Light of Truth. An Exponent of the New Philosophy of Life, Here and Hereafter.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE

Cincinnati, Saturday, February 18, 1803.

Volume XII, No. 7.

Led to the Light.

Mr. Canning remained in his study until a late hour. He had entered on a new field of thought and as the horizon lifted in wider circle, he was exhibitated with the joy of discovery. He had been attracted to the psychic field, for his agnosticism, while not knowing, did not deny. Materialism presented but half a sphere, and the mind remained in perplexity and doubt. The organization of a society for research into the mysterious phenomena of so-called spirit gave him courage. and he not only read all that was published on that subject but sketched a plass for his own private observation. What if it proved true that there are phenomena that can not be accounted for on a material basis? What if there are spirits able to come to us and impress their thoughts?

"If it be so," he murmired, "if it be so, you, Marie, will be "You have even able to come to us and impress their thoughts?"

The hours of study over, he sat dreamily thinking of those days in his young life and the results of his disappointment. Grief is not destructive if one can rise above it and go on in the path of duty. If it does not sour the mind and make it rebellious to the inevitable, but rather infuses a gentleness and tender sympathy, it may potently assist in rounding out and completing the character.

His mind had been in a state of exaltation and the common world sank from him, a poor husk scarcely worth the cost he had paid for living in it. Strange it is when great trials are about to come to us, they often are heralded by such

He was rudely awakened to the real by the entrance of Sherwood, who, throwing himself into a chair, at once proceeded to relate the occurrences of the evening.

Mr. Canning was at first overcome with indignation, then, recovering himself, he said:

"Had you not told me, I would regard the story as unbe-lievable. Does your whole life and mine count for nothing against an appearance of wrong? What good is an upright life, if it is not a safeguard against unjust suspicion? I have said many a time that superstition and bigotry never change, can not change. That given power by the law and they would dead woman was lying.

Miss Stanwick and Asphodel were there and with kind against an appearance of wrong? What good is an upright life, enforce themselves by torture as they always have when able to do so in the past. You have no cause for further anxiety."

"I sincerely hope you are correct as you usually are, yet, there is a secret force at work we do not appreciate. Our town's folk would not have been so rash were they not influenced for some sinister motive."

There can be none. We have no enemies. I have conciliated sall parties by a non-partizan course. We have befriended the poor, helped those in need, and only yesterday, as drink the same bitter cup." you know, paid the workmen their wages for building the church, because their families were in need."

"Until to-morrow. The marshal is our staunch friend, and he might have saved me the humiliation of a halter, had he promptly arrested and taken me away. He will take me in words he kissed her cold caeeks. promptly arrested and taken me away. He will take me in

'To free you again in an hour. It is a travesty on justice. state of affairs. No, no, your arrest is a sham, and you need not sleep the less for it." Those were brave words and gave more assurance to his head son than to himself.

The bell rang and Budd Rodgers entered.

Good-morning, Mr. Rodgers," said Mr. Canning encourag-

"It has gone badly as you well know. Did you ever see as old hulk lying on the shore, rotting and wasting in the storms? It came from the hands of the builders perfect in form, and was launched with shouts and rejoicing. It floated on the water like a thing of life. The winds embraced the white sails, and it was wasted out on the sea. Then it drifted to the shore, broken, bruised, a wreck of its builders' hopes to lie on the beach washed by the tides, and covered by sand and sea waste. You have seen, and such a wreck am I." He paused. "I am not quite lost yet—not so completely that I can not sense my degradation. I have determined to reform the

Mr. Canning seized his hand, saying: "Never too late You are not old. You ought to be in the prime of manhood Stand by your resolution, and I will assist you."

"That is what I came to ask of you—a place to where I can support myself until I become again a man." What brought you to this resolution?" asked Sherwood

Last night I picked up a handkerchief in the street, and I do not know, it is strange, strange, but in it was a ring. I do not know, it is strange, strange, but when I would sell that ring for drink I was struck as with a iber of my being vibrating to the one thought—reform."

"Will you allow us to see the ring?" asked Mr. Canning.

air."
"My town's folk can not entertain that I am guilty of such belief."
One important lesson contained in these quotations is

"You have ever found me your friend," said the marshal with us as our guardian."

She was his wife, the love of his youth, who met with an accident when Sherwood was a child, and died. For her fond an influence I have not identified. I do not advise, yet were I you, knowing all I do, I would disappear until the excitement and I should not now be true, did I not forewarn you of the

"What, do you counsel, me to play the coward and tacitly confess my guilt? I would sooner walk straight under the gallows, and adjust the knot myself."

"You mistake me, for I think were you not present, the matter would be allowed to rest for a time at least, and during this interval I might get on to some clue to the real criminal. If I did not, you could appear, and the excitement having cooled, the people would see there was no cause for implicating you."
"You mean well, I thank you, yet I can not comply. I will at once go with you and face the accusation. If the mayor sustains their suspicion that I am the murderer of a delenseless girl, I will abide his decision until I can vindicate

"What talk you about? A murder? Who was murdered? "A young lady, a stranger," answered Marshal Lusk.
"Where is she? I must see her? This blood—oh, it is

Mr. Canning took his arm, saying: "She is at the room of the undertakers, and I will go with you."

Rodgers walked as one in sleep. His mind was active yet benumbed by the intensity of his feelings. They reached hands had arranged the body as tenderly as though she were a sister. The soft, wavy hair was combed, the blood stains washed away, her hands folded, and a calla with white roses laid on her bosom.

"Poor child," murmured Asphodel, "what a world of sorrow this has been to her. Tempted, sinning no doubt, meeting a horrible death; and, yet, we might have been called to

The face of the dead was turned directly toward them, with an expression of that holy rest and peace which lights even "It is not the town's people as a whole, only a few, and we the sorrowing face at the last moment. It is a reflection of ought not to charge the community with this crime against joy when the burdens of earth fall aside from the emancipated spirit, as the sun after its setting casts aglory on some mountain summit? Who can tell?

With a great cry of mingled grief and joy Rodgers fell on

"Mildred, Mildred!" he cried, "speak one word, just one word, to your broken-hearted father! They killed Can not one offer the common services of humanity without fear of being arrested as a criminal? That would be a sad kill you for? Could they not let you come to me? I am to What can be more "mysterious," and what can excite blame. I drove you away. I drove you to sin. Would I more fear in the human mind than a sincere belief in such might bear the pain-I had taken that blow on your dear

He remained silent, except his low sobs. Then arising The night was sleepless, and the morning found him ner vous and foreboding. The breakfast, where plans for the day were discussed and fresh ideas entertained, was quickly dead."

will be please to conduct the services. I am sure he will not be it to excite "excessive reverence or fear of that which is unharsh in judgment on the dear girl who was driven to do what known or mysterious." On the contrary it is the universal

Mrs. Arling assured him everything should be as he desired. "He.e," she said, holding in her hand a pocketbook, there is a trifle we found in her pocket, perhaps you will care Calvin and the Duich Reformed Church. Under the system

"Care for it? Give it to me, it is all I have left of my darl-

He kissed the worn memento, and pressed it to his heart. Thank you for your kindness to my poor child, and to me,

IS SPIRITUALISM A SUPERSTITION. LYMAN C. HOWE

In the Arena for January, 1893, B. O. Flower treats of the "present-day tendencies and signs of the times." Among other interesting pointers he introduces a remarkable dream of a prophetic characters, as related by David Van Etten, "one nost influential attorneys of Omaha." It is one of a class of mental phenomena of which there are many thou-sands equally well attested. But that does not weaken the value of this one, nor are thousands of others less reliable because the parties reporting them are unknown to fame, honored father. Oh, will you read—can you read! The letters are worn and my eyes refuse. Can you read? If it is hers, her mame is eage; well on the inner side.

With eager haste he handed the ring to Sherwood, who turned it to the light. 'Mildred Relations,' Mr. Van Etten says, "I have never speken of turned it to the light. 'Mildred Relations,' Mr. Van Etten says, "I have never speken of them to others, as people would be apt to regard me as super-suffices," or spiritualism, or much so, that I have never the blood. Was it hers?'

Weak and broken, he was overcome and sank into a near with his hands before his eyes as though he would shut out a him to been, and am now, a member of the Episcopal Church wide entered on a new field of thought and as the horizon lifted wider circle, he was exhilarated with the joy of discovery friendly greeting.

honored father. Oh, will you read can you read? If it is hers, her the one hand and the Church on the other. Referring to this and many other experiences "quite as marvelous," Mr. Van Etten says, "I have never speken of them to others, as people would be apt to regard me as super-suffices. The blood—of God—the blood—of God—the blood—of God—the blood—of God—the blood—of God—the blood was it hers?'

Weak and broken, he was overcome and sank into a near with his hands before his eyes as though he would shut out a him to been, and am now, a member of the Episcopal Church and therefore of no tendency to the communication of portion and therefore of no tendency to the communication of portion and therefore of no tendency to the communication of portion and the church on the other.

Referring to this and many other experiences "quite as marvelous," Mr. Van Etten says, "I have never been inclined to any of the pre-tended seance was a brought up as a strict the blood. Was it hers?'

Weak and broken, he was overcome and sank into a near with his hands before his eyes as though the would shut on a near with his hands before his eyes as though the first of the said and the Church on th friendly greeting.

"I am on a business, my friends, which you will understand is far more disagreeable to me than it can be to you."

harmonious my-teries to the world." 'Hence it will be perceived I am not of superstitious inclinations.' In reference to his prophetic dream, which was accurately fulfilled "No spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said Sherwood, "I am at your account of the said spologies are required," said spologies are that a man may be an "influential attorney" and logically consistent in his professional habits, and at the same time decidedly inconsistent and illogical in other directions; and this mental limitation is found more or less marked in all the variations of human development.

There has been much stress laid upon the investigation: of Spiritualism by certain persons of reputed superiority, and scholarly attainments and especially the accepted oracles of science; and we must concede that intelligence is an essential factor in all cases, and the training which equips the mind for successful exploration of nature is not without value. Besides the influence of such minds in moulding public opinion is more than that of equally intelligent persons who are unknown to fame. Nevertheless, many able men who are regarded as standards of autrority in the depart-ments of science which they make a specialty, are as illogical and weak in certain other lines of study, upon which they sometimes venture, as a pastime, or to gratify pride, or pre judice, as the veriest tyro who never saw the inside of a col ege or attempted to analyze a scientific theory. Mr. Van Etten seems perfectly sure that he is "not of superstitious nclinations," because "he was brought up as a strict Calvinand is now a member of the Episcopal Church

Superstition, according to Webster, signifies literally, "a tanding still over something amazing; hence, an excessive everence or fear of that which is unknown or mysterious."

 Especially an ignorant or irrational worship of the su preme Deity." Here we have the testimony of an "influen ial attorney," scustomed to weigh evidence, and trace the logic of human events, assuring us that he is "not of super stitious inclinations," and therefore, of course, not tainted with any belief in the most rational interpretation of human life and immortality; but is "prejudiced against Spiritualism," and a subscriber to the "Nicene Creed!" His affiliations with the Dutch Reformed Church and the soothing logic of John Calvin have rendered his mind proof against supersti

He confesses to a firm belief that "the One above sways th He confesses to a firm belief that "the One above sways the narmonious mysteries of the world," and if he accepts the tightly, and at least two pounds of sulphur burned for every ten feetsquare of floor space in the building, after twenty-read of the Dutch Reformed Church he must believe that this creed of the Dutch Reformed Church he must believe that this 'One above" also foreordains some to everlasting life and others to eternal ruin, and that, too, without any reference to their good intentions or acts, and no amount of earnest endeavor and faithful devotion can change or modify the in finite purpose of the "One above" who planned the eternal woe of millions before the world began. What can inspire more "excessive reverence or fear of that which is unknown or mysterious," than a belief in such an "One above" whose almighty power and "mysterious" providence presents such an infinite, horror as the inevitable outcome of his own voluntary decrees? This same creed, too, declares the resurrecan "One above" in whose hands we are forever helpless as the lay in the hands of the potter?

If the Calvinistic dogmas that held and moulded the religious life of Mr. Van Etten are not the climax of superstition we need a new definition of the word. On the other hand, Mr. Van Etten seems to think that a belief in the presence and finished. Father and son were waiting for the impending cloud to discharge its lightning, not knowing where the bolt would launch.

The bell-cased Rudal Rudal Rudal Research Rudal cure for superstition and all unnatural or "excessive reverence," and banishes all "fear of that which is unknown or mysterious" including the anthropomorphic god of John of faith which Mr. Van Etten thinks so free from superstition, all is mystery, and death the "King of terrors." With his con fessed faith "it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God." Who can believe in total depravity, predestina tion, endless misery, and all the train of maddening horrors hat follows the Calvinistic theology without a constant "fear of that which is unknown or mysterious?

"O wad some powers the gift to gie us."

To see ourselves as others see us."

Those most thoroughly blinded by superstition easily magine all outside of their own creed to be the thing which class of advanced thinkers, who are giving so much trouble others see in them. But is Spiritualism free from supersti- to Church disciplinarians just now, is much oppposed to ion? In its purity it is. But among its advocates are many who bring with them much of the old theology which origi nated in an age of ignorance and has grown up through cen turies of cultivated error and protected by superstition. Thes necessarily color the new faith with their inherited bias; and often pervert the lesson of mediumship into morbid theories and cloth the living gospel in the old theological shroud Modern mystics are numerous who spurn the clear relations VIII you allow us to see the ring?" asked Mr. Canning.

Prophecies have become quite common within the last of science, and the plain facts (without which immortality is forty years; and while there are "many false prophets" now a vague, uncertain dream), and formulate fantastic visions and dark stains of blood, which he had not before noticed as of old, the data upon which to predicate a rational belief, without which immortality is He held out the ring. A plain, well-worn circlet of gold. As in prophecy are so numerous and well sustained by a "great" he held it up there came a strange pallor over his face.

"Can it is the exclaimed, "that is like the ring my little

Mildred wore, which I gave her when I was her loved and Was estimated as or oid, the data upon which to predicate a rational belief, may have a "great" my this which are often mistaken for the spiritual philosophy, Christian its integrity is neither Theosophy, Christian Science, Christianity, Paganism, or superstition. It is the science of life, the interpreter of nature, and the relation of immortality.

Van Etten's testimony after the psychical phenomena have

WHEN DIPHTHERIA COMES.

The great fatality from diphtheria among all classes of children, and the seeming deplorable ignorance among the laity in regard to its nature, demands that the people should be better enlightened. The point of prevention and conta-giousness demands the most attention, so far as treatment is concerned, a disease of so grave a nature will ever be under the charge of the medical profession. A home once robbed of those sweetest of all earthly beings—the children—ta blasted forever. Prevention is far better than cure.

The saddest are these, it might have been Diphtheria is a specific, infectious, and contagious disease, "Can it be true that our townsmen demand this insult?"

"Eason to suppose a disembodied spirit of human origin
whatever its present condition, can foretell the future any
The reason is perhaps that the tissues of children are more whatever its present condition, can foretell the future any a matter of form, but I can not predict the outcome of the far as I know any authority for it in any system of religious a large majority of the cases occur between the ages of two and ten years.

It occurs much more frequently in Winter than Summer for the reason that catarrhal troubles are more frequent at that time. A mucous membrace, that is the seat of an inflammation, takes on diphtheria more readily than one in a normal condition. The close of an epidemic is milder than the beginning. The period of incubation, that is the time of exposure to the appearance of the first symptoms, varies from two to fourteen days. In this respect it resembles scarlet fever also in its variability of type from a very mild to a malignant form, in the common seat of its inflammation, the fauces and nasal passages, in theprofound blood poisoning, and frequent occurrence of kidney trouble as a complication and sequel. Like scarlet fever and small pox it is communicable through the atmosphere and by contact. One attack does not protect the system from another. It is not only communicable from one person to another, but is caused by foul exhala-tion, as sewer gas. The weight of authority believe that it is caused by a specific microbe, but the same microbe that is found in diphtheritic membrane is also found in pseudomembrane that is not diphtheritic. During an epidemic children should be kept absolutely at home. It is not neces-sary for a child to come in direct contact with one that has the disease to get it. It may be carried from one to the other by a third party or by the attending physician. No one should be admitted to the house unless you know positively that they have not been in contact with the disease, or that they have made a complete change of clothing since seeing such case. When a case occurs, if there are other children. they should, if possible, be removed from the house. If they are not, the patient should be kept up stairs and the well ones below, the virus has a tendency to rise in the atmosphere. It is better to change the child from one room to another every two or three days to prevent the danger of self-infec-tion. When a case has occurred no children should be admitted until the house and all its contents have been thoroughly disinfected, no half-way business about it, if you please. The house should be vacated, all mattresses cut open and spread out, all clothing hung out. It should be closed four hours the contents should be put in the open air for some time. Clothing that would be spoiled by the sulphur fames may be soaked in a strong solution of sulphate of zinc, four ounces to the gallon of water, and boiled. In the fatal cases, of course, no public funeral should be thought of, but burial should take place at once. It is only by thorough and ex treme measures that we may hope to control it.

The treatment demands tonic and supporting measures. The peroxide of hydrogen used in the atomizer as a throat spray is the most useful and popular local application yet discovered. It is a most powerful disinfectant and has the advantage of being perfectly harmless. Internally, chlorate of potash and tincture of iron as in the following formula may be confidently relied on to do all that any remedy will do.

For a child two years old: Recipe-tincture of iron 2 drachms, chlorate of potash 20 grains, water 5 ounces, pure glycerine 1 ounce. Mix. A teaspoonful every 15, 20, or 30 minutes. It must be given frequently to be of any use.

Alcohol in the form of whiskey or brandy internally is indispensable, from one to twelve ounces in the twenty-four when the two ounces of brandy daily are increased to six or eight. Lastly, in desperate cases, tracheotomy, give them the last chance, be it ever so small. It is criminal to let a child die from suffocation, if there is one chance in a million to save it by operation. Give them the one chance.

Discharges His Assistant for Being an A. P. A.

Dr. Washington Gladden, of the First Congregational Church, of Columbus, Ohio, who is well known as a pulpit orator and contributor to leading magazines, has created considerable comment by dispensing with the services of his assistant, Rev. G. P. Bethel, because the latter was a member of the A. P. A. Society, which is supposed to have its inspiration in opposition to Romanism and to foreign influence in American politics. Dr. Gladden, who belongs to the what he understands to be the motives of the A. P. A., and some time ago preached a sermon in which he denounced the association as an order which was attempting to bring about a revival of "Know-nothingism," and that it was unpatriotic and its purposes treasonable. When he learned that his assistant, with whom his relations had previously been cordial and harmonious, was a member of the order, he promptly "gave him notice." Some of the Church people promptly "gave him notice." Some of the church people were disposed to remonstrate, but as Dr. Gladden was paying most of the assistant's salary out of his own pocket, he had his own way. In consequence of all of which it is said that the A. P. A., which is of unknown strength and influence, has boycotted Dr. Gladden. In some quarters the defeat of the James bill, permitting an increase in the salary of the President of the State University, is attributed to their work, the impression being prevalent that Dr. Gladden was to be the beneficiary of the bill.

when a minister is paid to think for one.

If gently catechized and cornered in a round-about way these good people will generally confess that they no longer nothing, for if so it would be reasonable to suppose that to accept verbatim the miracles contained in the Scriptures, they do not believe in the damnation of unbaptized infants, or even eternal fire for adults. Truly the coach of progress moves, though slowly, through the old ruts of custom. Com-pared with the ecclesiastical atandards of John Calvin or Jonathan Edwards, the most devout Church member of to-day is a

The Church cla ma to hold the waters of living

Spiritualism points to its long array of demonstrated and incontrovertible facts. In this necessarily brief and inade-quate comparison of these two beliefs, we do not antagonize the Bible Itself. Why should Spiritualists be opposed to a ok that is a record of ancient Spiritualism, therefore a con firmation of Modern Spiritualism? What we oppose is the ecclesiastical arrogance that takes a book, a book composed of the legends, traditions, and manuscripts left by ancient people, subject it to numerous revisions and manipulations, then send it forth as the infallible word of God. In reading it people are forbidden to use their reason. They must believe or they are damned. If we read the Bible with eyes of reason or bring our intelligence to the elucidation of puz zling parables, metaphor, and allegory we find much to esteem and advise. We see a wondrous blending of fact and

We see those ancient people groping through supersti tion's night, yearning to catch one rosy beam from the rising aun of truth. And from the recorded wealth of poetic super-stition, legend, fact, and fable they left behind, has sprung the cree's that to-day would chain man's reason in the nouldering dungeons of the past.

Creeds are objectionable because, as Emerson says: "They out of "nothing," or out of thought. Nor does it imply, it build a fence about the intellect." They are objectionable better was cause they are inhuman, unreasonable, and unjust; they have

Does it not seem a little curious that an all-knowing and all-powerful God, on whose will swings the eternal destiny of in time; hence, that he was not eternal. Whetev millions of his children, should have such a misfit in his from God, must correspond with his attributes. wished the larger share of his offsprings to endure eternal have no human relations, or limitations. torment. To wipe this stigma from the name of God, creedgoverus his choice? Can the puny finite will cope with the being, he is the source and ultimate reason for all that infinite?

God fashions a sharp, many-bladed implement called reason, tells him if he cut himself with it (knowing he will all the time) that the wound will never heal. death to save the race, and then according to the plan, losing the majority, he may throw his burden of sin on to the glionic apparatus corresponding to a human "brain." shoulders of an innocent being and be a happy angel evermore, and we may add, a coward. The injustice of the plan of salvation is obvious. The murderer, knowing he is to be hung, has time to believe and be sprinkled (a privilege of which they usually avail themselves) and they are said to shine forever in the bowers of paradise, while his victim, if Dure as a snow-flake and rich in deeds of kindness

Creeds burlesque God because they dress him in anthro-morphism; they picture him as revengeful and unjust, swayed by the same passions that mar the minds of men The creedal idea of creation, that something was made from nothing, is illogical. According to Genesis, God existing through eternity, alone with nothing, had an attack of creating the cook some of the nothing and made his planeta, "wound them up" like great yellow tops and set them spin-ming. And must he not have been delighted to hear them shum? But the novelty wore off; he had a relapse of so here we are to be pulled, Panch and Judy-like, by the strings of his caprice. Does it not seem a little strange that the writers of the Bible, claiming direct inspiration from God, did not know that the world was round, that it moved, nothing, for five two the continuous consultations are the continuous mothing we would return. It teaches that elementally we have always existed, therefore are immortal. It does not teach that we were made perfect and then "fell." It teaches that we were evolved from lower conditions, and we are still evolving. It does not demand belief, but challenges investigations. gation from base to spire. Its God is not a crass personality but is the print of universal life—a God of evolution and in volution, manifesting through immutable law. Spiritualism volution, manifesting through minutable law. Spirituanism inspires higher aspirations and endeavor. In its blue web of sky there ever sparkles the sun of hope, not for a favored few, but for every child of earth. It gives a soul to science, a hear to religion, and keeps pace with evolution, for it is evolution

Its motto is elernal progress.

And O, the joy that once more forevermore we may clasp the hands of those we love, and with them climb the shining rungs of the ladder of progress upward and ever upward, fo the mighty series shall never end.

"Beyond each hill top others rise, Like ladder rungs toward loftler skie Bach halt is but a breathing space For allrup cup and fresher pace; Till who dare say ere night descend, There can be ever such thing as end

Written for the LIGHT OF TRUTH.

MATTER, MIND, AND LIFE.

F. H. BEMIS

Such is the caption of an article by G. H. Walser in the JIGHT OF TRUTH Of January 23d.

My conception of God, so far as I am able to formulate a conception, transcends all human limitations. It does not mply the creation of a universe out of pre-existent matter, or ever a time, when, to God, this universe did not exist; and hindered progress, they travesty God; they make life a mockery, robbing it of its noblest incentives and loftiest amockery, robbing it of its noblest incentives and loftiest being, such supposition would be inadmissible. To an eteraspirations. Over death they throw a shroud of horror. Creeds are unjust because according to their dogmas the ma-jority of the race are fore-doomed by an all-knowing and allpowerful God to the agony of an eternal inquisition, not be cause of sin committed, but because they could not make the and jumutable God could not have subsequently called it and jumutable God could not have subsequently called it because such subsequent afterthought would into existence; because such subsequent afterthought would imply change, mutability. It would also imply that God acted in time; hence, that he was not eternal. Whatever is of or workmanship as the one between reason and revelation? If very necessity of his being it must transcend all relations of he is all-powerful and all knowing, the logic is plain. He time and sense and change, so far as he is concerned. It can

In no merely human sense, then, can it be said, God crealism resorts to an ingenious bit of sophistry. Man, they say, ates, plans, thinks, or wills. Yet, in an infinite, eternal, measis a free sgent, he has the power to choose. Yes, but what Everything is of necessity, because he is; and without him there is and can be, nothing.

Mr. Walser says: "Many Spiritualists imagine a God pos sessed of a mind, without either body, brain, or parts," which day it will be the brand showing he is fitted only for eterns punishment. To be sure he is offered a mode of escape on the poltroonery system, subject to certain conditions. If he neither the one nor the other. And we can not well conceive of himself. will believe something he can not believe; if he can think a more gross and anthropomorphic conception of God than that God was such a poor planner that it was necessary for to imagine him "possessed of body, brain, and parts." Inhim to incarnate a part of himself, suffering an agonizing finity has no parts. Omniscience can not be circumscribed by a body, or limited and confined in its operations to any gar does not think. By no process of ratiocination could anything be brought more directly or distinctly under the divine cognizance than it already is. In the very nature of the cas the infinite source of all intelligence must transcend all finite relations and limitations. Omniscience necessarily transcends all mental processes. God knows. To him nothing is unconceived or unperceived. He is, we may suppose, conscious by cognizant of, and contem poraneously present, to all beings, at all times, in all worlds. That such is the case is no re unreasonable than that all creatures, as we know, live and move and have their being in him.

We do not believe in an outside, or objective, universe to God. His universe is, because he is. It is his necessary per out whom it would vanish away. We witness effects, phe-nomena; the causes which produce them are veiled from

True it is, that this visible universe seems real and tangi ble to flesh and sense. And, why should it not? What could be expected to be more real, tangible, permanent, and fixed, than the perpetual and immutable expression of that ulti-mate and eternal power, whom we call God? There is no variableness or shadow of turning with him. Why should not his material universe, which is his expression, seem as Individual responsibility or the creedal idea that the responsibility or the creedal idea that the responsibility lies in belief, and that someone else can be good for you? Creedalists shut the redad in a stationary heaven or hell and bar the doors. Spiritualism teaches that under certain conditions there is communication between the departed and their loved ones on earth.

Spiritualism does not teach that we were made from nothing, for if so it would be reasonable to suppose that to nothing we would return. It teaches that elementally we prevailing and all-controlling in telligence. So far as acceptance in the spirits and the mortals to whom they came, billion spiritualism, there is no evidence of individual atomic life and intelligence. But there is evidence of one universal life and intelligence; one persistent and unerring law, insunderably uniting all atoms in all worlds. All "known facts," all "truthful observations," understand what would confound the "wise. In appreciation of this lady's remarkable powers, she was presented with the mortals to whom they came, billion and the mortals to whom they came, then the mortals to whom they came, then the philosophical significance of the latter were mostly strangers to her. Even if her your collapse to her. Even if her your collapse to her. Even if her your collapse to her. Seven if her collapse to her. Even if her your collapse to her. Even if her your collapse to her. Even if her collapse to it seems to us,

"All are but parts of one stupendous whole, Whose body nature is, and God the soul."

There is no evidence, as Mr. Walser would have us believe, that life, intelligence, and human consciousness are evolu-tions out of "crude matter." You can not evolve out of mat ter" what is not involved in it. There is not a particle of evidence that "crude" ponderable matter has any self-organizing capacity. There is no scientific evidence, that of its own volition it ever organized itself into a living form. Chemical and cohesive affinity may unite atom with atom, forming a molecule, but it has no self-organizing capacity to produce a sentient, living being.

Again, all living organisms are subject to dissolution. If life, thought, human consciousness are products of crude organized matter, what becomes of such life, thought, and hu nan consciousness, when the crude organized matter disintegrates?

Life alone is the source of life. Materialism furnishes no logical basis for a spiritual philosophy.

If human life is dependent upon a material organism when that material organism disintegrates, as all n organisms do, life perishes with it; and it knows no future.

Written for the LIGHT OF TRUTH.)

SPIRITS MATERIALIZE.

EUGENE C. DANA.

Mr. Joseph King, of Pipestone, Mich., is a man who has been gifted or trusted with that phase of mediumship known as "materialization," and on the evenings of January 26th, 27th and 28th, held seances to a chosen few at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Murray, in this city, that were so satis-factory it has been thought an account of which might interest the outside world, or at least the portion that reads this

Those present represented trades and professions; men who earn their living with their hand as well as those who are merely brain-workers. They were from various walks of society and ranged in age from thirty to sixty years. The average attendance for the three evenings was about sixteen of which four were women.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray are so reliable and sound in mind that after one looks at Mr. King one felt sure, come what would, it would not be fraudulent. The first evening Mr. King sat in the dining room, adjoining a back parlor, and after only a few moments waiting there were in rapid succession six or eight materializations. Three of these were fully recognized by relatives in the audience, and one was someone who seemed to follow Mr. King, and is known as "Happy Charlie," because he dances.

Mr. James Lambert recognized his son Ira, Mr. A. Nolan recognized his father, and Cyrus Dana, a lawyer here forty years ago, was recognized by his son. The materializations that were not recognized by his son. The materializations age," the mur-that were not recognized were a child two feet high, a there are any, women, and a middle-aged man who came just to show "A Catalogue of himself.

The second evening a cabinet had been made of black canvas on slats, boxing in the folding-doors, forming some thing like a bay-window, it having been given out that the dining-room proper was too large for the purpose. same materializations occurred with two or three exceptions and in addition Mr. Asa Hamilton saw his brother, Edward who has been gone from earth life over fifteen years. Mr. Nolar recognized his young wife whom he lost several years An unknown man called Mrs. Murray and met her with the three-quart pail of water which is placed in the cabinet to keep the air moist, and after whispering to her to kneel poured a few drops of water on her head and uttered the words: "I baptize thee in the name of God." The action was all, seen by the words heard alone by Mrs. Murray.

The third evening Mr. King's control showed herself ver distinctly. She is a Mrs. Lewis, and has been gone over hundred and fifty years. There was a good degree of light a bese seances, and afforded most excellent opportunities to determine as to what was seen. hands with their friends. Mr. Hamilton pressed his cheek to his brother's. Mr. Dana patted his son's cheek so that it was perfectly audible. Mr. Murray's sister handed him an apple aken from a table in the dining-room. In some instance two individuals were seen at ouce. Some of the materializa tions dismissed you and closed the curtains on themselves Some of the materializa others vanished into the air instantly, while the curtains were still open.

Not one beholder had the heart to say "humbug" or to meer "fraud" or trickery. Everyone said at least : "Whatever it was we saw that there was no dishonesty about it."

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

**CERTALISM ASS SYSTITULES**

**CERTALISM ASS SYSTITULES**

**The converge of the same was been stored from the president of the same and the same and the president of the same and the same and the president of the same and the same a point with unmistakable precision to one, and only one, and pervading and all-controlling intelligence. So far as science has been able to demonstrate through the spectroscope, the atoms of each elementary substance of ponderable matter in our world, obey one and the same law in all other worlds. So and also numbering about twenty-five. Among them be told a lady present that she had a letter in her possession, written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession, written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession, written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession, written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her possession written a lady present that she had a letter in her po tion of this lady's remarkable powers, she was presented with a handsome floral basket during the entertainment. Next by a younger person, in which was asked a question to the The lady acknowledged the test as correct and pro duced the letter. Another one was told she had a lock of hair on her person belonging to a child-describing the spirit-to which the lady acquiesced. But, said the medium, Lalso see another lock of hair in close proximity to this one apparently of an older person and in the same locketdescribing the locket. The lady acknowledged the test as perfect and took from her pocket the jewel and held it up in triumph for the beneat of the audience. Upon this Mri Weeks took up the thread, and after a witty little speech which was quite acceptable as a change, she gave a number of tests that were also welcomed. Mrs. Sagmaster and Mrs. Ropp closed with a few more tests, when the beneficiary, Van Dusen, was led to the rostrum by Mr. Starbird, and accompanied himself to a song on the piano, for which he received hearty applause. This closed a pleasant evening with the spirits.

LITERARY REVIEW.

THE CROWNING SIN OF THE AGE. By B. D. Sinclair, pastor First Presbyterian Church, Newburyport, Mass. Published by H. L. Hastings of the Scriptural Tract Repository and editor of The Christian, 47 Cornhill, Boston Price: Unique paper 50 cents.

"The Crowing Sin of the Age, or the Perversion of Mr. riage,"is the subject of a sermon, calling attention to the pa vention of conception so much practiced in Protestar. Christianity, and especially in New England. He regards such equal to murder, and cries out loud against the growing evi.

The book also contains commendatory letters from emines. persons concerning the sermon or lecture, and in which letters are also interesting comments on the same subject. Both the author and his critics absolve the Catholic and Jews from this evil, as their religion is "practical" in respect to the da ties of married life, believing that "each child born is ac cepted as an additional evidence of God's especial favor, and thus to regard marsiage as one of the sacraments." No faulten be found with the sermon by anyone. It is timely and should have a wide circulation, only we hope the publisher will not be rammed into prison with Moses Harmon for promulating similar doctrine. But we see that the book has been entered at the Boston postoffice as second-class matter, and thus permitted to go through the mails. Well, perhaps the Postoffice Department is becoming more liberal and less predish in matters that should be spoken of publicly though committed in secret—except that a "Christian" editor has more influences over Brother Wanamaker than a "poor Indies" has. However, the publisher has a good epinion of Spiritualists, even if he is a non-believer. In his letter to the LIGHT OF TRYTH he writes: "Although we do not agreed religious questions, still I feel sure we will agree on the to which the book is devoted." We do, and we wish the book a generous demand and careful perusal by all good Christians who are troubled with this "Crowning sin of the age," the murder of the innocents, and Spiritualists, too, a three are any. thus to regard marriage as one of the sacraments." No fault

"A Catalogue of Books, Pamphlets, and Articles on the Cor struction and Maintenance of Roads, A. A. Pope, Box

Copies of the catalogue will be given to the public librates of the United States. The objects of its publication at to furnish a convenient book of reference, and to obtain formation ou road literature omitted, so that a complete is may be made.

The Home.-Wanted in every family an opportunity send good reading; something that will interest every member. Short stories for the young and old, fancy work, flower, and kitchen topics for the housewife, also instructive letters and literary articles. All these will be found in The Home, asiateen-page paper. The publishers are sending out with the paper, an illustrated book on fancy work, knitting and cocheting, containing fifty designs and large, handsome alpha bet for embroidering. They also send their illustrated premum list of sixteen pages (two hundred premiums), to my person sending ten cents to cover the postage. To introduce The Home into new families the publisher end the paper three months, the illustrated premium list and book on fancy work, all for only ten cents. Home, Boston, Mass., and please mention this paper.

Another heretic in the Presbyterian Church has boldly enounced his allegiance to the general assembly. Rev. 18 vard Clark, D. D., pastor of the Church of the Puritans, New York City, said in a recent sermon : "I can not endure the granny of the general assembly. It can not dictate what shall think and believe, or rather I can not think and believe what it may dictate. I am done with it." We Investigator.

Saturday, February 18 Spirit Messa

OUR FRI Every Tue

ablin justice to both the sinave our friends verify such the in these columns.

Bothic communications com sbroad must be addresse

REPORT Tuesday after

Oh, thou source of a guides and directs us the come to inquire of thos sphere of life—who ha-in the spirit realm; and and give us some new will cause us to under-us to feel that all the for our unfoldment ! also feel grateful that men dare to speak, d things that they may them, for we realize t and some died that w we do. We realize the points us to them wh out of the fullness of more knowledge, ar closer and closer to lize also that God is that which seemeth are through with or have carned a man lize that we are bu pictures, that we We also realize th but we realize tha still desire to wo soul with love a

QUES -Do they simply sur.
ANS.—A sp.
sciousness than realize the inte conscious of would be an i self. We are carnated in to power of our our earth life with spirits v But we do no all and all. in our life, teries. We possibly m we are sel impressing you impro of conscie the greate study wel divine pr QUES people in ANS somethir world is voice to sibly the cause th position benefit o Each of spirit w for the would else in throug pressec They v the sp ness u not fe sages instru may l dinm. They tion.

> their peri only off to 1

which

draw

. 1893

minstances ourse there called, but incide. It Aidavits o hat I have

, who is a told; the

eld on to one moive sighed

rent man

be same ablic test s of the

Mr. Van Eva Sag-

lymouth

Irs. Ross nditions

sing, the gmaster followed airty or

ey came,

so re-

how to t stop

precia-

me ex-

he told

to the

id pro-

ediam,

is one,

ocket-

test as up in speech

umber

d Mrs

ich he vening

pastor Pub-

estant

g evil

inent

Both

from

e Con

on are du in-ete list

lize also that God is love, and all that is good is of God, and that which seemeth (ull to-day is but ignorance. And when we are through with our experiences here, may each one of us have earned a mansion in that home just over there. We realize that we are builders of that home, that we are painting pictures, that we will look upon in the by and by. So may every part of that home be furnished perfect and beautiful We also realize that we will not be done with earth and labor but we realize that out of the fullness of our soul we wil still desire to work, and work earnessly for the uplifting of our brothers and sisters. So, kind intelligences that sur-round us this afternoon, draw very, very close, inspire each soul with love and teach us the higher truths of the home

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

QUES .- Do spirits know the origin of consciousness, or simply surmise or conjecture it?

ANS .- A spirit, decarnated, knows no more about con sciousness than you do who are incarnated in the body. We realize the intensity of consciousness, we know that we are conscious of being, having been, and still expect, through consciousness, to live eternally. But to define consciousness would be an impossibility—as impossible as to define life it self. We are but students the same as you who are still incarnated in the body. We know and realize every day the power of our individual consciousness. We view and review our earth life, we learn daily new lessons through intercours with spirits who have been ages upon the spirit side of life But we do not understand all of the infinite. When we do we shall be at one-ment with the infinite and merge into the all and all. But as students realizing their individual exis tence, conscions of all that is being enacted in your life and in our life, we try in every way possible to solve the mysteries. We know that we have existed forever; that there is no beginning and no end. We realize the importance of life. possibly more fully for passing out of the material body into the spiritual realm; and as we return again, proving that we are self-conscious beings, learning greater lessons, and impressing them upon the souls of the sensitive, bringing to you improvements and inventions that you may be benefited here, still when you ask us of the deeper mysteries of life or of consciousness we stand as the babe. That alone belongs to the greater, the more infinite, power, which we are drawing closer to every day but can not comprehend. But seek deeper study well, and remember that consciousness belongs to the divine principle of life.

Ques .- Have mediume any prerogatives over ordinary people in spirit.

ANS .- No. A medium, if you understand the word, is something that stands between. A medium for the spirit world is one that stands between you and the spirit world to voice to you that which the spirit is willing to give. Medi ums have no more power over the spirit than you have. Possibly the spirits may have more power over the medium than you have, because they have developed their instrument, because the instrument has placed herself or himself in such a I would that you could hear the music as it plays through the position that the spirit world can and do use them for the spheres, coming with such harmony and the love voices sing benefit of mankind. Each and every one of you in this room ing their lullabys, that they may sooth some saddened soul at times are instruments in the hands of the spirit world. who is still in an undeveloped condition on the spirit side of Each of you at times receive impressions direct from the life. But, friends, your loved ones rest and your loved ones spirit world. And if it were not for the doubts, if it were not spirit world. And if it were not for the doubts, if it were not work. Their joy is to pring to you joy and love. They can for the fears, which is the result of early education, you joy all of the fullness of life. That which was denied them would receive this in the way that they were given. How here they have over there—comfort and peace. I would that else in the times of old were the apostles inspired except through the spirit! They understood when the spirit impressed by ligher, intelligences.

They would say they were impressed by God and they would be such as they are they as they see their loved ones they are they as they enter the spirit realm. pressed them that they were impressed by higher intelligences.

They would say they were impressed by God, and they would give out these impressions. And so, friends, day by day is the spirit world gathering around you; day by day does some that you might know more of the love that binds you one to loved one draw close and in some way try to prove their nearness unto you. I would plead for your spirit friends, I would ask you to open wide the door and let the angels come in. Do if I could, carry you where the artists are assembled with their not feel that it is only a medium that can receive loved mes-sages from the other side of life, although you may not be an instrument in the hands of the spirit world, although you may be ignorant of the conditions necessary to become a medium, yet that does not bear away from you your loved ones They stand willing and ready to give you loved messages di-rect. I see in the minds of some in this audience the ques-tion, and it comes in this way, "If our loved ones draw near unto us every day, if they understand all of the conditions which surround us, and if they have power to prevent, why do they not do it?" I would answer, whilst your spirit friends draw near, or desire to help you, and through the fullness of their love endeavor to lift away from your soul care, sorrow, and grief, yet it would not be well for them to do so. The exand grief, yet it would not be well for them to do so. The experiences of this life are necessary for your development; it is only through your experiences that you can learn your lessons. If each one of you to day had all care, all sorrow lifted off your hearts, I fear you would become very careless indeed in educating yourselves spiritually. You would be very apt to lie back in your chairs and takellife easy. It is only through exertion, it is only through experiences that you can fully round out your life here and be prepared for the home beyond.

Spirit Message Department
OUR FREE CIRCLE.

Every Tuesday Afternoon,
At Desgins stall, owners which started subject to the spirit with the common to the spirit with the spiritual state of the spiritual stat

QUES. How or in what manner does the blood of Jesus cleanse us from all sin, or does Jesus pay it all?

ANS .- Our elder brother is again the subject. My friends the blood of no man can cleanse you from sin. No man can pay your debts. Every one of you will be held accountable to self for all that you do here. If the blood of Jesus could cleanse from sin, we should have to day, or ought to have, after nineteen hundred years, perfect men and women. If Jesus rer interes. "my friends, you have nothing to do but fold "paid it all," my friends, you have nothing to do but fold your arms and go ahead. But this is not the [case; for every act that you commit you are held responsible and not one of you dare do what is wrong, because as you journey through derstand just how it happened they can not bring themselves this life you are sure to meet your error some place. You to think I would disobey, and I did not. And yet I was must face it yourself and you must stand the consequences of it. Do not think for one moment that the blood of Jesus can brought great sorrow to my loved ones. But, dear uncle, carry it. Do not think for one moment that the blood of Jesus can brought great sorrow to my loved ones. But, dear uncle, carry cleanse you; do not think for one moment that Jesus has to do all, for there are debts for each one of you to caucel; there that he is ofttimes in the home and that he tries in every way are intentional wrongs that each one of you have done and which each one of you have done and which each one of you will have to face. Many men have studied and wondered why at a certain time of life they were confronted with certain things. It was but the fruit of the seed sown in the long ago, and of that fruit they must eat. So, friends, see to it that you live each day to your live to set to the train the long ago, and of the fruit they must eat. So, friends, see to it that you live each day to your live to see to it that you are instead true to self each of a brighter details. highest, see to it that you are justland true to self, see to it that you live above reproach, and see to it that all the houghts sent out are good thoughts. Send not forth thoughts of hate or jealousy, for just as sure as you do they will come back upon you. It may injure for awhile the one it was in tended for, but by and by it will rebound and hurt you more than any one else. So I would say do not try to place all o your sins upon Jesus, do not try to make that good man suffer for you; do not think it is possible, for it is not. The man Jesus is now enjoying the spirit realm, that which he earned upon the earth plane. He is, I hope, now at one-ment with his father. I feel that the influence of this good man has been felt throughout all these years. But, friends, you dare not live careless, you dare not think, oh Lord, I will do as I please, and then I will be saved, for it is not true. I taught it for many years, but it is not true. I come back to earth again and use woman as a mouthpiece that I may tell my brothers and sis-

Ques.—Is not certain existence and destiny as much nystery with excarnated spirits as with mortals?

ANS .- Friends, I answered that question in answering the question of consciousness. I told you it was as much a mys

QUES .- Do the spirit friends retire at night or are they on duty at all hours?

ANS.—Ever watchful are our spirit friends, but when res is necessary, they test. You are not always guarded by the same spirit, but you may to-day have with you one or two of your loved ones, and to-morrow they may withdraw and some other loved one take their places. We have our homes, and all that we love here, we have rest, we have music and flowers; and ing their lullabys, that they may sooth some saddened soul work. Their joy is to bring to you joy and love. They en beautiful paintings and statuary. I would carry you where you could hear the birds sing and warble forth their joy n For whatever you have here we have on the spirit side of life. We have only lost one thing, and that is what you call sin. There is no soul on the spirit side of life that desires the destruction of any other soul. Now I see a question arises in he hearts of some, and that is, what are you going to do with these evil spirits? And I say of these spirits: Who are they? When a spirit enters the spirits what are they? Where are they? When a spirit enters the spirits was under the surround us, and if they have power to prevent, why to they not do it?" I would answer, whilst your spirit friends aw near, or desire to help you, and through the fullness of eir love endeavor to lift away from your soul care, sorrow, digrief, yet it would not be well for them to do so. The extriences of this life are necessary for your development; it is lify through your experiences that you can learn your lessure. If each one of you to day had all care, all sorrow lifted they would hasten to aid the brother. They would lead him upward and they would carry him to the realm where he might see himself plainer—where he might understand better, and possibly for awhile the pictures and conditions painted upon the memory of this spirit might cause him distance of the home between the properties and takellife easy. It is only through experiences that you can fully und out your life here and be prepared for the home between the properties and the properties of the home between the properties of the home between the properties of the spirit to be in ignorance, for no spirit that has developed in the higher spheres of life would permit an ignorant spirit to be in ignorance long, but they would nester to aid the brother. They would lead him upward and they would carry him to the realm where he might see himself plainer—where he might understand better, and possibly for awhile the pictures and conditions painted upon the memory of this spirit might cause him distance with the properties and the properties which is a provided to the properties and the properties which is an out they would carry him to the realm where he might see himself plainer—where he might see himself plainer—where he might see himself plainer.

Therefore see to it that you callevil, they would into the state of ecstasy which I have they?

The provided has the properties of the pro And I say of these spirits: Who are they who are near and dear to me, who still linger upon the earth plane. I passed out of this life about two years ago. I left five children upon the earth plane, and I dealre to send my love to them from the apirit side or life. I have children in Middleport, O., and children in Marshall, Texas. I desire them to know that Elizabeth Crandall sends this message to them. I passed out at Middleport, O.

George Withelm

Chairlady and friends. I am rejoiced to be here this after noon. I desire to send my love to my mother and father and also my sisters and brothers. I want them to know that although I have passed over to the spirit side of life yet I am ofttimes with them. I try in every way I can to impress my father that he may know of my nearness, and I believe at times he knows I am with him. I know my mother does. It was hard, I know, for my parents when I passed sway, for they had built great hopes upon me, and I had tried in every way to be a dutiful son. Although they do not un-

James R. Thompson.

I am here this afternoon from the spirit side of life. But now my heart rejoices and how the hellelojahs arise within me! What is death I can not say. To me it was the opening of a brighter day. Why should they weep when we are set free free from all of the suffering of humanity. Long and dreary were the days, and often inwardly I prayed for liberty. Death came to me at last and freed my spirit, and I went to rejoice in a brighter, happier life. Hark! songs of angels ring forth their hosannas loud and clear. They say, all hall this brighted day; for we are free indeed from earthly pain. So I sing as come from my home above, returning to those I dearly love The anxious thoughts, the tender care, indeed pay when you get over here. And I, for the love I bear to thee, will guard and guide thee most tenderly. Accept the love of thy hus band now, and cast all grief away from you, but know that live in a brighter sphere above. I hear the name of James R Thompson, of Franklin, Neb. He died of consumption.

Geo. Renchler.

To his wife Louisa. He wants her to know that he is greatly interested in her development, and hopes soon to be able to manifest through her organism. Jackson is with her a great part of the time, and feels greatly pleased that he is succeeding in getting such good control over her. As the winter passes away so will the trouble that now hovers over her. They all join in sending love and blessing. He is from Hamilton, O.

Jennie McElroy.

Desires to communicate with her husband, John H. McElroy, of Pittsburg, Pa. She brings her son Harry, and they would like to send a loving greeting to all of the dear ones at home and assure them that they are often near them and helping them in their daily work.

Ruth Anna Williams.

To her husband, S. B. Williams. This bright spirit brings with her other loved ones who are anxious to communicate Thompson Baggs sends messages of love and cheer to the dear ones at home, and assures them he is often with them, and wants them to know that is extremely happy and advancing daily in spirit life. Joseph Williams also comes and sends greeting. Birdie says she wishes the family understood her dear father as she does. Sister Harriet is with her, and they both join in sending love to their father, Robert Williams, and say he will soon be with them in their happy summer home; and that while he is here the thoughts and anticipations of that tion, and when the time comes he will be prepared to leave the old prison home of clay with very little suffering, for the spirits will take him away as in a dream. He lives near Bridgeport, Ohio. They are from Martin's Ferry, Ohio.

Elizabeth Hutchins.

Elizabeth Hutchins.

A lady steps up to me and says: 'My name is Elizabeth Hutchins. I desire to send love to five who are near and dear to me in earth life. I would like my son to know that I am very much interested in the new undertaking, and he will be more successful than be thinks. Do not grieve because Mary has gone, it is all right, it is better so. Remember we can not always stay together in earth life, and when death parts us sometimes we realize more truly the attachment which existed between us. Your mother is ever watchful and cares for you, and joins with your father Samuel in bringing love to you in this way. I am from St. Louis, Mo., and this measage is sent to my children.

VERIFICATIONS.

The wife and sister of T. J. Babb, whose message appeared in Light of the Kintro Truth, January 21st, wish me to express for them their thanks to Light of TRUTH for publishing and to the medium for voicing the message of love from the husband and brother who passed out of his physical habitation in this place some less than two years ago. They pronounce it as very much like him, and have no doubt of the source from whence it came. The illness of both has prevented an earlier verification, but as I know of the circumstances attending his transition, I very willingly accede to their request and add my assurance of its truthfulness. The Message Department is conforting many hearts. Yours for the truth, 332 Main Street, Painesville, O., February 3, 1893.

The Progressive Lyceum.

Opening Song.

My native country, thee, Land of the noble free, Thy name I love. I love thy rocks and rills. Thy woods and tem park affix My heart with rapture therein Like that above.

Let music swell the breeze, And ring from all the trees Sweet (reedom's song) Let mortal tongues awake, Let all that breathe partake Let locks their silence break The sound prolong.

Our fathers' God! to thee, Author of liberty To realms above. Long may our lead be bright With freedom's holy light, Protect us by thy might, Great God of love.

Lesson. Suggestive Outline.

[Norg. - In the discussion of the lesson it should be a fundamental rule never to be departed from that in which all are expected to express their views fully and freely, there must not be any indulgence in personality or antoponistic debate. It is the truth, not what any individual thinks the truth to be, that should engage attention.]

The rights of government are based on eternal justice. It is said to rest on the consent of the governed. ue, for those who make repressive laws necessary, and are controlled by them, never consented to such laws, and would not had they been given a choice.

On the will of the unspority; not unless it is presumed that the majority comprehend justice better than the minority. But the minority may be in the right, and there may be such an occurrence as a single individual advocating the truth

In society where the criminal class are in the majority, repressive laws might be enacted as a homage of vice to virtue, but they could not be enforced. The criminal majority would bid defiance to legal control. Hence the laws, as the expression of a few good men may be far better than the society. They are, however, powerless, unless their execution is in the hands of efficient powers, which can not exist in a republican government, unless the majority is on the side of virtue.

A republic can not be preserved unless a majority of its citizens are able to govern themselves.

Thenecessity for a government is caused by the necessity for restraint, which makes any government for a savage or half civilized people better than none, and the purpose to enforce obedience of the lower to the higher faculties; of sel-fishness to the benevolence; of hate to love; of individuality to patriotism of animality to morality.

Government does not derive its right from a divine source, and, hence, Church and State should remain distinct. The most horrible persecutions have been the result of the attempt of the Church to maintain its temporal government.

What is the best form of government? What improvements do you suggest in our form of government? What is the most threatening danger? Is it centralization?

Is it encroachment of Church power? What will be the result of foreign immigration? Of the Catholic movement represented by the American

Mottoes for Continuous Recitation.

A government by the people, of the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth :— Not if founded on justice.

To be just it must recognize the rights of all.

No one must be deprived of any privilege granted to All must receive the full value of their labors.

For to the laborer belong the products of his labor,

Silver Chain Recitation.

OUR COUNTRY.

Bravest of nations, she moved through the sladow;
Tempest and darkness encompassed her way;
Gleming, she threaded the black thouder-billow;
And wreathed with the lightnings she rose into day.
Bravest of nations!
Victory's paim on her white forehead lay.

Grandest of nations, she stood in a halo— A glory that justice and liberty wrought! Spirit-wings dripping from arches above her, Auras of purified radiance brought. Grandest of nations! Crowned with the light of her luminous thought.

Fairest of Nations * Love's beautiful fily
Oped on her bosom with honey to drip;
Weny ones yearned to her fragrance and whiteness,
Througing, the nectar of mercy to sip,
Sairest of nations?
Deity's kiss upon forehead and lip.

Strongest of nations. with white hands she lifted Into the light the oppressed and the low; Smote with her lighting the tyrant and traitor. Witnessing God to the world in the blow.

Strongest of nation;
Angel avenging humanity's wee.

Swiftest of nations' pursuing with fleetness;
Sacred ideals thrown up from the Foul;
On and yet onward with true poet-passion,
Up where the mystical symphonies roll.
Swiftest of nations'
Low are the stars from the infinite goal.

Light of the nations! bear onward the standard, Justice embiazoned and increy empearled!

Not till the whole of the old wrong is righted,!

Let the wide folds of thy banner be furied.

Light of the nations!

Star of humanity, hope of the world.

-Augusta Cooper Bristo

Closing Song.

WHAT SHALL THE HARVEST DE. Sowing the seed by the daylight fair, Sowing the seed by the noonday glare, Sowing the seed by the noonday glare, Sowing the seed in the solemn night; Oh, what shall the harvest be? Oh, what shall the barvest be?

CHORUS. Sown in the darkness or sown in ou night, Sown in our weakness or sown in our nilght, Gathered in time or eteralty, Sure, ah, sure will the burvest be.

Sowing the seed by the wayside high, Sowing the seed on the rocks to die, Sowing the seed where the thorns will spoil; Sowing the seed in the fertile soil; Oh, what shall the harvest be :—Ciro.

Sowing the seed of a lingering pain, Sowing the seed of a maddened brain Sowing the seed of a tarnished name; Sowing the seed of elernal shame; Oh, what shall the harvest be?—Cho.

Sowing the seed with an aching heart, Sowing the seed, while the tear-drops start, Sowing in hope till the reapers come, Gladly to gather the barvest home; Oh, what shall the harvest be.—Cho.

One thing is noticeable about the present Romish filibustering that is going on in this country. The Roman hierarchy in America is supposed to have a head located at Baltimore, The Roman bierarchy Since the new Italian dignitary arrived, poor Gibbons and Baltimore are both cast altogether in the shade, and completely ignored in all the evolutions of amusing ecclesiastical faudango that is being performed.—Primitive Catholic, raidical measures for the adjustment of the errors and wrongs existing in society at large. Man is thinking to day as never before, and thought is a potent power and the great lever of human progress.

The evening subject had been given out or advertised as "The Blessings of Spirituelism." The guides showed some of the blessings which had come to those who had accepted its message. Liberation from thraildom, fear of death and a future state, for though this man had been a slave through all the past, devoting the best years of his life to the passifying of an angered deity, and neglecting a knowledge of the laws governing his own being. The blessings which covers this knowledge first fits a man to live well in this life, for then he begins to value himself, and spend his time in the development of his own faculties of mind, body, and spirit. Then that of communion with our dear ones gone before. A conscious nearness in association with them, which is so highly praised by those who enjoy this great blessing—robbing death of its sting and the grave of its terror.

On Wednesday and Thursday evenings the entertainment was what was termed "Home Life in a New England Kitchen." The stage was set to represent an old time kitchen. The fire-place, the andirons, the iron kettle, the candles burning on the mantle, the old wood cradle, the shelves of dishes, pewier, quaint old blue plates, pitchers, teapot, and all that made the kitchen complete was there. What the unparalleled antiquarian, Charlie Sullivan did not bring with him Norwich could supply, for it is noted as one of the places wherein at least ten old shops and several old homes can be found more of these antiquities than perhaps any other place in New England. Mr. Sullivan was at his best and took the part of grandpa, 91 years old. The children and grandchildren were home to celebrate the day, and were arrayed in old costumes; the ladies with high-backed combs, short-waisted and quaint old costumes, some of which were not so far from the fashionable Empire gown o all that made the stitchen complete was there. What the unparalled antiquarian, Charlle Sollivan did not bring with him Norwich could supply, for it is noted as one of the places of the still that the

Mrs. Ulrich in New Orleans.

Probably no speaker or medium was ever so beloved in their own city by all who knew them as is Mrs. Nellie A. Ulrich, of Nashville, Tenn; commencing with nothing but her mediumship and her honest, true, and loving nature, the only aupport of four very interesting children, two sons and the but has taken the frout rank as an honest medium and a true woman. Her friends have organized what is known as the "First Spiritual Church" of Nashville, Tenn, and called Mrs. Ulrich as pastor, with Charles Stockell, Esq., a wealthy and well and favorably known business man, as president, to look after the material or financial end of the Church. Mrs. Ulrich, by her long-continued labors, has worked by ond her strength, and made it absolutely necessary for the to take a rest and change of sir, and the city of New Orleans has been chosen by herself and guides as her abiding place for the next two months.

Her departure leaves a vacancy in Nashville that can not be chased away, and if the spirit that manifested itself on her leaving had materialized when Mrs. Ulrich first spoke of leaving I think it would have been too much for the little straitive, but it came too late. Her trunk is packed, ticket and sleeper secured, and before this can reach the eyes of the many friends as for prirutalism and my personal friends in New Orleans, I would say that Mrs. Ulrich is one of the best test mediums I have ever met in an experience of twenty in years with medium of all phases, and would simply say that it is a great pleasure and blessing to be numbered among the friends and acquaintances of this lady. She is in every respect worthy of confidence, esteem, and love, for every body in Nashville that knows her, really loves her.

Mrs. Ulrich will give a few private sittings while in New Orleans, and her address may be found in the Light of the charter.

Boston Letter.

Boston Letter.

Boston Letter.

News from Correspondents

Notes From Mrs. R. S. Lillie.

Standay, Flavor work began in Norwich, C., with the Spiranay 13th across the season of the cause there in a tendance. There has been an earnest edity under in a tendance. There has been an earnest edity under in a tendance. There has been an earnest edity under in a tendance. There has been an earnest edity under in a tendance. There has been an earnest edity under in a tendance. There has been an earnest edity under in a tendance. There has been an earnest edity under the defendance of the lycen. A good many of the fire growth and increase of the lycen. A good many of the growth and increase of the lycen. A good many of the growth and increase of the lycen. A good many of the growth and increase of the lycen. A good many of the growth and increase of the lycen. A good many of the growth and increase of the lycen. A good many of the growth and increase of the lycen. A good many of the growth and increase of the lycen. A good many of the growth and the green in the growth and the green green and green green green and green green and green green green green and green green green and green green

Monmouth, Kan.

Seeing the many reports in the columns of your interesting paper, allow me to send you a synopsis of the work that is being done here. Mrs. Theresa Allen who has been creating such a stirring interest in the cause of Spiritualism in Pittsburg, Kansas, with her lectures, recently has been giving us two lectures here during week-day evenings, and our people are beginning to take a deeper interest in the truths of Spiritualism than ever before. Our hall on both occasions was crowded with people eager to hear Mrs. Allen, and enjoy with us the logic that was given by her spirit guides in response to the questions propounded by the audience. Among the many given were the following:

"Explain the first chapter of St. John; 'In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God, and the Word was made Flesh.'" "Where is the Spirit world?" These and many others were answered interestingly.

A. Weldon.

Boston Letter.

The meetings in Boston are still well attended, and Spritualism seems to be constantly invading the fields of material aliam and unfeelief. Hon. Sidney Dean has just closed his engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has engagement with the Boston Spritual Temple, and it has been spoked in the strength of the spritual Temple, and it has been spoked in the strength of the spritual Temple, and the spoke on the spritual Temple, and the spoke of the spritual Temple, and the sp

Best Cure For

Gronchitis

Cough

La Crippe

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Prompt to act, sure to cure

FREE TO ALL

SIUILEMING And speech-impediments cure anty. Letters promptly answerd. Enclose 1:0 DR. L. SCH WARZ, Specialist, 182 Blue Islan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

World Outdone!

When I was travelling and introducing Davis' INFLANMATORY EXTIRPATOR I talked to large crowds of people, and used the Extirpator to demonstrate the FACTS that I told about It, and in the city of Providence, the home of one of the most popular medicines, stood on the main bridge and operated on and cured more than four thousand persons of the troubles mentioned in my circulars, and sold at retail more than eleven thousand bottles, and did not ask a single person to buy, but they bought it after witnessing the effects of it on their citizens, and I have sold the wholesale dealers alone more than one hundred and fifty thousand bottles. thousand bottles.

BUY IT. TRY IT.

AND BE CONVINCE D

Send for circulars, mailed free.

N. U. LYON. 118 Bay Street, FALL RIVER, MASS.

Female Weakness Positive Cure.

To THE EDITOR:

To THE EDITOR:

To THE EDITOR:

To THE EDITOR:

The Houseard and one fills which arise when the Houseard and one fills which arise them derail the thousand and one fills which arise from derail one of the property of the Houseard Price to the Figure 2017.

Respectfully, Da. J. B. B. F. F. F. J. J. & Green Tours (MICA). N. C. THE.

A Cure for Disease Without the Use of Medicine!

Descriptive circular with teachmoulate free information in regard to this wondering instrument, address

Central Electropoise Co.

Boom 6,
B. E. Cor. Bace and Longworth Sta., CINCINNATI. 0.

America, Columbus,

Roman Catholicism, cture delivered by J. CLEGG. WRIGHT, in brace state, in which he gives an account he civilization of America thousands of a before the time of Columbus, and claims the people of Egypt originally came from trail America; that America is the paren not the child of European and Asiatic im

Price to cents.

Price to cents.

For sale by J. Clegg Wright, P. O. Box 411

Fucinnati, O., and at this office.

MRS. PLYMOUTH B. WEEKS, PSYCHOMETRIST,

8 Hathaway St.,

Careats, Trade-marks, Design Patents, Copyrights,

And all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. Information and advice given to inventors without

> PRESS CLAIMS CO., JOHN WEDDERBURN,

Managing Attorney,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

printing this advertisement vouches for the responsi-bility and high standing of the Press Claims Company.

"Dr. Fellows is an outspoken Liberal, and the land should give him their patronage. Freethought.

Why Priests Should Wed

By JESTIN D. FELTON Price $1.00. Postage S cents. For sale at this office.

A Marvellous Discovery Free

Superitions hair removed permanently instants theorety, without pain, by Electro-Chemical Huld. In order is presented in the superiority we will in free, on receipt of otherway cross to pay pestage.

Electro-Chemical Co., 25 East 14th Street,
New York.

A NEW INVENTION

Ether Ray Apparatus Awarded the field Medal at thygiene that Halle, Germany, Par 12 12

Callogue and Frice-List
KTrike RAY APPARATUS CO
SS Clair St., Cleveland, O.

MRS. M. WAITE, TRANCE MEDIUM, 424 W. Eighth St. CINCINNATI, O.

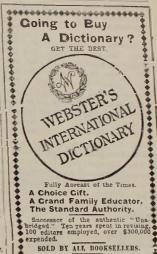

with societies as p'atform test means and dress as above.

Our Uncle and Aunt,

By AMARALA MARTIN.

Price 1:

AN EYE-OPENER for sleepy. ORTHODOX people.

Reliable Woman

Springfield, Mass., U. S. A.

d in every county to establish a Corset Par-the sale of Dr. Nichots' Celebrated Il Spring Corsets and Chaps. Wages 875 per month and expenses. We VITA-PATHY, The Best. Every Physician and every Invalid should have it. Fully Taught at the American Health College, Cin'ti, O.

COLLEGE SANITARIUM, FAIRMOUNT, CINCINNATI, OHIO.

THE 30 SYLPHS, OVERLANDS, RUDGES

SYLPH CYCLES RUN EASY. the state of the labor of propulsion.

AGENTS, DEALERS and WHEELMEN. We handle Al.L MARKS or Seco Easy Payments, with no estra charge, New high me had been allowed extended to the trade to the trade.

OUR SUPERIOR INDUCEMENTS

Bring us orders from every State, Territory and arrests to us. We see every LARGEST STOCK IN ARELICAL Catalogue and Bargain List free.

ROUSE, HAZARD & CO.,652 C ST., PEORIA, ILL

Why suffer from the bad effects of the La Grippe, Lame Back, and Liver Disease, Rheamatism, Indigestion, Dysperpila, any weakness, or other diseases when Electricity will care you kidner and Lies, or other diseases when her being the wind of weakness, or other diseases relieved in one minute, and keep you in health. Headache relieved in one minute, and keep you in health. Headache relieved in one minute to say one on trial, free.

The say one on trial, free.

The say one on trial, free.

The say one of the say of th sufficient Electricity to shock. Prec Medical advice, Write to-Give west measure, price, and full particulars. Give wast measure, price, and full particulars. Late Wanted, Address DB, JUDD, Detroit, Mich.

Led to the Light, story by Hudson Tattle.

Is Spiritualism a Superstition, Lyman C. Howe.
When Dyphtheria comes, Dr. Carl Tutte.

South Page.

Treading and Spiritualism Berthal J French.
Matter, Mind, and Life, F. H. Bernits Matterialize, E. C. Dana.
A Benediciary Saunce.
Literary Fasince.
Literary Fasince.

Spiritual Message Department—Our Free Circle—Report of Senace.

Eighth Page.
Locals and Personals.

Locals and Personals.

News from Correspondents.

Allied closely to the great family of social and economic problems is the question of arbitration. As the co-operative principle obtains the method of settling disputes will no turally partake of the same general trend of thought and this will be to adjudicate all differences by a court created for the purpose. How best to bring this about is the real bur den of the problem. Labor has its rights, capital has its rights. One can not get along very well without the other, but instead of being mutually dependent, they are mutually antagonistic. Under our customs the right to employ labor and to control the affairs incidental to labor outputs, must inhere in the employer, and he should have protection in this right. On the other hand the right to sell his labor in the highest market bid for it and to receive a just compensation for his toil rests with the employee, and he should be protected in his right. These are simple fundamental principles and they admit of no controversy. But in their application the results effected are in the great majority of instances a war with these principles. Instead of a machine which should divide the wheat and chaff, our industrial system grinds them together in inextricable confusion. Strikeslesse the pent-up volcano on one side and lockouts on the other side. They cure in the same sense that a mustard poultice cures dyspepsla. Now, this is all in direct antagonism with the principles at the base of true industry and wealth-getting.

The feature of making arbitration compulsory is one of the plans set forth to mitigate this evil. Of course, the idea of making arbitration arbitrary is a paradox, but we are con tinually arbitrating our differences in the courts, which are pitrary or final in their decisions. Rabbi Solomon Schindler has a most valuable essay on compulsory arbitration in the nary Arcna, in which he says on this point: "Now, why should not the same apply to questions that arise between a corporation, which represents one party in the strife, and a labor union, which represents the other? Why should they be allowed to destroy each other, either by starvation or gun-powder? or why should the State be called upon to protect either of the two contestants BEFORE, the matter has been settled in a court and it has been proven that the one side is right and the oth r wrong? That we have no courts instituted for such purposes, does not prove that they should not exist. They must be created. A new time requires new methods." The fact that our complex affairs have revolution-ized the sphere of the wage earner, and have thrown capital into myriads of channels antagonistic to each other does as yet appear to have urged the necessity for new methods in dealing with the frictions constantly arising. To compel the employee and the employer to submit their wage and econo mical differences to a proper court is no more at variance with justice than the submission of any civil dispute to its proper tribunal for adjustment. The wastes of strikes and lockouts are enormous, and it is not saying too much to assert that the of the great strikes of 1892 are a foul blotch on the escutchion of this country, and go far towards substantiating the charge that the Malthusian theory of social and industrial economics is false and in conflict with every principle of human progress. To allow a spectacle like the Homstead lockout to occur admits of no more reason than to close our courts and let every Tom, Dick, and Harry who feel like it, claw and hammer each other unmolested, and settle their feuds as best

Let us have a National Court of Arbitration.

may not be the "High Priestess" of Theosphy, taking the place of Madam Blavatsky. She at least is its leading ex-ponent. Her exposition of that system has most interest, for it is a question that a great many desire to be answered, what A clear, concise, understandable desi-Theosophy really is. nition has never been given, and we regret to say that Mrs Besant in a two hours' lecture, which reached from the founda tion of things to their zenith, gives no clear insight.

By inference it is understood that the truth of all systems By inference it is understood that the truth of all systems is taken in a composite and labeled Theosophy. Not the truth exactly, but what the Theosophist regards as truth. Hence it would be impossible that the system should not in the main be praiseworthy. In fact, it is primarily identical with Spiritualism. Madam Blavatsky set out as a Spiritualist with Spiritualism. Madam Blavateky set out as a Spiritualist and medium, and carried into her exposition the salient features of that philosophy. Her relations with India filled in what has become most important features. All that is true in Theosophy is Spiritualism, and for that, of course, we have no disparagement. It is when Theosophy leaves the path of science and substitutes conjecture, theory, and dreams that we criticize. Mrs. Besant acknowledges this departure when she carse. "Nature does not obey the mendates of related?" She anys; "Nature does not obey the mandates of science." She feels that in certain reaches of thought their is no solid ground,

THE LIGHT OF TRUTHS

Comments of the same of dollars are already invested and millions more ready to be invested by citizens of the United States in the timber, ore, canadian industries might be immeasurably enhanced if our government was recognized as the political power of the country. The stagnation of business is due to the uncertainties of the political situation. All that Lower Canada requires is a leader, and a peaceful revolution can be effected. Europe does not care for Canadian securities. The Canadian railway securities are dull in European markets, and must be markets. marketed in the United States. The question of emigration is another serious matter with which the Canadian people have to deal. All hopes of a separate State or Empire are being shattered by the spectacle of the swarms of people who are leaving the country. "Over one-third of the race," and boing nunsually conscientious, revolted against the externech-Canadian) says Mr. Edward Farrar, "is now in the United States, and 50 000 French-Canadians go there every Hefe Red called to expose the iniquities met on every hand, These people are tired of the English flag and are looking to this country for relief. It is a big subject, but we are inclined to the belief that the Cleveland administration and the Catholics have made life miserable for him, will take it up and push it to a favorable settlement. We don't need Canada so bad as Canada needs us. The matter of annexation is a political one in Ontario and an economic one in Quebec. The "upper" people want power, the "lower" people want bread. There is more superstition in the latter Province owing to the ascendency of the Catholic priesthood, and it is a notable fact that the priests to a man oppose annexation. They realize that they will exchange places with the masses in just the proportion that the liberal laws of this country are adopted, hence they repress as disloyal to the throne the uprising sentiment, and warn their subjects against the danger of a political union with the United States. While the people are groaning under their burdens the priests live in affluence and are the real power of the country. More light and wisdom to guide these people out of their darkness is imperative, but annexation must come as the first move in this direction.

THE PROMISE OF HOPE.

Oblivion devours the dross of the world and leaves only the great and shining truths, which once revealed are never forgotten. All that mankind has conquered from nature remains conquered forever. No inquisition can suppress it no irruption of savage hordes blot it out.

Creeds, dogmas, and superstitions shall pass away; all the paraphernalia by which mock legislators seek to force men to be moral shall fade; the ephemeral world grows old and perishes, but the least thought of truth lives forever. It is endowed with re-productive power, and as each age claims it, it gives birth to truths for that age, and thus grows continually, extending its influence broader and broader, and mankind in remote generations drink at its fountain of clear waters pronouncing the name of its author, calling him blessed. There is need of unthing action. Each reform pre-sup-poses and calls for a greater. The desires of humanity are it shall be to supervise the work in their respective States the

Is not reform needed? Shall we be content? There is no content. As long as a slave sends up a petition to sympa thizing beaven; as long 'as the chains of despotism canket abs of the down-trodden masses; as long as ignorance and attendant crimes encompass us, so long will the world ost in darkness, cry loudly, wildly from its bed of torture

'Light! more light! Tell us not of the past. I respect it for its truths, but the world's genii have elevated us far, far above the bravest houghts of our forefathers. We have schualized their wildest ideal. Our own is for the future. Men, one and all, feel, deeply eel, that great wrongs are to be righted, great errors to vercome, and anxiously wait the blast of the trumpet their beader shall send down the gale. They expect a higher purer morality. They feel that the age of thought is in store, dimly seen through the long vista of events by the Hebrew seers and prophets of past ages shadowed forth in the constitution of mind—an age of thought whose brilliant morning lights up the mental world by its rapid coming.

The age of thought full of promise! Ignorance shall vanish, and with it its viper-brood—crime, error, evil, misery and suffering. A thousand or a million years may intervene and she forstalls the censure of science by deposing its authority. Yet this sentence reveals a want of accuracy of and the whole earth partake of it in harmony.

surfeit of grandiloquent talk about the new-found tolerance of the Roman Church. The Pope was in love with American an earthly loom they do not know it."

justitutions, and was delighted to establish the Church where centuries ago. Give her the power, and to morrow every one who dissented from her dogmas would feel the tortures of the rack or feed the flames.

Prof. George P. Rudolph was educated a Catholic priest, He fe'st called to expose the iniquities met on every hand, from the holy father to the nun behind the veil, vowed to seclusion and chastity. He has been lecturing on the subject,

On the evening of January 26th, he attempted to speak in the opera-house at Lafayette under the auspices of the American Protective Association. The house was crowded, and he had scarcely begun when a horde of ruffiaus rushed on the stage, swept his friends over the footlights and laid him prostrate with a club. He was felled, but drew a revolver and began aring after he had been shot. About this the wildest excitement prevailed, and many were injured in the struggle to get out of the house, though, strange to say, none seriously. After the police had restored order Rudolph attempted to go on with his speech, but was silenced by the uproar. Two thousand people gathered on the outside and threatened to mob him as he came out but the police and his friends protected him until he could enter a carriage and be driven away. That is the free speech and a foretaste of the times on which we are drifting.

Spiritualists have written us that we were unnecessary alarmists and the danger not as great as we presented it. February 4th issue of LIGHT OF TRUTH than we anticipated, and have mailed every available copy that was to be had

FARMERS AND THE ROADS.

If Inez Huntington Agnew, who contributed an able ar ticle on "Wagon Roads" in our last issue will read carefully our former editorials on this subject, she will conclude that this paper does not take the side of any power against the farmer in the necessity for improved highways. "Poor roads" is the worst snag in the farmer's way, and it is to his interest more than to any other class that the obstruction should be removed. There is enough, or nearly enough, money wasted yearly by the farmers in the crude system of "working it out on the road" to put their roads into decent shape if there was some practical method employed to that end. For this reason we advocate the establishment of a Bureau of Roads in each State with competent engineers, whose duty The coming of Mrs. Besant has been an event in intellectual circles, and she has received in this city as well as others she has visited marked attention from the press. She may or may not be the "High Priestess" of Theosphy, taking the der the jurisdiction of the Interior Department

Good roads are as essential to the commercial operation of the city as to the interests of the farmers, and while the her listeners. Her main control is an Indian who claims to cities will be brought into closer and more convenient relations by them, the agricultural districts will be immeasurably enhanced in their character as well as their value. There can ot be any extra burden laid on the farmer by a procedure of this nature. This is no local matter; it is of national expedience and the great mass of educators and far-seeing public men are turning their energies upon it. Neither is it a question of day. the future, and there can be no doubt as to the future of the farmer nor a relief from the excessive burden he is now bearing, provided a comprehensive position is taken now on the urgent need of better roads. This country might well copy little Switzerland in this respect. There the government makes the roads, and a mud road is unknown. Trained men under the direction of the government build their roads and supervise their maintenance. Where is there such a thing in this country? And we are expending millions annually in bolstering up decaying and useless systems, while the natural arteries of our internal national organism remain clogged up.

Cardinal Antonelli says: "The catechism alone is essential for the education of the people."

LENT is upon us, and the usual dieting program has been issued by the Catholic Hiearchy to its subordinates. The daily press as usual publishes these free of charge. Whether for policy sake or because the absurdity of such dieting pro-cess has not yet dawned upon their editorial vision must be inferred. Fact is that the same nauseating mental diet dished up to intelligent American readers year after year without stint, and matters of importance to the American people as a nation is omitted for fear of offending Catholic readers— matters undermining the liberty of this country by these very Lent-observing pietists. But probably we are wrong—so far as one rule is concerned. It is Rule No. 7. It reads: "The evening collation aught not to exceed the fourth part of an ordinary d'uner, or at most eight ounces." Phew; that permits the average man in time of Lient to pack away two pounds for dinner? What gourmands these Catholics must be outside of Lent? Yet we find fault with this rule. Not because it is published during Lent, but because it is not a

RABBI HAHM, of Cleveland, in a recent lecture, seeks to free the Jews of responsibility for the death of Jesus of Nazareth. There is hardly any need for the Jews of to-day to worry about that. The majority of so-called Christians (or those who are allied to Christianity in some way) doubt the such a character ever existed, and consequently harbor no & feeling towards the Jews on this account. The rational Christian, who accepts the character of Jesus as a moral guide or an exemplar is apt to follow the precepts involved and rise above such narrow prejudice, while those who can not do this are not Christians, but bigotted ignoramuses whose opinion is not worth noticing-either by Jew or

WE HAD a larger number of requests for extra copies of But a number of orders have come in since which we can not fill, and thus we must beg our friends to absolve us from the folly of being so shortsighted in not knowing better how appreciate a good thing when we had it. Next time we shall print a larger edition, which will be very soon.

"WHAT IS SPIRITUALISM?" This tract, which is a wonderful condensation, has perhaps made a more marked impression than anything published in many years. It is being re-published in England for wide distribution.

SPIRIT WAR-PAINT.

To the Editor of the Light or TRUTH

As mysteries never cease I thought a short sketch of a demonstration we have here would not be out of order with your readers, and perhaps some of the wise ones would be mediums that I have ever met. There is great physical power for trumpet and materialization. She also lecture and improvises grandly, her poems touching the hearts

The latest wonder that she has produced is that a short time since, while at work, her hand and arm became covered with a red substance like analine, which would rub off on a handkerchief and color it a deep red. This substance is a tensely bitter; it would make its appearance several times A few days ago as she sat reading her paper it came of Mrs. Johnson said it seemed to come from her tongue. Ten we had a seance, and the Indian pointed to he cheeks, nose, and chin, and said he would make an Indian of her; also said he would make it all over her person. It has the appearance of coming out of the pores of the skin, m does not. So fast as one kind of phenomenon is, as be wise ones claim, exploded, another, more marvelous, com-DR. P. T. JOHNSON.

Yours, Battle Creek, Mich.

Mike: Hello, Pat, I hear ye'r an A. P. A.? Pat: Au' [sure I'm that-don't it shtand for American Pope Association !

News from C

Notes From

From 1970 to 1970 Notes From meeting at this place, tas it day was one of the inext, it viously, one of the units. Without of the control of occasions.

Local talen musicians wer The recitation is too well kn Norwich socie etc., with the She is ever r Spaulding a part, and did on both ew pisno by his lent a helpit the last ever cultivation quality. M Mr. Lill in several s myself had is some whe to sing sure but th While s in Norwick house is it seems qui'

Probab their own rich, of N mediumsh support o daughters but has ta but has ta woman.
"First Sp Ulrich as well and f after the Mrs. I
yond her to take a has been for the n
Her d
be filled,
wot be ch

many fri
To th
New Orl
test med
nine yee say that among l every re
every be Mrs.
Orleans
TRUTH

The itualist alism his ent platfor theme there. localit chang know bearts itual p His et thoug

LOCALS AND PERSONALS.

swenty-five attendants. He is a man of force and weight in community. Dr. Burroughs, a magnetic bealer of extraosmoday evening, not an available space being left unoccupied is an ponomoced the largest house of the season. Her and the state of the season. Her and the state of the season. Her and the state of the season of the subject forthwith, and at machine present that the time had come when all who desired to be regarded that the time had come when all who desired to be regarded that the time had come when all who desired to be regarded that the time had come when all who desired to be regarded that the time had come when all who desired to be regarded that the time had come when all who desired to be regarded that the time had come when all who desired to be regarded that the time had come when all who desired to be regarded that the time had come when all who desired to be regarded that the time had come when all who desired to be regarded that the time had come of the principles that the time had come when all who desired to be regarded that the time had come of the government, and the word of the propose not possible to be regarded to the principles that the time and path the principles that the time had come to this nation, and in which all tendency of the second of the possible that the time had come of the principles that the time had come of the principles that the time had to the principles that the time had come of the principles that the time had to be the had the community of the principles that the time had to be the had the community of the principles that the time had to be the had the community of the principles that the time had to be the had to be the had to be the had to be the had tone to the had to get the had to be the had to be the had to be th

NEWS FROM CORRESPONDENTS. Continued. power that she may make serfs of the people, the history of Roman Catholicism to educate its

Maule's See

The state of the s at any time under known spirit was a fact capable of demonstration below the spiritual and the right of the control and the spiritual laws. With these facts of the control and the spiritual laws. With these facts of the control and the spiritual laws. With these facts of the control and the spiritual laws. With these facts of the control however, prefately in the spiritual spiritual cen. Sold by Grocers everywhere. W. BAKER & CO., Dorohester, Mass.

Sunday, the first day of the week and the first day of the year was celebrated by the First Spiritual Society of Portand with a short conference meeting at 11 o'clock, a. m. After that a new hoard of officers were elected to serve for the coming year—one president, three vice-presidents, a recording secretary and treasurer, with corresponding secretary, and secretary. At 7.45 p. m. an eloquent lecture was delivered by the inspirational speaker, S. B. Hendee, his subject being "The Old and the New Year." It was a very vivide picture of the wrongs enacted by the old world, especially that of the Russian Empire in driving the Jews from their mixted in many places with a strong warning to the government of the United States to take decided action in the lawsof protection to health and welfare of our own people.

The lecturer contrasted the old and new gospels of religious truth, portraying some of the beauties of our new and two hundred, was very attentive during the bour of delivery. After the lecture a short time was devoted to giving tests.

The society holds a meeting every Sunday morning and evening, and would be glad to correspond with a sumber of delivery, and would be glad to correspond with a sumber of our meeting, and would be glad to correspond with a sumber of the best test-mediums, giving their special phases of mediums by and charges per mouth. Communications from any good test-medium, direct to the president of the Pirst Spiritual Society of Portland, Oregon will meet with prompt attention. With much pleasure and great promptness have we continue so long as it voices the true light.

Dayton, O.

wonder Log/Gellow said:
mony prevails with us at present, and many are finding the way to heaven by a new route, and hope it renewed by every to wave not heaven by a new route, and hope it renewed by every to heaven by a new route, and hope it renewed by every the waven by a new route, and hope it renewed by every the feat that they receive from the spirit side of human life.

Faternally yours, J. W. D.W.NIS.

New Orleans.

New Orleans and fire the sincere wishes of her field at Cresute City.

The significant of the sincere wishes of her friends at Cresute City.

Brother Ladd's engagement also terminated last Sunday night, I he people of New Orleans are highly pleased with his teletores. He will still remain in the city with his friends, as he is under treatment of Dr. Reason.

There was a reception given at the house of the vice president of the association in honor of Mr. Webster St. Ceran, as wine, Fager St.

An onderful physical medium.

A scance was held, the world with the step the sincere was held, the sound of the control of the spiritual world for such a place.

The season of the proper of the control of the spiritual of the spiritual world for such a place.

The step the size of the spiritual world for such a place.

Mr. G. V. Cordingly, will be with us during the mouth of february. Mr. Cordingly is a physical and poetical medium.

The step the such that the such proper such as the such proper such

For the second time since the civil war a Democrat President is to be inaugurated at Washington. This inauguration, the second for President Clevelano, will be the greated event in the history of Democracy. The fishtmer & Obio Southwestern Railroad offers an unexcelled server, through limited buffet, vestibuled trains with Pulman sleeping-cars from Cincinnati to Washington. No railroad better equipped to transport large bodies with dispatch, said, and comfort. Its experience and success in former guration ceremonies, the Knights Templar Conclave, C. R. Riccampment, and similar gatherings, is a guarantee in the Hitmore & Ohio is the shortest reute to Washington from all points east and west, crosses the crest of the leghanies amid the most pictures que scene y of America, and on the stern slope winds its a along the historic value of the Potomac.

on the eastern slope winds its any along the mission the Potomac.

Here is not its less will be sold to Washington more a one first-class limited fare for the round trip.

By 38th to March 31, inclusive, good returning until March 14, from all points weat of Parkersburg.

For map and time tables, rates of fare, and guide to washington call upon any agent of the company, or address.

P. McCarty, G. F. A. Creinnatt, O.

Fordham is ipal governme had been soug they constitut were great, at ment. When The previous for the office overshadowe ors and adon of his posit hall for an c "I don't abiding tow

> Before Canning. of such in office had was prefer an able las stolen, ga use and n the farm, mitted w Acles commun

> > at the ba moment's pays the been re and ins for con show t ning w > robes billiar brain. surre ing t foreb his fe bene. He b mot v claim befor score calle Was the amo gard cons able uali tion roo tive ang

pat Ro

of lav he ter lie

ur