case, the uninitiated will excuse us if we do not invite them to join us, or even if we seem to look upon their applications with distrust. These are rushing times, and Masonry must guard with a jealous eye all material that is presented for our mystic edifice. We enjoin this duty upon all Masons, and those who have taken the impressive Mark Master's degree will need no other reminder.—Masonic Journal.

A NEW YEAR'S GIFT TO THE PRINCE OF WALES.—A presentation of a superb silver casket was made at Sandringham, on New Year's Day, to Bro. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, by the clergy and tenantry of the estate "in commemoration of his safe and happy return to his country home, after a most successful visit to British India." The casket (specially designed and manufactured by Bro. Emanuel, of the Hard, Portsea,) is in repoussé style, of Oriental design, depicting scenes connected with the Prince's visit, and bears his portrait. H.R.H. is in hunting costume, surrounded by native attendants, while a number of tents are seen in the background. An elephant, with a howdah on its back, is kneeling to receive the Prince, who is preparing for the hunt. The likeness is a faithful one of H.R.H. The reliefs and ornamentations are all sharply defined, and the testimonial itself is a chef d'œuvre. The presentation, which took place at the Hall, in the presence of the Marquis and Marchioness of Lorne and other illustrious guests, was made by the Rev. W. L. Onslow, on behalf of the donors, who were also present on the occasion. We understand that Bro. Emanuel has been highly complimented upon the excellence of the design, and the artistic manner in which it has been executed.—Portsmouth Times and Naval Gazette.

MASONIC QUERIES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I will endeavour to answer, to the best of my ability, the series of questions propounded by "W.M.C.L.," in your issue of the 30th ult.

1.—It is not necessary the Constitutions should make any provision for filling a vacant chair "when any officer, from S.W. downwards, dies, or otherwise withdraws, during his year of office." The Master, Treasurer and Tyler are chosen by the Lodge, but the Wardens and other officers by the Master. In the event of the death or withdrawal of any one of the latter, it would clearly rest with the W. Master to fill the vacancy. I take it, however, there is, indirectly, a provision made to meet at least one mode of vacating an office, namely, the compulsory mode. Section 9, at p. 79, provides as follows:—

"The Wardens and officers of a Lodge cannot be removed, unless for a cause which appears to the Lodge to be sufficient; but the Master, if he be dissatisfied with the conduct of any of his officers, may lay the cause of complaint before the Lodge, and, if it shall appear to the majority of the brethren present that the complaint be well founded, he shall have power to displace such officer, and appoint another."

2.—I believe the "practice in the oldest Lodges" is governed by what I have stated above.

3.—The Lodge elects its Tyler, and may remove him at any time, "for causes deemed sufficient by a majority of the brethren present at a regular meeting." It follows, logically, that when a Lodge displaces its Tyler, it is acting within its right when it appoints a successor.

4.—The insignia on a Master's apron are improperly described by "W.M.C.L." as "three TAUS," which, in the form of the triple TAU, is an emblem in Royal Arch Masonry. Under the head of "Regalia," the Constitutions provide as follows:—

"The masters and past masters of lodges to wear, in the place of the three rosettes on the master masons apron, perpendicular lines upon horizontal lines, thereby forming three several sets of two right angles; the length of the horizontal lines to be two inches and a half each, and of the perpendicular lines one each."

These insignia then, which mark the rank of a Master and Past Master, are regulated by the Constitutions, and are, in fact, "levels," not "TAUS," as "W.M.C.L." mis-names them. The Scotch Constitutions, indeed, so describe them, roughly. They say:—

"In place of each of the Rosettes on the Master Mason's apron, a horizontal line, two and a half inches long, with a perpendicular line from its middle, one inch high, thereby forming two right angles, in imitation of a rude level. (N.B.—The italics are mine.)

The instructions in both Constitutions as to these "levels," not "TAUS," are clear and precise.

5.—I think if "W.M.C.L." will carry his inquiries further, he will find that "the ritual employed in opening a Board of Installed Masters" was determined at the Union of "Moderns" and "Ancients," in 1813. If he will refer to Articles III. and IV. of that Union, as contained in Preston's Illustrations of Masonry, he will find, in the former, these words:—

"There shall be the most perfect unity of obligation, of discipline, of working the Lodges, of making, passing and raising, instructing, and clothing Brothers; so that but one pure unsullied system, according to the genuine landmarks, laws, and traditions of the Craft, shall be maintained, upheld, and practised throughout the Masonic world from the day, &c., &c."

In Article IV., we read:—"To prevent all controversy or dispute as to the genuine and pure obligations, forms, rules, and ancient traditions of Masonry . . . it is agreed that the obligations and forms that have, from time immemorial, been established, used, and practised in the Craft, shall be recognised, accepted, and taken by the members of both Fraternities as the pure and genuine obligations and forms by which the incorporated Grand Lodge of England, and its dependent Lodges in every part of the world, shall be bound."

When, then, the two fraternities of Ancients and Moderns were united, the rituals must have been settled in accordance with the above prescriptions. It is useless, I think, to go further back than this.

Fraternally yours,

Q.

The word Freemason is found in a statute of Edward VI., of the year 1548. In the year 1506, John Hylmer and William Vertue, Freemasons, were engaged to "vaulte or doo to be vawlted with free-stone, the roof of the quere of the College Roiall of our Lady and St. George, within the castell of Wyndsore, according to the roof of the body of the said College." This appears in an indenture dated June 5, 21st year of the reign of Henry VIII. So saith the Philadelphia Keystone.

THE MAGAZINES OF THE MONTH.

Blackwood opens the new year with a new story, entitled "The Shadow of the Door." "Inside the House of Commons" is pleasantly written, by one who speaks as with authority, and is well worth reading therefore. Then comes Part viii. of a "A Woman Hater," in which all the principal personages take part. Miss Rhoda Gale evidently has her reasons for rejecting the advances of Mr. Severne, while the latter makes a stupid blunder which greatly lowers him in the estimation of his fiancée. Rhoda Gale is also terribly in earnest in her new sphere of work near Vizard Court, and the Kloaking re-appears on the scene, and receives a visit from a detective, despatched by Severne for purposes of his own. We are evidently approaching a dénouement, and shall look forward to future Parts with great interest. "Weariness: A Tale from France," is well-written, but sad, in accordance with its title, and there is a good biographical sketch of "George Sand." "The New Year" is the title of the political article, the writer of which inclines to the belief that peace, after all, may be preserved. We hope so, but then "The New Year" was written before the latest disturbing news had reached us.

For sufficient reasons, no doubt, the present number of the New Quarterly appears without the usual critical article on contemporary literature and criticism. We miss this sadly, and trust it may not wholly have disappeared from the programme of this magazine. The opening article is on "Pessimism, and one of its Professors." The writer handles her subject well, but we do not think it is one that will be very generally appreciated. The two contributions in the way of fiction are "The House on the Beach—a Realistic Tale," by G. Meredith, and "Kate Cronin's Dowry," by Mrs. Casbel Hoey. They are both of the same excellent class and charcter as invariably are to be met with in these pages. In addition, are an account, of "The Reformation of the Thirteenth Century," by Francis Hueffer, from his forthcoming work on "The Troubadours," and a sketch of "Revolutions and Russian Conquests in Central Asia," by J. H. Tremenheere, which will form a special attraction at this period, when the feeling of jealousy is strong between Russia and Great Britain. We cannot say we incline altogether to the writer's views about Russian objects in extending her empire into the heart of Asia. We are not by any means pessimists, but we do not undervalue, as Mr. Tremenheere does, the evidences of Russian lust of conquest, which are noticeable throughout Captain Burnaby's book. A picture by E. Barrington de Fonblanque of "Goethe in his Old Age," and a paper by H. Schütz Wilson on "The Pompeii of the Tannewold," complete the list of contents. The number is a good one, albeit we have read more than one among its predecessors which we consider superior.

Baily contains an article on "The Decline of the English Horse," a paper on "Stud Gossip," and another on the question of "Amateur or Gentlemen Huntsman." There is an interesting sketch of the career of "Mr. Robert Peek," well known in racing circles, and, besides this, two other articles to which we would call our readers' attention, namely, "A Fogey's Kaleidoscope" and "A September Holiday." Both are readable. As to "Our Van," need we say more than that it is genial and lively as ever?

In Cassell's Family Magazine, the serial stories, "Paul Knox Pitman," and "My Guardian," impress themselves still more favourably upon the reader, and will doubtless develope into excellent tales. But the class of useful articles it is which always predominates in this Magazine, "The Art of Packing Up" is a case in point, and so are the papers "On Healthy Exercise," by a Family Doctor, "How we Failed to make Both Ends Meet," by Phillis Browne, "Art Embroidery as an Employment for Ladies," and "Food for Cold Weather," by that excellent caterer of common sense in matters culinary, Mr. A. G. Payne. The directions for "Gardening in January" will be found of use to the amateur, and there is some pertinent advice in the description of "How I engage my servants." Besides these there is a paper on "The Arctic Expedition: its Aims and its Deeds," some pretty little "Miniature Stories to be read round the Christmas Fire," "Chit Chat on Dress," and "The Gatherer's" very useful array of notes.

The Leisure Hour opens with a new serial story of domestic interest, entitled "A Young Wife's Story." The paper on "Old Almanacks" belongs to that class of article which occurs so frequently in this periodical, and which is always welcomed so cordially by lovers of antiquarian lore. The biographical sketch of "Viscount Stafford de Redcliffe K.G., G.C.B.," is that of one of the most eminent diplomatists England has ever had the good fortune to include among her public men. The sketch is well drawn, and we commend it particularly to the notice of our readers. "Australia Felix: Impressions of Victoria," Part I., by Isabella L. Bird, introduces us to one of our most important cities in Australia. "The New Law Courts" explains to us their New Constitution, as far as the brief limits of an article will permit. "An Early Breakfast in the City" is a very entertaining paper, which must be read in order to be thoroughly appreciated. It is specially interesting as containing some interesting information respecting the Religious Tract Society, and the excellent work it does. "Our Ironclads" is a short account of some of our most formidable war ships of the day, and, in one or two cases, a contrast is offered between the ships we possess and those of other maritime powers, among the latter being the Russian Circular Ironclad, the Popoff, of which there is an illustration. The coloured engraving of the "Soldier's Dream" makes an excellent frontispiece.

In the Sunday at Home, we have noticed a short, yet appropriate Christmas story, entitled "The Echoed Song," No. I. of "Pictures from Jewish Life," by J. Alexander, author of "The Jews, their Past, Present and Future," and "An Indian Chaplain's Recollections." We can further recommend to the notice of our readers, the sketch of "A Portuguese Mountain Village," and an explanation of the "Chinese Tail Cutting Mystery." The usual class of contents will be found exhibiting the same degree of merit as has been noticeable in all previous numbers. There is an excellent Coloured Engraving as frontispiece, the subject being a passage from the 2nd Chapter of St. Luke's Gospel, while most of the other illustrations are worthy of the periodical in which they appear, "For what we are about to receive," being capitally drawn.

In No. 5 of The Countries of the World, we find ourselves gradually leaving the Arctic Regions for a less northern latitude, the latter scenes lying in British North America, and introducing us to life in Columbia and among the Trappers on Lake Superior. The illustrations, like the letter-press, are worthy of all praise.

The London Magazine is a new candidate for popular favour, having made its first appearance only at the commencement of the present month. The majority of the contents are to our liking. In particular, the article on "The North Pole," by Mr. F. Whymper and a very chatty critical paper by the London Lounge, have greatly pleased us. But these, though the contributions that have taken our fancy the most, are far from being the only ones that are worth reading. We wish the London well. If its programme in the future is up to the standard of the opening number, we see no reason why it should not prosper.

BOMBAY.

Caledonia Lodge, No. 490 S.C.—A regular monthly meeting of this flourishing and influential Lodge was held in the Scottish Masonic Hall, Cumballa Hill, on "St. Andrew's Eve," under the Hiram of the R.W. Master, Bro. George B. Thomson, who was supported on the dais by R.W.P. Master Bro. Freeborn—one of the most energetic, indefatigable, and enthusiastic Craftsmen in Western India, and whose Masonic career deserves to find a place in the gallery of the "Masonic Portraits,"—and by R.W.P.M. Bro. McClumpha. The "work" of the evening was of a most gratifying character, embracing the affiliation of several well-known and worthily recommended brethren, and the passing and raising of two members of the Craft. It would be supererogatory to comment on the aplomb with which the R.W. Master acquitted himself on this occasion. Working the sublime degree for the first time during his tenure of office, R.W. Bro. Thomson at once gave evidence that he had carefully studied and thoroughly mastered the details in all their pristine purity and solemnity. He rendered the whole ceremony most effectively; and the staid and most impressive manner in which he described that immemorial legend of antiquity, enthralled the attention of all present. The R.W. Master was ably supported by his Wardens and Deacons—gentlemen who have secured the respect and esteem of all their confrères. A happy and judicious division of labour partially relieved the W.M., and afforded the Wardens the pleasing duty of presenting the working tools, and delivering the charge to the newly-raised brethren. It must be acknowledged that, during a lengthened experience of the working of Freemasonry in Scotland, Ireland, and India, I have never witnessed the sublime degree so thoroughly carried out in all its minutiæ. Business, or rather, to speak by the card, "Lodge work," being most satisfactorily completed in love, peace, and unity, about half-past eight p.m., the members and the visiting brethren, by invitation of the R.W. Master, retired from "labour to refreshment." The banquet was sumptuous and recherché, as everything appertaining to Lodge "Caledonia," invariably is; for it "bears the bell away" amongst our Craft Lodges of Western India. The usual toasts of obligation were duly proposed, and the health of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Patron of the Ancient Order, was received, as it always is, most cordially. The good folks at home little know with what feelings of veneration and respect the whole Royal Family are regarded out here in the far Orient. As an illustration of this, I may mention that when present as the guest of the R.W.M. of one of our Parsee Lodges, a few evenings previously, I was delighted to observe the enthusiasm, as universal as it was sincere, with which Her Majesty's name, in connection with the Craft, was received. The "welkin rang again" with the plaudits of the brethren, who vied with each other in giving utterance to their pent-up feelings of loyalty and devotion to the throne which our beloved Queen graces and adorns with all the virtues of womanhood. It was a scene which my feeble pen fails to portray in language commensurate with the occasion. And here, par parenthese, I may say that a more attached and appreciative class of British subjects does not exist throughout that vast empire, "On which the sun never sets," than the Parsees of Bombay, and especially amongst those fortunate and favoured ones who have been admitted within the portals of Freemasonry, for they are true to the core. But I have somewhat digressed, so revenons a nos moutons. I must state that, at the banquet table of Lodge Caledonia, the R.W. Master was as equally in his element as within the tyled adytum of the Lodge. Congenial, suave, and courteous, he endeavoured to render all happy around him, and his efforts were crowned with success. He never flagged nor faltered; he had an apropos and happy word for every one, and cemented the feelings of all by his sage words, fortuitously uttered with Masonic pith and verve. The toast of the "Visiting Brethren" was responded to by W. Bro. McClumpha, who, in returning thanks for the strangers present, availed himself of the opportunity to congratulate the Lodge on possessing a R.W. Master and Officers who not only enjoyed their entire confidence, but were so thoroughly efficient in the performance of their respective duties. After participating in the enjoyment of a well-spent evening, the brethren separated, about 11 p.m., many of them hoping to hold high festival at the Masonic banquet to be given on St. Andrew's Day, under the auspices of the R. W. Grand Master of all Asia, Bro. Morland, which it was anticipated would be a great success.—Communicated.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The regular meeting of the Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution was held on Wednesday, the 10th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton, V.P., in the chair. Bro. James Terry, Secretary, read the minutes, which were confirmed. It was announced that the total receipts for the year 1876 were £12,540 15s 7d. Messrs. Halls had sent in twenty-six sacks of coal, which were gratefully acknowledged. The Secretary informed the brethren of the entertainment given at the Institution, and that Bro. W. Hale had presented every male annuitant with half a pound of tobacco, and every female with half a pound of tea. Bro. Fowler presented a case of whiskey; Bros. Webb and Legge a bottle of whiskey to each male and female resident; Bro. Hunter had given a barrel of ale. Bro. Terry also gratefully acknowledged the valuable services rendered by Bro. Dr. Strong, who had been presented with an elegant gold locket and microscope, while Mrs. Strong had received a gold locket, these gifts being subscribed for by the residents at the Institution. It was resolved to rent a field of 6½ acres, adjoining the Institution, on a lease of four or seven years, with the option of purchase on the death of the present proprietor, who is very aged. The deaths of eight males and two females was announced; thirty-eight male candidates and thirty-four female candidates were placed on the list of candidates, there being eight vacancies for males, and two for females. After a vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to the Chairman, the meeting was adjourned until the following month. There were present Bros. S. Rawson, C. A. Cottebrune, J. Brett, T. Cubitt, J. Constable, G. Bolton, H. Muggeridge, Griffiths Smith, F. Adlard, J. Newton, H. G. Warren, J. G. Stevens, W. Stephens, J. A. Farnfield, W. Hale, W. Hilton, C. E. Lacey, Dr. Erasmus Wilson, H. M. Levy, &c.

SCOTCH MEETINGS.

Kilwinning Lodge, No. 4, Glasgow.—Held its first meeting for 1877, on Wednesday, the 10th January, in the New Masonic Hall, Dumbarton-road. Bro. R. Thorburn R.W.M. in the chair, supported by Bros. R. Prout I.P.M., J. Dixon D.M., G. Holmes S.M., R. Jamison acting S.W., McNaughton J.W., Jas. McKeand Treasurer and J. McNair Secretary. There was a good attendance both of members and visitors, among whom we noticed Bros. Harsh and Dina of No. 3 bis, Wheeler and Higgins of 73, T. M. Campbell P.M. 408 and a large deputation from St. Vincent 553. There were six gentlemen proposed for initiation, and 10 for affiliation as joining members; two of the latter being present were duly affiliated by the R.W.M. The S.W. elect, Bro. Orr, as well as the S.B. and B.B. being now present, Bro. Thorburn asked Bro. Wheeler as he had previously installed the rest of the office bearers, to complete the work; this was done, and after some private business, the Lodge was closed.

St. Andrew's Chapter, No. 69.—Held its regular meeting in St. Clair's Hall, Glasgow, on the 9th inst., at 7 o'clock. Comp. T. M. Campbell Z, proceeded to open a Mark Lodge. Bro. J. M'Innis S.W., J. Brand J.W., who advanced Bro. William Ferguson, of Lodge 510 to that degree. A Lodge of the Most Excellent Masters was then opened, and Comp. Wheeler Z. of 73, conferred the degrees of Excellent and Super excellent Master on six candidates for St. Andrew, and one for the Rosslyn No. 119. The Chapter was then opened with T. M. Campbell Z., G. W. Wheeler H., R. Prout J., T. Blackwood T., J. Nash S.E., J. M'Innis 1st S., R. Bland 2nd S., and Capt. Stark 3rd S., exalted five candidates for St. Andrew's, and one for the Rosslyn Chapter, in his usual faultless style. Comp. Thaller Z. of 119 P.G.C. thanked the Chapter for having given these two degrees to his candidates. Comp. Campbell expressed the pleasure he experienced in being able to assist a sister Chapter, and also his gratification at being so well supported, as on this occasion, by the Principals and Past Principals of other Chapters. P.G. officers Comp. Wheeler Z. 73 P.G.S.N., Thaller Z. 119 P.G.C., William Dobbie P.Z. 119, and Comp. Park P.Z. 122, were present.

Caledonian Railway Lodge, No. 354.—Held its regular meeting on Wednesday. In the absence of the Master, Bro. John Harley S.M. opened the Lodge, with Bros. Jas. Harley S.W., Wm. Anderson J.W., when Mr. W. J. Gray and Alex. Livinstone were duly initiated by Bro. J. Fyfe D.M. of 465. The 2nd degree was then worked by Bro. Harley, after which the Lodge was raised, and two brethren were raised to the sublime degree by Bro. J. McInnis R.W.M. 408.

Commercial Lodge, No. 360.—Held an emergency meeting in their own hall, 30 Hope-street, Glasgow, on Saturday, when there were three candidates for initiation, one from the Marie Stuart 541. The ceremony was worked by Bro. Jules Brodè I.P.M. of 541. The Fellow Craft was then worked by Bro. J. M. Olive D.M., after which Bro. Lamb raised one brother to the sublime degree of M.M. All the ceremonies were worked with that excellence which has placed the Commercial in the first rank of Glasgow Lodges. The working of each of the brethren in the several degrees being perfect.

Business—Five gentlemen were ballotted for and accepted. One brother was accepted as a joining member. Four gentlemen were initiated. One gentleman, a Lewis, was proposed for initiation next meeting.

The election for W.M. then took place, and resulted unanimously in favour of Bro. Higgins S.W. Bro. E. J. Page P.G.S. was elected Treasurer, and Bro. Longstaff Tyler. Bros. Robinson, Webster, and Shauger were elected on the Audit Committee. The Lodge was then closed.

Baldwin Lodge, No. 1398.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Monday, the 8th of January, at 6.30 p.m., in the Lodge room at the Castle, Dalton-in-Furness. Present—Bros. F. Bell W.M., T. Truth Lodge, No. 1458.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Saturday, the 6th of January, at Private Rooms, Newton Heath, Manchester. Present—Bros. James Batchelder W.M., W. J. Kinder S.W., G. H. Needle J.W., J. E. Iliff Secretary, Thomas Tyers P.M. Treasurer, William Cox S.D., James Taylor J.D., M. Kleinmann Steward, James Proctor I.G., Beswick Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. J. W. Turner, Thomas Tyers, John Kinder. Business—The Lodge was opened at 3.45, when the minutes of last regular meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for two gentlemen, and proved favourable in both cases. One being present, he was duly initiated by the W.M., who performed the ceremony in a masterly manner. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, when Bro. Duckworth answered the test questions leading from the 2nd to the 3rd, and retired. The Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, when Bro. T. Tyers P.M. occupied the chair of K.S., and most impressively raised Bro. Duckworth to the Sublime Degree. After this, Bro. Batchelder resumed the chair, and closed the Lodge down to the 1st degree. Three gentlemen were proposed for initiation, and one as a joining member. Bro. Turner's notice of motion: "That the sum of Five pounds be given to the E.L.S.B. and E. Institution, to endow the W.M.'s chair in perpetuity," was the next business on the summons, and was carried, after some discussion, a few of the brethren evidently did not understand either the nature of the charity, or the Charity Fund of the Lodge, also, in one instance, proving themselves quite unacquainted with the Book of Constitutions, or the by-laws of the Lodge. The business being completed, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the festive board, where due honour was given to the several toasts.

Bury St. Edmunds Abbey Lodge, No. 1592.—Held its monthly meeting on the 8th of January, at the Suffolk Hotel, Bury St. Edmunds. Present—Bros. W. H. Lucia (Prov. G. Secretary) W.M., W. Carliell was passed to the 2nd degree by the W.M., and a candidate was elected for initiation. Bro. W. Armstrong the S.W., was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing year. The brethren afterwards sat down to an excellent banquet under the presidency of the Secretary, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

Albert Edward Lodge, No. 1557.—On Friday, 5th inst., the annual meeting was held at the Bush Inn, Hexham, when there was a very large attendance of brethren. The meeting was additionally interesting by the fact that it was the night appointed for the installation of the W.M. elect, Bro. John Ditchburn, of Tynemouth, who, since the establishment of the Lodge, has acted as S.W. Amongst those present were Bros. George White W.M., Ditchburn S.W., Fishburn J.W., Turner Treasurer, Catherall Secretary, W. M. Bell S.D., Martin J.D. And amongst the visiting brethren present were Bros. George Hardy 424, W. Beawick 406, John Smith S.D. 1119, W. Hardie 991, J. Ridley 991, Thomas Smith 484, Robert Lumley 24, J. Renton J.W. 1119, J. T. Hope P.M. 1119, P.G.S.B. Durham, J. H. Kendal 48. The Lodge having been opened in due form by the W.M., Bro. George. White, who afterwards initiated the Rev. George Robinson, Ulgham, near Morpeth, into the mysteries of Freemasonry, and then called upon Bro. Roddam, P.M. St. Hilda's, South Shields, to discharge the duties of Installing Master, which were performed in an effective and solemn manner. Bro. Ditchburn W.M. elect, was then placed in the chair of K.S., and appointed the following officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. George White I.P.M., J. Fishburn S.W., W. M. Bell J.W., J. Turner Treasurer, Catherall Secretary, Oates S.D., Hedley J.D., Dr. Kendal I.G., Alexander jun. S.S., M. Robson J.S., Nicholson Organist, Roddam D.C., Newcastle Tyler. The Lodge was then closed in due form, after which the first annual banquet was held, at Bro. George Pearson's, Bush Inn, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. Ditchburn, and was attended by about fifty brethren. The banquet was of a most recherché character, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

BRO. SIR MICHAEL COSTA AS A CONDUCTOR.—Sir Michael Costa has been accused, justly or unjustly we shall not here decide, of sometimes sacrificing voices to the grandeur of instrumental harmony; but no one has attempted to deny that this latter is supreme in his hands. He plays on his orchestra as on one great instrument; and if he has now and then seemed to drown an over-delicate passage of vocalisation, he has oftener, on the other hand, covered defects, and turned them into beauties. A splendidly dramatic but not otherwise impressive baritone, and a basso-profundo, whose nickname was "The Shouter," once sang Bellini's martial duet, "Suona la Tromba," in such style as would hardly have rendered the melody distinguishable had it been unaccompanied. But Costa's bâton brought them through, and, what is more, made the house ring with a rapturous demand for repetition, as the two singers struck each his attitude, and went off at opposite sides. "I always thought," said B., the baritone, "that I sang more out of tune than any man on the stage, but F. beats me to night." And on went F. and B. to sound the trumpet once again in queer concord of discordancy. The might of Costa's magnificent band had been the saving of those tuneless ones. The perfection to which this Homeric leader had drilled his army may be significantly told in a simple, brief, and authentic statement of fact. It was no uncommon thing with Mario, in his waning period, to feel apprehensive of an accident with his highest note, and, therefore, to request that his music might be lowered that evening half a tone. Indulging the great tenor in his need, every man of the splendid orchestra would, at sight, transpose the reading of his part in the score by that half-tone. True, it ought to be within the individual capacity of every musician playing in a great orchestra to do this with ease and certainty; but, as a matter of fact, the band consisting wholly of such competent instrumentalists is seldom found. Difficult though it may be to transpose music at sight on any orchestral instrument, it is manifestly a far more trying feat to accomplish the same task on the piano. But Sir Michael Costa, and, indeed, other accomplished musicians having to accompany new and elaborate compositions for the voice, have often been known, at first sight of the notes, to change the music to any given key suitable to the singer.—From Cassell's National Portrait Gallery.

PRINCE HAL AND JUDGE GASCOIGNE.—As Henry IV. declined in health, he seems to have grown increasingly jealous of the popularity of his son, the Prince of Wales. The young prince had acquired great glory by his conduct at the battle of Shrewsbury, and in his warfare against Owen Glendower. He was free, jocund, fond of pleasure, and of mixing with all classes of the people. Shakespeare has made his life and character the most living and familiar of things. He has surrounded him by a set of jolly companions, the fat and witty Sir John Falstaff, Bardolph, "mine ancient Pistol," and the whole band of roysterers who haunted the Boar's Head, Eastcheap. He has drawn his inimitable portraiture of the merry Prince Hal from the chroniclers of the time, who describe him as the idol of the people. He was as dissipated as an heir-apparent generally is, but with his follies he displayed what his father never possessed—a generous temperament. No sooner was he on the throne than he offered terms of pacification to his most persevering enemy, Owen Glendower. The anecdote of his conduct before Judge Gascoigne has been represented as doubtful by some of our modern historians but it is gravely related by Hardyng and Elmham, his contemporaries, and there is, therefore, no just right to question it. One of the Prince's associates had been arraigned for felony before Chief Justice Gascoigne, the upright magistrate whom we have seen refusing to execute his father's illegal acts at York. The Prince appeared before the magistrate, and peremptorily demanded the release of his boon companion. The chief justice refused, when Henry drew his sword upon him and swore that he would have the man liberated. The judge coolly ordered the Prince to be committed to prison himself as a great offender, since he was, by his position, bound expressly to be a maintainer of the laws. Henry at once, in the innate nobility of his own nature, felt and admired the lofty virtue of the magistrate. He submitted quietly to his order, and it is related that when the fact was mentioned to his father, he said, "Happy is the monarch who possesses a judge so resolute in the discharge of his duty, and a son so willing to yield to the authority of the law."—From "Cassell's Illustrated History of England."

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—English winters are deleterious, inasmuch as the sudden changes, frequent fogs and pervading dampness surely impede the vital functions, and conduct to ill-health. The remedy for this disaster lies in some purifying medicine, like these pills, which are competent to grapple with the mischief at its source, and stamp it out, without fretting the nerves or weakening the system. Holloway's Pills extract from the blood all noxious matters, regulate the action of every disordered organ, stimulate the liver and kidneys, and relax the bowels. In curing chest complaints, these pills are remarkably effective, especially when aided by friction of the ointment on the walls. This double treatment will ensure a certain, steady and beneficient progress.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Queen is still at Windsor, where she has been taking her usual exercise, or rather where she would have taken it, with her wonted regularity, had it not been for the country round about being under water. One day she had to return to the Castle, as her horses refused to pass through a swollen brook. It is generally understood that Her Majesty will open Parliament in person, with that semi State which she has invariably adopted on all public occasions since her widowhood.

The Prince and Princess of Wales have been for the most part at Sandringham during the Christmas holidays. Sunday was the thirteenth anniversary of the birthday of their eldest son, Prince Albert Victor, and accordingly the event was celebrated in the usual festive manner on the Monday. On the 15th their Royal Highnesses will leave their Norfolk residence, on a visit to the Duke and Duchess of Manchester, at Kimbolton Castle. During their stay there a grand ball will be given in honour of their visit. Preparations are being made to accord the Prince and Princess a right hearty reception en route. The Huntingdon magistrates held a special meeting on Monday, for the purpose of making the needful preparations. It was determined that the town should be as gaily decorated as possible, and that the day should be observed as a general holiday. The Duke of Connaught, too, has been over in England during this festive season, on a visit both to Her Majesty and his brother, the Prince of Wales.

The City of Dublin had a gala day on Wednesday, when his Grace the Duke of Marlborough, the new Viceroy in place of the Duke of Abercorn, made his formal entry as the Queen's representative. The ceremonial observed on the occasion was pretty nearly the same as when his Grace's predecessor arrived, at the commencement of his first Viceroyalty. There was a brilliant display of military along the line of route, and the worthy citizens turned out in considerable force to welcome their new Lord Lieutenant. The Duke was accompanied by the Duchess of Marlborough, and the Ladies Rosamond, Georgiana, and Randolph Churchill. In the procession were General Michell, commanding the forces in Ireland, and General Herbert, in command of the Dublin division. The reception along the whole distance traversed was cordial in the extreme, especially at Trinity College, where the students let off a hearty welcome, in the shape of a profusion of crackers. At the City Hall the Lord Mayor offered a few words of congratulation, which were gracefully acknowledged. On Saturday the Corporation of Dublin and the University will present addresses of welcome.

Some further interesting statistics relative to the population of the large cities and towns in England have been furnished by the Registrar General. Assuming that the rates of increase observed in the returns for 1861 and 1871 remain undisturbed, he reckons the population of London in the middle of the current year will be in round numbers 3,533,000. So Brighton, it is reckoned, will number 102,250, Portsmouth 127,150, Norwich 84,000, Bristol close on 203,000, Plymouth 79,100, Wolverhampton 73,400, Birmingham 377,400, Liverpool 527,000, Manchester

359,000, Salford 141,200, Hull 140,000, Leeds 238,000, Sheffield 282,200. In fact, the population of the above and other towns which are specified, which amounted in 1861 to a little over 5,430,000, is now reckoned at 6,945,000, showing an increase of over a million and a-half in these sixteen years. London alone has increased by only three or four hundred short of 730,000, while in some of the Yorkshire and Lancashire towns the increase has been even more remarkable. At this rate, we may anticipate that the population of London at the next census in 1881 will be little short of four millions, or considerably more than some of the smaller States of Europe. And this increase, it must be remembered, is in spite of the heavy emigration to the United States and our American and Australian colonies which occurs annually.

The stormy weather to which we referred in our last issue has continued almost uninterruptedly during the present week. Consequently, there is the same story still to tell of lands inundated in all parts of the country, of wrecks along our coasts, and here and there of loss of life as well as of property. On Wednesday the Harriet Foxtearth Lifeboat put out from Whitby, in order to render assistance to a coal brig which, in foolishly attempting to make for the harbour, drifted to the north piers, and shortly afterwards struck on the beach. Unfortunately the Lifeboat capsized, and, in spite of every effort to save them, three of the crew were drowned, while more than one other had a narrow escape. Great sympathy is felt for the families of the three who perished, who were most respectable and industrious men. At the same time, indignation runs high against the master of the brig, who, by persisting in making for the harbour, in spite of the signals made to caution him against doing so, must be set down, indirectly, as the cause of the loss.

All these inundations, of course, involve a serious destruction of property, and we are glad to see that the Lord Mayor, Sir Thomas White, is following in the footsteps of his predecessors, and organising a Relief Fund for the purpose of administering help in cases where it is most needed. We gladly notice, likewise, that the Earl of Beaconsfield has directed a sum of £250 to be appropriated out of the Royal Bounty Fund, and remitted to Lord Mayor White in aid of the fund that is being raised under his auspices. Throughout the country generally, the most praiseworthy efforts are being made to alleviate the distress caused by the weather. Among others, the Queen has forwarded a cheque for £50 to the Local Windsor Fund. We doubt not these energetic efforts will be crowned with success. The damage done is incalculable, but English charity will do much to make amends.

There have been several political meetings during the week, at which different members of Parliament have been present, and expressed their views on the aspect of affairs. Among the speakers have been Sir W. Harcourt, Sir C. Dilke, and Professor Fawcett, two of whom have spoken very strongly against the conduct of the Ministry. We have already hinted at the unwisdom of such conduct at a time so critical, when before all things it is necessary that the hands of the Government, no matter what its politics may be, requires to be strengthened. Sir C. Dilke's speech was remarkable chiefly for his tremendous onslaught on Mr. Gladstone's policy when a Minister of the Queen. But, doubtless, Mr. Gladstone is quite competent to defend his views, be they never so erratic.

The news that comes to us from the East is as conflicting as ever. One day we are told the Conference is coming to an end, and that war is imminent between Turkey and Russia. Then rumour speaks of a peaceful settlement between the contending interests. Now, it is Roumania which is aggrieved by reason of the proposed Constitutional reforms in Turkey. Then Austro-Hungary is getting more and more uneasy, and Germany is on the point of forcing Russia to show her last card, and will try and bring the Conference to a close at the first opportunity. We can but wait patiently, amid all these conflicting rumours, and trust that all may turn out well. One thing, indeed, appears tolerably clear, and that is, that Russia is by no means as well prepared for war as she imagined, and this is certainly favourable to the maintenance of peace. One other rumour has reached this country, to the effect that Servia will shortly expel the Jews from her territory. Yet this is the country whose cause we are invited to support, either actively or with our deepest sympathies! However, we shall doubtless learn something definite in the course of the next few days, and then we shall know what precise value attaches to these different rumours. Meantime, we can only hope that all will go on smoothly, and that the local struggle of last year will not be renewed over a more extended area.

We note with pleasure the frequent references made in the Standard and other of the daily papers to the doings of the Craft. It speaks well for our Society when the outside world takes an interest in our proceedings. It was quite natural, of course, that when the Prince of Wales was formally installed as Grand Master, a full and particular account should be given by the leading papers of the day. But that was an event of only passing interest to non-Masons, who were, doubtless, not a little puzzled to account for the enthusiasm so rare an event excited amongst us. Since then, however, there have appeared, every now and then, sundry notices about our Charitable Institutions and the doings of the Fraternity. We regard this as a favourable symptom of our growing popularity. There is this also to be said of the majority of these paragraphs, they are brief, but they are strictly accurate. The article which appeared in the Standard of Monday, on the "Growth of Freemasonry," is a little shaky in some of its details, but it gives a fair general idea, to the outside world, of the progress we have made of late years, and the extremely flourishing condition in which we find ourselves at this present time. But the paragraphs, we repeat, are unusually accurate. We have so often resented the abuse which has been levelled at us from different quarters, that it is only just we should call the attention of our readers to the kind things that are sometimes said of us by our leading contemporaries.

We see no immediate connection between truth and impertinence. Yet a new journal, which made its first appearance before the public on the 4th instant, under the imposing title of Truth, has wantonly gone out of its way to utter an impertinence at the expense of Freemasonry generally, and Prince Leopold in particular. The author of the paragraph in question is one who signs himself "Truthful Tommy." He begins by connecting Prince Leopold's illness with his past appearance in public, which he tells us, "was at a Masonic gathering." Evidently, he remarks, "the practice of Freemasonry is proving too much for his delicate constitution." We do not envy the writer whose taste, or want of taste rather, has prompted him to write thus flippantly of a person's feeble health, even though that person may be a Prince and a Freemason. Having said thus much of Prince Leopold, "Truthful Tommy" utters a nasty commonplace thing or two about Freemasonry, and talks of our snobbery, because, as he suggests, we are never so happy as when princes and nobles preside over us. In saying this, the writer only betrays his ignorance. We do not invite the princes and nobles to enter our ranks; it is they who seek admission, and if, when they are admitted, we invite them to preside over us, we are only paying them a compliment which, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, they richly deserve. There is no snobbery in electing the Prince of Wales to be our Grand Master. His rank would entitle him to the highest position in any society of which he became a member. Possibly "Truthful Tommy" is himself so intense a snob as to be incapable of appreciating the respect which Masons in common with most other Englishmen entertain towards the sons of her Majesty.

Bro. E. Baldwin, a subscribing member of Lodge No. 213, is making praiseworthy efforts for the establishment of a Masonic Charities Association, after the manner of those which are so popular in the metropolis, by which almost every brother will be enabled to obtain a life governorship in one or all three of the Masonic Charities. An Association, having a similar object, has also been established in Essex, and is working with marked success and corresponding benefit to the Charities.

The fifteen sections will be worked by the brethren of the Belgrave Lodge of Instruction, in the Royal Jubilee Lodge of Instruction, No. 72, held at Bro. George Arnold's, the Freemasons' Arms, 81 Long-acre, W.C., on Wednesday evening, 31st January, at 7.30.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Metropolitan R. A. Chapter of Improvement.—The regular weekly convocation of this Chapter was held on Tuesday last, under the presidency of Comps. C. F. Hogard M.E.Z., C. Nash H., G. K. Lemann J., J. Constable acting S.E., E. Barfield S.N., C. Cox P.S. There was a large attendance of Companions. The ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed, Comp. Massa acting as candidate. Comp. High, of 862, was elected a member. The sum of five guineas was promised to Comp. J. Boyd, Treasurer, as Steward at the forthcoming Festival for the Girls' School. This being one of the few Chapters of Instruction in the metropolis, we are surprised that its general meetings are so poorly attended. We know full well that this degree requires close study, and Companions, to become perfect in its formula, should embrace the opportunity here offered. We again solicit the attendance of Companions who are desirous of perfecting themselves. The presence of Comp. John Boyd should be a sufficient guarantee of the nature of the instruction herein imparted. In his parent Chapter he has introduced the feature of illustrating the ceremony with explanations and lectures, and it is earnestly hoped that other Chapters will follow this laudable example, so that members may obtain a better knowledge of the ceremonies.

Stacey P.M. had had the pleasure of initiating the W.M. elect, Bro. A. L. Anett, who was then presented to the Lodge, and a Board of Installed Masters was formed. Bro. J. R. Stacey, in his well-known perfect and impressive manner, performed the ceremony, while Bros. P.M.'s Cameron, G. Bubb, and W. C. Parsons gave the concluding addresses. The newly installed W.M. then invested his officers as follow:—Bros. W. C. Parsons I.P.M., Pillin S.W., Harrison J.W., G. Bubb P.M. Treasurer reinvested, H. A. Stacey P.M. Stacey announced his intention to act as Steward at the Anniversary Festival of the R.M.B. Institute, and he hoped to have the assistance of the brethren. Bubb, P.M. and Treasurer, announced his intention to act as Steward at the Anniversary Festival for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, on 9th of May. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 35 in number, adjourned to the Crown Room, where a banquet and dessert was served by Bro. Dawkins, assisted by Bro. Lord Skelmersdale R.W.D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers. He was pleased to see among them a Grand Officer, one whom they all respected,—that was, Bro. C. A. Cottebrune P.G. Pursuivant,—he would couple the name of that brother with the toast. Bro. Cottebrune responded in an excellent speech. The W.M. then proposed the Visitors. He had been honoured by their presence in three distinct phases of his career, and he was proud to see so many present to support him. All held distinguished positions, and all were deservedly respected. On previous occasions he had been supported by many of his friends who belonged to an Institution in which he took a great interest. The Visitors present were numerous, and he feared he could not do justice to all. He would, however, couple with the toast the names of Bro. Captain Baxter W.M. elect Grand Stewards' Lodge, Bro. T. Lumley No. 1, and Bro. H. Gabb. (Cheers.) These brethren were a host in themselves, and all were pleased to see them. The toast was eloquently responded to. The speakers paying a just compliment to the W.M. for his geniality, to Bro. J. R. Stacey for the able way in which he had installed the W.M., and to the members for the hospitality accorded. The W.M. said he was indeed pleased to see, by the enthusiasm with which the toast had been received, that it merited their approbation. Before resuming his seat, he would ask the brethren to listen for a few moments, while he called their attention to a toast. Through the exigencies of business engagements in Italy, demanding his attention, Bro. Gillard had been absent, but he had, during his year of office, found a very able substitute in Bro. Parsons—(loud cheers)—who had done duty as W.M. The grateful thanks of the brethren were due to him for his excellent rendering of every duty that had devolved upon him. Bro. Parsons thanked the brethren. When he was initiated he felt a great pleasure in doing his duty. He had to thank the Past Masters for their kind assistance; they were his guiding stars, and while he occupied the position of P.M. his services would be at their command. (Cheers.) The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Past Masters. Bro. H. A. Stacey was the Father of the Lodge, a position many would be proud to occupy. Bro. G. Bubb, P.M. and Treasurer, was one whose services were always at their command. He was one who to know was to respect. (Cheers.) Past Masters Cameron, Stonor, and L. Herf had shown their Masonic qualifications. The toast of the officers was then given, and these severally returned thanks. The Tyler's toast concluded the evening. Bro. Geo. Allen was Musical Director. He was assisted by Bros. E. Collins and W. Wells. The following is a list of the visitors:—G. Gitterhook 173, Wilkinson 948, Fairchild 1196, C. J. Coles 1329, H. A banquet followed, which was provided by Bro. Clemow, superintended by Bro. Smith, that gave great satisfaction. On the removal of the cloth, the W.M. gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. The health of the W.M. was duly honoured. The Initiates returned thanks for their toast, and Bro. S. Webb, in an eloquent speech, returned thanks for the Past Masters. Lodge of Harmony, No. 309, Fareham.—The installation of the W.M. elect (Bro. E. Dowling) took place on Thursday, the 4th inst., in the Lodge-room, Red Lion Hotel, Fareham. The ceremony of installation was efficiently performed by Bro. J. Tayler, the senior P.M. of the Lodge. There was a good attendance of members and visitors, including the following Installed Masters:—Bros. John Whale W.M., H. Ford P.P.G. Warden, Rev. Dr. White, J. W. Dallimore, E. G. Holbrook, J. B. Goldsmith, W. Johnston P.M.'s of 309, F. Binckes, Secretary Masonic Boys' School, M. E. Frost W.M. 1069 and P.G. Treasurer, F. Court W.M. 257, R. J. Turney W.M. 342, J. Purnell P.M. 804, the other Visitors including Bros. Townsend S.W. 1428, G. F. Sherman P.G. Steward, G. W. Smith 342, G. L. Green 487, J. W. Stroud 903, and E. Izod 1069. The following brethren received collars as officers of the Lodge:—Bros. J. Whale I.P.M., T. Robinson S.W., A. Nance jun. J.W., Rev. Dr. White Chaplain, Hayles Treasurer, W. Gilbert Heath Secretary, Gambles S.D., Edgar Goble J.D., A. R. Holbrook I.G., Tayler P.M. D.C., Osborne Organist, H. Jeans and J. R. Heyman Stewards. The W.M. presided at the installation banquet, which was served in excellent style, reflecting the highest credit upon the Misses White. "The Queen and the Craft," and "The M.W.G.M. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, K.G.," were duly honoured, after having been proposed in appropriate terms by the W.M. Bro. Robinson S.W., in proposing "The M.W. Pro G.M. the Earl of Carnarvon, the R.W. Deputy G.M. the Earl of Skelmersdale, and the officers of Grand Lodge," said that in the Earl of Carnarvon they had a most zealous and able officer, who had always shown himself interested in the welfare of Masonry. He had by sheer honest work won their admiration and confidence, and they were very fortunate in having such a good man at the right hand of the Prince of Wales, and practically at the head of the Order. Bro. A. Nance jun. J.W. gave "The R.W. Prov. G.M. of Hants and Isle of Wight, Bro. W. W. B. Beach M.P., the V.W.D.P.G.M. Bro. Hickman, and the officers of Prov. Grand Lodge, present and past." They had a Provincial Grand Master who was scarcely equalled in any province in the country, and they had just reason to be proud of him, associating himself closely as he did with the interests of every Lodge in the province. (Applause.) They could congratulate themselves that the Lodge of Harmony numbered several brethren who were past or present provincial officers, and a very distinguished member of the Lodge (Bro. Henry Ford) last year occupied an exalted position in the Provincial Grand Lodge. Bro. E. G. Holbrook, Prov. Grand Registrar, whose name was associated with the toast, endorsed what had been said by Bro. Nance as to the P.G.M., mentioning that in the ensuing week Bro. Beach would pay visits to such opposite parts of the province as Gosport and Bournemouth, and adding that they were fortunate in having so enthusiastic and zealous a Mason at their head. He urged that the manner in which provincial honours were bestowed showed that zeal for Masonry was rewarded at head-quarters, and that kissing did not go by favour. Bro. J. B. Goldsmith P.M. proposed "The Masonic Charities." They all knew that they were wide-spread and well conducted and managed. They could not but feel, that as a province, they were not so well up in the charities as they might be, but he was pleased to state, that all the chairs of the Lodge were endowed in each of the charities. (Hear, hear.) He said this with a great deal of pride, as this was only a small Lodge. Bro. Binckes, Secretary of the Masonic Boys' School, whose name was coupled with the toast, replied in a very effective speech. The fact that every chair in the Lodge was endowed redounded to the credit of the Lodge, and was an example that should stimulate others. They had their three institutions, the oldest being the Girls' School, which was founded in 1788, and was now educating, clothing, and maintaining 153 daughters of Freemasons. They were now expending ten or twelve thousand pounds in enlarging the accommodation, so as to receive 200 girls. Fortunately, the institution was in a very flourishing and prosperous condition, its funded property amounting to something like £40,000. The youngest institution—the Benevolent—was giving relief to 240 aged persons of both sexes, the annuities varying from thirty to thirty-six pounds, and that institution, although comparatively but recently established, possessed a funded property of from thirty-seven to forty thousand pounds, and enjoyed a large amount of prosperity. The institution with which he was more immediately connected—the Boys' School—was founded in 1798. Up to 1856 it had no home at all. It was then enabled to maintain about 40 boys, and the number had been gradually increased to 70. Since 1861, when he had the honour to become connected with the school as Secretary, it had made wonderful strides. It had a magnificent building, which cost £40,000, and 189 boys were receiving an admirable education. The school had had educational successes such as any middle-class school might fairly boast of. The last year had been a very successful one for all their Masonic institutions. This spoke well for Freemasonry, although it was no more than they had a right to expect, considering the advent to supreme power in the Craft of the Prince of Wales. During the past year there had been received over £12,500 for the Benevolent Fund, nearly £11,500 for the Girls' School, and, he was happy to say, the Boys' School had received, in subscriptions and donations, £13,230, and including other sources over £15,350. These figures spoke well for a limited body, as they were. But here came the ground of appeal. Although they were a comparatively limited body, they had a large number of brethren of position, social influence, and large means, and they could not ignore the fact that large as was the support that was given to each and all of their institutions it was not at all commensurate with what it ought to be, considering the position the Craft was now occupying in public estimation, or the means the Craft had at its disposal. He would not say that without their charities Freemasonry would be nothing, because before their charities were Freemasonry was; but he did not hesitate to say that without their institutions Masonry would lose the greatest charm it possessed. A scheme had been launched, by which they hoped to raise a fund to erect a Preparatory School for Boys (to the number of a hundred) between the ages of six and eleven. They had ample ground near the older institution, which was now doing such wonderful good work. If they got together a special fund of something like £10,000, they might carry out this extension of the Boys' School. The Annual Festival would take place in June, and he should be glad to receive the name of any brother as a Steward. His greatest pleasure, his highest pride was in working the hardest he could on behalf of the sacred cause of charity. With humble gratitude, not in proud boastfulness, he mentioned that he had been most successful in his efforts, for in sixteen years something like £150,000 had passed through his hands in response to his humble appeals, to some extent, but mainly owing to the kindness and generosity of the brethren amongst whom he laboured, by which the Boys' School had been brought from an almost lost and degraded position to the forefront in the estimation of the Order. (Applause). A collection amounting to £3 15s, was made on behalf of the Boys' School. It was subsequently announced that Bro. E. G. Holbrook had accepted a stewardship for the Boys' School at the next Festival. Bro. Tayler, in giving "The W.M.," congratulated him upon the honour he had obtained, and expressed a hope that he might be spared until that time twelve months to congratulate the Lodge upon the manner in which he had performed the duties. He knew the W.M.'s capabilities, and believed that he desired to make a good Master. He succeeded to the chair under happy auspices, for the Lodge was never in a more flourishing condition than at the present time, and he thought that under his auspices it would go on and improve its position. The W.M. appropriately responded, promising that he would do his utmost, and giving expression to a hope that, with the help of the brethren, he might maintain the Lodge and leave the chair as pure and unsullied as it was at the present time. Bro. H. Ford, P.P.G.S.W., in highly eulogistic terms, proposed the Installing Master, and Bro. J. Taylor feelingly responded. The W.M.'s of neighbouring Lodges was given by P.M. Whale, and acknowledged by Bros. F. Court, Turney, and M. E. Frost. Bro. Sir Frederick Fitz Wygram proposed the Visitors. As the youngest, or almost the youngest brother present, he was but a novice, and knew but little of the ancient mysteries of the craft. But he had seen enough to know that there was a very bond of brotherhood of friendship, good-feeling, union, and harmony among those who assembled, and he congratulated the W.M. on having gathered so many brethren from other Lodges. Bros. Binckes and G. L. Green severally responded. The other toasts were, the I.P.M. and P.M.'s of the Lodge, proposed by Bro. Edgar Goble and acknowledged by Bro. Whale, and the S.W. and Officers of the Lodge, proposed by Bro. G. A. Green P.M., and responded to by Bros. Robinson and A. Nance jun.

Polish National Lodge, No. 534.—Held its regular meeting on Thursday, 11th January, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, W.C. Present—Bros. F. Ráth W.M., Cumming S.W., Ebner J.W., William Paas P.M. Secretary, John Aspinall S.D., Joshua Taylor J.D., Jagielski I.G., Beckett Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. W. G. Moore, Nowakouski, Mercik, &c. Visitors—Bros. Dr. Ramsay, E. Robbins, T. J. Cosworth, J. R. Jekyll, James Jackson, A. Le Miere, W. Saegert, W. W. Morgan, &c. After Bro. Ráth had opened his Lodge and the minutes had received confirmation, the ballot was taken for Mr. John Johnson Rüntz, which was in his favour, and it was arranged he should be initiated at the next meeting. The ballot was again brought into requisition, this time on behalf of Bro. George Richard Forster, of St. James's Union Lodge, No. 180, who was desirous of becoming a joining member, and here again the result was satisfactory. Bros. Brown, James, and Forbes Nixon were then examined as to their proficiency, and were proclaimed qualified to be raised to the sublime degree. The Lodge was then advanced, and the ceremony was performed by Bro. Ráth, in a most careful and impressive manner, reflecting on him, as a foreigner, the highest credit. Bros. James and Brown, were then invested by the W.M. with the distinguishing badge of the members of the Polish National Lodge, the Polish National Eagle, permission to wear which was granted by the respected Grand Master the late Earl of Zetland. The W.M. gave a very interesting account of this Jewel, and exhorted those whom he was investing to remember that when it was on their breats, it merely covered the jewel Truth that should be entwined within their hearts. A notice of motion was given by the worthy Secretary, Bro Paas, that in future the annual subscription from the members should be paid in one sum, instead of, as formerly, by half yearly instalments. Bro. Paas also read a communication from Bro. R. W. Little, one of the members of the Lodge, requesting that a Steward might be appointed to represent them at the approaching Festival for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, which is fixed to take place on the 8th May. On this the W.M. expressed his readiness to accept the office, and trusted in so doing he would receive the support, not only of the Lodge, but of its members. The Lodge was then closed and a banquet followed. After the cloth had been removed, the W.M. rose and said: Duty called on him, and in this case pleasure was associated with duty; they would give to God that was due to God, and to Cæsar that that was due to Cæsar. No words he could use could enhance the pleasure or increase the willingness with which he knew they would receive the toast he was about to propose, namely, the health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, coupled with the Craft. Bro. Ráth then briefly gave the health of the other members of the Royal Family, who, he said, felt the closest sympathy with all the doings of Freemasonry. In proposing the next toast, that of the Most Worshipful the Grand Master, the W.M. said it was again his duty, and he should err in the most rudimentary part of his duty if he failed to devote a few words to this toast. It was useless, however, to attempt to paint the lily, or to gild refined gold. The Grand Master was known too well to need any eulogium from him. By the brethren, also, he was appreciated. One fact of sterling value would evidence this. The sum of £4,000, which was proposed to be given to the National Lifeboat Institution, to commemorate the return of our Most Worshipful Grand Master from India, was certainly a better way of spending their money than that it should be allowed to freeze itself to death on top of St. Paul's or St. Albans Abbey. The Lifeboats thus provided would help to assist many a poor brother who might be in extreme necessity on the ocean. The toast was most enthusiastically received. The W.M. then said: The responsibilities entailed on those who had the government of our Order were of no mean character. The Pro Grand Master and the Deputy Grand Master carried out their duties most satisfactorily, and the Craft was honoured by the association of such distinguished noblemen with its ranks. The next toast, the health of the Worshipful Master, was proposed by Bro. Mercik. He would not attempt to enlarge on the merits of Bro. Ráth, they were known to every brother in the Lodge; he would at once call upon them to drink the toast. After this had been suitably acknowledged, the W.M. gave the Visitors, and Bro. Morgan was called on to reply; he said: That it was with extreme gratification he had witnessed the good feeling existing amongst the members of this celebrated Lodge; while this good feeling continued, and while they were governed by such brethren as their W.M., prosperity must attend them. Bro. Ráth that evening, although a foreigner, had worked the ceremony in a most impressive and careful way; in a way that would reflect credit upon any one who professed to be a practical elocutionist. He was sure he was echoing the sentiments of his brother visitors when he said this, and he thanked the brethren on their behalf for the kind and hospitable way in which they had been received. Bro. Morgan was followed by several of the visitors, who fully confirmed his remarks. On rising to give "The Past Masters," Bro. Ráth regretted that the lateness of the hour had left him with so few members to represent the toast. Bro. Mercik had asked him to pass it over, but this he could not do, more particularly as he had heard that evening, with deep regret, that their worthy Bro. P.M. Mercik was about to leave London; however, he hoped that, as a country member, they would on many future occasions be favoured with the company of Bro. Mercik. He called on all present to give him God speed, and hearty good wishes for his future prosperity. After a reply from Bro. Mercik, who exhibited some feeling at the kind expressions of the brethren, the health of the officers of the Lodge was given, and was acknowledged by each one severally. Bro. Taylor made a forcible speech. He spoke in eulogistic terms of Bro. Mercik, who had introduced him to the Lodge. To Bro. Mercik individually he tendered his sincerest thanks, and wished him health and prosperity in all his future undertakings. He was succeeded by Bro. Dr. Jagielski, who, with great feeling, referred to the high appreciation all had for their esteemed Past Master Mercik, and how, he was sure, all would regret the contemplated disseverance of his connection with the Lodge. The Tyler having given his toast, the brethren separated. The proceedings were enlivened by some capital songs, Bros. Jekyll, Jagielski, and Jackson specially distinguishing themselves.

were initiated. In the absence of P.M. Bates, the Secretary proposed that the sum of £10 be given from the funds of the Lodge, to be added to Bro. P.M. Wallington's list as Steward at the Festival of the Benevolent Institution. This was duly seconded, and voted unanimously. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet. After grace had been said, the W.M., in proposing "The Queen and the Craft," said he was sure it was quite superfluous to speak of her noble qualities or her lofty position; no one appreciated the virtues and excellent qualities of Her Majesty more than Freemasons. The toast having been enthusiastically received, Bro. Wallington sang the National Anthem. The health of our M.W.G.M., the Prince of Wales, was next given. The W.M. said it was a toast to be honoured with all the zeal it is possible to betray. He had given a great impulse to Masonry, which had been a recognised Order in the Royal Family for years—in fact, the Hanoverians had always taken an interest in it. The W.M. said the Grand Master was not only a Mason in name, but also in quality, and the way in which he worked any ceremony he was called upon to perform shewed he had the cause of Freemasonry at heart. He was beloved by the whole world; it might be said that he never made an enemy, in fact he is incapable of doing so, and, so long as he is connected with Freemasonry, we may be sure it will prosper. In proposing the Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, the W.M. said he might repeat much of what he had said about the Prince of Wales; he was a nobleman highly connected with state matters, and was so fond of Freemasonry that he gave his valuable time for the sake of being among Masons; an example of this was given at Freemasons' Hall, only a few days back, when the noble Earl presided at the meeting of Grand Lodge; on that occasion, the Earl of Carnarvon took a most liberal view of the matter under discussion. Previous to the meeting, the W.M., said he had felt strongly that the money to be voted ought to go to the Masonic Charities, but the arguments of the Pro Grand Master had induced him to alter his opinion. We are all men of the world, and this might be looked upon as a noble act, voting the money outside the Craft, where it would be of service, not only to Masons but to others. The next toast was that of the Earl of Skelmersdale, and the Grand Officers Past and Present. Every brother who had mixed himself up with Masonry must have either read or heard of that nobleman. The Earl of Carnarvon was wonderfully zealous in the Craft, but much of his work devolved on his deputy, who was a real hard-working Mason, and performed a great deal of the business the Earl of Carnarvon was unable to fulfil. Bro. Wallington, the I.P.M., then took the gavel, and proposed the health of the W.M. He said that, since he had passed the chair, it had been his greatest pleasure to propose the health of their present Master. All liked him for his geniality and good working. He hoped he would long be among them. The W.M. said he was grateful for the kindness of P.M. Wallington in proposing his health, he left it to the members to say whether he had done his duty. At all times he had endeavoured to smooth over any little differences that had arisen. He urged them to inculcate those great principles of the Craft—Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth. A few words would often put things straight, for all knew that everything did not go right even in Freemasonry. He thanked the brethren for many acts of kindness he had received, and could say that so long as he had been a member of the Dalhousie Lodge he had never had a word of disagreement with any of its members, with all of whom he had been able to work harmoniously. He might say the Lodge was at its zenith, and at the end of his year of office, he would have the pleasure of saying that he had initiated more during his term of office than had ever been done before by any of its previous masters. He wished prosperity to the Lodge and its members. He would now proceed to the next toast, which was one that the Dalhousie always received well. He alluded to that of the Initiates. As they could not continue in the same groove for ever, they were at all times glad to have new blood. He was happy to say there were two newly-initiated brethren among them that evening, although all of those approved were not present. He hoped the brethren would on this occasion give them a hearty welcome, and he trusted they would make good Masons. He felt sure they had been favourably impressed with the ceremony they had witnessed. We are always glad to see new brethren. We are banded together with certain secrets, but our great principles are Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth. He hoped the two brethren they had that evening admitted would take an interest in the Craft, and one day occupy the chair. Bro. Christian thanked the brethren for the kind way in which he had been received, and asked as a young member to be excused a long speech. He could only say he thanked them, if he continued for an hour. "The Visitors" was then given. The W.M. remarked that there were several eminent brethren among them that evening. The Dalhousie Lodge always offered the right hand of fellowship, and was ever glad to see Visitors. They did all they could to amuse as well as instruct their friends, and instead of long speeches, tried what they could do in the way of songs, which he considered much better. They were all welcome, and the members would be glad to see them again. He coupled with the toast the name of Bro. Thomson, who, in reply, said he had never been better treated. The working and geniality of the W.M. were a credit, and he hoped to have another invite to the Dalhousie. The toast next on the list was a most important one, namely, that of our Past Masters. There were several absentees on the occasion, which he was sorry to note. When we pass the chair we are apt to feel old, and disinclined to move out in wet weather. Although those present were not numerous, he would describe them as a respectable assembly. We owe a deep debt of gratitude to our P.M.'s, to whom we must look in case anything goes wrong. He coupled with the toast the name of the I.P.M. Bro. Wallington, who, in reply, said he was tired of having to reply to this toast; he could only thank the members in a regular stereotype form, and should be glad when he was removed a step further round so as to get out of the job; but he must not fail to express the gratitude of the P.M.'s. for the great kindness shown by the brethren. When a brother became a P.M. he could only rest on his laurels, and they are specially thankful for the indulgence of the brethren. He considered the present W.M. had a most efficient staff of officers. No Lodge in London, he was sure, could surpass them. They could all go a long way beyond their actual requirements, and he hoped they would all have the pleasure of satisfying the desire of their heart to attain the position of W.M. The P.M.'s would always be ready to do what was required of them to further the prosperity of the Dalhousie Lodge. Without making any distinctions, the W.M. would ask the brethren to drink the health of the officers. He considered himself blessed with the best set of officers it was possible for a W.M. to preside over. His work was much lessened by them, every officer being at his post, and doing his duty. When a man works for a position he is doubly honoured on attaining it. All the officers were going on gradually, and he hoped to live to see them all through the chair. Bro. Secretary and Bro. Treasurer should have been included in the toast, for all knew what their work was. The duties of the Secretary were very onerous, and they were blessed in having a member so qualified for the position as Bro. Littell, he very much doubted where they could find an equal. To Bro. Treasurer we are all indebted, for without the sinews of war we cannot get on. He coupled with the toast the names of the Sec. and the S.W. Bro. Littell thanked the brethren. It was always a pleasure to receive a compliment. He could only say their endeavour was to discharge their duties so as to be satisfactory to the members. He did the work of his office without begruding any time spent thereon, and always felt the greatest interest in the welfare of the Lodge. So long as he held the position of Secretary he would endeavour to discharge any duties intrusted to him. The S.W. also thanked the brethren. The great aim of the officers was to fill the chair, which they all hoped to do in succession. After some very excellent songs, the Tyler's toast was given, and the brethren separated after a most enjoyable evening. The remarks of the W.M. as to the efforts of the Lodge to provide amusement for those present were on this occasion fully illustrated, many excellent songs being given during the evening, by Bros. Wallington, Littell, Thomson, Smith, Weige, Worsley, Giblin, Seymour Smith, and Distin.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting took place at Bro. Allen's, "Royal Edward," Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 9th January 1877. Bro. Saunders W.M., Cambridge S.W., Lovelock J.W., Smith S.D., Perry J.D., Lowles I.G., Worsley Secretary, P.M. Wallington Preceptor; also, Bros. Barker, Pavitt, Watkins, Hewlett, Defries, Webb, Brand, Crouch, Williamson, Ashburner, and W. W. Morgan. The Lodge was opened with solemn prayer. The minutes of the last two meetings were read and confirmed. Bro. Pavitt having answered the usual questions, the Lodge was opened to the 2nd degree, when the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Hewlett acting as candidate. The Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and closed down to the 1st. Bro. Webb worked the 1st, 2nd and 4th sections of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Pavitt, of Dalhousie Lodge, No. 860, was unanimously elected a member. A cordial vote of thanks was ordered to be recorded on the minutes of the Lodge to the W.M., Bro. Saunders, for his very excellent working in the chair. He is a very young member, but his rendering was equal to that of an experienced Past Master. The Fifteen Sections will be worked in this Lodge on Tuesday, the 24th inst., when the Lodge will be presided over by that well-known Preceptor Bro. Horsley. We are sure he will be well supported on the occasion. A full list will be given, in our next week's issue, of the brethren who will assist in working the sections.

Lodge of Friendship, No. 928, Petersfield, Hampshire.—Bro. Joseph Cole was, on the 2nd inst., installed Worshipful Master of this Lodge, the somewhat unusual circumstance being witnessed of a son presenting his father for advancement, the outgoing W.M. being Bro. Lewis A. B. Cole. The members met in the Lodge-room at the Red Lion Hotel, the P.M.'s present being Bros. Finley, J. Gammon and Pescott; the Visitors were Bros. J. R. Willson P.M. 342 and 1428, Ubsdell P.M. 487 P.P.G.D.C., Friedeberg P.M. 342, Turney W.M. 342, Guy S.W. 342 P.P.G.A.D.C., Payne J.W. 342, A. R. Holbrook 309, and Moore 811. The ceremony of installation was most impressively performed by Bro. Edgeler, P.M. of the Lodge, and the Worshipful Master then invested his officers, as follows:—Bros. Lewis A. B. Cole I.P.M., Creedon S.W., Peirson J.W., Edgeler Treasurer and Sec., Cordery S.D., Masters J.D., and Nockolds I.G. The members afterwards adjourned to a banquet at the Dolphin Hotel, admirably served by Mr. Harvey. The usual toasts were acknowledged with Masonic honours.

Walton Lodge, No. 1086.—This Lodge held an emergency meeting on Wednesday, the 3rd Jan., at St. Lawrence School Rooms, Croylands-street, Kirkdale, Liverpool. Present—Bros. Joseph Ellis W.M., G. C. Hanmer S.W., G. J. Townsend J.W., Rev. Dr. Hyde Sec., W. Archer P.M. Treasurer elect, W. Walker S.D., W. G. Sharpe J.D., John Lunt P.Prov. G.D.C. D.C., Casey and Riley Stewards, Isaac Leece I.G., M. Williamson Tyler. Past Masters Bros. W. Archer, J. C. Lunt, R. Abraham, J. P. McArthur, W. Sephton, &c. Visitors—Bros. W. Jones P.M. 220 and 1299, John Jones P.M. 220, H. Ashmore P.M. 1325, F. Knight W.M. 1325, Willis W.M. elect 1035. Business—The members of this Lodge celebrated the Festival of St. John on the above date, when a large number of brethren and visitors assembled. The ceremony of installing Bro. Hanmer W.M. elect was performed in the most impressive manner by Bro. Lunt P.Prov. G.D.C., and elicited the warm approval of all present. A gold P.M.'s jewel, of beautiful design, was presented to the I.P.M. Bro. Ellis, for his efficient services during the past year, and a vote of thanks was recorded on the minutes to the installing Master. The Lodge was then closed. The banquet which followed was served in Bro. Casey's best style. The chair was occupied by the newly-installed W.M., when the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured.

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. V.—No. 108. SATURDAY, 20th JANUARY 1877. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

PLACES OF MEETING.

WE fully recognise the propriety of the motion made and carried in the Whittington Lodge, No. 862, on Monday evening, to the effect that Lodges should hold their meetings in buildings specially erected for Masonic purposes. For this reason is it we have noted, with so much pleasure, the various schemes which have latterly been proposed, and, in some cases, carried to a successful issue, for the erection of Masonic Halls or Temples. We readily concede that an hotel or a tavern is not the place for a Lodge to hold its assemblies. It is certainly not creditable that a Lodge should be driven to seek its home at the Dun Cow, or the Pig and Bandbox; and if the Lodge funds permit it, we think it desirable that appropriate premises should be obtained in some private building. And, as our Lodges rarely hold more than one meeting in the month, it appears to us that if a number of them, say half a score, or a dozen, combined together and agreed to pay the rental amongst them, it would be quite possible to obtain the needful accommodation. Unfortunately, though all this seems plain sailing enough, there are several contingencies to be surmounted before a change so desirable in all respects can be effected. Firstly, we must find the ten or dozen Lodges located sufficiently near to each other to make the use, in common, of one suite of rooms a matter of convenience. Then, having found a sufficient number of Lodges conveniently situated, we must next look for the requisite accommodation, and this, we fear, it will not be possible, or at all events easy, to find, and especially in the metropolis. Overlooking, for the moment, certain essential desiderata, which our readers will well understand without our specifying them more fully, there must certainly be experienced some difficulty in procuring premises large enough to accommodate say, thirty or forty members. Having, however, found the needful premises, there must then arise the question of rental, which is invariably reckoned at a high figure where it is needed for some special purpose. An artist's studio, for instance, will always command a good price, and so a room where a Masonic Lodge might be conveniently held would doubtless be charged for at a high rate. We will, however, assume that the number of Lodges conveniently situate near each other—that is, of course, whose members for the most part reside in the same neighbourhood—have been found, and that the suitable premises for holding their assemblies have been obtained at something like a reasonable charge, the next question of importance is, how and whence shall the Lodges obtain the needful provision for a dinner, supper, or banquet, as the case may be. We are not of the number of those who attach supreme importance to the working of the fourth degree, but in Masonry we are presumed to practise towards one another good fellowship. Among the means to this end which the wisdom of man has provided, even from the remotest ages of antiquity, none have proved themselves so successful as the quiet social gatherings at which people refresh themselves more or less formally, frugally, or elaborately. When the members of a Lodge have assembled together from different districts, or in the case under consideration from different parts of the same district, and have carefully and conscientiously fulfilled the duties of the Lodge, it is by no means unreasonable they should expect to have some refreshment—it may be even a banquet, in honour of some particular occasion, such as the installation of a new Master, or the presentation of a testimonial to some worthy brother. The question then arises—where shall this needful refreshment be had, in the Lodge Room, or in a convenient room hard by? If in the former, it must be brought at additional expense, and this will doubtless be reckoned in calculating the rental to be paid; if in the latter, the brethren will most likely require to be served in a room that is capable of being tyled as well as of holding a fair number of guests. Thus either two convenient rooms must be found in the same locality, and pretty close to each other, or the Lodge premises must be settled near a respectable restaurateur, who will cater for the Lodges at moderate charges. Now, we ask our readers, Will our Lodges take the necessary steps to secure the execution of all the set plans and arrangements? It is easy enough for our Lodges who meet at Freemasons' Hall to have their simple repast, or elaborate banquet provided for them: all the necessary conveniences are at hand; but it is impossible that all our Lodges should meet at the Hall. As a matter of fact, about one-fifth of the London Lodges meet there, and we imagine any very considerable increase in this number would not be possible. In the Metropolis space is valuable, and building costly, so that we do not see how all its Lodges are to be accommodated, except recourse is had to taverns and hotels. We should very much like to see all our Lodges well and privately housed, but we do not think this is possible under existing circumstances; at all events, until a number of Masonic Halls have been erected in the Metropolis, and so located that each may accommodate the Lodges in a particular district or neighbourhood. Till then we must rub along as best we can, contenting ourselves with such arrangements as hotel and tavern-keepers are willing to make for our convenience. The day is far distant when the Freemasons of London will bring themselves to expend £300,000 in the erection and furnishing of a Masonic Temple; and even were this done to-morrow, we yet fail to see where the 250 Lodges, more or less, in the Metropolitan district, would find the requisite accommodation. In the provinces, the problem, Where shall our Lodges hold their meetings? is far easier of solution, in many cases at least; but in London it is not so easy to secure the complete privacy which is so desirable.

AN ERROR OF JUDGMENT.

(Communicated.)

THERE is one matter in connection with the proceedings of the Special Communication of Grand Lodge which, for some reason or other, has hitherto escaped notice. The Pro Grand Master, in moving the adoption of the Report of the Committee of which he was Chairman, did so in his capacity of Chairman, and not as the President of Grand Lodge. This enabled his lordship to advocate the acceptance of the Report, and he did so very fully, not only enlarging on the benefits of the Institution to whose funds it was proposed to contribute, but likewise anticipating any arguments which might be urged in favour of any other proposition, and notably of one on which it was believed that many brethren had set their minds. The Craft will think the Pro Grand Master was right in acting thus. What is the good of being Chairman of a Committee, taking part in its deliberations, and concurring in—it may be at times even suggesting—the proposal that is recommended, if, when the time for submitting it for final adoption arrives, you are not permitted to utter a word in its favour? Therefore, it is generally held that Lord Carnarvon did no more than he was justified in doing when he advocated the acceptance by Grand Lodge of the Committee's report. But he mus t pardon some of us for saying that he overstepped the limits of discretion when he urged so forcibly on the brethren present that his proposal should command their unanimous approval. Had this been a mere figure of speech which his lordship adopted in commending his motion to the notice of Grand Lodge, no one would have cared anything. Every one hopes that a proposition of his will obtain universal assent from the Society or body of men to whom it is submitted. But there was something beyond this in the Pro Grand Master's advocacy of this particular proposal. Ordinarily, he remarked, he courted criticism; but on this particular occasion, and in reference to this particular proposition, he was specially anxious that members should forego their own predilections, if they had any, in favour of adopting some other course, in order that Grand Lodge should evince perfect unanimity. There are many who think this was straining the duty of an advocate. The Pro Grand Master could have no reason in supposing that the brethren would not accord to his proposal a generous and, if possible, a unanimous support. Whatever the nature of any proposal he submitted, it would be such as to command respect, if not approval. An opinion is abroad that his lordship would have acted more prudently had he submitted his case simply on its merits, fulfilling, of course, his duty as proposer to the utmost of his great ability, but without going further. All of us are agreed as to the propriety of commemorating this particular event of the Prince's return from India, but not as to the superiority of this or that form of memorial over all other forms. It sometimes happens, when it is found difficult or impossible to reconcile conflicting views, that some one appears on the scene as a kind of Deus ex Machinâ, and suggests a plan which people, finding there is no chance of carrying out their own views, most willingly support. There may have been something of this kind on the present occasion, and Lord Carnarvon may have been the individual who stepped forward at the critical moment, and extricated Grand Lodge from its embarrassment. But this after all is only surmise. When Lord Carnarvon so seriously deprecated all criticism of his project, there had barely been time to learn its nature, much less to discuss its merits. It is only by a critical examination of various plans to fulfil some definite purpose that people can learn which among them is the best, and yet the proposer of this Lifeboat scheme invited unanimity without any previous criticism. This, however, is not so much the ground of this objection. It is to be feared that others may follow the example thus set them, and those others may not be as wise and considerate men as our present Pro Grand Master. The Craft has already had a foretaste of the damage that may be done to a good cause by imprudent advocacy, in the case of Bro. Havers' scheme for a memorial. He, forsooth, must needs press its notice on the acceptance of Grand Lodge, on the ground that it had already obtained the approval of the illustrious personage it most nearly concerned. This, of course, was a great offence against good taste, which no one in his senses would dream of placing in the same category with our Pro Grand Master's excess of zeal for the cause he advocated. But there may be other Havers in the days to come, who may take advantage of the precedent thus established, and urge unduly on the brethren the acceptance of some ill-considered and, perhaps, impracticable scheme. There are many who have said, and still hold, that a gift presented to each of our Charitable Institutions would have been preferable; but all of us will no doubt waive our preference if it turn out the Committee's proposal finds the most favour with Grand Lodge. It is the duty of brethren to criticise the various projects which come under their notice; but when a majority has accepted one of them, then it is the duty of the minority to sacrifice their own predilections, and support it with as much loyalty as though it had emanated from themselves.

[The above has been "communicated" to us for insertion in these columns, as representing the views of certain brethren on a point of some importance. We do not feel justified in refusing the request, but we do not hold ourselves responsible for the views to which the writer has given expression.—Ed. Freemason's Chronicle.]

HUGHAN'S LIST OF LODGES, A.D. 1734.

To the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle.

Dear Sir and Brother,—I am obliged for your fraternal review of my edition of Pine's List of Lodges A.D. 1734, published in the Masonic Magazine for November, and since issued separately and for private circulation. Of course, my notes were brief, and intended simply to be explanatory of certain difficult points only. Many of your suggestions are certainly most ingenious, and may yet turn out to be appropriate and accurate, but as yet I have not been able to fit some of them into the positions you intend them to occupy. You are quite correct in hinting that No. 55 was held at the "Rummer," not "Cup," and that "Queen's Head" is more likely to be correct than "Queen Anne." The titles are a guess—in most cases—made by the transcriber, as the "signs" of the houses are engraved side by side with the particulars of the Lodges, and frequently it is not easy to decide exactly what they are intended to represent, many not being so easily interpreted as the "Goose and Gridiron." In the Masonic Magazine for January, I shall present to the Craft a list of Lodges printed A.D. 1734, which was copied from Pine's of 1734, and which has the names of the signs in which the Lodges met exactly described, just as many are in the Book of Constitutions, A.D. 1738. The dates of the Lodges held at Hamburg, Boston, and Valenciennes are credited to the year 1733 in the Book of Constitutions, but, as I have pointed out before, the foreign Lodges may generally be assumed to be one year earlier of constitution than the English Lodges which immediately follow them, should no dates be assigned to the former. This has been proved to be the case in the three mentioned, so also with No. 79, Philadelphia, and others. Thory was wrong in stating No. 90 was granted A.D. 1729. An examination of the list of 1734 proves that the last Lodge chartered in that year was No. 60. Dr. Oliver, in Illustrations of Masonry (a most valuable book), is right in speaking of No. 10 as the Lodge which received the members of "No. 2." That No. 2, however, was in existence A.D. 1784, but was extinct in 1738, so the number three of the former year was the number two of the latter, and hence number eleven of the one period was number ten of the other. You are not correct in assuming it was the three of Rawlinson's and Pine's lists which surrendered its ancient privileges, and joined the "Old Dundee," as it was in reality the then number two which was the original number three of A.D. 1717. The four of 1717 was the three of 1734, the two of 1738 to 1813, and the four again from the "Union" to the present time.

My reason for stating so positively that No. 13 of Pine's list of 1734, and held at London, is the present No. 20 of Chatham is, that the Constitution of 1756 has the following:—"Grapes, Chatham, March 28th, 1723." This agrees with the Lodge in question. There are also other reasons, but probably the foregoing will suffice. I beg also to draw your attention to the fact that, in the Freemason's Chronicle for 21st October 1876, an extract is given from the Bye-Laws of the Prov. G. L. of Kent, in which it is declared that "it appears by the records of the Grand Lodge that a warrant, bearing date the 28th March 1723, was issued under the seal of Masonry, enabling certain brethren therein named to open and hold a Lodge of Freemasons at the 'Crown,' Cripplegate, London, under, called or known by the number 13 . . . . and in the year 1748 the said Lodge was removed to Chatham, in the county of Kent, and by the closing up of the list of Lodges in the year 1756 it became number 10; and which Lodge . . . at the Union . . . became No. 20."

With respect to the "Strong Man Lodge," if it were warranted (as stated in all the lists) A.D. 1734, then it must be the number 128. If it were No. 110, then the warrant was not issued in 1734, but, as the list states, "2nd February 1732-3." If the latter, then it ceased to exist, by the list of 1776, long before the "Union of 1813." I have the "Strong Man" Lodge noted by name in various lists from an early date, but always under the year 1734. There has only been this one Lodge in connection with the year 1734 for very many years. Even in 1776 it was the only 1734 London Lodge, although, at that time, there was one of that same year for Plymouth. In the Constitution of 1738 occurs a London Lodge of 5th November 1734. The dates of the Warrants, unfortunately, are not an absolute test, as in early days they do not appear to have been accurately kept.

No. 35 of Pine's could not be the No. 35 of to-day at Cowes, as the former was chartered in 1724, and the latter in 1731. No. 35 of Pine's was originally held at Portsmouth, and was alive even so late as 1832, being the No. 17 of the "Moderns" at the "Union." The Medina Lodge will doubtless turn out to be at one time a London Lodge, just as with the present No. 20, Chatham.

I have doubtless said enough to satisfy you that I have carefully examined the important and valuable Records and Lists of Lodges at my elbow, before deciding as to the numerical position of any of the many Lodges mentioned in my last publication.

With best wishes, fraternally yours,

Wm. James Hughan.

[We have referred the above communication to "Our Reviewer" and append the following observations which he has thought it necessary to make]:—

(1) Lodge No. 11 (Pine's and Rawlinson's Lists) now, in Bro. Hughan's opinion, No. 18.—Substantially, Bro. Hughan and myself agree in some particulars, but he has not read my statement correctly, while I have not been as explicit as I might have been. Permit me to point out that I did not assume "it was the Three of Rawlinson's and Pine's Lists which surrendered its ancient privileges and joined the 'Old Dundee.'" My statement was:—"If the facts are as stated by Oliver, this old No. 3," [that is, the old Lodge. No. 3, held at the Apple Tree Tavern, Charles Street, Covent Garden, and the third in order of sequence of the old Time Immemorial Lodges which revived Grand Lodge in 1717], in Rawlinson's and Pine's Lists, No. 11, and, according to Hughan, No. 18 at this present time, voluntarily surrendered," &c., &c. The comma after "No. 3," disjoins it from what follows in sense as well as literally. Bro. Hughan's error, however, is very excusable, nor would he have fallen into it, had I arranged the sentence "This old No. 3, No. 11 in Rawlinson's and Pine's List, "&c. &c. In short, Bro. Hughan and I are of the same mind as far as the following. The old "Time Immemorial" Lodge No. 1 of 1717 exists in our present Antiquity, No. 2; the old "Time Immemorial" Lodge, No. 4, held at the Rummer and Grapes Tavern, Channel Row, Westminster, in 1717, and moved in the interim between that year and 1734 to the Horn, Westminster, ranking as No. 3 in Pine's and Rawlinson's Lists, and as No. 2 of 1738-1813, is now our No. 4 "R. Somerset House and Inverness;" while if No. 11 of Pine and Rawlinson 1734 (No. 10 according to Book of Constitution, 1738) is, as Bro. Hughan surmises, our No. 18; and the footnote at pp. 160-1 of Preston's Illustrations of Masonry about the members of No. 3 1717, having surrendered their privileges, and become No. 10, in 1738, under a new constitution, though "they wanted it not," is correct; then we have, in our present old Dundee, No. 18, a trace of this "Time Immemorial" Lodge No. 3 (not No. 2, as Bro. Hughan has quoted me), and, as I pointed out, three of the four old Lodges which revived Grand Lodge in 1717 are still in existence—in the case of Antiquity and R. Som. House and Inverness, in their entirety, and retaining all their ancient privileges; and in No. 18, "Old Dundee," under a new Constitution granted 1722-3, which the members of old No. 3 wanted not, and by seeking which they surrendered their ancient privileges. Or, as I put it in my review, "our present Lodges, No. 2, No. 4, and No. 18 are directly traceable to three (Nos. 1, 3, and 4), out of the four old Lodges existing in London in 1717." So far it seems to me that all is tolerably plain sailing between us; but now, in his above communication, Bro. Hughan has made a further statement, respecting which I feel that I must join issue with him. In support of my view I adduce the footnote in Preston already referred to. Bro. Hughan says, "You are not correct in assuming it was the three of Rawlinson's and Pine's Lists which surrendered its ancient privileges, and joined the 'Old Dundee'" (this I have just now shown was no assumption of mine), "as it was in reality the then number two which was the original number three of A.D. 1717." I will first of all state that the footnote containing the account of the four old Lodges of 1717 must have been written, not by Preston, who died in 1819, or by Oliver, though I found it in his edition of Preston, but by Stephen Jones, a P.M. of Antiquity, to whom was entrusted the publication of the thirteenth edition of the Illustrations, which made its appearance in 1821. For in it occur the words "is still extant (in 1820)," that is, the year in which the duty of preparing this 13th Edition was entrusted to Jones. Well, the note says, in brief, old No. 1 is now "Antiquity;" old No. 2, "formerly held at the Crown, in Parker's Lane, Drury Lane, has been extinct above fifty years, by the death of its old members;" old No. 3 is the one which had granted to it a new Constitution in 1722-3, and figures in the Book of Constitutions in 1738 as No. 10. The members of old No. 4 joined "the Somerset House Lodge, which immediately assumed their rank." This is the present No. 4. There is, then, no question as to the present existence of the old Nos. 1 and 4. Now, Bro. Hughan says it was not No. 3 of Pine's and Rawlinson's Lists which surrendered its privileges, but their No. 2. I have said I never made this assertion about Pine's No. 3, and Bro. Hughan must pardon me for thinking he is in error in saying it was Pine's No. 2. The note in Preston says distinctly that it was the Old No. 3 which, in 1722-3, moved to the "Queen's Head, in Knave's Acre," and was the No. 10 in the List of Lodges appended to the Book of Constitutions published in 1738. No. 11 in Pine's List corresponds with this as to place and date, and No. 11 in Rawlinson's as to place, the date 1723 being in this case, I believe, supplied by Bro. Hughan himself. That the No. 11 of 1734 would become, by the demise in the interim of No. 2, No. 10 of 1738, is clear; but how is it possible that No. 2 of Pine could be the old No. 3, while the latter had already merged its existence in No. 11 of the same list? The note says the old No. 3 became the No. 10 of 1738, having in 1722-3 removed to the Queen's Head, Knave's Acre, and taken out a new Constitution. There could not have been one and the same Lodge existing both as No. 2 and No. 11 in the same list. If the note is right, and No. 10 of 1738 is, as Bro. Hughan says, the same with No. 11 of Pine and Rawlinson, then the No. 2 of these latter must be one and the same with the old Time Immemorial No. 2, which in 1717 met "at the Crown in Parker's Lane, Drury Lane," and had been extinct, by the death of its members, above fifty years when the note was written. In such case Pine's and Rawlinson's Lists contained Nos. 1, 2 and 3 (originally No. 4 of 1717) Time Immemorial Lodges, and No. 11, being the one in which the old No. 3 had merged its existence; the 1738 list contained Nos. 1 and 2 (originally No. 4 of 1717), T. I. Lodges, and No. 10 (the No. 11 of 1734 and No. 3 of 1717); and the present roll includes these last three, No. 1 being now No. 2, No. 2 (the old No. 4) being now No. 4, and No. 10 (No. 11 of 1734, and No. 3 of 1717) being now No. 18. In other words, it must be that either Nos. 1, 3 and 4 of the four old Lodges, or Nos. 1, 2 and 4 are at this present time represented by Nos. 2, 4, and 18. In my humble opinion, and taking the note in Preston, and Pine's, Rawlinson's, and the 1738 Lists as the foundation of my belief, it is the former of the two alternatives which is correct, the No. 2 of Pine's List being the old No. 2 of 1717, which became extinct by the deaths of its members between 1734 and 1738.

2. Our present No. 20 R. Kent Lodge of Antiquity, Chatham. I admit that the excerpt from the bye-laws of the Prov. G.L. of Kent had escaped my observation. However, no harm is done. The suggestion I offered, with a full sense of its "flimsiness," merely falls to the ground.

3. Pine's No. 35 and our present No. 35 "Medina." I had noted the difference in age between the two, 1724 and 1731 being the years of Constitution affixed respectively. But it occurred to me there might have been a surrender of rank and the issue of a new Constitution, as in the case of old No. 3, referred to above. This, again, however, was merely a suggestion, based on the proximity of Gosport and Cowes, Portsmouth, where, as Bro. Hughan says, Pine's No. 35 was originally held, being also close at hand.

4. The present "Strong Man" Lodge, No. 45. I still incline to the belief that this Lodge is to be connected with Pine's, No. 110, held at the "Ship Coffee House, near the Hermitage Bridge," rather than with No. 128 at the "Duke of Marlborough, Petticoate Lane, White Chapell." I admit that as regards date, our No. 45 agrees with the latter, both being set down as warranted in 1734, the former in Grand Lodge Calendar, the latter in Pine's list. But Oliver's note at p. 44 of The Revelations of a Square, is so minute in all its details, which are said to be derived from "the Records of Grand Lodge." The date of the warrant is given as 2nd February, 1734—which, according to the old mode of reckoning would be the year 1733—and this, perhaps, will explain why, in later lists, no other Lodge bearing date 1734 is found; the No. 110, or whatever it may have become in the meantime by the closing-up of Lodges, being reckoned among the 1733 Lodges. I say this, having at this moment no other lists by me for reference. That there is some difficulty about the date is apparent on Oliver's own showing; for while 2nd Feb. 1734, is given in the note, we are told in the text, "the Strong Man Lodge was numbered 68" (query, 98) "in the lists of 1738, 1764, and 1767, and was established according to the former authorities" (which are meant is not clear), "2nd February, 1733, and by the latter, 17th February, 1734." Here, then, are three different dates—namely, 2nd February, 1733, and 17th February, 1734, in the text, and 2nd February, 1734, in the note; to which Bro. Hughan now adds a fourth,—namely, that of Pine's No. 128, warranted 5th November, 1734. The confusion between 2nd February, 1733, and 2nd February, 1734, is, I think, explicable by the old style of reckoning referred to, while in modern times we should be more exact, and fix the date distinctly in 1734, as is done in Grand Lodge Calendar. The date apart, however, Oliver is very exact, as I have said, in his details, and points out how, by successive closings-up of the Lodges, this No. 110 became No. 98 in 1740, No. 68 in 1756, No. 57 in 1770, No. 44 in 1781, and No. 41 in 1792. This was its number at the Union, after which it became No. 61 in 1814, and as Bro. Hughan adds in his "List of Lodges at the Union," No. 53 in 1832, and No. 45 in 1863. An authority in the "Strong Man" Lodge itself ought to be able to determine these points.

[These are the only notes which our Reviewer asks should be appended to Bro. Hughan's letter.—EDITOR FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.]

VISIT OF THE PROVINCIAL GRAND MASTER TO GOSPORT.

From the Portsmouth Times and Naval Gazette.

ON Wednesday, the 10th inst., R.W. the Prov. G.M. of Hants and the Isle of Wight (Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P.) paid a visit to Gosport, for the purpose of consecrating a new Royal Arch Chapter, and also of installing Bro. the Rev. E. B. C. Churchill M.A., Prov. G. Chaplain, as W.M. of the Gosport Lodge, No. 903. The double ceremony was anticipated with considerable interest, and in spite of the unfavourable state of the weather there was a numerous attendance.

The first named ceremony commenced at the Star Assembly Room at 2.30 p.m., when the consecrating Principal opened the Chapter, the other chairs being occupied by Comp. W. Hickman as H., and Comp. H. M. Emanuel as J., and among the 1st Principals present were Comps. J. E. Le Feuvre Prov. S.E., M. E. Frost Prov. Grand Treasurer, J. N. Hillman, T. Best, H. Cawte, R. H. C. Ubsdell, Lillywhite, E. S. Main, &c. The other members having entered the Chapter, the consecrating Principal addressed the Comps. on the nature of the meeting. Subsequently, the P.G.S.E., Bro. Le Feuvre, read the petition and charter, and the companions having signified their approval, in response to an enquiry from the presiding Principal, of the Principals named in the charter, an oration on Royal Arch Masonry was delivered by Comp. Main. The D.C. then presented to the presiding Principal the collars and jewels of the new Chapter and the Principals appointed; and the 1st Principal Designate presented the members of the new Chapter. An anthem having been sung, the various other ceremonies connected with the consecration were proceeded with, the several musical portions being admirably carried out by the choir, Comps. J. W. D. Pillow, R. Osborne, F. Feltham, and Winterbottom. The consecrating Principal then dedicated and constituted the Chapter, and this portion of the ceremony was brought to a close by another anthem being sung.

The installation of the three Principals, Comps. John Wallingford as Z., H. Sleeman as H., and G. Felton Lancaster as J., was performed by Comp. E. S. Main P.Z., assisted by Comp. J. Lillywhite Z. 257 as H., and Comp. Hillman P.Z. as J., the ceremony being conducted in an admirable manner.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the following were invested as officers of the new Chapter:—Comps. E. S. Main I.P.Z., Page S.E., J. Wilson N., Rev. E. B. C. Churchill P. Soj., Robinson and Long Assistant Sojs. The officers having been addressed by Comp. Main, Comp. Whitcomb was elected Treasurer, and several new members and joining members were proposed, after which the Chapter was closed. Among those present, in addition to the members already mentioned, were Comps. E. G. Holbrook P.Z. 309, G. A. Green J. 309, Maltby H. 487, Harrison J. 804, De Fraine H. 257, Legh Bailey S.E. 257, Winterbottom 257, J. Craven H. 342, A. Riddell J. 342, W. Payne S.E. 342, R. Newland N. 342, Simister, R. Barber, Turney, Norris, and G. Gunnell of 342, E. Groves, G. Bond, Palagrave, Le Messurier, and Gamblen of 487, Morine, Hillier, Powell, Biggs and Exell P.G. Jan., and many others. We should mention that the Assembly Rooms had been prepared for the ceremony in a most elaborate manner, the walls being tastefully decorated with various flags, while beneath the canopy over the first Principal's seat on the raised dais was a handsome Prince of Wales's banner. Flowering plants (kindly lent by Messrs. Legg and Son, of Gosport) were also placed in various parts of the hall.

The ceremony of installing the W.M. of the Gosport Lodge was commenced at five p.m., when the brethren present had an opportunity of noting the highly impressive and effective manner in which the sublime ritual of the craft was rendered by the Prov. G.M. At the conclusion of the ceremony a vote of thanks to the G.M., proposed by the W.M., and seconded by the I.P.M., was carried with great heartiness. The P.G.M., in reply, expressed the gratification which he experienced from the continued progress of the Lodge, and from the selection of W.M. which had been made, adding that he should not have selected him as Prov. G. Chaplain had he not known that he was a good and skilful Mason. Referring to the consecration of the Chapter, the P.G.M. said it was an era in Masonry when a Lodge was sufficiently powerful to be enabled to have a Chapter attached to it. He did not recommend young Masons to be in a hurry to join a Chapter, merely to take a higher degree in Masonry, but he would venture to counsel them to make themselves well acquainted with the duties and principles inculcated in the degrees which they had already passed, before seeking admission to a higher degree. He made these remarks in order that brethren might not think it incumbent upon them to proceed to take the Royal Arch degree the moment they were entitled to do so, without due reflection and a desire really to advance themselves in Freemasonry, and at the same time with a determination to adhere to the principles of the Order by every means in their power. If that was their resolve the higher degree would give them an opportunity of acquiring more knowledge, and more extended means of practising what they had learned. It was resolved to give a donation of £20 to the male fund of the Masonic Benevolent Institution, by which the Lodge will become a vice-president, which position it holds in the two other Charities of the craft. Bro. E. G. Holbrook mentioned that he had undertaken to fill the office of Steward at the next Festival of the Boys' School, and made an appeal for support, either from the Lodge or from members. Bro. G. F. Lancaster also mentioned that he was a Steward for the Benevolent Festival, and indulged in the hope that that Charity might not be forgotten. A Past Master's jewel, which had been voted by the Lodge, was presented to the I.P.M., Bro. J. Maling, by the W.M., who, amidst the acclamations of the brethren, referred to the assiduity and zeal with which his predecessor had discharged his duties. The W.M. appointed the officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. J. Malling I.P.M., W. Hillier S.W., V. Brown J.W., C. B. Whitcomb Treasurer, R. W. Mitchell Hon. Secretary, E. Percy Thompson S.D., G. Grant J.D., R.W. Downing I.G., S. W. Misselbrook Org., J. W. Warden D.C., Irons and Perryman Stewards, Cauvin and Vinnicombe Tylers. There was even a more numerous attendance at the Lodge than at the Chapter, the unusually large number of 35 installed Masters being present at the W.M.'s installation, viz.—Bros. Beach P.G.M., W. Hickman D.P.G.M., Captain Best P.G.S.W., F. Pineo P.G.J.W., M. E. Frost P.G. Treasurer, J. B. Le Feuvre P.G. Secretary, E. G. Holbrook P.G. Reg., H. M. Emanuel P.P.G.W., H. Cawtie P.P.G.W., Wallingford P.P.G.W., J. Lillywhite P.P.G.R., De Fraine P.P.G.D., Craven P.P.G. Superintendent of Works, T. Batchelor P.P.G. Superintendent of Works, E. Groves P.G.G.C., R. Newland P.P.G.D.C., E. S. Main P.P.G.D.C., J. Wilson, H. Sleeman, J. Maling, Whitcomb, G. F. Lancaster, J. Hall and Morine P.M.'s 903, F. Court W.M. 257, L. Baily P.M. 257, E. Downing W.M. 309, Green and Riddle P.M.'s 309, Turney W.M. 342, Bunting W.M. 487, Maltby P.M. 487, P.G.S.B., Coles 359, P.P.G.D.C., Dyer 359, P.G.S.B., and Tuohy P.P.G.D.C.

The annual banquet was held at the India Arms Hotel, and was excellently served by Mr. Newman. The W.M. (Bro. the Rev. E. B. C. Churchill) presided, supported by the P.G.M., the D.P.G.M. and several Present and Past Provincial Officers. "The Queen and the Craft," "The M.W.G.M. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales K.G.," "The M.W. Pro G.M. the Earl of Carnarvon," "The R.W. Deputy G.M. the Earl of Skelmersdale, and the Officers of Grand Lodge," were severally given. The D.P.G.M. (Bro. Hickman) as a Past Officer of Grand Lodge, responded, highly eulogising the manner in which the Prince and the Earl of Carnarvon discharged their Masonic and other duties.

The W.M., in giving "The R.W. Prov. G.M. of Hants and the Isle of Wight," said he was sure the Gosport Lodge were very proud to receive him as their guest, and, as the W.M., he thanked him for attending to instal him. They all knew that he was a good, true, and faithful Mason; how he was ready to come among them; and how kind and genial his manner was. He was sure they would unite with him in wishing he might have many years to rule over the province. (Applause.)

The P.G.M., who had a most enthusiastic reception, said it had been a great pleasure to him to attend to day and witness the success which had attended the working of the Gosport Lodge. It was the duty of the Grand Master, so far as he could, to visit the various Lodges throughout the Province, as by that means alone could he make himself acquainted with the kind of work that was going on, and the ability of individual Masons, and so arrive at a knowledge of what was really transpiring in Masonry in the Province. After alluding to the difficulty he experienced in paying all the visits that he desired to make, he said it gave him great satisfaction to be present and to witness the prosperity of the Gosport Lodge. But it would ill become him, offering his congratulations as he did on the success which attended their efforts, if he did not address a few words to them upon what was really going on in Freemasonry at the present time. He believed that Freemasonry was never so powerful, never so great as now. But he desired to impress upon them that, as Freemasonry had increased to an unparalleled degree, so had the responsibility attaching to every individual member of the Craft (hear, hear). They must remember that as Freemasonry became more powerful, and as Freemasons became more numerous, so their Order attracted more notice from the outer world. As long as they were a comparatively small body they might be treated as comparatively insignificant, but directly they became more powerful they attracted notice—and very unpleasant notice in certain quarters (hear, hear, and laughter). Probably there had been no time when Freemasonry had been so bitterly vituperated as of late (hear, hear, and laughter). They must all regret it, but it would ill become them to join in any vituperation on their part (hear, hear). They could afford to let any invective against Freemasonry recoil on those who uttered it. When talking among themselves, they could not but feel astonished at this invective, because they were conscious how little they deserved those censures (applause). Theirs was a most harmless and inoffensive Order, attacking no one. They felt that the charges levelled against them were not deserved, but it became more their duty to prove that they were not, and to impress upon every Freemason a desire to do something, if it was possibly in his power, to show that any censure on the Order was undeserved. He hoped all would desire to show to the outer world that when they entered into Freemasonry they entered upon new duties and into a new sphere of existence, imposing upon them the paramount obligation to do their best to maintain the Order into which they had entered. If that was the duty they felt in their very hearts, and they did their very best to carry it out, it could not but have an effect on the outward life of every Freemason. If they could show this to the outer world; if they could show that a Freemason was permeated by such an intense love for his Order that he would do anything for its prosperity, and that this prosperity tended to the good of society in general and the benefit of his fellow-men, Freemasonry must indeed exist to a much more powerful degree than it had ever done (applause). Let them do their best, in their generation, to maintain the Order they loved. He believed that in many parts of the world they had zealous Freemasons. In America probably Freemasonry existed to a greater extent than in any part of the world. But he believed that in England Freemasonry was carried out in its integrity to a greater extent than in any part of the earth (hear, hear). In some parts of the world Freemasonry was carried out under difficulties. No doubt, where persecution existed, their efforts were thwarted, and Freemasonry could not be carried out to the same extent and purity that it was where it was suffered to freely exist, according to primeval principles. He trusted that in England Freemasonry would ever have free scope. Let them do their best to promote it, and so long as Freemasons exerted themselves to maintain the Order which had been handed down for hundreds and thousands of years, so long would it exist in a more extended and beautiful way than it had ever hitherto done. It was a great gratification to him to be enabled, in some small degree, to promote the welfare of Freemasonry, and so long as he was enabled to carry out the wishes of the Grand Master of England in the Province of Hampshire, and to receive the support of the brethren in doing so, so long should he be delighted to continue as their Provincial Grand Master, and to do his best in that capacity (loud applause). The P.G.M., in highly eulogistic terms, proposed "The W.M.," and Bro. the Rev. E. B. C. Churchill responded. Other toasts followed.

At the meeting of the Whittington Lodge, No. 862, held on Monday evening, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet Street, a proposal was brought forward by Bro. Kingston P.M. and seconded by Bro. W. Jones P.M., to the effect that the Lodge in future should hold its meetings at Freemasons' Hall. The ground on which the proposal was made was a very proper one, namely, that our Lodge meetings should be held, as in Scotland, not at hotels and taverns, but in buildings specially erected for Masonic purposes. We refer to the subject elsewhere.

THE POPE AND THE EMPRESS EUGENIE.—We (Westminster Gazette) learn, on good authority from Rome, that the young Prince Louis Napoleon has been initiated, by Prince Humbert, into the mysteries of Italian Freemasonry. The Pope is very dissatisfied with the conduct of the ex-empress Eugénie and of her son. Pius IX. had advised the young Prince to quit Italy as soon as possible. This judicious advice, however, has not been followed; on the contrary, the Empress has been very assiduous in her visits to the Quirinal, and is in constant intercourse with those of the noble families in Rome who are partisans of King Victor Emanuel. For these reasons the Pope refused to dispense, with his own hands, the Holy Communion both to the Empress and the Prince. As the Empress Eugénie's request was made to him, the Pope said, "Anche, l'altro prese la Santa Comunione a Sant' Anna dorata." By the "other" the Pope meant Napoleon III. The Pope held up, as an example to the Empress and the Prince, the conduct of Don Carlos, who, on his recent visit to Rome, sought the Apostolic blessing, and, on advice, at once took his departure from Italy.

ANTIQUITY AND ADAPTATION.

(From the Voice of Masonry.)

IT matters little whether Masonry originated among the priests of Egypt, the Thugs of India, the philosophers of Greece, the Hebrews of Canaan, the merchants of Phœnicia, or at the "Apple Tree Tavern," in London; whether it was born in the Garden of Eden, among the mountains of Abyssinia, in the civilised cities of Greece, in the plains of Hindostan, on the hills of Palestine, or in the streets of the metropolis of the British realm. It matters little whether it is as old as creation; whether it was born in Solomon's time, or in the reign of Sesotoris; whether it was coeval with the Pyramids or with the Bunker Hill Monument; whether its nativity be dated six thousand years ago, or in "1717."

It may form an interesting question for solution by the antiquarian or historian—when and where, and by whom was Masonry first established? It might be a pleasure and a gratification to those interested in the growth and progress of the Fraternity to be able to trace, in all its ramifications, from its conception to its present position of power and influence. Those who throw the light of history on its path, give us pleasure and deserve well of their brethren and the world for their labours, and we would not have them, for a moment, intermit their efforts to roll away the dense cloud that overshadows the past Masonry. But, after all, that is not the great question to be answered to-day.

Masonry may be ancient as Babylon—as venerable as the Pyramids—and yet be of little use to this age and the present population of the globe. How many associations of the olden time, had they been continued to the present age, would have been of practical value? Not many. Mere age does not command respect. It must be coupled with worth to ensure consideration. Neither will antiquity prove that Masonry is for this age and people. We may agree that the fact of its having long existed proves its value; but evil things have been aged, and white locks frequently shadow the brow of the fool or the criminal.

The great question as regards our Institution now is, not how old it is; neither is it whether it has been adapted to the condition of mankind in the past; but whether it is needful and beneficial to human progress and human prosperity now. This question being answered in the affirmative, Masonry is worthy of the support of philanthropists everywhere; if answered truly in the negative, it is unworthy of countenance—no matter how beneficial it may have proved itself in times past.

How ought this question to be answered? What does truth require in the premises? Masonry is, professedly and confessedly, a benevolent institution. It teaches that it is the imperative duty of each person to care for and assist a needy fellow creature. It teaches that mankind are brethren, and, as such, are bound to extend aid to each other in the day of adversity. By most impressive rites and appropriate symbols, it impresses these duties upon the minds and consciences of the members, and, by regulations proved practical by experience, these duties are ever kept clearly and plainly before them: "When they lie down and they rise up; when they go out and they come in."

The intention of the Society is to make men more benevolent. We believe the intention is fulfilled; indeed, it can hardly be otherwise. The lessons received in the Lodge will naturally have their designed effect. A score, or a hundred persons come regularly together, and consult concerning the wants and the needs of their brethren and friends. The needy are helped, the despondent encouraged, and the hungry fed. They meet regularly. These matters are talked over at every meeting. Thus, a habit of thinking of the needy and of ministering to their wants is formed, and it becomes an important part of the business of those who voluntarily put themselves into this process of training to do the work of benevolence. Having placed themselves under obligation to do these generous works, and having banded themselves together for that purpose, the result is found in the more humane line of action which they exhibit. That Masons give for benevolent and charitable purposes, outside of their Lodge payments, as much as others not members, is a fact which, so far as we know, has never been denied. That they give more, according to their means, than non-society men, we have no doubt. Every subscription list for charitable purposes, circulated in a place where a Lodge is in existence, will bear us out in that belief. We say this, not in a spirit of boasting, but because it shows that the professions of benevolence put forth by Freemasons are not empty ones. My own observation would prove that Masons generally give double the amount which could be exacted of them on an impartial assessment. But we will place the amount of their gifts at the same figures with others not members of the Lodge. Then we shall, of course, have to give the Lodge credit for all that is contributed to charity within it, for if there had been no Lodge these contributions would never have been made. Thus we find that Masonry adds very materially to the treasury of charity. It seems like a work of supererogation to say a word as to the need for, and the benefit of, an institution of this kind in the present condition of mankind. But perhaps a word will not be out of place, for the good people are slow to admit the benefits conferred by our Order.

We can imagine a state of society which would not require such an institution as Masonry to exist. Were every one disposed to be governed, in act and word, by the Saviour's Golden Rule, there would be no need of Masonry. Were all honest and charitable, ready to relieve distress wherever seen, Masonry's occupation would be gone. But a blind, unfeeling selfishness pervades the minds of men. Self is ever present with most persons. The voice of the poor and needy is smothered by the noise of business and of greed, and their cry is not heard by those who have the means to be, and who ought to be, their benefactors. Not a week before preparing this article, a woman, in this land of plenty, died of starvation, surrounded by those, the crumbs from whose tables would have given the needed sustenance to preserve her life. She had saved the lives of her children, by giving them all she had been able to gather. Can we say that where such things happen—and this is but one of many of the same class—that there is no need of such a benevolent organization as Masonry has been proved to be? Shall we demolish Masonry at the beck of the fanatical, one-idead opponents, while mothers starve, surrounded by their famishing children? Did Masonry do as some of its enemies falsely charge, and only care for its own members and their families, still it would be a good institution, and worthy of being sustained. If every head of a family provided well for his own, there would be no suffering in poverty; did every society see that its own members were supplied, there would be much less suffering than now prevails. Masonry does this; some other societies do not. Even church sometimes forgets the invalid brother who suffers from sickness, or the weakly sister whose sands of life have nearly run out, though we are glad to be able to state our conviction that such neglect is far less common than it was in years gone by. Religion has become less doctrinal and more practical than formerly. In this particular the church may have learned and practised a valuable lesson from the Lodge—a lesson which they ought to have learned to practise long ages ago—that charity is greater than either faith or hope, and abides for ever.

We think we have the right to conclude from the considerations so briefly expressed, that Masonry, whether it be ancient or modern, is adapted to this age; that the world needs it as a school of benevolence and charity; that it materially helps forward the car of human progress; that it, to a great degree, assuages the woes of poverty, and feeds the hungry and clothes the naked. As long as poverty and want prevail—"as long as penury has a want to relieve or sorrow a tear to dry"—the world will need Masonry to assist in the holy work. And, though the bigot may rage and the fanatic curse, Masonry will survive until that period shall come when distress shall have ended and relief shall not be needed.

LODGES OF INSTRUCTION.

Eastern Star No. 95, and Tredegar No. 1625.

ON Monday evening last, the 15th inst., a number of brethren met at the Royal Hotel, Mile End Road, E., for the purpose of establishing a Lodge of Instruction under the sanction and authority of the Tredegar Lodge, held at the same establishment. Bro. E. Gottheil P.M. was unanimously voted to the chair. Amongst those present were Bros. C. Lacey P.M., the Worshipful Master of the Mother Lodge, T. J. Barnes P.M., Geo. Verry P.M., J. Berry P.M., &c., &c. The preliminaries having been agreed upon, Bro. E. Gottheil was appointed Preceptor, T. J. Barnes Treasurer, and Geo. Hollington Secretary. The meeting then resolved itself into a committee, and several bye-laws were considered and agreed upon. A meeting had also been convened—for the same date, hour and place—of the members of the "Eastern Star Lodge of Instruction," which had been in abeyance for about three or four years, and although the intention and object had been conspicuously advertised, out of upwards of one hundred members but seven attended. This being deemed a quorum, it was unanimously resolved that the two Lodges amalgamate, and that the furniture, privileges, &c., should constitute the property of the new establishment. The new Lodge will meet every Monday throughout the year at 8 p.m. There are hundreds of brethren residing in the district and its vicinity, who, we trust, will exert themselves to second the efforts of those who so willingly give their services to the cause of Masonic instruction. It is at all times exceedingly difficult to uphold the life and sustain the vigour of these Lodges. The element of unity is contained in the perseverance of rarely more than half-a-dozen members, the rest of the attendance being, as a rule, more or less fluctuating. It should therefore be the duty of the many able brethren who, we know, reside in the immediate neighbourhood to set an example, by their presence, at every possible opportunity to the dilatory, apathetic, and negligent. It is in their power to make this one of the most prosperous, as well as one of the best conducted Lodges in the country. For our own part, we wish it every success, and shall at all times be pleased, by giving the proceedings every publicity, to further its interests, and promote its prosperity.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting of the above Lodge was held at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday last. Present—Bro. Cambridge W.M., Lovelock S.W., Smith J.W., Saunders S.D., Perrin J.D., Brand I.G., Worsley Secretary, Wallington P.M. Preceptor; also Bros. Barker, Horsley, Hewlett, Lay, Crane, Defriez, Davis, Crouch, Ashburner. The Lodge was opened in due form. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Lay acting as candidate. Bro. Wallington gave the traditional history. Bro. Horsley worked the 1st and 3rd sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was resumed to the first degree. Bro. Lovelock was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. The 15 sections will be worked in this Lodge on Tuesday next, the 23rd instant, by the following brethren:—Bros. Horsley 933 W.M., Pinder W.M. 15 S.W., Wallington P.M. 860 J.W. First Lecture by Bros. Dallas 1524, W. J. Smith W.S. 860, E. T. Worsley J.D. 860, Ashburner P.M. 1278, Musto P.M. 1349, Williams 933, Rudderforth 12. Second Lecture by Bros. Cambridge J.W. 15, Hogarth 1107, Defriez S.W. 45, J.D. 1278, Pinder W.M. 15, Hewlett 141. Third Lecture by Bros. Wallington P.M. 860, Allen S.D. 733, Perrin W.M. 1056.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

ON the 10th inst., the usual Quarterly Meeting of the Freemasons of West Yorkshire took place at the Masonic Hall, Great George Street, Leeds, under the banner of the Goderich Lodge 1211. After the Lodge had been opened by the W.M. and Officers of the Lodge, the Provincial Grand Lodge entered, and was opened and presided over by Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., Provincial Grand Master of West Yorkshire. After the usual formalities had been gone through, and the reading of a portion of Scripture and prayer, the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master was saluted in ancient style.

Replying to this salutation, Sir Henry Edwards said: Brethren,—I am happy to meet the members of this Provincial Grand Lodge at the opening of a new Year, in order that the affairs of interest in connection with Freemasonry in this Province may be duly considered and debated. A year ago we were indebted to the Philanthropic Lodge, and again we have to thank the Freemasons of Leeds, and especially the Worshipful Master, Officers, and Brethren of the Goderich Lodge, for the present renewal of hospitality accorded to the Province on its first Quarterly Meeting for the current year. I again acknowledge, with much pleasure and satisfaction, the salutation of the brethren. The cordiality of your reception convinces me that the administration of our laws and the government of the Province meets with the approval of the Craft. Fifty years have now elapsed since the establishment of West Yorkshire into a separate Province, and when I look back over that period of time, and contrast the prospect of the future in comparison with the past, I think there is cause for general congratulation in the gradual progress which the principles of Freemasonry have made, and the marked improvement which has taken place in a variety of details in the Masonic government and unity of working displayed in the different Lodges. I assure you that I have the well government of this Province at heart, and that I will endeavour to select for my Provincial Grand Officers men of ability and popularity in the Craft. It will always be my desire, so far as lies in my power, to advance the position of the hard-working brethren in the Lodges, and to promote their prosperity and happiness, as well as to secure fair and impartial discussions upon matters of vital interest in my Province. It is a matter of sincere congratulation that our Royal Grand Master has again been graciously pleased to accept the highest office which the Craft can confer upon him, and that in December he was once more invited to occupy the position of our most Worshipful Grand Master in the Grand Lodge of England. At the Festival of the Masonic Benevolent Institution in February, his Royal Highness the Provincial Grand Master of Oxfordshire will, it is hoped, take the chair; and that of the Girls in May, Lord Suffield; and at the Boy's Festival, a most distinguished prelate of the Church of England will preside. We are now enabled to strike a balance of the results of the working of the Craft during the year just closed. These results may be roughly stated as follows:—Sixty-nine warrants for new lodges, and the enormous number of 8503 Grand Lodge certificates have been issued from head-quarters, each being largely in excess of those sent out in the previous year, and may be taken as a fair indication of the steady progress which the Craft has made during the past year. The voluntary contributions to the three Charities have this year reached the munificent sum of £39,335 7s 6d. This circumstance is a proof of the liberality of the fraternity, and would seem to point to the conclusion that the wants and needs of these institutions only require to be made known in order to meet with a fitting response. But this gratifying result of the year does not end by pouring these large sums into the coffers of these institutions. It imposes upon the managing bodies an increased responsibility for the economical disposal of this princely sum, and for a corresponding degree of efficiency in the educational and other results. In these respects it is to be regretted that, although the receipts of the Boys' School have been largely increased, the extravagant management and the indifferent educational results so forcibly pointed out by your Committee of Investigation a year ago still continue, without any evidence of improvement in the future. I feel bound to say this simply in the exercise of sound judgment upon the matter alluded to without lending myself in the remotest degree to either side in the personal controversy which has unfortunately been associated with the discussion of this question. A number of Freemasons, under a provisionally organised, "Masonic Educational and Benevolent Institution," have placed two girls for education, partial maintenance, and advancement in life, in local establishments, and a Lodge in the province has done the same in respect to an orphan boy. These experiments will test the merits of local, as compared with metropolitan establishments, and I cannot refrain from wishing these efforts to be attended with complete success. My Deputy, just before Christmas, had the honour of establishing two new Lodges in this Province, numbered 1645 and 1648 on the books of the Grand Lodge of England. These new Lodges are in districts, carved out of localities in this thickly populated Province, wherein are older existing Lodges closely associated around them. I cordially recommend to the new brethren the Pro Grand Master's condemnation of the unconstitutional practice of new Lodges canvassing, or in any way proposing, that members should be members of older Lodges, and younger Lodges in the same town, and at the same time. I am glad the Pro Grand Master has expressed himself so emphatically on this subject; and feel convinced that the very judicious hints conveyed on his part to the Board of General Purposes must meet with the approval of the Craft in this Province. In conclusion, I ask all the Lodges represented on this occasion to accept the fraternal congratulations and good wishes of myself and of my most talented, energetic, and indefatigable Deputy, Bro. Thomas W. Tew, for the year just commenced. After the address of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, the routine business of the Province was gone through, and a resolution on the agenda paper, by Bro. Ruddock, on the subject of a pamphlet relating to the Boys' School, was withdrawn. About 230 brethren attended the meeting. At the close of the Lodge, an excellent banquet was served in the Banquet Hall, by Bro. Oates, in his customary style, after which, Bro. Sir H. Edwards presiding, the usual Loyal, Patriotic and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and a pleasant and convivial evening was enjoyed.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Lion and Lamb Chapter.—A convocation of this Chapter was held on the 17th inst., at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street. The Chapter was opened in due form by Comps. G. Newman M.E.Z., F. Copestick H., H. Birdseye J. The Companions were then admitted, and the minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Bros. G. Hall, J. Lorkin, J. Grocott, H Brand and W. Medwin were proposed by Comps. J. Dunn, Copestick Scribe E., and J. Carle, and were duly exalted into R.A. Masonry. The installation of officers then took place, and the Chapter closed. The Comps. adjourned to supper.

Mersey Lodge, No. 477, Birkenhead.—On Thursday, 7th January, this Lodge of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons met at the Lodge-room, 55 Argyle-street, Birkenhead, for the purpose of installing the W.M. elect, and investiture of officers for the ensuing year. There was a very large attendance of members, and amongst the visitors were Bros. James Salmon P.M. 425 and 1477, P.P.S.G.D. Cheshire and P.J.G.W. North Wales and Shropshire, Richard B. Mellor P.M. 605 and P.P.J.G.D., M. C. McNerney 384, Thomas Chesworth W.M. 1576, A. Stephens W.M. 954, McNerney W.M. 605, W. Matthews W.M. 721, James Ridehalgh P.M. 1276, J. Taylor W.M. 1276, Jacobs 702, &c. After the Lodge had been opened according to ancient usage, Bro. Robert Gracie P.M. proceeded with the installation of Bro. William Pulford, the W.M. elect, as W.M. for the ensuing year, which was performed in a very impressive manner. The remaining officers of the Lodge were then installed as follows:—Bros. G. J. Adams I.P.M., Robert Grace P.M. Lecturer, J. Wedgwood P.M., Henry Martin P.M., John Griffiths P.M., Donald Fraser P.M. Treasurer, Samuel Jones P.M. Secretary, John Dutton S.W., Thomas Brown J.W., Wm. Worrall S.D., Wm. Bennett J.D., Robert Ridyard I.G., George Dicken D.C., Robert Hamilton and John Woolley (Chester) Stewards, and Holtoway Tyler. The Treasurer's report showed the Lodge to be in a flourishing condition. Last year there was a balance in hand of £7 16s, and the total amount received during 1876 was £397 19s 3d. Against this, the expenditure had been £331 14s 11½d, leaving a balance in the Treasurer's hands of £66 4s 3½d. Before the conclusion of the business, Bro. D. Fraser P.M. brought forward a scheme for the erection of a new Masonic Hall for Birkenhead. Masonry, he said, had recently so rapidly extended in Birkenhead and the surrounding neighbourhood that many now thought it was time that a suitable site should be secured for erecting a new Hall upon, as it was quite patent to everybody that they had not now anything like sufficient space to accommodate their members with any degree of comfort. By their present arrangement they had still three years left unexpired of their lease in the building they now occupied, and if the feeling of the members was tested he had no doubt by the time the three years had expired they might have a suitable hall erected for their accommodation which would be an ornament to Birkenhead. The Worshipful Master seconded the proposition, and it was ultimately decided that if it was found expedient to erect such a hall, the Mersey Lodge take five hundred £1 shares in the new undertaking. The practical feeling then tested showed itself by several members present guaranteeing to take up shares equal to £2,500, which is equal to one-half the total amount required to carry out Bro. Fraser's scheme, and augurs well for its being carried out. The Lodge having been closed in due form, the company adjourned to Bro. Charles Berry's, Ranelagh Hotel, where a splendid banquet was served up to about 120. The newly-elected W.M. presided, and the vice-chairs were occupied by the S.W. and J.W. The toast of "The Queen" having been received in true Masonic form, "The M.W.G. Master, Bro. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales," was next given, and met with a most hearty reception. The remaining toasts, which were effectively proposed by the W.M., were—"The R.W. Prov. G.M. Lord de Tabley, and Prov. Grand Officers Past and Present;" "The Worshipful Master;" "The Worshipful Past Masters of the Mersey Lodge;" "The Officers of the Mersey Lodge;" "The Past Officers of the Mersey Lodge," "The Visitors;" "The Masonic Charities;" and "All poor and distressed Masons." During the evening Bro. Fraser P.M. Treasurer, presented Bro. J. G. Adams I.P.M. with a P.M.'s jewel, and Bro. Robert Gracie P.M. with a Past Treasurer's jewel. Several musical brethren contributed materially to the harmony of the evening. We congratulate the brethren of the Mersey Lodge on the progress they have made during the past year. The Lodge is now one of the most important in the province, and worthy in every way of the great community of Birkenhead.

Portsmouth Lodge, No. 487.—The installation of the W.M. Bro. George Bond, of the Castle Hotel, Southsea, took place on Thursday evening, in the Masonic Hall, St. Mary's-street. There was a very good muster of brethren. The retiring W.M., Bro. E. Bunting, was supported by the following past and present W.M.'s:—Bros. M. E. Frost, G. Rake, G. S. Lancaster, Cudlipp, R. H. C. Ubsdell, F. Pineo, F. Court, Maltby, E. Groves, Moore, Turney, E. Downing, Harrison, and G. F. Lancaster (Gosport). The ceremony of installation was ably performed by Bro. Frost, after which the W.M. appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. Richard Beale S.W., Robert Osborne J.W., Prov. G. Organist, G. S. Lancaster Treasurer, M. E. Frost Secretary, J. Astridge Assistant Secretary, Loder S.D., W. L. Smith J.D., T. P. Palegrave I.G., W. Tuck and F. White Stewards, Johnson Chaplain, Exell Tyler. A vote of thanks was accorded to the retiring W.M., and to Bro. Frost for the efficient manner in which he had installed the W.M. At the banquet which followed there was a good attendance, and the usual Masonic toasts were honoured. The W.M. presided with great tact and bonhommie, and the after-dinner speeches were terse and to the point. Due honour was paid to the chiefs of the Craft, and the health of the W.M., which was given with much heartiness by his predecessor (Bro. Bunting), was received with enthusiasm, and elicited an appropriate response from Bro. Bond. "The Visitors" found an able representative in Bro. Horsey (Industry Lodge, 186, London), who expressed the gratification which he had experienced from what he had seen of the working of the Lodge. With the aid of harmony, to which Bros. Pillow P. Prov. G. Organist, Osborne, W. L. Smith and others contributed, the evening was passed most agreeably.

Wellington Lodge, No. 548.—The above Lodge met on Tuesday, the 9th inst., at the White Swan Hotel, Deptford. Bros. Dr. F. Chittenden W.M., Brooks S.W., Riley J.W., Welsford P.M. Treasurer, E. J. B. Bumstead P.M. Treasurer, and Past Masters Phillips, West, Bagshaw and Wakefield. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. W. Warren was passed to the 2nd degree. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Brooks S.W. was presented to the Lodge, and was duly installed by the retiring W.M., Bro. Dr. Chittenden, who performed the ceremony perfectly. Bro. J. J. West P.M. impressively delivered the addresses. The newly installed W.M. then invested his officers, Bros. Riley S.W., Joulden J.W., Welsford P.M. re-invested Treasurer, Bumstead Secretary, Magee S.D., Thitson J.D., Callison sen. I.G., Fieldson D.C., Fourlard Organist, and Laing P.M. Tyler. An elegant P.M.'s jewel was presented to the retiring W.M. for the manner he had discharged his duties during his year of office. Bro. Dr. Chittenden thanked the brethren for their valuable gift. After the lodge was closed, the brethren sat down to a banquet. The W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. E. P. Albert P.M. 188, G.P., returned thanks for the Grand Officers. The Master, Wardens, and other toasts followed, after which the brethren separated.

Camalodunum Lodge, No. 660, Malton.—The annual installation banquet was held on Tuesday, at Malton. The installation of the W.M. elect, Bro. Thomas Clough, of the City and County Bank, took place in the Freemasons' Hall, Yorkersgate, the ceremony being performed by Bro. Samuel King P.P.G.J.D. and P.M.; and the Worshipful Master appointed the following officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. W. King S.W., Harold Copperthwaite J.W., R. H. Bower Treasurer, A. W. Walker Secretary, T. B. Smith S.D., J. D. Dodsworth J.D., Fred Wand D.C., Seth Tinsley I.G., Thomas Wilkins and J. Goldie Stewards, and Kirton Wandby Steward and Tyler. The banquet was afterwards held at the Talbot Hotel.

Wiltshire Lodge of Fidelity, No. 663, Devizes.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held at the Town Hall, Devizes, on Tuesday, the 16th instant. The Lodge was opened in the first and second degrees by the W.M. Bro. T. B. Fox, who then requested Bro. Nott P.M. P.P.G. Reg. Wilts to take the chair. After the necessary preliminaries, a Board of Installed Masters, 12 in number, was formed, and the W.M. elect was duly installed by Bro. Nott into the chair of K.S., according to ancient custom. The newly installed Master was then saluted, and afterwards appointed and invested his officers, to each of whom a short address as to the duties of his office was delivered by Bro. J. H. Chandler P.M. The usual addresses to the W.M., Wardens and brethren, were delivered by the Installing Master. The following is the list of officers:—Bros. T. B. Fox I.P.M., Dr. J. W. Burman S.W., W. H. Burt J.W., Rev. H. Richardson P.M. Chaplain, D. A. Gibbs P.M. Treasurer, William Nott P.M. Secretary, H. Howse S.D., W. Day J.D., J. A. Randall I.G., Thos. Waite P.M. acting M.C., W. E. Fulford and G. S. A. Waylen Stewards, J. H. Chandler P.M. acting Organist, and John Hayter Tyler. The usual routine of the annual meeting was then proceeded with. The Treasurer's accounts were approved and passed, from which it appeared there had been five initiations and two joining members during the year. Grants were made to each of the Masonic Charities, to one of which, the Benevolent, the P.G.M., Lord Methuen, goes up as Steward for the Province, a member of this Lodge, Bro. Jno. Chandler, filling a similar office for the Girls' School. A brother was proposed as a joining member, after which the Lodge was closed. Amongst those present were the following P.M.'s, viz., Members of the Lodge, Bros. Fox, Gibbs, Waite, Ward, Rev. T. F. T. Ravenshaw P.G. Ch. Eng., Nott P.P.G. Reg. Wilts, J. H. Chandler P.P.G.O., O'Reilly, John Chandler P.P.S.G.W. and D.C. Wilts, and T. H. Chandler, and Visitors Gauntlett P.M. 632, P.P.G.S.B. Wilts, A. Plummer P.M. 355, as well as several other visitors. Letters of regret at inability to be present, and conveying good wishes to the W.M., were read from the P.G.M. Lord Methuen, the D.P.G.M. Bro. G. Goldney M.P., the P.G. Secretary, Bro. Tombs, and many others. After the Lodge was closed, the brethren adjourned to a banquet at the Crown Hotel, to which Bro. Watson Taylor, of Erlestoke Park, though unable, from ill health, to be present himself, contributed a supply of venison and game.

Panmure Lodge, No. 720.—This rapidly-increasing Lodge held its regular meeting at the Balham Hotel, Balham, on the 15th of January, and was largely attended both by members and visitors. The W.M. Bro. D. Trusler, was supported by Bros. C. Burgess S.W., H. Payne P.M. as J.W., Thomas Poore P.M. Secretary and Treasurer, James Stevens P.M., McKay S.D., Woolfe J.D., Smith I.G., McMurray D.C., Spiegel Steward, W. Steadman Tyler; and Bros. Mitchell, Davis, Sheadd P.M., Burton, Gunner, Treves, Blogg, Sanders, Holliday, Lilley, King, Huntley, Mills, and Wiltshire. Visitors—Bros. Porter 147, W. Howell 183, Pillington 1339, John Syer 1017, Miller 1420, Bain 360, Bye 141, and Biddlecome 720. The Lodge was opened at 5 p.m., and the minutes of the previous meeting having been confirmed, was duly passed and raised. The degree of M.M. was conferred on Bros. King, Gunner, Treves, and Holliday, each candidate being separately obligated and entrusted by the W.M., assisted by Bro. Stevens P.M., who completed the ceremonies, and delivered the traditional history. Bro. Blogg was passed to the F. C. degree. The ballot being clear for the admission into Freemasonry of Messrs. W. Simpson, G. Lambert, and C. Richardson, those gentlemen were duly introduced and initiated. Three other gentlemen were proposed as candidates for initiation in February, making a list of six aspirants for the privileges of the Order. The Stewardship of the R.M. Benevolent Institution, at the ensuing Festival was accepted by Bro. Spiegel, and the Lodge voted a donation from the Charity Fund to be placed on his list. A very affecting letter from the widow of a lately deceased member of the Lodge, conveying thanks for a vote of condolence recently passed, was read, and, after some brotherly remarks, in approval of the same, was ordered to be recorded at length on the minutes. In a case of great distress, arising from the untimely decease of a late officer, arrangements were made to ensure suitable relief to the widow and children. After five hours of continuous work, the Lodge was closed in order, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment. Owing to the lateness of the hour, brevity in speech, both in giving and responding to the usual toasts, was consistently observed, and whilst nothing befitting the occasion was neglected, the inevitable separation took place well within the date of meeting.

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—This Lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday the 10th of January, at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present—Bros. Edward Margrett W.M., Arthur Welch S.W., E. J. Tabor acting J.W., Rev. C. R. Honey Chaplain, William P. Ivey P.M. Secretary, J. T. Stranson Treasurer, J. Early Danks S.D., William Ferguson J.D., Thos. Newman Steward, Edward J. Blackwell I.G., Wm. Hemmings Tyler. Past Master Bro. J. Weightman; also, Bros. Hukins, Hunt, Hilder, Cottrell, Creed, Robinson, Rose, Bailey, and Phillips. Visitors—Bros. S. Bradley J.D. 414, F. Ferguson W.S. 414, A. Mitchell 65 St. John, Stonehaven, G.L. Scotland. Business.—The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed. After balloting for a candidate for initiation, Bro. E. Hunt having replied satisfactorily to his examination, retired. The Lodge was then advanced, and Bro. Hunt was passed, the ceremony being performed in a very correct manner by the W.M., who gave the Lecture on the Tracing Board. As a Lodge of Instruction could not be held previous to this meeting, the junior officers worked somewhat at a disadvantage. We doubt not this will be rectified in future. The bye-laws, as revised, were passed. The sum of five guineas from the Broken Column was unanimously voted to the W.M.'s Stewardship of the R.M.B.I. at the approaching Festival in February. The labours of the evening being ended, the Lodge was closed.

The Great City Lodge of Instruction, No. 1426.—This Lodge met at No. 111 Cheapside, on Thursday, the 18th inst., Bro. Edward Moody P.M. 1426 presiding. Bros. Shaw S.W., Brown J.W., Walmisley S.D., Bain J.D., Parker I.G., Spiegel acting Sec., James Stevens P.M., Blachie, Bain, Blissett, Blume, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes read. These, with communications relating thereto, caused considerable discussion, which resulted in an adjournment of the debate to the evening of Thursday the 25th inst., and we are requested to inform the members of the Lodge that their attendance on that occasion will be much esteemed. The Lodge having been passed to the second degree, Bro. Blissett—as candidate—proved his proficiency, and the ceremony of raising was ably rehearsed. Bros. Blissett (of the Rifle Lodge, Edinburgh) and J. Bain (Commercial, 360) were elected members.

Whittington Lodge, No. 862.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, the 15th instant, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Bros. Walker W.M., Moore S.W., Walmsley J.W., T. Kingston P.M. Treasurer, Jas. Weaver P.M. Secretary, Farebam S.D., C. E. Pasker J.D., Goddard I.G., and Past Masters. Bros. T. Kingston and Jones. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. Evans and Coates were passed to the second degree. Bros. Mackaness, Lee, and Maxwell were raised to the third degree. A notice of motion was given by Bro. Kingston that the Lodge be removed to some more convenient place; this was carried, and it will in future be held at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of the usual banquet.

A Stockholm correspondent of the Gottenburg Handels-Tidende states (evidently in error) that the Prince of Wales is expected, on the 21st inst., at Stockholm, to assist at the opening of the new Masonic Lodge, a ceremony which will take place on that day, which is the birthday of King Oscar II. The new Lodge has cost 1,600,000 crowns. Great preparations are being made for the banquet, where more than a thousand brethren are expected to meet; and for the ball which the King gives on the 22nd, and to which 2,000 invitations have been sent out.

In the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, before Vice Chancellor Bacon,—"Grillon v. Guenin—Tamar Indien," a perpetual injunction to restrain the Defendant from infringing the above well-known proprietary medicine was granted this day (Friday), with costs—a result entirely due to the indisputable evidence produced by the Plaintiff's representative, Bro. F. C. Kinnear.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE QUEEN has been at Windsor having, however, this week paid a brief visit to London. On Monday, the Prince and Princess of Wales left Sandringham in order to pay their promised visit to the Duke and Duchess of Manchester. All along the route the demonstrations of loyalty were of the heartiest character. At Huntingdon, great preparations were made to welcome them. No less than five triumphal arches were erected, the station gaily decorated in the usual fashion, and a guard of honour of the Duke of Manchester's Volunteer Light Cavalry was drawn up, while the other volunteer bodies in the neighbourhood were present under arms in considerable strength. On the Royal cortége emerging from the railway station, the crowd were somewhat too demonstrative, following up the carriages in great numbers, and very closely. Having lunched at the Earl of Sandwich's residence, Hinchinbrook, the party continued their journey to Kimbolton Castle, which was reached about half-past o'clock. Tuesday was devoted to hunting, their Royal Highnesses being greatly favoured in respect of the weather. The meet took place in a meadow not far from the Pertenhall cross-roads. Several good runs were obtained, and one old fox was run into the park, and lost his brush close to the Castle; after which the guests adjourned to luncheon. On Wednesday, after inspecting the Duke's farm, and the splendid herd of shorthorns which his Grace is forming, the Prince and party were present at a large meet of the Fitzwilliam hounds, about four miles off, at Catsworth Guidepost, Mr. Charles Fitzwilliam, Master of the Hunt, and all the leading patrons of sport in the neighbourhood being present, Capital sport was obtained. On Thursday, a grand ball was given in honour of the Royal visit, and proved a great success. Yesterday, it was arranged, should be devoted to hunting with the Cambridgeshire hounds. In short, the visit has been one round of princely hospitality, and the noble owner of Kimbolton, who, as our readers are doubtless aware, is Provincial Grand Master of Northamptonshire and Hunts, must have been highly gratified at the honour paid him by their Royal Highnesses.

Though the weather has latterly been less stormy and the waters have subsided to a great extent in many parts of the country, and notably in the valley of the Thames, thousands of acres are still inundated. The Prince of Wales in his journey to Kimbolton from Sandringham passed through an immense tract of country, which had all the appearance of a lake. Indeed, even in the neighbourhood of Windsor, where there has been a subsidence of the waters, the country all round is more like a marsh, and orders have been issued postponing the return of the boys to Eton, till the 24th instant. The work of collecting money for the relief of the sufferers is going on bravely, and up to Wednesday the amount received by the Mansion House Committee had reached the very respectable total of £7,200. Local Committees have also been formed for administering relief, and though all that is lost may not be made good, we doubt not the funds raised will go a long way towards compensating the sufferers. But though the calamitous floods have abated, it is still necessary to adopt precautionary measures, especially near the Thames, as a succession of high tides is expected at the end of the month. The work of raising the river wall to prevent the overflow of water is being prosecuted, therefore, with great vigour, especially in the neighbourhood of Nine Elms.

On Tuesday, the opening of the new hall of Balliol College, Oxford was commemorated by a grand banquet, at which were present some two hundred and fifty past and present members of the College, together with several distinguished guests, among them being the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, the Dean of Westminster, Viscount Cardwell, Lord Coleridge, the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Earls of Donoughmore and Jersey, and the Right Hon. S. Cave, M.P. A succession of toasts of the usual character was given, that of "Prosperity to Balliol College," which was proposed by his Grace of Canterbury, being received with enthusiasm, and very happily responded to by the learned Master of the College, Mr. Jowett.

Bro. Clabon presided at the Quarterly General Court of the Boys' School, held on Monday. Twelve vacancies were declared for the next election in April, the number of candidates being fifty-nine. A pension of £120 per annum was granted to the Collector of the School, who retires after a long service of twenty years. Bro. Snow's proposition to erect extra buildings for the accommodation of fifty additional boys was withdrawn, the whole question of increased accommodation being referred to the House Committee, for their report to the General Committee, and through the latter to the Quarterly Committee. We shall have occasion to refer to this subject at greater length on some future occasion.

Mr. James Weir, a gentleman engaged in literary pursuits, and having Chambers at 50 Lincoln's Inn Fields, is apparently not very partial to the music of chamber organs, at all events not when the instrument is played in a suite of chambers immediately beneath him. It seems, however, that he will have to endure the nuisance, unless Mr. Sanderson Corpe, the owner of the objectionable instrument, will abstain from playing it when Mr. Weir is fulfilling his literary duties. Such, in fact, will be the effect of the ruling of the Judge of the Westminster County Court, to whom Mr. Weir made application on Tuesday for an injunction to restrain Mr. Corpe from this organ performance. Evidence was adduced by the plaintiff to the effect that this organ was a great annoyance, not only to Mr. Weir himself, but to occupants of other chambers in the same house, and that when it was played the vibration was very great. The instrument was described as 13 feet high, 10 feet wide, and 4 feet or 5 feet in depth,

The defendant, having proved that he had the landlord's permission to erect the organ, his Honour expressed the opinion that the nuisance was not actionable, though it was intolerable, and a verdict was entered for the defendant, with costs. And so the matter stands. Mr. Corpe may go on playing his organ to the annoyance of his fellow-tenants of 50 Lincoln's Inn Fields, while Mr. Weir endeavours to prosecute his literary labours under the most trying circumstances; and yet there is no remedy. "The law allows it, and the Court awards it."

At this season of the year preparations are always being made for the University Boat Race, which is rowed annually about Easter. Before Christmas trial Eights were out practising both at Oxford and Cambridge, but the floods have seriously interfered with the work, and if they last long enough, will make the business of training a matter of some difficulty. However, as far as it can be done, strenuous efforts are being made to get together the strongest representative eights for the two Universities, and these efforts are very likely to prove successful. There is no lack at either of them of good men and true, ready and willing to do battle in honour of their alma mater. Time, indeed, seems to pass rapidly, when we find ourselves now wondering whether Cambridge will repeat her victory of last year, or Oxford will be strong enough to turn the tables on her rival.

According to all accounts, there appears to be very little chance of the Turks yielding, even at the last moment, to the demands of the Great Powers, though these have been greatly reduced since the Conference held its first meeting. In one or two quarters we have seen a belief expressed that some kind of arrangement may be come to to-day, but this seems almost hoping against hope. This being so, people are of course beginning to speculate as to what will be the outcome of all this palavering. It is generally stated that should Turkey decline to yield, the Special Plenipotentiaries will leave Constantinople; but it by no means follows that the Great Powers will remain unrepresented at the Porte. Nor as between Russia and Turkey does it by any means follow that a rupture of diplomatic relations will lead to war. True, Russia will be in a great fix, and having come forward in November last, and threatened her rival with all kinds of penalties, if she did not yield to her demands as the self-elected champion of Christianity, she will stand before all Europe as having sustained a serious diplomatic defeat. But for all this the Czar may find it wise to hold back, if it be true, as has been stated before, that her military strength is less formidable than she had expected. Great dissatisfaction is said to prevail at the prospect of a collision, and the enthusiasm for the Slavs is reported to be reduced to a very low ebb indeed. Turkey, too, has shown herself more powerful than was expected, and with far more of vitality in her than could have been expected from Czar Nicholas's "dying man" of 1853. It is little use, however, indulging any further speculations as to future events. We shall know soon enough what will happen; and when Parliament meets, about three weeks hence, full details will, no doubt, be given of the negotiations now so shortly about to terminate. Meanwhile, if our readers are anxious to study this Eastern Question more fully, we advise them to read the articles in the Edinburgh and the Quarterly, just published. They will gather from these a far more complete idea of the question in all its bearings than can be obtained from any other papers or periodicals. They are written, too, in the calmest and most dispassionate tone, without the slightest prejudice in favour of this or that view, and their value is greatly increased by the fact of their concurring on all essential points. This must have weight with the general public, for the Edinburgh and Quarterly are seldom at one with each other in the great political problems of the day.

The Quarterly General Court of the Governors and Subscribers of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Saturday, the 13th inst., at Freemasons' Hall; Bro. Col. Creaton V.P., in the chair. The Secretary, Bro. Robert Wentworth Little, read the minutes, which were confirmed; he also announced the purpose for which the meeting was convened. Bro. Col. Creaton proposed that the sum of £500 be granted to complete the amount required agreeably to tender for the new laundry. This was seconded by Bro. A. H. Tattershall. Bro. Little reported that there were 54 candidates for the next election in April, and there would be 13 vacancies. Bro. John Symonds P.G.D. suggested that the Committee should establish as a test of ability to read on the part of the intending candidates the standard fixed by the Education Department of the Privy Council. These views having met with the approval of the Chairman and Committee, a vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to Bro. Col. Creaton, and the meeting was adjourned. Amongst those present were Bros. H. A. Dubois, A. H. Tattershall, J. Symonds, H. Browse, H. Massey, Z. D. Berry, Thos. Massa, J. Boyd, H. Dicketts, Dr. Ramsay, S. Rosenthal, T. W. White, E. H. Finney, &c.

We have been favoured with a copy of the Report of the Directors of the Redruth Masonic Hall Company Limited, and we heartily congratulate them on the result of their management, as well as on the prospects which apparently are in store for them. The authorised capital of the company consists of 750 shares of £2 each. Of these 522 had been issued to the end of the year 1876, representing a sum of £1,044, and ten more have since been taken up. The total receipts from all sources amount to £1,107 4s 11d. Per contra, the expenditure is as follows:—Paid for site in 1874, £36; on account to contractors, £850, the total contract being £1,079; paid to Messrs. Barwell, Son, and Fisher, £30 7s 0d; interest and commission on banking account, £1 14s; the actual payments representing a sum of £918 1d. The unpaid calls amount to £172 3s 3d, and the cash balance in hand to £17 0s 8d. The directors announce that the balance of the contract will be paid to the contractors when the Hall is formally handed over to the company, and that the Hall is so nearly completed as to allow of the Lodges of the town holding their meetings there. It is further announced that an additional sum of £200 will be needed in order to provide the requisite fittings; but as the directors are unwilling to raise this by a mortgage on the Hall, arrangements have been made with the Company's bankers for the advance of the sum on the directors' several and joint promissory notes. It is further pointed out that the parts of the Hall not required for Masonic Lodges have been found sufficiently attractive to obtain proposals for their use at fair rentals, the lower Hall being already leased to the Ancient Order of Foresters and a religious body, who use the same two nights in the week, at a yearly rental; the present income of the company being about £50 per annum, which is close upon 5 per cent. on the total capital, or 4 per cent. if the additional outlay on fixtures, &c., be included. We have rarely seen a more satisfactory Report from so young a company, and we heartily wish it all prosperity.

The Regular Quarterly Communication of the District Grand Lodge of British Burmah was held on 12th September last, in the Masonic Temple, Rangoon. In the absence of the District Grand Master, Bro. Krauss D.D.G.M. presided. A number of Dist. Grand and Past Grand Officers were present, together with representatives of Lodges Nos. 614, 832, and 1268, apologies being read from sundry for their inability to attend. An unusual report was submitted at the outset of the proceedings, to the effect that a certain candidate having satisfied the D.G.M. of his ability "to read and write," permission had been granted to the W.M. of his Lodge to confer on him the second and third degrees. The Report of the D.G.L. Committee, held on 3rd August, announcing the resignation by Bro. Colonel H. T. Duncan of his office of D.G.M. was then read and adopted. It was also announced that Colonel Duncan had presented the insignia of his office to the D.G.L. A vote of thanks for his services, and of regret at his resignation, as also of thanks for his handsome gift to the Lodge, was unanimously passed. The financial statement of the D.G. Treasurer, as examined and audited, was next submitted and found correct. The other business having been transacted, and a request from Bro. the Rev. J. E. Marks, that a sum of 15 rupees per mensem be paid out of the Benevolent Fund for one year towards the education of Hubert Penfold, having been arranged for reference to the District Grand Lodge Committee, the D.G. Lodge was closed with the customary formalities.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—At the beginning of the year, countless causes are at work to lower the tone of the nervous system, which will be followed by ill health unless proper means be employed to avert that evil. Holloway's far famed preparations supply a faultless remedy for both external and internal complaints connected with the changes of seasons. All affections of the skin, roughness, blotches, pimples, superficial and deeper seated inflammations, erysipelas, rheumatic pains and gouty pangs, alike succumb to the exalted virtues of Hollowayn Ointment and Pills. The maladies most prevalent in winter, to wit: chest complaints and stomachic ailments, daily bear witness to the potential influence of this treatment, which saves suffering and spares disaster.

Union Lodge, No. 127, Margate.—On Friday, the 5th inst., Brother W. Crawford was duly installed W.M. for the ensuing year, by the retiring W.M., Bro. Silani, who performed the ceremony with accuracy and impressiveness. The Union Lodge Room is one of the handsomest in Kent, and the meetings are always attractive to the brethren of surrounding Lodges. On this occasion an unusually large number of members were present. The W.M. has the best wishes of his brethren for a successful year of office, and we are confident he will do honour to the chair, and add to the high reputation the Lodge has always maintained. This, however, will be no easy task, as he succeeds a most deservedly popular, and in every respect able and efficient W.M. The W.M. having been duly installed, appointed the following brethren as his officers:—Bros. Chancellor S.W., G. H. Chexfield J.W., W. C. Brasier P.M. P.P.G.S.B. Treasurer, A. Wootton P.M. P.P.G.D.C. Secretary, A. Chexfield S.D., Rev. Sitwell J.D. and Chaplain, R. Reid I.G., Doughty Tyler, Gibbs Organist, Philpott Director of Ceremonies, E. Pickering Assistant Director of Ceremonies, Raisbeck, Robinson, and F. Perry Stewards. Bro. Brasier was elected to serve on the Charity Committee. The W.M. then presented the retiring W.M., Bro. Silani, with a valuable P.M.'s jewel, as a slight token of the high appreciation in which the Lodge held him, and for the admirable manner in which he had discharged the duties of W.M. during the past year, for which Bro. Silani returned thanks in feeling terms. The following were then proposed as joining members:—Bros. H. Baily, of Belvedere Lodge; John Ross Gallant W.M. New Concord 813; E. Isaacson P.M. 457, and Walter Searle. For initiation Mr. William Robertson. The brethren then adjourned to the Elephant Hotel, where between forty and fifty sat down to an excellent banquet. The table and walls of the room were tastefully and appropriately decorated, and presented a very attractive appearance. The usual Masonic toasts were done justice to, and the health of the W.M. and the installing W.M. most cordially received. Each, in turn, suitably replied. Between the toasts several of the brethren displayed their vocal abilities, they were accompanied on the piano by Bro. Aubrey, the Misses Addis and Theresa Doncaster, by their beautiful, songs added much to the pleasures of the evening. Bros. Talfourd, Staner, Reeve and others, though not at the installation, were present at the banquet. The following visiting brethren were present: J. Terry Secretary Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, W. Smeed P.J.G.W., Middlesex, Rev. G. W. Sicklemore P.M. 1209 P.P.S.G.W., T. H. Snowden P.M. 429 and 1209 P.P.J.G.W., H. Wootton P.M. 1209 P.P.G.A. Secretary, L. A. Hill P.M. 1206 P.P.G.S.W., W. Mate P.M. 1206 P.P.G.R., W. Winch P.M. 429 P.P.J.G.D., L. Finch P.M. 429 and 1209 P.P.G.D.C., G. Page W.M. 1209 P.G.S., E. Isaacson P.M. 457, J. R. Gallant W.M. 813, S. Watkins W.M. 212, W. S. C. Harrison P.M. 429, H. Wootton 1209, H. Bailey 503.

Faith Chapter, No. 141.—A number of Companions assembled on Wednesday, the 17th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, E.C., to celebrate the anniversary and witness the installation and investiture of the officers for the ensuing year. Companion N. Gluckstein M.E.Z. opened the proceedings, and then vacated the First Principal's chair in favour of Companion E. Gottheil P.Z., who at once installed Companions C. F. Hogard M.E.Z., J. Constable H., and W. E. Gomperts J. The following officers were then invested, Jas. Pinder S.E., R. Z. Bloomfield S.N., M. Bamberger Treas., Hollands P.S., J. D. Barnett 1st Assistant, D. Posener 2nd Assistant, Charles Ochse D.C., F. Croaker W.S., Longstaff Janitor. The newly installed Z. immediately applied himself to the duties of his office. A Ballot was taken, which proved in favour of Bros. Geo. Corble W.M. of the Chigwell Lodge 453, Thos. W. C. Bush 185, and Charles Cruchley 177, and these brethren being present, were duly admitted, and exalted to the degree. The business in the Chapter being completed, the banquet was served, under the efficient superintendence of Comp. Smith, to the gratification and enjoyment of all present. The various toasts were then given and responded to. The M.E.Z. took occasion to remark upon the prosperous condition of the Chapter, which, after the short existence of four years, has progressed so far as to bid fair to become one of the most important in the Craft. He was also pleased to observe the efficient working of all the subordinate as well as the principal officers. In some chapters Companions assume positions they are incapable of properly filling, and are installed in the principal chairs only to vacate them, and have their work done for them. This, he was happy to think, was not the case in the Faith Chapter, and looking at the Companions who are following on to the higher offices, not likely to be for years to come; while that is the case, the prosperity of the Chapter is secure (cheers.) Comp. Geo. Corble, in responding for the exaltees, expressed his heartfelt thanks for the cordial reception of himself and fellows. His highest ambition in the Craft had been to reach the exalted position of the W.M. of his Lodge, and having attained the rank, he fancied he was securely placed on the top of the tree; but he had been undeceived that evening, for on witnessing the beautiful ceremony of the Royal Arch, he discovered that he had only reached the first rung of the ladder, and that a vast deal had yet to be studied before attaining the highest point of Masonic eminence. As far as their abilities would permit, his colleagues as well as himself would strive to become useful members of the Order (applause). Comp. N. Gluckstein P.Z. replied for the P.Z.'s collectively, but Comp. T. Mortlock P.Z. wished to say, in addition to what had fallen from the I.P.Z., that as an old P.Z, and one who had visited a great number of Chapters, having more than ordinary opportunities to witness the way in which the work is generally done, he had no hesitation in asserting that there is not a Chapter existing in which the ceremonies are performed with such thorough efficiency by every officer, from the highest to the lowest, as had been done that evening in the Chapter. Although Comp. Gluckstein was deputed to respond for the P.Z.'s generally, he felt he ought not to let the opportunity pass to pay them a tribute they so richly deserved (hear, hear). Comp. J. Constable replied for the Officers, and in the course of his remarks paid a graceful compliment to Comp. E. Gottheil, through whose instrumentality he (Bro. Constable) had derived the Masonic knowledge he possessed. Comp. Gomperts said, having held the position of S.E. since the foundation of the Chapter, he would have been content to retain that office, and continue to give his services in that capacity; but being pressed to assume higher duties, he could not hesitate. The Companions would always find him at their service in whatever situation he might be placed. (applause.) The various speeches were interspersed with songs, by Comps. Constable, Barnett, Mortlock, Snare, and Canton. A very handsome gold P.Z.'s jewel was presented to Comp. N. Gluckstein upon his retirement from the first principal's chair. Companion Hogard in presenting it said, that the testimonial was richly deserved. Companion Gluckstein is held in high esteem by every member of the Chapter. Companion N. Gluckstein could scarcely find words sufficiently expressive of his feelings of gratitude for all the kindness and generous indulgence which had been accorded him. He was well aware of his shortcomings, the work had not come up to his own anxious desires and wishes, but he had done his duty to the best of his ability. He assured the Companions that the events of that day would never fade from his memory; he deemed it one of the most joyous and gratifying in the whole course of his existence. Whenever his humble services were required they would always be at the disposal of the Chapter. (Great cheering).

Tranquillity Lodge, No. 185.—This Lodge held its regular monthly meeting at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on Monday. Bro. J. D. Barnett W.M. presided, and there were present Bros. J. Peartree S.W. and Treasurer, D. Posener J.W., S. G. Pare S.D., W. D. Bayley J.D., P. Levy Secretary, F. Croaker I.G., J. Ross I.P.M., and Bros. S. E. Moss, N. Moss, M. Harris, E. Harfeld, B. Z. Bloomfield and J. Constable, Past Masters of the Lodge, and R. E. Potter Tyler. As soon as the Lodge was opened Bros. Solomon and Ager were passed, and then Bros. Salaman and Butler were raised to the sublime degree. Bro. Peartree was next unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. Constable was appointed Treasurer, and accepted the office conditionally that when the term of Bro. Peartree's Mastership was ended, that worthy brother should resume his duties as Treasurer, duties he had fulfilled with so much zeal and ability during the last fifteen years. Bro. Potter was re-elected Tyler, and then the following Past Masters were chosen as the Committee of the Lodge Benevolent Fund, namely, Bros. S. Solomons, M. Harris, Maurice Hart, A. E. Sydney, S. E. Moss and E. Harfeld. On the motion of Past Master Bloomfield, the sum of ten guineas was unanimously voted from the Lodge funds for the purpose of presenting a testimonial to the retiring W.M., Bro. Barnett, whose services have secured for him the respect and admiration of his fellow members. The Lodge then adjourned to the banquet, which was admirably served by the new manager, Mr. E. H. Rand. In fact, during our whole experience at the City Terminus Hotel, we have never been present on any occasion when the Lodge was better or more liberally treated, and that too at a price less by one-third than was charged by Mr. Rand's predecessor. On the removal of the cloth, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. Bro. Peartree, in responding to the toast of his health as W.M. elect, expressed the pleasure he felt at having been so highly honoured by the brethren. He had been a member of the Lodge for seven and twenty years, and had held the office of Treasurer for fifteen of them. He had always taken a deep interest in the welfare of Tranquillity. At his time of life, and after a service so prolonged, the brethren must not expect too great things of him, and he should rely to a great extent on the tried ability of his immediate predecessor, Bro. Barnett, who he was sure would render him all that assistance he had proved himself, during his year of office, so capable of rendering. In concluding a very happy speech, Bro. Peartree stated that no words of his would adequately express the feelings he experienced. He then resumed his seat amid general expressions of congratulation. The health of the Visitors, who were represented by Bros. Irving, a M.M. from New Zealand, Hyatt and Westerby, was replied to by the first mentioned brother. We also remarked that the healths of the several Junior Officers were given and acknowledged separately. The intervals between the toasts were enlivened by some excellent singing. Bro. Child was very effective, as he always is, and Bro. Bayley sang a very humorous ditty, the refrain of which was "Perhaps 'tis just as well." But the vocal talent was far from being displayed by the Lodge Members only. Bro. Hyatt, a visitor, whose professional name, Mr. Percival, is sufficiently familiar in musical circles, sang very sweetly indeed, and quite charmed all present by the exquisite taste and feeling he exhibited in his delivery. In fact, a most agreeable and harmonious evening—harmonious in more senses than one—was spent, and when the hour for separating arrived, the brethren departed to their several homes, delighted with all they had seen and heard, and above all things extremely well pleased with the successful efforts of Mr. Rand, as the purveyor of the Banquet.

Lion Lodge, No. 312, Whitby.—On Monday afternoon, the brethren of the Lion Lodge met at the Masonic Hall, John-street, West Cliff, at two o'clock, for the purpose of taking part in the installation of Bro. J. M. Bottomley, as W.M. for the ensuing year. There was an imposing assemblage. The Installing Master was Bro. John Stevenson P.M., and the interesting and impressive ceremonial was admirably gone through. The officers of the Lodge for the ensuing year are as follows:—Bros. J. M. Bottomley W.M., S. Chadwick S.W., W. G. Lockey J.W., F. Thornton S.D., G. T. Crowther J.D., W. E. Wolsey I.G., Geo. Elliott D.C., James Wood Tyler, James Manlo and Geo. Ferrow Stewards, J. W. Lawson P.M. Treasurer, J. S. Dale Secretary. The annual banquet was sat down to at the Royal Hotel, at 4.30, and was a most sumptuous repast. There was a goodly number of Past Masters, officers and brethren. The W.M. presided, and the S.W. was in the vice-chair.

Sincerity Lodge, No. 174.—This Lodge held its installation meeting on Wednesday, the 17th of January, at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street, E.C. Present—Bros. W. F. Wells W.M., G. J. Hilliard S.W., J. Appleby J.W., J. Newton P.M. Secretary, S. Rawley P.M. Treas., G. Seddon S.D., J. M. Dunstan J.D., G. Jones D.C., C. H. Webb I.G., Verry Tyler. Past Masters Bros. Barlow, Bulmer, Lacey, Moore. Visitors Bros. C. Wells 1306, W. R. Langford, and R. Ives, late 174, G. Greenland 781, J. T. Lovelock 212, H. Ingall 228, J. Wright P.G.P., W. Geary 742, E. G. Legge 1196, G. D. Bundy 902, A. Ellis 933, F. Dunn 72, James Terry Secretary R.M.B.I., and W. W. Morgan jun. The preliminary business of the Lodge having been transacted, the ballot was taken for Messrs. J. A. Keable and W. H. Martin, also for Bro. W. P. Wyatt of No. 1607 as a joining member, all of which ballots were favourable, after which Bro. Vigor was passed to the second degree. The installation of the W.M. elect, Bro. G. J. Hilliard, was then proceeded with, and most ably performed by Bro. P.M. Lacey. The officers appointed were as follow:—J. Appleby S.W., G. Seddon J.W., J. Newton P.M. Sec., J. M. Dunstan S.D., C. H. Webb J.D., G. Jones I.G., F. Brown D.C., J. Miller W.S.; the Treasurer, Bro. S. Rawley P.M., and the Tyler, Bro. Verry, were re-appointed. The report of the Audit Committee having been accepted, it was proposed that a vote of thanks to Bro. P.M. Lacey be recorded on the minutes for the kind and efficient way in which he had performed the ceremony of installation, which was unanimously carried. It was also unanimously resolved that a Past Master's jewel be presented to the I.P.M. Bro. Wells, for his services during his year of office. Mr. Cant, who had been previously accepted, and Mr. Martin, being then in attendance, were initiated by the W.M. After this ceremony it was announced that Mr. Keable, the other candidate, had arrived, and he also was initiated. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet. After grace the W.M. proposed the toast of "The Queen," coupled with "The Craft." He considered that any comments from him would be out of place; every one respected Her Majesty, and so long as she remained on the throne, we might consider ourselves and the country safe. The toast having been enthusiastically received, the National Anthem was sung. The W.M. proposed the health of "Our Grand Master the Prince of Wales," who he hoped might long be spared to rule the Craft, and also to govern the nation. The Pro G.M., the Deputy G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers was next honoured, after which the W.M. proposed what he considered the toast of the evening. The Sincerity Lodge was always pleased to welcome new members, and those they had initiated that evening he knew to be worthy men, He hoped the brethren would drink their health with spirit, and give them a hearty welcome. It was natural the old members of a Lodge should die off, and unless they had new ones to take their place, they would soon become, as it were, dead. The toast having been honoured, the I.P.M. Bro. Wells, sang the Entered Apprentice song, which was entered into with marked enthusiasm by all present. Bro. Cant, who was the first to reply, thanked the members for the way in which he had been received, and hoped he would always meet as hearty a welcome as he had on the present occasion. Bro. Keable wished to promote the interest of true brotherhood, and Bro. Martin hoped to prove worthy of the confidence reposed in him that evening. Bro. Wells, in proposing the toast of the W.M., said he knew from experience the feeling of a brother who occupied the chair for the first time at a banquet. He hoped their present Master would have good health during his year of office. He was quite certain that he would prove capable of carrying out the duties required of him, to the satisfaction of the brethren, who would not regret the choice they had made. In reply the W.M. thanked the brethren for appointing him, and also for the way in which they had responded to the invitation of Bro. Wells. He would do all he could to merit their approval, and should be fail in anything, he had an efficient array of Past Masters, who, he hoped, would assist him. He had always coveted the position he then occupied, and hoped to bring no discredit to it. The W.M. next asked the brethren to drink to the very good health of Bro. Wells. As it was his first appearance as Past Master, he hoped they would drink it with great enthusiasm. Bro. Wells was greatly pleased to hear the way in which the toast of his health had been responded to. Whether he had done the work during his year of office as it ought to be done, or as it ought not to be done, he hoped the brethren would consider that he had had the cause at heart, and he was glad to know his efforts had met with some approval. He was never so happy as when he was among them, and his pride had been from the time he had entered the Lodge to occupy that chair he had just vacated. He would always wear the handsome jewel they had presented him with with feelings of pleasure. Bro. P.M. Barlow, whose privilege it has always been to pproose the toast of the Masonic Institutions, next took the gavel. He explained, for the benefit of those young brethren, who, perhaps, knew little of what was being done by the Craft, the various Institutions which were supported by them. The Sincerity Lodge had always been among the foremost, and he hoped they would ever continue in that proud position. Each year for the past 20 years the Lodge had been represented at one of the Festivals, and he hoped the members of the Lodge would all become subscribers, which could be done at a small annual outlay. He coupled with the toast the name of Bro. Terry. Bro. Terry considered it a great privilege to have to respond in this Lodge. It was quite unnecessary to enumerate to them the duties of a Mason as regards our Institutions. He would just give them an idea of what was being done. First, there was the Girls' School, where they fed, clothed, and educated 159 daughters of Freemasons. He was sorry the Secretary of that Institution was so ill as to be unable to attend and plead on behalf of that Charity, but hoped the brethren would not forget to send him a Steward with a good list for the next Festival. With regard to the boys, every Mason who had been in the Craft for two or three years must have heard of that Institution, where they maintained 189 boys. If any proof was required of the efficiency of their training, he would refer them to the result of the last Cambridge Local Examination. The grand desire was to elect more boys, which they hoped, with the assistance of the Craft, to be able to do. For the Girls' School they were laying out between £12,000 and £14,000, and for this they intended receiving 50 additional girls. When they had 200 girls and 200 boys, he thought the Craft would rest contented. With his own Institution, the Lodge of Sincerity had always been connected; for many years they had not let a Festival pass without being well represented, and he was pleased to say that all the Past Masters round him had served the office of Steward, some of them more than once. For his next Festival three members of the Lodge were Stewards, and he was sure they would all bring good lists. Although all members of the same Lodge, they did not clash. He thought it was right for their Institutions that some remarks should be made with reference to what had been said at the late meeting of Grand Lodge. It was there remarked that £4,000 divided between the three would only come as drops in the ocean. He was afraid the noble Earl was not so well informed on that point as many would have wished, or he would not have said what he did. All the lists had been settled for the next elections, and from them it appeared there were over 180 applications, and only 32 vacancies. With these figures he did not consider it sufficient to say that £1,500 would be of no use to either of the Charities. On the contrary, every farthing would be of service, and he hoped that before the meeting of Grand Lodge in March next, the matter would be well considered. The Lifeboat Institution was one of the best in the Kingdom, but they must not forget that while the boats which it was proposed to present were saving the lives they would probably be called upon to save, it was certain that many a poor old brother or poor child might perish. The amount they had to give would enable about 10 girls, 10 boys, and 8 Benevolent candidates to be relieved. He had one especial pleasure that evening, he had been asked by Bro. Blain to read the balance sheet of the concert which had lately been given. As the result of one evening's entertainment, he found that the sum of £57 16s 2d was to be handed over; out of this sum Bro. Blain made himself Life Governor of all three Institutions; he proposed to present to Bro. Moore, who had worked throughout in a most energetic manner, a life governorship, and in addition to the one he had advertised should be balloted for, he now proposed to ballot for a life subscribership,* thus they had five governorships and one subscribership as the result of the concert. Bro. Terry hoped the example of Bro. Blain would be followed in many other parts of London, and that the next one Bro. Blain conducted would bring in £157 instead of £57 as this one had done. He heard a cry of "No, no," but was pleased it was not general, they did not mind where they went so long as it was for a good cause. If any of the outer world wanted to know what Freemasonry was, send them to Wood Green, to Clapham or Croydon, or let them go to any part of the Kingdom, they were sure to find some brother or the widow of some brother who blessed the day they entered the portals of our Order. He concluded by hoping the Lodge would continue the support they had hitherto accorded the Charities. "The Visitors" was next given; the W.M. was pleased to see so many present, they would always be glad to see them again. As long as he had known the Lodge, which was for 8 or 9 years, it was a toast that was always heartily received. Bro. Legge, who had visited the Lodge on several occasions, was sorry so many of the visitors disappeared; as soon as they found the sort of reception they received they became joining members; he thought further proof of their appreciation was unnecessary. Several others replied, all thanking the Lodge, and expressing their pleasure at being present. The Past Masters was next given, and ably responded to, after which the Officers had a chance of "stepping" to the front; most of them apologised for their non-attendance at the Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, but hoped it would not prevent the duties of the mother Lodge being efficiently performed. Bro. P.M. Newton, the Secretary, referred to the Association for securing Life Governorships by weekly payments, and hoped to present a balance sheet for the first year at their next meeting. The Tyler brought the proceedings to a termination. Some capital songs were sung, and one of the initiates, Bro. Keable, recited "The Soldier's Pardon," most impressively. The brethren were all indebted to the S.W. for his performance on the piano.

Domatic Lodge, No. 177.—On Friday, the 12th inst., there was a large gathering of the members of this Lodge, the brethren assembling to testify the great respect entertained by them for the W.M. elect, Bro. Jas. Willing jun. The W.M., Bro. Treadwell, was present for the first time since his accident, and the brethren expressed their congratulations. Bros. J. Smith P.G.P., occupied the chair. Jas. Willing jun. S.W., Palmer J.W., J. Smith P.G.P. P.M. Treasurer, T. Williams Secretary, Buscall S.D., G. Clarke J.D., White I.G. and P.M.'s Bros. Ferguson, T. A. Adams P.G.P., Hayden, J. Brett P.G.P., H. Elmes, Tims, Walford, H. Potter, J. R. Foulger; Bros. Harris, Pinhey, Sherlock, J. Abrams, Scard, J. Jones, Foxcroft, Richards, J. Jennings, Morris, Jones, Kent, Montagne, Callaghan, &c., &c. After the preliminary opening of the Lodge and the confirmation of the minutes, Bro. Cox was raised to the 3rd degree. Bros. Pether, Scatterwood, Davies, Read and Brangwin were passed to the 2nd degree, and Bro. Cohen was initiated, the ceremonies being performed by Bro. J. Smith in a most satisfactory way. The report of the audit committee was next read and adopted. A Board of installed Masters was then opened, and Bro. Jas. Willing jun. was duly installed into the chair by Bro. J. Smith, whose strict adherence to the ritual gave great satisfaction. The addresses were given by the veteran Preceptor, Bro. T. A. Adams P.G.P., whose beautiful rendering received the commendation of every brother and visitor. The newly installed W.M., having received the congratulations and salutations of the brethren, invested his officers: Bros. W. Palmer S.W., Buscall J.W., J. Smith P.G.P. re-invested Treasurer, T. Williams Secretary, E. White S.D., Spinks J.D. The W.M. said he regretted that Bro. Geo. Clarke had been obliged to resign his office; he was, however, pleased to say that Bro. Clarke continued a member. In appointing Bro. W. Harris I.G., the W.M. said it was but a stepping stone to higher offices, which Bro. Harris was eminently qualified to fill. Bro. Dally was re-elected Tyler. The W.M., who is a P.M. of the Metropolitan Lodge, where he had always conducted his duties satisfactorily, showed his proficiency by initiating Bros. Cohen and Piper into the Order, the ceremony being given by him with due solemnity, and a correct working most pleasing to listen to. Bro. W. Harris I.G. withdrew his notice of motion, to raise the subscription to £3 3s, and proposed that the annual subscription should be £2 12s 6d, and £1 1s for country members. Bro. Ferguson P.M. seconded it. Bro. J. Smith, in supporting, said that in so numerous a Lodge the working expenses ought to be paid out of the subscriptions, and the amount received from initiation and joining fees might then be given to the Charities. The motion, having been put, it was carried. Bro. Palmer S.W. informed the brethren that a testimonial was about to be presented from various Lodges meeting at Anderton's Hotel to Bro. W. Smith, the courteous manager, who is always ready to study their interests. Bro. Smith had been connected with them for 23 years, and he hoped the members of the Domatic Lodge would contribute to the fund. Bro. Ferguson P.M. proposed that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to Bro. J. Smith, P.M. P.G.P. and Treasurer, for the great pleasure they had received by his excellent rendering of the ceremony of installation. This was seconded by Bro. Buscall J.W. Bro. Treadwell I.P.M., also begged to tender Bro. J. Smith his sincere thanks for his valuable assistance in the chair during his absence, through illness. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to Bro. T. A. Adams P.M. P.G.P., for the manner in which he delivered the addresses. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 133 in number, sat down to a banquet, provided by Bro. Clemow, and superintended by Bro. Smith. The W.M., with his usual ability, presided. He gave the usual loyal toast, also that of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.W., who, he hoped, would be spared for many years to be among them. (Cheers.) The W.M. next proposed the toast of the Pro Grand Master The Earl of Carnarvon, the R.W. Lord Skelmersdale D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers of the Grand Lodge of England. He said: We are proud to have among us three brethren who have been selected to receive Grand Lodge honours, Bros. J. Smith P.G.P., T. A. Adams P.G.P., and J. Brett P.G.P. (Cheers.) No matter whether in this Lodge or Grand Lodge, they were always ready and willing to evince their valuable experience and give their services. The former brother, in a very able speech, returned thanks. He was pleased to hear the Charities spoken of; they had a worthy brother who had undertaken the duties of Steward at the next Festival for the Royal Benevolent Institution; he will put your principles to the test, whatever you may do he will be grateful for. Bro. T. A. Adams P.G.P. in returning thanks said he was an old member of the Lodge, having been initiated, 30 years since, by his esteemed friend Bro. Jos. Smith; he could only say his services were always at their command. (Cheers.) Bro. J. Smith P.G.P. then rose and said, he had to propose a toast; one he was sure they would listen to with every attention, for it was a worthy one; it was the health of the W.M., Bro. Jas. Willing. He (Bro. Smith) had great confidence in him. It was not the first time he had been Master, and during his year of office he had carried out every detail satisfactorily, and now you will have the advantage of his former experience, a taste of which was exhibited by the way in which he had performed the ceremony of initiation; he hoped the brethren would drink the toast with the enthusiasm it merited. Bro. W. Harris here sang a very excellent song. Bro. Willing returned thanks for the toast; with feelings of great pleasure; he had received great kindness from every brother in the Lodge. He was a member of another Lodge, and had passed the chair in it. In this Lodge the brethren know what Freemasonry is. He would do all in his power for their comfort, not only in the working, but in every respect. The W.M. then said he was proud in having to propose the next toast, that was the Past Masters; they were all pleased to see them. A just compliment is due to all for their excellent services rendered. All knew what Bro. J. Smith had accomplished; the same might be said of them all. He was sure every one was gratified to see Bro. Treadwell I.P.M. again among them. (Cheers.) Although he had not been there so frequently as they could have wished, owing to his sad accident, he would, in the name of the Lodge, present him with a gold Past Master's Jewel, for the services rendered by him, and also as a token of the respect in which he is held. Although his sufferings had been great, he hoped they would soon be alleviated. Bro. Treadwell said he was grateful for the valuable testimonial presented to him. He had, unfortunately, been laid up four months, but a debt of gratitude was due to Bros. Geo. Everett and J. Smith for their assistance; also to Bro. Willing, the W.M., in conjunction with their esteemed friend the worthy Secretary, Bro. Williams. He hoped, on the retirement of the W.M. from the chair, he would have over £100 balance in hand; he was sure, by his indomitable energy, he was capable of accomplishing this. The W.M. next proposed the toast of the Visitors. They were usually numerous at the Lodge, and all the members were pleased to see them. They were honoured by the presence of 25 visitors, and he would call on Bros. Sidner P.G.D.C. British Burmah, W. Fisher, and Bro. Swallow to respond to the toast. These brethren eloquently returned thanks, and paid deserved compliments to the W.M. for his excellent working, and for the hospitality they had received. Bro. Hudson gave a selection from the "Man of the World," his accent being perfect. The W.M. said he had a special toast to propose,—one that he was sure would be greeted with their warmest enthusiasm. In the capacity of Installing Master, and also as Treasurer, Bro. Smith was one who looked after their interests. He is a Vice-President of all our Masonic Charities. At the Summer Festivals, and also in the Lodge, his valuable services are always appreciated. He had great pleasure in proposing the health of Bro. Jas. Smith. Bro. Smith, in reply, said he thanked them sincerely for the manner the toast had been received. Bro. Jas. Brett had hitherto always installed the W.M., and the brethren had experienced a great Masonic treat, but for the last two years he had had the pleasure to instal their W.M. You, Worshipful Master, have spoken of me as your Treasurer; while in that capacity it will be my earnest desire to keep you free from debt. The W.M. next proposed the toast of the "Initiates." These two brethren, by their attention to the ceremony, and the recommendation they brought, were entitled to their regard and esteem. Bro. Foxcroft then gave a recitation. The toast of "The Officers" was next honoured. Bro. Williams, the Secretary, by his assiduous attention to the duties of his office, was a credit to the Lodge. Bro. Palmer S.W. knew his duties thoroughly, and was capable of filling any office; so also was Bro. Buscall J.W., Bro. W. Harris I.G. and all the other officers did their work well, and he hoped eventually to see them occupy high positions in the Lodge, they all merited the confidence of the brethren. This toast having been responded to, that of "The Press" was given, and "The Tyler" brought the proceedings to a close. Visitors were—Bros. J. Compton P.P.G.D.C. Kent, B. Swallow P.M. 1563, T. Fisher S.W. 834, H. Massey P.M. 619, Tarryer 1310, Stiles 1507, Briggs 25, Hartman 1540, Harper P.M., Hudson 1540, Stoak 1178, Pearcey 228, Owen, Arrowsmith 733, J. H. Button 77, J. Gibbs 1178, Forrester 1293, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Hundred of Elloe Lodge, No. 469, Spalding.—The Festival of St. John was celebrated on Thursday, the 11th inst. The brethren met for the audit of accounts at two o'clock, and had the satisfaction of reporting to the full Lodge afterwards that a good balance was in hand, but the recent decorations of the Lodge will we believe much more than absorb that sum. At three o'clock there was a very large Lodge to witness the installation of Bro. James Robinson as W.M. The routine business having been disposed of, the ceremony of induction into the office was performed by Bro. Woodrow, with great solemnity, and much to the satisfaction of the Lodge—the largest, we believe, ever known in the town, except on the occasion of Provincial Grand Lodge meetings, when brethren are present from all parts of the country. Bro. Robinson appointed the following officers:—Bros. Barrell S.W., Dr. Perry J.W., Ham Sec., Symes S.D., Bonner J.D., A. Harrison I.G. At 5.30, the banquet was served in the Board-room, Bro. Harper placing on the tables a splendid spread, in which all the delicacies of the season found a place. The waiting was excellent, and this department appeared to be highly appreciated. The peculiar character of the event necessitates a curtailment of the speeches. The W.M., in giving "The Queen and the Craft," referred to the fact that Her Majesty had three sons in the Order, and that abundantly testified her interest in it. The W.M. next gave "The Prince of Wales, G.M. of England, and the Grand Lodge Officers," and showed that the Prince was a most industrious Grand Master. The toast was received with enthusiasm. Bro. C. F. Bonner, in proposing "The P.G.M. of Lincolnshire and Officers," gracefully alluded to the interest taken in Masonry by the Duke of St. Albans and Major Smith. Bro. J. A. Thomas (Boston) made a very humourous speech in acknowledgment of the compliment. Bro. Dr. Perry gave "The P.M.'s of the Hundred of Elloe Lodge," a toast he said which needed no remarks from him, for their talents and worth were well known to and much appreciated by the brethren. Bro. Bonner, with whose name the toast was coupled, regretted the absence of the "Father of the Lodge," but he maintained that no one had a greater interest in the welfare of Freemasonry than he had. So long as he was permitted to associate himself with Freemasons, he should be delighted to do so, and he trusted their Order would in time to come be better understood and appreciated. Bro. Woodrow then gave "The W.M." He paid a very warm tribute to Bro. Robinson's great interest in the Lodge, and to his geniality and influence, circumstances which plainly augured a year of exceptional prosperity. The W.M. made a very modest response, expressing an opinion that the brethren had formed too high an opinion of his qualifications for the office. He expressed his determination to do his utmost—a sentiment which was received with loud applause. Bro. Vise, in giving the next toast, "The Retiring W.M.," showed that, whilst new friendships were very pleasing, they ought not to forget old friends. He paid a warm and generous tribute to Bro. Woodward for the satisfactory manner in which he had performed the duties of his office during the past year. Bro. Woodward, in responding, said he had endeavoured to do his best, and stated that he should have been unable to carry out the duties of his office had it not been for the assistance of his officers. Bro. A. Harrison, in very becoming and expressive words, proposed "The Installing Master." Bro. Woodrow, who received a most enthusiastic reception, briefly acknowledged the toast, expressing his confidence in the new W.M., and promising to assist him to his utmost in fulfilling the somewhat difficult and responsible duties of the office. Bro. W. Crust then gave "The Newly Invested Officers." Bro. Barrell, after expressing his gratitude for the kind reception of the toast, said it would be the intention of the officers of the Lodge to worthily support their chief during his year of office. Bro. Symes next proposed "The other Lodges in the Province." Bro. Ferguson (Boston) responded. Bro. J. H. White gave "The Visiting Brethren." Bro. Pilcher (Peterborough), in a very graceful and appropriate reply, showed that Masonry was not the great imposition that outsiders would have them believe, but a grand reality, as was evidenced in their noble Masonic institutions. Bro. Griffin (Peterborough) next gave "The Newly Initiated." Bro. Harper, in an excellent speech, responded. Bro. W. H. Bailes (Boston), in giving "The Masonic Charities," said he was old enough to remember when the Masonic body possessed only one charitable institution. With the advance of the times, however, they had been able to increase that number to three, all of which were in a state of great prosperity, and doing very much good. He also referred to the recent vote of Grand Lodge, by which the munificent sum of four thousand guineas was proposed to be presented to the funds of the Lifeboat Institution. The toast was well received. Bro. James Cutbush (Highgate), who was evidently well acquainted with the Masonic institutions, gave a very useful speech in reply. He showed, by personal experience, the great amount of usefulness that was being done, and the suffering that was healed by the provision made for the aged. He urged upon the brethren a still more warm support, and thought that, as the highest aim of the Order was that of doing charitable works, they could not do better than help and encourage these three grand institutions, which were doing marvellous good to the recipients of their favour. Bro. Cutbush's reply was very warmly received, and his very interesting remarks listened to with great attention. Bro. Ham gave "The Ladies," to which Bro. F. Thomas made a telling response. Bro. Benner gave "To all Poor and Distressed Masons," which was replied to by Bro. Kennerell. This being the last toast on the list, many of the visiting and other brethren left the room to return to Peterborough. The Boston contingent went by later train. Nearly twenty visiting brothers were present, and consequently the ordinary number at dinner was largely swelled. Some excellent songs were given by Bros. Pilcher, Woodrow, and Abbott, and, on the whole, the evening was the most interesting in the annals of the Hundred of Elloe Lodge. Prospects undoubtedly bid fair for a most successful year's work.

Bank of England Lodge, No. 263.—The members of this Lodge met at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, on the 11th inst. Mr. F. Donald Campbell was initiated into the Fraternity by Bro. Raphael Costa P.M. The ceremony of installing Bro. Thomas Howden into the chair of K.S. was efficiently performed by the retiring Master, Bro. Morton. The health of the initiate was proposed at the banquet by W. Bro. Charles Hopwood M.P., an old Past Master of the Lodge, in a stirring speech, detailing his own recollections of a Masonic career, traced back to the day of his initiation, and the ennobling influence he had experienced from study of the principles of the Order. W. Bros. Charles Horsley, Thomas Boyd P.G.S., J. Dicketts P.G.S. and Martin attended as visitors.

Eclectic Lodge, No. 1201.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Friday, the 12th inst., at Freemasons' Hall. There was a very large attendance of members, while the Visitors mustered in great force to show their respect for the W.M. elect, Bro. E. J. Harty, the well-known artist, who is engaged on the Historical Engraving to Commemorate the Installation of the Most Worshipful the Grand Master. The Lodge having been opened, and the preliminary business transacted, a ballot was taken for Bro. Thomas Shipway, of Lodge No. 378 S.C., which resulted in his favour. Mr. C. T. Pearce, who had previously been balloted for, was then initiated, Bro. J. H. Watts ably performing the ceremony. A Board of Installed Masters, numbering 19, was then formed, and Bro. Watts completed the duties of his year of office by installing his successor in a manner that called forth unqualified praise from all present. The following were appointed as officers:—Arthur E. Taylor S.W., G. W. Saul J.W., W. E. Barber Secretary, James Mander P.M. and Treasurer, T. Lee S.D., F. C. Dobbing J.D., N. C. Poobin D.C., Dr. Lloyd Steward, G. Moss I.G., T. Davis Assist. Steward, Grant Tyler. Lodge was then closed in ancient form, and the brethren adjourned to the Princess Saloon, Holborn Restaurant, where a sumptuous banquet was prepared. About 75 sat down, and did justice to the ample fare provided. Bro. Harty, in a most genial manner, presided. In giving the toast of the Queen and the Craft, he stated that Her Majesty was the daughter of a Grand Master, the niece of one, and the mother of one. Loyalty to the throne being one of the watchwords of Masonry, it would be superfluous to make further comment. He would call upon them to do honour to the toast. In proposing the health of the M.W.G.M., the W.M. remarked that H.R.H. had endeared himself to the hearts of all by his geniality and good nature. The next toast was that of the M.W. the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy G. M., the rest of the Grand Officers Present and Past. The W.M. coupled with it the name of Bro. T. Fenn, whose services in the cause of Masonry were known to every member of the Craft. He especially alluded to the Installation of the M.W.G.M., where Bro. Fenn's services were so conspicuously displayed, mainly contributing to the great success of that epoch in Freemasonry. Bro. Fenn thanked the brethren on behalf of the Grand Officers, and hoped they appreciated the labours of their rulers. He had the pleasure of consecrating the Eclectic Lodge and installing its first Master. At that time, the Eclectic was a working Lodge only, and he considered the step that had been taken that day, of dining after Lodge labours, was a good one. He believed that where brethren did not join at the festive board, many differences of opinion expressed in the Lodge were allowed to grow into causes of disagreement, but where the brethren met afterwards, for a few hours enjoyment, they were forgotten, or, at most, treated only as matters of business. He was gratified to see the way in which they dispensed their hospitality, and hoped the Lodge would have prosperity, and would ever be able to welcome brethren as they were that evening doing under the presidency of Bro. Harty. The health of the initiate, Bro. Pearce, was next proposed by the W.M., and this brother, who proved himself a master of oratory, said—Worshipful Master and Brethren,—Had I been called upon yesterday to reply to this assemblage, I should have had to address you as Fellow Citizens, as Gentlemen, or as Friends; to-day, I am proud to say, that I can address you by the name of Brothers. This will be a memorable day in my existence, short though that may be. Though I am, as the Worshipful Master says, the youngest Mason in the room, I have seen many years, and I have one regret—that I have lived so long without joining an association which does honour to both God and humanity. I have been deeply impressed by my initiation into the Brotherhood, and, I trust that late in life as I am before I have joined you, I shall not be thought less able to appreciate its beauties, or less able to feel that you have honoured me in initiating me into your mysteries. I might say I was born a Mason, for my late father, who has been dead 47 years, was a Mason in a Sussex Lodge; therefore, he stood at one time in the position in which I stand to-night, and if there are footsteps which it is an honour to follow, I think to-night I am following his footsteps. To-day is, therefore, in many respects a memorable one for me, and I trust that my future experience of the Craft may be marked by that purity of religion which I have seen. I am no stranger to Freemasonry, in the points of its history and antiquity. I know that it has outlived races, nations and creeds, that religionisms have failed, but that Freemasonry has lived, lives, because it unites man to his Maker; that it is characterised by a boundless charity, which pours a healing balm into the bosom of the afflicted. As I have gathered to-night from the Worshipful Master, in the course of the interesting ceremony, it forgets not the widow, the orphan, nor the aged brother, though that brother had the only one tie to the fraternity, that he lifted up his heart to the same God we worship. I feel by my initiation to-night I have entered upon a new crisis in my history. I trust that during the remaining years of my life I shall practise its teachings, knowing no sect, holding brotherhood with all, of whatever clime or country, who are within its circle, and who are bound in the one universal bond which exemplifies the greatest of all religions, true charity and brotherly love. Yesterday I was a man; to-day I can clasp my breast and say, "Am I not a man and a brother?" (Great applause.) I thank you most cordially for the hearty reception you have given to the toast. Bro. P.M. J. H. Watts proposed the health of the W.M., who, he said, was a young Mason, having been initiated only three and a half years since. During the time he had been in office in the Lodge he had not missed a meeting. He was now engaged on one of the greatest works in connection with Freemasonry; he alluded to the picture of that grand assembly at the Albert Hall, when the Grand Master was installed. The W.M., in reply, said, as a "bashful Irishman" he was proud of the position he occupied, as Master of the Eclectic; it was the highest dignity a Mason could obtain in a Lodge. He quite agreed with the remarks of Bro. Fenn as to dining, and hoped the Lodge would find the benefit of the change. For the future, hospitality would be a prominent feature with them. The health of the Visitors was given and responded to by Bros. J. Stevens, W. W. Morgan, and While, who were followed by those brethren who formed the deputation who had come over from Ireland to do honour to Bro. Harty on his installation. This included a member of the Board of General Purposes (Ireland), Bro. Wm. Spence P.M. and Treasurer Lodge 75. Other toasts were given, the Charities finding able exponents in Bros. Binckes and Terry, who both called upon the brethren to support the Institutions. The Officers were duly honoured, and the Tyler brought the proceedings to a termination at an advanced hour. Visitors—Bros. Thomas Fenn, S. Harvey, William Spence, Gordon, John Constable, James Stevens, J. W. Wright, E. J. Scott, T. E. Tallent, G. Kelly, E. M. Haigh, Frederick Binckes, W. Smallpiece, A. C. Druid's Lodge of Love and Liberality, No. 589.—Held its annual meeting on the 8th of January, at the Masonic Hall, Redruth. Present—Bros. John F. Penrose P.P.G.S.D. P.M. acting W.M., John Thomas S.W., W. H. Treseder J.W., John Hocking jun. P.M. Secretary, James Sims P.M. Treasurer, T. A. Kistler, S.D., William Lidgey J.D., E. T. Pearce D.C., T. Chapman I.G., John Polkinghorne Tyler. Past Masters Bros. Tregay, Reynolds, Davey, Cook, Dabb, and J. H. Michell. The Visitors were represented by the W.M. and Wardens of the Fortitude 131, Phœnix 331, Cornubian 450, Tregullow 1006, Mount Edgcumbe 1544. Bro. John Thomas was duly installed as W.M. for the ensuing year. The ceremony being most impressively performed, before a board of fourteen P.M.'s, by the acting W.M. Bro. J. F. Penrose. The W.M. elected his officers for the ensuing year, after which the brethren adjourned to Bro. Tabbs' Hotel, where 60 of the brethren partook of an excellent banquet. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly given.

William Preston Lodge of Instruction, No. 766.—This Lodge met on Friday, the 12th of January, at the Feathers Tavern, Upper George-street, Edgware-road. Present—Bros. S. Godden of 862 W.M., Coates S.W., S. Nichols J.W., Aug. Braun Secretary, J. Kennard Treasurer, Parsons S.D., Tribbel J.D., Cleghorn I.G.; also present, Bros. Tate 862, Ridley 1314, Evans, and March. After preliminaries, the W.M. most ably rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Evans acting as candidate. Bro. R. Tate, who acted as P.M. on this occasion, worked the first section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. It was proposed and seconded that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to Bro. S. Godden, for the able manner in which he had performed the duties of the chair for the first time.

Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, No. 1642.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Thursday, the 11th of January, at Ladbroke Hall, Notting Hill. Present—Bros. Bro. Walter Wheeler 511 was successfully balloted for as a joining member. Several propositions for initiation at the next meeting were handed in. After the Lodge had been closed, the brethren dined together, when the usual toasts were duly honoured. It was decided to hold a ball in aid of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for aged Freemasons.

THE CONTEMPLATED EXTENSION OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

OUR readers will have gathered from a paragraph which recently appeared in these columns, that an idea has been started for the purpose of making a very considerable addition to the Boys' School. Indeed, at the Quarterly General Court, held on the 15th instant, an influential supporter of the Institution brought forward a distinct motion, to the effect that additional accommodation be forthwith erected for fifty boys, and that at the October election that number of Candidates be elected in order to make up the required number. The motion was not discussed at very great length, and it was stated on competent authority that the scheme, so far as any additions to the present building were concerned, was impracticable. The general feeling of the Committee was manifestly, that before any steps were seriously taken to enlarge the Institution, the subject should be thoroughly considered by the House Committee, that their Report should be submitted to the General Committee, and by them referred to the Quarterly Court. In such case it was obvious that the whole question from every imaginable point of view would be fully and fairly discussed, before it reached its final stage, and came on for approval or rejection before the Court. An amended amendment, therefore, proposing the reference of the whole subject as stated above was unanimously carried, and there for the present the matter rests. There, likewise, we should be disposed to leave it, but for two reasons, the large amount of subscriptions made these last two years by the Craft, and the heavy demands made upon the establishment by the slow but steady increase which has been taking place in the numerical strength of the School.

By the labours of the Executive the school has been brought to a highly satisfactory state. The Educational Staff has also done its duty, as is shown by the repeated successes of the pupils at different public examinations. The finances of the School, thanks to the energy of "Our Hercules," and the valuable support he has received from the Boards of Stewards at the last two Annual Festivals, are flourishing. The debt incurred in erecting and fitting the present building has been cancelled. Kent House has been purchased for use as an infirmary, fitted and paid for. The modest sum of a few thousands of pounds has been invested, and the respectable balance of a little over £2,550 remained to be carried forward for the expenses of the year just entered upon. All this, we say, is eminently satisfactory. On the other hand, the number of applicants for admission is hugely out of proportion to the number of vacancies which occur from time to time. To take only the case of the election in October last, there were fifty-seven candidates for fifteen vacancies. Thus forty-two of the former were left out in the cold, and of these two lost their only or remaining chance of election, so that forty have been left over for another ballot in April next. This number has been further increased till it has now reached fifty-nine, and these will compete for the twelve vacancies which have thus far been announced. As the ratio of candidates to vacancies is about the same at every election, the numbers we have given above will suffice to show that while the School has been steadily increasing in numbers, the number of applicants has been also on the increase. It is clear then that if we wish to do good service, and relieve more parents and guardians of a burden they find it most grievous to bear, something substantial must be done in the way of extending the Institution, so that its ability to render aid may be more commensurate with the demands made. Any addition, however slight it may be, is an undoubted boon. But, taking on three or four, or half-a-dozen, more pupils, is far from making an appreciable difference in the list of candidates. What is certainly needed, is a substantial increase, such as Bro. Snow proposed the other day. There must be room provided to accommodate, at least, an additional fifty or sixty boys, and the question which has now to be considered is how can this provision be made. Will the existing premises admit of the necessary enlargement? This seems more than doubtful—at all events, in the manner proposed by Bro. Snow. Shall there be a Preparatory School for the reception of small boys, who, when they have reached a certain stage of progress, are to be drafted into what will then be the Upper School? There is a great deal to be said in behalf of this scheme, but it has been objected to by some, that it would interfere with the extension of the main establishment. We are well aware that every scheme is likely to meet with a certain amount of opposition. It is only indeed by comparing notes and studying carefully the commendable points in each successive plan that is submitted, that we can possibly hope to arrive at a settlement which will give general satisfaction. It is to the interest of the Boys' School that this question of enlarging its sphere of operations should be canvassed everywhere throughout the Craft. It is agreed on all sides that more must be done to meet the demands of applicants. The School must be enlarged if it is to keep pace with the requirements of the day. There are now 185 pupils on the establishment, and room must be made by hook or by crook for quite 250. Even then there will be a large number of deserving youngsters who will be denied the benefits of a sound education for want of room. The idea of a Preparatory School is an excellent one; but there may be a better. It will be a great relief, for instance, to those whom it so materially concerns, if their little boys are taken into the School at the age of six, instead of at the minimum age as at present fixed. All matters of this kind, however, are merely matters of detail, which a brief sitting of the Executive would speedily arrange. Admirable a plan as this undoubtedly is, there may, we repeat, be one still more admirable. The one point, which admits of no question whatever is, that the Boys' School is not large enough for present purposes by one-third. We want an establishment that will accommodate quite 250. It will have to be done sooner or later, and it had better be done sooner than later. Nor do we apprehend there will be the slightest difficulty in the matter. Taking the strength of the School at, in round figures, 174 boys, and the cost per boy at £42 per annum—which we know is in excess of the sum expended on each—the annual expenditure is only £7,700. If we add between 70 and 80 boys at the same rate of expenditure, the annual outlay for a school of 250 pupils will be, speaking roundly, £10,500; that is, less by over £2,500 than was subscribed at the Festival of 1876, and less by nearly £5,000 than the total amount of receipts from all sources in the course of the year just ended. Our readers will thus perceive most clearly that what we are now saying must be done is practicable. We can clothe, feed, and educate 250 pupils, and yet have a good sum over and to spare. But even were there a slight risk in venturing further, we have it, on the authority of our Pro Grand Master, that our Charities will never appeal in vain to the Craft for the pecuniary support they may be in need of. And, again, the Craft are not roused into sufficient activity about our Institutions. The close on £40,000 that was given to our three asyla should have been £60,000. The additional £30,000 is sorely needed, and the Pro Grand Master has openly complimented the Craft on its readiness to do what is needful. It will have to be done, this raising of an additional £20,000 for the service of charity, and the sooner we meet the question fairly, and do what must be done, the better for all classes, especially for the distressed brethren, the widows, and the orphans, whom the G.A.O.T.U. has entrusted to our care.

NORTHERN LIGHTS.—No. II.

A PROVINCIAL LIGHT.

VERY much of the success attained by our Order is, unquestionably, owing to the unsparing efforts of the brethren to whom the virtual direction of our Provinces is entrusted; the unflagging industry and zeal which they bring to bear on the administration of provincial affairs is truly marvellous, and tends greatly to uphold the character of English Freemasonry. The work of a Deputy Prov. Grand Master is beyond measure onerous, and is never finished. He has to contend with conflicting elements of all kinds, and yet is the pivot upon which the peace and well-being of the Province turns. To consider the recommendations for appointment to Provincial Grand Office is no slight portion of his labours, and, we may add, of his difficulties; to choose, for promotion, from so many efficient and eager candidates is a task that might baffle the most astute, and yet, as a rule, so intimately do the majority of Deputy Prov. G. Masters understand the working of their Provinces, that they almost invariably put the right men in the right places, and generally contrive to avoid the heartburnings and jealousies that might crop up, even amongst Masons. The management of Provincial Funds and Charities, and the discreet husbanding of Provincial influence, so that it may be always readily available, whenever or wherever needed, are both arduous duties, and these, together with the many exigencies that are constantly presenting themselves, render the office of Deputy Prov. G.M. not quite the honorary sinecure and bed of roses it is supposed to be; and the Provincial G.M. who appoints a thoroughly efficient Deputy confers a lasting obligation on the Craft generally.

Our province is not a large one; we cannot boast, like East Lancashire, of being octogenarians as to the Roll of our Lodges; we have what we have, and are steadily increasing, and with the superabundant energy (already referred to) that distinguishes us, there is no knowing what we may arrive at. Whether at times that same superabundant energy is not a source of difficulty to the Provincial authorities is hard to say, but there must always be more satisfaction in directing such a feeling, even if too exuberant, than in endeavouring to rouse up apathetic lethargy. That the V.W. Brother who occupies so worthily the position of Deputy Prov. Grand Master thinks so is certain, from the evident pleasure with which he enters upon his duties. Some men are born to hold office, and even to confer honour on it; such an one is now before us. A commanding presence, a deep earnestness in all things Masonic, and a familiarity with every detail of the working of his Province, distinguishes him, at once, as one to be respected and obeyed; whilst his kindliness, his consideration, and his real sterling work in the cause of Freemasonry have made him beloved by all under his sway. A patient urbanity gives unlimited confidence in his judgment, and his great administrative powers have served to raise the influence of the Province to such a degree that its support is not only eagerly sought, but is acknowledged as of weight. The management of the Provincial Charitable Funds, by the Finance Committee under his guidance, is most excellent; while the manner in which the votes of the Province are husbanded, leaves nothing to be desired. A happy gift of combining the suaviter in modo with the fortiter in re has frequently served to smooth down the occasional acerbities that will obtrude themselves; and what might have resulted in a serious scandal, has passed away, leaving scarcely a ripple on our usually placid surface, entirely owing to his calm judgment and quiet common sense. In fact, our V.W. Brother knows no fatigue, and shirks no labour in the discharge of his multifarious duties, his aim being at all times to study the interest of the brethren, while his every act shows the great pleasure and pride he takes in his office.

In addition to Craft honours our V.W. Brother holds the exalted rank of Prov. Grand Superintendent for the R.A. Province of Northumberland; and here, again, the same zeal and fitness for direction is apparent. As Prov. Grand Z. he has been singularly happy in the choice of his officers, and the dignified and impressive manner in which he carries out the working of Grand Chapter is a constant theme of admiration amongst Companions of Royal Arch. Occupying the important position of Coroner for the Southern Division of the County of Northumberland, his peculiar judicial capacity and his soundness of judgment have served to impress a reverence for this time-honoured post, and he has won as many friends and gained as much approbation by his straightforward public life as he has by his strictly Masonic career.

A LETTER FROM FREDERIC THE GREAT OF PRUSSIA.

WE have translated the following copy of a letter, which will be found in the columns of our contemporary Le Monde Maçonnique, addressed by the Great Frederic to certain priests of Aix-la-Chapelle, who had excited the people of that city against the Freemasons. The letter is dated the 7th of February 1778, and is couched in the following terms:—

Very Reverend Fathers,—Various rumours, which have been confirmed by the public journals, have brought to my knowledge the zeal you have displayed in sharpening the sword of fanaticism against certain quiet, virtuous, and honest people called Freemasons. As a former dignitary of this estimable Order, it is my duty to combat, with all the power I possess, against those calumnies which injure it, by endeavouring to raise the veil of mystery which hides from you the temple we have erected to all the virtues, in such a manner as to make it seem to be the assembly of all the vices. What, my right reverend Fathers! Would you again recal to us that age of ignorance and barbarism which was for so long a time a disgrace to all the human mind; that period of fanaticism when the eye could not fix itself without abhorrence of what it saw; the ages when hypocrisy, seated on the throne of despotism, between superstition and folly, held the world in slavery, and, without any distinction whatever of age or sex, burnt those as sorcerers who knew how to read. You not only bestow on Freemasons the epithet of "sorcerers;" you, likewise accuse them of being knaves, men perverted from the true faith and the forerunners of anti-Christ! And you incite a whole people to extirpate this accursed race! Knaves, my reverend Fathers, do not concern themselves as we do with the duty of sustaining the poor and the orphans. On the contrary, knaves rob them, oftentimes depriving them of the share they are entitled to, and fattening on their spoil in the midst of idleness and hypocrisy. In short, knaves lead people into error, abuse their confidence, and make them their dupes; Freemasons enlighten them. The Freemason who returns home from the Lodge where he has received instruction on the good of humanity, cannot fail to become, in the bosom of his family, a better husband and a better father. In calling them the forerunners of anti-Christ, your labours will only lead to the destruction of the laws of the Almighty; on the other hand, Freemasons would not be able to violate them without destroying their own temples. How can such men be an accursed race, who make their glory to spread everywhere, and also with a zeal that never wearies, a knowledge of all the virtues?

The Jubilee Ball of the Licensed Victuallers' Asylum was held on the 18th inst., at St. James's Hall, in aid of the funds of the Institution, and was, as usual, crowded in every part. Dancing was kept up with great spirit. Bro. T. A. Adams' band emitted sweet sounds in the large hall, and a second band played in a room on the ground floor. Bro. T. Butler was M.C.; he was assisted by Bros. T. Meekham, W. Fowler, T. Underhill, and Johnson. The arrangements were satisfactorily carried out, under the direction of Bro. H. Gabb, Chairman, Bro. E. R. Bass, Chairman elect, and Bro. A. L. Anett, Secretary.

We have received, and offer our fraternal thanks for the Bulletin du Grand Orient de France for the month of November, and a pamphlet or letter, entitled La Première au F. Bagary, with the motto Amicus BAGARY, sed magis amica Veritas. The latter we shall refer to at an early date. With the contents of the former we have already, thanks to Le Monde Maçonnique, been able to acquaint our readers.

HUGHAN'S LIST OF LODGES, A.D. 1734.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I notice a second review of my List of Lodges in your columns of the 20th of January, and this time with especial reference to my corrections of the former friendly criticism of my work. My reply shall be as brief as possible, so as not to intrude on your valuable space more than is essentially needful.

1. Your reviewer agrees as to my location of No. 20:
2. Pine's No. 35 is accepted as fixed by me.
3. "Strong Man" Lodge is still an open question, and there I leave it pro tem.
4. Your reviewer states that "it MUST be that either Nos. 1, 3 and 4 of the four old Lodges, or Nos. 1, 2, and 4 are at this time represented by Nos. 2, 4, and 18." In my humble opinion (he says) and taking the note in Preston, and Pine's, Rawlinson's, and the 1738 Lists as the foundation of my belief, it is the former of the two alternatives which is correct," &c.

The main reason, apparently, for this opinion is that in "Preston's Illustrations" of 1821 is a note to the effect—"Old No. 2, formerly held at the Crown in Parker's Lane, Drury Lane, has been extinct above fifty years, by the death of its old members," and that the demise, so to speak, of the Lodge, did not occur until about A.D. 1770, whereas No. 3 joined No. 10 some years before that period, and lost its original time-immemorial constitution.

The fraternal reviewer fortifies his position carefully, by saying the footnote in question "must have been written, not by Preston, who died in 1819, or by Oliver, though I found it in his edition of Preston, but by Stephen Jones, a P.M. of Antiquity, to whom was intrusted the publication of the thirteenth edition of the Illustrations, which made its appearance in 1821." If this reasoning be correct, then No. 3 of the original numeration of 1717 should be in the authorized Lists of Lodges until about 1770, whereas the fact is from 1738 only the original number "one" and the original number "four" occur; the latter, however, being styled No. 2, and these two are the only time-immemorial Lodges to be found in any authentic lists from 1738. Now, if No. 2 had not been extinct until 1770 (circa), its name and number would, of course, have been duly engraved in its proper position!

But the argument is seen to be entirely worthless when the various editions of "Preston's Illustrations" are examined, as the footnote in question was inserted by Bro. Preston himself in the 1788 edition, and, strange to say, from that time to the issue of the last edition of 1861 (by Bro. Spencer) the clause occurs, "has been extinct above fifty years!!!"

The bye-laws of the present No. 4 state that it was the original No. 4 of 1717, and by the dropping off the roll of 2 and 3, it became No. 2, until the union of 1813, when it became No. 4 again. However, I have said enough on this point, and have pleasure in agreeing in the main with your reviewer as to his analysis, and had he the same materials at hand for the production of his review as I had for the editing of my List of Lodges, I feel certain there would have been a mistake for me to note on his part.

Fraternally yours,

WM. JAMES HUGHAN.

MASONIC HALL AT BOURNEMOUTH.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE.

A GRAND ceremony took place on Monday, 15th January, on which occasion the foundation stone of a Masonic Hall was laid by the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P. Lodge Hengist, No. 195, now held at Bournemouth, was established 23rd November 1870, at Christchurch, under a warrant from the Grand Lodge of England, on the petition of Henry Dagg, Thomas Jeans and another. It was continued at Christchurch from the date of its formation down to the year 1851, when it removed to Bournemouth. Since that time Bournemouth has made great progress, and it will be readily assumed that the Lodge has also met with much prosperity. For many years the brethren have met at the Belle Vue Assembly Rooms, but the room set apart for the use of the members having been found inconvenient for Masonic purposes, a committee was appointed, the result of whose labours has been the selection of a site for the erection of a hall in St. Michael's Rise. The plans for the proposed building have been prepared by Mr. T. Stevens, architect, and the work of building has been entrusted to Mr. J. McWilliam. The erection will be after the Tuscan order of classic architecture. The front of it will be surmounted by pediments with carved emblems of the Order. The lower part of the building will be of concrete, and the upper part of brickwork, with Bere freestone dressings. On the ground floor there will be kitchen and supper-room, also an ante-room. Above this will be the hall, dressing-room, and various offices. The hall will be 48 ft. by 21 ft. in size, and will be lighted by six windows above the side wings. The building has made some progress, most of the basement walls being completed in concrete. The stone, which was laid on Monday, formed the base of one of the large pilasters on the principal front. The new hall will contain accommodation for from 50 to 60 brethren, with all the necessary ante-rooms, &c., attached. It is hoped that the building will be completed by the 1st of May next. The brethren assembled at the Pembroke Hotel, at two o'clock on Monday afternoon, and at 2.30 the Lodge was close tyled, after which the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master and his officers having entered, a procession was formed.

On arriving at the site of the proposed hall the brethren halted and divided right and left, turning inwards for the R.W. Prov. G.M. and his officers to pass up the centre, preceded by his standard and sword bearer, and followed by the various lodges in rotation, in inverted order from the bottom of the procession. The platform having been reached, the Masonic Anthem, "Behold how good and pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity," was sung, after which the stone was raised, and a prayer was repeated by the Chaplain. The P.G. Treasurer then, by the command of the R.W.P.G. Master, deposited in the stone a bottle containing coins of the present reign, newspapers of the day, and a list of the officers and members of the Lodge. The cement was then laid on the lower stone, and the upper one slowly lowered, solemn music playing the while. The P.J.G. Warden handed the plumb rule, the P.S.G. Warden the level, and the D.P.G. Master the square to the R.W.P.G. Master, who proved the stone properly adjusted. The architect then handed the mallet to the R.W.P.G. Master, and Bro. Beach then declared the stone duly laid, after which he inspected the plans of the building, handed to him by the P.G. Superintendent of Works, and expressed his approval of them. A masonic hymn, composed expressly for the occasion, having been sung, to the tune of the "Old Hundredth."

The R. W. Prov. G.M. said: Ladies and gentlemen and brethren,—At the erection of all stately and superb edifices there is a necessity for wisdom and skill in the design, and for solidity and strength in the execution. In order to carry out these qualities efficiently and well, in former days workmen were formed into guilds and societies, and attained an excellence of work which probably has never been surpassed. They passed away from their generation, but they left behind them no mean record of their skill and ability in those magnificent buildings which have existed from mediæval age. They bear to the later age a record of the skill and unity which animated them. By means of that unity and skill they were enabled to bring to a successful execution some of the most magnificent buildings that have existed on the face of the earth, and we know very well, from certain tokens which are engraven thereupon, that in their day there were Masons who have left impressed upon it the record of the fact. Indeed, these buildings form a sort of bridge by which we are enabled to gulf over the distance of time which has existed between their age and ours. We have succeeded to some extent as their successors. We do not at the present time emulate their example as operative Masons, but we have adopted from them certain principles up to which we try to act. We have adopted their unity as one rule of our conduct, and it is by our unity as brethren that we exist as a large and powerful society. We adopt also their principle of self assistance. They, in their day, assisted each other, and the principle, therefore, of benevolence has never failed to exist amongst us. The principle of charity, too, we also emulate and try to follow out to its fullest extent. While we adopt these principles and apply them as far as we can to our conduct, we do not relinquish our interest or faith in the operative work of our ancestors. We still try to take the greatest interest in all works of Masonry, works of architecture, and all building operations, setting ourselves, as we do, in their place, and trying in our generation to encourage them as far as we possibly can. We are indeed a peaceful society; we try to practise within ourselves those virtues which I have mentioned, and we endeavour to give assistance, not only to ourselves but others, in the practice of virtue and everything which is social and moral. I trust that the practise of social and moral virtue may ever exist amongst us, and, whilst we have the opportunity of conducing to the spread of any useful work, we shall try to do our duty as far as in us lies. I trust that the work which we have had the pleasure and felicity of inaugurating this day may be successful. I trust that the building in harmony with the plans which have been submitted to me will be an ornament to the town of Bournemouth and conduce to the practise of Freemasonry here. In a town, existing as it does, and thriving as it does, it would be strange indeed if you had not a hall in which to carry out the rites and ceremonies of Freemasonry. May the work be crowned with success, and may all assembled here have reason to congratulate themselves on the work we have this day inaugurated.

The procession was then again formed, and the brethren returned to the Pembroke Hotel.

In the evening a banquet was served at the Pembroke Hotel.—Portsmouth Times and Naval Gazette.

We have received copy of a catalogue of "Scarce and Valuable Works on Freemasonry," which Bro. Hogg, of Paternoster Row, offers for sale to the Masonic Public. As attempts are being made in different quarters to establish libraries in connection with sundry of our Lodges, we beg to draw the attention of our readers to the very choice selection of our Bro. Hogg. It contains, as is stated, many valuable—we may say, indeed, many invaluable—works on Freemasonry, and they must consider themselves fortunate who are able to secure for their own private use, or that of their Lodge certain of these scarce and choice works. We may add that, considering the importance of these latter, the prices asked by Bro. Hogg, appear to us, to be extremely moderate.

rously attended by the members and visitors. The W.M., Bro. E. H. Thiellay, occupied the chair; W. Moult S.W., G. Haslett J.W., J. Boyd P.G.P. G.S. Treasurer, G. S. States P.G.S. Secretary, Hughes S.D., Leggott J.D., Lister I.G.; P.M.'s Bros. J. Last, G. Parkess, W. Watson, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the Emergency Meeting held the week previously (where Bros. F. Lee, Lambe, Doyle, and Lefevre were initiated, and Bros. Graves, Dawson and Groom were passed to the second degree), and also the minutes of the regular Lodge were read and confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. H. Foster and C. Parnacott, which were in their favour. The former gentleman being present, was initiated into the Order by the W.M. The report of the Audit Committee was read and adopted; it showed a balance in the hands of the Treasurer of nearly £70. The W.M. stated he was a Steward for the R.M. Benevolent Institution at the next Anniversary Festival, where H.R.H. Prince Leopold would take the chair, and he hoped that he should be supported by the brethren of the Lodge on that occasion; also that they, by their contributions, would assist that noble Institution. Before retiring from the chair, he begged to return his grateful thanks to the worthy Treasurer, Bro. John Boyd, Bro. G. S. States Secretary, the Past Masters, and also to every officer, for all had ably supported him during his year of office. A Board of Installed Masters was then formed, and Bro. W. Moult was presented to the Lodge. Bro. T. Ball P.M. then showed his proficiency by Installing Bro. Moult into the chair; receiving, as he deserved, at the conclusion of the ceremony, the commendations of all present. The W.M. then invested his officers—Bros. E. H. Thiellay I.P.M., G. Haslett S.W., Hughes J.W., John Boyd P.G.S. G.S. Treasurer (re-invested for the 15th time), G. S. States P.G.S. Sec. (re-invested for the 15th time), Manby Assist. Sec., Leggott S.D., Lester J.D., Dr. Wilkinson I.G., Torry D.C., Caffall A.D.C., Wood W.S., Grant Tyler. Bro. John Boyd then gave notice of motion,—That in future the initiation fee be fifteen guineas, and the joining fee twelve guineas. In the event of this being carried, it shall not be enforced until March next. The W.M. then presented a jewel that had been unanimously voted to the retiring W.M. Bro. E. H. Thiellay, for the valuable services rendered by him to the Lodge. The jewel is of highly artistic construction, and bears an appropriate inscription. Bro. Thiellay returned thanks for the elegant gift; it would be a pleasing recollection of the kindness and good feeling evinced to him by every brother in the Lodge. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 76 in number, adjourned to the Crown Room, where a sumptuous banquet and dessert was supplied by Bro. Dawkins. Grace having been sung, by Bro. Seymour Smith, G. Carter, Miss Florence Lavender and Miss Ellen Webb, the W.M. proposed the toast of "The Queen and the Craft," also that of "the M.W.G.M. his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales." Miss Florence Lavender sang, with great taste and feeling, "Sweet Spirit, hear my Prayer," which was loudly and deservedly applauded; she also, in response to the loud calls of the brethren, sang "Tell Me, my Heart," with equal taste. The W.M. in proposing the toast of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers, alluded to the honour conferred on the Lodge by having one of its members selected for the post of a Grand Officer; he referred to Bro. John Boyd P.G.P. and Grand Steward, who was one they only required to know to respect. (Cheers). Bro. John Boyd, in his usual eloquent manner, returned thanks, he reminded the brethren that the hour was getting late, so he would not occupy their time; he passed deserved eulogiums on those distinguished brethren who were at the head of the Order, he felt proud in responding on their behalf. Miss Eliza Webb sang a verry pretty song, entitled the "Three Fishers." Bro. E. H. Thiellay I.P.M. then rose and said, it was a pleasure to him, now, for the first time, to claim his privilege, and to propose the toast of the W.M. (Cheers). They had seen his working in the various offices he had filled; he was one worthy of their respect. He could say more in praise, but as the W.M. progressed they would see his good qualities. Bro. Carter sang "Sweethearts," in his usual excellent style. The W.M. suitably replied, and before resuming his seat, proposed a special toast,—the Health of an old and respected Brother, whose name and services rendered to the Craft merited their respect. Bro. W. Watson P.M. P.G.S. had been Preceptor to this and many other Lodges; he had devoted his time and energies to Freemasonry, and, as he was present at this installation, he hoped to see him at many a future one. Bro. W. Watson feelingly returned thanks. Miss Florence Lavender again delighted the brethren, her song, the "Wind that Blows," being received with even greater applause than her former one. The W.M. in proposing the toast of the Initiates, said, they had been fortunate in initiating that evening, also at the emergency meeting, gentlemen who he was proud to see among them. Their attention to the ceremonies showed they were impressed, and he hoped they would, in course of time, occupy the chair. The responses of these brethren fully justified the pertinent remarks made by the W.M. The W.M. next proposed the toast of the Visitors. They were numerous, and after mentioning their names seriatim, he would call on Bro. Frances, P.P.G.D. Surrey, to respond. This brother replied, and was followed by Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. 188. Both paid deserved compliments to the admirable working, and thanked the Lodge for the hospitality shown them. The W.M. then proposed the healths of their worthy and respected Treasurer, Bro. J. Boyd, and the Hon. Secretary, Bro. G. S. States. The former brother had been among them for over fifteen years. He had been twice Master, and was the Father of the Lodge, and he (the W.M.) would always look to Bro. Boyd for counsel and advice. (Cheers.) As to Bro. G. S. States, their indefatigable Secretary, he was equally entitled to their regard. He had been invested for the 15th time (cheers); he knew his duties thoroughly, and those duties were always carried out satisfactorily. The W.M. also paid a deserved compliment to Bro. Manby, the Assistant Secretary. Bro. G. S. States thanked the W.M. for his kind expressions. He, as Secretary, was pleased to say he had served over two apprenticeships, and, on looking round the room, he saw many dear, old, and valued friends. In doing his duty, he did it as a Mason should do. He hoped he had given them satisfaction. In a Lodge numbering 90 members, a large amount of work was entailed, and he thanked Bro. Manby for his kind assistance. Bro. John Boyd followed. He hoped the brethren were satisfied with the manner he had performed his duties. He had been Treasurer for many years, but he had never seen such a balance shown as on this evening. Before resuming his seat, he would ask the W.M. to allow him to propose a toast, and that was the health of a brother well known and respected, although he had arrived late. The Masonic Charities should be looked after, and he was pleased to see Bro. F. Binckes P.G.S., and Secretary of the Boys' School, amongst them. (Cheers.) They all know how his energies were exerted on behalf of that noble Institution, and he hoped they would drink the toast with the spirit it deserved. Bro. F. Binckes replied, in a speech much to the purpose. On its conclusion, the W.M. consented to act as Steward at the next Anniversary Festival of the Boys' School. Other toasts followed, and the brethren separated. The Visitors were—Bros. Pateman P.M. 1597, J. Buscall 30, J. Kempton 1601, C. Hunt 194, H. Seager 194, J. G. Baker 753, Woodcock 1216, Cox P.M., Pilbeam W.M. 45, J. Boyd 23, Frances P.P.G.D. Surrey, Durham 177, G. Tribbell 1287, H. M. Levy P.M. 188, G. Young P.M. 263, G. Tyson 1314, S. Smith 742, Sultan 188, Lenty 23, G. W. West J.W. 1207, &c.

East Medina Lodge, No. 175, Ryde.—On the 10th inst. the brethren of this Lodge assembled at their Masonic Hall, Ryde, for the purpose of installing the Worshipful Master elect, Bro. T. Morgan, the S.W. of the Lodge. The ceremony of installation having been ably performed by Bro. Captain F. Newman P.M., the Worshipful Master invested his officers:—Bros. J. W. Fardell I.P.M., G. Pack S.W., J. Lowe J.W., F. Newman Treasurer, A. Aylward Secretary, W. Brook S.D., F. Carter J.D., H. M. Harvey I.G., E. Groves and B. Marvin Stewards, T. Brading Tyler. The brethren adjourned to Yelf's Hotel, where an excellent banquet was served by Bro. Wavell.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge held its usual meeting on Wednesday, the 24th instant, at Masons' Hall Tavern, Mason's-avenue, Basinghall-street, E.C. Bro. Croaker acted as W.M., Bros. Bone S.W., Abell J.W., Rudderforth as Sec., E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, Turner S.D., Triggs J.D., Sayer I.G., Christopher Tyler, John Ross P.M. The business of the evening comprised the rehearsing of the first ceremony by the W.M., the ceremony of installation by Bro. John Constable P.M. and Treasurer, after which Bro. Abbott proceeded to address the Lodge upon the history of Freemasonry, in continuation of his former lectures. He carried the account from 1730 to the commencement of the year 1736, tracing the principal events that occurred during the Grand Masterships of the following:—The Duke of Norfolk, Lord Lovel, afterwards Earl of Leicester 1731-32, Viscount Montague 1732-33, the Earl of Strathmore 1733-34, the Earl of Crawford 1734-35, and Viscount Weymouth 1735-36. He laid particular stress upon the introduction of Freemasonry into America, mentioning the results of the latest researches in reference thereto; he further traced the extension of Freemasonry to different countries on the Continent of Europe and other parts, also dwelt on the dissensions that arose amongst English Craftsmen, which ultimately led to the unfortunate schism which extended to the period of the Union in 1813. The lecture was shorter than had been intended, owing to the business of the evening having been unusually protracted. We noticed the great attention that was paid to Bro. Abbott's exposition, the facts of which, however interesting and important they may be, are of necessity somewhat trying to recount. After the Lodge had been called on, Bro. Bone was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Bros. Cotter 554 and Solomons 185 were elected members. There were present Bros. J. D. Barnett, D. Posener, W. Snelling, S. L. Hickman, G. L. The Lodge was opened in the first degree, the minutes of the last regular Lodge were read and confirmed. After balloting for initiates, and joining members, the Lodge was opened in the second degree. There was on the agenda paper a candidate for raising, but as he did not put in an appearance, the acting W.M. resigned his gavel into the hands of the Installing Master, to whom was presented Bro. Stephen Augustus Pocock, who had been unanimously elected to occupy the chair of K.S. After proceeding with the ceremony to the end of the second degree, the Lodge was opened in the third degree, immediately after which the Board of Past Masters was formed, in which the ceremony of installation was completed, in Bro. Moxhay's usual correct and impressive manner. After being saluted in each degree, the W.M. returned thanks, and invested his officers: Bro. A. M. Yetts I.P.M., Baker S.W., Oades J.W., Rev. N. G. Garry Chaplain, Botley P.M. Treasurer, Leaver Secretary, S. Bradley S.D., C. Stephens J.D., Ferguson D.C., Wheeler, Sprent and Withers Stewards, Mount I.G., Hemmings Tyler. Upon the completion of the investiture, the Installing Master, with more than his usual fervency, gave some impressive addresses. The musical and vocal accompaniment materially added to the effect of the beautiful ceremonies. The business of the evening being completed, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren retired for refreshment to the George Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was provided, to which about sixty of the Fraternity sat down, under the presidency of Bro. Pocock W.M., who discharged the duties of the chair with becoming effect. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, accompanied by the vocal and instrumental music for which this, the senior Lodge, is celebrated. In reply to the toast of the Visitors, Bro. Buss P.M. 1293 P.G.J.W. Middlesex, expressed his great pleasure at seeing the son of his old friend, the late Bro. Pocock P.G.S.D. of England, and P. Prov. G. Secretary of Sussex, installed into the chair of this highly respectable Lodge. He felt assured, from what he had seen of the working that evening, the members of the Lodge would be satisfied with the choice they had made. Bro. Dr. Woodhouse, P.P.D.G.M. Berkshire, replied to the toast of the P.G. Officers Past and Present, and referred with pride to the wonderful advance made by Freemasonry during the past few years. The health of the Chaplain of the Lodge, Bro. the Rev. N. G. Garry, was proposed by Bro. C. Stephens J.D., and, in reply, the Rev. Bro. said he had for some years been desirous of becoming a member of the Craft (he was at present only a juvenile), but the desire had been quickened by a recent event, which showed that there was a determination on the part of a foreign potentate to interfere with the rights of conscience, and he (Bro. Garry) joined the Order as a protest against this interference. He also said it had been a great pleasure to him to be a Mason, because it enlarged the circle of his friends. The "Masonic Charities" was proposed by Bro. Morris P.M., who made an urgent appeal to the members of the Lodge to contribute liberally. Bro. Biggs P.M. Prov. G. Secretary, responded, and stated that last year £39,000 was subscribed in support of the three chief Masonic Charities. Among the other toasts were those of "The Worshipful Master," "The immediate and other Past Masters of the Lodge of Union." "The Installing Master, Bro. Moxhay." "The Worshipful Master, Officers, and Brethren of the Grey Friars Lodge 1101, the Treasurer and Officers of the Lodge of Union." "The Musical Brethren, Bros. Strickland, R. Bradley, Robinson, S. Bradley." "The Tyler's Toast," completed this very successful meeting of the members and friends of 414.

Salisbury Lodge, No. 435.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on the 16th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street, London. Present—Bros. E. H. Stammitz W.M., Secker S.W., Dibdale J.W., Hooper P.M. Secretary, Holden S.D., Berger J.D., Jeff I.G. P.M.'s Bros. W. Ganz P.G.O., S. Rosenthal, Koester, Bigg, Sax, Pigall, J. Rables F.R.G.S. After the preliminary business, a ballot was taken for the admission of a gentleman to be initiated at the next meeting. Bro. Secker S.W. W.M. elect was presented to the Lodge by Bro. Koester, and a Board of Installed Masters was opened. Bro. Secker was then installed into the chair by the retiring W.M., Bro. Stammitz, in a very excellent and perfect manner. Bro. W. Ganz presided at the organ, and added to the solemnity of the ceremony. Bro. Koester efficiently acted as D.C. The appointment of officers resulted as follows:—Bros. Dibdale S.W., Holden J.W., W. H. Hooper P.M. Secretary, Berger S.D., Jeff J.D., Kitchin I.G., Hooper D.C. The W.M. regretted the absence of the Treasurer, Bro. Stohwasser P.M., who was so indisposed that he was unable to be present. Bro. Secker hoped, however, that he would be present on the next, and on many future occasions. Their Treasurer merited the esteem of every brother in the Lodge. Great credit was due to the installing Master for his rendering of the addresses; at the conclusion, he was warmly congratulated by the brethren and visitors. The W.M., on rising, said he had a pleasing duty to perform, it was to present the I.P.M., Bro. Stammitz, with a gold P.M.'s jewel. In presenting it he would remark, that there was no one who had ever occupied the chair who had performed his duties more satisfactorily. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet a la Russe, provided by Bro. Nicols. Grace having been said, and the cloth removed, the W.M. proposed the toast of the "Queen and the Craft." The National Anthem was sung, Bro. Ganz accompanying on the piano. The toast of H.R.H. the M.W.G.M. was next given, and was followed by that of the Earl of Carnarvon Pro G.M., the Deputy G.M. Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers. He was pleased to see among them Bro. Albert G.P., and also Bro. Ganz P.G.O. He would call on those brethren to respond to the toast. Bro. Albert returned thanks. The Grand Officers were always willing to render assistance, whether in Grand Lodge or in any private Lodge where their services were required. The selection of Bro. Ganz was a proof of the respect in which this Lodge is held. Bro. W. Ganz P.G.O. followed. He endorsed all the remarks made by Bro. Albert. If he was not eloquent at the present time with his tongue, he hoped he would please them with his fingers. He then played a charming new galop of his own composition, which elicited deserved applause. Bro. Stammitz I.P.M., had now to propose the toast of the evening—"The W.M." (Cheers.) Bro. Secker was one who was capable of every duty that was required of him, and he hoped he would have health during his occupancy of the chair, they would then see the excellent selection the brethren had made. (Cheers.) The W.M. said he was initiated in this Lodge, and he had aspired to become its Master. He urged the junior members to work diligently, they might then occupy the position he now held. Mention had been made of the Charities; he was a Steward for the next Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, a Charity that needs and deserves support; he would be pleased to place the name of any brother on his list. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Visitors. He was proud to see them, they had never had so numerous an assemblage before, he would ask the brethren to do full honour to the toast, he would call on Bros. Freed P.G.S., Jahn, and H. M. Levy to respond. These brethren, in the course of their remarks, testified to the admirable manner in which the ceremony of installation had been rendered; to the hospitality they had received, and to the presence of the goodly band of Past Masters, who had so materially contributed to the comfort of the Lodge and the welfare of the members. The W.M. then proposed the health of the I.P.M., he hoped it would be received with the fervour it merited; that brother was one who deserved every praise; wherever he goes he is welcome; his time was always at their service. In placing a jewel on his breast, he hoped he would live long to wear it, it was given with heartfelt sincerity by every brother in the Lodge. (Cheers.) Bro. Stammitz returned thanks for the valuable gift, and thanked the officers for the kind assistance they had always rendered him. In proposing the toast of the Past Masters of the Salisbury Lodge, the W.M. said they were a host in themselves. They were always ready to give their help. He coupled with the toast the name of Bro. W. Ganz. Bro. W. Ganz said he had belonged to the Lodge 10 years, and he hoped to be a member of it as long as he lived. He knew and appreciated the unanimity of feeling that existed among them. He regretted the absence of Bro. Stohwasser, but he hoped he would be among them on the next occasion. It was his opinion they had chosen a very good W.M., and he thanked the brethren for their kind expressions. The W.M. regretted the absence of the Treasurer, whose illness had prevented him being present. Bro. Secretary was indefatigable in his duties. He hoped both these brethren would be among them for many years. In giving the toast of the Junior Officers, the W.M. referred to the punctuality with which they attended to their duties. He was sure they would materially assist him in carrying out the work of the Lodge, and he hoped to have a successful year of office. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. The brethren experienced a great treat by the performances of Bro. W. Ganz. Bro. E. Terry sang a humorous song in his inimitable style, while the splendid voice of Bro. Mills was most successfully brought into requisition. The Visitors were Bros. Reepe 228, E. P. Albert G.P., Chaffey 1572, E. Terry 1319, Coulson 27, L. Stean P.M. 917, Jahn P.M., C. Surrey, and at its close the brethren adjourned to the banquet hall, the company then numbering about fifty. Under the personal superintendence of Bro. Hardy, son of the host, an elegant repast was served, over which the newly-elected master presided. The officers appointed by the W.M. are—Bros. Saunders S.W., Porter J.W., Cartwright P.M. Treasurer, J. Squire P.M. Secretary, Mitan S.D., H. Linton J.D., A. Nuthall I.G., Long P.M. D.C., Honeywell P.M. Organist. Among the Visitors were Bros. During the proceedings Bro. George Porter, the newly installed W.M., invested Bro. Henry D'Arcy with a P.M.'s jewel, the unanimous gift of the Lodge, observing that it afforded him very great pleasure to present the token of the brethren in recognition of the services rendered by the recipient to the Lodge during his term of office. The very able and efficient manner in which he had worked made it a difficult matter for his successors to give the same amount of satisfaction to the brethren, but difficulty was a thing to be overcome, and he trusted he should be able to prove himself a not unworthy successor. Bro. Henry D'Arcy, in a few choice sentences, thanked the brethren for the jewel, observing that he should value it, not for its intrinsic worth but as a token of the regard of the brethren generally, and for the kindly expressions with which the W.M. had accompanied the gift. Bro. Lawrence P.M., in responding to the toast of the P.M.'s, urged upon the brethren the absolute necessity of attending Lodges of Instruction if they desired to attain to a degree of eminence in the Craft. A very excellent Lodge of Instruction had been established at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill, worked under the City of London Charter, and he trusted that the younger members of the Lodge, as well as the present officers would make a point of attending it every Thursday evening. Bro. James Mitchell thanked the brethren for the manner in which they had been entertained, and said that hospitality was a characteristic of Freemasonry, and it was in no Lodge exercised more worthily than in that of the City of London. The pleasure of his visit had been greatly enhanced by the admirable manner in which the whole of the Lodge work of the evening (and it had been very heavy) had been conducted. Other speakers and toasts followed, and the brethren separated, after having spent a most enjoyable evening.

A committee was appointed, which consisted of the W.M., P.M.'s and Officers, with Bros. Raney, Clark and Tuck, to make necessary arrangements. The number of members of this Lodge, and the inconvenience experienced by the brethren, who have to wait between the closing of the Lodge and the banquet, whilst the room used for Lodge purposes is prepared, no doubt influenced the brethren in this decision. The W.M. called the attention of the brethren to the Lodge of Instruction which works under the banner of this Lodge, and which is under the Preceptorship of Bro. T. A. Adams. He earnestly requested the frequent attendance of the members. Bro. Michael's List, as Steward to represent the Lodge at the ensuing Festival of the Benevolent Institution, was well subscribed to. The brethren then adjourned to a banquet, which was served in the usual excellent manner of the caterer for the Metropolitan Club.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Ready to Hand.—Every good and generous person feels a natural sympathy in the presence of suffering, and how much more useful would that compassion be if it could supply the means of relief. Professor Holloway offers to every one the never failing power of thus rendering the most essential service to afflicted humanity. The noble remedies reach the seat of every malady, whether it be on the surface or hidden in the dark recesses of the interior of the system, and thus extirpate, if that be possible. This Ointment, rubbed upon the chest and between the shoulder blades, cures catarrh, colds, coughs, and wards off more dire diseases springing from the inclemencies and other depressing influences of winter.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE QUEEN, after remaining at Windsor during the whole of the season of Christmas, and for some time after, has now taken her departure for Osborne, where she arrived on Wednesday, having crossed over from Gosport in the Royal Yacht, Alberta. Before leaving the Castle, Her Majesty had been receiving a succession of visitors, the most conspicuous among whom were the Duke of Connaught, the Princess Mary, Duchess, and the Duke of Teck, and the Prince and Princess Christian. On Tuesday, the Princess Beatrice visited the Prince and Princess Christian, at Cumberland Lodge, and stayed to an entertainment given in honour of the Prince's birthday.

The Prince and Princess of Wales concluded their visit to the Duke of Manchester at Kimbolton on Monday, returning to Sandringham in the course of the afternoon. The Ball that was given the Thursday previous, in honour of the visit was of a private character, and was held in a tent erected in the quadrangle within the castle. The guests began to arrive about half-past nine, and about half-an-hour later the Royal party entered the tent, and dancing commenced to Coote and Tinney's Band, lasting till a late hour the next morning. On Wednesday the Prince left Sandringham for the purpose of spending a few days at Eastwell. The same evening the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh embarked from Malta on board Her Majesty's ship Helicon for the Piræus on a visit to the Coast of Greece. The Royal children remain at Malta during their absence.

At a critical moment the Turks, owing to the patriotism of the New Sultan, are enabled to make a most formidable addition to their fleet. A new ironclad, the Memdouhiyé, the ship in question, is close on 5350 tons burthen, and is protected by armour 12 inches in thickness. Its armament is placed in a centre battery, and will consist of twelve 18-ton guns. This formidable vessel, which has been built by the Thames Ship-Building Company, under the superintendence of British Admiralty officials, was recently tried over the Maplin Sands, with a view to testing the efficiency of the engines and the rate of speed that could be attained. The trial gave the greatest satisfaction, the average speed of six runs over the measured mile being somewhat over 13½ knots per hour. The Memdouhiyé will soon probably take her departure, in order to join the Turkish Black Sea Fleet, when, no doubt, should occasion arise, she will be able to give a very good account of herself.

On Friday evening Professor Tyndall gave a very interesting lecture at the Royal Institution, on "A Combat with an Infective Atmosphere." There was a very crowded audience, as is invariably the case when the Professor lectures. The lecturer explained the result of a very elaborate series of experiments, which tend to show that perfect preservation can be attained only by the exclusion of the air. It was also shown that the air of the laboratory had been contaminated by the samples of hay brought into it. It was in fact most clearly demonstrated that the infusions always produced organic life, and gave way to putrefaction whenever air was not totally excluded. Another interesting lecture was delivered the same evening, at the United Service Institution, by Lieut.-Colonel C. E. Howard Vincent, commanding the Central London Rifle Rangers, on the "Military Geography of European Turkey." The lecturer dealt statistically with the resources of Russia and Turkey as displayed at this moment, and while fully recognising the splendid valour of the Turkish soldier, dwelt at length on the utter want of preparation to resist an invasion in very heavy force. He also spoke of the great marching powers of the Russian, and his remarkable powers of endurance. A vote of thanks rewarded the lecturer for his interesting paper.

It seems that latterly a considerable quantity of wreckage has been washed ashore on the coast of Devon, giving rise to the belief that a more than usually serious disaster had befallen some ship during the late gales. At length it has been ascertained that an American vessel of 1,000 tons, named the George Green, foundered during one of the recent gales, and there is evidence to prove that some of the unfortunate crew, who mustered twenty-six, all told, attempted to save themselves, though unsuccessfully, for the boat in which the attempt was made has been found. The body of the captain's wife has been washed ashore at Kingston, and an inquest was held upon her. It is clear that a fine ship of large tonnage, and with a numerous crew, has perished wholly.

The papers of Wednesday contained accounts of no less than three mining disasters, each of which was attended with serious loss of life. In the first case, a fire broke out in the Stonehill Colliery, Farnworth, about four miles from Bolton, Lancashire. There were some three hundred men in the workings at the time the alarm was given, and a rush was at once made to the pit's mouth. But a detached party engaged beyond the place where the fire broke out were unable to make their escape, and it is understood that as many as twenty have perished. The second disaster occurred in a Lanarkshire colliery, the property of the Duke of Hamilton, and was caused by an influx of water into the works. This resulted in the death, by drowning, of four men. In the third case, a party of gentlemen had been visiting Harris's Collieries, in Glamorganshire, which are of great depth, and were being brought up again in buckets, when the winder of one of them failed to stop it in time, and it struck the beam at the top of the colliery with tremendous force. The occupants were a Mr. Briggs, a mining engineer, and Mr. G. Brogden, brother of Mr. Brogden, M.P. The former was crushed to death, and the latter so severely injured that no hope whatever is entertained of his recovery.

There have been latterly several meetings at which distinguished public men have been expressing their views on the great political question of the day. At Frome, the passage through the town of Mr. Gladstone was made the occasion of presenting the right honourable gentleman with an address, and, in acknowledging this, he naturally took an opportunity of speaking of the conduct of the Government in dealing with the Eastern question. Then, at the Sheriffs' banquet, at York, Mr. Lowther, M.P., who is Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, was present as a guest, and he, of course, referred to the all-absorbing topic of the hour, and especially, of course, defended the conduct of the Government of which he is a subordinate member. But the greatest meeting of all was that held on Wednesday, in Hengler's Circus, Liverpool, where there was an immense gathering of the Liverpool Conservatives. The chair was occupied by Sir Thomas Edwards-Moss, President of the Liverpool Conservative Association, and there were present two Cabinet Ministers, Sir Stafford Northcote and Mr. Cross, and Viscount Sandon, President of Council for Education. Letters of apology for their inability to be present were read from the Earls of Beaconsfield and Derby, and Lord John Manners. Each of the ministers present defended the action of the Government, Sir Stafford Northcote dwelling at considerable length on their policy in the East, and their financial arrangements, while Mr. Cross and Lord Sandon directed their observations to matters more immediately connected with their respective offices. The three speakers were applauded to the echo, and, no doubt, the meeting will exercise a considerable influence over the public mind.

Already there are signs of the near approach of the parliamentary session. Circulars have been issued by the respective party leaders, in both cases inviting the members of their own way of thinking to be present on the first day of the Session—namely, the 8th prox.; and the Earl of Beaconsfield has issued cards of invitation to a distinguished circle of his supporters in the House of Lords, to meet him at a full dress parliamentary banquet on the evening of the 7th prox.: the banquet will be held in the great dining room of the Foreign Office.

We now turn our attention to foreign politics. Even before our remarks of last week had appeared, the news arrived that the Conference was at an end. The Turkish representatives refused to accept even the modified terms of the Great Powers. A Grand Council of the Empire had been held a short time previously, and a resolution rejecting the proposals of the six Great Powers had been passed unanimously, men of all creeds agreeing that such proposals were inconsistent with the dignity and independence of the Empire. The Grand Vizier had, in his opening speech, laid before the Council, calmly and dispassionately, the dangers of rejecting the proposals, but the Council would have nothing whatever to do with them. Hence, the more formal rejection at the Conference. When this happened, there was, of course, no longer any motive for the foreign Plenipotentaries remaining. The Conference, therefore, was dissolved, and its several members have since taken their departure, or are on the point of doing so. The ambassadors will follow, but the withdrawal of the latter, though it has its significance, must not be regarded as an act of hostility towards Turkey. The several Powers will still be represented by their respective charges d'affaires, and in some cases it is reported that new ambassadors will be appointed. Turkey will not recal her representatives at the different courts of Europe; so that, all things considered, the prospects that, after all, peace may be maintained are more hopeful than they have been for some time past. On the other hand, it is rumoured that Russia is continuing her military preparations, and endeavouring to renew the alliance of the three Emperors. Whether she will succeed or not in her purpose time alone will show; but the determination to keep her armies in readiness is not the most hopeful sign. It, of course, necessitates that Turkey should maintain herself in a state of armed expectation, and perhaps, after all, on the arrival of spring, we may wake up and find the whole of the east of Europe in a blaze. Let us hope, however, for the best, and that the efforts of England to have the peace kept will be successful. Indeed, if Turkey carries out her promised constitutional reforms, Russia will not have the shadow of an excuse for attacking her independence. The news from other parts of Europe, except so far as it shows that a sore feeling still exists between Germany and France, is of little or no interest. From the United States we hear that a bill has passed, or is on the point of passing Congress, having for object the counting of votes at the recent Presidential election, and so settling the knotty point whether Mr. Tilden, Democrat, or Mr. Hayes, Republican, is to be installed as President of the United States on the 4th March next. One other item of news is worth mentioning. An embassy from the Emperor of China to Queen Victoria has reached England.

We notice with regret that Sir H. Edwards, Provincial Grand Master of West Yorkshire, in his address to the brethren recently assembled in Quarterly Communication at Leeds, commented adversely on the management of the Boys' School. He is reported to have said that it is to be regretted "the extravagant management, and the indifferent, educational results so forcibly pointed out by your Committee of Investigation a year ago, still continue, without any evidence of improvement in the future." We repeat, we deeply regret this statement has been made by one holding so responsible a position in Masonry as that of Provincial Grand Master of one of our largest and most influential provinces. All the circumstances of the management of this Institution have been subjected to a most rigid and impartial investigation. It has been shown that the Executive has done its duty ably and conscientiously. All things considered, the rate of expenditure is not high, while the educational results, so far as they have been tested, have been eminently satisfactory. It is quite legitimate for West Yorkshire brethren to hold the opinion that the funds of the Boys' School might have been more economically administered, and that the results of the educational system might have brought forth more and better fruit. But Committees, regularly and constitutionally appointed to investigate the different complaints, have reported that the different School Committees have done their duty ably and worthily. We ask, then, what good will come from keeping these differences open? Is it not reasonable to suppose that the School will go on prospering more and more with each successive year, if we all put our shoulders to the wheel at the same time, and work together harmoniously? Let our West Yorkshire brethren bear in mind the old saying, that "byegones should be byegones." Let them be content with having given rise to a keen criticism, which even the most powerful executive will never venture to set at defiance, and the School, there is no doubt, will prosper, as it deserves.

The Grand Lodge of Benevolence was held on Wednesday, last at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. Joshua Nunn P.G.S.B. in the chair; Bros. Jas. Brett P.G.P. S.W., Case J.G.D. as J.W. There were thirty one cases, and grants were awarded to the amount of £628. Three cases were deferred, while one was dismissed. There were present Bros. Æ. McIntyre G.R., S. Rawson D.G.M. China, J. Smith P.G.P., C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P., S. Foxall A.G.P., H. Dicketts P.G.S., J. Hervey G.S., T. Cubitt P.G.P., W. Smith P.G.S., F. Binckes P.G.S., G. Allen, Heath, W. H. Myers, Atkins, H. Muggeridge, W. R. Marsh, Howe, Bergman, J. Denton, R. Secker, J. Dyte, Rev. T. Vaughan, H. Massey, T. Moring, Whitemarsh, T. Bull, W. Murlis, Poronal, W. Stephens, W. Mann, W. Marsh, H. Bartlett, &c.

The General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Thursday, the 25th, at the Freemasons' Hall, Bro. Col. Peters in the chair. Bro. Robert Wentworth Little, Secretary, read the minutes of the former meeting of the Quarterly Court, the House Committee, and also the Audit Committee, which were confirmed. Several matters were discussed, and, after passing a cordial vote of thanks to Bro. Col. Peters, for presiding, the meeting was adjourned. There were present—Bros. J. Rucker, T. W. White, A. H. Tattershall, H. Massey, Major E. Finney, H. Browse, H. A. Dubois, Griffiths Smith, H. W. Hemsworth, J. Boyd, W. Stephens, R. Morris, G. Kenning, C. Moutrie, F. Binckes, H. F. Peacock, H. Potter, E. C. Mather, Dr. Morris, S. Rosenthal, E. Faulkner, and H. M. Levy.

The Annual Communication of the District Grand Lodge of Australia was held at the Masonic Lodge Rooms, Eagle Chambers, Adelaide, on the 4th of October last. Bro. Arthur Hardy D.G.M., presided, and there was a numerous assemblage of District Grand Officers and others in attendance. The Lodge having been opened, the minutes of the previous meeting were confirmed. The balance-sheet of the South Australian Masonic Benevolent Fund was then taken as read and adopted. This showed for the year ended the 22nd of September receipts amounting to £109, including a balance brought forward from the previous year of £83 16s 10d. The expenditure was trifling, the balance in savings' bank at the end of the year being £107 3s 5d. The Permanent Fund showed receipts, including balance brought forward £53 16s, and loan on mortgage £100, amounting to £158 18s. Disbursements nil. The Available Fund showed receipts, including balance of £30, to the extent of £50 12s; disbursements £2 7s 5d; balance £48 5s 5d. The D.G.M. then appointed and invested his officers for the ensuing year, after which the D.G.L was closed with the usual formalities. The next Quarterly Communication was announced for the 3rd instant.

A Ball will be given by the brethren of the newly-consecrated Earl of Carvarvon Lodge, No. 1642, on Friday, the 9th February, at Ladbrooke Hall, Notting-hill, under the presidency of Bro. W. J. Murlis W.M. and the following Stewards:—Bros. G. Penn S.W., S. H. Parkhouse J.W., W. Stephens P.M., W. Gordon P.M. and S.D., F. Clench J.D., E. M. Lander I.G., S. Smout D.C., S. Smout jun. W.S., J. Linscott, J. Swift, J. Bartle, W. T. Hook, J. Woodmason, G. N. Watts P.M., E. Frye, E. J. Cave, and Bro. Pushman, Honorary Secretary. The proceeds will be given to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. Gentlemen's tickets 10s; ladies' ditto 7s 6d; double tickets 16s. Bro. Linscott has kindly given the use of the capacious hall.

We learn from the Keystone that the annual Grand Communication of the Holy Royal Arch Chapter of Pennsylvania was held in the Masonic Temple, Philadelphia, on the 27th ult. After the various Reports of the Committees had been read, and the other business of the meeting transacted, the M. E. Grand High Priest, Comp. George E. Wagner, delivered his valedictory address, in the course of which he congratulated those present on the progress of Capitular Masonry. He likewise referred in feeling terms to the death of three Past Grand High Priests, and also dwelt at some length on the work he had been able to accomplish, and especially to the fact of his having visited every Chapter in the jurisdiction. We feel sure the Companions he addressed must have heard with regret that their retiring Chief contemplated removing to Chicago at the beginning of this year. The following were then installed and proclaimed in their several offices, namely, Comps. Alfred R. Potter, M. E. Grand High Priest, William C. Hamilton, M. E. Grand King, Hibbert P. John, M. E. Grand Scribe, and John Thompson, M. E. Grand Secretary. Grand H. P. Potter then appointed his various officers for the year, as well as the different Committees on Work, Finance, Correspondence, &c., and the Deputy High Priests for the several districts into which the jurisdiction is divided.

From the same source we gather that the Masonic Temple, at Portland, Me., was seriously damaged by fire on the 23rd ult. This temple, we are told, contains one of the finest Masonic Libraries in the United States. We trust, however, that this has escaped. Regalia and furniture can be replaced, but not old and valuable archives.

We are indebted to the Hebrew Leader for the following statistics relating to the Supreme Council, A. and A. Rite, for the Northern jurisdiction of the United States. Maine has one Consistory, with 143 members, and two Lodges of Perfection, 205 members; Vermont, one Consistory, 49 members, three Lodges of Perfection, 157 members; Massachusetts, one Consistory, 863 members, and six Lodges of Perfection, 1,084 members; Rhode Island, two Consistories, 134 members, and two Lodges of Perfection, 143 members; Connecticut, two Consistories, 128 members, six Lodges of Perfection, 304 members; New York, seven Consistories, 1,098 members, and fifteen Lodges of Perfection, 1,481 members; New Jersey, one Consistory, 245 members, six Lodges of Perfection, 422 members; Pennsylvania, four Consistories, 596 members, and five Lodges of Perfection, 747 members; Michigan, one Consistory, 225 members, and one Lodge of Perfection, 312 members; Ohio, one Consistory, 515 members, three Lodges of Perfection, 610 members; Indiana, two Consistories, 270 members, two Lodges of Perfection, 381 members; Illinois, four Consistories, 658 members, four Lodges of Perfection, 707 members; and Wisconsin, one Consistory, 122 members, and two Lodges of Perfection, 136 members. Total, 29 Consistories, with 5,194 members; 59 Lodges of Perfection, with 6,895 members. The number of initiates during the year was 520, of whom 144 were initiated in Massachusetts and 129 in New York. Our contemporary expresses regret that, though the financial condition of this Supreme Council is on a permanent footing and its investments are secure, the expenditure for the past year was more than 2,500 dollars in excess of the receipts. Thirteen charters were revoked. The triennial election in August last, resulted in the re-election of most of the old officers, but the twelve standing Committees were remodelled, many of them being reduced in number in order to facilitate the dispatch of business.

The Festival of St. Andrew was celebrated by the members of the various Masonic Lodges in Bombay, under the Scotch Constitution, with the customary festivities. Grand Lodege, according to the Masonic Record of Western India, met before dinner, for the purpose of installing the Grand Officers for the ensuing year, and, also, in order to present appropriate testimonials to Bros. E. Freeborn, Honorary S.W., K. R. Kama, Honorary Deputy G.M., and H. G. Rowell, Grand Secretary, as some slight recognition of their services to Freemasonry. The presentation to Bro. Rowell consisted of a handsome Cutch-work claret cup and jug. At the dinner, about sixty guests, including some half-dozen English brethren, sat down. Bro. Morland, Grand Master of Scottish Freemasonry in India, presided, and, on the removal of the cloth, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to with great enthusiasm, the pious memory of St. Andrew being very humorously proposed by Bro. T. Ormiston, Grand Architect. The toast of the "Masonic Charities," in which the Grand Master referred to the efforts he had made, with a view to forming a Scottish Benevolent Society in connection with the Craft, followed. He expressed himself satisfied with the response, thus far, made to his appeal, and announced that the balance standing in the bank to the credit of Masonic Charity, was 2,754 rupees. At the close of the speech, the Widows' and Orphans' box was handed round, the collection realising somewhat over 329 rupees. During the intervals between the toasts, different brethren did their best to entertain the guests with songs, both humorous and sedate, and the proceedings closed with a hearty, if not very artistic rendering of Auld Lang Syne.

The Voice of Masonry, for December, records the death of Sir Knight William Leffingwell, born at Norwich, Connecticut, 4th January 1799. In 1839, he became a resident of Iowa, and was initiated into Freemasonry on the 11th September 1848. In January 1855, he became a Knight Templar. He had, in the course of his career, held many responsible posts in the different Masonic bodies to which he belonged. The esteem in which he was held may be judged from the fact that his funeral was conducted Masonically, Past Grand Commander T. S. Parvin, representing the Grand Commander, officiating in chief, supported by Sir Knight the Rev. A. C. Shlin, of Ottumwa, acting Grand Prelate, Sir Daniel B. Shelley, of Davenport, Grand Treasurer, and numerous other Knights from Davenport and surrounding towns. These attended with the Knights of the De Molay Commandery, under the escort of brethren of Iowa Lodge, No. 2, Hawk Eye Lodge, No. 30, and Wilton Lodge, No. 167. The Voice gives a full, and we should say, justly complimentary notice of the worthy deceased, pointing out how, in every position, both as a citizen and as a Mason, he had comported himself worthily. In the same periodical are given full particulars of the life of Bro. Samuel Lenox, who died at Trenton, N.J., on the 23rd October, full of years and honours. Bro. Lenox was born at Damhead, Co. Antrim, Ireland, in January 1784. In January 1805, he was initiated in Lodge No. 235, Coleraine, Co. Londonderry. The same year, and the beginning of the next, he joined other Masonic bodies, and, shortly afterwards, emigrated to the United States, taking with him his dimits from his Irish Loge, Chapter, and Encampment, and depositing them in Philadelphia. At the time of his death, he was a member of Trenton Lodge No. 5, Three Times Three Chapter, and Palestine Commandery. Bro. Lenox had been a Master Mason seventy, one years and seven months, and a Knight Templar only a month short of seventy-one years. The death is also recorded of Bro. Bierce, Past Grand Master of Masons in Ohio, at his residence, Akron, on the 11th November. Bro. Bierce had reached the ripe age of seventy-five.

According to the Freemason's Repository the number of Royal Arch Masons in New Jersey is 2718, divided among 35 subordinate Chapters. From the same magazine we learn that the expenditure for mileage and daily expenses of the members of the Grand Lodge of Illinois amounted for the year ended in October 1876 to 13,955.60 dollars. The Grand Master receives for his services and expenses the sum of 2,000 dollars, and the Grand Secretary 2,500 dollars, together with his expenses. The total number of Lodges in the jurisdiction is 664, and of these no less than 597 were represented at the last annual Communication in October. We are indebted to the same authority for the following facts relating to Freemasonry at Providence, R.I. There are five Craft Lodges, with an aggregate membership of 1220, What Cheer Lodge, with close on 500 members, heading the list as far as numbers are concerned. St. John's Lodge holds a charter given to it in 1757 by Bro. Jeremy Gridley, Prov. Grand Master of Massachusetts. Mount Vernon Lodge, likewise, dates it origin from the last century. Corinthian Lodge is barely nine years old yet, while Adelphi Lodge is just completing the first year of its existence. There is one Royal Arch Chapter, with nearly 800 members, and in Cryptic Masonry one Council, numbering some two hundred members. Of Masonic Orders of Knighthood, there are two Commanderies, of which St. John's was founded by Thomas Smith Webb, as far back as the year 1802, and claims to be the oldest Templar Body in the United States. It has a membership of close upon 400. Calvary Commandery was founded in 1860, and numbers some 200 Knights. The Ancient and Accepted is likewise well represented.

In Memoriam.

We have, this week, to announce the decease of Bro. Richard Graves, an old Past Master of Lodge 263. He was initiated in 1846, passed the chair in 1849, and continued a subscribing member until 1860, when he fell into business difficulties, which resulted in his election to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Annuity Fund three years ago. He was also a Mark Master, having entered the old Bon Accord Lodge in 1851. Both he and his wife (deceased some time before him) were Life Governors of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and subscribers to the Institutions for Boys and Girls. The immediate cause of his death (supervening upon the advanced age of 75) was bronchitis. He was interred at Abney Park Cemetery, on the 24th inst.

MOTHER SHIPTON'S PROPHECY.

First Published 1448, Re-published 1641.

Carriages without horses shall go,
And accidents fill the world with woe;
Around the world thoughts shall fly,
In the twinkling of an eye.
Water shall yet more wonders do;
Now strange, yet shall be true.
The world upside down shall be,
And gold be found at the root of a tree.
Through hills man shall ride,
And no horse or ass be at his side.
Under water men shall walk,
Shall ride, shall sleep, shall talk.
In the air men shall be seen,
In white, in black, in green.
Iron in the water shall float,
As easy as a wooden boat.
Gold shall be found, and shown
In land that is not now known.
Fire and water shall wonders do;
England shall at last admit a Jew.
The world to an end shall come,
In eighteen hundred and eighty-one.

MARK MASONRY, &c.

Cornubian Lodge, No. 87, Hayle.—The annual meeting of this Lodge took place in the Freemasons' Hall, on Tuesday, the 16th inst. The Lodge was opened in due form by Bro. Eustace, assisted by his Officers, for the purpose of Installing Bro. Frank H. Pool, P.P.G.M.O., as Worshipful Master. A Board of Installed Masters was formed of the following distinguished brethren:—Frank Harvey P.P.S.G.W., N. J. West C.E. P.P.J.G.W., Dr. Mudge P.P.J.G.W., John Coombe P.P.G.M.O., G. H. Eustice C.E. P.P.G.S.B., James Pool P.P.G.J.O. The installation was perfectly performed by the retiring W.M., who was assisted by Bro. N. J. West. The newly invested W.M. appointed as his officers—G. H. Eustice I.P.M., H. J. Warren S.W., G. B. Pearce J.W., J. G. Osborn M.O., F. W. Pool S.O., J. J. Taylor J.O., J. P. Smith Secretary, Biggiestone Spray S.D., Thomas Mills J.D., E. Hodge Chaplain, J. Lovell Organist, George Stevens I.G., J. V. Bray Tyler. The W.M. was unanimously re-elected Treasurer. A vote of sympathy was voted the Provincial Grand Master who, recently, whilst shooting, had met with a serious accident, which resulted in the loss of an eye. The following is the text of the resolution:—"We, brethren in Lodge assembled, beg to record our heartfelt regret at the unfortunate accident which has befallen our highly esteemed and respected brother, Sir Frederick M. Williams Bart., M.P., Provincial Grand Master of Cornwall, and express our sympathy with him; and trust that, under the blessing of the Grand Overseer of the Universe, he may soon be restored to full measure of health and strength." The Secretary was requested to forward a copy to the Provincial Grand Master. After the Lodge was closed, the brethren repaired to a room in the Hall premises, where an excellent spread was provided by Bro. Smith. After the usual Loyal toasts, the health of the Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Sir Frederick M. Williams, was proposed—and enthusiastically received. Bro. Lovell gave "The fine old English Gentleman." Bro. G. B. Pearce replied, and remarked how much the expression of sympathy from the brethren would be appreciated by the P.G. Master. The Deputy P.G. Master and the rest of the officers was responded to by Bros. West and Harvey. The health of the W.M. was proposed by Bro Eustice, in neat and eulogistic terms, and was heartily received by the brethren. In replying, the W.M. expressed his pleasure at seeing so many present. With the assistance of his officers, he hoped to see the Lodge carried on with improved success. Other toasts followed, and an agreeable evening was spent.

Kemeys Tynte Preceptory of Knights Templar.—This distinguished Preceptory held a regular meeting at the Masonic Hall, 33 Golden-square, on Friday, the 19th instant, V.E. Sir Knight Lieut.-Colonel Somerville Burney, Preceptor, in the chair; Sir Knights Colonel Randolph as Constable, J. Lewis Thomas F.R.G.S. as Marshal, Captain Portlock Dadson Treasurer, V.E. SCOTCH MEETINGS.

Resuscitation of Robert Burns's Mother Lodge, St. David's, Tarbolton, No. 133.—This Lodge, which has been dormant for thirty-two years, was re-opened, by order of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, on Monday, 15th January, by Bro. B. Wylie P.P.G.M. of Ayrshire, and the Provincial Grand Lodge of Ayrshire, in due Masonic form. An attempt was made some years since to effect this object, but as it was also wished to remove the Lodge to the adjacent town of Manchline, it fell through. The erection of a statue to the memory of Burns in Glasgow, which is to be unveiled on the 25th instant, again directed the attention of the petitioners to the disgrace that attached to the fact of their allowing this Lodge to be struck off the Roll, and accordingly efforts were renewed to regain the charter which had for some years been in possession of the G.L. in Edinburgh, and this time, through the G.M., Sir M. R. S. Stewart, himself taking an interest in it, the object was happily effected. Leaving Glasgow by an early train, we arrived at Manchline by midday. The brethren had kindly provided carriages to take the visitors to the scene of operation; but, in company with Bro. Tweed, the antiquarian publisher, we preferred, instead of waiting for that conveyance, to walk the five miles, and traverse some of the scenes immortalised by the poems of the bard. Thus we saw the houses in which he courted both his wife and his "Highland Mary." Took a seat in the public house where he composed and sang his "Jolly Beggars." Saw "Lucy's Thorn," "Ayr Waters," Willie's Mill and the Muckle Stane, where death met Dr. Hornbook. Passed the Castle of Montgomery, and the stream that ne'er runs, as well as the farm of Mossgiel, where he spent what was doubtless the happiest part of his life. Imagined that we saw the field in which grew "The wee modest crimson-tipped flower," and the other in which he ploughed up the Mouse. Here, too, he composed "The Cotter's Saturday Night." By the side of this stream he wrote "Man was made to mourn," and by that he took his last farewell of his Highland Mary; on the hill side that strain that still throbs Scottish hearts in all quarters of the globe, viz., "Scots wha hae." From here, too, we can see "Ballochmyle," unfortunately this time without the "bonnie lass," for our "Nannie's awa." But we must hasten into the village, where mine host of the Black Bull receives us kindly, and while we are refreshing the inner man sends for Bro. Jas. McCosh, the Master of the St. James Lodge, No. 135, who manifested at once the true Masonic spirit, and offered to take us to the Lodge room, and show the highly-prized relicts of Burns in their possession. By this time the rain had set in in earnest, but that does not damp the warmth of his kindness nor our enthusiasm, so out we sally to the end of the village, calling on Bro. Barclay, the S.W., on our way; for here they keep up the good old custom of three locks to the chest, and the keys in the hands of three different brethren. Arrived at the Crown, we are first shown, and of course sit down in the seat, an old high chair, immortalised by the poet in his "Farewell to the Brethren of St. James," Tarbolton, which says, "Here thou I oft presided o'er the Sons of Light." The jewel of the Master, which he wore, is next put upon on our breasts, then the old minute book is placed in our hands, with his name on the roll of members, as well as that of his Brother Gilbert. John Rankine, whom he calls "Rough, ready-witted Rankine," also those of the Minister, and the Schoolmaster, Wm. Wilson, whom he designated as Dr. Hornbook. R. Morrison, at whose house he wrote the "Haggis," also that of his great opponent, James Humphrey, on whom he composed that stinging satire, "Epitaph on a Noisy Polemic." There were two Lodges in Tarbolton,—St. David's, his mother, under the G.L. of Scotland, and St. James, holding under the then independent Grand Lodge Mother Kilwinning. The poet appears to have early joined the St. James Lodge, as an affiliated member, and as the Master, Colonel Montgomery, a member of the Eglington family, does not appear to have been often present, the minutes for some years are signed by Burns as Deputy Master; but, even as the great Shakspeare was not always particular in the autography of his name, so here we find it at first signed Robt. Burness, then Barnes, and then Robt. Burns. They have also an interesting letter, all on Lodge business, dated Edinburgh, 23rd August 1787, which concludes thus:—

> Within your dear mansion may wrong and contention,
> Or withering envy ne'er enter;
> May secrecy round be the mystical bound,
> And brotherly love be the centre.

The outside is subscribed to the officers and members of St. James Lodge, Tarbolton, care of Jas. Mason, Innkeeper. Just opposite is the old parish church, where, on the lady's bonnet, he saw the creeping thing which caused him to write:—"Oh whad some power the giftie gie us to see ourselves as ithers see us." But we must quit these memorials of the olden time, and hasten back to take part in the ceremony of the day. At half-past 4 Bro. R. Wylie opened the Provincial Lodge, with Bros. Halket and Carruthers as P.G.D.M. and S.M., Bros. F. A. Fergerson and J. Tweed of Glasgow P.S.W. and P.J.W., Bros. Whinston and Gibson S.W. and J.W. of Mother Kilwinning, Bro. McKay, Kilmarnock, in the absence of the Rev. J. Inglis, acting as Chaplain, Bro. Pollock R.M. of London, Newmilnes acting S.W. of the Lodge, and Bro. Park R.W.M., St. Paul Irving No. 82 as J.W. There were also present the Masters and Wardens of Lodges 124 Kilwinning, Ayr, 135 St. James, Tarbolton, 138 Operative, Ayr, 157 St. John Beith, 126 St. Andrew's, 109 St. Marnock, Kilmarnock, 149 St. Andrew Irvine, 179 St. Mungo, Manchline, 165 Royal Arch, Ayr, 204 St. Paul, Ayr, 549 St. Matthew, Dreghorn. The acting P.G.M. said he regretted the absence of Col. Muir, of Caldwell, their P.G.M., who was on the Continent, he had also received letters of apology from W. O. Partrick and W. Partrick, the Deputy and Substitute G.M., and also from Bro. Montgomerie, their Proxy Master. He then read the authority from the G.M. of Scotland for the re-opening of the Lodge, and proceeded to instal the officers, namely:—Major James Wallace Dunlop Adair R.W.M., Dr. M. Faulds D.M., John Faulds P.M. 179 S.M., W. Rennie T., James Muir P.M. of 135 S.W., J. Gibson J.W., Dr. Muir, two Deacons, two Stewards, and McCowan Tyler. At the request of the acting P.G.M., Bro. G. W. Wheeler 73 opened a board of installed Masters, and duly placed Bro. Major Adair in the chair of King Solomon, at the same time conferring that degree on three other P.M.'s who had not previously received it, viz., Bros. James Muir P.M. 135, Dr. Faulds 179, and J. Harvey R.W.M. 179, Manchline. The Board having been closed, the assembled brethren saluted Bro. Adair in the three degrees. The newly-installed Master thanked the P.G. officers and Installing Master for their valuable services, and proposed them all as honorary members of St. David's 133, which was carried by acclamation. He also thanked the brethren for the honour they had done him by putting him in the chair, which he believed he owed to his family connection with Burns, his grandmother being half-sister of Gavin Hamilton Burns, first patron, and his wife being a grand-daughter of the same gentleman. The acting P.M.G. acknowledged the compliment paid to him and the brethren who had accompanied him; they would long look back with pride to that day at the part they had taken in the ceremony, the only drawback to which had been the limited accommodation of the Hall. The Kilwinning brethren remained to dine with the officers of St. James 133, but as the accommodation was so limited the Glasgow and Manchline brethren accompanied the officers of the re-opened Lodge in carriages to Manchline, where they dined together in the Lodge room of St. Mungo 179, at the London Hotel, where a most excellent menu was spread, that would not have disgraced any of our large city hotel keepers' establishments. Major Adair R.W.M. 133, St. David's, presided, and Bro. J. Harvey R.W.M. 179, St. Mungo, efficiently filled the Croupier's Chair. The toasts of the Queen and the Craft; the Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family; the Three Grand Lodges; were given from the chair, in a manner that showed the new Master was at home in presiding over a Masonic gathering. Bro. Gibson proposed the Army, Navy and Reserved Forces, and called upon the gallant chairman to respond. Major Adair, in brief, but pithy sentences, said, that notwithstanding the croakings of would-be prophets, he knew from actual observation that the Army and Navy would well maintain their old prestige, while it would be unfortunate for any invaders should they attempt to try the metal of the Volunteers. Bro. Muir P.M. 135 gave The Immortal Memory of Burns, in a truly eloquent speech, which we are sorry space forbids us to insert. The chairman then gave the Visiting Brethren. Bro. Wheeler responded, regretting that time prevented the others from replying, as the last train was leaving. The toast list was not completed, when we had to leave. We should mention that Bro. Alexander S.D., by his voice, and at the piano, contributed to the evening's enjoyment, and Bro. Cowin also sang, in good style, "Burns's Farewell to Tarbolton Lodge."

Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow.—The annual meeting for nomination of the Election Officers was held on the 11th of January, at St. Mark's Hall, Bro. John Baird P.G. S.M. in the chair. He said he was glad to report that Colonel W. M. Nelson P.G.M. was nearly recovered, and he hoped he would be able to be at their installation meeting. In the meantime, he had sent a commission to Bro. W. H. Bickerton as P.G.S., and it was for them now to elect the subordinate officers. Bro. James Gilles was then re-elected Treasurer, and the following is the list of the officers chosen by the Lodge:—John Morgan I.P.M. 219 S.D., John Miller P.M. 87 J.D., J. Ritchie 3 bis Architect, J. Jack R.W.M. 120 Jeweller, A. Bain P.M. 103 B.B., J. Halkett P.M. 102 D. of M., R. Robb 102 P. of S., J. Balfour D.M. 332 D. of C., D. Reid R.W.M. 465 S.B., Rev. Dr. Penny Assistant Chaplain, G. Sinclair P.M. 27 Treasurer of Benevolent Fund, J. Booth R.W.M. 87 I.G., J. B. Hardie 102 O.G. The P.G.L. was then closed in due form.

St. John's 3 bis.—Bro. W. Kyle jun. R.W.M., D. M. Nelson I.P.M., Fletcher, W. Bell, D. Han D.M., P. Brownlie S.W., Jas. Kyle J.W., J. Ferguson Treasurer, Wm. Cochrane Secretary. The late Treasurer presented his report, which showed a balance of about £138 in favour of the Lodge. The new Master then gave the E.A. degree in an able manner to Mr. Alex. Stevenson. This being the first meeting in the new year, the Lodge went to refreshment for a couple of hours.

Thistle and Rose, No. 73.—Held its regular meeting on the 16th of January, Bro. J. Kinnaird R.W.M. in the chair, supported by G. Macdonald I.P.M., G. W. Wheeler acting S.W., W. T. Kay J.W., G. MacDonald jun. S.D., J. Smith Chaplain. Arrangements were made for holding the 121st anniversary festival next month.

Union Lodge, No. 332.—Held its regular meeting on Monday, the 15th inst., at 213 Buchanan-street. Bro. D. McKirdy R.W.M. in the chair, J. Balfour D.M. and a full complement of officers. Visitors—Bros. Jas. Findley R.W.M. 333, M. Stark R.W.M. 419. The Master read a letter he had received from Bro. Allman, from Virginia City, Noveda, enclosing a cheque for £5 as a contribution to the funds of his mother Lodge. The Master said that was the third time Bro. Allman had sent a similar amount, showing that he, at any rate, does not forget his mother Lodge, although in a foreign clime. The auditors account was read, showing that the Lodge is in a highly prosperous state. The R.W.M. then, in his usual style, initiated two gentlemen, Messrs. J. Ross and J. D. Thompson.

Knights and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with concentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 67 Barbican.—Advt.

Hemming Lodge, 1512, Hampton.—A full muster of the brethren of this Lodge met on Thursday evening, the 18th inst., under the presidency of the Worshipful Master (Bro. John Hurst), at the Red Lion Hotel. It is seldom there is any absentee among the officers, and on this occasion we were glad to notice they were all in their places. So long as the Master of a Lodge is personally supported by those to whom he naturally looks for assistance in the efficient discharge of Masonic obligations, so surely do we perceive that unanimous desire to promote the good of the science, to enhance the success of the Lodge and the comfort of its individual members. We have, therefore, the pleasure of congratulating Bro. Hurst upon the support he receives from those on whom he has bestowed a collar, and not less upon that he derives from the attendance of the lay brethren. The Lodge having been opened to the second degree, the ceremony of passing was performed, Bros. W. A. Messenger and J. Schmitz being the candidates. The question of establishing a Lodge of Instruction was discussed, but at present nothing definite is settled. Such, or some similar scheme, however, would, if brought into practical shape, prove of infinite advantage, as the officers would thus become better acquainted with each other's working, and certain slight differences in minor details which at present exist, from the mere fact of the brethren obtaining their Masonic knowledge in various quarters, would be toned down, and result in more uniform work. The other business being disposed of, the Lodge was closed down and refreshment served, under the direction of Bro. Murphy. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured. Bro. W. Hammond P.P.G.D. responded for the P.G. Officers; Bro. Hopwood, the I.P.M., for the Past Masters; the Worshipful Master, on his own behalf, assured the brethren of his high appreciation of the position they had exalted him to. Bro. John Hammond and Bro. Hill, for the Officers, and Bro. Ockenden for the Charities. The latter has been appointed Steward for the Girls' School Festival, and in acknowledging the vote of Ten Guineas from the Lodge Funds, appealed for supplementary contributions from the various brethren. He reminded them that, though the 'grand total of nearly £40,000 had been subscribed last year to the three metropolitan Charities, the fraternity was augmenting daily in numbers, and with this increase there was a corresponding demand on the claims of the Charities; more than 160 girls were fed, clothed and cared for at Clapham, there was a long list of candidates waiting admission, and he trusted that their response to his appeal would result in a sum worthy of the Hemming Lodge, and creditable to the province of Middlesex.

Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—The first banquet in connection with this young, though remarkably prosperous Lodge, was held on Thursday, at the Queen's Hotel, Micklegate, York, when the landlord (Bro. H. Churchill) placed upon the table a most excellent dinner, served in good style. This banquet was specially held in honour of the Masters and Wardens of the Humber, Minerva, and Kingston Lodges (Hull), who had recommended the petition of the promoters of the Eboracum Lodge last year. At six o'clock, the chair was taken by the W.M., Bro. Thomas Cooper P.M., who was supported by the Right W. Dep. Prov. G. Master for N. and E. Yorkshire (Bro. J. P. Bell P.S.G.D. England), Bros. Ansell P.M. Humber Lodge, P. H. Rowland P.M., G. Balmford P.M. Treasurer of the Lodge, and other brethren. The vice-chair was occupied by Bro. T. B. Whytehead S.W., and the following officers were also present:—Bros. J. S. Cumberland J.W., J. Kay Secretary, M. Cooper J.D., G. Simpson D.C., C. G. Padel Organist, I. G. Seller I.G., and Bro. P. Pearson Tyler; whilst amongst the members of the Lodge and visitors present we noticed Bros. Toozes and Kidd (Humber Lodge, Hull), Bros. Alderman Perry, J. F. Stephenson, J. Morgan, J. Mason, T. Smith, M. Millington, I. F. Taylor, Irving, A. I. B. Turner, T. D. Smith, J. Ward Prov. G. Pursuivant, J. Blenkin, W. H. Bland, &c. Letters had been received from the R.W. Prov. G. Master the Earl of Zetland, the Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett S. Prov. G.W., M. C. Peck Prov. G. Secretary, W. Hunt P.M. Kingston Lodge, Hull, G. Wilkinson W.M. Minerva Lodge, Hull, the Rev. W. Valentine, and many other prominent Masons, expressing regret at their inability to be present. After the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts (as well as that of the Prov. Grand Master the Earl of Zetland) had been given from the chair, and duly honoured, the W.M. gave "The W. Bro. J. P. Bell Esq. M.D. J.P., P.S.G.D. England, Dep. Prov. G.M. of N. and E. Yorkshire, and the Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge." In the course of his remarks, he spoke of the sense of gratification felt by the Lodge at numbering on their list of members the names of the Prov. Grand Master, the Deputy Prov. G. Master, and the Prov. Grand Secretary, and they regarded the presence of the Dep. Prov. G. Master on that evening as an honour as well as a pleasure. In replying, the Dep. Prov. G. Master said that, from what he had heard and seen, not only that evening, but during the interval between the consecration of the Lodge, last August, and the present time, he was more than ever convinced that the establishment of the Eboracum Lodge was a wise step, and one that would tend, and had already tended to the good of Masonry in that ancient city—which was regarded as the cradle of Masonry in England. He had every confidence that those who were entrusted with the welfare of the Eboracum Lodge would carry out their responsibilities with the zeal and discretion that they had hitherto exhibited, and would merit all the praise that could be bestowed on them. The Dep. Prov. G. Master then gave some excellent advice to the young members present, as to the objects of Masonry, and the manner in which they should prosecute its study, and concluded by proposing (in complimentary terms) the health of the W.M. The reception accorded to this and the previous toasts was most enthusiastic, as was also that of "The Visiting Brethren," proposed by the S.W., who referred to the special objects of the dinner, and the pleasure it afforded the brethren to see amongst them some of those who stretched out to them a helping hand in the hour of their necessity. Bro. P. H. Rowland P.M. proposed "The Officers of the Lodge," and the S.W., in replying, said that only one of the officers was absent, the S.D., who was prevented from attending by illness. They had every confidence in their W. Master, in themselves, and in the future of their Lodge. Bro. Ansell P.M., in replying to the toast of the Visitors, said it needed no prophet to foresee for the Eboracum Lodge, as it was conducted at present, a splendid future, and it gave the Hull brethren much pleasure to think they had been at all instrumental in forwarding the formation of such a Lodge. The evening war spent in a most agreeable manner, the proceedings being enlivened by songs, &c., contributed by the Senior and Junior Wardens, the Organist, the Treasurer, and Bros. T. D. Smith, J. Shillets, and A. T. B. Turner.

West Smithfield Lodge, No. 1623.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, 18th instant, at the New Market Hotel, West Smithfield. Present—Bros. J. Smith P.G.P. W.M., T. W. Adams S.W., G. S. Elliott J.W., F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex Secretary, J. Howes P.M. S.D., J. Johnson J.D., G. S. Wintle P.M. I.G., A. Black D.C., W. Pennefather P.M. W.S. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. W. Smyth, C. Davis, and W. C. Watts, who were duly initiated into the Order. Bros. Leggett, F. W. Evans 1423, and A. Macfarlane 1423, were passed to the second degree. The two latter brethren by the courtesy of the W.M.; Bros. T. McCluer, Butt, W. B. Delafosa, and W. Snow were raised to the third degree. Bro. W. Sugg P.M. 452 and 35 was elected a joining member. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a capital banquet, provided by Bro. Butt. The usual Loyal, Masonic and complimentary toasts were honoured. The Visitors were Bros. J. Baldwin P.G.A.P. Middlesex P.M. 1423, R. P. Hooton P.M. 765, F. W. Evans 1423, and A. MacFarlane 1423. The testimonial to Bro. F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex, which has been liberally subscribed to by the brethren, will be presented on the 27th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street.

Tredegar Lodge of Instruction, No. 1625.—The first meeting of this new Lodge was held on Monday, 23rd inst., at the Royal, Mile End-road, corner of Burdett-road, E. Bro. E. Gotthei occupied th chair. There were also present Bros. Huggett S.W., Hogard J.W., T. J. Barnes P.M. Treasurer, Geo. Hollington Secretary, Rawley jun. I.G., and a number of ordinary members. It was intended that this meeting should be of a preliminary character, for the purpose of confirming the minutes relating to the proceedings of the committee which had met on the Monday previous. The Lodge having been formally opened, the minutes were unanimously confirmed. Bro. Barnes then read the minutes referring to the resolution of the members of the Eastern Star Lodge of Instruction, No. 93, to merge its interests with that of the Tredegar Lodge, and these were also adopted. Several important points were suggested, by different members, having for their object to promote the well-being of the Lodge, all of which are intended to be embodied in the bye-laws. Bro. Huggett was elected to preside at the next meeting, and on that occasion, after a ceremony has been worked, propositions will be received relative to arrangements to be made for the inauguration of the new Lodge, part of which will probably consist in the working of the ceremonies of consecration and installation, a brother of eminence to be invited to perform the important duty. Six brethren were enrolled as members, after which the Lodge was closed, and the brethren separated.

THE DRAMA.

Pygmalion and Galatea at the Haymarket.

THE announcement of the intended revival of Mr. Gilbert's mythological comedy, Pygmalion and Galatea, attracted a large and enthusiastic audience to the HAYMARKET on Saturday last. Idyllic grace and racy humour are here combined with a pathetic and dramatic story; and the result is a comedy which is eminently calculated both to amuse the fancy and to touch the heart. Many playgoers will remember the brilliant success achieved by Mrs. Kendal in the part of Galatea on the first production of the play. Mr. Gilbert has himself admitted that it rests very much with the two principal ladies of the piece to make or mar its success. And certainly there can be no doubt that Mrs. Kendal did a great deal to secure for the comedy the general favour then bestowed upon it. The revival, however, is less fortunate in its representative of the principal character. Miss Marion Terry, who now appears as Galatea, is manifestly inadequate to the requirements of so important a part. Galatea is no ingénue, no mere blushing school girl, or Dorothy Druce, but a perfect type of womanhood, with a woman's love, a woman's pity, a woman's capacity of grief, and only the inexperience of a child. When Galatea is uttering her naïf speeches, Miss Terry is not ineffective, but in the scenes where love, distraction, grief, or despair have to be portrayed, her deficiencies are painfully apparent. The part of Cynisca is more happily interpreted. Miss Hodson is an actress with a natural power of pathetic expression, and she is besides a more experienced artiste. Her acting throughout is excellent. Mr. Harcourt gives a less finished interpretation of the character of Pygmalion than his predecessor, Mr. Kendal; but it is not wanting in a certain dignity and power. Mr. Buckstone is, of course, in his element in a part like Chryses, and the humour of the part could not be better rendered. Mrs. Chippendale is also most effective in the character of Daphne, and Mr. Howe presents a manly and soldier-like portrait of the martial Leucippe. Miss Harris, as Myrene, is hardly suited to her character. The play is well mounted, and has been enthusiastically received during the entire week. The comedy is preceded by a pleasant one-act comedy, entitled Follow the Leader, which is cleverly acted by Miss Kathleen Irwin and Mr. Herbert, and followed by the fanciful conceit, Birds in their Little Nests Agree.

"TWENTY MINUTES IN CONDUIT STREET. —Time is precious just now, no doubt, to those who are left in town, and are making preparations for their exodus to the moors; but those who are going northwards for a campaign against the grouse might well spare at least twenty minutes for a visit to Conduit-street, where Ulster House, as usual, offers seasonable attractions. Among these, we would particularly call attention to Mr. Benjamin's new 'Shooting Smock,' an ingeniously-constructed garment, which ought to be exceedingly popular among sportsmen, both on the moors and in covert-shooting. We cannot pretend to describe it accurately—indeed, it must be seen to be understood and appreciated. But one of the chief and most novel features is the arrangement by which the pockets, when filled, project from the wearer's person, so as not in any way to impede his movements when walking. How great an advantage this is no one who has tramped on a hot August day over the moors needs to be told. But we have not yet exhausted the merits of Mr. Benjamin's new 'Shooting Smock.' In addition to the pockets, there is a capital plan for carrying the cartridge-belt, which distributes the weight evenly over the loins, and is a great improvement upon anything of the kind we have yet seen. The 'Team-driving Coat' is another autumn novelty. In planning this garment, Mr. Benjamin has principally had in view the inconvenience which the driver suffers from rain pelting against his coat in front and finding its way through the interstices between each button. Mr. Benjamin obviates this discomfort by making his driving-coat to button behind. It is easily slipped on, and when the cape attached to it is thrown round his shoulders the driver may defy the elements at their worst. He is as impervious to wet as if he were arrayed in a Boyton suit. Moreover, this 'Team-driving Coat,' like Goldsmith's chest of drawers in the 'Deserted Village,' 'contrives a double debt to pay,' for when the rain has ceased, the wearer can, by loosening the belt, slip it down over his knees and use it as a travelling-rug. Nor are the comforts of this new article of attire confined to the sterner sex. Mr. Benjamin, as usual, with the gallantry which has always characterised him, is resolved that the gentlemen shall have no monopoly of his skill and ingenuity, but that the ladies shall also enjoy all the conveniences of the 'Team-driving Coat;' and accordingly, he makes these coats so as to suit the requirements of fair teamstresses. Those who will wisely follow our advice and spare just twenty minutes for a visit to Ulster House, will, we are sure, have constant reason during the autumn holidays to congratulate themselves on having done so."—Sporting Gazette, August 5, 1876.

"BENJAMIN'S UNIVERSAL COAT. — Notwithstanding the many novelties introduced by Mr. BENJAMIN, of Conduit-street, we fancy his latest, called the 'Universal,' surpasses anything of the kind ever made by him. It supplies every requisite, whether for travelling, walking, riding, driving, shooting, fishing, hunting, or coursing. It is warm, but not heavy, and perfectly waterproofed by a new process, which permits the free escape of perspiration. There are a cape, hood, gun-flap, band, &c., which can be shifted when not required; and altogether it is an invaluable garment for sporting gentlemen."—Bell's Life.

NOVELTIES IN DRESS.

"The time is now rapidly arriving when the demand for ladies' cloth articles of clothing will be great; and Mr. Benjamin, with his usual forethought, has been busy preparing some suitable novelties—among them a Driving Cloak, which has many merits which will commend it worthily to the notice of the fair sex. Norfolk Jackets will still be worn, and there is an improvement in the cut which makes them more becoming, being gathered closer into the band. The 'Smock,' which we have already introduced to our readers, is now made long enough to wear over a cloth petticoat, or a cloth petticoat bordered with leather, without the skirt of the dress if found more convenient; and the capes now made to the so-called frock-coats for ladies have a recent improvement (which has found so much favour with gentlemen), viz., an additional spring over the shoulder, protecting it better in case of rain, and giving more breadth to the figure. The Stone Heather Mixture is a favourite shade for tweed dresses this season."—The Queen, August 5, 1876.

THE PRINCE'S RINK COSTUME.

"Mr. Benjamin, of Ulster House, Conduit-street, has introduced a new rinking costume, and named it after the London rink that takes the lead. It combines many qualities certain to render it a notable success. The material is soft tweed—West of England tweed; it is devoid of ornament—and yet it is not plain; for by an ingenious method of shrinking the cloth, and then tucking it, the jacket and lower part of the skirt are covered with tiny tucks run in the cloth, and following the curves and lines of the figure. These tucks have a ridge-like effect, as though braid were standing in upright lines on the cloth; but, to achieve this, many experiments and many failures have been made before this remarkable success resulted. The suit consists of a narrow skirt with longitudinal tucks from the knees downwards, a square tunic (to be worn when not rinking), a close-fitting jacket or basque boddice tucked all over; a pair of gaiters to the knee; and a cap; all of the same tweed as the costume. From the difficulty of tucking the cloth so that the lines accord with the figure, this novelty will not become common, for the good reason that only first-rate material and highly-skilled workmanship can produce it."—The Queen, February 26, 1876.

THE

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. V.—No. 110. SATURDAY, 3rd FEBRUARY 1877. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

APPROACHING FESTIVAL OF THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

ABOUT the beginning of the new year it becomes our duty to bring under the notice of our readers the strong claims to their support of one of our three Masonic Charities, to wit, the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Masons. Ordinarily, perhaps, there is little to be said in its behalf that is new. Every Craftsman knows full well the nature and extent of the benefits it is intended to confer, and who and what manner of persons they are who are entitled to become the recipients of those benefits. As a rule, therefore, a short yet earnest reminder that the Annual Festival is close at hand is sufficient. This year, however, there are several reasons why we should exceed the limits of an ordinary notice. In the first place, the chair will be taken by the new Provincial Grand Master of Oxfordshire, His Royal Highness Prince Leopold. It will, indeed, be his first public appearance in London since his appointment to that office. It may reasonably be expected, therefore, that the Craft generally will exhibit their sense of the Prince's kindness by freely and enthusiastically supporting him. It is not the easiest task in the world to preside on such an occasion. Many an older and more experienced man has before now excused himself from undertaking so serious a responsibility. Our brethren, therefore, must make this particular Festival a more than usually memorable one in the annals of Masonic Charity. But this is only one out of several reasons. We have been congratulating ourselves for some time on the successes which have attended the Festivals of our different Charities. We have noted with a great deal of pleasure the large increase that has appeared annually in the total amount subscribed. Last year, indeed, was the most successful of all, and an aggregate sum but very little short of £40,000 was passed into the coffers of our three Charities. We have every reason to be satisfied with so laudable an evidence of the zeal and assiduity of the officials of the different Institutions, and the Stewards who assisted them to such purpose. It is also a satisfaction to know that the Craft is so enthusiastic in its devotion to that Charity, which holds so conspicuous a place among the fundamental principles of our Society. But the satisfaction we have just recorded is far from being as complete as we should like it to be. Our Institutions are very far from being able to meet the great and increasing demands upon their resources, and the support that is accorded to them is far from being as general as it should be throughout the Craft. Those who have taken the trouble to ponder over the analyses we have made from time to time of the different subscription lists, must have noticed with some degree of surprise, perhaps, how often certain of our Lodges—how seldom others—figure in them. We are sensible that this is far from being a perfectly satisfactory test of the value that is generally attached to the claims of Charity. Many lodges, as well as many members, do all their good as secretly as possible. Still we are all so proud of the institutions which are indebted for their existence and support to the Fraternity of Masons, that it seems more than passing strange the support they meet with should not be universal throughout the Order. As years go on we shall doubtless find that all who are Masons in more than name contribute directly to the funds of our Boys' or Girls' School or to the Benevolent. Meanwhile, it is well that our readers should not labour under the impression that these Charities are as well furnished with means of support as they should be. We have it, on almost the highest possible authority in our Craft, that no one of our Charities will ever appeal in vain for the needful funds in order to enable it to fulfil the purpose for which it was founded. We are inclined to regard this utterance as evidence of a wise prescience in the eminent brother who made it. No one knows better than he how necessary it is that even greater sums should be raised annually, so that our Charities may keep pace with the demands that are made upon them. Therefore his perfectly justifiable trust in the readiness of the Craft to be at all times up and doing its devoirs manfully must be taken as ominous of good in the year we have just entered upon. Let us return, however, to the strong record of facts and figures, and learn in the case of the Benevolent Institution the very important lesson they teach.

As our readers are aware the number of male annuitants who enjoy the benefits of this Charity is one hundred and thirty. There are one hundred and thirteen widows, three of whom were taken on last summer in accordance with a law of the Institution, which provides that octogenarians who have failed twice at the ballot shall be taken on without further trial. Therefore, leaving these out of the reckoning, as being only a chance addition to the strength of the establishment, we find there are just two hundred and forty annuitants, male and female together, while there are, besides, twelve widows, each of whom receives the half of her late husband's annuity. Last year, again, the annuities payable to these worthy brethren and widows of brethren were increased in amount by £4, and thus by a stroke of the pen an addition was made to the normal expenditure of the Institution of £970. Thus the total amount which must be provided annually, merely in order to keep faith with the public, is a little over £8,700. If to these be added the pensions of the three chance annuitants (octogenarians), and the twelve widows who receive the moieties of their late husbands' respective benefices, we find the whole sum payable in annuities is slightly in excess of £9,000, all which must be provided annually by the Craft, even though the benefits of the Institution should never be extended beyond their present limits. Thus far, we have a picture of what is being done by this Charity, or to state it more specifically, of what, with the largest amount of contributions that has ever been reached, it is capable of doing. If we now turn to consider the number of vacancies to be filled next May, and the number of approved candidates already on the lists, we find that as regards the male establishment, eight vacancies have been announced, while the number of candidates is thirty-six. On the female establishment there are three of the former, and thirty-five of the latter. Thus, at the next election in May, there will, taking the two funds together, be, so far as we know at present, just seventy-one candidates for eleven vacancies, that is, a ratio of six and a half of the one to one of the other. From this it will be manifest to our readers that the Benevolent Institution is very, very far from being equal to the demands made upon its resources. As the numerical strength of the Craft increases, so shall we find there are more claimants on the different Charities. Our first care is to provide for meeting all our existing engagements, our next that the number of beneficiaries shall be increased from time to time as the demand upon us becomes heavier. If things are managed well, and the Craft generally is responsive to the call of duty, it should be in our power to announce an addition next spring to the number both of male and female annuitants. It will be a sad thing indeed, if it should be found impossible to provide for more, and to know that sixty old people (taking the men and women together), many of whom it may be said are tottering on the verge of the grave, must be left out in the cold for another twelve months. Be it remembered, there is no autumnal election in the case of this Charity, and a person who fails to obtain a sufficiency of votes this spring will have to wait till next for another opportunity of trying. An addition not greatly exceeding £2000, to the amount of subscriptions reached last February, will enable the Governing Body to place all the present applicants on the fund. Is it too much to hope that this comparatively small sum may be realised on the 12th instant? It would, indeed be a most excellent way of showing to Prince Leopold that his first appearance as President at one of our Charity Festivals is fully and universally appreciated.

But we are far from having exhausted our tale of reasons why something special must be done at the approaching Anniversary. As our readers are aware, the accounts of the Benevolent Institution are set forth under two funds—the Male and Female respectively. In the Male fund account, after all needful provision had been made for the year's expenditure, there was remaining at the end of last year the very munificent balance of £170 to carry forward. This is but little more than enough to provide for four additional annuitants on the assumption that as much is forthcoming for the expenses of this year as was contributed last. On the other hand, the Female fund has actually a balance on the wrong side of the account, to the extent of £288, which is exactly the amount payable to nine annuitants. Thus, after all the efforts of the past year—and we have pointed out how successful they were—the accounts of the Male show only a trifling balance in hand, while those of the Female fund show a deficit but little short of three hundred pounds.

It remains for us to recapitulate the reasons why the Festival of Monday week deserves to be a great success. The newly-appointed Provincial Grand Master of Oxfordshire will preside. The Charity is already committed to the very large annual expenditure, in the shape of annuities alone, of £9,000. The number of candidates is vastly in excess of the number of vacancies. Last, but not least, the Male Fund has only a small balance in hand, and there is a deficit on the Female Fund. We trust we are not over-sanguine, and that when the eventful day comes, our excellent Bro. Terry will find that his 260 Stewards—and there is still time for this number to be increased—have obtained not only enough for the existing requirements of the R.M.B.I., but likewise enough to allow of all the candidates being placed on the Fund at the election in May next.

THE WORK OF A SINGLE LODGE.

WE have more than once noted that Manchester Lodges have latterly not played a very conspicuous part at the Anniversary Festivals of our several Charitable Institutions. We have recently been favoured with a Manchester Lodge Balance Sheet for the year 1876, and we confess, with feelings of the greatest pleasure, that their deeds of charity are far in excess of the average of our Lodges. It is evident then that the bare contribution of a Lodge, or its absence from a List is no criterion as to the charitable work it accomplishes. This may, perhaps, be a model case. Let us hope, however, that it is only one out of a considerable number who vie with each other in the amount of service they may be able to render to our different institutions.

The Lodge in question is Integrity, No. 163, and its statement of accounts is eminently satisfactory. It entered upon the year 1876 with a balance in hand of a few shillings over £275, namely, cash in Bank £171, in Treasurer's hands £4 8s, and twenty Masonic Hall Shares, value £5 each, £100. Its fees of all kinds and subscriptions represented close on £340, while minor receipts exceeded £7, showing a total on the Dr. side of £622 3s 10d. In the way of expenditure we find that the St. John's Festival cost £28 13s; the Stewards' account for teas and refreshment cost together £106 13s 2d; rent £40 1s; sundry expenses, such as stationery, postage, tyler, collars, &c. £44 6d; and Grand Lodge and Provincial Grand Lodge Fees together £37 18s, or a total of £257 11s 2d. The expenditure on Benevolent Account is represented by no less a sum than £216 3s, of which £100 represents a donation to the "East Lancashire Systematic Masonic Educational and Benevolent Fund;" fifty guineas the amount presented to the Masonic Boys' School; and fifty guineas to the Manchester Warehousemen and Clerks' Orphan Schools. £2 15s was given to a lady, and two guineas each to the Boys', Girls', and Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and East Lancashire Benevolent Fund. Thus, the whole outlay reached £473 14s 2d, leaving a balance of £148 9s 8d, consisting of cash in bank £36 3s 11d, Do. in Treasurer's hands £12 3s 9d, and twenty Masonic Shares £100: total £625 3s 10d. This, our readers will readily enough admit, is an admirable balance sheet for last year. When, however, we come to examine the rest of the statement we have received we find the good done by the Integrity is far more considerable. Up to the present time the Lodge has contributed 160 guineas to the General Fund of the Boys' School, and eighty guineas to the Building Fund. For the former it is entitled to forty-two votes annually in perpetuity, for the latter to thirty-two votes. Thus the sum it has contributed to this Charity amounts in all to £252, and the votes to which it is entitled are seventy-four, together with four more for the annual subscription of two guineas. These votes are thus distributed. The W.M. is a Vice President, and has forty votes, the I.P.M. twenty-four votes, the Senior Warden ten votes, and the Treasurer ten votes. The donations to the Girls' amount to £189, and the equivalent is represented by thirty-three votes in perpetuity. Of these the W.M. has twenty-three votes, and the I.P.M. ten, while four others are due for the annual subscription of two guineas. Towards the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, the Lodge has also liberally contributed. Its donations to date to the Male Fund amount to £100, giving twenty votes annually in perpetuity, of which the W.M. as a Vice-President has ten, and the S.W. as ditto, likewise ten. Four additional votes result from the annual subscription of two guineas. Towards the Female Fund the Lodge has also subscribed £100, carrying the same number of votes, namely, twenty, which are divided equally between the W.M. and the J.W., each of whom receives, as a Vice-President, ten votes, the annual subscription of two guineas giving four other votes. The local Masonic Institution, that is, "The East Lancashire Systematic Masonic Educational and Benevolent Institution" has received to date donations to the amount of £100, for which the Lodge receives, as a patron, one hundred votes at every election. Over and above this the Lodge has contributed fifty-five guineas to the Manchester Warehousemen and Clerks' Orphan Institution, for which it is entitled to eleven votes annually for a period of twenty years from date of the different subscriptions. Thus Integrity has given in the aggregate to our three Masonic Charities, and the Local Charity the sum of £741, for which it is entitled 247 votes, or, with the sixteen additional for annual subscriptions, 263; while with its contribution to the local Non-Masonic Institution its disbursements in the way of Charity have thus far been only five and twenty shillings short of £800, exclusive of the usual disbursements of a like nature to individuals.

Here, then, we have a Manchester Lodge which disbursed in Charity last year a sum representing close upon fifty per cent. of its total expenditure. Creature comforts in the interests of good fellowship are not forgotten. We do not, indeed, think the work of the Lodge would be done so well if they were. But the fourth degree is not studied to the exclusion of the true principles of our Craft. We are not of those who consider that one man who gives £5 is like charitable than he who gives £100. On the contrary, if the former sum is more truly in accordance with the donor's means than the latter, we think it a far worthier example to follow. In this case not far short of half the annual income of the Lodge has been disbursed, for one year at all events, in charity, and we consider it so brilliant an example of what may be done that we have taken upon ourselves to write these few lines, in the hope that other Lodges may follow in the footsteps of this Manchester Lodge.

Having, as we said at the outset, noted particularly that the Manchester Lodges made but a very indifferent figure in the last three or four subscription lists at our Anniversary Festivals, we drew attention in somewhat marked terms to the conspicuousness of their absence. Now that we have had an opportunity of analysing the year's account of one of these Lodges, and find it has so strenuously obeyed the call of duty in this particular matter of charity, we feel we are only observing the common rules of justice in drawing the attention of our readers to the particulars we have noted above. We can only add, in conclusion, that we trust Integrity may go on prospering, and may be able to practise our chief Masonic virtue as freely in the future as in the past.

Obituary.

Our esteemed Bro. John Coutts, P.G.P. P.M. 27, &c. has sustained a severe loss by the death of his wife, which sad event took place on the 27th ult. The deceased lady will be sorely missed by her sorrowing husband and family.

It is with deep regret we announce the death, on Wednesday, after a brief illness, extending over nine days only, of Bro. William Lane, Collector to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. Bro. Lane was only in his thirtieth year. His friends, therefore, must, in the ordinary course of things, have looked forward to his being able to perform very many years of good sterling work. It has happened otherwise, however, and Bro. Lane has died in the prime of his early manhood, leaving a widow and one young child to mourn his loss. Bro. Lane was initiated into Freemasonry on the 23rd January 1871, in the Old King's Arms Lodge, No. 28. In 1875 he served the office of W.M., and on quitting the chair was presented with a P.M.'s jewel in token of the great value his lodge placed upon his services. In July 1873 he was exalted, in Mount Lebanon Chapter, No. 73. Bro. Lane was chosen to the office of Collector in December 1873, and ever since had most efficiently discharged his duties. Let us hope that the G.A.O.T.U. will vouchsafe his widow strength to bear up under this affliction.

We have received tidings of the death of Bro. Louis Lewis, which took place at his residence, King-street, at Kingston, Jamaica, on 7th December. Bro. Lewis held the position for many years of Assistant Inspector of Invoices of H.M. Customs, at Kingston, Jamaica. He held formerly the position of Collector of Taxes. By his death, in this community, the poor man has lost a friend; he was a father to the fatherless, and it made no difference of what religion or colour the applicant was. He held the proud position of Past Master, for forty years, of the Friendly Lodge in this city, and was able to see his two sons installed as Masters of that Lodge. His remains were followed to their last resting place by a large number of brethren of the Friendly and other Lodges in the province. He died at the ripe age of 78 years. The Masonic fraternity have lost a good supporter of the rituals and regulations of the order. He was interred in the Jewish cemetery. He was a lover and strict observer of his religion.

We announce also the death of Bro. Marshall M. Harris, J.D. No. 1470, which took place on the 24th January. His funeral was attended by about twenty of his brethren. We extract the following from the Dunstable Gazette:—

"The deceased gentleman was a Freemason, a member of the Chiltern Lodge, 1470, and on the afternoon preceding the funeral the members who could be communicated with on such short notice were invited by the officers to assemble at the Town Hall, at 1.15, and accordingly there was a muster of as many gentlemen belonging to the Lodge as could, on a busy day, at so short a notice, be spared from their business engagements. Their carriages preceded the procession in the order following, and the brethren lined the porch of the mortuary chapel by the time the body was ready to be borne therein:—

"In the first carriage were Mr. J. Stevenson, Mr. M. Rest, Mr. Crow, and Mr. Latham.

"In the second carriage were Capt. Teale, Mr. Beart, Mr. Ballans, and Mr. Rowland Cutler.

"In the third carriage were Mr. Otway, Mr. Sinkwell, Mr. Randall, and Mr. T. W. Haselgrove.

"The officiating clergy were the Rev. F. Hose M.A., the rector, and the Rev. C. B. Harris M.A., the uncle of the deceased. The coffin, of plain black, with handsome white furniture, covered with a pall, on which was laid a wreath and a cross of immortelles, was met at the entrance by the Rev. C. B. Harris, who read the introductory sentences of the services with marked solemnity. Inside the building, the mourners having taken their places in the very limited accommodation provided for them, the Rev. F. Hose continued the service; which being ended, the procession re-formed, and having taken up their positions round the open grave, the Rev. C. B. Harris concluded the service, and with the deepest emotion committed the body to the tomb, in sure and certain hope of a glorious resurrection at the last day.

"Immediately upon the conclusion of the religious ceremonial, which had been specially impressive,—

"Bro. F. Howell P.M. of the Chiltern Lodge, 1470, came forward, and standing at the head of the open grave, delivered—with much feeling—the following short Masonic address:—'My friends and brethren of the Chiltern Lodge,—The Gavel of the Supreme Ruler of this Universe has sounded, and summoned our dear departed friend and brother to quit this sublunary abode and ascend to those immortal mansions whence all goodness emanates. Few and feeble are the words of testimony to his worth which around this open grave, and in the presence of his relatives and friends, I can speak. Those who are nearest and dearest to him know how affectionate he was as a son; I can declare how true and steadfast a friend he proved, and we all, brethren, know how faithful a brother he was. He lived respected, and he died regretted. He was one to whom the burdened heart might pour forth its sorrows; to whom the distressed might prefer their suit; his hand was ever guided by justice, and his heart expanded by benevolence. Sure I am, from his consistency of life, that he has laid up for himself a crown of joy and rejoicing which shall continue now that time, on earth, is with him no more. May the Great Architect of the Universe, having mercy on his soul, grant him rest and give him peace.

"Response—So mote it be."

Our mournful duties, this week, are not yet over; as we go to press we hear of the sudden death of Bro. Charles Gosden, long associated with the Freemasons' Tavern, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, Coleman street, and latterly of the Inns of Court Hotel. Bro. Gosden died early this (Friday) morning.

THE first annual meeting of the patrons, life governors, and subscribers to the above Institution—the object of which is the formation of a Charity Fund amongst the Leeds Lodges for the education, partial maintenance and advancement in life of the orphans of deceased brethren, and of the children of brethren who have become incapacitated (by sickness or accident) from properly providing for their families—was held at the Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds, on Monday, the 22nd January, at seven o'clock in the evening, when the following brethren were elected officers for the ensuing year:—

President—Bro. Thomas Schofield P.M. 306.
Vice-Presidents—Bro. Henry Inchbold P.M. 289, and Bro. Townsend 1211.

This Institution is intended to supplement the work at present carried on by the noble institutions already established in or near London, by extending relief to those children who, by reason of their age or other circumstances, cannot by any possibility gain admittance into the larger institutions. It also purposes assisting in a similar manner the children of brethren who cannot—from the reduced circumstances of their parents—attain a proper education to fit them to take respectable positions in society.

Although the Institution is only just established, subscriptions exceeding £300 have been paid and promised, and the promoters are of opinion that they shall be able, for some years, at least, to carry on the work of the Institution by means of the annual subscriptions alone, thereby enabling them to capitalize the monies paid by patrons and life governors, or, at all events, without seriously drawing on that fund.

CHARLES LOWREY, Secretary.

Leeds, 26th January 1877.

The second concert of the St. Andrews City Amateur Musical Society took place at the Grapes Hotel, Jewin-street, under the direction of Brother F. T. Dawson, on Wednesday evening. There were about 130 present. Several gentlemen, although amateurs, rendered valuable service. Bro. Dawson played Auber's overture to "Gustave." A recitation was rendered by Mr. Gill. A humorous song was sung by Mr. Hamilton. Mr. North played a solo on the piano. Mr. A. C. Scarle sang the song of "Sweethearts," and this was followed by a humorous selection by Mr. Weston. Mr. J. Airey sang sweetly. Mr. Eustace gave "The Message." Messrs. Hart, Foote, G. B. Dawson, A. L. Green, Hislop, G. Henry, Campbell, A. H. Lay, Dalby, &c., contributed some excellent songs, and Bro. Dawson was loudly applauded in the "Little Fat Gray Man."

HUGHAN'S LIST OF LODGES, A.D. 1734.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Permit me a brief space in your columns, in order to reply to Bro. Hughan's communication of last week.

1. If Bro. Hughan is prepared with evidence that No. 13 in Pine's List, held, in 1734, in the neighbourhood of Covent Garden, is one and the same with the Lodge at the Crown, in Cripplegate, to which a Warrant was granted in 1723, and which, in 1748, removed to Chatham, in Kent, then I accept his location of No. 20.

2. I am quite satisfied about Pine's No. 35. But in this and the former case, I offered only suggestions, not arguments, and I was at the pains of pointing out that these suggestions rested on a very unsubstantial basis.

3. The Strong Man Lodge. Let us hope the mystery may be cleared up sooner or later.

4. I must point out to Bro. Hughan that my argument, as appended to his letter in your issue of the 20th ult., is wholly independent of the note I quoted from Oliver's edition of the Illustrations of Masonry, so far as the authorship of the note is concerned. I have but one edition of the work, and my time has been too occupied to allow of my comparing it with any of its predecessors. I was wrong in making no allowance for the oversights of editors, and accepted the insertion of the words "(in 1820)" after "is still extant," as indicative of the date when the note was written, and by whom. But without, perhaps, remarking it at the time, Bro. Hughan's statement that "Bro. Preston himself" inserted the note, "in the 1788 edition," materially strengthens my argument, that it was old No. 3 which received a new Warrant in 1722-3, appears in Pine's List as No. 11, in the 1738 as No. 10, and is now—though, of course, shorn of all its time immemorial privileges—in existence as No. 18. We agree that old No. 2, as numbered in Pine's, died between 1734 and 1738. Preston's note, inserted, as Bro. Hughan says, in his 1788 edition, says, that Old Time Immemorial, No. 2, "has been extinct above fifty years, by the death of its members." This then exactly corresponds with the time when No. 2 of Pine's became extinct. Exactly fifty years from 1788 bring us to 1738, and "above fifty years" fairly meets the case, coinciding, as it does, with the death of Pine's, No. 2, between 1734 and 1738. Under these circumstances, I do not see that I am wrong in maintaining the following position, taking as the basis of my statement Preston's note, Pine's, Rawlinson's, and the 1738 Lists, and Bro. Hughan's latest observations. The old No. 2 of 1717 is Pine's No. 2 of 1734, and died some time between the latter year and 1738. Preston writes in 1788, that old No. 2 "has been extinct above fifty years," which agrees essentially as to time with the extinction of Pine's No. 2, and bears out what I have said, that no trace whatever now remains of the second in numerical order of the four old Lodges of 1717. Old No. 3, writes Preston, obtained a new Constitution, though it "wanted it not," in 1722-3, met at the Queen's Head, Knaves' Acre, and is No. 10 in the 1738 List. This No. 10 agrees as to location and date of Warrant with No. 11 of Pine's in 1744. Bro. Hughan accepts this as the result of the demise, in the interim, of No. 2. He also suggests that this No. 10 is our present No. 18. Putting all these together, I say, Old Time Immemorial No. 3, of its own free will, surrendered its ancient privileges in 1722-3, obtainining a new Warrant of Constitution, which it wanted not, and meeting at the Queen's Head, in Knaves' Acre. We find this, or at least a Lodge answering in all essential particulars to this, included in Pine's and Rawlinson's Lists as No. 11. Preston says, distinctly, it is the No. 10 of 1738, and, if Bro. Hughan's suggestion is right, it is now our No. 18. I recur, then, to my former statement that the old Lodges, Nos. 1, 3 and 4, of 1717, will be found in the present Nos. 2, 4 and 18; No. 1 of the former being No. 2 of the latter, No. 4 of the former No. 4 of the latter, and No. 3 of the former (but shorn of its old privileges) No. 18 of the latter.

I highly appreciate Bro. Hughan's complimentary remark in the concluding paragraph of his letter of last week. I wish, for his sake, I had better materials at hand to guide me, for then I feel I should be in a better position to second his laudable efforts to promote the more certain knowledge of Masonic History. In the present fraternal argument, I have, I think, been able to supplement my own scanty materials in the way of lists, &c., by employing one or two of his statements.

Fraternally yours,

ART IN HOSPITALS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—All who have any acquaintance with the interiors of our London hospitals must have been struck by the excessive dreariness of most of the wards. It is time that this should be remedied. A little energy on the part of a few philanthropists and artists, aided by subscriptions from the general public, would suffice to accomplish this improvement. I advocate the brightening of the wards, and the cheering of their inmates, by the addition of suitable pictures, plate, bronzes, carvings, bric-à-brac, old armour, china, sculpture, ornamental clocks, fancy glass, tasteful glazed tiles, and other art decorations of all sorts.

To promote this object I will give a hundred guineas, provided that a thousand other donors each subscribes an equal or larger sum before the 1st of May 1877. A responsible committee being formed, I believe that Messrs Roberts, Lubbock, and Co. will act as bankers to this fund. Soon I hope that some public place will be granted as a provisional storehouse of and exhibition for art contributions, previous to their distribution to the hospitals of London. Intending donors, contributors and subscribers are invited to communicate with

Early History and Transactions of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York, 1781-1815. Part VII. Published by authority of the Grand Lodge. Granted to Kane Lodge, No. 454, June 1874. New York: Masonic and Miscellaneous Publishers, No. 2 Bleecker-street; D. Sickels and Co., Managers. 1876.

THIS Part carries us nearly to the end of the year 1807, and as in the case of previous parts, we propose to lay before our readers a summary of the most salient features. In the first recorded minute we find Bro. Jacob Norton re-elected Grand Master, but this is almost the only minute worth mentioning, except that sundry petitions for the erection of new Lodges, are presented and dealt with on their merits, one to hold a Lodge at Sag Harbour, on Suffolk Coasts, being granted, while three others were referred to the Grand Officers. On the 5th of September 1804, there was no Grand Lodge held, the attendance of members being insufficient to form a quorum. On the 5th December further petitions were presented. It is also recorded that Ontario Lodge, No. 23, remitted the sum of Thirty Dollars, in full discharge of its dues to the 5th of November, and praying the acceptance of a yearly payment of eight dollars in lieu of the dues annually payable by the Lodge. The thirty dollars are accepted as a discharge of former dues, but the Grand Lodge expresses its opinion that it "cannot with propriety or constitutionally compound for an equivalent for the future annual dues" of the Lodge. A resolution is also minuted, "authorizing the Grand Master to appoint Inspectors in such districts of this State as he should think proper, to visit the several Lodges in such districts, to promote uniformity in this mode of working, to collect their dues, &c." After some consideration this important resolution was referred to a Special Committee, who were directed to report on the subject at the next meeting. No immediate action, however, was taken, and it is not till the meeting held on 4th December 1805, that we find the subject again referred to, and a motion recorded that the original Committee be discharged, and a new one, consisting of the Deputy Grand Master, the Senior Grand Warden and the Grand Secretary, appointed in his stead. On the 19th February 1806, the new Committee reported a Law on the subject, the nature of which is not stated, but which, we are told, "was read by paragraphs, amended, and passed, and ordered to be entered in a book to be provided by the Grand Secretary for such purpose. At this meeting it was further resolved that a Committee be appointed for the purpose of drafting a circular address to the different Lodges under the jurisdiction of Grand Lodge, "explaining and enforcing the principles and duties of Masonry, which should accompany the notification to them, of the law just mentioned, and the appointment of Grand Visitors under it." This Committee, as afterwards appointed, consisted of the Senior Grand Warden, Past Master Sanford, and the Grand Secretary. But to return to the regular sequence of the proceedings, from which we have digressed, for the purpose of following up this subject. At the Grand Lodge held on 6th March 1805, amongst the petitions for new Lodges, was one by Bro. General "Rey" and others, for a new French Lodge, to be known by the style and title of Lodge "La Sincérité." This petition was at once granted, and subsequently Bro. "Rey" was introduced into Grand Lodge, and delivered an address in French, to which a Committee was appointed for the purpose of preparing a suitable reply. A squabble in Union Lodge, City of Albany, was referred to a Select Committee, and it was further resolved that Committees be appointed, (a) to inquire and report upon a suitable place of meeting for Grand Lodge after the 1st of May following, and (b) to examine into the books and accounts belonging respectively to the departments of the Grand Secretary, Grand Treasurer, "and to report a statement of the same, and of the funds belonging to Grand Lodge." On the 5th June of the same year occurs the re-election of Bro. Jacob Norton as Grand Master, and the election of the other Grand Officers; and when propositions to the effect that certain amounts should be accepted in full discharge of all dues by Otsego and Rensselaer Lodges had been agreed to, we read that "a communication from the Grand Lodge of England was read and ordered to be filed." It is also announced that certain differences existing between certain members of Union Lodge, Albany, had been amicably adjusted. Subsequently a resolution is unanimously passed "that the Grand Secretary do hereafter apply to his private use the salary and emoluments attached to his office." At a Grand Lodge of Emergency, held on 13th June, communications from the Grand Lodges of Massachusetts, New Jersey, Virginia, and Kentucky were read and referred to the Grand Secretary, with directions to return suitable answers to each. A motion for a procession on St. John's Day was negatived. Directions, however, were issued to the Grand Treasurer "to purchase for the Grand Lodge a Bible, and also as many candlesticks and snuffers as he should think necessary for the use of the Lodge. Bro. Daniel D. Tompkins having resigned his office of Grand Secretary, it was announced that the Grand Master had appointed Bro. Wells as his successor, and Bro. Wells accordingly attended and fulfilled the duties of his new office on this occasion. On the 4th September an application for relief was made on behalf of the widow of the late Grand Secretary, Bro. Abrams, and a payment of 250 dollars out of the funds of Grand Lodge was unanimously ordered to be made to her. We also read that on this occasion, "A communication from the Grand Lodge of England, dated March 6th 5805, was read and filed, and the Grand Secretary directed to answer the same." There is also read a communication from the Grand Lodge of Maryland, to which the Grand Secretary is directed to return a suitable answer. It was then resolved that the Grand Secretary give notice to the Grand Tyler, to the effect that he will be expected to explain at the next meeting certain irregularities of conduct with which he was charged. Accordingly, at the next meeting, on 4th December 1805, the Grand Secretary reported that the Grand Tyler "had given assurance that the Grand Lodge should have no occasion to complain of him in future," and this assurance was deemed satisfactory. We note, further, among the minutes of this meeting, that Past Master Richard Lewis, having represented that he had been refused admission into the Adelphi Lodge at one of its regular meetings, and prayed that some order be made thereon, the representation is referred for report to a Committee of five. Two communications from the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, notifying sundry expulsions, were read and filed, and ordered to be answered, an order being likewise issued to the Grand Secretary that he notify the said expulsions to the different Lodges in the State of New York. A petition from Hiram Lodge, No. 27, to the effect that its Warrant of Constitution had been lost, and praying for a new one, having been submitted, it was resolved that a dispensation should be issued for twelve months, and then if the warrant were not found, that a new warrant should be issued as prayed. At the Grand Lodge, on 19th February 1806, a complaint made by certain members of Independent Royal Arch Lodge, No. 2, against the present Worshipful Master was referred to a Committee, of nine, "with full power to examine such persons and papers as they should think necessary, and report to the Grand Lodge the facts which should be disclosed on such examinations." We also note that a motion made by the Senior Grand Warden was carried, by which it was settled that "no person be admitted into the Grand Lodge after one hour from its opening." Reports to the effect that certain new Lodges had been duly installed having been read and ordered to be filed, Grand Lodge was closed. On the 5th March the Committee appointed to examine the accounts and papers of the late Grand Secretary, and also into the funds of Grand Lodge, delivered their report, which was approved, and as in such report it was stated that so much of it as referred to the Grand Lodge funds was imperfect, owing to the Grand Master's absence at Albany, it was further resolved that the Committee do perfect the same with the Grand Master, and report again. It was also resolved that the said Committee "invest so much of the funds of this Grand Lodge as to them shall seem proper, in such stock as they shall think will be most to the advantage of the Grand Lodge." Several petitions for new warrants were then submitted and dealt with, after which we find that "Union Lodge of the City of Albany having surrendered their Colonial Warrant, and prayed for a new one, by the name of Mount Vernon Lodge, of like rank with the old one, which was promised to them by the Most Worshipful Master and Junior Grand Warden, gratis, it was ordered to issue accordingly. In a foot note the editor draws attention to a memorandum on the same subject in the minutes of the 3rd of December 1806, and on reference to the latter, we find that another petition to the same effect was submitted and granted. On the 4th of June of this year, Bro. the Hon. De Witt Clinton was elected Grand Master, after which, and the election of other Grand Officers, it was unanimously resolved that a jewel or medal be presented to Past Grand Master Jacob Norton, in testimony of the high sense entertained of his past services and usefulness to the Fraternity. A Committee was then appointed to give effect to these resolutions. A Committee was likewise chosen to make the necessary arrangements for the installation of the new Grand Master, and this ceremony was duly performed at a Grand Lodge of Emergency held on the 19th of the same month, the Installing Officer appointed under the dispensation of the Past Grand Master being Bro. Hoffman. The latter having afterwards installed the other newly-elected Grand Officers, Grand Master Clinton delivered a very elegant address, "replete with Masonic instruction." It was subsequently resolved that a Committee wait on Grand Master Clinton, for the purpose of requesting from him a copy of his address with a view to its publication. A motion for a procession on St. John's Day was then negatived, but a petition from a number of brethren "confined within the limits of the prison of this city, praying for a special dispensation to open and hold a Lodge within the said limits, for the celebration of the ensuing festival," was granted. In the course of these meetings of Grand Lodge we find likewise minutes of the proceedings of Grand Stewards' Lodge, but as the matters recorded are chiefly of a financial character, we have not referred to them specially. We note, however, that from the Grand Secretary's account, presented on the 27th of August 1806, it appears that after payment of sums together amounting to [illegible] dollars, a balance remained of 247·75 dollars, the amount of dues received by the Grand Secretary from June 4th to August 27th, both dates inclusive, being 729·65 dollars. On the 3rd of September communications from the Grand Lodges of North Carolina and Tennessee were read and referred to a Committee. Subsequently, a communication from the Grand Lodge of England was read and ordered to be answered, and a list of the expulsions therein contained was ordered to be made out, and transmitted to the different Lodges in the State. Certain charges against the Master of St. John's Lodge, No. 6, and one of the Wardens of Mount Moriah Lodge, were referred to a Committee of seven, and sundry petitions for new Lodges granted or refused, among the former being one submitted to brethren praying to hold a Lodge in Sharon, Franklin county, State of Ohio, to be called the Aurora Lodge. At the Grand Stewards' Lodge on 26th November, application was made on behalf of two brethren hailing from Connecticut, who were desirous of returning to their native state, but who, owing to sickness, were destitute of funds. The application was referred to a committee of three brethren, with power to draw on the Grand Treasurer for such amount as they should deem fit. On the 3rd December, compositions by certain Lodges for the payment of their dues having been accepted, and several petitions granted for warrants to hold certain new Lodges, a motion was made to the effect that "no Lodges in this city shall, after six months from this time, be entitled to vote in this Grand Lodge, in any case whatever, if such Lodge shall not, within six months immediately preceding, have paid its dues to this Grand Lodge; and that no Lodge out of the said city, after eighteen months from this time, shall be entitled to vote in this Grand Lodge, in any case whatever, if such Lodge shall not within eighteen months immediately preceding have paid up its dues to this Grand Lodge." A very unusual entry occurs in the minutes of the Grand Lodge of 4th March 1817. The W.M. of Trinity Lodge, No. 10, stated that a candidate had been proposed for initiation in the Lodge over which he presided, "who had only one eye," and he expressed a wish to know the sense of Grand Lodge as "to whether it would be proper to make such a person a Mason." After some remarks the matter was referred to a Committee of seven, and their report, delivered at a Grand Lodge of Emergency, on the 10th June following, was to the effect that "the loss was such a defect as ought to preclude him from initiation into our mysteries." This report was agreed to. Among the petitions for new Lodges presented on the 4th March, was one from a number of brethren in Havanna for permission to erect a Lodge under the jurisdiction of the New York Grand Lodge, to be called "Le Temple de Bienfaisance." The petition was referred to the Grand Officers. At the meeting held on 3rd June, no less than thirty-nine Lodges were either actually represented, or represented by their proxies. On this occasion, Bro. Clinton was re-elected Grand Master, and the rest of the officers having been elected, the further business was adjourned, and the Lodge closed. At a Grand Lodge of Emergency on the 10th of the same month, after the transaction of certain business, it was again proposed to have a procession on St. John's Day, to which an amendment was moved, to the effect that a Masonic celebration be held on the occasion. Both propositions were negatived. Notice was also given by a Past Master, that at the next regular meeting, he would propose that "the fee to be paid for a warrant should be raised from twenty-five to fifty dollars." At the meeting on the 2nd September, among the petitions was one from some brethren in New Orleans, for the erection of a new Lodge, to be called the Louisiana. The petition had accidentally been mislaid by the brother to whom it had been entrusted, but the prayer was granted nevertheless. On this occasion we find that a letter was read from Bro. Isaiah Thomas, Past Grand Master of Massachusetts, to the effect that he had been ordered to call the attention of the Grand Lodge of New York to the inconvenience arising to some of the Lodges in the Massachusetts jurisdiction from the initiation fees being less in the New York Lodges, and requesting that the Grand Lodge of the latter would adopt measures for the promotion of union and harmony between the two Grand Lodges. The letter was referred to the Grand Officers. A notice of the proceedings of Grand Stewards' Lodge on the 25th November brings this part of the history to a close.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Queen is still at Osborne, with the Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold—the Duke of Connaught also having been on a visit to Her Majesty—where, doubtless, she will remain till within a few days of the opening of Parliament. On Saturday last Her Majesty's eldest grandchild, Prince William of Prussia, son of the Imperial Crown Prince of Germany and the Princess Royal of Great Britain and Ireland, attained the age of eighteen; and, in accordance with the law of Prussia, became of age. In honour of this event, the Queen has conferred upon the young Prince the order of the Garter. She has likewise made her son, Prince Leopold, a Knight Grand Commander of the Star of India. It is announced that Her Majesty will not hold an official Court this season. On the 2nd of March, however, she will hold a Drawing Room at Buckingham Palace, for the reception of the Corps Diplomatique, and another on the 14th of the same month. Two more will be held after Easter, of which due notice will be given. On the 18th and 26th instant His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will hold levées on behalf of Her Majesty at St. James's Palace. Presentations at these will be considered equivalent to presentations to the Queen. On Monday the Prince returned to Sandringham from London. It is probable that after a short stay there, he and the Princess will leave for London for the season.

Thursday next, the fourth Session of the present Parliament, will be opened by the Queen in person. Under these circumstances, Ministers have been holding Cabinet Councils very frequently, with a view, no doubt, to give the finishing touches to their programme for the year. No doubt, too, the close of the Conference and the new phase upon which the Eastern Question has entered has commanded their attention. It is, at least, a satisfaction to know that in a short time we shall be in possession of authoritative news of the stirring events which have been occurring since the prorogation in August last. For these reasons, too, we regret that any statesman or politician who has not been expressly called upon to speak in public should have gone out of his way to discuss questions the full knowledge of which is not yet before the public.

The Mansion House Fund, for the relief of the sufferers by the recent floods, had already reached the very respectable total of £8,500 on Friday last, when the Executive Committee met together for the dispatch of business. A number of sums were voted for the relief of sufferers in different parts of the country. A further meeting was fixed for Wednesday. It seems, however, as though there were further inundations in store for us. There was a terrific gale on Tuesday morning all over the country, and considerable damage both to life and property was the result. In the Metropolis, one or two very serious accidents occurred. One in Lambeth was caused by the fall of a scaffold, and another in the Gray's-Inn-road, by the fall of some chimneys. On Wednesday there was another overflow of the Thames, the tide in the afternoon rising some three feet above Trinity high water-mark. Fortunately, great precautions had been taken, so that the loss of property will not be so great as it might have been. At Richmond the river overflowed its banks, and some twenty or thirty acres of the old Deer Park are under water. In the station too, which, during the floods in the early part of the year, was inundated to the extent of some feet, there were quite six inches of water. A considerable amount of property has been destroyed at Margate. Philpott's Baths are nearly washed away, and all along the Marine Parade the roadway has been broken by the violence of the sea, while many houses in the High Street have also suffered. We hear a similar story from different parts of Essex, from Sittingbourne, from Warwickshire, and, indeed, throughout the country generally.

It seems that the Cattle Plague has again visited London, owing, we presume, to the importation of cattle from parts of Germany, where it is known there has been another outbreak more or less severe. In consequence, the Lords of the Council have issued orders forbidding the importation of beasts, &c., from certain countries, and against the movement of cattle from the Metropolis. We sincerely hope we are not going to have such another visitation as overtook us in 1865. Equally anxious are we that the butchers will not make this a reason for raising the price of meat, which is dear enough in all conscience already.

The action for libel brought by Mr. Metcalf and wife against Mr. Horace Wigan terminated on Wednesday, in a verdict for the plaintiffs, the jury awarding damages to the extent of £70. The libel complained of was uttered by Mr. Wigan, and imputed professional incompetency to Mrs. Metcalf, or, as she is known in dramatic circles, Miss Beauclerc. This, of course, was a very serious imputation, but the defendant justified it on the ground that it was true, his other line of defence being that the communication in which it was made was a privileged one. The evidence adduced by the plaintiffs was overwhelmingly in favour of Miss Beauclerc's ability. So, at least, the jury appear to have thought, from the verdict they delivered and the damages they awarded. While on legal matters we may mention, that "Dr. Slade's" appeal against his conviction last year, for obtaining money under false pretences, has been sustained, and the conviction is, therefore, quashed. It appears, however, that fresh summonses have been taken out, with a view to trying the case a second time. It should also be mentioned that Mr. Cobbett appeared on Wednesday, in the Court of Appeal, to appeal against a recent judgment of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Judicature, in an action he brought against Justice Field, to recover a penalty of £500 for refusing to issue a writ of Habeas Corpus, Mr. Cobbett's application, however, was dismissed by the Court with costs.

A new unarmoured cruiser, named the Euryalus, has been added to the strength of Her Majesty's fleet. The launch took place at Chatham on Wednesday, the ceremony of christening the new corvette being performed by Mrs. Stewart, the wife of Rear-Admiral Stewart, Controller of the Navy, in the presence of Rear-Admiral Fellowes, Superintendent of the Dockyard, and a large number of visitors. The ship is 280 feet in length, her extreme breadth 45 feet, and depth in hold 15 feet seven inches, burden close on 3,700 tons. She is built of iron, cased in wood, and is intended to form one of that flying squadron on which, in the event of war, would depend the harrying of an enemy's commerce and the defence of our own. She is neither strong enough to resist the big guns of the day, nor will her intended armament be strong enough to penetrate the sides of armoured vessels. Her speed, however, will be very great. While on the subject of our defences, we may state that a further series of experiments with the 81-ton gun was begun on Thursday morning, the object being to test its efficacy with shell against a massive target representing the side of a ship of moderate thickness, the general belief being that a moderate thickness of armour will serve to resist common shell, as the projectile is shattered to pieces on impact. The distance will be 120 yards, the weight of the charge 370 lb. of pebble powder of 1½-inch cubes, and that of the shell 1700 lbs.

The fame which Commander Cameron has obtained through his journey across the Continent of Africa, is by no means confined to his own country. The gallant officer has recently paid a visit to Paris, and has there delivered a lecture, describing his enterprise. The audience assembled to hear him was immense, and they accorded him a most enthusiastic reception. He has also been awarded the gold medal of the Paris Geographical Society. An incident in connection with the lecture is worth recording. Commander Cameron spoke in French, and his accent is said to be very pronounced. Some rude persons were overheard laughing to themselves at our countryman's unfamiliarity with the true Parisian accent, when the whole assembly rose as one man, and vented their indignation in such an unmistakable manner that the rude people were silenced.

After a storm comes a calm, and this seems to hold good in the case of the Eastern question. The ambassadors, both ordinary and extraordinary, have taken their departure from Constantinople, but though some of the rumours which are abroad are not the most reassuring, we seem more likely to have peace than at any time during the last three months. What is more satisfactory still is, that negociations have been commenced between Turkey and Servia for the restoration of peace. The terms said to be proposed by Turkey are by no means heavy, considering that she was so easy a victor in the late struggle, and even these, it is believed, will be modified rather than that the opportunity of securing herself in this direction should be lost by Turkey. Similar rumours prevail as regards Turkey and Montenegro, but there is a talk about the surrender of certain districts by the former to the latter. Perhaps Turkey may not so easily reconcile herself to this. As regards Russia, the reports are conflicting, as usual, but the general belief inclines towards the maintenance of peace between her and Turkey. Some say the Czar contemplates abdication, others that Russia will quietly withdraw from the advanced position she took up last November, and others affirm that she is about calling out more corps d'armée to strengthen her force at Kischeneff. However, we shall not have long to wait ere learning which, if any, of these rumours is correct.

On Thursday, 25th ult, after the business of the General Committee meeting of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, which was held at Freemasons' Hall, had been disposed of, the members of the Club, which was established in 1873, met, and, according to custom, dined together. These gatherings tend to cement friendships that have long existed, and are always looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation. Bro. Geo. Kenning was Chairman, by rotation, while Bro. John Boyd very ably occupied the Vice-Chair. On the removal of the cloth, the usual loyal toasts were proposed, and the members proceeded to ballot for the brethren who had been proposed as candidates, and who were unanimously accepted. The formal business was then transacted; the accounts showed a balance in favour of the Club to the amount of 40 guineas. Five guineas was voted to each of the four Past Presidents to enable them to become Life Subscribers of the Institution. The Chairman informed the brethren that Bro. Col. F. Burdett, P.G.M. Middlesex, would take the chair at the next meeting of the Club, and this announcement was received with feelings of great pleasure. The health of the President, Bro. Geo. Kenning, was proposed and responded to, as also was that of the acting V.P. Bro. John Boyd, who responded in his usual expressive manner. Bro. H. Dicketts P.G.S. proposed the health of Bro. R. W. Little, the worthy Secretary. All knew and respected him, and would testify their appreciation of the zeal manifested by him in connection with the Institution since he had been associated with it. He was sure every one present cordially wished him health, to continue among them, to carry out those duties he had so efficiently performed. Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. 188 replied for the Visitors. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to Bro. Howe for his acceptable gift of a signature book, and cards with the names of the founders and members of the Club. Two brethren consented to become Stewards at the next Anniversary Festival of the Girls' School. Bro. H. M. Levy proffered a silver watch, to be given to one of the girls as a prize at the next Examination. The members separated, with a pleasing recollection of having passed an agreeable evening.

The Musical Committee of the Board of Stewards for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons met on Monday the 29th ult., Bro. J. M. Case G.D. in the chair; Bro. S. Rothenthal, C. J. Livett, C. Martin, and H. M. Levy, were also present. The selection of music was entrusted to Bro. T. Lawler jun. The general meeting of Stewards was then held, and was numerously attended. Bro. J. M. Case here also took the chair. Bro. Jas. Terry, Hon. Sec., read the report, which was carried. He then announced there were 259 Stewards. A vote of thanks was passed to the Board of General Purposes for the use of the Hall. The Reception Committee to receive H.R.H. Prince Leopold was appointed; it will consist of the President, Vice President, two Grand Stewards, and Bros. Martin, Curtois, Oughton, and H. M. Levy. Ballots for seats in the Hall were taken, and a cordial vote of thanks was given to Bro. Case for presiding. Among those present were Bros. T. Foxall, J. Tanner, G. Ward Verry, C. Montrie, W. J. Ferguson, W. Murlis, M. Spiegel, Baldwin, J. Stevens, C. Godtschalk, Corke, J. Elliott, Watts, Scott, Rev. R. J. Simpson, L. C. Birley, Z. D. Berry, Rawley, Wallington, Faulkner, &c.

The Provincial Grand Chapter of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight was held at the Masonic Hall, Bugle Street, Southampton, Friday, 26th ult., under the presidency of the Grand Superintendent of the Province, W. The Companions subsequently partook of an excellent banquet, supplied by Mr. T. Dartnall, of the High Street.

In our report, last week, of the meeting of the Salisbury Lodge, No. 435, we stated that Bro. Wilhelm Ganz had been a member TEN years; we should have said TWENTY years, as Bro. Ganz joined the Salisbury in 1856, and has been a member ever since.

At the dinner and ball in aid of the Caledonian Society, held at Freemasons' Hall on the 25th ult., in commemoration of the Birthday of the poet Burns, the band was furnished and conducted by Bro. Louis, No. 1559, bandmaster of the London Scottish Rifles.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—At the last meeting of this Chapter, which took place on Tuesday, the 30th inst., at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's Alley, Cornhill, an unusual number of members assembled. By some curious coincidence several of the oldest member, having for divers reasons been absent for a considerable time, made their re-appearance on that occasion. Comps. W. Stephens acted as Z., Cox H., Berrie J., Leemann S.E., J. Constable S.N., Highe P.S., John Boyd as Preceptor. After the reading and confirmation of the minutes, the ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed, Comp. Self acting as candidate. The first clause of the first section of the first Lecture was worked by Comp. Boyd, assisted by the companions. It is remarkable that this well-conducted and ably worked Chapter is not better supported. New Royal Arch Chapters are continually being consecrated, and scores are exalted to the degree. It might, therefore, be reasonably supposed that the number whose business it is to obtain the requisite knowledge to fit them for office should increase in a proportionate ratio. Such, however, is apparently not the case, judging from the comparatively scant attendance at one of the few Chapters of Instruction of which London can boast. Surely there can be but few who think it consistent with the honourable feeling which should actuate every true Mason to permit himself to pass the different grades of office without due preparation. And where can proficiency be obtained if not at the place set apart for the purposes of rehearsal and instruction? It is, therefore, surprising, and not easily accounted for, that this Chapter of Improvement is not more numerously patronised, more especially when we take into consideration that it is the only place where the explanatory Lectures, which form no mean aid to the student, are worked. There are always able Companions present, who gladly give their assistance, and who earnestly invite those who are desirous of being instructed to pay a visit to the Chapter, which meets every Tuesday throughout the year, at 6.30, and closes at 8.30.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, 1st February, at Bro. Hallow's, The Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. Saunders W.M., Brand S.W., Franklin J.W., Pinder Preceptor, Saunders Secretary, W. G. Hallows S.D., Oldroyd J.D., F. Hallows I.G., Upward Organist; also Bros. Christian, Groom, Badkins, Delavanti, Appleby, Evenett, Rowley and Field. The Lodge was opened in due form with solemn prayer. Minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Groome acting as candidate. The Lodge was advanced to the 2nd, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Groome acting as candidate. The Lodge was closed in the 2nd degree. Bro. Christian worked the 3rd section of the 1st lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bros. Rowley and Appleby were unanimously elected joining members of this Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Brand was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Monday, the 29th of January, at Bro. Gay's, St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell. Present—Bros. R. G. Tolmie W.M., Killick S.W., Stock J.W., A. W. Fenner Secretary, Powell S.D., Pilbeam J.D., Millward I.G., Piercy acting Preceptor, Christopher Tyler; also Bros. Alford, Cook, Halford, Kidder, Mousley, Saul, &c. Lodge was opened in due form. Minutes read and confirmed. Bro. Mousley having answered the usual questions, was entrusted. Lodge was opened in 2nd degree. Bro. Mousley was passed. The W.M. worked the 1st section of the lecture, Bro. Piercey worked the 2nd section; the W.M. worked the 3rd, 4th, and 5th sections, assisted by the brethren. Lodge resumed to the 1st degree. Bro. Killick was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. It was proposed by Bro. Killick (ex Secretary), and seconded by Bro. Halford, that Bro. A. W. Fenner be appointed Secretary. This was unanimously carried. All business being ended, Lodge was closed in due form and adjourned. At the next meeting, according to notice of motion, a proposition will be made to remove the Lodge, when the attendance of every member who can make it convenient is earnestly requested.

Howard Lodge of Brotherly Lodge, No. 56.—On Thursday, 25th, ult., at a meeting of this Lodge, Bro. G. T. Evershed P.M., late Mayor of Arundel, was presented with a very elegantly illuminated testimonial, signed by the members of the Lodge, as a mark of the esteem in which he is held by every member; and also in commemoration of his having so efficiently and honourably discharged his duties as Mayor, thereby deserving the esteem of his fellow townsmen. The testimonial is of artistic design, illuminated on vellum, and reflects great credit on the artist, Mr. J. Leggatt, of Brighton.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction.—Held at Bro. Maidwell's, Leadenhall-street, 30th Jan. Present—Bros. Lees W.M., Maidwell S.W., Biddle J.W., Fraser S.D., Sayer J.D., Hogarth I.G., Hollands Sec., Rudderforth Preceptor, Ellis, Green, Sharp, Barter, Laroon, Botibol, Hullar, Brown, Daniel, Walker, Dart, Rich, Wharman, Bone. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Ellis candidate. The first section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Rudderforth, assisted by the brethren. The Lodge was opened to the second degree, and the ceremony of installation was ably worked by Bro. Green W.M. of the Egyptian Lodge, to the great satisfaction of all present. A vote of thanks was proposed and seconded, to be recorded on the minutes to that effect. Bro. Maidwell was elected W.M. for the ensuing fortnight. It was proposed that Bro. Carruthers, W.M. of the Mother Lodge, should preside at the annual banquet, Bro. Rudderforth to be S.W. and Bro. Ellis J.W. Nothing further offering, the Lodge was closed in due form.

Royal Ark Mariners Lodge, No. 69.—This Lodge held its quarterly meeting on Friday, 26th January, at St. Clair's Hall, Glasgow, Bro. T. M. Campbell presiding as F.N., Bros. J. McInnis J., and R. Brand S.; J. Fash S. and G. W. Wheeler acting as conductor of Pilots, and J. O. Park as G. There were petitions from four Comps., J. Duthie P.Z. 67, M. Robin, William Ferguson and J. Curren, all of 69. They were admitted on board, and duly instructed in their duties as Mark Mariners. The election of officers for the ensuing year was proceeded with, and resulted in the re-appointment of the brethren then acting, along with J. Blackman as Treasurer, and D. Ramsey as Outer Guard.

A Council of Knights of the Red Cross of Babylon was opened by the same Comps., in their respective offices, and the four candidates whose names are given above were admitted and duly elected Knights of the Sword and Knights of the East, and subsequently Knights of the East and West. The whole of the ceremonies were admirably wrought by Sir Knight T. M. Campbell, as President of the Council.

Caledonian of Unity Chapter, 73.—Presentation to Comp. G. McDonald M.E.P.Z.—At the regular monthly meeting, held in St. Mark's Hall, on Wednesday, 31st January, Comp. G. W. Wheeler Z. presiding, assisted by Comps. J. Kennard H., W. Gunn J., G. McDonald P.Z., J. Balfour S.E., J. Bannerman Tr., Wm. Hay 1st S., J. Kay 2nd S., J. B. Hardie 3rd S., and Wm. Jameson Janitor. The auditors presented their report, showing a good balance in hand. The M.E.Z. said a very pleasant duty devolved on him, to present a handsome P.Z.'s jewel to Comp. George McDonald, one who had always, from the date of his exaltation, worked unceasingly for the prosperity of the Chapter, and, although now P.Z., he was at all times ready to fill the place of any officer who might chance to be absent; his constant attention and truly Masonic conduct, both in the chair of the Lodge and Chapter, had endeared him to all his brethren, and he (Comp. Wheeler) was glad to be their mouthpiece on this occasion, and in their name presented this mark of their esteem. Comp. G. McDonald said he was quite taken by surprise. He had no idea that the Companions had deemed him worthy of such a testimonial. The gift in itself was valuable, but he should prize it far above its intrinsic worth, as marking the esteem of those among whom he had been proud to work. He should prize it, and leave it to his son, when the Chapter would have to do without him; but while health and strength were spared him, he would always strive to be present, and do his duty as he had hitherto done. Comps. J. Tweed P.H. 73, and J. O. Park P.Z. 122, as old members of the Chapter, spoke highly of the services of the P.Z., as well as those of his successor. Thanks were also awarded to P.Z. J. Balfour S.E. for the great services he had rendered to the Chapter for many years past. The Chapter was duly closed.

St. Mungo Encampment, Glasgow.—This Lodge held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, at the Masonic Hall, 12 Trongate, and was opened in due form by Sir W. F. Shaw E.C., assisted by Sir Knights R. Bell P.E.C., J. O. Park C.G., G. W. Wheeler Prelate, D. Reid R., J. A. Fergerson T., John Kay M.D., Baker D.M., and Sir Knights H. J. Shields 33° P.E.C. Manhattan Commandery, R. Grange, J. Douglas, J. Hoy, Wm. Harding, P. Hepburn, J. D. Neif, and J. McDade. A petition was presented on behalf of Comp. Jas. Perston of 87, who was duly admitted as a Pilgrim and Esq., and afterwards, in company with Comp. Mechell Meyer, was duly dubbed and created a Knight of the Temple. Sir Knight H. J. Shields was asked to make the necessary arrangements for working the degree of Templar Priest at the next meeting. The Encampment was then closed in due form.

Union Lodge, No. 129, Kendal.—The annual meeting of this ancient, flourishing, and well-worked Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Stramondgate, on Thursday, 25th January, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The Lodge was opened by the W.M. Bro. F. C. Grayson, assisted by Bros. Nelson S.W., Bell as J.W., John Holme P.M. P.P.G.W., John Talbot P.M. P.P.G.W., Joseph Bintley P.M. P.P.G.S. of Works, Titus Wilson P.M. P.P.G.S.B., John Bowes P.M. Prov. G.J.W., and so many other brethren that the room was crowded to inconvenience. The minutes having been confirmed, the Lodge was opened in the second degree, when the W.M. invited Bro. John Bowes to undertake the duties of installing master, which he did, and discharged his obligations in a manner that elicited the warmest approval of the brethren. The W.M. elect, Bro. E. J. Nelson, was presented, and after he had been installed in ample form, he appointed and invested his officers for the ensuing year. The installing master then called upon Bro. John Talbot to deliver the usual addresses. A vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Bowes for his services. A sum of £5 was voted to Bro. McKay's list. Several candidates were then proposed, and other routine business transacted, after which the brethren adjourned to the banqueting room, where a dinner of a récherché character awaited them. The newly-installed W.M. presided; he was supported on the right and left by Bros. Bowes, Holme, Talbot, Bintley, W. Cartmel, G. Cartmel, John Bintley (London), Tattersall, F. C. Grayson, C. Gardner-Thompson, Medcalf, Cragg, Hunter, J. Ottley Atkinson, &c. The Wardens occupied their usual positions. After the cloth was withdrawn, the usual Loyal and Masonic Toasts received due honour. Bro. Bowes responded for the Grand Lodge of Cumberland and Westmoreland. Bro. John Holme P.M. P.G.W. proposed the W.M.'s health, and in doing so referred to the rapid progress he had made in the art since he (Bro. Holme) had the pleasure of initiating him. Bro. Bowes proposed "The Masonic Charities," and coupled Bro. McKay's name with the toast. On a collecting card being sent round the tables, it was returned to Bro. McKay, and he found his list augmented by above £5. Bro. Hogg, in responding for the older members of the Lodge, referred to the time when they were indebted to the Carlisle brethren for their existence as a Lodge, and contrasted that state of things with the present time, when they had a large body of working members, and their number was constantly increasing. Some excellent songs were admirably rendered during the evening, by Bros. Gooding, Sissons, Nelson, Scales, John Bintley, and others, and the brethren separated before 10 o'clock. One pleasing, though melancholy feature of the day's proceedings, was the unveiling of a memorial portrait of the late Bro. Henry Rauthmel, who had been unexpected called to the Grand Lodge above, in the prime of life. Bro. Hogg was the artist, and his effort was one of unqualified success.

Kendal Castle Chapter, No. 129.—The annual convocation of this Chapter was held on Thursday, 25th January, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Masonic Hall, Stramondgate. The Chapter was opened by the Principals, after which the Companions were admitted, and the minutes read and confirmed. E. Companion John Bowes P.Z. &c., was then invited to instal the Principals elect—viz., Comps. John Holmes Z., Joseph Bintley H., and John Talbot J. The ceremony having been completed, the officers for the ensuing year were invested—viz., Comps. McKay E., Bell N., and Godfrey P.S. A cordial vote of thanks was accorded to Comp. Bowes, for his able services for years past, and particularly for those of the day. The Treasurer, Comp. Titus Wilson, reported that the finances of the Chapter were in a very satisfactory condition, whereupon Comp. McKay announced that he had undertaken the duty of Steward at the forthcoming Festival of the Benevolent Institution, and asked for £5 to be added to his list. This was readily granted. After the transaction of some routine business, the Chapter was closed, with the usual solemnities.

Joppa Chapter, No. 188.—A Convocation of this Chapter was held on Monday, 29th Jan., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, City. Comps. E. P. Albert P.Z., in the absence of the M.E.Z., as Z., W. Littaur P.Z. H., L. Jacobs J., P. Dickinson S.E., L. Lazarus P.S., M.Myers 1st Asst., Davis 2nd Asst., P.Z.'s S. Pollitzer, S. Lazarus and J. Lazarus; also Comps. L. Anerhaan, Bookbinder, Davis, Mellish, Grove Ellis, A. Anerhaan, P. Moore, J. S. Lyon, N. Banm, M. Silver, Haines, Myers, &c. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. A ballot was taken for Bro. R. G. Howell, No. 12, which was unanimously in his favour, he, with Bro. Snelling, who had been elected on a former occasion, being in attendance, both were duly exalted into R.A. Masonry. The working in every respect was excellently rendered. Two brethren were proposed for exaltation at the next meeting, and the Chapter was closed until the last Monday in March. A sumptuous banquet, provided by Comp. Jennings, and superintended by Comp. M. Silver, was then partaken of, and at which all present expressed unqualified satisfaction. On the removal of the cloth, the Acting M.E.Z. proposed the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts. He then gave that of the newly exalted Companions. From the attention they had paid to the ceremony, and the recommendations they brought, they merited respect from all. Comp. Snelling responded to the toast. The acting M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the Visitors; although but few in number, they were distinguished in the Order. They were welcome, not only on this occasion, but also at any time they might honour the Chapter with a visit. Comps. Howe Z. elect 217, G. Bubb 180, and C. Hogard M.E.Z. 141, severally responded; they appreciated the excellent working, and the kind hospitality accorded them. Comp. J. Lazarus P.Z. then proposed the health of the acting Z., Comp. E. P. Albert. The Companions had seen how, at so short a notice, he had occupied the chair, and discharged the duties, to their satisfaction (cheers); also how admirably and genially he had presided. All hoped he would have health and long life to be among them. Companion Albert thanked them for the kind appreciation of his services; it was ten years since he had occupied the chair of Z. in that Chapter. He had to thank his two supporters for their kind assistance, and he was pleased to hear that his efforts had met with their approbation. He then proposed the toast of the P.Z.'s, who had discharged their duties to the satisfaction of all; he would call on an old and valued friend, Comp. S. N. Abrahams, P.Z. and Treasurer, to respond to the toast. Comp. Abrahams, in returning thanks, fully justified the pertinent remarks of the acting Z. The healths of the H. and J. was responded to by Comps. W. Littaur and A. L. Jacobs. The M.E.Z., in proposing the toast of the Junior Officers, complimented Comp. Dickinson S.E., who had occupied that position for two years with credit to himself and satisfaction to the Chapter. Time and distance was no object to him, so long as the interests of the Chapter were at stake. The same remarks would apply to Comp. L. Lazarus P.S., whose excellent working was such that he was sure he would fill with credit any office entrusted to him in the Chapter; he was a pattern worthy of imitation. The Janitor's toast was then given, and the Companions separated. Comps. Dickinson and N. Banm contributed to the harmony.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—At the weekly meeting, which was held on Wednesday, the 31st inst., at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Coleman-street, E.C., Bro. Bone presided, assisted by Bros. Abell S.W., Turner J.W., E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, John Constable P.M. Hon. Treasurer, Rudderforth as Secretary, Triggs S.D., Sayer J.D., Lay I.G., Christopher Tyler. The business of the evening consisted of the rehearsal of the third ceremony, Bro. Defries acting as candidate, after which the second and third sections of the lecture were worked by the Preceptor, assisted by the Brethren. In moving a vote of thanks to the W.M., Bro. Gottheil took the opportunity to observe that it was customary, he believed, in every Lodge of Instruction to pursue a similar course. It was a beneficial custom, as it tended to gratify the recipient, and stimulated others in their endeavours to excel. In all cases the thanks of the meeting to a Brother who for the first time attempts the duties of the Chair are well deserved, even by one who is not precisely au fait in the work, because every one in that position is sure to try to do his very best. In this instance, however, the vote is pre-eminently well deserved, seeing that not only is it the first time Bro. Bone has occupied any chair previous to his following the various offices leading to it, but in his maiden effort he undertook the onerous duty of working the ceremony of the third degree. The brethren had witnessed the manner in which he had succeeded, and would agree to the proposition, that a vote of thanks to the W.M. be recorded on the Lodge Book for the excellent manner in which he had conducted the business of the evening. This was seconded by Bro. Defries, who expressed a desire to do so from the fact of his having acted as candidate. He wished to testify to the pleasure with which he had listened to the W.M., and the gratification it had afforded him to witness his excellent working. Bro. J. Constable, in supporting the motion, urged the brethren to emulate the example of the W.M., which would, he assured them, not only give satisfaction to themselves but bring credit to the Lodge. The vote was unanimously carried. Bro. Bone cordially thanked the brethren for their kindness. He was pleased to have given even a small measure of satisfaction, but hoped that when next permitted to occupy the position he would be able to do the work with greater efficiency. The election of officers was next proceeded with, when Bro. Abell, the S.W., was unanimously elected. According to the bye-laws, the ceremony of the first degree will be rehearsed on the next occasion, when it is hoped a large number of members and brethren will rally round our respected and aspiring brother.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Saturday, 27th January, at The Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, corner of Church-road, Islington. Present—Bros. Groner W.M., Read S.W., Brisker J.W., Killick Sec., Halford Treas., Bedwell S.D., Millward J.D., Powell I.G. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of previous meeting confirmed. The ceremonies of initiation and passing were rehearsed, Bros. Hewlett and Stock acting as candidates. Several sections were worked. Bros. Hewlett 141, R. Clark 1613, R. Abbott 917, Taylor 811, and G. Schuldenfrei 188 were elected members. Bro. Read was appointed W.M. for the next meeting.

Zetland Chapter, No. 236.—The regular meeting of this Chapter was held at York, on Wednesday, 31st January, when, after the exaltation of Bros. Geo. Seller, J. T. Seller and W. H. Gainforth to the supreme degree, the annual election of officers was held, with the following result:—Comps. Thos. Smurthwaite Z., H. V. Palmer H., the Earl of Zetland J., Wm. Cowling P.Z. Treasurer, T. G. Turner S.E., the Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett S.N., Ralph Davison P.Z. P.S., Jas. Redfare Janitor. There was a good attendance of members, and the proceedings were followed by an excellent supper, at which the M.E. Comp. J. Todd P.Z. presided.

Commercial Lodge, No. 360.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Friday, 19th January, in its own hall, 30 Hope-street, Glasgow, Bro. J. Munro R.W.M. in the chair, Bros. J. M. Oliver D.M., Wm. Findley S.W., G. W. Wheeler J.W., J. Smith Sec., G. Scott Tr., A. Patterson S.D., R. Brodie presiding at the harmenium, Harrison acting I.G., and Jas. Minnock Tyler. The Lodge was then raised to the 2nd degree, when Bro. J. M. Oliver, in a most able and efficient manner, passed Bros. Wm. Melville and W. G. Craven to the Fellow Craft degree. The Lodge is fortunate in having so many of its office bearers able and willing to work all the degrees.

Fitzroy Lodge, No. 569.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held at the Artillery Grounds, Finsbury, the Head Quarters of the Regiment, on Friday, 26th January. Bro. Frederic Graves W.M. presided, and all the officers were present. After the confirmation of the minutes of the previous meeting, and of a Lodge of Emergency, a ballot was taken for the admission of Bro. Lieut. A. Durrant, P.M. of Lodge No. 1185, which proved unanimous in his favour. Bro. Capt. Eglese then took the chair, and installed Bro. Ensign W. I. Spicer as W.M. for the ensuing year. The ceremony was performed in a very able and impressive manner, and the addresses were listened to with earnest attention. The W.M. then proceeded to appoint and invest his officers as follow:—Bros. R. G. Webster S.W., A. Everingham J.W., J. Sanderson S.D., F. J. Stohwasser J.D., Quarter-Master W. G. Brighten I.G., Capt. J. Eglese Hon. Sec., and W. Jolliffe D.C.: Bro. Capt. Helsham was invested as Treasurer. The W.M. then stated that he had a very agreeable duty to perform, which was to present to the I.P.M., Bro. Graves, a jewel, unanimously voted to him by the Lodge, in recognition of the able and satisfactory manner in which he had fulfilled the arduous duties of his year of office; he had had more work to do than any preceding Master in that chair. Bro. Graves briefly thanked the brethren for their kindness; he should always regard the gift with feelings of pleasure, and as a memento of his happy year of office. The sum of £10 was then voted for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, to be placed on the list of Bro. P.M. Adams. The Lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to their magnificent hall, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion, where an excellent banquet was served by their Sutler. After the usual Loyal and Craft toasts had been proposed and responded to, Bro. Capt. Helsham (in the unavoidable absence of the I.P.M.) proposed the health of the W.M. in a very eloquent speech. He felt sure that the brethren had elected one who, from his well known amiable qualities, would reflect credit on their choice, and, in conclusion, wished him a happy year of office, with plenty of work. The W.M. said he was quite taken aback by the flattering manner in which his health had been proposed; he felt that he did not merit all the kind things that had been said about him. However, he begged to assure the brethren that he was not insensible to the honour that had been conferred upon him, or to the important duties attaching to his office. At the same time, if they would afford him their kind co-operation and assistance, he would endeavour to discharge his duties with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of the Lodge, so that, at the end of his year of office, he might show that he had deserved the confidence they had been pleased to place in him. The healths of Bros. H. P. Matthews, George Fulcher and John Pash (who had been initiated at a Lodge of Emergency) were then proposed by the W.M., who drew attention to the fact that the Lodge was essentially confined to members of the Regiment, and, therefore, they were always glad to see their comrades join that Lodge in preference to an outside one. He hoped they would become good and deserving Masons, and always regard their admission into the Craft as one of the happiest events of their lives. The "Initiates'" song was then sung by Bro. Capt. Eglese, and afterwards these brethren made suitable responses. In giving the health of the "Visitors," the W.M. said there were upwards of 30 present, most of them were well known in the Masonic world, and some of them held high positions in the Craft. They were always pleased to see visitors there, and they did their best to give them a hearty welcome; this he hoped all had so far experienced. In returning thanks, Bro. Major Charles Harding and Bro. Dr. Ramsay both expressed their thanks for the cordial welcome extended, both to them and the other visitors. In proposing the next toast, "The Past Masters," the W.M. said it was one that was always received with reverence and respect; they were regarded as the strength and stability of the Lodge. Bros. Honey and Griffiths Smith each said a few words in acknowledgment. The Treasurer and Hon. Secretary was then given, and in speaking of the able and zealous services rendered to the Lodge by Bro. Capt. Eglese, as Hon. Secretary, for so many years past, the W.M. congratulated the Lodge on having a brother whose whole heart and soul was in his work; one who was always ready to assist any rising member with the benefit of his Masonic knowledge. Bro. Capt. Helsham, having only recently been elected, had not yet entered on his duties, but they had a guarantee he would take the strictest care of their funds. Both these brethren assured the Lodge that their best energies should be devoted to their respective offices. The health of "the Officers" was responded to by Bros. R. S. Webster S.W., and W. Jolliffe D.C. The evening was made additionally pleasant by some capital singing by Bros. H. P. Matthews, F. H. Cozens, T. W. Simons, and A. Hubbard. There were present, amongst others, Bros. Dr. Ramsay P.M. 259, Major C. Harding P.M. 231, D. W. Pentecost P.M. 231, Lieut. A. Ritchie R.A., W. P. Brown 90, J. Spice, P. Vargues, Webster, Norris, Stannage, and Middlemist P.G.S.

Davison S.W., Parsons J.W., Rudderforth Preceptor, Gadden S.D., Hayes J.D., Tribbel I.G.; also Bros. Kennard, Shephard, Reddie, Evans and March. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The W.M., Bro. Braun, rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Coates acting as candidate. The Lodge was advanced to the second, and Bros. Coates and Evans answered the questions for raising. Lodge being resumed to the first degree, Bro. Rudderforth worked the first section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. He then asked the questions in the fourth section, in which Bro. Jas. Davison answered the whole in a most satisfactory manner. Bro. Davison was elected W.M. for the ensuing meeting, and the Lodge was then closed.

The chair was then occupied by Bro. P.M. Wallington, who worked the installation ceremony, and invested the officers as above; Bro. P.M. Ashburner gave the remainder of the ceremony; both P.M.'s rendering their parts in a clear and impressive manner. The ceremony of initiation was then worked by the W.M. (Bro. Lovelock), Bro. R. Dallas acting as candidate. Bro. Hewlett worked the 3rd section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. W. J. Smith was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. We hope Bro. Smith will have a good attendance, as the Preceptor justly remarked that it was always very pleasing to hear him do the ceremonies. Although a young member, Bro. Smith is always perfect. A unanimous vote of thanks was given to Bro. Lovelock for his able occupancy of the chair for the first time. Bros. Macklin and Wardell, of Lodge Eastern Star, No. 95, and Bro. Coombes, of Lodge Fortitude, No. 12, were elected members of this Lodge of Instruction. The Lodge was then closed in due form, and adjourned till Tuesday, 6th February, at 7.30 precisely.

Fenner I.G., Bolton Treasurer. Lodge was opened in due form, when the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Simpson acting as candidate. Bro. Gross having, through unavoidable circumstances, resigned the Preceptorship of the Lodge, after some discussion it was resolved to accept the same, and the brethren expressed a hope that some brother would kindly offer his services as Preceptor, when, through the medium of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, their want became known to the brethren at large. This being the first time of the W.M. occupying the chair, a vote of thanks was unanimously accorded him for the creditable manner in which he had filled the same. Bro. Lane was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. All business being ended, the Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned.

Gladsmuir Lodge. No. 1385.—

The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Friday, 26th January, at the Red Lion Hotel, Barnet, and was well attended by the members and visitors. Bros. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, the Auditor's report was received and unanimously adopted. A board of installed masters was then formed, and Bro. John Livingston S.W., W.M. elect, was regularly installed into the chair, the ceremony being very efficiently performed by Bro. James Terry. The W.M. invested his officers as follows:—Bros. R. F. Cutbush, as a token of esteem and fraternal regard, and for the able manner he had managed the affairs of the Lodge during his year of office. This was very suitably acknowledged. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a most sumptuous banquet, provided in Bro. Fisher's well known admirable manner. Upon the table being cleared, the W.M. proposed the health of the "Queen and Craft" in few but fitting terms, which were received in the usual cordial manner. The national anthem was then sung. The W.M. gave the Most Worshipful the Grand Master, after which the Pro G. Master, Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers past and present, whose healths were drank with enthusiasm. The Prov. G.M., Bro. Halsey, was the next toast on the list, and the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, and the Officers of the Prov. Grand Lodge past and present. The W.M., in giving this toast, said that it afforded him very great pleasure to see so many brethren round the table who held office in Provincial Grand Lodge; he was happy to find so many in his own Lodge who were honoured with the Purple. Alexandra Palace Lodge, No. 1541.—

We have on several previous occasions had to chronicle the successful gatherings of this highly prosperous suburban Lodge, but those agreeable re-unions have usually occurred between the spring and autumnal equinoxes, when the surroundings of the now deserted Palace at Muswell Hill have presented a scene of animation and enjoyment. Essentially, the Alexandra Palace is a "summer Lodge," but at the last regular meeting, held in October, there were no fewer than five candidates for Initiation, and a number of brethren awaiting advancement in the superior degrees. The W.M. therefore ordered an Emergency Lodge to be called on Saturday last, and it redounds highly to the credit of the members, and speaks volumes for their enthusiasm in the good cause, when we record the fact that, despite the miserable weather, and the circumstance that the Palace was entirely closed to the public, the rooms wholly dismantled, the gas cut off, and a communication received from Messrs. Bertram and Roberts, that "no refreshment, except a glass of sherry and a biscuit, could be supplied," there were upwards of thirty brethren present to take part in the three hours work that succeeded. Most of the brethren came by the Great Northern Railway to Wood Green, and had to climb the steep acclivity in the teeth of a driving wind and rain. Arrived in the Palace, all seemed still and death-like, but the Lodge room (which is a splendid apartment in the South East Tower) had been temporarily carpeted, and a cheerful fire (the only one in the vast building) was as bright as it was welcome to the brethren. The chair was taken by the W.M., Bro. Kelly King, Bro. J. Dyte occupied the post of Senior Warden, in the enforced absence of Bro. G. J. Palmer; Bro. E. M. Haigh being in his own chair, as Junior Warden. Bros. J. Lee and Daniel, the Deacons, were in their respective positions, and Bro. Chapman Inner Guard. There were also present Bro. J. R. Stacey, as acting Past Master, Bro. Snelling as acting Secretary, Bros. Lanchin, Matthews, Todd, Dennington, Gutch, Pandon, Rosenberg, Taylor, Stubbins, Sherrington, Craft, and other brethren, as well as several visitors. The agenda was a heavy one, a Ballot being taken for no less than six candidates, all of whom were elected; there were three candidates for passing to the fellow craft degree, and four aspirants for the third degree, thus rendering it impossible to administer the obligation separately, for which the W.M. is a great stickler. Messrs. R. J. Ward, J. S. Rabenstein and R. F. Gladstone (a cousin of the ex-Premier) were first admitted, and subsequently Messrs. A. Lévêr and E. W. Wheeler, after which the whole were entrusted, the ritual being impressively rendered by the W.M. Bro. Stacey, at the request of the W.M., then, in his usually correct manner, advanced Bros. Sherrington and Craft to the second degree. The Lodge was then opened in the third degree, and the W.M. having resumed the chair, raised Bros. Sidney Pandon, Rosenberg, and Taylor to the sublime degree of Master Masons, thus completing a very hard day's work, which was admirably performed by all concerned, and which may fairly be described as "the pursuit of Masonry under difficulties." The W.M., who had cause to feel highly flattered by so numerous an attendance under such exceptionally adverse circumstances, sent a telegram to town, ordering dinner at the Holborn Restaurant, which was partaken of by 20 of the brethren; while a smaller contingent of "locals," not disposed to re-visit London, dined in the neighbourhood of the Palace.

NEW ZEALAND.

AFTER a weary and hopeless illness of many months' duration, Bro. John Millar, F.S.A., in his 69th year, died on Wednesday, 15th November, at Rock Villa, Nelson Haven (N.Z.). The deceased was a native of Ulsterville, Belfast, Ireland, and his long life, although somewhat troubled towards its close, was one of great practical utility. Educated as a civil engineer, Bro. Millar, by his talents and unwearied application to the details of his profession, established for himself at a comparatively early age a reputation. In 1848 he was entrusted with the construction of the whole of the sewerage and a great part of the general public works designed and carried out in Londonderry, under the City Improvement Act, and upon their successful completion in 1853 received a very flattering acknowledgment of his services, signed by the mayors of the city that had held office during the time the works were in progress. Induced by the splendid opening caused by the gold discoveries in Victoria, Bro. Millar came out to Melbourne in 1854, and almost immediately received a lucrative and important appointment in connection with the water supply of the city, and it was from his plans, and under his direct superintendence, that the River Plenty Tunnel was completed, pronounced by the Argus a work of much more difficult execution than the celebrated Croton Aqueduct in New York. While this work was in progress Bro. Millar was compelled to make a voyage to England, and upon his return was wrecked in the ill-fated Schomberg, lost upon the Australian coast on the night of the 25th December 1855. Upon this occasion the deceased was instrumental in saving the lives of his fellow-passengers. He kept order when it was most needful, was the first to volunteer to take one of the ship's boats to search for a landing-place on the rock-bound coast, and after an unsuccessful search at great personal risk prevented the boats being overcrowded, when the passengers were ultimately rescued by a passing vessel. For his exertions he was presented by the Shipwrecked Mariners' Society with the gold medal, a splendid memorial casket, and an illuminated address. The presentation was made by Sir Henry Barkly, at the Government offices, Melbourne, on November 26, 1858. In 1857, the late Bro. Millar was appointed Engineer-in-Chief to the Water Supply and Sewerage Commission of Geelong, and performed the work to the unqualified satisfaction of his employers, as proved by a letter written upon the completion of the improvements, and signed by the Commissioners and Civic authorities. He also filled situations that demanded the exercise of very great ability in Melbourne, Brighton, and Hotham, in all of which he seems to have given entire satisfaction. In 1863 he commenced his New Zealand career by accepting the appointment of City Engineer at Dunedin; but in this, as in his subsequent engagements with the authorities of Wanganui and Nelson, very serious differences seem to have arisen between employers and employed; and the reason for these unfortunate contentions may be found in the inability of the authorities to carry out in their entirety the elaborate but thoroughly efficient designs of their surveyor. He was the author of several valuable professional works, and many of the largest public buildings throughout Victoria owe their symmetry to the labour of his pencil.

> "Men's evil manners live in brass; their virtues
> We write in water."

And possibly in this respect the memory of our brother will share the common destiny. He had imperfections, no doubt, and enemies; but against these—more than balanced—are his many sterling qualities and the large circle of firm friends, who will sincerely regret his loss.'

> "So may he rest; his faults lie gently on him."

The remains of the late brother were interred at Stoke, on the 17th. In compliance with the last wishes of the deceased, as expressed to Bro. W. M. Stanton, the funeral was conducted according to the Masonic custom, and the body was attended to its last resting-place by a great number of the members of the Southern Star Lodge. The funeral procession was met at the gate of the churchyard by his lordship the bishop, who read the service in the church and at the grave. The Masonic service was then read by the W.M. Bro. Moutray, and the bishop pronounced the benediction. During the long illness that preceded his decease, he had most persistently expressed a wish to be buried beside the late lamented Bro. the Rev. F. C. Simmons, and in this respect the wish was fulfilled to the letter, and the graves of the friends in life are only a few feet apart.

Deceased had been an officer of the Grand Lodge of Otago, and was also a Companion Royal Arch, and an ardent and thorough Freemason, his dying thoughts being given thereto, as clearly expressed after words had failed our brother.

15th December, we take the following items of intelligence :—

On 28th Nov., Bro. the Hon. F. Whitaker P.M., of Lodge Ara I.C., and one of the founders of Freemasonry in the colony, was affiliated in Lodge Sir Walter Scott, S.C., preparatory to his taking the position of Provincial Grand Master of the Scottish Constitution in the North Island of New Zealand, for which he has been nominated by all the Lodges interested and holding under the Scottish Constitution. The W.M. and officers of the Corinthian Lodge, E.C., and those of the Lodge of Light, I.C., together with a large number of visiting brethren attended, and the Freemason's Hall, in which the ceremony was held, was crowded to excess. The R.W.M., Bro. the Rev. James Hill, performed the impressive ceremony of affiliating the distinguished brother, after which the Lodge was called off, and re-assembled in half an hour to partake of an excellent banquet. The R.W.M. of the Lodge (the Rev. J. Hill) presided, and the guest of the evening was seated at the right of the R.W.M., and His Worship the Mayor (Bro. Macdonald) on his left.

At the monthly meeting of Lodge Sir Walter Scott, No. 533, S.C., held in the Freemasons' Hall, Grahamstown, on 21st November, the following officers were elected for the ensuing twelve months:—Bros. T. L. Murray R.W.M., Rev. J. Hill R.W.P.M., A. Aitken W.D.M., G. Black P.M. W.G.M., W. Wilkinson W.S.W., J. Fotheringham W.J.W., W. Carrick Treasurer, R. Skeen Secretary, J. Emmerson S.D., H. Moore J.D., G. Kerr I.G., T. Rawden Tyler, Rev. J. Hill Chaplain and Lecturer, G. Pitkethley Bible Bearer, J. M. McLaren Architect, H. J. Weeks Organist and Director of Music, Charles Weston Jeweller, A. Brodie R.W.P.M. Director of Ceremonies, H. C. Gillespie and H. H. Wright Auditors, W. Laurie (President), W. Fisher, J. Forgie, George Wilson, J. G. Murray Stewards.

The following is from the Newport Mercury, Rhode Island, U.S. America :—

"The oldest Mason, so far as is known, is Francis Brinley Fogg, now residing in Memphis, Tenn. He was made in St. Paul's Lodge, No. 14, in 1817, and is one of the charter members of the present St. Paul's Lodge. Next comes S. Ayrault Robinson, now of Wakefield, who was made in St. John's Lodge in 1819; William S. Clarke, Providence, St. John's, 1822; Freeman Mayberry, Newport, St. John's, 1824. Captain George Howland, of this city, was made a Mason in Mount Vernon Lodge, Providence, in 1821."

There is now residing at Hayle, Cornwall, an older Mason than either of the above, in the person of Bro. Nicholas Donnithorne, who was born at Marazion, July 1789, and was initiated in the Royal Cornwall Militia Lodge, No. 618, now 330, "One and All," Bodmin, on the 6th April 1812. Bro. Donnithorne comes from a Masonic stock, his father having been a member of the Craft for many years, and who died in 1803.

Is there an older Mason in England?

PRESENTATION TO BRO. F. WALTERS, P.G.J.D. MIDDLESEX, P.M. 78., &c.

ON Saturday evening, 27th January, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, a few friends met, under the able presidency of Bro. John Baxter Langley, W.M. 1423, to do honour to Bro. F. Walters, who was invited to the dinner. Punctually at the time named, the dinner was commenced. After the removal of the cloth, the first toast, "The Queen," was given and responded to. Then followed the health of Bro. Frederick Walters, whose twenty-eight years of service in the cause of Freemasonry—and especially to the Masonic Charities—was fully dwelt upon, in an able speech, by the Chairman, who asked Bro. F. Walters to accept a handsome purse (the gift of Bro. G. Kenning), in which was a sum of £150; and, also, an elaborate silver inkstand, the cost of which brought the value of the testimonial to nearly £200. The monies were subscribed by several Lodges and Chapters to which Bro. Walters belongs; also, by many members of his various Lodges, &c. Bro. Walters thanked the brethren for the handsome testimonial they had presented him. He said that, during his Masonic career, he had had given him, by a relative (a brother Mason) three hundred guineas, and he might say he had received quite five hundred guineas in worth over his testimonials. He expressed his gratitude for the presents they were bestowing on him. The toasts of "The Chairman" (Bro. J. B. Langley), "The Secretary of the Fund" (Bro. J. W. Baldwin A.G.P. Middlesex, P.M. 1423, &c.), J. T. Moss P.P.G.R. Middlesex, P.M. 169, were given and ably responded to. The final toast, "To our next merry meeting," brought a pleasant evening to a close. Bros. J. T. Moss, T. J. Sabine P.P.G.S.D. Middlesex P.M. 75, &c. (an old initiate of Bro. Walters), and E. H. Thiellay made excellent speeches in favour of Bro. Walters. There were also present:—Bros. E. W. Devereux S.D. 1423, B. Wright Asst. Sec. 1423, J. Johnson, J. Rainor 1423, H. Gloster, J. N. Watkins, A. Rollington 1326, G. J. Lee P.M. 1307, and some few others. The testimonial originated from the "Era" Lodge 1423, and was well carried out by them. Bro. Frederick Walters is a son and grandson of Masons; his father and grandfather were initiated in Ireland.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Scarlet fever and measles, whooping cough, white mouth, tooth rash, &c., all these complaints are the dangers through which most children have to pass before they come to maturity, and they are fatal to many and often leave troublesome after-consequences behind them. These well-known remedies are most valuable in the nursery, and no mother or nurse but should be well acquainted with their use. Taken as an alterative and mild aperient by all the members of a household during the progress of any epidemic, they exercise a prophylactic influence on the system, and lessen the chance of the disease attacking them; and, even if it does, rendering it milder in its progress and easier to be cured.

MASON LODGE.

From the German of Goethe.

The Mason's ways are
A type of existence,
And his persistence
Is as the days are
Of men in this world.

The future hides in it
Gladness and sorrow;
We press still thorough,
Naught that abides in it
Daunting us.—Onward.

And solemn before us,
Veiled the dark portal
Goal of all mortal:—
Stars rest o'er us,
Graves under us.—Silent.

While earnest thou gazest,
Comes boding of terror,
Comes Phantasm and Error,
Perplexing the bravest
With doubt and misgiving.

But heard are the voices,
Heard are the sages,
The Worlds and the Ages,
"Choose well, your choice is Brief, and yet endless:

Here eyes do regard you,
In Eternity's stillness,
Here is all fulness,
Ye brave, to reward you;
Work, and despair not."

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentay to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Bonfhire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Figaro.

LODGE RULERS.

IT is undeniably a matter of the greatest importance that those who are elected to high office in Freemasonry should possess the requisite qualifications. We are becoming almost daily a more numerous body than we have ever been at any previous period of our history. We are attracting to ourselves a larger share of public attention. It follows then that we should be at greater pains than ever to create a favourable impression in non-Masonic circles, or rather to confirm the very favourable impression already formed of us. Every individual Craftsman has it in his power to add to, or detract from, the esteem in which we are held, and, à fortiori, has every Lodge. It is our duty, then, to see that the latter are well organised and efficient in their work; and to this end it is imperative that those to whom is entrusted the government of Lodges should be capable men. It is a sad spectacle to enter a Lodge of worthy Masons, and find its Worshipful Master and Wardens incompetent to fulfil the simplest duties; the former obliged to vacate his seat when one of our ceremonies has to be rehearsed, or at a loss to answer when one of the brethren asks him for information on some not very difficult question, while the latter are not only incompetent to assist their chief, but are likewise unacquainted with their own business. Of course, we cannot go so far as to affirm that brethren possessing all the requisite qualifications for office will always be found in all our Lodges. We do say this, however, that where such men are wanting, it is the duty of brethren to select for their rulers those who possess more rather than less of the needful competence. It is only when the tale of able men is quite exhausted that a Lodge should elect incompetent members to rule and govern it; and we trust the day is yet far distant when it can be said of any one of our Lodges that it contains no members qualified to rule over it.

Many labour under the belief that the Mastership of a Lodge has attached to it no serious responsibilities, that in fact it is little else than the Chairmanship of an ordinary social gathering. But even in the Chairman of such a meeting, there are certain qualifications which he is expected to possess, or the social gathering may very likely prove to be a confabulation of bears. He who presides over any body of men, for no matter how brief a season, must have tact and good temper. He must likewise exhibit some slight knowledge of human nature, and a certain power of discrimination, or he will never be able to reconcile the different views and feelings of those who sit around him. But the Master of a Lodge is something more than the Chairman of an ordinary meeting. In addition to the qualities we have enumerated, and others which must as readily occur to our readers as to ourselves, he must know well how to perform certain ceremonies, how to advise brethren when any unwonted difficulty arises, and how to instruct his subordinates in the fulfilment of their several duties. Lawrence Dermott, who in his day was Grand Secretary, and afterwards Deputy Grand Master of the "Ancients," and who merits, therefore, the honour of being described as one speaking with authority, says of the choice of officers to rule and govern the Lodge, that it is a matter "of great concern;" for, he adds, "the officers of a Lodge are not only bound to advance and promote the welfare of their own particular Lodge, but also whatever may tend to the good of the Fraternity in general." He then proceeds to point out that, "therefore, no man ought to be nominated or put in such election, but such as, by his known skill and merit, is deemed worthy of performance, viz. He must be well acquainted with all the private and public rites and orders of the craft; he ought to be strictly honest, humane of nature, patient in injuries, modest in conversation, grave in counsel and advice, and (above all) constant in amity and faithful in secrecy." Later on he says:—"I have known men whose intentions were very honest and without any evil design, commit great errors, and sometimes been the destruction of good Lodges; and this occasioned by their brethren hurrying them indiscreetly into offices wherein their slender knowledge of Masonry rendered them incapable of executing the business committed to their charge, to the great detriment of the Craft and their own dishonour." And Oliver, in charging the brethren to beware of incompetency in the Master, says very justly, "It requires knowledge and experience to preserve respect; tact and firmness to maintain authority; affability and kindness to secure affection; with many other traits of character to enable him (the Master) to discharge the duties of his office creditably, if not triumphantly." Unfortunately, it is within the experience of most of us that there are many Worshipful Masters who, so far from possessing "knowledge and experience to preserve respect," have hardly acquired the A B C of their duties. In one or two cases we have heard of Masters who not only never threw even a solitary glimmer of light on Masonic duty, during their tenure of office, but hardly so much as opened their lips to utter half-a-dozen consecutive words, except when they were prompted by a friendly Past Master. These we admit were extreme cases, but they should never have been allowed to happen. No amount of respect for the man and brother should ever have intervened between the members and the fulfilment of their duty. A brother who is incompetent to discharge the functions of the Master should not be chosen. He may be the very personification of kindness; he may, indeed, be the embodiment of all the Masonic virtues, but if he lack the requisite knowledge, he is worth nothing as Master. How can members respect a W.M. who is scarcely able to open and close his Lodge without assistance? How can they respect him, if the moment he is called upon to work one of the ceremonies, he vacates his seat in favour of some competent brother? Is it not likely that our younger brethren will regard as moonshine the obligations that are imposed, and the advice that is tendered them, when they find the ruler of their Lodge is little, if at all, less ignorant than themselves of Masonic doctrine. What is the good of telling a young member that at a particular stage in his career he will be expected to acquire some further knowledge of the science of Freemasonry, when the supreme authority in his Lodge, who has passed through all the stages, is absolutely and entirely ignorant of anything but the colour of his Masonic clothing, and the metal of which his jewel is composed, as well as the necessary signs and tokens which are now and again demanded of him. In all other pursuits it is considered necessary that a man should possess some knowledge of the duties he is about to be entrusted with. He may not already be furnished with much knowledge, in which case he is expected to acquire it. But it seems that in the pursuit of Masonry, chance, or the accidents of chance, are not unfrequently allowed to determine an appointment to a superior office. And what is the result where these things happen? For a time, perhaps, the respect which brethren feel towards Freemasonry restrains them from all outward manifestations of impatience. But the limits of forbearance are at length reached, and the Lodge falls into a state of anarchy. The attendance of members is unsatisfactory. The interchange of courtesies with other Lodges is of rare occurrence. The meetings are purely formal. An air of somnolence pervades everything, and the Lodge may think itself fortunate if it does not fall into abeyance, with little or no chance of resuming its labours.

Now and then it happens that a brother is called upon to fill the chair of some Lodge at a time when he is less capable than he was in his earlier days of exhibiting the needful energy, less able to master the duties he will have to perform. He is sensible, perhaps, of his unworthiness. He appreciates the honour that is paid him, but accepts it only when he finds that a refusal will be painful to his future subjects. It were unkind indeed to blame a brother who accepts office under these circumstances, and if he is careful to acquire as much knowledge as he can, and to appoint zealous, skilful, and enthusiastic brethren to assist him in his labours, he will very likely complete the term of his Mastership, not only without detriment to the interests over which he has been called upon to preside, but probably also with a fair degree of credit to himself. It is almost certain he will possess already some qualities which eminently fit him for his post, or, when seeking for a new ruler, his Lodge would never have selected him. He will enjoy, therefore, from the very first, the respect and esteem, if not the affection, of all his fellows. A certain amount of study, and the requisite practice will soon enable him to do "creditably, if not triumphantly," as Oliver phrases it, all he is ever likely to be called upon to do. We should not care, in the interests of Freemasonry, to see even such a case as this too often reported, but we protest against men being pitchforked into power who have absolutely nothing to recommend them but, in some cases, a certain harmlessness—combined with geniality; and in others, inordinate ambition, untempered by any pleasing and commendable quality. It is against the election of such as these latter we feel inclined to protest so strongly. The government of a Lodge is of too great importance to be entrusted either to child-like simplicity of character, or ambitious ignorance. Of the two, of course we prefer the simplicity, yet it is beyond all question that both are out of place in the conduct of a Lodge.

DEMOLITION OF THE FIRST MASONIC LODGE IN PARIS.

From "THE BUILDER."

ENGLISH Freemasons curious in the history of their Craft, and familiar with Paris and its innumerable memorials, must remember the old traiteur's in the Rue des Boucheries St. Germain (now the Rue de l'Ecole de Médecine), where the first Masonic Lodge established in Paris was founded by Lord Derwentwater in 1725.

Every Mason must know how this antique confraternity of the arts was transformed in 1717, at London, from a mechanical and philosophical corporation into an institution purely philosophic, abandoning for ever the material portion of its labours, the construction of monuments, but preserving at the same time scrupulously its doctrines and traditional symbols.

The first towns on the Continent where Masonry thus regenerated was carried from London were Dunkirk (1721) and Mons (1721).

It was only in 1725 that a first Lodge was founded at Paris, by Lord Derwentwater (and two other Englishmen), under the title of St. Thomas, and constituted by them in the name of the Grand Lodge of London, 12th June 1876; its members, to the number of five or six hundred, met at Hurré's, a traiteur, in the Rue des Boucheries St. Germain. By the care of the same Englishmen, a second Lodge was established, 7th May 1729, under the name of Louis d'Argent; its members met at Lebreton's, another traiteur at the sign of Louis d'Argent. The 11th of December, the same year, a third Lodge was constituted under the title of the Arts Sainte Marguerite, its meetings were held at the house of an Englishman named Ganstand. At length, in 1732, 29th November, was founded a fourth Lodge, called that of Buci, from the name of the Hotel where its members met, situated in the Rue de Buci, and held by the traiteur Landelle; this Lodge, after having initiated the Duc d'Aumont, took the name of the Loge d'Aumont.

Lord Derwentwater, who had in 1725 received from the Grand Lodge of London full powers to constitute Lodges in France, was, in 1735, invested by the same Grand Lodge with the functions of Grand Provincial Master; and when he quitted France to return to England where some time after he perished on the scaffold, the victim of his attachment to the Stuarts, he transferred the powers he possessed to his friend Lord Harnouester, whom he charged to represent him during his absence.

The four Lodges existing then in Paris resolved to found a Grand Provincial Lodge of England, to which the Lodges, which would in time to come be founded throughout France, could address themselves directly as representants of the Grand Lodge of London. A short time after the departure of Lord Derwentwater, this resolution was put into execution, and, in 1736, under the presidency of Lord Harnouester, this Grand Lodge was legally and regularly constituted.

Little by little were established at Paris, by the side of those Lodges founded on the principles of the Grand Lodge of London, other Lodges, constituted by a Scotchman, Baron Ramsay, a firm partisan of the exiled Stuarts. This famous Mason for some time held the functions of Orator to the Grand Provincial Lodge of England, above referred to. He, however, succeeded in establishing and introducing another Masonic system, called the Scottish, with seven grades, which had been created at Edinburgh by a Chapter of the Canongate Kilwinning Lodge, with a political aim,—the support of the Stuarts, the subjection of Masonry to Catholicism, and the founders of which, not being able to state its true origin, had attributed the creation to Godefroi de Bouillon. This Masonic Rite has never been accepted either in Scotland or in England; but, introduced by Ramsey into France in 1730, it has served as the basis of all the Masonic systems propagated from that time throughout France and in many parts of the world.

In 1737 Lord Harnouester, the second Provincial Grand Master of France, wishing to return to England, asked before his departure to be replaced, and manifested the desire to be so by a Frenchman. The Duc d'Antin, a zealous Mason, succeeded him in June 1738. The Duc d'Antin was chosen among those members of the Court who had shown the most zeal for the Order. He had in reality faced the prohibition of Louis XV., who had forbidden any of the nobles of his Court to belong to any of the societies of Freemasons, and the Duke showed much courage in accepting the functions of Grand Master, inasmuch as the King had threatened to immediately put into the Bastille any member of his Court who would preside over Freemasonry in that quality. The king, however, did not carry out his threat, but the police of the Châtelet continued the proscription against those members who could not oppose to them the influence of their names or capacities.

To follow the subsequent history of Freemasonry in France would be a study beyond the limits of these pages, but by a recent return it appears that there are at present in France no less than 203,400 active members of the Craft; adding to these those Masons who have renounced any share in the work of the order, we have a total of some 500,000 Masons in France.

Within, then, a very few days, this interesting old building will have disappeared. Not far from it rises the venerable old church of St. Germain des Prés, which has existed here since the sixth century.

This quarter and its historical surroundings are about to be demolished to make way for those changes which, since the announcement that the Exhibition is to be opened in 1878, have received such an extraordinary impetus.

The Boulevard St. Germain, which has partially existed already for some years, will, by 1878, be completed. Those who believe in Abernethy's prescription, that it is healthful to look into the shop-windows, and those fond of the asphalt pavement (and really it would be affectation to be otherwise than fond) may then enjoy a walk or drive of some ten miles of cafés (where bock is chiefly consumed), bonbon shops, and Articles de Paris, between rows of trees, starting from the Place de la Concorde, pursuing the Boulevard St. Germain and the Boulevard Henri IV.,* passing through the Place de la Bastille, along the Boulevard Beaumarchais, and so along still under the trees, to the Porte St. Martin, to their beloved Boulevard des Italiens, and the Café Anglais, and the familiar Madeleine.

As for the rue de l'Ecole de Médecine, which has now to give away, it has existed under this name but for a very few years, since, indeed, 1851, up till which time it was known as the rue des Boucheries St. Germain.

Originally only a country road from the hamlet of St. Germain, in April 1274, the butchers of the suburb were allowed there to establish sixteen stalls, and from this time the street became one of the most commercial in the locality. After the battle of Poitiers (1356), when the English, victorious, advanced up to Chantelonp, these butchers abandoned their establishments, and took refuge within the walls, and it was only after all danger was over that they ventured back to their deserted shops.

Sauval, writing at the commencement of the eighteenth century, gives us a description of the street in his time. "The shops," says he, "are part of the houses in which live, above, the masters. Each shop is accompanied by a spacious slaughter-house in the open air." Judging by this, we can easily imagine the narrow street, lined with the stalls, while through it ran a gutter reeking of infection. Happily, the creation of public abattoirs in 1809 purified the street.

The butchers, judging by the appearance of the streets in Paris, seem always to have been a very important class of the bourgeoisie, and if, as vegetarians tell us, that their own innocent diet is provocative of clear-headed sprightliness, it is difficult to account for the proverbial esprit of the French who, we are told, are much larger consumers of meat than we in England. The fact is, that the French, who have gained, and justly gained, so high a reputation for their provident ways, are provident and self-denying merely with a view to obtain the means for the indulgence of habits and modes of life that are very much opposed to asceticism. When the people were poor, they were temperate and sober; as the workman's income increases, he eats more meat and drinks stronger wine. He is, still, thanks to some unknown reason, a far more temperate man than his English brothers, but it is evident that the use of alcohol is even here on the increase.

CHINESE CARVING.—For Sale, an elaborately carved set of Ivory Chessmen. The Kings stand 8½ inches high, the other pieces in proportion. Knights and Pawns on horseback, all mounted on stands, with concentric balls. Can be seen, and full particulars obtained, on application to W. W. MORGAN, 87 Barbican.—Adet.

Honorary Secretary.

Bro. Jas. Terry (Secretary to the Institution), 4 Freemasons' Hall, London, W.C.

The consecration of the Covent Garden Lodge, No. 1614, will take place on Tuesday, the 13th inst., at Ashley's Hotel, Maiden-lane, Covent-garden. Bro. John Coutts P.G.P. is the W.M. designate, E. Jacobs J.W. 1348 S.W. designate, A. J. Ireton S.W. 1348 J.W. designate, Bourne P.M. 1348 Hon. Sec. pro tem. The ceremony of consecration and installation will be performed by Bro. W. Watson P.G.S., assisted by Bro. Rev. P. M. Holden, W.M. City of Westminster Lodge.

The "Wolsey Lodge," 1656, will be consecrated on Saturday next, at the White Hart Hotel, Hampton Wick, at half-past 3 o'clock. The ceremonies of consecration and installation will be worked by the R.W. Bro. Colonel Burdett P.S.G.W. and P.G.M. Middlesex, assisted by Bro. Robert Wentworth Little P.P.S.G.W. Middlesex, and Bro. the Rev. F. J. Champion de Crespigny P.M. 708, P.P.G. Chap. Middlesex. The officers designate are Bros. W. Hammond P.M. 201, 1326, 1512, P.P.G.D. Middlesex W.M., B. Sharp P.M. 84 S.W., and J. Bond P.M. J.W.

As announced in our columns last week, the ballot was taken at Bro. Scaton's, Railway Tavern, Fenchurch Street, for one Life Governorship, value £10 10s, and one Life Subscribership value £5 5s these amounts being a portion of the proceeds of the Concert given by Bro. Charles Blain at the Bow and Bromley Institute, on 14th December last, in aid of our Masonic Institutions. The result was as under:—Bro. W. N. Lash (Mount Lebanon Lodge, No. 73), one Life Governorship; Bro. C. H. Webb (Sincerity Lodge, No. 174), one Life Subscribership. The following brethren were present:—Bros. P.M. Austin, P.M. Moore, Appleby, Blasby, Bennet, A. H. Brown, T. Brown, C. Blain, Baxter, F. Fraser, J. Fraser, Gardener, Hewlett, Hill, and J. Rawley.

Bro. Douglas Cox, No. 11, acting manager of the Globe Theatre, announces his first benefit at that establishment on 15th inst., on which occasion Mr. E. Solomons' comic opera will be revived. The principal characters will be sustained by Bro. Edgar Bruce, Douglas Cox, Jas. Edwards, Wingrove, Miss Rachael Sanger and Miss Jenny Lee. The entire company will appear in the extravaganza of the Invisible Prince.

We have once before described briefly the very elaborate and artistic display of needlework which for some months past has been on view at No. 50 Buckingham Palace Road, opposite the Grosvenor Hotel. We were very much pleased with what we saw, and strongly recommend our readers, when they have a leisure hour or two, to spend it in inspecting these various works on exhibition. Ladies will be especially delighted, and not a little astonished perhaps at the skill and labour which have been bestowed on the collection by the fair artists.

The Anniversary Ball of the veteran Preceptor, Bro. T. A. Adams P.G.P., was held on Tuesday, the 6th, at Willis's Rooms, and the number present showed the respect in which "The Octogenarian" is held. An excellent supper was provided, and those assembled thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Among those present were Bros. Treadwell, C. W. Davis, Cooper, C. Burmeister, W. Smith, Kingham, W. Palmer, Wane, T. Bull, T. Foxall, Jenkins, Solomons, Tribbel, Ponsford, H. M. Levy, &c.

We notice that the partnership hitherto existing between Bros. David Posener and Adolph Posener, has been dissolved by mutual consent. Bro. David Posener has removed to more spacious and commodious premises, at 15 Commercial-road-east (City end), where he intends carrying on the business of pipe manufacturer and importer of meerschaum pipes, as before, under the style of "David Posener and Co." From the well-known reputation of our brother as a business man, and the increased facilities he now has for doing a more extensive trade, we feel sure that his energy will be rewarded, and we heartily wish him success.

The current number of the Lifeboat contains, inter alia, a highly interesting article on "Weather Charts and Storm Warnings," in which are noted the various steps that have been taken of late years by Government, scientific bodies, and men of science, to advance the science of meteorology, and so enable our marine authorities to give timely warning of approaching storms. The basis of the article is a chapter from the work, bearing the same title, by Mr. Robert H. Scott, Director of our Meteorological Department. The number likewise contains a record of services latterly rendered by the lifeboats of the Institution, and also a full report of the late Special Communication of Grand Lodge, when it was resolved to present a donation to the Institution of £4,000, for the purpose of building and endowing two lifeboats in commemoration of the Grand Master's safe return home from India.

It seems our hope that, at the destruction by fire of the Masonic Hall, Portland, State of Maine, Grand Lodge, sustained no serious loss in the shape of books and records, will not be realised. The Keystone says, that not only were the regalia, &c., &c., burnt, but the records and the Masonic Library were burnt likewise. This and the disaster recorded above are two serious blows to the cause of Masonic literature. Craft records are so few in number, and have at times been so indifferently kept, that we can ill afford to lose those which it is known must be authentic.

The Freemasons' Repository announces that Bro. Perceval Lowell Everett, and Rev. Charles H. Titus, have been re-elected Grand Master and Recording Grand Secretary respectively of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts. We read also, in a recent issue of the Keystone, that Bro. E. G. Davis is Grand Master of the Grand Lodge for the District of Columbia; Bro. J. H. Jochum D.G.M., Bros. H. A. Whitney and Joseph S. McCoy, Senior and Junior Grand Wardens respectively, Bro. W. R. Singleton, Grand Secretary, and Bro. W. J. Stephenson Grand Treasurer.

NEW ZEALAND.

THE PROGRESS OF FREEMASONRY.

ON the 28th November, Bro. the Hon. F. Whitaker (a member of the New Zealand Cabinet), P.M. of Lodge Ara, I.C., and one of the founders of Freemasonry in the colony, was affiliated in Lodge Sir Walter Scott, S.C., preparatory to his taking the position of Provincial Grand Master of the Scottish Constitution in the North Island of New Zealand, for which he has been nominated by all the Lodges interested and holding under the Scottish Constitution. The W.M. and officers of the Corinthian Lodge, E.C., and those of the Lodge of Light, I.C., together with a large number of visiting brethren attended, and the Freemasons' Hall, in which the ceremony was held, was crowded to excess. The R.W.M., Bro. the Rev. James Hill, performed the impressive ceremony of affiliating the distinguished brother. After which the Lodge was called off, and re-assembled in less than half-an-hour to partake of an excellent banquet. The R.W.M. of the Lodge (the Rev. J. Hill) presided, and the guest of the evening was seated at the right of the R.W.M., and His Worship the Mayor (Bro. Macdonald) on his left.

The R.W.M. (the Rev. J. Hill) proposed the toast of the evening. He said: Brethren, I have now to propose the toast of the evening. In common with all the Lodges under the Scotch Constitution in New Zealand, the Sir Walter Scott Lodge has been in connection with the Provincial Grand Lodge of Dunedin. For several years it has been the opinion of the brethren, both in the South and North, that there should be a Provincial Grand Lodge in the North Island, and Bro. Hislop, the Provincial Grand Master in Dunedin, kindly agreed to recommend its formation to the Grand Lodge of Scotland. Some months ago the idea was revived. One of the first things to be done was to nominate a brother to occupy the high and important position of Right Worshipful Master of the proposed new Lodge. The brethren at the Thames suggested the name of Bro. Worshipful Past Master the Hon. Frederick Whitaker, and the unanimous concurrence of the Lodges concerned was given. Bro. Hill concluded by proposing "The health of Bro. Past Master the Hon. Frederick Whitaker."

Bro. the Hon. F. Whitaker, who, on rising to respond, was received with loud cheering, said: Right Worshipful Master and brethren, I hardly know how to thank you for the honor you have this day accorded me, first by affiliating me into your Lodge, which I heard spoken of as the best worked and best managed Lodge in New Zealand, and for your having put me up as your representative in the Provincial Grand Lodge, and then again this evening the manner in which the R.W.M. has proposed my health, and you have responded to it. (Cheers.) Well, now all these honours conferred on one man in one evening would be enough to turn his head, and would be enough to turn mine if I was subject to such. It does strike me to ask myself why do I deserve this honour, or do I deserve it? I say I do not feel that I can answer that I have done anything to entitle me to this honour which you have done me. It is true, as the R.W. chairman has said, that I was connected with the first Masonic Lodge in New Zealand, and when I look back at that time, 33 or 34 years ago, I do so with satisfaction. There were then in Auckland only a few wooden and raupo houses, and in a small room, not one-fourth the size of this, we established the first Lodge in New Zealand. It is with pride and satisfaction I look back to those days, and notice how early men from the mother country plant Masonry in the countries they take up their abode in. With about a dozen brethren we set to work and laid the foundation of Masonry in New Zealand, and now we see the fruit thereof; and those who took part in that opening—and there are few that remain—look with pride and satisfaction on that tree which they have planted, and which has now spread and flourished to such splendid proportions." (Cheers.) During the time I have been in New Zealand I have been connected, in a Masonic way, with some important events. I was present, as a Mason, at the laying of the foundation stone of the first church in New Zealand—that of St. Paul's, in Auckland. Occasions such as these are peculiarly pointed out as occasions on which Masons should meet. I also feel proud of another instance in which, in a Masonic manner, I took part in a Masonic ceremony, that was when I, as a Master Mason, laid the foundation stone of the Supreme Court in Auckland, and I am proud to say that in no other part of New Zealand have I seen as Court buildings anything to compare with the Supreme Court in Auckland, and of that building I, as one of the craft, laid the foundation stone. (Cheers.) It is possible that these connections have given me some claim to the honor which you have conferred on me. In accepting your offer to be nominated as Provincial Grand Master of the North Island, I felt I was undertaking something that I did not know much about, and it has been a principle with me, through my life, not to undertake anything of which I do not at least think I know something, but in accepting the honor of being Master of the Provincial Grand Lodge, I feel I have a great deal to learn, but I promise that I shall devote my best energies to justify your choice. (Cheers.) Now, this evening I see a gathering round me. I recently came from a place where there used to be a gathering of about the same number, but it was of a widely different character, (the New Zealand House of Representatives). Here we are met in fellowship. There, there was nothing of the kind, and we fought—if I may be allowed to use the expression—like cats and dogs. But, leaving politics out of the question, if I could take you there with me, you would see something which would surprise you, and I feel altogether greatly relieved in coming out of a hotbed like that into a community like this, were we all feel alike. It is totally unlike what I have left, and I feel a certain amount of recreation in being amongst you. (Cheers). I feel that I have come to a re-union of brethren, and feel that it is a happy occasion on which men of different religious beliefs and different political opinions can meet on a common platform, where all their endeavours are directed to the one object—the benefit of each other and the benefit of the community—(cheers), without bickering or quarrelling, seeking the same end, the benefit of the Craft, and, through the Craft, of the world. (Cheers.) Masonry has now taken root, and I feel happy that here we can meet without that clashing of interests which is experienced in the political world. Now, when I looked around amongst you I thought it rather incongruous that I should have been chosen by you as Provincial Grand Master; but I have now began to look upon it as a matter for congratulation. I did think that the Hon. Sir Donald McLean was more fit to be appointed Provincial Grand Master of the Scottish Constitution, and that I would have been better fitted to the English Constitution; for although I was connected with the opening of the first Masonic Lodge in New Zealand—and that was under the Irish Constitution—I was made a Master Mason in the English Constitution in 1839, and am on the roll of the Grand Lodge of England. But in New Zealand, up to the present, I have been connected with the Irish Constitution, and this is my first introduction to Scottish Masonry, and if it improves as I go on, I have now landed in the best. (Cheers and laughter.) I now think, on the whole, that this is better. It shows that Englishmen are willing to accept a good Scotchman, and that Scotland is willing to accept what you, I suppose, believe to be a good Irishman engrafted on a good English stock. (Cheers.) I agree that, on the whole, this is the best as it is; and I am sure you all honour and respect the Hon. Sir Donald McLean, P.G.M. of the English Constitution. Whatever opinion we might entertain of Sir Donald McLean's politics, or his action in the Native Department, we must all acknowledge that he is a good Mason, and wish him long life and happiness as the head of the Provincial Grand Lodge of the English Constitution. (Cheers). When I was asked to take the position of P.G.M. of the Scotch Constitution in the North Island, I began to consider what you would expect me to do. Not having a great deal of connection with the people of Scotland, except in this country, I began to ask myself would they expect me to play the bagpipes—(cheers and laughter)—for after all, although in Scotland that is a favourite instrument, it is not so in mine, and is very seldom heard there. I heard it played exceedingly well, too, in Nelson, on board the Hinemoa. A man in the ship struck up the Scotch bagpipes, and I felt very much inclined to dance. (Cheers). I thought to myself, surely he does not know that I have been elected Provincial Grand Master, but I accepted the honor as being paid to myself, and considered that I had been paid the highest compliment. (Cheers and laughter.) Then I hope you do not wish me to embrace the Scotch thistle. (Laughter). I remember the old adge—nemo me impune lacessit. (Laughter.) And then I hope you do not want me to learn Gaelic. I fear I could never accomplish that. (Cheers). But if what you desire is that I should get up in the duties of Master of the Provincial Grand Lodge, all I can say is I will try. Not being connected with any other Lodge in New Zealand, I shall look on this Lodge as my parent to bear me out, and I shall pay it the greatest gratitude for rendering me that assistance. (Cheers.) Permit me again to thank you for the honor you have done me. I feel that more honor has been conferred on me than I now deserve, but in the future I will try to deserve it all. (Cheers.)

The New Zealand Herald thus comments on the appointment of Bro. Whitaker:—"It has come to be the fashion now to find out that everything that has been done in apparent conformity with law has really been in violation of the law, and we feel it incumbent upon us as journalists, if we would not be quite left behind, to find out and make public something in that line on our own account. However, we do not profess in this to speak from our own knowledge, but upon information. The Hon. F. Whitaker was a few days ago installed into the office of Provincial Grand Master by the Masonic Lodge Sir Walter Scott, at the Thames. Outsiders wondered how this Lodge, which is but of yesterday, compared with other Lodges in the North Island, should have assumed this duty, but they considered that it was one of the mysteries of the Craft with which the profane must not intermeddle. It seems, however, that it is all wrong in point of Masonic law, and that the duty of appointing a Provincial Grand Master lay with an Auckland Lodge. As we are informed, Bro. Whitaker is not Provincial Grand Master of the Masonic Lodges under the Scottish Constitution. Just to mention another catastrophe, Sir D. McLean was appointed Provincial Grand Master of the English Constitution by a Lodge in Wellington, while there is a more ancient Lodge in Auckland with whom only is the power to appoint."

We may add that the appointment of Sir Donald McLean, as District Grand Master for the whole North Island has not given satisfaction to the Lodges under the English Constitution in Auckland, and steps are being taken at the present moment to nominate Bro. G. S. Graham, of Auckland, an excellent Mason, and a gentleman, of good social standing for the office of District Grand Master for Auckland. The reasons why such an appointment should be made are difficult to explain within reasonable limits in the columns of this Journal, but they are easy to be understood by all Colonial Masons, and we shall be glad if the Colonial Board can see their way to carry out the wishes of the Northern Lodges in this matter, feeling confident, as we do, that such an appointment would have a marked effect on the prosperity of English Masonry in that important division of the Colony of New Zealand.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Influenza, Coughs, and Colds.—In diseases of the throat and chest, so prevalent in our changeable climate, nothing so speedily relieves, or so certainly cures, as these universal remedies. These disorders are too often neglected at their commencement, or are indiscreetly treated, resulting in either chronic disease or consumption. Whatever the condition of the patient, Holloway's remedies will restore, if recovery be possible; they will retard the alarming symptoms, and bring on the gentle and natural evacuations of the chest, gradually restoring strength and nervous power. By persevering in the use of Holloway's preparations, there is connected on their unchallenged power to cure. Thousands of persons have testified that by the use of these remedies disease has been removed to health after every other means had failed.

"THE OLDEST MASON."

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In answer to your query in last week's number of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, "Is there an older Mason in England?"—

Bro. Norris, the present respected Warden at the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, Croydon, was born 21st January 1790; and was initiated in the Lodge of Sincerity, then 290, now 174, on the 10th March 1812. He is therefore a month older than Bro. Donnithorne, whose name you mention.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

North End, Croydon, 5th February 1877. H. J. STRONG.

BOMBAY.

Lodge Rising Star of Western India, No. 342, S.C.—On Saturday, the 6th January, the most important meeting of the season of this flourishing Lodge was held in the Scottish Masonic Hall, Gowalla Tank-road. At the previous sederunt of the Lodge, the Senior Warden, Bro. Rustomjee M. Patel, had been unanimously chosen to fill the chair of K.S. for the ensuing year, and, at the regular monthly meeting on Saturday last his installation took place. To mark the high estimation in which this Lodge is held, the Most Worshipful Grand Master of Scottish Freemasonry in India (Bro. H. Morland), accompanied by R.W. Bro. Balfour (Deputy Grand Master) and a large number of his officers, paid an official visit on this occasion, when they were received in due and ancient form by the R.W. Master, Bro. Darashaw D. Reporter, the Wardens and brethren—including a large number of visitors. The M.W. Grand Master having assumed the Hiram presented to him by the Worshipful Master, raised the Lodge to the sublime degree, and, in the presence of a numerous body of Past and Installed Masters, proceeded with the ceremony of installation, which he conducted with his wonted ability, setting a bright example to all present, and illustrating, in a striking manner, how essentially necessary it is for all those Masters in Israel who aspire to rule the Craft to be thoroughly proficient in all the duties devolving on them. It was quite evident on this occasion, as on many others, that M.W. Bro. Morland had 'his soul in his work,' and that it was 'a labour of love' for him to perform the onerous duties imposed on him—which he carried out with such solemnity and efficiency that made a most vivid and lasting impression on all who had the honour and privilege to witness and take part in the proceedings of the evening. The Right Worshipful Master elect having been proclaimed and saluted in the several degrees, then proceeded to invest the following brethren with the jewels and badges of their respective offices, and delivered an appropriate address to each on the responsibilities attaching to their several positions in Lodge:—R.W. Bros. Darashaw D. Reporter I.P.M., Hormusjee Dadabhoy Pleader D.M., Cursetjee Nusserwanjee Cama S.M., Burjorjee Framjee Doctor S.W., Hormusjee E. Chichgur J.W., Cursetjee F. Khory Treas., Rustomjee M. Chichgur Sec., Nowrajee Dajeebhoy Jeweller, Atmaram Pandurung Architect, Manackshaw D. Docturna Organist, Heerjeebhoy F. Cooper S.D., Hormusjee A. Suntock J.D., M. M. Bhownuggree I.G., Nusserwanjee D. Patel Tyler and Steward. The M.W. Grand Master delivered an eloquent address, impressing upon the newly installed Master and his officers the importance of their relative positions, the necessity of their working in peace and harmony, and their solemn obligation to support the R.W. Master in the duties of his office. The business of the evening having been brought to a conclusion, the brethren adjourned to the banquetting room, where covers had been laid for upwards of eighty, and every chair was filled. The dinner was served a la Russe, the table being ornamented with several beautiful silver epergnes and vases of antique and oriental design, filled with choice flowers. The whole of the arrangements reflected the highest credit on the Stewards. The menu was tantalizing, and the wines were choice and of the best vintage. The usual Loyal and Constitutional toasts were proposed and duly acknowledged. "The Sister Lodges" and the "Visiting Brethren" drew forth the eloquence of several well-known and popular brethren. W. Bros. Nowrojee Furdonjee and W. M. Champa responded to the latter toast, and acknowledged, in suitable terms, the hospitality so freely extended to all comers, and particularly the fraternal welcome accorded them on so interesting an occasion. The M.W. Grand Master retired after the last toast of obligation, and the meeting broke up shortly after 11 p.m. It would be unjust to close this brief record of a most interesting meeting without recording the fact that the retiring Worshipful Master (Bro. Darashaw) has completed his term of office, after a most painstaking, earnest and creditable twelvemonth of hard work, zealously undertaken and most successfully accomplished. He is, therefore, pre-eminently entitled to the gratitude of his brethren, who have not been slow to recognise his genuine merits. It is confidently hoped that his successor will follow in his footsteps, and maintain and extend the prestige of Lodge "Rising Star of Western India."

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

—:o:—

John Lillywhite's Cricketers' Companion for 1877. Thirty-third Edition. London: John Lillywhite, Cricket Warehouse, 10 Seymour-street, Euston-square, N.W. Kent and Co., Paternoster-row.

We have received a copy of this invaluable handy-book for the Cricketer. It contains a full record of events and performances during the past season, with the bowling and batting averages of the principal elevens—County, University, Public School, Clubs, local and others, &c., &c.—with comments on the style and success, or defects, of individual players. There is also a Guide to the Cricketer, containing hints on the game by the late John Lillywhite, and several papers by noted amateurs. In fact, all the information that can possibly be needed by a Cricketer, be he amateur or professional, will be found clearly and concisely stated in these pages. No lover of the game can afford to be without it.

Cassell's Family Magazine.—Those who have carefully followed the career of "Paul Knox, Pitman," will read with pleasure the present instalment describing the gallant service he rendered in saving the life of an obnoxious "butty," with his splendid treatment of the miner "Ned Foord," the professional athlete, whom he vanquishes in every way. The scene by the canal is well described. "My Guardian," is progressing satisfactorily. Then follow the usual papers, here and there interspersed amongst them, being such excellent short tales as "A Fight at Close Quarters: a Yarn from Ceylon," and "Old Money-Bags," a "Story told over a Counter." There is a short sketch of Covent Garden, some sensible advice to those who may be desirous of entering the Indian Civil Service, directions by Phillis Browne "How to Make Children's Toys," "Chit-Chat on Dress," the usual excellent Gardening Notes for the month, together with Notes by "the Gatherer." We must not forget to mention as among the other contents, that there is a very clever serviceable paper giving hints, for those who may require any, as to "Home Billiards." Mr. B. H. Cowper contributes a very readable description of "Epping Forest and its Ancients Camps." A Family Doctor indulges in "A familiar Chat about Vaccination," and there are some particulars about "Winter Sessions at the London Colleges." We may further mention that the Frontispiece is from a drawing by Mr. Fred. Barnard, and is entitled "Just now we are Selling Valentines."

The Leisure Hour has a most excellent programme. The serial "A Young Wife's Story" being one of the chief attractions. For example, there is a very good account of "An Armenian Wedding," and this is followed by a biographical sketch of "The Late Sir Robert Peel, Bart.," he who was Prime Minister, and died in 1850, of injuries received when thrown from his horse. "The State of the Funds" is the title of a most valuable article, in which are shown the amount of the National debt, and the rise and fall of the Government Funds for the years from 1789 to 1876. This is very ingeniously managed, by means of a tabular statement, not unlike at a distance a Berlin wool or shawl pattern, measured according to scale, only in this, there are deep black patches on the space marked for each successive year, showing the highest and lowest quotations for that year. Thus at a glance the reader can obtain a clear notion of the fluctuations to which our funds have been subjected within the period referred to. "Americanisms" is worth reading, while "Zoological Disillusions" is of a lighter character than we find in this periodical. But the papers to which we would rather draw the attention of our readers are those in which are described "Brazil and its Chief Cities," and the second instalment of Miss Bird's impressions of Victoria, under the taking title of "Australia Felix." We may add that Mr. E. Paxton Hood contributes an interesting sketch of the "Great Smith Family, Lineal and Collateral." The illustrations are for the most part as good as usual, that of "Canadian Tobogging," which forms the frontispiece, being particularly so.

We have noticed in the Sunday at Home a very neat story, entitled "The Fords of Dingle Nell," by the author of "A Golden Harvest." Though short, it is exceedingly well told. No. II. of "Pictures from Jewish Life" have also impressed us most favourably. Not so, however, "Personal Adventures of a Young Officer during the Peninsular War," though our objection is rather to the manner in which these are related than to the matter they contain. Of the other contents we have been most pleased with "A Wonderful Cure," by the late J. de Liefde, of Amsterdam. Those who have read any of the late de Liefde's works will readily understand how effectually he succeeds in fixing and retaining the attention of his readers. The story is very short and very simple, but it is, perhaps, the more effective on that account. The frontispiece is "My First Sermon," from Mr. Millais' picture, and fills admirably the place assigned to it.

In The Countries of the World, Part 6 (Cassell, Petter and Galpin), are several capital illustrations, among them being "Hunting the Prong-horned Antelope with Greyhounds on the Eastern Slope of the Rocky Mountains," "A Winter Hut in the Saskatchewan Country," and "Birch-bark canoes on the Red River of the North." Among the literary contents, the chief interest will attach to the particulars given about the Fur Trading, and also of the different "Types of the 'Mountain Men.'"

Many of the contributions to the London Magazine are worth reading. "May Fair," for instance, by one who signs himself "A London Writer," is more than a passable representation of serial fiction. "Men (and Women) of the Time" will, no doubt, prove useful to the class of people who are fond of collecting lists and indexes. The compiler, Mr. G. Kingfrede Cooper, has been at some pains in preparing this list of eminent personages, who, he tell us, are conspicuous by their absence from Routledge's Men of the Time. But, if useful, this list is not exactly what we care to find in a magazine of light literature. Far more appropriate is the true sketch of "A Civil Servant," "Up the Rhine," and the "Story of My Little Lady," by St. D'Arros Planche. There is also, by Mrs. M. A. Baines, a song, to be set to music, bearing the title "Oh, let me Dream that Dream again," which, like all Mrs. Baines's effusions, reads very gracefully. The last verse will convey an excellent idea of the song:

> "Dream on, poor soul; while such bright dreams,
> By fancy's art, can set thee free,
> To revel in a world that seems > Foretaste of blest eternity."

The Age of Science, a newspaper of the XXth century, by Merlin Nostradamus, had it been even moderately well written, and had not the same idea been many times worked out in other and more attractive forms, would have been worthy a few minutes' attention. But it in no way realises our idea of what such a paper should be, and we should be sorry to go out of our way to read a line more than is necessary to enable us to form a judgment of it.

We regret to announce that, owing to the state of his health, His Royal Highness Prince Leopold will be unable to preside at the Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, on Monday next. The Right Hon. the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, Provincial Grand Master of Staffordshire, has, however, very kindly undertaken to supply the vacancy.

BROTHERHOOD.

Speak kindly to thy erring brother; God pities him; Providence waits for him; Heaven's mercy yearns towards him, and the spirits of the just made perfect are ready to receive him back with joy. Why, then, should not your voice be in unison with all those powers that God is using for his recovery?

Pray for thy erring brother in every prayer
That thou offerest to the Great Architect's care;
When in the Lodge, 'midst happiness and joy,
When charitable thoughts thy heart employ,
When thy yearnings point to duty's call,
Then pray for thy brother—pray for all.
We are all erring, thou might'st well say,
We have all forgotten God's will to obey.
True, but there are those more guilty still,
True they have erred more greatly against His will.
Pray that they may not be beyond mercy's call,
Pray for thy erring brother; oh! pray for all.
Yes, pray for the erring—day by day—
Yes, even when they wrong thee, brother, then pray—
That those now in darkness may see the light,
That their lives, henceforth, be pure and bright.
Pray, for we all are erring, and may soon fall,
Pray for thy erring brother; oh! pray for all.

DEATH OF BRO. W. R. BAKER.

WITH feelings of the profoundest sorrow we take pen in hand to chronicle the death of William Richard Baker, of Cripplegate and Camden-square, which took place on Tuesday, the 30th ult., at the age of forty-two years. The interment took place on Saturday, the 3rd inst., at Kensal-green Cemetery, in the presence of above 250 of his most intimate friends. At half-past 2 o'clock the hearse drew up in front of his residence in Camden-square, and the body was placed therein. Having moved a few paces off, four mourning coaches drew up, the first three containing his sorrowing and bereaved family. These were followed by twenty-five pair-horse carriages, occupied by some of his oldest friends. The funeral cortège slowly and solemnly wended its way to the cemetery, where it was met by a large concourse of sympathising friends. The body was borne to the church through a line densely formed, and attended to the grave by his brethren and fellow citizens. A wreath of flowers was placed on the coffin, which was of polished oak with brass mountings. The dead silence of the vast assembly around the grave gave proof of the pure feeling of respect which existed for their friend and brother. He was a brother, not only in name but in deed. His ear was never deaf to the appeal of the poor, and his hand was ever open to the cry of the needy. The shortness of his illness, the suddenness of his death, and the loss of his kind and genial countenance, will leave a gap in many a circle which it will take a long time to fill up; and his loss will not only be regretted amongst the Craft, but by a numerous circle of non-Masonic friends to whom he had endeared himself during his whole life, which has been passed in the Ward of Cripplegate. His memory will ever be enshrined in the hearts of those who love truth and honesty above the external advantages of rank and fortune. Amongst his many friends we noticed Messrs. T. Board, T. Fisher, E. Coleman, S. Haines, B. Bright, J. Carle, J. Foulger, D. Smith, H. Dix, H. Freshwater, J. Constable, J. Lawrence, E. Jones, J. G. Marsh, C. Hosgood, &c., &c.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE Queen, accompanied by the Princess Beatrice, arrived at Buckingham Palace from Osborne early on Wednesday morning. In the afternoon, Quo-Ta-Zhan, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from the Emperor of China, was introduced to Her Majesty by the Earl of Derby, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. Sir Thomas Wade then had an audience, and introduced the other members of the Embassy. Later, the Queen presided at a Council, at which were present the Duke of Richmond, the Earls of Derby and Beaconsfield, the Marquis of Salisbury, and the Right Hon. R. A. Cross. On Thursday Her Majesty opened Parliament in person. There were present the Yeomen of the Guard, the principal officers of the Court, various members of the Royal Family, the Queen being accompanied by the Princess Louise and Princess Beatrice. The weather was fine, as it invariably is when Her Majesty appears in public, and therefore there was a considerable crowd along the prescribed route. Barriers had been erected where the pressure of people was likely to be greatest, the Household troops, both cavalry and infantry, together with some 3,000 police being on duty to help preserve order. At the appointed time, the Queen entered the House of Peers, attended by the great officers of state, the whole assembly—which consisted, by the way, mostly of peeresses—rising to receive her. The House of Commons having been summoned, rushed in pell mell, in accordance with ancient custom, and the speech having been delivered by the Lord Chancellor by Her Majesty's desire, salvoes of artillery announced to the outer world that the Fourth Session of the Ninth Parliament assembled during this reign was opened for the despatch of business. On the Queen leaving the House of Peers, the whole assembly dispersed, but in the evening both Houses were very well attended in order to hear the debate on the address which, as had been foreseen, was more exciting than almost any debate that has taken place during the last two or three and twenty years. However, our readers have doubtless gleaned all they desire to know on this subject from the daily papers.

The Prince and Princess of Wales have likewise returned to town from Sandringham, their Royal Highnesses having been present, as stated, at the opening of Parliament. On Wednesday afternoon, they were both present at the Gaiety Theatre, on the occasion of Mr. John Parry's benefit. It is not necessary we should dwell on the merits of this distinguished public entertainer; they are so generally known and appreciated. We may, however, express the pleasure we feel that the benefit was so marked a success, not merely financially, but as furnishing proof how well Mr. Parry is esteemed and respected by his friends and admirers. The young Princes, Albert Victor and George of Wales, were likewise present, with their father and mother, and no doubt thoroughly enjoyed the performance. We are sorry to hear that the Duke of Connaught met with a slight accident on Wednesday. His Royal Highness was about to attend the meet of the Duhallow hounds, in company with Lord and Lady Listowel, when the latter's horse became restive and kicked the Prince on the leg, severely enough to put a stop to his hunting—for that day at least. We trust this slight mishap will not seriously interfere with the Duke's movements for any length of time.

On Wednesday, of course, the principal party leaders gave their usual Parliamentary banquets. That of the Earl of Beaconsfield was held at the Foreign Office, while the Chancellor of the Exchequer, as the new leader of the House of Commons, gave a dinner at the official residence of the Prime Minister. At the former were present the Dukes of Richmond and Gordon, Buccleuch, Manchester, Northumberland, and Wellington, the Marquises of Bath, Salisbury, Bristol, the Earls of Derby, Malmesbury, Donoughmore, and others. The Right Hon. the Speaker dined with the Chancellor of the Exchequer, as did Lord Galway and Mr. Torr, respectively the mover and seconder of the address, Lord J. Manners, Mr. Cross, Sir M. H. Beach, Sir W. Dyke, &c., &c. The Earl of Granville and the Marquis of Hartington, as the Liberal leaders in their respective houses, also entertained their principal supporters.

The week has not passed without additional calamities to record in the shape of wrecks and colliery accidents. It is quite recently we chronicled one of these latter as having occurred in the neighbourhood of Bolton, and caused the loss of eighteen lives, and now another has taken place at Fogg's Pit, Darcy Lear, in the same neighbourhood, by which it is believed that ten lives have been lost. When the men had been at work some hours, those at the pit's mouth were alarmed at the sudden emission of a considerable column of smoke in the return air-shaft, and the usual signal was given to wind up the cage. This was done immediately, and many of those who were brought up were much exhausted, owing to their inhalation of the sulphurous fumes. On the list of names being called, it was found there were ten still missing, and as they are known to have been working at the greatest distance from the pit's mouth, it is not believed to be possible they can have escaped. Parties have been sent down with a view to exploring the pit and recovering the men; but the work is dangerous, and can only be pursued with the greatest caution. Meantime, the greatest anxiety is felt, while the utmost commiseration is shown for the families of those who are supposed to have perished. In the way of wrecks there have been two, both of them being accompanied with a serious loss of life. In the one case, the steamer George Washington, on its way from Halifax, Nova Scotia, to Newfoundland, was wrecked off Cape Race, all on board, to the number of twenty-four, perishing; in the other, the Newcastle steamer, Ethel, on its way from Bilbao to Newport, Monmouthshire, became enveloped in a fog, and struck on the rocks lying south of Lundy Island, filling and sinking immediately. The captain and eighteen men went down with her, the only survivor being the mate, who managed to get into a boat, and when that was broken to pieces, on to some portions of wreck. Ultimately he reached the shore, but in a very exhausted and bruised condition.

There appears to be a very strong probability that the Easter Monday Review will take place this year. Formerly this was one of the principal events of the year, but for some time past the railways have found it impossible to afford the necessary facilities for the conveyance of so many thousands of men on a Bank Holiday, when their resources are already taxed to the very utmost. Lord Ranelagh, however, is reported to have hit upon a place most suitable in all respects for a review, in the neighbourhood of Dunstable, and latest reports favour this belief, that this old institution of the early Volunteer days will be revived in all its pristine glory.

Another annual event is beginning to assume its wonted degree of importance in the eyes of the British public. Not a day hardly passes but we find notes of the doings of the rival 'Varsity crews. We are told how the places of this or that 'Varsity crew are changed, how this old 'Varsity oarsman coached from the bank, and how certain members were out all the morning in tub pairs, under the immediate eye of the president of his club. All these matters are recorded daily with the most exact minuteness, a fact which betokens that the day of the great struggle is pretty close at hand. The race, indeed, is fixed for the 24th prox., and as Wednesday next will be Ash Wednesday, why there is little difficulty in reckoning the few weeks that will intervene between the commencement of strict practice and the race. Indeed the crews will be in training next week, and almost before we are aware of it we shall hear of their arrival in London, and their doings on the London waters.

The annual meeting of the Seamens' Hospital was held on Wednesday afternoon, at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon Street, under the presidency of the Duke of Northumberland. According to the report that was read, the year 1876 left the society indebted to the extent of £1,539 6s. There had been an increase of income derived from voluntary sources, the same being close upon £1,000 above the average of the last ten years, while the receipts derived from legacies were below the average. The expenditure had increased by £1,121, but nearly one half of this arose from the increased cost of provisions. Mr. S. Cave, M.P., moved the acceptance of the report, which was duly accepted and agreed to. In doing this he pointed out that a special appeal should be made to the public in support of an institution which had existed for so many years, and done such good work. Before the meeting broke up some £500 in donations were promised towards making good the deficiency of £1,500. It is hoped the public will show their sense of good work done by liberally supporting this useful Institution.

Of the wonderful changes that occur in the progress of an Eastern political question, we have the latest illustration in the dismissal and banishment of the Grand Vizier, Midhat Pacha. It is but the other day he supplanted his great rival, Mahmoud Ruchdi Pacha, prepared a new Constitution for the whole Turkish empire, and firmly but politely declined to entertain even the mildest of the proposals offered by the Great Powers of Europe for Turkey's acceptance. Hardly, however, has he achieved this brilliant triumph, hardly have the different Ambassadors taken leave of Constantinople, when the Minister, whom no amount of Ambassadorial pressure affected in the slightest degree, is turned ignominiously adrift, and sent no one knows whither. Whether the present Sultan has a taint of his uncle's madness or his brother's imbecility about him, we know not. It seems, however, an act of sheer wantonness on his part to dismiss his most trustworthy minister at, perhaps, the most critical epoch in Turkish history. There are those who attribute this sudden change to the machinations of General Ignatief, who, finding Midhat the resolute enemy of Russian intrigues, and the most capable of successfully resisting them, has been secretly at work undermining Midhat's position, and has, for the moment, succeeded. We should not be in the least surprised if this were the case. Other reasons are assigned for the dismissal of the Grand Vizier, but, whatever the true cause, we cannot but regard the matter as likely to induce further complications—not immediately, perhaps, but at no very distant date. However, now that our English Parliament is in session, we shall be in a better position to understand all the complex transactions of the past few months, and the present aspect of the question.

We have just received the Masonic Review for December. It contains a very elaborate sketch of American Union Lodge, No. 1, jurisdiction of Ohio, to which we may recur in some future issue. Our present purpose is to note the severance of Bro. Cornelius Moore's connection with this magazine, after having piloted it skilfully through all those vicissitudes to which periodical literature is liable. We wish we could have said successfully as well as skilfully, but in such case there would have been no severance to record. It is the very reverse of creditable to our Ohian brethren to find that after a distinguished member of their brotherhood has devoted the energy and ability of a lifetime to promoting, as far as in him lay, the cause of Masonry; after he has worked on the Masonic Review throughout forty-eight volumes, that distinguished member should find himself under the necessity of abandoning his task to others who, though not abler or more energetic in the cause of Masonic literature, are financially in a position to continue it. Bro. Moore, we repeat, deserves to have met with a better return for his labours than to find himself, towards the end of a long and well-spent life, in the position he was when he was first admitted into a Lodge of Freemasons. We are pleased to hear that he will give the new editor, Bro. Melish, the benefit of his long experience, and we trust, for the honour of Ohian Masonry, that the latter may experience better fortune. This, indeed, is the only amends our Ohian friends can make for their shabby treatment of Bro. Moore—namely, to support the magazine which owes its being to his energy and ability.

It appears, according to Le Monde Maçonnique, that the Grand Orient of Italy has just recognised the Prince Hall Grand Lodge and the coloured Grand Lodge of Ohio. We learn further that the Grand Orient of Egypt, by a decree dated 1st November 1876, declines to recognize the Grand Orient of France as a regular Masonic Power, unless the proposition adopted at the annual meeting of the latter in September, relative to Article I. of the Constitution, is withdrawn. Our readers will, no doubt, remember that this proposition has for its object to strike out so much of the Article in question as declares that belief in the existence of the G.A.O.T.U. is a fundamental principle of Freemasonry; that it was carried by a large majority of votes; and that it only awaits confirmation by the several French lodges in order to become law at the next meeting of the Grand Orient.

The Masonic Jewel records an irreparable calamity which has recently befallen the Masonic Grand Bodies of Arkansas. On the 19th December last a fire broke out at Little Rock, in the head quarters of Freemasonry in this State, the result being that all the records, jewels, and paraphernalia, as well as of the subordinate, as of the Grand bodies, were totally destroyed, together with the Grand Lodge Library. The fire attacked the staircase, so that access to the different halls was rendered impossible. Last year, it seems, all the printed proceedings of Grand Lodge, Chapter, and Council, were burned just when they were ready for delivery; and the Jewel trusts that after this second and more terrible mishap our brethren of Arkansas may be less unfortunate. We fully endorse this wish.

In the Voice of Masonry will be found a very elaborate notice by Bro. Hughan, of Bro. Smith's History of the Humber Lodge, now No. 57, published at Hull in 1855. Bro. Hughan points out several errors which need to be corrected, but speaks generally in high terms of Bro. Smith's work. For the benefit of our readers we may as well mention that Humber Lodge has, at the present time, about two hundred and fifty members; that the value of its Hall and furniture is about £2,500; that its "Benevolent and Pension Funds" are in the possession of funds to the extent of close on £5,000; and that, in addition, it has a "Poor Fund" for the education of children of deceased members, and casual relief, and an "Independent Sinking Fund" likewise.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Fortitude and Old Cumberland Lodge, No. 12.—The installation meeting of this ancient and flourishing Lodge was held on Monday, the 5th inst., at Bro. C. Painter's, Ship and Turtle, Leadenhall-street. Present—Bros. G. Angold W.M., W. B. Kidder S.W., Bateman J.W., L. Ruf P.M. Treas., J. Snelgrove Sec.; P.M.'s Bros. T. Cleaver, Lemaitre, W. R. Stewart P.G.D., Dudley Rolls, Lilley, S. Rolls, and Bros. Krehl, E. B. Kidder, Crick, Marshall, H. G. Rudderforth; D. Nicols, Mower, Crouch, Frost, Bower, Ruf, Henshaw, Elliot, Cooper, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. Mr. J. Kent, who had been balloted for and accepted, was duly initiated into the Order, and Bro. W. J. Beedel was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason in a perfect and impressive manner. Bro. W. B. Kidder S.W. and W.M. elect was then presented to the Lodge. A Board of Installed Masters, 18 in number, was formed, and Bro. J. Cleaver P.M. duly installed Bro. Kidder into the chair, in a manner that reflected great credit for its perfect and careful rendering. He was deservedly congratulated at the conclusion by the brethren and visitors. The W.M. having been saluted, proceeded to invest his officers, as follow:—Bros. G. Angold I.P.M., D. Nicols S.W., Bateman J.W. Leopold Ruf, Father of the Lodge, Treas., re-invested for the eleventh time, amid the enthusiastic applause of the brethren. G. S. Snelgrove P.M. Sec., H. Mower S.D., R. Coombs J.D., T. K. Freeman I.G., Rudderforth D.C., Gilchrist P.M. Tyler, Bro. Dudley Rolls P.M. gave notice, "That the number on the Lodge roll being complete, the initiation and joining fee in future be fifteen guineas." Brother Kidder W.M. then, amid the congratulations of the brethren, presented an elegant gold jewel, with suitable inscription, to the retiring Master, Bro. G. Angold I.P.M. for the valuable services rendered by him to the Lodge during his year of office. Bro. Angold briefly returned thanks, and the Lodge was closed. The brethren, sixty-two in number, sat down to a banquet provided by Bros. G. and A. Painter, that gave unqualified satisfaction. The W.M. proposed the toast of "The Queen and the Craft," which was followed by the National Anthem. The toast of "H.R.H. the M.W.G.M. was enthusiastically received. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Pro G.M., the Deputy G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers, said he was proud that one of the members of the Lodge had been selected as a Grand Officer—all who knew him respected him. He referred to Bro. R. W. Stewart P.G.D., whose name he would couple with the toast, which was acknowledged by Bro. Stewart. Bro. Angold I.P.M. then rose. He had to propose a toast that he was sure they would receive with pleasure, the health of the W.M. (loud cheers.) He and the W.M. had worked together in Masonry, and he knew his qualifications. His best services he was sure would be at the disposal of the Lodge. Bro. Snelgrove then sang an excellent buffo song; he was accompanied by Bro. F. Meen. The W.M. on rising to respond was greeted with loud applause. He thanked the brethren cordially and sincerely for the enthusiastic manner the toast had been received. He appreciated the honour of being placed at the head of so influential and ancient a Lodge, every member of which is entitled to wear the centenary jewel. They had also a Grand Officer among the Past Masters. He hoped to be enabled to carry out the duties of the chair satisfactorily, and nothing should be wanting on his part to merit their approbation. To the Past Masters he naturally looked for assistance, they were eminently qualified to render it. The officers he had invested that evening he knew would co-operate with him, and he entered upon his duties with every confidence. He might say for himself and officers,

> "Be to our faults a little blind,
> And to our virtues very kind."

He hoped on his retirement from the chair to hear he had done his duty. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Past Masters. He mentioned their names seriatim, and spoke of the able and valuable services they had rendered to the Lodge. Bro. Angold I.P.M. replied: he saw Past Masters who had been in that capacity over 20 years; he was, he might say, only a few hours old; he saw one among them, Bro. L. Ruf, the Father of the Lodge and the respected Treasurer. He as well as every Past Master would only be too happy to render assistance if required of them. The W.M. then gave the Visitors. They were not only numerous but also distinguished. He mentioned their names, and coupled with the toast the name of Fred. Binckes P.G.S. (Cheers). Bro. Binckes replied, with his customary eloquence, and was followed by Bro. J. Binge, who said it was just 20 years since he last visited the Lodge, and that was at the installation of Bro. Leopold Ruf, a brother whom all were proud to see among them. Bro. Jardine also said he hailed from New York, he was proud to be an American Mason, Bro. George Washington was the 1st Grand Master, and Bro. Abraham Lincoln, the late respected President, made the slaves free; that was something to be proud of. Should any of the brethren visit his country, he was sure American Masons would give as hearty a welcome as he had received that night. (Cheers.) Bro. George Honey, in admirable style, then sang "Simon the Cellarer," which was loudly encored. Bro. J. Kent, the newly initiated brother, very appropriately returned thanks. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Treasurer and Secretary, said the former brother had been among them for 30 years, he is esteemed for his genuine worth, and also for the efficient manner he had always discharged his duties. The same remarks might be applied to the worthy Secretary, whose duties are always fully appreciated. After a song from Bro. Hogarth, Bro. L. Ruf, who on rising was cordially greeted, said he had been invested as Treasurer for the eleventh time, and he felt it an honour for his name to be associated with the toast. He was pleased to see the Lodge in so flourishing a condition, he was proud to see so many members now, for he remembered when only eighteen met. He felt a pride in being associated with this Lodge, and he hoped to be spared for many years to be among them. His services were always at their command. Bro. Snelgrove also replied. After the toast of "The Masonic Charities," which was proposed by Bro. Stewart, the W.M. gave the toast of "The Wardens." He trusted he had given satisfaction by his selection, and hoped the Senior Warden, Bro. Nicols, would receive at their hands the same kindness they had shown him. He was a resident of another country, but his heart was in the right place, and his charity knew no bounds. He was a Vice President of the Institutions, and qualified to occupy the position of S.W. (Cheers.) The J.W. was one whom all respected. The same remarks might be applied to each officer, who, in turn, would merit the suffrages of the brethren. The Tyler's toast was then given, and the brethren separated. The following brethren were present as visitors:—A. Bird 7, W. B. Shackleton W.M. 1524, J. Robins P.M. 452, A. F. Rowley W.M. 917, R. A proposition that the Lodge hold its first meeting at its new quarters on the last Monday in the present month was also agreed to. The necessary alterations in the Bye-laws were then formally settled. It was also unanimously agreed that the Fifteen Sections be worked on the first meeting night of the Lodge at the old Rodney's Head, Bro. Tolmie having kindly consented to work the same. Bro. Fenner was requested to report the same to the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, in the hope that brethren—other than members of the Lodge—may find it convenient to attend, as the situation of the future place of meeting is most central. Spiegel then called the attention of the brethren, and, though the Lodge of Joppa, of the Craft in general, to the following facts: In one of the Grand Lodges in Germany is an existing law, "That only believers in Christianity can be admitted into Freemasonry." Such a law in the present enlightened age is against every principle of humanity. He then moved, that this Lodge appoint a committee to co-operate with the other Jewish Lodges, as the brethren most aggrieved in Europe, jointly, to draw the attention of Grand Lodge to this obnoxious law. Bros. Israel Abrahams P.M., L. Alexander P.M., and Hymans S.D. having spoken in favour of the resolution, it was carried. A committee was appointed of the former brethren and Bro. Spiegel, for the purpose of making arrangements. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of slight refreshment.

The usual Masonic toasts were given, interspersed with vocal harmony by the following brethren:—Bros. Carruthers, Brown, Hogarth, Dart, Richards, White. Bros. Rudderforth and Maidwell rendered a duet, which was rapturously received. Excellent speeches were made by Bros. Carruthers, Daniel, Maidwell, Holtham, Hollands, &c.; and the manner in which the Craft supported this Lodge of Instruction was commented upon. Altogether a most pleasant evening was spent.

Lodge of Lights, No. 148, Warrington.—The regular monthly meeting of this old Lodge was held on Monday, 29th January, at the Masonic Rooms. The W.M., Bro. Thomas Tunstall, was supported by Bros. W. Sharp P.M. Prov. G.J.W. as S.W., John R. Young J.W., W. H. Robinson I.P.M., A. H. Young S.D., James Paterson J.D., James Hannah as I.G., John Bowes P.M. (Prov. G.J.W. Cumberland and Westmorland) Hon. Sec., John Armstrong (S.W. No. 1250) Treas., J. S. Patten, P. J. Edelsten P.M., and other members and visitors. The Lodge was opened in form, when the minutes were read and declared to be correctly recorded. The ballot was then taken for Bro. Richard Walker Francombe, of the Lodge of Fidelity, No. 269, Blackburn, as a joining member. The result was unanimously in that brother's favour, and he, being in waiting, was announced as "a member of this Lodge." The W.M. said the next business was a source of extreme pleasure to him. In the name of the Lodge it was his privilege to place upon the I.P. Master's breast a massive gold P.M.'s jewel. The jewel was inscribed:—"Lodge of Lights, No. 148, Warrington. Presented to Bro. W. H. Robinson, by the Lodge, in acknowledgment of able services as W.M. A.L. 5876." He would not dilate on Bro. Robinson's merits in his presence, but he must be permitted, as the representative of the members, to say that it was many years since the Lodge was presided over by so young a brother. He had, moreover, performed all the duties of his office in an able manner, and he assured him his services were very highly appreciated by every member of the Lodge. He would not trespass further on their time; but he should be glad if the Secretary would supplement his remarks with a few words of wisdom. Bro. Bowes was glad of the opportunity, and addressing Bro. Robinson, said—The jewel which the W.M. has just placed on your breast, as a gift from the Lodge, is one that you are entitled to wear, having filled the office of Master of this Lodge during the past year. The jewel is a square with the 47th proposition of the 1st Book of Euclid pendent therefrom, and is intended by the Constitutions of our Ancient Order to mark your rank as a Past Master. This proposition of Euclid's Elements is one of the most important discoveries of the learned Brother Pythagoras, who flourished 555 years B.C., and in the joy of his heart he is said to have exclaimed, Eureka, "I have found it," and to have sacrificed a hecatomb. As the figure depends upon several lines, angles, and triangles, as shown in the diagram before you, so Freemasonry depends upon its several members, and the principles upon which the Institution is established. Some of our brethren, from their station in life, standing as they do on the basis of earthly bliss, are emblematical of the great angle which subtends the right angle; others, blessed with means to tread the flowery meads of prosperity and affluence, are descriptive of the squares which stand on the sides; those brethren who enjoy every social comfort and never exceed the bounds of mediocrity, symbolize the triangles within the square; and those who have the satisfaction of administering to the wants of the indigent and industrious, may be compared to the triangle which surrounds and supports the figure; whilst the lines which form it may remind us of those brethren who are incapable of providing the necessaries of life unless aided by cheerful and ready assistance. May the lessons taught by your beautiful jewel ever influence your actions for good, while treading the thorny path of this life, so that when you are summoned to the Grand Lodge above you may receive a much more glorious jewel—one which will never fade away. Bro. Robinson made a feeling response, and assured the brethren that when elected W.M. he determined to try to do his duty, and if he had succeeded to their satisfaction he was amply repaid. The beautiful and costly jewel they had given him he should ever treasure with pride. After some propositions, the Lodge was closed.

Lion and Lamb Lodge, No. 192.—A regular meeting of this Lodge was held on the 1st inst., at the Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street. The Lodge was opened in due form by the W.M. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and a brother was raised to the degree of M.M. The Lodge resumed to the first degree, and Mr. W. H. Davies was duly initiated into Freemasonry. The election of Master then took place, and Bro. E. Jones was duly elected as the W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. Kenning was also re-elected Treasurer. The somewhat sudden death of Bro. W. Baker, an old member, having been announced, the old and many young members retired.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—This Lodge met at the Mason's Hall Tavern, Mason's-avenue, Coleman-street, E.C., on Wednesday the 7th inst. Bro. Abell occupied the Worshipful Master's chair. Bros. Turner was S.W., Sayer J.W., E. Gottheil P.M. Preceptor, John Constable P.M. Hon. Treas., J. K. Pitt Hon. Sec., Fenner S.D., Lay J.D., Walker I.G., Christopher Tyler. Past Master Bloomfield and a full complement of usual attendants were also present. The first ceremony was rehearsed. Bro. I. P. Cohen W.M. of 205 acting as candidate. The second candidate of the Lecture was worked by Bro. Walker, and the third by Bro. Constable, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Turner was elected Master for the next meeting, when, according to the bye-laws, the second ceremony and lecture will be given. Bro. Abbot will deliver the fourth of his series of Lectures at this Lodge of Instruction on Wednesday the 28th inst.

Lodge Commercial, No. 360.—Held its regular meeting on Friday, the 2nd inst. The Lodge was opened by Bro. J. M. Oliver D.M., with Bro. McPherson P.M. as S.W., Mitchell J.W., J. Pattison S.D., A. Barnett I.G., J. Minnock Tyler. The acting Master, Bro. Oliver, said he was sorry to have to read a letter from the R.W.M., who was prevented by illness from being present on this occasion. There being three Fellow Crafts to be passed, he would ask Bro. D. Lamb to perform that ceremony. Two brethren were then raised to the sublime degree, the ceremony being most carefully and elaborately worked by Bro. Lamb. There being no other work, the Lodge was closed in due form.

Consecration of the Albert Edward Lodge, No. 592, Polmadie.—This interesting ceremony was performed on Wednesday, the 31st ult., by Col. Campbell, of Blythswood, P.G.M. of Renfrewshire East, and D.G.M. for Scotland, in a most satisfactory style. The following officers were installed:—Bros. R. Nesbit R.W.M., T. White D.M., W. Clark S.M., A. C. Kellir S.W., J. Grey Sec., J. C. Shand Treas., Walter Gunn S.D., G. Cater J.D., W. Milton S.S., W. Goorlay B.B., G. Stark I.G., G. Read Tyler. The newly-installed Master, Bro. Nesbit, had invited the P.G. officers, as well as the officers of his own Lodge, the Masters and Wardens of the Thornliebank and Paisley Lodges, and some of the visiting brethren from Glasgow, to a beautiful repast at his residence, Eastfield House, where ample justice was done to his bounty, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly responded to. The P.G.M., in the course of his remarks, paid some well-merited compliments to the officers of the new Lodge, saying he thought it promised to become one of the best working Lodges in his province, if they only continued as they had that day began.

White J.W., Smithson Sec., W. M. Hewitt Treas., C. G. Busby S.D., J. Gould J.D., Lee D.C., A. Milner Steward, Mills I.G., H. W. Smith Tyler. A banquet was held at the Angel Hotel, at which there were about sixty present, including the above visitors.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The weekly meeting of the above took place at Bro. Allen's, Royal Edward, Triangle, Hackney, on Tuesday, 6th February. Bro. W. J. Smith W.M., Dr. Defriez S.W., Barker J.W., Lay S.D., Cambridge J.D., Johnson I.G., Worsley Secretary, P.M. Wallington Preceptor; also Bros. A. C. The ceremony of initiation was then rehearsed, Bro. Brown acting as candidate. The 1st and 2nd sections of the lecture were worked by the W.M., and the 3rd and 4th by Bro. Hewlett, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Defriez was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge closed in due form, and adjourned till Tuesday, the 13th inst., at 7.30.

Welch Pool Lodge, No. 998.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Friday, 2nd February, at the Railway Station, Welch Pool. The W.M., Bro. T. R. Morris, opened his Lodge in the 1st and 2nd degrees, and entrusted Bro. the Rev. Alfred Whitlow, who retired, and the Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree. Bro. D. P. Owen P.M. then ascended the pedestal, and Bro. Whitlow was re-admitted and raised to the sublime degree of a M.M. Lodge was resumed in the 1st degree, and Mr. William T. Parker J.P. (previously balloted for) was initiated. At the request of the W.M., Bro. Owen retained possession of the pedestal, and informed the brethren that he had a sad and painful task to perform, but one that he should have been extremely jealous of any one else—under present circumstances—doing, and that was, to announce to them the death of the first Master of the Lodge No. 998. On Monday last, it pleased the G.A.O.T.U. to erase the name of Thomas William John Goldsbro' off the list of those various earthly Lodges which had been honoured by his connection with them, but he expressed a firm conviction that it was now enrolled on the tablets of the Grand Lodge above. Bro. Owen reminded the Lodge that by the loss they had sustained he now was in the position of Senior P.M., and sorry was he that so soon, and by such an event, he had attained so high a position in his mother Lodge. He was the only one present that evening who was also present on 4th March 1864, when, working under dispensation previous to consecration, our late Bro. Goldsbro' opened the first Masonic Lodge in his native town; for, although resident in London, the Doctor was designated as first Master, and that during the two years he had held the office he presided at 23 meetings, and had initiated 44 candidates. The death of Bro. Goldsbro' came extremely sudden to him (Bro. Owen), as it was only on the Sunday he had received a letter from Dr. Goldsbro' in reply to one of his, in which he had asked him to write and invite (in his name) the D.P.G.M., Bro. Bulkeley Hughes, to be present at the anniversary, on the 29th of March, and in 36 hours afterwards the silver thread was broken. When he recollected the time when he was initiated by Bro. Goldsbro', and his (after the banquet) asking him (Bro. Owen) to be sure to stick fast to 998, a promise how glad he was now that he had kept, he could hardly realise that no more within their walls would be heard that voice, so impressive in its manner, teaching us all the beauties of his beloved Masonry; the kind look no more to shed light and lustre amongst us, and the want of that kindly council given as soon as asked, that had enabled him (Bro. Owen) to help to steer 998 in difficulties and in dangers into a sea of rest. But not only would the loss be felt in 998, it would extend all over the Province, for when this Lodge was consecrated there had not been a new one opened for six years, and during the last thirteen years Bro. Goldsbro' had (at the request of the Pro G.M.) consecrated fourteen new Lodges. The Marlborough Lodge, Woodstock, the Prince of Wales Chapter, Tredegar, and their own Chapter received the same great service at his hands. He was also the first P.Z. of 998, and arrangements were made for him to consecrate the Towyn and Rhyl Lodges in the summer. In addition, our late brother was a P.M. of Jordan 201, and a P.Z. of Jerusalem 185, and had served the office of Steward to the three Charities, and was also a Past Prov. G. Senior Warden of North Wales and Shropshire. Before concluding, Bro. Owen expressed a sure hope that many a long year would elapse before the name of Goldsbro' would cease to be a revered and "household word" in 998, and it was with a sad heart that he had to move that a vote of condolence be passed to the widow and family of the one to whom he owed his entrance into—and the whole of his knowledge of—Freemasonry. This proposition was seconded by Bro. Withy P.M., who spoke in the most feeling terms of the loss sustained, not only in the Lodge, but also as a precious and sincere friend. He would wish to add, further, to mark their sense and feeling, that the Lodge clothe itself in mourning until after the June meeting. The above propositions were carried in solemn silence. In addition to the above, Bro. Collender P.M. 998 and W.M. of the Llanidloes Lodge, which was consecrated by Bro. Goldsbro', intimated his intention to insert on their next Lodge summons a request that the brethren of 1582 would appear in mourning, and Bro. F. Britton P.M. 850 and 998 and W.M. of the Cedewain Lodge, which also was consecrated by Bro. Goldsbro', expressed his intention to act in the same manner. Bro. Owen then informed the brethren that the time had now arrived when it was necessary to elect a W.M. for the ensuing twelvemonth. The lot fell unanimously on the S.W., Bro. Grahame Brown, who returned thanks for the honour conferred upon him. Bro. Withy P.M. returned thanks for being re-elected Treasurer. The worthy old Tyler, Bro. Sergeant Barnard, was also re-elected. Bro. D. P. Owen then proposed a vote of thanks to the retiring Master, Bro. Thos. R. Morris, for the many services that he had done for the Lodge, not only during his year of office but also during the two years that he had held the office of Secretary. This was seconded by the S.W. The Lodge was then closed and adjourned until the anniversary, 29th March.

Gottheil P.Z. will again occupy the first Principal's chair at next meeting.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—The weekly meeting of this Lodge was held on Friday, 2nd February, at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate. Present—Bros. Oldroyd W.M., Lane S.W., Andrews J.W., A. W. Fenner S.D., Cleverley J.D., Townsend I.G. Bros. Simpson, Bolton, Lupinsky, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form with solemn prayer. The minutes were then read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Cleverley acting as candidate. The 1st and 2nd Sections of the Lecture were worked by Bro. Fenner, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Lane was unanimously chosen W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks was cordially voted to the W.M. for the excellent manner in which he had performed the duties of the chair. All business being ended, Lodge was closed in due form.

Golden Rule Lodge, No. 1261.—Met on Tuesday the 6th instant, at the Regent Masonic hall. Bro. Gorton Adkins was passed. The ceremony of installing our popular Bro. J. Perry Godfrey into the chair, was then most impressively performed by Bro. Allworth, the retiring W.M., after which the new Master signalled the day of his installation by initiating Messrs. J. E. Beckett and James G. Wilkin, with equal efficiency and solemnity. Bros. W. H. Muggeridge W.M. 1328, and J. A. Bargan 1623, were elected joining members. After a well served banquet, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured; after which the W.M. proposed the health of the initiates, whom he had known for many years. Bro. Wilkin, always a good fellow, could not but become a better henceforward. Bro. Beckett was his old brother officer in the Irish Rifles; he had been best man at that brother's wedding, and felt that in initiating him that evening he had again done the proper thing. Bros. Beckett and Wilkin expressed their thanks. The latter stated that some years back, his friend the W.M. on learning his desire to become a Mason, had begged him to wait until he should give the word. He had waited until Bro. Godfrey was in the chair to initiate him; had it been ten or fifteen years he would have done the same; and he fully intended to reflect credit upon the friend who had initiated him at last. W. Bro. Allworth proposed the health of the W.M., whose Masonic career he had watched with interest from the day, whilst yet a raw recruit, that he declared his intention not to slacken his endeavours until he had attained the chair. He had attained it, and the faultless working they had seen that day, had amply justified the ambition. W. Bro. Perry Godfrey returned thanks, and said that when he first found himself in office, he had felt it a duty to his father in Masonry thoroughly to qualify himself for the career before him. To that end, although the duties of the world weighed heavily upon him, he determined not to accept the chair until he had proved himself thoroughly qualified in a Lodge of Instruction to fulfil its duties. This he had done. As in his past career, so in the future, that which he professed to undertake he expected to carry out. Some good speeches were made by Bros. Bigg, Rose, Dr. Cross and others. The proceedings were diversified by loyal and humorous songs, exquisitely rendered by Bro. Vernon, and an effective duet by Bros. Bigg and Williams. Quite a number of visitors were present; amongst whom we noticed Bros. E. J. Harty W.M. of 1201, J. Norton W.M., 969, Rose P.M. and Preceptor of 73, and W.M. of 1622: Mander W.M. of 1201, Canton W.M. of 1475, Hall, Vyse, A. S. Godfrey, Barker, Spencer, Garner, Captain Hewitt, and Dr. Payne.

Beaminster Lodge, No. 1367.—Held its regular meeting on Thursday, the 1st of February, at the Lodge Room, White Hart Hotel, Beaminster, Dorset. Present—Bros. Edward Gapper Legg W.M., John Hine P.M. acting S.W., Edward Holland J.W., Samuel Cox Sec., James Andrews P.M. Treas., Edward Toleman S.D., J. S. Webb P.M. D.C., Toby P.M. Steward, William Murrant I.G., F. Long Tyler, P.M.'s Bros. Purkis and James Broad. The Lodge was opened with solemn prayer. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. A letter was read from Bro. Montague Guest, as to the claim of Bro. Lovelace, Provincial Grand Tyler, and a sum was voted to purchase a life governorship (for this Lodge) for the Royal Masonic Institution for Aged Freemasons. Bro. Lovelace's claims were heartily responded to by the brothers subscribing to purchase votes on his behalf. Bro. James Broad was passed to the second degree, and Mr. John Williams, of Beaminster, having been ballotted for, and unanimously elected, was properly prepared and initiated in ancient form in the mysteries and privileges of the first degree. On the proposition of Bro. Hine, it was carried unanimously that the Secretary be instructed to write a letter of condolence to the family of our late lamented Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master Joseph Gundry, sympathising in their bereavement, and expressing the high esteem in which Bro. Gundry was held in this Lodge and the Province generally. The Lodge was closed in peace, order, and harmony, at 9.15, after which the brethren retired to refreshment.

New Cross Lodge, No. 1559.—On Saturday last, at New Cross Hall, the regular meeting was held. Bro. F. Walters P.P.J.D. Middlesex P.M., Treasurer, opened the Lodge. He raised Bro. A. Macgilvary. Thiellay P.G.S.B. Middlesex, P.M. 145, W.M. elect 1423, S.W., W. A. Simmons J.W., F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex, P.M. Treasurer, Grammant Secretary, L. Beck S.D., H. J. Green P.M. 1538, W.M. 1275, J.W., S. Jewell I.G., E. Smith D.C., W. B. Woodman I.P.M., W. S. Church Tyler. E. M. Hubbuck gave the working tools explanation in the three degrees, and address to the W.M.; W. Smeed the address to the Wardens, and F. Walters the address to the brethren. The W.M., Bro. H. Keeble, on behalf of the members, presented Bro. W. B. Woodman with a massive ten guinea P.M.'s jewel, which had been unanimously voted to him from the Lodge funds. It bears a suitable inscription, which was duly acknowledged by Bro. W. B.

Woodman. All the work was well done, and the Lodge was closed and adjourned. A banquet followed, when the usual toasts were given. The long list of visitors included Bros. J. W. Baldwin P.A.G.P. Cripplegate Lodge, No. 1613.—At the meeting on the 2nd of February, Bro. Ingram was raised, and Bros. Gibbs and Holliday were passed. Bro. Coate I.P.M. proposed, Bro. C. J. Benson seconded, and it was unanimously agreed, that a letter of condolence should be forwarded to Mrs. W. R. Baker, on the death of her husband, Bro. W. R. Baker, of Cripplegate Ward. The funeral was conducted from his residence, 16 South Villas, Camden-square, the hearse being followed by a long string of carriages containing his friends and members of the Cripplegate Lodge. The interment took place in Kensal Green Cemetery, where his friends had assembled to the number of near on 300 to testify the great esteem and respect in which Bro. W. R. Baker was held by the Ward of Cripplegate, and by his friends elsewhere.

Royal Kensington Lodge, No. 1627.—This Lodge held its usual monthly meeting on Friday, 2nd February, at Freemasons' Hall. Present—Bros. W. F. Raymond W.M., Chas. E. Soppet S.W., W. E. Gordon Leith J.W., Donald M. Dewar Secretary, Hyde Pullen Treasurer, H. R. Gill S.D., Samuel Browne D.C. and Steward, H. M. Sydney I.G., also Bros. Gass, Percy Leith P.G.D., J. Dunning, G. R. Business—The Lodge being opened and the minutes of last meeting read and confirmed, Bro. S. H. D'Avignor, of Mount Moriah Lodge, No. 34, was elected a joining member. Mr. Geo. W. Tustin having been approved on ballot, was duly initiated. Bros. Dunning and Gass were passed to the second degree; and Bro. G. R. Matthews was raised to the sublime degree, all the ceremonies being performed by V.W. Bro. Hyde Pullen, in his usual masterly style. Bro. Pullen officiated at the request of the W.M., who was suffering from indisposition. A gentleman was then proposed for initiation at next meeting; after which the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a banquet.

Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow.—Held its installation meeting on 1st February, the V.W.P.G.M. Bro. Col. Walter Montgomery Nelson presiding, supported on the dais by Bros. F. A. Barrow D.P.G.M., John Baird S.P.G.M., J. Gilles P.G.T., W. H. Beckerton P.G.S., J. Ritchie P.G.A., R. Robb P.G.M., T. Halket P.G.D. of M. In the absence of the P.G.W. the chair of P.G.S.W. was filled by Bro. Dr. McInnis R.W.M. 27, and that of J.W. by Jas. Thompson R.W.M. 102. At the request of the P.G.M. Bro. Barrow, his deputy, proceeded to instal the officers, a list of whom was given in our last week's account of the election. The P.G.M. himself investing each of them with their jewel of office. Bro. Barrow then passed a high eulogium on the S.D. Bro. John Morgan, their interim Secretary, stating that in the 16 years he had acted as D.P.M. he had never found a brother who had so zealously performed the duties, and as he had declined to take the proportion of salary due for the time he had filled that post he now moved that the sum of £10 be voted to present him with a suitable testimonial of their appreciation of his conduct. This was carried by acclamation. The subject of Grand Lodge business for the ensuing Monday was then discussed, and some rather sharp remarks were passed on certain of the officials by Bros. Barrow, McCannicush and others. Bro. D. M. Nelson G.S.D. requested the brethren to suspend their judgment till they saw what the Officers elected in November would do; he could assure them that they must effect some sweeping reforms. The P.G.M. concurred in these remarks, still he thought it would be well for the Glasgow brethren to be in their places on Monday to assist in this object. He was sorry to find that his own efforts to improve the status of Masonry had not been responded to as he could have wished. He thought the possession of a Provincial Grand Lodge Hall a very necessary thing; he was sorry to find that after the sum paid, £180 now, and about £60 being promised, that his efforts were not appreciated, and that he could have put his money to a better use. Bro. J. Kennaird R.W.M. 73, Dr. McInnis 27, and J. Murray 103 were appointed auditors. The report of the Provincial Benevolent Fund showed that £47 had been given in charity during the past quarter.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentary to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their biographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire."—Pigaro.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. V.—No. 112. SATURDAY, 17th FEBRUARY 1877. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

THE FESTIVAL OF MONDAY LAST.

WE heartily congratulate Bro. Terry on the brilliant success of Monday. Had no more been done this year than last, that "Zealous Officer" would still have been as fully entitled to our thanks. It is impossible for any one to exhibit more than the maximum amount of zeal. Bro. Terry has always laboured to the utmost of his power, and always merits therefore the gratulations of the Craft. When, however, his labours are productive of such magnificent results as they were on Monday, the duty of expressing our obligations has in it a large admixture of pleasure. Just as he rejoices over the success of his efforts—though these latter would have been as great had their success been more limited—so must we feel additional gratification in the performance of our duty, though the same duty must have been fulfilled under any circumstances. But to pass at once to the Festival itself. As briefly and unexpectedly announced in these columns last week, H.R.H. Prince Leopold, the new Provincial Grand Master of Oxfordshire, was at the last moment prevented, by the delicate state of his health, from presiding in person. We sincerely regret the indisposition from which his Royal Highness is suffering. Still we cannot refrain from expressing the pleasure we feel at finding how firm is the position he has already established among the Craft. It must be obvious to every one of our readers that the mere announcement of his presidency exercised a most salutary influence on the subscription list. Had he been able to attend, it would have been his first public appearance among the Craft in London since his elevation to the Grand Mastership of Oxfordshire. That is, on the first opportunity that presented itself, Prince Leopold gave proof of the sterling character of his Masonry. No one ever, of course, doubted that he was as truly loyal to the principles of our Fraternity as the plainest and most unassuming of its members, or as the oldest and most respected of our veterans. Still, it is in the highest degree creditable to the Prince that, in his first public act as a Mason, he should have shown himself worthy of his exalted rank and the distinguished position to which his brother, the Grand Master, so recently appointed him. And it is still more creditable to him that in this first Masonic act of his he should have associated himself so conspicuously with what all true Freemasons regard as their first and most important duty—the duty of advancing the cause of Charity. There are many among us who are reckoned as being good men and true, who contribute of their means to the support of these or those charitable institutions. But it requires some courage to undertake the duty of presiding at one of our Festivals. There is a considerable amount of responsibility attached to the fulfilment of such a duty, and, as we said in a recent article, many an older and more experienced man has before now excused himself from undertaking it. We do not for one moment imagine any proof was needed that the Prince was a zealous as well as a loyal Craftsman; but it is pleasing to find our expectations realised, nor doubt we the splendid subscription list of Monday is all the more splendid, because the Craft were resolved on showing their sense of the Prince's courage and kindness. His first act was to show himself the zealous partisan of one of our Charities, and the Craft were determined his partisanship should be a brilliant success. Hence, no doubt, in great measure, the magnificent collection of £12,656 13s, with fourteen lists still outstanding.

But just as this was only one of the reasons we urged, why the subscriptions should present a higher total than at any previous Festival, so, doubtless, was it only one of several motives which stirred the brethren to this grand display of munificence. We pointed out in the article already referred to, that a larger amount of subscriptions than usual was absolutely necessary. The Male Fund at the end of the year showed only a small balance in hand, indeed, not more than sufficient to provide for four additional annuitants, on the assumption, of course, that the Festival of this year would be as productive as that of last year was. But, worse still, the Female Fund showed a deficit, representing in fact, the aggregate of nine annuities. Taking the several sets of annuitants together, that is, the men, the widows, and the widows receiving half their late husbands' annuities, the Benevolent Institution stands committed at this present time to an annual outlay in excess of £9000, irrespective of office and other heads of expenditure. Therefore, every year the Craft is bound to make the most determined efforts to realise as large a list as possible; for it is only by means of such efforts that it will be able to keep faith with the annuitants it has placed on its pension list. But this was only the second of our reasons. There was yet a third, and even more important one still. At the present time there are only nine vacancies on the Male Fund, and three on the Female, to be filled at the election in May next, but the number of approved candidates already on the list to compete for these vacancies is in the case of the Males thirty-four, and Females thirty-six. Other vacancies may arise between now and the election, and the number of candidates will also, perhaps, be increased. Be this as it may, there are at this moment, taking the two funds together, seventy candidates to compete for twelve vacancies, which differs in no appreciable degree from what we said a fortnight since, "a ratio of six and a half of the one to one of the other." We do not for one moment hesitate to place among the motives which have operated so successon this occasion, the absolute need there is to provide for a large annual outlay, and the immoderate excess of candidates for admission to the benefits of the Institution over vacancies. There was yet a fourth reason we urged in behalf of the good cause. A high authority had publicly stated in Grand Lodge that no one of our Charities would ever appeal in vain to the Craft for the needful support. We said this statement must be regarded as "evidence of a wise prescience in the eminent brother who made it," and that his confidence in the readiness of the Craft at all times to fulfil its duty, must be taken as "ominous of good in the year we have just entered upon." We are aware there are many brethren who have questioned his wisdom in making such an announcement. Here, at all events, we have the clearest evidence of its justice. The very first occasion, since this announcement, on which an appeal has been made to the Craft for its support is more fruitful of good than any previous occasion, that is, as regards this particular Charity. The sum collected last year, when Lord Skelmersdale presided, was £9,174 10s 6d. This year, with Prince Leopold announced as chairman, the amount realised is £12,656 13s, with sundry returns yet to be made. Thus the excess of the latter collection over the former is £3,482 2s 6d. The increase, therefore, is about 38 per cent. on the year 1876. In fact, if we bear in mind that the Festival of 1876 was in round figures £2,000 in excess of 1875, and that 1875 surpassed 1874 to the extent of close upon £1,500, we have every reason to be proud of the success achieved in the cause of this particular Charity. In 1874, with Lord Waveney as president, the Festival realised £5,220; in 1875, £6,630 13s 6d, with eleven lists outstanding; in 1876, as we have said above, £9,174 10s 6d, and now, on Monday last, the still greater sum of £12,656 13s. That is to say, the support accorded to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution has considerably more than doubled itself in the short space of four years. We shall add nothing more in the way of colouring to this splendid picture.

As regards the occasion itself, we need say little here. Lord Shrewsbury and Talbot, Provincial Grand Master of Staffordshire, occupied the chair in the unavoidable absence of Prince Leopold. In 1875, his Lordship gave us a taste of his quality—as the saying is—as a chairman, and his second Presidency at this Festival was as great a success as, if not a greater success than, his first. He was geniality itself, and it would be an act of injustice to his Lordship if we allowed this opportunity to pass without offering him our tribute of thanks, not only for the readiness with which he came forward at the very last moment to undertake a serious responsibility, but likewise for the kindness and ability with which he fulfilled his trust. Nor must we pass unnoticed the signal services of the Board of Stewards. On them devolved the oftentimes unpleasant duty of canvassing for funds. But they undertook the office spontaneously, and discharged it diligently and with unexampled energy. In the success of their labours lies their chief reward, but none the less are they entitled to our thanks, and these we tender to them with the utmost cordiality. May succeeding Boards of Stewards be as successful as have been the Stewards at the Festival in 1877 of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution!

Since the above remarks were written, the gratifying intelligence has reached us that, at their monthly meeting on Wednesday, the General Committee were so satisfied with the amount obtained at this Festival, that they then and there resolved upon increasing the number of annuitants by thirty, namely, fifteen men and fifteen women. Thus, the number of vacancies to be filled at the election in May will be forty-two, instead of twelve, as stated; namely, twenty-four on the male, and eighteen on the female fund. It must be mentioned, however, that this addition is only provisional. If the amount of subscriptions in future years falls short of the sum just realised, the Committee will be necessarily unable to provide for the increased number of annuitants.

Seven of the fourteen lists have since been received. These yield a total of £167, so that the Festival has, already, produced £12,823 13s.

ANALYSIS OF THE SUBSCRIPTION LIST.

IN accordance with our usual practice, we set before our readers the following analysis of the subscription list. As the total amount subscribed is great beyond all precedent in the history of the Benevolent Institution, so will it be found, on a careful examination of the several items of which the list is composed, that the Festival of 1877 presents certain features which, heretofore, have been wanting in similar lists. The most important of these is the unmistakable evidence it affords that the sacred duty of being charitable is not only becoming every year more and more generally appreciated, but likewise more and more generally practised. We all know full well the difference between appreciation and practice. It is undoubtedly a feather in a man's cap when he is able to appreciate a virtue, but his cap is full of feathers when he is advanced enough to practise it. Year after year have the Chairmen at our different Festivals pointed out to those whom they were immediately addressing, and through them to the Craft universal, that Charity, to be really effective, must be distributed over the widest possible area, that more real good is done by a number of small subscriptions than by a few of considerable amount. The meaning of this will be obvious to all our readers. The kindlier feelings of our nature are more thoroughly and more generally aroused when there is a multitude of participants in an act of charity than when it is the act of a single person. This, of course, is to a certain extent, merely a sentimental view of the case we have in view. No one would ever be so silly as to affirm that a thousand pounds, given by one man, would have less effect in relieving distress than the same sum if contributed by twenty or a hundred men. All we mean to say is, that its distribution among many donors proves incontestably that sympathy with distress is spread over a wider surface. There is, however, this undoubted advantage to be gained when a subscription list proceeds from many instead of from a few. Sympathy, like most other affections of the human mind, is contagious. When men of moderate means find their modest donations are not only sought after but appreciated, immediately other men who are similarly circumstanced follow suit, and in the end the aggregate of these numerous small donations mounts up to and exceeds the aggregate of a few large ones. It is, then, with these feelings influencing us, that we express our unfeigned delight at finding that the number of participants in the work of charity on this occasion is greatly in excess of what it has been in former years. The total amount contributed by the Metropolitan District is within a few shillings of £6,680, and in this contribution no less than 112 Lodges, or but little short of one-half the number in the whole district, participate. In addition, two Royal Arch Chapters, a Rose Croix Chapter, a Mark Lodge, and two individual donors contribute. As our readers are aware, there are forty-one Provincial Grand Lodges under the Grand Lodge of England, together with Beds, the Channel Islands, and the Isle of Man; that is, in all, forty-four groups of Lodges outside the Metropolitan District. No less than twenty-nine of these are represented in the present list, and the aggregate of their subscriptions is a few shillings under £5,978. In addition, must be mentioned a contribution of £50 from the district of Hong Kong. The following are the Provinces included in the list. Berks and Berks, with its sixteen Lodges is represented by four Stewards, from four different Lodges, and is entered for £173 19s 6d. Bristol, with its eight Lodges, has its Provincial Grand Master, the Earl of Limerick, as its representative, and contributes through him the sum of £161 8s. Under Cheshire there appear eight Stewards, on behalf of five out of its thirty-nine Lodges, the result being a subscription of £139 3s. The Province of Cumberland and Westmoreland has a single representative, namely, from the Union Lodge, Kendal, and he has been the means of importing into the coffers of the Institution the very comfortable sum of £63. Derbyshire has one representative for its seventeen Lodges, with a donation of £10. Devonshire, with five Stewards for three of its forty-six Lodges, contributes the handsome sum of £596 0s 6d. Dorsetshire and its thirteen Lodges has Bro. Montague J. Guest for its Charity Commissioner. He must have worked hard, for the sum appearing against his name is £305. Four of the sixteen Essex Lodges sent Stewards, and their united efforts resulted in a donation of £113 13s. Gloucestershire, with fourteen Lodges, contributes £28 7s, by the hands of a single Steward, acting for the Royal Forest of Dean Lodge, No. 1067, Newnham. Hants and the Isle of Wight, with twenty-nine Lodges, has four Stewards, from four distinct Lodges, £171 5s being the amount of their joint contributions. Hertfordshire is but a small province, with only ten Lodges. Six of these are represented, and together subscribe £155 8s 6d. It may be remarked that Kent is invariably an important contributor. This is not surprising, perhaps, for it has forty Lodges. Ten of these sent Stewards to this Festival, and the extent of their exertions produced £478 3s. A Bolton Lodge is the only one of the eighty-four East Lancashire Lodges which is represented; but Brother Hine, who occupies a foremost position in connection with the Provincial Charity Fund, must be taken as doing duty for the whole Province. His contribution, and those of the four Bolton Stewards, amount together to £330 5s. The Western Division of Lancashire has seventy-four Lodges. Seven of these are represented, by eight Stewards, and subscribe among them £149 17s 6d. It must be remembered, however, that at the Festival of this Institution, in 1876, the Grand Master of this Province, Lord Skelmersdale, presided as Chairman, and then the Province supported him magnificently, contributing over £1,500, or only a little short of one-sixth part of the total subscribed. Provincial Grand Master Earl Ferrers represents the ten Lodges of his Province of Leicestershire and Rutland, the amount of his list being £15 8s. Lincolnshire is an important Province, having within its limits just twenty Lodges. Bro. John Sutcliffe, as Steward of No. 1294, is down for £35. But the contributions of Lincolnshire are both frequent and considerable, and a breathing space is allowable even in the work of Charity. There are twenty-four Lodges in Middlesex, which is presided over by a worthy chief, whose name is intimately associated with all kinds of charitable deeds. Nine Lodges send among them ten Stewards, and there is also on the list a Middlesex R.A. Chapter, the aggregate of their contributions being £339 5s. Monmouthshire has but eight Lodges, and these are represented by the Deputy Provincial G.M., S. G. Homfray, whose list bore fruit to the extent of £210. Norfolk, with fourteen Lodges, sent three Stewards, one each for as many Lodges, £82 17s being the product of their united efforts. Oxfordshire is certainly a most influential province, and as its Provincial Grand Master, but for the delicate state of his health, would have occupied the chair, naturally great things were expected of it, and the result has not belied these expectations. Ten Stewards, with Prince Leopold at their head, did duty for six out of its seven Lodges, the total of their joint subscriptions amounting to £279 13s. Somersetshire, with its nineteen Lodges, contributed £253 14s, two Lodges being represented, each by a single Steward. A subscription of £145 emanated from Staffordshire, the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, its Provincial Grand Master, who presided at the Festival, being one of the two Stewards who did duty for the twenty-one Lodges of the Province, the other Steward representing a Wolverhampton Lodge. Suffolk, with eighteen Lodges, has one representative only, in the person of a Steward from one of our Ipswich Lodges. His list amounted to £111 14s. Three of the seventeen Surrey Lodges sent each one a Steward, and among them they raised the sum of £111 0s 6d. Two of the nineteen Sussex Lodges contributed between them £150 13s, one being a Brighton, the other a Lewes Lodge. Warwickshire, with Lord Leigh, its Provincial Grand Master, at the head of the six Stewards who represented it, figures for the handsome sum of £467 5s 6d, the two Lodges who appear in the list, out of twenty-nine, being both located at Birmingham. If we bear in mind that when Lord Leigh presided at the Boys' Festival last year, the Province contributed exactly Two Thousand Pounds, it will be universally acknowledged that this Province has fulfilled its duty in a manner that may be equalled, but cannot be surpassed. The Province of Wilts, with its ten Lodges, has as its representative, Lord Methuen, its Grand Master, and through him contributes the sum of £273 1s. A Hull Lodge and the new York Lodge represent the Province of North and East Yorkshire, £39 5s being the sum of their joint subscription lists. £550 is the amount contributed by the West Yorkshire Lodges, or rather by twenty-six Stewards acting on their behalf, at the head of whom, as usual, is to be found the respected Provincial Grand Master, Sir Henry Edwards. Sixteen out of its sixty-three Lodges are directly represented, and four of these are entered directly as contributors. The absentees among the Provinces are as follow: Beds (5 Lodges), Cambridgeshire (4 Lodges), Cornwall (27 Lodges), Durham (24 Lodges), Herefordshire (4 Lodges), Northamptonshire and Hunts (8 Lodges), Northumberland (15 Lodges), Notts (8 Lodges), North Wales and Shropshire (24 Lodges), South Wales E. (10 Lodges), South Wales W. (9 Lodges), Worcester (10 Lodges), Channel Islands (4 Lodges), Jersey (7 Lodges), Isle of Man (3 Lodges). Of these, however, Herefordshire, Northumberland, and the two Divisions of South Wales figure in last years' list, while several of the others have contributed at the Festivals of our other Charities. It must be remarked further, as a hint to the energetic Secretaries of the Boys' and Girls' Schools, that Beds, Cambridgeshire, Worcestershire, the Channel Islands, and the Isle of Man do not figure, at least directly, so far as we have any means of knowing, in any of the Festival lists, either in 1876 or 1875, though, of course, it is quite possible that some of them may have contributed at other periods of the year. Moreover, there are still certain lists to be added, and these may, to some extent, alter the complexion of the list, as we have described it from the materials till now at our disposal.

Turn we now to the London Lodges, of which, according to Grand Lodge Calendar for the current year, there are 253, though we also know that this number has been slightly increased since the 1st of January. Nearly one-half of these, or, to be literal, 112 of these contribute, among them a sum just a trifle short of £6,510. In the Calendar for 1876 will be found 224 Lodges in this District, and of these 71, together with two others subsequently warranted, figured at the Festival for that year. From this we gather that the proportion of contributing Lodges was a little over one-third of the total number. This year over 44 per cent. of the total has subscribed. It is, however, in the aggregate amount contributed by them that the progress made is the most noticeable. Last year London gave £4,067 out of the £9,174 raised, or less than one-half by between £500 and £600. This year it gives, as we have said, £6,680 out of a total of £12,656, that is, between £300 and £400 more than one-half. Therefore, not only are the London contributors spread over a wider area but the proportion of its subscription to the general total is even higher still. Of the 112 on this year's list no less than 36 are contributing Lodges in 1875, 1876, and 1877; twenty-five of the remaining 76 contributed either last year or the year before, while of the yet remaining 51 there are 15 which have only been in existence a year, and have had no previous opportunity of subscribing to this Charity. This is an admirable proportion of the 26 or 27 Lodges which have been constituted during the past twelvemouths.

Our task is now done. We are sensible of the many imperfections to which these analyses are necessarily subject, but they serve, in a measure, to point out where there is new ground for the energy of future Boards of Stewards. We do our utmost to promote the cause of our three Charities, and, in doing so, we use our best endeavours to avoid giving offence even to the most sensitive. We cannot hope to please everybody, and we are not silly enough to make the experiment; but we have a clear conscience, void of all intentional offence in this and all other matters which come under our cognisance.

COVENT GARDEN LODGE, No. 1614.

THE Consecration and Installation Ceremony was held on Tuesday, 13th inst., at Ashley's Hotel, Maiden-lane, Covent Garden, and was honoured by the presence of several Grand and Provincial officers, and many brethren distinguished in the Order. The brethren assembled in the ante-room, and walked in procession to the Lodge-room. Bro. W. W. Watson P.G.S., the presiding officer, took the chair, and appointed Bros. J. Smith P.G.P. S.W., and W. Hilton P.M. 780 J.W. The Lodge was opened in the three degrees, and the anthems were sung by Bro. Matthew Cooke P.G.S. The brethren of the new Lodge were then arranged in order, and the acting Secretary read the petition and warrant from the Ebury Lodge. An oration on the nature and principles of the institution was given by Bro. the Rev. P. M. Holden, with great power; at the conclusion he recited some appropriate verses. The presiding officer then constituted the Lodge, and installed Bro. John Coutts P.G.P. as the first Worshipful Master. The newly installed W.M. having been saluted in antient form, invested his officers. Bro. W. Watson P.G.S. I.P.M., E. Jacobs 1348 S.W., A. J. Ireton 1348 J.W., Potter Tyler. The W.M. informed the brethren that although it had been arranged who were to be officers, yet as they were not at present members of the Lodge, their investure would not take place until the next meeting. The furniture was very elegant, and the room artistically arrayed with floral decorations by Mr. W. Stone. Bro. W. Bourne P.M. 749, Secretary and P.M. 1348, efficiently acted as director of ceremonies. Several propositions were given to the Secretary for initiation, and the names of seven brethren as joining members. Hearty good wishes were given from the visitors to the W.M., and success for the future of the Lodge. After the Lodge was closed, the brethren, 49 in number, sat down to a banquet and dessert, a la Russe. The wines and viands were of first-rate description, and gave great satisfaction. Grace having been said, the W.M. proposed the Queen and the Craft. After the National Anthem, the health of the M.W.G.M. was given, and enthusiastically received; this was followed by God Bless the Prince of Wales. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers, spoke of their Masonic qualifications. He felt honoured by the presence of three Grand Officers, and he would couple the toast with the name of a brother who is esteemed throughout the Craft. He referred to Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary. (Loud cheers). The glee, "Blow Gentle Gales," was admirably rendered by Bros. G. T. Carter, Montem Smith, J. Hodges, and R. Wilkinson. Bro. John Henry then rose to return thanks. While we had such noblemen as the Earl of Carnarvon and Lord Skelmersdale as Grand Officers, we never can be tired in speaking of their qualities. The Pro Grand Master is a thorough good Mason, and a Minister of the Crown, yet he can always find a few minutes to spare for the interests of the Craft. The same may be applied to the R.W. Lord Skelmersdale, who is one who eventually will hold a higher position; he is Captain of the Yeomen of the Guard, and holds a responsible position in the House of Lords. He had two Grand Officers on his right hand—Bros. Jabez Hogg and J. Smith—whose excellent suggestions and advice are always for the benefit of the Craft; in their name he thanked the W.M. and the brethren for their kind expressions and hospitality, and hoped to be present on a future occasion. Before resuming his seat, he had a toast to propose that he was sure would be pleasing to them. We have seen the Good Ship in Covent Garden fairly launched, and properly manned. Bro. Watson has discharged his duty ably; every one has been gratified; all has gone well; we have been well catered for; at the head of that fraternal feeling is one who is a true Mason, and one who is highly respected. I give you the health of your Worshipful Master, Brother John Coutts—(loud cheers)—and with it success to the Covent Garden Lodge, not only wishing him long life, but many years of happiness on his leaving the chair. The W.M. thanked the Grand Secretary for his kind expressions, and the brethren for the enthusiastic manner in which his name had been received. The Covent Garden Lodge was now fairly launched. By the assistance of a few brethren, the matter was speedily settled, but the Lodge would have been in existence before this evening, but for the fact that the brethren wished to pay him the compliment of making him the first W.M., and this could not be done until he had passed the chair in another Lodge. He informed the brethren that there had been a Covent Garden Lodge some 80 years since. This held its meetings on Sundays; that would not do in the present age. The warrant, however, went into abeyance; but he augued well for the success of the Covent Garden Lodge of 1877. He had several brethren proposed as officers, most of them from Covent Garden, and they would be invested on the next occasion. He hoped the Lodge would be a model one, and eventually occupy a larger room than the one they now met in. Bro. R. Wilkinson here sang "The Brave Old Temeriane," and was loudly applauded. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Visitors, they had been honoured by the presence of many distinguished Masons. The Lodge would always be pleased to see visitors, he would call on Bros. H. G. Buss, W. Smeed, W. Hilton and Hunt to respond. The duet, "Excelsior," was splendidly sung by Bros. Carter and Montem Smith. The brethren enumerated above then severally returned thanks. The W.M. said he had another pleasing duty to perform, and that was to propose the health of the veteran Consecrating Officer, Bro. W. Watson. They had seen how perfectly he had performed the ceremonies of Consecration and Installation; his working in Lodges and Chapters was well known; he (Bro. Watson) had installed him twice into the chair, and he hoped he would be spared for many years to perform a similar duty for others. It was to him he owed his position in the Craft, and, on the next occasion, he would propose him as an honorary member. Bro. Watson replied. He felt proud in installing the W.M.; he had been an active member of the Craft for 38 years; he was in his 78th year now, and while he lived his services were always at command. The W.M. then gave the toast of "The Senior and Junior Wardens." They were well worthy of their respect, not only on account of their social position, but also for their excellent working in another Lodge; they were as capable of filling the chair as he was, and he hoped, in due course, to see them in the chair he now occupied. Bro. E. Jacobs S.W. thanked the W.M. for his kind expressions; if he acted with zeal, it was under the able guidance of the W.M., by whom he was initiated five years since. The impression that ceremony made on him would never be effaced. His motto was—"Deeds, not words." Bro. Ireton J.W. followed, with a very able speech. The W.M. next had much pleasure in proposing the toast of "The Director of Ceremonies, Bro. S. Jacobs," who had so ably discharged his duties. Whatever office he holds is filled to their satisfaction. Bro. S. Jacobs returned thanks. The W.M. said before he left the chair he had to propose a health, that of one who had well and satisfactorily catered for them; the worthy host, Mr. Mitchell, whom at the next meeting they would be pleased to hail as a Bro. Mr. Mitchell returned thanks; if he had given them satisfaction he was gratified, nothing should be wanting on his part to merit their approbation. The Tyler's toast was given, and a delightful and harmonious evening's enjoyment terminated. The visitors were Bros. John Hervey G.S., J. Smith P.G.P., J. Boyd P.G.P., John Hogg P.G.D., J. Nicolls P.P.G.S.W. Kent, G. Stacey P.P.G.R. Berks and Bucks, Rev. P. M. Holden, B. Solomon, W. Smeed, B. Swallow, A. D. Loewenstark, M. D. Loewenstark, H. Gloster, T. Skinner, W. Barringer, E. Jacobs, W. Gulliford, J. Somers, J. Wright, H. G. Buss, Treadwell, Edmonds, Ponsford, White, Elliot, Benjamin, J. Jacobs, W. Murlis, F. Binckes P.G.S., Capt. J. Wordsworth, J. Mason, E. G. Holbrook, P. Parsons, Brand, Hunt, H. M. Levy, &c.

NEW CONCORD BALL, No. 813.

A BALL was held on Thursday, the 8th, at the Town Hall, Shoreditch, in connection with the above Lodge, under the presidency of the W.M. Bro. J. Gallant, T. Bartlett P.M. V.P., H. Gabb V.P., T. J. Cusworth S.W., R. R. Harper J.W., C. Sinclair, H. Gabb P.M., J. Taylor, S. George J.D., J. Taylor, J. Stilwell, W. Pierpoint, F. W. Smales, and W. H. Main P.M. Hon. Secretary. The proceeds being devoted to Masonic Charity, a dispensation had been given to enable the brethren to wear Masonic Craft clothing. This was fully appreciated, and many brethren wore some elegant and valuable decorations. There were about 150 present, and dancing was kept up with great spirit, until an early hour, under the management of Bro. Johnson M.C. A sumptuous supper was provided by Mr. Allardyce, of Southgate-road. The wines, by Messrs. Leek and Son, and the floral decorations, by Mr. Smith, of Kingsland. During the interval a very elegant diamond ring was presented to Mrs. Jas. Terry by Bro. T. Bartlett P.M., as a mark of respect, in recognition of the valuable services rendered by Bro. Terry to the North London Masonic Association.

The anniversary meeting of the Langthorne Masonic Charitable Association will be held on Wednesday, 28th February, at the Swan Hotel, Stratford, at 6 o'clock, to be followed by a dinner, at 7 o'clock. Application for tickets, the number of which is limited, should be made to Bro. T. S. Taylor, Hon. Secretary, Westbury Villas, Upton, E.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Metham was re-elected Chairman, Bro. Gover was re-elected Secretary, Bro. Godtschalk re-elected representative in London.

A sum of £15 was granted to the widow of a deceased brother, and the committee was pledged to support the candidature of the son of Mrs. Furze, in April 1878.

Votes of thanks were presented to Bro. Metham for past services as Chairman; to Bro. Gover for services as Secretary; to Bro. Godtschalk for past services, and kindness in again undertaking office; to Bro. W. G. Rogers for conduct in the chair during Bro. Metham's absence.

These propositions being carried unanimously, were responded to severally. It was then proposed that a suitable testimonial be presented to Bro. J. B. Gover for his past very able and energetic services as Secretary to the Committee of Petitions. To carry this out, a committee was appointed as follows:—Bros. John Way P.G. Treasurer, L. D. Westcott P.G.S. Works, R. Twose.

Upon the conclusion of the business, Bro. John Way P.P.G. Treasurer, by previous invitation, entertained the following brethren at a private banquet:—Bros. the Rev. John Huyshe P.G.M., P.G.C. The elegance of this entertainment, combined with the choice character of the wines, did honour to the generosity and good taste of the worthy brother. This social gathering was graced by the presence of Mrs. Way.

LINES ON A BASKET OF FERNS.

A kind hand sought out rarest ferns,
From nook and bank their beauty graced;
And, with the choice true taste discerns,
Were deftly in a basket placed.

The basket, too, a work of skill,
The same kind hands prepared with care;
It fitly holds and nurtures still
Sweet Nature's children planted there.

This off'ring was, of friendship, made
To one who treasures gifts long past;
And though on earth such things must fade,
In Heaven their mem'ry still will last.

By M. A. BAINES; from Colburn's New Monthly.

The Keystone of the 3rd instant announces the appointment, on the 19th ultimo, of the following, as the principal Grand officers of the Grand Lodge of Connecticut, namely:—Bro. Edward B. Rowe Grand Master, Bro. Dwight Phelps Deputy Grand Master, Bros. Israel M. Bullock and John H. Barlow Senior and Junior Grand Wardens respectively, Bro. Geo. Lee Grand Treasurer, and Bro. Joseph K. Wheeler Grand Secretary. It further records a rule of this jurisdiction to the effect that no brother of twenty-one years' good and regular standing shall be subject to any punishment for the non-payment of his dues. We gather from the same source, that at the stated meeting of St. John's Commandery, held recently in the Gothic Hall of the Masonic Temple, Philadelphia, visits were paid by the Mary and St. Alban Commanderies, Nos. 36 and 37, there being a very full attendance of officers and members. On this occasion, also, the Detroit Commandery, Michigan, presented No. 4 Commandery with an elaborate banner, bearing a suitable inscription in token of its appreciation of the courtesy and hospitality shown it when visiting Philadelphia in June of last year. Our contemporary describes the scene as a very brilliant one, and as offering the best evidence of the fraternal feeling existing among the different Commanderies of the city of Brotherly Love.

LORD CARNARVON AND OUR CHARITIES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I was pleased to read an article in a recent issue of the CHRONICLE on the subject of Lord Carnarvon's proposal. True, you inserted it only as a communication, and this freed you from any responsibility for the opinions expressed therein, but it dealt fairly and clearly with the important question of the Memorial.

As illustrating the justice of the conclusions at which the writer of the article arrived, I may state that, in my canvass, as a Steward for the APPROACHING FESTIVAL OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL, I have been met with such responses as these:—

"You have all you want for your Masonic Charities. Look at the enormous sums obtained for the three Institutions during the past year. More than sufficient for all purposes. Lord Carnarvon declared the Charities did not want money."

Thus my duty as a Steward, owing to the (in my humble opinion) ill-advised declaration of the Pro Grand Master, is in many instances of no service.

My friends in the City will not support me when they hear on such high authority that support is not necessary. I ask you, Sir, how can I efficiently discharge my trust if the declaration of one of my chiefs forms the main obstacle to my success?

Will Lord Carnarvon make good the amount of which I am thus deprived through his indiscreet announcement?

I am,

yours fraternally,

JOHN CONSTABLE P.M. 185.

"THINGS NEW AND OLD."

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am one of those who derive no little pleasure from the study of the past, and especially with reference to the curious and the rare. Had our forefathers dreamed of the interest that would be manifested by succeeding generations in their actions, their sayings, and their written thoughts, it may be they would have left more food for the curious soul to devour, but it might have been wanting in that freshness which is the delight of the modern student. My scrapbook is the result of many years of research, and in it may be found many curious bits, both "New and Old." To-day I have added the following, cut from a local paper:—

PROV. G. ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER OF CORNWALL.—The Right Hon. the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, Prov. G.M., will be installed as Grand Superintendent of the Provincial Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Cornwall, at the Masonic Hall, Public Rooms, Truro, on Tuesday, the 20th inst., at 3 p.m. M.E. Comp. L. P. Metham, Prov. Grand H. of Devonshire, has kindly undertaken to perform the ceremony, as the Representative of the Grand First Principal.

This is an event to be recorded, and perchance it may, at some remote period, prove of interest to some curious old quiz like myself. But taking a proud peep at my treasures, I make a discovery of a faded scrap, "which tells of years gone by," and I am led further to the perusal of several letters, addressed to the Most E.G.P. and Grand Superintendent for the County of Cornwall, and as they appear to contradict the notion that Cornwall has never had a Prov. Grand Superintendent, I will bring them to the light at once.

The first R.A. Chapter formed in Cornwall, was the Druids Chapter of Love and Liberality, Redruth, 15th July 1791. A copy of the dispensation has already appeared in THE CHRONICLE, Vol. 4, page 218, and the following letter shows that the G.S. of R.A.M., Comp Thos. Dunckerley, appointed himself to the office of Prov. Grand Superintendent of Cornwall immediately after the formation of this Chapter, and his appointment was duly registered.

Hampton Court Palace,
24th November 1791.

Most Excellent Comp.,—It is with great pleasure that I can now send your Patent for the Royal Arch Chapter, with a Book of the Statutes, and also those of the Order of Knights Templars, with an impression of the Great Seal. I shall (in the next printed list) insert the County of Cornwall under my Superintendance, and shall, at all times, take pleasure in doing every service in my power for the Druids Chapter.

Please to acknowledge the receipt of your Patent by a letter in return (post paid). Present my affectionate regards to all the Companions, and believe me your faithful Companion, &c.

Thos. Dunckerley.

About a month after the formation of this R.A. Chapter, the brethren at Redruth, applied for a patent for a K.T. Encampment, and this was also granted, dated 16th August 1791, and thus was formed the First Encampment in Cornwall, The Conclave of St. John of Jerusalem, No. 8, Redruth.

The great interest manifested at Redruth, as those old records testify, has continued almost unabated, and it can claim the prestige of a Masonic history such as no other town in Cornwall can do. It is true that Falmouth can boast of being the Mother Lodge (Craft) of the Province, but Redruth was the Father, for there they taught their sons actually to square and to polish the rough ashlar. It is at Redruth, too, that they have the oldest Mark Lodge.

Let these few revelations from my old scrap book suffice for the present, but I may, perhaps, re-open it at no distant date.

I am,

Dear Sir and Companion,

"QUIZ."

DEMOLITION OF THE FIRST MASONIC LODGE IN PARIS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Permit me to offer a few remarks on the article bearing the above title, extracted by you from the columns of the Builder. The writer of the article is indebted for the Masonic portion of his sketch to the historian Rebold. Indeed, this sketch of early French Masonry is translated from that author's Histoire des Trois Grands Loges. Of course, it is none the less interesting on this account, but the question I am anxious to bring prominently under the notice of your readers concerns the trustworthiness of the account. Thory, another French historian of Freemasonry, in speaking of this first Lodge in Paris, says, "It has left no historic monument of its existence, a fact which tends to throw a certain degree of obscurity on the early rise and progress of Freemasonry in Paris." Our German brother Findel is doubtful as to the date when Freemasonry found its way into France. Our Grand Lodge Archives, I believe, contain no record of the 1725 Lodge, while Pine's list for 1734, published under the sanction of Grand Lodge, includes only the Lodge held "An Louis D'Argent, Dans la Rue de Boucherie à Paris," which met every Wednesday, and was constituted 3rd April 1732. For my own part, I am inclined to believe that Freemasonry found its way to the French capital at an early date after its constitution in London in 1717 as a corporate body. My reasons for this belief are as follow:—

In the first place, I do not attach a very grave importance to the silence of our own records. Others more conversant with the subject than I can ever pretend to be, will, I think, bear me out in the assertion that these records were very indifferently kept in the early days of our modern or speculative system of Freemasonry. Therefore I am very disinclined to doubt the existence of the 1725 Lodge, on the ground that no mention is made of it in our own Grand Lodge records.

In the next place, I deduce from the circumstances of the period the extreme probability, amounting, I may almost venture to say, to a certainty, that a new—new that is in its latest form—mysterious, and, as we know it was from the very outset, an attractive institution would not have been established for any great length of time in London without finding many admirers in the capital city of our Gallic neighbours. The Parisians then, as now, very closely resembled the Athenians of old, in this particular at least, that they were and are eager in their rage for novelties. Moreover, there were special circumstances at the time which make me think that Freemasonry may easily have found its way to Paris as early as 1725, if not indeed earlier. The second titled personage who presided over our Craft as Grand Master was the eccentric Duke of Wharton, in 1722-3. He had visited Paris during his travels in 1716, had seen the Pretender privately at Avignon, and the widow of James II. at St. Germain in the same year. When of age he took his seat in the House of Lords, having some time before been created a Duke for his zealous support of the ministry in Ireland, and having taken his seat while yet a minor in the Irish House of Peers. But in England he soon fell into disgrace with the Court. Through his extravagance he became involved financially, and some time after went abroad to the Imperial Court and the Court of Spain, and openly espoused the cause of the Pretender. In May 1728, he set out to Paris, and thence to Rouen, where for some time he resided. The Lord Derwentwater, who is said to have been one of the founders of the 1725 Lodge, was also a supporter of the Stuarts,—and perished for his attachment to their cause. He was a brother of the Lord Derwentwater executed in 1716, and the Mr. Radcliffe who was tried and executed for his participation in the rebellion of 1745-6. Is it not most probable, I ask, that Wharton, being a supporter of the same political cause as this Lord Derwentwater, may have been in some way connected with, if not responsible for the introduction of Freemasonry into Paris? Again, the two countries were at peace, and had a short time previously been members of the Quadruple Alliance against the ambitious designs of the then Prime Minister of Spain, Cardinal Alberoni. Moreover, intercommunications between the two capitals was, taking all circumstances into account, quite as frequent then as now. And then with so many English nobles enrolled in Freemasonry, would not the French nobles follow suit? Lastly, if Freemasonry found its way so far southward as Madrid, where—see Pine's and other lists—a Lodge was erected in November 1728, is it not fair to suppose it would have reached the French capital at a still earlier date? It is allowable, I think, in a case of this kind, to argue from extreme probabilities, in the absence of positive and direct testimony, especially when we know how carelessly the early records of the Craft in England were kept.

Mind, I do not say there was a Lodge in Paris in 1725, but only that the probability there was one is very great. Perhaps, however, some of your readers—Bro. Hughan for instance, or Bro. Caubet, the enlightened secretary of the Supreme Council of the French Grand Orient, and Editor of le Monde Maçonnique, may be able to throw some light on this obscure portion of French Masonic history. I should like to hear their opinion on the subject I have ventilated.

Fraternally yours,

"Q."

FESTIVAL OF THE ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE first Grand Masonic event of the year 1877 took place on Monday evening last, and may be chronicled as an unqualified success. The attendance was large, notwithstanding it had become pretty generally known that H.R.H. Prince Leopold, Provincial Grand Master for Oxfordshire, through illness, had been compelled to abandon his intention of taking the chair. The Right Hon. the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, however, was an able substitute, and he was supported by Lord Leigh, the Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire; Lord Methuen, Provincial Grand Master of Wilts; the Rev. C. J. Martyn, Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Suffolk; Colonel Creaton; Bro. Samuel Tomkins, Grand Treasurer; the Rev. R. J. Simpson, Past Grand Chaplain; Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary; Bro. Nicholas Bradford, Captain Homfray, Bro. R. Wentworth Little, Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Middlesex; Bro. F. Binckes, Bro. James Terry, Bro. Robert Griggs, &c. So soon as the distinguished company had taken their seats the banquet was served, and, considering the immense number who had to be catered for, reflected the greatest credit upon the new manager, Bro. Dawkins. On the removal of the cloth, the Rt. Worshipful Chairman prefaced his remarks by saying that it was with great regret he was in the chair on the present occasion, owing to the absence of His Royal Highness Prince Leopold, who only that morning was enforced to abandon the intention of being present. However, I think I may say, amongst brother Masons, that you know I will endeavour to do my best. (Cheers.) From the acclamations which greeted the first petticoat that appeared in the gallery, I am sure few remarks only will be necessary from me to ask you to drink the health of the first lady in the land. Amongst Englishmen, and especially amongst Freemasons, it is only necessary to mention the name of Her Majesty the Queen to ensure that toast the hearty reception which it deserves. I should be wasting your time, therefore, if I were to dilate on the merits of Her Majesty. Long may she reign in the affections of her people. The "National Anthem" was then sung. The Chairman next proposed "the health of the M.W.G.M., H.R.H. the Prince of Wales," he had now a Masonic secret to impart; when they had done their business there, their fair sisters were anxiously awaiting their presence in the Temple. He would therefore recommend the brethren at once to put their hands into their pockets and "stump up." With no other object than that of saving time, he would, without wishing to weary them, propose this toast. The merits of the Prince of Wales were too well known to require observation. All thoroughly appreciated him, and he left it in their hands to do honour to the toast. With it he coupled the name of Prince Leopold. The Chairman next gave "the health of the Pro Grand Master, the Dep. Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers, Present and Past," and called upon the Rev. R. J. Simpson, Past Grand Chaplain, to reply. The Rev. R. J. Simpson thanked the brethren most unfeignedly for the compliment which had been paid to the past and present officers of Grand Lodge. With regard to Lord Carnarvon and Lord Skelmersdale, it would be presumption in him to mention even names which have become household words among Masons, not only for their public excellence, but for their private worth. The words past and present suggest a very happy idea with regard to our present gathering. The present are assembled together to support the past, and to give aid to our brethren in the decline of years; and to assist the widows of our brethren is a very fitting occasion on which Grand Officers may assemble together; on no fitter occasion could Grand Officers appear than for the purpose of strengthening the feeble knees of age, and making "the widow's heart sing for joy." On this occasion we are not the less strengthened by the fact that the sisters of charity attend, not merely as an accident, but openly, essentially claiming their place in a grand and noble charity. On behalf of the Officers Past and Present of Grand Lodge, he hoped that they might have the privilege of assembling on many similar occasions. In giving the toast of the evening, "Success to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution," the noble earl said that the Institution had a very small income, and if it were not for the brethren's generosity it could not go on. At the next election there were 72 applicants, and only ten could be elected. He had, however, heard rumours that the subscriptions on this occasion would be large. Next year he hoped they would be still larger. Every one of the brethren present would be glad to assist the old and infirm, and he was proud to say that this was the second time he had advocated their cause. Masons had great faith in charity above all things, and they were particularly proud of their three especial charities—The Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. Masons had great power in assisting those who were in distress, and in looking at the cases of distress which came before them they wished that they had larger means at their disposal for helping them. Prince Leopold had subscribed liberally, and the brethren of the Apollo Lodge of Oxford, the mother Lodge of His Royal Highness, and likewise of myself, had also sent up a large subscription. He then proposed the toast, and called upon Bro. Tomkins, Grand Treasurer, to respond. After a few words from Bro. Tomkins, Bro. Terry announced the amounts of the several lists received from the Stewards, at the conclusion receiving the loudest expressions of approval from all present. The health of the Chairman was proposed by Lord Leigh, and was briefly responded to. Amongst the other toasts were "Prosperity to the two Schools, the Boys' and the Girls'," to which Bro. Little replied. "The Ladies," by Lord Methuen; "The health of our Board of Stewards," by Col. Creaton, and replied to by Bro. J. M. Case. An adjournment then took place to the Temple, where an excellent concert was given, the musical artistes being Bros. Henry Parker, Baxter, Thornton, and Caravoglia; Miss Rose Sherrington, Miss Helen Heath, Miss Agnes Larkcom; and Messrs. Lewis Thomas and T. Harper; the whole under the superintendence of Bro. T. Lawler.

The following are the several Stewards' Lists, together with the numbers of the Lodges and Chapters contributing, and the amount contributed by each, to the above Institution:—

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE debates in both Houses of Parliament on the first night of the Session excited a strong feeling of interest, the public being naturally anxious to learn what indications Ministers would give of the policy they had pursued, and would pursue, in reference to the Eastern Question. There was a further degree of interest attending the meeting of the House of Lords, as the Earl of Beaconsfield would certainly take the oath and his seat. Accordingly, when the new Earl was ushered, with some form, into the august assembly, the cheering which greeted him from both sides of the House was both spontaneous and hearty. This episode over, the debate on the Address was opened by Viscount Grey de Wilton, followed by the Earl of Haddington. Among the other Peers who took part in it were Earl Granville and the Earl of Derby, the Duke of Argyll, who introduced a little warmth into the discussion, and the Earl of Beaconsfield, who spoke very briefly, but in admirable taste. The proceedings since then call for no remark. In the House of Commons, the debate was opened by Lord Galway, who moved, and Mr. Torr, who seconded, the Address; the other principal speakers being the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Gladstone, Lord Hartington, and Mr. Hardy. On Friday the usual array of questions was submitted. On Monday, in the course of the sitting, Mr. Sclater-Booth obtained leave to introduce a Property Valuation Bill, the Attorney-General a Patents of Inventions Bill, the Lord Advocate a Roads and Bridges (Scotland) Bill, and the Solicitor-General for Ireland a Supreme Court of Judicature Bill, and County Officers and Courts Bill for Ireland. These were subsequently read a first time. On Tuesday, Mr. Fawcett moved a resolution on Indian Finance, but the Government opposed him, and he was defeated by 173 to 123. On Wednesday afternoon, the question whether an Irish Church Acts Amendment Bill should be read a second time or not, was decided in the negative, by 150 votes to 110. Some opposition was then raised to the introduction of a Bill, having for its object the regulation of the Sale of Intoxicating Liquors on Sunday. It was introduced, however, and read a first time.

The Queen left Buckingham Palace on her return to Osborne on Friday morning, accompanied by the Princess Beatrice. The Prince and Princess Christian have also left London for Cumberland Lodge, Windsor. The Prince and Princess of Wales are still at Marlborough. As regards Prince Leopold, we announced, last week, that his Royal Highness would be prevented, by considerations of health, from presiding at the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution Festival on Monday. As to other members of the Royal Family, we may state that the Duke of Connaught has recovered from the slight accident he met with when starting to hunt with the Duhallow Hounds, that the Duchess of Edinburgh has left Athens, to return to Malta, whither her husband has also sailed, in H.M.S. Sultan, to join her.

The medical profession has lost one of its brightest ornaments. Sir William Fergusson died at his residence in George Street, Hanover Square, on Saturday morning, at the comparatively early age of 68. Sir William was born at Preston Pans in 1808, and having studied at the High School and University of Edinburgh, resolved on the study and practice of surgery, for which purpose he became a pupil of Dr. Thomas, the famous teacher of anatomy. It is almost needless to say that there has been no more skilful operator in our time, and as years passed on Sir W. Fergusson obtained the highest honours in his profession. In 1840 he became professor of Surgery in King's College, London, and shortly afterwards a Fellow of the Royal Society. In 1849 he was appointed surgeon in ordinary to the late Prince Consort, and surgeon extraordinary to the Queen in 1855; was raised to a baronetcy in 1866, and became sergeant surgeon to Her Majesty the year following. He was a Fellow of the College of Surgeons, and its President in the year 1870-1. Death resulted from exhaustion supervening on dropsy and Bright's disease. On Wednesday his remains were removed from London to Spittlehaugh, near West Lindon, Peeblesshire, and were there interred in the family vault yesterday.

The annual meeting of the Barristers' Benevolent Association was held on Tuesday, in Middle Temple Hall, under the presidency of Sir John Karslake, in support of whom there were present Lord Coleridge, Lord Justice Amphlett, Mr. Baron Pollock, Mr. Justice Manisty, the Solicitor-General, and other distinguished members of the profession. From the report it appears that the invested funds now accumulated from donations amount to £3,232, that ninety-four members joined the Association during the past year, and that the annual subscriptions now amount to £852, being £160 in excess of last year's total. In the same period grants have been made to the extent of £586, and £151 since the beginning of this year. The chairman, on moving the adoption of the report, made strong appeals to all present to assist in the work of the society. Baron Pollock seconded the motion, which was agreed to nem con. A vote of thanks to Sir John Karslake for presiding brought the proceedings to a close.

A shocking case of cruelty is reported from the Slough Petty Sessions. A farmer and his wife were brought up for dreadfully ill-treating a nurse girl in their employment, one Caroline Carter, aged seventeen years. Evidence was given that the pair had habitually beaten the girl, and that when she escaped from the house she was in a dreadfully exhausted condition, that one of her arms was broken, and her body covered with bruises. The prisoners were remanded, bail being refused. A large number of people were present to hear the case, and hissed and groaned at Mr. and Mrs. Morris both on their arrival and in court.

There are at the present moment no less than sixteen fishing smacks missing from Yarmouth, and seven from Lowestoft, and this is said to be the greatest casualty that has befallen the district since the gale in December 1867, when 319 lives were lost, and 326 vessels lost or damaged on the coast of England. The number of men on board the now missing smacks is about one hundred and fifty; but as the safety of four of them has been established, one of which had been driven no less than two hundred miles from the fishery, hopes are entertained that a large majority of the remainder may yet be found. We cordially echo these wishes.

Matters do not look quite so promising in the East as they did a short time since. It is said that Russia has determined on her course of action, that six more corps d'armée will be mobilised forthwith, and that war will certainly break out at an early date. Meanwhile, the negociations for peace between Turkey on the one part, and Servia and Montenegro on the other, are reported to be progressing, though not, perhaps, as rapidly and satisfactorily as could be wished. Turkey, however, seems in earnest, and is extremely modest in the terms she proposes for acceptance. From other capitals of Europe rumours reach this country nearly every day, which are, to say the least, conflicting. Austria and Russia are going hand in hand, and Germany, it is said, will soon adopt their policy. On the other side, all this is as strenuously denied. The one thing certain is, that the political horizon in the East is very far from being clear. What will be the outcome of it all, no one can foresee. We can only hope that peace will be preserved.

The regular meeting of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons was held on Wednesday, the 14th inst., at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bro. Col. Creaton V.P. and P.G.D. in the chair. The Secretary, Bro. James Terry, read the minutes of the former meeting, which were confirmed. He also reported the result of the Anniversary Festival. The amount announced was £12,656 13s, with fourteen lists to come in. Seven lists had since been received, with sums amounting to £140. The next meeting of the Board of Stewards will be held on the 26th inst. It had been decided that twelve candidates be placed on the list for the next election, but owing to the success of the Festival, Bro. Col. Creaton proposed that an addition of twenty-four male and eighteen female candidates be made; he stated, however, that if in future years the subscriptions and donations should fall off, we might not be able to maintain this increased number, but he sincerely hoped this would never be the case. It was proposed by Bro. H. M. Levy, and seconded by Bro. Captain Wordsworth, that a special and cordial vote of thanks be accorded to the R.W. the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, P.G.M. for Staffordshire, who under the unfortunate circumstance of H.R.H. Prince Leopold, P.G.M. for Oxfordshire, being unable to be present, had at so short a notice come forward to preside at the Anniversary Festival. Votes of thanks were also accorded to the President, Vice-President, and the Board of Stewards; to Bro. Cutbush, for his gift of plants and bulbs. The Secretary informed the brethren of the sudden death of the late collector, Bro. Lane, an announcement which was received with great regret, and a letter of condolence was ordered to be sent to the widow. Bro. Terry said that the late Bro. Lane, up to the time of his death, had paid the utmost attention to every detail in connection with his duties, and the Institution had lost a most efficient officer. It was then proposed that a committee, consisting of Colonel Creaton, Benjamin Head, J. Smith, J. A. Farnfield, and Griffiths Smith, be formed, for the purpose of appointing a Collector; meanwhile, it was resolved that Bro. Knill be empowered to collect the amounts due. Bro. J. Nunn, P.G.S.B., gave notice of motion, that a sum of £100 be granted to the widow of the late Bro. Lane, in recognition of the valuable services rendered by him during his term of office. After a vote of thanks to the Chairman, the meeting was adjourned. There were present—Bros. S. Rawson, J. Nunn, Captain J. Wordsworth, Hyde Pullen, R. W. Little, G. Bolton, F. Adlard, H. J. Warren, T. Cubitt, R. W. Little, W. Hale, J. Brett, B. Head, A. H. Tattershall, J. Stevens, W. Stephens, J. Constable, L. Stean, W. Hilton, H. Massey, J. W. White, Dr. Erasmus Wilson, C. Hogard, H. M. Levy, C. J. Perceval, &c.

We are indebted to the kindness of Bro. Haigh, of the firm of Haigh and Hemery, of 213 Regent-street, for a view of Bro. Captain Charles Mercier's grand historical picture, "Her Majesty's Ministers in Council," now on view in their gallery, and the engraving of which, by Mr. Henry Lemon, they are shortly about to publish. More than one previous attempt has been made at producing a picture of this character, but in each case the work has been of a cabinet size, while the likenesses have been obtained from photographic portraits. Bro. Captain Mercier has enjoyed, however, many exceptional advantages, and it is almost needless for us to point out that he has turned them to excellent account. In the first place, he had free access at all convenient seasons to the Council Chamber, Whitehall, in which Ministers are wont to assemble in order to rule and direct the destinies of the mighty empire for the time being entrusted to their charge. Then Ministers themselves have not only manifested the greatest interest in the work; they have likewise given special sittings at their several private or official residences, or at the artists' own studio. The result is that Captain Mercier, whose name is already known in the world of art, has succeeded in producing a picture which, in our humble judgment, will obtain for him the highest praise, not only from the general public, who are prone to judge of these matters casually, and somewhat fancifully, but likewise in artistic circles, where people are competent to form a judgment. The work is on a large scale —ten feet by seven. All the members of the Cabinet—as it was constituted before the retirement of Earl of Malmesbury —are represented. The grouping is admirable, the posing of the several figures natural. The Premier, now the Earl of Beaconsfield, is standing up, and occupies, of course, the central position. To his right, as we face the picture, are the Lord Chancellor and the portly form of the First Lord of the Admiralty, both seated. Behind them stands Lord John Manners, and still further to the right is the Marquis of Salisbury. To the left are placed the Earl of Malmesbury, seated on the other side of the table, and next to him, standing, are the Earl of Carnarvon, Mr. Cross, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, and Mr. Gathorne Hardy. Seated in front, and in what we may call a left central position, is the Earl of Derby, note-book in hand, in the act of making sundry memoranda of the conference, and still further to the left is the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the new leader of the House of Commons, busy returning certain papers to his despatch-box. The great merit of the work is the unmistakable air of reality there is in the scene portrayed. There is an earnest deliberation noticeable in the different faces which fits well with the occasion. There is an entire absence of anything at all approaching the theatrical in the attitude assigned to each minister. In fact, the artist has achieved a great success, not only in the more difficult portion of his work—namely, the grouping and arrangement of his figures—but also in all its minor details. That the artist has succeeded in producing better and more life-like portraits in the case of some of the ministers than in others, is not to be doubted; for all faces and figures are not reproducible in an equal degree of perfection. But he has done what he set himself to do well, and we hope and believe that his picture will be as generally appreciated and admired as it deserves to be. The engraving, in pure line, is the work of Mr. Henry Lemon, who, it is needless to say, occupies a foremost place among the engravers of the day. The prices are as follow:—Artists' Proofs, on India paper, signed, fifteen guineas; proofs before letters ditto, ten guineas; lettered proofs, ditto, five guineas; and prints on plain paper, three guineas. It remains for us to add that the picture has already been seen at Marlborough House, where all who saw it, saw it but to admire. That the picture will find its way into one of our many National Collections is not improbable. That the publishers will find the task they have undertaken successful, we do not doubt.

Bro. R. Wentworth Little, P.P.S.G. Warden, and Prov. G. Sec. Middlesex, has been appointed Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Middlesex, in succession to Sir G. Elliot, Bart., M.P., appointed R.W. Prov. G.M. East Division South Wales.

Early in the spring will appear a new volume of poems, from the well known Ionian Poet, Bro. J. Dionysius Loverdo. This collection, we are informed, will largely consist of translations in the Romaic, or Modern Greek, from some of our best authors—viz., Shakespeare, Burns, Cowper, Dryden, Moore, &c.

On Wednesday, an amateur concert was given at Hayworth Hall, Norfolk, by Mrs. Windham Walker, in aid of the Cromer Cottage Hospital. Under the able direction of Bro. F. T. Dawson, a capital programme was prepared, and some excellent songs were rendered. Refreshments were liberally supplied, and about thirty guests sat down to supper, the hostess bore all the expenses, and there was over £20 handed to the Charity. Several brethren were present from Aylsham.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked on Monday evening next, at the Wellington Lodge of Instruction, which meets at the White Swan Tavern, High Street, Deptford. Bro. J. T. Barnes will preside, and the Lodge will be opened at 7 o'clock.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

G. B. V.—It has frequently been so stated, but there appear to be considerable doubts about the matter. He may possibly have been enrolled member of one of those secret societies having a similar organisation to ours, but resembling ours in no other respect. You can hardly take up a Masonic periodical which does not every now and then contain some statement about this point.

G. K.—Apply to Bro. A. W. Fenner, who is the manager of the business of the late John Lillywhite; he will give you the information you require. His address is 10 Seymour-street, N.W.

Terry responded on behalf of the Charities. The W.M.'s health was proposed by P.M. Griggs, and was received in an enthusiastic manner. The W.M. having replied, an interesting incident took place—the presentation to Bro. Griggs of a Past Master's jewel, for the able manner in which he had performed his duties during the past year. Amongst the numerous visiting brethren were John Townsend P.G.P., Alford 475, Rev. Darby Reid Chaplain 1196, Rev. Casely, Maidwell 27, Mallett 141, Baxter 174, J. D. Loverdo J.D. 1196, L. L. Constantinides. There were also present Past Masters Terry, Colston, Bottrill 1069, Robards, Wickens, Hillhouse, and about sixty others. The brethren, when they separated, all agreed that they had spent a very enjoyable evening.

Doric Lodge, No. 933.—On Tuesday last, the 13th inst., the members of this important and well worked Lodge assembled in great strength, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, for the installation of our respected brother, John G. Stevens ("An Eastern Star"). Bro. Stevens has for many years acted as Secretary in this Lodge, and in that capacity has won the respect and goodwill of all with whom he has been brought into business relations, and this was fully borne out by the number of distinguished brethren who assembled on this occasion to see him installed. A very wholesome rule in this Lodge, and one which we should like to see more fully carried out elsewhere, is, that each W.M., before being elected to the chair, is required to show his proficiency and capability to perform satisfactorily the duties that may be required of him, and, in addition, that when he shall have completed his year of office, that he should instal his successor. By this wise rule, all the Junior officers are careful to perfect themselves in their respective duties, and a thorough state of efficiency throughout the Lodge is thus secured. Bro. J. G. Stevens has already filled the chair in the Yarborough Lodge, No. 554, and is well known as a skilful Mason. On the formal opening of the Lodge, Bro. William Yetton, P.M., who acted as Director of the Ceremonies, presented Bro. Stevens to Bro. J. Taylor to receive at his hands the benefit of installation. The Board of Installed Masters was a large one, and the ceremony was performed in an impressive and highly dignified manner. On the brethren being re-admitted, the new W.M. was saluted, and he then appointed the following as his officers:—Bros. J. Taylor I.P.M., A. J. Tucker S.W., C. Digby J.W., T. J. Barnes Treasurer, W. Yetton P.M. Secretary, Geo. Hollington S.D., W. J. Edney J.D., Thomas Yetton I.G., Berton D.C., Pain W.S., Seddon Organist, W. Grant (15th time) Tyler. The addresses were capitally given, and on their conclusion a highly spirited Installation March, which had been specially composed by Bro. Seddon, was played by him, and afforded the greatest gratification to all present. We understand it is Bro. Seddon's intention to publish this, so doubtless we shall have the pleasure of hearing this able composition on a future occasion. The W.M. then presented Bro. Taylor with a P.M.'s jewel, and, in the name of all present, thanked him for the way in which he had conducted the proceedings of the day. After hearty good wishes had been tendered, the Lodge was closed. A banquet, to which ample justice was done, followed, Bro. W. Smith catering with his usual skill. On the removal of the cloth, the toasts were given: "The Queen and the Craft," followed by the National Anthem; "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales K.G., M.W. Grand Master," followed by God Bless the Prince of Wales, which was sung by Bro. Steadman; "The Earl of Carnarvon, Pro Grand Master." The W.M. said that Lord Carnarvon had proved himself to be a thorough Mason; he had many an onerous duty to perform; but yet, in spite of the multifarious calls on his time, he managed to attend his Masonic duties. After the health of Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers Past and Present, Bro. Davy gave a capital performance on the cornet, in which he was ably accompanied by Bro. Seddon; all assembled expressed their unqualified approval. Bro. I.P.M. Taylor gave the health of the W.M. It was his honour and his privilege that evening to propose the health of Bro. Stevens. He succeeded him some eleven years back as Secretary in the Lodge, and he did not then anticipate that he should follow him in the Masonic Chair. Bro. Taylor paid a just compliment to Bro. Stevens for the manner in which he had always attended to the duties of any office he had to fulfil in the Lodge. He referred to the distinguished Masons who were around him, both on his right and on his left. He spoke of the way in which Bro. Stevens had served the office of Master in the Yarborough Lodge, to the satisfaction of every one, and he felt assured that this might be taken as an estimate of what he would do in his present position. After a humorous song from Bro. Digby, Bro. Stevens, in reply, thanked the brethren for the way in which they had received the toast. Some reference had been made to his services nine years ago; since then he had served as W.M. in the Yarborough Lodge. He assured them that on finding himself at the head of the Doric Lodge, he fully realised his responsibilities. He referred to the high position held by the Doric Lodge in the Craft. He was, though not an old man, certainly not a young one. He was sure that, in placing him there, they felt confident he would carry out the duties of the Lodge satisfactorily. He spoke of the distinguished men who had gone before, and assured them he would endeavour to follow in their footsteps, and that his aim would be to study the interests of every member of the Lodge. In proposing "The Past Masters," Bro. Stevens said he was the 15th W.M. of the Doric Lodge; they had lost two Past Masters by death, and three had resigned. They had had present that evening nine Past Masters—viz., Bros. Barnes, who served in 1868, Bowring in 1869, Wainwright in 1870, Yetton in 1871, Griffin in 1872, Austin in 1873, Marsh in 1874, Ayton in 1875, and J. Taylor in 1876. What could be better than the work of the I.P.M., who had completed his task that night, than the way in which he had performed the installation ceremony? Bro. Steadman here sang most sweetly "The Anchor's Weighed." The P.M.'s replied in well chosen sentences, and the W.M. gave the remaining toasts, which comprised the Masonic Institutions, the Visitors, the Officers of the Lodge, to each of these suitable replies were made. The call for the Tyler brought the evening's proceedings to a close.

Before closing, the W.M. complimented the Lodge upon the solemn attention paid by the brethren to the working of the beautiful ceremonies and lectures. The Lodge was then closed.

Windsor Castle Lodge, No. 771.—The annual Festival of this Lodge took place on Tuesday, the 13th of February, in the Masonic Hall, St. Albans-street, Windsor, when Bro. Thomas Edward Scott, the S.W. of the Lodge, was installed as W.M. Bro. Scott has long been identified with Freemasonry, and, from his connection with the members of the Royal Family, both at Frogmore House and Cumberland Lodge, it was most gratifying to his friends here to know that his Masonic exertions had finally brought him to occupy the highest honour that his Lodge could bestow upon him. The retiring Master, Bro. W. H. Cutler, of Salt-hill, Bucks, was invested with the collar of I.P.M., and was presented with a most beautiful P.M.'s jewel. The officers for the ensuing year were appointed in rotation, Bro. the Rev. Arthur Robins being the only officer that was re-elected, as Chaplain of the Lodge. The ceremonial of installation was earnestly rendered by Bro. John S. Tolly, Sec. and P.M. The banquet was served at the Castle Hotel, by Bro. Fleck. Bro. Barker was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his officers in rotation; he will work the 3rd ceremony, for the first time. We hope he will have a good attendance; he has been but eight months a Mason, and has gone through the other two ceremonies with credit, and there is no doubt that his presidency next week will bring a good muster. Bro. Saunders gave notice of motion respecting the 4th bye-law, which will come on for discussion. The Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned till Tuesday, the 20th inst. On the W.M. taking the chair, and opening the Lodge, the hall had more the appearance of an installation meeting than that of a regular monthly. The brethren from Oxford, Aldershot, and the Mother Lodge, with the other visitors, in their provincial grand regalia, gave the assembly a brilliant appearance. After the minutes of the last regular Lodge were read and confirmed, the Lodge was opened in the second degree. Bro. Edwin Hunt replied to the questions leading to the third degree in a most satisfactory manner, and retired. The Lodge was opened in the third degree. Bro. Hunt was raised to the sublime degree of M.M. It is almost superfluous to say that the W.M. performed this ceremony in the most perfect manner, and he was well supported by his officers. The lecture was given in a masterly manner, and called forth the acclamations of the assembly; indeed, from the first time Bro. Margrett commenced his duties, it was evident that first-class working would mark his year of office. The Lodge was closed down to the second and the first degrees, when the W.M. announced the unprecedented success of the Festival of the R.M.B.I., at which he attended as Steward to represent the Lodge. By the contributions of the members and other brethren, he was enabled to obtain a V.P. in the name of the Master of 1101 for the "old men," and leaving 15 guineas as a nest egg towards making the W.M. a V.P. of the "widows." This announcement was received with cheers. Bro. Juggins P.M. 340 expressed the great pleasure experienced by his brothers and himself at this visit; he felt that Sir Daniel Gooch, the P.G.M. of Berks and Bucks, may well be proud of such a Lodge as the Grey Friars. After receiving nominations for joining and initiations, the Lodge was closed.

Southwood had worked the three ceremonies, and that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes for his having done so. Bro. Southwood responded in a very feeling speech. He was pleased he had given satisfaction in his examination, and if they did him the honour to elect him W.M. of their Lodge, they might depend upon his endeavouring to promote the best interests of the Craft. The Lodge was then closed in due form.

Langthorne Lodge, No. 1421.—The annual meeting of this Lodge, for the purpose of installing the Worshipful Master for the ensuing year, was held at the Swan Hotel, Stratford, E., on Thursday, the 25th ult., upon which occasion a large number of brethren, members of various local and other Lodges, assembled for the purpose of witnessing the induction of Bro. Benjamin Cundick S.W. and W.M. elect (a well-known and highly esteemed brother amongst the Craft in the east end of London) into the chair of K.S. according to ancient custom. Punctually at 4 p.m. the Lodge was opened by Bro. Charles Lacey P.M., assisted by the following officers—viz., Bros. B. Cundick S.W., H. Carter J.W., George Levick Treasurer, C. W. Ashdown Secretary, T. S. Taylor S.D., H. N. Taylor J.D., G. F. Dix I.G., S. Morris W.S., M. W. Sherwin Organist, W. Steedman Tyler, and a number of brethren. Baxter being a candidate for the third degree was, after the usual examination, duly raised, the ceremony being admirably performed by Bro. Lacey, the acting W.M. The Lodge was then resumed in the first degree, and the report of the Audit Committee, together with the balance sheet, having been received and approved, the Lodge was resumed in the second degree, and the chair vacated by Bro. Lacey in favour of Bro. Barnes P.M. 554, an old and esteemed friend of the W.M. elect, to whom Bro. Cundick was presented by Bro. J. G. Stevens for the benefit of installation. The Lodge being closed in due form, the brethren adjourned to another room where an excellent banquet awaited them, served in Bro. Morley's best style, and to which, it is needless to add, ample justice was done. Under the presidency of the newly-installed and genial W.M., a most enjoyable evening was spent, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts being given from the chair and responded to with the greatest enthusiasm. The harmony of the evening was also enhanced by the presence of Bro. J. G. Stevens, who contributed an excellent recitation, and Bro. M. Baxter Langley I.P.M. with a Past Master's collar and a silver jewel, to prove how well and faithfully the Master's duties had been done, and the great satisfaction and pleasure every one had felt during his year of office. Bro. J. Baxter Langley I.P.M., in a telling speech, acknowledged the gifts. The Past Master's jewel was universally admired by all who witnessed its presentation. The next business was the nomination of the members whom the Lodge would like to see selected for Provincial Grand Lodge honours at the next Provincial Grand Lodge. Bro. F. Walters P.G.J.D. Middlesex, in an exhaustive and feeling speech, in which he alluded to the very many virtues and excellencies of the Provincial Grand Secretary, proposed that as the D.P.G.M. Middlesex was elevated to the position of R.W.G.M. S. Wales, that Bro. R. W. Little P.P.G.S.W. Middlesex, past and present Provincial Grand Secretary Middlesex, be recommended to the R.W.P.G.M., Bro. Col. F. Burdett, as the member of the Province who ought to be selected to fill the vacant office of D.P.G.M. Middlesex, which was seconded by Bro. J. T. Moss P.P.G.R. A. Leins, the retiring W.M., in a very perfect and impressive manner, Bro. J. L. Mather P.M. efficiently acting as D.C. The W.M. then invested his officers:—L. A. Leins I.P.M., E. W. Braine S.W., W. Bansor J.W., G. F. Cook P.M. 65 Treasurer, F. S. Holness Secretary, Knell S.D., Saunders J.D., Blinkhorn I.G., D. P. Holness D.C., Cox P.M. W.S., Steedman Tyler. The report of the Audit Committee was read; it showed a balance of £19 17s in favour of the Benevolent Fund. The Lodge funds were equally satisfactory, and Bro. Cook, Past Treasurer, proposed, and Bro. J. L. Mather seconded, that the sum of £5 be taken from the Benevolent Fund, making the sum of £10, to be placed on the list of Bro. Braine S.W., who is a Steward for the Anniversary Festival for the R.M.B.I. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet, a la Russe, provided by Mr. Baker. The W.M., after grace had been said, proposed the Health of the Queen and the Craft, H.R.H. the M.W.G.M. the Prince of Wales, the Prd G.M., the Right Worshipful Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers Past and Present. In reply to the Masonic Charities, Bro. Braine S.W. returned thanks. He felt proud to represent the Lodge as Steward on Monday next. Bro. James Terry also thanked the W.M. for having proposed this toast at so early a period of the evening. He gave a very interesting account of the numbers of the boys and girls at the Institutions, and also of the aged, and the amounts given during the past year. We, as Masons, are a comparatively small body, and the brethren had liberally subscribed. He hoped at the next Festival to have to record a larger amount than had ever been received. He hoped they would continue their support to the Aged, and also the Boys' and Girls' Schools, who urgently need their kind support. Bro. L. A. Leins I.P.M. then rose and said he had a very pleasing duty to perform; to propose, for the first time in this Lodge, the health of the W.M. He is thoroughly conversant with his work, and will discharge his duties zealously and faithfully. The W.M. thanked the proposer for his kind expressions; if he proved as good a W.M. as his predecessor he would be perfectly satisfied. He hoped to carry out every duty required of him to their satisfaction. The W.M. next gave the health of the newly initiated Bro., he was worthy of their regard, and he hoped to see him among them for many years. The toast was responded to by Bro. Spiers, in a manner that justified the remarks of the W.M. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the visitors. They were always pleased to see them, and he would call on Bro. S. M. Lazarus P.P.G.W. Wilts and H. M. Levy P.M. 188 to respond. Both these brethren thanked the W.M. for the pleasure they had received by the able manner the ceremony of installation had been performed, and the cordial reception they had met with. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the I.P.M., Bro. A. L. Leins; he had performed his duties admirably, and they had witnessed how excellently he had performed the ceremony of installation. He was the fourth Master of the Lodge, and to whatever duty he was delegated, he discharged it faithfully. In token of the appreciation he is held in, he had much pleasure in presenting him, in the name of the Lodge, with a very elegant Past Master's jewel. In placing it on his breast he hoped he might live long to wear it. In their name, also, he begged his acceptance of a pair of diamond and pearl earrings for his amiable wife, which he hoped she would be spared for many years to wear. Bro. L. A. Leins, in feeling and eloquent terms responded for the valuable gifts. He, as well as his wife, fully appreciated them, and these kind expressions could never be effaced from their memory. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Past Masters, said they were but three in number, but they were a host in themselves, and a pattern to the Craft. This having been responded to, the W.M. proposed the toast of the Treasurer and Secretary, and the Wardens. Bro. Braine, the S.W., was well qualified to perform any duty required of him. Bro. Bansor had always discharged his duties as Secretary to their satisfaction. He was now the J.W., and he was sure no better selection could have been made. He hoped in due course to see him occupy the chair. The toast of the Junior Officers was given, and the Tyler's toast concluded a very agreeable and harmonious evening. The visitors were—Bros. T. Whiffin 548, H. Davis 865, J. T. Briggs P.M. 157, A. Grinwade 1381, H. M. Levy P.M. 188, Halford 228, Daniel J.W. 65, E. Edwards 788, L. Hester 1075, H. H. Whale 172, E. Preston 65.

The Lodge of Loyalty, No. 1607.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Saturday, the 10th inst., at the Alexandra Palace, Muswell-hill, where, by the kindness of Bros. Bertram and Roberts, the Lodge-room had been comfortably prepared. The brethren assembled punctually at three o'clock, which enabled the W.M. to perform the work with that regularity and precision which is his wonted custom. It consisted in raising Bro. Hodges, and initiating Mr. Thomas Jones into the mysteries of our Order. This done, letters were read from the family of Bro. E. Beedell, stating that he was seriously ill; also from Bro. Samuda, stating that in consequence of the death of his first-born, he was unable to be present; these were ordered to be entered on the minutes, and a resolution passed that replies be sent, expressing the sympathy of the Lodge with these brethren in their affliction. The Lodge was then closed and the brethren returned to town, where, at 59 Old Broad-street, the W.M. had thoughtfully arranged an elegant banquet, served by the proprietor, Bro. Hyde in his well known admirable style. The cloth being cleared, the customary toasts followed,—to that of the charities our worthy Bro. Terry responded, and in the course of his remarks, complimented the Lodge upon the fact that, not having yet completed its first year's existence, it had already sent up two stewards, with lists amounting in the aggregate to £200. The Tyler's toast brought a very agreeable evening to a close. The brethren separating shortly after nine o'clock. Sorry to part, but happy to meet again.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Glad Tidings.—Some constitutions have a tendency to rheumatism, and are throughout the year borne down by its protracted tortures. Let all sufferers bathe the affected parts with warm brine, and afterwards rub in this soothing Ointment. They will find it the best means of lessening their agony, and, assisted by Holloway's Pills, the surest way of overcoming their disease. More need not be said than to request a few days' trial of this safe and soothing treatment, by which the disease will ultimately be completely swept away. Pains that would make a giant shudder are assuaged without difficulty by Holloway's easy and inexpensive remedies, which comfort by moderating the throbbing vessels and calming the excited nerves.

THE DRAMA.

Mr. Irving as "Richard the III"—"The Bohemian Gyurl."

THE latest Shakspearian revival at the Lyceum is Richard the Third, with Mr. Irving, of course, in the part of the crook-backed usurper. The play has been shorn of Colley Cibber's interpolations, and also, we regret to say, of a great deal of the original text. The version employed in this revival forms a somewhat less effective stage play than the ordinary acting version; but it has the merit of introducing the fine character of Queen Margaret, which is usually omitted in representation. Concerning the merits of Mr. Irving's impersonation of Richard, there will probably be some conflict of opinion amongst the best judges; but it may be pronounced decidedly inferior to his Hamlet, though an improvement upon his Macbeth and Othello. Mr. Irving's mannerisms unfortunately grow upon him, and his affectations of voice and peculiarities of pronunciation make it a difficult matter to follow him in his more rapid utterances. Sometimes his voice is made to change capriciously from a low to a high key, or vice versâ. In many instances, he gives an unnatural shortness to his vowel sounds, biting the words off as if they stung him. In the last act, he fails to rise to the height of the occasion, and his voice is manifestly unequal to the task imposed upon it. The performance is unquestionably an intellectual one, and its shortcomings arise chiefly out of the physical idiosyncracies of the actor. Miss Bateman, who appears in the character of Queen Margaret, acts with great force, and renders her declamatory speeches with fine effect. Miss Isabel Bateman is also a sufficiently good exponent of Lady Anne. A Mr. Walter Bentley represents Clarence with great power and intelligence, and the other parts are all adequately cast.

The OPERA COMIQUE has registered a success in the Bohemian Gyurl, a capital burlesque on Balfe's well known opera. The piece is briskly written, some excellent fun is made out of the peculiarities of the original work, and it is acted with spirit throughout. Miss Nelly Farren, who appears as Thaddeus of Warsaw, is, of course, the life and soul of the performance, and she is ably seconded by the efforts of Messrs. Royce and Terry, and Miss Kate Vaughan.

At the annual banquet of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, in Freemason's Hall, on Monday, there were present, including ladies and brethren, no less than 732 guests, of whom 470 were members of the Craft, and the remainder members of the fair sex. Bro. Dawkins, manager, exerted himself to the utmost to cater successfully for this unusually large number, and succeeded admirably, the menu being extremely well chosen, and the wines of the choicest vintages.

"O, LET ME DREAM THAT DREAM AGAIN."—We understand that these stanzas, which we noticed on the 10th inst. (by Mrs. M. A. Baines), have already been set to music for a tenor voice, by William Metcalfe (composer of the "Songs of Cumberland"), and can be obtained from Messrs. Cramer, 201 Regent-street, W. In the second line of the stanza quoted in our columns, last week, there was a slight error; instead of "By fancy's art," read, "By fancy's aid."

LODGE RULERS.

IN a recent issue we discussed at some length the important subject of "Lodge Rulers." We were induced to this step by the immense influence which the election of our highest officers must exercise on the general well-being of the Craft. We return to the question to-day, because, in two among the many reports of Lodge meetings which appeared last week, there are evidences that in sundry notable cases the utmost care is taken to elect those only who are qualified to fulfil the high duties entrusted to them. The government of a Masonic Lodge is no child's play. As we pointed out a fortnight since, it involves a far greater degree of responsibility than the mere chairmanship of a social gathering. But even in this latter, success or non-success depends almost entirely on the qualities, good, bad, or indifferent, which distinguish the chairman. Harmony, the utmost geniality, a proper sense of order and decorum, prevail invariably where the chairman is himself a genial, dignified, and discreet man. In the absence of these requisite qualifications, the social gathering degenerates, as we have said, into a confabulation of bears. We take it, then, that above and beyond his other needful recommendations, the Master of a Lodge should be a genial, dignified, and discreet man. Genial he should be, or the Lodge will have in it little or no life. Its labours will be formal, its refreshment tasteless and unenjoyable. Dignified he must be, or the Craft will lose caste during his tenure of office. His duties are important, and he must show, not only that he himself has a sense of their importance; he must likewise endue others with the same particular sense. As to his discretion, the Master who has it not, how, we ask, is it possible for such a one to allay the jealousies, both great and small, which are as easily aroused in the minds of Masons as of other men? How will he reconcile the oftentimes widely-diverging tastes of his fellow members, who for the time being are, so to speak, his subjects? We fancy there are very few who will have the courage to deny that a Master who lacks these three essential qualities of geniality, dignity, and discretion, stands a fair chance of proving a conspicuous failure as the President of a Lodge. But these are only additional to certain other qualities which it is desirable that a Lodge Ruler should exhibit. We say "desirable," instead of requisite, advisedly. Were we to enumerate the characteristics which should distinguish him, our ideal of a Worshipful Master would present the picture of a perfect man, such as is not to be found within the pale of Freemasonry any more than it is outside it. Therefore in this, as in our former article, we shall confine ourselves to a notice of those characteristics, which, in our opinion, it is possible for every brother who aspires to be a Lodge Ruler, to exhibit. Thus, the least we have a right to expect of such a brother that he shall be a good "maistir of wark." We are not calling upon him to make any unusual sacrifice when we ask him to acquire just so much knowledge of his duties as will enable him to pass the chair creditably. By duties we do not mean that he should occupy his chair more or less gracefully, and array himself more or less becomingly in his Masonic clothing. Nor do we limit our sense of duties simply to the occasional utterance of a few monosyllables, and the giving a few strokes of the gavel. We are not greatly overrating the average ability of Masons if we say we think that most of them are capable of doing thus much fairly well. Our notion of a good "maistir of wark," is of one who can open and close his Lodge successfully without the friendly assistance of a P.M.; who can rehearse the several ceremonies impressively, and with a fair degree of accuracy; who can vacate his seat at the end of his term of office gracefully, by duly installing his successor; who is able to rectify any errors which his officers may commit; who, in a difficulty, has presence of mind enough to offer some kind of solution of it. This is the sum of the knowledge we think a brother on the point of being installed in the chair of his Lodge should possess, or the efficiency of the Lodge will be damaged. We might go further, without seriously trespassing upon the patience of our readers. There is nothing irregular in our suggesting that an intending candidate for the chair of an English Lodge should possess some knowledge of the English language. We do not expect him to be a scholar, a perfect master of diction, a man of letters; but we do expect him to know the meaning of what he utters, and to possess the power of stringing together a few sentences, so that the sense of what he says may be obvious to others, if not to himself. Our proverbial loyalty should forbid us so murdering the Queen's English that even a Queen's speech would be Demosthenic in comparison. In a mixed society like ours, we must look to find a very irregularly graduated scale both of knowledge and ability. We have no right to be disappointed when we find our expectations fulfilled, and that the equality before the Masonic law, which we not only inculcate, but practise, does not manifest itself in this important requisite of Masonic knowledge; but we are justified in exclaiming against Ignorance—downright stolid Ignorance—flaunting itself in our high places. To revert, however, to the main point we have in view. We think a Master should know enough to enable him to fulfil his duties respectably, and we see no obstacle whatever to his acquiring this knowledge. Let us take the case of the Doric Lodge, whose installation meeting was chronicled last week in these pages. "A very wholesome rule in this Lodge," writes our reporter, "is, that each W.M., before being elected to the chair, is required to show his proficiency and capability to perform satisfactorily the duties that may be required of him, and, in addition, that when he shall have completed his year of office, he should instal his successor." And, he adds, "By this wise rule, all the junior officers are careful to perfect themselves in their respective duties, and a thorough state of efficiency throughout the Lodge is thus secured." This—leaving the geniality and the other qualities for a moment out of the question—is, as we have said, the sum and substance of what should be required of every aspirant to magisterial honours. Again, let us take the occurrences at the meeting, also chronicled last week, of the Hervey Lodge of Instruction. On this occasion, the meeting was held "for the purpose of examining the S.W. of the Mother Lodge, previous to the election of W.M." Accordingly Bro. Southwood, the S.W. in question, presided for the evening as W.M. The Lodge was opened, and the ceremony of initiation rehearsed. The Lodge was again opened, and the ceremony of passing rehearsed. The Lodge for the third time was opened, and the ceremony of raising rehearsed. It was then duly agreed that the Secretary should write to the W.M. of the Hervey Lodge, informing him of the efficient manner in which Bro. Southwood had worked the various ceremonies, and that a vote of thanks should also be recorded on the minutes, to the worthy brother himself, for having so worked them. Here we have an illustration of the advantages our Lodges of Instruction offer to intending candidates for any and every office in a Lodge. What was done in this instance can be done in the instance of every other aspirant to the Mastership, at least, in the case of our Metropolitan Lodges; and even in the Provinces, where the facilities for acquiring the requisite knowledge are certainly fewer, it only requires the exercise of a little pains, the devotion of a leisure hour or two now and then, and the intending candidate for the chair of K.S. will readily learn enough to acquit himself fairly well in his office. Let those Lodges which have not already prescribed for themselves such a rule as the Doric insists on having observed, lose no time in doing so. Let W.M.'s elect and designate have grace enough to learn their duties, and prove themselves capable, as did Bro. Southwood in the case we have quoted, of undertaking the office of Master, and we shall very quickly have the labours of our Lodges efficiently conducted. A poet has said—

"Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise."

This is all very well in certain cases, and, no doubt, if our W.M.'s are permitted to rule in blissful ignorance of their duties, it would be an act of folly in them to acquire the requisite wisdom. There is, however, one objection to the application of this dictum in the case under discussion. Masonry is a science, science implies knowledge, knowledge is not to be acquired without study, and so on through the whole category of steps, just as in the nursery tale of the House that Jack Built.

When we look this question of Lodge rulers fairly in the face, is it not, in very truth, an absurdity, that we should be called upon to regard a man who knows nothing as the representative of King Solomon? Is the science of Masonry enriched, when a Lodge is presided over by one who knows not how to open it, how to close it, or what to do in the interim? We readily admit there are cases where a brother may properly be elected to the chair, whose knowledge of our ritual is imperfect. He may, in spite of this, possess many excellent qualities, both of heart and mind, and prove a very efficient ruler. The prompt assistance of his P.M.'s will always be available, and help him through the more laborious functions of his office. The members of the Lodge will certainly exhibit towards him the utmost forbearance, casting out of sight his imperfections, and having regard only to the sterling qualities he possesses. There is a true pleasure in helping so worthy a Craftsman through his duties, nor should we even for a moment pretend to assert that the occasional reception of such a one into the ranks of our experts would exercise any influence upon the Craft that is detrimental. But these are only exceptional cases. The rule is, as we have said, that a brother who offers himself for any responsible position in a Lodge, and especially for its Mastership, must have a knowledge of its duties. The facilities for acquiring this knowledge are many, and the task of no great difficulty. There is an old saying to the effect that, what is worth doing at all is worth doing well. Our remarks are intended to go even beyond this. In the class of cases we cited a fortnight since, the question is not between doing and doing well, but between doing and not doing, what is required to be done. We are content when we enter a Lodge to find that the Master knows his duty. We are pleased when we find he knows it well. We cannot honestly say we experience any sense of contentment when we find he knows and can do nothing. A line must be drawn somewhere, as the nouvelle riche said when she excluded from her receptions all below the rank of baronet. In drawing the line somewhere between eligible and ineligible candidates for the Mastership, we cannot be accused of too great exclusiveness if we fix it so as to shut out Ignorance.

GRAND COMMANDERY, KNIGHTS TEMPLARS, VIRGINIA, U.S.

WE have received copy of Proceedings of the Annual Assembly of the above Grand Commandery, held in the city of Alexandria, on the 15th and 16th November last. R.E. Robert E. Withers, Grand Commander, presided, and was strongly supported by his Grand Officers, by representatives of ten out of the fourteen subordinate Commanderies, and likewise by a numerous array of visitors. The Grand Commandery having been opened in solemn form, the Grand Commander delivered his usual address, in which he noted the principal incidents of the past year, referred to the courteous invitation received to attend the grand Templar re-union held in Philadelphia in the month of June, to his presence, by the invitation of the R.E. Grand Commander of Maryland, at the ceremonies incident to the installation of the officers of subordinate Commanderies of that jurisdiction; and also mentioned the decisions he had arrived at on certain questions of jurisprudence which had been submitted to him. This address was, as usual, referred to a committee, and the other business, including the appointment of a Grand Lecturer, having been dispatched, the Grand Commandery was dismissed till the following morning. On re-assembling on the 16th, the first business was the election of Grand Officers, but only a few of these were new elections, the majority of the officers being re-appointed for a further year's service. After their installation, a committee was appointed to prepare suitable resolutions in connection with the services of the late Grand Recorder Sir Knight John Dove, the announcement of whose death had been received only a short time previous to the election. The Committee on the Address then presented its report, thanking the Grand Commander for his eminent services, re-echoing his sentiments as to the duties which Sir Knights should fulfil in private as well as in public, and endorsing all his decisions. To this Report is appended a series of resolutions, by the first of which it was agreed to have a gold pen made, and studded with diamonds, bearing on it the name of "John Dove, Grand Recorder," to be always placed on the Grand Recorder's desk as a memorial of his services. The Report also authorised the Grand Commander to write a letter of condolence to the Grand Recorder; but this, of course, was rendered nugatory by his death. The Grand Treasurer's account was then presented, showing receipts, including a balance of 375.38 dollars, amounting to 787.38 dollars, and expenditure 353,50 dollars, thus leaving a balance in hand of 433.88 dollars. The Reports of other Committees having been presented, the Grand Commandery was dismissed, a resolution having previously been passed, fixing upon Lynchburg as the place, and the second Tuesday in the month of October as the date, of meeting in the current year. Appended are lists of the different Commanderies in the jurisdiction. They are as follow:—Fredericksburg Commandery, No. 1, twenty-six members; Richmond, No. 2, one hundred and ninety-six; Charlotteville, No. 3, thirty-nine; De Molay, No. 4, eighty-six; Portsmouth, No. 5, fifty-six; Appomattox, No. 6, eighty-one; Dove, No. 7, twenty-four; Stevenson, No. 8, forty; Christiansburg, No. 9, twenty-six; Meherrin, No. 10, no return for four years; Old Dominion, No. 11, fifty-five; Winchester, No. 12, twenty-three; Johnson, No. 14, twenty-seven; Grice, No. 16, seventy-five. No Nos. 13 and 15. The proceedings conclude with other statistical matter, a list of deaths, and the Report of the Committee appointed to prepare resolutions in consequence of the lamented death of Sir Knight Dove. We offer our fraternal thanks for the receipt of these interesting particulars.

MASONRY IN INDIA.

THE Standard of Bombay for last week, contains an article congratulating the Craft on the near prospect there is of the erection, in the capital of the Great Western Presidency, of a suitable Masonic Temple, where our Bombay brethren may celebrate their rites comfortably and appropriately. It also refers at some length to the installation of Bro. Rustomjee Merwanjee as W.M. of the Lodge Rising Star of Western India, No. 842 under the Scottish Constitutions. The ceremony is reported to have been both ably and impressively performed by Bro. Henry Morland, Grand Master of Scottish Freemasonry in all India. Parsee, Hindoo, Mahomedan, and European brethren were present in considerable numbers, and the speeches of both the newly installed W. Master and Bro. Morland were admirable specimens of neat and appropriate oratory, with the further advantages of being brief, clear, and to the point. The same periodical contains, among other interesting matter, chapters I. and II. of a most valuable work, by Dr. Adolf Rapp, on "The Religion and the Customs of the Persian and other Iranians," the translation being by Bro. K. R. Cama.

The Masonic Record of Western India, published at Jubbulpore, opens with a useful and very pertinent article on the subject of "Lodges of Improvement." The remarks of our contemporary are seasonable as well as appropriate. We notice also accounts of the meetings held on the 30th October and 2nd December respectively, of the District

Grand Lodges of the Punjab and Bombay. At the former, Bro. Major W. Mackesey, Dep. D.G.M., presided, and, in the course of his address, congratulated the brethren on the progress which the Craft had made lately in India, as well as elsewhere. The Report of the Fund of Benevolence having been read, and sundry resolutions in accordance therewith having been proposed and carried, the acting D.G.M., before closing the Lodge, expressed his regret at the paucity of attendance on the part of the members, and also that so few, on finding themselves unable to attend, had thought it worth while to send any apology for their absence. Bro. Hon. J. Gibbs presided at the half yearly communication of the Bombay D.G.L. In the course of his address, Bro. Gibbs touched on the rights and privileges of honorary membership. The sum of Rs. 1,000 having been transferred from the Hall Fund to the Grand Lodge Fund, in order to meet certain expenditure incurred in connection with Masonic ceremonials on the Prince of Wales's visit to Bombay, and the other business having been disposed of, the D. Grand Lodge was closed with the customary formalities.

PROVINCIAL GRAND ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER OF CORNWALL.

INSTALLATION OF LORD MOUNT EDGCUMBE.

THE Royal Arch Freemasons of Cornwall achieved a notable work last Tuesday, for they secured to themselves the advantage of provincial organisation, and witnessed the installation of the Right Hon. the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe at its head. The event marks the complete resuscitation of this superior degree of the order in the county. In the latter part of the last century there was a Provincial Grand Chapter of Cornwall, but, with the exception of the Falmouth Chapter, which, however, remains dormant, all the Chapters then meeting have died out. The oldest working Chapter is that at Penzance, which dates from 1863, since which Chapters have been established at Truro, Hayle, St. Austell, Liskeard, St. Day, Tywardreath, and St. Germans. There were therefore good grounds for the formation of a Provincial Grand Chapter. The novelty of the occasion, and the ceremony of installing the Earl as Grand Superintendent, drew a large number of Arch Masons from all parts of the county, as well as from across the Tamar, who met in the handsome room of the Masonic Hall, at Truro, Ex. Comp. L. P. Metham Provincial Grand H. of Devonshire kindly undertook to perform the installation ceremony, as the representative of the Grand First Principal (the Earl of Carnarvon).

The Chapter was opened in due form, with Ex. Comp. Metham presiding as Z., and supported by Comp. Colonel Peard, and Comp. N. J. West occupying the H. and J. chairs respectively; Comp. W. Tweedy acting as P. Soj., and Comp. R. John as Master of Ceremonies. Comp. Sir Frederick Martin Williams, Bart., M.P., who, on entering the Chapter, was greeted with hearty applause, occupied a seat near the E.Z. When all were assembled, Ex. Comp. Metham introduced the business by observing on its gratifying characteristics—the constitution of a Provincial Grand Chapter, and the installation at its head of one in whom all felt a pride in the immediate prospect of his filling the office—of one who, always desirous of benefitting the Craft and humanity in general, was sure to receive from the Chapter that cordial welcome which his kindness deserved. (Applause). The patent for the constitution of the Provincial Grand Chapter and the installation of the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe having been read by Comp. John, Comps. F. W. Dabb, W. J. Johns, G. Kerswell, and T. C. Stephens, as the deputation, ushered in the Earl as Grand Superintendent-Designate.

Ex. Comp. Metham, addressing his lordship, said:—"Excellent Companion Lord Mount Edgcumbe: In acting to-day as Installing Officer, it is my pleasing privilege to congratulate you on the distinguished position you have attained, and the Province on their good fortune in receiving as their ruler one, who, both by precept and example, illustrates and adorns the principles of Freemasonry. I am also charged to convey to you the warmest congratulations and good wishes of my Illustrious Chief, the Grand Superintendent, and the Companions of Devonshire. You have already shown, as Provincial Grand Master, that you possess a just and generous mind, which would be more gratified in guiding the judgment and winning the affections of your brethren, than in exercising a despotic power over their lives and fortunes. To all of us our Great Master has committed talents, to some more and to others less, for which we shall have to account at His coming. To you, more than to most, He has committed great and precious talents which I am confident you will not bury in a napkin, but employ to His glory and the welfare of your fellow creatures, more especially the great talent to be committed to your keeping this day. You receive this honourable distinction at a time when the prelates of a Church, hostile to our Order, are every day, with increased virulence, fulminating anathemas against Freemasons as materialists and atheists. It will be your duty by your public conduct, your private life, and your teaching, to contradict so unfounded a calumny. Before administering to you the solemn obligation pertaining to your office, it is my duty to call your attention to the supreme and unsurpassable character of the Royal Arch Degree. It must of necessity be the climax of Freemasonry, for it is intimately blended with all that is near and dear to us in another and a higher state of existence. It is founded on a name which is above every name—the name of the Great I AM, who was from all eternity, is now, and shall be one and the same for ever; who is the Eternal Ruler of the Universe, the elemental life, the primordial source of all its principles, the very spring and fountain of all its virtues and of all its blessings. Like the ladder of Jacob's dream the base of our system rests on the earth, the intermediate steps are clear and defined, but the summit reaches to the Heavens and is buried in the clouds. When the just and upright brother who has modelled his life according to the principles of truth and virtue; who has made Charity his guide, in thought, word and deed, towards all men; who has cultivated and exercised his intellectual powers to the glory of God and the welfare of his fellow creatures, stands at last on the brink of the grave which is about to receive him into its cold bosom, he quails not, but raises his eyes in faith to that bright morning star whose rising shall bring peace and salvation to the faithful and obedient of the human race. And then, when death has thrown his sable mantle around him—when the last arrow of our mortal enemy has been despatched—when the bow of the mighty conqueror has been broken by the iron arm of time—when the angel of the Lord has declared that time itself shall be no more, and when, by that victory, God has subdued all things unto himself, then will our faithful brother behold the clouds rolled back from the summit of the ladder, and he will find himself in the presence of the Great I AM, his beneficent Creator and merciful Judge, and he shall behold (not as now, through a glass darkly, but face to face) Him whom he has obeyed in life and trusted in death. The Royal Arch Degree, is, therefore, to us a pillar of daily admiration and instruction and a beacon of eternal light guiding us through the intricate windings of our mortal existence, and only leaving us when having passed through the gloomy portals which divide life from death we enter those eternal mansions where the true secrets of Masonry shall be disclosed, never again to be concealed or lost. Were there a thousand degrees, each more beautiful than the other, useful as they may be as illustrations, exponents or incentives, they are, unless connected with or dependent on the Royal Arch degree, weakened as moral teachers and deprived of their most solemn, vital, and instructive character. They would be like the fruit described in Eastern fable, beautiful and tempting to the eye, but stony and cold to the touch and bitter as ashes to the taste. Had the soul no aspirations breathed into its inmost consciousness by which it was convinced it should never perish, the cry of the heathen sensualist, "Let us eat, drink, and be merry, for to-morrow we die," would be the best philosophy and the easiest rule of life. Still superlative as I claim this degree to be, I emphatically call on you to remember that it is but a link, although the most precious link, in the golden chain which binds together in mutual dependence the various parts of our whole system. And if you have carefully followed the teaching of the three degrees of which the Royal Arch is the copestone, you will have learned that there is no more acceptable service or sacrifice you can offer to your beneficent Creator than to look beyond the narrow limits of particular institutions, whether civil or religious, and to behold in every child of Adam a brother of the dust. You obey His will and you do the truest Masonic work when you tend the sick, feed the hungry, clothe the naked, shelter the outcast, visit the widow and orphan in their desolation, cheer the mourners in their sorrow, and extend comfort and consolation to every one of your fellow creatures in their need, irrespective of nation, language, creed, or colour.

He prayeth best who loveth best,
All things both great and small,
For the dear God who loveth us,
Hath made and loves them all.

We are, therefore, bound as Royal Arch Masons, in gratitude for favours so abundantly showered upon us, and in expectation of the fulfilment of His gracious promises for the future, to do our utmost to hasten the completion of that glorious Temple, that Spiritual building which is to supersede the typical Temple erected on Mount Moriah. Let us diligently employ the working tools of this degree, let us perform our allotted task while it is yet day. With the sword by our side let us fight for the true against the false, the good against the evil, and the weak against the strong; with the crowbar let us demolish the strongholds of pride, prejudice, ignorance, and superstition; with the pickaxe let us bury the rubbish of the body of the old Adam; with the shovel let us clear away the ruins of a fallen nature, and prepare the ground for a new structure, fitted for the reception of truth, virtue, and wisdom; with the trowel let us every day add a white and perfect ashlar to the walls of the new Temple, which, though, alas, only too slowly, is gradually and certainly growing up, by-and-by to cover the whole earth, to embrace and fold, within its ample courts, all people, nations and languages, and to be filled with the name, the honour and glory of the Great I AM—(loud and continued applause.)

The installing ceremony was then most impressively conducted, Comps. the Rev. G. L. Church, the Rev. G. Ross and R. John assisting Ex. Comp. Metham. The Earl of Mount Edgcumbe having been invested with the robes of office and conducted to his chair, was cordially greeted and saluted in ancient form. Addressing the Chapter, he first of all thanked Ex. Comp. Metham for his most impressive conduct of the day's ceremony—(applause.) The Chapter, he was sure, would warmly reciprocate Comp. Metham's sentiments with regard to the cordial feeling and congratulations he brought with him from the sister Province—(applause)—and it was a matter of deep regret to him that the G.S. of Devon, the Rev. J. Huyshe, was unable to take upon himself the duties so admirably performed by the second principal of the Devonshire Province. As years rolled on it was his hope that the Royal Arch Masons of Cornwall would look back to this day as an era of no little importance in the Masonic history of the Province—(applause)—not because so humble and inexperienced a person as himself had been placed in the principal chair, but because it was the commencement of anything like provincial organisation in the county in connection with this high degree—(hear, hear)—a degree which was the climax of pure Masonry. (Applause.) He did not mean to say that they could with great certainty maintain the extreme antiquity some claimed for the degree, as it was at present worked. A great deal was to be said for the opinion that it did not date back further than the early part of the last century. Many supposed it to have arisen in the time of the great schism between Freemasons. In these days they could happily treat that schism entirely as a matter of ancient history, because of the thorough unanimity that now reigned among Masons of the United Kingdom. (Applause.) In 1738, however, there was a schism, and it was supposed that the Royal Arch degree, as now worked, was then originated by one of the two factions, and no record was said to exist of its having been worked before that. But consideration should be had to the extreme difficulty of obtaining distinctive records of an institution which was almost entirely maintained by oral tradition, especially at a time when there was very little Masonry going on. Another thing to be remembered was that if the Royal Arch Degree, as it now stood, was not of very great antiquity, it was almost positively certain that the mysterious sacred name upon which all its special character hung, must have been preserved in a separate degree in the Master Masons of that time, and in proof of that a tracing board of a Master Mason's Lodge was published on the continent a long time previous to the schism in which that name was placed in a prominent position. Whatever its origin, in the present position of the Master Mason's degree, with its substituted secrets, it was quite clear that it (the Master Mason's degree) would have been very imperfect, but for the addition of the Royal Arch Degree. (Hear, hear). If they took the mysterious name, which was the test and centre of their work in this degree, and investigated it, they would see the impossibility of its being a modern invention. His lordship proceeded to analyse the mysterious name etymologically, with a view to establish its antiquity, and to suggest, as they were making a fresh start, that there was much to interest in the degree. Masonry was not only a most important machinery for carrying out the principles of brotherly love and equality, but it was of great interest as enabling them, if its history was at all true, to trace back the plan or system of laws by which God had from the earliest days, as it were, gradually developed the moral and religious elements of his intellectual creatures, just as geology and other natural sciences enabled man to trace the development of God's plan in the material creation. Royal Arch Masonry enabled them to trace back the development of the conception of God as a Trinity. The principal symbol in the degree was used to indicate a Trinity a thousand years before Christ. The Arch Degree, if studied in accordance with views he had expressed, would teach them a higher view of the Deity than as the mere Architect of the World, and would also give them a truer idea of their inter-dependence on each other. He trusted they would be led to study the origin of the Royal Arch degree, and to see that if Masonry in general was deserving of being kept pure and bright by the non-admission of anything bringing dishonour on it, still more was this necessary in the case of this the highest of its degrees. (Applause).

The G.S. then proceeded to invest his officers as follow:—Comps. Sir Fred. Williams H., Rev. George Ross 151 J., W. Tweedy 331 Treasurer, E. Truebody Carlyon 331 Scribe N., Richard John 331 Scribe E., W. H. Jenkins 331 P. Soj., G. Kerswill 1164 1st Asst. Soj., J. Paull 1006 2nd Asst. Soj., W. J. Johns 331 Registrar, W. Guy 1151 Standard Bearer, N. J. West 450 Sword Bearer, C. R. Courtney 510 M.C., J. Nineas 1006 Organist, I. Levin 121 Steward, C. Truscott jun. 496 Steward, J. B. Kerswill 1164 Steward, T. C. Stephens 1151 Steward.

Comp. Tweedy was elected Treasurer on the motion of Comp. T. Webber, seconded by Comp. W. H. Jenkins. The G.S., investing Comp. Jenkins, remarked of him that it was chiefly owing to his exertions Royal Arch Masonry was resuscitated in the county.

A letter of apology for absence was read from E. Comp. Hughan P.Z., Representative Grand Chapter of Pennsylvania, and his offer to assist in the compilation of the new bye-laws was most gratefully accepted.

The first, second, and third Past Principals, Scribes E. and N., and the Treasurer of each Chapter, with the present Z., were appointed a committee to frame bye-laws for the Provincial Chapter; and before the Chapter was closed, E. Comp. Metham was cordially thanked for services so kindly and efficiently rendered.—Western Daily Mercury.

FREEMASONS' BANQUET AND BALL AT BRIGHTON.

ON Tuesday, 16th February, the York and St. Cecilia Lodges of Masons had, at the Brighton Pavilion, a magnificent entertainment—comprising banquet and ball—at which enjoyment was fairly divided between members of the Craft and the members of the softer sex. The banquet was served in the banqueting room, by Messrs. Sayers and Marks, of Western-road. The party was presided over by Bro. Nell W.M. of the York Lodge, and the general arrangements were efficiently carried out by the following committee:—Bros. Start, Peel, Weston Hon. Sec., H. Payne, Pearson, Foat, Sandeman, Eberal, H. E. Cox, R. T. Nye, G. Emery, W. H. Harley, Carden, R. T. Pope, and A. J. Hawkes. The company at the banquet numbered about 120. About nine o'clock the ball was opened in the Music-room, which was hung with white lace curtains. Bro. Devin's orchestral band was engaged, and went through a long and excellent programme. Light refreshments were served in the North Drawing-room, the South Drawing-room being an agreeable promenade. The rooms and corridor were elegantly decorated with flowering plants and evergreens. The success of the ball was greatly due to the exertions of the M.C.'s, Bros. A. T. Hawkes, R. T. Pope, and S. P. Weston, the latter of whom was most indefatigable in his exertions to keep every thing going smoothly.

LORD CARNARVON AND OUR CHARITIES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Let me shortly reply to Bro. Constable, whose charitable views entirely coincide with my own, as follows:—

Lord Carnarvon did not say that the Charities did not want money; his Lordship stated that they did not need a special grant; and this I am glad to think is quite correct. The Craft, by its grand exertions, annually supplies the funds required, and the money thus collected is, in the aggregate, almost, if not quite, unprecedented in the history of Charities.

Fraternally yours,

20th February 1877. A V.P. OF BOTH SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—On the principle that the troubles of others are a slight alleviation of our own misfortunes, I must confess I read Bro. John Constable's letter in your last issue with a certain amount of melancholy satisfaction that I was not the only Steward for the Boys' School who had met with rebuffs on account of Lord Carnarvon's speech.

I have the honour to be a Steward for the coming Festival of the Boys' Schools, and, representing as I do a province which is certainly not the least influential and wealthy, I had made up my mind to a large and hearty response from those to whom I appealed. But my discomfiture has been great where the reason given for not subscribing has been, "We are told, on the highest possible authority, that no Masonic Charity will ever appeal in vain, and that they do not want money, and that of course Lord Carnarvon knows of some hidden and secret mine of wealth to supply the exhausted coffers."

I sincerely hope his Lordship can make good his words, and that the appeal of the Institutions will not be made in vain. For my own part, I fear my individual list will be "beautifully less."

I am, yours fraternally,

Manchester, 19th Feb. 1877. ROYAL ORDER.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—It really appears to me, from the letter of Bro. Constable, in your last issue, in which he refers to certain remarks of our Pro Grand Master, Lord Carnarvon, that he, Bro. Constable, has somewhat misjudged those remarks, and that instead of injuring his canvass as Steward for the Boys' Institution, they should and will serve the cause of our Charities.

What the Pro Grand Master did in effect say was, that our Charities would never lack the goodwill and noble feeling of the Order, that the Charities would obtain sufficient for all purposes from the voluntary efforts of the Craft.

The truth of these words is evident in the ever increasing amounts brought to the Charities annually by the good work of its Stewards. In this work Bro. Constable is known to play an earnest and diligent part.

The words of the Pro Grand Master stated, the Craft would give, as occasion required, all that the "Charities "needed"—not that the Charities had already got all they required.

Therefore, let our Brother be of good cheer in his canvass. He can bear rebukes, must bear insinuations—coming as they do from those who do not know, and who do not even trouble to find out the good work done by these noble Institutions. Such remarks emanate from those who cannot understand the feelings experienced by those who work for our aged and needy, for our parents in Masonry, for our dear orphan girls and boys; work self-imposed, at the expense of time, labour, and cost, and as a labour of love.

Will Bro. Constable, when making an appeal, bring forth authentic and well digested figures, culled from the vouched for records of the particular Institution whose interests he is advocating, and show what our Charities are doing in return for what they secure from the Craft. I have begged for our Charities, have met with rebuffs, heard base and unfounded insinuations, have been told when the money gets to London it goes into a "vortex" of waste, and worse. Very recently, when asking for aid for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and in the capacity of Steward for the Province and the Charity, the worthy Treasurer of the Lodge threatened aloud, that if the motion were carried, he would "give up his collar and leave the Lodge." While the W.M., before putting the proposition, which I had succeeded in getting proposed and seconded by two members of the Lodge, stated he should vote against it. This came naturally, perhaps, from a Lodge that had never given a penny to the Institutions; but then, this Lodge would find it exceedingly difficult to either open or close without the timely aid of visitors. As for work, well, they are wise enough not to attempt it without the aid of neighbouring brethren.

Gladly do I change the scene to very different receptions when on begging expeditions for the Charity, where the right hand of goodfellowship has been freely given, with a warm response, to the cause advocated. This may be seen at a glance by the various contributions of Lodges and Chapters on my list as Steward for Devon for the late Festival for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution.

This proves the words of our Pro Grand Master Lord Carnarvon, "That our Charities are the great jewel in the Masonic Crown."

Yours fraternally,

CHARLES GODTSCHALK,

Late Steward for Devon, R.M.B. Institution,
P.M. 70 and 1255.

"THINGS NEW AND OLD."

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The case noticed by your Correspondent, "QUIZ," in his letter of last week, if it really occurred, would be very singular, namely, that Comp. Thos. Dunckerley should have appointed himself to the office of Prov. Grand Superintendent of Cornwall. But will "QUIZ" pardon me for suggesting that this point or deduction of his seems hardly to be justified by the circumstances. In the Warrant of Dispensation, a copy of which I read at the time of its appearance, Dunckerley is described as "Grand Superintendent of Royal Arch Masons." The County of Cornwall, therefore, with its one Royal Arch Chapter, would, in my humble judgment, very properly come under the "Superintendance" of the G.S., but it does not, therefore, follow that Comp. Dunckerley appointed himself P.G.S. of Cornwall. I have by me, at the moment of writing, Vol I. of the Freemasons' Magazine, which is, I believe, the first in order of priority among Masonic periodicals. The number for October 1793, contains a biographical sketch of the said Thos. Dunckerley. At the very outset are enumerated his several Masonic titles. These are as follow: "Past Senior Grand Warden of England, Provincial Grand Master for the City and County of Bristol, the Counties of Dorset, Essex, Gloucester, Hereford, Somerset, Southampton, and the Isle of Wight, under the authority of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales; Grand Superintendent and Past Grand Master of Royal Arch Masons for the City and County of Bristol, the Counties of Dorset, Essex, Gloucester, Hereford, Kent, Nottingham, Somerset, Southampton, Surrey, Suffolk, Sussex, and Warwick, under the patronage of His Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence; Most Eminent and Supreme Grand Master of Knights of Rosa Crucis, Templars, Kadosh, &c., of England, under His Royal Highness Prince Edward, Patron of the Order."

The sketch from which this extract has been made, was written in the lifetime of Dunckerley, and less than two years after the letter quoted by "QUIZ" was written. Yet there is no mention of Cornwall among the counties of which he was Superintendent. I do not expect perfect accuracy in a Masonic or any other journal; but, as Dunckerley was one of the foremost Masons of his day, I think it very likely the writer of the sketch would be as careful as possible to describe him rightly. I do not say "QUIZ" is wrong in his deduction, but I should like to see it resting on more substantial evidence than he has yet given us.

Fraternally yours,

"Q."

AN OLD MASONIC MAGAZINE.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Turning over a bundle of old papers the other day, I came upon an odd number of the Scientific Magazine and Freemason's Repository for 1797, a monthly publication, which appears to have been then in its eighth year of existence. The larger portion of the number, which is for the month of March, is occupied by detailed accounts, with plans, of the victorious action off Cape St. Vincent by the British Fleet under Admiral Sir John Jervis, which had taken place the previous month, and the part devoted to Masonic subjects is very limited. The "Repository" opens with the first portion of "A sermon preached before the Royal Arch Lodge, Dublin, 27th December 1794, by the Rev. Jonathan Ashe, Chaplain to the said Lodge," on the words "A Friend loveth at all times, and a Brother is born for adversity," Prov. xvii. 17, and it is very plain, from the tone of the discourse, that Bro. Ashe regarded Christianity as inextricably bound up with the study and successful practice of the Royal Art; and whilst acknowledging the universality of Masonry in principle, he instances the great friendship of God, as displayed towards mankind by the gift of his Son, as the greatest Masonic lesson, and adds, "as He was a real Friend to us, He expects us to be such to one another."

Amongst the Masonic intelligence, is an account of the laying of the foundation stone of the Mole, at Montego Bay, Jamaica, with Masonic honours. The St. James's and Union Lodges, then bearing the respective numbers of 271 and 272, taking the leading part in the ceremonial. It is worthy of remark that in the public procession the "high grades" took part with the Craft Masons, showing that, in those days, there was no desire on the part of any of those bodies or Craft Masons, to separate or stand aloof from one another. The Masonic part of the procession was as follows:—

Two Tylers with Swords.
Stewards of the St. James's and Union Lodges,
Two and two, in their Regalia with White Staves.
The Holy Bible, carried by an Entered Apprentice.
And the Symbolic Flag of Craft Masonry borne by another.
Clergy.
Entered Apprentices.
Fellow Crafts.
Book of Constitutions, carried by a Fellow Craft, and the Royal Arch Banner, borne by a Brother of that Order.
Master Masons.
Brethren of the Higher Degrees.
Knights Templars' Banner, borne by a Knight,
And the Book of Sacred Truths with Seven Seals, carried by a M.E. of N.
Knights Templars.
Past Masters.
Secretaries of the three Lodges.
Treasurers of ditto.
Junior Wardens of ditto.
Senior Wardens of ditto.
Masters of ditto.

The description of the ceremony is very full, and we are told that the Masonic part of the placing of the stone was performed by the "Right Worshipful" Master of the St. James's Lodge, the honours of Masonry being given under a Royal salute from the fort. The procession then reformed and went to church, where prayers were read by the Rev. Bro. Little, and a sermon preached by the Rev. Bro. Ricard. The brethren afterwards dined together at the Court House. "The King and the Craft were announced by a Royal salute from the ship Princess Royal; a collection was made for the relief of the poor; and the remainder of the day spent with that order and decorum which has ever characterised the meetings of the Fraternity."

Amongst the pages devoted to poetry, I find the following, which I do not remember to have met with before:—

AN HYMN ON MASONRY.

BY BRO. LINNECAR.

Let there be light! the Almighty spoke,
Refulgent streams from chaos broke,
T' illume the rising earth!
Well pleased, the Great Jehovah stood,
The Power Supreme pronounc'd it good,
And gave the Planets birth!
In choral numbers Masons join
To bless and praise this Light Divine.

Parent of light! accept our praise,
Who shed'st on us thy brightest rays—
The light that fills the mind!
By choice selected, lo! we stand,
By Friendship join'd, a mystic band,
That love, that aid mankind!
In choral numbers Masons join
To bless and praise this Light Divine.

The Widow's tears we often dry,
The Orphan's wants our hands supply,
As far as power is given;
The naked clothe—the pris'ner free—
These are thy works, sweet Charity!
Reveal'd to us from Heav'n!
In choral numbers Masons join
To bless and praise this Light Divine!

SONG.

Said to have been written by the late King of Prussia, for an Order in Germany, called Philippian Masonry.

From Macedonia's confines haste,
To Philippi repair;
Your trials then will all be past,
No doubt they were severe;
But at our Philippi you'll find
A sweet reception, good and kind.

If any mean ignoble knight
Our fortress should assail,
We'll straight deprive him of his sight,
His hearing, too, shall fail;
For sure in this we all agree
That cowans should not hear or see.

The great St. Paul shall be our guide,
Under our Master Grand;
In Timothy we will confide,
With Paphroditus stand;
The ne plus ultra of all good
We've gained at last, with loss of blood.

In friendship, then, let us unite,
Our hearts and hands around,
Each man's a most exalted knight
Who stands on holy ground;
May no misfortune e'er depress
Our friendship, or our happiness.

I am,

Yours fraternally,

T. B. WHYTEHEAD, 18°.

York, 12th February 1877.

[We thank Bro. Whytehead for his communication, and insert it with a great deal of pleasure. The mingling of the "High Grades" with Craft Mason was no uncommon occurrence at the time to which the letter refers. We shall be able to adduce other instances of it at an early date.—ED. Pakes in the chair as W.M. for the current year. Bro. G. Andrews P.M. gave the addresses. The brethren appointed to office were—Bros. Dr. J. Baxter Langley S.W., G. T. Lion J.W., W. Andrews P.M. Bavin Secretary. A vote of thanks was passed to Bro. F. Walters for installing, and Bros. G. and W. Andrews for assisting. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a very choice banquet, which was provided by Bro. Porter, proprietor of the White Swan Hotel. The usual toasts were afterwards proposed and honoured, and the speeches which were delivered, exhibited great ability. The W.M. acquitted himself admirably, and displayed a fluency which is not often experienced in Lodges. Bro. Baxter Langley being called upon to respond to the toast of "The Masonic Institutions," said, that he no sooner joined Freemasonry than he found its prominent characteristic was charity. Delighted as he was with the ceremony of initiation, he felt it his duty at once to become a Life Governor of all the Masonic Charities. He had every reason to hope that he might continue in that course, and he trusted that before he had passed the chair of this Lodge, if ever he should be honoured with that distinction, he should be a Vice-President of all the Masonic Charities, and have represented the Lodge at the Festivals of each of them. Shakespeare had said that happiness was born a twin, and the heart that threw itself around the sphere in which it found itself must be of necessity a happy, happy thing. In that spirit he always thought that those who sought happiness should seek it through blessing those around them, and create a life of happiness and blessedness in them. If there was any duty prominent among Masons, it was the making others happy. There was a story very prettily told in one of Sir Walter Scott's novels, in which a poor girl who had sacrificed everything thought precious to women to a worthless person, had a sister who travelled all the way to London through difficulties, trials, temptations, starvations and distress to seek the ear of the Queen, and to obtain pardon for her lost sister; and when she had obtained of the Royal Lady, she was asked how it was that she had travelled so far and suffered so much for a person so worthless as her sister? and she replied, in words that should be written in every Mason's heart at least:—"Oh, my leddie, when the hour o' trouble comes, that comes to mony a body, and when the hour o' death comes, that comes to high and low, it is na' what we hae done for oursels, but what we hae done for ithers that we think o' most pressing." This he considered was the principle of Freemasonry. The Visitors to the Lodge were very numerous, and the brethren had the pleasure of hearing some admirable singing and music in the intervals between the toasts.

City of Westminster Lodge, No. 1563.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, the 22nd Feb., at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street, Bro. Rev. P. M. Holden P.G.C. Middlesex in the chair; E. White S.W., B. Phillips J.W., C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. Treasurer, E. J. Scott P.M. Secretary, H. Turner S.D., J. E. Shand I.G., J. Hutchins D.C., Willis W.S., Potter Tyler, B. Swallow I.P.M. The brethren were honoured by the presence of Bro. Col. F. Burdett Prov. G.M. Middlesex, and Bros. W. Bonham, E. Emanuel, Waugh, Willis, Irving, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes being confirmed, Messrs. A. C. Köhler, F. Schlette, G. Misselbrook, and M. M. Taylor were ballotted for and duly initiated into the Order, and Bros. Inge and Solomon were raised. Bro. Stacey presided at the organ. Bro. Swallow I.P.M. proposed that a sum of ten guineas be placed on the list of the W.M., who is a Steward for the next Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls; this was carried. The W.M. proposed that in future all Past Masters, in addition to the usual P.M. jewel, should be presented with a collar and silver jewel attached, and that their I.P.M. Bro. Swallow should be presented with one. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, 58 in number, sat down to a very sumptuous banquet and dessert, provided by Bro. Nicols, and superintended by Bro. Raef, that gave great satisfaction, the wines and viands being of first rate quality. Grace having been said, the W.M., who very genially presided, proposed the toast of Her Majesty the Queen, coupled with the Craft. The toast of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M. was received with great and enthusiastic plaudits. In proposing the toast of the Pro G.M., the D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers, the W.M. said they were all capable of working, not only the ceremonies, but the sections; with that toast he coupled the name of a brother worthy of the respect of every one. He referred to the Provincial Grand Master of Middlesex. All who knew what Freemasonry was, knew him; by his genial and kindly manner he had endeared himself to every one, and his popularity in Lodges is always manifest, not only in the Province, but throughout the country. Bro. Col. F. Burdett said, in the eloquent terms the W.M. had proposed his health, he had spoken in such flattering terms of him that nothing was left for him to say. Grand Offices were given to the highest men of the day, and they were well worthy of them.

He thanked them for their kind mention of his name. (Loud cheers). Bro. C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. and Treasurer also responded to the toast, and said, After the pertinent remarks of Bro. Burdett, he had nothing more to say than to thank them. Bro. Swallow I.P.M. then proposed the toast of the W.M. He said, You must have heard how beautifully and impressively the W.M. performed the two ceremonies. We have the right man in the right place, and we are pleased to see him as W.M., and hope to have him among us for many years as a Past Master. The W.M. responded to the toast,—The manner they expressed their satisfaction was sufficient to show him that the ceremonies ought to be perfectly, correctly and impressively worked. He was proud of the position he held as W.M., and the hearty manner they had received the toast. The W.M. then said, before he resumed his seat, he would give an appropriate toast, that was the initiates. Their recommendation was sufficient to show that they were welcome among them; as they progress they will see what grand principles they have entered into. He hoped they would not be drones, but working members, and eventually reach higher positions. Bro. Köhler fully justified the expressions of the W.M. by the very able way in which he responded. He thanked the W.M. for the manner the ceremony had been given; that evening's work would never be effaced from his memory. Bros. Taylor, Misselbrook and Schlette followed. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the P.M.'s. Bro. Swallow responded; although he was not the Past Master of the Lodge, whatever was required of him he would do, he hoped to their satisfaction. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Visitors, mentioning their names seriatim; he said the fact of his visiting Lodges, really by the introduction of Bro. Swallow, enabled him to occupy the chair of the Lodge. Bros. H. M. Levy, Treadwell and C. Barmeister severally returned thanks, and all complimented the W.M. on his admirable working. The next toast was that of the worthy Treasurer, Bro. C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P., he was one that looked after our funds, we could not find a better. With respect to Bro. Scott, their Secretary, his services were invaluable, and he hoped they would have them for many years. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Officers; the S.W. was one thoroughly conversant with his duties; and the J.W. one that gathered honey from every flower. All the officers do their duty, but a just compliment is due to Bro. Shand the I.G., whom they all knew and respected; in fact, every officer had performed his duty satisfactorily. This toast was responded to, and the Tyler's was given. The harmony of the evening was well sustained.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The weekly meeting was held on Tuesday last, at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill. The ceremony of exaltation was completely rehearsed, Comp. Catterson acting as candidate. Comp. G. K. Lemann worked the first clause of the first section, assisted by the brethren. In accordance with previous notice of motion, Comp. E. Gottheil proposed that the Chapter do meet in future at seven p.m. This was carried unanimously, but subject to the convenience of the host, Comp. Darcy. The officers presiding were:—Comps. E. Gottheil Z., J. K. Stead H., J. Constable J., J. Boyd Treasurer, J. W. White S.E., Major Finney S.N., J. W. Berrie P.S. Besides these there were present Comps. Row, Drew, High, Tebb, Chandler, Moore, Walker. Comp. E. Moody H. 145 was elected a member.

A MASONIC MEMORIAL.

The Bury Times (East Lancashire) says:—

"A substantial proof of the respect and esteem in which our late townsman, Mr. John Redfern, was held by the Freemasons of Bury has just been afforded in the erection, by them, of a memorial monument in the burial-ground at All Saints' Church, Ellton. The monument, which is remarkably well-proportioned, was designed by Mr. E. Simpkin, of this town, and consists of a square obelisk and base of dark grey Aberdeen granite, standing upon a pedestal of polished ashlar, its total height being about sixteen feet. On the east side of the base is the following inscription:—

'In Remembrance of
JOHN SMITH REDFERN,
Of Bury.
Born October 6th, 1807.
Died May 26th, 1875.
Bowed to his maternal dust,
Heaven's Grand Master claims his trust;
May the truth his praise declare,
Tried by compass, rule, and square.'

On the west side are inscribed the words—

'HOC MONUMENTUM
SOCII EJUS EX ORDINE
LATOMORUM POSUERUNT.
This monument was erected by his brother Freemasons.'

The shaft of the obelisk bears on its east front five, and on its west front four Masonic symbols or emblems, some of which are of a highly recondite character, inseparable from the mysteries in which the late brother had been initiated, and significant only to those deeply versed in ancient Masonic lore. The inception and execution of the work are alike honourable to the promoters, and must be peculiarly gratifying to the surviving members of the deceased's family.

The late Bro. Redfern was a member of Lodge 42, Bury, and at the time of his death was the oldest Mason in the borough. He had served in various positions in a distinguished manner, and the above is one of the tokens which show how those who knew him best love to keep his memory green.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"A series of articles, biographical, descriptive, and eulogistic, of some of the principal Masonic worthies of the day. They are well written, and though personal, by no means offensive, or intrusive into private life, and in Masonic society will be welcomed as an interesting series of word paintings of members of the Craft.—Standard.

"We do not remember to have read any similar series of sketches which surpass this in merit."—Land and Water.

"Admirably written, being free from what are too often observed in composition—inelegant language and prolixity."—Sunday Times.

"'J. G.' writes with a considerable amount of freedom, never hesitating to 'hit off' a weakness when he finds it publicly displayed by a 'distinguished brother;' at the same time he never loses sight of a good trait when it is displayed, either in connexion with the Craft or in the service of the public out of doors. The sketches are lively reading."—City Press.

"This is a neat book. The Portraits consist of a series of 'word pictures' of eminent English Masons. It styles Bro. W. J. Hughan 'Knight Errant,' and sketches thirty-two others under equally unique titles. We commend the book as worthy of a place in every Masonic library."—Voice of Masonry.

"Evinces much literary ability, and is a valuable addition to the few works we have in Masonic biography."—Philadelphia Keystone.

"The book ought to be in every well arranged Masonic Library."—New York Courier.

"The portraits consist of a series of what we call 'pen and ink sketches' of brethren prominent in all the noble undertakings of English Masonry. . . . Prominent among his brethren we find Bro. Fred. Binckes, ('Our Hercules,') whose herculean efforts in behalf of those blessed institutions, the charities of English Masons, have a world-wide reputation, which will live long after the zealous Craftsman has been, 'laid away to rest.'"—New York Square.

"The style of the author is pleasing, and the quality of his productions highly complimentay to his ability as a writer."—Masonic Advocate.

"There is a piquancy in the ready off-hand dash that lends much zest to the subject, and bars it from studied rhetorical expression."—Hebrew Leader.

"We value the work, and heartily thank Bro. Morgan for our copy."—Masonic Jewel.

"There can be no doubt that the writer has produced a series of Portraits which will be a source of amusement and pleasure to Masons throughout the world."—Surrey Comet.

"Will be found very interesting and pleasant reading, especially to the Masonic world."—Barnet Press.

"Calculated to raise the Order—if that be possible—in the estimation of its members, if not of the outer world."—Trowbridge and North Wilts Advertiser.

"Written in a spirited, racy style, and conveying, in as clear a manner as possible, a 'counterfeit presentment' of some of the rulers of the Craft."—Essex Standard.

"Good sensibly written articles. The writer prefaces each of his sketches with some pithy common sense remarks."—Cashel Gazette.

"Cleverly and agreeably sketched, and the work altogether forms a valuable addition to Masonic literature."—Ryde News.

"Very amusing, and beyond doubt, faithful portraits of the worthies who unconsciously sat for them."—Deal, Walmer and Sandwich Mercury.

"The members of the Craft will take it as an acceptable addition to their b ographical literature."—Monmouthshire Chronicle.

"They are written in a fair and genial tone, thoroughly Masonic."—Leigh Chronicle.

"Should have a very large sale."—Kingsbridge Gazette.

"These sketches are drawn with sparkling ability."—Banffshire Reporter.

"We must sincerely congratulate the author on the success of his endeavour to aim at faithful portraiture, while there is an entire absence of what might give offence to the most sensitive mind."—Folkestone Express.

"A very acceptable contribution to the history of the Order. The volume has our warmest commendation."—Kelso Courier.

"Drawn with no little humour, and embellished with many a deft stroke of good natured satire.—Figaro.

"The inquiring Brother who may wish to know something of the strength and beauty of the principles of Masonry, will find a pleasure in scanning the characteristic pictures in this book."—The Brighouse News.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

NO time has been lost by the Opposition in questioning the policy of Ministers in reference to the Eastern question. On Friday last, in the House of Commons, certain questions propounded by Mr. Gladstone led to a long and interesting, and towards the latter part of the evening, a somewhat stormy debate. The excitement began when Mr. Henry Chaplin discharged a whole volley of inquiries at the devoted head of Mr. Gladstone, and urged that the latter gentleman was bound to give them full and categorical replies. The ex-Premier took a wholly different view of his duty, and called Mr. Chaplin severely to task for the manner in which he had urged his inquiries. Lord G. Hamilton likewise received some sharp castigation at the hands of the right honourable gentleman. All this, however, could only be done in accordance with the rules of the House on a motion for the adjournment of the debate, and this, of course, enabled the Chancellor of the Exchequer to rise in his place and challenge Mr. Gladstone to raise a definite issue as to the conduct of the Ministers on their foreign policy. The Marquis of Hartington also rose, and suggested the continuation of the debate. In the end it was adjourned till yesterday afternoon. On Tuesday, the House of Lords was the scene of the grandest field-day we have latterly had in the Upper House, the subject being, as a matter of course, the interminable Eastern difficulty. The Duke of Argyll, ex-Secretary of State for India, asked several questions, and these, of course, induced a discussion of the whole Ministerial policy. The Earl of Derby replied at great length, and Earl Granville, Mr. Gladstone's Foreign Secretary, as in duty bound, had his say; other Peers took part in the debate. The Marquis of Salisbury's speech was a very effective one, and so, too, was that of the Premier, the Earl of Beaconsfield; and, indeed, the speech of the latter, as it was his first appearance in any important debate, would alone suffice to make this evening a memorable one in the annals of the Hereditary House of Parliament. The House was, of course, well filled, and it is very possible that the "counting out" of the Commons at the early hour of half-past seven, on one of their usually long evenings, may be accounted for by the eagerness of its members to hear what Ministers and Opposition had respectively to say for themselves. In the Commons, the remainder of the week has been devoted chiefly to the consideration of various Government Bills, which have been advanced a further stage in their progress towards becoming law.

The first Levee of the season was held at St. James's Palace on Thursday of last week by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, on behalf of Her Majesty, presentations to his Royal Highness on this occasion being, as usual, considered equivalent to presentations to the Queen. The Prince and Princess Christian have been again in London—this time at Marlborough House, on a visit to the Prince and Princess of Wales. It may be added that the members of the Royal Family now in London have been frequent visitors at our theatres.

In the early part of the week a strong north-westerly gale burst over the metropolis, causing a considerable amount of damage to house and other property, and it is feared also that some lives have been lost on the river. Several collisions occurred in the Pool, in two cases vessels having broken from their moorings. In other parts of the country, also, the weather has been very stormy, and the services of more than one life-boat have been put in requisition, in order to rescue both lives and property from imminent peril. In the North Sea, however, one casualty, resulting in the loss of four lives, unfortunately occurred. A brig was run into by the s.s. Gilston, of London. The master and mate of the former succeeded in getting on board the steamer, but the remainder of the crew, to the number of four, do not appear to have had time to save themselves, and went down with their vessel. A wreck also occurred off Cape Grisnez, two out of a crew of twenty-six having been drowned. The vessel, however, is well sheltered, and may possibly be saved, unless a South-west wind should blow, when it would break up in a short time.

A singular meeting was held on Tuesday, in the Mission Chapel in Little Wild-street, Drury-lane. About 150 thieves assembled in response to one "Fiddler Joss," who, some years ago, spent six months of his life in Wakefield Gaol, and since then has struggled hard, and, we rejoice to say, successfully, in converting himself into an honest man. Tea and bread and butter were provided in huge quantities, after which there were handed about plentiful scraps of plum-pudding. A hymn was then sung, and then, after an appropriate prayer by Mr. Hutton, "Fiddler Joss" stood up on the platform, and addressed the thieves assembled to hear him. He spoke earnestly, exhorting them to give up their evil ways, and strive to earn for themselves an honest livelihood. In order to encourage them to this step, he narrated the experience of his own life, and pointed out how, on leaving prison, he had resolved to turn honest, and in due time had succeeded in earning for himself a pound a week, as wages of his honest labour. He warned them especially against drunkenness, and pressed upon the notice of his hearers the value of the New Testament as a moral as well as religious book. After this, and after some of the audience had ascended the platform, and given an account of their evil ways, the strange assembly dispersed. The police had previously undertaken in no way to molest those who attended on this particular occasion, and accordingly every variety of the thief, area sneaks, kinchin prigs, counterfeiters, burglars, &c., were fully represented.

An influential deputation from Hull had an interview on Tuesday afternoon with the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, on the subject of the restrictions proposed by the Privy Council to be placed on the landing of cattle at Hull. They represented that the restrictions, if carried out, would cause a serious loss to the town, and submitted a plan, in which it was shown that all danger of contagion would be avoided. His Grace pointed out that this was by no means a new kind of proposition, but while he was prepared to consult their interests as far as possible with, of course, a due regard to the general welfare, he must first of all have the full nature of their proposal distinctly explained to him in black and white. The deputation retired, after thanking his Grace for the courtesy of their reception.

On Wednesday a special meeting of the Royal Agricultural Society was convened at their offices, 12 Hanover-square, for the purpose of considering what steps should be taken in connection with the threatened spread of the cattle plague. Lord Skelmersdale, the President of the Society, occupied the chair, and Professor Brown, chief of the Veterinary Department, was in attendance, and gave the meeting the very latest information in possession of the Government. A series of resolutions was passed, and after the veterinary officer of the Society had expressed his readiness to place his services at the disposal of the Veterinary Department, the meeting dispersed.

The news from the East is still of the same disquieting character as last week. The Russian army at Kischeneff is said to be girding up its loins for an attack on Turkey. It is said to be little, if at all, short of 300,000 men, well provided with all the needful appliances of war. Many, indeed, go so far as to say that the passage of the Pruth will be attempted at an early date. To meet this threatened attack, Turkey, as a matter of course, is also preparing herself; but her available forces are numerically inferior to those of her powerful antagonist—at all events, as the case stands now, and according to the latest advices. She has, however, a large and warlike population to draw upon, while in the matter of the sinews of war, we do not think there is much to choose between the two powers. The peace negotiations with Servia are reported to be going on most favourably; if terms are arranged, the Turks will have a pretty considerable force set free for other purposes. Turkey and Montenegro, however, do not, it is said, get on quite so well together. So long, however, as there is no collision between the powers, we may go on hoping for the best, though that best offers, admittedly, no very brilliant prospect.

France has lost one of her most gallant soldiers in the person of General Changarnier, who died recently, at the advanced age of eighty-four. Changarnier had earned for himself the reputation of being a very dashing officer, and had distinguished himself in several campaigns, but especially in Algeria, before the overthrow of the Government of the late King Louis Philippe. He was one of those exiled by the late Emperor Napoleon III. at the time of his coup d'état, but he might have returned to France had he so chosen, as soon as the Emperor's position on the throne was considered safe. This, however, he did not do. When the war of 1870 broke out, he placed his sword at the Emperor's disposal, and was one of the chiefs who became prisoners of war by the capitulation of Bazaine on October 1870. The gallant officer was buried with such military pomp as became his rank and services.

The latest advices from the United States, point to the election next month of the Republican candidate Hayes to be President, though the accounts express a strong belief that his opponent, Tilden, is really the elect—with an honest and substantial majority at his back. Perhaps however, we had better defer naming the successor to General Grant till he has been formally inaugurated at Washington, on the 5th prox.

A special meeting of the House Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys will be held this afternoon, at Freemasons' Hall, for the purpose of considering the most practical way of extending the School at Wood Green, so as to admit of the number of pupils being increased to three hundred, or about one hundred and twenty in excess of the number now on the muster-roll of the Institution.

In our report last week of the regular Committee meeting, on the 14th inst., of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, it was erroneously stated that Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton moved that an addition be made to the list of twenty-four male and eighteen female candidates. It should have been an addition of fifteen male and fifteen female candidates, thus bringing up the numbers to twenty-four of the former and eighteen of the latter. The numbers, however, were correctly given in our leading article on the Festival.

The consecration of the Beaconsfield Lodge, No. 1662, will take place this day (Saturday), at the Chequers Tavern, Marsh-street, Walthamstow, at 3.30 o'clock precisely. V.W. Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, will perform the ceremony; he will also instal Bro. Walter T. Christian as the first Worshipful Master.

The Confidence Lodge of Instruction has been removed to Bro. Ford's, the Blue Anchor Tavern, No. 3 Coleman-street, E.C., where the Lodge will meet in future, at 7 p.m., under the able preceptorship of Bro. Gottheil.

The Truro Rose Croix Chapter will hold its banquet at the Red Lion Hotel, Truro, on Tuesday next, the 27th instant.

We understand that the M.E.Z. Superintendent of Royal Arch Masons for Herts, Ex. Comp. Halsey, M.P., intends holding the next Provincial Chapter at Hertford, on 21st March.

We have received an early number of a new weekly journal, bearing the title of Cotton, and intended to be an organ of the cotton trade and its allied and auxiliary industries. To judge from the contents of this particular issue, the protection and promotion of this trade and its connected industries will be in excellent hands. Cotton gives us the idea of a well-conducted, carefully written journal. It is also well-furnished with all the important items from foreign parts relating to cotton. The new venture has our best wishes for its success. We trust the career before it may be a long and prosperous one.

In the current number of the Masonic Advocate, published at Indianapolis, our esteemed contemporary expresses a hope that successive issues reach us in due course, as they are mailed regularly. They do so reach us, and are always very welcome. The news they contain is always interesting, and, as far as our means of judging extend, trustworthy. In noticing the omission on our part to mention the Masonic Advocate among our American exchanges, our contemporary, we presume, is referring to the sketch of the Masonic Year, 1876, at the end of our last volume, and the short account we gave in it of American Masonic literature. The omission in this particular case was purely accidental. Nevertheless, we apologise for the oversight; for oversight it was, to leave unnoticed a journal so well-conducted and written, and to which we are so frequently indebted for important items of news.

At a meeting of the Grand Lodge of Minnesota, held at St. Paul's, last month, a series of three resolutions on the Coloured Question was passed by the immense majority of 327 to 7 votes. By the first of these the Grand Lodge of Minnesota declined to recognise the Prince Hall Grand Lodge on account of the irregularity of its formation. By the second, Grand Lodge declared its inability to recognise any charters as having validity in the State except such as are issued by its authority, and to issue charters except to Masons of its obedience. The last resolution declares that colour is neither a bar to, nor a recommendation for, the reception of the Masonic degrees in its jurisdiction, and that every subordinate Lodge may make Masons of any persons possessing the requisite qualifications, that is, who are free-born, of lawful age, good report, and well recommended.

It has long been known that the climate of Algeria is favourable to the growth of the tobacco plant, and France has not been slow to take advantage of this. Large quantities of the plant are grown, and the quality is very highly appreciated by competent judges. So excellent indeed are the cigars made from the Algerian leaf, that no less than three prize medals have been awarded to the producer, M^es^ Melia. We have had several opportunities of testing their merits—that is, we have smoked cigars of two or three different brands, and we were very highly pleased with them. Considering the prices per hundred, ranging from 13s 6d for Palatinas, to 53s for P.U. Non Plus, we were not only pleased, but surprised, as we had again and again paid at far higher rates for inferior qualities of cigars. The sole agent for the sale of these Algerian cigars is Bro. A. Oldroyd, of Leyton, London, E., and as we know that very many of our readers are amateurs of the weed, we recommend them to experiment with a box. To the more cautious we suggest the trial of a sample packet of twenty-five, at prices in proportionate rates—3s 6d Palatinas, 14s P.U. Non Plus. In either case, be the trial made with box or packet, we feel satisfied, from a personal experience of the cigars, that they will be well pleased with the experiment.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Abscesses, Erysipelas, Piles.—Unvarying success attends all who treat these diseases according to the simple printed directions, wrapped round each pot and box. They are invaluable to the young and timid, whose bashfulness sometimes endangers life. A little attention, moderate perseverance, and trifling expense will enable the most diffident to conduct any case to a happy issue without exposing secret infirmities to any one. The Ointment arrests the spreading inflammation, restrains the exuded vessels, cools the overheated skin, alleviates throbbing and shooting pains, and gives great ease. The same directions also clearly point out when and how Holloway's Pills are to be taken, that their purifying and regulating powers may assist, by adjusting and strengthening the constitution.

AND we do enjoin you to make such By-Laws for the Government of your Lodge as shall to the majority of the members appear proper and necessary, the same not being contrary to or inconsistent with the General Laws and Regulations of the Craft, and a copy whereof you are to transmit to us. AND WE DO REQUIRE YOU to cause all such By-Laws and Regulations, and also an account of the proceedings in your Lodge to be entered in books to be kept for that purpose. AND you are in no wise to omit to send to us or our Successors Grand Masters, or to the Right Honorable JOHN GEORGE EARL OF DURHAM, our DEPUTY GRAND MASTER, or to the Deputy Grand Master for the time being, at least once in every year, a List of all the members of your Lodge, and the name and description of all Masons initiated therein and Brethren who shall have joined the same, together with the fees and monies payable thereon, it being our will and intention that this our Warrant shall be in force so long only as you shall conform to the Laws and Regulations of our said Grand Lodge. AND you the said CHARLES SPEED are further required, as soon as conveniently may be, to send us an account in writing of what may be done by virtue of these Presents.

Given under our Hand and the Seal of the Grand Lodge at London, this 29th day of June A.L. 5835, A.D. 1835.

DURHAM D.G.M.

The General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Thursday, at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. A. H. Tattershall in the chair. The Secretary, Bro. Robert Wentworth Little, read the minutes of the General Committee of the 23rd January, and of the House Committee of the 15th February, which were confirmed, A notice of motion was given by Bro. Warren—"That, having regard to the increased income of the Institution. and the altered position of the Secretary and Collector, it is expedient that rules 74 and 75 shall be amended, as to provide that the Secretary shall give security for £1,000, the Chief Clerk £500, and any other clerk £250, such security to be provided through an approved guarantee society, the premiums to be paid by the Institution, so as not to be a burthen on the officials." Bro. Peacock proposed, and Bro. H. Dicketts seconded, that a vote of thanks be accorded to the Chairman, for his prompt attention to several matters connected with the Institution, which was carried unanimously. One child was placed on the list of candidates, and a vote of thanks was accorded to the Chairman for his able presiding. Among those present were Bros. H. Browse, J. Boyd, T. W. White, Major E. Raffety 1602 (Treasurer), and several Stewards. Such meetings as these are not only of benefit to the funds of the Institutions, but serve also as pleasant re-unions. We hope that the efforts of the promoters may meet with the success they deserve, and that a goodly sum may be handed over as the result of their labours. Brethren who may wish to attend should communicate with the Hon. Secs. (Bros. J. Osborn and J. Weston) at 272 Upper-street, Islington, N. The tickets are 10s 6d for ladies, and 12s 6d for gentlemen, or 21s for double ticket.

We extract the following from Pomeroy's Democrat:—

"The Grand Lodge of Minnesota has decided not to recognise 'African' Lodges, or Lodges whose Masonic members are coloured men. We think this is uncharitable and un-Masonic. We are a Mason to the 32nd degree, and feel that our Masonic duty is to recognise a brother Mason, no matter what his religion, country, colour, creed, or original condition. If Masonry is universal, we must admit this. If sectional, then it is not Masonry. If prejudice is to stand between us and any other man who is honest and entitled to recognition, if he is custodian of the same secret as we are, then we are unfit to be a Mason. At least this is the way it seems to us, under the light that comes from the East."

Bro. Sam Adams, the manager of the Royal Music Hall announces his annual benefit for the 7th of March. In addition to the regular company, a host of talent will render valuable assistance.

There was no further business before the Lodge on this occasion, and the opportunity afforded by spare time was utilised by the distribution to the several officers of a set of new collars. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet. A very pleasant evening was spent, the visitors expressing themselves highly gratified with the position and progress of the Lodge, which certainly is entitled, both in respect of working and hospitality, to the high rank it has always maintained in the Order of Mark Masters. A regular Lodge meeting was held on the 17th, at which a large majority of those present on the previous evening attended, and, in addition, Bros. Wolton P.M., Crommelin and Drewett. After the ceremony of exaltation, the P.S. and two Assistants gave the clauses of the 1st, 2nd and 3rd sections of the 1st lecture, Comp. J. Boyd P.Z. rendering valuable assistance. The M.E.Z. said that in the course of his Masonic career, many pleasant duties had devolved on him; he had now to perform one that he undertook with the greatest amount of gratification, that was to present Comp. Long with a P.Z.'s jewel, not only for his excellent working, but for his general courtesy. Comp. Long, in a feeling speech, returned thanks. The Chapter was then closed, and the Comps. sat down to an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Dawkins. The M.E.Z. gave the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts. Comp. Long I.P.Z. called the attention of the Companions to a toast well deserving their notice—the health of the M.E.Z. All must have seen how during his occupation of the chair, he was qualified to fill that position; rarely had been seen better working. He hoped they would drink the toast with the enthusiasm it merited. The M.E.Z. said, when he was elected he made up his mind to discharge the duties required of him, and from the expressions of Comp. Long, he was pleased to hear that he had given satisfaction. He then proposed the toast of the P.Z.'s, to which Comp. Long responded. The M.E.Z. then proposed a special toast, which he was sure would be properly honoured—namely, the health of Comps. J. Boyd P.Z., also that of the P.S. and two Assistants; they had afforded them a great amount of pleasure, by their instruction. Comp. J. Boyd had made it a study of years to perfect the working of Royal Arch Masonry, and he had worthily succeeded. He had brought to light the hidden beauties of this sublime degree, and to him especial and warm thanks were due; also to the Principal Sojourner and his Assistants. Comps. J. Boyd responded in his usual excellent manner. The toasts of the H., J., Treasurer, S.E. and Officers followed, Comp. G. S. States S.E. responding. The toast of the Visitors was eloquently replied to by Comps. Spice, Sugg, P.Z. Prince Frederick William Chapter, W. A. Maloney, Stanwitz Vane Chapter, Thomas, &c. Comps. Bros. Ager, Solomon, and Westerby were raised to the sublime degree. Subsequently, a ballot was taken for Messrs. Alfred H. Cohen and Edmund Toms, and as it proved clear, these gentlemen were then and there initiated. The foregoing ceremonies were duly and impressively rendered by the Master. The installation of Bro. J. Peartree was next proceeded with, the Board of Installed Masters consisting of not less than twenty-two. On Bro. Barnett the retiring W.M., devolved the duty of installing his successor in office, and the admirable manner in which he achieved that duty drew forth encomiums from all who witnessed it. Bro. Peartree then appointed and invested, as his officers for the ensuing year, the following members—namely:—Bros. D. Posener S.W., G. S. Pare J.W., W. D. Bayley S.D., F. Croaker J.D., Barber I.G., J. Constable Treasurer, P. Levy Secretary, Sadleir M.C., T. W. C. Bush W.S., and Potter Tyler. To each and every of these brethren the W.M. addressed a few kindly words of congratulation on their progress in the Craft. Bro. Bloomfield P.M. next, and by his own special request, presented to Bro. Barnett I.P.M. a very handsome P.M.'s jewel, the gift of the Lodge, in token of its high appreciation of his invaluable services in the chair. Bro. Barnett suitably replied, thanking the members for their very great kindness, and announcing his utter inability to express his feelings adequately. The reports of the Auditors and of the Committee of General Purposes were highly satisfactory, and were received with well-merited applause, after which the Lodge adjourned to banquet in the Pillar Room of the hotel. The guests were eighty-four in number, and included among the visitors Bros. E. P. Albert G.P., Binckes P.G.S. and Secretary Boys' School, and Bro. Lazarus W.M. of the Joppa Lodge. On the removal of the cloth, grace was sung, and the W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Albert acknowledged that of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the other Grand Officers Present and Past, and in doing so, he remarked that so long as Lodges had officers capable of fulfilling their duties as admirably as he had seen them fulfilled that evening, there would be no fear whatever of the future prosperity of Masonry. "The Visitors" was acknowledged by Bro. Binckes, who spoke with his usual geniality and warmth, and Bro. Lazarus. The Initiates briefly acknowledged the compliment paid them. Bro. Barnett I.P.M. then proposed, in felicitous language, "The Health of the W.M.," and Bro. Peartree acknowledged the kindness of Bro. Barnett, and the warmth with which the latter's proposal had been received, with more than his wonted earnestness and feeling. In return, he proposed the health of his predecessor in the chair, speaking in the highest possible terms of the ability and kindness he had invariably shown during his period of office. Bro. Barnett replied in suitable terms. The toast of "The Benevolent Fund" was then given and acknowledged by Bro. S. Solomon P.M., after which it was announced, amid appropriate cheering, that the initiates had signalized their entrance into Freemasonry by contributing, each of them, the donation of a guinea towards this fund. Bro. Sydney responded for the "P.M.'s." Bro. Binckes for the toast of "The Masonic Charities," and, in the course of his remarks, he expressed a strong hope that the brethren of Tranquillity would unanimously support Bro. Constable in the severe task he had undertaken of raising, if possible, the sum of £1,000 towards the next Festival of the Boys' School, a sum in excess of any subscription ever previously raised by any single individual. Other toasts followed, that of "The Tyler" concluding the series. Bros. Chaplin Henry, Lester, and Taylor were present, and, together with Bro. Child, contributed very materially to the pleasure which marked the whole course of the proceedings.

The convocation was closed, and the Companions adjourned to an excellent banquet, after which the customary Loyal and Royal Arch toasts were given and responded to. The visitors expressed the great pleasure they had enjoyed in seeing the Chapter so efficiently worked, and congratulated Comp. William Smith P.Z. on the care and attention he must have taken in getting the officers to such perfection in working. This feeling is also reciprocated by the officers of the Chapter, and they were pleased at Comp. Smith receiving the praise to which he is so justly entitled. After spending a happy and convivial evening, the Companions separated, each well pleased with the evening's labour and refreshment.

Belgrave Lodge, No. 749.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on the 14th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. J. W. Hobbs W.M., Greenwood S.W., E. Booker J.W., W. Ranting P.M. Treas., H. Garrod P.M. Sec., Gardner S.D., J. Coltard J.D., W. Grover I.G., Gilchrist P.M. Tyler, and P.M.'s J. Painter, Battey, William Hester, E. Scott, Grogan and P. Parsons. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Messrs. H. G. Grey and J. Kift were balloted for and duly initiated into the Order. Bros. McCreary, Hobbs (nephew of the W.M.), and Tyrell, were raised to the 3rd degree, the working in every respect being perfect. Four propositions for initiation, and one for joining were handed in to the Secretary. The W.M. announced his intention to act as Steward for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, at the Anniversary Festival in May. He stated, when he entered Freemasonry, his great aim was to promote charity, and he would eventually serve as Steward for the other two Charities. Bro. Scott P.M. then proposed that the sum of five guineas should be placed on the W.M.'s list, which was liberally subscribed to Bro. Garrod P.M. read a circular, informing them that a testimonial was about to be presented to Bro. Smith, who had always contributed to the comfort of brethren meeting at the Hotel. Bro. Pospard said Bro. Smith had completed his twenty-third year of service, and members of various Lodges had formed themselves into a Committee, of which their W.M. and several P.M.'s, &c., were members. Bro. Hester P.M. said, he had great pleasure in bringing forward, at their last meeting, the fact that a testimonial was to be presented to Bro. H. Garrod P.M. and Secretary, who had faithfully and zealously discharged the duties of Secretary for nineteen years. £20 was subscribed towards a fund for this purpose at the last meeting; the list would close at the next meeting, and the testimonial would be presented in April; he was sure it would be worthy of the acceptance of Bro. Garrod, who, by his zeal and assiduity, had given them much satisfaction. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, sixty in number, sat down to a very capital banquet, provided by Bro. Clemow. The W.M., in brief but appropriate terms, proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. In speaking to that of the newly initiated, he said, We are always pleased to have additions to our numbers; to-night we have initiated two brethren, who, he was sure, would be a credit to the Lodge. His own personal knowledge of the one, and the excellent recommendations with the other, would be sufficient to induce all to say they were pleased to have them as members. He hoped they would never regret their entrance into Freemasonry. The toast having been briefly responded to, the W.M. proposed that of the Visitors. The members were always pleased to see them, and they might take away with them the recollection of the right hand of fellowship having been heartily accorded them. The visitors severally responded to the toast. All paid deserved compliments to the excellent working of the W.M., his charitable feelings, and the cordial hospitality shown them. Bro. Batty I.P.M. then said he felt a great pleasure in proposing the health of the W.M., he had complimented him on previous occasions, but to-night he had excelled himself; he was worthy of praise and the members were proud of him; he did his work well, and his noble sentiments in regard to the charities, entitled him to respect; he hoped they would drink the toast heartily. The W.M. thanked them for the manner the toast had been received. He had belonged to a charitable association, which was indebted to Bro. Terry for its organisation, where, by a subscription of one shilling per week, he had now in his possession £10. This amount was at the disposal of the Masonic Charities. Through this and similar media, a large amount was subscribed; he hoped the brethren would follow this example. Again he thanked them for their kind expressions. The next toast was that of the P.M.'s. A great debt of gratitude was due to them, they had to encounter many difficulties; the brethren however could see how successfully they had surmounted them. Under such able guidance the Lodge was sure to flourish. Bro. Parsons replied to the toast. He was already Vice-President of the three Charities. He was also a Steward on Monday last, when so large an amount was contributed; all were proud of this. The P.M.'s were always ready to do their duty, and all their efforts were at the service of the Lodge. After the toast of the Wardens and Officers, the Tyler's concluded a very agreeable evening. Bros. H. Garrod and Kift sang some capital songs, and Bros. Holland Barnard gave excellent recitations. The Visitors were Bros. C. J. Aston 1269, T. J. Cusworth S.W. 813, J. Berliner 1017, H. W. At the ordinary meeting of this Lodge on Monday, besides the Eastern members who belong to it, there was an initiate from Belgium, a joining member from Venezuela, and a brother passed from Smyrna. The business of the evening was opened by the W.M., Bro. P. L. Simmonds P.M. 141, 554. The officers of the Lodge present were N. Moxon S.W., T. J. Reeves J.W., D. P. Cama P.M., H. T. Wood P.M. Sec., Ch. Chesten J.D., Hyde Clarke P.M. P.D.G.M. Turkey. Visitors—Bros. T. Fenn P.G.D. Prince of Wales Lodge, R. G. Glover P.M. 181, R. E. Barnes P.M. 15 and 30, W. Kelly Minister from Venezuela. The W.M. initiated into Masonry Mr. P. C. Owen C.B., the Director of the South Kensington Museum, and Secretary to the Royal Commission for the Paris Exhibition, of which H.R.H. the Prince of Wales our Grand Master is President. Mr. Gustave Guillam, of Brussels, was also initiated into Masonry, and on the request of the Dekran Lodge, No. 1014, of Smyrna, made through Bro. Hyde Clarke, the D.P.D.G.M. for Turkey, Bro. K. C. Krikoriad was passed to the second degree. Bro. Kelly, of Venezuela, was proposed as a joining member, and some propositions for initiation made. Bro. Moxon having undertaken the duty of Steward for the Festival of the Girls' School, five guineas was voted out of the Lodge funds. This being election night, on the ballot, Bro. H. Moxon S.W. was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing year, and Bro. Walter Besant P.M. re-elected Treasurer. All business being ended, the Lodge was closed in due form.

Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227.—This Lodge held its meeting at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton Folgate, on Friday 16th inst. Present—Bro. A. W. Fenner W.M., R. W. Pearcy S.W., Lane J.W., Cleverley S.D., Crellin J.D., Kent I.G., Townsend Sec.; Bolton, Simpson, Smith, &c. Lodge opened in due form. Minutes read and confirmed; Lodge opened in 2nd and 3rd degrees. Lodge resumed to 1st degree, when the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed; Bro. Smith candidate. Bro. Smith was elected a member of the Lodge, Bro. Pearcy S.W., was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week; Lodge closed and adjourned. This Lodge is without a Preceptor; the members hope that if this becomes known, through the medium of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, their want will soon be supplied. It is a rapidly rising Lodge, and only requires a Brother as Preceptor to ensure it success.

Hervey Lodge, No. 1260.—The members of this Lodge met at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, on Ash Wednesday, and testified by their large attendance that something more than the usual business had drawn them there. It was the night for the election of the W.M., Treasurer and Tyler, and after the W.M., (Bro. G. Harrison) had raised Bro. Jackson, and passed Bro. Ellis, he resumed the Lodge to the E.A. degree. The ballot was then taken for the W.M., and, as was surmised, proved unanimously in favour of the S.W., who, though a joining member of the Lodge, has, since his connection with it, gained the esteem of the whole of the brethren, by his continuous efforts to promote the wellfare of the Lodge, in such a manner that it would have been strange if the brethren had not, when the opportunity arrived, showed the confidence they reposed in him by electing him to fill the chief office in the Lodge. W. Bro. J. Hogg P.G.D. and I.P.M., was again elected Treasurer, and Bro. Speight received the assurance of the appreciation of the brethren by once more being elected Tyler. After receiving hearty good wishes from several visiting brethren, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren proceeded to the Inns of Court Hotel, where a banquet was served in the usual complete manner of that establishment. On the removal of the cloth, the W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, which, it is needless to say, were received with great enthusiasm. On rising to propose the toast of the evening, the health and prosperity of the W.M. elect. Bro. Harrison said how pleased he was that the brethren had elected so worthy a Mason to fill the chair he then occupied, and what gratification it was to himself to know that the prosperity of the Hervey Lodge was to rest with so energetic a man and so good a Mason. As was natural, he felt to some degree sorry that he had so soon to vacate the chair; it was, however, more than compensated for by the knowledge that in the W.M. elect the members had obtained a brother who would, at all times, be a credit and an ornament to the Lodge. After a suitable and eloquent response from Bro. Southwood (who was heartily cheered), the other toasts of the evening were given and received with the best feeling. Several brethren enhanced the pleasures of the evening by some capital singing. The Tyler's toast brought a happy meeting to a pleasant ending.

The Great Northern Lodge, No. 1287.—Held its meeting, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. P.G. Jupe, on Thursday, the 15th inst.; Bros. Christie S.W., West J.W., Robinson S.D., Arkell J.D., Jackson I.G., Lancaster I.P.M.; P.M.'s Webb Treas., Staten Sec., Reed, Forbes. Business—Bro. Johns was raised, and Messrs. Parry, Watkins, Kempton and Hawkins were initiated. Bro. Lancaster I.P.M., at the close of the above business, rose, and returned thanks on behalf of Bro. Terry and himself, for the kindness that had been shown him on his acting as Steward for the Aged Freemasons; he had received no less a sum than £110. Three candidates were proposed, and the Lodge was closed in due form.

Friars' Lodge of Instruction, No. 1349.—This Lodge held its usual weekly meeting on Thursday, the 22nd February, at Bro. J. Wright's, Cheshire Cheese, Crutched Friars, E.C. Present—Bros. Joseph Calverley W.M., John Shepherd S.W., John Blackball J.W., Wm. Hogg Secretary, John Wright Treasurer, Alfred Ellis S.D., Thomas Watson J.D., Wm. Simmons I.G.; Past Master Bro. Musto Preceptor; Bros. Peterken, Baxter, and several others. Lodge opened in the 1st and 2nd degrees. Bro. Peterken being examined and entrusted, Lodge opened in the 3rd degree, and W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of raising, in a very impressive manner. The 1st section of the lecture was worked by Bro. Ellis, assisted by the brethren. Lodge resumed to the 1st degree, when Bros. Peterken, Shepherd and Watson, were elected to audit the accounts for the past year. Lodge closed in due form with prayer, and adjourned to Thursday, the 1st of March, at seven o'clock.

The Great City Lodge of Instruction, No. 1426.—A meeting was held at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street, on 22nd February. Present—Bros. Spiegel W.M., Goodman S.W., Payne J.W., Browne S.D., Gladwell J.D., Moss I.G., Poore P.M. Preceptor, Stevens P.M., Colmer, Blackie, Thornes, Parker, Ockenden, Wylar, Shore, Wale, Cumner. The ceremonies of passing and raising were very ably rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Wale being the candidate. Bro. Cumner 1426 was unanimously elected a member.

Hemming Lodge, No. 1512, Hampton.—The usual monthly meeting of this Lodge took place on Thursday, the 15th instant, under the presidency of Bro. J. Hurst W.M. He was supported by Bros. E. Hopwood I.P.M. and Treasurer, John Hammond P.M. S.W., W. Kraeutler acting J.W., W. Hammond P.M. and Sec., Fox S.D., Jessett J.D., T. W. Ockenden I.G., Walls D.C., and several brethren. The W.M. initiated Mr. C. Hole into the mysteries of the Craft, and vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Hopwood, who raised two brethren to the sublime degree. Bro. W. Hammond presented a handsome Bible to the Lodge, and his kindness was acknowledged by a vote of thanks. Business being concluded, the brethren sat down to the usual frugal meal, and spent a pleasant evening. The W.M., Bros. Walls, Jessett and Schmitz contributed, by vocal efforts, to the harmony of the occasion. During the evening Bro. Kraeutler announced his intention of presenting firing glasses to the Lodge.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. V.—No. 114. SATURDAY, 3rd MARCH 1877. [PRICE THREEPENCE. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

THE MEETING OF GRAND LODGE.

AT the Quarterly Communication, to be held on Wednesday next, after the minutes of the last Quarterly and the Special Meeting on the 3rd January have been read and confirmed, the M.W. Grand Master will recommend the adoption of the motion passed on the latter occasion, when it was determined to present the sum of £4,000 to the Royal National Life-Boat Institution, for the purpose of building, furnishing, and endowing two additional Life-Boats, as a memorial, in perpetuity, of H.R.H. the Grand Master's safe return from his visit to India. Then will take place the election of the Grand Master and Grand Treasurer. The reports of the Lodge of Benevolence and Board of General Purposes will then be submitted for approval. The former recommends certain grants of money, amounting together to £600. The latter brings under notice certain irregularities committed by two provincial Lodges, in passing and raising sundry brethren at shorter intervals than are prescribed by the Constitutions, and the penalties inflicted by the said Board in consequence. To this latter report is appended a statement of the Grand Lodge accounts at the last meeting of the Finance Committee, on the 16th ult., showing a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer of £6,997 19s 2d, together with the usual balances, in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for petty expenses and servants' wages. The report of the auditor for the year 1876 will then be read, and certain appeals made against a decision (a) of the D. Prov. Grand Master of Northamptonshire and Hunts, and (b) of the Board of General Purposes. Then will follow two motions. The first of these will be brought forward by Bro. the Rev. H. J. Hatch, W.M. No. 160, to the effect that a Masonic Temple, with more extended accommodation, and worthy of the rank, wealth, and increasing importance of the Craft, be erected, either on the Thames Embankment, or in some conspicuous part of London, and that to this end a committee be appointed to consider what steps should be taken to promote this object. The new Temple thus to be erected might also form a lasting memorial of the Grand Master's visit to India. The second motion is by Bro. Benjamin Mallam, P.M. 108, who proposes that a sum of money be voted to the Alexandra Orphanage, sufficient to allow the Committee to place one of the blocks of the buildings apart for the use of infant orphans of Freemasons. As to the first of these motions, we are not in the secrets of our Rev. Bro. Hatch. We cannot, therefore, even divine the nature of the arguments he will adduce in support of his proposition. It is not to be denied that on important occasions, when the attendance of members is unusually large, Grand Lodge is inconveniently crowded, and, doubtless, this will form the chief ground of his motion. But in all respects the Hall, though it may not accord with the more expensive tastes of the time, is not unworthy of the Craft. The simpler Masonry is in its tastes and habits the better. The receipts of Grand Lodge are considerable, and show annually, as the Pro Grand Master said at the Special Communication in January, a large surplus. But the demands on its Charity are increasing likewise, while our three Institutions have already a hard battle to fight in order to raise the necessary funds for their maintenance, and enable them to keep pace with the heavier claims which are now made on their resources. The sum that was raised last year towards their support was considerable, and we trust that when the present year is ended it will be found that a still greater sum has been raised on their account. But there is such a thing as "having too many irons in the fire." There is no doubt the English Craft, as a body, is wealthy. Its members stand well in society, and its importance is steadily on the increase. But we must not attempt too many things at once. The Girls' School will shortly accommodate over two hundred pupils. In May next, the number of annuitants, male and female together, on the Benevolent Fund, will be raised from 243 to 273, and there are in addition twelve other females in receipt of more modest pensions. A scheme is now under consideration for the purpose of raising the number of pupils in the Boys' School from about 180 to 300. Once all these additional claims on our Charitable Institutions have been established, it will require still more strenuous efforts to be made yearly in order to satisfy them. What suffices now for their maintenance will not suffice when the numbers have been thus greatly enlarged. Grand Lodge may need more extended accommodation, but we must not trespass too far on the benevolence of the Craft. We already have in hand a large amount of charitable work which must be done. There never was a time when the Fraternity generally were better able or more willing to satisfy the claims of charity. But the construction of a suitable Temple, "on the Thames Embankment, or in some other conspicuous part of London," will be costly. The new Masonic Temple at Philadelphia cost over a million and a half of dollars, or about £300,000 in English money. The Grand Lodge of New York is at the present time in debt to the extent of between seven and eight hundred thousand dollars on account of its new Temple, opened in June 1875. Nor do we imagine that the erection of a similar structure in some favoured spot in our metropolis, would be in any respect less costly. The site alone would probably cost a large fortune, for land in London commands a very high price, while the structure itself would require a still larger expenditure, to say nothing of the furniture and fittings which would be needed in order to make it suitable for Masonic purposes. Let us then be content with what we have already. If not as large and commodious as we could wish, it has at least the merit of satisfying the ordinary requirements of Grand Lodge. For the present let us turn our whole and undivided attention to the necessities of different Charitable Institutions.

The motion of Bro. Mallam must be described as inopportune. We have said a plan is now being considered for the extension of the Boys' School, and one of the propositions which will be brought under the notice of the House Committee of that Institution is to establish a Preparatory School for small children. This, of course, would meet the case of the small boys. Let us know, first of all, the decision of the House Committee before any further proposition is made, and likewise ascertain if a similar proposal in connection with the Girls' School may not be practicable. Nothing, at all events, will be lost by waiting the issue of a well-digested plan. And if Grand Lodge is at a loss to dispose of its surplus funds, we know no better way of appropriating them than by increasing its annual grants to our existing Charities. This seems to us, at all events, a far preferable course to that of giving money for the purpose suggested in Bro. Mallam's motion.

It remains for us to add that attached to the proceedings of Grand Lodge at its last Quarterly Communication on 6th December, the usual statements of account, showing in the first place, the receipts in detail from the different Lodges during the quarter ended the 30th September, and then the receipts and expenditure for the same period of (a)

the Fund of Benevolence and (b) the Fund of General Purposes. The receipts in the former case amount to £2,983 11s 10d, including a balance brought forward of £1433 12s 5d, half year's interest on Consols £630 4s 11d, and contributions of Lodges £899 15s 6d. The expenditure reached £1,223, leaving a balance in hand of £1,760 11s 10d. The Fund of General Purposes opened with a balance in hand of £1,108 8s 10d, the total receipts, including contributions of Lodges, £1,919 11s 6d, being £3,753 4s 5d. The expenditure, which, with one exception, is of the usual character, reached the sum of £2,427 11s 2d, thus leaving a balance in hand of £1,325 13s 3d. The exceptional item of expenditure is one amounting to only £6 14s, which was paid to the "Tavern Company, for refreshments supplied to scrutineers on the day of Grand Lodge in June." We do not consider the duties of a Scrutineer are very arduous, or more arduous in June than at other seasons of the year, when such officers may be needed. £6 14s is a small sum in itself, but sufficiently large, if we bear in mind there were only twelve brethren who fulfilled these duties. We ask, under what circumstances it was thought necessary to incur this expenditure on this particular occasion, and who authorised it. Whatever is exceptional should be explained.

ATTACK AND DEFENCE.

A NOTABLE controversy raged in Sydney, the capital of New South Wales, in the month of October last, between the Freemasons and their inveterate opponents, the Roman Catholic priesthood. The provocation came in the first instance from the Rev. Robert Bede Vaughan, who rejoices in the style and title of Archbishop of Nazianzus, in partibus infidelium, and is, in plain English, a Romish Missionary Archbishop in one of the Australian Colonies of Great Britain. With that intolerance of free thought which animates the Ultramontane section of the Romish priestcraft, the Archbishop made a furious onslaught on the tenets of Freemasonry, of which he evidently knows nothing, on the three principal grounds that it is atheistical, immoral, and disloyal. But Dr. Vaughan had evidently reckoned without his host. We presume he must have anticipated either that this tremendous attack of his would pass unnoticed except by the obedient members of his own flock, or that the Freemasons of New South Wales would be so terrified at finding themselves denounced as common vagabonds, by a high dignitary of the Romish Church, as to be unable to meet his charges with anything like a reasonable prospect of success. It matters, of course, very little what his motives were, or what result he anticipated. It is sufficient for us to state that his lecture was only a fortnight old, when our Rev. Bro. Dr. Wazir Beg, Deputy Grand Chaplain of New South Wales and the able editor of the Australian Freemason, took up the cudgels on behalf of the Craft. Dr. Vaughan's charges were made at the opening of the Romish Guild Hall on the 9th October. Bro. Dr. Beg's lecture was delivered on the 23rd of the month in the Masonic Hall, York-street, Sydney; and so densely packed was the audience on the latter occasion, that a large portion of them had to stand in the passages, while hundreds were unable to obtain admission. It is believed that over two thousand people were present, and the lecturer was frequently interrupted by the hearty and sympathetic applause of his hearers.

Let us, however, deal with the attack first, as being the first in the order of events. We need not dwell upon it at any length. The old stock arguments were brought against our Society with more than the usual parade of words, and with at least as much of the suggestio falsi and suppressio veri as we are justified in expecting from a thoroughly disingenuous opponent. The scraps of knowledge which the Archbishop had gathered up were twisted so as to convey a meaning totally at variance with their true import. He declared Freemasonry to be the prime mover in the dissemination of materialistic doctrine, but he did not attempt to prove, or attempting, did not succeed in proving, that any connection whatever existed between the Craft and materialism. The true designs of our Fraternity were kept out of sight altogether. He did not tell his audience that Freemasonry is one huge benevolent and beneficent society spread over the whole surface of the earth; that its members meet together in their several sections or Lodges on the one common ground of humanity; and that when they thus meet together, they lay aside, for the time being, those differences, both political and religious, which, in the nature of things, are likely to create dissension. He carefully concealed from his audience the wide difference there is between a man of no religion at all and the man who is tolerant of all religions; between him who has no sense of loyalty towards any form of government and is always plotting and contriving against the powers that be, and him who considers loyalty is obedience to constituted authority, but is careless as to the particular form such authority may assume; or, in other words, between the man of anarchical tendencies, to whom all forms of government are alike distasteful, and him of archical tendencies, by whom all such forms are alike respected. And as in making these charges, it would not unnaturally occur to the majority of his audience that a society could hardly be disloyal and atheistic which included in its ranks men of princely and noble estate on the one hand, and on the other many learned priests and deacons of different religious faiths, the Archbishop was careful to repeat the grotesque old statement that only a limited and perfectly harmless knowledge of our mysteries was vouchsafed to these worthies. There were "hidden springs" of knowledge which were reserved to a select few, in whose hands the good and wise and noble men who join our ranks are mere puppets. The third charge brought against us was that of immorality, but as the falsity of this is self-evident, we need not give it even a moment's attention. Freemasonry is defined to be a peculiar system of morality. The men who profess it are known in their respective circles, and the tenour of their lives will prove more conclusively than any words of ours the untruth of this accusation.

We have said the Archbishop's attack on Freemasonry was made before his audience with more than the usual parade of words. In fact, the lecture occupies several pages of the Freeman's Journal of Sydney. But its sum and substance we have already stated. As regards the very powerful defence of Bro. Dr. Beg, that worthy brother was not content with merely repelling, as he did most effectually, the attack of his opponent. He, to use a common phrase, carried the war into the heart of the enemy's country. He not only demonstrated, to the satisfaction of his audience, that Freemasons were religious, loyal, and moral men. He argued most forcibly that Roman Catholic priests, if loyal to their church, must be disloyal to the temporal government under which they lived. His quotations from Romish writers of acknowledged merit were very much to the point. His rendering of the oath which Dr. Vaughan had taken at the time of his elevation to episcopal rank, was a skilful and most effective blow at his adversary. In the correspondence that ensued in one of the local journals, Dr. Vaughan made an attempt to lessen the force of this blow, but Dr. Beg was not to be denied. Our able brother challenged his adversary to publish the oath he had actually taken, and even promised to accept the Archbishop's own rendering of the original Latin. To this, however, the astute Churchman—it may be very wisely—made no response whatever. And as in personal conflict, where one of two combatants declines to continue the duello, the other is saluted as victor, so in this contest of words, the honours of victory must be taken to rest with Bro. Beg.

Here we should have been disposed to leave the question. The attack of Dr. Vaughan is merely a repetition of those attacks by dignitaries of the Romish Church to which Freemasonry is periodically subjected, while the defence that was offered was, in the first instance, the same which has again and again been adduced by other brethren. Nor do we think it expedient to follow Dr. Beg far into the religious or political phases of Roman Catholicism. These are matters which it is our duty to avoid. But without entering into any religious disquisition, we feel bound to offer certain remarks on the extra-religious influence which the Roman Church is always striving to exercise; and the injurious effect this has, not on Christendom only, but on the whole world. Masons in common with all members of every religious persuasion lament the spread of materialism and those so-called atheistic tendencies which unhappily prevail in some countries. Many justify these latter on the ground that every man has a right to hold what opinions he chooses, not only as to the nature and attributes of God, but as to His existence or non-existence. Dr. Vaughan holds "the Sect," as he is pleased to call us, responsible for the spread of these pernicious opinions. On our part, we say that no power on earth has inflicted greater injury on the cause of true religion than the Romish Church itself. We respect the members of that church who conscientiously accept, not only its doctrines, but even its dogmas. They, as we, have the right to worship the G.A.O.T.U. in their own fashion. But the rulers of that Church, or we ought rather perhaps to say, a section of its rulers, denies, and has ever denied this right to other people. In its earliest days the Christian Church was terribly persecuted by the monarchs of Imperial Rome. But it succeeded in establishing itself firmly notwithstanding. In time the Bishops of Rome came to exercise temporal sovereignty, and the Church of which they assumed themselves to be the head became a political as well as a religious body. It followed, as a matter of course, that this body brought all its political influence to bear in maintaining its ecclesiastical authority, and all its ecclesiastical influence to bear in upholding its political authority. Not unfrequently it suffered grievously for this confusion of the temporal with the spiritual, but more frequently still it inflicted grievous suffering on others. The crusade against the Albigenses, the cruel destruction of the Order of Knights Templar, the persecutions of the Hussites and of the followers of Wickliffe, the Marian persecution, the iniquities of the Inquisition in Spain and wherever else it exercised its fearful influence, the Massacré of St. Bartholomew's—these are merely some of the most conspicuous instances in which the Christian Church of former days set at defiance the vital principles of Christianity. The essence of this religion is love, love of God and our fellow man. But how can we describe these crusades and persecutions and massacres, the wholesale murder and torture, not of men only, but likewise of women and children, as in accordance with this essential principle? Either Christianity must have been nothing worth, that it required all these terrible crimes to be committed in its name, in order to vindicate its power, or they who perpetrated these crimes in its behalf were monsters in human form, whom the world, as it has grown more and more enlightened, has at length deprived of the power, if not of the will, to re-enact such fearful scenes. Semper eadem is still the motto of the Romish Church. The power to persecute unbelievers in its dogmas is lost to it we trust for ever, but the will remains, or we should not witness these occasional denunciations of Freemasonry. Let Dr. Vaughan confine himself to his proper sphere of duty. It is wide enough and serious enough to tax all his energies and power. To train up his flock in the love of God and man is the duty he, as priest, has undertaken, while, as an Archbishop in partibus Infidelium, the business of converting heathenism to a sense of religion, if properly fulfilled, will leave him no spare moments for denouncing the members of other religious faiths. We all of us have our appointed task to do, and the appointed task of Dr. Vaughan is apparently the conversion of the heathen to a belief in Christianity as it is understood by the Pope, Bishop Dupanloup, and others. Let him, however, not lose sight of that Charity without which, as a grander Christian teacher than he has told the world, man is but "as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal." If he is so engaged in expounding the dogmas of the Romish Church that he can find no place in his programme for Charity, let him not envy and disturb us poor Freemasons, who strive humbly, yet honestly, both to inculcate and practice this chiefest of all virtues.

At the meeting of the House Committee of the Boys' School, held at Freemasons' Hall, last Saturday, the important question of extending the School so as to admit of there being three hundred instead of the present number of pupils was discussed. It is hardly necessary for us to add that in a matter of such vast importance, the Committee resolved to act with the utmost deliberation, and in consequence our readers will not be surprised to hear that the meeting was adjourned till to-day, when the subject will be again discussed judically.

MASONIC BALL AT THE AGRICULTURAL HALL.

THE ball at the Agricultural Hall, in aid of our Masonic Charities, was, as regards the support it received, a great success. Intended in the first instance to be merely a friendly re-union among the members of the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge and their lady friends, it gradually assumed far more formidable proportions, until the question where to find space enough to accommodate the numerous applicants became somewhat serious. Bro. Rafferty at length solved this difficulty by placing at the disposal of the committee as much of the gallery space in the Agricultural Hall as they were likely to need. Accordingly, the eastern portion was at once fitted up as a ball-room, Brother Unite contributing all the decorations for the evening, which was most tastefully fitted, under the gratuitous superintendence of Bros. Ellen and Bevis. The flowers and shrubs were supplied by Bro. John Rainbow, jun. Bro. Cattermole did all the cartage of decorations to and from the hall free of all charge, while Bro. Weaver's admirable skill as a conductor was also placed at the service of the committee with equal readiness, and disinterestedly. Thus, at the outset, the committee found themselves most favourably circumstanced, all the above-mentioned brethren having undertaken to supply free, certain goods, or fulfil, voluntarily certain duties which are usually found among the heaviest items of expense in organising a ball. As the day approached, it became evident there would be a very large gathering. Many, were, of course, prevented attending by prior engagements, but the committee, in arranging for the supper, were able to guarantee 350 guests, which number would, of course, be catered for, whether all of them came or not. As a matter of fact, those present were close on 400 in number, and when all were assembled, and the brethren and their partners were busy paying their devotions to Terpsichore, the scene was a very busy one indeed. Great taste had been shown in the decoration of the ball room. Shields and banners with various devices on them were placed along the walls at very frequent intervals. Festoons of flowers hung suspended from the light network of iron which ordinarily forms the only ornament in these galleries. Gaseliers were placed at close intervals. Indeed, nothing could have been better, or in better taste, than the arrangements for the reception and accommodation of the guests. The office of member of the committee, especially in the case of the Chairman, Bro. Somers, and the Hon. Secretaries, Bros. Osborne and Weston, was no sinecure. All of them, but especially those we have mentioned, laboured hard in promoting the success of the ball; and if, in addition to the excellence of the arrangements we have already mentioned, the large number of guests, and the evidence they gave that they were thoroughly enjoying themselves, must be taken as a measure of their success, it was certainly a very full measure. That the weather as regards warmth was not quite as propitious as it might have been for a ball in a long gallery, from which, in spite of every effort, it was impossible to exclude the keen wind, was no fault of the Committee. They had done all that was possible to make the rooms as snug and cosy as possible, but the drafts were not to be denied. And if the supper was not all that could have been wished, the price agreed to be paid was not illiberal. If any Brother, or the friend of a Brother, quitted the Hall without having had his dues in the way of refreshment, we set that down as the fault of the contractors, whose provision for the occasion was neither choice nor sufficient. Craft clothing only was to be worn, but this sufficed in the way of colour with the gay dresses of the ladies. With the pecuniary results the Committee have every reason to be satisfied, and no doubt the Charities will largely benefit as a result. Indeed, we believe this is merely the first step, Primus Gradus, towards having a similar gathering every year for the same purpose. If so, and the plan should be carried out, we are confident our three Institutions will largely benefit. Success generally follows where duty and pleasure are combined. Among those present were Bro. Binckes and the Misses Binckes, Bro. J. and Mrs. Constable, Bro. Groner and Mrs. Groner, Bros. Somers, Rafferty, Cattermole, T. Hadley Prestage, and R. G. Thomas—these three last kindly undertook the duties of M.C.—Weston, Osborne, Rowley, Richardson, &c., &c.

To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England :

The Board of General Purposes beg to report, that it having come to their knowledge that the Tyndall Lodge, No. 1363, Chipping Sodbury, had been guilty of Masonic irregularity by passing and raising brethren at shorter intervals than the period prescribed by the Book of Constitutions, the Board investigated the circumstances, and, in result, ordered that the brethren in question be duly re-obligated and their Certificates withheld until that be done; and, further, that the Lodge be fined one guinea for the offence.

The Board further report the investigation by them of a similar Masonic irregularity on the part of the Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 1028, Alfreton, a brother having been raised in such Lodge at a shorter interval than that prescribed by the Book of Constitutions, and that, in result, they have ordered the brother in question to be re-obligated, and his Certificate to be withheld until that be done; and, further, that the Lodge be fined one guinea for the offence.

Grand Master His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, but for the success of his visit in eliciting and confirming throughout that vast territory a feeling of universal loyalty and attachment to the Imperial rule of England."

The Grand Lodge having been opened in form, at 6.15 p.m., and the summons convening the Communication read, the proceedings of the last regular Communication, held on the 12th September 1876, were, on the motion of the District Grand Master, taken as read, and were duly confirmed. The District Grand Secretary reported receipt of apologies for their absence from several brethren, and read the report of the proceedings of a meeting of the District Grand Lodge Committee, with the District Grand Treasurer's accounts since the date of last audit, &c., which was adopted.

The District Grand Master addressed the brethren as follows :—The Masonic year which closes to-day has been an important one to this province, and we have to record many changes; chief among them the resignation of our D.G.M. Bro. Colonel Hervey Tucket Duncan, C.S.I. We have already recorded our sense of the loss which Freemasonry has sustained by his resignation of the office of ruler in this province and our appreciation of the services he has rendered to the Fraternity during his Masonic career in Burmah. I have now to tell you that his resignation has been accepted by the Most Worshipful the Grand Master, and I lately received a letter from our R.W.D.G.M., conveying the command of the V.W. the Pro Grand Master, that the wishes of the Lodges in the province regarding a successor to him should be ascertained and made known to the Pro Grand Master through R.W. Bro. Duncan. This information I have procured, and am sending to Bro. Duncan, and we shall no doubt in due time be informed what is the pleasure of H.R.H the Most Worshipful the Grand Master regarding a successor to Bro. Duncan as D.G.M. of British Burmah. The hand of death has been busy amongst us during the past year, and we have to deplore a serious loss in the untimely demise of W. Bro. J. V. Douglas De Wet, our D.G. Treas. and a P.G.W. of this Lodge. I need not enlarge on his excellent Masonic qualities, which are well known to all present. His place will be hard to fill, and his familiar face will long be missed by those who have had the pleasure of meeting him within these walls, and those of the other Lodges in Rangoon. Lodge Star of Burmah has also to mourn the loss of an old and worthy member in the person of Bro. Andrews. But it is not merely by the hand of death that brethren are taken from our midst. Changes of other kinds in a station like this are frequent, and we have to regret the removal of Bro. W. D. Cruickshank, who has just left us to fill a higher post in his profession in Calcutta. I know that I am expressing the feelings of every brother in this Grand Lodge in recording our sense of the untiring zeal and energy which this Worshipful Brother has displayed in promoting every good work in the Craft during his stay in the province. That useful Institution, the Greenlaw Masonic Orphan Fund, is largely indebted to him, not only in the matter of liberal personal contribution, but for the excellent organisation under which the funds are invested and managed, and for the untiring attention its affairs have received in his district during his tenure of office as its Secretary and Treasurer. The Grand Officers for the ensuing year were then appointed, and the Lodge was closed.

GRAND SECRETARYSHIP OF SCOTLAND.

BRO. J. LAURIE having announced his intention of resigning the office of Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, there will, doubtless, be some anxiety as to the appointment of his successor. At present there are two brethren in the field; Bro. D. Murray Lyon, favourably known as a Masonic historian, having written the history of the Mother Kilwinning Lodge, No. 0, as well as that of St. Mary's Chapel, No. 1, Edinburgh. The other is Bro. Robert Wylie, formerly Provincial Grand Master of Ayrshire, who for the last dozen years has filled the office of Provincial Grand Secretary of the largest province in Scotland in a manner which has gained him golden opinions from all with whom he has come in official contact. For many years he has performed the duties of Deputy P.G.M., as well as been the Acting Master of the Mother Kilwinning Lodge. The varied experience he has thus gained would doubtless stand him in good stead in the Grand Secretary's office, while his wide-spread correspondence as Secretary of the reputed oldest existing Lodge in the world, or, at any rate, in Scotland, has made him favourably known on both sides of the Atlantic. Nearly every American or colonial Mason of note, who has been on this side, has made a pilgrimage to Kilwinning, as the reputed cradle of Masonry, where Bro. Wylie has always cordially received them, and cheerfully shown them the old records. Many of these visitors have continued to correspond with him, and as there are many colonial Lodges under the Scotch Constitution, this would doubtless facilitate business in that department, which is at all times a rather difficult one.

No doubt either of the brethren named is competent for the office, but it rests with the members of the Grand Lodge of Scotland to say which of them has the preponderance of claims upon their suffrages. In this Journal another pen has been dwelling on the qualification of our "Lodge Rulers," an important theme. But it is surely as important we should duly weigh those of an officer who, to a certain extent, has to rule our Lodge Rulers. We, therefore, trust that all our Scotch brethren will carefully weigh the matter and consider it in all its bearings before recording their votes.

CITY MASONIC BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

THE first annual meeting of this Association was held on the 26th February, at the Railway Tavern, Fenchurch-street Station, Bro. Rawley P.M. 174 and Z. 174, President, in the chair. The total amount received from the members during the year ending 26th Feb. was £236 2s 6d, including £1 15s 6d for sale of Book of Rules, &c. The whole of this amount has been voted to the Masonic Institutions, in the names of those members who have obtained the draw by ballot. Considering that the above-named sum was the result of one shilling per week subscriptions, the Association may be considered as a success. A very cordial vote of thanks to the Secretary (Bro. Newton), and to the Treasurer (Bro. G. Ward Verry), for their exertions was unanimously passed, and the business of a new financial year commenced.

LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

IT has become the custom with the members of this Club, so successfully inaugurated by the R.W. Lord Skelmersdale D.G.M., to have a monthly meeting, when they might dine together. One of the most successful of these gatherings was held on the 21st ult., when the R.W. Bro. Col. F. Burdett Prov G.M. Middlesex, not only honoured the members with his presence, but worthily and ably filled the chair. There were about 44 members and visitors present, all of whom seemed to enjoy the banquet, which was provided in a way which reflected great credit on the manager, Bro. States P.G.S. The worthy Chairman, whose genial presidency is always thoroughly appreciated, proposed the toast of Her Majesty the Queen. She had reigned over us satisfactorily for forty years; long may she continue to do so. She would always live in the hearts of her subjects, and he was sure she would find a worthy successor. (Cheers.) The National Anthem was then sung, Miss Florence Levander singing the solo, assisted by Bros. B. Perry, Arthur Thomas, Musgrave, and Moss. The toast of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales was given and received enthusiastically. The Chairman said that the fact of H.R.H. being Grand Master had exalted Freemasonry in every respect. In the course of time he would ascend the throne of England, when we should be sorry to lose him as Grand Master, but feel proud to hail him as our Sovereign. Bro. Langton (the Chairman of the Club) then said he had a toast to propose that he was very sorry to take out of the hands of the Chairman; it was the toast of the R.W. the Earl of Carnarvon, the R.W. Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers. He would couple with the toast the name of their present Chairman, Bro. Col. F. Burdett, whom all were pleased to see among them, and hoped he would be present on many future occasions. The glee "Summer Eve" was then sung. The Chairman, on rising to respond, was received most enthusiastically. He spoke of the interest the R.W. the Earl of Carnarvon and Lord Skelmersdale took in the Craft, referred to the visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales to India, and also to the commemoration of that event by the vote of Grand Lodge. He had attended committees on the subject, and he was pleased at the result. On behalf of the Grand Officers, he tendered his sincere thanks. Bro. Theodore Distin sang "Jack's Yarn." The Chairman, in referring to clubs, said that the first one was instituted in 1815, since that period they had flourished, and he was sure that none could be more successful than the London Masonic Club; he asked them to drink to its success, and coupled with the toast the name of Bro. Smith. (Cheers). Bro. Walter Pelham gave a recitation of the "Penny Readings," the facial delineations of the various characters being received with roars of laughter. Bro. Smith thanked Bro. Col. Burdett for his kind expressions, not only on his own behalf, but also on the part of the Club; he was pleased to see so many present on the occasion, but he hoped to see more on the next, and by the attendance this evening he was sure the Club would in every respect be a success. Bro. Arthur Thomas then sang "Come into the Garden, Maud," by particular desire, after which Miss Florence Levander sang "Sweet spirit, hear my prayer," which received long and deserved plaudits. Bro. Langton said, that as many of the members expressed a wish to found a musical association in connection with the Club, arrangements had been made to provide a room to meet the requirement; the subscription had been settled at 10s 6d per annum. As it was the first of its kind that had been organised, he hoped it would meet with the support it deserved. In proposing the health of the Chairman, he hoped the present would not be the only occasion on which they would be favoured with the presence of Col. Burdett; he considered it a great honour to the Club. The toast having been cordially received, Bro. Burdett thanked them for their kind expressions, and said his great aim was to render service to the Craft; he also felt a great pleasure in occupying the chair. He saw what a Masonic club was, and, as a member, he was proud to be among them. The glee, "Soldier's Love," was given, and Bro. Theodore Distin sang "The heart bowed down," after which the brethren separated, with the hope of passing another agreeable evening. Among those present were Bros. Joseph Langton (Chairman of the Club Committee), T. J. Smith, Fredk. Flint, T. A. A. Rumpff, L. Lumley, A. J. Ireton, Dr. Spurrell, B. F. Fountain, F. W. Potter, Thomas Bishop, John E. Shand, James Edell, D. F. Cook, A. C. Hunter, Burgess Perry, G. Musgrave, E. Moss, L. Herf, Klein, Southwood, A. G. Gosnell Sec., and H. M. Levy.

"THINGS NEW AND OLD."

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The evidence adduced by "Q." in support of his opinion, that Comp. Dunckerley did not hold the office of G.S. of Cornwall, is not new to me, and I do not regard it as by any means conclusive, or I should not have formed and committed myself, to a contrary opinion. It is true that "Q." does not say that my deduction (from the correspondence already given), is wrong, but he asks for "more substantial evidence." I think he will find corroborative evidence in the following letter:—

"Portsmouth Common, 13th August 1795.

"DEAR BRO. AND KNT. COMP.—By a letter from Capt. Hannam, I am informed that about five weeks ago he received, among other things from Mr. Knight, at Redruth, a petition to the G. and R. Chapter for a Warrant to constitute a Chapter at Truro, but on his application, was informed that the names were not registered. If you had applied to me or, if Capt. Hannam had applied to me, as Superintendant of Cornwall, I should have granted a Dispensation for Truro, and the Patent of Confirmation would have been sent to you. This is not the only omission that has been found in the Grand Register, owing to hurry and inattention. Whenever supper was reported to be on the table, the Chapter was immediately closed, and the loose papers hurried into the drawer of the desk.

* * * * * *

"Believe me your faithful and affect. Bro.,

"THOS. DUNCKERLEY."

The evidence as afforded by Dunckerley himself in his own letters so quoted, will surely be regarded as superior to that of Bro. White, who wrote the sketch referred to by "Q." and whose account does not contradict what I have put forward, although it does not support it; and as "Q." says, "I do not expect perfect accuracy in a Masonic or any other journal."

Yours fraternally,

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

—:o:—

Early History and Transactions of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York, 1781-1815. Part VIII. Published by authority of the Grand Lodge. Granted to Kane Lodge, No. 454, June 1874. New York: Masonic and Miscellaneous Publishers, No. 2 Bleecker-street; D. Sickels and Co., Managers. 1876.

THE eighth part of this valuable record deals with the events which occurred between the close of the year 1807 and that of 1810. Most of the circumstances minuted are of the usual character, and relate to the issue of Warrants for the constitution of new Lodges, the compositions of sundry Lodges for the payment of their dues, differences among members of Lodge A B C or X Y Z, &c. Occasionally we find interspersed throughout these pages records of matters of greater moment. But to give our analysis of the part in question. We find at the very outset—that is to say, at the meeting of Grand Lodge on the 2nd December 1807, a minute to the effect that a communication had been received from the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania relative to a convention proposed to be held for the purpose of organising a supreme Grand Lodge for the whole Union of States. The matter was referred to a Committee, consisting of the Senior Grand Warden, the Grand Secretary, and Bro. Vanderbilt W.M. of Trinity Lodge, No. 10. We likewise find on this occasion that three members of a Committee, appointed to consider an application some time previously made for permission to hold a Lodge in the City of New York, to be called Le Temple de l'Amitié, and other circumstances submitted by the petitioners, reported that there was no likelihood whatever of the Committee coming to any agreement. Thereupon it was resolved that the said Committee be discharged, and a new one, with similar powers, was appointed in its stead. A communication from the Grand Lodge of England having been read, and ordered to be filed, the Grand Lodge was closed. On 3rd March 1808, the new Committee just referred to delivered their report, which was accepted. It is evident the petition was refused. Though the fact is not so stated, we find later that a communication from the petitioners was not allowed to be read. We note likewise that two other petitiitions to erect new Lodges in the City of New York having been submitted, a motion was carried to the effect that for the present no more Warrants for new Lodges in the City should be issued. A letter from the Tammany Society, inviting Grand Lodge to take part in a certain demonstration about to be made at the Wallabout, is referred to a Committee, and at the next meeting of Grand Lodge, on the 1st June, the Committee report, that having carefully inquired into all the circumstances, they could find no evidence that any Masonic brethren had died on board of British prison ships, and therefore they were of opinion that it would be improper for the general Society of Freemasons to join in the procession. The report was unanimously confirmed. A Worshipful Brother having been censured for using some memorandum in writing, which he had made for his own private use, to assist him in fulfilling his Masonic duties, but which was utterly unintelligible to any but himself, expresses a wish that the writing should be submitted to the Grand Officers for their opinion and decision, and hands it to the Deputy Grand Master for that purpose. The request is granted, and a resolution passed that the Grand Officers make the required examination, and report their opinion. The report delivered later fully bears out the statement of the writer, and exonerates him from all blame. At the meeting of the Grand Stewards' Lodge on the 25th May, it is noted that a sum not exceeding 20 dollars is ordered to be given as relief to a brother who is "in confinement in the jail in this city." It is further noted that an application for assistance to the extent of 14 dollars was made on behalf of a certain Mrs. Hogbin, who had received Mrs. Vanché, widow of a Freemason, into her house, on the latter's assurance that her board would be paid for by Masonic contributions. Mrs. Vanché, however, had Vanished in debt to the extent above stated. We presume that Mrs. Hogbin's faith in the beneficence of Freemasonry, how rudely soever it may have been shaken by the consummate assurance and mysterious disappearance of Widow Vanché, was confirmed; for orders were given to the Committee of Charity to make the usual inquiries, and, these duly satisfied, to pay over the same as requested. On the 1st June, Bro. de Witt Clinton, and the majority of the other Grand Officers, were unanimously re-elected. Four petitions for Warrants for the erection of as many new Lodges, namely, Charity Lodge, Spencer Town, Co. Columbia; Eagle Lodge, to be held alternately at Spencer Town, Co. Tioga, and Town of Ulysses, Co. Seneca; Angelica Lodge, Angelica, Co. Alleghany; and Clinton Lodge, Clinton, Co. Dutchess, having been read and granted, a proposal for a Masonic procession on St. John the Baptist's Day, was made, but withdrawn, when a counter-motion seemed likely to be passed over it. On 7th September, after three more petitions for new Warrants, namely, for Zion Lodge, Bloomfield, Co. Ontario; Rochford Lodge, Rochford, Co. Otsego; and Charity Lodge, Village of Cookhouse, Tompkin's, Co. Delaware, had been read and granted, and certain other business submitted, the Committee appointed to examine the Reports of Grand Visitors, G. N. Edmonds and G. V. Woods, delivered their report, and also an opinion to the effect that the Grand Visitors in question were entitled to the thanks of Grand Lodge for the industry and ability with which they had discharged their several duties. A motion, giving effect to this report, was then unanimously accepted, and the Lodge closed. The chief matter recorded in the minutes of the 7th December, is the appointment of seven brethren for the purpose of devising and reporting to Grand Lodge a plan for the education of children of poor Masons. Warrants for the erection of Sangor Lodge, Sangerfield, Co. Oneida, and Temple Lodge, Guilderland, Co. Albany having been granted, a communication from the Grand Lodge of South Carolina, announcing that the Grand Lodge of 'Ancient York Masons" and of Free and Accepted Masons had been re-united in one body under the name of "The Grand Lodge of South Carolina," was read, and ordered to be filed. A communication from the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, enclosing account of their proceedings at their annual meeting on 24th June, and also a copy of their contributions was read. Then a letter was read from Grand Visitor Phylatus Swift, to the effect that he had experienced great difficulty in collecting past dues, and requesting that power be granted him to compound with the Lodges in his district. The prayer of the Grand Visitor was granted in respect of all dues outstanding up to the previous St. John the Baptist's Day; but Bro. Swift was notified that the payment of all subsequent dues would be rigorously enforced. The one other minute deserving to be noticed records that a communication had been received from an association styling itself Sovereign Grand Council in the sublime Masonic degree of P.R.S., announcing to this Grand Lodge in very respectful terms its establishment in this city on the 28th day of October last, under patent regularly served from lawful authority, and disclaiming any power or authority inconsistent with the local supremacy of the Grand Lodge over Master Masons. This document was ordered to be filed. On the 1st March 1809, we gather from the report of the committee appointed to examine the Grand Treasurer's accounts, that the receipts from 20th March 1806 to 20th February 1809, amounted to dollars 8·727·79, while the disbursements reached dollars 8·330·30, leaving a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer of dollars 397·30, and, in addition, were due from the Jersey Bank three quarter dividends, amounting together to 210 dollars, so that the whole balance to the credit of the Lodge was dollars 607·39. We learn, also, that the funds of Grand Lodge consist of dollars 4·134·14 per cent. deferred stock nominal of 40 full, and 60 half shares of the Jersey Bank stock, on which dollars 3,600 had been paid at par, and that the present stock is worth from 110 to 112 per cent. On the 60 half shares there require dollars 1,600 more to be paid on the 1st May next; and the committee recommend the appropriation of the present balance towards that payment. They likewise express their belief that a time will come when the interest of Grand Lodge funds will suffice for every proper and charitable purpose. At the same time they draw attention to the laxity with which the Charitable Fund had hitherto been administered. We quote their statement:—"There are certain persons that have been for many years as regularly relieved as any of our Government pensioners, and look and ask for it as a matter of right, when, in truth, were their characters a little sifted, they would be found, in many instances, not entitled to our beneficence; and in several cases it will be found that certain individuals have received 20, 30, 40, and from that to 50 or 100 dollars in the space of a very short time." For this purpose they recommend that the city should be marked out in districts, that Visitors should be appointed to each, and that no sum be granted by the Committee of Charity till two or more of their Visitors had inquired and reported. This report is accepted, and also a resolution for the appointment of a committee of five to give effect to the proposal for dividing the city. On the same occasion was delivered the report of the committee appointed to devise a plan for the education of children of poor Masons. In this report a plan is proposed, by which it is believed that fifty children may be educated at comparatively small cost, and for raising the necessary funds to meet such expenditure. This plan, however, was ordered to stand over for further consideration till the next meeting of Grand Lodge, when it was unanimously agreed to refer it to the Worshipful Masters of the different City Lodges, with full power to alter or amend it, or to propose any other in lieu of it; and when they were ready to report, then a special meeting of Grand Lodge should be summoned. At this session a nice point was raised, and referred to a special committee—namely, whether a Past Master belonging to another jurisdiction, being only member of a Lodge in the jurisdiction of New York, is entitled to a seat and vote in the latter Grand Lodge, It was also resolved that a committee be appointed to arrange with the Grand Secretary the numbers of the different Lodges in the New York jurisdiction. On the 7th June Bro. De Witt Clinton, and other of the Grand Officers were unanimously re-elected, but the election of a Grand Chaplain was unanimously dispensed with. The Committee for dividing New York City into districts, for the better administration of the Charitable Fund, recommended a division, corresponding with the different City Wards, except that Wards 7 and 10 were to form one district. They also suggested the appointment of certain brethren as visitors for the several districts; but the further consideration of this report was postponed till the next meeting. The Committee to whom the point as to a P.M. of a Lodge belonging to another jurisdiction sitting and voting, decided that no P.M. is entitled to a seat and vote in the New York Grand Lodge, "unless he has passed the chair of some Lodge under its jurisdiction." This report was unanimously accepted. There was also read at this meeting a protest from St. John's Lodge, No. 31, Ancient York Masons, of Charleston, South Carolina, against the union of the Grand Lodge A.Y.M. and Grand Lodge, as has been already announced. On the 6th September, the discussion of the report, recommending the division of the City into districts, was postponed sine die, after which the Masters of the City Lodges reported unfavourably of the plan proposed for the education of a certain number of children of poor Masons, explaining at some length and in minute detail their reasons, and then submitting an alternative plan of their own, as well as suggesting the appointment of a Grand Lodge School Committee for the conduct of this particular business. This report is accepted and ordered to be printed and distributed, while the appointment of the Committee is vested in the presiding officers of Grand Lodge. After this business had been disposed of, various communications from other Masonic bodies are taken into consideration. The first emanated from the Grand Lodge of Maryland, inviting the New York Grand Lodge to take tickets in a certain lottery about to be arranged, with a view to building a Masonic Hall in Baltimore. The amount to be raised in this manner is set down as 12.500 dollars, and a motion is agreed to, authorising the Grand Master, if he deem it expedient, to purchase not less than five, or more than twenty tickets in such lottery. We next find a letter from Georgia, protesting against the union of the two South Carolina Grand Lodges, and also a communication from the Grand Lodge of Ancient York Masons, announcing its resuscitation by those Lodges of A.Y.M. who had refused to join in the union with the Moderns. Lastly comes a letter from the Grand Lodge of Ohio, announcing its organisation on the 4th of January 1808, and requesting recognition and an interchange of courtesies and correspondence. To this, we need hardly add, that a favourable answer was directed to be made. On the 29th of November a letter was read from the Grand Master, to the effect that on the special recommendation of several brethren in Washington, he had paid a debt of one hundred dollars incurred by a Miss Jones, the blind daughter of a deceased brother, in coming to New York to have her eyes examined and operated upon by a medical man, that he had done so because he thought it "due to the honour of the Fraternity and the cause of humanity," and praying Grand Lodge to make such order as they might deem expedient. Thereupon it was resolved that the Grand Treasurer be directed to refund the hundred dollars so expended to the Grand Master. We also observe that the Grand Secretary is directed to furnish the Committee of Charity with a list of all persons relieved during the past two years, and the sums that were given to each. The transactions recorded for the meeting of the 4th of December relate chiefly to Warrants, complaints, and relief, but among them we have noticed that in a communication dated the 7th March 1809, the School Committee of Grand Lodge report that the fifty children proposed to be educated by Grand Lodge have been placed in charge of the Trustees of the New York Free School, and that they are already making great progress in their education, and recommending that a sum of ten dollars in clothing be furnished to each child. The report was read and approved. It was then resolved that a dispensation in a funeral procession should not be granted, except on a written and signed application of the three first officers of the Lodge of which the deceased brother was a member, or a majority of them. It was also arranged that a Committee of brethren should be appointed to visit the different Lodges in the City of New York, with a view to securing uniformity of work among them. We remark that communications were received and read from the Grand Lodges of England and Ireland respectively. On the 7th of June 1810, Bro. de Witt Clinton was re-elected Grand Master, and so too were Bros. Van Ranseleer, Robert Cocks, Joseph Jacobs, and James Varian, as Junior Grand Warden, Grand Treasurer, Grand Pursuivant, and Grand Tyler, Bro. Colden being elected Senior Grand Warden. In the course of the meeting a case is reported for advice by Albion Lodge No. 31, respecting a candidate proposed for initiation who had received a wound in his knee, and in consequence walked stiffly, the Lodge being anxious to know if such a blemish was a bar to his admission into the Fraternity. A reference of this kind must appear to brethren of the present day as very ridiculous, and still more ridiculous is it to find Grand Lodge gravely appointing a Committee of five learned brethren to determine "the degree of blemish or defect which should be considered a disqualification for admission." Had the candidate been about to enter a pedestrian club, there would have been some reason in questioning his fitness, for people with a stiff knee-joint are not good walkers, while a damaged limb is no block to the study of morality. At the meeting on the 5th of September, the Committee report on the Treasurer's Account, which commenced with a balance in hand on the 20th of February 1809, amounting to 397.39 dollars, sums received since bringing the total of the capital to 4071.40 dollars, while the expenditure having reached only 2587.42 dollars, there remained a balance in hand at date of report of 1487.98 dollars. A difference between the Grand Secretary's and Grand Treasurer's account was ordered to be adjusted, and it was further directed that of the above balance a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars should be invested in some productive stock on behalf of Grand Lodge. Mention of an unusual petition follows, namely, from Holland Lodge No. 8, stating that the W.M. had been robbed of, among other things, the Warrant of the Lodge, and requesting that a new Warrant, securing to them their proper rank, should be issued. The prayer was granted, the Lodge to retain its seniority from 5th September 1787, and the customary fees being remitted. Part of the minutes of the meeting on 28th November of the Grand Stewards' Lodge complete this portion of the history.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

AFTER the usual trouble and excitement attending the opening of the Session, Parliament seems to have settled down steadily to its work of legislation. Lord Stratheden and Campbell brought forward a motion relative to the Eastern Question on Monday. This led to a long and interesting debate, extending over nearly four hours, in which the Earl of Derby, Earl Grey, and the Duke of Argyll took a principal part. The motion was negatived without any division being taken. On Monday the House of Commons devoted several hours in Committee of Supply to discussing and voting a portion of the Civil Service Estimates. On Wednesday afternoon a Colonial Marriages Bill passed its second reading by 192 to 141, the Attorneys-General for England and Ireland being among the Opposition. This Bill is intended to regulate marriage with a deceased wife's sister according to certain conditions, such marriages being already legal in our Australian Colonies. An Open Spaces (Metropolitan) Bill also passed this stage. We have already said that several important Government Bills have been steadily pushed forward on the way to become law, and this week the further progress has been considerable.

On Monday, by command of the Queen, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales held a Levee at St. James's Palace. His Royal Highness arrived about two o'clock, attended as usual by his Gentlemen-in-Waiting, and escorted by a detachment of the Royal Horse Guards. Prince Christian, Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, and the Duke of Teck were present. The Queen's Body Guard of Gentlemen-at-Arms was on duty under the command of their Captain, the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, and so were the Yeomen of the Guard under Captain Lord Skelmersdale. The Great Officers of State and the Royal Household were in attendance, and the Diplomatic and General Circles were numerously attended. A considerable number of presentations to His Royal Highness was made, these, by desire, being deemed equivalent to presentations to Her Majesty. The Queen herself, it is announced, will hold a Levee at Buckingham Palace on the 12th instant.

We are not prepared to say whether the Zodiac has latterly got of gear, or the Gulf Stream been playing some pranks, but the seasons appear to vary very considerably from what they were in the good old time, when our readers and we were boys together. We were just beginning to think about the near approach of Spring, the Vernal Equinox not being very distant, when, all of a sudden, Winter, which ought to have paid us a visit in December last, but has been so uncomplimentary as to absent itself during the whole of the season, turns up, and drives people into great coats and clothing suitable to the Arctic regions. We are very pleased to meet our old friend, with his bracing air and his genial smile, for Old Winter is a seasonable and jolly fellow in his way; but we cannot help complaining of his very irregular and dilatory habits, especially during the last forty or fifty years. Sometimes he drops in a little too soon, before we have had time to lay in our stock of seasonable clothing. Sometimes, when we have made all the needful preparations for his reception, and have got in our woollens and our muffs, and our wraps, shawls, and the like, all in decent time, he either disappoints us altogether, or comes late, when people are preparing for the Boat Race and Amateur Athletic Club meetings, Volunteer reviews, and Eastertide excursions. Sometimes he does not condescend to pay us any visit at all, and then the whole round of the seasons behaves irregularly. We have certainly had some keen, wintry days this week; it may be owing, in some indirect way, to the eclipse of the moon on Tuesday, and if the blood circulates less freely in our veins, the circulation in our streets is more rapid. Who knows but the earth may have stopped in its revolution, so that the seasons are just one later than they used to be, winter coming in spring time, spring in summer, and so on? However, these are questions we cheerfully leave to the consideration of others. For ourselves, we take things as they come, and make the best of them, as Speculative Masons should do.

The Agricultural Hall is a very proper place for the exhibition of fat cattle, horses, and dogs, agricultural implements, &c., &c., and we all know the Mohawk Minstrels have made a portion of it their home, and a very comfortable and very lively home it is, as most of our readers are aware. But except for its spacious accommodation, it is almost the last place in the world in which we should expect to hear of a Masonic Ball being held. Yet one was held on Wednesday, and for an excellent purpose—the support of our Charities. Some 400 people, brethren and their lady friends and relatives together, disported themselves till the small hours of the morning, as will be seen in fuller detail elsewhere in these columns. The Craftsmen present showed themselves very skilful in piloting their fair partners through the intricacies of the dance, and the ball, so far, proved a great success; but there was no keeping out the cold. The most energetic committee in the world must find it difficult to deal with so terribly inconstant a personage as the Clerk of the weather.

On Wednesday took place the funeral of Mr. Oxenford who for the last thirty years has held the important post of dramatic critic of the Times. Kensal Green Cemetery had been selected as the last resting-place of the respected deceased, and accordingly, for two hours before the time appointed for the ceremony, there were assembled playwrights, dramatic critics, and actors in very considerable numbers, among them being Messrs. Andrew Halliday, Leopold Lewis, Kelly, Cresswell, Cave, Horace Wigan, and the two Emerys. In the funeral procession were Messrs. E. and A. Oxenford, Edmund Yates, Frank Marshall, and other of the more immediate friends and relatives of the deceased. A heap of flowers were thrown into the grave, until the coffin lid was quite hidden from view.

On Monday next the Cambridge crew will arrive in London for its usual course of practice on the Thames water, and in three weeks' time exactly, the University race of 1877 will be rowed, at, we believe, the somewhat early hour of ten. Our readers, of course, are tolerably well posted in the doings of the rival crews on the Isis and Cam respectively, for the daily papers are careful to set forth in detail their respective merits and demerits. We need not, therefore, discuss these knotty points whether this or that crew slides best, jerks least, or feathers most indifferently. The crews are both heavy, averaging somewhat over twelve stone per man. All we need say in connection with the annual event is that, bar accidents, the best crew will assuredly win, but which that best may be it is not possible at this present time to say. There is, perhaps, one noticeable feature in the race of this year. There are more old blues rowing than, as far as we can remember, on any previous occasion. Meantime, light and dark blue favours are beginning to show themselves more frequently as the day for the race approaches, these being, of course, among the earliest public symptoms of that "Blue fever," to which London is annually liable.

The latest news from the East is so far satisfactory, that we believe peace has been actually concluded between Turkey and Servia on terms certainly more favourable than the latter, as a hopelessly defeated power, could have had any right to expect, had she not had the influence of the Russian Empire at her back. Considering that the provocation to war came in the first instance from her, the terms are very handsome indeed. However, Servia, we fancy, has suffered too grievously to repeat her error. By this time she fully recognises the value of the old familiar story about the dwarf and the giant who went out together to do battle against their enemies. The dwarf was so foolishly valorous, that he thrust himself into the forefront of the battle, receiving all the hard knocks, while the giant merely advanced opportunely and secured the victory. Servia has gone forth to battle with her enemy and has just escaped the contest with life, thanks to the influence of that powerful empire of Russia, which has been looking on the while, and, for aught that is known to the contrary, may even now be waiting an opportunity to dash at her enemy the Turk. Peace with Montenegro is not yet arranged, but doubtless this will follow at an early date. The one momentous question that remains is whether Russia and Turkey will come to blows or not. With every day that passes, the prospects of a continued maintenance of peace appear to be brighter. There have even been rumours that Russia has given orders for the demobilisation of her army. This, of course, must be a work of time, and will require very delicate management, or dissatisfaction will break out, not only among the troops assembled at Kischeneff, but elsewhere throughout the Empire. Let us hope, however, the news is true, and and that for the present, at all events, we may be no more harassed about the Eastern difficulty.

There is talk of the marriage of the young King of Spain with a daughter of the Duke de Montpensier. King Alphonso is yet a young man, and seems to get on well in the difficult task of governing a country so unsettled as is Spain. The marriage is announced to take place at the end of next month. We trust the event may be for the happiness both of the King and the Princess, and that it will exercise a kindly influence over the country which Alphonso has been called to rule over.

We have received a short note, penned with difficulty by our worthy and zealous brother John Young, W.M. of Lodge 704, Ahlagbill, Ireland. We learn with great regret that he is under treatment by the principal oculist of Belfast for blindness; the sight of one eye only being partially preserved, though fears are entertained for even that. He was first registered on the books of Grand Lodge in 1823, having now been a Mason for 54 years, with yet undiminished fervour, though in the seventy-third year of his age. The brethren employed upon this Journal send him their fraternal greeting. If the expression of our high esteem and deep sympathy can convey a gleam of gratification to one so afflicted, we would remind our brother that, under God's blessing, alleviation and resignation may best mitigate his calamity with the balm of a satisfied conscience, and the memories of a well-spent life.

As announced in another column, the Provincial Grand Secretary designate for Essex is Bro. T. J. Ralling, of the Angel Lodge, No. 51, Colchester, where he was initiated in October 1869, since which he has been an active and hard-working member. He has been its Secretary since 1871, and the appreciation in which his services are held by his brethren is evidenced by the fact that in May 1875 a valuable gold watch, suitably inscribed, and a handsomely engrossed vellum, were presented to him, in the presence of the D.P.G.M. and several distinguished brethren (reported in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE at the time, May 1875). We believe that the nomination of Bro. Ralling to this distinguished post in the province has caused great satisfaction among the members of his Lodge, and we doubt not will be popular throughout the province. It is a little singular the late Provincial Grand Secretary, Bro. John Wright Carr, was an initiate of the Angel; and it is a further remarkable circumstance that the present P.G. Treasurer for Essex, the W. Bro. Burton, and Bro. Carr first saw the light on the same evening and in the same Lodge.

H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W. Grand Master, has consented to preside at a dinner in aid of the funds for the Oral Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, on the 13th of March, at Willis's Rooms, King-street, St. James's. Numerous noblemen and gentlemen, distinguished in the Order, are Stewards. Tickets, 21s, can be obtained of Bro. W. Van Praagh, 12 Fitzroy-square.

We are pleased to announce that Bro. E. Moss, Director of the Masonic Quartette, has been appointed tenor to the Foundling Chapel.

The Consecration of the Skelmersdale Lodge, No. 1658, will take place on Friday, the 9th March, at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell, at four o'clock precisely. V.W. Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, will perform the ceremony, and instal Bro. Samuel James Harvey, the W.M. designate.

THE FESTIVAL OF THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE final meeting of the Board of Stewards was held on Monday, the 26th ult., Bro. J. Marsh Case J.G.D., the President, in the chair. The Hon. Sec., Bro. Jas. Terry, announced that the total amount subscribed was £12,836 14s, with five lists to come in. He hoped to have to communicate the pleasing fact that it had reached £13,000. The accounts were audited, and found very satisfactory, leaving a balance (out of the money paid as Stewards' fees) of £47. The following propositions were duly carried:—

1. Proposed by Bro. J. Stevens, and seconded by Bro. H. M. Levy:—That the cordial thanks of this Board are due, and are hereby given, to the Right Hon. the Earl of Shrewsbury, Prov. G.M. for Staffordshire, for his great exertions in promoting the interests of this Institution by his powerful advocacy of its claims whilst acting as Chairman of the Annual Festival, held on the 12th February, in which he was nobly supported by brethren from all parts of the country, resulting in the munificent sum of £12,656 13s being announced on the occasion. That a copy hereof be forwarded to his Lordship.

2. Proposed by Bro. W. A. Tharp, and seconded by Bro. G. W. Verry:—That the best thanks of the Board of Stewards be given to the V.W. Bro. J. Marsh Case J.G.D., the President to the Beard, for the very admirable manner in which he has discharged the duties of the office, and for the kind courtesy he had evinced towards the brethren when presiding at their various meetings.

3. Proposed by Bro. Hicks, and seconded by Bro. W. J. Murlis:—That the thanks of the Board of Stewards be given to the V.W. Bro. Samuel Tomkins, Grand Treasurer, Treasurer to the Board, for the admirable manner in which he had discharged the duties of the office, and for the courtesy he had shown towards the brethren.

4. Proposed by Bro. J. G. Stevens, and seconded by Bro. W. Murlis:—That £10 be given from the balance on the account to Bro. G. Knill, and that a £10 Life Governorship be presented to V.W. Bro. J. M. Case, the balance to be handed over to Bro. James Terry, the Hon. Secretary.

A cordial and unanimous vote of thanks was given to Bro. James Terry, the Hon. Secretary, for his unremitting exertions in promoting the interests of the Institution, and the great success that attended the Festival. Bro. Terry thanked the brethren for their kind expressions; he hoped they would never have a worse Chairman or a worse Festival. The brethren severally congratulated him, and expressed a hope that next year the amount might be increased. There were present Bros. W. A. Tharp, Godtschalk, J. Stevens, Hicks, E. Spooner, Lancaster, W. Kirk, G. W. Verry, C. G. Hill, T. Ross, W. J. Murlis, H. Higgins, J. W. Watts, and H. M. Levy.

Royal Athelstan Lodge, No. 19.—The members of the Past Masters' Club attached to this Lodge held their annual meeting at the Green Dragon Hotel, Bishopsgate-street, on Tuesday, 27th February, in celebration of the anniversary of the Centenary of the Lodge, which was founded in 1769. Bro. Charles Tyler, P.M. 19, 66, presided. Bro. Edward B. Grabham, P.M. P.S.G.W. Middlesex, having completed his year of office as Master of the Lodge, was formally admitted a member of the Club, and invited by the President to partake with the brethren of a loving cup, presented that evening by Bro. W. M. Bywater, P.M. and Secretary of the Lodge, to whom was accorded a sincere vote of thanks for his very handsome and acceptable gift. Some customary toasts followed, after which Bro. D. Nicholson P.M. was unanimously elected President for the ensuing year.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—Held its weekly meeting at its new quarters, the Old Rodney's Head, 12 Old-street (Goswell-road end), on Monday last, in a very large and convenient room. Angel Lodge, No. 51.—The monthly meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday evening, the 27th ult., when, doubtless on account of the extremely cold weather, the attendance was somewhat limited. In the absence of the W.M. (Bro. G. Gard Pye) upon his wedding-tour, the chair of K.S. was ably filled by the W. Bro. Alfred Welch I.P.M., W. Bro. Alfred Cobb P.M. and Treas. acting as S.W. There were also present—Bros. T. J. Ralling J.W., S. Chaplin P.M., Fred. A. Cole P.M., W. P. Lewes P.M., W. Richey P.M., J. J. C. Turner Organist, I. Harris S.D., G. Mercer as I.G., U. B. Mattacks, A. R. Staines, H. Sandford, T. M. Bear, W. Bray, E. Hennemeyer, Jas. Collins, D. Hill jun., A. O. Stopes, and C. Gunne Tyler. The business of the evening comprised two passings and a raising, which were carried out in the able manner in which Bro. Welch always conducts the ceremonies. The Secretary read a circular letter from the Worshipful the D.P.G.M., announcing that Bro. T. J. Ralling J.W., and Secretary of the Lodge, had been appointed by the R.W.P.G.M. acting Provincial Grand Secretary, vice Bro. John Wright Carr deceased. The W.M. congratulated Bro. Ralling upon his appointment to so distinguished an office in the Province, and expressed his conviction that the nomination would be received with pleasure, not only by the members of the Angel Lodge and its sister in the town—the United Lodge—but also by the brethren of the whole Province. A candidate for initiation and a joining member having been proposed, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment, the "social hour" being greatly enlivened by some capital vocal music by some of the brethren, under the direction of Bro. Turner.

Prosperity Lodge of Instruction, No. 65.—Held at Bro. Maidwell's, Hercules Tavern, Loadenhall-street, on 27th February. Present—Bros. Edgington answered the questions leading to the 2nd degree. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and Bro. Edgington passed. Bro. Hulett answered the questions leading to the 3rd degree. Bro. Daniel vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Horsley. The Lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and Bro. Horsley worked the ceremony in a very able manner, Bro. Hulett as candidate. Bro. Daniel resumed the chair. The Lodge was closed down to the 1st degree. Bros. Edgington, Horsley, Dudley, Williams were elected members. Bro. Lees was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks was recorded to Bro. Daniel for the able manner in which he filled the chair.

Commercial Chapter, No. 79.—Held an emergency meeting in their Chapter-rooms, 30 Hope-street. In the absence from the city of the First Principal, the Chapter was opened in the Mark degree by Comps. J. Munro, J. M. Oliver, and R. Brodie, when Bro. J. McInnis of 360 was advanced to that degree by J. Duthie. A Lodge of Excellent Masters was then opened, and the same was duly indoctrinated. The Chapter was then opened by Comps. J. Duthie, J. Munro, and R. Brodie, when the same gentleman was duly exalted to that degree.

Prudent Brethren Lodge, No. 145.—The first regular meeting of this ancient Lodge, since the installation, was held on Tuesday the 27th ult., at Freemason's Hall, Gt. Queen-street. Bro. W. Moult W.M., Haslett S.W., Hughes J.W., G. S. States P.G.S. P.M. Secretary, Manly Assist. Sec., Leggett S.D., Lister J.D., W. Wilkinson I.G. Past Master's Bros. E. H. Thiellay, T. Bull, G. Parkess. Bros. A. Hugon, W. Wayre, H. Hall, Dowson, T. Cherer, Parns, &c. The Lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed. The report of the audit was read, and showed a satisfactory account, with a balance of £64 15s 9d. Messrs. Read, Head and Parnacott were initiated into the Order. Bros. F. Lee, J. B. Lambe, W. A. Lefevre, and H. F. Davis were passed; and Bros. Graves, Dawson and Groom were raised. Great credit is due to the W.M. for his careful working on this the first occasion of his occupying the chair to work the ceremonies. It was then proposed, seconded and carried, pursuant to notice of motion, "That the initiation fee of this Lodge, on and after the regular meeting in March, be £15 15s, and from the same date the joining fee be £12 12s for each member." The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren separated. There was no banquet. Bros. T. Benson 521 and H. M. Levy P.M. 188 were present as Visitors.

Caveac Chapter, No. 176.—The regular Convocation of this well-established Chapter was held at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, E.C., on Saturday, 24th February. The Chapter was opened by Comps. G. K. Lemann Z., J. B. Sarrell H., Dr. W. S. Wyman P.Z. as J., F. Walters P.Z. P.P. 1st A.S. Middlesex Treasurer. The Companions were then admitted. The minutes of the previous convocation were read and unanimously confirmed. Bro. Rudolph Liebmann 1423, Era Lodge, was duly exalted into Royal Arch Masonry. The meetings of the Sphinx and Caveac Chapters clashing on this occasion, caused the absence of the J., Comps. W. M. Goss and P. A. Nairne P.Z.; and, as many of the Comps. belong to both Chapters, a notice of motion was given by the Treasurer, that the meeting in October be abolished or altered to September. It was stated that the Sphinx had changed all their other meetings, which fell on the same days as this Chapter; but it was found that they were unable to alter their October one, consequently, to meet that difficulty, the Caveac meeting might be changed or abolished. Great regret was expressed at the unavoidable absence of Comps. A. Williams C.E. 1st A.S., Dr. C. Browne 2nd A.S., whose professional duties prevented their attendance. It was unanimously resolved that Comp. R. Liebmann be the Steward to represent the Chapter at the forthcoming Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Girls. At the earnest solicitations of the Treasurer, Comp. F. Walters agreed to accept the Stewardship, and to become a Life Governor of the Institution. It was understood some one or two brethren would be introduced at the next meeting, who were ready and anxious to be exalted in this Chapter. The business of the meeting being ended, the Chapter was closed, and adjourned to Saturday, 24th May.

St. James's Union Chapter, No. 180.—A Convocation of this Chapter was held on Tuesday, the 27th ult., at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Comps. J. R. Stacey M.E.Z., W. Smithett H., W. C. Parsons J., H. Reid P.Z. S.E., Knyvett P.S., N. A. Annett 1st Assist., A. Cameron, P.Z. Treas.; P.Z.'s L. Herf I.P.Z., H. Stacey, R. F. Hill; and Comps. Marner, E. Farwig, Pink, A. Godfrey, Thatcher, &c. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. A ballot was taken for the admission of Bro. A. H. Smith, which was unanimously in his favour. He was duly exalted in R. A. Masonry. The working of the M.E.Z., Principals, and Officers was perfectly rendered. Comp. A. Cameron P.Z. gave the mystical portion very impressively. The election of Principals and officers took place, and were unanimously in favour of Comps. W. Smithett Z., W. C. Parsons H., Knyvett J., A. Cameron P.Z. Treas., H. Reed P.Z. S.E., Pillin S.N., A. Annett P.S., and Gilbert Janitor. Comp. Smithett proposed, and Comp. Cameron seconded, that a P.Z. jewel be presented to Comp. J.R. Stacey M.E.Z., on his retiring from the chair, for the able and efficient manner he had conducted the duties of the Chapter in every respect during his year of office, which was carried unanimously. Comps. Morgan, E. Farwig, and C. Smith were elected auditors. The Chapter was then closed, and the Companions, 30 in number, sat down to a very sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. Dawkins, and superintended by Bro. Knill. Grace having been said, the M.E.Z. gave the usual Loyal and Royal Arch toasts. The Chapter was always pleased at the accession of members. On this occasion he had great pleasure in proposing the toast of the newly exalted Companion. His recommendation and introduction was sufficient to show they were pleased to hail him as a member. Comp. Smith, in a very excellent speech, responded. Although, on his introduction into Freemasonry, he was fully impressed with it, the solemnity of the ceremony, so impressively delivered that evening, would never be effaced from his memory. The M.E.Z. proposed the toast of the Visitors, to which Comps. Barfield, Pearson, and H. M. Levy severally responded. Comps. L. Herf I.P.Z. then proposed the toast of the M.E.Z., and spoke of the admirable manner he had conducted the duties of the Chapter. He hoped he might be spared for many years among them, for he was one worthy of their regard. The M.E.Z., in reply, thanked Comp. Herf for his kind remarks, and the Companions for the manner they received the toast. In presiding over them it was a labour of love. He hoped to meet them for many years to cement that bond of friendship that existed among them, and be in the proud position of a Past Principal. He then asked the Companions to drink a toast the he was sure would be received with feelings of great pleasure, an that was the H. and J. The H. had been elected as the future Z., a post he is qualified to fill. The J. Comp. Parsons has been elected to a higher position, and they had seen how he had worked the ceremony that evening. He had passed the chair of the Chapter with credit to himself and satisfaction to the brethren, and this was but a stepping-stone to the chair of Z., which he was sure he was qualified to fill. Comp. Parsons briefly and appropriately returned thanks for the toast. The M.E.Z. then proposed the P.Z.'s Comps. L. Herf, Cameron, Stacey, and Hill; he mentioned their names with feelings of respect. He personally knew that their services were always at the command of the Comps. Comp. H. A. Stacey P.Z. responded. The M.E.Z. proposed the Treasurer Comp. Cameron, and H. Reed the S.E. The former Companion is one that can rarely be equalled in Lodge or Chapter, he is sa cui fait in his duties, and always looks after their interests. The same remarks apply to Comp. Reed, but in a different, and perhaps, a more ordinary capacity. Whatever he undertakes is successfully carried out. Comp. Cameron and Reed both returned thanks for the toast in excellent speeches. The M.E.Z. then proposed the Acting P.S. and the rest of the officers. He might be congratulated on his officers, for they would enable him to carry out the duties of the chair. Comps. Knyvett and Annett severally returned thanks, and the Janitor's toast concluded a very agreeable and harmonious evening, Companions Warner, Smith, and Hobson singing some very excellent songs.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—The annual meeting was held at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington, N., on 24th February. Bro. Geo. Cooper, W.M. of the Percy Lodge, presided, assisted by Bros. Pearcy S.W., P. Stock J.W., and J. A. Powell I.G. The Lodge having been regularly opened, the minutes of the previous meeting were confirmed. Bro. Pearcy, with the assistance of Bro. James Terry and brethren, worked several sections of the first Lecture. The Secretary then read the report of the past year, by which it appears that the Lodge, having been in abeyance several years, was resuscitated in February 1876, when Bro. James Terry P.G.D.C. Hertfordshire presided, and rehearsed the ceremonies of consecration and installation. During the past year 180 members have been elected, who have attended in the aggregate over 1000 times. In addition to defraying the expenses of new furniture and clothing, the Lodge has become a Life Governor of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. Bro. Robert Halford was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. C. K. Killick Secretary. A vote of thanks was given by the Percy Lodge to the officers of the Instruction Lodge for the efficient manner in which they had fulfilled their duties. Bros. James Self 204 and P.G.S.W. Essex, Gibbs 1178, and W. Regan 192, were elected members. Bro. Bedwell will preside this day. The Lodge adjourned at eight o'clock to the annual supper, at which about fifty members were present. A very pleasant evening was spent, being enlivened by some excellent singing by Bros. J. Constable, Mallord, Beasted, &c., and an excellent reading by Bro. H. P. Isaac, from the "Lady of Lyons." The Lodge meets every Saturday at eight o'clock, and closes at ten. Tram cars from the City pass the door.

Israel Lodge of Instruction, No. 205.—Held at Bro. Yetton's, The Rising Sun, Globe-road, Bethnal-green. At the usual meeting on the 25th ult., the Fifteen Sections were worked, nearly 50 brethren being present. Bros. Hewlett W.M., T. J. Barnes S.W., Appleby J.W., T. Austin I.P.M., W. Musto Hon. Secretary. The sections of the first lecture were worked by Bros. Lovelock, Calver, Appleby, Ashburner, Rudderforth, Webb and Barnes; the second by Bros. Taylor, Musto, Defries, Myers and Baxter; the third by Bros. Lazarus, Job and Cohen. After the Master had risen for the third time, Bro. Austin P.M. expressed his gratification at the manner in which the W.M. had performed his duties in the chair, and at the same time proposed that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes for his efficient services, and that he be elected an honorary member of the Lodge; this was seconded by Bro. Appleby J.W. Bro. Barnes P.M. on rising to put the motion, said that he had never experienced so much pleasure in hearing the Fifteen Sections worked as he had on this occasion. He saw around him a large number of brethren, nearly all of whom he looked upon as his children in Freemasonry; they had devoted a great deal of time to learn the ritual from him as a Preceptor, and the excellent manner in which the W.M. put the questions was such as to merit the warmest thanks of the brethren. The motion was carried unanimously. The W.M. proposed, and Bro. Yetton seconded, that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to the brethren who had assisted him in the working of the sections, which was carried unanimously. The Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned to the 4th inst.

Virtue and Silence Lodge, No. 332.—The installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, the 22nd inst., at the White Lion Hotel, Hadleigh, Bro. A. J. Grimwade W.M. in the chair. A. Pettit jun., P.P.G.D.C., F. Spalding P.P.G.S.D., and W. Gardiner P.P.G. Pursuivant. The Lodge having been opened in the three degrees, Bro. Grimwade, in his usual impressive and able manner, installed the S.W., Bro. W. C. Eltham, as W.M., who then invested his officers as follow:—Bro. A. J. Grimwade I.P.M., T. Chisnal S.W., F. Grimwade J.W., W. Hart Treasurer, H. W. Hitchcock Organist, W. Mackney Secretary, S. Cooper S.D., A. A. Seaborne J.D., J. King I.G., and W. Kersey Tyler. The W.M., in investing his officers, addressed a few appropriate and encouraging remarks to each, whilst the brethren frequently gave expression to their appreciation of the selection made. Bro. Hart, on behalf of the members of the Lodge, presented Bro. A. J. Grimwade with a valuable Past Master's jewel, subscribed for by the brethren, to mark their recognition of his efficient services during the past year, which had been the most successful and prosperous one the Lodge ever had. Bro. Grimwade, in feeling terms, expressed his thanks for the gift, which would be highly prized by him, and his regret at leaving the chair, although he felt sure that, in his successor, the Lodge had one who would ably perform the duties of W.M. The Lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to the banqueting-room, where a most excellent dinner was provided by Bro. Aldous. After the removal of the cloth, the W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, which were duly honoured, and a very happy evening was spent. The Lodge recently sent Bro. Boby, who is this year one of the Stewards to the Institution for Aged Freemasons and their Widows, the sum of £5; and during the evening it was decided to forward another £5, which would entitle the Lodge to a Life Governorship. The broken column was consequently sent round, and the necessary sum handed in to the W.M. A memorial to the R.W.P.G.M. for Suffolk, Lord Waveney, was signed by all the brethren present, praying that the Provincial Grand Lodge, which this year is to be held at Hadleigh, may be fixed for a Friday, that being the most convenient day in the week for the brethren in the province.

The Thorntree Lodge will, we doubt not, flourish under its new rulers.

Pearcy W.M., Lane S.W., Powell J.W., Crouch S.D., Kent J.D., Webb I.G., Townsend Sec., Bolton, Simpson, Smith, Crellin, and A. W. Fenner. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was ably rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Smith being candidate. Questions leading to 2nd were answered. Bro. A. W. Fenner worked the 2nd section of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Powell 186, and Bro. Crouch 1297 were duly elected members of the Lodge. Bro. Lane was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. It was agreed to by the brethren that the first annual supper of this Lodge of Instruction take place at Bro. Bolton's, as above, on the third Friday in March. Full particulars, with names of Stewards and price of tickets, will be duly announced in next week's number of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. All business being ended, Lodge was closed in due form and adjourned.

Asaph Chapter, No. 1319.—A convocation of this Chapter was held on Monday, the 19th ult., at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Comps. E. Stanton Jones M.E.Z., C. Coote P.Z., H. Dodd J., Harry Cox, Arthur Swanborough, E. J. Henson, &c. The minutes of the former convocation were read and confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Bros. Tisley D.C. Star Lodge, No. 1275, W. Welsman P.M. South Middlesex, and S.W. 1589, which were unanimously in their favour. Bro. John Caulford had been previously accepted. These were duly exalted into Royal Arch Masonry. There being no other business before the Chapter, it was closed, and the brethren separated.

Sphinx Chapter, No. 1329.—A Convocation of this Chapter took place at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New-road, on 25th February. The Chapter was opened in due form by the retiring M.E.Z., Comp. Nairne, and the minutes of last meeting confirmed. A Board of installed Principals was formed, and the M.E.Z. elect, Dr. Bedolfe was installed by Comp. Nairne. The new M.E.Z. then installed Comp. Vockins as H. and Comp. Goss as J., and appointed Comps. Reynolds Treasurer, Temple Scribe E., Cobham Scribe N., and Middlemas as Principal Sojourner, who in turn appointed as his assistants Comps. Bryant and Bickerton. Comp. Harrison was re-appointed Janitor. The M.E.Z. then presented the P.Z. Comp. Nairne with the usual jewel, as a slight memorial of his very efficient and able services to the Chapter during the past year. Bros. Permewan, Webb, and Ranacres, were then exalted to the Royal Arch degree. The business of the Chapter ended, the Comps. retired to the banqueting-room, where the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts having been disposed of, the M.E.Z., in proposing the toast of the retiring First Principal, desired to express the high esteem in which he was held by the Chapter, and its sense of the services he had rendered. Comp. Nairne might be truly looked upon as a conscript father of the Lodge; for, under his fostering care, it had sprung to life, and assumed the vigour of manhood whilst as yet a child. He knew and felt that the toast would be worthily responded to. The M.E.Z., in proposing the health of the Second and Third Principals, Comps. Vockins and Goss, alluded to the services Comp. Vockins had rendered to the Chapter, of which he might be called the Sponsor. He had laboured honestly for it, and all must esteem him for his work. The M.E.Z. had long known the W.M. of the Lodge in which Comp. Vockins was initiated, and from the character of its members it was an honour to have had such a Masonic origin. On proposing the health of the Visitors, to which Comp. Bickerstaff replied, he expressed regret that Comp. Constable had been compelled to leave, but hoped the Comps. would not forget his benevolent aim of obtaining £1,000 for the Boys, by the sale of 1s tickets, each giving a chance of a Life Governorship to its holder. Comp. Constable was one of the most energetic Masons in London, and he hoped the members of this Chapter would appreciate and aid his noble undertaking. He also read a letter from Comp. Hughan, regretting the meeting was beyond the length of "his cable tow." He referred to Comp. Hughan as performing a most useful part in collecting traditions of modern Masonry; he had not undertaken his task a day too soon, for in these days of change passing events are soon forgotten. For his own part, he thought Masonry too timid of investigation, but if it were undertaken with an earnest desire after truth, a strict observance of the rules of criticism, and a careful definition of what is to be taken as fact, and what as allegory, united to an honest confession of the difficulties surrounding our position, it had all to gain, and nothing to fear. Men like Brother Hughan are not always to be found. Could not Grand Lodge be induced to found an annual lecture or oration, to illustrate Masonry, its history, traditions and objects, and thus clear away the rubbish with which our ears are too often assailed? An honour of this kind would be highly esteemed, for men will not work to be snubbed and slighted. The M.E.Z. here passed round an autograph letter of the historian Guizot on Masonry, and reminded the Comps. of a favourite toast both in Lodge and Chapter—viz., that of their excellent Treasurer, Comp. Reynolds, than whom no man more kindhearted, or more worthy of esteem for his high character, existed. Whilst he continued to perform the duties he had undertaken the Chapter would prosper. The next toast was that of "The Principal Sojourner, Middlemas," a Comp. and friend whom each had learned to appreciate, whether in Chapter, Lodge, or the civil affairs of the outside world, judging by the effect produced upon the audience of the two most effective speeches he had ever heard; one was delivered by Daniel O'Connell, and the other by Comp. Middlemas, who was an exact and excellent worker, and an honour to the Chapter. All the officers had well done their duty, and each Companion had striven with them to bring the Chapter to that condition of efficiency and respect which it had undoubtedly won. The repast was excellent, and a very pleasant evening was spent by the Companions, when, at length the Janitor appeared, and with his finale closed the scene.

Llanidloes Lodge, No. 1582.—This Lodge held its regular meeting at the Trewythen Arms Hotel, Llanidloes, on 14th February. The Lodge was opened by the W.M. Bro. W. Collender J.G.D.C. of North Wales and Shropshire, supported by Bros. W. A. Davies S.W., John Kitto J.W. and Hon. Secretary, W. H. Williams S.D., J. H. Webb acting J.D., W. Russell I.G., J. Trewin Tyler. There were also present Bros. E. Davies, Hugh Jones, Owen Williams, F. Britton W.M. 1594, E. J. Williams 1072, &c. The minutes of the last regular Lodge having been read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for Mr. Thomas Davies, who was duly elected and initiated. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, when Bro. Owen Williams, having proved himself qualified, was entrusted and retired. The Lodge was opened in the third degree, when Bro. Owen Williams was re-admitted and raised. The Lodge was afterwards resumed to the first degree, when the W.M., on rising, said, since they last met it had pleased the Great Disposer of all Events to remove from amongst them one to whom the Llanidloes Lodge must always feel deeply indebted, for when they first met on the 8th of June last, they passed a vote of thanks to their late Bro. Goldsboro for his great services towards them in consecrating their Lodge; also investing him as their immediate Past Master, in addition to which they asked him to accept a further compliment, and elected him an honorary member. But death had commenced with their roll early, and he trusted that the G.A.O.T.U. would spare them for a very long time before they had to make a similar announcement. It was now his melancholy duty to propose a vote of condolence to the widow and family of their late Bro. Goldsboro; also that the Lodge assume mourning emblems until the May meeting. To most of the brethren of the Lodge Bro. Goldsboro was known only by name, until the day that he came amongst them to consecrate the Lodge, but to himself he had been known long before his entrance into Freemasonry; he had not only to join in their sympathy, but to mourn the loss of a dear and valued friend. When he told them that in the province of North Wales and Shropshire, their late brother had consecrated upwards of a dozen Lodges during the past twelve years, he was sure theirs was not the only Lodge in which he would be missed, and the want of his kindly counsel and advice would be felt. His feelings would not permit him to say anything more, and he had only to ask them to pass a vote of condolence to the widow and family of their late brother, who had gone to that "bourne from whence no traveller returns," and who was now, he trusted, in that Grand Lodge above, where the world's Great Architect lives and reigns for ever and ever. He felt sure that the Province of North Wales and Shropshire would not soon forget the works of their departed brother. The motion was seconded most feelingly by Bro. W. A. Davies S.W., and carried in solemn silence. It was then proposed by the W.M., and seconded by Bro. J. Kitto J.W., that the best thanks of the Lodge were due to Bro. D. P. Owen I.P.M. 998, for the present he had made to the Lodge of twenty copies of the "Masonic Calendar for North Wales and Shropshire." Mr. William Sutcliffe, of Llandiloes, was proposed for initiation, after which the Lodge was closed, and adjourned to Wednesday, 14th of March.

The Bayard Lodge, No. 1615, met at the Masonic Hall, 33 Golden-square, on Monday, 26th February. W. Bro. Lieut-Colonel H. Somerville Burney, P.M. P.P.J.W. for Essex, W.M. Present—Captain Loeson S.W., Alfred E. T. Watson J.W., the Rev. Charles J. Ridgeway P.M. P.P.G.C. Worcester, Chaplain, Frank Richardson P.M. Treasurer, Captain Portlock Dadson Secretary, Robert Fyers J.D., James Keene P.M. D.C., Francis C. Compton Organist, Major Wemyss I.G., Captain N. G. Philips P.M., Major Shadwell H. Clerke P.M., the Chevalier Habicht P.M., Hugh H. Rinch P.M., Lieut. A. G. Walker R.A., C. N. Longcroft, Lieut. G. Le C. Egerton R.N., W. Bexley Thorne, E. B. Bernard, Herr Edward Sauerbrey, the Chevalier Lloyd K.S.G., Arthur Spicer, F. Calrow, C. Malcolm Wood, Captain S. C. Pratt R.A., W. B. Lethbridge, Captain H. S. Andrews, F. C. Maitland, Rev. G. Sutton Flack, Nicholas Herbert, C. P. Kempe, Captain S. J. Dyer and Major A. Wood. Visitors—Colonel Randolph, 1383, Major F. J. Ricarde-Seaver, and Pelham Bullock, 214. Bros. Spicer, Bernard, and the Chevalier Lloyd K.S.G. were raised to the sublime degree of Master Masons; Bros. the Rev. G. Sutton Flack, F. Cave Maitland, and Nicholas Herbert were passed to the degree of Fellow Craft; and Lieut. G. Le C. Egerton R.N. and Mr. C. N. Longcroft were initiated. The W.M. presented a handsome banner to the Lodge, and the sum of one hundred guineas was voted as a donation to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls.

Glasgow Provincial Royal Arch Festival.—St. John's Hall, kindly lent for the occasion, was well filled on Wednesday the 21st ult., by the members of the various Chapters in the province of Lanark. A most excellent repast was provided, by Comp. Galloway, to which full justice was done. After the cloth was cleared came the intellectual feast. Comp. F. A. Barrow, Provincial Grand Superintendent, took the chair, supported by Comps. W. H. Smith P.G.H., J. F. Mitchell P.G.J. On the dais were also seated Comps. H. Inglis, of Torsonce D.G. 1st Principal of Scotland, L. Mackersey G. Scribe E., and Comp. R. S. Brown, 1st P. of Chapter 83, as a deputation from the Supreme G.C. The other provincial officers present were Comps. James Balfour P.G.S.E., G. W. Wheeler P.G.S.N., T. Halket P.G.T., T. M. Campbell P.G. 1st S., D. Lamb P.G. 2nd S., G. McDonald P.G. 3rd S., G. Thallon P.G.C., J. Duthie P.G.S. of W., J. Miller P.Z. 50, J. Louttit 50, H. Mackenzie J. of 50, J. Duthie P.Z. 67, J. Campbell Z., W. Harper, R. Prout J., and J. Fash S.E. 69, G. W. Wheeler Z. 73, G. McDonald I.P.Z. 73, J. Kinnird H. 73, W. Gunn J. 73, J. Balfour S.E., G. Muir Z. 87, D. Lamb Z. 79, R. Brodie J. 79, T. Halket Z. 113, G. Thallon Z. 119, D. Baker Z. 143, H. J. Shields P.Z. 143, G. Dyer T., and C. Meak 1st S. The P.S. expressed the pleasure he felt in presiding over such a large and influential meeting of the Arch Masons of the Province, more especially as they were favoured with a deputation from the Supreme G.C., the Deputy Grand Principal, and the G.S.E.; he then commented on the state of the Order in the province. After this due honour was paid to the toasts of the Queen, the Prince of Wales, and that of the Army and Navy and Volunteers. The latter toast was ably responded to by Comp. Baker Z. of 143, as a non-commissioned officer of twenty years' standing, and now a volunteer, who could testify to the efficiency of both arms to do all that was required of them. The Supreme Grand Chapter of Scotland was then given from the chair. In replying in a high eulogistic speech, Comp. H. Inglis D.G.P. expressed the pleasure he experienced in being present that evening at the gathering of Royal Arch Masons of the West of Scotland, although he was suffering from a violent attack of neuralgia. He felt half a citizen of Glasgow, especially as he saw in the chair his old friend Barrow, than whom a better Mason whether in the Blue or Red, he did not think existed in Scotland. He was glad to corroborate his testimony as to the statement of the satisfactory state of the Order, as compared with that of the Craft, as they were in perfectly good working order, and everything in harmony; and this they would be while they continue to have such officers as those they now had, like his good friend Mackersey. Comp. Smith P.G.H. then gave "the other Grand Chapters." He was glad that those of England and Ireland were as prosperous as themselves; as for those on the other side of the Atlantic, he could not say much, but he believed that they were doing well, there were a number of them, and all prospering, even as themselves. "The Provincial Grand Chapter of Lanarkshire," was then proposed by Comp. Inglis D.G.Z. He held this to be the toast of the night, and he felt proud to have the honour of giving it, for it was the largest Province, and he believed it was one of the best, if not the very best of them all, and presided over by one of the best of working Masons, who had the esteem of them all, and was always honoured when he came to the East. He was one who knew Masonry from its foundation up to its very summit—up to the 32nd degree. Comp. Barrow acknowledged the compliment paid to him, as the head of the Province, and to the Comps. who had so loyally supported him in all his efforts to carry out the true principles of the Order. Comp. Mitchell P.G.J. then gave "The Daughter Chapters." If it was not for the Daughter Chapters, neither the Provincial nor the Supreme could exist. The Order was deserving of support, and every M.M. ought to be a R.A. Mason; it was the completion of the 3rd degree, and he trusted every one would exert himself till there were as many R.A.'s as they now had Master Mason's, for he felt that the Provincial Chapter was now composed of men of energy who would do all that was necessary to advance the best interests of the Order, and make it what it should be. Comp. Louttit H. replied on behalf of Chapter 50. They had not been quite so successful this last two years as formerly, but she was now regaining her former prestige. Comp. Baker returned thanks for 143; Comp. Duthie P.Z. replied for Chapter 67. He was of opinion something was necessary to give it a higher standing in the eyes of the Craft; for his part, he did not fully understand Masonry till he took the Royal Arch. Comp. Campbell, Z. of 69, was fully impressed with the necessity of something being done to improve them, and stated he was glad that the Order was progressing now. Comp. Wheeler remarked that 73 was in a very flourishing state, his officers were all very ably supporting him, and from his experience he was able to say that the Order was already taking a higher standing. For his own part, during the two-and-a-half years he had had the honour of filling the principal chair, he had himself exalted in his own and other Chapters, eighty-seven, and been present at, and assisted in the exaltation of eighty others; so if they were only true to themselves, to the Order, and their principles, they would get the higher status required. Comp. Muir, as Z. of 87, was pleased at being present for the first time at this re-union. Comp. Lamb, on behalf of 79, said that having reconstructed the Chapter, they meant it should be second to none. Comp. Thallon, for 119, said they were progressing. Comp. T. Halket, for 113, said, having now a new hall, they should progress still more rapidly. W. Smith P.G.H. gave "The other Orders of Masonry." Comp. Mackersey replied, saying it was a herculean task, if he went into the whole of them, so at this late hour, he would only just sketch them; but he thought that he must say a word about the next, viz.: the Royal Order, and also that of the Rose Croix, by advising them to establish a Chapter of the 18th degree. It would afford the members of Supreme Grand Council, great pleasure to come to Glasgow and establish one; all the Colonies were getting them, and he did not like to see Glasgow left out in the cold. Comp. J. Halket P.G.T. gave "Visiting Brethren," showing the good that resulted from such visits. This was the first time for several years they had a visit from the Supreme. Comp. R. S. Brown replied it was a great pleasure for them to be present, and he thought that it was a mutual benefit, both for the Visitors and the visited, and trusted that the members would return the visits, and come to the Supreme Chapter next month. Comp. Mackersey then gave "the Benevolent Institutions." Too often he found that charity began, and often ended at home, but he found that in Glasgow they really had something like charity, and it set an excellent example to all other Provinces in this respect, for without charity, what was our system but a set of mystic rites? Comp. J. Thomson replied, it was a source of pride to him, that he had conceived the idea of this Benevolent Institution, he had got it established, had watched its early growth, and now was proud to see its success; they wanted to relieve true distress, but discourage those who long had tried to live by imposture. He had lived to see it a perfect success, and now it was an honour to the Craft. Comp. Campbell P.G. 1st S., proposed the "Masonic Press," regretting that they had not a purely Scotch Masonic Press, but he hoped that that would soon be remedied by the establishment of one. Comp. Wheeler replied on behalf of the "FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE." Comp. D. Lamb P.G. 2nd S., then in a highly interesting speech, proposed "the Ladies." Comp. Wm. Ferguson, of Chapter 69, replied. Votes of thanks were then given to the Chairman, Croupiers, and the Committee, who had ably carried out the arrangements during the evening. Comps. Miller and Halket at the harmonium, and Halket, Prout, Muir and MacConichie and W. Harden, by their vocal abilities contributed, to the enjoyment of the evening.

Provincial Chapter of Lanarkshire.—Held its quarterly Convocation on Friday, 23rd February, F. A. Barrow P.G. Superintendent, presiding. In the absence of the P.G. H. and J., their places were filled by Comps. G. Muir Z 87, and Baker Z 143. There were also present—J. Balfour P.G.S.E., G. W. Wheeler Z 73 P.G.S.N., T. Halket, P.G.T., T. M. Campbell P.G. 1st S., D. Lamb P.G. 2nd S., G. McDonald P.G. 3rd S., J. Duthie P.G.S. of W., J. M. Oliver P.G.S.B., and J. B. Handie P.G. Janitor. Arrangements were made for the annual visitations of the Chapter, after which an interesting discussion, on the present status of the Mark degree, and also the mode of working it, was entered into. The principal speakers were C. McKenzie, J. Duthie, T. M. Campbell, D. Lamb, G. McDonald, T. Halket, G. W. Wheeler, and William Harding. The P.G. Superintendent was pleased that the discussion had taken place. It had tended to throw light on dark and different subjects, and with regard to the two modes of working, he held both to be constitutional, the one, though perhaps a little in excess of the recognised ritual, was not unconstitutional; and it tended to make the candidate more fully understand the real merits of the degree.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—Was held at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill, on Tuesday last, under the following Comps.:—J. Constable Z., C. Nash H., J. K. Stead J., T. W. White S.E., E. Gottheil S.N., Major Finney P.S. The ceremony of exaltation was ably rehearsed by the three Principals, Comp. Lindus acting as candidate. The following Comps. were elected to preside for the ensuing fortnight:—J. K. Stead Z., C. Nash H., H. W. Lindus J., S. P. Catterson S.W. The time of meeting having been altered to seven o'clock, it is hoped that hour may better suit the convenience of those who desire to attend.

Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held at the Blue Anchor Tavern, 3 Coleman-street, on the 28th ult, at the hour of seven p.m. Bro. Fenner presided as W.M., and there were present Bros. Levy S.W., Walker J.W., Mason S.D., Abell J.D., Croakes I.G., Pitt Sec., J. Constable Treasurer, and Preceptor pro tem. P.M.'s Bros. E. Gomperts, N. Glockstein, S. Hiskman, and Bloomfield. The business of the evening was in the first place the rehearsal of the ceremony in the second degree, Bro. Groner acting as the candidate, and this was very ably rendered by the W.M. Bro. Abbott then gave his fourth lecture on the history of the Craft in England, noting the principal events which occurred during the Grand Mastership of the Earl of Loudon, the Earl of Darnsley, and the Marquis of Carnarvon. Among those to which he called special attention, were the initiation at Kew of H.R.H. Frederick Prince of Wales, in 1737, and that of the Crown Prince of Prussia, afterwards Frederick the Great, at Brunswick in 1738. He also referred to the establishment of Grand Lodge in Scotland in 1736, and the Bull of Pope Clement XII. against Freemasonry in 1738. Bro. Abbott then said he should at this point digress from the strict chronological order of events in order to give them as much light as possible on those internal dissensions which had occurred fitfully in the first instance, and towards 1738, more regularly and forcibly, and which ultimately led to the secession of a considerable number of brethren, who, in the course of a few years more, established in London a Grand Lodge of their own. As this, however, was a large subject, Bro. Abbott contented himself with mentioning some few particulars as to the Grand Lodge at York, so that his audience might avoid the common error of confounding with this the Grand Lodge "Ancients," first started in London in 1753. Bro. Abbott was listened to with that kind attention he always receives at the hands of the brethren. Then followed the most interesting event of the evening, namely, the presentation to our esteemed Bro. Constable of a testimonial in recognition of his services in originating and working the Tranquillity and Confidence Masonic Benevolent Association. The testimonial consisted of a receipt for a proof engraving, by Bro. Harty, of the installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales as G.M., together with a record on vellum and framed, of the presentation, and the circumstances under which it was made. Bro. Gomperts, in presenting this to Bro. Constable, expressed himself very fully as to the valuable services which Brother Constable had rendered to the cause of Masonic Charity. He considered it was owing entirely to his exertions that the Tranquillity and Confidence Masonic Benevolent Institution had proved so great a success. £700 had been the direct result, while a further sum of £1,800 had been collected through its influence. Bro. Gomperts thus showed the power for good of such associations was very great, and he considered that the immense increase in the annual subscriptions of late years was due to the energy of such brethren as Bro. Constable. If the committee of the Association had not been very attentive to their duties, it was not because they lacked the good will, but because they felt that in Bro. Constable they had a fellow-workman, who would desire nothing so much as that the principal share of the work should fall to his lot. Bro. Gompertz having concluded his excellent speech, Bro. Constable next expressed his thanks for the compliment that had been paid him. The work he had done had been to him a labour of love, and he should value the testimonial especially, because it furnished the clearest proof that his efforts on behalf of our Charitable Institutions had been so fully and so generally appreciated. He trusted that others would co-operate with him in the sacred cause of Charity, and that the testimonial he had just received would be regarded by his children as an incitement to go and do likewise. Bro. Gompertz then rose and presented a record of thanks on vellum and framed, to Bro. Bloomfield P.M., for his services as Treasurer to the Association, and in doing so paid the latter several well-merited compliments for the efficient manner in which he had discharged those duties in particular and his duty in general, both as a man and a Mason. Bro. Bloomfield acknowledged the testimonial in suitable terms and very feelingly, taking that opportunity also of paying Bro. Constable a compliment for his energy in this and similar works. Bro. Figell was elected a member. Bro. Lay was proposed and appointed W.M. for the next meeting, after which the Lodge was closed with the usual formalities.

Duke of Connaught Lodge of Instruction, No. 1524.—Held at the Havelock Hotel, Albion-road, Dalston, on Wednesday last. Present—Bros. Anshell W.M., Digman S.W., J. Lorkin J.W., Robinson S.D., B. Meyer J.D., C. Lorkin I.G., Fieldwick Preceptor, and Bros. Brown, Polack, Spencer, G. Ferrar, Brasted, Bonner, H. Meyer, Shackelton, Poole, O. Dietrich, Delafous, Streeton. The Lodge was opened in due form with prayer. Minutes of last Lodge meeting read and confirmed. The initiation ceremony was rehearsed, Bro. H. Meyer as candidate. The W.M. then vacated the chair, which was afterwards occupied by Bro. H. Meyer, who worked the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Delafous was elected a member. Bro. Digman was chosen W.M. for the ensuing week. A cordial vote of thanks was given to Bro. Anshell for the very able manner he had discharged the duties of W.M. The Lodge was then closed.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—With the weather cold, and the wind keen, what is to be done to keep the body healthy, to protect the weak, to renovate the diseased? The reply is, "Supplant the suppressed action of the skin, through an alterative like these pills, by a freer action of the liver, bowels, and kidneys." This will preserve the delicate internal structures from congestion and irritation, and carry off those noxious matters ordinarily transmitted through the integuments. A course so natural must commend itself, and must elicit the unqualified approbation of all who think and understand how nature invariably aids a digestive organ, by accomplishing its unperformed functions through increased activity elsewhere.

THE POWER AND PRIVILEGES OF A MASTER.

AS will be seen in our report of the Proceedings, the meeting of Grand Lodge on Wednesday evening passed off most satisfactorily. Lord Carnarvon presided, and moved the adoption of the recommendation made at the Especial Communication held on the 3rd January. Lord Skelmersdale seconded the motion, and it was passed unanimously and with acclamation. But there is one matter which was brought under notice and demands more than a passing remark. Bro. Edmund Waller, M.D. appealed against the decision of the D.P.G.M. of Northamptonshire and Hunts on a point involving the power and privileges of the Master of a Lodge. Bro. Dr. Waller at the time of the occurrence, which led to the complaint being laid before the G.L. of his province, was W.M. of St. Peters's Lodge, No. 442, Peterborough. At one of the meetings of his Lodge, it seems, our W. Brother invoked the aid of a brother in working the ceremony of the third degree. The I.P.M., however, expostulated and claimed the right to fulfil this important duty. The Master denied there was any such right attached to the I.P.M.-ship, but vacated the chair under protest, and the remonstrant P.M. took his place and performed the ceremony. Somewhat serious differences resulted. The harmony of the Lodge was disturbed, and, in the end, this and the subsequent disputes were referred to the Dep. Provincial Grand Master for adjudication. Bro. Butler Wilkins in time gave his decision, censuring Bro. Dr. Waller W.M., and it was from this judgment that Bro. Waller appealed to Grand Lodge itself, in the firm belief that he had acted in strict accordance with his powers, as defined by the Constitutions of the Craft. The result we state elsewhere. The decision was affirmed, but Bro. Waller is proved to have exercised his just power and privileges in inviting a brother, other than the I.P.M. or any other of the P.M.s of his Lodge, to perform for him one of the functions of the Master. We fully and unhesitatingly endorse this judgment. Our readers will doubtless call to mind a correspondence which took place in these columns, in the months of May and June of last year, on this very subject, and nearly every one who took part in the correspondence agreed that, as a matter of strict legal right, it was in the power of the Master of a Lodge to invite any qualified brother to assist him in, or perform for him any of, his duties. The Constitutions are very clear upon the point. In the absence of the Master, the I.P.M., or in his absence the S.P.M. present, shall take the chair. In the case we are considering the Master was not absent. He merely wished to have the assistance of a certain brother in working the ceremony of the third degree. It will be obvious, therefore, to our readers, that the claim of the I.P.M. to occupy the chair and fulfil the duty rested on no foundation of right. The W.M., as we understand the merits of the case, had not the slightest intention of vacating the chair even for a single moment, and so virtually absenting himself. He simply desired that, for sufficient reasons of his own, another brother should speak the words he would himself have spoken, had he felt that his ability was equal to the full discharge of his duty. A case occurs to us at the moment of writing which, if not perfect in all the points of its parallelism, will, at all events, serve to illustrate our meaning. The Queen opened Parliament in person about a month since. She presided in person at the ceremony, but her speech was delivered for her by the Lord Chancellor. The speech had exactly the same virtue as though it had issued from Her Majesty's own lips. Only in her absence would it have been necessary to provide a representative to enact this particular duty of Her Majesty. The Queen's address, calling her Parliament together to deliberate for the good of the State, was spoken per alium, the act was done directly per se. No one would pretend to affirm that, because Her Majesty did not deliver the speech, she should have vacated the throne in favour (say) of the Lord Chancellor, in order that it should have due validity. Parvis componere magna solemus. In the case of the St. Peter's Lodge, the act of raising the candidate would have been the act of the W.M. Bro. Waller, though the words necessary to be spoken in performing this act would have been spoken per alium. This we take it, so far as relates to this portion of the case, is the sum and substance of the Grand Registrar's ruling on Wednesday.

But a question arises, whom may a W.M. invite to assist him in his duties? The Grand Registrar says, as we understand him, any brother, which we naturally take to mean, any brother who is qualified to enact the duty. But what constitutes qualification? Many there are who argue that only Installed Masters are able to perform the ceremonies of initiation, passing, and raising. We admit this is the case, or rather would be in the absence, virtual or actual, of the Master. In St. Peter's Lodge, had the Worshipful Master remained in the chair, the work of raising would have been his work, though the words had been spoken by another.

We are glad to have had a decision from so authoritative a quarter on a question which has caused not a little vexation of mind to many worthy brethren. Henceforth the power and privileges of a Master will be clearly defined, or at least in this important particular, that he may invite whom he chooses to do his work for him so long as he occupies the chair. We think however, it will be equally clear that if the Master vacate the chair, his place can only be occupied by an Installed Master. But while we think the law is sufficiently explicit, we consider it would be only an act of courtesy on the part of the Master to consult the feelings and wishes of his Immediate and other Past Masters, before inviting any one else to fulfil a portion of his duties.

THE PROVINCE OF NORFOLK.

WE note with much pleasure that at the meeting of the Grand Lodge of this Province held at Yarmouth on the 27th ult., under the presidency of the Provincial Grand Master, it was unanimously resolved to establish a Masonic Charities' Committee for Norfolk. This county enjoys the honour of including the Prince of Wales among its magnates. It was highly favoured in November last, when His Royal Highness installed Lord Suffield Grand Master of the Province, as successor to the late Bro. the Hon. F. Walpole, M.P. This was the first meeting of P. Grand Lodge since that auspicious event, and we congratulate Lord Suffield on the circumstance that at his first official presidency over our Norfolk Province, a resolution so important should have claimed and received the first attention of P.G.L. But this is far from being the full measure of praise and congratulation which it is our duty to mete out to this particular Province. This is not the first, nor in all probability, will it be the last occasion, on which it will fall to our lot, to notice the efforts that are being made from time to time in order to strengthen and promote the interests of our great Masonic Institutions. We know, and our brethren know likewise, that many of our Provinces are very liberal in the assistance they render to their Charities. They and we are also aware that some Provinces are very backward in satisfying the claims which these same charities have upon their support. We shall not specify those included in the latter class, for it is no part of our duty, nor have we the slightest wish to inflict pain. Mens conscia rei infectæ,—the consciousness of an unfulfilled duty is burden enough to bear without adding to its weight. But it strikes us it would be miserably churlish in us if we did not draw attention to the singular magnanimity of our Norfolk brethren in publicly acknowledging their shortcomings. The statement that Norfolk did not contribute as liberally as she was bound to do, and as the wealth of her members enabled her to do, was made deliberately in Provincial Grand Lodge assembled. It was no hasty announcement, educed by a passing fit of remorse, but an honest, open acknowledgment, that the cause of charity had not been properly supported, that more assistance might be given to our three Institutions, and that more assistance must be given them. This handsome recognition in public of a duty omitted in the past is an amende honorable it is not often our good fortune to remark, and therefore it is that we lay this great stress upon the incident. But to pass to the Norfolk Charities' Committee and its organisation. The subject was introduced at a very early period of the meeting by Bro. Colonel Duff, M.P., P.G.S.W., who said there was a wide-spread feeling throughout the Province that the support accorded to our Masonic Charities was wholly inadequate. There were present those who would, with the sanction of the Provincial Grand Master, bring the matter before the notice of the brethren. Lord Suffield at once expressed his wish that the question should be fully considered, and Bro. H. J. Martyn, of Perseverance, No. 213, forthwith laid the figures and facts of the case before Provincial Grand Lodge, showing what the contributions from Norfolk to the several Masonic Charities had been during the past three years, and what benefits the Province were receiving from them. The Province had contributed about £100 annually to the three together. On the other hand, there were in the Boys' School four Norfolk boys, in the Girls' School one Norfolk girl, and on the Benevolent Fund three male annuitants from Norfolk, receiving each £40 per annum, or, in the aggregate, £120, and the widows of two others receiving together £64 per annum. Thus, in return for the annual contribution of £100, the Province benefitted to the extent of about £400, and Bro. Martyn argued very justly that Norfolk, instead of being a pillar of support, was, in truth, a burden upon our Charities. We wish all our Provinces regarded these things as clearly and precisely as Bro. Martyn, but, unfortunately, all brethren are not blessed with equal perceptive power. Be this as it may, the truth thus deliberately enunciated is not to be explained away by any known process of argument. There it stands out clearly in the light of day. Norfolk has been unintentionally, but none the less actually, a burden upon our Institutions instead of a support, and it repenteth Norfolk of this wrongful interchange of places between itself and them. Nor is this a mere verbal or ephemeral repentance to which the Province is now in all sincerity devoting itself. The brethren have girded up their loins. They have resolved henceforth on doing battle, both manfully and Masonically, in support of the sacred cause of Charity. To this end they have organised a Committee of the whole Province. Every Lodge will be represented and there will be, in addition, a President, Vice-President, Treasurer, and Secretary elected annually. It will be the business of this Committee to take charge of and promote Masonic Benevolence in the Province, to aid the Charities, and to investigate all real claims and applications for relief. No one, of course, has ever doubted that our brethren of Norfolk were as benevolent as the brethren of other Provinces. Now, however, they will shine by the beneficence of their acts as well as by their benevolence. They will figure henceforth—and no doubt conspicuously in proportion to their ability—in the category of active supporters of three of the noblest Institutions ever devised of man. Nor does this Committee, with its well regulated task already marked out for it, represent the full extent of what Norfolk intends doing. Bro. Baldwin has propounded a scheme not unlike some of those which our worthy Bro. Constable has again and again set going for establishing a Norfolk Masonic Charitable Association, whose object will be to obtain, if possible, from every brother in the Province, the small weekly subscription of one shilling, so that each contributor will, in course of time, become possessed of a Life Governorship in one or other of our three Charities. By payment of four shillings weekly he will naturally in time become Life Governor of all three. Five shillings paid weekly will entitle him to the benefits of a Vice-Presidency in one or other of them. The term of this Association will extend over four years and then, of course, it will be time to repeat the experiment in ample form.

We shall add only a few lines to the foregoing remarks. We desire our readers to think chiefly of Norfolk and its well devised schemes of beneficence. But let them endeavour to realise the product of a shilling per week spread over a wide surface. Twenty thousand contributors of this modest sum weekly will raise amongst them in one year £52,000, or about enough for the present needs of our three Institutions. Is this beyond the ability of the Craft?

JEWISH MASONIC DISABILITIES.

OUR readers will notice elsewhere in our columns a copy of a petition it is proposed, at the instance of the Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017, to submit to Grand Lodge, with a view to bring immediately under the cognisance of that august assembly the exclusion of members of the Jewish faith from certain German Lodges. We are always prepared—we feel, indeed, that it is our duty to meet our German brethren on all occasions with feelings of loving-kindness, to greet them well and heartily, and to act towards them in all things as we would they should act towards us; but bearance—if we may use the word—and forbearance have their limits. We may do our duty religiously towards others, but we have a right to expect that others will fulfil their duty towards ourselves. We have no right, from any misplaced sense of weakmindedness, to make ourselves participes criminis, because they are guilty of a dereliction of Masonic duty, more or less serious. It is beyond all doubt that in some parts of Germany, and notably in Prussia, Jews who seek admission into our ranks are refused all participation in the benefits of Freemasonry; not because they are unfit, socially or morally, but because these German Lodges are untrue to the instincts of our Craft, and will only receive into the fold of Freemasonry those who believe in Christ. These difficulties have not arisen for the first time in the history of our Craft in Germany. It is but little more than thirty years since that the same unfortunate departure from true Masonry was brought under the notice of our Grand Lodge. It was in the Grand Mastership of the late Earl of Zetland, and we believe in the year 1846, that representations were made to his Lordship to the effect that an English Brother, after having been admitted into a Berlin Lodge, had been requested to withdraw when it was discovered that in his religious belief he was a Jew. It was further represented at the same time that two other English brethren, though fortified with their Grand Lodge certificates, had been refused admission on the ground of their religious faith. This exclusiveness in the conduct of Prussian Freemasons attracted general attention at the time, and was almost universally condemned by the Grand bodies in other countries. Here, in England, the Grand Master instructed the Grand Secretary to require of the Prussian Grand Lodges to receive and acknowledge all certificates granted by the United Grand Lodge of England without regard to the religious faith of those who presented them. The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge Royal York of Friendship stated, in reply, that for forty years none but Christian brethren had been admitted into the Lodges under its jurisdiction, or under that of the other Berlin Grand Lodges; that no complaint had been made till the year 1838, since when the question of admitting Jewish brethren had been again and again agitated, and it had been settled to admit them by all but the Prussian Masons. But nothing was said in answer to the request of our Grand Master that all diplomas issued by the Grand Lodge over which he presided should be recognised, irrespective of the religious faith of the brother to whom it had been granted. Under these circumstances, the Grand Master protested against the refusal, and recalled Bro. Chevalier Esser from his post of representative of the United Grand Lodge of England at the Grand Lodge Royal York of Friendship. At the same time, our Grand Master, while regretting the circumstances "which for a time unfortunately impeded the wonted intercourse," expressed the sense of his high consideration and brotherly affection for the Grand Lodge Royal York, and its M.W. Grand Master. So much for the past. Now, it seems we are once again landed in the midst of a similar difficulty. Jews are not admissible into certain German Lodges in 1877 any more than they were in 1846; and the petition we reproduce elsewhere calls upon our M.W. Grand Master and the other officers of Grand Lodge, to take the matter into their serious consideration. We hope and trust that those who are agitating this important question will persevere in their endeavours, and that our Grand Master will himself unhesitatingly grant the prayer of our brethren. There are Parsees, Hindoos, Mohammedans, as well as Jews and Christians, under the jurisdiction of our Grand Lodge. All these enjoy equal privileges and rights. Our English Freemasonry is in this, as in all other respects, pure and unadulterated. We admit all men who are found worthy, provided they have in them a due sense of religion. They must worship the Creator of all things, but there is no special form of worship presented for all to follow. Moreover, with every sense of respect towards our German brethren, we in England may justly claim to know better than they do of the intent and purpose of Freemasonry, and of its laws and constitutions. And, after all, though Prussia is justly entitled to a place among European powers of the first rank, it has not yet acquired, and we do not think it ever will acquire, the right to prescribe limits to what, as regards religious persuasion, is illimitable. Our Grand Lodge is the Mother Grand Lodge of nearly all the Masonic bodies in the world. It is our constitutions and our laws which the great majority of them have adopted. Local differences may be accepted as a just reason for modifying those laws and constitutions so as to suit the altered circumstances of each case, but not for undermining that basis of universality on which the structure of Freemasonry has rested throughout all ages. It is our duty to remonstrate when we find other Masonic powers setting the very first principles of our Society at defiance; and if our remonstrances are allowed to pass unheeded, it then becomes our duty, how painful soever that duty may be, to indicate in a manner that cannot be mistaken, and with an energy, the depth and sincerity of which it is impossible to deny, our sense of the indignity that has been cast upon us. If our German brethren insist that Freemasonry is not a universal system, it will be for our Grand Master to consider dispassionately whether such denial does not place the recusant German Grand Lodges outside the pale of Masonry, and whether it will not be his duty, not only to withdraw our representatives from the German Grand Bodies to which they are severally accredited, but also to order the withdrawal of the German Masonic Ministers accredited to our Grand Lodge. We are not called upon to champion the rights of Masonry all the world over, but it is our duty to resent injustice to the Craft universal when it is brought directly under our cognisance. Otherwise, as we said at the outset, we shall be participes criminis.

GRAND LODGE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

WE offer our thanks for copy of the Proceedings at the Annual Communication of this Grand Lodge, held in the Masonic Temple, Boston, on the 13th December last, Grand Master P. Lowell Everett presiding, and there being a strong muster of Grand Officers and brethren to support him. As we have already noted briefly the particulars of this meeting, there are only a few portions of this report to which we shall call the attention of our readers. These are the Grand Treasurer's account, the financial condition of Grand Lodge, and the numerical strength of the Craft in this jurisdiction. The accounts present the following features:—The receipts for the year amounted to dollars 57,987 33c., including a balance brought forward from last year of dollars 1691 34c. The expenditure reached the sum of dollars 57,180 12c., the principal items being, for "principal of the debt," dollars 12,250; for "interest," dollars 22,320 10c.; and salary of Grand Secretary and Treasurer dollars 3,000. Thus there was a balance at the end of the year on the right side of the account of dollars 807 81c. As to the financial position, the picture is as follows:—There is a "Mortgage to Provident Institution," amounting to a quarter of a million of dollars; "Notes to Masonic Bodies," dollars 37,550; and "Note to Third National Bank," five thousand dollars, making a total of dollars 292,550. Deducting cash in hand and rents outstanding, this sum is reduced to dollars 280,981 41c., and though this is unquestionably a heavy load of debt to bear, yet it is satisfactory to find that it is less by a little over nine thousand dollars than at the same period last year. As regard the numerical strength of the Craft in the jurisdiction of this Grand Lodge, the total number of affiliated members is 26,141, and this shows a decrease from last year of no less than 667. The jurisdiction is portioned out into eighteen districts, besides the China and Chili Districts, there being altogether 216 Lodges, three of which are in Chili, and one in China, leaving, therefore, 212 Lodges in the State itself. Each of these districts is governed by a District Grand Master, corresponding with our Provincial Grand Master. District No. 1 is in the City of Boston, and has twelve Lodges, and a total of 2,260 members on the roll; District No. 2, ten Lodges, and 1,520 members; District No. 3, twelve Lodges, and 1,867 members; District No. 4, eleven Lodges, and 1,282 members; District No. 5, twelve Lodges, and 1,571 members; District No. 6, thirteen Lodges, and 1,689 members; District No. 7, nine Lodges, and 1,437 members; District No. 8, eleven Lodges, and 1,046 members; District No. 9, ten Lodges, and 844 members; District No. 10, eleven Lodges, and 1,947 members; District No. 11, twelve Lodges, and 1,616 members; District No. 12, twelve Lodges, and 1,200 members; District No. 13, fifteen Lodges, and 1,621 members; District No. 14, twelve Lodges, and 1,555 members; District No. 15, eleven Lodges, and 1,053 members; District No. 16, fourteen Lodges, and 1,618 members; District No. 17, ten Lodges, and 1,154 members; and District No. 18, ten Lodges, and 809 members. In the Chili District, two Lodges muster together 162 members, and the Lodge at Shanghai has 47 members on the roll. The number of initiations during the year amounts to 1,307. There were 1,233 brethren passed, and 1,360 raised. The considerable number of 481 candidates for degrees was rejected. No less than 306 members were suspended, and one was expelled, while the number of dimissions amounted to 523, and there were 316 members discharged from membership. In addition 284 members died, so that the reduction of numbers from all causes was very considerable. Against this we must record that 1,662 members were admitted and 123 were re-instated. The number of Grand Lodge diplomas granted during the year was 1,178, and there were 88 Past Masters' diplomas granted.

We have thus far confined ourselves especially to the statistical portion of the report, in order that our readers may learn how it fares with Freemasonry in one of the most ancient Grand Lodges of the United States. It remains for us to add that this report is very ample in the information it affords. Not the least valuable and interesting portion of its contents is the list of Grand Officers who have held office during the past hundred years. The list includes the names of many eminent brethren, not the least eminent of whom are those of Bros. John T. Heard, W. T. Coolidge, W. Parkman, C. C. Damey, W. G. Gardner, Sereno, and D. Nickerson, who are still living, and are both able and willing to take an active part in the government of the Grand Lodge and in the general furtherance of its interests. It is also a matter of duty on our part that we should offer a few words of compliment and thanks to the Rev. Bro. Charles S. Titus, the Recording Grand Secretary, who fully realises our ideal of what a Secretary should be. His arrangement of the matter comprised in this record is admirable. The record itself is clear as the sun at noon-day, so that he who runs may read without the slightest impediment whatever. The Grand Feast was held on the 27th December, and a very full account is given of the speeches attending the various toasts, the first of which was that of the "Holy Saints John." After this, followed a toast, "To the memory of our illustrious Brother, George Washington," which it is almost needless to say, was drunk standing and in deep silence. The evening passed off most harmoniously, the chair being ably filled by the M.W.G.M. Everett. We congratulate our brethren of Massachusetts on the order, regularity, and harmony which mark all their proceedings, and the extremely lucid manner in which such proceedings are recorded, not only for their own benefit, but also for that of brethren who reside at a great distance.

It is also worthy of remark that on Thursday this Grand Lodge completed the first century of its existence as an independent Grand Lodge. At the banquet held on the 27th December, mention was made of this by Past Grand Master Gardner. It had been resolved at the Stated Communication, previously held on that day, to celebrate the "Centennial of its independent and sovereign existence in such manner as the Most Worshipful Grand Master may direct." In referring to this, Bro. Gardner, in the course of his speech, said, "They met on 8th March 1777 for the purpose of granting a Charter to a new Lodge; and when they met they found they had no authority; that the Colonial Congress had declared that these States were free and independent, and that by means of the Declaration of Independence of the Fourth of July they had severed themselves from all connection with both Scotland and England, with the Grand Lodges of which they were connected. It became necessary at that time to form some Lodges . . . . and the brethren then voted that they were free and independent," just as the civil government had previously voted its freedom and independence on the 4th July 1776, and from that day till now it had maintained its independence. We trust the anniversary passed off in a manner befitting so important an occasion. We congratulate our Massachusetts brethren on the circumstance, and hope they have before them a long and prosperous career.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

THE results of the Cambridge Local Examination (Christmas, 1876) are now known, and we are enabled to say that our Boys' School has had a very fair measure of success.

Twenty-eight boys were sent in as candidates for the examination, and of this number 26 passed; 1 senior and 25 juniors.

Of the 25 juniors more than half (14) obtained a place in the honour list: 2 in the 1st class; 3 in the 2nd class; 9 in the 3rd class.

These results testify both to the quantity and quality of the work done in the School, whereby it is placed among the most successful of the middle class schools which send up candidates to the Cambridge Local Examinations.

The names of those who have passed are here subjoined:—

Senior.	Third Class.
1. R. Bryant.	7. Uwins.
Juniors.	8. Newman.
First Class.	9. Martin.
2. Parker.	10. Rose.
3. Green.	11. Grimes.
Second Class.	12. Heaviside.
4. Bowler.	13. Dowell.
5. Sage.	14. Widdowson.
6. Pawley.	15. Watkins.

The following satisfied the Examiners:—W. Sparkes, Pinson, Harding, Tayler, Battye, Booser, Warr, Moon, Wbyatt, A. Bryant, and W. White.

CONSECRATION OF THE BEACONSFIELD LODGE, NO. 1662.

THE Consecration of this Lodge, and installation of its W.M., took place at the Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow, on Saturday, the 24th February, the consecrating Officer being V.W. Bro. John Hervey G.S. and P.G.D., who was assisted by Bro. Joshua Nunn P.G.S.D. as S.W., Bro. W. T. Howe P.G.P. Middlesex, as J.W., Bro. H. G. Buss P.J.G.W. Middlesex, as D.C., and Bro. W. Stephens P.M. as I.G. The Lodge was opened in the three degrees, and the anthems were sung. The brethren of the new Lodge were then arranged in order, and the Secretary read the petition and warrant from Grand Lodge. An oration on the nature and duties of Freemasonry was delivered by the consecrating Officer, which was listened to with very great attention by the brethren present, and was brought to a close by reading some very appropriate verses. The Lodge was then constituted, and Bro, Walter T. Christian was installed as the first W.M. He, having been saluted in the antient form, invested his Officers as follows:—Bros. W. Groome S.W., W. B. Brand J.W., Fred. Hallows Hon. Sec., C. T. Saunders S.D., T. Franklin J.D., A. Oldroyd I.G., T. Upward Organist, G. Brown D.C., J. H. Cambridge W.S., and J. Gilchrist Tyler. The furniture and the room were well arranged, and the whole of the ceremony was performed in a manner rarely equalled Several propositions were given to the Secretary for initiation, and the names of several brethren as joining members, hearty good wishes were given to the W.M., and success for the future of the Lodge. After the Lodge was closed, the brethren, to the number of thirty, sat down to a banquet and dessert. Grace having been said, the W.M. proposed "the Queen and Craft," followed by that of the M.W.G.M., which was enthusiastically received. The W.M. next proposed the Pro G.M., and the other Grand Officers, which met with a hearty cheer. Bro. Joshua Nunn replied for them in a very suitable speech. The next toast was the Consecrating Officer. Bro. Hervey replied, and thanked the brethren for the reception he had met with from the Beaconsfield Lodge; he felt sure by the working which he had seen and heard, and the brotherly love and unity which existed amongst the members, that the Lodge was bound to prosper; he wished it every success and further stated he should come down and have another look in shortly, to see how the work was going on. He concluded by proposing the health of the W.M., who replied in a very neat and pithy speech, and finished by proposing the Officers of the new Lodge. He felt quite sure that, with such assistance as he had had that day, and also knowing how they could all work, he was confident that the Lodge would be second to none in the manner in which all the duties would be carried out. The S. and J.W. and S.D., replied in a few appropriate sentences. The next toast was the Visitors, which was replied to by Bro. Buss, with a few very kind words and wishes for the success of the new Lodge, and thanking the brethren for giving them all such a hearty and cordial reception. This was followed by the toast of the host, Bro. W. G. Hallows, whose catering was pronounced by all present to have been perfect. He returned thanks; he was very pleased to hear every one of the brethren had appreciated what had been put before them, and hoped he should always be able to give them as great satisfaction as he had done that night. During the course of the evening several of the brethren contributed to the harmony by some capital songs. Altogether the new Lodge has opened under the most favourable auspices, and there is every reason to congratulate the founders and joining members upon the success that has so far attended it. The following were present as Visitors:—Bros. Barford P.M. 55, Downing P.M. 20, Lyall P.M. 73, W. Steadman P.M. 754, Ramsey P.M. 201, Mackey P.M. 861, Leech P.M. 861, Townsend P.M. 820, Rev. C. J. Stevens 813, Davis I.G. 1309, Carter 1507, St. Alphonse S.D. 108, Badkin S.W. 1365, Warman W.M. elect 15, Wilson 1228, Taylor 1588, Lake 1471, Grist 1489 and 1637, Field 1602, Trebeck 1445, Evennett 1426, E. A. Wells 15, Tollias 1185, Claridge 1598, E. Brown 1598, Laverack 917, Baxter 1421, Bare 1598, M. Christian 860, C. B. Payne P.M., G.T., 327, &c.

The first meeting was held on Saturday the 3rd inst. Present—Bros. W. T. Christian W.M., W. Groome S.W., W. B. Brand J.W., Frederick Hallows Sec., C. J. Saunders S.D., T. Franklin J.D., W. G. Hallows acting D.C., J. H. Cambridge Steward, A. Oldroyd I.G., J. Gilchrist Tyler. Past Masters, Bros. J. Pinder, &c. Visitors, Bros. Carter 1507, Varley 1421, Claridge 1598, Laverick 917, Simms 1445, Fisher 1498, &c. Business—The Lodge was opened in the first degree. The minutes of the Consecration and Installation meeting read and confirmed. The brethren balloted for several joining members, whose names had already been handed in, they were all elected. Five gentlemen were initiated, and the Lodge adjourned until the first Saturday in April.

THE LANGTHORNE MASONIC CHARITABLE ASSOCIATION.

THE first anniversary meeting of this prosperous Association was held at the Swan Hotel, Stratford, on Wednesday 28th February. The annual report and balance sheet disclose the simple fact that in the first year of the operations of this Association the large amount of £247 had been presented to the Masonic Institutions through its agency.

Bro. J. G. Stevens the President, in his opening remarks explained the objects of this and kindred Associations to be that every member subscribing 1s per week for something like four years, would become a Life Governor of one of the Charities. The appropriations in this particular Association, have averaged two per month since its formation, and such a result must be highly gratifying to the committee and equally so to all those who have obtained a Life Governorship through its instrumentality. The working expenses of this, the most expensive year of the Association's operation, have amounted to only £4 14s.

The committee and officers were unanimously re-elected; and after two Ballots were taken, the members adjourned to a dinner, presided over by the worthy President (J. G. Stevens), the vice-chair being occupied by the vice-President (W. A. Tharp). There were also present the Treasurer (T. Lacey), Bros. Binckes, Sec. R.M.I.B., Terry R.M.B.I., and a company of over thirty members of the Craft.

In proposing the Charities, the President paid a high tribute to the three Secretaries; he hoped Bros. Binckes and Little would not be downcast at the result of Bro. Terry's festival, but would go in and get, if possible, £20,000 each. (Applause).

Bro. Binckes being obliged to leave, Bro. Terry responded for the Three Charities, and was warm in his commendations of the Association, under whose auspices they had met. He related his experience while Hon. Sec. of three similar Associations, and trusted the brethren would rally round and bring this to a successful termination. As an encouragement to brethren in all positions in life, he would state as a fact, that a most distinguished Peer of the realm thought it not beneath his dignity to subscribe 1s per week to one of the Associations. He also said the popular opinion was that Freemasons were a selfish race of men, but the proposals then under consideration for commemorating the safe return of our M.W.G.M. from India were sufficient answer to this, and abundantly shewed the Catholicity of Freemasons.

The health of the Chairman and vice-Chairman, Hon. Sec. and others, brought this, the first annual meeting to a conclusion.

The First Annual Supper of the Upton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1227, will take place at Bro. Bolton's, King and Queen, Norton-folgate, E.C., on Friday, the 16th instant, when it is hoped a goodly muster of brethren will take place. Tickets, 4s each, can be had of Bro. Bolton, or of any of the Stewards.

THE EXCLUSION OF JEWS IN GERMANY.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am sure the Montefiore Lodge is wrong in stating, in their request to sign a petition to the Grand Lodge of England, that the "three" Grand Lodges in Germany do not admit Jews in Freemasonry, as I know myself personally several Jewish brethren, now in England, who have been initiated in Berlin. There might be one "of the three," where no Jew is admitted, but decidedly not all of them, ergo: "The Montefiore is wrong."

Yours, &c.,

S. M.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I know as a fact that many Lodges had the intention of petitioning the Grand Lodge of England in regard to the "obnoxious law" of "non-admission of Jews" in one of the German Grand Lodges, but hearing that the Lodge of Joppa, No. 188, have appointed a committee, first to inquire properly into the subject, they postponed all action till the report of this committee could be known.

Might it not have been better if the Montefiore Lodge had done the same?

Yours, &c.,

A GERMAN FREEMASON.

"THINGS NEW AND OLD."

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Allow me to thank "Quiz" for so courteously and readily furnishing substantial evidence of his deduction that Bro. Dunckerley was Superintendent of Royal Arch Masons in Cornwall. The excerpt he gave in his letter of last week, from one of Dunckerley's own letters, is strongly corroborative of his statement. Whether or not it is conclusive, I am not in a position to say.

Fraternally yours,

THE MIGRATION OF LODGES.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I noted, in a correspondence that occurred in your columns between Bro. Hughan and your Reviewer, some allusion was made by the former to the migration of a London to Lodge Chatham, this one being now in existence as R. Kent Lodge of Antiquity, No. 20. He also suggested that, possibly, our present No. 35, Medina Lodge, at Cowes, I. of Wight, may have migrated in a similar manner from London. Some days since I was turning over the pages of an old Masonic magazine, in search of something I did not find, when I alighted on the following particulars of a Lodge now deceased, but which, at the closing up of the list in 1832, figured on the roll as "Lodge of Philanthropy," No. 28, Stockton-on-Tees. The particulars will, doubtless, interest that learned brother in particular, and your readers in general. Lodge of Philanthropy, says my authority, was constituted on 2nd February 1725, by Dr. Desaguliers, Deputy Grand Master, and was held at the Swan and Rummer, Finch-lane. The first W.M. was Bro. Martin O'Connor, the first S. and J. Wardens Bros. Richard Shergold and Samuel Berrington. The Lodge flourished for many years. Lord Kinsale was initiated in it, and it was frequently visited during the G. Masterships of the Earl of Inchiquin and Lord Kingston. Bro. Berrington was the second W.M. In 1728, Bro. O'Connor was Junior Grand Warden. On 24th February 1730-1, the Lodge was removed to the Swan, Exchange-alley, but in November of the same year returned to Finch-lane, and here, according to Rawlinson's and Pine's lists, we find it located as Lodge No. 39 in 1734. Up till this time it was greatly beholden to the services of Bro. Berrington, who in 1741 was Grand Warden. We have few particulars of the Lodge till the latter part of 1756, when, it is stated, "the Constitution and Lodge were transferred to Stockton, in the county of Durham, and the Lodge was accordingly opened in due form at the Queen's Head Tavern on the 2nd December, Thomas Burdon M., Thomas Rudd and Thomas Whorlton S. and J. Wardens." Here it flourished exceedingly, and on 23rd August 1764, by which time it had become No. 23, played the chief part in the ceremony of laying the foundation-stone of a bridge intended to be built over the Tees. From then till the month of August 1794, when the account from which I have extracted the foregoing particulars was published, the Lodge continued to work on flourishingly. By the latter date it had risen to No. 19 on the roll, and this place it continued to occupy till the union of Ancients and Moderns in 1813. After this it became No. 30, and at the closing up of Lodges in 1832, it became No. 28. Since then it has become defunct.

Here then is another conspicuous case of a London Lodge removing into one of the Provinces, and, to all appearances, a well-authenticated one. It is a great pity that a Lodge, with such a record as this seems to have had, should have been allowed to pass away. I see the oldest of the present Stockton Lodges—Tees Lodge, No. 509—was founded in 1845. Perhaps some member of this latter may be able to inform the readers of your journal how it was the venerable Lodge of Philanthropy, with over a century of years to its credit, was so neglected; or, perhaps, the present Philanthropy, No. 940, the second in order of seniority of the Stockton Lodges, may be able to throw some light on the decease of its namesake, of Finch-lane, in the City of London, and subsequently of Stockton.

Fraternally yours,

"READER."

EXCLUSION OF JEWS IN GERMANY.

WE publish the following circular letter from the Montefiore Lodge and the petition it is in contemplation to present to Grand Lodge on the subject of Jewish Masonic Disabilities in Germany. Our remarks on the subject will be found elsewhere.

8 Bloomsbury-place, London, W.C., 5th March 1877.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—A committee having been appointed by the Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017, to carry out the objects mentioned in the accompanying resolutions, I beg to enclose herewith a copy of the petition, and respectfully request you will submit it to the consideration of the members of your Lodge.

Should it meet with their approval, I shall be glad if you will sign the same, and return it to me at your earliest convenience.

Yours fraternally,

S. V. ABRAHAM P.M.

Resolved unanimously:—

1. That it appearing by the Book of Constitutions of the Three Grand Lodges of Freemasons in Germany, held at Berlin, that those only professing Christianity are eligible to become members of the Craft, or to join the subordinate Lodges in Germany, this Lodge of Freemasons assembled under the Constitution of the Grand Lodge of England, with every feeling of fraternal regard for their brethren in Germany, hereby enters its most solemn protest against any law which prevents any properly qualified person from joining the Order on account of his religious belief, such exclusion being, in the opinion of this Lodge, contrary to the fundamental principles of Freemasonry.

2. That with a view of obtaining the repeal of what appears to be a most obnoxious law, a petition be prepared for presentation to the Grand Lodge of England, asking them to take such steps in the matter as in their judgment they may think advisable, and that such petition be first submitted to the various Lodges in Great Britain, requesting their co-operation.

3. That a committee of six be appointed for the purpose of carrying out the above resolutions, and that the sum of £5 is hereby voted for defraying the preliminary expenses.

That the committee consist of Bros. Victor Myers W.M., Gulliford S.W., Lazarus P.M. J.W., S. V. Abraham P.M., Pollitzer P.M., Lewis Jacobs Treasurer, Matthias Levy Hon. Sec.

To the Most Worshipful H.R.H. the Prince of Wales K.G., &c., Grand Master of the United Grand Lodge of England, the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon Pro Grand Master, the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale Deputy Grand Master, the Present and Past Grand Officers and Members of the Grand Lodge of England.

We, the undersigned, Masters, Wardens, Officers, and Members of the various Lodges make declaration as follows:—

That it has come to our knowledge that certain Lodges under the Constitution of the Grand Lodges in Germany, held at Berlin, exclude from the benefits of Freemasonry all persons except those professing Christianity:

And it appearing to your petitioners that many good and worthy men are thus necessarily debarred from entering into the Order or enjoying its advantages, and that the Craft is likewise deprived of the assistance and usefulness of many intelligent and influential persons:

Your petitioners beg to call the attention of Grand Lodge thereto, and most earnestly and respectfully solicit that Grand Lodge will take the same into their serious consideration, and will use such means as may be deemed by them most advisable to secure a permanent and satisfactory alteration of the laws of the said Grand Lodges of Germany, which laws, your petitioners humbly submit, are, in their present rendering, contrary to the first principles of Freemasonry.

Signed W.M.

on behalf of the Lodge No.

March 1877.

FREEMASONRY is being liberally erected in South Africa. Some difficulty in the matter of personal insignia was at first experienced in dealing with the more native and less attired part of the population, but these very aboriginal creatures finally consented to forego their prejudices so far as to allow the indispensable symbols of the Craft to be stencilled on their bodies.—Figaro.

QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION OF GRAND LODGE.

THE regular Quarterly Communication was held on Wednesday. The Earl of Carnarvon, Pro Grand Master presided, and was supported by Lord Skelmersdale Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Donoughmore G S.W., Bro. F. Pattison as G.J.W., Sir A. Woods G.D.C., Bros. McIntyre Q.C, G.Registrar, S. Tomkins G. Treasurer, and John Hervey G. Secretary, and between 700 and 800 brethren. After the minutes of the December Communication, and of the Especial Communication in January, had been read by the G. Secretary and confirmed, the Pro Grand Master rose, and in a few words moved the adoption of the resolution recommended at the Especial Communication made in January, in remembrance of the Grand Master's safe return from India. Lord Skelmersdale having seconded the motion, it was agreed to unanimously. The Earl of Limerick then proposed, and Bro. Raynham Stewart seconded, that a sub-Committee, consisting of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the Grand Senior Warden be appointed, in order to confer with the Secretary of the Royal National Life Boat Association, for the arrangement of all matters of detail. This was likewise agreed to unanimously, as also was a third resolution proposed by the Pro Grand Master, and seconded by Lieutenant-General Brownrigg, to the effect "that a memorial tablet be erected in Grand Lodge in commemoration of the event." The Pro Grand Master then rose again, and announced that a portrait of His Royal Highness the Grand Master, in full Masonic costume, painted by Bro. Louis Desanges, a member of the Lodge of Friendship, had been presented by that Lodge to, and now graced the walls of, Grand Lodge. His lordship therefore proposed that the picture be accepted, and a cordial vote of thanks be presented to the Lodge of Friendship, for its acceptable present. This was seconded by Lord De Tabley, and unanimously adopted. Bro. R. F. Gould P.M. Nos. 22, 153, 570, 743, then rose, and proposed the election of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as Grand Master for the ensuing year. In doing so, Bro. Gould said, "M.W.G.M. in the chair, Having had the honour to nominate the Grand Master, it now becomes my privilege to follow up that nomination, by proposing in due form, and in accordance with ancient custom, the re-election of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to the high office which for two years he has filled with so much grace and dignity. As I am conscious that the brethren must be awaiting, with a very natural impatience, the moment, when they can by acclamation, give expression to the feelings which are dominant in our hearts, I shall trespass upon their attention for a few seconds only; but however inadequate I may feel myself to the duty I am attempting to perform, I believe myself to be, though but a humble member of the rank and file, yet for the time being the spokesman, both of Grand Lodge and of the Craft, and I think it would be considered unbefitting, if the occasion were allowed to pass without there being manifested the most cordial recognition and most serious appreciation of the vast and unprecedented strides which Masonry has made within the past two years, during which it has been the happiness and the pride of the Craft to be under the genial sway of His Royal Highness. I may be permitted to assure our Royal Grand Master, that by graciously consenting to remain at our head, a further incentive will be supplied to us all, to maintain and support the dignity and importance of Freemasonry, so as in all respects to merit a continuance of that illustrious patronage, which we one and all so heartily welcome and appreciate." The motion having been seconded, was carried unanimously, and after formal proclamation by Sir Albert Woods of His Royal Highness's style and titles, the customary salute was given. Bro. S. Tomkins was then proposed for re-election as Grand Treasurer, and the motion having been seconded and carried unanimously, Bro. Tomkins rose and briefly returned thanks. The grants by the Lodge of Benevolence, enumerated in our last issue, were next confirmed. The Report of the Board of General Purposes was then brought up by its President, Bro. J. B. Monckton, and having been taken as read, was ordered to be recorded on the minutes. Bro. Harding's report as Auditor of Grand Lodge accounts having been adopted, the Grand Registrar, in a long and exhaustive speech, explained the nature of the appeal made by Bro. Edmund Waller, the then Master of St. Peter's Lodge No. 442, Peterborough, against the decision of Bro. Butler Wilkins D.P.G.M. of the Province of Northamptonshire and Hunts, on certain issues submitted to him, and all the circumstances which subsequently arose to disturb the harmony of the Lodge. The Grand Registrar having laid down the law defining the power and privileges of a W.M., and especially the right he possessed of inviting any brother to assist him in working the ceremonies, who might occupy any place in the Lodge the W.M. thought fit to assign to him, either at the Master's pedestal or elsewhere; and having carefully noted all the bearings of the case, the Grand Registrar expressed his belief that the decision of the D.P.G.M. should be upheld, and moved accordingly. At the same time he felt that the censure of the Deputy P.G.M. should not have been confined to Bro. Waller, but should have included others who deserved it as much. The motion of the Grand Registrar was then submitted, in a few words, by the Pro Grand Master and carried nem. con.

Bro. Monckton then explained the circumstances which led to the next appeal, which was directed against the refusal of the Board of General Purposes to entertain a complaint by the Rev. Bro. Hobson, of Lodge No. 1242, Isle of Man, against Bro. John Brown, in a matter not relating to the Craft; and having justified the action of the Board, Bro. James Mason moved, and Bro. Raynham Stewart seconded a motion to the effect that the appeal be dismissed. This having been put and carried unanimously, Bro. Rev. H. J. Hatch rose and moved the resolution of which he had given notice, but as he was unsuccessful in finding a seconder, the motion fell through. Bro. Mallam having withdrawn his proposition, Grand Lodge was closed with the customary formalities.

Among the brethren present, in addition to those we have named, were Bro. W. W. Beach M.P., S. Ransom, Rev. C. J. Martyn, Dr. J. Hogg, T. Cubitt, W. J. Hughan, Captain Homfray, and the Revs. R. J. Simpson and Sir Jno. Warren Hayes Bart. The Grand Master of Nova Scotia, Colonel Lawrie, was also present, and at the special invitation of the Pro Grand Master, was greeted with the customary salute of 9.

NEW ZEALAND.

THE news from this promising colony, by the mail which arrived this week, is of importance, as it brings us the news of the death of our Brother Sir Donald Maclean, District Grand Master for the North Island of New Zealand. It seems but the other day since we chronicled his appointment to that office, and now we hear of his unexpected demise, at the early age of fifty-seven. It was about thirty-six years ago that our lamented brother arrived in New Zealand, a poor lad scarcely able to read and write, and he commenced his career as a shingle splitter in the island of Wailieke, near Auckland, living amongst the Maoris. During his residence amongst the natives, he laid up that store of knowledge which fitted him for the important position he so lately occupied. In 1847 he obtained the appointment of Inspector of Police, owing to his knowledge of the native language and habits, and in 1849 he was appointed Land Purchase Commissioner. From that period he had constant employment in the Native Office, his extensive knowledge of Maori lore well qualifying him for positions of trust; and in 1869 he became Native Minister in the Fox Government. From that date to the 15th December last, he administered the native affairs of the colony, with what success or otherwise it is not our province to enquire: there are differences of opinion on the subject. Our brother had numerous friends amongst both races, and there was widespread grief in the colony at his loss. Many years ago he suffered from rheumatic fever, which left the seeds of heart disease, the complaint which at last carried off its victim. It was in 1872 that he was made a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, and in 1874 he was knighted for his services in the colony. He leaves an only son to inherit his accumulated fortune of some £20,000 a year. Our brother was perhaps a remarkable, though by no means exceptional, instance of what may be achieved in the colonies by a man of neither family, interest nor means. The funeral was Masonic, and was conducted by the Scinde and Victoria Lodges, under the Irish and English Constitutions respectively. Having met at the Masonic Hall, a funeral Lodge was opened, and the brethren moved in procession to the residence of the deceased, Bro. Alexander Kennedy W.M. acting as D.C. Douglas McLean, son of Sir Donald, was chief mourner, and a number of Maoris took part in the procession. Probably 3,000 persons were present at the funeral. The Masonic service was read by the Rev. Darcy Irwin, Chaplain of the Victoria Lodge, a lambskin apron and sprig of acacia were thrown into the grave, and the Masonic honours were given, after which a hymn was sung, and the brethren returned in procession to the Masonic Hall, where the Lodge was closed.

The movement in favour of the North Island being formed into two Districts is gaining strength rapidly, and the death of the District Grand Master will remove any semblance of a difficulty which might have appeared in the way of such a step. We have not heard of any Brother having been spoken of in Wellington as the probable successor to Sir Donald at the time of the mail leaving.

News also reaches us from Auckland of the decease of Bro. Thos. Jenkins P.M., who was a Prov. Grand Officer of Berks and Bucks, and who had attained the age of 70 years. Bro. Jenkins was a prominent Mason in Auckland, and took an active part in all movements for the advancement of the welfare of the Craft. He had been resident ten years in the colony, and was an architect by profession. At his interment the funeral service was read by the Rev. Dr. Bruce, Chaplain of St. Andrew's Lodge S.C. Bro. Jenkins officiated as D.C. at the consecration of the Corinthian Lodge, recorded by us a short time since, and on that occasion said to the assembled brethren that he did not expect to be able to take part in another celebration in consequence of his failing health. He was much respected by the brethren of the district.

On the 5th January, Bro. M. S. Leers P.M., who is always active in matters Masonic, and is in every sense a bright Mason, acted as installing officer at the anniversary of the Coromandel Lodge 456 I.C. The following officers were installed:—G. W. Basley W.M., T. Warner S.W., E. Wilson J.W., C. Fraser Treas., H. Picket Sec., A. King S.D., A. Kelso J.D., H. Macdonald I.G., C. Coglan Tyler. The brethren afterwards sat down to a recherché banquet, provided by Host Boyd, of the Coromandel Hotel. After the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were drunk and responded to, the splendid Glee Club of Tokatea entertained the brethren with some beautiful musical selections, and the festivities closed after a most enjoyable reunion.

On St. John's Day Captain A. C. Turner was duly installed W.M. of the Tauranga Masonic Lodge for the ensuing year.

The Freemasons of Onehunga have resolved to erect a Masonic Hall in the township. A meeting was held on the 4th January, at which it was resolved to form a company for the purpose. The proposed building is to be 70 feet long by 31 feet wide.

A movement is on foot to petition for a warrant for a new Lodge at Newmarket, near Auckland, to be called the Remuera Lodge, Bro. Wm. Lodder P.M., to be the first Master. The petition has been recommended by the Prince of Wales Lodge 1338.

Southern Star Lodge, No. 735, Nelson.—The annual installation of officers took place on 27th December last. The Lodge was opened at 3.30, when the following members were duly installed and invested:—Bros. L. Boor W.M., W. Holmes S.W., W. M. Stanton J.W., W. B. Sealey Treas., H. M. Moor Sec., J. Cann

S.D., M. Sedgwick J.D., J. Kissel I.G., H. Hargreaves Tyler. The brethren at a later hour sat down to a really first-class repast prepared by Bro. J. Tregea. The chair was taken by the W.M., who, after justice had been done to the good things provided, proposed the following Loyal and Masonic toasts: The Queen, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, our Most Worshipful Grand Master, and the Grand Lodge of England, The Grand Lodges of Ireland and Scotland, and the Most Worshipful Grand Masters. Bro. Sealey P.M. then proposed the retiring Worshipful Master of the Southern Star Lodge, Past Master Bro. J. C. Moutray, and this having been honoured according to Masonic custom, Bro. Squires P.M. proposed the newly-installed Worshipful Master, Bro. Boor, and the officers invested this day, a toast that was enthusiastically received. Bro. W. M. Stanton proposed the Installing Officer, Bro. Sealy, coupled with the Supreme Council of New Zealand, 33rd degree, of which our esteemed brother is a worthy Companion. Bro. Sealy P.M. responded, and in so doing gave a clear and interesting account of the rise and progress of the Supreme Council of New Zealand. Bro. Lightfoot proposed The Trafalgar Royal Arch Chapter of Nelson, coupled with the name of the 1st Principal, Bro. Squires, who responded to the toast, and thanked the brethren present for the hearty manner in which it had been responded to. Bro. Moutray proposed the Sister Lodges of Blenheim and Wakefield—Lodge of Unanimity and Forest Lodge. This toast was followed by the Visitors, the Ladies, the Host, and all poor and distressed Masons. These having been duly honoured, several songs were sung by the brethren present, among which "The Good Rhine Wine," by Bro. Taylor, and "Oh, Let me like a Soldier Fall," by visiting Bro. Harris, deserve special mention, and the company spent a very pleasant evening.

MEETINGS HELD, &c.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Thursday, the 8th inst., at Bro. Hallows, The Chequers, Marsh-street, Walthamstow. Present—Bros. W. G. Hallows W.M., Evennett S.W., Franklin J.W., Pinder Preceptor, Brown S.D., Christian J.D., F. Hallows I.G.; also Bros. Clark, Hunt, Bell, Carter. Business—The Lodge was opened in due form. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bros. Hunt and Clark acting as candidates. Bro. Christian worked the 1st and 2nd section of the lecture. Bros. Hunt, Carter and Clark, of Lodge 1662, and Bro. Bell, of Lodge 1178, were elected members. Bro. Evennett was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Hervey Lodge, No. 1260.—A meeting of the W.M. P.M.'s officers and audit committee of the above Lodge was held at Bro. Beeton's, Punch Tavern, Fleet-street, on the 28th February. The accounts were carefully examined, and after the auditor's report had been drawn up, congratulating the members of the Lodge upon its successful position and the good balance for the W.M. elect to commence his year of office with, the brethren sat down to a capital dinner, served in Bro. Beeton's well-known style, the viands and wine giving great satisfaction. After the removal of the cloth, and the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, given and received in a capital manner, the W.M., in a very fluent speech, proposed the health of Bro. Southwood S.W. and W.M. elect, and informed the brethren how correctly he had worked the ceremonies at his examination previous to being elected, and said that fact showed he would be an ornament to the Lodge. He might safely predict a very prosperous and successful year of office. He was also glad to tell the brethren that Bro. Southwood had undertaken to represent the Lodge at the forthcoming Festival of the Boys' School; he hoped that his list would be a good one. The W.M. concluded by wishing Bro. Southwood prosperity during his year of office, and it is needless to say the toast was responded to enthusiastically. The W.M. elect returned thanks in a very feeling speech. After the high encomiums of the W.M. he trusted that he would not disappoint the brethren now they had placed such confidence in him. He always had Masonry at heart, and tried his best to promote its interests. He felt sure if he had the support of his officers, that the Lodge would be satisfied with his conduct of it. In concluding, Bro. Southwood said he had a very pleasing, though at the same time painful task, to perform. They all knew how seriously ill their P.M. and Secretary, Bro. G. King jun., had been since May last, and that his medical advisers had ordered him a voyage to Port Natal. It was very gratifying to him (Bro. Southwood) to find the members of the Lodge had so unanimously responded to his letter, and that the result had been the collection of a sufficient sum of money to enable our worthy Secretary to pay his passage out and home. He much regretted the more recent illness which had prevented Bro. G. King jun. from being with them that evening, but would ask Bro. King sen. P.M. to accept on behalf of his son the purse which contained the collection, and desired him to inform the Secretary that with the present he had the entire wishes of the subscribers that the voyage, with the help of the G.A.O.T.U., would prove of the best service to him in restoring him in a few months to perfect health. Bro. King sen. responded in a suitable manner, and after the various other toasts, the brethren separated.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The extraordinary range of temperature prevailing in our climate is extremely trying to the delicate-chested, the weak and nervous. All troubled by these afflictions should resolve to resort to this strengthening and regulating medicine immediately they perceive in themselves disposition, or that feeling of restlessness which betokens disordered digestion and defective secretion of bile. One of Holloway's Pills taken about noon, and followed at bed-time by a dose sufficiently large to act aperiently, will speedily restore the faculty functions, and restore order throughout the whole system. A treatment so safe in operation and so successful in result should be known and practised when, from cold and sundry other causes, disease is attempting to gain a vexatious footing.

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to th Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

The Royal Masonic Cyclopædia of History, Rites, Symbolism, and Biography, Part VI. Edited by Kenneth R. M. Mackenzie, IX° ("Cryptonymus"). London: Bro. John Hogg, 15a, Paternoster-row, E.C.

THIS completes Bro. Mackenzie's work. We have already expressed our entire satisfaction with the manner in which he has accomplished his very difficult task. There is no more serious undertaking—in the way of literary labour, at least—than the compilation of a cyclopædia. Accuracy is essential, or the book is worthless, but how shall a man find time to be accurate in all things, when the knowledge of even one thing is denied to so many of us? There is room to indulge in propounding novel theories of one's own, or even in writing at length on a favourite subject, but considerations of space forbid this. Then something must be said even on matters of which one has gleaned at best but an imperfect knowledge, and that something must be said creditably, or the cyclopædist will be laughed at for undertaking a work beyond his powers. Bro. Mackenzie, however, has done well. There is evidence of painstaking throughout. No one can read the more abstruse articles without entertaining the conviction that, as regards this most trying section of the work, it would have been difficult to find a more learned exponent. In short, The Royal Masonic Cyclopædia has been well and conscientiously done, and deserves an honoured place in the library of every Masonic student.

The present number of Picturesque Europe is descriptive of Old English Homes. The principal attraction in this periodical are the admirable engravings, with which each number is so profusely embellished. Those in Part 13 are fully equal in execution and artistic merit to all that have gone before. The steel engraving from a picture by J. Mogford, and engraved by S. Bradshaw, is of "Bamborough Castle." The minor illustrations include several views of Haddon Hall—from the Terrace, from the River, the Courtyard, the Banqueting Hall, and Dorothy Vernon's Postern; of Kenilworth Castle; the Courtyard Penshurst; the Gateway, Hever Castle; Scarborough Castle; two views in Bristol, of Temple-street and St. Peter's Hospital, and the Gate at Chepstow Castle.

Albeit a somewhat eccentric, the Rev. Rowland Hill was a thoroughly good man, and the sketch which the current number of Sunday at Home contains of him, from the pen of the Rev. E. Paxton Hood will find a host of appreciative readers. Indeed, we have seldom read a biographical sketch which has afforded us greater pleasure. "A Passover Night on Gerizim," by the Rev. J. W. Bardsley, and No. III. of "Pictures from Jewish Life," by J. Alexander, are not only appropriate to the work in which they appear, but of themselves admirable pictures of the olden time. "Our China Teacups" is a neatly told little tale, and there is likewise mentionable No. III. of the late R. Demans's series of articles on "The English Bible," which we take this opportunity of commending to the notice of our readers. A coloured illustration, "The Convalescent," makes an excellent frontispiece, and there are in addition the regulation number of engravings which, as usual, are in every respect praiseworthy.

Mr. Gilbert Marsh contributes to the London Magazine a neat little poem, entitled "A very Brown Study," and the accompanying illustration is quite in keeping with it. "Mayfair," by a London writer, is an excellent representative of serial fiction. Cuthbert Bede's account of "A Chivalrous Adventure" is amusing, and there is much righteous indignation in Mr. Herbert Dolleman's unfortunately too true picture of what many "Penny Readings" are. We have read Mr. Edgar Brinsmead's History of the Pianoforte, so that we can fully appreciate the review of it in these pages. The sketch of "Edmund Burke," and the dramatic article "From the Stalls," are worthy contributions to a well-conducted and readable magazine.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE week has been a very quiet one in the House of Lords. Two Bills, on Bankruptcy and Law Reform respectively, were introduced by the Lord Chancellor, and received a first reading, and there was a debate on the motion for the second reading of the Metropolitan Board of Works Bill, which was negatived without a division. In the House of Commons the chief business has been the introduction of the Army Estimates in Committee of Supply. Mr. Hardy, as Secretary of State for War, moved the usual resolutions, fixing the number of men for the service of the year, and the amount to be voted for their pay and allowances. These resolutions were passed, the House resumed, and shortly after adjourned. This was on Monday. A brace of abstract resolutions were disposed of on other evenings, and on Wednesday afternoon the second reading of the Ancient Monuments Bill was affirmed by the very substantial majority of 48, in a tolerably full house, the numbers being—for the motion 211, against it 163. The result was hailed with cheers by the Opposition.

On Friday last the Queen held a Court and Drawing Room at Buckingham Palace. There were present in the Royal circle the Prince of Wales, the Princesses Louise (Marchioness of Lorne) and Beatrice, Prince Christian, and the Duke of Teck. The corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms were on duty under the command of their Captain, the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, and the Yeomen of the Guard under their Captain, Lord Skelmersdale. The diplomatic and general circles were both numerously attended, and then followed a number of presentations, the names of the ladies having been previously left at the Lord Chamberlain's office, and submitted for Her Majesty's approval. The Queen left London for Windsor Castle on Saturday afternoon.

On Monday evening the Prince of Wales presided at the 119th Anniversary of the Orphan Working School and Alexandra Orphanage. There was a large attendance of noblemen and gentlemen to support His Royal Highness. Following the toast of the evening, which was proposed by the Prince in the warmest possible terms, the Treasurer, after duly acknowledging the toast, read out a long list of subscriptions and donations, amounting to little short of £6,650, the Chairman himself, whose list exceeded £3,000, contributing £100. On Wednesday His Royal Highness left town for Melton Mowbray on a visit of a few days to Colonel Williams. At Leicester a large crowd was assembled for the purpose of greeting the Prince as the train passed through. During his stay H.R.H. will hunt with the Quorn, weather permitting; for, on the day of his departure, snow, hail, and rain fell heavily, and the prospect of any improvement in the weather was extremely doubtful. Previous to leaving town, the Prince presided at a meeting of the Governors of Wellington College.

The Regular Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday. The attendance was large, and the minutes of the Special Communication were confirmed without a dissentient voice. Thus the vote of £4,000 to the Royal National Lifeboat Institution is now un fait accompli. Full particulars, however, are given elsewhere in our columns.

On Saturday, a Chapter of the Order of St. Patrick was held in St. Patrick's Hall, Dublin, and His Grace the Duke of Manchester, by command of Her Majesty, was formally installed by the Viceroy, the Duke of Marlborough, as a Knight of that most illustrious order. The scene was a very brilliant one, the wives of the Knights being present as well as the ladies of the Viceregal Court. Previous to the investiture, the Duke received the honour of knighthood. The usual ceremony was then performed, after which the Duke's banner was unfurled, and His Grace received the congratulations of those present. A banquet followed, at which the Duke of Marlborough presided. The health of the newly-invested Knight was drunk with great enthusiasm, and appropriately acknowledged. Since then the Viceroy has held the second Levee of the season, there being a numerous attendance. Thus, Dublin, under the auspices of the new Lord Lieutenant, is having a very gay time of it.

The Cambridge Crew reached their usual quarters at Putney on Monday afternoon, and have been taking their usual practice every day since. Their rivals will arrive from Oxford on Monday next, and then, of course, those who have the time will be watching almost daily the performance of the two crews. We need not trouble our readers with a disquisition on their merits or demerits. They are both above the average weight, and in this respect are well matched. Moreover, as we said last week, in both boats the number of old blues is greater than usual. It is to be regretted, for the sake of the spectators, if not of the crews themselves, that the weather should be so keenly cold; but young men in perfect training are not so much affected by weather changes as ordinary mortals. If any of our readers are anxious to "spot" the winner we shall have great pleasure in communicating to them our views on the subject, if they will call at our offices this day fortnight about the hour of noon.

Two new members have been latterly returned to Parliament—Mr. Hibbert, as member for Oldham, vice Mr. Cobbett deceased, and the Solicitor-General, for Launceston, vice Mr. Deakin, who has accepted the office of Steward of the Chiltern Hundreds. On the occasion of Sir Harding Giffard presenting himself to take the oath and subscribe the roll, the hon. and learned gentleman was received with loud cheers; but when, after in vain turning a mass of papers out of his pockets, it was found that his return for the borough was unproducible—for the moment, at least—the House resolved itself, not as it frequently does, into Committee of Supply, but into the heartiest laughter. At length Sir W. Dyke found the missing document on the seat under the gallery, which the hon. member had just vacated, and then the oath was taken, and the roll subscribed, amid reiterated laughter and applause, the Solicitor-General himself being altogether unmoved during the brief delay.

On Wednesday the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and the Countess of Derby entertained at dinner, at the Foreign Office, the Turkish, German, French, and Italian Ambassadors, and other guests, covers being laid for forty-two. Amongst those present were three members of the Imperial Chinese Embassy, now visiting London. The Countess of Derby had a reception afterwards, which was numerously attended. The same evening, the Chancellor of the Exchequer entertained at dinner several members of the House of Commons, and the Speaker gave his third Parliamentary banquet this session.

Two important resolutions were passed at the meeting of the Council of the Royal Agricultural Society on Wednesday, at their offices in Hanover-square. Lord Skelmersdale presided. Professor Brown of the Veterinary Department of the Paris Council having given all the needful statistical information relating to the recent outbreak of Cattle Plague in London and at Hull, the Council unanimously accepted resolutions, the first of which declared that nothing short of the total prohibition of live stock from European ports, will meet the present exigencies of the case; while the second affirmed, that uniform and compulsory measures should be enforced throughout the kingdom for the suppression of contagious diseases in cattle.

The Lord Mayor has announced his intention of opening a fund for the relief of the sufferers by the recent calamitous loss in the North Sea of thirty-six vessels and smacks belonging to Yarmouth, Lowestoft, Grimsby, Hull, and Ramsgate. By these losses no less than 216 men and boys have been drowned, the consequence being that 88 widows, 164 children, and 15 aged relations, are left entirely destitute of means. We trust the appeal of his Lordship will meet with a hearty response.

The latest political news from the continent is not of the most assuring character. It is said that in certain eventualities Russia will declare herself no longer bound by the Treaty of Paris. Elsewhere, it is rumoured that Russia will not retire from the advanced position she took up last December, unless she receives some compensation for the expenses incurred in mobilising a portion of her army. But Russia has no right to expect any compensation, for it was not more incumbent on her to arm than on any other of the Great Powers. We are naturally reminded of certain events which occurred in the reign of our Saxon King Ethelred the Unready, when the Danes threatened to ravage different parts of England, and were induced to abstain by the payment of large sums of money. When these were spent, they returned and renewed their threats, and were again bought off by the weak, irresolute monarch. In the end a massacre of the Danes took place in England, and Sweyn of Denmark landed at the head of an overwhelming force, and he, and subsequently his son Knut, drove out the Saxon Royal Family and reigned in its stead. The Russians of to-day are not a whit more civilised than our Saxon and Danish ancestors of between eight and nine centuries ago. It will require yet a few centuries of polish to eradicate from their character the greed and cunning of their Tartar ancestors. The rumours we have referred to may turn out to be false, and we trust, for the honour of Christendom, this may be the case. Meanwhile, peace has been concluded between Turkey and Servia, and the negotiations of the former power with Montenegro are said to be making considerable progress, though in some quarters this latter statement is denied, it being reported that Russia is using her best efforts to prevent the conclusion of peace.

On Wednesday evening a grand subscription ball took place in the Royal Opera House, Berlin. Among those present were the Emperor and Empress, the Crown Prince and Princess, and their eldest son, Prince William, the Duchess William of Mecklenburgh, all the ambassadors, and the diplomatic corps. The Court, with the exception of the Empress, walked twice through a polonaise. The Emperor was in wonderful health and spirits, considering his advanced age. The scene was a very magnificent one, though the number of guests was not so great as in former years.

Mr. Hayes was inaugurated President of the United States on Monday, in succession to General Grant, who had filled the office for two consecutive terms. President Hayes's speech was briefer than is usually the case on these occasions. Mr. Wheeler was also sworn in as Vice-President, and took the chair as Speaker of the Senate. The ceremonial observed was of the usual character. Mr. Hayes has since formed his Cabinet, the Hon. W. Evarts, of New York, being Secretary of State; the Hon. J. Sherman, of Ohio, Secretary of the Treasury; the Hon. G. W. M'Crary, Iowa, Secretary of War; the Hon. R. M. Thompson, Indiana, Secretary of the Navy; the Hon. Charles Devens, Massachusetts, Attorney-General; the Hon. David M. Key, Tennessee, Postmaster-General; and the Hon. Carl Schurz, Missouri, Secretary of the Interior.

The Preliminary Meeting of the Board of Stewards for the Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, to be held on the 9th of May, the Rt. W. Lord Suffield P.G.M. for Norfolk in the chair, was held on Thursday, the 8th inst., at the Freemason's Hall, Great Queen-street. Bro. Dr. Woodman P.G.S.B. in the chair. Bro. Philbrick Q.C., P.G.S., was voted as Chairman, Dr. Woodman P.G.S.B. Treasurer, and Bro. Robert Wentworth Little Hon. Sec. Thirty Lady Stewards were appointed. The number of Complimentary Tickets was agreed upon. The tickets for brethren are to be 21s, and for ladies 10s 6d. A Sub-Committee was appointed to inquire as to where the Festival should be held, to report thereon at the next meeting, consisting of 12 Stewards. The following brethren were appointed on the Musical Committee:—Bros. J. Boyd, S. Rosenthall, G. Bubb, E. Jones, C. F. Hogard, H. M. Levy. The Secretary announced that up to the present time there were 154 Stewards, the next meeting of whom will take place on Friday the 23rd, at half-past 4. A cordial and unanimous vote of thanks was accorded to the Chairman for his able presidency.

We understand that a movement has been originated by the York Mark Lodge (time immemorial) for the formation of a Provincial Grand Mark Lodge for North and East Yorkshire. There are now four Mark Lodges in that Province, and we hear that two or three more are likely to be formed shortly.

In our analysis of the subscription list at the Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution we stated that Devon was represented by five Stewards. As a matter of fact, there were only four. It is, moreover, only due to a very worthy brother, who worked most diligently in order to increase the funds of the Institution, to state that Bro. Curteis' amount of £365 was the highest sum raised by an individual Steward. Bro. Curteis, with Bro. Godschalk, both of Lodge No. 580, represented the whole of Devon, and very hard indeed they must have worked to have raised £565 out of the £590 standing to the credit of the Province. This, of course, we had no means of knowing till the information was kindly conveyed to us, and that was after our analysis had appeared.

We have received the first number of Vol. 50 of the Masonic Review (Cincinnati, Ohio), this being the first issue since the new arrangements were made, and Bro. Melish assumed the editorship. It is worthy in every respect, as regards matter and style of printing, of the preceding volumes, and fully bears out our expectations, that the superstructure raised on the very admirable basis laid down by Bro. Corn. Moore, would likewise be admirable. Among the contents are a sketch of Freemasonry in the year 1876, and a history, to be completed next month, of Nova Cæsarea Harmony Lodge, being No. 2 on the roll of the Ohio Grand Lodge. It affords us likewise great pleasure to state that a testimonial is about to be raised to Bro. Moore, who has laid aside the active duties and responsibilities of the editorship,—duties and responsibilities which he had borne for the long period of thirty years, only to find himself in comparative penury. This is a result of a life devoted to the interests of Freemasonry, which is neither pleasant to contemplate nor in any wise creditable to our Ohian brethren. It is their duty now, when Bro. Moore has reached the evening of his days, to make him amends for their weak support of him, and we trust the testimonial now about to be raised, will be sufficient to enable him to pass the remainder of his life in comfort.

The Leicester Freemasons' Hall Library was established in the year 1860, under the auspices of the then D.P.G.M., Bro. Kelly, and the St. John's and John of Gaunt Lodges. The number of works in the library has been from time to time increased by donations from Bros. Hodges, Brewin, Partridge, Hughan, H. Neilson, and others. The four local Craft Lodges and the Chapter have each voted the annual subscription of two guineas, and out of this sum the committee are having a number of Masonic pamphlets bound, and have also arranged for a number of Masonic publications, including the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, to be supplied for the use of brethren. There are now in this library over 200 volumes and pamphlets, but these are very properly not considered an adequate supply of Masonic literary pabulum by our Leicester brethren, nor are the funds equal to the demands made upon them for the purchase of new works. An appeal, therefore, is being made for further contributions of books or money, and we trust the appeal will not be made in vain. Masonry will go on flourishing the more, the more the cultivation of Masonic literature is pursued by brethren.

The Keystone humorously alludes to a typographical error which occurred in our review of Part VII. of The Early History and Transactions of the Grand Lodge of New York. It seems we had written "Bro. Jacob Norton was re-elected Grand Master," and again "A jewel was presented to Past Grand Master Jacob Norton." We should have said "Morton," not "Norton." We do not, however, attach the same degree of importance to the error as our contemporary appears to do. We do not think even the wildest imagination will associate the Bro. Jacob Norton of Boston, Mass., now living, in this year 1877, with the Grand Mastership of New York in the year 1805. Bro. Norton is not a chicken, but neither is he a patriarch—at least as to his age.

THE DRAMA.

The Opera Comique—The Compton Benefit at Drury Lane.

So amusing a burlesque as the "Bohemian Gyurl," now being played at the OPERA COMIQUE THEATRE, has not been produced for some years past. The well-worn opera of Balfe offers so tempting a subject for caricature, that it is a wonder the theme has not oftener been employed by writers of this class of entertainment. In witnessing the performance, one is reminded of what enthusiasts might call the palmy days of burlesque, when STRAND and OLYMPIC audiences were moved to uproarious laughter and applause by the acting of Marie Wilton, Patty Oliver, Robson, Mathews, and a host of other celebrities who have now either passed away, or become devoted to a higher order of dramatic representation. The dialogue is so brisk, the puns so good, so plentiful, and so promptly appreciated by the audience; and withal the acting is so spirited throughout, that the piece would seem to be destined for a very long run indeed. Miss Farren is, of course, the foremost figure of the group, and in the character of Thaddeus, of Warsaw, is certainly the life, if not the soul of the performance. Miss Kate Vaughan is an adequate exponent of the charming Arline, and Messrs. Royce and Terry are characteristically amusing in the principal male parts.

The Compton benefit at DRURY LANE, on Thursday, the 1st inst., was a great, perhaps unprecedently great, success. Both in the number and excellence of the artists engaged, and the general effect of the performance, the results achieved were far beyond anything that has hitherto been attained. Financially also, the benefit has been all that could be desired, and more than was probably expected by the projectors. The treasurer announced that he had himself received £2,200; at Manchester a further sum of £1,000 had been realised, and more was yet expected. The performance comprised the council scene from "Othello," the farce of "Lend me Five Shillings," the first act of "Money," the "boxing" scene from "The Man of the World," the last act of "The Critic," Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan's dramatic cantata "Trial by Jury," and recitations by Miss Heath and Mr. Irving. With regard to the actors, it would be an easier task to say who were not in the performance than to enumerate all who were. In "Trial by Jury" alone upwards of sixty artists took part, including Misses Pauline Rita, Carlotta Addison, Kate Bishop, Lucy Buckstone, Ella Dietz, Camille Dubois, Maria and Nelly Harris, Kathleen Irwin, Fanny Josephs, Rachel Sanger, Florence and Marion Terry, Lottie Venne; and Messrs. George Honey, George Fox, Arthur Cecil, W. H. Cummings, George Barrett, J. Fernandes, Howard Paul, J. D. Stoyle, &c., &c. The house was, of course, crammed to excess, and the applause frequent during the performance of the various portions of the entertainment.

Gush 1541, were severally introduced, and advanced to the honourable degree. A notice of motion for raising the fees for advancement was adjourned for future discussion. Three brethren were proposed for advancement at next meeting. The Lodge was honoured by the presence of several visitors, amongst whom we especially noticed the Grand Assist. Sec., Bros. H. W. Binckes, George Yarley W.M. Designate of the Croydon Mark Lodge, which is to be consecrated on the 9th inst., James Sutmore, Earl of Chester Lodge No. 196, Exeter, &c.

Sincerity Lodge of Instruction, No. 174.—This Lodge met at Bro. Seaton's, Railway Tavern, Fenchurch-street, on Monday, 5th inst. Bros. F. Brown W.M., W. Fraser S.W., Hilliard W.M. 174 J.W., Hill W.M., United Strength, S.D., Webb J.D., J. S. Fraser I.G., Ellis Secretary. Business—The W.M. worked the ceremony of initiation, Bro. A. H. Brown candidate. Bro. Ellis worked the first section of the lecture, and Bro. Webb the second and third, assisted by the brethren. Resolved that the office of Preceptor of this Lodge of Instruction be declared vacant, and that Bro. P.M. Austin 933 be invited to accept the office. This he kindly consented to do, stating that he had no intention or wish for the office, but after the very flattering compliments that had been paid to him, and as the brethren had so decidedly expressed their wish to him to be their Preceptor, he could not refuse. The votes of the Lodge were given to Bro. P.M. Lacey, to assist the case of the child of the late Bro. Goddin. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in due form.

Lodge of Joppa, No. 188.—The regular meeting of this Lodge, held on Monday, the 5th inst., at the Albion, Aldersgate-street, was numerously attended. The W.M. (Bro. L. Lazarus) occupied the chair. Bros. J. Miller S.W., M. Spiegel J.W., L. Auerhaan Treas., E. P. Albert G.P. Sec., A. J. Campion J.D., B. Baker I.G., H. P. Isaac D.C., and Past Masters Bros. A. G. Dodson I.P.M., L. Alexander, L. Hickman, H. M. Levy, H. Berkowitz Chaplain, I. Abrahams, O. Roberts. The Lodge having been opened and the minutes confirmed, Bros. Osborne, Lentzburg, Althorp, and Blanks were passed, and Bros. Wilenske and Back were raised. Both these ceremonies were perfectly and impressively rendered by the W.M., every officer being equally perfect. A letter and petition were read from the Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017, with respect to the non-admission of members of the Hebrew faith in the three Grand Lodges in Germany. Bro. Harris proposed, and Bro. H. Berkowitz P.M. and Chaplain seconded, That the letter and petition be referred to the committee appointed by the Lodge for that purpose. Bro. Davis P.M. 147, Birmingham, by permission of the W.M., addressed the Lodge in reference to the question. He said that the R.W. Lord Leigh, P.G.M. of Warwickshire, together with every Lodge in his Province, had given their cordial support, as had also several others. A sum of £5 5s was voted to be placed on the list of Bro. Israel Abrahams P.M., who represents the Lodge at the Boys' Festival to be held in June next. One candidate was proposed for initiation, after which the Lodge was closed until the 12th of April, in lieu of the first Monday in the month, that being Bank Holiday. After the banquet, the W.M. proposed the "Queen and the Craft." The National Anthem was sung by Miss Alma Yorke, Miss Blanche Grosvenor, Messrs. F. Brough and Prenton. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., was then given, and received with great enthusiasm, and Miss Alma Yorke sang "The beauty of my own heart." The W.M. then proposed the Earl of Carnarvon, the R.W. the Earl of Skelmersdale and the rest of the Grand Officers, coupling with the toast the name of Bro. E. P. Albert P.M. Mr. Prenton then sang "Homeward Bound." Bro. E. P. Albert G.P. returned thanks. He hoped to see at the next meeting of Grand Lodge many of those now around him, to do honour on that auspicious occasion, it being the election of the M.W.G.M. The W.M. then proposed what he considered was the particular toast of the evening, "Their Benevolent Fund." He would say that this Lodge was the first that instituted a Benevolent Fund, and it had now reached the sum of £1,250. (Cheers.) He would call on Bro. Louis Alexander P.M. and President to respond to the toast. Miss Blanch Grosvenor then sang "Looking Back," which was loudly applauded and deservedly encored. Bro. Louis Alexander, P.M. and President of the Benevolent Fund, spoke of its origin. It was established for the purpose of assisting members of their own Lodge, without their having to apply to Grand Lodge. They had had many applications, and had given many sums of £100 each. The brethren gave so liberally that they were then in a better position than last year. Bro. A. G. Dodson rose, and said he had to propose the toast of the W.M. They had seen how he had performed his duties, which, he was sure, had been done to their satisfaction. Mr. Frank Brough then sang "My sweetheart when a boy," after which the W.M. replied. He was pleased with the remarks of the I.P.M.—it was a labour of love, and he hoped they were satisfied with the manner he had conducted the duties of the chair. (Cheers.) He had a toast, which was one that was always received with acclamation; it was that of the Visitors. They were always pleased to see them. Bro. F. Binckes P.G.S. returned thanks. He was then suffering from a severe cold. It was many years since he had visited the Lodge, and the Visitors had always found an honest and hearty welcome. He was sure that was the feeling of every visitor. He felt a pride in listening to the words of the President of the Benevolent Fund, and he hoped every Lodge would follow such a good example. He was pleased to see Bros. White and Cotterell from Aldershot. He would be sorry to monopolise their time in prolonging his remarks. He spoke of the great work done by Bro. Constable, and hoped he would do some wonderful work in the way of his books. If every brother present would give Bro. Constable a shilling, they would soon see what good it would do. Bro. Constable followed in a very excellent speech. He hoped to get £1,000 for the Boys; as much good can be obtained by shilling tickets as by larger contributions. He was followed by Bros. Davis P.M. 147, and White. Miss Alma Yorke and Mr. Prenton then sang "The Syren and the Friar." The W.M. proposed the Past Masters. He always looked to the P.M.'s for assistance; he had not yet required it, but they were always able to render their services. Every one is qualified to fill that office, and he could give testimony that they could and would give their assistance. Bro. White, P.M. 1331, sang "The Thorn" very excellently, and being deservedly encored, followed with "The Union Jack of Old England." Bro. A. G. Dobson I.P.M. replied, and said he felt proud to be in the position of P.M., and to occupy that position in so important a Lodge. Bro. H. M. Levy followed, and in the course of his speech said he looked with pride around the Lodge to see that brethren whom he had appointed to office had risen to be most proficient in their duties, and had so satisfactorily filled the chair. He urged the necessity of attending Lodges of Instruction, and he felt much pleasure in responding to the toast. The W.M. then proposed the Wardens, and spoke of their excellent working qualifications, for they were capable of filling every office required of them. Miss Alma Yorke sang very artistically 'Nobil Signor.' Bros. Miller and Spiegel severally responded, and said the bright example shown by the W.M. would be an incentive to them to occupy the chair. In proposing the toast of the Junior Officers, the W.M. said they had many zealous ones in their Lodge, but none more so than Bros. R. Baker and H. P. Isaac. He hoped to see them in much higher positions, which they were well qualified to fill. Mr. Frank Brough then sang "Love laid his sleepless head." Bros. Baker and H. P. Isaac replied. The toast of the Treasurer, Bro. L. Auerhaan, and Secretary, Bro. E. P. Albert, was given and cordially received, and the Tyler's toast concluded an agreeable and convivial evening. The Visitors were—Bros. A. Catford 1518, W. Cottrell 1424, White P.G.P. Hants, P.M. 1331, E. W. Coombs 1046, H. Margetson 172, J. H. Kemp 27, H. Ashley 77, J. Chappell 511, T. Maidwell J.W. 27, B. Secretary, had filled the office so competently, that all regretted that he would not retain it. Bro. Marton, in reply, said the Lodge was prospering morally and financially. The toast of the Sister Lodges, proposed by P.M. Wilson, was responded to by Bro. Kinnaird R.W.M. of 73, in an excellent speech. Four candidates having been proposed for initiation, Lodge was closed in due form. The brethren, to the number of about thirty, adjourned to refreshment, after which the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured, interspersed with some excellent songs by Bros. Considering the highly creditable and praiseworthy manner in which he had fulfilled the duties appertaining to it, he proposed that a vote of thanks should be recorded to him on the minutes, which was duly seconded and carried. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in due form. Brethren in the neighbourhood are requested to observe that a Charity Fund, entitled the "William Preston Benevolent Association," has just been started at the Lodge of Instruction, for the purpose of enabling members, by a small weekly subscription, to become life subscribers to either of the Masonic Institutions.

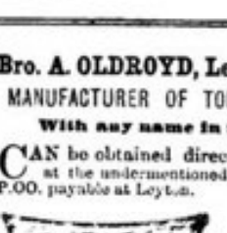
The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Ahrens. After grace was sung, the W.M. proposed "The Queen and the Craft," followed by The Prince of Wales as M.W.G.M., the National Anthem and "God bless the Prince of Wales" being sung. "The Earl of Carnarvon Pro G.M., the R.W. Bro. Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers was given. Bro. J. W. Wright I.P.M. then rose. He was sure they would all drink with great pleasure the toast of the W.M.; he was proud of having introduced him into Masonry; he is a credit to the Craft, for the manner in which he had conducted the duties since his occupation of the chair, shows that the Lodge had wisely selected him. The W.M. in reply, thanked the I.P.M. and brethren for the kind manner the toast had been given and received, he had worked to occupy the chair; and he was proud at having attained it. He hoped at the expiration of his year of office, he would have the same feelings exhibited. He hoped to carry out every duty the Lodge required of him in a satisfactory way. He then proposed the I.P.M. and Installing Master for the services he had rendered, the brethren had determined to present him with a jewel. He felt it a great pleasure in their name to place it on his breast, which was worthy of it. He hoped he might live long to wear it. The jewel was of very elegant design, bearing the Royal Standard arms, with suitable inscription. Bro. Keates sang "My old friend John." Bro. Wright I.P.M., in brief and appropriate terms, responded to the toast. The W.M. then proposed the Visitors; they had some very distinguished brethren among them. The Royal Standard Lodge would always be pleased to give them a hearty welcome. He would call on Bro. Sands, D.G.M. for Japan, to respond to the toast. He having replied, the Masonic Charities was proposed. Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. 188 responded to it. The P.M.'s followed; in a new Lodge all were aware they were few in number, but they had done their duties nobly. Bro. Wilson P.M. returned thanks. He was one of the founders of the Lodge. They had seen how ably the retiring W.M. had installed his successor, and he was sure it was a good omen for the prosperity of the ensuing year. Before resuming his seat, he hoped they would drink the health of those brethren who had contributed to the harmony—Bros. Nunn and Keates. The toast of the Treasurer and Secretary was given. The W.M. said no Secretary could have discharged his duties more faithfully than Bro. Bigley. Many things had been done by him, and it is to him the prosperity of the Lodge is due. The freedom of the Lodge had been voted by the brethren, and he had much pleasure in presenting it, with best wishes of long life and happiness. Bro. Allison, Treasurer, responded in a very excellent speech. Bro. Bigley thanked the brethren for the elegant testimonial presented to him. When hanging on his walls he would look on it with pride, as an appreciation of the small services rendered by him. It would be an incentive to go on and work for their benefit. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Wardens, said they, having had an opportunity of working in Lodges of Instruction, now reaped the reward of their labours. The Junior Officers are equally worthy. Bro. Linton Rogers then sang "What will you do, Love?" Bros. Cohen and Hunter responded, after which the Tyler's toast was given. The W.M. and Bros. Nunn, Wright P.M., and Rogers contributed to the harmony.

Royal Standard Lodge of Instruction, No. 1298.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Friday, the 2nd inst.; at the Castle, Highbury. Present—Bros. Chant W.M., Hall S.W., Simpson J.W., R. Dickinson Secretary, Lee acting Preceptor, Elridge S.D., Hunter J.D., Passingham I.G., &c. Business—The ceremony of initiation was worked, Bro. Gianelli being candidate. The W.M. then vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Wright, who duly installed Bro. Dickinson as W.M. The latter then appointed the various officers, and worked the 1st section. Three brethren were elected members, and a vote of thanks to Bro. Wright recorded on the minutes for his services in working the installation ceremony. The Lodge was then formally closed.



Wolsey Lodge, No. 1656, Hampton Wick.—This Lodge, which was consecrated at the White Hart Hotel, by the R.W. Bro. Colonel Burdett P.G.M. Middlesex on Saturday, 17th February, when Bro. William Hammond P.P.G.D. Middlesex, was installed as the first Worshipful Master, held its first regular meeting on Monday evening, the 5th inst. Bro. Hammond commenced proceedings shortly after six o'clock, supported by the following officers:—Bros. J. Hammond P.M. 201 S.W. 1512 Hon. I.P.M., B. Sharp P.M. 84, S.W., J. Bond P.M. 889, J.W., the Rev. F. J. Champion de Crespigny P.M. 708, P.P.G. Chap. Middlesex, Chaplain, T. W. Ockenden Sec., B. R. Aston S.D., J. Hurst J.D., T. C. Walls I.G. The Lodge being opened in the first degree, the Secretary read the minutes of the preliminary and consecration meetings, which were duly confirmed. Bro. C. R. Fitt, of the Hyatt Lodge 205, Brooklyn, U.S., was balloted for as a joining member, and unanimously elected. The W.M. then proceeded to initiate Messrs. Albert Marvin, Thomas A. E. Scott, C. Richer, and J. Featherstone into the mysteries of the Craft. Notwithstanding the indisposition of the W.M., who was suffering from a troublesome cold, the ceremony was most impressively performed. Each candidate was initiated separately, and the working throughout of the various officers left little, if anything, to be desired. The W.M., fully alive to the responsibility of his position, has been careful to invest with collars those brethren only who have proved themselves competent to discharge creditably the duties assigned to them. Bro. A. Nuthall was unanimously elected Treasurer. Several propositions for joining and initiation were handed in, and all business being concluded, the brethren adjourned to refreshment. Amongst the Visitors were Bros. Buckland, W.M. of the Dubie, Wells, Pearman, J. W. Baldwin P.A.G.D. Middlesex, an honorary member of the Lodge, was also present. At the banquet the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and well received. The health of the P.G.M. (Bro. Colonel Burdett) was responded to with much enthusiasm, for he is, and very deservedly so, most popular in the province. In proposing the health of the D.P.G.M. (Bro. Little), reference was made to the fact that, at its consecration, the Wolsey Lodge was the first to be honoured with a visit from that most worthy brother, after the recent distinction conferred upon him. Bro. Baldwin responded for the P.G. officers. In proposing the health of the W.M., the Senior Warden congratulated the brethren on having so excellent a Mason as Bro. William Hammond in the chair, he being a Bro. who has already occupied that exalted position in three other Lodges. The W.M. acknowledged the toast, assured the brethren of the great interest he felt in the success of the Wolsey and trusted the Lodge might always be as well manned by efficient officers as those with whom it had now set sail. The Initiates were next toasted, Bro. Scott responding on their behalf. The company would have been glad to have heard the other E.A.'s., but owing to the "rapid flight of time," business had to be proceeded with. For the Visitors, a toast which met with a hearty response, Bro. Buckland W.M. 889 responded in a brief, but effective manner. The health of the Officers was next given, and Bro. the Rev. F. J. C. de Crespigny, the Chaplain, in responding, made an excellent speech; impressing upon the brethren, in the course of his remarks, that quality must be sought after in the admission of candidates. With the toast of the Charities, the W.M. coupled the names of Bro. Bond J.W. who is the Steward of this Lodge for the Girls' School, and Bro. Ockenden, likewise a Steward for the same Institution, and representing a neighbouring Lodge. The Tyler's toast terminated the proceedings. Before closing our report, we must mention that the Lodge-room, though small, is exceedingly well furnished, and all the appointments are admirable.

SILENCE, OR A TONGUE OF GOOD REPORT.

WE have no intention of inflicting a sermon on our readers, but it is meet for us occasionally to advert to one of the Masonic Virtues, which brethren are not always careful to observe. We do not know how it would have fared with some of us moderns had we lived in the South of Italy in the days of Pythagoras, and sought admission into the school of philosophy, which that venerable sage established at Croton. It strikes us that a very respectable majority would have experienced almost insuperable difficulties in obeying the prescriptions of that learned man during the first period of their novitiate, which lasted two years, and during the whole of which they were bound to observe the strictest silence. True, we have in these degenerate days, a most wise precept which enunciates emphatically a most obvious truth, namely, that "Speech is silvern, silence is golden." Unhappily we do not always exhibit that respect which it has a right to look for from men in general, and from Masons in particular. We recognise its merits, but only as it were, through a glass darkly. We quote it freely, but do we obey it always, and unhesitatingly? There are cases, also, which come under our observation from time to time, and require us, in very truth, to answer this formidable question in the negative. We are not obedient to this invaluable maxim, and we purpose glancing on this occasion, and in general terms, at the more prominent illustrations of this disobedience.

One of the first and most important lessons we are taught at our entrance into Freemasonry is to speak well of a brother both in his absence and in his presence; and if, unfortunately, that cannot be done honestly and truthfully, we are enjoined to observe that special virtue of the Craft—SILENCE. If we cannot honourably speak well in praise of a brother, we must say nothing to his dispraise. This is a charming precept, but how fares it when it comes to be reduced to practice? In what is Masonically known as the profane world, there prevails very commonly the habit of talking scandal. This, it is needless to say, is a most pernicious habit, and one to which much evil is directly traceable. Is it asking too much of those who join our ranks that they should cast it aside when they come among us, not in theory only, but likewise in practice, and that the solemn obligation they contract at their initiation should be reverently observed, not flung to the winds when their purpose is gained, and they have received the honours of the first degree? We are very far from expecting that a man will become perfect simply by reason of his Masonry, but it is not unreasonable we should require of him to be as diligent in the fulfilment of his Masonic duties as he is in satisfying the claims of society in his ordinary avocations. There are times when it is necessary that a man should present himself for admission into the society of his acquaintance in the full dress of the day. He obeys this law, because he knows that admission in any other garb would be impossible. A man is charged to fulfil certain duties at particular hours of the day. He does so, because he knows that any dereliction of his duty will be visited with condign punishment. To put the matter plainly, his services will be dispensed with after repeated trials and disapprobations, oftentimes, indeed, after one only, and those of one willing to fulfil such duties punctually will be engaged instead. But if it is de rigueur to attend a ball or the opera in the conventional white tie and swallow-tail; if when we enter upon the duties of a certain post, we so far worship prescription and morality as to do what is required, à fortiori is it incumbent on us to observe the obligations imposed upon us by Freemasonry, seeing that it is we who go to Freemasonry, not Freemasonry which comes to us. Society says white ties and swallow-tails at certain seasons, or we forbid your presence. Business obligation says, duty at certain times of a given quality, or we need you not. Freemasonry says nothing in the way of invitation. It is we who seek admission. It warns us, before entrance, that we are about contracting certain solemn obligations. Query, are we not equally in duty bound to fulfil them, just as we are the obligations of business or of fashion? Fashion prescribes a blue coat and brass buttons or nankeen inexpressibles, or the afore-mentioned tie, and swallow-tail coat, and we obey the prescription in fear and trembling, lest the tie or inexpressibles, or buttons, should differ to the extent of a hair's breadth from the size and shape required. In this matter we are the most despicable of slaves; yet in a matter of plain Masonic honour we are guilty of every kind of prevarication, equivocation, and mental reservation, in order to shirk a duty voluntarily undertaken, not undertaken of necessity. There are those brethren who do speak differently behind a brother's back, than when they are in his presence; who do not observe silence as to his faults, when Masonry prescribes they should be silent. Many there are who enlarge on the infirmities of a brother's nature, who talk scandal of him when occasion offers, and who create a scandal where there is none. There is no doubt that Masonry, which includes charity, covers a multitude of sins; but that is no reason for making the multitude more multitudinous. Let us cultivate a tongue of good report, or let us, in the name of all we hold sacred, have a tongue of no report at all. We have our wits about us, and we trust a sense of honour. Let us exercise our wit and satisfy our sense of honour, when both alike forbid us violating our duty. It is surely no hardship to be discreetly silent. Let us drop scandal at the portals of the Lodge. There is no room for it in pure and unadulterated Freemasonry. If men have not the courage to commit themselves unreservedly to the dictates of honour, let them forbear seeking admission to our temples. Neither the backbiter nor the scandalmonger has any appointed place within these.

THE CRAFT AND THE HIGH GRADES.

WE adduce the two following cases in which Craft and Arch Masonry took part together in the consecration of a Craft Lodge. In the first in order of date it will be noticed further that members of the Order of Masonic Knights Templar were present wearing their regalia. It is clear then there was not the same strict observance in those days as now, and that in the commingling of different Masonic bodies in a Craft ceremonial pure and simple, our United States brethren adhere more closely to the practice of last century than we do in England. R.A. jewels are very properly worn in Craft Lodges, for the Arch is recognised of Grand Lodge; but it would be a departure from the law if on the occasion of the consecration of a new Lodge and the installation of its W.M., brethren appeared in any other capacity than as Craft Masons. As to Templarism, it is, doubtless, not unknown to our readers that some years since one of our Provincial Grand Masters was summarily dismissed from his office by the late Earl of Zetland for attending P.G. Lodge clothed in the habili-ments of a Knight Templar—we have seen it stated, in the gorgeous regalia of a S.G.I.G. of the 33°, but the point is immaterial—in addition to his provincial clothing. Therefore the mention of Knights Templar in this case and that cited by Bro. Whytehead are the more noteworthy.

The first occasion was a Provincial Grand Lodge held at Chelmsford on 16th August 1793, for the purpose of celebrating the anniversary of the birth of the Grand Master H.R.H. George Prince of Wales, to regulate the Masonic business of the county, and to constitute the Lodge of Good Fellowship at the Saracen's Head. Bro. Thomas Dunckerley, P.G.M., presided. The Lodge having been opened "in ample form"—we are quoting from the Freemasons' Magazine or General and complete Library—the P.G.M. appointed his officers for the Province. A procession took place to the church. In it and following the Craft Lodges we find the list thus continued:

A Janitor.
Royal Arch Masons with Sashes and Medals, two and two.
An Equerry, K.T.
The Grand Register (? Registrar) of the Order in uniform, with black silk sashes, with a silver star of five points, a cross of gold, and an appendage of white satin.
The Grand Lodge of Essex, in the following order,
Grand Tyler.
Past Grand Officers, two and two.
Grand Stewards.
Grand Chaplain, and Grand Architect.
Grand Secretary and Grand Treasurer.
The Two Grand Wardens.
The Grand Master, preceded by the Grand Sword Bearer, and Supported on the right by the Provincial Deputy Grand Master, and on the left by Capt. Sir W. Hannam, Acting Grand Master for England of K.T.

In the report of the Constitution of the new Lodge there is no evidence that the Royal Arch and Knights Templar Masons took any part as such, but the fact of their joining in a Craft procession fully bears out Bro. Whytehead's statement in his letter, which appeared a fortnight since in these columns, to the effect that "in those days, there was no desire on the part of any of those bodies (i.e., the 'High Grades') or Craft Masons, to separate or hold aloof from one another."

The second case is recorded in the same magazine for February 1795, as having occurred "at the consecration of the Lodge of Unanimity, No. 136, at Coltishall, Norfolk," on the 14th October 1793. In the brief account of this event, we read that after the new Lodge had been consecrated "in ample form," "the P.G.M. Sir Edward Astley, the Most Excellent Superintendent of Royal Arch Masons, the Hon. Henry Hobart, attended by their respective Grand and Excellent Officers, together with the Masters, Wardens and brethren of several visiting Lodges, the Masters, Wardens and brethren of the Coltishall Lodge, &c., went in grand procession from the Lodge-room to church, preceded by a band of music." In the procession we find that after the Craftsmen of the various Lodges followed "Janitor—three Principals of Royal Arch Chapter—Royal Arch Masons, two and two," and then the Grand Tyler, &c., &c. This is less remarkable than the previous case, or that quoted by Bro. Whytehead, but we have thought it sufficiently interesting to introduce it in the course of these few observations.

ODDS AND ENDS.

By Walter Spencer, F.R.G.S., &c.

THE first permanent Chinese Legation established in Europe is naturally a source of considerable interest. The biographies of the Ambassador and of the Attaché Lieu, which appeared in the Illustrated London News, are rather inaccurate. There are, I believe, but four men of rank in the Legation, viz.—H. E.—Kuoh; Lieu, the attaché; Fêh, the secretary; and Fung, the interpreter, beside Dr. Macartney and his assistant. But they are accompanied by a horde of retainers and domestics. It is the third visit to Europe of the Chinese Interpreter and Secretary, Messieurs Fung and Têh, gentlemen of much polish and acquaintance with Western manners. The Consular officers mentioned in some newspapers is not attached to the Legation, but acts as interpreter for Lord Derby. London is naturally not the pleasantest place of residence which would have been selected by the strangers, but they will, it is hoped, gradually feel more at home.

Dr. Macartney, who accompanies them, is an old resident in China, a perfect master of the Chinese language and etiquette. Shortly after the capture of Soochow from the rebels, I was his guest in the house where the threshold was yet wet with the blood of the Mo-Wang. He founded in Soochow the first Arsenal established upon European principles; all was in disorder, and motley materials were being hurriedly assembled for commencement of the undertaking. When he ushered me to rest on the first night spent in his hospitable yamen, I remember his pointing in a jocular way to a receptacle in the room with the remark, "Take care of your light, that's fulminate of mercury."

When the Arsenal was fairly started, of course great excitement arose amongst the Celestials. Troops of them came from towns in the surrounding country to adore respectfully the steam-engines and blazing furnaces, and pilgrims eager in the worship of Fung-Shui were, later on, attracted from afar. Macartney ranked as a Taou-tai, or Prefect of a town, and administered justice amongst his numerous retainers upon patriarchal principles. His name was parsphrased into Ma-Ka-Lee, and, in accordance with Chinese custom, he was supposed to belong to the great family of Ma; for, amongst Chinese, the surname goes first. Thus, the names of the Interpreter and Secretary to the present Legation are Fung-Yeè and Têh-Ming, but it would be impolite to style them otherwise than as Mr. Fung and Mr. Têh. They regret not having brought hither sedan chairs, which, borne by four coolies (four others following as relay), with red visiting cards, well displayed, suspended from a loop at its side, would, they think, be so much more convenient and comfortable than the dangerous and jerky conveyances in which the English enjoy locomotion.

I remember Macartney's giving an official dinner at Soochow, at which the guests gravely pocketed and retained their dinner napkins, deeming them graceful presents of the host to commemorate the occasion. One of them explained to him the reasons why European manners were so barbarous, and showing his own inoffensive chop-sticks, remarked, in mild remonstrance, that Europeans could not even sit down to eat without having a sword and spear beside them—i.e., knife and fork, dangerous instruments of the sort being an abomination to quiet family life in the "Flowery Land."

Certain Chinese officers, who are serving for instruction with the Prussian army, having sent in a complaint to His Excellency, as to the treatment they receive, Mr. Têh is gone over to Berlin to investigate the circumstances and to report.

INDIA.

We learn from the Masonic Record of Western India that an Emergent Meeting of the District Grand Lodge of the Punjab was held at Freemasons' Hall, Lahore, on St. John the Evangelist's Day, the 27th December last. Bro. Major W. H. Mackesy, Deputy D.G.M., presided, and the different Lodges in the district were fairly represented. The Lodge having been opened, a procession was formed, and the brethren, to the number of between forty and fifty, attended Divine service in the parish church of Lahore, where a sermon on the building of the Walls of Jerusalem, was delivered by the Rev. W. Hooker. After service, the procession was reformed, and the brethren marched back to the Hall, when the District Grand Lodge was closed. In the evening, our Lahore brethren and their guests dined together in the banquet hall, to the number of forty-two. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to, and the evening passed off most agreeably. A Quarterly Communication of the same District Grand Lodge was held at the same Hall on the 13th January last. Bro. Major Mackesy presided as Grand Master. There were present Bros. A. Stewart as Dep. D.G.M.; C. A. Goodman D.G.S. Warden, W. Bath as D G.J.W., C. H. Chetham D.G. Treasurer, George Davis D.G. Secretary, and other District Grand or acting D.G. Officers, together with several representatives of Lodges. Before the minutes of the previous Regular Communication, held on the 30th October last, were put for confirmation, a remonstrance was read from Lodge Mooltan against the vote of 200 rupees towards the Lahore New Church, on the usual ground of Denominationalism; the funds being collected from men of all creeds should not be expended for the benefit of one creed. In the course of the discussion that followed, Bros. Major Gorham and Chetham, in supporting the vote, expressed their willingness to support a grant, if one were proposed, towards the erection of a Mosque, or any similar institution which conferred blessings upon suffering humanity. The proposition that the minutes be confirmed was then put to the vote and carried nem. con. The minutes of the Emergent Meeting on the 27th December having been likewise confirmed, the D.D.G.M. addressed the D. Grand Lodge. He announced the approaching return to India of the D.G.M. Major Marmaduke Ramsay, who would therefore be able to preside at the next Quarterly Communication. He also said that Masonry in the District was prosperous, and that most of the Lodges continued to make their returns with commendable regularity. He alluded in feeling terms to the premature death of W. Bro. Captain W. C. Clayton, of the 9th Lancers, who was accidentally killed by a fall from his pony, when playing polo at Delhi. Having announced his own reappointment for the current year as Dep. D.G.M., Bro. Major Mackesy, appointed the following as his officers, the position of D.G.S.W. being kept open, at the request of Major Ramsay, in order to be filled by a worthy brother, whose arrival from England is shortly expected, Bro. Chalmers temporarily taking the office. Bro. Chetham having been unanimously re-elected G. Treasurer, the names of the new appointees were read out. Bro. J. W. Goldney D.G.J.W., Bro. Rev. W. J. Hunt, D. Grand Chaplain, Bro. G. Davis, D.G. Secretary, Bro. L. W. Taylor, D. Grand Registrar; Bros. W. Freeman and Capt. H. J. Brownrigge D. Senior and Junior Grand Deacons respectively; Bro. R. Blake D.G. Sup. of Works, Bros. Dhanjibhoy D.G.D. of C. and W. C. Wilson Asst. ditto; Bro. H. W. Whympe D.G.S.B, E. Gillson D.G. Organist, Sinder Bikrame Singh D.G. Purs., and Lord Osculstone, Garrioch, Dinshaw Hesjee, T. J. Symonds, B. T. Hill, and R. Kerr D.G. Stewards. Those of the foregoing who were present were then invested. An estimate of rupees 1,000 was then sanctioned towards enlarging the Hall building, and it was agreed to invite the bodies using it to contribute rupees 500. The report of the Fund of Benevolence, recommending the grant of 25 rupees per annum to the widow of a deceased brother, was submitted and confirmed. The proceedings of the Board of General Purposes was next submitted, and confirmed; and several resolutions, among which was one recommending the loan of 500 rupees from the D.G.L. Fund, free of interest, to the Freemasons' Hall Fund,—adopted. The D.G. Lodge was then closed in the usual manner, at 10 p.m.

The Standard contains an interesting account of the celebration of St. John the Evangelist's day in Lodge St. Andrew No. 500, Bro. Hodgson W.M. presiding. Bros. Robertson, Jefferson, and Jenkins were raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The Lodge was then adjourned during a short period for refreshment, after which Bro. Conor was passed. Bro. Curtois S.W. and W.M. elect, was then duly installed in the chair of K.S. The board of installed Masters comprising W. Bros. Louth, Hodgson, Etty and Easdon. W. Bro. Curtois then appointed and invested the following officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Hodgson I.P.M., Vicary S.W., Thayte J.W., Ross S.D., Amos J.D. and Treasurer, Jefferson Secretary, Etty Chaplain, Mitchell M.C., Robertson S. and Howes Tyler. Bro. Hodgson then recapitulated the chief events that had marked his term of office, pointing with justifiable pride, to the improved state of the finances, there having been in the preceding December, on his appointment to the Mastership, a cash balance in hand of a little over 40 rupees, with outstanding debts amounting to over 143 rupees. The latter had all been cleared off in the interim. Moreover, the property of the Lodge had been increased by the purchase of a new harmonium for 135 Rs., and a new banner for 105 Rs. 150 Rs. had been expending on improving the premises, the present estimated value of which, allowing for deterioration was 2,456 Rs. The cash balance in hand was 300 Rs. During the year there had been nine initiations, eight passings, seven raisings, seven affiliations and only two resignations; both caused by the brethren being called away through the exigencies of the service. Lectures had also been given not only on the different Tracing Boards, but likewise on subjects of interest to the Craft. Having expressed his thanks to the brethren who had, as officers, supported him during his year of office and to whose zeal and ability he acknowledged himself deeply indebted, Bro. Hodgson resumed his seat, amid the congratulations of all present. Several brethren were then proposed for affiliation, and on the motion of Bro. Amos, seconded by the W.M., it was unanimously agreed to have a large-sized photograph taken of the I.P.M. Bro. Hodgson, one copy of which should be presented to him, and another hung up in the Lodge-room, as a memorial of the eminent services he had rendered to the Lodge. Having further resolved, on the motion of Bro. Amos, seconded by Bro. Hodgson, that the sermon preached by the Rev. Bro. Etty during the day at Christ's Church, should be printed and published at the expense of the Lodge, the Lodge was closed with the usual formalities.

PRESENTATION TO BRO. JAMES HANNAH, OF WARRINGTON.

ON Friday the 9th an interesting meeting of the Freemasons of Warrington was held at the Lion Hotel. The chair was occupied by Bro. John Bowes P.M. P.Z. P.J.G.W. of Cumberland and Westmorland. The following brethren, forming the Testimonial Committee, were present:—Bros. Thomas Tunstall W.M. No. 148, Charles Crosier W.M. No. 1250, W. S. Hawkins P.M., W. Richardson P.M., B. W. Finney P.M. P.Z., W. Woods P.M., R. Brierley P.M., Joseph Pickthall S.W. 148, John Armstrong S.W. 1250, J. R. Young J.W. 148, Galloway S.D. 1250, Thos. Sutton Treas. 1250, S. E. Johnson; and James Hannah. After a substantial tea, the Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, after which Bro. Bowes made the presentation, in doing which he said:—Brethren, I am charged with a very pleasurable duty this evening. I believe I have received the compliment on the ground that I am the oldest Mason present. In any case, and whatever may be the reason of the selection, I very willingly undertake the task. We have in our midst to-night a brother whom we one and all wish to honour. True, that brother is not of rank and opulence, but he is a brother who has done his duty, and we wish to prove to him that in the eyes of Masons there are occasions when all are equal if they deserve to be so. Acting for the then W.M. (Bro. Hepherd), well do I remember admitting our friend, James Hannah, to Masonic light. In due course I passed and raised him, and from that time to the present he has deserved well at our hands. Faithfully and zealously he served us in the humble, but highly important capacity of Outer Guard and Janitor, and now when his ordinary avocations press so heavily upon him that he feels he can no longer serve us with credit to himself, like a good man and true he resigns into the hands of the rulers of the Craft his emblem of office. As a man and as a Mason, Bro. Hannah has won the good opinion of us all, and we determined therefore that he should not sever his official connection with us without some mark—some substantial mark—of our sincere esteem. The feeling is spontaneous and general, and does not emanate from individuals, but collectively from brethren in a corporate capacity. Bro. Hannah, I know you will believe me when I say it affords me extreme gratification to be the mouthpiece of the brethren on this occasion, and also the medium of handing to you this handsome gold watch, which bears the following inscription:—

"Presented to Bro. James Hannah by the Freemasons of Warrington, in recognition of many years faithful service as Tyler and Janitor.

WM. SHARP Z. 148.
W. H. ROBINSON W.M. 148
CHAS. CROSIER W.M. 1250."

May you long be spared to wear it! and when time with us shall be no more, may we all meet together in the Grand Lodge above, where the world's Great Architect lives and reigns for ever!—The chairman's remarks were endorsed and echoed by the gentlemen present, they one and all warmly testifying to Bro. Hannah's obliging manners and gentlemanly bearing. Bro. Hannah, with evident emotion, acknowledged the handsome testimonial at length, and most feelingly. He assured the brethren that he was deeply grateful for the many kindnesses he had experienced at their hands. He had always striven to do his duty, and was truly thankful that in his endeavours he had met with the approbation of the brethren seated round the table. Some of those present had come some distance to take part in the proceedings of the evening, and however much he tried, he should utterly fail to express in words his deep and heartfelt gratitude to them. It would be invidious to mention friends individually, when he had so many, but he knew they would excuse him if he singled out the chairman. He thanked them, and in the heartiest possible manner, for the handsome and costly gift they had that night presented to him. He sat down amidst general cheering. After a number of personal toasts had been proposed and duly honoured, the brethren separated in harmony.

CONFIDENCE LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 193

THIS Lodge appears to be undergoing transition, it is not long since we reported the removal from the Mason's Hall Tavern to the Blue Anchor Tavern in Coleman-street, where we hoped it would have enjoyed a long uninterrupted existence; but Lodges of Instruction like human beings, are things of circumstance. Upon the meeting being convened on Wednesday last, the brethren were informed by the host that unless each member agreed to pay thirteen pence—receiving in return refreshments to the amount of sixpence—he could not permit the Lodge to meet again under his roof. A committee was immediately organized, and quarters have been secured at the Whittington, Moor-lane, Fore-street, where Bro. Edwards is the host. We hope it may be long hence ere we have to record another removal. The Lodge will meet at its new abode on Wednesday next at 7 p.m. presided over by Bro. J. T. Miller S.W. 188.

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 67 Barbican, E.C.

Early History and Transactions of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York, 1781-1815. Part IX. Published by authority of the Grand Lodge. Granted to Kane Lodge, No. 454, June 1874. New York: Masonic and Miscellaneous Publishers, No. 2 Bleecker-street: D. Sickels and Co., Managers. 1876.

Pursuing our analysis of the Proceedings, we find that on the 5th December 1810, the Committee appointed on the previous March to visit the different Lodges in New York city and regulate their work with a view to produce uniformity, reported that, after repeated meetings and discussions, they had come to the persuasion that there was no likelihood whatever of their delivering a satisfactory report, and accordingly they begged to be discharged. It was therefore agreed that the Committee be discharged, but, at the same time, it was arranged that the subject be referred to the Grand Officers, with full power to prescribe and enforce such regulations as they may think desirable. The Committee on unpublished resolutions likewise delivered a report, which was accepted and ordered to be filed. At the meeting on the 11th March 1811, we note the case of a brother who was restored to his rights as a Mason, though not to his seat in the Lodge of which he was a member. On the same occasion an application by the proprietors and editor of the Masons' Magazine and General Miscellany, about to be published in Philadelphia, requesting Grand Lodge to furnish to them such charges, addresses, odes, songs, &c., as might be deemed worthy of publication, was referred to the Grand Secretary, with instructions to comply with the request. At the Grand Stewards' Lodge, on the 29th May of the same year, the petition of an insolvent debtor confined in prison for assistance "to enable him to get the benefit of the Insolvent Act" was referred to a committee, with power to afford him such relief as they might think fit. On the 5th June the M.W.G.M. the Hon. De Witt Clinton and other Grand Officers were re-elected. A report on the funds of the Grand Lodge was likewise presented. There was also read a communication from the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania "requesting the honour of the company of the Grand Officers at the consecration of the new hall, and at their Grand Masonic banquet on the 20th June instant," to which a respectful answer was directed to be sent. We note, further, that "a circular letter from a committee of correspondence of the Right Worshipful Grand Lodge of North Carolina and Tennessee, on the subject of a National Grand Lodge," was read, and referred to certain brethren. Disapprobation was also expressed at a sum of money being handed over "for the payment of a lecturer" by a Lodge when it was in arrear as to its dues. The Grand Secretary having expressed doubts "whether he ought to grant certificates to brethren who were made by dispensations, and were not members of the Lodge in which they were made," the subject was referred to a committee. Other business having been discharged, and communications from the Grand Lodges of England and New Hampshire having been read, the Lodge was closed. The finances of Grand Lodge occupied its attention on the 4th September, after which the Committee appointed to consider the question of certificates granted to persons under dispensation reported that they saw no reason why any alteration should be made. At this meeting, also, the Grand Lodge School Committee delivered a report as to the progress of the children under their superintendence. On the 16th October it was resolved that everyone, with the exception of Grand Officers and Proxies, who claimed a seat in Grand Lodge, should produce to the Grand Secretary a certificate exhibiting the nature of his claim. The Committee on the subject of a National Grand Lodge reported that, as they had not had submitted to them any advantages that would result from such a proposition, and as they saw none likely to result, they thought that Grand Lodge should not appoint delegates, and the report was accepted. A very silly question was then determined, namely, that a person with a stiff knee was not ineligible to be received into the ranks of Masonry. A resolution of thanks to Bro. William Cocks, Grand Treasurer, and a jewel, not to exceed in cost one hundred dollars, having been voted, the Lodge was closed. On the 4th December, Bro. Sampson Simson was elected Grand Treasurer, in succession to Bro. William Cocks, resigned. A communication from a Naples Lodge was not entertained till it had been first ascertained that the Lodge in question had been duly constituted "under the authority of the Grand Lodge of Ancient Masons." Vacancies were also reported by the School Committee, and that the children were making satisfactory progress. The Committee on fiscal concerns made a report, and also another, at an Emergency Meeting of Grand Lodge, held on the 11th of the same month. On the 4th March, 1812, in the School Committee Report, it was announced that there were forty-five pupils in the school, and four vacancies, and, further, that the children had made excellent progress, and great praise was due to the teacher for the order and regularity he maintained. On the 3rd June, 1812, Bro. De Witt Clinton and his Principal Grand Officers were re-elected, after which the Deputy G.M. presented Bro. W. Cocks, Past Grand Treasurer, with the jewel previously voted to him. A petition for a Warrant for a new Lodge having been refused, on the ground that the recommending Lodges had not paid up their dues, the Committee of Grand Stewards' Lodge, appointed to consider the financial condition of Grand Lodge having delivered their report, and communications from the Grand Lodges of Vermont and Ohio having been read and ordered to be filed, Grand Lodge was closed with the customary formalities. On the 2nd September, sundry petitions for new warrants were disposed of, and communications from the Grand Lodges of Maryland and England and were read and ordered to be filed. A Grand Lodge of Emergency was held on the 19th November, in order that the intelligence of the death of Past Grand Treasurer W. Cocks, might be formally communicated. In order to testify to the respect due to that worthy brother, it was determined to bury him with full Masonic honours, and a Committee was thereupon appointed to make the needful arrangements. At the meeting on the 2nd December letters from the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania and New Jersey on the subject of initiating sojourners by virtue of a dispensation, "were referred to a Committee." Subsequently, at the same meeting, an informal report from the Grand Lodge Free School Committee having been handed in, it was resolved to continue the Committee appointed to report a plan for the extension of the school. On the 3rd of March 1813, after considering the statement of accounts of the School Fund, Grand Lodge on receipt of report as to the initiation of sojourners resolved that no candidates should be initiated till they had satisfied the Lodge as to the propriety of their antecedents. The question of increasing or reducing the number of Grand Deacons and Grand Stewards was referred for consideration, and the report was to be brought up at the next meeting of Grand Lodge. On the 2nd June occurred the annual elections, the majority of the Grand Officers, including the Grand Master, being re-elected. Petitions for warrants were referred, and communications from the Grand Lodges of Pennsylvania and Virginia, were read and ordered to filed. It is noteworthy that at the meeting of the 1st September, Lodge La Sincérité No. 122, finding it impossible, owing to the absence of many of its members to hold its regular meetings, prayed it might discontinue the same till it could collect a sufficient number, and the prayer was granted. It was likewise resolved that, in the event of the honour of a public funeral being accorded to the gallant Captain Laurence, measures should be taken for the Masonic Lodges to join in the procession. It is doubtless in the recollection of our readers, that Capt. Laurence died gallantly fighting for his country in a certain memorable action at sea. The last minute of any importance will be found amongst those relating to the Grand Lodge held on the 1st December, and describes very circumstantially, the appearance of a Masonic impostor who is, of course, very properly denounced. We have omitted to draw attention to one record. Three brethren, passengers on board the British brig Peacock, were found to be in such a destitute condition, that twenty dollars were at once disbursed on their account, and further forty-eight dollars were promised to be paid. The Grand Steward's Lodge unanimously endorsed this liberal action of the Committee of Charity, and ordered the draft for the latter amount to be at once honoured by the Grand Treasurer. This concludes our notice of the 9th part, which terminates somewhat abruptly in the middle of a statement of accounts.

In Cassell's Family Magazine the two serial stories "Paul Knox Pitman," and "My Guardian," progress most favourably. Paul is being fashioned into a splendid character, and May is simply delightful. Then there are directions, "How to become an Engineer in the Royal Navy" and hints by Phillis Browne, "How we made both ends meet." A Chat about Coffee" is in the highest degree interesting, while "A story about Twenty Pounds" is capitally told, though it is a pity Staining is not spared to make amends for his misdeed. "A Kaffir Sham-fight" takes us back to the visit to South Africa in 1860 of the Duke of Edinburgh, then Prince Alfred, and there is a very good review by Mr. Arthur Arnold of "Mr. Mackenzie Wallace's sojourn in Russia." The notes on "Gardening in March" are excellent, as usual; indeed, we do not know where better information more lucidly compiled is to be found. The ladies will, as a matter of course, be pleased with the paper on "Art Needlework for Ladies," and "Chit-Chat on Dress," and they will likewise find much to interest them among the notes culled by "the Gatherer." A Family Doctor pursues his plan of tendering profitable advice, and in the current number gives "Seasonable Advice for the Spring Months." Mr. Richard Proctor explains in a clear and comprehensive manner, "How Great Storms Arise," and as the weather during the last few months has been of a stormier character than usual, it will probably be a consolation to our readers to know why this has been the case. We have enumerated nearly all the contents of the March number, but bare enumeration conveys only a very indifferent idea of its merits.

We notice in the Leisure Hour the continuation of several previous papers. The serial, "A Young Wife's Story," is, of course, among the number, and in addition we have noted Nos. III. and IV. of Miss Isabella Bird's "Australia Felix: Impressions of Victoria," and Mr. E. Paxton Hood's "The Great Smith Family: Lineal and Collateral." "Cable-Laying in the Tropics" is interesting, and so, too, is the account of a "Sale of Rare Books in New York." Those who have read the account of Mr. Margary's Journey through China to the Burmese Frontier will fully appreciate the brief biographical sketch of him contained in these pages. It is necessarily brief, but opportunity has been taken to bring prominently forward the excellent qualities by which Mr. Margary was distinguished. Immediately following this is a sketch of "The Rainbow Coffee House, Fleet-street," which has recently disappeared, and of "A Winter's Night on a Locomotive;" and considering the prominence that has been given during the last four years to the subject of window gardening, we have read with as much pleasure as profit the article on "Window and Balcony Gardens." "Cyclones and Cyclone-Waves" is another instructive paper, while in the way of art contribution, we have remarked a notice of the "Winter Exhibition at the Royal Academy." The illustrations are numerous, and to be highly commended, especially "Anxious Mothers," which serves as the "Frontispiece."

The illustrations in Part 7 of the Countries of the World are well executed. Among the most interesting are those of "The First House erected in Quebec," the "View of Quebec," and "The Monument to Wolfe at Quebec." That of "An Old Squaw pounding wild Cherries" is capital. Of Dr. Brown's narrative we need say little beyond what we have said already. Let those read it who would gauge its merits.

CONSECRATION OF THE SKELMERSDALE LODGE (No. 1658).

ON Friday, the 9th inst., the above Lodge was consecrated at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New-road, S.E., by Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, assisted by the Rev. R. J. Simpson, Rector of St. Clement Danes, P.G. Chap. of England, and by Bro. H. J. Buss P.J.G.W. of Middlesex. Bro. Mark S. Larlham W.M. 1216 P.M. 1539 occupied the Senior Warden's chair, while that of Junior Warden was taken by Bro. David Rose W.M. 1622, both brethren being widely known throughout the district as able and esteemed Preceptors in the Craft. The beautiful and imposing ceremony was admirably performed by the Consecrating Officers in presence of a distinguished assemblage of guests and visitors; and the Grand Secretary, in his address, gave much sound and excellent counsel to the brethren with regard to their duties and privileges as Masons. He told them that great care and caution ought to be used in the selection of candidates for admission to the Order, as it was too much to be feared that many sought the privileges of Freemasonry for other purposes, and in pursuit of other objects than those which the Institution recognises and approves. For this reason he could hardly look upon the rapid increase in the number of Lodges as an unmixed good, and said that an additional responsibility rested upon members of the Craft on that account. He strongly deprecated, however, the practice, which has become too common, of members striving to exclude candidates, of whom they may know nothing whatever, in order to gratify private and personal feelings of pique against their proposers. Such conduct was reprehensible in the last degree, antagonistic to the very spirit of Masonry, and could not be too strongly condemned. He moreover regretted the tendency now-a-days to give publicity to all that goes on in Masonic Lodges. He could well remember the time when this was not so, when Masons were content to "do good by stealth and blush to find it fame," but now every charitable vote was published abroad to be seen and read of all men. The Grand Chaplain delivered a magnificent oration upon the principles which should guide Masonic life, and the relation which ought to subsist between brethren within the Lodge and without it. He remarked that there was sometimes a tendency on the part of brethren in office to stand too much upon their rights and privileges, and this he thought ought to be strongly discouraged. There was also a disposition on the part of many to consider too much the differences of social position which might exist between them and others of their brethren in Freemasonry, and to adhere too rigidly to class distinctions and the prejudices of caste. This was wrong, for all such matters ought to be laid aside and forgotten in Lodge, where all brethren met on terms of perfect equality. The brethren of the new Lodge were exhorted by the Chaplain to remember the high and honourable name which he was sure they were proud to bear, and he expressed his conviction that they would so act in the future that the M.W. Deputy Grand Master would never have reason to regret having stood as their "Godfather," and allowed their Lodge to be called by his name.

The Grand Secretary thereafter installed Bro. S. J. Harvey as 1st W.M., and he in turn invested his officers. Bros. T. Edmundston as S.W., W. H. Cass J.W., and J. Davis P.M. 72 Secretary. Several brethren were proposed as joining members, and the names of five candidates for initiation were announced. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren afterwards dined together in the banqueting hall.

In giving the health of the M.W. Deputy Grand Master, Lord Skelmersdale, the W.M. alluded in felicitous terms to the gracious and ready consent which his lordship had given to their Lodge bearing his name, and echoed the sentiments of the Rev. Bro. Simpson in hoping that the brethren connected with the Skelmersdale Lodge would ever bear in mind the duty which devolved upon them in keeping that name free from all stain or blemish in so far as related to themselves.

The Rev. R. J. Simpson, in replying to the toast of Past and Present Officers of Grand Lodge, congratulated the W.M. on the very favourable auspices under which the new Lodge was started on its way; and, alluding to the W. Master's name, said that there was only the difference of one vowel between it and that of his old and valued friend, the V.W. Grand Secretary. He trusted that the difference between them in other respects might be found to be equally slight, and in that case he augured a brilliant career for the Skelmersdale Lodge while under its present Master's direction. The V.W. Grand Secretary, in replying to the toast of the Consecrating Officers, complimented the W.M. on the way in which he and his officers had performed their part of the work; he expressed his strong conviction that the Skelmersdale Lodge would attain a foremost place in the ranks of the Craft. To the toast of the Visitors, Bro. the Rev. P. M. Holden P.G.C. Middlesex responded; that of the Masonic Charities was replied to by Bro. H. A. Dubois P.G.S.D. Middlesex, a member of the House Committee of the Masonic School for Girls. Bro. Past Master Larlham, in replying to the toast of Preceptors in the Craft, wished to bear testimony to the zeal and efficiency of the officers of the Skelmersdale Lodge, as exemplified by the assiduous attendance and very excellent working at the Lodges of Instruction, with which he was connected. He warmly congratulated the W.M., who is also one of his people, upon having secured their assistance and co-operation. To the toast of the Officers the S.W. Bro. Edmundston replied; and giving a free translation of the motto of the House of Skelmersdale, said that it might be read as meaning, "Peace within our gates." He trusted that such might ever be, in spirit as in fact, the motto of the Skelmersdale Lodge, and then their course, whether prosperous or the reverse, would at least be in accordance with the principles of their Masonry. Among the guests present at the ceremony and the subsequent banquet there were, in addition to those already mentioned, Bros. G. Earney 467, Dr. E. Pinder 7, J. H. Hastie I.P.M. 1216, J. Nunn P.M. 72, Newington Bridges P.M. 1216 C. T. Dunford 1216, W. S. Cackett W.M. 1505, F. G. B. Wells 1505, J. Newton W.M. 1607, F. W. Koch P.M. 829, E. Dodson P.M. 72, Dr. H. M. Simmonds 186, J. Allsopp P.M. 1475, G. F. Harris 1541, E. W. Devereux J.W. 1423, A. Middlemass S.W. 1641, W. S. Daniel J.D 1541, J. W. T. Chapman 1622, S. M. Redmond 72, W. Permewan 1329, F. G. Longley S.W. 1261, E. G. Webster 72, and T. L. Green S.W. 1539.

CONSECRATION OF THE CROYDON MARK MASTERS' LODGE, NO. 198.

AN important addition to the number of Lodges on the roll of the Grand Mark Lodge of England was made on Friday, the 9th inst., at the Greyhound Hotel, Croydon. On the strong recommendation of the R.W. Provincial Grand Mark Master for Middlesex and Surrey, Bro. Col. Francis Burdett, a Charter or Warrant was granted to several members of the Macdonald Mark Lodge No. 104, whose residences are in the locality of Croydon, and the V.W. Bro. Frederick Binckes P.G.W., Grand Mark Secretary, &c. was appointed by the M.W.G.M.M. to consecrate the new Lodge. An influential gathering of distinguished members of the Order, attended to support the consecrating officer, amongst whom were the V.W. Bros. Frederick Davison Dep. Prov. G.M.M., Thomas Meggy P.G.M.O. and P.M. 104, James Stevens P.G.J.D., P.M. 104 and 139, S. C. Dibdin P.G.O., W.H. Binckes, Assist. Grand Secretary, W. Spencer, Poore, and F. Cozens, G. Yaxley, J. Close, J. K. Pitt, and G. Lilley; Past and Present Grand Officers—Bros. Sneadd, Nichols, Brown, Griffiths, Legg, Pocock, Purvis, Long, Lake, Haddock and others. The brethren having assembled in the Lodge-room, Bro. Binckes, as W.M., appointed Bro. Meggy as S.W. and Bro. Stevens as J.W., and then proceeded to open a Mark Masters' Lodge, calling upon the Assistant Grand Secretary to read the new Warrant, and inform the brethren as to the proceedings taken in respect of the formation of the Lodge. The principal officers designate having been approved of by those present, Bro. Binckes, in his customary effective style, performed the full ceremony of Consecration, and completed his work by formally dedicating and constituting the "Croydon" Lodge to the purposes of Mark Masonry. Bro. F. H. Cozens, Grand Organist, then played the concluding ("Hallelujah") chorus. After a brief interval, the ceremony of Installation was commenced, and Bros. George Yaxley, the W.M. designate, was duly installed into the chair of A. by Bro. Binckes. The S.W. designate, John Close, and J.W. designate, Bro. J. K. Pitt, were severally invested, and the offices of Overseers and Deacons were filled. Bro. Thomas Meggy assisted the Installing Master in the delivery of the addresses to the officers. A list of thirteen candidates was placed on the summons, of whom nine brethren were in attendance, and these were introduced, and at the request of the W.M. advanced to the honourable degree by Bro. James Stevens, with full ceremonial and musical accompaniment. The whole of the impressive business of the Consecration, Installation, and Advancement, was carried out with all that perfection which the well-known working ability of Bros. Binckes, Meggy, Stevens, Poore, and Dibdin would ensure, and the satisfaction of the brethren of the new Lodge was not only heartily expressed in words, but was confirmed by the unanimous election of those brethren as honorary members. The presence of the Deputy Prov. G.M.M. was suitably acknowledged, and Bro. Davison received a cordial Masonic salute. The thanks of the Lodge were voted to Bro. H. W. Binckes for his services as Acting Secretary. Several propositions for advancement were received, and after some few matters of routine business had been disposed of, the brethren adjourned to partake of banquet. Under the able presidency of the W.M., Bro. Yaxley, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, and a very agreeable evening spent by the numerous brethren who had the good fortune to be present on this auspicious occasion. The increase of Lodges connected with the order of Mark Masonry has been, under the genial sway of several noble and eminent Grand Masters, very great during the past few years; and from the zeal and efficiency of the Master and Wardens of the "Croydon" Lodge, we augur that the new addition to the strength of the Order, though the last on the muster-roll, will not be the least in point of importance to the degree.

POLISH NATIONAL LODGE, No. 434.

THE regular meeting was held on the 8th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, W.C. Bros. Ráth W.M., J. H. Cumming S.W., J. F. Ebner J.W., W. Paas Sec., John Boyd Treas., J. Aspinall S.D., J. S. Taylor J.D., Dr. G. E. C. Jackson D.C., Dr. A. V. Jagielski I.G. Visitors—Bros. J. Blum, M. Blum, Dr. Wills, H. Price, J. C. Cox, T. A. Thompson, &c., &c. Business—The preliminaries having been disposed of, Mr. J. J. Rünts was initiated, after which a motion by Bro. Dr. Jagielski was carried unanimously. The W.M., Treasurer, Tyler and Audit Committee were severally elected for the coming year, the present S.W. being chosen to fill the chair. During the evening the W.M., Bro. Ráth, who is a Steward for the approaching festival of the Girl's School, appealed most forcibly on behalf of that Charity. The object for which he addressed the Lodge, he said, was one of the most difficult a man could possibly bring forward. He was not exactly engaged on a begging expedition, but as it must needs be a tax on the benevolence of those around him, he felt he must awaken them to a sense of its importance. He considered he had a powerful ally, and that was the sex of those for whom he asked support. Had any of the brethren taken the trouble to go to Battersea and see how their children were getting on? Although they could not appeal for themselves he considered it was not necessary to go that distance, for we need only look into the face of any little orphan we meet in the street to arouse our sympathy. He must come to what he considered hard facts, hard facts as involving the question of hard cash, and implore of them, collectively and individually—as do the begging friars in his native land—to hand in a coin for the benefit of the orphan girls. On the return of the list we were pleased to see that it contained items amounting to over fifty guineas, but even this, we hear, will not content our energetic Brother, who hopes before the day arrives for announcing the lists to have at least double that amount. We wish him every success, and feel sure that if energy on his part can accomplish it, the amount will be forthcoming. The Lodge having been formally closed, the brethren adjourned for refreshment, after which the usual toasts were honoured. In proposing the Queen, the W.M. remarked that not only did she occupy the first position as owing to her by right and rank, but also, he trusted, in all our hearts. This he followed by asking the brethren to drink to the Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family. He was sure that if any emergency presented itself, requiring that His Royal Highness should devote his time, he would be as ready as he had proved himself on previous occasions. He considered we ought to feel happy in possessing such a Royal family, and hoped the brethren would give them a hearty cheer. The M.W.G.M. will be for ever dear to us in having stepped forward to our rescue at a time when we were deserted by a former ruler; he could only ask them to greet the toast with the enthusiasm it deserved. He next asked for the best attention of the brethren for the working rulers of the Craft, the M.W. the Pro. Grand Master, the Dep.G. Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers, who he considered were living examples of all that is good and true. The toast of the Worshipful Master was next proposed by the I.P.M., Bro. Moore, and was heartily responded to, the W.M. replying in the following terms: Brethren,—Say whatever you will, it is always a gratifying fact whenever you have the good fortune to be called upon to respond to your own health. Perhaps some of the brethren in their kindness of heart have overdone the thing, and drank my health too much, which is the cause of my health likewise losing its balance, and going the other way. However that may be there is the fact that, at the present moment, I am rather a sufferer, and ought not to speak too lengthily; you will therefore pardon me when I reply with all brevity, but no less heartily to your kindness. My bodily strength may seem to fail me for a moment, but be sure of my hearty sentiments when it is a question of responding to yours. I am on such occasions like a "Grey parrot with a green tail," ancient looking, but vigorous withal. Brethren,—I own that I am anxious to leave some impression on your minds and hearts of my year of office, by my constant and earnest efforts to elevate the ideas of the brethren of this Lodge to that degree where they may become pleasantly conscious that they have a great and noble calling to fulfil in Freemasonry. This is my last evening in office, and I hope that I have not been altogether unsuccessful. I always compare my Lodge with the Temple of Jerusalem, surrounded by a strong castle, and as I am passing on my nightly rounds, and looking in the eyes of every single watchman on the castle walls, I find him to be awake, then, with a nod and a wink, we exchange a grip and a word—and I am satisfied that we understand one another well, and that we all work for the safety of our Temple. Not many words are needed to demonstrate to any one the fact that between Master and Brethren of this Lodge there prevails that reciprocity of goodwill and friendship, which is best expressed in the word "Brotherhood." Bro. Moore—I thank you very much for the feeling manner with which you have referred to my health, and you, my brethren, for the heartiness with which you have seconded the same. He then proceeded to propose the Immediate P.M.; he was thankful that he had a subject much easier to speak on than the preceding one, he could dilate more coolly and contentedly on the merits of others, than on his own poor achievements; whenever he spoke of Bro. Moore, he could not help being in good spirits, for he considered him the embodiment of "Peace and goodwill towards men." The toast was well received and responded to by Bro. Moore, after which, in proposing "The Initiate," the W.M. said—I believe I am expressing the convictions of all present, when I say that the welcome which we give to our newly received brethren, by pledging them in a cup of sack, has a peculiarly interesting and always fresh flavour about it. We all look eagerly towards the corner where the brother Initiates are habitually placed, and we all smile a welcome to them which they cannot mistake. Freemasons are not eager to make converts, which in itself is a contradiction, because those who seek us are already converted; but Freemasons, when they find that their fellow-men are anxious and glad to join their ranks, and to follow their principles, give them such a reception as no other body of men are known to extend to new comers. On the very first night of their participation in our rights and usages they receive a pretty good instalment of the nature of our Order, inasmuch as the first or solemn part of it shows them the dark and grave side of life, which makes them stop and reflect, and the second or convivial part of it teaches them that T.G.A.O.T.U. has endowed our nature with an appetite for pleasure. Truly, my brethren, as sure as a strong and contented man is almost always a liberal and generous one, so is a joyous and convivial man a good and honest one. It is no use separating human nature into a weeping and a laughing being. Both these dispositions being inseperably united, they ought to be recognised and treated as such, and this it is my brethren which forms the keystone of the Masonic principles. The toast was answered in a most spirited manner by Bro. Kuntz. "Le roi est mort,—Vive le roi," a sentiment doubtless known to most of you with regard to royalty, but which also serves to illustrate my present position. In asking you to drink to the W.M. elect, it may be said I am proclaiming my own demise, and the advent of a new king. It would be a sorry mistake and utterly untrue to say that I have pleasure in proclaiming this fact. There is, on the contrary, no satisfaction in it whatever. I know I must die as your W.M., but I trust that after I am gone you shall have cause to forget me, very, very soon (cries of "No, no,") because of the superior excellence of my successors. Napoleon used to say, "No one is indispensable in this world, and every one can easily be replaced, even myself!" Let us hope that in the case of the W.M. elect this will prove true, and as he has given sufficient signs of worth and merit as to secure your sufferages for the exalted place for which he is elected, I feel confident that he will faithfully fulfil all our legitimate expectations. Bro. Cumming, the W.M. elect, having briefly responded, the W.M. proposed the Past Masters, who he regretted were not more numerously represented, he especially referred to Bro. Dicey, who never failed in attending, and would couple his name with the toast. He having responded, the W.M., with the following remarks, called on the brethren to toast the Visitors. To go about visiting Lodges is not a practice fostered by idle curiosity. It is a time-sanctioned usage, and a privilege of which Freemasons are justly proud; if brethren of the same town visit each other, they not only widen their own knowledge of the Craft, but also spin and weave those single threads, the accumulation of which produces the finest tissue of friendship and brotherhood which unite the scattered Lodges of the Order into one powerful and imposing fabric. But when brethren of different and sometimes far-distant towns and countries visit each other, then the true effect of this organisation, whose branches are spread over the four quarters of the globe, comes into more prominent display. I need not enumerate the different circumstances under which poor brethren and rich brethren of different races and creeds, and brethren of friendly and hostile nations, may thus meet; all I can say is that the good which such meetings, under the all-protecting banner of Freemasonry may do, and are daily and hourly doing, is immense. Let us, therefore, cherish this highest and noblest quality of Freemasons and extend hospitality to all brethren, and let us drink a joyful good health to our brother Visitors. Bro. J. Blum P.M. 1017 replied to the toast, which was followed by that of the Treasurer and Secretary. The brethren need only look to the right and to the left of the table, and they must rejoice to see firmly rooted there two great pillars of the Lodge. There is a very great sense of security in knowing that these two important branches of our little household are so well attended to. So long as our affairs remain in the faithful hands of the present distinguished brethren, our life in this Lodge will be happy. The W.M. considered his officers were his little well-drilled and well-disciplined body guard; expressed his thanks to them for their faithful and loyal services, and hoped in due course they would meet with the reward they so richly deserved. Bros. Cummings and Taylor replied to this toast, which was followed by the Tyler.

Hemming Lodge, No. 1512.—The last regular meeting of this Lodge for the present session, was held under the presidency of Bro. John Hurst W.M. on Thursday evening, the 15th inst., at the Lodge-room, Red Lion Hotel, Hampton. There were present—Bros. E. Hopwood I.P.M. and Treasurer, J. Hammond S.W., W. Hammond Secretary, B. Sharp acting J.W., Fox J.D., Jessett J.D., J. W. Ockenden I.G., S. C. Walls D.C., Gutteridge W.S., Kent A.W.S., and Bros. J. Chilcott, John E. Hunt, T. Errington, Thos. Moody, J. W. Hiscox, &c., &c., The Lodge having been opened, Bro. W. Kidentler J.W. 1305, was unanimously elected a joining member. A gentleman, whose name appeared in the summons, was prevented from attending for initiation, through unavoidable circumstances, and Bro. C. Hole, a candidate for passing was absent, through severe indisposition. It was then announced that Bro. T. Phillips, also a candidate for the 2nd degree had died during the past few days. The sad intelligence was received with very deep regret by the brethren, to most of whom he was well known. Bro. John Hammond S.W. was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing year, and Bro. E. Hopwood re-elected Treasurer. The names of two candidates for initiation were handed in, and five guineas having been voted from the funds of the Lodge, to the widow of a brother, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts followed. In responding on behalf of the Deputy Prov. G.M. and the other P.G. Officers, Bro. W. Hammond Past Prov. G.D. referred at some length to Bro. Little's recent elevation, an appointment which has afforded universal satisfaction throughout the Province. The health of the W.M. was proposed by Bro. Hopwood, who was warmly congratulated on his successful year of office. The toast of the W.M. elect was also enthusiastically received, Bro. John Hammond, in responding, made an excellent speech. For the Visitors, Bro. Scott, one of the first initiates of the recently consecrated Wolsey Lodge, 1656, responded in a short and effective manner. The officers having severally acknowledged the next toast, that of the Charities was given, and Bro. Ockenden I.G., Steward for the Girls' School, replied. During the evening the ballot box was handed round, and a very creditable amount collected, to supplement the sum voted by the Lodge on behalf of the widow. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. The brethren were indebted to Bros. W. Hammond, Walls, T. Tagg, Jessett, and Kent for some capital songs.

The Great City Lodge of Instruction, No. 1426.—This Lodge met on Thursday evening, 15th inst., at Masons' Hall, E.C. Present—Bros. A. E. Gladwell W.M., Bisset S.W., Goodman J.W., Harper S.D., Saul J.D., Cumner I.G., Blackie Hon. Secretary, Spiegel, A. T. Gladwell, Hunter, Payne. The Lodge was opened in the 1st degree, and the minutes of last meeting confirmed. Bro. Gladwell vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Blackie, who opened the Lodge in the 2nd degree. Bro. Spiegel, having answered the usual questions, was entrusted and withdrew. The Lodge was opened in the 3rd, and the ceremony of raising rehearsed. Bro. Saul worked the 1st section of the lecture. The Lodge was then closed down to the 1st degree. Bro. Hunter, 1.98, was elected a member. And Bro. Bissett, W.M. for Thursday week next, the 29th; he appointed his officers in rotation. The 15 Sections will be worked on Thursday evening next, the 22nd inst., when Bro. Poore, the Preceptor, will occupy the chair.

THE FESTIVALS OF THE MASONIC SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Permit me to throw out a suggestion which may affect three objects.

1st. To promote economy in the expenditure of our Charities.

2nd. To give a pleasing variety to our Festival entertainments.

3rd. To further the improvement of our Boys' and Girls' Schools.

The engagements of skilled professionals to conduct the musical portion of the entertainments at our three Festivals costs the Charities close on £100 a year.

Instead of this arrangement, why should we not have, say a dozen of our boys and six of our girls, previously well-trained, brought in to sing part-songs, &c., with a simplicity and sacredness for which children's voices are pre-eminently proverbial?

And as a large portion of the company on such occasions consists of ladies, and all the company have many opportunities of hearing professional performances, it is to be supposed that the presence and the efforts of our Masonic children would awaken special interest, and produce a most pleasing variety. To the children themselves it would be a great treat, and a stimulus to their progress in music, while to the funds of each Charity it would certainly be a great relief. The adoption of this plan would probably add to the funds of the Charity, rather than take from them. And I may add that an institution with which I am connected effected this change with great pleasure to the children and their friends, and decided profit to its funds.

I am, Dear Sir and Bro.,

Fraternally yours,

R. J. SIMPSON, P.G.C.

THE JEWISH QUESTION.

To the Editor of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—It is now about eight years since I wished a friend to introduce me into Freemasonry, and he being a member of the Montefiore Lodge, gave my name to the Secretary of that Lodge for that purpose; but the thing could not be done, as my friend was informed that none but Jews would be admitted.

Kindly inform me if such is still the practice in that Lodge, or if abolished since when this happy change took place.

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

EQUITY.

THE GRAND SECRETARYSHIP OF SCOTLAND.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In the CHRONICLE you have stated that the Lodge Kilwinning is reputed the oldest Lodge in the world, or, at least, in Scotland. From your position in the Craft, one would have expected that you would have been better informed upon a matter of so singular interest. The records of the Kilwinning Lodge open in December 1642. The records of the Lodge of Edinburgh open in July 1599, and they contain the original minutes of a convention of the Scotch Lodges held at Edinburgh in 1598.

Besides these minutes we find, from an original document recently found in the charter chest of the late Earl of Eglinton, that in December 1599, the statutes regulating the Lodges of Scotland at that date declared that the Lodge Kilwinning was the second Lodge in Scotland.

You will find the whole of this interesting question very ably discussed in Bro. Murray Lyon's Freemasonry in Scotland—a work beyond all praise.

Yours fraternally,

Edinburgh, 7th March 1877. A P.M.

[We are at a loss to see in what particular we have erred. There is nothing in Bro. Lyon's history, which we have read with as much profit as pleasure, and to which "A P.M." will find frequent reference made in these columns, to which our statement is opposed. Mother Kilwinning is, undoubtedly, "the reputed oldest existing Lodge in the world, or, at least, in Scotland." But mere reputation is not fact, and, therefore, the wording of the sentence, as received from one of our representatives in Scotland, was left undisturbed. If "A P.M." will kindly excuse us referring to such every profane things as quart and pint bottles, we may illustrate our meaning without much difficulty. He is, doubtless, aware there are quarts and reputed quarts, pints and reputed pints, and in both cases the distinction is really because quarts and pints are, and reputed quarts and pints are not, quarts and pints. We not go the length of saying that Mother Kilwinning is not the oldest Lodge in Scotland, because it is the reputed oldest, but we do say that "oldest" and "reputed oldest" are not equivalent, and in technical terms we confess that our views are the views of Bro. Lyon, to whom, indeed, we are greatly indebted for the light he has thrown on the history of Scottish Freemasonry. However, in a matter which has been so bitterly controverted, we have no mind to intervene. We are content to leave the case as it stood in our issue of the 3rd instant, when we stated that Mother Kilwinning had a certain reputation, but did not stop to analyse its merits.—[ED. FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.]

ASSOCIATION FOR THE ORAL INSTRUCTION OF THE DEAF AND DUMB.

A DINNER was given on the 13th inst., at Willis's Rooms, in aid of the Funds of this Association. H.R.H. our M.W.G.M., who takes a lively interest in this noble Institution, occupied the chair. There were also present Earl Granville, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Bro. Sir William Knollys, Lord Hampton, the R.W. Bro. Lord Suffield, Bros. John Sutcliffe, H. A. Isaacs, W. A. Barrett, Z. Adolphus, J. Gears, H. M. Levy, &c. We are sure that this Institution only needs to be known to receive the support it deserves. It works on the theory adopted some years since by Mr. W. Van Praagh, in Holland, that the reason of persons being dumb is owing to their being born deaf, and thereby unable to distinguish various sounds, and is now a great success, only wanting funds to enable the committee to further extend its usefulness. The noble Chairman gave the usual toasts, and in proposing that of "Success to the Institution," particularly alluded to the exertions of Mr. Van Praagh, who had that morning taken ten of the children to Marlborough House, when he was gratified to hear the finest manner in which they all conversed. More particularly he referred to one child, who had been only three months in the School. The Right Hon. Earl Granville proposed the toast of "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales," who, in responding, alluded to the death of the late respected Baroness Rothschild. She had, previous to her death, ordered a bouquet to be placed on the table for His Royal Highness, and he had great pleasure in taking care of it to present it to the Princess. The worthy Secretary, Mr. Assur Moses, announced, amidst great cheering, that the donations amounted to £2,000. The dinner, dessert, and decorations reflected great credit to Mr. Willis. Bro. M. Silver very ably superintended.

The Grand Committee of the Grand Lodge of Scotland met on Tuesday, the 13th inst., to consider and report on the merits of the various candidates for the vacant office of Grand Secretary. There was a full attendance of the members. Sir Michael Shaw Stewart, Grand Master of Scotland, presided. The names of 15 candidates were laid before the meeting, and it was resolved to select the three most eligible to recommend to the Special Grand Lodge on Monday next, when the election is to take place. Those selected were Bros. R. Wylie P.P.G.M., of Ayrshire, who has been P.G. Sec. for the largest Province of Scotland for fifteen years, and has therefore obtained considerable experience in the practical duties required; D. Murray Lyon, the Masonic historian, who is also an Ayrshire man, to whom Bro. Wylie had given testimonials before the earnest solicitations of his friends had induced him to stand himself; the third on the short list is Bro. W. B. Heath, of London, who brought with him first-class testimonials from some leading members of the Craft in England. The Grand Lodge, on Monday, cannot well go wrong, as all three appear to possess many of the qualifications required for a good Secretary.

OUR WEEKLY BUDGET.

NOT much in the way of business has been done this week in the House of Lords. The Duke of Richmond and Gordon on behalf of the Government introduced a Burials Bill, which received a first reading, and Lord Dorchester asked a question of our Foreign Secretary as to the compulsory return from Khiva, of Captain Burnaby, an officer in the Royal Horse Guards, who has narrated his experiences of his "Ride to Khiva," in a most enjoyable volume, and in the course of it explains by what mishap he was forced to give up his journey home through Central Asia, and return by the same route he had taken on his journey out. In the Commons some progress has been made, but not in proportion to the amount of talkee-talkee which is considered necessary. A Treasury and Exchequer Bills having passed its second reading on Thursday of last week, on the following evening a resolution proposed by Mr. Clare S. Read for the establishment of County Boards was accepted by the Government after a very full debate. On Monday, after several delays interposed by different members, the House went into Committee of Supply on the Navy Estimates, and the number of men and boys for the service of the year was voted. On Tuesday, a motion was brought forward by Mr. Chamberlain, one of the members for Birmingham, having for object the regulation of the sale of intoxicating liquors, according to what is known as the Gothenburg scheme, but the honourable member was defeated by a majority of more than two to one. The greater part of Wednesday afternoon was occupied in considering whether an Intoxicating Liquors' Bill for Scotland should receive a second reading. In the result the Bill was rejected by the very considerable majority of 253 to 90.

On Monday, the Queen held a levee at Buckingham Palace. The Prince of Wales, attended by Lord Suffield and others of his suite, the Princess Beatrice, Prince Christian, and Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar were present. A very large number of presentations was made and the attendance in the general and diplomatic circles was great. On Wednesday, Her Majesty held a Drawing Room, when the Prince of Wales, the Princesses Louise (Marchioness of Lorne) and Beatrice, Prince Christian, and the Duke of Teck were present. Several ladies were presented, and the attendance otherwise was on a large scale. On both these occasions, the Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms under their Captain, the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, and the Yeomen of the Guard under Captain Lord Skelmersdale were on duty. The morning of the latter day, Her Majesty and the Princess Beatrice visited the Zoological Gardens, Regent's Park, and inspected the collection of animals brought from India by the Prince of Wales. Mr. A. Bartlett, the superintendent, conducted Her Majesty over the establishment. The Prince of Wales left Melton Mowbray on his return to Marlborough House on Friday night, having had, during the day, an exciting day's sport with the Quorn. On Saturday evening, the Prince and Princess with their two boys, the Princes Albert Victor and George, honoured the Opéra Comique with a visit. On Sunday, they attended divine service in the Royal Chapel, St. James's.

The Oxford crew reached their quarters at Putney on Monday. Since then they have been closely engaged in the usual practice, and as the day of the race more nearly approaches, the public excitement becomes greater. They are a heavier crew than their rivals from the Cam, the average weight per man being 12st 5 lbs, against an average of 12st 0½ lbs. Both crews appear to possess certain points of weakness and of strength, and a critic in one of our daily contemporaries rules that the case is which of the two will be most hampered by their weaknesses. However, as we said last week, we shall be prepared to solve this question for the benefit of our readers about noon next Saturday, or probably a little earlier. It only remains to add the expression of our good wishes for fine weather, both for the sake of those who will test their powers, and the thousands and thousands who will line the banks of the river between Putney and Mortlake to witness the struggle.

It will be in the recollection of our readers, that amongst the many banquets which occurred during the Lord Mayoralty of Alderman Cotton, none was so highly appreciated as that which he gave in honour of the dramatic profession, and the authors and writers connected therewith. On Friday last a complimentary return banquet was given to the worthy Alderman and Mrs. Cotton. The veteran Mr. Benjamin Webster occupied the chair, and there were present about 200 guests, amongst whom were Alderman Sir R. W. Carden, Mr. F. B. Chatterton, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wigan, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Toole, Messrs. A. and E. Swanborough, and W. Creswick, E. Righton, J. Douglas, H. Neville, A. Halliday, E. L. Blanchard, and Miss Ada Cavendish. After the usual loyal toasts, that of the guests of the occasion was proposed, amid the heartiest applause. Alderman Cotton's response was a thoroughly good after-dinner speech, such as is not often spoken on these occasions, and was right worthily received by his 180 or 190 hosts. Subsequently it devolved upon him to propose the health of the Chairman, and this too, was most cordially responded to by all present. The toast of "the Ladies" was acknowledged by Mr. Alfred Wigan, shortly after which the company dispersed.

A notable man of the day has passed from amongst us, Mr. George Odger, one, who, though in the humblest sphere of life, yet exercised a considerable amount of influence on the working classes of this country. Mr. Odger was a man of unquestionable ability, and those to whose well-being he had devoted so much of his time, labour, and energy, resolved to show their respect for his memory by giving him a kind of public funeral. Measures were accordingly taken to this end, and on the appointed day a vast concourse of people assembled to witness the progress of the funeral cortége from Bloomsbury to the Brompton cemetery. Professors Beesley and Fawcett, M.P., were amongst those who accompanied the procession, and the former delivered a funeral oration at the grave. The latter also addressed those present on the virtues of the deceased. In thus showing their respect for the great services of one of their leaders, the working classes of London have done themselves much honour.

The cattle plague is extending—in London, at least. A few days since it made its appearance on the premises of a dairyman at Stepney, where there were no less than 130 cows. Those who were found, on examination, to be suffering from incipient rinderpest were immediately isolated, but others were subsequently attacked, and at length it became necessary to slaughter the whole of the stock, which were in fine condition, and in the care of which all possible precautions had been taken by their owner, Mr. Alexander. With the experience of the terrible outbreak of 1865-6, this wholesale slaughter is the only way to prevent the spread of the disease to other parts of London and the provinces; but none the less serious is the loss to their owner, with whose misfortune we sympathise most fully, and all the more fully that it was through no absence of precautionary measures that his stock have fallen victims to this dreadful scourge.

sent out on the sledging expeditions, and it added that the ships had a full supply of this antiscorbutic, and that Sir George Nares did not give proper orders for provisioning his sledge parties, or have sound reasons for departing from the instructions addressed to him through the Admiralty by the Director General of the Navy Medical Department. This is a serious censure on the conduct of the gallant officer in command of the late expedition.

News of three fatal disasters at sea have been received this week. On Monday, the Consett arrived at Sunderland, bringing with her three survivors of the crew of the brig Leonie, of Whitstable, which had been run into by her, in Robin Hood's Bay. The master and five of the crew perished, but the mate and two others were saved. Every effort was made to rescue more lives, but unsuccessfully. On Sunday, a collision occurred off the Skerries between the schooner Ann Alice, and the steamer Armenian, the former sinking almost immediately. All the crew, however, were saved, with the exception of the mate. In a third case, the captain of the barque Ilva, in a fit of drunkenness, had shot a boy, and fired at the mate and others of the crew, but when the latter attempted to secure him, he jumped overboard and was drowned. The Mansion House Fund, for the relief of the widows and children by the wreck of so many smacks, &c., in the North Sea, had already reached £1,300 on Monday, but as the number of lives lost is greater than was at first supposed, a very large sum will be required. We trust the necessary funds will be forthcoming.

An alarming gas explosion occurred on Wednesday at Brighton, by which property of the estimated value of £3,000 was destroyed. A steam roller was rolling a Macadam road, and is believed to have caused the fracture of a gas pipe. The gas found its way into an under-ground kitchen of a lodging-house, and in due time came in contact with the fire and caused the accident. The partition walls were blown down and other property in the neighbourhood damaged to the extent we have stated, but fortunately no lives were lost.

The question of peace and war is still undetermined. Russia appears to think she cannot retreat with honour from the advanced position she elected to take up towards the end of last year, and Turkey seems stubbornly bent on resenting any interference with her sovereign independence. What reply will be made by our cabinet to the circular note of Russia is not yet decided, but an attempt is being made by Russia to induce the other Great Powers to join in a Collective Note to the Porte, calling upon it to execute the promised reforms within a stated time. Of course all sorts of rumours are abroad, but the public is as much in the dark as ever. General Ignatieff has visited Paris for the purpose of taking counsel with the French Government, and Count Schouvaloff, the Russian Ambassador, in London, crossed over in order to meet his Excellency. It is now said the British Cabinet has agreed to the proposal of Russia, and that the General will at once visit the Court of St. James's. Whatever difficulties have arisen, it is no fault of our Ministers that a peaceful solution of the question was not arrived at long since. The negotiations between Turkey and Montenegro proceed but slowly, the demands of the latter State being exhorbitant. In Germany the path of the Imperial Chancellor, Prince Bismarck, appears to be none of the smoothest. Some of his measures seem to have provoked a considerable amount of opposition in the Imperial Parliament. Indeed, a proposition for increasing the salary of the German Ambassador in London was rejected by 157 to 147. Other foreign news is of no great interest.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE regular committee meeting was held on the 14th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, W.C. and was numerously attended. Bro. Colonel Creaton V.P., occupied the chair. The Secretary, Bro. Terry, read the minutes of the meeting of the 14th February, and of the House Committee, which were duly confirmed. The grant of £100 to the widow of the late Collector (Bro. Lane) was unanimously confirmed. The death was announced of two male and one female annuitants. The question of electing a Collector, in the place of the late Bro. Lane was then discussed, and the report of the committee appointed "to inquire into the duties and emoluments of the future Collector" was read. It was therein recommended that the Collector to be appointed shall be a Master Mason not exceeding the age of 40 years; that his duties be to collect all subscriptions and donations announced by the annual Stewards, which shall remain unpaid after the regular settling day following the Festival. He shall attend at the offices when required by the Secretary, keep an alphabetical list of the subscribers, donors, &c., to the Institution, and give security for £500. His remuneration to be 4 per cent. upon all amounts actually received by him. The whole of these recommendations received attention, and after some discussion were carried, excepting the question of commission, which was increased to 5 per cent. There were nine candidates—viz., Bros. Ayling, S. Bragg, W. H. Hubbard, Geo. Knill, James A. Milne, W. J. Murlis, W. J. Nash, Robinson, and W. H. Snelling. Out of these only three were eligible in accordance with the above resolutions—viz., Bros. Knill, Milne, and Snelling, and from this number Bro. Knill was eventually selected, the vote being unanimous in his favour. He acknowledged, in feeling terms, his gratitude, and promised to use his best endeavours to promote the interests of the Institution, and he hoped to do so to the entire satisfaction of the Craft. Bro. R. W. Stewart proposed that the annual gathering of the Stewards be held at Croydon as usual, on a day to be fixed hereafter. A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the proceedings.

The Masonic Jewel, for February, publishes a long and very valuable letter from Bro. John Carlowitz, in which he furnishes a tabular statement showing the total amount expended annually, by the different Grand Bodies, in printing and publishing reports of their several proceedings. This, it seems, reaches the sum of dollars 52,325 65c., and Bro. Carlowitz considers it not unreasonable to suppose that "the large mass of miscellaneous printing annually needed in the offices of the various Grand Officers," must swell the total to dollars 60,000. Taking this fact for his text, Bro. Carlowitz advocates the establishment of a National Grand Lodge, and with it that of a National Grand Lodge Library; or, if this should not prove feasible, a General or National Masonic Printing House, where the annals of every Grand Masonic body, and all Masonic literature, "now out of print, and for which, at present, fabulous prices are asked and paid," should be published. In such case, Bro. Carlowitz thinks that, in due time, every Lodge could become possessed of a complete library of proceedings, as well as reprints of old magazines and literary works. He further points out that if each Mason in the United States contributed a quarter dollar, the sum of dollars 142,550 would be raised, or if a dollar each, over dollars 570,000. If this sum were invested in the names of the different Grand Masters and their successors, as Trustees of the Fund, there would be an annual income arising from it of little short of dollars 29,000—reckoning the interest at 5 per cent. Without entering further into particulars, we may state that the idea, whence the scheme has originated, is a worthy and a generous one. We are, ourselves, constantly urging all Craftsmen to take a deeper interest in Masonic literature. We must not, however, be led astray by our enthusiasm. We confess we do not see how such a scheme could be carried out; in fact, Bro. Carlowitz, in the early part of his letter, declares that "Fifty-three Grand Lodges will have fifty-three different opinions," and in a sentence afterwards, he says, "Some States have invited the Grand Masters of other Jurisdictions to come and compare work; but I have not read that any one has ever complied with this request;" and he asks very pointedly, "Why is this so?" We think we can answer the question without much difficulty. With all our boasted enthusiasm and fraternal feeling, we Masons of different existing jurisdictions are as jealous of each other as possible; as much so, in fact, as the great military powers of Europe, who never weary of preaching about the lion and the lamb lying down together in peace, yet each of them must play the lion. In Masonry, the idea of a uniform ritual is not only a very beautiful, but a very proper one likewise, but we each think our own should be practised uniformly throughout the world. This is very far from being the first time, Bro. Carlowitz, the idea of a Supreme Grand Lodge for the whole of the United States has been mooted. You deserve great credit for the force with which you advocate it in the present instance, but we do not think you will live to see your idea realised. However, we tender you our hearty good wishes for your success.

The Keystone announces that the Grand Council of Royal, Super-Excellent and Select Masters, Pennsylvania, met on the evening of the 21st ult., in the hall of Lebanon Lodge, Lebanon, Pa., the attendance being far greater than on any previous occasion in this jurisdiction. The proposal to change the title of the Grand Council was rejected. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year—namely, Ill. Comps. Peter C. Shidle, M.P.G.M., M. Richard Muckle R.P.D.G.M., William J. Fordney L.G.M., H. Stanley Goodwin G.P.C. of W., James Brown G.T., and Charles E. Meyer Grand Recorder. These were all installed by P.G.M. Ill. Comp. Christian F. Knapp, and duly proclaimed. The next annual assembly will be held in Allighany city. Ill. Comp. Will. F. McCully, of Philadelphia, Council No. 11, the retiring Master, was presented with a Past T.P.G.M. jewel. In the same estimable journal is an article by Bro. Hughan, entitled "Freemasonry in America early last Century." Bro. Hughan discusses the constitution of sundry Lodges in various of the now United States, which held under the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and of others warranted by Mother Kilwinning, then acting apart from the Scottish Grand Lodge. Among the former is included "No. 177, St. John's, Philadelphia," which, on the authority of our worthy brother, must have been established in 1774. Respecting this, Bro. Hughan is anxious to obtain further information from our Philadelphia brethren, as no mention of or allusion to it is made in the Memorial volume, in the Keystone, or elsewhere. He believes it quite possible that an examination into this may open up a fresh link with the past history of Freemasonry in the premier Masonic City of America."

We wish to direct the attention of those of our brethren who are enrolled under the banner of Mark Masonry, to the meeting of the Prov. Grand Lodge of Mark Masters of Middlesex and Surrey, which will be held on Wednesday next, at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street, W.C., when we hope to see a strong muster of the brethren to do honour to their respected Prov. G.M., Bro. Col. Burdett. The Provincial Grand Lodge will be opened at six o'clock, and the Grosvenor Lodge (for the advancement of brethren, &c.) at four.

We are informed that the next Meeting of the Members of the Pan-Anglican Club will take place this day, Saturday, at the Freemasons' Tavern, to determine upon the future location of the Club. The President will take the Chair at 2 p.m.

We make it a rule to show no favours to the various candidates for the benefits of our Institutions, but at the earnest solicitation of Bro. Lacey P.M. of 174 1327 and 1241, have so far departed from it as to speciallym ention the case of Maria Gertrude Goddin, who is a candidate for the Girl's School. She is one of a family of seven who are left entirely dependent on the exertions of their mother, and if any of our friends have not yet promised their votes we would ask them to support Bro. Lacey.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Disorder of the Throat and Chest.—Who ever has once made trial of these invaluable remedies can truthfully bear testimony to their astonishing efficacy, their curative and preservative power against the many maladies of winter. The Ointment, rubbed on the chest, acts most beneficially in arresting inflammation, irritation, congestion, and all pectoral complaints. In recurred sore throat, diphtheria, mumps, quinsey and similar ailments, the Ointment should be well rubbed upon the throat and summit of the chest at least twice a day, while the Pills are taken internally according to the plainly printed directions. Holloway's remedies constitute in themselves a perfect safeguard against most diseases dependent upon changeable or inclement weather. They counteract the sources of disease.

MASONS AND THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.—On the second day of the late session of the Grand Lodge of Wisconsin, a fraternal reunion was held at the Court House, Milwaukie, at which addresses were delivered by Mayor A. R. R. Butler and Rev. Bro. Samuel Fallows. The latter took for his subject the "Tree of Masonry," and showed the character and extent of its roots. The following is interesting and suggestive:—"In that city of brotherly love, where our grand Centennial Exhibition is now being held, in that celebrated Hall where once sat the men 'who pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honour,' to maintain the glorious principles of the Declaration of Independence, there is yet to be seen the chair in which John Hancock sat when he presided over that immortal band, and signed his name so that John Bull could read it without spectacles. That chair has on it, marked so boldly that it arrests first the visitor's attention, the Masonic symbol of the All-Seeing Eye. How many of this heroic number of patriots, 'who, in the days that tried men's souls,' ventured their all for their country's welfare—how many, I ask, were Masons? Our children know the number of signers; they are familiar with the fac-simile of their signatures. They know that fifty-six perilled their lives in putting down their names. Fifty out of the fifty-six were members of the Masonic fraternity, and he who is familiar with Masonic thoughts, sentiments and language, knows that the flavour, the spirit, nay, the very verbiage of that magnificent protest against tyranny, and assertion of the just, inalienable rights of man, are thoroughly Masonic. These were the men who, banded together, in 'the upper room,' had learned be meaning of true liberty and equality, and knew how to give and vindicate these precious truths to the world."—Bro. Rev. Samuel Fallows, of Wisconsin.—Keystone.

Albion Lodge, No. 9.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 14th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Air-street, Regent-street. Bros. W. T. Scott W.M., F. Macarthy S.W., S. Coste P.M. as J.W., I. Moring P.M. Treasurer, J. A. Abbott Secretary, Harvey S.D., Robey J.D., Blackman I.G., Rawles Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. Marsh, Willey, Vallentine, E. Coste, S. Coste, H. Friend, Storr, and Cater; Bros. Thompson, E. Willey, Forbes, Redfern, Salisbury, Pollard, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Bro. F. Coles was raised. The sum of five guineas was voted from the Benevolent Fund attached to the Lodge, to the widow of a deceased brother. Pursuant to notice of motion, Bro. Chifferiel proposed, and Bro. Macarthy S.W. seconded, that the Lodge meet, in future, at Freemasons' Tavern; after some discussion, it was carried. The W.M. then said it had been the custom to have a summer banquet, and he hoped they would have one as usual; a committee was appointed to carry out that object. The Lodge was then closed until the 1st Tuesday in October, instead of the 2nd Wednesday, and the brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Nicols. Grace having been said, the W.M. proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Marsh I.P.M., in proposing the W.M., said it was very gratifying to see the able manner in which he had performed the ceremonies. When, at the end of his year of office, he leaves the chair, he will be able to do so with the knowledge that he has not only discharged his duty, but will leave it with the approbation of every member of the Lodge. The W.M. thanked the brethren for the cordial manner they had received the toast. When he took office, it was with a determination to do his duty. He then proposed the Past Masters. Their qualifications in every capacity entitles them to respect, not only in their own Lodge, but wherever they visit. Bro. Marsh I.P.M. assured the brethren he, as well as every Past Master, would be only too happy to render their assistance whenever required. Bro. H. Webb, P.M. Nos. 72 and 193, returned thanks for the Visitors, and alluded to the Masonic Boys' School; he would, however, leave that question, he said, to one whom he was sure would do justice to it; he referred to the worthy Secretary of the Institution, Bro. Binckes, who, in one of those speeches he is so famous for, spoke on the merits and requirements of the School. Bro. Chifferiel, who is a Steward for the next Festival of the Boys, also pleaded on their behalf; he stated that the brethren had that evening promised him 40 guineas; he felt sure from such evidences of their liberality, the sum he should take up would be worthy of the Albion Lodge. The Officers of the Lodge was next proposed, and was followed by the Tyler's toast. In addition to those already mentioned, Bro. H. M. Levy was present as a visitor.

Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73, Glasgow.—Celebrated their 119th anniversary, by a supper and ball, at the Star Hall, on Friday, 2nd March, Bro. J. Kinnaird R.W.M. presiding, with his Wardens, Bros. A. McLeod and W. J. Kay, as Croupiers. He was supported by Bros. G. McDonald I.P.M., J. Stewart P.M., J. Bannerman D.M., J. S. Ampleford T., R. Richards Sec., F. Smith Chaplain, and the rest of his officers. Amongst the visitors we noticed Bros. J. Kyle R.W.M. 34, J. Smillie P.M. 34, J. McNairn Sec. 4, W. B. Pattison 27, J. Booth R.W.M. 87, Wm. Boag and J. Aitkin, of Partick 117 A. Mickles, of St. Mirens, Paisley, J. Block, of Busby, St. John's, W. H. Bickerton P.G.S., J. Martin R.W.M., and J. Morgan I.P.M. 219 P.G.D., G. Innis S.W. 292 Rothesay, and John Innis R.W.M. 408. A most excellent repast was furnished by Bro. Galloway, after which the Chairman gave "The Queen and the Craft," "The Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family." He then called on Bro. G. W. Wheeler to respond for the "Three Grand Lodges." Bro. Wheeler dwelt on the humanising influences of the Craft, as furnishing a common ground on which those who held diverging views on theology or politics could meet in harmony, and learn to respect those whom otherwise they might have regarded as adversaries or opponents. He also showed what had been done for the cause of benevolence, urging the Scotch brethren to try to emulate the English Masons in this respect. Bro. A. McLeod gave "The P.G. Lodge," which was ably responded to by J. Morgan P.G. Deacon. He stated they were doing their best, by constant visitation of the 29 Lodges in the Province, to urge them on in the good path; and though they could not boast of giving away thousands, as their English friends did, still they gave double what they did a few years since. They had now about £700 in the bank, and hoped soon to make it up to £1,000, when it would form the nucleus for some good object. Bro. Ampleford proposed "The Lord Provost and Magistrates," suitably acknowledged by Bro. J. Bannerman D.M. W. B. Patterson gave "The Army, Navy and Volunteers," showing that the blessings we now enjoy were largely owing to their efforts in the past. Bro. Smillie P.M. St. John replied. The old spirit was still the same; our Navy was still as ready for service, for war, or for humanity; witness the trip to rescue the shipwrecked foreigners from the barren shores of St. Kilda. Bro. Kyle R.W.M. St. John's felt honoured at being allowed to propose the toast of the evening —"Prosperity to Thistle and Rose 73." She had prospered in the past, and he was sure she would continue to do so under her new Master, whom he had known nearly all his life, they having been schoolmates together; he was sure he was the right man in the right place. Bro. Kinnaird, in reply, gave a synopsis of the history of the Lodge for the past 119 years, causing considerable amusement by giving extracts from some of the old Lodge minutes. The inference he drew was that their Lodge, along with the Craft in Scotland at large, was progressing, not only numerically but socially, and he hoped to be able to assist in the good work till the time might come when there would no longer be any need for secrecy or mystery, and the keystone be withdrawn; when "man to man the wide world o'er shall brothers be and a' that." (Cheers). P.M. T. Steward gave the Sister Lodges. Bro. G. Innis said he was pleased to respond for the sister Lodge in a sister isle. There had always been a great friendship between the brethren in the Island of Bute and the Thistle and Rose, and he hoped shortly to have the pleasure of welcoming a deputation from them to Rothsay St. John. Bro. Bickerton P.G.S. briefly proposed the Ladies. Bro. Richards replied for them. P.M. G. McDonald proposed the Strangers. It was pleasant to see some gentlemen there without aprons; they would be able to see, at any rate, that Masons were not such very terrible fellows as their adversaries sometimes represented them to be. Dr. Cameron was glad that he had accepted the invitation to be present, for he felt that he was no longer a stranger. A meeting like this was calculated to dispel prejudice and disperse illusions. He had often thought of joining, but circumstances had hitherto caused him to delay. J. M. Wheeler could endorse all that Dr. Cameron had said. He thought these occasional social meetings of use, not that he had any of the absurd prejudices spoken of to remove, for he was the son of a Mason, nay, the grandson, and, he was glad to add, the great grandson of a Mason, yet he was only a visitor to-night. He could scarcely call himself a stranger, yet he thanked them for their hospitality and good wishes. The Chairman gave the Masonic Press. Bro. G. W. Wheeler, FREEMASONS' CHRONICLE, replied. Thanks to the Chair, Croupiers, and Committee concluded this part of the entertainment, it having been agreeably interspersed with songs from two ladies, sisters of Masons, and Bros. McLeod, McInnis, Ampleford, Meigle, McNair, Peiston, and Peribur jun., only nine years of age, a little prodigy. Dancing was then commenced, and continued till the morning light showed the happy couples the way home. The officers congratulated themselves on the success of this festival, as there were five other Masonic Festivals the same night in the city and suburbs -viz., Shamrock and Thistle, 275, St. George, 333, St. John, 347, St. Clair, 362, and Kenmuir, 571, all of which were well attended by members and friends.

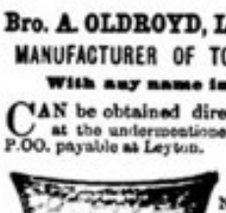
Smith super. intended, and every brother and visitor was made comfortble. The cloth having been removed, the W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. In proposing that of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers, he was pleased to see two brethren of the Lodge Grand Officers, present; he regretted the absence of Bro. A ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. T. J. Hamp, of 218 High Holborn. Bro. Dr. Pearce was raised to the 3rd degree. Bros. Absalon and Madell were passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. A sum of ten guineas was voted on the list of Bro. Barber Secretary, who is a Steward for the "Boys" in June next. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren were entertained at the Holborn Restaurant, where a sumptuous banquet and dessert was provided by Bro. Gordon, and superintended by Bro. T. J. Hamp, the viands and wines being of first-rate quality. After the regular toasts had been honoured, the W.M. rose and said he had much pleasure in proposing the Initiate. He was one whom they were all pleased to see, he being so instrumental in looking after their creature comforts. He informed the Initiate he was on the threshold of universal religion that knew no distinction; it binds all by one universal bond. As he progresses so he would appreciate it. He hoped they would drink that toast as it deserved. Bro. Hamp returned thanks for the toast, and said he was fully impressed with the words so beautifully spoken by the W.M.; he hoped sincerely to be among them for many years. Bro. H. Watts I.P.M., then said he had to propose the health of the W.M. During an experience of 23 years he never saw one who had so admirably discharged the duties. It is barely four years since their W.M. had been initiated; he is a credit to Freemasonry, and he hoped they would give the toast a hearty welcome. Bro. Watts I.P.M. then sang a very excellent song. The W.M., in reply, said the position he occupied was very onerous; theory was one thing and practice was another; he had done the work to the best of his abilities. It is generally at the conclusion of the W.M.'s year of office that he is nearest perfection; he hoped, at the expiration of his year of office, to have the same sentiments uttered; he would do his utmost to give them satisfaction. There would be a Lodge of Emergency in May, and he hoped that the change in the arrangements made would meet with their approbation. He thanked them for their kind expressions, and then proposed the Visitors; he was pleased to see they had nearly 20 present. Many had left, but those that remained they were pleased to see. He would couple with the toast the names of the Rev. Bro. Gordon, and Bros. Taylor and Shepherd. The Rev. Bro. Gordon rose:—For seventeen years he had been connected with the Fraternity. He was pleased to respond to the call of kind and fraternal hearts. He responded with much pleasure. The W.M. then proposed the P.M.'s. Whatever the W.M. may require, the Past Masters are all ready to render their assistance. There were two of these brethren present. As for Bro. Watts, they had seen how ably he had installed him into the chair. They know also what Bro. Mander has done in Freemasonry, for many brethren had received the benefit of Masonic instruction at his hands, himself among the number. Bro. H. Watts returned thanks for the toast of the Past Masters. Bro. Mander had set a very good example, which all would be pleased to follow. A loving cup was handed round, that was presented to Bro. T. J. Hamp, the new initiate. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Treasurer and Secretary of the Lodge, he said that since the former Bro. had occupied the position of Treasurer, he had conducted those duties to their satisfaction, and he was sure that in conjunction with the worthy Secretary, a satisfactory account would be shown them. Bro. Mander P.M. and Treasurer responded; he said, we are now in a very efficient state; we have given to the Masonic Charities, and hope we may do so in the future. Bro. Barber followed, and said he thanked them for their kind expressions, and also for the £10 10s placed on his list; he hoped that he would be able to put more on his account than Bro. Watts. The W.M. then said it was his intention to act as Steward for the Boys' Festival, but his engagement on the picture of the "Installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M.," would take up most of his time. Before leaving his chair he would be pleased to act as Steward for the three Charities. (Cheers). The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Officers; he stated they were all qualified to fill any office required of them; he would also mention the names of Bro. Higgs Organist. This having been responded to, the Tyler's toast concluded a very harmonious and fraternal meeting. The Visitors were Bros. J. Norton W.M. 969, Dr. J. F. Stains 60, P. Robinson 201, B. Taylor W.M. 1273, R. H. Burnham 1624, Blackie 1426, E. Taylor 879, R. Gordon 186, P. J. Ireton 1348, J. Henderson 352, H. Godfrey W.M. 1261, T. White 428, Shepherd 27, T. H. Sims 1351, Wilson 1330, H. T. Hooper 435, S. Botibol 188, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188.

Smith S.D., Cooper J.D. Lane I.G., Fenner, Townsend, Bolton, Andrews, Kent, Crellin. Lodge opened and minutes confirmed. Lodge opened in 2nd degree. Bro. Smith answered the necessary questions, and was entrusted. Lodge opened in 3rd. Ceremony of raising was impressively rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. A. W. Smith acting as candidate. The 1st section of the lecture was worked by Bro. A. W. Fenner, assisted by the Brethren. Lodge was resumed to 1st degree, when Bro. Oldroyd was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed in due form and adjourned.

Royal Standard Lodge of Instruction, No. 1298.—This Lodge held its weekly meeting on Friday, the 9th of March, at the Castle Tavern, Holloway-road, N. Present—Bros. Hall W.M., Simpson S.W., Eldridge J.W., Hunter S.D., Passingham J.D., Humphreys I.G. Past Masters:—Bros. T. Cull (Preceptor), Wright, Yeomans, Shackle, and several other brethren. The Lodge being opened in due form, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Yeomans having been interrogated and entrusted, the Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and the ceremony of passing rehearsed, Bro. Yeomans acting as candidate. The 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th sections were then worked by Bro. Cull. The Lodge was closed down, and Bro. Simpson S.W. unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks having been accorded to the W.M. for so ably carrying out the duties of the chair for the first time, the Lodge was closed in due form.

Loyalty Lodge, No. 1607.—This Lodge held its regular meeting on Saturday, the 10th inst., at the Alexandra Palace, Muswell-hill. The W.M. Bro. John Newton, supported by his officers, opened the Lodge punctually at 3 o'clock. The business consisted of passing Bro. Jones, and a proposition for initiation. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren proceeded to the private residence of the Treasurer, Bro. Legge, at Finsbury-park, who had invited the wives and lady friends of the members there to join them. A delightful evening was spent, and all separated, highly pleased with the hospitality and truly Masonic spirit displayed by the worthy host and his amiable wife.

Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, No. 1642.—The regular meeting of this newly-consecrated Lodge was held on Thursday, the 8th inst., at Ladbrooke-hall, Ladbrooke-grove, Notting-hill. Present—Bros. W. J. Murlis W.M., W. Grist 1489 as S.W., Parkhouse J.W., W. Stephens P.M. Treas., J. Pushman Sec., Clench J.D., Lander I.G., Smout D.C., Smout jun. W.S., &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. The business consisted of initiating Messrs. W. Hawes, F. Crabb, W. Bartle, W. H. Woods, and N. G. Collett, and the passing of Bros. Swift, Linscott, J. Bartle, Woodmason, Hook and Buckland, the ceremonies being excellently rendered. Bro. E. J. Cave was elected a joining member. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a very excellent banquet. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, Bro. E. P. Albert G.P. responding to that of the Grand Officers. The toast of the W.M. was proposed, and very appropriately responded to. Several of the Initiates returned thanks. The Visitors, Treasurer, Secretary, Wardens, and Officers were given, and the Tyler's toast brought a very harmonious evening to a close.



In our report of the Panmure Mark Lodge last week, Bro. James Salmon, of the Earl of Chester Lodge, No. 196, Chester, present as a visitor, was incorrectly described as Bro. James Sutmore.

LOMBARD DEPOSIT BANK LIMITED.

(Extract from the Directors' Report, presented to the Shareholders at the Fourth Ordinary General Meeting, held at the Cannon-street Hotel, on Saturday, the 3rd March 1877).

THE LOMBARD DEPOSIT BANK LIMITED having completed its second year, the Directors have the pleasure of presenting to the Shareholders and Depositors their usual Report and Balance Sheet, this being the Annual one, but the fourth since the Bank's incorporation, and it having been the most prosperous year the Bank has had, the particulars cannot fail to prove satisfactory to all who are interested in the Company's progress.

From the following figures, which are duly certified by the Auditors as correct, it will be seen that during this year the Directors have received applications for advances of sums amounting in the aggregate to £214,000; of these a considerable portion fell through, because, on investigation, the security offered was found to be insufficient in value, or defective in title, but your Directors succeeded in completing advances to the amount of £64,653, being more than double the amount advanced during the initial year of the Bank's existence.

During the past six months, the Directors have made, in addition to temporary loans, 421 advances of a more permanent character (making a total of 822 advances for the year), on securities amounting to £33,360, upon which the interest and bonus amount to £5,760, and after defraying the expenses of Management, and writing off to Suspense Fund £488, and £500 to increase the Reserve Fund to £1,000 it leaves a balance of £1,425 to be carried forward. These figures show at once the satisfactory condition of the Company.

During the same period the receipts from deposits have been £8,548, and the withdrawals £6,763, so that we have received £1,785 more than we have paid out. We have advanced £34,064, and we have received back £12,715. Our advances, therefore, are larger than the repayments.

If the above figures are compared with those in the preceding balance sheet, you will observe that we have continued our usual satisfactory course of business — every department showing a steady increase in the number and extent of our transactions. Some idea of the magnitude of this young institution may be formed from the fact that the total turn over for the year amounts to nearly £224,100, while the amount due to the Company, and for which ample security is held, has now reached the sum of £21,349. In addition to this, the Directors call attention to the fact—a most important one—that within two years of the Bank's establishment, the reserve amounts to £1,000. This large increase in each department of the Company's business during the past year, evidences the growing and stedfast confidence of the public in the management of the Bank; is most encouraging to the Board, and will be a source of great gratification to the Shareholders. That confidence the Board has sought by constant and conscientious efforts in conducting the business of the Company on the soundest principles, by investing the moneys intrusted to their charge with the utmost caution and care, by refusing all offered securities which were either speculative or risky, and accepting only such as were legitimate and of ample value.

The Directors also desire to draw the Shareholders' attention to the fact that the whole of the shares are allotted except 5300. They now offer 3300 to the present Shareholders and the public at par, the remaining 2,000 at a premium (to be placed to Reserve Fund) of 5s per share. The Directors believe that the present position of the Bank justifies them in adopting this course.

AT the FOURTH ORDINARY GENERAL MEETING of the Shareholders of the Lombard Deposit Bank Limited, held at the Cannon-street Hotel, on Saturday, the 3rd March 1877, Colonel Mahon in the chair, the Directors' Report and statement of Accounts were unanimously approved, and a dividend at the rate of 12½ per cent. was declared.

The cordial thanks of the meeting were unanimously passed to Mr. James Pryor, the Manager of the Company, and to the Chairman and Directors.

By Order of the Board,
RICHARD TYLER, Secretary.

THE RIGHTS OF WORSHIPFUL MASTERS.

WE do not think too great importance can be attached to the question, What are the powers and privileges of a Master? We revert, therefore, to the subject, in order that our readers may have before them, as far as we are able to state it, an exposition of the law as pointed out by the Grand Registrar at the last Communication of Grand Lodge—so far, at least, as regards the assistance the Master may call upon a member of his Lodge to render him in the fulfilment of his duties, and whom he may invite to render such assistance. A certain amount of obscurity would seem to have attended this knotty point, not because the law was not sufficiently precise, but because it had not been studied with sufficient care. There has been some amount of confusion between the requirements of the law and the satisfaction of courtesy. The more clearly it is understood what may be done by the Master, the less likely is it that any heartburnings will be excited. No brother will have a right to feel offended when the Master of his Lodge does that which he is legally allowed to do, nor do we think the latter will be less studious of the feelings of his Past Masters because his powers and privileges are more clearly defined. At all events, there is less prospect of discord arising in a Lodge, when its members are well-informed upon this subject, and this being so, we need hardly apologise to our readers for troubling them with this second disquisition on the authority of Masters.

The case which led to the statement of the law by the Grand Registrar will bear repetition. The W.M. of one of our Provincial Lodges expressed a wish that a certain member of his Lodge should assist him in working one of our ceremonies. The I.P.M. objected, and claimed the right to do so; and he did so, the W.M. vacating the chair for that purpose, but under protest. The I.P.M. was wrong in advancing any such claim, and the Grand Registrar has ruled that the Master of a Lodge may invite any brother—that is, any qualified brother—to speak the words for him in working any of the ceremonies, the words being, in fact, his own words, though spoken by another; and, moreover, that he may place the brother assisting him either near his pedestal, or in any other part of the Lodge. This, of course, applies to the case of a Master who is momentarily "incapable of discharging the duties of his office," but has no intention of vacating the chair. But in the event of his withdrawing, not from the Lodge itself, but from the presidency of the Lodge for it matters not how brief a period of time, he clearly abdicates his functions. In such case, though he has the right to invite any brother present to take his place, it can obviously be only one who is qualified, and the only brethren qualified to fill the chair of a Lodge, are Installed Masters. We think it important that this should be clearly understood by our readers; for, unfortunately, in his very elaborate judgment, the Grand Registrar made use of the words any brother, without adding the important word "qualified." We have throughout conceded that this was what he intended by the use of the word any, and no doubt it was so understood generally by his audience; but it is well in all such matters to be as precise as possible, especially as there have arisen at different times sundry misunderstandings on this very point. This, then, appears to be the law according to the latest exposition. A Master who retains his seat may invite any brother to perform any of the ceremonies for him, and he may place him in any part of the Lodge, the ceremony thus performed having the same validity as though he had himself rehearsed it. If he vacate the chair during the performance, he may invite any brother he chooses to occupy his seat, who is qualified to fill it, that is, any brother having the rank of an Installed Master. Thus far, then, the I.P.M. and other P.M.'s of a Lodge in the order of their seniority, have no rights at all, except that it is only one of their degree who can legally occupy the chair of a Lodge in the absence, actual or virtual, of the W.M.

We must now consider the rights and privileges of Past Masters. In the absence of the Master, it devolves, in the first instance, on the Senior Warden to "act as Master in summoning the Lodge;" in the Senior Warden's absence, on the Junior Warden; and then, in his absence, "the Immediate Past Master, or, in his absence, the Senior Past Master of the Lodge present shall take the chair." But if no Past Master is present, then "the Senior Warden, or, in his absence, the Junior Warden, shall rule the Lodge." Here, then, we have a clear and precise definition of the rights of the Immediate and other Past Masters. It is only in the absence of the Master and Wardens that any one of the P.M.'s can ... the Lodge. It is only in the actual absence of the W.M. that it devolves on the I.P.M., or the S.P.M. present, to occupy the chair of the Lodge. In the absence of Installed Masters, then the Lodge is ruled by the Senior, or, in his absence, by the Junior Warden, but without occupying the chair. When, then, we hear of the I.P.M., or S.P.M. present, claiming the right to occupy the chair momentarily vacated by the Master, we know that he is advancing a claim to which he is not justly entitled, for the Master may invite any qualified brother to occupy his place. It is only in the event of no such invitation being addressed to a particular P.M., that the chair is taken as of right by the Immediate or Senior Past Master. It is clear, therefore, that no Past Master has any reason to feel aggrieved if his junior, or a visiting P.M., is preferred over his head to fill the chair. We confess that, for the sake of courtesy, we should like to see a W.M. show respect for the feelings and seniority of the Past Masters of his Lodge. It is to them he must always look for advice in any difficulty. They are the sage counsellors, on whose wisdom and experience he must rely chiefly for support. It is impossible, therefore, that he can be too conciliatory in his bearing towards them. On the other hand, the Past Masters must exercise some forbearance towards their brother in the chair. It is not calculated to promote either harmony or discipline in the Lodge, when the authority of the Master is disputed, or when offence is taken where none was intended probably. It cannot tend to the good of Freemasonry in general, or of any Lodge in particular, that unseemly differences should arise among our "Conscript Fathers," whom we are accustomed, or expected, to regard with feelings of respect. And now that it has been stated authoritatively what are the powers and privileges of a Master in this particular respect, we trust that, in the interests of the whole Masonic body, we shall hear no more of this class of bickerings; and that, as the Grand Registrar remarked so particularly, we shall find our laws interpreted broadly and liberally, not in a narrow and cantankerous spirit. Liberality of view is essential to the well-being of the Craft, and it is in order to secure this as far as possible that we have again reverted to the proceedings at the last meeting of Grand Lodge.

While on this subject, it will interest our readers perhaps to learn that, in America, in the absence of the Master, the practice adopted differs conspicuously from ours. Oliver, indeed, has noted this in his Masonic Jurisprudence, but by mere accident the question was lately brought under our notice in turning over the pages of an old American Masonic newspaper, the American Freemason, Louisville and New York, bearing date 1st November 1855. Herein a writer had culled, from the pages of our Freemasons' Quarterly Review, the opinions of that journal on different points of Masonic Law. He then contrasts, where desirable, the practice adopted in America. Among the points noted, occurs a case in which our English editor had evidently been consulted as to some of the powers possessed by the Master of a Lodge, for he is quoted as saying —we have reproduced the words as given in the American journal—"No Mason below the rank of an Installed Master can initiate, pass, or raise. The pretence of a Warden's power to initiate in front of the pedestal, is a breach of Masonic law as regards the party so offending; and, in our opinion, any Past Masters present are equally guilty, and, the act not being legal, confers no privilege on those who are the objects of the fault." (1837 p. 554; also, 1841 p. 128). In commenting on this, the American Freemason says, "that this is contrary to the Ancient Rule—we refer, of course, to Lodges under the jurisdiction of Grand Lodges in the United States, for with the most of these we are well acquainted"—will be immediately remarked, if the formulæ used in the Installation Services are borne in mind. "They all attribute to a Warden all the powers of the Master when presiding in his absence." The writer then goes on to wonder how the fact of a brother being a P.M. will enable him to fulfil any one of these ceremonies better. He also objects to the spirit of our law, by which he, on whom the degree is thus conferred, is in no wise benefited. Oliver's statement agrees with this in all essential particulars, though he mentions a more ancient rule in America, which provided that, in such cases, the Master's authority ought to revert to the last Past Master who is present, and also that the Wardens, as a matter of courtesy, will generally invite a Past Master to take the chair, on account of his experience and skill in conducting the business of a Lodge. However, we have said enough as to the contrast between the law in the two countries, for this is of less importance than the interpretation we put upon our own law. What this latter is we have already shown above.
