EDITORIAL COMMENTS -- "THE ATLANTEAN CONCEPT"

* Atlantis! Mysterious continent that sank eons ago, yet remains alive in our inner memories, our folk-lore and legends and in our most recent pre-history archeological discoveries. Theories from our ancient writers are one thing, but modern technical and scientific explorations are something more concrete that we can research.

* Maxine Asher, Director, Ancient Mediterranean Research Association, has been the most respected pioneer in this field of 'pre-history', and her search for the Lost Continent in Cadiz, Spain, was not in vain. Many new and startling theories were derived from this expedition, and now she is planning a new one in Egypt! There are rumored remains of the Old Civilization right here in Florida, and we hope to research and investigate all possibilities that could lead to the validation of these claims.

* We have other portraits of the Old Atlantis and they come to us through psychic means, such as the brilliant readings of Edgar Cayce, who predicted the rising of the Atlantean Temple off the coast of Florida -- which did emerge! He also told of the use of all the mental faculties, telepathy, levitation, psychic healing and learning, as well as wondrous sights and 'flights' of craft that in all ways resemble our modern day 'UFO'!

* These are the areas of research that our "New Atlanteans" are probing. We hope to bring reality out of Myth, we hope to scientifically prove the existence of such phenomenon that Edgar Cayce described, and we intend to do this using modern technical means.

* In this issue we present two new articles by two well known authors on the subject of pre-Genesis civilizations. Are they right - or wrong? No one will ever know unless we research all possibilities, all theories, from all sources available. We welcome reader participation, tell us what you feel and think and work along with us.

* In our local area we are holding open public meetings and discussion groups, setting up various committees and outfitting UFO investigation teams. There is a great deal of interest here, and we have met many capable people who are working already in these fields. With the combined efforts of the many experts in specialized fields, we will strive to increase our knowledge of what is now the UNexplained, UNexplored and UNknown.

* We stress mutual cooperation between various organizations, and if we can be of any help to others who are individual researchers, or investigators, please contact us.

* The "New Atlantean" concept is one that embraces many fields and concerns many subjects. We hope to enlighten and educate the public as to what really may have occurred in the ages past. Who knows what wonders are still concealed beneath the seas that cover a good portion of our Earth? Who has not wondered 'where we came from' or even 'where are we going'? We all seek in our own way ---- and the "New Atlantean" way is our way!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hi! A bit of news from our latest meeting. The Society of the Occult Studies, UPSOA's public group, witnessed a startling demonstration at their last public meeting on 28 September, 1974. Volunteers situated themselves before black and ultra violet lamps of different frequencies. With room lights out the audience began to observe the 'melting' and shifting of faces. These represent previous incarnations. Particularly astounding was the fact that most members of the audience saw the same things. That, if the volunteer's face seemed to melt into that of an old lady, most present observed it. The light with the shorter wavelengths did not work as well. The new, very inexpensive blacklite bulbs work very well. These fit a regular socket and cost about a dollar. CAUTION, they get very hot.

Dear Joan: Thank you for the new publication and we hope that it will reach a great number of people. I was particularly interested in the information you had on Dr. Dean and his Medipsychiatric association. I find that that particular association interests me very much. I have done some work and continue to do work with Dr. Dean. I am hoping that his organization gets "off the ground" because we do need more professional people; people with some background in the various disciplines within the fold of the parapsychology movement. We are continuing our test situation as far as the psychic phenomenon is concerned and at this point, we have a number of psychics accredited and have completed their testing...

Dear Joan: I am very impressed with "The New Atlantean Journal". I was never disappointed by "Spectrum", but this new issue is extraordinarily stimulating. I especially liked TAL's "Wisdom" under Pyramid Power and Occult Knowledge and your editorial page. My greatest interest, however, is the piece by Hans Lauritzen on the subject of 'contactees'. The conditions he relates parallel closely ones experienced by my husband...

Sincerely, Christine Morton
Attleboro Falls, Ma. 02763

Dear Christine: I thank you for your kind comments on our Journal, and for relating to me the experiences that happened to your husband. I will print his story for all to see and to know. And, I can't thank you enough for the courage it took to tell it...JOC...

SASQUATCH HUMAN ?

Strands of hair found in association with huge man-like footprints in a remote area near Mt. St. Helens have been identified as human, the director of the American Yeti Expedition disclosed yesterday. Robert Morgan, leader of a group of scientists and trackers searching this summer for the legendary Sasquatch or Bigfoot, said the hair was found about a month ago and analysis has just been completed.

"It's something we're very excited about," Morgan said yesterday from his base camp in the town of Cougar... Morgan said two of his trackers were on a trail in a densely forested area next to wilderness. They rounded a hillside and came upon a small stream that had cut a notch in the hill. As they started to cross the creek, they noticed an "extremely fresh" scuff mark on a moss-covered rock. The hair samples were taken from the rock. Searchers two days later concluded that something apparently heard the trackers coming. It went up the stream about 20 yards, then circled to the left above the trackers. Morgan said the hair was examined by a micro-biologist in Portland named Mary Joe Florey. She concluded it was human hair from the lower extremities, probably an ankle or leg. "If it was a Bigfoot, then it opens up many new doors," Morgan said. It could suggest a mutation in a heretofore unknown human evolutionary line. Analysis of the hair will continue, he said, and comparisons will be made with human hair he recovered from a fence two years ago. At that time, the hair and huge man-like tracks were found in an area where a deer and cattle had been killed by something very large. The heads of the animals had been chewed off and ripped. Morgan also has an unidentified hair sample from another expedition...

SKUNK APE SCREAMS AGAIN!

A NOISE, A SHAPE, 6 SHOTS, a SCREAM -- Cary Kanter... like others in Central and South Florida... says he saw a creature that resembled what other reputed witnesses call the Skunk Ape... "It smelled like it had taken a bath in rotten eggs," he is reported to have said. "It made my eyes water and my nose fill up." Kanter, 24, was at his post at the unfinished Wellington housing development off Southern Boulevard, west of US 441 early Tuesday, sitting in a Jeep and watching over the development in his job as a Burns security guard. He reportedly saw something move in some bushes, and when he saw it move again, trained his Jeep lights on the spot. He got out of the Jeep and ordered what now appeared to be a dark form to tell what it was doing there. The hulking form moved toward him, and he pulled out his service revolver and told it to stop, but it kept coming, he told Palm Beach County Sheriff's deputies later.

"It was huge, about 7 feet tall, was real hairy and was either hunched over or had no neck at all," he reportedly said, and also described its awful odor...he fired all six rounds... "it grabbed his chest and ran like you can't believe - like a track star." Deputies came, searched, and found nothing... (Source: Palm Beach Post - Sept. 26, 1974)

"Study confirms existence of telepathy" — (New York Times Service) by Boyce Rensberger. Scientists at the Stanford Research Institute who conducted experiments with a number of persons, including Uri Geller, the magician and purported psychic, report that Geller and probably most people, have an ability to send and receive information by some "as yet unidentified perceptual modality." Despite all the publicity that has been given Geller's contention that he has the ability to bend metal or move objects by mental power alone, the researchers said in the generally conservative journal, 'Nature', that they were unable to confirm the authenticity of such feats under conditions that eliminated the possibility of deception. Although several professional magicians have duplicated many of Geller's feats by using sleight-of-hand techniques, the S.R.I. scientists said in a telephone interview that their current report is based on experiments in which trickery would seem to be unlikely ... "Lost Boy, 11, Found Dead 4 Miles From Waterhole"- Rupert, Idaho - An 11 year old boy, lost in the rattlesnake-infested desert of southern Idaho for 11 days, died only 4 miles from a waterhole in an area well-traveled by many people who had searched for him. Jeff Hodgson became separated from a wilderness survival study group June 10. His body was found yesterday by a man who told police he developed a picture in his mind of the place where Jeff was... The sheriff said the man who found Jeff's body, Gerald A. Sturm of Blackfoot, said he was listening to news accounts of the search on radio and television when "he developed a picture of the area in his mind."... "Two Die In Explosion Of 'Dream' Invention" - Rockford, Ill. - An age-old dream killed two Rockford men when a "perpetual motion" machine they were working on exploded. Mark N. Richardson, 25, was killed instantly by a piece of metal that struck him in the head. John Billstrom, 38, died of head injuries in a hospital. The accident occurred Thursday in a machine shop belonging to Billstrom's father. Edwin Billstrom said he had heard an electric motor start and shortly after there had been a terrific vibration and a series of crashes. Richardson's sister, Christine, said her brother had quit his job as a draftsman about six months ago to devote all his time to perfecting the perpetual motion device. "He has been working on it for six months," she said. "The idea was conceived sometime before that. The idea was to replace fuel with perpetual motion. Last night he told me he knew it had to be done," he told me it had too much power at this point..." "There are no diagrams of the machine," Miss Richardson said. (Source: L.A. ABOMINABLE FOOTPRINTS ON FILM- Hiroshima - A team of Japanese climbers yesterday claimed to have photographed the footprints of the Yeti - the Abominable Snowman. A spokesman for the Hiroshima University team said one of its members spotted the prints January 6th, on a snowy peak of an unnamed slope in Nepal's Annapurna range. The footprints, which the spokesman said were later photographed, showed four large toes, about eight inches by six inches... (San Fransisco Chronicle - 1/26/74)

SNOWPERSON IS BACK AGAIN - Katmandu, Nepal. The head of a Japanese expedition searching for the legendary Abominable Snowman, said today his team has photographed footprints of a monkey-like beast at an elevation of 15,000 feet in the Himalayas... (San Fransisco Chronicle- 3/23/74)

YETI TALE NOT OVER: Nepalese find tracks. Katmandu - Nepalese police have found clear hand and footprints of a creature that attacked a 19 year old shepherdess in a remote Himalayan area, according to a report from the official Nepal news agency. The unidentified girl said she was attacked by a Yeti - which killed five yaks in her herd a week ago near the village of Pherich near the foot of Mt. Everest. The girl said the Yeti knocked her unconscious and killed the yaks by twisting their horns around their necks. The news agency said Thursday the hanimal's handprints, which the girl preserved by covering them with boulders until police could arrive to verify her story, were 10.5 inches long and 4 inches wide. Its footprints were 12.5 by 4.5 inches. The girl said the creature was covered by thick black hair on the lower part of its body and brown hair above the waist.

AN ARARAT BAN - Ankara - The Turkish government yesterday banned tourists from climbing Mt. Ararat, Biblical resting place of the Ark - apparntly for security reasons. (S.F. Chronicle - 4/23/74)

PUTRID SMELLS - Rome, Italy - During mid-July a yellowish substance appeared along the coast of Italy, a swath about 4 miles wide and 62 miles long. The material gave off a putrid smell of dead fish, and dried almost immediately on exposure to the air, leaving a sensation of tingling dryness on the skin. An analysis showed the substance was formed by billions of microscopic single celled algae, which have not yet been classified. Nor does anyone know why or how they came about.

THERE'S SOMETHING ROTTEN IN ARKANSAS - Crooked Creek, Ark. - Fumes akin to the smell of rotten eggs have residents of this tiny Ozark town holding their noses, and local, state and federal health officials scratching their heads... Mr. and Mrs. R. Ruble were outside their home about two years ago when they smelled the fumes for the first time... subsequent attacks were worse and they are reported to be continuing. In the months to follow, others said they began to complain of fumes which caused rashes on the face, neck and arms, glandular swelling, dizzyness, burning and watering eyes and noses, sneezing fits and dehydration. Such reports came from persons living as far as a mile away from the rural community south of Harrison. Thousands of tax dollars have been spent by the state health department, the state department of pollution control and the US Public Health Service trying to find any evidence of air pollution. So far, they have not found any pollutants. "There's something wrong someplace," Boone County Judge James Eoff said. "If it was one family upset, we could day it was a nervous condition - but the whole community?" (Milwaukee Sentinel- 9/2/74)

UP FROM THE DEEP! - Clearwater, Fla. - A visitor to Clearwater from Canada began boiling two mollusks and found that each contained gold crosses about three-quarters of an inch long. The marine animals apparently picked them up while they were feeding. (St. Petersburg Times - 5/5/74)

"THE CASE OF THE GALLOPING BIGMOUTH" or "MR. A. RUMORMONGER IS ALIVE AND WELL!"

by Joan O'Connell

Never before in UFO 'history' have so many 'rumors' been leaked to so many researchers! Each one thinking that THEY are the only one that has been 'told'. Some of these FUD (Fooled Unidentified Others) have really gone out on that proverbial limb and have been predicting everything from a mass landing of the 'saucers' on earth, to the release of 'secret' information that is expected to change the world overnight. Ala the 'frozen' bodies just waiting to be 'discovered' and that the powers that be will HAVE to tell all -- not just in the nebulous future -- but on (not about) December 18th! Of course, the 'body' rumor was IMMEDIATELY squelched by the U.S. Air Force, which tends to leave a little egg on some faces. Which, I fear, is just what was intended by those same 'leakers' who so gleefully ran around the research field sowing such 'wild oats'.

Having been in this field for many a year, I have seen this same type of situation several times, and the aftermath of this 'news' is that the credibility of the UFO researcher goes down to BELOW the Zilch category, the whole subject of UFOlogy is now treated with 'justified' hilarity, and we, the late lamented investigators, are all branded as sensational seeking lousy reporters who cannot discern a 'rumor' from a 'fact!'

If one examines the 'rumors' alone they ALL add up to a startling Grand Pronouncement that we are NOT alone, that certain various EXTRATERRESTRIALS DO exist and that the Public MUST be told about them! OK! SO TELL US! Don't dangle rumors', inuendos, in front of our noses expecting us to follow blindly (and with blinkers on) anything and everything that has been 'leaked'.

IF ALL THIS IS TRUE, A FACT, AND REAL, then these 'leakers' are grossly UNDER estimating the American Public. What makes them feel that we, the public, cannot take the news that there are others who live and exist perhaps in our own Galaxy, or in other ones? It is not the FACT that is so startling to me, what IS startling is the way in which it was presented to me. I don't need to read about it in UFO publications, or tabloids. (which only reach a limited segment of the reading public). I don't need to read about it in a hardcover overpriced book that I cannot afford to buy. I also don't need to read about it from a single researcher, no matter how well known that person could be.

The whole problem is essentially one of Public Relations. Let the public be informed by accredited scientists, informed astronomers and professionals in their related fields. Let us see this news on the front page of our newspapers, on the six o'clock TV news-cast. Let us hear it from respected and known officials -- not from the lady down the street, who has a friend who gets this UFO zine from her uncle in Podunk. Give it to us straight and tell it like it is!

Maybe NOW is NOT the right time. Witness the panic that erupted when several radio stations were swamped with calls when they broadcast re-runs of Welles' War of the Worlds on Halloween night! Panic set in, etc. SO -- what is needed is NOT a fiction setting, but one of truthfulness and honesty, open discussion and public forum-like airing of the issues involved. A properly informed public will NOT panic. The key word is properly.

UFOLOGY: A PLEA
by Dr. M.K. Jessup

UFOLOGY is the study of flying saucers, or Unidentified Flying Objects. This term was first applied to the saucers by the U.S. Air Force and was then quickly abridged to UFO by the customary style of alphabetical soup originating in Washington, D. C.

To most of the students of UFOLOGY the subject long remained only a listing of sightings with a minimum of analysis. Then it began to be contaminated with the antics of hoaxers and misguided zealots. Finally it has degenerated, in many instances, into a hodge-podge of subjective opinions, imaginary experiences and religious hallucinations which are not only unverifiable but often ludicrous.

The general public is totally unaware of the real scope of UFOLOGY. Even full time devotees seldom sense that the study of flying saucers, if pursued to any logical level or conclusion, soon turns out to be a study of life. It parallels the study of mankind in past, present and future - in science, religion, and philosophy. The subject of UFOLOGY is as broad, as deep and as long (especially in terms of time) as the study of humanity itself. Also, it is just as little understood, either in substance, concept or application.

To boil it all down: We know that there are Flying saucers or UFOs - and that's about all we do know about them with any degree of certainty. To be sure, we know there are many types and that they come and go with bewildering gyrations and a variety of colors, but these defy classification, much less analysis. We also know that they have been here for thousands of years, which makes it difficult for the Russians or own Air Force to claim parenthood for them. We know that they are prominent in Biblical history, as instanced by the wheel of Ezekiel.

We believe that they are intelligently controlled either by pilots, or that they are actually intelligent entities of a nature completely beyond our ken. But - we don't KNOW. We don't know where they originate. We don't know their purpose, or whether they have any purpose. But, whatever may be the deplorable state of our knowledge about the UFO, we certainly know something about the state of UFOLOGY -- and how!

This embryonic science is as full of cults, feuds and dogmas as a dog is of fleas! There are probably more opinions about the nature and purpose of the UFO than there are UFOlogers. The sky visitors are believed to come from Russia, the U.S. Air Force, open space, the Moon, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Alpha Centauri, the outer Galaxy, distant galaxies millions of light years away, from the fourth dimension, from etheric space, from the fifth dimension, from the second, three or four or five or six or seventh or other spheres of intelligence and existence, from etheric planets, an invisible planet behind the Moon, the Spirit World, and perhaps even from a galactic Shangri-la!

The UFOs are believed to be operated by Inate intelligence, Russians, U.S. pilots, Martians, Venusians, Jovians, Saturnians, remote control, automatic control, galactic space controls, solar system police, and so on.

They are believed to be powered by rockets, atomic jets, electromagnetic drives, anti-gravity, levitation, thoughtcontrol, 4th dimensional vibrations, photo ejection, atomic reactance, etc. They are believed to have the purpose of exploring the Earth, mapping the Earth, studying humanity, cleaning the atmosphere of atomic radiation, transporting water and/or minerals to other planets, kidnapping humans for specimens of study, etc.

The UFOs are also supposed to be space animals, discannate entities, mother ships, scout ships, balls of intelligent fire, pure energy, super-heavy matter, stray vibrations, and thought forms of higher entities. They are said to be representatives of God, the Gods, an Elder race, Christ, et alia. We are in communication with UFOs by infra-red light beams, electronically modulated and detected by radio, flashlight, direct voice, cabalistic footprints, telepathy, spiritual mediumship, revelations of esoteric and occult masters, and by flickering electric lights!

THEY are guardians, angels, brothers, elders, The Boys Upstairs, guides, Gods and representatives of an interminate number of super-circumbient spheres of intelligence. THEY are vicious, kindly, vengeful, benevolent, destructive, protective, God-like, animal-like, humanoid, non-human, pygmies, giants, religious, Pagan and what have you! THEY land, THEY don't land. They contact a few obscure characters. They don't contact anyone. They have been here thousands of years. They were not here before 1947.

If you are skeptical about their existence and antics, you are likely to be called a lot of dirty names, the least of which is assinine or anti-social. If you accept the stories of contacts and rides in UFOs you are a crackpot -- now termed a PSYCHO-CERMIC. If you are undecided you are a worm or a weak sister. Anyway you look at it, you can't win. The extremes of belief are, on the one hand, that they are man-made, and on the other that they are ships of pure energy and God-like beautiful men from Venus with all the combined Divine characteristics of the Diety, the Masters, and a host of Angels. We are told this in view, that they will soon land for the purpose of saving us from ourselves, or at least the Biblical 144,000 chosen ones, the elect, to a safer and saner place of abode. And so it goes...

The PLEA is: Tolerance for the viewpoints of others until they are proven wrong, and refraining from positive statements until we are proven right. Otherwise, it is good-bye to UFOLOGY in a very short time.

(Editors Note: This article was reprinted from "SAUCERS", Vol. VII, Nos. 1&2. No longer in print. First appeared in Spring - 1958, and please take second notice of this date! The state of 'UFOLOGY' has not changed one bit in all the years since this article was first published. What is new? How far have we, as researchers, progressed? Unfortunately, Dr. Jessup was one of the suicides that UFOLOGY produced, along with Dr. Macdonald. Did he ever find the answer? Shall we ever know? Dr. Jessup wrote several excellent books on the UFO, and one of his books was the basis for the book that I co-authored with Brad Steiger: "New UFO Breakthrough - the Allende Letters". THE MIGRATIONS OF THE ATLANTEANS

It is believed that Atlantis once spanned the entire Atlantic Ocean in a series of islands extending from Ireland's Aran Islands to Nova Scotia and from Spain to the Bahamas, moving in a southwesterly direction toward Mexico, Guatemala and the Honduras. Two conflicting theories present a dichotomy concerning the origin of the cultures who inhabited the Atlantic Ocean Islands. If, in fact, an earlier "mother" continent existed in the Pacific Ocean (Lemuria or Mu), then we may assume that Lemurian survivors could have passed across to California, through the Southwestern and Southeastern United States, finally filtering down to Mexico and the countries of Central America.

Giant megalithic heads at La Democracia in Guatemala near the Pacific Coast of that country, point to the existence of early pre-Olmec survivors of a highly developed ocean culture who may have arrived in Guatemala as early as 10,000 B.C. and were the ancestors of the later Mayan cultural complex. These survivors eventually moved out onto the Atlantic Ocean Islands where they reached the zenith of their culture about 50,000 B.C. An apparently opposing theory presupposes the migration of Indian tribes from Russia and Asia, across the Bering Straits and down through the western coast of the United States to Mexico and Central America. Since it is known that there have been numerous geologic land submersions since the earth's beginning, it is possible that the Bering Strait migration occurred at a different time period than the Lemurian exodus or that it was contemporary with this migration.

If we view the biological structure of the Seminole Indian in Florida and contrast his tribal characteristics with that of the Mayan in Central America, we find considerable differences. The Seminole is taller, broader and more oriental in appearance. The Mayan descendent is small, slight and Hispanic. A third possibility also arises in the light of current data. The Mayan may not have emanated from either the Bering Strait migration or the Lemurian migration but was a survivor of the final Atlantean holocaust (circa 11,000 B.C.) traveling from Spain and Africa across the ocean to Central America. The Mayan survivor looks remarkably like the Andalucian Spaniard and Mayan glyphs have been compared favorably with the Phaistos Disc in Crete which has been identified as another possible survival site where refugees fled after the last and final destruction of Atlantis.

Many of the Mayan characteristics are distinctly Atlantean - as their ability to construct pyramids, their resistance to traditional religious forms (still extant today) and their scientific prowess achieved through the utilization of astronomical and cosmic forces. The corroboration of the Mayan Bible and the book of myths Popul Vuh with the Koran, the Book of Mormon and the Old Testament is remarkable.

Were there then three major Atlantean Migrations? One from Lemuria East, another from the Bering Straits South and a third from European Atlantis West? The underwater Atlantean temple blocks at Bimini Island in the Bahamas attest to a highly developed culture in that region.

Gravity defying tunnels in Oak Island, Nova Scotia simulate phenomena found in the Pyramids of Egypt, and archaeological sites of Central and South America bear petroglyphs and megalithic structures identical to those in Europe and the Mediterranean. Finds off the coast of Spain parallel those of Bimini. Is it all coincidence? I believe it is the purposeful correlation of Atlantean remains on the four corners of the Atlantic Ocean and their adjacent lands. Only the corners remain because they have platelet support. Since it is believed that Atlantean lands in the Atlantic Ocean were pushed up by the action of the platelets, their supporting bases were weaker and they were destroyed at an earlier date (s).

The puzzle of the migratory Atlanteans will be a problem for scientists until the discovery of written records which will validate the myriad pieces of evidence drawn from all disciplines. As these evidences are gathered, collated and computerized, and as the search for the Atlantean records continues, we will continue to conjecture on the enigmatic civilization of Atlantis

WHO, WHAT, AND WHY

by

George Cooper

WHAT WE WERE YESTERDAY DETERMINED WHAT WE ARE TODAY, JUST AS WHAT WE ARE TODAY SHALL DETERMINE WHAT WE WILL BE TOMORROW.

"Who, What, and Why am I," is a profound question that cannot be answered with name, rank and serial number. On first query it might appear that social, economical, hereditary and enviornmental factors could supply the answers. But, how will these factors explain the genius born of illiterate parents or that kid with something extra who broke away from his impoverished enviornment and made something of himself, and what about the individuals seemingly born with good or bad luck?

There are many such illustrations that could serve to contradict the 'norm'. It would appear there should be another and more reliable way to get the answer, and there is; through the principles or as some like to call it, the theory of reincarnation. There are two terms often and erroneously used, reincarnation and transmigration. Reincarnation means the rebirth of the human consciousness into a human body. Transmigration is the transfer, at rebirth, of the human consciousness into some other form, and will not be considered in this discourse.

During a lifetime, the acts of an individual cause a Cosmic reaction. These acts are labled good or bad and the Cosmic reaction is called Karma. The purpose of reincarnation is for the soul personality to 'work off' and benefit from it's Karma. In so doing, very valuable lessons are learned that apply toward the development of the soul personality.

The soul itself, being a segment of what Dr. H. Spencer Lewis calls in his book, "Mansions of the Soul", the Oversoul, is divine. This is because the Oversoul is the consciousness of God and the soul segment being an extension of the Oversoul is likewise divine. This divine segment possesses an Ego or personality that is not divine and thereby subject to evolution since unlike the Soul, it is corruptable. Incidentally, the Oversoul extends it's segments to all beings and this is why all men are brothers under God.

Karma does not punish or reward; it merely reacts to acts. This is why Karma is called the Law of Compensation. It must be kept in mind that Karma is initiated during a lifetime on the physical plane, and it's effects must be realized and compensated for on the physical plane. It is a mistake to think that all "sins" or good deeds will be resolved after transition or so-called death.

After a season on the Cosmic plane of absorbing and evaluating the lessons learned while residing in a physical body, the soul by dictate of Cosmic Law, is attracted to a body for rebirth in a situation that will best satisfy the need for paying the Karmic debt and learn what lessons it must learn to further evolve.

The question is often asked, "Is it necessary for the individual to be aware of the Karmic debt, and if he is not aware of it, how can he benefit from it or 'pay his dues'?" Since a great number of people are not into mysticism, and quite a few that are do not believe in reincarnation, the answer is obviously No. But, the Cosmic has prepared for this. When the soul chooses a body, it is one wherein the situation is conducive to the needs. The individual will therefor consciously or unconsciously adhere to the Law. At some point in the reincarnation cycle, the individual will become aware of the Law and when this happens, that soul is nearing the end of the need for rebirth.

It is inconceivable how anyone could believe in true or Cosmic justice and not believe there is a system to implement it. God, regardless of concept, would have less than the attributes of a God to allow the disadvantages that some are born with and into without ever giving them a chance for a better, fuller and more meaningful life.

When everything is taken into account, it should be apparent that name, rank and serial number indeed cannot answer the big question of Who, What and Why am I. Since reincarnation appears to be the means of finding out, another question arises, how to go about taking advantage of the principles of reincarnation. There are several good techniques for effective regressions that will be the subject of our next discourse.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS: UPDATE: ENGLAND by W.J. Tarplee, our representative from Australia.

To most people England's Salisbury Plain is best known for the ancient stone monuments of Stonehenge. That the craggy ruins seem to be a congregating point for Unidentified Flying Objects is not as widely known.

The British Army uses part of the Salisbury Plain for Army exercises. Such an exercise was conducted during August, 1957, when troops from London's Southern Regiment conducted an exercise against the King's Regiment from Liverpool. As part of the exercise, the opposing force, the Southern Regiment, was equipped with five Centurion tanks. The tanks were deployed in a guarding role and were to engage mid way through the maneuver. While readying for this task one of the tanks reported to Command that the crew had sighted a large silvery, cigar-shaped object, and that the tank was about to open fire.

Nothing further was heard from the tank, and no traces of it were found! It had vanished completely without trace. The Army could not explain what had happened, and conducted widespread searches, and interviewed all persons involved in the exercise. All to no avail. The tank and its five man crew had vanished — another of the baffling and unexplained disappearances that sometimes follow in the wake of UFO sightings.

*Personal Note - Mr. Tarplee gathered this information "from a recent conversation with a near neighbor, a chap that I know fairly well. To the best of my knowledge it is authentic, and not a concocted story. My informant was present during the exercises, and was one of the soldiers later questioned about the tank's disappearance. In some ways the occurrence reminds me of the report that one occasionally reads about the One/Fourth Regiment of the British Army that marched into a low cloud at Sulva Bay, Turkey, in 1915, and was never seen again. There are obvious differences of course, but it seems something of a parallel. It is also interesting to note that Warminster, the site of so much UFO activity, is on the other side of the Salisbury Plain..."

THE MYSTERY OF THE INVISIBLE BUTCHER'S - Translated from NT-OD 11th November, 72

PREFACE: Police investigators in the Stockholm area are puzzled by reports of "Shocking Cruelty to Animals". Calfs have been slaughtered in a brutish way, their hearts ripped out, and stolen! Other calfs had their throats cut off for no apparent reason. Bullocks and pigs have disappeared under mysterious circumstances...

During the past years increasing thief-slaughter has been reported to the police. Agent Arne Thorsson in the Farm Producers Association has, as the police, got many reported stories of what also is called 'shocking cruelty to animals!

 A farmer in Vasterkumla Parish, Nykvarn Village area (Province of Sodermanland, a well known flying saucer area), awoke one night when he heard something that sounded like a car engine. He went up and since the sound came from his barn he headed that way. In the barn everything was a terrible mess: two calves were staggering in their stall, they both had their throats cut, both of them later bled to death. CONTINUED NEXT PAGE

 On Molnsatra Farm in Jarfella Parish someone had trapped a bullock of 500 kilo and later the theifs had plunged an axe into the head of the animal, smashed up it's coronal bone and pinned it's body. The animal was then cut up and it's heart gone. On a nearby farm another bullock disappeared mysteriously.

On Svea Ranch, Kungsangens farm, several animals had disappeared under mysterious circumstances - from nearby Svinninge farm pigs have disappeared, and from Erstaviks Parish, someone got away with a bullock without leaving any trace! Erstaviks owner forwarded a reward on 1,000 Swedish crowns to the person who could find his disappeared bullock, he heard nothing. Police investigators are very puzzled, mostly because there were no tracks in the ground after the bullock -- like someone had lifted the animal straight up in the air! However, they dont want to make any comments to the riddle...

NOTE: According to reports from the state of Kansas, cattle have been found with similar wounds as those in the Swedish report above. "The carcasses of the beasts are being found with portions of ears sliced off, feet missing and snouts lopped off. Some of the cows have what seems to be bored holes in their bellies..." This is dated July 15, 1974 and came from the National Close-up...

"STAMPEDED BY A UFO"?

Nimes, Southern France - Dec. 21, 1973 -(From the South China Morning Post, Hong Kong)

Speculation was growing here today that a flying saucer was responsible for the mysterious drowning near here of 65 bulls earlier this month. The bulls, bred on a farm in the Camargue, famous for supplying animals for French bull rings, were found drowned in a river on the morning of December 5. Several theories, including one that they had been frightened by a tornado and another that they had been poisoned, were dismissed by the locals who declared that the bulls were used to high winds and by the local vet who said that autopsies had proved that the animals had drowned.

Now reports are coming from villages in the Camargue that on the night in question a red, saucer shaped object was seen flying over the marshes at low altitude. At the same time there were reports of sudden power failures in the area.

The theory now being discussed is that the bulls were panicked by the ultra-sounds and lights produced by some vehicle from outer space. In the meantime, aficionados throughout the region are being asked to subscribe to a fund to help rebuild the herd which was completely wiped out.

"THE FINDING OF ADAM" or "THE LAYMAN'S ATLANTIS" by RICHARD S. SHAVER

For nearly three hundred years the search for Adam, the first man, has occupied many men of scientific mind. Now we have him; his books, the complete story of his beginnings and his end, his space commerce as well as infinitely pictured life.

Some rock books indicate the first men came from space. I know he had space commerce. Whether he began on another planet is not clear. I address this book to laymen, meaning people who are not adverse to bending over and picking up a mere rock. This means there is one big difference from other books. In this one you are expected to be able to do some thinking for yourself!

The "Layman's Atlantis" must perforce take in such broad perspectives of time and people the world over, that to adjust your mental sights is required effort. To begin with, you must accept that earth was colonized from space by gigantic races, there were already some very tiny native races here, and that the giant races did shape Earth and change it, using energies and powers that are hard to accept as possible.

There is almost no modern data to refer to in dating things. The rock books are dated in the Aegir calendar quite legibly and in almost modern looking lettering. But there exists no correlation between the heathen Aegir calendar and the modern Christian one. Yet, the Aegir calendar is spoken of by old Norse writers! You can find these Aegir dates for yourself on the rock books and you can find the rock books yourself.

I try very hard to keep demonstrable fact separate from theorizing and deductions. But to the educated people who have absorbed the whole wrong-headed panorama of mistakes about pre-history, put out by our modern educational palaces of "learning", even Aegir calendars on a rock is dismissed as nonsense. I give you "THE LAYMAN'S ATLANTIS". Make the most of it. It is unique!

UNLIKE THE BOOKS ABOUT THE PAST HERETOFORE PUT OUT, WE HAVE MOUNTAINS OF PROOF. THIS PROOF IS IN THE ROCK BOOKS MANUFACTURED IN ENDLESS QUANTITIES BY A TEEMING POPULATION OVER AN INCALCULABLE SPAN OF TIME.

Rock books can be found of every description, and of course like "Bible quotes" will one day be used to back up endless misinterpretations of the facts. For they are encyclopedic in content and will be precise only for those who read them aright. I give you my interpretations of what I have been able to decipher. There will be others in the future, endlessly misinterpreting all the infinitudes of time and event the books represent. I will tell you what I think they have to say. So far, mine is the only educated guess about the rock book's contents, go find your own rocks and make your own mistakes.

I think mermaids fell from the moon because some pictures show them being rescued from the waves. They had a jot of rescuing to do during the tidal waves of the first Moon fall, when the moon left its orbit about the Sun and took up a new orbit about the earth. A lot of rock pictures show even houses falling from the sky with people clinging with them. For, when the moon first brushed earth in its approach, it had atmosphere and oceans and people living on it and IN the oceans!

Continued

As the two atmospheres mingled, the whole surface of the Moon was torn loose by Earth's gravity. The whole population, the oceans, air, houses, beasts, rock and rock books, mud from their ocean's bottoms mingled with the mud of Earth's oceans as Earth's oceans rose to meet the gravity of the Moon. Thus, all the debris of a world's surface came tumbling down upon earth. This came to be known as "The Fall".

After "The Fall", later transcribers and misinterpreters of old writings attributed the phrase to the "Fall of Satan", but believe me, the phrase "Satan" and his "Host" was probably ancient forms of the name of the Moon when it was a planet around the Sun. Thus, the "Fall of the Hosts of Satan" was most probably the Elder way of speaking of the population of the Moon when it all came tumbling down upon earth. Many another legend than our biblical tale sets some of this error straight. "The Fall" can be found described in many very ancient legends, as Immanuel Velikovsky points out in his very able books, "Worlds in Chaos" and "Earth in Upheaval", etc.

Unlike Velikovsky, I have the actual rock books manufactured in endless numbers by the people who lived both before and after the Fall to back up what I have to say about it all.

CHAPTER ONE

To begin with, you must adjust your mental perspectives to include the vastnesses of immense spans of time. There are verses and pictures showing huge space ships seeding the whole earth from space, spraying down microspores and similar small life-forms. Before that original seeding, earth had been for a short time a world of water, and before it melted, a world of ice and utter cold. So it seems that earth did not always have a sun and warmth, but was a world from the dark black reaches of far space.

IT IS THIS FACT THAT GIVES A KEY TO THE GREATEST MYSTERIES OF EARTH. For, it seems, there are a people who live inside of such frozen worlds, and bore them full of caverns in which they create their own environment. So the origin of the endless honeycombs of caverns deep inside of Earth goes back to a time when there was in fact no life on the surface. But these people of dark spaces abandon any world that becomes the satellite of a sun. So it seems that earth began its life of warmth with a full equipment of weird machinery left behind by the strange races of the dark spaces.

Thus, even when the new-come colonizers were seeding down the newly thawed oceans to make sure the new formed life would be compatible... even then, earth was a planet that had been liven in for ages. Even the very beginnings were an abandonment and a new settling in of new people. Whatever you think about it, the indications are that Earth was bored full of live-caverns... long, long before it had a sun. They LIKE sterile conditions under which to set up their own environment! I think it was these people of the dark spaces who gave rise to the legends of the immortal Gods, and that it was the machinery they left behind them in their dark cavern palaces of life that gave birth to Earth's vast technology later on. However you interpret them, the rock books show many giant races in the very beginnings, and their strange tremendous surface structures can be traced on aerial maps and how quite clearly in half the picturesque travelogues.

Continued

THEIR VAST BORINGS INSIDE THE EARTH ARE THEMSELVES THE CORE OF THE LATER HISTORY OF EARTH, SO THEY MUST BE TOLD ABOUT, IF YOU WANT TO KNOW HOW THINGS REALLY BEGAN.

Perhaps the best way for you to adjust your concepts to the realities of this book is for you to realize that in the rock books the letters B.C. meant "Before Collision", and the letters A.D. meant "After Destruction". Thus, a book dated B.C. and A.E.G. had to be written after the collision for them to have known about it, so such a book would be written about things before the Moon's fall...

EDITORS NOTE: We are most grateful to Mr. Shaver for his permission to reprint from his book, and in our next issue we will continue his researchings. We are now going to bring you some instructions on how to perceive the 'pictures' in rock books, and tell you how to get in touch with Mr. Shaver yourself, either to ask him questions, or to obtain from him the actual rocks or photographs of them. CONTACT: Mr. Richard S. Shaver, Rock House Studio, Summit, Ark. 72677...

INSTRUCTIONS -- To study prediluvian record stones, you must learn new ways of looking at old things, especially if you have never used lenses and lights in this way. These are not ordinary rocks. They are really pictorial records made of silica, for the same purpose we make films, music records, micro-films, etc., made by an earlier civilization, wiped out by the deluge, when we acquired our moon from out of its orbit around the sun. "Film-paks," "Book-Rocks" -- these stones are as strange to us as if they came from Mars and as hard to understand. They are MORE important than Martian artifacts would be, because our own ancestors made them and left their photos in them. Silicon film-paks for 3'D movies, made in solid form.

They used a blinking penetray for projection -- the blink was the shutter, the "rock" revolved slowly just as our films revolve, but these records played for hours. To see these tiny pictures with an ordinary lens and ordinary light, you must know what they were made for and why they are in the peculiar shapes they are. You see a man with three heads. It does not mean he HAD three heads! It does mean the blink changed this into a movement of the head by turning in focus. The FOCUS AREA was the picture -- This is hard to learn. Once you learn to recognize the intended focus area, you can follow the pictures around without too much confusion. People with no feet does not mean that. Look closer and see they have fins. You must learn so much about our past you did not know before to see correctly. People flying through the air is actually people swimming under water in their natural element. It takes time to know what you are seeing. Don't assume things, like ordinary archaeologists. BE an amateur, and study things out!

You are like an African savage finding micro-film and a burning glass in a dead white hunter's pack. You could learn a lot by putting the two to proper use, but you don't even know how to focus the lens. You can see little pictures finally, but you don't know what they mean. The letters in the sub-titles are a mystery. There ARE letters, sub-titles, text, arabic and roman numerals (perhaps -- don't assume it because they look that way, which you must learn without much help.

Continued

The film-paks have four main scanning sequences. This means that each quarter turn of a slice gives one main scanning sequence from different sequences, and is a separate picture. There are up to six ranges in the same view plane, turned four times. We can vaguely make out more below 35x, but scratch and splinter from the saw hides that until we learn to give them an optically perfect surface. Polish doesn't work on many, because it works into age cracks and under picture films.

Separate scans? That means that when you enlarge a finger to look at it, it becomes a complete new picture, perhaps a figure of a man. That's the way they packed in separate scans. There is nothing accidental in or on these stones but glacial scratches and weathering that has hidden them with surface glare so long. Wax will help to see the surface by lessening glare. I wax most stones before you get them, sometimes spray them with Krylon.

You must examine hundreds of these to get a broad picture of life as it was lived then. So I run this like a library: Return slices with a dollar for more, to cover sawing and mailing expenses. If you want to keep special ones, they are a dollar a slice, five dollars for larger whole stones for mantle or shelf. I want to save this silicon library of the past from ignorance -- that should be your objective too. To do that I have to cover expenses and more besides. So I sell larger stones upwards of five dollars -- postage runs high and after all, they are very ancient antiques.

One thing you have to learn, first, is to squint. Artists do that to get the overall effect, the "chiaroscuro." On the stone slices, at three to four feet in a non-glare soft-light, squinting will show you the biggest pictures. They are often faded, BUT THEY ARE VISIBLE... Take the slice or rock down from the shelf, when you are satisfied squinting and turning won't show you anything more. Sit down by a soft-light MAGOO bulb, 72w or so (sunlight won't do, it glares so--- Pick up one or two lenses, 4x to 15x - buy some if you don't have them. Greiger's sells a 15x in a holder for a dollar. For depth, light, slant slice from line of sight somewhat. You get the most interesting little pictures at about 6x on some. This is probably the over-text, like a resume of contents. From here on you are a pioneer. Enjoy it. You are looking at the pre-diluvian world, to see what people did before the Flood. Little people riding birds, may be a fairy story or a fact. Decide for yourself when you see them.

You can learn genuine facts about the far past. You don't have to take anyone's word for it. You can learn what kinds of fishmen evolved from men, how he camouflaged himself to survive in the teeming seas, and how he fought upward from the sea bottom to today (and our supreme accomplishment - the atom bomb). You can see mermaids as they actually were, because they became legends (or us). You can learn the true and actual past of man for yourself. And take no one's opinions or assumptions about any of it. You can learn about the ancient sea life from people who lived in it. You can see underwater civilization that preceded land culture by how many, many centuries?

OVERLORDS AND OLYMPIANS by Wm. Gordon Allen. $7.50 from Health Research, Box 70, Mokelumne Hill, Ca. 95245.

This is one of the few books to tie in the connection between alien parapsychical (etheric, interdimensional, etc.) intelligences and the physical world within which humans exist. I highly recommend this book to obtain a relevant and worthwhile insight into the connection between such diverse persons as Uri Geller, UFO contactees, persons with demonstrable psychic powers (eg: telekinesis, ESP, teleportation and materialization, apports, etc.) and the UFO enigma.... Some heretofore little known facts regarding what the US Air Force allegedly REALLY knows about UFOs is also revealed in an easy to understand, believable manner.

An ambitious effort to prove the existence of a civilization dating back to 100,000 B.C. spearheaded by Ms. Asher. Archaeological research started 15 years ago by the public school administrator whose "inquiry method" in teacher education inspired the "mining of minds" on land before exploring the depths of the Atlantic Ocean, using psychic power to guide some of their explorations. Easy to read book of extensive research into past history of lost civilizations. A good use of psychic material that has proven valid.
