LOVE IS

- Love is UNDERSTANDING: letting a person be himself; appreciating him for the talents peculiar to his own being.
- Love is TENDERNESS: embracing, but not clinging, neither squelching, nor suffocating.
- Love is SENSITIVITY: projecting into another's aura to know how he feels.
- Love is COMPANIONSHIP: walking on the beach, in the rain; drinking deeply of nature - individually, yet together.
- Love is LISTENING: stilling one's own thoughts long enough to share with another.
- Love is DRAWING FORTH: the other's Higher Self.
- Love is KNOWING: that no matter where you are, you are part of the all, and never separated in spirit.
- Love is SHARING: truly sharing of your deepest thoughts and aspirations.
- Love is DISCOVERY: having feelings of which you were never before aware.
- Love is RESPECT.
- Love is CONSTANCY: there is no longer any reason to run, or escape, for suddenly YOU are there!
- Love is COURAGE: to face life honestly.
- Love is COMPLETION: bringing the two halves of a form together - to create a perfect pattern.

LOVE - THE ULTIMATE SOLUTION

The world that humanity has created is filled with fear. Fear takes many forms such as stress, loneliness, violence, jealousy, depression, etc. Fear erupts as cruelty, violence, war, and the use of drugs.

Since fear in any form is a symptom of the lack of love, we must bring love back into our lives. On a deep instinctual level we realize this. Everyone has a need to love and be loved. Everyone is searching for love, either consciously or unconsciously.

Unfortunately, most are looking for love in the wrong place. Love comes from within, from our spiritual heart. We have blocked the flow of love; ignored it. Love, being a radiation of God's substance, gives us perfect freedom in choosing whether to accept it or ignore it. By accepting love and recognizing it, the flow increases.

Much of humanity has chosen, perhaps unknowingly, to shut off the flow of love, and as a consequence we live in a world of fear and pain. When love is not allowed, pain moves in and speaks in a much louder voice, which all can feel and hear.

We are in chaotic times, going from one age to another, and only those who are able to raise their vibrations will fit into and be happy in the new age.

Love is the means and the power that can bring about the needed transformation. When we learn to extend love we begin to transform ourselves and the world. To love one another is the basic commandment. In John 15, Jesus says this twice:

"This is my commandment, that you love one another, just as I have loved you. (Jn.15:12) This I command you, that you love one another." (Jn.15:17)

This is all very clear, and most of us accept these commandments. We must, however, do more than pay lip service or limit our action to accepting the value of love intellectually. For love to do its work, for love to transform us and our world, we must put it into practice. To put love into practice we must study love, think love, meditate on love, give love, accept love, and grow in love.

We must give the practice of love our highest priority. Prepare and train yourself to extend love. In your daily life, in your dealings in the marketplace, in all your relationships, extend love.

One of the advantages of love is that it is available to all. One does not need education or knowledge to practice love and reap its benefits. As we grow in love the spark of light - the light in our spiritual hearts - will grow, extending itself and filling the dimly glowing etheric body until it becomes a brilliant, glowing body of light. This love and light then shines through the physical body, healing it and making it a fit vehicle for the Christ within.

Love cannot be defined with words because words are merely symbols, and symbols limit rather than define. We might say, "Love is an outpouring of the Divine Essence of God, a radiation from the spiritual heart, which manifests as sharing, kindness, joy, bliss, deep concern, attraction, and a feeling of oneness with one and all." We have to know the reality of what that definition means, rather than just accept this as an intellectual statement. We must practice it to know what it means.

We must go step-by-step in increments that we can handle, beginning from where we are. To attempt to go directly to unconditional love is just too big a step for most of us and we would be tempted to give up the task before us. We can all be kind, and use that as the first step. Merely extend kindness and consideration to everyone and everything. Feel what is happening in your heart center as you do this. This should encourage you to do it more and more.

To continue upward, consider the type of earthly love with which you feel most familiar and competent. Earthly forms of love are contaminated by ego considerations and must be purified. If you can experience motherly love, strip it of possessiveness and exclusivity. Remove the elements of fear; concentrate and meditate on the pure love that remains. Then practice extending this love, first to a few, then to more and more, as you grow comfortable doing this. With continued practice you should be able to extend this pure love to everyone and everything.

Similarly, if you have a one-on-one relationship, strip it of possessiveness, exclusivity, jealousy and the elements of fear, and learn to extend it to one and all. A one-on-one relationship can be beautiful but can also be stifling and limit spiritual growth if it manifests as earthly love. Unless there is also freedom, love is not pure. Love does not bind, it cannot be bought; it can only be given away. Love attracts itself, and as you give it away it returns to you. The more you give away the more you have. Knowing this, how could we not love God, the source of infinite endless love?

Surrender is the highest form of love. Surrender to God and His Love flows through you and gives you joy and freedom. Surrendering to Divine Love is the only surrender in which you retain your freedom. Surrender to Divine Love and free yourself of the grip of the insane personality ego which is ever alert to control your behavior.

All of this takes courage, perseverance, determination, and most of all, practice. To extend love is our basic function. We have been given the task and challenge of transforming ourselves and planet Earth. Through love we can and will do exactly that. Join with those who have committed themselves to this challenging task. Resolve to let love flow through you at an ever-increasing rate. And grow and grow and grow in love until you become a Savior, one with The Christ, one with God, one with Love Itself.

WHERE DO YOU LOOK!

I chase the horizon; all beyond!
The sky too belies my eyes,
Mother Earth only a hard lump;
The oceans, seas, the rivers
All babble strange, trees hum
In the passing winds - only this void
I hear and see and know!

'Tis the void that's the all,

'Tis the ALL that's the void.

All blend in to call

The All in our all;

And without a shout

Says "Here I AM, GOD"!

MY HEART'S MELODY

My heart is so happy! My heart "now" has wings.
My heart is a spiritual magnet calling forth only beauty in things.
My heart is now soaring, O so high above
Recognize "This grand feeling?" My heart's vibrating to Love.
My heart is so happy! My heart has wings
Vibrating to Love in all beautiful things.

The moon in full splendor beams in the sky
Radiating her Love Rays on my heart soaring by.
My heart is so happy it radiates too
These Love Rays outpouring through me and through you!

The Stars in Their Glory gleam in the sky
Enfolding my heart soaring so high.
The twinkling and gleaming then comes to the eyes;
It's my heart drawing "Love's Radiance" right out of the sky.

For there is "The Music of Life" in Star Radiance above!
And this Music of Life is the Father's Benediction of Love.
In this Music of Life, Love first has Its start
And this Spirit of Love gives wings to our hearts.

As I stand here in wonder seeing all things anew
In this "Light of Mystical Beauty", My Love, I find You!
A Rainbow Bridge forms the pathway and we joyously ascend
Into the "Source of All Enchantment" - here is bliss without end!

O, my heart is so happy; it sings and it beams!
With my eyes wide open I am living Love's Perfect Dream.
In tune with the "Great Mystical Heart Beat", O how my heart sings
Vibrating to Love, and Love's beautiful things.

Celestial choirs sing my Love Chant, O how their echoes do ring.
Celestial joy fills my being as in each octave they sing.
Come join my Love Song, "O let your heart sing!!"
And soon you'll discover your heart too has wings!

Celestial choirs sing my Love Song, O how their echoes "now" ring
Issuing in "The Golden Dawn" of my Christhood, as I greet My King of Kings!

God loves you - each one - as I do always. A Light Seeker

THE LAW OF LOVE

My Beloved Chelas of the Diamond Heart:

There are Laws of the Universe which are immutable. There is one Law which permeates the Universe with Light and that is the Law of Unconditional Love. We can look at the Law of Love from many aspects, many of which none of you would recognize except as We give them through analogy. The Love which binds the Universe is completely and totally impersonal. It is a Love that flows through everyone alike, whether they be Adepts or Clergy, whether they be householders or criminals.

It is an impersonal energy form without discrimination. Were it to be withdrawn for an instant, from any manifested form, that form would immediately disintegrate. But even the word disintegrate which you understand is meaningless in that to disintegrate means to separate from that which is composed into a form to that disassemblage of the components of the form. But were Love removed there would be no trace, no residue, no disintegrated parts. The nearest word We can use to express this would be annihilation, removal to nothingness. We are limited through words and your finite minds and their comprehension in the seemingly thankless task of expressing the Limitless, the Infinite. Thus it is We must as need be use terms which are understandable to the human mind.

Now for you to perceive of the Limitless the usual analogy used is the Solar System and beyond to the Universe. Yet even this has its confines, but there are no terms with which you could correlate this stupendous statement. So it is We liken the great Laws and universal concepts to that which is familiar to you. Going back to the Law of Unconditional Love, examine the word, unconditional. You who have been taught through the ages into conditioned responses find this anathema, and it is this period of time which you are being allotted to adjust yourselves, heart and mind, to Unconditional Love, unconditional giving - in other words - UN-limited Love.

It has been your custom to love those who love you, and should one restrain that love, you hold yours from them. It was a condition, and the condition no longer exists, and therefore Love is denied. But this was an emotional Love, an affection, a small emotional facet of that greater jewel which is called Love. In its most limited aspect this is a temporary demonstration, temporary also connoting a time limit.

Are you capable of Universal, Unconditional Love? Giving and giving and giving without any thought of termination, pouring this Divine Energy through you to every individual without qualification? Can you flood the surface of the planet with Unconditional Love pouring through your being? Do not mistake that you generate this Love, for it is Divine Essence, but you can serve as a channel, a distributor, a transmitter for this Divine Energy. There is infinite potential in you as a distributor of Love, and contrary to earthplane examples of energy sources such as the distribution of water, there are no gates or dams to hold back the flow except self-created barriers in your mind.

When you are in a crowd, do you consciously serve as a channel to distribute Love to every individual there? (No matter how scruffy or raunchy looking they may appear on the surface to your eyes.) Can you be the distribution center for Unlimited Unconditional Love? You are in physical embodiment to remove the final barriers from your mind. Only those who can will proceed into the New Age, for there group orientation will be conditioned by the Unconditional.

Those whose mind barriers, so ancient and rigid, standing as the Great Wall of China, as a great barrier, have the choice of dismantling it, transmuting it with Violet Flame, or hiding behind it as they have done thus far. Can you become defenseless? For defenses are conditions, and one who is at-one with the Soul needs no defense.

Beloved chelas, many of you hide behind a mask, a defense. It is your conditional response to the world, You who will fill your heart and mind with the Unlimited Light and allow your being to be flooded with Unconditional Love will find that all masks are cast aside, that all defenses disintegrate, that your beingness and knowingness are the Oneness which is the All, the all-important, the Infinite. Beloveds, let go. Put aside all conditions and become the One

Which from our hearts can flow,
The melodious melodies of LOVE
Which enrapture and uplift us so.

Let's give this gift to neighbors,
To those with whom we meet;
Let the words of Divine Blessing
From our lips speak and greet.

At this season of remembrance
Of the birth of the Christed One
Let's share the gift He gave us,
The "Love Gift" of the Son!

mjs

A Meditation:

Celebrate the birth of Christ in the cradle of your consciousness during the Christmas Season. Let His vast perception in Nature, in space, and in Universal Love be felt.

Paramahansa Yogananda

A Love Remedy:

If a troubled situation comes to your immediate attention, then do what you feel led to do, and your loving action will prepare the way for the inflow of Spirit. However, you serve humanity best when you visualize the river of Life flowing from your Source and as the God that you really are, set sail words, thoughts and ideas of Love and Perfection on those crystal waters, to go forth, uplifting and blessing a troubled world and its people. Coming from within - from the Source of Perfection, they will go forth with the Light of Spirit, as building blocks for a Heavenly World. That is how we shall perfect and renew the world. Let that be your gift to the Universal Christ this Holy Season, that honors His birth 2,000 years ago.

CONCLUSION of a two-part Article by Dr. Ernest Briggs. Issue No. 97 had the first part.

SELF-ENLIGHTENMENT

There are four basic preparations needed to ready oneself for "Self-enlightenment", other than to establish a communications network. The four preparations may be listed as: the proper mental attitude, the proper physical condition, establishing realistic goals, and setting up a workable game plan.

The proper mental attitude begins within one's own frame of thinking. A positive mental attitude is essential for success, along with faith, so that the end result will be accomplished. Not only is a positive mental attitude toward self necessary, but a positive mental attitude toward all things is necessary, as well. Prayer should be used to help in obtaining a positive mental attitude. Prayer opens the door to the influx of positive thinking. Positive thinking establishes the basis for healthy mindedness. Healthy mindedness is a sign of positive mental attitude. Faith is gained through meditation, with the help of a positive mental attitude. Meditation helps to give one an introspection into self. Faith, according to Jesus, "Can move mountains".

The proper physical condition means being able to function properly in conjunction with a positive mental attitude to prepare and carry out the steps to conclusion in the proceedings of "Self-enlightenment".

Progress along the spiritual pathways can best be mastered only when one has established realistic goals to be reached within one's experiences and capabilities. Realistic goals are best reached by tailoring one's desires and ambitions to one's needs, based upon past experiences. As one progresses in "Self-enlightenment", past experiences will dictate what new things have to be accomplished.

To accomplish all new things successfully, a "game plan" must be established so that a time table as well as a list of activities can be followed according to plan. In making your game plan, lay out the events and times that can be reasonably met. Remember, your daily life is still going on, and you live in a real world. Make out a game plan to cover weekly activities, and allow for changes in the list of activities if necessary. Find the best time for you to follow your spiritual advancement work. Later on, new times may be given to you. The game plan will also help one to chart self-progress.

When one reaches a certain milestone in life, and looks at life from a realistic point of view, one must ask, "What are my goals in life?" This shows that one has reached a maturity in spiritual awareness. In other words, "when the student is ready, the teacher will come". At this point in one's life, one is guided into a situation where spiritual awareness begins to emerge. One begins to seek knowledge, to yearn for wisdom, and to beg for understanding. One is now ready to board the excursion to spiritual understanding. Some may take hundreds of lifetimes to reach this point, others may require only a few. A person's station in life may not be a criteria to indicate that this point has been reached. By the same token, the facade that one displays from outer appearances may conceal the true spiritual growth of that individual. So, please do not "judge a book by its cover": you could very easily be misled.

At this juncture, one should be made aware of the difference between a religious person and a spiritual person. A religious person may or may not be spiritual. On the other hand, a spiritual person may not be religious. The word "religious" connotes the practice of a religion or sect, or the act of being pious. The word "spiritual" denotes the essence of being high in thoughts as well as deeds, without piousness. A spiritual person could very well never have been exposed to any religious teachings, and still be able to exude love, kindness, and all of the accouterments associated with upright and ethical living, whereby a religious person could be the epitome of hypocrisy.

The point to be made here is that a thorough study in religion and practice does not preclude that a person is on the road to spiritual growth. It is not necessarily mundane studies alone that gives one spiritual growth, but also learning from the upper planes is needed. History has shown that religion has played a dismal role in elevating man along the spiritual paths. Only when one turns inward and seeks the truth does one grow spiritually.

The spiritual person is akin with all life, for life itself is spiritual in nature. Regardless of the nature of life, the life forces come from the same sources. Life means awareness - awareness of self and one's environment. The fight to live, or survive, brings this point out quite vividly. The life forces that propel life are constantly at work to perpetuate the species, be they plants or animals. A spiritual person will look at all of these things through the eyes of a being with ecumenical reverence for life. One who strives to become spiritual, or associates with spirituality, is on the road to becoming a spiritual being. Many lifetimes have been spent in preparing for this momentous event. One who lives the life of an ascetic does not fulfill the requirements for spirituality anymore than does a pompous person. Simplicity in the nature of one who seeks spiritual growth far outweighs the ostentatiousness of a hypocrite. One must earn spiritual growth. Spiritual growth can only come through the knowledge of truths, it cannot come through false beliefs or half truths. One must grow in awareness to be able to discern the differences.

The benefits of spiritual growth cannot even be explained fully. There is not enough knowledge available to anyone to fully understand all the benefits of spiritual growth. Spiritual growth is a progressive awareness of self. Each step one takes to learn more about self is spiritual growth. This is why spiritual growth is a "do it yourself" task. Only you can know you, that is, the total you. One may deceive the conscious mind, one may misinform the subconscious mind, one may misguide the soul, but the spiritual laws still hold. You still pay the price. There are only three ways to break a law, ever: ignorance, forgetfulness and plain old contempt. Nature does not care which ones are used, you pay the price. Until one recognizes the significance of truth and how truth can lead one through the pathways of spirituality, one may as well be on a merry-go-round. Time will be spent, but no progress will be made. The expression "Truth shall prevail", becomes a more meaningful thought; the personification of truth becomes a more paramount idea, with regard to one's spiritual progress. All spiritual growth is based upon the knowledge of truth. As one gains the workings of these truths, life becomes more meaningful. One will see things in a different light. "Spiritual growth" for an individual would depend upon how well one has learned the truths and put these truths into everyday living so as to benefit self and mankind alike.

Progress may be extremely slow for many lifetimes, for many souls, because they do not know what to do, or what requirements are expected of them. As stated before, the only requirement is to know self, totally. The moment an inkling of self is realized, progress begins. In most cases, one goes through a series of "trial and error" situations through many lifetimes, until the proper understanding, the correct knowledge, and wisdom based upon truth take over and shape one's destiny along the pathway to spirituality. In many instances, souls are held back due to the influence of misguided individuals, religious doctrines based on false beliefs, ignorance on the part of self, and failure to recognize truth when confronted with it. One always likes to take the "easy way out". This is human nature. To follow the pathways to spirituality requires an effort to change, and to work hard after the change. Deep down inside, many individuals know this, but inertia holds the upper hand, and there develops a struggle between will and desire. In most cases, the "will" wins, hands down.

After this battle has taken place many times, in many lifetimes, with victory going back and forth, finally the "desire" wins out and a steady progress begins. The deep seated desires of nature, being what they are, begin to shape the personality of the individual. The individual with the urge to move forward, but hampered by reluctance, wavers until sufficient knowledge is gained to cause the individual to move onward and upward is spiritual growth to a point where self-confidence and self-reliance have been achieved. Human nature being as it is, an individual may stray from the pathways of spirituality many times before realizing the folly of it all. Even so, one may go in spurts until full self-realization sets in. Then an all-out effort is made to achieve the accomplishments that have been prescribed by the upper planes.

"Why should one want to progress?" may be asked. Day to day living can be beautiful. One who is steeped in spirituality exudes kindness and warmth beyond words of expression. This charisma permeates the environment of the holder. One may wonder why some people that are encountered can hold others spellbound by their very presence. The soul's auras that cause these wonderful feelings are due to the high state of spiritual consciousness of the individual. It is the desire of the Great Forces that all souls will some day reach these high states of spiritual consciousness. "Self-enlightenment" is a method that may help one to reach the upper planes, complete the third law, and accomplish several of the Degrees of Brotherhood.

Once mastered, "Self-enlightenment" can bring about vast changes in one's daily life. Things that seem remote can be brought to one's finger tips. One might immediately say, "My luck has changed"; not exactly so, rather that the individual has taken a greater control of destiny by introspection and by working more closely with the upper planes.

In any communication network, the flow of information is dependent on two branches: the transmitting and the receiving unit. Every individual has both units. How well one uses the units depends upon one's knowledge of the equipment and methods of operation. The correct information flow in either direction is very important. The intent of one's request has to be stated correctly, otherwise the answer received may not be correct, or may be misleading. If one makes a hazy request, a hazy answer will be received, or perhaps no answer at all. It is extremely important to examine the request for flaws and possible errors. Make all requests as simple as possible to reduce errors. That is why it is important to have a good positive mental attitude; this reduces static and other interference.

Prayer, meditation, and self-enlightenment are the backbone of the communications network systems. Use all of them freely by putting them into your "game plan". The more one uses these activities, the greater will be the rewards. Self-development is the answer to one's prayers; self-enlightenment is the answer to one's meditations. The central theme that has been discussed is how to progress along the pathways to spirituality. It comes down to, "If it is to be, it is up to me", the ten most important two-letter words in the English language. This is not a case of "Let George do it....", but, "Let ME do it".

Everyone must face the responsibility of doing for self. Everyone travels the pathways to spirituality alone. The discussion that are presented here are to show one how to get the mind and the body in readiness to progress along the pathways to spirituality. It could be said of the rewards one will receive that they are "out of this world". Remember, as Jesus stated, "First seek the Kingdom of Heaven, and all things will be given to you".

AT THE CITY OF THE SUN:

The community enjoyed a September social time with food and a video "Crocodile Dundee". Dorothy Rayburn was the sole birthday honoree at the occasion. It also served as a welcome home for the Campbells.

Kenneth and Alta Campbell returned to the City of the Sun after spending the past four months visiting with their children in Wisconsin and Alaska. They traveled the Alkan Highway, camping all along the way. The mileage to Wasilla, Alaska from Wisconsin was 3,800 miles one way. A great time was had fishing Salmon at Valdez and Halibut at Homer. Ken said, "I'm going back". He enjoyed it so much. His wish is to catch "that big one"!

October 2 found us getting acquainted with Robert McCampbell and his wife, Claire. They have recently moved to Mesilla, New Mexico. You will recall he has been the messenger for several articles we have printed in the Golden Dawn. After a fine pot-luck dinner we appreciated Robert's talk sharing some of his experiences, and explaining "where he is coming from".

During October David Lebold has been visiting his relatives in Ohio. One of his unusual accomplishments this summer was growing in Dorothy Rayburn's yard the BIGGEST pumpkin in Luna County. Many people have come by to view it.

Besides a trip to Albuquerque, Dorothy Rayburn took in the Apple Festival in the Mimbres Valley and the mineral baths at Truth or Consequences, New Mexico. Several of our people have journeyed to Mimbres Valley apple orchards, and we do enjoy the wonderful tree ripened apples which are available.

For the first time we at the City of the Sun have been busy extending our full hook-up RV Section so we can have at least six extra trailers, campers, etc. Rates are available for stays of a week or a month. Many "snow birds" come to this area to evade the excessive cold of northern United States.

A Prayer:

O God, will you hear my cry of loneliness and come to me and fill me with Thy great love that I may know that I am never alone.

O God, things become important somehow, but will you show me that they are only for my comfort and are not really important to my spiritual body that I may not put too much emphasis upon them but see them only in the light of serving me as I serve You.

O God, when the trials of humanity become burdensome to me take me into Thy bosom and free me for a time from all that is worldly and let me absorb the warmth, the strength, the love of your Holy Being that I may go again into the world being made whole through Thy holiness.

And as I say these words I know that I am in the Presence of all Life, of all Love, of all Light, of all Beauty, of all Joy, and of all Peace, for You are all of these and I am in the Presence of God and the ALLNESS OF HIM.

"When thou hast cleansed thine own heart that the Light of Divine Love may shine clearly through its meshes, then shalt thou see clearly to cleanse thy brother's heart, and mayhap thou wilt not then find so much of evil in thy brother's heart as now thou thinkest. What seemeth evil to thee in him, may be but the image of evil reflected upon him from thine own heart." From The Mountain Top
