THE JOURNAL OF BORDERLAND RESEARCH

BSRF No. 1 Published by Borderland Sciences Research Foundation, PO Box 549, Vista, California 92083 USA. Edited by the Director, Riley Hansard Crabb, MsD.

The Journal is published six issues a year with the assistance of the Associates, at the Director's home, 1103 Bobolink Drive, Vista. It is printed, 36 pages an issue. The Foundation is incorporated under California law, May 21, 1951, #254263, and has been in continuous existence since then. Correspondence is addressed to the PO Box. The Journal is included in the Foundation membership of $12.00 a year, domestic. Foreign membership/subscriptions are now $15.00. Single copies and back issues of the Journal are $2.50. A donation of $12 domestic or $15 foreign will also bring the Journal to those who dont care to join BSRF. The Director's wife, Mrs. Judith Crabb, is office manager and Secretary-Treasurer.

PURPOSES OF BSRF: This is a non-profit organization of people who take an active interest in unusual happenings along the borderland between the visible and invisible worlds. In the words of the late Meade Layne, founder and director of BSRF from 1946 to 1959: "BSRA publications are scientific in approach but employ few technical expressions. They deal with significant phenomena which orthodox science cannot or will not investigate. For example: The Fortean falls of objects from the sky. Teleportation, Radiesthesia, PK Effects, Underground Races, Mysterious Disappearances, Occult and Psychic Phenomena, Photography of the Invisible, Nature of the Ethers and the problem of the Aeroforms (Flying Saucers). In 1946 BSRA obtained an interpretation of the phemomena which has come to be known as the Etheric or 4-D interpretation; it has not been radically altered since that time. This continues to be the only explanation of the UFOs which makes good science, sound metaphysics and common sense."

The chief present concern of the Foundation is to make this kind of unusual information available as a public service at resonable cost. Headquarters acts as a receiving, coordinating and distributing center. An important part of the Director's work is to give recognition, understanding and encouragement to people who are having unusual experiences of the borderland type and/or are conducting research in any of the above fields. For consultation on borderland problems or for Spiritual healing through prayer, write or phone 619-724-2043 for help or for an appointment. Donations and bequests toward Foundation research programs and expenses are welcome.

The 35-page list of BSRF publications is available from Headquarters for $2.00 in money, check or stamps. This includes brochures on borderland subjects, tape recordings of Crabb's lectures and of members of the Inner Circle, talking through trance-medium Mark Probert. THE AWE-INSPIRING MAJESTY OF THE GREAT PYRAMID

By Elaine Peick

Words really cannot convey the feeling that comes over one when you see the Great Pyramid for the first time. Even though you have been told how really big it is, you still stand in amazement at the huge stones which make up the outside of this last Wonder of the World. My group and I let ourselves absorb its majesty. I think several felt as I did -- that we had been there before and it was as if we had come home.

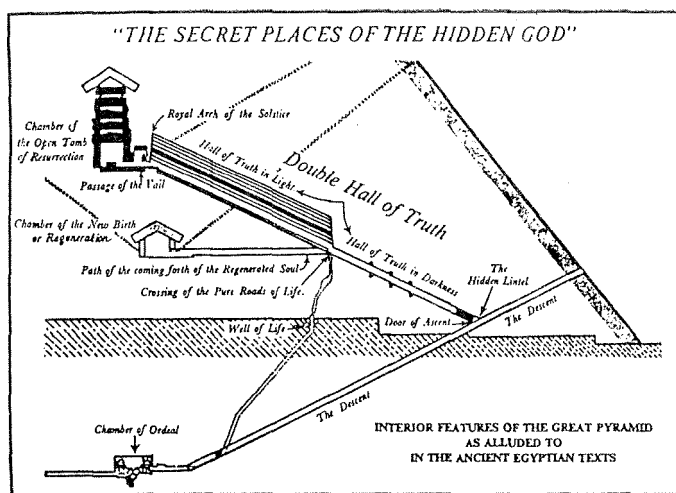

The base of the Great Pyramid covers 13 acres. More than 2½ million blocks of limestone and granite, some weighing 70 tons each, make up this great temple. To look at it is to know within yourself that it built by great Initiates who knew how to conquer gravity. When you think of how it must have reflected light out into outer space, before the outside was stripped of its polished limestone, you remember how accurate the old Egyptian name for it, The Light, was.

The Master Djwhal Khul says of it in his book "Letters on Occult Meditation", given to Alice A. Bailey, pg. 249, "The laws that govern the erection of large buildings and the handling of great weights will someday be understood in terms of sound. The cycle returns, and in the days to come will be seen the reappearance of the faculty of the Lemurians and early Atlanteans to raise great masses, this time on a higher turn of the spiral. Mental comprehension of the method will be developed. They were raised through the ability of the early builders to create a vacuum through sound, and to utilise it for their own purposes."

With these things in mind we began our climb to the entrance and started up the ascending passage. This passage is only 4 ft. in height and continues 150 ft. upward. When testing for the Initiate before he was allowed to progress on upward? Pondering these thoughts within ourselves, we went back to the passageway. We see that we are now at the bottom of another narrow but very high passageway, known as the Great Gallery. It is about 28 ft. high and ascends for 157 ft., another hard climb but at least one can stand upright in this passageway. Here we felt man was symbolized as having risen above the animal state, was standing upright, and was assuming some conscious control of his life. This Grand Gallery is magnificent and one cannot help but feel uplifted and inspired while climbing upward in it.

Next comes the Great Step, a huge stone, 6 ft. wide and 3 ft. high but badly worn now. Could this have symbolized the point in time in which man becomes consciously aware of his own Soul, the guide he has been given if he will only be quiet in meditation and listen to it?

Then comes a small little room, a sort of antechamber, with polished walls of red granite. Stooping again through a short passage one comes into the King's Chamber. We all breathe a sigh and eagerly explore this very special room. Beautiful red granite blocks, polished, squared and finely jointed, form the walls, floor and ceiling of this great room.

At one end is the "sarcophagus" of dark granite. If this was a Temple of Initiation, could not the initiate, as Manly Hall says, have placed himself in this sarcophagus to leave his body, thus overcoming death, and then to return consciously? I had brought plastic to cover the bottom of the sarcophagus and we all took turns lying in it to see what we could experience. We had arranged to have this room to ourselves for one hour, so there were no other tourists there. All I could feel was a great appreciation that I had been allowed to have this experience.

we think of this long hard climb, doubled over because one cannot stand upright, we think of it as reminding us of a time when man walked mostly on all fours and did not stand upright and take control of his own life. He had not tuned in to the guidance of his own Soul during that long period of time. Just when you think you are going to have to stand upright, that your back is really beginning to ache, you come to the end of the low Ascending Passage. Here is the room known as the Queen's Chamber -- although Queens were never placed in pyramids with their Kings.

We pause to look into this interesting but quite plain room. Could this have been a room for

When all had done this we arranged ourselves around the room for our meditation. I lit a candle and incense which we felt would help to clean up the vibrations of so many tourists who had been here before us. We tried to make ourselves comfortable on the hard stone floor and did some chanting. The room is the same temperature as the mean temp. of the earth, so it was comfortable.

I led us in linking with our Souls, in surrounding ourselves with Light, in tuning in to the Planetary Logos, the Christ, the Buddha and the New Group of World Servers throughout the world. Then we settled in to our own meditations. I cannot speak for all the others, many of whom felt special energies, heard musical tones, saw colors, etc. My own experience was that I felt such a spiritual upliftment, such a closeness to the Higher Ones, such a thankfulness to have been allowed to visit this very special place. I cannot say my meditation was better than ones I have had many mornings in my own room at home, but it was a great experience that I will never forget. Just to be in that special room, to know that I was in a holy place of the past, a great temple of the ancients, was to realise that this was truly a great edifice.

PASSING THE TEST OF OVERCOMING DEATH?

Slowly we came back to ourselves, and quietly we began to climb back down the passageways, which I found to be more difficult than going up. I know that each of us took with us an experience that we will never forget. Although I have been in this great temple four times since then, I have never forgotten my first special tuning-in there. Afterwards we all wondered if we had tried to pass the tests of overcoming death in that great temple in some far away day, and had failed. I think there is not much doubt that many who entered and tried, found their physical death in that sarcophagus, and only a few left as "gods".

(The above illustration is from Manly Hall's "Encyclopedic Outline of Masonic, Hermetic, Qabalistic and Rosicrucian Symbolic Philosophy" and reproduced in Tompkins' "Secrets of the Great Pyramid". This is the artist's concept of the would-be Initiate assaying an out-of-the-body projection in full consciousness. If he succeeds in returning, he has indeed "triumphed over the grave".)

VIM, FLYING LESSONS FOR MANKIND
APPROACHING NIAGARA FALLS IN A DUGOUT

Lia Delissant Extrapolates on the Lecture-Music Presentation Made at the U.S.
Psychotronics 1983 Convention in Portland

But what is it intended for in this project? At the USPA conference I called it "flying lessons for mankind approaching Niagara in a dugout." Niagara to my understanding is the much-heralded shift of our whole solar and related systems, from the previous to a higher vibratory rate or "density", a spontaneous or clocklike occurrence taking place on the minor every 25 thousand years. We appear to be culminating three of these shifts or minor cycles at once this time, resulting in closure of a major or 75K year cycle. Normally a species goes along unperturbed with such shifts, much as the chrysalis-contents metamorphs without struggle. In our case, however, a long thought-conditioning and experimentation with unexpected mental sets and behavior has caused a resistance to the shift and its implications. The resistance is of such proportions that it involves a running tally just now at about 80% of humans predicted to flunk this density: a "harvest" so low that it, together with our warlike and mechanistic creations, has attracted attention, support and intervention from many non-Earthean sectors. (Humans who flunk will have to repeat physicality for another 25 thousand years. Current info indicates that within another 30 years the harvest will be over.)

The part I seek to play through VIM in this picture, is to increase the harvest. I view the passing or flunking strictly without tragedy or elation personally (graduation faces problems of its own), and as a matter of each individual's choice; it's becoming impressive and even reassuring to me, that when some mind seems perverse as in nuke thinking, denying true cancer cures or the fact that anything at all is possible NOW, even unto this or other universes; that even such barbarism or denial is another instance of divine freedom. (In that instance, freedom to choose and act out perversity.) So I feel neutral (much to both the White and Dark Brotherhoods' annoyance, apparently), but would simply rather aid the harvest than impede it.

Also what do I mean in referring to "Light" or "Dark" Forces. There seems quite a bit afoot in this area, concerning Earth-- really some Star Wars for the minds or souls of men; by Light I mean those who claim interest in liberative principles, instruction and enlightenment for humans and the evolution of their consciousness; and by dark I mean those interested or invested in the progressive enslavement and degradation of mankind to their own purposes. (The scientific, "educational",^{medical} and Banking Establishments are strongholds of this latter, currently. They could not work without the default consent of a sleeping populace, however.) There are space contingents present among us from both sides. Some of the better known hail from the Pleiades (Light) and Orion (Dark). The reason I feel neutral is that the Light forces seem almost homosexually fastidious (can't find strong enuf slang) about "interfering" with our "free wills" (Whose free will is being overridden by whom, when they ignore our pleadings?), so won't show themselves or help even when needed or begged to; while the Dark forces seem patently crazy. And they both recruit avidly, the one seeking as much "service" (relinquishment of freedom) as the other. Moreover they both feel they are serving God in the hottest possible way. So the recruit can either be useless or nuts, and I choose not to be recruited. A fig on your Star Wars, cosmic clowns!

Other ignoble resemblances between the Light and Dark Forces, "White and "Dark" Brotherhoods: They both withhold critical information, cause or permit untold suffering in their followers, promote brainwashing (in White we call it chanting, the Course in Miracles, reading "All and Everything" seven times, Sunday school -- but the process is identical to the Russian's, Jim Jones's or the media). Moreover, both sides play on our emotions, regard the other side as disgusting, try to assert their will over the other's, indulge in lies of omission, and depend on our wretchedness for their own sustenance or purpose here. And they're both made of God.

The proposed VIM hopes to be ideally suited to

- (1) Tom's "linkage of minds". A VIM listener's actual oneness with everyone and everything else, via identity with a source Underself or Oversoul or----, becomes perceived through the aid of the music, its cooperating technology, and precisely instructed breathing concurrently. (Breathing may prove to be an essential key to the whole success.)

- (2) liberation of paranormality in the individual, preferably on the spot. The listener may be aided by VIM to observe infinite abilities and possibilities right here in herself, and begin using them without religious or spiritual ado.

progress in either (1) or (2) would be indicated by any instance of documentable telepathy, clairvoyance or clairaudience; materialization/dematerialization of self, objects or substances; levitation; apport, PK, documentable OOB; double-body stuff; inedia; samadhi; visitations (especially to a group); instant healing; instant acquisition of skills, data, understanding, solutions or specifications; production of electrical or antigravitic power as with the frendis', and deflecting or converting scalar nasties like Tom showed us in Soviet weaponry. I'm regarding these or any other siddhi-like performances as both realistically seekable and the minimum to be satisfied with. (If this bends your bars, please let me know at once. I want to be out front here, but not in order to offend you.) The reason I called this the USS Overlooking The Obvious was that except for Jack's and Wallaces' fine and refreshing demonstrations, we really saw none of this, which to my view is truly science in action, at the Conference-- and no-one complained. In sum, this VIM is about producing adepts. The goal is consciousness.

I feel some bias against the oft-repeated claim by believers and other devotees, that the reason they can't do siddhis is that their path is "above" that sort of thing. If you're getting run over by a coach and four, the last thing you are is above it. A celibate with no sex drive is a eunuch, not a renunciate. Non-siddhists must show or know they can deliver, (a minimum understanding of physicality) before they can claim holiness in refraining. Master J seemed to set quite a lamblike precedent, to be slaughtered as by the coach and four, but he sure taught otherwise. "Know ye not that ye are gods?" "...and these things that I do, all these shall ye do, and greater yet by a thousand times thousand." So let's get on with the DOing.

Some possibly hazardous or unpalatable aspects to manifesting such powers (I call it producing "Effects", with us at cause) are (A) idio-savants are as good or better at them than most people, especially most "bright" people. Some of the best manifestations seem to occur whimsically and remain unsatisfying to the intellect: You don't seem to NEED intellect to do them, but rather dogged simplicity and emotional zeal, just as with becoming a millionaire. Yet in these qualities lies a possible end to need and greed on this planet. "If you're so smart why can't you DO?", was Gurdjieff's type of question. Many of us stay in an opposite place, of pretending to know (which we don't) yet pretending to be limited (which we aren't). God seems to adore pretense (just watch a cat) -- the Easterns call it "Lilas" or Theatre-- so that must be another way of exploring: forgetting one's identity well enough to make the exploration seem endurable or worthwhile, and get all the "what ifs" worked through.

So, one surrenders certain conceits or habits and gets more humble or vulnerable, as a rule, in reclaiming one's siddhi birth-right.

(B) Some of the surrender involves recognition or experience of one's usual self as a mere wave upon the ocean of power, potential, reality, Godhead, consciousness, universal Mind, mana, prana, the Fermi Sea, ether, Dirac matter, Hyperspace, E₀, od,orgone, psi plasma... what-have-you where these Effects or siddhis come from. Although we mostly can't Do (cause Effects) in the ego state, the opposite state can seemingly halt you in your tracks too. And there can also be a fear factor. In an earlier, pilot VIM, subjects went through a terror phase, sometimes days of it on and off, during deconditioning or the dismantlement of their anti-siddhi programming.

(C) In celebration of freedom as the near-divinest quality, I'm seeing the human individual as unpredictable. No attempts are here made to shape what ze will do with such powers. My guess is, contribute to an increase in love, peace, genuine larger scale creativity, and maybe a wildfire spread of the powers, thus undoing the tendency of this planet towards material enslavement. But also to bear in mind as with frendis, is that the powers could be acquired without much corresponding shift in outlook, in which case they would backfire. I can see Kendicott getting ahold of strip mining they don't even have to buy energy for! Or people materializing barnfuls of TV sets-- a fusion bomb in every pot -- The instant disposable recyclable rapemurder of the planet.

(D) Conflicting messages on the question of whether all must awaken (to these powers within, etc) in order for one to. I saw this as a croissant, not a crusade. It's clear that many make it to adepthood singly-- each ascended master, etc. On the other hand we have the Course in Miracles, Ashtar, and many related entities making statements like "as long as one slave walks the earth, you are not free." And it seems really clear that confusion or bondage-thinking in another-- say, Reagan, Rockefeller or Rothschild-- causes the same in me. Likewise when I am poor or sick, I know keenly that neither these nor any other men are rich. They were not even prosperous enough to make me well or decent-lived. And how much poorer are they and we for all the starvation we do not alleviate!

(To be concluded in the next Journal)

SUBTLE ENERGY: A CHALLENGE FOR RESEARCH

E. James Faubel and Willard Frank

The historical background of research in the field of subtle energy is extensive and well-documented through the efforts of Dr. Albert Abrams, Dr. Ruth Drown, Dr. T. Galen Hieronymous, George DeLaWarr, Dr. David Tansley, Dr. Harold Saxton Burr, Malcomb Rae, Guyon Richards and a host of others. In addition, Russian scientists have done considerable research on human radiant energy. They have established that the blood, brain, nerves, glands and tissues of the body emanate mitogenic or life rays with components in the ultraviolet spectrum. Based on this research it was found possible to "tune-in" on the body organs and measure mitogenic or life ray energy levels for health, or lack of health. Researchers at the Vienna Psychiatric-Neurologic Clinic on Body Fluctuations of Radiant Energy showed that in certain diseases the blood takes on different wavelengths, and under ultraviolet light radiates different colors depending on the wavelengths being emanated by the blood samples.

It seems of vital importance that measuring instruments be developed and standard units of measure be established to force organized science to accept subtle energy and continue research to better understand and utilize such basic and important fields.

Traditional science acknowledges the existence of many "fields." Among these are the electrostatic, electromagnetic, acoustic, nuclear and gravitational fields. These fields are capable of measurement by calibrated instrumentation in a repeatable and accurate manner and are described by various theories, equations and laws.

Most classical scientists deny the existence of possible "other" fields, especially those involving a life force, pyramid energy, and dowsing forces. Anyone with even a slight degree of awareness should be able to see examples of "other" fields in their daily lives. There is too much documented evidence, too many repeatable experiments that all show the existence of "other" fields.

We need to show the scientific community how to measure subtle energy with instrumentation they can accept and use, not relying on pendulums, rods or stick plates.

Subtle energy fields are not electrostatic, not acoustic, not nuclear and probably not gravitational, even though they seem to interact with many of the understood fields. The literature has many references to techniques for measuring these fields. Radiesthesia refers to "sensitivity to radiations," generally meaning the sensitivity of humans to emanations from water, minerals or living things.

If we are going to measure subtle energy, what do we use for a unit of measure? Measurements generally relate to some sort of standard such as a standard cell reading in volts traceable to the Bureau of Standards. What we need is a standard source of subtle energy and a name for it. We should select some stable, easily reproducible object that can be referred to at any time as a standard source or unit of subtle energy.

The authors would like to propose a simple pyramid as a reference standard for subtle energy. Pyramids are easily reproducible to exacting dimensions, so why not build a cardboard pyramid using the angles of the Cheop's Pyramid at Giza, Egypt, with each base side equal to ten centimeters. With this pyramid properly aligned to the earth's fields, let us define the energy appearing one centimeter above the apex as being one unit of subtle energy. Let us further define this energy as being one Cheops. This pyramid may be a reproducible source of subtle energy and Cheops a possible name for it.

Let us assume we have built a standard reference pyramid to the selected dimensions and have aligned it to the earth's fields. Let us also assume we have defined the energy at a fixed distance above the apex as being one unit of subtle energy.

Now we would like to measure the intensity of other subtle energy fields and compare them to the reference standard. This way we can assign units of intensity to the other fields, such as being one half unit, twelve units, etc.

How do we make measurements? What do we use? Traditionally the accepted instruments include pendulums and scales such as a meter stick. The reference standard could be placed at one end of a meter stick and the unknown at the other end. A pendulum or dowsing rod or hopefully, a new detector device could then be moved along the meter stick to find a null point where the energies balance.

If the null point were, say, closest to the unknown source, and the distance from the unknown to the null one-fourth the distance from the null to the standard pyramid, the energy of the unknown could be called one-fourth a standard unit.

Radionic instruments could also be used to find the rate of the unknown energy intensity to the standard source.

Now we would like to know what kind of energy is present. Since radionic instruments tune to a multitude of settings, there must be some way to identify types of subtle energy. Electrical signals can be classified as so many volts in intensity, and further as direct current or alternating current. The alternating current signals can be measured as being so many vibrations per second, from very low to ELF frequencies up to billions of cycles per second. What about subtle energy?

We seem to have a real problem here. Perhaps it's a mistake to try to describe subtle energy in electrical terms. Alternating current or electromagnetic signals travel at a known speed, the speed of light or about 186,000 miles per second. Acoustic fields travel much slower, about 1,100 feet per second.

In both electromagnetic and acoustic fields, the speed of propagation is related to the frequency and wavelength of the signals by a very simple mathematical equation.

Yes, believe it or not, if you simply multiply the frequency of an acoustic signal or electromagnetic signal by its wavelength, you get the speed the wave travels, and the speed is a constant value. This means if you know the frequency of such a signal and you simply divide the speed by the number of cycles per second, you get the wavelength! Or if you know the wavelength, you can calculate the frequency.

This is all well and good where you know the speed which is certainly the case for the well-known fields, but what about subtle energy? What is its speed of propagation? Experiments seem to indicate that subtle energy travels almost instantaneously? If you send a radio signal to the moon, it takes a good portion of a second to get there. If you perform an experiment that sends out a subtle energy signal, that signal appears to get to the moon without any delay at all, as Dr. Hieronymus and others have shown!

Even if the speed of subtle energy radiation is finite, but very large, how do we discuss wavelength? If we divide a reasonable frequency into a very large speed, we still get a wavelength so large it defies description!

Maybe we cannot use terms like frequency or wavelength to describe subtle energy! But we should use something. . . Radionic instruments tune in to MANY rates or wave numbers. Special pendulums respond only to certain types of fields. We have references in the Nov-Dec 1983 RR, Page 12 literature to the vertical or electrical fields of subtle energy, also to the horizontal or magnetic-type fields. And don't forget the East-West flow fields or Pi-ray fields and on and on.

Somewhere within our grasp is the answer to what to use to detect and measure subtle energy. Perhaps we should all compare notes, get together and discuss this at a high level, sort of a cosmic brainstorming session. We would all gain so much by having an instrument to show the skeptics what we are working with. We need an instrument for the "scientists" to use in their laboratories.

Your ideas, comments, and research material can be valuable. The authors have an address to act as a clearing house to collect, organize, and put in computer memory all available information which would then be published and circulated to all interested parties. The address is: Energy Research, P.O. Box 227, Beavercreek, OR 97004.

ONE CHEOPS CAN BE QUITE A SHOCK

"The British inventor, Sir W. Siemens, related that one day while he was standing on the summit of Cheops' pyramid an Arab guide called his attention to the fact that that whenever he raised his hand with his fingers outspread an acute ringing was heard.

"Raising just his index, Siemens felt a distinct prickling in it. When he tried to drink from a wine bottle he had brought along he noted a slight electric shock. So, Siemens moistened a newspaper and wrapped it around the bottle to convert it into a Leyden jar. It became increasingly charged with electricity simply by being held above his head.

"When sparks began to issue from the wine bottle, Siemens' Arab guides distrustful and accused him of practicing witchcraft. One of the guides tried to seize Siemen's companion, but Siemens lowered the bottle towards him and gave the Arab such a jolt that he was knocked unconscious and fell to the ground. Recovering, the guide scrambled to his feet and took off down the Pyramid, crying loudly."

This is just one of Peter Tompkins' revealing and instructive anecdotes in his 400-page opus, "Secrets of the Great Pyramid", a Harper Colophon paperback, $8.95, and suggests that Faubel and Frank are on the right track in calibrating the power coming off the apex of a pyramid as a standard for measuring Orgone, Mana, Prana, Ectoplasm or whatever you want to call it.

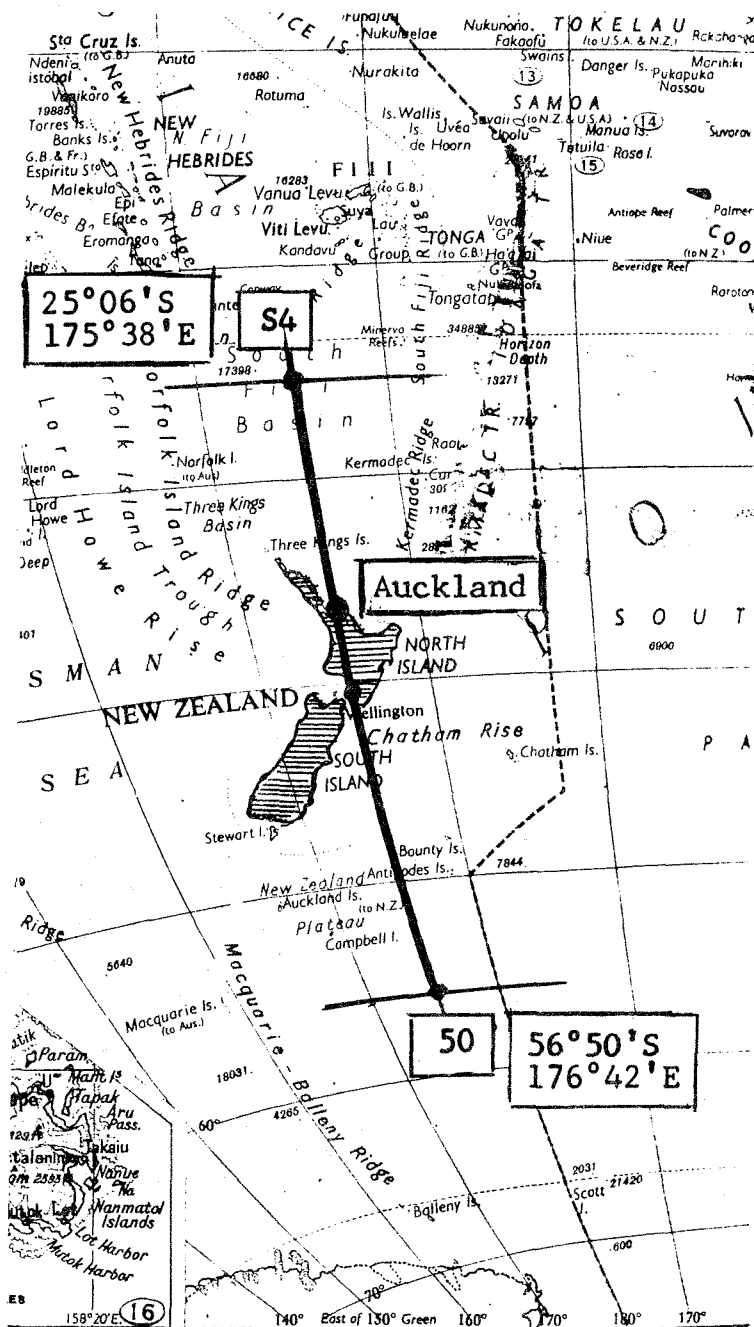

THE WORLD POWER GRID SYSTEM, PART II

By Riley Hansard Crabb

Early in the 1960s, while Ivan Sanderson was developing his world grid map, on the other side of the world Capt. Bruce Cathie was also wrestling with the problem.

Whereas Sanderson approached it from the accumulation of space-time warp phenomena at certain spots on the earth's surface, Cathie was curious about the straight-line sightings of Flying Saucers in the New Zealand area. These suggested to him that the UFOs were flying along invisible but very real lines of magnetic force. Cathie is or was a pilot for New Zealand Airways. His first findings were published in the book, "Harmonic 33", 1968, his second in "Harmonic 695", 1971, and his third, "The Pulse of the Universe", 1977.

Cathie's grid of rectangles bears little resemblance to the Icosa-Dodecahedron grids of the Russians (page 4 of the previous Journal) and Sinkiewicz (page 10) yet it is accurate enough to serve as a technical base for accurate predictions. Look for New Zealand on the Russian and Sinkiewicz grids and you will see that both Auckland, NZ's largest city, and Wellington, its capital, are on a Master Grid line, S4-50, as predicted by Cathie ten years earlier, and we have illustrated this on the map to the left, and on the following page, the Fly Leaf from "Harmonic 33" and "Harmonic 695" with our added notes.

Excited by his great discovery, Cathie decided to generously share his information with the world. He accepted an invitation to lecture on his Grid system to students at Victoria University in Wellington. After the talk the editor of the student newspaper came up to Cathie and asked him what he knew about the American communications base on Kauri Point in Auckland harbor?

Bruce replied that he didn't know anything about such a base. "Well, you have it marked on your chart!" and the editor pointed to the multi-circled spot. After flying back to Auckland, Cathie got in his car and drove around to Kauri Point. Sure enough, there was a large building, bristling with an array of antennas and other communication equipment. It was surrounded by a high wire fence, with armed guards patrolling.

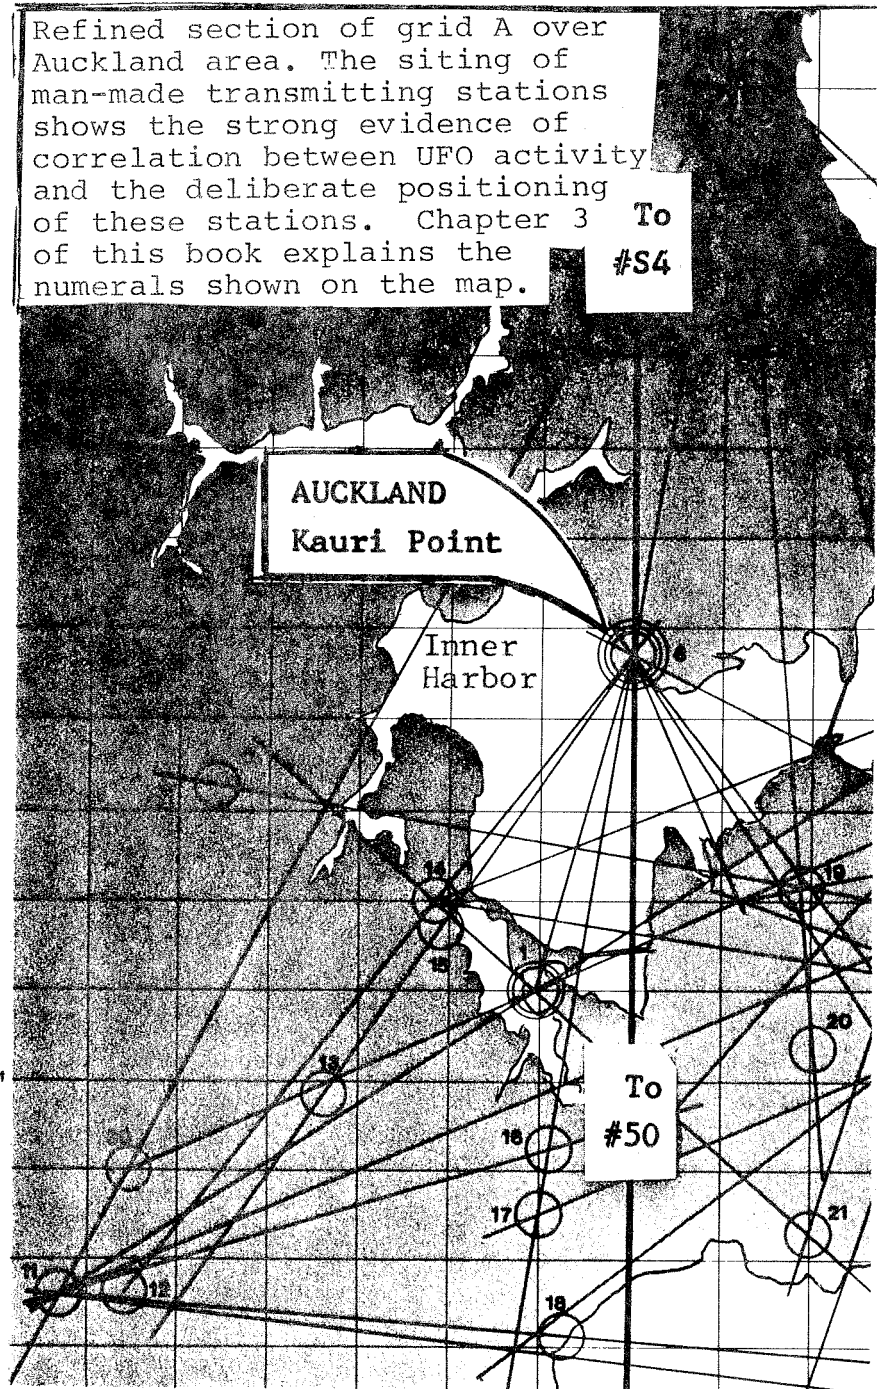

This New Zealand borderland researcher was crestfallen. Apparently an elite group of American scientists, and the military, already knew about the Grid system and had been tied in to it for years! Who knows how many of these so-called communications bases on Grid Points and Ley lines all over the world, have been built with our tax money -- but are not operated for our benefit! Cathie began to receive callers. One Visiting American scientist told him quite frankly, "The people have no right to know what we are doing here."

Another visitor, a New Zealand electronic engineer, working for the Yanks at Kauri Point, said, "Dont you know what happens to people who know to much?"

In the twenty years and more these Grid point bases have been operating, it seems logical to assume that technical problems of getting free energy from the Grid lines have been solved.-- though as long as the major oil companies dominate our political and economic life such techniques will never be made available to the public -- even though we have paid for the research and development.

NIKOLA TESLA VINDICATED

MIRO success in re-discovering the Grid system and putting it to practical use confirms the research and development of Nikola Tesla ninety years ago. With a little receiver tuned to the so-called Schumann Resonance of 7.8 cycles per second, Tesla could light a little bulb anywhere. We have this interesting observation by Stan Deyo in his book "The Cosmic Conspiracy":

"It is also rumoured that Pine Gap (a highly secret American facility in the center of Australia) has a very large nuclear facility to power its enormous 'transceiver'(or Tesla Magnifying Transmitter). Other rumored projects include high-voltage, high-energy plasma accelerators, possibly for use in new methods of power generation, a death ray or plasma cannon, and even specialized power broadcasts to fuel electric submarines as far away as the Indian Ocean. It is almost certain that the earlier version of Pine Gap's very-low-frequency transceiver (ELF wave) which is located at the North West Cape near Exmouth Bay in Australia was and still is used to transmit very powerful undersea currents to U.S. submarines which trail long antennae behind them in the ocean. It is also known that electricity transmitted this way can be strong enough to recharge on-board 'high-voltage batteries' known as plasmadynamic storage cells."

We might add that the Navy submarine must travel along a known Grid line, and that the trailing antenna must be "tuned" by specific length, diameter of wire, insulation, etc. Deyo also notes that the TMT (Tesla Magnifying Transmitter) at North West Cape is exactly on the opposite side of the world, the antipodes, of N3, the space-warp vortex in the center of the Bermuda Triangle. This is about 300 miles east of Ft. Lauderdale, Florida (See page 8 of the Sept-Oct Journal), and thousands of feet down under is the great Atlantean Fire Crystal. Electro-magnetic waves of energy sweep out from the TMT at the Cape, at the speed of light, expand to a maximum circumference of 25,000 miles, converge again at N3, then sweep back again to North West Cape. What frequency are the Dr. Fausts of the American government using? That's Top Secret!

The first Magnifying Transmitter -- in this civilization! -- was built by Nikola Tesla at Colorado Springs in 1899. There he proved that the earth's atmosphere contained billions of volts of clean, available energy, just waiting to be tapped by anyone who could build and perfect the right equipment. Is it any wonder that at his death in a New York hotel in 1943, the government seized all of his papers, patents, etc. and put them away under lock and key? So it was Russian scientists who recognized the value of Tesla's work and put it to good use. (To be continued)

THEY LIVE IN THE SKY

By Trevor James Constable

Pertinent Excerpts From A Flying Saucer Classic Of
The 1950s

It is unlikely that the truth about flying saucers will reach the public through governmental agencies. The reason for this is not to be found in any malicious desire to conceal the truth, but simply in the fact that neither the governments nor any individuals know the truth about U.F.O. . . .

Early in my own UFO studies I concluded that officialdom throughout the world hopelessly at sea over the whole UFO phenomenon, and that its evidential aspects were so completely beyond conventional science that an ordinary man like myself might have as good a chance of penetrating the mystery as anyone else. . . .

Flying saucers, the UFO, by observation both electronic and visual are 'fait accompli' and arguments as to whether they exist or not are idle, time wasting and an obstacle to further investigation. In this book we presume that the UFO are real and get down to the discussion of the queries 'Where do they come from?' 'What are they?' and 'What do they want?' And the less actively pursued question 'What is the nature of their reality?' . . .

The point of departure for me with standard UFO writings came over the question of communication and these UFO and contact with the occupants of the craft, if indeed they were craft at all.

The reason I believed that communication must be possible with the craft was that in rather extensive travels around the world I had noted that civilization in every country was directly proportional to communications development. The reason I had paid attention to communications development was that I was at the time of my journeyings a radio officer in the British Merchant Navy.

In parts of the Orient and Middle East a telephone is still a very rare instrument. If you can find one at all, a call to a point a hundred miles away may take a day or two, or you might never get it. Telegraph communications are scanty, and radio almost non-existent.

One reaches bottom where communication is concerned in those portions of Africa where the tree trunk drum or the human runner still serve as the means. In these locales material civilization is at its most retarded. This fact of communications as the index of civilization is not widely appreciated in the United States, where through habit, we speak, write, and project the human image over thousands of miles with a familiarity bound to breed contempt for it. Far from being happy with our communications, including radio and television in their exquisite refinements, manufacturers are driven to improve and expand their services by relentless competitive pressure for improved ability to communicate. The ability to communicate on a world-wide scale in a variety of media is available to every American, and in this country we have the highest material civilization known on this planet.

THE TECHNICAL SUPERIORITY OF THE ALIENS

It is obvious from their observed speeds and manoeuvres, their advanced propulsion systems as now acknowledged, their ability to appear and disappear that the UFO are undeniably products of a civilization immeasurably advanced beyond our own, technologically speaking. While we boast in our newspapers of airplanes capable of 1500 miles per hour, other craft, perhaps not of this world, have been electronically measured travelling six times this speed, and more, in our atmosphere.

In my view, it is irrational to admit the existence of such advanced vehicles and then deny to their occupants the ability to communicate on a scale far beyond anything we now have. If communication is the handmaiden of technological progress, as is the case in our own earthly civilization, it is logical to assume that it will be true of other worlds and civilizations. . .

They may look upon our radio as humorously primitive, and regard our best radar and electronic detection apparatus as infantile. We must also not forget that they may have developed natural communication methods to a high degree, since all that we have in the way of communications is nothing more than the externalization of the contents of our minds. The radio transmitter was conceived in the mind of man, then externalized, that is, fabricated. In a sense, the radio transmitter is nothing more than materialized thought. . .

My own viewpoint at the time I began my investigations was that the probability was very great that these UFO beings would have communication methods as far beyond ours as those of modern America are beyond the tree trunk drum. I have found nothing subsequently to nullify this viewpoint, and overwhelming evidence that it is true.

In the light of the above reasoning I found it absurd that so many otherwise able and intelligent men writing on the UFO could be so adamant in saying that there had been no communication with Saucer beings. On the one hand, as ufologists and saucer proselytizers, they recognize the presence in the atmosphere of the products of an advanced civilization, while on the other they virtually deny the controlling intelligences any ability in communication. The most unfortunate part of this viewpoint is that it was and is held today without investigation. Investigation reveals the theory to be false.

For myself, I sought to "become as a little child", by sweeping out of my mind accumulations of dogma and prejudice. I began by placing myself in the position of UFO beings and wondered what my course of action would be if I wanted to contact humans on the surface of the earth.

"NO ROOM AT THE INN"

Could I, for example, go straight to the President of the United States? I felt that this would not be feasible, for the moment the president met with his advisers and told them a Space Being had communicated with him, the conclusion would doubtless be drawn that the pressure of the job had unhinged his mind. The same applies to all top government officials.

Science, in the orthodox sense, would also have to be counted out quickly. All that dogma, all those misconceptions, all those brilliant minds banged, barred and bolted against anything radical. The UFO being might reason that this type of mind, which has been the major obstacle to innovation since the time of Galileo, is the poorest possible soil for new cosmic ideas.

It seemed to me that the UFO beings would finally be compelled to start at the bottom and work up, rather than at the top and work down. . . slowly letting their presence, purposes and ability to communicate seep through the general population, forcing governments to take cognizance of the claims. . . In this way I came to visit Giant Rock, California, a desert airstrip in an isolated spot with a long history as a landing ground for aliens in pre-war days and as a burial ground for Indians in pre-paleface days. . . a 70-foot high boulder with enormous girth. . .

In this arid, flinty locale there dwells a man (1955) who seems to harmonize with his environment. Middle aged, with sandy, thinning hair, George Van Tassel is one of the pioneers of communication with the UFO.

Communication? No radio towers or antennae or electronic equipment clutter the area, for communication is carried on by telepathy, or thought transference, this skill, known to and used by the ancients and basically possessed by every human being, is one of the God-given faculties. It has atrophied in most of us through centuries of non-use. Beneath the Rock a large chamber has been hewn from the ground and furnished with chairs and tables. From this room, Mr. Van Tassel carries out his communications with the Saucer beings.

In complete darkness and after preparatory measures closely resembling those of a seance room, there booms forth from Van Tassel's direction a voice that is most definitely not his own. "I am Hulda, your people will soon witness more fireballs, which we are dropping as nullifiers (of atomic fallout). Greetings of love and peace to you. . . "

More messages follow, in voices which vary in accent, in timbre, in a manner that would be beyond the ability of even the most talented actor. These discourses deal with a variety of subjects, including life on other planets, UFO propulsion and always with atomic power.

THE TELLTALE CHANGE OF PERSONALITY

In my view, the entities speaking through Mr. Van Tassel were of a standard of intelligence far beyond his own. . . with grammar, sentence construction and vocabulary beyond Mr. Van Tassels attainments. . . The use of his personal physical facilities for these beings to manifest indicates that they are able to manifest here on earth only through the agency of suitable humans, although this is not yet entirely proven.

Mr. Van Tassel is willing enough to give an earnest seeker the method of preparing oneself for this type of contact. He told me when I asked him and made no claims for patent rights or special talent. He did warn of possible ill effects but fired with enthusiasm I paid his cautioning little heed. In the light of my own later experiences with telepathy, I do not consider it wise to dispense the information regarding preparation for it to all and sundry. It can be dangerous and there are those who will dabble in these things who are totally unprepared for such activity. I know because I was just that type of person myself. Having asked for what I got, I have no complaints but I will not myself be responsible for dispensing the same information to others and hence it is excluded from this text. . .

In the months that followed I sought contact consistently. As an investigator I felt this was the only fair way to test the suggestions Mr. Van Tassel had given me. Until I had, I was in no position to pass judgement on this contact business. Like all applications of spiritual science, investigation inevitably involves participation. One cannot afford the luxury of the onlooker consciousness, nor stand the penalties its misconceptions inflict upon spiritual growth. One participates, one experiences and then one knows! The truth is within the one who has had the experience and it may not be contradicted or negated, not by high domed pontiff, by atheistic scientist, nor by military officers active or retired. There is only one way to test the validity of UFO communication and that is to try it! He who has not tried it is not qualified to render judgments on its possibilities or probabilities.

The months slipped past without results of any kind. However, I resolved that I would persist for a minimum period of six months, discouraged or not. Any other attitude would have been unfair and inconclusive.

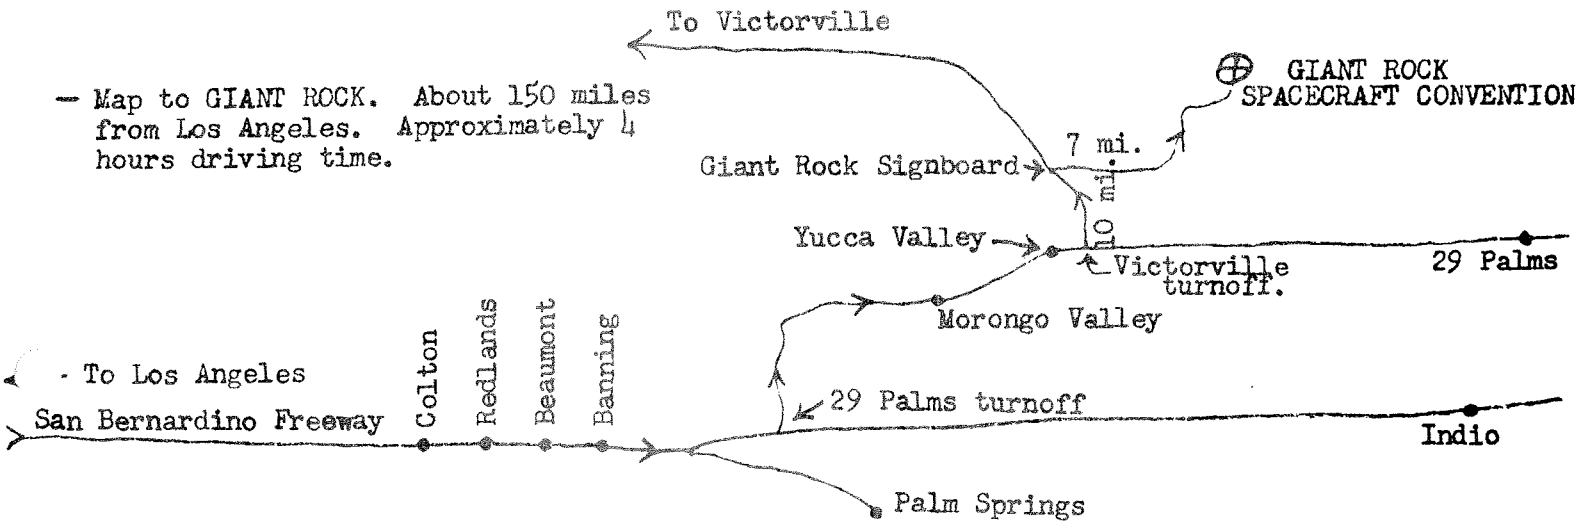

I continued to study the UFO of course, seeking to find the central theme of coherence that would make the pieces fit. One night at about ten o'clock I was reading Keyhoe's "Flying Saucer Conspiracy" with some care to particular details of one chapter. Suddenly I was seized by an overpowering impulse which I now realize was a tremendous thought impression, to pick up a pen and write. Obeying this impulse I picked up a pencil and began writing on the cover of a paper back book, the only thing handy on which I could make a mark. My arm was impelled and controlled by an unseen force and I wrote a largely unintelligible scrawl. (To be continued in next Journal)

CLIPS, QUOTES & COMMENTS —

IS THE CIA RUNNING THE CHURCH? OR THE CHURCH RUNNING THE CIA?

"Church and State" Magazine, September 1983 issue: "The Central Intelligence Agency has been deeply involved in the internal politics of the Roman Catholic Church for decades, and has attempted to enhance the power of conservative, anti-communist elements within the Vatican, 'Mother Jones' magazine reported in its July issue. . . cover story written by Martin A. Lee after a year-long investigation. . .

"The CIA supported factions within the Catholic Church that were instrumental in promoting and electing the current pope, John Paul II, whose Polish nationalism and anti-Communist credentials, they thought, would make him a perfect vehicle for U.S. foreign policy.

"The CIA collaborated with right-wing Catholic groups to counter the actions of progressive clerics in Latin America.

"The CIA prepared intelligence briefings that accurately predicted the rise of liberation theology.

"The CIA hired undercover agents to lobby the Vatican government and spy on liberal churchmen on the pope's staff who challenged the political assumptions of the United States.

"About 1,000 prominent American Catholics, including CIA director William Casey and former Secretary of State Alexander Haig, are members of a legendary Vatican order called the Sovereign Military Order of Malta that informally influences Vatican policy. Though the list of members is supposed to be secret, 'Mother Jones' revealed familiar names like Lee Iacocca, Robert Abplanalp, aerosol tycoon and Nixon confidant; Barron Hilton of the hotel chain; John Volpe, former U.S. ambassador to Italy; William Simon, who served as both treasury secretary and energy czar in the 1970s; William Buckley, a former CIA operative and the editor of the 'National Review'; and his brother, James Buckley, a former U.S. Senator from New York and now undersecretary of state for security assistance.

"The magazine also reported that Vernon Walters, a devout Catholic and President Reagan's roving ambassador, met with the pope in October 1982 to discuss Latin American policy and the American bishops' pastoral letter on nuclear war. Walters, former deputy director of the CIA, attempted to convince John Paul II that the American bishops had erred in drafting their pastoral letter on nuclear arms, and that the Church should sever its ties with Nicaraguan leftists. The pope held fast on the nuclear issue; but soon after Walters left, the pope demanded that five priests with official positions in the Nicaraguan government resign from office.

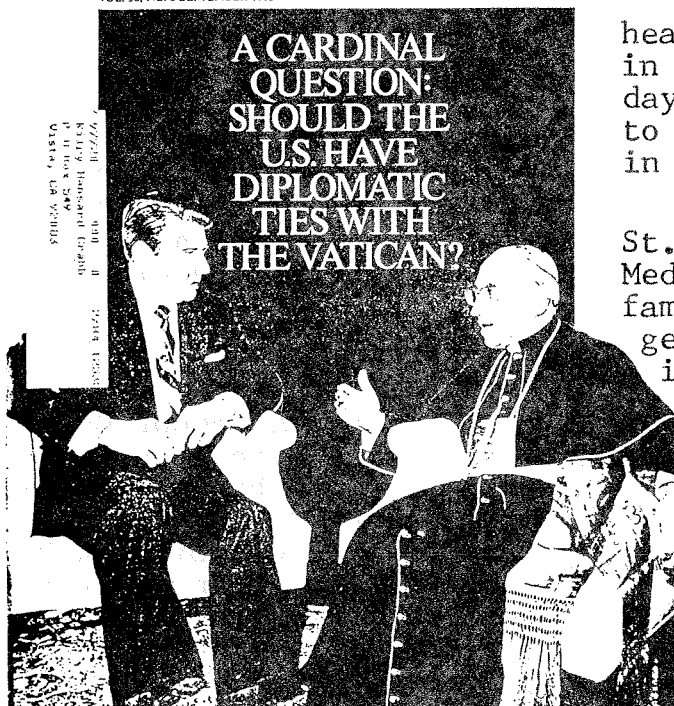

"'Mother Jones' concluded its report with the observation that the CIA is revising its Vatican strategy: instead of using the Church to promote American policy, it is encouraging internal conflict between progressive and reactionary elements to make the Church ineffectual on political issues that might negatively effect American policy."

It is illegal for Americans to accept awards and honors from foreign nations, yet the thousand Americans who have joined the Knights of Malta have subverted their loyalty to this nation, with impunity! And as for the CIA controlling the Vatican, today's headlines show conclusively that it's the other way around! American military power is now supporting a Roman Catholic dictatorship in Lebanon. This is Vietnam all over again. Jesuit-trained Amin Gemayel is head of a minority group of Maronite Catholics, trying to impose his will on the majority Moslems. It will never work any more in Lebanon than it did in Vietnam, where two million Catholics tried to impose their will on twenty million Buddhists. So we're involved in another holy war for the Church. Already the other Services are demanding a piece of the action in Lebanon, just as they did in Vietnam after Johnson had the Marines land at Danang, to try to save hundreds of millions of dollars worth of Church property in Southeast Asia. The so-called peace keeping mission of the Marines was just a ploy to get our troops in. Who wants to "lose face" by pulling them out? Especially after the downing of that South Korean airliner. The timing was perfect to stir angry, patriotic, vengeful feelings in millions of unthinking Americans.

IS PRESIDENT REAGAN A KNIGHT OF MALTA?

The question is academic, for his wholehearted support of the Maronite Catholics in Lebanon is written loud and clear in today's headlines, not to mention the fight to save Church property from expropriation in Latin America.

The notorious Knights of the Order of St. John of Malta were the pirates of the Mediterranean in the Middle Ages. Noble families of Europe vied with each other to get their sons into the Order because of its power, wealth and privilege. It participated in the destruction of the Knights Templars and, after the burning of Jacques de Molay at the stake in front of Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris in 1314, shared in the confiscated wealth of the Templars. The original people of Malta are Phoenicians, with a language unlike any in Europe, Africa or Arabia. They were so fed up with the corrupt rule and black ma-gick orgies of the Knights that they welcomed the dissolution of the black Order under its last Grand Master, Count Ferdinand Hompesch, in 1797, supposedly a German.

A MASTER OF THE OCCULT HIERARCHY AT WORK

Manly Hall, in his massive Encyclopedia of "Masonic, Hermetic, Qabbalistic and Rosicrucian Philosophy" suggests that Hompesch was one of the many guises of the Comte de St. Germaine, preparing for the cleansing of one of the great sinkholes of corruption in Europe. In 1798 Napoleon's troops invaded Malta with little resistance and, according to my 1911 edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, "plundered the churches, abolished monks, nuns and nobles and set up forthwith the ways and doings of the French revolution".

Nevertheless, the Maltese were steeped in their Roman Catholic religion and deeply resented the destruction of their churches by the French. Bonaparte saw the importance of Malta as a center of commerce in the Mediterranean, but so did the British; so the Maltese became pawns of the empire builders. The Treaty of Amiens in 1802 restored Malta to the Knights of St. John (much to the joy of their god, Looeamong, the false Christ) but the Maltese wanted no more of French rule, nor of Sicilian Catholic rule.

"Canon Caruana and other leaders of the Maltese aspired to obtain for Malta the freedom of the Roman Catholic religion guaranteed by the English in Canada and other dependencies, and promoted a petition in order that Malta should come under the strong (Protestant) power of England rather than revert to the kingdom of the two Sicilies. . . . The restoration of Church property, the re-establishment of law and administration on lines to which the people were accustomed before the French invasion, and the claiming for the British Crown of the vast landed properties of the Knights, were the first care of British civil rule. . . the Catholic parent stem of the Order settled in Rome and continues there under papal auspices." (Britannica)

When a large part of the cavern world under Sicily collapsed a few years ago, great earthquakes destroyed some of the towns above. The Church organized a world-wide collection of alms for the unfortunate Sicilians, under the auspices of the Knights of Malta in Rome. There the money went -- and there it stayed -- despite bitter complaints by the mayors of the beleaguered Sicilian towns.

The Knights have re-established a headquarters or center in Malta. The address is 7 Saint Anne Street, Floriana, Malta according to Lyndon LaRouche's "New Solidarity" tabloid of May 31, 1982 and there is an "intelligence network of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem and their adjuncts operating out of the New York City Cathedral of St. John the Divine, which is headquarters for the Knights in the United States, and under the direction of Cathedral Bishop Paul Moore". There is a Cavern World entrance on Malta, described in our BSRF No. 2-E: "The Reality of the Cavern World" about the interior of the earth and those who live there. Illustrated, postpaid $3.00

A FRIENDLY VISITOR EXTENDS GREETINGS TO AN ASSOCIATE

"Enclosed is a Polaroid photo taken on March 19 because the snow was so pretty. I was surprised to find an image in the top center which I did not see when I took the picture. I wonder if you can see the same thing?"

Yes, the image was easy to discern against the dark background of a tree. A pendulum analysis of the image suggested a Visitor from outer space rather than a human entity from this planet, and we so informed the Associate, adding that she might try to get in conscious touch with him. Her reply:

"My opinion at this writing is that he is my Initiator, since the Aurameter said he was not here to protect either my husband or me, not to protect this area. There is something very powerful about all this because after this was taken all hell broke loose. Both Harry and I had terrible psychic experiences and on May 13 at 5 a.m. something almost killed me. I awoke from a deep sleep with a pain at the region of the Thymus and my heart was going so fast I couldn't begin to count it. Harry used a vibrator on my back at the region of the 4th Dorsal and brought the pulse down to normal. I feel that I must have had a terrible battle on the Astral and the effect carried over to the physical. About that time I was having pains at the Thymus region almost every night. I have a very normal heart otherwise, but have had nervous exhaustion now for the 4th time.

"I am an Iridologist, so can see if there is anything wrong with the heart and there is not! This letter is written June 14 and things have quieted down. I am strengthening my Vagus nerve with extra organic potassium, and if necessary have been using the little Harmor-pulse I got from Tom Dunn, New Zealand (An ELF wave device, Jan-Feb 1983 Journal) It sure helps.

SHE COULD WELL BE A STAR PERSON

"From the time I was a small child I had recurring nightmares that were always the same. I would hear a big noise and then look up into the sky and see a vehicle -- truck, my childish interpretation -- sailing through the sky from NW to SE (following a Grid Line?) and there were several men in the vehicle using menacing gestures to scare me. I would wake up terrified for a long time. This went on for many years until I took the 'Keys' of Yogi Hari Rama through Dr. A. W. Goetz of Milwaukee. At that time I had what

I called a Rainbow Vision, seeing aerial forms with rainbows around them, three of them, the last right in front of my home. During this vision the Kareeta (early BSRF term for Flying Saucer) made its final appearance the same way; but this time the characters in it waved goodbye -- but with a sneer -- as if to say. 'All right, we're leaving, but you can bet we'll bedevil you some more!' And believe me they have, all of these years. I must have given notice to them that this time (incarnation) I intended to make the grade, and by golly I intend to do so. I wonder if this has anything to do with the Entity of March 19th? Several years ago Harry had a very realistic dream that a large Saucer was being tied up over the street in front of our house.

THE CONTACTEE ANALYZES THE ET

"This sketch was done to show what I see in the photo. He is raising his left hand. Could be in greeting or it could be to draw some kind of energy from his Space Ship. In his right hand he seems to be offering something -- seems like a flower or an Ankh? He seems to be wearing a breastplate. Could this be the ephod of Moses, a place, or apron, to conceal the Urim and Thumin? There seems to be a darker spot at the throat region and another at the fingers of his upraised left hand. One can almost count the fingers.

"His eyes glow. On his head there are two horn-shaped items. To me they seem to be either antennae from the Urim and Thumin; or they could be vortices of energy coming from the region of the Pituitary and Pineal glands. These vortices are only discernible with a magnifying glass. They are dark with a white outline to produce this shape I have indicated as best I could. The cross behind the tree to the left is part of another tree behind it. The face is not so easy to discern but it does not appear to be evil or menacing. In fact it seems to be friendly. The Pendulum and Aurameter both indicate that it is a good Being from the UFOs. His purpose for being there somehow or other isn't made clear.

"If I try to contact this Entity what precautions should I take? I sure don't want any more interference than I have already had! Lately I have been using the very first part of 'Retro Me, the Art of Psychic Self Defense', thickening the aura with the breath, and it does seem to do the work. I would appreciate your suggestions for contacting him."

C.M., Watertown, Wisconsin

My pendulum gives a strong counter-clockwise swing over your image of the Entity, not necessarily evil but a heavy elemental force which should be approached with caution. The suggestion of webbing between the fingers of the left hand bears this out.

The "bell, book and candle" routine of ritual magick should be rigorously followed, with definite opening and closing for your own protection. The usual precautions are to establish a magickal circle, using the Lesser Banishing Ritual of the Pentagram, for instance, as outlined in "Retro Me, the Art of Psychic Self-Defense". This gives you an insulated area in which your Visitor can communicate with you without too much interference from the Bad Guys who have been giving you a bad time. In fact this may be one of the reasons for your difficulties in the past, leaving yourself psychically open to all the "winds of heaven".

A regular time and place for communication is advisable. An appointment is necessary because he is just as busy as you are -- though a lengthy stay on this planet would make contact easier. Serious questions about the reason for his revealing himself to you are in order, who is he, where does he come from, why is he here, etc. If you are satisfied with his answers it probably would be worthwhile to continue as long as the relationship is productive.

In our work we recommend only conscious mediumship, with the receiver -- in this case yourself -- acting as a secretary taking down dictation. This would be with the inner ear, of course, unless he chooses to materialize a voice box or even a 3-D form. The fact that he is apparently from another line of evolution is interesting. Just be sure he is aware of the Golden Rule and practices it.

"THE NATURE OF REALITY"

A good example of conscious mediumship is this little paperback from Toronto, Canada by Maurice B. Cooke. Experimenting with yoga practices he found himself in touch with an entity identifying himself as the Master Hilarion of the occult hierarchy of the planet. Cooke's "business" must be pretty technical for there is plenty of that -- in comparatively simple language -- in "The Nature of Reality". This is not surprising for Hilarion is supposed to be the Chohan or Star Logos of the Fifth Ray, of scientific or ordered knowledge; for the book opens with such subjects as Space, Light, Matter, Magnetism, Gravity, the Inert Gases, Anti-Gravity, etc.

ANTI-GRAVITY

Here are Hilarion's observations on Anti-Gravity: "The nature of a device capable of producing an anti-gravitational field has intrigued men for centuries. In the past the principles were understood and the techniques widely utilized. But now the knowledge has been lost and the methods of achieving such local field effects are no longer available.

"The secret of producing a local gravitational field begins with the appreciation of the true nature of the inert gases. Since each atom of an inert gas contains one of the primary points responsible for the creation of the transverse vibrational mode which is experienced by matter as gravity, it is merely necessary to develop a technical means for stripping the masking inert gas atom away from the primary point in order to allow the point to produce a full strength beam of transverse vibration. Such a beam, when directed against certain kinds of materials, will exert an effect that will result in a push against the material in the direction away from the source of the beam.

"The technique is to subject the inert gas to high pressure and temperature and then to place it in a strong magnetic field. This can be accomplished with relatively simple equipment and without great expense. In fact it has already been done in secret.

"The high temperature and pressure cause the stripping away of some of the outer electrons of the atoms of the gas, thus producing ions or charged particles. When these ions are subjected to a strong magnetic field, the motions of the nuclei of the ionized atoms are disturbed and the atoms are forced into paths different from their natural motion. These paths take them away from the primary points which they normally mask, and permit the points to produce their normal vibratory motion in the aether."

"THE TRIBULATION" OF THE JUDGMENT DAY

Part Three of the Cooke/Hilarion opus on the "Nature of Reality" gives in great detail the horrendous events culminating the end of Master, Major and Minor cycles for Judgment Day for planet earth. This is the jealous, angry God of the Old Testament chastising unrepentant mankind. Here's one example:

"In the midst of the three and one-half years of war centered in the Middle East, a number of natural catastrophies will be arranged to afflict the earth. One of the most frightening of these catastrophies will be the discovery that a large asteroid has deviated from its expected course and will collide with the earth at a location in the Pacific Ocean. The impact from this asteroid will be felt throughout the earth as a tremendous shock-wave, initiating earthquakes and volcanic activity on a scale unparalleled in the written histories of man. In addition, the asteroid will disrupt the natural flow of water through the Pacific and other oceans of the world, and will cause the loss of a third of the sea-life of the earth. Part of the destruction of the life will be due to chemicals in the asteroid which pollute a large portion of the salt water on the planet's surface. Finally, the impact of the asteroid will cause an immense tidal wave to expand out in all directions from the point of impact and this destructive wall of water will carry away almost all of the major cities which ring the Pacific Ocean, with immense loss of life and destruction of property.

"This asteroid will not have been a mere accident in the mindless mechanics of the universe. The body will have been purposely diverted from its expected orbit in order to collide directly with the earth during the Tribulation period. Many will doubt that such manipulation is possible, but they will be those who doubt all matters of faith and belief, and who had hardened their hearts against a reality beyond that which the physical senses perceive.

"But for many men (and women) the knowledge that the mother planet of the race stands in danger of annihilation through impact from another celestial body will awaken a dormant seed of faith, and in desperation, millions will turn to religion and beliefs which they have neglected all their lives. Through this turning toward a higher level of being many souls will be saved that otherwise might have been lost forever. Out of the chaos and destruction which will follow in the wake of the impact, there will arise a great wave of religious zeal which will burn like a flame in the hearts of its new converts. This religion will be the seed of a new Universal Faith for mankind. . . ."

ZAPPED BY CAPTAIN FAUST OF THE USAF

OMNI Magazine, June 1983, page 110: "Dorothy Burdick, a hospital dietician and mother of three, was making love to her husband when she had an unusual thought, 'Dorothy, you're being programmed'. Then, to her husband's dismay, she broke into tears. Burdick (a pseudonym she uses so friends won't think she's crazy) took her husband's advice and saw a psychiatrist. But when he was unable to stop the thoughts, she turned to her brother -- a kind of Phantom of the Opera -- whose name can't be revealed, Burdick claims, because 'he's working on the H-bomb at MIT'. Still, he's the one who supposedly gave her the inside scoop. The U.S. Government is using Burdick as part of a top-secret experiment in 'zapping' or long-distance mind control.

"'Some people might think that's nuts,' said Burdick. 'But they have forgotten our government's long history of experimenting on its citizens.' In 1956, for instance, the U.S. Army admitted to secretly spraying an unknown substance in New York City subway tunnels. And more recently in December 1980 a member of the Canadian Parliament said that CIA financed psychiatrist tried to brainwash her.

"The zapping technique used on Burdick, though, is even more sophisticated. A laser telescope at a nearby Air Force station, the Cape Cod dietician declares in her new book 'Such Things Are Known', is scanning her house and analyzing the electrical impulses in her brain with a computer.

"'In fact,' she says, 'I'm sure that the computer can decode my brain impulses just as telegraphers decode Morse code. For example, dot/dot/dot/dash/dash/dash/dot/dot/dot in Morse code means SOS, or help. Likewise, scientists have found that dot,dot in my head means Dorothy. Now that they know the code, they're shooting dots into my head and programming my thoughts. I mean, why else would I wake up every morning to a chorus of voices chanting obscenities? There's just one logical answer, they're zapping me!!

"To fend off the ominous laser, Burdick now wears a coat with tin cans tied around it. She also wears a peaked hat filled with marbles."

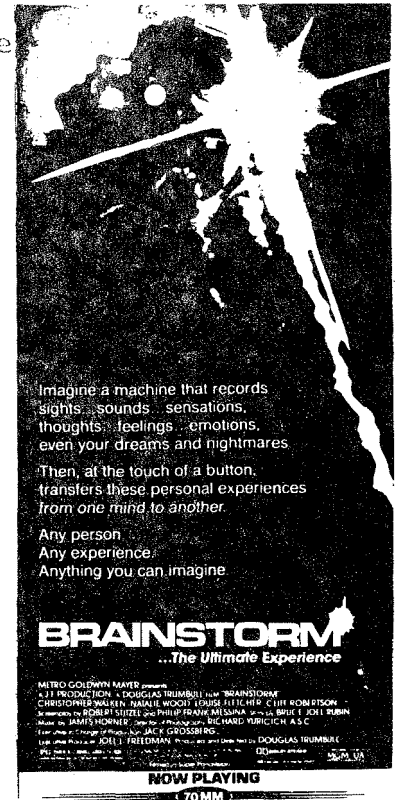

This brief book review from "Omni", sent in by a California associate who prefers to remain nameless, indicates how far Psychotronic Warfare has come since Bob Beck's epochal talk at the U.S. Psychotronics Association's convention in Atlanta, Georgia in 1978, and transcribed in our "ELF Waves Psychotronic Warfare and Welfare" book, $5.50 postpaid. Evidently Dorothy Burdick hasn't heard of the protective little ELF wave generators which can be carried on the person to entrain the body's electro-magnetic field with a positive beat. And if that isn't strong enough to counteract this government evil, use a more powerful TENS device, with electrodes connected directly to the skin and worn continuously as long as the target is aware of the zapping.

True art is supposed to be a mirror of the times and the above motion picture ad shows that Hollywood writers and producers are "mirroring" the current State-of-the-Art in Psychotronic Warfare as "Brainstorm" is playing in Southern California theaters in early October, 1983.

WAS CAPTAIN CHON OF KAL 007 ZAPPED? AND WHO DID IT?

The widespread suspicion that neither the U.S. nor the Russian government is telling the whole truth about the downing of the Korean airliner Sept. 1st was reinforced by a brief news item on the NBC Nightly TV News, Sept. 24, 1983. Anchorwoman Connie Chung closed off the program with this brief note: "A German news agency claims that Ex-President Nixon was warned by the CIA to stay off flight 007 to Korea." Presumably, Nixon had been invited to attend South Korean ceremonies in Seoul, along with Rep. Lawrence McDonald, Sen. Jesse Helms, Sen. Steven Symms and Rep. Carroll Hubbard, to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the U.S.-Korean Mutual Defense Treaty.

The sudden death of the Ultra-conservative Democrat from Georgia, McDonald, was a perfect example of Job's lament, Chapt 3, Verse 25: "For the thing which I greatly feared is come upon me, and that which I was afraid of has come to me." As president of the John Birch Society he for years had warned America of the ruthlessness and evil intentions of the Soviets. When his plane was shot down over Russian territory, his worst fears came true.

Navigational error set up the tragedy. Reporter David Treadwell spelled it out in a review story in the Los Angeles "Times", Oct. 2, 1983: "The Japanese gave these coordinates of longitude and latitude for the checkpoint east of Japan where the airliner was supposed to be when it radoed Tokyo's Narita airport shortly before it was shot down: 147 degrees 23 minutes east longitude, 42 degrees 23 minutes north latitude. But Japanese military radar showed no plane there. Instead it showed a plane at these coordinates, a point over Sakhalin Island: 142 degrees 23 minutes east longitude, 47 degrees 29 minutes north latitude.

"The Japanese officials noted that simply switching the beginning digit '1' between the first two figures and then transposing longitude and latitude would have yielded the Sakhalin coordinates in the plane's navigation and guidance system. KAL officials say that standard cockpit procedure calls for a second crew member to check the coordinates placed into the computer. Whether this was done on Flight 007 or whether any original error was simply repeated remains unknown."

Mental Tamper Ray equipment was first publicized by Richard Shaver in his Cavern World stories in the 1940s. It is now known that government agencies, not only Russian and American, but those of other Western nations as well have perfected such equipment with the opening up of the ELF wave area to research. We have learned recently that 7.39 Hertz is one rate which has been clinically tested and proven effective in controlling the minds of the unsuspecting. Micro film images or movies can be sent along such a ray into the mind of the target person, while he or she is in the twilight or Alpha state between waking and sleeping -- and unaware of where the fantastic or threatening dreams are coming from -- except for awakened persons like Dorothy Burdick, author of "Such Things Are Known". Captain Chon, pilot of the ill-fated KAL 007, was apparently unawakened.

ZAPPED BY CITIZENS' BAND BROADCASTS

"I am having health problems resulting from CB radio wave transmissions. I am extremely sensitive to these waves and can hear them in my inner ear and sometimes feel them in my body. This problem has two parts:

1. Hearing and feeling CB transmissions.
2. Oranur-type effects resulting apparently from the accumulation of a secondary substance generated by the CB waves. This is mainly a feeling of pressure in stomach and head.

"I can reduce these symptoms somewhat by rearranging objects in my house but cannot completely eliminate them. Often they are quite severe. I have been examined by a doctor and have no diseases or physical abnormalities. The usual remedies prescribed for Reich's Oranur: airing, drinking tea, etc., do not work for me and increase my discomfort. I have contacted specialists in Orgone energy and not gotten much help. I would like an expert opinion on how to relieve this problem. If possible I would like to hear from the occult Hierarchy or Inner Realms. I have tried a number of nostrums which have not worked; so I doubt that advice obtained from a book or other conventional sources would work on this problem. Could you provide me with the name and address of a place where I could obtain advice from the Hierarchy on this or other matters? I am aware there are others with this CB sensitivity so the advice could be valuable to many people."

Bishop Amy Kees is a public oracle in touch with Adepts of the Inner Planes. Her address in the July-August Journal: 7257 Timothy Place, Longmont, Colorado 80501. You may have a crystal formation in a hollow tooth tuned to the CB band or you may be a victim of the Psychotronic Warfare now raging between Russia and the United States. If it's the latter our "EEG Entrainment, Psychotronic Warfare and Welfare" brochure ($5.50 a copy postpaid) has the necessary information, as well as pictures, descriptions and schematics of ELF wave devices which are helpful in countering electro-magnetic intrusion. The Russian Woodpecker, for instance, comes in at 5.340 Megahertz. This is "fighting fire with fire" as it isn't likely that prayer or drugs will create a sustained barrier. If a pocket-carried ELF wave generator doesn't help, you may have to go to the TENS device, with electrodes connected directly to the skin. We would appreciate a report from you on this, to be shared with the Associates.

ANOTHER BLACK EYE FOR FLYING SAUCER RESEARCH

Years ago there was a flurry of interest in the beautiful Flying Saucer pictures taken by Billy Meier of Switzerland. The reaction of most experienced researchers was that they were too good to be true! Especially when promoters had no trouble in financing the publication of a glossy book of the best of the pictures. We know that those fortunate enough to have taken a picture of a UFO or picked up a fragment usually have a government agent or MIB at the door the next day, demanding that the physical evidence be turned over, or else! So how come the Meier pix were not confiscated? He must have been investigated by every secret service in Western Europe, as well as Russia and the United States. Their obvious conclusion: Meier is a fake; and when eventually exposed the sceptics would be able to say, "I told you so!" Another piece in the puzzle was that the most enthusiastic promoter of the Meier pix and Pleiades contact was LTCOL Wendell Stevens (Ret). As a former officer in the U.S. Air Force and CIA agent, Stevens had been working for the two government agencies most concerned with the Flying Saucer coverup! I posed the question then: Can a leopard change its spots?

It may be that LTCOL Stevens sincerely believed in Billy Meier, his contacts and his pictures. Applying the Law of Compensation or Karma to the case one can see that, having blinded others to the truth of the Flying Saucer phenomenon as a government agent, Stevens was himself blind to the truth of the Meier fraud; so he was still serving his Master, the Prince of Darkness and Inner Plane Adept, Otto von Bismark, who inspired the Flying Saucer "silence policy" back in 1947 after the New Mexico crash so well documented by Bill Moore.

"WENDELLE STEVENS DISAPPEARS UNMYSTERIOUSLY!"

In His "Saucer Smear" newsletter for Aug. 25th, 1983, James W. Moseley reveals that "we have obtained actual copies of recent court documents in the State of Arizona regarding Stevens. Sixteen felony indictments were handed down, charging Stevens with molestation of a child (female) under 15, furnishing obscene or harmful material to minors; and making films, photographs or motion pictures of minors engaged in sexual conduct. Through plea bargaining Stevens had the charges reduced to three counts of molestation of a child. He pleaded guilty to these three charges. (No trial) We have the names of the three children in question, all of whom are females under 15. The offenses in question took place in the summers of 1981 and 1982. The plea bargaining agreement was signed in March of this year and Stevens began, on June 1st of this year, to serve three concurrent 7-year prison terms. . . .

"In our contacts with Stevens we have found him to be a charming though obviously misguided (re the Pleiades) man, and we bear him no ill will. We would not print this story if we did not have in our possession photostats of the actual court documents. . . . His daughter denies any knowledge of the case and threatens to sue. . . . Howard Kashman, Stevens' defense attorney, returned the phone call we had made to him a few days earlier, and confirmed to us that our court documents were authentic. . . ."

When a man or woman chooses to serve God the Destroyer, and thrills to the surge of pagan power which courses through him or her, the ambitious recruit to evil will eventually be destroyed by that power, once their usefulness to a Prince of Darkness such as Bismarck is over. They will be sacrificed on the altar of His greed; and, if they suffer no remorse for their misdeeds -- in spite of their pain -- their choice of the Left Hand Path is assured -- for instance Nixon and his henchmen -- with the notable exception of John Dean.

GREAT GAPS WHERE VIRTUES SHOULD BE

In his "Letters on Occult Meditation" to Alice Bailey, the Prince of Light, D.K., reminds her that "It is the man (and woman) who persists in spite of warning and pain who eventually becomes a brother (or sister) of darkness. Mightily fights the Ego at first to prevent the personality so developing (the Concrete Mind which shuts out the Higher Self), but the deficiencies of the causal body -- for forget not that our vices are our virtues misused -- result in a lopsided causal body, over-developed in some direction and full of great gulfs and gaps where virtues should be. . . ." Consider Nixon's staff who accepted without question his orders to commit a crime by covering up a crime -- and they were all lawyers!

GRAPHIC ILLUSTRATIONS STAY IN THE MIND

"Just a note to tell you what your graphic illustrations have done for my meditations. I now see the Light and Love that we send forth travelling along spiritual grid lines to unite with the Light at certain places of power to attract and unite with celestial energy even as the ancient celestial standing stones called down celestial energy to unite with terrestrial at the crossing of the Ley lines. I have said that I have never heard you speak that you have not opened my mind to some new idea that I have never forgotten. There are not very many teachers, preachers, speakers about whom one can say that!"

A.D., Pasadena, California

Them's kind words, podner, and you know the old Chinese saying, "One picture is worth a thousand words." So we back them up with pictures and charts where possible. The occult significance of the Zodiacal sign Aries -- our birth sign in this life -- is that of the Cosmic messenger; so, we're just fulfilling our destiny.

PROOF OF THE JACKIE GLEASON STORY ABOUT EMBALMED UFONAUTS?

"Have you read Shirley McClain's (sp?) latest book which is entitled 'Out On A Limb'? Supposedly some material therein about alien landings in Peru. Then of course there's the book about Jackie Gleason by his ex-wife which you mentioned in the last Journal (Page 32-33, Sept-Oct issue). I understand there has recently been a major fire at the Gleason residence in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida which, curiously, destroyed virtually all of Gleason's extensive library there. One wonders. . ."

NEEDED: ONE CRYSTAL, AURA, MAGNETIC NETWORK

"I have a special interest in Crystals, Magnetism and Auras and am desirous of networking with persons having similar interests. I'd appreciate any suggestions you may have concerning setting up such a network and addresses of individuals and organizations relating to the above."

"A GUIDE TO THE INNER EARTH"

"I am very happy to send you a complimentary copy of our new publication, 'A Guide To The Inner Earth', by Bruce Walton. Note the annotated bibliography refers to BSRF both in the body copy and in the List of Sources. I trust this results in many people now unfamiliar with your work who will be more aware and write to you. Walton's book (soft cover, 91 pages, 8½x11) represents more than two years of research by the author and more than one year of editing by both of us. We have hesitated to refer to it as an annotated bibliography fearing such an academic onus might frighten some readers away. Actually it offers thumbnail synopses of a great body of hollow earth literature, meant to be intellectually stimulating as well as informative. It sells for $12.95 retail. Dealers are offered the usual 40% off list. Hope you enjoy it."

Gray Barker, Box D, Jane Lew, West Virginia 26378

Yes, Walton's opus is loaded with info and a welcome addition to our BSRF reference library. He mentions the fact that the Journals have had many hollow earth references and anecdotes over the years, and of course our own transcribed, illustrated lecture, "The Reality of the Cavern World", BSRF No. 2-E, $3.00 postpaid, which includes such subjects as: Origin of the Serpent Race, Lord Byron's ritual for evoking Cavern dwellers in the Alps, The Shaver Mystery and the Deros, the Catacomb of Hal Saflini on the Island of Malta, the Kingdom of Pan -- Fauns and Satyrs, the Planes of Consciousness in the Earth, and a Message from an Earth God. Cassette tape, $7.00 postpaid.

"THE THEORY AND TECHNIQUE OF THE DROWN H.V.R. INSTRUMENT"

Latest addition to our catalog of Radionic books is this illustrated workbook by Dr. Ruth Drown herself, privately printed in London in 1939, 150 pages. Chapters include: An Explanation of Homo-Vibra-Ray Diagnosis and Therapy, Making a Blue-Print of the Body, Endocrinology in Modern Practice, Coordinated with the Drown System of Diagnosis and Treatment, Procedure in Running Blood Count, Urinalysis, Temperature, Blood Pressure, Impinged Nerves and Diet, Checking the Blue Print with Organ and Gland Substances, Radio-Vision and Its Theory, Case Histories, Questions and Answers. $5.00

BACK ISSUES OF THE JOURNAL FOR SALE

Starting with the year 1970, six issues for $6.50, postpaid, also 1971, 1972, 1973, 1974, 1975, 1976, 1977, 1978, 1979, six issues each year, $6.50 for each year, postpaid. All are in the free-wheeling editorial style for which we are famous -- or infamous -- and with the deeper occult interpretation of the current scene unique to our understanding of the hidden forces at work in our lives.
